15. At this stage, it would be relevant to indicate that after the order of the revisional Court dated 11.05.1999, it appears that S.P., CBCID, U.P., Lucknow, directed the Circle Officer, CBCID, Lucknow vide his letter dated 18.03.2001 to file the Supplementary Charge Sheet (frfrEek vkjksi i=) and for this purpose the S.P., CBCID in his letter dated 18.03.2001 took note of the fact that the Charge Sheet of CBCID itself indicates that there is sufficient evidence against all the accused persons namely Kamlesh Singh, Akhilesh Singh, Bhagauti Singh and Kamlesh Singh and thereafter in terms of the letter dated 18.03.2001 of S.P., CBCID, the Charge Sheet No. 49A dated 12.04.2001 was filed against Akhilesh Singh and Kamlesh Singh.

16. In the aforesaid background of the case, as per submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the applicants, the present application has been filed under Section 482 of Cr.P.C. on the following main grounds:-

(i) Section 460 of Cr.P.C. would not be attracted as in fact irregularity was committed by the Investigating Agency.

(ii) For filing supplementary Charge Sheet No.49A dated 12.04.2001 no order was passed by the concerned Magistrate under Section 173(8) of Cr.P.C.

(iii) The Charge Sheet No.49A dated 12.04.2001 was filed without further investigation in the matter. In other words, based upon the earlier evidence available with the prosecution fresh Charge Sheet No. 49A was filed.

(iv) The Court while taking cognizance by the impugned order dated 27.03.2023 failed to observe on the issues indicated by the revisional Court in the order dated 11.05.1999, according to which, the trial Court was under obligation to make an inquiry in respect of Parcha No.5Ka-3 and in this case, no inquiry was carried out, as such, the trial Court failed to conduct the proceedings in accordance with the order of remand dated 11.05.1999 and it is settled principle of law that the subordinate court/authority is under obligation to conduct the proceedings in terms of order of remand.

17. In support of aforesaid submissions, reliance has been placed by the learned counsel appearing for the applicants on the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Hasanbhai Valibhai Qureshi vs. State of Gujarat And Others; (2004) 5 SCC 347. Relevant paragraphs 12 and 13 of the same on reproduction read as under:-

"12. Sub-section (8) of Section 173 of the Code permits further investigation, and even dehors any direction from the court as such, it is open to the police to conduct proper investigation, even after the court took cognisance of any offence on the strength of a police report earlier submitted. All the more so, if as in this case, the Head of the Police Department also was not satisfied of the propriety or the manner and nature of investigation already conducted.

13. In Ram Lal Narang v. State (Delhi Admn.) [(1979) 2 SCC 322 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 479 : AIR 1979 SC 1791] it was observed by this Court that further investigation is not altogether ruled out merely because cognisance has been taken by the court. When defective investigation comes to light during course of trial, it may be cured by further investigation, if circumstances so permitted. It would ordinarily be desirable and all the more so in this case, that the police should inform the court and seek formal permission to make further investigation when fresh facts come to light instead of being silent over the matter keeping in view only the need for an early trial since an effective trial for real or actual offences found during course of proper investigation is as much relevant, desirable and necessary as an expeditious disposal of the matter by the courts. In view of the aforesaid position in law, if there is necessity for further investigation, the same can certainly be done as prescribed by law. The mere fact that there may be further delay in concluding the trial should not stand in the way of further investigation if that would help the court in arriving at the truth and do real and substantial as well as effective justice. We make it clear that we have not expressed any final opinion on the merits of the case."

18. Opposing the present application, learned AGA says that the orders impugned as also the charge sheet(s), in issue, are not liable to be interfered with by this Court. Elaborating the same, learned AGA says that with regard to Charge Sheet No. 369 dated 12.11.1992, the applicants have not pleaded in entire application regarding illegality committed by the prosecution. In regard to the Charge Sheet dated 26.11.1998 only this much has been indicated in the application that while filing the charge sheet, CBCID in the case diary observed that the Charge Sheet prepared by the local police dated 12.11.1992 is confirmed and verified and alleging this, the Charge Sheet dated 26.11.1998 has been assailed in this application.

19. Learned AGA further submitted that Supplementary Charge Sheet No. 49A dated 12.04.2001 is also not liable to be interfered by this Court on the grounds taken by the applicants in the instant application for the reason that from a bare perusal of charge sheet dated 26.11.1998, it is apparent that the I.O. in specific terms observed that after due investigation, prima facie, offence against all accused is made out and in the same, the names of all accused namely Akhilesh Singh, Kamlesh Singh, Ashok Singh and Bhagauti Singh and were specifically indicated and in this regard, he drawn the attention of the Court on the relevant contents of Charge Sheet dated 26.11.1998, at the cost of repetition, the same is extracted hereinunder:-

"अब तक की की तमामी विवेचना से संकलित साक्ष्य के आधार पर अभियुक्त अखिलेश सिंह पुत्र धुन्नी सिंह कमलेश सिंह पुत्र धुन्नी सिंह अशोक सिंह पुत्र देवेन्द्र सिंह निवासी लालूपुर चौहान थाना महाराजगंज एवं भगवती सिंह पुत्र श्री देवी बक्स सिंह निवासी पूरे आदमपुर थाना महाराजगंज जनपद रायबरेली के विरुद्ध दिनांक 27 जुलाई 91 को श्री इकबाल हैदर रजा को रात्रि 8:30 बजे उनके घर में दरवाजा खुलवाकर गोली मारकर हत्या करने का अपराध प्रथम दृष्टिया धारा 147 148 149 302 भारतीय दंड विधान के अंतर्गत प्रथम दृष्टिया होना सिद्ध है अभियुक्त अखिलेश सिंह व कमलेश सिंह के विरुद्ध दिनांक12 नवंबर 92 को स्थानीय पुलिस द्वारा माह फरवरी में आरोप पत्र संख्या 369 दिनांक 12 नवंबर 92 को प्रेषित किया गया विवेचना से ताईद एवं तस्दीक की जाती है।"

20. He further submitted that the submissions of the learned counsel for the applicant which are to the effect that for the purposes of submitting the Supplementary/Additional Charge Sheet the order of competent Court/Magistrate is required and Parcha No.49-A/Charge Sheet dated 12.04.2001 was submitted without the leave of the Court/Magistrate, as such, the cognizance taken by the Magistrate on the basis of Parcha No.49-A/Charge Sheet dated 12.04.2001 is liable to be interfered with, are completely fallacious.

21. Elaborating the aforesaid, learned AGA submitted that in the instant case, Parcha No.49-A/Charge Sheet dated 12.04.2001 was placed before the Court in the light of letter of S.P., CBCID, dated 18.03.2001 and a perusal of this letter dated 18.03.2001 would show wherein the observations are that sufficient evidence to prosecute all the accused namely Akhilesh Singh, Kamlesh Singh, Ashok Singh and Bhagauti Singh was available but in the later part of Charge Sheet dated 26.11.1998 the name of Akhilesh Singh and Kamlesh Singh was not indicated, though, should have been indicated and for this reason, a direction was issued to file Supplementary/Additional Charge Sheet and therefore, Supplementary/Additional Parcha No.49A/Charge Sheet dated 12.04.2001 was filed before the Court concerned.

22. In continuation, he submitted that the leave of the Court, as per law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Vinay Tyagi vs. Irshad Ali @ Deepak and Others ; (2013) 5 SCC 762, is required for further investigation and in the instant case, no further investigation was carried out by the Investigating Officer for the purpose of filing of Supplementary/Additional Charge Sheet. The Investigating Officer based upon the evidence collected during investigation prior to filing of Charge Sheet dated 26.11.1998 filed the Additional Parcha No.49A/Charge Sheet 12.04.2001. Thus, no illegality was committed in filing the Parcha No.49A/Charge Sheet dated 12.04.2001.

23. It is also stated that if it is presumed that the said Charge Sheet dated 12.04.2001 ought not to have been taken note of while taking cognizance by the Magistrate concerned even then in view of the evidence available against all the accused the C.J.M. was/is empowered to summon all the accused after taking cognizance against all the accused.

24. He further submitted that in view of law laid by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Nahar Singh vs. State of U.P. And Another; (2022) 2 SCC (Cri) 328, the Magistrate is empowered to take cognizance and issue summons to the accused against whom Charge Sheet was not filed if the material is available before the Magistrate/Court concerned. Para(s) 17 to 30 of the judgment, referred above, are extracted hereinunder:-

"17.As regards scope of jurisdiction of the Magistrate in a situation of this nature, it was held by the Constitution Bench inDharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] : (SCC p. 319, paras 35-36)

"35. In our view, the Magistrate has a role to play while committing the case to the Court of Session upon taking cognizance on the police report submitted before him under Section 173(2)CrPC. In the event the Magistrate disagrees with the police report, he has two choices. He may act on the basis of a protest petition that may be filed, or he may, while disagreeing with the police report, issue process and summon the accused. Thereafter, if on being satisfied that a case had been made out to proceed against the persons named in Column 2 of the report, proceed to try the said persons or if he was satisfied that a case had been made out which was triable by the Court of Session, he may commit the case to the Court of Session to proceed further in the matter.

36. This brings us to the third question as to the procedure to be followed by the Magistrate if he was satisfied that a prima facie case had been made out to go to trial despite the final report submitted by the police. In such an event, if the Magistrate decided to proceed against the persons accused, he would have to proceed on the basis of the police report itself and either inquire into the matter or commit it to the Court of Session if the same was found to be triable by the Sessions Court."

18.Another Constitution Bench inHardeep Singhv.State of Punjab[Hardeep Singhv.State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] followedDharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] . It was opined by the Constitution Bench inHardeep Singh[Hardeep Singhv.State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] : (Hardeep Singh case[Hardeep Singhv.State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , SCC p. 139, para 111)"

111. Even the Constitution Bench inDharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] has held that the Sessions Court can also exercise its original jurisdiction and summon a person as an accused in case his name appears in Column 2 of the charge-sheet, once the case had been committed to it.It means that a person whose name does not appear even in the FIR or in the charge-sheet or whose name appears in the FIR and not in the main part of the charge-sheet but in Column 2 and has not been summoned as an accused in exercise of the powers under Section 193CrPC can still be summoned by the court, provided the court is satisfied that the conditions provided in the said statutory provisions stand fulfilled."

19.Earlier, a Coordinate Bench inRaj Kishore Prasadv.State of Bihar[Raj Kishore Prasadv.State of Bihar, (1996) 4 SCC 495 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 772] expressed the view that power under Section 209 of the Code to summon a new offender was not vested with a Magistrate. In this decision, the correctness of the view taken inKishun Singhv.State of Bihar[Kishun Singhv.State of Bihar, (1993) 2 SCC 16 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 470] andNisarv.State of U.P.[Nisarv.State of U.P., (1995) 2 SCC 23 : 1995 SCC (Cri) 306] was doubted. The latter decision followedKishun Singh[Kishun Singhv.State of Bihar, (1993) 2 SCC 16 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 470] . The Constitution Bench inDharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] affirmed the view taken by this Court inKishun Singh[Kishun Singhv.State of Bihar, (1993) 2 SCC 16 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 470] and overruledRaj Kishore Prasad[Raj Kishore Prasadv.State of Bihar, (1996) 4 SCC 495 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 772] . In fact, again a Coordinate Bench inBalveer Singhv.State of Rajasthan[Balveer Singhv.State of Rajasthan, (2016) 6 SCC 680 : (2016) 2 SCC (Cri) 622] has followed bothDharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] andKishun Singh[Kishun Singhv.State of Bihar, (1993) 2 SCC 16 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 470] . In the latter authority (i.e.Kishun Singh[Kishun Singhv.State of Bihar, (1993) 2 SCC 16 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 470]), it was, inter alia, held : (Kishun Singh case[Kishun Singhv.State of Bihar, (1993) 2 SCC 16 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 470] , SCC pp. 28-29, para 13)

"13. The question then is whether de hors Section 319 of the Code, can similar power be traced to any other provision in the Code or can such power be implied from the scheme of the Code? We have already pointed out earlier the two alternative modes in which the criminal law can be set in motion; by the filing of information with the police under Section 154 of the Code or upon receipt of a complaint or information by a Magistrate. The former would lead to investigation by the police and may culminate in a police report under Section 173 of the Code on the basis whereof cognizance may be taken by the Magistrate under Section 190(1)(b) of the Code. In the latter case, the Magistrate may either order investigation by the police under Section 156(3) of the Code or himself hold an inquiry under Section 202 before taking cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(a) or (c), as the case may be, read with Section 204 of the Code. Once the Magistrate takes cognizance of the offence he may proceed to try the offender (except where the case is transferred under Section 191) or commit him for trial under Section 209 of the Code if the offence is triable exclusively by a Court of Session. As pointed out earlier cognizance is taken of the offence and not the offender. This Court inRaghubans Dubeyv.State of Bihar[Raghubans Dubeyv.State of Bihar, (1967) 2 SCR 423 : AIR 1967 SC 1167] stated that once cognizance of an offence is taken it becomes the Court's duty 'to find out who the offenders really are' and if the Court finds 'that apart from the persons sent up by the police some other persons are involved, it is its duty to proceed against those persons' by summoning them because 'the summoning of the additional accused is part of the proceeding initiated by its taking cognizance of an offence'. Even after the present Code came into force, the legal position has not undergone a change; on the contrary the ratio ofDubey case[Raghubans Dubeyv.State of Bihar, (1967) 2 SCR 423 : AIR 1967 SC 1167] was affirmed inHareram Satpathyv.Tikaram Agarwala[Hareram Satpathyv.Tikaram Agarwala, (1978) 4 SCC 58 : 1978 SCC (Cri) 496] . Thus far there is no difficulty."

20.There is a difference so far as the position of law on which the opinions of the two Constitution Benches were delivered in relation to the facts of the present case. InDharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] andHardeep Singh[Hardeep Singhv.State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , summons were issued against the persons whose names had figured in Column (2) of the charge-sheet. Both these authorities also dealt with exercise of jurisdiction of the Court of Session under Section 193 of the Code. This provision reads:

"193.Cognizance of offences by Courts of Session.—Except as otherwise expressly provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, no Court of Session shall take cognizance of any offence as a Court of original jurisdiction unless the case has been committed to it by a Magistrate under this Code."*

21.It would appear from the Code that the jurisdiction to take cognizance has been vested in the Magistrate (under Section 190 thereof) as also Court of Session under Section 193, which we have quoted above. This question has been examined inDharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] and on this point it has been held : (SCC pp. 319-20, para 39)

"39. This takes us to the next question as to whether under Section 209, the Magistrate was required to take cognizance of the offence before committing the case to the Court of Session.It is well settled that cognizance of an offence can only be taken once. In the event, a Magistrate takes cognizance of the offence and then commits the case to the Court of Session, the question of taking fresh cognizance of the offence and, thereafter, proceed to issue summons, is not in accordance with law. If cognizance is to be taken of the offence, it could be taken either by the Magistrate or by the Court of Session.The language of Section 193 of the Code very clearly indicates that once the case is committed to the Court of Session by the learned Magistrate, the Court of Session assumes original jurisdiction and all that goes with the assumption of such jurisdiction. The provisions of Section 209 will, therefore, have to be understood as the learned Magistrate playing a passive role in committing the case to the Court of Session on finding from the police report that the case was triable by the Court of Session. Nor can there be any question of part cognizance being taken by the Magistrate and part cognizance being taken by the learned Sessions Judge."

22.The scope of jurisdiction of the Magistrate in taking cognizance of an offence was earlier examined by a three-Judge Bench of this Court inRaghubans Dubeyv.State of Bihar[Raghubans Dubeyv.State of Bihar, (1967) 2 SCR 423 : AIR 1967 SC 1167] . This authority was relied upon by the Coordinate Bench inKishun Singh case[Kishun Singhv.State of Bihar, (1993) 2 SCC 16 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 470] . Dealing with broadly similar provisions of the old Code of 1898, it was observed by this Court : (AIR pp. 1169-70, para 9)

"9. ... In our opinion, once cognizance has been taken by the Magistrate, he takes cognizance of an offence and not the offenders; once he takes cognizance of an offence it is his duty to find out who the offenders really are and once he comes to the conclusion that apart from the persons sent up by the police some other persons are involved, it is his duty to proceed against those persons. The summoning of the additional accused is part of the proceeding initiated by his taking cognizance of an offence. As pointed out by this Court inPravin Chandra Modyv.State of A.P.[Pravin Chandra Modyv.State of A.P., (1965) 1 SCR 269 : AIR 1965 SC 1185 : (1965) 2 Cri LJ 250] the term "complaint" would include allegations made against persons unknown. If a Magistrate takes cognizance under Section 190(1)(a) on the basis of a complaint of facts he would take cognizance and a proceeding would be instituted even though persons who had committed the offence were not known at that time. The same position prevails, in our view, under Section 190(1)(b)."

23.InKishun Singh case[Kishun Singhv.State of Bihar, (1993) 2 SCC 16 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 470] , the scope of jurisdiction of the Court of Session under Section 193 of the Code was explained, relying on an authority dealing with similar provision under the 1898 Code (P.C. Gulativ.Lajya Ram[P.C. Gulativ.Lajya Ram, AIR 1966 SC 595 : 1966 Cri LJ 465 : (1966) 1 SCR 560]). The phrase used to explain the implication of taking cognizance by a Court of Session in the judgment ofKishun Singh[Kishun Singhv.State of Bihar, (1993) 2 SCC 16 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 470] was "cognizance in the limited sense".

24.In para 8 of the Report (inKishun Singh case[Kishun Singhv.State of Bihar, (1993) 2 SCC 16 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 470]), it has been held observed : (SCC pp. 24-25)

"8. Section 193 of the old Code placed an embargo on the Court of Session from taking cognizance of any offence as a court of original jurisdiction unless the accused was committed to it by a Magistrate or there was express provision in the Code or any other law to the contrary. In the context of the said provision this Court inP.C. Gulativ.Lajya Ram[P.C. Gulativ.Lajya Ram, AIR 1966 SC 595 : 1966 Cri LJ 465 : (1966) 1 SCR 560] , SCR p. 568, AIR p. 599, Cri LJ p. 469 observed as under : (AIR p. 599, para 21)

'21. When a case is committed to the Court of Session, the Court of Session has first to determine whether the commitment of the case is proper. If it be of opinion that the commitment is bad on a point of law, it has to refer the case to the High Court which is competent to quash the proceeding under Section 215 of the Code. It is only when the Sessions Court considers the commitment to be good in law that it proceeds with the trial of the case. It is in this context that the Sessions Court has to take cognizance of the offence as a court of original jurisdiction and it is such a cognizance which is referred to in Section 193 of the Code.' "

25.Jurisdiction of the Magistrate to take cognizance of an offence triable by a Court of Session is not in controversy before us. The course open to a Magistrate on submission of a police report has been discussed inDharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] . In para 39 of the Report inDharam Pal case[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] , such power or jurisdiction of the Magistrate has been spelt out. We have quoted this passage earlier in this judgment.

26.The other difference so far as this case is concerned in relation to the factual basis on which the decision of the Constitution Bench inDharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] as also the judgment inRaghubans Dubey[Raghubans Dubeyv.State of Bihar, (1967) 2 SCR 423 : AIR 1967 SC 1167] were delivered is that in both these cases, the names of the persons arraigned as accused had figured in Column (2) of the charge-sheet. This Column, as it appears from the judgment inRaghubans Dubey[Raghubans Dubeyv.State of Bihar, (1967) 2 SCR 423 : AIR 1967 SC 1167] , records the name of a person under the heading "not sent up". In that case, the person concerned was named in the FIR. But that factor, by itself, in our opinion ought not to be considered as a reason for the Court in not summoning an accused not named in the FIR and whose name also does not feature in charge-sheet at all. These judgments were delivered in cases where the names of the persons sought to be arraigned as accused appeared in Column (2) of the police report. In our opinion, the legal proposition laid down while dealing with this point was not confined to the power to summon those persons only, whose names featured in Column (2) of the charge-sheet.

27.InDharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] , the second point formulated (para 7.2) related to persons named in Column (2), but the issue before the Constitution Bench related to that category of persons only. This is the position of law enunciated inHardeep Singh[Hardeep Singhv.State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] andRaghubans Dubey[Raghubans Dubeyv.State of Bihar, (1967) 2 SCR 423 : AIR 1967 SC 1167] . In the latter authority, the duty of the Court taking cognizance of an offence has been held "to find out who the offenders really are and once he comes to the conclusion that apart from the persons sent up by the police some other persons are involved, it is his duty to proceed against those persons". Such duty to proceed against other persons cannot be held to be confined to only those whose names figure in Column (2) of the charge-sheet.

28.As we have already observed that in the aforesaid authorities, the question of summoning the persons named in Column (2) of the charge-sheet was involved, in our opinion inclusion in Column (2) was not held to be the determinant factor for summoning persons other than those named as accused in the police report or charge-sheet. The principle of law enunciated inRaghubans Dubey[Raghubans Dubeyv.State of Bihar, (1967) 2 SCR 423 : AIR 1967 SC 1167] ,Dharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] andHardeep Singh[Hardeep Singhv.State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] does not constrict exercise of such power of the Court taking cognizance in respect of this category of persons [i.e. whose names feature in Column (2) of the charge-sheet].

29.InRaghubans Dubey[Raghubans Dubeyv.State of Bihar, (1967) 2 SCR 423 : AIR 1967 SC 1167] ,SWIL Ltd.[SWIL Ltd.v.State of Delhi, (2001) 6 SCC 670 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 1205] andDharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] , the power or jurisdiction of the court or Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence on the basis of a police report to summon an accused not named in the police report, before commitment has been analysed. The uniform view on this point, irrespective of the fact as to whether cognizance is taken by the Magistrate under Section 190 of the Code or jurisdiction exercised by the Court of Session under Section 193 thereof is that the aforesaid judicial authorities would not have to wait till the case reaches the stage when jurisdiction under Section 319 of the Code is capable of being exercised for summoning a person as accused but not named as such in police report. We have already expressed our opinion that such jurisdiction to issue summons can be exercised even in respect of a person whose name may not feature at all in the police report, whether as accused or in Column (2) thereof if the Magistrate is satisfied that there are materials on record which would reveal prima facie his involvement in the offence. None of the authorities limit or restrict the power or jurisdiction of the Magistrate or Court of Session in summoning an accused upon taking cognizance, whose name may not feature in the FIR or police report.

30.In the present case, the name of the accused had transpired from the statement made by the victim under Section 164 of the Code. InDharam Pal[Dharam Palv.State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159] , it has been laid down in clear terms that in the event the Magistrate disagrees with the police report, he may act on the basis of a protest petition that may be filed and commit the case to the Court of Session. This power of the Magistrate is not exercisable only in respect of persons whose names appear in Column(2) of the charge-sheet, apart from those who are arraigned as accused in the police report. In the subject proceeding, the Magistrate acted on the basis of an independent application filed by the de facto complainant. If there are materials before the Magistrate showing complicity of persons other than those arraigned as accused or named in Column (2) of the police report in commission of an offence, the Magistrate at that stage could summon such persons as well upon taking cognizance of the offence. As we have already discussed, this was the view of this Court inRaghubans Dubey[Raghubans Dubeyv.State of Bihar, (1967) 2 SCR 423 : AIR 1967 SC 1167] . Though this judgment dealt with the provisions of the 1898 Code, this authority was followed inKishun Singh[Kishun Singhv.State of Bihar, (1993) 2 SCC 16 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 470] . For summoning persons upon taking cognizance of an offence, the Magistrate has to examine the materials available before him for coming to the conclusion that apart from those sent up by the police some other persons are involved in the offence. These materials need not remain confined to the police report, charge-sheet or the FIR. A statement made under Section 164 of the Code could also be considered for such purpose."

25. Based upon the aforesaid proposition, learned AGA also submitted that taking note of the law on the issue the Charge Sheet(s) aforesaid are not liable to be interfered with nor the summoning order is liable to be interfered with.

26. He further submitted that so far as quashing of proceeding is concerned which includes quashing of Charge Sheet, the law is well settled. In exercise of power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. mini trial is not permissible. If from the material available on record, prima facie, case is made out against the accused the criminal proceedings or Charge Sheet shall not be quashed by the High Court while exercising the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. Reference can be made to the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Central Bureau of Investigation vs. Aryan Singh Etc.; 2023 SCC OnLine SC 379. Thus, no case is made out and the application under consideration, is liable to be dismissed.

27. Considered the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

28. The record indicates that the FIR was lodged on 27.07.1991 at 20:30 Hours under Sections 147, 148, 149 and 302 IPC, making specific allegations of murder of one Iqbal Haider Raza against the accused namely Akhilesh Singh, Kamlesh Singh, Ashok Singh and Bhagauti Singh. Thereafter, the I.O. prepared Parcha No. 369/Charge Sheet dated 12.11.1992 and it appears from record that the same was not filed in the Court on account of pending Writ Petition No. 3523 (M/B) of 1991 and in terms of the order of the Writ Court dated 13.11.1992, the entire document/case diary was provided to the CBCID and thereafter the CBCID conducted the investigation and filed the Charge Sheet dated 26.11.1998.

29. Thus, from the aforesaid, it is apparent that before the Magistrate sufficient material was available for summoning all the accused namely Akhilesh Singh, Kamlesh Singh, Ashok Singh and Bhagauti Singh.

30. In the Charge Sheet dated 26.11.1998 names of Ashok Singh and Bhagauti Singh have been indicated in the later part. However, in earlier part of this Charge Sheet the I.O. has specifically indicated the name of all the accused and regarding all the accused, named above, also observed that after due investigation, prima facie, offence is made out.

31. From a conjoint reading of documents available on record including FIR dated 27.07.1991, Charge Sheet(s) dated 12.11.1992 and 26.11.1998 it clearly appears that sufficient evidence was available against all the accused namely Akhilesh Singh, Kamlesh Singh, Ashok Singh and Bhagauti Singh but in the later part of the Charge Sheet dated 26.11.1998 inadvertently the I.O. failed to indicate the name of accused namely Akhilesh Singh and Kamlesh Singh. It is for the reason that I.O. in earlier part of Charge Sheet dated 26.11.1998 specifically observed that after due investigation, prima facie, offence of murder of one Iqbal Haider Raza is made out against all the accused Akhilesh Singh, Kamlesh Singh, Ashok Singh and Bhagauti Singh.

32. As per settled law, the Magistrate can summon the accused even if his name does not find place in Column (2).

33. Thus, considering the aforesaid, this Court is of the view that Magistrate/Court has not committed any illegality in summoning the accused-applicant(s) namely Bhaguati Singh (whose name finds place in later part/second paragraph of Charge Sheet dated 26.11.1998) and Kamlesh Singh (whose name finds place in earlier part/first paragraph of Charge Sheet dated 26.11.1998).

34. It would be apt to indicate that Parcha No.49A/Charge Sheet dated 12.04.2001 was not filed after further investigation. In fact, as appears, from record that the same was filed on the basis of collected material/evidence during investigation by local police and CBCID and further, the same was filed on the basis of opinion of legal advisor, as is evident from letter dated 18.03.2001 of S.P., CBCID. As such, the submissions of learned counsel for the applicants, which are based on the issue of further investigation to assail this Charge Sheet, are completely misplaced.

35. Considering the material available on record as also the contents of the application under consideration preferred by the applicants under Section 482 Cr.P.C., this Court is of the view that prima facie, the case against the accused applicant(s) namely Kamlesh Singh and Bhagauti Singh is made out and accordingly, to the view of this Court, any observation made on the material available on record including the statement of Nadim Iqbal S/o deceased Iqbal Haider Raza recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. dated 05.04.1999 i.e. after filing of Charge Sheet dated 26.11.1998 would prejudice the trial before the Court concerned.

36. The law on the issue of interference by the High Court in exercise of power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is settled. In the recent judgment passed in case of Supriya Jain vs. State of Haryana and Another; (2023) 7 SCC 711, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:-

"17.The principles to be borne in mind with regard to quashing of a charge/proceedings either in exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397CrPC or Section 482CrPC or together, as the case may be, has engaged the attention of this Court many a time. Reference to each and every precedent is unnecessary. However, we may profitably refer to only one decision of this Court where upon a survey of almost all the precedents on the point, the principles have been summarised by this Court succinctly. InAmit Kapoorv.Ramesh Chander[Amit Kapoorv.Ramesh Chander, (2012) 9 SCC 460 : (2012) 4 SCC (Civ) 687 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 986] , this Court laid down the following guiding principles : (SCC pp. 482-84, para 27)

"27. ...27.1. Though there are no limits of the powers of the Court under Section 482 of the Code but the more the power, the more due care and caution is to be exercised in invoking these powers. The power of quashing criminal proceedings, particularly, the charge framed in terms of Section 228 of the Code should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases.

27.2. The Court should apply the test as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made from the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith prima facie establish the offence or not. If the allegations are so patently absurd and inherently improbable that no prudent person can ever reach such a conclusion and where the basic ingredients of a criminal offence are not satisfied then the Court may interfere.

27.3. The High Court should not unduly interfere. No meticulous examination of the evidence is needed for considering whether the case would end in conviction or not at the stage of framing of charge or quashing of charge.

27.4. Where the exercise of such power is absolutely essential to prevent patent miscarriage of justice and for correcting some grave error that might be committed by the subordinate courts even in such cases, the High Court should be loath to interfere, at the threshold, to throttle the prosecution in exercise of its inherent powers.

27.5. Where there is an express legal bar enacted in any of the provisions of the Code or any specific law in force to the very initiation or institution and continuance of such criminal proceedings, such a bar is intended to provide specific protection to an accused.

27.6. The Court has a duty to balance the freedom of a person and the right of the complainant or prosecution to investigate and prosecute the offender.

27.7. The process of the court cannot be permitted to be used for an oblique or ultimate/ulterior purpose.

27.8. Where the allegations made and as they appeared from the record and documents annexed therewith to predominantly give rise and constitute a "civil wrong" with no "element of criminality" and does not satisfy the basic ingredients of a criminal offence, the court may be justified in quashing the charge. Even in such cases, the court would not embark upon the critical analysis of the evidence.

27.9. Another very significant caution that the courts have to observe is that it cannot examine the facts, evidence and materials on record to determine whether there is sufficient material on the basis of which the case would end in a conviction; the court is concerned primarily with the allegations taken as a whole whether they will constitute an offence and, if so, is it an abuse of the process of court leading to injustice.

27.10. It is neither necessary nor is the court called upon to hold a full-fledged enquiry or to appreciate evidence collected by the investigating agencies to find out whether it is a case of acquittal or conviction.

27.11. Where allegations give rise to a civil claim and also amount to an offence, merely because a civil claim is maintainable, does not mean that a criminal complaint cannot be maintained.

27.12. In exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 228 and/or under Section 482, the Court cannot take into consideration external materials given by an accused for reaching the conclusion that no offence was disclosed or that there was possibility of his acquittal. The Court has to consider the record and documents annexed therewith by the prosecution.

27.13. Quashing of a charge is an exception to the rule of continuous prosecution. Where the offence is even broadly satisfied, the Court should be more inclined to permit continuation of prosecution rather than its quashing at that initial stage. The Court is not expected to marshal the records with a view to decide admissibility and reliability of the documents or records but is an opinion formed prima facie.

27.14. Where the charge-sheet, report under Section 173(2) of the Code, suffers from fundamental legal defects, the Court may be well within its jurisdiction to frame a charge.

27.15. Coupled with any or all of the above, where the Court finds that it would amount to abuse of process of the Code or that the interest of justice favours, otherwise it may quash the charge. The power is to be exercisedex debito justitiaei.e. to do real and substantial justice for administration of which alone, the courts exist.

***

27.16. These are the principles which individually and preferably cumulatively (one or more) be taken into consideration as precepts to exercise of extraordinary and wide plenitude and jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code by the High Court. Where the factual foundation for an offence has been laid down, the courts should be reluctant and should not hasten to quash the proceedings even on the premise that one or two ingredients have not been stated or do not appear to be satisfied if there is substantial compliance with the requirements of the offence.""

37. In view of aforesaid, this Court is of the view that grounds seeking prayer, as indicated in para 16 of this judgment, have no force and for the aforesaid reasons, this Court is not inclined to grant the prayer sought in the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. It is accordingly dismissed. No order as to costs.

38. Considering the entire facts of the case including the fact that the FIR was lodged on 27.07.1991 and CBCID filed the Charge Sheet on 26.11.1998, however, on one pretext and other the trial could not be concluded till date and during this period two accused namely Akhilesh Singh and Kamlesh Singh have already been expired, this Court expects from the trial Court to proceed in the matter expeditiously.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1222
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 06.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 11366 of 2023

Sachin Kumar Singh ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:
Ravindra Kumar Dwivedi

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
G.A. Dharmendra Kumar Tiwari

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 482 - Inherent power, Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 376 - Rape, The Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - Section 3(2)(v) - where it appears to Court that offence in question has not been committed or where continuation of legal proceedings would be an abuse of process of law - Court can exercise its powers to quash the proceedings - when considering a prayer for quashing on the basis of a compromise/settlement, if the Court is satisfied that the underlying objective of the Act would not be contravened or diminished even if the felony in question goes unpunished, the mere fact that the offence is covered under a ´special statute´ would not refrain this Court or the High Court, from exercising their respective powers under Article 142 of the Constitution or Section 482CrPC. (Para -14)

(B) The Code of criminal procedure, 1973 - Legal Principles on High Courts' Extraordinary Powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. - Can be invoked beyond Section 320 Cr.P.C.- Powers should be exercised carefully considering nature and effect of offence, seriousness of injury, voluntary nature of compromise, conduct of accused persons, and other relevant considerations - High Court can examine evidence to prove charges, even in cases where parties have entered into a settlement after conviction - ultimate goal of exercising extraordinary power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is to secure the ends of justice - No hard and fast rule can restrict the High Court's powers to do substantial justice, as a restrictive construction may lead to grave injustice. (Para - 16)

Applicant faced charges of rape and SC/ST Act - Investigating Officer found no evidence supporting allegations – protest petition – summoned to face trial – quashing of - Complainant stated in compromise she leveled allegations due to misunderstanding - Complainant and accused reached settlement. (Para - 2 to 5 ,17)

HELD: - No evidence supports rape allegations against applicant. Alleged victim admitted allegations were due to misunderstanding and entered compromise without coercion. Continuing proceedings would persecute both parties. Court quashed criminal proceedings. Continuance of proceedings would be abuse of the process of law. (Para -18,19)

Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. allowed. (E-7)

List of Cases cited:

1. Daxaben Vs The St. of Guj. & ors., 2022 SCC OnLine SC 936

2. Escorts Ltd. Vs CCE, (2004) 8 SCC 335

3. Ramgopal Vs St. of M.P., (2022) 14 SCC 531

4. Ramawatar Vs St. of M.P., (2022) 13 SCC 635

5. K. Gupta Vs St. (NCT of Delhi), 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1030

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ravindra Kumar Dwivedi, the learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Anurag Verma, the learned A.G.A.-I appearing on behalf of the State and Sri Dharmendra Kumar Tiwari, the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the opposite party no.2.

2. By means of the instant application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. the applicant has sought quashing of the entire proceedings of the Complaint Case No.39 of 2019: Kanchan Devi Vs. Sachin Singh, arising out of Case Crime No. 29 of 2018, under Section 376 I.P.C. and Section 3 (2) (v) of Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, Police Station Sammanpur, District Ambedkar Nagar, pending in the Court of Special Judge, SC/ST Act, Ambedkar Nagar on the ground that the parties have entered into a compromise.

3. The opposite party no.2 had filed an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. on 13.04.2018 alleging that the applicant is a Police Constable and he came to the complainant's house on 01.04.2017 at about 11.00 a.m. and raped her and thereafter he repetitively raped her on various occasions. After investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted a final report dated 30.07.2018 stating that a Case Crime No.82 of 2016, under Sections 279, 337, 338, 304-A I.P.C. was lodged in Police Station Sammanpur, District Ambedkar Nagar. A police team had gone to arrest the accused persons and recover the stolen vehicle, whereupon some accused persons had resisted them in performance of their official duties. The Investigating Officer had lodged an F.I.R. No.37 of 2017, under Sections 147, 323, 504, 353, 332, 336 I.P.C. and Section 7 of Criminal Law Amendment Act and Section 3 (I) (x) of Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. The complainant works at the brick kiln of one of the accused persons and she had filed the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. on false allegations under his pressure. The incident was not supported by any independent witness.

4. The opposite party no.2 filed a protest petition against the final report, which was accepted by means of an order dated 13.03.2019, passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge-II, Ambedkar Nagar and it was registered as a complaint. After recording of the statements under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. the applicant was summoned for trial for offence under Section 376 I.P.C. and Section 3 (2) (v) of Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 by means of order dated 23.08.2022.

5. The applicant has sought quashing of the summoning order and the proceedings of the criminal case on the ground that the parties have entered into a compromise on 14.10.2023. The original compromise is annexed with the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. wherein the opposite party no.2 stated that she had lodged the F.I.R. due to some misunderstanding, no party was guilty in the matter and both the parties had agreed to get the proceedings quashed by the competent court. It is categorically stated in the compromise that the parties are major and the decision was taken without any fear or coercion. The compromise has been verified before a Notary Public and it has also been signed by the learned counsel for parties.

6. The opposite party no.2 has filed a counter affidavit accepting the factum of compromise and supporting the application for quashing of the proceedings.

7. Sri Anurag Verma, the learned A.G.A.-I appearing on behalf of the State has opposed the application and he has submitted that the present case involves allegation of commission of rape which is a heinous offence and in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Daxaben Vs. The State of Gujarat and others: 2022 SCC OnLine SC 936 the proceedings of such a case cannot be quashed on the basis of a compromise between the parties.

8. In Daxaben (supra) an F.I.R. was lodged under Section 306 I.P.C. by a cousin and an employee of the deceased. The complainant and the accused entered into a settlement and the High Court of Gujarat at Ahamdabad quashed the proceedings upon an application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. on this ground alone. The widow of the deceased filed an application for recall of the order which too was dismissed by the High Court after recording that the original first informant had pocketed a hefty amount from the accused and he had gone totally out of picture post allowing of the quashing petition, therefore, the application for recall of order was not maintainable.

9. In appeal the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the High Court had erred in declining the prayer of the widow of the deceased for recalling an order passed without hearing her only because the original informant/complainant who was a cousin and an employee of the deceased had been heard. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further held that "before exercising its power under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. to quash an FIR, criminal complaint and/or criminal proceedings, the High Court has to be circumspect and have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous or serious crimes, which are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society cannot be quashed on the basis of a compromise between the offender and the complainant and/or the victim. Crimes like murder, rape, burglary, dacoity and even abetment to commit suicide are neither private nor civil in nature. Such crimes are against the society. In no circumstances can prosecution be quashed on compromise, when the offence is serious and grave and falls within the ambit of crime against society."

10. In Escorts Ltd. v. CCE, (2004) 8 SCC 335, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"8. Courts should not place reliance on decisions without discussing as to how the factual situation fits in with the fact situation of the decision on which reliance is placed. Observations of courts are neither to be read as Euclid's theorems nor as provisions of a statute and that too taken out of their context. These observations must be read in the context in which they appear to have been stated. Judgments of courts are not to be construed as statutes. To interpret words, phrases and provisions of a statute, it may become necessary for Judges to embark into lengthy discussions but the discussion is meant to explain and not to define. Judges interpret statutes, they do not interpret judgments. They interpret words of statutes; their words are not to be interpreted as statutes. In London Graving Dock Co. Ltd. v. Horton2 (AC at p. 761), Lord MacDermott observed: (All ER p. 14 C-D)

"The matter cannot, of course, be settled merely by treating the ipsissima verba of Willes, J., as though they were part of an Act of Parliament and applying the rules of interpretation appropriate thereto. This is not to detract from the great weight to be given to the language actually used by that most distinguished judge,…"

9. In Home Office v. Dorset Yacht Co.3 Lord Reid said (All ER p. 297g-h),

"Lord Atkin's speech … is not to be treated as if it were a statutory definition. It will require qualification in new circumstances."

Megarry, J. in Shepherd Homes Ltd. v. Sandham (No. 2)4 observed: (All ER p. 1274d-e) "One must not, of course, construe even a reserved judgment of even Russell, L.J. as if it were an Act of Parliament;" And, in Herrington v. British Railways Board5 Lord Morris said: (All ER p. 761c)

"There is always peril in treating the words of a speech or a judgment as though they were words in a legislative enactment, and it is to be remembered that judicial utterances are made in the setting of the facts of a particular case."

10. Circumstantial flexibility, one additional or different fact may make a world of difference between conclusions in two cases. Disposal of cases by blindly placing reliance on a decision is not proper."

11. The observations in Daxaben (supra) were made in the factual background of the case that husband of the appellant had committed suicide. The deceased's cousin, who was also his employee, had filed the F.I.R. and he had taken hefty sum from the accused persons to enter into a settlement and the proceedings were quashed on the basis of such settlement without hearing the widow of the deceased. There is no evidence in support of the allegation in the present case. During evidence the Investigating Officer had found the allegations to be false and there is no evidence in support of the allegations, except for the statement of the victim herself and the victim herself has resiled from the allegations and there is no allegation of any monitory transaction between the parties. Therefore, in view of the law laid down in Escorts Ltd. (Supra), the observations made in Daxaben (Supra) will not apply to the present case.

12. In Ramgopal v. State of M.P., (2022) 14 SCC 531, the appellants had abused and assaulted the complainant on account of certain monetary disputes. Appellant no. 1 had struck the complainant with a pharsa, which cut off the little finger of his left hand. Appellant 2 also struck lathi-blows on the body of the complainant. The appellants were thereafter committed for trial under Sections 294, 323 and 326 read with Section 34 IPC and Section 3 of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. The Magistrate had convicted the appellants under Sections 294, 323 and 326 read with Section 34 IPC. During pendency of the appeal filed against conviction, the parties had reconciled their disputes and sought quashing of proceedings under Section 482 Cr.P.C. on this ground. The High Court dismissed the application. While allowing the appeal, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"12.The High Court, therefore, having regard to the nature of the offence and the fact that parties have amicably settled their dispute and the victim has willingly consented to the nullification of criminal proceedings, can quash such proceedings in exercise of its inherent powers under Section 482CrPC, even if the offences are non-compoundable. The High Court can indubitably evaluate the consequential effects of the offence beyond the body of an individual and thereafter adopt a pragmatic approach, to ensure that the felony, even if goes unpunished, does not tinker with or paralyse the very object of the administration of criminal justice system.

13.It appears to us that criminal proceedings involving non-heinous offences or where the offences are pre-dominantly of a private nature, can be annulled irrespective of the fact that trial has already been concluded or appeal stands dismissed against conviction. Handing out punishment is not the sole form of delivering justice. Societal method of applying laws evenly is always subject to lawful exceptions. It goes without saying, that the cases where compromise is struck post-conviction, the High Court ought to exercise such discretion with rectitude, keeping in view the circumstances surrounding the incident, the fashion in which the compromise has been arrived at, and with due regard to the nature and seriousness of the offence, besides the conduct of the accused, before and after the incidence. The touchstone for exercising the extraordinary power under Section 482 CrPC would be to secure the ends of justice. There can be no hard-and-fast line constricting the power of the High Court to do substantial justice. A restrictive construction of inherent powers under Section 482CrPC may lead to rigid or specious justice, which in the given facts and circumstances of a case, may rather lead to grave injustice. On the other hand, in cases where heinous offences have been proved against perpetrators, no such benefit ought to be extended, as cautiously observed by this Court inNarinder Singhv.State of Punjab(2014) 6 SCC 466 and State of M.P.v.Laxmi Narayan, (2019) 5 SCC 688.

14.In other words, grave or serious offences or offences which involve moral turpitude or have a harmful effect on the social and moral fabric of the society or involve matters concerning public policy, cannot be construed betwixt two individuals or groups only, for such offences have the potential to impact the society at large. Effacing abominable offences through quashing process would not only send a wrong signal to the community but may also accord an undue benefit to unscrupulous habitual or professional offenders, who can secure a ´settlement´ through duress, threats, social boycotts, bribes or other dubious means. It is well said that ´let no guilty man escape, if it can be avoided´.

* * *

19.We thus sum up and hold that as opposed to Section 320 CrPC where the Court is squarely guided by the compromise between the parties in respect of offences ´compoundable´ within the statutory framework, the extraordinary power enjoined upon a High Court under Section 482CrPC or vested in this Court under Article 142 of the Constitution, can be invoked beyond the metes and bounds of Section 320 CrPC. Nonetheless, we reiterate that such powers of wide amplitude ought to be exercised carefully in the context of quashing criminal proceedings, bearing in mind: -

19.1.Nature and effect of the offence on the conscience of the society;

19.2.Seriousness of the injury, if any;

19.3Voluntary nature of compromise between the accused and the victim; and 19.4Conduct of the accused persons, prior to and after the occurrence of the purported offence and/or other relevant considerations."

(Emphasis supplied)

13. The Hon'ble Supreme Court reversed the order of the High Court rejecting the prayer for quashing of the proceedings and had quashed the criminal proceedings on the basis of a compromise between the parties even after conviction of the appellant for offence under Section 326 I.P.C., which is punishable with imprisonment which may extend up to life.

14. In Ramawatar v. State of M.P., (2022) 13 SCC 635, the FIR lodged under Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities Act), 1989 read with Section 34 IPC alleged that the appellant threw a brick on the complainant and also made filthy and slur remarks on her caste. There was a civil dispute between the parties. The appellant was convicted under Section 3(1)(x) of the SC/ST Act. The appeal filed against his conviction was dismissed by the High Court of Madhya Pradesh, Jabalpur Bench. During pendency of further appeal before the Hon'ble Supreme Court, the complainant filed an application that the parties had settled their disputes through a compromise. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: - "17… where it appears to the Court that the offence in question, although covered under the SC/ST Act, is primarily private or civil in nature, or where the alleged offence has not been committed on account of the caste of the victim, or where the continuation of the legal proceedings would be an abuse of the process of law, the Court can exercise its powers to quash the proceedings. On similar lines, when considering a prayer for quashing on the basis of a compromise/settlement, if the Court is satisfied that the underlying objective of the Act would not be contravened or diminished even if the felony in question goes unpunished, the mere fact that the offence is covered under a ´special statute´ would not refrain this Court or the High Court, from exercising their respective powers under Article 142 of the Constitution or Section 482CrPC."

(Emphasis supplied)

15. Kapil Gupta v. State (NCT of Delhi), 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1030, is a judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in an appeal filed against a judgment and order passed by an Hon'ble Single Judge of the High Court of Delhi, dismissing the application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. for quashing the proceedings under Section 376 of the Penal Code, 1860 ('IPC') on the ground that the parties had entered into a settlement. While allowing the appeal, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"13.It can thus be seen that this Court has clearly held that though the Court should be slow in quashing the proceedings wherein heinous and serious offences are involved, the High Court is not foreclosed from examining as to whether there exists material for incorporation of such an offence or as to whether there is sufficient evidence which if proved would lead to proving the charge for the offence charged with. The Court has also to take into consideration as to whether the settlement between the parties is going to result into harmony between them which may improve their mutual relationship.

14.The Court has further held that it is also relevant to consider as to what is stage of the proceedings. It has been observed that if an application is made at a belated stage wherein the evidence has been led and the matter is at the stage of arguments or judgment, the Court should be slow to exercise the power to quash the proceedings. However, if such an application is made at an initial stage before commencement of trial, the said factor will weigh with the court in exercising its power."

16. The legal principles which can be culled out from a collective reading of the foresaid precedents, are that the extraordinary powers of the High Courts under Section 482 Cr.P.C. can be invoked beyond the metes and bounds of Section 320 Cr.P.C. Such powers ought to be exercised carefully in the context of quashing criminal proceedings, bearing in mind the nature and effect of the offence on the conscience of the society; theseriousness of the injury, if any, the voluntary nature of compromise between the accused and the victim, the conduct of the accused persons and the other relevant considerations. Though the Courts should be slow in quashing the proceedings wherein heinous and serious offences are involved, the High Court is not foreclosed from examining as to whether there is sufficient evidence which may lead to proving the charges. The High Court can quash the proceedings even in cases where the parties have entered into a settlement after conviction. The touchstone for exercising the extraordinary power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. would be to secure the ends of justice. There can be no hard and fast rule restricting the powers of the High Court to do substantial justice, as a restrictive construction of inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. may lead to grave injustice.

17. When we examine the facts of the present case in light of the aforesaid law, what we find is that after registration of the F.I.R. pursuant to an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., the Investigating Officer had found that the allegations levelled by the opposite party no.2 could not be established as no evidence could be collected in support thereof. It was recorded in the final report that the dispute had occurred when a police party had gone to arrest the accused and recover the stolen vehicle in connection with Case Crime No.82 of 2016. The complainant is an employee of one of the persons accused in that case and she had lodged the F.I.R. at the behest of that accused person to put undue pressure on the police persons. In the compromise, the complainant has categorically stated that she had levelled the allegations due to some misunderstanding and the applicant was not guilty.

18. When there is absolutely no evidence to support the allegation of rape by the applicant and the alleged victim has herself stated in the compromise that the offence was not committed and she had levelled the allegations due to some misunderstanding, that she is major and she had entered into the compromise without any fear or coercion agreeing for quashing of the proceedings after a long drawn full-fledged trial the applicant will surely be acquitted. In such circumstances, the criminal proceedings will only result in persecution of the applicant, as well as the opposite party no.2.

19. Keeping in view the aforesaid peculiar circumstances of the present case, I am of the considered view that the continuance of the proceedings will only be an abuse of the process of law and the proceedings deserve to be quashed.

20. Accordingly, the application is allowed. The entire proceedings of the Complaint Case No.39 of 2019: Kanchan Devi Vs. Sachin Singh, arising out of Case Crime No. 29 of 2018, under Section 376 I.P.C. and Section 3 (2) (v) of Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, Police Station Sammanpur, District Ambedkar Nagar, pending in the Court of Special Judge, SC/ST Act, Ambedkar Nagar are hereby quashed.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1229
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 10.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MANOJ BAJAJ, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 12138 of 2017

M/s Kutumb Marketing Co. Prop. Firm & Anr. ...Applicants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicants:
Sri Uday Shankar Tiwari, Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, Sri Siddharth Niranjan

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
G.A., Sri Munna Pandey

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 482 - Inherent power, Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881- Section 138 - Dishonour of cheque due to insufficient funds or stop payment - Section 482 CrPC not applicable for quashing complaint based on disputed facts - Accused must prove defence at trial. (Para - 12,15,16)

Complainant rented office space to accused - Accused issued cheque - dishonoured due to "payment stopped" - Complainant issued statutory notice - accused replied, claiming payment of Rs. 20,000/- in cash. (Para - 1 to 3)

HELD: - Ground raised by accused-applicants for quashing of impugned complaint was based upon disputed facts. Instrument in question carried a presumption that it was issued for discharge of debt or other liability, therefore, the applicants were required to rebut the same by leading their defence evidence. No forgery established in documents. Court declined to exercise inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C . (Para - 11 to 15)

Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. dismissed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Bajaj, J.)

1. Applicants have filed this application under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure for quashing of Complaint Case No. 3955 of 2015; titled Vinay Kumar Mittal vs. M/s Kutumb Marketing Company and another, filed by complainant-opposite party no. 2, under Section 138 Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

2. Briefly, the facts leading to the application are that complainant-Vinay Kumar Mittal brought a complaint under Section 138 Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 against M/s Kutumb Marketing Company, a Proprietorship Firm represented by applicant no. 2 namely Smt. Meetu wife of Paritosh Srivastava, with the averments that the applicant no. 2 is Proprietor of the applicant no. 1-Firm and is responsible for the conduct of business of the Firm, and the complainant has given a office bearing No. 608 S.L. Tower, Alpha Commercial Belt Greater Noida, District Gautam Budh Nagar, to the accused on rent. The accused never paid the rent in time and for the last two years, there is no rendition of the rent account, and whenever the official of the complainant visits the accused-Firm for demand of rent, he is scolded, and seldom some rent is paid by way of cheques, but the said cheques never cleared on single presentation. On 7th August, 2015, the accused issued a cheque bearing No. 030102 for a sum of Rs. 20,000/-, drawn at Bank of Maharashtra Branch S.L. Tower, Shop No. 3, Alpha-I, Commercial Belt Greater Noida, District Gautam Budh Nagar from account bearing No. 60034507037, in favour of the complainant to clear the debt of rent. The said cheque was presented by the complainant with his bankers, namely, Citizen Cooperative Bank Ltd., affiliated to HDFC Bank for credit in his Saving Account No. 2050, but the same was returned dishonoured through memo dated 13.10.2015. As per the memo of the bank, the cheque was returned with the remarks "Payment Stopped" by the drawer. The complainant issued a statutory notice dated 26.10.2015 through Sri Jabar Singh Advocate by registered A.D. dated 27.10.2015 and demanded the payment of cheque amount within 15 days from the date of the receipt of the notice, but neither any payment was made nor any other information was received from the accused. The complainant filed a complaint against the accused for alleged commission of offence punishable under Section 138 Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 and also appended the copies of the original cheque dated 7.8.2015, bank return memo, legal notice dated 26.10.2015 and the photo copy of the postal receipt dated 27.10.2015 along with the affidavit.

3. Thereafter, the statement of the complainant was recorded on 29.7.2016 under Section 202 Cr.P.C. by the Judicial Magistrate, Gautam Budh Nagar and after examining the material on record found that prima facie the alleged commission of offence punishable under Section 138 Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 is made out, and vide order dated 24.1.2017 process against the applicants/accused was issued. Feeling aggrieved against this, the applicants have approached this Court by way of this petition for quashing of the criminal proceedings.

4. Learned counsel for the accused has argued that the complainant has concealed material facts in the impugned complaint (Annexure-2) and did not disclose that before the dishonour of cheque in October, 2015, previously on two occasions the cheque was presented by him on 6.8.2015 and 19.8.2015 and on both occasions it was dishonoured. Learned counsel for the applicants has argued that the cheque is dated 7th August, 2015, but the complainant had presented it before his bankers on 6th August, 2015 and when the bankers of the accused deducted dishonour charges of Rs. 171/- from their account, at that stage, the applicants contacted the complainant and issued another cheque bearing no. 030103 for a sum of Rs. 20,000/- and the said amount was withdrawn by the employee of the complainant, namely, Munna and receipt (Annexure-17) in this regard was also issued.

5. According to the learned counsel for the applicants, since the liability, if any, attached to the cheque no. 030102 stood discharged to the satisfaction of the complainant, therefore, the impugned complaint would not be maintainable. In support of his arguments, learned counsel has drawn the attention of the Court to the pleadings contained in paragraph 11 of the petition and the relevant annexures i.e. the two cheques, Annexures 3 and 16, respectively, and the receipt dated 18th August, 2015 signed by Munna (Annexure 17).

6. Learned counsel has further argued that the complainant has also not disclosed in his complaint about the reply dated 5th November, 2015 (Annexure 10) sent by the applicants to the statutory notice dated 26.10.2015 (Annxure 7), wherein it is also specifically highlighted that a sum of Rs. 20,000/- stood paid to Munna against the liability of cheque bearing no. 030102 and with this payment, the rent payable upto the month of July, 2015 stood cleared. Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel for the applicants has pointed out that the averments contained in paragraph '11' of the petition have not been specifically denied by the opposite party no. 2 in their counter affidavit dated 24.06.2017, therefore, in this background, it is apparent that the impugned complaint is based upon the distorted facts and the same is nothing, but an abuse of the process of law. He prays that the impugned complaint be quashed.

7. Though the opposite party no. 2 has filed the counter affidavit, but today no one has appeared on behalf of the complainant.

8. Learned counsel for the applicants has been heard and with his assistance, case file has been perused carefully.

9. After hearing the learned counsel for the applicants and considering his submissions, this Court finds that as far as the relationship of the accused and the complainant as tenant and landlord is concerned, the same is not disputed and even the issuance of subject cheque dated 7th August, 2015 bearing No. 030102 for a sum of Rs. 20,000/- in favour of the landlord-complainant is also admitted. In this regard, reference can be made to the reply dated 5th November, 2015 allegedly sent by the applicants to the complainant. The applicants have mainly relied upon their stand of having discharged the liability attached to the cheque no. 030102 dated 7th August, 2015, as after its dishonour, the said amount of Rs. 20,000/-, was paid to the landlord through a bearer cheque No. 030103, which was encashed by one Munna allegedly an employee of the landlord.

10. During the course of hearing, Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel for the applicants vehemently argued that on 6th August, 2015, the cheque bearing no. 030102 was presented which is a day before the date contained on the cheque and when the sum of Rs. 171/- for its dishonour was deducted on 7.8.2015 by the bankers, applicants came to learn about it and contacted the landlord and also made the payment of Rs. 20,000/- through bearer cheque bearing no. 030103 on 18.8.2015. Strangely, if the liability attached to the cheque in question stood discharged as claimed by the applicants, on 18.8.2015 then why the cheque was again dishonoured on 19th August, 2015 has not been explained by the applicants, as the complaint is founded upon the subsequent dishonour of the same cheque in October, 2015. Notably, in the reply dated 5.11.2015 sent by the applicants to the complainant, there is no mention either regarding premature presentation of the cheque on 6th August, 2015 or any averment relating to the alleged unjustified presentation of the cheque on 19th August, 2015, i.e. after payment of a sum of Rs. 20,000/- to the complainant. Besides, no explanation has been offered as to why at the time of payment of Rs. 20,000/- to the complainant, the return of the cheque was not requested. Also the payment of the cheque in question was stopped by applicants much after the alleged payment in cash to the complainant was made, and concededly, no intimation in this regard was sent to the applicants.

11. Apart from the above, a perusal of the vernacular of the photo copy of the receipt dated 7th August, 2015 (Annexure-17) would show that it is issued by Munna, and it also contains the shop number as 608 with an amount mentioned against it as Rs. 15,908/- till June, 2015. Even the applicants have mentioned in paragraph 13 of the application that the sum of Rs. 15,908/- was also paid to the complainant as maintenance charges, thus, the stand of the applicants that a sum of Rs. 20,000/- was paid against the cheque dated 7th August, 2015 cannot be accepted for want of evidence, particularly when in the counter affidavit, the complainant has specifically denied the receipt of cash amount of Rs. 20,000/- as alleged by the applicants.

12. Consequently, in view of the above background, this Court has no hesitation in holding that the ground raised by the accused-applicants for quashing of the impugned complaint are based upon disputed facts, and as the instrument in question carries a presumption that it was issued for discharge of debt or other liability, therefore, the applicants are required to rebut the same by leading their defence evidence.

13. At this stage, learned counsel for the applicants has pointed out that the applicants have also moved an application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. against the landlord-opposite party no. 2 for filing forged letters at pages 11, 12 and 13 of the counter affidavit, which are written by the landlord to the applicant no. 2 relating to the extension of lease agreement, and on these letters, the signatures of the applicant no. 2 with the stamp has been forged. The document is being questioned only on the ground that it contains the signature and stamp of applicant no. 2 which is not possible, but admittedly, there is no denial of the contents and substance of these letters, therefore, prima facie, it does not seem to be a case of any forgery. Thus, no interference is called for in the application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. also.

14. No other argument has been raised.

15. Resultantly, without meaning any expression of opinion on the merits of this case, this Court is not inclined to exercise the inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C and the application is hereby dismissed.

16. However, it is made clear that it shall be open for the applicants to lead evidence before the trial court in support of the defence raised herein.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1232
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 13.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 12798 of 2023

Shivam Kashyap ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:

Trideep Narayan Pandey, Deepankar Kumar, Priya Singh

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
G.A., G.K. Dikshit, Gopal Krishna Dixit

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 – Sections 482 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 147, 148, 302 & 307 – Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 – Sections 3(2)(v), 14-A, 18 & 18-A - Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. – for quashing the charge-sheet and the entire criminal proceeding - preliminary objection – regarding maintainability of the Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. by relying upon the Full Bench judgment rendered in 'Ghulam Rasool Khan & ors. Vs St. of U.P. & Others', - court finds that, applicant has a statutory remedy to file an appeal under Section 14-A of the SC/ST Act, 1989 – and the judgments placed by the applicant in support of maintainability would not affect the binding nature of the law laid down by the Full Bench in a case of 'Ghulam Rasool Khan- - Court held that – law on the point stands clarified by two full benches that inherent power u/s 482 Cr.P.C. cannot be invoked in cases where an appeal would lie under section 14-A of the Act, 1989 – therefore, instant application stands dismissed with liberty to the applicant to available the statutory remedy of filing an appeal under section 14-A, accordingly.
(Para – 12, 13, 14, 15)

Application Dismissed. (E-11)

List of referred Cases: -

1. Ghulam Rasool Khan Vs St. of U.P., 2022 (8) ADJ 691 = 2022 SCC OnLine All 975,

2. In Re: Provision of Section 14 (a) of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act - (2018) 6 ALJ 631 = 2018 SCC OnLine All 2087,

3. U.O.I. Vs St. of Mah. – 2020 (4) SCC 761,

4. Abhishek Awasthi @ Bholu Awasthi Vs St. of U.P. & anr., Application under Section 482 No. 8635 of 2023 – order dated 20.09.2023,

5. Union Territory of Ladakh Vs Jammu & Kashmir National Conference, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1140.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Trideep Narayan and Ms. Charu Singh Advocates, the learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Anurag Verma, the learned A.G.A.-I appearing on behalf of the State and Sri G. K. Dikshit, the learned counsel for the opposite party no.2/complainant.

2. By means of the instant application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the applicant has challenged validity of the charge-sheet dated 12.10.2023 and the entire proceedings of Sessions Case No.3088 of 2023, arising out of Case Crime No.385 of 2023, under Sections 147, 148, 302, 307 I.P.C. & Section 3 (2) 5 of Scheduled Caste and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, registered at Police Station Sushant Golf City, District Lucknow, pending in the Court of Special Judge, SC/ST Act, Lucknow.

3. The learned A.G.A.-I has raised a preliminary objection that the applicant has not challenged the validity of the summoning order and without him having been summoned, the applicant would have no cause of action to challenge the proceedings. He has submitted that the applicant has the statutory remedy of filing an appeal under Section 14-A of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. He has placed reliance upon the Full Bench judgment in the case of Ghulam Rasool Khan and others versus State of U. P.

and others : 2022 (8) A.D.J. 691 = 2022 SCC OnLine All 975.

4. In reply to the aforesaid preliminary objection, the learned Counsel for the applicant has placed reliance upon the Full Bench judgment in "In re Provision of Section 14A of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015" : 2018 SCC OnLine All 2087 and Union of India v. State of Maharashtra, (2020) 4 SCC 761.

5. Section 14-A of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 (which will hereinafter be referred to as 'the Act') provides as follows: -

"14-A. Appeals.— (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), an appeal shall lie, from any judgment, sentence or order, not being an interlocutory order, of a Special Court or an Exclusive Special Court, to the High Court both on facts and on law.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (3) of Section 378 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), an appeal shall lie to the High Court against an order of the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court granting or refusing bail.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, every appeal under this section shall be preferred within a period of ninety days from the date of the judgment, sentence or order appealed from:

Provided that the High Court may entertain an appeal after the expiry of the said period of ninety days if it is satisfied that the appellant had sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal within the period of ninety days:

Provided further that no appeal shall be entertained after the expiry of the period of one hundred and eighty days.

(4) Every appeal preferred under sub-section (1) shall, as far as possible, be disposed of within a period of three months from the date of admission of the appeal.

6. A bare perusal of Section 14-A of the Act shows that it starts with the words "Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974)".

7. In Re : Provision of Section 14 (a) of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act ; (2018) 6 ALJ 631 = 2018 SCC OnLine All 2087, the five questions considered by the Full Bench, and answers given to those questions, were as follows: -

"A. Whether provisions of sub-section (2) of Section 14-A and the second proviso to subsection (3) of Section 14-A of the Amending Act, are violative of Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution, being unjust, unreasonable and arbitrary?

While we reject the challenge to section 14A(2), we declare that the second proviso to Section 14A(3) is clearly violative of both Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution. It is not just manifestly arbitrary, it has the direct and unhindered effect of taking away the salutary right of a first appeal which has been recognised to be an integral facet of fair procedure enshrined in Article 21 of the Constitution. The absence of discretion in the Court to consider condonation of delay even where sufficient cause may exist renders the measure wholly capricious, irrational and excessive. It is consequently struck down.

B. Whether in view of the provisions contained in Section 14-A of the Amending Act, a petition under the provisions of Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India or a revision under Section 397 of the Code of Criminal Procedure or a petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C., is maintainable. OR in other words, whether by virtue of Section 14-A of the Amending Act, the powers of the High Court under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution or its revisional powers or the powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. stand ousted?

We therefore answer Question (B) by holding that while the constitutional and inherent powers of this Court are not "ousted" by Section 14A, they cannot be invoked in cases and situations where an appeal would lie under Section 14A. Insofar as the powers of the Court with respect to the revisional jurisdiction is concerned, we find that the provisions of Section 397 Cr.P.C. stand impliedly excluded by virtue of the special provisions made in Section 14A. This, we hold also in light of our finding that the word "order" as occurring in sub-section(1) of Section 14A would also include intermediate orders.

C. Whether the amended provisions of Section 14-A would apply to offences or proceedings initiated or pending prior to 26 January 2016?

We hold that the provisions of Section 14A would be applicable to all judgments, sentences or orders as well as orders granting or refusing bail passed or pronounced after 26 January, 2016. We further clarify that the introduction of this provision would not effect proceedings instituted or pending before this Court provided they relate to a judgment, sentence or order passed prior to 26 January 2016. The applicability of Section 14A does not depend upon the date of commission of the offence. The determinative factor would be the date of the order of the Special Court or Exclusive Court.

D. Whether upon the expiry of the period of limitation for filing of an appeal as specified in the second proviso to Section 14-A(3), Section 439 Cr.P.C. and the powers conferred on the High Court in terms thereof would stand revived?

We hold that the powers conferred on the High Court under Section 439 Cr.P.C. do not stand revived. We find ourselves unable to sustain the line of reasoning adopted by the learned Judge inRohitthat the provisions of Section 439 Cr.P.C. would remain in suspension during the period of 180 days and thereafter revive on its expiry. The conclusion so arrived at cannot be sustained on any known principle of statutory interpretation. We are therefore, constrained to hold that bothJanardan Pandeyas well asRohitdo not lay down the correct law and must, as we do, stand overruled.

E. Whether the power to directly take cognizance of offences shall be exercisable by the existing Special Courts other than the Exclusive Special Courts or Special Courts to be specified under the amended Section 14?"

The existing Special Courts do not have the jurisdiction to directly take cognizance of offences under the 1989 Act. This power stands conferred only upon the Exclusive Special Courts to be established or the Special Courts to be specified in terms of the substituted section 14. However it is clarified that the substitution of Section 14 by the Amending Act does not have the effect of denuding the existing Special Courts of the authority to exercise jurisdiction in respect of proceedings under the 1989 Act. They would merely not have the power to directly take cognizance of offences and would be bound by the rigours of Section 193 Cr.P.C. Even if cognizance has been taken by the existing Special Courts directly in light of the uncertainty which prevailed, this would notipso factorender the proceedings voidab initio. Ultimately it would be for the objector to establish serious prejudice or a miscarriage of justice as held inRati Ram."

8. In Ghulam Rasool Khan v. State of U.P., 2022 SCC OnLine All 975, another Full Bench of this Court dealt with the following questions: -

(i) Whether a Single Judge of this Court while deciding Criminal Appeal (Defective) No. 523/2017In re : Rohitv.State of U.P.vide judgment dated 29.08.2017 correctly permitted the conversion of appeal under Section 14 A of the Act, 1989 into a bail application by exercising the inherent powers under Section482of theCr. P.C.?

(ii) Whether keeping in view the judgment ofRohit(supra), an aggrieved person will have two remedies available of preferring an appeal under the provisions of Section 14 A of the Act, 1989 as well as a bail application under the provisions of Section439of theCr. P.C.?

(iii) Whether an aggrieved person who has not availed of the remedy of an appeal under the provisions of Section 14 A of Act, 1989 can be allowed to approach the High Court by preferring an application under the provisions of Section482of theCr. P.C.?

(iv) What would be the remedy available to an aggrieved person who has failed to avail the remedy of appeal under the provision of Act, 1989 and the time period for availing the said remedy has also lapsed?

9. The Full Bench answered the aforesaid questions as follows: -

(i) Question No. (I) is answered in negative asRohitv.State of U.P., (2017) 6 ALJ 754 has been overruled by Full Bench of this Court inIn Re : Provision of section 14 (a) ofSC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015, (2018) 6 ALJ 631.

(ii) Question No. (II) is answered in negative holding that an aggrieved person will not have two remedies namely, i.e. filing an appeal under Section 14A of the 1989 Act as well as filing a bail application in terms of Section439Cr. P.C.

(iii) Question No. (III) is answered in negative holding that the aggrieved person having remedy of appeal under Section 14A of the 1989 Act, cannot be allowed to invoke inherent jurisdiction of this Court under Section482Cr. P.C.

(iv) Question No. (IV) - There will be no limitation to file an appeal against an order under the provisions of 1989 Act. Hence, the remedies can be availed of as provided.

10. The learned A.G.A. has informed the Court that the following questions have been referred by the order dated 20.09.2023 passed in Abhishek Awasthi @ Bholu Awasthi versus State of U.P. and another, Application under Section 482 No. 8635 of 2023 and other connected matters: -

(i) Whether a Single Judge of this Court while deciding Criminal Appeal (Defective) No. 523/2017 In re : Rohit Vs. State of U.P. and another vide judgment dated 29.08.2017 correctly permitted the conversion of appeal under Section 14 A of the Act, 1989 into a bail application by exercising the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C.?

(ii) Whether keeping in view the judgment of Rohit (supra), an aggrieved person will have two remedies available of preferring an appeal under the provisions of Section 14 A of the Act, 1989 as well as a bail application under the provisions of Section 439 of the Cr.P.C.?

(iii) Whether an aggrieved person who has not availed of the remedy of an appeal under the provisions of Section 14 A of Act, 1989 can be allowed to approach the High Court by preferring an application under the provisions of Section 482 of the Cr.P.C.?

(iv) What would be the remedy available to an aggrieved person who has failed to avail the remedy of appeal under the provision of Act, 1989 and the time period for availing the said remedy has also lapsed?""

11. Although the questions have been referred to a larger Bench by means of an order dated 20.09.2023 passed by a coordinate Bench of this Court at Allahabad in Application under Section 482 No. 8635 of 2023 and other connected matters, the decision in Ghulam Rasool Khan (Supra) will hold good till a decision is taken by a larger Bench. In this regard, a reference to the following passage from judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union Territory of Ladakh v. Jammu & Kashmir National Conference, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1140 will be appropriate: -

"35.We are seeing before us judgments and orders by High Courts not deciding cases on the ground that the leading judgment of this Court on this subject is either referred to a larger Bench or a review petition relating thereto is pending. We have also come across examples of High Courts refusing deference to judgments of this Court on the score that a later Coordinate Bench has doubted its correctness. In this regard, we lay down the position in law. We make it absolutely clear that the High Courts will proceed to decide matters on the basis of the law as it stands. It is not open, unless specifically directed by this Court, to await an outcome of a referenceor a review petition, as the case may be. It is also not open to a High Court to refuse to follow a judgment by stating that it has been doubted by a later CoordinateBench. In any case, when faced with conflicting judgments by Benches of equal strength of this Court, it is the earlier one which is to be followed by the High Courts, as held by a 5-Judge BenchinNational Insurance Company Limitedv.Pranay Sethi,(2017) 16 SCC 680. The High Courts, of course, will do so with careful regard to the facts and circumstances of the case before it."

12. In Union of India v. State of Maharashtra, (2020) 4 SCC 761 relied upon by the learned Counsel for the applicant, the question involved was regarding the bar created under Section 18 of the Act against grant of anticipatory bail in offences under the Act and the question of maintainability of an Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. was not involved in that case. Therefore, that judgment is no relevant for the decision of the point involved in the present case.

13. Therefore, the mere reference of the aforesaid questions would not affect the binding nature of the law laid down in Ghulam Rasool Khan (Supra).

14. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the law on the point stands clarified by two Full Benches, that inherent powers of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. cannot be invoked in cases and situations where an appeal would lie under Section 14A and aggrieved person having remedy of appeal under Section 14A of the 1989 Act, cannot be allowed to invoke inherent jurisdiction of this Court under Section482Cr. P.C.

15. Accordingly, as the applicant has the remedy of filing an appeal under Section 14-A available to him, he cannot invoke the inherent powers of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. The application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is dismissed for this reason, leaving it open to the applicant to file an appeal under Section 14-A of the Scheduled Caste and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1238
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 28.08.2023

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE GAJENDRA KUMAR, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 28166 of 2023

Harkesh & Ors. ...Applicants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicants:
Sri Raghuveer Singh

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
G.A.

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 482 - Inherent power, Section 321 - Withdrawal from prosecution, Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 147, 148, 149, 435, 427, 395, 397, 506 - Court must ensure the Public Prosecutor's decision isn't improper or an attempt to interfere with justice - Withdrawal from prosecution requires legitimate reasons, good faith, and consideration of public policy and justice and not to thwart or stifle the process of law.(Para - 7)

FIR against 24 persons for setting company property on fire, theft, and physical altercation - Public Prosecutor moved to withdraw prosecution based on the UP-Government's directive - citing incident's connection to farmer's agitation and interest of justice - Sessions court rejected application - noting the case involved riot, loot, harm to police personnel, and absconding accused persons. (Para-7)

HELD: - Trial court erred in rejecting withdrawal application without considering if the Public Prosecutor acted in good faith. Application for withdrawal under Section 321 Cr.P.C. requires court to assess legitimacy and public interest. Impugned order set aside. Case remanded to trial court for fresh consideration after hearing both sides. (Para -7,8,9)

Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. disposed off. (E-7)

List of Cases cited:

1. St. of Kerala Vs K Ajith & ors., (2021) 6 SCR 774

2. St. of Bihar Vs Ram Naresh Pandey & anr,, AIR 1957 SC 389

3. M.N Sankarayaraynan Nair Vs P.V Balakrishnan, (1972) 1 SCC 318

4. R.K. Jain Vs St. through Special Police Establishment & ors,, (1980) 3 SCC 435

5. Sheonandan Paswan Vs. St. of Bihar & ors., (1987) 1 SCC 288

6. Yerneni Raja Ramchandar Vs St. of A.P. & ors,, (2009) 15 SCC 604

7. Bairam Muralidhar Vs St. of A.P., (2014) 10 SCC 380

(Delivered by Hon'ble Gajendra Kumar, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicants and learned AGA for the State.

2. The present application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicants with the prayer to quash the order dated 22.05.2023 passed by ADJ/Special Judge (D.A.A.), Court No.13, Agra as well as the entire proceedings of Case Crime No.211 of 2011 (S.S.T. No.75 of 2013), under Sections 147, 148, 149, 435, 427, 395, 397, 506 IPC, Police Station Etmadpur, District Agra, pending in the court of ADJ/Special Judge (D.A.A.), Court No.13, Agra.

3. Brief facts of the case, as per the pleadings are that on 08.05.2011 at about 07:30 am, the hundreds of people including women, who were armed with deadly weapons, made an attack upon the camp office of Vijay Construction Company Pvt. Ltd., after pouring the kerosene oil, set it on fire and in huge quantity of steel plates and others shattering plates were taken away, had also broken the light, welding machine and when the workers of the company tried to protect the same, the accused persons also committed the tussle with them, they hardly saved their lives from the accused persons and some of them were identified and their names were mentioned in the F.I.R..

4. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the applicants that the applicants are innocent and have been falsely implicated in the present case. Further submission is that the F.I.R. was lodged against the applicants and others on 08.05.2011 at about 11:15 am regarding the alleged occurrence dated 08.05.2011 at about 07:50 am at the place of Bridge Channel Yamuna Express Way, Agra situated at a distance of nine kilometers from the police station. Further submission is that a false and fabricated F.I.R. has been lodged by the complainant against the applicants and others co-accused. Further submission is that applicants had nothing to do with the said incident. Further submission is that neither the applicants went to the place of complainant nor committed tussle with the complainant and others. The name of the applicants were falsely disclosed in the F.I.R. Further submission is that the similar allegations were made against the co-accused persons in another cases, in which government had taken the decision to withdraw the cases and on the basis of the same, the court below passed the orders in favour of the applicants. As such, the impugned order is liable to be set aside.

5. On the other hand, learned AGA has opposed the prayer but did not dispute the aforesaid facts.

6. In the case of State of Kerala Vs. K Ajith and others (2021) 6 SCR 774, the relevant paragraph nos. 14 to 23 are quoted as under:-

14. The powers under Section 321 of the CrPC have been interpreted by this Court on a number of occasions. In State of Bihar vs Ram Naresh Pandey & Anr, AIR 1957 SC 389, a three-judge Bench of this Court analysed Section 494 of the earlier Code of Criminal Procedure 1898 (similar to Section 321 of the CrPC). Justice B. Jagannadhadas observed that in granting consent to withdraw a prosecution, the court exercises a judicial function. However, in doing so, the court need not determine the matter judicially. The court only needs to be satisfied that "the executive function of the Public Prosecutor has not been improperly exercised, or that it is not an attempt to interfere with the normal course of justice for illegitimate reasons or purposes". This Court also observed that the Magistrate's power under Section 494 was to prevent abuse of power of the executive. Addressing the question of whether insufficiency of evidence is a ground for withdrawal of prosecution, the Court held that:-

"9. [...] we find it difficult to appreciate why the opinion arrived at by both the trial court and the Sessions Court that the view taken of that material by the Public Prosecutor viz. that it was meagre evidence on which no conviction could be asked for, should be said to be so improper that the consent of the Court under Section 494 of the Code of Criminal Procedure has to be withheld. Even the private complainant who was allowed to participate in these proceedings in all its stages, does not, in his objection petition, or revision petitions, indicate the availability of any other material or better material. Nor, could the complainant's counsel, in the course of arguments before us inform us that there was any additional material available. In the situation, therefore, excepting for the view that no order to withdraw should be passed in such cases either as a matter of law or as a matter of propriety but that the matter should [b]e disposed of only after the evidence is judicially taken, we apprehend that the learned Chief Justice himself would not have felt called upon to interfere with the order of the Magistrate in the exercise of his revisional jurisdiction."

(emphasis supplied)

15 In M.N Sankarayaraynan Nair vs P.V Balakrishnan, (1972) 1 SCC 318, this Court held that the powers conferred on the Prosecutor under Section 494 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898 are to be exercised in "furtherance of the object of law". On the power of the court to grant consent, Justice P. Jaganmohan Reddy observed that:-

"8. [...] The Court also while considering the request to grant permission under the said section should not do so as a necessary formality — the grant of it for the mere asking. It may do so only if it is satisfied on the materials placed before it that the grant of it subserves the administration of justice and that permission was not being sought covertly with an ulterior purpose unconnected with the vindication of the law which the executive organs are in duty bound to further and maintain."

(emphasis supplied)

16 In Rajender Kumar Jain vs State through Special Police Establishment and Ors, (1980) 3 SCC 435, there was an application for the withdrawal of the prosecution against Mr George Fernandes, Chairperson of the Socialist Party of India. Mr Fernandes had been accused of rousing resistance against the Emergency imposed in 1975 and of participating in a conspiracy to do acts which may have resulted in the destruction of property. After the Emergency was revoked, the Special Public Prosecutor filed an application under Section 321 of the CrPC 'in view of the changed circumstances and public interest'. Given the political background of the dispute, a two judge bench of this Court, speaking through Justice O. Chinnappa Reddy highlighted the importance of the independence of the Public Prosecutor in exercising the power under Section 321. In the context of a withdrawal of prosecution where matters of public policy are involved, the Court held that:-

"16. In the past, we have often known how expedient and necessary it is in the public interest for the public prosecutor to withdraw from prosecutions arising out of mass agitations, communal riots, regional disputes, industrial conflicts, student unrest etc. Wherever issues involve the emotions and there is a surcharge of violence in the atmosphere it has often been found necessary to withdraw from prosecutions in order to restore peace, to free the atmosphere from the surcharge of violence, to bring about a peaceful settlement of issues and to preserve the calm which may follow the storm. To persist with prosecutions where emotive issues are involved in the name of vindicating the law may even be utterly counter-productive. An elected Government, sensitive and responsive to the feelings and emotions of the people, will be amply justified if for the purpose of creating an atmosphere of goodwill or for the purpose of not disturbing a calm which has descended it decides not to prosecute the offenders involved or not to proceed further with prosecution already launched. In such matters who but the Government can and should decide, in the first instance, whether it should be baneful or beneficial to launch or continue prosecutions. If the Government decides that it would be in the public interest to withdraw from prosecutions, how is the Government to go about this task?

17. Under the Code of Criminal Procedure it is the Public Prosecutor that has to withdraw from the prosecution and it is the court that has to give its consent to such withdrawal. […] it is he that is entrusted with the task of initiating the proceeding for withdrawal from the prosecution. But, where such large and sensitive issues of public policy are involved, he must, if he is right-minded, seek advice and guidance from the policy-makers. His sources of information and resources are of a very limited nature unlike those of the policy-makers. If the policy-makers themselves move in the matter in the first instance, as indeed it is proper that they should where matters of momentous public policy are involved, and if they advise the Public Prosecutor to withdraw from the prosecution, it is not for the court to say that the initiative comes from the Government and therefore the Public Prosecutor cannot be said to have exercised a free mind. Nor can there be any quibbling over words. If ill informed but well meaning bureaucrats choose to use expressions like "the Public Prosecutor is directed" or "the Public Prosecutor is instructed", the court will not on that ground alone stultify the larger issue of public policy by refusing its consent on the ground that the Public Prosecutor did not act as a free agent when he sought withdrawal from the prosecution. What is at stake is not the language of the letter or the prestige of the Public Prosecutor but a wider question of policy. The court, in such a situation is to make an effort to elicit the reasons for withdrawal and satisfy itself, that the Public Prosecutor too was satisfied that he should withdraw from the prosecution for good and relevant reasons."

Thus the fact that the withdrawal was initiated by the government was held not to vitiate the application, so long as the Public Prosecutor had independently applied his mind. Elaborating on the scope of withdrawal on the ground of public justice, and in particular the ambit of the expression 'political offence', the Court held:-

"19.[…] For our present purpose it is really unnecessary for us to enter into a discussion as to what are political offences except in a sketchy way. It is sufficient to say that politics are about

Government and therefore, a political offence is one committed with the object of changing the Government of a State or inducing it to change its policy. Mahatma Gandhi, the father of the Nation, was convicted and jailed for offences against the municipal laws; so was his spiritual son and the first Prime Minister of our country.

21. To say that an offence is of a political character is not to absolve the offender of the offence. But the question is, is it a valid ground for the Government to advise the Public Prosecutor to withdraw from the prosecution? We mentioned earlier that the Public Prosecutor may withdraw from the prosecution of a case not merely on the ground of paucity of evidence but also in order to further the broad ends of public justice and that such broad ends of public justice may well include appropriate social, economic and political purposes. It is now a matter of history that the motivating force of the party which was formed to fight the elections in 1977 was the same as the motivating force of the criminal conspiracy as alleged in the order sanctioning the prosecution; only the means were different. The party which came to power as a result of 1977 elections chose to interpret the result of the elections as a mandate of the people against the politics and the policy of the party led by Shrimati Gandhi. Subsequent events leading up to the 1980 elections which reversed the result of the 1977 elections may cast a doubt whether such interpretation was correct; only history can tell. But, if the Government of the day interpreted the result of the 1977 elections as a mandate of the people and on the basis of that interpretation the Government advised the Public Pr[o]secutor to withdraw from the prosecution, one cannot say that the Public Prosecutor was activated by any improper motive in withdrawing from the prosecution nor can one say that the Magistrate failed to exercise the supervisory function vested in him in giving his consent."

(emphasis supplied)

17 The locus classicus on the interpretation of the powers conferred by Section 321 of the CrPC is the decision of the Constitution Bench in Sheonandan Paswan Vs. State of Bihar and others, (1987) 1 SCC 288. In this case, the Board of Directors of the Patna Urban Cooperative Bank was charged with misdemeanours such as misappropriation of the funds of the bank by giving multiple loans to the same person under different names and approving loans for fictitious persons. The Registrar of Cooperative Societies at the instance of the Reserve Bank of India directed legal action to be initiated against the stakeholders. On investigation, statements were made against Dr Jagannath Mishra, the ex-Chief Minister of Bihar, and it was alleged that he misused his office and made illegal personal gains for himself while holding office of the Chief Minister. A charge sheet was filed and the CJM took cognizance of the matter. However, before the case could progress further, Dr Mishra once again took oath as the Chief Minister of Bihar and a communication was issued by the Government that it had decided to withdraw the case. A withdrawal application was filed by the Public Prosecutor on grounds of lack of evidence, implication due to political vendetta, and that the prosecution would be against public policy and public interest. The CJM gave consent for the withdrawal, and the High Court affirmed the order of the CJM.

18 When the matter came up before this Court, the appeal was dismissed by a 2:1 majority. A review petition was allowed, and the scope of Section 321 of the CrPC was addressed by a Constitution Bench. Chief Justice Bhagwati in his minority opinion held that in a case where a withdrawal petition has been filed on the ground of paucity of evidence, after the charge sheet has been filed but before the charge has been framed in a warrant case, the exercise of power by the court granting consent is similar to the power of the court to discharge the accused under Section 239 of the CrPC. Hence, in such cases, it would not be competent for the public prosecutor to file a withdrawal petition unless there is material change in the evidence. The Chief Justice was of the opinion that the court must take up the exercise of discharge in such cases since it would carry greater conviction with the people. He observed:-

"30. The second qualification[..] What the court, therefore, does while exercising its function under Section 239 is to consider the police report and the document sent along with it as also any statement made by the accused if the court chooses to examine him. And if the court finds that there is no prima facie case against the accused the court discharges him. But that is precisely what the court is called upon to do when an application for withdrawal from the prosecution is made by the Public Prosecutor on the ground that there is insufficient or no evidence to support the prosecution. There also the court would have to consider the material placed before it on behalf of the prosecution for the purpose of deciding whether the ground urged by the Public Prosecutor for withdrawal of the prosecution is justified or not and this material would be the same as the material before the court while discharging its function under Section 239. If the court while considering an application for withdrawal on the ground of insufficiency or absence of evidence to support the prosecution has to scrutinise the material for the purpose of deciding whether there is in fact insufficient evidence or no evidence at all in support of the prosecution, the court might as well engage itself in this exercise while considering under Section 239 whether the accused shall be discharged or a charge shall be framed against him. It is an identical exercise which the court will be performing whether the court acts.

"Section 239: When accused shall be discharged: If, upon considering the police report and the documents sent with it under section 173 and making such examination, if any, of the accused as the Magistrate thinks necessary and after giving the prosecution and the accused an opportunity of being heard, the Magistrate considers the charge against the accused to be groundless, he shall discharge the accused, and record his reasons for so doing."

under Section 239 or under Section 321. If that be so, we do not think that in a warrant case instituted on a police report the Public Prosecutor should be entitled to make an application for withdrawal from the prosecution on the ground that there is insufficient or no evidence in support of the prosecution. "

(emphasis supplied)

19 Justice Khalid (speaking for himself and Justice Natarajan) rendered the majority opinion holding that the power of the court to grant consent for a withdrawal petition is similar to the power under Section 320 of the CrPC to compound offences. The court in both the cases will not have to enquire into the issue of conviction or acquittal of the accused person, and will only need to restrict itself to providing consent through the exercise of jurisdiction in a supervisory manner. It was held that though Section 321 does not provide any grounds for seeking withdrawal, "public policy, interest of administration, inexpediency to proceed with the prosecution for reasons of State, and paucity of evidence" are considered valid grounds for seeking withdrawal. Further, it was held that the court in deciding to grant consent to the withdrawal petition must restrict itself to only determining if the Prosecutor has exercised the power for the above legitimate reasons:-

"73 [...]When an application under Section 321 CrPC is made, it is not necessary for the court to assess the evidence to discover whether the case would end in conviction or acquittal. To contend that the court when it exercises its limited power of giving consent under Section 321 has to assess the evidence and find out whether the case would end in acquittal or conviction, would be to rewrite Section 321 CrPC and would be to concede to the court a power which the scheme of Section 321 does not contemplate. The acquittal or discharge order under Section 321 are not the same as the normal final orders in criminal cases. The conclusion will not be backed by a detailed discussion of the evidence in the case of acquittal or absence of prima facie case or groundlessness in the case of discharge. All that the court has to see is whether the application is made in good faith, in the interest of public policy and justice and not to thwart or stifle the process of law. The court after considering these facets of the case, will have to see whether the application suffers from such improprieties or illegalities as to cause manifest injustice if consent is given. In this case, on a reading of the application for withdrawal, the order of consent and the other attendant circumstances, I have no hesitation to hold that the application for withdrawal and the order giving consent were proper and strictly within the confines of Section 321 CrPC.

78. The section gives no indication as to the grounds on which the Public Prosecutor may make the application, or the considerations on which the court is to grant its consent. The initiative is that of the Public Prosecutor and what the court has to do is only to give its consent and not to determine any matter judicially. The judicial function implicit in the exercise of the judicial discretion for granting the consent would normally mean that the court has to satisfy itself that the executive function of the Public Prosecutor has not been improperly exercised, or that it is not an attempt to interfere with the normal course of justice for illegitimate reasons or purposes."

(emphasis supplied)

The Court also held that while granting or denying consent to a withdrawal petition, the court is not to review the purported grounds warranting withdrawal that the public prosecutor has provided, but must only make sure that it is for a legitimate purpose, initiated without mala fides.

20 Both, Justice Khalid in his majority opinion and Justice Venkataramiah (as the learned Chief Justice then was) in his concurring opinion, held that this Court must be circumspect in interfering with the concurrent findings of the courts below, allowing or dismissing the withdrawal petition. Highlighting that this Court is not a court of facts and evidence it was observed:-

"89. An order passed under Section 321 comes to this Court by special leave, under Article 136 of the Constitution of India. The appeal before us came thus. It has been the declared policy of this Court not to embark upon a roving enquiry into the facts and evidence of cases like this or even an order against discharge. This Court will not allow itself to be converted into a court of PART C facts and evidence. This Court seldom goes into evidence and facts. That is as it should be. Any departure from this salutary self-imposed restraint is not a healthy practice and does not commend itself to me. It is necessary for this Court to remember that as an apex court, any observation on merits or on facts and evidence of a case which has to go back to the courts below will seriously prejudice the party affected and it should be the policy of this Court not to tread upon this prohibited ground and invite unsavoury but justifiable criticism. Is this Court to assess the evidence to find out whether there is a case for acquittal or conviction and convert itself into a trial court? Or is this Court to order a retrial and examination of hundred witnesses to find out whether the case would end in acquittal or conviction? Either of these conclusions in the case is outside the scope of Section 321. This can be done only if we rewrite Section 321."

(emphasis supplied)

21 The decision in Sheonandan Paswan (supra) has held the ground since then. An instance of its application was when this Court dealt with the withdrawal of prosecution of an MLA for offences involving misappropriation of public money. In Yerneni Raja Ramchandar vs State of Andhra Pradesh & Ors, (2009) 15 SCC 604, the appellant, an MLA, was accused of fabricating hospital records to repeatedly claim medical reimbursement for a sum of Rs. 2,89,489, Rs. 1,33,939, and Rs. 1,22,825 from the Government. Amounts of Rs. 289,489, Rs. 60,000 and Rs. 60,000 were sanctioned by the Government time and again in response to these requests. Charges of misappropriation were levelled against him. Since the appellant was an MLA, the matter was referred to the Ethics Committee of the Legislative Assembly, where the appellant tendered an apology and refunded Rs. 60,000 to the Government. Pursuant to this, the Ethics Committee recommended a withdrawal of the prosecution against the appellant. The State Government also issued an order requiring the District Collector to direct the Prosecutor to withdraw the case. Multiple applications for withdrawal of prosecution were made, which were dismissed by the Magistrate. These, however, were ultimately allowed by the High Court. In refusing to allow the withdrawal of the prosecution against the appellant, this Court opined that in view of decision in Sheonandan Paswan (supra), the power of judicial review of the High Court was limited. It could have only interfered if there was an error of law committed by the Magistrate. Further, the Court also considered the implication of the disciplinary action taken by the Ethics Committee of the Legislative Assembly on the withdrawal of prosecution under Section 321 of the CrPC. Justice SB Sinha, speaking for the two-judge Bench, held that:-

"15. The Ethics Committee of the legislature of the State of Andhra Pradesh was empowered to deal with the disciplinary action or otherwise which may be taken against the Members of the Legislative Assembly. A criminal case against a Member of the Legislative Assembly, ordinarily, should be allowed to be continued on its own merit, particularly, in the light of the facts of the present matter wherein the High Court had refused to interfere at the earlier stages of the proceedings. We have also noticed hereinbefore that the High Court, in fact, had not only been monitoring the investigation, but also directed the learned trial Judge to complete the trial within a period of three months. The action on the part of the State to issue the said government order despite the earlier orders of the High Court must be considered keeping in view the said factual matrix.

18. The government order was issued even according to the State in terms of the recommendations made by the Ethics Committee alone. […] The Ethics Committee had no jurisdiction to make such recommendations. If the State had acted on the basis of recommendations made by a body who had no role to play, its action would be vitiated in law, recommendations of the Ethics Committee being unauthorised, the action of the State would attract the doctrine of malice in law.

19. Even otherwise, the action on the part of the State, in our opinion, suffers from malice on fact as well. The State is the PART C protector of law. When it deals with a public fund, it must act in terms of the procedure established by law. In respect of public fund, the doctrine of public trust would also be applicable so far as the State and its officers are concerned. It could not, save and except for very strong and cogent reasons, have issued the said government order despite the orders of the High Court."

(emphasis supplied)

22 In offences involving the violation of public trust by executive or legislative authorities, this Court has evaluated the gravity of the offence and the impact of the withdrawal of prosecution on public life. In Bairam Muralidhar vs State of Andhra Pradesh, (2014) 10 SCC 380, the Prosecutor was seeking a withdrawal of the prosecution against a police officer who had been accused of demanding a bribe in exchange of not implicating a particular individual for an offence of kidnapping and for reducing the charges against the individual's son. The police officer was accused of offences under Sections 7 and 13(1) of the Prevention of Corruption Act 1988. An application under Section 321 of the CrPC was filed by the Prosecutor based on the fact that the Government had issued an order for withdrawal of prosecution against the officer given his meritorious service and directed that his case be placed before the Administrative Tribunal for disciplinary proceedings. This Court affirmed the concurrent findings of the High Court and the Trial Court and rejected the application for withdrawal. Justice Dipak Misra (as he then was), speaking on behalf of the two judge Bench, held that:-

"19. In the case at hand, as the application filed by the Public Prosecutor would show that he had mechanically stated about the conditions precedent, it cannot be construed that he has really perused the materials and applied his independent mind solely because he has so stated. The application must indicate perusal of the materials by stating what are the materials he has perused, may be in brief, and whether such withdrawal of the prosecution would serve public interest and how he has formed his independent opinion. As we perceive, the learned Public Prosecutor has been totally guided by the order of the Government and really not applied his mind to the facts of the case. The learned trial Judge as well as the High Court has observed that it is a case under the Prevention of Corruption Act. They have taken note of the fact that the State Government had already granted sanction. It is also noticeable that the Anti-Corruption Bureau has found there was no justification of withdrawal of the prosecution.

22. We have referred to these authorities only to show that in the case at hand, regard being had to the gravity of the offence and the impact on public life apart from the nature of application filed by the Public Prosecutor, we are of the considered opinion that view expressed by the learned trial Judge as well as the High Court cannot be found fault with. We say so as we are inclined to think that there is no ground to show that such withdrawal would advance the cause of justice and serve the public interest. That apart, there was no independent application of mind on the part of the learned Public Prosecutor, possibly thinking that the court would pass an order on a mere asking."

(emphasis supplied)

23 The principles which emerge from the decisions of this Court on the withdrawal of a prosecution under Section 321 of the CrPC can now be formulated:-

(i) Section 321 entrusts the decision to withdraw from a prosecution to the public prosecutor but the consent of the court is required for a withdrawal of the prosecution;

(ii) The public prosecutor may withdraw from a prosecution not merely on the ground of paucity of evidence but also to further the broad ends of public justice;

(iii) The public prosecutor must formulate an independent opinion before seeking the consent of the court to withdraw from the prosecution;

(iv) While the mere fact that the initiative has come from the government will not vitiate an application for withdrawal, the court must make an effort to elicit the reasons for withdrawal so as to ensure that the public prosecutor was satisfied that the withdrawal of the prosecution is necessary for good and relevant reasons;

(v) In deciding whether to grant its consent to a withdrawal, the court exercises a judicial function but it has been described to be supervisory in nature. Before deciding whether to grant its consent the court must be satisfied that:

(a) The function of the public prosecutor has not been improperly exercised or that it is not an attempt to interfere with the normal course of justice for illegitimate reasons or purposes;

(b) The application has been made in good faith, in the interest of public policy and justice, and not to thwart or stifle the process of law;

(c) The application does not suffer from such improprieties or illegalities as would cause

(d) The grant of consent sub-serves the administration of justice; and

(e) The permission has not been sought with an ulterior purpose unconnected with the vindication of the law which the public prosecutor is duty bound to maintain;

(vi) While determining whether the withdrawal of the prosecution subserves the administration of justice, the court would be justified in scrutinizing the nature and gravity of the offence and its impact upon public life especially where matters involving public funds and the discharge of a public trust are implicated; and

(vii) In a situation where both the trial judge and the revisional court have concurred in granting or refusing consent, this Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Article 136 of the Constitution would exercise caution before disturbing concurrent findings. The Court may in exercise of the well-settled principles attached to the exercise of this jurisdiction, interfere in a case where there has been a failure of the trial judge or of the High Court to apply the correct principles in deciding whether to grant or withhold consent.

7. As from the record of the case at hand, it is apparent that an F.I.R. was lodged by the Safety Manager of Vijay Construction Company Pvt. Ltd. Agra against 24 named persons regarding setting on fire the articles of the company and taking away the certain plates of the company and when the people of the company tried to protect the same, they tussled with them and the people of the company hardly saved themselves from the illegal acts. After investigation, charge sheet was submitted and cognizance was taken by the Court. Thereafter, at the stage of appearance of the accused persons, an application dated 20.05.2023 was moved by Uttam Chandel, SPP (DAA) ASJ 13 with the averment therein that as the case is pending before the Court, vide letter/communication no.344 WC/7 Justice-5 2023-24 WC/2022 dated 15.02.2023 of Special Secretary, Justice, Section-5 (Criminal) U.P. Government, his highness the Governor of U.P. has been pleased to withdraw the 24 prosecutions and he has been accordingly directed to seek consent of the court for withdrawal of the same in compliance of the letters/communications Sr. No.(i) to (xxiv). It has been further averred that at the Sr. No. xiv, case crime no.211 of 2011 is related with S.S.T. No.75 of 2013 State Vs. Ashu and others is pending in the court. The complainant of which is Shivsen Safety Manager Vijay Construction Company Pvt. Ltd., Agra, he has lodged an F.I.R. on the basis of information gathered from the people and the witnesses have stated that the named accused persons have been the part of the crowd and no specific roles have been assigned by the witnesses. The incident is connected with the farmer's agitation and it is expedient to withdraw the prosecution in the interest of justice. The learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (DDA), Court No.13 Agra after hearing thereon has passed the impugned order dated 22.05.2023 to the effect that from the perusal of the record, it is apparent that the present case is connected with the riot and loot committed by the accused persons in prosecution of the common object and being armed with deadly weapons. From the photographs annexed with the C.D. available on record, some accused persons are seen committing the offence and are causing injuries to the police personnel. The case is not connected with any public policy or public interest or any object of judicial administration. Accused persons are absconding and NBW and process under Section 82 Cr.P.C have been issued against them, therefore, in view of the facts and circumstances of the case, accordingly the consent to the withdrawal of the prosecution is not in the public interest and is likely to adversaly affect the judicial administration and resultantly, the application was rejected. From the perusal of the impugned order, in the light of the application made for the withdrawal of the prosecution by the public prosecution, it is apparent that the court needs to be satisfied that the executive function of the public prosecutor has not been improperly exercised or that it not an attempt to interfere with the normal course of justice or illegitimate reasons or purposes. It is also important to note that grant of permission to seek withdrawal cannot be made only on the mere asking by the public prosecutor, the court has to be satisfied on the material placed before it that the grant of which subserved the administration of justice. As the matter relates to mass agitation launched by the farmer as is disclosed in the application made by the public prosecutor, the court is expected in such situation to make an effort to elicit the reasons for withdrawal and satisfied itself that the prosecutor too was satisfied that he should withdraw from the prosecution for good and relevant reasons. Withdrawal as initiated by the government cannot be held to vitiate the application so long as the public prosecutor had independently applied his mind. The court in deciding to grant consent to withdraw the prosecution must restrict itself to only determining if the public prosecutor has exercised the power for the legitimate reasons. All the court has to see is whether the application is made in good faith, in the interest of public policy and justice and not to thwart or stifle the process of court. The court after considering these facets of the case will have to see whether the application suffers from such improperties or illegalities as to cause manifest injustice if the consent is given. The judicial function implicit in the exercise of judicial discretion for grant of consent would normaly mean that the court has to satisfy itself that the executive function of the public prosecutor has not been improperly exercised or that it is not an attempt to interfere with the normal course of justice for the illegitimate reason and purposes. In this case on the reading of the application for withdrawal, the impugned order and the other attendant circumstances, this Court has no hesitation to hold that the learned court has not considered and recorded his satisfaction whether the application made by the public prosecutor was in good faith and after having applied his independent mind to the facts and circumstances of the case and whether the application suffers from any improprieties or illegalities as to cause manifest injustice if the consent is given specifically in view of the applications moved in other cases have been allowed and consent has been granted to withdraw the prosecution.

8. Keeping in view the entire facts and circumstances of the case and the manner in which the application under Section 321 Cr.P.C. has been considered and decided by the trial court, it is apparent that the order has been passed against the principles of law as stated above, which is not sustainable in the eye of law and the impugned order is liable to be set aside with the direction to the court concerned that after giving opportunity to both sides, matter shall be decided afresh.

9. In view of the such facts and circumstances of the case, the impugned order dated 22.05.2023 passed by ADJ/Special Judge (D.A.A.), Court No.13, Agra is hereby set aside.

10. Accordingly, the instant application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. is disposed off.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1249
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 31.10.2023

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE NEERAJ TIWARI, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 28290 of 2019

Kunal Shah & Ors. ...Applicants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicants:
Sri Rizwan Ahamad, Sri Rajrshi Gupta

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
G.A., Sri Awadhesh Kumar Pandey, Sri Sanjay Mishra

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 – Sections 165(3) & 482 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 323, 504, 506 & 427 – Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 – Sections 3(2)(va) - Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. – Quashing of Summoning Order and Criminal Proceedings - Tenancy dispute arose between the parties, which was amicably resolved through compromise decrees - tenant failed to vacate the premises - execution proceedings - police-assisted in eviction - criminal complaint, filed after an unexplained delay - alleging offences under Sections 323, 504, 506, 427 IPC and Section 3(2)(va) of the SC/ST Act - summoning order - Applicant taken plea that the complaint lacked merits and was a retaliatory measure stemming from the civil dispute - During the pendency of the present application, the complainant filed a withdrawal application before the trial court – court finds that admittedly, the complaint was rooted in the tenancy conflict and expressing a clear intent not to pursue the matter further – further, court, relying on settled judicial precedents, reiterated that the provisions of the SC/ST Act are attracted only when the alleged offence is committed on account of the victim's caste, and since the present matter was purely a tenancy dispute with no caste-based allegations, no case was made out under the SC/ST Act – Held - The criminal proceedings initiated against the applicants were found to be an abuse of process and devoid of merit - accordingly, the summoning order and all related proceedings in Complaint Case, renumbered as quashed - application stands allowed.
(Para – 10, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28)

Application Allowed. (E-11)

List of referred Cases: -

1. Kishan Singh Vs Gurpal Singh - AIR 2010 SC 3624,

2. Indian Oil Corporation Vs NEPC India Ltd. - (2006) 6 SCC 736,

3. Usha Chakraborty Vs St. of W.B.- 2023 SCC Online SC 90,

4. Ramawatar Vs St. of M.P. - (2022) 13 SCC 635,

5. B. Venkateshwaran & ors. Vs P. Bakthavatchalam - AIR 2023 SC 262,

6. Hitesh Verma Vs St. of Uttarakhand - 2021 Cri. L.J.1,

7. Ashrafi Vs St. of U.P.- (2018) 1 SCC 742,

8. Khuman Singh Vs St. of M.P. - AIR 2019 SC 4030.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

Civil Misc. Amendment Application No. 7 of 2023

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

2. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that during the pendency of application, trial Court has renumbered the Complaint Case No. 171 of 2017 (Jai Kumar Harijan vs. Kunal Shah and others) as Sessions Case No. 1506 of 2023 (State of U.P. vs. Kunal Shah and others), therefore, he may be permitted to carry out necessary amendment in the prayer clause and further requested that same may be allowed, for which Sri Awadhesh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 has no objection.

3. Amendment Application is allowed.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants is permitted to carry out necessary amendment during the course of day.

Order on the memo of application

1. Heard Sri Rajrshi Gupta, learned counsel for the applicants, learned AGA and Sri Awadesh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2.

2. Present application has been filed for quashing of the summoning order dated 18.5.2019 as well as entire proceedings of Complaint Case No. 171 of 2017 (Jai Kumar Harijan vs. Kunal Shah and others) renumbered as Sessions Case No. 1506 of 2023 (State of U.P. vs. Kunal Shah and others), under Sections 323, 504, 506, 427 IPC and Section 3(2) (va) of SC/ST Act, pending in the court of Special Judge SC/ST, Allahabad.

3. Brief facts of the case are that opposite party no.2 was tenant of applicant no.1 and there was tenancy dispute between the parties. Applicant no.1 has filed S.C.C. Suit No. 11 of 2014 for eviction of land on the ground of default in payment of rents and has also filed another Suit, which was registered as P.A. Case No. 2 of 2015 before Prescribed Authority for release of premises in dispute on account of bona-fide need. Thereafter, compromise has taken place between the parties and compromise decree dated 12.11.2016 has been passed in SCC Suit No. 11 of 2014 with the undertaking of opposite party no.2-tenant to vacate the said premises within three months. Similarly, P.A. Case No. 2 of 2015 has also been decided vide order dated 29.11.2016 on the basis of compromise with the similar undertaking to vacate the premises in three months. Even after completion of three months, complainant-tenant has not vacated the said premise, therefore, applicants have filed execution application, which was registered as M.P.A. Case No. 1 of 2017. Similarly, opposite party no.2 has filed application in P.A. Case No. 2 of 2015 for setting aside the compromise decree dated 29.11.2016 on the ground of fraud and also filed another application in SCC Suit no. 11 of 2014 for setting the compromise decree dated 12.11.2016 on the similar ground. Court has dismissed the application of complainant vide order dated 3.4.2017 for setting aside the compromise deed dated 12.11.2016 passed in P.A. Case No. 2 of 2015.

4. In Execution Case i.e M.P.A. Case No. 1 of 2017, Court has issued Parwana Bedhakli and directed the SHO, Civil Lines to get the premise vacated and ensure the possession of the said premise to applicants within 24 hours. The said order was complied with by the Police Authority on 7.4.2017 and possession was delivered to the applicant. This fact has also been recorded in the general diary of police. Thereafter, police filed compliance report on 22.4.2017 before the Execution Court about the compliance of order of the Execution Court. Opposite party no.2 has also filed petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India before this Court challenging the eviction in which this Court vide order dated 20.4.2017 rejected the stay application. Another application preferred by the opposite party no.2 for setting aside the compromise decree dated 12.11.2016 passed in S.C.C. Suit No. 11 of 2014, has also been dismissed by the Court vide order dated 30.7.2018. At this stage, opposite party no.2 has initiated criminal proceedings by filing complaint case after inordinate delay of three months and 20 days.

5. Sri Rajrshi Gupta, learned counsel for the applicants has assailed the summoning order on many grounds. Firstly, he submitted that complaint has been filed without proper explanation of delay. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Kishan Singh vs. Gurpal Singh reported in AIR 2010 SC 3624.

6. He next submitted that it is pure civil dispute and to settle the same, criminal proceedings has been initiated by the complainant, which is totally abuse of process of law and is required to be set aside. In support of of this contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court as well as Apex Court in the cases of Indian Oil Corporation Vs. NEPC India Ltd. reported in (2006) 6 SCC 736, Usha Chakraborty vs. State of West Bengal reported in 2023 SCC Online SC 90, Ramawatar vs. State of M.P. reported in (2022) 13 SCC 635 and B. Venkateshwaran and Ors. Vs. P. Bakthavatchalam reported in AIR 2023 SC 262.

7. He further submitted that as per version of complaint all event took place on the date of eviction i.e. 7.4.2017 before the police authority, but in the complaint, there is no such facts mentioned about the presence of police personal. Not only this, eviction proceedings has also been maintained in the general diary of police and compliance report has also filed before the Execution Court. Same has never been challenged by the opposite party no.2, which clearly shows that no such incident has ever taken place and only to settle the civil dispute, he has initiated criminal proceedings. After eviction proceedings, he has written letter dated 12.4.2017 to District Magistrate, Additional Commissioner, Deputy Chief Minister, Chief Minister and Prime Minister and same is having no reference of any incident as alleged in the complaint upon which summoning order has been issued.

8. He next submitted that not only this, summoning order has been issued under the provisions of SC/ST Act and he submitted that law is very well settled that in case any incident took place on the ground that opposite party no.2 belongs to SC/ST community only then summoning order may be issued under the provisions of SC/ST Act. In the present case, it is undisputed that bone of contention is tenancy dispute and it has nothing to do with the caste of opposite party no.2, therefore, proceedings under the SC/ST Act may not be initiated. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court as well as other High Courts in the cases of Hitesh Verma Vs. State of Uttarakhand reported in 2021 Cri. L.J.1, Ashrafi Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh (2018) 1 SCC 742 and Khuman Singh Vs. State of M.P. reported in AIR 2019 SC 4030.

9. He lastly informed that now opposite party no.2 has filed withdrawal application on 9.11.2020 before the trial Court to withdraw the complaint earlier so filed with the clear cut assertion that due to tenancy dispute, he had lodged complaint, but presently, he does not want to press the same. Therefore, in light of aforesaid facts and circumstances, criminal proceedings is bad and liable to be set aside.

10. Sri Awadesh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 has not disputed the aforesaid facts and fairly accepted that now opposite party no.2 has filed withdrawal application before the trial Court to withdraw the complaint earlier so filed and further does not want to pursue the criminal proceedings any further against applicants.

11. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record as well as summoning order.

12. It is undisputed that a civil dispute of tenancy as referred hereinabove was pending between the parties and ultimately decided by the disposal of SCC Suit No. 11 of 2014 and P.A. Case No. 2 of 2015. Further, criminal proceedings has only been initiated by filing complaint after eviction order has been passed having certain allegations upon the applicant. Before filing of complaint, application has also filed before the District Magistrate, Additional Chief Minister, Chief Minister & Prime Minister having no reference of the present incident, which is part of present complaint, which creates doubt over genuineness of complaint.

13. This complaint has been filed alongwith delay of more than three months without having any explanation. This fact has also been considered by the Apex Court in the matter of Kishan Singh (Supra). Relevant paragraph of the said judgment are quoted hereinbelow:-

21. Prompt and early reporting of the occurrence by the informant with all its vivid details gives an assurance regarding truth of its version. In case, there is some delay in filing the FIR, the complainant must give explanation for the same. Undoubtedly, delay in lodging the FIR does not make the complainant's case improbable when such delay is properly explained. However, deliberate delay in lodging the complaint is always fatal. [vide: Sahib Singh Vs. State of Haryana, AIR 1997 SC 3247].

22. In cases where there is a delay in lodging a FIR, the Court has to look for a plausible explanation for such delay. In absence of such an explanation, the delay may be fatal. The reason for quashing such proceedings may not be merely that the allegations were an after thought or had given a coloured version of events. In such cases the court should carefully examine the facts before it for the reason that a frustrated litigant who failed to succeed before the Civil Court may initiate criminal proceedings just to harass the other side with mala fide intentions or the ulterior motive of wreaking vengeance on the other party. Chagrined and frustrated litigants should not be permitted to give vent to their frustrations by cheaply invoking the jurisdiction of the criminal court. The court proceedings ought not to be permitted to degenerate into a weapon of harassment and persecution. In such a case, where an FIR is lodged clearly with a view to spite the other party because of a private and personal grudge and to enmesh the other party in long and arduous criminal proceedings, the court may take a view that it amounts to an abuse of the process of law in the facts and circumstances of the case. (vide : Chandrapal Singh & Ors. Vs. Maharaj Singh & Anr., AIR 1982 SC 1238; State of Haryana & Ors. Vs. Ch. Bhajan Lal & Ors., AIR 1992 SC 604; G. Sagar Suri & Anr. Vs. State of U.P. & Ors., AIR 2000 SC 754; and Gorige Pentaiah Vs. State of A.P. & Ors., (2008) 12 SCC 531).

14. From perusal of the facts of the case as well as law laid down by the Apex Court, it is required on the part of complainant to explain the delay, if any with cogent reasons, which is absolutely missing in this matter, therefore, criminal proceeding is bad and abuse the process of law.

15. Now coming to next issue as to whether in civil dispute, criminal proceedings may be initiated or not. This matter has very well considered and settled by this Court as well as Apex Court in the matter of Indian Oil Corporation vs. NEPC India Ltd. reported in (2006) 6 SCC 736., Usha Chakraborty vs. State of West Bengal reported in 2023 SCC Online SC 90, Ramawatar vs. State of M.P., reported in (2022) 13 SCC 635 and B. Venkateswaran and ors. Vs. P. Bakthavatchalam reported in AIR 2023 SC 262.

16. I have perused the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Indian Oil Corporation (Supra) and relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:-

"13. While on this issue, it is necessary to take notice of a growing tendency in business circles to convert purely civil disputes into criminal cases. This is obviously on account of a prevalent impression that civil law remedies are time consuming and do not adequately protect the interests of lenders/creditors. Such a tendency is seen in several family disputes also, leading to irretrievable break down of marriages/families. There is also an impression that if a person could somehow be entangled in a criminal prosecution, there is a likelihood of imminent settlement. Any effort to settle civil disputes and claims, which do not involve any criminal offence, by applying pressure though criminal prosecution should be deprecated and discouraged. In G. Sagar Suri vs. State of U.P [2000 (2) SCC 636], this Court observed :

"It is to be seen if a matter, which is essentially of civil nature, has been given a cloak of criminal offence. Criminal proceedings are not a short cut of other remedies available in law. Before issuing process a criminal court has to exercise a great deal of caution. For the accused it is a serious matter. This Court has laid certain principles on the basis of which High Court is to exercise its jurisdiction under section 482 of the Code. Jurisdiction under this Section has to be exercised to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice."

17. I have also perused the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Usha Chakarborty (Supra) and relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:-

15. The materials on record pertaining to the said pleadings instituted in the Civil Suit, produced in this proceeding would reveal that the respondent was in fact ousted from the membership of the trust. In the counter affidavit filed in this proceeding, the respondent has virtually admitted the pendency of the suit filed against his removal from the post of Secretary and the trusteeship and its pendency. The factum of passing of adverse orders in the interlocutory applications in the said Civil Suit as also the prima facie finding and conclusion arrived at by the Civil Court that the respondent stands removed from the post of Secretary and also from the trusteeship are also not disputed therein. Then, the question is why would the respondent conceal those relevant aspects? The indisputable and undisputed facts (admitted in the counter-affidavit by the respondent) would reveal the existence of the civil dispute on removal of the respondent from the post of Secretary of the school as also from the trusteeship. Obviously, it can only be taken that since the removal from the office of the Secretary and the trusteeship was the causative incident, he concealed the pendency of the civil suit to cover up the civil nature of the dispute.

16. By non-disclosure the respondent has, in troth, concealed the existence of a pending civil suit between him and the appellants herein before a competent civil court which obviously is the causative incident for the respondent's allegation of perpetration of the aforesaid offences against the appellants. We will deal with it further and also its impact a little later. There cannot be any doubt with respect to the position that in order to cause registration of an F.I.R. and consequential investigation based on the same the petition filed under Section 156(3), Cr.P.C., must satisfy the essential ingredients to attract the alleged offences. In other words, if such allegations in the petition are vague and are not specific with respect to the alleged offences it cannot lead to an order for registration of an F.I.R. and investigation on the accusation of commission of the offences alleged. As noticed hereinbefore, the respondent alleged commission of offences under Sections 323, 384, 406, 423, 467, 468, 420 and 120B, IPC against the appellants. A bare perusal of the said allegation and the ingredients to attract them, as adverted to hereinbefore would reveal that the allegations are vague and they did not carry the essential ingredients to constitute the alleged offences. There is absolutely no allegation in the complaint that the appellants herein had caused hurt on the respondent so also, they did not reveal a case that the appellants had intentionally put the respondent in fear of injury either to himself or another or by putting him under such fear or injury, dishonestly induced him to deliver any property or valuable security. The same is the position with respect to the alleged offences punishable under Sections 406, 423 , 467, 468, 420 and 120 B, IPC. The ingredients to attract the alleged offence referred to hereinbefore and the nature of the allegations contained in the application filed by the respondent would undoubtedly make it clear that the respondent had failed to make specific allegation against the appellants herein in respect of the aforesaid offences. The factual position thus would reveal that the genesis as also the purpose of criminal proceedings are nothing but the aforesaid incident and further that the dispute involved is essentially of civil nature. The appellants and the respondents have given a cloak of criminal offence in the issue. In such circumstance when the respondent had already resorted to the available civil remedy and it is pending, going by the decision in Paramjit Batra (supra), the High Court would have quashed the criminal proceedings to prevent the abuse of the process of the Court but for the concealment.

17. In the aforesaid circumstances, coupled with the fact that in respect of the issue involved, which is of civil nature, the respondent had already approached the jurisdictional civil court by instituting a civil suit and it is pending, there can be no doubt with respect to the fact that the attempt on the part of the respondent is to use the criminal proceedings as weapon of harassment against the appellants. The indisputable facts that the respondent has filed the pending title suit in the year 2015 , he got no case that he obtained an interim relief against his removal from the office of Secretary of the School Managing Committee as also the trusteeship, that he filed the stated application for an order for investigation only in April, 2017 together with absence of a case that despite such removal he got a right to get informed of the affairs of the school and also the trust, would only support the said conclusion. For all these reasons, we are of the considered view that this case invites invocation of the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to quash the FIR registered based on the direction of the Magistrate Court in the afore-stated application and all further proceeding in pursuance thereof. Also, we have no hesitation to hold that permitting continuance of the criminal proceedings against the appellants in the aforesaid circumstances would result in abuse of the process of Court and also in miscarriage of justice.

18. Similar matter was also come up before the Apex Court in the matter of Ramawatar (Supra). Relevant Paragraph of the said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:-

"17. On the other hand, where it appears to the Court that the offence in question, although covered under the SC/ST Act, is primarily private or civil in nature, or where the alleged offence has not been committed on account of the caste of the victim, or where the continuation of the legal proceedings would be an abuse of the process of law, the Court can exercise its powers to quash the proceedings. On similar lines, when considering a prayer for quashing on the basis of a compromise/settlement, if the Court is satisfied that the underlying objective of the Act would not be contravened or diminished even if the felony in question goes unpunished, the mere fact that the offence is covered under a 'special statute' would not refrain this Court or the High Court, from exercising their respective powers under Article 142 of the Constitution or Section 482 Cr.P.C.

19. This issue was again come before the Apex Court in the matter of B. Venkasteshwaran (Supra) wherein Apex Court has also taken the same view. Relevant paragraph of the said judgments are quoted hereinbelow:-

"We have heard Shri Nagamuthu, learned senior counsel for the appellants – original accused and the respondent appearing in person. We have also gone through the complaint and considered the allegations in the complaint made against the accused. Having considered the allegations in the complaint and the material on record, it appears that initiation of the criminal proceedings by the respondent against the appellants – original accused for the offence under the provisions of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 is nothing but an abuse of process of law and the court and also provision of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. It appears that a private dispute was going on between the parties with respect to the illegal construction. As per the allegations in the complaint, the original complainant had purchased the vacant land and constructed the building. It is alleged that adjacent to his house and on the common pathway, the accused have unlawfully encroached upon the pathway and started constructing the temple and thereby have put up illegal construction on his water pipeline, sewage pipeline and EB Cable. In the entire complaint, there are no allegations that the complainant is obstructed and / or interfered with enjoyment of his right on his property deliberately and willfully knowing that complainant belongs to SC/ST. From the material on record, it appears that a civil dispute is converted into criminal dispute and that too for the offence under the provisions of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. Prior to filing of the complaint, it appears that the temple was already in existence since many years. The complainant, who resides adjacent to the temple, filed WP No. 1272 of 2007 before the Madras High Court. Pursuant to the order passed by the High Court, the Commissioner of Corporation, Chennai conducted the inspection and found that there was absolutely no encroachment by the temple. It appears that thereafter the complainant filed another Writ Petition No. 30326 of 2013 before the Madras High Court. The High Court directed the official respondent to proceed with the inquiry against both the parties. At this stage, it is required to be noted that it was the case on behalf of the original accused that in fact complainant had violated all building norms and had constructed a building in blatant violation of the set-back rules and had also put-up unauthorized con14struction on the ground floor and first floor. That thereafter, the Temple filed writ petition being No.3322 of 2017 before the High Court. The Division Bench of the High Court vide order dated 10.2.2017 stayed the proceedings against temple. It appears that thereafter the complainant filed a private complaint for the aforesaid offences under the provisions of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. From the aforesaid, it seems that the private civil dispute between the parties is converted into criminal proceedings. Initiation of the criminal proceedings for the offences under Sections 3(1)(v) and (va) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, therefore, is nothing but an abuse of process of law and Court. From the material on record, we are satisfied that no case for the offences under Sections 3(1)(v) and (va) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 is made out, even prima facie. None of the ingredients of Sections 3(1)(v) and (va) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 are made out and/ or satisfied. Therefore, we are of the firm opinion and view that in the facts and circumstances of the case, the High Court ought to have quashed the criminal proceedings in exercise of powers under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The impugned judgment and order passed by the High Court, therefore, is unsustainable and the same deserves to be quashed and set aside and the criminal proceedings initiated against the appellants deserves to be quashed and set aside."

20. Judgements are very much clear that in the matter of civil dispute, criminal proceedings cannot be initiated. In the present case, it is tenancy dispute, which is civil in nature, therefore, criminal proceedings is bad and gross misuse of process of law.

21. There is another issue as to whether any case is made out under the provisions of SC/ST Act or not. This matter has very well considered by the Apex Court in the case of Hitesh Verma (Supra) and relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:

"16. There is a dispute about the possession of the land which is the subject matter of civil dispute between the parties as per respondent No.2 herself. Due to dispute, appellant and others were not permitting respondent No.2 to cultivate the land for the last six months. Since the matter is regarding possession of property pending before the Civil Court, any dispute arising on account of possession of the said property would not disclose an offence under the Act unless the victim is abused, intimated or harassed only for the reason that she belongs to Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe.

22. The appellant had sought quashing of the charge-sheet on the ground that the allegation does not make out an offence under the Act against the appellant merely because respondent No. 2 was a Scheduled Caste since the property dispute was not on account of the fact that respondent No. 2 was a Scheduled Caste. The property disputes between a vulnerable section of the society and a person of upper caste will not disclose any offence under the Act unless, the allegations are on account of the victim being a Scheduled Caste. Still further, the finding that the appellant was aware of the caste of the informant is wholly inconsequential as the knowledge does not bar, any person to protect his rights by way of a procedure established by law."

22. Similar matter was also come before this Court in the matter of Ashrafi (Supra). Relevant paragraph of the said judgments are quoted hereinbelow:-

"9. The evidence and materials on record do not show that the appellant had committed rape on the victim on the ground that she belonged to Scheduled Caste. Section 3(2)(v) of the SC/ST Prevention of Atrocities Act can be pressed into service only if it is proved that the rape has been committed on the ground that PW-3 Phoola Devi belonged to Scheduled Caste community. In the absence of evidence proving intention of the appellant in committing the offence upon PW-3-Phoola Devi only because she belongs to Scheduled Caste community, the conviction of the appellant under Section 3(2)(v) of the SC/ST Prevention of Atrocities Act cannot be sustained.

23. The similar view is again taken by the Apex Court in the matter of Khuman Singh (Supra). Relevant paragraph of the said judgment are quoted hereinbelow:-

"9. The evidence and materials on record do not show that the appellant had committed rape on the victim on the ground that she belonged to Scheduled Caste. Section 3(2)(v) of the SC/ST Prevention of Atrocities Act can be pressed into service only if it is proved that the rape has been committed on the ground that PW-3 Phoola Devi belonged to Scheduled Caste community. In the absence of evidence proving intention of the appellant in committing the offence upon PW-3-Phoola Devi only because she belongs to Scheduled Caste community, the conviction of the appellant under Section 3(2)(v) of the SC/ST Prevention of Atrocities Act cannot be sustained13. In Dinesh alias Buddha v. State of Rajasthan (2006) 3 SCC 771, the Supreme Court held as under:-

"15. Sine qua non for application of Section 3(2)(v) is that an offence must have been committed against a person on the ground that such person is a member of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes. In the instant case no evidence has been led to establish this requirement. It is not case of the prosecution that the rape was committed on the victim since she was a member of Scheduled Caste. In the absence of evidence to that effect, Section 3(2)(v) of the Atrocities Act been applicable then by operation of law, the sentence would have been imprisonment for life and fine.

As held by the Supreme Court, the offence must be such so as to attract the offence under Section 3(2)(v) of the Act. The offence must have been committed against the person on the ground that such person is a member of Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe. In the present case, the fact that the deceased was belonging to "Khangar"-Scheduled Caste is not disputed. There is no evidence to show that the offence was committed only on the ground that the victim was a member of the Scheduled Caste and therefore, the conviction of the appellant-accused under Section 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act is not sustainable."

24. Even in the matter of Ramawatar (Supra) and Venkateshwaran (Supra) discussed hereinabove with regard to civil dispute, Court has also taken the same view that in case offence has not been committed on account of caste of victim, no case is made out under the provisions of SC/ST, Act.

25. From perusal of the judgments, it is apparently clear that Apex Court has taken consistent view that in case incident took place due to caste of victim then provisions of SC/ST Act would be attracted, but the in the present case, it was tenancy dispute having nothing to do with the caste of opposite party no.2, therefore, proceedings under the SC/ST Act is bad and cannot not be permitted to continue.

26. Therefore, under such facts and circumstances of the case as well as settled provisions of law, criminal proceedings initiated against the applicants are bad and liable to be quashed.

27. Now at belated stage, it appears that good sense prevailed in the mind of opposite party no.2 and in turn, he decided to file withdrawal application before the trial Court to withdraw the complaint, but even otherwise on merits too, no case is made out against the applicants in light of observations made hereinabove.

28. Accordingly, summoning order dated 18.5.2019 as well as entire proceedings of Complaint Case No. 171 of 2017 (Jai Kumar Harijan vs. Kunal Shah and others) renumbered as Sessions Case No. 1506 of 2023 (State of U.P. vs. Kunal Shah and others), under Sections 323, 504, 506, 427 IPC and Section 3(2) (va) of SC/ST Act, pending in the court of Special Judge SC/ST, Allahabad are hereby quashed.

Application succeeds and allowed.

29. No order as to costs.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1259
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 13.12.2023

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MANOJ BAJAJ, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 29005 of 2010

Smt. Indra Devi & Ors. ...Applicants
Versus
The State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicants:
Sri Deepak Singh Yadav

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
G.A., Sri Gorakh Yadav

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 482 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 323, 504, 506, 452 & 427 - Application u/s 482 – for quashing of Complaint Case, instituted by opposite party no. 2 as well as summoning order – complaint Case - alleged commission of offences punishable u/section 323, 504, 506, 452, 427 IPC – Preliminary objection - a previous identical petition having been dismissed on merits by the Court - applicants deliberately concealed this earlier dismissal while filing the present petition - Court finds that, the applicants had engaged in dishonest conduct by filing a second petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to quash a complaint that had already been dismissed on merits in an earlier proceeding - This repeat attempt, made without disclosing the prior dismissal, caused an unjustified delay of nearly 13 years in the trial, adding hardship to the complainant - as a result, the Court dismissed the application with exemplary costs of Rs. 1,00,000/- to be paid to the complainant within one month - directing the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Azamgarh to ensure recovery - Additionally, the Court ordered that the trial be concluded expeditiously, preferably within one year, by avoiding unnecessary adjournments.

(Para – 9, 10, 11)

Application Dismissed. (E-11)

List of referred Cases: -

1. Dalip Singh Vs St. of U.P. & ors. (2010) 2 SCC 114,

2. Amar Singh Vs U.O.I. & ors. (2011) 7 SCC 69,

3. St. of Uttaranchal v Balwant Singh Chaufal & ors. (2010) 3 SCC 402],

4. Kishore Samrite Vs St. of U.P. & ors. reported in (2013) 2 Supreme Court Cases 398.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Bajaj, J.)

1. Applicants (Accused) had filed this application under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure for quashing of the Complaint Case No. 144 of 2008; titled Patharu vs. Radhey Shyam and others, instituted by opposite party no. 2 for alleged commission of offences punishable under Sections 323, 504, 506, 452, 427 IPC, Police Station Phoolpur, District Azamgarh as well as the summoning order dated 26th November, 2008 passed by the Judicial Magistrate, Azamgarh.

2. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 has raised a preliminary objection relating to the maintainability of the petition, as the previous petition filed by the applicants-accused for the similar relief bearing Criminal Misc. Application No. 857 of 2009; titled Radhey Shyam and 5 others vs. State of U.P. and another, was dismissed by this Court on 29th January, 2009. In this regard, he has invited the attention of the Court to the said order appended with the counter affidavit filed by opposite party no. 2.

3. It is submitted by learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2/complainant that the accused have deliberately concealed their previous unsuccessful attempt before this Court, and again filed the similar petition seeking quashing of the complaint, and vide order dated 17th September, 2010 passed by this Court, further proceedings before the trial court were stayed.

4. At this stage, Sri Deepak Singh Yadav, learned counsel for the applicants fairly states that the applicants had never informed him about the earlier case filed by them through Criminal Misc. Application No. 857 of 2009, therefore, the fact relating to the filing of the earlier petition on behalf of the applicants is not mentioned in the petition. Mr. Yadav, learned counsel further states that he was not the counsel in the previous case, therefore, he too had no knowledge of the order dated 29.1.2009, whereby the petition seeking quashing of subject complaint was dismissed on merits.

5. Upon hearing the learned counsel for the parties and considering the objection raised by the learned counsel for the complainant, it becomes clear that the issues raised in the petition have already been considered by this Court on merits and the claim of the applicants for quashing of the impugned criminal proceedings initiated by opposite party no. 2 through Complaint Case No. 144 of 2008; titled Patharu vs. Radhey Shyam and others, has already been dismissed on 29.1.2009.

6. The above background of the case clearly reveals dishonest conduct of the applicants who wilfully and deliberately concealed the filing of Criminal Misc. Application No. 857 of 2009 and the dismissal order dated 29.1.2009, while filing this petition again on the old cause of action.

7. By now, it is well settled law that a litigant who approaches the Court must come with clean hands, and if, the litigant plays mischief with the Court by concealing the material facts which have direct bearing on the case, such a conduct has to be condemned and punished in order to deter the litigants to not to toy with the process of law or the Courts. Further, a careful perusal of case file shows that the title Radhey Shyam and 5 others vs. State of U.P. and another contained in previous petition has been changed skillfully with the title Smt. Indra Devi and 5 others vs. State of U.P. and another, wherein initially Radhey Shyam was not impleaded as applicant, but subsequently, on 17.9.2010, his name was inserted by way of correction at serial no. 4 in the memo of parties.

8. At this juncture, it will be useful to refer the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kishore Samrite vs. State of U.P. and other reported in (2013) 2 Supreme Court Cases 398, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court while dealing with the issue of suppression of material facts by a litigant made the following observations:-

29. Now, we shall deal with the question whether both or any of the petitioners in Civil Writ Petition Nos. 111/2011 and 125/2011 are guilty of suppression of material facts, not approaching the Court with clean hands, and thereby abusing the process of the Court. Before we dwell upon the facts and circumstances of the case in hand, let us refer to some case laws which would help us in dealing with the present situation with greater precision. The cases of abuse of the process of court and such allied matters have been arising before the Courts consistently. This Court has had many occasions where it dealt with the cases of this kind and it has clearly stated the principles that would govern the obligations of a litigant while approaching the court for redressal of any grievance and the consequences of abuse of the process of court. We may recapitulate and state some of the principles. It is difficult to state such principles exhaustively and with such accuracy that would uniformly apply to a variety of cases. These are:

(i) Courts have, over the centuries, frowned upon litigants who, with intent to deceive and mislead the Courts, initiated proceedings without full disclosure of facts and came to the courts with 'unclean hands'. Courts have held that such litigants are neither entitled to be heard on the merits of the case nor entitled to any relief.

(ii) The people, who approach the Court for relief on an ex parte statement, are under a contract with the court that they would state the whole case fully and fairly to the court and where the litigant has broken such faith, the discretion of the court cannot be exercised in favour of such a litigant.

(iii) The obligation to approach the Court with clean hands is an absolute obligation and has repeatedly been reiterated by this Court.

(iv) Quests for personal gains have become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood and misrepresent and suppress facts in the court proceedings. Materialism, opportunism and malicious intent have over-shadowed the old ethos of litigative values for small gains.

(v) A litigant who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands is not entitled to any relief, interim or final.

(vi) The Court must ensure that its process is not abused and in order to prevent abuse of the process the court, it would be justified even in insisting on furnishing of security and in cases of serious abuse, the Court would be duty bound to impose heavy costs.

(vii) Wherever a public interest is invoked, the Court must examine the petition carefully to ensure that there is genuine public interest involved. The stream of justice should not be allowed to be polluted by unscrupulous litigants.

(vii) The Court, especially the Supreme Court, has to maintain strictest vigilance over the abuse of the process of court and ordinarily meddlesome bystanders should not be granted "visa". Many societal pollutants create new problems of unredressed grievances and the Court should endure to take cases where the justice of the lis well-justifies it.

[Refer : Dalip Singh v. State of U.P. & Ors. (2010) 2 SCC 114; Amar Singh v. Union of India & Ors. (2011) 7 SCC 69 and State of Uttaranchal v Balwant Singh Chaufal & Ors. (2010) 3 SCC 402] x x x

x x x

33. The party not approaching the Court with clean hands would be liable to be non-suited and such party, who has also succeeded in polluting the stream of justice by making patently false statements, cannot claim relief, especially under Article 136 of the Constitution. While approaching the court, a litigant must state correct facts and come with clean hands. Where such statement of facts is based on some information, the source of such information must also be disclosed. Totally misconceived petition amounts to abuse of the process of the court and such a litigant is not required to be dealt with lightly, as a petition containing misleading and inaccurate statement, if filed, to achieve an ulterior purpose amounts to abuse of the process of the court. A litigant is bound to make "full and true disclosure of facts". (Refer : Tilokchand H.B. Motichand & Ors. v. Munshi & Anr. [1969 (1) SCC 110]; A. Shanmugam v. Ariya Kshatriya Rajakula Vamsathu Madalaya Nandhavana Paripalanai Sangam & Anr. [(2012) 6 SCC 430]; Chandra Shashi v. Anil Kumar Verma [(1995) SCC 1 421]; Abhyudya Sanstha v. Union of India & Ors. [(2011) 6 SCC 145]; State of Madhya Pradesh v. Narmada Bachao Andolan & Anr. [(2011) 7 SCC 639]; Kalyaneshwari v. Union of India & Anr. [(2011) 3 SCC 287)].

34. The person seeking equity must do equity. It is not just the clean hands, but also clean mind, clean heart and clean objective that are the equi-fundamentals of judicious litigation. The legal maxim jure naturae aequum est neminem cum alterius detrimento et injuria fieri locupletiorem, which means that it is a law of nature that one should not be enriched by the loss or injury to another, is the percept for Courts. Wide jurisdiction of the court should not become a source of abuse of the process of law by the disgruntled litigant. Careful exercise is also necessary to ensure that the litigation is genuine, not motivated by extraneous considerations and imposes an obligation upon the litigant to disclose the true facts and approach the court with clean hands.

35. No litigant can play 'hide and seek' with the courts or adopt 'pick and choose'. True facts ought to be disclosed as the Court knows law, but not facts. One, who does not come with candid facts and clean breast cannot hold a writ of the court with soiled hands. Suppression or concealment of material facts is impermissible to a litigant or even as a technique of advocacy. In such cases, the Court is duty bound to discharge rule nisi and such applicant is required to be dealt with for contempt of court for abusing the process of the court. {K.D. Sharma v. Steel Authority of India Ltd. & Ors. [(2008) 12 SCC 481].

36. Another settled canon of administration of justice is that no litigant should be permitted to misuse the judicial process by filing frivolous petitions. No litigant has a right to unlimited drought upon the court time and public money in order to get his affairs settled in the manner as he wishes. Easy access to justice should not be used as a licence to file misconceived and frivolous petitions. (Buddhi Kota Subbarao (Dr.) v. K. Parasaran, (1996) 5 SCC 530).

9. Thus, the above noticed facts and circumstances of this case clearly establish that the applicants have adopted unfair means to make a repeat attempt to get the relief from this Court, which earlier stood rejected and this conduct of the applicants have delayed the trial of complaint for a long period of approximately 13 years. This has added insult to the injury of the complaint, who all these years has been contesting this frivolous case, and is still waiting to pursue the trial of the complaint case, therefore, this Court finds it to be a fit case for imposing exemplary costs upon the applicants, in view of the decision in Kishore Samrite's case (Supra).

10. Resultantly, the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is dismissed with a costs of Rs. 1,00,000/- to be paid to the complainant within a period of one month. The Chief Judicial Magistrate, Azamgarh is directed to ensure the recovery of cost and payment to the complainant.

11. Further considering the delay in commencement of the trial, it is ordered that the trial be concluded expeditiously by avoiding unnecessary adjournments, preferably within a period of one year.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1263
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 21.12.2023

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE GAJENDRA KUMAR, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 40122 of 2023
with
Application u/s 482 No. 44609 of 2023

Ajay Garg & Anr. ...Applicants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicants:
Sri Mohammad Khalid, Sri Zain Abbas

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
G.A., Sri Jagannath Maurya

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 202, 202(1) & 482 – Water Pollution (Prevention and Control) Act, 1974 - Sections 25(5), 25, 26, 43, 44 & 49 - Air (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, 1981 – Section 22 - Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. – Quashing of entire criminal proceedings – Environmental Law – inland surface Water Pollution – Authorization to file complaint – Procedural compliance under Section 202

Cr.P.C. – in a Complaint Case, filed under Sections 43/44 of the Act, 1974, against M/s Teerthanker Mahaveer University - The complaint, alleging unauthorized discharge of sewage without a treatment plant - who lacked specific authorization from the U.P. Pollution Control Board and violating section 49 of the Act - Procedural and legal infirmities - Court finds that, the University had complied with legal norms, obtained final consent in 2020, and no vicarious liability was established – court held that, delegated authority cannot be further delegated (delegata potestas non potest delegari) - Moreover, the Magistrate failed to conduct a mandatory inquiry under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C., despite the accused residing outside the court's territorial jurisdiction, rendering the cognizance and summoning orders invalid - Accordingly, the application stands allowed and the proceedings is quashed against the applicant.
(Para - 15, 16, 20)

Application Allowed. (E-11)

List of referred Cases: -

1. S.K. Alagh Vs St. of U.P.reported as (2002) 5 SCC 662,

2. Paritosh Kumar Vs U.O.I. & ors. 2014 (84) ACC 143,

3. P. Pramila & ors. Vs St. of Karn. & anr., AIR 2015 SUPREME COURT 2495,

4. Krishna Nand Shastri @ K.N. Shastri & anr. Vs St. of Jharkhand through its Inspector of Drugs Deoghar - passed in Cr. M. P. No. 1525 of 2014,

5. Udai Shankar Awasthi Vs St. of U.P. & anr., (2013) 2 SCC 435.,

6. Odi Jerang Vs Nabjyoti Baruah & ors.; 2023 Live Law (SC) 702.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Gajendra Kumar, J.)

1. Since these applications arise out of same complaint case, they have been heard together and are being decided by a common order. Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. No. 40122 of 2023 is being treated as a leading case.

2. Counter and rejoinder affidavits filed today are taken on record.

3. Heard learned counsel for the applicants, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and learned AGA for the State.

4. The present applications have been filed by the applicants with the prayer to quash the entire proceedings of Complaint Case No.31 of 2013, under Sections 43/44 of Water Pollution (Prevention and Control) Act, 1974, pending in the court of Special Judicial Magistrate, Pollution, Lucknow.

5. The genesis of the present applications arose when the opposite Party no.2 filed criminal complaint against the M/s Teerthanker Mahaveer University and other employees and directors of the same (hereinafter referred as "University"), before the learned Special Judicial Magistrate, Pollution, Lucknow with wholly false, concocted, and frivolous story. The university is a State minority University established by the society Teerthanker Mahaveer Institute of Management and Technology under the U.P. Act No. 30 of 2008, vide Government Order No. 154/Seventy-1-08-20 (13) / 2006 dated 06.02.2008, also all the construction of the University including the medical facilities in the same were constructed as per the norms of the concerned authorities, after taking the requisite permissions and sanction of plans.

6. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the applicants that the opposite party no. 2, (U.C. Shukla), is not authorized representative of U.P. Pollution Control Board (hereinafter to be referred as 'Board), who alleges that the University is knowingly discharging its noxious and polluted sewage, which met with the nala, which met with the septic tank stored in open pits which is likely to cause inland surface pollution by seepage, thereby causing continuous pollution on land in the stream. He further alleged that the University has not provided any sewage treatment plant to treat its waste in accordance with the standards laid by the board, and hence the accused has committed an offence u/s 24 and 25 of the Water Pollution (Prevention and Control) Act 1974 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act of 1974").

7. Further submission is that neither the applicants nor the University has acted at that particular time, had committed any offence as alleged in the complaint. Further submission is that the university has followed all the rules and regulations prescribed by law at the time of its establishment. Further submission is that as per the procedure as well as the perusal of the above-mentioned Government Order, it is evident that there is no requirement to take prior permission of the U.P. Pollution Control Board. Further submission is that the University being an educational institution cannot be treated as an industry and the rules applicable to the industries are not applicable to the university, however as one of the officials of the board visited the University and directed the University to obtain permission from the board and further directed to establish sewage treatment plant, under bona fide and good faith the University made an application for grant of permission on 20.05.2011, however the permission was rejected by the Board on 21.09.2011 as there were certain inadvertent technical errors in the application, such as the Laboratory report of the water test was not provided and other such procedural formalities were also committed by the Board.

8. It is further submitted that the another application for grant of permission was made by the University on 12.06.2013 and in the said application, it had been specifically mentioned that the work of the sewage treatment plant has been initiated and the same would be concluded in the year 2014. Further submission is that in the said application, it had been specifically stated that the waste concerned was only generated from residential blocks where the staff and teachers lived and no other such noxious or dangerous substance was being released by the University. Further submission is that before filing of the present compliant, no show cause notice was ever served upon the university or its officials in accordance with Section 25(5) of the Act of 1974. Further submission is that a co-ordinate Bench of this Hon'ble Court observed that in case of S.K. Alagh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh reported as (2002) 5 SCC 662, whereby it was held that there is no such concept as vicarious liability under criminal law. Hence, a person cannot be held accountable for a criminal act, solely, on account of his designation in the company. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the applicants has placed reliance upon the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Paritosh Kumar Vs. Union of India and others 2014 (84) ACC 143. Later on, U.P. Pollution Control Board granted consent under Section 25/26 of the Water (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, 1974 on 04.06.2020, as such, no offence has been committed by the applicants-University and in due course consent has been granted and obtained.

9. It is further submitted that the complaint has not been filed by the Board nor its authorized agent rather it has been filed by the one person called U.C. Shukla, who has not been authorized specifically for filing the complaint on behalf of the Board. It is further submitted by the learned counsel for the applicants that no due enquiry under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. has been conducted as is mandatory under the provisions of Cr.P.C. as the accused persons are residents of Moradabad district while the Court situated at district-Lucknow. The very cognizance order as well as summoning order is illegal and without jurisdiction.

10. On the other hand, learned AGA as well as the learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 have opposed the prayer and submitted that the applicant no.1 was working as a Director and applicant no.2 was working as a Chairman in the said company and all the other applicants in connected matters, who are in-charge of, and responsible to the University for the conduct of, the business of the University., therefore, they are vicariously liable for discharging the polluted sewage effluents on the open land for percolation and seepage to the nearby Nala and inland surface water, beyond the standards laid down by the Board, regarding which, the present complaint case filed. It is further submitted that complaint has been filed by the person duly authorized by the Board and due enquiry as contemplated under the provisions of Cr.P.C. has been made before summoning the accused/applicants.

11. I have considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties as well as the case laws and have perused the record.

12. In this matter, as is evident from the record that the complainant Board has authorized its Officer to file the complaint on behalf of the Board and Dr. U.C. Shukla, Assistant Scientific Officer has been nominated by Member Secretary to file this complaint against the opposite parties. It is also evident that such authorization should be for a particular case and general authorization is not permissible. Dr. U.C. Shukla has not been specifically authorized by the Board as is apparent from the para 17 of the complaint which is as follow:-"that the complainant board has authorized its officer to file the complaint on behalf of the Board and Dr. U.C. Shukla, Assistant Scientific Officer has been nominated by Member Secretary, to file this complaint against the opposite parties."

13. Section 49 Water (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, 1974 provides for cognizance of offence under the Act.

49. Cognizance of offences.-(1) No court shall take cognizance of any offence under this Act except on a complaint made by-

(a) a Board or any officer authorized in this behalf by it; or

(b) any person who has given notice of not less than sixty days, in the manner prescribed, of the alleged offence and of his intention to make a complaint, to the Board or officer authorized as aforesaid, and no court inferior to that of a Metropolitan Magistrate or a Judicial Magistrate of the first class shall try any offence punishable under this Act."

14. In the case of P. Pramila and others Vs. State of Karnataka and another, AIR 2015 SUPREME COURT 2495, it has been observed that the appellants engaged in the business of stocking iron ore, had allegedly violated certain norms prescribed under Section 22 of the Air (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, 1981. So Criminal proceeding had been initiated against them.

They were challenged by application u/s 482 Cr.P.C., seeking quashing of proceeding on the ground of inadequate authorisation to file complaint. Hence, either the Board or the Chairman of the Board could have filed the complaints.

15. From the perusal of the records, it is natural therefore to conclude, that the complaint against the applicants was neither filed by the Board nor its Chairman, but was filed by the Assistant Scientific Officer, Regional Office Moradabad (Dr. U.C. Shukla), who was nominated by Member Secretary, which shows that the Board has authorized Member Secretary to file the complaint case under the Act but the Member Secretary instead of filing complaint himself has nominated Dr. U.C. Shukla to file the complaint. It is settled proposition of law that a delegated authority can not further delegate its power to some other person (Delegata potesta non potest deligari). As such, it appears that criminal complaint, filed by the opposite party no.2 against the M/s Teerthanker Mahaveer University and other employees and directors of the same (hereinafter referred as "University"), before the learned Special Judicial Magistrate, Pollution, Lucknow is without authority. Therefore, the conclusion is reached from the perusal of the record that the complaint has not been lodged by the competent and duly authorized person.

16. It is also evident from the record that the court concerned while issuing process u/s 204 Cr.P.C. has not complied with the mandatory provisions of Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. as amended in the year, 2005, with an object that the enquiry in relation to the accused person residing outside territorial jurisdiction has to be satisfactory and sufficient made, merely treating the documents filed by the complainant u/s 202 Cr.P.C. It cannot be said that enquiry as contemplated under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. has been carried out.

17. In the case of Krishna Nand Shastri @ K.N. Shastri and another Vs. State of Jharkhand through its Inspector of Drugs Deoghar passed in Cr.M.P. No. 1525 of 2014, it has been observed that the person who is looking into the day to day affairs of the company and was responsible at the time of offence can only be prosecuted and in that view of the matter in absence of any averment to that effect vicarious liability upon the petitioners are not liable to be fastened upon them as there is no such averment in the complaint petition and the case of the petitioners is fully covered in view of the judgment rendered in the case of State of (N.C.T. of Delhi) v. Rajeev Khurana (supra). So far the record further suggest that in absence of any enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C the learned court has taken cognizance. Reference may be made to the case of Udai Shankar Awasthi v. State of U.P. and another, (2013) 2 SCC 435. Paragraph no.40 of the said judgement is quoted below:

"40. The Magistrate had issued summons without meeting the mandatory requirement of section 202 Cr. P.C though the appellants were outside his territorial jurisdiction. The provisions of Section 202 Cr.P.C were amended vide Amendment Act, 2005, making it mandatory to postpone the issue of process where the accused resides in an area beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate concerned. The same was found necessary in order to protect innocent persons from being harassed by unscrupulous persons and making it obligatory upon the Magistrate to enquire into the case himself, or to direct investigation to be made by police officer, or by such other person as he thinks fit for the purpose of finding out whether or not, there was sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused before issuing summons in such cases."

18. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Odi Jerang Vs. Nabjyoti Baruah and other; 2023 Live Law (SC) 702 has held that " in a case where one of the accused is a resident of a place outside the jurisdiction of the learned Magistrate, following the procedure under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. is mandatory".

19. The impugned order dated 08.05.2014 passed by the court below is reproduced here-in-under:-

"08.05.2014

पुकार करायी गयी। पुकार पर परिवादी बोर्ड के विधि सहायक उपस्थित हैं।

परिवादी एक लोकसेवक है एवं उनके द्वारा पदीय कर्तव्यों के निर्वहन के लिए उक्त परिवाद लिखित रूप में दाखिल किया गया है। अतः परिवादी के बयान अ०धारा 200 द०प्र०सं० की आवश्यकता नहीं है। धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत मूल दस्तावेज संलग्नक- 1 लगायत 12 दाखिल किये गये हैं।

परिवादी बोर्ड द्वारा अधिकृत प्रतिनिधि डा० यू० सी० शुक्ला द्वारा विपक्षीगण मै० तीर्थकर महावीर यूनिवर्सिटी आदि के विरूद्ध प्रस्तुत परिवाद अ० धारा 43 एवं 44 जल प्रदूषण (निवारण एवं नियंत्रण) 1974 पर सुना गया। पत्रावली का अवलोकन किया गया।

परिवाद के समर्थन में परिवादी द्वारा धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत दस्तावेजीय साक्ष्य में संलग्नक-1 सदस्य सचिव द्वारा कम्पनी को जल अधिनियम के प्राविधानो के अनुपालन हेतु प्रेषित पत्र की प्रति, संलग्नक-2 सदस्य सचिव द्वारा कम्पनी को प्रेषित पत्र वास्ते अस्वीकार किये जाने सहमति आवेदन, संलग्नक-3 प्रश्नगत विश्वविद्यालय द्वारा सदस्य सचिव को प्रेषित पत्र दिनांकित 12.06.2013 संलग्नक-4 नोटिस आफ इन्सपेक्शन दिनांकित 19.07.2013 संलग्नक-5 निरीक्षण आख्या दिनांक 9.07.2013, संलग्नक-6 नोटिस आफ इन्टेन्शन टू हैव सैम्पल एनालाइज, संलग्नक-7 प्रोफार्मा टू एकम्पनी दि सैम्पल आफ इण्डस्ट्रीज, संलग्नक-8 विश्लेषण आख्या दिनांक 25.07.2013, संलग्नक-9 श्रेत्रीय अधिकारी मुरादाबाद द्वारा अभियुक्त सं०-15 को प्रेषित पत्र दिनांक 16.08.2013, संलग्नक-10 अभियोजनात्मक कार्यवाही हेतु अध्यक्ष उ०प्र० प्रदूषण नियंत्रण बोर्ड द्वारा अनुमोदित प्रस्ताव, संलग्नक-11 बोर्ड निर्णय दिनांक 12.12.1981 एवं संलग्नक-12 परिवाद दाखिल करने हेतु सदस्य सचिव द्वारा जारी प्राधिकार पत्र की मूल प्रति दाखिल की गयी।

परिवाद पत्र एवं 202 द०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत प्रपत्र को देखते हुये प्रथमदृष्टया न्यायालय इस निष्कर्ष पर पहुँचती है कि, प्रथमदृष्टया विपक्षीगणों द्वारा प्रश्नगत उद्योग का संचालन उ०प्र० प्रदूषण नियंत्रण बोर्ड की सहमति के बिना किया जा रहा था एवं संचालित करते हुये प्रदूषित उत्प्रवाह निस्तारित किया जा रहा था जो प्रदूषण नियंत्रण बोर्ड के निर्धारित मानकों से अत्यधिक है इस प्रकार से मैं, विपक्षीगणों को इस मामले में समन किया जाना न्यायोचित पाती हूँ।"

20. Thus, from the order itself, it is apparent that the learned Magistrate has not postponed process as contemplated under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C., as the University is situated at Moradabad and all the other accused persons are shown to be residents of District-Moradabad, therefore, in this case the accused are residing at a place beyond the area in which the Court exercised its jurisdiction. The impugned order has been passed by the court situated at Lucknow. It is worth considering that there is no exception to Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. and in view of the matter even in the government complaint case, Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. is mandatory and it is admitted that applicants are stationed at Moradabad and seeing that the learned Magistrate was required to follow the mandatory provisions of Section 202(1) Cr.P.C., which has been amended by vide Amendment Act, 2005, making it mandatory to postpone the issue of process where the accused resides in an area beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate concerned.

21. With cumulative effect of the above discussion and the analysis of the Court here-in-above, the entire criminal proceedings in connection with Complaint Case No.31 of 2013, under Sections 43/44 of Water Pollution (Prevention and Control) Act, 1974, pending in the court of Special Judicial Magistrate, Pollution, Lucknow is, hereby, quashed against the applicants.

21. The applications are, accordingly, allowed.

22. A copy of this order be certified to the lower court forthwith.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1269
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 29.11.2023

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MANOJ BAJAJ, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 42306 of 2023

Chandrabhan Singh ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Kaushlendra Pratap Singh

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
G.A.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 173(2) & 482 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 419 & 420 - - the Court finds that - Application u/s 482 – for quashing the charge-sheet, summoning order as well entire criminal proceedings – offence of Cheating arising from two sale deeds involving the same parcel of land - Complaint - FIR – investigation - Charge-sheet – cognizance order - plea taken by the applicant that, neither the applicant is the beneficiary of the transaction in any manner nor he signed the instrument as witness and his role was limited to witnessing an agreement to sell – court finds that - (i) though charge-sheet has been filed but the same is yet to be considered by the trial court, as concededly, the charges have not been framed against the accused person, - (ii) applicant's prior knowledge of the land's sale and his role in identifying the vendor in the second transaction distinguish his case from other witnesses and justify the continuation of proceedings – consequently, the Court declines to exercise its inherent powers to quash the impugned proceedings, holding that the allegations, if taken at face value, do make out a prima facie case against the applicant – application fails and is accordingly, dismissed.
(Para – 11, 12)

Application Dismissed. (E-11)

List of referred Cases: -

1. Pepsi Foods Ltd. & ors. Vs Special Judicial Magistrate & ors., reported in 1997 (4) R.C.R. (Criminal), 761

2. St. of Har. & ors. Vs Ch. Bhajan Lal & ors., reported in 1991 (1) R.C.R. (Criminal), 383.

3. Dharmatma Singh Vs Harminder Singh & ors. reported as 2011 (3) RCR Criminal 38.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Bajaj, J.)

1. Applicant being accused has approached this Court through this application under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure seeking quashing of the charge sheet dated 13.01.2022, filed under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. as well as the cognizance/ summoning order dated 20.4.2023 (both Annexure No.6) passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sant Kabir Nagar and the proceedings arising in Case Crime No.0718 of 2021, under Sections 419, 420 I.P.C., Police Station Khalilabad, District Sant Kabir Nagar.

2. The above F.I.R. (Annexre No.1) was registered on the basis of complaint given by Smt. Rekha Sharma, wherein it is alleged that she is the resident of Khalilabad, District Sant Kabir Nagar and accused persons, namely, Ramnarain @ Ramnarainpur son of Indal, Chandrabhan Singh, son of Gopal Singh, who are engaged in the business of property dealing, in connivance with each other had sold 0.134 hect. land comprised in gata nos.701, 702, 723, 736 through sale deed dated 03.06.2017 executed in favour of Jaiprakash Mishra, wherein accused Chandrabhan Singh is the witness to the sale deed. As per allegations, Chandrabhan Singh in a fictitious way got the sale deed of the land executed in favour of the complainant. On these broad allegations, the F.I.R. was registered for alleged commission of offence of cheating punishable under Section 420 I.P.C.

3. After registration of the case, the investigation in subject F.I.R. was carried out and upon completion of the same the impugned charge sheet dated 13.01.2022 was submitted before the court of competent jurisdiction under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C., whereupon vide order dated 20.04.2023 cognizance order was passed. Hence this petition.

4. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the applicant has argued that the case of the prosecution is not maintainable against Chandrabhan Singh, the applicant, who is not involved in execution of the sale deed dated 22.11.2018, which was executed by accused Ramnarain in favour of complainant-Reeta Sharma. He submits that neither the applicant is the beneficiary of this transaction in any manner nor he signed the instrument as witness. He submits that the land, if any, which is subject matter of the case was owned by Ramnarain and both the sale deeds were executed by him, whereas the applicant was only a witness to the first sale deed executed on 03.06.2017, which has never been questioned in any manner, much less by the complainant or the vendee-Jai Prakash.

5. Learned counsel has further argued that prior to the execution of the sale deed dated 22.11.2018, the vendor had executed an agreement to sell dated 13.11.2018, wherein the agreed sale consideration was fixed as Rs.3.75 lacs, and that too with Santosh Kumar Sharma, husband of the complainant, so, learned counsel while drawing attention of the Court to the agreement to sell dated 13.11.2018 has argued that the contents of this document are not part of the F.I.R., therefore, case of the applicant is distinguishable from the other co-accused. He submits that on these grounds, the interference of this Court is warranted by exercise of inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C., as his prosecution is nothing, but an abuse of process of law.

6. Upon hearing the learned counsel for the applicant and considering his submission this Court finds that the entire case of the prosecution is based upon the documentary evidence and though the charge sheet under Section 173 (2) Cr.P.C. has been filed, but the same is yet to be considered by the trial court, as concededly, the charges have not been framed against the accused persons.

7. In Dharmatma Singh vs. Harminder Singh & Ors. reported as 2011 (3) RCR Criminal 38, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that if a party can avail alternative remedy according to the provisions of Code of Criminal Procedure, in that eventuality the inherent powers under Section 482 CrPC cannot be exercised. The relevant observations read as under :

"13. Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. saves the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under the Code or to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. It has been held by this Court in R. P. Kapur v. State of Punjab [AIR 1960 SC 866] that Section 561-A of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1898 (which corresponds to Section 482 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973) saves the inherent power of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under the Code or to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice and such inherent power cannot be exercised in regard to matters specifically covered by the other provisions of the Code and therefore where the Magistrate has not applied his mind under Section 190 of the Cr.P.C. to the merits of the reports and passed order, the High Court ought not to consider a request for quashing the proceedings. In the case of R. P. Kapur (supra) on 10.12.1958, M.L. Sethi lodged a First Information Report against R.P. Kapur and alleged that he and his mother-in-law had committed offences under Sections 420-109, 114 and 120B of the Indian Penal Code. R.P. Kapur moved the Punjab High Court under Section 561-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure for quashing the proceedings initiated by the First Information Report. When the petition of R.P. Kapur was pending in the High Court, the police report was submitted under Section 173, Cr.P.C. and the High Court held that no case had been made out for quashing the proceedings under Section 561-A of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1898 and dismissed the petition. R. P. Kapur carried an appeal by way of Special Leave to this Court and this Court dismissed the appeal for inter alia the following reasons:

" In the present case the magistrate before whom the police report has been filed under S. 173 of the Code has yet not applied his mind to the merits of the said report and it may be assumed in favour of the appellant that his request for the quashing of the proceedings is not at the present stage covered by any specific provision of the Code. It is well established that the inherent jurisdiction of the High Court can be exercised to quash proceedings in a proper case either to prevent the abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. Ordinarily, criminal proceedings instituted against an accused person must be tried under the provisions of the Code, and the High Court would be reluctant to interfere with the said proceedings at an interlocutory stage..."

As we have found in the present case that learned Magistrate had not applied his mind to the merits of the reports filed under Section 173, Cr.P.C., we are of the considered opinion that the exercise of power by the High Court under Section 482, Cr.P.C., was at an interlocutory stage and was not warranted in the facts of this case."

8. At this stage, learned counsel for the applicant submits that the inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. can also be exercised in a case, if, the criminal proceedings against the accused are attended with malafide intentions and the case of the applicant would also fall within the ambit of such cases where the exercise of powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is justified.

9. At this juncture, this Court deems it appropriate to refer the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Haryana and others Vs. Ch. Bhajan Lal and others, reported in 1991 (1) R.C.R. (Criminal), 383 wherein the Apex Court while analyzing the exercise of inherent powers of the High Court vested through Section 482 Cr.P.C., laid down the following guidelines :

"The following categories of cases can be stated by way of illustration wherein the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482, Cr. P.C. can be exercised by the High Court either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised:—

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a Police Officer without an order of Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a\criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing\ efficacious redress for the grievance of aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with malafide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge.

We also give a note of caution to the effect that the power of quashing a criminal proceeding should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases; that the court will not be justified in embarking upon an enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness or otherwise of the allegations made in the FIR or the complaint and that the extraordinary or inherent powers do not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction on the court to act according to its whim or caprice."

10. The above view was again reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pepsi Foods Ltd. and Ors. Vs. Special Judicial Magistrate and Ors., reported in 1997 (4) R.C.R. (Criminal), 761 and in the said case, Hon'ble Supreme Court while examining the powers of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. laid down as under :

"It is settled that High Court can exercise its power of judicial review in criminal matters. In State of Haryana and others Vs. Bhajan Lal and others, 1992 Supp (1) ACC, 335, this court examined the extraordinary power under Article 226 of the Constitution and also the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which it said could be exercised by the High Court either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. While laying down certain guidelines where the court will exercise jurisdiction under these provisions, it was also stated that these guidelines could not be inflexible or laying rigid formulae to the followed by the facts and circumstances of each case but with the sole purpose to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. One of such guideline is where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused....."

11. Now, while testing the applicant's case and considering the argument raised by learned counsel for the applicant that since Chandrabhan Singh is not involved in the subsequent transaction dated 22.11.2018, therefore, he can not be accused of any offence for causing wrongful loss to the complainant, Reeta Sharma, much less in the absence of any wrongful gain by him, the prosecution against him, is without any basis, this Court finds that as per prosecution, the applicant was a witness to the first sale deed 03.06.2017, and the land sold by Ramnarain through both the sale deeds is the same, therefore, once the applicant was aware that Ramnarain has already sold the land to Jaiprakash, therefore, it was very much in his knowledge that the land does not belong to Ramnarain for entering into subsequent transaction.

12. Admittedly, in the agreement to sell dated 13.11.2018, the applicant is signatory as witness and at that stage he identified the vendor Ramnarain to Santosh Kumar Sharma, husband of the complainant-Reeta Sharma. Notably, Shailendra another witness to agreement to sell like the applicant is not made accused as he was not a witness to the earlier sale deed dated 03.06.2017, therefore, the argument of learned counsel for the applicant that his case is at par with Shailendra is misconceived, as his case stands on different footings. In view of this, it can be safely concluded that the facts and circumstances of this case do not make out a case for exercise of inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C., as it is not a case, where if, the allegations are taken to be true on its face value, no case against the applicant-accused is made out. Thus, without expressing any opinion on merits of the case, this Court is not inclined to exercise the inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

13. Resultantly the application fails and is accordingly, dismissed.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1274
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 11.12.2023

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MANOJ BAJAJ, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 45056 of 2023

Akshay & Anr. ...Applicants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicants:
Sri Ajatshatru Pandey

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
G.A.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 155(2), 173(2), 173(8) & 482 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 307, 323 & 506 - Application u/s 482 – challenging the summoning order – NCR – investigation - applicant arguing that the investigation into Case Crime (initially NCR) was invalid due to non-compliance with Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. when Section 307 I.P.C. was added - Court finds that - the accused had not raised this issue at the appropriate time, and the Magistrate had already permitted investigation under Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. curing any procedural irregularity - held - the summoning order under Section 307 I.P.C. is valid and based upon correct appreciation of law and conflicting police reports must be judicially examined - finding no merits in the application, therefore Application is accordingly, dismissed.
(Para – 6, 8)

Application Dismissed. (E-11)

List of referred Cases: -

1. Vinay Tyagi Vs Irshad Ali @ Deepak & ors., 2013 (5) SCC 762.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Bajaj, J.)

1. Applicants being accused have approached this Court through this application under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure to challenge the order dated 21.11.2023 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Mathura in Case No. 7075 of 2019, titled State Vs. Akshay Bhardwaj and another, arising out of Case Crime No. 1297 of 2017, under Sections 307, 323, 506 I.P.C., Police Station Kotwali, District Mathura, summoning them in relation to the added offence punishable under Section 307 I.P.C.

2. Learned counsel for applicants submits that initially NCR No. 94/2017 dated 28.9.2017 under Sections 323, 506 I.P.C. was registered against the accused at Police Station Kotwali, Chowki Krishna Nagar, Mathura at the instance of complainant namely, Prem Singh, and subsequently, during the pendency of the investigation, the offence punishable under Section 307 I.P.C. was added on 18.12.2017. According to him, the investigation in the alleged crime commenced without the compliance of the mandatory provisions of Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. and on the basis of the opinion given by the doctor relating to the injuries suffered by the victim, a charge sheet bearing No. 803 of 2018 dated 6.8.2018 was filed under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. against the applicants. He submits that NCR Case No. 94 of 2017, after addition of Section 307 I.P.C. was converted as Case Crime No. 1297 of 2017.

3. Learned counsel for applicants has further pointed out that on the basis of request by the accused made before S.S.P. Mathura, followed by an order of the Magistrate dated 18.12.2019, further investigation commenced in the above case and the offence punishable under Section 307 I.P.C. was substituted with the offence punishable under Section 308 I.P.C. on 29.10.2020. According to learned counsel, at this stage also, further investigation remained pending, wherein through charge sheet dated 7.12.2020 the offence punishable under Section 307 I.P.C. stood deleted, and the concession of regular bail too was extended to the accused in respect of the remaining offences i.e. Sections 323 and 506 I.P.C.

4. Learned counsel further drew the attention of the Court to the order dated 15.11.2022 and submitted that in the criminal revision no. 386 of 2022 filed by the complainant-opposite party no.2, the order dated 22.4.2022 passed by the Magistrate, summoning the applicants for the offence punishable under Section 323, 506 I.P.C. was set aside and case was remanded back before the Magistrate for deciding it afresh in accordance with law. Learned counsel for applicants submits that now through the impugned order dated 21.11.2023, applicants have been summoned for the alleged commission of offences punishable under Section 307 I.P.C., and he prays for indulgence of this Court on the sole ground that the investigation being in violation of Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. is without jurisdiction, therefore, it deserves to be set aside.

5. During the course of hearing, it is not disputed by learned counsel for applicants that offence punishable under Section 307 I.P.C. was added on 18.12.2017 and thereafter, the investigation had commenced. He fairly states that after submission of final report under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C., further investigation commenced on the request of the accused persons.

6. After hearing the learned counsel for applicants and considering the sole ground pressed in this application to challenge the order dated 21.11.2023, this Court finds that grievance relating to the non compliance of the provisions of Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. ought to have been raised by the accused when initially the investigation in NCR No. 94 of 2017 commenced in the year 2017. Admittedly, the accused never made any such grievance at that stage and this argument has been raised after addition of Section 307 I.P.C., which is otherwise rendered insignificant in view of the conduct of the accused, who even did not raise this issue when charges against them were framed on 15.6.2022 (Annexure No. 12) for alleged commission of offences punishable under Section 323 and 506 I.P.C.

7. Notably, initially the case was registered as NCR No. 94 of 2017 for alleged commission of offences punishable under Section 323 and 506 I.P.C., but subsequently, the offence punishable under Section 307 I.P.C. was also added and the investigation, if any, before the addition of Section 307 I.P.C. did not result in any miscarriage of justice to the accused, much less any prejudice, therefore, in the given facts, this circumstance alone would not vitiate the investigation as the irregularity, if any, committed by the Investigating Officer stood cured by the Magistrate vide order dated 19.12.2017 permitting the investigation in NCR No. 94 of 2017. Above all, vide order dated 19.12.2017 the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mathura had passed the order in terms of Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. relating to the investigation in NCR No. 94 of 2017, and the said order was also never challenged by the accused, much less in this application. Thus, this Court does not find any merit in the argument relating to the violation of Section 155(2) Cr.P.C., which has been raised after a long delay, therefore, the same is hereby rejected.

8. Now, while analysing the impugned order dated 21.11.2023, it becomes clear that the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mathura has specifically observed that as per the first report filed under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C., the offence punishable under Section 307 I.P.C. is made out against the accused, but when cognizance order against the accused was passed solely on the basis of supplementary report under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. relating to the offences punishable under Section 323, 506 I.P.C., it would not mean that charge regarding Section 307 I.P.C. contained in the first report stood rejected, as there is no such order passed by the court. Consequently, the court proceeded to summon the accused for the alleged commission of offence punishable under Section 307 I.P.C. also. A reading of the impugned order would show that the same is based upon correct appreciation of law, and if, there are conflicting reports submitted by police in a case, the court of competent jurisdiction is to examine both the reports to arrive at a just conclusion. In this regard, a reference can be made by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vinay Tyagi v. Irshad Ali @ Deepak and others, 2013 (5) SCC 762.

9. No other argument has been raised by the learned counsel for the applicants.

10. Resultantly, this Court does not find any convincing ground to exercise the inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. The application is accordingly, dismissed.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1276
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 25.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE ARUN KUMAR SINGH DESHWAL, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 45646 of 2023

Netrpal ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Surya Nath Bhatt, Sri Gaurav Kumar Srivastava

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
G.A.

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 482 - Inherent power, Indian Penal Code, 1860 - The Scheduled Castes and The Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - Sections 15-A , 15-A(3), 15-A(5) & 15-A(11) - Rights of victims and Witnesses, The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 - Sectio 7/8, The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Rules, 2020 - Rule 4(15) - Victim/complainant has right to information about proceedings - Investigating Officer must inform them. (Para -7)

Petitioner seeks to quash summoning order under POCSO Act - Court expresses displeasure over police authorities' failure to serve notice to complainant/victim despite statutory provisions. (Para - 1,2)

HELD: - Court directs Director General of Police, UP, to issue guidelines ensuring compliance with statutory provisions. Police must intimate complainant/victim about case pendency and submit report with instructions. (Para - 9)

Put up as Fresh. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and learned AGA for the State.

2. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application has been filed to quash the impugned summoning order dated 20.10.2023 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, POCSO Act (Budaun) in Complaint Case No.159 of 2023, Rama Devi Vs. Netrpal, under Section- 7/8 of POCSO Act, Police Station-Mujariya, District- Badaun.

3. It appears from the record that offence in question is arising out of the POCSO Act, there is a statutory provision to serve notice upon the complainant before passing any order.

4. It is informed by learned AGA that the intimation by the office of Government Advocate, High Court, Allahabad was sent to the concerned I.O. through Superintendent of Police and Joint Director of Prosecution on 01.12.2023 for seeking instructions and in reply thereto, instructions was also supplied on 07.02.2024 by the concerned I.O. but, the report regarding service of notice upon the victim and/or complainant was not sent. Therefore, in such situation because of the statutory provision, court has no option except to issue notice to the complainant and/or the victim. This will cause further delay in disposal of Application u/s 482 which some times may result injustice to the party who approach this court by filing Application u/s 482 because during long period, the applicant may be arrested or may have faced continuous harassment on the part of police authorities.

5. This court expressed displeasure over the action of the police authorities for not serving the notice upon the complainant or the victim of POCSO Act. Despite the fact that there is a specific rule, directing to the police authorities to inform each and every stage of the case including the bail application to the victim and the complainant of POCSO Act. Rule 4(15) of Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Rules, 2020 is being quoted as below:

"4(15). The information to be provided by the SJPU, local police, or support person, to the child and child's parents or guardian or other person in whom the child has trust and confidence, includes but is not limited to the following:-

(i) the availability of public and private emergency and crisis services;

(ii) the procedural steps involved in a criminal prosecution;

(iii) the availability of victim's compensation benefits;

(iv) the status of the investigation of the crime, to the extent it is appropriate to inform the victim and to the extent that it will not interfere with the investigation;

(v) the arrest of a suspected offender;

(vi) the filing of charges against a suspected offender;

(vii) the schedule of court proceedings that the child is either required to attend or is entitled to attend;

(viii) the bail, release or detention status of an offender or suspected offender;

(ix) the rendering of a verdict after trial; and

(x) the sentence imposed on an offender."

6. Similarly, Section 15-A of the Scheduled Castes And The Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 also provides timely information to the victim or his/her dependents regarding any proceeding under the SC/ST Act. Sections 15-A(3), 15-A(5), 15-A(11) of the SC/ST Act, 1989 are being quoted as below:

"15-A(3) A victim or his dependent shall have the right to reasonable, accurate, and timely notice of any Court proceeding including any bail proceeding and the Special Public Prosecutor or the State Government shall inform the victim about any proceedings under this Act.

(5) A victim or his dependent shall be entitled to be heard at any proceeding under this Act in respect of bail, discharge, release, parole, conviction or sentence of an accused or any connected proceedings or arguments and file written submission on conviction, acquittal or sentencing.

(11) It shall be the duty of the concerned State to specify an appropriate scheme to ensure implementation of the following rights and entitlements of victims and witnesses in accessing justice so as-

(a) to provide a copy of the recorded First Information Report at free of cost;

(b) to provide immediate relief in cash or in kind to atrocity victims or their dependents;

(c) to provide necessary protection to the atrocity victims or their dependents, and witnesses;

(d) to provide relief in respect of death or injury or damage to property;

(e) to arrange food or water or clothing or shelter or medical aid or transport facilities or daily allowances to victims;

(f) to provide the maintenance expenses to the atrocity victims and their dependents;

(g) to provide the information about the rights of atrocity victims at the time of making complaints and registering the First Information Report;

(h) to provide the protection to atrocity victims or their dependents and witnesses from intimidation and harassment;

(i) to provide the information to atrocity victims or their dependents or associated organisations or individuals, on the status of investigation and charge sheet and to provide copy of the charge sheet at free of cost;

(j) to take necessary precautions at the time of medical examination;

(k) to provide information to atrocity victims or their dependents or associated organisations or individuals, regarding the relief amount;

(l) to provide information to atrocity victims or their dependents or associated organisations or individuals, in advance about the dates and place of investigation and trial;

(m) to give adequate briefing on the case and preparation for trial to atrocity victims or their dependents or associated organisations or individuals and to provide the legal aid for the said purpose;

(n) to execute the rights of atrocity victims or their dependents or associated organisations or individuals at every stage of the proceedings under this Act and to provide the necessary assistance for the execution of the rights."

7. From the above provisions of the POCSO Act as well as of the SC/ST Act, 1989, it is clear that the victim or the complainant has right to information about the pendency of any proceeding in the respective acts and it is duty of Investigating Officer, to inform them.

8. If on receiving the intimation from the office of Government Advocate, High Court, Allahabad, concerned police officer informs the complainant and victim about the pendency of case involving the offence under the POCSO Act or SC/ST Act and submit its report along with the instructions to the office of Government Advocate, then it will save the precious time for disposal of case and there will be no requirement on the part of court to issue notice to the victim and complainant at the time of admission of case.

9. Therefore, this court directs the Director General of Police, UP, Lucknow to issue necessary direction to all the police officials that whenever they receive any letter or intimation from the office of Government Advocate, High Court, Allahabad seeking instructions regarding the cases involving offence under the POCSO Act or SC/ST Act, then the concerned police officer before sending instructions to the High Court must intimate to the complainant/victim about the pendency of case before the High Court and there should be endorsement of complainant or victim regarding service of that notice or intimation, which should be forwarded to the office of Government Advocate, High Court, Allahabad along with instructions.

10. Registrar (Compliance) is directed to send copy of this order to the Director General of Police,
UP, Lucknow for necessary compliance.

11. Issue notice to opposite party no.2.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1279
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 25.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE ARUN KUMAR SINGH DESHWAL, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 45953 of 2023

Rajendra ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Sunil Kumar, Sri Chandan Singh, Sri Narendra Singh

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
G.A.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 161 & 482 – Negotiable Instruments Act, 188 – Sections 94, 138 & 142(1)(b) - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Sections 65-B & 114 - Information Technology Act, 2000 – Sections 2(1)(r), 4, 12 & 13 - General Clauses Act, 1977 – Section 27 - Application u/s 482 – for quashing the summoning order as well as the entire criminal proceedings - cheque dishonour case – complaint case – Summoning order – question of law – maintainability of premature complaint case - applicant contended that the complaint was premature, having been filed before the mandatory 15-day period post service of notice had lapsed, and further argued that the absence of a specific service date rendered the complaint defective - court, relying on the Supreme Court's ruling in C.C. Alavi Haji, held that service of notice sent via registered post to the correct address can be presumed under Section 27 of the General Clauses Act and Section 114 of the Evidence Act, and that the complaint need not explicitly mention the date of service - The court also recognized electronic modes of service such as email and WhatsApp as valid under Sections

4, 12, and 13 of the Information Technology Act, 2000, read with Section 65-B of the Evidence Act, provided the records are accessible for future reference – Since, the cheque had bounced on 13.07.2022, notice was sent on 23.07.2022, and the complaint was filed on 31.08.2022, the court found no procedural defect and direction issued to the trial court to insist on post tracking reports and accept electronic notices as valid – consequently, instant application stands dismissed. (Para – 20, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28)

Application Allowed. (E-11)

List of referred Cases: -

1. Ali Jan Vs St. of U.P. & anr. – (Application u/s 482 No.98 of 2020 – decided vide order dt. 31.01.2020),

2. Santosh Kumar Shrivastava Vs St. of U.P. & anr. – (Application u/s 482 No.29097 of 2023 – decoded vide order Dt. 21.08.2023),

3. Yogendra Pratap Singh Vs Savitri Pandey & anr. - 2014 (10) SCC 713,

4. Manoj Kumar Nag Vs St. of Jharkhand & anr. – (Criminal Revision No.827 of 2012 decided vide order Dated 16.07.2021),

5. C. C. Alavi Haji vs Palapetty Muhammed & anr. - 2007 (6) SCC 555,

6. Subodh S. Salaskar vs Jayprakash M. Shah & anr. - (2008) 13 SCC 689,

7. K. Bhaskaran Vs Sankaran Vaidhyan Balan - (1999) 2 SCC 510,

8. Vinod Shivappa vs Nandabelliappa - 2006 (6) SCC 456,

9. M/s Ajeet Seeds vs K. Gopal Krishnaiah - 2014 (12) SCC 685.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Padmakar Rai, learned AGA for the State.

2. The present application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed to quash the summoning order dated 09.11.2022 as well as the entire proceedings of Complaint Case No.3721 of 2022 (Shiv Prakash Tiwari Vs. Rajendra), under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act, 1881'), Police Station- Nagirabad, District- Kanpur Nagar, pending in the court of learned Metropolitan Magistrate, VIII, Kanpur Nagar.

3. The learned counsel for the applicant contends that the impugned complaint is itself defective as the same was filed before the expiration of 15 days from the date of service of notice. It is further contended by learned counsel for the applicant that after bouncing the cheque on 13.07.2022, legal notice was sent to the applicant by the opposite party no.2 on 23.07.2022 and, thereafter, without mentioning any date for service of notice, the complaint was filed on 31.08.2022. It is further contended by learned counsel for the applicant that in the absence of any date of service mentioned in the complaint, the presumption of 30 days under Section 27 of the General Clauses Act, 1977, should come into play, and it should have been filed after 45 days of sending a notice. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon the judgement of the co-ordinate Bench of this Court passed in Application u/s 482 No.98 of 2020 (Ali Jan Vs. State of U.P. and Another) vide order dated 31.01.2020 and another judgement of the co-ordinate Bench of this court in Application u/s 482 No.29097 of 2023 (Santosh Kumar Shrivastava Vs. State of U.P. and Another) vide order dated 21.08.2023. Learned counsel for the applicant has also relied upon the judgement of Yogendra Pratap Singh Vs. Savitri Pandey & Anothers reported in 2014 (10) SCC 713, as well as the judgement of Jharkhand High Court in Criminal Revision No.827 of 2012

(Manoj Kumar Nag Vs. State of Jharkhand & Another) vide order dated 16.07.2021. Lastly, it was contended by learned Counsel for the applicant that in the above judgment, it is clear that if the complaint is filed before the expiry of 15 days from the date of service of notice, then that is no complaint in the eyes of the law.

4. Per contra, learned AGA has contended that it is an established legal position of law that date of service of notice sent by the complainant upon the drawer of the cheque is not required to be mentioned in the complaint and the defence whether notice has been served or not upon the drawer of the cheque can be considered during the trial, and that cannot be a case for quashing the proceeding of a complaint under the Act of 1881.

5. After hearing the parties, the following questions arise for consideration;

i. Whether the impugned complaint is defective under Clause (c) of the proviso to Section 138 of the Negotiable Instrument Act, being filed before the expiry of Fifteen days from the date of service of notice.?

ii. Whether the law requires to mention the date of service of notice upon drawer in the complaint filed against him under Section 138 N.I. Act ?

6. from the perusal of the record, it appears that after the bouncing of the cheque on 13.07.2022 legal notice was sent by opposite party no.2 through registered post on 23.07.2022, though no date of service was mentioned in the complaint, and the same was filed on 31.08.2022.

7. Hon'ble Apex Court in C. C. Alavi Haji vs Palapetty Muhammed and another; 2007 (6) SCC 555 observed that in case of notice through registered post on the correct address of the drawer, the presumption of service upon drawer can be made under Section 27 of General Clause Act by taking into consideration the time for service of notice in the ordinary course of business. The Hon'ble Apex Court further observed that in that case, apart from the Section 27 of General Clause Act presumption under Section 114 of Evidence Act is available to presume the service upon the drawer in the common course of business. Paras 13, 14, 15 and 17 of the judgement C. C. Alavi Haji (supra) are being quoted hereinbelow;

"13. According to Section 114 of the Act, read with Illustration (f) thereunder, when it appears to the courtthat the common course of business renders it probable that a thing would happen, the court may draw a presumption that the thing would have happened, unless there are circumstances in a particular case to show that the common course of business was not followed. Thus, Section 114 enables the court to presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened, regard being had to the common course of natural events, human conduct and public and private business in their relation to the facts of the particular case. Consequently, the court can presume that the common course of business has been followed in particular cases. When applied to communications sent by post, Section 114 enables the court to presume that in the common course of natural events, the communication would have been delivered at the address of the addressee. But the presumption that is raised under Section 27 of the GC Act is a far stronger presumption. Further, while Section 114 of the Evidence Act refers to a general presumption, Section 27 refers to a specific presumption. For the sake of ready reference, Section 27 of the GC Act is extracted below:

"27. Meaning of service by post.? Where any Central Act or Regulation made after the commencement of this Act authorises or requires any document to be served by post, whether the expression 'serve' or either of the expression 'give' or 'send' or any other expression is used, then, unless a different intention appears, the service shall be deemed to be effected by properly addressing, pre-paying and posting by registered post, a letter containing the document, and, unless the contrary is proved, to have been effected at the time at which the letter would be delivered in the ordinary course of post."

14. Section 27 gives rise to a presumption that service of notice has been effected when it is sent to the correct address by registered post. In view of the said presumption, when stating that a notice has been sent by registered post to the address of the drawer, it is unnecessary to further aver in the complaint that in spite of the return of the notice unserved, it is deemed to have been served or that the addressee is deemed to have knowledge of the notice. Unless and until the contrary is proved by the addressee, service of notice is deemed to have been effected at the time at which the letter would have been delivered in the ordinary course of business. This Court has already held that when a notice is sent by registered post and is returned with a postal endorsement "refused" or "not available in the house" or "house locked" or "shop closed" or "addressee not in station", due service has to be presumed. (Vide Jagdish Singh v. Natthu Singh; State of M.P. v. Hiralal and V. Raja Kumari v. P. Subbarama Naidu.) It is, therefore, manifest that in view of the presumption available under Section 27 of the Act, it is not necessary to aver in the complaint under Section 138 of the Act that service of notice was evaded by the accused or that the accused had a role to play in the return of the notice unserved.

15. Insofar as the question of disclosure of necessary particulars with regard to the issue of notice in terms of proviso (b) of Section 138 of the Act, in order to enable the court to draw presumption or inference either under Section 27 of the GC Act or Section 114 of the Evidence Act, is concerned, there is no material difference between the two provisions. In our opinion, therefore, when the notice is sent by registered post by correctly addressing the drawer of the cheque, the mandatory requirement of issue of notice in terms of Clause (b) of proviso to Section 138 of the Act stands complied with. It is needless to emphasise that the complaint must contain basic facts regarding the mode and manner of the issuance of notice to the drawer of the cheque. It is well settled that at the time of taking cognizance of the complaint under Section 138 of the Act, the court is required to be prima facie satisfied that a case under the said section is made out and the aforenoted mandatory statutory procedural requirements have been complied with. It is then for the drawer to rebut the presumption about the service of notice and show that he had no knowledge that the notice was brought to his address or that the address mentioned on the cover was incorrect or that the letter was never tendered or that the report of the postman was incorrect. In our opinion, this interpretation of the provision would effectuate the object and purpose for which proviso to Section 138 was enacted, namely, to avoid unnecessary hardship to an honest drawer of a cheque and to provide him an opportunity to make amends.

17. It is also to be borne in mind that the requirement of giving of notice is a clear departure from the rule of criminal law, where there is no stipulation of giving of a notice before filing a complaint. Any drawer who claims that he did not receive the notice sent by post, can, within 15 days of receipt of summons from the court in respect of the complaint under Section 138 of the Act, make payment of the cheque amount and submit to the court that he had made payment within 15 days of receipt of summons (by receiving a copy of complaint with the summons) and, therefore, the complaint is liable to be rejected. A person who does not pay within 15 days of receipt of the summons from the court along with the copy of the complaint under Section 138 of the Act, cannot obviously contend that there was no proper service of notice as required under Section 138, by ignoring statutory presumption to the contrary under Section 27 of the GC Act and Section 114 of the Evidence Act. In our view, any other interpretation of the proviso would defeat the very object of the legislation. As observed in Bhaskaran case 2 if the "giving of notice" in the context of Clause (b) of the proviso was the same as the "receipt of notice" a trickster cheque drawer would get the premium to avoid receiving the notice by adopting different strategies and escape from legal consequences of Section 138 of the Act."

8. From the observation of the Apex Court mentioned above in C. C. Alavi Haji (supra), it is a clear case that if the complainant sends notice to the drawer through registered post though no date of service is mentioned, even then, the court can presume under Section 114 of the Evidence Act as well as Section 27 of the General Clause Act that the notice has been served in time when a letter sent through the registered post would have been delivered in the ordinary course of business. The question arises: what would be the time the court may presume delivery of the registered letter in the ordinary course of business because no such time is mentioned in Section 114 of the Evidence Act or Section 27 of the General Clause Act. For reference, Section 114 of the Evidence Act, as well as Section 27 of the General Clause Act are being quoted hereinbelow respectively ;

"Section 114- The Court may presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened, regard being had to the common course of natural events, human conduct and public and private business, in their relation to the facts of the particular case."

Section 27- Meaning of service by post.- Where any Central Act or Regulation made after the commencement of this Act authorises or requires any document to be served by post, whether the expression 'serve' or either of the expression 'give' or 'send' or any other expression is used, then, unless a the different intention appears, the service shall be deemed to be effected by properly addressing, prepaying and posting by registered post, a letter containing the document, and unless the contrary is proved, to have been effected at the time at which the letter would be delivered in the ordinary course of post."

9. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Subodh S. Salaskar vs Jayprakash M. Shah and another (2008) 13 SCC 689 after considering Section 27 of General Clause Act and Order 5 Rule 9(5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, observed that ordinarily 30 days must be held to be sufficient for service of notice if same is sent through registered post and with further observation that if service of notice is effected through speed post, ordinarily the service takes place within a few days. Para 23 of the judgement of Subodh S. Salaskar's (supra) case is being quoted hereinbelow;

"23. Thirty days ordinarily must be held to be sufficient for service of notice. In fact, when the service of notice is sought to be effected by speed post, ordinarily the service takes place within a few days. Even under Order 5 Rule 9 (5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, summons is presumed to be served if it does not come back within thirty days. In a situation of this nature, there was no occasion for the Court to hold that service of notice could not be effected within thirty days."

10. The above judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court was delivered in the year 2008 considering the efficiency of service of the post office at that time. Even Hon'ble Apex Court has not presumed that 30 days will always be counted for service of notice if the same is sent through registered post and is not returned. Now, almost 15 years have passed, much water has flown under the bridge and delivery of letters through the postal department has become so fast that presuming 30 days for service delivery for the registered post does not appear correct. Even the Order 5 Rule 9(5) of C.P.C. provides presumption for delivery of service of summons through registered post, if not received back within 30 days from the date of issuance of summons cannot be equated with the present service of notice under N.I. Act because giving of notice cannot be equated with the service of notice under N.I. Act, and if such pleas are allowed, then dishonest drawer of the cheque may get an unnecessary advantage, especially when drawer of the cheque did not denied the receiving of statutory notice.

11. In the K. Bhaskaran Vs. Sankaran Vaidhyan Balan; (1999) 2 SCC 510, Hon'ble Apex Court Observed, "it must be born in mind that the court should not adopt an interpretation, which helps a dishonest evader and clips an honest payee, as that would defeat the very legislative measure."

12. Proviso (b) of Section 138 N. I. Act provides giving a notice in writing, but no mode of sending notice is provided in Section 138 N.I. Act but Section 94 of N.I. Act provides that notice of dishonour may be given oral or written and may, if written, be sent by post. But this section does not mandatorily provide that written notice should be sent only by post.

13. Section 4 of the Information Technology Act, 2000 (hereinafter referred to as 'I.T. Act') provides where any law provides the information shall be in writing or in typewritten or printed form then, notwithstanding anything contained in such law, such requirement shall be deemed to have been satisfied if such information is given in electronic form and accessible so as to be usable for subsequent reference. Section 4 of I. T. Act is being reproduced hereinbelow;

"4. Legal recognition of electronic records.- Where any law provides that information or any other matter shall be in writing or in the typewritten or printed form, then, notwithstanding anything contained in such law, such requirement shall be deemed to have been satisfied if such information or matter is-

(a) rendered or made available in an electronic form and

(b) accessible so as to be usable for a subsequent reference."

14. Therefore, Section 4 of the I.T. Act very clearly provides that notwithstanding anything contained in such law which provides notice in written form then written will also include the notice rendered or made available in electronic form, which should be available for subsequent reference. The word 'electronic form' is defined in Section 2(1)(r) of I.T. Act, which provides any information generated, sent, received or stored in media, magnetic, optical, computer memory, micro film, computer generated micro fiche or similar device. Therefore, it is clear from the provision the notice mentioned in Section 138 N.I. Act will also include email or WhatsApp if the same remains available for subsequent reference.

15. Section 65(B) of the Indian Evidence Act, 1972 also accepts the admissibility of electronic records. Section 12 of the I.T. Act also provides the procedure for acknowledgement of receipt of notice in electronic form. Similarly, Section 13 of the I.T. Act also provides the time and place of dispatch of electronic records.

16. As per Section 13 of the I.T. Act, as soon as the notice in electronic form is entered, a computer resource outside the control of the originator, it is deemed to be dispatched and as soon as the notice in electronic form is entered, the designated computer resource or enters the computer resources of the addressee, and then it is deemed to be served. Sections 12 and 13 of I.T. Act are being quoted as below;

"12. Acknowledgement of receipt. - (1) Where the originator has not [stipulated] that the acknowledgement of receipt of electronic record be given in a particular form or by a particular method, an acknowledgement may be given by-

(a) any communication by the addressee, automated or otherwise; or

(b) any conduct of the addressee, sufficient to indicate to the originator that the electronic record has been received.

(2) Where the originator has stipulated that the electronic record shall be binding only on receipt of an acknowledgement of such electronic record by him, then, unless acknowledgement has been so received, the electronic record shall be deemed to have been never sent by the originator.

(3) Where the originator has not stipulated that the electronic record shall be binding only on receipt of such acknowledgement, and the acknowledgement has not been received by the originator within the time specified or agreed or, if no time has been specified or agreed to within a reasonable time, then, the originator may give notice to the addressee stating that no acknowledgement has been received by him and specifying a reasonable time by which the acknowledgement must be received by him and if no acknowledgement is received within the aforesaid time limit he may after giving notice to the addressee, treat the electronic record as though it has never been sent.

13. Time and place of dispatch and receipt of electronic record.- (1) Save as otherwise agreed to between the originator and the addressee, the dispatch of an electronic record occurs when it enters a computer resource outside the control of the originator.

(2) Save as otherwise agreed between the originator and the addressee, the time of receipt of an electronic record shall be determined as follows, namely :?

(a) if the addressee has designated a computer resource for the purpose of receiving electronic records,?

(i) receipt occurs at the time when the electronic, record enters the designated computer resource; or

(ii) if the electronic record is sent to a computer resource of the addressee that is not the designated computer resource, receipt occurs at the time when the electronic record is retrieved by the addressee;

(b) if the addressee has not designated a computer resource along with specified timings, if any, receipt occurs when the electronic record enters the computer resource of the addressee.

(3) Save as otherwise agreed to between the originator and the addressee, an electronic record is deemed to be dispatched at the place where the originator has his place of business, and is deemed to be received at the place where the addressee has his place of business.

(4) The provisions of sub-section (2) shall apply notwithstanding that the place where the computer resource is located may be different from the place where the electronic record is deemed to have been received under sub-section (3).

(5) For the purposes of this section, ? (a) if the originator or the addressee has more than one place of business, the principal place of business, shall be the place of business;

(b) if the originator or the addressee does not have a place of business, his usual place of residence shall be deemed to be the place of business;

(c) "usual place of residence", in relation to a body corporate, means the place where it is registered."

17. From the above analysis, it is clear that notice sent through 'email or WhatsApp' shall be deemed to be dispatched and served on the same date, if it fulfill the above requirement of Section 13 of I.T. Act, 2000.

18. In the present time of digitalization and computerisation, delivery of post has become so fast that the court can presume that a correctly addressed registered post has been served upon the addressee within a maximum period of 10 days if the date of service is not mentioned in the complaint. After the initiation of the online post tracking system, it is too easy to know the date of delivery of the registered post. In the ordinary course of business, the registered letter is delivered within 3 to 10 days if correctly addressed. Therefore, this Court holds that if no date of service has been mentioned in the complaint, then the court can presume under Section 114 of the Evidence Act and Section 27 of the General Clause Act that notice would have been served within ten days from the date of its dispatch. Though it is always open to the drawer of the cheque to take the plea during trial, the notice was never served upon him.

19. In the cases relied upon by the applicant in Ali Jan (supra), Santosh Kumar Shrivastava (supra) and Yogendra Pratap Singh (supra), High Court as well as the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that complaint beyond the expiry of 15 days from the date of service is no complaint in the eyes of the law that legal position is not disputed. However in none of the judgement, the court observed that 30 days is required to be presumed for service of notice from the date of dispatch through registered post if date of service is not mentioned in the complaint.

20. In the present case, as per the complaint, notice was dispatched by the complainant to opposite party no.2 on 23.07.2022; therefore, after presuming ten days of service of notice upon the applicant, 15 days will be counted from 2nd August 2022 within which applicant was required to pay the cheque amount as demanded by the notice. After that, a complaint can be filed after 17.08.2022. In the present case, the complaint was filed on 31.08.2022. Therefore, the complaint was not defective under Clause (c) of the proviso of Section 138 as well as Section 142(1)(b) of N.I. Act.

21. So far as the second question is concerned, whether the date of service of notice upon drawer is required to be mentioned in the complaint itself.

22. The Apex Court in C.C. Alavi Haji (supra) case observed that while interpreting the Section 138 N.I. Act regarding service of notice it must be borne in mind the court should not adopt an interpretation that helps the dishonest drawer of the cheque to evade and trap the honest payee, and it should be incorporated liberally in favour of the honest payee. The court further observed that as soon as the payee dispatched the registered post with the correct address of drawer, the presumption of service as under Section 27 of the General Clause Act would be attracted. Para 10 of the C.C. Alavi Haji (supra) case is being quoted hereinbelow;

"10. It is, thus, trite to say that where the payee dispatches the notice by registered post with the correct address of the drawer of the cheque, the principle incorporated in Section 27 of the GC Act would be attracted; the requirement of Clause (b) of the proviso to Section 138 of the Act stands complied with and cause of action to file a complaint arises on the expiry of the period prescribed in Clause (c) of the said proviso for payment by the drawer of the cheque. Nevertheless, it would be without prejudice to the right of the drawer to show that he had no knowledge that the notice was brought to his address."

23. In the case of Vinod Shivappa vs Nandabelliappa; 2006 (6) SCC 456, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that while interpreting the statute, the court must adopt construction, which suppress the mischief and advance the remedy as per the rule laid down in Heydon's case which is known as purposive construction or mischief rule. Para 12 of the Vinod Shivapapa (supra) case is quoted hereinbelow;

"12. It is well settled that in interpreting a statute the court must adopt that construction which suppresses the mischief and advances the remedy. This is a rule laid down in Heydon's case also known as the rule of purposive construction or mischief rule."

24. In the judgement of M/s Ajeet Seeds vs K. Gopal Krishnaiah; 2014 (12) SCC 685, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that it is necessary to aver in the complaint that in spite of the return of the notice unserved, it is deemed to have been served or that addressee have knowledge of the notice because the same is a matter of evidence, and there is presumption of service of the registered post under Section 27 of the Evidence Act.

25. Therefore, this Court holds that there is no legal requirement to mention the date of service of notice upon the drawer of the cheque in the complaint itself, if the notice was sent through registered post, then presumption under Section 27 of the General Clause The act will automatically come into the picture.

26. In view of above analysis and the legal position discussed above, this Court is of the view that in the present case, the complaint was filed after the expiry of 15 days of service of notice upon the applicant. Therefore, there is no defect in the complaint. Hence, there is no illegality in the summoning order.

27. This Court also feels it appropriate to issue following directions to all learned Magistrates/Courts:-

(i) Where complaint under N.I. Act is filed, then the concerned Magistrate/ Court will emphasis for filing the post tracking report along with the complaint, if sent through Registered Post, so as to leave no scope for the dishonest drawer of cheque from taking the plea of non-service of statutory notice of 15 days.

(ii). Notice sent through 'email or WhatsApp' , if it fulfils the requirement of Section 13 of I.T. Act will also be a valid notice under Section 138 N.I. Act to the drawer of cheque, and same will be deemed to be served on the date of dispatch, itself.

28. Accordingly, the present application is dismissed. However, the applicant is free to raise the issue of service during the trial of the complaint in question.

29. Registrar (Compliance) is directed to circulate a copy of this order to all learned District Judges of the state of Uttar Pradesh, for further appraisal to concerned Magistrate/Court.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1288
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 19.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SHEKHAR B. SARAF, J.

Appeal U/s 37 of Arbitration & Conciliation Act 1996 NO. 874 of 2023

Sushil Kumar Mishra ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Vinod Sinha, Sri Mahesh Sharma, Sri Sharad Sinha

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
S.C.

Civil Law - Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 - Section 34 - Instant appeal preferred by claimant/award holder against order of District Judge whereby appeal was partly allowed and rate of interest awarded by Arbitrator was reduced from 14% to 6% p.a - Held, it is well settled by catena of Supreme Court decisions that court has no power u/s 34 of Act, 1996 to modify award - Under Section 34(2), court may only set aside award, wholly or in part, if severable, without affecting remaining award - In Larsen Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Co. (infra), Supreme Court held that modification of rate of interest u/s 34 is impermissible - Thus, rate of interest that was awarded to be paid on principle sum was 14% p.a from 25.3.2000 till payment was made - In impugned order , rate of interest reduced to 6% without providing any cogent reasons for same - Reduction of interest is nothing but modification of original arbitration award, accordingly same is illegal and against principles established by Supreme Court. (Para 1, 7, 8)

Appeal allowed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Project Director Vs M. Hakeem reported in 2021 (9) SCC 1, (Para 46)

2. S.V. Samudram Vs St. of Karn. & anr., Civil Appeal No. 8067 of 2019, dated January 4, 2024, (Paras 14 to 16, 42)

3. Larsen Air Conditioning and Refrigration Company Vs U.O.I. & ors. reported in 2023 SCC Online SC 982, (Paras 13 to 16)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

1. This is an appeal filed by the claimant/award holder against the order passed by the District Judge, Kaushambi dated January 15, 2008, wherein the appeal was partly allowed and the rate of interest awarded by the Arbitrator was reduced from 14% to 6% per annum.

2. Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant submits that the Court does not have the power to modify an award and to buttress his arguments reliance has been placed on the judgements of the Supreme Court in the case of Project Director Vs. M. Hakeem reported in 2021 (9) SCC 1 and in S.V. Samudram Vs. State of Karnataka & Anr. in Civil Appeal No. 8067 of 2019 dated January 4, 2024. Specific reference is placed on paragraph no.46 of the judgement in Project Manager (Supra), which is quoted below:-

"46. Quite obviously if one were to include the power to modify an award in Section 34, one would be crossing the Lakshman Rekha and doing what, according to the justice of a case, ought to be done. In interpreting a statutory provision, a Judge must put himself in the shoes of Parliament and then ask whether Parliament intended this result. Parliament very clearly intended that no power of modification of an award exists in Section 34 of the Arbitration Act, 1996. It is only for Parliament to amend the aforesaid provision in the light of the experience of the courts in the working of the Arbitration Act, 1996, and bring it in line with other legislations the world over."

3. He further referred to paragraph nos.14, 15 and 16 and 42 of the judgement in S.V. Samudram (Supra), which are quoted below :-

"14. The position as to whether an arbitral award can be modified in the proceedings initiated under Sections 34/37 of the A&C Act is no longer res integra. While noting the provisions, more specifically, Section 34(4) of the A&C Act; the decisions rendered by this Court, including the principles of international law enunciated in several decisions recorded in the treatise "Redfern and Hunter on International Arbitration, 6th Edition", this Court in National Highways Authority of India v. M. Hakeen and Another, categorically held that any court under Section 34 would have no jurisdiction to modify the arbitral award, which at best, given the same to be in conflict with the grounds specified under Section 34 would be wholly unsustainable in law. The Court categorically observed that any attempt to "modify an award" under Section 34 would amount to "crossing the Lakshman Rekha".

15. On the exact same issue we may also note another opinion rendered by this Court in Dakshin Haryana Bijli Vitran Nigam Limited v. Navigant Technologies Private Limited in the following terms:-

"44. In law, where the court sets aside the award passed by the majority members of the Tribunal, the underlying disputes would require to be decided afresh in an appropriate proceeding. Under Section 34 of the Arbitration Act, the court may either dismiss the objections filed, and uphold the award, or set aside the award if the grounds contained in sub- sections (2) and (2-A) are made out. There is no power to modify an arbitral award. In McDermott International Inc. v. Burn Standard Co. Ltd. [McDermott International Inc. v. Burn Standard Co. Ltd., (2006) 11 SCC 181] , this Court held as under : (SCC p. 208, para 52).

"52. The 1996 Act makes provision for the supervisory role of courts, for the review of the arbitral award only to ensure fairness. Intervention of the court is envisaged in few circumstances only, like, in case of fraud or bias by the arbitrators, violation of natural justice, etc. The court cannot correct errors of the arbitrators. It can only quash the award leaving the parties free to begin the arbitration again if it is desired. So, the scheme of the provision aims at keeping the supervisory role of the court at minimum level and this can be justified as parties to the agreement make a conscious decision to exclude the court's jurisdiction by opting for arbitration as they prefer the expediency and finality offered by it."

(Emphasis Supplied)

16. The principle stands reiterated as late as 2023 in Larsen Air Conditioning and Refrigration Company v. Union of India & Others.

42. In our considered opinion, the court while confirming the modification of the award committed the very same mistake which the Court under Section 34 of the A&C Act, made.

The Court under Section 37 had only three options:-

(a) Confirming the award of the Arbitrator;

(b) Setting aside the award as modified under Section 34; and

(c) Rejecting the application (s) under Section 34 and 37."

4. One may also examine the Apex Court judgement in Larsen Air Conditioning and Refrigration Company Vs. Union of India and others reported in 2023 SCC Online SC 982, where the court was examining as to whether the High Court erred in modifying the arbitral award to the extent of reducing the interest, from compound interest of 18% to 9% simple interest per annum. The Supreme Court delineated on the issue of modification as follows :-

"13. In the present case, given that the arbitration commenced in 1997, i.e., after the Act of 1996 came into force on 22.08.1996, the arbitrator, and the award passed by them, would be subject to this statute. Under the enactment, i.e. Section 31(7), the statutory rate of interest itself is contemplated at 18% per annum. Of course, this is in the event the award does not contain any direction towards the rate of interest.

Therefore, there is little to no reason, for the High Court to have interfered with the arbitrator's finding on interest accrued and payable. Unlike in the case of the old Act, the court is powerless to modify the award and can only set aside partially, or wholly, an award on a finding that the conditions spelt out under Section 34 of the 1996 Act have been established.

The scope of interference by the court, is well defined and delineated [refer to Associate Builders v. Delhi Development Authority, Ssangyong Engineering Construction Co. Ltd v. National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) and Delhi Airport Metro Express Pvt. Ltd. v Delhi Metro Rail Corporation Ltd].

14. The reliance on Kalsi Construction Company (supra) by the respondent-state, is inapt, given that this court had exercised its Article 142 jurisdiction in light of three pertinent factors - the award had been passed 20 years prior, related to construction of a Paediatrics Centre in a medical institute, and that the parties in that case had left the matter to the discretion of the court.

Similarly, in Oriental Structural Engineers (supra) this court held that since the contract stipulated interest entitlement on delayed payments, but contained no mention of the rate of interest applicable - the Tribunal ought to have applied the principles laid down in G.C. Roy (supra), and therefore, in exercise of Article 142, this court reduced the rate of interest awarded by the tribunal on the sum left unpaid.

The judgment in Municipal Corporation of Greater Mumbai (supra) no doubt discusses the inherent powers of the High Court as a superior court of record, but relates specifically to the jurisdiction to recall its own orders, and offers little assistance in the present dispute.

15. The limited and extremely circumscribed jurisdiction of the court under Section 34 of the Act, permits the court to interfere with an award, sans the grounds of patent illegality, i.e., that "illegality must go to the root of the matter and cannot be of a trivial nature"; and that the tribunal "must decide in accordance with the terms of the contract, but if an arbitrator construes a term of the contract in a reasonable manner, it will not mean that the award can be set aside on this ground" [ref: Associate Builders (supra)].

The other ground would be denial of natural justice. In appeal, Section 37 of the Act grants narrower scope to the appellate court to review the findings in an award, if it has been upheld, or substantially upheld under Section 34. It is important to notice that the old Act contained a provision which enabled the court to modify an award. However, that power has been consciously omitted by Parliament, while enacting the Act of 1996.

This means that the Parliamentary intent was to exclude power to modify an award, in any manner, to the court. This position has been iterated decisively by this court in Project Director, National Highways No. 45E and 220 National Highways Authority of India v M. Hakeem:

"42. It can therefore be said that this question has now been settled finally by at least 3 decisions [McDermott International Inc. v. Burn Standard Co. Ltd., (2006) 11 SCC 181] , [Kinnari Mullick v. Ghanshyam Das Damani, (2018) 11 SCC 328 : (2018) 5 SCC (Civ) 106] , [Dakshin Haryana Bijli Vitran Nigam Ltd. v. Navigant Technologies (P) Ltd., (2021) 7 SCC 657] of this Court.

Even otherwise, to state that the judicial trend appears to favour an interpretation that would read into Section 34 a power to modify, revise or vary the award would be to ignore the previous law contained in the 1940 Act; as also to ignore the fact that the 1996 Act was enacted based on the Uncitral Model Law on International Commercial Arbitration, 1985 which, as has been pointed out in Redfern and Hunter on International Arbitration, makes it clear that, given the limited judicial interference on extremely limited grounds not dealing with the merits of an award, the "limited remedy" under Section 34 is coterminous with the "limited right", namely, either to set aside an award or remand the matter under the circumstances mentioned in Section 34 of the Arbitration Act, 1996."

16. In view of the foregoing discussion, the impugned judgment warrants interference and is hereby set aside to the extent of modification of rate of interest for past, pendente lite and future interest.

The 18% per annum rate of interest, as awarded by the arbitrator on 21.01.1999 (in Claim No. 9) is reinstated. The respondent-state is hereby directed to accordingly pay the dues within 8 weeks from the date of this judgment."

5. Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents has submitted that the modification is only in terms of the interest and reasons have been provided in the impugned order for reducing the same.

6. I have perused the documents and the judgements cited by counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner.

7. It is trite law, settled by a catena of Supreme Court judgements that the Court does not have the power under Section 34 of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") to modify an award. The Court under Section 34(2) of the Act has the power to sever parts of the award and set aside the same in toto, if the severance does not impact the remaining award that is upheld under Section 34 of the Act. The principle expounded by the Supreme Court in Larsen Air Conditioning and Refrigration Company (supra) is specifically on the point of the modification of the rate of interest and Supreme Court has categorically held that no such modification is permissible under Section 34 of the Act.

8. In the present case, I find that the rate of interest that was awarded to be paid on the principle sum was 14% per annum from 25.3.2000 till the payment was made. In the impugned order this rate of interest has been reduced to 6% without providing any cogent reasons for the same. Reduction of interest is nothing but a modification of the original arbitration award, and accordingly, the same is illegal and against the principles established by the Supreme Court.

9. In the light of the above findings, the impugned judgement and order is quashed and set aside. The appeal is, accordingly, allowed.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1292
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 25.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SAMEER JAIN, J.

Crl. Misc. Anticipatory Bail Application U/S 438 Cr.P.C. No. 280 of 2024

Rajesh Kumar ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Sujeet Kumar, Ms. Chhaya Gupta

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A.

Anticipatory Bail-Applicant was District Social Welfare Officer-allegation-he with the help of his four private computer operators misappropriated the public money- FIR was lodged after due enquiry conducted by three members committee- and after enquiry- committee found the Applicant misappropriated the public money -the Court should consider the nature of allegation- severity of punishment, status/ position of the accused and magnitude of offence alleged to have been committed-Application dismissed. (E-9)

Cases cited:

1. Siddharth Vs St. of U.P.& anr.(2022) 1 SCC 676

2. Siddharam Satlingappa Mhetre Vs St. of Mah. & ors. (2011) 1 SCC 694

3. Pratibha Manchanda & anr.Vs St. of Har. & anr.(2023) 8 SCC 181

4. Shri Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia & ors. Vs St. of Pun. (1980) 2 SCC 565

5. Sushila Aggarwal Vs St. (NCT of Delhi)-2020 SCC online SC 98

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sameer Jain, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Chhaya Gupta, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Ravi Kant Kushwaha, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The present anticipatory bail application has been filed on behalf of the applicant in F.I.R./Case Crime No. 0646 of 2023, under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC, Police Station Sadar Bazar, District Shahjahanpur, with a prayer to enlarge him on anticipatory bail.

Brief facts

3. FIR of the present case was lodged against applicant and eight others on 19.09.2023 and according to the FIR, applicant was District Social Welfare Officer, Shahjahanpur and he with the help of his four private computer operators misappropriated the public money of Rs.2 crores 52 lacs 39 thousand with the help of touts and mediators by changing bank accounts of old age pensioners.

Submissions advanced on behalf of applicant

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that entire allegation made against the applicant is totally false and baseless and applicant never misappropriated any money. She further submitted that applicant was transferred to Shahjahanpur in the month of December, 2021 and on the direction of Director Social Welfare Officers, Lucknow, U.P., the work was given to all the Social Welfare Officers to link the old age pensioners' registration with Aadhar for authentication and when applicant being District Social Welfare Officer started to link old age pensioners' registration with Aadhar then he found certain irregularities and on 21.02.2023, he himself informed in writing about irregularities to the Branch Manager, Baroda U.P. Bank, Karkor, Jayantipur, Shahjahanpur and requested to stop the withdrawal of the amount from these accounts of old age pensioners and thereafter on the basis of a news item published in a news paper with regard to irregularities in the account of old age pensioners, District Magistrate constituted a five members committee to enquire the matter and after enquiry committee found that out of 21 old age pensioners' account only accounts of 9 old age pensioners were changed and on the basis of the report of five members committee, applicant was suspended from his service on 06.04.2023.

5. She further submitted that a subsequent enquiry was also conducted by three members committee on the letter issued by one of the Member of Legislative Assembly and during enquiry, the three members committee found that there was a misappropriation of Rs. 2 crores 52 lacs 39 thousands and on the basis of report of three members committee dated 24.05.2023, the FIR of the present case was lodged against the applicant and others.

6. She further submitted that as earlier five members committee found irregularities with regard to only nine accounts of old age pensioners, therefore, the subsequent committee report dated 24.05.2023 does not appear to be correct one. She further submitted that applicant never misused his position and he was the person, who pointed out the irregularities in accounts and also requested to stop the payments from these accounts. She further submits, however, due to pressure of work applicant had to appoint two private computer operators but merely on this basis, it cannot be said that he siphoned off the public money of more than Rs. 2.5 crores with their help.

7. She further submitted that applicant was appointed in the year 1998 and till date, his service record was clean and no complaint was ever lodged against him. She further submitted that applicant is a responsible public servant and he is ready to cooperate with the investigation and if investigation is conducted properly then applicant is hopeful that no charge sheet can be filed against him as he did not commit any offence.

8. She further submitted that investigation of the case is still pending and police is trying to arrest the applicant. She further submitted that there is no need of the arrest of the applicant. She further submitted that if there is no need of the arrest of an accused then in spite of the fact that Investigating Officer is having power to arrest an accused, the accused should not be arrested.

9. She further submitted that personal liberty of a person is a fundamental right provided under Article 21 of Constitution of India. She placed reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in case of Siddharth Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another (2022) 1 SCC 676

10. She further submitted that as per the government orders dated 19.07.2005 and 24.05.2012, it is mandatory to take permission of appointing authority of the public servant before lodging any FIR against him and in the present matter, in spite of the fact that applicant is public servant no such permission from his appointing authority was taken before lodging FIR of the present case, therefore, even FIR of the present case lodged against the applicant is bad.

Submissions advanced on behalf of State

11. Per contra, learned AGA vehemently opposed the prayer for anticipatory bail and submitted that applicant was District Social Welfare Officer posted at District Shahjahanpur and he misused his position and misappropriated more than Rs. 2.5 crores and FIR of the present case was lodged after due enquiry conducted by three members committee duly constituted under the law.

12. He further submitted that from the enquiry report, which has been annexed alongwith the instant anticipatory bail application, it reflects that after enquiry, applicant was found responsible for huge misappropriation of more than Rs. 2.5 crores.

13. He further submitted that applicant committed offence under Sections 420, 467, 468 IPC and maximum punishment for the offence under Section 467 IPC is life imprisonment.

14. He further submitted that considering the fact that huge amount of Rs.2.5 crores alleged to have been misappropriated by the applicant alongwith other accused persons, applicant should not be released on anticipatory bail.

15. He further submitted that applicant has already challenged the FIR of the present case before Division Bench of this Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 16293 of 2023 and Writ filed by him has already been dismissed, therefore, it cannot be said that FIR of the present case lodged against the applicant is bad.

Analysis

16. I have heard both the parties and perused the record of the case.

17. From the record, it reflects that FIR of the present case was lodged after due enquiry conducted by three members committee and after enquiry, committee found that applicant with the help of other accused persons misappropriated the public money of more than Rs. 2.5 crores by manipulating the bank account of old age pensioners.

18. Applicant is District Social Welfare Officer and allegation against him is quite serious. No doubt, personal liberty of a person is the most cherished fundamental right provided under Article 21 of Constitution of India but law is settled that while deciding the anticipatory bail application, the Court should also consider the nature of allegation, severity of punishment, status/ position of the accused and magnitude of offence alleged to have been committed by the accused.

19. The Apex Court in the case of Siddharam Satlingappa Mhetre Vs. State of Maharashtra and others (2011) 1 SCC 694 in paragraph no. 112 observed as-:

"122. The following factors and parameters can be taken into consideration while dealing with the anticipatory bail:

i. The nature and gravity of the accusation and the exact role of the accused must be properly comprehended before arrest is made;

ii. The antecedents of the applicant including the fact as to whether the accused has previously undergone imprisonment on conviction by a Court in respect of any cognizable offence;

iii. The possibility of the applicant to flee from justice;

iv. The possibility of the accused's likelihood to repeat similar or the other offences;

v. Where the accusations have been made only with the object of injuring or humiliating the applicant by arresting him or her.

vi. Impact of grant of anticipatory bail particularly in cases of large magnitude affecting a very large number of people.

vii. The courts must evaluate the entire available material against the accused very carefully. The court must also clearly comprehend the exact role of the accused in the case. The cases in which accused is implicated with the help of Sections 34 and 149 of the Indian Penal Code,1860 the court should consider with even greater care and caution because over implication in the cases is a matter of common knowledge and concern;

viii. While considering the prayer for grant of anticipatory bail, a balance has to be struck between two factors namely, no prejudice should be caused to the free, fair and full investigation and there should be prevention of harassment, humiliation and unjustified detention of the accused;

ix. The court to consider reasonable apprehension of tampering of the witness or apprehension of threat to the complainant;

x. Frivolity in prosecution should always be considered and it is only the element of genuineness that shall have to be considered in the matter of grant of bail and in the event of there being some doubt as to the genuineness of the prosecution, in the normal course of events, the accused is entitled to an order of bail."

20. The Apex Court in case of Pratibha Manchanda and another Vs. State of Haryana and another (2023) 8 SCC 181, in paragraph no. 21 also observed as-:

"21. The relief of Anticipatory Bail is aimed at safeguarding individual rights. While it serves as a crucial tool to prevent the misuse of the power of arrest and protects innocent individuals from harassment, it also presents challenges in maintaining a delicate balance between individual rights and the interests of justice. The tight rope we must walk lies in striking a balance between safeguarding individual rights and protecting public interest. While the right to liberty and presumption of innocence are vital, the court must also consider the gravity of the offence, the impact on society, and the need for a fair and free investigation. The court's discretion in weighing these interests in the facts and circumstances of each individual case becomes crucial to ensure a just outcome."

21. It goes without saying that allegations levelled against applicant are grave in nature.

22. Further, however, learned counsel for the applicant also contended that FIR of the present case lodged against the applicant is bad but as applicant has already challenged the FIR of the present case before this Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 16293 of 2023 and after haring the parties, the Division Bench of this Court has already dismissed his writ petition on 02.11.2023, therefore, it can not said that FIR of the present case filed against the applicant is bad.

23. Further, as per Section 438 Cr.P.C. (as per U.P. Amendment Act), "reason to believe that accused may be arrested on accusation" is the condition precedent for releasing him on anticipatory bail. In paragraph no. 6 to the affidavit applicant expressed his apprehension of arrest as-:

"That the applicant is having apprehension of his arrest in Case Crime No. 646 of 2023, under Section 420, 467, 468, 471 of I.P.C, Police Station- Sadar Bazar, District- Shahjahanpur, which does not fail under the offences provided under sub Section 438 Cr.P.C."

24. Merely on the basis of such averment, which was made by the applicant in paragraph no. 6 to the affidavit filed in support of the instant anticipatory bail application, it cannot be said that he was having reason to believe his arrest. The apprehension of arrest of accused should be based on concrete facts and it should not be imaginary. Mere fear of arrest is not the belief of arrest.

25. The Five Judges Constitution Bench in case of Shri Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia and others Vs. State of Punjab (1980) 2 SCC 565 categorically observed in paragraph no. 35 as-:

"35. Section 438(1) of the Code lays down a condition which has to be satisfied before anticipatory bail can be granted. The applicant must show that he has "reason to believe" that he may be arrested for a non-bailable offence. The use of the expression "reason to believe" shows that the belief that the applicant may be so arrested must be founded on reasonable grounds. Mere 'fear' is not 'belief', for which reason it is not enough for the applicant to show that he has some sort of a vague apprehension that some one is going to make an accusation against him, in pursuance of which he may be arrested. The grounds on which the belief of the applicant is based that he may be arrested for a non- bailable offence, must be capable of being examined by the court objectively, because it is then alone that the court can determine whether the applicant has reason to believe that he may be so arrested. Section 438(1), therefore, cannot be invoked on the basis of vague and general allegations, as if to arm oneself in perpetuity against a possible arrest. Otherwise, the number of applications for anticipatory bail will be as large as, at any rate, the adult populace. Anticipatory bail is a device to secure the individual's liberty; it is neither a passport to the commission of crimes nor a shield against any and all kinds of accusations, likely or unlikely."

26. Recently again Five Judges Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in case of Sushila Aggarwal Vs. State (NCT of Delhi)-2020 SCC online SC 98 reaffirmed the law laid down by the Constitution Bench in case of Shri Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia (supra) that belief of arrest of accused should be based on concrete facts and it cannot be accepted on the basis of vague averment.

27. In case at hand, FIR of the present case was lodged in the month of September, 2023 and since then four months have been passed and till date applicant was not arrested, therefore, in light of the vague averment made in paragraph no. 6 of the affidavit filed in support of the instant anticipatory bail application with regard to apprehension of arrest, this Court is of the view that applicant failed to bring on record any concrete fact and reason on the basis of which this Court can infer that he is having apprehension of his arrest in the instant matter.

28. Further, law is also settled that power to grant anticipatory bail is an extraordinary power, however, it is not necessary to exercise it sparingly only in exceptional cases but it should be exercised with care and circumspection. [see-: Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in case of Shri Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia (supra)]. In view of this Court this extraordinary power should not be exercised in routine manner, otherwise provisions of pre arrest bail would become vulnerable.

29. Therefore, considering the facts and circumstances of the case discussed above, in my view, the instant anticipatory bail application filed by the applicant is devoid of merit and he is not entitled to be released on anticipatory bail.

30. Accordingly, without expressing any opinion upon ultimate merits of the case either ways which may adversely affect the trial of the case, the anticipatory bail application filed by the applicant is hereby dismissed.

31. It is made clear that observations made in granting anticipatory bail to the applicant shall not in any way affect the learned trial Judge in forming his independent opinion based on the testimony of the witnesses.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1297
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 01.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE KARUNESH SINGH PAWAR, J.

Crl. Misc. Bail Application No. 869 of 2024

Sanjay Yadav Pradhan ...Applicant
Versus
The State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Applicant:
Arun Sinha, Ram Chandra Singh, Umang Agarwal

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A., Mahesh Kumar, Sanjeev Kumar Dwivedi

Bail-Merely because applicant has a criminal history -will not dis-entitle him to be enlarged on bail.- case of the applicant is on better footing than the named co-accused Persons. Bail Application allowed. (E-9)

Cases cited:

1. Maulana Mohd. Amir Rashadi Vs St. of U.P. & Anr. [Criminal Appeal No.159 of 2012]

2. Prabhakar Tewari Vs St. of U.P.[AIRONLINE 2020 SC 96]

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Arun Sinha, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Mahesh Kumar and Sri Sanjeev Kumar Dwivedi, learned counsel for the complainant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. The present bail application has been filed by accused-applicant seeking bail in Case Crime No.30 of 2023, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 307, 34, 120-B, 201, 427 I.P.C., Section 3/25 Arms Act and Section 5/27 Arms Act, P.S. Musafirkhana, District Amethi.

3. It is alleged in the first information report that on 27.2.2023 in the evening at around 7.00 p.m., uncle of the informant Suresh Yadav and brother Brijesh Yadav were coming home from Bolero car. On the way at Dadra Road, before Amar Bahadur Singh Degree college, two without numbered motorcycle stopped the Bolero car and started making indiscriminate firing and also hurled crude bombs, due to which, uncle and brother of the informant died. It is further alleged that the accused persons are inimical due to 2015 punchayat election. In 2016 also, the uncle Suresh Yadav had received gun shot injuries, in which Jalaluddin and others were named.

4. Learned counsel for applicant submits that informant is not an eye witness. Incident has been narrated by Shubham Verma. The named accused persons Vaseer Khan and Jalaluddin have been enlarged on bail by this Court vide orders dated 05.01.2024 & 18.01.2024 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application Nos.13143 of 2023 & 15248 of 2023. He submits that apart from the above named two co-accused persons, co-accused Manoj Yadav and Manish Yadav alias Kallu who were not named in the F.I.R. have also been enlarged on bail by this Court as well as Co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide orders dated 08.01.2024 & 06.12.2023 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application Nos.10378 of 2023 & 12350 of 2023.

It is contended on behalf of the applicant that there is absolutely no material against the applicant except the information given by a secret informer on parcha No.1 of the case diary that in the influence of the applicant Rahul Yadav commits the criminal activity. He submits that his case is on better footing than the named accused persons namely, Jalaluddin and Vaseer Khan. The applicant is in jail since 04.03.2023.

5. Learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel for the complainant have opposed the bail prayer. They have submitted that applicant has criminal history of 17 cases and, therefore, he is not entitled to be enlarged on bail.

6. Rebutting the aforesaid, learned counsel for the applicant submits that he has explained the criminal history in para 47 of the bail application. He is on bail in all the 17 cases. He submits that merely because applicant has a criminal history will not dis-entitle him to be enlarged on bail. He has relied on judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Maulana Mohd. Amir Rashadi vs. State of U.P. & Anr. [Criminal Appeal No.159 of 2012]. He submits that role of the accused in the particular case has to be seen while granting bail, emphasis is on para 6. He has further relied on the judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Prabhakar Tewari vs. State of Uttar Pradesh [AIRONLINE 2020 SC 96].

7. On due consideration to the submissions advanced, perusal of the record as also the bail orders of the co-accused persons named above who have been enlarged on bail, period of incarceration gone into by the applicant and the explanation of the criminal history so also the judgment of Supreme Court passed in Maulana Mohd. Amir Rashadi & Prabhakar Tewari (supra), prima facie, this Court is of the opinion that case of the applicant is on better footing than the named co-accused persons Jalaluddin and Vaseer Khan, without expressing any opinion on merits of the case, I find it to be a fit case for enlarging the applicant on bail.

8. Accordingly, the bail application is allowed.

9. Let the applicant Sanjay Yadav Pradhan be released on bail in aforesaid case crime number subject to his furnishing a personal bond and two reliable sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the trial court concerned with the following conditions:

(i) The applicant will not tamper with the evidence during the trial.

(ii) The applicant will not pressurize/ intimidate the prosecution witness.

(iii) The applicant shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer or tamper with the evidence.

(iv) The applicant shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the dates fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present in court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the trial court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law.

(v) The applicant shall remain present before the trial court on each date fixed, either personally or through his counsel. In case of his absence, without sufficient cause, the trial court may proceed against him under Section 229-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(vi) In case, the applicant misuses the liberty of bail during trial and in order to secure his presence proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is issued and the applicant fails to appear before the court on the date fixed in such proclamation, then, the trial court shall initiate proceedings against him, in accordance with law, under Section 174-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1299
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 13.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE KRISHNA PAHAL, J.

Crl. Misc. Anticipatory Bail Application U/S 438
Cr.P.C. No. 872 of 2024

Ranjeet ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Naveen Tiwari, Sri Ritik Raj

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure-Section 438-Allegation that the applicant has applied for Passport thrice -by altering his name and parentage in them-failed to highlight the animosity carried by the police against the applicant- satisfaction of the court for granting protection under Sectiontion 438 Cr.P.C. is different from the one under Sectiontion 439 Cr.P.C. Application rejected. (E-9)

Case law:

1. P. Prathapachandran Vs Central Bureau of Investigation, Ernakula, 1999 CrLJ 2002 (Ker)

2. R.S. Nayak Vs A.R. Antulay, (1984) 2 SCC 183

3. Satpal Singh Vs St. of Pun., (2018) 13 SCC 813

4. Pratibha Manchanda & anr.Vs St. of Har. & anr., (2023) 8 SCC 181

(Delivered by Hon'ble Krishan Pahal, J.)

1. List has been revised.

2. Heard Sri Harsh Vardhan Singh, learned counsel for applicant as well as Sri Ram Mohit Yadav, learned A.G.A. for State and also perused the material available on record.

3. The present application for anticipatory bail has been filed for protection in regard to FIR/Case Crime No. 444 of 2023, under Sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. and 12 of Passport Act, 1967, P.S.- Barhalganj, District- Gorakhpur.

PROSECUTION STORY:

4. The FIR was instituted by the SI Gyan Prakash Shukla PS Barhalganj, Distt. Gorakhpur on 26.06.2023 with the allegations that it has come to his knowledge that RANJEET s/o Ram Bahadur has procured three passports i.e. No. K3464309 as Ranjeet Sahani s/o Ram Bahadur Sahani, No. P4364782 as Ranjeet Nishad s/o Bahadur Nishad and No. W8305151 as Ranjeet Nishad s/o Bahadur Nishad.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS:
Arguments for Applicant:

5. Learned counsel for the applicant has stated that the he is maliciously being prosecuted in the present case due to ulterior motive and has the apprehension of his arrest. The applicant has nothing to do with the said offence as alleged by the prosecution. Learned counsel has next stated that the informant is the Sub Inspector and he has not divulged the person from whom he had received the said information. The applicant is an illiterate and rustic person and for the sake of employment he had got his passport applications filed through broker and the discrepancy, if any, is due to his negligence.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has further argued that the passports have been issued after due enquiry and investigation. The police had demanded bribe from him and after the refusal to grease their palm, the instant FIR has been instituted.

7. It is also argued by the counsel for the applicant that after getting the knowledge of the said multiplicity of applications for passport, he had given an application for the closure of the File on 10.04.2023. The same is filed as Annexure-4 to the affidavit filed with the anticipatory bail application. The instant FIR has been lodged two months thereafter. The files of the applicant have been closed and the same have been filed as Annexure-5 to the affidavit filed with the bail application, as such nothing remains against the applicant.

8. It is further argued that a letter for apology has been sent by the applicant to the Regional Passport Officer, Lucknow on 04.07.2023 which is filed as annexure-7 to the affidavit filed with the anticipatory bail application.

9. Learned Counsel for the applicant has vehemently argued that the instant FIR has no legs to stand as it has been lodged without mandatory previous sanction of the Central government as provided under Section 15 of the Passports Act, 1967. The said provision is as under:

15. Previous sanction of Central Government necessary.— No prosecution shall be instituted against any person in respect of any offence under this Act without the previous sanction of the Central Government or such officer or authority as may be authorized by that Government by order in writing in this behalf.

10. Learned counsel for the applicant has further specified that the applicant had filed a criminal Miscellaneous Writ No. 17320 of 2023 which was dismissed for want of prosecution and not on merits. There is no iota of evidence against him and he has no criminal antecedents.

Arguments for State:

11. Learned AGA Shri. Ram Mohit Yadav has stated that the applicant is an imposter as he has procured three passports by altering his name and parentage altogether bearing No.'s K3464309 as Ranjeet Sahani s/o Ram Bahadur Sahani, P4364782 as Ranjeet Nishad s/o Bahadur Nishad and W8305151 as Ranjeet Nishad s/o Bahadur Nishad while his Aadhar card reveals his name to be RANJEET s/o Ram Bahadur. The applicant has obtained the passports by not only suppressing the information but has produced fake and doctored documents and got them issued.

12. It is further argued by learned AGA that there is no plausible or proper explanation to the fact of applying for a passport thrice. It is an open and shut case, although he could not dispute the fact that the applicant has no criminal antecedents.

CONCLUSION:

13. The argument of learned counsel for the applicant as to whether FIR can be lodged without previous sanction of the Central government as provided under Section 15 of the Passports Act, 1967 requires further exploration.

14. The word used in section 15 of the Passports Act, 1967 is 'prosecution' and not the 'FIR.' As per the sixth edition of the BLACK'S LAW DICTIONARY the word 'prosecution' is defined as:

'a proceeding instituted and carried on by due course of law, before a competent tribunal, for the purpose of determining the guilt or innocence of a person charged with crime.'

15. Thus, the proper interpretation of the provision would be that for institution of a First Information Report (FIR) and investigation thereupon, there is no obligatory requirement to secure prior sanction, even against a public servant, as per the mandate of Section 197 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. It shall equally apply to the persons charged under The Passports Act, 1967. When obtaining sanction is a prerequisite for initiating legal proceedings, it must be secured at the stage of presentation of charge sheet before the magistrate and taking of the cognizance thereupon.

16. In P. Prathapachandran Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, Ernakula[1], it was opined by the High Court that the point of time relevant for the competent authority to accord sanction to prosecute under Section 19(1)(c) of the Act is the time when the Court is called upon to take cognizance of the offence. Therefore, the contention raised by the petitioner against the validity of the sanction accorded under Section 19(I)(c) of the Act and the competency of the officer who granted the sanction are untenable.

17. In R.S. Nayak Vs. A.R. Antulay[2], the five-Judges Bench of the Supreme Court has observed that existence of a valid sanction is a pre-requisite to the taking of cognizance of the enumerated offences alleged to have been committed. Thus, the said argument of non-availability of sanction to prosecute at the stage of FIR or investigation does not carry any force. Therefore, no sanction is required to investigate the instant matter.

18. Eminent jurist Benjamin N. Cardozo in his book 'Nature of the Judicial Process' at page 70 has stated "The general framework furnished by the statute is to be filled in for each case by means of interpretation, that is, by following out the principles of the statute. In every case, without exception, it is the business of the court to supply what the statute omits, but always by means of an interpretative function."

19. Learned counsel has failed to highlight the animosity carried by the police against the applicant. The applicant has applied for Passport thrice by altering his name and parentage in them.

20. The satisfaction of the court for granting protection under Section 438 Cr.P.C. is different from the one under Section 439 Cr.P.C. while considering regular bail as settled by the Apex Court in Satpal Singh Vs. State of Punjab[3].

21. The relief of anticipatory bail is aimed at safeguarding individual rights. While it serves as a crucial tool to prevent the misuse of the power of arrest and protects innocent individuals from harassment, it also presents challenges in maintaining a delicate balance between individual rights and the interests of justice. The tight rope we must walk lies in striking a balance between safeguarding individual rights and protecting public interest as laid down in the latest judgement of the Supreme Court in Pratibha Manchanda and another Vs. State of Haryana and another[4].

22. In view of the above, the present anticipatory bail application is found devoid of merits and is, accordingly, rejected.

23. It is clarified that the observations made herein are limited to the facts brought in by the parties pertaining to the disposal of anticipatory bail application and the said observations shall have no bearing on the merits of the case.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1302
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 21.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Crl. Misc. Anticipatory Bail Application U/S 438 Cr.P.C. No. 1224 of 2023

Vivek Yadav & Anr. ...Applicants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents.

Counsel for the Applicants:
Nadeem Murtaza, Aditya Vikram Singh

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A., Lalta Prasad Misra, Prafulla Tiwari

Criminal law - Code of Criminal procedure-Section 362-Anticipatory bail granted with certain conditions-application by the applicants seeking deletion of the condition (ii) -restraining the applicants from leaving India without permission of the trial Court-anticipatory bail already granted-application has been filed by the applicants seeking deletion of the condition (ii) imposed in the aforesaid order restraining the applicants from leaving India without permission of the trial Court-trial court declined the permission – seeking modification of the condition by filing a miscellaneous application in the decided matter-not maintainable u/s 362 Cr.P.C.-Application dismissed. (E-9)

Cases cited:

1. Nazma Vs Javed Alias Anjum; 2013 1 SCC 376,

2. A.P. SRTC & ors. Vs Abdul Kareem; 2007 2 SCC 466

3. Barun Chandra Thakur Vs Ryand Augustine Pinto & anr.;2019 SCC OnLine 1899

4. Ramadhar Sahu Vs The St. of Maharasthra, in SLP (Crl.) No. 11130 of 2023 decided on 16.10.2023

5. Atul Shukla Vs St. of M.P., (2019) 17 SCC 299

6. Hari Singh Mann Vs Harbhajan Singh Bajwa, (2001) 1 SCC 169

7. Nazma Vs Javed Alias Anjum: (2013) 1 SCC 376

8. A.P.SRTC & ors. Versus Abdul Kareem ; 2007 2 SCC 466

9. Bhavnagar University Vs Palitana Sugar Mill (P) Ltd.: (2003) 2 SCC 111

10. Jagdish Arora and Ajay Arora Vs Union of Indian : 2022 (3) CriminalCC 384

11. Atul Shukla Vs St. of M.P. & Another (2019) 17 SCC 299

12. Parvez Noorodin Lokhandwalla Vs St. of Maharashtra: (2020) 10 SCC77

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

Order on IA-03/2024

1. Heard Sri Vikas Tiwari and Sri Nadeem Murtaza, the learned counsel for the applicants, Sri Puneet Kumar Yadav, the learned State Counsel and Dr. Lalta Prasad Misra and Sri Prafulla Tiwari, the learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 and perused the record.

2. The applicants were granted interim anticipatory bail in F.I.R. No. 896 of 2021, under Sections 409 and 420 I.P.C., Police Station Gomti Nagar, District Lucknow, by means of an order dated 23.05.2023 passed by this court, subject to the following conditions:-

(i) The applicants shall not, directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the court or tamper with the evidence;

(ii) The applicants shall not leave India without the previous permission of the court;

(iii) (iii)The applicants shall not pressurize/ intimidate the prosecution witness;

(iv) (iv)The applicants shall appear before the trial court on each date fixed unless personal presence is exempted;

(v) In case of breach of any of the above conditions the court below shall have the liberty to cancel the bail;

3. The interim anticipatory bail already granted to the applicants by means of the order dated 23.05.2023, was confirmed by means of an order dated 27.10.2023 and it was provided that the aforesaid order shall continue to remain in force till pendency of the trial.

4. This application has been filed by the applicants seeking deletion of the condition (ii) imposed in the aforesaid order restraining the applicants from leaving India without permission of the trial Court.

5. In the affidavit filed in support of the application for deletion of the condition, it has been stated that the applicant no.2 had approached the trial court seeking permission to leave India to meet her children, who are studying abroad, but the trial court declined the permission. The applicants challenged the order passed by the trial court refusing permission for her travel abroad by filing application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 6743 of 2023. During pendency of that application, the interim anticipatory bail order dated 23.05.2023 was made absolute by the order dated 27.10.2023 and the applicants contend that the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 6443 of 2023 has become infructuous. Now they have moved this application for invoking the inherent powers of this court for deletion of the condition.

6. The applicants have stated that the applicant no.1 is a businessman and is the Managing Director of a Company known as 'Piscesia Power Transmission Pvt. Ltd.' (P.P.T.P.L). The company is working in a joint-venture with a Turkish Company named as 'Savronik Elektronik Sanayi Ve Ticaret A.S.' for carrying out some projects of national importance across India. The applicant no.1 has to travel abroad for business purposes as he is having tie ups with some companies in other countries. Daughter of the applicants is currently studying at Amity School, Dubai, U.A.E in standard IX and has been staying with the applicant no. 2 whereas the applicants' son aged about 19 years is studying in Boston, USA. The applicant no. 2 is employed in a Hotel at U.A.E since 21.01.2023. She had returned to India to participate in the proceedings of the case but in light of the restrictions imposed by the interim order dated 23.05.2023, she is unable to travel and report for her job. The applicants have undertaken to appear before the trial court as when directed and not to abscond from the process of law.

7. The opposite party no.2 has filed objections against the application wherein a preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the application has been raised stating that Section 362 Cr.P.C. provides that:- no court, when it has signed its judgment or final order disposing of a case, shall alter or review the same except to correct a clerical or arithmetical error." It has been stated that the application filed for deletion of the condition amounts to an application seeking review of the order passed by this court, which is not maintainable.

8. It has further been stated in the application that the condition sought to be deleted itself contains a provision that the applicants can travel abroad with the permission of the court. The applicants had sought permission from the trial Court and they have filed an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. challenging the order passed by the trial court refusing permission for their travel abroad which is still pending and, therefore, the applicants cannot seek the same relief by filing the instant application.

9. In support of the preliminary objection, the learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 has relied upon the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Nazma vs. Javed Alias Anjum; 2013 1 SCC 376, A.P. SRTC and Others Vs. Abdul Kareem; 2007 2 SCC 466 and Barun Chandra Thakur Vs. Ryand

Augustine Pinto and another; 2019 SCC OnLine 1899.

10. Replying to the preliminary objections, the learned counsel for the applicants placed reliance on a decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ramadhar Sahu Vs. The State of Maharasthra, in SLP (Crl.) No. 11130 of 2023 decided on 16.10.2023.

11. Section 438 was omitted from Cr.P.C. in the State of U.P. by U.P. Act No. 16 of 1976 with effect from 28-11-1975. The following new Section 438 has been introduced in Cr.P.C. in the State of U. P. vide U.P. Act No. 4 of 2019, which received the assent of the President on 1-6-2019 and was published on 6-6-2019: -

"438. Direction for grant bail to person apprehending arrest.—(1) Where any person has reason to believe that he may be arrested on accusation of having committed a non-bailable offence, he may apply to the High Court or the Court of Session for a direction under this section that in the event of such arrest he shall be released on bail; and that Court may, after taking into consideration, inter alia, the following factors, namely—

(i) the nature and gravity of the accusation;

(ii) the antecedents of the applicant including the fact as to whether he has previously undergone imprisonment on conviction by a Court in respect of any cognizable offence;

(iii) the possibility of the applicant to flee from justice; and

(iv) where the accusation has been made with the object of injuring or humiliating the applicant by having him so arrested; either reject the application forthwith or issue an interim order for the grant of anticipatory bail:

Provided that where the High Court or, as the case may be, the Court of Session, has not passed any interim order under this sub-section or has rejected the application for grant of anticipatory bail, it shall be open to an officer in-charge of a police station to arrest, without warrant, the applicant on the basis of the accusation apprehended in such application.

(2) Where the High Court or, as the case may be, the Court of Session, considers it expedient to issue an interim order to grant anticipatory bail under sub-section (1), the Court shall indicate therein the date, on which the application for grant of anticipatory bail shall be finally heard for passing an order thereon, as the Court may deem fit, arid if the Court passes any order granting anticipatory bail, such order shall include inter alia the following conditions*, namely—*

(i) that the applicant shall make himself available for interrogation by a police officer as and when required;

(ii) that the applicant shall not, directly or indirectly, make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer,

(iii) that the applicant shall not leave India without the previous permission of the Court; and

(iv) such other conditions as may be imposed under sub-section (3) of Section 437, as if the bail were granted under that section.

Explanation.—The final order made on an application for direction under sub-section (1); shall not be construed as an interlocutory order for the purpose of this Code.

(3) Where the Court grants an interim order under sub-section (1), it shall forthwith cause a notice being not less than seven days notice, together with a copy of such order to be served on the Public Prosecutor and the Superintendent of Police, with a view to give the Public Prosecutor a reasonable opportunity of being heard when the application shall be finally heard by the Court.

(4) On the date indicated in the interim order under sub-section (2), the Court shall hear the Public Prosecutor and the applicant and after due consideration of their contentions, it may either confirm, modify or cancel the interim order.

(5) The High Court or the Court of Session, as the case may be, shall finally dispose of an application for grant of anticipatory bail under sub-section (1), within thirty days of the date of such application;

(6) Provisions of this section shall not be applicable,—

(a) to the offences arising out of,—

(i) the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1967;

(ii) the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985;

(iii) the Official Secret Act, 1923;

(iv) the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986.

(b) in the offences, in which death sentence can be awarded.

(7) If an application under this section has been made by any person to the High Court, no application by the same person shall be entertained by the Court of Session."

(Emphasis supplied)

12. The conditions that were imposed in the order dated 23.05.2023 granting interim anticipatory bail to the applicants, were in accordance with the statutory mandate contained in sub-Section (2) of Section 438 Cr.P.C., as it applies to the State of UP.

13. Sub-Section (4) of Section 438 Cr.P.C. empowers the Court to confirm, modify or cancel the interim order after hearing the Public Prosecutor and the applicant and after due consideration of their contentions. After hearing the learned Counsel for the parties, this Court had passed the final order dated 27.10.2023, whereby it confirmed the order dated 23.05.2023 granting interim anticipatory bail to the applicants subject to the aforesaid conditions.

14. The applicants have sought deletion of the condition on the ground that the applicant no. 2 is serving abroad, the applicant no.1 has to frequently travel abroad in connection with his business and their children are studying abroad in two different countries.

15. The fact that the applicant no. 2 is serving abroad, was not disclosed in the anticipatory bail application filed by the applicants. It was a relevant factor, which ought to have been disclosed to this court. The fact of an accused person serving abroad would increase the likelihood of his unavailability to face the trial. This factor might have influenced the discretion of the court at the time of deciding the anticipatory bail application. The applicants have disclosed this fact for the first time in the application for deletion of condition filed after the interim anticipatory bail was granted to them and after the same was confirmed while the application was decided finally. This conduct of the applicants would weigh heavily against them while deciding their application seeking to invoke the inherent powers of this Court which are meant to secure the ends of justice.

16. While opposing the application, the learned Counsel for the opposite party no. 2 has submitted that after the anticipatory bail application was disposed off finally, this Court became functus officio and it has no authority to pass any further order regarding that application.

17. Section 362 Cr.P.C. provides that "No court, when it has signed its judgment or final order disposing of a case, shall alter or review the same except to correct a clerical or arithmetical error." The prayer for deletion of the condition that the applicants will not leave India without the previous permission of the trial Court, does not seek correction of any clerical or arithmetical error and deletion of the condition will amount to a modification of the order after final disposal of the anticipatory bail application.

18. In Atul Shukla v. State of M.P., (2019) 17 SCC 299, A first information report was registered for the offences under Sections 364 and 323 read with Section 34 I.P.C. and a charge-sheet was filed on 08.09.2016. A petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. was filed for quashing of the F.I.R. In the meantime, charges were framed on 24.04.2017. On 20.07.2018, the High Court dismissed the petition under Section 482 in the following terms: -

"6. Considering the circumstances, this petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has no merit. The petitioner may challenge the framing of charge under appropriate provisions.

7. With the above observation, this petition is dismissed."

After the above order, the second respondent filed another petition under Section 482, praying for recall and modification of the order dated 20-7-2018. The High Court allowed the petition and recalled its earlier order dated 20-7-2018. Allowing the appeal, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held "In view of the specific bar which is contained in Section 362, we are of the view that the impugned order of the High Court is unsustainable. Such an application for review or modification could not have been entertained."

19. In Hari Singh Mann v. Harbhajan Singh Bajwa, (2001) 1 SCC 169, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"8. We have noted with disgust that the impugned orders were passed completely ignoring the basic principles of criminal law. No review of an order is contemplated under the Code of Criminal Procedure. After the disposal of the main petition on 7-1-1999, there was no lis pending in the High Court wherein the respondent could have filed any miscellaneous petition. The filing of a miscellaneous petition not referable to any provision of the Code of Criminal Procedure or the rules of the court, cannot be resorted to as a substitute of fresh litigation. The record of the proceedings produced before us shows that directions in the case filed by the respondents were issued apparently without notice to any of the respondents in the petition. Merely because Respondent 1 was an Advocate, did not justify the issuance of directions at his request without notice of the other side. The impugned orders dated 30-4-1999 and 21-7-1999 could not have been passed by the High Court under its inherent power under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The practice of filing miscellaneous petitions after the disposal of the main case and issuance of fresh directions in such miscellaneous petitions by the High Court are unwarranted, not referable to any statutory provision and in substance the abuse of the process of the court.

(Emphasis supplied)

20. In Nazma vs. Javed Alias Anjum: (2013) 1 SCC 376 relied upon by the learned Counsel for the opposite party no. 2, the Hon'ble Supreme has held that:-

"12. We are of the view that the High Court has committed a grave error in not only entertaining the criminal miscellaneous application in a disposed of writ petition, but also passing an order not to arrest the 1st respondent till the conclusion of the trial. Grant of bail or not to grant, is within the powers of the regular Criminal Court and the High Court, in its inherent jurisdiction, not justified in usurping their powers. Once the criminal writ petition has been disposed of, the High Court becomes functus officio and cannot entertain review petitions or miscellaneous applications except for carrying out typographical or clerical errors. In the instant case, the High Court has entertained a petition in a disposed of criminal writ petition and granted reliefs, which is impermissible in law."

21. In A.P.SRTC and Others Versus Abdul Kareem ; 2007 2 SCC 466, the Hon'ble Supreme Court deprecated the attempt to seek a review under the guide of making an application for clarification.

22. In Ramadhar Sahu (Supra), the appellant had been granted bail by means of an order dated 28.04.2023 passed by the High Court of Madhya Pradesh, wherein it is recorded that the appellant had volunteered to deposit a sum of Rs. 65,92,460/-. The order contained a condition that he had to deposit Rs. 10 lakhs before the trial court and Rs.55,92,460/- was to be deposited under protest within a period of three months from the date of his release. The appellant was released on bail on depositing Rs. 10 lakhs but thereafter he failed to deposit the remaining amount and he surrendered on 24.07.2023. After having gone into custody again, the appellant again applied for bail mainly on the ground of parity, as a co-accused had already been granted bail. The fresh application for bail was rejected by the High Court, stating that in the event the appellant was granted bail without compliance of the condition specified in the earlier order that would constitute modification of the order, which is prohibited by Section 362 Cr.P.C. In the aforesaid factual background the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that:-

"An order for refusal of bail however, inherently carries certain characteristics of an interlocutory order in that certain variation or alteration in the context in which a bail plea is dismissed confers on the detained accused right to file a fresh application for bail on certain changed circumstances. Thus, an order rejecting prayer for ball does not disempower the Court from considering such plea afresh if there is any alteration of the circumstances. Conditions of bail could also be varied if a case is made out for such variation based on that factor. Prohibition contemplated in Section 362 of the Code would not apply in such cases."

23. The aforesaid observations in Ramadhar Sahu (Supra) were made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the background of the peculiar facts of the case where the earlier the applicant was granted bail subject to the condition of his depositing Rs. 10 lakhs prior to his release on bail and Rs.55,92,460/- within three months from the date of his release. The appellant did not deposit the balance amount and surrendered to custody. Thereafter, he filed a fresh application mainly on the ground of parity. In these circumstances, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that granting of bail without imposing the condition which was there in the earlier bail order, would not amount to variation of the condition of the bail orders as the fresh bail application had to be considered on its merits keeping in view the changed circumstances, which in that case were grant of bail to an co-accused person.

24. In Bhavnagar University v. Palitana Sugar Mill (P) Ltd.: (2003) 2 SCC 111, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that "A decision, as is well known, is an authority for which it is decided and not what can logically be deduced therefrom. It is also well settled that a little difference in facts or additional facts may make a lot of difference in the precedential value of a decision."

25. Therefore, Ramadhar Sahu (supra) has to be read in light of the factual background of the case and it does not laid down a law of universal application that variance or deletion of conditions imposed in an order granting bail to an accused person is permissible by way of modification of order in spite of the provision contained in Section 362 Cr.P.C.

26. The learned counsel for the applicants next relied upon a decision of a Division Bench of the Madhya Pradesh, Jabalpur in the case of Jagdish Arora and Ajay Arora Vs. Union of Indian : 2022 (3) CriminalCC 384, wherein an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. was filed seeking modification of final order granting bail under Section 439 of Cr.P.C. subject to the condition that "the applicants shall submit their passports, if any, before the trial Court and shall not leave India without prior permission of this Court." The Learned counsel for the prosecuting agency had relied upon the judgment in the case of Atul Shukla vs. State of M.P. & Another (2019) 17 SCC 299 to contend that no recall, review or modification of an order passed under Cr.P.C. is permissible by exercise of inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. However, power to correct a condition, subject to which a bail order is passed, is vested with the Court under Section 439(1)(b) of Cr.P.C., but the same cannot be exercised by invoking inherent powers u/S. 482 of Cr.P.C. as it is a power to be independently exercised on the invocation of aggrieved person.

27. The Madhya Pradesh High Court held in Jagdish Arora (Supra) that Section 439(1)(b) Cr.P.C. empowers the High Court to modify any condition imposed by a Magistrate while passing an order of bail u/S. 437 of Cr.P.C. whereas Section 439(1)(a) of Cr.P.C. empowers the High Court to release a person on bail but when doing so in connection with offences punishable with imprisonment of seven years or more under Chapter VI, XVI and XVII of I.P.C. or of abetment or conspiracy or attempt to commit such offences, the High Court in its discretion may impose any condition considered necessary in the attending facts and circumstances. The Madhya Pradesh High Court held that: -

"8.1 It is also settled that grant of bail is a rule whereas its denial is an exception. Once bail is granted subject to certain conditions by the High Court u/S. 439(1)(a) of Cr.P.C. as is the case herein, the power to modify or delete the conditions subject to which bail is granted, is also inherently vested with the High Court.

8.2. The power of amending or deleting any condition, subject to which bail order u/S. 439(1)(a) of Cr.P.C. is granted, is however not expressly provided in Cr.P.C. Thus, the only course available for seeking and granting modification/deletion of such a condition is by invoking the inherent powers of this Court u/S. 482 of Cr.P.C. to ensure the ends of justice.

8.3. Section 482 of Cr.P.C. saves inherent powers of this Court to be exercised inter alia to secure the ends of justice. The ends of justice can only be secured when in absence of any express provision this Court is not prevented from deleting/modifying any of the conditions subject to which an order of bail u/S. 439(1)(a) of Cr.P.C. is passed. If such inherent powers are otherwise not available to this Court u/S. 482 of Cr.P.C., then object of insertion of Section 482 of Cr.P.C. would stand defeated and this Court would be rendered a toothless tiger.

9. The Legislature while enacting the Code of Criminal Procedure could never have approved a situation where this superior Court is handicapped to exercise its inherent powers to modify/delete a condition imposed u/S. 439(1)(a) of Cr.P.C. despite existence of compelling circumstances merely because of absence of enabling provision in the Cr.P.C.

9.1. The object behind bestowing inherent powers in this Court is to do complete justice and to prevent miscarriage of justice. The inherent powers are saved with this Court to be exercised in such circumstances where cause for doing complete justice or preventing failure of justice exists, but there is no express provision in Cr.P.C. As such Constitutional Courts are saved with such inherent powers to do complete justice without being inhibited or disabled by absence of enabling provision."

Although the Madhya Pradesh High Court has mentioned in the judgment the learned State Counsel's contention that as per the law laid down in Atul Shukla vs. State of M.P. & Another (2019) 17 SCC 299 no recall, review or modification of an order passed under Cr.P.C. is permissible by exercise of inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C., it did not deal with this contention.

28. Moreover, in Jagdish Arora (Supra) the accused had not filed a Miscellaneous Application for modification or deletion of the condition filed in the bail application itself after its final decision, rather he had filed a fresh application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. Therefore, even the Division Bench of the Madhya Pradesh has not laid down in Jagdish Arora (supra) that after final decision of a bail application, the court granting bail can modify or delete any condition that was there in the bail order, by filing a miscellaneous application in the decided case.

29. In the present case also, the applicants had filed an application before the trial Court seeking permission to travel abroad. The application was rejected and the order of rejection was challenged by filing an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 6443 of 2023 and that application is still pending. Even if the applicants contend that the application has become infructuous as a final order has been passed on 27.10.2023 confirming the order, it is open to the applicants to file a fresh application seeking permission from the trial Court or to file a fresh application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. However, seeking modification of the condition by filing a miscellaneous application in the decided matter for deletion of condition, would not be maintainable in view of the provision contained in Section 362 Cr.P.C. and in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Atul Shukla vs. State of M.P. & Another (2019) 17 SCC 299.

30. The learned counsel for the applicants has next submitted that a co-accused person Shailendra Yadav was arrested in the present case and he has been enlarged on bail and no such condition has been imposed in the order granting bail to the aforesaid co-accused. Shailendra Yadav was granted bail under Section 437 Cr.P.C, which does not mandate imposing any such condition, as are required to be imposed while granting anticipatory bail to any person under Section 438 Cr.P.C. The applicants were granted interim anticipatory bail by means of the order dated 23.05.2023 and the condition, which is being sought to be deleted by the applicants, was imposed in accordance with the mandatory provision contained in Section 438(2) Cr.P.C. as it applies to the State of U.P.

31. The learned counsel for the applicants has lastly submitted that the complainant is also an accused in a criminal case initiated by the applicants by filing an F.I.R. and in the order granting bail to the complainant also no such conditions have been imposed. The complainant has been granted bail under Section 439 Cr.P.C., like the aforesaid Shailendra Yadav, and he has not been granted anticipatory bail under Section 438 Cr.P.C. Therefore, the non-imposing of condition which is mandatory under Section 438 Cr.P.C. and not mandatory under Section 439 Cr.P.C, cannot be a ground for deletion of the condition in an order granting anticipatory bail to the applicants under Section 438 Cr.P.C.

32. The learned counsel for the applicants submitted that the application for deletion of condition has been filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. However, this is a miscellaneous application filed in the decided application and it is not a fresh application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. The applicants are very well aware of the mode and manner of filing fresh applications under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and the applicants have themselves already filed an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 6443 of 2023, challenging the order passed by the trial court refusing permission for their travel abroad. However, this application has been filed as a miscellaneous application after final decision of the application under Section 438 Cr.P.C. by means of the order dated 27.10.2023, after which the court became functus officio and can only order correction of clerical or arithmetical mistakes in the order dated 27.10.2023 and it cannot modify the order by deleting the condition.

33. The applicants have placed reliance on a decision of the Parvez Noorodin Lokhandwalla Vs. State of Maharashtra: (2020) 10 SCC 77. However, the question of entertainablity of a miscellaneous application seeking modification of an order after final decision of the case, was not involved in that case and, therefore, that case is of no relevance for decision of this issue.

34. In view of the aforesaid discussions, I find that the miscellaneous application for deletion of a condition after final decision of the Anticipatory Bail Application No. 1224 of 2023, is not maintainable and the application is accordingly dismissed as such.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1312
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 08.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAJESH SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Crl. Misc. Bail Application No. 1311 of 2024

Vikas Singh ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Applicant:
Trilok Nath Yadav

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Bail; Delay in Trial--First bail application rejected- in judicial custody for more than six years- More than one year has passed since the first bail application was rejected- no possibility to conclude the trial shortly-these reasons may be considered as fresh grounds to allow Sectionond bail application. Bail Application allowed. (E-9)

Cases cited:

1. U.O.I.Vs K.A. Najeeb,AIR 2021 Supreme Court 712

2. Paras Ram Vishnoi Vs The Director, Central Bureau of Investigation- Criminal Appeal No. 693 of 2021 (Arising out of SLP (Crl) 3610 of 2020)

3. Gokarakonda Naga Saibaba Vs St. of Mah., (2018) 12 SCC 505

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri T.N. Yadav, learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the applicant that this is second bail application and the applicant is in jail since 15.1.2018 in Case Crime No. 6/2018 u/s 302, 201/34 IPC, P.S. Jahangirganj, District Ambedkar Nagar. It has been submitted that the applicant has been falsely implicated in this case as he has not committed any offence as alleged.

3. The first bail application bearing Bail Application No. 4266 of 2022 has been rejected by this Court vide order dated 25.1.2023, which reads as under :

"Heard learned counsel for the applicant and the learned Additional Government Advocate for the State.

As per learned counsel for the applicant, the present applicant (Vikas Singh S/O Lakhan Singh Alias Laxman Singh) is languishing in jail since 15.01.2018 in Case Crime No.06 of 2018, under Sections 302/201/ 34 I.P.C., Police Station-Jahangirganj, District-Ambedkar Nagar.

After arguing the matter at some length, learned counsel for the applicant has requested that the present bail application may be disposed of at this stage as he shall not address the Court on merits of the bail application but the direction may be issued to the learned trial court to conduct and conclude the trial with expedition.

Learned Additional Government Advocate has no objection if the direction for conclusion of trial is issued by this Court.

Therefore, without entering into merits of the issue, the present bail application is rejected at this stage.

However, learned trial court is directed to conduct and conclude the trial, strictly in accordance with law, with expedition preferably within a period of six months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order. If any of the witnesses does not co-operate in the trial proceedings properly, the learned trial court may take appropriate coercive steps against him/her/them. It is further directed that the learned trial court shall fix short dates and if possible the trial in question may run on day-to-day basis in terms of provisions of Section 309 Cr.P.C. which provides that the proceedings of trial court may run on day-to-day basis.

I am unable to comprehend that when there is specific provision in the Cr.P.C. to conduct the trial on day-to-day basis in the serious offence, as to why such exercise is not carried out by the learned trial court.

However, it is made clear that if the trial in question is not concluded within the aforesaid stipulated time, the liberty is given to the applicant to file second bail application and in such bail application the point of non conducting the trial within stipulated time may be considered as a fresh ground."

4. In the aforesaid bail order the detail of case crime number etc. has been indicated and it has also been indicated with the present applicant is in jail since 15.1.2018, therefore, the petitioner is in judicial custody for more than six years.

5. While arguing the first bail application the learned counsel for the applicant had not addressed the merits of the case and had requested that the direction may be issued to expedite the trial. This Court vide order dated 25.1.2023 has directed to conclude the trial within a period of six months by observing that there is specific provision in Code of Criminal Procedure to conduct the trial on day to day basis in the heinous cases, therefore, the trial may be conducted invoking such provisions of law.

6. More than one year period has passed w.e.f. the date when the first bail application was rejected on 25.1.2023 but the trial in question has not been concluded. As per para 15 of the bail application the trial has been fixed for examination of the defense evidence. Further in para 26 of the bail application it has been categorically indicated that the present applicant has got no criminal history of any kind whatsoever except the present case and he has not been convicted in any offence. Therefore, learned counsel for the petitioner has prayed that considering the period of long incarceration of the applicant and also the fact that despite the specific direction issued by this Court to conclude the trial within stipulated time, such trial has not been concluded within time stipulated, he may be granted bail.

7. The learned counsel for the applicant has given an undertaking on behalf of applicant that the applicant shall not misuse the liberty of bail and shall cooperate with the trial proceedings and shall abide by all terms and conditions of bail, if granted.

8. Learned A.G.A. has however, tried to convince the Court to the effect that by filing second bail application no fresh ground has been taken but being confronted as to whether the aforesaid two grounds which have been taken by the petitioner i.e. the trial has not been concluded within time so stipulated and the period of incarceration i.e. long incarceration of more than six years may not be considered as fresh grounds, the learned AGA could not dispute.

9. The main points raised by Sri Yadav are that since there is no possibility to conclude the trial in near future, therefore, the period of long incarceration of the present applicant in jail i.e. more than six years may be considered in view of the dictum of Apex Court in re: Union of India vs. K.A. Najeeb reported in AIR 2021 Supreme Court 712 and in the case of Paras Ram Vishnoi vs. The Director, Central Bureau of Investigation passed in Criminal Appeal No. 693 of 2021 (Arising out of SLP (Crl) 3610 of 2020). More particularly, despite the direction issued by this Court on 25.1.2023 to conclude the trial within six months but trial has not been concluded.

10. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

11. The Apex Court in re: Union of India vs. K.A. Najeeb (supra) wherein it has been held as under :

"This Court has clarified in numerous judgments that the liberty guaranteed by Part III of the Constitution would cover within its protective ambit not only due procedure and fairness but also access to justice and a speedy trial. In Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee Representing Undertrial Prisoners v. Union of India, it was held that undertrials cannot indefinitely be detained pending trial. Ideally, no person ought to suffer adverse consequences of his acts unless the same is established before a neutral arbiter. However, owing to the practicalities of real life where to secure an effective trial and to ameliorate the risk to society in case a potential criminal is left at large pending trial, Courts are tasked with deciding whether an individual ought to be released pending trial or not. Once it is obvious that a timely trial would not be possible and the accused has suffered incarceration for a significant period of time, Courts would ordinarily be obligated to enlarge them on bail."

12. In the case of Paras Ram Vishnoi vs. The Director, Central Bureau of Investigation (supra) the Apex Court has held as under :

"On consideration of the matter, we are of the view that pending the trial we cannot keep a person in custody for an indefinite period of time and taking into consideration the period of custody and that the other accused are yet to lead defence evidence while the appellant has already stated he does not propose to lead any evidence, we are inclined to grant bail to the appellant on terms and conditions to the satisfaction of the trial court."

13. Besides, the dictum of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Gokarakonda Naga Saibaba v. State of Maharashtra, (2018) 12 SCC 505, wherein it has been held that if all fact/ material witnesses have been examined, the bail application of the accused may be considered.

14. In the present case, the trial has not been concluded within the time so stipulated by this Court while rejecting the first bail of the present applicant. All prosecution witnesses have been examined. The petitioner is in judicial custody for more than 6 years and there is no possibility to conclude the trial shortly. Hence, all the aforesaid reasons may be considered as fresh grounds to allow second bail application in view of the dictum of Apex Court in re: Union of India vs. K.A. Najeeb (supra), Paras Ram Vishnoi vs. The Director, Central Bureau of Investigation (supra) and Gokarakonda Naga Saibaba (supra). So, the applicant is entitled to be released on bail in this case.

15. Therefore, without entering into the merits of the case, the present bail application is allowed.

16. Let the applicant Vikas Singh, involved in aforesaid case crime be released on bail on his furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions which are being imposed in the interest of justice:-

(i) The applicant shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the dates fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present in court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the trial court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law.

(ii) The applicant shall remain present before the trial court on each date fixed, either personally or through his counsel. In case of his absence, without sufficient cause, the trial court may proceed against him under Section 229-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iii) In case, the applicant misuses the liberty of bail during trial and in order to secure his presence proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is issued and the applicant fails to appear before the court on the date fixed in such proclamation, then, the trial court shall initiate proceedings against him, in accordance with law, under Section 174-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iv) The applicant shall remain present, in person, before the trial court on the dates fixed for (i) opening of the case, (ii) framing of charge and (iii) recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the trial court absence of the applicant is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the trial court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of bail and proceed against him in accordance with law.

(v) The applicant shall not leave the country without permission of the Court concerned.

[Before parting with, I appreciate the efforts and research done by Mr. Piyush Tripathi, Research Associate and Mr. Vaibhav Tyagi, Law Intern, attached with me, in finding out the relevant case laws, applicable in the present case.]

(2024) 2 ILRA 1315
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 20.12.2023

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE AJAY BHANOT, J.

Crl. Misc. Bail Application No. 9126 of 2023

Jitendra ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri J.B. Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A.

Bail-delay-Registers of processes to be maintained under Rule 12 of the General Rules (Criminal) shall be regularly updated by the learned trial courts- all issues which create impediments or legal issues that arise during the course of bail hearings-are necessary to be decided for fair administration of justice in bail jurisdiction- ought to be decided by the Court hearing the bail application. Application allowed. (E-9)

Cases cited:

1. Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 16871 of 2023, (Bhanwar Singh @ Karamvir Vs St. of U.P.)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Heard Shri J.B. Singh, learned counsel for the applicant and Shri Ashok Mehta, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Shri Paritosh Kumar Malviya, learned AGA-I for the State.

2. Personal affidavits filed on behalf of Principal Secretary (Home), Government of U.P., Lucknow and Director General of Police, Government of U.P., Lucknow is taken on record.

3. This Court in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 16871 of 2023, (Bhanwar Singh @ Karamvir Vs. State of U.P.) noticed the issues arising in administration of justice in bail jurisdictions. This Court has repeatedly held that bail jurisdiction does not denude the constitutional status of the Court. All issues which create impediments or legal issues that arise during the course of bail hearings and are necessary to be decided for fair administration of justice in bail jurisdiction ought to be decided by the Court hearing the bail application. Bhanwar Singh (supra) noticed the problem of delay in trial being caused by chronic failure of the police authorities to serve summons and execute coercive processes issued by the Court for appearance of witness on appointed dates before the trial court.

4. This Court vide order dated 14.09.2023 issued certain guidelines. In compliance of this order, the Director General of Police, Government of U.P., Lucknow and Principal Secretary (Home), Government of U.P. have filed their affidavits.

5. The relevant paragraphs of the affidavit filed by the Principal Secretary (Home) is being extracted hereunder:

"5. That in respect of the directions given by Hon'ble High Court from time to time and specially in 'Bhanwar Singh Case' regarding timely execution of processes issued by the learned trial courts the deponent vide Government Order No. HC-100/6-PO-9-2023 Dated 14.10.2023 has issued the following directions.

i. A Superintendent of Police rank officer has been appointed as a Nodal officer for effective execution of processes (summons/warrants/notices) issued by learned trial courts, in every police Commissionerate/District. In this respect D.G. police circular dated 10.10.2023 will be strictly complied by every Nodal officer.

ii. All District Nodal officers will ensure the strict compliance of DG police circular dated 10.10.2023.

iii. All District Magistrates, Executive Magistrates, District Incharge of police will ensure the compliance of Government Order dated 23.11.2022 issued by Department of Home, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow

iv. Additional Director General (Prosecution) is directed to issue a direction regarding maintainability of witness register with 'Court Moharrir', in which name and address, mobile number, Aadhar number of every prosecution witnesses will be mentioned and a direction is also issued to insert a column in the 'Pairavi Register' of concerned Pairokar of Police Station.

v. District nodal officer will ensure that the Public Prosecutor and concerned 'Court Moharrir' will have access to process register of learned trial courts so that police station/ summon cell process register could be matched. A direction to learned trial courts to this effect, by Hon'ble High court, will be required.

vi. As per provision of chapter 3 read with rule 12 of General Rules Criminal as well as circular order C.L Number 42/98 dated 20.8.98 issued by Hon'ble High court the name, designation, mobile number of police official who received the court process will be clearly mentioned in the column of process register of learned trial court, so that his responsibility could be fixed. A copy of Government Order No. HC-100/6-PO-9-2023 Dated 14.10.2023 is annexed as Annexure no.2 to this affidavit.

6. That it is pertinent to submit here that regarding timely execution of processes issued by the learned trial courts the Director General of Police, Uttar Pradesh vide DG Circular No. 40/2023, Dated 10.10.2023 has issued the following directions.

i. A central register will be prepared for entering processes received from different trial courts in the office of the Nodal Officer and a Desk will be established for sending the summon/ warrants for its execution daily processes will be recorded in central register, policeman will be deployed at the process desk.

ii. The service receipt received after service of summons/warrants will be entered in the central register by policeman posted at summon desk and service report will be communicated to the concerned trial court.

iii. In compliance with the processes served, the details of the witnesses present and examined in trial courts will also be complied through summon/warrant desk and it will be reviewed from time to time at the competent officer level.

iv. Nodal officers will weekly examine the Summons/warrants execution register.

v. A monthly statement will be prepared in respect of the service of processes and same will be presented before Nodal officer for perusal. The Nodal Officer will warn in writing to subordinate Officers and station in charge who are on laxity and after three consecutive months of laxity, so cause notice will be issued against the subordinate Officers and In-charge of Police Station.

vi. At District level Deputy Superintendent of Police/Additional Superintendent of Police and at Police Commissionerate level Assistant Police Commissioners will monitor the service of processes by the concerned police stations under their local jurisdiction and if any laxity will be found Supervisory officers will be accountable.

vii. Every Nodal Officer will be responsible for execution of service of processes (summons / warrants/ notices) under their local jurisdiction.

viii. Work of Nodal Officers will be regularly assessed by Additional Director General of Police (Zonal) and Regional Inspector General of Police / Deputy Inspector General of Police in case of any laxity, he will inform the head quarter of Director General of Police.

ix. As discussed above D.G. Circular no. 30/2023 dated 16.08.2023 has been partially changed as Superintendent of Police will be a Nodal Officer in place of Additional Superintendent of Police. A copy of DG police circular dated 10.10.2023 is annexed as Annexure No. 3 to this affidavit.

8. That this Hon'ble Court time to time observed that non presence of police witnesses in trial court is a main impediment for delaying of criminal trials. It is a issue of great concern, deponent is trying to fix departmental accountability for the timely presence of police personnel/witnesses (i.e. investigation officer etc.) in Criminal trial."

6. Similarly, the relevant paragraphs of the affidavit filed by the Director General of Police, Government of U.P., Lucknow are extracted hereunder:

"5. That in respect of the directions given by Hon'ble High Court from time to time and specially in 'Bhanwar Singh Case' regarding timely execution of processes issued by the learned trial courts the Principal Secretary (Home), Govt. of U.P. vide Government Order No. HC-100/6-PO-9-2023 Dated 14.10.2023 has issued the following directions:

i. A Superintendent of Police rank officer has been appointed as a Nodal officer for effective execution of processes (summons/warrants/notices) issued by learned trial courts, in every police Commissionerate/District. In this respect D.G. police circular dated 10.10.2023 will be strictly complied by every Nodal officer.

ii. All District Nodal officers will ensure the strict compliance of DG police circular dated 10.10.2023.

iii. All District Magistrates, Executive Magistrates, District Incharge of police will ensure the compliance of Government Order dated 23.11.2022 issued by Department of Home, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow.

iv. Additional Director General (Prosecution) is directed to issue a direction regarding maintainability of witness register with 'Court Moharrir', in which name and address, mobile number, Aadhar number of every prosecution wintess will be mentioned and a direction is also issued to insert a column in the 'Pairavi Register' of concerned Pairokar of Police Station.

v. District Nodal officer will ensure that the Public Prosecutor and concerned 'Court Moharrir' will have access to process register of learned trial courts so that police station/summon cell process register could be matched. A direction to learned trial courts to this effect, by Hon'ble High Court, will be required.

vi. As per provision of Chapter 3 read with Rule 12 of General Rules Criminal as well as circular order C.L. Number 42/98 dated 20.08.98 issued by Hon'ble High Court the name, designation, mobile number of police official who received the court process will be clearly mentioned in the column of process register of learned trial court, so that his responsibility could be fixed. A copy of Government Order No. HC-100/6-PO-9-2023 Dated 14.10.2023 is annexed as Annexure No. 2 to this affidavit.

6. That in respect of the directions given by Hon'ble High Court from time to time and specially in 'Bhawar Singh Case' regarding timely execution of processes issued by the learned trial courts the deponent has issued the following directions.

i. A central register will be prepared for entering processes received from different trial courts in the office of the Nodal Officer and a Desk will be established for sending the summon/warrants for its execution daily processes will be recorded in central register, policeman will be deployed at the process desk.

ii. The service receipt received after service of summons/warrants will be entered in the central register by policeman posted at summon desk and service report will be communicated to the concerned trial court.

iii. In compliance with the processes served, the details of the witnesses present and examined in trial courts will also be complied through summon/warrant desk and it will be reviewed from time to time at the competent officer level.

iv. Nodal officers will weekly examine the Summons/warrants execution register.

v. A monthly statement will be prepared in respect of the service of processes and same will be presented before Nodal officer for perusal. The Nodal officer will warn in writing to subordinate Officers and station in charge who are on laxity and after three consecutive months of laxity, so cause notice will be issued against the subordinate Officers and In-charge of Police Station.

vi. At District level Deputy Superintendent of Police/Additional Superintendent of Police and at Police Commissionerate level Assistant Police Commissioners will monitor the service of processes by the concerned police stations under their local jurisdiction and if any laxity will be found Supervisory officers will be accountable.

vii. Every Nodal Officer will be responsible for execution of service of processes (summons /warrants/ notices) under their local jurisdiction.

viii. Work of Nodal Officers will be regularly assessed by Additional Director General of Police (Zonal) and Regional Inspector General of Police / Deputy Inspector General of Police in case of any laxity, he will inform the Headquarter of Director General of Police.

ix. As discussed above D.G. Circular no. 30/2023 dated 16.08.2023 has been partially changed as Superintendent of Police will be a Nodal Officer in place of Additional Superintendent of Police. A copy of DG police circular dated 10.10.23 is annexed as Annexure No.3 to this affidavit.?

7. The Government Orders and the directions issued by the Principal Secretary (Home), Government of U.P., Lucknow as well as Director General of Police, Government of U.P., Lucknow extracted herein earlier from now on shall be treated as orders of this Court for purposes of implementation.

8. The Director General of Police, Government of U.P., Lucknow and other responsible officials shall ensure strict compliance of the directions extracted earlier.

9. Registers of processes to be maintained under Rule 12 of the General Rules (Criminal) shall be regularly updated by the learned trial courts.

10. The Judicial Training and Research Institute report submitted by Shri Vinod Kumar Rawat, Director, Judicial Training and Research Institute in regard to expeditious service of summons and execution of coercive measures to compel the appearance of witnesses shall also be examined by the Government.

11. It needs to be emphasized that non appearance of witnesses is one very critical factor but not the sole cause for delays in trials. Hence, this cause of delay cannot be looked at in isolation to the exclusion of infrastructure which is required for discharge of judicial functions. For a long term and enduring solution, a composite vision has to be adopted and holistic endeavours have to be made. Mere presence of witnesses in itself will not be sufficient to curtail the delays in the trials. The problem of delayed trials requires that various elements of judicial infrastructure have to grow in tandem with the administrative scheme drawn up by the Uttar Pradesh Police and the State Government for compelling appearance of witnesses.

12. The Government, other stakeholders as well as the Courts shall strive to meet all corresponding requirements of the Courts; and make endeavours to upgrade infrastructure so that witnesses can be duly examined when they appear before the trial court on the appointed dates.

13. The directions issued by the Director General of Police, Government of U.P. as well as Principal Secretary (Home) shall be treated as directions of this Court.

Order in Bail Application

14. This is the second bail application.

15. By means of the the bail application the applicant has prayed to be enlarged on bail in Case Crime No. 483 of 2020 at Police Station- Dankaur, District- Gautam Budh Nagar under Sections 498A, 304B, 201, 120B IPC and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act. The applicant is in jail since 08.03.2021.

16. The applicant is on interim bail granted by this Court by order dated 22.05.2023.

17. The applicant is entitled to bail for the reasons narrated in the order passed this Court on 22.05.2023.

18. Let the applicant- Jitendra be granted bail in the aforesaid case crime number under the same conditions.

19. The bail application is allowed.

20. Government Advocate to send a copy of this order to Director General of Police, Government of U.P. and Principal Secretary(Home), Government of U.P., Lucknow.

21. The Court appreciates the assistance rendered by Shri Ashok Mehta, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Shri Paritosh Kumar Malviya, learned AGA-I for the State.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1320
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 29.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE KARUNESH SINGH PAWAR, J.

Crl. Misc. Bail Application No. 15239 of 2022

Yogendra Kumar ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Applicant:

Sunil Kumar, Akhil Bajpai, Madima Trivedi, Rakesh Kumar Tripathi

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985-Section 50, 52A- Non-compliance of Sectiontion 50 NDPS Act- not been searched by the gazetted officer or by the magistrate- no independent witness to the recovery- no other case under NDPS Act-Bail Application allowed. (E-9)

Cases cited:

1. Bothilal Vs Narcotics Control Bureau, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 498

2. Simarnjit Singh Vs St. of Punjab, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 906

3. U.O.I.Vs Mohanlal,(2016) 3 SCC 379

4. Ranjitsing Brahmajeetsing Sharma Vs St. of Maharashtra, (2005) 5 SCC 294

5. Mohd. Muslim @ Hussain Vs St. of (NCT of Delhi): 2023 Livelaw (SC)260

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. It is alleged in the prosecution case that on 21.11.2022 at 5:20 hours, while the police party was patrolling and reached near Janjadwapur crossing, one person was coming from Debiyapur on foot. On seeing the police personnel, he turned towards Jadwapur road and when the police tried to speak him, he started running, thereafter, he was followed and caught after 30 paces away. After being asked the reason for running, he confessed his guilt. Upon being apprised that under NDPS Act he has option to be searched by some gazetted officer or the magistrate, he gave his consent to be searched by the police officials who caught him. Written consent was taken from him and after that he was personally searched and bag held in his hand was also searched. From the bag, 11 wrappers were found, total weight of which was found to be 554 grams, out of which 40 gram was taken as a sample and remaining contraband was sealed.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that there is total non-compliance of Section 50 NDPS Act. The applicant has not been searched by the gazetted officer or by the magistrate. There is no independent witness to the recovery. The applicant is languishing in jail since 21.11.2022. The applicant has explained his criminal history in para 13 of the bail application. There is no other case under NDPS Act against the applicant.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that there is total non-compliance of Section 52A of NDPS Act. The samples have been drawn on the spot and not in front of the magistrate. Prosecution has not obtained any certificate from the magistrate as required under Section 52A of NDPS Act. No photographs of the substance have been taken. Even no application has been filed before the magistrate under sub section 2 of Section 52A of NDPS Act. The alleged contraband has been seized and representative samples have been drawn without the permission of the concerned magistrate. List of samples so drawn have not been certified by the magistrate. The process of drawing the samples is not under supervision of the magistrate and the entire exercise has not been certified by the magistrate.

5. It is further submitted that there is no possibility of the applicant of fleeing away after being released from jail or tampering with the witnesses. In case the applicant is enlarged on bail, he shall not misuse the liberty of bail.

6. Learned AGA has opposed the bail application submitting that the applicant has a criminal history of 9 cases and therefore, he is not entitled to be enlarged on bail. However, he could not show anything from the record that there is compliance of Section 52A of NDPS Act.

7. Learned counsel for the applicant in support of his contention has relied on the judgment of the Supreme Court passed in the case of "Bothilal v. Narcotics Control Bureau, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 498". Emphasis is on para 16 of the judgment. He has further placed reliance on the judgment of the Supreme Court passed in the case of "Simarnjit Singh v. State of Punjab, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 906", wherein the Court while relying on the judgment of "Union of India v. Mohanlal, (2016) 3 SCC 379", has held that drawing of samples from all the packets at the time of seizure is not in conformity with the law laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Mohanlal (supra).

8. So far as the criminal history of the applicant is concerned, he has relied on the judgment of the Supreme Court passed in the case of "Ranjitsing Brahmajeetsing Sharma v. State of Maharashtra, (2005) 5 SCC 294". Emphasis is on para 49 of the judgment.

9. Perused the record.

10. From perusal of the record, prima facie it appears that recovery was effected from polythene carried out by the accused and allegedly the said polythene contained 554 gram of alprazolam and prima facie there appears to be a clear non-compliance of the mandate of Section 52 A of NDPS Act as drawing of representative samples have not been done in presence of the magistrate. There is no record to show that samples have been enlisted and the correctness of the list of sample so drawn have been certified by the magistrate, neither there are any photographs of the substance which were taken in presence of the magistrate, thus, prima facie mandate of Section 52A(3) NDPS Act is not followed.

11. In view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Bothilal (supra), recovery made by the prosecution prima facie becomes doubtful being an act of violation of Section 52A of NDPS Act, hence, following the law explained in the case of Mohd. Muslim @ Hussain Vs. State of (NCT of Delhi): 2023 Livelaw (SC)260, the first test of Section 37 of NDPS Act is satisfied in this case. The applicant has no criminal history of the offence under NDPS Act and the criminal history of rest of the cases cannot be portrayed as a bar as held by the Supreme Court in the case of Ranjitsing Brahmajeetsing Sharma (supra), hence, the second test is also satisfied.

12. Accordingly, in view of the discussions made herein above, I am of the opinion that the applicant is entitled to be enlarged on bail.

13. The bail application is allowed.

14. Let the applicant, Yogendra Kumar, involved in Case Crime/FIR No. 357/2022, under Sections 8/22 NDPS Police Station - Sadarpur, District - Sitapur, be released on bail on his furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions which are being imposed in the interest of justice:-

(i) The applicant will not tamper with the evidence during the trial.

(ii) The applicant will not pressurize/ intimidate the prosecution witness.

(iii) The applicant shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer or tamper with the evidence.

(iv) The applicant shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the dates fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present in court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the trial court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law.

(v) The applicant shall remain present before the trial court on each date fixed, either personally or through his counsel. In case of his absence, without sufficient cause, the trial court may proceed against him under Section 229-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(vi) In case, the applicant misuses the liberty of bail during trial and in order to secure his presence proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is issued and the applicant fails to appear before the court on the date fixed in such proclamation, then, the trial court shall initiate proceedings against him, in accordance with law, under Section 174-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1323
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 25.01.2024

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE KRISHNA PAHAL, J.

Crl. Misc. Bail Application No. 17725 of 2023

Anil Kumar Mishra ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Niraj Kumar Dwivedi, Sri Pradeep Kumar Singh, Sri Prabhakar Awasthi

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A., Sri Saurabh Chaturvedi, Sri Shyam Shankar Mishra, Sri I.K. Chaturvedi, Sri Rajat Sharma

Bail-Allegation- amount of Rs. 34,79,175/- has been embezzled- FIR lodged regarding the embezzlement of amount of Rs. 31,39,638/- only-all the withdrawal has been made through cheques - no FSL report on record to suggest that the signatures have been forged-applicant has no criminal history- grant of bail is a rule and refusal is an exception. Bail Application allowed. (E-9)

Cases cited:

1. Emperor Vs H.L. Hutchinson, AIR 1931 All 356

(Delivered by Hon'ble Krishan Pahal, J.)

1. List has been revised.

2. Heard Sri Prabhakar Awasthi and Sri Niraj Kumar Dwivedi, learned counsels for the applicant and Sri I.K. Chaturvedi, learned Advocate assisted by Sri Rajat Sharma, learned counsel for the informant as well as Sri R.P. Patel, learned A.G.A. for the State and also perused the record.

3. Applicant seeks bail in F.I.R./Case Crime No. 55 of 2023, under Sections 420, 409, 467, 468, 471 IPC, Police Station Sujanganj, District Jaunpur, during the pendency of trial.

PROSECUTION STORY:-

4. As per prosecution story, the applicant is stated to be the Additional Clerk in the institution being run by the informant, who happens to be its manager. The job of the applicant was to take care of the documents of the College including pertaining to the bank accounts in Union

Bank of India, Branch Sujanganj, Jaunpur and he used to take care of all the transactions. Without any information, the applicant is stated to have absented himself since 9.3.2022. Despite many letters and reminders being sent to the applicant, no clarification was accorded by him. On suspicion, the statement of the account of the institution was taken from the Bank which indicated that an amount of Rs. 31,39,638/- has been wrongly withdrawn and the same has been transferred to the account number 366602010020750 of the applicant and he has misused the same.

5. It is also alleged in the FIR that the applicant had forged the signatures of the informant on the cheques and has caused loss to the State Ex-chequer including the institution. The Principal of the institution is also stated to have sent several letters to the applicant but he did not respond to any of them. On 16.1.2023, the Management Committee of the institution held an extraordinary meeting and passed a resolution that a 3-member committee shall open the wardrobe belonging to the applicant and get it video graphed. The said 3-member committee of Vijay Shankar Mishra, Sri Rakesh Kumar Tiwari and Heera Lal, in presence of the informant, had broke open the said wardrobe on 28th, 29th and 30th of January, 2023 and found several documents and files missing from it. A bare perusal of the record indicated that the applicant (Anil Kumar Mishra) had interpolated the documents and had taken them away.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS:

Contention On Behalf of Applicant:-

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has stated that the applicant is maliciously being prosecuted in the present case due to ulterior motive and has the apprehension of his arrest. The applicant has nothing to do with the said offence as alleged by the prosecution. Learned counsel has next stated that the applicant is stated to be working on the said post since 2018. Learned counsel has further stated that as per the letters sent to the applicant dated 25.12.2022, filed as Annexure-7 to the affidavit, an amount of Rs. 18,09,263/- is stated to have been withdrawn by the applicant, an amount of Rs. 13,30,375/- is stated to have been withdrawn by Kallu, and an amount of Rs. 3,39,537/- is stated to have been withdrawn by one Shyam Bahadur Yadav. It is next stated that the said letter indicates towards the embezzlement of Rs. 34,79,175/- but the FIR has been instituted regarding the embezzlement of Rs. 31,39,638/- only, which pertains to the said amount withdrawn by the applicant and Kallu. Learned counsel has stated that the said fact itself falsifies the prosecution story. It is stated that the alleged third person i.e. Shyam Bahadur Yadav had deposited the said amount in the account of the institution.

7. Learned counsel has stated that the co-accused person Kallu is stated to have sent a letter to the Manager/Principal of the institution on 18.4.2023 stating that he was ready to return the stipulated amount of Rs. 13,30,375/- due towards him. It is also alleged by the said person Kallu that it was the applicant, who used to give him cheques and take him to the Branch of the Bank and used to get the amount withdrawn from the account and retained the money with him. He was fleeced and fooled on the ground that he shall be promoted from Class IV employee to the post of Clerk. It is stated that the said statement is also contradictory, as the said Kallu is stated to be committing the said forgery from the year 2013 and the applicant came into existence on the said post in the year 2018, as such, the complete prosecution story falls to the ground.

8. Learned counsel has also stated that all the money transactions have taken place through cheques and there is no FSL report on record to suggest that the said signatures of the informant have been forged by anybody. Learned counsel has further stated that no bank official could pass such large number of cheques bearing fake signatures without collusion.

9. Learned counsel has also placed reliance on the account statement of the applicant filed as Annexure-2 to the rejoinder affidavit dated 11.1.2024, whereby he has indicated that the money deposited was immediately withdrawn, as is evident from the transactions dated 6.11.2018, 29.5.2019, 12.7.2019, 30.8.2019, 30.12.2019, 17.1.2020, 8.5.2020, 5.8.2020 and 18.5.2021. Learned counsel has stated that it was the modus operandi of the informant was that he himself issued cheques to the applicant and other persons including Kallu and Shyam Bahadur Yadav and used to retain the amount in cash with him but he has himself exonerated the two other persons and the applicant has been made a scapegoat by the informant, to save his own skin.

10. Several other submissions have been made on behalf of the applicant to demonstrate the falsity of the allegations made against him. The circumstances which, as per counsel, led to the false implication of the applicant have also been touched upon at length. It is further stated that there is no criminal history of the applicant. The applicant is languishing in jail since 17.3.2023. In case, the applicant is released on bail, he will not misuse the liberty of bail.

Contention On Behalf Of The Informant:-

11. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. and learned Senior Counsel for the informant have vehemently opposed the prayer for grant of anticipatory bail on the ground that the applicant is the chief architect of the said crime and the signatures on the said cheques through which the amount has been withdrawn have been sent to the forensic laboratory by the investigating officer, although final report (charge sheet) has been filed. The FSL report is still awaited. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the said amount received in the account of the applicant has been siphoned off to the loan account of the applicant and even income tax has been paid from it.

CONCLUSION:-

12. This Court in Emperor vs. H.L. Hutchinson, AIR 1931 All 356, has observed that the grant of bail is a rule and refusal is an exception. A liberal interpretation to the provision for bail is the cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence. It has also been observed by the Apex Court and this Court in a number of judgements that bail is not to be withheld as a punishment.

13. Keeping in view the nature of the offence, evidence on record regarding complicity of the accused, larger mandate of the Article 21 of the Constitution of India, and taking into consideration the fact that in total, an amount of Rs. 34,79,175/- has been embezzled and FIR has been instituted regarding the embezzlement of amount of Rs. 31,39,638/- only, as such, there cannot be pick and choose in the said matter of embezzlement and also taking into consideration that all the withdrawal has been made through cheques and there is no FSL report on record to suggest that the signatures have been forged, coupled with the fact that the applicant has no criminal history, without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, the Court is of the view that the applicant has made out a case for bail. The bail application is allowed.

14. Let the applicant- Anil Kumar Mishra who is involved in aforementioned case crime be released on bail on his furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned subject to following conditions. Further, before issuing the release order, the sureties be verified.

(i) The applicant shall not tamper with evidence.

(ii) The applicant shall remain present, in person, before the Trial Court on dates fixed for (1) opening of the case, (2) framing of charge and (3) recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the Trial Court absence of the applicant is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the Trial Court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of bail and proceed against him in accordance with law.

15. In case of breach of any of the above conditions, it shall be a ground for cancellation of bail.

16. It is made clear that observations made in granting bail to the applicant shall not in any way affect the learned trial Judge in forming his independent opinion based on the testimony of the witnesses.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1326
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 08.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE ASHWANI KUMAR MISHRA, J.
THE HON'BLE MS. NAND PRABHA SHUKLA, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 3 of 2019

Ajay Kumar ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Radhey Shyam Yadav, Sri Indra Sen Singh, Sri Sachin Mishra, Sri Dileep Kumar (Sr. Advocate)

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 302, 404, 406, 420, 467, 468 & 471 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 27, 173 & 313 - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 27 - Appellant challenged conviction under Sections 302, 404, 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. for murder of elderly couple and unauthorized withdrawal from their bank account. Court held: (1) Prosecution failed to prove appellant's involvement in homicidal deaths, as postmortem showed ante-mortem injuries but no poisoning evidence contradicted confession; viscera report negative for toxins (Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs St. of Mah., AIR 1984 SC 1622). (2) Recovery of deceased's mobile from appellant unproven, as sole witness (PW-1) turned hostile and no Section 27 disclosure St.ment existed (Pulukuri Kottaya Vs King-Emperor, AIR 1947 PC 67). (3) Unauthorized withdrawal of Rs. 6,70,000/- using appellant's cheque leaflets from deceased's account established, but bank officials' complicity and Shahnawaj's role unexplained; appellant's loss report and address change probablized non-involvement (St. of Mah. Vs Damu, (2000) 6 SCC 269). (4) Circumstantial evidence chain incomplete; no motive beyond uncorroborated loan repayment, and alternate hypothesis (cheque book theft) viable (Jabir Vs St. of Uttarakhand, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 32). (5) Appellant's quick shift to new residence post-incident not proven, as bank records showed prior address change. Conviction and sentence reversed; appellant acquitted. (Paras 24-40)

Criminal Appeal Allowed.

Case Law Cited:

1. Sharad Birdichand Sarda Vs St. of Mah., AIR 1984 SC 1622 (Para 38)

2. Hanumant Vs St. of M.P., AIR 1952 SC 343 (Para 38)

3. Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade Vs St. of Mah., (1973) 2 SCC 793 (Para 38)

4. Pulukuri Kottaya Vs King-Emperor, AIR 1947 PC 67 (Para 28)

5. St. of Mah. Vs Damu, (2000) 6 SCC 269 (Para 33)

6. Jabir Vs St. of Uttarakhand, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 32 (Para 38)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ms. Nand Prabha Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Dileep Kumar, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Sachin Mishra, who have appeared to assist the Court as Amicus Curiae and Ms. Archana Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing for the State.

2. This Criminal (Capital) Appeal has been filed by the accused/appellant Ajay Kumar against the Judgement and Order dated 04.04.2019 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Auraiya in Sessions Trial No. 54 of 2016 (State Vs. Ajay Kumar and 3 others) arising out of Case Crime No. 142 of 2014, under Sections 452, 302/34, 506 and 225 IPC, Police Station-Arwakatra, District-Auraiya whereby appellant has been convicted and sentenced to death for offence under Section 302 IPC and to pay a fine of Rs. 1,00,000/-, for offence under Section 452 IPC to undergo rigorous imprisonment for three years and a fine of Rs. 5000/- and in Sessions Trial No. 55 of 2016 (State Vs. Ajay Kumar) arising out of Case Crime No. 143 of 2014, under Section 25/27 of the Arms Act, Police Station-Arwakatra, District-Auraiya whereby appellant has been convicted for offence under Section 25 of the Arms Act and to undergo rigorous imprisonment for three years and a fine of Rs. 5000/-, for offence under Section 27 of the Arms Act to undergo rigorous imprisonment for five years and a fine of Rs. 5000/-. The fine shall be recoverable as an arrear of revenue. In default of payment of fine, there shall be no stipulation for additional imprisonment. Eighty per cent of the fine recovered shall be payable to the parents of the deceased as compensation.

3. In the present matter, the Trial Court has proceeded to send a Reference under Section 366 Cr.P.C. for confirmation of death sentence which is being decided herein below:-

4. Prosecution story, in brief, is as follows:-

The first informant Ram Pratap Awasthi, son of Shiv Shankar Lal, resident of Erwatipur, Police Station-Arwakatra, District-Auraiya moved a written Tehrir dated 10.10.2014 at 20:10 P.M. stating that on 10.10.2014 at around 6:30 P.M., when the first informant was sitting in his house talking to Prabha Kant and Ravish Kumar while his young daughter Km. Nisha, aged about 14 years, was busy studying in the courtyard, in the meantime, his neighbourer Ajay Kumar, son of Ram Naresh alias Naresh Chandra Kori, entered into the house and fired at his daughter on her chest with a country-made pistol. Hearing the noise, people gathered and tried to nab the accused but the accused escaped leaving the country-made pistol on the spot. While nabbing, the parts of his torn clothes were left in his hands. The mother of the accused Radha Devi, brother Vijay and his wife intervened and helped him in escaping. Accused Ajay Kumar often stalked his daughter while she was on her way to school and extended threats. He did not complain to anyone due to family prestige. His daughter died on the spot due to fire-arm injury. Hence the FIR.

5. Thus, on the basis of the written report (Tehrir), a Chik FIR No. 142/2014, under Sections 452, 302, 506/34 IPC, Police Station Arwakatra, District-Auraiya was registered against four persons on 10.10.2014. The investigation was entrusted to Station House Officer-Vinod Kumar.

6. On 11.10.2014, on the pointing of accused/appellant Ajay Kumar, a country-made pistol of 315 bore, an empty cartridge and five live cartridges were recovered in a plastic bag kept inside his house. On the basis of which another FIR arising out of Case Crime No. 143 of 2014, under Section 25/27 of the Arms Act, Police Station Arwakatra, District-Auraiya was registered against Ajay Kumar.

7. During the course of investigation, plain earth and blood stained earth were recovered on 10.10.2014. The inquest report was prepared on 10.10.2014 at 9.00 P.M. On 11.10.2014, post-mortem report was prepared. During the post-mortem examination, following ante-mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased (Km. Nisha):-

"(i) Entry Firearm wound size (1x1 cm) right side of chest in upper inner quadrant of breast 9 cm away from nipple. Blackening present. Margin inverted.

(ii) Exit wound of Firearm 11 cm, below left scapula and 12 cm. from spinal cord Size (1.5 x 1.5) cm.

(iii) Injury No. 1st through and through injury No. 2nd."

8. The cause of death was shown as 'shock and haemorrhage' due to firearm injury.

9. On 12.10.2014, the site plan was prepared and, subsequently, statement of witnesses were recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. After completion of investigation, the charge-sheet was submitted in Case Crime No. 142 of 2014 against Ajay Kumar and 3 others under Sections 302, 452, 506 IPC and the co-accused Vijay, Radha Devi and Geeta Devi were charge-sheeted additionally under Section 225 IPC and in Case Crime No. 143 of 2014 only appellant Ajay Kumar was charge-sheeted under Section 25/27 of the Arms Act.

10. After taking cognizance, the charges were framed in Sessions Trial No. 54 of 2016 against Ajay Kumar, Smt. Radha Devi, Vijay and Geeta Devi, under Sections 452, 302, 34, 506 IPC and against Radha Devi, Vijay and Geeta Devi under Section 225 IPC as well. In Sessions Trial No. 55 of 2016, the charges were framed against Ajay Kumar under Section 25/27 of the Arms Act. The accused denied their guilt and claimed to be tried.

11. During the trial proceedings, six prosecution witnesses were examined.

(i) P.W.-1 Ram Pratap Awasthi (father of the deceased/eye witness)

(ii) P.W.-2 Smt. Shashi Prabha (mother of the deceased/eye witness)

(iii) P.W.-3 Ram Chandra Shukla, (Panch Witness)

(iv) P.W.-4 Dr. Shailendra Kumar Singh, (conducted the post mortem)

(v) P.W.-5 S.I. Vinod Yadav (Investigating Officer)

(vi) P.W.-6 Awaneesh Dwivedi (I.O. of Case Crime No. 143 of 2014).

12. After the closure of prosecution evidence, statement of all the accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused/appellant denied the commission of crime and stated that due to village party bandi, he was falsely implicated in the present case. The other co-accused also denied the commission of crime.

13. The accused-appellant Ajay was convicted by the Trial Court under Sections 302, 452 IPC and Section 25/27 of the Arms Act and was acquitted from rest all other charges. The co-accused Radha Devi, Geeta and Vijay were acquitted from all the charges by the Trial Court.

14. The accused/appellant Ajay Kumar after having been convicted under Sections 302, 452, IPC and Section 25/27 of Arms Act preferred the present Criminal (Capital) Appeal challenging the Judgement and Order dated 04.04.2019. A Death Reference No. 02 of 2019 has also been filed under Section 366 Cr.P.C. for the confirmation of death sentence.

15. At the outset, learned counsel for the accused-appellant argued that during the trial proceedings, reasonable opportunity was denied to the defence to cross-examine the prosecution witnesses. Though application (63Kha) was moved to recall P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 for cross examination, but it was rejected by the learned Trial Court. It was also argued that the compliance of section 309 Cr.P.C. was not done.

16. Referring to the order-sheet recorded by the Trial Court, it transpires that only two witnesses of fact were examined i.e. P.W.-1, Ram Pratap Awasthi (informant/Father/Eye Witness) and P.W.2, Smt. Shashi Prabha, (Mother/Eye Witness).

17. The examination-in-chief of PW-1 Ram Pratap Awasthi (father of the deceased/first informant) was recorded on 1.10.2016. The order-sheet shows that PW-1 was examined as a witness by the prosecution and his examination-in-chief was recorded on 1.10.2016. PW-1 in his statement has stated that the incident is of 10.10.2014 at about 6.30 in the evening when he was at home and talking to Prabhakant Dubey, Ravish Kumar Tiwari and his fourteen year old young daughter was studying in the courtyard. It was at this stage that the accused Ajay Kumar Kori entered the house and fired on the deceased by a country-made pistol on her chest. Hearing the voice, near-by residents also came to the house. Although the witness tried to apprehend him but on account of country-made pistol as well as threat rendered to him by his wife, mother Radha Devi and brother Vijay, the accused could flee from the place of occurrence. PW-1 further stated that the accused/appellant used to harass his daughter and often stalked her. This fact was disclosed by the deceased on which he had scolded the accused but the accused extended threats and said that he would take away his daughter and would kill him. With an intent to save the prestige of the family, he had not reported the incident to the police. The deceased, consequently, stopped going to school and the witness was looking after her. It is for this reason that the accused committed the murder of the deceased. He had got the written report scribed by Awadesh Kumar, and has proved it, which got marked as Ex.Ka.1. He has further disclosed that the police came on the spot and inquest was conducted whereafter the body was sent for postmortem. His statement was recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. PW-1 also showed the spot where the incident occurred. The cross examination of the PW-1 was deferred on an application for adjournment moved on behalf of the defence. The order-sheet clearly shows that the accused was present in the court on 1.10.2016. The case was adjourned to 6.10.2016.

18. On 6.10.2016, the accused was produced from the jail who refused to put his signatures. Co-accused Geeta Devi was present. The witness i.e. PW-1, however, was not present. Summons were thus issued to the witness fixing 21.10.2016 as the date.

19. On 21.10.2016 also the accused was produced from the jail but he did not incorporate his signatures. PW-1 was present. The matter, however, was deferred to 7.11.2016. The order-sheet dated 21.10.2016 is reproduced hereinafter:-

21.10.16

"पुकार पर अभियुक्त अजय जिला कारागार से जेरे हिरासत हाजिर आया। किन्तु आदेश तक हस्ताक्षर नही किये। साक्षी रामप्रताप अवस्थी हाजिर आये। शेष अभियुक्ता गीता देवी, राधा देवी जेरे जमानत हाजिर आये।

पत्रावली वास्ते शेष साक्ष्य दिनांक 7.11.16 को पेश हो।"

20. From the perusal of the order-sheet of 21.10.2016, it appears that no proceedings were conducted and it is even doubtful whether the witness was put to cross examination. For further evidence the matter was deferred to 7.11.2016.

21. On 7.11.2016 again the accused was produced from the jail but he denied making signatures on the order-sheet. The witness i.e. PW-1 was again not present and the court passed an order for summoning of the witness. This is clearly reflected from the order-sheet of 7.11.2016. The order-sheet dated 7.11.2016 is reproduced hereinafter:-

07.11.16

"पुकार पर अभियुक्त अजय जिला कारागार से उपस्थित आया लेकिन हस्ताक्षर करने से मना किया अभियुक्त विजय की हा० मा० जरिये अधि० माफ। अभियुक्ता गीता देवी व राधा देवी जमानत पर उपस्थित है। साक्षी अनु० साक्षी तलव हो। पत्रावली वास्ते साक्ष्य दिनांक 21.11.16 को पेश हो।"

22. On 21.11.2016 the accused was again produced from the jail. Application for adjournment was allowed by imposing a cost of Rs.1,000/-. From the perusal of order-sheet dated 21.11.2016 it is not clear as to whether the witness was even present on that day or not? There is no mentioning in the order-sheet about the presence of PW-1. The order-sheet dated 21.11.2016 is thus reproduced hereinafter:-

21.11.16

"पुकार पर अजय जिला कारागार से जेरे हिरासत हाजिर आया। अभियुक्त विजय की ओर से 26ख दिया गया सुना स्वीकृत। शेष अभियुक्त गण गीता, राधा देवी हाजिर आयी। अभियुक्त की ओर से स्थगन प्रा० पत्र 27ख वास्ते जिरह हेतु अन्य तिथि दिलाये जाने के लिए दिया था।

आदेश हुआ Heard. Approved.

Allowed Rs. One thousand according Cost be deposited to the Gov. Account.

Put up on 5.12.16

ह० अपठनीय

ASJ/FTC I"

23. On 5.12.2016 the accused was produced from the jail. PW-1 was present. Defence, however, did not examine the witness. Trial court noticed that the examination-in-chief was conducted on 1.10.2016 and the defence was deliberately not cross-examining the witness. The witness also informed that he had been extended threats. It is at this stage that the right to cross-examine PW-1 was forfeited and the proceedings were adjourned to 21.12.2016. The order-sheet dated 5.12.2016 is reproduced hereinafter:-

05.12.16

"सत्र परीक्षण पेश हुआ पुकार कराई गई अभियुक्त अजय जेर हिरासत जेल से हाजिर आया। अभियुक्ता राधा देवी की हाजिरी माफी प्रार्थना पत्र केवल आज के लिए स्वीकृत। अभियुक्तगण गीता व विजय जेर जमानत हाजिर आए, गवाह राम प्रताप अवस्थी (PW-1) हाजिर आया। बचाव पक्ष द्वारा जिरह नहीं की गई। गवाह राम प्रताप अवस्थी की मुख्य परीक्षा दि०01/10/16 को अंकित की गई है और बचाव पक्ष द्वारा जानबूझ कर जिरह नहीं की जा रही है। समय 03 बजकर 22 मिनट हो रहा है। कोई स्थगन प्रार्थना पत्र भी नही दिया गया। गवाह राम प्रताप अवस्थी द्वारा कहा गया कि उसे जान से मारने की धमकी मुल्जिमान की ओर से दी जा रही है। गवाह PW-1 श्री राम प्रताप अवस्थी से बचाव पक्ष का जिरह का अवसर समाप्त किया जाता है। पत्रावली दि०21/12/16 वास्ते शेष साक्ष्य पेश हो।"

24. From the proceedings of the trial, it is clearly reflected that the examination-in-chief of PW-1 was held on 1.10.2016. The cross-examination on that day was deferred on the prayer of the defence. On 6.10.2016 and 7.11.2016, PW-1 was not present and, therefore, the question of his cross-examination on these two dates would not arise. In the order-sheet of 21.10.2016 there is no mention that the witness was produced for cross-examination or that the defence failed to cross-examine him. On 21.11.2016 also it is not clear as to whether the witness was present in court or not. On 5.12.2016 the right to cross-examine PW-1 was nevertheless forfeited. On the date when the witness was present, the defence did not cross-examine him on the plea that their lawyer Saurabh Pathak was engaged in some other matter.

25. There is nothing on record to show that the accused was warned by the court that if his lawyer fails to cross-examine the witness then his testimony would be read against him. The trial court also made no endeavours to offer the services of an Amicus Curiae, who could have conducted cross-examination on behalf of the accused. The accused was also not informed that he could himself cross-examine PW-1 if he so wishes. The order-sheet reveals that though the right of cross-examination was forfeited by the trial court on 5.12.2016 but the proceedings were routinely adjourned and the next witness i.e. Shashi Prabha (PW-2), who happens to be the mother of the deceased was produced in evidence on 7.5.2018.

26. The testimony of PW-2 has been produced before us as per which the incident occurred at about 6.30 PM when the witness was cooking food and her husband (PW-1) was sitting with villagers Prabhakant and Ravish Kumar. Her daughter aged fourteen years was studying in the courtyard. It is at this stage that the accused entered the house and shot at the chest of his young daughter with a country-made pistol. Hearing the gunshot, neighbours from the locality rushed to the spot. Effort was made to apprehend the accused but he fled. PW-2 also stated that her daughter was harassed by the accused on account of which she had stopped going to the school. The accused felt annoyed and maintained enmity for such reasons. On 7.5.2018 both the counsels of accused did not turned up to cross-examine PW-2. The right of cross-examination on that day itself was forfeited. For the remaining evidence, the matter was deferred to 12.6.2018. The accused undisputedly was present in court. The part of the order-sheet dated 7.5.2018 is reproduced hereinafter:-

"x x x x x x x x x x x

अभियुक्तगण के दोनो विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं को सूचना दी गयी परन्तु विद्वान अधिवक्ता गण प्रतिपरीक्षा हेतु नहीं आये। अतः अवसर समाप्त किया जाता है।

कोर्ट सर्टिफिकेट सुनकर तस्दीक किया।

ह० अपठनीय

ह० अपठनीय

ए०डी०जे०-1 औरैया

ए०डी०जे०-1 औरैया

07.5.18

07.5.18

ह० शशिप्रभा"

07.05.2018:-

"पुकार पर अभियुक्तगण जेल से हाजिर आये। साक्षी श्रीमती शशि प्रभा उपस्थित आयी PW-2 अंकित किया गया। पत्रावली वास्ते शेष साक्ष्य दिनांक 12/6/18 को पेश हो। शेष साक्षी तलब हो।

ह० अपठनीय

ADJ I Au."

27. From the order-sheet, it is clear that PW-2 was not examined since the two lawyers of accused failed to turn up. There is nothing in the order-sheet to show that any legal aid was offered to the accused or he was told about his right to cross-examine the witness.

28. During the course of arguments, learned counsel for the accused/appellant carried our attention to the application 63 (Kha) dated 15.03.2019 which was moved by the defence seeking permission for the cross-examination of P.W.-1/first informant, on the ground, that their opportunity of cross-examining the prosecution witnesses was closed. The order-sheet of the Trial Court is as follows:-

Order dated 15.03.2019:-

"पुकार पर अभियुक्तगण हाजिर आये। अभियुक्तगण के अधिवक्ता ने 63ख प्रा०पत्र वादी से जिरह करने की अनुमति हेतु दिया।

P.O. महोदय केन्द्रीय नजारत के वार्षिक मुआइने में व्यस्त है।

सत्र परीक्षण वास्ते सुनवाई 63 ख प्रा०पत्र व साक्ष्य 313 CrPC दिनाँक 25-3-19 को पेश हो।

ह० अपठनीय

S.J. Auraiya"

29. On 25.3.2019, the application for recall of witness was considered and rejected by the court below vide following orders:-

25.03.2019:-

"पत्रावली पेश। अभियुक्तगण उपस्थित है।

आवेदन ६३ ख का निस्तारणः-

यह आवेदन अजय कुमार आदि की ओर से इस आशय का प्रस्तुत किया गया है कि वादी मुकदमा से जिरह समाप्त कर दी गयी है, इसलिए, वादी मुकदमा से जिरह का अवसर प्रदान किया जाना चाहिए।

सुना तथा पत्रावली का अवलोकन किया।

पत्रावली के अवलोकन से ज्ञात होता है कि यह पत्रावली आज धारा 313 दं०प०सं० के बयानों में नियत है। वादी पी०डब्लू०-१ का बयान दिनांक ०१.१०.२०१६ को दर्ज किया गया। इस तिथि को इस साक्षी से जिरह करने के लिए कोई अधिवक्ता उपस्थित नहीं हुए, इसलिए जिरह का अवसर समाप्त किया गया। इस प्रकार दो वर्ष से अधिक अवधि व्यतीत हो जाने के बाद यह आवेदन प्रस्तुत किया गया है, जो जाहिर करता है कि अभियुक्तों का उद्देश्य विचारण में देरी कारित करने का है। अन्यथा धारा 313 दं०प०सं० के अन्तर्गत नियत हो जाने के पूर्व भी इस प्रकृति का आवेदन प्रस्तुत किया जा सकता था। आवेदन में यह तथ्य अंकित नहीं है कि नियत तिथि को साक्षी से जिरह क्यों नहीं की जा सकी। अतः आवेदन में जिरह न कर सकने का कारण नहीं दर्शाया गया है, न्यायालय द्वारा साक्षी से जिरह का पर्याप्त अवसर प्रदान किया गया है। आवेदन में कोई कारण दर्शित न करने के कारण यह निष्कर्ष दिया जाना सम्भव नहीं है कि क्या यथार्थ में ऐसा कारण मौजूद था, जिसकी वजह से अभियुक्तों द्वारा

पी०डब्लू०-१ से जिरह नहीं की जा सकी। अतः इस स्थिति में आवेदन ६३ख स्वीकार नहीं किया जा सकता है। तदनुसार आवेदन खारिज किया जाता है। धारा ३१३ दं०प०सं० के अन्तर्गत बयान दर्ज किये जाये।

ह० अपठनीय

सत्र न्यायाधीश,

औरैया"

30. PW-1 and PW-2 were the only two witnesses of fact produced by the prosecution. Their testimony forms the basis of conviction and sentence awarded to the accused. Denial of cross-examination of these two witnesses had serious adverse consequences for the accused. Cross-examination otherwise confers a valuable right upon the accused to challenge the credibility of witness and also test the veracity of their statement. Right of cross-examination cannot be taken away unless a fair opportunity is given to the accused to defend himself. Whether or not such fair opportunity has been given to the accused appellant in this case is the core question to be answered by us.

31. In order to consider the issue raised we may gainfully refer to the provisions contained in Section 309 and 231 Cr.P.C. which throw light on the manner in which a fair trial is to be conducted. Section 309 Cr.P.C. empowers the court to postpone or adjourn the proceedings. Sub-section 2 of Section 309 Cr.P.C. allows the court jurisdiction to postpone the commencement of, or adjourn, any inquiry or trial, from time to time for reasons to be recorded. The proviso to it stipulates that the remand of accused shall not exceed fifteen days at a time; provided further that witness are in attendance, no adjournment or postponement shall be granted without examining them, except for special reasons to be recorded in writing. The statute, however, provides that no adjournment would be granted at the request of a party unless the circumstances are beyond the control of that party. The fact that pleader of a party is engaged in another court is expressly excluded as a ground for adjournment. Power is also vested in the court to record the statement of witness if the party or his pleader is either not present or even though present is not ready to examine or cross-examine the witness. In such an event the court also has the power to dispense with the examination-in-chief or cross-examination of a witness, as the case may be. Section 231 Cr.P.C. of the Code, moreover, states that on the date fixed for the evidence of prosecution the Judge shall proceed to take all such evidence as may be produced in support of the prosecution. Sub-section 2 of Section 231 Cr.P.C. vests discretion in the Judge to defer cross-examination until other witness or witnesses have been examined or recall the witness for further cross-examination.

32. Upon a perusal of the order-sheet we have already noticed that on the date of examination-in-chief of PW-1 and PW-2, the defence lawyer did not cross-examine them. Right of cross-examination was forfeited in respect of PW-2 on the very day when her examination-in-chief was recorded. In respect of PW-1, the proceedings were adjourned to 6.10.2016 but on that day the witness himself was not present. On 21.10.2016 though PW-1 was present but the order-sheet nowhere records that the witness was produced for cross-examination and there was a failure on part of the defence to cross-examine him. On 7.11.2016 though PW-1was again not present and, therefore, it cannot be assumed that there is a failure on part of the defence to examine PW-1. On 21.11.2016 the proceedings were adjourned on the request of defence by imposing a cost of Rs.1,000/-. It is not clear as to whether the witness was not available for cross-examination in court. On 5.12.2016 the right of cross-examination of PW-1 was forfeited after noticing his statement that threats are being extended to him.

33. The order-sheet clearly reveals that PW-1 and PW-2 both were present for cross-examination but they were not cross-examined by the defence. The adjournment applications on record merely state that counsel for the defence was engaged elsewhere. Section 309 Cr.P.C. stipulates that engagement of pleader in another court cannot be a ground for adjournment.

34. The exercise of jurisdiction vested in the trial court to dispense with the cross-examination of an important witness, on account of failure on part of the lawyer to cross-examine the witness has to be examined in the context of valuable right of accused to cross-examine such witness. We cannot loose sight of the fact that accused often are not familiar with the procedures to be followed in a court of law or the consequences which may result on account of failure on part of his lawyer to cross-examine an important witness. The socio-economic conditions of the accused is also required to be kept in mind. Incalculable harm can be caused to an accused on account of incompetence on part of the lawyer. In this case the accused is to be sent to the gallows relying upon the testimony of the two witnesses who were never cross-examined on account of abdication of duties by the lawyer. We have also gone through the original records and find that various questions were available to the defence counsel for cross-examining the two witnesses of fact but those questions were never put. Since we are not inclined to make any observations regarding the merits of the case as such we refrain from elaborating any further on this aspect.

35. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Munna Pandey vs. State of Bihar 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1103 has quoted with approval Harry Browne to state that "A fair trial is one in which the rules of evidence are honored, the accused has competent counsel, and the judge enforces the proper court room procedures - a trial in which every assumption can be challenged."

(emphasis supplied by us)

36. Availability of a competent counsel is thus of critical importance in a fair trial. The rights of an accused cannot be protected if the lawyer is either not available or fails to act with due diligence. It is in this context that the courts have recognized the right in an accused to be defended by a competent lawyer. In a case where services of a lawyer are not available to the accused the court can appoint an Amicus Curiae to protect his right. In the context of hearing of a criminal appeal, the Supreme Court in Kabira vs. State of U.P. 1981 (Supp) SCC 76 held that dismissal of criminal appeal in default would not be a proper disposal. The court held that if the appellant was not present, the learned Judge should have appointed a lawyer as Amicus Curiae and then proceed to dispose of the appeal on merits. The following passages of the judgment of Kabira (supra) is extracted hereinafter:-

"We are, therefore, of the view that there has not been a proper disposal of the appeal preferred by the appellant. The appeal could not be dismissed by the learned Judge for default of appearance. If the appellant was not present, the learned Judge should have appointed some advocate as amicus curiae and then proceeded to dispose of the appeal on merit."

37. Recently in K. Muruganandam & Ors. vs. State of Rep. By the Deputy Superintendent of Police & Anr. 2021 SCC OnLine SC 690 the Court reiterated the observations made in Kabira (supra) in para 8 of their Lordships judgment which is reproduced hereinafter:-

"8. ……..if the accused does not appear through counsel appointed by him/her, the Court is obliged to proceed with the hearing of the case only after appointing an amicus curiae, but cannot dismiss the appeal merely because of non-representation or default of the advocate for the accused."

38. In Shaik Mukthar and Another vs. State of Andhra Pradesh (Now State of Telangana), (2020) 19 SCC 178 wherein it has been held that:

"It is by now well settled by a catena of judgments such as the decision of this Court in Rakesh & Anr. V. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2011 (12) SCC 513, that it is in the interest of justice to appoint an amicus curiae to assist the court where the accused is unrepresented. The Court may also refer the matter to the Legal Services Committee, which may appoint an advocate to represent the accused."

39. Learned Single Judge of this Court in Maneesh Pathak vs. State of U.P. 2023 SCC OnLine All 64 has emphasized the importance of personal liberty to observe that protection of liberty is the crown of the court processes. In the event of non-appearance of a prisoner's counsel the court may appoint an Amicus Curiae to proceed with the hearing of the matter. In Munna Pandey (supra) the Court has reiterated that free and fair trial is sine-qua-non of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. The importance of a free and fair trial has been emphasized in following words:-

"Free and fair trial is sine-qua-non of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. If the criminal trial is not free and fair, then the confidence of the public in the judicial fairness of a judge and the justice delivery system would be shaken. Denial to fair trial is as much injustice to the accused as to the victim and the society. No trial can be treated as a fair trial unless there is an impartial judge conducting the trial, an honest, able and fair defence counsel and equally honest, able and fair public prosecutor. A fair trial necessarily includes fair and proper opportunity to the prosecutor to prove the guilt of the accused and opportunity to the accused to prove his innocence."

(emphasis supplied by us)

40. In Rahul vs. State of Delhi Ministry of Home Affairs & Anr. (2022) Supreme (SC) 1136 the Court has emphasized the importance of the role to be played by a Judge in a criminal appeal. Referring to Section 165 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 the Court made following observations:-

"The Court is constrained to make these observations as the Court has noticed many glaring lapses having occurred during the course of the trial. It has been noticed from the record that out of the 49 witnesses examined by the prosecution, 10 material witnesses were not cross-examined and many other important witnesses were not adequately cross-examined by the defence counsel. It may be reminded that Section 165 of the Indian Evidence Act confers unbridled powers upon the trial courts to put any question at any stage to the witnesses to elicit the truth. As observed in several decisions, the Judge is not expected to be a passive umpire but is supposed to actively participate in the trial, and to question the witnesses to reach to a correct conclusion. This Court while not accepting the submission that it was improper for the Court to have interjected during the course of cross-examination of the witness, had observed in the case of State of Rajasthan vs. Ani alias Hanif and Others, (1997) 6 SCC 162 thus:

We are unable to appreciate the above criticism. Section 165 of the Evidence Act confers vast and unrestricted powers on the trial court to put "any question he pleases, in any form, at any time, of any witness, or of the parties, about any fact relevant or irrelevant" in order to discover relevant facts. The said section was framed by lavishly studding it with the word "any" which could only have been inspired by the legislative intent to confer unbridled power on the trial court to use the power whenever he deems it necessary to elicit truth. Even if any such question crosses into irrelevancy the same would not transgress beyond the contours of powers of the court. This is clear from the words "relevant or irrelevant" in Section 165. Neither of the parties has any right to raise objection to any such question."

41. Applying the principles relating to conduct of a fair trial in the facts of the present case we find that the Court of Sessions has not adequately protected the right of the accused who has been denied a fair trial in the matter. In the event the court intended to forfeit the right of cross-examination of the accused it ought to have alarmed the accused of the consequences which were to follow if the witnesses were not being cross-examined. The Court was also enjoined to offer an opportunity to the accused either to cross-examine the witness himself or to offer him the services of an Amicus Curiae so that the witness could be cross-examined. Unless adequate opportunity is offered to the accused to defend himself in a fair trial his conviction and sentence cannot be approved of in a country governed by rule of law. There is nothing on record to show that the trial Judge ever informed the accused of the consequences which were to befall on him on account of failure to cross-examine PW-1 and PW-2 nor the accused was extended the opportunity of legal aid by providing him an Amicus Curiae. The accused was also not informed of his right to cross-examine his witness if his lawyer was not available, before the testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 could be relied upon against the accused.

42. For the above reasons, we cannot confirm the death sentence awarded to the accused in the matter.

43. For all the afore-stated reasons, in the interest of justice and fair trial as well as taking all the circumstances collectively, we are of the considered view that the matter be remitted back to the Trial Court with a direction to afford the accused-appellant a fresh opportunity to cross-examine the prosecution witnesses (witnesses of fact) i.e. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 within a period of three months in accordance with law. The reference submitted by the Trial Court is hereby rejected. The impugned Judgment and Order dated 04.04.2019 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Auraiya convicting and sentencing the accused/appellant is hereby set aside.

44. The matter is remitted back to the Trial Court for necessary compliance as discussed herein above.

45. The Trial Court shall provide an appropriate Advocate to the accused-appellant, in case the appellant does not make any arrangement for their representation.

46. We also direct the Trial Court to make all sincere effort to conclude the trial in accordance with law, expeditiously within a period of six months from the date of receipt of the certified copy of this judgment.

47. It is made clear that we have not expressed any opinion on the merits of the case.

48. We record our appreciation for the able assistance rendered to us by the Amicus Curiae, who would be entitled to his fee as per the rules of the High Court Legal Services Committee.

49. Copy of this Judgment along with the Trial Court record be sent back.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1337
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 07.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAJIV GUPTA, J.
THE HON'BLE MOHD. AZHAR HUSAIN IDRISI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 379 of 1983

Manvir Singh & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri S.P.S. Raghav, Sri A. Misra, Sri Alok Ranjan Mishra, Sri Apul Misra,Sri P.N. Misra, Sri Rajendra Prasad Dubey,Sri Gopal Swaroop Chaturvedi (Sr. Advocate)

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 302/34, 307/34 & 323 - Appellants challenged conviction under Sections 302/34 and 307/34 I.P.C. for murder of Yashpal and attempt to murder Naresh, arising from boundary dispute. Court held: (1) Incident stemmed from sudden altercation over boundary marks; appellants used spades (agricultural tool) without premeditation or intent to kill (Virsa Singh Vs St. of Punj., AIR 1958 SC 465). (2) Injuries on deceased (incised/lacerated wounds on head, fractured skull) caused death by shock and haemorrhage, but no vital organ targeted; intent was to assault, not murder (Pulicherla Nagaraju Vs St. of A.P., (2006) 11 SCC 444). (3) Knowledge that assault with sharp-edged spade could cause death present, but no intention for such injury; offence under Section 304 Part I I.P.C., not Section 302 (Kesar Singh Vs St. of Har., (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 1193). (4) Appellant No. 4 (Brijesh) caused simple injury to Risalo (mother of deceased) by pulling hair and pushing; conviction under Section 323 I.P.C. upheld. (5) Sentence reduced to 10 years' R.I. for appellants Nos. 1-3; fine of Rs. 500/- for appellant No. 4 affirmed. Judgment modified; appellants Nos. 1-3 to surrender within one month. (Paras 30-58)

Appeal Partly Allowed.

Case Law Cited:

1. Virsa Singh Vs St. of Punj., AIR 1958 SC 465 (Para 45)

2. Pulicherla Nagaraju Vs St. of A.P., (2006) 11 SCC 444 (Para 45)

3. Kesar Singh Vs St. of Har., (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 1193 (Para 28)

4. Hardev Bhanji Joshi Vs St. of Gujarat, 1992 Supp (2) SCC 561 (Para 28)

5. Mathri Vs St. of Punj., AIR 1964 SC 986 (Para 35)

6. Basdev Vs St. of Pepsu, AIR 1956 SC 488 (Para 36)

7. Reg. Vs Monkhouse, (1849) 4 COX CC 55 (Para 37)

8. Anbazhagan Vs St. of T.N., Criminal Appeal No. 2043 of 2023 (Para 32)

9. Rampal Singh Vs St. of U.P., (2012) 8 SCC 289 (Para 44)

(Delivered by Hon. Mohd. Azhar Husain Idrisi, J)

1. Heard Sri Gopal Swaroop Chaturvedi, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Alok Ranjan Mishra, learned counsel for the appellants, Sri Jitendra Kumar Jaiswal, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. The present criminal appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 10.2.1983 passed by 4th Addl. Sessions Judge, Bulandshahr in S.T. No. 412 of 1982 (State Vs. Manvir Singh and others) and S.T. No. 1 of 1983 (State vs. Smt. Brijesh) arising out of Case Crime No. 21 of 1982, P.S. Jahangirpur Khurja, District- Bulandshahr, by which the appellant Nos. 1, 2 and 3 have been convicted for the offence under Section 302/34 IPC and awarded the sentence of life imprisonment and also under Section 307/34 IPC and awarded the sentence of 5 years' rigorous imprisonment and further appellant No. 4 has been convicted under Section 323 IPC and directed to pay a fine of Rs. 500/- and in default to undergo two months' rigorous imprisonment.

3. Shorn of unnecessary details, the prosecution case is unraveled in an oral report lodged by one Naresh, which was registered vide Case Crime No. 21 of 1982, under Sections 302, 307 IPC, P.S. Jahangirpur Khurja, District- Bulandshahr registered vide G.D. No. 22. The chik FIR has been marked as Ex. Ka-1 prepared by Om Prakash Tyagi (P.W.-7) at the relevant date and time.

4. The allegations made in the first information report are that Manvir Singh, Omvir Singh and Mahesh son of Amolak Singh, his own cousins, were on inimical terms, on account of dispute over boundary marks. At about 4 p.m. on the day of incident, he alongwith his brother Yashpal Singh and mother Risalo were sowing Maize crops in the field of his uncle Mahipal Singh on batai, Manvir Singh, Omvir and Mahesh were demolishing his boundary marks with their spades. On raising resistance not to demolish their boundary marks, Manvir Singh stated that they will continue to do so, as he, behind his back has been harassing his brothers and this time he has come after taking leave to settle scores. Manvir Singh then exhorted to assault them, consequent to which, all three armed with spades ran to assault them, however they with an intention to rescue them ran towards the village, however, all the three assailants waylaid them near the enbankment of the canal distributory near the culvert and attacked them. On account of their assault, his brother Yashpal Singh fell down but they continued to assault him and when he tried to rescue his brother, he was also assaulted by spade. His mother and niece-Poonam and other villagers Suraj Bhan and Ashok Kumar rushed to rescue them and saved him, however his brother, on receiving injuries died instantaneously on the spot.

5. It is further stated that when his mother tried to rescue his brother then Brijesh wife of Manvir Singh also reached there, who pulled her by her hair and pushed her. Leaving his mother and other villagers near the dead body of his brother, he reached the police station and lodged an oral report, which was reduced in writing by Head-Moharrir Om Prakash Tyagi (P.W.-7) in presence of Investigating Officer (P.W.-6), who took over the investigation and recorded the statement of first informant Naresh and thereafter sent the victim Naresh to Khurja for medical examination.

6. The Investigating Officer thereafter alongwith other police personnel reached the place of incident where dead body of Yashpal was found lying near the culvert. The inquest was thereafter conducted on the person of the deceased by S.I. R.S. Chattori, who also prepared the inquest (Ex.Ka-7), challan-nash (Ex. Ka-8), photo-nash (Ex. Ka-9), letter to the C.M.O. for post-mortem (Ex. Ka-11) and letter to the R.I. (Ex.Ka-12) and sample seal. The site-plan (Ex.Ka-15) was also prepared by the Investigating Officer. The blood stained shirt and bellbottom taken from the dead body were sealed in a packet and thereafter dead body was sealed and dispatched for autopsy through constable Om Prakash. The blood soaked earth and plain earth was also collected from the spot and sealed in separate containers. The mother of the deceased Smt. Risalo was also sent for medical examination, who was medically examined on 13.6.1982 at 6.45 a.m.

7. The eye witnesses Km. Poonam and Tejvir were also interrogated. At about 6 in the morning an information was received from informer that accused persons Manvir Singh and Omvir are trying to escape by boarding a bus. On the said information the police reached the bus-stop and arrested the accused Manvir and Omvir. On interrogation they disclosed that the spades by which they have committed the incident, has been concealed in a heap of fodder and assured to get them recovered. They were accordingly taken to the heap of fodder and in presence of Hosiyar Singh (P.W.-5) and one Dalvir Singh, the appellants Manvir Singh and Omvir got recovered the three spades from the heap of straw. The blood stained kurta of Manvir as well as blood stained bellbottom of Omvir were also taken alongwith blood stained spades. Respective recovery memos were drawn by the Investigating Officer and marked as Ex. Ka-4, Ex. Ka-5, Ex. Ka-6, Ex. Ka-13 and Ex.Ka-14 and thereafter the accused persons were lodged in the police station. Smt. Risalo and other witnesses were also interrogated by the Investigating Officer. On 21.6.1982 Mahesh surrendered before the court and his statement was recorded. The blood stained articles were also sent for chemical examination and chemical examination report was obtained, which is marked as Ex.Ka-17 and Ex. Ka-18.

8. An autopsy was conducted on the person of the deceased Yashpal in District Hospital Bulandshahr on 13.6.1982. In the post-mortem, the doctor has noted the following injuries :-

1. Incised wound 3/4" x 1/2" X skull cavity deep by the side of lateral end of right eye brow.

2. Lacerated wound 1" x ¾ " X bone deep on right parietal head 1" above right ear.

3. Incised wound 1½ " X 3/2" X bone deep on right cheek bone.

4. Incised wound 1/2" x 1" X eye socket deep on right side face, just below medial end of right eye. Right eye ball cut through and through. Also right optic nerve severed off. Nasal bone fracture under-neath. Right optic nerve severed off. Nasal bone fractured under-neath.

5. Lacerated wound 1½" X 1/2" X bone deep on left side face just below lateral end of left eye.

6. Incised wound 1/2" X 1/4" X muscle deep on back of left shoulder.

On opening the body right side skull was found fractured into multiple pieces under-neath injuries Nos.1 & 2. The membranes of brain were lacerated under-neath injury No.2 and cut under injury No.1 and ¼ oz of clotted blood was present in anterior and right cranial fossa. Brain was cut and lacerated under-neath injury No. 1 & 2. Both the chambers of the heart were empty. There was quarter ounce of partially digested food in the stomach. The intestines contained usual gases and faecal matter. The bladder was full. The cause of death was shock and haemorrhage, resulting from injury nos.1 & 2. The post mortem report has been proved as Ext. Ka-24.

9. The injured Naresh was medically examined by Dr. S.C. Pandey, Superintendent of S.S.M.J Hospital, Khurja on 12.6.1982 at 7.50 p.m. who noted an incised wound on the right side of scalp and an abraded contusion on the right temple region. The injury report was accordingly proved and marked as Ex. Ka-2.

10. Similarly, Risalo was examined on 13.6.1982 at 6.45 a.m. The doctor has noted three injuries on her person, which is marked as Ex.Ka-3 :-

(i) Contusion 2 cm x 1 cm on the left side of upper part of nose.

(ii) Abraded contusion 3 cm x 1 cm obliquely on the right forearm upper part.

(iii) Contusion 3 cm X 1 cm oblique on the left upper scapular region.

11. The Investigating Officer thereafter concluded the investigation and submitted charge-sheet against the accused persons, which is marked as Ex.Ka-19. On the basis of said charge sheet, learned Magistrate has taken cognizance and since the case was exclusively triable by the court of Sessions, made over the case to the court of Sessions for trial. The Sessions Court vide orders dated 4th January, 1982 and 16th September, 1982 framed the charges against the accused appellants Manvir, Omvir, Mahesh and Brijesh under Sections 302 read with section 34 IPC and 307 read with section 34 IPC. All the accused appellants abjured the charges and claimed to be tried.

12. During the course of trial, the prosecution has examined as many as three witnesses of fact and five formal witnesses. Their testimony in brief is enumerated hereunder :-

13. Naresh Kumar (P.W.-1) is the brother of the deceased and the first informant. He has stated that Manvir Singh, Omvir Singh and Mahesh appellants are the real sons of his tau whereas appellant No. 4 Brijesh is the wife of Manvir Singh and they were on inimical terms over the dispute of boundary marks. On the date of incident while he alongwith his mother Risalo and brother Yashpal were sowing Maize crops in the field of his uncle Mahipal Singh, Manvir, Mahesh and Omvir came there and started demolishing his boundary marks with their spades. On raising resistance not to demolish their boundary marks, Manvir stated that they will continue to demolish the boundary marks and thereafter on the exhortation of Manvir to assault, all the three appellants ran to assault them, however they in order to escape, ran towards the village, however, all the three assailants waylaid them near the enbankment of the canal distributory near the culvert and attacked them. On account of their assault, his brother Yashpal Singh fell down but they continued to assault him and when he tried to rescue him, he was also assaulted by Manvir and Mahesh with spades.

14. On account of assault, his brother fell down, then Mahesh caught hold of him, however Omvir and Manvir continued to assault his brother, then his mother Risalo rushed and tried to rescue him, however, she was also assaulted by Brijesh by pulling her by her hair and pushed her. Her niece Poonam also tried to rescue them but the assailants did not yield. On raising alarm, Tejvir and Ashok Kumar also reached the place of incident and saved him, however Manvir further assaulted Yashpal on his face, consequent to which he died. The FIR is said to be lodged on his oral information, which was reduced in writing by the Moharrir, who read out the same and thereafter affixed his thumb impression.

15. During cross examination, he has supported the prosecution story and nothing adverse could be elicited to doubt the credibility of the said witness. During cross examination, he has further stated that western side of his boundary marks was being demolished by the appellants. He has further clarified in his cross examination that after being struck by the spade, his brother fell down. Thereafter Mahesh caught hold of him, however Omvir and Manvir continued to assault his brother and on account of assault made by Manvir, his brother died. He has categorically denied the suggestion that no assault was made by the appellants and on account of enmity he is falsely deposing against the appellants. He has further denied the suggestion that his injuries were self inflicted and manipulated.

16. Tejvir (P.W.-2) is another eye witness, who is said to have reached the place of incident on the alarm raised by P.W.-1- Naresh Kumar and his mother Risalo. He has further stated that on the exhortation of Manvir, the appellants have assaulted Yashpal and Naresh by their spades and on account of assault made by spades, Yashpal fell down and died after receiving injuries. Thereafter the assailants left the place of incident alongwith their spades. It is further stated that when Risalo tried to rescue her son, Brijesh had caught hold of her by her hair and pushed her, consequent to which she suffered injuries. During his cross examination, he has reiterated the prosecution story and has further stated at the time of assault, he had heard their alarm and had seen the assailants assaulting Naresh and Yashpal. He has further clarified that Yashpal was assaulted by the assailants for two minutes. It is further stated that when Naresh was being assaulted, her mother came to his rescue but she was also assaulted by Brijesh. He has further denied the suggestion that no incident had taken place in his presence and because of enmity, he has falsely implicated the assailants.

17. Poonam (P.W.-3) is a child witness and has stated that while she was grazing her buffalo, she had heard the alarm raised by the Yashpal and Naresh, who are her maternal uncle. She has further categorically stated that Omvir, Manvir and Mahesh appellants assaulted Yashpal and when Naresh tried to rescue him, Manvir and Mahesh assaulted him by the spades and when her grand maternal aunt (Nani) tried to save him then she was also assaulted by Brijesh. On account of assault made by the assailants, Yashpal died instantaneously. The said witness has also been subjected to lengthy cross examination, however, she has corroborated the prosecution story in all material particulars and nothing adverse could be elicited from her testimony. She has further denied the suggestion that nothing has taken place in her presence and on account of being the niece of the deceased, she is falsely deposing in the court.

18. Dr. S.C. Pandey (P.W.-4) had medically examined the injured Naresh on 12.6.1982 at 7.50 p.m. and has proved the said injury report. He has further proved the injuries of Risalo, which has been marked as Ex. Ka-3. He has denied the suggestion that injury No. 2 of Naresh could not be caused by wooden part of the spade and further all the three injuries of Risalo could be caused by fall and the said injuries could not be self-inflicted.

19. Hosiyar Singh (P.W.-5) is the witness of the recovery memo of the blood stained spades, which were recovered from the heap of fodder and marked as Ex.Ka-4. The other recoveries of pant, shirt and kurta were also prepared by the Investigating Officer, which were signed by him and marked as Ex.Ka-6 and 7. During course of his cross examination, he has denied the suggestion that recoveries were not made in his presence and on account of inimical terms, he is falsely deposing in the court.

20. Kalyan Singh Yadav (P.W.-6) is the Investigating Officer, who has stated that in his presence on the basis of the oral information by Naresh, the first information report was registered. He has further stated that after registration of the first information report, he had sent the injured Naresh for medical examination and thereafter alongwith police personnel and S.I. R.S. Chattori had reached the place of incident and found the dead body of the deceased lying near the culvert and conducted the inquest. The statements of the witnesses were recorded after completion of the inquest and the dead body was sealed and sent for post-mortem. The inquest was proved as Ex.Ka-7 and other related documents were proved and marked as Ex.Ka-8 to Ex.Ka-12. The recovery memo of spades were also proved. The recovered articles were also sent for chemical examination and chemical examination report was also obtained, which is marked as Ex.Ka-17 and Ex. Kha-18 and after completion of the investigation, the charge sheet was submitted on 30.6.1982 and marked as Ex.Ka-19. The Investigating Officer has deposed that he had reached the place of incident at about 6 p.m. and got conducted the inquest and thereafter made the recoveries of plain and blood soaked earth and prepared the site plan. He has further stated that he had sent the victim Risalo for medical examination and on the pointing out of Tejvir, had prepared the site plan. He has denied the recoveries of clothes from the house of assailants and blood stained spades. The suggestion made by the defence that the report was prepared at the police station was also categorically denied.

21. Om Prakash Tyagi (P.W.-7) is the head constable, who had reduced in writing the oral information given by the first informant Naresh Kumar at the police station on 12.6.1982 at 5.30 p.m., on the basis of which, chik FIR marked as Ex.Ka-1 was registered. The G.D. report of which was drawn vide G.D. Report No. 22 and marked as Ex.Ka-20. He has further stated that on 13.6.1982 at about 10.30 a.m., the Investigating Officer returned back to the police station and all the recoveries made, were kept in the malkhana. Necessary entries in respect of recovery of clothes was also made by him in respective G.D. During cross examination, he has categorically denied the suggestion made by the defence that the chik report was prepared anti-time and the entries in respect of sending of the special report to the higher police authorities has been manipulated and the G.D. was withheld.

22. Dr. Chandra Prakash (P.W.-8) is the doctor, who had conducted the post-mortem on the person of the deceased and has proved the entries made in the post-mortem, which is marked as Ex.Ka-24. He has further stated that proximate time of death could be at 4 p.m. on 12.6.1982. He had narrated the cause of death to be shock and haemorrhage as a result of injury Nos 1 and 2.

23. Thereafter, statement of accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has been recorded by putting all the incriminating circumstances to the appellants. The appellants denied the incriminating circumstances and stated that they have been falsely implicated. Accused Omvir and Manvir were arrested from their gher on the day of occurrence in the evening and their clothes were sent from their house. Accused Manvir stated that father of the deceased was the real brother of his father and their mothers are also real sisters and on account of inimical terms over partition of holding they have been falsely implicated and denied his presence in the village on the date of occurrence. Appellant Brijesh claimed to have been falsely implicated only on account of being the wife of Manvir. The defence has however not led any evidence to prove its case. The trial court after appreciating the evidence has held that the prosecution has successfully established its case against the appellant Nos. 1, 2 and 3, for the charged offence, however, acquitted the appellant No. 4- Brijesh for the offence under Section, 302/34 and 307/34 IPC and convicted her only under Section 323 IPC. The explanation tendered by the other appellants has been found to be false and inadequate and as such they are liable for conviction.

24. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellants has submitted that on account of sudden altercation between the cousins, over trivial dispute, for demolishing boundary marks, the present incident had taken place. He has further submitted that no regular weapon has admittedly been used by the appellants for assaulting the victims and only an agricultural implement, namely, spade is said to have been used to cause injuries to the victim.

25. Learned counsel for the appellants has next submitted that there was absolutely no intention on the part of the appellants to have caused death of deceased Yashpal nor to cause any injury to the injured Naresh. Learned counsel for the appellants has next submitted that no specific role of assaulting the victims has been assigned to anyone and rather in general and omnibus manner, it has been stated that all the three appellants assaulted Yashpal and Naresh by their spades and caused injuries, which proved fatal and Yashpal succumbed to the said injuries.

26. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellants has further submitted that considering the manner in which the incident had occurred and the role attributed to the appellants, the case does not travel beyond the scope of the offence u/s 304 Part II, causing injuries with the knowledge that it was likely to cause death but without any intention to cause death. He has further submitted that the conviction of the appellants u/s 302 IPC is a result of misappreciation of evidence on record. At the most the appellants can be convicted for the offence u/s 304 Part II of IPC.

27. Learned counsel for the appellants has further submitted that so far as the appellant No. 4- Brijesh is concerned, she has not assaulted either the deceased or the injured Naresh and she is only said to have caused simple injuries to Risalo when she tried to rescue his son and, therefore, she is liable to be acquitted.

28. In order to buttress his argument, learned counsel for the applicants has relied upon a decision reported in Kesar Singh and another Vs. State of Haryana reported in (2009) 3 SCC (Cri.) 1193 and Hardev Bhanji Joshi Vs. State of Gujarat reported in 1992 Supp (2) SCC 561.

29. Per contra, learned AGA has submitted that prosecution has proved its case beyond all reasonable doubt against the appellants and from the evidence adduced during the course of trial both intention and knowledge could be attributed to the appellants in causing the death of Yashpal and causing injuries to Naresh and, therefore, the trial court has rightly convicted the appellants under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and 307 read with section 34 IPC and supported the impugned judgment and order.

30. Having considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and having gone through the material available on record, the only question that falls for our consideration is that whether the conviction of the appellants would fall within the scope of Section 300 of the Code or it is a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder punishable u/s under Section 304 Part I or Part II of IPC.

31. We have already gone through the evidence adduced by the prosecution and the genesis of the occurrence and the role attributed to the appellant herein. P.W.-8- Dr. Chandra Prakash was examined by the prosecution being the medical officer who conducted the post-mortem on the person of the deceased. In the post-mortem report, the doctor has noted six injuries, (1) Incised wound 3/4" x 1/2" X skull cavity deep by the side of lateral end of right eye brow, (2) Lacerated wound 1" x ¾ " X bone deep on right parietal head 1" above right ear, (3) Incised wound 1½ " X 3/2" X bone deep on right cheek bone, (4) Incised wound 1/2" x 1" X eye socket deep on right side face, just below medial end of right eye. Right eye ball cut through and through. Also right optic nerve severed off. Nasal bone fracture under-neath. Right optic nerve severed off. Nasal bone fractured under-neath, (5) Lacerated wound 1½" X 1/2" X bone deep on left side face just below lateral end of left eye and (6) Incised wound 1/2" X 1/4" X muscle deep on back of left shoulder.

The cause of death has been noted in the post-mortem report appears to be shock and haemorrhage resulting from Injury Nos. 1 and 2.

32. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in its recent decision in Criminal Appeal No. 2043 of 2023 (Anbazhagan Vs. The State Represented by the Inspector of Police) has very lucidly explained distinction between the terms 'intention' and 'knowledge'.

33. The word "intent" is derived from the word archery or aim. The "act" attempted to must be with "intention" of killing a man.

34. Intention, which is a state of mind, can never be precisely proved by direct evidence as a fact; it can only be deduced or inferred from other facts which are proved. The intention may be proved by res gestae, by acts or events previous or subsequent to the incident or occurrence, on admission. Intention of a person cannot be proved by direct evidence but is to be deduced from the facts and circumstances of a case.

35. In the case of Smt. Mathri v. State of Punjab, AIR 1964 SC 986, at page 990, Das Gupta J. has explained the concept of the word 'intent'. The relevant observations are made by referring to the observations made by Batty J. in the decision Bhagwant vs. Kedari, I.L.R. 25 Bombay 202. They are as under:-

"The word "intent" by its etymology, seems to have metaphorical allusion to archery, and implies "aim" and thus connotes not a casual or merely possible result-foreseen perhaps as a not improbable incident, but not desired-but rather connotes the one object for which the effort is made-and thus has reference to what has been called the dominant motive, without which, the action would not have been taken."

(Emphasis supplied)

36. In the case of Basdev vs. State of Pepsu, AIR 1956 SC 488, at page 490, the following observations have been made by Chadrasekhara Aiyar J.:-

"6. ... Of course, we have to distinguish between motive, intention and knowledge. Motive is something which prompts a man to form an intention and knowledge is an awareness of the consequences of the act. In many cases intention and knowledge merge into each other and mean the same thing more or less and intention can be presumed from knowledge. The demarcating line between knowledge and intention is no doubt thin but it is not difficult to perceive that they connote different things. Even in some English decisions, the three ideas are used interchangeably and this had led to a certain amount of confusion."

(Emphasis supplied)

37. In para 9 of the judgment, at page 490, the observations made by Coleridge J. in Reg. v. Monkhouse, (1849) 4 COX CC 55(C), have been referred to. They can be referred to, with advantage at this stage, as they are very illuminating:-

"The inquiry as to intent is far less simple than that as to whether an act has been committed, because you cannot look into a man's mind to see what was passing there at any given time. What he intends can only be judged of by what he does or says, and if he says nothing, then his act alone must guide you to your decision. It is a general rule in criminal law, and one founded on common sense, that juries are to presume a man to do what is the natural consequence of his act. The consequence is sometimes so apparent as to leave no doubt of the intention. A man could not put a pistol which he knew to be loaded to another's head, and fire it off, without intending to kill him; but even there the state of mind of the party is most material to be considered. For instance, if such an act were done by a born idiot, the intent to kill could not be inferred from the act. So if the defendant is proved to have been intoxicated, the question becomes a more subtle one; but it is of the same kind, namely; was he rendered by intoxication entirely incapable of forming the intent charged?"

(Emphasis supplied)

38. Bearing in mind the test suggested in the aforesaid decision and also bearing in mind that our legislature has used two different terminologies 'intent' and 'knowledge' and separate punishments are provided for an act committed with an intent to cause bodily injury which is likely to cause death and for an act committed with a knowledge that his act is likely to cause death without intent to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, it would be proper to hold that 'intent' and 'knowledge' cannot be equated with each other. They connote different things. Sometimes, if the consequence is so apparent, it may happen that from the knowledge, intent may be presumed. But it will not mean that 'intent' and 'knowledge' are the same. 'Knowledge' will be only one of the circumstances to be taken into consideration while determining or inferring the requisite intent.

39. In another case reported in 2006 (11) SCC 444, Pulicherla Nagaraju @ Nagaraja Reddy vs State of A.P, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has laid down various relevant circumstances from which the intention could be gathered. Some relevant considerations are the following:-

(i) The nature of the weapon used, (ii) whether the weapon was carried by the accused or was picked up from the spot, (iii) whether the blow is aimed at the vital part of the body, (iv) the amount of force employed in causing injury, (v) whether the act was in the course of sudden quarrel or sudden fight, (vi) whether the incident occurred by chance or whether there was any premeditation, (vii) whether there was any prior enmity or whether the deceased was a stranger, (viii) whether there was a grave or sudden provocation and if so, the cause for such provocation, (ix) whether it was heat of passion, (x) whether a person inflicting the injury has taken undue advantage or has acted in a cruel manner, (xi) whether the accused persons has dealt a single blow or several blows.

40. Thus, while defining the offence of culpable homicide and murder, the framers of the IPC laid down that the requisite intention or knowledge must be imputed to the accused when he committed the act which caused the death in order to hold him guilty for the offence of culpable homicide or murder as the case may be. The framers of the IPC designedly used the two words 'intention' and 'knowledge', and it must be taken that the framers intended to draw a distinction between these two expressions. The knowledge of the consequences which may result in the doing of an act is not the same thing as the intention that such consequences should ensue. Except in cases where mens rea is not required in order to prove that a person had certain knowledge, he "must have been aware that certain specified harmful consequences would or could follow." (Russell on Crime, Twelfth Edition, Volume 1 at page 40).

41. The phraseology of Sections 299 and 300 respectively of the IPC leaves no manner of doubt that under these Sections when it is said that a particular act in order to be punishable be done with such intention, the requisite intention must be proved by the prosecution. It must be proved that the accused aimed or desired that his act should lead to such and such consequences. For example, when under Section 299 it is said "whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death" it must be proved that the accused by doing the act, intended to bring about the particular consequence, that is, causing of death. Similarly, when it is said that "whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death" it must be proved that the accused had the aim of causing such bodily injury as was likely to cause death.

42. Thus, in order that the requirements of law with regard to intention may be satisfied for holding an offence of culpable homicide proved, it is necessary that any of the two specific intentions must be proved. But, even when such intention is not proved, the offence will be culpable homicide if the doer of the act causes the death with the knowledge that he is likely by his such act to cause death, that is, with the knowledge that the result of his doing his act may be such as may result in death.

43. The important question which has engaged our careful attention in this case is, whether on the facts and in the circumstances of the case we should maintain the conviction of the appellant herein for the offence under Section 302 or we should further alter it to Section 304 Part II of the IPC?.

44. Sections 299 and 300 of the IPC deal with the definition of 'culpable homicide' and 'murder', respectively. In terms of Section 299, 'culpable homicide' is described as an act of causing death (i) with the intention of causing death or (ii) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or (iii) with the knowledge that such an act is likely to cause death. As is clear from a reading of this provision, the former part of it emphasises on the expression 'intention' while the latter upon 'knowledge'. Both these are positive mental attitudes, however, of different degrees. The mental element in 'culpable homicide', that is, the mental attitude towards the consequences of conduct is one of intention and knowledge. Once an offence is caused in any of the three stated manners noted-above, it would be 'culpable homicide'. Section 300 of the IPC, however, deals with 'murder', although there is no clear definition of 'murder' in Section 300 of the IPC. As has been repeatedly held by this Court, 'culpable homicide' is the genus and 'murder' is its species and all 'murders' are 'culpable homicides' but all 'culpable homicides' are not 'murders'. (see Rampal Singh vs. State of U.P., (2012) 8 SCC 289).

45. The scope of clause thirdly of Section 300 of the IPC has been the subject matter of various decisions of this Court. The decision in Virsa Singh (supra) has throughout been followed in a number of cases by this Court. In all these cases the approach has been to find out whether the ingredient namely the intention to cause the particular injury was present or not? If such an intention to cause that particular injury is made out and if the injury is found to be sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, then clause thirdly of Section 300 of the IPC is attracted.

46. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further in its decision in Criminal Appeal No. 2043 of 2023 (supra) has thus held that the distinction between culpable homicide (Section 299 of the IPC) and murder (Section 300 of the IPC) has always to be carefully borne in mind while dealing with a charge under Section 302 of the IPC. Under the category of unlawful homicides, both, the cases of culpable homicide amounting to murder and those not amounting to murder would fall. Culpable homicide is not murder when the case is brought within the five exceptions to Section 300 of the IPC. But, even though none of the said five exceptions are pleaded or prima facie established on the evidence on record, the prosecution must still be required under the law to bring the case under any of the four clauses of Section 300 of the IPC to sustain the charge of murder. If the prosecution fails to discharge this onus in establishing any one of the four clauses of Section 300 of the IPC, namely, 1stly to 4thly, the charge of murder would not be made out and the case may be one of culpable homicide not amounting to murder as described under Section 299 of the IPC.

47. The court must address itself to the question of mens rea. If Clause thirdly of Section 300 is to be applied, the assailant must intend the particular injury inflicted on the deceased. This ingredient could rarely be proved by direct evidence. Inevitably, it is a matter of inference to be drawn from the proved circumstances of the case. The court must necessarily have regard to the nature of the weapon used, part of the body injured, extent of the injury, degree of force used in causing the injury, the manner of attack, the circumstances preceding and attendant on the attack.

48. Intention to kill is not the only intention that makes a culpable homicide a murder. The intention to cause injury or injuries sufficient in the ordinary cause of nature to cause death also makes a culpable homicide a murder if death has actually been caused and intention to cause such injury or injuries is to be inferred from the act or acts resulting in the injury or injuries.

49. When single injury inflicted by the accused results in the death of the victim, no inference, as a general principle, can be drawn that the accused did not have the intention to cause the death or that particular injury which resulted in the death of the victim. Whether an accused had the required guilty intention or not, is a question of fact which has to be determined on the facts of each case.

50. Now we recapitulate the facts and circumstances of the case. On the fateful day of the incident, the cousin brothers were working in their field and on account of resistance raised over demolishing of the boundary marks an altercation ensued between the first cousin and the victim/deceased and the appellants having spades in their hands started to assault them and thereafter caused injuries to the victim without their being any intention to cause his death and, therefore, we find it difficult to come to the conclusion that when the appellants struck the deceased with the weapon of offence, he intended to cause such bodily injury as was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. The weapon of offence admittedly in the present case is a common agricultural tool i.e. spade.

51. It is true that in the post mortem report, right side skull was found fractured into multiple pieces underneath injuries Nos. 1 and 2 and membranes of brain were lacerated underneath injury No. 2. The deceased died on account of cerebral haemorrhage i.e. internal head injury, however the important question is whether that by itself is sufficient to draw an inference that the appellants intended to cause such bodily injuries as was sufficient to cause death. Therefore, we are of the view that the appellants could only be attributed with the knowledge that it was likely to cause an injury which was likely to cause the death.

52. Thus, from the aforesaid discussion, we are of the view that none of the clauses of Section 300 of the Code are attracted as intention of the appellants to cause death or such bodily injury which he knew would cause the death of the other person or sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, is not proved.

53. Thus, we are of the opinion that the appellants had not committed an offence within the meaning of Section 300 IPC, i.e., "culpable homicide amounting to murder", which is punishable under Section 302 of the Code. The incident had occurred without any premeditation and on trivial matter of demolishing of boundary marks, which was resisted by the victim and the deceased resulting in an assault by the assailants by a spade which they were carrying at the time of incident for agricultural purposes. Thus, the offence committed by the appellants would fall within the meaning of "culpable homicide not amounting to murder" under Section 304 of the Code.

54. Now the next question would be as to whether the appellants would be guilty in Part-I or Part-II of Section 304 IPC as is evident from the record. On resistance being raised by the victims' party for demolishing their boundary marks, the appellants with an intention to assault the victims/deceased ran and assaulted the deceased/victim, it, therefore, cannot be said that the death was caused by mistake or accident. The spades which the appellants were carried, were having sharp edges and the the appellants were aware of the fact that the use of such spade could cause death. It, thus, proved that there was knowledge on the part of the appellants that if by assaulting the deceased by spades that too on the head, the possibility of the deceased being killed could not be ruled out. But this itself is not necessarily conclusive of the fact that there was an intention on the part of the appellants to kill the deceased. The intention probably was merely to cause bodily injury. Considering the weapon used and the place and nature of the injuries, the act of the appellants was clearly with the intent to cause bodily injury which could result in the death of the deceased. In the instant case, there may be an absence of the intention to cause death but it is not where there is also an absence of intention to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, which in the ordinary course of things is likely to cause death.

55. In view of the foregoing discussion, we are of the opinion that the appellants are not guilty of murder punishable under Section 302 of the Code but they are guilty of committing an offence which is punishable under Section 304 Part I of the Code "Culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under Section 304 Part I of the Code. We, therefore, do not agree with the contentions of the learned counsel for the appellant that the offence committed by the appellant would fall in the Second part of Section 304 IPC. Having held that the appellant Nos. 1, 2 and 3 are guilty of the offence under Section 304 Part I IPC, we partially accept this appeal and alter the offence from that of Section 302 of the Code to one under Section 304 Part I of the Indian Penal Code.

56. Further, having regard to the facts and circumstances of the instant case, we find that the sentence of 10 years' rigorous imprisonment would be adequate for the offence of which the appellants have been held guilty.

57. We, therefore, award a sentence of 10 years' rigorous imprisonment to the appellant Nos. 1, 2 and 3. The judgment under appeal is modified accordingly.

58. So far as appellant No. 4 Brijesh is concerned, she is said to have assaulted the victim Risalo mother of the deceased by pulling her by her hair and pushing her when she tried to rescue her son, consequent to which she suffered simple injuries, however she has not participated in the main incident of assault to the deceased Yashpal and injured Naresh, as such she has rightly been convicted u/s 323 IPC for causing injury only to Risalo and sentenced to fine of Rs. 500/- with default stipulation. Accordingly, conviction and sentence, in her behalf, is affirmed. She would deposit the fine within one month, if already not deposited.

59. The Chief Judicial Magistrate, Bulandshahr is directed to take appellant Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in custody in the aforesaid case and send them to jail to serve out the sentences awarded to them by the trial court. Appellant No. 4 need not to surrender.

60. The appeal is allowed in part.

61. Let a copy of this judgment and order be sent to the court concerned alongwith the lower court record within a week for compliance. The compliance report shall be sent by the court concerned to this Court within a further period of fifteen days.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1350
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 06.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAJAN ROY, J.
THE HON'BLE JYOTSANA SHARMA, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 651 of 1989

Durga Prasad ...Appellant
Versus
State ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
S.H. Ibrahim, Angad Kumar Vishwakarma, G.R. Chhabra, Moti Chand Yadav

Counsel for the Respondent:
V.K. Misra, G.A., O.P. Dwivedi

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 302/34, 304, 323 & 325 - Appellant challenged conviction under Section 302/34 I.P.C. for murder of Babu Lal, arising from dispute over clearing a drain. Court held: (1) Incident involved throwing brick pieces during an altercation without premeditation; no weapon used, only bricks (Virsa Singh Vs St. of Punj., AIR 1958 SC 465). (2) Single lacerated wound on head caused skull fracture and death due to shock and haemorrhage; no evidence of intent to cause death or injury likely to cause death (Anbazhagan Vs St., Criminal Appeal No. 2043 of 2023). (3) Accused had knowledge that throwing bricks could cause hurt or grievous hurt, not death; offence under Section 325/34 I.P.C., not Section 302/34 (Dhupa Chamar Vs St. of Bihar, (2002) 6 SCC 506). (4) Conviction altered to Section 325/34 I.P.C.; sentence reduced to 3 years' R.I. and Rs. 30,000 fine, with Rs. 25,000 as compensation to deceased's son; default imprisonment of 3 months. (5) Period of imprisonment served adjusted; appellant to surrender immediately. (Paras 24-36)

Appeal Partly Allowed.

Case Law Cited:

1. Virsa Singh Vs St. of Punj., AIR 1958 SC 465 (Para 27)

2. Dhupa Chamar Vs St. of Bihar, (2002) 6 SCC 506 (Para 26)

3. Jai Prakash Vs State (Delhi Administration), (1991) 2 SCC 32 (Para 28)

4. Mahesh Balmiki Vs St. of M.P., (2000) 1 SCC 319 (Para 29)

5. Anbazhagan Vs State, Criminal Appeal No. 2043 of 2023 (Para 30)

6. Kudumula Mahanandi Reddi, AIR 1960 AP 141 (Para 30)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Moti Chand Yadav, learned counsel for the appellant no. 2, who is the only surviving appellant and Sri O.P. Dwivedi, learned AGA for the State and perused the material on record.

2. The appellants-Durga Prasad and Bhawani Prasad have preferred this criminal appeal, challenging the judgment and order dated 12.09.1989 passed by Additional Session Judge, Sultanpur in Session Trial No. 74 of 1985 whereby the appellants were convicted under section 302 read with 34 IPC and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life.

3. The facts relevant for the purpose of this case are as under:-

The first informant-Jagdish Prasad Sharma submitted a written report before the police station concerned stating therein that at about 3 in the afternoon of 29.06.1981, his father was clearing a drain. The accused persons Durga Prasad and Bhawani Prasad came using foul words. When his father protested, he was attacked with pieces of bricks. The incident was witnessed by the first informant-Jagdish Prasad and witnesses Ram Kalp, Devkali, Gayabaksh Singh. They rescued him, otherwise they would have killed his father. This information was given to the police station concerned, on the basis whereof NCR under section 323 IPC was registered on 01.07.1981 at about 09.45. The injured Babu Lal Sharma was medically examined on 30.06.1981 at 8.00 AM at District Hospital, Sultanpur. Later on he died of injuries and his postmortem examination was done. The case came to be converted into section 302 IPC. After completion of investigation both the accused persons were chargesheeted. The case was committed to the Court of Sessions. The accused persons were charged for the offence under section 302 read with section 34 IPC. They denied the charge and claimed trial.

The prosecution produced Jagdish Prasad as PW1. Ram Kalp as PW2, Constable-Laljit Singh as PW3, Radhey Shyam Tiwari as PW4 and Dr. T.N.

Sharma as PW5. The statement of the accused persons under section 313 Cr.P.C. were recorded. No evidence in defence was produced. After hearing both the sides the accused persons were convicted under section 302/34 I.P.C. and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life.

4. Before the contentions of the accused persons are taken up, we find it appropriate to briefly refer to the evidence produced by the prosecution for proving its case.

• The gist of the statement given by PW1-Jagdish Prasad is that the accused persons were his first cousins and that they have been staying in separate portions of the same house after mutual partition. There had been incessant rain on the day of occurrence. Both the sides had a common drainage which was closed by the accused persons, therefore, the rain water had collected in his 'aangan'. His father went for clearing the drain (naali). Both the accused persons stopped him from doing so and they had an argument. Accused threw pieces of bricks causing injuries to his father on his head, right shoulder and the lower lip. His father fell down. His mother Devkali, uncle Ram Kalp, witness Sharmajeet and Gayabaksh and he himself witnessed the incident and rescued Babu Lal. He has further stated that he went to police station next day. When rain stopped, he got his father admitted to civil hospital. From their, he was referred to Medical College, Lucknow. Later on, he died.

• PW2-Ram Kalp is another witness of fact produced by the prosecution, who has subsequently narrated the same story as PW1.

• PW3-Laljit Singh (Constable) is a formal witness, who has stated that S.I.-Ram Ashrey conducted inquest. Thereafter the dead body was sent for postmortem. The postmortem was done at 1.30 on the day, on 08.07.1981. Babu Lal died on 07.07.1981 at about 12 in the afternoon.

• PW4-Radhey Shyam Tiwari is a witness, who has proved that the NCR was written by constable-Shyam Narayan Dubey in his own handwriting. He has further stated that on the basis of the information, as regards death of Babu Lal, the case was converted into section 304 IPC and the investigation was entrusted to him. He visited the place of occurrence at about 6 pm on 26.07.1981. The statements of the eye-witnesses were recorded on 05.10.1981. He prepared the site map. On his transfer, the investigation was handed over to S.I. Dharmraj, who submitted the chargesheet.

• PW5-Dr. T.N. Sharma, is the witness who conducted the postmortem on the dead body. He has stated that he noted down the ante-mortem injuries and gave an opinion that Babu Lal died of shock and haemorrhage, as a result of ante-mortem injuries. He has also stated on oath that the injuries were sufficient to cause death.

5. In the statement given under section 313 Cr.P.C., the accused persons denied their involvement and said specifically that no injuries were caused by them and that they have been falsely implicated because of enmity with the informant's side. Both the accused persons said that the injured sustained injuries because he had fell down after having slipped in his house and that they are innocent.

6. No witness has been examined by the defence.

7. The prosecution case is based on oral evidence of two witnesses of fact i.e. PW-1 Jagdish Prasad, son of the deceased and PW-2 Ram Kalap, brother of the deceased and further on the evidence of medical officer who conducted post-mortem. Rest of the two witnesses are formal in nature.

8. Considerable jurisprudence has evolved, on the basis of the myriad of cases decided by the Supreme Court and the High Courts with regard to medical evidence. More often then not the injuries, the nature and dimensions thereof, the seat of the injuries and the weapons used to inflict them, may occupy a key position for deciding the actual intent or the knowledge and may hold a pivotal place in a criminal case involving offence under section 302 or 304 I.P.C. This may not be a sweeping statement that when the Court is faced with a question that which section defining the offences affecting life within Chapter XVI of I.P.C., a particular act is covered, the discussion may revolve around the medical evidence. Presence of injuries, matters incidental thereto or related to them or even lack of injuries may hold a centre stage in a criminal case.

9. In the instant case, PW-5, the medical officer testified that he found following ante mortem injuries at the time of post-mortem.

(i) A 7cm long stitched wound with seven stitches on right side of head, 3 cm above the left eyebrow.

(ii) A swelling 15cm x 10cm at the back of left side head, 3cm above the left ear and 4cm above the left eyebrow.

(iii) Abraded contusion 1.5cm x 1cm on top of right shoulder.

(iv) Abrasion 6cm x 5cm right side of chest, 1.5 cm below right scapula bone.

The doctor found a burr hole 4cm x 3cm membrane deep, below injury no.(i) and a linear facture 17cm on frontal/temporal and occipital bones and a haematoma of 17cm x 16cm under the membrane, below injury no. (i) and (ii), on opening.

10. PW-5 has given an opinion that deceased died of shock and haemorrhage due to ante mortem injuries. He has further given an opinion that injuries were sufficient to cause death. In his cross examination, he said that injury no.(ii) was only a swelling and was caused as a consequence of injury no.(i). He further said that the injuries may be caused, if deceased had slipped and fell down on bricks and that he cannot say that the swelling was because of post-mortem staining or not.

11. Before I compare and discuss the medical evidence given by the Doctor who conducted the post-mortem with the injuries shown in the medical examination of the deceased done earlier (conducted seven days before the post mortem), I find it appropriate to refer to certain evidence which has come in the testimony of witnesses of fact, in the background of the prosecution story.

12. The indisputable facts are that the incident occurred on 29.06.1981 at 3 in the afternoon inside the house, where both the sides used to reside after partition. The prosecution story is that deceased was trying to open a drain to release the rain water which had collected in his aangan. The accused persons Durga Prasad and Bhawani Prasad started hurling abuses and they asked him not to open the drain. An altercation ensued, and the accused persons started throwing pieces of bricks from above, causing him injuries. It is not disputed that the first informant had earlier gone to police station and an N.C.R. under section 323 and 504 I.P.C. was written on the basis of his written complaint. This N.C.R. was registered on 01.07.1981 i.e. about two days after the incident. This is also not disputed that injured Babu Lal died on 07.07.1981 in medical college. Subsequently a written complaint was given by his son. The CO directed for registration of an F.I.R. Therefore, the case got converted into Crime No. 163 of 1981 under section 304 I.P.C. vide G.D. entry of 22.07.1981. Earlier the injured Babu Lal had been medically examined on 30.06.1981 privately at 8.00 AM at District Hospital Sultanpur and the post-mortem was done on 07.07.1981.

13. PW-1 the first informant has stated that when his father went to ask for opening the drain, the accused persons refused to do so. His father protested and said that he should be permitted to open the same. The accused persons started throwing pieces of bricks on him causing him injuries. As there was continuous rain, therefore, he did not go to the police station. The next day, he took his father to a hospital in Sultanpur, where he was medically examined on 30.06.1981 at 8.00 A.M. at District Hospital, Sultanpur and was referred to Medical College, Lucknow.

In his cross-examination, he stated that when his father was digging open the drain, the accused persons climbed on the rooftop of their kitchen and started throwing brick pieces. When asked, he said that he does not remember that accused persons threw one or two, 10 or 20 , 50 or 100 pieces of bricks. He stated that his father sustained an injury on the back of his head from which blood came out.

14. PW-2 Ram Kalap has stated that when the accused did no permit Babu Lal to open the drain, he started doing it himself. Both the accused persons started throwing brick pieces from their rooftop. Babu Lal fell in his aangan and became unconscious. Falling is an admitted fact. He has testified that because of heavy rains, he could not be brought to the hospital or the Thana, the same day and was instead given treatment by some local Doctor. It was only next day, when Babu Lal was brought to civil hospital at Sultanpur and from there he was referred to medical college.

Giving description of the acts done by the accused persons, this witness testified that the accused persons threw only four to five pieces of bricks.

15. It is established that the incident was preceded by an altercation as regards opening of drain. This too is established that the accused persons threw pieces of bricks from the rooftop. They were standing on their rooftop and the deceased was in his aangan. This too is undisputed that deceased was brought to civil hospital Sultanpur. He was examined the next day of the incident. The genuineness of medical examination report dated 30.06.1981 has been admitted by the defence side, therefore this is an admitted fact that deceased was medically examined at 8 AM on 30.06.1981.

16. This medical examination describes three injuries having been found on the person of the deceased:

"(i) Lacerated wound 3.5cm x 0.4 cm scalp deep over left occipital region, 10cm away from left ear. No fresh bleeding. Kept under observation.

(ii) Abrasion 1cm x 0.5 cm over right shoulder, 3.5 below from tip of shoulder, scab found.

(iii) Abrasion 1cm x 1.5cm over middle of lower tip inner aspect.

General condition was low, unconscious, Admitted to hospital, X-ray skull advised.

Remark- Injury No. 1 kept under observation. Rest injuries are simple. Injury No.1 caused by blunt object and rest by friction.

Duration is about half day old."

17. In this case the patient was advised X-ray, but no X-ray has been produced. The doctor gave opinion that injury no.(i) was caused by blunt object and rest by friction. His general condition was low and he was unconscious and was admitted to hospital.

18. The prosecution has not explained the reasons for non production of papers like reference slip or discharge certificate or x-ray report etc. No question has been put to the I.O. in this regard by either of the parties. Definitely it was duty of I.O. to collect those papers to prove that the deceased was in fact referred to medical college and was put to X-ray examination. However, this missing link may not have any bearing on the prosecution case and is a defect for which only the I.O can be blamed, not the prosecution. This defect does not seem to have any far reaching consequence and is liable to be ignored in the facts and circumstance of the case, in view of the discussion to follow in the body of the judgment. The prosecution further relies on pre-mortem medical examination and on post- mortem report. Now, this Court has before it a medical examination done on 30.06.1981 and a post mortem report done on 08.07.1981 to draw appropriate inferences.

19. As per the medical examination report, there is only one injury worth mentioning i.e. a lacerated wound on occipital region. The dimensions were 3.5cm x 4 cm. This injury was only scalp deep. At that time there was no fresh bleeding. Rest of the two injuries were quite minor, of the nature of abrasions. The dimensions too were quite petty.

20. The doctor, who conducted post mortem examination, opened the body and found a linear fracture 7cm covering frontal, temporal and occipital bone. It was situated 1cm above the occipital bone to above the left eyebrow. He also found haematoma under the membrane below injury no.(i) and (ii). This evidence establishes that there was a long linear fracture on the bones of his head and this caused an internal bleeding. The blood had collected and therefore, the doctor had to drill through the bones to take out the blood collected below the injuries. The burr holes are drilled into skull to release the pressure which collected fluid may build up.

21. From all the medical facts taken together, the only inference which can be drawn is that injury no.(i) was outwardly, merely a lacerated wound but had in fact caused linear facture of the three bones. The dimension of 17cm shows that the blow had a deep impact on the bones causing fracture. This injury caused an accumulation of blood below it. The injury no.(ii) i.e. swelling of 15cm x 10cm on the right side head was nothing but accumulation of fluid/blood caused by internal bleeding and therefore, the doctor had to burrow a hole of 4cm x 3cm to release the pressure created by the fluid collected in the skull.

The prosecution case is that the deceased sustained injury from the pieces of bricks and fell down. Act of falling down explains the rest of the injuries which were in the nature of abrasions. In the medical examination dated 30.06.1981, the doctor found his general condition as low and he was unconscious at that time too. All these facts cumulatively show that the deceased died of the injury caused on his head by a piece of brick.

22. The contention of the defence is that that the prosecution has failed to demonstrate that how many pieces of brick were thrown and what was their size. No pieces of brick were collected by the I.O. It may be noted that the only defence which has been taken by the accused is that the deceased sustained injuries while he slipped in the rain. If injury no.(i) is excluded and rest of the injuries which are in the nature of abrasions, are considered, this statement appears to have substance that he fell down and therefore, sustained those injuries but as far as injury no.(i) is concerned, it may confound and compel the Judge to think over whether the same was caused by the impact of a blunt object thrown from above or just by slipping down on a solid surface.

23. In these circumstances, the seat of the injury, the nature thereof assumes great significance and to draw a conclusion undoubtedly this court has to depend upon the testimony of the witness of fact coupled with other circumstances of the matter. For this purpose the Court has no resources except to rely upon the evidence produced by the prosecution. P.W.-1 Jagdish Prasad who has supported prosecution story, has stated in unambiguous terms that the accused persons started throwing pieces of bricks which hit his father's head from the rooftop of their kitchen. PW.2 -Ram Kalap is another eyewitness, who admittedly happens to be uncle of P.W.1 and resided in the third portion of the same house after its partition, has supported the prosecution. P.W.-2 has testified that because of excessive rain, water had collected in their angan and that when his brother i.e. deceased Babu Lal asked the accused persons to clear the drain, they did not pay any heed and therefore the deceased started digging the drain himself for release of water. Annoyed over this act of the deceased, the accused persons started throwing pieces of brick from their rooftop.

24. The prosecution has examined two witnesses of fact. Both are eyewitnesses, whose presence on the spot is nothing but natural. The accused and the witnesses are closely related. There appears no good reason why they should falsely implicate the accused persons when they had already accepted the partition of the house at least 6 to 7 years before this incident. In our view, the Court is not expected to go about the prosecution story with an air of disbelief from the very beginning. In our opinion, unless, the defence has been able to demolish the prosecution case by impeaching the credibility of the witnesses or by demonstrating probability of false implication or by demonstrating the inherent weakness or by at least creating reasonable doubts in any other manner, of course by producing some evidence or from the prosecution evidence itself, the Court would ordinarily believe the statements given by prosecution witnesses. This is not to say that the prosecution witnesses have to be believed blindly. Of course, the evidence has to be scrutinised for finding out the grains of truth in it. The defence may dismantle the prosecution case by demonstrating the falsity thereof which may emanate from inherent infirmities in the story or because the evidence of the witnesses are shaky in material particulars or because the witnesses are likely to falsely implicate the accused persons for certain objectives to be attained or where witnesses are not found reliable for any other good reason or their evidence is found deficient. The factors enumerated herein definitely do not lay down any strict formula for prosecution to stand on its own legs. The only point this Court wants to impress upon is that the Court has to depend upon the evidence which has been led by the prosecution or by the defence for inferring whether the charges stand proved or not. The Court cannot depend upon conjectures and surmises or entertain doubts without having good reasons to have them. In the instant case, the Court do not find substance in the alternative theory given by defence that injury was not caused by their act and rather it was a result of his slipping down in the rain. My view is fortified by the fact that the fatal injury was on his skull with a 17cm fracture right from frontal to temporal to occipital bone. In our opinion there is a strong probability that injury of such nature and dimension is caused by the impact of a blunt object thrown with strong force, therefore, this Court is of the view that injury no.1 on the head of the decease was caused by throwing of brick piece and not just by slipping down.]

25. A question may arise that the prosecution has not been able to show that it was accused Durga Prasad alone who threw the piece of brick which actually hit him in the head, therefore, he may be given benefit of doubt. We do not find much substance in this argument. The prosecution story is that the accused Durga Prasad and one more Bhawani Prasad (whose appeal stands abated) both started throwing brick pieces. In such circumstances common intention, covered under section 34 of I.P.C. comes into play. Therefore, it is not necessary to show that who threw a particular piece of brick which hit his head leaving him injured. In our opinion, if this Court embarks upon such an enquiry that who threw that particular piece of brick which hit Babu Lal's head, it would tantamount to adding a new angle in the prosecution case. The prosecution case is that both the accused who were real brothers, climbed over their roof and started throwing brick pieces. The act of both accused speaks of their common intention. The prosecution case cannot be bifurcated as if that one of the accused was throwing brick pieces and the other just kept standing without sharing the intention of co-accused! This type of presumption is, not only not supported by the evidence of the witnesses but is like substituting one's own new story in the prosecution case. Ordinarily, in criminal cases the prosecution sets up a story from the evidence which has been collected. The courts are not permitted to add or modify or change or substitute with its own – unless the court is compelled to do so for good and strong reasons. Such a course of action, if frequently resorted to may not only prejudice the defence, may also crumble the criminal justice administration system.

26. Next important legal issue is whether prosecution has been able to prove charge of section 302/34. In Dhupa Chamar & Ors Vs. State of Bihar, (decided on 02.08.2002), the Supreme Court had to grapple with a case of death caused by single bhala blow in the neck. A question arose whether clause 'Thirdly' of section 300 I.P.C. is attracted. The Supreme Court observed as below:-

" The ingredient 'intention' in that Clause is very important and that gives a clue in a given case whether offence involved is murder or not. Clause Thirdly of Section 300 of the Penal Code reads thus:-

"Thirdly. If it is done with the intention or causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, or" Intention is different from motive. It is the intention with which the act is done that makes difference, in arriving at a conclusion whether the offence is culpable homicide or murder"

27. In the celebrated and landmark judgment given by the Supreme Court in Virsa Singh Vs. State of Punjab AIR 1958 SC 465, it was held as below:

" To put it shortly, the prosecution must prove the following facts before it can bring a case under s. 300, 3rdly " ; (i) First, it must establish, quite objectively, that a bodily injury is present ; (ii) Secondly, the nature of the injury must be proved; These are purely objective investigations.(iii) Thirdly, it must be proved that there was an intention to inflict that particular bodily injury, that is to say, that it was not accidental or unintentional, or that some other kind of injury was intended. Once these three elements are proved to be present, the enquiry proceeds further and,Fourthly, it must be proved that the injury of the type just described made up of the three elements set out above is sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. This part of the enquiry is purely objective and inferential and has nothing to do with the intention of the offender."

28. The Supreme Court in Dhupa Chamar (supra), quoted from another judgment of itself given in Jai Prakash Vs. State (Delhi Administration), (1991) 2 SCC 32 in which the meaning of term 'knowledge' and 'intention' was elaborated as below:

"It can thus be seen that the 'knowledge' as contrasted with 'intention' signify a state of mental realisation with the bare state of conscious awareness of certain facts in which human mind remains supine or inactive. On the other hand, 'intention' is a conscious state in which mental faculties are aroused into activity and summoned into action for the purpose of achieving a conceived end. It means shaping of one's conduct so as to bring about a certain event. Therefore, in the case of 'intention' mental faculties are projected in a set direction. Intention need not necessarily involve premeditation. Whether there is such an intention or not is a question of fact. In Clause Thirdly the words "intended to be inflicted" are significant. As noted already, when a person commits an act, he is presumed to expect the natural consequences. But from the mere fact that the injury caused is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death it does not necessarily follow that the offender intended to cause the injury of that nature. However, the presumption arises that he intended to cause that particular injury. In such a situation the court has to ascertain whether the facts and circumstances in the case are such as to rebut the presumption and such facts and circumstances cannot be laid down in an abstract rule and they will vary from case to case. However, as pointed out in Virsa Singh's case (supra), the weapon used, the degree of force released in wielding it, the antecedent relations of the parties, the manner in which the attack was made that is to say sudden or premeditated, whether the injury was inflicted during a struggle or grappling, the number of injuries inflicted and their nature and the part of the body where the injury was inflicted are some of the relevant factors. These and other factors which may arise in a case have to be considered and if on a totality of these circumstances a doubt arises as to the nature of the offence, the benefit has to go to the accused."

29. In Mahesh Balmiki alias Munna Vs. State of M.P. 2000 (1) SCC 319, the Supreme Court pointed out that there is no principle that in all cases of a single blow, 302 I.P.C. is not attracted. A single blow may in some cases entail conviction under section 302 I.P.C., in some cases under section 304 I.P.C. and in some other cases under section 326 I.P.C. The Supreme Court observed as below:-

"Adverting to the contention of a single blow, it may be pointed out that there is no principle that in all cases of single blow Section 302 I.P.C. is not attracted. Single blow may, in some cases, entail conviction under Section 302 I.P.C., in some cases under Section 304 I.P.C and in some other cases under Section 326 I.P.C. The question with regard to the nature of offence has to be determined on the facts and in the circumstances of each case. The nature of the injury, whether it is on the vital or non-vital part of the body, the weapon used, the circumstances in which the injury is caused and the manner in which the injury is inflicted are all relevant factors which may go to determine the required intention or knowledge of the offender and the offence committed by him."

30. The Supreme Court of India, in Criminal Appeal No. 2043 of 2023 Anbazhagan Vs. The State represented by the Inspector of Police, decided on 20.07.2023, differentiated between word 'intent' and 'knowledge' observing that intention which is a state of mind can never be precisely proved by direct evidence as a fact; it can only be deduced or inferred from other facts which are proved the intention may be proved by res-gestae, by acts or events previous or subsequent to the incident or occurrence. The relevant consideration may include nature of weapon used, place where injury was inflicted, nature of injury, the opportunity available to the accused. The Supreme Court quoted from the Kudumula Mahanandi Reddi MANU/AP/0128/1960 : AIR 1960 AP 141, as below :-

'18. … A man's intention has to be inferred from what he does. But there are cases in which death is caused and the intention which can safely be imputed to the offender is less grave. The degree of guilt depends upon intention and the intention to be inferred must be gathered from the facts proved. Sometimes an act is committed which would not in an ordinary case inflict injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, but which the - offender knows is likely to cause the death. Pro*of of such *knowledge throws light upon his intention."

The Supreme Court further reproduced para 26 from Kudumala judgment as below:

"26. …Where the evidence does not disclose that there was any intention, to cause death of the deceased but it was clear that the accused had the knowledge that their acts were likely to cause death the accused can be held guilty under the second part of sec. 304, I.P.C. The contention that in order to bring the case under the second part of sec. 304, I.P.C. it must be brought within one of the exceptions to sec 300, I.P.C. is not acceptable."

'Knowledge' and 'intention' are essential ingredients of offence of culpable homicide as defined in section 299 of I.P.C. Section 299 I.P.C. is as below:

"Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide."

31. In our opinion the aforesaid precedents set up a right background for this court to proceed, keeping in mind the real intent of law and its application to the facts of instant case. This Court has to first find out whether the act is covered under section 299 I.P.C. as defined above. The facts of this case are that in the background of a dispute which arose because of accumulation of rain water in a enclosure which is inside portion of house popularly known as 'angan' (courtyard) of the deceased and when his brother's family refused to open the drain, he attempted to clear the same on his own which annoyed the accused persons i.e. his real brother's sons and they started throwing brick pieces. In this case only one injury was of such nature which could have caused death. There has not been any repetition of act of throwing bricks when the deceased had slipped and fell down. The accused threw pieces of bricks (not wielded any weapon) which is enough to show that there has not been any pre-meditation. This is not the case that they had come prepared with some object which may properly fall in category of a weapon. This is not a case where after the altercation, accused persons had come again with a plan in their mind. This is not a case where they had brought some weapon. The circumstances show that there was an act which can be called rather reckless. When a piece of brick is thrown, it is difficult to say where it will hit the body, if at all it hits, unless somebody is so trained that he can exactly pin point the part of the body where he wanted to hit with the object. Unless someone is skilled enough, it is not possible to hit with a stone or brick at a target with precision. Here the act, and the intended consequence have to be considered with caution. Moreover, it has not come in evidence that accused had specifically targetted head of the deceased for inflicting injury and he was successful in doing the same.

32. Now comes another aspect that is the nature of injury actually caused. In this case, the impact of the blow by piece of brick caused fracture of skull bones. The deceased survived for seven days, thereafter he succumbed to this injury. In our view a single injury caused by throwing a piece of brick, which is not a hand held weapon, cannot be categorised as an injury likely to cause death. In our opinion the facts and circumstances exclude the proposition that the accused persons did the act with the intention of causing death or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death. Further the act is not covered in the third part of section 299 I.P.C. that the act was done with a 'knowledge' that he is likely by such act to cause death.

33. In Anbazhagan (supra), the Supreme Court in para 42 of the judgment observed that it is fallacious to contend that wherever there is single injury, a case of culpable homicide is made out, irrespective of other circumstances. In the same judgment, the Supreme Court reproduced para 23 of the judgment in Virsa Singh (supra) with a view to impress upon that the court has to confine itself to the fact whether accused intended to inflict the injury which is proved to be present and that if he can show that he did not, or if the totality of the circumstances justify such an inference, then, of course the 'intent' that the section requires, is not proved. The Supreme Court said that whether he knew of its seriousness or intended serious consequence is neither here not there.

34. In the instant case, the existence of injury is proved. Now the question is whether circumstances warrant conclusion that he intended to cause such an injury which has actually been caused or whether he had the requisite knowledge that he will cause such an injury which may ultimately cause his death. Even in cases which involved a single blow by lathi, the Courts have convicted accused under section 304 I.P.C. and in some cases even under section 302 I.P.C. Having said that it may be noted that lathi is a weapon which has to be held by hands and when a blow is caused, the accused must be presumed to have knowledge that on which part of the body, whether some vital parts like head or any other part like limbs which are non-vital, he is going to hit.

Another difference is that when an accused is using lathi, he must be presumed to be aware of the force he is about to use or has used and therefore, can be attributed with the necessary 'knowledge' of consequence of his act, whether accused had necessary intention or 'knowledge'. Most fundamental formula which may be applied for deducing the requisite intention or knowledge, is whether he was aware of the consequences which shall follow or likely to follow as a direct consequence of his act. Where such an awareness of the direct consequences or the higher degree of probability cannot be attributed to the accused, the offence may not fall either under section 302 I.P.C. or section 304 I.P.C. In our firm opinion, in such cases the offence may be covered under section 323, 324 and 325 I.P.C. as the case may be.

35. Interestingly, the term 'intention' and term 'knowledge' form essential ingredient of section 321 I.P.C. which defines voluntarily causing hurt and section 322 I.P.C. which defines voluntarily causing grievous hurt. Broadly, when an act is done with the intention of causing hurt/grievous hurt or with a 'knowledge' that he is likely to cause hurt or grievous hurt to any person, he shall be punishable under appropriate sections. The prosecution has already been successful in showing that the deceased got injured on his head by a piece of brick thrown from above by the accused. P.W.2 has said that accused person was throwing 'addhi' i.e. more or less half piece of a brick. Therefore, definitely he had an intention to cause hurt or that he had a 'knowledge' that he is likely to cause grievous hurt. When he threw the brick piece, he was standing on his rooftop and the deceased was in his 'angan'. The impact of injury was such that it caused fracture of skull bones. In our opinion, in the totality of facts and circumstances and taking into account that there was a verbal altercation (not a fight) over an issue of opening the drain for release of water and there was no pre-meditation and that the accused obviously picked up a piece of brick and that he did not come prepared and armed with any weapon at all, in our opinion an offence under section 325 I.P.C. is proved beyond reasonable doubt against accused and not the offence under section 302 or 304 I.P.C.

36. (i) The accused has been convicted under section 302 read with section 34 I.P.C. and sentenced to undergo life imprisonment. For the reasons already discussed hereinabove, the Trial Court has erred in convicting the appellant under Section 302 read with 34 IPC. Hence, the conviction of accused Durga Prasad is altered from 302 read with section 34 I.P.C. to section 325 read with section 34 I.P.C.

(ii) This Court finds that the interest of justice shall be served by sentencing the accused Durga Prasad for a term of three years and a fine of Rs. 30,000/-.

(iii) Out of the total amount of fine, Rs. 25,000/- shall be payable to the son of the deceased Durga Prasad as compensation.

(iv) In case fine is not deposited, the accused shall undergo three months simple imprisonment for default in payment of fine.

(v) The period of imprisonment already undergone shall be adjusted towards the substantive sentence of imprisonment.

37. The accused shall surrender before the court concerned immediately.

38. The bail bond and the personal bond shall stand discharged. Accordingly, the judgment and order of sentence are modified. Appeal is allowed in part.

39. Let a copy of the judgment be immediately transmitted to the court concerned for preparation of conviction warrant.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1362
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 07.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAJIV GUPTA, J.
THE HON'BLE MOHD. AZHAR HUSAIN IDRISI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1557 of 1983
connected with
Criminal Appeal No. 1610 of 1983

Mihi Lal & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Pt. Mohan Chandra, Sri Apul Misra, Sri P.N. Misra, Sri Vinay Kumar Pathak

Counsel for the Respondent:
D.G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 302, 323 & 34 - Appellants challenged conviction and sentence of life imprisonment under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and six months' rigorous imprisonment under Section 323 read with Section 34 IPC by Additional Sessions Judge, Budaun, dated 31.05.1983. Court held: (1) Evidence of eye-witnesses PW-1 (Angoori Devi, injured), PW-2 (Kunwar Sen), and PW-4 (Laung Shree, daughter of deceased) consistent and truthful; minor inconsistencies trivial and not fatal (Balu Sudam Khalde Vs St. of Mah., Criminal Appeal No. 1910 of 2010). (2) Presence of PW-1 and PW-4, relatives of deceased, natural and credible; relationship not a ground to discard testimony unless enmity proven to cause false implication (Dalip Singh Vs St. of Punj., AIR 1953 SC 364; Hari Obula Reddy Vs St. of A.P., (1981) 3 SCC 675). (3) Medical evidence (post-mortem and injury reports) corroborated prosecution case. (4) FIR lodged promptly, no evidence of anti-timing. (5) Enmity a double-edged sword, not sufficient to discredit prosecution evidence. No perversity in trial court's findings. Appeals dismissed; surviving appellants (Banwari and Jhamman Lal) to be taken into custody to serve sentences. (Paras 49-73)

Case Law Cited:

1. Balu Sudam Khalde Vs St. of Mah., Criminal Appeal No. 1910 of 2010 (Para 49)

2. Dalip Singh Vs St. of Punj., AIR 1953 SC 364 (Paras 61, 62)

3. Piara Singh Vs St. of Punj., (1977) 4 SCC 452 (Para 63)

4. Hari Obula Reddy Vs St. of A.P., (1981) 3 SCC 675 (Para 64)

5. S. Sudershan Reddy Vs St. of A.P., (2006) 10 SCC 163 (Para 65)

6. Kamta Yadav Vs St. of Bihar, (2016) 16 SCC 164 (Para 66)

7. Nand Kumar Vs St. of Chhattisgarh, (2015) 1 SCC 776 (Para 66)

8. Ashok Rai Vs St. of U.P., (2014) 5 SCC 713 (Para 67)

9. Mritunjoy Biswas Vs Pranab alias Kuti Biswas, (2013) 12 SCC 796 (Para 68)

10. Inder Singh Vs St. of Raj., (2015) 2 SCC 734 (Para 69)

11. Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai Vs St. of Gujarat, 1983 Cri LJ 1096 (Para 49)

12. Leela Ram Vs St. of Har., (1999) 9 SCC 525 (Para 68)

13. Rammi Vs St. of M.P., (1999) 8 SCC 649 (Para 68)

14. Shyamal Ghosh Vs St. of W.B., (2012) 7 SCC 646 (Para 68)

15. Tahsildar Singh Vs St. of U.P., AIR 1959 SC 1012 (Para 49)

(Delivered by Hon. Mohd. Azhar Husain Idrisi, J)

1. Heard Shri Apul Mishra, learned counsel for the appellants, Shri Jitendra Kumar Jaiswal, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. The instant criminal appeals have been filed against the judgment and order dated 31.05.1983 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Budaun in Session Trial No. 27 of 1981, arising out of Case Crime No. 162 of 1980, under Sections 302, 323 IPC, Police Station Jarif Nagar, District Budaun, whereby the accused-appellants have been convicted for the offence under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and awarded the sentence of life imprisonment and also under Section 323 read with Section 34 IPC and awarded the sentence of six months' rigorous imprisonment.

3. It has been informed that appellant no.1 Mihi Lal in Criminal Appeal No. 1557 of 1983 had already expired and as such, the instant appeal qua appellant no.1 Mihi Lal was dismissed as abated by this Court vide order dated 27.10.2018.

4. As per the prosecution case, as unraveled in the FIR lodged by one Dumbar Singh, vide written report (Ex. Ka-1) dated 16.10.1980 at 8:45 PM, which was registered vide Case Crime No. 162 of 1980, under Sections 302/323 IPC in Police Station Jarif Nagar, District Budaun vide G.D. No. 24 (Ex. Ka-11) of the written report and chik FIR (Ex. Ka-3) prepared by PW-6 Hari Ram Sharma at the relevant date and time.

5. The allegations made in the FIR are that about two years back, Choban Singh, son of Mihi Lal was murdered, in which, Khemai, Virendra Singh and Tara Singh along with seven other villagers were falsely nominated as accused and they were put to trial, however, about 8-9 days back, the said case ended in acquittal. Consequent to the said acquittal, the appellants and his relatives started bearing animosity against them. There were certain other cases also, on account of which, the appellants used to bear enmity against them.

6. It is further alleged that on 16.10.1980 in the forenoon, while the first informant Angoori alongwith his cousin father-in-law Khemai and sister-in-law Laung Shree were returning back to their village after cutting the paddy crops and reached near the boundary marks of the field of Gyani and Udaiveer, then from the eastern side of the bushes, Mihi Lal, son of Abhai Ram, armed with farsa and his sons Jhamman, Aaram Singh, armed with lathis and Banwari Lal, nephew of Mihi Lal, armed with SBBL gun, emerged and exhorted to kill his cousin father-in-law Khemai, who threw the bundle of paddy crops, which he was carrying on his head and tried to make his escape good, however, Banwari fired a shot, which hit him, due to which, he fell down near the boundary marks of the field of Udaiveer, thereafter, Mihi Lal, Jhamman and Aaram Singh started assaulting him with their respective weapons. They raised alarm after throwing away the bundle of paddy crops, which they were carrying on their head and tried to rescue Khemai by laying down on him, however, she was also assaulted by the assailants with lathis. Laung Shree, who was ahead of the two, also threw away the bundle of paddy crops, which she was carrying and raised alarm. On the alarm being raised by them, Kunwar Sen (PW-2) and Tara Singh reached the place of incident and challenged the assailants, who made their escape good towards north. Khemai died on the spot itself.

7. The aforesaid FIR was lodged alleging therein that accused-appellants along with Banwari had killed Khemai and caused injuries to the first informant Angoori Devi. The said FIR was registered in the presence of S.I. Hari Ram Sharma (PW-6), who took over the investigation and recorded the statement of Head Constable Azhar Hussain (PW-7), who had drawn the chik FIR and made the G.D. entry and thereafter, reached the place of incident at about 10:30 PM and thereafter, recorded the statement of Angoori Devi, Laung Shree, Tara Singh, Kunwar Sen and Dumbar Singh and stayed in the village.

8. On the next morning at 6:30 AM, Investigating Officer S.I. Hari Ram Sharma again reached the place of incident and conducted the panchayat nama (Ex. Ka-4). He also prepared the photo-nash (Ex. Ka-5) and challan-nash (Ex. Ka-6) and sent a letter to the C.M.O. (Ex. Ka-7) and prepared a sample seal. The site plan was also prepared by the Investigating Officer and marked as Ex. Ka-8. Thereafter, the dead body of the deceased was sealed and dispatched for autopsy. The Investigating Officer has also found three bundles of paddy crops, which the deceased and two other eye-witnesses were carrying at the time of incident and drawn its recovery memo alongwith sample of plain earth, blood soaked earth and pieces of broken bangles, which were marked as Ex. Ka-9.

9. An autopsy was conducted on the person of the deceased Khemai in District Hospital on 18.10.1980. In the post-mortem report, the Doctor has noted the following injuries:-

(i) Lacerated wound 3.5 C.M. x 0.5 cm x bone over part of fore-head, 2.5 cm above root of nose.

(ii) Lacerated would 2 cm x 1.5 cm x bone over left side of fore-head, 1 cm above eye-brow.

(iii) Lacerated wound 5.5 cm x 1 cm x bone over left parietal region, 1 cm above ear.

(iv) Incised wound 2.5 cm x 0.5 cm x bone over left parietal region. 4.5 cm behind injury no.3.

Clean cut margins with sharp edges.

(v) Incised wound 1.5 cm x 0.5 cm x scalp over left occipital region.

(vi) Incised wound 1 cm x 0.5 cm x scalp over left occipital region, 1 cm below injury no.v.

Clean cut margins with sharp edges.

(vii) Lacerate wound 5.5 cm x 0.5 cm x bone over right parietal region, 10 cm above ear.

(viii) Incised wound 2 cm x 1 cm x muscle deep over left side of body left lower jaw at its lower border clean cut margins with sharp edges.

(ix) Incised wound 2 cm x 1/2 cm x skin over left side of face, 2 cm in front of tragus of left ear.

(x) Gunshot abrasion due to burning 6 cm x 1 cm over left side of neck at its middle 1/3rd placed horizontally.

(xi) Abrasion 2 cm x 2 cm over back of left shoulder.

(xii) Abrasion 2 cm x 1 cm over front of right knee.

On internal examination, the Medical Officer found fracture of both parietal bones and frontal bone under injury no.1, 2, 3 and 7. Membranes were also lacerated and teared at places, brain was also congested and lacerated at places. Right chamber of heart contained clotted blood, while left chamber was empty. About 400 gm digested food material was present in the stomach. The small and large intestines were full of gases and faecal matter. Bladder was empty. According to the Medical Officer, the death was caused due to shock and hemorrhage as a result of antemortem injuries.

10. The medical officer also proved the post-mortem report (Ex. Ka-2). Smt. Angoori Devi was also medically examined by Dr. O.P. Agarwal (PW-8) of P.H.C., Dehgawan on 17.10.1980 at 6:50 PM. The Doctor has noted following injuries:-

(i) An abrasion on the back of left hand 3 cm below the wrist joint size 0.4 cm x 0.2 cm surrounded by painful swelling.

(ii) Painful swelling of right fore-arm in 1 cm area, 4 cm above the wrist joint.

(iii) The patient tells pain in right scapular region. No visible sign of injury.

11. The medical officer also proved the injury report of Angoori Devi (Ex. Ka-12).

12. After concluding the investigation, the Investigating Officer had filed the charge-sheet (Ex. Ka-10) against all the nominated accused persons under Sections 302, 323, 324 IPC.

13. On the basis of the said charge-sheet, learned Magistrate had taken cognizance and since the case was exclusively triable by the court of Sessions, made over the case to the court of Sessions for trial. The Sessions Court vide its order dated 28.04.1981 framed the charges against the accused persons under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and Section 323 read with Section 34 IPC. All the accused-appellants abjured the charges and claimed to be tried.

14. During the course of trial, the prosecution has examined as many as four witnesses of fact and four formal witnesses. Their testimony in brief is enumerated hereunder :-

15. PW-1 Angoori Devi is an eye-witness of the incident and also received injuries at the time of the incident. The FIR was scribed at her dictation, which was scribed by one Rajendra Singh. She tried to lodge the report at the Police Station, however, since the accused persons had obstructed her way, she returned back to her house and thereafter, the report was handed over to Dumbar Singh, who reached the Police Station and lodged the first information report.

16. PW-1 Angoori Devi in her statement has categorically stated that while they were returning back to their house after cutting paddy crops and had reached near the fields of Gyani and Udaiveer, the assailants emerged from eastern side and exhorted to kill Khemai, who tried to make his escape good by throwing away the bundle of paddy crops, which he was carrying, however, he was fired upon by the assailant Banwari by the SBBL gun, which hit him and he fell down. Thereafter, he is said to have been assaulted by Mihi Lal, armed with farsa, Jhamman and Aaram Singh, both armed with lathi.

17. PW-1 tried to rescue his father-in-law Khemai by bending over him, however, the assailants assaulted her by lathi causing injuries on her person. An alarm was raised by the said witness and one Laung Shree, who was also accompanying her. The alarm attracted other witnesses, namely, Kunwar Sen and Tara Singh, who reached there and challenged the assailants, who made their escape good. On account of assault made by the assailants, Khemai died on the spot. The FIR in respect of the incident was scribed at the dictation of the said witness, which was scribed by one Rajendra Singh and the FIR was lodged in the Police Station by one Dumbar Singh (P.W.3).

18. The said witness has been exclusively cross-examined by the defence, however, nothing adverse could be elicited from her statement. The witness however denied the suggestion that she had not seen the incident and that the FIR was lodged after three days of the incident. She categorically stated that she had received three injuries on her person and she had shown her injuries to the Investigating Officer, who had reached in the village to investigate the case and was also medically examined at P.H.C. Dehgawan, Budaun.

19. She has further categorically denied the fact that she was not present at the time and scene of the incident and her injuries are fake and self-inflicted. She has further denied not to have gone with the victims to cut the paddy crops. During cross-examination, she has further stated that at the time of incident, she along with Laung Shree and Khemai were returning back to her home. She has further categorically stated that Banwari fired a shot from the distance of about 15-16 paces and in order to rescue Khemai from the assault of accused-assailants, she had, in fact, bent over him but did not lay upon him. She has further denied the factum that at the time of incident, Mihi Lal was in Khadrabad market alongwith Jhamman and Aaram Singh and Banwari was in his village. She has further categorically denied the fact that on account of inimical terms with the assailants, she had lodged the report.

20. PW-2 Kunwar Sen is another eye-witness of the incident, who has clearly deposed that at the time of the incident, he was at his field and on raising alarm by Angoori Devi and Laung Shree, he had rushed to the place of incident and saw the deceased Khemai lying on the boundary marks of field of Gyani and Udaiveer and was being assaulted by Mihi Lal by farsa and Jhamman and Aaram Singh by lathis, whereas Banwari was standing there with his SBBL gun. Angoori Devi with an intention to rescue Khemai had bent over him, who was also assaulted by lathi, consequent to which, she suffered injuries and her bangles were also broken. The assailants, on being challenged, made their escape good. At the relevant time, Laung Shree, Dumbar Singh and other villagers were also present.

21. The said witness has also been extensively cross-examined by the defence and has explained the alleged inimical terms with the accused persons. He has further stated that while he was keeping guard of dead body of Khemai, the Investigating Officer had reached there at about 10-11:00 PM and interrogated him and on the next day, recorded his statement and he had clearly told him that he is an eye-witness of the incident and the fact that at the relevant time, Angoori and Laung Shree were also present there. In his cross-examination, he has further stated that at the time of incident, he was present at his field, where mustard crop were grown and had reached the place of incident, which was at a distance of 30 to 40 paces. He has further categorically stated that when he rushed to the place of incident after hearing the fire shot, he had seen Banwari standing on the road but he had not actually seen Banwari firing from his SBBL gun and could not state as to who fired the shot. He has further stated that while rushing to the place of incident, he had challenged the assailants alongwith Tara Singh. He has categorically denied the suggestion that he along with Khemai formed a gang nor he is a member of the gang. He has further denied the suggestion that there were illicit relations between the wife of Khemai with one Virendra, due to which, Virendra had caused the murder of Khemai. He has further denied the fact that Khemai was killed in an incident of dacoity and false case has been cooked up by him.

22. PW-3 Dumbar Singh is not an eye-witness of the incident, however, he is the person, who had carried written report scribed by Rajendra Singh at the dictation of PW-1 Angoori and had lodged the report in the Police Station. In his cross-examination, he has categorically stated that the FIR was scribed by Rajendra Singh at the dictation of Angoori Devi, which was heard by him. He has further categorically stated that he reached the Police Station in an hour and Head Moharrir had lodged the report in presence of the Investigating Officer, who had reached the village to investigate the case. He has categorically denied the suggestion that FIR was lodged after three days of the incident.

23. PW-4 Laung Shree is the daughter of the deceased and another eye-witness of the incident, who was accompanying the deceased and Angoori Devi at the time of the incident. She had categorically stated that after cutting paddy crops, she along with her father Khemai and sister-in-law Angoori Devi were returning back to their village and when they reached near the boundary marks of Gyani and Udaiveer, the assailants Banwari, Mihi Lal, Jhamman and Aaram Singh emerged from the bushes. She has further stated that Banwari was armed with gun, Mihi Lal was armed with farsa, Jhamman and Aaram Singh, both were armed with lathis. Mihi Lal exhorted to kill Khemai as he has been acquitted by the court but could not escape from their clutches. On exhortation, her father threw away the bundle of paddy crops and started running towards the west, he was chased by Banwari, who fired a shot upon him. They also threw away the bundle of paddy crops, which they were carrying on their head. On account of fire made by Banwari, his father received injuries and fell down on the boundary marks of Gyani and Udaiveer and thereafter, Mihi Lal armed with farsa, Jhamman and Aaram Singh, armed with lathis, assaulted him. She along with her sister-in-law Angoori Devi raised alarm and Angoori tried to rescue his father by bending over him, however, she was also assaulted by lathi, consequent to which, she received injuries and her bangles were broken and fell down there.

24. She has further stated that on raising alarm, Kunwar Sen and Tara Singh reached there and on their challenge, the assailants made their escape good. Her father died on the spot. The police has reached the place of incident and recorded her statement.

25. During cross-examination, she had categorically narrated the manner how her father was assaulted by Banwari and three other assailants. She has denied the suggestion that she had not actually seen the incident. She has further stated that when the police reached the place of incident, she was present by the side of his father and had categorically denied the fact that dead body of her father was shifted to the fields of Kunwar Sen. She was examined by the Investigating Officer alongwith other witnesses. She had disclosed to the Investigating Officer that during assault, glass bangles of Angoori Devi were broken and fell on the ground in the said incident, however, she could not explain as to how the said fact has not been mentioned in her statement recorded by the Investigating Officer. She has further denied the suggestion that on the date of incident, Mihi Lal and his sons had gone to Khadrabad Bazar and Banwari was in his village. She further stated that Mihi Lal had falsely implicated his father and brother in a murder case.

26. PW-5 Dr. N.P. Singh had conducted an autopsy on the person of the deceased, who had proved the autopsy report and contents thereof and the autopsy report has been exhibited as Ex. Ka-2. He has further stated that death of the deceased could be caused on 16.10.1980 at 3-4:00 PM and lacerated wounds on the person of the deceased could be caused by lathi and incised wounds on his person could be caused by farsa. He has further denied the suggestion that the deceased died in the midnight between 15/16.10.1980. He has further stated that only one gun shot injury has been found on the person of the deceased having burning. He has further denied the suggestion that the said injury could be caused by the tip of a knife.

27. PW-6 S.I. Hari Ram Sharma is the Investigating Officer and he proved the various stages of the investigation and has inspected the spot and recorded the statement of the witnesses and prepared the site plan (Ex. Ka-8) and took the possession of plain earth, blood soaked earth, broken bangles and three bundles of paddy crops and has drawn its recovery memo (Ex.Ka-9) and had sent the victim Angoori Devi through constable for her medical examination. He has further stated that on 23.10.1980, the appellants surrendered before the court and on 31.10.1980, he interrogated them and thereafter, concluded the investigation and submitted the charge-sheet (Ex. Ka-10).

28. He has further categorically stated that on the eastern side of the boundary marks of Gyani and Udaiveer, the crops were cut, where the dead body was lying. During cross-examination, he has categorically stated that the FIR was lodged in his presence and thereafter, he had left the Police Station for the investigation. He has further categorically denied the fact that when he reached the place of incident, the dead body was kept in the Madahiya of Satyam Singh and thereafter in the next morning, the dead body was kept at the boundary mark of Udaiveer in the field of Gyani, where mixed crops of Jwar and Arhar were sown. The panchayat nama was conducted on the next day because there was no adequate arrangement of light. He has further categorically stated that the FIR was sent along with dead body and the factum of sending the FIR is clearly mentioned in the panchayat nama numbered as Paper No.9. He has further categorically denied that the suggestion that the FIR was registered after conducting the post-mortem.

29. PW-7 is the Head Constable Azhar Hussain of the Police Station Wazir Ganj, who made G.D. entry of the written report and drawn the chik FIR in connection therewith. The chik FIR and written report were exhibited as Ex. Ka-3 and Ex. Ka-11. He has further stated that Dumbar Singh had given the written report on 16.10.1980 at 8:45 PM or 20:45 hours, however, in the G.D., it has not been mentioned as to how the said FIR was sent to the S.P. Office but an entry has been made that the FIR was sent on 17.10.1980 at 7:00 AM. He has further denied the suggestion that FIR was lodged on the third day after the post-mortem.

30. PW-8 Dr. O.P. Agrawal is the doctor, who examined the injuries of the victim Angoori Devi, who is said to have been examined on 17.10.1980 at 6:30 PM. He has proved the said injury report (Ex. Ka-12). In his cross-examination, he has further categorically stated that the victim was examined, when she had reached there and the time of medical examination has been noted in the injury report. He has further stated that the injuries have been noted on the other side of Majroobi Chitthi. He has further stated that the injuries has been caused by the hard blunt weapon.

31. Thereafter, the statement of accused under Section 313 CrPC has been recorded by putting all the incriminating circumstances to the surviving appellants Banwari and Jhamman. The appellants denied the incriminating circumstances and stated that they have been falsely implicated. The accused-appellant Jhamman has stated that at the time of incident, he was in Khadrabad market and in the next morning, the dead body of the deceased Khemai was lying in Madahiya of Satyam Singh and the police kept it in the field of Gyani, however, no specific plea has been taken by the appellant Banwari in his statement under Section 313 CrPC.

32. The defence, however, has not led any evidence to prove its case. The trial court after appreciating the evidence, has held that the prosecution has successfully established the case against the surviving appellants by relying upon the testimony of prosecution witnesses, namley, Angoori Devi, who is the injured eye-witness as well as Laung Shree, who is the daughter of the deceased and natural witness. The explanation tendered by the appellants is false and inadequate and as such, they are liable to be convicted.

33. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that actual incident of the assault has not been witnessed by anyone and only on the basis of cooked up and concocted story, an attempt has been made to the create an eye-witness of the incident in the form of statement of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-4, who are the closed relatives of the deceased being his daughter and daughter-in-law, who are highly partisan and interested witnesses.

34. Learned counsel for the appellants has further submitted that injuries shown to be received by the victim Angoori Devi are superficial, self-inflicted and manipulated, though the deceased is said to have been brutally assaulted.

35. Learned counsel for the appellants has further submitted that in the FIR, it is stated that the victim Angoori Devi, in order to rescue his father-in-law Khemai, laid upon him, however subsequently, it has been stated that she, in order to rescue his father-in-law, bent over him and she was also assaulted, which is a clear improvement just to falsely implicate the appellants. Learned counsel for the appellants has next challenged the presence of second eye-witness Laung Shree, being daughter of the deceased, who is highly interested and partisan witness.

36. Learned counsel for the appellants has next submitted that the appellants are on the inimical terms with the deceased and eye-witnesses, therefore, the appellants have been falsely implicated. There is a delay in lodging the FIR, which has not been explained at all.

37. Learned counsel for the appellants has further submitted that in the instant case, Angoori Devi had lodged the FIR despite the fact that Laung Shree, daughter of the deceased was present there, which further makes the prosecution case doubtful. The factum of assailants stopping Angoori Devi to lodge the FIR stands falsified from the circumstances that Dumbar Singh went to lodge the FIR, who otherwise could have also been stopped by the assailants.

38. Learned counsel for the appellants has next submitted that FIR was infact lodged after conducting the post-mortem of the deceased but has been shown to be registered at the relevant time by making it anti-time.

39. Learned counsel for the appellants has further submitted that there is no reason for Banwari to join the said incident being nephew (sister?s son) of the other assailants, who are on inimical terms.

40. In the backdrop of the said circumstances, it is thus submitted that prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case against the appellants and as such, they are liable to be acquitted.

41. Per contra, learned AGA has submitted that prosecution has successfully proved the case against the appellants by cogent and reliable evidence. He has placed implicit reliance upon the testimony of PW-1 Angoori Devi and PW-4 Laung Shree, who were accompanying the deceased at the time of the incident and are natural witnesses.

42. Learned AGA has further submitted that injuries of Angoori Devi, received at the time of incident and her unimpeachable testimony as an injured eye witness, clinchingly proves the case against the appellants.

43. Learned AGA has further submitted that Investigating Officer as well as Head Moharrir had categorically stated that FIR was lodged in their presence on 16.10.1980 at 8:45 PM and there is nothing to show that the said FIR has been lodged by making it anti-time.

44. Learned AGA has further submitted that even PW-2 Kunwar Sen is also a reliable witness, which is evident from the circumstances that he had categorically stated that at the time of the incident, when he rushed to the place of incident on the alarm raised by Angoori and Laung Shree, he saw Banwari standing there with a gun and thereafter, stated that he had seen the other assailants, namely, Mihi Lal, Jhamman and Aaram Singh assaulting the deceased by farsa and lathi. Had he not been a truthful witness, he would have safely stated that he had even seen Banwari firing upon the deceased, which clearly shows that PW-2 is a truthful witness and has only mentioned that part of the incident, which he had actually seen and observed without making any attempt of false implication or exaggeration.

45. Learned AGA has further submitted that Laung Shree is a young girl aged about 20 years and grief stricken on account of death of her father and as such, there is no reason to doubt the lodging of the FIR by Angoori Devi, who was also accompanying the deceased at the time of the incident and being a grown up lady had witnessed the entire incident of assault on the deceased and was also injured in the said incident, whose injuries has been examined and proved by the Doctor.

46. Learned AGA has further submitted that enmity between the parties is a double edged sword and therefore, merely on the ground of inimical terms, the prosecution story can not be doubted and thrown over board, which otherwise has been truthfully and cogently proved by the prosecution.

47. Learned AGA has further submitted that time, place and manner of the incident has been clinchingly established by the prosecution. The post-mortem and the injury report of the victim clinchingly corroborates the prosecution story and as such, it can not be said that the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and has supported the impugned order.

48. Having considered the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and having gone through the material available on record, the only question that falls our consideration is whether the trial court committed any error in passing the impugned judgment and order.

49. So far as the appreciation of oral evidence is concerned, the Hon'ble Apex Court in a recent decision in Criminal Appeal No. 1910 of 2010 (Balu Sudam Khalde and Another Vs. The State of Maharashtra) has held that:

25. The appreciation of ocular evidence is a hard task. There is no fixed or straight-jacket formula for appreciation of the ocular evidence. The judicially evolved principles for appreciation of ocular evidence in a criminal case can be enumerated as under:

"I. While appreciating the evidence of a witness, the approach must be whether the evidence of the witness read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. Once that impression is formed, it is undoubtedly necessary for the Court to scrutinize the evidence more particularly keeping in view the deficiencies, drawbacks and infirmities pointed out in the evidence as a whole and evaluate them to find out whether it is against the general tenor of the evidence given by the witness and whether the earlier evaluation of the evidence is shaken as to render it unworthy of belief.

II. If the Court before whom the witness gives evidence had the opportunity to form the opinion about the general tenor of evidence given by the witness, the appellate court which had not this benefit will have to attach due weight to the appreciation of evidence by the trial court and unless there are reasons weighty and formidable it would not be proper to reject the evidence on the ground of minor variations or infirmities in the matter of trivial details.

III. When eye-witness is examined at length it is quite possible for him to make some discrepancies. But courts should bear in mind that it is only when discrepancies in the evidence of a witness are so incompatible with the credibility of his version that the court is justified in jettisoning his evidence.

IV. Minor discrepancies on trivial matters not touching the core of the case, hyper technical approach by taking sentences torn out of context here or there from the evidence, attaching importance to some technical error committed by the investigating officer not going to the root of the matter would not ordinarily permit rejection of the evidence as a whole.

V. Too serious a view to be adopted on mere variations falling in the narration of an incident (either as between the evidence of two witnesses or as between two statements of the same witness) is an unrealistic approach for judicial scrutiny.

VI. By and large a witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident. It is not as if a video tape is replayed on the mental screen.

VII. Ordinarily it so happens that a witness is overtaken by events. The witness could not have anticipated the occurrence which so often has an element of surprise. The mental faculties therefore cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb the details.

VIII. The powers of observation differ from person to person. What one may notice, another may not. An object or movement might emboss its image on one person's mind whereas it might go unnoticed on the part of another.

IX. By and large people cannot accurately recall a conversation and reproduce the very words used by them or heard by them. They can only recall the main purport of the conversation. It is unrealistic to expect a witness to be a human tape recorder.

X. In regard to exact time of an incident, or the time duration of an occurrence, usually, people make their estimates by guess work on the spur of the moment at the time of interrogation. And one cannot expect people to make very precise or reliable estimates in such matters. Again, it depends on the time-sense of individuals which varies from person to person.

XI. Ordinarily a witness cannot be expected to recall accurately the sequence of events which take place in rapid succession or in a short time span. A witness is liable to get confused, or mixed up when interrogated later on.

XII. A witness, though wholly truthful, is liable to be overawed by the court atmosphere and the piercing cross examination by counsel and out of nervousness mix up facts, get confused regarding sequence of events, or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment. The sub-conscious mind of the witness sometimes so operates on account of the fear of looking foolish or being disbelieved though the witness is giving a truthful and honest account of the occurrence witnessed by him.

XIII. A former statement though seemingly inconsistent with the evidence need not necessarily be sufficient to amount to contradiction. Unless the former statement has the potency to discredit the later statement, even if the later statement is at variance with the former to some extent it would not be helpful to contradict that witness.?

[See Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v. State of Gujarat 1983 Cri LJ 1096 : (AIR 1983 SC 753) Leela Ram v. State of Haryana AIR 1995 SC 3717 and Tahsildar Singh v. State of UP (AIR 1959 SC 1012)].

26. When the evidence of an injured eye-witness is to be appreciated, the under- noted legal principles enunciated by the Courts are required to be kept in mind:-

(a) The presence of an injured eye-witness at the time and place of the occurrence cannot be doubted unless there are material contradictions in his deposition.

(b) Unless, it is otherwise established by the evidence, it must be believed that an injured witness would not allow the real culprits to escape and falsely implicate the accused.

(c) The evidence of injured witness has greater evidentiary value and unless compelling reasons exist, their statements are not to be discarded lightly.

(d) The evidence of injured witness cannot be doubted on account of some embellishment in natural conduct or minor contradictions.

(e) If there be any exaggeration or immaterial embellishments in the evidence of an injured witness, then such contradiction, exaggeration or embellishment should be discarded from the evidence of injured, but not the whole evidence.

(f) The broad substratum of the prosecution version must be taken into consideration and discrepancies which normally creep due to loss of memory with passage of time should be discarded.

50. Thus, while appreciating the evidence of eye-witnesses, two principal considerations are to be kept in mind (i) whether, in the circumstances of the case, it is possible to believe their presence at the scene of occurrence and (ii) whether there is anything inherently improbable or unreliable in their evidence.

51. Keeping the aforesaid principle of law in mind, we are now analyzing the oral evidence of three eye-witnesses i.e. PW-1 Angoori Devi, PW-2 Kunwar Sen and PW-4 Laung Shree. Going through the oral evidence of all the three eye-witnesses, we find that they are consistent and truthful in their statements and there is no good reason for us to disbelieve the ocular version as narrated by the aforesaid three eye-witnesses.

52. Learned counsel for the appellants also could not point out any material inconsistency in the statement of all the three eye-witnesses, except the fact that in the FIR, which was registered at the instance of PW-1 Angoori Devi, it has been stated that while the deceased Khemai was being assaulted, she in order to rescue him laid upon him, however, in her subsequent statement before the trial court, it has been stated that in order to rescue him, she bent over him, consequent to which, she was also assaulted and received injuries, however, the said inconsistency is of very trivial nature and that too in the FIR, which can not said to be a substantive piece of evidence.

53. Moreover admittedly, PW-1 is a rustic witness and as such, inconsistency as pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants is meaningless and has no bearing on the outcome of the trial. From her entire evidence,nothing has been elicited to doubt the credibility of the said witness. Her presence with the deceased at the time of the incident is quite natural and there is nothing to doubt the presence of the said witness at the scene of occurrence and there is nothing inherently improbable or unreliable in her evidence.

54. So far as the credibility of PW-2 Kunwar Sen is concerned, he admittedly was present in his field at the time of the incident and on hearing the alarm raised by the two eye-witnesses, namely, PW-1 Angoori Devi and PW-4 Laung Shree, had rushed to the place of the incident and had challenged the assailants, who thereafter made their escape good. In his testimony, he has clearly stated that when, he reached the place of incident, he had seen Banwari, armed with his gun, was standing on the way, whereas Mihi Lal was assaulting the deceased with farsa and Jhamman and Aaram Singh with their lathis and when Angoori Devi tried to rescue him, she was also assaulted by lathis, consequent to which, she also suffered injuries and her bangles were broken, and was medically examined, which has been duly proved.

55. The truthfulness of the said witness is evident from the fact that he had narrated in his statement only that much of fact, which he had actually seen and observed. Had he not been the truthful witness, he could well have stated that he had even seen Banwari firing upon the deceased but the said fact was not at all stated by him and only noted his presence at the place and time of incident armed with a gun.

56. So far as the question of inimical terms between the assailants and the said witnesses is concerned, he, though being the uncle, has truthfully narrated the incident and there is no reason for him to spare the actual assailants and falsely implicate the present appellants.

57. So far as the PW-3 Dumbar Singh is concerned, he is the person, who had lodged the FIR in the Police Station on the basis of written report given to him by the first informant Angoori Devi as she was unable to personally visit the Police Station on account of the fact that the assailants were obstructing the way in order to ensure that the FIR be not registered. The testimony of the said witness has also been proved to this extent and there is nothing on record to establish that the FIR was lodged by making it anti-time.

58. So far as the PW-4 Laung Shree is concerned, she is daughter of the deceased and her presence with the deceased at the time of the incident is quite natural, who along with her sister-in-law and the father had gone to cut the paddy crops and while she was returning to her village, the incident has taken place, wherein her father was done to death. She had precisely and truthfully narrated the entire incident in her testimony and nothing could be elicited to doubt the credibility of the said witness also.

59. Thus, from the testimony of the aforesaid witness, her presence at the scene of occurrence has been clearly and cogently established and there is nothing inherently improbable or unreliable in her evidence.

60. Now, we may consider the submission of learned counsel for the appellants that PW-1 and PW-4 are relatives of the deceased and they are highly partisan and interested witnesses of the incident, being daughter-in-law and daughter of the deceased, hence, their statement could not relied upon.

61. The above submission was considered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Daleep Singh Vs. State of Punjab reported in AIR 1953 SC 364, wherein the Court observed that ordinarily a close relative would not spare the real culprit, who has caused the death and implicate an innocent person.

62. The above noted submission was considered by Hon'ble Supreme Court elaborately way back in Dalip Singh v.

State of Punjab AIR 1953 SC 364. The Court observed that ordinarily a close relative would not spare the real culprit who has caused the death and implicate an innocence person. His/her evidence can only be discarded, when it is established that the witness has a cause, due to enmity to implicate him falsely. In Dalip Singh (supra) case also, the testimonies of two women witnesses was impeached on the ground that they were close relatives of the deceased. Following principles were enunciated in Dalip Singh (supra):-

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth."

63. In Piara Singh Vs. State of Punjab, (1977) 4 SCC 452, same principles were reiterated:-

"4. The central evidence against the appellant consisted of the three eye-witnesses, namely, P.W. 3 Harbhajan Singh, P.W. 5 Chanan Kaur and P.W. 6 Kesar Kaur. It is true that the three witnesses were relatives of the deceased and bear enmity against the accused but as the occurrence had taken place near the door of the house of the deceased , these persons were the natural witnesses and were in fact sitting in the court-yard, when the occurrence took place. It may be difficult to get witnesses from the village, when an assault of the type suddenly takes place in the house of the deceased. It is well settled that the evidence of interested or inimical witnesses is to be scrutinized with care but cannot be rejected merely on the ground of being a partisan evidence. If on a perusal of the evidence, the Court is satisfied that the evidence is creditworthy there is no bar in the Court relying on the said evidence. The High Court was fully alive to these principles and has in fact found that the evidence of these three witnesses has a ring of truth. After having perused the evidence also, we fully agree with the view taken by the High Court. In fact, the learned Sessions Judge has not made any attempt to dwell into the intrinsic merits of the evidence of these witnesses but has rejected them mainly on general grounds most of which are either unsupportable in law or based on speculation. The evidence of the eye-witnesses is sought to be corroborated by the evidence of P.W. 7 Kundan Singh to whom the whole occurrence was narrated immediately after the accused left the house. There is also the evidence of Balbir Singh, P.W. 17, who is a Sarpanch of the village and an independent witness and who proves that the appellant Piara Singh had made an extra judicial confession before him, in which, he admitted to have committed the murder of the deceased Surjit Singh along with his companions Kashmir Singh, Gian Singh and Joginder Singh. This witness also proves that Kashmir Singh on being narrated by the details made a disclosure which resulted in the recovery of the Kirpan from the sugar-cane field of Meja Singh for which a search list was prepared and the Kirpan was also found stained with human blood. According to the Investigating Officer an empty cartridge was also found at the spot and he sent the same to the Ballistic Expert along with the rifle recovered from Piara Singh who was a constable in the Border Security Force and the Ballistic-Expert found that the empty could have been shot from the rifle in question. These circumstances fully corroborate the evidence of the eye-witnesses. Finally, there is the medical evidence of Dr. Jatinder Singh who performed the postmortem examination on the deceased and he found as many as 7 incised wounds on the various parts of the body of the deceased and 7 incised punctured wounds on some vital parts of the body. Apart from these injuries the deceased had also sustained a gun shot injury with a wound of entry and exit on the left buttock, which according to Dr. Jatinder Singh could be; caused by a fire-arm including a rifle. The Doctor further deposed that the contusions and abrasions were caused by a blunt weapon and the other incised wounds were caused by a sharp cutting instrument like the Gandasa. Another Doctor was examined by the Sessions Judge as Court Witness No. 1 who on seeing the post-mortem report of Dr. Jatinder Singh was of the view that Injury No. 11 could not have been caused by a rifle and much capital was made by the accused but of the evidence given by Dr. Paramjit Singh."

64. A three Judge Bench in Hari Obula Reddy Vs. State of A.P. (1981) 3 SCC 675 observed as under:-

"13. ...it is well settled that interested evidence is not necessarily unreliable evidence. Even partisanship by itself is not a valid ground for discrediting or rejecting sworn testimony. Nor can it be laid down as an invariable rule that interested evidence can never form the basis of conviction unless corroborated to a material extent in material particulars by independent evidence. All that is necessary is that the evidence of interested witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution. If on such scrutiny, the interested testimony is found to be intrinsically reliable or inherently probable, it may, by itself, be sufficient, in the circumstances of the particular case, to base a conviction thereon."

65. Again in S. Sudershan Reddy and others Vs. State of A.P (2006) 10 SCC 163, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"12. We shall first deal with the contention regarding interests of the witnesses for furthering the prosecution version. Relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyze evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible.

15. We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently being a partisan witness, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dilip Singh case in which surprise was expressed over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the Members of the Bar that relatives were not independent witnesses."

66. In this context the reference may be made to the judgement of Hon'ble

Supreme Court in the cases of Kamta Yadav Vs. State of Bihar (2016) 16 SCC 164 and Nand Kumar vs. State of Chhatisgarh (2015) 1 SCC 776.

67. In the case of Ashok Rai vs. State of U.P. (2014) 5 SCC 713, the facts are some what similar. In that case also wife of deceased was sleeping near to her husband when her husband was shot. The testimony of wife was relied by the Court in following terms:-

"13. The most important witness is PW-4 Bijula Devi, the wife of deceased Kailash Rai. She was sleeping in the ahata in the courtyard, on the same cot along with her husband deceased Kailash Rai in the night in question. She is the most natural witness. Her clothes were found bloodstained. According to the serologist's report, the blood group of the blood found on her clothes matched the blood group of the blood found on her husband's clothes. Her presence in the house at the dead of night cannot be doubted."

68. In Mritunjoy Biswas Vs. Pranab alias Kuti Biswas and Another (2013) 12 SCC 796 also, there was similar fact. In this case, husband was eye witness when his wife was shot by the accused persons from a window. The incident had taken place in the night when husband and wife were sleeping in bed room on cot. In that case, also a lamp was burning near the cot as the home did not have any electric light. The Supreme Court set aside Judgment of the High Court amongst other ground that High Court has referred some discrepancies which were found by the Supreme Court in the realm of minor discrepancies. The Court held as under:-

"28. As is evincible, the High Court has also taken note of certain omissions and discrepancies treating them to be material omissions and irreconcilable discrepancies. It is worthy to note that the High Court has referred to the some discrepancies which we find are absolutely in the realm of minor discrepancies. It is well settled in law that the minor discrepancies are not to be given undue emphasis and the evidence is to be considered from the point of view of trustworthiness. The test is whether the same inspires confidence in the mind of the court. If the evidence is incredible and cannot be accepted by the test of prudence, then it may create a dent in the prosecution version. If an omission of discrepancy goes to the root of the matter and ushers in incongruities, the defence can take advantage of such inconsistencies, It needs no special emphasis to state that every omission cannot take place of a material omission and, therefore, minor contradictions, inconsistencies or insignificant embellishments do not affect the core of the prosecution case and should not be taken to be a ground to reject the prosecution evidence. The omission should create a serious doubt about the truthfulness or creditworthiness of a witness. It is only the serious contradictions and omissions which materially affect the case of the prosecution but not every contradiction or omission [See Leela Ram v. State of Haryana (1999) 9 SCC 525, Rammi v. State of MP. (1999) 8 SCC 649, and Shyamal Ghosh v. State of W.B. (2012) 7 SCC 646.]"

69. In the case of Inder Singh vs. State of Rajasthan (2015) 2 SCC 734, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

"Some argument was advanced on there being lack of any clear motive but that is not at all necessary or material when the offences have been proved by clear and cogent evidence including eye-witnesses."

70. Thus, we find that Hon'ble Apex Court in its enumerable decisions has categorically held that evidence of eye-witness, if found truthful, can not be discarded simply because the witnesses were relatives of the deceased. The only caveat is that the evidence of interested witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution.

71. Furthermore, close scrutiny of the eye-witnesses PW-1 and PW-4 goes to show that they witnessed the incident in question. The evidence of PW-5 Dr. N.P. Singh, who conducted the post-mortem and the post-mortem report points out conclusively to the culpability of the appellants for the commission of the offence.

72. Even the evidence of PW-8 Dr. O.P. Agrawal, who medically examined the injured P.W.-1 Angoori Devi, also points out conclusively to the culpability of the appellants for the commission of the offence.

73. From the statement of P.W.-1 and P.W.-4, we are satisfied about the commission of the offence by the appellants. We have carefully gone through the judgment of the trial court and we are satisfied that the trial court has appreciated the material on record in right perspective and learned counsel for the appellants could not point out any perversity in the finding of the trial court. Thus, we do not find any infirmity, illegality or perversity in the judgment and order dated 08.07.1983 passed by 2nd Additional Sessions Judge, Budaun in S.T. No.27 of 1981, under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and Section 323 read with 34 IPC recorded conviction of the appellants and the sentence awarded to them by the impugned judgment.

74. In view of the foregoing discussions, these appeals lack merits and are accordingly dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

75. The surviving appellants Banwari and Jhamman Lal are on bail. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Badaun is directed to take them in custody in the aforesaid case and send them to Jail to serve out the sentences awarded by the trial court and affirmed by us.

76. Let a copy of this judgment and order be sent to the court concerned alongwith the lower court record within a week for compliance. The compliance report shall be sent by the court concerned to this Court within a further period of fifteen days.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1378
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 06.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SHAMIM AHMED, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1593 of 2019

Anita Gajraj ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Bal Krishna Shukla, Manoj Kumar Singh

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 - Sections 8, 20, 50, 56 & 57 - Appellant challenged conviction under Section 8/20 NDPS

Act and sentence of 10 years' rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs.1,00,000/-, with 6 months' additional imprisonment in default, by Additional Sessions Judge, Bahraich, dated 28.02.2019. Court held: (1) No illegality or perversity in trial court's findings; prosecution evidence, including recovery of 5.238 kg charas, consistent and corroborated. (2) Procedural requirements under NDPS Act complied with; appellant's consent to search by police recorded, negating claims of non-compliance with Section 50. (3) Conviction and substantive sentence of 10 years confirmed as minimum prescribed under Section 20. (4) Default imprisonment reduced from 6 months to 2 months, considering appellant's poverty and family circumstances (Shanti Lal Vs St. of M.P., 2007 SCC OnLine SC 1077). Appeal partly allowed; appellant to be released if 10 years' sentence and 2 months' default imprisonment served, unless required in another case. (Paras 15-27)

Appeal Partly Allowed.

Case Law Cited:

1. Shanti Lal Vs St. of M.P., 2007 SCC OnLine SC 1077 (Para 16)

2. Alister Anthony Pareira Vs St. of Mah., (2012) 2 SCC 648 (Para 17)

3. Dhananjay Chatterjee Vs St. of W.B., (1994) 2 SCC 220 (Para 19)

4. Ravji Vs St. of Raj., (1996) 2 SCC 175 (Para 20)

5. St. of M.P. Vs Bablu Natt, (2009) 2 SCC 272 (Para 21)

6. St. of M.P. Vs Mehtab, Criminal Appeal No. 290/2015, dated 13.02.2015 (Para 22)

7. Brajendra Singh Vs St. of M.P., (2012) 4 SCC 289 (Para 23)

8. St. of M.P. Vs Surendra Singh, (2015) 1 SCC 222 (Para 24)

9. Bachan Singh Vs St. of Punj., (1980) 2 SCC 684 (Para 23)

10. Machhi Singh Vs St. of Punj., (1983) 3 SCC 470 (Para 23)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. List has been revised.

2. Heard learned Counsel for the appellant, Shri Awadhesh Kumar Pandey, learned A.G.A. for the State-respondents and perused the material placed on record.

3. This appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 28.02.2019 passed by learned Additional Session Judge VIIth, Bahraich in Special Session No.32/2014 Case Crime No.1139/2013, Police Station-Rupaidiha, District-Bahraich thereby convicting the appellant under Section 8/20 N.D.P.S. Act and whereby sentencing under Section 8/20 to appellant to undergo imprisonment of ten years and also pay fine of Rs.100000/- (One Lakhs) in the condition of default of fine passed under Section 8/20 of N.D.P.S. Act appellant shall further undergo six months further imprisonment and all the sentences run concurrently inter-alia on the following amongst other grounds.

4. Brief fact of the case emerges as such that on 26.12.2013 at 20.00 hours, the informer informed to the police that one Nepali woman wearing green color dress carrying illegal drug will arrive India via Nepalganj Rupaidiha main highway from Nepal. On receiving this information, Ravi Shankar Kumar, Assistant Commander made Special Checking Squad comprising of Sub-Inspector, Munni Bai, Head Constable, Vallabh Joshi, Constable Hari Om Yadav and other personnel. The special checking squad along with the informant reached the check post which was situated at Nepalganj Rupaidiha highway and started waiting for accused-appellant. At 18:30 hours a woman carrying a baby alongwith her luggage de-boarded a bus and on pointing out of informer, the suspected accused was intercepted for checking. Even as the accused opened the bag, she started fleeing from the spot. But the special checking squad immediately nabbed her and on asking her name and address and the reason for fleeing, she told that there is charas in her bag and further told her name Anita Gajraj, W/o Heera Singh, R/o Village-Rukaza, P.O-Khadi, Police Station-Musikat, District-Rukum, Nation-Nepal, aged 30 years. The special team informed the accused about her right as per the provisions of N.D.P.S. Act, that she can let her search be conducted before the Magistrate or a gazetted officer, on which she replied that I am carrying charas then I do need to create more witnesses in my case and she insisted the squad team to search her, thereafter a consent letter was drafted and the woman was searched thoroughly and contraband article was tested by Drug Testing Kit and prima facie, the recovered contraband article was found to be charas, therefore, the accused-appellant was immediately arrested. It was found that a box containing charas, Indian Rs. 1500/- and a Micromax Mobile. Then, the information regarding arrest of the accused-appellant was given by the police authority to her relatives. On weighing by the scale available there, the recovered charas was 5kg and 238gms. Out of which, 25-25 gms charas was separately sealed for sample and the remaining charas was sealed in another packet. The accused was brought to the police station- Rupaidiha, where the case under section 8/20 of NDPS Act was registered as case crime no. 1139 of 2013.On asking the reason for bringing or taking the alleged charas, the accused told that she is habitual seller of charas which costs around Rs. 15,000/- per Kilogram and she works in a Hotel and doing this business for seven to eight years.

5. After investigation, charge-sheet was submitted against the accused-appellant before concerned court, Bahraich. This case was transferred to the VIIth Additional Sessions Judge, Bahraich, where the charge was framed. The accused-appellant pleaded not guilty of the charges leveled against her and she contended that she was falsely implicated in this case and claimed to be tried.

6. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined PW 1 Ravi Shankar Kumar; PW 2 Munni Bai, PW 3 Ram Kumar Gautam and PW4 Ram Daras Yadav.

7. The trial court on the basis of evidence adduced by the prosecution held that the prosecution succeeded to prove the charges against the appellant. It was also held that all the procedural technicalities were complied with. Thus, the trial court convicted the appellant for possessing the contraband article Charas from her possession and sentenced the appellant as aforesaid.

8. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid order, the appellant preferred this appeal before this Court.

9. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

10. Submission of the counsel for the appellant is that the finding given by the trial court is perverse and bad in the eye of law. There are major contradictions in the statement of the witness. He has also submitted that there is no independent witness examined by the prosecution. All the witnesses shown in the recovery memo is false and concocted and there was non-compliance of the mandatory provision of NDPS Act at the time of search and seizure. It was not told to the appellant that he has right to be searched before the Gazetted officer or magistrate. Thus, there was also non-compliance of Sections 50, 56 and 57 of NDPS Act.

11. The counsel for the appellant further argued that the appellant was neither in possession of any narcotics nor any incriminating article recovered from his possession.

12. Lastly, learned counsel for the appellant submits that the appellant has no previous criminal history and she is languishing in jail since 27.12.2013. The appellant has already undergone the sentence of 10 years as awarded by the trial court. Since she is not able to pay the fine of Rs. 1 lakh as aforesaid. So, in default of the same, the appellant shall undergo for six months' additional imprisonment as awarded by the trial court. Therefore, the counsel submits that liberal view may be taken against the appellant and the appellant be released forthwith as she has already remained in incarceration about 10 years.

13. Learned A.G.A. opposed the contents advanced by learned Counsel for the appellant and submitted that all the procedure literally complied by the arresting officer at the time of search. He further contended that provision of CrPC makes it clear that the court of law can award imprisonment in default of payment of fine, one fourth of the term of the imprisonment which the court is competent to inflict as punishment for the offence otherwise than as imprisonment in default of payment of the fine. Thus, in this case, in default of payment of fine, the court is competent to award 2 years and 6 months in addition to substantive sentence. However, the trial court already taking liberal view awarded six months' additional simple imprisonment in default of payment of fine, which could not be said to be unlawful or otherwise illegal. Thus, the appeal deserves to be dismissed.

14. I have considered the arguments advanced by learned Counsel for the appellant as well as learned A.G.A. and perused the material placed on record.

15. Insofar as conviction recorded by the trial court is concerned, there is no illegality, irregularity or perversity in the impugned order passed by the trial court. The appellant has already undergone substantial part of sentence of 10 years rigorous imprisonment and in default of payment of fine, she has already spent more than 40 days in jail and she has already undergone substantial period of detention.

16. The Apex Court in Shanti Lal vs. State of M.P. decided on 8.10.2007 was pleased to observe paragraph No.36 and 37 as under:-

"36. We are mindful and conscious that the present case is under the NDPS Act Section 18 quoted above provides penalty for certain offences in relation to opium poppy and opium. Minimum fine contemplated by the said provision is rupees one lakh [fine which shall not be less than one lakh rupees]. It is also true that the appellant has been ordered to undergo substantive sentence of rigorous imprisonment for ten years which is minimum. It is equally true that maximum sentence imposable on the appellant is twenty years. The learned counsel for the State again is right in submitting that clause (b) of sub-section (1) of Section 30, CrPC authorizes the Court to award imprisonment in default of payment of fine up to one-fourth term of imprisonment which the Court is competent to inflict as puni0.00shment for the offence. But considering the circumstances placed before us on behalf of the appellant-accused that he is very poor; he is merely a carrier; he has to maintain his family; it was his first offence; because of his poverty, he could not pay the heavy amount of fine (rupees one lakh) and if he is ordered to remain in jail even after the period of substantive sentence is over only because of his inability to pay fine, serious prejudice will be caused not only to him, but also to his family members who are innocent. We are, therefore, of the view that though an amount of payment of fine of rupees one lakh which is minimum as specified in Section 18 of the Act cannot be reduced in view of the legislative mandate, ends of justice would be met if we retain that part of the direction, but order that in default of payment of fine of rupees one lakh, the appellant shall undergo rigorous imprisonment for six months instead of three years as ordered by the trial court and confirmed by the High Court.

37. For the reasons aforesaid, the appeal is partly allowed, conviction recorded and sentence imposed on the appellant to undergo rigorous imprisonment for ten years is confirmed. An order of payment of fine of rupees one lakh is also upheld. But an order that in default of payment of fine, the appellant shall undergo rigorous imprisonment for three years is reduced to rigorous imprisonment for six months. To that extent, the appeal filed by the appellant is allowed. If the appellant has undergone substantive sentence of rigorous imprisonment for ten years as also rigorous imprisonment for six months as modified by us in default of payment of fine, the appellant shall be set at liberty forthwith unless he is required in any other offence. If the appellant has not completed the said period, he will be released after the period indicated hereinabove is over. The appeal is accordingly disposed of."

17. Further in Alister Anthony Pareira v. State of Maharashtra, (2012) 2 SCC 648, Hon'ble Supreme Court was pleased to observe as under:

"One of the prime objectives of the criminal law is imposition of appropriate, adequate, just and proportionate sentence commensurate with the nature and gravity of crime and the manner in which the crime is done. There is no straitjacket formula for sentencing an accused on proof of crime. The courts have evolved certain principles: the twin objective of the sentencing policy is deterrence and correction. What sentence would meet the ends of justice depends on the facts and circumstances of each case and the court must keep in mind the gravity of the crime, motive for the crime, nature of the offence and all other attendant circumstances."

18. The Apex court has held in various decisions that the theory of proportionality, deterrence, seriousness and rehabilitation should be taken into account while exercising discretion in sentencing.

19. Also In Dhananajay Chaterjee vs State of W.B 1994 (2) SCC 220; Apex

Court has been pleased to observe that shockingly large number of criminals go unpunished thereby increasingly, encouraging the criminals and in the ultimate making justice suffer by weakening the system's creditability. The imposition of appropriate punishment is the manner in which the Court responds to the society's cry for justice against the criminal. Justice demands that Courts should impose punishment befitting the crime so that the Courts reflect public abhorrence of the crime. The Court must not only keep in view the rights of the criminal but also the rights of the victim of the crime and the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment."

20. Similar view has also been expressed in Ravji v. State of Rajasthan, [1996] 2 SCC 175. It has been held in the said case that it is the nature and gravity of the crime but not the criminal, which are germane for consideration of appropriate punishment in a criminal trial. The Court will be failing in its duty if appropriate punishment is not awarded for a crime which has been committed not only against the individual victim but also against the society to which the criminal and victim belong. The punishment to be awarded for a crime must not be irrelevant but it should conform to and be consistent with the atrocity and brutality with which the crime has been perpetrated, the enormity of the crime warranting public abhorrence and it should "respond to the society's cry for justice against the criminal". If for extremely heinous crime of murder perpetrated in a very brutal manner without any provocation, most deterrent punishment is not given, the case of deterrent punishment will lose its relevance.

21. Further in State of M.P. v. Bablu Natt, (2009) 2 SCC 272, Hon'ble Apex Court was pleased to held that in recent years, we have noticed that crime against women are on the rise. These crimes are an affront to the human dignity of the society. Imposition of grossly inadequate sentence and particularly against the mandate of the legislature not only is an injustice to the victim of the crime in particular and the society as a whole in general but also at times encourages a criminal. The courts have an obligation while awarding punishment to impose appropriate punishment so as to respond to the society's cry for justice against such criminals. Public abhorrence of the crime needs a reflection through the court's verdict in the measure of punishment. The courts must not only keep in view the rights of the criminal but also the rights of the victim of crime and the society at large while considering imposition of the appropriate punishment. The heinous crime of committing rape on a helpless 13/14 year old girl shakes our judicial conscience. The offence was inhumane. There are no extenuating or mitigating circumstances available on the record which may justify imposition of sentence less than the minimum prescribed by the legislature under Section 376(1) of the Act."

22. Further, the Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Madhya Pradesh vs Mehtab, (Cri. appeal No. 290/2015, dated 13.02.2015) has been pleased observe that;

"We find force in the submission. It is the duty of the Court to award just sentence to a convict against whom charge is proved. While every mitigating or aggravating circumstance may be given due weight, mechanical reduction of sentence to the period already undergone cannot be appreciated. Sentence has to be fair not only to the accused but also to the victim and the society."

23. Further in Brajendra singh v. State of M.P., (2012) 4 SCC 289, the Hon'ble Apex Court was pleased to held that the law enunciated by this Court in its recent judgments, as already noticed, adds and elaborates the principles that were stated in Bachan Singh [Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab, (1980) 2 SCC 684 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 580] and thereafter, in Machhi Singh [Machhi Singh v. State of Punjab, (1983) 3 SCC 470:1983 SCC (Cri) 681]. The aforesaid judgments, primarily dissect these principles into two different compartments one being the "aggravating circumstances' while the other being the "mitigating circumstances'. The court would consider the cumulative effect of both these aspects and normally, it may not be very appropriate for the court to decide the most significant aspect of sentencing policy with reference to one of the classes under any of the following heads while completely ignoring other classes under other heads. To balance the two is the primary duty of the court. It will be appropriate for the court to come to a final conclusion upon balancing the exercise that would help to administer the criminal justice system better and provide an effective and meaningful reasoning by the court as contemplated under Section 354(3) CrPC.

24. In State of M.P. v. Surendra Singh, (2015) 1 SCC 222, based on the Theory of Proportionality, it is laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court as under:

"That undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law and society could not long endure under such serious threats. It is, therefore, the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The sentencing courts are expected to consider all relevant facts and circumstances bearing on the question of sentence and proceed to impose a sentence commensurate with the gravity of the offence. The court must not only keep in view the rights of the victim of the crime but also the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment.

Meager sentence imposed solely on account of lapse of time without considering the degree of the offence will be counter productive in the long run and against the interest of the society. One of the prime objectives of criminal law is the imposition of adequate, just proportionate punishment which commensurate with gratity, nature of crime and the manner in which the offence is committed. One should keep in mind the social interest and conscience of the society while considering the determinative factor of sentence with gravity of crime.

The punishment should not be so lenient that it shocks the conscience of the society. It is, therefore, solemn duty of the court to strike a proper balance while awarding the sentence as awarding lesser sentence encourages any criminal and, as a result of the same, the society suffers. Imposition of sentence must commensurate with gravity of offence."

25. In view of the discussions made above and the reasons aforesaid and laws rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court referred above, the impugned judgment and order of conviction recorded by the Additional Sessions Judge as well as sentence imposing rigorous imprisonment for a period of 10 years and fine of Rs.1 lakh is confirmed. However, the order in respect of six months rigorous imprisonment in case of default in payment of fine, is modified and reduced in the manner that in case of default in payment of fine the appellant instead of undergoing rigorous imprisonment for a period of six months is reduced and shall undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of two months' only. The period of imprisonment in case of default in payment of fine is accordingly modified and reduced as above.

26. Thus, the appeal to the above extent is partly allowed.

27. If the appellant has undergone substantive sentence of rigorous imprisonment for ten years as also rigorous imprisonment for two months' as modified by this Court above in default of payment of fine, the appellant shall be set at liberty forthwith unless she is required in any other offence. If the appellant has not completed the said period, she will be released after the period indicated hereinabove is over.

28. Senior Registrar of this Court as well as office is directed to communicate this order to the court concerned, forthwith and lower court record, if any, be returned back to the court concerned.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1385
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 06.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SHAMIM AHMED, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1876 of 2008

Jagdish Prasad & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Abhishek Ranjan

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 446 - Appellants challenged orders dated 30.06.2008 and 02.08.2008 forfeiting their surety bonds of Rs.10,000/- each by Additional District Judge/Fast Track Court-III, Faizabad, under Section 446 CrPC, in Criminal Misc. Case No. 7 of 2008, arising from Sessions Trial Nos. 29/2008 (Sections 41/411/413 IPC) and 27/2008 (Section 4/25 Arms Act). Court held: (1) Appellants, sureties for accused Ram Ashish, made efforts to trace and ensure his arrest after his non-appearance in April 2008. (2) Accused was arrested on 17.07.2008 due to sureties' efforts and discharged by trial court on 25.07.2008. (3) Considering appellants' efforts, discharge of accused, and 16-year pendency of appeal, a lenient view was warranted. Orders forfeiting surety bonds set aside; appeal allowed. (Paras 9-11)

Appeal Allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. List of cases has been revised and the case is being taken up in the revised call for hearing.

2. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

3. This is an appeal under Section 449 Cr.P.C. against the judgment and orders dated 30.06.2008 and 02.08.2008 passed by learned Additional District Judge / Fast Track Court-III, Faizabad exercising the power under Section 446 Cr.P.C. in Criminal Misc. Case No.7 of 2008, initiated in Original Sessions Trial No.29/2008, under Sections 41/411/413 I.P.C. connected with Sessions Trial No.27 of 2008, under Section 4/25 of Arms Act, Police Station G.R.P., District Faizabad by means of which the surety bonds of the appellants have been forfeited.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that in the above F.I.R., the accused Ram Ashish was implicated and he was enlarged on bail by the learned court below. He further submitted that the accused is son of the servant of appellants, as such, the appellants took the surety of accused Ram Ashish and submitted the surety bonds of Rs.10,000/- each.

5. He further submitted that in the month of April, 2008, due to non appearance of accused Ram Ashish before the trial court, the learned court below issued notices to sureties i.e. the instant appellants and after getting the knowledge of the same, the appellants appeared before the learned trial court on 21.04.2008 and sought some time to trace and produce the accused Ram Ashish before it.

6. He further submitted that on 02.05.2008 and 12.05.2008, the appellant no.1 himself moved an application before the learned trial court and informed the location of accused Ram Ashish and requested to direct the concerned police station to arrest the accused Ram Ashish, but the learned trial court ignoring the fact that the appellants i.e. sureties are doing their best efforts to trace the accused Ram Ashish, had passed the impugned order to forfeit the surety bonds of the appellants.

7. He further submitted that on 17.07.2008, the accused Ram Ashish was arrested due to efforts of sureties and was sent to jail. He further submitted that the learned trial court had discharged the accused Ram Ashish vide order dated 25.07.2008. Thereafter, the appellants i.e. the sureties moved an application on 26.07.2008 before the learned trial court for recalling of the order of forfeiting the surety bonds but the learned trial court has rejected the same.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that he does not want to press the appeal on merits and since the impugned order is of the year 2008 and the instant appeal is pending since 16 years, thus, a lenient view be taken by this Court.

9. It is admitted that the appellants are not the accused in the case. They stood sureties and even the accused Ram Ashish was arrested and sent to jail by the efforts of the sureties and thereafter was discharged by the learned trial court.

10. The proceeding under Section 446 Cr.PC. is as follows:-

"(1) Where a bond under this Code is for appearance, or for production of property, before a Court and it is proved to the satisfaction of that Court, or of any Court to which the case has subsequently been transferred, that the bond has been forfeited, or where, in respect of any other bond under this Code, it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court by which the bond was taken, or of any Court to which the case has subsequently been transferred, or of the Court of any Magistrate of the first class, that the bond has been forfeited, the Court shall record the grounds of such proof, and may call upon any person bound by such bond to pay the penalty thereof or to show cause why it should not be paid.

Explanation.- A condition in a bond for appearance, or for production of property, before a Court shall be construed as including a condition for appearance, or as the case may be, for production of property, before any Court to which the case may subsequently be transferred.

(2) If sufficient cause is not shown and the penalty is not paid, the Court may proceed to recover the same as if such penalty were a fine imposed by it under this Code. 1 provided that where such penalty is not paid and cannot be recovered in the manner aforesaid, the person so bound as surety shall be liable, by order of the Court ordering the recovery of the penalty, to imprisonment in civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

(3) The Court may, at its discretion, remit any portion of the penalty mentioned and enforce payment in part only.

(4) Where a surety to a bond dies before the bond is forfeited, his estate shall be discharged from all liability in respect of the bond.

(5) Where any person who has furnished security under section 106 or section 117 or section 360 is convicted of an offence the commission of which constitutes a breach of the conditions of his bond, or of a bond executed in lieu of his bond under section 448, a certified copy of the judgment of the Court by which he was convicted of such offence may be used as evidence in proceedings under this section against his surety or sureties, and,; if such certified copy is so used, the Court shall presume that such offence was committed by him unless the contrary is proved."

11. Considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case and also the argument of learned counsel for the appellants that the accused of the instant case has been discharged from the offence by learned trial court, the present criminal appeal is allowed and orders dated 30.06.2008 and 02.08.2008 passed by learned Additional District Judge / Fast Track Court-III, Faizabad exercising the power under Section 446 Cr.P.C. in Criminal Misc. Case No.7 of 2008, initiated in Original Sessions Trial No.29/2008, under Sections 41/411/413 I.P.C. connected with Sessions Trial No.27 of 2008, under Section 4/25 of Arms Act, Police Station G.R.P., District Faizabad by means of which the surety bonds of the appellants have been forfeited, are hereby set aside.

12. A certified copy of this order be sent to the court concerned for necessary compliance.

13. Lower court record, if any, shall also be sent back to the court concerned.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1387
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 06.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SHAMIM AHMED, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1877 of 2008

Daya Ram & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Abhishek Ranjan

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 446 - Appellants challenged orders dated 30.06.2008 and 02.08.2008 forfeiting their surety bonds of Rs.10,000/- each by Additional District Judge/Fast Track Court-III, Faizabad, under Section 446 CrPC, in Criminal Misc. Case No. 8 of 2008, arising from Sessions Trial Nos. 29/2008

(Sections 41/411/413 IPC) and 27/2008 (Section 4/25 Arms Act). Court held: (1) Appellants, sureties for accused Ram Ashish, made diligent efforts to trace and ensure his arrest after his non-appearance in April 2008. (2) Accused was arrested on 17.07.2008 due to sureties' efforts and discharged by trial court on 25.07.2008. (3) Considering appellants' efforts, discharge of accused, and 16-year pendency of appeal, a lenient view was justified. Orders forfeiting surety bonds set aside; appeal allowed. (Paras 9-11)

Appeal Allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. List of cases has been revised and the case is being taken up in the revised call for hearing.

2. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

3. This is an appeal under Section 449 Cr.P.C. against the judgment and orders dated 30.06.2008 and 02.08.2008 passed by learned Additional District Judge / Fast Track Court-III, Faizabad exercising the power under Section 446 Cr.P.C. in Criminal Misc. Case No.8 of 2008, initiated in Original Sessions Trial No.29/2008, under Sections 41/411/413 I.P.C. connected with Sessions Trial No.27 of 2008, under Section 4/25 of Arms Act, Police Station G.R.P., District Faizabad by means of which the surety bonds of the appellants have been forfeited.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that in the above F.I.R., the accused Ram Ashish was implicated and he was enlarged on bail by the learned court below. He further submitted that the accused is son of the servant of appellants, as such, the appellants took the surety of accused Ram Ashish and submitted the surety bonds of Rs.10,000/- each.

5. He further submitted that in the month of April, 2008, due to non appearance of accused Ram Ashish before the trial court, the learned court below issued notices to sureties i.e. the instant appellants and after getting the knowledge of the same, the appellants appeared before the learned trial court on 21.04.2008 and sought some time to trace and produce the accused Ram Ashish before it.

6. He further submitted that on 02.05.2008 and 12.05.2008, one of the appellants moved an application before the learned trial court and informed the location of accused Ram Ashish and requested to direct the concerned police station to arrest the accused Ram Ashish, but the learned trial court ignoring the fact that the appellants i.e. sureties are doing their best efforts to trace the accused Ram Ashish, had passed the impugned order to forfeit the surety bonds of the appellants.

7. He further submitted that on 17.07.2008, the accused Ram Ashish was arrested due to efforts of sureties and was sent to jail. He further submitted that the learned trial court had discharged the accused Ram Ashish vide order dated 25.07.2008. Thereafter, the appellants i.e. the sureties moved an application on 26.07.2008 before the learned trial court for recalling of the order of forfeiting the surety bonds but the learned trial court has rejected the same.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that he does not want to press the appeal on merits and since the impugned order is of the year 2008 and the instant appeal is pending since 16 years, thus, a lenient view be taken by this Court.

9. It is admitted that the appellants are not the accused in the case. They stood sureties and even the accused Ram Ashish was arrested and sent to jail by the efforts of the sureties and thereafter was discharged by the learned trial court.

10. The proceeding under Section 446 Cr.PC. is as follows:-

"(1) Where a bond under this Code is for appearance, or for production of property, before a Court and it is proved to the satisfaction of that Court, or of any Court to which the case has subsequently been transferred, that the bond has been forfeited, or where, in respect of any other bond under this Code, it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court by which the bond was taken, or of any Court to which the case has subsequently been transferred, or of the Court of any Magistrate of the first class, that the bond has been forfeited, the Court shall record the grounds of such proof, and may call upon any person bound by such bond to pay the penalty thereof or to show cause why it should not be paid.

Explanation.- A condition in a bond for appearance, or for production of property, before a Court shall be construed as including a condition for appearance, or as the case may be, for production of property, before any Court to which the case may subsequently be transferred.

(2) If sufficient cause is not shown and the penalty is not paid, the Court may proceed to recover the same as if such penalty were a fine imposed by it under this Code. 1 provided that where such penalty is not paid and cannot be recovered in the manner aforesaid, the person so bound as surety shall be liable, by order of the Court ordering the recovery of the penalty, to imprisonment in civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

(3) The Court may, at its discretion, remit any portion of the penalty mentioned and enforce payment in part only.

(4) Where a surety to a bond dies before the bond is forfeited, his estate shall be discharged from all liability in respect of the bond.

(5) Where any person who has furnished security under section 106 or section 117 or section 360 is convicted of an offence the commission of which constitutes a breach of the conditions of his bond, or of a bond executed in lieu of his bond under section 448, a certified copy of the judgment of the Court by which he was convicted of such offence may be used as evidence in proceedings under this section against his surety or sureties, and,; if such certified copy is so used, the Court shall presume that such offence was committed by him unless the contrary is proved."

11. Considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case and also the argument of learned counsel for the appellants that the accused of the instant case has been discharged from the offence by learned trial court, the present criminal appeal is allowed and orders dated 30.06.2008 and 02.08.2008 passed by learned Additional District Judge / Fast Track Court-III, Faizabad exercising the power under Section 446 Cr.P.C. in Criminal Misc. Case No.8 of 2008, initiated in Original Sessions Trial No.29/2008, under Sections 41/411/413 I.P.C. connected with Sessions Trial No.27 of 2008, under Section 4/25 of Arms Act, Police Station G.R.P., District Faizabad by means of which the surety bonds of the appellants have been forfeited, are hereby set aside.

12. A certified copy of this order be sent to the court concerned for necessary compliance.

13. Lower court record, if any, shall also be sent back to the court concerned.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1390
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 08.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SHAMIM AHMED, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1951 of 2008

Dharmendra Kumar Singh ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Ajay Pratap Singh

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 446 - Appellant challenged orders dated 17.03.2008 and 18.08.2008 forfeiting his surety bond of Rs.20,000/- and imposing 6 months' imprisonment in default under Section 446 CrPC by Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C.-5th, Faizabad, in Criminal Misc. Case No. 03/08, arising from Sessions Trial No. 114/97 (Sections 147, 148, 149, 302 IPC). Court held: (1) Forfeiture orders justified due to accused Radhey Shyam's non-appearance, but appellant ensured accused's surrender on 24.07.2008. (2) Appellant, a surety, not an accused, and served 11 days' imprisonment. (3) Considering accused's surrender and appellant's brief incarceration, sentence modified to period already undergone. Conviction upheld; sentence reduced; appeal partly allowed. (Paras 9-11)

Appeal Partly Allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ajay Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Ashok Kumar Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material available on record.

2. This is an appeal under Section 449 Cr.P.C. against the judgment and order dated 18.08.2008 in Criminal Misc. Case No. 03/08 (State Vs. Dharmendra Kumar Singh), under Section 446 Cr.P.C., Police Station Kotwali Ayodhya and against the judgment and order dated 17.03.2008 passed by learned Additional Session Judge/F.T.C.-5th, Faizabad in Sessions Trial No. 114/97, arising out of Case Crime No. 1497/97 : State Vs. Radhey Shyam and others, under Sections 147, 148, 149 and 302 I.P.C., Police Station Kotwali Ayodhya, Faizabad.

3. Learned counsel for appellant has submitted that on 07.07.2005 the appellant had taken surety of accused Radhey Shayam in Sessions Trial No. 114/97, arising out of Case Crime No. 1497/97 : State Vs. Radhey Shyam and others, under Sections 147, 148, 149 and 302 I.P.C., Police Station Kotwali Ayodhya, Faizabad and regarding this bond of surety of Rs. 20,000/- was submitted before the court concerned.

4. Learned counsel for appellant has further submitted that when accused Radheshyam did not appear before the court, notice was issued to appellant (surety) Dharmendra Kumar Singh under Section 446 Cr.P.C., thereafter the court below vide order dated 17.03.2008 forfeited the surety of Rs.20000/- and issued recovery warrant and in default of payment, the trial court also imposed six months imprisonment.

5. Learned counsel for appellant has further submitted that the appellant filed representation for quashing of the proceedings initiated against him vide order dated 17.03.2008 stating therein that on 24.07.2008 the appellant produced the accused Radhey Shyam before the Court and the accused was sent to jail.

6. Learned counsel for appellant has further submitted that without considering the averments of the appellant and considering that the accused has already been surrendered before the court below and sent to jail, the trial court vide order dated 18.08.2008 disposed of the representation of the appellant and send the appellant to jail for six months, in default of payment of surety, with the observation that if the surety deposited the surety amount, he shall be released from jail.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that thereafter the appellant filed the instant Criminal Appeal for quashing of the impugned orders and prayed for bail and this Court vide order dated 29.08.2008 allowed the bail application of appellant, thus the appellant was in jail about eleven days.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that the appellant is not the accused in this case. He stood surety and proceeding under Section 446 Cr.P.C. is as follows:

"(1) Where a bond under this Code is for appearance, or for production of property, before a Court and it is proved to the satisfaction of that Court, or of any Court to which the case has subsequently been transferred, that the bond has been forfeited, or where, in respect of any other bond under this Code, it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court by which the bond was taken, or of any Court to which the case has subsequently been transferred, or of the Court of any Magistrate of the first class, that the bond has been forfeited, the Court shall record the grounds of such proof, and may call upon any person bound by such bond to pay the penalty thereof or to show cause why it should not be paid. Explanation.- A condition in a bond for appearance, or for production of property, before a Court shall be construed as including a condition for appearance, or as the case may be, for production of property, before any Court to which the case may subsequently be transferred.

(2) If sufficient cause is not shown and the penalty is not paid, the Court may proceed to recover the same as if such penalty were a fine imposed by it under this Code. 1 provided that where such penalty is not paid and cannot be recovered in the manner aforesaid, the person so bound as surety shall be liable, by order of the Court ordering the recovery of the penalty, to imprisonment in civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

(3) The Court may, at its discretion, remit any portion of the penalty mentioned and enforce payment in part only.

(4) Where a surety to a bond dies before the bond is forfeited, his estate shall be discharged from all liability in respect of the bond.

(5) Where any person who has furnished security under section 106 or section 117 or section 360 is convicted of an offence the commission of which constitutes a breach of the conditions of his bond, or of a bond executed in lieu of his bond under section 448, a certified copy of the judgment of the Court by which he was convicted of such offence may be used as evidence in proceedings under this section against his surety or sureties, and,; if such certified copy is so used, the Court shall presume that such offence was committed by him unless the contrary is proved."

9. Learned counsel for appellant has further submitted that since the appellant was surety of accused Radhey Shayam in Sessions Trial No. 114/97, arising out of Case Crime No. 1497/97 : State Vs. Radhey Shyam and others, under Sections 147, 148, 149 and 302 I.P.C., Police Station Kotwali Ayodhya, Faizabad and accused Radhey Shyam appeared and surrendered before the court concerned on 24.07.2008 and he is facing trial, therefore, the sentence of surety appellant Dharmendra Kumar Singh be reduced to the period already undergone by him.

10. Learned A.G.A. submits that it was the duty of the surety to ensure that accused was appearing in the Court on each and every date. Sureties have failed to ensure it because accused did not appear in Court, hence the court below had no option but to pass the impugned orders, thus the learned court below had rightly passed the impugned orders dated 18.08.2008 and 17.03.2008, but did not dispute this fact that appellant was surety of accused Radhey Shayam in Sessions Trial No. 114/97, arising out of Case Crime No. 1497/97 : State Vs. Radhey Shyam and others, under Sections 147, 148, 149 and 302 I.P.C., Police Station Kotwali Ayodhya, Faizabad and accused Radhey Shyam appeared and surrendered before the court concerned, therefore, the sentence of surety appellant Dharmendra Kumar Singh may be reduced to the period already undergone by him.

11. After considering the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of record, this Court finds that the appellant is the surety of accused Radheshyam, when accused Radheshyam did not appear before the court, the court below had no option but to pass the impugned orders, thus the learned court below had rightly passed the impugned orders dated 18.08.2008 and 17.03.2008, which do not require any interference by this Court, thus the conviction of the appellant is maintained.

So far as the sentence of the appellant is concerned, as the accused Radhey Shyam had appeared and surrendered before the court concerned and the appellant had already undergone sentence for eleven days in compliance of the order dated 18.08.2008 and 17.03.2008 passed by the court below, considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, in the interest of justice, this Court is of the view that the sentence is modified for the period which is already undergone by the appellant.

12. With the above modification, the instant criminal appeal is partly allowed.

13. A certified copy of the order be also sent to the court concerned for compliance.

14. Office is directed to communicate this order to the court concerned for necessary compliance.

15. Lower court record, if any, shall also be sent back to the district court concerned.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1392
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 22.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAJAN ROY, J.
THE HON'BLE AJAI KUMAR SRIVASTAVA-I, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2197 of 2017

Ram Chandra ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Surendra Kumar, Nisha Srivastava

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 302 & 201 - Appellant challenged conviction under Section 302 IPC and sentence of life imprisonment with a fine of Rs.25,000/- (with 1 year's additional rigorous imprisonment in default) by Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, Essential Commodities Act, Barabanki, dated 30.11.2017, in Sessions Trial No. 269 of 2015. Court held: (1) Prosecution failed to prove guilt beyond reasonable doubt due to inconsistencies in witness testimonies, particularly regarding the depth of water at the alleged drowning site and the deceased's clothing. (2) P.W.-1's testimony unreliable as FIR was not of her own volition, and no independent witnesses supported the prosecution's claim of appellant's apprehension at the scene. (3) Lack of evidence on water depth at site and discrepancies in clothing cast doubt on prosecution's story (Bhagwan Sahai Vs St. of Raj., (2010) 9 SCC 543; Upendra Pradhan Vs St. of Orissa, (2015) 11 SCC 124). (4) Suspicion cannot substitute proof; benefit of doubt granted to appellant. Conviction under Section 302 IPC set aside; appellant acquitted; appeal allowed. (Paras 25-29)

Appeal Allowed.

Case Law Cited:

1. Bhagwan Sahai Vs St. of Raj., (2010) 9 SCC 543 (Para 26)

2. Upendra Pradhan Vs St. of Orissa, (2015) 11 SCC 124 (Para 27)

3. Narendra Singh Vs St. of M.P., (2004) 10 SCC 699 (Para 27)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Kumar Srivastava-I, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Nisha Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Rajdeep Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused entire record.

2. Under challenge in this criminal appeal is the impugned judgment and order dated 30.11.2017 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge, Essential Commodities Act, Barabanki in Sessions Trial No.269 of 2015 titled as State of U.P. vs. Ram Chandra arising out of Crime No.104 of 2015, under Sections 302 and 201 of the Indian Penal Code1, Police Station Haidergarh, District Barabanki whereby the appellant, Ram Chandra has been convicted and sentenced to undergo life imprisonment with a fine of Rs.25,000/- for the offence under Section 302 I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine, he has further been directed to undergo one year's additional rigorous imprisonment. However, he has been acquitted of charge under Section 201 I.P.C.

3. The case of the prosecution in nutshell is that a written report was submitted by the first informant, Poonam Kumari at Police Station Haiderganj, District Barabanki stating therein that on 14.05.2015, the first informant along with her husband, Premchandra was returning to their village from her brother-in law's house by a D.C.M. When they alighted from D.C.M. at about 09:00 PM near their Village, Narauli, a person, whom they could not recognize, started staring at the first informant and thereafter, he pounced upon the first informant and her husband. When the husband of the first informant tried to defend his wife/ first informant, the unknown person grabbed her husband with an intention to kill him and dragged him into a nearby pond and tried to strangulate the first informant's husband. When the first informant raised alarm, many villagers reached the place of occurrence. The villagers saved her husband and also apprehended that person. The first informant's husband, being in a serious condition, was taken to the Government Hospital, Haidergarh, where her husband was declared dead. The first informant later came to know the name of the accused/ murderer of her husband, who is the present accused/ appellant herein.

4. The inquest proceeding started on 15.05.2015 at 06:30 AM and got concluded on 15.05.2015 at 07:30 AM. The inquest report has been duly proved by P.W.-4, Batjor Singh as Ex. Ka-2.

5. According to postmortem report of the deceased, Ex. Ka-10, which has been proved by P.W.-6, Dr. Saroj Kumar, the cause of death of the deceased is reported to be asphyxia as a result of antemortem drowning.

6. On the basis of aforesaid written report, Ex. Ka-1 submitted by the first informant, Poonam Kumari, the first information report, Ex. Ka-8 came to be lodged against the appellant on 14.05.2015 at 10:30 PM for the offence under Section 302 I.P.C.

7. The Investigating Officer recorded the statements of the witnesses under Section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure2. He visited the place of occurrence and prepared a site plan, Ex. Ka-11 thereof.

8. Upon conclusion of investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted a charge sheet, Ex. Ka-12 against the accused/ appellant for the offences under Sections 302 and 201 I.P.C.

9. Charges for the offences under Sections 302 and 201 I.P.C. were framed against the present accused/ appellant, who denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

10. In order to bring home guilt of the accused/ appellant, the prosecution has examined Poonam Kumari, who is the first informant, as PW-1, Smt. Tapeshwari Mishra as PW-2, Ms. Khushbu as PW-3, S.I. Batjor Singh as PW-4, Head Constable Ramrudra Tiwari, who is the chik writer, as PW-5, Dr. Saroj Kumar as PW-6 and the Investigating Officer, Inspector Chandrashekhar Singh as PW-7.

11. The appellant in his statement recorded under Section Section 313 Cr.P.C. has stated the prosecution story to be false. He has also stated to have been falsely implicated in this case and he claimed to be innocent.

12. No evidence in defence was adduced by the accused/ appellant before the learned trial court.

13. The learned trial court, after appreciating the evidence available on record adduced by the prosecution, convicted and sentenced the accused/ appellant as stated herein above.

14. Aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order dated 30.11.2017, the accused/ appellant has preferred the instant criminal appeal.

15. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the appellant is innocent, who has been falsely implicated in this case. The finding of guilt of the appellant recorded by the learned trial court is against the weight of evidence, therefore, the same cannot be sustained.

16. Her further submission is that the prosecution story is unbelievable. The prosecution has been unable to prove that the incident occurred at the place, which has been shown in the site plan, Ex. Ka-11. The prosecution has not brought forth true prosecution story. The appellant has been falsely implicated on the basis of false and fabricated facts. The prosecution witnesses did not prove and corroborate the prosecution case. The statements of witnesses of fact have not been considered in their right perspective. The appellant came to be convicted by the impugned judgment and order dated 30.11.2017, which is not based on due analysis of evidence available before the learned trial court. She has also contended that the learned trial court failed to appreciate the fact that there were major contradictions in the testimony of P.W.-1, Poonam Kumari, which renders her testimony wholly unreliable.

17. Learned counsel for the appellant has, thus, prayed to set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 30.11.2017 and to acquit the appellant accordingly.

18. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State has submitted that the accused/ appellant rightly came to be convicted vide impugned judgment and order dated 30.11.2017, which is well discussed and reasoned. The appellant was named in the first information report. He has also contended that minor contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses are very natural having regard to the fact that they come from rural background, therefore, any minor contradiction in their testimonies cannot be stressed too far. Accordingly, interference by this Court is neither warranted nor is justified. He, accordingly, prays for dismissal of the instant criminal appeal.

19. At the outset, it is relevant to mention that S.I. Batjor Singh has been examined as P.W.-4, who has proved the panchayatnama as Ex. Ka-2 and letter to CMO as Ex. Ka-3. This witness has also proved the letter to R.I. as Ex. Ka-4 and photo of the corpse as Ex. Ka-5. He has also proved challan of the deceased as Ext. Ka-6 and specimen seal as Ext. Ka-7. Head Constable Ramrudra Tiwari has been examined as P.W.-5, who has proved the first informant report as Ext. Ka-8. He has also proved G.D. as Ext. Ka-9. Dr. Saroj Kumar has been examined as P.W.-6, who has conducted the postmortem of the deceased and he has reported the cause of death of the deceased to be forceful drowning. He has proved the postmortem report of the deceased as Ex. Ka-10. The Investigating Officer, Inspector Chandrashekhar Singh has been examined as P.W.-7. He has stated that the panchayatnama proceedings were completed under his supervision by P.W.-4, S.I. Batjor Singh. He has proved the site plan as Ext. Ka-11 and the charge sheet as Ex. Ka-12.

20. Having heard the learned counsel for the appellant, learned A.G.A. for the State and upon perusal of record, it transpires that the first informant, Poonam Kumari, wife of the deceased, has been examined as P.W.-1. She has proved the written report as Ex. Ka-1. According to the written report, Ex. Ka-1, on 14.05.2015, she was returning to her home from the house of her brother-in-law (jeth), Lallan from Lucknow. They came to Haidergarh and thereafter, they boarded a DCM for her village. At about 09:00 PM, they alighted from DCM. When they were about to pay the fare, the appellant rushed towards the first informant to grab her. Her husband/ deceased, Prem Chandra intervened. Whereupon the appellant caught hold of the deceased by his neck. Thereafter, the appellant while pressing the neck of her husband, the deceased, brought him down in a nearby pond. This witness made hue and cry, which led to other persons to rush to the spot. The appellant was apprehended on the spot and her husband was taken to Haidergarh District Hospital where he was declared dead. P.W.-2, Smt. Tapeshwari Mishra, in her testimony, has stated that on the date of incident, she, upon hearing of screams, rushed to the spot. She was carrying a wooden stick (danda) and a torch with her. She saw that the appellant had caught hold of deceased's neck and had pounced upon the deceased. The other persons of the vicinity also came to the spot. The man, who had pressed the neck of the deceased, revealed his name as Ram Chandra Rawat R/o Alpi ka Purwa, Police Station Subeha, District Barabanki.

21. A careful perusal of testimony of P.W.-2, Smt. Tapeshwari Mishra reveals that she has very categorically stated that on the date of incident, upon hearing screams, she along with wife of Ram Kumar only had reached at the spot. No other persons had reached there. She has also stated that it was a dark night and there was no source of light. She has also stated the fact that the place, where the deceased, Prem Chandra allegedly drowned because of the appellant pressing his neck in the water, in fact, had no water there. P.W.-3, Ms. Khushbu is a child witness, who has also stated to have seen the incident and has stated that on 14.05.2019 at about 09:00 PM, she also heard screams and when she reached at the spot, she saw that his uncle's neck was being pressed by a man, who, on being asked, revealed his name as Ram Chandra R/o Alpi ka Purwa.

22. If we scrutinize the testimony of P.W.-6, Dr. Saroj Kumar, we find that he had conducted the postmortem of the deceased and has proved the postmortem report as Ex. Ka-10. According to postmortem report, Ex. Ka-10 of the deceased, the cause of death of the deceased is reported to be asphyxia as a result of ante-mortem drowning. If we peruse the site plan, Ex. Ka-11, we find that the place, where according to prosecution story, the appellant killed the deceased by pressing him in a water body, is not a pond or a regular water body. The site plan does not reveal as to how deep water was there at place 'C' in the site plan, Ex. Ka-11 where the deceased, Prem Chandra was done to death by pressing his neck into water. It needs to be stated that death by drowning could occur only when it is established that the place, where the deceased, Prem Chandra is said to have been killed by drowning, had sufficient water for doing so.

23. We have been able to notice that P.W.-1, Poonam Kumari has stated, in her testimony, that while her husband, the deceased, was done to death, he was wearing a black pant, black shirt and a vest. P.W.-2, Smt. Tapeshwari Mishra has also stated that the deceased was wearing only an underwear. She has stated the fact that she had taken off shirt, pant and vest of the deceased at the place of occurrence for the first time in the court during trial, which appears to us as an effort to improve the prosecution story to lend support to prosecution's case. Even P.W.-3, Ms. Khushbu, who is a child witness, has stated that the deceased had put on a pant and shirt when he left his home. However, a perusal of postmortem report, Ex. Ka-10 reveals that the deceased was wearing only an underwear. It is not the case of the prosecution that the appellant had disrobed the deceased while they were in scuffle.

24. In this regard, we have carefully perused the entire record and are constrained to say that the shirt, pant and vest, which were allegedly worn by the deceased once he left the home, were neither recovered by the Investigating Officer near the alleged place of occurrence nor the same were handed over by P.W.-2, Smt. Tapeshwari Mishra to the Investigating Officer, therefore, it does not rule out possibility of the fact that the prosecution has not come up with the true chronology of the incident; rather the prosecution has tried to shield some facts.

25. We say so because in want of any evidence to suggest as to what was the depth of water at point 'C' in the site plan, Ex. Ka-11, which is shown as the place where the deceased was done to death by the appellant by pressing his neck into water, it is difficult to comprehend as to how and in what manner, the deceased was killed. The fact that the deceased was found wearing only underwear also casts doubt on the prosecution story. Admittedly, on the date of alleged incident, it was a dark night. The time of occurrence is stated to be about 09:00 PM in the night. P.W.-1, Poonam Kumari, who is stated to be an eye witness, has categorically stated in her testimony that she was informed by the police personnel that the appellant has been made an accused, only thereafter, she put her signature on the written report, Ex. Ka-1. She has also stated that the written report was scribed by the police personnel and only thereafter, the police personnel obtained her signature on it. This clearly shows that the written report was not an outcome of her own volition. She has very categorically stated that she does not know whether real culprit was apprehended on the spot or some other person. It is not out of place to mention that it is the prosecution's own case that the first informant was not acquainted with the appellant and she did not know his name prior to the date of incident. In want of depth of water at point 'C' as shown in the site plan, Ex. Ka-11, it is difficult to determine as to whether there was sufficient water where the deceased could have been done to death in a manner as shown in the postmortem report. We say so because in a given case, such lapse of not mentioning deft of water at place 'C' would have been considered as such a trivial lapse on the part of the Investigating Officer, which could not have lent any benefit to the appellant. However, as aforesaid fact goes to the very root of the matter and it makes the entire prosecution story improbable, therefore, it cannot also be ruled out that the prosecution did not disclose the real genesis and correct situs of the place of occurrence. According to written report, Ex. Ka-1, when the first informant, P.W.-1, Poonam Kumari raised alarm, many villagers of the vicinity had reached the sopt and according to recital made in the written report, Ex. Ka-1, they apprehended the appellant. However, no such witness has been examined by the prosecution. Therefore, we are of the considered view that the prosecution has miserably failed to establish the fact that on 14.05.2015, the appellant, who belonged to a different village and, who, according to prosecution's own story, had no prior enmity with the deceased or the first informant, P.W.-1, Smt. Poonam Kumari, had killed the deceased only because he was apprehended near the alleged place of occurrence.

26. Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Bhagwan Sahai and another vs. State of Rajasthan[3] in paragraph No.8 has held as under :-

"8.The aforesaid view of the High Court is devoid of legal merits. Once the Court came to a finding that the prosecution has suppressed the genesis and origin of the occurrence and also failed to explain the injuries on the person of the accused including death of father of the appellants, the only possible and probable course left open was to grant benefit of doubt to the appellants. The appellants can legitimately claim right to use force once they saw their parents being assaulted and when actually it has been shown that due to such assault and injury their father subsequently died. In the given facts, adverse inference must be drawn against the prosecution for not offering any explanation much less a plausible one. Drawing of such adverse inference is given a go-by in the case of free fight mainly because the occurrence in that case may take place at different spots and in such a manner that a witness may not reasonably be expected to see and therefore explain the injuries sustained by the defence party. This is not the factual situation in the present case."

27. We are oblivious of the fact that in the case at hand, a young man has died, but the fact remains that it is the duty of prosecution to prove its case against the accused-appellant beyond reasonable doubt. Suspicion, howsoever grave cannot take place of a proof. In this regard, Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Upendra Pradhan vs. State of Orissa[4] in paragraph No.14 has held as under:-

"14. Taking the first question for consideration, we are of the view that in case there are two views which can be culled out from the perusal of evidence and application of law, the view which favours the accused should be taken. It has been recognised as a human right by this Court. In Narendra Singh v. State of M.P., [(2004) 10 SCC 699 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 1893], this Court has recognised presumption of innocence as a human right and has gone on to say that: (SCC pp. 708 & 709, paras 30-31 & 33)

"30. It is now well settled that benefit of doubt belonged to the accused. It is further trite that suspicion, however grave may be, cannot take place of a proof. It is equally well settled that there is a long distance between 'may be' and 'must be'.

xxxx xxxx xxxx xxxx
xxxx xxxx xxxx xxxx
xxxx xxxx xxxx xxxx"

(emphasis supplied by us)

28. Thus, in view of what has been discussed above, we are constrained to hold that the learned trial court, while appreciating evidence adduced by the prosecution to bring home guilt of the appellant, lost sight of aforesaid facts and circumstances of this case. Therefore, we find the impugned judgment and order dated 30.11.2017 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge, Essential Commodities Act, Barabanki unsustainable. We are of the considered view that the appellant deserves to be given benefit of doubt.

29. The upshot of aforesaid discussion is that the impugned judgment and order dated 30.11.2017 whereby the appellant,

Ram Chandra came to be convicted for the offence under Section 302 I.P.C., is not sustainable and deserves to be set aside, which is, accordingly, set aside. The appellant is acquitted of charge under Section 302 I.P.C. Consequently, the present criminal appeal is allowed.

30. The accused/ appellant, Ram Chandra is in jail. Let the accused/ appellant be released from jail forthwith, if he is not wanted in any other case.

31. The appellant is directed to file a personal bond and two sureties in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned in compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. within eight weeks from today.

32. Let the record of trial court along with a copy of this order be transmitted forthwith to the learned trial court concerned for necessary information and compliance.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1399
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 02.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SHAMIM AHMED, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2235 of 2008

Babu Lal ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Madan Mohan Pandey

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 323, 504, 506 & 34 - Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - Section 3(1)(x) - Appellants challenged conviction under Section 323/34 IPC and fine of Rs.300/- each (with 2 months' imprisonment in default) by Additional Special Sessions Judge/S.C. & S.T. Act, Sultanpur, dated 23.07.2008, in Sessions Trial No. 9/2007. Court held: (1) Prosecution failed to prove guilt beyond reasonable doubt; injuries on P.W.-1 and P.W.-3 caused by friction, not lathi/danda as alleged, and appeared old per medical evidence. (2) Witnesses (P.W.-1, P.W.-3) were interested (close relatives), and P.W.-2's testimony contradictory, casting doubt on presence and incident. (3) Trial court's reliance on interested witnesses without proper scrutiny erroneous; principle of falsus in uno falsus in omnibus inapplicable, but evidence lacked credibility (Khujji @ Surendra Tiwari Vs St. of M.P., AIR 1991 SC 1853; Sucha Singh Vs St. of Punj., AIR 2003 SC 3617; Paramjeet Singh Vs St. of Uttarakhand, AIR 2011 SC 200). (4) Delay in FIR and lack of corroborative evidence further weakened prosecution case. Conviction set aside; appellants acquitted; appeal allowed. (Paras 17-25)

Appeal Allowed.

Case Law Cited:

1. Khujji @ Surendra Tiwari Vs St. of M.P., AIR 1991 SC 1853 (Para 18)

2. Sucha Singh Vs St. of Punj., AIR 2003 SC 3617 (Para 19)

3. Paramjeet Singh Vs St. of Uttarakhand, AIR 2011 SC 200 (Para 20)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. List has been revised.

2. Heard learned Counsel for the parties.

3. The present Criminal Appeal under Section 374(2) of the Cr.P.C. has been filed against the judgment and order dated 23.07.2008 passed by learned Additional Special Sessions Judge/S.C. & S.T. Act/F.T.C.-4, Court No.13, Sultanpur, in Special Sessions Trial No.9/2007 "State vs. Jagesar Verma and Others", arising out of Case Crime No./Court Case No.5/2005, relating to Police Station-Sangrampur, District-Sultanpur, by which the appellants have been convicted under Section 323/34 with a fine of Rs.300/- and in default of payment of fine two months imprisonment.

4. The prosecution case in brief is that the complainant as well as accused persons are resident of same village. There was some old enmity in between the parties. On 22.06.2005 at about 7:00 A.M., the accused persons were building a chappar on the agricultural land of the complainant, when the complainant stopped them from placing a chappar in her land, the accused persons got annoyed and started abusing with caustic words and caste language, and thereafter, when the complainant raised her voice they started beating the complainant, her husband and daughter-in-law. On hue and cry, the other family members reached the spot and tried to save them, they were also beaten brutally by the accused persons. The report regarding aforesaid incident was lodged on 27.09.2005 after moving an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. before the concerned Magistrate, which was registered as Court Case No.05/2005 under Section 323, 504 and 506 and Section 3(1)(x) of SC/ ST Act and charge sheet was submitted by the Investigating Officer under Sections 323, 504 and 506 I.P.C. and Section 3(1)(x) of SC/ST Act on 29.10.2005.

5. Charges were framed by the court below under Sections 323/34 and 506(2) I.P.C. and Section 3(1)(x) of SC/ST Act. The accused persons denied charges and sought trial.

6. Prosecution examined the informant/complainant, Ram Lali, as P.W.1, who reiterated the allegations mentioned in the FIR and she proved the lodging of first information report. Munnu Lal was produced as P.W.-2, who stated that on the date of incident he was present at the spot but in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., he clearly stated that one day before the date of incident, he went to Ganga river to take bath and returned on the date of incident at about 7:30 A.M. i.e. after the alleged incident, and further he has not received any injuries in the alleged incident, which clearly shows that he was not present at the spot at the time of alleged incident. P.W.-3, Phool Kali, testified before the court that appellants had brutally beaten the complainant and her family members, she further stated that she tried to save his Father-in-Law and Mother-in-law but the accused persons beat her also, she also admitted that a case is pending regarding the land in dispute. P.W.-4, Dr. Vinod Singh, stated that he has prepared the injury report of P.W.1 and P.W.3 and also stated that they complained about pain in their body on the date of incident but the time of injury was about 6:20 A.M. and 6:00 A.M on 23.06.2005 and further stated that normally an injury caused by lathi blow leaves mark on the body for two weeks but when P.W.1 came for examination, there was no mark of lathi blow nor any kind of mark was seen on her body and in respect of P.W.3 he stated that during the course of examination, the colour of injury caused to her was blue that gives an impression that the injury was not new. P.W.5 Ramhit Saroj, the inscribe of F.I.R., did not state anything to falsify the story of prosecution. P.W.6 Aditya Kumar Shukl, Investigating Officer, stated that on the basis of complaint made by the complainant and statements of her family members, he visited the site and created site plan and he further stated that the land in dispute belongs to the appellants for which they have filed an application before the Sud Divisional Engineer but the same has not been verified. He further stated that he does not know whether the complainant's husband is a security guard or not but as he has taken his statements in the present case, thus, he know him.

7. The accused were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and they denied their involvements in the alleged incident and they further stated that there was some old enmity between the parties, therefore, they have been roped in this case and the police authorities also have falsely implicated them in the present case due to village politics.

8. The Doctor opined that the injuries which were received by the P.W.1 and P.W.3 were caused by friction nd no opinion can be given. Duration about two weeks and injuries were simple in nature.

9. The trial court exonerated all the appellants from charges under Section 506(2) I.P.C. The trial court found that the offence under Section 506 (2) I.P.C. has not been proved against the appellants. The trial court further observed that so far as the charges under Section 3(1)(x) of the SC/ST Act are concerned, P.W.1 and P.W.3 gave contradictory statements, thus, trial court observed that the words which were used by the accused persons at the place of incident were not meant for public humiliation and consequently, exonerated the appellants under Section 3(1)(x) of the SC/ST Act, and offences under Section 323 read with Section 34 I.P.C. was found proved against the appellants. They were convicted and were awarded fine of Rs.300/- each and in case of default of payment, the appellants have to undergone imprisonment for two months.

10. The counsel for the appellant has submitted that the first information report was lodged after filing an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. against the appellants only and thereafter questions was made by the police stating whether the informant/complainant will recognize the accused persons and informant/ complainant replied that she knows them well as they resident of same village. He has further submitted that no recovery of any arm was made by the police from the appellant as the incident took place in the month of June, 2005 and report was lodged in the month of September, 2005. He has further submitted that the offences against the appellants were not found to be proved since allegation in the FIR was that appellants caused injuries to the informant/complainant by the lathi and danda. The injuries from the lathi and danda in the nature of contusion with swelling and blue marks on injury. The injuries on the persons of the informant/complainant and also the other injured, Phool Kali, shows that they were caused by friction and not by any hard and blunt object. He has submitted that the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt but the court below without applying its judicial mind and without perusing the material facts placed on record convicted the appellants under Section 323/34 I.P.C. He has further submitted that the doctor has given opinion that the injuries were not caused due to blow by lathi and danda, rather they appear to be caused by friction and also they are simple in nature and they appear to be old injuries.

11. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the aforesaid arguments and has submitted that the judgment of the court below is justified and calls for no interference.

12. After having heard the rival submissions of parties, the Trial Court found appellants-accused guilty, therefore, convicted and awarded them fine of Rs.300/- each under Section 323/34 I.P.C., and in default of payment of fine, they shall undergo imprisonment for two months.

13. Feeling aggrieved by the judgment of conviction and sentence passed by Trial Court, the appellants-accused have preferred this appeal.

14. Learned Counsel for the appellants has contended that the judgment and order passed by the Trial Court is wrong both on facts and law. The learned trial court had misread and misconstrued the statements of prosecution witnesses.

15. Opposing the contention of learned Counsel for the appellant-accused, the learned A.G.A. has contended that sufficient evidence was given by the prosecution to prove the factum of assaulting the injured by the accused persons, though, the F.I.R. could not be lodged immediately due to inaction on the part of police authorities, as such, the impugned order does not require any interference by this Court and the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

16. Through out the web of the Criminal Jurisprudence, one golden thread is always seen that it is the duty of the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused. This burden of proof on prosecution to prove guilt is also known as presumption of innocence. The presumption of innocence, sometimes refer to by the latin expression "ei incumbit probatio qui dicit, non qui negat" (the burden of proof is on one who declares, not to one who denies) is the principle that one is considered innocence unless proven guilt. In criminal jurisprudence every accused is presumed to be innocent unless the guilt is proved. The presumption of innocence is a human right. The prosecution may obtain a criminal conviction only when the evidence proves the guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt.

17. In the present case, almost all the prosecution witnesses have stated their own version of the prosecution story. Thus, the testimony appears to be based on interested witnesses from which guilt of accused may be inferred.

18. Witnesses may be categorized into three distinct categories. They may be wholly reliable. Similarly there may be witnesses who can be considered wholly unreliable. There is no difficulty in placing reliance or disbelieving his evidence when an evidence is wholly reliable or wholly un-reliable, but difficulty arises in case of third category i.e. where witness is neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable. Hostile/ interested witness ordinarily falls in category of those witnesses who are neither wholly reliable nor wholly un-reliable. Hon?ble Apex Court in Khujji @ Surendra Tiwari Vs. State of M.P. AIR 1991 SC page 1853 was pleased to observe as under :-

"The evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. The evidence of such witnesses cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether, but the same can be accepted to the extent their version is found to be dependable on a careful scrutiny thereof."

19. The principle of ?falsus in uno falsus in omnibus? (false in one thing, false in everything) has no application in India. It is duty of Court to separate grain from chaff. Keeping in view the above principles Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sucha Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 2003 SC 3617 was pleased to observe as under :-

"even if major portion of the evidence is found to be deficient, in case residue is sufficient to prove guilt of an accused, it is the duty of the court to separate grain from chaff. Falsity of particular material witness or material particular would not ruin it from the beginning to end. The maxim falsus in uno falsus in omnibus (false in one thing, false in everything) has no application in India and the witness cannot be branded as a liar. In case this maxim is applied in all the cases it is to be feared that administration of criminal justice would come to a dead stop. Witnesses just cannot help in giving embroidery to a story, however, truth is the main. Therefore, it has to be appraised in each case as to what extent the evidence is worthy of credence, and merely because in some respects the court considers the same to be insufficient or unworthy of reliance, it does not necessarily follow as a matter of law that it must be disregarded in all respects as well."

20. Similarly in Paramjeet Singh v. State of Uttarakhand; AIR 2011 SC 200 also Hon'ble Apex Court was pleased to observe as under:-

"When the witness was declared hostile at the instance of the public prosecutor and he was allowed to cross examine the witness furnishes no justification for rejecting embloc the evidence of the witness. However, the court has to be very careful, as prima facie, a witness who makes different statements at different times, has no regard for the truth. His evidence has to be read and considered as a whole with a view to find out whether any weight should be attached to it. The court should be slow to act on the testimony of such a witness; normally, it should look for corroboration to his testimony".

21. It feels pain to observe that in our present system of trial despite having sufficient power to the judge to ask questions to the witnesses in order to find out truth, most of them do not ask questions to the witnesses to shift the grain from the chaff. Practice of leaving witnesses to the Advocates, when a witness becomes hostile or is a interested witness, is not un-common in the trial Courts. Time and again Hon'ble Apex Court has reminded that a Judge does not preside over a criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished, but a Judge also presides to see that a guilty man does not escape. Both are public duties, which the Judge has to perform. Therefore, the trial Court must shed their inertia and must intervene in all those cases where intervention is necessary for the ends of justice.

22. No proper explanation of injuries on the person of injured witnesses have been given. Mere suggestion is not sufficient. Moreover it itself indicates a false case. All the witnesses being the close relatives, it is beyond apprehension that they instead of naming out real culprit, they would falsely implicate the accused persons knowing them innocent.

23. This Court has gone through the impugned judgment and evidence on record. The trial court relying on the testimony of witnesses, even though who were interested witnesses, has concluded that the accused had assaulted the injured persons. Looking into the totality of statement of witnesses, the conclusion drawn by the trial court cannot be said to be reasonable.

24. It is established principle of law of evidence that statement of witness is to be read as a whole and conclusion should not be drawn only by picking up a single sentence of the statement of a witness. Thus the trial court has overlooked the material evidence available on record with regard to guilt of accused and to that extent conclusion drawn by the trial Court suffers with patent infirmity and perversity and therefore, liable to be reversed and set aside.

25. Thus in view of above, after analysis of circumstances of present case in the light of aforesaid settled legal principles, I come to the conclusion that the trial court has erred passing the impugned judgment and order, therefore, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. The judgment and order dated 23.07.2008 passed by learned Additional Special Sessions Judge/S.C. & S.T. Act/F.T.C.-4, Court No.13, Sultanpur, in Special Sessions Trial No.9/2007 "State vs. Jagesar Verma and Others", arising out of Case Crime No./Court Case No.5/2005, relating to Police Station-Sangrampur, District-Sultanpur, by which the appellants have been convicted under Section 323/34 with a fine of Rs.300/- and in default of payment of fine two months imprisonment is set aside and reversed. The appellants, namely, appellant no.1 Babu Lal, appellant no.2, namely-Ram Asarey and appellant No.3, namely-Raj Bahadur Verma are acquitted of charges under Section 323/34. Their personal bonds and surety bonds are canceled and sureties are discharged.

26. Let record of lower Court be sent back to Court concerned along with copy of judgment and order for information.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1404
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 20.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SHAMIM AHMED, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 3121 of 2023

Sudha Singh & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:
Anurag Shukla, Birendra Pratap Singh, Pankaj Shukla

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 - Sections 2, 3, 14, 15, 16 & 17 - Appellants challenged orders dated 23/27.04.2022 (attachment of property), 16.08.2022 (rejection of representation), and 19.10.2023 (upholding attachment) by District Magistrate, Amethi, and Special Judge, Gangster Act, Sultanpur, under Section 14(1) of the Gangster Act. Court held: (1) No material evidence supported District Magistrate's belief that properties were acquired by appellant no.2 through offences under the Gangster Act; orders based on mere police reports and suspicion. (2) Appellants provided evidence of legitimate income sources (appellant no.1's business since 2015), rebutting presumption under Section 14. (3) Properties acquired prior to 2022 Gangster Act case; no nexus established between alleged crimes and property acquisition. (4) District Magistrate and trial court failed to conduct proper inquiry under Sections 15, 16, and 17, rendering orders arbitrary and illegal (Smt. Maina Devi Vs St. of U.P., 2013(83) ACC 902; Smt. Shanti Devi Vs St. of U.P., 2007(2) ALJ 483; Rajbir Singh Tyagi Vs St. of U.P., 2018 SCC Online All 5986). All impugned orders quashed; properties ordered to be released; appeal allowed. (Paras 17-23)

Appeal Allowed.

Case Law Cited:

1. Smt. Maina Devi Vs St. of U.P., 2013(83) ACC 902 (Para 18)

2. Smt. Shanti Devi Vs St. of U.P., 2007(2) ALJ 483 (Para 19)

3. Rajbir Singh Tyagi Vs St. of U.P., 2018 SCC Online All 5986 (Para 20)

4. Badan Singh alias Baddo Vs St. of U.P., 2002 Cri LJ 1392 (Para 19)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Pleadings in the case have been exchanged between the parties.

2. Heard Shri Anurag Shukla, learned counsel for the appellants as well as Shri Ashok Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A-I for the State and perused the material available on record.

3. The present appeal under Section 18 of U.P. Gangster and Anti Social (Prevention of Activities) Act, 1986 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Gangster Act') has been preferred by the appellants, namely, Sudha Singh and Vijay Pratap Singh @ Gallan Singh with a prayer to set aside the order dated 19.10.2023 passed by the learned Additional District and Sessions Judge / F.T.C.-II / Special Judge, Gangster Act, District Sultanpur in Crl. Misc. Case No.4/2022 (State Vs. Vijay Pratap @ Gallan) as well as the order dated 23/27.04.2022 passed by the District Magistrate, Amethi attaching/seizing the property of the appellants and the order dated 16.08.2022 passed by the District Magistrate, Amethi, rejecting the representations of the appellants and making reference to the learned trial court.

4. In short, the facts of the case are that appellant no.2, namely, Vijay Pratap Singh @ Gallan Singh was implicated in following cases:-

I) Case Crime No.257 of 2021, under Sections 302, 120-B I.P.C., Police Station Munshiganj, District Amethi.

II) Case Crime No.207 of 2021, under Sections 323, 504 I.P.C. read with Section 3(1)(d)(dha), 3(2)(5)(ka) of S.C./S.T. Act, Police Station Munshiganj, District Amethi.

III) Case Crime No.1120 of 2014, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 188, 307, 302, 336, 382, 353, 357, 427, 506, 504, 120-B I.P.C. and Section 7 of C.L.A. Act, Police Station Amethi, District Amethi.

IV) Case Crime No.327 of 2001, under Sections 147, 323 I.P.C., Police Station Munshiganj, District Amethi.

V) Case Crime No.83 of 1995, under Section 307 I.P.C., Police Station Munshiganj, District Amethi.

VI) Case Crime No.68 of 1991, under Sections 363, 366, 368, 376 I.P.C., Police Station Munshiganj, District Amethi.

VII) Case Crime No.93 of 1991, under Sections 394, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station Munshiganj, District Amethi.

5. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the appellant no.2, namely, Vijay Pratap Singh @ Gallan Singh, who is the husband of the appellant no.1, namely, Sudha Singh has been implicated in the aforesaid cases due to enmity and the case under the Gangster Act was imposed upon him in the year 2022 whereas the property of the appellants which was attached vide order dated 23/27.04.2022 passed by the District Magistrate, Amethi under section 14 (1) of U.P. Gangster Act, was acquired by him much earlier to the imposition of Gangster Act upon him.

6. Learned Counsel of the appellants further submitted that in furtherance of the FIR bearing Case Crime No.35 of 2022, under Section 2/3(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Gangster and Anti Social (Prevention of Activities) Act, 1986, Police Station Gauriganj, District Amethi, the District Magistrate, Amethi proceeded to exercise its power under Section 14(1) of the Gangster Act and passed an order for attaching the property of the appellant on 23/27.04.2022.

7. Being aggrieved by the aforesaid attachment order dated 23/27.04.2022 passed by District Magistrate, Amethi, representation dated 02.05.2022 was preferred by the appellants before District Magistrate, Amethi seeking release of the appellants' property from attachment. However, the aforesaid representation was dismissed in a cursory manner by the District Magistrate, Amethi vide order dated 16.08.2022. While passing the order dated 16.08.2022, the District Magistrate, Amethi referred the case to the learned Gangsters Court under Section 16 of the Gangster Act in respect of property which was not released by him; and, the learned Gangsters Court, thereafter, proceeded to pass the impugned order dated 19.10.2023 in exercise of its powers under Section 16 of the Gangster Act.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that the District Magistrate, Amethi has wrongly and incorrectly attached the properties of the appellant on the wrong presumption that the said properties have been acquired from the income earned by the appellant no.2 by his involvement in anti social activities, whereas the appellant no.2 is neither Gangster nor he has earned this property from his involvement in anti social activities.

9. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that the learned trial court while passing the impugned order dated 19.10.2023, without properly perusing the contents of application and documents annexed with the release application has wrongly and incorrectly rejected the same by presuming that the property in question has been acquired by the appellant no.2 from the income earned by indulging in anti social activities without going through documentary evidence filed on behalf of appellants and wrongly interpreting that appellants have not filed any document to prove that the properties in question have not been acquired by the appellant no.2 from the income earned by indulging in anti social activities. Thus, the trial court erred in law while rejecting the application of appellants for release of properties in question. He has further submitted that the appellants had given the complete details of the properties which has been attached vide order dated 23/27.04.2022 by the District Magistrate, Amethi.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that appellant No.1 who is the wife of appellant No.2 is a business lady with registered/approved contractor possessing the requisite license for running a proprietorship firm having owned and accommodated exclusively by sole proprietor Smt. Sudha Singh i.e. appellant No.1 since 2015 and she also holds a valid license for running liquor shops since 2016. Further, she belongs to a very reputed family and her father was a Zamidar and a popular figure in the society. He further submitted that appellant No.1 had categorically and comprehensively explained her source of income to build the property, which has been attached/seized vide impugned orders. The presumption of procurement of the property by a gangster by illegal means could only arise, had there been no other source of income. Needless to say that a presumption is always a presumption and is always rebuttable.

Thus, he further submitted that in the present case the appellants are not only rebutting the presumption as provided under Section 14 of the Gangsters Act but are contradicting the same in stricto senso by disclosing their other source of income.

11. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that the impugned order dated 23/27.04.2022 passed by the District Magistrate, Amethi does not reveal that the District Magistrate, Amethi had "reason of believe" that the properties in question were acquired by the appellant no.2 as a commission of an offence under the Gangster Act rather the aforesaid order is passed on mere suspicion, surmises and conjectures and the appellate court has also passed the order dated 19.10.2023 in cursory manner without analyzing the documents of the appellants. Thus, both the impugned orders are not sustainable in the eye of law.

12. Per contra, Shri Ashok Kumar Singh, learned AGA-I, has argued that the learned appellate court has correctly appreciated the material on record before passing the impugned order. The District Magistrate, Amethi has also passed the impugned order dated 23/27.04.2022 after being fully satisfied that appellant no.2 has acquired the properties in question by illegal means after involving himself in anti social activities as defined under the Gangster Act, as such there is no illegality, infirmity or perversity in the impugned orders. Moreover, the competent authority has passed the order after considering the report of the Superintendent of Police, as also the report of Station House Officer, Police Station Gauriganj, District Amethi and, as such, it is wrong to say that the impugned order of attachment passed by the competent authority suffers from infirmities.

13. Learned AGA-I has further submitted that the learned trial court pointed out that the appellants were also not able to produce the source of income from which the appellants have acquired the properties attached by the learned District Magistrate, Amethi. Thus, the learned trial court after considering the entire material including the documentary evidence available on record have passed the impugned orders in correct perspectives and they need no interference.

14. I have heard learned counsel for the appellants, learned AGA-I for the State and gone through the impugned orders passed by the trial court.

15. It seems to be just and expedient to refer to the relevant provisions of the Gangster Act which are as under :-

"2. Definitions- In this Act,- (a) "Code" means the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973;

(b) "Gang" means a group of persons, who acting either singly or collectively, by violence, or threat or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person, indulge in anti-social activities, namely-

(i) offences punishable under Chapter XVI, or Chapter XVII, or Chapter XXII of the Indian Penal Code, or (ii) distilling or manufacturing or storing or transporting or importing or exporting or selling or distributing any liquor, or intoxicating or dangerous drugs, or other intoxicants or narcotics or cultivating any plant, in contravention of any of the provisions of the U.P. Excise Act, 1910 or the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 or any other law for the time being in force, or

(iii) occupying or taking possession of immovable property otherwise than in accordance with law, or setting-up false claims, for title or possession of immovable property whether in himself or any other person, or

(iv) preventing or attempting to prevent any public servant or any witness from discharging his lawful duties, or

(v) offences punishable under the Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act, 1956, or

(vi) offences punishable under Section 3 of the Public Gambling Act, 1867, or

(vii) preventing any person from offering bids in auction lawfully conducted, or tender, lawfully invited, by or on behalf of any Government department, local body or public or private undertaking, for any lease or rights or supply of goods or work to be done, or

(viii) preventing or disturbing the smooth running by any person of his lawful business, profession, trade or employment or any other lawful activity connected therewith, or

(ix) offences punishable under Section 171-E of the Indian Penal Code, or in preventing or obstructing any public election being lawfully held, by physically preventing the voter from exercising his electoral rights, or

(x) inciting others to resort to violence to disturb communal harmony, or

(xi) creating panic, alarm or terror in public, or

(xii) terrorising or assaulting employees or owners or occupiers of public or private undertakings or factories and causing mischief in respect of their properties, or

(xiii) inducing or attempting to induce any person to go to foreign countries on false representation that any employment, trade or profession shall be provided to him in such foreign country, or

(xiv) kidnapping or abducting any person with intent to extort ransom, or (xv) diverting or otherwise preventing any aircraft or public transport vehicle from following its scheduled course;

(xvi) offences punishable under the Regulation of Money Lending Act, 1976;*

(xvii) illegally transporting and/or smuggling of cattle and indulging in acts in contravention of the provisions in the Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 and the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960; (xviii) human trafficking for purposes of commercial exploitation, bonded labour, child labour, sexual exploitation, organ removing and trafficking, beggary and the like activities; (xix) offences punishable under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1966;

(xx) printing, transporting and circulating of fake Indian currency notes;

(xxi) involving in production, sale and distribution of spurious drugs;

(xxii) involving in manufacture, sale and transportation of arms and ammunition in contravention of Sections 5, 7 and 12 of the Arms Act, 1959;

(xxiii) felling or killing for economic gains, smuggling of products in contravention of the Indian Forest Act, 1927 and The Wildlife Protection Act, 1972;

(xxiv) offences punishable under the Entertainment and Betting Tax Act, 1979;

(xvv) indulging in crimes that impact security of State, public order and even tempo of life,"

(c) "gangster" means a member or leader or organiser of a gang and includes any person who abets or assists in the activities of a gang enumerated in clause (b), whether before or after the commission of such activities or harbours any person who has indulged in such activities;

(d) "public servant" means a public servant as defined in Section 21 of the Indian Penal Code or any other law for the time being in force, and includes any person who lawfully assists the police or other authorities of the State, in investigation or prosecution or punishment of an offence punishable under this Act, whether by giving information or evidence relating to such offence or offender or in any other manner;

(e) "member of the family of a public servant" means his parents or spouse and brother, sister, son, daughter, grandson, granddaughter or the spouses of any of them, and includes a person dependent on or residing with the public servant and a person in whose welfare the public servant is interested;

(f) words and phrases used but not defined in this Act and defined in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, or the Indian Penal Code shall have the meanings respectively assigned to them in such Codes.

3. Penalty-(1) A gangster, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than two years and which may extend to ten years and also with fine which shall not be less than five thousand rupees:

Provided that a gangster who commits an offence against the person of a public servant or the person of a member of the family of a public servant shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than three years and also with fine which shall not be less than five thousand rupees.

(2) Whoever being a public servant renders any illegal help or support in any manner to a gangster, whether before or after the commission of any offence by the gangster (whether by himself or through others) or abstains from taking lawful measures or intentionally avoids to carry out the directions of any Court or of his superior officers, in this respect, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years but shall not be less than three years and also with fine".

16. The issue involved in the present case may be resolved with the help of the consideration of provisions of sections 14, 15, 16 and 17 of the Gangsters Act, which read as under:

"14. Attachment of property.-(1) If the District Magistrate has reason to believe that any property, whether movable or immovable, in possession of any person has been acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act, he may order attachment of such property whether or not cognizance of such offence has been taken by any Court.

(2) The provisions of the Code shall mutatis mutandis apply to every such attachment.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of the Code the District

Magistrate may appoint an Administrator of any property attached under sub-section (1) and the Administrator shall have all the powers to administer such property in the best interest thereof.

(4) The District Magistrate may provide police help to the Administrator for proper and effective administration of such property.

15. Release of property .- (1) Where any property is attached under Section 14, the claimant thereof may, within three months from the date of knowledge of such attachment, make a representation to the District Magistrate showing the circumstances in and the sources by which such property was acquired by him.

(2) If the District Magistrate is satisfied about the genuineness of the claim made under sub-section (1) he shall forthwith release the property from attachment and thereupon such 6 property shall be made over to the claimant.

16. Inquiry into the character of acquisition of property by court .-

(1) Where no representation is made within the period specified in sub-section (1) of Section 15 or the District Magistrate does not release the property under sub-section (2) of Section 15 he shall refer the matter with his report to the Court having jurisdiction to try an offence under this Act.

(2) Where the District Magistrate has refused to attach any property under sub-section (1) of Section 14 or has ordered for release of any property under sub-section (2) of Section 15, the State Government or any person aggrieved by such refusal or release may make an application to the Court referred to in sub-section (1) for inquiry as to whether the property was acquired by or as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act. Such court may, if it considers necessary or expedient in the interest of justice so to do, order attachment of such property.

(3) (a) On receipt of the reference under sub-section (1) or an application under sub-section (2), the Court shall fix a date for inquiry and give notices thereof to the person making the application under sub-section (2) or, as the case may be, to the person making the representation under Section 15 and to the State Government, and also to any other person whose interest appears to be involved in the case.

(b) On the date so fixed or on any subsequent date to which the inquiry may be adjourned, the Court shall hear the parties, receive evidence produced by them, take such further evidence as it considers necessary, decide whether the property was acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act and shall pass such order under Section 17 as may be just and necessary in the circumstances of the case.

(4) For the purpose of inquiry under sub-section (3), the Court shall have the power of a Civil Court while trying a suit under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (Act No. V of 1908), in respect of the following matters, namely:

(a) summoning and enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath ;

(b) requiring the discovery and production of documents;

(c)receiving evidence on affidavits;

(d) requisitioning any public record or copy thereof from any court or office ;

(e) issuing commission for examination of witnesses or documents;

(f) dismissing a reference for default or deciding it ex parte;

(g) setting aside an order of dismissal for default or ex parte decision.

(5) In any proceedings under this section, the burden of proving that the property in question or any part thereof was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act, shall be on the person claiming the property, anything to the contrary contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (Act No. 1 of 1872), notwithstanding.

17. Order after inquiry.- If upon such inquiry the Court finds that the property was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act it shall order for release of the property of the person from whose possession it was attached. In any other case the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal of the property by attachment, confiscation or delivery to any person entitled to the possession thereof, or otherwise."

17. It is now well settled that property being made subject matter of an attachment under Section 14 of the Act must have been acquired by a gangster and that too by commission of an offence triable under the Act. The District Magistrate has to record its satisfaction on this point. The satisfaction of the District Magistrate is not open to challenge in any appeal. Only a representation is provided for before the District Magistrate himself under Section 15 of the Act and in case he refuses to release the property on such representation, in that case the person aggrieved has to make a reference to the Court having jurisdiction to try an offence under the Act. The Court, while dealing with the reference made under sub-section (2) of Section 15 of the Act has to see whether the property was acquired by a gangster as a result of commission of an offence triable under the Act and has to enter into the question and record his own finding on the basis of the inquiry held by him under Section 16 of the Act. If the Court comes to the conclusion that the property was not acquired by the gangster as a result of commission of an offence triable under the Act, the Court shall order for release of the property in favour of the person from whose possession it was attached.

The object behind providing the power of judicial scrutiny under Section 16 of the Code is to check arbitrary exercise of power by the District Magistrate in depriving a person of his property and to restore the rule of law, therefore a heavy duty lies upon the Court to hold a formal enquiry to find out the truth with regard to the question, whether the property was acquired by or as a result of the commission of an offence triable under the Act. The order to be passed under Section 17 of the Act must disclose reasons and the evidence in support of finding of the Court. The Court is not empowered to act as a post office or mouthpiece of the State or the District Magistrate. If a person has no criminal history during the period the property was acquired by him, how the property can be held to be a property acquired by or as a result of commission of an offence triable under the Act is a pivotal question which has to be answered by the Court. Besides, the aforesaid question, the other important question to be considered by the Court is whether the property which was acquired prior to the registration of the case against the accused under the Act or prior to the registration of the first case of the Gangster chart can be attached by District Magistrate under Section 14 of the Act.

The provisions of Section 14 of the Act, referred to above, empowers the District Magistrate to attach the property acquired by the Gangster as a result of commission of an offence triable under this Act. The District Magistrate may appoint an Administrator of any property attached, to administer such property in the best interest thereof but there must be reason to believe that any property whether movable or immovable in possession of any person, has been acquired by a Gangster as a result of commission of an offence, triable under this Act but the District Magistrate in its order has not recorded his satisfaction having reason to believe with regard to the property attached that it was acquired by appellant as a result of commission of an offence triable under Gangster Act, even though while deciding the reference under Section 16 of the Act, the trial court does not appreciate the evidence and in a mechanical manner passed the impugned order relying upon the observations made by the District Magistrate which is illegal and an unjustified approach.

18. A Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Maina Devi versus State of U.P. 2013(83) ACC 902 in paras-8, 9 and 10 has been pleased to held as under:-

"8. Considering the facts, circumstances of the case, submissions made by the learned Counsel for the appellant and the learned A.G.A. and from the perusal of the record it appears that the issue involved in the present case may be resolved with the help of the consideration of the provisions of section 14, 15 and 17 of the Gangsters Act, which read as under:

15. Release of property.—(1) Where any property is attached under section 14, the claimant thereof may within three months from the date of knowledge of such attachment make a representation to the District Magistrate showing the circumstances in and the sources by which such property was acquired by him.*

(2) If the District Magistrate is satisfied about the genuineness of the claim made under sub-section (1) he shall forthwith release the property from attachment and thereupon such property shall be made over to the claimant.

17. Order after inquiry—If upon such inquiry the Court finds that the property was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act it shall order for release of the property of the person from whose possession it was attached. In any other case the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal of the property by attachment, confiscation or delivery to any person entitled to the possession thereof, or otherwise.*

9. In light of above mentioned provisions of the Gangster Act the District Magistrate is empowered to attach movable or immovable properties in possession of any person acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act. But for exercising such powers there must be the reason to believe to the District Magistrate that such property was acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act. The words reason to believe are stronger than the word "satisfied", it must be passed on reasons which are relevant and material. In the present case, from the perusal of the lower Court record it appears that only on the basis of the police report submitted by the officer incharge of P.S. Sarai Lak-hansi, District Mau, the District Magistrate, Mau has attached two houses of the appellant, no material was supplied to the District Magistrate to have a reason to believe that the property in question was acquired by the gangster Raj Bahadur Singh as a result of commission of an offence triable under this Act. It vitiates the subjective satisfaction of the District Magistrate also. The learned District Magistrate was having no material in support of the police report that both the houses of the appellant were acquired by his son Raj Bahadur Singh. The learned District Magistrate rejected the application under section 15 of the Gangsters Act moved by the appellant for releasing the attached houses. The application was moved well within the time, the application was a representation to the District Magistrate, Mau, it was having all the details disclosing the sources by which both the houses were acquired by the appellant. But learned District Magistrate did not consider the sources disclosed by the appellant and rejected the application vide order dated 29.12.2008. The explanation of all the sources by which the appellant acquired the houses has not been properly considered. Therefore, impugned order dated 29.12.2008 has become illegal. The learned Special Judge (Gangsters Act), Azamgarh rejected the application moved by the appellant under section 17 of the Gangsters Act without considering the provisions of the section 14 of the Gangsters Act and the 'relevancy of the reasons' recorded by the District Magistrate to believe that both the attached houses were acquired by a gangster Raj Bahadur Singh son of the appellant as a result of commission of an offence triable under this Act. The order dated 17.3.2009 passed by learned Special Judge (Gangsters Act)/Additional Sessions Judge, Azamgarh in Criminal Misc. Application No. 2 of 2009 is also illegal.

10. In view of the above discussion, the order passed by District Magistrate, Mau under section 14(1) of the Gangsters Act attaching two houses of the appellant the order dated 29.12.2008 passed by District Magistrate, Mau by which the application under section 15(1)(2) of the Gangster Act has been rejected and the order dated 17.3.2009 passed by learned Special Judge (Gangster Act), Additional Sessions Judge, Azamgarh in Criminal Misc. Application No. 2 of 2009 are illegal, the same are hereby set aside and the District Magistrate, Mau is hereby directed to release both the houses No. 204-D/8 and 205-D/9 situated in Mohalla Chandmari, Imiliyan, P.S. Sarai Lak-hansi, District Mau in favour of the appellant forthwith."

19. Further, another Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Shanti Devi wife of Sri Ram versus State of U.P. 2007(2) ALJ 483 (All) in paras-9, 10 and 11 has been pleased to held as under:-

"9. The conjoint reading of these sections shows that first it has to be proved that gangster or any person on his behalf is or has been in possession of the property, and such property has been acquired by the commission of any offence triable under this Act, only then the District Magistrate acquires jurisdiction to proceed in the matter and to attach the property. Only when the initial burden is discharged, the onus shifts to the gangster or such person, to account for the same satisfactorily. But if it is found that the concerned person was not a gangster and did not acquire the property in commission of any offence triable under this Act, it has to be released as provided in Section 17. In other words the initial burden is on the prosecution to show that the concerned person is a gangster and has acquired property on account of his criminal activity as triable under the Act.

10. Therefore, in order to proceed under section 14 there must be materials for objective determination of the District Magistrate that the person is either a member, leader or organiser of a gang and has acquired any property in commission of any offence under the Act. There must be a nexus between his criminal acts as enumerated therein and the property acquired by him. His mere involvement in any offence is not sufficient to attach his property. In other words what is necessary to find is whether, his acquisition of property was a result of commission of any offence enumerated in the Act being a member, leader or organiser of a gang. One might have committed several offences but if the property acquired by him was with the aid of his earning from legal resources no action under Section 14 of the Act can be taken against him.

11. In the case of Badan Singh alias Baddo v. State of U.P., 2002 Cri LJ 1392 : 2001 All LJ 2852 it has been held by this Court that Section 14 of the Act is a harsh provision that affects one's right to property, which is a fundamental right under the Constitution. Therefore, initial burden was upon the State to satisfy the District Magistrate with necessary materials that a gangster acquired the properties as a result of commission of any offence. It has also been held in this case that the Act does not provide that the aggrived person seeking release of the properties from attachment must prove the source of income for acquisition thereof."

20. Further, another Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Rajbir Singh Tyagi Vs State of U.P. and Others 2018 SCC Online AII 5986 in paras 16 and 18 has been pleased to held as under:-

"16. A conjoint reading of the aforesaid two definitions what appears is that for taking action under Section 14 against a person, there must be materials for objective determination of the District Magistrate that he either as a member, leader or organizer of a gang acquired any property as a result of commission of any offence under the Act. There must be nexus between his criminal act and the property acquired by him. His mere involvement in any offence is not sufficient to attach his property. In other words, what is necessary to find is whether his acquisition of property was as a result of commission of any offence enumerated in the Act being a member, leader or organizer of a gang. One might have committed several offences, but if the property acquired by him was with the aid of his earning from legal source, no action under Section 14 of the Act can be taken against him.

18. Section 14 of the Act is a harsh provision that affects one's right to property which is a constitutional right under the Constitution. Therefore, initial burden was upon the State to satisfy the District Magistrate with necessary materials that petitioner Rajbir Singh Tyagi being a gangster acquired the properties as a result of commission of any offence. That was however, not done. So, complaining the attachment order to be illegal, a move was made by the petitioners by filing a representation for release of the properties. The said prayer was rejected with the observation that the petitioners could not establish the source of income to build the house and acquire the movables. This approach of the District Magistrate, in my opinion, has no sanction under law. The Act does not provide that-aggrieved person seeking release of the properties from attachment must prove the source of income for acquisition thereof. So, on a conspectus of the relevant provisions of the Act, I am of the considered opinion that the order of attachment passed by the District Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar is illegal, arbitrary and against the weight of the materials on record."

21. Keeping in view the aforesaid settled proposition of law and the judgments rendered by this Court in the case of Smt. Maina Devi versus State of U.P. 2013(83) ACC 902 and Smt. Shanti Devi wife of Sri Ram versus State of U.P. 2007(2) ALJ 483 (All), and Rajbir Singh Tyagi Vs State of U.P. and Others 2018 SCC Online AII 5986, this Court is of the view that the properties, which were attached, were not acquired by the appellants by commission of any offence triable under the Act as it is settled law that the properties being made subject matter of attachment under Section 14 of the Act must have been acquired by a gangster and that too by commission of an offence triable under the Act and also the impugned orders were not passed on reasons which are relevant and material. In the present case from the perusal of the impugned order dated 23/27.04.2022 and record it appears that only on the basis of the police report, the District Magistrate, Amethi has attached the properties in question, no material was supplied to the District Magistrate to have reasons to believe that the properties in question were acquired by the gangster i.e. the present appellants as a result of commission of any offence triable under this Act. It vitiates the subjective satisfaction of the District Magistrate also from the record. The District Magistrate has no material in support of the police report that the properties in question were acquired by the appellants being gangster even though the procedures were not followed as per the provisions of the Act. From the record it transpires that the appellants had acquired the property much prior to the imposition of Gangster Act, which was invoked in the year 2022 and the impugned order of attachment was passed in mechanical manner without application of mind and is arbitrary. Thus, it appears that the impugned order dated 23/27.04.2022 passed by the District Magistrate, Amethi attaching/seizing the property of the appellants and the order dated 16.08.2022 passed by the District Magistrate, Amethi, rejecting the representations of the appellants and making reference to the learned trial court and order dated 19.10.2023 passed by the trial court are illegal, arbitrary and have been passed in a cursory manner without considering the material available on record and without considering the explanation/reply given by the appellants, thus, the orders impugned hereinabove are liable to be quashed.

22. In view of above facts and circumstances of the case, the impugned orders passed by the trial court cannot be said to be passed in correct perspectives as they are not sustainable in the eye of law and require interference by this Court, the prosecution has failed to establish that the provisions of Sections 2 and 3 of the Gangster Act are attracted in the case of appellants, and further the appellants' properties are also not attached in accordance with law, as the prosecution has failed to establish that the properties in question acquired and owned by the appellants have been earned from the income indulging in anti social activities. The inquiry under Section 16 was not done in accordance with the Act, the provisions of Sections 14, 15 & 17 were also not followed in accordance with the Act, thus the entire proceeding initiated in pursuance thereof is vitiated.

23. Accordingly, the present appeal is allowed. The impugned order dated 19.10.2023 passed by the learned Additional District and Sessions Judge / F.T.C.-II / Special Judge, Gangster Act, District Sultanpur in Crl. Misc. Case No.4/2022 (State Vs. Vijay Pratap @ Gallan) as well as the order dated 23/27.04.2022 passed by the District Magistrate, Amethi attaching/seizing the property of the appellants and the order dated 16.08.2022 passed by the District Magistrate, Amethi, rejecting the representations of the appellants and making reference to the learned trial court, are hereby quashed.

The District Magistrate, Amethi is directed to release all the properties of the appellants attached vide order dated 23/27.04.2022 in favour of appellants, forthwith.

24. No order as to costs.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1416
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 27.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SHAMIM AHMED, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 3200 of 2022

Nabi Sarvar ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Farooq Ayoob

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 - Sections 2, 3, 14, 15, 16 & 17 - Appellant challenged orders dated 23.09.2020 (attachment of vehicles), 15.03.2021 (rejection of representation), and 18.10.2022 (upholding attachment) by District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar, and Special Judge, Gangster Act, under Section 14(1) of the Gangster Act. Court held: (1) No material evidence supported District Magistrate's belief that vehicles (three trucks and one Scorpio) were acquired through offences under the Gangster Act; orders relied solely on police reports without objective basis. (2) Appellant provided evidence of legitimate income from farming, milk distribution, and fisheries, and vehicles were financed through loans, acquired prior to 2020 Gangster Act case. (3) No nexus established between alleged criminal activity (single case under Cow Slaughter Act) and property acquisition. (4) District Magistrate and trial court failed to conduct proper inquiry under Sections 15, 16, and 17, rendering orders arbitrary and illegal (Smt. Maina Devi Vs St. of U.P., 2013(83) ACC 902; Smt. Shanti Devi Vs St. of U.P., 2007(2) ALJ 483; Rajbir Singh Tyagi Vs St. of U.P., 2018 SCC Online All 5986). All impugned orders quashed; vehicles ordered to be released; appeal allowed. (Paras 16-20)

Appeal Allowed.

Case Law Cited:

1. Smt. Maina Devi Vs St. of U.P., 2013(83) ACC 902 (Para 17)

2. Smt. Shanti Devi Vs St. of U.P., 2007(2) ALJ 483 (Para 18)

3. Rajbir Singh Tyagi Vs St. of U.P., 2018 SCC Online All 5986 (Para 19)

4. Badan Singh alias Baddo Vs St. of U.P., 2002 Cri LJ 1392 (Para 18)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Shri Farooq Ayoob, the learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Ashok Kumar Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. The instant Criminal Appeal has been filed under Section 18 of Uttar Pradesh Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 against the order dated 23.09.2020 passed by the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar, whereby the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar attached the Vehile No. U.P. 45 D 5797 Truck, U.P. 45 T 2245 Truck, UP 45 T 1738 Truck and UP 45Q0287 Scorpio with the finding that the appellant has purchased the aforesaid vehicles from the income earned by involving in anti social activities and he has no source of income.

The appellant has also prayed for quashing of the order dated 15.03.2021 passed by the Court of District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar in Criminal Misc Case No. 648 of 2020, arising out of F.I.R./Case Crime No. 393 of 2020, under Section 3 (1) U.P. Gangster Act, 1986, Police Station Akbarpur, District Ambedkar Nagar and order dated 18.10.2022 passed by the Court of Special Judge, Gangster Act Ambedkar Nagar in Misc. Case No. 153/2021 CNR No. UPAN0100116872021: State of U.P. Vs. Nabi Sarvar, whereby the learned trial court has rejected the application under Section 16 (1) of Gangster Act, 1986 and confirmed the order dated 15.03.2021 passed by the District Magistrate,Ambedkar Nagar.

3. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that being aggrieved by the aforesaid attachment order dated 23.09.2020, the appellant preferred representation dated 03.02.2021 before the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar, under Section 14 (1) of the Gangster Act seeking release of the appellant's properties from attachment, alleging therein that neither there is any Gang nor the applicant is a member of any Gang. Only one Case Crime No. 01/18 under Section 3/5A/8 of Cow Slaughter Prevention Act police Station Bewana is registered against the appellant, apart from this, neither any case is pending or disposed of against the applicant. The appellant has further stated in his representation that Vehicle number UP 45-5797 was purchased twelve years ago, firstly from Tata Company then thereafter from Sriram Company by depositing margin money; Vehicle number UP 45T 2245 was purchased in the year 2012 and is currently financed by Shriram Finance; Vehicle No. UP 45T 1738 truck was purchased in the year 2012 by depositing margin money and getting it financed; Vehicle No. UP 45 Q 0287 Scorpio is financed by Mahindra Company. However, the aforesaid representation was dismissed in a cursory manner by the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar vide order dated 15.03.2021 and referred the case to the court of learned Special Judge, Gangsters Act, Ambedkar Nagar under Section 16 (1) of the Gangster Act; and, the learned Gangsters Court vide order dated 18.10.2022 confirmed the order dated 15.03.2021 passed by the District Magistrate,Ambedkar Nagar.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar has wrongly and incorrectly attached the aforesaid vehicle on the wrong presumption that the said properties have been acquired from the income earned by the appellant by involving in anti social activities, whereas the appellant is neither Gangster nor he has earned these properties from involving in anti social activities.

5. Clarifying the position, it has been urged by the learned counsel for the appellant that as a matter of fact the appellant and his family member who was doing farming since long time and milk distribution as well as fisheries pond was also running and he has further submitted that the aforesaid attached vehicle was purchased by the appellant on installment.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the property of the appellant and his family members has not properly verified and with ill motive property of the appellant has attached under Section 14 (1) of U.P. Gangster Act by impugned order dated 23.09.2020 without issuing any show cause notice to the appellant and against impugned order dated 23.09.2020 appellant has submitted representation, but without considering the same District Magistrate Ambedkar Nagar has not release the property of the appellant and he passed the order dated 15.03.2021. In support of his submission, the appellant has submitted finance paper as Annexure No. 6 to the affidavit filed in support of the criminal appeal.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that the appellant has filed his objection aginst the order dated 23.09.2020 and has specifically given the details of the property in question as and how the same was purchased, but the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar without considering the same passed impugned order dated 15.03.2021 and has rejected the claim of the appellant.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the appellant has falsely roped in the cases mention in the gang chart and in the said case appellant is on bail and after a long delay impugned proceeding have been initiated against the appellant in the month of July, 2020.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that the learned trial court while passing the impugned order dated 23.09.2020, without properly perusing the contents of application and documents annexed with the release application has wrongly and incorrectly rejected the same by presuming that the property in question has been acquired by the appellant from the income earned by indulging in anti social activities without going through documentary evidence filed on behalf of appellant and wrongly interpreting that appellant has not filed any document to prove that the property in question has not been acquired from the income earned by indulging in anti social activities. Thus the trial court erred in law while rejecting the application of appellant for release of property in question. The learned counsel submits that the appellant had given the complete detail of mmovable property which have been attached vide order dated 23.09.2020 by the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the impugned order dated 23.09.2020 passed by the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar does not reveal that the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar had “reason of believe” that the property in question was acquired by the appellant as a commission of an offence under the Gangster Act rather the aforesaid order is passed on mere suspicion, surmises and conjectures and learned Special Judge, Gangster Act Ambedkar Nagar vide order dated 18.10.2022 in cursory manner without analysing the documents of the appellant. Thus both the impugned orders are not sustainable in the eye of law.

11. Per contra, Srhi Ashok Kumar Srivastava, learned AGA-1, has argued that the learned trialourt has correctly appreciated the material on record before passing the impugned order. The District Magistrate, Lucknow has passed the impugned order dated 23.09.2020 after being fully satisfied that appellant has acquired the property in question by illegal means involving himself in anti social activities as defined under the Gangster Act, as such there is no illegality, infirmity or perversity in the impugned orders. Moreover, the competent authority has passed the order after considering the report of the Superintendent of Police as also the report of Station House Officer, Bewana and as such it is wrong to say that the impugned order of attachment passed by the competent authority suffers from infirmities.

12. Learned AGA has further submitted that the learned trial court pointed out that the appellant was also not able to show the source of income from which the appellant has acquired the properties which was attached by the learned District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar. The learned trial court also pointed out that when the vehicle of the appellant i.e.,Truck number UP 45-5797, Truck UP 45T 2245 ; Truck No. UP 45T 1738; Scorpio VLX No. UP 45 Q 0287 Scorpio were purchased by the appellant on loan then from what source of income has the appellant purchased the land without loan, which was seized by the District Magistrate. Thus the learned trial court after considering the entire material including the documentary evidence available on record have passed the impugned orders in correct perspectives and they need no interference.

13. I have heard learned counsel for the appellant, learned AGA for the opposite parties and gone through the impugned orders passed by the trial court as well as by the District Magistrate.

14. It seems to be just and expedient to refer to the relevant provisions of the Gangster Act which are as under :-

"2. Definitions- In this Act,- (a) "Code" means the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973;

(b) "Gang" means a group of persons, who acting either singly or collectively, by violence, or threat or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person, indulge in anti-social activities, namely-

(i) offences punishable under Chapter XVI, or Chapter XVII, or Chapter XXII of the Indian Penal Code, or (ii) distilling or manufacturing or storing or transporting or importing or exporting or selling or distributing any liquor, or intoxicating or dangerous drugs, or other intoxicants or narcotics or cultivating any plant, in contravention of any of the provisions of the U.P. Excise Act, 1910 or the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 or any other law for the time being in force, or

(iii) occupying or taking possession of immovable property otherwise than in accordance with law, or setting-up false claims, for title or possession of immovable property whether in himself or any other person, or

(iv) preventing or attempting to prevent any public servant or any witness from discharging his lawful duties, or

(v) offences punishable under the Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act, 1956, or

(vi) offences punishable under Section 3 of the Public Gambling Act, 1867, or

(vii) preventing any person from offering bids in auction lawfully conducted, or tender, lawfully invited, by or on behalf of any Government department, local body or public or private undertaking, for any lease or rights or supply of goods or work to be done, or

(viii) preventing or disturbing the smooth running by any person of his lawful business, profession, trade or employment or any other lawful activity connected therewith, or

(ix) offences punishable under Section 171-E of the Indian Penal Code, or in preventing or obstructing any public election being lawfully held, by physically preventing the voter from exercising his electoral rights, or

(x) inciting others to resort to violence to disturb communal harmony, or

(xi) creating panic, alarm or terror in public, or

(xii) terrorising or assaulting employees or owners or occupiers of public or private undertakings or factories and causing mischief in respect of their properties, or

(xiii) inducing or attempting to induce any person to go to foreign countries on false representation that any employment, trade or profession shall be provided to him in such foreign country, or

(xiv) kidnapping or abducting any person with intent to extort ransom, or (xv) diverting or otherwise preventing any aircraft or public transport vehicle from following its scheduled course;

(xvi) offences punishable under the Regulation of Money Lending Act, 1976; (xvii) illegally transporting and/or smuggling of cattle and indulging in acts in contravention of the provisions in the Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 and the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960; (xviii) human trafficking for purposes of commercial exploitation, bonded labour, child labour, sexual exploitation, organ removing and trafficking, beggary and the like activities; (xix) offences punishable under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1966; (xx) printing, transporting and circulating of fake Indian currency notes;*

(xxi) involving in production, sale and distribution of spurious drugs;

(xxii) involving in manufacture, sale and transportation of arms and ammunition in contravention of Sections 5, 7 and 12 of the Arms Act, 1959;

(xxiii) felling or killing for economic gains, smuggling of products in contravention of the Indian Forest Act, 1927 and The Wildlife Protection Act, 1972;

(xxiv) offences punishable under the Entertainment and Betting Tax Act, 1979;

(xvv) indulging in crimes that impact security of State, public order and even tempo of life,"

(c) "gangster" means a member or leader or organiser of a gang and includes any person who abets or assists in the activities of a gang enumerated in clause (b), whether before or after the commission of such activities or harbours any person who has indulged in such activities;

(d) "public servant" means a public servant as defined in Section 21 of the Indian Penal Code or any other law for the time being in force, and includes any person who lawfully assists the police or other authorities of the State, in investigation or prosecution or punishment of an offence punishable under this Act, whether by giving information or evidence relating to such offence or offender or in any other manner;

(e) "member of the family of a public servant" means his parents or spouse and brother, sister, son, daughter, grandson, granddaughter or the spouses of any of them, and includes a person dependent on or residing with the public servant and a person in whose welfare the public servant is interested;

(f) words and phrases used but not defined in this Act and defined in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, or the Indian Penal Code shall have the meanings respectively assigned to them in such Codes.

3. Penalty-(1) A gangster, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than two years and which may extend to ten years and also with fine which shall not be less than five thousand rupees:

Provided that a gangster who commits an offence against the person of a public servant or the person of a member of the family of a public servant shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than three years and also with fine which shall not be less than five thousand rupees.

(2) Whoever being a public servant renders any illegal help or support in any manner to a gangster, whether before or after the commission of any offence by the gangster (whether by himself or through others) or abstains from taking lawful measures or intentionally avoids to carry out the directions of any Court or of his superior officers, in this respect, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years but shall not be less than three years and also with fine".

15. The issue involved in the present case may be resolved with the help of the consideration of provisions of sections 14, 15 and 17 of the Gangsters Act, which read as under:

"14. Attachment of property.-(1) If the District Magistrate has reason to believe that any property, whether movable or immovable, in possession of any person has been acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act, he may order attachment of such property whether or not cognizance of such offence has been taken by any Court.

(2) The provisions of the Code shall mutatis mutandis apply to every such attachment.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of the Code the District Magistrate may appoint an Administrator of any property attached under sub-section (1) and the Administrator shall have all the powers to administer such property in the best interest thereof.

(4) The District Magistrate may provide police help to the Administrator for proper and effective administration of such property.

15. Release of property .- (1) Where any property is attached under Section 14, the claimant thereof may, within three months from the date of knowledge of such attachment, make a representation to the District Magistrate showing the circumstances in and the sources by which such property was acquired by him.

(2) If the District Magistrate is satisfied about the genuineness of the claim made under sub-section (1) he shall forthwith release the property from attachment and thereupon such 6 property shall be made over to the claimant.

16. Inquiry into the character of acquisition of property by court .-

(1) Where no representation is made within the period specified in sub-section (1) of Section 15 or the District Magistrate does not release the property under sub-section (2) of Section 15 he shall refer the matter with his report to the Court having jurisdiction to try an offence under this Act.

(2) Where the District Magistrate has refused to attach any property under sub-section (1) of Section 14 or has ordered for release of any property under sub-section (2) of Section 15, the State Government or any person aggrieved by such refusal or release may make an application to the Court referred to in sub-section (1) for inquiry as to whether the property was acquired by or as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act. Such court may, if it considers necessary or expedient in the interest of justice so to do, order attachment of such property.

(3) (a) On receipt of the reference under sub-section (1) or an application under sub-section (2), the Court shall fix a date for inquiry and give notices thereof to the person making the application under sub-section (2) or, as the case may be, to the person making the representation under Section 15 and to the State Government, and also to any other person whose interest appears to be involved in the case.

(b) On the date so fixed or on any subsequent date to which the inquiry may be adjourned, the Court shall hear the parties, receive evidence produced by them, take such further evidence as it considers necessary, decide whether the property was acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act and shall pass such order under Section 17 as may be just and necessary in the circumstances of the case.

(4) For the purpose of inquiry under sub-section (3), the Court shall have the power of a Civil Court while trying a suit under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (Act No. V of 1908), in respect of the following matters, namely:

(a) summoning and enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath ;

(b) requiring the discovery and production of documents;

(c)receiving evidence on affidavits;

(d) requisitioning any public record or copy thereof from any court or office ;

(e) issuing commission for examination of witnesses or documents;

(f) dismissing a reference for default or deciding it ex parte;

(g) setting aside an order of dismissal for default or ex parte decision.

(5) In any proceedings under this section, the burden of proving that the property in question or any part thereof was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act, shall be on the person claiming the property, anything to the contrary contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (Act No. 1 of 1872), notwithstanding.

17. Order after inquiry.- If upon such inquiry the Court finds that the property was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act it shall order for release of the property of the person from whose possession it was attached. In any other case the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal of the property by attachment, confiscation or delivery to any person entitled to the possession thereof, or otherwise."

16. It is now well settled that property being made subject matter of an attachment under Section 14 of the Act must have been acquired by a gangster and that too by commission of an offence triable under the Act. The District Magistrate has to record its satisfaction on this point. The satisfaction of the District Magistrate is not open to challenge in any appeal. Only a representation is provided for before the District Magistrate himself under Section 15 of the Act and in case he refuses to release the property on such representation, in that case the person aggrieved has to make a reference to the Court having jurisdiction to try an offence under the Act. The Court, while dealing with the reference made under sub-section (2) of Section 15 of the Act has to see whether the property was acquired by a gangster as a result of commission of an offence triable under the Act and has to enter into the question and record his own finding on the basis of the inquiry held by him under Section 16 of the Act. If the Court comes to the conclusion that the property was not acquired by the gangster as a result of commission of an offence triable under the Act, the Court shall order for release of the property in favour of the person from whose possession it was attached.

The object behind providing the power of judicial scrutiny under Section 16 of the Code is to check arbitrary exercise of power by the District Magistrate in depriving a person of his property and to restore the rule of law, therefore a heavy duty lies upon the Court to hold a formal enquiry to find out the truth with regard to the question, whether the property was acquired by or as a result of the commission of an offence triable under the Act. The order to be passed under Section 17 of the Act must disclose reasons and the evidence in support of finding of the Court. The Court is not empowered to act as a post office or mouthpiece of the State or the District Magistrate. If a person has no criminal history during the period the property was acquired by him, how the property can be held to be a property acquired by or as a result of commission of an offence triable under the Act is a pivotal question which has to be answered by the Court. Besides, the aforesaid question, the other important question to be considered by the Court is whether the property which was acquired prior to the registration of the case against the accused under the Act or prior to the registration of the first case of the Gangster chart can be attached by District Magistrate under Section 14 of the Act.

The provisions of Section 14 of the Act, referred to above, empowers the District Magistrate to attach the property acquired by the Gangster as a result of commission of an offence triable under this Act. The District Magistrate may appoint an Administrator of any property attached, to administer such property in the best interest thereof but there must be reason to believe that any property whether moveable or immovable in possession of any person, has been acquired by a Gangster as a result of commission of an offence, triable under this Act but the District Magistrate in its order has not recorded his satisfaction having reason to believe with regard to the property attached that it was acquired by appellant as a result of commission of an offence triable under Gangster Act, even though while deciding the reference under Section 16 of the Act, the court below does not appreciate the evidence and in a mechanical manner passed the impugned order relying upon the observations made by the District Magistrate which is illegal and an unjustified approach.

17. A Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Maina Devi versus State of U.P. 2013(83) ACC 902 in paras-8, 9 and 10 has been pleased to held as under:-

"8. Considering the facts, circumstances of the case, submissions made by the learned Counsel for the appellant and the learned A.G.A. and from the perusal of the record it appears that the issue involved in the present case may be resolved with the help of the consideration of the provisions of section 14, 15 and 17 of the Gangsters Act, which read as under:

15. Release of property.—(1) Where any property is attached under section 14, the claimant thereof may within three* months from the date of knowledge of such attachment make a representation to the District Magistrate showing the circumstances in and the sources by which such property was acquired by him.

(2) If the District Magistrate is satisfied about the genuineness of the claim made under sub-section (1) he shall forthwith release the property from attachment and thereupon such property shall be made over to the claimant.

17. Order after inquiry—If upon such inquiry the Court finds that the property was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act it shall order for release of the property of the person from whose possession it was attached. In any other case the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal of the property by attachment, confiscation or delivery to any person entitled to the possession thereof, or otherwise.*

9. In light of above mentioned provisions of the Gangster Act the District Magistrate is empowered to attach movable or immovable properties in possession of any person acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act. But for exercising such powers there must be the reason to believe to the District Magistrate that such property was acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act. The words reason to believe are stronger than the word "satisfied", it must be passed on reasons which are relevant and material. In the present case, from the perusal of the lower Court record it appears that only on the basis of the police report submitted by the officer incharge of P.S. Sarai Lak-hansi, District Mau, the District Magistrate, Mau has attached two houses of the appellant, no material was supplied to the District Magistrate to have a reason to believe that the property in question was acquired by the gangster Raj Bahadur Singh as a result of commission of an offence triable under this Act. It vitiates the subjective satisfaction of the District Magistrate also. The learned District Magistrate was having no material in support of the police report that both the houses of the appellant were acquired by his son Raj Bahadur Singh. The learned District Magistrate rejected the application under section 15 of the Gangsters Act moved by the appellant for releasing the attached houses. The application was moved well within the time, the application was a representation to the District Magistrate, Mau, it was having all the details disclosing the sources by which both the houses were acquired by the appellant. But learned District Magistrate did not consider the sources disclosed by the appellant and rejected the application vide order dated 29.12.2008. The explanation of all the sources by which the appellant acquired the houses has not been properly considered. Therefore, impugned order dated 29.12.2008 has become illegal. The learned Special Judge (Gangsters Act), Azamgarh rejected the application moved by the appellant under section 17 of the Gangsters Act without considering the provisions of the section 14 of the Gangsters Act and the 'relevancy of the reasons' recorded by the District Magistrate to believe that both the attached houses were acquired by a gangster Raj Bahadur Singh son of the appellant as a result of commission of an offence triable under this Act. The order dated 17.3.2009 passed by learned Special Judge (Gangsters Act)/Additional Sessions Judge, Azamgarh in Criminal Misc. Application No. 2 of 2009 is also illegal.

10. In view of the above discussion, the order passed by District Magistrate, Mau under section 14(1) of the Gangsters Act attaching two houses of the appellant the order dated 29.12.2008 passed by District Magistrate, Mau by which the application under section 15(1)(2) of the Gangster Act has been rejected and the order dated 17.3.2009 passed by learned Special Judge (Gangster Act), Additional Sessions Judge, Azamgarh in Criminal Misc. Application No. 2 of 2009 are illegal, the same are hereby set aside and the District Magistrate, Mau is hereby directed to release both the houses No. 204-D/8 and 205-D/9 situated in Mohalla Chandmari, Imiliyan, P.S. Sarai Lak-hansi, District Mau in favour of the appellant forthwith."

18. Further, another Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Shanti Devi wife of Sri Ram versus State of U.P. 2007(2) ALJ 483 (All) in paras-9, 10 and 11 has been pleased to held as under:-

"9. The conjoint reading of these sections shows that first it has to be proved that gangster or any person on his behalf is or has been in possession of the property, and such property has been acquired by the commission of any offence triable under this Act, only then the District Magistrate acquires jurisdiction to proceed in the matter and to attach the property. Only when the initial burden is discharged, the onus shifts to the gangster or such person, to account for the same satisfactorily. But if it is found that the concerned person was not a gangster and did not acquire the property in commission of any offence triable under this Act, it has to be released as provided in Section 17. In other words the initial burden is on the prosecution to show that the concerned person is a gangster and has acquired property on account of his criminal activity as triable under the Act.

10. Therefore, in order to proceed under section 14 there must be materials for objective determination of the District Magistrate that the person is either a member, leader or organiser of a gang and has acquired any property in commission of any offence under the Act. There must be a nexus between his criminal acts as enumerated therein and the property acquired by him. His mere involvement in any offence is not sufficient to attach his property. In other words what is necessary to find is whether, his acquisition of property was a result of commission of any offence enumerated in the Act being a member, leader or organiser of a gang. One might have committed several offences but if the property acquired by him was with the aid of his earning from legal resources no action under Section 14 of the Act can be taken against him.

11. In the case of Badan Singh alias Baddo v. State of U.P., 2002 Cri LJ 1392 : 2001 All LJ 2852 it has been held by this Court that Section 14 of the Act is a harsh provision that affects one's right to property, which is a fundamental right under the Constitution. Therefore, initial burden was upon the State to satisfy the District Magistrate with necessary materials that a gangster acquired the properties as a result of commission of any offence. It has also been held in this case that the Act does not provide that the aggrived person seeking release of the properties from attachment must prove the source of income for acquisition thereof."

19. Further, another Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Rajbir Singh Tyagi Vs State of U.P. and Others 2018 SCC Online AII 5986 in paras 16 and 18 has been pleased to held as under:-

" 16. A conjoint reading of the aforesaid two definitions what appears is that for taking action under Section 14 against a person, there must be materials for objective determination of the District

Magistrate that he either as a member, leader or organizer of a gang acquired any property as a result of commission of any offence under the Act. There must be nexus between his criminal act and the property acquired by him. His mere involvement in any offence is not sufficient to attach his property. In other words, what is necessary to find is whether his acquisition of property was as a result of commission of any offence enumerated in the Act being a member, leader or organizer of a gang. One might have committed several offences, but if the property acquired by him was with the aid of his earning from legal source, no action under Section 14 of the Act can be taken against him.

18. Section 14 of the Act is a harsh provision that affects one's right to property which is a constitutional right under the Constitution. Therefore, initial burden was upon the State to satisfy the District Magistrate with necessary materials that petitioner Rajbir Singh Tyagi being a gangster acquired the properties as a result of commission of any offence. That was however, not done. So, complaining the attachment order to be illegal, a move was made by the petitioners by filing a representation for release of the properties. The said prayer was rejected with the observation that the petitioners could not establish the source of income to build the house and acquire the movables. This approach of the District Magistrate, in my opinion, has no sanction under law. The Act does not provide that-aggrieved person seeking release of the properties from attachment must prove the source of income for acquisition thereof. So, on a conspectus of the relevant provisions of the Act, I am of the considered opinion that the order of attachment passed by the District Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar is illegal, arbitrary and against the weight of the materials on record."

19. Keeping in view the aforesaid settled proposition of law and the judgments rendered by this Court in the case of Smt. Maina Devi versus State of U.P. 2013(83) ACC 902 and Smt. Shanti Devi wife of Sri Ram versus State of U.P. 2007(2) ALJ 483 (All), and Rajbir Singh Tyagi Vs State of U.P. and Others 2018 SCC Online AII 5986, this Court is of the view that the properties, which were attached, were acquired by the appellant with the aid of his earning from legal resources and not by commission of any offence triable under the Act as it is settled law that the properties being made subject matter of attachment under Section 14 of the Act must have been acquired by a gangster and that too by commission of an offence triable under the Act and also the impugned orders were not passed on reasons which are relevant and material. In the present case from the perusal of the impugned order dated 15.03.2021 and record it appears that only on the basis of the police report, the District Magistrate has attached the property in question, no material was supplied to the District Magistrate to have reasons to believe that the property in question was acquired by the gangster the present appellant as a result of commission of any offence triable under this Act. It vitiates the subjective satisfaction of the District Magistrate also from the record. It appears that the District Magistrate has no material in support of the police report that the property in question was acquired by the present appellant being gangster even though the proceedings were not followed as per the provisions of the Act. It appears that the appellant was having enough source of income from his farming, milk distribution as well as fisheries and even the properties were acquired by the appellant much prior to the registration of criminal cases and imposition of Gangster Act, which was invoked in the year 2020 and the impugned order of attachment was passed in mechanical manner without application of mind and is arbitrary. Thus the impugned orders dated 23.09.2020 and 15.03.2021 passed by the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar and the impugned order dated 18.10.2022 passed by the Court of Special Judge, Gangster Act Ambedkar Nagar in Misc. Case No. 153/2021 CNR No. UPAN0100116872021: State of U.P. Vs. Nabi Sarvar are illegal and the same are liable to be quashed.

20. In view of above facts and circumstances of the case, the impugned orders passed by the trial court cannot be said to be passed in correct perspectives as they are not sustainable in the eye of law and require interference by this Court, the prosecution has failed to establish that the provisions of Sections 2 and 3 of the Gangster Act are attracted in the case of appellant, and further the appellant's property is also not attached in accordance with law, as the prosecution has failed to establish that the property in question acquired and owned by the appellant has been earned from the income indulging in anti social activities. The enquiry under Section 16 was not done in accordance with the Act, the provisions of Sections 14, 15 & 17 were also not followed in accordance with the Act, thus the entire proceeding initiated in pursuance thereof is vitiated.

21. Accordingly, the present appeal is allowed. The impugned order dated 23.09.2020 and order dated 15.03.2021 passed by the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar in Criminal Misc Case No. 648 of 2020, arising out of F.I.R./Case Crime No. 393 of 2020, under Section 3 (1) U.P. Gangster Act, 1986, Police Station Akbarpur, District Ambedkar Nagar and order dated 18.10.2022 passed by the Court of Special Judge, Gangster Act Ambedkar Nagar in Misc. Case No. 153/2021 CNR No. UPAN0100116872021: State of U.P. Vs. Nabi Sarvar are hereby quashed.

The District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar is directed to release all the properties of the appellant attached vide order dated 23.09.2020 in favour of appellant, forthwith.

No order as to costs.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1427
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 02.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAM MANOHAR NARAYAN MISHRA, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 6549 of 2018

Satyapal & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Murtaza Ali, Sri Gufran Ahmad Khan, Sri Imtiyaj Ali, Sri Sadrul Islam Jafri, Sri N.I. Jafri (Sr. Advocate)

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 - Sections 8, 15(c), 42 & 52A - Appellants challenged conviction and sentence of 10 years rigorous imprisonment and Rs.1,50,000 fine under Section 8/15(c) NDPS Act for possession and transportation of 43 quintals and 30 kg of poppy straw. Court held: (1) Non-compliance with mandatory provisions of Section 52A, as samples were not drawn in the presence of a Magistrate, and inventory was not certified, rendering samples invalid as primary evidence. (2) Bulk contraband (43 quintals and 30 kg) not produced during trial or remand, reportedly destroyed due to rain, without following Section 52A disposal procedures, leading to a negative inference under Section 114(g) of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. (3) Non-compliance with Section 42, as secret information was not recorded or reported to superiors, further vitiating the prosecution case. (4) Lack of evidence on the number of sacks, sealing, and proper sampling raised doubts about the recovery's authenticity. Conviction set aside due to failure to produce primary evidence and procedural lapses; appellants acquitted; appeal allowed. (Mangilal Vs St. of M.P., Criminal Appeal No. 1651 of 2023; U.O.I. Vs Jarooparam, (2018) 4 SCC 334; Noor Aga Vs St. of Punj., (2008) 16 SCC 417; Jitendra Vs St. of M.P., (2004) 10 SCC 562; Gorakh Nath Prasad Vs St. of Bihar, AIR 2018 SC 704). (Paras 19-33)

Appeal Allowed.

Case Law Cited:

1. Mangilal Vs St. of M.P., Criminal Appeal No. 1651 of 2023 (Para 20)

2. U.O.I. Vs Jarooparam, (2018) 4 SCC 334 (Para 21)

3. Noor Aga Vs St. of Punj., (2008) 16 SCC 417 (Para 20)

4. Jitendra Vs St. of M.P., (2004) 10 SCC 562 (Para 20, 24)

5. Gorakh Nath Prasad Vs St. of Bihar, AIR 2018 SC 704 (Para 23)

6. Kishan Chand Vs St. of Har., AIR 2013 SC 357 (Para 22)

7. Mohd. Idris and another Vs St. of U.P., 2017 0 Supreme (All) 1327 (Para 10)

8. Javed A. Bhat Vs U.O.I., 2007 Cr.LJ 3145 (Bom) (Para 10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. The instant Criminal Appeal has been preferred by the accused/convict Satyapal and Saifuddin Urf Sheruddin who are convicted and sentenced on 02.10.2018 for charge under Section 8/15-(C) NDPS Act, Case No.39 of 2018 (State of U.P. Vs. Satyapal and other) arising out of Case Crime No.994 of 2004, Police Station Kotwali, District Bareilly by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.30 Bareilly and sentenced to 10 years rigorous imprisonment and Rs.1,50,000/- fine with a default stipulation. Another co-accused Pappu died during trial and the case was abated in respect of him due to his death.

2. Heard Sri N.I. Jafri, learned senior counsel assisted by Sri Sadrul Islam Jafri, learned counsel for the appellant and learned AGA for the State and perused the material available on record.

3. The brief facts of the case, leading to filing of present Criminal Appeal are that on 03.05.2004 PW1 S.S.I. Jagdish Kumar Arora accompanied by SI Siddhartha Mishra and SI Subhash Tiwari (PW2) two constables came to Chowki Crossing P.S. Kotwali, Bareilly in connection with their official duty on 03.05.2004. They inspected the Truck Bearing Registration No.DL-1 GA-6583 on a tip off received from a secret informer around 11:20 am. Prior to this they tried to enjoin public witnesses amongst passersby but they refused to stand as a witness. The truck driver disclosed his name as Saifuddin Urf Sheruddin and admitted that in that truck Poppy straw (doda) was loaded which belonged to businessmen Pappu and Satyapal, who were sitting on sacks keeping in the truck. These two persons have collected Poppys Straw near Bhamaura area and were taking this contraband to Bahedi District Bareilly to sell. The two persons were found to be sitting on sacks in the truck were asked to get down, who disclosed their name as Pappu and Satyapal, and on interrogation they confessed that they had collected these Poppy's Straw from Bhamaura, Awlan and Aliganj area and were taking it to sell in Bahedi, district Bareilly. They are engaged in trade of Poppy's Straw. The three persons caught by police were offered an option by Investigating Officer, that if they wish, their search may be conducted in presence of competent Magistrate or Gazetted Officer, they can even be called on the spot, whereupon the concerned persons reposed their faith in arresting officer, and stated that there is no need to call any other officer, they repose their faith in police team present on the spot, and they may be searched out by them. Thereupon , the police team search the plastic sacks loaded on the truck which found to be having Poppys Straw on smell. The truck was seized and all three persons caught from the truck were taken into police custody. The truck alongwith sacks containing the contraband was sent for weighing at nearby Jaiswal Dharamkata Shahjahanpur, Bareilly alongwith truck driver Saifuddin Urf Sheruddin; they were accompanied by two Police Officers, for being weighted at said Dharamkata. The total weight of contraband was found to be 43 quintal and 30 Kg. and weight of truck and contraband was recorded in receipt dated 03.05.2004, which was annexed with recovery memo. 5Kg sample was taken from the sack of recovered Poppy's Straw (doda powder), and it was kept and sealed in a cloth, as the concerned persons could not produce any authority for having such huge quantity of Poppy's Straw with them, they were arrested after disclosure of reasons of arrest at around 12:15 hours on 03.05.2004 in presence of police witnesses. Recovery memo was prepared on the spot and FIR was lodged at P.S. concerned at 15:30 hours on the basis of recovery memo prepared by SSI Jagdish Kumar Arora, which bears signature of other members of police team and thumb impression of arrested accused persons. The sample was taken on the spot from one sack containing Poppy straw and sent for chemical examination at Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra which was found as pieces of doda opium in chemical examination report submitted by Joint Director FSL to the Special Judge NDPS Act bearing dated 08.06.2004. The investigation of the case was carried out by S.I. Harveer Singh, P.S. Kotwali, Bareilly who recorded statements of the witnesses, prepared site plan of the place of incident and after collection of evidence filed chargesheet against three arrested accused persons under Section 8/15 NDPS Act, before the court of Special Judge with payer to prosecuted them.

4. Before commencement of prayer accused Pappu died and trial in respect of him was abated vide order dated 07.03.2014.

5. Learned Additional Session Judge, Court No.8, Bareilly framed charge under Section 8/15(C) NDPS Act against surviving accused Satyapal and Saifuddin Urf Sheruddin on 21.04.2007.

6. Prosecution examined PW1 Jagdish Kumar Arora, the search and arresting officer who proved recovery memo in his own signature and in hand-writing of his colleague Sidharth Mishra as Ex. Ka1 in his evidence. PW2 SI Subhash Tiwari was also examined as witness of search, recovery and arrest and he acknowledged his signature on recovery memo Ka1. 5Kg Opium Poppy was taken from one sack as sample and sent for chemical examination at FSL Agra was produced before the court during evidence of PW2 who proved the plastic sack containing 5 Kg of Opium Poppy taken as sample as material Exhibit ME1 and contents of sample of Poppy straw as ME2. He also corroborated the evidence of PW1 in regard to search, seizure and arrest PW3 SI Harveer Singh who is Investigating Officer of the said case who proved site plan of the place of arrest and recovery as Exb. Ka2 and chargesheet submitted by him against the accused persons as Exb. Ka3 by his evidence. The statement of accused appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. after conclusion of prosecution evidence. The accused persons declined to adduce any defence evidence, their defence is of denial and false implication.

7. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that they were falsely implicated in the case, they were enlarged on bail during trial by the orders of this Court. The entire action of search and seizure is wholly illegal.

8. He further submitted that the judgment of the trial court, whereby the appellants were convicted and sentenced, is vitiated by legal and factual errors committed by the learned trial court in appreciation of evidence on record. There is no cogent and plausible evidence on record, which is sufficient for recording conviction of the appellants. Infact, prosecution failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. Inasmuch as the bulk of case property was not produced during trial as material exhibit and only 5kg sample which was allegedly taken on the spot from one sack of Poppy straw (Doda) and sent for chemical examination to FSL was only produced during evidence of PW2. In absence of production of bulk of case property before the Court, link evidence, which is very relevant in cases based on recovery of contraband is missing in the case. There is total non-compliance of Sections 57, 42(2) and particularly Section 52(A) of NDPS Act,1985 which is held as mandatory in recent pronouncements of Hon'ble Apex Court. Even number of sacks containing Poppy straw is neither mentioned in recovery memo nor in statement of the witnesses. The truck owner was not made accused during investigation which also raises suspicion in case set up by the police. The accused persons have denied the recovery of contraband from their possession from very beginning and in the absence of production of case property during remand proceedings as well as during trial, it cannot be discerned that such huge quantity of contraband was recovered from the possession of the appellants. The appellants have stated in their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. before the trial court that in the truck polish of rice was loaded and not Doda Poppy. The truck mistakenly entered into no entry zone. The appellants were not in conscious position of any contraband what so ever, and they were falsely implicated by the police. The truck in which alleged contraband was being transported, was released in favour of its registered owner Anis vide order dated 28.10.2004 passed by this Court subject to certain conditions. The search and seizure operation was conducted in violation of the mandatory provisions of Section 52A of the Act as the procedure prescribed therein was not followed in drawing the samples and seizing the alleged contraband. Further there is a serious doubt about the correctness of samples for analysis as to whether they were actually the samples of seized contraband.

9. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State submitted that there is no infirmity or legal and factual error in the impugned judgment and order passed by learned court below. The prosecution has successfully proved its case against the appellants during trial by legal evidence. The appellants were found to have transported 43 quintal and 30 Kg contraband i.e. Opium Poppy with a truck driven by accused Saifuddin Urf Sheruddin, appellant Satyapal and deceased accused Pappu were found to be sitting on sacks contained Doda Poppy in said truck. It is neither possible nor natural on the part of the police officer who were performing their official duty to plant such huge quantity of contraband against the appellants. The contraband could not be produced before the trial court as the same was disposed of under the provisions of Section 52-A of NDPS Act, which provides for disposal of seized Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances. The appeal is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed.

10. Learned counsel for the appellants placed reliance on judgment of Hon'ble of this Court in Mohd. Idris and another Vs. State of U.P., 2017 0 Supreme (All) 1327, Kishan Chand vs State Of Haryana AIR 2013 (SC) 357, Gorakh Nath Prasad Vs. State of Bihar AIR 2018 (SC) 704, Javed A. Bhat Vs. Union of India, 2007 Cr.LJ, 3145 (Bom) in support of his submissions.

11. Let us examine the statutory provision relevant to present Section 8 of N.D.P.S. Act, 1985 reads as under:-

"8. Prohibition of certain operations.—No person shall—

(a) cultivate any coca plant or gather any portion of coca plant; or

(b) cultivate the opium poppy or any cannabis plant; or

(c) produce, manufacture, possess, sell, purchase, transport, warehouse, use, consume, import inter-State, export inter-State, import into India, export from India or tranship any narcotic drug or psychotropic substance, except for medical or scientific purposes and in the manner and to the extent provided by the provisions of this Act or the rules or orders made thereunder and in a case where any such provision, imposes any requirement by way of licence, permit or authorisation also in accordance with the terms and conditions of such licence, permit or authorisation:

Provided that, and subject to the other provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder, the prohibition against the cultivation of the cannabis plant for the production of ganja or the production, possession, use, consumption, purchase, sale, transport, warehousing, import inter-State and export inter-State of ganja for any purpose other than medical and scientific purpose shall take effect only from the date which the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify in this behalf:

[Provided further that nothing in this section shall apply to the export of poppy straw for decorative purposes.]"

12. Section 15 of N.D.P.S. Act of 1985 is reproduced as under:-

"[15. Punishment for contravention in relation to poppy straw.—Whoever, in contravention of any provisions of this Act or any rule or order made or condition of a licence granted thereunder, produces, possesses, transports, imports inter-State, exports inter-State, sells, purchases, uses or omits to warehouse poppy straw or removes or does any act in respect of warehoused poppy straw shall be punishable,—

(a) where the contravention involves small quantity, with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to 2 [one year], or with fine which may extend to ten thousand rupees, or with both;

(b) where the contravention involves quantity lesser than commercial quantity but greater than small quantity, with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to ten years, and with fine which may extend to one lakh rupees;

(c) where the contravention involves commercial quantity, with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than ten years but which may extend to twenty years, and shall also be liable to fine which shall not be less than one lakh rupees but which may extend to two lakh rupees:

Provided that the court may, for reasons to be recorded in the judgment, impose a fine exceeding two lakh rupees."

13. The notification of Central Government with regard to quantity of contraband which may be recovered a small, commercial or intermediate quantity for the purposes of Section 15 are specified vide S.O. 1055 (E) dated 19.10.2001 published in the Gazette of India Extra. dated 19.10.2001 in this schedule the quantity of different kind of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 for purposes of specifying the same in said quantity is provided by said notification in a table at the end of the Act of 1985 as amended by the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substance (amendment) 2001. In this table at Serial No.110 it is provided that accordingly 1 Kg of Poppy straw is comes within 1Kg Poppy's Straw comes under small quantity and 50Kg under commercial quantity. Therefore, Poppy straw more than 1 Kg and less than 50 Kg will be considered as intermediate quantity for the purposes of Section 15 of the Act which provides for punishment according to quality of contraband involved in the case. In the present case, the quantity of Poppy straw is shown as 43 quintal 30 Kg which apparently comes under commercial quantity.

14. In the present case, the charge against the appellants is that 43 quintal and 30 Kg of illegal opium powder, recovered from joint possession of the appellants who were travelling in a truck and contraband was found to be loaded in the truck on the date of search, seizure, recovery and arrest. All the sacks from which contraband was recovered were loaded in the truck according to prosecution version and 5 Kg sample was taken out from one of the sacks on the spot. The contraband was weighted in a nearby Dharamkata and for that purpose a truck was sent to Dharamkata when the raiding team intercepted the truck and was apprised that illegal Poppy's Straw in huge quantity was loaded in the truck.

15. PW3 Inspector Harveer Singh CB CID stated in his evidence that he received FSL report from the office of Police Station on 20.06.2004 and transcribed its content in the case diary. Police Team left the police station at 11:20 hours on the date of incident by making an entry in G.D. vide Rapat No.27. The docket was prepared from the court, where jurisdiction of NDPS Act case was entrusted and for that purpose sample was brought from the police station. He had send the sample for FSL examination after receiving the same from Thana Malkhana. The docket was sent for chemical analysis through constable 414 Brijesh Mishra. He has not taken any action in respect of Section 52-A of NDPS Act. PW2 had produced the sample for doda powder (Poppy's Straw) which was sent for chemical analysis to FSL, Agra in sealed cover which was opened before the Court. This is admitted fact that except sample taken from one of the sacks containing Poppy's Straw seized in the case and send for chemical analysis to FSL was produced before the court during the evidence of PW2, but entire case property was never produced before the Court either at the time of seeking judicial remand of the accused persons or during trial.

16. PW3 Inspector Harveer Singh has proved the FSL report as Ka4 during his evidence. He also proved the copy of Chick FIR prepared by Constable Kripal Giri related to Crime No.994 of 2004, in the absence of its author and stated that he was posted with Constable Harveer Singh at relevant time. He also stated that said constable Harveer Singh has transcribed the copy of recovery memo on the back of chick FIR word to word. He also proved copies of general diary of registration of case while GD No.34 time 15:30 hours dated 03.05.2004. The Chick FIR is exhibited as Ka5, and copy of GD of registration of Case as Ex.Ka7. He also produced a copy of report of SSP Office, in which it is stated that Original GD of Registration of Case dated 03.05.2004 has been weeded out.

17. The appellants are presently held in jail custody since 20.10.2018. There is a report in the record of trial court submitted by S.H.O. Kotwali, Bareilly bearing dated 10.08.2018, in which it is stated that according to Malkhana Register of 2014, 43 quintal and 30 Kg doda related to Case Crime No.994 of 2004, under Section 8/15-C of NDPS Act, which was loaded in the truck got rotten due to rain and an entry in this regard has been made in G.D. Report No.54 dated 15.11.2004. Although there is an over writing in date of report of GD, as well as GD number and date of GD.

18. From this report it is obvious that contraband could not be produced before the court below on account of being destroyed to to rain, since the same was kept in Malkhana; after getting this report, the trial court took strong objection to this state of affair, and he had written a letter to the Director General of Police, Lucknow apprising him of the fact that the case property in the case was not produced before the court and a brief report has been filed by concerned Police Official that same has been destroyed, whereas it was kept in the Malkhana. Therefore, this reveals that the slackness and negligence on the part of concerned police officials with regard to upkeep of case property, he shall issue directions to various officers facing responsibility including concerned Investigating Officer/Station House Officer or any other person with regard to destruction of case property during the pendency of appeal.

19. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mangilal Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh in similar case while deciding the appeal against conviction and sentencing for charge under Section 8(b) read with Section 15-C of NDPS, Act in Criminal Appeal No.1651 of 2023 Mangilal Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh considering scope of Section 52-A of NDPS, Act, which reads as under:-

SCOPE OF SECTION 52A OF THE NDPS ACT, 1985:

Section 52A of the NDPS Act

[52A. Disposal of seized narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances.-

(1) The Central Government may, having regard to the hazardous nature, vulnerability to theft, substitution, constraint of proper storage space or any other relevant consideration, in respect of any narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances, controlled substances or conveyances, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify such narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances, controlled substances or conveyance or class of narcotic drugs, class of psychotropic substances, class of controlled substances or conveyances, which shall, as soon as may be after their seizure, be disposed of by such officer and in such manner as that Government may, from time to time, determine after following the procedure hereinafter specified.

(2) Where any [narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances, controlled substances or conveyances] has been seized and forwarded to the officer-in-charge of the nearest police station or to the officer empowered under section 53, the officer referred to in sub-section (1) shall prepare an inventory of such [narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances, controlled substances or conveyances] containing such details relating to their description, quality, quantity, mode of packing, marks, numbers or such other identifying particulars of the[narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances, controlled substances] or conveyances or the packing in which they are packed, country of origin and other particulars as the officer referred to in sub-section (1) may consider relevant to the identity of the [narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances, controlled substances or conveyances] in any proceedings under this Act and make an application, to any Magistrate for the purpose of--

(a) certifying the correctness of the inventory so prepared; or

(b) taking, in the presence of such magistrate, photographs of 4[such drugs, substances or conveyances] and certifying such photographs as true; or

(c) allowing to draw representative samples of such drugs or substances, in the presence of such magistrate and certifying the correctness of any list of samples so drawn.

(3) Where an application is made under sub-section (2), the Magistrate shall, as soon as may be, allow the application.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1972) or the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), every court trying an offence under this Act, shall treat the innventory, the photographs of [narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances, controlled substances or conveyances] and any list of samples drawn under sub-section (2) and certified by the Magistrate, as primary evidence in respect of such offence."

20. Hon'ble Supreme Court observed in Mangilal Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (supra) as follows:-

"4. Sub-section (1) of Section 52A of the NDPS Act facilitates the Central Government a mode to be prescribed to dispose of the seized narcotic substance. The idea is to create a clear mechanism for such disposal both for the purpose of dealing with the particular case and to safeguard the contraband being used for any illegal purpose thereafter.

5. Sub-section (2) of Section 52A of the NDPS Act mandates a competent officer to prepare an inventory of such narcotic drugs with adequate particulars. This has to be followed through an appropriate application to the Magistrate concerned for the purpose of certifying the correctness of inventory, taking relevant photographs in his presence and certifying them as true or taking drawal of samples in his presence with due certification. Such an application can be filed for anyone of the aforesaid three purposes. The objective behind this provision is to have an element of supervision by the magistrate over the disposal of seized contraband. Such inventories, photographs and list of samples drawn with certification by Magistrates would constitute as a primary evidence. Therefore, when there is non-compliance of Section 52A of the NDPS Act, where a certification of a magistrate is lacking any inventory, photograph or list of samples would not constitute primary evidence.

6. The obvious reason behind this provision is to inject fair play in the process of investigation. Section 52A of the NDPS Act is a mandatory rule of evidence which requires the physical presence of a Magistrate followed by an order facilitating his approval either for certifying an inventory or for a photograph taken apart from list of samples drawn. In due compliance of Section 52A(1) of the NDPS Act the Ministry of Finance (Department of Revenue) issued a Notification No. G.S.R. 339(E) dated 5 10.05.2007 which furnishes an exhaustive manner and mode of disposal of drugs ending with a certificate of destruction:

"4. Manner of disposal

1) Where any narcotic drug or psychotropic substances has been seized and forwarded to the officer-in-charge of the nearest police station or to the officer empowered under section 53, of the Act, or if it is seized by such an officer himself, he shall prepare an inventory of such narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances as per Annexure 1 to this notification and apply to any Magistrate under sub-section (2) of section 52A as per Annexure 2 to this notification.

2) After the Magistrate allows the application under sub-section (3) of section 52A, the officer mentioned in clause (1) above shall preserve the certified inventory, photographs and samples drawn in the presence of the Magistrate as primary evidence for the case and submit details of the drug consignments to the Chairman of the Drug Disposal Committee for a decision by the committee on the disposal. The officer shall send a copy of the details along with the drug consignments to the officer-in-charge of the godown.

XXX XXX XXX

4.2 Mode of disposal of drugs. (i) Opium, morphine, codeine and thebaine shall be disposed of by transferring to the Government Opium and Alkaloid Works under the Chief Controller of Factories. (ii) In case of drugs other than the drugs mentioned in clause (i), the Chief Controller of Factories shall be intimated by the fastest means of communication available, details of drug consignments that are ready for disposal. (iii) The Chief Controller of Factories shall indicate within 15 days of the date of receipt of the communication, the quantities of drugs, if any, that are required by him to supply as samples under Rule 67B. (iv) Such quantities of drugs, if any, as required by the Chief Controller of Factories under clause (iii) shall be transferred to him and the remaining quantities of drugs shall be destroyed as per the procedure outlined in para 4.1.2. (v) Destruction shall be by incineration in incinerators fitted with appropriate air pollution control devices, which comply with emission standards. Such incineration may only be done in places where adequate facilities and security arrangements exist. In order to ensure that such incineration may not be a health hazard or polluting, consent of the State Pollution Control Board or Pollution Control Committee, as the case may be, should be obtained. Destruction shall be carried out at the presence of the Members of the Drug Disposal Committee.

XXX XXX XXX

4.4 Certificate of destruction. A certificate of destruction (in triplicate) containing all the relevant data like godown entry number, gross and net weight of the drugs seized, etc., shall be prepared and signed by the chairman and members of the Drug Disposal Committee as per format at Annexure 3. The original copy shall be pasted in the godown register after making necessary entries to this effect, the duplicate to be retained in the seizure case file and the triplicate copy will be kept by the Drug Disposal Committee. Details of disposal of drugs shall be reported to the Narcotics Control Bureau in the Monthly Master Reports."

7. To be noted, the aforesaid notification was in existence at the time of the commission of the offence alleged in the case on hand, stood repealed with effect from 23.12.2022 vide Notification No. G.S.R.899(E). In any case a notification issued in derogation of the powers conferred under sub-section (1) of Section 52A of the NDPS Act can never contradict the main provision, particularly sub-Section (2). However, any guideline issued by way of a notification in consonance with Section 52A of the NDPS Act has to be followed mandatorily.

8. Before any proposed disposal/destruction mandate of Section 52A of the NPDS Act requires to be duly complied with starting with an application to that effect. A Court should be satisfied with such compliance while deciding the case. The onus is entirely on the prosecution in a given case to satisfy the Court when such an issue arises for consideration. Production of seized material is a factor to establish seizure followed by recovery. One has to remember that the provisions of the NDPS Act are both stringent and rigorous and therefore the burden heavily lies on the prosecution. Non-production of a physical evidence would lead to a negative inference within the meaning of Section 114(g) of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter referred to as the Evidence Act). The procedure contemplated through the notification has an element of fair play such as the deposit of the seal, numbering the containers in seriatimwise and keeping them in lots preceded by compliance of the procedure for drawing samples. The afore-stated principles of law are dealt with in extenso in Noor Aga v. State of Punjab, (2008) 16 SCC 417:

"89. Guidelines issued should not only be substantially complied with, but also in a case involving penal proceedings, vis-à-vis a departmental proceeding, rigours of such guidelines may be insisted upon. Another important factor which must be borne in mind is as to whether such directions have been issued in terms of the provisions of the statute or not. When directions are issued by an authority having the legal sanction granted therefor, it becomes obligatory on the part of the subordinate authorities to comply therewith.

90. Recently, this Court in State of Kerala v. Kurian Abraham (P) Ltd. [(2008) 3 SCC 582] , following the earlier decision of this Court in Union of India v. Azadi Bachao Andolan [(2004) 10 SCC 1] held that statutory instructions are mandatory in nature.

91. The logical corollary of these discussions is that the guidelines such as those present in the Standing Order cannot be blatantly flouted and substantial compliance therewith must be insisted upon for so that sanctity of physical evidence in such cases remains intact. Clearly, there has been no substantial compliance with these guidelines by the investigating authority which leads to drawing of an adverse inference against them to the effect that had such evidence been produced, the same would have gone against the prosecution.

92. Omission on the part of the prosecution to produce evidence in this behalf must be linked with a second important piece of physical evidence that the bulk quantity of heroin allegedly recovered indisputably has also not been produced in court. The respondents contended that the same had been destroyed. However, on what authority it was done is not clear. Law requires that such an authority must flow from an order passed by the Magistrate. Such an order whereupon reliance has been placed is Exhibit PJ; on a bare perusal whereof, it is apparent that at no point of time had any prayer been made for destruction of the said goods or disposal thereof otherwise. What was necessary was a certificate envisaged under Section 110(1-B) of the 1962 Act. An order was required to be passed under the aforementioned provision providing for authentication, inventory, etc. The same does not contain within its mandate any direction as regards destruction.

XXX XXX XXX

95. The High Court proceeded on the basis that non-production of physical evidence is not fatal to the prosecution case but the fact remains that a cumulative view with respect to the discrepancies in physical evidence creates an overarching inference which dents the credibility of the prosecution. Even for the said purpose the retracted confession on the part of the accused could not have been taken recourse to.

96. Last but not the least, physical evidence relating to three samples taken from the bulk amount of heroin was also not produced. Even if it is accepted for the sake of argument that the bulk quantity was destroyed, the samples were essential to be produced and proved as primary evidence for the purpose of establishing the fact of recovery of heroin as envisaged under Section 52-A of the Act.

XXX XXX XXX

100. Physical evidence of a case of this nature being the property of the court should have been treated to be sacrosanct. Non-production thereof would warrant drawing of a negative inference within the meaning of Section 114(g) of the Evidence Act. While there are such a large number of discrepancies, if a cumulative effect thereto is taken into consideration on the basis whereof the permissive inference would be that serious doubts are created with respect to the prosecution's endeavour to prove the fact of possession of contraband by the appellant. This aspect of the matter has been considered by this Court in Jitendra v. State of M.P. [(2004) 10 SCC 562 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 2028] in the following terms: (SCC p. 565, para 6)

"6. ... In the trial it was necessary for the prosecution to establish by cogent evidence that the alleged quantities of charas and ganja were seized from the possession of the accused. The best evidence would have been the seized materials which ought to have been produced during the trial and marked as material objects. There is no explanation for this failure to produce them. Mere oral evidence as to their features and production of panchnama does not discharge the heavy burden which lies on the prosecution, particularly where the offence is punishable with a stringent sentence as under the NDPS Act.""

9. On the issue of seizure in the presence of Magistrate, we wish to place reliance upon the decision of this Court in Union of India v. Mohanlal, (2016) 3 SCC 379:

"16. Sub-section (3) of Section 52-A requires that the Magistrate shall as soon as may be allow the application. This implies that no sooner the seizure is effected and the contraband forwarded to the officer-in-charge of the police station or the officer empowered, the officer concerned is in law duty-bound to approach the Magistrate for the purposes mentioned above including grant of permission to draw representative samples in his presence, which samples will then be enlisted and the correctness of the list of samples so drawn certified by the Magistrate. In other words, the process of drawing of samples has to be in the presence and under the supervision of the Magistrate and the entire exercise has to be certified by him to be correct. 17. The question of drawing of samples at the time of seizure which, more often than not, takes place in the absence of the Magistrate does not in the above scheme of things arise. This is so especially when according to Section 52-A(4) of the Act, samples drawn and certified by the Magistrate in compliance with sub-sections (2) and (3) of Section 52-A above constitute primary evidence for the purpose of the trial. Suffice it to say that there is no provision in the Act that mandates taking of samples at the time of seizure. That is perhaps why none of the States claim to be taking samples at the time of seizure. 18. Be that as it may, a conflict between the statutory provision governing taking of samples and the Standing Order issued by the Central Government is evident when the two are placed in juxtaposition. There is no gainsaid that such a conflict shall have to be resolved in favour of the statute on first principles of interpretation but the continuance of the statutory notification in its present form is bound to create confusion in the minds of the authorities concerned instead of helping them in the discharge of their duties. The Central Government would, therefore, do well, to re-examine the matter and take suitable steps in the above direction."

21. On Section 52A of the NDPS Act, this Court in Union of India v. Jarooparam, (2018) 4 SCC 334 has held as follows:

"8. What transpires from the abovequoted paragraph is that after taking out two samples of 30 gm each, the Executive Magistrate returned the entire remaining seized property to the investigating officer PW 6. To further ascertain the same, we have also carefully perused the exact content of the proceedings dated 14-10-2004 (Annexure P-5) recorded by the Executive Magistrate, Singoli Tappa. The proceedings recorded as far as the respondent herein is concerned, read thus: Proceedings 14-10-2004:

Proceedings

Case submitted. Shri Harvinder Singh, Inspector (Investigating Officer), Narcotics Bureau, Singoli has submitted three sealed packets of seized stuff in Crime No. 1 of 2004 under Sections 8/18 and 8/29 of the NDPS Act, 1985. These packets were marked A, B and C and the details are given as under: 1-A: On the packet marked "A" it was indicated that packet contains 7.200 kg opium seized from Jaroopram, s/o

Ganga Ram Bishnoi. On opening the packet, transparent polythene bag was found, in which again two polythene packets were found. One polythene indicated 4.000 kg and the second one 3.200 kg opium, respectively. A composite sample of 30-30 gm each have been taken from the two packets and kept in a small plastic polythene and marked A-3 and A-4 and sealed. The remaining seized stuff and samples sealed as usual are handed over to the presenting officer Shri Harvinder Singh, Inspector.

9. From the above proceedings, it is crystal clear that the remaining seized stuff was not disposed of by the Executive Magistrate. The contraband stuff as also the samples sealed as usual were handed over physically to the Investigating Officer Harvinder Singh (PW 6). Also the trial court in its judgment specifically passed instructions to preserve the seized property and record of the case in safe custody, as the co-accused Bhanwarlal was absconding. The trial court more specifically instructed to put a note with red ink on the front page of the record for its safe custody. In such a situation, it assumes importance that there was nothing on record to show as to what happened to the remaining bulk quantity of contraband. The absence of proper explanation from the prosecution significantly undermines its case and reduces the evidentiary value of the statements made by the witnesses.

10. Omission on the part of the prosecution to produce the bulk quantity of seized opium would create a doubt in the mind of the Court on the genuineness of the samples drawn and marked as A, B, C, D, E, F from the allegedly seized contraband. However, the simple argument that the same had been destroyed, cannot be accepted as it is not clear that on what authority it was done. Law requires that such an authority must flow from an order passed by the Magistrate. On a bare perusal of the record, it is apparent that at no point of time any prayer had been made by the prosecution for destruction of the said opium or disposal thereof otherwise. The only course of action the prosecution should have resorted to is for its disposal is to obtain an order from the competent court of Magistrate as envisaged under Section 52-A of the Act. It is explicitly made under the Act that as and when such an application is made, the Magistrate may, as soon as may be, allow the application (see also Noor Aga v. State of Punjab, (2008) 16 SCC 417 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 748).

11. There is no denial of the fact that the prosecution has not filed any such application for disposal/destruction of the allegedly seized bulk quantity of contraband material nor was any such order passed by the Magistrate. Even no notice has been given to the accused before such alleged destruction/disposal. It is also pertinent here to mention that the trial court appears to have believed the prosecution story in a haste and awarded conviction to the respondent without warranting the production of bulk quantity of contraband. But, the High Court committed no error in dealing with this aspect of the case and disbelieving the prosecution story by arriving at the conclusion that at the trial, the bulk quantities of contraband were not exhibited to the witnesses at the time of adducing evidence.

22. In Kishan Chand vs State Of Haryana (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as follows:-

15. The learned Trial Court in para 34 of its judgment clearly recorded that admittedly in the present case, the secret information was received against the accused. The Investigation Officer did not reduce the secret information in writing nor did he send the same to the higher officer or to the police station for registration of the case. However, stating that if this was done, there was possibility that the accused escaped, the trial court observed that if the Investigating Officer did not reduce into writing the secret information and sent the same to the superior officer, then in light of the given circumstances, it could not be said that any prejudice was caused to the accused.

16. We are unable to contribute to this interpretation and approach of the Trial Court and the High Court in relation to the provisions of sub- Section (1) and (2) of Section 42 of the Act. The language of Section 42 does not admit any ambiguity. These are penal provisions and prescribe very harsh punishments for the offender. The question of substantial compliance of these provisions would amount to misconstruction of these relevant provisions. It is a settled canon of interpretation that the penal provisions, particularly with harsher punishments and with clear intendment of the legislature for definite compliance, ought to be construed strictly. The doctrine of substantial compliance cannot be called in aid to answer such interpretations. The principle of substantial compliance would be applicable in the cases where the language of the provision strictly or by necessary implication admits of such compliance.

17. In our considered view, this controversy is no more res integra and stands answered by a Constitution Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Karnail Singh (supra). In that judgment, the Court in the very opening paragraph noticed that in the case of Abdul Rashid Ibrahim Mansuri v. State of Gujarat [(2000) 2 SCC 513], a three Judge Bench of the Court had held that compliance of Section 42 of the Act is mandatory and failure to take down the information in writing and sending the report forthwith to the immediate officer superior may cause prejudice to the accused. However, in the case of Sajan Abraham (supra), again a Bench of three Judges, held that this provision is not mandatory and substantial compliance was sufficient. The Court noticed, if there is total non-compliance of the provisions of Section 42 of the Act, it would adversely affect the prosecution case and to that extent, it is mandatory. But, if there is delay, whether it was undue or whether the same was explained or not, will be a question of fact in each case. The Court in paragraph 35 of the judgment held as under:-

35. In conclusion, what is to be noticed is that Abdul Rashid did not require literal compliance with the requirements of Sections 42(1) and 42(2) nor did Sajan Abraham hold that the requirements of Sections 42(1) and 42(2) need not be fulfilled at all. The effect of the two decisions was as follows:

(a) The officer on receiving the information [of the nature referred to in sub-section (1) of Section 42] from any person had to record it in writing in the register concerned and forthwith send a copy to his immediate official superior, before proceeding to take action in terms of clauses (a) to (d) of Section 42(1).

(b) But if the information was received when the officer was not in the police station, but while he was on the move either on patrol duty or otherwise, either by mobile phone, or other means, and the information calls for immediate action and any delay would have resulted in the goods or evidence being removed or destroyed, it would not be feasible or practical to take down in writing the information given to him, in such a situation, he could take action as per clauses (a) to (d) of Section 42(1) and thereafter, as soon as it is practical, record the information in writing and forthwith inform the same to the official superior.

(c) In other words, the compliance with the requirements of Sections 42(1) and 42(2) in regard to writing down the information received and sending a copy thereof to the superior officer, should normally precede the entry, search and seizure by the officer. But in special circumstances involving emergent situations, the recording of the information in writing and sending a copy thereof to the official superior may get postponed by a reasonable period, that is, after the search, entry and seizure. The question is one of urgency and expediency.

(d) While total non-compliance with requirements of subsections (1) and (2) of Section 42 is impermissible, delayed compliance with satisfactory explanation about the delay will be acceptable compliance with Section 42. To illustrate, if any delay may result in the accused escaping or the goods or evidence being destroyed or removed, not recording in writing the information received, before initiating action, or non- sending of a copy of such information to the official superior forthwith, may not be treated as violation of Section 42. But if the information was received when the police officer was in the police station with sufficient time to take action, and if the police officer fails to record in writing the information received, or fails to send a copy thereof, to the official superior, then it will be a suspicious circumstance being a clear violation of Section 42 of the Act. Similarly, where the police officer does not record the information at all, and does not inform the official superior at all, then also it will be a clear violation of Section 42 of the Act. Whether there is adequate or substantial compliance with Section 42 or not is a question of fact to be decided in each case. The above position got strengthened with the amendment to Section 42 by Act 9 of 2001.

23. Reverting to the facts of the present case, we have already noticed that both the Trial Court and the High Court have proceeded on the basis of substantial compliance and there being no prejudice to the accused, though clearly recording that it was an admitted case of total non-compliance. The statement of PW7 puts the matter beyond ambiguity that there was 'total non-compliance of the statutory provisions of Section 42 of the Act'. Once, there is total non-compliance and these provisions being mandatory in nature, the prosecution case must fail.

23. In Gorakh Nath Prasad Vs. State of Bihar (supra) one the main plank of arguments of learned defence counsel was that seized contraband allegedly 59 kg of Ganja was never produced as material exhibit during the trial. Therefore, the benefit of doubt will have to be given to the appellants. The Hon'ble Supreme Court allowed the criminal appeal preferred by the accused/appellant against the judgment of High Court, wherein conviction and sentence awarded to the appellant by Additional Session Judge was affirmed and acquitted the appellant.

24. The Hon'ble Supreme Court while placing reliance on a earlier judgment in Jitendra and another Vs. State of M.P. (2004) 10 SCC 562, observed in paragraph 7 as under:-

"7. In the facts of the present case, the independent witnesses with regard to the search and seizure, PW-2 and PW-3, having turned hostile deposing that their signatures were obtained on blank paper at the police station, the mere fact of a FSL Report (Exhibit 8), being available is no confirmation either of the seizure or that what was seized was Ganja, in absence of the production of the seized item in Court as an exhibit. The non-production of the seized material is therefore considered fatal to the prosecution case. The issue whether there has been compliance with Sections 42 and 50 of the NDPS Act loses its relevance in the facts of the case."

25. On the facts of the case, we find many irregularities which finds no justification what so ever maybe. On perusal of alleged evidence adduced by prosecution witnesses in light of recovery of arrest memo Ex. Ka1. According to prosecution version three accused persons were arrested from the truck loaded by contraband Poppy's Straw (doda) on the date and time of incident. Accused Saifuddin @ Sheruddin who was driver of the truck and other two accused persons were traders, who were staying on sacks loaded on the body of the truck containing contraband Poppy's Straw. This is admitted fact that sample was not taken from the bulk of Poppy's Straw recovered from the joint possession of the accused persons on the spot and not before the Magistrate as provided under Section 52A of the NDPS Act. According to PW1 and PW2 the bulk of the contraband was weighed by sending the same on said truck, by which it was being transported to a nearby Dharamkata, where total weight of contraband was found to be 43 quintal and 30 kg. Out of which 5kg sample was taken from one of the sack and kept in a empty sack. The police witnesses could not disclose, whether the empty sack was kept on seized truck or it was arranged from some other place. This is also mentioned in recovery memo Ex. Ka1 that it was prepared on the spot, where search and seizure was carried out by police team. The signature and thumb impression of the accused persons and signature of the police witnesses is appended on recovery memo Ex. Ka1.

26. The GD Entry of departure of PW1 the search and recovery officer, from police station on the day of search and seizure has not been brought on record. The witnesses have stated that, when they reached at Chowki crossing at around 11:30 am, the secret informer reached there, who informed them about a truck loaded with doda Opium, which was likely to pass. However, PW1 has admitted in his cross-examination that he neither recorded the information nor informed any high police official about this information, resulting in total non-compliance of the mandatory provisions of Section 42 of NDPS Act. He subsequently, informed superior officers about the recovery, but even a copy of that information has not been brought on record. PW1 has stated that after receiving information about the movement of the said truck, he asked passersby to be a witness, but they refused his request due to citing personal reasons. He did not record name of any such person in recovery memo, due to this omission it is difficult to believe that in fact PW1 had asked any passersby to be a witness of imminent police action with regard to search and recovery from said truck.

27. PW1 has stated in his evidence that truck driver was sitting in cabin alone. The contraband was loaded on the truck in plastic sacks, but they were not counted. He was even not able to tell the number of sacks recovered from said truck which contained contraband. Even in recovery memo, number of sacks recovered from the truck is not mentioned. This is prosecution case that truck loaded with contraband was sent for weighing in nearby Dharamkata, which was accompanied by two Sub Inspectors of Police Team from the place of seizure to Dharamkata, and a receipt comprising the weight of truck, and the weight of loaded and empty truck was mentioned therein. PW1 stated that in the said receipt the weight of goods loaded on truck (doda) is shown as 43 quintal and 30 kg, the receipt bears No.3213 dated 35/2004. But this receipt was not exhibited during the evidence of PW1 who produced said receipt. This receipt is mentioned in recovery memo, but PW1 admitted in cross examination that receipt was mutilated and the portion thereof, in which weight and part of truck is missing. The sample was weighed on the spot by bringing a weighing balance machine, but he could not specify the mode and manner of weighing the sample.

28. PW2 is also a witness of search and recovery, who was a member of police team engaged in process of search and seizure. He has corroborated the evidence of PW1 in his evidence before the court and proved the sample taken from bulk of Opium Doda, which was sent for chemical examination at FSL, Agra as material Ex.Ka 2. He has stated that in a bag containing the sample the figure 994/04 is mentioned, which is a crime number. He stated the sample was taken and weighed on the spot. He also admitted that the sacks which was seized from the spot were not sealed and out of seized sacks sample was taken, but he could not specify as to whether the empty sack was procured from where. He could not speak as to what quantity of doda powder was kept in each of the sacks. Thus non sealing and stamping of sacks containing contraband either on spot or thereafter at police station is a major omission in prosecution case. This prosecution case that sample was taken from one of the sacks and not from each one of them. Thus it is difficult to comprehend, as to what was in fact filled up in remaining sacks. Inasmuch, the bulk was never produced before the court, either at the time of remand for judicial custody of the accused persons or during trial.

29. Hon'ble Apex Court in aforementioned judgments, has observed that non production of the bulk before the court during trial and disposal of contraband in violation of mandatory provisions of Section 52A of NDPS Act, is fatal to prosecution case. In the present case the bulk of contraband reportedly got destroyed in Malkhana, due to heavy rain during passage of time. This is nothing, but gross negligence in upkeep of case property that too in a case under NDPS Act, for which severe punishment has been provided under the Act. It is evident that the case property got destroyed, in violation of the provisions of Section 52A of NDPS Act, as stated above.

30. Section 52A (2), (3) and (4) of the NDPS Act provides for the procedure and and manner of seizing, preparing the inventory of the seized material, forwarding the seized material and getting inventory certified by the Magistrate concerned. It is further provided that the inventory or the photographs of the seized substance and any list of samples in connection thereof on being certified by the Magistrate shall be recognized as a primary evidence in connection with the offences alleged under the NDPS Act.

31. A perusal of the aforesaid provisions reveals that any contraband/narcotic substance seized and forwarded to the police or to the officer so mentioned under Section 53, of the Act, the officer so referred to in sub section (1) shall prepare its inventory with details and the description of the seized substance like quality, quantity, mode of packing, numbering and identifying marks and then make an application to any Magistrate for the purposes of certifying its correctness and for allowing to draw representative samples of such substances in the presence of the Magistrate and to certify the correctness of the list of samples so drawn.

32. No evidence has been brought on record to the effect that the procedure prescribed under subsections (2), (3) and (4) of Section 52A of the NDPS Act was followed while making the seizure and drawing sample such as preparing the inventory and getting it certified by the Magistrate. No evidence has also been brought on record in the case in hand that the samples were drawn in the presence of the Magistrate and the list of the samples so drawn were certified by the Magistrate. It is an admitted position on record that the samples from the seized substance were drawn by the police team in the presence of the gazetted officer, nor in the presence of the Magistrate. There is no material on record to prove that the Magistrate had certified the inventory of the substance seized or the list of samples so drawn. Even no inventory as envisaged under Section 52A of the Act has been prepared and only the weight of seized contraband namely doda (power) Poppy's Straw is mentioned in recovery memo. For non-compliance of mandatory provisions of Section 52A, the samples drawn from the bulk could not be treated as a valid piece of primary evidence in the trial, and for want of primary evidence the trial stands vitiated on this count also.

33. Accordingly, this Court is of the opinion that the failure of the police team which carried out the proceedings of interception of truck search and seizure failed to lead primary evidence in regard to seized contraband and samples drawn there from, due to non production of bulk of the seized contraband and non drawing of samples in presence of the Magistrate, and in view of foregoing discussion the conviction of the appellants deserves to be set-aside.

34. The impugned judgment passed and sentence awarded by trial court convicting the appellants Satyapal and Saifuddin Urf Sheruddin and sentencing them to undergo 10 years rigorous imprisonment and Rs.1,50,000/- fine with a default stipulation is hereby set-aside. Accordingly, the appeal stands allowed.

35. Consequently, the appellants stand acquitted of the aforesaid charge, as they are held in jail custody, the court concerned will issue a release order in compliance of this judgment, and if they are not wanted in other case, they shall be set at liberty forthwith.

36. The appellants will execute, a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned, within one week of their release from jail, in compliance of provision of Section 437 (A) Cr.P.C. to the effect that they would appear before the higher court, as and when such court issues notice in respect of any appeal or petition filed against the judgment of this Court, such bail bonds shall be enforced for six months.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1445
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 30.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SHAMIM AHMED-I, J.

Criminal Revision No. 86 of 1996

Haibat Ram ...Revisionist
Versus
Govind Lal & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionist:
M. Naseerullah, Ayush Singh, Sushil Kumar Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
Govt. Advocate, Devi Prasad Singh, Rajesh Kumar Srivastava

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 147/148, 323/149, 308/149 & 426/149 - Against acquittal order - As per prosecution, complainant and accused, residents of same village, had prior enmity. On 31.08.1988 at about 6:00 A.M., accused were cutting trees in complainant's field - When objected, they assaulted him with lathi and danda - On intervention, complainant's family members were also beaten - Villagers arrived on hearing cries, whereupon accused fled - Trial court, after considering evidence, acquitted accused - Counsel for revisionist contends that trial court failed to appreciate evidence and ignored witness St.ments and acquittal was based on conjectures and surmises - However, from prosecution witnesses' testimony, appears that prosecution failed to establish accused's involvement, no direct evidence produced by prosecution regarding involvement of opposite parties in crime - Court below adopted probable and logical view based on valid reasons. (Para 4-7, 8)

Revision dismissed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Sadhu Saran Singh Vs St. of U.P. & ors. reported in (2016) 4 SCC 357, (Paras 20, 21)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

(Order on C.M. Application No.IA/3/2023; Substitution Application)

Heard Shri Sushil Kumar Singh, learned Counsel for the revisionist, Shri Ashok Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A-I for the State-opposite party.

The present application seeks to substitute the revisionist/ Haibat Ram, who has died and the applicant/Satish Kumar, being the son of the revisionist to prosecute the respondents in the present revision, which is against the acquittal.

Learned Counsel for the revisionist submits that the original revisionist/Haibat Ram had expired during the pendency of the present revision, thus, he submits that the present applicant, namely-Satish Kumar being the son of the revisionist be substituted in the present revision to prosecute the respondents in the present revision, which is against the acquittal.

Learned A.G.A-I has no objection to the contention made on behalf of the revisionist.

Accordingly, the present application is allowed. Learned Counsel for the revisionist is directed to substitute the revisionist/ Haibat Ram, who has died with the applicant/Satish Kumar, being the son of the revisionist to prosecute the respondents in the present revision, during the course of the day.

(Order on Memo of Revision)

1. List has been revised and the case is being taken up in the revised call of the list.

2. Heard Shri Sushil Kumar Singh, learned Counsel for the revisionist, Shri Ashok Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A-I for the State-opposite party.

3. The present revision under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C. has been filed against the judgment and order dated 01.02.1996 of acquittal of the respondent Nos.1 to 24, passed by V Additional Sessions Judge, Pratapgarh in Sessions Trial No.119/1991; State vs. Govind Lal and 23 Others acquitting all the accused persons under Sections 147/148, 323/149, 308/149 and 426/149 I.P.C.

4. The prosecution case in brief is that the complainant and the accused persons are resident of same village. There was some old enmity in between the parties. On 31.08.1988 at about 6:00 A.M., the accused persons were toiling and cutting the trees planted by the complainant in his field, the complainant tried to stop them but the accused persons started beating him with lathi and danda. Thereafter, the family members of the complainant also reached the spot and tried to save him but they were also brutally beaten. On hue and cry, the nearby villagers arrived at the spot, then accused persons fled away from the spot.

5. The court below after taking into consideration the facts and circumstances of the case and evidence available on record, passed the judgment and order of acquittal dated 01.02.1996.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the court below did not appreciate the evidence on record. He further submits that prosecution has successfully proved the offence against the accused on the basis of evidence. The judgment was passed without considering the statement of witnesses and the case set up by the prosecution and the judgment of the acquittal was passed on surmises and conjectures.

7. I have heard the submissions advanced by the earned counsel for the revisionist and gone through the judgment passed by the court below.

8. In the present case from the statements given by the witnesses produced by the prosecution, I found that prosecution has failed to establish that the crime in question has been committed by the accused and there was no direct evidence produced by the prosecution regarding involvement of the opposite parties in the crime.

9. Further, learned counsel for the revisionist could not point out any illegality or infirmity in the judgment and order of acquittal passed in favour of respondents which is before this Court.

10. Further, this Court observed that an revision against acquittal stands on a different footing from the revision against conviction. Hon'ble the Apex Court in a very recent judgment in the case of Sadhu Saran Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Others reported in (2016) 4 SCC 357 has considered this difference and has observed in paragraph nos.20 and 21 as under:

"20. Generally, an appeal against acquittal has always been altogether on a different pedestal from that of an appeal against conviction. In an appeal against acquittal where the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused is reinforced, the appellate court would interfere with the order of acquittal only when there is perversity of fact and law. However, we believe that the paramount consideration of the Court is to do substantial justice and avoid miscarriage of justice which can raise by acquitting the accused who is guilty of an offence. A miscarriage of justice that may occur by the acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. This Court, while enunciating the principles with regard to the scope of powers of the appellate court in an appeal against acquittal, in Sambasiva V. State of Kerala 1998 SCC (Cri) 1320 has held:

"7. The principles with regard to the scope of the powers of the appellate court in an appeal against acquittal, are well settled. The powers of the appellate court in an appeal against acquittal are no less than in an appeal against conviction. But where on the basis of evidence on record two views are reasonably possible the appellate court cannot substitute its view in the place of that of the trial court. It is only when the approach of the trial in acquitting an accused is found to be clearly erroneous in its consideration of evidence on record and in deducing conclusions therefrom that the appellate court can interfere with the order of acquittal."

21. The Court, in several cases, has taken the consistent view that the appellate court, while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, has no absolute restriction in law to review and relook the entire evidence on which the order of acquittal is founded. If the appellate court, on scrutiny, finds that the decision of the court below is based on erroneous views and against settled position of law, then the interference of the appellate court with such an order is imperative."

11. In the light of the aforesaid guidelines, the impugned judgment has to be considered from the point of view whether the view taken by the court below was a probable view based on the material on record or it is an absolutely erroneous judgment devoid of merits.

12. A criminal trial proceeds with the presumption of innocence of the accused persons. With the acquittal of the accused persons this presumption of innocence stands fortified. So very strong and cogent reasons must exist in interfering the judgment of acquittal.

13. Keeping in view the aforesaid weakness of the prosecution case, as noted by the court below, I am of the view that the view taken by the court below was a probable and logical view, which is based on valid reasons. The judgment of the court below cannot be said to be illegal, illogical and improbable and not based on material on record or is based on erroneous views and is against the settled position of law. So, this Court is satisfied that there is absolutely no hope of success in this revision and accordingly, no interference is called for.

14. Accordingly, the present revision against acquittal is dismissed.

15. No order as to costs.

16. Copy of this judgment be sent to the court below for its compliance.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1448
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 26.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Criminal Revision No. 192 of 2011

Bipin Bihari Chaurasiya ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Rajesh Kumar Tiwari, Indrajeet Shukla, Manoj Kumar Nishad, Skand Bajpai

Counsel for the Respondent:
Govt. Advocate

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 148, 302, 307, 504 & 506 - Arms Act, 1959 - Section 25 - Explosives Substance Act, 1908 - Section 4/5- Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 - Section 7-A - Juvenility - Plea of - In view of law laid down in Paul George (infra), order dated 15.11.2022, passed in absence of counsel and without reasons, being ex parte, devoid of adjudication on merits, recall application allowed - Revisionist claim juvenility on basis of High School certificate issued in year 1997, which records his date of birth as 09.07.1981 - Under Rule 12(3)(i), date of birth recorded in matriculation certificate to be treated conclusive proof, no further inquiry warranted - Trial court, while examining said claim, relied upon testimony of AW-1, who deposed that he was aged about 73 years and that his younger sister, i.e. mother of accused was 7–8 years junior to him, making her present age about 65 years - Witness St.d that his sister married at age of 16–17 years, delivered her first child in 1975 - Trial court observed that if mother is presently about 65 years of age and married at 16–17 years (or at most 20 years), assertion of first child being born in 1975 is not believable - Consequently, held that revisionist not be treated as below 18 years of age on date of incident - Trial court's rejection of High School certificate not permissible in law - Impugned order, set aside, trial court directed to determine juvenility on basis of date of birth recorded in High School certificate. (Para 6, 14 to 16)

Revision allowed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Paul George Vs St.: (2002) 2 SCC 406, (Paras 6, 7)

2. Brij Mohan Singh Vs Priya Brat Narain Sinha & ors.: AIR 1965 SC 282

3. Ashwani Kumar Saxena Vs St. of M.P., (2012) 9 SCC 750, (Paras 32, 33, 35)

4. Abuzar Hossain Vs St. of W.B., (2012) 10 SCC 489, (Paras 39.1 to 39.6)

5. Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs St. of U.P., (2022) 8 SCC 602, (Paras 33.1 to 33.11)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi J.)

Order on Crl. Misc. Application No.6 of 2023 & 7 of 2023:

1. Heard Sri Skand Bajpai, the learned counsel for the revisionist, Smt. Parul Kant, the learned A.G.A. appearing on behalf of the State and perused the records.

2. These are applications seeking condonation of delay in filing application for recall and the application for recall of ex-parte order dated 15.11.2022, passed by a coordinate Bench of this court on the ground that the revisionist had engaged Sri Indrajeet Shukla, Advocate as his counsel, who was subsequently appointed as an Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State of U.P. and for this reason he could not appear any further on behalf of the revisionist. The revisionist did not have any knowledge about his counsel having been appointed as Additional Chief Standing Counsel and therefore he did not engage another counsel. In these circumstances the revision was dismissed in absence of the learned counsel for the revisionist on 15.11.2022.

3. Although, the order dated 15.11.2022 has been passed in absence of the revisionist or his learned counsel, it records the submission of the learned State Counsel that there is not illegality or infirmity in the impugned order. The court has recorded in the order dated 15.11.2022 as follows:

"The court below has given cogent, convincing and satisfactory reasons while passing the impugned order. Reasons mentioned therein are good enough to satisfy the passing of impugned order and no fault could be found with the approach adopted by the court below. Even otherwise also, none has appeared on behalf of the revisionists to press this revision though the revision is pending since 2011.

In view of the above, I do not find any illegality, infirmity or perversity in the impugned order which may warrant any interference.

The revision is, accordingly, dismissed."

4. Submission of the learned counsel for the revisionist is that the aforesaid order was passed in absence of the learned counsel for the revisionist and therefore it is an ex-parte order, which deserves to be recalled. He has submitted that the observations made regarding the revision being merit have been made in a cursory manner without adverting to the contents of the order or the contentions raised in the memo of revision.

5. In the case of Paul George Vs. State: (2002) 2 SCC 406, the Delhi High Court dismissed a Criminal Revision by the following order: -

"I have heard the learned counsel for the petitioner. I find no illegality, impropriety or jurisdictional error in the judgment under challenge.

Dismissed."

The Hon'ble Supreme Court set aside the aforesaid order after making the following observations: -

"6. ...We feel that whatever be the outcome of the pleas raised by the appellant on merits, the order disposing of the matter must indicate application of mind to the case and some reasons be assigned for negating or accepting such pleas....

7....The order impugned however does not indicate any trace of application of mind on the facts or the pleas raised before the Court. We would like to point out that we come across with such orders quite frequently as of now. There is no need to emphasize that the reasons, howsoever brief they may be, are to be indicated in an order disposing of any matter, more so when such orders are subject to appeal or review before the higher forum."

6. In view of the aforesaid law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Paul George (supra), it is clear that the order dated 15.11.2022 passed in the absence of learned counsel for the revisionist without recording any reasons engaging adjudication of the revision by this court is an ex-parte order, which does not discuss the merits of the case and it deserves to be recalled.

7. Accordingly, the applications are allowed. The delay in filing recall application is hereby condoned. The order dated 15.11.2022 is hereby recalled and the revision stands restored to its original number.

Order on memo of revision:

8. The instant revision has been filed challenging the validity of the impugned order dated 27.04.2011 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.11, Pratapgarh, in Sessions Trial No. 369 of 1998, under Sections 148, 302, 307, 504, 506 I.P.C., Sessions Trial No.372 of 1998, under Section 25 of Arms Act and Sessions Trial No.373 of 1998, under Section 4/5 Explosives Substance Act, Police Station Kandhai, District Pratapgarh, whereby three different applications filed in the aforesaid three cases for declaring the revisionist to be a juvenile-delinquent on the ground that the high school certificate in the year 1997 mentions his date of birth as 09.07.1981 was recorded. The learned trial court has disbelieved the date of birth of the revisionist mentioned in the high school certificate on the ground that from the statement of PW-1 recorded by the learned trial court, the date of birth of the revisionist mentioned in the high school certificate appears to be incorrect. The learned trial court has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Brij Mohan Singh Vs. Priya Brat Narain Sinha and others: AIR 1965 SC 282, which was a case arising out Representation of People Act, 1951, wherein the court disbelieved the age of a person mention in the high school record, keeping in view the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case.

9. Section 7-A of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 provides that: -

"7-A. Procedure to be followed when claim of juvenility is raised before any court.—(1) Whenever a claim of juvenility is raised before any court or a court is of the opinion that an accused person was a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence, the court shall make an enquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) so as to determine the age of such person, and shall record a finding whether the person is a juvenile or a child or not, stating his age as nearly as may be:

Provided that a claim of juvenility may be raised before any court and it shall be recognised at any stage, even after final disposal of the case, and such claim shall be determined in terms of the provisions contained in this Act and the Rules made thereunder, even if the juvenile has ceased to be so on or before the date of commencement of this Act.

(2) If the court finds a person to be a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence under sub-section (1), it shall forward the juvenile to the Board for passing appropriate orders, and the sentence if any, passed by a court shall be deemed to have no effect."

10. Rule 12 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007 provides as follows: -

"12. Procedure to be followed in determination of age.

(1)In every case concerning a child or a juvenile in conflict with law, the Court or the Board, as the case may be, the Committee referred to in rule 19 of these rules shall determine the age of such juvenile or child or a juvenile in conflict with law within a period of thirty days from the date of making of the application for that purpose.

(2)The Court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee shall decide the juvenility or otherwise of the juvenile or the child or, as the case may be, the juvenile in conflict with law, prima facie on the basis of physical appearances or documents, if available, and send him to the observation home or in jail.

(3)In every case concerning a child or juvenile in conflict with law, the age determination inquiry shall be conducted by the Court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee by seeking evidence by obtaining-

(i)the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available; and in the absence whereof;

(ii)the date of birth certificate from the school (other than a play school) first attended; and in the absence whereof;

(iii)the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(b) and only in the absence of either (i), (ii) or (iii) of clause (a) above, the medical opinion will be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board, which will declare the age of the juvenile or child. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, the Court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee, for the reasons to be recorded by them, may, if considered necessary, give benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his/her age on lower side within the margin of one year, and, while passing orders in such case shall, after taking into consideration such evidence as may be available, or the medical opinion, as the case may be, record a finding in respect of his age and either of the evidence specified in any of the clauses (a)(i), (ii), (iii) or in the absence whereof, clause (b) shall be the conclusive proof of the age as regards such child or the juvenile in conflict with law.

(4)If the age of a juvenile or child or the juvenile in conflict with law is found to be below 18 years on the date of offence, on the basis of any of the conclusive proof specified in sub-rule (3), the Court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee shall in writing pass an order stating the age and declaring the status of juvenility or otherwise, for the purpose of the Act and these rules and a copy of the order shall be given to such juvenile or the person concerned.

(5)Save and except where, further inquiry or otherwise is required, inter alia, in terms of section 7-A, section 64 of the Act and these rules, no further inquiry shall be conducted by the Court or the Board after examining and obtaining the certificate or any other documentary proof referred to in sub-rule (3) of this rule.

(6)The provisions contained in this rule shall also apply to those disposed off cases, where the status of juvenility has not been determined in accordance with the provisions contained in sub-rule (3) and the Act, requiring dispensation of the sentence under the Act for passing appropriate order in the interest of the juvenile in conflict with law."

11. In Ashwani Kumar Saxena v. State of M.P., (2012) 9 SCC 750, it was held that: -

32. "Age determination inquiry" contemplated under Section 7-A of the Act read with Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules enables the court to seek evidence and in that process, the court can obtain the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available. Only in the absence of any matriculation or equivalent certificates, the court needs to obtain the date of birth certificate from the school first attended other than a play school. Only in the absence of matriculation or equivalent certificate or the date of birth certificate from the school first attended, the court needs to obtain the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat (not an affidavit but certificates or documents). The question of obtaining medical opinion from a duly constituted Medical Board arises only if the abovementioned documents are unavailable. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, then the court, for reasons to be recorded, may, if considered necessary, give the benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his or her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

33. Once the court, following the abovementioned procedures, passes an order, that order shall be the conclusive proof of the age as regards such child or juvenile in conflict with law. It has been made clear in sub-rule (5) of Rule 12 that no further inquiry shall be conducted by the court or the Board after examining and obtaining the certificate or any other documentary proof after referring to sub-rule (3) of Rule 12. Further, Section 49 of the JJ Act also draws a presumption of the age of the juvenility on its determination.

* * *

35. We have come across several cases in which the trial courts have examined a large number of witnesses on either side including the conduct of ossification test and calling for odontology report, even in cases, where matriculation or equivalent certificate, the date of birth certificate from the school last or first attended, the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat are made available. We have also come across cases where even the courts in the large number of cases express doubts over certificates produced and carry on detailed probe which is totally unwarranted."

12. In Abuzar Hossain v. State of W.B., (2012) 10 SCC 489, the Hon'ble Supreme Court summarized the legal principles in this regard as follows: -

"39.1. A claim of juvenility may be raised at any stage even after the final disposal of the case. It may be raised for the first time before this Court as well after the final disposal of the case. The delay in raising the claim of juvenility cannot be a ground for rejection of such claim. The claim of juvenility can be raised in appeal even if not pressed before the trial court and can be raised for the first time before this Court though not pressed before the trial court and in the appeal court.

39.2. For making a claim with regard to juvenility after conviction, the claimant must produce some material which may prima facie satisfy the court that an inquiry into the claim of juvenility is necessary. Initial burden has to be discharged by the person who claims juvenility.

39.3. As to what materials would prima facie satisfy the court and/or are sufficient for discharging the initial burden cannot be catalogued nor can it be laid down as to what weight should be given to a specific piece of evidence which may be sufficient to raise presumption of juvenility but the documents referred to in Rules 12(3)(a)(i) to (iii) shall definitely be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the court about the age of the delinquent necessitating further enquiry under Rule

12. The statement recorded under Section 313 of the Code is too tentative and may not by itself be sufficient ordinarily to justify or reject the claim of juvenility. The credibility and/or acceptability of the documents like the school leaving certificate or the voters' list, etc. obtained after conviction would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no hard-and-fast rule can be prescribed that they must be prima facie accepted or rejected. In Akbar Sheikh (2009) 7 SCC 415 and Pawan (2009) 15 SCC 259 these documents were not found prima facie credible while in Jitendra Singh (2010) 13 SCC 523 the documents viz. school leaving certificate, marksheet and the medical report were treated sufficient for directing an inquiry and verification of the appellant's age. If such documents prima facie inspire confidence of the court, the court may act upon such documents for the purposes of Section 7-A and order an enquiry for determination of the age of the delinquent.

39.4. An affidavit of the claimant or any of the parents or a sibling or a relative in support of the claim of juvenility raised for the first time in appeal or revision or before this Court during the pendency of the matter or after disposal of the case shall not be sufficient justifying an enquiry to determine the age of such person unless the circumstances of the case are so glaring that satisfy the judicial conscience of the court to order an enquiry into determination of the age of the delinquent.

39.5. The court where the plea of juvenility is raised for the first time should always be guided by the objectives of the 2000 Act and be alive to the position that the beneficent and salutary provisions contained in the 2000 Act are not defeated by the hypertechnical approach and the persons who are entitled to get benefits of the 2000 Act get such benefits. The courts should not be unnecessarily influenced by any general impression that in schools the parents/guardians understate the age of their wards by one or two years for future benefits or that age determination by medical examination is not very precise. The matter should be considered prima facie on the touchstone of preponderance of probability.

39.6. Claim of juvenility lacking in credibility or frivolous claim of juvenility or patently absurd or inherently improbable claim of juvenility must be rejected by the court at the threshold whenever raised."

(Emphasis supplied)

13. In Rishipal Singh Solanki v. State of U.P., (2022) 8 SCC 602, the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to numerous precedents on the point and summarized the principles of law as follows: -

"33.1.A claim of juvenility may be raised at any stage of a criminal proceeding, even after a final disposal of the case. A delay in raising the claim of juvenility cannot be a ground for rejection of such claim. It can also be raised for the first time before this Court.

33.2.An application claiming juvenility could be made either before the court or the JJ Board.

33.2.1.When the issue of juvenility arises before a court, it would be under sub-sections (2) and (3) of Section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015 but when a person is brought before a committee or JJ Board, Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 applies.

33.2.2.If an application is filed before the court claiming juvenility, the provision of sub-section (2) of Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would have to be applied or read along with sub-section (2) of Section 9 so as to seek evidence for the purpose of recording a finding stating the age of the person as nearly as may be.

33.2.3.When an application claiming juvenility is made under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 before the JJ Board when the matter regarding the alleged commission of offence is pending before a court, then the procedure contemplated under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would apply. Under the said provision if the JJ Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Board shall undertake the process of age determination by seeking evidence and the age recorded by the JJ Board to be the age of the person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of the JJ Act, 2015, be deemed to be true age of that person. Hence the degree of proof required in such a proceeding before the JJ Board, when an application is filed seeking a claim of juvenility when the trial is before the criminal court concerned, is higher than when an inquiry is made by a court before which the case regarding the commission of the offence is pending (vide Section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015).

33.3.That when a claim for juvenility is raised, the burden is on the person raising the claim to satisfy the court to discharge the initial burden. However, the documents mentioned in Rules 12(3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iii) of the JJ Rules, 2007 made under the JJ Act, 2000 or sub-section (2) of Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015, shall be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the court. On the basis of the aforesaid documents a presumption of juvenility may be raised.

33.4.The said presumption is however not conclusive proof of the age of juvenility and the same may be rebutted by contra evidence let in by the opposite side.

33.5.That the procedure of an inquiry by a court is not the same thing as declaring the age of the person as a juvenile sought before the JJ Board when the case is pending for trial before the criminal court concerned. In case of an inquiry, the court records a prima facie conclusion but when there is a determination of age as per sub-section (2) of Section 94 of the 2015 Act, a declaration is made on the basis of evidence. Also the age recorded by the JJ Board shall be deemed to be the true age of the person brought before it. Thus, the standard of proof in an inquiry is different from that required in a proceeding where the determination and declaration of the age of a person has to be made on the basis of evidence scrutinised and accepted only if worthy of such acceptance.

33.6.That it is neither feasible nor desirable to lay down an abstract formula to determine the age of a person. It has to be on the basis of the material on record and on appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties in each case.

33.7.This Court has observed that a hypertechnical approach should not be adopted when evidence is adduced on behalf of the accused in support of the plea that he was a juvenile.

33.8.If two views are possible on the same evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the accused to be a juvenile in borderline cases. This is in order to ensure that the benefit of the JJ Act, 2015 is made applicable to the juvenile in conflict with law. At the same time, the court should ensure that the JJ Act, 2015 is not misused by persons to escape punishment after having committed serious offences.

33.9.That when the determination of age is on the basis of evidence such as school records, it is necessary that the same would have to be considered as per Section 35 of the Evidence Act, inasmuch as any public or official document maintained in the discharge of official duty would have greater credibility than private documents.

33.10.Any document which is in consonance with public documents, such as matriculation certificate, could be accepted by the court or the JJ Board provided such public document is credible and authentic as per the provisions of the Evidence Act viz. Section 35 and other provisions.

33.11.Ossification test cannot be the sole criterion for age determination and a mechanical view regarding the age of a person cannot be adopted solely on the basis of medical opinion by radiological examination. Such evidence is not conclusive evidence but only a very useful guiding factor to be considered in the absence of documents mentioned in Section 94(2) of the JJ Act, 2015.

14. When this court examines the facts of the present case in the light of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid case, it appears that the revisionist claims himself to be a juvenile on the ground that the high school certificate issued in the year 1997 mentions his date of birth to be 09.07.1981. When the high school certificate was available, as per the provisions contained in Rule 12 (3) (i), no further enquiry is permissible to ascertain the date of birth of the juvenile. The learned trial court has stated that as per the statement of AW1 Ram Pal Chaurasiya, witness is aged about 73 years, his younger sister i.e. mother of the accused is about 7-8 years younger to him, from which it can be assumed that presently the mother of the accused would be aged about 65 years; the witness has stated that his sister got married when she was aged about 16-17 years and her first daughter was born two years after her marriage, in the year 1975. In case his sister is presently aged about 65 years and she got married in the age of 16-17 years or at the most 20 years, the contention of the birth of the daughter in the year 1975 is not believable. In case the mother of the accused got married in the year 16-17 years, it cannot be believed that she delivered her first child in the year 1975 and from the aforesaid facts the age of the revisionist cannot be below 18 years on the date of the incident i.e. 11.04.1998.

15. This assessment made by learned trial court for disbelieving the high school certificate is not permissible in law.

16. Accordingly, the order dated 27.04.2011 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.11, Pratapgarh is not sustainable. The revision is allowed. The learned trial court is directed to decide the issue of juvenility of the revisionist by treating his date of birth mentioned in the high school certificate to be correct and to proceed with the trial accordingly.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1455
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 20.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Criminal Revision No. 347 of 2001

Bhagwan Laxmi Narain Mandir Trust ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionist:
R.C. Mishra, Awadhesh Kumar

Counsel for the Respondent:
Govt. Advocate, S.K. Rastogi

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 133 -

Revisionist filed application u/s 133 Cr.P.C. asserting that disputed double-storied building, over 125 years old, was in dilapidated condition except for three shops on ground floor - Stay order against declaration of vacancy was continuing, other proceedings pending before Rent Control Authority and Small Causes Court - By application, demolition was sought, which was opposed on ground of pendency of multiple proceedings concerning building - Executive Magistrate rejected application - Proceedings u/s 133 Cr.P.C. are summary in nature and meant to ensure removal of nuisance and to order demolition of building causing nuisance in cases of imminent danger to public - In instant case, various civil litigation regarding building already pending between parties when application u/s 133 Cr.P.C. filed - From conduct of revisionist in filing revision in year 2001 and thereafter repetitively seeking adjournments and not trying to get revision decided even after 23 years, indicates there is no imminent danger of building collapsing - Revisionist taken recourse to proceedings u/s 133 Cr.P.C. to bypass adjudication of rights in pending civil proceedings - Revision lacks merit, dismissed. (Para 6, 7, 11)

Revision dismissed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Sukhlal Vs Brijbasi Lal: 1979 AWC 306

2. Sukh Lal Vs Dr. Brij Basi Lal, 1979 SCC OnLine All 89 : 1979 All LJ 456, (Para 5)

3. Vasant Manga Nikumba Vs Baburao Bhikanna Naidu, 1995 Supp (4) SCC 54, (Paras 3, 4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. The case is a 23 years' old case listed under the heading 'These cases shall not be adjourned' yet a request for adjournment of the case has been made by the learned Counsel for the revisionist by sending a printed slip which does not make a mention of any reason for seeking adjournment.

2. Earlier, the case was last listed on 01.02.2024 and the following order was passed on that date: -

"The present revision has been filed against the dismissal order of the application of revisionist under Section 133 Cr.P.C. The interim order is of dated 6.6.2001.

The matter is quite old.

Learned counsel for the revisionist has moved the application for adjournment of the case for the day.

AGA has submitted that approximately 23 years have gone by and the matter might have been frustrated.

A perusal of the record indicates that the parties have taken so many adjournments on different dates. In view of above, it is directed that on the next date of listing, no further adjournment shall be granted and in absence of any party, the Court may consider to decide the revision on the basis of material available on record.

List this case on 20.2.2024 in top ten listed cases."

3. In these circumstances the request for adjournment made in a casual manner by merely sending a slip which does not contain any reason for seeking adjournment, is not reasonable and it cannot be accepted.

4. Accordingly, the request for adjournment of the case is turned down and the court proceeds to examine the merits of the case with the help of Smt. Parul Kant, the learned A.G.A. appearing on behalf of the State.

5. This is a revision under Section 397 read with Section 401 Cr.P.C. filed on 30.08.2001 challenging the validity of the order dated 06.06.2001,passed by the learned Additional Executive Magistrate, Kheri closing proceedings under Section 133 Cr.P.C.

6. The revisionist had filed an application under Section 133 Cr.P.C. on 07.05.1999 stating that the double storied building in dispute had been constructed more than 125 years prior to filing of the application. The building was in a dilapidated condition, except for three shops situated on the ground floor of the building. A stay order passed by this court in Writ Petition No.2066 (M/S) of 1991 against the declaration of vacancy of the building was continuing. Some other proceedings were also pending before the Rent Control Authority and in the Small Causes Court. By means of the application the revisionist had prayed for demolition of the building. Objections were filed against the application stating that several proceedings were going on regarding the building which was sought to be demolished by the revisionist.

7. The learned Additional Executive Magistrate, Kheri has rejected the application by means of an order dated 06.06.2001 wherein it is stated that a suit under Section 92 C.P.C. regarding the building in dispute was pending. The opposite party had contended that the building was maintained in a proper condition and it was not under threat of falling down. After taking into consideration the judgment in the case of Sukhlal Vs. Brijbasi Lal: 1979 AWC 306, the learned Magistrate came to a conclusion that the proceedings under Section 133 Cr.P.C. could not be continued and accordingly the application was rejected.

8. Section 133 of the Code provides that: -

"133. Conditional order for removal of nuisance.— (1) Whenever a District Magistrate or a Sub-Divisional Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf by the State Government, on receiving the report of a police officer or other information and on taking such evidence (if any) as he thinks fit, considers—

* * *

(d) that any building, tent or structure, or any tree is in such a condition that it is likely to fall and thereby cause injury to persons living or carrying on business in the neighbourhood or passing by, and that in consequence the removal, repair or support of such building, tent or structure or the removal or support of such tree, is necessary; or

* * *

such Magistrate may make a conditional order requiring the person causing such obstruction or nuisance, or carrying on such trade or occupation, or keeping any such goods or merchandise, or owning, possessing or controlling such building, tent, structure, substance, tank, well or excavation, or owning or possessing such animal or tree, within a time to be fixed in the order—

* * *

(iv) to remove, repair or support such building, tent or structure, or to remove or support such trees;".

9. In Sukh Lal v. Dr. Brij Basi Lal, 1979 SCC OnLine All 89 : 1979 All LJ 456, this Court had held that: -

"5…. the summary procedure prescribed under S. 133 Cr. P.C. is intended to meet situations of emergency, wherein taking of an immediate action is necessary. If such a situation does not exist and if constructions are long-standing, the proper remedy for the parties is to enforce their rights in a civil court and not to take recourse to the speedy and summary procedure prescribed under S. 133 Cr. P.C. This view has also been expressed earlier by a single Judge of this court in AIR 1965 All 215 Asharfi Lalv.Statein the following words:—

"A proceeding under S. 133 should be taken in case of emergency where the public shall be put to great inconvenience and shall suffer an irreparable injury if the encroachment or nuisance is not removed at once by adopting the summary procedure contained in Ch. 10 and, therefore, ordinarily no action under S. 133, can be taken where the obstruction or nuisance has been in existence for a long period. However, there is no legal bar to seeking remedy under Sec. 133 where there exists a genuine emergency to have the encroachment or nuisance removed. Such an action can be taken even though the encroachment or nuisance has been in existence for a reasonably long period. But if the obstruction has been in existence for a long period without any change in circumstances the removal of such obstruction cannot be said to be urgent and the remedy must be sought in civil courts."

10. In Vasant Manga Nikumba v. Baburao Bhikanna Naidu, 1995 Supp (4) SCC 54, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"3. ...The object and public purpose behind Section 133 is to prevent public nuisance that if the Magistrate fails to take immediate recourse to Section 133 irreparable damage would be done to the public. The exercise of the power should be one of judicious discretions objectively exercised on pragmatic consideration of the given facts and circumstances from evidence on record. The proceedings under Section 133 is not intended to settle private disputes or a substitute to settle civil disputes though the proceeding under Section 133 is more in the nature of civil proceedings in a summary nature.

4. A reading of Section 133 would clearly indicate that the Executive Magistrate has been empowered, on receiving a report of the police officer or other information and on taking such evidence as he thinks fit that any building, tent or structure is in such a condition that, due to failure to remove, disrepair, or without support it is likely to fall and thereby cause injury to persons living or carrying on business in the neighbourhood or passing by and that in consequence he is empowered to specify the time to remove, repair or provide support to such building, tent or structure or tree. Two options are open to the Executive Magistrate on considering whether structure, building etc. is in such a dilapidated condition which requires to be demolished immediately which brooks no delay to avert danger to the life and property of the neighbourhood or passers-by unless they could be suitably repaired or supported so as to avert danger to the public or have it removed, etc. The condition precedent to exercise the power under Section 133 is the imminent danger to the property and consequential nuisance to the public. The removal of the building is so urgently required as it is likely to fall and cause injury to persons living or carrying on business in the neighbourhood or passers-by. The nuisance is the concomitant act resulting in danger to the life or property due to likely collapse etc. The dangerous condition of the building is in praesenti but not in future. The section is limited to injuries likely to be caused to the passers-by or persons living or carrying on business in the neighbourhood. Each case has to be considered in the light of the facts and circumstances obtained in each case."

11. The proceedings under Section 133 Cr.P.C. are summary in nature and primarily meant to ensure removal of nuisance and to order demolition of a building causing nuisance in cases of imminent danger to the public. In the present case various civil litigation regarding the building in question were already pending between the parties when the application under Section 133 Cr.P.C. was filed. From the conduct of the revisionist in filing the revision in the year 2001 and thereafter repetitively seeking adjournments of the revision and not trying to get the revision decided even after 23 years, indicates that there is no imminent danger of the building collapsing. It appears that the revisionist had taken recourse to the proceedings under Section 133 Cr.P.C. to bypass adjudication of rights in the pending civil proceedings.

12. In these circumstances, there appears to be no illegality in the impugned order dated 06.06.2001 declining to continue the proceedings under Section 133 Cr.P.C. The revision lacks merit and the same is accordingly dismissed.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1459
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 01.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE JYOTSNA SHARMA, J.

Crl. Revision Defective No. 576 of 2023

Diwakar Nath Tripathi ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Ramesh Chandra Dwivedi

Counsel for the Respondent:
Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, Sr. Advocate/AAG, Sri A.K. Sand, GA, Sri Ajay Singh, AGA-I, Sri Neeraj Kant Verma AGA, Sri Rajeev Lochan Shukla

Criminal Law - Limitation Act, 1963 - Section 5 - Condonation of delay - Revision, presented on 12.04.2023, was reported time-barred by 318 days (limitation up to 29.05.2022) - A delay condonation application dated 11.04.2023 with supporting affidavit was filed - Upon filing before J.R. (J) on 21.04.2023, delay was noted as 327 days - Held, revisionist, claims himself as social worker and RTI activist in his application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. and he cannot be treated as casual, non-vigilant - Neither delay condonation application nor its supporting affidavit discloses any concrete ground or substantiated reason for delay; averments are vague - Revisionist failed to show sufficient cause for condonation of delay - Delay condonation application must disclose proper and substantiated grounds, which are absent here - Dispute being filing of application challenging impugned order, withdrawal of his application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. for seeking remedy, delayed filing of present revision without disclosing date of applying for certified copy and unsubstantiated reasons indicate lack of seriousness in pursuing matter - Hence, no ground exists to condone delay. (Para 3, 22)

Revision dismissed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. N. Balakrishnan Vs M. Krishnamurthy : (1998) 7 SCC 123, (Paras 9 to 13)

2. Lanka Venkateswarlu Vs St. of A.P. : (2011) 4 SCC 363, (Paras 20, 23, 28, 29)

3. Maniben Devraj Shah Vs Municipal Corpn. of Brihan Mumbai : (2012) 5 SCC 157, (Paras 19, 23, 24)

4. Basawaraj Vs Land Acquisition Officer : (2013) 14 SCC 81, (Paras 9 to 12, 15)

5. Majji Sannemma Vs Reddy Sridevi : (2021) 18 SCC 384, (Paras 6.2, 7, 8

6. Sheo Raj Singh Vs U.O.I. : (2023) 10 SCC 531, (Para 31, 32)

7. Aleque Padamsee Vs U.O.I.: 2007 (6) SCC 171, (Para 7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

Order on Crl. Misc. Delay Condonation Application No. 1 of 2023

1. List revised.

2. The present revision U/s 397/401 Cr.P.C. has been filed before this Court by the revisionist Diwakar Nath Tripathi with the following prayers:-

"It is, therefore, most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to summon the lower Courts record, allow the present Revision and be pleased to set aside the Judgment and Order dated 04.09.2021, passed by the Learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 17, Allahabad, C.N.R. No. 2750/2021, Misc Case No. - 102 / X II / 2021, Diwakar Nath Tripathi Vs. Keshav Prasad Maurya, P.S. Cantt, District- Prayagraj by which the application filed by the revisionist U/S 156(3) Cr.P.C. was rejected otherwise the Revisionist shall suffer irreparable loss and injury."

3. The revision was presented before the Section Officer, Stamp Reporter (Criminal) High Court, Allahabad on 12.04.2023 and was reported to be in limitation upto 29.05.2022 and thus beyond time by 318 days. A delay condonation application dated 11.04.2023 supported by an affidavit dated 10.04.2023 of the revisionist has been filed with it. Subsequently the revision after being presented for reporting was then presented before J.R. (J) (Computer), High Court Allahabad on 21.04.2023 for its filing after which it was marked to be beyond time by 327 days.

4. Previously the applicant had filed a Crl. Misc. Application U/s 482 No. 27198 of 2021 (Diwakar Nath Tripathi Vs. State of U.P. and another) which after some arguments was prayed to be dismissed as withdrawn by learned counsel appearing therein as he intended to explore the remedy available to him under law and as such the same was dismissed as withdrawn by this Court. The said order dated 24.11.2022 reads as under:-

"List revised.

Heard Sri Kamal Krishna Roy, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate/Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri A.K. Sand, learned AGA for the State. The present applicant under Section 482 Cr.P.C has been filed by the applicant with the following prayer:-

"It is, therefore, most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may most graciously be pleased to allow this application to quash/set aside the impugned order dated 04.09.2021 passed by Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad in CNR No.2750 of 2021 Misc. Case No.102/XII/2021 Diwakar Nath Tripathi Police Station Cantt. District Prayagraj and also stay the operation of order dated 04.09.2021 and further direct to the learned Magistrate to exercise their power under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and direct to lodge the first information report, during the pendency of present application Under Section 482 Cr.P. before this Hon'ble Court, otherwise the applicants shall suffer grave irreparable loss and injury."

The applicant is the complainant of the case.

After some arguments, learned counsel for the applicant prays that the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. be dismissed as withdrawn as he intends to explore the remedy available to him under law.

The prayer is allowed.

The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is dismissed as withdrawn."

The order is annexed as annexure 1 to the affidavit in support of the criminal revision.

5. Vide order dated 21.11.2023 passed by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court, notice was issued to the respondent no.2 on the delay condonation application. The said order reads as under:-

"Heard learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri P.K. Giri, learned Additional Advocate General along with learned A.G.A. for the State.

This criminal revision has been filed with delay of 327 days.

Issue notice to the respondent no.2 returnable at an early date for hearing on delay condonation application filed under Section 5 Limitation Act.

The opposite parties may file counter affidavit within four weeks.

Put up on 21.12.2023 as fresh."

6. Heard Sri Ramesh Chandra Dwivedi, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, Senior Advocate / learned Additional Advocate General, Sri A.K. Sand, learned Government Advocate, Sri Ajay Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate-I and Sri Neeraj Kant Verma, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State of U.P. and Sri Rajeev Lochan Shukla, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2/ Keshav Prasad Maurya and perused the records.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist argued that the delay in filing of the present revision is not wilful. It is argued that due to the illness of the revisionist he could not file the revision in time and as such the same was reported to be delayed. It is argued that the reasons for delayed filing of the revision have been pleaded in paras 3 to 7 of the affidavit in support of the application for condonation of delay. It is argued that the reasons as pleaded in the said paragraphs go to show that their has been no deliberate delay in filing of the present revision and as such the delay condonation may be allowed and the revision be treated to have been filed in time.

8. Per contra, learned counsels appearing for the Respondent No. 1/ State of U.P and learned counsel for the Respondent No. 2/ Keshav Prasad Maurya vehemently opposed the delay condonation application and submitted that the filing of the revision is with malafides. It is argued that the delay in filing of it is without any justifiable reason. It is argued that the reasons as pleaded in the affidavit in support of the delay condonation application are totally vague, without any justifiable reason and go to show the casualness of the revisionist in filing of the present revision. It is argued that the present revision is barred by limitation and there is also no cause in it serving a fruitful purpose which could be considered for condoning the unexplained delay and latches. It is argued that the delay condonation application be dismissed.

9. A delay condonation application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 dated 11.04.2023 has been filed by the revisionist with the following prayers:

"It is, therefore, Most Respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to condone the delay, if any, occurred in filing the present Criminal Revision and further kindly hear the matter on merit, otherwise the Revisionist shall suffer irreparable loss and injury.

And/or to pass such other and further order which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case."

10. In the affidavit dated 10.04.2023 in support of the delay condonation application, paras 3 to 7 have been averred as the reasons for the delay in filing of the present revision. The said paragraphs read as under:-

"3. That in Criminal Misc. Application No. 27198 of 2021, the Hon'ble Court passed an Order on 24.11.2022 mentioning therein that the present Application be dismissed as withdrawn as the Applicant intends to explore the remedy available to him.

4. That thereafter the Applicant decided to challenge the Impugned Order dated 04.09.2021 by filing Criminal Revision and applied for the certified copy of the Order which could be available 02.02.2023.

5. That thereafter the Applicant fell ill suffering from dengue which lasted for two months from the first week of February to the first week of April in which he was taking treatment and advised bed rest.

6. That a valuable time has passed in recovery of the Petitioner/Applicant from the prolonged illness.

7. That the reason for filing the Criminal Revision in delay is genuine and bona-fide and not intentional."

11. The order impugned in the present revision is an order dated 04.09.2021 passed by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 17, Allahabad in Criminal Case No. 102/XII/2021 (Diwakar Nath Tripathi Vs. Keshav Prasad Maurya), Police Station Cantt, District Prayagraj by which an application moved under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. of the revisionist has been rejected.

12. The perusal of the grounds as averred in the affidavit in support of the delay condonation application goes to show that the revisionist states that his application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. was dismissed as withdrawn vide order dated 24.11.2022 since he intended to explore the remedy available to him after which he decided to challenge the impugned order dated 04.09.2021 by filing a criminal revision and applied for the certified copy of the same which could be available to him on 02.02.2023. Thereafter he fell ill suffering from dengue since last two months from 1st week of February to 1st week of April and was taking treatment and advised bed rest. His valuable time passed in the recovery from the prolonged illness, the reason for filing the criminal revision with delay is genuine and bonafide and not intentional.

13. The perusal of the said paragraphs go to show that except for the bald statement of the deponent of the affidavit in support of the delay condonation application who is the revisionist himself, there is no material concrete in any nature to substantiate his averments. Moreso para 4 of the affidavit although mentions the date on which the order impugned could be made available to him which is mentioned therein as 02.02.2023 but there is no disclosure whatsoever as to on which date the certified copy of it was applied for, the date when it was ready for being issued and the date on which it was notified to be ready for being issued. The said events and facts have conveniently been avoided. The order impugned is from page 15 to 19 of the paper book which is along with the memo of the revision. A perusal of the same would go to show that the certified copy of the same was applied for by an Advocate on 02.02.2023, the same was ready on the same day i.e. 02.02.2023 and even the same was issued on the same day i.e. 02.02.2023. In between the other formalities for it were also done on the same day. The calculation of the period of limitation was thus counted by the Stamp Reporter of this Court who give his report that the revision is beyond time by 318 days upto 12.04.2023 which was the date of the said report. Even otherwise the 482 Cr.P.C. petition filed by the revisionist was got dismissed as withdrawn on 24.11.2022 after which the certified copy and the order impugned was applied for as late as on 02.02.2023. The law with regards to the consideration of an application for condonation of delay is trite.

14. Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 empowers a Court to condone delay in filing a motion before it. It reads as under:

"5. Extension of prescribed period in certain cases.- Any appeal or any application, other than an application under any of the provisions of Order XXI of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, may be admitted after the prescribed period if the appellant or the applicant satisfies the court that he had sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal or making the application within such period.

Explanation.—The fact that the appellant or the applicant was misled by any order, practice or judgment of the High Court in ascertaining or computing the prescribed period may be sufficient cause within the meaning of this section."

15. In the case of N. Balakrishnan v. M. Krishnamurthy : (1998) 7 SCC 123 the Apex Court has held that exercise of discretion in condoning delay should be on satisfactory grounds, acceptable explanation and a party should not resort to dilatory tactics but seek their remedy promptly. It is held as follows:

"9. It is axiomatic that condonation of delay is a matter of discretion of the court. Section 5 of the Limitation Act does not say that such discretion can be exercised only if the delay is within a certain limit. Length of delay is no matter, acceptability of the explanation is the only criterion. Sometimes delay of the shortest range may be uncondonable due to a want of acceptable explanation whereas in certain other cases, delay of a very long range can be condoned as the explanation thereof is satisfactory. Once the court accepts the explanation as sufficient, it is the result of positive exercise of discretion and normally the superior court should not disturb such finding, much less in revisional jurisdiction, unless the exercise of discretion was on wholly untenable grounds or arbitrary or perverse. But it is a different matter when the first court refuses to condone the delay. In such cases, the superior court would be free to consider the cause shown for the delay afresh and it is open to such superior court to come to its own finding even untrammelled by the conclusion of the lower court.

10. The reason for such a different stance is thus:

The primary function of a court is to adjudicate the dispute between the parties and to advance substantial justice. The time-limit fixed for approaching the court in different situations is not because on the expiry of such time a bad cause would transform into a good cause.

11. Rules of limitation are not meant to destroy the rights of parties. They are meant to see that parties do not resort to dilatory tactics, but seek their remedy promptly. The object of providing a legal remedy is to repair the damage caused by reason of legal injury. The law of limitation fixes a lifespan for such legal remedy for the redress of the legal injury so suffered. Time is precious and wasted time would never revisit. During the efflux of time, newer causes would sprout up necessitating newer persons to seek legal remedy by approaching the courts. So a lifespan must be fixed for each remedy. Unending period for launching the remedy may lead to unending uncertainty and consequential anarchy. The law of limitation is thus founded on public policy. It is enshrined in the maxim interest republican up sit finis litium (it is for the general welfare that a period be put to litigation). Rules of limitation are not meant to destroy the rights of the parties. They are meant to see that parties do not resort to dilatory tactics but seek their remedy promptly. The idea is that every legal remedy must be kept alive for a legislatively fixed period of time.

12. A court knows that refusal to condone delay would result in foreclosing a suitor from putting forth his cause. There is no presumption that delay in approaching the court is always deliberate. This Court has held that the words "sufficient cause" under Section 5 of the Limitation Act should receive a liberal construction so as to advance substantial justice vide Shakuntala Devi Jainv. Kuntal Kumari [AIR 1969 SC 575 : (1969) 1 SCR 1006] and State of W.B. v. Administrator, Howrah Municipality [(1972) 1 SCC 366 : AIR 1972 SC 749].

13. It must be remembered that in every case of delay, there can be some lapse on the part of the litigant concerned. That alone is not enough to turn down his plea and to shut the door against him. If the explanation does not smack of mala fides or it is not put forth as part of a dilatory strategy, the court must show utmost consideration to the suitor. But when there is reasonable ground to think that the delay was occasioned by the party deliberately to gain time, then the court should lean against acceptance of the explanation. While condoning the delay, the court should not forget the opposite party altogether. It must be borne in mind that he is a loser and he too would have incurred quite large litigation expenses. It would be a salutary guideline that when courts condone the delay due to laches on the part of the applicant, the court shall compensate the opposite party for his loss."

16. In the case of Lanka Venkateswarlu v. State of A.P. : (2011) 4 SCC 363 the Apex Court reiterated the view as take in the case of N. Balakrishnan (supra) and further held that once a valuable right has accrued in favour of one party as a result of the failure of the other party to explain the delay by showing sufficient cause and its own conduct, it will be unreasonable to take away that right on the mere asking of the applicant, particularly when the delay is directly a result of negligence, default or inaction of that party and further that Justice must be done to both parties equally. It was held as follows:

"20. In N. Balakrishnan [(1998) 7 SCC 123] this Court again reiterated the principle that: (SCC p. 127, para 11)

"11. Rules of limitation are not meant to destroy the rights of parties. They are meant to see that [the] parties do not resort to dilatory tactics, but seek their remedy promptly."

****

23. The concepts of liberal approach and reasonableness in exercise of the discretion by the courts in condoning delay, have been again stated by this Court in Balwant Singh [(2010) 8 SCC 685 : (2010) 3 SCC (Civ) 537] , as follows: (SCC p. 696, paras 25-26)

"25. We may state that even if the term 'sufficient cause' has to receive liberal construction, it must squarely fall within the concept of reasonable time and proper conduct of the party concerned. The purpose of introducing liberal construction normally is to introduce the concept of 'reasonableness' as it is understood in its general connotation.

26. The law of limitation is a substantive law and has definite consequences on the right and obligation of a party to arise (sic a lis). These principles should be adhered to and applied appropriately depending on the facts and circumstances of a given case. Once a valuable right has accrued in favour of one party as a result of the failure of the other party to explain the delay by showing sufficient cause and its own conduct, it will be unreasonable to take away that right on the mere asking of the applicant, particularly when the delay is directly a result of negligence, default or inaction of that party. Justice must be done to both parties equally. Then alone the ends of justice can be achieved. If a party has been thoroughly negligent in implementing its rights and remedies, it will be equally unfair to deprive the other party of a valuable right that has accrued to it in law as a result of his acting vigilantly."

****

28. We are at a loss to fathom any logic or rationale, which could have impelled the High Court to condone the delay after holding the same to be unjustifiable. The concepts such as "liberal approach", "justice oriented approach", "substantial justice" cannot be employed to jettison the substantial law of limitation. Especially, in cases where the court concludes that there is no justification for the delay. In our opinion, the approach adopted by the High Court tends to show the absence of judicial balance and restraint, which a Judge is required to maintain whilst adjudicating any lis between the parties. We are rather pained to notice that in this case, not being satisfied with the use of mere intemperate language, the High Court resorted to blatant sarcasms.

29. The use of unduly strong intemperate or extravagant language in a judgment has been repeatedly disapproved by this Court in a number of cases. Whilst considering applications for condonation of delay under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, the courts do not enjoy unlimited and unbridled discretionary powers. All discretionary powers, especially judicial powers, have to be exercised within reasonable bounds, known to the law. The discretion has to be exercised in a systematic manner informed by reason. Whims or fancies; prejudices or predilections cannot and should not form the basis of exercising discretionary powers."

17. In Maniben Devraj Shah v. Municipal Corpn. of Brihan Mumbai : (2012) 5 SCC 157 the Apex Court held that if the explanation given by the applicant is found to be concocted or he is thoroughly negligent in prosecuting his cause, then it would be a legitimate exercise of discretion not to condone the delay. It was held as follows:

"19. In P.K. Ramachandran v. State of Kerala [(1997) 7 SCC 556], this Court while reversing the order passed by the High Court which had condoned 565 days' delay in filing an appeal by the State against the decree of the Sub-Court in an arbitration application, observed that: (SCC p. 558, para 6)

"6. Law of limitation may harshly affect a particular party but it has to be applied with all its rigour when the statute so prescribes and the courts have no power to extend the period of limitation on equitable grounds."

****

23. What needs to be emphasised is that even though a liberal and justice-oriented approach is required to be adopted in the exercise of power under Section 5 of the Limitation Act and other similar statutes, the courts can neither become oblivious of the fact that the successful litigant has acquired certain rights on the basis of the judgment under challenge and a lot of time is consumed at various stages of litigation apart from the cost.

24. What colour the expression "sufficient cause" would get in the factual matrix of a given case would largely depend on bona fide nature of the explanation. If the court finds that there has been no negligence on the part of the applicant and the cause shown for the delay does not lack bona fides, then it may condone the delay. If, on the other hand, the explanation given by the applicant is found to be concocted or he is thoroughly negligent in prosecuting his cause, then it would be a legitimate exercise of discretion not to condone the delay."

18. In Basawaraj v. Land Acquisition Officer : (2013) 14 SCC 81 the Apex Court held that "sufficient cause" means that the party should not have acted in a negligent manner or there was a want of bonafide on its part in view of the facts and circumstances of a case or it cannot be alleged that the party has "not acted diligently" or "remained inactive". It was further held that the applicant must satisfy the court that he was prevented by any "sufficient cause" from prosecuting his case, and unless a satisfactory explanation is furnished, the court should not allow the application for condonation of delay, the court has to examine whether the mistake is bonafide or was merely a device to cover an ulterior purpose. It was held as under:

"9. Sufficient cause is the cause for which the defendant could not be blamed for his absence. The meaning of the word "sufficient" is "adequate" or "enough", inasmuch as may be necessary to answer the purpose intended. Therefore, the word "sufficient" embraces no more than that which provides a platitude, which when the act done suffices to accomplish the purpose intended in the facts and circumstances existing in a case, duly examined from the viewpoint of a reasonable standard of a cautious man. In this context, "sufficient cause" means that the party should not have acted in a negligent manner or there was a want of bona fide on its part in view of the facts and circumstances of a case or it cannot be alleged that the party has "not acted diligently" or "remained inactive". However, the facts and circumstances of each case must afford sufficient ground to enable the court concerned to exercise discretion for the reason that whenever the court exercises discretion, it has to be exercised judiciously. The applicant must satisfy the court that he was prevented by any "sufficient cause" from prosecuting his case, and unless a satisfactory explanation is furnished, the court should not allow the application for condonation of delay. The court has to examine whether the mistake is bona fide or was merely a device to cover an ulterior purpose. (See Manindra Land and Building Corpn. Ltd. v. Bhutnath Banerjee [AIR 1964 SC 1336], Mata Din v. A. Narayanan [(1969) 2 SCC 770 : AIR 1970 SC 1953], Parimal v. Veena [(2011) 3 SCC 545 : (2011) 2 SCC (Civ) 1 : AIR 2011 SC 1150] and Maniben Devraj Shah v. Municipal Corpn. of Brihan Mumbai [(2012) 5 SCC 157 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 24 : AIR 2012 SC 1629].)

10. In Arjun Singh v. Mohindra Kumar [AIR 1964 SC 993] this Court explained the difference between a "good cause" and a "sufficient cause" and observed that every "sufficient cause" is a good cause and vice versa. However, if any difference exists it can only be that the requirement of good cause is complied with on a lesser degree of proof than that of "sufficient cause".

11. The expression "sufficient cause" should be given a liberal interpretation to ensure that substantial justice is done, but onlyso long as negligence, inaction or lack of bona fides cannot be imputed to the party concerned, whether or not sufficient cause has been furnished, can be decided on the facts of a particular case and no straitjacket formula is possible. (Vide Madanlal v. Shyamlal [(2002) 1 SCC 535 : AIR 2002 SC 100] and Ram Nath Sao v. Gobardhan Sao [(2002) 3 SCC 195 : AIR 2002 SC 1201].)

12. It is a settled legal proposition that law of limitation may harshly affect a particular party but it has to be applied with all its rigour when the statute so prescribes. The court has no power to extend the period of limitation on equitable grounds. "A result flowing from a statutory provision is never an evil. A court has no power to ignore that provision to relieve what it considers a distress resulting from its operation." The statutory provision may cause hardship or inconvenience to a particular party but the court has no choice but to enforce it giving full effect to the same. The legal maxim dura lex sed lex which means "the law is hard but it is the law", stands attracted in such a situation. It has consistently been held that, "inconvenience is not" a decisive factor to be considered while interpreting a statute.

****

15. The law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that where a case has been presented in the court beyond limitation, the applicant has to explain the court as to what was the "sufficient cause" which means an adequate and enough reason which prevented him to approach the court within limitation. In case a party is found to be negligent, or for want of bona fide on his part in the facts and circumstances of the case, or found to have not acted diligently or remained inactive, there cannot be a justified ground to condone the delay. No court could be justified in condoning such an inordinate delay by imposing any condition whatsoever. The application is to be decided only within the parameters laid down by this Court in regard to the condonation of delay. In case there was no sufficient cause to prevent a litigant to approach the court on time condoning the delay without any justification, putting any condition whatsoever, amounts to passing an order in violation of the statutory provisions and it tantamounts to showing utter disregard to the legislature."

19. Further in Majji Sannemma v. Reddy Sridevi : (2021) 18 SCC 384 the Apex Court while referring to its various judgments has held that that in the absence of reasonable, satisfactory or even appropriate explanation for seeking condonation of delay, the same is not to be condoned lightly. It has been held as follows:

"6.2. We have gone through the averments in the application for the condonation of delay. There is no sufficient explanation for the period from 15-3-2017 till the second appeal was preferred in the year 2021. In the application seeking condonation of delay it was stated that she is aged 45 years and was looking after the entire litigation and that she was suffering from health issues and she had fallen sick from 1-1-2017 to 15-3-2017 and she was advised to take bed rest for the said period. However, there is no explanation for the period after 15-3-2017. Thus, the period of delay from 15-3-2017 till the second appeal was filed in the year 2021 has not at all been explained. Therefore, the High Court has not exercised the discretion judiciously.

7. At this stage, a few decisions of this Court on delay in filing the appeal are referred to and considered as under:

7.1. In Ramlal [Ramlal v. Rewa Coalfields Ltd., 1961 SCC OnLine SC 39 : (1962) 2 SCR 762 : AIR 1962 SC 361] , it is observed and held as under : (AIR pp. 363-64, para 7)

"7. In construing Section 5 it is relevant to bear in mind two important considerations. The first consideration is that the expiration of the period of limitation prescribed for making an appeal gives rise to a right in favour of the decree-holder to treat the decree as binding between the parties. In other words, when the period of limitation prescribed has expired the decree-holder has obtained a benefit under the law of limitation to treat the decree as beyond challenge, and this legal right which has accrued to the decree-holder by lapse of time should not be light-heartedly disturbed. The other consideration which cannot be ignored is that if sufficient cause for excusing delay is shown discretion is given to the court to condone delay and admit the appeal. This discretion has been deliberately conferred on the court in order that judicial power and discretion in that behalf should be exercised to advance substantial justice. As has been observed by the Madras High Court in Krishna v. Chathappan [Krishna v. Chathappan, 1889 SCC OnLine Mad 1] : (SCC OnLine Mad para 2)

'2. ... Section 5 gives the Court a discretion which in respect of jurisdiction is to be exercised in the way in which judicial power and discretion ought to be exercised upon principles which are well understood; the words "sufficient cause" receiving a liberal construction so as to advance substantial justice when no negligence nor inaction nor want of bona fides is imputable to the appellant.' "

7.2. In P.K. Ramachandran [P.K. Ramachandran v. State of Kerala, (1997) 7 SCC 556], while refusing to condone the delay of 565 days, it is observed that in the absence of reasonable, satisfactory or even appropriate explanation for seeking condonation of delay, the same is not to be condoned lightly. It is further observed that the law of limitation may harshly affect a particular party but it has to be applied with all its rigour when the statute so prescribes and the courts have no power to extend the period of limitation on equitable grounds. It is further observed that while exercising discretion for condoning the delay, the court has to exercise discretion judiciously.

7.3. In Pundlik Jalam Patil [Pundlik Jalam Patil v. Jalgaon Medium Project, (2008) 17 SCC 448 : (2009) 5 SCC (Civ) 907], it is observed as under : (SCC p. 450)

"... the laws of limitation are founded on public policy. Statutes of limitation are sometimes described as "statutes of peace". An unlimited and perpetual threat of limitation creates insecurity and uncertainty; some kind of limitation is essential for public order. The principle is based on the maxim "interest reipublicae ut sit finis litium", that is, the interest of the State requires that there should be end to litigation but at the same time laws of limitation are a means to ensure private justice suppressing fraud and perjury, quickening diligence and preventing oppression. The object for fixing time-limit for litigation is based on public policy fixing a lifespan for legal remedy for the purpose of general welfare. They are meant to see that the parties do not resort to dilatory tactics but avail their legal remedies promptly. Salmond in his Jurisprudence states that the laws come to the assistance of the vigilant and not of the sleepy."

7.4. In Basawaraj [Basawaraj v. LAO, (2013) 14 SCC 81], it is observed and held by this Court that the discretion to condone the delay has to be exercised judiciously based on facts and circumstances of each case. It is further observed that the expression "sufficient cause" cannot be liberally interpreted if negligence, inaction or lack of bona fides is attributed to the party. It is further observed that even though limitation may harshly affect rights of a party but it has to be applied with all its rigour when prescribed by statute. It is further observed that in case a party has acted with negligence, lack of bona fides or there is inaction then there cannot be any justified ground for condoning the delay even by imposing conditions. It is observed that each application for condonation of delay has to be decided within the framework laid down by this Court. It is further observed that if courts start condoning delay where no sufficient cause is made out by imposing conditions then that would amount to violation of statutory principles and showing utter disregard to legislature.

7.5. In Pundlik Jalam Patil [Pundlik Jalam Patil v. Jalgaon Medium Project, (2008) 17 SCC 448 : (2009) 5 SCC (Civ) 907], it is observed by this Court that the court cannot enquire into belated and stale claims on the ground of equity. Delay defeats equity. The courts help those who are vigilant and "do not slumber over their rights".

8. Applying the law laid down by this Court in the aforesaid decisions to the facts of the case on hand and considering the averments in the application for condonation of delay, we are of the opinion that as such no explanation much less a sufficient or a satisfactory explanation had been offered by Respondents 1 and 2 herein—appellants before the High Court for condonation of huge delay of 1011 days in preferring the second appeal. The High Court is not at all justified in exercising its discretion to condone such a huge delay. The High Court has not exercised the discretion judiciously. The reasoning given by the High Court while condoning huge delay of 1011 days is not germane. Therefore, the High Court has erred in condoning the huge delay of 1011 days in preferring the appeal by Respondents 1 and 2 herein—original defendants. Impugned order [Reddy Sridevi v. Majji Sannemma, 2021 SCC OnLine AP 3977] passed by the High Court is unsustainable both, on law as well as on facts."

20. Then in the case of Sheo Raj Singh v. Union of India : (2023) 10 SCC 531 the Apex Court has held that there is a distinction between "explanation" and "excuse" and held that care must be taken to distinguish them and each case for condonation of delay based on existence or absence of sufficient cause has to be decided on its own facts. It was held as under:

"31. Sometimes, due to want of sufficient cause being shown or an acceptable explanation being proffered, delay of the shortest range may not be condoned whereas, in certain other cases, delay of long periods can be condoned if the explanation is satisfactory and acceptable. Of course, the courts must distinguish between an "explanation" and an "excuse". An "explanation" is designed to give someone all of the facts and lay out the cause for something. It helps clarify the circumstances of a particular event and allows the person to point out that something that has happened is not his fault, if it is really not his fault. Care must, however, be taken to distinguish an "explanation" from an "excuse". Although people tend to see "explanation" and "excuse" as the same thing and struggle to find out the difference between the two, there is a distinction which, though fine, is real.

32. An "excuse" is often offered by a person to deny responsibility and consequences when under attack. It is sort of a defensive action. Calling something as just an "excuse" would imply that the explanation proffered is believed not to be true. Thus said, there is no formula that caters to all situations and, therefore, each case for condonation of delay based on existence or absence of sufficient cause has to be decided on its own facts. At this stage, we cannot but lament that it is only excuses, and not explanations, that are more often accepted for condonation of long delays to safeguard public interest from those hidden forces whose sole agenda is to ensure that a meritorious claim does not reach the higher courts for adjudication."

21. Even otherwise by deciding the application for delay condonation and not entering into the merits of the matter would not in any manner prejudice the revisionist. The law on the grievance of the revisionist is also well settled. In the case of Aleque Padamsee Vs. Union of India : 2007 (6) SCC 171 it has been held by the Apex Court that the correct position in law is that the police officials ought to register the FIR whenever facts brought to their notice show that cognizable offence has been made out but in case the police officials fail to do so, the modalities to be adopted are as set out in Section 190 read with Section 200 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. It has been held as follows:

"7. Whenever any information is received by the police about the alleged commission of offence which is a cognizable one there is a duty to register the FIR. There can be no dispute on that score. The only question is whether a writ can be issued to the police authorities to register the same. The basic question is as to what course is to be adopted if the police does not do it. As was held in All India Institute of Medical Sciences case [(1996) 11 SCC 582 : 1997 SCC (Cri) 303] and reiterated in Gangadhar case [(2004) 7 SCC 768 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 404] the remedy available is as set out above by filing a complaint before the Magistrate. Though it was faintly suggested that there was conflict in the views in All India Institute of Medical Sciences case [(1996) 11 SCC 582 : 1997 SCC (Cri) 303], Gangadhar case [(2004) 7 SCC 768 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 404], Hari Singh case [(2006) 5 SCC 733 : (2006) 3 SCC (Cri) 63], Minu Kumari case [(2006) 4 SCC 359 : (2006) 2 SCC (Cri) 310] and Ramesh Kumari case [(2006) 2 SCC 677 : (2006) 1 SCC (Cri) 678 : AIR 2006 SC 1322], we find that the view expressed in Ramesh Kumari case [(2006) 2 SCC 677 : (2006) 1 SCC (Cri) 678 : AIR 2006 SC 1322] related to the action required to be taken by the police when any cognizable offence is brought to its notice. In Ramesh Kumari case [(2006) 2 SCC 677 : (2006) 1 SCC (Cri) 678 : AIR 2006 SC 1322] the basic issue did not relate to the methodology to be adopted which was expressly dealt with in All India Institute of Medical Sciences case [(1996) 11 SCC 582 : 1997 SCC (Cri) 303], Gangadhar case [(2004) 7 SCC 768 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 404], Minu Kumari case [(2006) 4 SCC 359 : (2006) 2 SCC (Cri) 310] and Hari Singh case [(2006) 5 SCC 733 : (2006) 3 SCC (Cri) 63]. The view expressed in Ramesh Kumari case [(2006) 2 SCC 677 : (2006) 1 SCC (Cri) 678 : AIR 2006 SC 1322] was reiterated in Lallan Chaudhary v. State of Bihar [(2006) 12 SCC 229 : (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 684 : AIR 2006 SC 3376]. The course available, when the police does not carry out the statutory requirements under Section 154 was directly in issue in All India Institute of Medical Sciences case [(1996) 11 SCC 582 : 1997 SCC (Cri) 303], Gangadhar case [(2004) 7 SCC 768 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 404], Hari Singh case [(2006) 5 SCC 733 : (2006) 3 SCC (Cri) 63] and Minu Kumari case [(2006) 4 SCC 359 : (2006) 2 SCC (Cri) 310]. The correct position in law, therefore, is that the police officials ought to register the FIR whenever facts brought to their notice show that cognizable offence has been made out. In case the police officials fail to do so, the modalities to be adopted are as set out in Section 190 read with Section 200 of the Code. It appears that in the present case initially the case was tagged by order dated 24-2-2003 with WP (C) No. 530 of 2002 and WP (C) No. 221 of 2002. Subsequently, these writ petitions were delinked from the aforesaid writ petitions."

(emphasis supplied)

22. The revisionist claims himself to be in the field of social service as pleaded by him in his application filed under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. which is annexure 3 to the affidavit in support of the revision. In para 1 he claims himself to be a social worker and an R.T.I. Activist and as such he cannot be found as a person to be casual, non-serious and non-vigilant. He also cannot be taken to be a rustic and an ignorant villager. There is no ground taken in the application for condonation of delay and the affidavit in support of it to show that there has been seriousness by the revisionist in perusing the matter. The averments in the affidavit in support of the application for condonation of delay are vague and unsubstantiated submissions. The revisionist has failed even remotely to demonstrate sufficient cause for condonation of delay. Although the length of the delay has never been a consideration before the Courts for deciding an application for condonation of delay provided there has been proper, efficient and substantiated grounds mentioned therein which could have stood uncontroverted. Although the grounds to allow the application for delay condonation to advance substantial justice could have been considered but looking to the history of the issue and dispute being the filing of an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. before this Court challenging the order impugned, getting it withdrawn for seeking appropriate remedy as per law, then the filing of the present revision that too with a delay and conveniently avoiding the disclosure of the date on which the order impugned was applied for, for being filed with the memo in the revision before this Court along with the fact that there has been unsubstantiated submissions as reasons for delay in filing of the revision it does not show any seriousness in persuasion of the matter.

23. This Court views the applicant to be casual, non-serious and non-vigilant in preferring the present revision.

24. Thus looking to the entire facts as stated above and the law as culled out along with fact of non-prejudice, this Court is of the opinion that the application for condonation of delay is without any cogent reason, convincing justification and substantiated material and as such is not inclined to condone the delay.

25. The Criminal Misc. Delay Condonation Application No. 1 of 2023 dated 11.04.2023 is dismissed.

26. Since the misc. application for condonation of delay is dismissed, the revision also would not survive and is also consigned to records.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1472
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 01.05.2023

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE JYOTSNA SHARMA, J.

Crl. Revision No. 1058 of 2023

Raghunath ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Rahul Singh Dahiya

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A., Sri Chandra Kumar Singh

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 307 & 504 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 227 & 319 - F.I.R. lodged by informant against accused and co-accused, alleging that owing to prior enmity, both abused his son, when his objected, co-accused fired at him with pistol, causing gunshot injury at back of his neck - Victim was medically examined where firearm entry wound confirmed - Investigation culminated in charge sheet against co-accused alone - During trial, after examination of two witnesses, application u/s 319 Cr.P.C. was allowed, summoning accused - Criminal Revision against summoning order dismissed by High Court - Discharge application rejected by trial court - Impugned order - Held, revisionist contends that prosecution witnesses deposed falsely - It is settled law that at this stage, evidence cannot be meticulously scrutinized, nor can categorical finding on its credibility be recorded - Such determination is permissible only upon evaluation of entire material and evidence produced by prosecution at trial - Opportunity of hearing afforded to accused person u/s

227 Cr.P.C. is limited to consideration of prosecution material alone - Credibility of evidence by witnesses to be tested in cross-examination - No illegality in impugned order. (Para 3, 9, 10)

Revision dismissed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:-

1. St. of Raj. Vs Ashok Kumar Kashyap, 2021 SCC Online 314 (SC)

2. St. by Karnataka Lokayukta Vs M. R. Hiremath, (2019) 7 SCC 515

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

1. Sri Rahul Singh Dahiya, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Chandra Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and learned A.G.A. for the State are present.

2. This criminal revision has been filed challenging the order dated 13.02.2023 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Bulandshahar in S.T. No.814 of 2021 (State vs. Arun), whereby the application under section 227 of Cr.P.C. of the revisionist has been rejected.

3. Relevant facts emerging from the record are as below:-

(I) The first informant- Rajveer filed an F.I.R. naming two persons Arun and Raghunath with the allegations that owing to old enmity, both of them began using abusive words against his son Dheeraj; when Dheeraj protested, Arun whipped out his pistol and shot at him; the shot hit at the back of his neck; he was referred to District Hospital, Meerut;

(II) The matter was investigated upon; the injured was examined at District Hospital, Bulandshahar; a fire arm wound of entry was found behind his neck; the statement of witnesses were recorded and thereafter one of the named accused persons Arun was charge-sheeted;

(III) The Sessions Trial against him proceeded and two witnesses were examined by the court concerned; an application under section 319 Cr.P.C. was moved for summoning Raghunath as accused; the Court passed an order dated 02.07.2022 summoning him to face trial under sections- 307 and 504 I.P.C.;

(IV) Challenging the above summoning order, a Criminal Revision No.3018 of 2022 was filed by Raghunath, which was dismissed by order dated 21.11.2022 by the High Court;

(V) Thereafter, discharge application on behalf of Raghunath Singh was moved before the trial court on 13.02.2023; the trial court dismissed the same by order dated 13.02.2023, which is now under challenge before this Court.

4. Following grounds have been taken by the revisionist to assail the impugned order:-

It was the revisionist- Raghunath, who brought injured Dheeraj for treatment at District Hospital, Bulandshahar.

The injured sustained only one fire arm injury.

Eye-witness Deepanshu has stated that the shot was fired upon by co-accused Arun and that the present revisionist was not present at the spot.

Certain witnesses have given notarized affidavit during the course of investigation confirming absence of revisionist on the spot, at the time of occurrence.

The Investigating Officer did not find sufficient evidence against him, therefore he did not charge-sheet him.
During the course of investigation, an inquiry was conducted by Additional Superintendent of Police and he found that revisionist- Raghunath was not involved in the instant incident.
The evidence given by P.W.1 is false.
The revision filed by him challenging the order passed under section 319 Cr.P.C. was not disposed of on merit. Hence that order cannot be considered as estopping the revisionist from raising the objections against framing of charge.
The impugned order is cryptic, non-speaking, illegal and arbitrary.

5. Heard both the sides and perused the material on record.

6. One of the forceful contentions of the revisionist is that the dismissal of his criminal revision by the High Court filed against order passed under section 319 Cr.P.C., cannot be treated as an obstacle for considering his discharge application on merit for the reason that it was not considered on merit. Besides raising above point, it is argued that there are several facts, which should have been considered by the trial court as they point out towards the innocence of the revisionist. It is argued that the fact that it was the revisionist himself who brought the injured in the hospital and that several witnesses gave evidence during the course of investigation as well that he was not present on the spot at the time of occurrence should have been given importance but these facts were completely ignored by the trial court.

7. As far as the scope of Section- 227 Cr.P.C. is concerned, the Supreme Court in State of Rajasthan vs. Ashok Kumar Kashyap, 2021 SCC Online 314 (SC) held that:-

"At the stage of framing of the charge, it has to be seen whether or not a prima facie case is made out and the defence of the accused is not to be considered."

8. In another case, the Supreme Court in State by Karnataka Lokayukta vs. M. R. Hiremath, (2019) 7 SCC 515, has held that:-

"It is a settled principle of law that at the stage of considering an application for discharge the court must proceed on the assumption that the material which has been brought on the record by the prosecution is true and evaluate the material in order to determine whether the facts emerging from the material, taken on its face value, disclose the existence of the ingredients necessary to constitute the offence."

9. At this juncture, it may be noted that the revisionist-accused has been summoned by the trial court by exercise of powers under section- 319 Cr.P.C. and that the order has become final as it remains unchallenged. It will create a anomalous situation, if court is allowed to give a finding, though there were sufficient material to take cognizance against an accused person under section 319 Cr.P.C., but there is no sufficient ground to frame charge against him. This legal position is also noteworthy that at this stage the Court is not allowed to consider any extraneous material, which is not already part of record. In other words, it is not permissible for the Court to consider the defence of the accused. He cannot bring any evidence in his defence though it is perfectly within his rights to point out the deficiencies, flaws or infirmities in the prosecution case. In this view of the matter, the Court has to act in a narrow purview. The revisionist-Raghunath has specifically mentioned that the witnesses of fact have given false evidence; this is a settled position of law that the evidence on record cannot be evaluated in a meticulous manner at this stage; this is not the stage to give a categorical finding that evidence given by the witnesses is not worthy of credit; any such determination can only take place on the basis of evaluation of all the material and evidence produced by the prosecution during the proceeding of trial; The questions which have been raised by the revisionist shall assume importance at the appropriate stage of the trial i.e. at the time of conclusion thereof.

10. In my view, the opportunity of hearing afforded to the accused person under the provisions of Section 227 should be understood in a narrow compass in as much the points raised by him must be decided on the basis of the record/material produced by the prosecution and nothing more; As far as the credibility or the reliability of the evidence given by the witness is concerned, it can only be tested by putting those witnesses through cross-examination and thereafter sifting the evidence through the judicial lens; In the light of above discussion, I do not find any irregularity, impropriety or illegality in the order so as to prompt this court to interfere or to exercise its powers under Section 397 Cr.P.C.

11. Accordingly, this criminal revision is dismissed.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1475
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION

CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 21.12.2022

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE JYOTSNA SHARMA, J.

Crl. Revision No. 1506 of 2022

Juvenile X ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Arvind Kumar Mishra

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A., Sri Ashok Kumar Rai

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 363, 366, 376, 342 & 506 - POCSO Act, 2012 - Section ¾ - SC/ST Act, 1989 - Section 3(2)5 - Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 - Section 15 - FIR lodged against juvenile and charge-sheet submitted under aforesaid Sections - On application, he was declared "child in conflict with law" on basis of his recorded date of birth (19.04.2002 / 01.07.2003), both showing him below 18 years, case was transmitted to J.J.Board - Informant thereafter sought inquiry u/s 15 JJ Act, as juvenile was above 16 years - J.J.Board ordered inquiry, further affirmed in appeal - Impugned order - Challenged on ground that Principal of institution proved date of birth showing age 15 years 9 months; thus, no provision to apply section of JJ Act, inquiry was illegal and legality of initiating inquiry under JJ Act after expiry of prescribed period - Held, mother of juvenile, on oath, St.d his date of birth as 16.04.2002, which remained unshaken in cross-examination - Admission in primary school made by grandmother, no authentic document produced at that time, recorded date of 01.07.2003 based on estimation by guardian - No evidence shown to prefer primary school record over date of birth corroborated by mother's St.ment and high school certificate - Courts below rightly relied on latter, corroborated by entry in High School papers - Though Section 14(3) is couched in mandatory terms, it cannot be interpreted to defeat statute's object - Inquiries u/s 15, 17, or 18 must reach their logical conclusion; hence, plea that inquiry beyond period prescribed in Section 15 is barred is untenable. (Para 3, 6, 7, 10)

Revision dismissed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Barun Chandra Thakur Vs Master Bholu & anr., Criminal Appeal No. 950 of 2022 decided on 13.07.2022

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Arvind Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Ashok Kumar Rai, learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 and Sri O.P. Mishra, learned AGA for the State.

2. This Criminal Revision has been filed on behalf of the revisionist through his mother challenging the impugned orders dated 10.01.2022 passed by learned Additional Session Judge/Special Judge (POCSO Act), Court No. 1, Gorakhpur in Criminal Appeal No. 62 of 2021 as well as impugned order dated 04.03.2021 passed by Juvenile Justice Board, Gorakhpur in Case Crime No. 147 of 2019, under Sections 363, 366, 376, 342, 506 IPC, Section 3/4 of POCSO Act and Section 3(2)5 of SC/ST Act, Police Station-Barahalganj, District Gorakhpur by which a preliminary assessment inquiry was ordered to be conducted and that order was affirmed by the appellate court.

3. The relevant facts giving rise to this revision are as below:

An FIR, Case Crime No. 0147 of 2019 under Sections 366 and 342 IPC, was registered against the juvenile and after investigation, chargesheet was submitted under Sections 363, 366, 376, 342, 506 IPC, Section 3/4 of POCSO Act and Section 3(2)5 of SC/ST Act; an application was moved before the court concerned Special Judge (POCSO Act) to declare him "child in conflict with law' stating therein that his recorded date of birth was 19.04.2002, therefore, he was merely 16 years 11 months and 15 days on the date of occurrence; his mother and another witness Ajay Kumar of Surya Bal Vidya Mandir, Gorakhpur were examined; the court noticed the fact that in the marksheet of high school, his date of birth was shown as 19.04.2002; other witness who too was examined on behalf of the juvenile deposed that as per the record of this school, his date of birth was 01.07.2003; the court gave an opinion that in both the contingencies, the applicant was below 18 years, therefore, he was declared a "child in conflict with law' and the file was transmitted to the Juvenile Justice Board by order dated 20.10.2020; an application by the informant was, thereafter, moved before the Juvenile Justice Board submitting that the juvenile was admittedly above 16 years of age, hence, an inquiry under Section 15 of the Juvenile Justice Act was incumbent to be conducted. The Juvenile Justice Board ordered for enquiry on 04.03.2021 and that order was affirmed in appeal on 10.01.2022. This revision has been filed challenging the aforesaid orders.

4. Both the sides were heard and perused the papers.

5. When the question of applicability of Section-15 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 was raised, the Juvenile Justice Board had to deal with his two dates of birth. Firstly, 19.04.2002 as shown in his high school marksheet. Secondly, 01.07.2003 as shown in the papers of the school first attended by him. The Juvenile Justice Board was of the opinion that the date of birth as given in high school certificate was reliable and thus he was adjudged as above 16 years of age. Consequently, an order for conducting preliminary assessment under Section 15 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 was passed on 04.03.2021. In the appeal filed on behalf of the minor, the appellate court was of the view that the genuineness of the high school marksheet was verified by the concerned police station and that his mother also stated that his date of birth was 19.04.2002, hence, that date of birth should be relied upon.

6. The impugned orders have been challenged specifically on two grounds.

Firstly, that the Principal of the institution which he attended first, was examined and he proved his date of birth, on the basis whereof his age came merely 15 years 9 months, hence, there was no reason to apply provisions of Section-15 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 and conduct a preliminary assessment; therefore, the order for inquiry is illegal and void.

Secondly, as the provisions of law required that preliminary assessment must be carried out within 3 months of first production of a "child in conflict with law' before the court and in case this inquiry is conducted now, naturally the results will be very different, as he has attained sufficient maturity by now. Any such inquiry at this stage is bound to create prejudice against him. Therefore, the impugned orders are liable to be set aside.

7. I went through the papers on record which include the copy of the statement given by mother of the juvenile. It may be conspicuously noted that his mother stated on oath that his correct date of birth is 16.04.2002. Nothing came in her cross examination to raise any suspicion on her statement. She fairly admitted that it was his grandmother who went for his admission in primary school and that neither she (mother) nor his father went for his admission. She has declined the suggestion that his date of birth was recorded on the basis of guessestimate. The statement of clerk from primary school where he admittedly studied in Class 1st onwards is on record. He has stated that in the papers of that school, his date of birth was mentioned as 01.07.2003 as told by his guardian and on the basis of how old he looked. Admittedly, no birth certificate or any other paper was produced before the school at the time of his admission in Class 1st. No reliable evidence or reasons have been unveiled before me by revisionist to place reliance on this particular date of birth. No grounds have been avowed before me to justify giving precedence to date of birth recorded in papers of his primary school over date of birth in other documents. In such circumstances, the courts below cannot be faulted for relying on date of birth given by his mother in her statement on oath and further corroborated by the entry of date of birth in High School papers.

8. Second contention relates to legality of initiating the inquiry under Section 15 of the J.J. Act after lapse of prescribed time period. It shall be useful to reproduce the relevant provisions of Section-15 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 which is as below:-

"(1) In case of a heinous offence alleged to have been committed by a child, who has completed or is above the age of sixteen years, the Board shall conduct a preliminary assessment with regard to his mental and physical capacity to commit such offence, ability to understand the consequences of the offence and the circumstances in which he allegedly committed the offence, and may pass an order in accordance with the provisions of subsection (3) of section 18:

Provided that for such an assessment, the Board may take the assistance of experienced psychologists or psycho-social workers or other experts.

Explanation.--For the purposes of this section, it is clarified that preliminary assessment is not a trial, but is to assess the capacity of such child to commit and understand the consequences of the alleged offence.

(2) Where the Board is satisfied on preliminary assessment that the matter should be disposed of by the Board, then the Board shall follow the procedure, as far as may be, for trial in summons case under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974):

Provided that the order of the Board to dispose of the matter shall be appealable under sub-section (2) of section 101:

Provided further that the assessment under this section shall be completed within the period specified in section 14."

Section 14(3) of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 provides that a preliminary assessment in case of heinous offences under Section 15 shall be disposed of by the Board within a period of three months from the date of first production of the child before the Board.

9. The contention of the revisionist, on the basis of the above provisions of law is that as a mandatory provision has been given as aforesaid providing for conduct of inquiry within the period of three months, hence, no inquiry may proceed after lapse of above time period. In my opinion, the language of the above provision, undoubtedly fixes an outer limit for conduct of inquiry and is worded in a mandatory language, however, it is nowhere provided in the Act that in case for some reason, the inquiry could not proceed or concluded within that period what can be the consequences thereof. It is nowhere provided that in such an eventuality, the proceeding shall stand vitiated or that in such case the juvenile shall be tried as one below 16 years of age.

10. In my view, the provisions lays stress on the fact that as far as possible the inquiry under Section 15 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 shall be conducted within the above time period. This time period, in my view has been fixed by the legislature keeping in mind the whole of the scheme of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015, through which a broader vision towards the juveniles or child in conflict with law runs. It may also be noted that Section 14(2) of the J.J. Act, 2015, carrying forward the same spirit, fixes an outer limit for completion of inquiry. Similarly time periods have been fixed for inquiries under Sections 17 and 18 of the J.J. Act, 2015 but it is nowhere provided that in case such a time limit could not be adhered, the proceedings against the juvenile shall be dropped. In my view, the language of Section 14(3), though couched in a mandatory manner, cannot be construed in a way so as to thwart or defeat the very purpose of the statute. The inquiry whether under Sections 15, 17 or 18 of the Act, have to reach to their logical ends, hence, the arguments that inquiry cannot be conducted beyond the statutory time period fixed under Section 15 has no legs to stand.

11. The second question arises is how the court shall have to proceed in case the inquiry under Section 15 is being conducted after a lapse of prescribed time period or even longer. It appeals to reason that when there is a long gap probably the juvenile may have attained sufficient maturity. It may be noted that in Barun Chandra Thakur vs Master Bholu and Another in Criminal Appeal No. 950 of 2022 decided on 13.07.2022 , the Apex Court has directed that when a preliminary assessment under Section 15 of the J.J. Act, 2015 is undertaken, assistance of expert psychologist/psychiatrist, psycho social workers or other experts has to be taken mandatorily. In my view, experts are the persons, who, while examining the juvenile for the purpose of preliminary assessment, can take care of the fact that they have a juvenile before them, who has added certain months or years to his mental age by lapse of time. No doubt the appellate Court/Juvenile Justice Board has to tread very carefully where such an eventuality has arisen but it may never be taken to mean that the preliminary assessment is a step which can be skipped over by the Juvenile Justice Board.

11. In view of the above, no interference is required in the order, hence, it is dismissed.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1479
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 09.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAM MANOHAR NARAYAN MISHRA, J.

Crl. Revision No. 2098 of 2021

Priyanka Mall @ Mahima ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Rahul Singh Dahiya

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A., Sri Chandra Kumar Singh

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 364 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 319 - Against summoning order - Motive has been attributed to respondent no. 4 that he got sale deed executed in favour of his wife through father of victim, of his property, which was fraudulent transaction and victim and many co-villagers alongwith Gram Pradhan visited office of SDM to lay their protest - Victim allured by accused persons for being ride on their motorcycle to travel for journey to her village - She was taken to other route and perpetrators said that they were bribed by her uncle to kill her, she got herself rescued anyhow and one of kidnappers chased and caught by villagers - She St.d in FIR regarding presence of PW-2 and PW-3 at time of her kidnapping - Only evidence laid against respondent no. 4 is that perpetrators of offence told victim in course of her kidnapping that they were bribed by her uncle to kill her - Allegation of conspiracy against respondent no.4 rests on alleged extra-judicial confession of co-accused to victim during her kidnapping - P.W.2 and P.W.3 did not depose to any extra-judicial confession by accused implicating respondent no.4, they only St.d having heard that co-accused claimed to be bribed by him to kill victim - Trial court rightly rejected application u/s 319 Cr.P.C., as parameters given in Hardeep Singh (infra) not fulfilled, no cogent evidence exists against respondent no.4 - Thus, revision lacks merit, dismissed. (Para 14, 15, 20)

Revision dismissed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Shiv Prakash Mishra Vs St. of UP, 2019(4) CCSC 1974(SC), (Paras 9 to 11)

2. Hardeep Singh Vs St. of Punj. (2014) 3 SCC 92, (Relied on)

3. Brijendra Singh Vs St. of Raj., (2017) 7 SCC 706, (Relied on)

4. Subramanya Vs St. of Karnataka, 2022 Live Law (SC) 88

5. Jitendra Mishra Vs St. of U.P., (2023) 7 SCC 344

6. Priyanka Mishra Vs St. of U.P., 2023 (SCC online) SC 978

7. Moorthy Vs St. of Tamilnadu, Criminal Appeal No. 975 of 2011, dated 18.8.2023

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist, learned counsel for respondent no. 2 and learned AGA for the State.

2. By means of instant criminal revision, revisionist has assailed the impugned order dated 10.8.2021 passed by learned Additional District and Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No. 1, Deoria by which the learned Judge has dismissed the application 131 Kha under section 319 Cr.P.C. in Session Trial No. 134 of 2018 (State vs. Ramkeshwar and others), under Section 364 IPC for summoning the respondent no. 4, Satendra @ Santosh Mall as conspirator to face trial with the accused, respondent nos. 2 and 3, who are already facing trail.

3. Factual matrix of the case in brief is that the informant/ revisionist lodged F.I.R. at P.S. Kotwali on 2.10.2012 at 6:25 hours stating therein that she is resident of village Parwa Tarwa (Parsia Mall), P.S. Kotwali, Deoria. Her uncle Santosh Mall @ Satendra Mall has got executed a fraudulent sale deed of property of her father in the name of his wife. She had gone to the court of SDM, Deoria in connection with that sale deed and after getting her statement recorded, she came to Kotwali. Her father went to Tehsil from there and she left for her village. When she reached near overbridge, her co-villagers Ramkeshwar Chauhan and Sambha Bhartiya offered her lift on their motorcycle and assured her that they will leave her at her village. As they were also going on same route, she sat at pillion of the motorcycle on their request. However, she noticed on the way that instead of taking her towards village, they were going to Kasaya road and when she asked as to why they had changed the route, they stated that they were taking her away from the village as her uncle has given money to them for her murder. They stopped the motorcycle near Ranchhor Kuti and consumed liquor. She anyhow get herself rescued from the clutches and run towards her village by shouting for help whereupon Gram Pradhan and other persons assembled there and caught one accused and other succeeded to escape from the place. FIR was lodged against Ramkeshwar and Sambha Bhartiya.

4. The victim, in her statement under section 161 Cr.P.C., has stated that Ramkeshwar was caught by the public at around 7:30 pm on 1.10.2012 but Sambha Bhartiya escaped from the place. IO also recorded statement of Durgesh Mall, constable Omkar Nath Tiwari and other witnesses during investigation. This fact surfaced during investigation that Ashok Mall, father of the victim is two brothers. The other is Satendra @ Santosh Mall, the proposed accused Santosh Mall got disputed sale deed executed in the name of his wife Savita which was strongly opposed by the victim and her family and they had gone to the court of SDM on the day of incident to get their statement recorded alongwith number of co-villagers in protest of this act of respondent no. 4. The victim was abducted on the way by the co-accused who are already facing trial. The allegations against the respondent no. 4 are that he conspired with named co-accused persons to get the victim abducted who was to be killed subsequently but she got narrow escaped from the clutches of perpetrators of crime.

5. On commencement of trial, evidence of PW-1 Priyanka Mall, PW-2 Durgesh, PW-3 Tribhuvan was recorded who supported the FIR version in their testimony. The informant moved an application under section 319 Cr.P.C. before the trial court to summon Satendra @ Santosh Mall to face trial together with accused Ramkeshwar and Sambha who are already facing trial in the case. He has been attributed role of chief conspirator in the offence.

6. Learned court below dismissed the application under section 319 Cr.P.C. with observations that proposed accused Satendra @ Santosh is not named in the FIR. No particulars are disclosed during evidence that who has conspired for kidnapping and murder of the informant alongwith co-accused persons and as to how she got rescued herself during course of evidence. It is also not clear that whether there is any evidence that any money (Supari) paid by the proposed accused to co-accused. The evidence required to summon the proposed accused in exercise of power under section 319 Cr.P.C. is not of such quality that it is of higher degree than that is required for framing of charge. The only fact with regard to uncle of the victim has emerged in the FIR that kidnappers had told the victim that her uncle has given money to kill her and same fact has been narrated by her in her statement as PW-1 during trial. No cogent evidence is found on record with regard to third person Satendra @ Santosh which could justify his summoning to face trial in exercise of power under section 319 Cr.P.C.

7. Learned trial court has dismissed the application under section 319 Cr.P.C. with above observations. Feeling aggrieved by the impugned order the victim / informant has filed present revision with prayer to set aside the impugned order and pass appropriate order in the case with regard to summoning of respondent no. 4.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionist pressing the ground taken in present revision submitted that uncle of victim has falsely executed the sale deed in favour of his wife on behalf of her father and for that reason she went to get her statement recorded before the SDM Deoria alongwith her mother and father and after giving her statement she left for her home. Two co-accused persons Ramkeshwar and Sambha met her on the way to her village and offered ride on their motorcycle and they also assured her to drop her at the village. However, they changed the route and when she asked the reasons for that they told her that her uncle has given money to kidnap and kill her. The victim has supported her FIR version in the statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. and statement recorded during trial. She has disclosed the name of her uncle in the statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. and further in statement recorded during trial as PW-1. The version of PW-1 is corroborated by the statement of PW-2 and PW-3 who has stated in their statement that they are co-villagers of the victim. PW-3 has stated that father of the victim is of feeble minded person and taking benefit of that the respondent no. 4 got sale deed executed in the name of his wife. The victim and co-villagers had appeared before the SDM Deoria in protest of this act of respondent no. 4 who got sale deed of the land of father of victim executed by playing fraud. PW-2 and PW-3 left for the village after meeting SDM by riding motorcycle. They had seen that their co-villagers Ramkeshwar and Sambha were also riding motorcycle and going towards the village. They asked victim to take ride on their bike and assured her to drop her in the village but the subsequently she came to know that instead of taking village, she was taken to Ranchhor Kuti. The accused intended to kill her, however, she got herself rescued and one of them Ramkeshwar was arrested by the villagers and taken to police station where victim was also present.

9. Per contra, learned counsel for respondent no. 2 and learned AGA submitted that there is no cogent evidence on record which could form satisfaction of the court below to exercise of its power under section 319 Cr.P.C. to summon the respondent no. 4 as accused to face trial with respondent no. 2 and 3 who are already facing trial. The impugned order is prompted by reasoned and speaking order. There is no infirmity or illegality in the impugned order whereby learned trial court has dismissed the application under section 319 Cr.P.C. moved by the revisionist/ informant.

10. Learned counsel for respondent no. 2 further submitted that even no time of occurrence is mentioned in the FIR except the version of victim that co-accused had told her during course of kidnapping that they were bribed by her uncle to kill her. There is no independent evidence against the respondent no. 4. The disputed sale deed executed in favour of wife of respondent no. 4 has already been challenged by the parents of the victim before the civil court by instituting Civil Suit as OS No. 713 of 2012 (Ashok and another vs. Savita Devi) which is pending in the court of Civil Judge (SD) court no. 18, Deoria and competent court has to decide regarding as to whether the disputed sale deed is fraudulent. Ashok Kumar, father of the victim has assailed the sale deed and sought his cancellation by claiming him as feeble minded whereas in said civil suit itself he has filed an affidavit to the effect that he is healthy and seeks to prosecute the suit personally. There is no particulars of offer or payment of any money by respondent no. 4 to accused persons who are already facing trial as contract money to kill or kidnap the victim. There is enmity of litigation between respondent no. 4 and PW-3 Tribhuvan and he is being implicated in the case due to village party bandi.

11. The stand of the accused persons who are facing trial, is that they were implicated in the offence at the behest of Gram Pradhan Anil Mall who was having enmity with previous Pradhan Neelamber who is brother of present accused Sambha Bhartiya. Neelamber had also visited the office of SDM on the date of incident.

12. Learned court below while rejecting the application placed reliance on the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in Shiv Prakash Mishra vs. State of UP, 2019(4) CCSC 1974(SC), wherein, Hon'ble Supreme Court placed reliance on its Constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh vs. State of Punjab (2014) 3 SCC 92 and Brijendra Singh vs. State of Rajasthan, (2017) 7 SCC 706 wherein it was held that power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. has to be exercised by the trial court sparingly, only on the existence of compelling reasons. Provision of Section 319 Cr.P.C. is being reproduced as under:

(1) Where, in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence which he appears to have committed.

(2) Where such person is not attending the Court he may be arrested or summoned, as the circumstances of the case may require, for the purpose aforesaid.

(3) Any person attending the Court although not under arrest or upon a summons, may be detained by such Court for the purpose of the inquiry into, or trial of, the offence which he appears to have committed.

(4) Where the Court proceeds against any person under Sub-Section (1) then—

1. the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced afresh, and witnesses re-heard;

2. subject to the provisions of clause (a), the case may proceed as if such person had been an accused person when the Court took cognizance of the offence upon which the inquiry or trial was commenced.

13. Hon'ble Apex Court in Shiv Prakash (supra) has held as under:-

"9. The standard of proof employed for summoning a person as an accused person under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is higher than the standard of proof employed for framing a charge against the accused person. The power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. should be exercised sparingly. As held in Kailash v. State of Rajasthan and another (2008) 14 SCC 51, "the power of summoning an additional accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C. should be exercised sparingly. The key words in Section are "it appears from the evidence"…."any person"…."has committed any offence". It is not, therefore, that merely because some witnesses have mentioned the name of such person or that there is some material against that person, the discretion under Section 319 Cr.P.C. would be used by the court."

10. As held by the Constitution Bench in Hardeep Singh (supra), the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is discretionary and is to be exercised sparingly which reads as under:-

"105. Power under Section 319 CrPC is a discretionary and an extraordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court, not necessarily tested on the anvil of cross-examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 CrPC. In Section 319 CrPC the purpose of providing if "it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence" is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused". The words used are not "for which such person could be convicted". There is, therefore, no scope for the court acting under Section 319 CrPC to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

11. The above view was followed in Brijendra Singh as under:-

"13. In order to answer the question, some of the principles enunciated in Hardeep Singh case (2014) 3 SCC 92 may be recapitulated: ….. However, since it is a discretionary power given to the court under Section 319 CrPC and is also an extraordinary one, same has to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. The degree of satisfaction is more than the degree which is warranted at the time of framing of the charges against others in respect of whom charge-sheet was filed. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised. It is not to be exercised in a casual or a cavalier manner. The prima facie opinion which is to be formed requires stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity."

14. In present case motive has been attributed to respondent no. 4 that he had got sale deed executed in favour of his wife through father of the victim, of his property, which was a fraudulent transaction and victim and many co-villagers alongwith Gram Pradhan Nilamber Singh had visited the office of SDM to lay their protest. The victim was allured by present accused persons for being ride on their motorcycle to travel for journey to her village. However, she was taken to other route and alleged perpetrators said that they were bribed by her uncle to kill her, however, she got herself rescued anyhow and one of the kidnappers was chased and caught by the villagers. She has nowhere stated in FIR regarding presence of PW-2 and PW-3 at the time of her kidnapping. The only evidence laid against respondent no. 4 is that perpetrators of offence had told the victim in course of her kidnapping that they were bribed by her uncle to kill her.

15. The allegation with regard to complicity of respondent no. 4 in present case as conspirator is based on alleged extra-judicial confession of co-accused persons before the victim during course of her kidnapping to the effect that they were bribed by her uncle to kill her. Motive has also been attributed to respondent no. 4 by the victim and witnesses as he had got a sale deed executed through father of the victim allegedly in a fraudulent manner, which was objected by the victim and her family members and a representation was made to this effect before the SDM. PW-2 and PW-3 have nowhere stated that accused persons had made any extra-judicial confession regarding their complicity in the offence or involvement of respondent no. 4 before them. They have only deposed before the court that they came to know that accused Ramkeshwar and Sambha had stated that they were bribed by respondent no. 4, Satendra @ Santosh to kill the victim.

16. Insofar as extra-judicial confession is concerned, it is treated a very weak piece of evidence and has to be received with care and caution, it can be relied upon only when it is consistent, clear and convincing. To use extra- judicial confession as evidence, the court requires some materials independent or satisfactory corroboration. It should not suffer from any material discrepancy and inherent improbabilities. There has been consistent view of various High Courts in this regard that confession of co-accused could be used solely in a corroborative capacity and not itself a basis of conviction. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Subramanya vs. State of Karnataka, 2022 Liv-law (SC) 88 recently held that extra-judicial confession of co-accused should not be reduced as substantive evidence. Confession of co-accused could be used only in respect of evidence and could not be made foundation of conviction.

17. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hardeep Singh (supra) settled the legal position that crucial test, which must be implied while summoning a person as additional accused, in exercise of power under section 319 Cr.P.C., is to find out more than a prima facie case against the accused as exercised at the time of framing of charge but falls short of satisfaction to the effect that evidence if unrebutted would lead to conviction.

18. Above view has been reiterated by the Apex Court in Jitendra Mishra vs. State of U.P., (2023) 7 SCC 344 as well as in Priyanka Mishra vs. State of U.P., 2023 (SCC online) SC 978. Section 30 of Evidence Act deals with confession of a co-accused, which provides as under:-

"Consideration of proved confession affecting person making it and others jointly under trial for same offence.—When more persons than one are being tried jointly for the same offence, and a confession made by one of such persons affecting himself and some other of such persons is proved, the Court may take into consideration such confession as against such other person as well as against the person who makes such confession."

19. On perusal of this provisions it appears that it is discretionary for the court to take into consideration the confession of co-accused while dealing with case of concerned person as well as against the person, who is maker of such confession. Therefore, it is mandatory for the court to take into consideration the confession of co-accused in every case. The provision is enabling in nature. In recent judgement Hon'ble Supreme Court in Moorthy vs. State of Tamilnadu in Criminal Appeal No. 975 of 2011 observed in its judgement dated 18.8.2023 as below:-

"Generally, it is a weak piece of evidence. However, a conviction can be sustained on the basis of extra judicial confession provided that the confession is proved to be voluntary and truthful. It should be free of any inducement. The evidentiary value of such confession also depends on the 1 (2011) 11 SCC 111 2 (2013) 12 SCC 383 3 2023 SCC OnLine SC 259 Crl.A.No.975 of 2011 person to whom it is made. Going by the natural course of human conduct, normally, a person would confide about a crime committed by him only with such a person in whom he has implicit faith. Normally, a person would not make a confession to someone who is totally a stranger to him. Moreover, the Court has to be satisfied with the reliability of the confession keeping in view the circumstances in which it is made. As a matter of rule, corroboration is not required. However, if an extra judicial confession is corroborated by other evidence on record, it acquires more credibility.".

20. With foregoing discussion and considering the rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties as well as material on record including the impugned order, I find no infirmity or illegality in the impugned order passed by the court below while rejecting the application under section 319 Cr.P.C. moved by the revisionist to summon the respondent no.4 as accused to face trial together with accused, who are already facing trial. The parameters laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court for invoking power under section 319 Cr.P.C. in Hardeep Singh (supra), is not fulfilled by facts of this case in respect of respondent no. 4. There is no cogent and strong evidence against the respondent no. 4 to invoke power under section 319 Cr.P.C. available to the trial court. There was no prima facie material and evidence for satisfaction of the court below that there was more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge but short of satisfaction to the extent that evidence if goes unrebutted would lead to conviction. Revision devoid of merits and deserves to be dismissed.

21. Accordingly, the instant revision is dismissed with above observations.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1486
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 13.09.2022

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE JYOTSNA SHARMA, J.

Crl. Revision No. 2126 of 2021

Minor s/o Moolchand ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Adesh Kumar, Priyanka Sharma, Sri Avnish Kumar Srivastava

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A., Sri Vivek Kumar Srivastava

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 302 - As per FIR, informant's son shot by revisionist (a minor) with country-made firearm near his college gate, leading to his death on the same day - FIR u/s 302 IPC lodged within five hours - During investigation, revisionist found to be about 13 years 6 months old, matter was placed before J.J.Board where order for determination of age passed - His bail application rejected, appeal also dismissed - Held, it was juvenile who came prepared and armed with country-made firearm and though he accompanied his brother, but it was he, who fired upon deceased, killing him almost instantaneously - Before commission of crime, he picked firearm from his own house indicating that incident was not committed at spur of moment, rather it was planned - This can also not be pushed aside that bail application and revision filed on behalf of minor through his grandfather and not by his mother or father - District Probation Officer reported that juvenile lacked proper family care and fell into bad company - It is doubtful that his grandfather alone can provide adequate care at his age of 13–14 years - Juvenile requires supervision, professional counseling and behavioral therapy - In view of facts and circumstances, revisionist not entitled to bail. (Para 3, 22, 23, 25)

Revision dismissed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Amit Kumar Vs St. of U.P., Criminal Revision No. 2732 of 2010, decided on 14.09.2010

2. Kanchan Sonkar Vs St. of U.P., Criminal Revision No. 1266 of 2020, decided on 01.12.2020

3. Amit Vs St. of U.P., Criminal Revision No.1852 of 2015, decided on 16.03.2016

4. Prakash Vs St. of Raj., 2006 Cri.L.J.1373

5. Vijendra Kumar Mali Vs St. of U.P., 2003 (1) J.I.C. 103

6. Om Prakash Vs St. of Raj. & anr.; (2012) 5 SCC 201

7. Mangesh Rajbhar Vs St. of U.P. & anr.; 2018 (2) ACR 1941, (Paras 13, 25)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Adesh Kumar, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Vivek Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 as well as Sri O.P. Mishra, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. This criminal revision under Section 102 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 has been filed on behalf of the minor 'X' S/o Moolchand through his natural guardian/grandfather Sri Ved Prakash S/o Late Desh Raz R/o Village- Akbarpur Shadat, Police Station Bahsuma, District- Meerut with the prayer to admit the minor to bail alongwith the prayer to set aside the order dated 07.07.2021 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board, Meerut and order dated 26.08.2021 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, POCSO Act, Meerut in Criminal Appeal No. 52/2021 arising out of Case Crime No. 34 of 2021 under Section 302 IPC, Police Station- Bahsuma, District- Meerut by which the bail to the juvenile was declined.

3. As per the version of the FIR, the informant's son- Nitin had gone to his college on his bullet motorcycle to receive his report card. When he approached the gate of his college, he found the revisionist (minor) and his brother- Arjun standing there. He got engaged in some kind of conversation with them. Suddenly, the minor whipped out a country-made firearm and shot at Nitin. He was referred to Meerut Hospital, where he succumbed to his injuries and died. On the basis of the FIR lodged by deceased's father within less than 5 hours of the incident on the same day, Case Crime No. 0034 of 2021 under Section 302 IPC, was registered and investigated upon. On finding one of the accused person, who is the present revisionist, a minor, the matter was placed before the Juvenile Justice Board, Meerut where an order for determination of age was passed on 23.06.2021 and he was found of the age of little over 13 years and 6 months. The minor applied for bail through his guardian/father namely, Mool Chand but the same was rejected by the Board. The Appeal No. 52 of 2021 filed against the above noted order dated 07.07.2021, was also dismissed by the learned Appellate Court below.

4. Aggrieved by the above two orders, the minor through his guardian/grandfather has come in criminal revision.

5. It is submitted by the revisionist that the courts below have not proceeded in accordance with the provisions of Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 which are mandatory in nature and have dis-entitled the minor from bail without any good reason. The courts below failed to consider that no material has been collected to demonstrate that there was any likelihood of juvenile being brought in association with any known criminals or to expose him to any moral, physical or psychological danger or that his release is likely to defeat the ends of justice. It is next submitted that the juvenile has had no criminal history and that the learned courts below have only considered the gravity of crime and dismissed his application on merits of the matter which clearly goes against the statutory provisions of Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act.

6. It has been submitted that gravity of the offence is not relevant consideration for refusing bail to the juvenile as has been held by this Court in Criminal Revision No. 2732 of 2010 (Amit Kumar vs. State of U.P.) decided on 14.09.2010, Criminal Revision No. 1266 of 2020 (Kanchan Sonkar vs. State of U.P.) decided on 01.12.2020, Criminal Revision No. 1852 of 2015 (Amit vs. State of U.P.) decided on 16.03.2016 and held by the Apex Court in Prakash vs. State of Rajasthan, 2006 Cri.L.J. 1373.

7. In Criminal Revision No. 1852 of 2015 (Amit vs. State of U.P.) decided on 16.03.2016, this Court referred to the earlier judgement in Vijendra Kumar Mali vs. State of U.P., 2003 (1) J.I.C. 103, wherein this Court reiterated that in a number of judgements, it has been categorically held that bail to the juvenile can only be refused if one of the grounds as provided in proviso to Section 12(1) of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 exist. So far as the ground of gravity is concerned, it is not covered under the relevant provisions. If the bail application of the juvenile was to be considered under the provisions of Cr.P.C., there would have been absolutely no necessity for the enactment of the aforesaid Act. The Section 12 of the Act contains a non-obstante clause, which indicates that the general provisions of Cr.P.C. shall not apply. Therefore, the gravity or seriousness of the offence should not be taken as an obstacle or hindrance to refuse the bail to delinquent juvenile.

8. It is contended that there exist no material to justify rejection of bail on the grounds envisaged in Section 12 of the Act. In view of the above provisions, the 'child in conflict with law', who has been in custody for quite some time deserves to be released on bail otherwise, the purpose of provisions of Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act shall stand defeated. It is also contended that care of the juvenile in a child care institution cannot be preferred over his care in his biological family.

9. Learned AGA as well as learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 have opposed the prayer for bail.

10. I perused the impugned orders. It appears that the Juvenile Justice Board, Meerut took into consideration the report of the District Probation Officer and made it a sole ground for dismissal of his bail application.

11. The learned Appellate Court below took into consideration amongst other facts, the fact that the weapon of offence was recovered from guardian/father of the juvenile which was bought almost a year before the incident of this case. The juvenile took that country-made firearm out from the almirah kept in his house and used that very firearm to carry out this frightful crime of murder. The learned Appellate Court below took into consideration the family background and the fact that because of disturbed and not so tranquil atmosphere in the family, he was driven to commit this kind of offence at a tender age of 13 1/2 years and that in all probability, he is not likely to get good guidance from his family members and therefore, on the basis of above observations, the learned Appellate Court below has dismissed the appeal.

12. In Om Prakash vs. State of Rajasthan and another; (2012) 5 SCC 201, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that the Juvenile Justice Act was enacted with a laudable object of providing a separate forum or a special court for holding trial of juvenile as it was felt that the children become delinquent by force of circumstance and not by choice and hence they need to be treated with care and sensitivity while dealing and trying cases involving criminal offence. It was further observed that when an accused is involved in grave and serious offence which he committed in a well planned manner reflecting his maturity of mind the court ought to be more careful. Thus, the Hon'ble Apex Court has brought in focus the nature of offence, the conduct of an accused as reflected in the method employed and connected facts in the commission of crime, in other words merits of the case, a relevant consideration while considering the matters of bail.

13. It may be noted that the Hon'ble Apex Court gave the above view in the background of the facts that age of the victim as determined by the courts below was not free from doubts. In the peculiar circumstances, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that where accused commits grave and heinous offence and thereafter attempts to take statutory shelter under the guise of being a minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording his age, is not acceptable and that the shelter of the principle of benevolent legislation of the Juvenile Justice Act is meant for minors, who are innocent law breakers and not otherwise. Nevertheless, in my view, the spotlight is again on the nature of crime particularly when the alleged crime is grave and heinous and factors connected thereto.

14. In Mangesh Rajbhar vs. State of U.P. and Another; 2018 (2) ACR 1941, this Court observed as under:

"13. No doubt, the Juvenile Justice Act is a beneficial legislation intended for reform of the juvenile/child in conflict with the law, but the law also demands that justice should be done not only to the accused, but also to the accuser."

25. It is not that this aspect of the gravity of the offence has been considered irrelevant to the issue of grant or refusal of bail to a minor in the past and before the present Act of 2015 came into force. In a decision of this Court under the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 where the interest of the society were placed seemingly not on a level of playing field with the juvenile, this Court in construing the provisions of Section 12 in that Act that were pari materia to Section 12 of the Act in the matter of grant of bail to a minor held in the case of Monu @ Moni @ Rahul @ Rohit v. State of U.P., 2011 (74) ACC 353 in paragraph Nos. 14 and 15 of the report as under:

"14. Aforesaid section no where ordains that bail to a juvenile is a must in all cases as it can be denied for the reasons".....if there appears reasonable grounds for believing that the release is likely to bring him into association with any known criminal or expose him to moral, physical or psychological danger or that his release would defeat the ends of justice."

15. In the light of above statutory provision bail prayer of the juvenile revisionist has to be considered on the surrounding facts and circumstances. Merely by declaration of being a juvenile does not entitle a juvenile in conflict with law to be released on bail as a matter of right. The Act has a solemn purpose to achieve betterment of juvenile offenders but it is not a shelter home for those juvenile offenders who have got criminal proclivities and a criminal psychology. It has a reformative approach but does not completely shun retributive theory. Legislature has preserved larger interest of society even in cases of bail to a juvenile. The Act seeks to achieve moral physical and psychological betterment of juvenile offender and therefore if, it is found that the ends of justice will be defeated or that goal desired by the legislature can be achieved by detaining a juvenile offender in a juvenile home, bail can be denied to him. This is perceptible from phraseology of section 12 itself. Legislature in its wisdom has therefore carved out exceptions to the rule of bail to a juvenile."

15. This Court in Criminal Revision 2808 of 2019, Sonu (Minor) vs. State of U.P., clearly opined that the gravity and heinous nature of offence become relevant while judging the entitlement of a juvenile to bail under last of the three disentitling categories under Section 12(1) of the Act. I fully agree with the above observation of this Court.

16. Though cases of juveniles who have allegedly committed a heinous crime and are of the age of above 16 years have been treated differently from those who are found to be of the age of below 16 years in the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015. However, by no stretch of imagination, it can be said that the Courts are bound to release the juvenile below the age of 16 years once he is found to be of that age and no more.

17. Ordinarily to dis-entitle the juvenile from the benefits of bail, as envisaged in Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act, the merits or say the allegations against him are not important and relevant as has been consistently held by the Hon'ble Courts from time to time. However, as said earlier the allegations may assume importance where the Court has to form an opinion about the ends of justice. The Courts are under obligation to address the concerns of both the sides while deciding upon whether or not the ends of justice shall stand defeated in case the juvenile is admitted to bail.

18. In my firm view, the manner of commission of the crime, the nature thereof cannot be ignored while striking a balance between the demands of justice of either of the sides. It shall be impudent to hold, regardless of the age of the juvenile, that the nature of the crime or merits of the matter are of no relevance when judging the entitlement of a juveniles to bail in cases where heinous crimes are committed. In other words, the nature of crime, the manner of commission, the methodology applied, the mental state, the extent of involvement, the evidence available shall be the factors to be taken into account in both the types of cases where the juvenile is below 16 or where the juvenile is above 16. No artificial line can be drawn between the two categories when considering the bail from this particular angle.

19. A word of caution may be added that no useful purpose may be served by looking into background of the offender or as to reasons and circumstances as revealed from social investigation report, which led him to this juncture or which brought him into such a quagmire. They may be factors which are for a social scientist to ponder over and to suggest the corrective action. A judge is only concerned with the facts arising out of the commission of crime with a view to decide upon whether or not to release him on bail. The Court is not expected to embark on inquiry going back in times and search for reasons and justifications for commission of a dastardly crime by a person of rather a very young and tender age and get swayed by it. From this point of view, a social background or a social investigation report may have a very limited purpose to serve. The findings cannot be solely based on such reports, which are more than often very superficial and unscientific. It is a common knowledge that social investigation reports are usually prepared on printed formats without proper research. In my opinion, not much reliance can be placed on such half baked reports. The Court may have to depend on its own judicial discretion and objective assessment of the things while still going strictly according to the provision of law as to bail and also keeping in mind that the Act has intertwined approach reformatory as well as retributive. The judge has to strike a precarious balance between interest of the child and interest of the victim and also the society at large.

20. The vastness of the ends of justice may pull within its sphere facts and circumstances, which may otherwise seem quite immaterial, extraneous, irrelevant, impertinent, not so important or even innocuous at first glance for the purpose of the applicability of proviso to Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act. The provisions of the Juvenile Justice Act though largely enacted with a reformative theories in mind do not obliterate streaks of retributive justice in them.

21. Another dimension which sweeps in, to be weighed, when considering the bail to juvenile, grant or refusal thereof, is the PRINCIPLE OF BEST INTEREST as described in Chapter IV, Section 3 (iv) of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015. And undeniably and unarguably keeping in mind the reformative goals of the Act, the bail can definitely be denied, where there are circumstances to arrive at a conclusion that bail should be declined because of the fact that juvenile shall not get such conducive atmosphere as may be needed for his own welfare and betterment, if released to his family or parents.

22. Coming to the facts of present matter, this cannot be ignored that it was the juvenile who came prepared and armed with a country-made firearm and though he accompanied his brother, but it was he, who fired upon Nitin, killing him almost instantaneously or sometime thereafter. Before commission of crime, he picked the firearm from his own house indicating that this incident was not committed at a spur of moment, rather it was planned. This fact can also not be pushed aside that the bail application and the present revision has been filed on behalf of the minor through his grandfather and not by his mother or father.

23. The District Probation Officer has reported that he was not properly taken care of in his family and that he fell into bad company. It is not very clear that how a grandfather can properly take care of a boy who is aged about 13 or 14 years. This fact is also worth notice that he may be in specific need of supervision or intervention and that he may be needing proper professional counseling and behavioral therapy.

24. The fact of matter is that in this case, a school going juvenile of a very tender age of little over 13 years and 6 months, indulged in a very heinous crime in a well planned manner, who came ready with a firearm and had a main role of shooting the victim; the victim herein was also a school going boy; sudden loss of a young member must have sent shock waves to victim's family members and they certainly must have gone through emotional trauma. The Court is, in such circumstances expected to strike a delicate balance between competing and more often than not, conflicting demands of justice where liberty of an individual is pitted against the larger interest of the society. In such cases, the need for specific supervision of the juvenile and wider need to convert the juvenile into a healthy adult by giving him professional counseling and behavioral therapy under the scheme of the Act cannot be underestimated. Moreover, it may be necessary to keep him away from the company of elements, which he previously had.

25. Considering all the above facts and circumstances of the matter, I concur with the conclusions arrived at by the Appellate Court and by the Juvenile Justice Board and am of the opinion that the revisionist is not entitled to bail.

26. Subject to orders of the Juvenile Justice Board, in this regard, the District Probation Officer shall sincerely attend to his duties as assigned to him in Rule 64 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection) Model Rule, 2016 and prepare individual care plan, if need arises; likewise person in charge of child care institution shall provide care and protection to the child as per scheme of the Act.

27. Accordingly, the present criminal revision is dismissed. However, the Juvenile Justice Board is directed to expedite the hearing and conclude the same at the earliest.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1492
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 25.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SURENDRA SINGH-I, J.

Criminal Revision No. 2680 of 2023

Harikesh & Ors. ...Applicants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Applicants:
Sri Vimal Kumar Pandey

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A., Sri Rajneesh Kumar Singh

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 323 & 308 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 227 - Informant/injured mentioned in his written report that on date of occurrence when he along with his son, reached District Headquarter, accused persons alongwith co-accused enquired from him about work done in village - Accused assaulted him and his son with rod, lathi and danda causing head injury to them - Informant further St.d that accused had assaulted him with intention to kill him - His son fell on ground and started vomiting and became unconscious - Eye - witnesses also mentioned same in their St.ments - Under Section 308 IPC, grievous injury or injury on vital part is not essential, what is material is assault on victim with requisite intention or knowledge - On basis of injured's St.ment, eyewitnesses testimony and injury report, trial court rightly found prima facie case against accused and directed framing of charges, thus, no illegality or infirmity in impugned order. (Para 21, 30, 32)

Revision dismissed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Trilok Chand & anr. Vs St. of Raj. & anr., 2011 SCC Online Raj 121

2. Amit Kapoor Vs Ramesh Chander & anr., (2012) 9 SCC 460, (Paras 12, 13, 20, 28 to 30)

3. Ghulam Hassan Beigh Vs Mohammad Maqbool Magrey & Ors. in S.L.P. (Crl.) No. 4599 of 2021, (Paras 15 to 17, 25)

4. U.O.I. Vs Prafulla Kumar Samal & anr., (1979) 3 SCC 4, (Para 10)

5. Dipakbhai Jagdishchandra Patel Vs St. of Guj., (2019) 16 SCC 547, (Paras 15, 23)

6. Sajjan Kumar Vs C.B.I, (2010) 9 SCC 368, (Para 21)

7. St. of Karnataka Vs M.R. Hiremath, (2019) 7 SCC 515

8. Tukaram Gundu Naik Vs St. of Mah., (1994) 1 SCC 465

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

Heard Sri Vimal Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the revisionists, Sri Rajneesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This criminal revision has been filed against the impugned order dated 16.11.2022 passed by Sessions Court, Kushi Nagar at Padrauna in Sessions Trial No. 772 of 2021 arising out of Case Crime No. 1247 of 2015 u/s 323 & 308 I.P.C., Police Station- Kotwali Padrauna, District- Kushi Nagar.

3. By the impugned order, the trial court rejected the application of the revisionists u/s 227 Cr.P.C. for discharging them of the offence.

4. The facts relating to the case in brief is that the informant Ram Chandra Kushwaha s/o Late Shiv Shankar, on being summoned by the Gram Sewak, Devendra Mishra, reached District Headquarter with his son Mithilesh. When he reached there, Gram Sewak, Devendra Mishra, accused Hrishikesh, Ajay and Pankaj started making enquiry about the work done in the village. The accused assaulted them with rod, lathi and danda causing head injury to them. Due to the assault of the accused, tension spread in the village. The accused are violent and criminal in nature. On the basis of the written report of the informant, Case Crime No. 1247 of 2015 u/s 323, 308 I.P.C. was registered against Hrishikesh, Ajay and Pankaj in P.S.- Kotwali Padrauna, District- Kushi Nagar on 25.08.2015 at 7 p.m.

5. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the revisionists that without considering the evidence on record, the trial court illegally rejected the discharge application of the revisionists. It has next been submitted in the medical examination report dated 25.08.2015 that the injuries of Mithilesh Kushwaha and Ram Chandra Kushwaha are simple in nature. In the x-ray report, no fracture was found on the persons of the injured. No injury was found on the vital part of the body of the informant and his son. It has also been submitted that the informant Ram Chandra Kushwaha has merely reiterated the facts given in the report. It has also been submitted that in the statements of prosecution witnesses, Mahendra and Buneli, only general allegations have been made. No specific role has been assigned to the revisionist in the scuffle. It has also been submitted that in the second statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. of informant Ram Chandra Kushwaha, he has for the first time mentioned that the accused with the intention to kill his son had caused injury on his neck. The injured Mithilesh Kushwaha in his statement dated 22.11.2015 recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. has merely repeated the statement of his father, informant Ram Chandra Kushwaha. The other prosecution witnesses, namely, Habib Ansari and Sagar in their statements recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. on 22.11.2015 have made specific allegations only against Hrishikesh regarding his attacking the injured with a rod. The other prosecution witness, Jitendra Madheshiya, in front of whose shop the scuffle took place has also made general allegations against the accused. It has also been submitted that since injuries caused to the injured, Ram Chandra Kushwaha and Mithilesh Kushwaha are simple in nature, therefore, offence u/s 308 I.P.C. is not made out against the accused. It has also been submitted that the Investigating Officer has not produced any incriminating material or evidence to establish the ingredients of Section 308 I.P.C. Learned counsel for the revisionists has placed reliance on the judgement of the Apex Court in Trilok Chand and Another Vs. State of Rajasthan and Another, 2011 SCC Online Raj 121.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and learned A.G.A. submitted that after examining the facts and circumstances of the case and the evidence produced by the Investigating Officer, the trial court has rightly rejected the application u/s 227 Cr.P.C. filed by the revisionists. The revision is devoid of any merit and it should be rejected.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionists, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and learned A.G.A. have been heard. Perused the entire trial court record and the record of the revision.

8. Before examining the merits of the present case, the ambit, scope and power of the Sessions Court as well as the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. should be discussed and ascertained.

9. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Amit Kapoor Vs. Ramesh Chander and Another, (2012) 9 SCC 460 in paragraph nos. 12 and 13 of its judgement has narrated the ambit and scope of revision by the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. which are as follows :

12. Section 397 of the Code vests the court with the power to call for and examine the records of an inferior court for the purposes of satisfying itself as to the legality and regularity of any proceedings or order made in a case. The object of this provision is to set right a patent defect or an error of jurisdiction or law. There has to be a well-founded error and it may not be appropriate for the court to scrutinise the orders, which upon the face of it bears a token of careful consideration and appear to be in accordance with law. If one looks into the various judgments of this Court, it emerges that the revisional jurisdiction can be invoked where the decisions under challenge are grossly erroneous, there is no compliance with the provisions of law, the finding recorded is based on no evidence, material evidence is ignored or judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily or perversely. These are not exhaustive classes, but are merely indicative. Each case would have to be determined on its own merits.

13. Another well-accepted norm is that the revisional jurisdiction of the higher court is a very limited one and cannot be exercised in a routine manner. One of the inbuilt restrictions is that it should not be against an interim or interlocutory order. The Court has to keep in mind that the exercise of revisional jurisdiction itself should not lead to injustice ex facie. Where the Court is dealing with the question as to whether the charge has been framed properly and in accordance with law in a given case, it may be reluctant to interfere in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction unless the case substantially falls within the categories aforestated. Even framing of charge is a much advanced stage in the proceedings under the CrPC.

10. In paragraph nos. 17 and 19 of the aforesaid judgement, the Apex Court has narrated that before framing a charge, what documents should be considered by the trial court. It has also provided about the extent of evidence required for framing of a charge. In paragraph no. 20 of the aforesaid judgement, the Apex Court has compared the power and extent of jurisdiction of the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. which is given hereunder :

20. The jurisdiction of the court under Section 397 can be exercised so as to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of an order passed by the trial court or the inferior court, as the case may be. Though the section does not specifically use the expression "prevent abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice", the jurisdiction under Section 397 is a very limited one. The legality, propriety or correctness of an order passed by a court is the very foundation of exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 but ultimately it also requires justice to be done. The jurisdiction could be exercised where there is palpable error, non-compliance with the provisions of law, the decision is completely erroneous or where the judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily. On the other hand, Section 482 is based upon the maxim quando lex aliquid alicui concedit, concedere videtur id sine quo res ipsa esse non potest i.e. when the law gives anything to anyone, it also gives all those things without which the thing itself would be unavoidable. The section confers very wide power on the Court to do justice and to ensure that the process of the court is not permitted to be abused.

11. After comprehensive survey and discussion of the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the factors to be considered by the trial court while disposing of application u/s 227 Cr.P.C. and framing charge u/s 228 Cr.P.C., the Apex Court in Amit Kapoor (supra) has given following directions :

27.2. The Court should apply the test as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made from the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith prima facie establish the offence or not. If the allegations are so patently absurd and inherently improbable that no prudent person can ever reach such a conclusion and where the basic ingredients of a criminal offence are not satisfied then the Court may interfere.

27.3. The High Court should not unduly interfere. No meticulous examination of the evidence is needed for considering whether the case would end in conviction or not at the stage of framing of charge or quashing of charge.

27.9. Another very significant caution that the courts have to observe is that it cannot examine the facts, evidence and materials on record to determine whether there is sufficient material on the basis of which the case would end in a conviction; the court is concerned primarily with the allegations taken as a whole whether they will constitute an offence and, if so, is it an abuse of the process of court leading to injustice.

27.10. It is neither necessary nor is the court called upon to hold a full-fledged enquiry or to appreciate evidence collected by the investigating agencies to find out whether it is a case of acquittal or conviction.

27.11. Where allegations give rise to a civil claim and also amount to an offence, merely because a civil claim is maintainable, does not mean that a criminal complaint cannot be maintained.

27.12. In exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 228 and/or under Section 482, the Court cannot take into consideration external materials given by an accused for reaching the conclusion that no offence was disclosed or that there was possibility of his acquittal. The Court has to consider the record and documents annexed therewith by the prosecution.

12. The statutory provisions regarding consideration of the case with a view to framing of charge or discharging the accused as given in Sections 226, 227 and 228 Cr.P.C. has been laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ghulam Hassan Beigh Vs. Mohammad Maqbool Magrey & Ors. in S.L.P. (Crl.) No. 4599 of 2021 :

15. Section 226 of the CrPC corresponds to sub-section (1) of the old Section 286 with verbal changes owing to the abolition of the jury. Section 286 of the 1898 Code reads as under:-

"286.(1) In a case triable by jury, when the jurors have been in chosen or, in any other case, when the Judge is ready to hear the case, the prosecutor shall open his case by reading from the Indian Penal or other law the description of the offence charged, and stating shortly by what evidence he expects to prove the guilt of the accused. (2) The prosecutor shall then examine his witnesses."

Section 226 of the 1973 Code reads thus:

"226. Opening case for prosecution.— When the accused appears or is brought before the Court in pursuance of a commitment of the case under section 209, the prosecutor shall open his case by describing the charge brought against the accused and stating by what evidence he proposes to prove the guilt of the accused."

Section 226 of the CrPC permits the prosecution to make the first impression regards a case, one which might be difficult to dispel. In not insisting upon its right under Section 226 of the CrPC, the prosecution would be doing itself a disfavour. If the accused is to contend that the case against him has not been explained owing to the non-compliance with Section 226 of the CrPC, the answer would be that the Section 173(2) of the CrPC report in the case would give a fair idea thereof, and that the stage of framing of charges under Section 228 of the CrPC is reached after crossing the stage of Section 227 of the CrPC, which affords both the prosecution and accused a fair opportunity to put forward their rival contentions.

16. Section 227 of the CrPC reads thus:

"227. Discharge.— If, upon consideration of the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith, and after hearing the submissions of the accused and the prosecution in this behalf, the Judge considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, he shall discharge the accused and record his reasons for so doing."

17. Section 228 of the CrPC reads thus:

"228. Framing of charge.- (1) If, after such consideration and hearing as aforesaid,the Judge is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence which-

(a) is not exclusively triable by the Court of Session, he may frame a charge against the accused and, by order, transfer the case for trial to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or any other Judicial Magistrate of the first class and direct the accused to appear before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or as the case may be, the Judicial Magistrate of the first class, on such date as he deems fit, and thereupon such Magistrate shall try the offence in accordance with the procedure for the trial of warrant cases instituted on a police report;

(b) is exclusively triable by the Court, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused. (2) Where the Judge frames any charge under clause (b) of sub-section (1), the charge shall be read and explained to the accused and the accused shall be asked whether he pleads guilty of the offence charged or claims to be tried."

13. While framing charge, the Court has to ensure that a prima facie case must be made out against the accused. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Union of India Vs. Prafulla Kumar Samal and another, (1979) 3 SCC 4, considered the scope of enquiry a judge is required to make while considering the question of framing of charges. After an exhaustive survey of the case law on the point, in paragraph no. 10 of the judgement, has laid down the following principles :

(1) That the Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under section 227 of the Code has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out.

(2) Where the materials placed before the Court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained the Court will be, fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(3) The test to determine a prima facie case would naturally depend upon the facts of each case and it is difficult to lay down a rule of universal application. By and large however if two views are equally possible and the Judge is satisfied that the evidence produced before him while giving rise to some suspicion but not grave suspicion against the accused, he will be fully within his right to discharge the accused.

(4) That in exercising his jurisdiction under section 227 of the Code the Judge which under the present Code is a senior and experienced Judge cannot act merely as a Post office or a mouth-piece of the prosecution, but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the Court, any basic infirmities appearing in the case and so on. This however does not mean that the Judge should make a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

14. The Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph nos. 15 and 23 of its judgement in Dipakbhai Jagdishchandra Patel Vs. State of Gujarat, (2019) 16 SCC 547, has elaborately discussed the law relating to the framing of charge and discharge of the accused which is as under :

15. We may profitably, in this regard, refer to the judgment of this Court in State of Bihar v. Ramesh Singh [State of Bihar v. Ramesh Singh, (1977) 4 SCC 39 : 1977 SCC (Cri) 533 : AIR 1977 SC 2018] wherein this Court has laid down the principles relating to framing of charge and discharge as follows: (SCC pp. 41-42, para 4)

"4. … Reading Sections 227 and 228 together in juxtaposition, as they have got to be, it would be clear that at the beginning and the initial stage of the trial the truth, veracity and effect of the evidence which the prosecutor proposes to adduce are not to be meticulously judged. Nor is any weight to be attached to the probable defence of the accused. It is not obligatory for the Judge at that stage of the trial to consider in any detail and weigh in a sensitive balance whether the facts, if proved, would be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or not. The standard of test and judgment which is to be finally applied before recording a finding regarding the guilt or otherwise of the accused is not exactly to be applied at the stage of deciding the matter under Section 227 or Section 228 of the Code. At that stage the court is not to see whether there is sufficient ground for conviction of the accused or whether the trial is sure to end in his conviction. Strong suspicion against the accused, if the matter remains in the region of suspicion, cannot take the place of proof of his guilt at the conclusion of the trial. But at the initial stage if there is a strong suspicion which leads the Court to think that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence then it is not open to the Court to say that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. The presumption of the guilt of the accused which is to be drawn at the initial stage is not in the sense of the law governing the trial of criminal cases in France where the accused is presumed to be guilty unless the contrary is proved. But it is only for the purpose of deciding prima facie whether the court should proceed with the trial or not. If the evidence which the prosecutor proposes to adduce to prove the guilt of the accused even if fully accepted before it is challenged in cross-examination or rebutted by the defence evidence, if any, cannot show that the accused committed the offence, then there will be no sufficient ground for proceeding with the trial. … If the scales of pan as to the guilt or innocence of the accused are something like even, at the conclusion of the trial, then, on the theory of benefit of doubt the case is to end in his acquittal. But if, on the other hand, it is so at the initial stage of making an order under Section 227 or Section 228, then in such a situation ordinarily and generally the order which will have to be made will be one under Section 228 and not under Section 227."

23. At the stage of framing the charge in accordance with the principles which have been laid down by this Court, what the court is expected to do is, it does not act as a mere post office. The court must indeed sift the material before it. The material to be sifted would be the material which is produced and relied upon by the prosecution. The sifting is not to be meticulous in the sense that the court dons the mantle of the trial Judge hearing arguments after the entire evidence has been adduced after a full-fledged trial and the question is not whether the prosecution has made out the case for the conviction of the accused. All that is required is, the court must be satisfied that with the materials available, a case is made out for the accused to stand trial. A strong suspicion suffices. However, a strong suspicion must be founded on some material. The material must be such as can be translated into evidence at the stage of trial. The strong suspicion cannot be the pure subjective satisfaction based on the moral notions of the Judge that here is a case where it is possible that the accused has committed the offence. Strong suspicion must be the suspicion which is premised on some material which commends itself to the court as sufficient to entertain the prima facie view that the accused has committed the offence.

15. In Sajjan Kumar Vs. C.B.I, (2010) 9 SCC 368, the Hon'ble Apex Court after elaborately discussing the scope of Sections 227 and 228 Cr.P.C. has laid down principles which emerge therefrom in paragraph no. 21 which is as under :

21. On consideration of the authorities about the scope of Sections 227 and 228 of the Code, the following principles emerge:

(i) The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 CrPC has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out. The test to determine prima facie case would depend upon the facts of each case.

(ii) Where the materials placed before the court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(iii) The court cannot act merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the court, any basic infirmities, etc. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

(iv) If on the basis of the material on record, the court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence, it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence.

(v) At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into but before framing a charge the court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commission of offence by the accused was possible.

(vi) At the stage of Sections 227 and 228, the court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. For this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

(vii) If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage, he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal.

16. In the case of State of Karnataka Vs. M.R. Hiremath, (2019) 7 SCC 515, the Hon'ble Apex Court has laid down principles to be considered by the Magistrate while dealing with discharge application of the accused u/s 239 Cr.P.C. in warrant trial case. The directions given by the Apex Court is equally applicable to the discharge of accused u/s 227 Cr.P.C.

17. In paragraph no. 25 of Ghulam Hassan Beigh (supra), the Apex Court held as under :

25. In the case of Asim Shariff v. National Investigation Agency, (2019) 7 SCC 148, this Court, to which one of us (A.M. Khanwilkar, J.) was a party, in so many words has expressed that the trial court is not expected or supposed to hold a mini trial for the purpose of marshalling the evidence on record. We quote the relevant observations as under:-

"18. Taking note of the exposition of law on the subject laid down by this Court, it is settled that the Judge while considering the question of framing charge under Section 227 CrPC in sessions cases(which is akin to Section 239 CrPC pertaining to warrant cases) has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out; where the material placed before the Court discloses grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the Court will be fully justified in framing the charge; by and large if two views are possible and one of them giving rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion against the accused, 3 2018(13) SCC 455 4 2019(6) SCALE 794 the trial Judge will be justified in discharging him. It is thus clear that while examining the discharge application filed under Section 227 CrPC, it is expected from the trial Judge to exercise its judicial mind to determine as to whether a case for trial has been made out or not. It is true that in such proceedings, the Court is not supposed to hold a mini trial by marshalling the evidence on record.

18. In paragraph nos. 28, 29 and 30 of the judgement in Amit Kapoor (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as hereunder :

28. At this stage, we may also notice that the principle stated by this Court in Madhavrao Jiwajirao Scindia[(1988) 1 SCC 692 : 1988 SCC (Cri) 234] was reconsidered and explained in two subsequent judgments of this Court in State of Bihar v. P.P. Sharma [1992 Supp (1) SCC 222 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 192 : AIR 1991 SC 1260] and M.N. Damani v. S.K. Sinha [(2001) 5 SCC 156 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 823 : AIR 2001 SC 2037] . In the subsequent judgment, the Court held that, that judgment did not declare a law of universal application and what was the principle relating to disputes involving cases of a predominantly civil nature with or without criminal intent.

29. In the light of the above principles, now if we examine the findings recorded by the High Court, then it is evident that what weighed with the High Court was that firstly it was an abuse of the process of court and, secondly, it was a case of civil nature and that the facts, as stated, would not constitute an offence under Section 306 read with Section 107 IPC. Interestingly and as is evident from the findings recorded by the High Court reproduced supra that "this aspect of the matter will get unravelled only after a full-fledged trial", once the High Court itself was of the opinion that clear facts and correctness of the allegations made can be examined only upon full trial, where was the need for the Court to quash the charge under Section 306 at that stage. Framing of charge is a kind of tentative view that the trial court forms in terms of Section 228 which is subject to final culmination of the proceedings.

30. We have already noticed that the legislature in its wisdom has used the expression "there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence". This has an inbuilt element of presumption once the ingredients of an offence with reference to the allegations made are satisfied, the Court would not doubt the case of the prosecution unduly and extend its jurisdiction to quash the charge in haste. A Bench of this Court in State of Maharashtra v. Som Nath Thapa [(1996) 4 SCC 659 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 820] referred to the meaning of the word "presume" while relying upon Black's Law Dictionary. It was defined to mean "to believe or accept upon probable evidence"; "to take as proved until evidence to the contrary is forthcoming". In other words, the truth of the matter has to come out when the prosecution evidence is led, the witnesses are cross-examined by the defence, the incriminating material and evidence is put to the accused in terms of Section 313 of the Code and then the accused is provided an opportunity to lead defence, if any. It is only upon completion of such steps that the trial concludes with the court forming its final opinion and delivering its judgment. Merely because there was a civil transaction between the parties would not by itself alter the status of the allegations constituting the criminal offence.

19. In the light of the law propounded by the Apex Court in the aforesaid judgement, now it will be examined whether the trial court has rightly framed the charge against the accused u/s 308 I.P.C. Section 308 I.P.C. defines the offence of attempt to commit culpable homicide and provides punishment therefor which is as follows :

308. Attempt to commit culpable homicide – Whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both; and, if hurt is caused to any person by such act, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, or with fine, or with both.

20. Before an accused can be held to be guilty u/s 308 I.P.C., it was necessary to arrive at a finding that the ingredients thereof namely requisite intention or knowledge was existing. The essential ingredients of the offence u/s 308 I.P.C. are as follows :

(1) accused committed an act;

(2) the act was committed with the intention or knowledge of committing culpable homicide not amounting to murder;

(3) the act was committed in such circumstances that if the accused by that act had caused the death of the victim, he would have been guilty of culpable homicide.

21. The informant/injured, Ram Chandra Kushwaha has mentioned in his written report that on the date of occurrence when he along with his son, Mithilesh Kushwaha reached the District Headquarter, the accused, Ajay, Hrishikesh and Pankaj, enquired from him about the work done in the village. The accused assaulted him and his son with rod, lathi and danda causing head injury to them.

22. The informant Ram Chandra Kushwaha in his statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. has supported the averments in the first information report and has stated as follows :

"दिनांक 25-08-2015 को ग्राम सेवक देवेन्द्र मिश्र के बुलाने पर मै व मेरा लड़का मिथिलेश जिला मुख्यालय गये थे। दोनो लोग पहुँचे तो ग्राम सेवक ने पहले से ही ऋषिकेश, अजय व पंकज जो उसके गांव के निवासी हैं, को बुलाया था। गांव के कार्यों के विषय में पूछने पर तीनो लोग लाठी डण्डा से पीटने लगे और प्राणघातक हमला कर दिये, जिससे मुझे व मेरे लड़के को चोटे आयी। साथ ही सड़क पर हम दोनो को पटक दिये। जिससे सर में भी चोटें आयी। गांव में तनाव उत्पन्न है। यह घटना 11 बजे दिन की है।"

23. The informant Ram Chandra Kushwaha in his additional statement has stated that :

"ऋषिकेश मेरे बेटे को जान से मारने की नीयत से अचानक राड से उसके गर्दन पर व कन्धे पर प्रहार कर दिये, जिससे वह नीचे गिर गया और बेहोश हो गया तथा उल्टी करने लगा। मुल्जिमान मुझे भी मारे पीटे व सड़क पर पटक दिये। मै व मेरा बेटा दोनो लोग जिला अस्पताल में अपना इलाज कराये उसके बाद मेडिकल कालेज में भर्ती रहे।"

24. The informant's son, injured Mithilesh Kushwaha has adopted the statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C. of his father as his statement.

25. The eye-witness, Habib Ansari in his statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C. given to the Investigating Officer has stated that :

"दिनांक 25-08-2015 को मै जितेन्द्र मद्धेशिया की दुकान पर मौजूद था। वहां पर ऋषिकेश, अजय व पंकज भी मौजूद थे। मेरे गांव का रामचन्द्र कुशवाहा व उनका बेटा मिथिलेश कुशवाहा वहां आये तथा ग्राम विकास अधिकारी पहले से वहां मौजूद थे। ऋषिकेश ने दोनो को राड से मारा। मिथिलेश के गर्दन पर लगने के कारण वह नीचे गिर गया तथा बेहोश हो गया। दोनो को उठाकर अस्पताल ले जाया गया। अजय व पंकज भी लोहे की राड से वार किये थे।"

26. The other eye-witness, Jitendra Madheshiya in his statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C. has stated to the Investigating Officer as follows :

"मै भी दुकान पर मौजूद था। मेरी चाय की दुकान है। सिसवा मठिया के प्रधान ऋषिकेश तथा अजय व पंकज ने अपने ही गांव के रामचन्द्र कुशवाहा तथा मिथिलेश को मारे पीटे थे, जिससे मिथिलेश के गर्दन पर राड से चोट आयी थी। वह मौके पर बेहोश हो गया था।"

27. Thus, the informant and the eye-witnesses have mentioned in their statements that accused, Ajay, Hrishikesh and Pankaj, attacked the informant Ram Chandra Kushwaha and his son, Mithilesh Kushwaha on their head with lathi, danda and rod due to which they received fatal injuries. The informant Ram Chandra Kushwaha has also stated that accused had assaulted him with the intention to kill him. His son, Mithilesh fell on the ground and started vomiting and became unconscious.

28. The injured Mithilesh Kushwaha was medically examined on 25.08.2015 at 6.30 p.m. Following injuries were found on the person of Mithilesh Kushwaha :

(1) Multiple contusion 7 x 4 cm over left side back 2 cm above from interior angle of right scapula.

(2) Abrasion 8 x 1.5 cm over right side back 4 cm above from interior angle of right scapula.

(3) Contused swelling 4 x 3 cm over tip of right shoulder. KUO.

(4) Complain of pain over lower back. KUO

(5) Complain of pain over chest, back of chest, abdomen.

29. The injured Ram Chandra Kushwaha was medically examined on 25.08.2015 at 5.50 p.m. Following injuries were found on the person of Ram Chandra Kushwaha :

(1) Contused swelling 5 cm x 4 cm over top of right shoulder joint. KUO.

(2) Contused swelling 3.5 cm x 2 cm over right side chest. 6 cm above from right nipple. KUO. Red in colour.

(3) Complain of pain over lower back.

(4) Complain of pain over anterior chest.

(5) Complain of pain over left side back.

30. From the definition of the offence of attempt to commit culpable homicide provided u/s 308 I.P.C., it is obvious that no grievous injury or injury on the vital part of the body is required. Only the injured must be attacked by the accused with requisite intention or knowledge.

31. In Tukaram Gundu Naik Vs. State of Maharashtra, (1994) 1 SCC 465, where none of the injuries had affected any vital part of the body and it was doubtful whether the accused had intended to commit murder of the victim, the Apex Court attributed only knowledge that by inflicting such injuries, he was likely to cause death and it was held that an attempt to such an offence would be punishable u/s 308 I.P.C.

32. In the light of the statement of the injured, Ram Chandra Kushwaha and that of eye-witnesses, Habib Ansari and Jitendra Madheshiya and the injury report of the aforesaid injured, the trial court has rightly held that prima facie offence u/s 323 and 308 I.P.C. is made out against the accused and has directed framing of charges under these sections. There is no illegality, irregularity or impropriety in the impugned order passed by the trial court.

33. There is no merit in the criminal revision and the same is liable to be dismissed.

34. The criminal revision is dismissed, accordingly.

35. Let a copy of this order be sent to the concerned trial court for necessary action.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1503
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 03.05.2023

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MRS. JYOTSNA SHARMA, J.

Criminal Revision No. 3268 of 2023

Devinderjeet Singh ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Sanjay Kumar Mishra, Sri Arvind Kumar Shukla

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A., Sri Aushim Luthra, Sri Syed Imran Ibrahim, Sri Vikas Chandra Srivastava, Sri Manish Tiwary (Sr. Advocate), Sri V.P. Srivastava (Sr. Advocate)

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 & 120B - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 245(2) - Complainant lodged FIR against revisionist and four others alleging that, after inducing business relations in 2012, revisionist persuaded him to hand over original share certificates, blank share forms, and signed blank papers on assurance of payment of ₹13.22 crore for his shareholding - These were misused to remove him from directorship of M/s J.S.S. Build Con Pvt. Ltd., leading to separate registration of F.I.R where investigation is pending - Informant alleged despite repeated demands, revisionist failed to return his papers, continued to advise him on various matters including proceedings before NCLT - On 01.07.2017, revisionist, in conspiracy with others, misused signed blank papers to fraudulently transfer 2,500 shares into his own name without his consent - Case registered against revisionist & ors. - Protest petition of informant treated as complaint case, upon examination, accused, including revisionist summoned - Summoning order challenged in Criminal Revision, dismissed - Revisionist preferred application for quashing of summoning order, rejected - Accused moved discharge application, dismissed - Revisionist contends that dispute is purely civil, arising out of money claim, and cannot be given criminal case - Summoning order, though ex parte in nature, requires judicial satisfaction based on evidence on record - While accused cannot adduce defence evidence at this stage, entitled to point out defects or infirmities in prosecution case - Trial court's refusal to consider objections given by accused on ground that no new evidence produced, reflects flawed approach, contrary to law - Impugned order, set aside. (Para 3, 7)

Revision allowed. (E-13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri V.P. Srivastava, learned Senior Advocate holding brief for Sri Vikas Chandra Srivastava, Sri Manish Tiwary, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Syed Imran Ibrahim, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2, Sri O.P. Mishra, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. This criminal revision has been filed by the revisionist- Devinderjeet Singh Sethi challenging the order dated 27.07.2022 passed in Complaint Case No.2322 of 2018 "Rishi Agarwal vs. Devinderjeet and Others", whereby the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate dismissed an application filed under section- 245(2) Cr.P.C. and posted the case for framing of charge under sections- 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 and 120B I.P.C.

3. Relevant facts as emerging from record are as below:-

(I) The complainant- Rishi Agarwal lodged an F.I.R. against the revisionist- Devinderjeet Singh, four other named persons and certain unknown persons with the allegations in nutshell that the first informant's company is in the business of sale and purchase of property in Delhi NCR; the accused-revisionist Devinderjeet Singh Sethi came in his contact in 2012 telling him that he is engaged in the business of giving money on credit; a meeting was fixed by one Piyush Tiwari and they entered into business relations; the complainant trusted the accused Devinderjeet; over a period of time certain disagreements arose with co-accused Piyush Tiwari; Devinderjeet Singh Sethi offered to settle the matter between him and the first informant; a meeting was arranged between all the shareholders and it was agreed that the shareholders shall purchase the first informant's share holding of Rs.13,22,50,000/-; Devinderjeet Singh Sethi was successful in persuading him to handover original share certificates, blank share forms and certain signed blank papers saying that he will keep them in safe custody and will utilize only when the price thereof Rs.13,22,50,000/- is actually paid to the first informant. A few days thereafter he came to know that by misusing his signed paper, he has been removed from the directorship of the company, M/s. J.S.S. Build Con Pvt. Ltd.; therefore, he filed a separate F.I.R. (Case Crime No.728 of 2016) at Kalikaji, New Delhi in which the investigation is going on.

Further, the first informant asked the accused-revisionist to return all his papers but he kept on avoiding on different pretext; till then, he never doubted the intentions of the accused-revisionist and has always been discussing and getting advised from him about his matters and also about the case, which is going on in NCLT, New Delhi; he came to know on 01.07.2017 that the accused-revisionist has given an application for transfer of 2500 shares in his name by misusing his signed blank papers; it is alleged that he hatched a conspiracy with others; the first informant had never given any consent for transfer of his shares and he got the shares transferred in his own name in a fraudulent manner. Therefore, the case is registered under sections- 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 and 120B I.P.C. against the accused-revisionist and others.

(II) The investigation commenced and statements of witnesses were recorded. The Investigating Officer filed a final report purportedly for lack of evidence against the accused persons.

(III) The protest application of first informant was treated as a complaint case and after examination of complainant, his witnesses and inquiry under section 202 Cr.P.C., accused- Devinderjeet Singh Sethi, Piyush Tiwari, Paritosh Kumar Sharma and Ankti Sharma were summoned for the offence under sections- 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 and 120B I.P.C. by an order dated 31.07.2018.

(IV) The accused person challenged the summoning order by filing a revision before the court concerned. The Criminal Revision No.187 of 2018 was dismissed and the summoning order was affirmed by an order dated 18.02.2019. It may be noted that the copy of order passed by the revisional court is not available on record.

(V) The instant revisionist preferred an Application (u/s 482 Cr.P.C.) No.10622 of 2019, which was heard and decided refusing the relief of quashing the order of summoning.

(VI) Thereafter, the accused persons filed a discharge application under section- 245(2) of Cr.P.C. giving his side of the story.

(VII) In nutshell, it is stated in application for discharge that infact the first informant duly sold the shares against full and final payment by the accused over a period from 31th March, 2013 to 2016; details whereof have been given in the application itself; before filing of this F.I.R., the first informant- Rishi Agarwal had filed another F.I.R. against Piyush Tiwari, Paritosh Sharma and Ankit Sharma on the basis of same set of documents/evidence which have been given with the instant F.I.R.; there has not been any conspiracy; no signed papers were misused by him; the sale transaction are duly reflected in balance-sheets of the company; the balance-sheets have been duly audited by the CA; the accused has cleared all the amount due to the first informant; no such meeting as alleged by the first informant was held on 11.03.2014; at the most the dispute can be termed one of civil nature only; there has not been any dishonest inducement or intention etc.; as no forged paper was prepared and no conspiracy was hatched, therefore no offence is made out against him.

(VIII) The learned trial court heard both the sides on this application and the same was dismissed on 27.07.2022. Now accused is before this Court in this criminal revision.

4. The crux of the contentions placed before this Court relate to the plea taken by the revisionist that it is a matter of claim of money and no more, therefore dispute is merely of civil nature and the complainant cannot be allowed to convert the same into a criminal case. Secondly, the learned Magistrate did not even look into the documents like bank statements, the balance-sheets, the true copy of share certificates and other documents produced on his behalf in support of his discharge application. Thirdly, there is no material to show that the revisionist nurtured a dishonest intention since the very beginning or practised any deception to induce delivery of property or that any forged paper was prepared by him. It is vehemently argued that the learned trial court should have considered the pleas and the contentions placed on his behalf instead of passing a cryptic order.

5. I went through the impugned order; the learned trial court has noted down the facts as alleged by the complainant; and thereafter has noted down the other side of the story as given in the application by the accused. In the last but one para of the order, the trial court has held as below:-

"प्रस्तुत मामले में वादी ने अभियुक्तगण के विरूद्ध प्रोटेस्ट प्रार्थना पत्र न्यायालय में दाखिल किया। प्रार्थनापत्र को स्वीकार करते हुए दिनांक 09.05.2018 को अंतिम आख्या 02/2018 दिनांक 24.01.2018 को निरस्त करते हुए उक्त प्रकरण परिवाद के रूप में दर्ज किया गया। परिवादी द्वारा धारा-200द०प्र०सं० व 202 द०प्र०सं० में पेश किये गये साक्षीगण की साक्ष्य के उपरान्त प्रथम दृष्टया मामला पाते हुए न्यायालय द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांकित 31.07.2018 के तहत अभियुक्तगण दिवीन्द्रजीत सिंह सेठी, पीयूष तिवारी, परितोष कुमार शर्मा व अंकित शर्मा को धारा-420,406,467,468,471,120b आई०पी०सी० में तलब किया गया। अभियुक्तगण को तलब किये जाने के तलबी आदेश दिनांकित 31.07.2018 के विरूद्ध परिवादी द्वारा माननीय निगरानी न्यायालय में दाण्डिक पुनरीक्षण संख्या-187सन् 2018 देवेन्द्रजीत सिंह सेठी बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश सरकार व रिषी अग्रवाल आदि निगरानी प्रस्तुत की। माननीय पुनरीक्षण न्यायालय द्वारा उपरोक्त पुनरीक्षण में पारित आदेश दिनांकित 18.02.2019 में यह आदेश पारित किया गया कि- "निगरानी खारिज की जाती है। दाण्डिक परिवाद संख्या 2300/2018 ऋषि अग्रवाल बनाम देवेन्द्रजीत सिंह सेठी आदि अं० धारा 406,420,467,468,471, 120b IPC थाना सैक्टर-49 नोएडा जिला गौतमबुद्धनगर में द्वितीय अपर मुख्य न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट, गौतमबुद्धनगर द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांकित 31.07.2018 पुष्ट किया जाता है।" अभियुक्त को तलब किये जाने के उपरान्त अभी तक ऐसा कोई नवीन साक्ष्य अथवा नवीन तथ्य अथवा कोई स्थिति परिवर्तन होने का साक्ष्य नहीं है। अभियुक्तगण द्वारा जो तथ्य प्रस्तुत किये गये वह साक्ष्य का विषय है, जिनको साक्ष्य के स्तर पर ही देखा जाना है।"

6. Before proceeding any further, provisions of Section- 245(2) of Cr.P.C. must be noted, which is as below:-

"(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent a Magistrate from discharging the accused at any previous stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded by such Magistrate, he considers the charge to be groundless."

7. The law gives an opportunity to the accused person to place his contentions before the court concerned, even before the complainant has had an opportunity to produce his evidence under section- 244 Cr.P.C. Undoubtedly, the provisions of Section- 245(2) Cr.P.C. have certain purpose. The opportunity which has been provided by law cannot be dealt perfunctorily. It appears that the trial court just took shelter of the order passed by the revisional court by which the summoning order was challenged. A minute difference between the two stages may be noted. The summoning order is passed at a stage where the accused has no say in the matter and at that stage, the order is passed rather in an ex-parte manner, if I may be permitted to use this word. No doubt at that stage as well, the Court is obliged to consider the evidence before it and to arrive at a satisfaction that there are grounds for summoning the accused. However, the opportunity as provided to the accused person under section- 245(2) Cr.P.C. is different inasmuch at that stage the accused has an opportunity to place his side of the story and therefore at that stage, the trial court is better equipped to weigh the evidence (which is already on record) in a more balanced manner. The opportunity which was not available to the accused is now available to him at that stage. The trial court is not expected to not consider the merits of the contentions of the accused side and merely pass an order saying nonchalantly that no new evidence has come in between. It is noteworthy at this juncture, that though the accused side cannot produce any evidence in defence, but he has every right to point out the defects, deficiencies or infirmities, which may already be there in the prosecution story or the evidence produced by the complainant. As is very clear from the order itself, the learned trial court refused to go into the merits of the objections raised by the accused person on the premise that no new evidence has come. This is a flawed approach and against the provisions of law. The impugned order suffers from illegality, impropriety and is therefore liable to be set-aside.

8. The impugned order is set-aside. The learned trial court is directed to pass a fresh order after giving an appropriate opportunity of hearing.

9. Copy of this order be transmitted to the court concerned immediately.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1507
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 01.11.2023

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAM MANOHAR NARAYAN MISHRA, J.

Criminal Revision No. 3478 of 2023

Kumari Nidhi Gupta ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Ashwani Kumar Sachan, Sri Saurabh Sachan

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A., Sri Bipin Kumar, Sri Mohd. Naushad Siddiqui

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 125 - Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956 - Section 20 - Against rejection of maintenance application - Family Court erred in dismissing applicant's claim for maintenance from her father solely on ground of her attaining majority, despite her being unmarried at time of impugned judgment - Parents' marriage dissolved by decree of divorce, wherein lump-sum maintenance awarded only to mother and minor son, as revisionist was then residing with her father - Family Court ought to have treated application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. moved by revisionist seeking maintenance from her father as one u/s 20(3) Act, 1956, rather than dismissing it on technical ground that application not maintainable as applicant-daughter already attained age of majority and she was not entitled to seek maintenance - As held by Apex Court in Abhilasha v. Prakash (infra), Section 20(3) imposes statutory obligation on Hindu to maintain his unmarried daughter who is unable to maintain herself, even though she has become major, a right absolute in nature and enforceable against her father until her marriage - Impugned order, set aside. (Para 14)

Revision allowed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Dr. Jagdish Jugtawat Vs Smt. Manjulata & ors., (2002) 5 SCC 424, (Paras 3, 4)

2. Noorsaba Khatoon Vs Mohammad Quasim, AIR 1997 SC 3282

3. Nanak Chand Vs Chandra Kishore Agrawal, AIR 1970 SC 446

4. Abhilasha Vs Prakash & ors., AIR 2020 SC 4355

5. Yamunabai Anantrao Adhav Vs Anantrao Shivram Adhav & anr., (1988) 1 SCC 530

6. Noor Saba Khatoon Vs Mohd. Quasim, (1997) 6 SCC 233, (Paras 33, 34, 36, 38, 39)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2, learned AGA for the State and perused the material placed on record.

2. By means of instant criminal revision, the revisionist has assailed the order dated 25.4.2022, passed by Additional Principal Judge, Family Court No.3, Kanpur Nagar, in Maintenance Case No.12 of 2017, under Section 125 Cr.P.C., whereby the application for maintenance moved by the revisionist, who is daughter of opposite party No.2 has been dismissed on the ground that she was not entitled to seek maintenance from her father after attaining age of majority, as under the provisions of Section 125 Cr.P.C., only minor children of a person are entitled to seek maintenance whether married or not.

3. The factual matrix of the case in brief which led to filing present revision are that the marriage of the revisionist's mother and father was solemnized on 21.4.1994 and two children were born out of their wedlock, out of whom the applicant/revisionist is elder one. She was born on 13.9.1995 and her younger sibling born on 1.9.2000. The relations between the parents of the applicant got strained and father of the applicant filed a Divorce Petition No.65 of 2011, before Principal Judge, Family court, Kanpur Nagar and consequently, a decree of divorce dated 12.7.2016 followed. The Family Court also granted a lump-sum amount of Rs.5 lacs as maintenance to the mother of the applicant. The applicant was initially residing with her father/opposite party No.2. After filing of divorce petitioner, her father expelled her from his home on 31.12.2010 at the age of 15 years and since then, she is residing alone alongwith her mother. The applicant is completely dependant on her mother for food, clothing, shelter, education and other expenses also. Therefore, she filed an application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. for maintenance before the court below on 8.12.2016 at the age of 21, as she intended to receive higher education and also for bearing expenses of her marriage. During pendency of proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C., before the family court, the applicant had moved an application under Section 125(c) Cr.P.C. for interim maintenance, in which a meagre amount of interim maintenance of Rs.2,000/- per month was paid to the applicant, which was not in consonance with the financial needs of the applicant. The respondent No.2, in his belatedly filed written statement, has stated that he has already paid Rs.5 lacs as lump-sum amount towards the maintenance, which is part of decree of divorce. The applicant has filed rejoinder affidavit before the court below, in which she filed receipt of educational fees which show that her mother has been bearing her educational expenses and she is not having enough resources to meet out educational and other expenses of the applicant. However, the family Court without going into the merits of the case, dismissed the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. in limine by impugned order dated 25.4.2022 on impression that as the applicant had already attained age of majority, she is not entitled to seek maintenance from her father/the respondent No.2 under Section 125 Cr.P.C. and she has to seek maintenance under Section 20 of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956, as appropriate remedy available to her. While giving this finding, the Court placed reliance on a judgement of Apex Court in Dr. Jagdish Jugtawat vs Smt. Manjulata And Ors, (2002) 5 SCC 424.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that from the joint reading of two judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court in Noorsaba Khatoon v. Mohammad Quasim, AIR 1997 SC 3282 and Nanak Chand vs. Chandra Kishore Agrawal, AIR 1970 SC 446, it is apparent that Section 125 Cr.P.C. is a summary remedy of secular character and provisions of Hindu Marriage Act, which is part of personal law, does not repel nor affect the beneficial provisions of Section 125 Cr.P.C., which are applicable to every citizen in the country, irrespective of his or her personal law. A Hindu major daughter, who is not able to maintain herself can claim maintenance from her father till she gets married in the same manner as a Muslim major daughter, who is entitled to seek maintenance from his father. The learned court court has misread the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in Dr. Jagdish Jugtawat vs Smt. Manjulata And Ors, (supra) and has drawn long long conclusion. A judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in Abhilasha vs. Prakash and others, AIR 2020 SC 4355, Hon'ble Supreme Court has considered the claim of a daughter, who has attained age of majority and held that there may be a case where family court has jurisdiction to decide a case under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as well as a suit under Section 20 of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956 and in such eventuality, the family court can exercise jurisdiction under both the acts and in an appropriate case can grant maintenance to unmarried daughter, even though, she has become major enforcing her right of the Act, 1956, so as to avoid multiplicity of the proceeding as observed by this Court in the case of Dr. Jagdish Jugtawat vs Smt. Manjulata And Ors, (supra) . However, the magistrate in exercise of powers under Section 125 Cr.P.C. cannot pass such orders.

5. He lastly submitted that if a major daughter is unable to maintain herself because of her illiteracy, unemployment or if being student, she will be considered at par with a person having physical or mental abnormality and will be entitled to seek maintenance. Even after attaining age of majority under provisions of Section 125 Cr.P.C. before the Family Court. The applicant is a unemployed major and unmarried girl. She is a victim of domestic friction and matrimonial discord between her father and mother. Her father is a man of sufficient economic resources and he is under liability to look after his daughter, who is socially vulnerable and unemployed.

6. Per contra, learned AGA and learned counsel for the respondent No.2 submitted that revision is ill conceived. There is no illegality or infirmity in impugned order passed by the court below. A Hindu daughter, who has attained age of majority is not entitled to seek maintenance under provisions of Section 125 Cr.P.C. from her father or mother and only remedy available to her, if she is unable to maintain herself or is unmarried, to seek maintenance under provisions of Section 20 of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956. The provisions of Section 20 of the Act, bestow the Court specific power of grant of maintenance to such daughter who has attained age of majority.

7. The revisionist had initially filed a petition under Section 482 Cr.PC. Feeling aggrieved by the impugned order before this Court, however, during the course of pendency of application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No.2695 of 2022, an application for amendment was moved by her with prayer to permit her to convert the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. into criminal revision under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C. and the prayer was allowed eventually by this Court and application was converted into present criminal revision by the order of this Court dated 23.3.2023.

8. From the perusal of record, it appears that the decree of divorce under Section 13 of Hindu Marriage Act was passed on 12.7.2016 on application of respondent No.2 against his wife Smt. Alka Gupta @ Bebi, the mother of the applicant and Rs.5 lacs was granted as lump-sum amount of maintenance in said judgment for maintenance of the applicant and her son, as at that time present applicant was residing with her father and her younger brother was living with her mother and probably, for that reason, no provision was made for present applicant in said decree of divorce. The applicant has stated before the court below in her representation that she was undergoing MCA course. In Jagdish Jugtawat vs Smt. Manjulata And Ors, (supra), the petitioner was father of Kumari Rekha, respondent No.3, who is minor and unmarried daughter of respondent No.1, wife of petitioner, had filed a claim for maintenance before the family court by order dated 22.7.2000, granted maintenance at the rate of Rs.500/- per month to each of the applicants. The petitioner filed a revision petition before the High Court, assailing the order of family court on the ground, inter-alia that respondent No.3 was entitled to maintenance only till she attains majority and not thereafter. Considering the points, learned Single Judge of the High Court accepted the legal position that under Section 125 Cr.P.C., a minor daughter is entitled to maintenance from her parents only till she attains majority. A minor daughter is entitled to maintenance only till she attains majoirty, but declined to interfere with the order passed by family court taking cue from Section 20(3) of the Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956, under which the right of maintenance is given to a minor daughter till her marriage. Learned Single Judge was persuaded to maintain the order of the family court with a view to avoid multiplicity of proceeding. Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:-

"3. In view of the finding recorded and the observations made by the learned Single Judge of the High Court, the only question that arises for consideration is whether the order calls for interference. A similar question came up for consideration by this Court in the case of Noor Saba Khatoon v. Mohd. Quasim , AIR 1997 SC 3280 : 1997 (6) SCC 233 : 1997 SCC (Cri) 924 relating to the claim of a Muslim divorced woman for maintenance from her husband for herself and her minor children. This Court while accepting the position that Section 125, CrPC does not fix liability of parents to maintain children beyond attainment of majority, read the said provision and Section 3(l)(b) of the Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Divorce) Act together and held that under the latter statutory provision liability of providing maintenance extends beyond attainment of majority of a dependent girl.

4. Applying the principle to the facts and circumstances of the case in hand, it is manifest that the right of a minor girl for maintenance from parents after attaining majority till her marriage is recognized in Section 20(3) of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act. Therefore, no exception can be taken to the judgment/order passed by the learned Single Judge for maintaining the order passed by the Family Court which is based on a combined reading of Section 125 Cr.P.C. and Section 20(3) of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act. For the reasons aforestated we are of the view that on facts and in the circumstances of the case, no interference with the impugned judgement/order of the High Court is called for.

With above observations, the Hon'ble Apex Court dismissed the Special Leave Petition.

9. In Abhilasha vs. Prakash and others (supra), a Special Leave to Appeal was filed by the appellant, the daughter of the respondent No.1 and 2, challenging the order of the High Court of Punjab and Haryana dated 16.8.2018, by which the order, the High Court dismissed the application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. filed by the appellant praying for setting aside the order of Judicial Magistrate Ist Class, Revari, dated 16.2.2011 as well as 17.2.2014, passed by the revisional court. The original application for maintenance was filed by the respondent No.2 against her husband, the respondent No.1 Prakash claiming maintenance of herself as well as her three children. The learned Judicial Magistrate dismissed the application in respect of applicant Nos.1, 2 and 3 but granted maintenance to applicant No.4, the appellant before the Apex Court till she attains majority. Aggrieved by the said judgement dated 16.2.2011, all the four applicants filed a criminal revision before the Court of Session, which was also dismissed by order dated 17.2.2014 with the only modification that the revisionist No.4 (appellant) shall be entitled to maintenance till 26.4.2005, when she attains majority, as post majority maintenance can only be granted to a daughter, if she is by reason of any physical or mental abnormality or injury, unable to maintain herself, as she was not suffering from any physical or mental abnormality or injury, she was not entitled to obtain maintenance after the date on which, she attains majority. The High Court by judgement dated 16.2.2018, dismissed the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. filed by the applicants and affirmed the orders of court below.

10. Hon'ble Supreme Court while discussing its previous judgments in Abhilasha vs. Prakash and others (supra) as well as its judgment in Nanak Chand vs. Chandra Kishore Agrawal and others (supra) and some other previous cases, framed two question for consideration in that appeal:-

(i) Whether the appellant, who although had attained majority and is still unmarried is entitled to claim maintenance from her father in proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. although she is not suffering from any physical or mental abnormality/injury?

(ii) Whether the orders passed by learned Judicial Magistrate as well as learned Revisional Court limiting the claim of the appellant to claim maintenance till she attains majority on 26.04.2005 deserves to be set aside with direction to the respondent No.1 to continue to give maintenance even after 26.04.2005 till the appellant remains unmarried?

11. Hon'ble Apex Court in Yamunabai Anantrao Adhav Vs. Anantrao Shivram Adhav and Another, (1988) 1 SCC 530, held that personal law applicable to the parties cannot altogether be excluded from consideration in proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

12. Hon'ble Apex Court in Abhilasha vs. Pralasj and others (supra), clarified in paragraph No.24 of its judgement that the judgement of this Court in Jagdish Jugtawat (supra) cannot be read to laying down the ratio that in proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. filed by the daughter against her father, she is entitled to maintenance relying on the liability of the father to maintain her unmarried daughter as contained in Section 20(3) of the Act, 1956. The High Court in exercise of Criminal Revisional jurisdiction can very well refuse to interfere with the judgment of Courts below by which maintenance was granted to unmarried daughter. This Court while hearing criminal appeal against the above judgment of High Court was exercising jurisdiction under Article 136 of the Constitution of India, and in the facts of that case, this Court refused to interfere with the judgment of High Court but in refusal to interfere by this Court, no ratio can be read in the judgment of Jagdish Jugtawat (supra) as contended by learned counsel for the appellant. In Classical Hindu Law prior to codification, a Hindu male was always held morally and legally liable to maintain his aged parents, a virtuous wife and infant child. Hindu Law always recognised the liability of father to maintain an unmarried daughter. In this context, we refer to paragraph 539 and 543 of Mulla – Hindu Law – 22 nd Edition, in paragraph No.543, a father is bound to maintain his unmarried daughters. On the death of the father, they are entitled to be maintained out of his estate.

13. Hon'ble Apex Court further observed that Muslim Law also recognises the obligation of father to maintain his daughters until they are married and his sons until they have attained the age of puberty. (Mulla's Principles of Mohammedan Law (19th Edn.) Section 20(3) of Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956 is nothing but recognition of principles of Hindu Law regarding maintenance of children and aged parents. Section 20(3) now makes it statutory obligation of a Hindu to maintain his or her daughter, who is unmarried and is unable to maintain herself out of her own earnings or other property. Hindu Law prior to enactment of Act, 1956 always obliged a Hindu to maintain unmarried daughter, who is unable to maintain herself. The obligation, which is cast on the father to maintain his unmarried daughter, can be enforced by her against her father, if she is unable to maintain herself by enforcing her right under Section 20 of the Act. This Court in Noor Saba Khatoon Vs. Mohd. Quasim, (1997) 6 SCC 233, which was a case under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as well as provisions of Muslim Women (Protection of rights on Divorce), Act 1986, held that affect of a beneficial legislation like Section 125 Cr.P.C. cannot be allowed to be defeated except through clear provisions of statute. In the case before us, the application was filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. before Judicial Magistrate First Class, Rewari who passed the order dated 16.02.2011. The Magistrate while deciding proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. could not have exercised the jurisdiction under Section 20(3) of Act, 1956 and the submission of the appellant cannot be accepted that the Court below should have allowed the application for maintenance even though she has become major. We do not find any infirmity in the order of the Judicial Magistrate First Class as well as learned Additional Magistrate in not granting maintenance to appellant who had become major. The maintenance as contemplated under Act, 1956 is a larger concept as compared to concept of maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. After enactment of Family Courts Act, 1984, a Family Court shall also have the jurisdiction exercisable by a Magistrate of the First Class under Chapter IX of Cr.P.C. relating to order for maintenance of wife, children and parents. Family Courts shall have the jurisdiction only with respect to city or town whose population exceeds one million, where there is no Family Courts, proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. shall have to be before the Magistrate of the First Class. Hon'ble Apex Court further held as under:-

33. There may be a case where the Family Court has jurisdiction to decide a case under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as well as the suit under Section 20 of Act, 1956, in such eventuality, Family Court can exercise jurisdiction under both the Acts and in an appropriate case can grant maintenance to unmarried daughter even though she has become major enforcing her right under Section 20 of Act, 1956 so as to avoid multiplicity of proceedings as observed by this Court in the case of Jagdish Jugtawat (supra). However the Magistrate in exercise of powers under Section 125 Cr.P.C. cannot pass such order.

34. In the case before us, the application was filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. before Judicial Magistrate First Class, Rewari who passed the order dated 16.02.2011. The Magistrate while deciding proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. could not have exercised the jurisdiction under Section 20(3) of Act, 1956 and the submission of the appellant cannot be accepted that the Court below should have allowed the application for maintenance even though she has become major. We do not find any infirmity in the order of the Judicial Magistrate First Class as well as learned Additional Magistrate in not granting maintenance to appellant who had become major.

36. The purpose and object of Section 125 Cr.P.C. as noted above is to provide immediate relief to applicant in a summary proceedings, whereas right under Section 20 read with Section 3(b) of Act, 1956 contains larger right, which needs determination by a Civil Court, hence for the larger claims as enshrined under Section 20, the proceedings need to be initiated under Section 20 of the Act and the legislature never contemplated to burden the Magistrate while exercising jurisdiction under Section 125 Cr.P.C. to determine the claims contemplated by Act, 1956.

38. We, thus, accept the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that as a preposition of law, an unmarried Hindu daughter can claim maintenance from her father till she is married relying on Section 20(3) of the Act, 1956, provided she pleads and proves that she is unable to maintain herself, for enforcement of which right her application/suit has to be under Section 20 of Act, 1956.

39. In facts of the present case the ends of justice be served by giving liberty to the appellant to take recourse to Section 20(3) of the Act, 1956, if so advised, for claiming any maintenance against her father. Subject to liberty as above, the appeal is dismissed.

14. In the present case, the family court has committed a legal error while dismissing the application for maintenance filed by the applicant from her father-present respondent No.2 only on the ground that she has attained age of majority despite the admitted fact that she was unmarried at the time of impugned judgement. The marriage of parents of the revisionist has already been dissolved by a decree of divorce passed on 12.7.2016, in Matrimonial Suit No.65 of 2021, Lalit Gupta @ Manoj Gupta vs. Smt. Alka @ Bebi, under Section 13 of Hindu Marriage Act and a lump-sum maintenance has been awarded in said order for maintenance to the mother and minor brother of the revisionist therein as the revisionist was residing with her father at that time. The family court is empowered to treat the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. moved by the revisionist seeking maintenance from her father may be treated as maintenance petition under Section 20(3) of the Act, 1956 by the court below and same should have been liable to be decided accordingly, without dismissing the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. on technical ground that the application was not maintainable under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as the applicant-daughter had already attained age of majority and she was not entitled to seek maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. A fine distinction has been drawn by Hon'ble Apex Court in Abhilasha vs. Prakash and others (supra) in this regard, where it is held that the provision of Section 20 of Act, 1956 cast clear statutory obligation on a Hindu to maintain his unmarried daughter who is unable to maintain herself. The right of unmarried daughter under Section 20 to claim maintenance from her father when she is unable to maintain herself is absolute and the right given to unmarried daughter under Section 20 is right granted under personal law, which can very well be enforced by her against her father. Unmarried daughter is clearly entitled for maintenance from her father till she is married even though she has become major, which is a statutory right recognised by Section 20(3) and can be enforced by unmarried daughter in accordance with law.

15. In the light of forgoing discussion and placing reliance on dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court in Abhilasha vs. Prakash and others (supra), it is clear that in order to avoid multiplicity of proceedings, a consistent stand is liable to be taken that the petition under Section 125 Cr.P.C. can be entertained by Family Court without pushing the major daughter of the opposite party to file an independent petition seeking maintenance under Section 20(3) of the Act. The family court has got jurisdiction to decide the case under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as well as maintenance suit under Section 20 of the Act, 1956. Therefore, the family court can exercise jurisdiction under both the acts and in appropriate case can grant maintenance to unmarried major daughter from her father, even though she has become major, enforcing her rights under Section 20 of the Act, 1956, so as to avoid multiplicity of the proceedings.

16. Hon'ble Apex Court also held that there may be a case where the Family Court has jurisdiction to decide a case under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as well as the suit under Section 20 of Act, 1956, in such eventuality, Family Court can exercise jurisdiction under both the Acts and in an appropriate case can grant maintenance to unmarried daughter even though she has become major enforcing her right under Section 20 of Act, 1956 so as to avoid multiplicity of proceeding.

17. Accordingly, present criminal revision stands allowed and the impugned order passed by learned family court is set aside.

18. The Family Court concerned is directed to treat the application moved by the applicant/revisionist under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as an application moved under Section 20(3) of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956 and decide the same afresh in accordance with law and on merits of the case, after giving opportunity of hearing to both the parties, preferably within a period of three months from the date of presentation of certified order of this Court.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1515
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 31.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MRS. JYOTSNA SHARMA, J.

Criminal Revision No. 6033 of 2023

Smt. Soni Saxena @ Neetu Saxena ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Jitendra Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A., Sri Vikesh Kumar Tiwari

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 342, 376(3) & 506 - POCSO Act, 2012 - Section 5(dha)/6 - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 - Section 37(c), 101 - Child Welfare Committee refused to release victim-girl in care and custody of her mother for reasons which have been elaborately dealt with in impugned order dated 23.08.2023 - Appellate court instead of deciding matter on merits, declined to exercise its powers on patently wrong assumptions - It is difficult to understand how such view has been taken by appellate court that it had no jurisdiction to hear challenge to order passed by Child Welfare Committee, in appeal - As is quite obvious, appeal shall lie to children court against all orders passed by Child Welfare Committee except where order has been passed relating to foster care or sponsorship foster care - Appellate court's order set aside, matter remanded for fresh decision in accordance with law. (Para 5, 6)

Revision disposed of. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Girish Kumar Vs St. of U.P. & ors., 2022:AHC:206879 decided on 25.11.2022, (Paras 6, 10, 11)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Jitendra Singh, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Vikesh Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2-the first informant and learned AGA for the State.

2. This criminal revision has been filed challenging the order dated 20.07.2023 and 23.08.2023 passed by the Child Welfare Committee, Shahjahanpur in relation to a matter arising out of case crime no. 01 of 2023 under sections 342, 376(3), 506 IPC and section 5(dha)/6 POCSO Act, by which firstly she was put in a government protection home under section 37(c) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 by Child Welfare Committee vide order dated 20.07.2023 and further an application moved by her mother for taking her into her custody, was rejected by order passed by the Child Welfare Committee on 23.08.2023. By means of a supplementary affidavit filed by the revisionist an order passed by the appellate court on 31.10.2023 in an appeal preferred against the order dated 23.08.2023 whereby the appeal was dismissed on the ground that the children court had no jurisdiction to hear the same, has also been challenged in this criminal revision.

3. Relevant facts are as below:-

Pradeep Saxena lodged an FIR against Soni Saxena and several others with the allegations that he got married to Soni Saxena about 20 years ago and that she stayed in conjugal relationship with him for 12 years and gave birth to four children. Thereafter she deserted him and started living with one Monu s/o Payarelal @ Ram Kishan along with their four kids. About 20 days ago his younger daughter aged 14 years was sold off to one Saurabh s/o Ramesh Lal with the assistance of co-accused persons. It is alleged in the FIR that Saurabh is aged 35 years and his daughter is merely 14 years. When the first informant tried to contact the co-accused Manorama, she said that his daughter has been sold off and he may have his share in the money. On the basis of this FIR case crime no. 01 of 2023 was lodged on 13.07.2023. The statement of the victim girl under section 161 Cr.P.C and other witnesses were recorded. She was put to medical examination and was found aged about 16 years. The victim was produced before the Special Judge, POCSO Act, and the Court ordered her to be produced before the Child Welfare Committee. Before the Child Welfare Committee, she stated that she wanted to accompany her mother-Soni Saxena and Vinay Saxena. The Child Welfare Committee considered the fact that Soni Saxena is named as an accused and Vinay Saxena is not her father, therefore it will not be proper to send her with them and directed to lodge her in a juvenile home. The victim girl sent an application on 24.07.2023 through Superintendent, Women Protection Home, with a prayer that she desired to stay with her mother-Soni Saxena. The Child Welfare Committee considered the application and declined her to be handed over to her mother, giving detailed reasons as mentioned in the impugned order. This order refusing her custody to her mother, was passed on 23.08.2023. She challenged the same by filing a Criminal Appeal No. 73 of 2023 (Smt. Soni Saxena @ Neetu Saxena vs. State of UP and 3 Others). The learned appellate court dismissed the appeal holding that it has no jurisdiction to hear the challenge to the order passed by the Child Welfare Committee. The appellate court expressed an opinion that such orders can only be challenged before the Court of District Magistrate, as provided in section 27(10) of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015.

4. The appellate court seems to have passed the order in the light of the provisions of section 27(10) of the J.J. Act, 2015. Section 27 deals with the Constitution of the Child Welfare Committee, the qualifications of a person as regard eligibility of the person to be appointed as a member of a Committee, disqualifications, the tenure of the members, the procedure for inquiry as regard termination of the members etc. Section 27(10) of the J.J. Act, 2015 empowers the District Magistrate to entertain any grievance arising out of functioning of a Committee. This section further empowers the affected child or any one connected with the child, as the case may be, to file a complaint before the District Magistrate for the purpose that he may take suitable action as regard the complaints or the grievances which an affected person may have against the Committee. These provisions definitely do not deal with legal challenges to the order passed by the Committee. An aggrieved person can challenge the order passed by the Child Welfare Committee under section 101 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015.

Section- 101 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 is as below:-

"(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, any person aggrieved by an order made by the Committee or the Board under this Act may, within thirty days from the date of such order, prefer an appeal to the "Children's Court", except for decisions by the Committee related to Foster Care and Sponsorship After Care for which the appeal shall lie with the District Magistrate."

The Allahabad High Court in Girish Kumar vs. State of U.P. and 3 Others, 2022:AHC:206879 decided on 25.11.2022 observed in Para no. 6 as below:-

"6. It is quite clear from this provision of law that appeal shall lie to the District Magistrate with respect to decisions by the Child Welfare Committee relating to foster care and sponsorship after care only. The appeal in respect of other orders passed by the Child Welfare Committee shall lie to the 'Children's Court' within 30 days from the date of order. Before analysing this provision, it will be appropriate to peruse the order passed by the Child Welfare Committee to decide upon whether this order falls in the category where the appeal may lie to Children's Court or in the category where appeal shall lie to District Magistrate."

It was further observed in Para nos. 10 and 11 as below:-

"10. I went through the material on record in the light of submissions before this Court. As per scheme of the Juvenile Justice Act, the Child Welfare Committee, irrespective of any other law, has power to deal exclusively with all proceedings relating to 'children in need of care and protection' under Section-29 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015. The functions and responsibilities of Committee include taking cognizance of and receiving the child produced before it, conducting inquiry on all issues relating to safety and well being of a child as well as ensuring care, protection, appropriate rehabilitation and most importantly restoration of 'children in need of care and protection' (Section-30 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015). Section-37 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 empowers the Committee, after being satisfied through an inquiry, consideration of social investigation report submitted by Child Welfare Officer and taking into account the child's wishes, in case the child is sufficiently matured, to take a view and pass one or more of following order, namely:-

(a) declaration that a child is in need of care and protection;

(b) restoration of the child to parents or guardian or family with or without supervision of Child Welfare Officer or designated social worker;

(c) placement of the child in Children's Home or fit facility or Specialized Adoption Agency for the purpose of adoption for long term or temporary care, keeping in mind the capacity of the institution for housing such children, either after reaching the conclusion that the family of the child cannot be traced or even if traced, restoration of the child to the family is not in the best interest of the child;

(d) placement of the child with fit person for long term or temporary care;

(e) foster care orders under section 44;

(f) sponsorship orders under section 45;

(g) .....;

(h) .....

10. On perusal of the above provisions of Juvenile Justice Act, 2015, it is demonstrated that Child Welfare Committee is given vast powers on the principles of best interest of a child, a thread which goes through the whole of the scheme of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015. It has been specifically provided by the section-3 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 that Central Government, State Governments, the Board and other agencies, as the case may be, while implementing the provisions of the Act, shall be guided by the fundamental principles which include principles of best interest, principle of family responsibilities, the principle of safety, the principles of repatriation and restoration and several others.

11. The provisions of law as aforesaid are being reproduced here with the twin object; firstly, that when an order is passed of the nature as is under challenge before this Court, the appeal shall be entertainable by the Children's Court and not by the District Magistrate; the District Magistrate is empowered to hear appeals only against the decisions of the Committee relating to foster care and sponsorship after care. The order in question does not fall in this category. The appellate court was thus wrong in holding that appeal did not lie before it. Therefore, the impugned order is liable to be set-aside; secondly, it may be noted that when a child in need of care and protection is lodged in any shelter home, it is a measure of temporary nature; the Child Welfare Committee is fully empowered to take a decision where it is found no more necessary to detain her. It may be noted that legally a child in need of care and protection may be detained for a further period even if he/she has attained majority if it is found that it will not be in his/her best interest to release him/her immediately."

5. In the instant case, the Child Welfare Committee refused to release the victim-girl in care and custody of her mother for reasons which have been elaborately dealt with in the impugned order dated 23.08.2023. The learned appellate court instead of deciding the matter on merits, declined to exercise its powers on patently wrong assumptions. It is difficult to understand how such a view has been taken by the appellate court that it had no jurisdiction to hear the challenge to an order of this nature passed by the Child Welfare Committee, in appeal. As is quite obvious, an appeal shall lie to children court against all the orders passed by the Child Welfare Committee except where order has been passed relating to foster care or sponsorship foster care.

6. In view of the above, I find it appropriate to set-aside the order passed by the appellate court and remand the matter for decision afresh, according to law.

7. Therefore, this revision is finally disposed of with a direction to the appellate court to adjudicate the matter of custody of the victim, according to law and the order dated 31.10.2023 passed by the appellate court is hereby set-aside. The learned appellate court is expected to decide the appeal expeditiously.

8. Copy of the order be immediately transmitted to the court concerned.

Note:- Copy of the order may be circulated to all the District Courts in the State of U.P.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1519
REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 31.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SURENDRA SINGH-I, J.

Criminal Revision No. 6307 of 2023

Raju Patel ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri C.P. Upadhyay, Sri Santosh Kumar Mishra

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 304 r/w 34 & 506 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 319 & 397 - Against summoning order - In her written report, informant/P.W.1 (wife of deceased) St.d that accused took her husband to Jhunjhunpur crossing, where he was later assaulted - On being informed by neighbour, she and alongwith co-villagers reached spot and were told by P.W.2 that revisionist and four others had beaten her husband and thereafter they fled away from place of occurrence - She found him lying injured and groaning - P.W.1 to P.W.4 consistently corroborated FIR version, implicated revisionist and co-accused in assault - On consideration of depositions of P.W.1 to P.W.4 and law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court, there is prima facie evidence to summon revisionist - Trial Court, being satisfied with evidence on record, rightly exercised power u/s 319 Cr.P.C., committed no illegality - Revision lacks merit, dismissed. (Para 17 to 19)

Revision dismissed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Amit Kapoor Vs Ramesh Chander & anr., (2012) 9 SCC 460, (Paras 12, 13, 20)

2. Hardeep Singh Vs St. of Punj.; (2014) 3 SCC 92, (Paras 105, 106, 117.3 to 117.5)

3. S. Mohammad Ispahani Vs Yogendra Chandak (2017) 16 SCC 226, (Para 35)

4. Rajesh Vs St. of Haryana (2019) 6 SCC 368

5. Yashodhan Singh & ors. Vs St. of U.P.& anr.; (2023) 9 SCC 108, (Paras 22.6 to 22.8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Dr. C.P. Upadhyay, Advocate assisted by Sri Santosh Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Alok Sharma, learned A.G.A.-I for the State.

2. This criminal revision has been filed challenging the impugned judgement and order dated 19.05.2023 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No.1, Maharajganj in S.T. No. 48 of 2017 (State Vs. Vishambhar Patel and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 672 of 2016 u/s 304 r/w 34, 506 I.P.C., Police Station- Kotwali, District- Maharajganj.

3. By the impugned order, the trial Court has allowed the application u/s 319 Cr.P.C. filed by opposite party no.2/informant, Smt. Heera Devi and summoned revisionist/accused, Raju Patel for trial u/s 304 r/w 34, 506 I.P.C.

4. The prosecution case, in brief, is that informant, Smt. Heera Devi w/o late Gyanesh Yadav had submitted a written report on 10.12.2016 at 23.50 hours in Police Station- Kotwali, District- Maharajganj to the effect that she is original resident of village- Kashmariya, Police Station- Chowk, District- Maharajganj. On 10.12.2016, Vishambhar Patel s/o Bansidhar Patel of her village took her husband to Jhunjhunpur crossing. At about 8 p.m., her neighbour, namely, Durgesh Yadav received a call on his mobile from his co-villager Ganesh that some persons have assaulted and injured her husband. The informant along with co-villagers reached Jhunjhunpur crossing. There when she met P.W.2 Vijay Kumar Jaiswal of her village, then he informed her that accused, Vishambhar Patel, Santosh Patel, Raju Patel, Vimlesh and Bhunwar Patel assaulted and caused injury to her husband, and thereafter, they fled away from the place of occurrence. When she reached at the place of occurance along with co-villagers, she found that her husband was lying there groaning with pain. The villagers accompanying her called upon an ambulance 108 and carried her husband to District Hospital where after examination, the doctor declared that her husband had died.

5. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that the trial Court has passed the impugned order without considering the evidence on record. It has next been submitted that the trial Court has passed the impugned order only on the basis of evidence of P.W.1 Smt. Heera Devi. The prosecution has examined P.W.1 Smt. Heera Devi, P.W.2 Vijay Kumar Jaiswal, P.W.3 Subhash Yadav and P.W.4 Durgesh Yadav out of which only P.W.2- Vijay Kumar Jaiswal is said to be an eye-witness and other witnesses have deposed that they came to know about the incident as told by P.W.2 Vijay Kumar Jaiswal. There is contradiction in the statement of witnesses with regard to weapon of offence used by the accused persons as well as who informed the informant about the occurrence, in which her husband received fatal injuries. It has also been submitted that in the First Information Report, it is mentioned that Ganesh Yadav informed the informant, Smt. Heera Devi about the incident whereas in her statement, she has deposed that Rajesh Yadav informed her about the occurrence in which her husband, Gyanesh was fatally assaulted. It has also been submitted that P.W.2 Vijay Kumar Jaiswal has stated that when he tried to save the injured/deceased Gyanesh Yadav, accused also assaulted him but P.W.2 Vijay

Kumar Jaiswal has not been medically examined and no injury report has been submitted. It has further been submitted that P.W.3 Subhash Yadav has not mentioned who informed him about the incident. P.W.4 Durgesh Yadav has stated that both Ganesh Yadav and P.W.2 Vijay Kumar Jaiswal informed him about the occurrence. Therefore, there is contradiction in the statement of witnesses regarding how they came to know about the incident.

6. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has opposed the criminal revision and has submitted that the trial court after considering the evidence on record as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court regarding summoning of persons u/s 319 Cr.P.C. who have not been named in the charge-sheet, has rightly summoned the revisionist for trial. It has also been submitted that the name of the revisionist was mentioned in the First Information Report and sufficient evidence was obtained during investigation against him but the Investigating Officer illegally dropped his name from the charge-sheet.

7. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the entire record.

8. Before examining the merits of the present case, the ambit, scope and power of the Sessions Court under Sections 397 as well as 319 Cr.P.C. should be discussed and ascertained.

9. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Amit Kapoor Vs. Ramesh Chander and Another, (2012) 9 SCC 460 in paragraph nos.12 and 13 of its judgement has narrated the scope of revision by the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. which is as follows :

"12.Section 397 of the Code vests the court with the power to call for and examine the records of an inferior court for the purposes of satisfying itself as to the legality and regularity of any proceedings or order made in a case. The object of this provision is to set right a patent defect or an error of jurisdiction or law. There has to be a well-founded error and it may not be appropriate for the court to scrutinise the orders, which upon the face of it bears a token of careful consideration and appear to be in accordance with law. If one looks into the various judgments of this Court, it emerges that the revisional jurisdiction can be invoked where the decisions under challenge are grossly erroneous, there is no compliance with the provisions of law, the finding recorded is based on no evidence, material evidence is ignored or judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily or perversely. These are not exhaustive classes, but are merely indicative. Each case would have to be determined on its own merits.

13.Another well-accepted norm is that the revisional jurisdiction of the higher court is a very limited one and cannot be exercised in a routine manner. One of the inbuilt restrictions is that it should not be against an interim or interlocutory order. The Court has to keep in mind that the exercise of revisional jurisdiction itself should not lead to injustice ex facie. Where the Court is dealing with the question as to whether the charge has been framed properly and in accordance with law in a given case, it may be reluctant to interfere in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction unless the case substantially falls within the categories aforestated. Even framing of charge is a much advanced stage in the proceedings under the CrPC."

10. In paragraph nos.17 and 19 of the aforesaid judgement, the Hon'ble Apex Court has narrated that before framing a charge, what documents should be considered by the trial court. It has also provided about the extent of evidence required for framing of a charge. In paragraph no.20 of the aforesaid judgement, the Apex Court has compared the power and extent of jurisdiction of the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. and Section 482 Cr.P.C. which is given hereunder :

"20.The jurisdiction of the court under Section 397 can be exercised so as to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of an order passed by the trial court or the inferior court, as the case may be. Though the section does not specifically use the expression "prevent abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice", the jurisdiction under Section 397 is a very limited one. The legality, propriety or correctness of an order passed by a court is the very foundation of exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 but ultimately it also requires justice to be done. The jurisdiction could be exercised where there is palpable error, non-compliance with the provisions of law, the decision is completely erroneous or where the judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily. On the other hand, Section 482 is based upon the maximquando lex aliquid alicui concedit, concedere videtur id sine quo res ipsa esse non potesti.e. when the law gives anything to anyone, it also gives all those things without which the thing itself would be unavoidable. The section confers very wide power on the Court to do justice and to ensure that the process of the court is not permitted to be abused."

11. The Hon'ble Apex Court in para 117.3 and 117.4 in the case of Hardeep Singh vs. State of Punjab; (2014) 3 SCC 92 has explained the meaning of word 'evidence' as used under Section 319 Cr.P.C.. The relevant paragraphs of the judgement reads as under:-

"117.3. In view of the above position the word "evidence" in Section 319CrPC has to be broadly understood and not literally i.e. as evidence brought during a trial.

Question (ii)—Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1)CrPC could only mean evidence tested by cross-examination or the court can exercise the power under the said provision even on the basis of the statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned?Answer

117.4. Considering the fact that under Section 319CrPC a person against whom material is disclosed is only summoned to face the trial and in such an event under Section 319(4)CrPC the proceeding against such person is to commence from the stage of taking of cognizance, the court need not wait for the evidence against the accused proposed to be summoned to be tested by cross-examination."

12. The Hon'ble Apex Court in para 117.5 of the case of Hardeep Singh (supra) has also explained the nature of satisfaction required to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to arraign an accused. The relevant paragraph of the judgement reads as under:-

"117.5. Though under Section 319(4)(b)CrPC the accused subsequently impleaded is to be treated as if he had been an accused when the court initially took cognizance of the offence, the degree of satisfaction that will be required for summoning a person under Section 319CrPC would be the same as for framing a charge.The difference in the degree of satisfaction for summoning the original accused and a subsequent accused is on account of the fact that the trial may have already commenced against the original accused and it is in the course of such trial that materials are disclosed against the newly summoned accused. Fresh summoning of an accused will result in delay of the trial therefore the degree of satisfaction for summoning the accused (original and subsequent) has to be different."

13. The scope and ambit of Section 319 Cr.P.C. has been well-settled by the pronouncement of Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab and others, (2014) 3 SCC 92 and paras 105 and 106 which are relevant for the purpose are reproduced hereunder :

"105. Power under Section 319 Cr.P.C, 1973 is a discretionary and an extraordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court, not necessarily tested on the anvil of cross-examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 Cr.P.C., 1973. In Section 319 Cr.P.C., 1973, the purpose of providing if "it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence" is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused". The words used are not "for which such person could be convicted". There is, therefore, no scope for the court acting under Section 319 Cr.P.C., 1973 to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

14. In S. Mohammad Ispahani Vs. Yogendra Chandak (2017) 16 SCC 226, this Court has observed and held as under :

"35. It needs to be highlighted that when a person is named in the FIR by the complainant, but police, after investigation, finds no role of that particular person and files the charge-sheet without implicating him, the Court is not powerless, and at the stage of summoning, if the trial court finds that a particular person should be summoned as accused, even though not named in the charge-sheet, it can do so. At that stage, chance is given to the complainant also to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in the FIR but not implicated in the charge sheet. Once that stage has gone, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 of the Cr.P.C. However, this section gets triggered when during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused."

15. In the case of Rajesh Vs. State of Haryana (2019) 6 SCC 368, after considering the observations made by this Court in Hardeep Singh (supra) referred to hereinabove, this Court has further observed and held that even in a case where the stage of giving opportunity to the complainant to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in F.I.R. but not implicated in the charge-sheet has gone, in that case also, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 Cr.P.c. and even those persons named in the F.I.R. but not implicated in charge-sheet can be summoned to face the trial provided during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused.

16. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Yashodhan Singh and others vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Another; (2023) 9 SCC 108 has explained the law purported by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh (supra) regarding the evidence required the satisfaction of the Court for summoning a person under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The paragraph Nos. 22.6, 22.7 and 22.8 which are relevant for the purpose are reproduced hereunder :

"22.6. It was also observed by this Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] that apart from evidence in the strict legal sense recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilised only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319CrPC. Holding that the expression "evidence" must be given a broad meaning, it was observed that material which is not exactly evidence recorded before the court, but is a material collected by the court, can be utilised to corroborate evidence already recorded for the purpose of summoning any other person, other than the accused. Such material would be supportive in nature to facilitate the exposition of any other accomplice whose complicity in the offence may have been suppressed or had escaped the notice of the court. Therefore, any material brought before the court even prior to the trial can be read within the meaning of the expression "evidence" for the purpose of Section 319CrPC. While considering the evidence that emanates during the trial, it was observed by this Court that evidence recorded by way of examination-in-chief and which is untested by cross-examination is nevertheless evidence which can be considered by the court for the exercise of power under Section 319CrPC so long as, it would appear to the court that some other person who is not facing the trial, may also have been involved in the offence.

22.7. Further, Section 319CrPC also uses the words "such person could be tried", which means not to have a mini-trial at the stage of Section 319CrPC by having examination and cross-examination and thereafter coming to a prima facie conclusion on the overt act of such person sought to be added. Such a mini-trial will affect the right of the person sought to be arraigned as an accused rather than not having any cross-examination at all. As under Section 319(4)CrPC, such a person has the right to cross-examine the prosecution witnesses and examine the defence witnesses and advance his arguments. It was further observed that the power under Section 319CrPC can be exercised even after completion of examination-in-chief and the court does not have to wait till the said evidence is tested on cross-examination, for it is the satisfaction of the court which can be gathered from the reasons recorded by the court, in respect of complicity of some other persons, not facing the trial in the offence.

22.8. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. Therefore, such satisfaction is sine qua non for exercise of power under Section 319CrPC. Ultimately, the exercise of power is for the trial of such persons summoned together with the accused already on trial and not for conviction with the accused. Therefore, at that stage, the court need not form any definite opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

17. In light of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the above mentioned judgements regarding the ambit and scope of criminal revision under Section 397 Cr.P.C., requirement of evidence for summoning the accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and facts and circumstances of the present case and evidence available on the trial Court record is being examined. The First Information Report related to Case Crime No.672 of 2016, under Sections 147 and 304 I.P.C. was lodged by the informant, namely, Heera Devi w/o Gyanesh Yadav (deceased) on 10.12.2016. In her written report, she has narrated that on 10.12.2016 in the night, the accused, Vishambar Patel, who is resident of her village, took her husband Gyanesh Yadav to Jhunjhunpur crossing. At about 8 p.m., Ganesh Yadav informed on the mobile of her neighbour Durgesh Yadav that some persons have assaulted and injured her husband, Gyanesh Yadav. On the information given by Durgesh Yadav, informant along with co-villagers reached Jhunjhunpur crossing, where P.W.2-Vijay Kumar Jaiswal informed her that revisionist-Raju Patel and four other named accused persons have beaten and assaulted her husband and thereafter, they fled away from the place of occurrence. When she reached there along with co-villagers, she found that her husband was lying there groaning with pain. P.W.1-Heera Devi has given similar statement before trial Court regarding her husband, leaving her house with co-accused, Vishambar Patel. Her neighbour- Durgesh Yadav informed her about the incident. P.W.2 Vijay Kumar Jaiswal also informed the informant about the name of revisionist along with four other accused persons involved in the alleged crime of assault on her husband. P.W.1-Heera Devi has also narrated in her deposition that P.W.3 Subhash Yadav and Rajesh Yadav informed about the complicity of the accused persons in the assault her husband. P.W.1-Heera Devi is consistent in corroborating the facts given by her in the FIR. On the basis of her written report that when she reached the place of occurrence, P.W.2 Vijay Kumar Jaiswal informed her about the accused persons, who had participated in the aforesaid crime in question. P.W.2 -Vijay Kumar Jaiswal also deposed in his evidence that he saw the participation of revisionist and other co-accused persons in the assault of informant's husband. P.W.3 Subhash Yadav and P.W.4 Durgesh Yadav have also deposed in their evidence that when they reached at the place of occurrence, they saw the injured, who was lying there groaning with pain. They have also deposed that P.W.2 Vijay Kumar Jaiswal informed them the name of revisionist and four other accused persons, who had participated in the assault on the deceased Gyanesh Yadav.

18. Taking into the consideration of the deposition of P.W.1, P.W.2, P.W.3 and P.W.4 and in the light of law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid decisions, there is prima facie evidence to summon the revisionist, namely, Raju Patel for trial under Sections 304/34 and 506 I.P.C.

19. From the above discussions, it can be concluded that the Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No.1, Maharajganj has after being satisfied with the evidence on record summoned the accused as per provision under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The trial Court has not committed any illegality, irregularity or impropriety in passing the impugned order. Therefore, I do not find any merit in the revision which is liable to be dismissed and is hereby dismissed accordingly.

20. It is hereby made clear that I have not expressed any opinion on the merits of the case and the veracity or deposition of the witnesses. The trial Court is free to give its own findings and may decide the case in question, in accordance with law, without being prejudiced by any observation made in this order.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1526
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 15.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MRS. SANGEETA CHANDRA, J.
THE HON'BLE AJAI KUMAR SRIVASTAVA-I, J.

Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 248 of 2024

Rakesh Babu ...Petitioner
Versus
The U.P. Rajkiya Nirman Nigam Ltd. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Shireesh Kumar, Utkarsh Kumar

Counsel for the Respondents:
Shishir Jain

Criminal Law - The Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 - Section 19 - Quashing of Prosecution Sanction Order Denied The Allahabad High Court dismissed the writ petition challenging the prosecution sanction order dated 26.06.2023 under Section 19 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, holding that such challenges are not maintainable at the pre-trial stage. The court emphasized that the validity of the sanction order, including compliance with procedural requirements, should be assessed during trial after evidence is presente (Paras 11, 42-43)

Non-Applicability of Section 17A of the Prevention of Corruption Act The court rejected the petitioner's argument that prior approval under Section 17A of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, was mandatory, as the alleged offence of amassing disproportionate assets under Section 13(1)(b) was not directly relatable to recommendations or decisions made in discharge of official duties. Section 17A applies only to offences linked to official functions, not to illicit enrichment. (Paras 14, 24, 30-31)
Prior Disciplinary Exoneration Not a Bar to Criminal Prosecution The court held that the petitioner's exoneration in earlier disciplinary proceedings (concluded on 06.06.2023) did not preclude criminal prosecution on the same charges, distinguishing Ashoo Surendranath Tewari Vs Deputy Superintendent of Police (2020). The court clarified that disciplinary proceedings, based on preponderance of probability, differ from criminal trials requiring proof beyond reasonable doubt. (Paras 33-34, 39-41)

Judicial Precedents on Sanction and Investigation Citing Nara Chandrababu Naidu Vs St. of Andhra Pradesh (2024), Yeshwanth Sinha Vs CBI (2020), and Yash Kumar Verma Vs St. of U.P. (2023), the court underscored that Section 17A's requirement for prior approval does not apply to offences unrelated to official duties. The court also relied on CBI Vs Ashok Kumar Aggarwal (2013) to hold that sanction orders' validity must be tested during trial. (Paras 15, 24-26, 42)

Cases Cited:

1. Romesh Lal Jain Vs Naginder Singh Rana, 2006 (1) SCC 294 (Para 7)

2. CBI Vs Ashok Kumar Aggarwal, (2013) 15 SCC 222 (Paras 8, 42)

3. Kanhaiya Lal Saraswat Vs St. of U.P., [2021 (116) ACC 815] (Para 11)

4. Rajeev Kumar Singh Vs St. of U.P., 2020 AIR Online 447 (Paras 11, 12, 42)

5. Yash Kumar Verma Vs St. of U.P., CRLP 2372 of 2023 (All HC, 14.07.2023) (Paras 11, 42)

6. Nara Chandrababu Naidu Vs St. of Andhra Pradesh, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 47 (Paras 15, 24)

7. Yeshwanth Sinha Vs CBI, (2020) 2 SCC 338 (Paras 18, 25)

8. St. of Rajasthan Vs Tejmal Chaudhary, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 3477 (Paras 26, 29)

9. Ashoo Surendranath Tewari Vs Deputy Superintendent of Police, Criminal Appeal No. 575 of 2020 (SC, 08.09.2020) (Para 34)

10. Matajog Dobey Vs HC Bhari, AIR 1956 SC 44 (Para 23)

11. Shambhu Mishra Vs St. of U.P., 1997 (5) SCC 326 (Para 21)

12. St. of U.P. Vs Parasnath Singh, 2009 (6) SCC 372 (Para 21)

13. Subramanyam Swami Vs Manmohan Singh, (2012) 3 SCC 64 (Para 29)

14. Subramanyam Swamy Vs Director, CBI, (2014) 8 SCC 682 (Para 29)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J. & Hon'ble Ajai Kumar Srivastava-I, J.)

(1) Heard the learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned A.G.A. appearing for the State.

(2) This writ petition has been filed with the following main prayers:-

"(i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the order dated 26.06.2023 as contained in Annexure No.8 to this writ petition and declare the petitioner entitled to all consequential service benefits.

(ii) issue any other appropriate writ, order or direction which is deemed just and proper in the nature and circumstances of the case in favour of the petitioner in the interest of justice along with the cost of this writ petition."

(3) Such relief has been sought on the grounds (as mentioned in the writ petition) that the impugned order dated 26.06.2023 has been passed in violation of mandatory provisions of Section 19 of the Prevention of Corruption Act and ignoring the fact that the petitioner has not committed any criminal misconduct within the meaning of Section 13 (1) (b) and Section 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred as the Act of 1988).

(4) It has also been stated that initially a Departmental Inquiry was held against the petitioner on the basis of Charge-sheet dated 14.09.2021 wherein a similar charge was framed regarding expenditure of 124% more than his actual income, a copy of which has been filed as Annexure no.2 to the petition. The allegation was that during the check period with effect from 01.01.2007 to 31.12.2011, the petitioner's expenditure on himself and his family members and dependents and also acquisition of immovable and Movable property worth more than his known sources of income i.e. his income from all sources was Rs.42,92,116/- whereas he had spent Rs.96,38,455/-.

(5) In pursuance of the Charge-sheet, the petitioner had submitted his reply which was considered by the Inquiry Officer who exonerated him from the said charge. The Enquiry Report dated 11.11.2021 has been filed as Annexure-3 to the writ petition. In the Enquiry Report, the Enquiry Officer had found that during check period (with effect from 01.01.2007 to 31.12.2011) the petitioner earned a total of Rs.35,20,785/- whereas his wife was making Stuffed Toys and Garments and doing Share Trading and had also sold off Gold jewellery and taken a loan of Rs.10 lacs and her income during the check period was Rs.65,69,613/- and therefore his total income was more than what he had spent. The Managing Director had accepted such report on 06.06.2023 and concluded the Disciplinary Proceedings on 16.06.2023. However, on the very next day i.e. on 07.06.2023, the Opposite party no.2 again passed an order instituting a fresh inquiry on the same charge and evidence. The Charge-sheet was issued to him on 16.06.2023 containing only one charge. The petitioner challenged the order dated 07.06.2023 and Charge-sheet dated 16.06.2023 in Writ-A No.6261 of 2023 [Rakesh Babu Vs. the U.P. Rajkiya Nirman Nigam Ltd. and another], in which this Court granted interim protection to him on 24.08.2023 and stayed further proceedings in pursuance of impugned orders. Not being satisfied, the respondent No.2 has also passed an order on 26.06.2023 giving Prosecution Sanction under Section 197 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, in a matter identical to the subject matter of the Charge-sheet dated 14.09.2021 and 16.06.2023.

(6) In the order dated 26.06.2023 a reference has been made to letters of the State Government dated 20.06.2023 and 26.05.2023, on the basis of Investigation Report No.A-143 of 2021 where the Vigilance Department had prima facie found evidence of commission of offence under Section 13 (1) (b) read with Section 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act.

(7) It has been stated in the writ petition that in the case of Romesh Lal Jain Vs. Naginder Singh Rana and others reported in 2006 (1) SCC 294, the Supreme Court has held that Sanctioning Authority has to take a decision as per the opinion of the Law Department but the order dated 26.06.2023 does not show that any legal opinion has been sought in the matter from the Law Department.

(8) It has also been stated in the writ petition that the Supreme Court in the case of Central Bureau of Investigation Vs. Ashok Kumar Aggarwal reported in (2013) 15 SCC 222, laid down the Guidelines that have to be mandatorily followed while considering the sanction for prosecution. In pursuance of such Guidelines, the Central Vigilance Commission has issued a Circular on 25.05.2015 wherein it has been provided that while considering the proposal for sanction of prosecution, the Guidelines as given in the judgment of Ashok Kumar Aggarwal should be followed. A copy of the judgment rendered in the Ashok Kumar Aggarwal has been filed as Annexure No.9 to the petition.

(9) The Guidelines as mentioned in the Ashok Kumar Aggarwal provide that the prosecution must send the entire relevant record to the Sanctioning Authority and the Sanctioning Order must show that the Sanctioning Authority has been made aware on all relevant Facts / Materials and has applied its mind before giving such sanction. A copy of the Circular dated 25.05.2015 issued by the Central Vigilance Commission has been filed as Annexure No.10 to the writ petition.

(10) It has been stated in the writ petition that the impugned order dated 26.06.2023 issued by the Opposite party no.2 has been issued on the same set of facts and evidence which was taken into consideration by the Enquiry Officer and the Opposite party no.2 when the Disciplinary Proceedings were concluded against the petitioner without any punishment order.

(11) A preliminary objection has been raised by the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the State-respondents that the writ petition praying for quashing of the prosecution sanction granted under Section 197 of the Cr.P.C. and Section 19 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, is not maintainable and he has referred to judgment rendered by Co-ordinate Benches of this Court in the case of Kanhaiya Lal Saraswat Vs. State of U.P. reported in [2021 (116) ACC 815] decided on 18.06.2021 and judgment rendered in the case of Rajeev Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P. passed in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.25382 of 2020 and other connected matters decided on 21.01.2021 and judgment rendered by a Division Bench on 14.07.2023 in the case of Yash Kumar Verma Vs. State of U.P. and others.

(12) Learned counsel for the petitioner during the course of arguments has also referred to the interim order passed by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court on 23.01.2024, where the Court had noted the arguments made by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the Provisions of Section 17A of the Act of 1988 had not been followed and consequently there was no sanction in the eye of law and the judgment rendered by this Court in Rajeev Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P. would not come in the way of maintainability of the writ petition.

(13) Learned counsel for the petitioner has pointed out the order passed by this Court earlier on 23.01.2024 in this petition. The Division Bench passed the order on 23.01.2024 which is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"Supplementary affidavits filed today are taken on record.

Petitioner is permitted to implead the State authorities as party in the writ petition, during course of the day and provide copy to learned A.G.A.

The question is as to whether the provisions of Section 17A of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 have been adhered or not, as the submission is that there is no adherence to the said provision, consequently, there is no sanction in the eyes of law, and accordingly the Division Bench judgment in Rajeev Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P. & others, (Misc Bench No.25382 of 2020) AIR Online All 447, does not come in the way of maintainability of the writ petition.

All pleas are open for consideration on the next date. Learned counsel may address the court on the aforesaid issues.

List on 12th February, 2024, as fresh."

(14) Heard the learned counsel for the petitioner at some length and we have also perused the provisions of Section 17A of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, which is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"17A. Enquiry or Inquiry or investigation of offences relatable to recommendations made or decision taken by public servant in discharge of official functions or duties.—No police officer shall conduct any enquiry or inquiry or investigation into any offence alleged to have been committed by a public servant under this Act, where the alleged offence is relatable to any recommendation made or decision taken by such public servant in discharge of his official functions or duties" (Emphasis supplied by us)

(15) In Nara Chandrababu Naidu Versus State of Andhra Pradesh and another 2024 SCC online SC 47 A Division Bench of the Court was considering the challenge by the appellant to the initiation of criminal proceedings against him and his detention in connection with the same by the respondent State . Allegations were made against him for commission of offences under various Sections of the I.P.C. and Section 12 and Section 13 (2) read with Section 13 (1) (c) (d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988. The said offences were alleged to have been committed between the years 2015 to 2019 during which period he was Chief Minister of the State of Andhra Pradesh. Initially FIR was lodged on 9th December 2021 against 36 persons in which the appellant was not included. The offences related primarily to siphoning of public funds. The list of accused persons was subsequently expanded and the appellant was also arraigned as an accused before the Special Judge, (SPE and ACB cases). The appellant along with a former minister of Andhra Pradesh cabinet who was also arraigned applied before the High Court for quashing of the FIR implicating them invoking the jurisdiction of the court under Section 482, Cr.P.C. The legality of the remand order was also challenged in the same petition. The petition was rejected. The appeal was filed before the Supreme Court against dismissal of the 482 petition by the High Court.

(16) Primarily the allegation against the appellant was of facilitating diversion of public money of around 370 crores of rupees which was to be used for setting up of six clusters of Skill Development Centres in Andhra Pradesh. During the course of investigation in the FIR it was discovered that certain shell companies were made payments on the basis of invoices issued by them without providing any service and that they were used as vehicles for diverting funds. The allegation against the appellant was that he had fast tracked the project and approved the cost estimation with criminal intent and by pursuing the government officers he had ensured release of ₹370, crores to such companies on nomination basis without following any tender process. Misappropriation of government funds through corrupt and illegal methods was alleged and abuse of official position was attributed to the appellant. It was alleged that by abusing his official position, he had fraudulently committed criminal beach of trust with a common intention to cause wrongful loss to the government exchequer by allowing the accused to divert APS SDC funds by using fake invoices as genuine ones, for the purpose of cheating through shell, defunct companies without providing materials/services to the APS SDC – Siemens project.

(17) On behalf of the appellant, the main argument which was made before the High Court was of non-compliance of Section 17A of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 in implicating the appellant under Section 12, 13 (2) read with section 13 (1) (c) and (d) of the Act of 1988. It was argued that absence of prior approval as mandated under Section 17 A of the Act of 1988, vitiated the conduct of enquiry or inquiry or investigation; the initiation and continuation of investigation in the FIR including various investigative steps of adding the appellant as an accused and arresting him and the remand of the appellant into custody, pursuant to the orders passed by the Special Court. It was argued that Section 17A of the Prevention of Corruption Act which was introduced with effect from 26th July 2018, interdicts

"– – any enquiry or inquiry or investigation into an offence to have been committed by public servant — without previous approval of functionaries specified in clauses (a) (b) or (c) as the case maybe, the only exception being where a public servant is apprehended red-handed.

(18) It was argued that Section 17A constitutes a complete legal bar to the very initiation of any enquiry, inquiry or investigation as was noted by the Supreme Court in the case of Yeshwanth Sinha Versus Central Bureau of Investigation reported in (2020) 2 SCC 338; Section 17 A uses the phrase "any offence" hence, the requirement of obtaining prior approval under Section 17A is applicable to all offences, and not just offences under Prevention of Corruption Act and even investigation for offences under the I.P.C. cannot be countenanced as the basic material for constituting both kinds of offences is the same. It was also argued that a legal bar to prosecution is a valid ground for quashing the proceedings as held by the Supreme Court in the case of R. P. Kapoor Versus State of Punjab and State of Haryana versus Bhajan Lal.

(19) Both the judges constituting the Division Bench in Nara Chandrababu Naidu (Supra), gave differing opinions but in both such opinions the object of introducing section 17A and the consequences of not taking prior approval in conducting any enquiry, inquiry or investigation have been discussed in detail.

(20) After quoting Section 17A which was introduced in the statute book with effect from 26th July 2018, Justice Anirudh Bose has observed in paragraph 12 and 13 that Section 17A postulates prior approval from the appointing authority in relation to any enquiry, inquiry or investigation under the 1988 Act. While the expression Inquiry has been defined in the 1973 Code, there is no specific definition of the word 'Enquiry'. The Concise Oxford English Law Dictionary, (revised 10th edition), defines the said expression as "an act of asking for an information, it is commencement of an active search to ascertain the truth or veracity of an alleged wrongful act". In ordinary perception, enquiry by police officer would imply positive exercise for searching certain details or particulars pertaining to allegations of commission of an offence by an accused person or a set of accused persons.

(21) After referring to the counsel for the Appellant's argument regarding Standard Operating Procedure for processing cases under Section 17A of the 1988 Act, Justice Bose referred to a Department of Personnel and Training's Office Memo dated 3.9.2021 which records in detail how the aforesaid provision would apply and it mentions that enquiry for the purposes of this SOP means any action taken, for verifying as to whether the information pertains to the commission of an offence under the Act. The court disagreed with the observations made by the High Court citing judgements in the case of Shambhu Mishra Versus State of U.P. 1997 (5) SCC 326; and the State of U.P. Versus Parasnath Singh 2009 (6) SCC 372; that the protection of sanction sought by the accused persons cannot be applied because when a public servant is alleged to have committed the offence of fabrication of records or misappropriation of public funds, it cannot be said that he acted in discharge of his official duty. Obviously, it cannot be said that such a conduct on the part of a public servant can be related to his official duties.

(22) Justice Bose was of the opinion that judgement rendered in Shambhunath Misra and Paras Nath Singh (Supra), relate to interpreting the provisions of Section 197 of the 1973 Code. The requirement of previous Sanction contemplated in Section 197 of the 1973 Code comes at the stage of taking cognizance of an offence. Thus, a judicial authority in such a context has the advantage of coming to some form of opinion, as to whether the offending act can be said to have been committed in the discharge of official duty or not by merely looking at the nature of allegations in the complaint. If it was found impossible to conclude that the action has been done by the accused while in discharge of official duty, the judicial authority can proceed at the stage of taking cognizance by holding that requirement for taking sanction is not necessary at all.

(23) Justice Bose relied upon the observations made by the Supreme Court in Matajog Dobey versus HC Bhari (AIR, 1956, Supreme Court Court 44) to say that the need for sanction under Section 197 of the Cr.P.C. must be considered, not as soon as the complaint is lodged and on the allegations contained therein, but at the time of taking cognizance or at any stage of the proceedings where the Court is required to consider the question whether the case against the accused to be proved against him relates to acts done or purportedly done by him in the execution of his duty. The complaint may not disclose that the act constituting the offence was done or purported to be done in the discharge of official duty; but facts subsequently coming to light on a police or judicial enquiry, or even in the course of the prosecution or Evidence at the trial, may establish the necessity for sanction. Whether sanction is necessary or not, may have to be determined from stage to stage. The necessity may reveal itself in the course of the progress of the case. The requirement of taking sanction under section 19 of the 1988 Act also is at the same stage.

(24) However, Justice Anirudh Bose in his judgement has distinguished the question of sanction obtained under section 197 of the Cr.P.C. or Section 19 of the 1988 Act from that of section 17 A of the Act of 1988. He observed thus:-

"Section 17A of the 1988 Act imposes restriction on police officer at the enquiry stage itself from proceeding against a public servant in relation to any offence, alleged to have been committed by him, relatable to any recommendation made or decision taken by such public servant (emphasis added), without previous approval of the authorities, stipulated in the said section. We do not think that cases arising out of Section 197 of the 1973 Code would give proper guidance for interpreting the provisions of Section 17A of the 1988 Act because in the cases under section 197, the decision on requirement for sanction is to be taken at the stage of taking cognizance. Thus, there is inbuilt scope of application of judicial mind to assess, at least prima facie , if analysed act falls within the discharge of official duty or not. Under the provisions of Section 17A of the 1988 Act, there is no scope of judicial application of mind in determining if the act of making recommendation or taking decision is intertwined with the discharge of official duty or function or not. Moreover, the qualified embargo therein is on the police officer on the point as to assessing whether offending act is in discharge of official duty or not. Having regard to the nature of duties of a police officer, he is less equipped to asses that factor, which involves some form of judicial application of mind."

Section 19 of the 1988 Act requires the court to satisfy itself whether such sanction stated therein has been taken at the stage of taking cognizance. So far as act of a public servant in making recommendation or taking decision in discharge of official duties are concerned, an entry check, prior in time has been contemplated for the investigating agencies.

The requirement of taking prior approval could arise at that stage, being the beginning or commencing of the enquiry, inquiry or investigation.

(25) Justice Bose while considering the legality of a proceeding which was started without complying with the requirement of the previous approval under Section 17 A of the 1988 Act, referred to the judgement rendered by the Supreme Court in Yeshwanth Sinha Versus Central Bureau of investigation through its Director reported in 2020 (2) SCC 388, where in the concurrent judgement of Justice K. M. Joseph, in paragraph 117 it was observed:—

117. In terms of section 17A no police officer is permitted to conduct any enquiry or inquiry or conduct investigation into any offence done by public servant where the offence is relatable to any recommendation made or decision taken by the public servant in discharge of his public functions without previous approval, of the authority competent to remove the public servant from his office at the time when the offence was said to have been committed.––"

(emphasis supplied by us)

(26) The same view has been been reiterated by the Supreme Court in the case of State of Rajasthan Versus Tejmal Chaudhary reported in 2021 SCC online SC 3477, Justice Bose in conclusion, observed that if an enquiry, inquiry or investigation is intended in respect of a public servant on the allegation of commission of offence under 1988 Act, after section 17A thereof becomes operational, which is relatable to any recommendation made or decision taken, at least prima facie in discharge of his official duty, previous approval of the authority postulated in Subsection (a) or (b) or (c) of Section 17 A of the 1988 Act shall have to be obtained. In absence of such previous approval, the action initiated under section 1988 Act shall be held illegal.

(27) Justice Bela M. Trivedi gave a separate judgement relating to the interpretation of Section 17 A of the 1988 Act. She noted the Object and Reason of promulgation of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988. It was observed that the 1988 Act sets the framework for prosecuting individuals involved in corrupt activities and provides measures to prevent corruption in various spheres of the society. The very objectives of the Act are to prevent Corruption, to promote transparency and accountability in public administration, to deter individuals from engaging in corrupt practices by imposing strict penalties, and it protects whistle blowers et cetera. It also provides for investigation and prosecution of corruption cases, outlining the procedure for gathering evidence, conducting trials and ensuring a fair and expeditious legal process. By the amendment Act of 2018, the gaps in the 1988 Act were filled in with respect to description and coverage of offences of bribery so as to bring it in line with the current international practices and also to meet more effectively, the country's obligations under the United Nations Convention against Corruption. By the Amendment Act of 2018 several provisions, more particularly offences described under Section 7, 8, 9, 10 and 13 in Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 were substituted with new provisions; and several new provisions like Section 7 A, 17 A, 18 A and 209A etc. inserted. Certain provisions pertaining to the punishment of the offences under the Act were also amended. A positive approach for interpreting the Act was necessary. The aim and object of the Act must be given its full effect. The text and context of the entire Act must be looked into while interpreting any of the expressions used in the statute. If two views were possible, the view, which most advances the object of the Act, and which makes the Act workable, must necessarily be the controlling view . Even penal statues are governed, not only by the literal language, but also by the object sought to be achieved by Parliament. Even if the words occurring in the statute are plain and unambiguous, they have to be interpreted in a manner which would fit in the context of the other provisions of the statute and bring about real intention of the legislature.

(28) Justice Trivedi thereafter observed in Paragraph 55 as follows: –

"55. Although not specifically mentioned in the Statement of Object and Reasons of the Amendment Act, 2018, the object of inserting section 17A in the Prevention of Corruption Act, which is in Pari materia with the provisions contained in Section 6A of the Delhi Special Police Establishment Act, 1946, is to protect honest public servants from harassment by way of enquiry or investigation in respect of decisions taken or acts done in bona fide performance of their official functions or duties. Whereas Section 19 bars the courts from taking cognizance of an offence punishable under the 1988 Act to have been committed by public servants, except with the prior sanction of the concerned authorities mentioned therein, Section 17A bars the police officer from conducting any enquiry or enquiry or investigation of offences relatable to recommendations made or decision taken by the public servant in the discharge of official functions or duties, without approval of the concerned authorities mentioned therein. From the bear reading, it is discernible that section 17 A has the following four main facets: –

(i) enquiry or enquiry or investigation of offences under prevention of corruption act. (ii) alleged offences should be relatable to the recommendation made or decision taken by a public servant. (iii) Such recommendations made or decisions taken by public servant should be in discharge of official functions and duties and (iv) previous approval of the authorities mentioned therein.

(29) Justice Trivedi relied upon the object of the Prevention of Corruption Act and also referred to judgement of the Supreme Court in State of Rajasthan Versus Tejmal Chaudhary where the Supreme Court set aside the interim order passed by the High Court which had stayed the proceedings only on the ground that approval was not obtained under section 17A of the Prevention of Corruption Act by observing interalia, that the legislative intent in the enactment of a statute is to be gathered from the express words used in the statute, unless the plain words literally construed give rise to absurd results. The court had observed that it has to go by the plain words of the statute to construe the legislative intent and that it could not possibly have been the intent of the legislature that all pending investigations up to July 2018 should be rendered infructuous. Justice Trivedi also observed on the basis of judgement rendered in Subramanyam Swami Versus Manmohan Singh reported in (2012) 3 SCC 64, that in case of two possible constructions of a provision in the 1988 Act, it would be the duty of the court to accept the one that seeks to eradicate corruption, to the one which seeks to perpetuate it. In Subramanyam Swamy Versus Director, CBI reported in (2014) 8 SCC 682; the Constitution Bench had observed while dealing with Section 19 of the 1988 Act that the protection against malicious prosecution which is extended in public interest, cannot become a shield to protect corrupt officers.

Justice Trivedi thereafter observed in paragraph 67 as follows: –

"67. Even otherwise, absence of approval before conducting any enquiry or inquiry or investigation into an offence, alleged to have been committed by public servant, as contemplated in Section 17A could never be a ground for quashing the FIR registered against the public servant or the proceedings conducted against him, more particularly, when he is also charged for other offences under the I.P.C. in respect of the same set of allegations. As stated earlier, there are other important facets contained in Section 17A, like whether the offence is relatable to the recommendation made or the decision taken by the public servant or not, and whether such recommendation or decision was made or taken in the discharge of his official functions or duties or not etcetera. Such facets would be examined only when evidence is lead during the course of trial. The acts which prima facie constitute offences, though done under the purported exercise of official function or duty, could not fall within the purview of section 17A. The protection sought to be granted to public servant under section 17A could not be extended to his acts which prima facie were not in the discharge of his official functions or duties. Any other interpretation would certainly tantamount to scuttling the investigation at a very nascent stage. Such could neither be the intention of the Legislature nor could such provision be interpreted in the manner which would be counter-productive or frustrating the very object of the Prevention of Corruption Act."

(emphasis supplied by us)

(30) In the instant petition the counsel for the petitioner says that even the amassing of alleged disproportionate assets more than the known sources of income can be said to be a consequence of a recommendation made or a decision taken by him as a Resident Engineer of U.P.R.N.N.L. He has also argued that Section 13 (1) (b) added by way of the same Amending Act No.16/2018 with effect from 26.07.2018 and therefore, Section 17A should be read conjointly with Section 13 (1) (b).

(31) We do not find the argument raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner convincing as these are two different provisions operating in two different spheres. Section 13 in its entirety is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"13. Criminal Misconduct by a public servant-- [(1)] A public servant is said to commit the offence of criminal misconduct-

(a) if he dishonestly or fraudulently misappropriates or otherwise converts for his own use any property entrusted to him or any property under his control as a public servant or allows any other person so to do; or

(b) if he intentionally enriches himself illicitly during the period of his office."

(32) We have gone through the Annexure No.8 to the writ petition which is an order dated 26.06.2023 which has been passed by Managing Director of the U.P. Rajkiya Nirman Nigam Limited while placing reliance upon the State Government's letter dated 20.06.2023 which enclosed with it, the letter of the Vigilance Establishment dated 26.05.2023 and the Report dated 21.03.2023 relating to amassing of disproportionate assets allegedly by the petitioner in discharge of his official duties. This Court, therefore, finds that after investigation sanction has been given by the Government / Competent Authority and such sanction cannot be said to be no sanction at all as was argued by the learned counsel for the petitioner before the Co-ordinate Bench which lead to the passing of the interim order dated 23.01.2024.

(33) At this stage it has also been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that he has also challenged the prosecution Sanction order on the ground that for the offence committed by the petitioner for amassing disproportionate assets during his tenure of service, the respondents-U.P.R.N.N. Ltd. had initiated a Disciplinary proceeding against him, a copy of the Charge-sheet has been filed as Anneuxre No.2 to the petition. After regular Enquiry, the Enquiry report was submitted by the Enquiry Officer, a copy of which has been filed as Annexure No.3 to the petition. The Enquiry Officer had not found him guilty of amassing disproportionate assets. The Enquiry Officer's report was accepted by the Managing Director of U.P.R.N.N. Ltd. by his order dated 06.06.2023, a copy of which has been filed as Anneuxre No.4 to the petition.

(34) It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ashoo Surendranath Tewari Vs. The Deputy Superintendent of Police, EOW, CBI & Anr. in Criminal Appeal No.575 of 2020, in its judgment and order dated 08.09.2020 has held that where the Disciplinary proceedings are initiated against a delinquent employee and on merits, the said Disciplinary proceedings are concluded and the report by the Enquiry Officer has been accepted exonerating the delinquent employee, then on the very same charge the prosecution sanction should not be given and no criminal prosecution should be allowed to continue.

(35) Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon a copy of the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court filed as S.A.-2 of his affidavit filed on 19.01.2024.

(36) We have gone through the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. The facts in the said case were arising out of an F.I.R. that was registered on 09.12.2009 with regard to a MSME

Receivable Finance Scheme operated by the Small Industries Development Bank of India (SIDBI). Some vendors were complaining of delay in getting their payments. SIDBI in consultation with Tata Motors Limited, directed the vendors of Tata Motors Limited to furnish RTGS details for remittance of funds. The vendors' account was shown to be in Federal Bank, Thriupporur. Tata Motors Limited made payment through RTGS for various purchases done by it, to the tune of Rs.1,64,17,551/-. Subsequently, the vendors informed the SIDBI that they had an account in Central Bank Bangalore, and not with Federal Bank, Thriupporur. On account of diversion of funds in a different bank account, the F.I.R. was lodged in which a number of accused persons were arrested. The Charge sheet was filed before the Court of Special Judge, CBI. The Special Judge, CBI, found that since no sanction was taken under the Prevention of Corruption Act, the trial under the Act, cannot be proceeded with. The Special Judge also found that there was no need to get sanction under Section 197 Cr.P.C. as no offence under the Indian Penal Code was made out.

(37) The order passed by the Special Judge, CBI, was challenged before the High Court. The High Court by its judgment and order dated 11.07.2014 had agreed with the Special Judge, CBI, observations regarding no need for sanction under Section 197 Cr.P.C. being necessary. However, the High Court had failed to consider order of the Central Vigilance Commission dated 22.12.2011 which had gone into the facts of the case in great detail. The Court observed that the Central Vigilance Commission in its order had rightly observed that the petitioner Ashoo Surendranath Tewari, was only negligent and there may be no criminal culpability. In fact, there was a positive finding of the CVC that the appellant- petitioner appeared to be a victim of the Master mind's plot to defraud the purchasers and the vendors and also SIDBI.

(38) It is in such a context that the Supreme Court had made observations in Paragraph-7 which have been emphasized by the learned counsel for the petitioner during the course of his arguments referring to a number of judgments regarding standard of proof in a departmental proceeding being based on preponderance of probability, as somewhat lower than the standard of proof in a criminal proceeding where the case has to be proved beyond reasonable doubt.

(39) This Court is convinced that the Supreme Court in the facts of the case has made observation that it was clear from the detailed CVC order which had held the petitioner only to be guilty of negligence, that there were very bleak chances of conviction in a criminal trial involving the same facts.

(40) The Supreme Court did not hold that even F.I.R. should not be lodged and investigation should not be conducted in a case where an employee has been exonerated in a disciplinary proceeding. In the case of the petitioner fresh disciplinary proceedings were initiated but have been stayed by the writ Court till further orders in the pending writ petition.

(41) This Court is of the considered opinion that the judgment that has been cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner to substantiate his arguments that once he is exonerated in the Disciplinary proceedings by the Competent Authority, the same Competent Authority cannot give sanction for criminal prosecution under the Prevention of Corruption Act, is not applicable in the facts of the instant case.

(42) In so far as the relief clause as framed in the writ petition is concerned, regarding challenge to Sanction Order and grounds taken for such challenge in the pleadings on record, a Co-ordinate Division Bench of this Court in Yash Kumar Verma Vs. State of U.P. C.R.L.P. 2372 of 2023 decided on 14.07.2023 after considering the law as settled by the Supreme Court and considering the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Rajeev Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2020 AIR Online 447 has observed in Para-32 as follows:-

"This Court is of the considered opinion that in view of the law settled by the Supreme Court in the aforecited cases of Dinesh Kumar versus Chairman, Airports Authority of India and another, C.B.I. versus Ashok Kumar Agarwal, C.B.I. versus Pramila Virendra Kumar Agarwal, and Sukh lal Yadav versus State of U.P. and others, till evidence is led by the prosecution before the Trial Court, the facts and circumstances leading to the competent authority granting sanction for prosecution cannot be appreciated to the fullest. Even if for the sake of argument, it is to be believed that necessary material was not kept before the sanctioning authority for it to apply its mind, then also the prosecution would have to be given a chance to first lead evidence to the effect that all relevant material including material which may favour the accused, was laid before the sanctioning authority. To Appreciate such evidence, the trial court is competent."

(43) We do not find any merit in this challenge and consequently the writ petition stands dismissed.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1538
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 31.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MRS. SANGEETA CHANDRA, J.
THE HON'BLE AJAI KUMAR SRIVASTAVA-I, J.

Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 7850 of 2023

M/S Brijwasi Sarraf ...Petitioner
Versus
U.O.I. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Vinod Kumar Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
A.S.G.I., Amit Jaiswal Ojus Law., C.S.C., Sudhir Kumar, Vijay Kumar Dubey

Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure Code,1973 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 102, 451 & 457 – Seizure of Bank Account – Freezing of Account – Right to Property – Alternative Remedy – Writ Jurisdiction – Article 226 of the Constitution

The petitioner, M/s Brijwasi Sarraf, challenged the freezing of its Axis Bank account (No. 407010200000347) by the Investigating Officer, alleging non-compliance with Section 102(3) Cr.P. , which mandates reporting seizures to the jurisdictional Magistrate, and claimed that the freezing deprived it of its right to property. The account was frozen based on complaints filed on the National Cyber Crime Reporting Portal (NCCRP) on 17.08.2023 and 24.08.2023, alleging that funds from fraudulent transactions by Gravity Solutions, linked to accused Amarnath Awasthi, were transferred to the petitioner's account via Jugal Kishore Jewellers. The St. argued that Section 102(3) is directory, not mandatory, as per Amit Singh Vs St. of U.P., and that the petitioner had an alternative remedy under Sections 451 and 457 Cr.P. to seek release of the seized property. Held: The Supreme Court in St. of Maharashtra Vs Tapas Neogy (1999) 7 SCC 685 clarified that a bank account is "property" under Section 102 Cr.P. , and police can freeze it if linked to an offence, as confirmed in Teesta Atul Setalvad Vs St. of Gujarat. Freezing is a temporary investigative measure, not a deprivation of property rights, per Vinoshkumar Ramachandran Valluvar Vs St. of Maharashtra (2011 SCC OnLine Bom 112). The petitioner's failure to report the seizure under Section 102(3) does not render it illegal, as the provision is directory. The petitioner could seek interim custody or disposal of the seized property under Sections 451 or 457 Cr.P. before the jurisdictional Magistrate, an effective alternative remedy. Thus, the writ petition was not maintainable under Article 226 due to the availability of statutory remedies. The petition was disposed of, with liberty to the petitioner to pursue remedies under the Cr.P.

Case Law Cited:

1. Amit Singh Vs St. of U.P. (Allahabad HC)

2. St. of Mah. Vs Tapas Neogy, (1999) 7 SCC 685

3. Teesta Atul Setalvad Vs St. of Guj.

4. Vinoshkumar Ramachandran Valluvar Vs St. of Mah., 2011 SCC OnLine Bom 112

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J. & Hon'ble Ajai Kumar Srivastava-I, J.)

(Oral)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Amit Jaiswal, learned counsel for the opposite party no.10, Learned A.G.A. for the State Respondents and Sri Sudhir Kumar, Advocate, who has appeared and filed his vakalatnama on behalf of the opposite party no. 11 in the Registry yesterday.

2. The instant writ petition has been filed by the petitioner with the following main reliefs:-

(i). Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari whereby order passed by opposite party directing the bank to freeze the current account 407010200000347; IFSC Code IFSC-UTIB0000407 existed in Branch Hawett Road, Lucknow in the Axis Bank Ltd. of petitioner's firm be quashed and set aside.

(ii). Issue a Writ, Order or Direction in the nature of mandamus directing the opposite parties no. 9 to de-freeze the current account 407010200000347; IFSC Code IFSC-UTIB0000407 existed in Branch Hawett Road, Lucknow in the Axis Bank Ltd. of the petitioner's firm and the petitioner may be allowed to operate the account as earlier he was able to operate.

(iii). Issue a Writ, Order or Direction in the nature of mandamus commanding opposite parties specifically opposite party no. 10 i.e. Branch Manager, Axis Bank Ltd., Branch Hawett Road Shivaji Marg, 226001, Lucknow, that he may not permit to the opposite parties no. 5 to 9 to deduct any amount from the current account the current account 407010200000347; IFSC Code IFSC-UTIB0000407 existed in Branch Hawett Road, Lucknow in the Axis Bank Ltd. of the petitioner's firm, in any manner, during pendency of the present writ petition.

3. It is submitted by learned counsel the petitioner that seizure made by the Investigating Officer in these cases have not been reported to the Magistrate having jurisdiction, therefore, due to non-compliance of provisions contained under Section 102 (3) of Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred to as 'Cr.P.C.) such seizure is not sustainable in the eye of law. His further submission is that freezing of account of the petitioner amounts to deprivation of his right to property as the money in his account belongs to the petitioner.

4. Per contra, learned Additional Government Advocate argued that the question as to whether Section 102 (3)

Cr.P.C. is mandatory or directory, is no more res integra, has already been decided by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court at Allahabad in Amit Singh v. State of U.P.[1] that Section 102 (3) Cr.P.C. is not mandatory but it is directory. It was also observed that non-reporting of the seizure forthwith, as provided under Section 102 (3) Cr.P.C., shall not ipso facto render the seizure illegal particularly as no period is specified and it's consequences have not been provided. He has also submitted that the petitioner has a statutory remedy as provided under Sections 451 to 457 Cr.P.C. against any seizure made under Section 102 Cr.P.C. Therefore, he prays that the instant writ petition is also liable to be dismissed.

5. An affidavit of service filed today by Sri Vinod Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, is taken on record.

6. Learned A.G.A. for the State has produced before this Court written instructions sent by the Sub-Inspector of Police, Cyber Crime Cell Police, Police Station- Amroli, District- Surat City, Gujarat and also from Cyber Police Station, Pune, Maharashtra.

7. Sri S.P. Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State has stated on the basis of said instructions that one Amarnath Awasthi was running a company by the name of Gravity Solutions which had falsely promised the investors of earning 20 to 30 percent profit on invested amount. The investigation has revealed that Rs. 6,01,000/- were transferred online from Yes Bank Account No. 001885800006111 of the accused Amarnath Awasthi to HDFC Bank Account No. 50200026791298 of Messers Jugal Kishore, The Jewellers, Eldeco Green, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow. The investigation has further revealed that out of the amount of fraudulently transferred money in the Bank Account of Jugal Kishore in HDFC Bank Account, an amount of Rs.6,21,750/- was transferred online to Axis Bank Account No. 407010200000347 of the accused Brijwasi Saraf, Jhandewala Park, Aminabad, Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh on 15.07.2023.

8. Mr. Parag Patel, the complainant in the said crime, had filed a complaint online on cybercrime.gov.in on National Cyber Crime Register Portal (NCCRP) on 24.08.2023. The bank account of the petitioner, Brijwasi Saraf has been debit frozen through NCCRP Portal. The investigation of the crime through money trail has revealed that money received in the said Axis Bank of the petitioner is from the complainant's Bank Account.

9. Sri S.P. Singh has also produced before this Court instructions sent by Senior Police Superintendent, Police Station Pune City, Shivaji Nagar, Pune, Maharashtra, wherein a mention has been made of online complaint made on 24.08.2023 by one Parag Arun Patil under Sections 419/420/34 I.P.C. read with Section 66D of the Information Technology Act. In the said complaint while mentioning several named accused mention has also been made of one company by the name of Gravity Solutions with Yes Bank Account No. 001885800006111 and account holders and user of Canara Bank Account No.110115106665. The amount cheated from the complainant as mentioned in the said complaint is 31 lakhs. The complainant saw an advertisement on Facebook issued by the Managers of Gravity Solutions Company saying that company handles a trading pool account and they can give 50% profit on the money invested by anyone. Similarly, Managers of one Lovotrade company also said that their company trades in Bullion and Foregin Currencies and they can give 20% return on the amount invested in their company. The complainant being lured was duped online and he transferred a total amount of Rs.31 lakhs to a different Bank Accounts. The Pune Police on investigation has found that on 12.05.2023 the complainant transferred Rs. 9 lakhs to the Account of accused Amar Nath Awasthi R/o Vibhuti Khand Gomti Nagar Lucknow in his Yes Bank Account No. 001885800006111 and Rs.6 lakhs was transferred to the Yes Bank Account of the company Gravity Solutions on 04.07.2023. Further investigation revealed that the Accused Amar Nath Awasthi took a total amount of Rs.15 lakhs into the two accounts maintained in his Bank and then transferred it to different bank Account. Rs.6,01,000 was transferred online from Bank Account of Amar Nath Awasthi to HDFC Bank Account of M/s Jugal Kishore Jewellers, Eldeco Green, Gomti Nagar. Jugal Kishore Jewellers transferred Rs.6,21,750/- from their HDFC Bank account to Axis Bank Account of the petitioner Brijwasi Sarraf Aminabad, Lucknow, on 15.07.2023.

On the basis of online complaint made on cybercrime.gov.in/nationalcybercrimeregistrationportal on 24.08.2023, the Bank Account of the petitioner has been debit frozen. Not only the Pune Police, Cybercrime Cell, has requested for debit freeze of the petitioner's account, but a request has also been made by other three Investigating Agencies as the money trail has revealed that the money received in the petitioner's Bank Account in Axis Bank is from the complainant's Bank Account.

10. The Police Personnel, namely, Mr. M. N. Katuriya, Sub-Inspector of Police, Salabatpura and Mr. G. D. Gadhavi, Sub-Inspector of Police, Amroli, Surat City, Gujarat have also given written instructions which relate to one complainant by the name of Dharmesh Bhai Gopal Bhai Vashi, who had made a complaint on 17.08.2023 regarding Gravity Solutions which had duped the complainant and the other investors. Some of the accused have also been apprehended and now lodged in Sabarmati Central Jail since 24.08.2023. The exact modus operandi of the accused has been given in detail in the said instructions. Initially, the small amounts were transferred every month in the accounts of the investors to make them believe that they will be getting better returns on the money that they had invested in Gravity Solutions, later on such money stopped coming and on suspicion of fraud, the complainant lodged a complaint with the Cyber Crime Cell which was uploaded on the NCCRP Portal, which resulted in the money trail being traced to the account of the petitioner, Brijwasi Saraf maintained in Axis Bank.

11. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Teesta Atul Setalvad v. State of Gujarat[2] in paragraph nos.17 & 18 has held as under:-

"17. The sweep and applicability of Section 102 of the Code is no more res integra. That question has been directly considered and answered in State of Maharashtra v. Tapas D. Neogy [State of Maharashtra v. Tapas D. Neogy, (1999) 7 SCC 685 : 1999 SCC (Cri) 1352] . The Court examined the question whether the police officer investigating any offence can issue prohibitory orders in respect of bank accounts in exercise of power under Section 102 of the Code. The High Court, in that case, after analysing the provisions of Section 102 of the Code had opined that bank account of the accused or of any relation of the accused cannot be held to be "property" within the meaning of Section 102 of the Code. Therefore, the investigating officer will have no power to seize bank accounts or to issue any prohibitory order prohibiting the operation of the bank account. This Court noted that there were conflicting decisions of different High Courts on this aspect and as the question was seminal, it chose to answer the same. In para 6, this Court noted thus : (SCC p. 691)

"6. A plain reading of sub-section (1) of Section 102 indicates that the police officer has the power to seize any property which may be found under circumstances creating suspicion of the commission of any offence. The legislature having used the expression "any property" and "any offence" have made the applicability of the provisions wide enough to cover offences created under any Act. But the two preconditions for applicability of Section 102(1) are that it must be "property" and secondly, in respect of the said property there must have been suspicion of commission of any offence. In this view of the matter the two further questions that arise for consideration are whether the bank account of an accused or of his relation can be said to be "property" within the meaning of sub-section (1) of Section 102 CrPC and secondly, whether circumstances exist, creating suspicion of commission of any offence in relation to the same."

18. After analysing the decisions of different High Courts, this Court in para 12, expounded the legal position thus : (SCC pp. 694-95)

"12. Having considered the divergent views taken by different High Courts with regard to the power of seizure under Section 102 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, and whether the bank account can be held to be "property" within the meaning of the said Section 102(1), we see no justification to give any narrow interpretation to the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code. It is well known that corruption in public offices has become so rampant that it has become difficult to cope up with the same. Then again the time consumed by the courts in concluding the trials is another factor which should be borne in mind in interpreting the provisions of Section 102 of the Criminal Procedure Code and the underlying object engrafted therein, inasmuch as if there can be no order of seizure of the bank account of the accused then the entire money deposited in a bank which is ultimately held in the trial to be the outcome of the illegal gratification, could be withdrawn by the accused and the courts would be powerless to get the said money which has any direct link with the commission of the offence committed by the accused as a public officer. We are, therefore, persuaded to take the view that the bank account of the accused or any of his relations is "property" within the meaning of Section 102 of the Criminal Procedure Code and a police officer in course of investigation can seize or prohibit the operation of the said account if such assets have direct links with the commission of the offence for which the police officer is investigating into. … In the aforesaid premises, we have no hesitation to come to the conclusion that the High Court of Bombay [Chandrashekar Ramprakash Agarwal v. State of Maharashtra, 1997 SCC OnLine Bom 632] committed error in holding that the police officer could not have seized the bank account or could not have issued any direction to the bank officer, prohibiting the account of the accused from being operated upon."

After this decision, there is no room to countenance the challenge to the action of seizure of bank account of any person which may be found under circumstances creating suspicion of the commission of any offence."

(Emphasis supplied by us)

12. The action of seizing a movable property, which includes freezing of the Bank account, is taken under Section 102 of the Cr.P.C. which is reproduced hereinunder:-

"102. Power of police officer to seize certain property.— (1) Any Police Officer may seize any property which may be alleged or suspected to have been stolen, or which may be found under circumstances which create suspicion of the commission of any offence.

(2) Such police officer, if subordinate to the officer in charge of a Police Station, shall forthwith report the seizure to that officer.

(3) Every Police Officer acting under sub-section (1) shall forthwith report the seizure to the Magistrate having jurisdiction and where the property seized is such that it cannot be conveniently transported to the Court or where there is difficulty in securing proper accommodation for the custody of such property, or where the continued retention of the property in police custody may not be considered necessary for the purpose of investigation, he may give custody thereof to any person on his executing a bond undertaking to produce the property before the Court as and when required and to give effect to the further orders of the Court as to the disposal of the same:

Provided that where the property seized under sub-section (1) is subject to speedy and natural decay and if the person entitled to the possession of such property is unknown or absent and the value of such property is less than five hundred rupees, it may forthwith be sold by auction under the orders of the Superintendent of Police and the provisions of Sections 457, and 458, shall, as nearly as may be practicable, apply to the net proceeds of such sale."

13. In Vinoshkumar Ramachandran Valluvar v. State of Maharashtra[3] it was observed as under:—

"18. It is, therefore, clear that like any other property a bank account is freezable. Freezing the account is an act in investigation. Like any other act, it commands and behoves secrecy to preserve the evidence. It does not deprive any person of his liberty or his property. It is necessarily temporary i.e. till the merit of the case is decided. It clothes the Investigating Officers with the power to preserve a property suspected to have been used in the commission of the offence in any manner. The property, therefore, requires to be protected from dissemination, depletion or destruction by any mode. Consequently, under the guise of being given information about the said action, no Accused, not even a third party, can overreach the law under the umbrella of a sublime provision meant to protect the innocent and preserve his property. It would indeed be absurd to suggest that a person must be told that his Bank account, which is suspected of having been used in the commission of an offence by himself or even by another, is being frozen to allow him to have it closed or to have its proceeds withdrawn or transferred upon such notice."

(Emphasis supplied by us)

14. We find that for freezing the account invoking provision as contained under Section 102 Cr.P.C. cannot, by any stretch of imagination, be held to be deprivation of right of property available to the petitioner. Such argument of learned counsel for the petitioner appears to be misconceived.

15. It is apposite to refer Section 451 of Cr.P.C. which enables the trial Court to grant interim custody pending trial. Similarly, Section 457 also vests power in the Magistrate to deal with the seized property as deemed proper and necessary. An accused whose property is seized by police officer can file application for grant of interim custody. This is an effective and efficacious remedy. Section 457 of Cr.P.C. for ready reference is reproduced here-in-under:-

"457. Procedure by police upon seizure of property.

(1) Whenever the seizure of property by any police officer is reported to a Magistrate under the provisions of this Code, and such property is not produced before a Criminal Court during an inquiry or trial, the Magistrate may make such order as he thinks fit respecting the disposal of such property or the delivery of such property to the person entitled to the possession thereof, or if such person cannot be ascertained, respecting the custody and production of such property.

(2) If the person so entitled is known, the Magistrate may order the property to be delivered to him on such conditions (if any) as the Magistrate thinks fit and if such person is unknown, the Magistrate may detain it and shall, in such case, issue a proclamation specifying the articles of which such property consists, and requiring any person who may have a claim thereto, to appear before him and establish his claim within six months from the date of such proclamation."

(Emphasis supplied by us)

16. Thus, on the basis of what has been discussed above, the petitioner ought to have approached the jurisdictional Magistrate seeking appropriate remedy in respect of the property seized and therefore, when an alternative remedy is available, in our considered opinion the present writ petition is not maintainable.

17. In view of the above, the petition lacks merit, which is accordingly, finally disposed of, leaving it open to the petitioner to avail appropriate remedy as may be available to him in accordance with law.

8. Interim order, if any, stands discharged.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1544
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 11.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE VIVEK KUMAR BIRLA, J.
THE HON'BLE VINOD DIWAKAR, J.

Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 17595 of 2023

Ajay Rai ...Petitioner
Versus
State Of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Awadhesh Kumar Malviya

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A., Sri Rajesh Kumar Madhesia(S.L.O.)

Criminal Law - Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1965 – Sections 16, 17, 65(2), 68, 103 & 105 – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 154 & 155 – First Information Report (F.I.R.) – Quashing of F.I.R. – Article 226 – Embezzlement – Cognizable Offence

The petitioner, Ajay Rai, challenged the F.I.R. registered as Case Crime No. 0182 of 2023 under Section 409 IPC at P.S. Dullahpur, Ghazipur, alleging misappropriation of Rs. 16,17,833 as the Officiating Secretary of Sikhadi Samiti. The F.I.R. followed an inquiry under Section 66 of the U.P. Co-operative Societies Act, 1965, which confirmed illegalities after the petitioner's suspension. The petitioner argued: (1) false implication with ulterior motives, (2) no offence under Section 409 IPC disclosed, (3) F.I.R. registration by the Additional District Co-operative Officer violated a 2000 Government Order vesting such power in the Regional Deputy Commissioner, (4) lack of prior approval from the Registrar under Sections 103 and 105, (5) non-invocation of arbitration under Sections 16 and 17, and (6) no prior inquiry under Section 65(2). Held: The F.I.R. registration complied with Section 154 Cr.P. , as per Lalita Kumari Vs Government of U.P. ((2014) 2 SCC 1), mandating registration for cognizable offences like embezzlement. The 2000 Government Order, being administrative, does not override statutory provisions, and the Assistant Commissioner's delegation to the Additional District Co-operative Officer was vali The inquiry committee's findings, based on ledger scrutiny, established a prima facie case, unchallenged by the petitioner. Sections 16 and 17 (arbitration) were irrelevant to criminal proceedings, and Sections 65 and 68 inquiries were duly conducte Section 105's prior sanction was not mandatory at the F.I.R. stage. The petitioner failed to demonstrate malice or fit within the quashing criteria of St. of Har. Vs Bhajan Lal ((1992) Supp (1) SCC 335). With the investigation at a preliminary stage, no interference under Article 226 was warrante The petition was dismissed as meritless.

Case Law Cited:

1. Lalita Kumari Vs Government of U.P., (2014) 2 SCC 1

2. St. of Har. Vs Bhajan Lal, (1992) Supp (1) SCC 335

3. Dilawar Singh Vs St. of Delhi, (2007) 12 SCC 641

4. Abhay Gupta Vs St. of U.P., 2010 SCC OnLine All 2033

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinod Diwakar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Awadhesh Kumar Malviya, learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Rajesh Kumar Madhesia, learned State Law Officer for the State-respondents, and perused the record.

2. By way of the instant petition, the petitioner has challenged the legality and correctness of the impugned F.I.R. registered as Case Crime No.0182 of 2023, under section 409 IPC at P.S. Dullahpur, District Ghazipur.

3. In brief, the prosecution case is that during an inspection by the Additional District Co-operative Officer at Sikhadi Samiti, the Officiating Secretary i.e. the petitioner was observed engaging in certain illegalities. Immediately, the matter was reported to the Chairman of the Samiti, leading to the petitioner's suspension. Subsequently, vide order dated 23rd November 2022, by invoking section 66 of the Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1965, a detailed inquiry was conducted by a three-member committee. The findings of the inquiry revealed that the petitioner had misappropriated a sum of Rs.16,17,833/-.

4. In support of the prayer, learned counsel for the petitioner has made the following submissions:

4.1 The petitioner has been falsely implicated by the department with ulterior motives.

4.2 Upon reading the F.I.R., no offence under section 409 IPC is made out at its face.

4.3 The registration of the F.I.R. is in contravention of the Government Order dated 16.8.2000, which stipulates that in such cases, the Regional Deputy Commissioner, Co-operative, Varanasi, is empowered to register the F.I.R. However, in this instance, the impugned F.I.R. was registered based on the complaint of the Additional District Co-operative Officer, Jakhniya, Ghazipur.

4.4 The petitioner asserts that, in accordance with Sections 103 and 105 of the Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1965, requisite approval from the Registrar, Co-operative, was not obtained prior to the registration of the impugned F.I.R.

4.5 The petitioner emphasizes that Sections 16 and 17 of the Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1965, providing for arbitration proceedings have not been invoked as a remedy.

4.6 No inquiry was conducted prior to the registration of the impugned F.I.R. as required under section 65(2) of the Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1965.

5. Per contra, learned A.G.A. submits that during on-the-spot inspection by the Additional District Co-operative Officer at Sikhadi Samiti, illegalities were noted. The complainant, satisfied with prima-facie evidence of the petitioner's involvement in embezzlement and illegal recovery of loan amounts from the farmers, constituted a committee comprising three members. The committee's report, dated 17.10.2022, reveals findings on five points, indicating the petitioner's engagement in the illegal recovery and embezzlement of funds. The committee scrutinized the ledgers of 56 account holders, revealing significant irregularities in the pass-books, with substantial differences in the amounts disbursed and subsequently recovered. Serious allegations against the petitioner, evident from the F.I.R. and the inquiry report, establish the ingredients of a cognizable offense. The investigation is in their preliminary stages, and no intervention in writ jurisdiction is deemed necessary by this Court at this juncture.

6. For the sake of clarity, sections 65(2), 68, 105 and 106 of the Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1965 are reproduced herein below:

"Section 65. (2) An inquiry of the nature referred to in sub-section (1) shall be held by the Registrar or by a person authorized by him in writing on this behalf on the application of- (a) a cooperative society to which the society concerned is affiliated; (b) not less than one-third of the total members of the society; (c) a majority of the members of the committee of management of the society.

Section 68. (1) If in the course of an audit, inquiry, inspection or the winding up of a cooperative society, it is found that any person who is or was entrusted with the organization or management of such society or who is or has at any time been an officer or an employee of the society, has made or caused to be made any payment contrary to this Act, the rules or the bye-laws or has caused any deficiency in the assets of the society by breach of trust or willful negligence or has misappropriated or fraudulently retained any money or other property belonging to such society, the Registrar may of his motion or on the application of the committee, liquidator or any creditor, inquire himself or direct any person authorized by him by an order in writing in this behalf to inquire into the conduct of such person; Provided that no such inquiry shall be commenced after the expiry of twelve years from the date of any act or omission referred to in this sub-section. (2) Where an inquiry is made under sub-section (1), the Registrar may, after affording the person concerned a reasonable opportunity of being heard, make an order of surcharge requiring him to restore the property or repay the money or any part thereof, with interest at such rate, or to pay contribution and costs or compensation to such an extent as the Registrar may consider just and equitable. (3) Where an order of surcharge has been passed against any person under sub-section (2) for having caused any deficiency in the assets of the society by breach of trust or willful negligence, or for having misappropriated or fraudulently retained any money or other property belonging to such society, such person shall, subject to the result of appeal, if any, filed against such order, be disqualified from continuing in or being elected or appointed to an office in any cooperative society for five years from the date of the order of surcharge.

Section 105. (1) No court inferior to that of a stipendiary magistrate of the first class shall try any offence under this Act. (2) No prosecution shall be instituted under this Act without the previous sanction of the Registrar, and such sanction shall not be given without affording the person sought to be prosecuted an opportunity to present his case.

Section 106*. No person other than a cooperative society shall trade or carry on business under any name or title of which the word Sahkari or its equivalent in English, cooperative forms part, Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to the use by any person or his successor in interest of any name or title under which he carried on business at the date on which the Cooperative Societies Act, 1912, had come into operation."*

7. The First Information Report, stands as an indispensable document in the realm of criminal justice. It serves as the linchpin, marking the commencement of criminal proceedings and facilitating the subsequent investigation into alleged offenses. The legal foundation for registration of F.I.R. is firmly grounded in Sections 154 and 155 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which delineate the procedure and authority for lodging an F.I.R. Section 154 of the Cr.P.C. lays down the mandate for the registration of an F.I.R. It underscores the obligation of the police to register an F.I.R. upon receiving information about the commission of a cognizable offense. This provision encapsulates the immediacy and compulsoriness with which the F.I.R. must be lodged to set the criminal justice machinery in motion promptly by the informant. Section 155 provides certain exceptions in cases where there might be a delay in lodging the F.I.R. due to exceptional circumstances. Despite this, the general thrust of Section 154 emphasizes the expeditious registration of the F.I.R. to ensure the prompt initiation of the investigative process. The conjoint reading of sections 154 & 155 of Cr.P.C. explicitly state that anyone possessing knowledge about the commission of a cognizable offense has the authority to file an F.I.R. This includes not only the victim or an eyewitness but also any person who becomes cognizant of the offense, extending even to police officers themselves. The universality of the authority to lodge an F.I.R. is a foundational principle ensuring that the criminal justice system remains accessible to those with information about potential criminal acts. This inclusivity empowers informants comprising victims, eyewitnesses, and even law enforcement officers to initiate the process, fostering a collaborative and comprehensive approach to crime reporting. In essence, the legal framework governing the registration of F.I.R. is intricately woven into the fabric of criminal justice. Sections 154 and 155, in conjunction with numerous judgments of the Supreme Court, establish the foundation upon which the F.I.R. stands as an essential document initiating the process of criminal justice. The universal authority granted to individuals, including victims, eyewitnesses, and even police officers, underscores the inclusive nature of the F.I.R. registration process, ensuring the swift and effective administration of justice.

8. In Lalita Kumari v. Government of Uttar Pradesh and others[1], a watershed judgment on the guiding principle for registration of the F.I.R. makes it clear that the police officer is under the authority of law to register an F.I.R. on receipt of information of a cognizable offence. The police officer cannot avoid his duty of registering the F.I.R. if a cognizable offence is disclosed. The object sought to be achieved by registering the earliest information as F.I.R. is, among other things, two-fold: i) that the criminal process is set into motion and is well documented from the very start, and ii) that the earliest information received in relation to the commission of cognizable offence is recorded so that there cannot be any embellishment etc. One way of keeping a check on the authorities with such power is by documenting every action of theirs. Accordingly, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, police actions are provided to be written and documentary.

9. It is noteworthy that whenever an F.I.R. is registered, it does not mean that the investigation is mandatory to be commenced, and there are no inbuilt safeguards with the Code to prevent a likelihood of misuse. In Dilawar Singh v. State of Delhi [2], it is held that even if an F.I.R. has been registered and the police have commenced the investigation, the aggrieved person may approach the Magistrate under section 156(3) Cr.P.C. to seek an order for proper investigation. In this regard, the reliance is also placed in Abhay Gupta v. State of U.P.[3].

10. If there is sufficient evidence to corroborate the complainant's allegations, the charge sheet is filed, or else, a final report mentioning that no evidence was found could be filed in the Court.

11. Shri Malviya's primary contention is that the complainant has no authority to register the impugned First Information Report, as per the provisions outlined in the notification dated 16.8.2000 issued by the office of the Registrar, Cooperative Societies, Uttar Pradesh. According to the said notification, the power to register the F.I.R. in instances of embezzlement involving Rs.25000/- or more is exclusively vested in the Regional Deputy Commissioner, Co-operative. In the instant matter, the F.I.R. has been registered by the Additional District Cooperative Officer, thus contravening, according to the petitioner, the stipulations set forth in the aforementioned notification.

12. In this context, it is prudent to assert that an administrative order lacks the authority to conclusively establish or adjudicate the rights of the parties involved. Rather, these orders are confined to considerations of policy regulation and expediency- subjective elements within the discretion of the administrative officer. The distinction between administrative and judicial processes becomes evident as administrative determinations are usually applied to matters situated within the realm of public policy, a conceptualization of law seen as inherently inflexible. In contrast, the adjudication of legal rights is explicitly reserved for the judicial domain, representing a crucial departure from the more adaptable and policy-oriented nature of administrative decisions. A crucial distinction emerges is that legal rights fall squarely within the realm of judicial functions. Judicial determinations, in contrast to administrative orders, are contemplated as mechanisms for definitively deciding legal rights. Courts are equipped with the authority, procedural frameworks, and legal principles necessary for resolving disputes and determining the rights and obligations of parties involved. The administrative decisions are driven by the discretionary powers of the administrative officer. This subjectivity introduces an element of flexibility that may not align with the precision and rigidity often associated with the adjudication of legal rights.

13. Learned Additional Government Advocate has drawn our attention to the order dated 23.10.2023 emanating from the office of the Assistant Commissioner-cum-Assistant Registrar, Co-operative. In this directive, the Assistant Commissioner specifically instructs the Additional District Co-operative Officer to initiate the process for registration of the First Information Report against the petitioner in the present case. Essentially, the Assistant Commissioner has delegated his authority to the Additional District Co-operative Officer for the purpose of registering the F.I.R., therefore, the petitioner's argument has no legal strength and is thus misplaced.

14. The combined examination of the concept of delegated legislation in administrative jurisprudence and the guiding principles derived from Lalita Kumari's case (supra) judgment clarifies that registration of F.I.R. by the Assistant Commissioner or Additional District Co-operative Officer is inconsequential. The crucial consideration lies in determining weather the contents of the F.I.R. forms part of the cognizable offence or not.

15. The second noteworthy argument of the petitioner's counsel is non-compliance of sections 16, 17, 65(2), 68, 103 and 105 of the Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1965 before registration of the impugned FIR.

16. The legal mandates delineated in the Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act of 1976 underscore various procedural aspects and criteria pertinent to Co-operative Societies. Section 16 specifically prescribes the procedure for the division of assets and liabilities of these societies, while Section 17 delineates eligibility criteria for individuals seeking membership in Co-operative Societies. Section 65 imposes a mandatory inquiry by the Registrar into the constitution, functioning, and financial condition of the Co-operative Society, and Section 68 empowers the Registrar to initiate an inquiry, either on his own motion or in response to an application from the Committee, Liquidator, or any Creditor. This authority extends to directing an appointed individual, through written order, to investigate the conduct of the concerned person.

17. Furthermore, Section 103 addresses offenses and penalties within the purview of the Co-operative Societies Act, and Section 105 establishes a crucial procedural safeguard, stipulating that no prosecution under the Act shall be initiated without the prior sanction of the Registrar.

18. These statutory provisions, collectively governing the affairs of Co-operative Societies registered under the Act, align with the overarching objective of the legislation. The enactment of the Co-operative Societies Act is rooted in the intent to shield farmers from exploitation by traditional middlemen, ensuring they receive fair prices for their produce and safeguarding their economic interests. The Co-operative Department's vision dovetails with these objectives, aiming to facilitate accessible credit to farmers through co-operative societies on equitable terms.

19. In light of the stated aims and objectives of the Co-operative Societies Act of 1965, it is reasonably deduced that the registration of the impugned First Information Report in the present case does not prima facie contravene any provisions of the Act. The regulatory framework appears to be in consonance with the broader objectives of shielding the agricultural community from exploitation and promoting their economic well-being through co-operative initiatives. In the wake of the aims and objective of the Act, it could be safely concluded that no provisions of the Co-operative Societies Act, 1965 have prima facie been violated for registration of the impugned F.I.R. in the instant case.

20. Lalita Kumari case (supra) explicitly emphasizes the mandatory nature of First Information Report registration, as outlined in Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1965 remains silent on the specific procedure for registering an F.I.R. in cases involving embezzlement of society funds and the illicit recovery of credit from farmers, therefore, general legal principles in the regards would be applicable. The petitioner neither contends that the criminal proceedings against him is tainted with malice nor suggests any ulterior motives in the initiation of the prosecution.

21. Furthermore, the petitioner fails to align their case with any of the seven illustrations provided in the landmark judgment of State of Haryana and others v. Bhajan Lal and others[4], which delineates circumstances warranting the quashing of criminal proceedings.

22. Turning to the facts of present case, serious allegations of embezzlement amounting to Rs.16,17,833.00, collected unlawfully from impoverished farmers by the Officiating Secretary of the Samiti, form the crux of the matter. The registration of the F.I.R. follows a conclusive determination of embezzlement by a three-member committee. No substantive reasons have been proffered by the petitioner's counsel to dispute the findings of this committee, which serves as the basis for the impugned F.I.R. In the legal context, the delegation of the power to register the F.I.R. holds no consequential weight, both in light of Lalita Kumari case (supra) and on broader legal grounds.

23. As the investigation is in its initial stages, the extraordinary power vested in this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India to quash the F.I.R. is deemed unwarranted given the current facts-circumstances.

24. The instant petition is devoid of merits, and hence dismissed.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1550
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 11.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE VIVEK KUMAR BIRLA, J.
THE HON'BLE VINOD DIWAKAR, J.

Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 18834 of 2023

Adil & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
The State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri Brijesh Kumar Pandey

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A., Sri Vinod Singh

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 173(8) & 156(3) – Further Investigation – Power of

Investigating Agency – Judicial Review – Article 226

The petitioners sought to quash the order dated 06.10.2023 by the Superintendent of Police, Rampur, directing further investigation in Case Crime No. 252 of 2023 (P.S. Bilaspur, Rampur) under Sections 420, 376, 452, 504, 342, 376D, 506, 120-B IPC, and to restrain their arrest or harassment. The F.I.R., lodged based on an application under Section 156(3) CrPC by respondent no. 4 (Km. Nisha Naaz), alleged rape and forgery by co-accused Furkan Ali and others. After investigation, a charge-sheet was filed on 24.08.2023 against only Furkan Ali under Sections 498A, 504, and 506 IPC, exculpating the petitioners, and cognizance was taken by the Magistrate on 30.09.2023. Respondent no. 4's writ petition (No. 15260 of 2023) led to the impugned order for further investigation without disclosing the charge-sheet's filing. The petitioners argued that the Superintendent lacked jurisdiction to order further investigation post-cognizance without Magistrate's permission, citing Peethambaran Vs St. of Kerala (2023 SCC OnLine SC 553). Held: The court, relying on St. through CBI Vs Hemendra Reddy (2023 SCC OnLine SC 515), Sri Bhagwan Samardha Vs St. ((1999) 5 SCC 740), and Ram Lal Narang Vs St. (AIR 1979 SC 1791), held that Section 173(8) CrPC permits further investigation post-charge-sheet without mandatory prior permission from the Magistrate, though informing the court is desirable. In this case, the Investigating Officer sought and obtained Magistrate's permission on 12.10.2023 for case diary copies, complying with the practice noted in Peethambaran. The petitioners' reliance on Peethambaran was distinguished, as permission was sought and grante The court found no illegality in the impugned order, as the investigating agency's powers under Section 173(8) are unfettered, and further investigation is a continuation, not a de novo investigation. The petition was dismissed as meritless.

Case Law Cited:

1. Peethambaran Vs St. of Kerala, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 553

2. St. through Central Bureau of Investigation Vs Hemendra Reddy, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 515

3. Sri Bhagwan Samardha Sreepada Vallabha Venkata Vishwanandha Maharaj Vs St., (1999) 5 SCC 740

4. Ram Lal Narang Vs St. (Delhi Admn.), AIR 1979 SC 1791

5. Jitendra Singh @ Bablu Vs St. of U.P., Criminal Mis Writ Petition No. 10247 of 2023, decided on 09.11.2023 (All. HC)

6. Smt. Preety Verma Vs St. of U.P., Criminal Mis Writ Petition No. 11257 of 2023, decided on 17.08.2023 (All. HC)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Brijesh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner as well as Sri Virendra Kumar Pal, learned AGA appearing for the State respondents and Sri Vinod Singh, learned counsel for the informant and perused the record.

2. Present petition has been filed for quashing the impugned order dated 6.10.2023 whereby the respondent no. 2 has passed the order for further/transfer of the investigation in Case Crime No. 252 of 2023, P.S. Bilaspur, District Rampur. A further prayer is to direct the respondent no. 2 and his subordinates not to arrest/harass the petitioners in pursuance of the order dated 6.10.2023.

3. Brief facts of the case are that the respondent no. 4-Km. Nisha Naaz filed an application under Section 156 (3) CrPC before the concerned Magistrate for registering the FIR with the allegation that she had love affairs with co-accused-furkan Ali and she had physical relationship with him and on being insisted for marriage, he prepared forged nikahnama and married with her. It is being alleged that Gulshan Kajafi and Furkan Ali committed r.ape upon her. Thereafter, a first information report dated 29.7.2023 has been lodged under Section 420, 376, 452, 504, 342, 376D, 506, 120-B of IPC, P.S. Bilaspur, District Rampur against the six accused persons. After the investigation was completed, a charge-sheet dated 24.8.2023, under Sections 498A, 504 and 506 IPC only against the husband (Furkan Ali). After submission of the charge-sheet, learned Magistrate has taken the cognizance vide order dated 30.9.2023. In between, respondent no. 4 filed a Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 15260 of 2023 (Km. Nisha Naaz vs. State of UP and others), with the prayer to direct the respondent no. 2 to transfer the investigation of the Case Crime No. 252 of 2023 without disclosing the fact that the chargesheet has already been filed. In the said writ petition, the Hon'ble Court directed the respondent no. 4 to approach the respondent no. 2-Superintendent of Police, Rampur. By the impugned order dated 6.10.2023, the respondent no. 2-Superintendent of Police, Rampur has directed to further investigation by transferring the investigation to another officer. Hence the present petition.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the order impugned herein is illegal as after Investigating Officer after full-fleged investigation submitted the charge-sheet dated 24.8.2023, under Section 498A, 504 and 506 IPC only against Furkan Ali (husband) and the Investigation Officer exculpated the petitioner from the aforesaid case. It is further submitted that the writ petition being Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 15260 of 2023 (Km. Nisha Naaz vs. State of UP) without disclosing the fact that the charge-sheet has already been submitted in the aforesaid case crime, is totally misconceived. It is next submitted that once the Magistrate has taken cognizance in the matter, then only the Magistrate, having jurisdiction, is empowered to pass the order for further investigation, if he is in position that from perusal of the case diary or material available, further investigation is required, but in the present case on the basis of the application filed by the respondent no. 4 herein, the respondent no. 2 passed the impugned order for further investigation. Submission is that the impugned order dated 6.10.2023 passed by the respondent no. 2 is illegal as once the charge-sheet has been submitted and the learned Court below has taken cognizance, the respondent no. 2 has no jurisdiction directing for further investigation without the prior permission from the concerned Magistrate. He has placed reliance on the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Peethambaran vs. State of Kerala and another, 2023 SCC Online SC 553 . Submission, therefore, is that the order impugned herein is liable to be quashed.

5. Learned counsel for the AGA appearing for the State respondents, on instructions, submits that in the instant case, after the order 6.10.2023 passed by the respondent no. 2, the Investigating Officer, after taking charge of the further investigation, has informed in writing to the concerned Magistrate on 10.10.2023, with regard to the further investigation as Directed by the Superintendent of Police, Rampur vide order dated 6.10.2023 and sought photocopy of entire case diary and all other relevant documents for this purpose. On 12.10.2023, the application was allowed and the relevant record was actually received by the Investigating Officer. Relying upon the provisions of Section 173 (8) of the Code, learned AGA as well as learned counsel for the informant submit that the powers of investigating agency after registration of the F.I.R. are unfettered and for further investigation, no prior permission from Magistrate is required even when the cognizance has been taken by the learned Magistrate. It is further submitted that in any case, even assuming for the sake of arguments that such permission is required, the same was duly received and there is/was no legal infirmity in proceeding with the further investigation.

6. Learned counsel for the informant, drawing attention to photocopy of the application of the Inspector Srikant Dwivedi along with endorsement of the concerned officer and order of the leaned Chief Judicial Magistrate (annexed as Annexure CA-4 to the counter affidavit) submits that no interference is warranted in the order impugned herein as application seeking permission for further investigation before the concerned Magistrate on 10.10.2023 was allowed on 12.10.2023. Submission, therefore, is that the writ petition is devoid of merits.

7. At the very outset, we may note that the facts about filing of such application and that the same had been allowed stands verified from paragraphs 10, 13, 14 and 19 of the instructions supplied by the learned AGA, hence no rebuttal thereof is required by the petitioner.

8. We have considered the rival submissions and have perused the record.

9. We have already considered the entire law on the issue involved in the present petition in our judgement and order passed by a co-ordinate Bench (one of us, Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J., was a Member) dated 9.11.2023 passed in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 10247 of 2023 (Jitendra Singh @ Bablu and 12 others vs. State of UP and 3 others) extensively. The relevant paragraphs 27 to 32, 34 and 35 of the said judgement are quoted as under:

"27. In the case of Peethambaran (supra) relied on by learned counsel in the petitioners, decided on 03.05.2023, relying upon judgments in Vinay Tyagi (supra), which was based on doctrine of "contemporanea expositio", the Apex Court has observed the requirement of permission from learned Magistrate for further investigation and file supplementary report. Paragraph 20 of the aforesaid judgement is quoted as under:

"20. The Chief Police Officer of a district is the Superintendent of Police who is an officer of the Indian Police Service. Needless to state, an order from the District Police Chief is not the same as an order issued by the concerned Magistrate. Referring to Vinay Tyagi (supra), this Court in Devendra Nath Singh v. State of Bihar noted that there is no specific requirement to seek leave of the court for further investigation or to file a supplementary report but investigation agencies, have not only understood it to be so but have also adopted the same as a legal requirement. The doctrine of contemporanea exposito aids such an interpretation of matters which have been long understood and implemented in a particular manner to be accepted into the interpretive process. In other words, the requirement of permission for further investigation or to file a supplementary report is accepted within law and is therefore required to be complied with."

(emphasis supplied)

28. Hence, on facts Peethambaran (supra) is also distinguishable as in the present case on application, clearly asking for supply of record as further investigation has been directed by the competent police authority, was filed in the court, which was allowed.

29. In the case of State through Central Bureau of Investigation vs. Hemendra Reddy and Another : 2023 SCC OnLine SC 515*, the Apex Court has held as under:*

"83. We may summarise our final conclusion as under:

(i) Even after the final report is laid before the Magistrate and is accepted, it is permissible for the investigating agency to carry out further investigation in the case. In other words, there is no bar against conducting further investigation under Section 173(8) of the CrPC after the final report submitted under Section 173(2) of the CrPC has been accepted.

(ii) Prior to carrying out further investigation under Section 173(8) of the CrPC it is not necessary that the order accepting the final report should be reviewed, recalled or quashed.

(iv) Further investigation is merely a continuation of the earlier investigation, hence it cannot be said that the accused are being subjected to investigation twice over. Moreover, investigation cannot be put at par with prosecution and punishment so as to fall within the ambit of Clause (2) of Article 20 of the Constitution. The principle of double jeopardy would, therefore, not be applicable to further investigation.

(v) There is nothing in the CrPC to suggest that the court is obliged to hear the accused while considering an application for further investigation under Section 173(8) of the CrPC."

(emphasis supplied)

30. In the case of Sri Bhagwan Samardha Sreepada Vallabha Venkata Vishwanandha Maharaj, 1999 (5) SCC 740, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraphs 10 and 11 has held as under:-

"10. Power of the police to conduct further investigation, after laying final report, is recognised under Section 173(8) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Even after the court took cognizance of any offence on the strength of the police report first submitted, it is open to the police to conduct further investigation. This has been so stated by this Court in Ram Lal Narang v. State (Delhi (Admn.) (AIR 1979 SC 1791). The only rider provided by the aforesaid decision is that it would be desirable that the police should inform the court and seek formal permission to make further investigation.

11. In such a situation the power of the court to direct the police to conduct further investigation cannot have any inhibition. There is nothing in Section 173(8) to suggest that the court is obliged to hear the accused before any such direction is made. Casting of any such obligation on the court would only result in encumbering the court with the burden of searching for all the potential accused to be afforded with the opportunity of being heard. As law does not require it, we would not burden the magistrate with such an obligation."

(emphasis supplied)

31. We may also refer to the judgment of this Court dated 17.8.2023 passed in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 11257 of 2023 (Smt. Preety Verma vs. State of U.P. and others), wherein identical questions were raised and rejecting the same the petition was dismissed.

32. Therefore, it is settled principles of law that the police has a right to further investigate the matter even after the submissions of the charge sheet/report before the learned Magistrate and even after the Magistrate had taken cognizance of the report/charge sheet. In exercise of power u/S 173 (8) Cr.P.C of the Code, it has been statutorily recognized that there is no statutory requirement that before initiating further investigation, investigation agency must take permission of the concerned Magistrate. Further, investigation is very distinct from the re-investigation/de novo investigation or fresh investigation. Further investigation is the continuance of the investigation, which has already been done and on discovery of new facts or the facts which were left out during the investigation. Whereas in the case of the fresh, De-novo or reinvestigation, the investigation already done is required to be wiped out and investigation is required to begun from its inception. Further investigation can be carried out even without any permission from the concerned Magistrate. However, fresh, de-novo or reinvestigation cannot be done without the specific orders by the competent Court.

34. In view of the law discussed hereinabove, which clearly reflects that the powers of the Superintendent of Police regarding further investigation are unfettered and there is no statutory requirement of taking permission and there being no specific proforma provided for seeking such permission or the order, which is required to be passed for the purpose of allowing such application, we are of the opinion that this was sufficient compliance of the law as laid down by various judgments stating from Ram Lal Narang (supra) onwards, which is based on long accepted practice of moving such application before the court.

35. To our mind as the police report has already been submitted, the object of filing such application is that the court must be aware of the fact that further investigation has been directed in the matter."

10. In view of the law as discussed above where it has come on record that after submission of police report, further investigation was directed by respondent no. 2 vide order dated 6.10.2023 and thereafter an application seeking permission of the Magistrate was filed on 10.10.2023 and prayer was made to supply certified copies of the original case diary/charge-sheet, which was allowed on 12.10.2023 (Annexure CA-4 to the affidavit filed by respondent no. 4), we find no illegality in the impugned order dated 6.10.2023.

11. Accordingly, present petition lacks merit and is hereby dismissed.

12. The office is directed to keep a photocopy of the instructions dated 30.11.2023 containing (21) paragraphs submitted by Srikant Dwivedi, Inspector/Investigating Officer, Crime Branch, District Rampur on record and return the instructions in original to learned AGA within three days.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1555
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 25.01.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAJESH SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Transfer Application (Criminal) No. 83 of 2023

Deepanshu @ Sudhanshu Tripathi ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Applicant:
Ganga Singh

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure-Sectiontion 181-Genesis of all the six cases is a single recovery memo -which has been executed -three cases are pending consideration - the cases, so indicated be transferred to the Competent Court. Application allowed. (E-9)

Cases cited:

1. Nahar Singh Yadav & anr.Vs U.O.I. & ors. reported in [(2011) 1 SCC 307]

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ganga Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Aniruddh Kumar Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State.

2. By means of this petition filed U/s 482 Cr.P.C., the petitioner has prayed the following relief:

"It is therefore most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to pass an order, directing for transfer of Sessions Trial No. 1088 of 2022, pending in the court of Special Judge (E.C. Act)/Additional Sessions Judge, Court no. 4, Kanpur Nagar, having Case Crime No. 436 of 2020, under section 379 I.P.C., Police Station -Gwaltoli, District-Kanpur Nagar and Case No. 1025 of 2021, pending in the court of chief Judicial Magistrate Unnao, having Case Crime No. 291 of 2021, under section-379, 411 I.P.C., Police Station-Kotwali, District-Unnao as well as Case No. 1087 of 2021, pending in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate Unnao, having Case Crime No. 373 of 2021, under section- 379, 411 I.P.C., Police Station-Kotwali, District-Unnao, to the court of Sessions Judge, Lucknow and in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow, from where the cases will be committed to the concerned Session Courts."

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has stated that the petitioner has falsely been implicated in the certain cases, on the basis of single recovery which has been executed at Lucknow. Attention has been drawn towards Para 4 so as to show the cases pending against the petitioner. Para 4 of the petition reads as under:

"4. That the applicant has been falsely dragged by the police involving the applicant in the cases detailed herein below as there exists no name of the applicant in either of the first information reports.

(A) That the cases pending at Lucknow in the court of Judicial Magistrate/Additional Civil Judge (S.D.), court no. 20, Lucknow are detailed herein below:-

(1) Case No. 228 of 2021, vide Case Crime No. 113 of 2021, under Section-379, 411, 413 I.P.C., Police Station-Para, District Lucknow South.

(2) Case No. 229 of 2021, vide Case Crime No. 227 of 2021, under section- 379, 411, 420 I.P.C., Police Station- Para, District- Lucknow South.

(3) Case No. 308 of 2021, vide Case Crime No. 236 of 2021, under Section- 420, 411, 413 I.P.C., Police Station - Para, District- Lucknow South

(B) That the cases pending at Unnao in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Unnao are detailed herein below :-

(1) Case No. 1025 of 2021, vide Case Crime No. 291 of 2021, under section - 379, 411 I.P.C., Police Station- Kotwali, District-Unnao.

(2) Case No. 1087 of 2021, vide Case Crime No. 373 of 2021, under section- 379, 411 I.P.C., Police Station-Kotwali, District- Unnao.

(C) That the case pending at Kanpur in the court of Special Judge E.C. Act/Additional Sessions Judge, Court no. 4, Kanpur Nagar is detailed herein below:-

(1) Session Trial No. 1088 of 2022, vide Case Crime No. 436 of 2020, under Section - 379 I.P.C., Police Station - Gwaltoli, District- Kanpur Nagar."

4. In Para nos. 5, 6 and 7, the learned counsel for the petitioner has narrated the details of the afoaresaid cases and stated that in all the aforesaid cases, the subject matter is same. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that the 3 cases, as have been indicated in Para 4(A) are pending consideration before the Lucknow courts.

5. By means of this petition, the prayer of the present petitioner is confined relating to the cases which have been indicated vide Para 4(B) and 4(C). Two cases are pending consideration before the Unnao courts and one case is pending consideration before Kanpur Nagar.

6. He has submitted that all the aforesaid cases be transferred at one place. He has also stated that appropriate order may be passed in view of Section 181 of Cr.P.C. He has further submitted that Chapter XIII of the Cr.P.C. describes the jurisdiction of the criminal courts in inquiries and trials. He has further submitted that in view of Sub Section 3 of Section 181 of Cr.P.C., any offence of theft, extortion or robbery may be inquired into by a Court within whose local jurisdiction the offence was committed. For the convenience, Section 181(3) of Cr.P.C. reads as under:

"Any offence of theft, extortion or robbery may be inquired into or tried by a Court within whose local jurisdiction the offence was committed or the stolen property which is the subject of the offence was possessed by any person committing it, or by any person who received or retained such property knowing or having reason to believe it to be stolen property."

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has stated that genesis of all these cases is a single recovery memo which has been executed at Lucknow, therefore, in view of Section 181 (3) of Cr.P.C., the aforesaid cases may be transferred to one place. He has submitted that 3 cases are already pending before Lucknow courts, therefore, the remaining 3 cases may also be transferred to the competent court of Lucknow.

8. Sri Aniruddh Kumar Singh, learned AGA has submitted that under Chapter XIII of the Cr.P.C., the mechanism/procedure has been provided to determine the places of trial in certain offences. He has also stated that Section 181 Cr.P.C. clearly provides such modality. He has also stated that in view of Sub Section 3 of Section 181 Cr.P.C., any offence of theft, extortion or robbery may be tried by a Court within whose local jurisdiction the offence was committed and in the present case, the genesis of all the six cases is a single recovery memo which has been executed at Lucknow itself, therefore, Sri Singh has stated that in the interest of justice, any appropriate order may be passed by this Court. Sri Aniruddh Kumar Singh has referred the dictum of Apex Court in the case of Nahar Singh Yadav and Another Vs. Union of India and Others reported in [(2011) 1 SCC 307] by submitting that in the aforesaid judgment the Apex Court has interpreted the modalities in such cases. For the convenience, para 29 of the aforesaid judgment of Apex Court in Re; Nahar Singh Yadav (supra) reads as under:

"Thus, although no rigid and inflexible rule or test could be laid down to decide whether or not power under Section 406 of the Cr.P.C. should be exercised, it is manifest from a bare reading of sub-sections (2) and (3) of the said Section and on an analysis of the decisions of this Court that an order of transfer of trial is not to be passed as a matter of routine or merely because an interested party has expressed some apprehension about the proper conduct of a trial. This power has to be exercised cautiously and in exceptional situations, where it becomes necessary to do so to provide credibility to the trial. Some of the broad factors which could be kept in mind while considering an application for transfer of the trial are:-

(i) when it appears that the State machinery or prosecution is acting hand in glove with the accused, and there is likelihood of miscarriage of justice due to the lackadaisical attitude of the prosecution;

(ii) when there is material to show that the accused may influence the prosecution witnesses or cause physical harm to the complainant;

(iii) comparative inconvenience and hardships likely to be caused to the accused, the complainant/the prosecution and the witnesses, besides the burden to be borne by the State Exchequer in making payment of travelling and other expenses of the official and non-official witnesses;

(iv) a communally surcharged atmosphere, indicating some proof of inability of holding fair and impartial trial because of the accusations made and the nature of the crime committed by the accused; and

(v) existence of some material from which it can be inferred that the some persons are so hostile that they are interfering or are likely to interfere either directly or indirectly with the course of justice."

9. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, having perused the material available on record, having regard to the relevant provisions of law so defined under Chapter XIII, more particularly, Section 181(3) of Cr.P.C. and also having regard to the dictum of Apex Court in Re; Nahar Singh Yadav (supra), I am of the considered opinion that since in the present case the genesis of all the six cases is a single recovery memo which has been executed at Lucknow and three cases are pending consideration before the Lucknow courts, therefore, the cases, so indicated in Para nos. 4(B) and 4(C) may be transferred to the Competent Court of Lucknow.

10. Accordingly, the concerning Judge/competent court at Unnao where the Case No. 1025 of 2021, vide Case Crime No. 291 of 2021, under Sections 379, 411 IPC, Police Station Kotwali, District Unnao and Case No. 1087 of 2021 vide Case Crime No. 373 of 2021, under Sections 379, 411 IPC, Police Station Kotwali, District Unnao as well as the competent court at Kanpur where Sessions Trial No. 1088 of 2022 vide Case Crime No. 436 of 2020, under Section 379 IPC, Police Station Gwaltoli, District Kanpur Nagar, are pending consideration, may do the needful to transfer those cases to District Judgeship, Lucknow.

11. The District & Sessions Judge, Lucknow, after receiving the paper books of the aforesaid cases, shall do the needful to assign the aforesaid cases to the Competent Courts, as per the nature of allegations, so indicated in the chargesheet of the aforesaid cases.

12. It is expected from the learned trial courts concerned that all the aforesaid six cases be conducted and concluded with expedition strictly in accordance with law by affording ample opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned.

13. The instant petition U/s 482 Cr.P.C. is hereby allowed.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1559
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 19.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MANISH KUMAR, J.

Writ-A No. 1201 of 2024

Akash Yadav ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Deepak Singh

Counsel for the Respondent:
C.S.C.

Service Law – U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 – Rule 5 – Compassionate Appointment – Petitioner challenged rejection orders dated 27.04.2022 and 06.05.2022 denying compassionate appointment – Held, petitioner's father, a Constable, died on 23.10.2004; mother's application for compassionate appointment (26.08.2006) rejected on 12.05.2009, unchallenged – Petitioner, attaining majority on 02.07.2014, applied on 15.09.2016 (over 11 years after father's death, 2 years after majority) – Rule 5 allows relaxation of 5-year limitation period, but application filed after 11 years and 10 months deemed unreasonable – Malaya Nanda Sethy Vs St. of Orissa distinguished, as it pertains to applicable rules at time of death, not delay – Anit Kumar Yadav Vs St. of U.P. inapplicable, as applicant there applied within 12 days of majority, unlike petitioner's 2-year delay to pursue preferred post – Umesh Kumar Nagpal Vs St. of Haryana and Sanjay Kumar Vs St. of Bihar followed, holding compassionate appointment aims to address immediate financial crisis, not provide vested right exercisable after long delay – Petitioner's delay to qualify for preferred post (Constable) contravenes Rules' purpose – Rejection orders upheld, no interference warranted. (Para 9-17)

Writ petition dismissed.

List of Cases Cited:

1. Malaya Nanda Sethy Vs St. of Orissa; Civil Appeal No. 4103 of 2022, decided on 20.05.2022

2. Anit Kumar Yadav Vs St. of U.P.; Service Single No. 6439 of 2021, decided on 02.12.2021

3. Umesh Kumar Nagpal Vs St. of Har.; (1994) 4 SCC 138

4. Sanjay Kumar Vs St. of Bihar; 2000 SCC (L&S) 895

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Ms. Deepshikha, learned Chief Standing Counsel assisted by Mr. Sandeep Sharma, learned Standing Counsel for the opposite parties/respondents.

2. The present writ petition has been preferred for quashing of the impugned order dated 27.04.2022 passed by respondent no.1 and the impugned order dated 06.05.2022 passed by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Etah whereby the claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment under U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred as 'Rules of 1974') has been rejected.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the father of the petitioner had expired on 23.10.2004 while he was working on the post of Constable (Civil Police). After the demise of the father of the petitioner, the mother of the petitioner i.e. Smt. Usha Yadav, wife of the deceased, had moved an application for compassionate appointment on 26.08.2006, which was rejected by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Etah by its order dated 12.05.2009.

4. It is further submitted that thereafter the petitioner, after attaining the age of majority, had moved an application on 15.09.2016 for compassionate appointment but the authorities without considering the case of the petitioner regarding the hardship had rejected the application arbitrarily.

5. It is further submitted that the candidature of the petitioner for compassionate appointment has been rejected by the State Government by passing the impugned order dated 27.04.2022 and the consequential order has been passed by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Etah by impugned consequential order dated 06.05.2022 i.e. after more than about 5 years from the date of moving an application by the petitioner which is not permissible. Such a delay on the part of the respondents in taking decision, makes the decision bad in the eyes of law and in support of his submission the learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment dated 20.05.2022 of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Malaya Nanda Sethy Vs. State of Orissa and Others, passed in Civil Appeal No.4103 of 2022.

6. It is further submitted that the delay of more than 11 years cannot be a ground for rejection of the claim of the petitioner and in support of his submission learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment of this Court in the case of Anit Kumar Yadav Vs. State of U.P. and Others, Service Single No.6439 of 2021, where the application was preferred after more than 8 years of the demise of father of the petitioner in the said writ petition.

7. On the other hand, learned counsel for the State has submitted that the petitioner after attaining the age of majority on 02.07.2014 had applied after more than 2 years for compassionate appointment by moving an application on 15.09.2016.

8. It is further submitted that the impugned order dated 27.04.2022 has been passed in the light of the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court hence there is no illegality in the impugned orders which are under challenge in the present writ petition.

9. After hearing the learned counsel for the parties and going through the record of the case and the judgments relied by the learned counsel for the parties, the position which emerges out in the present case is that earlier the mother of the petitioner had applied after 1 year 10 months and 3 days of the demise of her husband i.e. father of the petitioner. Her claim was rejected vide order dated 12.05.2009. The said rejection order was never challenged by the mother of the petitioner/ wife of the deceased.

10. The learned counsel for the petitioner has very fairly admitted this fact that the petitioner had attained the age of majority on 02.07.2014 i.e. after about 11 years of the demise of his father and moved the application after more than 2 years 2 months from the date of attaining majority as he was pursuing the intermediate course so he could apply against the post of Constable.

11. In totality, the representation made by the petitioner after the expiry of more than 11 years and 10 months from the date of demise of his father and Rule 5 of the Rules of 1974 empowers the State Government to relax the period of 5 years from the date of demise of the deceased employee.

12. The judgment in the case of Malaya Nanda Sethy (supra) relied by the learned counsel for the petitioner is not applicable on the facts of the present case as the said judgment is on the point that the rules which were existing at the time of the demise of the deceased employee would be applicable or by subsequent amended Rules and it has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the candidature would be considered as per the rule which were in existence at the time of the demise of the deceased employee not the rules amended during the pendency of the application moved by any family member of the deceased employee. It is further held that the delay which was taken into consideration by the Hon'ble Apex Court in taking decision on the application of the petitioner is to be read with the issue i.e. applicability of the rules.

13. The judgment relied by the learned counsel for the petitioner dated 02.12.2021 passed in Anit Kumar Yadav (supra) is also not applicable in the present case. As in the case of Anit Kumar Yadav (supra), after the demise of the father of Anit Kumar on 03.04.2008, he had left behind his widow, 2 minor sons and minor daughters, due to which the mother of the petitioner went into depression and was unable to apply for compassionate appointment.

14. The petitioner i.e. Mr. Anit Kumar after attaining the age of majority on 10.07.2016 had immediately moved an application on 22.07.2016 i.e. within 12 days after attaining majority whereas the petitioner of the present writ petition had waited for more than 2 years just to get the appointment on the post of his choice.

15. The judgment relied by the learned counsel for the State which has been mentioned in the impugned order in the case of Umesh Kumar Nagpal Vs. State of Haryana and Others with Anil Malik Vs. State of Haryana and Others, reported in (1994) 4 SCC 138, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the employment cannot be granted after lapse of reasonable period which must be specified in the rules and in the Rules of 1974 that period has been provided as 5 years.

16. The another judgment relied by the learned counsel for the State which has been mentioned in the impugned order in the case of Sanjay Kumar Vs. State of Bihar and Others, reported in 2000 SCC (L&S) 895, wherein it has been held that the compassionate appointment is intended to enable the family of the deceased employee to tied over the sudden crisis. The petitioner was minor and was not eligible for appointment and there cannot be any reservation of vacancy till such as petitioner becomes a major after number of years, unless there are some specific provisions.

17. It has further been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that employment is not a vested right which can be exercised at any time in future as the object is to enable the family to get over the financial crisis which it faces at the time of death of the sole bread earner, the compassionate appointment cannot be demanded and offered whatever be the lapse of time and after the crisis is over. In the present case, the petitioner moved an application after more than 11 years and 10 months and more than 2 years after attaining the age of majority, meaning-hereby, he had unduly waited for a very long time. On attaining the age of majority the petitioner was eligible to be appointed on Class-IV post but he chose not to apply at the appropriate time and took more than 2 years thereafter to better qualify himself educationally to procure a job of his choice, which is not aim and purpose of Rules of 1974.

18. In view of the discussion made here-in-above, the present writ petition is devoid of merit and hence, no interference is required. Therefore, the writ petition is dismissed.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1562
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 07.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE AJIT KUMAR, J.

Writ-A No. 6568 of 2018

Jitendra Kumar Chaudhary ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Budhi Ram Gupta, Sri Madan Mohan

Counsel for the Respondent:
C.S.C., Sri Yogendra Singh Bohra

Service Law – Intermediate Education Act, 1921 – U.P. High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other Employees) Act, 1971 – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 125 & 128 – Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 – Section 20 – Unauthorized Notice by District Inspector of Schools – Petitioner challenged notice dated 29.08.2017 issued by District Inspector of Schools (DIOS) directing compliance with Family Court's maintenance order dated 16.09.2016, threatening salary deduction – Held, DIOS lacked authority under Intermediate Education Act, 1921 or Payment of Salaries Act, 1971 to enforce Family Court's order or entertain Pvt. complaints for execution – Execution of maintenance orders under Section 125 Cr.P.C. governed by Section 128 Cr.P.C., and under Section 20 of Domestic Violence Act, enforceable by Magistrate, not DIOS – Regulations 46-52 of Intermediate Education Act and Section 3 of Payment of Salaries Act prohibit unauthorized salary deductions except as per law or court orders – Notice per se illegal, quashed – DIOS's subsequent order dated 08.03.2018 stopping deduction upheld – Pvt. respondents to pursue execution before appropriate forum – Petitioner may seek adjustment of any recovered amount in maintenance proceedings. (Para 6-11)

Writ petition allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Budh Ram Gupta, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents and Sri Y.S. Bohra, learned counsel for respondent nos. 5,6 and 7.

2. The petitioner before this Court is aggrieved of the notice issued by the District Inspector of Schools on 29th August, 2017 whereby he was required to comply the judgment and order of the Principal Judge, Family court dated 16.09.2016 in maintenance case no. 495 of 2008 failing which recovery shall be proceeded with from his salary.

3. The argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner is that District Inspector of Schools does not enjoy any authority to act as an executing authority of an order of court of law. He submits that as per maintenance law, proper remedy for the respondent nos. 5,6 and 7 was to apply for execution before the concerned court to get judgment and order executed . The District Inspector of Schools being an education authority could not have terrorized the petitioner to comply with directions of the family court else deduction would be made from his salary. He submits that power can be exercised by District Inspector of Schools vis-a-vis an employee of educational institution in terms of regulations prescribed for under relevant chapter of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921. Here there being not a case qua service or employment otherwise relating to the petitioner, nor there was any complaint as such, the District Inspector of Schools was not even competent to entertain a private complaint made by of respondent nos. 5,6 and 7 for the execution of the judgment of the Principal Judge, Family Court, Varanasi.

4. Learned Standing Counsel as well as learned counsel for the private respondent submits that it was a mere notice to which petitioner could have offered explanation to the District Inspector of Schools but they are not in a position to demonstrate as to under which section and regulation framed under the Intermediate Education Act, the District Inspector of Schools enjoys any such authority to entertain such application and then to proceed to take cognizance so as to issue notice for the execution of an order of a court of law, not arising out of any contract of employment or even relating thereto.

5. Learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State respondents submits that District Inspector of Schools later on realized the mistake and accordingly passed order on 08th March, 2018 stopping the deduction from salary of petitioner.

6. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and having perused the records, I find that the Principal Judge, Family, Court Varanasi passed the judgment and order under Section 125 of the Cr.P.C. and The protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005. For execution of an order passed under Section 125 of Cr.P.C. there is ample provision contained under Section 128 of Cr.P.C and therefore, private respondents could have approached the Court concerned for getting its order executed under Section 128 of the Code of Criminal Procedure that runs as under:

"A copy of the order of maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be shall be given without payment to the person in whose favour it is made, or to his guardian, if any, or to the person to whom the allowance for the maintenance or the allowance for the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be is to be paid; and such order may be enforced by any Magistrate in any place where the person against whom it is made may be, on such Magistrate being satisfied as to the identity of the parties and the non-payment of the allowance or as the case may be expenses, due."

(emphasis added)

7. Similarly in respect of order passed under Section 20 of the The protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 empowers the Magistrate to realized the amount and ensure that monetary relief is paid to the complainant. Section 20 of Domestic Violence Act is reproduced hereunder:

20. Monetary reliefs.—(1) While disposing of an application under sub-section (1) of section 12,the Magistrate may direct the respondent to pay monetary relief to meet the expenses incurred and losses suffered by the aggrieved person and any child of the aggrieved person as a result of the domestic violence and such relief may include, but not limited to,—

(a) the loss of earnings;

(b) the medical expenses;

(c) the loss caused due to the destruction, damage or removal of any property from the control of the aggrieved person; and

(d) the maintenance for the aggrieved person as well as her children, if any, including an order under or in addition to an order of maintenance under section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or any other law for the time being in force.

(2) The monetary relief granted under this section shall be adequate, fair and reasonable and consistent with the standard of living to which the aggrieved person is accustomed.

(3) The Magistrate shall have the power to order an appropriate lump sum payment or monthly payments of maintenance, as the nature and circumstances of the case may require.

(4) The Magistrate shall send a copy of the order for monetary relief made under sub-section (1) to the parties to the application and to the in charge of the police station within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the respondent resides.

(5) The respondent shall pay the monetary relief granted to the aggrieved person within the period specified in the order under sub-section (1).

(6) Upon the failure on the part of the respondent to make payment in terms of the order under sub-section (1), the Magistrate may direct the employer or a debtor of the respondent, to directly pay to the aggrieved person or to deposit with the court a portion of the wages or salaries or debt due to or accrued to the credit of the respondent, which amount may be adjusted towards the monetary relief payable by the respondent."

(Emphasis added)

8. From the relevant provisions framed under Chapter II and III of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921, I do not find any provision in existence to permit the District Inspector of schools to have taken cognizance of such matter. Chapter II deals with appointment vide its Section 16E, 16 F and 16FF and qualification prescribed under its Appendix 'A' and Chapter III deals with conditions of service of employees of such recognized and aided institution read with regulation contained under said Chapter. Regulation 46 to 52 provides for regular payment of salary to the employees without any deduction by the competent authority and the employee shall also be conferred upon with the benefit of the annual increments which shall not be stopped unless an employee visited with punishment withholding the same. Regulation 46 to 52, which are relevant for the purpose are reproduced hereunder:

"46. Employees shall be allowed the scale of pay sanctioned by the State Government from time to time.

47. The pay of an employee on his first joining service in an institution shall be fixed at the Initial stage of the time-scale attaching to his post: Provided that if he has served previously in another institution and earned increments, he may be given the benefit of such increments under conditions laid down by Government or the regulations. Provided further that advance increments may be allowed in special cases with the prior approval of Government.

48. On promotion to a higher post the initial pay of an employee will be fixed at the minimum of the new scale if his pay is less than his minimum otherwise at the stage of the new time. scale next above his pay.

49. The Committee will pay the salary of an employee for a month by the 15th day of the following month.

50. The payment of salary will be made in cash or by cheque. If an employee desires regular payment to be made by cheque instead of in cash necessary arrangements shall be made by the Committee, provided banking facilities are locally available, on receiving his salary by cheque or in cash, the employee shall sign the acquaintance oll duly stamped (if necessary) in token of such payment.

51. संस्था में स्थानापन्न अथवा मौलिक रूप से की गयी अविरल सेवा, वेतन के कालमान एवं वार्षिक वेतन वृद्धि के लिए संगणित की जायेगी, प्रतिबन्ध यह है कि कर्मचारी की ग्राह्य से अधिक बिना वेतन के अवकाश की अवधि अथवा चिकित्सीय आधार अथवा निजी कार्य पर लिये गये अवकाश की अवधि के लिये वेतन वृद्धि देय नहीं होगी। किसी विशेष वर्ष में अवकाश की अवधि में पड़ने वाली वेतन वृद्धि की तिथि उस तिथि तक स्थगित कर दी जायेगी, जिसको कर्मचारी अवकाश की समाप्ति पर कार्यभार ग्रहण करता है। अध्यापक वेतन की तिथि के दो माह पूर्व शिक्षा निदेशक द्वारा निर्धारित स्वमूल्यांकन प्रपत्र पर सूचनायें भरकर प्रधानाचार्य के माध्यम से प्रबन्ध तंत्र को देगा। प्रबन्ध तन्त्र आवश्यक अभिलेख जिसे वह उचित समझे, मांगेगा तथा वेतन वृद्धि समय से अनुमन्य किये जाने हेतु प्रधानाचार्य, अध्यापक को निर्देश देगा। यदि वेतन वृद्धि की तिथि तक कोई निर्देश नहीं देता तो मान लिया जायेगा कि अनुमति दे दी गई है।

52. कर्मचारी को वेतन के कालमान में वार्षिक वेतन वृद्धियों ग्राह्य होगी, जब तक कि उसकी वेतन वृद्धियाँ रोकने का दण्ड नहीं दिया जाता है अथवा वह दक्षतारोक पर निरुद्ध नही किया जाता है।

ऐसे किसी कर्मचारी को वेतन वृद्धि ग्राह्य नहीं होगी अथवा उसकी दक्षता रोक पार नहीं की जायेगी, जिसे सार्वजनिक परीक्षाओं में प्रश्न-पत्रों को निर्धारित समय के पूर्व प्रकाशित (प्रकटित) करने अथवा कराने में प्रत्यक्ष या परोक्ष रूप से सहायक होने अथवा परिषद परीक्षाओं में परीक्षार्थी/परीक्षार्थियों को नकल करने अथवा नकल कराने में प्रत्यक्ष या परोक्ष रूप से सहायक होने अथवा अनुचित साधन के प्रयोग के प्रकरणों से संबंधित अवैध सामग्री नष्ट करने अथवा प्रकरण को दबाने अथवा जिला प्रशासन तथा शिक्षा विभाग के अधिकारियों अथवा सचल दलों के निरीक्षण कार्य में बाधा डालने तथा उनके साथ हिंसा, मारपीट करने अथवा संकलन/मूल्यांकन केन्द्रों से उत्तर पुस्तकों के गायब होने अथवा जानबूझ कर गायब किये जाने अथवा उत्तर पुस्तकों में किसी भी प्रकार की हेरा-फेरी करने अथवा परीक्षा संचालन में किसी भी प्रकार लापरवाही बरतने आदि अनियमितताओं के आरोप में दोषी पाया गया हो।"

9. Similarly under the Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other Employees) Act, 1971, there is no power vested with the District Inspect of Schools to make deductions from the salary unless there is an order by the competent court of law directing for any recovery or deduction from the salary. Section 3 of the payment of Salaries Act, 1971 for appreciation of what has been observed above, is reproduced hereunder:

"3. Payment of salary within time and without unauthorised deduction. - (1) Notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, the salary of a teacher or other employee of an institution in respect of any period after the thirty-first day of March, 1971 shall be paid to him before the expiry of the twentieth day, or such earlier day as the State Government may, by general or special order in that behalf appoint, of the month next following the month in respect of which or any part of which it is payable.

(2) The salary shall1 [subject to the provisions of sub-section (3), be paid without deduction of any kind except those authorised by the regulations or by any rules made under the Act or by any other law for the time being in force.

[(3) Where the salary of a teacher employee of an institution is not paid in accordance with sub-section (1) due to any default on the part of the management, the Inspector may, without prejudice to any other provision of this Act, pay or cause to be paid within ten days from the date mentioned in sub-section (1) of Section 4 at the rate of salary last drawn by such teacher or employee as the case may be, and in case fresh appointment at the rate of the minimum of the pay scale in which he has been appointed and any adjustment in respect of such payment shall, thereafter be made as soon as possible."

(emphasis added)

10. As a matter of fact vide Section 6 of the said Act duty has been cast upon the District Inspector of Schools to ensure enforcement of the provisions and directions issued under this Act of 1971. Section 6 of the Act is reproduced hereunder:

"6. Enforcement of provisions and directions. - (1) Where the Inspector, on the basis of an inspection of an institution or its records or otherwise, is satisfied that its management has committed default in complying with any direction given under Section 4 or with any provisions of Section 3 or Section 5, he may recommend to the Regional Deputy Director, Education, that action be taken against the institution under sub-section (2).

(2) On receipt of a recommendation under sub-section (1) the Regional Deputy Director, Education, may call upon the management to comply with the said direction or provisions or to show cause with a weeks why the management should not be suspended.

(3) Where the management fails to comply as aforesaid or to show cause, or the Regional Deputy Director, Education, considers the cause shown to be insufficient, he may by order supersede the management for such period not exceeding one year as may be specified in the Order, and authorise any person (hereinafter referred to as Authorised Controller) to take over the management of the institution for the said period :

Provided that the Regional Deputy Director, Education, may where he considers it necessary or expedient so to do, -

(i) extend the said period, from time to time, so however, that the period so extended does not exceed five years in the aggregate; or

(ii) revoke the order at any time :

Provided further that nothing in clause (ii) of the preceding proviso shall bar the passing of a fresh order under this section.

(4) On an order being made under sub-section (3) the Authorised Controller shall, to the exclusion of the management and subject only to the Direction, the Director or the State Government, exercise all the powers and perform all the functions of the management, including management of the property belonging to or vested in the institution and in particular, operate singly the bank account referred to in Section 5 :

Provided that nothing in this section shall be construed to confer on the Authorised Controller the power to transfer any such property (except by way of letting from month to month in the ordinary course of management) or to create any charge thereon (except as a condition of receipt of any grat-in-aid of the institution from the State Government).

(5) Any order made or direction given under this Section shall have effect notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any other enactment or instrument relating to the management and control of the institution (including any scheme of administration) or relating to the property belonging to or vested in the institution."

(emphasis added)

11. In view of above, the District Inspector of Schools could not have entertained such application and, therefore, notice issued to the petitioner dated 29.08.2017 is held per se bad. The Court finds that District Inspector of Schools has stayed the recovery by its order dated 8th March, 2018 and that he has rightly done so.

12. In view of above, writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The order of notice dated 29.08.2017 issued by the District Inspector of Schools is hereby quashed. However, leaving it open for the contesting private respondent nos, 6,7 and 8 to pursue the remedy by moving appropriate application before appropriate forum. Regarding already recovered amount, it will be open for the petitioner to get it adjusted against maintenance amount, which he was liable to be pay under the order passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, in appropriate proceedings.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1567
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 15.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE J.J.MUNIR, J.

Writ-A No. 19152 of 2021

Israr Ali ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Shamim Uddin Khan

Counsel for the Respondent:
C.S.C., Sri Manoj Kumar Srivastava

A. Service Law – UP Power Corporation's order dated 05.07.2011 – Honorarium – Entitlement of regularly appointed driver – St. denied payment on the ground that the work of a driver was done through an outsourcing agency as the petitioner was seriously ill – Mandamus sought – Held, mere fact that a person has suffered a medical condition related to the heart or his lungs, for which he has received treatment, cannot ipso facto lead to a conclusion that he has become disabled to function as a driver – There is, thus, no basis or warrant for this Court to infer that the petitioner, during the relevant period of nine years, has not been performing the duties of a driver so as to disentitle him to honorarium during every financial year, equivalent to his basic pay, in accordance with the Corporation's order of 05.07.2011. (Para 15 and 16)

Writ petition allowed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition has been instituted by the petitioner, praying that a mandamus be issued, ordering the Superintending Engineer, Electricity Works Division, Purvanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Prayagraj, to pay arrears of salary due to the petitioner on account of his entitlement to receive the equivalent of one month's basic pay every year of his service as honorarium, in accordance with the UP Power Corporation's order dated 5th July, 2011, making provision in that behalf for regular drivers.

2. The short case of the petitioner is that he was a permanent driver in the employ of the UP Power Corporation Ltd. (for short, 'the Corporation') and working under the immediate control of the Purvanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Vidyut Madhyamik Karya Khand, Prayagraj. He retired from service on 30.06.2019 upon attaining the age of superannuation. The UP Power Corporation issued an order, bearing Letter No. 622-काविनी एवं वे0प्र0-29/पाकालि/11-5-पी/90 (टीसी-ब) dated 5th July, 2011, making provision for the payment of a month's extra salary in every financial year as honorarium to regular drivers of the Corporation attached to a vehicle. The sum of money payable on this account was directed to be the equivalent of the driver's basic pay for a month. This provision was made, bearing in mind the difficult services rendered by drivers as a class. The Corporation's order of 5th July, 2011 was made applicable from the then current financial year 2010-11. The petitioner retired on 30.06.2019, but was never paid the aforesaid honorarium, equivalent to a month's basic pay. He represented the matter to the respondents thrice: once on 17.02.2021, and again on 28.09 to 2021 and 18.10.2021.

3. In response to these demands, the petitioner states that a memo dated 01.11.2021 was issued by an Executive Engineer on behalf of the Chief Engineer (Distribution), Purvanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Prayagraj, addressed to the Superintending Engineer, Electricity Works Division, Prayagraj, bringing to his notice the fact that the petitioner has not been paid his honorarium equivalent to a month's basic pay each year in terms of the Corporation's order dated 05.07.2011, which he has claimed. The letter mentions that the Executive Engineer has been instructed to say that the petitioner's claim for a month's extra pay should be dealt with according to rules. The petitioner's case further is that despite the aforesaid instructions issued from the office of the Chief Engineer (Distribution), the Superintending Engineer, respondent No.3, has failed to make good the petitioner's arrears on account of his unpaid honorarium.

4. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of respondent Nos.2 and 3 by the Executive Engineer, Electricity Works Division, Purvanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Prayagraj. The petitioner's claim, which works out to nine month's extra salary, as the Executive Engineer says, has been denied as misconceived. The reason pleaded in Paragraph No.6 of the counter affidavit is that the petitioner is not entitled to draw extra salary as honorarium for nine month's, because he was suffering from heart disease as well as lung ailments, and on that account, did not work as a driver on his own request. He was assigned office work as a record keeper. It is pleaded that it was for the said reason that the driver's work was undertaken through outsourcing with the respondents entering into a contract with a certain Prakhar Enterprises. A copy of the agreement with Prakhar Enterprises has been annexed to the return filed on behalf of respondent Nos.2 and 3.

5. In Paragraph No.9 of the counter affidavit, it is averred that from 2010 to 2019, the work of a driver was done through an outsourcing agency as the petitioner was seriously ill with his heart ailment and lung disease. It is also averred that for the said reasons, the petitioner's request was accepted on humanitarian grounds, assigning him office work, where he had to maintain record. It is also pleaded in the same paragraph that the petitioner was paid medical reimbursement worth Rs.1,39,600/- for the treatment of his heart disease from 05.07.2013 to 18.07.2013, when he was hospitalized at the Heartline Cardiac Care Centre, Prayagraj. A copy of the relative bill along with the medical certificates is annexed as Annexure CA-2 to the return filed on behalf of the respondents. The case of the respondents, therefore, is that the petitioner never worked as a driver during the relevant period of time, and on his own request, was assigned to office duties. The driver's work was outsourced.

6. In the rejoinder affidavit, the petitioner has disputed the respondents' stand. In Paragraph No.6, it is averred that the petitioner was appointed a driver and retired as such. He has asserted that according to the Corporation's order dated 05.07.2011 vide Paragraph No.2, it has been clarified that all regular drivers would be entitled to payment of a sum of money equivalent to a month's salary, every financial year. It is averred that the petitioner was never detailed to office work. He performed the duties of a driver. He was a Corporation employee, serving as a driver. So far as the agreement for outsourcing is concerned, the petitioner has nothing to do with it, as that is a matter between the Corporation and the contractor. It is averred in Paragraph No.9 of the rejoinder that during the course of his service, he needed treatment for once alone, which was reimbursed under the medical scheme by the respondents. The petitioner has averred that he was hospitalized for fifteen days and the fact that he received medical reimbursement for the treatment that he received in those fifteen days, is a matter of right for him under the medical scheme. It is specifically averred in Paragraph No.10 of the rejoinder affidavit that the petitioner has worked as a permanent driver, and his payslip, appended as Annexure-RA1, shows that he has received his salary as a driver.

7. Heard Mr. Shamim Uddin Khan, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Manoj Kumar Srivastava, learned Counsel for respondent Nos. 2 and 3 and Ms. Amrita Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel on behalf of the State.

8. This Court finds upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties that there is no issue about the entitlement of a regularly appointed driver of the Power Corporation, or one who is assigned to a Distribution Corporation, to receive in every financial year a sum of money as honorarium, which is equivalent to his basic pay. This provision, which virtually entitles a driver to be paid thirteen months of salary during the course of a year, that has twelve months, has been made bearing in mind the difficulty level of a driver's job and the fact that it may involve working outside normal working hours. It may also involve working extra duty hours. This, the Court supposes, is the basis for providing a month's extra emoluments during the course of a year to regular drivers, serving in the respondents establishment.

9. A perusal of the Corporation's order dated 05.07.2011, which is the source for this entitlement for drivers, serving either the Power Corporation or a Distribution Corporation, shows in the first paragraph that the entitlement to a month's extra emoluments is provided for regular drivers, who are actually assigned to vehicles. In the second paragraph, which is clarificatory in nature and appears to have been necessitated on account of answering queries or removing difficulties in the application of this extra payment scheme, it is said in unequivocal words that all working and regular drivers, whether a vehicle is allotted to them or not, are entitled to the honorarium.

10. The first paragraph of the Corporation's order of 5th July, 2011 would seem to suggest that the entitlement to honorarium, equivalent to a month's extra salary in a year, is admissible to those regular drivers alone, who are attached to a vehicle, but the clarification makes it evident that all regular drivers of Corporation's vehicles, who are working, are entitled to the equivalent of a month's extra salary during each financial year.

11. There is no dispute on facts that the petitioner was a regular and permanent driver in the employ of the respondent Corporation. The intent of the Corporation's order of 5th July, 2011 appears to be that regular drivers, who are working as such or driving vehicles, are entitled to be paid honorarium as envisaged in the said order.

12. This Court thinks that a regular driver must be presumed to be assigned driving duties, unless the contrary is proved by the employer, the respondent Corporation here. One of the possible cases, that could be pleaded and proved by the Corporation to say that a driver, like the petitioner, did not have to drive at all, is that the Corporation did not have a vehicle at all in the establishment, which he could drive. Here, this is not the respondents' case. What the respondent Corporation pleads is that they have, through outsourcing, hired a vehicle together with the driver on contract to work for the Executive Engineer for reason that the petitioner was ailing and could not drive due to his ill-health. It is not at all pleaded that there was no vehicle belonging to the Corporation available with them, during the period of time the petitioner was posted in the particular establishment. The case that a vehicle along with the driver was taken on contract through outsourcing does not show anywhere, the purpose why outsourcing was resorted to. It is nowhere mentioned in the contract or any other document, preceding the decision to outsource and hire a vehicle along with the driver, that the measure had to be taken because the petitioner, who was unwell, could not drive. In the absence of something, at least on record, prior to the decision to outsource, as the respondents say, to show that the petitioner was unwell, on account of which he could not drive and that was the reason for the respondent Corporation to outsource the services of a driver together with a vehicle, it cannot be inferred or even assumed that the outsourcing of a vehicle together with a driver, was a result of the petitioner's physical or medical disability to work as a driver.

13. There is another reason for this Court to think so. Considering the circumstantial angle, if it was a sick petitioner, who could not function as a driver, the respondents would not have hired a vehicle on contract along with the driver. They would have simply hired the services of a driver on contract through outsourcing, as it is done these days, utilizing what has been lately called the facility of a service provider. A driver hired through a service provider would then have been posted on the establishment's vehicle to drive it in the face of the regular driver's physical or medical inability. Much contrary to what the respondents endeavour to suggest, the hiring of a vehicle along with a driver, seems to suggest that the Corporation were in the need of an extra vehicle, where instead of buying one, they secured one through outsourcing along with the driver on contract.

14. Quite apart, to dispel the presumption that a regular driver was not in a position to discharge his duties as such, there would be orders and record to show the fact. There would be orders of arrangement made, assigning the petitioner to office duties, or as it is called ‘light duty’. No such order, office memorandum or other record, has been mentioned in the return filed by the respondents, much less annexed to it, that may establish that the petitioner was assigned to office duties on account of his failing health. This was particularly imperative for the respondents in the face of a clear denial by the petitioner in his rejoinder that he was never assigned office duties because he was unable to drive on account of ill health. The petitioner's stand is that he was once hospitalized for a heart condition, for which he was treated. The fact, that this involved medical reimbursement of expenses, is quite irrelevant to determine the issue that the petitioner has become a disabled driver.

15. What has been placed on record, would show that the petitioner was hospitalized for a heart ailment in the year 2013 from 05.07.2013 to 18.07.2013, a period of fourteen days. The mere fact that a person has suffered a medical condition related to the heart or his lungs, for which he has received treatment, cannot ipso facto lead to a conclusion that he has become disabled to function as a driver. This Court has already remarked that for the said fact to be proved, the respondents would have to show some orders assigning light duties to the petitioner or office duties, as they plead. There is absolutely no record or material about assignment of duties to the petitioner away from his job as a driver and in the office, as the respondents say. The respondents could also establish the fact that the petitioner had become a disabled driver by producing a medical certification of the fact – the result of a test employees of Government owned establishments often undergo to assess their ability to discharge the kind of duties originally assigned to them. There is no medical certification on record produced by the respondents in support of their case that the petitioner has, in any manner, become disabled to function as a driver. There is nothing either, as earlier remarked to show, that he has actually been relieved of his duties as a driver and assigned some other work.

16. On this state of facts, material and evidence, it is difficult to accept the respondents' case that the petitioner has not been discharging his duties as a driver. It is not even a possibility, in the face of the presumption that the petitioner, a regular driver, would be discharging those duties. There is, thus, no basis or warrant for this Court to infer that the petitioner, during the relevant period of nine years, has not been performing the duties of a driver so as to disentitle him to honorarium during every financial year, equivalent to his basic pay, in accordance with the Corporation's order of 05.07.2011. The respondents are obliged to pay the petitioner honorarium for the period of nine years, that is to say, from the financial year 2010-11, as mentioned in the order dated 5th July, 2011 itself until the year of his retirement. The payment of the said sum of money, which has been unlawfully withheld by the respondents, would carry simple interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date it fell due until realization.

17. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. A mandamus is issued to the Superintending Engineer, Electricity Works Division, Prayagraj, ordering him to pay the petitioner arrears of honorarium from the financial year 2010-11 until the financial year till he retired, in accordance with the Corporation's order dated 5th July, 2011 together with 6% interest due from the date that each year's honorarium fell due until payment.

18. There shall be no order is to costs.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1572
ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 21.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE ABDUL MOIN, J.

Writ-C No. 9952 of 2023

Hakimuddin ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Rajesh Kumar Srivastava

Counsel for the Respondent:
C.S.C.

Civil Law-Constitution of India, 1950-Article 226 - Rules 15 and 16 of the Arms Rules 2016-cancellation of the arms license on the grounds of not obtaining a unique identification number as per government notification dated 22 january, 2020-petitioner license was issued in 1987 and last renewed in 2018, was wrongfully cancelled because the licensing authority failed to generate the UIN-The court held that Rules 15 and 16 assign the responsibility of generating the UIN to the licensing authority, not the license holder-Hence, the cancellation was illegal and the directions issued to the authority to generate the UIN within four weeks and imposed exemplary costs of Rs.25000 on the State.(Para 1 to 22)
The petition is allowed.(E-6)

List of cases cited:

1. Subrata Roy Sahara Vs U.O.I.(2014) 8 SCC 470

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Moin, J.)

1. Heard the learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing counsel appearing on behalf of the State-respondents.

2. Instant writ petition has been filed praying for the following main reliefs:-

"1. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari thereby quash impugned order dated 07.10.2023 annexed as Annexure No. 7 to this petition.

2. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties specially opp. Party No. 2/ District Magistrate to restore and renew arm license No. 838/ADM/City/87 of the petitioner and also generate Unique Identification Number."

3. The contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner was having an arms license which was issued on 19.06.1987 from Rajasthan and subsequently was transferred to Uttar Pradesh. The last renewal of the license took place on 06.06.2018 by which it was renewed upto 17.05.2021 by the competent authority in District- Pratapgarh. Copy of the renewal is annexure 3 to the writ petition.

4. Subsequent thereto, the respondent no. 2 i.e District Magistrate, Pratapgarh vide impugned order dated 07.10.2023, a copy of which is annexure 7 to the petition has cancelled the arms license of the petitioner placing reliance on a report dated 29.09.2023 and Government orders issued from time to time per which it has been indicated that as the petitioner failed to get a Unique Identification Number (hereinafter referred to as "UIN") as such, the license has been cancelled.

5. Placing reliance on Rules 15 & 16 of the Arms Rules, 2016 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 2016") which have come into force w.e.f 15.07.2016, the argument of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that a duty is cast upon the licensing authority while either granting or renewing a license to enter the data of the record locally in an electronic format specified by the Central Government and for generation of UIN. It is also contended that once the rules themselves provide that it is the duty of the licensing authority to generate the UIN and to upload it on the portal on the National Database of Arms License (hereinafter referred to as "NDAL") consequently, the order impugned by which the license of the petitioner has been cancelled on the ground of the petitioner not having obtained the UIN, is clearly an act not countenanced in the eyes of law and thus it is prayed that the impugned order be set aside with exemplary cost against the respondents who have failed to follow the statutory rules which have been issued in this regard.

6. On the other hand, learned Standing counsel on the basis of averments contained in the counter affidavit argues that it is the duty of the license holder to obtain the UIN number keeping in viewthe notification dated 22.01.2020, a copy of which is part of annexure CA-2 to the counter affidavit. He argues that the said notification provides that those license holder whose license has not been recorded on the NDAL portal, it should be ensured that the licenses are endorsed on the NDAL portal and a UIN is issued and those licenses which are not uploaded by 29.06.2020 on the NDAL portal should be considered as invalid w.e.f 30.06.2020. Considering this notification and a report dated 29.09.2023 submitted by the Additional Superintendent of Police indicating the said fact that the competent authority has passed the order dated 07.10.2023 by recording that as the petitioner's license is not having a UIN as such, his license is being cancelled.

7. Placing reliance on the aforesaid notification, the argument of learned standing counsel is that it was the duty of the petitioner to have obtained the UIN and to have had it endorsed on his license and he having failed to do so, no error has been committed by the respondent no. 2 in cancelling the license of the petitioner by means of the order dated 07.10.2023.

8. Responding to the same, the argument of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that once a duty has been cast upon the licensing and renewing authority in terms of Rules 15 & 16 of the Rules, 2016 to generate the UIN and to upload it consequently, even if a notification dated 22.01.2020 has been issued the same would not resile from the fact that the duty has been cast upon the licensing authority in terms of the Rules, 2016 for having the UIN endorsed at the time of renewal as specifically provided in Rule 15 of the Rules, 2016 and thus, in case it is the licensing authority who has failed to discharge his duties, the burden thereof cannot be placed upon the petitioner in order to enable the licensing authority to cancel the license of the petitioner.

9. Heard the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the contesting parties and perused the records.

10. From the arguments as raised by the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the contesting parties and a perusal of records it emerges that the petitioner was having an arms license, the last renewal of which took place in District - Pratapgarh on

06.06.2018 per which the license was renewed upto 17.05.2021. Subsequent thereto, the licensing authority vide order impugned dated 07.10.2023 has cancelled the license of the petitioner by observing that in terms of the relevant notifications and the Government orders, as the petitioner has failed to obtain a UIN, consequently, as no license without a UIN can subsist subsequent to 30.06.2020, as such, has cancelled the license of the petitioner.

11. The question which is to be considered by this Court as to whether the licensing authority was empowered to cancel the license of the petitioner on the ground that the petitioner has failed to obtain the UIN ?

12. For answering the said question, the Court will have to consider the provisions of Rules 15 & 16 of the Rules, 2016 which for the sake of convenience are reproduced below:-

"Rule 15 - Maintenance of records in electronic format and consolidation of licences

(1) Every licensing authority and the renewing authority specified in Schedule II, while granting a license or renewing a licence, thereof, shall enter the data of the record locally in an electronic format specified by the Central Government.

(2) Every licensing authority and the renewing authority shall also enter such data in the NDAL system which shall generate a unique identification number (UIN) and with effect from the 2[30th June, 2020], any arms license without UIN shall be considered invalid.

(3) The UIN so generated under sub-rule (2) shall be unique for a licensee.

(4) Any existing licensee holding multiple licences in Form III shall on or before the 2[30th June, 2020] make an application for grant of a single licence in respect of all the firearms held by him under his UIN, to the concerned licensing authority:

Provided that where the applicant applying a licence for restricted category of arms or ammunition specified in Schedule I is also a holder of a licence for permissible category of arms or ammunition specified in the said Schedule; or where the applicant, applying for permissible category of arms or ammunition is also a holder of a licence for restricted category of arms or ammunition specified in the said Schedule, the licensing authority concerned shall issue a new licence for such restricted or permissible category of arms or ammunition, as may be applicable, under the existing UIN of the licensee:

3[Provided further that separate licence either in book form or in electronic form shall be generated in case of each licence in Form II, Form III, Form IIIA and Form IV and in case of a licence in Form III, separately for restricted and permissible categories of arms and ammunition specified in Schedule I, with an overall ceiling of two firearms under a single UIN.]

(5) The licensing authority on receipt of an application from a multiple licence holder under sub-rule (4) shall cancel the existing multiple licences of the applicant and issue in lieu thereof, a new licence endorsing therein, all the existing firearms of the said licensee.

(6) The period of validity of the new licence so issued by the licensing authority under sub-rule (5) shall be the farthest period as mentioned in any of the cancelled licences and the area validity endorsed on the new licence shall be the more extensive area in any of the cancelled licences.

Rule 16 - Duty of licensing authority under NDAL

(1) The licensing authority, while granting or renewing a licence or at the time of providing any allied service to any licensee under these rules shall ensure that the data of the transaction approved by him, is simultaneously updated in the electronic format locally and on the NDAL system under its log-in ID:

Provided that the licensee shall not be held accountable for failure on the part of the licensing authority to update such data in the electronic format.

(2) The licensing authority shall ensure compliance of delivery of different services specified in column (2) of Schedule V, within the time specified in column (4), of the said Schedule."

13. From a perusal of Rule 15 of the Rules, 2016 it emerges that the responsibility of maintenance of records in electronic format and consolidation of the licenses has been put on the shoulders of the licensing authority and the renewing authority as specified in Schedule II. Rule 15, of the Rules, 2016 categorically provides that every licensing authority and the renewing authority while granting a license or renewing a license thereof shall enter the data of the record locally in an electronic format specified by the Central Government. Every licensing authority and the renewing authority shall also enter such data in the NDAL system which shall generate a UIN and with effect from 30.06.2020, any arms license without UIN shall be considered invalid. Sub Rule (3) of Rule 15 of the Rules, 2016 provides that the UIN so generated under sub-rule (2) shall be unique for a licensee. Though sub Rule (4) of Rule 15 of the Rules, 2016 provides that an existing licensee holding multiple licenses in Form III shall on or before 30.06.2020 make an application for grant of single license in respect of all the firearms held by him under his UIN yet the said sub rule would not be attracted as it is not the case where the petitioner is holding multiple licenses.

14. Rule 16 of the Rules, 2016 also casts a duty on the licensing authority under NDAL while granting or renewing a license or at the time of providing any allied service to any licensee under these rules to ensure that the data of transaction approved by him is simultaneously updated in the electronic format locally and on the NDAL system under its log-in ID. The proviso to Rule,16 of the Rules, 2016 also provides that the licensee shall not be held accountable for failure on the part of the licensing authority to update such data in the electronic format.

15. Thus, from a perusal of Rules, 15 & 16 of the Rules, 2016 it clearly emerges that a duty has been cast on the licensing or the renewing authority while generating or renewing a license to enter the data of the record locally in an electronic format and to generate the UIN.The proviso to Rule, 16 of the Rules, 2016 categorically provides that the licensee shall not be held accountable for failure on the part of the licensing authority to update the data in the electronic format.

16. Thus, it can safely be said from a perusal of Rules, 15 & 16 of the Rules, 2016 that the duty has been cast upon the licensing or renewing authority to ensure the generation of the UIN and for feeding of the same on the NDAL portal.

17. In the instant case, the competent authority, though had renewed the license of the petitioner on 06.06.2018 i.e after the promulgation of the rules, 2016 which have come into force, having been published in the gazette, on 15.07.2016 yet it emerges that the licensing authority failed to discharge the duty which was entrusted upon him for generating the UIN and for uploading it on the NDAL portal. Merely placing reliance on the various Government orders that may have been issued from time to time including the notification dated 22.01.2020, the competent authority has cancelled the license of the petitioner by means of the order impugned dated 07.10.2023 putting the entire burden of generation and endorsement of the UIN on the shoulders of the petitioner. This act on the part of the licensing authority, as emerges from a perusal of the order dated 07.10.2023, is clearly not countenanced in the eyes of law and would also run foul to the statutory provisions of Rules 15 & 16 of the Rules, 2016.

18. So far as the notification dated 22.01.2020 is concerned which has been cited by the learned Standing counsel, a perusal of the same would indicate that the said notification has been issued by the State Government addressed to all the District Magistrates through out the State of Uttar Pradesh in pursuance to the Rule 15 of the Rules, 2016. By the said order, the State Government has required all the District Magistrates, while considering the notification issued by the Government of India on 03.01.2020, to take adequate steps to ensure that those valid license holders who are not entered in the NDAL portal, they should be entered by 29.06.2020 and UIN be provided to them and all such license holders who are not entered on the portal by 29.06.2020, their license should be considered as invalid. The said order nowhere stipulates that it is the license holders who are required to get their UIN or would get their details uploaded on the NDAL portal rather the District Magistrates of all the Districts are required to ensure the adherence of the provisions of Rule 15 & 16 of the Rules, 2016. This order cast a duty on the licensing and renewing authority to generate the said data and UIN and upload the same on the NDAL portal as such, there cannot be any occasion for shelving the said duty on the shoulders of the license holder and thereafter cancelling the said license.

19. Keeping in view the aforesaid discussion, the Court is constrained to hold that the competent authority has failed to discharge the duty which was cast upon him while renewing the license of the petitioner as done on 06.06.2018 i.e for generating the UIN and for updating the same on the NDAL portal. The modus adopted by the licensing authority of cancelling the license of the petitioner is patently illegal and de hors the Rules, 2016.

20. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed. The order impugned dated 07.10.2023, a copy of which is annexure 7 to the writ petition is quashed. The licensing authority is required to generate a UIN and to upload it on the NDAL portal within a period of four weeks from today. If the license of the petitioner has lapsed in the interregnum it be also extended after completion of necessary formalities.

21. As the Court has specifically observed of the licensing authority having specifically shirked and not discharged the mandatory duty which was cast upon him in terms of Rules, 2016 and the petitioner having been made the scapegoat of such act on the part of the licensing authority and in having approached this Court for the redressal of his grievances as such, the Court also proposes to impose exemplary cost on the respondents.

22. Accordingly, keeping in view the judgment of the Apex Court passed in the case of Subrata Roy Sahara Vs. Union of India reported in (2014) 8 SCC 470, this Court imposes a token cost of Rs. 25,000/- on the respondents.

23. Let the said cost be paid to the petitioner initially by the State Government within six weeks from today with the liberty to recover the same from the authority who is responsible in passing the order impugned.

(2024) 2 ILRA 1577

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 23.02.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Application U/S 482 No. 1646 of 2024

Nitesh Kumar Rastogi & Anr. ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicants:
Sanandan Kumar Misra, Bina Kumari Bajpai, Lakshmi Kant Tripathi, Rakesh Kumar Chaudhary

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
G.A.

(अ) फौजदारी कानून - भारतीय दंड प्रक्रिया संहिता, (1973) - धारा 482 - अंतर्निहित शक्तियां - भारतीय दंड संहिता, 1860 - धारा 188, 420, 427, 447 - धारा 482 का सावधानी से उपयोग - उच्च न्यायालय को इस शक्ति का उपयोग करते समय मामले का सतही परीक्षण नहीं करना चाहिए और यह देखना चाहिए कि क्या दीवानी प्रकृति के मामले को अपराध का रूप दिया गया है - जहाँ पक्षों के मध्य दीवानी प्रकृति के विवाद को मात्र दूसरे पक्ष पर दबाव डालने के लिए आपराधिक रंग दे दिया जाता है, ऐसी कार्यवाही न्यायिक प्रक्रिया का दुरुपयोग है। (पैरा -15,16,17)

पक्षों के बीच विवाद दीवानी प्रकृति का - प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट द्वारा भूमि पर कब्जा करने का आरोप लगाया गया - अस्थायी निषेधाज्ञा आदेश पारित - जिसके विरुद्ध शिकायतकर्ता द्वारा अपील की गई - पुलिस ने प्रकरण को दीवानी प्रकृति का बताते हुए हस्तक्षेप करने से इकार कर दिया - राजस्व कर्मियों की दो रिपोर्ट प्रार्थीगण के पक्ष में - एक रिपोर्ट शिकायतकर्ता के पक्ष में। (पैरा - 19)

निर्णय: - आपराधिक प्रक्रिया मात्र दीवानी प्रकृति के विवाद में प्रार्थीगण पर अनुचित दबाव डालने के उद्देश्य से संस्थित की गई। ऐसी परिस्थिति में आपराधिक कार्यवाही का जारी रहना न्यायिक प्रक्रिया का दुरुपयोग होगा। पक्षी के मध्य आपराधिक प्रक्रिया निरस्त की गई । आदेश में दिए गए कोई भी कथन आपराधिक प्रक्रिया के अलावा किसी भी दीवानी या राजस्व प्रकृति के विवाद के निर्णय में प्रभावी नहीं होंगे।(पैरा - 19,20)

धारा 482 के तहत आवेदन स्वीकृत । (E -7)

उद्धृत मामलों की सूची: -

1. कमल शिवाजी पोकरनेकर बनाम महाराष्ट्र राज्य और अन्य, (2019) 14 एससीसी 350

2. जी सागर शूरी बनाम उ०प्र० राज्य ,(2000) 2 एससीसी 636

3. इंडियन ऑयल कार्पोरेशन बनाम NEPC इंडिया लिमिटेड ,(2006) 6 एससीसी 736

4. गुलाम मुस्तफा बनाम कर्नाटक राज्य ,(2023) एससीसी online SC 603

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. प्रार्थीगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री सनन्दन कुमार मिश्रा एवं श्रीमती बीना कुमारी

बाजपायी, विद्वान अतिरिक्त शासकीय अधिवक्ता श्री अनंत प्रताप सिंह तथा विपक्षी संख्या 2 के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री राकेश कुमार चौधरी तथा श्री लक्ष्मीकान्त त्रिपाठी को सुना तथा पत्रावली का अवलोकन किया।

2. धारा 482 दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के अंतर्गत प्रस्तुत इस प्रार्थना पत्र द्वारा प्रार्थीगण ने प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट संख्या 854 सन 2020 अंतर्गत धारा 188, 420, 427, 447 भा०दं०सं० थाना पी.जी.आई. जिला लखनऊ के अनुक्रम में प्रस्तुत आरोप पत्र संख्या 02 सन 2022 दिनांक 20.06.2022 तथा उसके आधार पर विद्वान मुख्य न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट, लखनऊ द्वारा वाद संख्या 88492 सन 2022 में पारित आदेश दिनांक 26.09.2022 जिसके द्वारा उपरोक्त अपराध का संज्ञान लिया गया तथा प्रार्थीगण को विचारण हेतु तलब किया गया, की वैधता को चुनौती दी गयी है।

3. विपक्षी संख्या 2 ने दिनांक 9.11.2020 को प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट संख्या 854 सन 2020 प्रार्थीगण तथा 2 अन्य व्यक्तियों शैलेन्द्र मिश्रा एवं देवी शंकर पाण्डेय के विरुद्ध लिखाते हुए यह कहा कि शिकायतकर्ता की भूमि खसरा संख्या 2004 ग्राम हैवत मऊ मवइया सरस्वती पुरम कालोनी में लगभग 16,000 वर्ग फीट स्थित है, जिस पर विगत 25 वर्षों से उसकी बाउण्ड्री वाल बनी है। शिकायतकर्ता की माता जी की मृत्यु के पश्चात उनकी वसीयत के आधार पर शिकायतकर्ता को भूमि का स्वामित्व मिला है। प्रार्थी संख्या 1 तथा 2 अन्य सह-अभियुक्त शैलेन्द्र मिश्रा एवं देवी शंकर पाण्डेय भूमि को हड़पने की नियत से खसरा संख्या 2006 ख की भूमि का विक्रय-पत्र फर्जी प्रपत्रों के आधार पर कराकर शिकायतकर्ता की भूमि पर कब्जा करने के उद्देश्य से चहार दिवारी तोड़ रहे थे जबकि खसरा संख्या 2006 ख के भूमिधर अजय कुमार द्वारा वर्ष 2005 में भूमि को एक पंजीकृत विक्रय विलेख द्वारा समिति को बेचा जा चुका था। इसके बाद भी अभियुक्तगण अजय कुमार की पत्नी मालती देवी से बिना किसी अधिकार के फर्जी रजिस्ट्री कराकर शिकायतकर्ता की भूमि पर कब्जा कर रहे हैं। शिकायतकर्ता द्वारा पूर्व में ही मालती देवी के खिलाफ न्यायालय से स्थगन आदेश प्राप्त कर लिया गया था। विवेचना के उपरान्त दिनांक 20.6.2022 को चारों अभियुक्तगण के विरुद्ध धारा 188, 420, 427, 447, 120-B भा०दं०सं० के अपराधों के लिए आरोप-पत्र प्रस्तुत किया गया है, जिनका संज्ञान मुख्य न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट लखनऊ ने आदेश दिनांक 26.9.2022 द्वारा लेते हुए अभियुक्तगण को समन किया।

4. प्रार्थना-पत्र के साथ प्रस्तुत शपथ-पत्र में कहा गया है कि प्रार्थी ने जो भूमि विक्रय की है, उसके भूमिधर के रूप में विक्रेता श्रीमती मालती देवी का नाम खतौनी में अंकित था तथा मालती देवी द्वारा प्रार्थिनी संख्या 2 के पक्ष में निष्पादित विक्रय विलेख दिनांक 1.10.2020 की प्रति प्रार्थना पत्र के साथ संलग्न की गयी है, जिसके द्वारा प्रार्थी संख्या 2 ने खसरा संख्या

2006 ख में से 210.315 वर्ग मीटर भूमि खरीदी है, जिसकी सीमाएं विक्रय-पत्र में अंकित हैं। प्रार्थी संख्या 1 ने मालती देवी से एक अन्य विक्रय-पत्र दिनांक 5.10.2020 से खसरा संख्या 2006 ख में से 207.434 वर्ग मीटर भूमि खरीदी है, जिसकी सीमाएं भी उक्त विक्रय-पत्र में अंकित हैं, जिसकी प्रति प्रार्थना-पत्र के साथ संलग्न है।

5. शिकायतकर्ता ने सिविल जज हवाली (अवर खण्ड), लखनऊ के न्यायालय में मूल वाद संख्या 1465 सन 2019 प्रस्तुत करते हुए प्रश्नगत भूमि के संबंध में स्थायी निषेधाज्ञा तथा वाद के लंबित रहने के दौरान अस्थायी निषेधाज्ञा की मांग की तथा अस्थायी निषेधाज्ञा के प्रार्थना-पत्र में यह लिखा गया है कि वादी ने घटना की शिकायत थाने पर किया परन्तु संबंधित थाने की पुलिस ने मामला दीवानी बताकर मामले में हस्तक्षेप करने से इंकार कर दिया। उक्त कथन दिनांक 11.8.2021 को किया गया जबकि शिकायतकर्ता प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट दिनांक 9.11.2020 को ही अंकित करा चुका था।

6. प्रभारी निरीक्षक द्वारा उपजिलाधिकारी सरोजिनीनगर लखनऊ को प्रेषित की गयी एक रिपोर्ट दिनांक 10.11.2020 की प्रति प्रार्थना-पत्र के साथ संलग्न की गयी है, जिसमें उपनिरीक्षक ने शिकायतकर्ता द्वारा लिखाई गई प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट के संबंध में उपजिलाधिकारी से अनुरोध किया है कि शिकायतकर्ता तथा अभियुक्त का भूमि संख्या अभिलेखों में अलग-अलग प्रदर्शित है किन्तु दोनों पक्ष एक ही स्थल को अपनी अपनी भूमि बताते हैं तथा इस कारण से राजस्व टीम द्वारा स्थलीय निरीक्षण किया जाना आवश्यक है जिससे सत्यता की जांच की जा सके। उपजिलाधिकारी ने दिनांक 10.12.2020 को राजस्व कर्मियों के एक दल द्वारा मौके की जांच करने के बाद एक रिपोर्ट दी, जिसके अनुसार गाटा संख्या 2006 ख के संक्रमणीय भूमिधर श्रीमती मालती, पंकज, अजय तथा प्रेम कुमार आदि हैं। उपरोक्त गाटा में से भूमि प्रार्थी संख्या 1 नितेश कुमार रस्तोगी व प्रार्थी संख्या 2 नीलम पाण्डेय तथा एक अन्य व्यक्ति सह-अभियुक्त शैलेन्द्र कुमार मिश्रा को विक्रय किया गया है।

7. दिनांक 12.11.2021 को लेखपाल ने एक और आख्या प्रस्तुत करके प्रार्थीगण द्वारा गाटा संख्या 2006 ख में से भूमि क्रय किये जाने के बाद की बात कही।

8. प्रार्थी संख्या 1 ने शिकायतकर्ता के विरुद्ध मूल वाद संख्या 788 सन 2021 सिविल जज (प्रवर खण्ड) लखनऊ के न्यायालय में प्रस्तुत किया, जिसमें दिनांक 05.07.2021 को एक अंतरिम निषेधाज्ञा का आदेश पारित करते हुए शिकायतकर्ता तथा उसके सहयोगियों को खसरा संख्या 2006 ख में प्रार्थी संख्या 1 द्वारा क्रय की गयी 2260 वर्ग फीट भूमि पर प्रार्थी संख्या 1 के शांतिपूर्ण अध्यासन में किसी भी प्रकार से हस्तक्षेप करने से निषेधित किया गया। इसके उपरान्त शिकायतकर्ता को सुनने

के उपरान्त सिविल जज (प्रवर खण्ड) द्वारा अस्थायी निषेधाज्ञा के प्रार्थना-पत्र का निस्तारण आदेश दिनांक 07.03.2022 द्वारा किया गया, प्रार्थिनी संख्या 2 नीलम पाण्डेय ने भी सिविल जज (प्रवर खण्ड) लखनऊ के न्यायालय में मूल संख्या 868 सन 2021 प्रस्तुत किया, जिसमें दिनांक 12.07.2021 को उनके पक्ष में अस्थायी निषेधाज्ञा आदेश पारित हुआ तथा दिनांक 07.03.2022 के आदेश द्वारा शिकायतकर्ता प्रतिवादी की आपत्तियों पर विचार करने के उपरान्त अन्तरिम निषेधाज्ञा प्रार्थना-पत्र स्वीकार कर शिकायतकर्ता को आदेशित किया गया कि वह प्रार्थी संख्या 2 द्वारा खरीदी गयी भूमि पर उसके शांतिपूर्ण अध्यासन में किसी तरह का कोई हस्तक्षेप न करे।

9. शिकायतकर्ता ने प्रार्थिनी संख्या 2 के पक्ष में पारित अस्थायी निषेधाज्ञा आदेश के विरुद्ध प्रकीर्ण दीवानी अपील संख्या 202 सन 2022 प्रस्तुत की, जो अपर सत्र न्यायाधीश कक्ष संख्या 6 विशेष न्यायाधीश भ्रष्टाचार निवारण, लखनऊ ने अपने निर्णय तथा आदेश दिनांक 13.04.2023 द्वारा निरस्त कर करते हुए अस्थायी निषेधाज्ञा आदेश दिनांक 07.03.2022 पुष्ट कर दिया।

10. उपरोक्त तथ्यों के आधार पर प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का कथन है कि जब सक्षम न्यायालय द्वारा प्रार्थीगण के पक्ष में विवादित भूमि के संबंध में शिकायतकर्ता के विरुद्ध अस्थायी निषेधाज्ञा पारित की जा चुकी है, जो आदेश अपील में पुष्ट किया जा चुका है, उसी विषयवस्तु के लिए आपराधिक कार्यवाही जारी रहना न्यायसंगत नहीं है।

11. प्रार्थीगण की तरफ से एक पूरक शपथ-पत्र प्रस्तुत किया गया है जिसमें पक्षों के मध्य राजनैतिक द्वेष होने का कथन किया गया है।

12. विपक्षी संख्या 2 ने एक प्रतिशपथ-पत्र प्रस्तुत करते हुए प्रार्थना पत्र का विरोध किया है। जिसमें उन्होंने सह-अभियुक्त देवी शंकर पाण्डेय, जो प्रार्थी संख्या 2 के पति हैं, के आपराधिक इतिहास का वर्णन किया है तथा साथ ही यह भी कहा है कि उपजिलाधिकारी सरोजिनीनगर लखनऊ ने दिनांक 23.6.2021 को एक आख्या दी जिसमें यह कहा गया कि भूमि के पूर्व स्वामी अजय कुमार भूमि को पहले ही बेच चुके थे तथा उनकी पत्नी मालती देवी को भूमि को विक्रय करने का कोई अधिकार प्राप्त नहीं था।

13. विपक्षी संख्या 2 के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा कमल शिवाजी पोकरनेकर बनाम महाराष्ट्र राज्य और अन्य 2019 14 SCC 350 में पारित निर्णय का आश्रय लिया, जिसमें माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने कहा है कि यदि शिकायत में कहे गये अपराध प्रथम दृष्टया कारित होना प्रतीत होते हैं तो उक्त शिकायत की कार्यवाही प्रारंभिक स्तर पर इस आधार पर निरस्त नहीं की जानी चाहिए कि शिकायत से दीवानी वाद भी होना प्रतीत होता है। विपक्षी संख्या 2 के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने यह भी तर्क दिया कि प्रार्थी ने धारा 227

दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत उन्मोचन हेतु प्रार्थना-पत्र भी प्रस्तुत कर रखा है तथा इस कारण से धारा 482 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत प्रार्थना-पत्र पोषणीय नहीं है।

14. उक्त कथन के उत्तर में प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने कथन किया कि इस प्रार्थना-पत्र की नोटिस दिनांक 19.02.2024 को दे दी गयी थी तथा उसी दिन यह प्रार्थना-पत्र प्रस्तुत कर दिया गया था। इसके उपरान्त प्रार्थी ने दिनांक 20.02.2024 को विचारण न्यायालय के समक्ष उन्मोचन प्रार्थना पत्र प्रस्तुत किया। धारा 482 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत प्रार्थना-पत्र प्रस्तुत किये जाने के समय तक प्रार्थी ने उन्मोचन हेतु कोई प्रार्थना-पत्र प्रस्तुत नहीं किया था और इस कारण यह प्रार्थना पत्र बाद में प्रस्तुत किया गया। उन्मोचन प्रार्थना-पत्र से इस प्रार्थना-पत्र की पोषणीयता पर कोई विपरीत प्रभाव नहीं पड़ेगा।

15. जी सागर शूरी बनाम उ०प्र० राज्य (2000) 2 SCC 636 में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह सिद्धान्त प्रतिपादित किया कि धारा 482 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत प्राप्त क्षेत्राधिकार को अत्यन्त सावधानीपूर्वक प्रयोग करना चाहिए। इस शक्ति का प्रयोग करते हुए उच्च न्यायालय को प्रकरण का परीक्षण मात्र सतही तौर पर नहीं करना चाहिए। न्यायालय को यह देखना चाहिए कि क्या मूलतः एक दीवानी प्रकृति के प्रकरण को एक अपराध का जामा पहनाने का प्रयास किया गया है। आपराधिक प्रक्रिया विधि के अनुसार अनुतोष प्राप्त करने की अन्य प्रक्रिया के शॉर्टकट के रूप में प्रयोग नहीं की जा सकती। आपराधिक प्रकरण में अभियुक्त को विचारण के लिए आहूत करने के पहले न्यायालय को अत्यन्त सावधानी बरतनी चाहिए क्योंकि एक अभियुक्त के लिए यह एक अत्यन्त गंभीर विषय है। धारा 482 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत प्राप्त शक्तियों का प्रयोग न्यायिक प्रक्रिया का दुरूपयोग करने अथवा अन्यथा न्याय के हितों की रक्षा करने के लिए करना चाहिए।

16. इंडियन ऑयल कार्पोरेशन बनाम NEPC इंडिया लिमिटेड (2006) 6 SCC

736 में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने व्यावसायिक क्षेत्र के लोगों में दीवानी मामलों को आपराधिक मामलों में बदलने की प्रवृत्ति का संज्ञान लेते हुए कहा कि ऐसी धारणा बन रही है कि यदि व्यक्ति को किसी भी प्रकार से आपराधिक प्रक्रिया में लपेटा जा सके तो इससे विवाद के तुरन्त निपटारे की संभावना बढ़ जाती है। जहाँ कोई अपराध कारित नहीं हुआ हो, वहाँ दीवानी प्रकृति के वादों को निपटाने के लिए आपराधिक प्रक्रिया का दुरूपयोग करके दबाव बनाने की प्रवृत्ति को रोका जाना अनिवार्य है।

17. इसके विपरीत प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने गुलाम मुस्तफा बनाम कर्नाटक राज्य (2023) SCC online SC 603 का आश्रय लिया, जिसमें माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने कहा है कि जहाँ पक्षों के मध्य दीवानी प्रकृति के

विवाद को मात्र दूसरे पक्ष पर दबाव डालने के लिए आपराधिक रंग दे दिया जाता है, ऐसी कार्यवाही न्यायिक प्रक्रिया का दुरूपयोग है।

18. उपरोक्त तथ्यों के दृष्टिगत रखते हुए प्रार्थना पत्र स्वीकार किया जाता है। प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट संख्या 854 सन 2020 अंतर्गत धारा 188, 420, 427, 447 भा०दं०सं० धाना पी.जी.आई. जिला लखनऊ के अनुक्रम में प्रस्तुत आरोप पत्र संख्या 02 सन 2022 दिनांक 20.06.2022 तथा उसके आधार पर विद्वान मुख्य न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट, लखनऊ द्वारा वाद संख्या 88492 सन 2022 में पारित आदेश दिनांक 26.09.2022 जिसके द्वारा उपरोक्त अपराध का संज्ञान लिया गया तथा प्रार्थीगण को विचारण हेतु तलब किया गया, तथा उपरोक्त आपराधिक वाद की संपूर्ण कार्यवाही प्रार्थीगण के विरुद्ध निरस्त की जाती है।

19. जब उपरोक्त विधि व्यवस्थाओं के आलोक में प्रस्तुत मामले के तथ्यों का परीक्षण किया जाये तो यह प्रतीत होता है कि पक्षों के मध्य दीवानी विवाद लंबित है, जिसमें प्रार्थीगण के पक्ष में अस्थायी निषेधाज्ञा आदेश पारित हो चुका है। एक अस्थायी निषेधाज्ञा आदेश के विरुद्ध शिकायतकर्ता द्वारा प्रस्तुत अपील निरस्त करते हुए अस्थायी निषेधाज्ञा आदेश अपीलीय न्यायालय द्वारा पुष्ट किया जा चुका है। प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट द्वारा भूमि पर कब्जा करने के प्रयास का आरोप लगाया गया, जो कृत्य निषेधाज्ञा आदेश से संबंधित है। यद्यपि शिकायतकर्ता ने प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट दिनांक 09.11.2020 को अंकित करायी थी, उसने अपने द्वारा प्रस्तुत वाद संख्या 1465 सन 2019 में यह कहा है कि जब वह घटना की शिकायत करने थाने पर गया तो संबंधित थाने की पुलिस ने प्रकरण को दीवानी प्रकृति का बताते हुए हस्तक्षेप करने से इंकार कर दिया। राजस्व कर्मियों की दो रिपोर्ट प्रार्थीगण के पक्ष में हैं तथा एक बाद की रिपोर्ट शिकायतकर्ता के पक्ष में है किन्तु वह रिपोर्ट दीवानी न्यायालय द्वारा निषेधाज्ञा में दी गयी प्रारंभिक फाइंडिंग में अंकित किये गये प्रारंभिक संतोष के विरुद्ध हैं। इन कथनों से पक्षों के मध्य विवाद दीवानी प्रकृति का प्रतीत होता है तथा ऐसा प्रतीत होता है कि आपराधिक प्रक्रिया मात्र दीवानी प्रकृति के विवाद में प्रार्थीगण पर अनुचित दबाव डालने के उद्देश्य से संस्थित की गयी हैं।

20. ऐसी परिस्थिति में आपराधिक कार्यवाही का जारी रहना न्यायिक प्रक्रिया का दुरुपयोग होगा।

21. यह स्पष्ट किया जाता है कि इस आदेश में कहे गये कोई भी कथन पक्षों के मध्य आपराधिक प्रक्रिया, जो निरस्त की जा रही है, के अतिरिक्त किसी भी विवाद के निर्णय के लिए दीवानी अथवा राजस्व प्रकृति के विवाद के निर्णय में प्रभावी नहीं होंगे तथा उनको गुण-दोष के आधार पर विधिनुसार बिना इस आदेश में किये गये किसी भी कथन से प्रभावित हुए निर्णीत किया जायेगा।