Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996-Section 11(6)- challenge to-appointment of arbitrator-agreement between the parties required the respondent to provide fly ash free of cost to the petitioner-negotiation continued for some time-respondent were charging for the fly ash from others then why the charge should not be levied from the petitioner upon the objection raised by the audit team-meanwhile, respondent issued a tender seeking bids from third parties-this triggered the dispute-upon request for appointing arbitrator according to arbitration clause,objection raised by the respondent that agreement is not duly stamped-the court considered the agreement is akin to licence and is duly stamped-petitioner proposed the name of an Arbitrator, which was not acceptable to the respondent-arbitration clause invoked by a notice duly served on the respondent-since the arbitration clause between the parties is not disputed-the court has ample jurisdiction to exercise its power u/s 11(6) of the Act, to appoint an Arbitrator.(Para 61 to 81)

1. Heard Shri Jaideep Narain Mathur learned Senior Advocate alongwith Shri Rahul Agarwal and Shri Rajat Gangwar learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Sandeep Dixit learned Senior Advocate alongwith Shri Suyash Manjul for the respondent.

2. The aforesaid two petitions have been preferred under Section 11 (6) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. Both involve similar facts and common questions of law and as such have been heard together and are being decided by this common judgment.

3. In order to appreciate the controversy involved in the above petitions, briefly the facts giving rise to the present petitions are being noted hereinafter.

4. M/s. Jai Prakash Associates Limited "hereinafter referred to as JAL" had entered an agreement for the purposes of consumption of fly ash which was to be generated as a by product at 1x250 Unit 9 MW Harduganj Thermal Extension Power Project, Kasimpur, Aligarh while the aforesaid fly ash was to be consumed by the petitioner for its Portland Pozzollona Cement "hereinafter referred to as PPC" at Sikandrabad U.P.

5. However, on account of changed circumstances, in term of the order passed by the National Company Law Tribunal at Mumbai & at Allahabad, a scheme for acquiring the identified cement plants of JAL in the States of Madhya Pradesh, Andhra Pradesh, Himachal Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand was prepared and the petitioner entered in an agreement with JAL on 31st of March, 2016 which was approved by the NCLT at Mumbai and Allahabad, by means of the order dated 15th of February 2017 and 2nd of March, 2017 respectively.

6. Subsequently the Board of Directors of the petitioner's company and JAL in their meeting held on 29th of June, 2017 declared the scheme to be made effective and all the identified assets of JAL vested with the petitioner's company with effect from 29th of June, 2017. It is in this backdrop that the petitioner's company, namely, M/s. Ultra Tech Cement Limited "hereinafter referred to as UTCL" acquired all the rights and the liabilities of JAL including the rights, obligation in terms of the agreement which was entered between JAL and the respondent dated 16th of February, 2007.

7. The respondent is a State Thermal Power Utility and is wholly owned and controlled by the State of Uttar Pradesh. The respondent corporation i.e. Uttar Pradesh Rajya Vidyut Utpadan Nigam Ltd. "hereinafter referred to as UPRVUNL" was constituted for the purposes of construction of new Thermal Power Projects in the State and is responsible for the generation, transmission and distribution of power within the State of Uttar Pradesh. It is with the aforesaid purpose that the operations of the State Sector Thermal Power Stations were handed over to it.

8. To put the controversy in a prespective, certain background facts which led the parties to enter in an agreement dated 16th of February, 2007 "hereinafter referred to as the said agreement of 2007" and which is in the eye of the storm, may be noted first:-

(i) Usually, thermal power is generated from coal which leads to generation of fly ash as its by-product. This, by-product which is generated from the thermal power is a hazardous product and causes environmental damage and accordingly the Ministry of Environment and Forest, Union of India has made strict regulations in respect thereto and necessarily all thermal power plants are required to have a fly ash pond for stocking of fly ash generated by the said power plants;

(ii) The aforesaid by product i.e. fly ash is used in production of several products such as bricks, roads and cement amongst others;

(iii) The Ministry of Environment and Forest, Union of India had issued a notification dated 14th of September 1999, a copy of which has been annexed as Annexure no.1 with the petition. The aforesaid notification with the objective of restricting the excavation of top soil for manufacture of bricks and promoting the utilization of fly ash in the manufacture of building material and in construction activity within a specified radius of fifty kilometers from the coal or lignite based thermal power plants as well as to prevent the dumping of fly ash and regulate the disposal of fly ash discharged from coal or lignite based thermal power plants had issued the aforesaid notification.

(iv) For the present purposes, clause 2 of the aforesaid notification dated 14th of September, 1999 relating to utilization of ash by thermal power plant is being reproduced hereinafter, for ready reference:-

(1) Every coal or lignite based thermal power plant shall make available ash, for at least ten years from the date of publication of this notification, without any payment or any other consideration, for the purpose of manufacturing ash-based products such as cement, concrete blocks, bricks, panels or any other material or for construction of roads, embankments, dams dykes or for any other construction activity.

(2) Every coal or lignite based thermal power plant commissioned subject to environmental clearance conditions stipulating the submission of an action plan for full utilisation of fly ash shall, within a period of nine years from the publication of this notification, phase out the dumping and disposal of fly ash on land in accordance with the plant. Such an action plan shall provide for thirty per cent of the fly ash utilisation, within three years from the publication of this notification with further increase in utilisation by at least ten per cent points every year progressively for the next six years to enable utilisation of the entire fly ash generated in the power plant at least by the end of ninth year. Progress in this regard shall be reviewed after five years.

(v) It is in this backdrop that the respondent which is managing the operations of the State sector thermal power station and is responsible for generation of thermal power as a result of its production, fly ash was being generated, whereas in terms of the aforesaid notification of 14th of September, 1999, the respondent was required to create appropriate model for disposal of fly ash. On the other hand, the petitioner who is a Company engaged in production of cement wherein the aforesaid fly ash is used as a natural raw material accordingly had set up its cement plant at Sikandrabad.

(vi) Thus, the predecessor of the petitioner i.e. JAL and the respondent had entered in an agreement dated 16th of February, 2007.

9. It is this agreement dated 06.02.2007 which contain the arbitration clause which reads as under:-

"If any dispute or difference arises between two parties, the same shall be conducted in accordance with Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. All disputes of any nature shall be subject and the jurisdiction of Allahabad High Court, Bench of Lucknow."

10. The aforesaid agreement, a copy of which has been annexed with the Annexure no.2 with the petition, contained certain recitals which are relevant for the effective disposal of the present petition and are being quoted hereinafter:-

a. UPRVUNL is desirous to dispose off dry fly ash from their proposed 2 x 250 MW Harduaganj Thermal Power Station Kasimpur, Aligarh [referred as HTPS] in the state of U.P. which will in the process of electricity generation will produce huge quantity of fly ash which need to be disposed off in an effective manner so as to prevent environmental hazards according to quidelines issued by MOEF, Government of India vide gazette notification 763 [Aa] dated 14.09.1999.

b. UPRVUNL intends to commission the 2 x 250 MW power plant extention by August 2009 and fly ash availability thereafter 'JAL' intends to commission Grinding Unit at Sikandrabad U.P. by October 2008.

e. Both the parties viz UPRVUNL and 'JAL are desirous of recording the terms and conditions which have been agreed by both the parties.

various discussions were held between the representatives of UPRVUNL and JAL which have culminated in certain agreed terms and conditions and a MOU dated 29.09.2006 was signed relating to utilization of dry fly ash of 2 x 250 MW (Unit No.9) Harduaganj Thermal Power Project Kasimpur, Aligarh of UPRVUNL by JAL for their Cement Plants as detailed above.

12. The aforesaid agreement is stamped with a duty of rupees one hundred and it has been acted upon between the parties. It will be relevant to point out that as far as the parties are concerned, there is no dispute regarding the factum of signing and entering into the aforesaid agreement dated 16th of February, 2007. It is also not disputed that the parties acted upon the same and the terms and conditions contained in the aforesaid agreement was followed by the parties, until the controversy erupted.

13. The contents and recital of the agreements in between the parties in the two petitions are identical. The only difference is that in the Arbitration Application No.44 of 2019, relates to the thermal power plant 1x250 Unit 9 MW Harduganj, whereas the Arbitration Application No.45 of 2019 relates to 2x250 Unit 8 MW Harduganj. The parties are the same and the same controversy is in both the petitions hence they were consolidated and are being disposed of by this common judgment. However, for the sake of convenience the facts relating the Arbitration Case No.44 of 2019 has been noticed by this Court.

14. It would be seen from the perusal of the agreement entered between the parties that the petitioner's Company was required to lift the fly ash from the thermal power station at Harduganj which was to be used by the petitioner as raw material for its cement plant at Sikandrabad.

15. It was specifically provided in the agreement that the respondent shall allow the petitioner to collect the entire quantity of dry fly ash generated from its power plant on 'As Is Where Is Basis' from the date of installation and operation of the dry fly ash extraction system, free of cost. JAL "the predecessor in the interest of the petitioner's Company" was required to make arrangement for carrying the same to their premises at their own cost.

16. In furtherance of the aforesaid agreement dated 16th of February 2007, the respondent got the permission from the Ministry of Environment and Forest for setting up its thermal power plant at Harduganj, Kasimpur and Aligarh. The respondent commissioned its Unit 9 and the petitioners have been lifting the fly ash generated from the said Unit 9 with the effect from May 2013.

17. On 3rd of November, 2009, the Ministry of Environment and Forest issued another notification, a copy of which has been annexed as Annexure no.3 to the petition.

18. By the instant notification, the earlier notification issued on 14th of September, 1999 was amended and as a result of the aforesaid notification the thermal power station which were earlier required to provide the fly ash free of costs, now, enabled the power plant to charge for the fly ash upto 80% and 20% of the fly ash was to be made available free of charge. The relevant portion of the notification of 2009 reads as under:-

"(1) All coal or lignite based thermal power stations would be free to sell fly ash to the use agencies subject to the following conditions, namely:-

(i) the pond ash should be made available free of any charge on "as is where is basis" to manufacturers of bricks, blocks or tiles including clay fly ash product manufacturing unit(s), farmers, the Central and the State road construction agency Public Works Department, and to agencies engaged in back filling or stowing of mines.

(ii) at least 20% of dry ESP fly ash shall be made available free of charge to unit manufacturing fly ash or clay-fly ash bricks, blocks and tiles on a priority basis over other users and if the demand from such agencies falls short of 20% of quantity, the balance quantity can be sold or disposed of by the power station as may be possible;

Provided that the fly ash obtained from the thermal power station should be utilized on for the purpose for which it was obtained from the thermal power station or plant failing which no fly ash shall be made available to the defaulting users."

19. Be that as it may, despite the aforesaid notification of 2009, the parties to the instant agreement continued to follow the earlier notification of 1999.

20. In terms of the agreement, the petitioner had invested large sum of money for the purposes of installation of Dry Fly Ash Extraction System "hereinafter referred to as DFAES" at it own cost. The aforesaid investment included the monetary involvement towards silos, compressor, vacuum pumps, panel etc. In terms of the agreement, it was the petitioner who had to bear the maintenance and operational charges of the DFAES.

21. It is only on the 4th of May, 2011 the respondent wrote a letter to JAL (predecessor in interest of the petitioner) regarding negotiating the rate for lifting of fly ash from Harduaganj thermal power station. The same was replied by the predecessor of the petitioner stating that the agreement between the parties required the respondent to provide the fly ash free of cost and it was not fair for the respondent to charge for the same. This negotiations continued for quite sometime and it was also informed that in the audit conducted of the respondent power plant, it revealed that the respondent were charging for the fly ash from others then why the charge should not be levied from the petitioner. It was in light of the objection so raised by the audit team that the respondent initiated the negotiation regarding the price of lifting of the fly ash.

22. Number of meetings took place between JAL and the respondent, however, no conclusive decision could be arrived at and as late as on 31st of January, 2018 i.e. by this time the present petitioner had acquired the assets of its predecessor and made an offer by means of its letter dated 31st January, 2018 a price of rupees fifty per metric tonne for lifting fly ash from Harduaganj Thermal Power Plant. This offer made by the petitioner was not acceptable to the respondent. In the meantime, the respondent issued a tender seeking bids from third parties for lifting of dry ash. It is this publication of tender which trigerred the dispute and the petitioner reacting to the same sent a letter dated 15th of May, 2019 objecting to the tender notice published on 29th of April, 2019.

23. The respondent replied to the said letter vide its reply dated 24th of May, 2019 and invited the petitioner to a meeting which were scheduled to be held on 29th of May, 2019 between the representative of the petitioner and the concerned officers of the UPRVUNL. The said meeting did not result in any fruitful outcome and thereafter the petitioner instituted a petition before the Commercial Court at Lucknow invoking Section 9 of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996. The said petition was registered as Arbitration Case No.619 of 2019 which, after hearing the parties, was dismissed by the Commercial Court at Lucknow by means of its judgment/order dated 10th of July, 2019. The petitioner also preferred an appeal before the High Court. However, the same was also dismissed on 14th of June, 2019, a copy of which has been annexed as Annexure No.22 with the petition.

24. The petitioner by means of its notice dated 04.06.2019, a copy of which has been annexed as Annexure No.23, invoked the arbitration clause and suggested the name of retired Judge of this Court to act as the sole arbitrator. The aforesaid notice was duly served on the respondents. However, the respondents did not take any active participation in the constitution of the arbitral tribunal, hence the aforesaid petition.

25. The respondents filed their counter-affidavit seeking rejection of the aforesaid petition. At the very outset, it may be stated that the scope of this Court while entertaining a petition under Section 11(6) of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act is limited to the extent that this Court is required only to look into the fact whether the agreement entered between the parties contained an arbitration clause or not. It is also required to look into the fact whether the proper court having jurisdiction has been approached for the aforesaid purpose and primarily all contentious issues have to be left to be decided by the Arbitrator.

26. However, in so far as this aspect of the matter is concerned, the respondent does not dispute the arbitration clause nor the signing of the agreement dated 16th of February, 2007. Though the respondent while filing its counter-affidavit have raised objection on the merit. However, suffice to state that this Court is not inclined to go into the merits of the dispute and confines itself only to the fact that the agreement dated 16th of February, 2007 is not disputed by the respondent and so also the arbitration clause.

27. Having said that, it would be relevant to mention that the respondent has raised a primarily objection regarding the maintainability of the above petition. The ground so raised by the respondent is squarely based on the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Garware Wall Ropes Ltd. Vs. Coastal Marine Constructions & Engineering Ltd., reported in AIR 2019 SC page 2053.

28. On the strength of the aforesaid case, the respondent has raised a plea that unless and until the agreement which contain the arbitration clause is duly stamped as required in law till then the agreement becomes unenforceable and the court in terms of Section 11(6) of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act is denuded of its jurisdiction to appoint an Arbitrator.

29. Thus, the gist of the preliminary objection raised by the respondent is that the agreement dated 16th of February, 2007 is under stamped and as such unless and until the same is impounded and properly stamped as required in law, no Arbitrator can be appointed.

30. It is in this backdrop that the question before this Court to be considered and decided is whether the agreement dated 16th of February, 2007 is appropriately stamped or not. In case if it is properly stamped, then the Court possesses the jurisdiction to appoint an Arbitrator and in case if the answer is in the negative, then the agreement requires to be impounded and unless appropriately stamped as per provisions contained in the Stamp Act, the Court will not appoint an Arbitrator.

31. It is in light of the aforesaid question so formulated that the Court has heard the learned Senior Counsel appearing on the two sides at length.

32. Shri Jaideep Narain Mathur learned counsel for the petitioner has plainly, but vehemently, submitted that as far as the agreement dated 16th of February, 2007 is concerned, the said instrument is governed by Article 5 (c) of Schedule 1-B of the Indian Stamp Act as duly amended and applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh. It is the submission of Shri Mathur that the aforesaid agreement entered between the parties is appropriately stamped; inasmuch as a stamp duty of rupees one hundred is provided for an instrument which is mentioned in Article 5 entry (c) contained in Schedule 1-B.

33. To elaborate his submission Shri Mathur has taken the Court extensively through the recital of the notification dated 14th of September, 1999 and the agreement dated 16th of February, 2007. On the strength of the aforesaid, it has been argued by Shri Mathur that the agreement in question only relates to lifting of fly ash and that too free of cost. It has been submitted that though the petitioner was required to install operate and maintain the DFAES at the costs of the petitioner. In the entire agreement, there is not a single word or terminology which is used to indicate that the aforesaid DFAES has been either sold or transferred to the respondent.

34. Shri Mathur has also emphasized that as far as the lifting of the dry fly ash is concerned, the same was to be done by the petitioner at his own costs by providing its own vehicle and since the aforesaid fly ash was generated from the power plant of the respondent and in terms of notification dated 14th of September, 1999 and it was for a period of 25 years, the dry fly ash in terms of the agreement dated 16th of February, 2007 was required to be given/provided to the petitioner free of costs. Thus, for the entire transaction as mentioned and depicted in the agreement of February 2007, there is neither any transfer nor any consideration as such it cannot be treated either as a conveyance nor it can be said that it relates to any transfer of movable or immovable property, accordingly the agreement falls within Article 5(c) of Schedule 1-B of the Stamp Act as amended in the State of U.P., accordingly there is no deficiency of any stamp duty and there is no impediment for the court to appoint an Arbitrator.

35. Per contra, Shri Sandeep Dixit, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the respondent has also meticulously taken the Court to the terms of the agreement as well as the notification dated 14th of September, 1999 and 3rd of November, 2009 and has submitted that the entire transaction as indicated in the said agreement is squarely covered by Article 23 relating to a conveyance of Schedule 1-B of the Stamp Act and has submitted that apparently in terms of the aforesaid Article 23, the agreement in between the parties is under stamped accordingly the agreement requires to be impounded and only when the stamp duty is properly paid alongwith the penalty, can the Court appoint an Arbitrator.

36. Shri Dixit in order to buttress his submission has vehemently urged that in terms of the agreement which clearly provides that the DFAES which is to be installed, operated and maintained by the petitioner on the premises belonging to the respondent is embedded in earth and as such would be treated as an immovable property. It has also been submitted that since according to the petitioner, the value of the said DFAES is in several lacs accordingly that should be taken minimum as the value and appropriate stamp duty be paid.

37. Shri Dixit has also submitted that the agreement provides that the said DFAES shall form an integral part of the power station of the respondent, thus it implies that the DFAES has been transferred to the respondent, accordingly it is squarely covered under Article 23 of Schedule 1-B of the Uttar Pradesh Stamp Act.

38. Another limb of argument of Shri Dixit is, that the petitioner was required to develop a green belt on an area of about five hectares of land belonging to the respondent by planting five thousand, non-exotic Indian species plants such as Neem, Peepal, Kadam, Jangaljalebi, Shisham, Imli etc. on the costs as well as its maintenance which was to be borne by the petitioner whereas the plants shall remain the property of the respondent. Thus in view thereof, Shri Dixit has submitted that the agreement also contemplates transfer of five thousand trees which are embedded in and as such also amounts to a transfer of immovable property attracting Article 23 of Schedule 1-B of the Stamp Act applicable in the State of U.P. Since the stamp duty applicable on conveyance is on ad- volerum basis directly connected with the valuation hence the value of the aforesaid agreement runs in several lacs and in any case stamp duty of rupees one hundred on the agreement is grossly deficient and thus in light of the decision rendered by the Apex Court in the case of SMS Tea Estates (P) Ltd. Vs. Chandmari Tea Company (P) Ltd. reported in 2011 (14) SCC page 66 and Garware Wall Ropes Ltd. (supra), the request of the petitioner to appoint the Arbitrator, cannot be acceded unless the stamp duty is made good.

39. In order to appreciate the submission of the respective parties, it will be essential to note the ratio of the decision rendered by the Apex Court in the case of Garware Wall Ropes Ltd. (supra) and SMS Tea Estates (P) Ltd. (supra).

40. The Apex Court in the case of Garware Wall Ropes Ltd. (supra) was confronted with the question as to what is the effect of an arbitration clause contained in a contract which requires to be stamped. The Apex Court further noticed that in the case of SMS Tea Estates (P) Ltd. (supra) the Court had held that when an arbitration clause is contained in an unstamped agreement, the provisions of the Indian Stamp Act requires the Judge hearing the petition under Section 11 to impound the agreement and ensure that the stamp duty and penalty (if any) are paid before proceeding further with the petition under Section 11.

41. The Apex Court also noticed that the legislative amendment brought in the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996 by the Arbitration & Conciliation "Amendment" Act, 2015 whereby Section 11 (6-A) has been introduced and its effect on such understamped or unstamped agreement containing Arbitration Clause. In order to under stand the controversy before the Apex Court, it will be worthwhile to reproduce Section 11 (6-A) as amended by 2015 Act and which reads as under:-

considering any application under sub-section (4) or sub-section (5) or sub-section (6), shall, notwithstanding any judgment, decree or order of any Court, confine to the examination of the existence of an arbitration agreement.]

42. Now the question arises as to the effect of the decision of SMS Tea Estates (P) Ltd. (supra) on dispute which arises post the amendment of 2015; inasmuch as by the aforesaid Section 11 (6A), the High Court while considering an application under sub-sections (4)(5) or (6) shall confine itself only to the examination of the existence of an arbitration agreement, notwithstanding any judgment, decree or order of any court. Thus, whether in the changed circumstances the dictum of SMS Tea Estates (P) Ltd. (supra) would continue to govern the field or post 2015 even if an agreement is under stamped, the court while dealing with an application under Section 11(6) will still confine itself only to the examination of the existence of an arbitration agreement.

43. It is in this backdrop that the Apex Court considering the various provisions of both the Arbitration & Conciliation Act as well as the Stamp Act as applicable to the State of Maharashtra including the provisions of the contract Act and the earlier binding decision of the Apex Court and thereafter held as under and the relevant paragraphs reads as under:-

16. ... A close look at Section 11(6A) would show that when the Supreme Court or the High Court considers an application under Section 11(4) to 11(6), and comes across an arbitration clause in an agreement or conveyance which is unstamped, it is enjoined by the provisions of the Indian Stamp Act to first impound the agreement or conveyance and see that stamp duty and penalty (if any) is paid before the agreement, as a whole, can be acted upon. It is important to remember that the Indian Stamp Act applies to the agreement or conveyance as a whole. Therefore, it is not possible to bifurcate the arbitration clause contained in such agreement or conveyance so as to give it an independent existence, as has been contended for by the respondent. The independent existence that could be given for certain limited purposes, on a harmonious reading of the Registration Act, 1908 and the 1996 Act has been referred to by Raveendran, J. in SMS Tea Estates (supra) when it comes to an unregistered agreement or conveyance. However, the Indian Stamp Act, containing no such provision as is contained in Section 49 of the Registration Act, 1908, has been held by the said judgment to apply to the agreement or conveyance as a whole, which would include the arbitration clause contained therein. It is clear, therefore, that the introduction of Section 11(6A) does not, in any manner, deal with or get over the basis of the judgment in SMS Tea Estates (supra), which continues to apply even after the amendment of Section 11(6A).

17. Looked at from a slightly different angle, an arbitration agreement which is contained in an agreement or conveyance is dealt with in Section 7(2) of the 1996 Act. We are concerned with the first part of Section 7(2) on the facts of the present case, and therefore, the arbitration clause that is contained in the sub-contract in question is the subject matter of the present appeal. It is significant that an arbitration agreement may be in the form of an arbitration clause "in a contract".

18. Sections 2(a), 2(b), 2(g) and 2(h) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 ["Contract Act"] read as under:

"2. Interpretation clause.--In this Act the following words and expressions are used in the following senses, unless a contrary intention appears from the context:--

(a) When one person signifies to another his willingness to do or to abstain from doing anything, with a view to obtaining the assent of that other to such act or abstinence, he is said to make a proposal;

(b) When the person to whom the proposal is made signifies his assent thereto, the proposal is said to be accepted. A proposal, when accepted, becomes a promise;

xxx xxx xxx

(g) An agreement not enforceable by law is said to be void;

(h) An agreement enforceable by law is a contract;

xxx xxx xxx"

19. When an arbitration clause is contained "in a contract", it is significant that the agreement only becomes a contract if it is enforceable by law. We have seen how, under the Indian Stamp Act, an agreement does not become a contract, namely, that it is not enforceable in law, unless it is duly stamped. Therefore, even a plain reading of Section 11(6A), when read with Section 7(2) of the 1996 Act and Section 2(h) of the Contract Act, would make it clear that an arbitration clause in an agreement would not exist when it is not enforceable by law. This is also an indicator that SMS Tea Estates (supra) has, in no manner, been touched by the amendment of Section 11(6A).

27. ... One reasonable way of harmonising the provisions contained in Sections 33 and 34 of the Maharashtra Stamp Act, which is a general statute insofar as it relates to safeguarding revenue, and Section 11(13) of the 1996 Act, which applies specifically to speedy resolution of disputes by appointment of an arbitrator expeditiously, is by declaring that while proceeding with the Section 11 application, the High Court must impound the instrument which has not borne stamp duty and hand it over to the authority under the Maharashtra Stamp Act, who will then decide issues qua payment of stamp duty and penalty (if any) as expeditiously as possible, and preferably within a period of 45 days from the date on which the authority receives the instrument. As soon as stamp duty and penalty (if any) are paid on the instrument, any of the parties can bring the instrument to the notice of the High Court, which will then proceed to expeditiously hear and dispose of the Section 11 application. This will also ensure that once a Section 11 application is allowed and an arbitrator is appointed, the arbitrator can then proceed to decide the dispute within the time frame provided by Section 29A of the 1996 Act.

44. In light of the pronouncement of the Apex Court in the case of Garware Wall Ropes Ltd. (supra), it cannot be doubted that while dealing with an application under Section 11(6) even post 2015 amendment, this Court is required to prima facie consider whether the agreement, the subject matter of these petitions, dated 16th of February 2007 is properly stamped or not.

45. In the quest to ascertain whether the aforesaid agreement is properly stamped or not, it will be apposite for this Court to notice the settled legal principles which are applicable on the authority including a court while determining the manner in which the Stamp Act and the instrument in question is to be examined.

46. It will be gainful to state, at the very out set, that the Stamp Act is a fiscal statute which has been enacted with an object to secure revenue for the State on certain classes of instrument as mentioned therein. It must be equally remembered that the Act does not arm a litigant with a weapon of technicality to meet the case of his opponent. The stringent provision of the Act are conceived only for the purposes of securing interest of the revenue.

47. Since the Stamp Act is a fiscal legislation accordingly its provisions have to be strictly construed and it does not permit liberal interpretation as is applicable as far as remedial statutes are concerned. It is equally well settled that while interpreting a fiscal law there is no scope for equity or judiciousness if the letter of law is clear and unambiguous.

48. It is in the backdrop of the above noted principles that the agreement dated 16th of February, 2007 is to be examined by this Court for the purposes of ascertaining the applicability of stamp duty. For ready reference, Article 5 as contained in Schedule 1 B of the Stamp Act as amended an applicable in the State of U.P. is being reproduced hereinafter for ready reference:-

49. As the submission of the learned Senior Counsel for the respondent hinges on the premise that the agreement amounts to a conveyance which has been defined under Section 2 (10) of the Stamp Act and the duty is indicated in Article 23 of Schedule 1 B. Thus, Section 2(10) of the Stamp Act as well as Article 23 are being reproduced hereinafter for ready reference:-

Explanation

50. Section 2(10) of the Stamp Act defines a conveyance including a conveyance on sale and every instrument by which property whether movable or immovable property is transferred inter vivos and which is not otherwise specifically provided. An explanation is also appended to the aforesaid Section which for the present case is not relevant.

51. Upon reading of the terminology which has been used to define conveyance as well as on the reading of Article 23 contained in Schedule 1-B of the Indian Stamp Act. What needs to be established before an instrument can be covered as a conveyance covered by Article 23 is that such an instrument must affect a transfer which may relate to movable or immovable property. The important word in Section 2(10) as well as in Article 23 is the word 'transfer'.

52. The aforesaid word 'conveyance' and 'transfer' as defined in the Black's Law Dictionary (Eighth Edition) is marked as "(a)" hereinafter and in Osborn's Law Dictionary (Seventh Edition) is marked as "(b)" hereinafter for perusal:-

Absolute conveyance:- A conveyance in which a right or property is transferred to another free of conditions or qualifications (i.e., not as a security). CF conditional conveyance.*

Conditional conveyance:- A conveyance that is based on the happening of an event, usu. payment for the property; a mortgage. CF. absolute conveyance, derivative conveyance. See secondary conveyance."*

"Transfer 1. To convey or remove from one place or one person to another; to pass or hand over from one to another, esp. to change over the possession or control of. 2. To sell or give."

(b) "Conveyance:- A mode of transfer of property; the deed or instrument other than a will whereby an interest in property is assured by one person to another. It includes a mortgage, charge, lease, assent, vesting declaration, vesting instrument, disclaimer, release and every other assurance of property, except a will."

"Transfer:- The passage of a right from one person to another (i) by virtue of an act done by the transferor with that intention, as in the case of a conveyance or assignment by way of sale or gift, etc.; or (ii) by operation of law, as in the case of forfeiture, bankruptcy, descent, or intestacy. A transfer may be absolute or conditional, by way of security, etc."

53. From the above, it would indicate that transfer in so far as any movable or immovable property is concerned, relates to transfer of rights from one party to another. It necessarily includes consideration for such a transfer whereas Article 5 relates to an agreement or memorandum of an agreement which have been mentioned in the aforesaid Article including of sale of both movable and immovable property and the residuary Article 5(c) states that if an agreement which is not otherwise provided for which stamp duty of rupees one hundred has been prescribed.

54. The agreement dated 16th of February, 2007 clearly emphasis the intention between the parties to the effect that as far as the thermal power plant at Harduaganj is concerned, the same is in the undisputed ownership of the respondent. The cement plant undisputedly belongs to the petitioner.

55. The agreement has been necessitated on account of the notification dated 14th of September, 1999. In terms thereof, certain obligations have been conferred upon the parties that is to say that the petitioner was required to install, operate and maintain DFAES at his own cost. The respondent permitted the petitioner to lift the fly ash generated from its thermal power plant without consideration. The petitioner was required to plant five thousand trees on the land belonging to the respondent free of costs and maintain the said greenbelt.

56. However, the entire agreement is completely silent to the consequences regarding the status of DFAES at the end of the term of the agreement or its prior termination as the case may be. As far as the maintenance of greenbelt is concerned, it is clearly provided that the trees so planted by the petitioner at his costs shall always be treated as that of the respondent. Apparently the agreement in between the parties is to be construed in the way it intended to be and it is not permissible for the court to add or infer something and read something in the agreement which does not exist or is not provided for by the parties.

57. In the above backdrop where the agreement does not indicate any exchange of consideration nor it uses any terminology by which it can be inferred that the parties intended to transfer DFAES nor the agreement spells out the consequence and any contrary status regarding the aforesaid DFAES at the time of termination or expiry of the aforesaid agreement. Thus, it is difficult to stretch the language of the agreement to give a meaning and create a transaction which from the agreement in question was not intended by the parties themselves.

58. At this juncture, it will be gainful to ascertain that if the agreement falls short of a conveyance in the sense that it does not contemplate transfer of rights then what would be the nature of such an agreement, dated 16.02.2007.

59. In the aforesaid background it will be imperative to notice the definition of the word 'licence' as defined in the Indian Easements Act, 1882. Section 52 of the Indian Easements Act reads as under:-

"52. "License" defined- Where one person grants to another, or to a definite number of other persons, a right to do, or continue to do, in or upon the immovable property of the grantor, something which would, in the absence of such right, be unlawful, and such right does not amount to an easement or an interest in the property, the right is called a license."

60. From the perusal of the aforesaid definition, it would indicate that the license is a privilege given by the grantor to the grantee to do something on the premises of the grantor which otherwise without such permission would be unlawful.

61. In the instant case, it is not disputed that the land and the entire power plant subsisting thereon belongs to the respondent Power Corporation. It is in furtherance of the agreement entered between the parties dated 16.02.2007 that a privilege was conferred upon the petitioner to do an act on the premises belonging to the Power Corporation and without such permission the act of the petitioner would otherwise be unlawful. It would be seen that the agreement dated 16.02.2007 which takes note of the notification dated 14th of September, 1999 culminated in grant of permission to the petitioner to enter in the premises of the respondent to install, maintain and operate the DFAES at its own costs for the purposes of Extraction of Fly Ash. This agreement read simplicitor and in light of the clauses, terms and conditions which have been noted and reproduced herein above first, unambiguously prods this Court to take a view that the agreement dated 16.02.2007 was actually more akin to grant of a license and not so much of a conveyance.

62. It will also be relevant to mention that the payment of license fee though is not an essential condition for the subsistence of a license. As noted above, the notification dated 14th of September, 1999 clearly envisaged that there would be no consideration between the parties and in absence of any consideration and knowing-fully well that the consideration could not be charged and yet the respondent had permitted the petitioner to use its premises for the purposes of installation, maintenance and operating, at his own costs, the DFAES and that too agreed for a shelf life of 25 years for the agreement unless it was terminated earlier. In absence of any clause indicating that at the end of the aforesaid period of 25 years or in its termination the DFAES would stand transferred to the respondent, indicates the intention which also is manifested in the conduct of the parties that the respondent had merely granted a license to the petitioner for the purposes of Extraction of Fly Ash and the obligations were duly set forth in the agreement dated 16.02.2007.

63. Significantly the agreement dated 16.02.2007 does not in any manner create an interest in the immovable property or a right to possess the same since the terminology of the agreement does not indicate creation of any such right. Nor the agreement results or envisages the transfer of exclusive possession specially when the right conferred under the agreement was specific and was more of a privilege granted to the petitioner, alone.

64. At this juncture, it is the relevant to notice the distinction between a lease or a license. The idea is to extract the ingredients of the license and to juxtapose the same with a lease, which generally is a conveyance. This Court is conscious that in the Stamp Act a separate entry has been dedicated to a lease which is different from the conveyance but the fact remains that generally all leases are conveyances but all conveyances may not be a lease.

65. To, lucidly comprehend the nature of a license and how it has been understood in legal parlance this Court gainfully refers to the decision of the Court of Appeal in Errington Vs. Errington and Woods Lord Denning reported in 1952 (1) KB 290 in deciding the issue whether an agreement is a lease or licence referres to the decision given by Vaughan, C.J. in the seventeenth century in Thomas Vs. Sorrell reported in (1558-1774) All ER Rep 107. In the said judgment (Sorrell case), Vaughan, C.J. outlined certain features of lease which are as follows:-

"....'A dispensation or licence properly passeth no interest nor alters or transfers property in any thing, but only makes an action lawful, which without it had been unlawful.' The difference between a tenancy and a licence is, therefore, that, in a tenancy, an interest passes in the land, whereas, in a licence, it does not. In distinguishing between them, a crucial test has sometimes been supposed to be whether the occupier has exclusive possession or not. If he was let into exclusive possession, he was said to be a tenant, albeit only a tenant at will (see Doed Tomes Vs. Chamberlaine and Lynes Vs. Snaith), whereas if he had not exclusive possession he was only a licensee.

66. Relying on the aforesaid principle Lord Denning explained that the difference between a tenancy and a licence is that, in a tenancy, an interest passes in the land, whereas, in a licence, it does not. The exposition has further been elucidated and it is to be ascertained whether the occupier has exclusive possession or not. However, this test of exclusive possession has been held to be not a decisive test. In order to distinguish between the two the intentions of the parties, their conduct also have to be considered.

67. This aspect of the matter was considered by the Apex Court in the case of Associated Hotels of India Ltd. Vs. R. N. Kapoor reported in AIR 1959 SC page 1262 and it discussed the issue as under:-

21. this issue in very lucid terms. K. Subba Rao, J. who was in minority, discussed this question with a clarity which is often associated with His Lordship's opinion. The learned Judge referred to Section 105 of the Transfer of Property Act and then compared it with Section 52 of the Easements Act, 1882. After referring to those two sections and also after referring to the decision in Errington [(1952) 1 KB 290 : (1952) 1 All ER 149 (CA)] the learned Judge pointed out the distinction between the lease and the licence by expressly approving the tests laid down by Lord Denning and which may better be quoted: (Kapoor case [AIR 1959 SC 1262 : (1960) 1 SCR 368] , AIR pp. 1269-70, para 27)

"27. ... The following propositions may, therefore, be taken as well established: (1) to ascertain whether a document creates a licence or lease, the substance of the document must be preferred to the form; (2) the real test is the intention of the parties--whether they intended to create a lease or a licence; (3) if the document creates an interest in the property, it is a lease; but, if it only permits another to make use of the property, of which the legal possession continues with the owner, it is a licence; and (4) if under the document a party gets exclusive possession of the property, "prima facie', he is considered to be a tenant; but circumstances may be established which negative the intention to create a lease." (SCR pp. 384-85 of the Report)

23. Subsequently, in M.N. Clubwala v. Fida Hussain Saheb [AIR 1965 SC 610] the same propositions have been reiterated by Mudholkar, J. in para 12 of the Report after relying on the decisions in Errington [(1952) 1 KB 290 : (1952) 1 All ER 149 (CA)] and also Cobb [(1952) 1 All ER 1199 (CA)] and also the decision of this Court in Associated Hotels of India Ltd. [AIR 1959 SC 1262 : (1960) 1 SCR 368] The principle laid down by the learned Judge is as follows: (Clubwala case [AIR 1965 SC 610] , AIR p. 614, para 12)

"12. ... We must, therefore, look at the surrounding circumstances. One of those circumstances is whether actual possession of the stalls can be said to have continued with the landlords or whether it had passed on to the stall holders. Even if it had passed to a person, his right to exclusive possession would not be conclusive evidence of the existence of a tenancy though that would be a consideration of first importance. That is what was held in Errington v. Errington and Woods [(1952) 1 KB 290 : (1952) 1 All ER 149 (CA)] and Cobb v. Lane [(1952) 1 All ER 1199 (CA)] ."

25. Reference in this connection can also be made to a later judgment of the Court of Appeal in Marchant v. Charters [(1977) 1 WLR 1181 : (1977) 3 All ER 918 (CA)] where again Lord Denning reiterated these principles in a slightly different form by holding that the true test is the nature and quality of the occupation and not always whether the person has exclusive possession or not. The true test in the language of the learned Judge is as follows: (WLR p. 1185 F-H)

"... It does not depend on whether he or she has exclusive possession or not. It does not depend on whether the room is furnished or not. It does not depend on whether the occupation is permanent or temporary. It does not depend on the label which the parties put upon it. All these are factors which may influence the decision but none of them is conclusive. All the circumstances have to be worked out. Eventually the answer depends on the nature and quality of the occupancy. Was it intended that the occupier should have a stake in the room or did he have only permission for himself personally to occupy the room, whether under a contract or not? In which case he is a licensee."

27. In a rather recent judgment of this Court in C.M. Beena v. P.N. Ramachandra Rao [(2004) 3 SCC 595] the learned Judges relied on the ratio in Associated Hotels of India Ltd. [AIR 1959 SC 1262 : (1960) 1 SCR 368] in deciding the difference between lease and licence. In para 8 of the said judgment, learned Judges held that the difference between lease and the licence is to be determined by finding the real intention of the parties from a total reading of the document, if any, between the parties and also considering the surrounding circumstances. The learned Judges made it clear that use of terms "lease" or "licence", "lessor" or "licensor", "rent" or "licence fee" by themselves are not decisive. The conduct and intention of the parties before and after the creation of relationship is relevant to find out the intention. The learned Judges quoted from the treaties of Evans and Smith on The Laws of Landlord and Tenant and of Hill

& Redman on Law of Landlord and Tenant in support of their proposition.

68. The Apex Court in the case of Qudrat Ullah Vs. Municipal Board, Bareilly reported in 1974 (1) SCC page 202 has held as under:-

".... If an interest in immovable property, entitling the transferors to enjoyment is created, it is a lease; if permission to use land without right to exclusive possession is alone granted, a license is the legal result."

69. Also in the case of Khalil Ahmed Bashir Ahmed Vs. Tufelhussein Samasbhai Sarangpurwala, reported in 1988 (1) SCC page 155. The Apex Court held as under:-

"To put it precisely... if permission to use land without exclusive possession was alone granted, a licence was the legal result. We are of the opinion that this was a licence."

70. The Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Ashoka Marketing Ltd. Vs. Punjab National Bank reported in 1990 (4) SCC page 406 as held as under:-

"It implies occupation by a person who has entered into occupation of any public premises without lawful authority as well as occupation which was permissive at the inception but has ceased to be so.... This part covers a case where a person had entered into occupation legally under valid authority but who continues in occupation after the authority under which he was put in occupation has expired or has been determined. The words 'whether by way of grant or any other mode of transfer' in this part of the definition are wide in amplitude...."

71. It is also to be noted from the perusal of the aforesaid mentioned decisions that a licensee does not acquire any interest in the property by virtue of grant of licence in his favour in relation to any immovable property. Once the authority to occupy and use the same is granted in his favour by way of licence, he continues to exercise that right so long the authority has not expired or has not been determined for any reason whatsoever, meaning thereby so long the period of licence has not expired or the same has not been determined on the ground permissible under the contract or law, occupation of the licensee is permissive by virtue of the grant of licence in his favour, though he does not acquire any right in the property and the property remains in possession and control of the grantor, but by virtue of such a grant, he acquires a right to remain in occupation so long the licence is not revoked or he is not evicted from its occupation either in accordance with law or otherwise.

72. This Court is also fortified in its view in light of the decision rendered by the Apex Court in the case of Corporation of Calicut Vs. K. Sreenivasan reported in 2002 (5) SCC page 361 and New Bus-Stand Shop Owners Association Vs. Corporation of Kozhikode and another reported in 2009 (10) SCC page 455.

73. In light of the principles as extracted from the various decisions of the Apex Court on the aforesaid point as noticed as, this Court has no hesitation to hold that the agreement dated 16.02.2007 merely conferred a right to the petitioner to enter on the land of the respondent for the purposes of installing, operating and maintaining the DFAES and this arrangement cannot be mirrored as a conveyance rather it replicates a license, within the meaning of Section 52 of the Indian Easement Act, 1882.

74. In the Stamp Act as applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh, there is an entry for a licence which is contained in Articles 38 and 38-A appended in Schedule 1-B which mentiones the stamp duty of rupees thirty. However,the aforesaid articles 38 relate only to an agreement between a debtor and his creditor while Article 38-A relates to document evidencing the licence or renewal relating to arms and ammunition under the provisions of Arms Act 1959.

75. Thus it would be seem that Article 38 and 38-A does not in any manner govern the licence as envisaged under Section 52 of the Indian Evidence Act. Moreover, the agreement as mentioned in Article 5 (c) appended in Schedule 1-B clearly covers the field and as such in light of the aforesaid discussion, this Court finds it difficult to accept the contention of the learned counsel for the respondent to submit that the agreement dated 16.02.2007 amounts to a conveyance.

76. It will also be pertinent to notice that merely by giving a right to the petitioner to plant five thousand trees on the greenbelt also it does not amount to transfer; inasmuch as that was also a right granted by the respondent allowing the petitioner to plant the trees and as already noticed above the licence fee is not an essential condition.

77. Thus, for the said purpose as well, the rights conferred by the agreement were obligation which did not create any right either of transfer or interest in the land nor exclusive possession was granted to the petitioner nor by installing, maintaining and operating the DFAES the petitioner relinquished its right or created any interest in favour of the respondent, hence for all the aforesaid reasons as discussed above, this Court is of the firm opinion that the agreement dated 16.02.2007 is akin to a licence and is duly and appropriately stamped. In light of the discussions aforesaid, the objections raised by the respondent regarding the stamp duty are accordingly overruled.

78. Before parting with the issue, this Court deems necessary to state that any observation contained in this order may not be construed as an expression of any view on the merits of the controversy as this Court has considered the agreement only for the limited purpose of assessing the chargeability of stamp duty only.

79. Now the stage is set for this count to examine the petition for the purposes of appointment of an Arbitrator. Since the agreement is found by the Court to be duly stamped and the arbitration clause in between the parties is not disputed nor there is any dispute to the factum of the petitioner having invoked the arbitration clause by sending the notice dated 4th of June, 2019 by which it had proposed the name of an Arbitrator, which was not acceptable to the respondent, who did not respond.

80. However, from the counter-affidavit it is evident that disputes have occurred, arbitration clause subsists and the arbitration clause has been invoked by a notice duly served on the respondent and the Arbitral Tribunal comprising of a sole Arbitrator has not been constituted, thus all these facts confer this Court with ample jurisdiction to exercise its powers under Section 11(6) of the Arbitration &

Conciliation Act, 1996, to appoint an Arbitrator.

81. In view of the above, it is a fit case for the Court to appoint an Arbitrator. This Court further finds that in both the petitions, the parties are also similar, the controversy and points of fact and law are the same hence it will be expedient to appoint the same Arbitrator in both the cases. Accordingly, this Court proposes the name of Justice D.B Bhosle (Retd. Chief Justice) of this Court 6, Bhagyoday behind Kandil Restaurant, Near State Exchange, Fort, Mumbai-400001, Mob. Nos.9494940122, 9833300555, Land Line Nos.22675858, 22675959 to act as an Arbitrator in both the cases. The learned counsel for the petitioner shall provide a complete set of the paper book, in both of cases, to the office to be forwarded to the proposed Arbitrator to seek his consent in terms of Section 12(1) of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996 to conduct the arbitration proceedings at Lucknow.

82. Put up this matter in the week commencing 23rd of March, 2020.

A. Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 - Sections 10, 11 and 12 - alleging - non-compliance of the orders issued by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate - exercise of power by the High Court under Section 10 of the Act of 1971 - where there is no provision under the Criminal Procedure Code or the Code of Civil Procedure for execution of the orders or for compliance of such orders - Where there is an effective remedy for enforcing the order then the High Court would be justified in declining to entertain the contempt petition - contempt petition not maintainable under Section 10 read with Sections 11 and 12 of the Act of 1971.(Para-4,10,15)

An order issued by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate requiring the officials concerned to send a report and thus Section 10 of the Act of 1971 has been invoked for punishing the officials for not responding to the orders passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate for sending a report. (Para-6)

HELD:- Learned Chief Judicial Magistrate has got the power under the Criminal Procedure Code to have his own orders complied with.(Para- 10)

Contempt petition dismissed. (E-7)

List of cases cited:-
1. E. Bapanaiah vs. K.S. Raju , (2015) 1 SCC 451

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Moin, J.)

1. Heard. At the very outset, Sri Shiv Raj Mohan Nigam, learned counsel for the petitioner, made a request that he is unable to see clearly as such his friend,colleague and Advocate Sri H.M. Mathur be permitted to argue the matter on his behalf.

2. Accordingly, seeing the personal difficulty of Sri Nigam, this Court permitted Sri H.M. Mathur, Advocate, to argue the matter.

3. Heard Sri Shiv Raj Mohan Nigam, learned counsel for the petitioner, and Sri H.M. Mathur, Advocate, who has assisted the learned counsel for the petitioner.

4. Present contempt petition has been filed under Sections 10, 11 and 12 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 (hereinafter referred to as the Act of 1971) alleging non-compliance of the orders issued by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow, as per the order sheet, a copy of which has been filed as Annexure-1 to the contempt petition.

5. It is contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow, through various orders had required the officials concerned to submit a report but despite sending various letters, as would be apparent from perusal of the order sheet, on 20.07.2018, 24.09.2018, 29.10.2018, 27.11.2018 and 11.12.2018 the said report has not been sent and consequently the respondents run in contempt of the orders passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow.

6. From perusal of the record, it is clearly apparent that it is not the order of a writ Court against which contempt is alleged but an order which has been issued by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow requiring the officials concerned to send a report and thus Section 10 of the Act of 1971 has been invoked for punishing the officials for not responding to the orders passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow for sending a report.

7. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and perused the records. From the pleadings on record, it is apparent that the petitioner seeks initiation of contempt proceedings of non-compliance of the orders issued by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow to the officials concerned for sending a report which has not been sent by them.

8. Whether this Court while exercising power under Section 10 of Act of 1971 would have jurisdiction to entertain the present contempt petition alleging contempt of orders passed by a subordinate court is an issue which has to be considered by this Court.

9. This aspect of the matter has been considered by the Apex Court in the case of E. Bapanaiah vs. K.S. Raju reported in (2015) 1 SCC 451 wherein it has been held as under:-

"25. Powers of the High Courts to punish for contempt including the powers to punish for contempt of itself flow from Article 215 of the Constitution of India. Section 10 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 empowers the High Courts to punish contempts of its subordinate courts which reads as under: -

"10. Power of High Court to punish contempts of subordinate courts. - Every High Court shall have and exercise the same jurisdiction, powers and authority, in accordance with the same procedure and practice, in respect of contempts of courts subordinate to it as it has and exercises in respect of contempts of itself:

Provided that no High Court shall take cognizance of a contempt alleged to have been committed in respect of a court subordinate to it where such contempt is an offence punishable under the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860).

27. The present case relates to a civil contempt wherein an undertaking given to Company Law Board is breached. Normally, the general provisions made under the Contempt of Courts Act are not invoked by the High Courts for forcing a party to obey orders passed by its subordinate courts for the simple reason that there are provisions contained in Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 to get executed its orders and decrees. It is settled principle of law that where there are special law and general law, the provisions of special law would prevail over general law. As such, in normal circumstances a decree holder cannot take recourse of Contempt of Courts Act else it is sure to throw open a floodgate of litigation under contempt jurisdiction. It is not the object of the Contempt of Courts Act to make decree holders rush to the High Courts simply for the reason that the decree passed by the subordinate court is not obeyed."

10. From perusal of the aforesaid judgment in the case of K.S. Raju (supra), it is apparent that the power exercised by the High Court under Section 10 of the Act of 1971 can be exercised where there is no provision under the Criminal Procedure Code or the Code of Civil Procedure for execution of the orders or for compliance of such orders meaning thereby that where there is an effective remedy for enforcing the order then the High Court would be justified in declining to entertain the contempt petition.

11. Being armed with the aforesaid proposition of law the Court now sets out to see whether there is a remedy available to the petitioner of having the orders passed by the learned Magistrate complied with?

12. For the aforesaid purpose, Section 345 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short, 'Cr.P.C.') would be relevant. Section 345 of the Cr.P.C. provides as under:-

"345. Procedure in certain cases of contempt.

(1) When any such offence as is described in section 175, section 178, section 179, section 180 or section 228 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), is committed in the view or presence of any Civil, Criminal or Revenue Court, the Court may cause the offender to be detained in custody and may, at any time before the rising of the Court on the same day, take cognizance of the offence and, after giving the offender a reasonable opportunity of showing cause why he should not be punished under this section, sentence the offender to fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, and, in default of payment of fine, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, unless such fine be sooner paid.

(2) In every such case the Court shall record the facts constituting the offence, with the statement (if any) made by the offender, as well as the finding and sentence.

(3) If the offence is under section 228 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), the record shall show the nature and stage of the judicial proceeding in which the Court interrupted or insulted was sitting, and the nature of the interruption or insult."

13. From perusal of Section 345 of the Cr.P.C., it is apparent that where any offence as is described in section 175, section 178, section 179, section 180 or section 228 of the Indian Penal Code is committed, the Court may cause the offender to be detained in custody and may take cognizance of the offence and, after giving an opportunity may also impose penalty upon him.

14. Section 175 of the Indian Penal Code (for short, 'IPC') reads as follows:-

"175. Omission to produce [document or electronic record] to public servant by person legally bound to produce it.--Whoever, being legally bound to produce or deliver up any [document or electronic record] of any public servant, as such, intentionally omits so to produce or deliver up the same, shall be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both, or, if the [document or electronic record] is to be produced or delivered up to a Court of Justice, with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both."

15. From perusal of Section 175 of IPC, it is apparent that omission to produce document or electronic record by person legally bound to produce up to a Court of justice is an offence punishable with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees or with both. Thus, in case learned Magistrate is of the view that the officials concerned have not produced the document/report deliberately as were directed by him to be produced it is always open for the learned Magistrate to proceed against the officials concerned under the powers vested with him under the aforesaid provisions of law. However, this Court records that it has not gone into the merits of the orders passed by the learned Magistrate but has only considered as to whether learned Magistrate has got the power to have his own orders complied with whereby not requiring this Court to interfere and invoke its jurisdiction under the Act of 1971.

16. Taking into consideration the aforesaid, no case for entertaining of the present contempt petition under Section 10 read with Sections 11 and 12 of the Act of 1971 is made out. The contempt petition is accordingly dismissed. However, it would be open to the petitioner to pursue other remedies that are available to her.

(Crl. Misc. Application No.4812 of 2020)

1. Rejoinder affidavit filed today is taken on record.

2. Appellant No.1/applicant has been convicted in S.T. No. 258 of 2011, Crime No. 339 of 2011, under Section 304 (Part 2)/34, 323/34 IPC, P.S. 3. Appeal of the appellant No.1/applicant is pending before this Court. Appellant No.1/applicant has been granted bail by a co-ordinate bench of this Court vide order dated 06.09.2019. Now a prayer has been made that the sentence awarded by the trial court may be suspended during pendency of the appeal because of the fact that the appellant No.1/applicant is an old aged person aged about 71 years and is a Loktantra Senani and getting Loktantra Senani pension from the State Government and in case the sentence is not suspended he will not get the Loktantra Senani pension and his survival will be jeopardized.

4. The prayer has been made in reference to Section 389(1) Cr.P.C., which reads as under:

"Section 389(1) in The Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973

(1) Pending any appeal by a convicted person, the Appellate Court may, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, order that the execution of the sentence or order appealed against be suspended and, also, if he is in confinement, that he be released on bail, or on his own bond."

5. It is stated by learned counsel for the appellant No.1/applicant that since the appellant No.1/applicant has been granted bail, so as a natural corollary of the order, sentence of the appellant No.1/applicant has also been suspended. This prayer has been opposed by learned A.G.A.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant No.1/applicant has cited the following case laws:

1. AIR 2001 Supreme Court 3320; K.C.Sareen V. C.B.I. Chandigarh;

2. AIR 2008 Supreme Court 35; State of Punjab v. Deepak Mattu;

4. (2003)12 SCC 434:

7. Learned counsel for the appellant No.1/applicant has also referred a case law N. Ramamurthy v. State by Central Bureau of Investigation, A.C.B., Bengaluru in Criminal Appeal Nos.751-752/2019 decided on 26th April, 2019. In Para 8 of the said judgement Hon'ble Apex Court held as under :

"8. In both the orders impugned, the High Court, apart from the aforesaid error about the length of imprisonment to be served by the appellant, has also proceeded on entirely irrelevant consideration with reference to the principles related with the prayer for suspension of the operation of the order of conviction that such a suspension could be granted only in rare and exceptional cases and for special reason. With respect, the High Court appears to have missed out the fact that the prayer on behalf of the appellant had only been for suspension of execution of sentence and not for stay or suspension of the operation of the order of conviction. Hence, reference to the decision in Navjot Singh Siddhu (supra) had been obviously inapt on the facts and in the circumstances of the present case. In fact, in the other cited decision in K.C. Sareen v. CBI, Chandigarh: (2001) 6 SCC 584, this Court has indicated that ordinarily, the superior Court should suspend the sentence of imprisonment in the matters relating to the offence under the PC Act, unless the appeal could be heard soon after filing. This Court pointed out the subtle distinction in the proposition for suspension of an order of conviction on one hand and that for suspension of sentence on the other. This Court explained and laid down as under:

"11. The legal position, therefore, is this: though the power to suspend an order of conviction, apart from the order of sentence, is not alien to Section 389(1) of the Code, its exercise should be limited to very exceptional cases. Merely because the convicted person files an appeal in challenge of the conviction the court should not suspend the operation of the order of conviction. The court has a duty to look at all aspects including the ramifications of keeping such conviction in abeyance. It is in the light of the above legal position that we have to examine the question as to what should be the position when a public servant is convicted of an offence under the PC Act. No doubt when the appellate court admits the appeal filed in challenge of the conviction and sentence for the offence under the PC Act, the superior court should normally suspend the sentence of imprisonment until disposal of the appeal, because refusal thereof would render the very appeal otiose unless such appeal could be heard soon after the filing of the appeal. But suspension of conviction of the offence under the PC Act, dehors the sentence of imprisonment as a sequel thereto, is a different matter." 8.1. What we find from the impugned order dated 29.01.2019 is that, even after taking note of the principles aforesaid, the High Court has apparently missed out the substratum and has not applied the applicable legal principles to the case at hand."

8. In view of the above circumstances, the application is allowed. Sentence awarded by the trial court against the appellant No.1/applicant shall remain suspended during pendency of the appeal.

It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that in the F.I.R. it was mentioned that the complainant was addressed with his caste but when the statement of complainant was recorded during course of investigation, it is stated that abuses were given but it is not mentioned that he was addressed by caste by the appellants. Even the eye witnesses also not stated that the appellants had addressed the complainant by his caste. Other witnesses also not confirmed this fact that the complainant was addressed by caste. Criminal Appeal allowed. (E-2)

List of cases cited:-

(2009) 1 SCC (Cri) : Gorige Pentaiahi Vs. St. of A.P. & others

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anant Kumar, J.)

1. Counter affidavit filed on behalf of the State is taken on record.

2. This criminal appeal under Section 14-A (1) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 has been filed for setting aside the entire proceedings of Special Sessions Trial No.115 of 2019, under Sections 323, 504 IPC and Section 3 (1) (dha) of SC/ST Act, pending before the Special Judge, SC/ST Act/Additional Sessions Judge, District Balrampur as well as the summoning order dated 05.07.2019, passed by Special Judge, SC/ST Act/Additional Sessions Judge, Balrampur.

3. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that in this case F.I.R. was lodged by the complainant Shiv Lal to the effect that on 19.02.2019, he had gone in the market. At about 6.30 P.M. he was talking with Om Prakashji. In the meantime, present appellants started giving filthy abuses by addressing caste and started beating. Then anyhow the complainant could be saved by intervention of several people of the locality.

4. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that in the F.I.R. it was mentioned that the complainant was addressed with his caste but when the statement of complainant was recorded during course of investigation, it is stated that abuses were given but it is not mentioned that he was addressed by caste by the appellants. Even the eye witnesses Om Prakash Mishra also not stated that the appellants had addressed the complainant by his caste. Other witnesses Ashish Kumar Soni, Nitesh Kumar Soni, Sahid, Dhiraj Kumar also not confirmed this fact that the complainant was addressed by caste.

5. It is further stated that as per provisions of Section 3 (1) (dha) of SC/ST Act, it is necessary that "whoever, not being a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe, intentionally insults or intimidates with intent to humiliate a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe in any place within public view." But in the present case during investigation when the statement of eye witnesses and complainant was recorded, he have not stated that the appellants addressed him by caste.

6. It is also stated by learned counsel for the appellant that in the light of the above assertion no case under Section 3 (1) (dha) of SC/ST Act is made out. In support of the contention learned counsel for the appellants have placed reliance upon a case law (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) : Gorige Pentaiahi Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh & others wherein in paragraph 6 of the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under :-

"6. In the instant case, the allegation of Respondent 3 in the entire complaint is that on 27-5-2004, the appellant abused them with the name of their caste. According to the basic ingredients of Section 3 (1) (x) of the Act, the complainant ought to have alleged that the appellant-accused was not a member of the Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe and he (Respondent 3) was intentionally insulted or intimidated by the accused with intent to humiliate in a place within public view. In the entire complaint, nowhere it is mentioned that the appellant-accused was not a member of the Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe and he intentionally insulted or intimidated with intent to humiliate Respondent 3 in a place within public view. When the basic ingredients of the offence are missing in the complaint, then permitting such a complaint to continue and to compel the appellant to face the rigmarole of the criminal trial would be totally unjustified leading to abuse of process of law."

7. Opposing the appeal, learned A.G.A. has submitted that complainant was addressed by caste in the public view, which was a market place, so, the case under Section 3 (1) (dha) of SC/ST Act is very well made out.

8. However, from the rival contention, this Court finds that though in the F.I.R. it is mentioned that complainant was addressed by caste, as stipulated under Section 3 (1) (dha) of SC/ST Act but in the statements recorded during the investigation, no such assertion has been made by any of the witnesses. Only this much has been stated that complainant was abused but it is not confirm that the complainant was addressed by his caste or not, which is a mandatory requirement of Section 3 (1) (dha) of SC/ST Act.

9. In view of the above circumstances, to my view the trial court has not properly appreciated the material on record while passing the summoning order against the appellants.

10. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. The summoning order dated 05.07.2019, passed by the trial court, so far it relates to summoning of the appellants under Section 3 (1) (dha) of SC/ST Act is set aside. However, it is made clear that the trial court shall proceed with the trial relating to other sections in accordance with law.

3. Om Prakash Vs. St. Of Rajasthan and Anr,(2012) 5 SCC 201

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anant Kumar, J.)

1. This Criminal revision under Section 102 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 has been filed against the judgment and order dated 20.09.2019, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, POCSO Act, Ambedkar Nagar in Criminal Appeal No.37 of 2019, by which the order dated 30.07.2019, passed by the Juvenile Justice Board, Ambedkar Nagar in Bail Application No.22 of 2019 relating to Case Crime No. 65 of 2019, under Section 363, 366, 376 IPC and Section 3/4 POCSO Act, Police Station Bhiti, District Ambedkar Nagar hsa been confirmed.

2. In this case an F.I.R. was lodged on 20.04.2019 to the effect that on 15.04.2019 prosecutrix had gone to attend her school but when she did not return from the School, a search was made and it was found that she had not gone to her school. Thereafter, from the reliable sources it was informed that named accused persons had managed her to elope with the revisionist. In this case initially F.I.R. was lodged under Section 363, 366 IPC and Section 7/8 of POCSO Act. It is submitted that when the prosecutrix was recovered after 3-4 days her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded wherein no such element was stated that revisionist had taken her forcibly, rather she stated that she had gone to school and on the way co-accused met her and advised her that if she wants to do some job, she might get a good job and she could earn her livelihood.

3. The submission of learned counsel for the revisionist is that the impugned orders passed by the courts below are contrary to the parameters envisaged under the proviso to Section 12(1) of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 in the matter of grant of bail to a juvenile. In short, the submission of learned counsel for the revisionist is to the effect that there is nothing in the social investigation report or in any other evidence on record that may lead to the conclusion that the case of the revisionist falls within any of the three exceptions to the rule in favour of bail to a juvenile under the proviso to Section 12 (1) of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015. Section 12 (1) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, is quoted as under :-

Provided that such person shall not be so released if there appears reasonable grounds for believing that the release is likely to bring that person into association with any known criminal or expose the said person to moral, physical or psychological danger or the person's release would defeat the ends of justice and the Board shall record the reasons for denying the bail and circumstances that led to such a decision."

4. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that the Juvenile Justice Board as well as learned Sessions Judge have not taken into account the report of District Probation Officer. In the report, no adverse remark has been made pertaining to revisionist. It is also not mentioned in the report of District Probation Officer that in case revisionist is released on bail his release is likely to bring him into association with any known criminal or expose him to moral, physical or psychological danger or his release would defeat the ends of justice. Learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that the finding recorded by the Probation Officer is baseless and without any reason. Revisionist has no criminal history to his credit. Learned counsel for the revisionist has placed reliance upon a case law reported in [2018 (1) JIC 357 (All)] :

Rahul Patel Vs. State of U.P. & another, in which this Court in paragraph 8 has held as under:-

"8. The Apex Court in a catena of judgements has constantly held that gravity of the offence is not a ground to deny bail to a juvenile accused. Unless the conduct of the accused is such to indicate that in all likelihood, after being released on bail, the juvenile-accused will indulge into more crimes. If there are no imminent chances of his repeating the crime, bail to a juvenile should not be ordinarily refused."

5. Learned counsel for the revisionist has further relied upon the case law reported in [2018 (3) JIC 48 (All)] : Gurjeet Singh Vs. State of U.P. & another, wherein in paragraphs 17 & 18 the Hon'ble Court has held as under :-

"17. A perusal of that evidence would show that it cannot be said that the offence, in fact, has been committed so daringly and outwardly that enlarging the revisionist on bail would defeat the ends of justice. In this connection the guidance of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Om Prakash vs. State of Rajasthan and another, (2012) 5 SCC 201 may be quoted:

"3. Juvenile Justice Act was enacted with a laudable object of providing a separate forum or a special court for holding trial of children/juvenile by the juvenile court as it was felt that children become delinquent by force of circumstance and not by choice and hence they need to be treated with care and sensitivity while dealing and trying cases involving criminal offence. But when an accused is alleged to have committed a heinous offence like rape and murder or any other grave offence when he ceased to be a child on attaining the age of 18 years, but seeks protection of the Juvenile Justice Act under the ostensible plea of being a minor, should such an accused be allowed to be tried by a juvenile court or should he be referred to a competent court of criminal jurisdiction where the trial of other adult persons are held.

23. ..... Similarly, if the conduct of an accused or the method and manner of commission of the offence indicates an evil and a well planned design of the accused committing the offence which indicates more towards the matured skill of an accused than that of an innocent child, then in the absence of reliable documentary evidence in support of the age of the accused, medical evidence indicating that the accused was a major cannot be allowed to be ignored taking shelter of the principle of benevolent legislation like the Juvenile Justice Act, subverting the course of justice as statutory protection of the Juvenile Justice Act is meant for minors who are innocent law breakers and not accused of matured mind who uses the plea of minority as a ploy or shield to protect himself from the sentence of the offence committed by him."

18. There is no such finding or otherwise any material on record that the revisionist has committed the offence that indicates more towards the matured skill of an accused than an act of the child as held by their Lordships in Om Prakash (supra). There is nothing about the manner and method of the commission of the offence that indicates a well planned design. In fact, not much about the circumstances under which the alleged offence took place, where it was committed and by whom, has been dwelt upon. This matter is to be determined in the pending case before the Juvenile Justice Board.

There is, however, in the opinion of the Court no such ground disentitling the juvenile to bail under the proviso to Section 12(1) of the Act so as to keep him deprived of the company of his family which is the best school for any child. It is also not the case that it is a family of criminals and delinquents. The revisionist's family is a normal, average and happy family as the social investigation report would show, though they may not be an affluent family."

6. It is also submitted that the revisionist is in custody since 24.04.2019 and the trial may take some more time.

7. In view of the above circumstances, the revision is allowed. Impugned orders dated 20.09.2019, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1/Special Judge, POCSO Act, Ambedkar Nagar in Criminal Appeal No.37 of 2019 (Manish Kanaujia Vs. State of U.P. & another) and order dated 30.07.2019, passed by the Juvenile Justice Board, Ambedkar Nagar in Bail Application No. 22 of 2019, relating to Crime No. 65 of 2019, under Sections 363, 366, 376 IPC and Section 3/4 POCSO Act, Police Station Bhiti, District Ambedkar Nagar are hereby set aside. The bail application of the revisionist is allowed.

8. Let the revisionist (Manish Kanaujia) through his natural guardian/father Ram Bakash be released on bail in Crime No. 65 of 2019, under Sections 363, 366, 376 IPC & Section 3/4 POCSO Act, Police Station Bhiti, District Ambedkar Nagar on his father furnishing a personal bond with two sureties in the like amount to the satisfaction of the Juvenile Justice Board, Ambedkar Nagar, subject to the following conditions:

(i) that the natural guardian/father will furnish an undertaking that upon release on bail the juvenile will not be permitted to come into contact or association with any known criminal or be exposed to any moral, physical or psychological danger and further that the father will ensure that the juvenile will not repeat the offence.

(ii) that the father will further furnish an undertaking to the effect that the juvenile will be placed in a school and encouraged to his studies and not allow to waste his time in unproductive and mere recreational pursuits.

(iii) The revisionist and his father will report to the District Probation Officer on the first Monday of every month with effect from the first Monday of the month next after release from custody, and, if during any calendar month the first Monday falls on a holiday then on the following working day.

(iv) The District Probation Officer will keep strict vigil on the activities of the revisionist and regularly draw up his social investigation report that would be submitted to the Juvenile Justice Board, Ambedkar Nagar on such periodical basis as the Juvenile Justice Board determines.

1. State thru CBI Vs. Dawood Ibrahim Kaskar & Ors.,(2000) 10 SCC 438

(Delivered by Hon'ble Naheed Ara Moonis, J. & Hon'ble Anil Kumar-IX, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ajay Sengar, learned counsel for the petitioners, Shri Vijay Singh Sengar, learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No. 3 and learned Additional Government Advocate for the State.

2. By means of the instant writ petition, the petitioners have prayed for quashing of the impugned order dated 17.09.2019 passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Jalaun at Orai in Case Crime No. 00141 of 2019, under Sections 366, 506, 328, 354 IPC, Police Station Nadigaon, district Jalaun. It is further prayed that FIR in the aforesaid case may also be quashed.

3. The brief facts of the case are that on 30.5.2019, an FIR was lodged under Sections 363/366 IPC by respondent No. 3 in respect of the occurrence dated 29.5.2019 against the petitioners that they came on motorcycle and taken away his niece. The persons who had witnessed the occurrence, chased the accused persons and ultimately petitioner No. 1, Sher Singh was nabbed, who confessed that he along with Vivek have taken away the victim. He further disclosed that he had left both Vivek and victim at the railway station on his motorcycle.

4. The victim was recovered and her statement was recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. on 13.6.2019 before the concerned Magistrate wherein she has disclosed that accused Vivek and Sher Singh had taken her away on motorcycle at pistol point and threatened to kill her and her brother in case she makes hue and cry. They took her to Auraiya on motorcycle and therefrom she was taken to Delhi on roadways bus by Vivek Kumar. On the way to Delhi the prosecutrix was given cold drink and after consuming it, she became unconscious. She further disclosed that at Delhi Ranu, Gullu and Govind Singh also joined accused Vivek and they were planning to sell her. At Delhi accused Vivek Singh had molested her. She also stated that as to how she reached the police is not known to her as at Delhi accused-Vivek has given some intoxicant to her and thereafter she became unconscious.

5. On the basis of the aforesaid statement of the victim, the investigating officer added sections, 366, 506, 328, 342, 354 IPC in the aforesaid case.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the first information report lodged against the petitioners is absolutely false and concocted. There is no credible evidence with respect to the abduction of the niece of the first informant.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that learned Magistrate has passed the impugned order on the basis of the application moved by the investigating officer that petitioners are not cooperating with the investigation. It is also submitted that investigation is still continuing and no report has been submitted under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. and hence issuance of non-bailable warrant against the petitioner during the pendency of investigation is liable to be quashed. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court in State through CBI Vs. Dawood Ibrahim Kaskar and others, (2000) 10 SCC 438, wherein Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that power of issuance of non-bailable warrant can be exercised by the learned Magistrate for appearance of accused before the Court and not before the police in aid of investigation.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioners also submitted that on the strength of aforesaid order of Hon'ble Supreme Court, in similar matter, the coordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 30.3.2018 has granted interim order in favour of the accused in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 7833 of 2018.

9. Per contra, learned Additional Government Advocate has contended that impugned order has been passed by the learned Magistrate issuing non-bailable warrant after taking into account the fact that petitioners were absconding after lodging of the FIR since 16.8.2019 and the investigating officer has raided the house of the petitioners on ten dates for the arrest of the petitioners as indicated in the application moved by the investigating officer before the court concerned. Hence, under compelling circumstances the investigating officer has moved the application on 16.9.2019 requesting the court to issue non-bailable warrant and for proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C.

10. Learned Additional Government Advocate further submits that from the perusal of FIR, prima facie cognizable offence is made out against the petitioner. Hence, the FIR does not deserve to be quashed.

11. Perusal of the impugned order indicates that there was no interim order in favour of the petitioners and they were trying to prolong the investigation, who were involved in serious offence of kidnapping and hence learned Magistrate has rightly exercise his power issuing non-bailable warrant against them.

12. In Dawood Ibrahim Kaskar (Supra) Dawood Ibrahim Kaskar (Supra), police, after completing investigation, submitted composite charge sheet on 04.11.1993 before the designated Court against 198 persons showing 45 of them as absconders for commission of offence. However, on 11.11.1993, Government of India directed further investigation by the CBI. During the course of investigation, on 24.7.1995 CBI arrested one Mohd. Salim Mira Moiuddin Shaikh alias Salim Kutta, one of the absconders nominated in the charge sheet. In his confessional statement, he disclosed that respondent Nos. 2 to 7 therein had also taken active part in commission of conspiracy. On the basis of the confessional statement of Salim Kutta, police raided their hideouts to arrest them, but in vain. Thereafter CBI moved an application before the Designated Court for issuance of non-bailable warrant for their arrest, which was rejected by the Designated Court. In appeal Hon'ble Supreme Court held that warrant can be issued only for the production of the accused for appearance before the Court and not in aid of investigation.

13. In Dawood Ibrahim Kaskar (Supra) the investigation was completed and charge sheet submitted, whereas in the instant case, the investigation is still continuing and accused is avoiding arrest and not appearing before the police for getting his statement recorded and not cooperating with the investigation.

14. For better appreciation of the case of the petitioners it would be apposite to quote Section 73 Cr.P.C., which reads as under"

Warrant may be directed to any person:- (1) The Chief Judicial Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class may direct a warrant to any person within his local jurisdiction for the arrest of any escaped convict, proclaimed offender or of any person who is accused of a non-bailable offence and is evading arrest.

(2) Such person shall acknowledge in writing the receipt of the warrant and shall execute it if the person for whose arrest it was issued, is in, or enters on, any land or other property under his charge.

(3) When the person against whom such warrant is issued is arrested, he shall be made over with the warrant to the nearest police officer, who shall cause him to be taken before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, unless security is taken under Section 71."

15. From the perusal of the aforesaid provisions, it is apparent that if during investigation the investigating officer intends to arrest the person accused of the offence, he has to seek for and obtain a warrant of arrest from the Magistrate. The Magistrate is fully competent to issue non-bailable warrant to apprehend recalcitrant person who is accused of non-bailable offence and is evading arrest. In this case, the learned Magistrate has exercised his judicial discretion considering the gravity of the offence as well as taking into account the fact that petitioners are not cooperating with the investigation as successively the police had raided their premises so that they may be questioned in details regarding various facet of commission of crime. Hence, it was necessary to curtail their freedom in order to enable the investigating officer to proceed without any hindrance. Ordinarily the arrest is a part of process of investigation. As statement of the victim has been recorded showing the involvement of the petitioners in the commission of the crime, in the opinion of the investigating officer it was necessary to effectuate their arrest and in doing so he has committed no fault in moving before the Court to obtain non-bailable warrant or initiate proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C.

16. No doubt, personal liberty of a person is paramount and the Courts are not expected to issue warrant in casual manner without proper application of mind. In the instant case when the petitioners were not paying any heed to the summons, learned Magistrate has resorted to issuance of non-bailable warrant of arrest after being fully satisfied that the petitioners are avoiding to appear before the investigating officer intentionally. Instead of appearing before the investigating officer, it is the audacity of the petitioners to have approached before this court to quash the order of non-bailable warrant which is highly contemptible also.

17. Thus, we see no ground to quash the order dated 17.09.2019 passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Jalaun at Orai or to quash the impugned FIR in Case Crime No. 00141 of 2019, under Sections 366, 506, 328, 354 IPC, Police Station Nadigaon, district Jalaun. The writ petition sans any merit is accordingly dismissed.

18. However, it is provided that in case the petitioners appear before the court concerned within four weeks from today and apply for bail in the aforesaid case, their prayer for bail shall be considered and disposed of in accordance with law.

3. Romila Thapar & Ors. Vs. UOI & Ors.,W.P.No, 260 of 2018

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J. & Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Sri Rakesh Prasad has filed vakalatnama on behalf of the petitioner which is taken on record. He states that he has taken no objection from Ms. Mamta Sen earlier counsel for the petitioner.

2. Heard Sri Rakesh Prasad, learned counsel for the petitioner, Ms. Swati Agrawal, learned counsel appearing for respondent no. 6, Sri Gaurav Pratap Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

3. By means of present writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for quashing the order dated 20.7.2018 passed by respondent no. 2 transferring the investigation to the C.B.C.I.D. in case crime no. 217 of 2016 under sections 323, 376, 506 I.P.C. and 3/4 POCSO Act, police station Utraon, District Allahabad and case crime no. 255 of 2016 under sections 323, 504, 506, 452 I.P.C., police station Utraon, District Allahabad.

4. Brief facts of the case are that a First Information Report has been lodged by the petitioner against accused-respondent no. 6 Lal Chand Patel which was registered as case crime no. 217 of 2016 under sections 323, 376, 506 I.P.C. and 3/4 POCSO Act at police station Utraon, District Allahabad and after investigation, the police submitted charge-sheet against accused-respondent no. 6 on 13.10.2016 and the Additional District Judge-V has taken cognizance of the offence on 14.11.2016 and the trial is pending against him.

5. The argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner is that at the behest of accused-respondent no. 6 further investigation of the case crime no. 217 of 2016 under sections 323, 376, 506 I.P.C. and 3/4 POCSO Act, police station Utraon, District Allahabad as well as case crime no. 255 of 2016 under sections 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and 3/4 POCSO Act, police station Utraon, District Allahabad has been transferred to C.B.C.I.D. by respondent no. 2 Secretary U.P. Government, Lucknow by passing the impugned order dated 20.7.2018 though the civil police has already submitted charge-sheet against accused-respondent no. 6 in case crime no 217 of 2016 which was lodged by the petitioner for the aforesaid offence and the court below has taken cognizance on the same and summoned the accused-respondent no. 6 to face trial. He submits that as the accused-respondent no. 6 is avoiding the trial, a non bailable warrant has been issued against him by the trial court on 24.3.2017. He submits that the accused-respondent no. 6 had challenged the charge-sheet of case crime no. 217 of 2016 before this Court in Crl. Misc. 482 Cr.P.C. Application No. 11551 of 2017 which was disposed of by this Court directing the accused-respondent no. 6 to obtain bail. Thereafter, he preferred Crl. Misc. Writ Petition No. 8918 of 2017 which was also disposed of on 23.5.2017 in which this Court directed that the investigation of the case be carried out in a fair manner independently and police report be submitted within four months. He contended that another 482 Cr.P.C. Application No. 11551 of 2017 was filed by respondent no. 6 in which he prayed for staying of order dated 11.8.2017 issued under section 82 Cr.P.C. by the trial court in case crime no. 217 of 2016 for the aforesaid offence which too was disposed of by this Court on 24.8.2017 directing the applicant to surrender before the court concerned and apply for bail. He argued that against the order dated 18.4.2017 passed in Crl. Misc. 482 Cr.P.C. Application No. 11551 of 2017, the accused-respondent no. 6 preferred S.L.P.

(Criminal) No. 7367 of 2017 before the Apex Court which too was dismissed and accused-respondent no. 6 was given liberty to move regular bail before the trial court concerned, if so advised, but the accused-respondent no. 6 did not appear before the trial court and got the investigation of the case transferred by the State Government just to delay the trial. He urged that the impugned order which has been passed transferring the investigation of the case to C.B.C.I.D. shows that the respondent no. 6 has only alleged that he has been falsely implicated in the present case on account of some inimical relationship with S.I. Narendra Pratap. He next submitted that respondent no. 6 is named in the F.I.R. by the petitioner and further in the statement of the victim recorded under sections 164 Cr.P.C. it has been categorically stated that the respondent no. 6 has committed rape on her. The cognizance of the offence had already been taken by the trial court and the trial against the accused-respondent no. 6 is pending and the impugned order passed at the behest of the accused-respondent no. 6 is just to escape the criminal liability, hence the same be quashed.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent no. 6 has vehemently opposed the prayer for quashing of the impugned order and submitted that respondent no. 6 is a Journalist. He has protested against the illegal activities of S.I. Narendra Pratap as he in collusion of with the father of the victim was getting the victim married to one Pramod Patel though she was a minor girl. She further submitted that against the illegal activities, the respondent no. 6 and other villagers have demonstrated before the S.S.P. Allahabad and because of same he has been falsely implicated in the present case. She submits that respondent no. 6 had also moved an application before the court concerned under section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. for registering an F.I.R. against S.I. Narendra Pratap to which learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the said application under section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. moved by respondent no. 6 was rejected by the court concerned. She could not dispute the fact that charge-sheet has been submitted against the respondent no. 6 in case crime no. 217 of 2016 for the offence in question and the trial court had taken the cognizance on the same and trial is pending against him.

7. Considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

8. It is an admitted fact that an F.I.R. was lodged against respondent no. 6 under sections 323, 376, 506 I.P.C. and 3/4 POCSO Act registered as case crime no. 217 of 2016 on 20.7.2018 and charge-sheet has been submitted on which the court had taken cognizance and the trial is pending and when he failed to appear before the trial court non bailable warrant has been issued against respondent no. 6, who in turn has challenged the charge-sheet of case crime no. 217 of 2016 before this Court by filing a 482 Cr.P.C application which was disposed of directing him to appear before the competent court and obtain bail but he did not comply with the said order and challenged the same before the Apex Court by filing S.L.P. (Criminal) which too was dismissed with a direction to the respondent no. 6 to obtain regular bail. The act and conduct of respondent no. 6 goes to show that he is avoiding the trial of the present case on one pretext or the other. Moreover, the impugned order transferring the investigation of case crime

no. 217 of the 2016 and case crime no. 255 of 2016 shows that respondent no. 2 only consider the false implication of respondent no. 6 by the petitioner in case crime no. 217 of 2016 and had transferred the investigation. There appears to be no sound reason given by respondent no. 2 for transferring the investigation of the aforesaid cases. Moreover, the respondent no. 6, who is an accused has no right to choose the investigating agency as has been laid down by the Apex Court in catena of decisions such as Narmada Bai vs. State of Gujrat and others reported in 2011 (5) SCC 79. In para-64 of the said judgment, the Apex Court has observed as under:-

" 64..... It is trite law that accused persons do not have a say in the matter of appointment of an investigation agency. The accused persons cannot choose as to which investigation agency must investigate the alleged offence committed by them."

9. Further in the case of Sajiv Rajendra Bhatt vs. Union of India and others reported in 2016 (1) SCC 1, in para-68, the Apex Court has observed as under:-

"68. The accused has no right with reference to the manner of investigation or mode of prosecution. Similar is the law laid down by this Court in Union of India vs. W.N. Chadha, Mayawati v. Union of India, Dinubhai Boghabhai Solanki v. State of Gujrat, CBI v. Rajesh Gandhi, Comptition Commission of India v. SAIL and Janta Dal v. H.S. Choudhary."

10. Recently the Apex Court in the case of Romila Thapar and others vs. Union of India and others in Writ Petition (Criminal) No. 260 of 2018 decided on 28.09.2018 following its earlier judgment has observed in para-27 of the said judgment as under:-

" ..... it is clear that the consistent view of this Court is that the accused cannot ask for changing the Investigating Agency or to do investigation in a particular manner including for Court monitored investigation. .....".

11. In view of the above, the impugned order dated 20.7.2018 is hereby quashed.

12. The writ petition is dismissed.

13. The trial court is directed to proceed with the trial of the present case and conclude the same expeditiously.

Held, it is established criminal jurisprudence that in case of acquittal where the finding of acquittal is grounded and based on material on record the same need not be interfered by Appellate Court. May be that the other alternate view is possible, but the view that favours the accused would be preferred. For the reasons aforesaid, we don't find it reasonable and cogent to interfere with the judgement and order of acquittal dated 29.07.2017. Consequently, finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court is hereby affirmed by us.

1. Heard learned A.G.A. for the appellant- State of U.P. and perused the record as available on the file.

2. By way of instant Government Appeal the appellant (State) is seeking leave to appeal against the judgment and order of acquittal dated 29.07.2017 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.02, Etawah in concerned Special Case No.51 of 2011 (State of U.P. Vs. Rajveer) concerning case crime no.275 of 2011, under section 21/22 N.D.P.S. Act, Sessions Trial No.21 of 2012 (State of U.P. Vs. Bhupendra Singh, Sanjeev @ Sanju and Rajveer) arising out of Case Crime No.274 of 2011, under sections 147, 148, 149, 307 I.P.C., and Sessions Trial No.22 of 2012 (State of U.P. Vs. Bhupendra Singh) arising out of Case Crime No.276 of 2011, under section 25/27 Arms Act, P.S.- Bakewar, District-Etawah.

3. In all the aforesaid sessions trials charges were framed under the relevant provisions of the 21/22 N.D.P.S. Act, under sections 147, 148, 307 r/w 149 I.P.C. and under section 25/27 of the Arms Act and all the aforesaid accused/ respondents were acquitted of all the aforesaid charges framed against them.

4. For proper adjudication of this case the facts relevant as discernible from the record appear to be that some police inquiry followed after some tip off information was received by the police on 5.8.2011 that some miscreants have looted one Bolero Jeep, red colour No. MH 14 BC 6923 and in case checking is done the miscreants will be napped. This tip off information led to the aforesaid incident allegedly committed on Phuphoond crossing within police station Auraiya. The tip-off information was also submitted to the effect that driver of the vehicle had also been abducted. The eagle-1 and eagle-2 mobile vans of the police were asked to come on the Bakewar crossing. Whereupon the police personnel and the aforesaid eagle mobile police met on the Bakewar crossing, they consulted each other and made personal search of each other in order to ascertain whether any untoward incriminating material is in possession of the police party or not. After ensuring safety that no police personnel possesses any incriminating material all waited over there for sometime when some Bolero vehicle, red colour was seen coming towards Mahewa crossing. The police personnel asked by making signs to stop the vehicle but instead of stopping it, the driver tried to speed away when the vehicle was surrounded by the police on the spot and in the process certain miscreants got down from the vehicle and uttered words- "मारो सालों को नहीं तो पकडे जाओगे"- and several rounds of fire was opened on the spot by the accused upon the police party, however, no one was hurt in the firing and (after surrounding) the miscreants were napped by the police party around 00:20 in the night at the culvert of 'Baheda' canal. Two miscreants escaped from the scene. On inquiry being made from the apprehended accused three accused spelled their names as Bhupendra Singh s/o Arvind Singh Chauhan, Sanjeev @ Sanju s/o Bake Dayal Dohre and the third one named himself as Rajveer s/o Subedar Sengar. Rajveer also told that he is possessing some noxious powder which they used to administer upon victims and commit loot. Upon this information the accused Rajveer was offered choice to be searched by a gazetted officer but Rajveer expressed confidence in the police party itself and willing to be searched by the police. Therefore search was made whereby some noxious powder weighing approximately 110 gms was recovered from the possession of the accused Rajveer and upon search being carried out inside the vehicle one person whose hands and legs were tied was found lying in between the space the first and the second row of the seat of the vehicle. Upon being asked this person named himself Krishna Murari Gupta @ Kallu s/o Rajendra Kumar Gupta resident of district Jalaun. He claimed himself to be the driver of the vehicle and to have been administered noxious powder which was kept by the miscreants and he was abducted and loot was committed upon him. Consequently, the formalities were completed by the police party on the spot and arrest and seizure memo was prepared. The informant Rakesh Bharti, the then S.H.O. of police station Bakevar lodged a written report Ex. Ka-1 at case crime no.274/ 2011, under sections 147, 148, 149, 307 I.P.C. and as case crime no.276/ 2011, under section 25/ 27 Arms Act and as case crime no.275/ 2011, under section 21/22 N.D.P.S. Act. Consequently, the relevant entries were noted down at the relevant Check F.I.R. and relevant entry was made in the concerned G.D. Investigation of the aforesaid cases was entrusted to S.I. Jagmohan Singh who prepared the site plan and recorded the statement of various witnesses and after completing the investigation filed charge-sheet against Bhupendra Singh, Sanjeev @ Sanju and Rajveer, under sections 147, 148, 149, 307 I.P.C. and under section 25/ 27 Arms Act concerning case crime no.276/ 2011 and charge-sheet against Bhupendra Singh, under section 21/ 22 N.D.P.S. Act concerning case crime no.275/ 2011. Pursuant thereto, the matter was committed to the court of sessions where all the accused were heard on the point respective charges. Accordingly, charges were framed against the accused, the same were read over and explained to them but they denied the charges. They opted to be tried whereupon prosecution produced in all four witnesses P.W.1 is the informant Rakesh Bharti, P.W.2 is constable Sonelal Mathur, P.W.3 is constable Kamlendra Singh, P.W.4 is S.I. Jagmohan Singh- the investigating officer. Apart from above witnesses the driver of the Bolero Jeep was examined as C.W.1 (Krishna Murari Gupta). Apart from that the prosecution also proved various documents which have been exhaustively referred in the judgement of the trial court and need not be repeated at this stage by us. After recording statement of the aforesaid witnesses, the testimony for the prosecution was closed and the statement of the accused was recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C., all the accused claimed to have been falsely implicated in this case.

5. No evidence whatsoever was led by the defence. Consequently, the matter was considered on its merit and the aforesaid judgement of acquittal was passed on 29.7.2017. Resultantly, this appeal.

6. Claim is that the judgement and order of acquittal dated 29.7.2017 is erroneous and perverse in the face of the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court to the ambit by observing that the case of the prosecution was not proved beyond doubt, whereas the fact is that 110 gms of diazepam was recovered from the possession of the accused Rajveer and the informant P.W.1 himself has proved the fact of police encounter and the consequent arrest and recovery from the accused and the case is well proved under section 307 I.P.C. Thus the case of firing on the police party was proved beyond doubt but the trial court did not believe the same and based on conjectural analogy of evidence recorded whimsical finding on fact of police encounter and the firing done by the miscreants. It appears that the driver C.W.1, Krishna Murari Gupta has been won over by the accused and he did not come out with the truthful version of the incident though crime was committed in dare devil manner by the accused against him by abducting him.

7. We have considered the submissions so made and the entirety of the case apart from the testimony of the witnesses. No doubt the allegations are specific but insofar as the compliance of the relevant provisions of the N.D.P.S. Act regarding search and ensuring safe upkeep of the recovered material/ contraband is concerned the same was not properly done and not duly complied. Thus in view of the violation of specific provisions of the N.D.P.S. Act the case of the prosecution is not proved within the four corners of charge under section 21/ 22 of the N.D.P.S. Act. Similarly, while we scrutinize carefully the testimony of the driver of the vehicle as C.W.1 we arrive at conclusion that the very commission of the offence has been denied by him. Insofar as the act of abduction of driver of the Bolero Jeep and loot of Jeep (Bolero) is concerned, the entire incident as per the testimony of C.W.1 is placed under dark shadow of doubt and these facts become opaque. He has not supported the prosecution version regarding any loot having been committed by the accused against him. This being the central theme, the trial court was justified while it disbelieved the entire story and acquitted all the accused of all charges. No other best alternate view of the alleged occurrence is possible. It cannot be said from any angle that the finding of acquittal is not based on material on record.

8. It is established criminal jurisprudence that in case of acquittal where the finding of acquittal is grounded and based on material on record the same need not be interfered by Appellate Court. May be that the other alternate view is possible, but the view that favours the accused would be preferred. For the reasons aforesaid, we don't find it reasonable and cogent to interfere with the judgement and order of acquittal dated 29.07.2017. Consequently, finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court is hereby affirmed by us.

9. In the final count leave to appeal is refused and this appeal loses its force and the same is dismissed.

Government Appeal No. 2949 of 2003

State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus
Dharmendra Singh & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
A.G.A.

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Criminal Law-Indian Penal Code-Ss. 498A & 304-B-Leave to appeal-against order of acquittal-no independent corroboration found-testimony not trustworthy-no evidence found-presumption of innocence-no latent or patent infirmity-in the judgment of the Trial Court-Appeal Dismissed.

B. Held, it would be relevant to take note of fact that we after careful scrutiny of the impugned judgment discover no perversity in the judgment of trial court. We are fully conscious of fact that presumption of innocence is available to the accused even up to this appellate stage which got strengthened by order of acquittal in favour of accused by the trial court. Thus the view taken by the trial court in recording finding of acquittal is just and reasonable. Even if other view is possible it would not be proper to substitute our own view in place of finding recorded by the trial court. This approach is to be avoided and the view as taken by the trial court has got to be affirmed. Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that while dealing with an appeal against acquittal the court should keep in view the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused as the same gets fortified by his acquittal if the view taken by the trial court is well grounded and based on material on record. We are, accordingly, not inclined to interfere with the judgment and the order of acquittal recorded by the trial Judge in respect of the accused-respondents. The instant appeal is liable to be dismissed. Leave to appeal is thus refused. Accordingly, the instant appeal is dismissed.

Govt. Appeal dismissed. (E-8)

2. Kanhaiya Lal and others Vs. State of Rajasthan AIR 2013 SC 1940

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Kumar Mishra-I, J.
Hon'ble Gautam Chowdhary, J.)

1. Heard learned A.A.G. for the State-appellant and perused the material on record.

2. The application has been filed by the State-appellant with the prayer that leave to appeal may be granted against the judgement and order dated 23.01.2003 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Agra, in Sessions Trial No.925 of 1999, State Vs. Dharmendra and others arising out of Case Crime No.28 of 1999, under Sections 498A, 304B, 201 IPC, Police Station Basoni, District Agra whereby the accused-respondents Dharmendra Singh, Hawaldar Singh and Chameli Devi have been acquitted of charge under Sections 498A, 304B I.P.C. whereas accused-respondents Dharmendra Singh, Raj Kumar, Ravindra Singh, Santosh and Nand Kishore have been acquitted of charge under Section 201 I.P.C.

3. The prosecution version, as is apparent from the impugned judgment makes it evident that the written report was lodged by the informant Promod Kumar against the present accused-respondents under Section 498, 304B, 201 I.P.C. alleging therein that he got his sister Somwati wedded Dharmendra Singh on 11.07.1994. In the marriage, he gifted Rs.40000/-, television, stitching machine, fan, double bed, sofaset, gas oven, wrist watch, wall watch and utensils etc. After passage of time, a scooter was demanded from in-laws side. His sister was subjected to cruelty on account of non-fulfillment of the demand of scooter. Therefore, the informant's sister being perplexed, wrote a letter to her father. On receipt of the letter, when informant's father went there, she told the entire incident who took her to his home and got her educated up to class XII. In the meanwhile, though the in-laws side came to take his sister giving assurance that there will be no problem but his sister was subject to cruelty because of non-fulfillment of demand of scooter, the oral as well as written information whereof was given by his sister. Thereafter, on 27.06.199, Dharmendra, Hawaldar Singh and Chameli wife of Hawaldar Singh murdered his sister and caused disappearance of the body of his sister. This report is Ext. Ka-5.

4. Record further reveals that contents of the written information were taken down in the concerned Check FIR at Case Crime No.28 of 1999 under Sections 498A, 304B, 201 I.P.C., at Police Station Basoni, District Agra. Check FIR is Ext. Ka-7. On the basis of entries so made in the check F.I.R., a case was registered against the accused-respondents in the relevant G.D. at aforesaid case crime number at Police Station Basoni, under aforesaid sections of I.P.C. against accused-respondents. General diary copy is Ext. Ka-8.

5. The investigation ensued and the Investigating Officer took note of all materials, completed investigation and filed charge sheet (Ext. Ka-11) against the accused-respondents under Section 498A, 304B, 201 I.P.C., whereupon the case was committed to the court of Sessions for trial.

6. In the trial, accused-respondent Dharmendra Singh was charged for offence under sections 498A, 304B, 201 I.P.C., accused-respondents Hawaldar Singh and Chameli Devi were charged for offence under Sections 498A and 304B I.P.C. whereas accused-respondents Raj Kumar, Ravindra Singh, Santosh and Nand Kishore were charged for offence under Sections 201 I.P.C. Charge was read over and explained to them, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. The prosecution in an endeavour to establish the above charge examined Pramod Kumar PW-1, Hem Singh PW-2, Smt. Shanti PW-3, Head Constable Ramveer Sharma PW-4, and the Investigating Officer, Ghanshyam Chaurasiya PW-5 besides proving relevant papers which have been elaborately dealt with in the impugned judgment by the trial court.

8. No more evidence was adduced on behalf of the prosecution. Therefore, evidence for the prosecution was closed and statement of the accused-respondents was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein though they admitted the solemnization of marriage of the informant's sister Somwati with Dharmendra Singh but they denied demand of dowry and their involvement in the incident by saying that they have been falsely implicated in this case. The defence produced Chhotey Singh DW-1 and Dr. Birendra Kumar Garg DW-2. Thereafter, evidence for the defence was also closed and the case was posted for arguments.

9. The trial court after churning the entire facts and evidence recorded findings to the effect that testimony of the prosecution witnesses is full of contradictions and discrepancies and the same is not credible evidence. Testimony of the prosecution witnesses does not inspire confidence. Therefore, the trial court acquitted accused-respondents from all the charges. Hence this government appeal.

10. Learned A.A.G. for the State has submitted that as per charge and circumstances stated, the first information report was lodged by the informant on 01.07.1999 regarding dowry death being caused to the victim Somwati who was wedded to Dharmendra Singh on 11.07.1994. The basic allegation was regarding non-fulfillment of demand of dowry. It being so, there was ample proof of dowry death having been taken place within seven years of marriage. Factum of unnatural death, cruelty being perpetrated by the in-laws of the deceased was established, thus all the ingredients enshrined under Section 304B I.P.C. were very much attracted in this case still the trial court working on whims and conjectures by erroneous analogy and appraisal of facts and evidence on record recorded acquittal of the aforesaid accused which is not justified in the eye of law, for the reason that the burden of proof was primarily on the prosecution to the extent that the factum of the marriage, demand of dowry, perpetration of cruelty, and unnatural death was required to be proved which elements were proved reasonably and satisfactorily before the trial court. However, the trial court of its own supplemented reasoning which was not admissible and applicable to the scattered facts and circumstances of the case.

11. We have considered the aforesaid submissions and perused the judgment impugned in this appeal. The moot point involved for consideration in this appeal is as to whether the trial court based its finding of acquittal without any material?

12. In this context, we find that the accused have been acquitted of charges levelled against them. The core contention raised on behalf of the accused-respondents is whether all the ingredients as contained under Section 304B I.P.C. were established and proved beyond reasonable doubt. In that regard, there is specific finding primarily on the point of unnatural death being caused to the deceased Somwati which point has not been proved satisfactorily as the evidence on record very much suggests finding arrived by the trial court.

13. Similarly, the point of demand of dowry and perpetration of cruelty has not been established by the prosecution. As per evidence, the demand raised from the deceased and her family was specifically regarding a scooter. The trial court has exhaustively dealt with the aforesaid aspect of the case and also taken note of several guidelines issued in several cases by Hon'ble Apex Court and these citations were discussed in paragraph no.11 of the judgment impugned in this appeal.

14. As per the settled law, the testimony of the prosecution witnesses regarding commission of offence is sufficient for convicting a person but in case where doubt is generated because of testimony and circumstances of the case regarding trustworthiness of the prosecution witnesses then right course open is to have some independent corroboration, which is missing in this case. In this regard we are in agreement with the finding so recorded by the trial court.

15. Before parting with judgment, it would be relevant to take note of fact that we after careful scrutiny of the impugned judgment discover no perversity in the judgment of trial court. We are fully conscious of fact that presumption of innocence is available to the accused even up to this appellate stage which got strengthened by order of acquittal in favour of accused by the trial court. Thus the view taken by the trial court in recording finding of acquittal is just and reasonable. Even if other view is possible it would not be proper to substitute our own view in place of finding recorded by the trial court. This approach is to be avoided and the view as taken by the trial court has got to be affirmed. This rationale/principle has been enunciated in detail in Bhadragiri Venketa Ravi Vs. Pubic Prosecutor High Court of A.P., Hyderabad 2013 (4) Supreme 450.

16. Similarly, in Kanhaiya Lal and others Vs. State of Rajasthan AIR 2013 SC 1940, Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that while dealing with an appeal against acquittal the court should keep in view the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused as the same gets fortified by his acquittal if the view taken by the trial court is well grounded and based on material on record.

17. In view of the discussion made hereinabove, we see no infirmity latent or patent in the judgment of acquittal recorded by the trial court. We are, accordingly, not inclined to interfere with the judgment and the order of acquittal recorded by the trial Judge in respect of the accused-respondents. The instant appeal is liable to be dismissed. Leave to appeal is thus refused.

18. Accordingly, the instant appeal is dismissed.

19. Let a copy of this order be certified to the court concerned.

Held:- The detenu must be allowed the facility of appearing before the Board through a legal practitioner. If it is denied to him then a clear case of breach of Article 14 is made out in favour of detenu.(Para-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Bala Krishna Narayana, J.)

1. The argument of this case was concluded on 19.09.2018. We then made the following order :-

"Heard Sri Daya Shankar Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Jitendra Prasad Mishra, learned counsel for Union of India, Smt. Manju Thakur, learned A.G.A.-I and Sri J. K. Upadhyay, learned A.G.A. for the State.

We will give reasons later. But we are making the operative order here and now.

This habeas corpus writ petition is allowed. The impugned detention order dated 13.04.2018 passed by respondent no. 2, District Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar detaining the petitioner u/s 3 (2) of the National Security Act, 1980 is hereby set-aside.

The petitioner Nazar Quraishi (detenu) is set at liberty."

2. Here are the reasons :- In this petition, the validity of the detention of petitioner Najar Quraishi (detenu) has been challenged. He has been detained by the District Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar by an order dated 13.04.2018 made under Section 3 (2) of the National Security Act, 1980 (hereinafter referred to as the NSA).

3. The impugned order of preventive detention was passed against the petitioner while he was confined to District Jail, Muzaffar Nagar on account of his being accused in following cases namely :-

(a) Case Crime No. 1175 of 2017 u/s 3/5/8 of U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act.

(b) Case Crime No. 1176 of 2017 u/s 147, 148, 149, 307, 323, 332, 336, 353, 427, 201, 224 I.P.C. & Section 7 of Criminal Law Amendment Act.

(c) Case Crime No. 2663 of 2017 u/s 429 I.P.C. & Section 3/11 of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act.

(d) Case Crime No. 118 of 2018 u/s 3/5/8 of U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act & Section 3/11 of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act.

(e) Case Crime No. 151 of 2018 u/s 3/5/8 of U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act & Section 3/11 of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act.

(f) Case Crime No. 497 of 2017 u/s 382 I.P.C.

4. Upon being served with the impugned detention order, the petitioner filed representations before the detaining authority, State Government, Central Government as well as the Advisory Board. The Advisory Board approved the detention order.

5. The only ground on which the learned counsel for the petitioner has challenged the impugned detention order is that the petitioner was not given any opportunity by the Advisory Board to be represented through a legal practitioner/counsel of his choice before the Board so as to enable him to place his case effectively before the Board. He next submitted that the Board had allowed participation and assistance of officials at the time of hearing of case against the petitioner and in view of the above, it was all the more necessary rather obligatory on the part of the Board to have granted opportunity to the petitioner to engage any legal practitioner to have represented his case. He further submitted that since the petitioner was denied the opportunity to represent his case effectively before the Board, the impugned order is not legally sustainable and deserves to be quashed on this ground alone. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the petitioner has place reliance on two decisions of this Court in A. K. Roy V. Union of India reported in (1982) 1 SCC 271 : 1982 SCC (Cri) 152 and Choith Nanikram Harchandani V. State of Maharashtra and Others with Bittu Choith Harchandani V. State of Maharashtra and Others reported in (2018) 2 Supreme Court Cases (Cri) 403, (2015) 17 Supreme Court Cases 688.

6. In reply, learned counsel for the respondents supported the impugned order and prayed for its upholding, contending that the petitioner is not entitled to any indulgence. Moreover, no prayer was made by him before the Advisory Board to allow him to be represented through a counsel and hence, the impugned detention order is not liable to be set-aside on the aforesaid submissions made by the learned counsel for the petitioner.

7. We have heard learned counsel for the parties present and very carefully scanned the impugned order and the grounds of detention and also the counter affidavits filed on behalf of the respondent nos. 1 to 4 in this writ petition and the law reports cited before us by the learned counsel for the petitioner.

8. The issue is to whether the detenu has right to appear through a legal practitioner in the proceedings before the Advisory Board remains no more res integra and stands settled by the decision of the Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in A. K. Roy (supra). Y.V. Chandrachud, C.J. Speaking for the Bench succinctly dealt with this issue and held in para 93 as under : (SCC pp. 334-35)

"93. We must therefore hold, regretfully though, that the detenu has no right to appear through a legal practitioner in the proceedings before the Advisory Board. It is, however, necessary to add an important caveat. The reason behind the provisions contained in Article 22 (3) (b) of the Constitution clearly is that a legal practitioner should not be permitted to appear before the Advisory Board for any party. The Constitution does not contemplate that the detaining authority or the Government should have the facility of appearing before the Advisory Board with the aid of a legal practitioner but that the said facility should be denied to the detenu. In any case, that is not what the Constitution says and it would be wholly inappropriate to read any such meaning into the provisions of Article 22. Permitting the detaining authority or the Government to appear before the Advisory Board with the aid of a legal practitioner or a legal adviser would be in breach of Article 14, if a similar facility is denied to the detenu. We must therefore make it clear that if the detaining authority or the Government takes the aid of a legal practitioner or a legal adviser before the Advisory Board, the detenu must be allowed the facility of appearing before the Board through a legal practitioner. We are informed that officers of the Government in the departments concerned often appear before the Board and assist it with a view to justifying the detention orders. If that be so, we must clarify that the Boards should not permit the authorities to do indirectly what they cannot do directly; and no one should be enabled to take shelter behind the excuse that such officers are not 'legal practitioners' or legal advisers. Regard must be had to the substance and not the form since, especially, in matters like the proceedings of Advisory Boards, whosoever assists or advises on facts or law must be deemed to be in the position of a legal adviser. We do hope that Advisory Boards will take care to ensure that the provisions of Article 14 are not violated in any manner in the proceedings before them. Serving or retired Judges of the High Court will have no difficulty in understanding this position. Those who are merely 'qualified to be appointed' as High Court Judges may have to do a little homework in order to appreciate it."

9. Similarly by the Apex Court in the case of Choith Nanikram Harchandani (supra) in paragraph 15 as held as hereunder :-

"In our considered opinion, since the detaining authority was represented by the officers at the time of hearing of the petitioner's case before the Advisory Board, the petitioner too was entitled to be represented through legal practitioner. Since no such opportunity was afforded to the petitioner though claimed by him, he was denied an opportunity of a fair hearing before the Advisory Board, which eventually resulted in passing an adverse order."

10. Applying the aforesaid principle to the facts of this case, we find in paragraph 20 of the writ petition in which the petitioner has categorically stated on oath that while the detaining authority was represented by officials, by legal advisers and legal officers before the Advisory Board, the petitioner was not allowed to be represented through legal practitioner despite request made by him before the Board in this regard. The petitioner was thus, denied the opportunity of a fair hearing before the Advisory Board which eventually resulted in passing of adverse order against him.

11. The reply to the contents of the paragraph 20 of the writ petition having been given by the respondent no. 2 in paragraph 22 of his counter affidavit in which he has failed to categorically deny the contents of the paragraph 20 of the writ petition and has merely deposed that the petitioner was heard before the Advisory Board.

12. In paragraph 9 of the counter affidavit sworn by one Padmakar Shukla, Under Secretary, Home (Confidential) Department, U.P. Civil Secretariat, Lucknow and filed on behalf of the State of U.P., has merely stated that the petitioner was informed by the State Government vide letter dated 03.05.2018 that he could attend the hearing before the U.P. Advisory Board, Lucknow along with his next friend (non-advocate).

13. Thus, there is no denial in the counter affidavit of either of the respondents that at the time of hearing of the case before the U.P. Advisory Board, Lucknow, officers of the detaining authority were present and heard in the course of proceedings.

14. This infirmity being fatal renders the impugned order legally unsustainable as held in A. K. Roy (supra) :-

"If the detaining authority or the Government takes the aid of a legal practitioner or legal adviser before the Advisory Board, the detenu must be allowed the facility of appearing before the Board through a legal practitioner. If it is denied to him then a clear case of breach of Article 14 is made out in favour of detenu. Since the expression "legal practitioner" was interpreted in A. K. Roy (supra) to include even the officers of the Government when they appear before the Board to assist the proceedings against the detenu, the detenu too has to be provided with equal facility of appearing before the Board through legal practitioner."

15. In view of the above, the impugned order cannot be sustained and is liable to be set-aside.

16. These are the reasons upon which we had set-aside the impugned order dated 13.04.2018 passed by the respondent no. 2, District Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar.

B. Held, Writ jurisdiction is a discretionary jurisdiction and a writ of certiorari would not ordinarily be issued as a matter of course. It has been settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that an order impugned does substantial justice between the parties, even if it does not strictly follow niceties of law, may still not be set aside on mere showing of irregularity in procedure, or want of jurisdiction. Reference can be made to the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of J.P. Builders V. A. Ramadas Rao, Civil Appeal Nos.9821-9822 of 2010 decided on 22.11.2010. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has also held in the case of Chandra Singh and Others Vs. State of Rajasthan and Another reported in 2003 (6)

SCC 545, that an order which appears to be illegal, may not be set aside and writ of certiorari may not issue only to revive an illegal order as it would be opposed to public policy. In case, this Court grants the prayer made by the petitioner and quashes the order dated 29.11.2019, on the ground that the petitioner was not heard, it would only revive an illegal order of allotment of Fair Price Shop to the petitioner on 19.05.2018 as the petitioner has been found to be ineligible to even put forward his candidature so long as his brother Shri Malendra Tewari remained sitting Gram Pradhan of the village concerned.

8. Chandra Singh and Others Vs. State of Rajasthan and Another reported in 2003 (6) SCC 545

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

2. This petition has been filed by the petitioner challenging the order dated 29.11.2019 passed by the opposite party no.2-Dy. Commissioner (Food), Ayodhya Division, Ayodhya, in Appeal No.16 of 2019, under Section 13 (1) of U.P. Essential Commodities (Regulation of Sale and Distribution Control), Order, 2016, hereinafter referred to as the 2016 order.

3. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that he is a Resident of Village Dewai, Post Dayodhi, Block & Tehsil Sohawal, District Ayodhya, and he participated in the selection process for appointment of Fair Price Shop License for the said Gram Sabha. Agenda was circulated on 11.03.2018 for an open general meeting held on 04.04.2018. The meeting was held on 04.04.2018 in the presence of Observers appointed by the opposite party nos.5 & 6-i.e. the Assistant Development Officer, Panchayat and Assistant Development Officer (ST) and two Sub Inspectors of the concerned police station. The petitioner and one Ram Bhawan had putforward their candidature. Ram Bhawan raised an objection to the candidature of the petitioner on the ground that the petitioner is the brother of Village Pradhan and thus ineligible. The petitioner submitted that he was living separately and his family has been given a separate page in the Family Register/Parivar Register of the village concerned. The Candidature of the petitioner was accepted and he was recommended in the said meeting of the Gram Sabha by a Resolution dated 04.04.2018 The matter was sent to the S.D.M. who placed the same before Tehsil Level Committee where again the objection of Ram Bhawan was considered regarding ineligibility of the petitioner, the petitioner was thereafter allotted the Fair Price Shop of the village Dewai. The order of allotment dated 19.05.2018 clearly stated that the objections raised by Ram Bhawan was found to be inappropriate in view of legal advice given by the DGC (Civil), Faizabad, with regard to the applicability of Government Order dated 03.07.1990.

4. The opposite party no.7 one Prem Kumar being aggrieved by the order dated 19.05.2018 filed an Appeal before the Commissioner and it was registered as Appeal No.16 of 2019 under Section 13 of the 2016 order.

5. It has been submitted that after filing of the Appeal, although the petitioner was arrayed as Respondent, no notice was issued to him and he was not heard. The opposite party no.7 had raised two grounds in the Appeal one relating to the Coram of the open general meeting of the Gram Sabha held on 04.04.2018 and the second related to ineligibility of the petitioner under the Government Order dated 03.07.1990. It has been submitted that the opposite party no.7 had no locus to file the delayed Appeal, and Appellate Authority has arbitrarily allowed the Appeal by the order dated 29.11.2019.

6. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the finding recorded by the Appellate Authority regarding the Government Order dated 03.07.1990 and Government Order dated 17.08.2002 are misconceived, as the opposite party no.2 has not considered the fact that the Parivar Register showed the petitioner to be living separately and the report of the concerned Revenue Officials also showed the petitioner to be living separately from his brother who was the sitting Gram Pradhan. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also stated vehemently that the petitioner was not heard by the Appellate Authority at all and the appellant Prem Kumar had no locus to file the Appeal.

7. Learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondents has stated that under Paragraph 13 (1) of the 2016 Order, any person aggrieved against the allotment, suspension or cancellation of Fair Price Shop may file an Appeal. The opposite party no.7 was the resident of Gaon Sabha and a Card Holder entitled for receiving the benefits of essential commodities to be distributed from the Fair Price Shop of the village concerned. He had thus locus to file the Appeal.

8. It has also been submitted by the learned Standing Counsel that the order passed by the Appellate Authority is on the whole just, as it is based on the law as declared by this Court in its various judgments regarding the definition of "FAMILY" and "HOUSEHOLDS".

9. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties this Court has gone through the order impugned. It is evident therefrom that two grounds were taken with regard to the challenge of the allotment order dated 19.05.2018 by the appellant therein. Firstly, that the open general meeting held on 04.04.2018 of the Gram Sabha concerned had not been held in accordance with the Rules for holding such meeting. It was found from a perusal of record summoned by the Appellate Authority that no Agenda was circulated publicly as no copy of the Agenda Notice was present in the file. Moreover, the voting was allegedly done by raising of hands but in the recommendation/proposal of the Gaon Sabha there was no mention that who raised hand in favour of Ram Bhawan and who raised hand in favour of the petitioner-Raghvendra Tewari. The open general meeting was held against Rule 32 of the U.P. Panchayat Rules framed under the Act. The Appellate Authority relied upon the judgment rendered by this Court reported in 2016 (1) 33 RD 46 to make an observations with regard to the illegality of the procedure adopted in holding the open general meeting dated 04.04.2018.

10. The Appellate Authority has also gone through the copies of the two pages of the Parivar Register filed at Page nos. 58 and 60 of the lower court record, and found therefrom that Raghvendra Tewari was the real brother of the sitting Gram Pradhan Shri Malvendra Tewari. The report of the Revenue Officials stated that they both lived in the same house. The petitioner Raghvendra Tewari was found ineligible in terms of Paragraph 4.7 of the Government Order dated 03.07.1990 and in terms of the Provisions of Government Order No.2715/29-6-2002-162-SAA/ 2001 dated 17.08.2002. The appointment of the petitioner was found to have been made against the settled position in law as given in judgments of the High Court reported in 2019 (142) RD 553 and 2019 (37) LCD 757. The order dated 19.05.2018 was set aside and a direction was issued to the S.D.M. Sohawal, to get a meeting held of the Gram Sabha Dewai within a period of two months for appointment of a new Fair Price Shop Licensee.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner has stated at the bar that after this order was issued by the Appellate Authority, order was passed by the S.D.M. Sohawal, Ayodhya on 18.12.2019, cancelling the Fair Price Shop License of the petitioner and attaching the Ration Cards to the link shop of one Bhawan Kumar of Gram Panchayat Theyuanga, Development Block Sohawal and a direction was issued to the Block Development Officer, Sohawal to get an open general meeting of the Gram Sabha concerned held and to ensure recommendation is made for allotment of Fair Price Shop to some other candidate in accordance with the provisions of the new Government Order dated 05.08.2019.

12. A copy of the order dated 18.12.2019 has been produced before this Court by the learned counsel for the petitioner which is kept on record. From a perusal thereof, it is evident that the same has been passed as a consequence to the order passed by the Appellate Authority allowing the Appeal of the opposite party no.7.

13. With regard to the locus of the opposite party no.7, who filed the Appeal, it has rightly been submitted by the learned Standing Counsel that any person aggrieved by an order of allotment can file an Appeal in this case. The opposite party no.7 was a resident of the village concerned and a Ration Card Holder. The objection of the petitioner regarding the maintainability of the Appeal on ground of locus is, therefore, misconceived.

14. With regard to ground taken by Appellate authority regarding ineligibility of the petitioner, this Court finds that the judgment rendered by full Bench of this Court in Indrapal Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Others reported in 2014 (123) RD 504, has clearly held that a brother, even though living separately, would still come within the definition of family, and would, therefore, be subject to the disqualification under Paragraph 4.7 of the Government Order dated 03.07.1990 as further explained in the Government Order dated 17.08.2002 and the Government Order dated 17.05.2010.

15. A Division Bench in the case of Ram Murat Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 2006 (5) ADJ 396, had taken a different view that although came within the definition of family his license could be cancelled only in the event if it was found that he had been dining together and had been staying under the same roof.

16. The Full Bench did not appreciate the observations made by the Division Bench in Ram Murat, with regard to the definition of family members including a brother but the brother not being ineligible as he did not dine together nor stayed under the same roof as the sitting Pradhan. The Full Bench of this Court made the following observations in Paragraph Nos.49 to 53 of the report.

"49. The term 'family' and 'household' are capable of wide and varying meaning and same cannot be left to be assigned a meaning in its general terms and same has to be interpreted in reference to the context it has been used keeping in view the overall object and purpose sought to be achieved.

50. The question as to whether incumbents are living together and are dining together shall always essentially be question of fact always giving a room to an incumbent to handle the situation and manipulate the situation and in order to remove all the doubts to be more precise in the matter of appointment of an agent a clear cut categorical policy decision has been taken at the first instance that Pradhan/Up-pradhan and their relatives so specified cannot be appointed as agents and secondly when Pradhan/Up-pradhan or such category of relatives in case they are elected as Pradhan or Up-pradhan, then his/her agency in question has to be terminated. The State has deliberately and intentionally defined "family" in the said context so that there is no element of doubt left on the spot that such category of incumbents who happen to be the blood relations and relations on account of marriage and also on account of dining and messing together on being elected, then the near and dear one will have to lose his/her fair price shop as there would be conflict of interest. In the definition of family there are blood relations plus relations which has been developed on account of marriage having taken place due to social order plus members who are residing and dining together, whereas the definition of household keeps within its fold, the one who normally eat food prepared in the same kitchen. All the incumbents who fall within the definition of family may or may not be a member of household, in such a situation and in this background, the State having the absolute authority to formulate the policy for fixing the terms and conditions of appointment of agent as well as the terms and conditions for disqualification of agent the definition of family has to be seen in the said context and "household" has to be read in the context of issuance of ration card and in no other context under the scheme of things provided for. In the matter of according of agency and in the matter of incurring disqualification on relative being elected as Pradhan or Up-pradhan, there is no escape route and agency has to be cancelled.

51. Accordingly, this Court is of the view that there is no conflict whatsoever in between the provisions of Clause 2 (o) Clauses 30 and 31 of U.P. Scheduled Commodities Distribution Order, 2004 vis.a.vis with the definition of "family" as given in Government Order dated 3rd July, 1990 paragraph 4.7 and the Division Bench in Ram Murat's case 2006 (5) ADJ 396, defining the word "family" as given in Government Order dated 3rd July, 1990, Paragraph 4.7 lays down the correct law, even after enforcement of Control Order 2004, except to the extent of introducing concept of joint residence and joint kitchen in reference of Brother, whereas the definition of family is clearly inclusive of brother also and the definition of family as given in Clause 2 (o) of U.P. Scheduled Commodities Distribution Order, 2004 in no way would override the definition of family given in Paragraph 4.7 of the Government Order dated 3rd July, 1990 and the said definition has to be read in the context of issuance of ration cards and nothing beyond the same.

52. The Full Bench proceeds to clarify that in the case of Ram Murat (supra) the brother has been taken outside the scope of the defined family members as it has been mentioned therein that agency would be cancelled only in the event if brother is found that he has been dining together and has been staying under the same roof.

53. The Full Bench does not approve of the aforementioned portion of judgment in the case of Ram Murat (supra), inasmuch as, it is running contrary to the spirit of the Government Order dated 3rd July, 1990 and the purport and intention of Government Order when it proceeds to define the family members in the matter of engagement as well as disqualification of agent as himself, wife, son, unmarried daughter, mother, father, brother or any other member who stays together and who shares common kitchen, then by no stretch of imagination as per the spirit of aforementioned Government Order brother could have been disjuncted from the definition of family members and could have been clubbed with such category of members who were residing together and dining together. The definition of family members is specific i.e. inclusive of himself, wife, son, unmarried daughter, mother, father, brother or any other member who stays together and dines together in the common kitchen. "Or" word is normally disjunctive and same in its natural sense denotes an alternative, and intention of using such a word has to be gathered from its context. Here contextual situation clearly reflects that self, wife, son, unmarried daughter, mother, father, brother are identified class of family members, and on anyone of them being elected as Pradhan/Up-pradhan, the agency will have to be terminated/ cancelled. Not only this, other members who are residing and dining together, on their being also elected as Pradhan/Up-pradhan disqualification is to be incurred. Distinction drawn by the Division Bench, in the case of Ram Murat, by putting the brother along with other members who are residing and dining together, has no rational for it and merely on the assumption and presumption that brother don't have such close tie as compared to other family member defined, brother should be clubbed with other incumbents who are residing together and dining together cannot be approved of. On plain reading of the provision, i.e. definition of family, there are defined category of relatives such as self, wife, son, unmarried daughter, mother, father, brother and there are undefined category of relatives, who can be accepted at par with relatives defined, provided they are dining and residing together. The Courts have no authority to re-write the definition, and specially when same on its plain reading is clear and categorical, with no ambiguity worth name. Apex Court in the case of Phool Patti Vs. Ram Singh 2009 (13) SCC 22 has clearly ruled that Courts cannot add words to statute, or change its language, particularly when on plain reading meaning becomes clear. In view of this, the definition of family which includes brother cannot be read in a fashion to exclude brother from defined family members and throw him and club him in the category of any other member, who has been staying together and has been dining together, in view of this, the said portion of the Ram Murat's Case (supra) is not being approved of."

17. It is evident from the observations of the Full Bench that this Court has considered the disqualification for holding a Fair Price Shop. In case the Licensee himself or his wife, Son, Unmarried daughter, the Mother, Father, Brother is elected, or is the sitting Gram Pradhan, besides the such blood relatives, a Daughter-in-law who is related by marriage and who stayed together and who shared the common Kitchen has also been included in the definition of family, by a Division Bench of this Court in Shiv Kumar Vs. Up-Ziladhikari Chakiya, District Chandauli and four Others decided on 20.08.2014 in Writ C-No.40973 of 2014.

18. In the case of Shiv Kumar (Supra), the Division Bench held that where the Daughter-in-law had been elected as Gram Pradhan and the Fair Price Shop License had been given to the Mother-in-law on compassionate ground after the death of her husband, the erstwhile Licensee, but the Mother-in-law would still attract the disqualification as envisaged under Clause 4.7 of the Government Order dated 03.07.1990 as she was enjoying common Kitchen with Daughter-in-law after the death of her husband.

19. The observations made by the Hon'ble Division Bench with regard to the object sought to be achieved by mentioning this condition of ineligibility are relevant to be quoted hereinbelow:-

"Even otherwise a fair price shop licence is a measure of public distribution system which is now contemplated under the Constitution of India to be a function of the local body. It is not a mere right to run the business of a fair price shop by any individual. Apart from this, the prohibitions that have been mentioned in Clause 4.7 of the Government Order dated 3.7.1990 is to prevent any monopoly in the hands of the Gram Pradhan or the relatives of such office holder. It is in order to prevent any favouritism or nepotism that such prohibitions have been engrained by making the definition of the word household and family extensive as explained by the full bench in the case of Indrapal Singh (supra).".

20. Learned counsel for the petitioner during the course of arguments has referred to a judgment passed by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Yogendra Singh Vs. State of U.P. through Principal Secretary and Others in Writ Petition No.23298 (M/S) of 2016 decided on 27.09.2016. This Court has carefully perused the said judgment and after referring to the answers given by the Full Bench, in Indrapal Singh (Supra) to the question referred to it as follows:-

"(i) The Division Bench judgment in Ram Murat's case (supra) defining the word 'family' as given in the Government order dated 3.7.1990 (Paragraph 4.7) lays down the correct law except that the word 'brother' shall also be included in self, wife, son, unmarried daughter, mother, father and the condition of having living together and taking food from common kitchen shall apply only to 'any other member (अन्य कोई सदस्य)' which has been separated by word in the definition.

(ii)The definition of word 'family' as given in Clause 2 (o) of U.P. Scheduled Commodities Distribution Order, 2004 shall not override the definition of word 'family' as given in Paragraph 4.7 of the Government order dated 3.7.1990.

Let our answer be placed before the appropriate Bench hearing the writ petition."

21. The Co-ordinate Bench of this Court has observed as under:-

"Thus, the Full Bench categorically held that Clause 4.7 of the government order dated 3.7.1990, as modified by the government order dated 18.7.2002, as far as a definition of 'family' is concerned, is divided into two parts - the first part consists of the 'blood relations such as son, father, daughter etc.' and this part is not dependent upon the condition that the members should be dining and residing together. The second part consists of other relatives who are included in the definition of 'family', if they are found to be dining and residing together. The full bench considered exclusion of the relationship of brother from the first part and held it to be contrary to the letter and spirit of the government order dated 3.7.1990. Accordingly it included the said relationship by judicial mandate in the first part of the definition of 'family' meaning thereby this relationship was held not to be dependent upon the condition of dining and residing together.

In view of the Full Bench decision there is hardly any doubt that a father could not have been allotted the fair-price-shop if the son was Gram Pradhan, as this would be covered by the first part of the definition based on blood relationship.

As far as the contention of learned counsel appearing for the opposite party no.4 that the father was allotted the shop prior to the election of the son as Gram Pradhan is concerned the said plea is also not available to him in view of the government order dated 18.7.2002 which says that if it had been allotted, even then, it shall be cancelled. The said government order was also considered by the Full Bench Decision. As far as reliance placed by learned Counsel appearing for opposite party no.4 upon the Single Bench Decision of this Court in Virendra Singh vs Commissioner, Allahabad Division, 2006(24) LCD 1132, wherein it was held that para 4.7 of the government order dated 3.7.1990 would not apply to existing licensee is concerned, this court finds firstly, that the said judgement does not take into consideration the modification of para 4.7 of the government order dated 3.7.1990 by the subsequent government order dated 18.7.2002 which leaves no doubt about the policy of the government which is applicable to existing licensees also. Furthermore, a similar fact situation existed in the case of Ram Murat and others vs Commissioner Azamgarh Division, 2006 (5) ADJ 396 where the brother had been allotted the fair-price-shop earlier and the family member had been elected as Gram Pradhan subsequently and it is in this case that a reference was made to the Full Bench which was considered in Indarpal Singh's case (supra) and it was held that the brother's licence was liable to be cancelled, therefore in view of the dictum of the Full Bench the reliance placed by the learned counsel for the opposite party no.4 upon the judgement in Virender Singh's case is misplaced and the aforesaid plea is rejected."

22. Rather than supporting the case of the petitioner the judgment in Yogendra Singh (Supra) goes against the petitioner's contention.

23. This Court has also considered the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner was never heard and the order has been passed in violation of the Principles of Natural Justice. This Court finds from the order impugned, no evidence that the petitioner was heard. However, the Principles of Natural Justice are not a straitjacket formula that have to be applied in all cases irrespective of the consequences. In this case, the petitioner was ineligible to have participated in the open general meeting and put-forward his candidature for allotment of Fair Price Shop of the village concerned. In accordance with law settled by the Full Bench of this Court in Indrapal Singh Vs. State of U.P. (Supra), an objection was raised by the contesting candidate which was over-ruled. The contesting candidate, thereafter, filed objection before the Tehsil Level Committee, the Tehsil Level Selection Committee sought advice of the DGC (Civil) in the matter who gave a misconceived advice, on the basis whereof the petitioner was allotted the Fair Price Shop License.

24. Writ jurisdiction is a discretionary jurisdiction and a writ of certiorari would not ordinarily be issued as a matter of course. It has been settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that an order impugned does substantial justice between the parties, even if it does not strictly follow niceties of law, may still not be set aside on mere showing of irregularity in procedure, or want of jurisdiction. Reference can be made to the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of J.P. Builders V. A. Ramadas Rao, Civil Appeal Nos.9821-9822 of 2010 decided on 22.11.2010.

25. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has also held in the case of Chandra Singh and Others Vs. State of Rajasthan and Another reported in 2003 (6) SCC 545, that an order which appears to be illegal, may not be set aside and writ of certiorari may not issue only to revive an illegal order as it would be opposed to public policy. In case, this Court grants the prayer made by the petitioner and quashes the order dated 29.11.2019, on the ground that the petitioner was not heard, it would only revive an illegal order of allotment of Fair Price Shop to the petitioner on 19.05.2018 as the petitioner has been found to be ineligible to even put forward his candidature so long as his brother Shri Malendra Tewari remained sitting Gram Pradhan of the village concerned.

26. The writ petition is, therefore, dismissed. No order as to costs.

(Oral)

1. This petition has been filed challenging the order dated 1.11.2019 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow in Misc. Case no.2620 of 2019 (Bank of Baroda vs. M/s. Shakuntala Devi), and also praying for a direction to the respondents to remove the seal from the lock of the petitioner no.3 on the house and to restore possession of the secured asset to the petitioners and to refrain from taking coercive measures against the petitioners.

2. I have heard Sri Akhilesh Kalra, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Prashant Kumar Srivastava for the Bank.

3. Sri Prashant Kumar Srivastava has raised a preliminary objection as to the maintainability of the writ petition under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India, as he has relied upon several judgments of the Supreme Court and of this Court and also of various High Courts, to say that against an action taken under Section 14 by the District Magistrate or his authorized officer, the remedy of appeal under Section 17 of the SARFAESI Act is available to the aggrieved person.

4. Learned counsel for the respondents has relied upon the judgment in Kanaiyalal Lalchand Sachdev and others vs. State of Maharashtra and others, 2011 (2) SCC 782 and Paras 19 and 20 thereof. It has been submitted on the basis of the said judgment that an action under Section 14 of the Act constitute an action taken after the stage of Section 13(4) of the Act and, therefore, the same would fall within the ambit of Section 17(1) of the Act and the efficacious remedy for the borrower or any person aggrieved by an action under Section 13(4) of the Act is to file an appeal before the Debts Recovery Tribunal. It has been submitted that in the judgment in Kanaiyalal Lalchand Sachdev (supra), the Supreme Court held that Section 14 action is a continuation of action taken under Section 13 of the Act and, therefore, they should be considered as one action.

5. Learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance upon the judgment in United Bank of India vs. Satyawati Tandon and others 2010 (8) SCC 110, to state that in the judgment rendered in Satyawati Tandon, the Supreme Court considered more specifically action taken under Section 14 of the Act and he has referred Para 17 of the judgment, wherein it has been observed by the Supreme Court that if respondent no.1 had any tangible grievance against the notice issued under Section 13(4) or action taken under Section 14 of the Act, then she should have availed remedy by filing an application under Section 17(1) of the Act. The expression "any person" used in Section 17(1) if of wide import. It takes within its fold, not only the borrower but also the guarantor or any other person who may be affected by the action taken under Section 13(4) or Section 14 of the Act. In Satyawati Tandon (supra), the Supreme Court observed that an action taken under Section 14 of the Act would be challenged in appeal before the Tribunal and that the High Court had overlooked the settled position in law that it will not ordinarily entertain a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India if any effective remedy is available to the aggrieved person and that this Rule applies with greater rigour in matters involving recovery of the public dues. The Supreme Court had observed that the High Court must keep in mind that the legislations enacted by Parliament and the State Legislatures for recovery of such dues are a code unto themselves inasmuch as they not only contain comprehensive procedure for recovery of the dues, but also envisage constitution of quasi-judicial bodies for redressal of the grievance of any aggrieved person, therefore, in all such cases, the High Court must insist that before availing remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution, a person must exhaust the remedies available under the relevant statute.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that both the aforesaid judgments were rendered by the Supreme Court before the proviso to Section 14 was added by way of amendment in the Act in January, 2013.

7. Sri Prashant Kumar Srivastava on the other hand, has placed reliance upon the judgment in Standard Chartered Bank vs. V. Noble Kumar and others (2013) 9 SCC 620, which was decided on 22.8.2013 by the Supreme Court, where the Supreme Court also considered the amended provisions of Section 14 of the Act. Learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance upon Para 8 of the judgment, where the Supreme Court considered the grounds taken by the High Court for allowing the writ petition filed by the respondent to the civil appeal. The High Court had observed that the Bank cannot bye-pass Section 13(4) of the Act and invoke the provision of Section 14. Before invoking Section 14, notice under Section 13(4) is necessary as the proceedings under Section 14 cannot be questioned by filing an appeal before the Tribunal or before a Court. The second ground taken by the High Court was that the procedure contemplated under Rule 8 of the Security, Interest (Enforcement) Rules, 2002 was not followed before Section 14 was invoked and therefore, the order passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate was contrary to the Rules and therefore, liable to be set aside.

8. It has been submitted by Sri Prashant Kumar Srivastava that both these aforesaid grounds taken by the contesting respondents therein and found to be feasible by the High Court were not found justified by the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court observed in Para-11 while referring to the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the Bank that the Act provided for two alternative procedures for taking possession of the secured assets under Sections 13(4) and 14 respectively. While Section 13(4) authorises the creditor himself to take possession of the secured assets without the aid of the State's coercive power, Section 14 enables the secured creditor to seek the assistance of the State's coercive power for securing the possession of the secured assets. It was always open to the secured creditor to choose one of the abovementioned two procedures in a given case to obtain possession of the secured asset depending upon his own assessment of the situation regarding the possibility of resistance (by the debtor or guarantor as the case may be) for taking possession of the secured assets. The Supreme Court observed that it is not necessary that the procedure under Section 13(4) should be undertaken before action under Section 14 can be initiated.

9. In V. Noble Kumar (supra), the Supreme Court also considered the amendments made under Section 13 of the Act after the judgment rendered in Mardia Chemicals Ltd. vs. Union of India (2004) 4 SCC 311, but held thereafter that under the scheme of Section 14, a secured creditor who desires to seek the assistance of the State's coercive power for obtaining possession of the secured asset is required to make a request in writing to the District Magistrate or the officer authorized in that behalf. By way of amendment to the said Section, a proviso was added with nine sub-clauses and these amendments were made to provide safeguard to the interest of the borrower. Under the proviso, the secured creditor is required to file an affidavit, furnishing the information contemplated under various sub-clauses (1) to (9) of the said proviso and obligates the Magistrates to pass suitable orders regarding taking of possession of secured asset only after being satisfied with the contents of the affidavit. The satisfaction of the Magistrate contemplated under the second proviso to Section 14(1) of the Act necessarily requires the Magistrate to examine the factual correctness of the assertions made in such an affidavit, but it does not require any adjudication as such on the basis of legal niceties.

10. In Para 27 of the judgment rendered in V. Noble Kumar (supra), the Supreme Court further observed that under Section 14, the Magistrate is authorized only to take possession of the property and forward the connected documents to the secured creditor. Therefore, the borrower is always entitled to prefer an appeal under Section 17 after the possession of the secured asset is handed over to the secured creditor. It further observed that by whatever manner the secured creditor obtains possession, either through the process contemplated under Section 14 or without resorting to such a process obtaining of the possession of a secured asset is always a measure against which a remedy under Section 17 is available. With regard to observation of the High Court in its judgment under appeal, that Rule 8 of the Rules of 2002 provided for certain procedure to be followed by the secured creditor taking possession of the secured asset, the Supreme Court observed that the High Court was incorrect in observing that while taking action under Section 14 of the Act, compliance of Rule 8 is mandatory.

11. It has also been submitted by the learned counsel for the respondents that a Division Bench of this Court in Anuradha Singh and another vs. Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar and two others: Writ-C No.13445 of 2018, decided on 13.4.2018, was considering a similar case where an auction notice was challenged by the petitioners on the ground that no notice was given by the Magistrate before passing the order under Section 14 of the Act. It was observed by the Division Bench that the petitioners had a remedy of filing an appeal against the action taken under Section 13 of the Act, which they had already availed of. There was no interim order granted in appeal and, therefore, the Bank had sought possession in terms of Section 14 of the Act. They rejected the contention of the writ petitioners that opportunity should have been given to them before passing the order under Section 14 of the Act by the Magistrate, by observing that there was no statutory provision under the Act for providing an opportunity to the borrower at the stage of passing of an order under Section 14 of the Act nor any decision, either of this Court at Allahabad or the Apex court that may enable the Court to read such principles of administrative law into the statutory provisions of Section 14 of the Act. The Division Bench reiterated that the remedy under Section 17 was available even against an action taken under Section 14 of the Act and the borrower or any other person aggrieved can approach the Tribunal to protect his rights.

12. Learned counsel for the respondents has also placed reliance upon another Division Bench judgment of this Court rendered on 3.4.2017 in Writ Petition No.6816 (MB) of 2017: Smt. Asmaa vs. District Magistrate, Faizabad and others.

13. Almost similar observations have been made by two Division Benches of this Court in Writ-C No.27473 of 2017: M/s. Glorious Enterprises and others vs. District Magistrate, Agra and others, decided on 20.6.2017, and Writ-C No.30002 of 2018: Khalid vs. State of U.P. and others, decided on 5.9.2018.

14. A judgment rendered by the High Court of Madras in M/s. Deccan Chronical Holdings Limited vs. Canara Bank, decided on 12.6.2015 has also been relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondents.

15. Learned counsel for the petitioners, on the other hand, has placed reliance upon a Division Bench judgment of this Court rendered in Writ-C No.38578 of 2018: Kumkum Tentiwal vs. State of U.P. and others, decided on 11.12.2018, reported in 2019 (2) ADJ 125, where the writ petitioner had challenged the orders passed by the ADM (Finance and Revenue), Mathura, directing taking of possession of the property of the petitioner under Section 14 of the Act. Learned counsel for the Bank had argued that the writ petition was not maintainable as the remedy of appeal under Section 17 of the Act was provided. Learned counsel for the Bank had relied upon the judgment rendered in V. Noble Kumar (supra) and Para-27 of the said report, which has been referred to, hereinabove. The Bank had also relied upon the judgment rendered in Writ-C No.11706 of 2018: Dheerendra Kumar and another vs. Authorized Officer, Aadhar Housing Finance Ltd. and another, decided on 2.4.2018, where this Court relying upon various judgments of the Supreme Court had held that the remedy to the borrower was available under Section 17 of the Act.

16. The Division Bench in Kumkum Tentiwal (supra) however, observed that the Division Bench in Dheerendra Kumar (supra) did not consider the scope of procedure to be adopted while passing orders under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act as well as the remedy available against the order passed under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act. It was observed by the Division Bench in Kumkum Tentiwal (supra) that the judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in Harsh Govardhan Sondagar v. International Assets Reconstruction Company Ltd., (2014) 6 SCC 1, was not considered by the Division Bench in Dheerendra Kumar (supra). In the case of Harsh Govardhan Sondagar (supra), the Supreme Court was considering the rights of a person emanating from the validly created lease and had observed that the District Magistrate or the officer authorized would have to give a notice and an opportunity of hearing to the person claiming to be a lessee, consistent with the principles of natural justice, and then take a decision. In the said judgment of Harsh Govardhan Sondagar (supra), the Supreme Court observed that the decision of the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or the District Magistrate can be challenged before the High Court under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India by any aggrieved person.

17. The Division Bench in Kumkum Tentiwal (supra), after placing reliance upon Harsh Govardhan Sondagar (supra), observed that the borrower is also entitled to right of hearing prior to any order being passed by the District Magistrate while exercising powers under section 14 of the Act. It observed that the District Magistrate has to record a satisfaction with regard to contents of the affidavits filed by the Bank under proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 14 of the Act and such satisfaction can only be recorded after hearing the parties. It further observed in Para-12 that from the scheme of the Act, it is implicit that the procedure of Sections 13(2) and 13(4) is mandatory before initiating action under Section 14 of the Act. The borrower on initiation of action under section 14 of the Act, may at times plead that he was not provided any opportunity of hearing as envisaged under Section 13(2) of the Act, entitling him to payment of the dues within 60 days and therefore, the action under section 14 is illegal and misconceived. Thus, notice or opportunity of hearing is also necessary to the borrower or guarantor, although it may be as a formality at times, before initiating action under Section 14 of the Act.

18. The Division Bench in Kumkum Tentiwal (supra) relied upon the observations made by the Supreme Court in Harsh Govardhan Sondagar (supra) that the only recourse available against an order passed under Section 14 of the Act is under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India.

19. It has been submitted by Sri Akhilesh Kalra that the judgment rendered by the Division Bench in Kumkum Tentiwal (supra) on 11.12.2018 was challenged in SLP by the Bank, which SLP has been dismissed by the Supreme Court on 6.5.2019 and the judgment of the Division Bench has been affirmed.

20. Sri Prashant Kumar Srivastava has argued that the Division Bench in the case of Kumkum Tentiwal (supra) did not consider the law as propounded by the Supreme Court in the case of V. Noble Kumar (supra) in the right perspective. He has also argued that Harsh Govardhan Sondagar (supra) was a judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in the facts of the case where a person, who was in possession of the secured asset on the basis of valid lease, was sought to be dispossessed by the action taken under Section 14 of the Act. He has also argued that the judgment rendered in Anuradha Singh (supra) by a Division Bench of this Court, which was a judgment by a coordinate Bench and much prior in time, was not considered in the judgment rendered in Kumkum Tentiwal (supra).

21. Sri Akhilesh Kalra has further relied upon the judgment rendered by the High Court of Uttarakhand at Nainital in Special Appeal No.901 of 2018: The Nainital Bank Ltd. vs. Naveen Kisan Rice Mill and others, decided on 10.1.2019, which relates to whether the power under Section 14 of the Act could have been delegated by the District Magistrate or the or the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate to any other officer. It relied upon the doctrine of "delegatus non potest delegare", which says that a delegatee cannot further delegate his powers, to come to a conclusion that the power under Section 14 of the Act could not have been exercised by the Additional District Magistrate.

22. The judgment rendered in the case of The Nainital Bank Ltd. (supra) cannot be said to be applicable in the case of the petitioners as it related to the question whether delegation in contravention of Statute of power under Section 14 of the Act would be legal or not.

23. Sri Akhilesh Kalra has also relied upon a judgment rendered by the Court of Appeal in Paisner and others vs. Goorich, [1955] 2 WLR 1071 and has relied upon the observations made by Lord Denning with regard to precedential value of the judgments and observations that when the Judges of the Court of Appeal gave a decision on the interpretation of an Act of Parliament, the decision itself was binding on them and their successors, but the words, which the Judges use in giving the decision are not binding. When interpreting a Statute, the sole function of the Court is to apply the words of the Statute to a given situation. Once a decision has been reached on that situation, the doctrine of precedent requires us to apply the statute in the same way in any similar situation, but not in a different situation. Whenever a new situation emerges, not governed by previous decisions, the Courts must be governed by the Statute and not by the words of the Judges.

24. In Sakshi vs. Union of India (2004) 5 SCC 518, the Supreme Court considered the precedential value of foreign precedents and held that such decisions must be construed in the context in which they are decided. In State of Madhya Pradesh vs. Narmada Bachao Andolan (2011) 7 SCC 639, the Supreme Court observed that a judgment cannot be read as a Statute as judicial utterances are made in the settings of facts of a particular case. A little difference in facts or additional facts may make a lot of difference to the precedential value of a decision.

25. The Supreme Court in the case of Bhavnagar University vs. Palitana Sugar Mills 2003 (2) SCC 111, has also made certain observations on the principles of "stare decisis" and binding precedent. It has been observed by the Supreme Court that a decision is an authority for that which it deduced and not what can logically be deduced therefrom. No doubt the ratio decidendi of a judgment rendered by a Bench of larger coram or even by a coordinate Bench is binding upon subsequent coordinate Benches. Each case has to be dealt with on the facts as mentioned therein and one additional fact by its mere presence or absence may change the very precedential value of an otherwise binding precedent.

26. This Court has considered also the judgments rendered by the Supreme Court in V. Noble Kumar (supra). The judgment of the Supreme Court deals clearly with the amended provisions of Section 14(1) of the Act and still observes that the remedy lies for an action taken under Section 14(1) of the Act to a person aggrieved under Section 17 of the Act. Also, under the language of Section 14(1) of the Act, the Supreme Court had observed that the procedure under Rule 8 of the Rules of 2002 cannot be read.

27. The Division Bench judgment in the case of Anuradha Singh (supra) deals sufficiently with the question of notice being issued to the borrower, after the Bank initiates action under Section 14 of the Act by filing affidavit before the officer authorized or the District Magistrate.

28. In the judgment rendered by the Division Bench in Anuradha Singh (supra), the facts of the case are similar to the facts of the petitioners' case inasmuch as proceedings under Sections 13(2) and 13(4) were challenged by the petitioners by filing Securitization Application No.530 of 2019 before the Debts Recovery Tribunal, Lucknow, praying for setting aside the recovery proceedings. A copy of the Securitization Application has been filed as Annexure-8 to the petition.

29. In Kumkum Tentiwal (supra), the petitioner had filed the writ petition against the order passed by the Additional District Judge (Finance and Revenue), Mathura under Section 14 of the Act. It was not the case of the petitioner that the petitioner had challenged the notice and auction under Section 13(4) of the Act before the Debts Recovery Tribunal in Securitization Application, which was pending and where no interim order was granted.

30. Faced with such a situation where there are two Division Benches of this Court; one prior in point of time having been rendered on 13.4.2018 and the other rendered on 11.12.2018, this Court has gone through the judgment rendered in Mardia Chemicals Ltd. (supra), where validity of the Act was challenged and while dealing with the question of violation of principles of natural justice with respect to an action taken under Section 13(4) of the Act, the supreme Court observed that no doubt, the borrower is entitled to file its objections, which objections have to be considered by the secured creditor and reasons stated briefly for rejecting the same, but that would not give borrower any right to challenge the reasons given by the Bank or the secured creditor as an independent cause of action.

31. In Mardia Chemicals Ltd. (supra), the Supreme Court was considering the validity of the SARFAESI Act and the main question that arose before the Supreme Court in civil appeals, writ petitions and transfer petitions, were as under:

"(i) Whether it is open to challenge the statute on the ground that it was not necessary to enact it in the prevailing background particularly when another statute was already in operation?

(ii) Whether provisions as contained under Sections 13 and 17 of the Act provide adequate and efficacious mechanism to consider and decide the objections/disputes raised by a borrower against the recovery, particularly in view of bar to approach the civil court under Section 34 of the Act?

(iii) Whether the remedy available under Section 17 of the Act is illusory for the reason it is available only after the action is taken under Section 13(4) of the Act and the appeal would be entertainable only on deposit of 75% of the claim raised in the notice of demand?

(iv) Whether the terms or existing rights under the contract entered into by two private parties could be amended by the provisions of law providing certain powers in a one-sided manner in favour of one of the parties to the contract?

(v) Whether provision for sale of the properties without intervention of the court under Section 13 of the Act is akin to the English mortgage and its effect on the scope of the bar of the jurisdiction of the civil court?

(vi) Whether the provisions under Sections 13 and 17(2) of the Act are unconstitutional on the basis of the parameters laid down in different decisions of this Court?

(vii) Whether the principle of lender's liability has been absolutely ignored while enacting the Act and its effect?"

32. In the said case, the Supreme Court while allowing the appeals, answered the questions framed by it in Paras 80 and 81 of the judgment as follows:

"80. Under the Act in consideration, we find that before taking action a notice of 60 days is required to be given and after the measures under Section 13(4) of the Act have been taken, a mechanism has been provided under Section 17 of the Act to approach the Debts Recovery Tribunal. The abovenoted provisions are for the purpose of giving some reasonable protection to the borrower. Viewing the matter in the above perspective, we find what emerges from different provisions of the Act, is as follows:

1. Under sub-section (2) of Section 13 it is incumbent upon the secured creditor to serve 60 days' notice before proceeding to take any of the measures as provided under sub-section (4) of Section 13 of the Act. After service of notice, if the borrower raises any objection or places facts for consideration of the secured creditor, such reply to the notice must be considered with due application of mind and the reasons for not accepting the objections, howsoever brief they may be, must be communicated to the borrower. In connection with this conclusion we have already held a discussion in the earlier part of the judgment. The reasons so communicated shall only be for the purposes of the information/knowledge of the borrower without giving rise to any right to approach the Debts Recovery Tribunal under Section 17 of the Act, at that stage.

2. As already discussed earlier, on measures having been taken under sub-section (4) of Section 13 and before the date of sale/auction of the property it would be open for the borrower to file an appeal (petition) under Section 17 of the Act before the Debts Recovery Tribunal.

3. That the Tribunal in exercise of its ancillary powers shall have jurisdiction to pass any stay/interim order subject to the condition as it may deem fit and proper to impose.

4. In view of the discussion already held in this behalf, we find that the requirement of deposit of 75% of the amount claimed before entertaining an appeal (petition) under Section 17 of the Act is an oppressive, onerous and arbitrary condition against all the canons of reasonableness. Such a condition is invalid and it is liable to be struck down.

5. As discussed earlier in this judgment, we find that it will be open to maintain a civil suit in civil court, within the narrow scope and on the limited grounds on which they are permissible, in the matters relating to an English mortgage enforceable without intervention of the court.

81. In view of the discussion held in the judgment and the findings and directions contained in the preceding paragraphs, we hold that the borrowers would get a reasonably fair deal and opportunity to get the matter adjudicated upon before the Debts Recovery Tribunal. The effect of some of the provisions may be a bit harsh for some of the borrowers but on that ground the impugned provisions of the Act cannot be said to be unconstitutional in view of the fact that the object of the Act is to achieve speedier recovery of the dues declared as NPAs and better availability of capital liquidity and resources to help in growth of the economy of the country and welfare of the people in general which would subserve the public interest." (Emphasis supplied)

33. Thereafter, the Supreme Court upheld the validity of the Act and its provisions except that of sub-section (2) of Section 17 of the Act, which was declared ultra vires of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

While dealing with these questions and the arguments raised regarding the entitlement of the borrower to be heard before notice under sub-section (2) of Section 13 is issued, the Supreme Court in Paras 74 to 77 of the judgment in Mardia Chemicals Ltd. (supra) observed as under:

"74. A reference has also been made for similar observations in Srinivasa Enterprises v. Union of India [(1980) 4 SCC 507] at SCC pp. 513-14 and in Jalan Trading Co. (P) Ltd. v. Mill Mazdoor Sabha [AIR 1967 SC 691 : (1967) 1 SCR 15] at SCR p. 36. While referring to the observations made in Collector of Customs v. Nathella Sampathu Chetty [AIR 1962 SC 316 : (1962) 3 SCR 786 : (1962) 1 Cri LJ 364] at SCR pp. 829-30 it is submitted that the intent of Parliament shall not be defeated merely for the reason that it may operate a bit harshly on a small section of public where it may be necessary to make such provisions of achieving the desired objectives to ensure that the nefarious activities of smuggling, etc. had to be necessarily curbed. In Fatehchand Himmatlal [(1977) 2 SCC 670] where debts of the agriculturists were wiped off, this Court observed:

"44. Every cause claims its martyr and if the law, necessitated by practical considerations, makes generalizations which hurt a few, it cannot be helped by the Court. Otherwise, the enforcement of the Debt Relief Act will turn into an enquiry into scrupulous and unscrupulous creditors, frustrating through endless litigation, the instant relief to the indebted which is the promise of the legislature.? (SCC p. 689, para 44)

Yet in another decision referred to, in Kishan Chand Arora v. Commr. of Police [AIR 1961 SC 705 : (1961) 3 SCR 135] it has been held that absence of appeal does not necessarily render the legislation unreasonable. Provision for appeal is not an absolute necessity. For same propositions a reference has also been made to Chinta Lingam v. Govt. of India [(1970) 3 SCC 768] , SCC at p. 772, where it has been observed that when the power has to be exercised by one of the highest officers the fact that no appeal has been provided is not material. In respect of the appellate provision once again our attention has been drawn to the observations made by this Court in SCC at pp. 582-83, paras 15 and 16 in Organo Chemical Industries v. Union of India [(1979) 4 SCC 573 : 1980 SCC (L&S) 92] to the effect that an appeal is a desirable corrective but not an indispensable imperative. It is, however, further observed in this decision that it may all depend upon the nature of the subject-matter, other available correctives and the possible harm flowing from the wrong orders.

75. In relation to the argument on behalf of the petitioners that they are entitled to be heard before a notice under sub-section (2) of Section 13 is issued failing which there is denial of the principles of natural justice, a reference has been made to certain decisions to submit that in every case, it is not necessary to make a provision for providing a hearing. For example, in the case of a licensing statute, see Kishan Chand Arora [AIR 1961 SC 705 : (1961) 3 SCR 135] . The other decisions referred to are: Lachhman Dass v. State of Punjab [AIR 1963 SC 222 : (1963) 2 SCR 353] , Chairman, Board of Mining Examination v. Ramjee [(1977) 2 SCC 256 : 1977 SCC (L&S) 226] , SCC at p. 262 and Haryana Financial Corpn. v. Jagdamba Oil Mills [(2002) 3 SCC 496] , SCC at p. 504, para 7 to submit that concept of natural justice is not a straitjacket formula. It, on the other hand, depends upon the facts of the case, nature of the enquiry, the rules under which the Tribunal is acting and what is to be seen is that no one should be hit below the belt. Relationship between the creditor and the debtor, it is submitted, is essentially in the realm of a contract.

76. In regard to the submission made by the parties as indicated in the preceding paragraphs, we would like to make it clear that issue of a notice to the debtor by the creditor does not attract the application of the principles of natural justice. It is always open to tell the debtor what he owes to repay. No hearing can be demanded from the creditor at this stage. So far as the provision of appeal is concerned, we have already discussed in the earlier part of the judgment that proceedings under Section 17 of the Act have been wrongly described as appeal before the Debts Recovery Tribunal. It is in fact a forum where proceedings are originally initiated in case of any grievance against the creditor in respect of any measure taken under sub-section (4) of Section 13 of the Act. Hence, the decisions on the point as to whether provision for an appeal is essential or not are not of any assistance in the facts of the present case.

77. It is also true that till the stage of making of the demand and notice under Section 13(2) of the Act, no hearing can be claimed for by the borrower. But looking to the stringent nature of measures to be taken without intervention of court with a bar to approach the court or any other forum at that stage, it becomes only reasonable that the secured creditor must bear in mind the say of the borrower before such a process of recovery is initiated so as to demonstrate that the reply of the borrower to the notice under Section 13(2) of the Act has been considered applying mind to it. The reasons, howsoever brief they may be, for not accepting the objections, if raised in the reply, must be communicated to the borrower. True, presumption is in favour of validity of an enactment and a legislation may not be declared unconstitutional lightly more so, in the matters relating to fiscal and economic policies resorted to in the public interest, but while resorting to such legislation it would be necessary to see that the persons aggrieved get a fair deal at the hands of those who have been vested with the powers to enforce drastic steps to make recovery." (Emphasis Supplied)

34. This Court taking into account the judgments rendered by three Division Benches of this Court, as referred to hereinabove, and the observations of the Supreme Court in the case of Mardia Chemicals Ltd. (supra), is of the opinion that nothing can be read into the language of Section 14 of the Act, which has not been provided specifically therein by the Parliament.

After the judgment was rendered in Mardia Chemicals Ltd. (supra), the Act was amended and the provisions for pre-deposit of 75% was done away with for approaching the Tribunal.

35. Since in the statute itself there is no provision for giving opportunity of hearing in an action under Section 14 of the Act, this Court cannot provide such opportunity of hearing to the writ petitioner. It is settled position in law that the Court ought to decide matters on the basis of law as it exists and declare the same instead on the basis of what law should be.

36. In this case, this Court finds that the observations made by the Supreme Court in Satyawati Tandon (supra) and V. Noble Kumar (supra) with regard to special Statutes like the SARFAESI Act and the limited jurisdiction of the High Court where statutory remedy is available, cannot be ignored by this Court.

37. This Court has considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties, including the submissions made on merits of the order dated 01.11.2019 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow and the arguments raised that there is no recording of satisfaction as is required under Section 14 of the Act with regard to the contents of the affidavit by the secured creditor i.e. the Bank.

38. This Court has noticed that the Chief Judicial Magistrate in his order dated 01.11.2019 referred to the fact that the affidavit had been filed by the Bank on all the nine points/sub-clauses of the first proviso to Section 14(1) of the Act. Moreover, the Bank has also stated that a notice under Section 13(2) had been given to the borrower. The borrower choose not to reply to the same. Moreover, there was no order passed by any competent Court in favour of the borrower even after notice under Section 13(4) was issued. After recording such satisfaction, the order impugned has been passed with the caveat that in case it is found that the affidavit submitted by the Bank contains incorrect statement, the responsibility would lie on the Bank for any legal proceedings taken by the borrower.

Since the petitioners have already approached the Tribunal against the action taken by the Bank under Section 13(4) of the Act and there is no interim order of the Tribunal, the Bank could have and rightly proceeded by filing an application under Section 14 of the Act.

39. It cannot be said that there is no recording of satisfaction by the Chief Judicial Magistrate in the order impugned.

40. The petitioners have remedy against such action and the order passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned by filing an application before the Debts Recovery Tribunal under Section 17 of the Act. The Tribunal would have the benefit of pleadings already before it in the Securitization Application No.530 of 2019 and would be in a better position to appreciate all aspects of the matter.

41. Writ Jurisdiction is an extraordinary jurisdiction and as has been observed by the Supreme Court in Satyawati Tandon (supra), such extraordinary jurisdiction ought not to be exercised in matters where adequate statutory remedy is available.

42. The writ petition is dismissed as not maintainable on the grounds of availability of statutory remedy alone and the petitioners may, if they so advised, file an appeal before the appropriate forum.

43. Any observation made by this Court on the merits of the order passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate may not be read against the petitioners as they may be able to satisfy the appellate authority that the order had been passed on misrepresentation of facts by the Bank.

A. Challenging-award-passed by O.P no. 1-reinstating O.P no. 2-who was engaged as workman on muster roll-and removed without any notice-has been granted reinstatement along with continuity of service & seniority-20% back wages-on the basis of experience certificate-issued by J.E-upon the claim made after 10 years-not barred by limitation-in case industrial dispute-raised by workman-Petition Dismissed.

B. Held, having perused the Award impugned, this Court finds that the O.P no. 1 has more or less stuck to the settled position in law while granting relief to the workman. It is found that there is 10 yrs delay in starting conciliation proceedings and therefore, 20% of the back wages have been granted to the workman from the date the application for conciliation proceeding was filed by the workman till the date of order of reinstatement. No back wages have been granted for the 10 yrs the workman remained out of employment with effect from 1992 to the year 2000. Moreover, the workman concerned has been given reinstatement only as muster roll, the original post on which he was working and he has been given service benefits that were similar to employees working on muster roll in the same establishment. The workman was found entitled to continuity in service & seniority also. This court finds no good ground to show interference in such discretion being judiciously exercised. Petition Dismissed.

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

2. This petition has been filed by the petitioners challenging the Award dated 13.07.2016 passed by the opposite party no.1 in Adjudication Case No.90 of 2001 (U.P. Power Corporation Limited Vs. Rakesh Singh).

3. The petitioners represented by Shri Ajay Kumar Yadav, holding brief of Shri Mata Prasad Yadav, have submitted that the opposite party no.2, Rakesh Singh, was engaged as Muster Roll Daily Wage Employee with effect from 10.05.1987 and continued upto 28.04.1990 on which date he abandoned the services and there was no order of termination passed. After ten years, the opposite party no.2 raised an Industrial dispute. The petitioners submitted before the Conciliation Officer that no proceedings can be initiated after a lapse of ten years. The Conciliation failed and thereafter, a Reference was made by the Government to the opposite party no.1 as to whether the termination of the opposite party no.2 on 28.04.1990 was justified and if not justified, then to what relief the opposite party no.2 was entitled to? Notice was issued to the petitioners and they filed a written statement wherein they again stated that opposite party no.2 had raised the Industrial dispute in the year 2010, although he alleges to have been terminated without notice and retrenchment compensation on 28.04.1990. The petitioners also denied the claim of the workman that he was paid his wages for three years and issued an Experience Certificate by the Junior Engineer concerned. It was the case of the petitioners that the opposite party no.2 could not have been engaged as the Department had stopped engaging Muster Roll employees since 01.07.1979.

4. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioners that the opposite party no.1 arbitrarily has allowed the claim raised by the opposite party no.2 only on the basis of Experience Certificate issued by the Junior Engineer. The Executive Engineer was the appointing Authority and had been declared as the Competent Officer to issue such Experience Certificate. No records relating to the work done by the opposite party no.2 were available in the office of the petitioners and the opposite party no.1 on their failure to produce record had drawn adverse inference against the petitioners.

5. After arguing at some length on the merits of the Award and the observations made by the opposite party no.1 that despite an application made by the opposite party no.2 for summoning of records, the Corporation had failed to do the same, the learned counsel for the petitioners has fairly limited his arguments only to the question of delay in entertaining the claim petition by the opposite party no.1.

6. It has been submitted that the opposite party no.2 allegedly worked only for three years in between 1987-1990 and he raised an Industrial dispute only in the year 2000, when there was no subsisting dispute between the parties. No reference could have been made by the Government on the delayed application of the opposite party no.2. Yet the claim petition was entertained and orders were passed for reinstatement of the opposite party no.2 with continuity in service and seniority and other consequential benefits arising therefrom. Back wages however, were limited to 20% by the opposite party no.1.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioners has placed reliance upon the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Assistant Engineer, Rajasthan Development Corporation and Another Vs. Gitam Singh reported in (2013) 5 SCC 136 to state that the delay defeats the claim made by the workmen. This Court has been led through several paragraphs of the judgment in Gitam Singh (Supra) to say that even if the services of a workman are terminated in violation of the provision of Section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act (In Pari Materia with Section 25-F of the Central Industrial Dispute Act), the grant of relief of reinstatement and full back wages and continuity of service in favour of retrenched workmen would not automatically follow, as a matter of course. The Supreme Court has in most of the cases modified the Award of reinstatement and granted monetary compensation to the workman instead.

8. In Uttranchal Forest Development Corporation Vs. M.C. Joshi reported in (2007) 9 SCC 353, the Supreme Court was concerned with a daily wager who worked in the Corporation from 01.08.1989 to 24.11.1991, and whose services were held to be terminated in violation of Section 6-N of the U.P. Act. The Labour Court had directed the reinstatement of the workmen with 50% back wages from the date the Industrial dispute was raised. While setting aside the order of reinstatement and back wages, the Supreme Court had Awarded compensation of Rs.75,000/- to the workmen keeping in view the nature of service rendered by him, the period of service as also the fact that the Industrial dispute was raised after six years.

9. Similarly, in the case of Mahboob Deepak Vs. Nagar Panchayat Gajraula and Another reported in (2008) 1 SCC 575, the Supreme Court had observed that an order of retrenchment passed in violation of Section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Dispute Act may be set aside, but an order of reinstatement should not however, be automatically passed. The Court observed in Paragraphs 11 & 12 of the report as follows:-

The High Court, on the other hand, did not consider the effect of non-compliance of the provisions of Section 6N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. Appellant was entitled to compensation notice and notice pay. It is now well settled by a catena of decisions of this Court that in a situation of this nature instead and in place of directing reinstatement with full back wages, the workmen should be granted adequate monetary compensation. (Madhya Pradesh Administration V. Tribhuban reported in 2007 (5) SCALE 397.)"

10. The Supreme Court observed further in the said judgment that in Devinder Singh Vs. Municipal Council, Sanaur, reported in (2011) 6 SCC 584 and Harijinder Singh Vs. Punjab State Warehousing Corporation reported in (2010) 3 SCC 192, cited before it by the learned counsel, the Court was not dealing with a daily wage worker. It had come on record that the workmen so engaged, had worked for more than 240 days in a Calendar year preceding the termination of their services, without termination being made in accordance with the provisions of Section 25-F of the Central Act.

11. It observed in Paragraph 29 of the report that both Devinder Singh (Supra) and Harjinder Singh (Supra) do not lay down the general proposition that in all cases of wrongful termination reinstatement must follow. The Supreme Court clarified that in those cases the judicial discretion exercised by the Labour Court was disturbed by the High Court on a wrong assumptions that initial employment of the employee was illegal.

12. The Supreme Court observed further in Paragraph 29 of the report in Gitam Singh that it had in a long line of cases held that the award of reinstatement cannot be said to be proper relief, rather award of compensation in such cases would be in consonance with the demand of justice. Before exercising its judicial discretion, the Labour Court had to keep in view of relevant factors, including the mode and manner of appointment, nature of employment, length of service, the ground on which the termination had been set aside and the delay in raising the industrial dispute before grant of relief in an industrial dispute. The Court had distinguished repeatedly between a daily wager who does not hold a post and a permanent employee and held that where the daily wager had merely worked for more than 240 days in a year, the relief of reinstatement should not be given and monetary compensation would meet the ends of justice.

13. The opposite party no.2 is represented by Ms. Priyam Mehrotra, holding brief of Shri S.K. Mehrotra. She has placed reliance upon the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ajaib Singh Vs. Sirhind Co-operative Marketing-Cum-Processing Service Society Ltd. And Another reported in 1999 (6) SCC 82, and also on Employers, In Relation to The Management of Sudamdih Colliery of M/s Bharat Coking Coal Ltd. Vs. Their Workmen by Rashtriya Colliery Mazdoor Sangh Reported in [2006 (108) FLR 740] and judgments of Co-ordinate Benches of this Court rendered in Ram Lakhan Singh Vs. Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P. Varanasi & Others reported in 1999 (2) UPLBEC 1226, Union of India and Others Vs. Sri Ram Misra and Another reported in 2008 (26) LCD 1504.

14. Learned counsel for the petitioners in rejoinder has placed reliance upon the judgment rendered by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court on 19.04.2018 in Writ Petition No.675 (M/S) 2017.

15. This Court having heard the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties, has gone through the Award rendered by the opposite party no.1.

16. It was the case of the opposite party no.2 that he had been engaged as Daily Wage Muster Roll Employee in Electricity Distribution Division, Gonda, at its sub Station Colonelganj, by one Shri Prakash Sharma, Junior Engineer, and he had been paid his wages on Muster Roll by the Junior Engineer concerned upto 29.04.1990 but was discontinued thereafter without any retrenchment compensation and in violation of Section 6-N of the Act whereas his Juniors Sarvshri Brahmanand, Shivraj and other workmen continued to remain in service thereafter on Muster Roll. New workers on Muster Roll were also engaged, therefore, there was a violation of Section 6-P and Section 6-Q also.

17. When the petitioners made several representations to his Employers and they were not paying any heed, he approached the Conciliation Officer in the year 2000 and on Conciliation proceedings having failed, the Reference has been made by the Government to the opposite party no.1.

18. The Employers had submitted before the Labour Court that since 01.02.1979 there was a ban on engaging daily wagers, therefore, there could not be any engagement of any daily wager like the opposite party no.2, and therefore there could not be any question of dis-engagement as alleged on 28.04.1990. It was also stated that sometimes daily wagers were indeed engaged but their engagement was on daily basis and on completion of work, they automatically were disengaged, no termination orders were passed. It was also stated by the Employers before the opposite party no.1 that a Junior Engineer was not competent to engage the petitioner as Daily wager and he could not have issued any Experience Certificate to him.

19. The workman in rejoinder had stated that he was given his wages on Voucher Form No.28 and was issued an Experience Certificate by the Junior Engineer, Shri Prakash Sharma, and that he had worked for more than 240 days in the preceding twelve months to his termination and that the Attendance Register and the Payment Register be summoned which is available in the office of the Executive Engineer.

20. His application for summoning the record was resisted by the Employer even though an order was passed by the Labour Court for summoning the same. It was alleged by the Employer that since the records were quite old, they had been weeded out. The Employer, however, did not produce any evidence even after it being summoned by the Labour Court, to show that such records had indeed be weeded out.

21. The opposite party no.1 has drawn the adverse inference on this ground saying that in all Government Departments including the Corporation which is a Government Company, a Register is maintained mentioning the records that have been weeded out. No such Register was produced to substantiate their claim that due to passage of time the old records had been weeded out.

22. The opposite party no.1 has also referred to statement of Employer's witness no.1 Shri Prakash Chandra Gangwal, Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division, Gonda, who stated on Oath that there was no engagement on Muster Roll Employee after 01.02.1979, but on cross-examination it was admitted by him that he had been working as an Executive Engineer in the Division concerned only since 26.07.2008. The workers at the Sub-Station at Colonelganj, were supervised by the Junior Engineer and that he had not seen the record maintained at Sub-station at Colonelganj, with regard to the working of daily wagers.

23. The opposite party no.1 after considering the evidence recorded a finding that Board had issued an order on 25.02.1981 directing that Muster Roll Daily Wager may be engaged to do the work which was earlier being performed by the Contract Labourers, and that the Executive Engineer was designated as Competent Officer to issue Experience Certificate only in November, 1990, by the Board. The Experience Certificate issued to the opposite party no.2 was dated 30.04.1990. Having came to a definite conclusion on the basis of evidence produced by the opposite party no.2, that he had been engaged as Daily Wage Muster Roll Employee and worked for more than 240 days in the preceding year, the Labour Court found his termination to have been done without paying him retrenchment compensation.

24. With regard to the delay in initiating the Industrial dispute, the opposite party no.1 relied upon the Ajaib Singh (Supra) and also a judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in 2006 (108) FLR 740. This Court finds that the citations mentioned by the opposite party no.1 in the Award impugned for example 2006 (108) FLR 740 is non-existent, there may have been typographical error in recording the same.

25. Having found the termination of the opposite party no.2 to be in Violation of Section 6-N of the Act. The opposite party no.1 directed for reinstatement of the opposite party no.2 with effect from 30.04.1990 as Muster Roll Coolie and observed that since the opposite party no.2 had initiated the conciliation proceedings only on 03.01.2000, he may be given only 20% of the back wages with effect from 03.01.2000, till the date of his reinstatement. However, he was entitled to continuity in service and seniority and all benefits that have been given by the employers to similarly placed daily wage Muster Roll Employee in the meantime.

26. This Court shall now consider the judgments cited by the learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 namely Ajaib Singh Vs. Sirhind Co-operative Marketing-Cum-Processing Service Society Ltd. (Supra). In the said judgment the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed, on the basis of the history of Labour Legislation including the Statement of Objects and reasons of the Industrial Dispute Act, 1947, that Article 137 of the Limitation Act had not been specifically made applicable to the proceedings under the Industrial Disputes Act or to seeking a reference of Industrial Dispute to the Labour Court. It observed that the Legislature had intended to protect workmen against victimization and exploitation by the employer and to ensure termination of industrial disputes in a peaceful manner. The object of the Act, therefore, is to give succour to weaker sections of the society which is a pre-requisite for a welfare State.

27. The Supreme Court referred to judgment rendered earlier by it where it had been observed that the provisions of the Limitation Act applied only to proceedings in Courts and not to Appeals or applications before the bodies other than Courts, such as a quasi-judicial Tribunal, or Executive Authorities, notwithstanding the fact that such bodies or authorities may be vested within certain specified powers conferred on Courts under the Codes of Civil or Criminal Procedure.

28. The Supreme Court observed that in Jai Bhagwan V. Management of the Ambala Central Co-operative Bank Ltd. reported in AIR 1984 SC 286, the Supreme Court had declined to set aside the order of reinstatement of the workman who was found to be wrongly terminated, but having regard to the fact that he had raised the Industrial dispute after a considerable delay without doing anything in the meanwhile, he was not awarded back wages. The grant of half back wages from the date of termination of service until the date of the order and full back wages from that date till his reinstatement was found in the circumstances to meet the ends of justice.

29. In H.M.T. Ltd. V. Labour Court, Ernakulam, reported in 1994 Lab LR 720 (SC), the Supreme Court observed in respect of claim of full back wages that where there was a delay of 14 years in invoking the jurisdiction of the Labour Court, grant of 60% of back wages upon reinstatement of the workman would meet the ends of justice. It was moreover, observed in Paragraph 10 of the judgment rendered in Ajaib Singh (Supra) that the plea of delay if raised by the employer is required to be proved as a matter of fact by showing the real prejudice and not as a merely hypothetical defence. No reference to the Labour Court can be generally questioned on the ground of delay alone. Even in a case where the delay is shown to be existing, the Tribunal, Labour Court or the Board, dealing with the case can appropriately mould the relief by declining to grant wages to the workman till the date he raised the demand regarding his illegal retrenchment/ termination or dismissal. In some cases, the Court may grant compensation instead of part of back wages.

30. Referring to a Full Bench decision of the Punjab and Haryana High Court in Ram Chander Morya V. State of Haryana High Court reported in (1999) 1 SCT 141, which was cited by the respondent counsel in Ajaib Singh (Supra), the Supreme Court observed that :-

"We are of the opinion that the Punjab and Haryana High Court was not justified in prescribing the limitation for getting the reference made or an application under Section 37-C of the Act to be adjudicated. It is not the function of the Court to prescribe the limitation where the Legislature in its wisdom had thought it fit not to prescribe any period. The courts admittedly interpret law and do not make laws, Personal views of the Judges presiding the Court cannot be stretched to authorize them to interpret law in such a manner which would amount to legislation intentionally left over by the Legislature. The judgment of the Full Bench of the Punjab and Haryana High Court has completely ignored the object of the Act and various pronouncements of this Court as noted hereinabove and thus is not a good law on the point of the applicability of the period of limitation for the purposes of invoking the jurisdiction of the Courts/Boards and Tribunal under the Act".

31. The Supreme Court further observed that in the facts of the case in Ajaib Singh (Supra), the Tribunal ought to have moulded the relief and held that instead of the order of full back wages to be paid it should have given only part of the back wages for the unexplained delay in approaching the Labour Court.

32. Similar observations have been made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court Employers, In Relation to The Management of Sudamdih Colliery of M/s Bharat Coking Coal Ltd. (Supra). The Supreme Court considered the judgments rendered by it in Nedungadi Bank Ltd. V. K.P. Madhavankutty reported in 2000 (84) FLR 673 (SC) in Paragraph 7 of the report, Paragraph 7 in Sudamdih Colliery (Supra) is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"Law does not prescribe any time limit for the appropriate Government to exercise its powers under Section 10 of the Act It is not that this power can be exercised at any point of time and to revive matters which had since been settled Power is to be exercised reasonably and in a rational manner. There appears to us to be no rational basis on which the Central Government has exercised powers in this case after lapse of about seven years of order dismissing the respondent from service. At the time reference was made no industrial dispute existed or could be even said to have been apprehended. A dispute which is stale could not be the subject-matter of reference under Section 10 of the Act. As to when a dispute can be said to be stale would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. When the matter has become final, it appears to us to be rather incongruous that the reference be made under Section 10 of the Act in the circumstances like the present one. In fact it could be said that there was no dispute pending at the time When the reference in question was made. The only ground advanced by the respondent was that two other employees who were dismissed from service were reinstated. Under what circumstances they were dismissed and subsequently reinstated is nowhere mentioned. Demand raised by the respondent for raising industrial dispute was ex facie bad and incompetent."

33. In the two Co-ordinate Bench decisions of this Court cited by the learned counsel for the respondent more or less the same settled position in law has been reiterated with regard to delay on the part of the workman in approaching the Labour Court and raising a dispute.

34. This Court has also found in Jasmer Singh Vs. State of Haryana reported in 2015 (4) SCC 458, The Supreme Court has relied upon in Ajaib Singh Vs. Sirhind Cooperative (Supra) and reiterated that any limitation as prescribed under the Limitation Act would not apply in case an Industrial dispute is raised by a workman. No Reference to a Labour Court can be generally questioned on the ground of delay alone. In Raghuveer Singh Vs. General Manager, Haryana State Roadways Corporation, Ajaib Singh (Supra) has again been relied upon to hold that the question of limitation would not apply, although the Labour Court may have the discretion to mould the relief in case the workman approaches the Court with delay.

35. Having perused the Award impugned, this Court finds that the opposite party no.1 has more or less stuck to the settled position in law while granting relief to the workman. It is found that there was 10 years delay in starting conciliation proceedings and therefore, 20% of the back wages have been granted to the workman from the date the application for conciliation proceedings was filed by the workman till the date of order for reinstatement. No back wages have been granted for the ten years the workman remained out of employment with effect from 1992 to the year 2000. Moreover, the workman concerned has been given reinstatement only as Muster Roll Coolie, the original post on which he was working and he has been given service benefits that were similar to employees working on Muster Roll in the same Establishment. The workman was found entitled to continuity in service and seniority also.

36. The Labour Court having exercised its discretion judiciously in giving relief to the workman, this Court finds no good ground to show interference in such discretion being judiciously exercised.

37. This Court has also perused the order-sheet. When the writ petition was initially admitted by this Court on 03.11.2016, the impugned Award had been stayed on the condition that the opposite party no.2 shall be reinstated in service by the petitioner. It has not been disputed by the opposite party no.2 that he has not been reinstated in service on the basis of such conditional interim order.

38. This writ petition is, therefore, dismissed. No order as to costs.

A. Prevention of corruption Act, 1988-Secs. 7, 13(1)(d) & 13(2)-Code of Cr. Procedure-Secs. 205 (2) & 317(1)-Petitioner-aggrieved by-recording of examination-in-chief-of PW1-in the absence of petitioner and his counsel-normal rule-evidence shall be taken-in presence of accused-in his absence-his counsel must be present-Petition Allowed.

B. Held, that a question could be legitimately be asked—what might happen if the counsel engaged by the accused (whose personal appearance is dispensed with)does not appear or that the counsel does not cooperate in proceeding with the case? We may point out that the legislature has taken care of such eventualities. Sec. 205(2) says that Magistrate can in his discretion direct the personal attendance of the accused at any stage of the proceedings. The last limb of sec. 317(1) confers a discretion on the Magistrate to direct the personal attendance of the accused at any subsequent stage of the proceedings. He can even resort to other steps for forcing such attendance.

Thus, it is found that the examination-in-chief of PW1 was recorded in absence of the applicant as well as his counsel. Therefore, the order dated 06.11.2019 passed by the Special Judge P.C Act-VII, Lko is hereby set aside.

List of cases cited:-

1. Bhaskar Industries Ltd. vs. Bhawani Denim & Apparels Ltd. & Ors. 2001 (7) SCC 401

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajeev Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Pal Singh Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Aniruddh Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A. and perused the record.

2. By means of the present petition, the petitioner prayed for following prayers:-

i. To pass appropriate order for setting aside the examination in chief of the informant PW-1, the opposite party No.2.

ii. To pass appropriate orders for transfer of trial of criminal case No.1302 of 2018 from the court of Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge-VII PC Act, Lucknow to any other competent court for trial of the case.

iii. To pass appropriate orders for initiating judicial enquiry in respect of aforesaid proceedings by misusing the powers.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that on the written complaint of the Inspector Jai Shankar Singh, the F.I.R. as Case Crime No.240 of 2018, under Sections 7, 13(1)(d), 13(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 was registered against the petitioner on 30.05.2018 and after investigation, the charge sheet was filed and the cognizance was taken by the competent court. After framing the charges, the prosecution witness was summoned. He further submitted that the matter was fixed on 06.11.2019. On the said date, the petitioner was unable to attend the court due to illness, as a result, he informed to his counsel and his counsel stated him that he is out of station, therefore, adjournment application would be moved alongwith application for exemption before the trial court by his junior counsel.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that a composite application was moved before the trial court by paying court fees of Rs.5/- for both the prayer (Rs.3 for adjournment and Rs.2 for exemption).

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the prayer for exemption was allowed and he further submitted that as it was properly informed to the trial court by moving the application that the counsel for applicant was out of station, so some other date may be fixed, but without considering the provisions of Section 317 Cr.P.C., the Examination-in-Chief of PW1 was recorded. He further submitted that at about 3:00 p.m., the junior of the counsel for the applicant went to the court and found that prayer for exemption of the applicant was accepted but the Examination-in-Chief of PW1 was recorded in absence of counsel for the applicant, then another application was moved immediately by the junior of the counsel for the applicant with the prayer for the rejection of Examination-in-Chief of PW1, which was recorded in absence of the counsel for the applicant and also requested that the PW1 may be recalled for recording Examination-in-Chief afresh.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the learned court below did interpolation in the order dated 06.11.2019 and deleted the sentence "केवल आज के लिए स्वीकृत"।

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that thereafter, the Presiding Officer also endorsed on the application that two prayers cannot be prayed in a single application, hence application is not maintainable rejected and he further submitted that on the second application moved by the junior of the counsel for the applicant for recalling of Examination-in-Chief of PW1, as his Examination-in-Chief was recorded in absence of the accused person as well as counsel for the applicant, but his second application was also rejected by the Presiding Officer. The rejection order dated 06.11.2019 on the second application of the applicant is as under:-

पुकार कराई गई। अभि0 की हा0 माफी का प्रा0 पत्र प्रस्तुत है। ~~केवल आज के लिए स्वीकृत~~। निरस्त हुआ। बयान PW-1 अंकित किया गया। अभियुक्त के जु0 अधि उपस्थित। हस्ताक्षर से इन्कार किया। दि0 6/12/19 को वास्ते जीरह पेश।

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that provisions of Section 317 Cr.P.C. clearly provides that in case, the presence of accused is exempted, then the presence of his counsel/lawyer for further proceeding is required. In the present case, by moving one duly stamped application making two prayer one for exemption of the accused and second for adjournment due to personal reasons of the lawyer. He further submitted that on the aforesaid application, the presence of the applicant was exempted by the court below, as it was mentioned in the application that the lawyer is out of station, but the Examination-in-Chief of PW1 was recorded in absence of the lawyer of the applicant and when this fact was apprised to the court below, then the interpolation was made in the order and the application was also rejected by endorsing a new order i.e. two prayers were made in the application, therefore, the application was not maintainable. He further submitted that the learned court below failed to appreciate the fact that the application was duly stamped and by making interpolation in the exemption order, the application for exemption was also rejected, but no any process for presence of the applicant was ordered either by the bailable warrant or any other coercive steps. It also reveals that change was made in the order sheet. He further submitted that the Examination-in-Chief of PW1 was recorded in the absence of lawyer of applicant cannot be considered as an evidence, therefore, the same is liable to be rejected and the court below may be directed to recall the PW1 for fresh Examination-in-Chief in presence of the lawyer of the applicant.

9. Mr. Gaurav Mehrotra, Advocate appearing on behalf of the opposite party No.1 informed that written instructions duly signed by the Presiding Officer of the court below are available and the photocopy of the same is taken on record and it is undisputed that at the first instance, the exemption application of applicant was allowed and thereafter, another order was endorsed on the application that two prayers cannot be prayed in a single application not maintainable rejected and on the order sheet, the exemption prayer was rejected on the next moment and he further submitted that there was no misuse of power by the court, no miscarriage of justice is caused to the petitioner by mere recording of Examination-in-Chief of witness and he further submitted that the present Presiding Officer has no objection, in case, the trial of the aforesaid case is being transferred to some other court.

10. Considering the arguments of learned counsel for the petitioner as well as Mr. Gaurav Mehrotra, Advocate appearing on behalf of ADJ/Special Judge P.C. Act VII, Lucknow and going through the records, it is undisputed that Case No.1302 of 2018 arising out of Case Crime No. 240 of 2018, under Sections 7/13(1)(d), r/w 13(2) of P.C. Act was fixed for evidence of prosecution witness and the applicant moved an application through junior of his counsel and prayed for his exemption and also prayed for fixing some other date, as his counsel was out of station and at the first instance, his application for exemption was allowed and it seems that the Examination-in-Chief of PW1 was recorded despite the fact that it was informed to the court below that the counsel for applicant was out of station and the case was fixed on 06.12.2019 for cross-examination of PW1, but in the afternoon, by way of second application which read as under:-

A request was made in the aforesaid application that some other date may be fixed and the PW1 may be recalled for his Examination-in-Chief a fresh, as his statement was recorded in the absence of learned counsel for the applicant, but his application was rejected by saying that since the Examination-in-Chief of witness has been recorded with due permission of the court, therefore, his application was not maintainable and it is also evident that some changes were made in the order sheet as discussed above.

11. It is also relevant to mention here that the basic canon of criminal jurisprudence is that the accused is innocent till proven guilty and that the accused is entitled to a just and fair trial. A fair trial, no doubt, should be governing equally the accused, the prosecution or the victims. Prosecution in a Criminal trial gets an opportunity to first lead evidence. The defence cross examines the prosecution witness to escape their veracity.

12. According to Bentham, "Witnesses are the eyes and ears of justice" and the very existence of trial court is only for dispensation of justice, the process of court should not be used for harassment of the parties, as Section 273 Cr.P.C. provides that evidence shall be taken in presence of the accused or in the absence of accused when his personal attendance is dispensed with, in presence of his pleader.

13. As the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bhaskar Industries Ltd. Vs. Bhawani Denim & Apparels Ltd. and Others reported in (2001) 7 SCC 401 observed that normal rule is that the evidence shall be taken in presence of the accused, however, in absence of the accused such evidence can be taken, but then his counsel must be present. The relevant paras of the judgment are being reproduced as under:-

"12. We cannot part with this matter without adverting to the plea made by the second accused before the trial court for exempting him from personal appearance. He highlighted two factors while seeking such exemption. First is that the offence under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act is relatively not a serious offence as could be seen from the fact that the legislature made it only a summons case. Second is, the insistence on the physical presence of the accused in the case would cause substantial hardships and sufferings to him as he is a resident of Haryana. To undertake a long journey to reach Bhopal for making his physical presence in the court involves, apart from great hardships, much expense also, contended the counsel. He submitted that the advantages the court gets on account of the presence of the accused are far less than the tribulations the accused has to suffer to make such presence in certain situations and hence the court should consider whether such advantages can be achieved by other measures. Therefore, he relied on Section 317 of the Code. It reads thus:

"317. Provision for enquiries and trial being held in the absence of accused in certain cases.--(1) At any stage of an enquiry or trial under this Code, if the Judge or Magistrate is satisfied, for reasons to be recorded, that the personal attendance of the accused before the court is not necessary in the interests of justice, or that the accused persistently disturbs the proceedings in court, the Judge or Magistrate may, if the accused is represented by a pleader, dispense with his attendance and proceed with such enquiry or trial in his absence, and may, at any subsequent stage of the proceedings, direct the personal attendance of such accused.

(2) If the accused in any such case is not represented by a pleader, or if the Judge or Magistrate considers his personal attendance necessary, he may, if he thinks fit and for reasons to be recorded by him, either adjourn such enquiry or trial, or order that the case of such accused be taken up or tried separately."

13. Sub-section (1) envisages two exigencies when the court can proceed with the trial proceedings in a criminal case after dispensing with the personal attendance of an accused. We are not concerned with one of those exigencies i.e. when the accused persistently disturbs the proceedings. Here we need consider only the other exigency. If a court is satisfied that in the interest of justice the personal attendance of an accused before it need not be insisted on, then the court has the power to dispense with the attendance of that accused. In this context, a reference to Section 273 of the Code is useful. It says that:

"273. Except as otherwise expressly provided, all evidence taken in the course of the trial or other proceeding shall be taken in the presence of the accused, or, when his personal attendance is dispensed with, in the presence of his pleader."

If a court feels that insisting on the personal attendance of an accused in a particular case would be too harsh on account of a variety of reasons, can't the court afford relief to such an accused in the matter of facing the prosecution proceedings?

14. The normal rule is that the evidence shall be taken in the presence of the accused. However, even in the absence of the accused such evidence can be taken but then his counsel must be present in the court, provided he has been granted exemption from attending the court. The concern of the criminal court should primarily be the administration of criminal justice. For that purpose the proceedings of the court in the case should register progress. Presence of the accused in the court is not for marking his attendance just for the sake of seeing him in the court. It is to enable the court to proceed with the trial. If the progress of the trial can be achieved even in the absence of the accused the court can certainly take into account the magnitude of the sufferings which a particular accused person may have to bear with in order to make himself present in the court in that particular case.

15. These are days when prosecutions for the offence under Section 138 are galloping up in criminal courts. Due to the increase of inter-State transactions through facilities of the banks, it is not uncommon that when prosecutions are instituted in one State the accused might belong to a different State, sometimes a far distant State. Not very rarely, such accused would be ladies also. For prosecution under Section 138 of the NI Act the trial should be that of a summons case. When a Magistrate feels that insistence of personal attendance of the accused in a summons case, in a particular situation, would inflict enormous hardship and cost to a particular accused, it is open to the Magistrate to consider how he can relieve such an accused of the great hardships, without causing prejudice to the prosecution proceedings.

16. Section 251 is the commencing provision in Chapter XX of the Code which deals with trial of summons cases by Magistrates. It enjoins on the court to ask the accused whether he pleads guilty when the "accused appears or is brought before the Magistrate". The appearance envisaged therein can either be by personal attendance of the accused or through his advocate. This can be understood from Section 205(1) of the Code which says that:

"205. (1) Whenever a Magistrate issues a summons, he may, if he sees reason so to do, dispense with the personal attendance of the accused and permit him to appear by his pleader."

17. Thus, in appropriate cases the Magistrate can allow an accused to make even the first appearance through a counsel. The Magistrate is empowered to record the plea of the accused even when his counsel makes such plea on behalf of the accused in a case where the personal appearance of the accused is dispensed with. Section 317 of the Code has to be viewed in the above perspective as it empowers the court to dispense with the personal attendance of the accused (provided he is represented by a counsel in that case) even for proceeding with the further steps in the case. However, one precaution which the court should take in such a situation is that the said benefit need be granted only to an accused who gives an undertaking to the satisfaction of the court that he would not dispute his identity as the particular accused in the case, and that a counsel on his behalf would be present in court and that he has no objection in taking evidence in his absence. This precaution is necessary for the further progress of the proceedings including examination of the witnesses.*

18. A question could legitimately be asked -- what might happen if the counsel engaged by the accused (whose personal appearance is dispensed with) does not appear or that the counsel does not cooperate in proceeding with the case? We may point out that the legislature has taken care of such eventualities. Section 205(2) says that the Magistrate can in his discretion direct the personal attendance of the accused at any stage of the proceedings. The last limb of Section 317(1) confers a discretion on the Magistrate to direct the personal attendance of the accused at any subsequent stage of the proceedings. He can even resort to other steps for enforcing such attendance."*

14. Thus, it is found that the Examination in Chief of PW1 was recorded in absence of the applicant as well as his counsel. Therefore, the order dated 06.11.2019 passed by the Special Judge P.C. Act-VII, Lucknow in Case No.1302 of 2018 arising out of Case Crime No. 240 of 2018, under Sections 7/13(1)(d), r/w 13(2) of P.C. Act is hereby set aside.

15. The trial court is directed to recall PW1 and record his Examination-in-Chief in accordance with the observation mentioned here and above and also proceed strictly, in accordance with law.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J. & Hon'ble Rajeev Misra, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kunal Shah and Sri Abhinav Bhattacharya, Advocates for petitioner and Sri Nimai Das, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel assisted by Sri B.P. Singh Kachhawah, Standing Counsel for respondents.

2. Petitioner-Rajat Gangwar, has filed this writ petition claiming himself to be an Advocate registered with U.P. Bar Council, Enrollment No. U.P. (G) 6734/2014 and Advocate on Roll No. 1494/2016, practicing with Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, Senior Advocate and Sri Amrendra Nath Tripathi, Advocate, at Lucknow.

3. The writ petition has been filed as Public Interest Litigation (hereinafter referred to as 'PIL') with following prayer:

"(a) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of a mandamus directing the Respondents to formulate guidelines for grant of permission of peaceful demonstrations after taking into consideration the competing interests of various stake holders.

(b) Issue a suitable order for setting up of Claims Commissioner in the light of the guidelines stipulated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Destruction of Public and Private Properties v. State of A.P. and Others (2009) 5 SCC 212.

(c) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of a mandamus directing the Respondents to upload information on accessible electronic database with respect to detainees who have been arrested in the aftermath of the protests that ensued in the State of Uttar Pradesh after the enactment of Citizenship Amendment Act, 2019, status reports of the investigation/trials and provide visitation rights to their lawyers and friends, as per law.

(d) Issue any other suitable writ, order or direction, which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case;

4. Petitioner claims to espouse the cause of residents of State of U.P. including peaceful protesters, persons who have suffered loss of property and life due to protests, turning violent, and injured police personnel of State of U.P. Petitioner also seeks enforcement of various guidelines laid down by Supreme Court in In Re: Destruction of Public and Private Properties vs. State of Andhra Pradesh and others, 2009(5) SCC 212; Mazdoor Kisan Shakti Sangathan vs. The Union of India (UOI) and Ors., AIR 2018 SC 3476; and, Kodungallur Film Society and Ors. vs. Union of India (UOI) and Ors., 2018(10) SCC 713.

5. Brief facts stated in the writ petition are that, on 19.07.2016 Citizenship (Amendment) Bill, 2016 was introduced in Lok Sabha and on 12.08.2016 it was referred to Joint Parliamentary Committee. It was passed by Lok Sabha on 08.01.2019 but due to dissolution of Lok Sabha, Bill lapsed. Later on Citizenship (Amendment) Bill 2019 was introduced on 09.12.2019 in 17th Lok Sabha and passed on 10.12.2019. On 11.12.2019 Rajya Sabha also passed Bill. It received assent of President of India on 12.12.2012 and became Citizenship (Amendment) Act, 2019 (hereinafter referred to as "CAA, 2019"). It is also stated in Para 15 of writ petition that vires of CAA, 2019 has been challenged before Supreme Court by filing writ petitions under Article 32 of Constitution of India. On 18.12.2019 Supreme Court issued notices and has fixed 22.01.2020 for hearing. In the meantime several protests ensued across the country which included protests held at Jamia Millia Islamia University, Delhi (hereinafter referred to as 'JMIU') and Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh (hereinafter referred to as 'AMU'). In State of U.P. also similar protests ensued at Lucknow on 19.12.2019 which turned violent resulting in damage to public property as also loss of life and injuries to several persons. Print and Electronic Media have reported information of spreading of similar protests which turned violent in different cities of State of U.P., i.e., Aligarh, Meerut, Muzaffarnagar, Bijnor, Bulandshahr, Kanpur, Rampur, Gorakhpur and Varanasi, wherein about 17 persons lost their life, to the best knowledge of petitioner. Police outpost and several private and government movable and immovable properties were vandalized and set ablaze. At some places stone pelting and firing by belligerent protesters also took place. District authorities imposed restrictions under Section 144 Cr.P.C. but violating the same various protests which turned violent were raised. Protests continued at different places in State of U.P. As per newspaper report the restrictions under Section 144 Cr.P.C. imposed on 20.12.2019 have been extended upto 31.01.2020. Chief Minister is also reported to have stated that no permission was granted by State authorities to anyone to observe protest amidst operation of restriction under Section 144 Cr.P.C. Similar statement was made by Director General of Police, State of U.P. (hereinafter referred to as 'DGPUP'). It is further stated that though petitioner does not dispute that requirement of prior permission to exercise fundamental rights of peaceful protests and peaceful assembly guaranteed under Article 19(1)(a) and 19(1)(b) of Constitution of India is valid restriction, but respondents-authorities under the garb of restrictive orders, passed under Section 144 of Cr.P.C., cannot scuttle, efface or throttle fundamental rights of peaceful protesters and demonstrators. Their exists a duty on the part of State to balance competing interest i.e. rights under Article 19(1)(a) and 19(1)(b) of citizens vis-a-vis duty of State to maintain law and public order. It is to be undertaken in the manner as stated by Supreme Court in Para 29 of the judgments in Ramlila Maidan Incident vs. Home Secretary, Union of India (UOI) and Ors., 2012(5) SCC 1; In Re: Destruction of Public and Private Properties vs. State of Andhra Pradesh (supra); Mazdoor Kisan Shakti Sangathan vs. The Union of India (supra); and, Kodungallur Film Society and Ors. vs. Union of India (supra). State is under a dual obligation to bolster and foster fundamental rights of citizens under Article 19 of Constitution. At the same time, it is under an obligation to ensure public order, tranquility and social order. Rights of citizens can be regulated with reasonable restrictions but cannot be prohibited altogether. However, State has failed in its obligation to secure law and order and protect fundamental rights of citizens inasmuch as State Government did not conceive of any guidelines qua granting/refusal of permission in the wake of operation of orders under Section 144 Cr.P.C. State has failed to conceptualize guidelines for granting permission and regulating protesters. It is imperative upon State, as a part of regulative measures, to demarcate area, time slot of protest, identification etc. of protesters and credentials thereof, before grant of any permission for observing protests, processions etc. State is also under obligation to deploy adequate security forces, provide medical facilities, drone photography/videography, availability of fire brigades etc. It is also obligatory to deploy requisite strength of water cannons to ensure peaceful procession and to overcome any untoward incident.

6. Some directions were issued in similar matter by a Division Bench of Madras High Court in Writ Petition No. 36634 of 2019, Varaaki vs. Chief Secretary Tamil Nadu, decided on 22.12.2019 and the same are relied in para 37 of the writ petition.

7. It is pleaded by petitioner in para 39 onwards that State of U.P. is engulfed in a very sorry state of affairs. There have been widespread destruction of public and private properties. The incident of violence has continued unabated for the past a few days and have gripped various cities of State of U.P. The said demonstrations/ protests have thrown public and private life and property in jeopardy. News of violence is continuing with each passing hour. Several police personnel, innocent citizens and protesters have sustained injuries. Some have lost lives. Public and private property have also been damaged by certain miscreants and anti-social elements. The miscreants have sabotaged peaceful protests and hindering the right of free speech of innocent citizens. They have also committed criminal acts qua private and public properties. It is imperative upon Government to assess damages caused to public and private property, by appointing a Claims Commissioner and thereafter to make investigation into the liability. Print and Electronic Media report shows that respondents have started identification of miscreants and to recover loss of public and private property, fixing liability and recovering the amount of damages. However, a road map or procedure qua assessment of damages has to be prepared in the light of guidelines laid down by Supreme Court in In Re: Destruction of Public and Private Properties vs. State of Andhra Pradesh (supra).

8. Petitioner has also stated in Para 46 that respondents must upload information on accessible electronic database with respect to the detainees and provide visitation rights to their lawyers, family members and friends, as per law. Respondents-authorities after the protest turned violent instead of devising a mechanism and participating with persons organising protests, have started a massive unprecedented crackdown on activists and other persons, arresting and detaining several of them. A number of activists including lawyers have also been detained by respondents.

9. Petitioner claims to have received telephonic calls in the evening of 21.12.2019, stating that some activists of Peoples Union for Civil Liberties (hereinafter referred to as 'PUCL') have been arrested and detained in Lucknow and Muzaffarnagar.

10. One Mohd. Shoaib, Advocate was detained in Lucknow by respondents and his whereabouts were not known to his kith and kin, resulting into filing of Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 36848 of 2019 before Lucknow Bench of this Court, wherein an order was passed on 21.12.2019 (copy of the said order has been placed on record as Annexure 9 to the writ petition). In Para 51 of the writ petition, it is stated that petitioner has received information from colleagues and other persons that various persons detained are facing similar predicaments and their whereabouts are not known to their kiths and kins. In this regard, a reference is made to the cases of Shamim Ahmad, Shavez Ahmad, Abdul Haffez and Ibad Ahmad, whose whereabouts have not been communicated to their kiths and kins and in this regard, a letter dated nil (Annexure 10 to the writ petition) has been submitted by one Raees Jahan, wife of Irshad Ahmad to the District Magistrate, Lucknow. In this backdrop, it has been prayed that directions be issued as prayed in the writ petition, which we have quoted above.

11. Learned counsel for petitioner contended that peaceful protest and assembly is a part of fundamental right of speech and movement. Though reasonable restrictions may be imposed but fundamental rights of protest and assembly or raising voice of dissent cannot be prohibited in an arbitrary manner. In the garb of taking action against protest march, which turned violent, State authorities cannot penalize innocent protesters, ignoring the fact that violent activities have been dominated by some miscreants and anti-social elements who have intruded the peaceful protests. Instead of identifying those miscreants and anti-social elements, State is illegally arresting and detaining innocent people, attaching their properties, denying information, which they, under law, are bound to disclose, to their kith and kin. A large number of residents of State of U.P. are being denied their fundamental rights of free movement etc. at the pretext of arrest and detention. He further submitted that various guidelines and preventive actions which State authorities are obliged to observe in such circumstances as laid down by Supreme Court in various authorities are being ignored and blatantly, being violated. Since the number of such persons is so much that everyone cannot approach this Court, hence, this writ petition for protection of their rights in the hands of arbitrary and illegal action of the respondents.

12. Shri Nimai Das, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel (hereinafter referred to as 'ACSC') assisted by Shri B.P. Singh Kachhawah, Standing Counsel, after receiving instructions, has stated that as on 25.12.2019 in all, 1022 persons have been arrested at different places and details thereof are as under :-

13. He has also placed before us a copy of letter dated 26.12.2019 sent by the Additional Chief Secretary (Home) (hereinafter referred to as 'Add. CS (Home)') to the District Magistrates of Lucknow, Meerut, Hapur, Saharanpur, Rampur, Firozabad, Kanpur Nagar, Muzaffarnagar, Mau, Aligarh, Gorakhpur and Bulandshahar, directing them to make assessment of loss of public and private property and take action for recovery of damages from responsible protesters causing such damage, in accordance with Government Order dated 27.04.2011, which was issued pursuant to Supreme Court's judgment in In Re: Destruction of Public and Private Properties vs. State of Andhra Pradesh (supra) and this Court's judgment in Mohammad Shujauddin vs. State of U.P. and others, 2011(1) ADJ 63. Learned ACSC further stated that after making due identification of guilty persons i.e. after collecting video clipping, photographs etc. which have been prepared by individual residents of the affected area, media and police authorities etc., notices are being sent to those persons who are identified prima facie, giving them opportunity to reply and thereafter, appropriate action is under process. He clearly stated that without proper identification and ascertaining involvement of individual in destructive activities, causing damage to public and private property etc., no action would be taken by State against any individual who is otherwise innocent. Every care and precaution, as far as possible, to the highest extent, is being taken by State authorities in ensuring this objective.

14. We have heard parties at length. The entire genesis of dispute raised in this writ petition is Citizenship Act, 1955 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 1955') and amendment made therein vide CAA, 2019. It would, therefore, be appropriate to have a glimpse of aforesaid statute.

15. Part-II of Constitution of India deals with subject of 'Citizenship'. It has Articles 5 to 11. Article 5 provides that at commencement of this Constitution, every person who has his domicile in territory of India and (a) was born in the territory of India; or (b) either of whose parents was born in the territory of India; or (iii) who has been ordinarily resident in the territory of India for not less than five years immediately preceding such commencement, shall be a citizen of India.

16. Therefore, every person who had his domicile in territory of India and born before 26th January, 1950 or any of his parents was born in the territory of India or the individual was residing in territory of India for a period not less than five years before 26th January, 1950, shall be a citizen of India. This is 'Citizenship' conferred by Article 5 at the commencement of Constitution.

17. The term "territory of India" has been defined in Article 1. Article 6 talks of citizenship of such persons who migrated to India from Pakistan. Giving overriding effect over Article 5, Article 5 provides that a person who has migrated to territory of India from territory now included in Pakistan, shall be deemed to be a citizen of India at the commencement of Constitution if (i) he or either of his parents or any of his grandparents was born in India, as defined in Government of India Act, 1935 (as originally enacted); and (ii) in case where such person has so migrated before 19th July, 1948, he has been ordinarily resident in territory of India since the date of his migration; or in the case where such person has so migrated on or after 19th July, 1948, he has been registered as a citizen of India by an officer appointed in that behalf by Government of the Dominion of India on an application made by him therefor to such officer before the commencement of Constitution in the form and manner prescribed by Government.

18. There is a proviso also that no person shall be so registered unless he has been resident in territory of India for at least six months immediately preceding the date of his application.

19. Article 7 talks of rights of citizenship of certain migrants to Pakistan after 1st March, 1947. It is stated that a person, who has after 1st March, 1947, migrated from territory of India to territory now included in Pakistan, shall not be deemed to be a citizen of India. There is a proviso, however, providing that a person who had so migrated to Pakistan, but then returned to territory of India under a permit for resettlement or permanent return issued by or under the authority of any law, every such person shall, for the purposes of Article 6 (b), be deemed to have been migrated to territory of India after 19th July, 1948. Article 7 has been given overriding effect over Articles 5 and 6 both.

20. Article 8 talks of right of citizenship to certain persons of Indian origin residing outside India. Article 9 talks of loss of citizenship of India if any person has voluntarily acquired citizenship of any foreign State. Article 10 provides that every person who is or is deemed to be a citizen of India under any of the provisions of Part-II of Constitution, shall, subject to the provisions of any law that may be made by Parliament, continue to be such citizen. Article 11 provides that nothing in the foregoing provisions of Part-II shall derogate from the power of Parliament to make any provision with respect to acquisition and termination of citizenship and all other matters relating to citizenship.

21. Considering the above provision, in State of U.P. and others vs. Shah Mohammed and others, (1969) 1 SCC 771, Court held that Constitution does not intend to lay down a permanent or comprehensive law relating to citizenship of India. Power to enact such a law is left to Parliament and it is not fettered by Articles 5 to 10. It is competent for Parliament, in exercise of power conferred by Article 11, to take away or effect citizenship already acquired under other articles of Part-II of the Constitution. This is what was also held in Izhar Ahmad Khan vs. Union of India, 1962 AIR 1052.

22. Entry 17, list I Schedule VII of Constitution provides subject of "Citizenship, naturalisation and aliens" and thus, power to make law in respect of citizenship is within the ambit of Parliament.

23. In exercise of aforesaid power, Parliament enacted Act, 1955. Section 3 of Act, 1955 deals with the subject of 'Citizenship by birth'; Section 4 talks of 'Citizenship by descent'; Section 5 provides 'Citizenship by registration' and Section 6 deals with 'Citizenship by naturalisation'. Section 8 confers power upon any citizen to renunciate citizenship and Section 9 talks of termination of citizenship. Section 10 talks of 'Deprivation of citizenship' in certain cases. Section 13 makes a provision for Certificate of Citizenship in case of doubt, which can be issued by Central Government. It provides that such certificate, when issued, shall be conclusive evidence that person was citizen on date of such certificate, but this is without prejudice to any evidence that he was such a citizen at an earlier date. Section 16 confers power upon Central Government to delegate its powers, except Sections 10 and 18, to such officer or authority as may be so specified. Section 18 confers power of making rules upon Central Government.

24. Initially, there were four Schedules appended to Act, 1955, but First and Fourth Schedule having already been omitted, now, there remained only two schedules i.e. Second and Third Schedule. The Third Schedule provides qualifications for naturalisation i.e. in the context of subject of citizenship governed by Section 6(1) of Act, 1955.

25. After initial enactment, Act, 1955 has undergone four amendments vide Act 65 of 1985, Act 6 of 2004, Act 32 of 2005 and Act 1 of 2015.

26. The first amendment of 1985 i.e. Act 65 of 1985 was necessitated due to Memorandum of Settlement (Assam Accord) relating to foreigners' issue. It resulted in insertion of Section 6A, making special provisions as to citizenship of persons covered by Assam Accord.

27. The next amendment of 2004 was necessitated due to policy accepted by Central Government for providing dual citizenship to persons of Indian origin belonging to certain specified countries. It resulted in insertion of Sections 7A, 7B, 7C and 7D, which came into force on 3.12.2004, but these provisions have been substituted in order to give effect the later modified policy of Government of India by substitution of Section 7A to 7D w.e.f. 6.1.2015 vide Act 1 of 2015.

28. The amendment of 2005 i.e. Act 32 of 2005 resulted in omission of Clause 2(gg) and Fourth Schedule w.e.f. 28.06.2005.

29. The present amendment made in Act, 1955 i.e. CAA, 2019 has resulted in amendments of Section 2(1)(b) by insertion of a Proviso, insertion of Section 6B, insertion of Clause (da) in Section 7D and also insertion of Proviso after Clause (f) in Section 7D. It has also inserted Clause (eei) in Section 18 (2) and a Proviso in Clause (d) of Third Schedule.

30. Section 2(b) of Act, 1955 defines "illegal migrant". Earlier provision was substituted by Act 6 of 2004 w.e.f. 3.12.2004, replacing Clause (b) and (c) and Proviso, as existed earlier. Initially, Section 2 (b) and (c) read as under :-

"(b) "citizen", in relation to a country specified in the First Schedule, means a person who, under the citizenship or nationality law for the time being in force in that country, is a citizen or national of that country;

"(c) "citizenship or nationality law", in relation to a country specified in the First Schedule, means an enactment of the Legislature of that country which at the request of the Government of that country, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, have declared to be an enactment making provisions for the citizenship or nationality of that country:"

(emphasis added)

31. The aforesaid Clauses (b) and (c) of Section 2 were substituted by Clause (b) w.e.f. 3.12.2004 and it reads as under :-

(b) "illegal migrant" means a foreigner who has entered into India-

(i) without a valid passport or other travel documents and such other document or authority as may be prescribed by or under any law in that behalf; or

(ii) with a valid passport or other travel documents and such other document or authority as may be prescribed by or under any law in that behalf but remains therein beyond the permitted period of time;

(emphasis added)

32. Now, after Section 2(b)(i), a Proviso has been inserted by CAA, 2019 and it reads as under :-

"Provided that any person belonging to Hindu, Sikh, Buddhist, Jain, Parsi or Christian community from Afghanistan, Bangladesh or Pakistan, who entered into India on or before 31st day of December, 2014 and who has been exempted by the Central Government by or under clause (c) of sub-section (2) of section 3 of the Passport (Entry into India) Act, 1920 or from the application of the provisions of the Foreigners Act, 1946 or any rule or order made thereunder, shall not be treated as illegal migrant for the purposes of this Act;"

(emphasis added)

33. Section 6B has been inserted for making special provisions as to citizenship of person covered by proviso to clause (b) of sub-section (1) of Section 2 and it reads as under :-

"6B. (1) The Central Government or an authority specified by it in this behalf may*, subject to such conditions, restrictions and manner as may be prescribed, on an application made in this behalf,* grant a certificate of registration or certificate of naturalisation to a person referred to in the proviso to clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 2.

(2) Subject to fulfilment of the conditions specified in section 5 or the qualifications for naturalisation under the provisions of the Third Schedule, a person granted the certificate of registration or certificate of naturalisation under sub-section (1) shall be deemed to be a citizen of India from the date of his entry into India.

(3) On and from the date of commencement of the Citizenship (Amendment) Act, 2019, any proceeding pending against a person under this section in respect of illegal migration or citizenship shall stand abated on conferment of citizenship to him:

Provided that such person shall not be disqualified for making application for citizenship under this section on the ground that the proceeding is pending against him and the Central Government or authority specified by it in this behalf shall not reject his application on that ground if he is otherwise found qualified for grant of citizenship under this section:

Provided further that the person who makes the application for citizenship under this section shall not be deprived of his rights and privileges to which he was entitled on the date of receipt of his application on the ground of making such application.

(4) Nothing in this section shall apply to tribal area of Assam, Meghalaya, Mizoram or Tripura as included in the Sixth Schedule to the Constitution and the area covered under "The Inner Line" notified under the Bengal Eastern Frontier Regulation, 1873."

(emphasis added)

34. A perusal of Section 6B(4) shows that it has not been extended to tribal area of Assam, Meghalaya, Mizoram and Tripura as included in Sixth Schedule of Constitution and also to area covered under "The Inner Line" notified under Bengal Eastern Frontier Regulation, 1873.

35. Section 7D of Act, 1955 conferred power upon Central Government to cancel registration granted under Section 7A(1) to Overseas Citizen of India cardholders. Such power can be exercised by Central Government if it is satisfied that the conditions provided in Clauses (a) to (f) mentioned therein exist. By inserting clause (da), one more such condition has been provided in Section 7D. Further, at the end of Section 7D i.e. after Clause (f), a Proviso has been inserted that no order shall be passed under Section 7D without giving reasonable opportunity of being heard to the persons concerned i.e. Overseas Citizen of India cardholders. Section 18 is Rule-making power conferred upon Central Government and by inserting Clause (eei) in sub-Section (2) of Section 18, one more subject has been added in respect whereof rules can be framed by Central Government. Clause (eei) reads as under :-

"(eei) the conditions, restrictions and manner for granting certificate of registration or certificate of naturalisation under sub-section (1) of Section 6B;"

36. As we have already said that Third Schedule deals with qualification for naturalisation with reference to Section 6(1) of Act, 1955. By inserting a Proviso in Clause (d), a modified qualification has been provided with respect to period of residence or service of Government in India and instead of 11 years provided in Clause (d), it has been reduced to 5 years for the category of persons mentioned in said proviso.

37. The statement of object and reasons for CAA, 2019 provides that in order to give protection to the persecuted members of certain minority communities in the three countries, namely, Pakistan, Bangladesh and Afghanistan, amendments have been made in Act, 1955 vide CAA, 2019.

38. Learned ACSC submitted that under the Constitution of India, people of India, the source of power of making Constitution, as a matter of policy, while contemplating equality in all respects to the residents of India, still have protected on certain aspects, rights of minorities by virtue of Articles 29 and 30 of Constitution. Similarly, Parliament in its policy of protecting certain minority communities of three neighbouring countries, who are being persecuted thereat on account of the fact that they are religious minorities in those countries, have desired to provide protection to such persecuted persons and therefore aforesaid amendments have been made by CAA, 2019. He stated that earlier also, when dual citizenship to persons of Indian Origin was contemplated and given effect to by Amendment Act 6 of 2004, it was confined to Indians belonging to certain specified countries, but at that time also, persons of Indian Origin of Pakistan and Bangladesh were excluded. When Amendment Act 32 of 2005 was enacted, exclusion of Pakistan and Bangladesh continued for the purpose of dual citizenship. He urged that selection of countries was within the realm of Parliament and made in accordance with policy. This time, when three countries have been chosen, integral reason is to protect continuous persecution of members of certain minority communities in the aforesaid countries only on account of their being religious minorities.

39. However, We need not go in further details of this aspect for the reason that neither rational of the aforesaid amendment is up for consideration before this Court nor anything has been argued on this aspect, but reference to the aforesaid provisions have been made only to understand the backdrop of large-scale protest, agitation and processions which have erupted, giving rise to the present writ petition. We are also informed that Supreme Court is already ceased with this matter.

40. Learned counsel for the petitioners stated that protest and procession is against discriminatory amendment based on religion, inasmuch as, members of other religion residing in aforesaid three countries viz. Pakistan, Bangladesh and Afghanistan, who do not belong to religions mentioned in the provisions, added by way of amendment by CAA, 2019 have been singled-out, only on the ground of religion, which is not permissible in the Constitution and it is per se arbitrary and discriminatory, hence, to oppose this discrimination founded only on religion, a large number of people at different places, have protested, taken out processions, which have resulted at some places, some violence and destructive activities. It is contended that petitioner is not, either supporting the amendment or opposing it; he is also not looking into genuineness of protest, march and processions taken out by individuals or groups of people, but what he is concerned about, is that every individual has a fundamental right of speech, assembly and movement and such fundamental right of individuals cannot be thwarted away by Executives by means of either resorting to restrictive provisions like Section 144 Cr.P.C. or by involving such individuals in various criminal cases, etc. He said that individual fundamental rights are being breached with impunity by resorting to illegal arrest and without following guidelines laid down by Supreme Court in the matters of arrest, etc. in Joginder Kumar vs. State of U.P. and others 1994(4) SCC 260, which read as under :

"1. An arrested person being held in custody is entitled, if he so requests to have one friend, relative or other person who is known to him or likely to take an interest in his welfare told as far as is practicable that he has been arrested and where is being detained.

2. The Police Officer shall inform the arrested person when he is brought to the police station of this right.

3. An entry shall be required to be made in the Diary as to who was informed of the arrest. These protections from power must be held to flow from Articles 21 and 22(1) and enforced strictly."

41. Per contra, Sri Nimai Das, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel stated that State has taken all precaution and care to protect fundamental right of every individual, but simultaneously, it has not allowed and cannot allow the so-called "protesters" to breach fundamental rights of other innocent peaceful residents. State is obliged to protect life, liberty including property of such people. State is also obliged to ensure non-infringement of their fundamental rights of movement, speech, assembly, etc. by creating obstruction, destruction and damage in various ways by such Protesters. Individual rights of non protesters and also protecting their property involves fundamental rights of non-protesters. He said that State has made all attempts to keep a balance in maintaining all such rights, but where protesters and processionists have crossed the limit of lawful and peaceful protest and demonstration and their act has entered into the realm of offence or criminal activity, State Authorities are bound and they have actually intervened at that stage to prevent commission of offence or unlawful activities. Where breach of law has continued and went unabated, State has taken all permissible steps including detention and arrest of persons indulged in such activities. He stated that wherever necessary, even temporary detention was resorted to and as soon as its necessity disappeared, those detainees were immediately released. He said that after verification of various material in the form of electronic and other evidence, identity of the persons has been verified and thereafter, action has been taken, which includes imposition of damages and also initiating criminal proceedings. He said that procedure for assessment of damage to public and private property has been laid down in relevant Government Order and that is being strictly followed. Every care is being taken so that no innocent person, who is not indulged in the wrong activities, is harassed, penalised or otherwise involved in various proceedings. He said that the status of a person is of no relevance. Merely for the reason that a person is a professional or a businessman or serviceman etc. it would not guide the authorities to see whether they should act against him or not even if such individual is indulged in illegal and unlawful activities. Every violator of law has to be dealt with equally. The illustration given by petitioners about Mohd. Shoaib, Advocate arrested by police would not help the petitioner in any manner, for the reason that a person even if an advocate, would not get a licence to indulge in unlawful, illegal and destructive activities. In order to enjoy own individual fundamental right of speech, movement, assembly, no person, even if he is an Advocate, has a licence, liberty or privilege to obstruct other innocent residents and citizens of State of U.P. in exercise of similar rights of their own self and property. If any property, public or private is damaged by anyone in the garb of exercising his fundamental right, such right ceases to be a valid exercise or enjoyment of fundamental right but becomes an illegal, unlawful activity, which is punishable and actionable in the manner provided in law.

42. The general propositions, as argued above on both sides, we find have consensus that fundamental right of speech and includes right of assembly or right of taking peaceful procession. A voice of dissent is fundamental in a democracy. A person, who raised his voice of dissent, cannot be held guilty of any illegal or unlawful activities so long as dissent is peaceful, maintains harmony, does not disturb public tranquility and also protects similar fundamental rights enjoyed by others, who are not part of such processions or protests. Further, if a person or group of persons, collect or gather in a large number, constitute a procession and take out such procession on public way, obstructing movement of others, they violate fundamental rights of others of free movement and therefore, such persons taking out processions are also under an obligation to take care that their exercise of fundamental right does not infringe fundamental rights of others as both have to be maintained and enjoyed simultaneously. Fundamental right of an individual or group of individuals cannot override similar fundamental rights of others, who are similarly situated, though not participants of such protest or procession. A march on public road has to take care that free movement of traffic is not obstructed, other people's fundamental rights of movement is not obstructed, necessary services like ambulance, fire brigade, etc. are not obstructed. If any such obstruction takes place, it cannot be said that those, who are part and parcel of alleged protest or procession, are simply exercising their fundamental right, inasmuch as, exercise of fundamental right does not mean obstruction, defeat and infringement of fundamental rights of others. Further, those who carry out a procession on public road or public passage or path or public place, are responsible to ensure that no person i.e. the alleged miscreant or criminal element, intrude and become part of said procession or collection of such individuals protesting so as to cause any damage or destruction to public or private property. No defence is available to those who are collecting and not able to keep out such miscreants or criminal elements from becoming part of their own procession and thereby to contend that they have not done anything and it was responsibility of State to sift out those miscreants and criminal elements and detain them. When a group of persons is collected, it is their responsibility to identify a person who is not a member of their group, but has intruded their group and gets indulged in unlawful activities, for the reason that they better know, understand and identify members of their own group. If those who became part of a protest march, procession etc., claim that they do not identify each individual, still it is their responsibility to ensure maintenance of peace and tranquility else any action of one or more persons, who are part of such procession, whether with the knowledge of others or not, will make no difference and all who are part of said procession or protest march, etc. will be equally responsible. No one can claim that he can take out a procession with a gathering of hundreds of thousands persons, but still he has no liability or responsibility to ensure that such group or collection of people remain free from intrusion of miscreants. In our opinion, principle of Rylands vs. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330 can be extended to such cases also and those who intentionally and knowingly do something which may turn out in a situation causing loss of damage to public or private property or otherwise, harassment to the members of general public, they are responsible for the consequences caused by their own act and cannot shift responsibility upon State.

43. So far as guidelines for taking out procession etc. are concerned, we find that State is responsible to maintain law and order. For this purpose, enough provisions are available under various statutes. Whenever necessary, Executive also has been provided statutory power of imposing restrictions, exercising power under Section 144 of Cr.P.C. No challenge to the validity of such restriction has been made in this case. Once restrictions are imposed, no one can claim that he, individually or collectively is entitled to breach such restrictions and still can claim that his action is lawful. Statutory Authority when exercises a statutory power and certain restrictions are imposed, such a statutory order is obligatory to be complied with by all concerned. No one can claim that with impunity such restriction can be violated, still he can claim immunity from legal action, for what has been done by him, individually or collectively.

44. At this stage, we find that petitioner has not placed on record any material to show that State has violated any statutory provision. This Court does not exercise its jurisdiction under Article 226 in absence of any cause of action or any reason to show that there is any infringement of legal or fundamental right of an individual or group of individual by the State. The stand taken by learned ACSC is very fair and we do not find infringement or even lack of transparency on the part of State, particularly when sufficient material is not on record to draw any otherwise inference or conclusion.

45. In our view, therefore, the relief sought by petitioner in the present writ petition is not justified to be granted at this stage.

46. Writ petition is therefore dismissed in limine.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anil Kumar, J.
Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania, J.)

1. Heard Shri Mukesh Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Ms. Puja Arora holding brief of Shri S. C. Gulati, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. Initially, the respondent/National Insurance Co. Ltd. filed the appeal bearing F.A.F.O. No.521 of 1999 against the judgment and award 02.09.1999 passed by Vith Additional District Judge, Faizabad in Claim Petition No.2/93 (Ram Vishal Vs. Dinesh Kumar Singh), which was allowed by judgment and order dated 28.02.2013 passed by this Court.

3. By means of the present review petition, the applicant has sought for review of the judgment and order dated 28.02.2013 passed by this Court. The main grounds for seeking the review of the judgment and order dated 28.02.2013 are as under :

"1. Because the judgment and order dated 28.02.2013 has been passed by Hon'ble Court Ex-parte.

2. Because in fact, notices were never served to the applicant though he was the necessary party and owner of the vehicle in question against whom insurance company filed the aforesaid F.A.F.O.

3. Because the applicant was never given opportunity of hearing and contesting the appeal.

4. Because from the bare perusal of the reading of the impugned order dated 28.02.2013, it is clear that though the present appeal was directed against the award and judgment dated 02.02.1999 and applicant/owner was the necessary party but he was never given opportunity to contest the appeal and order dated 28.02.2013 was passed ex-parte therein.

5. Because Insurance Company in the most arbitrary manner, without complying with the order passed on 02.02.1999, did not serve the notice to the applicant and only because of this applicant remained unheard and judgment dated 28.02.2013 was passed ex-parte.

6. Because the appellant i.e. Insurance Company, by misleading the cout and by concealment of fact that steps have been taken to serve the notices to the necessary parties, got the appeal decided ex-parte, while opportunity of hearing was never afforded by the applicant.

7. Because on account of mistake or error apparent from the perusal of record, ti is clear that applicant was not given opportunity of hearing and he was never heard to plead and establish his case before the Hon'ble Court and therefore since this Hon'ble Court has relied upon the submission made by the insurance Company for passing the judgment dated 28.02.2013, is liable to be reviewed."

4. Ms. Puja Arora, learned counsel for the respondent submits that affidavits filed by review applicant/Shri Dinesh Kumar Singh in the instant case including the better affidavit filed along with the application (C.M.A.No.140588 of 2019) for condontion of delay are liable to be ignored being not properly verified and being so on the basis of the same, neither delay can be condoned nor review petition can be allowed. In support of her arguments, she has placed reliance on the para 24 judgment given by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Amar Singh vs. Union of India and others, (2011) 7 SCC 69, wherein it has been held as under :-

"24. Another Constitution Bench of this Court in A.K.K. Nambiar v. Union of India [(1969) 3 SCC 864 : AIR 1970 SC 652] , held as follows: (SCC p. 867, para 8)

"8. ... The appellant filed an affidavit in support of the petition. Neither the petition nor the affidavit was verified. The affidavits which were filed in answer to the appellant's petition were also not verified. The reasons for verification of affidavits are to enable the Court to find out which facts can be said to be proved on the affidavit evidence of rival parties. Allegations may be true to knowledge or allegations may be true to information received from persons or allegations may be based on records. The importance of verification is to test the genuineness and authenticity of allegations and also to make the deponent responsible for allegations. In essence verification is required to enable the Court to find out as to whether it will be safe to act on such affidavit evidence. In the present case, the affidavits of all the parties suffer from the mischief of lack of proper verification with the result that the affidavits should not be admissible in evidence."

5. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records as well as the judgment cited by learned counsel for the respondent.

6. From the perusal of the record, it transpires that the appeal bearing F.A.F.O. No.521 of 1999 was filed against the judgment and award 02.09.1999 passed by Vith Additional District Judge, Faizabad in Claim Petition No.2 of 1993 (Ram Vishal Vs. Dinesh Kumar Singh). By judgment and order dated 28.02.2013, the appeal i.e. F.A.F.O. No.521 of 1999 was finally decided in favour of National Insurance Co. Ltd.-appellant (in short "Company").

7. After the judgment dated 28.02.2013, the Company filed the execution case. In the execution case, the recovery certificate was issued on 07.07.2013 and thereafter the review applicant came to know about the judgment dated 28.02.2013, under review. Thereafter, the review petition along with application for condonation of delay was filed before this Court mainly on the above said grounds.

8. From perusal of the order sheet, it appears that on 03.12.1999, the appeal was admitted and order to issue notice to respondents in the appeal was passed. The order dated 03.12.1999 is quoted below :

"Heard.

Admit.

Issue notice.

List after due service along with the record of the claim petition. The execution of the award shall remain stayed, provided the petitioner deposits 1/2 of the amount under the award including the amount, if any, deposited under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicle Act within one month from today."

9. Thereafter, the appeal was listed before this Court on 28.02.2013 and on the said date, the appeal was partly allowed.

10. From the record of the F.A.F.O. No.521 of 1999 it is evident that on behalf of respondent no.1 in appeal namely Sri Ram Vishal Pandey, two Vakalatnamas were filed. One Vakalatnama bears name of Sri Radhey Lal Misra, Advocate and Gaya Prasad Tiwari, Advocate and another Vakalatnama bears the name of Sri P. C. Agarwal, Adovate and Sri D. K. Srivastava, Advocates. The name of Sri P. C. Agarwal and Sri D. K. Srivastava appears in the judgment, under review.

11. It also appears from the record of F.A.F.O. No.521 of 1999 that neither steps were taken nor notices were issued nor the review-applicant-Sri Dinesh Kumar Singh, respondent no.2 in the F.A.F.O. No.521 of 1999 was served through any of the mode provided for service of notice nor there is anything on record, including Vakalanama, from which it can be presumed that the review applicant-Sri Dinesh Kumar Singh was served or was having knowledge of the F.A.F.O. No.521 of 1999 decided vide judgment dated 28.02.2013, against which, present review petition has been filed.

12. From the aforesaid, it is apparent that F.A.F.O. No.521 of 1999 was decided on 28.02.2013 without service of notice of F.A.F.O. upon opposite party no.2, the review applicant-Sri Dinesh Kumar Singh. and without hearing him.

13. Taking into account the aforesaid facts, which are evident from the record of F.A.F.O. No.521 of 1999, we would like refer the relevant portion of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Neeraj Kumar Sainy and others vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, (2017) 14 SCC 136, the same are as under :

"26. The seminal question that is required to be posed is whether the maxim actus curiae neminem gravabit would be applicable to such a case. In Jang Singh v. Brij Lal [Jang Singh v. Brij Lal, AIR 1966 SC 1631], a three-Judge Bench noted that there was error on the part of the court and the officers of the court had contributed to the said occur. Appreciating the fact situation, the Court held: (AIR p. 1633, para 6)

"6. ... It is no doubt true that a litigant must be vigilant and take care but where a litigant goes to Court and asks for the assistance of the Court so that his obligations under a decree might be fulfilled by him strictly, it is incumbent on the Court, if it does not leave the litigant to his own devices, to ensure that the correct information is furnished. If the Court in supplying the information makes a mistake the responsibility of the litigant, though it does not altogether cease, is at least shared by the Court. If the litigant acts on the faith of that information the courts cannot hold him responsible for a mistake which it itself caused. There is no higher principle for the guidance of the Court than the one that no act of courts should harm a litigant and it is the bounden duty of courts to see that if a person is harmed by a mistake of the court he should be restored to the position he would have occupied but for that mistake. This is aptly summed up in the maxim: Actus curiae neminem gravabit."

27. Noting that there was mistake by the District Court concerned, relief was granted by stating so: (Jang Singh case [Jang Singh v. Brij Lal, AIR 1966 SC 1631] , AIR p. 1633, para 8)

"8. ... In view of the mistake of the court which needs to be righted the parties are relegated to the position they occupied on 6-1-1958, when the error was committed by the court which error is being rectified by us nunc pro tunc."

28. Another three-Judge Bench in Jagannath Singh v. Ram Naresh Singh [Jagannath Singh v. Ram Naresh Singh, (1970) 1 SCC 573 : 1970 SCC (Cri) 238] , took note of the fact that the judgment by the High Court had been rendered ex parte, and the application for recall did not impress the High Court. Appreciating the factual matrix that there was an error in the cause-list and accepting that there was an omission to mention the case correctly in the cause-list and treating it as a mistake of the court, the Court held that though there was some negligence on the part of the counsel or of his clerk but it was not so grave as to disentitle the party to be heard, and in any event, the alleged contemnors could not be punished for a mistake on the part of their counsel or the counsel's clerk. Being of this view, this Court set aside the order with costs.

29. In Atma Ram Mittal v. Ishwar Singh Punia [Atma Ram Mittal v. Ishwar Singh Punia, (1988) 4 SCC 284] , this Court, in the context of interpretation of Section 13(1) in juxtaposition with Section 1(3) of the Haryana Urban (Control of Rent and Eviction) Act, 1973, adopting the purposive interpretation ruled: (SCC pp. 288-89, para 8)

"8. It is well settled that no man should suffer because of the fault of the court or delay in the procedure. Broom has stated the maxim actus curiae neminem gravabit -- an act of court shall prejudice no man. Therefore, having regard to the time normally consumed for adjudication, the ten years' exemption or holiday from the application of the Rent Act would become illusory, if the suit has to be filed within that time and be disposed of finally. It is common knowledge that unless a suit is instituted soon after the date of letting it would never be disposed of within ten years and even then within that time it may not be disposed of. That will make the ten years' holiday from the Rent Act illusory and provide no incentive to the landlords to build new houses to solve problem of shortages of houses. The purpose of legislation would thus be defeated. Purposive interpretation in a social amelioration legislation is an imperative irrespective of anything else."

30. The aforesaid authorities deal with three different situations. There cannot be an iota of doubt that no prejudice shall be caused to anyone due to the fault of the court, but it is to be seen in what situations the court can invoke the maxim actus curiae neminem gravabit. In this regard, reference to the authority in Jayalakshmi Coelho v. Oswald Joseph Coelho [Jayalakshmi Coelho v. Oswald Joseph Coelho, (2001) 4 SCC 181] would be apt. In the said case, the Principal Judge, Family Court, Bombay had modified the earlier decree. The same was challenged in the writ petition which was dismissed. The Division Bench confirmed the order of the learned Single Judge, which compelled the appellant to approach this Court. Dealing with the principle of rectification of decree under Section 152 CPC, the Court opined that there can be hardly any doubt that any error occurred in the decree on account of arithmetical or clerical error or accidental slip may be rectified by the court. It has been further observed that the basis of the said provision is founded on the maxim that an act of court will prejudice no man. The Court referred to the authorities in Assam Tea Corpn. Ltd. v. Narayan Singh [Assam Tea Corpn. Ltd. v. Narayan Singh, 1980 SCC OnLine Gau 7 : AIR 1981 Gau 41] , Janakirama Iyer v. Nilakanta Iyer [Janakirama Iyer v. Nilakanta Iyer, AIR 1962 SC 633] , Bhikhi Lal v. Tribeni [Bhikhi Lal v. Tribeni, AIR 1965 SC 1935] , Master Construction Co. (P) Ltd. v. State of Orissa [Master Construction Co. (P) Ltd. v. State of Orissa, AIR 1966 SC 1047] , Dwaraka Das v. State of M.P. [Dwaraka Das v. State of M.P., (1999) 3 SCC 500] and Thirugnanavalli Ammal v. P. Venugopala Pillai [Thirugnanavalli Ammal v. P. Venugopala Pillai, 1939 SCC OnLine Mad 222 : AIR 1940 Mad 29] and, eventually analysing the facts, opined that rectification of the decree was totally misconceived.

31. In this regard, we may usefully refer to a passage from Kalabharati Advertising v. Hemant Vimalnath Narichania [Kalabharati Advertising v. Hemant Vimalnath Narichania, (2010) 9 SCC 437 : (2010) 3 SCC (Civ) 808] , wherein it has been ruled that the maxim actus curiae neminem gravabit, which means that the act of the court shall prejudice no one, becomes applicable when a situation is projected where the court is under an obligation to undo the wrong done to a party by the act of the court. In a case, where any undeserved or unfair advantage has been gained by a party invoking the jurisdiction of the court, and the same requires to be neutralised, the said maxim is to be made applicable.

32. In this regard, reference to the Constitution Bench decision in Sarah Mathew v. Institute of Cardio Vascular Diseases [Sarah Mathew v. Institute of Cardio Vascular Diseases, (2014) 2 SCC 62 : (2014) 1 SCC (Cri) 721] would be seemly. In the said case, the question for consideration was whether for the purposes of computing the period of limitation under Section 468 CrPC the relevant date is the date of filing of the complaint or the date of institution of the prosecution or whether the relevant date is the date on which a Magistrate takes cognizance of the offence. Answering the issue, the Court held that for that purpose computing the period of limitation under Section 468 CrPC the relevant date is the date of filing of the complaint or the date of institution of prosecution and not the date on which the Magistrate takes cognizance. In the course of deliberation, the larger Bench observed: (SCC pp. 96-97, para 39)

39. ... The object of the criminal law is to punish perpetrators of crime. This is in tune with the well-known legal maxim nullum tempus aut locus occurrit regi, which means that a crime never dies. At the same time, it is also the policy of law to assist the vigilant and not the sleepy. This is expressed in the Latin maxim vigilantibus et non dormientibus, jura subveniunt. Chapter XXXVI CrPC which provides limitation period for certain types of offences for which lesser sentence is provided draws support from this maxim. But, even certain offences such as Section 384 or 465 IPC, which have lesser punishment may have serious social consequences. The provision is, therefore, made for condonation of delay. Treating date of filing of complaint or date of initiation of proceedings as the relevant date for computing limitation under Section 468 of the Code is supported by the legal maxim actus curiae neminem gravabit which means that the act of court shall prejudice no man. It bears repetition to state that the court's inaction in taking cognizance i.e. court's inaction in applying mind to the suspected offence should not be allowed to cause prejudice to a diligent complainant. Chapter XXXVI thus presents the interplay of these three legal maxims. The provisions of this Chapter, however, are not interpreted solely on the basis of these maxims. They only serve as guiding principles."

14. It is settled principle that even administrative order which involve civil consequences must be passed after following the principle of natural justice and providing opportunity of hearing and the orders which have been passed against settled principle and are unsustainable. The basic idea of observing principles of natural justice is to secure justice or to put in another way to prevent miscarriage of justice.

15. Further, if any order which has civil consequences and adverse effect on a person against whom it has been passed, he should be given an opportunity of hearing prior to passing of the same. If the same is not done, then the order so passed will in violation of fair play, liable to be set aside.

16. A seven-Judges' Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India, (1978) 1 SCC 248 : (AIR 1978 SC 597) has held that the substantive and procedural laws and action taken under them will have to pass the test under Article 14 of the Constitution. The test of reasons and justice cannot be abstract. They cannot be divorced from the needs of the nation. The tests have to be pragmatic, otherwise they would cease to be reasonable. The procedure prescribed must be just fair and reasonable, even though there is no specific provision in a statute or rules, made thereunder, for showing cause against action proposed to be taken against an individual, which affects the right of that individual. The duty to give reasonable opportunity to be heard will be implied from the nature of the function to be performed by the authority which has the power to take punitive or damaging action. Even executive authorities which take administrative action in-volving any deprivation of or restriction on inherent fundamental rights of citizens, must take care to see that justice is not only done hut manifestly appears to be done. They have a duty to proceed in a way which is free from even the appearance of arbitrariness, unreasonableness or unfairness. They have to act in a manner which is patently impartial and meets the requirement of the natural justice.

17. In Mohinder Singh Gill v. Chief Election Commissioner, (1978) 1 SCC 405 : (AIR 1978 SC 851), the Apex Court reiterated the same view.

18. In the case of D.K. Yadav v. J.M.A. Industries Ltd., (1993) 3 SCC 259, the Apex Court observed that an order which involves civil consequences, must be just, fair, reasonable, unarbitrary and impartial and meet the principles of natural justice. Same view has been reiterated in the cases of Canara Bank v. V.K. Awasthy, (2005) 6 SCC 321 : (AIR 2005 SC 2090); Bidhannagar (Salt Lake) Welfare Assn. v. Central Valuation Board, (2007) 6 SCC 668 : (AIR 2007 SC 2276); and Devdutt v. Union of India, 2008 (3) ESC 433 (SC) : ((2008) 8 SCC 725 : AIR 2008 SC 2513).

19. In the case of Erusian Equipment and Chemicals Ltd. v. State of West Bengal and another A.I.R. 1975 SC 266; Raghunath Thakur v. State of Bihar and others A.I.R. 1989 SC 620; and Gronsons Pharmaceuticals (P) Ltd. v. State of Uttar Pradesh and others A.I.R. 2001 SC 3707 and the decisions of the Division Bench of this Court in Smt Rajni Chauhan v. State of U.P and others 2010 (6) AWC 5762 (All.) also it has been held that an order which leads to civil consequences cannot be passed without affording an opportunity of hearing and the same must be passed in conformity of principles of natural justice.

20. Keeping in view the aforesaid facts, which are evident from the record of the FAFO No. 521 of 99 particularly that without any notice to the review applicant, Dinesh Kumar Singh and without giving any opportunity of hearing to him, the FAFO No. 521 of 99 was decided vide impugned judgment and order dated 28.02.2013 as well as the settled legal preposition of law that any order having civil consequences if passed without hearing or giving opportunity of hearing to the person concerned/aggrieved, then the same would be violative of the principles of natural justice and is liable to be set-aside, we are of the view that the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the Company has got no force.

21. Taking into consideration the aforesaid fact as well as the settled principles of law, we are of the view that the application for condonation of delay as well as also the application for review are liable to be allowed in the interest of substantial justice.

22. Accordingly, the application for condonation of delay as well as the review application are allowed. The judgment and order dated 28.02.2013 passed in FAFO No. 521 of 1999 (National Insurance Company Ltd. v. Ram Vishal Pandey), is hereby recalled. The FAFO No. 521 of 1999 is restored to its original number.

23. Further, looking into the valuation of the appeal, the same is cognizable by a learned Single Judge.

24. Office is directed to place the F.A.F.O. No.521 of 1999 before appropriate Bench.

25. On the next date of listing, the name of Shri Mukesh Singh be shown as counsel for the respondent no.2 in the F.A.F.O. No.521 of 1999.

Jagdish Chandra & Ors. ...Appellants

Counsel for the Respondent:

Ashish Chaturvedi

A. Civil Law-Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908) - Section 88 - Interpleader suit - Order 35 Rule 5 - tenants may not institute interpleader suits - Order 35 Rule 5 precludes the tenant from instituting an interpleader suit against his landlord - Evidence Act, Section 116 - doctrine of estoppel - Bar based on the doctrine of estoppel as the tenant cannot challenge the title of his landlord which is based on the principle of Section 116 of the Evidence Act, 1872

Plaintiffs are the tenants and the defendants are the landlords, therefore in view of embargo contained in Order 35 Rule 5 C.P.C - courts below have not committed any error in rejecting the plaint - Plaintiffs deposited the rent and continued to deposit rent in the SCC suit in favour of the defendants who have been substituted as landlords – Plaintiff are prevented from taking plea that there are two separate sets of person claiming and hence the requirement of an interpleader suit (Para 32)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jaspreet Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Samarth Saxena, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri N.K. Seth, learned Senior Advocate along with Sri Ashish Chaturvedi for respondent no. 8.

2. The instant second appeal has been preferred by the plaintiffs/appellants against a concurrent judgment and decree passed by the two courts whereby the application under Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C. has been allowed rejecting the plaint of the appellants.

3. The learned counsel for the appellants has urged that the two courts while rejecting the plaint in suit upon applying the provisions of Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C. has not considered the true import of Order 35 Rule 5 C.P.C. and has incorrectly applied the aforesaid provision in non-suiting the plaintiff which is a gross error of jurisdiction committed by the two courts, resulting in sheer miscarriage of justice.

4. The learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that an application under Order 7 Rule 11 is to be considered only on the basis of the averments contained in the plaint in suit. At the stage of such consideration, the Court cannot look into the written statement or the defence as raised by the defendants.

5. The learned counsel for the appellants has further submitted that it is one thing to state that the plaint does not disclose a cause of action and it is altogether different thing to urge that the plaintiff does not have a cause of action.

6. Elaborating his submission, it has been submitted that where on the meaningful reading of the plaint it does not disclose a cause of action, then the Court is then entitled to reject a plaint in terms of the Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C., however, stating that the plaintiff does not have a cause of action, this necessarily would mandate the Court to consider the pleadings of the parties which necessarily involves looking into the written statement and only after the evidence is led can the Court reach such a conclusion that the plaintiff does not have a cause of action and this necessarily means that a plaint cannot be rejected as per Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C. rather at best it would be a matter to be decided on merits.

7. It has been urged that the two courts have completely ignored the aforesaid distinction while rejecting the plaint and as such the appellant had suffered injustice.

8. It is also submitted that the two courts have not considered the provisions of Order 35 Rule 5 C.P.C. in the correct perspective and has rejected the plaint while all the ingredients required were clearly met and as such the plaint was very well maintainable which has erroneously been rejected.

9. In support of his submissions, the learned counsel for the appellant has relied upon a decision in the case of Yeshwant Bhikaji Vilankar Vs. Sadashiv Govind Arekar and Others reported in 1940 ILR 842 and State of Orrissa Vs. Klockner and Company and Others reported in 1996 (8) SCC 377.

10. Sri N.K. Seth, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Ashish Chaturvedi, learned counsel for the respondent no. 8 has appeared on caveat and opposed the aforesaid submission.

11. It has been submitted that the interpleader suit as filed by the appellants was clearly hit by Order 35 Rule 5 C.P.C. as well as the proviso appended to Section 88 C.P.C. It has also been submitted that the appellants are the tenants of the property in question against whom the eviction suits are pending since 1998, hence in order to delay and to avoid the eventuality the alleged interpleader suit has been filed only in the year 2015, coupled with the fact that the alleged plaint suffers from gross concealment, inasmuch as, there is not a mention regarding the eviction suits filed by the landlords against the appellants. It has also been submitted by Sri N.K. Seth, that in paragraph 11 there is just a passing reference relating to the cause of action, that a suit was filed for eviction in the year 2015 which has given the cause of action to the plaintiff to file the aforesaid suit which as per Sri Seth is deliberate misrepresentation as the plaintiff concealed that the suits are pending since 1998. It has also been submitted that the proviso appended to Section 88 C.P.C as well as in light of the mandate contained in Order 35 Rule 5 C.P.C. the plaint has rightly been rejected.

12. Sri Seth has further submitted that under Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C., it is a duty on the Court to consider whether any of the sub-clauses contained in the aforesaid provision are attracted. The power of Order 7 Rule 11 can be exercised at any stage, coupled with the fact that in the present case not only did the plaint did not disclose any cause of action but at the same time, it was barred by law. The distinction as sought to be highlighted by the learned counsel for the appellant regarding the plaint not disclosing the cause of action and that the plaintiff did not have a cause of action pales into insignificance in the present case since as per the plaint averments alone it was clearly established and admitted that the plaintiff who are the appellants herein are the tenants and the defendants are the landlords, therefore, the bar contained in Order 35 Rule 5 C.P.C. was clearly attracted and, thus, irrespective of the fact whether the plaint disclose a cause of action or not, the plaint was barred and thus the two courts have not committed any error nor any substantial question of law arises and the aforesaid second appeal is liable to be dismissed at the admission stage itself.

13. Sri Seth, learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance upon a decision of the Apex Court in the case of T. Arivandam Vs. T.V. Satyapal and Another reported in 1977 (4) SCC 467 and Rajan Sharma Vs. Labh Singh reported in 2011 SCC Online P&H 5451.

14. The Court has considered the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and also perused the record.

15. In order to appreciate the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and to put the controversy in a perspective, certain facts giving rise to the above second appeal are being noticed hereinafter first:-

16. The plaintiffs (appellants herein) instituted a suit in the Court of Civil Judge, Senior Division, Lakhimpur Kheri bearing R.S. No. 290 of 2016 as an interpleader suit impleading the defendant-respondents who are the legal heirs of Late Sri Murlidhar.

17. It has been pleaded that the property the subject matter of which the plaintiffs-appellants are the tenants in possession was let out by late Sri Murlidhar. Upon the death of Sri Murlidhar it is alleged that he was survived by his daughter Smt. Anar Devi and a son late Sri Badri Prasad. It is also stated that Sri Murlidhar also executed a will by virtue of which he has constituted a Trust. Since both Smt. Anar Devi and Sri Badri Prasad expired and their legal heirs are the defendants.

18. It was further submitted that the defendants belonged to two separate branches i.e. to say, some were heirs of Smt. Anar Devi and others were the heirs of Late Sri Badri Prasad. None of the defendants have filed any suit amongst themselves to determine their right as the landlords, however, the defendants nos. 1 to 6 and 7, 8 and 10 have filed separate suits seeking eviction of the plaintiffs. It has been specifically stated in paragraph 11 that the cause of action accrued in the month of April, 2015 when the defendant nos. 1 to 6 instituted a suit for eviction while the defendants no. 8, 9 and 10 claimaning themselves to be the landlord have demanded rent from the plaintiffs and in the aforesiad backdrop it filed the interpleader suit on 17.08.2016 with the following reliefs:-

(i) The defendants be restrained from taking any action against the plaintiff in respect of the property in question;

(ii) That the defendants no. 1 to 6 and 7, 8 and 9 be required to interplead;

(iii) That till such time the matter is pending, the plaintiff be permitted to deposit the rent in Court or before any competent person to be appointed by the Court ;

(iv) That the costs of the suit be also awarded in favour of the plaintiff.

19. The defendants nos. 1 to 7 made an application under Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C. stating therein that the plaintiff being the tenant does not have a right to institute the aforesaid interpleader suit in terms of Order 35 Rule 5 C.P.C. It was further indicated that it is incorrect of the plaintiff to state that the cause of action accrued in the Month of April, 2015 since eviction suits had already been filed against the plaintiffs in the year 1998 and the details of the aforesaid suits which were for eviction as well as release of the premises on account of bonafide need was already pending. It was also stated that the plaintiffs themselves had filed a writ petition before the High Court wherein the High Court had directed that the question regarding the ownership shall be decided, however, in order to delay the proceedings as well as to avoid the eventuality in the eviction suits the present interpleader suit has been filed and as such the plaint was liable to be rejected, apart from the fact that the suit was also barred by limitation.

20. It is in this backdrop that the Trial Court by means of its order dated 06.10.2017 allowed the application under Order 7 Rule 11 and rejected the plaint. While doing so the Trial Court relied upon Order 35 Rule 5 and found that since it is not disputed that the property in question was let out to the plaintiffs by Sri Murlidhar and they being the tenants, in light of the proviso, the tenant is precluded from filing an interpleader suit against the landlord, hence, it found that in the present case since the tenancy was governed by the U.P. Act 13 of 1972, hence as far as the relief claimed by the plaintiff was concerned regarding the deposit of rent he had a remedy before the appropriate court under the Rent Act and further in light of the embargo contained in Order 35 Rule 5 the plaintiff did not have a right to institute the suit and consequently the plaint was rejected.

21. The plaintiffs-appellants preferred a regular Civil Appeal before the District Judge, Lakhimpur Kheri which was registered as Regular Civil Appeal No. 79 of 2017. The lower appellate court after considering the material on record affirmed the judgment and decree passed by the Trial Court and dismissed the appeal. While doing so, it found that since Order 35 Rule 5 does not permit a tenant to file an interpleader suit against the landlord, hence, the plaintiff did not have a cause of action, coupled with the fact that the since the tenancy was governed by the U.P. Act 13 of 1972 wherein under Section 30 Sub Section 2, he had a remedy of depositing the rent, consequently, the findings of the Trial Court were affirmed and the appeal was dismissed by means of judgment and decree dated 09.01.2020.

22. It is these two judgments which have been assailed in the present second appeal. In light of the submissions made by the learned counsel for the respecive parties, this Court has to ascertain whether the judgment and decree passed by the two courts can sustain judicial scrutiny.

23. In order to test the submissions, it will be necessary to understand whether the alleged bar of Order 35 Rule 5 C.P.C. is applicable in the present case or not. At the very outset, it will be relevant to mention that interpleader has been provided in Section 88 of C.P.C. The aforesaid section reads as under:-

Section 88.- Where interpleader -suit may be instituted.- Where two or more persons claim adversely to one another the same debts, sum of money or other property, movable or immovable, from another person, who claims no interest therein other than for charges or costs and who is ready to pay or deliver it to the rightful claimant, such other person may institute a suit of interpleader against all the claimants for the purpose of obtaining a decision as to the person to whom the payment or delivery shall be made and of obtaining indemnity for himself:

Provided that where any suit is pending in which the rights of all parties can properly be decided, no such suit of interpleader shall be instituted.

24. This is the substantive Section under which the interpleader suits owe their origin. The same are regulated in tems of Order 35 C.P.C.

25. To interplead means to litigate with each other to settle a point concerning a third party. Section 88 of the C.P.C. enacts that two or more persons claiming adversely to one another, the same debt, sum of money or other property, movable or immovable property from a person who does not claim any interest therein except the charges and costs incurred by him and is ready to pay or deliver the same to the rightful claimant may file an interpleader suit.

26. The object of the aforesaid is to get claims of rival defendants adjudicated. It is the process where the plaintiff calls upon the rival claimants to appear before the Court and get their respective claims decided. The decision of the Court in an interpleader suit affords idemnity to the plaintiff on the payment of money or delivery of property to the person whose claim has been upheld by the Court.

27. Before an interpleader suit can be instituted, the following conditions must be fulfilled:-

(i) There must be a debt, sum of money or some property movable or immovable due from the plaintiff; (ii) There must be two or more persons claiming adversely to one another; (iii) The plaintiff must not have any interest therein other than charges and cost; (iv) The plaintiff must be ready and willing to pay or deliver it to the rightful claimant; (v) The suit must be bonafide and there should not be collusion between the plaintiff and or any of the defendants/rival claimants.

28. Rule 1 of Order 35 clearly indicates that in every interpleader suit the plaint shall in addition to other statements necessary for claims say that the plaintiffs claims no interest in the subject matter in dispute and that the claim made by the defendants severally and there is no collusion between the plaintiff and any of the defendants.

29. In the present case at hand, Rule 5 of Order 35 is in the eye of the controversy and as such for ready reference is being reproduced hereinafter:-

5. Agents and tenants may not institute interpleader suits.- Nothing in this Order shall be deemed to enable agents to sue their principals, or tenants to sue their landlords, for the purpose of compelling them to interplead with any persons other than persons making claim through such principals or landlords.

Illustrations

(a) A deposits a box of jewels with B as his agent. C alleges that the jewels were wrongfully obtained from him by A, and claims them from B. B cannot institute an interpleader-suit against A and C.

(b) A deposits a box of jewels with B as his agent. He then writes to C for the purpose of making the jewels a security for a debt due from himself to C. A afterwards alleges that C s debt is satisfied, and C alleges the contrary. Both claim the jewels from B. B may institute in interpleader-suit against A and C.

30. From the bare perusal of the aforesaid provisions, it would indicate that the first part of Rule 5 prohibits an agent or a tenant from disputing the title of his principal or his landlord. The second part thereof provides an exception to the general rule. It will also be relevant to note that Rule 5 is accompanied by illustration which had already been reproduced hereinabove, first.

31. The illustrations (a) explains the principle as incorporated in the first part of the Rule 5 while the illustration (b) deals with the case of the exception as in case of third party (stranger) claiming through the principal.

32. The provision prohibiting that tenant from instituting an interpleader suit against his landlord is based on the doctrine of estoppel as the tenant cannot challenge the title of his landlord which is based on the principle of Section 116 of the Evidence Act, 1872. The aforesaid Rule 5 of Order 35 precludes the tenant from instituting an interpleader suit against his lanlord and any person other than a person making claim through such landlord.

33. Thus, applying the principles to the case at hand, it would be clear that the plaintiff in his plaint has clearly stated that he was inducted by late Lala Murlidhar, thus, on the plain reading of the aforesaid provision, the suit was not maintainable against Sri Murlidhar. However, the problem is little different, inasmuch as, Sri Murlidhar has expired and he was survived by his daughter Smt. Anar Devi and son late Sri Badri Prasad. Significantly, both Smt. Anar Devi and Sri Badri Prasad have also expired and the defendants to the suit are the legal heirs of Smt. Anar Devi and Sri Badri Prasad.

34. Now, whether they would be covered under the terms of landlord or they would be covered under the exception provided in the second part i.e. persons other than claiming through the "principal or landlord".

35. To answer the aforesaid, it would be relevant to point out that the tenancy in question is governed by the Uttar Pradesh Urban Buildings (Regulations of Letting and Rent Eviction) Act , 1972. The aforesaid Act is a Code in itself and governs all rights, obligations of letting, eviction relating to the properties governed by the said Act both with regard to the landlord and the tenants. It is in light thereof it would reveal that once it is admitted by the plaintiff that Murlidhar was the landlord who had inducted the plaintiffs, upon his death, his legal heirs automatically step into the shoes and both Smt. Anar Devi and Sri Badri Prasad would be the landlord. Upon their death, their legal heirs jointly become the landlords of the property in question. Another fact which needs to be noticed here is that the suits for eviction were filed by Smt. Anar Devi and Sri Badri Prasad in their life times in the year 1998. It has been informed that there are two sets of proceedings which are pending (i) SCC Suit seeking arrears of rent and ejectment under Section 20 of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 and (ii) seeking release of the property in terms of Section 21 of the U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972.

36. It would be noticed that the plaintiffs had been depositing the rent in the eviction suit and as such as per Section 3 (j) of the U.P. Act of 1972 the word "landlord" has been defined which reads as under:-

(j) "Landlord", in relation to a builiding, means a person to whom its rent is or if the building were let, would be, payable and includes, except in Clause (g) the agent or attorney or such person;

37. Once the plaintiffs who could not dispute the factual position and had already deposited the rent and continued to deposit rent in the SCC suit in favour of the defendants who have been substituted as landlords, they are prevented from taking this plea to state that there are two separae sets of person claiming and hence the requirement of an interpleader suit.

38. It will also be relevant to point out that though there are many defendants and heirs of Smt. Anar Devi and Sri Badri Prasad but nevertheless in so far as the plaintiffs are cocerned, all of them are the joint landlords of the plaintiffs and this is by operation of law in terms of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972. Having said that, it would be clear that as far as the defendants of the interpleader suit are concerned, they are the landlords and they do not fall within the exception as contained in Rule 5 of Order 35.

39. Thus, this Court is of the view that in so far as the embargo contained in Order 35 Rule 5 is concerned, the same was squarely applicable in the case of the plaintiffs and therefore the two courts have not committed any error in rejecting the plaint on the aforesaid embargo contained in Order 35 Rule 5 C.P.C.

40. Coming to the other submissions which is merely found since the bar has already been upheld by the Court, however, it would be appropriate to meet the other submission of the learned counsel for the appellants as well.

41. This Court finds that as far as the cause of action as pleaded in the plaint is concerned, the same is not appropriate. The plaintiff has grossly erred in resorting to gross suppression and concealment of the material facts. It was the duty of the plaintiff to have come before the Court with clean hands, inasmuch as, it was their duty to have disclosed the pendency of all the suits which were filed and had been pending since 1998.

42. Though, in the paper book of the present second appeal, the appellant has filed a copy of an order passed by the High Court dated 26.11.2013 in W.P. No. 4728 (MS) of 2005 (Deewan Chandra Vs. ADJ, Court No. 1, Lakhimpur Kheri and Another). This order relates to the dispute in question. Sri Deewan Chandra is none other than the plaintiff-appellant no. 2 herein. Even the factum of the Kishan aforesaid writ petition was concealed by the plaintiff. While passing reference has been made in paragraph 11 of the plaint that a suit has been filed by the defendant nos. 1 to 6 and defendant nos. 8, 9 and 10 have demanded rent, however, this in itself was not a complete disclosure to make the cause of action subsisting.

43. It will be relevant to point out that the Apex Court in the case of T. Arivandandam Vs. T.V. Satyapal and Another reported in 1977 (4) SCC 467 while dealing with Order 7 Rule 11 has held as under:-

"5. .....The learned Munsif must remember that if on a meaningful-not formal-reading of the plaint it is manifestly vexatious, and meritless, in the sense of not disclosing a clear right to sue, he should exercise his power under Or. VII Rule 11, C.P.C. taking care to see that the ground mentioned therein is fulfilled. And, if clever, drafting has created the illusion of a cause of action, nip it in the bud at the first hearing by examining the party searchingly under Order X, C.P.C. An activist Judge is the answer to irresponsible law suits. The trial Courts would insist imperatively on examining the party at the first hearing so that bogus litigation can be shot down at the earliest stage....."(emphasis added)

44. The Apex Court in the case of Sopan Sukhdeo Sable and Others Vs. Assistant Charity Commissioner and Others; (2004) 3 SCC 137. In paragraph 17 of the aforesaid judgment, Supreme Court held:-

"17. ..... The real object of Order 7 Rule 11 of the Code is to keep out of courts irresponsible law suits. Therefore, Order 10 of the Code is a tool in the hands of the courts by resorting to which and by searching examination of the party, in case the court is prima facie of the view that the suit is an abuse of the process of the court, in the sense that it is a bogus and irresponsible litigation, the jurisdiction under Order 7 Rule 11 of the Code can be exercised." (emphasis added)

45. Similarly in the case of Popat and Kotecha Property Vs. State Bank of India Staff Association; (2005) 7 SCC 510, in paragraph-20 again, the Apex Court takes exactly the same view.

46. In the case of I.T.C. Limited Vs. Debts Recovery Appellate Tribunal and Others ; (1998) 2 SCC page 70, in paragraph-16 of which, the Court had stated:-

"16. The question is whether a real cause of action has been set out in the plaint or something purely illusory has been stated with a view to get out of Order 7 Rule 11 CPC. Clever drafting creating illusions of cause of action are not permitted in law and a clear right to sue should be shown in the plaint.

(See T. Arivandandam Vs. T.V. Satyapal5)"

47. So also in the case of Raj Narain Sarin (Dead) Through LRs. and Others Vs. Laxmi Devi and Others; (2002) 10 SCC 501, after considering the facts in the concluding paragraphs-8, the Court held:-

"8. ..... The plaint is totally silent on that score, though, however, the existence of the deed of sale noticed above stands accepted by the plaintiff. The litigation, in our view, cannot but be termed to be utterly vexatious and abuse of the process of court, more so by reason of the fact that the deed of sale being executed as early as 1941 stands unassailed for a period of over 50 years. The decision of this Court in T. Arivandandam1 has its due application and having regard to the decision as noticed above and upon consideration of the relevant provisions as engrafted in the Code itself, we have no hesitation in accepting the order of the learned Additional District Judge....."(emphasis added)

48. Further reference may be made to the case of Maria Margarida Sequeira Fernandes and Others Vs. Erasmo Jack De Sequeira (Dead) through L.Rs. 2012 (5) SCC 370. In this case the Supreme Court has laid down at length the duty of the Court in finding of the truth and also with regard to the pleadings and the manner in which they are to be made by the parties. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment are:-

"32. In this unfortunate litigation, the Court's serious endeavour has to be to find out where in fact the truth lies.

37. Lord Denning, in the case of Jones v. National Coal Board [1957] 2 QB 55 has observed that:

"In the system of trial [that we] evolved in this country, the Judge sits to hear and determine the issues raised by the parties, not to conduct an investigation or examination on behalf of [the] society at large, as happens, we believe, in some foreign countries."

38. Certainly, the above, is not true of the Indian Judicial system. A judge in the Indian System has to be regarded as failing to exercise its jurisdiction and thereby discharging its judicial duty, if in the guise of remaining neutral, he opts to remain passive to the proceedings before him. He has to always keep in mind that "every trial is a voyage of discovery in which truth is the quest". In order to bring on record the relevant fact, he has to play an active role; no doubt within the bounds of the statutorily defined procedural law.

40. World over, modern procedural Codes are increasingly relying on full disclosure by the parties. Managerial powers of the Judge are being deployed to ensure that the scope of the factual controversy is minimized.

41. In civil cases, adherence to Section 30 CPC would also help in ascertaining the truth. It seems that this provision which ought to be frequently used is rarely pressed in service by our judicial officers and judges.

51. In the administration of justice, judges and lawyers play equal roles. Like judges, lawyers also must ensure that truth triumphs in the administration of justice.

52. Truth is the foundation of justice. It must be the endeavour of all the judicial officers and judges to ascertain truth in every matter and no stone should be left unturned in achieving this object. Courts must give greater emphasis on the veracity of pleadings and documents in order to ascertain the truth. "

49. In view of the above, it was not open for the plaintiff to have created an illusion of a cause of action. The plaintiff cannot be permitted to resort to clever drafting to get over the rigours of Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C.

50. This Court is also fortified in its view in light of the decision rendered by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Mudit Verma Vs. Ram Kumar and Another reported in 2018 (8) ADJ 52 wherein the provisions of Order 7 Rule 11 in context with suppression and concealment has been considered. The Coordinate Bench of this Court relying upon the various Supreme Court decisions held as under and the relevant portion thereof is being reproduced:-

"9. So far as the pleadings are concerned, again in the aforesaid judgment, Supreme Court has cast duty upon the Courts to be particular about the same. Reference may be made to the following paragraphs:

"61. In civil cases, pleadings are extremely important for ascertaining the title and possession of the property in question.

68. In order to do justice, it is necessary to direct the parties to give all details of pleadings with particulars. Once the title is prima facie established, it is for the person who is resisting the title holder's claim to possession to plead with sufficient particularity on the basis of his claim to remain in possession and place before the Court all such documents as in the ordinary course of human affairs are expected to be there. Only if the pleadings are sufficient, would an issue be struck and the matter sent to trial, where the onus will be on him to prove the averred facts and documents.

69. The person averring a right to continue in possession shall, as far as possible, give a detailed particularized specific pleading along with documents to support his claim and details of subsequent conduct which establish his possession.

71. Apart from these pleadings, the Court must insist on documentary proof in support of the pleadings. All those documents would be relevant which come into existence after the transfer of title or possession or the encumbrance as is claimed. While dealing with the civil suits, at the threshold, the Court must carefully and critically examine pleadings and documents.

72. The Court will examine the pleadings for specificity as also the supporting material for sufficiency and then pass appropriate orders.

73. Discovery and production of documents and answers to interrogatories, together with an approach of considering what in ordinary course of human affairs is more likely to have been the probability, will prevent many a false claims or defences from sailing beyond the stage for issues.

74. If the pleadings do not give sufficient details, they will not raise an issue, and the Court can reject the claim or pass a decree on admission. On vague pleadings, no issue arises. Only when he so establishes, does the question of framing an issue arise. Framing of issues is an extremely important stage in a civil trial. Judges are expected to carefully examine the pleadings and documents before framing of issues in a given case.

77. The Court must ensure that pleadings of a case must contain sufficient particulars. Insistence on details reduces the ability to put forward a non-existent or false claim or defence. In dealing with a civil case, pleadings, title documents and relevant records play a vital role and that would ordinarily decide the fate of the case."

"16. From the facts noted above, it is also clear that the respondents-plaintiffs made serious concealment regarding possession in his plaint. In a suit for injunction, possession is of great relevance. Plaintiff cannot be permitted to make a false statement or conceal true facts from court with regard to same. What is the effect of the said serious concealment with regard to possession made from the Court? Such a question came for consideration before the Supreme Court, besides the afroresaid cases, in case of S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu (Dead) by LRs. Vs. Jagannath (Dead) by LRs. and Others, reported in (1994) 1 SCC 1. In the said case, the plaintiffs concealed the fact of execution of a release date from the Court which came in knowledge of the Court later. In paragraph 5 and 6, the Supreme Court held:-

"5. ..... We do not agree with the High Court that "there is no legal duty cast upon the plaintiff to come to court with a true case and prove it by true evidence". The principle of "finality of litigation" cannot be pressed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants. The courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the court, must come with clean-hands. We are constrained to say that more often than not, process of the court is being abused. Property-grabbers, tax- evaders, bank-loan-dodgers and other unscrupulous persons from all walks of life find the court - process a convenient lever to retain the illegal-gains indefinitely. We have no hesitation to say that a person, who's case is based on falsehood, has no right to approach the court. He can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation.

6. .....A litigant, who approaches the court, is bound to produce all the documents executed by him which are relevant to the litigation. If he withholds a vital document in order to gain advantage on the other side then he would he guilty of playing fraud on the court as well as on the opposite party. "

18. The Supreme Court in case of Bharvagi Constructions and Another Vs. Kothakapu Muthyam Reddy and Others, reported in 2017 (35) LCD 2505: 2017 SCC On Line 1053, where a similar objection was raised and the Court held that it is the law declared by the Court, which is also covered under the expression occurring in Order 7 Rule 11(d) of the Court. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment are as follows:-

"32. The question as to whether the expression "law" occurring in clause(d) of Rule 11 of Order 7 of the Code includes "judicial decisions of the Apex Court" came up for consideration before the Division Bench of the Allahabad High Court in Virender Kumar Dixit Vs. State of U.P., 2014(9) ADJ 1506. The Division Bench dealt with the issue in detail in the context of several decisions on the subject and held in para 15 as under:

"15. Law includes not only legislative enactments but also judicial precedents. An authoritative judgment of the Courts including higher judiciary is also law."

33. This very issue was again considered by the Gujarat High Court (Single Bench) in the case of Hermes Marines Limited Vs. Capeshore Maritime Partners F.Z.C. & Anr. (unreported decision in Civil Application (OJ) No.144 of 2016 in Admiralty Suit No.10 of 2016 decided on 22.04.2016). The learned Single Judge examined the issue and relying upon the decision of the Allahabad High Court quoted supra held in Para 53 as under:

"53. In the light of the above discussion, in the considered view of this Court, it cannot be said that the term "barred by any law" occurring in clause(d) of Rule 11 of Order 7 of the Code, ought to be read to mean only the law codified in a legislative enactment and not the law laid down by the Courts in judicial precedents. The judicial precedent of the Supreme Court in Liverpool & London Steamship Protection and Indemnity Association Vs. M.V. Sea Success, 2004(9) SCC 512 has been followed by the decision of the Division Bench in Croft Sales & Distribution Ltd. vs. M.V. Basil, 2011(2) GLR 1027. It is, therefore, the law as of today, which is that the Geneva Convention of 1999 cannot be made applicable to a contract that does not involve public law character. Such a contract would not give rise to a maritime claim. As discussed earlier, the word "law' as occurring in Order 7 Rule 11(d) would also mean judicial precedent. If the judicial precedent bars any action that would be the law."

34. Similarly, this very issue was again examined by the Bombay High Court (Single Judge) in Shahid s. Sarkar & Ors. Vs. Usha Ramrao Bhojane, 2017 SCC OnLine Bom 3440. The learned Judge placed reliance on the decisions of the Allahabad High Court in Virender Kumar Dixit Vs. State of U.P. (Supra) and the Gujarat High Court in Hermes Marines Limited (supra) and held as under:

"18.....The law laid down by the highest court of a State as well as the Supreme Court, is the law. In fact, Article 141 of the Constitution of India categorically states that the law declared by the Supreme Court shall be binding on all Courts within the territories of India. There is nothing even in the C.P.C. to restrict the meaning of the words "barred by any law" to mean only codified law or statute law as sought to be contended by Mr. Patil. In the view that I have taken, I am supported by a decision of the Gujarat High Court in the case of Hermes Marines Ltd....."

"19. One must also not lose sight of the purpose and intention behind Order VII Rule 11(d). The intention appears to be that when the suit appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any law, the Courts will not unnecessarily protract the litigation and proceed with the hearing of the suit. The purpose clearly appears to be to ensure that where a Defendant is able to establish that the Plaint ought to be rejected on any of the grounds set out in the said Rule, the Court would be duty bound to do so, so as to save expenses, achieve expedition and avoid the court's resources being used up on cases which will serve no useful purpose. A litigation, which in the opinion of the court, is doomed to fail would not further be allowed to be used as a device to harass a Defendant....."

35. Similarly, issue was again examined by the High Court of Jharkhand(Single Judge) in Mira Sinha &

Ors. Vs. State of Jharkhand & Ors., 2015 SCC OnLine Jhar.4377. The learned Judge, in paragraph 7 held as under:

"7. In the background of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, it is apparent that Order VII Rule 11(d) C.P.C. application is maintainable only when the suit is barred by any law. The expression "law" included in Rule 11(d) includes Law of Limitation and, it would also include the law declared by the Hon'ble Supreme Court....."

36. We are in agreement with the view taken by Allahabad, Gujarat, Bombay and Jharkhand High Courts in the aforementioned four decisions which, in our opinion, is the proper interpretation of the expression "law" occurring in clause (d) of Rule 11 of Order 7 of the Code. This answers the first submission of the learned counsel for the respondents against the respondents."

(Emphasis added)"

51. Thus, apart from what has been stated above, this Court finds that that the plaintiff did not come to Court with full disclosure and in light of the dictum of the Apex Court in the case of Bhaskar Laxman Jadhav & Ors. Vs. Karamveer Kakasaheb Wagh Education Society & Ors. Reported in 2013 (11) SCC 531 wherein in paragraph 42 to 47, the Apex Court has held as under:-

Suppression of fact

42. While dealing with the conduct of the parties, we may also notice the submission of the learned counsel for Respondent 1 to the effect that the petitioners are guilty of suppression of a material fact from this Court, namely, the rejection on 2-5-2003 of the first application for extension of time filed by the trustees and the finality attached to it. These facts have not been clearly disclosed to this Court by the petitioners. It was submitted that in view of the suppression, special leave to appeal should not be granted to the petitioners.

43. The learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that no material facts have been withheld from this Court. It was submitted that while the order dated 2-5-2003 was undoubtedly not filed, its existence was not material in view of subsequent developments that had taken place. We cannot agree.

44. It is not for a litigant to decide what fact is material for adjudicating a case and what is not material. It is the obligation of a litigant to disclose all the facts of a case and leave the decision-making to the court. True, there is a mention of the order dated 2-5-2003 in the order dated 24-7-2006 passed by the JCC, but that is not enough disclosure. The petitioners have not clearly disclosed the facts and circumstances in which the order dated 2-5-2003 was passed or that it has attained finality.

45. We may only refer to two cases on this subject. In Hari Narain v. Badri Das [AIR 1963 SC 1558] stress was laid on litigants eschewing inaccurate, untrue or misleading statements, otherwise leave granted to an appellant may be revoked. It was observed as follows: (AIR p. 1560, para 9)

"9. ... It is of utmost importance that in making material statements and setting forth grounds in applications for special leave care must be taken not to make any statements which are inaccurate, untrue or misleading. In dealing with applications for special leave, the Court naturally takes statements of fact and grounds of fact contained in the petitions at their face value and it would be unfair to betray the confidence of the Court by making statements which are untrue and misleading. That is why we have come to the conclusion that in the present case, special leave granted to the appellant ought to be revoked. Accordingly, special leave is revoked and the appeal is dismissed. The appellant will pay the costs of the respondent."

46. More recently, in Ramjas Foundation v. Union of India [(2010) 14 SCC 38 : (2011) 4 SCC (Civ) 889] the case law on the subject was discussed. It was held that if a litigant does not come to the court with clean hands, he is not entitled to be heard and indeed, such a person is not entitled to any relief from any judicial forum. It was said: (SCC p. 51, para 21)

"21. The principle that a person who does not come to the court with clean hands is not entitled to be heard on the merits of his grievance and, in any case, such person is not entitled to any relief is applicable not only to the petitions filed under Articles 32, 226 and 136 of the Constitution but also to the cases instituted in others courts and judicial forums. The object underlying the principle is that every court is not only entitled but is duty-bound to protect itself from unscrupulous litigants who do not have any respect for truth and who try to pollute the stream of justice by resorting to falsehood or by making misstatement or by suppressing facts which have a bearing on adjudication of the issue(s) arising in the case."

47. A mere reference to the order dated 2-5-2003, en passant, in the order dated 24-7-2006 does not serve the requirement of disclosure. It is not for the court to look into every word of the pleadings, documents and annexures to fish out a fact. It is for the litigant to come upfront and clean with all material facts and then, on the basis of the submissions made by the learned counsel, leave it to the court to determine whether or not a particular fact is relevant for arriving at a decision. Unfortunately, the petitioners have not done this and must suffer the consequence thereof.

52. Thus, in light of the aforesaid discussions, this Court finds that the decision relied upon by the appellant in the case of Yashwant Bhikaji (supra) which is on a different fact situation does not come to the rescue. So also the decision of the Apex Court relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant regarding the distinction in the cause of action as expressed by him are not applicable in the present case for the detailed reasons as already mentioned above, hence, the aforesaid decision also does not help the plaintiff-appellant.

53. In view of the aforesaid, there is no manner of doubt that the two courts below have rightly rejected the plaint, inasmuch as, it appears that the plaintiff instituted the interpleader suit only to delay the outcome and that too has resorted to concealment and, accordingly, this Court is not inclined to interfere nor does it find that any substantial question of law arises in the above second appeal which accordingly is dismissed at the admission stage. However, there shall be no order as to costs.

Sales/Trade Tax - Classification - first to see whether an item falls in any of the category mentioned in the schedule and only when such an item is not found falling in any of the schedule the same can be taxed in the ancillary clause - toner cartridges are part of a printer and are liable to be taxed at the same rate as printer

The printer is sold along with the 'Cartridge' and is included in the package containing the printer and therefore from the above fact it can be deduced that the printer includes 'Cartridge' and are sold together. 1. Heard Sri Vikas Sharma, learned counsel for the revisionist as well as Sri Rohit Nandan Shukla, learned Standing Counsel for the respondent.

2. By means of this revision the revisionist has assailed the order dated 15.02.2007, passed by the Trade Tax Tribunal (hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal"), thereby dismissing the second appeal of the revisionist and up holding the order dated 09.11.2006, passed by the Joint Commissioner (Appeals), Trade Tax, Lucknow in the first appeal of the revisionist. This revision pertains to assessment year 2003-04.

3. The revisionist is a Company engaged in the business of manufacture and sale of stationary items such as carbon paper, drawing paper, art material, computer printer, note counting machine etc. which are consumable items. The controversy involved in the present revision is with regard to the rate of tax on H.P. Printer toner and cartridges.

4. It has been submitted that on the sale of H.P. toner and cartridges rate of tax should be 4% while the Assessing Officer has taxed the said goods at the rate of 10%. Therefore, the controversy is whether the H.P. Printer toner and cartridges would be considered to be part of a computer printer or not. In case it is considered to be part of the printer then it will be liable to be taxed at the rate at which the printer is taxed i.e. at the rate of 4% and if it is considered to be an accessory then the same would be liable to be taxed at the rate of 10%.

5. The Tribunal while considering the aforesaid question had recorded finding that the H.P. toner and cartridge does not fall into the category of parts of the printer and that they are just consumable goods and therefore same are liable to be taxed at the rate of 10%.

6. Learned Standing Counsel on the other hand submits that the Tribunal has considered the submissions made by the revisionist, various provisions of charging Sections and case law in this regard has been duly considered and therefore there is no infirmity in the order of the Tribunal.

7. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

8. The question which falls for consideration of this Court is whether under the entry computer hardware, software and other computer consumable would include the toner and printer cartridge, which are used alongwith the computer printer.

9. To decide the aforesaid controversy, this Court will have to consider as to whether cartridge of printer is an essential component of a printer, without which the printer cannot function as a whole or is a cartridge consumable or supplementary or subordinate in nature and will not be needed in actual functioning of the product. It is an admitted position and a fact of common knowledge that a printer cannot function without a cartridge. Function of a printer is to produce printed pages and when blank page is inserted, printed page is turned out with printed words engraved there upon which is only because of the cartridge. In absence of a cartridge blank page will be turned out as a blank page without any impression or characters on it. A printer, therefore, is rendered useless without a cartridge and therefore it can safely be concluded that cartridge is an essential component and integral part of a computer printer, without which a printer cannot function.

10. This Court in Trade Tax Revision No. 85 of 2013 - M/s Wep Peripherals Ltd. Lucknow through Authorised Secretary Vs. Commissioner of Commercial Taxes U.P. Lucknow (decided on 25.10.2018) has considered the question with regard to nature of Ribbon Cartridge used in Dot Matrix Printers as to Whether the Ribbon Cartridge is not a part of computer printer, therefore, not a computer hardware as such not amenable to tax at the rate 4% instead it was taxable at the rate 10% as an unclassified item as it was an accessory of computer printer and not its part?

11. In the case of M/s Wep Peripherals Ltd. Lucknow (supra) the Court has resorted to the "common parlance test" i.e. how the commodity is understood and considered by those dealing in it, and therefore it took into account the fact that the Ribbon Cartridge is sold alongwith the printer which according to the Court was the safest test to conclude that the Ribbon Cartridge was part of the Dot Matrix Printer.

12. Learned counsel for the revisionist has also placed reliance on the judgment of Madras High Court in the case of Canon India Private Limited Vs. State of Tamilnadu/ Commissioner of Commercial Taxes/Commercial Tax Officer (Writ Petition No. 4042 of 2008 alongwith other connected matter, decided on 17th July, 2013). In the case of Cannon India Private Limited (supra) the Madras High Court has considered various judgments and also the judgment of the Delhi High Court in the case of Commissioner of Trade Taxes vs. Symphony Enterprises And Others, 2007 INDLAW DEL 1301, wherein it has been clearly held that toners and cartridges are part and accessories to computer systems. The functioning of these cartridges was explained, from which it appears that ink cartridge is a sophisticated Engineering design to provide and regulate back pressure, which is essential to perform its job of delivering the right amount of ink to the printer nozzel and toner cartridge, which is fitted in laser jet printer generates laser beam which acts on the photo sensitive drum. Thus, the ink jet cartridge/toner cartridge is a part and accessory to a printer, which has been held to be a peripheral to a computer system. Therefore, all spare parts, components and accessories of such goods shall also be taxed at the same rate, as that of the goods if such spare parts, components and accessories are not specifically enumerated are liable to be tax in the same manner as goods enumerated in the schedule.

13. In order to determine the above controversy, it is necessary to examine the nature of goods as dealt by the seller and consumer of the said product or better known as the "Common Parlance Test".

14. Undoubtedly, the printer is sold along with the 'Cartridge' and is included in the package containing the printer and therefore from the above fact it can be deduced that the printer includes a 'Cartridge' and are sold together. 'Cartridge' being a consumable item has to be periodically replaced/recharged with toner.

15. In the light of the above discussion, this Court is of the considered view that toner cartridges are part of a printer and are liable to be taxed at the same rate as printer. It is the duty of the taxing authority, firstly to see that whether an item falls in any of the category mentioned in the schedule and only when such an item is not found falling in any of the schedule can the same be taxed in the ancillary clause.

16. In the instant case toner cartridge being part of printer, which are sold alongwith printers have to be taxed at the same rate as the printers and not under the residuary provision.

17. In view of the discussion made above, this Court is of the considered opinion that the impugned order passed by the Tribunal is not sustainable and the same is accordingly set aside.

18. The revision is allowed.

19. The question of law is answered accordingly.

1. Union of India and others Vs. Parul Punia, 2016 (2) ADJ 14 (Para 9)

Present appeal is against the judgment and orders dated 27.05.2019, passed by Learned Single Judge, in Writ- A No. 7455 of 2019.

Civil Misc. Delay Condonation Application No.1 of 2020

1. After considering the submissions made by the learned advocates for the parties and upon perusing the application for condonation of delay, it appears that sufficient cause has been shown to explain the delay in filing of the appeal and as such, the delay is condoned.

2. The application for condonation of delay, being Civil Misc. Delay Condonation Application No.1 of 2020, is accordingly allowed.

Special Appeal Defective No.117 of 2020

1. This Special Appeal arises in respect of a judgment and order dated 27th May, 2019, passed by a learned Single Judge in Writ-A No.7455 of 2019 (Vivek Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and three others).

2. By the impugned judgment and order, the learned Single Judge proceeded to dismiss the writ petition holding the same to be devoid of merit.

3. The appellant before us is the writ petitioner.

4. The issue that was considered by the learned Single Judge was whether production of a subsequent medical examination report by the appellant-writ petitioner will override or set at naught, the medical opinion of the Regional/District Medical Boards dated 11th April, 2015 and 7th April, 2015, which clearly show that the appellant-writ petitioner was suffering from an ailment in the left ear and accordingly was assessed unfit.

5. The learned Single Judge, while deciding the matter, took note of the fact that even the medical examination report, produced by the petitioner before the writ court, indicated that he was suffering from an ailment in the left ear.

6. Although, the learned advocate for the appellant-writ petitioner placed reliance upon a Single Bench decision of this Court in order to contend that a fresh Medical Board ought to be directed to be constituted to re-examine the appellant-writ petitioner, the learned Single Judge took notice of a Division Bench judgment of this Court (which was taken into consideration by the learned Single Judge whose judgment was sought to be relied upon by the learned advocate for the appellant-writ petitioner). The operative portion of the impugned judgment and order against which the present appeal has been preferred, reads as follows:-

"It is only in exceptional circumstances, when, there is overlapping evidence available on the record and such overlapping evidence is credible. The Court can intervene in the ends of justice.

The learned counsel for the petitioner failed to show that the medical opinion of the respective Medical Boards brought on record are doubtful as compared the medical report/opinion relied upon by the petitioner. All the medical opinions declare the petitioner that he is suffering from ailment in the left ear.

The writ petition being devoid of merit, is accordingly, dismissed."

7. The scope of interference in matters relating to assessment of fitness by a Medical Board constituted under the statutory rules in exercise of powers under writ jurisdiction, in our opinion, would be extremely limited.

8. The Courts have, time and again, emphasised the need for caution when candidates seek to assail the correctness of the findings of a Medical Board constituted under a recruitment process adopted by the State authorities, on the basis of some medical report obtained by them.

9. It would be apposite to refer to the observations made in the decision rendered in the case of Union of India and others Vs. Parul Punia, wherein it was observed as follows:-

"6. ...In a number of such cases, candidates who have been invalidated on medical grounds produce expert opinions of their own to cast doubt on the credibility of the official medical report constituted by the recruiting body. In such cases, the Court may not have any means of verifying the actual identity of the person who was examined in the course of the medical examination by the Doctor whose report is relied upon by the candidate. Hence, even though the authority whose medical report was produced by the candidate may be an expert, the basic issue as to whether the identity of the candidate who was examined, matches the identity of the person who has applied for the post is a serious issue which cannot be ignored..."

10. The Division Bench, in the aforesaid judgment, dealing with the parameters of exercise of writ jurisdiction in such matters, emphasised the need for caution and circumspection, and stated thus:-

"9. ...Undoubtedly, in a suitable case, the powers of the Court under Article 226 are wide enough to comprehend the issuance of appropriate directions but such powers have to be wielded with caution and circumspection. Matters relating to the medical evaluation of candidates in the recruitment process involve expert determination. The Court should be cautious in supplanting the process adopted by the recruiting agency and substituting it by a Court mandated medical evaluation. In the present case the proper course would have been to permit an evaluation of the medical fitness of the respondent by a review medical board provided by the appellants. Otherwise, the recruitment process can be derailed if such requests of candidates who are not found to be medically fit for reassessment on the basis of procedures other than those which are envisaged by the recruiting authority are allowed. This would ordinarily be impermissible."

11. In a case where a recruitment process has been carried out as per prescribed statutory rules whereunder a procedure has been prescribed for testing the medical fitness of candidates by a duly constituted Medical Board, the report of the Medical Board is not to be normally interfered with, and that too, solely on the basis of a claim sought to be set up by a candidate on the basis of some subsequent report(s) procured by him from a private practitioner(s).

12. It is not the case of the petitioner that the decision of the Medical Board was arbitrary, capricious or not in accordance with the procedure under the relevant statutory recruitment rules.

13. Having regard to the foregoing discussion, we are of the view that a claim sought to be set up on the basis of a subsequent medical report produced by the candidate would not have the effect of overriding or setting at naught the expert opinion of the Medical Board set up as per the statutory rules in a recruitment process. Matters relating to medical evaluation of candidates in a recruitment process involve expert determination and it may not be desirable to supplant the procedure prescribed therefor as laid down under the relevant recruitment rules. Any other view, in our opinion, may have the effect of derailing the recruitment process.

14. A bare perusal of the impugned judgment and order reveals that the same has been rendered by the learned Single Judge with cogent and justifiable reasons.

15. In an Intra-Court Special Appeal, no interference is usually warranted unless palpable infirmities or perversities are noticed on a plain reading of the impugned judgment and order.

16. In the facts and circumstances of the instant case, on a plain reading of the impugned judgment and order, we do not notice any such palpable infirmity or perversity. As such, we are not inclined to interfere with the impugned judgment and order dated 27th May, 2019.

17. For reasons stated above, the Special Appeal is liable to be dismissed and stands, accordingly, dismissed.

A. Service Law– Pension/Retirement benefits – Civil Services Regulation: Article 361; U.P. Fundamental Rule 56

(Amendment and Validation) Act, 1975: Rules 56 (C), (E) – Petitioner rendered 33 years of continuous satisfactory service but he has not been paid post retiral benefits on the ground that his services were temporary as the issue of regularization remained pending till retirement. While allowing his claim the Court held as follows.

B. The provisions of Fundamental Rule 56 shall prevail over the Civil Service Regulation, if they are inconsistent. Condition – B of Art. 361, that the employment must be substantive and permanent, is clearly inconsistent with Fundamental Rule 56 and thus is in operative. (Para 7)

C. In service jurisprudence, a person who possesses the requisite qualification for being appointed to a particular post and appointed with the approval and consultation of the appropriate authority and continues in the post for a fairly long period, then such an appointment cannot be held to be "stopgap or fortuitous or purely ad hoc" – For the purpose of making payment of retiral dues the entire service, be it temporary or permanent shall be considered. (Para 7, 8, 9)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Lakshman Veer Vs. State of U.P. and others, Writ-A No. 42848 of 2012 (Para 7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shikhar Anand, learned counsel for the petitioner and Dr. Udai Veer Singh, learned Addl. C.S.C. for the State-respondents.

2. By means of this petition the petitioner has prayed the following relief:

"i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus directing the opposite parties to pay pension as well as gratuity payable to petitioner with effect from the date of his retirement, that is 30.06.2012 till date as well as continue paying the pension in future.

ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus directing the opposite parties to pay the all the post retirement benefits along with interest accrued thereupon till the date of actual payment."

3. The brief facts of the case are that the petitioner was appointed on the post of Skilled Machinist on 4.5.1979 as a temporary and adhoc employee pursuant to which the petitioner joined his duties with effect from 31.7.1979 at Rajkiya Madhyamik Pravidhik Vidyalaya, Gonda. Thereafter, in compliance of order dated 6.6.1996 passed by the Director, Technical Education, U.P. the petitioner discharged duties at Govt. Polytechnic with effect from 2 August 1996. It has been noted that the request of the petitioner for regularisation of service was forwarded by the Principal, Government Polytechnic, Faizabad vide letter dated 31.5.2010. Further, since the work and conduct of the petitioner was being appreciated by the authority competent, therefore, he was granted extension of service beyond the date of superannuation i.e. on 31.8.2010 till 30.6.2012 as he retired from that post on that date.

4. In view of above the petitioner had rendered his services for 33 years of continuous satisfactory service but he has not been paid his post retiral benefits such as pension and gratuity perhaps for the reason that he was not regularized in service.

5. Learned Addl. C.S.C. has drawn attention of this Court towards para 4 of the counter affidavit of opposite party no. 3 and 4 wherein it has been submitted that the entire services of the petitioner are temporary and it is provided in Article 361 of the Civil Services Regulation that temporary / adhoc services are not tenable, therefore, the petitioner has not been paid his retiral benefits including the pension as prayed for.

6. Dr. Udai Veer Singh has further drawn attention of this Court towards para no. 4 of the counter affidavit of respondent nos. 1,2 and 5 wherein the detailed facts of the issue of the petitioner has been narrated and almost same ground has been taken that since the services of the petitioner was on temporary basis, therefore, he could have not been paid his retiral benefits as prayed in the writ petition.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has not only denied the contentions of counter affidavit but also placed reliance on the judgment of this Court dated 29.3.2019 in Lakshman Veer vs. State of U.P. and others in Writ-A No. 42848 of 2012 referring para 27, 28, 31,32,33,34,35,36, 40,41,and 42 as under :

"27.Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon Article 361 of Civil Service Regulation and the same is also being quoted here in below:-

"361. The service of an officer does not qualify for pension unless it conforms to the following three conditions:--

First--The service must be under Government.

Second--The employment must be substantive and permanent.

Third--The service must be paid by Government.

28. These three conditions are fully explained in the following Section.

1. Substantive service in a permanent post qualifying for pension unless the service in a particular post in specifically declared as non-qualifying under Article 350 C.S.R. when a temporary post is made permanent or a permanent post is sanctioned, it is not necessary to state that the post in question would also be pensionable under Article 361 C.S.R.

361-A. The State Government may, however, in the case of service paid from General Revenues, even though either or both of conditions (1) and (2) are not fulfilled:--

(1) declare that any specified kind of service rendered in a non-gazetted capacity shall qualify for pension;

(2) in individual cases and subject to such conditions as it may think fit to impose in each case, allow service rendered by an officer to count for pension.

31. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also placed reliance upon Rules 56(C) and (E) of Act, 1975 and the same is being quoted below:-

56(c). Notwithstanding anything contained in Clause (a) or Clause (b), the appointing authority may, at any time, by notice to any Government servant (whether permanent or temporary), without assigning any reason, require him to retire after he attains the age of fifty years or such Government servant may by notification to the appointing authority voluntarily retire at any time after attaining the age of fifty years or after he has completed qualifying service for twenty years.

56(e). A retiring pension shall be payable and other retirement benefits, if any, shall be available in accordance with an subject to the provisions of the relevant rules to every Government servant who retires or is required or allowed to retire under this rule.

Explanation- (1) The decision of the appointing authority under Clause (c) to retire the Government servant as specified therein shall be nothing herein contained shall be construed to require any recital, in the order, of such decision having been taken in the public interest.

(2) Every such decision shall, unless the contrary is proved, the presumed to have been in the public interest.

(3) The expression 'appointing authority' means the authority which for the time being has the power to make substantive appointments to the post or service from which the Government servant is required or wants to retire; and the expression 'qualifying service' shall have the same meaning as the relevant rules relating to retiring person.

(4) Every order of the appointing authority requiring a Government servant to retire forthwith under the first proviso to clause(d) of this rule shall have effect from the afternoon of the date of its issue provided that if after the date of its issue, the Government servant concerned bona fide and in ignorance of that order, performs the duties of his office his acts shall be deemed to be valid notwithstanding the facts of his having earlier retired."

32. Rule 56(C) does not create any difference between permanent and temporary employee whereas Rule-56(E) clearly says that pension shall be payable to every government servants subject to provisions of relevant rules who retires or is required or allowed to be required under these rules. Therefore, argument raised by learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioner is acceptable in the light of Rules 56(C) &(E) and petitioner is entitled for pension.

33. So far as payment of pension to retiring person is concerned, learned Senior Counsel has placed reliance upon several judgment of Rudra Kumar Sain V. Union of India, (2000) 8 SCC 25, in which Supreme Court has considered the words 'ad hoc', 'stopgap' and 'fortuitous' and it has been answered in Paragraph No. 20 of the said judgment which is quoted below:-

"In service jurisprudence, a person who possesses the requisite qualification for being appointed to a particular post and then he is appointed with the approval and consultation of the appropriate authority and continues in the post for a fairly long period, then such an appointment cannot be held to be "stopgap or fortuitous or purely ad hoc".

34. Again in the case of Ramesh K. Sharma v. Rajasthan Civil Services (2001) 1 SCC 637, Apex Court has considered the word 'substantive basis' after relying upon the judgment of Baleshwar Dass v. State of U.P. (AIR 1981 SC 41) and held that if an incumbent holds the post for indefinite period, this cannnot be said to be adhoc appointment. In paragraph No. 4 of the said judgment, the Court has held as under:-

"If an incumbent is appointed after due process of selection either to a temporary post or a permanent post and such appointment, not being either stopgap or fortuitous, could be held to be on substantive basis. But if the post itself is created only for a limited period to meet a particular contingency, and appointment thereto is made not through any process of selection but on a stopgap basis then such an appointment cannot be held to be on substantive basis. The expression "substantive basis" is used in the service jurisprudence in contradistinction with ad hoc or purely stopgap or fortuitous."

35. Again issue of payment of pension came before this Court in the matter of Dr. Hari Shanker Asopa v. State of U.P. and another (1989) UPLBEC 501, who was allowed to retire being permanent on any of the post hold by him during the tenure of his continuous service of State Medicine College of Uttar Pradesh and the court has replied the same after considering Article 361 and Clause (A) of Rules 1956 of Fundamental Rules as applied in U.P. Civil Service Regulation and held as under:-

"In the instant case, indisputably Dr. Asopa who allowed to retire under clause (c) of Rule 56 and the first and third conditions envisaged in Article 361 of the Regulations were satisfied. He, therefore, became qualified for a retiring pension notwithstanding the fact that he was not permanent on any of the posts held by him during the tenure of his continuous services of State Medical Colleges of Uttar Pradesh Government. Denial of retiring pension to Dr. Asopa on the ground of his not being permanent on any post of the government service was clearly violative of clause (e) of Rule 56 of the Rules. Condition contained in paragraph 2 of the order, dated 21st February, 1983 (annexure-10 to the writ petition), depriving Dr. Asopa of retiring pension cannot, therefore, be sustained. The contention of the learned Standing Counsel for the State of Uttar Pradesh that Dr. Asopa was not entitled to any pension lacks merit and has got to rejected."

36. Payment of pension in the similar matter again came before this Court in the matter of Hans Raj Pandey v. State of U.P. and others, 2007 (3) UPLBEC 2073 and the Court after considering the different law occupying the filed with regard to the payment of pension has held as under:-

"In the present case, so far as the condition Nos. A and C are concerned, they are satisfied and the dispute is only with respect to condition No. B i.e., lack of permanent character of service. However, in out view, the aforesaid provisions stand obliterated after the amendment of Fundamental Rule 56 by U.P.Act No. 24 of 1975 which allows retirement of a temporary employees also and provides in clause (e) that a retiring pension is payable and other retiral benefits, if any, shall be available to every Government Servant who retires or is required or allowed to retire under this Rule. Since the aforesaid amendment Rule 56 was made by an Act of Legislature, the provisions contained otherwise under Civil Service Regulations, which are pre-constitutional, would have to give way to the provisions of Fundamental Rule 56. In other words, the provisions of Fundamental Rule 56 shall prevail over the Civil Service Regulations, if they are inconsistent. Condition -B (supra) of Article 361 of Civil Service Regulations are clearly inconsistent with Fundamental Rule 56 and thus is in operative."

40.Therefore, in the light of discussion made herein above, order dated 03.01.2015 is not sustainable in the light of rules as well as law laid down by this Court and petitioner is also entitled for payment of his pension from the date of his superannuation i.e. 30.06.2011, therefore, order dated 03.01.2015 is hereby quashed.

41.At this stage, another issue before this court is that whether matter should be remanded back to Regional Committee constituted under the provisions of U.P. Act No. 5 of 1982 for taking a fresh decision or not. Similar issue was came before Division Bench this Court in the matter of Tileshwar Nath Vs. State of U.P. & another (Writ-A No. 8224 of 2012) decided on 11.04.2018, and the Court has held as follows:-

"There is another issue before the Court whether the matter should be remanded back to the Tribunal or not to consider and decide again in light of observation made herein above. Court is of the view that when charge sheet itself does not establish any charge and matter is pending since long, no fruitful purpose shall be served to remand the matter back to the Tribunal to decide again, when the petitioner has already retired from service on 31.01.2006."

42. In the present case too, grounds taken in order dated 03.01.2015 is absolutely baseless and petitioner has also attained the age of superannuation on 30.06.2011, therefore, instead of remanding back the matter to Regional Committee, respondents are directed to pay pension to the petitioner forthwith on month to month basis and also pay arrears of pension along with 6% interest from the date of his retirement i.e. 01.07.2011 within three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order."

8. By means of aforesaid judgment this Court has referred the settled proposition of law in question by citing the judgments of Division Bench of this Court as well as the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court and has arrived at conclusion that for the purpose of making payment of retiral dues the entire services be it temporary or permanent shall be considered.

9. Considering the rival contentions of the learned counsel for the parties and the settled position of law, as above, the petitioner is liable to get pension and all retirement benefits counting his entire service till his date of retirement. In the present case since the issue of the regularisation remained pending till the retirement of the petitioner as no decision had been taken, therefore, at this stage I do not feel it appropriate to remand the matter before the competent authority for taking the decision thereon when the law is settled on the point that for the purpose of retiral dues the entire services of the employee shall be considered.

10. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed.

11. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued to pay the pension as well as gratuity payable to petitioner with effect from the date of his retirement, that is 30.06.2012 till date as well as the petitioner shall be paid his continuous pension.

12. The compliance of the aforesaid order shall be made within three months from the date of production of certified copy of the order of this Court failing which the petitioner shall be liable for the interest @ 6% on the entire arrears of dues.

Since in both the aforesaid writ petitions, the impugned orders of suspension is same i.e. 30.12.2019 issued by the Superintendent of Police, Barabanki and facts and circumstances of the case are also same inasmuch as in case of Sub-Inspector, Surendra Pratap Singh, the show cause notice under Rule 14(2) has been issued but at the dictate of State Government, the said show cause notice was cancelled and the Sub-Inspector Surendra Pratap Singh has been placed under suspension. In the same manner, the Sub-Inspector Jitendra Kumar Singh has been placed under suspension. The State Counsel has received common instructions in both the cases vide letter dated 08.02.2020 and same stand has been taken by the Authority in both the cases, therefore with the consent of the learned counsel for the parties, both the matters are decided by the common order.

3. This Court has passed the order dated 31.01.2020 as under:

"Heard Mohd. Ateeq Khan, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Ran Vijay Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

By means of this writ petition, the petitioner has assailed the impugned suspension order dated 30.12.2019, passed by the Superintendent of Police, District-Barabanki.

The case set-forth by learned counsel for the petitioner is that for the allegation in question the departmental inquiry against the petitioner was initiated by the Competent Authority under Rule 14 (2) of U.P. Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 (here-in-after referred to as the "Rules, 1991").If any inquiry is initiated under the aforesaid rules, the incumbent can be provided minor punishment only if the charges are proved.

Learned counsel for the petitioner has demonstrated that a show cause notice dated 25.07.2019 was to the petitioner to that effect, which has been annexed as Annexure No.5 to the writ petition. He has further submitted that despite the aforesaid show cause notice being issued to the petitioner under Rule 14 (2) of the Rules, 1991, the Joint Secretary of the Department of Home has directed the Superintendent of Police, Barabanki vide order dated 18.12.2019 (Annexure No.8 to the writ petition) to set aside the show cause notice being issued against the petitioner under Rule 14 (2) of the Rules, 1991 and place the petitioner under suspension. Therefore, pursuant to the direction being issued by the Joint Secretary of the Department of Home the petitioner has been placed under suspension by means of an order dated 30.12.2019.

Therefore, learned counsel for the petitioner has contended that the law is settled on the point that an employee can only be placed under suspension if the allegations are so serious entailing the major punishment if the charges and allegations are proved and in the present case even the show cause notice was issued to the petitioner under Rule 14 (2) of the Rules, 1991. He has further submitted that the law is also settled on the point that the order of suspension can be passed only by the Appointing/ Disciplinary / Punishing Authority. As the impugned order has been passed on the dictate of the authority who is not a Competent Authority, therefore, in view of the aforesaid reasons the impugned suspension order dated 30.12.2019 is liable to be set aside.

The matter requires consideration.

List this petition on 10.02.2020 as fresh to enable the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel to seek complete instructions in the matter, failing which, the interim relief application of the petitioner may be considered on the next date."

4. In compliance of the aforesaid order, learned Addl. C.S.C. has produced the instructions vide letter dated 08.02.2020 preferred by the Superintendent of Police, Barabanki addressing to the Addl. C.S.C. of this Court enclosing their letters dated 18.12.2019 and 04.07.2019, the same is taken on record.

5. As per the aforesaid instructions, the Superintendent of Police, Barabanki has admitted that in compliance of the letter dated 18.12.2019 preferred by the Joint Secretary of the Department, the petitioner has been placed under suspension.

6. Section 17 of U.P Police Officers of Subordinate Rank (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 provides that a police officer against whose conduct an enquiry is contemplated, or is proceeding, may be placed under suspension pending the conclusion of enquiry in the discretion of Appointing Authority or by any other Authority not below the rank of Superintendent of Police authorized by him in this behalf. It clearly means that to place any employee under suspension is the sole discretion of the Appointing Authority. He may place any employee under suspension applying his independent mind and independent satisfaction to that effect.

7. In the present case, the Superintendent of Police has followed the direction of Special Secretary of the Home Department who has suggested that the petitioner should be placed under suspension and his show cause notice issued under Rule 14(2) be set aside. The Superintendent of Police, Barabanki has followed the aforesaid direction and not only placed the petitioner under suspension, but also the above notice issued against the petitioner under Rule 14(2) has been cancelled by the Superintendent of Police, Barabanki as shown in the instructions letter dated 08.02.2020.

8. The Hon'ble Apex Court In Re: Joint Action Committee of Air Line Pilots' Association of India (ALPAI) & Ors. vs. Director General of Civil Aviation & Ors. reported in (2011) 5 SCC 435 vide para 26 and 27 has considered the identical controversy relating to competence of passing any order and held that only the Competent Authority can pass such orders.

9. The paras 26 and 27 are reproduced herein under:

"26. The contention was raised before the High Court that the Circular dated 29.5.2008 has been issued by the authority having no competence, thus cannot be enforced. It is a settled legal proposition that the authority which has been conferred with the competence under the statute alone can pass the order. No other person, even a superior authority, can interfere with the functioning of the Statutory Authority. In a democratic set up like ours, persons occupying key positions are not supposed to mortgage their discretion, volition and decision making authority and be prepared to give way to carry out commands having no sanctity in law. Thus, if any decision is taken by a statutory authority at the behest or on suggestion of a person who has no statutory role to play, the same would be patently illegal. (Vide: The Purtabpur Co., Ltd. v. Cane Commissioner of Bihar, Chandrika Jha v. State of Bihar, Tarlochan Dev Sharma v. State of Punjab and Manohar Lal v. Ugrasen).

27. Similar view has been reiterated by this Court in Commissioner of Police, Bombay v. Gordhandas Bhanji, Bahadursinh Lakhubhai Gohil v. Jagdishbhai M. Kamalia and Pancham Chand & Ors. v. State of Himachal Pradesh observing that an authority vested with the power to act under the statute alone should exercise its discretion following the procedure prescribed therein and interference on the part of any authority upon whom the statute does not confer any jurisdiction, is wholly unwarranted in law. It violates the constitutional scheme." (emphasis supplied)

10. Considering the rival submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and perusal of the relevant material available on record as well as the dictum of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Joint Action Committee of Air Line Pilots' Association of India (supra), I hereby quash the suspension orders dated 30.12.2019 passed by the Superintendent of Police, Barabanki which is appended to the writ petitions.

11. The opposite party is directed to reinstate the petitioners and post at an appropriate place where the Disciplinary Authority deems fit and proper in the circumstances of the decision.

12. Consequences to follow.

13. It is needless to say that the Disciplinary Authority may pass any appropriate orders but following due procedure of law.

14. In view of the aforesaid terms, both the writ petitions bearing Nos. 2713(S/S) of 2020 and 2748 (S/S) of 2020 are allowed.

15. No order as to costs.

Present petition challenges order of repatriation dated 04.12.2019.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rakesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Alok Sharma, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel for the respondent No. 1 and Sri Shishir Jain, learned counsel for the respondent Nos. 2 to 6.

2. By means of the present writ petition, a challenge has been made to the order dated 04.12.2019, whereby the petitioner has been repatriated to his parent

Department i.e. Public Works Department of State of Arunachal Pradesh.

3. It is stated that the petitioner was sent on deputation from the Public Works Department of State of Arunachal Pradesh to U.P. Rajkiya Nirman Ltd. (in short "Nigam") vide order dated 01.07.2014 and pursuant to the same, he was permitted to join the duties of Nigam on 17.07.2014. In this regard, reliance has been placed on the letter dated 18.07.2014 (Annexure No. 3 to the writ petition).

4. It is further stated that during the period of deputation in Nigam, the petitioner performed his duties and responsibilities with full satisfaction of the Authorities concerned. However, on the basis of the enquiry report dated 30.11.2019, the petitioner has been repatriated vide order impugned dated 04.12.2019. So far as the case of the petitioner is concerned, the enquiry report is vague. The petitioner is not responsible for the allegations made in the report dated 30.11.2019, which relate to Inter Unit Transaction. In this regard, learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance on Para No. 246 of the Basic Responsibilities of Staff and Officers, which provides basic duties of sub-Engineers of the Nigam.

5. It is also stated that in the facts of the case, the order of repatriation dated 04.12.2019, mentioning therein the allegations related to embezzlement is unsustainable in law and is liable to be interfered with by this Court.

6. Per contra, Sri Shishir Jain, learned counsel appearing for the Nigam submitted that admittedly the petitioner has discharged the duties in Nigam on deputation and deputationist has no right to continue on the said post.

7. It is also stated that the petitioner was sent on deputation vide order dated 01.07.2014 and he has completed 5 year on deputation in the Nigam and as per the Rules known as The Uttar Pradesh Absorption of Government Servants in Public Undertakings Rules, 1984 (in short "Rules, 1984"), a deputationist cannot continue after expiry of 5 years. The relevant portion of the Rules, 1984 is quoted hereunder:-

"4. Time limit for deputation: No Government servant shall ordinarily be permitted to remain on deputation for a period exceeding five years."

8. It is also stated that a deputationist can be repatriated, if his/her integrity is found doubtful and in the instant case, the integrity of the petitioner has been found doubtful and for the said reason, the respondent No. 6/Additional Project Manager, Uttar Pradesh Rajkiya Nirman Nigam Limited, Bahraich has recommended for deputation of petitioner and initiation of disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner. In this regard, reliance has been placed on letter of respondent No. 6 dated 02.12.2019 (Annexure No. 7 to the writ petition). The petitioner has been repatriated keeping in view the fact that certain allegations have been made against him in the enquiry report. The integrity of the petitioner, prima facie, is doubtful, so he has been repatriated. The order of repatriation is justified in the facts of the case. In this regard, reliance has been placed on the judgment of the Apex passed in the Case of Kunal Nanda v. Union of India and Another reported in (2000) 5 SCC 362.

"5. Heard the learned counsel for the appellant and Shri R.N. Trivedi, learned Additional Solicitor General. The least said about the conduct of the appellant, the better for him. The appellant, indisputably, is only a deputationist so far as CBI is concerned and his parent Department is only CRPF and his substantive position and appointment is only in that Department and ordinarily a deputation, as per governing Rules, cannot last for a period more than five years. The frivolous claim that a person like him need not be a graduate for absorption and appointment in CBI, apart, the appellant appears to have rendered himself unreliable by making, to put it in the most mild terms, an incorrect representation of his basic educational qualification to be a graduate while factually it is not so, and this one ground, strongly urged is enough to non-suit him. This itself will be sufficient to disentitle him to even continue in CBI any longer. The Screening Committee which appears to have initially recommended for absorption also seems to have proceeded on the basis of the erroneous representation of the appellant of his basic educational qualification and the copy of the proceedings made available disclose this serious lapse and consequently no advantage can be claimed on the basis of the recommendation, made on a mistaken view of the facts more so, when such mistake was the making of the appellant himself. This assertion of the respondent CBI Department was specific and reiterated in unmistakable terms from the beginning before the Tribunal [vide paras 4(h) and 5 of the reply] and thereafter before the High Court in the counter filed [vide para 3(e)] and finally before this Court also [vide para 5(c) of the counter filed on behalf of the respondent]. Throughout, the response of the appellant to those assertions at various stages was evasive and nebulous and neither direct nor specific in refutation of the facts in particular. Being an appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution of India, this Court will be justified in even rejecting this appeal, on this ground alone.

6. On the legal submissions also made there are no merits whatsoever. It is well settled that unless the claim of the deputationist for a permanent absorption in the department where he works on deputation is based upon any statutory rule, regulation or order having the force of law, a deputationist cannot assert and succeed in any such claim for absorption. The basic principle underlying deputation itself is that the person concerned can always and at any time be repatriated to his parent department to serve in his substantive position therein at the instance of either of the departments and there is no vested right in such a person to continue for long on deputation or get absorbed in the department to which he had gone on deputation. The reference to the decision reported in Rameshwar Prasad v. M.D., U.P. Rajkiya Nirman Nigam Ltd. [(1999) 8 SCC 381 : 2000 SCC (L&S) 60] is inappropriate since the consideration therein was in the light of the statutory Rules for absorption and the scope of those Rules. The claim that he need not be a graduate for absorption and being a service candidate, on completing service of 10 years he is exempt from the requirement of possessing a degree needs mention, only to be rejected. The stand of the respondent Department that the absorption of a deputationist being one against the direct quota, the possession of basic educational qualification prescribed for direct recruitment i.e. a degree is a must and essential and that there could be* no comparison of the claim of such a person with one to be dealt with on promotion of a candidate who is already in service in that Department is well merited and deserves to be sustained and we see no infirmity whatsoever in the said claim."

9. This Court in the case of Ravindra Singh v. State of U.P. reported in [2015 (33) LCD 1915] after considering the judgment passed by the Apex Court in the case of Kunal Nanda (supra) and various other judgments on the issue in question observed that no person has right to continue in a foreign service and it is always open to the competent Authority to repatriate the employee concerned to his parent department.

10. In Ratilal B. Soni and others. Vs. State of Gujrat and others, 1990 (Supp) SCC 243, the Court held :-

"5.The appellants being on deputation they could be reverted to their parent cadre at any time and they do not get any right to be absorbed on the deputation post....."

11. The concept of transfer and deputation has been explained by the Apex Court in Prasar Bharti and others Vs. Amarjeet Singh and others 2007 (2) SCALE 486 and it has been held that a person sent in a cadre outside his substantive cadre has no right to continue in foreign cadre and can be repatriated to his parent cadre at any point of time without assigning any reason. Further, the authorities cannot be required to assign any reason, whatsoever, in an order of transfer and such power of transfer cannot be fettered by requiring them to record reason. Which employee should be posted where is absolutely within the domain of the authority concerned and unless it is shown that a order of transfer/repatriation is contrary to the statutory rules or is otherwise mala fide or has been passed by the incompetent authority, only then the Court may interfere and not otherwise. (See: State of U.P. Vs. Ashok Kumar Saxena AIR 1998 SC 925, Mohd. Masood Ahmad Vs. State of U.P. & others JT 2007 (12) SC 467).

12. The Apex Court in U.P. Gram Panchayat Adhikari Sangh & Ors. Vs. Daya Ram Saroj & Ors. (2007) 2 SCC 138 held that the persons having been sent to deputation have no right to continue and they can be repatriated to their parent department.

13. A Division Bench of this Court also in Gauri Shanker Vs. State of U.P. and Others 2005 (1) AWL 426 held as under:

".....A deputationist has no right to remain on deputation and he can be sent back to his Parent Department at any time....."

14. The same view has been followed by another Division Bench of this court in the case of Dr. Seema Kundra Vs. State of U.P. 2003 (1) AWL 520.

15. In Devi Kumar Vs. Rajya Krishi Utpadan Mandi Parishad 2004 (3) UPLBC 2318, this court observed as under:

".....The period of deputation originally fixed can be cut short, if considering necessary, a deputationist has no right to continue in the deputation post....."

16. This court in Ashok Kumar Pandey Vs. State of U.P. and Others, writ petition no 52527 of 2005, decided on 3rd August 2005, held:

".....It is well settled that a deputationist has no right to remain on deputation and he can be sent back to his Parent Department at any time....."

17. Heard the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

18. The admitted facts of the present case are to the effect that the petitioner was sent on deputation on 01.07.2014 and he joined the post in issue in the Nigam on 17.07.2014 and till passing of the order impugned dated 04.12.2019, he continued on the said post. The Rule quoted above specifically provides the term of the deputationist on deputation, according to which ordinarily a deputationist can serve only upto 5 years and not beyond that period.

19. It also appears from the record that after taking into consideration the contents of enquiry report/letter dated 30.11.2019 of respondent No. 5/General Manager, U.P. Rajkiya Nirman Nigam Limited, Ayodhya Region, Ayodhya and the letter dated 02.12.2019 of the respondent No. 6, whereby repatriation of the petitioner has been recommended, the petitioner has been repatriated to his parent department. Initiation of disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner has also been recommended.

20. In nutshell, the case of the petitioner is that he is a deputationist and he cannot be repatriated on the basis of the allegations made against him. Accordingly, he may be allowed to continue on deputation.

21. No rule or pronouncement either of this Court or the Apex Court has been placed before this Court in support of right to continue as deputationist in Nigam.

22. In regard to right of a deputationist, now it is settled principle that a deputationist can always and any time be repatriated to his parent department to serve in his substantive position, in other words on his substantive post, at the instance of either of the departments and there is no vested right in such person to continue for long on deputation in the department, in which he had gone on deputation.

23. Keeping in view the aforesaid admitted position as well as the settled legal position with regard to right of deputationist, this Court is of the view that the order impugned dated 04.12.2019 is not liable to interfered with.

24. For the foregoing reasons, the writ petition lacks merit. Accordingly, it is dismissed.

25. At this stage, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the salary of four months has not been paid to the petitioner.

26. In this regard, Sri Shishir Jain, learned counsel for the respondent Nos. 2 to 6 has stated before this Court that the salary of the period served by the petitioner would be released in his favour within 15 days, if there is no other legal impediment.

The Court held that the regularization should be prospective and not retrospective so that seniority of those, who are already in service, is not affected. (Para 13, 14)

Those regularized under the said Rules will be placed below those appointed in accordance with the service Rules prior to them. Rule 9 makes a valid distinction between two different classes of employees, one which is regular and other not so. (Para 14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ghaus Beg, learned counsel for the petitioner and Dr. Udai Veer Singh, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel for the State-Respondents.

2. The present writ petition has been filed for following main reliefs:-

"(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned office order No.616/U.P. San. Nid.-1 (54)/2016 dated 15.09.2017 passed by the Director, U.P. Museum Directorate (opposite party No.2) so far as it relates to regularization of petitioner's services prospectively i.e. from the date of assuming the charge on the post of Driver at International Ram Katha Sangrahalaya (opposite party No.4), as contained in Annexure No. 1 to the writ petition.

(ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to consider the case of the petitioner on the post of Driver alongwith all consequential services benefits from the date of initial date of appointment i.e. 30.07.1996 as per the provisions of U.P. Regularization of Persons Working on Daily Wages or On Work-Charge or On Contract in Government Departments on 'Group-C' and 'Group-D' Posts (Outside the Purview of the U.P. Public Service Commission) Rules, 2016 read with Government orders dated 13.08.2015 and 24.02.2016, within the time specified by this Hon'ble Court.

(iii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to pay the petitioner difference of salary for the period 30.07.1996 to 15.09.2017 alongwith dearness allowance and other admissible allowances as being paid to regularly appointed Drivers of the State Government."

3. Admittedly, the petitioner was appointed on the post of Driver as daily wager on 30.07.1996 and continued on the said post without any obstruction till December, 2005 and thereafter, he was disengaged from the service by the opposite parties. Aggrieved by the disengagement, the petitioner approached this Court by means of the Writ Petition No. 1247 (S/S) of 2006, which was disposed of finally by means of the judgment and order dated 25.01.2017. The relevant portion of the judgment and order dated 25.01.2017 reads as under:-

"The trivial question now left is with regard to regularization of the petitioner on the post of Driver.

Learned Counsel for the petitioner has argued that he has continued on the post of Group D since his engagement in the year 1996. The work of the post of the Driver has been taken and in view of the engagement as daily wager on Class IV post w.e.f 15.12.1988, he is entitled for regularization on the post in question under Uttar Pradesh Regularization of Daily Wages Appointments on Group "D' Posts Rules, 2001 (in short referred to as '2001 Rules').

It has also been contended by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that in identical situation, this Court has passed the judgment and order dated 18.9.2015 in Writ Petition No. 4052 (SS) of 2014 wherein it has been held that an employee, who had been appointed as daily wager on Group D post before 29.6.1991 and is continuing on his post on 21.12.2001, are fully eligible and entitled to be considered for regularization. Therefore, denial of regularization to the petitioner is wholly unjustified and in breach of the provisions of the aforesaid Rules.

After scrutiny of records, there is no quarrel on the point that the petitioner was engaged in 1996 and today also he is working with respondents but his services have yet not been regularized. It may be clarified that the requirement under the the 2001 Rules is that an incumbent was directly appointed on daily wage basis in a government service before 29.6.1991 and is/are continuing in service as such on the date of commencement of the said Rules. The further requirement under the Rules is that the person must have possessed requisite qualification required for regular appointment on that post at the time of such employment on daily wage basis.

It is also relevant to mention that this Court in the case of Janardan yadav vs.State of U.P. [(2008) 1 UPLBEC 498, has held that this Court does not find any ambiguity in Rule 4(1) providing as to which kind of persons would be entitled for regularization and it nowhere requires that the incumbent must have worked throughout from the date of initial engagement till the date of commencement of the Rules. In the situation, such a stand of the State that the employee had not worked continuously or there are breaks in service, would be contrary to the Rules and would amount to adding and reading certain words in Rule 4(1) which have not been inserted by the legislature. As the rules are applicable only to daily wage employees, the Rules framing authority was well aware that such employee could not have worked continuously throughout and therefore, has clearly provided that the engagement must be before 29.6.1991 and he is continuing as such on the date of commencement of the Rule.

Needless to observe here that recently the State Government has issued a Government Order dated 13.8.2015 whereby it has been provided that persons working on daily wage/work charge/contractual basis in the department of the State Government, its autonomous bodies, public undertakings/local bodies, development authorities and Zila Pancahyat, who were engaged upto 31.3.1996 shall be regularized. In these circumstances, there is no justification in not regularizing the service of the petitioner when it is an admitted fact that the petitioner was engaged as daily wager before 29.6.1991 and he was continuing on the post on 21.12.2001 and even thereafter. Now, recently the State Government vide government order dated 24th February, 2016 has changed the cut of date to 31.12.2001 and has again provided that if the post is not available then necessary steps be taken for creation of supernumerary post.

Considering the facts in its entirety and the legal position, this Writ Petition is disposed of finally with the direction to the respondents to consider regularization of services of the petitioner in light of the aforesaid observation and Regularization Rules read with Government Order dated 13.08.2015 and 24.02.2016 keeping in mind that the petitioner is in service since the year 1996, within three months from the date of receipt of certified copy of this order."

4. Pursuant to the order dated 25.01.2017, passed by this Court in the Writ Petition No. 1247 (S/S) of 2006, the case of the petitioner was considered under the Uttar Pradesh Regularization of Persons Working on Daily Wages or on Work Charge or on Contract in Government Departments on Group 'C' and Group 'D' Posts (Outside the Purview of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission) Rules, 2016 (in short "Regularization Rules of 2016") and vide order dated 15.09.2017, the petitioner was regularized in the service. The order 15.09.2017 on reproduction reads as under:-

5. Sri Ghaus Beg, learned counsel for the petitioner in support of his claim, as raised in the present writ petition submitted that in fact the order dated 15.09.2017, which provides regularization to the petitioner with prospective effect, is contemptuous in nature and while issuing the said order, the opposite parties have ignored the true spirit of the judgment and order dated 25.01.2017, passed by this Court.

6. In view of the above, the prayer is to interfere in the order dated 15.09.2017 passed by the opposite party No. 2, which as per the counsel for the petitioner is contrary to the spirit of the judgment and order dated 25.01.2017.

7. Dr. Udai Veer Singh, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel for the State-Respondents in support of the order dated 15.09.2017 submitted that the writ petition for the main prayers sought by the petitioner is not maintainable in view of the Regularization Rules of 2016.

8. It is further stated that in view of the provisions made under the Regularization Rules of 2016, the retrospective regularization i.e. the regularization from the initial date of engagement as daily wager employee cannot be granted.

9. Heard the submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

10. Admittedly, the petitioner was engaged as daily wager against the post of Driver on 30.07.1996 and he was allowed to continue on the said post till December, 2005 and subsequently, on his disengagement he approached this Court by means of the Writ Petition No. 1247 (S/S) of 2006, which was disposed of by means of the judgment and order dated 25.01.2017 with directions to the opposite parties to consider the case of the petitioner for regularization in view of the Regularization Rules as well as the Government Order applicable. In the intervening period, the petitioner was allowed to continue on the strength of the interim order dated 16.02.2006, passed by this Court.

11. For the purposes of adjudicating the issue involved in the present writ petition, it would be appropriate to take note of the relevant Rules i.e. Rule(s) 7, 8 and 9 of the U.P. Regularization of Persons Working on Daily Wages or On Work-Charge or On Contract in Government Departments on 'Group-C' and 'Group-D' Posts (Outside the Purview of the U.P. Public Service Commission) Rules, 2016 , which are quoted below:-

"Appointments

7. The appointing authority shall, subject to the provisions of sub-rule(2) of rule 6, make appointments from the list prepared under sub-rule(6) of the said rule, in the order in which their names stand in the list.

Appointments be deemed to be under the relevant service rules etc.

8. Appointments made under these rules shall be deemed to be appointments under the relevant service rules or orders, if any.

Seniority

9. (1) A person appointed under these rules shall be entitled to seniority only from the date of order of appointment after selection for regularisation in accordance with these rules and shall, in all cases, be placed below the persons appointed in accordance with the relevant service rules or, as the case may be, the regular prescribed procedure, prior to the appointment of such person under these rules.

(2) If two or more persons are appointed together their seniority inter se shall be determined in the order mentioned in the order of appointment."

12. It is apparent from the Rule(s) 7, 8 and 9 of the Regularization Rules of 2016 that a person can be considered in cadre only from the date of regularization and not prior to the said date. Further, the observations and directions issued by this Court vide judgment and order dated 25.01.2017 passed in the writ petition filed by the petitioner are also not in support of the case of the petitioner. Learned counsel for the petitioner in support of his case has also not placed any provision or rule or judgment.

13. The Supreme Court in the case of Registrar General of India & another vs. V. Thippa Setty & others, (1998) 8 SCC 690, has held that the regularisation should be prospective and not retrospective so that seniority of those, who are already in service, is not affected. This judgement has been followed in the case of Union of India and others vs. Sheela Rani (2007) 15 SCC 230. Reference may also be made to the case of State of Haryana vs. Jasmer Singh (1996) 11 SCC 77.

14. Appointment with retrospective effect is normally not permissible. One of the reasons being it will adversely affect others, who have been appointed as per Service Rules in the interregnum, in matters of seniority, promotion etc. In a case of regularization of service retrospectivity will adversely affect such rights of others who have already been regularly appointed in the regular cadre as per the Service Rules and are better placed. It is with this object that the above quoted Rules are made part of the Regularization Rules of 2016. Rule 9 of the Regularization Rules of 2016 contains a stipulation that those regularized under these Rules will be placed below those appointed in accordance with service Rules prior to them. The Rule makes a valid distinction between two different classes of employees, one which is regular and other not so. There is a rationale basis for such objective as also nexus with an object, as referred above.

15. In view of the aforesaid facts, the writ petition lacks merit and is hereby dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri R.N. Singh, Sri Karuna Srivastava, Sri Mayank Krishna, Sri S. Chandel, Sri Santosh Kumar Srivastava, Sri V.K. Chandel, Sri R.C. Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
S.C., Sri D.K. Pandey, Sri Devesh Kumar Verma, Sri P.K.S. Paliwal, Sri R.B. Pal, Sri Suresh Chandra Verma, Sri Imtiaz Ali

A. U.P. C&H Act-challenging-order-depriving the petitioner-of his road side-valuable land-inherited by him-without assigning any reason-unless-authorities left with no option-under a compelling circumstance-in violation of settled legal principle-valuable land either to be excluded from consolidation operations or-included in the chak of the original chakholder-impugned order-illegal & arbitrary-Petition Allowed.

B. Held, the added fact that a sector road now runs through between those plots where the third respondent claims his Abadi and old Khasra No. 60/3 that is the petitioner's original holding, occurrence of even a slight prejudice to the third respondents, let alone a compelling circumstance that may leave no option with the Authorities but to deprive the petitioner of some part of his valuable roadside land, part of Khasra No. 60/3 (old), is a conclusion that cannot be said to be a legitimate exercise of discretion by the Consolidation Authorities, one way. Here is a case where the Deputy Director of Consolidation affirming the Settlement Officer of Consolidation has deprived the petitioner of valuable roadside land in violation of settled legal principles that valuable roadside land is either to be excluded from consolidation operations or included in the Chak of that Chakholder, who held it as original holding. This principle is to be departed from for very compelling reasons that are not forthcoming in this case. In the result this writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 30.12.1996 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Azamgarh in Revision No. 251, Ram Badan vs. Ram Murat and others is hereby quashed. It is further ordered that the entire area of Khasra No. 60/3 (old) shall be included in the petitioner's chak which already carries the remainder area of the aforesaid plot. Necessary adjustment to parties Chaks shall be made by the Deputy Director of Consolidation. There there shall be no order as to costs.

7. C/M Baroda U.P Gramin Bank A-1 Civil Lines Raebareli vs P.O Employees Provident Fund

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. Heard Sri R.C. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Santosh Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent nos. 1 and 2 and Sri Suresh Chandra Verma, learned counsel appearing for respondent no. 3.

2. This writ petition is directed against an order dated 30.12.1996, passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Azamgarh in Revision No. 251 arising out of proceedings under Section 20 of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (hereinafter referred to as 'the C.H. Act'). The case of petitioner is that he is Chak holder no. 5, whereas respondent no. 3 is Chak holder no. 210. It is claimed that the said Chak was originally recorded in the name of the petitioner's father which he has inherited being his son and sole heir. It is the petitioner's case that plot no. 60/3 ad-measuring 570 kari which is part of his original holding, abuts the Azamgarh Bilariyaganj Road and located at a distance of 3 kms from the city of Azamgarh. It is claimed to be a valuable piece of land carrying a high market value. The petitioner had been proposed three Chaks by the Assistant Consolidation Officer in the Provisional Consolidation Scheme. Lateron, the Consolidation Officer by his order dated 06.05.1986 allotted two Chaks to the petitioner, instead of three as proposed. One of those Chaks included plot no. 60/3 to the extent of an area of 149 links alone, as against his original holding where the said plot bore an area of 570 links. The other Chak allotted to the petitioner comprised his original holding in plot no. 19.

3. Aggrieved by the aforesaid orders passed by the Consolidation Officer, the petitioner carried an Appeal to the Settlement Officer of Consolidation who dismissed it by a judgment and order dated 5th April, 1990. It requires to be clarified here that another Appeal against the same determination was lodged by the petitioner's father, who was alive at that time, and both these Appeals came to be decided by different orders. The Appeal filed by the petitioner's father was decided vide order dated 15.03.1995. Both Appeals met the same fate and were dismissed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation. The petitioner filed three Revisions to the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Azamgarh that were numbered as Revision Nos. 251, 238 and 240. These Revisions were consolidated, heard and decided by a common judgment and order dated 30th December, 1996. Revision Nos. 238 and 240 were partly allowed but so far as Revision No. 251 (Ram Badan Vs. Ram Murat & Others) was concerned, it is the petitioner's case that the same was dismissed, though the operative portion of the order shows it to be partly allowed. The success in Revision nos 238 and 240 led to restoration of some further area for the petitioner on his original holding in plot no. 60/3. This writ petition is confined in its challenge to the judgment and order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, rendered in Revision No. 251 and not the other revisions decided by the said judgment.

4. The petitioner's grievance primarily appears to be about plot no. 60/3 where he has demonstrated before this Court from the entries in C.H. Form 23 that he had an original holding of 570 links. It is pointed out by Sri R.C. Singh learned Senior Advocate for the petitioner, that in the second chak that includes the petitioner's original holding, comprised of plot no. 60/3, renumbered as plot no. 378, he has been allotted a total area of 321 links alone as against the original holding indicated above.

5. Sri Suresh Chandra Verma, learned counsel for the contesting respondents has disputed this submission and has pointed out that another 134 links have been allotted to the petitioner in plot no. 60/3 (old) which is evident from the order passed in a reference dated 23.10.2003, a copy of which has been filed by the petitioner as part of Annexure No. SRA 2 appended to the supplementary rejoinder affidavit dated 18th July 2019. A perusal of the said order does show that an additional 134 links have been added to the petitioner's Chak by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, vide his order dated 23.10.2003 passed in reference no. 72 pending this writ petition.

6. Sri R.C. Singh has disputed this submission to say that the aforesaid additional area of land that was Bachat has been shown which does not add to the total area of his holding or restore his original holding in plot no. 60/3 (old) to the dimensions and location as it existed. What is important to note is the fact that it is the petitioner's case that the land in dispute, that is to say plot no. 60/3, ad-measuring 570 links is a valuable roadside land wherefrom 137 links have been taken away and given to the third respondent.

Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that roadside land of commercial value which plot no. 60/3 certainly is, either ought to be excluded from consolidation operations altogether or the whole of it should be included in the petitioner's Chak. In this connection learned counsel for the petitioner has referred to a circular dated 26.05.1981, issued by the Consolidation Commissioner U.P, a copy of which is on record as Annexure 6 to the writ petition.

7. Learned counsel for the respondent on the other hand says that the 137 links of plot no. 570 that have been given to him are those that abut his Abadi and lie in front of it. It is land appurtenant to the third respondent's Abadi, where he has his dwelling unit. It is on those considerations that a relatively small area of 137 links was taken away from the petitioner's holding, and rightly so, by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, in the learned Counsel's submission.

8. Sri R.C. Singh, learned Senior Advocate in support of the petitioner's case has placed reliance upon a decision of this Court in Ram Prasad vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Allahabad and others, 2006 (100) RD 434,where it has been held:-

"5. In the present case, the consolidation authorities while preparing the consolidation record did not consider the principles laid down under the U.P.C.H. Act and illegally included the land in dispute and allotted the same in the Chak of Opposite Party No. 2 who has no concern with the original holding of the petitioner. The appeal preferred by the petitioner against the allotment of his original holding situated on the main road to contesting Opposite Party No. 2, illegally, the appellate authority passed an order dated 9th December, 1999 strictly in accordance with the principles governing consolidation scheme. The Deputy Director of Consolidation erred in law in holding that as no objection was filed by the petitioner, the land in dispute situated on the main road was rightly allotted to a stranger. It was duty of the consolidation authorities to exclude the land situated on the main road and of commercial value from the consolidation operation. Land in dispute was wrongly included in the consolidation scheme. In any case this should have been allotted to the original tenure-holder, but it was wrongly allotted in favour of contesting Opposite Party No. 2 who has no concern with the land in dispute and has evil eyes on the land of the petitioner. The Settlement Officer, Consolidation on appeal rightly excluded the land in dispute from the consolidation scheme as a result of which land in dispute was allowed to be continued With the petitioner who is original tenure-holder. The order passed by the Settlement Officer, Consolidation was strictly passed in accordance with the Government order dated 26th May, 1981 which is part of the consolidation scheme and was issued under the provision of the U.P.C.H. Act. Deputy Director of Consolidation erred in law in reversing the order of the Settlement Officer, Consolidation Without considering the Government Order dated 26th May, 1981."

9. Learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner has also placed reliance upon a decision of this Court in Ramadhar Singh and Another vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and others, 2009 (106) RD 772, where it has been held:

"7.....There cannot be any dispute that a tenure holder is entitled to have his chak on his plot, which is adjoining to the road. The Consolidation Officer allowed the objection of respondent No. 3 and allotted him plot No. 45, which was taken out by the Settlement Officer Consolidation without giving any reason. The Deputy Director of Consolidation has rightly taken the view that the respondent No. 3 could not have been removed from his chak at plot No. 45. There was sufficient justification for allowing the chak of respondents No. 3 and 4 adjoining to each other, they being husband and wife. The submission of the petitioner that the case of the petitioner was not considered by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, is not correct. It was the petitioners who were allotted plot No. 45 by the Settlement Officer Consolidation. The Deputy Director of Consolidation held that there was no reason for removing the chak of the respondent No. 3 from plot No. 45 which was adjoining the road. The above reason was the basis of the order of the Deputy Director of Consolidation. From the order of the Settlement Officer Consolidation, it is clear that the Settlement Officer Consolidation did not give any reason for removing the chak of the respondent No. 3 from plot No. 45. The Deputy Director of Consolidation emphasising on the above fact, has rightly allowed the revision. The respondents in their affidavit have also brought on record a site plan of different plots which were original holdings of the parties and their allotment which site plan matches: with the chak map filed by the petitioner as Annexure-4. A perusal of the chak map and site plan indicates that plots No. 1520, 45, 37, 38, 39, 45 were the plots on the chak-road. The plot No. 45 was the only plot which was given to the respondent No. 3 which was on the chakroad...."

10. To the same end, reliance has been placed on behalf of the petitioner on a more recent decision in Sanjay and Another vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, 2013 (121) RD 561, where the question of priority in allotment of a roadside land has been dealt with by this Court thus:

10. So far as the arguments of the counsel for the petitioners that findings recorded by Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer Consolidation have not been considered by Deputy Director of Consolidation, is concerned, the Consolidation Officer and Settlement of Consolidation have illegally failed to notice the grievances and arguments of Pankaj that he was deprived from the roadside land. His arguments has been meeted out by Settlement Officer, Consolidation, by holding that plot no. 323 is adjacent to the roadside and his chak on plot no. 324 is adjacent to plot no. 323. The Settlement Officer, Consolidation has illegally failed to notice that plot no. 323 was already allotted in the chaks of the other persons, as such, Pankaj will not get frontage on the roadside as his chak on plot no. 324 was in the back side. The Consolidation Commissioner, U.P. has issued a Circular to allot roadside land to the original tenure holder. This Court has also consistently held that roadside land has to be allotted to original the tenure holder. The order of Settlement Officer Consolidation and Consolidation Officer were contradictory to the law laid down by this Court as well as circular of Consolidation Commissioner U.P. The findings of the Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer, Consolidation were not worth reliable by the Deputy Director of Consolidation.

11. Sri Suresh Chandra Verma, learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No. 3 has reposed faith in the decision of this Court in Smt. Uttama

Devi @ Dayamati vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Basti and others, 2002 (93) RD 239, where it has been held:

6. So far as the demand of Smt. Uttama Devi is concerned, that is based on the Government Order, referred to above. The said Government Order is nothing but a guideline for allotment, which has got no statutory force nor the provisions of the Act, particularly Section 19, stand amended by the said order. Major portion of the plot No. 30, i.e., 3 bighas 18 biswas and 18 biswansis, has already been allotted to the petitioner, therefore, in my opinion the judgment and order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation does not suffer from any infirmity or illegality. He has recorded cogent reasons for the adjustment made by him in the chaks of the parties. He has done justice between the parties while making allotment/adjustment in the chaks of the parties.

12. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 has placed further reliance upon a decision of this Court in Jagdish Sharma and others vs. Addl. Collector (F&R)/D.D.C. and others, 2015 (128) RD 646. He has referred to paragraph 10 of the report, where it has been held:

10. I have considered the arguments of the counsel for the parties and examined the record. A perusal of objection of Sharejang shows that he was claiming for change in his second chak and for allotment of part of its valuation near his original holdings of plot 8950 and remaining valuation on his original holding of plot 1518. In the objection, the petitioner was not impleaded as party nor allotment made to him on plot 1517/3 was challenged. Consolidation Officer without considering possibility for allotment of chak to Sharejang on plot 1518, has disturbed the chak of the petitioner. By order of Consolidation Officer, Sharejang was allotted second chak on plots 1517/3 (area 1-2-5 bigha), 1635 (area 0-1-9 bigha), 1636 (area 0-13-4 bigha) and 1637/2 (area 0-5-10 bigha) (total area 1-12-8 bigha). Sharejang was satisfied and did not file any appeal. By the order of Deputy Director of Consolidation, area of chak of Sharejang on plot 1517/3 has been exceeded 2 bigha. Deputy Director of Consolidation has failed to examine original demand of Sharejang and entertained a totally new demand in revision although in chak carvation matter, a party should not allowed to change his original demand.

13. Further reliance has been placed by learned counsel for the third respondent on a decision of this Court in Ram Shanker vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Basti and others , 2006 (101) RD 247. He has emphasized what was held in Ram Shanker (supra) in paragraph 5 of the report which reads thus:

5. Consolidation proceeding settles dispute for generations to come and in case a person is allotted a chak in front of others residential house, it may cause great and irreparable injury and inconvenience to both the parties for decades to come. Therefore, Deputy Director of Consolidation being last Court of consolidation proceeding is bound to consider all grievances of the parties raised before him as well as to consider whether principle of allotment of chaks to the parties including private source of irrigation was followed or not..

14. This Court has keenly considered the submissions advanced on both sides.

The Court has also been taken through the map, drawn up post consolidation, which shows that new khasra nos. 369, 370 and 378 that are carved out of old no. 60/3, including some part of Gaon Sabha land, do lie abutting the highway. It is indeed, valuable land. Some part of it does include that land which was Gaon Sabha land where the rights of the third respondent could be adjusted, without any objection from the petitioner. However, so far as land that was originally part of plot no. 60/3 is concerned, it is certainly valuable and roadside land.

15. The consensus of principle that emerges from the decisions in Ram Prasad (supra), Ramadhar Singh (supra) and Sanjay and another (supra) is that valuable roadside land that is the original holding of a tenure holder, is to be declared chak out or allotted to him as part of his Chak, unless it be imperative on account of some compelling circumstances that may require some marginal departure from the Rule. There is no finding recorded by the Deputy Director of Consolidation or the Settlement Officer that allotment of the entire area of Khasra No. 60/3 (old) to the petitioner, that is part of the petitioner's original holding lies in front of the third respondent's Abadi and would cause the third respondent some great inconvenience or irreparable injury as spoken of in the decision of this Court in Ram Shanker (supra). The remark of the Deputy Director of Consolidation that though it is not appropriate to include any part of this plot in the third respondent's chak as it is not part of his original holding, considering his Abadi, the same may not be disturbed as ordered by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, is flawed. To this, is added a remark that, therefore, it would not be proper to remove the part of the plot in dispute included in the Chak of the third respondent. For one, it is not reason enough to deprive the petitioner of a substantial part of his valuable roadside land in favour of the third respondent. Moreover, a look at the confirmed consolidation map shows that between one part of old Khasra No. 60/3 (now renumbered as 369) and included in the third respondent's chak and the third respondent's Abadi, there is a sector road running through. This confirmed map is on record as part of Annexure No. SRA-1 to the supplementary rejoinder affidavit dated 18th July, 2019 filed on behalf of the petitioner. There is no dispute about this.

17. The added fact that a sector road now runs through between those plots where the third respondent claims his Abadi and old Khasra No. 60/3 that is the petitioner's original holding, occurrence of even a slight prejudice to the third respondents, let alone a compelling circumstance that may leave no option with the Authorities but to deprive the petitioner of some part of his valuable roadside land, part of Khasra No. 60/3 (old), is a conclusion that cannot be said to be a legitimate exercise of discretion by the Consolidation Authorities, one way. Here is a case where the Deputy Director of Consolidation affirming the Settlement Officer of Consolidation has deprived the petitioner of valuable roadside land in violation of settled legal principles that valuable roadside land is either to be excluded from consolidation operations or included in the Chak of that Chakholder, who held it as original holding. This principle is to be departed from for very compelling reasons that are not forthcoming in this case.

18. In the result this writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 30.12.1996 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Azamgarh in Revision No. 251, Ram Badan vs. Ram Murat and others is hereby quashed. It is further ordered that the entire area of Khasra No. 60/3 (old) shall be included in the petitioner's chak which already carries the remainder area of the aforesaid plot. Necessary adjustment to parties Chaks shall be made by the Deputy Director of Consolidation. There there shall be no order as to costs.

A. U.P C&H Act-Challenging-revisional order-completely altering and reducing-area of petitioner's chak-manifestly illegal-as it makes-cryptic redetermination of chaks-w/o assigning reasons-depriving petitioner-of his original holdings-Petition Allowed.

B. Held, this Court does not intend to say that in appropriate circumstances, the subordinate Authorities with the permission of the Director of Consolidation or the Deputy Director of Consolidation cannot reduce the area beyond 25% or the Deputy Director cannot in fit cases exercise that power. However, before that power to reduce the area beyond 25% is exercised, even by the Deputy Director, there must be valid reasons assigned to take this drastic step. In this case, no such reasons have been assigned. It is the last limb of the submissions of Sri Arun Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner that the area of Chak holder No. 714 has been increased from 6.96 acres to 9.24 acres whereas his area has been reduced from 10.88 acres to 7.10 acres. It is a very inequitable adjustment of Chaks, done by the Deputy Director of Consolidation. This submission is not required to be gone into by this Court, in view of what has already been said above. The submission of Sri Santosh Kumar Singh on the other hand that no prejudice to the petitioner has been caused, inasmuch as, he has been provided a Chak that is not far flung from his original holding, does not appeal to this Court for reasons of the indicated prejudice that has been caused to the petitioner. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and his allowed. The impugned order dated 09.04.1987 passed by the Assistant Director of Consolidation, Ghazipur Camp Office Bareilly in Revision No. 362 is hereby quashed. The Revision shall stand restored to the file of the concerned Assistant Director/Deputy Director of Consolidation, who will determine it afresh after hearing both parties in accordance with law. Both parties will appear before the District Deputy Director of Consolidation/Collector, Ballia on 09.12.2019.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition seeks to impugn an order dated 09.04.1987, passed by the Assistant Director of Consolidation, Ghazipur, Camp Office, Ballia in Revision No. 362. The petitioner is chak holder No. 666, whereas contesting respondent Nos. 2 to 9 are all chak holders no. 714. The petitioner had an original holding, comprising 88 plot numbers admeasuring a total of 12.83 acres, of which after excluding Chakout land, the area that was in hand of the Consolidation Authorities, is a figure of 10.88 acres. The petitioner was proposed two Chaks by the Assistant Consolidation Officer. The first Chak comprised 20 plots with an area of 4.31 acres. This Chak included seven plots from the original holding of the petitioner. The second Chak, proposed, carried 12 plots with an area of 3.37 acres, where four plots came from the original holding.

2. It is the petitioner's case that he filed no objections and was satisfied with the proposal. The contesting respondents, however, filed objections under Section 20 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act (for short, the 'Act') against the ACO's proposal. On the basis of those objections Case Nos. 2011 and 2100 were registered before the Consolidation Officer, Khadsara, District Ballia. The objections filed by respondent Nos. 2 to 9 that were registered as Case No. 2011 were rejected but objections that gave rise to Case No. 2100 were partly allowed, granting a reduction of value of land allotted to respondent Nos.2 to 9, leading to an increase in area on their original holding.

3. Aggrieved, respondent Nos. 2 to 9 filed an Appeal to the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, where it was registered as Appeal No. 558. Respondent Nos. 5 to 9 claimed relief of further reduction in value and allotment of a chak on their original holding, that would include plot Nos. 3248 and 3260.

4. The Appeal aforesaid came to be partly allowed, vide order dated 24.03.1981, in terms that valuation of Plot No. 499/2 admeasuring 11 links was reduced in value from 10 annas to 7 annas. The resultant increase in area was made part of a third Chak allotted to respondent Nos. 2 to 9.

5. The grievance of respondent Nos. 2 to 9, that still survived was that they were not given a Chak on their original holding, comprising Plot Nos. 3248, 3260 and 3033. The respondents, therefore, went up in Revision before the Deputy Director of Consolidation, after a delay of six years applying for condonation. The Revision was numbered as 362. It was consolidated with Revision Nos. 360 and 145/402 by the Deputy Director of Consolidation and decided by a common judgment and order dated 09.04.1987, treating Revision No. 145/402 as the leading case. The said Revision was allowed by the order last mentioned, and hereinafter referred to as the 'impugned order' in terms that the contesting respondents were given one Chak admeasuring 4.31 acres, a second chak admeasuring 2.79 acres, and a third of 1.14 acres.

6. The petitioner's first Chak as carved out by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation was almost completely altered and reduced in area, though with an increase in one plot number in the manner that all the original holding of the petitioner, comprising seven plots, were taken away and entered in the contesting respondent's Chak, and the area of the petitioner's chak was reduced from 4.31 acres, as determined by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, to an area of 3.56 acres. The original holding that was taken out of the petitioner's Chak includes Plot Nos. 3033/10, 3033/11, 3033/17, 3033/18, 3244, 3245 and 2246. All these plots comprising original holding of the petitioner went to the contesting respondents and made part of their Chak admeasuring 4.31 acres. The second Chak of the petitioner was not altered much, except that some area in two plot numbers was increased in order to adjust the loss in area of the first Chak. The area of the second Chak was increased from 3.31 to 3.54 acres.

7. Heard Sri Arun Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Santosh Kumar Singh, learned counsel appearing for respondent Nos. 7 to 9 and Sri Satish Mohan Tiwari, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No. 1.

8. The submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the impugned order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation is manifestly illegal, inasmuch as it makes a cryptic re-determination of Chaks without assigning reasons why it has made that drastic an alteration where the petitioner has been deprived of all his original holding, in his first Chak. It is argued by Sri Arun Kumar that the Deputy Director of Consolidation despite his wide powers under the newly added 3rd Explanation to Section 48 of the Act, is still a Court of Revision, who must deal with what has been determined by the two Authorities below. He must, for reasons howsoever briefly recorded, reverse or affirm their findings and bring about a recarvation of Chaks, if he has to do that, for intelligible reasons.

9. It is argued that the impugned order does not do that; it just orders a rejigging of the two Chaks much to the prejudice of the petitioner where all his original holding has been excluded and given to Chak holder No. 714, who are respondent nos. 2 to 9 here. It is further argued that the first Chak carried the largest part of the petitioner's original holding and what the Deputy Director of Consolidation has done on recarvation of it in Revision is to place the petitioner at a completely different location, giving him a flying Chak. Learned counsel, however, hastens to add that his Chak as carved out by the Deputy Director of Consolidation is located adjacent to his original holding. Still he says that the order prejudices him much because he has been completely removed from whatever comprised the largest part of his original holding.

10. It is also urged that the first Chak that has been allotted to him is asymmetrical. It is not rectangulated but is 'L' shaped. He has invited the attention of the Court to a supplementary affidavit filed by the respondent, dated 24th January, 2011 to which a sketch map of the relative location of Chaks allotted to the parties here, is shown. Indeed, Chak No. 666 after recarvation by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, is a 'L' shaped plot which by the Settlement Officer's determination, was a well rectangulated and compact area. It is also argued that the petitioner's area comprising his first Chak, which was his largest, has been reduced, whereas that of the contesting respondents has been increased with no corresponding adjustment of equities between parties.

11. It is further argued by Sri Arun Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner that on a juxtaposition of the total area the petitioner has in hand, in consequence of the impugned order, there is a decrease by more than 35%. The original holding of the petitioner, as already said, was an area of 10.88 acres, whereas the holding comprising the two Chaks in terms of the impugned order, is a total area of 7.10 acres. It is emphasized that a decrease in area by more than 25% is frowned upon under the Act, and it is for this reason that the Consolidation Authorities have been forbidden from reducing the consolidated area below 25%, without prior permission of the Director of Consolidation. It is urged that no such permission was taken in this case. It is also argued that if that permission be not required, the policy of the law is clear that reductions more than 25% are to be avoided.

12. It is also argued that the area of Chak holder No. 714 has been increased from 6.96 acres to 9.24 acres which, according to the learned counsel for the petitioner, is again a very inequitable carvation done by the Deputy Director of Consolidation.

13. In reply, Sri Santosh Kumar Singh has submitted that there is no prejudice caused to the petitioner, inasmuch as he has been given a Chak that is not far-flung from his original holding. It is located almost on the door-steps of his original holding. In this connection, Sri Santosh Kumar Singh has invited the attention of the Court to a decision of this Court in Asbaran vs. DDC and another, 1986 RD 430. In Asbaran (supra) it has been held by this Court thus:

".....The requirement of allotting original plot of the holding to the tenure holder in his chak has been mandated only in Section 19(1)(f), according to which, if there exists private source of irrigation or other improvement on the plot in question, then it has got to be allotted in the chak of the tenure holder. The allotment of chak in violation of the provisions contained in Section 19(1)(f) would certainly make allotment illegal being violative of specific provisions. But in my opinion, an allotment of a ' Urban ' chak cannot be taken to be illegal and without jurisdiction if such a chak has been allotted at a place quite near the original land held by the tenure holder in its vicinity and not excessively exceeding the valuation of his original plots in that sector.

Thus, in view of the above, I find that no interference is called for with the impugned order by this Court in exarches of powers Under Article 226 of the Constitution merely on the ground that the tenure holder has been allotted a ' Uraa ' chak although he has been allotted a chak of compact area at the place where he had held original land of his holding. A ' Urban ' chak can be said to be irregular in those cases where the tenure holder is not allotted chak at a place in the vicinity of original land held by him in the Sector Area, but the allotment of a ' Urban ' chak to a tenure holder at a place quite near to his original plot of the holding cannot be said to be invalid merely on the ground that being a ' Urban ' chak it could not be legally allotted. I find that there exists no legal bar to the allotment of a ' Urban ' chak or prohibiting allotment of such a chak."

14. It is on the strength of the aforesaid decision that Sri Santosh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent nos. 7 to 9 has stressed that what has been allotted to the petitioner cannot be said to have prejudiced him. It can hardly be called a Udan Chak, in the sense it is understood under the Consolidation Law. It is further argued that so far as the prohibition against a decrease in area by more than 25 % under Section 19(1)(b) of the Act is concerned, the said prohibition is applicable to subordinate consolidation Authorities alone. It is applicable to the Consolidation Officer and the Settlement Officer of Consolidation. He submits that this prohibition carried in under Section 19(1)(b) is not at all applicable in a case where the Deputy Director of Consolidation decides to exceed this limit of 25% of reduction. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance on a decision of this Court in Shri Nath vs. D.D.C., Sultanpur reported in 1986 RD 209. In Shri Nath (supra) on the point being canvassed, it has been held:

"....The permission of the Director of Consolidation, as envisaged under the aforesaid proviso to Section 19(1)(b) would be necessary if the subordinate consolidation authorities would make allotment of a chak having difference of more than 25 percent without obtaining prior permission. But where the Director of Consolidation or the Deputy Director of Consolidation, who exercises delegated powers of the Director of Consolidation under the Act, has made allotment of such a chak to a tenure holder having a difference of more than 25 per cent in area, it would in my opinion, not be invalid because the permission for such an allotment would be inherently manifest therein. If the Authority which is required to give permission to an allotment of chak having a difference in area by more than 25 per cent itself makes the allotment of such a chak in the process of making appropriate adjustment in chalks of parties while deciding a revision it cannot be taken to be invalid and without jurisdiction and no interference would be called for by this Court in exercise of writ jurisdiction. "

15. It is also argued that what has weighed with the Deputy Director of Consolidation in disturbing what has been consistently done by the Authorities below is that the first Chak given to the contesting respondents, taking away plots from the petitioner's first Chak, including his original holding was to meet an objection from the contesting respondents that he had been given a Chak that was far away from the village with no source of irrigation. It was also urged that the valuation of land that was basis of the carvation of Chaks done by the Authorities below, was on the lower side, disadvantaging the contesting respondents. It is argued that it was bearing in mind all these considerations that the Deputy Director of Consolidation adjusted equities between parties. It is, in the last, submitted that the Deputy Director of Consolidation is the last Court of fact as well as law under the statute. He is invested with exceptional powers, particularly, after addition of the 3rd Explanation to Section 48 of the Act with retrospective effect from the year 1980. The impugned order passed by him brings about a determination in exercise of all those powers that have been exercised on valid considerations and strikes equity between parties. In the submission of the learned counsel for the respondents, the impugned order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation is for all these reasons not liable to be disturbed.

16. The Court has given a thoughtful consideration to the contentions advanced on both sides.

17. So far as the first submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner goes that the impugned order is bad as it does not assign any reasons, it is required to be tested with reference to the contents of the order impugned. A reading of the impugned order shows, so far as consideration of the petitioner's rights are concerned, find mention in paragraph 4.

18. A perusal of paragraph 4 of the impugned order shows in great detail how the Deputy Director of Consolidation has gone about adjusting Chaks of parties and ordering their recarvation, but it does not show even a word for a reason, why those changes or adjustments are being made. A reading of the impugned order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation leaves an impression that the Chaks have been modified or redone only because the Deputy Director of Consolidation has thought it fit to do so. It does not show why he has done it.

19. It is trite to say for a legal principle that an order passed by any judicial or quasi-judicial Authority, or for that matter even Administrative Authorities, where rights of parties are decided ought to disclose reasons for the decisions reached. As is often said, reasons are the soul and heart of a decision and convey to the persons affected, as also a superior Authority or a Superior Court, the considerations that have weighed with the decision maker in arriving at his conclusions. Bereft of reasons, the decision is inherently arbitrary. On howsoever good and valid consideration a decision may have been rendered, the absence of reasons would make it foul of Article 14 of the Constitution. In this connection, reference may be made to a decision of this Court rendered in Sheo Pal vs. Basu Deo & others, 2017 (135) RD 335. The said case also involved a writ petition against an order passed by a Deputy Director of Consolidation under Section 48 of the Act. The Deputy Director of Consolidation had reversed the orders of the Authorities below. In the context of those facts, it was held:

"1. .....The only argument advances is that without giving any reason by a totally non-speaking order revision has been allowed by DDC.

3. A bare perusal thereof would leave no manner of doubt that it is totally a non-speaking and unreasoned order. The issues raised by petitioner has not been discussed at all and straightway conclusion have been recorded by DDC.

4. It is well known that "conclusions" and "reasons" are two different things and reasons must show mental exercise of authorities in arriving at a particular conclusion. In Union of India v. Mohan Lal Capoor MANU/SC/0405/1973 : (1973) 2 SCC 836, as under:

"Reasons are the links between the materials on which certain conclusions are based and the actual conclusions. They disclose how the mind is applied to the subject matter for a decision whether it is purely administrative or quasi-judicial. They should reveal a rational nexus between the facts considered and the conclusions reached."

10. Since the impugned order passed by DDC is wholly unreasoned and non-speaking the same cannot be sustained. ..."

20. Again, in Rajvinder Singh vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, 2014 (123) RD 76, this Court emphasized the necessity for the Deputy Director of Consolidation to record reasons while reversing a finding or writing a judgment of reversal. To like effect is a decision of this Court sitting at Lucknow in Arjun vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation Faizabad and another, 2015 (129) RD 205, where it has been held thus:

"14. Further, From the perusal of the impugned order passed by D.D.C., Faizabad, the position which emerges out is that he has not given any valid reasons that under what circumstances, the finding given by the Court below/Settlement Officer Consolidation has been reversed only the reason which has been given while passing the impugned order is that the same has been done only on the statement given by the villagers while the said statement is neither on record nor supplied to the petitioner, so the case of the revisionist/Mewa Lal deserves to be allowed and on the basis of which the impugned order has been passed.

15. Thus, from the record, it is established that no valid reasons has been given by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Faizabad while passing the impugned order, rather it is based on no evidence and has not scrutiny the whole case again to determine the correctness, legality or propriety of the orders passed by the authorities subordinate to him. Hence, the impugned order is liable to be set aside. "

21. This aspect of the matter as to how the Deputy Director of Consolidation, while exercising his powers of Revision, should exercise those powers fell for consideration of this Court in Gulab Chandra vs. DDC, 2019 (143) RD 783, where dealing with the manner in which the Revisional Court ought to write its judgment, in addition to the obligation of assigning reasons, it was held:

22. This Court is rather disconcerted to find that a reading of the judgment of the Consolidation Officer, the Assistant Settlement Officer, and particularly, the impugned order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation in Revision, read like three original judgments, all written in exercise of a concurrent jurisdiction. The judgment of a Revisional Court cannot proceed to address the issues laid before it by parties, deal with them and decide, for that is to be done by the Court or Authority of first instance. The judgment of a Re-visional Court has to open, go through and end like a judgment of reappraisal of what the two Courts or Authorities below have done. The approach of reappraisal has to be supervisory, and not open appellate. May be, in the case of a revision under section 48 of the Act, the standard of reappraisal is wider than that traditionally associated with exercise of Revisional jurisdiction. But, all the same, a Revisional Court cannot decide and write its judgment as if it were a Court of first instance, without referring to and affirming or reversing the findings of the two Authorities below, in the context of the present Act. In the present case, the impugned judgment has precisely done that. It reads like an original judgment written in the third instance. It does not give any reason to disagree with what the Appellate Court has said, though it may have given its own reasons. In the context of dealing with criminal appeals and revisions, concerned about the trappings of an Appellate or Revisional Court's judgment or order, and how it should read and proceed, their Lordships of the Supreme Court In Re: To issue certain guidelines regarding inadequacies and deficiencies in criminal trials (Suo Motu Writ (Crl.) No. 1 of 2017 vide order dated 30.3.2017, issued the following guidelines regarding the manner in which Appellate and Revisional Courts in criminal matters ought to write judgments, and what are the essentials to be adhered to while writing an Appellate or Revisional judgment. The said guidelines hold equally good in case of exercise of any Appellate or Revisional Authority by a Court or other Authority in any other jurisdiction. Guideline No. 7 in Suo Motu Writ (Crl.) No. 1 of 2017 (supra) reads thus:

"7. Repetition of pleadings, evidence, and arguments in the judgments and orders of the Trial Court, Appellate and Revisional Courts be avoided. Repetition of facts, evidence, and contentions before lower Courts make the judgments cumbersome, and takes away the precious time of the Court unnecessarily. The Appellate/Revisional Court judgment/order is the continuation of the lower Court judgment and must ideally start with " in this appeal/revision, the impugned judgment is assailed on the following grounds" or "the points that arise for consideration in this appeal/revision are". This does not of course, take away the option/jurisdiction of the Appellate/Revisional Courts to re-narrate facts and contentions if they be inadequately or insufficiently narrated in the judgment. Mechanical re narration to be avoided at any rate."

"8. It is well settled that, while setting aside the judgment of inferior Court or Tribunal a Revisional Court or higher Tribunal has to deal with the findings given by the inferior Court or Tribunal and is required to consider the entire evidence on record. Thus while recording the contrary findings the Deputy Director of Consolidation was under obligation to consider entire evidence on record and also to record reasons of differing with the findings of Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer Consolidation....."

24. In the conspectus of the above facts and the law, this Court is of firm opinion that the impugned judgment passed by the Revisional Court suffers from a manifest error of law in ignoring from consideration material evidence, that is part of its own record, in particular, CH Form-2-A and CH Form-41, and also in exercising its jurisdiction, where it has proceeded to decide a revision so much like a Court of original jurisdiction that it has lost its character of a Revisional order. On both these counts, the impugned order is found to be flawed and vitiated and, thus, liable to be quashed with a remit of the matter to the Deputy Director of Consolidation to hear parties afresh, consider relevant evidence on record with opportunity to parties to place such evidence on record as may be relevant and to decide the revision afresh, all to be done within a period of six months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

22. It has been recorded above that the revisional order does nothing more than to order about changes in the Chaks of parties with no reference at all to the determinations made by the two Authorities below. There is no indication of reasons that weighed with the Deputy Director of Consolidation to reach the conclusions that he has done. More importantly, he has not made any reference to the orders of the two Authorities below, much less reverse their findings to record his own which renders the impugned order bad; it makes it bad at least about the decision making process.

23. The other contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner that he has been given a Chak, so far as his first Chak is concerned that does not include any part of his original holding and is a Udan Chak, carries some substance. While it is true that the Chak is not truly speaking a Udan Chak in the sense of the term that it sends away the petitioner to a far flung location from his original holdings, it certainly has the effect of completely depriving the petitioner of the major part of his original holding in the first Chak, comprised of seven plots. This would not be much to his prejudice as urged by the learned counsel for the respondent, had the petitioner been given a compact Chak, well rectangulated. But it appears from a perusal of the map that has been placed before the Court that the petitioner's Chak has been rendered 'L' shaped. It has become asymmetrical. A perusal of the order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation does not show that he has bestowed any consideration to this aspect of the matter.

24. The submission of the learned counsel for the respondent that the Deputy Director of Consolidation must be imputed, knowledge of all these facts and further an assumed consideration of all these factors while recording his decision, cannot be accepted. This is so because it does not reflect in the order impugned that he has considered any of these facts.

25. The next submission of the petitioner that his area has been reduced by 35% which is contrary to what the law provides under Section 19(1)(b) may have been successfully repelled by the learned Counsel for the respondent for a proposition of law by placing reliance upon the decision in Asbaran (supra), which holds that the inhibition does not apply to the Deputy Director of Consolidation, but the fact remains that the law does frown upon reduction in area beyond 25%. This is but obvious and for good reason. It is for the reason that the object of the Act is to provide tenure holders with compact rectangulated and consolidated holdings, where they can carry on their agricultural activities with greater convenience. This is the entire scheme of the Act. A drastic reduction in area would militate against the aforesaid object. A prohibition on reduction in area beyond 1/4th appears to embody a legislative policy to prevent an ex-propriety carvation of Chaks that would deprive a tenure holder of his valuable property in the garb of consolidation.

26. This Court does not intend to say that in appropriate circumstances, the subordinate Authorities with the permission of the Director of Consolidation or the Deputy Director of Consolidation cannot reduce the area beyond 25% or the Deputy Director cannot in fit cases exercise that power. However, before that power to reduce the area beyond 25% is exercised, even by the Deputy Director, there must be valid reasons assigned to take this drastic step. In this case, no such reasons have been assigned. It is the last limb of the submissions of Sri Arun Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner that the area of Chak holder No. 714 has been increased from 6.96 acres to 9.24 acres whereas his area has been reduced from 10.88 acres to 7.10 acres. It is a very inequitable adjustment of Chaks, done by the Deputy Director of Consolidation. This submission is not required to be gone into by this Court, in view of what has already been said above. The submission of Sri Santosh Kumar Singh on the other hand that no prejudice to the petitioner has been caused, inasmuch as, he has been provided a Chak that is not far flung from his original holding, does not appeal to this Court for reasons of the indicated prejudice that has been caused to the petitioner.

27. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and his allowed. The impugned order dated 09.04.1987 passed by the Assistant Director of Consolidation, Ghazipur Camp Office Bareilly in Revision No. 362 is hereby quashed.

28. The Revision shall stand restored to the file of the concerned Assistant Director/Deputy Director of Consolidation, who will determine it afresh after hearing both parties in accordance with law. Both parties will appear before the District Deputy Director of Consolidation/Collector, Ballia on 09.12.2019.

29. The District Deputy Director of Consolidation will assign the matter to the competent Deputy Director of Consolidation (unless he chooses to take up the Revision himself) who will proceed to decide this Revision as directed hereinabove, within a period of six months of the parties first appearing before him.

30. There shall be no order as to costs.

A. U.P C&H Act-challenging-order allowing ojection of R.4-directing names of R-4 to 7-to be recorded as co-tenure holders-Petitioner's father-khudkasht of-land in dispute-cannot be divided-amongst co-sharers of other properties-merely for this reason-co-sharers right can't be waived-unless-proved-land in dispute-self acquired-and not ancestral-petitioners failed to prove the same-Dismissed.

B. Held, in the present case it has been proved from the pleadings and evidence that the land in dispute was acquired by Durga Prasad and the petitioners have neither set up nor established the plea of 'ouster'. Therefore all the sons of Durga Prasad have equal share and the Consolidation Officer has rightly directed to record the names of opposite party nos.4 to 7 as co-tenure holders and determined their shares accordingly.The appeal filed by the petitioners was duly considered and rejected by the Settlement Officer Consolidation. Similarly the Deputy Director of Consolidation in the revision found that the name of Vidyadhar was recorded on behalf of all and rejected the revision. This Court does not find any illegality or error in the findings recorded by the learned Consolidation Officer, Settlement Officer Consolidation and the Deputy Director of Consolidation which are based on cogent evidence and correct appreciation of evidence and law. Therefore the present writ petition is misconceived and lacks merit.The writ-petition is, accordingly, dismissed.

Writ Petition dismissed. (E-8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard, Sri Nirmal Tiwari, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Birendra Narain Shukla, learned counsel for the opposite parites.

2. The instant writ petition has been filed challenging the order dated 18.02.1976 passed in Case No.581 under Section 9-A(2) of the Consolidation of Holdings Act by the Consolidation Officer, by means of which the objection filed by the respondent no.4 was allowed and the names of opposite party nos. 4 to 7 has been directed to be recorded as co-tenure holders and order dated 29.09.1976 passed by Settlement Officer Consolidation in Appeal No.829 filed under Section 11 of the Consolidation of Holdings Act and order dated 21.01.1987 passed on revision No.15/1344/36 under Section 48 of the Consolidation of Holdings Act filed by the petitioners.

3. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioners is that the dispute relates to Khata No.12, which was recorded in the name of the father of the petitioners as Khudkasht in the 1356 Fasli and 1359 Fasli. Therefore it cannot be divided and recorded in the name of the co-sharers of the other properties. He further submitted that merely because Vidyadhar was appointed Lambardar and the power of attorney was in his favour, the land recorded as Khudkasht in the name of the petitioners cannot be divided. His further submission is that without considering the objection of the petitioners, the objection of the opposite party no.4 has been allowed and the property has been divided. The appeal filed by the petitioners has been dismissed by the Settlement Officer Consolidation and the Deputy Director of Consolidation has also rejected the revision without considering the aforesaid facts. Therefore the impugned orders are liable to be quashed and the writ petition is liable to be allowed with cost.

4. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the petitioners has relied on the judgments of this Court in the case of Rama Kant Singh & Others versus Deputy Director of Consolidation & Others;1965 ALJ 313 and Dharam Prakash and another verus Deputy Director of Consolidation, U.P. Lucknow; 1970 ALJ 193.

5. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that though the land was recorded in the name of the father of the petitioners, Vidyadhar but the land was acquired by the grand father of the petitioners; namely, Durga Prasad and his three sons namely Gangadhar, Laxmidhar and Vidyadhar were his legal heirs and co-sharers of property. However, since their father was old and used to remain ill and two brothers were living out therefore they had executed power of attorney in favour of the petitioners' father Vidyadhar in regard to the land in question. Vidyadhar was also got appointed as Lambardar for the property in question by his father and two brothers. Therefore merely because the name of the petitioners' father was recorded as Khudkasht, he is not entitled for the said land to be recorded in his exclusive name because his name was recorded on behalf of all co-sharers. It is settled proposition of law that even if the land was recorded in the name of one of the co-sharer, i.e., father of the petitioners in the present case, the same was on behalf of all the co-sharers. Therefore the power of attorney was given to him and he was got appointed as Lambardar also by them.

6. The respondents had filed the evidence before the Consolidation Officer and after considering the same, objection of the opposite party no.4 was allowed and the property was divided and their names were directed to be recorded. Therefore the present writ-petition is mis-conceived and liable to be dismissed with cost. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the respondents has relied on the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Kailash Rai versus Jai Jai Ram; (1973) 1 SCC 527.

7. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

8. The dispute in the present writ petition relates to Khata No.12, which was recorded in the basic year in the name of Vidyadhar, Son of Durga Prasad; father of the petitioners no. 1 and 2 and grand father of petitioner no.3/1. The objection was filed by the opposite party no.4 before the Consolidation Officer under Section 9-A(2) for recording their names as co-tenure holders stating therein that some land out of the land in dispute was acquired by their grand father Durga Prasad through Sankalp and the remaining land was purchased by him, the sale deed of which was got executed in the name of his sons namely Gangadhar, Laxmidhar and Vidyadhar. The said land is ancestral property. The grand father Durga Prasad had become old and used to remain ill, therefore, he had executed power of attorney in the name of the father of the petitioners i.e, Vidyadhar. The other two sons namely Gangadhar and Laxmidhar were in service and out of town. Therefore they had also executed power of attorney in favour of Vidyadhar and got him appointed as Lambardar. Vidyadhar used to live in the village and look after the cultivation on behalf of all, therefore all of them have equal share in the land in dispute and their names should be recorded as co-tenure holders and partitioned accordingly.

9. The father of the petitioners had denied the objections and possession of the opposite parties and stated that he is in exclusive possession. Vidyadhar died during pendency of the case and after his death his widow namely Smt. Shanti Devi had filed the objections stating therein that she has got the land through Will from her husband. Therefore her name should be recorded. The petitioners also filed objections and stated that the said land was neither acquired in Sankalp nor purchased by Durga Prasad. The said land was the sole Khudkasht of their father Vidyadhar and there is no right of Smt. Gyan Devi in the said property and Smt.Jagdei, the other wife of their father has died.

10. The petitioners had filed Khataunis of 1356 falsi,1359 fasli, 1373 to 1375 fasli, Jotbahi 1376 fasli to 1378 fasli,irrigation slips, land revenue receipts,taqavi receipts, copy of the order dated 04.08.1973 passed by the Consolidation Officer and copy of the Aakar Patra No..41 and 45, Khatauni 1369 to 1371 fasli and Aakar Patra 23. The opposite parties had filed a copy of the power of attorney executed by Badri prasad in favour of Vidydhar and copies of the sale deed dated 17.07.1928,11.04.1932 and 30.08.1938, copy of the order passed by the Munsif dated 17.08.1930, copy of the order passed by the Sub Divisional Officer dated 05.04.1930, Sankalp dated 04.10.1989, the application for Lambardar in favour of Vidyadhar dated 25.03.1949, copy of the order dated 19.04.1950 passed by the Sub Divisional Officer in regard to Lambardar and Khudkasht of 1359 Fasli etc.

11. After considering the pleadings of the parties and evidence, the Consolidation Officer has recorded that the land in dispute is of Muhals of Badri Prasad and Lakshman Prasad. The name of Vidyadhar as Khudkasht is recorded in 1356 fasli and 1359 fasli for the last 11 years and after abolition of Zamindari it has been recorded as Bhumidhar in his name. Vidyadhar was lambardar and as per Khewat 1359 fasli, the land in dispute was of Zamindar and in accordance with the Khewat 1359 fasli all the three brothers have equal shares in the said land. The father and brothers had executed power of attorney in favour of Vidyadhar, from which it is apparent that since Vidyadhar used to live at home and his two brothers were living out therefore he used to look after the Zamindari and manage the cultivation. Accordingly, his name was recorded in the revenue records as Khudkasht and subsequently his name was solely recorded as Bhumidhar. It has been proved by the application of his brothers and the order passed by the Sub Divisional officer that Vidyadhar was appointed Lambardar after the consent of the brothers of the Vidyadhar, from which it is apparent that there was a joint consent of all the three brothers. It is settled proposition of law that if there was a Joint Hindu family and the name of one of the family member was recorded out of all the Khewatdars,all will have equal share. Vidyadhar in his lifetime had filed objection but he had not taken a plea of 'ouster' of his two brothers. Though he had stated that he is solely in possession of the property as Khudkasht. Subsequently after his death his sons i.e. petitioners had filed objections claiming that it was self acquired and recorded as Khudkasht in the name of their father. Therefore the other brothers of Vidyadhar have no right in the said property. If the separation would have taken place, then Vidyadhar would not have been appointed as Lambardar which is apparent from the order dated 19.04.1950 and application dated 29.03.1949. Vidyadhar also would have got partition done on the basis of Khewat, if he had no intention to give the shares to his brothers.

12. On the basis of above, learned Consolidation Officer has recorded a finding that Vidyadhar used to manage the cultivation from the time of Zamindari on behalf of all brothers and his sole possession was not against his brothers but it was on behalf of all the brothers and therefore his name was also recorded as Khudkasht on behalf of all.

and 1359 fasli therefore it could not have been divided. Submission may be correct but if the name of the father of the petitioners was recorded on the ancestral property on behalf of all and others have also given him power of attorney and got him appointed as Lambardar to manage the property, it cannot be said that since it was recorded as Khudkasht in the name of father of the petitioners therefore the other brothers have no right and it cannot be divided.

14. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Kailash Rai versus Jai Jai Ram(supra) considered the issue of Khudkasht in the light of provisions of Section 18 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Reforms Act, 1950 and held that if the plea of ouster has not been set up then in law the possession of the co-sharer is both on his behalf as well as on behalf of all other co-sharers,unless ouster is pleaded and established and if one co-sharer is in possession of the land the other co-sharers must be in constructive possession of the land. The relevant paragraphs no.7 to 10 are extracted below:-

"7. This will be the convenient stage to refer to the, material provisions of the Abolition Act. Section 3 defines the various expressions. In clause 26, it is provided that certain other expressions referred to therein, including khudkasht and sir, shall have the, meaning assigned to them in the United Provinces Tenancy Act, 1939 (hereinafter referred to as the Tenancy Act). Section 3(9) of the Tenancy Act defines khudkasht as "land other than sir culti- vated by a landlard, and under-proprietor or a permanent tenure-holder as such either himself or by servants or by hired labour". Sir is defined in section 6 occurring in chapter 11 of the Tenancy Act. Section 4 of the Abolition Act provides for vesting of estates. from a date to be specified by notification. Section 18(1) of the Abolition Act, which is relevant for our purpose, runs as follows :-

"18. Settlement of certain lands with intermediaries or cultivators as bhumidhars- (1) subject to the provisions of sections 10,15,16and 17, all lands-(a) in possession of or held or deemed to be held by an intermediary as sir, khudkasht or an intermediary's grove,

(b) held as a grove by, or in the personal cultivation of a permanent lessee in Avadh.

(c), held by a fixed-rate tenant or a rentfree grantee as such, or

(d) held as such by-

(i) an occupany tenant, Possessing the right to

(ii) a hereditary tenant, transfer the holding by

(iii) a tenant on patta sale.

dawami or istaim rari referred to in section 17.

(e) held by a grove holder, on the date immediately preceding the date of vesting shall be deemed to be settled by the State Government with such intermediary, lessee, tenant, grantee or grove-holder, as the case may be, who shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, be entitled to take or retain possession as bhumidhar thereof."

8. There is no controversy that the date of vesting is July 1 1952 and the date immediately preceding the date of vesting is 30-6-1952. Under section 18 (1) (a), broadly speaking, it will be seen, all lands in possession of, or held, or deemed to be held by an intermediary as sir, khudkasht or an intermediary's grove on 30-61952, shall be deemed to be settled by the State Government with such intermediary. The said intermediary is entitled to take or retain possession as bhumidar subject to the provisions of the Abolition Act. In order to claim rights under clause (a), it is necessary that the lands should be, (1) in possession of an inter- mediary as khudkanst or sir or (2) held by an intermediary as khudkasht or sir or (3) deemed to be held by an intermediary as khudkasht or sir. If any one of these alternatives is established, clause (a), will stand attracted. Khudkasht, as we have already pointed out, means land, other than sir cultivated a landlord 'either by himself or by servants or by hired labour.

9. The question is whether the appellant can be considered to be in "possession' of the lands as khudkasht or whether it can be considered that the lands are "held or deemed to be held by him" as khudkasht. The finding sent by the District Court is no doubt prima-facie against the appellant. But we cannot ignore the decree that has been obtained by him in suit No. 918 of 1945 and the further fact that he is working out the said decree by asking for partition in the present proceedings. According to the High Court, as possession is with the defendants, the plaintiff-appellant cannot get any relief.

10. It should be remembered that the District Court has recorded a definite finding that the defendants have not set up any plea of ouster. This finding, so far as we would see, has not been disturbed by the High Court. The decree in suit No. 918 of 1945 clearly recognises the right of the appellant as a co-sharer along with the defendants. In law the possession of one co-sharer is possession both on his behalf as well as on behalf of all the other co-sharers, unless ouster is pleaded and established. In this case, as pointed out by us earlier, the finding is that the defendants have not raised the plea of ouster. There is no indication in the Abolition Act or the Tenancy Act that bhumidari rights are not intended to be conferred on all the co-sharers or co-proprietors, who are entitled to the properties, though only some of them may be in actual cultivation. One can very well visualise a family consisting of father and two sons, both of whom are minors. Normally, the cultivation will be done only by the father. Does it mean that when the father is found to be cultivating the land on 30-6-1952, he alone is entitled to the bhumidhari rights in the land and that his two minor sons are not entitled to any such rights ? In our opinion, the normal principal that possession by one co-sharer is possession for all has to be, applied. Further, even when one co-sharer is in possession of the land, the other co- sharers must be considered to be in constructive possession of the land. The expression 'possession' in clause (a), in our opinion, takes in not only actual physical possession, but also constructive possession that a person has in law. If so, when the defendants were in possession of the lands and when no plea of ouster had been raised or established, such possession is also on behalf of the plaintiff- appellant. Under such circumstances, the lands can be considered to be the possession of the appellant or, at any rate, in his constructive possession."

15. The Hon'ble Apex Court, in the aforesaid case, further considered the contingencies namely lands held as Khudkasht or lands deemed to be held as Khudkasht and held that 'held' means 'lawfully held' and 'held' must have a meaning different from personal cultivation. The relevant paragraphs 11 and 12 are extracted below:-

"11. Clause (a), as we have pointed out, takes in two other contingencies also, namely, lands held as khudkasht or lands deemed to be held as khudkasht. Even assuming that, in view of the finding of the District Court, the defendants are in possession and on that basis the plaintiff cannot be considered to be also in possession, nevertheless, the lands in question can be considered to be held or deemed to be held by the appellant also. The expression 'held' occurs in section 9 of the Abolition Act. In interpreting the said expression, this court in Budhan Singh & Anr. v. Nab Bux & Anr. (1) has held that it means 'lawfully held'. This court has further observed that-

"According to Webster's New Twentieth Century Dictionary the word 'held' is technically understood to mean to possess by legal title. Therefore by interpreting the word 'held' as 'lawfully held' there was no addition of any word to the section. According to the words ofs. 9 and in the context of the scheme of the Act It is, proper to construe the 'word 'held' in the section as 'lawfully held'."

12. Mr. Bagga, however, contended that the expression 'held' in clause (a) denotes actual possession. As the finding on that point is against the appellant, the lands cannot be considered to be 'held' by him. We are not inclined to accept this contention. In clause (b) occurs the words 'held' as a grow by'. If the expression 'held' occurring in clause (a) means actual possession, then the same meaning must be given to the same word occurring in clause (b) also. But it will be seen that in the latter part of clause (b), the legislature has used the expression 'personal cultivation with reference to Avadh, whereas it has not used any such expression in the first part of clause (b). Therefore, the expression 'held' must have a meaning different from personal cultivation. In our opinion, the expression 'held' can only be taken to connote the existence of a right or title in a person. The appellant's right and title as holder of the lands has been declared and settled in suit No. 918 of 1945. It can also be held that the lands can be considered to be 'deemed to be held' by the appellant. The expression 'deemed to be held' has been used by the legislature to treat persons like the appellant bhumidhars by creating a fiction."

16. The Hon'ble Apex Court, in the aforesaid case, has also considered the case of Rama kant Singh versus Deputy Director of Consolidation and others(supra) of this Court relied by learned counsel for the petitioners and found that the said decision has been passed without considering the various aspects referred by Hon'ble Apex Court which are in regard to Section 18(1) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act and has not agreed by the view taken by the High Court. The relevant paragraph no.14 is extracted below:-

"14. It is now necessary to consider the decision of the Allahabad High Court in Rama kant Singh versus Deputy Director of Consolidation and others(supra) following which the present decision under appeal has been rendered. It is no doubt true that the said decision does support the respondents in the sense that it holds that only that co- proprietor who is in cultivatory possession, becomes khudkasht holder and that possession over proprietary rights by itself does not confer khudkasht holder's rights. The said decision, we find, has laid undue emphasis on cultivatory possession, which alone will attract clause (a) of section 18(1). There is no consideration in the said decision of the various aspects referred to by us and we are not inclined to agree with the view taken by the High Court in the said decision."

17. It has also not been disputed by learned counsel for the petitioners that Lambardar as defined in Section 3(3) of the Land Revenue Act means a co-sharer of a Mahal appointed under this Act to represent all or any of the co-sharers in that Mahal. The power of a Lambardar as contained in Section 245 of the U.P. Tenancy Act is primarily to collect rents and other dues and to settle and eject tenants to enhance rents and to manage the estate with a view to the common benefit. The appointment of father of the petitioners as Lambardar with the consent of his brothers has not been disputed by the petitioners. Therefore it is in fact admitted that he was a co-sharer but the dispute has only been raised because his name was recorded as Khudkasht on behalf of all.

18. In view of above, the judgment cited by learned counsel for the petitioners in the case of Rama Kant Singh versus Deputy Director of Consolidation and others(supra) does not hold a good law and is not applicable on the facts and circumstances of the present case.

19. The other judgment cited by learned counsel for the petitioners in the case of Dharam Prakash versus Deputy Director of Consolidation(supra) is also of no assistance to the case of the petitioners rather it is against because in the said case it has been held that the proprietor who cultivates by that act acquires Khudkasht rights in relation to that plot. But once a proprietor becomes a Khudkasht holder of a given plot and then he dies, the entire body of his heirs at that time would together become the Khudkasht holder. His Khudkasht rights will devolve on the heir whosoever he may be. If the Khudkasht holder dies leaving two sons both of them would become Khudkasht holders of that plot. Thereafter one of the two cultivators may alone cultivate the land, but nonethless both of them will remain the Khudkasht holders unless the 'ouster' of one of them is pleaded and established.

20. In view of above this Court is of the considered opinion that merely by recording a land as Khudkasht in the name of one co-tenure holder it cannot be held that it cannot be divided among co-sharers unless it is proved that it was not ancestral and his self acquired as Khudkasht and a plea of 'ouster' is set up and established.

21. In the present case it has been proved from the pleadings and evidence that the land in dispute was acquired by Durga Prasad and the petitioners have neither set up nor established the plea of 'ouster'. Therefore all the sons of Durga Prasad have equal share and the Consolidation Officer has rightly directed to record the names of opposite party nos.4 to 7 as co-tenure holders and determined their shares accordingly.

22. The appeal filed by the petitioners was duly considered and rejected by the Settlement Officer Consolidation. Similarly the Deputy Director of Consolidation in the revision found that the name of Vidyadhar was recorded on behalf of all and rejected the revision. This Court does not find any illegality or error in the findings recorded by the learned Consolidation Officer, Settlement Officer Consolidation and the Deputy Director of Consolidation which are based on cogent evidence and correct appreciation of evidence and law. Therefore the present writ petition is misconceived and lacks merit.

23. The writ-petition is, accordingly, dismissed.

24. No order as to costs.

A. U.P C&H Act-challenging order-allowing revision-disturbing petitioner's chak-excluding 0.79 acres-used as sahan-for ingress & egress-without considering-evidences on record-no reasons recorded-for differing with the Courts below-failed to reappraise-reasons given by C.O & S.O.C-cannot pass judgements as court of original jurisdiction-Petition-succeeds-allowed in part.

Held, the D.D.C, while deciding a revision cannot write his judgment like that of a court exercising original jurisdiction. He has to write his judgments in the fashion of a court of revision. The powers of the DDC, in view of the third proviso to sec 48 of the Act, have been immensely enlarged retrospectively w.e.f 1980, that would apply in this case. Post amendment, the DDC, exercises a most non conservative kind of revisional jurisdiction where he is a court entitled to decide all questions of fact and law, like a court of regular appeal. But that notwithstanding, the obligation of a revisional court to exercise jurisdictionin the manner a court f revision is supposed to do, cannot be said to be done away with. As a revisional court, the DDC is obliged to reappraise the reasoning of the C.O and SOC, and then reverse, affirm or modify the orders impugned before him. He cannot write his judgment in the fashion of a third court of original jurisdiction, after the CO and SOC have dealt with the matter as authorities of original and Appellate Jurisdiction. This court finds impugned order to be flawed. Writ succeeds and is allowed in part.

Writ Petition partly allowed. (E-8)

Order on Civil Misc. Intervening Application No.2 of 2019

1. This is an application on behalf of one Suresh Chandra Rawat, who has sought to intervene in these proceedings. The applicant could be heard under Chapter XXII Rule 5-A of the Rules of Court without formal impleadment as a party. However, when the case was called on, no one appeared on behalf of the applicant who is represented by Sri Anil Kumar Aditya, Advocate.

2. This application is, accordingly, rejected.

Order on the Writ Petition

3. This writ petition has been filed challenging an order of the Deputy Director of Consolidation dated 04.08.1984, passed in Chak Revision No.580/878 Ram Niwas Vs. Khached Mal and Others, whereby the Revision aforesaid brought by the second-respondent has been allowed, disturbing the petitioner's chak, that was maintained to the petitioner's satisfaction until the appellate determination by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation. The petitioner's case is that Khasra No.854, admeasuring a total area of 0.93 acres, is part of his original holding to the extent of the entire area. In the said plot number, the petitioner had his Abadi being 0.11 acres whereas the remainder area of this plot, being 0.79 acres was utilized by the petitioner as his courtyard (Sehan) and also for the purposes of ingress and egress to his house. It is asserted by the petitioner that the rest of the area of Plot No.854, that is to say, other than that which is Abadi is unfit for cultivation. It is pointed out that in the provisional consolidation scheme, the petitioner's Abadi in 0.11 acres of Plot No.854, was excluded from consolidation operations as chak out land whereas the remainder of the area was proposed by the ACO to be included in the petitioner's Chak.

4. This proposal was objected to by the second-respondent before the C.O., and, further, in Appeal before the SOC under Section 21 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, (for short 'the Act'). The Consolidation Officer decided the objections preferred by the second respondent, along with a number of others, relating to the village by a common order dated 05.03.1984. The petitioner's chak in Khasra No.854 was not disturbed.

5. The second-respondent, aggrieved by the order of the Consolidation Officer, Sahpau, District Mathura, preferred an appeal to the SOC, Mathura being Appeal No.1143 under Section 21(2) of the Act. The appeal aforesaid was allowed in part resulting in some improvement of rights for Ram Niwas. Though, he was given land comprising Plot Nos.827, 828 and 853, the petitioner's Chak in Plot No.854 was not interfered with.

6. Aggrieved, the second-respondent went up in Revision to the Deputy Director of Consolidation, who heard and determined it by the impugned order dated 04.08.1984. The Revision was allowed drastically affecting the petitioner's Chak, by excluding from it an area of 0.79 acres. It makes for the entire area, according to the petitioner, that abuts his Abadi and is used by him as his courtyard (Sehan).

7. Though, no one has appeared on behalf of the contesting respondent No.2, the Court has looked into the counter affidavit filed on his behalf. The material allegations raising challenge to the impugned order are carried in paragraph No.3 of the writ petition. These have been met in paragraph No.4 of the Counter Affidavit. It is contended that the petitioner is not the sole tenure holder of Plot No.854, admeasuring 0.93 acres. The entire area is not his original holding. The petitioner is a co-sharer in Plot No.854, including the 0.11 acres of Abadi, that is a joint Abadi of Ramji Lal, Bhola and others with a 1/3rd share, Ganga Ram (1/3rd share), Ram Prakash and Ram Niwas (1/3rd share). It is not the exclusive holding of the petitioner either for the part that is Abadi, or the remainder of it that is agricultural, according to respondent No.2. The contesting respondent has also averred that doors of the petitioner's house do not open into Plot No.854 and the remainder of the area of the said plot is agricultural in nature, that has also been cultivated. It is pleaded that the door of the petitioner's house opens in the north. It is also asserted that the second-respondent's house is situate adjacent to the petitioner's where doors of all houses of the co-sharers open towards the north and not towards the south, that is to say, the site of the land in dispute. It has been denied that the land has been utilized as the petitioner's courtyard (Sehan). It has also been asserted that the case urged before this Court, that the land in dispute is the petitioner's courtyard (Sehan), was never urged before the Deputy Director of Consolidation.

8. Heard Sri Hemant Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioner. No one appears for the second-respondent or respondent Nos.3, 4 and 5. Sri Kailash Prakash Pathak, learned State Law Officer, has been heard on behalf of respondent No.1.

9. This Court has considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Kailash Prakash Pathak, learned State Law Officer appearing on behalf of the State, who has defending the impugned order.

10. It may be true that the petitioner is not the sole tenure holder of Plot No.854, but the said fact does not figure in the order impugned, or the orders of the Authorities below. Assuming that the petitioner and respondent No.2, alongside the other respondents are co-sharers, the Deputy Director of Consolidation was required to consider petitioner's case that the area of Plot No.854, that has been entered in the second-respondent's Chak, is his courtyard (Sehan) and that it provides ingress and egress to his house. The second-respondent's case that the doors open to the other side, is also a case which the Deputy Director of Consolidation was required to consider. The order of the Deputy Director of Consolidation, however, shows that nothing of this kind has gone into consideration, while recording the order impugned. The order of the Deputy Director of Consolidation proceeds largely on a consideration of the fact that the second-respondent is a small tenure holder, and by the orders of the Authorities below, he has been given four Chaks.

11. No doubt, in accordance with the proviso to Clause (e) of sub-section (1) of Section 19 of the Act, a tenure holder is not to be allotted more than three Chaks, except with the approval in writing of the Deputy Director of Consolidation. However, when the Deputy Director of Consolidation is seized of the matter, he may have good reason to depart from this restriction. That, however, is not the point on which the validity of the impugned order turns. The impugned order, in the opinion of this Court, is manifestly illegal as it does not consider the petitioner's case at all that the balance area of Plot No.854 (substantially) has been given away to the second-respondent, where the petitioner's courtyard (sehan) is located, as well as his way, that provides him ingress and egress to his house. There is, in fact, absolutely no consideration bestowed to the petitioner's case by the Deputy Director of Consolidation. The conclusions drawn are based on a one side consideration of the second-respondent's case.

12. In addition, the impugned order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, also appears to be flawed for another reason.

13. This Court in Gulab Chand and Others Vs. DDC and Others has held thus:

"22. This Court is rather disconcerted to find that a reading of the judgment of the Consolidation Officer, the Assistant Settlement Officer, and particularly, the impugned order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation in Revision, read like three original judgments, all written in exercise of a concurrent jurisdiction. The judgment of a Revisional Court cannot proceed to address the issues laid before it by parties, deal with them and decide, for that is to be done by the Court or Authority of first instance. The judgment of a Revisional Court has to open, go through and end like a judgment of reappraisal of what the two Courts or Authorities below have done. The approach of reappraisal has to be supervisory, and not open appellate. May be, in the case of a revision under Section 48 of the Act, the standard of reappraisal is wider than that traditionally associated with exercise of Revisional jurisdiction. But, all the same, a Revisional Court cannot decide and write its judgment as if it were a Court of first instance, without referring to and affirming or reversing the findings of the two Authorities below, in the context of the present Act. In the present case, the impugned judgment has precisely done that. It reads like an original judgment written in the third instance. It does not give any reason to disagree with what the Appellate Court has said, though it may have given its own reasons. In the context of dealing with criminal appeals and revisions, concerned about the trappings of an Appellate or Revisional Court's judgment or order, and how it should read and proceed, their Lordships of the Supreme Court In Re: To issue certain guidelines regarding inadequacies and deficiencies in criminal trials (Suo Motu Writ (Crl.) No.1 of 2017 vide order dated 30.03.2017, issued the following guidelines regarding the manner in which Appellate and Revisional Courts in criminal matters ought to write judgments, and what are the essentials to be adhered to while writing an Appellate or Revisional judgment. The said guidelines hold equally good in case of exercise of any Appellate or Revisional Authority by a Court or other Authority in any other jurisdiction. Guideline no.7 in Suo Motu Writ (Crl.) No.1 of 2017 (supra) reads thus:

"7. Repetition of pleadings, evidence, and arguments in the judgments and orders of the Trial Court, Appellate and Revisional Courts be avoided. Repetition of facts, evidence, and contentions before lower Courts make the judgments cumbersome, and takes away the precious time of the Court unnecessarily. The Appellate/ Revisional Court judgment/order is the continuation of the lower court judgment and must ideally start with " in this appeal/revision, the impugned judgment is assailed on the following grounds" or "the points that arise for consideration in this appeal/revision are". This does not of course, take away the option/jurisdiction of the Appellate/Revisional Courts to re-narrate facts and contentions if they be inadequately or insufficiently narrated in the judgment. Mechanical re narration to be avoided at any rate."

23. Particularly, relating to the jurisdiction of the Deputy Director of Consolidation under Section 48 of the Act, the aforesaid issue though in the context of a title matter was considered by this Court in Haridas and others vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and another, 2005 SCC OnLine All 2263: 2005(98) RD 593, where dealing with the obligations of a Revisional court while writing its opinion, it was held thus:

"8. It is well settled that, while setting aside the judgment of inferior Court or Tribunal a Revisional Court or higher Tribunal has to deal with the findings given by the inferior Court or Tribunal and is required to consider the entire evidence on record. Thus while recording the contrary findings the Deputy Director of Consolidation was under obligation to consider entire evidence on record and also to record reasons of differing with the findings of Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer Consolidation. ....."

(emphasis supplied)

14. The Deputy Director of Consolidation, while deciding a Revision cannot write his judgment like that of a Court exercising original jurisdiction. He has to write his judgments in the fashion of a Court of Revision. The powers of the Deputy Director of Consolidation, in view of the third proviso to Section 48 of the Act, have been immensely enlarged retrospectively w.e.f. 1980, that would apply in this case. Post amendment, the Deputy Director of Consolidation, exercises a most non conservative kind of revisional jurisdiction where he is a Court entitled to decided all question of fact and law, like a Court of regular appeal. But that notwithstanding, the obligation of a Revisional Court to exercise jurisdiction in the manner a Court of Revision is supposed to do, cannot be said to be done away with. As a Revisional Court, the Deputy Director of Consolidation is obliged to reappraise the reasoning of the Consolidation Officer and the SOC, and then reverse, affirm or modify the orders impugned before him. He cannot write his judgment in the fashion of a third Court of original jurisdiction, after the Consolidation Officer and the SOC have dealt with the matter as Authorities of original and Appellate jurisdiction.

15. This Court finds the impugned order to be flawed on both counts.

16. Accordingly, this writ petition succeeds and is allowed in part. The impugned order dated 04.08.1984 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation in Revision No.580/878 Ram Niwas Vs. Khached Mal and Others is hereby quashed with a remit of the matter to the Deputy Director of Consolidation to decide the Revision afresh, bearing in mind what has been said in the body of this judgment, and after hearing all parties. The Deputy Director of Consolidation shall decide the Revision afresh within a period of six months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

17. There shall be no order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J.
Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Indra Raj Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Ashok Kumar Rai, learned counsel for the respondent No.6 and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents and perused the record.

2. The controversy in the present case centres around the legality of the notice of no confidence motion issued by the District Magistrate, Barielly in purported exercise of power under Section 15 of the U.P. Kshettra Panchayat & Zila Panchayat Adhiniyam, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as 'Adhiniyam, 1961') on 21st December, 2018. By the said notice the District Magistrate, Barielly fixed meeting of the Kshettra Panchayat, Alampur, Jafarabad, District Barielly on 6th January, 2019 to discuss the motion notice which was mooted by more than half members of the Kshettra Panchayat.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn our attention to the notice itself which is in the form of an order dated 21st December, 2018 directing for meeting of the Kshettra Panchayat to consider the motion of no confidence. He points out that in the order itself after it has been signed, it has been forwarded for information and necessary action to the Block Development Officer and the necessary action contemplated in the order is that the notice of no confidence motion is to be pasted on the notice board on 22nd December 2018 and further directed the District Panchayat Raj Officer to issue notice by registered letter to all the members of Kshettra Panchayat.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also drawn our attention to page 16 of the writ petition and also the photo copy of the envelop that contained the notice to demonstrate that notice in fact was issued by the registered post on 22nd December, 2018 only.

5. The argument, therefore, advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner is that in the light of the provisions as contained under the relevant provision of the Adhiniyam, 1961, there has to be a clear 15 days notice for the scheduled meeting of the members of the Kshettra Panchayat. He argues that the notice as contemplated in the provisions of the Adhiniyam, 1961, uses the words 'not less than' and, therefore, in computing the period of 15 days, one has to keep in mind that there has to be a clear 15 days notice. He argues that 15 clear days notice means the date of issuance of the notice and the date on which the meeting scheduled, has to be excluded. He has relied upon the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Kamal Sharma v. State of U.P. and others decided on 5th October, 2013 in Writ- C No.- 9763 of 2013. He has further placed reliance upon another Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Kamla Devi v. State of U.P and others, decided on 14th February, 2014 in Civil Misc. Writ petition No.- 41077 of 2012, in which it has been held that if a clear 15 days notice is not there then the notice per se is illegal and is not sustainable and, therefore, even if during pendency of the writ petition, scheduled meeting was permitted to be held and the motion is alleged to have been carried out, it would amount to a nullity. He submits that if the notice itself is bad, the consequential action to the notice is also turned out to be bad.

6. Per contra, the argument advanced by the learned counsel for the contesting respondents is that a form of notice is mere formality and is not mandatory in nature. He argued that intendment of the Legislature as is reflected from the relevant provisions of the Adhiniyam, 1961 is that a person against whom the notice is slated, should have the knowledge of the notice and then those who have participated in the meeting should have also the knowledge of the notice. Whether the notice is pasted on the notice board of the Kshettra Panchayat or sent by the registered post hardly makes a difference. He argues that even otherwise, this Court while entertaining this writ petition had permitted the meeting to be held on the scheduled date and the motion has been carried out as has been stated in the counter affidavit and the petitioner has virtually lost the confidence of the House and, therefore, this Court should not go into the technicality involved in the case and should dismiss the writ petition out-rightly.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, we find that the core issue is the period that has to be provided by the District Magistrate under the provisions of the Adhiniyam, 1961 for scheduling a meeting to consider the no confidence motion as far as the intimation to the person is concerned. In order to appreciate the argument advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner it is necessary to reproduce Section 15 of the Adhiniyam, 1961 in its entirety. Section 15 of the Adhiniyam, 1961 is runs as under:-

"15. Motion of non-confidence in Pramukh or Up-Pramukh- (1) A motion expressing want of confidence in the Pramukh or any Up-Pramukh of a Kshetra Panchayat may be made and proceeded with in accordance with the procedure laid down in the following sub-sections.

(2) A written notice of intention to make the motion in such form as may be prescribed, signed by at least half of the total number of [elected members of the Kshetra Panchayat] for the time being together with a copy of the proposed motion, shall be delivered in person, by any one of the members signing the notice, to the Collector having jurisdiction over the Kshetra Panchayat.

(3) The Collector shall thereupon:-

(i) convene a meeting of the Kshettra Panchayat for the consideration of the motion at the office of the Kshettra Panchayat on a date appointed by him, which shall not be later than thirty days from the date on which the notice under sub-section (2) was delivered to him, and

(ii) give to the [elected member of the Kshettra Panchayat] notice of not less than fifteen days of such meeting in such manner as may be prescribed.

Explanation - In computing the period of thirty days specified in this sub-section, the period during which a stay order, if any, issued by a Competent Court on a petition filed against the motion made under this section is in force plus such further time as may be required in the issue of fresh notices of the meeting to the members, shall be excluded.

(4) ....."

8. From the bare reading of the aforesaid provision it is clearly revealed that the Legislature intends that there has to be a notice of not less than 15 days, in any case, to the elected members of the Kshettra Panchayat to consider the no confidence motion and such notice has to be sent in a manner as may be prescribed. The rules that govern the field regarding procedure to be followed in the prescribed form for the purposes of the notice as meant under relevant rules are also reproduced hereunder:-

1. A written notice of intention to make a motion expressing want of confidence in the Pramukh or the Up-Pramukh of a Kshettra Samiti shall be in Form I of the Schedule given below.

Kshettra Samitis and Zila Parishads Adhiniyam, 1961, shall be in Form II of the Schedule given below and shall be sent by registered post to every member of the Kshettra Samiti at his ordinary place of residence. It shall also be published by affixation of a copy thereof on the notice board of the office of the Kshettra Samiti.

9. From the rules as quoted hereinabove it is clear that the notice has to be sent in the form as prescribed for under the schedule and has to be sent by registered post. Apart from its publication and affixation of a copy thereof on the notice board of the office of the Kshettra Panchayat, the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Kamal Sharma (supra) had the occasion to consider the legal aspect involved in the matter and has compared this provision with the provision as contained under Section 87(A) of the U.P. Municipality Act, 1960 holding it to be pari materia. After detailed deliberation over the subject matter and discussing various authorities relating to the same, the Division Bench vide paragraph 26 of the judgment (supra) has held thus:-

"26. There is no difference in the words "at least" and "not less than". Admittedly, the notice dated 13.2.2013 was dispatched to the elected members on 14.2.2013 by speed post for convening the meeting which was scheduled to be held on 1.3.2013. While computing 15 days period the two terminal dates have to be excluded. Thus 15 days clear notice was not given to the elected members."

10. We notice in this case that the District Magistrate while passed the order on 21st December, 2018 but directed the notices to be issued with the copy thereof being pasted on the notice board on 22nd December, 2018. The question, therefore, is that what is the date of issuance of the notice as contemplated under the relevant provisions of the Adhiniyam, 1961.

11. In our considered opinion, the first date of notice which makes the notice public including the members of the Kshettra Panchayat scheduling a meeting to consider the motion of no confidence is 22nd December, 2018. The date fixed for the meeting is 6th January, 2018. Thus, if we follow the Division Bench judgment (supra) it is clearly borne out that there was only 13 days notice of the scheduled meeting. Thus, the requirement of not less than 15 days notice as contemplated under the provision of Adhiniyam, 1961 has not been fulfilled.

12. The argument advanced by learned counsel for the respondents that the provision of notice is mandatory but the manner in which notice is sent is directory even if so accepted then there has to be not less than 15 days notice. In any event notice is published on 22nd December, 2018. Now, excluding the date of issuance of notice, the date on which the meeting is slated is also excluded, it comes out only 14 days notice. So even if it is accepted that there was an effective notice issued on 22nd December, 2018 with its affixation on notice board, the mandatory requirement of the period for the notice is not fulfilled.

13. Learned counsel for the respondent has, in a submission though relied upon a Division Bench judgment in the case of Praveen Siddiqui v. State of U.P. and others, decided on 6th November, 2017 in Writ- C No. 41600 2017, does not help him either, because in the said case the Court was dealing with the issue of the manner of service of notice. The Division Bench did not discuss about the notice being not less than 15 days. Moreover the Division Bench has not considered another judgment of the concurrent Bench of this Court in the case Kamal Sharma (supra) and also Kamla Devi (supra) and, therefore, in the light of the law a concurrent Bench could not have taken view different from another concurrent Bench and thus, the judgment of the Division Bench does not have a binding force. In the case of Kamla Devi (supra), the Division Bench considered this aspect of the matter and has held that if the notice itself was not as per the mandatory requirement of law, even if the motion is carried out, it will not be held to be legal one. The Division Bench has observed as under:-

"We have considered the ratio of the decisions that have been cited at the bar and we do not find any good reason to defer from the view already taken by several division benches as referred to hereinabove. One of the decisions, namely, Satya Prakash Mani (supra), has also taken into consideration the full bench decision of 1975 in the case of Gyan Singh (supra) as relied upon by Sri Tripathi counsel for the respondent. The decision in the case of Phula Devi (supra) has already held that the provisions are mandatory except for the manner in which the notice has to be sent. Thereafter in Paragraph 30 of the aforesaid judgment in the case of Satya Prakash Mani (supra) also holds that the requirement of 15 days notice is mandatory.

In the instant case, the dispute is not with regard to the proforma of the notice but the period of 15 days clear notice. The respondents have not been able to establish the dispatch of notice prior to 13.8.2012. The pasting of the notice has been clearly denied by the petitioner. In the circumstances, the contention raised that the requirement of 15 days clear notice had not been complied with deserves to be accepted on the facts of the present case."

14. It has further observed by the Division Bench that it is settled principle that parties to a litigation have to be allowed to contest the matter, and determined, on the date when the lis began. If one of the parties succeeds, then he or she has to be put back in the same position that was existing on the date when the lis began. Once it is found that the meeting on 25.8.2012 was convened in violation of the mandatory provision of Section 15(3)(ii), then the resolution passed on the said date has to fall through. The no confidence motion therefore could not have been passed in an invalidly convened meeting and consequently there would be no removal of the petitioner. If the petitioner is not removed then there is no vacancy and as such any notification for subsequent elections and the election of the respondent no. 4, being directly dependent on this contingency has also to fall through.

To our mind such a contingency as involved in the present case, which is peculiar in its nature, arising out of the pendency of the writ petition and the facts aforesaid cannot be subject matter of an election petition as urged by Sri Tripathi. The bar of the constitutional provisions as urged therefore is not at all attracted.

The decision of the apex court in the case of K. Venkatachalam (supra), in the aforesaid circumstances therefore comes to the aid of this Court for exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and not to the contrary as suggested by Sri Tripathi.

The question of a majority having already voted against the petitioner has to be considered in the background of a valid meeting. As already held hereinabove since the meeting was itself invalid, then the submission of Sri Tripathi that a vast majority having voted against the petitioner, can be of no consequence. In our opinion, the reliefs prayed for by the petitioner are very much entertainable and the petition deserves to be allowed.

15. In view of the above, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The order/ notice of no confidence motion scheduling the meeting under the order of District Magistrate dated 21st December, 2018 is hereby quashed and so also any consequential action if it is taken place pursuant to such order/ notice stand quashed.

16. We may clarify that since we have held that notice itself was bad, the provisions as contained under sub-section 12 of Section 15 shall not come in the way of members if they so desire to move another notice of no confidence motion.

17. With the aforesaid observations, the writ petition stands allowed.

(Para 11, 15 and 17)

Writ Petition allowed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Mithal, J. & Hon'ble Vipin Chandra Dixit, J.)

1. Heard Sri Siddharth Singhal, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the respondents and Sri B.K. Ojha, learned counsel appearing for Allahabad (Now Prayagraj) Development Authority.

2. The parties have exchanged pleadings and agree for the final disposal of the writ petition at the admission stage itself.

3. The petitioner has preferred this petition for the quashing of the order dated 07.12.2013 passed by the District Magistrate, Allahabad (Now Prayagraj) and the revenue entry in respect of plot No. 1075 on the ground that as the urban ceiling proceedings in respect of the said land were never finalized, the name of the State could not have been entered in the revenue records and the petitioner cannot be dispossessed from the said land after the repeal of the Urban Land (Ceiling and Regulation) Act, 1976.

4. There is no dispute to the fact that about 1123 square meters of land of the petitioner of Araji No. 1075 situate in Bamrauli Uparhar, District Allahabad was declared to be surplus vide order dated 08.03.1996 passed by the competent authority under the aforesaid Act. The said order became final and conclusive as it was not challenged by the petitioner in any higher forum.

5. The petitioner continued to be in possession of the said land as the proceedings for taking possession of it were never completed.

6. In the meantime, the Urban Land (Ceiling and Regulation) Repeal Act, 1999 was enforced w.e.f. 18.03.1999.

7. In the above circumstances, the petitioner filed Writ Petition No. 49298 of 2006 alleging that as he continues to be in actual possession of the land declared to be surplus, its possession cannot be taken over by the respondents. The said writ petition was disposed off vide order dated 07.09.2006 with the observation that as the Act has been repealed, no further proceedings can be taken if the petitioner continues to be in actual possession of the excess land or the land which has been declared to be surplus. At the same time, District Magistrate was directed to decide the representation of the petitioner by a speaking order and till its decision parties were directed to maintain status-quo over the said land.

8. It is in pursuance of the above order that the District Magistrate has passed order dated 07.12.2013 refusing to delete the name of the State from the revenue records and to restore that of the petitioner alleging that the aforesaid land was declared to be surplus which order has acquired finality.

9. The District Magistrate in passing the above order has not mentioned or referred to the fact of possession of the said land. The order is completely silent if pursuant to the declaration of the land to be surplus the possession was taken over by the State or not.

10. In the writ petition, petitioner has categorically stated in paragraph 6 that he is still in possession, his constructions exist over the said land and he is using electricity and telephone in the said premises. The bills thereof clearly establish that he is in possession.

11. In paragraph 30 of the writ petition, it has been stated that after the land was declared to be surplus, no proceedings for taking its possession were drawn and that at least no notice under Section 10 (5) of the Act was served upon him to surrender or deliver the possession of the surplus land. The respondents have not taken possession of the land so declared to be surplus.

12. In the counter affidavit filed by the Allahabad Development Authority, no possession memo has been brought on record. It has not been stated that the possession of the land was surrendered by the petitioner voluntarily or that it was taken over under Section 10 (6) of the Act.

13. In counter affidavit of the State, in paragraph 3, it has been alleged that pursuant to the declaration of the land to be surplus, notices under Section 10 (1) and 10 (3) of the Act were published in the Gazettes but there is no averment that any proceedings under Section 10 (5) or 10 (6) of the Act were initiated meaning thereby that the respondents never actually took possession of the land in question.

14. In reply to the paragraph 30 of the writ petition, the only thing stated is in paragraph 9 of the counter affidavit and that is to the effect that as per the direction of this Court, the representation of the petitioner has been rightly decided by the District Magistrate and since it was found to be baseless, it has been rejected. Again, the averments made regarding possession of the petitioner over the land in dispute have been left uncontroverted.

15. The respondents have not brought any memo of possession on record which may have been executed under Section 10 (6) of the Act.

16. In view of the above, as pursuant to the declaration of the land to be surplus, the possession of it was never taken over by the State, the said land has not come under the ownership of the State so as to permit the respondents to record it in the name of the State.

17. It is admitted legal position that once possession of the land declared to be surplus under the Act has not been taken and in the meantime the Act has been repealed, the respondents cannot initiate any proceedings under the said Act for its possession.

18. The petitioner despite land being declared to be surplus, in the absence of the possession continues to be in its possession and to be the owner.

19. Accordingly, he is entitle for getting his name restored in the revenue records if on the basis of declaration of the land to be surplus, his name has been deleted.

20. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the impugned order dated 07.12.2013 passed by the District Magistrate, Allahabad is hereby quashed and it is directed that the name of the petitioner be restored in the revenue records.

21. The writ petition is, accordingly, allowed with no order as to costs.

A. Civil Law-Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006 – Section 24(3) – Period of three months to dispose of matter – Mandatory or Directory – Legislature has set pragmatic standards which are achievable and not created idealistic goals which are beyond reach – The realities of administration of justice in revenue courts have been balanced with the ideals of speedy justice – Good authority thus holds that statutes fixing timelines to accomplish an action are directory in nature – Mere failure to decide the case within three months does not violate the statutory mandate. (Para 19, 29 and 32)

B. Interpretation of Statute – Word 'shall' – Meaning and Scope – The words of a statute are the best guide to legislative intent – The settled canons of interpretation of statutes are the best tools to ascertain the scope of the statutory duties – Consequences of using the word 'shall' can vary and are not uniform – The mandatory effect of the word 'shall' can be diluted depending upon the context in which the word 'shall' is employed and the statutory scheme in which it is placed. In the context the word 'shall' is also qualified by the words 'as far as possible' – The latter words limit the mandatory effect of the word 'shall' – The word 'shall' is indicative of the mandatory nature of the provision, but it is not conclusive. 7. State of Haryana Vs. P.C. Wadhwa, IPS, Inspector General of Police and another (1987) 2 SCC 602

8. Regional Provident Fund Commissioner Vs. K.T. Rolling Mills Pvt. Ltd. (1995) 1 SCC 181

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. The petitioner instituted a proceeding under Section 24 of The Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006 before the Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad in the year 2009 which was registered as Case no. 269 of 2009-10 (Ram Sukh Vs Gram Sabha and others). The dispute pertains to demarcation of the boundaries of the disputed plots.

2. The petitioner is aggrieved by the failure of the statutory authority to decide the aforesaid proceeding, more than 10 years after institution of the case.

3. The only prayer made by Sri Rakesh Prasad, learned counsel for the petitioners is for issuance of a writ in the nature of mandamus directing the learned trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad before whom the matter is pending, to decide the case within a stipulated period of time.

4. Sri Rakesh Prasad, learned counsel for the petitioners calls attention to the ordersheet to contend that the final decision in the matter is being inordinately delayed for no good reasons or valid basis in law. He also relies on Section 24 of the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006 to contend that the learned trial court is under an obligation of law to conclude the proceedings under the aforesaid section within a period of three months as far as possible. The learned trial court has flouted its statutory mandate, by failing to perform its statutory duty.

5. Heard Sri Rakesh Prasad, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Diwakar Singh, learned counsel for the Gaon Sabha and learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

6. A perusal of the ordersheet discloses that the suit instituted in the year 2009 came up for hearing for the first time on 03.11.2010 for the first time. The learned trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad issued notices to the defendants in the suit on 03.11.2010. Thereafter the suit saw the light of day on 21.1.2011 wherein the matter was fixed for 29.01.2011 by providing a "general date". Similar cryptic one line orders fixing various dates for hearing were passed on 21.01.2011, 29.01.2011, 28.02.2011, 08.03.2011, 16.03.2011, 31.03.2011, 04.04.2011, 12/13.04.2011. Such orders were also passed on 12.05.2011, 23.05.2011, 08.06.2011, 22.10.2016. No order is in the record of the ordersheet from 08.06.2011 till 22.10.2016.

7. On 22.10.2016 matter was posted for 12.01.2017. The case was adjourned on 12.01.2017 as the Presiding Officer was unavailable. Similarly the case was adjourned on 18.12.2017, 26.04.2017 and on 26.04.2017, due to non availability of the Presiding Officer for various reasons. On 27.06.2017 once again a general order fixing the matter on 27.07.2017 was passed. The ordersheet then reflects that the matter could not be heard on 29.08.2017, 08.11.2017, 20.12.2017, 15.03.2018, 26.03.2018, 25.04.2018, 04.06.2018 because the Presiding Officer was not available due to his engagement in election related duties, administrative work and other meetings.

8. The matter was not heard on a number of days due to strike of counsels. The dates which record absence of counsels due to lawyers' strikes were 25.04.2011, 14.06.2017, 8.08.2017, 29.08.2017, 05.04.2018, 28.04.2018, 10.05.2018, 22.05.2018, 25.06.2018, 24.07.2018, 13.08.2018, 28.12.2018, 08.03.2019, 14.06.2019, 16.08.2019. The defendants appeared before the trial court on 27.07.2017, when time was granted for filing their pleadings/responses.

9. It is evident from the ordersheet that for the past 11 years no effective hearing has taken place in the matter except on one occasion when the defendants were granted time to file their response.

10. The ordersheet has already been extracted almost fully in the preceding part of the judgment. A perusal thereof shows that dates of hearing have been fixed initially as a matter of course. The orders are cryptic and demonstrate that the proceeding is being adjourned for no reasons at all. The second categories of dates are when the matter was not be heard due to no availability of the Presiding Officer for various reasons. The third category of the orders granting adjournments are on account of strike of counsels.

11. The tenor of the ordersheet is sufficient to defeat the mandate of the statute in this case. Serious efforts to decide the appeal with expedition are clearly lacking in this case. It is a shocking state of affairs that even eleven years after the institution of the proceeding effective hearings have not happened and the proceeding has not been concluded. On all dates of hearing adjournments are granted or the hearing was postponed by one line orders. The reasons for postponement of hearing which are described in the earlier part of the judgment are specious and unsustainable in law. Judicial proceedings cannot be stalled for the reasons recited in the ordersheet.

12. The statutory authority has failed to discharge his duties is under the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006. Abstention from work by the counsels is obstructing the implementation of the statutory mandate. It is not a ground to halt the judicial process.

13. The reasons of the statutory authority/trial court for adjourning the matter on account of engagement in administrative duties is no defence against the failure to perform statutory functions. The cases have to be transferred to another Presiding Officer who is holding the Court in case any one Presiding Officer is not available.

14. In light of the preceding discussion this Court finds that the provisions of Section 24(3) of The Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006, have been flouted by the Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad as well as the counsels for the parties. The authority has a statutory duty to perform its obligation under law to decide the matter as far as possible within three months. The counsels being officers of the court are expect to cooperate and assist in a final conclusion of the matter.

15. The failure to implement the statutory mandate can be determined once the nature of the statutory mandate is understood. Understanding the nature of the statutory mandate is essentially an exercise in interpretation of the statute.

16. The words of a statute are the best guide to legislative intent. The settled canons of interpretation of statutes are the best tools to ascertain the scope of the statutory duties.

17. Section 24 of the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006 lays down a procedure and a time frame for concluding the proceedings. The provision is extracted herein under for ease of reference:

"24. Disputes regarding boundaries.- (1) The Sub-Divisional Officer may, on his own motion or on an application made in this behalf by a person interested decide, by summary inquiry, any dispute regarding boundaries on the basis of existing survey map or, where the same is not possible in accordance with the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holding Act, 1953, on the basis of such map.

(2) If in the course of an inquiry into a dispute under sub- section (1), the Sub-Divisional Officer is unable to satisfy himself as to which party is in possession or if it is shown that possession has been obtained by wrongful dispossession of the lawful occupant, the Sub-Divisional Officer shall -

(a) in the first case, ascertain by summary inquiry who is the person best entitled to the property, and shall put such person in possession;

(b) in the second case, put the person so dispossessed in possession, and for that purpose use or cause to be used such force as may be necessary and shall then fix the boundary accordingly.

(3) Every proceeding under this section shall, as far as possible, be concluded by the Sub-Divisional Officer within [three months] from the date of the application.

(4) Any person aggrieved by the order of the Sub-Divisional Officer may prefer an appeal before the Commissioner within 30 days of the such order. The order of the Commissioner shall, subject to the provisions of Section 210, be final."

18. A perusal of the scheme of the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006, particularly Section 24 shows that the intent of the legislature is clearly to ensure an expeditious disposal of the case by the learned trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer. The legislature was clearly aware of the realities of governance and the limitations of revenue courts. In such circumstances, the legislature was conscious that it may not be possible to adhere to the letter of a strict time frame. But it was within the reach of the learned trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad to comply with the spirit of deciding the case with dispatch and expedition. The intendment of the legislature is revealed by the words employed in the provisions.

19. The legislature has taken a practical view. In the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006 the legislature has set pragmatic standards which are achievable and not created idealistic goals which are beyond reach. The realities of administration of justice in revenue courts have been balanced with the ideals of speedy justice.

20. The legislative mandate to the learned trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad is that "Every proceeding under this section shall, as far as possible, be concluded by the Sub-Divisional Officer within [three months] from the date of the application.". The word "shall" is indicative of the mandatory nature of the provision, but it is not conclusive. The Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the import and consequences of the word "shall" used by the legislature in different statutes.

21. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Haryana Vs. Raghubir Dayal, reported at (1995) 1 SCC 133, undertook this exercise and held thus:

"5. The use of the word 'shall' is ordinarily mandatory but it is sometimes not so interpreted if the scope of the enactment, on consequences to flow from such construction would not so demand. Normally, the word 'shall' prima facie ought to be considered mandatory but it is the function of the Court to ascertain the real intention of the legislature by a careful examination of the whole scope of the statute, the purpose it seeks to serve and the consequences that would flow from the construction to be placed thereon. The word 'shall', therefore, ought to be construed not according to the language with which it is clothed but in the context in which it is used and the purpose it seeks to serve. The meaning has to be ascribed to the word 'shall' as mandatory or as directory, accordingly/Equally, it is settled law that when a statute is passed for the purpose of enabling the doing of something and prescribes the formalities which are to be attended for the purpose, those prescribed formalities which are formalities which are essential to the validity of such thing, would be mandatory. However, if by holding them to be mandatory, serious general inconvenience is caused to innocent persons or general public, without very much furthering the object of the Act, the same would be construed as directory."

22. Clearly the consequences of using the word "shall" can vary and are not uniform. The mandatory effect of the word "shall" can be diluted depending upon the context in which the word "shall" is employed and the statutory scheme in which it is placed. In the context the word "shall" is also qualified by the words "as far as possible". The latter words limit the mandatory effect of the word "shall".

23. The phrase "as far as practicable" was interpreted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of N.K. Chauhan Vs. State of Gujarat and others, reported at (1977) 1 SCC 308, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held thus:

"26. What does 'as far as practicable' or like expression mean, in simple anglo-saxon ? Practicable, feasible, possi- ble, performable, are more or less interchangeable. A skiagraph of the 1959 Resolution reveals that the revival of the direct recruitment, method was motivated by 'the inter- est of administration'--an overriding object which must cast the benefit of doubt if two meanings with equal persuasive- ness contend. Secondly, going by the text, 50% of the substantive vacancies occurring in the cadre should be filled in by selection in accordance With appended Rules. 'As far as practicable' finds a place in the Resolution and the Rule. In the context what does it qualify ? As far as possible 50% ? That is to say, if 50% is not readily forth- coming, then less ? Within what period should be imprac- ticabilitv to felt ? What is the content of impracticabi- litv' in the given administrative 'setting ? Contrariwise, can you not contend that impracticability is not a license to deviate, a discretion to disobey or a liberty with the ratio ? Administrative tone is too impor- tant to be neglected but if sufficient numbers to fill the direct recruits' quota are not readily available, substan- tive vacancies may be left intact to be filled up when direct recruits are available. Since the exigencies of administration cannot wait, expediency has a limited role through the use of the words 'as far as practicable'. Thereby Government is authorised to make ad hoc appointments by promotion or by creation of ex cadre posts to be filled up by promotees, to be absorbed in the 50% portion falling to the promotional category in later years. In short 'as far as practicable means, not interfering with the ratio which fulfils the interest of administration, but flexible provision clothing government with powers to meet special situations where the normal process of the government Reso- lution cannot flow smooth. It is a matter of accent and import which affords the final test in the choice between the two parallel interpretations.

27. We have given close thought to the competing contentions and are inclined to the view that the former is the better. Certainly, Shri Garg is right that the primary purpose of the quota system is to improve administrative efficiency. After all, the Indian administration is run for the service of the people and not for opportunities for promotion to a few persons. But theories of public administration and experiments in achieving efficiency are matters of governmental policy and business management. Apparently, the State, having given due consideration to these factors, thought that a blended brew would serve best. Even so, it could not have been the intention of government to create artificial situations, import legal fictions and complicate the composition of the cadre by deviating from the natural course. The State probably intended to bring in fresh talent to the extent reasonably available but not at the sacrifice of sufficiency of hands at a given time nor at the cost of creating a vacuum by keeping substantive vacancies unfilled for long. The straightforward answer seems to us to be that the State, in tune with the mandate of the rule, must make serious effort to secure hands to fill half the number of vacancies from the open market. If it does not succeed, despite honest and serious effort, it qualifies for departure from the rule. If it has become non-feasible impracticable and procrastinatory to get the requisite quota of direct recruits, having done all that it could, it was free to fill the posts by promotion of suitable hands if the filling up of the vacancies was administratively necessary and could not wait. 'Impracticable' cannot be equated with 'impossible'--nor with 'unpalatable'--and we cannot agree with the learned judges of the High Court in construing it as colossally incapable of compliance. The short test, therefore, is to find out whether the government, in the present case, has made effective efforts, doing all that it reasonably can, to recruit from the open market necessary numbers of qualified hands. We do not agree that the compulsion of the rule goes to the extreme extent of making government keep the vacancies in the quota of the direct recruits open and to meet the urgent needs of administration by creating ex cadre posts or making ad hoc appointments or resorting to other out-of-the-way expedients. The sense of the rule is that as far as possible the quota system must be kept up and if not 'practicable', promotees in the place of direct recruits or direct recruits in the place of promotees may be inducted applying the regular procedures, without suffering the seats to lie indefinitely vacant."

24. In the case of P.T. Rajan Vs. T.P.M. Sahir and others, reported at (2003) 8 SCC 498 while considering similar provision, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held thus:

"48. Furthermore even if the statute specifies a time for publication of the electoral roll, the same by itself could not have been held to be mandatory. Such a provision would be directory in nature. It is well-settled pinciple of law that where a statutory functionary is asked to perform a statutory duty within the time prescribed therefor, the same would be directory and not mandatory."

25. A mandatory provision is required to be complied with strictly on pain of invalidation. But merely because a provision is held to be directory, it does not provide an option of non-compliance to the authorities. The law has to be complied with in all circumstances. This is the essence of the rule of law. However, the rigors of compliance may vary depending upon the statutory provision. In case of a directory provision, a substantial compliance of the same would suffice to meet the ends of law.

26. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has often dealt with the distinction between a mandatory provision and a directory provision, and the issue of compliance of directory provisions. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sharif-Ud-Din Vs. Abdul Gani Lone, reported (1980) 1 SCC 403 held thus:

"9. The difference between a mandatory rule and a directory rule is that while the former must be strictly observed, in the case of the latter, substantial compliance may be sufficient to achieve the object regarding which the rule is enacted (emphasize added). Certain broad propositions which can be deduced from several decisions of courts regarding the rules of construction that should be followed in determining whether a provision of law is directory or mandatory may be summarized thus: The fact that the statute uses the word 'shall' while laying down a duty is not conclusive on the question whether it is a mandatory or directory provision. In order to find out the true character of the legislation, the Court has to ascertain the object which the provision of law in question is to sub-serve and its design and the context in which it is enacted. If the object of a law is to be defeated by non-compliance with it, it has to be regarded as mandatory. But when a provision of law relates to the performance of any public duty and the invalidation of any act done in disregard of that provision causes serious prejudice to those for whose benefit it is enacted and at the same time who have no control over the performance of the duty, such provision should be treated as a directory one. Where however, a provision of law prescribes that a certain act has to be done in a particular manner by a person in order to acquire a right and it is coupled with another provision which confers an immunity on another when such act is not done in that manner, the former has to be regarded as a mandatory one. A procedural rule ordinarily should not be construed as mandatory if the defect in the act done in pursuance of it can be cured by permitting appropriate rectification to be carried out at a subsequent stage unless by according such permission to rectify the error later on, another rule would be contravened. Whenever a statute prescribes that a particular act is to be done in a particular manner and also lays down that failure to comply with the said requirement leads to a specific consequence, it would be difficult to hold that the requirement is not mandatory and the specified consequence should not follow."

27. A Full Bench of this Court in the case of Vikas Trivedi Vs. State of U.P. and others, reported at (2013) 2 UPLBEC 1193 held as under:

"15. Maxwell On the Interpretation of Statutes (Twelfth Edition) in Chapter 13,while discussing "Imperative And Directory Enactments" said following:

'The first such question is: when a statute requires that something shall be done, or done in a particular manner or form, without expressly declaring what shall be the consequence of non-compliance, is the requirement to be regarded as imperative (or mandatory) or merely as directory (or permissive)? In some cases the conditions or forms prescribed by the Statute have been regarded as essential to the act or thing regulated by it, and their omission has been held fatal to its validity. In others, such prescriptions have been considered as merely directory, the neglect of them involving nothing more than liability to a penalty, if any were imposed, for breach of the enactment. An absolute enactment must be obeyed or fulfilled exactly, but it is sufficient if a directory enactment be obeyed or fulfilled substantially.' It is impossible to lay down any general rule for determining whether a provision is imperative or directory. 'No universal rule', said Lord Campbell, L.C., 'can be laid down for the construction of statutes, as to whether mandatory enactments shall be considered directory only or obligatory with an implied nullification for disobedience. It is the duty of Courts of Justice to try to get at the real intention of the Legislature by carefully attending to the whole scope of the statute to be construed.' And Lord Penzance said: 'I believe as far as any rule is concerned, you cannot safely go further than that in each case you must look to the subject matter; consider the importance of the provisions that has been disregarded, and the relation of that provision to the general object intended to be secured by the Act; and upon a review of the case in that aspect decide whether the matter is what is called imperative or only directory."

"76. At this juncture a note of caution is required to be given. All provisions of the statute are required to be complied with. It is useful to quote paragraph 5-052 of De-Smith Judicial Review 6th Edition in which while dealing with mandatory and directory statutes, following was observed:-

"5-052. A second reason for the tangle in this area is the use of the terms "mandatory" and "directory"; the latter term is especially misleading. All statutory requirements are prima facie mandatory. However, in some situations the violation of a provision will, in the context of the statute as a whole and the circumstances of the particular decision, not violate the objects and purpose of the statute. Condoning such a breach does not, however, render the statutory provision directory or discretionary. The breach of the particular provision is treated in the circumstances as not involving a breach of the statute taken as a whole. Furthermore, logically, a provision cannot be mandatory if a court has discretion not to enforce it."

28. In the case of Karnal Improvement Trust, Karnal Vs. Smt. Parkash Wanti (Dead) and another, reported at (1995) 5 SCC 159, the Hon'ble Apex Court laid down the law in the following terms:

"11. There is distinction between ministerial acts and statutory or quasi-judicial functions under the statute. When the statute requires that something should be done or done in a particular manner or form, without expressly declaring what shall be the consequence of non-compliance, the question often arise: What intention is to be attributed by inference to the legislature? It has been repeatedly said that no particular rule can be laid down in determining whether the command is to be considered as a mere direction or mandatory involving invalidating consequences in its disregard. It is fundamental that it depends on the scope and object of the enactment. Nullification is the natural and usual consequence of disobedience, if the intention is of an imperative character. The question in the main is governed by considerations of the object and purpose of the Act; convenience and justice and the result that would ensure. General inconvenience or injustice to innocent persons or advantage to those guilty of the neglect, without promoting the real aim and object of the enactment would be kept at the back of the mind. The scope and purpose of the statute under consideration must be regarded as an integral scheme. The general rule is that an absolute enactment must be obeyed or fulfilled exactly but it is sufficient if a directory enactment be obeyed or fulfilled substantially. When a public duty, as held before, is imposed and statute requires that is shall be performed in a certain manner or within a certain time or under other specified conditions, such prescriptions may well be regarded as intended to be directory only in cases when injustice or inconvenience to others who have no control over those exercising the duty would result if such requirements are not essential and imperative."

29. Good authority thus holds that statutes fixing time-lines to accomplish an action are directory in nature. In various cases the legislative intent was sought to be defeated by a highly delayed compliance on the pretext of the provision being directory in nature. Such action of the authorities was on a misconception of law. This action of the authorities was invalidated and such interpretation was negatived by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. Inordinate delay does not satisfy the requirement of substantial compliance of a directory provision.

30. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Haryana Vs. P.C. Wadhwa, IPS, Inspector General of Police and another, reported at (1987) 2 SCC 602, while laying down the law, dispelled all such doubts. The relevant parts of the judgement are being extracted for ease of reference:

"14. The whole object of the making and communication of adverse remarks is to give to the officer concerned an opportunity to improve his performance, conduct or character, as the case may. The adverse remarks should not be understood in terms of punishment, but really it should be taken as an advice to the officer concerned, so that he can act in accordance with the advice and improve his service career. The whole object of the making of adverse remarks would be lost if they are communicated to the officer concerned after an inordinate delay. In the instant case, it was communicated to the respondent after twenty seven months. It is true that the provisions of Rules 6, 6A and 7 are directory and not mandatory, but that does not mean that the directory provisions need not be complied with even substantially. Such provisions may not be complied with strictly, and substantial compliance will be sufficient. But, where compliance after an inordinate delay would be against the spirit and object of the directory provision, such compliance would not be substantial compliance. In the instant case, while the provisions of Rules 6, 6A and 7 require that everything including the communication of the adverse remarks should be completed within a period of seven months, this period cannot be stretched to twenty seven months, simply because these Rules are directory, without serving any purpose consistent with the spirit and objectives of these Rules. We need not, however, dilate upon the question any more and consider whether on the ground of inordinate and unreasonable delay, the adverse remarks against the respondent should be struck down or not, and suffice it to say that we do not approve of the inordinate delay made in communicating the adverse remarks to the respondent."

31. The statutes which do not provide for specific time frame to do an act, do not provide a clear guidance to the authorities regarding the time period in which the act has to be done. In such cases, the Hon'ble Supreme Court ironed out such creases in law in the case of Regional Provident Fund Commissioner Vs. K.T. Rolling Mills Pvt. Ltd. reported at (1995) 1 SCC 181 and held:

"4. There can be no dispute in law that when a power is conferred by statute without mentioning the period within which it could be invoked, the same has to be done within reasonable period, as all powers must be exercised reasonably, and exercise of the same within reasonable period would be a facet of reasonableness. When this appeal was heard by us on 7-9-1994 and when this aspect of the matter came to our notice, we desired an affidavit from the Commissioner to put on record regarding the point of time when he came to know about the default and to explain the cause of delay. Pursuant to that order, the Commissioner filed his affidavit on 10-11-1994, according to which the power of levying damages came to be delegated to the Commissioner by an order dated 17-10-1973. As, however, large number of establishments were in existence in the State of Maharashtra -- the number of which in 1985 was 22,189 -- and there was only one Regional Provident Fund Commissioner having power to levy damages, delay was caused in detection of the cases of belated payment. According to the affidavit, the default at hand was located on 19-4-1985 and the damages came to be levied by order dated 5-11-1986."

32. In case, the proceeding is decided within three months, the letter and spirit of the statute is implemented. However, mere failure to decide the case within three months does not violate the statutory mandate. In the latter case, the statutory obligation will be defined by the quality of the efforts made to decide the suit/proceeding with promptitude and dispatch. The statutory obligation will be discharged if the case is decided within a reasonable time, after the expiry of three months from the date of its institution.

33. Statutes of limitation are statutes of repose. Statutes with time lines for decision making are statutes of endeavour. Statutory duty is discharged not only when the act is done but also when effort is made. However, the leeway to the authority is not unlimited and the time to accomplish the act is not indefinite.

34. The statutory duty of the trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad, in the event the case is not decided within three months is to be seen. The trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad in discharge of its statutory duties has to make earnest efforts to decide the case expeditiously in a reasonable time after the expiry of three months from the institution of the suit. While the statutory duty of the trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad is to make earnest efforts to decide expeditiously, the proof of its performance is in the order-sheet of the court. The order-sheet of the trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad is the most reliable evidence of the sincerity or earnestness of the efforts made by the appellate authority. The order-sheet of the trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad is true testimony to the accomplishment of the statutory duty or the failure of the authority to perform its statutory duty. In the latter case the authority is liable to be mandamused.

35. In the light of the legal position stated above, the facts of the case will be analyzed.

36. The ordersheet has been analysed at length in the earlier part of the judgment. A perusal of the order-sheet discloses that the matter is being adjourned repeatedly without any good reason and that virtually no effective hearing has taken place since the institution of the proceedings in the year 2009. This discloses a clear failure of the authority below to perform its statutory functions prescribed by law.

37. No lis can remain pending indefinitely before a court of law. Indefinite pendency of a lis goes to the root of administration of justice. Such delay is not permitted by law and cannot be countenanced by the court.

38. In light of the preceding discussion, a writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the respondent no. 2, trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad, before whom the Case No. 269 of 2009-10 (Ram Sukh Vs Gram Sabha and others) is pending to execute the following directions:

I. The respondent no. 2, trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad, shall decide the Case No. 269 of 2009-10 (Ram Sukh Vs Gram Sabha and others), after giving an opportunity of hearing to all the parties to the proceedings within a period of six months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

II. The respondent no. 2, trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad, shall not grant any unnecessary adjournment to the parties.

III. In case any adjournment is granted in the paramount interest of justice, the respondent no. 2, trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad, shall impose costs not below Rs. 10,000/- for each adjournment, upon the party seeking adjournment.

IV. In case the counsel for any party does not appear before the respondent no. 2, trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad, on any date on the ground of strike of advocates, the respondent no. 2, trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad, shall not permit such counsel (of either party) to appear in this case on future dates.

V. The respondent no. 2, trial court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Phulpur, District Allahabad, shall proceed with the case on a day to day basis, if required, to adhere to the above stipulated time line of six months. In case the court is vacant the Commissioner, Prayagraj Division, Prayagraj, shall nominate another court which is sitting to ensure that the above stipulated time period of six months to decide the case, is strictly adhered to.

39. With the aforesaid direction, the writ petition is disposed of finally.

Petitioners-valid allotties of industrial plot by the corporation respondent-allotment done on 20.04.2011-possession memo executed on 09.02.2016-entire premium paid-barely after 9 months from possession- notice issued for not completing construction work within five years-extension fee of Rs.12,29,859/- charged-fees paid with some delay-no third party right created-impugned order rejected renewal of leas-illegal-quashed-W.P. allowed.

Held, such a situation, therefore, is quite unhappy one and if Corporation's action in taking such a coercive measure as is reflected from the orders passed by the Corporation from time to time in the present case is justified, no one will come forward to believe this Government agency and then it will be a serious blow to the industrial policy. (para 10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J.)

1. Heard Sri Amrendra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Prabhakar Awasthi, learned counsel for the respondent Nos. 2 & 3 and learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. The petitioners are admittedly valid allotties of the industrial plot by the U.P. State Industrial Development Corporation Limited (hereinafter referred to as 'Corporation') - the 2nd respondent. The allotment of the plot was done on 20th April, 2011 and the petitioners claim to have paid the entire premium amount between 1st July, 2012 and 1st July, 2017. Consequently, a registered lease deed came to be executed on 15th October, 2011. The petitioners' claim was that though formal possession letter came to be issued on 10th July, 2012 on account of serious opposition by the villagers blocking the passage to the plot but in the absence of any clear approach to the plot, the petitioners could not carry out the exercise of construction work over the plot and it is reiterated that virtually there was no physical possession given of the plot. Ultimately, the Corporation managed and facilitated the physical possession of the plot to the petitioners by executing the possession memo on 9th February, 2016. So, the petitioners claim, no project work could be started prior to 9th February, 2016. However, barely 9 months had passed the date of physical delivery of the plot that the respondent Corporation issued notice to the petitioners for not completing the construction work/ set up of an industrial unit within five years as prescribed for under the allotment order and it was provided that the petitioners may apply for extension of time in accordance with law and terms of allotment. The petitioners pleaded for waiver of the extension fee from 2011 to 2016 as he was denied possession for none of his fault but no heed was paid to his request and surprisingly a letter was issued to him on 25th October, 2017 making a demand of charges to the tune of Rs.12,29,859/- payment of which was to be done by 31st December, 2017 failing which the allotment was liable to be cancelled. The petitioners treated it to be an illegal act, on the part of the respondent Corporation, of charging penalty and, accordingly represented the matter.

3. Relying upon certain clauses of the lease deed, the petitioners allege in the writ petition that they filed earlier a writ petition bearing Writ-C No.- 5250 of 2018 for quashing the demand note dated 10th May, 2017 and letter dated 15th May, 2017 that had been issued, to the extent it provided for cut off date as 31st December, 2017 and while the matter came up for hearing on 7th February, 2018 the Corporation informed that vide order dated 23th January, 2018 the lease itself has been cancelled. Consequently petitioner filed another Writ-C No.- 7331 of 2018 in which following order was passed:-

"Heard Mr. Siddharth Nandan, learned counsel for the petitioners and Mr. Prabhakar Awasthi, learned counsel for respondent nos. 2 and 3 - Corporation.

This petition basically challenges the order dated 23.01.2018 passed by the respondent Corporation, cancelling allotment made in favour of petitioners of industrial plot bearing No. B-22, IIDC, District Chandauli, on the ground that petitioners did not complete/commence construction of their industrial unit within 18 months from the date of possession. Admittedly, possession was handed over to the petitioners on 9.02.2016. It appears that on 25.10.2017, the respondent Corporation had issued a letter to the petitioners, asking them to deposit a sum of Rs. 12,29,859/- with an application seeking extension of time to commence and complete the construction within time frame. Petitioners did not make the payment and, hence, the impugned order has been issued.

Counsel for the petitioners, on instructions, submits that petitioners are prepared to deposit the amount, as per letter/order dated 25.10.2017, unconditionally and the respondent Corporation may be directed to consider their request for restoration of the plot allotted to them and extend the time to make construction of industrial unit as per Additional Condition No.2 in the lease agreement dated 15.10.2011. Counsel for the respondent Corporation submits that if petitioners make the payment, as aforementioned, the respondent Corporation shall consider the same and pass appropriate orders within two weeks thereafter. His statement is recorded and accepted. In view thereof, we dispose of this writ petition with liberty to the petitioners to make payment of Rs. 12,29,859/- to the respondent Corporation within a period of 15 days from today. On such payment being made by petitioners, the respondent Corporation shall consider their request and pass appropriate orders within a period of two weeks thereafter."

4. In view of the directions as contained in the order dated 28th February, 2018 (supra) the petitioners paid the amount vide demand draft bearing No.- 335025 (Rs.6,14,930/-) and demand draft No.-028445 (Rs.6,14,930/-) issued by the Dena Bank and Bank of India respectively, alongwith covering letter dated 11th May, 2018. As it is clear from the order that the petitioners were to make payment within a period of 15 days from the date of the order dated 28th February, 2018 but the petitioners could pay the amount only by 11th May, 2018, the respondent rejected the application of the petitioners only on the ground that the petitioners have failed to comply with the order of the High Court by depositing the requisite money within a period of 15 days from the date of order. It is this order dated 13th December, 2018 which has been impugned. The respondents have declined to renew the lease only on this above technical ground that the petitioners failed to comply with the order of the High Court within the prescribed period as provided under the order.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioners has argued that the petitioners have substantially complied with the order of the Court and the delay that has been caused in compliance, on account of the financial stress for which the petitioners could not manage the requisite money within the time specified by the Court. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioners that no third party rights in respect of the plot in question has been created and the petitioners having not only paid the original premium amount but even the late fee and renewal charges, they stand prejudiced for no fault of their because the actual physical possession itself had been given to them only in the year 2016.

6. It is argued that the relevant clause of the allotment order should be read in such a manner so as to make it workable and that too quite sensibly because unless and until the physical possession of the land is given and an approach is provided to the plot, no construction work for setting up the industrial unit can be carried out. In the present case, it is submitted that the respondents have not denied that they have not been even delivered the possession prior to 9th February, 2016, the date when possession memo was executed.

7. Per contra, the argument advanced by Sri Prabhakar Awasthi, learned counsel for the respondent- Corporation is that it was the writ petition of the petitioners in which specific direction was issued and it would be taken to be an undertaking on his part otherwise he should have asked for some time when it was being provided in the order or he should have moved an appropriate application seeking extension of time for its compliance. He submits that the respondents cannot be taken to be at fault if the petitioners themselves have not been vigilant and have failed to comply themselves with the order passed on their own writ petition. However, Sri Prabhakar Awasthi, learned counsel appearing for the Corporation does not deny that the plot still lies vacant and no third party right has been created in respect of the said plot.

8. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and their arguments advanced across the Bar and having perused the record, we find that it is one of those cases where the Court should balance the equity. It is a case where an industrial plot has been allotted to a prospective entrepreneur to set up an industrial unit. U.P. State Industrial Corporation virtually provides platform for the entrepreneurs to set up their industrial units so as to give growth to the economy of the State as well as of the Nation. Therefore, the Corporation should always ensure that a safe and secured land is provided for setting up an industrial unit. It is duty of the Corporation to always ensure that physical possession of the allotted land is given in time and lease deed in respect of such plot is executed well within time. If an entrepreneur has come forward to believe the Corporation that a very safe and secured land was being provided at a fair price to set up an industrial unit, if such an entrepreneur is provided with a disputed land or a land of which physical possession is not given for long period of time then such an entrepreneur cannot be made to suffer for such misrepresentation at the end of the Corporation.

9. In the present case there is no grievance of the Corporation that the petitioners had been in default towards any payment schedule and if at all any dues was there, Corporation was well within its right to recover the same. But here we find that while the Corporation itself handed over the physical possession in February, 2016, strangely enough, it put the petitioners to notice for not setting up industrial unit within a year of such physical possession.

10. In our considered opinion, no magic can be done to set up an industrial unit within a span of 10 months or 12 months when the Corporation itself provided five years time as a condition for setting up industrial unit in the original allotment order. Such a situation, therefore, is quite unhappy one and if Corporation's action in taking such a coercive measure as is reflected from the orders passed by the Corporation from time to time in the present case is justified, no one will come forward to believe this Government agency and then it will be a serious blow to the industrial policy. A Constitutional Court cannot remain a passive spectator in such a situation. State run industrial policy is aimed at overall development of economy with which public interest is directly related. One must remember that unemployment in a developing economy is of prime concern. The employment to people is concomitant to industrial growth. While private players having huge financial background keep purchasing vast agricultural fields paying heavy considerations to poor farmers resulting in unchecked industries coming up giving serious jolt to agrarian economy, the unorganized and unchannelized growth brings more disparity and small and marginal industrialists looking forward to such a State run industrial Corporation with aspirations, get disappointed with Corporation failing to provide safe and secured land and in time delivery of possession. It is the duty of the Constitutional Courts to ensure that the Corporation takes pragmatic view of overall circumstances and render a helping hand to see that the purpose with which Corporation was set up is achieved. In our considered opinion the case in hand is one such case.

11. We, therefore, are of the view that if the petitioners have deposited all the surcharges including fee for renewal/ extension of time for setting up an industrial unit, there is full substantial compliance of the order of High Court.

12. It is true that the time period provided under the order of High Court was only 15 days but since no third party rights have accrued at the end of Corporation in respect of the plot in question, we see no justification in rejecting the claim of the petitioners only on account of such delayed compliance of Court's order. The order impugned does not assign any other reason either.

13. In view of the above, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The orders impugned dated 13th December, 2018 and 29th December, 2018 are hereby quashed in the special facts and circumstances of the case.

14. The respondents are directed to consider the application for extension of time and renewal of the lease as the petitioners have already deposited the renewal amount as per the demand notice on 25th October, 2017 and positive direction be issued, positively within a period six weeks from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. These are four writ petitions arising out of awards passed by the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Gorakhpur dated 11.08.1999 and 13.08.1999 in Adjudication Case nos.103 of 1987 & 118 of 1987 and Misc. Case nos.404 of 1987, 90 of 1991 & 403 of 1987. The Labour Court has entered awards in the four industrial disputes between the U.P. State Sugar Corporation Limited, Unit Munderwa, District Basti (since re-named as U.P. Sugar and Cane Development Corporation, Unit Munderwa, Basti) and its various workmen who brought these industrial disputes, accepting the workmen's claims. These various workmen are the respondents to the writ petitions, whereas the U.P. Sugar and Cane Development Corporation, Unit Munderwa, Basti are the petitioners. The U.P. Sugar and Cane Development Corporation, Unit Munderwa, Basti is hereinafter referred to as the Employers whereas the private respondents in each of the writ petitions are hereinafter referred to as the workmen (except for singular reference where the name of the particular workman is mentioned).

2. All the four petitions involve similar questions of fact and law. As such, all the petitions were connected and heard together with Writ - C No.4975 of 2001, being treated to be the leading case. Nevertheless, in order to indicate precise facts that are individual to the different writ petitions, the cause of action and course of proceedings in each involved, those facts and the course of proceedings in the four writ petitions would be set out separately in a brief statement about it.

3. Writ - C No.4975 of 2001 has been preferred by the Employer assailing an award of the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Gorakhpur passed in Adjudication Case no.103 of 1987 between the Employer and the registered Union of their workmen known as Sugar Mill Munderwa Mazdoor Panchayat, Munderwa Bazar, Lalganj Road, Munderwa, Basti (for short the Union), representing the interest of the workmen numbering fifteen, with particulars detailed in the Annexure to the order of reference.

4. The State Government vide Government Order no.5170-75(श्र0आ0)/36-श्रम (I) सी0बी0 68/86 बस्ती, dated 11.02.1987, made the following reference under Section 2-K of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (for short the Act) to the adjudication of the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Gorakhpur:

क्या सेवायोजकों द्वारा संलग्न सूची में अंकित 15 कर्मचारियों को मौसमी श्रमिक घोषित किया जाना चाहिए? यदि हां, तो किस तिथि से तथा अन्य किस विवरण सहित?

5. The Labour Court proceeded to hear and determine the aforesaid Adjudication Case vide judgment and award dated 11.08.1999, whereby it held that the fifteen workmen whose names are appended to the order of reference are declared seasonal, and that they would be entitled to all benefits of seasonal engagement with effect from the year 1985-86. The Employers were ordered to pay in costs a sum of Rs.100/-.

6. Aggrieved, this writ petition has been filed.

7. Pending the aforesaid Adjudication Case, the Employers terminated the services of the workmen by an oral order with effect from 10.03.1987 without service of any notice or pay in lieu of the period of notice, or payment of retrenchment compensation. This led fourteen of the fifteen workmen, for whose benefit Adjudication Case no.103 of 1987 had been brought by the Union to file Misc. Case no.404 of 1987, under Section 6-F of the Act, on basis that pending adjudication of the Industrial Dispute, termination of their service was one in violation of Section 6-E. The workmen through the aforesaid misc. case sought reinstatement in service with continuity and back-wages, besides consequential benefits. A similar application giving rise to Misc. Case no.90 of 1991 was filed by the fifteenth workman, Ram Lal, also under Section 6-F of the Act.

8. Both the misc. cases were heard together and decided by the Labour Court, also vide a judgment and award dated 11.08.1999, whereby it was held that the act of the Employers in terminating the services of the fifteenth workmen was unlawful and improper. It was further awarded that all the workmen are entitled to reinstatement.

9. Writ - C No.20684 of 2001 has been brought by the Employers against the last mentioned award, passed in the two misc. cases under reference.

10. Writ - C No.4976 of 2001 has been preferred by the Employers from a judgment and award of the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Gorakhpur, dated 13.08.1999, passed in Adjudication Case no.118 of 1987, between the Employers and the Union representing the interest of twenty-five workmen, whose details are mentioned in the attached schedule to the order of reference giving rise to the last mentioned adjudication case. The twenty-five workmen are arrayed as respondent nos.3 to 27 to this petition. Some of these workmen have died pending this writ petition and their heirs and legal representatives have been brought on record. Adjudication Case no.118 of 1987 was registered on the basis of an order of reference, bearing Government Order no.5261-66(श्र0आ0)/36-श्रम (I) सी0बी0 69/86 बस्ती, dated 11.02.1987, which came to be made after a failed conciliation between the Employers and the Union representing the workmen's interest. The order under Section 2-K of the Act above mentioned, referred the following dispute to the adjudication of the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Gorakhpur:

1. क्या सेवायोजकों द्वारा संलग्न परिशिष्ट में अंकित 25 श्रमिकों को मौसमी श्रमिक घोषित न किया जाना अनुचित तथा/ अथवा अवैधानिक है? यदि हां, तो संबन्धित श्रमिक क्या लाभ/ क्षतिपूर्ति (रिलीफ) पाने के अधिकारी हैं तथा किन अन्य विवरणों सहित?

2. यदि वाद पद संख्या-1 श्रमिकों के पक्ष में निर्णीत होती है तो क्या संबंधित श्रमिकों को कार्य के अनुरूप निर्धारित वेतनमान दिया जाना चाहिए? यदि हां तो किस तिथि से तथा अन्य किस विवरण सहित?

11. The Labour Court proceeded to hear and determine the aforesaid adjudication case vide judgment and award dated 13.08.1999, whereby it held that the twenty-five workmen whose names are detailed in the schedule appended to the order of reference are declared seasonal and entitled to be paid salary as determined by the Wage Board, together with other benefits from the season 1985-86.

12. Aggrieved, this writ petition has been filed.

13. Pending the aforesaid adjudication case, it appears that the Employers terminated the services of eighteen of the twenty-five workmen, on whose behalf the Union had raised the industrial dispute under reference on various dates without service of any prior notice or payment of wages in lieu of notice. These eighteen workmen are arrayed as respondent nos.3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 15, 17, 20, 21, 23, 24, 25 and 26. The other private respondents appear to have been unnecessarily impleaded. These workmen, accordingly, filed a miscellaneous application, dated 29.07.1987 in the pending Adjudication Case no.118 of 1987, under Section 6-F of the Act, alleging termination of their services in violation of Section 6-E. This application came to be registered as Misc. Case no.403 of 1987. These workmen sought relief that the industrial dispute be registered and it be awarded that the workmen were entitled to reinstatement on the post that they were working together with payment of salary, continuity of service, arrears of salary for the period of their unlawful termination of services and other consequential benefits, together with due interest.

14. The aforesaid miscellaneous case came up for determination before the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Gorakhpur, who after hearing the workmen and the Employers, held that the services of the workmen have been terminated in violation of Section 6-E of the Act, and awarded that they be reinstated to the posts they were working, together with all consequential benefits. The workmen were further awarded Rs.100/- in costs.

15. Aggrieved, Writ - C No.20684 of 2001 has been filed.

16. Heard Sri Shakti Swarup Nigam, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Alok Kumar Srivastava, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Sri Lalloo Singh, learned Advocate holding brief of Sri B.N. Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent-workmen and Sri Ajeet Kumar Singh, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent no.1, in all the writ petitions.

17. In the leading writ petition upon issue of notice by the Labour Court, the Employers and the Union on behalf of the fifteen workmen, put in their pleadings. The Union acting on behalf of the workmen filed their written statement dated 29.07.1987 whereas the Employers filed their written statement on 05.07.1989. The workmen filed their rejoinder statement whereas the Employers filed their rejoinder statement dated 14.04.1993, answering amendments, that were brought in by the workmen through an application dated 11.01.1993, also the basis of two separate miscellaneous cases in the adjudication case, seeking to assail the pendentilite termination of their services, in violation of Section 6-F of the Act. The Labour Court, of course, while deciding the adjudication case did not go into that part of the cause of action, that was subject matter of Misc. Case no.404 of 1987 and Misc. Case no. 90 of 1991.

18. The case of the workmen before the Labour Court was to the effect that all fifteen of them were engaged with the Employers' establishment regularly for the past 6 - 7 years as Centrifugal Machine Men, during each successive season. The further case was that the workmen were arbitrarily shown by the Employers, by manipulating documents that were in their control, as daily-wagers instead of seasonal workmen. It was also pleaded that the attendance of the workmen was recorded in the Attendance Register, but their salary was paid through vouchers in an arbitrary fashion. It was pleaded that in order to avoid extending benefit of emoluments as determined by the Wage Board and other benefits admissible, the Employers in an arbitrary fashion would manipulate records relating to the workmen. It is said further in the written statement that the Employers have in their establishment twenty-three Centrifugal Machines, that run everyday in successive shifts. The twenty-three machines worked during successive shifts require after taking into reckoning the reliever workmen, a total of eight-one Centrifugal Machine Men, on a regular basis. The establishment instead retains 32 - 35 workmen as Centrifugal Machine Men on a seasonal basis. The remainder vacant posts are manned by the workmen, shown to be engaged as temporary hands on daily-wages during each season, throughout. It is also pleaded that the job of a Centrifugal Machine Man and the relative work is regular and seasonal in nature. The employment of the workmen on the said job, showing them to be temporaries is unfair labour practice. It is pleaded further that the workmen were paid salary, worked out on the basis of Rs.7.50 per day, and by manipulating records regarding rate of wages, the workmen's attendance is shown short. It is then specifically pleaded that disbursement of salary at times is not shown in the records at all as wages paid to the workmen, but shown as outgoings under other heads. It is claimed that all the workmen are entitled to be declared seasonal workmen and paid wages, according to recommendations of the Wage Board, payable to workman of that class.

19. The Employers filed their written statement traversing the workmen's case, apart from certain pleas as to maintainability of the industrial dispute, raised on behalf of the workmen by the Union which does not appear to have been pressed before the Labour Court. The Employers pleaded in paragraph 3 of the written statement that the workmen were not at all on the rolls of the Corporation at the time of its takeover, on 28.10.1984. They were temporary hands with the erstwhile Employer. At this juncture, it must be remarked that mention of the erstwhile Employer and the Corporation bears reference to the U.P. State Sugar Corporation Limited that was acquired by the State of U.P. under the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Sugar Undertakings

20. It is pleaded that the workmen were employed, on occasions as temporary hands, to cope with the absence of regular hands and to meet the exigencies of extra work. It is the Employers' further case that the workmen have never worked against any vacancy and do not hold lien on any post. There are breaks in their services. It is also pleaded that the Employers have the required strength of unskilled hands and there is no vacancy. The Union has raised this industrial dispute on baseless grounds. It was also specifically pleaded that before the Conciliation Officer, the Union were seeking promotion for these workmen from temporary hands to seasonal. It is urged that promotion is an exclusive right of the Management. Casual employees have no claim to promotion. It is also said that the workmen were seeking renewal of their contract, as they were not on the rolls of the employers, when the conciliation proceedings were initiated on their behalf by the Union. The right of the workmen to be declared seasonal has been outrightly disputed.

21. The workmen in order to establish their case, made an application to the Labour Court to summon from the Employers, the Attendance Register for the crushing seasons 1980-81 to 1986-87, besides the Cashbook, ledger and vouchers for the relative period. The Labour Court has recorded for a fact that the Employers objected to this prayer. It has also been recorded that on 14.07.1988, the workmen filed an inspection note, but that too was objected to by the Employers.

22. On behalf of the Employers, all that is offered in evidence are two witnesses, that is to say, one Ramakar Prasad Pandey, Time Officer Incharge in the Employers' establishment, who deposed as EW-1 and S.N. Tripathi, Chief Chemist in their establishment, who deposed as EW-2. For the workmen, three workmen deposed, to wit, Sumeshar Tiwari, Kuber Nath and Ram Prasad Yadav, each of whom testified as DW-1, DW-2 and DW-3, respectively.

23. The Labour Court on consideration of the evidence on record has passed the impugned award, subject matter of challenge here.

24. Before this Court, Sri Nigam, learned Senior Advocate has emphatically urged that the Labour Court went utterly wrong in declaring the workmen seasonal, who were otherwise casual hands, hired during crushing seasons to cater to the additional workload as and when required. He has emphasized that they did not work against any existing vacancy, and that there were no vacancies available with the Employers' Unit, against which these persons could have been declared seasonal.

25. It has been argued that by declaring temporary hands, seasonal workmen, the Labour Court has granted the workmen promotion which is essentially a managerial function. That cannot be done under an award of the Labour Court. It has been re-emphasized by the learned Senior Advocate that the Labour Court fell in manifest error in not considering that seasonal status can be conferred depending upon the vacancies available with the Employers' Unit, and that too, after taking into account the inter se seniority of those workmen, who were retained as temporary hands on daily-wages. Also, their eligibility, qualification, skill etc. have to be appraised by the Management before taking a decision to appoint the workmen as seasonal staff against the available sanctioned strength.

26. It has also been urged on a case pleaded for the first time before this Court that pending this petition, the U.P. State Sugar Corporation Ltd. has been declared sick under the SICA by the Board of Industrial and Financial Reconstruction (BIFR), vide its order dated 21.08.1995. Subsequently, the State Government have taken a decision in the year 1999, under which eleven Units of the Corporation, including the Employers, that is to say, the Unit at Munderwa, Basti, has been closed down. It has been further pleaded that from 1999, the Employers have been closed down, and no production whatsoever is undertaken there. It has been argued by Sri S.S. Nigam, learned Senior Advocate that in these circumstances, the direction to declare a workman seasonal is manifestly illegal and impossible to implement.

27. Learned Senior Counsel for the Employers has argued that rights of the workmen involved are to be determined with reference to the Standing Orders, governing the conditions of employment of workmen in Vacuum Pan Factories of Uttar Pradesh, enforced with effect from 27th September, 1988, and issued by the State Government, in exercise of their powers under Clause (b) of Section 3 of the Act.

28. In the submission of the learned Senior Counsel, there is no provision under the Standing Orders which says that a temporary hand on daily-wages who has worked for a particular number of seasons, can be declared seasonal. It is also submitted by him that there is no scheme by way of any tripartite agreement adopted by the sugar factories in Uttar Pradesh that a daily-wager who has worked in a season, would be declared seasonal workman. It is also urged that there is no Government Order issued in exercise of powers under Section 3 of the Act, entitling or requiring a daily-wager to be considered as seasonal, who has worked during a whole season, or successive seasons. It is urged also that the Labour Court did not consider the impact of the impugned award declaring the workmen seasonal, which would entitle them to wages prescribed by the Wage Board, and its resultant financial impact upon the Employers. It is in the last submitted that the Labour Court should have exercised judicial restraint in the matter, and not awarded in the manner it has done, which encroaches upon executive functions.

29. In support of his contention, learned Senior Counsel has placed reliance upon the decision of the Constitution Bench of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Secretary, State of Karnataka vs. Umadevi (3), (2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753. He has, in particular, referred to paragraphs 34, 37, 38 and 40 of the report, where it has been held:

"34. In A. Umarani v. Registrar, Coop. Societies [(2004) 7 SCC 112 : 2004 SCC (L&S) 918] a three-Judge Bench made a survey of the authorities and held that when appointments were made in contravention of mandatory provisions of the Act and statutory rules framed thereunder and by ignoring essential qualifications, the appointments would be illegal and cannot be regularised by the State. The State could not invoke its power under Article 162 of the Constitution to regularise such appointments. This Court also held that regularisation is not and cannot be a mode of recruitment by any State within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution or any body or authority governed by a statutory Act or the rules framed thereunder. Regularisation furthermore cannot give permanence to an employee whose services are ad hoc in nature. It was also held that the fact that some persons had been working for a long time would not mean that they had acquired a right for regularisation.

37. It is not necessary to multiply authorities on this aspect. It is only necessary to refer to one or two of the recent decisions in this context. In State of U.P. v. Neeraj Awasthi [(2006) 1 SCC 667 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 190] this Court after referring to a number of prior decisions held that there was no power in the State under Article 162 of the Constitution to make appointments and even if there was any such power, no appointment could be made in contravention of statutory rules. This Court also held that past alleged regularisation or appointment does not connote entitlement to further regularisation or appointment. It was further held that the High Court has no jurisdiction to frame a scheme by itself or direct the framing of a scheme for regularisation. This view was reiterated in State of Karnataka v. KGSD Canteen Employees' Welfare Assn. [(2006) 1 SCC 567 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 158 : JT (2006) 1 SC 84]

"12. Article 16 which finds place in Part III of the Constitution relating to fundamental rights provides that there shall be equality of opportunity for all citizens in matters relating to employment or appointment to any office under the State. The main object of Article 16 is to create a constitutional right to equality of opportunity and employment in public offices. The words "employment' or "appointment' cover not merely the initial appointment but also other attributes of service like promotion and age of superannuation, etc. The appointment to any post under the State can only be made after a proper advertisement has been made inviting applications from eligible candidates and holding of selection by a body of experts or a specially constituted committee whose members are fair and impartial through a written examination or interview or some other rational criteria for judging the inter se merit of candidates who have applied in response to the advertisement made. A regular appointment to a post under the State or Union cannot be made without issuing advertisement in the prescribed manner which may in some cases include inviting applications from the employment exchange where eligible candidates get their names registered. Any regular appointment made on a post under the State or Union without issuing advertisement inviting applications from eligible candidates and without holding a proper selection where all eligible candidates get a fair chance to compete would violate the guarantee enshrined under Article 16 of the Constitution (see B.S. Minhas v. Indian Statistical Institute [(1983) 4 SCC 582 : 1984 SCC (L&S) 26 : AIR 1984 SC 363])."

40. At this stage, it is relevant to notice two aspects. In Kesavananda Bharati v. State of Kerala [(1973) 4 SCC 225 : 1973 Supp SCR 1] this Court held that Article 14, and Article 16, which was described as a facet of Article 14, is part of the basic structure of the Constitution. The position emerging from Kesavananda Bharati [(1973) 4 SCC 225 : 1973 Supp SCR 1] was summed up by Jagannadha Rao, J. speaking for a Bench of three Judges in Indra Sawhney v. Union of India [(2000) 1 SCC 168 : 2000 SCC (L&S) 1 : 1999 Supp (5) SCR 229] . That decision also reiterated how neither Parliament nor the legislature could transgress the basic feature of the Constitution, namely, the principle of equality enshrined in Article 14 of which Article 16(1) is a facet. This Court stated: (Indra Sawhney case [(2000) 1 SCC 168 : 2000 SCC (L&S) 1 : 1999 Supp (5) SCR 229], SCC p. 202, paras 64-65)

"64. The preamble to the Constitution of India emphasises the principle of equality as basic to our Constitution. In Kesavananda Bharati v. State of Kerala [(1973) 4 SCC 225 : 1973 Supp SCR 1] it was ruled that even constitutional amendments which offended the basic structure of the Constitution would be ultra vires the basic structure. Sikri, C.J. laid stress on the basic features enumerated in the preamble to the Constitution and said that there were other basic features too which could be gathered from the constitutional scheme (para 506-A of SCC). Equality was one of the basic features referred to in the preamble to our Constitution. Shelat and Grover, JJ. also referred to the basic rights referred to in the preamble. They specifically referred to equality (paras 520 and 535-A of SCC). Hegde & Shelat, JJ. also referred to the preamble (paras 648, 652). Ray, J. (as he then was) also did so (para 886). Jaganmohan Reddy, J. too referred to the preamble and the equality doctrine (para 1159). Khanna, J. accepted this position (para 1471). Mathew, J. referred to equality as a basic feature (para 1621). Dwivedi, J. (paras 1882, 1883) and Chandrachud, J. (as he then was) (see para 2086) accepted this position.

65. What we mean to say is that Parliament and the legislature in this country cannot transgress the basic feature of the Constitution, namely, the principle of equality enshrined in Article 14 of which Article 16(1) is a facet."

He has further placed reliance upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Indian Drugs & Pharmaceuticals Ltd. vs. Workmen, (2007) 1 SCC 408 : (2007) 1 SCC (L&S) 270, where it has been held thus:

"40. The courts must, therefore, exercise judicial restraint, and not encroach into the executive or legislative domain. Orders for creation of posts, appointment on these posts, regularisation, fixing pay scales, continuation in service, promotions, etc. are all executive or legislative functions, and it is highly improper for Judges to step into this sphere, except in a rare and exceptional case. The relevant case-law and philosophy of judicial restraint has been laid down by the Madras High Court in great detail in Rama Muthuramalingam v. Dy. Supdt. of Police [AIR 2005 Mad 1] and we fully agree with the views expressed therein.

47. We are of the opinion that if the court/tribunal directs that a daily-rated or ad hoc or casual employee should be continued in service till the date of superannuation, it is impliedly regularising such an employee, which cannot be done as held by this Court in Secy., State of Karnataka v. Umadevi (3) [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] and other decisions of this Court.

48. In view of the above discussion, we are of the opinion that the orders of the Labour Court as well as the High Court were wholly unjustified and cannot be sustained for the reasons already mentioned above. The appeal is, therefore, allowed. The impugned judgments of the High Court and the Labour Court are set aside and the reference made to the Labour Court is answered in the negative. There shall be no order as to costs."

Sri Nigam, learned Senior Advocate has buttressed his contention further by referring to a decision of the Supreme Court in Executive Engineer, ZP Engg. Divn. v. Digambara Rao, (2004) 8 SCC 262 : 2004 SCC (L&S) 1097, where it has been held:

"20. It may not be out of place to mention that completion of 240 days of continuous service in a year may not by itself be a ground for directing an order of regularisation. It is also not the case of the respondents that they were appointed in accordance with the extant rules. No direction for regularisation of their services, therefore, could be issued. (See A. Umarani v. Registrar, Coop. Societies [(2004) 7 SCC 112 : (2004) 6 Scale 350] and Pankaj Gupta v. State of J&K [(2004) 8 SCC 353 : (2004) 7 Scale 682] .) Submission of Mr Maruthi Rao to the effect that keeping in view the fact that the respondents are diploma-holders and they have crossed the age of 40 by now, this Court should not interfere with the impugned judgment is stated to be rejected."

Further reliance has been placed upon an authority of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in BSNL v. Bhurumal, (2014) 7 SCC 177 : 2014 (140) FLR 901 : (2014) 2 SCC (L&S) 373, where it has been held:

"34. The reasons for denying the relief of reinstatement in such cases are obvious. It is trite law that when the termination is found to be illegal because of non-payment of retrenchment compensation and notice pay as mandatorily required under Section 25-F of the Industrial Disputes Act, even after reinstatement, it is always open to the management to terminate the services of that employee by paying him the retrenchment compensation. Since such a workman was working on daily-wage basis and even after he is reinstated, he has no right to seek regularisation [see State of Karnataka v. Umadevi (3) [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753]]. Thus when he cannot claim regularisation and he has no right to continue even as a daily-wage worker, no useful purpose is going to be served in reinstating such a workman and he can be given monetary compensation by the Court itself inasmuch as if he is terminated again after reinstatement, he would receive monetary compensation only in the form of retrenchment compensation and notice pay. In such a situation, giving the relief of reinstatement, that too after a long gap, would not serve any purpose.

36. Applying the aforesaid principles, let us discuss the present case. We find that the respondent was working as a daily-wager. Moreover, the termination took place more than 11 years ago. No doubt, as per the respondent he had worked for 15 years. However, the fact remains that no direct evidence for working 15 years has been furnished by the respondent and most of his documents are relatable to two years i.e. 2001 and 2002. Therefore, this fact becomes relevant when it comes to giving the relief. Judicial notice can also be taken of the fact that the need of linemen in the Telephone Department has been drastically reduced after the advancement of technology. For all these reasons, we are of the view that ends of justice would be met by granting compensation in lieu of reinstatement.

37. In Man Singh [BSNL v. Man Singh, (2012) 1 SCC 558 : (2012) 1 SCC (L&S) 207] which was also a case of BSNL, this Court had granted compensation of Rs 2 lakhs to each of the workmen when they had worked for merely 240 days. Since the respondent herein worked for longer period, we are of the view that he should be paid a compensation of Rs 3 lakhs. This compensation should be paid within 2 months failing which the respondent shall also be entitled to interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the date of this judgment. The award of CGIT is modified to this extent. The appeal is disposed of in the above terms. The respondent shall also be entitled to the costs of Rs 15,000 (Rupees fifteen thousand only) in this appeal."

Sri Nigam has also reposed faith in the decision of the Supreme Court in State of Uttaranchal vs. Prantiya Sinchai Avam Bandh Yogana Shramik Mahaparishad, (2007) 12 SCC 483 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 504 : 2008 (116) FLR 987. This decision and the others referred to hereinabove, are all in support of his submission that the Labour Court could not have ordered the workmen to be treated as seasonal hands, and thus confer upon them the status of a regular employee which is a matter for the Employers to consider on the basis of availability of posts, inter se, seniority of daily-wagers and other relevant factors. Sri Nigam has referred to paragraphs 9 and 11 of the report in State of Uttaranchal vs. Prantiya Sinchai Avam Bandh Yogana Shramik Mahaparishad (supra), where it is held thus:

"9. In Umadevi (3) case [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] the issue relating to regularisation was examined at length. It was essentially held that there was no question of any automatic regularisation.

11. It is not in dispute that some of the workmen concerned have been regularised. Before any direction for regularisation can be given, the factual position has to be noted as to whether there was any sanctioned post. Apparently, in the present case, these factual details have not been discussed by either the Labour Court or the High Court. We, therefore, remit the matter to the Tribunal to consider the factual background and to decide the matter afresh in the light of what has been stated in Umadevi (3) case [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] and Hindustan Aeronautics case [(2007) 6 SCC 207 : (2007) 2 SCC (L&S) 441]."

Again to the same end, Sri Nigam has invoked the authority of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Chandra Shekhar Azad Krishi Evam Prodyogiki Vishwavidyalaya vs. United Trades Congress, (2008) 2 SCC 552 : (2008) 1 SCC (L&S) 504. In the said decision, it has been held by their Lordships:

"12. A feeble attempt, however, was made by the learned counsel appearing on behalf of Respondent 2 to state that he had been appointed against a permanent vacancy. In his written statement, he did not raise any such contention. It does not also appear from the records that any offer of appointment was given to him. It is inconceivable that an employee appointed on a regular basis would not be given an offer of appointment or shall not be placed on a scale of pay. We, therefore, have no hesitation in proceeding on the premise that Respondent 2 was appointed on daily wages. The Industrial Court in passing the impugned award proceeded on the premise that Respondent 2 had been working for more than 240 days continuously from the date of his engagement. It is now trite that the same by itself does not confer any right upon a workman to be regularised in service. Working for more than 240 days in a year was relevant only for the purpose of application of Section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 providing for conditions precedent to retrench the workmen. It does not speak of acquisition of a right by the workman to be regularised in service.

17. The Industrial Court, therefore, in our opinion, committed a serious error in passing the impugned award. The High Court unfortunately did not pose unto itself a right question. It referred to a large number of decisions. Although most of the decisions referred to by the High Court should have been applied for upholding the contention of the appellant herein, without any deliberation thereupon, the learned Judge has proceeded to determine the question posed before it on a wholly wrong premise. As noticed hereinbefore, it relied upon Mahendra L. Jain [(2005) 1 SCC 639 : 2005 SCC (L&S) 154] which in no manner assists Respondent 2.

18. What was necessary to be considered was the nature of work undertaken by the University. It undertakes projects. For the said purpose, it may have to employ a large number of persons. Their services had to be temporary in nature. Even for that the provisions of Articles 14 and 16 are required to be complied with. In the event, the constitutional and statutory requirements are not complied with, the contract of employment would be rendered illegal."

Sri Nigam has also referred to the guidance of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Deputy Executive Engineer vs. Kuberbhai Kanjibhai, (2019) 4 SCC 307 : 2019 (160) FLR 651, where following the authority in BSNL v. Bhurumal (supra), it was held that the workman who had put in hardly a few years as a daily-wager, or a muster roll employee in the R & B Department of the State, had no right to claim regularization. It was held that one relevant factor further was that the dispute has been raised almost 15 years after his termination from service. The decision modified the award of the Labour Court ordering the workman to be reinstated without back-wages to one awarding a sum of Rs.1 lakh in lieu of relief of reinstatement, and also his claim to back-wages.

30. Learned Counsel for the workmen, Sri Lalloo Singh, on the other hand submits that the workmen have been working for the past 6 - 7 years, antedating their illegal termination of services pending this writ petition as Centrifugal Machine Men in each crushing season, but the Management by resort to unfair labour practice, treated them as daily-wage workers. He has contended that the workmen in order to support and establish their case of regular work done during the entire crushing seasons 1980-81 to 1986-87 sought to summon the Attendance Register, the Cashbook, the Ledger and Salary Payment Vouchers for this period from the Employers. He points out that these documents could not have been in the workmen's custody, or a copy of it with them, particularly, in the background of the Employers resorting to unfair labour practice. This prayer to summon these records was objected to by the Employers, for no good reason assigned. Learned Counsel has taken the Court through the evidence of the Employers' witnesses, which he says is conspicuous about a determined effort by the Employers not to refer to any documentary record of the work done by the workmen - even that record which the Employers would have maintained showing them to be temporary hands on daily-wages. He submits that those documents would show that by the regularity of engagement during the period of each crushing season and the payment records, the workmen's case under the Standing Orders to a seasonal status would be indubitably established. Withholding of these documents and evasive answers during evidence by the Employers' witnesses about non-production and non-reference to the records, which the workmen sought to summon, furnish good reason to the Labour Court to draw those adverse inferences that it has done against the Employers.

31. Learned Counsel for the workmen has urged that the conclusions, therefore, drawn by the Labour Court are based on oral evidence led by parties, appreciated in the context of an adverse inference and presumption, besides the overall facts, circumstances and conduct of parties. Findings of the Labour Court are pure findings of fact based on appreciation of evidence. These findings in the submission of the learned Counsel for the workmen are in no way without jurisdiction, manifestly illegal, based on irrelevant evidence or ones recorded ignoring relevant evidence. The findings also, in his submission, cannot be impeached as perverse as they are plausible conclusions drawn from the evidence on record. He submits that it is not open to this Court to interfere with such findings of fact in the absence of any demonstrable manifest illegality, lack of jurisdiction or perversity of approach. These findings, in the submission of the learned Counsel for the workmen, cannot be disturbed by this Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution. In support of his contention, learned Counsel for the workmen has relied upon a decision of the Supreme Court in Harjinder Singh v. Punjab State Warehousing Corporation, AIR 2010 SC 1116 where the principle that this Court cannot interfere with pure findings of fact unless there is an error apparent vitiating the award of the Labour Court or some lack of jurisdiction or some manifest illegality, has been expounded. He has referred to paragraph 10 of the report in Harjinder Singh (supra), where it has been held:

"10. We have considered the respective submissions. In our opinion, the impugned order is liable to be set aside only on the ground that while interfering with the award of the Labour Court, the learned Single Judge did not keep in view the parameters laid down by this Court for exercise of jurisdiction by the High Court under Articles 226 and/or 227 of the Constitution -- Syed Yakoob v. K.S. Radhakrishnan [AIR 1964 SC 477] and Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai [(2003) 6 SCC 675] .

In Syed Yakoob case [AIR 1964 SC 477] , this Court delineated the scope of the writ of certiorari in the following words: (AIR pp. 479-80, paras 7-8)

"7. The question about the limits of the jurisdiction of High Courts in issuing a writ of certiorari under Article 226 has been frequently considered by this Court and the true legal position in that behalf is no longer in doubt. A writ of certiorari can be issued for correcting errors of jurisdiction committed by inferior courts or tribunals: these are cases where orders are passed by inferior courts or tribunals without jurisdiction, or is in excess of it, or as a result of failure to exercise jurisdiction. A writ can similarly be issued where in exercise of jurisdiction conferred on it, the court or tribunal acts illegally or improperly, as for instance, it decides a question without giving an opportunity to be heard to the party affected by the order, or where the procedure adopted in dealing with the dispute is opposed to principles of natural justice. There is, however, no doubt that the jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari is a supervisory jurisdiction and the court exercising it is not entitled to act as an appellate court. This limitation necessarily means that findings of fact reached by the inferior court or tribunal as result of the appreciation of evidence cannot be reopened or questioned in writ proceedings. An error of law which is apparent on the face of the record can be corrected by a writ, but not an error of fact, however grave it may appear to be. In regard to a finding of fact recorded by the tribunal, a writ of certiorari can be issued if it is shown that in recording the said finding, the tribunal had erroneously refused to admit admissible and material evidence, or had erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which has influenced the impugned finding. Similarly, if a finding of fact is based on no evidence, that would be regarded as an error of law which can be corrected by a writ of certiorari. In dealing with this category of cases, however, we must always bear in mind that a finding of fact recorded by the tribunal cannot be challenged in proceedings for a writ of certiorari on the ground that the relevant and material evidence adduced before the tribunal was insufficient or inadequate to sustain the impugned finding. The adequacy or sufficiency of evidence led on a point and the inference of fact to be drawn from the said finding are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the tribunal, and the said points cannot be agitated before a writ court. It is within these limits that the jurisdiction conferred on the High Courts under Article 226 to issue a writ of certiorari can be legitimately exercised (vide Hari Vishnu Kamath v. Ahmad Ishaque [AIR 1955 SC 233 : (1955) 1 SCR 1104] , Nagendra Nath Bora v. Commr. of Hills Division [AIR 1958 SC 398 : 1958 SCR 1240] and Kaushalya Devi v. Bachittar Singh [AIR 1960 SC 1168]).

8. It is, of course, not easy to define or adequately describe what an error of law apparent on the face of the record means. What can be corrected by a writ has to be an error of law; but it must be such an error of law as can be regarded as one which is apparent on the face of the record. Where it is manifest or clear that the conclusion of law recorded by an inferior court or tribunal is based on an obvious misinterpretation of the relevant statutory provision, or sometimes in ignorance of it, or may be, even in disregard of it, or is expressly founded on reasons which are wrong in law, the said conclusion can be corrected by a writ of certiorari. In all these cases, the impugned conclusion should be so plainly inconsistent with the relevant statutory provision that no difficulty is experienced by the High Court in holding that the said error of law is apparent on the face of the record. It may also be that in some cases, the impugned error of law may not be obvious or patent on the face of the record as such and the court may need an argument to discover the said error; but there can be no doubt that what can be corrected by a writ of certiorari is an error of law and the said error must, on the whole, be of such a character as would satisfy the test that it is an error of law apparent on the face of the record. If a statutory provision is reasonably capable of two constructions and one construction has been adopted by the inferior court or tribunal, its conclusion may not necessarily or always be open to correction by a writ of certiorari. In our opinion, it is neither possible nor desirable to attempt either to define or to describe adequately all cases of errors which can be appropriately described as errors of law apparent on the face of the record. Whether or not an impugned error is an error of law and an error of law which is apparent on the face of the record, must always depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and upon the nature and scope of the legal provision which is alleged to have been misconstrued or contravened."

32. Learned Counsel for the workmen, Sri Lalloo Singh has further argued that the Labour Court has not committed any error of law or jurisdiction in passing the award which is based on the Standing Orders. Learned Counsel in support of his contention has placed reliance upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Bihar SRTC v. State of Bihar, AIR 1970 SC 1217 : (1970) 1 SCC 490. He has also placed reliance upon the decision of a Division Bench of this Court in Swadeshi Cotton Mills Co. Ltd. vs. Labour Court (II), 1979 All LJ 532 : (1979) 38 FLR 470. Further reliance has been placed by the learned Counsel for the workmen upon the decision of a learned Single Judge of this Court in Basti Sugar Mills Company Ltd. vs. Prem Chand, (1999) 81 FLR 312. In support of this proposition, learned Counsel for the workmen has again relied on the principles laid down by their Lordships in Harjinder Singh (supra). Support is also sought to be drawn by the learned Counsel for the workmen in aid of his contention now under consideration from the guidance of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Devinder Singh vs. Municipal Council, Sanaur, (2011) 6 SCC 584 : AIR 2011 SC 2532.

33. Learned Counsel for the workmen has pointed out in answer to the assertion on behalf of the Employers that their Unit at Munderwa, Basti, besides others, have been closed down in the year 1999 that the said fact, though not incorrect, does not mention a supervening event that would countervail the effect of closure upon the parties' rights. He submits that in consequence of a letter no. P.C./SCC/ Pipari - Munderwa/ 855, dated 09.10.2017 written by the Managing Director, U.P. State Sugar Corporation Limited, Lucknow to the Government of U.P., the Principal Secretary to the Government in the Department of Industries has issued a memo no.1684/46-2-17-40/ 17, dated 11th January, 2018 conveying the decision of the Government to revive the closed Sugar Unit at Munderwa, Basti. Learned Counsel for the workmen, therefore, submits that the plea of closure urged for the first time before this Court, based on an event post award made by the Labour Court, would have to be considered in the changed perspective of revival of the closed unit of the Employers. A copy of the order dated 11.01.2018 issued by the Principal Secretary, Government of U.P. addressed to the Managing Director, U.P. State Sugar Corporation Limited, Lucknow is on record as Annexure SA-1 to the supplementary affidavit, dated 25th January, 2019, filed by the Employers in compliance with an order of this Court, dated 10.01.2019.

34. This Court has thoughtfully considered the very elaborate submissions advanced on behalf of both parties.

35. Under the Standing Orders, there are different categories of workmen contemplated under Clause B-1 (1) to (6). It would be profitable to refer to the definition under Clause B of the Standing Orders of three categories of these workmen, who are relevant for the purpose of adjudication of the controversy here, to wit, seasonal, temporary and probationer. A seasonal workman and the manner in which he acquires that status is defined under Clause B-1(2) of the Standing Orders:

"B. Classification of workmen

1. Workmen shall be classed as:

(1) x x

(2) A "Seasonal Workman" is one who is engaged only for the crushing season and has completed his probationary period, if any."

36. A temporary workman and a probationer are defined under Clause B. 1 (3) and (4) thus:

"(3) A "Temporary Workman" is one who is engaged for meeting a temporary or casual requirement.

(4) A "Probationer" is one who is provisionally employed for a period specified by the management at the time of employment to fill a permanent/seasonal vacancy or a new post of permanent/seasonal nature & who may be confirmed at the completion of that period if his services are found satisfactory. The probationary period shall be six months in the case of permanent workmen & the one month or half of the season whichever is less in the case of seasonal workmen.

Provided that if no period of probation is specified by the management at the time of employment, the period of probation shall be deemed to be six months in the case of permanent workmen & one month or half of the season whichever is less, in the case of seasonal workmen.

37. The special conditions governing appointment of seasonal workman, or so to speak, acquisition of that status by a workman, are governed by Clause K (sub-Clauses 1, 2 and 3 of the Standing Orders). Sub-Clause 4 of Clause K is not relevant to the issue in hand. Sub-Clauses 1, 2 and 3 of Clause K of the Standing Orders are extracted below:

"1. A seasonal workman who has worked or, but for illness or any other unavoidable cause, would have worked under a factory during the whole of the second half or the last preceding season shall be employed by the factory in the current season and shall be entitled to get retaining allowance provided he joins the current season and works for at least one month. The payment of retaining allowance shall be made within two months of the date of commencement of the season.

Explanation-Unauthorised absence during the second of the last preceding season of a workman who has not been validly dismissed under these

Standing Orders and of a workman who has been re-employed by the management in the current season, shall be deemed to have been condoned by the management.

2. Every seasonal workman who worked during the last season shall be put on his old job whether he was in the "R" shift or in any of the usual shifts.

However, if the exigencies of work so require, the management may transfer a workman from one job to another or from one shift to another including 'R' shift so however, that the number of workmen so transferred does not exceed five percent of total number of the employees of the factory and that the wages and status of such workman is not affected in any way.

3. A seasonal workman, who is a retainer shall be liable to be called on duty at any time in the off season and if he does not report for duty within 10 days, he shall lose his retaining allowance for the period for which he was called for duty."

38. The first submission urged on behalf of the Employers is that the workmen have been declared seasonal by the impugned award who were otherwise casual hands and would fall in the category of temporary workmen under the Standing Orders. This limb of the submission has been set out in all its detail, in the earlier part of this judgment. The thrust of the submission is that temporary hands could not be declared seasonal by the Labour Court in the absence of existing posts in that category, and further that doing so is to grant promotion to the workmen which is essentially a managerial function.

39. To the understanding of this Court what the Employers wish to say is that by its award the Labour Court has thrust upon the Employers and introduced into their establishment casual hands as regular employees, may be seasonal. It is true that seasonal workmen under the Standing Orders would be part of the regular establishment who are called in to cater to work of a seasonal character with a right to continue during successive seasons. The impugned award would, thus, certainly have the effect of regularizing the workmen in the Employers' establishment, which the workmen claim to be their right under the Standing Orders. Reliance has been placed by Sri S.S. Nigam, learned Senior Advocate upon the decisions of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Secretary, State of Karnataka vs. *Umadevi (3) (supra), Indian Drugs & Pharmaceuticals Ltd. (supra), Executive Engineer, ZP Engg. Divn. v. Digambara Rao (supra), State of Uttaranchal vs. Prantiya Sinchai Avam Bandh Yogana Shramik Mahaparishad (supra), Chandra Shekhar Azad Krishi Evam Prodyogiki Vishwavidyalaya (supra) and Deputy Executive Engineer vs. Kuberbhai Kanjibhai (supra), in support of his contention that in view of these consistent authorities, it is not open to the Courts to order regularization of a daily-wager or a temporary hand, not part of the regular establishment as that is the function of the Employers. Also, these authorities hold that regularization to a post under the State or the Union, cannot be done without following rules regarding recruitment involving advertisement, inviting applications from the Employment Exchange and other eligible candidates, and then a selection through the prescribed mode of test, interview etc. Any other course would violate the guarantee to all citizens of equality of opportunity in matters of employment under the State, enshrined in Article 16 of the Constitution.

The decision of their Lordships in Indian Drugs & Pharmaceuticals Ltd. (supra) has been much emphasized by Sri Nigam on this point to submit that the Courts must exercise judicial restraint and not transgress into the executive or legislative domain, as held there. He has laid much emphasis on the principle exposited in the aforesaid authority which says that "Orders for creation of posts, appointment on these posts, regularisation, fixing pay scales, continuation in service, promotions, etc. are all executive or legislative functions, and it is highly improper for Judges to step into this sphere, except in a rare and exceptional case."

40. It would be well to remember that the decision in Secretary, State of Karnataka vs. *Umadevi (3) (supra), which appears to have been followed by their Lordships in Indian Drugs & Pharmaceuticals Ltd. (supra) and State of Uttaranchal vs. Prantiya Sinchai Avam Bandh Yogana Shramik Mahaparishad (supra), as also in Chandra Shekhar Azad Krishi Evam Prodyogiki Vishwavidyalaya (supra), lays down a principle which in its application to labour and industrial disputes determined by the Labour Court or the Industrial Tribunal, has been differentiated from service disputes, that are suited before the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution, or before their Lordships of the Supreme Court under Article 32.

41. This distinction has been drawn by their Lordships of the Supreme Court in a later decision in Maharashtra SRTC v. Casteribe Rajya Parivahan Karmchari Sanghatana, (2009) 8 SCC 556 : (2009) 2 SCC (L&S) 513. In the said decision, their Lordships while considering the power of the Labour Court under the Maharashtra Recognition of Trade Unions and Prevention of Unfair Labour Practices Act, 1971, held that the power of the Industrial and Labour Courts to take affirmative action under Section 30(1)(b) of the said Act, in case of unfair labour practice and to order regularization/ permanency, are not affected by the decision of the Constitution Bench in Secretary, State of Karnataka vs. *Umadevi (3) (supra). Explaining this distinction, their Lordships in Maharashtra SRTC v. Casteribe Rajya Parivahan Karmchari Sanghatana (supra) have held:

"33. The provisions of the MRTU and PULP Act and the powers of the Industrial and Labour Courts provided therein were not at all under consideration in Umadevi (3) [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] . As a matter of fact, the issue like the present one pertaining to unfair labour practice was not at all referred to, considered or decided in Umadevi (3) [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] . Unfair labour practice on the part of the employer in engaging employees as badlis, casuals or temporaries and to continue them as such for years with the object of depriving them of the status and privileges of permanent employees as provided in Item 6 of Schedule IV and the power of the Industrial and Labour Courts under Section 30 of the Act did not fall for adjudication or consideration before the Constitution Bench.

34. It is true that Dharwad Distt. PWD Literate Daily Wages Employees' Assn. [(1990) 2 SCC 396 : 1990 SCC (L&S) 274 : (1990) 12 ATC 902] arising out of industrial adjudication has been considered in Umadevi (3) [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] and that decision has been held to be not laying down the correct law but a careful and complete reading of the decision in Umadevi (3) [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] leaves no manner of doubt that what this Court was concerned in Umadevi (3) [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] was the exercise of power by the High Courts under Article 226 and this Court under Article 32 of the Constitution of India in the matters of public employment where the employees have been engaged as contractual, temporary or casual workers not based on proper selection as recognised by the rules or procedure and yet orders of their regularisation and conferring them status of permanency have been passed.

35. Umadevi (3) [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] is an authoritative pronouncement for the proposition that the Supreme Court (Article 32) and the High Courts (Article 226) should not issue directions of absorption, regularisation or permanent continuance of temporary, contractual, casual, daily wage or ad hoc employees unless the recruitment itself was made regularly in terms of the constitutional scheme.

36. Umadevi (3) [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] does not denude the Industrial and Labour Courts of their statutory power under Section 30 read with Section 32 of the MRTU and PULP Act to order permanency of the workers who have been victims of unfair labour practice on the part of the employer under Item 6 of Schedule IV where the posts on which they have been working exist. Umadevi (3) [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] cannot be held to have overridden the powers of the Industrial and Labour Courts in passing appropriate order under Section 30 of the MRTU and PULP Act, once unfair labour practice on the part of the employer under Item 6 of Schedule IV is established."

42. In the part of their Lordships' decision in Maharashtra SRTC v. Casteribe Rajya Parivahan Karmchari Sanghatana (supra), that follows the above adumbrated principles, the decisions of the Supreme Court in Indian Drugs & Pharmaceuticals Ltd. (supra), Mahatma Phule Agricultural University vs. Nasik Zilla Sheth Kamgar Union, (2001) 7 SCC 346 and State of Maharashtra vs. R.S. Bhonde, (2005) 6 SCC 751 and Aravali Golf Club vs. Chander Hass, (2008) 1 SCC 683 have been considered and followed to hold that it is a trite principle that Courts cannot direct creation of posts which is an executive function, and further that permanency cannot be granted by Courts to an employee, where no post is in existence. Creation of permanent posts and appointment to them has been acknowledged to be an executive function. Thus, there appears to be no quarrel with the proposition that even a Labour Court cannot direct creation of a permanent post in an Employers' establishment, State or private. But, the Labour Court certainly would have power to direct regularization or confer regular status where the relevant Labour Act or Rules, either provide for that right, or under the said Act or Rules it is a case of unfair labour practice, which the Labour Court or Industrial Tribunal is empowered to undo.

43. The present case is not one where the Labour Court has directed creation of any permanent post or ordered the workmen to be appointed on a permanent basis, or conferred upon them permanency. All that the Labour Court has done is to direct that the workmen have to be treated as seasonal and not temporary hands. It is in this sense that the Labour Court has regularized the workmen. To invoke this power, the Labour Court has relied upon the Standing Orders, that have been framed by the State Government in exercise of powers under Clause (b) of Section 3 of the Act. The Standing Orders certainly have statutory force. Under Clause B-1 (2), a seasonal workman has been defined as one who is engaged only for the crushing season and has completed his probationary period, if any. The definition of a probationer indicates the probationary period, whether specified or unspecified, to be one month or half of the season, whichever is less, in the case of a seasonal workman. This stipulation is carried in Clause B-1(4) of the Standing Orders, read with its first proviso. The second proviso indicates that upon expiry of the probationary period where no orders are made either way, confirming or discharging a probationer, the probationer shall be deemed to be confirmed automatically.

44. The Labour Court on the evidence led before it and the adverse inferences it has drawn due to non-production of records by the Employers despite an application by the workmen in that behalf, could possibly have held that the workmen have worked with the Employers for the whole of the crushing seasons 1980-81 to 1986-87, and completed the probationary period, entitling them to the status of seasonal workmen. But, that specific finding has not been recorded. In the absence of a finding to the effect that the workmen have worked for the crushing seasons 1980-81 to 1986-87, in accordance with their case, and have completed their probationary period envisaged under Clause B-1(4) of the Standing Orders - at least a finding that all the workmen or one or more of them have been engaged for a certain crushing season and completed his/ their probationary period - the Labour Court could not have granted seasonal status to the workmen under the Standing Orders. In the absence of that finding, the impugned award is rendered manifestly illegal.

45. Since the essential finding entitling the Labour Court to pass the impugned award has not been recorded, this Court looking to the long lapse of time that parties have been litigating, with a very heavy heart, is constrained to remand the matter to the Labour Court with a direction to decide the matter afresh recording necessary findings, amongst others, on the basis of which the claimed status of the workmen as seasonal hands can alone be determined under Clause B-1(4) of the Standing Orders. This Court says that it is constrained to remand the matter for the lack of that one essential finding because it is not open to this Court, in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution to record that finding, which is essentially one of fact, and still more, one that has to be recorded on the basis of appreciation of facts and evidence on record.

46. It is made open to both parties to lead such further evidence, particularly, documentary in support of their respective cases as may be advised. The Labour Court shall consider all evidence before it, including any further evidence, if led, as directed hereby, before making a fresh award. It is also made clear that all submissions advanced before this Court would remain open to the parties to urge before the Labour Court, except the one relating to lack of jurisdiction with the Labour Court to pronounce upon the workmen's case that they are seasonal workmen, and not temporary. It is also clarified that the possibility of one inference that the Labour Court could have drawn from the evidence in favour of the workmen mentioned hereinabove, shall in no way be construed as an expression of opinion on this issue. The Labour Court shall be absolutely free to draw its own conclusions on the issue, whether the workmen on the evidence on record are entitled to the status of seasonal workmen under the Standing Orders.

47. So far as Writ - C No.20684 of 2001 is concerned, the genesis of proceedings and the award there set out hereinbefore shows that it is founded on the foot of a claim by the workmen that their services were illegally terminated pending decision of Adjudication Case no.103 of 1987, in violation of Section 6-F of the Act. A perusal of the impugned award passed in this case, whereby termination of services of the workmen pending Adjudication Case no.103 of 1987 has been declared illegal and the workmen ordered to the reinstated with back-wages, is an award that proceeds on the edifice of findings and the award made in Adjudication Case no.103 of 1987, that holds the workmen to be seasonal. This award holds the workmen's services to have been terminated in violation of Clause L of the Standing Orders which require 15 days notice to be given by the Employers to the workmen who are seasonal. The findings have proceeded on the premise that the workmen are seasonal, and that premise is in turn founded on the award made the same day as the impugned award, declaring the workmen to be seasonal. Since the award passed in Adjudication Case no.103 of 1987 has been quashed by this Court with a remand of the matter to the Labour Court to record findings afresh, the impugned award is also required to be quashed with a direction to the Labour Court to determine this case afresh, which it will do bearing in mind its findings and conclusions recorded in Adjudication Case no.103 of 1987. It goes without saying that the Labour Court will hear and decide together upon this remand Misc. Case no.404 of 1987 and Misc. Case no.90 of 1991 together with Adjudication Case no.103 of 1987, all of which would be decided within a period of four months of receipt of this order by the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Gorakhpur or its successor Court, if re-constituted.

48. In Writ - C No.4976 of 2001 upon issue of notice to the Employers and the Union on behalf of the twenty-five workmen, both sides put in their pleadings. The Union acting on behalf of the workmen filed their written statement dated 13.05.1987 whereas the Employers filed their written statement dated 05.07.1987. The Employers filed a rejoinder statement dated 22.08.1987 whereas a rejoinder statement was filed by the Union, on behalf of the workmen, dated 22.09.1987.

49. The case of the workmen before the Labour Court was that all the twenty-five workmen had been in regular engagement of the Employers as seasonal hands on the Boilers for the past 6 - 7 years. They were working regularly during each successive season. It was further pleaded that the twenty-five workmen shown in the schedule appended to the order of reference, were illegally shown in their papers by the Employers as temporary hands, engaged on daily-wages. The aforesaid character of the workmen's engagement was shown by the Employers through manipulation of their record. It was further pleaded that the workmen had their attendance marked in the Attendance Register, but salary was paid to them through vouchers, whereon endorsements were made arbitrarily. It was the workmen' further case that in accordance with their entitlement as seasonal hands, they had to be paid salary and other benefits as determined by the Wage Board, of which they were unlawfully deprived by the Employers, again by a manipulation of their record. It was specifically also pleaded that the Employers establishment has four Boilers, that have three shifts of hands to work them. Taking into account the number of men required at a time and their relief for the next shift, a total of 63 men were required to work the Boilers. The Employers had 35 - 40 men shown as seasonal hands. The other vacancies are filled in by the workmen who have in reality a seasonal engagement, but are shown as temporary hands, retained on daily-wages. The further case urged was that the work of a labourer assigned to the Boiler was regular, but seasonal in nature, and that the act of the Employers in retaining the workmen showing them to be temporary hands was clearly indicative of an unfair labour practice.

50. It was also averred in the workmen's pleading before the Labour Court that they were paid salary worked out on the basis of Rs.7.50 per day, and the Employers doing a manipulation of record by showing part of the salary paid to them expended towards other outgoings, the workmen's attendance is short counted. The workmen claimed declaration of their status as seasonal workmen with effect from the crushing season 1985-86, along with consequential benefits.

51. The Employers disputed the workmen's case and urged that no cause of action arose to them to seek this reference, and that they made no prior demand. It was pleaded that the workmen were not members of the Union and no resolution was passed so as to give rise to a valid industrial dispute at the behest of the Union, acting for their member-workmen. The Employers pleaded in paragraph 3 of the written statement that the workmen were not at all on the rolls of the Corporation at the time of its takeover on 28.01.1984. They were temporary hands with the erstwhile Employer. It must be remarked here that this plea was raised in the context of the U.P. State Sugar Corporation Limited being acquired by the State of U.P. under the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Sugar Undertakings (Acquisition) Act, 1971 with effect from 28.10.1984.

52. It was further pleaded by the Employers that the workmen never worked against any vacancy. They hold no lien on any post. There are breaks in their service. It was also pleaded that their strength of unskilled hands is full and that the Union have raised this industrial dispute on baseless grounds. It was also pleaded that before the Conciliation Officer, the Union were seeking promotion for these workmen from temporary hands to seasonal workmen. Promotion was asserted to be an exclusive right of the Management, with a further plea that casual employees can have no claim to promotion. It is also pleaded that the workmen were asking for a renewal of their contracts as they were not on the rolls of the Employers when the Union filed conciliation proceedings. It was urged that the question of declaring these workmen seasonal does not arise, and further that the reference had become infructuous.

53. So far as the second issue referred was concerned, it was pleaded to be bad for its vagueness. It was also asserted that unless the strength of the Boiler House is determined, the second issue could not be decided. It was also pleaded that the strength of the Boiler Station in Shifts-A & B during that crushing season is full. It was then pleaded that the Labour Court would have to create a post, judge the suitability and standardize the muster of the Employers so far as the Boiler Section was concerned, if reliefs were to be granted to the workmen. This, the Employers pleaded was beyond the scope of reference. The Employers have asked the reference to be answered in their favour and the workmen's claim rejected.

54. Before the Labour Court, the Union filed an application saying that the Membership Register of the Union does not bear anyone's signatures, there is no cash receipt shown and the cashbook has not been produced. It was also urged in the application that there are entries in the Membership Register from January, 1987 to March, 1987, but not afterwards. It was urged through this application that the documents relied upon in this regard on behalf of the workmen by the Union, ought not to be accepted. The workmen made an application bearing paper no.16D with a prayer that the Attendance Register for the seasonal Boiler Hands from 1984-85 till date be summoned by the Court. A further application bearing paper no. 17D was made on behalf of the workmen that the Unit of the Employers may be inspected as much truth would be revealed before the matter was heard. In answer to this application, a reply paper no.18D was filed on behalf of the Employers. It was said that the work of Boiler Hands that the workmen were discharging is also done by other workmen. It was said in paragraph 11 of this reply that it was admitted to the Employers that these workmen were in their employment. Through an application bearing paper no. 23D, the Employers filed a document annexed as Annexure A, which shows new workmen hired during the period 1984 - 90.

55. In the oral evidence led on behalf of the Employers, an Assistant Engineer, D.R. Sharma was examined as EW-1. He deposed to the effect that there were four Boilers and that on each of these, one man was deputed at the top while two were detailed on the foot of it. According to him, an aggregate of four men were required on the top of all the Boilers combined and eight at the bottom. Thus, in three shifts, twelve men on the top and twenty-four at the foot of the four Boilers were required, making for a total of 36, and further that some of these are half shifts, which do not require a reliever. He then said that a total of 42 men are functioning who are permanent. It was testified that in special circumstances, temporary hands are engaged, some of whom are detailed to Boiler Room duties. He, however, said in his evidence that he could not say whether the twenty-five workmen here were detailed by the Time Office to the Boiler Room or not. This fact can be verified by the Time Office, and that he was not in a position to answer who were the men detailed to Boiler Room Duty during different shifts, or what their names were.

56. Another witness on behalf of the Employers was one Ramakar Pandey, who testified as EW-2. He proved Ex.6, which is the salary payment chart. He said in his examination that March, 1987 was written incorrectly there instead of April, 1987. Ten out of the twenty-five workmen were on the rolls of the Employers. Crushing season 1986-87 commenced on 21.11.1986 and ended on 28.04.1987. All the workmen were daily-wagers, who did not work the entire season. He proved Ex. E1.

57. On behalf of the workmen, Secretary of the Workmen's Union, Ram Pyarey Pandey, WW-1 was examined. He said in his evidence that after reference of the present industrial dispute was made, the services of the workmen were terminated. Thereupon, an application under Section 6-F of the Act was made. He testified also to the effect that the Employers' establishment had four Boilers. He also said in his deposition that attendance of the workmen was marked on an Attendance Register, which the Employers did not produce despite the workmen's prayer to summon it. The payment sheet alone was produced which shows short attendance.

58. The second witness examined on behalf of the workmen was Ram Nau, WW-2. He stated on oath that he had been working for a particular number of years (the figure about the number of years is illegible in the certified copy of the award). The other workmen who are party to the case had worked with him. The requirement was of 70 men, whereas there were only 30-35 on the establishment. He would be asked to sign on a paper, and was not paid any retaining allowance. According to this witness, services of 18 men were terminated.

59. The third witness examined on behalf of the workmen is one Paltu. He testified as WW-3. He asserted that he was one of the twenty-five workmen who are parties to this industrial dispute. He repeated almost the same facts as the other workmen about the number of Boilers, the requirement about the strength of men, the marking of attendance on a Register and payment of wages where signatures of workmen were secured on a loose paper with a Revenue Stamp. He further asserted that when they were not given benefits and salary as per entitlement, this case was brought by the Union. It is further said that without service of any notice or payment of retrenchment compensation, his services were dispensed with.

60. The Labour Court on an evaluation of documentary and oral evidence led on behalf of parties, particularly, the Employers, and drawing an adverse inference against the Employers on account of non-production of the Attendance Register and other records required to be maintained under the Standing Orders, answered the reference in favour of the workmen and held that all the twenty-five workmen whose names are detailed in the Schedule appended to the order of reference are entitled to be declared seasonal hands in the Employers' establishment, entitled to receive salary as per determination of the Wage Board together with other benefits, with effect from the season 1985-86.

61. Sri S.S. Nigam, learned Senior Counsel on behalf of the Employers has raised the same contentions in assail of the impugned order as those advanced in Writ - C No.4975 of 2001. Sri Lalloo Singh, learned Counsel on behalf of the workmen has defended the award, also on the similar submissions as those in the above mentioned writ petition. Learned Counsel for both sides have depended upon the same authorities as those relied in support of their various submissions in writ petition last mentioned.

62. This Court has considered the rival submissions and perused the impugned award. So far as the issue that in law it is not at all within the domain or jurisdiction of the Labour Court to have declared the workmen seasonal, the same is decided in favour of the workmen, and against the Employers for all the reasons detailed earlier in this judgment with reference to the same contention advanced in Writ - C No.4975 of 2001. It is held that it is competent for the Labour Court on evaluation of evidence before it to pronounce upon the status of the workmen as seasonal hands, if they be entitled to it under the Standing Orders.

63. In order to judge the entitlement of the workmen to be declared seasonal under the Standing Orders, the Labour Court was required to examine whether on the evidence before it, the workmen or one or more of them fulfill the requirements of being seasonal hand(s) as defined under Clause B-1(2) of the Standing Orders. It would also have to be determined whether the requirement of probation envisaged under Clause B-1(4) are fulfilled on the evidence before the Labour Court in case of each of the workmen, and if all of them were entitled to the status of seasonal employees. These Clauses of the Standing Orders have been referred to about the same issue in this judgment while deciding that issue in Writ - C No.4975 of 2001. As such, a mention of the requirements of those Standing Orders in greater detail here, or their reproduction is not needed.

64. The Labour Court on the evidence led before it and the adverse inferences it has drawn due to non-production of records by the Employers, despite an application by the workmen in that behalf, could possibly have held that the workmen have worked with the Employers for the whole of the crushing seasons 1985-86 and 1986-87, and completed the probationary period, entitling them to the status of seasonal workmen. But, that specific finding has not been recorded. In the absence of a finding to the effect that the workmen have worked for the crushing seasons 1985-86 to 1986-87 in accordance with their case, and have completed their probationary period envisaged under Clause B-1(4) of the Standing Orders - at least a finding that all the workmen or one or more of them have been engaged for a certain crushing season and completed his/ their probationary period - the Labour Court could not have granted seasonal status to the workmen under the Standing Orders. In the absence of that finding, the impugned award is rendered manifestly illegal.

terminating the services of the workmen is illegal and improper, and that by way of relief the workmen were entitled to be reinstated to the same post, on which they were working along with all consequential benefits. This relief has been granted to the workmen by the Labour Court on ground of violation of the provisions of Section 6-E(1) and (2) of the Act, inasmuch as, the Labour Court has found that services of the workmen have been terminated during the pendency of the industrial dispute before it, without Employers seeking its permission under the proviso to Section 6-E(2)(b). A reading of the provisions of Section 6-E and F of the Act shows that prima facie the Labour Court is right in holding the termination to be bad in consequence of violation of Section 6-E. However, even if the award were to be upheld or modified, much would depend about the relief to be granted to the workmen on the decision of the issue whether the workmen are entitled to be declared seasonal or they are ultimately held to be temporary hands. The said issue is to be determined after remand, by the Labour Court afresh, in view of the judgment and order of date passed in Writ - C No.4976 of 2001. It would, therefore, be appropriate that this matter may come up after the Labour Court makes its award, in compliance with the order of remand passed in Writ - C No.4976 of 2001.

66. Writ - C No.20683 of 2001 shall be listed after the Labour Court makes its award afresh in Adjudication Case no.118 of 1987.

67. In the result, Writ - C No.4975 of 2001 is allowed in part and the impugned award dated 11.08.1999 passed by the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Gorakhpur, in Adjudication Case no.103 of 1987 is hereby quashed. The said Adjudication Case shall stand restored to the file of the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Gorakhpur, or whichever Labour Court is now competent to deal with this Adjudication Case, with a direction that the Labour Court concerned shall decide the Adjudication Case afresh within a period of four months of receipt of this order by the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Gorakhpur, or its successor Court, if reconstituted. In making its fresh award, the Labour Court shall bear in mind what has been held by this Court in this judgment in so far as it relates to Writ - C No.4975 of 2001.

68. Writ - C No.20684 of 2001 is allowed in part and the impugned award dated 13.08.1999 passed in Misc. Case no.404 of 1987 and Misc. Case no.90 of 1991 (relating to Adjudication Case no.103 of 1987) is hereby quashed with a remand of the matter to the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Gorakhpur or its successor Court, if reconstituted to hear and decide Misc. Case no.404 of 1987 and Misc. (Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. The pith and substance of the controversy, that has given rise to this Writ Petition, centers around two questions, to wit, (1) Whether in a reference made to the Labour Court regarding the validity of termination of services of the respondent-workman, could the Labour Court pronounce upon his status as a temporary or seasonal workman, in the absence of a specific reference to that effect?, (2) Whether the respondent-workman is seasonal or temporary within the meaning of Clause B. 1(2) or (3) of the Standing Orders Covering the Condition of Employment of Workmen in Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories in U.P.?

2. The facts giving rise to this Writ Petition are that the petitioners are a sugar mill, owned by a company incorporated under the Indian Companies Act, 1956, known as M/s. Gangeshwar Limited, Deoband, Saharanpur. The said company has its registered office at Deoband, District Saharanpur. It is the petitioner's case that the company has been rechristened as "Triveni Engineering and Industries Limited, Deoband, Saharanpur'. The petitioners are engaged in the manufacture of crystal sugar through the vacuum pan process. It is the petitioner's case that the nature of the industry is seasonal. Business commences in the month of November and ends in April, invariably. Looking to the nature of the petitioner's business, engagement of employees in the petitioner's sugar mill is of varied terms and tenure. Some workmen are retained as temporary hands, others as seasonal ones, and some on a permanent basis. This variation of the terms and tenure of employment depends on the nature of the job that a particular workman discharges in the sugar factory. It is the petitioner's case that they are a seasonal industry as already said, and that conditions of services of their workman are governed by "Standing Orders Covering the Condition of Employment of Workmen in Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories in U.P.' (for short, the Standing Orders) issued under Section 3(b) of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (for short, the Act). Under the Standing Orders, workmen may be employed on various kinds of tenure, that are spelt out in Clause B-1 (1) to (6). These are:

"B. Classification of Workmen-
1. Workmen shall be classed as-
(1) Permanent,
(2) Seasonal,
(3)Temporary,
(4) Probationers,
(5) Apprentices, and
(6) Substitutes."

3. It is the petitioner's further case that varied nature of work assigned to the above referred categories of workmen, is done as provided in the Standing Orders. It is stated by the petitioner for a fact that the raw material, on which the petitioner's industry runs, is sugarcane, and, therefore, the business of a sugar mill is entirely dependent on sugarcane production and its availability. The petitioner has also pleaded that availability of sugarcane fluctuates during different years, and in proportion to that, the requirement of hands to run the petitioner's sugar mill. It has been averred categorically in paragraph 9 of the Writ Petition that during years that there is excess production of sugarcane, the sugar mill per necessity requires a stronger work force in order to cope with increased business. A fortiori in years during which the production of sugarcane goes down, or the supply is otherwise short, the requirement of services of workmen also dwindles.

4. The cause of action leading to this petition appears to have arisen with Punjab Singh son of Dharmpal Singh, respondent no.3 to this petition, alleging that he was retained by the petitioners as a Cane Weighment Clerk during the entire crushing seasons 1994-95, 1995-96, 1996-97 and 1997-98. He regularly discharged his duties as such, at the various sugarcane procurement centres during all these seasons. It was claimed by the third respondent that during the crushing season 1998-99 also, he was retained on the post of a Cane Weighment Clerk, but on 06.01.1999 his services were dispensed with without prior notice. In short, he asserted his status to be a seasonal employee with the petitioners, and a cause of action arising in his favour on account of illegal termination of his services without notice as required by law. An industrial dispute was, accordingly, raised under Section 4-K of the Act between the petitioner-employers and respondent no.3, their workman, through a reference dated 09.09.1999 made by the Deputy Labour Commissioner, Saharanpur Region in the following terms (translated into English from Hindi vernacular):

"Whether the act of the employers in terminating the services of their workman, Sri Punjab Singh son of Dharmpal Singh, Cane Weighment Clerk, w.e.f. 06.01.1999, is lawful and proper? If no, what relief the concerned workman is entitled to?"

5. On the basis of the said reference, Adjudication Case no.323 of 1999 was registered before the Labour Commissioner, U.P., Dehradun, the said Labour Court at the relevant time being the jurisdictional Labour Court for the district of Saharanpur, before reorganization of the State of Uttar Pradesh vide Act no.29 of 2000. Notice on the aforesaid case was issued to the employer and the workman. The respondent-workman filed his written statement on 24.01.2000 setting up a case that he was a seasonal Weighment Clerk, and that his services have been illegally terminated during the crushing season 1998-99, w.e.f. 06.01.1999. The petitioners filed their written statement dated 20.12.1999 taking a case that the respondent-workman had never been engaged in the regular establishment of the petitioners in any of the specified classifications of employees mentioned in the Standing Orders, and that the industrial dispute has been raised with an ulterior motive to seek employment by exerting pressure upon the petitioner-employers to absorb the workman in their service. It has been specifically averred in paragraph no.7 of the written statement filed by the petitioners that since the workman had never remained in their employment, the question of terminating his services does not arise. In substance, thus, the employers disowned the factum of the third respondent being ever employed in their establishment. The respondent-workman and the petitioner-employers, both filed their rejoinder statements dated 24.01.2000 and 25.05.2000, respectively.

6. The workman as part of his evidence filed thirteen documents through a list numbered as 7-B(II). In addition, the workman entered the witness box and testified in support of his case before the Labour Court as WW-1. The Employers on the other hand examined two witnesses in support of their case, to wit, Randeep Singh, Cane Supervisor and another Ravindra Singh, Mukhya Samaypal. It is recorded for a fact by the Labour Court that no documentary evidence was filed on behalf of the employers.

7. The Labour Court upon appreciation of the evidence on record returned a finding that the workman was employed during more than one crushing season. He held, therefore, that the workman fulfilled the requirement of a seasonal workman, who had a right to be engaged during the following crushing seasons and to receive emoluments therefor, until his services were determined in accordance with the Standing Orders. This Court proposes to scrutinize a little later the manner in which the Labour Court has considered the evidence in order to arrive at its conclusions, within the limited parameters of this Court's jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution. On the basis of the findings hereinbefore referred to, the Labour Court proceeded to pass an award that the workman was unlawfully denied work w.e.f. 06.01.1999. It was further awarded that the workman be reinstated during the current crushing season, and be given other admissible benefits, to which he was entitled. It was still further awarded that for the denial to retain during the previous crushing seasons, the workman be paid compensation in the sum of Rs.5000/-. Cost of Rs.1000/- was also ordered in favour of the workman, and against the employers.

8. Assailing the aforesaid award, dated 31.10.2000 (published on 29.09.2001) made in Adjudication Case no.323/1999, the present writ petition has been filed.

9. The employer has assailed the award on grounds, amongst others, that no finding has been returned in terms of Clause 2K of the Standing Orders, where the various categories of workmen have been classified.

10. Dilating on the submissions, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Diptiman Singh has urged that the reference order did not proceed on the assumption that the workman was seasonal. According to the learned counsel, therefore, it was imperative for the Labour Court to return a finding in accordance with Clause 2K of the Standing Orders, based on relevant evidence to the effect that the workman was retained on a seasonal tenure. He points out that the said finding returned by the Labour Court is sketchy in its terms and not based on relevant evidence postulated under the Standing Orders. The conclusion, therefore, that the workman was retained on a seasonal basis is vitiated. In further elucidation of that submission, it is urged by Sri Diptiman Singh that no finding has been recorded by the Labour Court regarding the specific number of days during which the workman has worked, or is there any finding that he worked during the second half of the preceding crushing season. It is urged with much emphasis that in the absence of a clear finding that the workman was retained during the second half of the preceding crushing season, it is absolutely unlawful to conclude that the third respondent was a seasonal workman.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon a decision of the Supreme Court in Bhogpur Coop. Sugar Mills Ltd. vs. Harmesh Kumar, (2006) 13 SCC 28 in support of his contention that where the order of reference was to the effect whether the termination of services of the workman was lawful, the Labour Court could not have gone into the question whether the employer was bound to re-engage the workman in all subsequent seasons. Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn the attention of the Court to paragraphs 7 and 8 of the report in Bhogpur Coop. Sugar Mills Ltd. (supra), where it is held:

"7. The Labour Court derived its jurisdiction from the terms in reference. It ought to have exercised its jurisdiction within the four corners thereof.

8. The principal question which was referred by the State Government was as to whether the termination of services of the respondent was justified. The Labour Court was, therefore, not required to go into the question as to whether the appellant was bound to take the services of the respondent in all subsequent seasons or not."

12. Sri Diptiman Singh has further placed reliance upon a decision of the Supreme Court in Ganga Kisan Sahkari Chini Mills Ltd. vs. Jai Veer Singh, (2007) 7 SCC 748. He submits that in the said decision that arose out of a reference whether the services of the workman were lawfully terminated, their Lordships did not approve of the Labour Court and the High Court going into the nature of appointment of the workman on this kind of a reference, holding him entitled to be absorbed on permanent basis and reinstating him with back-wages. He has invited the attention of the Court to paragraph 8 of the Report in Ganga Kisan Sahkari Chini Mills Ltd. (supra), where it is held:

"8. In support of the appeals, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that approach of the High Court is factually and legally wrong. Even if it is accepted that the period is 120 days, the workmen were not entitled to any relief. They admittedly worked for 109 days. The nature of appointment was not the subject-matter of reference and, therefore, the conclusion of the Labour Court, as affirmed by the High Court that the workmen were entitled to be absorbed on permanent basis and reinstated with back wages, was clearly erroneous."

13. The learned counsel for the petitioner has further invited attention of the Court to an unreported decision of this Court in M/s Triveni Engineering & Industries Ltd. vs. State Of U.P. And Others, Writ - C No. - 19918 of 2009, decided on 07.01.2010. In the said case too, the services of a Weighment Clerk were terminated by the employer, Sugar Factory. A reference was made to the Labour Court as to whether the action of the employer terminating the services of their workman from the start of the crushing season 1998 - 99 was just and valid or not. The workman had come up with a case that he was engaged as a Weighment Clerk in the crushing season 1992 - 93 and worked as such for four crushing seasons, the last being 1997 - 98. The employer on the other hand came up with a case that the workman was never engaged by them. The Court proceeded much on basis of the requirement that the right to engagement of a seasonal workman or to assail his termination during a particular crushing season, depended upon an answer to the issue whether during the later half of the last crushing season he had been engaged, or he had worked for the complete period of time, envisaged under Clause 2K(1) of the Standing Orders. The Court proceeded to hold that no specific evidence was referred to by the Labour Court in order to record a finding that the workman did work in the later half of the crushing season 1997 - 98, and that he was engaged for the complete half period of the last season. It was also held that most of the documents produced by the workman relate to the period only 1996 - 97. No document for the relevant season 1997-98 were produced, except the authority letter, claimed to have been issued by the employer. The period for which the authorization is granted is not mentioned. It has also been held by this Court in M/s Triveni Engineering & Industries Ltd. (supra) that all other documents relied upon by the workman relate to a period of time prior to the last crushing season. It was also, in particular, noticed by this Court that it was averred in para 10 of the written statement filed on behalf of the employer that the workman was not called at all for the crushing season 1998 - 99. This Court then also noticed that the industrial dispute was raised with a delay of about three and a half years that went against the workman. In these circumstances, the award of the Labour Court was quashed. It must be remarked here that this decision is not about the issue that in a reference about the legality of termination of a workman, the question whether he was a temporary hand or a seasonal employee, could not have been gone into by the Labour Court. Rather, it is related to the allied issues raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the Labour Court has wrongly answered the reference, inasmuch as, no finding in accordance with Clause 2K(1) of the Standing Orders has been recorded to the effect that the workman has rendered work for the required number of days, in the last crushing season. The decision has also turned much on the fact that there is no evidence considered by the Labour Court to hold that in the later half of the crushing season 1997 - 98, the workman was engaged for the complete half period. The absence of an appointment letter or engagement documents for the past four crushing seasons have also weighed with the Court. This decision may have some bearing on the question of the validity of the impugned judgment, in case it were to be held by this Court here that the Labour Court had jurisdiction on facts, that emerge in this case to determine the question that the workman held on seasonal terms. In case it were held that answering the question regarding nature of the workman's tenure was beyond the scope of reference, the question whether the reference was correctly answered on the basis of facts and evidence on record, would be superfluous. Thus, the effect of the decision of this Court in M/s Triveni Engineering & Industries Ltd. (supra) would be considered, a little later, depending upon the outcome of the answer to the principal question raised about the competence of the Labour Court to decide in the manner that it has done, within the terms of the reference made.

14. There are two other decisions relied upon by Sri Diptiman Singh in support of his case that he canvasses here. One is the decision of this Court in M/s Gangeshwar Ltd., Deoband, Saharan-pur vs. State Of U.P. & Others, decided on 12.04.2017, and the other is a decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Batala Coop. Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Sowaran Singh, (2005) 8 SCC 481. A consideration of these decisions would also come about during the course of this judgment, once the principal issue, above noticed, is answered.

15. In answer to the proposition that the Labour Court could not have gone into the question of the workman being employed on a seasonal tenure contemplated under Clause B-1(2) of the Standing Orders, entitling him to the benefits of Clause 2-K, Ms. Sumati Rani Gupta has urged that in order to ascertain whether a workman held on a seasonal tenure, he has to demonstrate that he was employed in the last crushing season as per Clause 2-K of the Standing Orders, so far as the employers are concerned. She submits that the employers are a Sugar Factory in U.P., to whom the Standing Orders apply. They are a seasonal industry, and, therefore, a seasonal workman has to bring his case within the four corners of Clause 2-K of the Standing Orders. He has nothing more to establish, in order to prove that he is a seasonal workman. She has further argued that payment of retaining allowance demonstrates that the workman had put in a minimum period of actual working days, which in the least has to be a period of two months. This submission of Ms. Gupta has been advanced in the context of a strong suggestion by the learned counsel for the petitioner that a seasonal workman has to prove that he is in receipt of a retaining allowance, and since there is no evidence about such receipt by the workman, he cannot be regarded as a seasonal employee. To entertain these kinds of submissions would appear to be a bit out of context here, where the question examined is whether the Labour Court could go into the question on the terms of the reference made that the workman held on seasonal terms. The thrust of Ms. Gupta's submission is that considering the reference order admittedly relates to the post of a Weighment Clerk held by the workman, it is inherent in the nature of that work that retention is as a seasonal workman. Learned Counsel for the workman has, therefore, termed as completely specious the basis of the employers' case that the Labour Court has travelled beyond the reference, inasmuch as, the work of a Weighment Clerk relates to a crushing season alone in a Sugar Factory.

16. It is argued by the learned counsel for the workman that as per Clause 2-K of the Standing Orders, a seasonal clerk has a right to be called for the next crushing season, if he has worked during the previous crushing season, which normally lasts 180 days. She submits that the period of 240 days would not be applicable to a seasonal workman, unless he is a retainer. She has further submitted that the concept of retaining allowance is not a concomitant of seasonal employment; there could be a seasonal workman with no right to receipt of a retaining allowance. As such, in the submission of the learned counsel for the workman, it is not imperative for the workman to establish that he is in receipt of retaining allowance before he can claim to be a seasonal workman. She has pointed out that the concept of retaining allowance dates back to disputes and conflicts that erupted between the employers and the workman during the years 1955 to 1960 when certain class of workmen were paid retaining allowance. The conflict resulted in the formation of a Wage Board and various categories of workmen were directed to raise their grievances about the right to receive a retaining allowance also, before the Wage Board. In this connection, she has referred to the decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Rohtas Sugar Ltd vs. Mazdoor Seva Sangh, AIR 1960 SC 671, where it has been held:

"8. Nor is it clear from the materials on the record that unskilled workmen employed in a particular factory consider themselves attached to that factory. It appears to be clear that once the season is over the unskilled workmen cease to have any contractual relations with the employers and may rejoin on the commencement of the season or may not rejoin at their sweet will. As regards the observations of the Tribunal that "the seasonal employees are entitled to the benefit of provident fund, gratuity and also bonus which shows that in fact their connection with the employers is not broken" the materials on the record are too scanty for arriving at any definite conclusion.

9. In consideration of the nature and extent of the materials on the record we are of opinion that for alleviating the distress of unskilled workmen in these sugar factories, with whom we are concerned in the present appeals a much better course will be to raise the wage structure with an eye to this fact that for a part of the off season at least when (sic) they remain unemployed than to pay a retaining allowance for the entire off season.

10. The appellant's counsel readily agrees that the fact that these unskilled workmen find employment in the sugar factories only for a few months and are in comparative difficulty in the matter of finding employment during the remaining months, should be taken into consideration in fixing their wages. We are informed that a Wage Board entrusted with the task of fixing the wages of the workmen concerned in these disputes is sitting at the present time. The interests of both the employers and labour will, we think be best served if instead of confirming the order made by the Appellate Tribunal as regards the retaining allowance the workmen will raise this question of raising their wages in view of the seasonal nature of their employment before this Wage Board. We have no doubt that such a claim will be sympathetically considered by the Wage Board, especially as the employers have through their counsel, recognized before us the reasonableness of their claim. The appellants have through their counsel also undertaken that they will not claim restitution of the amounts already paid as retaining allowance and further that they will continue to pay the retaining allowance for the next season-half at the commencement of the season and the other half midway during the season-till the wages have been fixed by the Wage Board. Accordingly we allow the appeals and set aside the order passed by the Labour Appellate Tribunal of India, Dhanbad, as regards retaining allowance to unskilled workmen and also its order as regards payment of halting allowance and travelling allowance and wages to workmen attending proceedings of necessity of the Industrial Tribunal. But as has been mentioned earlier the appellants have undertaken not to seek restitution as regards the halting or retaining allowance already paid and further that they will continue to pay retaining allowance for the next season-half at the commencement of the season and the other half mid-way during the season-till the wages are fixed by the Wage Board."

17. Learned counsel for the workman has further urged that the nature of a workman's job whether it is permanent, seasonal or temporary, depends upon the nature of the work and the purpose of his engagement. This submission, the learned counsel for the workman has stressed looking to the nature of the work of a Weighment Clerk in a Sugar Factory, that is admittedly the workman's assignment. The submission is advanced in aid of the proposition that a Weighment Clerk in a Sugar Factory, as already said hereinbefore, can be nothing, but a seasonal workman. A fortiori, according to the learned counsel for the workman, there was nothing wrong about the Labour Court proceeding on basis that the nature of the workman's engagement was seasonal. In order to substantiate the distinction between a permanent, seasonal and a temporary workman, learned counsel for the workman has placed reliance upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Jaswant Sugar Mills Ltd. vs. Badri Prasad, AIR 1967 SC 513 : (1961) 1 LLJ 649. The said appeal before their Lordships arose out of a reference to the Labour Court in terms "Whether the employers should be required to designate their fifteen workmen mentioned in the annexure as permanent workmen. If so, with what details?" In Jaswant Sugar Mills Ltd. (supra), it was held thus:

"3. The main question for our consideration in the present appeal by the employer by special leave is the proper construction of the definition of a permanent workman. In deciding on the proper meaning to be attached to the words and phrases used in the definition it will be proper to consider the question in the background of the definition in the Standing Order of two other kinds of workmen, viz., Seasonal Workmen and Temporary Workmen. A Seasonal Workman is defined as one who is engaged for the crushing season only and/or may also be employed for the period necessary for cleaning and overhauling either before or after the season and is discharged after the work is finished. A Temporary Workman is defined as one who is engaged in the work of a temporary and casual nature or to fill in a temporary need of extra hands on permanent or temporary jobs.

4. Reading the three definitions together it is abundantly dear that while a seasonal workman is engaged in a job which lasts during the crushing season only, a temporary workman may be engaged either for work of a temporary or casual nature or work of a permanent nature; but a permanent workman is one who is engaged on a permanent nature of work only. The distinction between a permanent workman engaged on work of a permanent nature and a temporary workman engaged on work of a permanent nature is in the fact that a temporary workman is engaged to fill in a temporary need of extra hands of permanent jobs. In this background it becomes clear that the words engaged on a permanent nature of work throughout the year" were intended to mean "engaged on a permanent nature of work lasting throughout the year" and not "engaged throughout the year on a permanent nature of work." When a workman is engaged on a work of permanent nature which lasts throughout the year it is legitimate to expect that he would continue there permanently unless he has been engaged to fill in a temporary need. It will be unreasonable to think that the Standing Orders left a loop-hole for the employer to prevent a person engaged on a work of permanent nature which lasts throughout the year, from becoming permanent by the device of discharging him from time to time. By such a device it would be possible for the employer to prevent any workman from becoming permanent, even though the work on which he is engaged lasts throughout the year and is in its nature permanent. That could not have been the intention when the Standing Orders were framed. It stands much more to reason that in speaking of a workman being engaged on a permanent nature of work throughout the year, those who framed the Standing Orders proceeded on the assumption that if the work of a permanent nature lasts throughout the year a workman who has completed his probationary period, if any, will continue to be engaged in that work. We are, therefore, of opinion that the Appellate Tribunal was right in thinking that to be a permanent workman within the definition it is not necessary that the workman should be engaged throughout the year. What is necessary is that the work on which he is engaged is of a permanent nature and lasts throughout the year."

18. At this stage, one submission put forward by Sri Diptiman Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, to which some allusion has already been made hereinbefore, urged from the contrary perspective must be noticed. It is argued that payment of retaining allowance is a necessary incident of seasonal engagement. In the absence of proof of the fact that the workman was in receipt of retaining allowance, there can be no case of seasonal engagement. It is emphasized that there is no finding by the Labour Court that retaining allowance was paid to the workman. In this context, reliance has been placed by the learned counsel for the employers upon a decision of the Supreme Court in Managing Director, Chalthan Vibhag Sahakari Khand Udyog vs. Govt. Labour Officer, (1981) 2 SCC 147. Learned counsel for the petitioner has invited attention of the Court to paragraph 6 of the Report in Managing Director, Chalthan Vibhag Sahakari Khand Udyog (supra):

"6. There can be no doubt that the retaining allowance paid to the workmen during the off-season falls within the substantive part of the definition of the expression "salary or wage". It undoubtedly is remuneration which would, if the terms of employment, express or implied, were fulfilled, be payable to any employee in respect of his employment. The retaining allowance is a remuneration on a lower scale which is paid to the workmen by the management during the off-season for their forced idleness. The payment of such allowance by the management to its workmen during the off-season when there is no work and when the factory is not working, is indicative of the fact that it wants to retain their services for the next crushing season. The very fact that retaining allowance is paid to the workmen clearly shows that their services are retained and, therefore, the jural relationship of employer and the employee continues. It is true that a workman may not return to work and may take up some other job or employment. In that event, he forfeits the right of payment of the retaining allowance. But when the workman returns to work when the next crushing season starts, the payment of retaining allowance during the off-season, partakes of the nature of basic wage on a diminished scale. The definition of the expression "salary or wage" given in Section 2(21) of the Act is wide enough to cover the payment of retaining allowance to the workmen. It is nothing but remuneration correlated to service and it would be a misnomer to call it an allowance. The retaining allowance does not fall within the purview of clause (i) of the exclusionary clause of Section 2(21), but comes within the substantive part of the definition of "salary or wage" in Section 2(21) of the Act. The retaining allowance cannot be construed to be any other allowance which the employee is, for the time being, entitled. The High Court was, therefore, justified in holding that the retaining allowance paid to the seasonal employees was a part of their "salary or wage" within the meaning of Section 2(21) of the Act and, therefore, must be taken into account for the purpose of calculation of bonus payable under the Payment of Bonus Act, 1965."

19. To determine what a seasonal workman connotes, a brief survey of the definition of a 'seasonal workman' and conditions governing employment of seasonal workmen under the Standing Orders, must be undertaken. Clause B.1.(2) of the Standing Orders defines a seasonal workman thus:

"B. Classification of workmen

1. Workmen shall be classed as:

(1) x x

(2) A "Seasonal Workman" is one who is engaged only for the crushing season and has completed his probationary period, if any."

20. Likewise, a temporary workman, and a probationer who are two other classes of workmen, of the total six hereinbefore detailed, are defined under Clause B. 1 (3) and (4) as under:

"(3) A "Temporary Workman" is one who is engaged for meeting a temporary or casual requirement.

(4) A "Probationer" is one who is provisionally employed for a period specified by the management at the time of employment to fill a permanent/seasonal vacancy or a new post of permanent/seasonal nature & who may be confirmed at the completion of that period if his services are found satisfactory. The probationary period shall be six months in the case of permanent workmen & the one month or half of the season whichever is less in the case of seasonal workmen.

Provided that if no period of probation is specified by the management at the time of employment, the period of probation shall be deemed to be six months in the case of permanent workmen & one month or half of the season whichever is less, in the case of seasonal workmen.

21. So far as the special condition governing employment of seasonal workman are concerned, these are governed by Clause K, 1, 2 and 3 of the Standing Orders. Sub clause 4 of Clause K is not relevant and is, therefore, not being referred to. Clause K. 1, 2 and 3 of the Standing Orders read thus:

"1. A seasonal workman who has worked or, but for illness or any other unavoidable cause, would have worked under a factory during the whole of the second half or the last preceding season shall be employed by the factory in the current season and shall be entitled to get retaining allowance provided he joins the current season and works for at least one month. The payment of retaining allowance shall be made within two months of the date of commencement of the season.

Explanation-Unauthorised absence during the second of the last preceding season of a workman who has not been validly dismissed under these Standing Orders and of a workman who has been re-employed by the management in the current season, shall be deemed to have been condoned by the management.

2. Every seasonal workman who worked during the last season shall be put on his old job whether he was in the "R" shift or in any of the usual shifts.

However, if the exigencies of work so require, the management may transfer a workman from one job to another or from one shift to another including 'R' shift so however, that the number of workmen so transferred does not exceed five percent of total number of the employees of the factory and that the wages and status of such workman is not affected in any way.

3. A seasonal workman, who is a retainer shall be liable to be called on duty at any time in the off season and if he does not report for duty within 10 days, he shall lose his retaining allowance for the period for which he was called for duty."

22. So far as the termination of services of a workman is concerned, the same are governed by Clause L of the Standing Orders, whereas termination/dismissal on ground of misconduct is governed by Clause M.

23. This Court has considered the rival submissions advanced on behalf of both parties, vis-a-vis, the question whether in a reference relating to validity of termination of services of the respondent-workman, the Labour Court can pronounce upon his status as a temporary or seasonal hand, in the absence of those specific terms referred. The proposition that the Labour Court could not hold the workman to be a seasonal employee, draws support from the decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Bhogpur Coop. Sugar Mills Ltd. (supra). In the aforesaid decision, the question arose in the context of facts that the workman was engaged by the employers, a Sugar Mill at the beginning of the crushing season along with others. The workmen were recruited at the commencement of the season and retrenched at the end of it. The respondent, no doubt, was appointed as a seasonal workman as the facts of the case would show. It also figures from the facts there, that he was retained on daily-wage basis. The workman appears to have raised an industrial dispute against the termination of his services at the end of the crushing season, which apparently came to an end with end of the season. A reference was made in the following terms [extracted from the Report in Bhogpur Coop. Sugar Mills Ltd. (supra)]:

"Whether termination of services of Shri Harmesh Kumar workman is justified and in order? If not, to what relief/exact amount of compensation is he entitled?"

24. The Labour Court held that the workman had not been able to establish that he had worked for 240 days, but further held that the employers having not called the workman in the subsequent crushing season, whereas his juniors were invited to join, constituted a violation of Section 25-G of the Industrial Disputes Act. In accord with the finding, an award was made directing the employers to re-employ the workman from the season in which juniors to him were called, but the workman was not. It was also awarded that the workman shall be paid back-wages etc. with other allied and monetary benefits, that his juniors had received on joining duties when the workman was denied re-engagement.

25. The High Court, on a Writ Petition being filed, approved the award of the Labour Court, recording the following finding [extracted verbatim from the report in re Bhogpur Coop. Sugar Mills Ltd. (supra)]:

"We, however, find no merit in this argument for the reason that a positive finding has been recorded by the Tribunal that persons junior to the workman had been retained and it is also admitted by the management that they had not offered any appointment to the respondent on account of pendency of the dispute in the court. We are of the opinion that had it been the case of the management that the exigencies of services did not warrant his re-employment, something could be said in its favour but this is not the case of the management. No offer was made to the workman on account of the pendency of the proceedings before the Labour Court."

26. It was in the context of the aforesaid facts that their Lordships held that both the High Court and the Labour Court fell in error in going into the question whether the employers were obliged to reinstate the workman in all subsequent seasons, and ordering them to do so with consequential benefits. It was also in that context that it was held that all that the Labour Court was required to see was whether the termination of services of the workman, that was subject matter of the reference, was lawful or not.

27. In the present case, the facts show that the workman's case is that he was retained as a Weighment Clerk during the crushing seasons 1994 - 95, 1995 - 96, 1997 - 98, and again during the crushing season 1998 - 99. It is the workman's specific case that during the crushing season 1998 - 99, which commenced in October, 1998, he was called back to work, but without cause or reason, his services were dispensed with on 06.01.1999. He has claimed to have worked during the crushing season 1998 - 99 from October, 1998 until 06.01.1999, which is a period of a little over two months. In the context of the aforesaid facts, there appears to be little doubt that the workman was engaged as a seasonal employee by the petitioner-employers, the post of Weighment Clerk in a Sugar Factory being essentially one associated with the crushing season.There is documentary evidence also, about the engagement of the workman during the four crushing seasons, led on the side of the workman whereas there is none, except bald oral evidence on behalf of the Employer in denial of the workman's rights. More about the proof of each side's case by the evidence led, would be said later. At this stage, suffice it to say that on the facts obtaining, the case of parties and the evidence on record, the Labour Court committed no error in proceeding on the basis that the petitioner was a seasonal hand. The decision in Bhogpur Coop. Sugar Mills Ltd. (supra) relied upon by the Employers is not at all attracted here. It was a cause of action based on the right to re-engagement after end of one season.

28. So far as the decision in Ganga Kisan Sahkari Chini Mills Ltd. (Supra) is concerned, the proposition there is still farther off. In Ganga Kisan Sahkari Chini Mills (Supra), the case before their Lordships of the Supreme Court involved the validity of a decision where the Labour Court had awarded that the workman be absorbed on a permanent basis, together with back wages whereas the reference was in terms, whether the services of the workman were lawfully terminated. It was in that context that their Lordships held that the nature of appointment was not the subject matter of reference and, therefore, disapproved the decision of the Labour Court as affirmed by the High Court. The present case almost proceeds on facts that speak of a seasonal engagement going by the nature of duties of a Weighment Clerk in a Sugar Mill. This case seen in the background of documentary evidence that establishes a case of engagement by the Employers, led on the workman's side with nothing in rebuttal offered by the Employer, clearly makes it to be one where the Labour Court did not commit any manifest error of law in proceeding on the assumption that the engagement was seasonal.

29. The contention advanced on behalf of the Employers by Sri Diptiman Singh to the effect that the absence of evidence and discussion by the Labour Court regarding payment of retaining allowance ex facie excludes a case of seasonal engagement, is not prima facie tenable. This is not to say that the contention does not require further evaluation, while answering the question about the status of the workman being a temporary or a seasonal hand. All that this Court may remark for the present is that the absence of evidence regarding payment of retaining allowance or a finding about it recorded by the Labour Court, does not essentially exclude a case of seasonal engagement that with other evidence about it on record, may preclude the Labour Court from proceeding on the basis that the engagement was seasonal. There is no such principle inferable from the decision of their Lordships in Managing Director, Chalthan Vibhag Sahakari Khand Udyog (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner.

30. To examine a little further the evidence offered by each side in respect of their respective cases, it is apparent from the impugned award that the workman filed licences issued in his favour for the crushing seasons 1995-96, 1996-97 and 1997-98 by the District Magistrate in accordance with Rule 87 of the U.P. Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply & Purchase) Rules 1954 read with Order 16(d) of the U.P. Sugarcane Supply and Purchase Order, 1954, authorizing him to act as a Weighment Clerk in a Sugar Mill. These licences bear signatures and seal of the occupier acting on behalf of the Employer (Sugar Mill). The occupier has attested the photograph of the workman. The signatures of the occupier were not identified by Randeep Singh, Cane Supervisor, a witness appearing for the Employer, but he has admitted the fact that during these crushing seasons, Sri S.K. Tanwar was the Vice President and the occupier (of the Sugar Mill).

31. The Labour Court has looked into the evidence of one Subhash Chandra led on behalf of the Employers in Adjudication Cases Nos.143 of 1999 and 72 of 2000, relating to the same Employer, but other workmen. In those Adjudication Cases, the witness appearing for the Sugar Mill has acknowledged the signatures of Sri S.K. Tanwar on the Letter of Authority appointing Sri Prabhat Gaud as the Authorized Representative to appear in those Adjudication Cases. The Labour Court has compared the signatures of the occupier on the three licenses for the three successive crushing seasons relied upon by the workman with those of the occupier on the Letters of Authority in Adjudication Cases Nos.143 of 1999 and 72 of 2000, that are admitted specimen of the occupier's signatures. The Labour Court has recorded on a comparison a positive finding that the signatures of the occupier, Sri Tanwar, that are admitted, and those on the licences issued to the workman for the three crushing seasons are similar. The Labour Court has also taken into consideration for the three successive crushing seasons' application made by the workman to the Collector for the issue of Weighment Clerk Licence. Each application bears a photograph of the workman attested by the occupier of the Employer (Sugar Mill). There is also an inspection report noticed by the Labour Court relating to the month of March, 1997, during which the workman was reported to be on duty at the Purchase Centre of the Employers functioning as Weighment Clerk.

32. In the face of all this evidence led by the workman and a mid season termination of engagement during the crushing season 1998-99 on 6th January, which going by the commencement of the season in the month of October, 1998, would make for a period of little over two months, the approach of the Labour Court cannot be said to be manifestly illegal in accepting the workman's case of seasonal engagement. This is particularly so as the Labour Court has remarked that the Employers, except for the two witnesses whose oral evidence has been led on their behalf, did not bring on record any document to rebut the workman's case, such as the Attendance Register or the Pay Roll.

33. There is one feature about the case which renders the case of the Employer, howsoever finely put to assail the impugned award unbelievable. It is the unfairness of the Employers' stand. The Employer has throughout pleaded a case that the workman was never employed with them. The workman has brought on record sufficient evidence to show that the workman was indeed engaged by the Employer as a Weighment Clerk during the crushing seasons 1995-96, 1996-97 and 1997-98. The occupier's signatures on the Weighment Clerk's licence of the workman attesting his photograph, and also on the application made each year by the workman to the District Magistrate for the issue of that licence also attesting his photograph is no mean proof of the workman's engagement during those crushing seasons. The Employers after taking the stand that the workman had nothing to do with their establishment, were certainly obliged to lead documentary evidence to establish their case of non-association with the workman or to establish at least a case that the workman's engagement was not seasonal. It is further held that the workman is a seasonal hand within the meaning of Clause B. 1(2) or (3) of the Standing Orders, covering the conditions of employment of workman in Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories in U.P.

34. Now, this being the conclusion on the questions, it must be held that the impugned award passed by the Labour Court is based on a plausible view of the evidence on record and does not suffer from any such manifest illegality or patent error as to invite interference by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution insofar as the Labour Court's conclusion and findings are concerned.

35. Turning to the question of relief that the Labour Court has granted, it has been ordered that the workman be reinstated in service from the current season (current at the time when the impugned award was made) and that he be given other admissible benefits. It has further been order that for deprivation of engagement during the past crushing seasons, a sum of Rs.5000/- be paid in compensation and Rs.1000/- in costs towards litigation. The impugned award was made on 31.10.2000 and this petition was admitted to hearing on 14.02.2002, when the operation of the said award was ordered to remain stayed till further orders. The impugned award has remained inoperative ever-since. A perusal of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the workman, dated 28.08.2002 shows that he was aged 39 years in the February of the year 2002. Reckoning the workman's age by the passage of time, he would be aged about 57 years. The workman has been out of employment since January, 1999, which reckons his period of disassociation with the work to which he has been ordered to be reinstated as 21 years. At this distance of time and the workman's age, it would not be feasible to order the Employers to reinstate him as a seasonal hand in their establishment. But, the termination of the workman's engagement being found to be unlawful and improper, ends of justice would be met by ordering the petitioner-Employers to pay the workman a lump sum of Rs.5 lakhs within two months of the date of this judgment. Any delayed payment of this money in lump sum, in lieu of reinstatement, will carry interest at Bank Rate from the expiry of two months of this judgment, till realization in accordance with law.

36. The writ petition is partly allowed and the impugned award of the Labour Court stands modified accordingly. There shall be no order as to costs.

1. Heard Sri Shashi Nandan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Udayan Nandan, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General for the State and Sri Rakesh Pandey, learned Senior Advocate holding brief of Sri Pramod Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the intervener.

2. The petitioner before this Court is an elected Pramukh of Kshetra Panchayat, Haseran, district Kannauj. While discharging his duties as such, as many as eight members, namely, Sri Pushpendra Singh @ Firu Singh, Sri Yogendra Singh, Sri Firu Singh, Smt. Santosh, Smt. Soni, Sri Ranjit, Sri Ram Vilas and Sri Suresh Chandra of the Kshetra Panchayat concerned made same complaint to the Additional Chief Secretary of the Panchyati Raj Department, U.P. Lucknow on 2nd February, 2018 supported by their individual affidavits regarding financial irregularities and favoritism and nepotism in acceptance of a tender for the development work. Considering the said complaint, the Special Secretary, Government of U.P. Lucknow exercising power so vested in the State Government under the Uttar Pradesh Panchayat Raj (Removal of Pradhans, Up-Pradhans and Members) Enquiry Rules, 1997 (hereinafter referred to as rules), directed for preliminary enquiry by the State Government under Rule 4 of the said rules vide order dated 7th March, 2018. The District Magistrate, consequently, issued a direction on 17th March, 2018 appointing Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), Kannauj to hold enquiry and submit report within seven days so that report may be submitted to the State Government within 15 days as per Rules. The Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue) Kannauj proceeded to hold preliminary enquiry and fixed 28th March, 2018 directing Block Development Officer to inform all the persons concerned who had made complaint to appear before him at 4:00 pm. Notices were separately issued also by the Additional District Magistrate to all the 8 complainants to appear before him at 4:00 pm in his office. There is document available on record dated 28th March, 2018, in which Sub Divisional Magistrate has intimated the Additional District Magistrate about due service of notice upon the complainant in the matter. As per schedule, enquiry officer held his enquiry on 28th March, 2018 and the complainants did appear and filed their statements.

3. From the perusal of the original records, it also transpires that on the date fixed before Additional District Magistrate as many as 16 members besides the complainant had also appeared and made their respective statements as well as filed notary affidavits in writing. It is after holding meeting as per schedule, the Additional District Magistrate concluded preliminary enquiry and submitted a report to the District Magistrate on 7th April, 2018 recording findings to the effect that from the perusal of the documents and enquiry conducted and the scrutiny of complaints made by Pushpendra Singh and other complainants, he did not find any substantial evidence in support of complaints nor, the complainants were able to produce any substantial evidence in support of their complaints.

4. The operative portion of the report dated 7.4.2018 which is in devnagari script is reproduced hereunder:

"उपरोक्त सम्पूर्ण जांच एवं अभिलेखीय साक्ष्यों से स्पष्ट होता है कि श्री पुष्पेन्द्र सिंह आदि क्षेत्र पंचायत सदस्य आदि द्वारा की गयी शिकायती प्रार्थना पत्र में लगाये गये आरोपों के सम्बन्ध में शिकायतकर्तागण कोई ऐसे ठोस साक्ष्य/ तथ्य उपलब्ध नही करा पाये जिससे शिकायत का बल मिलता हो । जांच आख्या उपरोक्तनुसार सेवा में प्रेषित है ।"

5. It also transpires from the record that some complaint was made by Yogendra Singh and Pushpendra Singh and members of Kshetra Panchayat separately on 2nd April, 2018 in which they requested the District Magistrate that there was undue influence exercised by the petitioner upon the members of the Kshetra Panchayat and, therefore, affidavits were submitted in terrarum by the members and so the fresh enquiry should be conducted by joint team consisting of Rural Development Authority and Public Works Department to verify the facts.

6. It appears that District Magistrate, instead of forwarding report dated 7th April, 2018, proceeded to issue a fresh direction on 16.4.2018 to get the enquiry held afresh by a team consisting of three officials each of Public Works Department, P.M.G.S.Y, Kannauj and, Finance and Accounts Officer of Secondary Educational Department, Kannauj. However, on the same day the District Magistrate passed another order on 16th April, 2018 directing constitution of four member committee and this time it included an additional member of (District Rural Development Authority (DRDA) and Executive Engineer of P.M.G.S.Y, Kannauj. This four member Committee proceeded to hold enqiry and submitted a report on 6th July, 2018. The Additional District Magistrate taking into account the report of the four member committee further proceeded to prepare another report in the name of preliminary enquiry and submitted this report on 16th August, 2018 and it is this report that was forwarded by the District Magistrate to the Special Secretary U.P. Panchayati Raj Department, Lucknow.

7. The operative portion of the finding of preliminary enquiry report is also reproduced hereunder:

"अतः पूरे प्रकरण के अवलोकन में पाया गया है कि श्री पुष्पेन्द्र व फीरू सिंह को छोडकर अन्य श्रीमती सोनी, श्रीमती सन्तोष, श्री योगेन्द्र कुमार, श्री रंजीत, श्री रामविलास, तथा श्री सुरेशचन्द्र क्षेत्र पंचायत सदस्यों/ शिकायतकर्ताओ द्वारा प्रस्तुत शपथ पत्रों के खण्डन करते हुए यह कहा गया है कि उनके द्वारा आर0डी0 बनावाने तथा कार्य दिलवाने के बहाने उनसे कोरे स्टाम्प पर हस्ताक्षर श्री पुष्पेन्द्र सिंह क्षेत्र पंचायत सदस्य द्वारा कराये गये हैं, तथा उक्त शपथ पत्रों को ब्लाक प्रमुख श्री उमांशंकर बेरिया को हटाने के लिए उपयोग किया गया है, जिसका उन्होंने प्रार्थना पत्र, शपथ पत्र तथा बनयान अंकित कराकर खण्डन किया गया है । यह भी कहा गया है कि श्री उमाशंकर बेरिया द्वारा गये कार्य सन्तोषजनक है । गठित टीम द्वारा जांच के सम्बन्ध में भी क्षेत्र पंचायत सदस्यों व निर्माण समिति के अध्यक्ष द्वारा बयानों में कहा है कि उक्त चारो कार्यों के नमूना किसके सामने लिये गये तथा किस प्रयोगशाला से जांच करायी गयी है । पूर्व में उक्त कार्यो के नमूने लेकर चारों निर्माण कार्य में प्रयुक्त इण्टरलॉकिंग ईंटों का क्वालिटी कन्ट्रोलर प्रयोगशाला मैनपुरी द्वारा जांच कराकर ही भुगतान दिया गया है । उक्त चारों मार्गों की जांच ग्राम विकास विभाग के कार्यों हेतु गठित टी0ए0सी0 के द्वारा भी जांच की जा चुकी है । जबकि जांच टीम द्वारा अपनी आख्या में

उक्त कार्यों में प्रयुक्त निर्माण सामग्री अधोमानक पायी गयी है ।

जांच आख्या महोदय की सेवा में उचित कार्यवाही हेतु प्रेषित है ।"

8. The State Government issued a show cause notice on 23rd October, 2018 to the petitioner to submit his reply/explanation within 15 days, failing which appropriate action shall be taken taking recourse to the powers under the Act of 1961. The petitioner before submitting the reply demanded certain papers/documents which were not legible and were part of the compilation consisting of 213 pages, vide letter dated 3rd December, 2018 and made reminder on 29.12.2018, however, it is submitted that those letters of the petitioner remained unanswered and ultimately vide order dated 8th February, 2019 passed by respondent no. 1, final enquiry has been directed as per 1997 Enquiry Rules, but at the same time taking recourse to the proviso , the financial and administrative powers of the petitioner have also been seized. Hence this petition.

9. Assailing the order, learned counsel for the petitioner has raised three fold arguments:

(a). Once preliminary enquiry was conducted by the Additional District Magistrate pursuant to the order passed by the District Magistrate in compliance of the direction issued by the State Government under Rule 4 and enquiry report was submitted on 7.4.2018, it was not open for the Additional District Magistrate to have directed for enquiry afresh for the second time without prior sanction from the State Government;

(b). The District Magistrate did not himself hold 2nd preliminary enquiry and illegally appointed a sub- committee nor, do the rules contemplate for any such exercise of power by the District Magistrate; and

(c). The District Magistrate was not justified in withholding the report dated 7.4.2018 and further the State Government was not justified in not submitting legible copies of the documents which were required by the petitioner and upon which much reliance was placed by the State Government recording prima facie opinion regarding financial and other irregularities at the end of the petitioner to denude him immediately of the financial and administrative power under Section 16 of the Act, 1961.

10. Before we proceed to consider the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner we would like to put the record straight. At the time when petition was initially argued and we made a pointed querry to the learned Standing Counsel as to whether there was any such preliminary enquiry report dated 7.4.2018 was already available with District Magistrate, it was argued by learned Standing Counsel that no such report was available nor, any order was passed for holding enquiry prior to 16.4.2018, the order that was passed for holding enquiry by the Additional District Magistrate and the enquiry report that was submitted by Additional District Magistrate on 16th April, 2018, it was in compliance thereof.

11. In order to verify this above statement made by learned Standing Counsel we summoned the original records in sealed cover and yesterday original records were produced in sealed cover was opened and was taken into Court's custody and matter was placed today for final argument and today the record has been thoroughly perused by us.

12. In the initial narration of the facts in this order, we have stated how enquiry was directed by the State Government under the order dated 7th March, 2018 and Additional District Magistrate was directed by the District Magistrate vide order dated 17th March, 2018 to submit report within 7 days and thereafter Additional District Magistrate proceeded to issue notice to the complainants and held meeting with them on 20th March, 2018 and finally submitted a report on 7th April, 2018. This preliminary enquiry report dated 7th April, 2018 is very much available in the original record and, therefore, statement made by learned Standing Counsel on the earlier occasion that no such report was available, turns out to be false one.

13. Now, Shri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General while defending the State action, has very fairly admitted that earlier enquiry report dated 07.04.2018 is very much available in record and also that the District Magistrate vide his order dated 17.03.2018 had nominated Additional District Magistrate to conduct fact finding preliminary enquiry and he submitted the report.

14. However, he has argued that since final enquiry has been ordered in the matter, it should be permitted to be brought to its logical end and as there are serious charges of the financial irregularities and acceptance of tender which is vitiated for nepotism and bias, the Court may not interfere with the order denuding the petitioner from its financial and administrative power. He submits that where public money and its misuse by abuse of position is in issue, Court would be reluctant in allowing such person to retain such power pending final enquiry.

15. Before we proceed to examine this above argument raised by learned Additional Advocate General, we are reminded of a settled legal principle that when something is required under the Act or Rules framed therein to be done in a particular manner, then such thing should be done in that very manner only. We are resided of the judgment of the Apex Court [(2016) 6 SCC 323 State of Kerala v. Kerala Rare Earth and Minerals Ltd.] wherein the derptive "Quando Aliquid Prohibetur Ex Directo, Prohibetur Et Per Obliquum" was taken into account and the Court held that it is well settled that if law requires a particular thing to be done in a particular manner, then, in order to be valid the act must be done in the prescribed manner only. The Court relied upon another judgment in the case of CIT v. Anjum M.H. Ghoswala (2002) 1 SCC 633, wherein specially for the bench Hegde 'J' observed "it is a normal rule of construction that when a statute vests certain power in an authority to be exercised in a particular manner then the said authority has to exercise it only in the manner provided therein...".

16. In the matter of investigation the Apex Court in the case of State of Andhra Pradesh v. Visvanadula Chetti Babu (2010) 15 SCC 103 has taken the same view. In this case the question under consideration was that the authority to investigate under the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Rules, 1995. Rule 7 of Rules provided for investigation by a police officer not below the rank of a Deputy Superintendent of Police. Vide para 4 the Apex Court held thus:

"We are, therefore, of the opinion that in view of the clear mandate of the Rules, it was only a specified Deputy Superintendent of Police who could investigate an offence under the Act. An investigation done by any officer below that rank and not specified as per Rule 7 would not be entitled to investigate any such offence. In the present matter the investigation has been made by an officer of the rank of an Assistant Sub-Inspector of Police. This was not permissible. We endorse the judgment of the High Court in this respect."

17. And again in the case of Dipak Babaria v. State of Gujarat (2014) 3 SCC 502, vide para 61 has held thus:

"61. It is well settled that where the statute provides for a thing to be done in a particular manner, then it has to be done in that manner and in no other manner. This proposition of law laid down in Taylor Vs. Taylor (1875) 1 Ch D 426,431 was first adopted by the Judicial Committee in Nazir Ahmed Vs. King Emperor reported in AIR 1936 PC 253 and then followed by a bench of three Judges of this Court in Rao Shiv Bahadur Singh Vs. State of Vindhya Pradesh reported in AIR 1954 SC 322. This proposition was further explained in paragraph 8 of State of U.P. Vs. Singhara Singh by a bench of three Judges reported in AIR 1964 SC 358 in the following words:-

"8. The rule adopted in Taylor v. Taylor is well recognised and is founded on sound principle. Its result is that if a statute has conferred a power to do an act and has laid down the method in which that power has to be exercised, it necessarily prohibits the doing of the act in any other manner than that which has been prescribed. The principle behind the rule is that if this were not so, the statutory provision might as well not have been enacted...."

This proposition has been later on reiterated in Chandra Kishore Jha Vs. Mahavir Prasad reported in 1999 (8) SCC 266, Dhananjaya Reddy Vs. State of Karnataka reported in 2001 (4) SCC 9 and Gujarat Urja Vikas Nigam Limited vs. Essar Power Limited reported in 2008 (4) SCC 755.

18. Thus, it is not the ultimate result which is of vital importance but procedure that has been adopted in achieving the end result is of equal importance. The procedural aspect of the matter acquires more significance while testing an ultimate action on a testing anvil of Article 14 of the Constitution in order to uphold such an action.

19. In so far as the controversy in question is concerned, the source of power as has come to be exercised in the present case is the U.P. Kshettra Panchayats and Zila Panchayats (Removal of Pramukhs and Up-Pramukhs, Adhyakshas and Updhyakshas) Enquiry Rules, 1997, (In short Enquiry Rules). The procedure relating to the complaints has been prescribed for under Rule 3 of the Enquiry Rules whereas Rule 4 provides for the preliminary enquiry that the State Government may on receiving of the complaints, so order in order to get finding to the effect that prima facie case for formal enquiry is involved in the matter of complaint. Rule 5 provides for power to the State Government for holding a formal enquiry, if in the opinion of the State Government, it is imperative in view of the report submitted under Sub-Rule 2 of the Rule 4 and then Rule 6 lays down the procedure for the formal enquiry. For the purpose of the controversy involved in the present case. Rules 4 and 5 are relevant and, therefore, are reproduced hereunder in their entirety:

4. Preliminary Enquiry--(1) The State Government may, on the receipt of complaint referred to in Rule 3 or otherwise appoint an officer not below the rank of an Additional District Magistrate in the case of Pramukh or Up-Pramukh and District Magistrate in the case of an Adhyaksha or Upadhyaksha to conduct a preliminary enquiry with a view to finding out if there is a prima facie case for a formal enquiry in the matter.

(2) The Officer appointed under sub-rule (1) shall conduct the preliminary enquiry as expeditiously as possible and submit his report to the State Government within a fortnight of his having been so appointed.

5. Enquiry Officer- Where the State Government is of the opinion, on the basis of the report referred to in sub-rule (2) of Rule 4 that an enquiry should be held against a Pramukh or Up-Pramukha under Section 16 or gainst an Adhyaksha or Upadhyaksha under Section 29, it shall, by an order, appoint an officer to hold the enquiry, who shall not be below the rank of the District Magistrate in the case of an enquiry under Section 16, and not below the rank of a Commissioner in the case of an enquiry under Section 29.

(Emphasis added)

20. From bare reading of Rule 4, it is clear that after complaint is received as per procedure prescribed under Rule 3 or even suo motu, the State Government can exercise power for holding preliminary enquiry into the conduct of Pramukhs or Up-Pramukhs, Adhyakshas or Upadhyakshas by appointing officer not below the rank of Additional District Magistrate and District Magistrate respectively. Sub-rule 2 provides for such enquiry officer conducting preliminary enquiry, to accomplish the task quite expeditiously and submit report within a fortnight of his appointment as enquiry officer.

21. Examining the case in hand in the light of provisions contained under Rule 4, we find that after complaints were received under the signatures of as many as 8 members, the State Government through its Secretary, vide order dated 17th March, 2018 directed the District Magistrate to hold preliminary enquiry. Vide letter dated 17th March, 2018, the District Magistrate authorized the Additional District Magistrate to hold enquiry and submit the fact finding report within 7 days, so that report may be submitted to the State Government within 15 days as per Enquiry Rules.

22. The records produced before us contain the documents to the effect that Additional District Magistrate proceeded to hold preliminary enquiry fixing dated 28th March, 2019 and directed the Sub Divisional Magistrate to inform all the complainants to appear before him at 4:00 pm. Sub Divisional Magistrate also intimated the Additional District Magistrate on 28th March, 2018 that the notices got duly served and so also records disclose that preliminary enquiry as ordered was held on 28th March, 2018 and complainants did appear and filed their statements. The Additional District Magistrate thereafter submitted report on 7th April, 2018 recording finding to the effect that from the perusal of the documents and enquiry conducted no substantial evidence was found in support of the complaints.

23. Thus, as far as procedure for holding preliminary enquriy as prescribed for under Rule 4 is concerned, it stood complied with and to that extent the task stood accomplished by 7th April, 2018 but records reveal that the District Magistrate instead of fowarding the report dated 7th April, 2018, directed the enquiry to be held afresh by a team consisting of 3 officials and then enlarged the team with four members on same day i.e. 16.4.2018. As far as this 2nd part of the procedure adopted by the District Magistrate vide order dated 16.4.2018 is concerned , we do not find any such provision of law whereunder District Magistrate is authorized to exercise discretion to hold enquiry for the second time in the face of fact that earlier preliminary enquiry report was pending consideration. We do find any provision whereby the District Magistrate has been authorized to appoint a committee to conduct enquiry. The Rule is worded like this "officer not below the rank of Additional District Magistrate and officer shall himself authorized a person to hold enquiry by the District Magistrate or the Additional District Magistrate" and so under the said Rule he is not authorized to sub-delegate the power by constituting a committee. Rule 4 can not in any manner be interpreted to hold that it contemplates the constitution of any such committee as has come to be formed in the present case and, therefore, we have no hesitation in holding that the order dated 16.4.2018 passed by the Additional District Magistrate appointing committee to hold enquiry was beyond scope of power vested with him under Rule 4 of the Enquiry Rules. The doctrine delegatus non potest delegare in the case of NGEF Ltd. v. Chandra Developers Pvt. Ltd. & Others (2005) 8 SCC 219 has come to be discussed by the Apex Court and vide para 69 the Court has held thus:

"69. BIFR admittedly had the power to sell the assets of the Company but the High Court until a winding-up order is issued does not have the same. BIFR in its order dated 02.08.2002 might have made an observation to the effect that the Company may approach the High Court in case it intended to dispose of its property by private negotiation but the same would not mean that BIFR could delegate its power in favour of the High Court. BIFR being a statutory authority in absence of any provision empowering it to delegate its power in favour of any other authority had no jurisdiction to do so. 'Delegatus non potest delegare' is a well-known maxim which means unless expressly authorized a delegatee cannot sub-delegate its power. Moreover, the said observations of BIFR would only mean that the Company Court could exercise its power in accordance with law and not dehors it. If the Company Court had no jurisdiction to pass the impugned order, it could not derive any jurisdiction only because BIFR said so."

24. Coming to the 2nd aspect of the matter which is relating to Rule 5, we find that in the impugned order the Secretary while directing for formal enquriy has placed reliance only upon the report of preliminary enquiry dated 6th July, 2018 submitted by the committee and then consequential report dated 16th August, 2018 forwarded by the District Magistrate as his report to the Special Secretary U.P Panchayat Raj Department Lucknow.

25. We see that the records produced before us clearly reveal that report dated 7th April, 2018 was also available on record and yet the said report did not find any consideration in the order of Joint Secretary dated 18th February, 2019 impugned in the present writ petition. All that is referred to is the report of the District Magistrate dated 16.8.2018. The fact finding enquiry report of the committee constituted by the District Magistrate under the order dated 16.4.2018 and the contents as have come up in his re-commendatory report dated 16.8.2018 are the same. The District Magistrate, it is proved beyond doubt, virtually did not hold himself any enquiry, instead, submitted a report of the sub committee as his report incorporating the same in his re-commendatory enquiry report dated 16.8.2018.

26. Rule 5 of the enquiry rules provide for 'opinion of the Government'. An opinion would naturally be formed upon the report submitted under Rule 4. So when two reports are submitted to the State Government and one was in compliance of the initial letter issued by the State Government as preliminary enquiry report which was to be submitted within three weeks, there is no justification as to why the Secretary would not refer to that report and would not consider the said report submitted well within time.

27. As the records reveal, the District Magistrate proceeded to hold an enquiry second time on the basis of some complaint made by certain members, but such enquiry would not come within the scope of his authority as prescribed for under Rule 4. Second enquiry report, therefore, not being as contemplated under the enquiry rules but got ordered by the District Magistrate without any sanction/ request from the State, the order was void, and so the report would also be void and non est and deserves rejection. The procedure which has been laid down under Rule 4 as we have discussed above in this judgment it is very clear that Additional District Magistrate and District Magistrate are the only officers or the officers of their rank who can hold enquiry.

28. Under the circumstances, the report which should have been relied upon by the Secretary and yet if he has passed the order for formal enquiry ignoring that report, earlier submitted by the competent authority within time as contemplated under Rule 4, such an opinion formed by the authority can only be termed to be biased one. The two reports were available and there are no justifiable reasons for not considering the first report while passing order impugned. Thus the order impugned directing for formal enquiry, therefore, deserves to be quashed and is accordingly hereby quashed.

29. The writ petition succeeds and is allowed in above terms with cost.

A. Adjudication Case - Industrial Dispute between Workman and Employer - Benefit of the Workman - Claim for Designation as Routine Grade Clerk and grant of the pay scale - Labour Court passed Impugned award in favour of workman - Parole Evidence entirely based on the workman certificate only without any corroboration by evidence aliunde of the employer - Decision remaining ex parte and perverse.

Held, it is quite reflective while writing the impugned award the Labour Court has completely ignored from consideration which was raised as a plea before it on behalf of the Employers. This part of theLabour Court's finding is manifestly illegal inasmuch as the Employersbeing ex parte, they certainly had no avenue to lead evidence that theLabour Court closed for them; and that too, in error, in the consideredopinion of this Court. The workman and the petition are defended by his legal heirs and there is no issue about reinstatement. The workman, however, was reinstated in service pendingthis petition. While he was in service, he hadreceived emoluments as a Routine Grade Clerk by dint of the interimorder passed by this Court.The workman has rendered services to the employer, under whatever circumstances, and that fact is not in dispute.

In view of the said circumstances, notwithstanding the fact that the an impugned award cannot be sustained, there is no basis to order recovery from the workman's heirs or so to speak, from the estate of the workman in the hands of his heirs (para 18 and 24) In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition has been instituted by the Executive Engineer, U.P. State Electricity Board, Division-1, Farrukhabad and the U.P. State Electricity Board, Lucknow through its Chairman, challenging an award of the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, 2nd, Kanpur dated 23.08.1990 (published on 20.11.1990), made in Adjudication Case No. 56 of 1988 between the two petitioners and their workman, Data Ram, respondent no. 2, now represented by his heirs and legal representatives, respondent Nos. 2/1, 2/2, 2/3.

2. It is common ground between the parties that the U.P. State Electricity Board, Lucknow which was a body corporate during the relevant period of time has since been dissolved and reorganized by virtue of the U.P. Electricity Reforms Act, 1999. Now, the former U.P. State Electricity Board is replaced and renamed as the U.P. Power Corporation Limited and all its officers are now officers of the U.P. Power Corporation Limited. Accordingly, on an impleadment application made on behalf of the U.P. Power Corporation, the description of the petitioners has been permitted to be made in the manner that petitioner no. 1 has been rearrayed as the Executive Engineer, U.P. Power Corporation Limited, Electricity Division, Farrukhabad and petitioner no. 2 as the U.P. Power Corporation Limited, Lucknow through its Chairman.

3. The two petitioners together are hereinafter referred to as "the Employers whereas respondent Nos. 2/1, 2/2 and 2/3 shall be called 'the workman'. It appears that for the benefit of the workman the Workers' Union, to wit, the Hydro Electric Employees Union, 7 Sarojni Nagar, Lucknow raised an industrial dispute which in due course was referred by the State Government under Section 4K of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act (for short, 'the Act') to the adjudication of Presiding Officer, Labour Court, 2nd, U.P., Kanpur vide a reference order dated 13.09.1988 in the following terms (translated into English from Hindi vernacular) :

"Whether the Employers are obliged to designate their workman Dataram s/o Sri Jalim Prasad as Routine Grade Clerk with effect from 01.01.1988? If yes, with what particulars?"

4. On the basis of the aforesaid reference, Adjudication Case No. 56 of 1988 was registered on the file of the Labour Court, 2nd, U.P. Kanpur on 01.10.1988 and summonses were issued to the Employers and the workman requiring them to enter appearance and file their written statements, together with documents on 08.11.1988. Both parties appeared before the Labour Court on 28.11.1988 to which the proceedings were adjourned on 08.11.1988, as on the latter date the Presiding Officer was on leave. A written statement dated 03.12.1988 was filed on behalf of the Employers whereas the workman filed his written statement, which is a document dated 15.12.1988. The workman filed a rejoinder statement dated 01.02.1989.

5. The case of the workman pleaded in his written statement, in substance, is to the effect that he is working with the Employers on daily wage basis as a Routine Grade Clerk, but against a sanctioned post since the year 1977. He has been assigned all kinds of duties which a Routine Grade Clerk may discharge. The workman has done his Masters (M.A.) and is the member of a Scheduled Caste. It is pleaded that the Employers had decided that workmen on daily wages, who have been working on the post of a Routine Grade Clerk, would not be retrenched. It is also a plea in the written statement that between the Employers and the Government decisions have been taken from time to time that workmen employed on the muster roll and workmen already in harness of the Employers, ought be accorded priority in the matter of appointment.

6. In this connection, a reference is made to the report of a certain Tandon Committee and further decisions taken by the Employers, and the Government, in consequence of which with effect from 01.01.1988, several hundred workmen have been regularized. It is also pleaded that the Employers had issued an order that reservation quota for the Scheduled Castes may not be filled up by recruitment of outsiders. Instead, the workmen already on muster roll, or those working on an adhoc basis or part time, including those engaged in leave vacancies, may be considered for recruitment under the said quota. It is also asserted by the workman that the Employers have vacancy in their establishment and on that account too, the workman ought to be designated as a Routine Grade Clerk and paid his salary in the regular scale.

7. The further case of the workman is that he has turned overage and ineligible for employment elsewhere. The workman has rendered regular service for the past many years, putting in more than 240 days in each year. The workman has pleaded that under orders of the Employers a workman who has completed 240 days of services, is entitled to regularization. It is also pleaded that a large number of workmen junior to the workman, and also of comparatively feeble merit, have been appointed Routine Grade Clerks. On the basis of a case to the above effect, the workman has asked to be designated as a Routine Grade Clerk and placed in the regular pay-scale.

8. It must be remarked here that, in substance, the workman has asked for a relief of regularization in service as a Routine Grade Clerk that has been cast in an unfamiliar mould, to say that the workman may be designated as a Routine Grade Clerk, and given that pay-scale. Thus, the industrial dispute that the workman has raised, is, in substance, a claim for regularization.

9. The Employers in the written statement have pleaded that the workman never worked for them after 20.07.1979, and on that basis taken an objection that the industrial dispute is one raised after a long delay of nine years. It is a stale claim and on that ground deserves to be rejected. It is pleaded that the Employers are a State corporate establishment under Section 5 of the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1948. Under Section 79 (c) of the Act, last mentioned, the Employers are empowered to frame service conditions for their employees. The workman was hired from time to time, according to requirement and availability of work by the Electricity Commercial Division, Farrukhabad as a workman borne on the muster roll - engaged against leave vacancies. The contingent requirement of work came to an end on 20.07.1979, whereafter the workman was not engaged. It was also disputed that the workman ever completed 240 days service on the post of a Routine Grade Clerk. It is asserted that appointment on the post of a Routine Grade Clerk is made through a process of selection by the Electricity Services Commission, after due advertisement of vacancies in newspapers. In paragraph no. 8 of the written statement there is a specific plea taken that no employee under the administrative control of the Superintending Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division, Farrukhabad borne on the muster roll has been absorbed in the regular establishment. As such, the workman has no right to ask for designation as a Routine Grade Clerk, with effect from 01.01.1988, which in any case, would not be in accordance with law.

10. In his rejoinder of the statement, the workman has pleaded to the objection regarding the claim being belated, where he has refuted the objection. He has asserted that there is no limitation prescribed for the purpose of raising an industrial dispute under the law. Also, the dispute has been raised after the Employers decided to regularize other workman. It is asserted that the contents of paragraph no. 3 of the written statement of the Employers are denied and that the workman had all along been functioning against a permanent post. In every year, the workman is claimed to have worked more than 240 days and more. It is also pleaded that the workman claims on the basis of his rights under the Act, where selection by the Electricity Services Commission has no relevance.

11. Again, assertions in paragraph no. 7 of the Employer's written statement have been denied and it is pleaded that it is not a case of direct appointment for the workman, but one of regularization. It must be remarked here that by this pleading in paragraph no. 7 of the rejoinder of the statement, the rather unconservative description of the workman's claim, described as designation for the workman as a Routine Grade Clerk and grant of pay-scale, stands demystified to transparently show by the workman's pleading that it is afterall, a claim for regularization.

12. The workman has filed some 19 documents. Most of these documents are Board Orders, one is a Government Order, still another a Report, one is an Office Memorandum of the Board carrying the report of the Tandon Committee dated 2nd September, 1976. These documents do provide about rights of regularization in service to workmen borne on the muster roll, including Routine Grade Clerks, subject to the Clerks passing the prescribed examinations and typing tests etc. But, most of these do not relate to the workman's record of engagement with the Employers, except for a few of these documents which are relevant. It must also be noticed here that of the documents that are relevant directly to the workman's rights, there is on record a certificate from the Executive Engineer, Electricity Commercial Division, Farrukhabad dated 31.08.1982, indicating the period of the workman's engagement as a Routine Grade Clerk and as a Class IV employee, put together, between 30.09.1977 to 28.02.1979. This document alone has been exhibited by the Labour Court and taken into consideration. About this evidence and its impact on the rights of parties, more would be said later.

13. The workman also examined himself in support of his case and has been cross examined by the Employers. The Employers, on the other hand, have filed four documents through a list bearing Paper No. 17D but they could not lead any evidence as the proceedings were set down ex parte on 21.05.1990 and adjourned to 25.06.1990 for address of arguments. On 25.06.1990, an effort was made through an application to set aside the order dated 21.05.1990, ordering the proceedings to go ex parte but that application, bearing Paper No. 24D, was rejected by an order of that day. Arguments were heard on 25.06.1990 on behalf of the workman and judgment reserved, permitting the Employers to address the Court within a week, if they so desired.

14. Again, it has to be remarked here that permitting address of arguments to the Employers after reserving judgment formally on the ordersheets, is not only something odd but unlawful by all standards. Still, this Court thinks that in the domain of industrial adjudication which is far more informal than proceedings in Court, the aforesaid matter would remain an oddity that would not vitiate the award.

15. The Labour Court by means of the impugned award has answered the reference in favour of the workman, and has awarded, that the workman shall be entitled to be designated as a Routine Grade Clerk with effect from 01.01.1988 and the employers shall, accordingly, designate him. It has further been awarded that the workman would be entitled to his salary from the said date. Costs in the sum of Rs. 100/- have also been awarded. This Court, while entertaining this writ petition vide order dated 01.04.1991, issued notice pending admission and by an interim order of the said date, directed that the operation of the impugned award shall remain stayed, subject to the workman being reinstated by the Employers within one month of the order and payment of future wages, regularly. The writ petition was, lateron, admitted to hearing vide order dated 20.04.1992.

16. This Court has carefully perused the impugned award and also the records of the adjudication case, that were summoned from the Labour Court.

17. A perusal of the findings of the Labour Court shows that the Labour Court has concluded from the document filed as Exhibit W-1 that between the years 1977-78 and 1978-79, the workman did not put in 240 days of service in a year, but worked for 367 days, in all. This finding is based on a document issued by the Employers, and cannot, therefore, be possibly disputed by them. But, the other part of the workman's case that after those 367 days of work that he rendered with the Employers, he has been in their engagement as a Routine Grade Clerk, is based entirely on parole evidence of the workman, speaking for himself, without any corroboration by evidence aliunde. The Labour Court has concluded from the document which is a certificate by the Employer, marked as Exhibit W-1 and his oral evidence, to the effect that after July, 1979 he is working with the Electricity Distribution Division-1, Fatehgarh and that the workman is in regular employment as a Routine Grade Clerk. This conclusion from the evidence has been drawn by the Labour Court in the face of the Employers being set ex parte, where their right to lead evidence was closed, not for a very convincing reason and an application to recall the order, setting down proceedings ex parte, too was rejected. Though, the Employers appear to have supplied a number of documents that the workman has filed, on his application to summon those documents, still the Labour Court has held that the Employers have not supplied the required documents that the workman sought, to establish the time period and nature of his engagement. It is not at all clear as to what those documents are, that the Employers have not supplied.

18. The Labour Court has also observed much in error that it was the duty of the Employers to have established their case by producing documents in evidence, which they have not discharged. This part of the Labour Court's finding is manifestly illegal inasmuch as the Employers being ex parte, they certainly had no avenue to lead evidence that the Labour Court closed for them; and that too, in error, in the considered opinion of this Court. Moreover, the document that the workman has filed as Exhibit W-1, clearly depicts the Employers' case that the workman has served in broken spells, as a dailywager on muster roll, from 30.07.1977 to 28.02.1979. During all this period of time, the workman has been engaged as a muster roll employee, both as a Routine Grade Clerk and a Class-IV employee (peon). Most of these engagement have been in leave vacancies, and some to meet other contingencies. There is no independent evidence led by the workman to lend support to his case that until time when reference was made, or even thereafter, he was still retained by the Employers as a Routine Grade Clerk, working at Fatehgarh. A mere self serving testimony in the witness box with no corroborative independent evidence, cannot be held to prove the workman's case which the Labour Court has accepted, even with the Employer remaining ex parte. The conclusions drawn by the Labour Court from the evidence on record are perverse.

19. Now, once the workman has been out of employment since 28.02.1979, an industrial dispute raised in the year 1988, nine years after workman's exit from the Employer's establishment, is certainly a stale claim where it cannot be said that there was an industrial dispute still surviving at that distance of time. To raise this kind of a dispute under the circumstances, after nine years, leads to an inference that either the workman, and more likely the sponsoring union have contrived to create a ghost dispute to champertous ends, or it is all utterly ill-advised.

20. An authoritative statement of the law in regard to stale claims under the Industrial Disputes Act is to be found in the guidance of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Nedungadi Bank Ltd vs. K.P. Madhavankutty and others, (2002) 2 SCC 455, where it has been held:

6. Law does not prescribe any time-limit for the appropriate Government to exercise its powers under Section 10 of the Act. It is not that this power can be exercised at any point of time and to revive matters which had since been settled. Power is to be exercised reasonably and in a rational manner. There appears to us to be no rational basis on which the Central Government has exercised powers in this case after a lapse of about seven years of the order dismissing the respondent from service. At the time reference was made no industrial dispute existed or could be even said to have been apprehended. A dispute which is stale could not be the subject-matter of reference under Section 10 of the Act. As to when a dispute can be said to be stale would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. When the matter has become final, it appears to us to be rather incongruous that the reference be made under Section 10 of the Act in the circumstances like the present one. In fact it could be said that there was no dispute pending at the time when the reference in question was made. The only ground advanced by the respondent was that two other employees who were dismissed from service were reinstated. Under what circumstances they were dismissed and subsequently reinstated is nowhere mentioned. Demand raised by the respondent for raising an industrial dispute was ex facie bad and incompetent.

19. Even otherwise, the post of a Routine Grade Clerk was required to be filled up in accordance with Regulation 5(d) of the U.P. State Electricity Board Ministerial Establishment (Offices of the Chief Engineer and Other Subordinate Offices) Regulations, 1970 which mandates direct recruitment to be made on the basis of a competitive examination, conducted by the Electricity Services Commission. There is thus no other channel envisaged for the recruitment of Routine Grade Clerks in the service of the U.P. State Electricity Board. There is no way the statute would permit regularization of a casual hand on a post that is to be strictly filled up in accordance with statutory rules through a competitive examination.

20. In matters of the appointment under the State, after the decision of the Constitution Bench of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Secretary, State of Karnataka vs. Umadevi (3), (2006) 4 SCC 1, there is absolutely no space, consistent with the requirements of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution to secure through the mechanism of regularization, appointment as the one here, to a post under the State, borne on the public exchequer. It has been held in Umadevi (supra) thus:

"34. In A. Umarani v. Registrar, Coop. Societies [(2004) 7 SCC 112 : 2004 SCC (L&S) 918] a three-Judge Bench made a survey of the authorities and held that when appointments were made in contravention of mandatory provisions of the Act and statutory rules framed thereunder and by ignoring essential qualifications, the appointments would be illegal and cannot be regularised by the State. The State could not invoke its power under Article 162 of the Constitution to regularise such appointments. This Court also held that regularisation is not and cannot be a mode of recruitment by any State within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution or any body or authority governed by a statutory Act or the rules framed thereunder. Regularisation furthermore cannot give permanence to an employee whose services are ad hoc in nature. It was also held that the fact that some persons had been working for a long time would not mean that they had acquired a right for regularisation.

37. It is not necessary to multiply authorities on this aspect. It is only necessary to refer to one or two of the recent decisions in this context. In State of U.P. v. Neeraj Awasthi [(2006) 1 SCC 667 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 190] this Court after referring to a number of prior decisions held that there was no power in the State under Article 162 of the Constitution to make appointments and even if there was any such power, no appointment could be made in contravention of statutory rules. This Court also held that past alleged regularisation or appointment does not connote entitlement to further regularisation or appointment. It was further held that the High Court has no jurisdiction to frame a scheme by itself or direct the framing of a scheme for regularisation. This view was reiterated in State of Karnataka v. KGSD Canteen Employees' Welfare Assn. [(2006) 1 SCC 567 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 158 : JT (2006) 1 SC 84]

38. In Union Public Service Commission v. Girish Jayanti Lal Vaghela [(2006) 2 SCC 482 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 339 : (2006) 2 Scale 115] this Court answered the question, who was a government servant and stated: (SCC p. 490, para 12)

"12. Article 16 which finds place in Part III of the Constitution relating to fundamental rights provides that there shall be equality of opportunity for all citizens in matters relating to employment or appointment to any office under the State. The main object of Article 16 is to create a constitutional right to equality of opportunity and employment in public offices. The words "employment' or "appointment' cover not merely the initial appointment but also other attributes of service like promotion and age of superannuation, etc. The appointment to any post under the State can only be made after a proper advertisement has been made inviting applications from eligible candidates and holding of selection by a body of experts or a specially constituted committee whose members are fair and impartial through a written examination or interview or some other rational criteria for judging the inter se merit of candidates who have applied in response to the advertisement made. A regular appointment to a post under the State or Union cannot be made without issuing advertisement in the prescribed manner which may in some cases include inviting applications from the employment exchange where eligible candidates get their names registered. Any regular appointment made on a post under the State or Union without issuing advertisement inviting applications from eligible candidates and without holding a proper selection where all eligible candidates get a fair chance to compete would violate the guarantee enshrined under Article 16 of the Constitution (see B.S. Minhas v. Indian Statistical Institute [(1983) 4 SCC 582 : 1984 SCC (L&S) 26 : AIR 1984 SC 363])."

40. At this stage, it is relevant to notice two aspects. In Kesavananda Bharati v. State of Kerala [(1973) 4 SCC 225 : 1973 Supp SCR 1] this Court held that Article 14, and Article 16, which was described as a facet of Article 14, is part of the basic structure of the Constitution. The position emerging from Kesavananda Bharati [(1973) 4 SCC 225 : 1973 Supp SCR 1] was summed up by Jagannadha Rao, J. speaking for a Bench of three Judges in Indra Sawhney v. Union of India [(2000) 1 SCC 168 : 2000 SCC (L&S) 1 : 1999 Supp (5) SCR 229] . That decision also reiterated how neither Parliament nor the legislature could transgress the basic feature of the Constitution, namely, the principle of equality enshrined in Article 14 of which Article 16(1) is a facet. This Court stated: (Indra Sawhney case [(2000) 1 SCC 168 : 2000 SCC (L&S) 1 : 1999 Supp (5) SCR 229], SCC p. 202, paras 64-65)

"64. The preamble to the Constitution of India emphasises the principle of equality as basic to our Constitution. In Kesavananda Bharati v. State of Kerala [(1973) 4 SCC 225 : 1973 Supp SCR 1] it was ruled that even constitutional amendments which offended the basic structure of the Constitution would be ultra vires the basic structure. Sikri, C.J. laid stress on the basic features enumerated in the preamble to the Constitution and said that there were other basic features too which could be gathered from the constitutional scheme (para 506-A of SCC). Equality was one of the basic features referred to in the preamble to our Constitution. Shelat and Grover, JJ. also referred to the basic rights referred to in the preamble. They specifically referred to equality (paras 520 and 535-A of SCC). Hegde & Shelat, JJ. also referred to the preamble (paras 648, 652). Ray, J. (as he then was) also did so (para 886). Jaganmohan Reddy, J. too referred to the preamble and the equality doctrine (para 1159). Khanna, J. accepted this position (para 1471). Mathew, J. referred to equality as a basic feature (para 1621). Dwivedi, J. (paras 1882, 1883) and Chandrachud, J. (as he then was) (see para 2086) accepted this position.

65. What we mean to say is that Parliament and the legislature in this country cannot transgress the basic feature of the Constitution, namely, the principle of equality enshrined in Article 14 of which Article 16(1) is a facet."

21. The Supreme Court in Indian Drugs & Pharmaceuticals Ltd. vs. Workmen, (2007) 1 SCC 408 again dealing with the regularization of services of daily rated ad hoc or casual employees, on posts under the State or one of its instrumentalities have spoken for judicial restraint in such matter matters and held:

"40. The courts must, therefore, exercise judicial restraint, and not encroach into the executive or legislative domain. Orders for creation of posts, appointment on these posts, regularisation, fixing pay scales, continuation in service, promotions, etc. are all executive or legislative functions, and it is highly improper for Judges to step into this sphere, except in a rare and exceptional case. The relevant case-law and philosophy of judicial restraint has been laid down by the Madras High Court in great detail in Rama Muthuramalingam v. Dy. Supdt. of Police [AIR 2005 Mad 1] and we fully agree with the views expressed therein.

47. We are of the opinion that if the court/tribunal directs that a daily-rated or ad hoc or casual employee should be continued in service till the date of superannuation, it is impliedly regularising such an employee, which cannot be done as held by this Court in Secy., State of Karnataka v. Umadevi (3) [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] and other decisions of this Court.

48. In view of the above discussion, we are of the opinion that the orders of the Labour Court as well as the High Court were wholly unjustified and cannot be sustained for the reasons already mentioned above. The appeal is, therefore, allowed. The impugned judgments of the High Court and the Labour Court are set aside and the reference made to the Labour Court is answered in the negative. There shall be no order as to costs."

22. Again in a consistent vain, in a matter arising under the Labour Law, it has been held by the Supreme Court in BSNL v. Bhurumal, (2014) 7 SCC 177:

"34. The reasons for denying the relief of reinstatement in such cases are obvious. It is trite law that when the termination is found to be illegal because of non-payment of retrenchment compensation and notice pay as mandatorily required under Section 25-F of the Industrial Disputes Act, even after reinstatement, it is always open to the management to terminate the services of that employee by paying him the retrenchment compensation. Since such a workman was working on daily-wage basis and even after he is reinstated, he has no right to seek regularisation [see State of Karnataka v. Umadevi (3) [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753]]. Thus when he cannot claim regularisation and he has no right to continue even as a daily-wage worker, no useful purpose is going to be served in reinstating such a workman and he can be given monetary compensation by the Court itself inasmuch as if he is terminated again after reinstatement, he would receive monetary compensation only in the form of retrenchment compensation and notice pay. In such a situation, giving the relief of reinstatement, that too after a long gap, would not serve any purpose.

23. To the same effect are other decisions of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Chandra Shekhar Azad Krishi Evam Prodyogiki Vishwavidyalaya vs. United Trades Congress, (2008) 2 SCC 552 and Deputy Executive Engineer vs. Kuberbhai Kanjibhai, (2019) 4 SCC 307.

24. The Labour Court, while writing the impugned award has completely ignored from consideration this very pertinent aspect of the matter, though it was raised as a plea before it on behalf of the Employers. Now, the workman is no more and this petition, directed as it is against the impugned award is defended by his legal heirs. There is no issue about reinstatement. The workman, however, was reinstated in service pending this petition, in consequence of the conditional stay order passed by this Court on 01.04.1991. He served in the respondent's establishment from 29.10.1991 until his death on 26.04.2010. While he was in service, he had received emoluments as a Routine Grade Clerk by dint of the interim order passed by this Court. The workman has rendered services to the Employer, under whatever circumstances, and that fact is not in dispute. In view of the said circumstances, notwithstanding the fact that the impugned award cannot be sustained, there is no basis to order recovery from the workman's heirs, or so to speak, from the estate of the workman in the hands of his heirs.

25. It goes without saying also that recovery proceedings initiated by the workman through an application made on 28.01.2010 under Section 6H of the Act (incorrectly described as Section 33 (C) in the record of proceedings) before the Presiding Officer, Labour Court-II, U.P. Kanpur, would fall with the impugned award.

26. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned award dated 23.08.1990 passed by the Presiding Officer-II, U.P. Kanpur in Adjudication Case No. 56 of 1988, published on 20.11.1990, is hereby quashed. Costs shall go easy.

27. The Office is directed to return the Labour Court records forthwith to the Presiding Officer, Labour Court-II, U.P., Kanpur Nagar.

28. Let a copy of this order shall also be certified to the Presiding Officer, Labour Court-II, U.P., Kanpur forthwith.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. The present petition has been filed seeking to challenge the order dated 13.04.2004 passed by the Additional District Magistrate, Ghaziabad whereby the application filed by the petitioner seeking permission for transfer of certain land parcels had been turned down and also the order dated 11.10.2006 whereby the revision filed against the said order has also been rejected by the Additional Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut.

2. Contention on behalf of the petitioner is that permission had been sought under Section 157-A of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 19501 for the purposes of transfer of land by the petitioner who belongs to a scheduled caste, to a person not belonging to a scheduled caste.

3. It is stated that the land held by the petitioner on the date of the application was 2.656 hectares, and even after the proposed transfer for which permission was being sought the land remaining with the petitioner would be 1.698 hectares. It is further submitted that the land in question having not been received by the petitioner by way of lease or by virtue of the provisions contained under Section 122-B (4-F) of the ZA & LR Act the orders impugned rejecting his application for permission are erroneous and are legally unsustainable.

4. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondents has submitted that the plots in question bearing khasra no.412/1, area 0.266 hectares and khasra no.512, area 0.487 hectares were originally recorded in the names of Nanak Chand, Jai Singh, Jaipal and Kanwarpal, respectively, as bhumidhars with non-transferable rights.

5. It has been pointed out that these persons had been declared to be bhumidhars with transferable rights in terms of an order dated 29.12.1997 and they in turn had transferred the land parcels in favour of the petitioner and accordingly in view of the bar contained under sub-section (5) of Section 157-AA of the ZA & LR Act the petitioner had no further right to transfer the land before the expiry of a period of ten years from the date of transfer in his favour, and for the said reason the permission sought by the petitioner had been declined. It is contended that the orders impugned do not suffer from any illegality and the petition is liable to be dismissed.

6. Counsel for the parties have been heard.

7. The question which falls for consideration in the present case is with regard to the nature of the rights of a transferee under sub-section (1) of Section 157-AA to further transfer the land by way of sale or otherwise and the restrictions thereon.

8. In order to appreciate the controversy the relevant statutory provisions may be referred to.

9. Section 131-B, as inserted by U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms (Amendment) Act, 19952 with effect from January 14, 1995, was brought in with the main object to confer transferable rights on persons who were bhumidhars with non-transferable rights immediately before commencement of the aforementioned Amendment Act, 1995 and had been such bhumidhar for a period of ten years or more. Section 131-B referred to above is being extracted below:-

"131-B. Bhumidhar with non-transferable rights to become bhumidhar with transferable rights after ten years.--(1) Every person who was a bhumidhar with non-transferable rights immediately before the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms (Amendment) Act, 1995 and had been such bhumidhar for a period of ten years or more, shall become a bhumidhar with transferable rights on such commencement.

(2) Every person who is a bhumidhar with non-transferable rights on the commencement referred to in sub-section (1) or becomes a bhumidhar with non-transferable rights after such commencement, shall become bhumidhar with transferable rights on the expiry of period of ten years from his becoming a bhumidhar with non-transferable rights.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other provision of this Act, if a person, after becoming a bhumidhar with transferable rights under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), transfers the land by way of sale, he shall become ineligible for a lease of any land vested in Gaon Sabha or the State Government or of surplus land as defined in the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960."

10. Section 157-A provides for certain restrictions on transfer of land by members of scheduled castes. It provides that a bhumidhar or Asami belonging to a scheduled caste shall have no right to transfer any land by sale, gift, mortgage or lease to a person who does not belong to such a caste except with the previous approval of the Collector. The restrictions imposed on the bhumidhar or Asami belonging to a scheduled caste shall be without prejudice to the restrictions contained in Sections 153 to 157 of the Act.

11. Section 157-AA was inserted in terms of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms (Amendment) Act, 1997 (U.P. Act No.9 of 1997) with effect from May 23, 1997 providing for restrictions on transfer by members of scheduled castes becoming bhumidhar under Section 131-B.

12. Section 157-AA as inserted by the aforementioned Amending Act, is being reproduced below:-

"157-AA. Restrictions on transfer by member of Scheduled Castes becoming Bhumidhar under Section 131-B.--(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in Section 157-A, and without prejudice to the restrictions contained in Sections 153 to 157, no person belonging to Scheduled Caste having become a Bhumidhar with transferable rights under Section 131-B shall have the right to transfer the land by way of sale, gift, mortgage or lease to a person other than a person belonging to a Scheduled Caste and such transfer, if any, shall be in the following order of preference :--

(a) landless agricultural labourer;

(b) marginal farmer;

(c) small farmer; and

(d) a person other than a person referred to in clauses (a), (b) and (c).

(2) A transfer in favour of a person referred to in clause (a) of sub-section (1) shall be made in order of preference given below. If a person referred to in clause (a) is not available then transfer may be made to a person referred to in clause (b) of the said sub-section and if a person referred to in clause (b) is also not available then to a person referred to in clause (c) of the said sub-section and if a person referred to in clause (c) is also not available then to a person referred to in clause (d) of the said sub-section in the same order of preference :--

(a) first, to the resident of the village where the land is situate;

(b) secondly, if no person referred to in clause (a) is available, to the resident of any other village within the Panchayat area comprising the village where the land is situate;

(c) thirdly, if no person referred to in clauses (a) and (b) is available, to the resident of a village adjoining the Panchayat area comprising the village where the land is situate.

(3) If no person referred to in sub-section (1) belonging to a Scheduled Caste is available, the land may be transferred to a person belonging to a Scheduled Tribe in the order of preference given in sub-sections (1) and (2).

(4) No transfer under this sections shall be made except with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector concerned.

(5) A transferee of land under sub-section (1) shall have no right to transfer the land by way of sale, gift, mortgage or lease before the expiry of a period of ten years from the date of transfer in his favour."

13. Section 157-AA provides that no person belonging to scheduled caste having become a bhumidhar with transferable rights under Section 131-B shall have the right to transfer the land by way of sale, gift, mortgage or lease to a person other than a person belonging to a scheduled caste and the same shall be in the order of preference as contained sub-section (1) of the said section.

14. The provisions contained under Section 157-A and Section 157-AA both provide for restrictions on transfer of land by members of scheduled castes, but with a clear distinction. In terms of Section 157-A no bhumidhar or Asami belonging to a scheduled caste can transfer the land to a person not belonging to a scheduled caste except with the previous approval of the Collector whereas under Section 157-AA the restriction is to the effect that a person belonging to a scheduled caste having become a bhumidhar with transferable rights under Section 131-B shall have no right to transfer the land by sale or otherwise to any person other than a person belonging to a scheduled caste. The transfer under Section 157-AA would be permissible only to persons belonging to scheduled castes in the order of preference as prescribed under sub-section (1). The restriction on a scheduled caste with regard to the transfer of land in favour of a person who does not belong to a scheduled caste under Section 157-AA is thus absolute and such transfer is not permissible in any contingency. The restriction herein is more stringent since the land in question is a lease land and grant of agricultural lease contemplated under the ZA & LR Act is for specified object and purpose.

15. The language of sub-section (1) of Section 157-AA is such that even in case of a member of a scheduled caste acquiring transferable rights of a bhumidhar under Section 131-B who is desirous to transfer such land to another person belonging to the scheduled caste by way of sale, gift, mortgage or lease the right to transfer is not absolute and the transfer is permissible only in accordance with the preferences specified therein.

16. Sub-section (4) provides for a restraint whereunder no transfer under Section 157-AA is permissible without the previous approval of the Assistant Collector concerned. The language of sub-section (4) is expressed in wide terms and it covers all transfers which are contemplated under Section 157-AA, including a transfer which is to be made by a scheduled caste in favour of a scheduled caste also.

17. The restrictions provided for under Section 157-AA were made subject to a further condition with the insertion of sub-section (5), in Section 157-AA of the ZA & LR Act in terms of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms (Amendment) Act, 2002 (U.P. Act No.11 of 2002) with effect from June 21, 2002. Sub-section (5), referred to above, is being extracted below:-

"(5) A transferee of land under sub-section (1) shall have no right to transfer the land by way of sale, gift, mortgage or lease before the expiry of a period of ten years from the date of transfer in his favour."

18. This Court may take notice of the fact that the ZA & LR Act was enacted to provide for abolition of the zamindari system which involved intermediaries between the tiller of the soil and the State and for acquisition of their rights, title and interests and to reform the law relating to land tenure. The enforcement of the ZA & LR Act was with a view to simplify land tenure and bring about other consequent reforms to fulfill the needs of an egalitarian society. The abolition of the system of intermediaries between the State and the cultivators and the simplification of land tenure was aimed at paving way for distribution of land to the weaker sections of society according to the mandate of the Constitution of India3.

19. In a primarily agrarian economy where land continues to be the pivotal to both income and employment around which socio-economic privileges and deprivations revolve land reforms are seen as one of the principal instruments for creation of an egalitarian rural society in tune with the socialistic spirit, as provided in the Preamble and under Part IV of the Constitution. It has also been included in the Ninth Schedule so as to ensure speedy and unhindered implementation of various legislative measures.

20. The restrictions provided for the transfer of land by scheduled castes under Section 157-AA have been introduced in order to address the difficulties faced by members of scheduled castes and to protect their rights with regard to the use and control of land through land reforms by taking appropriate legislative measures.

21. The restrictions provided under Section 157-AA are founded on a reasonable basis inasmuch as these restrictions are in respect of a person belonging to a scheduled caste who has become a bhumidhar with transferable rights in terms of the provisions contained under Section 131-B. It is for the purpose of protecting the rights of members of the scheduled castes that the transfer under Section 157-AA is permissible only to a person belonging to a scheduled caste and that too in the order of preference as prescribed under sub-section (1) thereof whereunder the said transfer is to be in an order of preference being made firstly to a landless agricultural labourer, thereafter to a marginal farmer, a small farmer and only subsequent thereto to others. The aforementioned preferential order of transfer is further subject to the conditions under sub-section (2).

22. Sub-section (4) which is couched in a mandatory form provides an injunction against any transfer without the previous approval of the Assistant Collector. The language of sub-section (4) is in wide terms and it encompasses all transfers under Section 157-AA including a transfer by a member of scheduled caste in favour of another member of scheduled caste also.

23. The issue as to whether a transfer made by a leaseholder who belongs to a scheduled caste in favour of a person who also belongs to a scheduled caste would require the permission of the Assistant Collector fell for consideration in the case of Man Singh Vs. Commissioner, Bareilly Mandal & Ors. and upon considering the provisions contained under Section 157-AA it was stated as follows:-

"5. ...Section 157-AA contains a clear restriction that a person belonging to Scheduled Caste who have become bhumidhar with transferable rights under Section 131-B shall have no right to transfer to any person other than person belonging to Scheduled Caste. The transfer under Section 157-AA is permissible only to a person belonging to Scheduled Castes in the order of preference as prescribed in Sub-section (1). Thus, Scheduled Caste cannot transfer the land in favour of a person not belonging to Scheduled Caste in any contingency. Further, this restriction is on reasonable basis since land which has been contemplated under Section 157-AA is a land which is allotted to a person belonging to Scheduled Caste. The restriction is more stringent in this sub-section since the land is lease land and grant of agricultural lease is contemplated under the Act for the specified object and purpose. Much emphasis has been laid down by learned Counsel for the petitioner that Sub-section (1) of Section 157-AA will not apply when transfer is in favour of Scheduled Caste. Sub-section (4) of Section 157-AA contains an injunction to the effect that no transfer under this section shall be made except with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector concerned. Sub-section (4) is in a very wide terms when it refers to "transfer under this section". This clearly means that it embraces itself all the transfers which are contemplated in Section 157-AA. Thus, even if the transfer is by a Scheduled Caste in favour of a Scheduled Caste, it is fully covered by the restrictions contained under Sub-section (4) of Section 157-AA. In case, the interpretation as put by learned Counsel for the petitioner to Sub-section (4) of Section 157-AA is accepted, then the restrictions put under this Sub-section will be meaningless and redundant. There is valid reason for requiring previous permission of the Assistant Collector. The reason which is deciphered from the scheme of section is, that even the transfer by a Bhumidhar belonging to Scheduled Caste to a person belonging to Scheduled Caste shall be in accordance with the preference mentioned in Sub-section (1). A Scheduled Caste who is bhumidhar with transferable right under Section 131-B has no free choice of transfer to any Scheduled Caste of his own choice. The order of preference given under Sub-section (1) has its own object and purpose. The object obviously is that if transfer is made, the said transfer shall first go to landless agricultural labourer and thereafter to marginal farmer. The reason obviously is that the land being a lease land, the rights of a lessee have to be regulated in a manner which may advance the object and purpose of the Act. Thus, the prior approval of the Assistant Collector is contemplated which is obviously to consider and decide as to whether permission can be accorded and the transfer which is sought, is in accordance with the Scheme of Sub-section (1) of Section 157-AA. If no permission is required for a land to be transferred by Scheduled Caste to another Scheduled Caste, then there will be no stage of inquiry whether the transfer is in accordance with the preference given in Sub-section (1).

6. In view of the foregoing discussions, I am of the considered view that permission is also required when a transfer is made by a person belonging to Scheduled Caste who has become bhumidhar with transferable right under Section 131-B in favour of a person belonging to Scheduled Caste. In the present case, the transfer was made without any such permission and the courts below have rightly taken the view that transfer is void and consequences under Section 167 of the Act shall follow..."

24. The purpose and object of the provision being to protect and promote the rights of the scheduled castes with regard to the control and use of land by bringing about land reforms through legislative measures, the provisions under Section 157-AA have to be read so as to subserve the intent and purpose of the enactment.

25. It is beyond question the duty of courts, in construing statutes to give effect to the intent of the law making power and to seek for that intent in every way. The object and interpretation of construction of statutes is to ascertain the meaning of the legislature and to ensure that the provisions are interpreted so as to subserve that intent. There is a general presumption that an enactment has to be given a purposive construction with a construction that best gives effect to the purpose of the enactment.

26. Reference may be had to the judgment in R (on the application of Quintavalle) Vs. Secretary of State for Health, for the proposition that in construing an enactment effort should be made to give effect to the legislative purpose. The observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"8. The basic task of the Court is to ascertain and give effect to the true meaning of what Parliament has said in the enactment to be construed. ... Every statute other than a pure consolidating statute is, after all, enacted to make some change, or address some problem, or remove some blemish, or effect some improvement in the national life. The Court's task, within the permissible bounds of interpretation, is to give effect to Parliament's purpose. So the controversial provisions should be read in the context of the statute as a whole, and the statute as a whole should be read in the historical context of the situation which led to its enactment."

27. Similar observations were made in Stock Vs. Frank Jones (Tipton) Ltd., wherein it was held as follows:-

"Words and phrases of the English language have an extraordinary range of meaning. This has been a rich resource in English poetry (which makes fruitful use of the resonances, overtones and ambiguities), but it has a concomitant disadvantage in English law (which seeks unambiguous precision, with the aim that every citizen shall know, as exactly as possible, where he stands under the law). The first way says Lord Blackburn, of eliminating legally irrelevant meanings is to look to the statutory objective. This is the well-known canon of construction . . . which goes by the name of "the rule in Heydon's Case" (1584) 3 Co. Rep. 7b. (Nowadays we speak of the "purposive" or "functional" construction of a statute.)"

28. The Court's function, in view of the foregoing discussion, would thus be to construe the words used in an enactment, so far as possible, in a way which best gives effect to the purpose of the enactment.

29. The ZA & LR Act having been enacted with the objective of bringing about reforms in the law relating to land tenure, and the provisions contained under Section 157-AA having been inserted with a view to ensure protection of the rights of the scheduled castes in consonance with creation of an egalitarian rural society which would be in tune with the socialistic spirit of the Constitution the provisions contained therein have to be interpreted in a beneficent way so as to subserve the object of the enactment rather than to negate it.

30. In construing a remedial statute like the one above, courts are required to give the terms of the statute the widest amplitude which its language would permit.

31. The principle of applying a liberal construction to a remedial legislation has been emphasised in the Construction of Statues by Crawford in the following terms:-

"...Remedial statutes, that is, those which supply defects, and abridge superfluities, in the former law, should be given a liberal construction, in order to effectuate the purposes of the legislature, or to advance the remedy intended, or to accomplish the object sought, and all matters fairly within the scope of such a statute be included, even though outside the letter, if within its spirit or reason."

32. To a similar effect is the observation made by Blackstone in Construction and Interpretation of Laws8, which is as under:-

"It may also be stated generally that the courts are more disposed to relax the severity of this rule (which is really a rule of strict construction) in the case of statutes obviously remedial in their nature or designed to effect a beneficent purpose."

33. In the context of beneficial construction as a principle of interpretation, it has been observed in Maxwell on The Interpretation of Statutes as follows:-

"...where they are faced with a choice between a wide meaning which caries out what appears to have been the object of the legislature more fully, and a narrow meaning which carries it out less fully or not at all, they will often choose the former. Beneficial construction is a tendency, rather than a rule."

34. The principle of applying a liberal construction to a beneficial legislation having a social welfare purpose was reiterated in the case of Allahabad Bank & Anr. Vs. All India Allahabad Bank Retired Employees Association, and it was observed as follows:-

"16. ...Remedial statutes, in contradistinction to penal statutes, are known as welfare, beneficent or social justice oriented legislations. Such welfare statutes always receive a liberal construction. They are required to be so construed so as to secure the relief contemplated by the statute. It is well settled and needs no restatement at our hands that labour and welfare legislation have to be broadly and liberally construed having due regard to the Directive Principles of State Policy. The Act with which we are concerned for the present is undoubtedly one such welfare oriented legislation meant to confer certain benefits upon the employees working in various establishments in the country."

35. Reference may also be had to the case of Bharat Singh Vs. Management of New Delhi Tuberculosis Centre, New Delhi & Ors., where purposive interpretation safeguarding the rights of have-nots was preferred to a literal construction in interpreting a welfare legislation, and it was held as follows:-

"11. ...the court has to evolve the concept of purposive interpretation which has found acceptance whenever a progressive social beneficial legislation is under review. We share the view that where the words of a statute are plain and unambiguous effect must be given to them. Plain words have to be accepted as such but where the intention of the legislature is not clear from the words or where two constructions are possible, it is the court's duty to discern the intention in the context of the background in which a particular Section is enacted. Once such an intention is ascertained the courts have necessarily to give the statute a purposeful or a functional interpretation. Now, it is trite to say that acts aimed at social amelioration giving benefits for the have-nots should receive liberal construction. It is always the duty of the court to give such a construction to a statute as would promote the purpose or object of the Act. A construction that promotes the purpose of the legislation should be preferred to a literal construction. A construction which would defeat the rights of the have-nots and the underdog and which would lead to injustice should always be avoided..."

36. In the case at hand, the petitioner being a transferee of land having received the same by way of a sale from persons who had become bhumidhars with transferable rights under Section 131-B the restrictions contained under Section 157-AA would be fully attracted as also the provision contained in terms of sub-section (5) thereof whereunder no further transfer is permissible by a transferee of a land under sub-section (1) before the expiry of a period of ten years from the date of transfer in his favour.

37. Contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner that the land having been purchased by sale-deeds from the original tenure holders there was no requirement for complying with the provisions under Section 157-AA, is thus wholly without basis and cannot be accepted.

38. The rationale behind requiring the previous approval of the Assistant Collector for any transfer under Section 157-AA is not difficult to decipher since as per the terms of the scheme of the provision, even a transfer by a bhumidhar belonging to a scheduled caste to a person also belonging to a scheduled caste is to be in accord with the order of preference under sub-section (1).

39. It therefore follows that a member of a scheduled caste who has obtained the status of a bhumidhar with transferable rights under Section 131-B also does not have a free choice to transfer the land to any member of the scheduled caste. The transfer which is permissible is to be as per the preferences prescribed. The order of preference under sub-section (1) and sub-section (2) are clearly to subserve the purpose of the legislative enactment which is for furtherance of the objective of land reforms and to protect the vulnerable section of the society from injustice and exploitation.

40. The prior approval of the Assistant Collector as required under sub-section (4) is thus contemplated so as to ensure that the permission which is sought is in accord with the scheme of the provision under the Section 157-AA and as per the order of preference provided under sub-section (1).

41. The application of the petitioner seeking permission for transfer of the land parcels having been turned down for the reason that the permission sought was hit by sub-section (5) which creates a bar on a transferee of land under sub-section (1) to further transfer the land by way of sale or otherwise before the expiry of a period of ten years from the date of transfer in his favour, the orders impugned cannot be faulted with and the challenge sought to be raised in the present petition is legally unsustainable.

42. Counsel for the petitioner has not been able to dispute the aforementioned legal position with regard to the restrictions contained under Section 157-AA and in particular the restriction with regard to a transfer by a transferee within a period of ten years from the date of transfer in his favour.

43. No other ground was urged.

44. The writ petition thus lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

A. Constitution of India – Fundamental Rights – Nature – The text of the Constitution, is a conceptual philosophy of fundamental rights, and not an exhaustive guide to fundamental rights – The text of the Constitution is fixed, fundamental rights are always evolving. This is the essence of constitutional law jurisprudence – Evolution of constitutional law rights are guided and controlled by the text of the constitution, long settled judicial principles of interpretation of the constitution, and judicial precedents in point – The march of law is also assisted by consensus of values, in the comity of civilized nations. (Para 40 and 41)

B. Constitution of India – Article 21 – Human dignity – Means and Scope – Human dignity made a decisive contribution in the development of the rights of life and liberty, in jurisprudential systems of free societies across the world – Consistent and high authority have thus entrenched human dignity as fundamental to right to life, which flows from Article 21 of the Constitution of India. (Para 78, 107)

C. Constitution of India – Article 21 – Validity of Punishment – Imposed on delinquent student – Punishment has to be effective to serve its purpose; however, it cannot be purblind to human dignity, if it is to retain its constitutionality – Degree of injuries to self esteem, extent of degradation of human worth, depth of humiliation caused by the punishment, are facts to be probed in an enquiry into the validity of the punishment – Punishment for deviant conduct, cannot be so severe as to degrade human life. Every form of punishment should protect the essential sanctity of human life and comport with fundamental norms of decency evolved by a civilized society. (Para 118, 120 and 122)

D. Constitution of India – Article 21 – Rehabilitation and Reformation – Absence of an environment of reform, self development and rehabilitation in a university, denies the opportunity of redeeming one's reputation – The individual is permanently discarded by the institution, and loss of human self worth is total – This system of punishment is destructive of fundamental elements of human dignity, and violative of Article 21 of the Constitution of India – Held, The impugned action taken by the university, against the petitioner is violative of the fundamental right of human dignity of the petitioner, guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, as it fails to consider his susceptibility to reform. (Para 123 and 135)

E. University – Its role and contribution – Preservation of Constitutional values – University is a paternal institution – It is a microcosm of the Society – There are no other institutions of equal standing, to engage with the youth, deal with the discontent or aberration, and channelize youthful energies – The role of the University does not end in punishing perpetrators of violence. It begins with the identification of the causes of violence, communal hatred, and other forms of deviant conduct – Thereafter the responsibility to achieve behavioral change commences – The universities have the responsibility, to preserve this heritage, and the obligation to nurture these constitutional values. (Para 148, 149, 152 and 160)

F. Nudge – Methodology – Behavioral Change – Importance of Yoga, Meditation and Vipassana – The methodology of 'nudges', in creating behavioral change has been gaining acceptability. The organization 'Nudge' in Lebanon, has done noteworthy work with refugee children, and on environmental protection – The Behavioral Insights Teams sometimes called 'Nudge Units', are also existing in many nations including Australia, Canada, Germany, Qatar, the United Arab Emirates, Japan, the United States, and the United Kingdom – Ancient branches of knowledge and wellness like yoga, meditation, vipassana and so on may prove to be rich resources to benefit from. (Para 175, 176 and 177)

G. Therapeutic Approach – Significance – To solve Social Problem – Under the therapeutic method, however, an individual's happiness depends on his or her self-esteem, and self-esteem is a by-product of public recognition – With the rise of therapeutic approaches by mid century, they were increasingly seen as social pathologies that needed to be treated through counseling and psychiatric intervention – Therapeutic solutions to social problems, are being increasingly recognized by social scientists, medical experts, psychologists, and jurists alike. (Para 139 and 180)

M.	Conclusions & Reliefs
N.	Appendix

A. Reliefs sought

2. The petitioner has instituted the instant writ petition with a prayer to direct the respondents to decide the mercy appeal filed by him against the order dated 31.05.2019, passed by the Registrar, Indian Institute of Technology, Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi, within a stipulated period of time.

3. The only prayer made by Sri Gaurav Pundir, learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner may be permitted to continue his studies along with the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme. The petitioner undertakes to unconditionally join and diligently pursue the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, as may be created by the University but he may be permitted to pursue his studies.

4. The relief was moulded by the learned counsel for the petitioner, at the time of the arguments. In the interest of justice and expeditious disposal and in the light of submissions of the parties, the formal amendment to the relief clause is dispensed with.

B. Arguments of the learned counsels for parties

5. Sri R.K.Ojha, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ratnakar Upadhyay, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned order was passed in violation of the statutes of the university. The punishment imposed upon the petitioner is disproportionate. There is no provision for reform and rehabilitation of delinquent students in the statutes, which has resulted in violation of the fundamental right of the petitioner guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

6. Sri Anish Kumar, Sri Pankaj Misra and Sri Gaurav Pundir, learned counsels for the petitioner in connected writ petitions adopt the aforesaid arguments of the learned Senior Counsel, apart from raising factual issues peculiar to the respective writ petitions in which they appear.

7. Sri V. K. Upadhyaya, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri V.D. Chauhan, learned counsel for the BHU submits that the BHU has taken action as per law.

8. The learned Senior Counsel relied on the affidavits filed by the B.H.U., on creation of a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students.

9. Sri Ajit Kumar Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri V. D. Chauhan, learned counsel for the IIT BHU, contends that the IIT BHU, as a matter of policy accepts and is willing to adopt a professionally designed reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students. However, good order and discipline have to be maintained in the university, at all costs. In fact IIT BHU is currently even running a reform programme. He fairly conceded that the programme is not fully developed, and does not have a supporting statutory/legal frame work.

10. Sri Shashank Shekhar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-AMU, submits that the AMU fully accepts the idea of a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students on an institutional basis. He however contends that no compromise with the good order, discipline, and the stability of the academic atmosphere can be made in any manner.

11. Sri Rizwan Akhtar, learned counsel for the UGC, Sri Rakesh Srivastava, and Sri Abrar Ahmed, learned counsels for the Union of India, have also been heard.

C. Facts

12. The petitioner is a student of B.Tech (Mechanical Engineering) in the IIT BHU. The petitioner is currently studying in the final year of the B.Tech(Mechanical Enginnering) course. It is stated in the writ petition that the petitioner has passed seven semesters successfully.

13. The order dated 31.05.2019, records that an incident of physical assault and manhandling between two groups of students happened in the University campus on 18.04.2019. The petitioner was found to be involved in the incident.

14. The enquiry committee found that the petitioner tried to influence the aggrieved students and threatened them from disclosing his name before the enquiry committee. The enquiry committee noted, that the petitioner along with some outsiders, are notorious for disturbing the atmosphere of the campus. The petitioner had created an atmosphere of fear, in the fellow students.

D. Legal Issues common in all writ petitions

15. Absence of any reform and rehabilitative measures, in the administrative and legal frameworks of the universities, has serious legal and constitutional implications.

16. The impugned action and the statutory regime, of imposing punishments, will also be judged in such constitutional and legal perspectives. The discussion on these issues, shall be common in all the companion writ petitions.

17. Calling attention to the statutes of the universities namely, BHU, IIT BHU and AMU, the learned counsels for the petitioners; contended that the said statutes do not contain provisions for reform and rehabilitation of delinquent students. The action against delinquent students, is governed and regulated, solely by the penal provisions, of the statutes of the respective universities. The punitive scheme is a common thread, in the statutes of all the three universities.

18. In response, all the counsels for the various respondents universities', in fact conceded, that as on date no structured and professionally designed programmes for reform, self development and rehabilitation of delinquent students, backed by a proper legal frame work, exist in the respective universities.

19. Accordingly, various orders were passed by this Court, from time to time, requiring the respective universities namely, Banaras Hindu University, Indian Institute of Technology Banaras Hindu University, and Aligarh Muslim University, as well as the University Grants Commission and the Union of India through the Ministry of Human Resource Development, New Delhi, to submit their responses in regard to creation of a reform and rehabilitation frame work, for delinquent students in universities and institutions of higher learning. The respondents were also required to indicate, whether they had any opposition or even reservation, in regard to the creation of the reform and rehabilitative programme for delinquent students in the universities.

20. All the respondents namely Banaras Hindu University (hereinafter referred to as BHU), Indian Institute of Technology, Banaras Hindu University (hereinafter referred to as IIT BHU), Aligarh Muslim University (hereinafter referred to as the AMU) as well as Union of India through Ministry of HRD and University Grants Commission (hereinafter referred to as UGC) have submitted their responses to the aforesaid issues.

E. Stands of respective respondents on affidavits

(i) Response of IIT BHU

21. The IIT BHU in its affidavit has recorded its full agreement with a reform oriented approach, to deal with deviant behaviour in students. Thus IIT, B.H.U., has made a ringing endorsement, of the need to adopt a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students. However, it has also underscored the need for punitive action, to maintain a peaceful environment in the campus. The relevant paras of the affidavit are quoted hereinunder:

"2. That the present affidavit is being filed in compliance of the order dated 19.9.2019 passed by this Hon'ble Court.

4. That the Institute as indicated in the foregoing paragraph, is in full agreement with a reform oriented approach. However, in cases where reformative steps do not yield the desired corrections in behavior and actions of erring students, the Institute has to resort to punitive action in order to maintain the peaceful environment in the campus."

22. By categorically stating its commitment to reform of delinquent students, the IIT BHU has been true to its founding principles, and has faithfully discharged its obligations, under law and to the society.

(ii) Response of AMU

23. Upon orders being passed by this Court, the AMU to its credit, constituted an expert committee. The report of the expert committee has been submitted, and is made part of the record of the Court. The relevant parts of the Committee Report are extracted hereinbelow:

"In the light of the above the committee observes as under:

1. Our criminal justice system envisages two type of laws: one for Juveniles and second for other than Juveniles. There is a separate law for Juveniles known as Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 whereas others are covered under Code of Criminal Procedure, 1. 1976 and Indian Penal Code, 1860. The application of AMU Discipline and Conduct Rules, 1985 does not come primarily under the definition of Juvenile therefore the protection available to Juveniles are not available to the Students of the university in general. It becomes more relevant in view of the fact that at the time of admission every the disciplinary jurisdiction of the Vice Chancellor and the other authorities of the University is required to sign a declaration to the effect that he submits himself to the disciplinary jurisdiction of the Vice Chancellor and the other authorities of the University.

2. That it is also pertinent to mention here that Aligarh Muslim University is primarily a RESIDENTIAL UNIVERSITY and there are approximately 36,665 Students [22.593 University Students and departments/courses/Schools in the Aligarh Muslim University. Among these students 12,158 students reside in 56 Hostels (22 for girls) in the campus within the radius of 10 KM. Therefore, the future career of thousands of the students cannot be allowed to be jeopardized for the sake of handful of students who are involved in the indiscipline act and are destroying the whole atmosphere of the University.

3. In principle that criminal activity has no role to play in our education system therefore the students who are involved in the criminal activity have also no role to play in our education system. The students who are indulged in the criminal activity have different mind-set and have nothing to do with their studies. They are not at all interested to pursue their studies and their presence only hampers the study of the other students who are interested to pursue their study. It is the duty of the University to marginalize such type of students so that the students at large, who are more interested to pursue their studies, may pursue their studies in cordial and peaceful/ atmosphere.

4. That as per existing rules of the University, there is no compulsory/ mandated counselling available to students against whom the discipline and conduct rules are invoked. These rules are also not invoked in a routine way but being a residential University there are day-today interactions/counselling with the Wardens, Provost Tutors, Teachers and Senior Students holding positions of Senior Hall/Food etc.

5. That the extreme punishments as provided in the 1985 rules are invoked when there is an extreme situation and continuance/presence of the students became a threat to the academic environment and campus life of the University.

6. At the same time the observations of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Ajay Bhanot in this matter are highly appreciable in the context to infuse a reformative approach that the solution lies in engaging with the students, and harnessing their energies creatively. Errant behavior has to be reformed and not condemned. Erring students have to be transformed and not judged. The purpose of education is to unlock the immense potentiality in the human resource of the nation. This is possible by bringing about a conceptual shift in the concept of enforcing discipline, in the portals of the University. Indiscipline unchecked is indiscipline unleashed. But it is equally true. that expelling students from the University is a short term, if not a myopic view of the issue. A balance has to be drawn by the University authorities. The University has to create an ecosystem, with qualified staff and detailed programs of engaging with such students, with a view to give them an opportunity to reform themselves. Expulsion of students would abandon them to their own devices, close the doors of reformation to them, and shut them out from the redeeming light of knowledge. Leaving children accused of misconduct or deviant behavior, to fend for themselves would create issues for the society at large. In case Universities decline to shoulder the responsibilities of bringing such children back to the correct path, and do not provide the frame work for mainstreaming this class of students, the consequences would be detrimental to the society at large. There is no better institution in our democratic frame work, to embrace the young and questing spirits who have strayed from their path of morally upright and correct conduct. The Universities are uniquely equipped to deal with the challenge on an institutional basis. The Universities are repositories of knowledge, resources and experience to meet the challenge at hand. What is at stake, is not merely the future of an individual, but stability of the society The concerns of the society have to be handled by the University. The magnitude of the challenge is large, but it is imperative for the Universities to accept it and provide the adequate response.

After detailed deliberations and in the backdrop of above the committee proposes that:

1. Structural reformative approach may be included in the AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules of 1985 as this committee has identified some areas (not all inclusive) for counselling by a psychologist as enumerated above.

2. As the misconduct offences/crimes related to internet and cyberspace were not available when the Discipline Rules were framed, the same needs to be identified and appropriately included in the AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules of 1985 as it is growing among young and youth.

3. Outside campuses were not established when these rules were framed, hence, there is also need to amend these rules to include a structure for those centres.

The committee therefore recommends to the Vice-Chancellor as follows:

AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules 1985 were framed almost 30 years back and in the light of the observations given above, a detailed and exhaustive exercise may be undertaken by a committee to be appointed by the Vice-Chancellor under the convenorship of the Proctor of the University to formulate and propose a draft of revised AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules, inclusive of reformative approach, after exploring similar rules already enforced by sister universities and institutions in India and abroad for further consideration of the Vice-Chancellor and Academic Council of the University."

24. The AMU has thus in principle, recognized the need for a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students in some areas in the University. The AMU too has accorded top priority to the maintenance of discipline in the campus and is rightly unwilling to compromise with the same.

(iii) Response of BHU

25. The initial affidavit filed by the BHU, in regard to their stand on a reformative and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students, stated in effect that the reformation of the students indulging deviant behaviour is achieved, by providing for various categories of punishments, depending upon the nature of indiscipline. It further asserted, that in the name of reformation, the University cannot give a "go by", to the objectives of the university. The relevant paras 17 and 18 of the affidavit dated 17.09.2019 are extracted hereunder:

"17. In the present case no such conditions exist and as such the continuance of the order of suspension of the petitioner from the privileges of the University and Hostel is in accordance with law. That 17. it is the University humbly that submitted administration and the Vice-Chancellor in particular is the custodian of the interests of all the students involved in various academic pursuits in the University. In the case of Banaras Hindu University the number of all the students at various levels runs into more than 30 thousand. For the smooth functioning of the University and maintenance of an environment conducive to academic pursuits the interest of an individual student must give way to the larger interests of all the students as a whole. This is not only in the interest of the students themselves but also in public interest. In the of reformation of the students the University name administration cannot give a go by to the objectives of the University nor can it take an action which may have the potential of destroying the smooth functioning of the University embroiling the University in large scale unrest both in the student as well as in the teaching community. If the University such situation is brought about a administration would be failing in its duty. The fact that Banaras Hindu University is the largest residential University in the country if not the world cannot be lost sight of. Even small spark has the potential of turning into a conflagration which may become difficult to contain.

26. However, subsequently, the BHU filed an affidavit on 26th September, 2019, easing its reservations, against a reform and rehabilitation programme. The affidavit exhibited a shift in stand, indicating a willingness to consider a reformative approach. The para 7 of the affidavit is extracted hereunder:

"7. That all the aforesaid mechanisms and provisions exist in the University for creation and preservation of an academic ambience conducive to teaching and learning and vibrant and peaceful community life. However, there exist no provision in the Rules of the University for any formal reformative mechanism or process for such students as are found involved in an offence involving moral turpitude or heinous crime and hence are suspended from the privileges of the University. However, the University is not averse to considering this aspect, if it is found appropriate by the University through Constitution of a Committee of stakeholders which may look into as to whether such a mechanism is desirable in principle in the context of maintenance of academic ambience of the University or it may be detrimental to it, particularly, to the interest of larger group of the students, teachers and employees."

27. In substance the BHU was open to the concept of a structured reformative programme. It has however, desisted from taking a categorical position, on this most critical issue. While openness to new ideas is appreciated, failure to take a specific stand is also noticed. The Court will go no further.

(iv) Response of UGC

28. Sri Rizwan Ali Akhtar, learned counsel for the UGC has relied on the affidavit filed by the UGC. The UGC in its affidavit, stated that the universities are autonomous institutions. The academic and administrative decisions, are to be taken by the universities concerned, as per law. It was also stated that "the UGC has no role to play on day to day function of the Central Universities".

(v) Response of UoI

29. The Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India has chosen not to file any affidavit, despite orders passed by the Court and opportunities granted by the Court. The Court has to proceed, with the hearing in the interests of justice.

30. It was informed that the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, on its part had sent communications to the AMU and BHU, to protect its interests. The Court finds that the interests of the Union of India, are in no manner adversely affected. In these cases the interests of the Union of India, are not converse to the universities.

"The best lack all conviction."
~WB Yeats

31. Present discontents cannot be addressed by rote responses. Contemporary problems cannot be resolved by jejune formulae.

32. The universities cannot avoid a stand at the decision point. By prevarication at the decision point, the university may postpone the reckoning, but cannot escape responsibility.

33. Law has to hold institutions accountable to their obligations, to the founding purposes, to the students and to the society at large.

34. Universities of eminence cannot justify present inertia on the foot of past glory. Universities have to be aware of the risks, of basking in the reflected glory of the past. Eminence is achieved by past glory, however, reputation is retained by present endeavours.

35. Universities at certain critical decision points, would be true to their founding purposes and extant obligations by making clear and creative interventions. The universities as well as other authorities cannot show ineptitude in the face of crises, and equivocation in the face of solutions. In these critical situations the universities as well as other authorities, have to stand up and intervene and not stand by and equivocate.

F. Evolution of Fundamental Rights by courts

36. The fundamental rights of citizens are stated in Part III of the Constitution of India. But as in all cases, text of the rights can never be the exhaustive description of all rights. Rights have to be interpreted from the text of the Constitution. The process of interpretation of the text, often results in the evolution of rights. The Constitution is the textual origin of fundamental rights. Constitutional law defines the substance of fundamental rights.

(i) Legislative lag, executive inertia and fundamental rights

37. The fast pace of life in modern times often, outstrips the capacity of the legislature, to cope with the consequences of social change. There is a limit to human foresight, but the possibilities of life are limitless. The limits of legislation are the constraints of human foresight. The legislative process is complex and even time taking. Human affairs do not wait on the legislative process. These facts frequently create a legislative lag. It is almost inevitable in the nature of things.

38. The first intersection of life with law, at times happens in courts, even before the legislature grapples with the problems. The courts are often seized, of various emerging issues in social and individual lives, before the legislatures are cognizant of them.

39. A legislative hiatus or executive lethargy, cannot cause a constitutional stasis. The enforcement of fundamental rights, cannot be forestalled by a legislative lag or executive inertia. Constitutional guarantees and Fundamental Rights, have to be enforced on demand. Constitutional overhang is perpetual. Law is always in motion, and never on a holiday.

40. The text of the Constitution, is a conceptual philosophy of fundamental rights, and not an exhaustive guide to fundamental rights. The text of the Constitution is fixed, fundamental rights are always evolving. This is the essence of constitutional law jurisprudence. There is a method in the evolution of constitutional law jurisprudence.

41. Evolution of constitutional law rights are guided and controlled by the text of the constitution, long settled judicial principles of interpretation of the constitution, and judicial precedents in point. The march of law is also assisted by consensus of values, in the comity of civilized nations. These universal values are often manifested in International Conventions and Treaties. Another source of such values is comparative international jurisprudence. The felt needs of the times are also factored in by the courts. Development of constitutional law happens on these sure foundations. Constitutional rights are distilled from this process. In this process, the courts discharge their constitutional obligations. This is not judicial activism by courts. It is judging.

42. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Vishaka Vs. State of Rajasthan, reported at 1997 (6) SCC 241, issued various guidelines for the safety of women at working places. The guidelines held the field, till the Parliament enacted the legislation in that regard. Judicial directions in that case preceded, the legislative enactment. Infact the legislature was alerted, to the need of a legislation to cover the field, by the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

43. This narrative will profit from the observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Rattan Chand Hira Chand v. Askar Nawaz Jung, reported at (1991) 3 SCC 67:

"The legislature often fails to keep pace with the changing needs and values nor is it realistic to expect that it will have provided for all contingencies and eventualities. It is, therefore, not only necessary but obligatory on the courts to step in to fill the lacuna. When courts perform this function undoubtedly they legislate judicially. But that is a kind of legislation which stands implicitly delegated to them to further the object of the legislation and to promote the goals of the society. Or to put it negatively, to prevent the frustration of the legislation or perversion of the goals and values of the society. So long as the courts keep themselves tethered to the ethos of the society and do not travel off its course, so long as they attempt to furnish the felt necessities of the time and do not refurbish them, their role in this respect has to be welcomed.

All courts have at one time or the other felt the need to bridge the gap between what is and what is intended to be. The courts cannot in such circumstances shirk from their duty and refuse to fill the gap. In performing this duty they do not foist upon the society their value judgments. They respect and accept the prevailing values, and do what is expected of them. The courts will, on the other hand, fail in their duty if they do not rise to the occasion but approve helplessly of an interpretation of a statute or a document or of an action of an individual which is certain to subvert the societal goals and endanger the public good."

G. Process of law and the courts : Current State & Contemporary Challenges

44. The pace of technological, social and economic developments, often pose a challenge to the courts. Courts of today often have to deal with complex issues ranging from science, technology, economics, archaeology, medicine, social sciences and across other fields of highly specialized knowledge.

45. Lawyers on occasions lack the expertise, to grasp and simplify issues of varying complexity, from fields unrelated to law. Judges do not fare any better. Parties have their interests to protect.

46. The intellectual capital created by traditional resources of the judicial process, may not be adequate to manage such contemporary challenges. The judicial process would have to evolve, to meet the felt needs of the time. The rising tides of human knowledge, cannot pass the courts by. This shall require change in procedures, and development of infrastructure.

47. The intellectual resource base has to be widened. The debate has to be broadbased, to include direct inputs from experts as well. This would also entail well equipped libraries, which are staffed by qualified personnel and research assistants, and may be even experts. Institutional arrangements for interface of the courts with experts, have to be in place to ensure procedural propriety.

48. Debate on these issues will pave the way for the most important change, i.e. change in mindset. For the process to be credible and efficacious, a change has to come from within the judicial system. But change is inevitable, if judicial adjudication is to be just and remain relevant. In this regard, the High Court has a responsibility to fulfill, if not an obligation to discharge.

H. Education

(i) Importance and scope

"Where the mind is without fear
and the head is held high,
Where knowledge is free".

~Tagore

49. In education mankind discovered the message of unquenchable optimism, that humans could be separated from the cycle of repetitive thought and action. Learning was the key to the uninterrupted progress of any society. Knowledge instilled the belief that human life could be improved. Through knowledge alone, the hope is realized that humans can be reformed, and humanity can be transformed. Education is the supreme act of nation building, which essentially means nurturing of constitutional values, realization of constitutional goals, and strengthening the rule of law.

50. The idea of the Indian nation is founded, on the ideals of the Indian civilization. Many of these ideals are manifested in the Constitution, and find expression in constitutional law.

51. The quest for knowledge defines the Indian civilization. A salient feature in the search for learning, distinguishes the Indian civilization. Knowledge in Hellenic civilization was founded on reason. The human thirst for knowledge was also quenched by revelation. The distinctive feature of learning in Indian civilization, is that India's search for knowledge, while always embracing reason as a method and never denying revelation as a source, insists on realization as its goal.

52. The diversity of thought is reflected in the plurality of discourse in India. The enduring values which define India, have been preserved and propagated by the tradition of civilized debate. The unity of our nation is protected by respect and affirmation of a multi hued cultural heritage and embracement of varied traditions of thought.

(ii) Role and obligation of universities

"Where the mind is led forward by thee
Into ever widening thought and action."

53. The universities are the custodians of the old values, even as they ceaselessly push the boundaries of modern knowledge.

54. In universities students of diverse backgrounds, and different beliefs, congregate in a common pursuit of knowledge. Through knowledge they will learn, that humanity unites more than diversity differentiates. With learning they will understand, that diversity enriches human life, and does not divide humankind. University experience will help them, cultivate constitutional values, and transcend violent and other aberrational tendencies.

55. Universities are not teaching shops, nor are they mere examining bodies. Universities nurture the intellect and develop the character of the young citizens in a wholesome manner. Students gain knowledge and imbibe values in universities. These dual pursuits constitute the founding purpose of a university, in fact its raison detre.

56. A unifocal approach promoting scholastic achievements, to the exclusion of character building, would undermine the founding principles of a university. A failure of character or deficit of values in students, may impel action against the delinquent student, but should also cause introspection in university authorities.

57. University education is not an arm's length transaction, between the teachers and the taught. Nor is university education an exact contractual relation, in the likeness of a consumer and a service provider.

I. Discipline in Universities: Concept, Need & Challenges

(i) Violence, intimidation and moral turpitude

"Where the clear stream of reason has not lost its way into the dreary desert sand of dead habit"

~Rabindranath Tagore

58. Violence degrades human life. Intimidation stifles human thought. Moral turpitude is the low ebb of human conduct. These are the scourges and yet inescapable facts of human life. Our society faces these issues, and our varsities grapple with them.

59. Violence, intimidation, and acts of moral turpitude, are not conducive to the academic atmosphere of a varsity, and pose a mortal threat to the values of a university. They retard the growth of free thought and reasoned debate. These evils have no place in our universities. The universities can prosper only when such evils are got rid of.

(ii) Communal disturbances in universities

"Where the world has not been broken up into fragments by narrow domestic walls".

~Rabindranath Tagore

60. In Writ C No. 32955 of 2019, (Ajay Singh Vs. Union of India and Others), the petitioner is charged with disturbing the communal harmony in the university.

61. Stoking communal hatred not only disrupts peace and order in a university, but can roil the foundations of law and harmony in our society. The problem cannot be tackled as a "discipline" issue alone. A composite and a conceptual approach has to be adopted. The roots of communal hate have to be analyzed and addressed. Communal hatred is a narrative, which stands in direct opposition, to our civilizational ethos and constitutional values. Communal hatred holds a threat, to the rule of law. Communal hatred cannot be countenanced in our universities, nor can be given any space in our society.

(iii) Discipline in universities

62. Discipline is the bedrock of any organization. In a university, discipline does not mean conformity of thought, or creation of a regimented class of people. In a varsity discipline is not the residue, after dissent is stifled and dissenters purged.

63. Discipline in a university is the consensus among all stakeholders, to live by the universal values which define the academic world. Discipline in a varsity is common allegiance and unshakable adherence, to values which nurture free thought, respect dissentient opinions, and create an environment of unimpeded academic pursuits. Hate and true debate cannot co-exist. Violence and true learning cannot cohabit.

64. Discipline has to be preserved at all costs, if the raison detre of the University is to be protected at all times. Indiscipline unchecked is indiscipline unleashed. However in our constitutional scheme, the means of ensuring discipline, is as important as the end of keeping discipline.

(iv) Statutory approach to maintaining discipline

65. The universities have created legal frameworks, to deal with acts of indiscipline, and to maintain discipline and order.

66. The power to take disciplinary action, and impose punishment upon delinquent students, is vested in the competent authorities, by the statutes of the concerned university. The following statutes govern and regulate, the process of initiating disciplinary action against delinquent students, and imposition of penalty for misconduct.

BHU -The Banaras Hindu University Act No. XVI of 1915 {Section 60}

ii. Chapter VIII, Ordinances Governing Maintenance of Discipline and Grievances Procedure.

iii. Notification, New Delhi, 31st July, 2017, BHU

AMU- The Aligarh Muslim University (Act No. XL of 1920), [Amendment] Act, 1981 (62 of 1981)

ii. Section 35 (5) of the AMU

iii. The Statutes of the University (as adapted under Section 28 of the Act) amended upto December, 2012).

IIT BHU - i. The Institutes of Technology Act, 1961

ii. The Institutes of Technology Amendment Act, 2012.

iii. Section 17(2) of the Act, 1961 (already quoted)

(The relevant extracts of the statutes are appended as appendix 1 to the writ petition.)

J. Statutory Regime of Punishments in light of Article 21 & Doctrine of Proportionality

67. The statutes of all the three universities contemplate only penal action, to deal with all forms of indiscipline or deviant conduct. The penal action may lead to suspension, and can even extend to expulsion and debarment.

68. The punitive provisions of the Statutes of the respective universities, manifest the deterrent intent of the law. A reformist approach to the problem is absent in the statutes. The makers of statutes have solely adopted a punitive or deterrent approach to the exclusion of other methods of dealing with issues of indiscipline or deviant conduct.

69. The aforesaid ordinances of the universities and the affidavits of the respondents have been perused. Submissions of the learned counsel for the universities have been considered. This Court finds that there is no structured, professionally designed reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, or therapeutic support system backed by a legal frame work, to deal with the delinquent students and like issues in the universities.

70. The statutory monopoly of a punitive approach, to deviant behaviour, and the exclusion of all other responses, often creates a lack of balance in the actions of the concerned University. In such cases, the punishment becomes disproportionate, not because the decision maker was incapable of measured action, but because the ordinances/statutes preclude a proportional response.

71. It is clarified, that the requirement of punitive provisions in the statutes is a given. The need to empower the authority, to take disciplinary action in law is undisputed. There is no infirmity in the statutory provisions. The inadequacy is in the reach of the statutory provisions.

72. The decision maker is constrained in his choices, by the absolute dominance of punitive provisions, and complete omission of reformative measures in the ordinances.

73. The impact of absence of reformative provisions and the presence of a statutory bias in favour of a punitive approach on the fundamental rights of the petitioners, shall also be assessed in the next part of the judgment.

K. Punishments and Article 21
(i) Right to human dignity

74. A life without dignity is robbed of its meaning. Absent self worth, life is devoid of content.

75. Human dignity as a concept, was created by an international consensus, on universal human values. "Human dignity" and "self worth" are used, in close proxmity in international instruments, reflecting the affinity between the concepts.

76. The comity of nations, first pledged commitment to protecting the "dignity and worth" of the human person, in the charter of the United Nations. These eternal values were reiterated, in subsequent international instruments and conventions including the Convention for the Suppression of the Traffic in Persons and of the Exploitation of the Prostitution of Others (1951); the Supplementary Convention on the Abolition of Slavery, the Slave Trade, and Institutions and Practices Similar to Slavery (1956); the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (1979); the Convention on the Rights of the Child (1989); and the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (2006).

77. Human dignity and self worth, were increasingly incorporated in the jurisprudence of all liberty loving nations in the post World War II era.

78. The complexity of the concept of human dignity, never diluted the usefulness of the theory of human dignity in enhancing the worth of the human person. Human dignity made a decisive contribution in the development of the rights of life and liberty, in jurisprudential systems of free societies across the world.

79. However, the Court would do well to observe the caution, that a sweeping judicial definition of human dignity, would make an abstract theory, unintelligible. An unduly wide judicial construct of human dignity, would create unworkable judicial tests.

80. Likewise if the courts adopt too narrow a view of human dignity, a concept which has made stellar contribution to the advancement of human rights will be lost.

81. Keeping these pitfalls in mind, a balance has to be maintained, between attempting too much and recoiling from the task altogether.

82. The applicability of human dignity, would be determined in this case, by evolving a workable test or construct of human dignity and self worth applicable to these cases.

83. Human dignity is not inserted in the text of the fundamental rights under the Constitution of India. Human dignity occurs in the Preamble to the Constitution of India.

84. The Preamble to the Constitution, reflects the resolve of the People of India, to secure to all its citizens

"Justice social, economic and political;
Liberty of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship;
Equality of status and of opportunity;
and to promote among them all and
Fraternity assuring the dignity of the individual and the unity of the Nation."

The Preamble to the Constitution is not analogous, to a preamble to any legislative enactment.

85. The unique place of the Preamble, in the Constitution came to be noticed very early, in Sajjan Singh v. State of Rajasthan, reported at AIR 1965 SC 845. The Hon'ble Supreme Court found that the Preamble to our Constitution is "not of the common run". Further the Preamble bore the "stamp of deep deliberation" and precision.

86. This feature shines light on the special significance, attached to the Preamble by the framers of the Constitution. The Preamble was held to be a part of the Constitution, by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kesavananda Bharati v. State of Kerala, reported at (1973) 4 SCC 225.

87. The words 'life, law and liberty' in Article 21 of the Constitution of India, were freed from the confines of narrow and literal interpretation by the Courts. (See Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India, (1978) 1 SCC 248)

88. A defining moment came when the Hon'ble Supreme Court, liberated "life" from the fetters of mere physical existence. (see Olga Tellis v. Bombay Municipal Corpn. Reported at (1985) 3 SCC 545).

89. Over the years human dignity, has been read into the meaning of life and liberty, under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, by consistent pronouncements of the courts.

90. A broad overview of some of the leading pronouncements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, elevating human dignity to the status of a fundamental right, are discussed in the succeeding paragraphs.

(ii) Supreme Court on human dignity

91. The concept of human dignity forming a part of Article 21, was introduced in Prem Shankar Shukla v. UT of Delhi, reported at (1980) 3 SCC 526. While construing the constitutional rights of prisoners, in Prem Shankar Shukla (supra), Krishna Iyer, J. speaking for a three-Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court held:

"1. ... the guarantee of human dignity, which forms part of our constitutional culture, and the positive provisions of Articles 14, 19 and 21 spring into action when we realise that to manacle man is more than to mortify him; it is to dehumanise him and, therefore, to violate his very personhood, too often using the mask of "dangerousness" and security.

21. The Preamble sets the humane tone and temper of the Founding Document and highlights justice, equality and the dignity of the individual."

92. Undermining the human dignity of a detenue, under the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities (COFEPOSA) Act, 1974 was not countenanced by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Francis Coralie Mullin v. UT of Delhi, reported at (1981) 1 SCC 608 by ruling thus:

"6. ... The fundamental right to life which is the most precious human right and which forms the ark of all other rights must therefore be interpreted in a broad and expansive spirit so as to invest it with significance and vitality which may endure for years to come and enhance the dignity of the individual and the worth of the human person.

7. ... the right to life enshrined in Article 21 cannot be restricted to mere animal existence. It means something much more than just physical survival."

93. The right to live with human dignity flowing from Article 21, was employed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court to unlock the fetters of those living in bondage and setting them free in Bandhua Mukti Morcha v. Union of India, reported at (1984) 3 SCC 161. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bandhua Mukti Morcha (supra) observed that:

"10. ...This right to live with human dignity enshrined in Article 21 derives its life breath from the directive principles of State policy and particularly clauses (e) and (f) of Article 39 and Articles 41 and 42 and at the least, therefore, it must include protection of the health and strength of the workers, men and women, and of the tender age of children against abuse, opportunities and facilities for children to develop in a healthy manner and in conditions of freedom and dignity, educational facilities, just and humane conditions of work and maternity relief. These are the minimum requirements which must exist in order to enable a person to live with human dignity, and no State -- neither the Central Government nor any State Government -- has the right to take any action which will deprive a person of the enjoyment of these basic essentials."

94. Dehumanizing treatment given to the arrested activists of an organization by the police authorities was called out by the Hon'ble Supreme court, in Khedat Mazdoor Chetna Sangath v. State of

M.P., reported at (1994) 6 SCC 260, wherein it was recognized:

"10. ... It is, therefore, absolutely essential in the interest of justice, human dignity and democracy that this Court must intervene; order an investigation, determine the correct facts and take strongest possible action against the respondents who are responsible for these atrocities."

95. The right of human dignity was also construed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in M.Nagaraj v. Union of India, reported at (2006) 8 SCC 212. In that case the right was held to be intrinsic to and inseparable from human existence:

"26. ... The rights, liberties and freedoms of the individual are not only to be protected against the State, they should be facilitated by it. ... It is the duty of the State not only to protect the human dignity but to facilitate it by taking positive steps in that direction. No exact definition of human dignity exists. It refers to the intrinsic value of every human being, which is to be respected. It cannot be taken away. It cannot give (sic be given). It simply is. Every human being has dignity by virtue of his existence.

42. India is constituted into a sovereign, democratic republic to secure to all its citizens, fraternity assuring the dignity of the individual and the unity of the nation. The sovereign, democratic republic exists to promote fraternity and the dignity of the individual citizen and to secure to the citizens certain rights. This is because the objectives of the State can be realised only in and through the individuals. Therefore, rights conferred on citizens and non-citizens are not merely individual or personal rights. They have a large social and political content, because the objectives of the Constitution cannot be otherwise realised."

96. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shabnam v. Union of India, reported at (2015) 6 SCC 702 elaborated the following elements of the human dignity;

"14. This right to human dignity has many elements. First and foremost, human dignity is the dignity of each human being "as a human being". Another element, which needs to be highlighted, in the context of the present case, is that human dignity is infringed if a person's life, physical or mental welfare is harmed. It is in this sense torture, humiliation, forced labour, etc. all infringe on human dignity. It is in this context many rights of the accused derive from his dignity as a human being."

(emphasis in original)

97. Aharon Barak (former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Israel), discussed the constitutional value of human dignity, in the following celebrated passage:

"The constitutional value of human dignity has a central normative role. Human dignity as a constitutional value is the factor that unites the human rights into one whole. It ensures the normative unity of human rights. This normative unity is expressed in the three ways: first, the value of human dignity serves as a normative basis for constitutional rights set out in the constitution; second, it serves as an interpretative principle for determining the scope of constitutional rights, including the right to human dignity; third, the value of human dignity has an important role in determining the proportionality of a statute limiting a constitutional right. "

98. The views of the Judge Aharon Barak, were approved and incorporated in the corpus of human dignity jurisprudence, in our country by the Hon'ble Supreme court in Jeeja Ghosh v. Union of India, reported at (2016) 7 SCC 761.

99. The consequences of loss of human dignity in an individual's life, were noted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mehmood Nayyar Azam v. State of Chhattisgarh, reported at (2012) 8 SCC 1.

100. Similar sentiments were expressed on human dignity, by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in National Legal Services Authority v. Union of India, reported at (2014) 5 SCC 438.

101. In Maharasthra University of Health Sciences v. Satchikitsa Prasarak Mandal reported at (2010) 3 SCC 786, the Hon'ble Supreme court upon consideration of good authority, reiterated the dignity of the individual as a core constitutional concept.

102. While in Selvi v. State of Karnataka reported at (2010) 7 SCC 263, the Hon'ble Supreme Court ruled thus:

"244.....we must recognize that a forcible intrusion into a person's mental processes is also an affront to human dignity and liberty, often with grave and long-lasting consequences."

103. Even prisoners have been found entitled to the fundamental rights while in custody by the Hon'ble Supreme Court (see Sunil Batra (II) Vs. Delhi Administration, reported at 1980 (3) SCC 488).

104. The importance of therapeutic approach in dealing with the criminal tendencies of prisoners and the necessity for reform, was considered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in T.K. Gopal v. State of Karnataka, reported at (2000) 6 SCC 168, by holding that:

"15. The therapeutic approach aims at curing the criminal tendencies which were the product of a diseased psychology. There may be many factors, including family problems. We are not concerned with those factors as therapeutic approach has since been treated as an effective method of punishment which not only satisfies the requirements of law that a criminal should be punished and the punishment prescribed must be meted out to him, but also reforms the criminal through various processes, the most fundamental of which is that in spite of having committed a crime, maybe a heinous crime, he should be treated as a human being entitled to all the basic human rights, human dignity and human sympathy. It was under this theory that this Court in a stream of decisions, projected the need for prison reforms, the need to acknowledge the vital fact that the prisoner, after being lodged in jail, does not lose his fundamental rights or basic human rights and that he must be treated with compassion and sympathy."

105. In Asfaq v. State of Rajasthan and Others, reported at (2017) 15 SCC 55, the Hon'ble Supreme Court emphasizing the need for reform of a convict held that "redemption and rehabilitation of such prisoners for good of societies must receive due wightage while they are undergoing sentence of imprisonment."

106. The judicial authorities can be multiplied, reiterating the above holdings. However, the same will add volume, but not value to the narrative.

107. Consistent and high authority have thus entrenched human dignity as fundamental to right to life, which flows from Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

108. The narrative would not be complete without reference to the most authoritative pronouncement, of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of K.S. Puttaswamy v. Union of India reported at (2017) 10 SCC 1

109. Dr. D. Y. Chandrachud, J. speaking for the Constitution Bench, firmly and irrevocably, reiterated that human dignity is a fundamental right under Article 21 of the Indian Constitution, with customary eloquence, in K.S. Puttaswamy (supra). Dr. D. Y. Chandrachud, J., upon consideration of the judicial precedents in point distilled the concept of human dignity and its place in part III of the Constitution:

"Jurisprudence on dignity

"108. Over the last four decades, our constitutional jurisprudence has recognised the inseparable relationship between protection of life and liberty with dignity. Dignity as a constitutional value finds expression in the Preamble. The constitutional vision seeks the realisation of justice (social, economic and political); liberty (of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship); equality (as a guarantee against arbitrary treatment of individuals) and fraternity (which assures a life of dignity to every individual). These constitutional precepts exist in unity to facilitate a humane and compassionate society. The individual is the focal point of the Constitution because it is in the realisation of individual rights that the collective well-being of the community is determined. Human dignity is an integral part of the Constitution. Reflections of dignity are found in the guarantee against arbitrariness (Article 14), the lamps of freedom (Article 19) and in the right to life and personal liberty (Article 21).

118. Life is precious intself. But life is worth living because of the freedoms which enable each individual to live life as it should be lived. The best decisions on how life should be lived are entrusted to the individual. They are continuously shaped by the social milieu in which individuals exist. The duty of the State is to safeguard the ability to take decisions. "Life" within the meaning of Article 21 is not confined to the integrity of the physical body. The right comprehends one's being in its fullest sense. That which facilitates the fulfillment of life is as much within the protection of the guarantee of life.

119. To live is to live with dignity. The draftsmen of the Constitution defined their vision of the society in which constitutional values would be attained by emphasising, among other freedoms, liberty and dignity. So fundamental is dignity that it permeates the core of the rights guaranteed to the individual by Part III. Dignity is the core which unites the fundamental rights because the fundamental rights seek to achieve for each individual the dignity of existence. Privacy with its attendant values assures dignity to the individual and it is only when life can be enjoyed with dignity can liberty be of true substance. Privacy ensures the fulfilment of dignity and is a core value which the protection of life and liberty is intended to achieve."

(iii) Comparative International Jurisprudence

110. A survey of comparative international jurisprudence, on the point of human dignity and the rights flowing therefrom, shows convergence in the values of human dignity across the free world.

111. The foreign authorities can be cited to show that human dignity is an accepted universal value in the comity of nations.

112. In Rosenblatt v. P Baer, reported at 1966 SCC OnLine US SC 22 : 383 US 75 (1966), the US Supreme Court found that "The essential dignity and worth of every human being" was at the root of any system of "ordered liberty".

"The right of a man to the protection of his own reputation from unjustified invasion and wrongful hurt reflects no more than our basic concept of the essential dignity and worth of every human being- a concept at the root of any decent system of ordered liberty."

113. In the case of Armoniene v. Lithuania, reported at (2009) EMLR 7, the European Court of Human Rights set its face against an act of disclosure of a person's state of health, causing "exclusion from social life", and found it violative of the right to privacy by holding thus:

"The Court takes particular note of the fact that the family lived not in a city but in a village, which increased the impact of the publication on the possibility that the husband's illness would be known by his neighbours and his immediate family, thereby causing public humiliation and exclusion from village social life."

114. The human dignity rights of prisoners included rehabilitation, in the opinion of the US Supreme Court in Procunier, Corrections Director, ET AL. Vs. Martinez ET AL. reported at 416 U.S. 396 (1974):

"The Court today agrees that "the weight of professional opinion seems to be that inmate freedom to correspond with outsiders advances rather than retards the goal of rehabilitation."

Balanced against the State's asserted interests are the values that are generally associated with freedom of speech in a free society - values which "do not turn to dross in an unfree one." Sostre v. McGinnis, supra, at 199. First Amendment guarantees protect the free and uninterrupted interchange of ideas upon which a democratic society thrives. Perhaps the most obvious victim of the indirect censorship effected by a policy of allowing prison authorities to read inmate mail is criticism of prison administration. The threat of identification and reprisal inherent in allowing correctional authorities to read prisoner mail is not lost on inmates who might otherwise criticize their jailors. The mails are one of the few vehicles prisoners have for informing the community about their existence and, in these days of strife in our correctional institutions, the plight of prisoners is a matter of urgent public concern. To sustain a policy which chills the communication necessary to inform the public on this issue is at odds with the most basic tenets of the guarantee of freedom of speech.

The First Amendment serves not only the needs of the polity but also those of the human spirit - a spirit that demands self-expression. Such expression is an integral part of the development of ideas and a sense of identity. To suppress expression is to reject the basic human desire for recognition and affront the individual's worth and dignity. 14 Cf. Stanley v. Georgia, 394 U.S. [416 U.S. 396, 428]557 (1969). Such restraint may be "the greatest displeasure and indignity to a free and knowing spirit that can be put upon him." J. Milton, Aeropagitica 21 (Everyman's ed. 1927). When the prison gates slam behind an inmate, he does not lose his human quality; his mind does not become closed to ideas; his intellect does not cease to feed on a free and open interchange of opinions; his yearning for self-respect does not end; nor is his quest for self-realization concluded. If anything, the needs for identity and self-respect are more compelling in the dehumanizing prison environment. Whether an O. Henry writing his short stories in a jail cell or a frightened young inmate writing his family, a prisoner needs a medium for self-expression. It is the role of the First Amendment and this Court to protect those precious personal rights by which we satisfy such basic yearnings of the human spirit."

115. The validity of a punishment causing loss of nationality, for an act of desertion in military service, was in issue before the US Supreme Court, in Trop Vs. Dulles, reported at 356 US 86 (1958). The US Supreme Court in Trop (supra) reiterated the importance and role of rehabilitation in a penal system, while dealing with the validity of the punishment. The principle holding of the US Supreme Court on these points is as under:

"Expatriation, in this respect, constitutes an especially demoralizing sanction. The uncertainty, and the consequent psychological hurt, which must accompany one who becomes an outcast in his own land must be reckoned a substantial factor in the ultimate judgment.

The novelty of expatriation as punishment does not alone demonstrate its inefficiency. In recent years we have seen such devices as indeterminate sentences and parole added to the traditional term of imprisonment. Such penal methods seek to achieve the end, at once more humane and effective, that society should make every effort to rehabilitate the offender and restore him as a useful member of that society as society's own best protection. Of course, rehabilitation is but one of the several purposes of the penal law. Among other purposes are deterrents of the wrongful act by the threat of punishment and insulation of society from dangerous individuals by imprisonment or execution. What then is the relationship of the punishment of expatriation to these ends of the penal law? It is perfectly obvious that it constitutes the very antithesis of rehabilitation, for instead of guiding the offender back into the useful paths of society it excommunicates him and makes him, literally, an outcast. I can think of no more certain way in which to make a man in whom, perhaps, rest the seeds of serious antisocial behavior more likely to pursue further a career of unlawful activity than to place on him the stigma of the derelict, uncertain of many of his basic rights. Similarly, it must be questioned whether expatriation can really achieve the other effects sought by society in punitive devices. Certainly it will not insulate society from the deserter, for unless coupled with banishment the sanction leaves the offender at large. And as a deterrent device this sanction would appear of little effect, for the offender, if not deterred by thought of the specific penalties of long imprisonment or even death, is not very likely to be swayed from his course by the prospect of expatriation. However insidious and demoralizing may be the actual experience of statelessness, its contemplation in advance seems unlikely to invoke serious misgiving, for none of us yet knows its ramifications."

(iv) Constitutionality of punishments under the statutes

"Universities are made by love, love of beauty and learning."

~ Annie Besant

116. The engagement of human dignity and Article 21 will now be examined in the context of punishment, imposed on a delinquent student.

117. The statutory scheme of enforcing discipline by imposition of punishments and suspension has a salutary purpose, but it needs to be compliant with the requirements of fundamental rights.

118. Punishment has to be effective to serve its purpose; however, it cannot be purblind to human dignity, if it is to retain its constitutionality.

119. Severity of a punishment is not sufficient basis for holding it unconstitutional. The enquiry into the constitutionality of a punishment, will examine the relationship between the punishment and its purpose, and whether the penalty can achieve the purpose. The enquiry will also determine whether the punishment degrades the human person, and whether it devalues human dignity against established norms of decency, or has a dehumanizing effect.

120. Degree of injuries to self esteem, extent of degradation of human worth, depth of humiliation caused by the punishment, are facts to be probed in an enquiry into the validity of the punishment.

121. Experience teaches the fact of human fallibility, but knowledge holds the hope of human redemption. If error is part of human nature, reform is an element of human spirit. The capacity of human beings to introspect on erring ways and the power of human will to reform deviant conduct are building blocks of the concept of human dignity. "Every sinner has a future, many a saint had a past."

122. Punishment for deviant conduct, cannot be so severe as to degrade human life. Every form of punishment should protect the essential sanctity of human life and comport with fundamental norms of decency evolved by a civilized society. Any act which dehumanizes life cannot be countenanced by societies and courts which value life and liberty. The degrading or dehumanizing elements of the punishment have to be eliminated to bring it in conformity with requirement of human dignity, contemplated by Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

123. Failure to consider susceptibility to reform, while denying the right to access privileges and activities of the university, negates the possibility of rehabilitation. Absence of an environment of reform, self development and rehabilitation in a university, denies the opportunity of redeeming one's reputation. Termination of dialogue with the delinquent student, without offering an opportunity to reform, makes him an outcaste. The individual is permanently discarded by the institution, and loss of human self worth is total. This system of punishment is destructive of fundamental elements of human dignity, and violative of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

124. Another aspect of the punishment which needs consideration, is the consequence exclusion from higher education.

125. Education is a most credible and effective mode of restoring self esteem and enhancing self worth. By denying opportunities of education to a delinquent student, without looking at the possibility of reform, the power to redeem one's errors and enhance self worth is taken away from an individual. In these cases, closure of avenues of education, extinguishes the hope for a better tomorrow. Loss of hope and its sequitor perpetual condemnation are fatal blows to the human spirit and self esteem.

126. Acts of deviant conduct, violence or intimidation, do not cease the need for social engagement or knowledge. Such needs are more acutely felt and require satisfaction in these cases.

127. Order may be enforced by punishments. Causes of deviant conduct can be addressed only by engagement. Punishments deal with the offence, reform deals with the offender.

128. Public interest however demands that the claim for further education, and engagement with delinquent students, should be guided and controlled by the authorities.

129. Statutory regimes in universities, dealing with delinquent behaviour and university environments, which are bereft of therapeutic and reform based support systems, are incompatible with the constitutional mandate to uphold human dignity. The violations of human dignity, in such cases, are summed up hereinunder:

130. Dignity violations occur when a punishment meted out to a student, does not consider his susceptibility to reform, and degrades his person by exclusion to the point where his diminished self worth cannot be reinstated due to systemic inadequacies or institutional shortcomings.

131. By denying further education, and neglecting to create an institutional system of reform, self development and rehabilitation, the university in effect tells the delinquent student, that it does not recognize the student's need to re-establish his self esteem. In other words, the student is not only impervious to reform, but incapable of enhancing his self esteem.

132. Dignity of an individual/student is injured, when it is found that the punishment precludes reform by rehabilitative measures, and prevents self enhancement by further education.

133. The punitive consequences of the action, cannot go beyond the requirements of the case. In this case they do.

An institutional reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, will enable a delinquent student to introspect on errors, express remorse and correct course.

134. Neglect by the universities to create an institutional reform, self development and rehabilitation programme thus places substantial obstacles in the enjoyment of the fundamental right of human dignity under Article 21.

135. The result of the preceding narrative is as follows:-

(i) The impugned action taken by the university, against the petitioner is violative of the fundamental right of human dignity of the petitioner, guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, as it fails to consider his susceptibility to reform, and does not enable the petitioner to undergo a reform and self development process to redeem himself.

(ii) The statutory omission of reform measures, is an inadequacy which renders the university incapable of rectifying the violation made by it. The systemic fault-line is contrary to the mandate of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

(v) Systemic responses : Responsibilities of the State and universities

136. Exercise of judicial power is the prerogative of the courts; but upholding the Constitution is not the monopoly of the courts.

137. To realize the fundamental rights guaranteed under the Constitution and to achieve the goals contemplated under the Preamble, all stakeholders have to play their part and all organs of governance have to perform their obligations. Constitutional ideals will become meaningful only if constitutional values animate the functioning of all institutions of governance. Universities have a special role to play.

138. The State and in this case the universities too, have the obligation to create an enabling environment, (emphasis supplied) where life and life enhancing attributes under Article 21 of the Constitution of India flourish and where constitutional ideals become a reality.

139. The importance of "therapeutic approach" in solving social dysfunctions, the growth in role of the State to give away public recognition in the way they treat their citizens, the evolution of law on the subject, and the contribution of universities were analyzed by Francis Fukuyama in his book "Identity". Some of the instructive passages are extracted below:

"The therapeutic turn in the popular culture of advanced liberal democracies such as the United States was inevitably reflected in its politics, and in an evolving understanding of the role of the state. In the classical liberalism of the nineteenth century, the state was held responsible for protecting basic rights such as freedom speech and association, for upholding a rule of law, and for providing essential public services such as police, roads, and education. The government "recognized" its citizens by granting them individual rights, but the state was not seen as responsible for making each individual feel better about himself or herself."

"Under the therapeutic method, however, an individual's happiness depends on his or her self-esteem, and self-esteem is a by-product of public recognition. Governments are readily able to give away public recognition in the way that they talk about and treat their citizens, so modern liberal societies naturally and perhaps inevitably began to take on the responsibility for raising the self-esteem of each and every one of their citizens".

"Therapeutic services came to be deeply embedded in social policy, not just in California but throughout the United States and in other liberal democracies. States began to offer psychological counseling and other mental health services, and schools began to incorporate therapeutic insights into the way that they taught children."

"In the early twentieth century, social dysfunctions such as delinquency or teen pregnancy were seen as deviant behaviour that needed to be dealt with punitively, often through the criminal justice system".

"But with the rise of therapeutic approaches by mid century, they were increasingly seen as social pathologies that needed to be treated through counseling and psychiatric intervention".

"The 1956 amendments to the Social Security Act allowed for federal reimbursements of a range of therapeutic services to strengthen family life and self-support."

"The therapeutic state metastasized across a wide number of institutions, including a large non-profit sector that by the 1990s had become the delivery vehicle for state-funded social services".

"Universities found themselves at the forefront of the therapeutic revolution."

(emphasis supplied)

140. These special needs of citizens have to be addressed by State action, and also through judicial interventions in a nuanced manner, and in a larger perspective. Exclusive reliance on coercive powers of the law, shall be inadequate and an unsatisfactory way of dealing with the problem. The therapeutic jurisprudence draws heavily from concept of human dignity and self worth for its philosophical underpinning.

141. Disciplinary action should also be supported by reformative philosophy. Reformative philosophy does not undermine the deterrent approach.

142. The statutory regime imposes punishment for delinquent acts. The reform programme will address the cause of delinquency itself. Framing the approach to discipline as a choice between punishment or reform is misleading. A just corrective system needs both. Both approaches complement each other and can be pursued simultaneously. Deterrent aspect may also be reinforced, by making grant of the degree contingent upon successful completion of the reform programme.

143. The ordinances providing for punishments for deviant conduct need to be duly supported by a legal framework for structured reform, self development and rehabilitation programmes. This environment will accord social recognition to the need for reform of delinquent students. The degrading effect of punishment will be ameliorated. Dialogue will end isolation, reform will reinstate self worth and education will enhance self esteem.

144. Structured reform, self development and rehabilitation programmes and therapeutic support, within a legal framework, will create an enabling environment (emphasis supplied) in the universities, to realize the fundamental right of human dignity, flowing from Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

L. Reform, Self Development & Rehabilitation

(i) Role of universities in achieving behavioral change

"You must be the change you wish to see in the world"

~Mahatma Gandhi

145. Non violence as a philosophy of thought, and a creed of conduct, was developed in India on a scale wider than elsewhere. From the Buddha to Ashoka and the Mahatma, behavioral change in adopting non violence as a way of life, at the national scale was greatly accomplished in India.

146. The response of the Indian civilization, to the challenges of communal hatred and communal otherness, was profound and without parallel. The unique response of the Indian society was fashioned by the universal philosophy of the Indian civilization; of affirming the unity of the human race, of embracing diversity, of respecting dissent, and creating a harmonious dialogue of faiths. The lives and teachings of saints and thinkers like Guru Nanak, Kabir, Vivekananda, Tagore and Mahatma Gandhi, bear testimony to this composite culture.

147. For each generation to produce such individuals of excellence is an exorbitant demand. Today behavioral change is achieved in a different manner, albeit more incrementally and less dramatically. Institutions like universities have a critical role to play. Universities have an obligation to the society and the individual. The universities have an irrevocable compact, and an organic connect with the society.

148. University is a paternal institution. By the act of suspension or debarment of a delinquent student, the university abandons its ward. The university has solved its problem, but the society has one at its hands. The downstream effects of the punishments, have not been considered by the respondents. Clearly there are direct costs to the society as well. There are no other institutions of equal standing, to engage with the youth, deal with the discontent or aberration, and channelize youthful energies.

149. The role of the University does not end in punishing perpetrators of violence. It begins with the identification of the causes of violence, communal hatred, and other forms of deviant conduct. Thereafter the responsibility to achieve behavioral change commences. The fruit of knowledge imparted by the universities lies in the manifestation of human values in the human personality and expression of humanity in human conduct. Knowledge which does not change human behaviour in this manner is futile.

(ii) Imbibing Constitutional values and purging communal hatred

150. The Indian civilizational ethos and the Indian constitutional values are congruent. The Supreme Court distilled the essence of Indian values, when it emphasised "our tradition teaches tolerance, our philosophy preaches tolerance and our Constitution practises tolerance; let us not dilute it" while upholding the religious rights of Jehovah's witnesses in Bijoe Emmanuel and others vs. State of Kerala and others, reported at (1986) 3 SCC 615.

151. Universities have to protect the space for open dialogue, respectful engagement and reasoned debate. Universities need to ensure that the space for constitutional values, is not encroached by communal hatred.

152. The universities have the responsibility, to preserve this heritage, and the obligation to nurture these constitutional values. University experience has to inculcate these values in the students.

153. The universities may consider holding seminars, workshops, heritage festivals, cultural festivals, literature festivals, and encourage other activities to achieve this end. This has to be a part of the larger programme of value creation and self development.

(iii) Present discontents of students and solutions

154. The preceding discussion shows how a reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, will create an enabling environment, for realization of the fundamental rights of the individual under Article 21. How such programme, will yield tangible benefits for the society, will now be examined.

155. The paradox of the digital age is a plethora of devices and a dilution of dialogue, the substitution of conversation by chatter. There is the ever present danger of growth of knowledge and diminution of thought. The young are empowered by technology, but made restless by the void in values, and lack of direction.

156. The dilemmas of the digital age were acutely summed up by Yuval Noah Harari in his profound and acclaimed work "Homo Deus":

"Today our knowledge is increasing at breakneck speed, and theoretically we should understand the world better and better. But the very opposite is happening. Our new-found knowledge leads to faster economic, social and political changes; in an attempt to understand what is happening, we accelerate the accumulation of knowledge, which leads only to faster and greater upheavals. Consequently we are less and less able to make sense of the present or forecast the future."

157. In this situation lack of avenues of engagement, absence of a structured reform, self development and therapeutic support system, leaves the students with little options. The choices available in the society, to satisfy their need for belonging, to recover self esteem, and to channelize youthful energies are not very encouraging.

158. Re-establishing meaningful dialogue, recreating an environment of fruitful conversation, and making empathetic engagement are some of the present challenges. The responsibility of reaching out and engaging with the students, and increasing quality interface with them, lies with the universities and the teachers.

159. These obligations can be accomplished by a meticulously created reform/self development programme and high quality of academic leadership within a comprehensive legal framework.

160. Universities are a microcosm of the society. They are laboratories of social change, and also agents of social transformation.

161. The manner in which the universities deal, with aberrations of violence other forms of deviant conduct, and deficit of values in students, has repercussions for the society at large. The divergent pulls of primordial instincts of hate and violence, against a citizen's duties in a nation ruled by law can best be managed by universities.

162. The universities are uniquely placed to deal with these issues. The universities have the intellectual capital, institutional framework and moral leadership, which puts them in the front rank of institutions to effect such change. The environment in the University should encourage and engender reflective actions instead of automatic choices.

163. The reform/self development and rehabilitation programme, will give an individual student correct direction in life, and prevent one from drifting away. The student will be anchored in constitutional values, and will not be led astray by social evils. The support and aid by the university will give one a sense of ownership and belonging. No harvest is richer for a nation, than citizens empowered by a constitutional value system.

164. The high pedestal at which teachers are placed in Indian traditions and thoughts, was recalled to explain the current role of teachers in Indian society, by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Avinash Nagra Vs. Navodaya Vidyalaya Samiti and Others, reported at (1997) 2 SCC 534. The relevant extracts were succinctly summed up by a Division Bench of this Court, in the case of Devarsh Nath Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and Others, reported at 2019(6) ADJ 296 (DB):

"22. Special status of teacher has been reminded by Court in Avinash Nagra vs. Navodaya Vidyalaya Samiti and others (1997) 2 SCC 534. Quoting Father of the Nation, Court said that a teacher cannot be without character. If he lacks it, he will be like salt without its savour. A teacher must touch the hearts of his students. Boys imbibe more from the teacher's own life than they do from books. If teachers impart all the knowledge in the world to their students but do not inculcate truth and purity amongst them, they will have betrayed them. Quoting Shri Aurobindo, Court said that it is the teacher's province to hold aloft the torch, to insist at all times and at all places that this nation of ours was founded on idealism and that whatever may be the prevailing tendencies of the times, our children shall learn to live among the sun-lit peaks. Court also referred Dr. S. Radhakrishanan saying that we, in our country, look upon teacher as gurus or, as acharyas. An Acharya is one whose achar or conduct is exemplary. He must be an example of Sadachar or good conduct. He must inspire the pupils who are entrusted to his care with love of virtue and goodness. The ideal of a true teacher is "andhakaraniridhata gurur itya bhidhiyate" (Andhakar is not merely intellectual ignorance, but is also spiritual blindness). He, who is able to remove that kind of spiritual blindness, is called a 'guru'. Swami Vivekananda was also quoted saying that student should live from his very boyhood with one whose character is a blazing fire and should have before him a living example of the highest teaching. In our country, the imparting of knowledge has always been through men of renunciation. The charge of imparting knowledge should again fall upon the shoulder of Tyagis."

165. In Avinash Nagra (supra), the obligations of teachers to transform students into responsible citizens, and inculcate the value system of the Indian Constitution, was stated thus:

"...The State has taken care of service conditions of the teacher and he owed dual fundamental duties to himself and to the society. As a member of the noble teaching profession and a citizen of India he should always be willing, self-disciplined, dedicated with integrity to remain ever a learner of knowledge, intelligently to articulate and communicate and imbibe in his students, as social duty, to impart education, to bring them up with discipline, inculcate to abjure violence and to develop scientific temper with a spirit of enquiry and reform constantly to rise to higher levels in any walk of life nurturing Constitutional ideals enshrined in Article 51A so as to make the students responsible citizens of the country. Thus the teacher either individually or collectively as a community of teachers, should regenerate this dedication with a bent of spiritualism in broader perspective of the Constitutionalism with secular ideologies enshrined in the Constitution as an arm of the State to establish egalitarian social order under the rule of law. Therefore, when the society has given such a pedestal, the conduct, character, ability and disposition of a teacher should be to transform the student into a disciplined citizen, inquisitive to learn, intellectual to pursue in any walk of life with dedication, discipline and devotion with an inquiring mind but not with blind customary beliefs....."

166. The students entering universities embark on a new phase in their lives. Many are often removed from their comfort zone, and the secure environment of their homes, to face the challenges of independent life. At times these new challenges can be intimidating, and the uncertainties can create apprehensions, in the minds of the young adults.

167. Some students are unmoored in this trying phase of life and change of circumstances. Ragging of juniors in institutions of higher learning and other evils make the situations worse for freshers. Such students especially girls students in our country, need full institutional support to face these challenges.

168. It is the responsibility of the universities and the institutions of higher learning to create requisite environment of sensitizing the senior students and supporting the freshers in every possible manner.

169. A programme for self development implemented in a proactive manner shall foster constitutional values among students. Students need to realize the value of dissent in a democracy, but also have to understand the manner of dissent in a society ruled by law.

170. This process also requires initiation of engagement with the students and improving the quality of interface between the teachers and the taught. Educating the educators in this regard has to be a part of any such programme. Workshops have to be held and other methods have to be explored, to cultivate constitutional values in students and achieve behavioral change.

171. These are the preventive measures to address the issues of indiscipline, deficit in values and deviant behaviour in all institutions of higher learning.

172. The preventive measures preclude the occurrence of deviant behaviour. The post facto rehabilitation measures prevent recurrence of deviant behaviour. Both have to be integrated into one conjoint system of value creation, in the universities and institutions of higher learning.

173. Structured reform/self development programmes run by universities, can be catalysts for inducing behavioral change, and inculcating a constitutional value system in students. A successful reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, can convert a possible danger into a real asset for the society.

(iv) Creation of reform, self development & rehabilitation programmes

174. Many branches of knowledge in modern times are devoted to the study of human psychology, social behaviour and behavioural change. Psychology, Psychiatry, Sociology, Anthropology and Behavioral Economics, are some fields dedicated to gaining insights into human behaviour and inducing behavioural change.

175. Works of the Nobel prize winning economist Richard Thaler deserve special mention. The methodology of "nudges", in creating behavioral change has been gaining acceptability. The organization "Nudge" in Lebanon, has done noteworthy work with refugee children, and on environmental protection.

176. The Behavioral Insights Teams sometimes called "Nudge Units", are also existing in many nations including Australia, Canada, Germany, Qatar, the United Arab Emirates, Japan, the United States, and the United Kingdom. The Economic Survey released by India's Finance Ministry in July, 2019 has concluded with the clear recommendations that "the proposal to set up a behavioral economics unit in the NITI Ayog must be immediately activated". The report further noticed that the unit should work with State Governments, helping them to make their programme more effective, and informing them of the potential value of Behavioural Insights.

177. Ancient branches of knowledge and wellness like yoga, meditation, vipassana and so on may prove to be rich resources to benefit from.

178. Many scientific researches have confirmed the efficacy of these ancient systems of human wellness. These branches of knowledge have to be approached with a scientific and an open academic mindset. Personal beliefs have to be respected at all times. There can be no imposition of any system, which is resisted on grounds of faith or beliefs; in which cases other options may be given.

179. Socially useful work like planting and taking care of trees, and flora may be a part of the programme. Sports and sporting activities also go a long way in creating integrating social values, and enhancing emotional intelligence. Teaching needy children, serving the sick, and other forms of service to the society are options which may be explored. Counselling sessions with experts and psychologists could prove useful.

180. Therapeutic solutions to social problems, are being increasingly recognized by social scientists, medical experts, psychologists, and jurists alike.

181. Creation of course content of the reform or self development programme, and manner of its implementation has to be decided by the respondents. This requires wide consultations, deliberations and workshops with academia, varsities, institutions of research, student counsellors, psychologists, psychiatrists, students and other stakeholders.

182. The UGC is a statutory body, and cannot abdicate its responsibilities in this scenario. The functions of the UGC are enumerated in the University Grants Commission Act, 1956. The UGC will play an important role, in the creation and standardization of the course, for reformation and self development, and aid its implementation on an institutional basis.

183. The Government of India in particular, the Ministry of Human Resource Development, also has a contribution to make in the process. The Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, New Delhi, has to provide the necessary support to the University as may be required under law to create and implement the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme. This support would include the creation of necessary infrastructure for implementing the programmes.

184. Both the University Grants Commission and the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, are required to support the universities in their endeavours to create and implement the programmes of reform, self development and rehabilitation.

185. Law enforcement agencies the world over are engaging with the youth, to draw them away from the appeal of extreme ideologies.

186. The prestige enjoyed by universities and the teachers in society, will make the programme credible to concerned individuals, and acceptable to the student community. The key to the efficacy of any structured reform programme, is empathetic engagement and a supportive environment.

187. An impersonal approach and institutional prejudice, can make the programme a non starter. Due sensitization of all stakeholders is required, before implementing the programme.

188. The founding purpose of universities to supply intellectual and moral leadership to the society, and to be at the vanguard of social transformation, will be eminently achieved by effective reformation/therapeutic/self development programmes.

(v) Concerns of universities regarding discipline & restraints during the reformation, self development & rehabilitation programme

189. The Court is cognizant of concerns of the universities, that a reform programme should not derail university administration, nor should it have a detrimental effect on discipline and good order in the campus. A reform and rehabilitation programme, is not intended to allow a wrongdoer to escape justice.

190. Apprehensions of the universities need to be addressed. The reform programme has to be created and structured and implemented in a manner that it does not adversely impact the good order and discipline in the university campus.

191. The start of reform programme does not inevitably mean a free access to, or unconditional reinstatement of a delinquent student into the University campus. In cases of indiscipline where presence of individuals poses a threat of breakdown of order in the University campus, a decision can be made only by the University. Even when such students undergo a reform programme, and the students are pursuing their academic studies, the University may impose restraints it deems fit.

192. To obviate possibilities of disruption in the academic atmosphere, various measures of graduated restrictions may be imposed on a case to case basis. These restraints may include minute monitoring of movements in campus, restricting movements and contact, an employee escort till the student is in the campus, alteration of class schedules and timings. Such lighter restrictions could continue, while undergoing reform programmes along with the academic course.

193. More stringent measures in aggravated cases, may include a campus ban, with on-line classes and home schooling. Transfer to constituent colleges or other universities from a pool of universities, or setting up separate premises are among the options. In these cases entry to the specific University campus may be barred, even as the reform programme is underway, and the student is prosecuting his academic course.

194. These are some illustrative instances, of restraints which may be imposed by the universities.

M. Proportionality & Punishment

195. The controversy has to be seen from another critical legal perspective. The doctrine of proportionality is an established ground of judicial review in the Indian Constitutional jurisprudence.

196. Aharon Barak, former President of Supreme Court of Israel in his book

"Proportionality" thus defines the rules of the doctrine of proportionality, "According to the four components of proportionality a limitation of constitutional right will be permissible if, (1) It is designated for a proper purpose, (2) The measures undertaken to effectuate such a limitation are rationally connected to the fulfillment of that purpose, (3) The measures undertaken are necessary and in that there are alternative measures that may similarly achieve that same purpose with a lesser degree of limitation and finally; (4) Their needs to be a proper relation "proportionality strict senso and balance" between the importance of achieving the proper purpose and social importance of preventing the limitation on the constitutional right."

197. The concept of proportionality essentially visualizes, a graduated response to the nature of the misconduct by a delinquent student. The purpose of the institution, its role in the society and its obligations to the nation, provide the setting for adjudication of the issue of proportionality.

198. Proportionality first came to be applied in the context of punishments imposed for misconduct in service jurisprudence. The necessity of proportional punishment, in cases of misconduct by students is more strongly needed. Hence action of the respondent-University, is liable to be tested on the anvil of disproportionality.

199. The "doctrine of proportionality" was introduced, and embedded in the administrative law of our country, by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ranjit Thakur Versus Union of India, reported at (1987) 4 SCC 611. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ranjit Thakur held thus:

"Judicial review generally speaking, is not directed against a decision, but is directed against the "decision making process". The question of the choice and quantum of punishment is within the jurisdiction and discretion of the Court-Martial. But the sentence has to suit the offence and the offender. It should not be vindictive or unduly harsh. It should not be so disproportionate to the offence as to shock the conscience and amount in itself to conclusive evidence of bias. The doctrine of proportionality, as part of the concept of judicial review, would ensure that even on an aspect which is, otherwise, within the exclusive province of the Court-Martial, if the decision of the Court even as to sentence is an outrageous defiance of logic, then the sentence would not be immune from correction. Irrationality and perversity are recognised grounds of judicial review. "

200. The essence of proportionality is that, the competent authority while imposing a punishment upon a delinquent student, has to co-relate and balance the imperatives of institutional discipline with the demands of individual rights. Too light a punishment will not be conducive to institutional discipline. Too harsh a punishment will not be consistent with norms of justice.

201. The enquiry into the four components of proportionality, as elucidated by Justice Aharon Barak in his book "Proportionality" has been made in the preceding part of the judgment. The purpose and obligations of universities, have also received consideration, in the earlier part of the narrative.

202. The measures undertaken against the petitioner, are not rationally connected to the fulfillment of the purpose sought to be achieved. The proper and designated purpose of a punishment in a University, has to include reform of the student, not mere imposition of penalty. Clearly there are alternative reformative measures, that can achieve the same purpose, with a lesser degree of curtailment of the students rights.

203. The action taken against the petitioner, does not achieve the purpose, and social importance of the reform and rehabilitation of the delinquent student. These aspects need consideration by the respondents.

N. Conclusions and Reliefs

204. It was contended on behalf of the University that the petitioner was given an opportunity to be a part of the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme being run by the University. The petitioner did not avail the aforesaid opportunity. However, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner would like to submit his contrite apology and undertakes to adhere to reform, self development and rehabilitation programme which may be framed for him by the University, if he is allowed to pursue his academic programme simultaneously.

205. The petitioner is also willing to observe restraints imposed upon him by the University inside the campus while pursuing his B.Tech (Mechanical Engineering) course along with reform, self development and rehabilitation programme.

206. In view of the aforesaid stands taken by the learned counsel for the petitioner, the respondent University does not have any serious objections to reinstate the petitioner subject to the fulfillment of the conditions mentioned during the course of argument.

207. In the facts of the case, in the material before the Court, the acts of omission and commission, ascribed to the petitioner are acts of youthful folly. These acts cannot be permitted to go unnoticed nor unpunished by the University. Such acts undoubtedly disturb the academic atmosphere of the University campus, and smear the reputation of IIT Banaras Hindu University.

208. However, it is equally true that considering the age of the petitioner and nature of the misconduct attributed to him, he has to be provided an opportunity to atone for his faults and needs to be given the correct guidance and direction in life.

209. The petitioner has shown willingness to reform himself, and transform into a law abiding citizen of the country, before this Court. The University is supportive of the aforesaid quest of the petitioner.

210. In this situation, it is the responsibility of the University to provide necessary institutional support for a reform programme. The petitioner shall be permitted to pursue his studies alongside the reform and rehabilitation programme to be designed by the University. The University may impose any restraints upon the petitioner, it deems necessary while he undergoes the reform programme and pursue his studies.

211. It shall be compulsory for the petitioner to attend the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme along with his academic course.

212. The University authorities shall draw up a report of attendance and his progress in the reform course, along with his academic programme.

213. A formal reform programme has not been created by the University till date. The petitioner has to be reinstated urgently. In these circumstances, the University in interregnum shall create a provisional reform, self development and rehabilitation programme. The University shall consider including the following activities in the interregnum reform programme for the petitioner along with the academic schedule of the B.E. (Mechanical):

I. Yoga and Meditation;

II. Physical exercise regime;

III. Planting and taking care of trees and Flora in the University campus;

IV. Social service including teaching under privileged students;

V. Counselling with expert psychiatrists/ psychologists;

VI. Attendance in the aforesaid programme shall be duly recorded along with the progress report;

VII. An undertaking of good conduct by the petitioner, and apology on affidavit shall be given to the university forthwith.

VIII. The petitioner shall continue with the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme till the end of B.Tech (Mechanical Engineering) degree course.

IX. While reinstating the petitioner, the University may impose any restrictions or restraints upon the petitioner while he is in the campus. The petitioner shall adhere to the aforesaid restraints without demur. This restraints shall be imposed by the University to ensure that the academic atmosphere of the University is not vitiated in any manner and other students are not harassed or threatened or adversely affected by the conduct of the petitioner.

X. The University may ease the restraints or impose more stringent restrictions depending upon the conduct of the petitioner and others relevant subsequent development including those which happen during the course of the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme.

XI. This exercise of creating reform, self development and rehabilitation programme in the interregnum and reinstatement of the petitioner, shall be implemented within a period of two weeks from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order. While reinstating the petitioner, the University may impose appropriate restrictions on the petitioner regarding his activities in the campus;

XII. The mercy appeal of the petitioner shall be decided in light of the above directions, within a period of two weeks from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

214. The issue relating to creation of reform, self development and rehabilitation programmes in the University was heard as a common issue in various writ petitions. The Secretary, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Union of India, New Delhi and the Chairman, University Grants Commission, New Delhi, were also parties in the leading two writ petitions, namely, Writ C No. 13214 of 2019 (Anant Narayan Mishra Vs. The Union of India and Others) and Writ C No. 26755 of 2019 (Mohammad Ghayas Vs. State of U.P. and Others). All connected writ petitions were heard together.

215. The directions issued to the Secretary, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Union of India, New Delhi and the Chairman, University Grants Commission, New Delhi, in the leading two writ petitions, namely, Writ C No. 13214 of 2019 (Anant Narayan Mishra Vs. The Union of India and Others) and Writ C No. 26755 of 2019 (Mohammad Ghayas Vs. State of U.P. and Others), being of a general nature, shall be part of all connected writ petitions including the instant writ petition.

216. The necessity of creating a full fledged and well thought out reform, self development and rehabilitation programme is not obviated and it still exists in the University. Consequently, a writ in the nature of mandamus is issued to the respondents to execute the following directions:

I. The University shall create a reform, self development and rehabilitation programme for students accused of misconduct and against whom disciplinary action or any action to deny facilities of the University is proposed or taken;

II. The reform, self development and rehabilitation programme should be created after wide consultations and workshops with institutions of higher learning and research, universities, experts, student counsellors/psychologists, psychiatrists, students and other stakeholders;

III. University Grants Commission will aid the above process by providing the necessary support to the University to create, standardize and effectuate the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme in the University.

IV. The Secretary, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, New Delhi, shall also provide the necessary support to create infrastructure in the University to effectuate the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme in the University, in light of this judgment and as per law.

V. The reform, self development and rehabilitation programmes shall be processed as per law and integrated into the existing legal/statutory framework of the University dealing with deviant conduct and punishments.

VI. The exercise shall be completed, preferably, within six months, but not later than 12 months. At all times the respondents keeping in mind the best interests of the students and the society, shall make all efforts to expedite the compliance of the directions.

VII. It shall be open to the respondents to create a scheme for reform, self development and rehabilitation for convicts in criminal cases who wish to pursue further higher studies in the respondent University.

VIII. The counsels for the petitioner as well as the respondents shall provide certified copy of this judgment along with a copy of the judgment of this Court rendered in Writ C No. 13214 of 2019 (Anant Narayan Mishra Vs. The Union of India and Others), to the Director, Indian Institute of Technology, Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi; the Secretary, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Union of India, New Delhi and the Chairman, University Grants Commission, New Delhi, for necessary compliances.

217. The writ petition is finally disposed of.

1. Civil Appeal No. 20854 of 2017; Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Circle 11 (1), Bangalore v. M/s Ace Multi Axes Systems Ltd. decided on 05.12.2017 by the Supreme Court

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J. & Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Firoz Haider, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Vidya Kant Tripathi, learned counsel for respondent nos. 5 and Dr. D.K.Tiwari, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. Invoking extra ordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution, the petitioner has challenged the entire auction preceding pursuant to notice inviting tender dated 25.06.2019 for allotment of fisheries rights and consequential order dated 11.07.2019 in favour of respondent no. 4. The petitioner since was not in possession of the allotment order so he did not annex the copy thereof but allotment order has been brought on record in the counter affidavit filed by respondent nos. 2,3 and 4 as annexure 3 and the Court takes judicial notice of the same.

3. Briefly stated facts of the case are that Deputy Director Fisheries of Chitrakoot Division issued notice inviting tender for allotment of fisheries rights vide publication dated 25th June, 2019 in respect of six ponds of the categories, 2,3 and 4. The controversy in the present petition pertains to the auction proceedings in respect of reservoir (pond) in category 4 situate at village Manikpur district Chitrakoot. As per the advertisement total area of the pond is 76.00 hectares and reserved price for the auction fixed in the advertisement was Rs. 1,45,000/-. In the advertisement, it is categorically provided that in case if the requisite tender applications are not received or sufficient price is not bidded in first round of proceedings scheduled on 11th July, 2019, second round of proceedings would take place on 18th July, 2019 inviting fresh tenders and if the second round proceedings met the same fate, third round of proceedings would take place on 22nd July, 2019 and then finally on 22nd July, 2019. According to the petitioner in the very first round of the proceedings when bid was opened on 11th July, 2019 it stood granted on same day in favour of respondent no. 5 which is a society consisting of members not confined to the village or development block but of villages at Tehsil level forming cooperative society having area of operation at Tehsil level and which according to the petitioner could not have been permitted in the first round of bidding process. According to the learned counsel for the petitioner, therefore, the allotment of fisheries rights in respect of pond in question awarded in favour of respondent no. 5 is illegal.

4. The argument of learned counsel for the petitioner questioning the auction proceedings and consequential allotment of the fisheries rights can be summarized as under;

(a). As per the Fisheries Manual, application to the auction proceedings relating to the fisheries rights, the first preference has to be given to the cooperative societies consisting of the villagers only of the gram panchayat where the reservoir situates in the first round and in case if applications are not received from the cooperative societies of the villagers or in case reserved price is not met by the bidding societies the second and third round of tender proceedings will be held. The issue thus raised is that respondent no. 5 being a cooperative society having the area of operation beyond limits of development block in question and consisting of persons belonging to other blocks, respondent no. 5 could not have participated in the first round of tender proceedings, and his tender application was liable to be renderd unqualified/ineligible and thus was to be rejected;

(b) The respondents could not have justified accepting applications of the bidders who could have been admitted only in 2nd and 3rd round of the biddings at the same time i.e. initially in the absence of any order/direction to that effect by the Chairman of the Auction Committee. He submits that as per manual there has to be an order in writing inviting all the bidders eligible in several other stages like in 2nd, 3rd and 4th round, to apply their tender in the very first round; and

(c) As per the manual, participants societies must have requisite fund in its account equivalent to the reserved price shown in the advertisement on the date of application of tender and since respondent no. 5 did not have requisite fund in its bank account, its tender application was therefore not submitted with requisite document, the same ought to have been rejected at the very threshold.

5. Per contra the arguments advanced by learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel representing respondent nos. 1 to 4 as well as counsel for the respondent no. 5 are that procedure as prescribed for under the manual as well as Government order issued in that regard dated 27th August, 2018 has been duly complied with. He further argues, relying upon the same very manual that relevant clause 12 of the manual clearly stipulates that applications of all the stages can be invited in the very first stage. He submits that complete transparency has been adopted in allotment of fisheries rights and authorities have not committed any illegality much less a substantial one, as alleged, so as to render the proceedings vitiated in law.

6. Learned counsel for respondent no. 5 has also placed reliance upon Clause 12 of the manual and submits that if application was not invited in the very first round by the respondents and petitioner had submitted duly filled up tender application, there was no fault on its part. He further submits that since agreement has been executed by means of the allotment order, the petitioner, if has any grievance, he can approach for common law remedy instead of preferring present writ petition.

7. Rival submissions fall for consideration.

8. In order to put records straight, we refer to our initial order dated 5.08.2019, in which we had noticed the allegations made in the writ petition regarding illegal proceedings and accordingly directed the learned Standing Counsel to have instructions in the matter and matter was fixed for 14.8.2019. However on 14th August, 2019, the matter could not be heard as lawyers were abstaining from the work and, consequently, 21st August, 2019 was next date fixed and on 21.08.2019, respondent no. 3, Sub Director of Fisheries Department, district Jhansi Sri Gyanendra Singh, himself appeared before the Court and it was stated that on 08th August, 2019 an agreement had been executed in favour of respondent no. 5. Since respondent no. 5 himself was present in Court on that day, we directed the respondent no. 5 to engage counsel and accordingly, adjourned the matter for 29th August, 2019. On 29th August, 2019 since lawyers were again abstaining from work and officers summoned in the case were present but it was informed by them that pursuant to the agreement, no consequential actions have been taken, so therefore, we directed the parties to maintain status quo fixing 5th September, 2019. On 5th September, 2019, since original records were brought before this Court, personal appearance of the officers were dispensed giving them liberty to file their response in the matter and fixed the date for 16th September, 2019. On 16th September, 2019 since counter was filed, the petitioner was granted time to file rejoinder and that is why the case is fixed for today and matter is heard.

9. Now coming to the first argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner that respondent no. 5 could not have been applicant in first round of bidding process in response to the notice inviting tender dated 25th June, 2019. we consider it necessary first to refer the relevant clause of manual that prescribes for the procedure to be followed in the matter of allotment of fisheries rights in respect of a reservoir falling in 4th category. We may notice also that 4th category of reservoir is a pond of an area of more than 5 hectares. Clause 6 of the provisions is reproduced "hereunder:"

"6. निविदा के प्रथम चक्र में सम्बन्धित जलाशय के भौगोलिक क्षेत्र में पड़ने वाली गांवसभा/गांव सभाओं तथा सम्बन्धित विकास खण्ड की पंजीकृत मत्स्य जीवी सहकारी समितियां एवं स्वंय सहायता समूह ही भाग लेंगी।"

English Translation by this Court:

"In the first round of the tender proceedings the registered fisheries cooperative societies and cooperative groups can participate who belong to the Gaon Sabha/Gaon Sabhas of concerned development block falling in the area where territory of the pond falls."

10. It has been admitted and is undisputed that water reservoir in question is in village Manikpur and respondent no. 5 as an individual neither belongs to the village nor, development block in question nor, the cooperative society is confined to the village or development block having stretches of reservoir (pond) in question.

11. In paragraph 10 of the writ petition categorical averment has been made which is reproduced hereunder:

" That it is evidence on record that the respondent is not belong to the village or Block of the fisheries lease reservoir (pond), therefore, the respondent is not entitled to appear in the allotment proceeding of fisheries lease reservoir (pond) of Hela Reservoir and Manikpur Reservoir (pond) under the government Order.

The true copy of the registration Certificate of the respondent as well as the Government orders dated 16.01.2006 and 08.01.2019 are being filed herewith and marked as Annexure-4 to this writ petition. "

12. In reply to paragraph 10 of the writ petition, respondent no. 5, the main contesting party has averred as under in paragraph 21:

" That the contents of paragraph numbers 10 of the writ petition as stated is incorrect hence denied. It is further submitted that from the village/Block in which the aforesaid reservoir situate only one tender application of the petitioner was existing. To generate the better revenue against the allotment of the aforesaid reservoir the competition was required hence the second round tendering was opened in which more than one tender application was found. Amongst these 3, the tender amount of the respondent no. 5 was highest and accordingly the allotment has been made in his favour. In paragraph no. 12 of the Manual Nivida Prapatra it has been explained that the tender application of all rounds may be opened simulatneously."

13. Thus there is no specific denial that respondent no. 5 does not belong to the village or the territories with stretches of pond/reservoir in question and, therefore, all the averments made in paragraph 10 of the writ petition stand admitted.

14. However, we also made a pointed query from learned counsel for the respondent no. 5 as to whether respondent no. 5 belongs to the village or the development block or in other words his society confined to the village Panchayat or any of the village Panchyats in the development block in question, he fairly made an admission at the bar that respondent no. 5 does not belong to the village nor, development block nor, it is society confined in its area of operation to the village panchayat or development block only.

15. From perusal of clause 6 (supra) it is clearly revealed that in the first round of tender process only fisheries cooperative societies of the village panchayat or any of the village panchayat of development block in which territory of reservoir extends can only apply. Since respondent no. 5 does not belong to or fulfills such a criterion, he could not have participated in the first round of tender process.

16. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, however, has vehemently urged that in view of Clause 12 of the manual, respondent no. 5 after applied in the first round, his application was not liable to be rejected. He further submits that even after bid was accepted in the very first round of a cooperative society who could have participated in the 2nd and 3rd round, there was no substantial error in view of Clause 14. In order to appreciate the argument of learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel Clause 12 of the manual is reproduced as under:

"12. श्रेणी–4 जलाशयों के सम्बन्ध में चकों/पात्रता की निविदाएं एक साथ या अलग–अलग प्राप्त करने व खोलने की कार्यवाही एक ही तिथि या अलग–अलग तिथियों में की जा सकती है। इस सम्बन्ध में अध्यक्ष नीलाम समिति द्वारा निर्णय लिया जायेगा। शासनादेश दिनांक 16.01.2006 में निर्धारित पात्रता के क्रम में ई–निविदाएं खोली जायेगी एवं वरीयता क्रम में जिस चक्र में निर्धारित न्यूनतम मूल्य से अधिक निविदा मूल्य प्राप्त हो जायेगा उसके पक्ष में निविदा स्वीकृत की जायेगी।"

English Translation:

"In respect of 4th category reservoir, the applications of various stages/rounds as per the eligibility can be conducted at the same time in one single round and can be opened on one date or it can be opened on different dates. In this regard, the Chairman of the Auction Committee shall take decision as per the Government Order dated 16th January, 2006 which prescribes for eligibility. The technical bids will be opened in order of preference in which round they fall and in the event of highest bid being proposed such application would be granted."

17. Thus from bare reading of the provision, it is clearly borne out that while applications for different round of tender process falling in different category, can be invited and admitted at the same time irrespective of the rounds advertised and then final opening of the same can be done simultaneously at one time and can ofcourse, be opened on the very first round and license can be given to the highest bidder following preferences of the category but in that regard a decision has to be taken by the Chairman of the Auction Committee. Thus Clause-12 of the manual carves out an exception to Clause 6 but with the rider that there has to be decision by the Chairman of the Auction Committee. As Clause 12 stands as exception to the general rule of procedure prescribed for under Clause 6 the rider given thereunder is mandatory to make it happen . In none of the paragraphs of the counter affidavit, it has been stated that any such decision was taken by the Chairman of the Auction Committee nor, do we find anything from the records which have been duly verified by the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, any such order is available which may demonstrate that Chairman Auction Committee had taken decision to invite all applications meant for different stages, at one point of time.

18. In such view of the matter, therefore, merely because decision has been taken in favour of respondent no. 5, it cannot be presumed that Chairman of the Auction Committee might have taken such decision. Neither provision provides any deeming clause for the purpose of raising such a presumption nor, do we find any reason for the same because Clause 12 stands only an exception to Clause 6 . Any interpretation as suggested by the Additional Chief Standing Counsel would be doing violence to the spirit of Clause 6 and would amount also eroding the principles of transparency which is not only of paramount importance in matters of public auction but is sine qua non in matters of procedure to be followed in public tender process.

19. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent no. 5 supporting the argument of Additional Chief Standing Counsel has drawn our attention to the document annexed as annexure CA-6 and submits that item no. 1, and item no. 7 were the only societies belonging to the village or the Gram Panchayat whereas rest of the societies where of Tehsil level who participated in the first round of bidding. He further submits that since minimum three applications should have been there and only two societies were applicants, the Auction Committee was left with no other option but to proceed to consider all the tender applications that would have been ordinarily submitted in the 2nd round and onwards. So, according to him there was no error much less a substantial one to hold the allotment and selection of the respondent no. 5 being highest bidder, to be bad. This, argument advanced by learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel does not impress us either. If there were only two cooperative societies in the very first round, there was all the more reason to hold 2nd round of tender process afresh as contemplated both in the advertisement as well as fisheries rights allotment manual.

20. Since, we have already held that there was no order in writing of the Chairman of the Auction Committee to invite applications at the same time, considerations of applications of various societies from serial no. 2 to 6 could not have been done in the first round held on 11th July, 2019. We are not considering the case of item no. 8 in annexure 6 to the counter affidavit of respondent no. 5 because that society did not participate and absented. However, its absence could have been caused only because there was further procedure prescribed for 2nd, 3rd and 4th round of bidding process and it could have been under the impression that 2nd round would be held. We may not justify the action and procedure followed by respondent on the ground that Chairman did not pass the order for the exercise that was undertaken at the very first round, but we may also observe that the other fisheries cooperative societies could not have requisite knowledge of such procedure being followed and, therefore, even others might have been denied the chance. This procedural flaw therefore, goes to the root of the matter and we are constrained to hold that there was no such transparency as is expected from the government functionaries, at least in the procedure to be adopted in a public tender process. Thus, so far as 1st and 2nd arguments advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner are concerned, they hold merit.

21. Coming to the 3rd argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner that respondent no. 5 did not have requisite fund in its account to match at-least minimum reserved price in the auction of the fisheries rights in respect of the reservoir in question. Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn our attention to Clause 28 of the manual. Clause 28 of the manual runs as under:

" मत्स्य जीवी सहकारी समितियों को निविदा प्रस्तुत करने हेतु प्रबंध समिति से पारित प्रस्ताव एवं बैंक पास बुक में प्रथम वर्ष के निविदा मूल्य के सापेक्ष धनराशि जमा की पुष्टि के लिये फोटो कापी भी प्रस्तुत करनी होगी । निविदा प्रस्तुत करने हेतु समिति के सचिव ही अधिकृत है अन्य के द्वारा प्रस्तुत निविदा निरस्त कर दी जायेगी । "

English Translation:

For the purpose of submitting tender application, it is necessary for the fisheries cooperative societies to have resolution passed from its committee of management for the said purpose and the bank photocopy of the passbook of the order of the tender must show balance amount matching reserved price. For the purpose of filing tender application, Secretaries are also authorized any other tender application by any other persons was rejected.

22. Thus, it is condition precedent in a sense that a pre-requisite for tender application is that it should be submitted alongwith photocopy of the passbook which should show balance amount at par with reserved price fixed in the notice inviting tender. It means that it included balance amount should be there on the date of submission of tender application.

23. Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn our attention to the statement of the bank account of respondent no. 5 which has been annexed alongwith rejoinder affidavit and which shows that till 11th July, 2019, respondent no. 5 had only Rs. 5,870/- in its account. Rs. 4, 40,000/- were deposited only on 12th July, 2019 which is admittedly, a date after acceptance of tender application of respondent no. 5 and consequential allotment of fisheries rights that took place on 11th July, 2019 itself.

24. Learned counsel for the respondent does not dispute this fact but only reiterate that requisite money got deposited well in time before agreement entered with fisheries department on 08th August, 2019. The legal position is absolutely clear. Every tender has to be in incomplete form with all requisites documents on the date of application of tender, no amendment or supplementary to correct the tender application is permissible unless the rule of procedure or advertisement provided for that and this is not a case where any such amendment in the tender application was permissible. However, condition is that there should be cooperative societies and the cooperative societies should have resolution passed in its favour for the purpose of applying for tender, by its Committee of Management and that tender application is accompanied by the photocopy of the passbook showing minimum balance at par with minimum reserved price under the advertisement. These conditions in our view are quite mandatory in nature and if these documents are not filed in support of the tender application, tender application would be liable to be rejected. So on this count also, the tender application of the respondent no. 5 could not have been entertain and so allotment order dated 11th July, 2019 cannot be sustained in law.

25. The law is well settled that when a thing is required to be done in a particular manner under the Rules should be done in that very manner in case of Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Circle 11 (1), Bangalore v. M/s Ace Multi Axes Systems Ltd, in Civil Appeal No. 20854 of 2017 decided on 5th December, 2017. Vide paragraph 21, the Apex Court has held thus:

"26. Whenever the statute prescribes that a particular act is to be done in a particular manner and also lays down that failure to comply with the said requirement leads to severe consequences, such requirement would be mandatory. It is the cardinal rule of interpretation that where a statute provides that a particular thing should be done, it should be done in the manner prescribed and not in any other way. It is also settled rule of interpretation that where a statute is penal in character, it must be strictly construed and followed. Since the requirement, in the instant case, of obtaining prior permission is mandatory, therefore, non-compliance with the same must result in cancelling the concession made in favour of the grantee, the respondent herein."

26. Although, the Apex Court has been dealing with statutory rules in the said case but even in matters where no statutory rules have been framed the Government Orders, manual containing rules, circulars, directives or guidelines if framed for the said purpose, in our opinion are equally binding and the authorities dealing with matters should abide by the procedure prescribed for under such manual, government Orders or directives or circulars.

27. In this case a specific provision as contained in the fisheries manual framed for the purpose of carrying out auction proceedings for fisheries rights, provided detail procedure , it was not open for the Auction Committee to have bypassed the same or mould the same to suit its convenience. An authority that enjoys power or has source of power from such rules, does not enjoy the authority to change rules or mould the rules according to its convenience. Thus, in our opinion in the present case tender proceedings in question have been conducted and the bidding process has been held quite contrary to the procedure prescribed for under the manual providing procedure for auction proceedings qua fisheries rights.

28. In view of above, the entire tender proceedings conducted by respondent pursuant to the advertisement dated 25th July, 2019 in respect of Manikpur category 4 reservoir, district Chitrakoot and the consequential allotment order date 11.07.2019 in favour of respondent no. 5 brought on record vide annexure 1 to the counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent nos. 1 to 4 are hereby quashed.

29. Respondents are directed to initiate proceedings to float tender afresh for the purpose of allotment of fisheries rights in respect of reservoir in question within four weeks from the date of production of certified copy of this order. It is made clear that this time the procedure will be strictly followed as per the manual and the relevant Government Order and all the eligible persons including petitioner and respondent no. 5 shall be entitled to participate in the tender process as per their own rights of preference.

30. Writ petition thus stands allowed with above observations and directions.

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Civil Law-UP Kshettra Panchayat and Zila Panchayat Act, 1961 – Section 15(2) and 15(3) – Notice of no confidence – Limitation – Intention to make motion – There is a clear mandate by the legislature that no meeting can be convened for discussing a no confidence motion beyond a period of 30 days – The explanation that has been appended to the relevant provision only saves a situation where a notice of confidence motion has been put to challenge and there is some stay order operating in that respect –Once a notice is given convening a meeting, the meeting is a must on the scheduled date. (Para 12)

B. Constitution of India – Article 226 – Suspension of Notice – Effect of Vacation of Stay Order – If Court finds notice to be legal and dismisses the writ petition vacating the stay order, the suspended animation gets over and natural legal effect would be the rescheduling of the meeting as if notice was already there – Court's order suspending any notice, otherwise legal, is like an eclipse that overshadows the time schedule provided under the Act, for a while and then goes away. (Para 13)

C. Interpretation of Statute – Golden rule of interpretation – Literal interpretation – A limitation if prescribed by legislature, it cannot be extended – The golden rule of interpretation is to go by literal interpretation to a provision of law – The explanation added to the Section not only shows intendment of the legislature in saving a particular situation so that by an act of Court a proceeding otherwise legal, does not get frustrated, the principle being 'actus curiae neminem gravabit' which means act of Court shall prejudice no man. (Para 15)

D. Constitution of India – Article 226 – Scope – Court exercising its power under Article 226, cannot pass a direction which would not only carry out a new exception to the general law but in substance would amount to an exercise, quite legislative in nature, which is clearly not permissible. (Para 16)

List of cases cited :-

1. Jones vs. Smart, 99 ER 963

2. Union of India vs. Rajiv Kumar (2003) 6 SCC 516

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J.)

1. Heard Sri Tarun Agrawal, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Devendra Kumar Tiwari, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel for respondent nos.1 and 2 and Sri Rahul Sahai, learned counsel appearing for respondent no.3. Perused the record.

2. By means of this petition under Article 226 of the Constitution, the petitioner has questioned the correctness of the order dated 31.8.2019 passed by the District Magistrate whereby he has turned down the notice of no confidence motion moved by the petitioner and other members of Zila Panchayat on the ground that it was only signed by five members, though, it has been acknowledged in the order itself that there were 37 affidavits filed in support of the notice of no confidence motion.

3. We summoned the original records for the purposes of due verification as to the reason assigned in the order impugned by the District Magistrate. From the perusal of the original records, we find that the notice, though on the first page, is signed by five members but it has also an appended list of 37 members including those five members, titled as "Signatures of the members on a format in support of the notice of no confidence motion."

4. Having thus perused the original records, atleast this much is clear that there was a notice having a due appendix of the format which contained signatures of 37 members who intended to move a notice of no confidence motion against respondent no.3.

5. An argument has been advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner also relying upon a judgment of Division Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Shashi Yadav vs. State of U.P. and others wherein in identical facts and circumstances the notice of motion carried alongwith affidavits of members who intended to move the no confidence motion. The Court held in its ultimate paragraph nos.38, 39 and 40 thus:

"38. We hold the provision regarding the form of written notice of intention to make the motion required to be submitted to the Collector on behalf of the members signing the notice under Section 15(2) is to be directory in nature. A substantial compliance of the provisions would implement the requirements of law. A substantial compliance is done when the purpose of the notice is achieved. The purpose of the notice of intent to make the motion, is to furnish to the Collector the material on which he has to found his satisfaction before convening the meeting. Such material should demonstrate full compliance of mandatory provisions of 15(2) of the Act. In particular, the notice should be in writing. It should manifest the clear intention of the members to make a motion expressing want of confidence in the Pramukh. It should be signed by at least half of the elected members. The copy of the no confidence motion should be attached thereto.

39. In fact, if a strict compliance of the said mandatory parts of Section 15(2) is done, then the substantial compliance of directory provisions of the aforesaid of Section 15(2) would be automatically deemed to have been done.

40. If such facts or material can be distilled from the notice to make a motion expressing want of confidence irrespective of its form, it substantially complies with the mandate of law. As has been held, these prerequisites are fulfilled in the instant case. "

6. It is thus argued that the order passed by the District Magistrate cannot be sustained.

7. Per contra, an argument advanced by learned counsel appearing for the State respondents as well as the respondent no. 3 is that as per the provisions contained under Section 15 (3) (i), the District Magistrate is under an obligation to convene a meeting of Kshetra Panchayat for consideration of motion and which should be scheduled not later than 30 days from the date on which the notice under Sub-Section 2 was delivered to him. He further argues that as per the provision the only saving in terms extension in prescribed period is under those circumstances where there is some stay order operating in a case against the notice of no confidence motion under challenge. Therefore, he submits that since the notice admittedly was delivered on 16.8.2019, a period of 30 days has already expired so the writ petition is rendered infructuous and no effective relief can be granted. Moreover, he argues that there was no interim order or stay order operating in the present case as defined in the explanation.

8. Countering the above submissions advanced, learned counsel for the petitioner argues that in such situation interim order would not be where notice itself has come to be rejected by the District Magistrate and rejection order is under challenge. He argues that the District Magistrate has not duly applied his mind and the order is absolutely illegal in the light of the ratio of the judgment of the Division Bench. He argues that the order if is bad and is set aside, this Court exercising extraordinary power under Article 226 of the Constitution, can even warrant for further period for convening the meeting of no confidence motion by providing extended time as prescribed for under the Act, 1961.

9. Rival submissions fall for consideration.

10. Coming to the first argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner that the order passed by the District Magistrate is not sustainable as the law laid down is to the effect that even if the notice of no confidence motion is accompanied by affidavit of members forming requisite number i.e. more than half of total members to move a no confidence motion.

11. In our considered opinion, as the law stands today and the statement has been made at the bar that the judgment in Smt. Shashi Yadav (supra) still holds the field as the said judgment has not been challenged in the Apex Court, the ratio laid down in the judgment is fully attracted and the order of District Magistrate cannot be sustained. It is accordingly held bad being legally not sustainable. However, the question is that even if the order is quashed today what would be consequential effect thereof.

12. The argument as advanced by learned counsel for the respondents if tested upon the relevant provision of the Act, 1961, we find that there is a clear mandate by the legislature under the provision that no meeting can be convened for discussing a no confidence motion beyond a period of 30 days. The explanation that has been appended to the relevant provision only saves a situation where a notice of confidence motion has been put to challenge and there is some stay order operating in that respect.

13. We find justification for such a saving clause for the simple reason that once a notice is given convening a meeting, the meeting is a must on the scheduled date but for the Court's intervention. So, in case if Court finds notice to be legal and dismisses the writ petition vacating the stay order, the suspended animation gets over and natural legal effect would be the rescheduling of the meeting as if notice was already there. So, Court's order suspending any notice, otherwise legal, is like an eclipse that overshadows the time schedule provided under the Act, for a while and then goes away.

14. In the present case, we find that the District Magistrate has rejected the notice on certain grounds on 31.8.2019. A challenge to the rejection order would have resulted in a positive action, in case, if it is quashed and a period prescribed under substantive provision to convene the meeting is still there.

15. A limitation if prescribed by legislature, it cannot be extended. The golden rule of interpretation is to go by literal interpretation to a provision of law. The explanation added to the Section not only shows intendment of the legislature in saving a particular situation so that by an act of Court a proceeding otherwise legal, does not get frustrated, the principle being 'actus curiae neminem gravabit' which means act of Court shall prejudice no man.

16. In view of the legislative intent behind the provision, this Court exercising its power under Article 226, cannot pass a direction which would not only carry out a new exception to the general law but in substance would amount to an exercise, quite legislative in nature, which is clearly not permissible. The law is very clear that a casus omissus can in no case be supplied by a Court of Law, for that would be to make laws (per Buller J. in Jones vs. Smart, 99 ER 963), except in some case of absolute necessity. The settled legal position as a rule of interpretation is that the Court cannot read anything into a statutory provision or rewrite a provision which is plain and unambiguous. A statute is an edict of the legislature. The language employed in a statute or any statutory provision is the determinative factor of legislative intent of policy makers. [Union of India vs. Rajiv Kumar(2003) 6 SCC 516].

17. As here in this case Sub-Section 12 of Section 28 of the Act, 1961, would not be attracted and it is always open for the members to bring fresh notice qua no confidence motion against the respondent no.3, it is not a case of such an absolute necessity that if Court did apply the principle of 'casus omissus', miscarriage of justice would take place resulting in any irreparable loss.

18. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has not been able to cite any judgment to the contrary.

19. With the aforesaid observations, the petition stands consigned to records.

(Para 149, 150, 153 and 161)

F. Nudge – Methodology – Behavioral Change – Importance of Yoga, Meditation and Vipassana – The methodology of 'nudges', in

M.	Conclusions & Reliefs
N.	Appendix

A. Reliefs sought

2. The prayer made by Sri Kumar Anish, learned counsel for the petitioner is that the appeal of the petitioner may be decided within a stipulated period of time and his case may be considered for pursuing his studies as part of the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme which is proposed to be created in the University.

3. The second prayer made by Sri Kumar Anish, learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner may be permitted to continue his studies as part of reform, self development and rehabilitation programme. The petitioner undertakes to unconditionally join and diligently pursue the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme as may be created by the University, but he may be permitted to pursue his studies.

4. The second relief was moulded by the learned counsel for the petitioner, at the time of the arguments. In the interest of justice and expeditious disposal and in the light of submissions of the parties, the formal amendment to the relief clause is dispensed with.

B. Arguments of the learned counsel for parties

5. Sri R.K.Ojha, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ratnakar Upadhyay, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned order was passed in violation of the statutes of the university. The punishment imposed upon the petitioner, is disproportionate. There is no provision for any reform and rehabilitation of delinquent students in the statutes, which results in violation of the fundamental right, of the petitioner guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

6. Sri Anish Kumar, and Sri Pankaj Misra and Sri Gaurav Pundir, learned counsels for the petitioner in connected writ petitions, adopt the aforesaid arguments of the learned Senior Counsel, apart from raising factual issues and peculiar to the respective writ petitions in which they appear.

7. Sri V.K. Upadhyaya, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri V.D. Chauhan, learned counsel for the BHU, submits that the BHU has taken action as per law.

8. The learned Senior Counsel, relied on the affidavits filed by the B.H.U., on creation of a reform and rehabilitation programme, for delinquent students.

9. Sri Ajit Kumar Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri V. D. Chauhan, learned counsel for the IIT BHU, contends that the IIT BHU, as a matter of policy accepts and is willing to adopt a professionally designed, reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students. However, the good order and discipline have to be maintained in the university at all costs. In fact IIT BHU, is currently even running a reform programme. However, he fairly conceded that the programme is not fully developed, and does not have the necessary statutory/legal frame work.

10. Sri Shashank Shekhar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-AMU submits that the AMU fully accepts the idea of a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students on an institutional basis. He, however, contends that no compromise with the good order and discipline, and the stability of the academic atmosphere, can be made in any manner.

11. Sri Rakesh Srivastava, learned counsel for the Union of India as well as Sri Abrar Ahmed, learned counsels for the for the Union of India and Sri Rizwan Akhtar, learned counsel for the UGC have also been heard.

C. Facts

12. The petitioner is a student, who was pursuing a diploma course in Civil Engineering from the respondent University. The petitioner was charged with threatening a Professor of the University, and pressurizing him to allot marks, in the practical examination, wherein he had infact not appeared.

13. When the professor declined to to so, the petitioner and his brother, misbehaved with professor. Subsequently the petitioner and his brother, came to the Survey Lab of the University Polytechnic, and assaulted the professor; further the petitioner opened fire at the professor with intention of killing him. The Professor, however, managed to save his life. The incident happened in the presence of the staff of the University.

14. The disciplinary enquiry into the incident indicted the petitioner. The petitioner was thereafter expelled from the University by order dated 28.03.2019 for a period of 5 years. The petitioner has preferred an appeal before the University authority.

D. Legal Issues common in all writ petitions

15. Absence of any reform and rehabilitative measures, in the administrative and legal frameworks of the universities, has serious legal and constitutional implications.

16. The impugned action and the statutory regime, of imposing punishments, will also be judged in such constitutional and legal perspectives. The discussion on these issues, shall be common in all the companion writ petitions.

17. Calling attention to the statutes of the universities namely, BHU, IIT BHU and AMU, the learned counsels for the petitioners; contended that the said statutes do not contain provisions for reform and rehabilitation of delinquent students. The action against delinquent students, is governed and regulated, solely by the penal provisions, of the statutes of the respective universities. The punitive scheme is a common thread, in the statutes of all the three universities.

18. In response, all the counsels for the various respondents universities', in fact conceded, that as on date no structured and professionally designed programmes for reform, self development and rehabilitation of delinquent students, backed by a proper legal frame work, exist in the respective universities.

19. Accordingly, various orders were passed by this Court, from time to time, requiring the respective universities namely, Banaras Hindu University, Indian Institute of Technology Banaras Hindu University, and Aligarh Muslim University, as well as the University Grants Commission and the Union of India through the Ministry of Human Resource Development, New Delhi, to submit their responses in regard to creation of a reform and rehabilitation frame work, for delinquent students in universities and institutions of higher learning. The respondents were also required to indicate, whether they had any opposition or even reservation, in regard to the creation of the reform and rehabilitative programme for delinquent students in the universities.

20. All the respondents namely Banaras Hindu University (hereinafter referred to as BHU), Indian Institute of Technology, Banaras Hindu University (hereinafter referred to as IIT BHU), Aligarh Muslim University (hereinafter referred to as the AMU) as well as Union of India through Ministry of HRD and University Grants Commission (hereinafter referred to as UGC) have submitted their responses to the aforesaid issues.

E. Stands of respective respondents on affidavits

(i) Response of IIT BHU

21. The IIT BHU in its affidavit has recorded its full agreement with a reform oriented approach, to deal with deviant behaviour in students. Thus IIT, B.H.U., has made a ringing endorsement, of the need to adopt a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students. However, it has also underscored the need for punitive action, to maintain a peaceful environment in the campus. The relevant paras of the affidavit are quoted hereinunder:

"2. That the present affidavit is being filed in compliance of the order dated 19.9.2019 passed by this Hon'ble Court.

4. That the Institute as indicated in the foregoing paragraph, is in full agreement with a reform oriented approach. However, in cases where reformative steps do not yield the desired corrections in behavior and actions of erring students, the Institute has to resort to punitive action in order to maintain the peaceful environment in the campus."

22. By categorically stating its commitment to reform of delinquent students, the IIT BHU has been true to its founding principles, and has faithfully discharged its obligations, under law and to the society.

(ii) Response of AMU

23. Upon orders being passed by this Court, the AMU to its credit, constituted an expert committee. The report of the expert committee has been submitted, and is made part of the record of the Court. The relevant parts of the Committee Report are extracted hereinbelow:

"In the light of the above the committee observes as under:

1. Our criminal justice system envisages two type of laws: one for Juveniles and second for other than Juveniles. There is a separate law for Juveniles known as Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 whereas others are covered under Code of Criminal Procedure, 1. 1976 and Indian Penal Code, 1860. The application of AMU Discipline and Conduct Rules, 1985 does not come primarily under the definition of Juvenile therefore the protection available to Juveniles are not available to the Students of the university in general. It becomes more relevant in view of the fact that at the time of admission every the disciplinary jurisdiction of the Vice Chancellor and the other authorities of the University is required to sign a declaration to the effect that he submits himself to the disciplinary jurisdiction of the Vice Chancellor and the other authorities of the University.

2. That it is also pertinent to mention here that Aligarh Muslim University is primarily a RESIDENTIAL UNIVERSITY and there are approximately 36,665 Students [22.593 University Students and departments/courses/Schools in the Aligarh Muslim University. Among these students 12,158 students reside in 56 Hostels (22 for girls) in the campus within the radius of 10 KM. Therefore, the future career of thousands of the students cannot be allowed to be jeopardized for the sake of handful of students who are involved in the indiscipline act and are destroying the whole atmosphere of the University.

3. In principle that criminal activity has no role to play in our education system therefore the students who are involved in the criminal activity have also no role to play in our education system. The students who are indulged in the criminal activity have different mind-set and have nothing to do with their studies. They are not at all interested to pursue their studies and their presence only hampers the study of the other students who are interested to pursue their study. It is the duty of the University to marginalize such type of students so that the students at large, who are more interested to pursue their studies, may pursue their studies in cordial and peaceful/ atmosphere.

4. That as per existing rules of the University, there is no compulsory/ mandated counselling available to students against whom the discipline and conduct rules are invoked. These rules are also not invoked in a routine way but being a residential University there are day-today interactions/counselling with the Wardens, Provost Tutors, Teachers and Senior Students holding positions of Senior Hall/Food etc.

5. That the extreme punishments as provided in the 1985 rules are invoked when there is an extreme situation and continuance/presence of the students became a threat to the academic environment and campus life of the University.

6. At the same time the observations of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Ajay Bhanot in this matter are highly appreciable in the context to infuse a reformative approach that the solution lies in engaging with the students, and harnessing their energies creatively. Errant behavior has to be reformed and not condemned. Erring students have to be transformed and not judged. The purpose of education is to unlock the immense potentiality in the human resource of the nation. This is possible by bringing about a conceptual shift in the concept of enforcing discipline, in the portals of the University. Indiscipline unchecked is indiscipline unleashed. But it is equally true. that expelling students from the University is a short term, if not a myopic view of the issue. A balance has to be drawn by the University authorities. The University has to create an ecosystem, with qualified staff and detailed programs of engaging with such students, with a view to give them an opportunity to reform themselves. Expulsion of students would abandon them to their own devices, close the doors of reformation to them, and shut them out from the redeeming light of knowledge. Leaving children accused of misconduct or deviant behavior, to fend for themselves would create issues for the society at large. In case Universities decline to shoulder the responsibilities of bringing such children back to the correct path, and do not provide the frame work for mainstreaming this class of students, the consequences would be detrimental to the society at large. There is no better institution in our democratic frame work, to embrace the young and questing spirits who have strayed from their path of morally upright and correct conduct. The Universities are uniquely equipped to deal with the challenge on an institutional basis. The Universities are repositories of knowledge, resources and experience to meet the challenge at hand. What is at stake, is not merely the future of an individual, but stability of the society The concerns of the society have to be handled by the University. The magnitude of the challenge is large, but it is imperative for the Universities to accept it and provide the adequate response.

After detailed deliberations and in the backdrop of above the committee proposes that:

1. Structural reformative approach may be included in the AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules of 1985 as this committee has identified some areas (not all inclusive) for counselling by a psychologist as enumerated above.

2. As the misconduct offences/crimes related to internet and cyberspace were not available when the Discipline Rules were framed, the same needs to be identified and appropriately included in the AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules of 1985 as it is growing among young and youth.

3. Outside campuses were not established when these rules were framed, hence, there is also need to amend these rules to include a structure for those centres.

The committee therefore recommends to the Vice-Chancellor as follows:

AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules 1985 were framed almost 30 years back and in the light of the observations given above, a detailed and exhaustive exercise may be undertaken by a committee to be appointed by the Vice-Chancellor under the convenorship of the Proctor of the University to formulate and propose a draft of revised AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules, inclusive of reformative approach, after exploring similar rules already enforced by sister universities and institutions in India and abroad for further consideration of the Vice-Chancellor and Academic Council of the University."

24. The AMU has thus in principle, recognized the need for a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students in some areas in the university. The AMU too has accorded top priority, to the maintenance of discipline in the campus, and is rightly unwilling to compromise with the same.

(iii) Response of BHU

25. The initial affidavit filed by the BHU, in regard to their stand on a reformative and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students, stated in effect that the reformation of the students indulging deviant behaviour is achieved, by providing for various categories of punishments, depending upon the nature of indiscipline. It further asserted, that in the name of reformation, the University cannot give a "go by", to the objectives of the university. The relevant paras 17 and 18 of the affidavit dated 17.09.2019 are extracted hereunder:

"17. In the present case no such conditions exist and as such the continuance of the order of suspension of the petitioner from the privileges of the University and Hostel is in accordance with law. That 17. it is the University humbly that submitted administration and the Vice-Chancellor in particular is the custodian of the interests of all the students involved in various academic pursuits in the University. In the case of Banaras Hindu University the number of all the students at various levels runs into more than 30 thousand. For the smooth functioning of the University and maintenance of an environment conducive to academic pursuits the interest of an individual student must give way to the larger interests of all the students as a whole. This is not only in the interest of the students themselves but also in public interest. In the of reformation of the students the University name administration cannot give a go by to the objectives of the University nor can it take an action which may have the potential of destroying the smooth functioning of the University embroiling the University in large scale unrest both in the student as well as in the teaching community. If the University such situation is brought about a administration would be failing in its duty. The fact that Banaras Hindu University is the largest residential University in the country if not the world cannot be lost sight of. Even small spark has the potential of turning into a conflagration which may become difficult to contain.

26. However, subsequently, the BHU filed an affidavit on 26th September, 2019, easing its reservations, against a reform and rehabilitation programme. The affidavit exhibited a shift in stand, indicating a willingness to consider a reformative approach. The para 7 of the affidavit is extracted hereunder:

"7. That all the aforesaid mechanisms and provisions exist in the University for creation and preservation of an academic ambience conducive to teaching and learning and vibrant and peaceful community life. However, there exist no provision in the Rules of the University for any formal reformative mechanism or process for such students as are found involved in an offence involving moral turpitude or heinous crime and hence are suspended from the privileges of the University. However, the University is not averse to considering this aspect, if it is found appropriate by the University through Constitution of a Committee of stakeholders which may look into as to whether such a mechanism is desirable in principle in the context of maintenance of academic ambience of the University or it may be detrimental to it, particularly, to the interest of larger group of the students, teachers and employees."

27. In substance the BHU was open to the concept of a structured reformative programme. It has however, desisted from taking a categorical position, on this most critical issue. While openness to new ideas is appreciated, failure to take a specific stand is also noticed. The Court will go no further.

(iv) Response of UGC

28. Sri Rizwan Ali Akhtar, learned counsel for the UGC has relied on the affidavit filed by the UGC. The UGC in its affidavit, stated that the universities are autonomous institutions. The academic and administrative decisions, are to be taken by the universities concerned, as per law. It was also stated that "the UGC has no role to play on day to day function of the Central Universities".

(v) Response of UoI

29. The Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India has chosen not to file any affidavit, despite orders passed by the Court and opportunities granted by the Court. The Court has to proceed, with the hearing in the interests of justice.

30. It was informed that the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, on its part had sent communications to the AMU and BHU, to protect its interests. The Court finds that the interests of the Union of India, are in no manner adversely affected. In these cases the interests of the Union of India, are not converse to the universities.

"The best lack all conviction."

~WB Yeats

31. Present discontents cannot be addressed by rote responses. Contemporary problems cannot be resolved by jejune formulae.

32. The universities cannot avoid a stand at the decision point. By prevarication at the decision point, the university may postpone the reckoning, but cannot escape responsibility.

33. Law has to hold institutions accountable to their obligations, to the founding purposes, to the students and to the society at large.

34. Universities of eminence cannot justify present inertia on the foot of past glory. Universities have to be aware of the risks, of basking in the reflected glory of the past. Eminence is achieved by past glory, however, reputation is retained by present endeavours.

35. Universities at certain critical decision points, would be true to their founding purposes and extant obligations by making clear and creative interventions. The universities as well as other authorities cannot show ineptitude in the face of crises, and equivocation in the face of solutions. In these critical situations the universities as well as other authorities, have to stand up and intervene and not stand by and equivocate.

F. Evolution of Fundamental Rights by courts

36. The fundamental rights of citizens are stated in Part III of the Constitution of India. But as in all cases, text of the rights can never be the exhaustive description of all rights. Rights have to be interpreted from the text of the Constitution. The process of interpretation of the text, often results in the evolution of rights. The Constitution is the textual origin of fundamental rights. Constitutional law defines the substance of fundamental rights.

(i) Legislative lag, executive inertia and fundamental rights

37. The fast pace of life in modern times often, outstrips the capacity of the legislature, to cope with the consequences of social change. There is a limit to human foresight, but the possibilities of life are limitless. The limits of legislation are the constraints of human foresight. The legislative process is complex and even time taking. Human affairs do not wait on the legislative process. These facts frequently create a legislative lag. It is almost inevitable in the nature of things.

38. The first intersection of life with law, at times happens in courts, even before the legislature grapples with the problems. The courts are often seized, of various emerging issues in social and individual lives, before the legislatures are cognizant of them.

39. A legislative hiatus or executive lethargy, cannot cause a constitutional stasis. The enforcement of fundamental rights, cannot be forestalled by a legislative lag or executive inertia. Constitutional guarantees and Fundamental Rights, have to be enforced on demand. Constitutional overhang is perpetual. Law is always in motion, and never on a holiday.

40. The text of the Constitution, is a conceptual philosophy of fundamental rights, and not an exhaustive guide to fundamental rights. The text of the Constitution is fixed, fundamental rights are always evolving. This is the essence of constitutional law jurisprudence. There is a method in the evolution of constitutional law jurisprudence.

41. Evolution of constitutional law rights are guided and controlled by the text of the constitution, long settled judicial principles of interpretation of the constitution, and judicial precedents in point. The march of law is also assisted by consensus of values, in the comity of civilized nations. These universal values are often manifested in International Conventions and Treaties. Another source of such values is comparative international jurisprudence. The felt needs of the times are also factored in by the courts. Development of constitutional law happens on these sure foundations. Constitutional rights are distilled from this process. In this process, the courts discharge their constitutional obligations. This is not judicial activism by courts. It is judging.

42. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Vishaka Vs. State of Rajasthan, reported at 1997 (6) SCC 241, issued various guidelines for the safety of women at working places. The guidelines held the field, till the Parliament enacted the legislation in that regard. Judicial directions in that case preceded, the legislative enactment. Infact the legislature was alerted, to the need of a legislation to cover the field, by the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

43. This narrative will profit from the observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Rattan Chand Hira Chand v. Askar Nawaz Jung, reported at (1991) 3 SCC 67:

"The legislature often fails to keep pace with the changing needs and values nor is it realistic to expect that it will have provided for all contingencies and eventualities. It is, therefore, not only necessary but obligatory on the courts to step in to fill the lacuna. When courts perform this function undoubtedly they legislate judicially. But that is a kind of legislation which stands implicitly delegated to them to further the object of the legislation and to promote the goals of the society. Or to put it negatively, to prevent the frustration of the legislation or perversion of the goals and values of the society. So long as the courts keep themselves tethered to the ethos of the society and do not travel off its course, so long as they attempt to furnish the felt necessities of the time and do not refurbish them, their role in this respect has to be welcomed.

All courts have at one time or the other felt the need to bridge the gap between what is and what is intended to be. The courts cannot in such circumstances shirk from their duty and refuse to fill the gap. In performing this duty they do not foist upon the society their value judgments. They respect and accept the prevailing values, and do what is expected of them. The courts will, on the other hand, fail in their duty if they do not rise to the occasion but approve helplessly of an interpretation of a statute or a document or of an action of an individual which is certain to subvert the societal goals and endanger the public good."

G. Process of law and the courts : Current State & Contemporary Challenges

44. The pace of technological, social and economic developments, often pose a challenge to the courts. Courts of today often have to deal with complex issues ranging from science, technology, economics, archaeology, medicine, social sciences and across other fields of highly specialized knowledge.

45. Lawyers on occasions lack the expertise, to grasp and simplify issues of varying complexity, from fields unrelated to law. Judges do not fare any better. Parties have their interests to protect.

46. The intellectual capital created by traditional resources of the judicial process, may not be adequate to manage such contemporary challenges. The judicial process would have to evolve, to meet the felt needs of the time. The rising tides of human knowledge, cannot pass the courts by. This shall require change in procedures, and development of infrastructure.

47. The intellectual resource base has to be widened. The debate has to be broadbased, to include direct inputs from experts as well. This would also entail well equipped libraries, which are staffed by qualified personnel and research assistants, and may be even experts. Institutional arrangements for interface of the courts with experts, have to be in place to ensure procedural propriety.

48. Debate on these issues will pave the way for the most important change, i.e. change in mindset. For the process to be credible and efficacious, a change has to come from within the judicial system. But change is inevitable, if judicial adjudication is to be just and remain relevant. In this regard, the High Court has a responsibility to fulfill, if not an obligation to discharge.

H. Education

(i) Importance and scope

"Where the mind is without fear
and the head is held high,
Where knowledge is free".

~Tagore

49. In education mankind discovered the message of unquenchable optimism, that humans could be separated from the cycle of repetitive thought and action. Learning was the key to the uninterrupted progress of any society. Knowledge instilled the belief that human life could be improved. Through knowledge alone, the hope is realized that humans can be reformed, and humanity can be transformed. Education is the supreme act of nation building, which essentially means nurturing of constitutional values, realization of constitutional goals, and strengthening the rule of law.

50. The idea of the Indian nation is founded, on the ideals of the Indian civilization. Many of these ideals are manifested in the Constitution, and find expression in constitutional law.

51. The quest for knowledge defines the Indian civilization. A salient feature in the search for learning, distinguishes the Indian civilization. Knowledge in Hellenic civilization was founded on reason. The human thirst for knowledge was also quenched by revelation. The distinctive feature of learning in Indian civilization, is that India's search for knowledge, while always embracing reason as a method and never denying revelation as a source, insists on realization as its goal.

52. The diversity of thought is reflected in the plurality of discourse in India. The enduring values which define India, have been preserved and propagated by the tradition of civilized debate. The unity of our nation is protected by respect and affirmation of a multi hued cultural heritage and embracement of varied traditions of thought.

(ii) Role and obligation of universities

"Where the mind is led forward by thee
Into ever widening thought and action."
~Tagore

53. The universities are the custodians of the old values, even as they ceaselessly push the boundaries of modern knowledge.

54. In universities students of diverse backgrounds, and different beliefs, congregate in a common pursuit of knowledge. Through knowledge they will learn, that humanity unites more than diversity differentiates. With learning they will understand, that diversity enriches human life, and does not divide humankind. University experience will help them, cultivate constitutional values, and transcend violent and other aberrational tendencies.

55. Universities are not teaching shops, nor are they mere examining bodies. Universities nurture the intellect and develop the character of the young citizens in a wholesome manner. Students gain knowledge and imbibe values in universities. These dual pursuits constitute the founding purpose of a university, in fact its raison detre.

56. A unifocal approach promoting scholastic achievements, to the exclusion of character building, would undermine the founding principles of a university. A failure of character or deficit of values in students, may impel action against the delinquent student, but should also cause introspection in university authorities.

57. University education is not an arm's length transaction, between the teachers and the taught. Nor is university education an exact contractual relation, in the likeness of a consumer and a service provider.

I. Discipline in Universities: Concept, Need & Challenges

(i) Violence, intimidation and moral turpitude

"Where the clear stream of reason has not lost its way into the dreary desert sand of dead habit"
~Rabindranath Tagore

58. Violence degrades human life. Intimidation stifles human thought. Moral turpitude is the low ebb of human conduct. These are the scourges and yet inescapable facts of human life. Our society faces these issues, and our varsities grapple with them.

59. Violence, intimidation, and acts of moral turpitude, are not conducive to the academic atmosphere of a varsity, and pose a mortal threat to the values of a university. They retard the growth of free thought and reasoned debate. These evils have no place in our universities. The universities can prosper only when such evils are got rid of.

(ii) Communal disturbances in universities

"Where the world has not been broken up into fragments by narrow domestic walls".

~Rabindranath Tagore

60. In Writ C No. 32955 of 2019, (Ajay Singh Vs. Union of India and Others), the petitioner is charged with disturbing the communal harmony in the university.

61. Stoking communal hatred not only disrupts peace and order in a university, but can roil the foundations of law and harmony in our society. The problem cannot be tackled as a "discipline" issue alone. A composite and a conceptual approach has to be adopted. The roots of communal hate have to be analyzed and addressed. Communal hatred is a narrative, which stands in direct opposition, to our civilizational ethos and constitutional values. Communal hatred holds a threat, to the rule of law. Communal hatred cannot be countenanced in our universities, nor can be given any space in our society.

(iii) Discipline in universities

62. Discipline is the bedrock of any organization. In a university, discipline does not mean conformity of thought, or creation of a regimented class of people. In a varsity discipline is not the residue, after dissent is stifled and dissenters purged.

63. Discipline in a university is the consensus among all stakeholders, to live by the universal values which define the academic world. Discipline in a varsity is common allegiance and unshakable adherence, to values which nurture free thought, respect dissentient opinions, and create an environment of unimpeded academic pursuits. Hate and true debate cannot co-exist. Violence and true learning cannot cohabit.

64. Discipline has to be preserved at all costs, if the raison detre of the University is to be protected at all times. Indiscipline unchecked is indiscipline unleashed. However in our constitutional scheme, the means of ensuring discipline, is as important as the end of keeping discipline.

(iv) Statutory approach to maintaining discipline

65. The universities have created legal frameworks, to deal with acts of indiscipline, and to maintain discipline and order.

66. The power to take disciplinary action, and impose punishment upon delinquent students, is vested in the competent authorities, by the statutes of the concerned university. The following statutes govern and regulate, the process of initiating disciplinary action against delinquent students, and imposition of penalty for misconduct.

BHU -The Banaras Hindu University Act No. XVI of 1915 {Section 60}

ii. Chapter VIII, Ordinances Governing Maintenance of Discipline and Grievances Procedure.

iii. Notification, New Delhi, 31st July, 2017, BHU

AMU- The Aligarh Muslim University (Act No. XL of 1920), [Amendment] Act, 1981 (62 of 1981)

ii. Section 35 (5) of the AMU

iii. The Statutes of the University (as adapted under Section 28 of the Act) amended upto December, 2012).

IIT BHU - i. The Institutes of Technology Act, 1961

ii. The Institutes of Technology Amendment Act, 2012.

iii. Section 17(2) of the Act, 1961 (already quoted)

J. Statutory Regime of Punishments in light of Article 21 & Doctrine of Proportionality

67. The statutes of all the three universities contemplate only penal action, to deal with all forms of indiscipline or deviant conduct. The penal action may lead to suspension, and can even extend to expulsion and debarment.

68. The punitive provisions of the Statutes of the respective universities, manifest the deterrent intent of the law. A reformist approach to the problem is absent in the statutes. The makers of statutes have solely adopted a punitive or deterrent approach to the exclusion of other methods of dealing with issues of indiscipline or deviant conduct.

69. The aforesaid ordinances of the universities and the affidavits of the respondents have been perused. Submissions of the learned counsel for the universities have been considered. This Court finds that there is no structured, professionally designed reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, or therapeutic support system backed by a legal frame work, to deal with the delinquent students and like issues in the universities.

70. The statutory monopoly of a punitive approach, to deviant behaviour, and the exclusion of all other responses, often creates a lack of balance in the actions of the concerned University. In such cases, the punishment becomes disproportionate, not because the decision maker was incapable of measured action, but because the ordinances/statutes preclude a proportional response.

71. It is clarified, that the requirement of punitive provisions in the statutes is a given. The need to empower the authority, to take disciplinary action in law is undisputed. There is no infirmity in the statutory provisions. The inadequacy is in the reach of the statutory provisions.

72. The decision maker is constrained in his choices, by the absolute dominance of punitive provisions, and complete omission of reformative measures in the ordinances.

73. The impact of absence of reformative provisions and the presence of a statutory bias in favour of a punitive approach, on the fundamental rights of the petitioners, shall also be assessed in the next part of the judgment.

K. Punishments and Article 21
(i) Right to human dignity

74. A life without dignity is robbed of its meaning. Absent self worth, life is devoid of content.

75. Human dignity as a concept, was created by an international consensus, on universal human values. "Human dignity" and "self worth" are used, in close proxmity in international instruments, reflecting the affinity between the concepts.

76. The comity of nations, first pledged commitment to protecting the "dignity and worth" of the human person, in the charter of the United Nations. These eternal values were reiterated, in subsequent international instruments and conventions including the Convention for the Suppression of the Traffic in Persons and of the Exploitation of the Prostitution of Others (1951); the Supplementary Convention on the Abolition of Slavery, the Slave Trade, and Institutions and Practices Similar to Slavery (1956); the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (1979); the Convention on the Rights of the Child (1989); and the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (2006).

77. Human dignity and self worth, were increasingly incorporated in the jurisprudence of all liberty loving nations in the post World War II era.

78. The complexity of the concept of human dignity, never diluted the usefulness of the theory of human dignity in enhancing the worth of the human person. Human dignity made a decisive contribution in the development of the rights of life and liberty, in jurisprudential systems of free societies across the world.

79. However, the Court would do well to observe the caution, that a sweeping judicial definition of human dignity, would make an abstract theory, unintelligible. An unduly wide judicial construct of human dignity, would create unworkable judicial tests.

80. Likewise if the courts adopt too narrow a view of human dignity, a concept which has made stellar contribution to the advancement of human rights will be lost.

81. Keeping these pitfalls in mind, a balance has to be maintained, between attempting too much and recoiling from the task altogether.

82. The applicability of human dignity, would be determined in this case, by evolving a workable test or construct of human dignity and self worth applicable to these cases.

83. Human dignity is not inserted in the text of the fundamental rights under the Constitution of India. Human dignity occurs in the Preamble to the Constitution of India.

84. The Preamble to the Constitution, reflects the resolve of the People of India, to secure to all its citizens

"Justice social, economic and political;
Liberty of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship;
Equality of status and of opportunity;
and to promote among them all and
Fraternity assuring the dignity of the individual and the unity of the Nation."

The Preamble to the Constitution is not analogous, to a preamble to any legislative enactment.

85. The unique place of the Preamble, in the Constitution came to be noticed very early, in Sajjan Singh v. State of Rajasthan, reported at AIR 1965 SC 845. The Hon'ble Supreme Court found that the Preamble to our Constitution is "not of the common run". Further the Preamble bore the "stamp of deep deliberation" and precision.

86. This feature shines light on the special significance, attached to the Preamble by the framers of the Constitution. The Preamble was held to be a part of the Constitution, by the Hon'ble

Supreme Court in Kesavananda Bharati v. State of Kerala, reported at (1973) 4 SCC 225.

87. The words 'life, law and liberty' in Article 21 of the Constitution of India, were freed from the confines of narrow and literal interpretation by the Courts. (See Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India, (1978) 1 SCC 248).

88. A defining moment came when the Hon'ble Supreme Court, liberated "life" from the fetters of mere physical existence. (see Olga Tellis v. Bombay Municipal Corpn. Reported at (1985) 3 SCC 545).

89. Over the years human dignity, has been read into the meaning of life and liberty, under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, by consistent pronouncements of the courts.

90. A broad overview of some of the leading pronouncements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, elevating human dignity to the status of a fundamental right, are discussed in the succeeding paragraphs.

(ii) Supreme Court on human dignity

91. The concept of human dignity forming a part of Article 21, was introduced in Prem Shankar Shukla v. UT of Delhi, reported at (1980) 3 SCC 526. While construing the constitutional rights of prisoners, in Prem Shankar Shukla (supra), Krishna Iyer, J. speaking for a three-Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court held:

"1. ... the guarantee of human dignity, which forms part of our constitutional culture, and the positive provisions of Articles 14, 19 and 21 spring into action when we realise that to manacle man is more than to mortify him; it is to dehumanise him and, therefore, to violate his very personhood, too often using the mask of "dangerousness" and security.

21. The Preamble sets the humane tone and temper of the Founding Document and highlights justice, equality and the dignity of the individual."

92. Undermining the human dignity of a detenue, under the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities (COFEPOSA) Act, 1974 was not countenanced by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Francis Coralie Mullin v. UT of Delhi, reported at (1981) 1 SCC 608 by ruling thus:

"6. ... The fundamental right to life which is the most precious human right and which forms the ark of all other rights must therefore be interpreted in a broad and expansive spirit so as to invest it with significance and vitality which may endure for years to come and enhance the dignity of the individual and the worth of the human person.

7. ... the right to life enshrined in Article 21 cannot be restricted to mere animal existence. It means something much more than just physical survival."

93. The right to live with human dignity flowing from Article 21, was employed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court to unlock the fetters of those living in bondage and setting them free in Bandhua Mukti Morcha v. Union of India, reported at (1984) 3 SCC 161. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bandhua Mukti Morcha (supra) observed that:

"10. ...This right to live with human dignity enshrined in Article 21 derives its life breath from the directive principles of State policy and particularly clauses (e) and (f) of Article 39 and Articles 41 and 42 and at the least, therefore, it must include protection of the health and strength of the workers, men and women, and of the tender age of children against abuse, opportunities and facilities for children to develop in a healthy manner and in conditions of freedom and dignity, educational facilities, just and humane conditions of work and maternity relief. These are the minimum requirements which must exist in order to enable a person to live with human dignity, and no State -- neither the Central Government nor any State Government -- has the right to take any action which will deprive a person of the enjoyment of these basic essentials."

94. Dehumanizing treatment given to the arrested activists of an organization by the police authorities was called out by the Hon'ble Supreme court, in Khedat Mazdoor Chetna Sangath v. State of M.P., reported at (1994) 6 SCC 260, wherein it was recognized:

"10. ... It is, therefore, absolutely essential in the interest of justice, human dignity and democracy that this Court must intervene; order an investigation, determine the correct facts and take strongest possible action against the respondents who are responsible for these atrocities."

95. The right of human dignity was also construed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in M.Nagaraj v. Union of India, reported at (2006) 8 SCC 212. In that case the right was held to be intrinsic to and inseparable from human existence:

"26. ... The rights, liberties and freedoms of the individual are not only to be protected against the State, they should be facilitated by it. ... It is the duty of the State not only to protect the human dignity but to facilitate it by taking positive steps in that direction. No exact definition of human dignity exists. It refers to the intrinsic value of every human being, which is to be respected. It cannot be taken away. It cannot give (sic be given). It simply is. Every human being has dignity by virtue of his existence.

42. India is constituted into a sovereign, democratic republic to secure to all its citizens, fraternity assuring the dignity of the individual and the unity of the nation. The sovereign, democratic republic exists to promote fraternity and the dignity of the individual citizen and to secure to the citizens certain rights. This is because the objectives of the State can be realised only in and through the individuals. Therefore, rights conferred on citizens and non-citizens are not merely individual or personal rights. They have a large social and political content, because the objectives of the Constitution cannot be otherwise realised."

96. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shabnam v. Union of India, reported at (2015) 6 SCC 702 elaborated the following elements of the human dignity;

"14. This right to human dignity has many elements. First and foremost, human dignity is the dignity of each human being "as a human being". Another element, which needs to be highlighted, in the context of the present case, is that human dignity is infringed if a person's life, physical or mental welfare is harmed. It is in this sense torture, humiliation, forced labour, etc. all infringe on human dignity. It is in this context many rights of the accused derive from his dignity as a human being."

97. Aharon Barak (former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Israel), discussed the constitutional value of human dignity, in the following celebrated passage:

"The constitutional value of human dignity has a central normative role. Human dignity as a constitutional value is the factor that unites the human rights into one whole. It ensures the normative unity of human rights. This normative unity is expressed in the three ways: first, the value of human dignity serves as a normative basis for constitutional rights set out in the constitution; second, it serves as an interpretative principle for determining the scope of constitutional rights, including the right to human dignity; third, the value of human dignity has an important role in determining the proportionality of a statute limiting a constitutional right. "

98. The views of the Judge Aharon Barak, were approved and incorporated in the corpus of human dignity jurisprudence, in our country by the Hon'ble Supreme court in Jeeja Ghosh v. Union of India, reported at (2016) 7 SCC 761.

99. The consequences of loss of human dignity in an individual's life, were noted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mehmood Nayyar Azam v. State of Chhattisgarh, reported at (2012) 8 SCC 1.

100. Similar sentiments were expressed on human dignity, by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in National Legal Services Authority v. Union of India, reported at (2014) 5 SCC 438.

101. In Maharasthra University of Health Sciences v. Satchikitsa Prasarak Mandal reported at (2010) 3 SCC 786, the Hon'ble Supreme court upon consideration of good authority, reiterated the dignity of the individual as a core constitutional concept.

102. While in Selvi v. State of Karnataka reported at (2010) 7 SCC 263, the Hon'ble Supreme Court ruled thus:

103. Even prisoners have been found entitled to the fundamental rights while in custody by the Hon'ble Supreme Court (see Sunil Batra (II) Vs. Delhi Administration, reported at 1980 (3) SCC 488).

104. The importance of therapeutic approach in dealing with the criminal tendencies of prisoners and the necessity for reform, was considered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in T.K. Gopal v. State of Karnataka, reported at (2000) 6 SCC 168, by holding that:

"15. The therapeutic approach aims at curing the criminal tendencies which were the product of a diseased psychology. There may be many factors, including family problems. We are not concerned with those factors as therapeutic approach has since been treated as an effective method of punishment which not only satisfies the requirements of law that a criminal should be punished and the punishment prescribed must be meted out to him, but also reforms the criminal through various processes, the most fundamental of which is that in spite of having committed a crime, maybe a heinous crime, he should be treated as a human being entitled to all the basic human rights, human dignity and human sympathy. It was under this theory that this Court in a stream of decisions, projected the need for prison reforms, the need to acknowledge the vital fact that the prisoner, after being lodged in jail, does not lose his fundamental rights or basic human rights and that he must be treated with compassion and sympathy."

106. The judicial authorities can be multiplied, reiterating the above holdings. However, the same will add volume, but not value to the narrative.

107. Consistent and high authority have thus entrenched human dignity as fundamental to right to life, which flows from Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

108. The narrative would not be complete without reference to the most authoritative pronouncement, of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of K.S. Puttaswamy v. Union of India reported at (2017) 10 SCC 1

109. Dr. D. Y. Chandrachud, J. speaking for the Constitution Bench, firmly and irrevocably, reiterated that human dignity is a fundamental right under Article 21 of the Indian Constitution, with customary eloquence, in K.S. Puttaswamy (supra). Dr. D. Y. Chandrachud, J., upon consideration of the judicial precedents in point distilled the concept of human dignity and its place in part III of the Constitution:

"Jurisprudence on dignity

"108. Over the last four decades, our constitutional jurisprudence has recognised the inseparable relationship between protection of life and liberty with dignity. Dignity as a constitutional value finds expression in the Preamble. The constitutional vision seeks the realisation of justice (social, economic and political); liberty (of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship); equality (as a guarantee against arbitrary treatment of individuals) and fraternity (which assures a life of dignity to every individual). These constitutional precepts exist in unity to facilitate a humane and compassionate society. The individual is the focal point of the Constitution because it is in the realisation of individual rights that the collective well-being of the community is determined. Human dignity is an integral part of the Constitution. Reflections of dignity are found in the guarantee against arbitrariness (Article 14), the lamps of freedom (Article 19) and in the right to life and personal liberty (Article 21).

it should be lived. The best decisions on how life should be lived are entrusted to the individual. They are continuously shaped by the social milieu in which individuals exist. The duty of the State is to safeguard the ability to take decisions. "Life" within the meaning of Article 21 is not confined to the integrity of the physical body. The right comprehends one's being in its fullest sense. That which facilitates the fulfillment of life is as much within the protection of the guarantee of life.

119. To live is to live with dignity. The draftsmen of the Constitution defined their vision of the society in which constitutional values would be attained by emphasising, among other freedoms, liberty and dignity. So fundamental is dignity that it permeates the core of the rights guaranteed to the individual by Part III. Dignity is the core which unites the fundamental rights because the fundamental rights seek to achieve for each individual the dignity of existence. Privacy with its attendant values assures dignity to the individual and it is only when life can be enjoyed with dignity can liberty be of true substance. Privacy ensures the fulfilment of dignity and is a core value which the protection of life and liberty is intended to achieve."

(iii) Comparative International Jurisprudence

110. A survey of comparative international jurisprudence, on the point of human dignity and the rights flowing therefrom, shows convergence in the values of human dignity across the free world.

111. The foreign authorities can be cited to show that human dignity is an accepted universal value in the comity of nations.

112. In Rosenblatt v. P Baer,* reported at 1966 SCC OnLine US SC 22 : 383 US 75 (1966), the US Supreme Court found that "The essential dignity and worth of every human being" was at the root of any system of "ordered liberty".

"The right of a man to the protection of his own reputation from unjustified invasion and wrongful hurt reflects no more than our basic concept of the essential dignity and worth of every human being- a concept at the root of any decent system of ordered liberty."

113. In the case of Armoniene v. Lithuania, reported at (2009) EMLR 7, the European Court of Human Rights set its face against an act of disclosure of a person's state of health, causing "exclusion from social life", and found it violative of the right to privacy by holding thus:

"The Court takes particular note of the fact that the family lived not in a city but in a village, which increased the impact of the publication on the possibility that the husband's illness would be known by his neighbours and his immediate family, thereby causing public humiliation and exclusion from village social life."

114. The human dignity rights of prisoners included rehabilitation, in the opinion of the US Supreme Court in Procunier, Corrections Director, ET AL. Vs. Martinez ET AL. reported at 416 U.S. 396 (1974):

"The Court today agrees that "the weight of professional opinion seems to be that inmate freedom to correspond with outsiders advances rather than retards the goal of rehabilitation."

Balanced against the State's asserted interests are the values that are generally associated with freedom of speech in a free society - values which "do not turn to dross in an unfree one." Sostre v. McGinnis, supra, at 199. First Amendment guarantees protect the free and uninterrupted interchange of ideas upon which a democratic society thrives. Perhaps the most obvious victim of the indirect censorship effected by a policy of allowing prison authorities to read inmate mail is criticism of prison administration. The threat of identification and reprisal inherent in allowing correctional authorities to read prisoner mail is not lost on inmates who might otherwise criticize their jailors. The mails are one of the few vehicles prisoners have for informing the community about their existence and, in these days of strife in our correctional institutions, the plight of prisoners is a matter of urgent public concern. To sustain a policy which chills the communication necessary to inform the public on this issue is at odds with the most basic tenets of the guarantee of freedom of speech.

The First Amendment serves not only the needs of the polity but also those of the human spirit - a spirit that demands self-expression. Such expression is an integral part of the development of ideas and a sense of identity. To suppress expression is to reject the basic human desire for recognition and affront the individual's worth and dignity. 14 Cf. Stanley v. Georgia, 394 U.S. [416 U.S. 396, 428]557 (1969). Such restraint may be "the greatest displeasure and indignity to a free and knowing spirit that can be put upon him." J. Milton, Aeropagitica 21 (Everyman's ed. 1927). When the prison gates slam behind an inmate, he does not lose his human quality; his mind does not become closed to ideas; his intellect does not cease to feed on a free and open interchange of opinions; his yearning for self-respect does not end; nor is his quest for self-realization concluded. If anything, the needs for identity and self-respect are more compelling in the dehumanizing prison environment. Whether an O. Henry writing his short stories in a jail cell or a frightened young inmate writing his family, a prisoner needs a medium for self-expression. It is the role of the First Amendment and this Court to protect those precious personal rights by which we satisfy such basic yearnings of the human spirit."

115. The validity of a punishment causing loss of nationality, for an act of desertion in military service, was in issue before the US Supreme Court, in Trop Vs. Dulles, reported at 356 US 86 (1958). The US Supreme Court in Trop (supra) reiterated the importance and role of rehabilitation in a penal system, while dealing with the validity of the punishment. The principle holding of the US Supreme Court on these points is as under:

"Expatriation, in this respect, constitutes an especially demoralizing sanction. The uncertainty, and the consequent psychological hurt, which must accompany one who becomes an outcast in his own land must be reckoned a substantial factor in the ultimate judgment.

The novelty of expatriation as punishment does not alone demonstrate its inefficiency. In recent years we have seen such devices as indeterminate sentences and parole added to the traditional term of imprisonment. Such penal methods seek to achieve the end, at once more humane and effective, that society should make every effort to rehabilitate the offender and restore him as a useful member of that society as society's own best protection. Of course, rehabilitation is but one of the several purposes of the penal law. Among other purposes are deterrents of the wrongful act by the threat of punishment and insulation of society from dangerous individuals by imprisonment or execution. What then is the relationship of the punishment of expatriation to these ends of the penal law? It is perfectly obvious that it constitutes the very antithesis of rehabilitation, for instead of guiding the offender back into the useful paths of society it excommunicates him and makes him, literally, an outcast. I can think of no more certain way in which to make a man in whom, perhaps, rest the seeds of serious antisocial behavior more likely to pursue further a career of unlawful activity than to place on him the stigma of the derelict, uncertain of many of his basic rights. Similarly, it must be questioned whether expatriation can really achieve the other effects sought by society in punitive devices. Certainly it will not insulate society from the deserter, for unless coupled with banishment the sanction leaves the offender at large. And as a deterrent device this sanction would appear of little effect, for the offender, if not deterred by thought of the specific penalties of long imprisonment or even death, is not very likely to be swayed from his course by the prospect of expatriation. However insidious and demoralizing may be the actual experience of statelessness, its contemplation in advance seems unlikely to invoke serious misgiving, for none of us yet knows its ramifications."

(iv) Constitutionality of punishments under the statutes

"Universities are made by love, love of beauty and learning."

~ Annie Besant

116. The engagement of human dignity and Article 21 will now be examined in the context of punishment, imposed on a delinquent student.

117. The statutory scheme of enforcing discipline by imposition of punishments and suspension has a salutary purpose, but it needs to be compliant with the requirements of fundamental rights.

118. Punishment has to be effective to serve its purpose; however, it cannot be purblind to human dignity, if it is to retain its constitutionality.

119. Severity of a punishment is not sufficient basis for holding it unconstitutional. The enquiry into the constitutionality of a punishment, will examine the relationship between the punishment and its purpose, and whether the penalty can achieve the purpose. The enquiry will also determine whether the punishment degrades the human person, and whether it devalues human dignity against established norms of decency, or has a dehumanizing effect.

120. Degree of injuries to self esteem, extent of degradation of human worth, depth of humiliation caused by the punishment, are facts to be probed in an enquiry into the validity of the punishment.

121. Experience teaches the fact of human fallibility, but knowledge holds the hope of human redemption. If error is part of human nature, reform is an element of human spirit. The capacity of human beings to introspect on erring ways and the power of human will to reform deviant conduct are building blocks of the concept of human dignity. "Every sinner has a future, many a saint had a past."

122. Punishment for deviant conduct, cannot be so severe as to degrade human life. Every form of punishment should protect the essential sanctity of human life and comport with fundamental norms of decency evolved by a civilized society. Any act which dehumanizes life cannot be countenanced by societies and courts which value life and liberty. The degrading or dehumanizing elements of the punishment have to be eliminated to bring it in conformity with requirement of human dignity, contemplated by Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

123. Failure to consider susceptibility to reform, while denying the right to access privileges and activities of the university, negates the possibility of rehabilitation. Absence of an environment of reform, self development and rehabilitation in a university, denies the opportunity of redeeming one's reputation. Termination of dialogue with the delinquent student, without offering an opportunity to reform, makes him an outcaste. The individual is permanently discarded by the institution, and loss of human self worth is total. This system of punishment is destructive of fundamental elements of human dignity, and violative of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

124. Another aspect of the punishment which needs consideration, is the consequence exclusion from higher education.

125. Education is a most credible and effective mode of restoring self esteem and enhancing self worth. By denying opportunities of education to a delinquent student, without looking at the possibility of reform, the power to redeem one's errors and enhance self worth is taken away from an individual. In these cases, closure of avenues of education, extinguishes the hope for a better tomorrow. Loss of hope and its sequitor perpetual condemnation are fatal blows to the human spirit and self esteem.

126. Acts of deviant conduct, violence or intimidation, do not cease the need for social engagement or knowledge. Such needs are more acutely felt and require satisfaction in these cases.

127. Order may be enforced by punishments. Causes of deviant conduct can be addressed only by engagement. Punishments deal with the offence, reform deals with the offender.

128. Public interest however demands that the claim for further education, and engagement with delinquent students, should be guided and controlled by the authorities.

129. Statutory regimes in universities, dealing with delinquent behaviour and university environments, which are bereft of therapeutic and reform based support systems, are incompatible with the constitutional mandate to uphold human dignity. The violations of human dignity, in such cases, are summed up hereinunder:

130. Dignity violations occur when a punishment meted out to a student, does not consider his susceptibility to reform, and degrades his person by exclusion to the point where his diminished self worth cannot be reinstated due to systemic inadequacies or institutional shortcomings.

131. By denying further education, and neglecting to create an institutional system of reform, self development and rehabilitation, the university in effect tells the delinquent student, that it does not recognize the student's need to re-establish his self esteem. In other words, the student is not only impervious to reform, but incapable of enhancing his self esteem.

132. Dignity of an individual/student is injured, when it is found that the punishment precludes reform by rehabilitative measures, and prevents self enhancement by further education.

133. The punitive consequences of the action, cannot go beyond the requirements of the case. In this case they do.

134. An institutional reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, will enable a delinquent student to introspect on errors, express remorse and correct course.

135. Neglect by the universities to create an institutional reform, self development and rehabilitation programme thus places substantial obstacles in the enjoyment of the fundamental right of human dignity under Article 21.

136. The result of the preceding narrative is as follows:-

(i) The impugned action taken by the university, against the petitioner is violative of the fundamental right of human dignity of the petitioner, guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, as it fails to consider his susceptibility to reform, and does not enable the petitioner to undergo a reform and self development process to redeem himself.

(ii) The statutory omission of reform measures, is an inadequacy which renders the university incapable of rectifying the violation made by it. The systemic fault-line is contrary to the mandate of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

(v) Systemic responses : Responsibilities of the State and universities

137. Exercise of judicial power is the prerogative of the courts; but upholding the Constitution is not the monopoly of the courts.

138. To realize the fundamental rights guaranteed under the Constitution and to achieve the goals contemplated under the Preamble, all stakeholders have to play their part and all organs of governance have to perform their obligations. Constitutional ideals will become meaningful only if constitutional values animate the functioning of all institutions of governance. Universities have a special role to play.

139. The State and in this case the universities too, have the obligation to create an enabling environment, (emphasis supplied) where life and life enhancing attributes under Article 21 of the Constitution of India flourish and where constitutional ideals become a reality.

140. The importance of "therapeutic approach" in solving social dysfunctions, the growth in role of the State to give away public recognition in the way they treat their citizens, the evolution of law on the subject, and the contribution of universities were analyzed by Francis

Fukuyama in his book "Identity". Some of the instructive passages are extracted below:

"The therapeutic turn in the popular culture of advanced liberal democracies such as the United States was inevitably reflected in its politics, and in an evolving understanding of the role of the state. In the classical liberalism of the nineteenth century, the state was held responsible for protecting basic rights such as freedom speech and association, for upholding a rule of law, and for providing essential public services such as police, roads, and education. The government "recognized" its citizens by granting them individual rights, but the state was not seen as responsible for making each individual feel better about himself or herself."

"Under the therapeutic method, however, an individual's happiness depends on his or her self-esteem, and self-esteem is a by-product of public recognition. Governments are readily able to give away public recognition in the way that they talk about and treat their citizens, so modern liberal societies naturally and perhaps inevitably began to take on the responsibility for raising the self-esteem of each and every one of their citizens".

"Therapeutic services came to be deeply embedded in social policy, not just in California but throughout the United States and in other liberal democracies. States began to offer psychological counseling and other mental health services, and schools began to incorporate therapeutic insights into the way that they taught children."

"In the early twentieth century, social dysfunctions such as delinquency or teen pregnancy were seen as deviant behaviour that needed to be dealt with punitively, often through the criminal justice system".

"But with the rise of therapeutic approaches by mid century, they were increasingly seen as social pathologies that needed to be treated through counseling and psychiatric intervention".

"The 1956 amendments to the Social Security Act allowed for federal reimbursements of a range of therapeutic services to strengthen family life and self-support."

"The therapeutic state metastasized across a wide number of institutions, including a large non-profit sector that by the 1990s had become the delivery vehicle for state-funded social services".

"Universities found themselves at the forefront of the therapeutic revolution."

(emphasis supplied)

141. These special needs of citizens have to be addressed by State action, and also through judicial interventions in a nuanced manner, and in a larger perspective. Exclusive reliance on coercive powers of the law, shall be inadequate and an unsatisfactory way of dealing with the problem. The therapeutic jurisprudence draws heavily from concept of human dignity and self worth for its philosophical underpinning.

142. Disciplinary action should also be supported by reformative philosophy. Reformative philosophy does not undermine the deterrent approach.

143. The statutory regime imposes punishment for delinquent acts. The reform programme will address the cause of delinquency itself. Framing the approach to discipline as a choice between punishment or reform is misleading. A just corrective system needs both. Both approaches complement each other and can be pursued simultaneously. Deterrent aspect may also be reinforced, by making grant of the degree contingent upon successful completion of the reform programme.

144. The ordinances providing for punishments for deviant conduct need to be duly supported by a legal framework for structured reform, self development and rehabilitation programmes. This environment will accord social recognition to the need for reform of delinquent students. The degrading effect of punishment will be ameliorated. Dialogue will end isolation, reform will reinstate self worth and education will enhance self esteem.

145. Structured reform, self development and rehabilitation programmes and therapeutic support, within a legal framework, will create an enabling environment (emphasis supplied) in the universities, to realize the fundamental right of human dignity, flowing from Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

L. Reform, Self Development & Rehabilitation

(i) Role of universities in achieving behavioral change

"You must be the change you wish to see in the world"

~Mahatma Gandhi

146. Non violence as a philosophy of thought, and a creed of conduct, was developed in India on a scale wider than elsewhere. From the Buddha to Ashoka and the Mahatma, behavioral change in adopting non violence as a way of life, at the national scale was greatly accomplished in India.

147. The response of the Indian civilization, to the challenges of communal hatred and communal otherness, was profound and without parallel. The unique response of the Indian society was fashioned by the universal philosophy of the Indian civilization; of affirming the unity of the human race, of embracing diversity, of respecting dissent, and creating a harmonious dialogue of faiths. The lives and teachings of saints and thinkers like Guru Nanak, Kabir, Vivekananda, Tagore and Mahatma Gandhi, bear testimony to this composite culture.

148. For each generation to produce such individuals of excellence is an exorbitant demand. Today behavioral change is achieved in a different manner, albeit more incrementally and less dramatically. Institutions like universities have a critical role to play. Universities have an obligation to the society and the individual. The universities have an irrevocable compact, and an organic connect with the society.

149. University is a paternal institution. By the act of suspension or debarment of a delinquent student, the university abandons its ward. The university has solved its problem, but the society has one at its hands. The downstream effects of the punishments, have not been considered by the respondents. Clearly there are direct costs to the society as well. There are no other institutions of equal standing, to engage with the youth, deal with the discontent or aberration, and channelize youthful energies.

150. The role of the University does not end in punishing perpetrators of violence. It begins with the identification of the causes of violence, communal hatred, and other forms of deviant conduct. Thereafter the responsibility to achieve behavioral change commences. The fruit of knowledge imparted by the universities lies in the manifestation of human values in the human personality and expression of humanity in human conduct. Knowledge which does not change human behaviour in this manner is futile.

(ii) Imbibing Constitutional values and purging communal hatred

151. The Indian civilizational ethos and the Indian constitutional values are congruent. The Supreme Court distilled the essence of Indian values, when it emphasised "our tradition teaches tolerance, our philosophy preaches tolerance and our Constitution practises tolerance; let us not dilute it" while upholding the religious rights of Jehovah's witnesses in Bijoe Emmanuel and others vs. State of Kerala and others, reported at (1986) 3 SCC 615.

152. Universities have to protect the space for open dialogue, respectful engagement and reasoned debate. Universities need to ensure that the space for constitutional values, is not encroached by communal hatred.

153. The universities have the responsibility, to preserve this heritage, and the obligation to nurture these constitutional values. University experience has to inculcate these values in the students.

154. The universities may consider holding seminars, workshops, heritage festivals, cultural festivals, literature festivals, and encourage other activities to achieve this end. This has to be a part of the larger programme of value creation and self development.

(iii) Present discontents of students and solutions

155. The preceding discussion shows how a reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, will create an enabling environment, for realization of the fundamental rights of the individual under Article 21. How such programme, will yield tangible benefits for the society, will now be examined.

156. The paradox of the digital age is a plethora of devices and a dilution of dialogue, the substitution of conversation by chatter. There is the ever present danger of growth of knowledge and diminution of thought. The young are empowered by technology, but made restless by the void in values, and lack of direction.

157. The dilemmas of the digital age were acutely summed up by Yuval Noah Harari in his profound and acclaimed work "Homo Deus":

> "Today our knowledge is increasing at breakneck speed, and theoretically we should understand the world better and better. But the very opposite is happening. Our new-found knowledge leads to faster economic, social and political changes; in an attempt to understand what is happening, we accelerate the accumulation of knowledge, which leads only to faster and greater upheavals. Consequently we are less and less able to make sense of the present or forecast the future."

158. In this situation lack of avenues of engagement, absence of a structured reform, self development and therapeutic support system, leaves the students with little options. The choices available in the society, to satisfy their need for belonging, to recover self esteem, and to channelize youthful energies are not very encouraging.

159. Re-establishing meaningful dialogue, recreating an environment of fruitful conversation, and making empathetic engagement are some of the present challenges. The responsibility of reaching out and engaging with the students, and increasing quality interface with them, lies with the universities and the teachers.

160. These obligations can be accomplished by a meticulously created reform/self development programme and high quality of academic leadership within a comprehensive legal framework.

161. Universities are a microcosm of the society. They are laboratories of social change, and also agents of social transformation.

162. The manner in which the universities deal, with aberrations of violence other forms of deviant conduct, and deficit of values in students, has repercussions for the society at large. The divergent pulls of primordial instincts of hate and violence, against a citizen's duties in a nation ruled by law can best be managed by universities.

163. The universities are uniquely placed to deal with these issues. The universities have the intellectual capital, institutional framework and moral leadership, which puts them in the front rank of institutions to effect such change. The environment in the University should encourage and engender reflective actions instead of automatic choices.

164. The reform/self development and rehabilitation programme, will give an individual student correct direction in life, and prevent one from drifting away. The student will be anchored in constitutional values, and will not be led astray by social evils. The support and aid by the university will give one a sense of ownership and belonging. No harvest is richer for a nation, than citizens empowered by a constitutional value system.

165. The high pedestal at which teachers are placed in Indian traditions and thoughts, was recalled to explain the current role of teachers in Indian society, by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Avinash Nagra Vs. Navodaya Vidyalaya Samiti and Others, reported at (1997) 2 SCC 534. The relevant extracts were succinctly summed up by a Division Bench of this Court, in the case of Devarsh Nath Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and Others, reported at 2019(6) ADJ 296 (DB):

"22. Special status of teacher has been reminded by Court in Avinash Nagra vs. Navodaya Vidyalaya Samiti and others (1997) 2 SCC 534. Quoting Father of the Nation, Court said that a teacher cannot be without character. If he lacks it, he will be like salt without its savour. A teacher must touch the hearts of his students. Boys imbibe more from the teacher's own life than they do from books. If teachers impart all the knowledge in the world to their students but do not inculcate truth and purity amongst them, they will have betrayed them. Quoting Shri Aurobindo, Court said that it is the teacher's province to hold aloft the torch, to insist at all times and at all places that this nation of ours was founded on idealism and that whatever may be the prevailing tendencies of the times, our children shall learn to live among the sun-lit peaks. Court also referred Dr. S. Radhakrishanan saying that we, in our country, look upon teacher as gurus or, as acharyas. An Acharya is one whose achar or conduct is exemplary. He must be an example of Sadachar or good conduct. He must inspire the pupils who are entrusted to his care with love of virtue and goodness. The ideal of a true teacher is "andhakaraniridhata gurur itya bhidhiyate" (Andhakar is not merely intellectual ignorance, but is also spiritual blindness). He, who is able to remove that kind of spiritual blindness, is called a 'guru'. Swami Vivekananda was also quoted saying that student should live from his very boyhood with one whose character is a blazing fire and should have before him a living example of the highest teaching. In our country, the imparting of knowledge has always been through men of renunciation. The charge of imparting knowledge should again fall upon the shoulder of Tyagis."

166. In Avinash Nagra (supra), the obligations of teachers to transform students into responsible citizens, and inculcate the value system of the Indian Constitution, was stated thus:

"...The State has taken care of service conditions of the teacher and he owed dual fundamental duties to himself and to the society. As a member of the noble teaching profession and a citizen of India he should always be willing, self-disciplined, dedicated with integrity to remain ever a learner of knowledge, intelligently to articulate and communicate and imbibe in his students, as social duty, to impart education, to bring them up with discipline, inculcate to abjure violence and to develop scientific temper with a spirit of enquiry and reform constantly to rise to higher levels in any walk of life nurturing Constitutional ideals enshrined in Article 51A so as to make the students responsible citizens of the country. Thus the teacher either individually or collectively as a community of teachers, should regenerate this dedication with a bent of spiritualism in broader perspective of the Constitutionalism with secular ideologies enshrined in the Constitution as an arm of the State to establish egalitarian social order under the rule of law. Therefore, when the society has given such a pedestal, the conduct, character, ability and disposition of a teacher should be to transform the student into a disciplined citizen, inquisitive to learn, intellectual to pursue in any walk of life with dedication, discipline and devotion with an inquiring mind but not with blind customary beliefs....."

167. The students entering universities embark on a new phase in their lives. Many are often removed from their comfort zone, and the secure environment of their homes, to face the challenges of independent life. At times these new challenges can be intimidating, and the uncertainties can create apprehensions, in the minds of the young adults.

168. Some students are unmoored in this trying phase of life and change of circumstances. Ragging of juniors in institutions of higher learning and other evils make the situations worse for freshers. Such students especially girls students in our country, need full institutional support to face these challenges.

169. It is the responsibility of the universities and the institutions of higher learning to create requisite environment of sensitizing the senior students and supporting the freshers in every possible manner.

170. A programme for self development implemented in a proactive manner shall foster constitutional values among students. Students need to realize the value of dissent in a democracy, but also have to understand the manner of dissent in a society ruled by law.

171. This process also requires initiation of engagement with the students and improving the quality of interface between the teachers and the taught. Educating the educators in this regard has to be a part of any such programme. Workshops have to be held and other methods have to be explored, to cultivate constitutional values in students and achieve behavioral change.

172. These are the preventive measures to address the issues of indiscipline, deficit in values and deviant behaviour in all institutions of higher learning.

173. The preventive measures preclude the occurrence of deviant behaviour. The post facto rehabilitation measures prevent recurrence of deviant behaviour. Both have to be integrated into one conjoint system of value creation, in the universities and institutions of higher learning.

174. Structured reform/self development programmes run by universities, can be catalysts for inducing behavioral change, and inculcating a constitutional value system in students. A successful reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, can convert a possible danger into a real asset for the society.

(iv) Creation of reform, self development & rehabilitation programmes

175. Many branches of knowledge in modern times are devoted to the study of human psychology, social behaviour and behavioural change. Psychology, Psychiatry, Sociology, Anthropology and Behavioral Economics, are some fields dedicated to gaining insights into human behaviour and inducing behavioural change.

176. Works of the Nobel prize winning economist Richard Thaler deserve special mention. The methodology of "nudges", in creating behavioral change has been gaining acceptability. The organization "Nudge" in Lebanon, has done noteworthy work with refugee children, and on environmental protection.

177. The Behavioral Insights Teams sometimes called "Nudge Units", are also existing in many nations including Australia, Canada, Germany, Qatar, the United Arab Emirates, Japan, the United States, and the United Kingdom. The Economic Survey released by India's Finance Ministry in July, 2019 has concluded with the clear recommendations that "the proposal to set up a behavioral economics unit in the NITI Ayog must be immediately activated". The report further noticed that the unit should work with State Governments, helping them to make their programme more effective, and informing them of the potential value of Behavioural Insights.

178. Ancient branches of knowledge and wellness like yoga, meditation, vipassana and so on may prove to be rich resources to benefit from.

179. Many scientific researches have confirmed the efficacy of these ancient systems of human wellness. These branches of knowledge have to be approached with a scientific and an open academic mindset. Personal beliefs have to be respected at all times. There can be no imposition of any system, which is resisted on grounds of faith or beliefs; in which cases other options may be given.

180. Socially useful work like planting and taking care of trees, and flora may be a part of the programme. Sports and sporting activities also go a long way in creating integrating social values, and enhancing emotional intelligence. Teaching needy children, serving the sick, and other forms of service to the society are options which may be explored. Counselling sessions with experts and psychologists could prove useful.

181. Therapeutic solutions to social problems, are being increasingly recognized by social scientists, medical experts, psychologists, and jurists alike.

182. Creation of course content of the reform or self development programme, and manner of its implementation has to be decided by the respondents. This requires wide consultations, deliberations and workshops with academia, varsities, institutions of research, student counsellors, psychologists, psychiatrists, students and other stakeholders.

183. The UGC is a statutory body, and cannot abdicate its responsibilities in this scenario. The functions of the UGC are enumerated in the University Grants Commission Act, 1956. The UGC will play an important role, in the creation and standardization of the course, for reformation and self development, and aid its implementation on an institutional basis.

184. The Government of India in particular, the Ministry of Human Resource Development, also has a contribution to make in the process. The Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, New Delhi, has to provide the necessary support to the University as may be required under law to create and implement the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme. This support would include the creation of necessary infrastructure for implementing the programmes.

185. Both the University Grants Commission and the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, are required to support the universities in their endeavours to create and implement the programmes of reform, self development and rehabilitation.

186. Law enforcement agencies the world over are engaging with the youth, to draw them away from the appeal of extreme ideologies.

187. The prestige enjoyed by universities and the teachers in society, will make the programme credible to concerned individuals, and acceptable to the student community. The key to the efficacy of any structured reform programme, is empathetic engagement and a supportive environment.

188. An impersonal approach and institutional prejudice, can make the programme a non starter. Due sensitization of all stakeholders is required, before implementing the programme.

189. The founding purpose of universities to supply intellectual and moral leadership to the society, and to be at the vanguard of social transformation, will be eminently achieved by effective reformation/therapeutic/self development programmes.

(v) Concerns of universities regarding discipline & restraints during the reformation, sel01f development & rehabilitation programme:

190. The Court is cognizant of concerns of the universities, that a reform programme should not derail university administration, nor should it have a detrimental effect on discipline and good order in the campus. A reform and rehabilitation programme, is not intended to allow a wrongdoer to escape justice.

191. Apprehensions of the universities need to be addressed. The reform programme has to be created and structured and implemented in a manner that it does not adversely impact the good order and discipline in the university campus.

192. The start of reform programme does not inevitably mean a free access to, or unconditional reinstatement of a delinquent student into the university campus. In cases of indiscipline where presence of individuals poses a threat of breakdown of order in the university campus, a decision can be made only by the university. Even when such students undergo a reform programme, and the students are pursuing their academic studies, the university may impose restraints it deems fit.

193. To obviate possibilities of disruption in the academic atmosphere, various measures of graduated restrictions may be imposed on a case to case basis. These restraints may include minute monitoring of movements in campus, restricting movements and contact, an employee escort till the student is in the campus, alteration of class schedules and timings. Such lighter restrictions could continue, while undergoing reform programmes along with the academic course.

194. More stringent measures in aggravated cases, may include a campus ban, with on-line classes and home schooling. Transfer to constituent colleges or other universities from a pool of universities, or setting up separate premises are among the options. In these cases entry to the specific university campus may be barred, even as the reform programme is underway, and the student is prosecuting his academic course.

195. These are some illustrative instances, of restraints which may be imposed by the universities.

M. Conclusions and Reliefs

196. Learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the petitioner wants an opportunity to reform himself (without prejudice to his right of appeal). In the face of the order of expulsion, the petitioner has no future prospects of self development, and turning into a law abiding citizen.

197. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also adopted the arguments of learned Senior Counsel in the companion writ petition.

198. The petitioner's prayer for being a part of the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme to atone for his erroneous ways (without prejudice to his right of appeal) and to evolve into a responsible, law abiding citizen of the country is liable to be allowed.

199. The issue relating to creation of reform, self development and rehabilitation programmes in the University was heard as a common issue in various writ petitions. The Secretary, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Union of India, New Delhi and the Chairman, University Grants Commission, New Delhi, were also parties in the leading two writ petitions, namely, Writ C No. 13214 of 2019 (Anant Narayan Mishra Vs. The Union of India and Others) and Writ C No. 26755 of 2019 (Mohammad Ghayas Vs. State of U.P. and Others). All connected writ petitions were heard together.

200. The directions issued to the Secretary, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Union of India, New Delhi and the Chairman, University Grants Commission, New Delhi, in the leading two writ petitions, namely, Writ C No. 13214 of 2019 (Anant Narayan Mishra Vs. The Union of India and Others) and Writ C No. 26755 of 2019 (Mohammad Ghayas Vs. State of U.P. and Others), being of a general nature, shall be part of all connected writ petitions including the instant writ petition.

201. The matter is remitted to the respondents.

202. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the respondents to execute the following directions in the light of this judgment:

I. The appeal of the petitioner shall be decided within six months, without prejudice to the right of the petitioner for consideration for reinstatement under the rehabilitation programme.

II. The University shall create a reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, for students accused of misconduct and against whom disciplinary action or any action to deny facilities of the university is proposed or taken;

III. The reform, self development and rehabilitation programme should be created after wide consultations and workshops with institutions of higher learning and research, universities, experts, student counsellors/psychologists, psychiatrists, students and other stakeholders;

IV. University Grants Commission will aid the above process by providing the necessary support to the University to create, standardize and effectuate the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme in the university.

V. The Secretary, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, New Delhi, shall also provide the necessary support to create infrastructure in the University to effectuate the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme in the University, as is deemed appropriate in light of this judgment and as per law.

VI. The reform, self development and rehabilitation programmes shall be processed as per law and integrated into the existing legal/statutory framework of the University dealing with deviant conduct and punishments.

VII. The petitioner shall be given the benefit of the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme. After the creation of the self development and rehabilitation programme, the petitioner shall be reinstated as a student. The petitioner shall be permitted to continue his studies in any course which he is eligible to pursue along with the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme.

VIII. Attendance of the petitioner in the said programme shall be compulsory. An evaluation sheet of the petitioner's performance in the programme shall also be prepared.

IX. It shall be open to the AMU to impose necessary restraints, as it deems fit, upon the petitioner even as he pursues his academic course along with the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme. These restraints may include a campus entry ban upon the petitioner, if the university deems it necessary. It is emphasized that the authority of the University to impose such restraints is open in all cases, especially, in the instant case where the misconduct appears to be of a particularly serious nature. (This observation shall, however, not influence the University while deciding the appeal on its merits). The University shall take an independent decision in that regard.

X. The exercise shall be completed, preferably, within six months, but not later than 12 months. At all times the respondents keeping in mind the best interests of the students and the society, shall make all efforts to expedite the compliance of the directions.

XI. It shall be open to the respondents to create a scheme for reform, self development and rehabilitation for convicts in criminal cases who wish to pursue further higher studies in the respondent University.

XII. The counsels for the respondents shall provide certified copy of this judgment along with Writ C No. 13214 of 2019 (Anant Narayan Mishra Vs. The Union of India and Others) to the Registrar, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh; the Secretary, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Union of India, New Delhi and the Chairman, University Grants Commission, New Delhi, for necessary compliances.

203. The writ petition is finally disposed of.

A. Constitution of India – Article 226 – Delay and laches – Indian Limitation Act, 1963 – Applicability – Though period of limitation prescribed under Indian Limitation Act, 1963 is not applicable to a writ petition under Article 226 of Constitution of India, but, principle of undue delay and laches are applicable – Writ petition has been filed highly belated without explaining delay and laches – Delay and laches constitute substantial reason for disentitling relief in equitable jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. (Para 13 and 14)

B. Constitution of India – Article 226 – Second Writ – Maintainability – Abuse of process of law – Earlier writ petition dismissed with observation to file Suit – Second Writ Petition after 19 years – No Disclosure of earlier petition – Attempt of petitioner is nothing but gross abuse of process of law. (Delivered by Hon'ble SudhirAgarwal, J.
Hon'ble Rajeev Misra, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vijay Kumar Dwivedi, learned counsel for petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for respondent and perused the record.

2. Petitioner's claim is that in respect of work performed by him, he is entitled for recovery of Rs.2,29,765.16 but his claim has been rejected by respondent-1 vide order dated 31.7.2000.

3. Basically writ petition is for recovery of money therefore, in effect, it is a suit for recovery of money and since claim of petitioner is not an admitted claim as it has already been rejected by respondent-1 vide order dated 31.7.2000, we do not find that writ petition is maintainable hence petitioner has remedy in common law.

4. It is true that writ petition for enforcement of contractual matter is not absolutely barred but when petitioner seeks recovery of money claiming to have fallen due as a result of performance of a contract and claim is not admitted by respondents, matter requires evidence for adjudication and hence remedy in common law by filing suit for recovery of money must be filed and writ petition under Article 226 of Constitution should not be entertained.

5. The question, whether for the purpose of recovery of money pursuant to contract, writ petition under Article 226 would be maintainable has been considered in Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited and another Vs. Dolly Das 1999 (4) SCC 450 wherein Court said that in absence of any constitutional or statutory rights being involved, a writ proceeding would not lie to enforce contractual obligations even if it is sought to be enforced against State or to avoid contractual liability arising thereto. In the absence of any statutory right, Article 226 cannot be availed to claim any money in respect of breach of contract or tort or otherwise.

6. In Kerala State Electricity Board and another Vs. Kurien E. Kalathil and others 2000 (6) SCC 293, Court said that interpretation and implementation of a clause in a contract cannot be subject-matter of a writ petition. Whether a contract envisages actual payment or not is a question of construction of contract. If a term of contract is violated, ordinarily remedy is not the writ petition under Article 226. A contract would not become statutory simply because it is for construction of a public utility and it has been awarded by a statutory body. A statute may expressly or impliedly confer power on a statutory body to enter into contracts in order to enable it to discharge its functions. Disputes arising out of the terms of such contracts or alleged breaches have to be settled by the ordinary principles of law of contract. The fact that one of the parties to the agreement is a statutory or public body will not by itself affect the principles to be applied. The disputes about the meaning of a covenant in a contract or its enforceability have to be determined according to the usual principles of the Contract Act. Every act of a statutory body need not necessarily involve an exercise of statutory power. Statutory bodies have power to contract or deal with property like private parties. Such activities may not raise any issue of public law. When it is not shown that contract is statutory and parties are within the realm of their authority, contract between the parties is in the realm of private law. The disputes relating to interpretation of terms and conditions of such contract cannot be agitated in a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution. The Court further said:

"That is a matter for adjudication by a civil court or in arbitration if provided for in the contract. Whether any amount is due and if so, how much and refusal of the appellant to pay it is justified or not, are not the matters which could have been agitated and decided in a writ petition."

7. Following the above authorities, a Division Bench of this Court in M/S Prabhu Construction Company through its Proprietor Vs. State of U.P. and another (Writ C No. 25075 of 2014) decided on 05.05.2014 said as under:

"In the present case, there is nothing on the record which may persuade us to hold that the contract is a statutory contract. The remedy of the contractor, if he is aggrieved by non-payment, would be to either file an ordinary civil suit or if there is an arbitration agreement between the parties, to invoke the terms of the agreement."

8. Court also relied on its earlier decision in M/s R.S. Associate Vs. State of U.P. and others (Writ-C No. 11544 of 2014) decided on 24.02.2014.

9. Again in Alaska Tech Vs. State of U.P. 2014 (6) ADJ 591, a Division Bench of this Court observed as under:

"2. We are of the view that, in a matter of this nature which pertains to alleged nonpayment of dues under a contract for supply of goods, it would neither be prudent nor judicious for this Court, in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution, to grant relief, which is in substance, is a prayer for a money decree. These matters, it must be emphasized, are not those relating to statutory contracts but are purely non-statutory contracts. Whether work has been satisfactorily performed, whether the rates which had been quoted are in accordance with the terms of the contract, whether the goods were of a quality as mandated, and above all, whether the claim is within limitation or otherwise, are issues which cannot appropriately be adjudicated upon under Article 226 of the Constitution."

10. The same view has been reiterated in M/S Goyal Stationary Mart through its Proprietor State of U.P. (Misc. Bench No. 10971 of 2015) decided on 27.11.2015, Budh Gramin Sansthan Vs. State of U.P. 2014 (7) ADJ 29, Kaka Advertising Agency Vs. U.P. Technical University and others 2014 (11) ADJ 227, M/s A.K. Constructions Vs. State of U.P. and others (Misc. Bench No. 1909 of 2014) decided on 07.03.2014, Major Travels through Proprietor Vs. State of U.P. and others (Misc. Bench No. 3472 of 2014) decided on 25.04.2014 and Uttaranchal Paper Converters and Publishers through Proprietor Vs. State of U.P. and others (Misc. Bench No. 3898 of 2015) decided on 13.05.2014.

11. Following the above authorities, a Division Bench of this Court has also taken same view in Writ Petition (Writ-C) No. 42697 of 2002 (M/S Jai Goswami Electric Works Alld. Vs. Union Of India through' D.R.M. and Others) decided on 19.05.2016.

12. Further, it appears that writ petition has been filed in a circuitous way for the reason that the amount, petitioner is claiming, relates to the period of 1998, and his claim was rejected as long back on 31.7.2000 (Annexure 12 to the writ petition). A suit for recovery of the same has become barred by limitation therefore, in order to avoid legal obstruction, this writ petition has been filed since claim has become barred by limitation long back and cannot be claimed by filing a suit.

13. Though period of limitation prescribed under Indian Limitation Act, 1963 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1963) as such is not applicable to a writ petition under Article 226 of Constitution of India, but, principle of undue delay and laches are applicable. In the present case, claim relates to the period of 1998 and order rejecting claim was passed in July, 2000, but, this writ petition has been filed in September, 2019 without explaining delay and laches. The only explanation is that petitioner had filed Writ Petition No.8202 of 2000, which was disposed of vide judgment dated 16.02.2000 directing respondents-Competent Authority to pass a reasoned order and thereafter order dated 31.07.2000 was passed. How aforesaid order can give rise to a fresh cause of action of filing writ petition in 2019 without explaining laches is not stated anywhere.

14. Delay and laches constitute substantial reason for disentitling relief in equitable jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. In New Delhi Municipal Council Vs. Pan Singh and others J.T.2007(4) SC 253, the Apex Court observed that after a long time the writ petition should not have been entertained even if the petitioners are similarly situated and discretionary jurisdiction may not be exercised in favour of those who approached the Court after a long time. It was held that delay and laches were relevant factors for exercise of equitable jurisdiction. In M/S Lipton India Ltd. And others vs. Union of India and others, J.T. 1994(6) SC 71 and M.R. Gupta Vs. Union of India and others 1995(5) SCC 628 it was held that though there was no period of limitation provided for filing a petition under Article 226 of Constitution of India, ordinarily a writ petition should be filed within reasonable time. In K.V. Rajalakshmiah Setty Vs. State of Mysore, AIR 1961 SC 993, it was said that representation would not be adequate explanation to take care of delay. Same view was reiterated in State of Orissa Vs. Pyari Mohan Samantaray and others AIR 1976 SC 2617 and State of Orissa and others Vs. Arun Kumar Patnaik and others 1976(3) SCC 579 and the said view has also been followed in Shiv Dass Vs. Union of India and others AIR 2007 SC 1330= 2007(1) Supreme 455 and New Delhi Municipal Council (supra). The aforesaid authorities of the Apex Court has also been followed by this Court in Chunvad Pandey Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2008(4) ESC 2423. This has been followed in Virender Chaudhary Vs. Bharat Petroleum Corporation & Ors., 2009(1) SCC 297. In S.S. Balu and another Vs. State of Kerala and others, 2009(2) SCC 479 the Apex Court held that it is well settled principle of law that delay defeats equity. It is now a trite law that where the writ petitioners approaches the High Court after a long delay, reliefs prayed for may be denied to them on account of delay and laches irrespective of the fact that they are similarly situated to other candidates who have got the benefit. In Yunus Vs. State of Maharashtra and others, 2009(3) SCC 281 the Court referred to the observations of Sir Barnesdelay Peacock in Lindsay Petroleum Company Vs. Prosper Armstrong Hurde etc. (1874) 5 PC 239 and held as under:

"Now the doctrine of laches in Courts of Equity is not an arbitrary or technical doctrine. Where it would be practically unjust to give a remedy either because the party has, by his conduct done that which might fairly be regarded as equivalent to a waiver of it, or where by his conduct and neglect he has though perhaps not waiving that remedy, yet put the other party in a situation in which it would not be reasonable to place him if the remedy were afterwards to be asserted, in either of these cases, lapse of time and delay are most material. . . . . Two circumstances always important in such cases are, the length of the delay and the nature of the acts done during the interval which might affect either party and cause a balance of justice or injustice in taking the one course or the other, so far as relates to the remedy."

15. The third obstruction is that in fact petitioner has already failed, inasmuch as, after order dated 31.07.2000 petitioner filed Writ Petition No.4134 of 2003, and the same was dismissed on 28.08.2008. The order reads as under :

"1. This is a writ petition for direction to respondents to pay the money.
2. We have heard counsel for the petitioner and Standing Counsel for the respondents.
3. Petitioner may if he is so advised file a suit.
4. With this observation the writ petition is dismissed."

16. After dismissal of above writ petition, no writ petition afresh was maintainable still present writ petition has been filed without stating fact of dismissal of writ petition in para 1 of writ petition though for the same claim, writ petition was already dismissed.

17. Last but not the least, obstruction before petitioner is that his claim has been rejected by respondent-1, meaning thereby, claim of payment of petitioner is not an admitted claim. Whether rejection is justified and petitioner is entitled for payment of money pursuant to alleged work performed by him and that too to the satisfaction and in terms of contract, is an issue which needs evidence, which cannot be decided in a writ petition under Article 226 of Constitution but can be a subject matter of civil suit, but, unfortunately petitioner has allowed the same to become barred by limitation.

18. What the petitioner has already lost, cannot be restored or revived by filing fresh writ petition. In fact this attempt of petitioner is nothing but gross abuse of process of law.

19. In view thereof, writ petition is dismissed.

The petitioner in terms of the said letter appeared before the Principal, Government Medical College, Azamgarh on 10.7.2018 and submitted his papers as well as deposited an amount of Rs. 31,800/- by demand draft no. 409058, which was duly received by the Principal as is perused from the receipt dated 10.7.2018 (Annexure-3 to the petition).

3. The petitioner thereafter sought an NOC to appear in the second counselling only with a view to improve and get a better Institution. The said NOC was given to the petitioner on 10.7.2018. The petitioner appeared in the second round of counselling. In the said second round of counselling, the petitioner was allotted the same Medical College i.e. Government Medical College, Azamgarh. However, in the said second allotment letter his category was mentioned as GNOP, whereas in the first allotment letter the allotted category was mentioned as BCOP. The petitioner, believing that he was allotted the same college reported for admission, but no process was conducted by the College and the petitioner was throughout under the impression that his fees and papers had already been deposited in the College in question, as such no further steps were to be taken. The petitioner, when he approached the respondent no. 3, the College in question, was informed that his admission had been cancelled because the petitioner had appeared in the second counselling and as in terms of the allotment letter issued after the second round of counselling, the petitioner did not report at the allotted College on or before 18.8.2018, as such his admission had been cancelled.

4. The petitioner thereafter moved an application dated 28.8.2018 before the Director General, Medical Education and Training highlighting his plight, however, no action was taken but the petitioner was not allowed to continue his study. As such, the petitioner approached this Court by filing present writ petition on 9th September, 2018.

5. This Court vide order dated 13.9.2018, allowed three days' time to obtain instruction and the matter was directed to be listed on 18th September, 2018. On 18.9.2019, this Court granted time for filing of counter affidavits mainly as an statement was made before this Court that no seat is vacant, on which the petitioner can be accommodated.

6. The matter was heard on 9.12.2019.

7. Sri R.K. Ojha, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Shivendu Ojha, counsel for the petitioner argued that in terms of the brochure, there is no provision or stipulation that in the event of petitioner appearing in the second round of counselling, his admission granted after the first counselling was to automatically come to an end. He has drawn our attention to the provisions of the brochure specifying for the counselling procedure, which is as under:-

''कांउसिलिंग प्रकिया–:

प्रथम चक्र की कांउसिलिंग से अनावंटित/प्रवेशित अभ्यर्थी द्वितीय चक्र की कांउसिलिंग में प्रतिभाग कर सकेगे तथा इन्हें पुनः धरोहर धनराशि (Security Money) जमा करने

की आवश्यकता नहीं होगी। अभ्यर्थी प्रथम चक्र की काउंसिलिंग से आवंटित सीट को द्वितीय चक्र की काउंसिलिंग में त्मौनसिम कर सकता है। द्वितीय चक्र की काउंसिलिंग से त्मौनसिम होने के उपरान्त पूर्व में आवंटित सीट रिक्त होकर किसी अन्य अर्ह अभ्यर्थी को आवंटित हो जायेगी, Reshuffle न होने की दशा में अभ्यर्थी द्वारा प्रथम कांउसिलिंग से प्रवेश ली गयी सीट यथावत बनी रहेगी।"

8. On the basis of said provision, he submits that only if there was a reshuffle in the second round of counselling, the seat vacated would be allotted to someone else, whereas in the present case the seat was not reshuffled as the petitioner was allotted the same College. He further submits that even otherwise all the documents of the petitioner were submitted before the College concerned, which is clear from the perusal of the receipt dated 10.7.2018 and thus no further steps had to be taken by the petitioner even in terms of the allotment of the same College in the second round of counselling.

9. Sri Mahendra Pratap, learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent no. 2 on the other hand admits that in the first round of counselling, the petitioner was allotted the State Medical College, Azamgarh under the category BCOP, however in the second round of counselling, the petitioner was allotted the category GNOP, although the Medical College remained the same and thus in terms of the Government Order dated 12.6.2018, the seat allotted to the petitioner stood automatically cancelled. He further submits that in terms of the second allotment, the petitioner was advised to report on or before 18.8.2018 and as the petitioner did not report on or before the said date, as such he has no claim to the seat in question. He further argues that the submission of the counsel for the petitioner that all the documents which are required to be submitted were already deposited on 10.7.2018, is not acceptable, as the same exercise had to be completed once again.

10. Sri Mahendra Pratap has relied upon a System Requirement Specifications (Second Counselling) issued by Director General, Medical Education and Training to stress that in terms of the said guidelines if a candidate has been allotted a new seat on the basis of his choice in the second counselling, the seat allotted in the first counselling will automatically be cancelled, however in case he could not be allotted any seat on the basis of his/her choice in the second counselling, the seat allotted in the first counselling will be retained. Relevant paragraph 3 of the said circular is quoted hereinbelow:-

"Candidates who have joined in the institutes on the basis of first allotment and want to reshuffle his/her seat will take part in choice submission process. If he/she has been allotted a new seat on the basis of his/her choices in second counselling, the seat allotted in first counselling will automatically be cancelled. In case, he/she could not be allotted any seat on the basis of his/her choices in second counselling, the seat allotted in first counselling will be retained."

11. During the course of the proceedings, a supplementary counter affidavit was filed on behalf of Sri Mahendra Pratap indicating the seats vacant as on date, which is as under:-

क०सं०	संस्था का नाम	रिक्त सीटो की संख्या

1	मेडिकल कालेज, आगरा	1
2	मेडिकल कालेज, कानपुर	0
3	मेडिकल कालेज, इलाहाबाद	0

12. The counsel for the petitioner Sri R.K Ojha argues that he may be allotted any of the vacant seats in any of the Colleges as is evident from the chart given by Sri Mahendra Pratap at the discretion of the respondent no. 2, to which the petitioner would have no objection.

13. The sole question to be considered is whether in terms of the brochure any fault could be attributed to the petitioner and whether the petitioner would be entitled to a relief of admission keeping in view of his conduct and steps taken by the petitioner for correction of the injustice done to him.

14. A perusal of the brochure, which is the basis for any candidate to apply, clearly reveals that only on a reshuffle and the allotment of fresh seat in the second round of counselling, the admission to the seat in the first round of counselling can be held to be lapsed. In fact, the brochure clearly envisages that in the event of there being no reshuffle, the seat allotted in the first found of counselling shall remain as it is.

15. We are not impressed with the submission of Sri Mahendra Pratap that merely because there was a change of category, it would amount to allotment of a new seat and would render the admission to the first seat as lapsed. In the present case, it is not disputed that the petitioner was allotted the same College in the second round of counselling also, he has deposited all his testimonials and the fees at the time of first round of counselling and thus we have no hesitation in holding that merely because a new category was allotted from BCOP to GNOP, the same would amount to a reshuffle and allotment of a new seat. Thus, we hold that the petitioner has been meted with manifest arbitrariness and despite the petitioner being meritorious has been denied admission.

16. Now, considering the question as to what relief can be granted in the facts of the present case, it is essential to note that the petitioner approached this Court with expedition by filing present writ petition on 9th September, 2018 and no order could be passed in favour of the petitioner only on account of a statement made that no seats are vacant as recorded by this Court in its order dated 18.9.2018.

17. A three Judge bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court very recently in Civil Appeal No. 1081 of 2017 in the case of S. Krishna Sradha v. The State of Andhra Pradesh & Others decided on 13.12.2019 answered on a reference the questions which arose on account of a conflict between the pronouncement of the judgments of the Apex Court in the case of Asha v. Pt. B.D. Sharma UHS; (2012) 7 SCC 389 and Chandigarh Administration v. Jasmine Kaur; (2014) 10 SCC 521. The Apex Court after considering the submissions advanced before it, answered the reference as under:-

"9. In light of the discussion/observations made hereinabove, a meritorious candidate/student who has been denied an admission in MBBS Course illegally or irrationally by the authorities for no fault of his/her and who has approached the Court in time and so as to see that such a meritorious candidate may not have to suffer for no fault of his/her, we answer the reference as under:

(i) That in a case where candidate/student has approached the court at the earliest and without any delay and that the question is with respect to the admission in medical course all the efforts shall be made by the concerned court to dispose of the proceedings by giving priority and at the earliest.

(ii) Under exceptional circumstances, if the court finds that there is no fault attributable to the candidate and the candidate has pursued his/her legal right expeditiously without any delay and there is fault only on the part of the authorities and/or there is apparent breach of rules and regulations as well as related principles in the process of grant of admission which would violate the right of equality and equal treatment to the competing candidates and if the time schedule prescribed - 30 th September, is over, to do the complete justice, the Court under exceptional circumstances and in rarest of rare cases direct the admission in the same year by directing to increase the seats, however, it should not be more than one or two seats and such admissions can be ordered within reasonable time, i.e., within one month from 30th September, i.e., cut off date and under no circumstances, the Court shall order any Admission in the same year beyond 30 th October. However, it is observed that such relief can be granted only in exceptional circumstances and in the rarest of rare cases. In case of such an eventuality, the Court may also pass an order cancelling the admission given to a candidate who is at the bottom of the merit list of the category who, if the admission would have been given to a more meritorious candidate who has been denied admission illegally, would not have got the admission, if the Court deems it fit and proper, however, after giving an opportunity of hearing to a student whose admission is sought to be cancelled.

(iii) In case the Court is of the opinion that no relief of admission can be granted to such a candidate in the very academic year and wherever it finds that the action of the authorities has been arbitrary and in breach of the rules and regulations or the prospectus affecting the rights of the students and that a candidate is found to be meritorious and such candidate/student has approached the court at the earliest and without any delay, the court can mould the relief and direct the admission to be granted to such a candidate in the next academic year by issuing appropriate directions by directing to increase in the number of seats as may be considered appropriate in the case and in case of such an eventuality and if it is found that the management was at fault and wrongly denied the admission to the meritorious candidate, in that case, the Court may direct to reduce the number of seats in the management quota of that year, meaning thereby the student/students who was/were denied admission illegally to be accommodated in the next academic year out of the seats allotted in the management quota.

(iv) Grant of the compensation could be an additional remedy but not a substitute for restitutional remedies. Therefore, in an appropriate case the Court may award the compensation to such a meritorious candidate who for no fault of his/her has to lose one full academic year and who could not be granted any relief of admission in the same academic year.

(v) It is clarified that the aforesaid directions pertain for Admission in MBBS Course only and we have not dealt with Post Graduate Medical Course.

10. In view of the above, the decision of this Court in the case of Jasmine Kaur (Supra) or any other decisions contrary to the above stand overruled. The decision of this Court in the case of Asha (Supra) is hereby affirmed to the aforesaid extent. The reference is answered accordingly."*

18. Considering the ratio of the judgments of the Apex Court and the fact that we have already held that the admission was denied to the petitioner on account of totally arbitrary consideration by the respondent authorities and coupled with the fact that the seats are vacant in the Medical Colleges as are indicated in the chart filed by Sri Mahendra Pratap Singh, we hold that the petitioner being a meritorious student is entitled to a restitutionary relief and entitled to be admitted in the College where the seats are vacant to be decided by the respondent no. 2 within a period of 15 days from today subject to the petitioner complying with the other formalities.

19. The writ petition is allowed in terms of the said direction.

Held:

It was permissible for the Authorities to again pay compensation from the public exchequer to the erstwhile land owners at an exorbitant rate and that too at a rate which was applicable after more than two decades of the acquisition, the finding recorded by the Committee is that it was not permissible to do so and that it was not permissible to subsequently take recourse to the provisions of Section 11(2) of the Act when the award had already been made under Section 11(1) of the Act. (para 11)

Though the possession of the land was given to UPSIDC in 1993 but as the UPSIDC failed to make use of the land for a substantially long period, it gave an opportunity to the farmers to re-enter the land and do farming and thereby create a situation for them to make an unreasonable demand.(para 11)

The notifications are of the year 1991, whereas the writ petitions were filed in the year 2011 and 2012, after a period of more than 20 years. Averments of the writ petitions are silent on the issue of any explanation of gross delay in approaching this Court.Admittedly, the possession of the land was taken way back in the year 1993. The special land Acquisition Officer had made award in the year 1993 and 1995 and as such entire proceedings of acquisition was completed wayback in the year 1995.In view of above discussions, we dismiss the Writ Petition Nos.52602 of 2011, 59955 of 2012, 59958 of 2012, 59962 of 2012 and 59964 of 2012 on the ground of gross delay and laches.(para 45)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. The facts which led to filing of the present bunch of writ petitions are as follows:

2. A notification under Section 4(1) read with Section 17 of Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 1894') was published on 13.2.1991 to acquire a total 969.023 acres of land in four villages namely: Dashahra Kherli, Rukanpur, Jahanpur and Naifal alias Unchagaon, Pargana and Tehsil:Bulandshahr, Uttar Pradesh.

3. The acquisition of land was initiated at the instance of U.P. State Industrial Development Corporation, Kanpur (hereinafter referred to as "UPSIDC') for the purpose of establishing Growth Centre at district Bulandshahr. Declaration under Section 6(1) read with Section 17 of Act, 1894 was made on 23.3.1991. Possession of land was taken on 7.10.1993, 8.10.1993, 13.10.1993 and 16.10.1993. Special Land Acquisition Officer (hereinafter referred to as 'SLAO') made award determining compensation in respect to the land acquired on 15.10.1993, 16.10.1993, 22.10.1993 and 31.3.1995.

4. The SLAO determined compensation of total Rs.2,87,14,996.53. Certain land owners who were not satisfied with determination of compensation by SLAO got Reference made under Section 18 of Act, 1894. Reference Court increased amount of compensation and fixed at a total of Rs.7,13,37,504/-.

5. After Reference, certain amount of compensation was disbursed and balance amount was deposited as revenue deposit in the Treasury, Bulandshahr, Uttar Pradesh.

6. U.P.S.I.D.C. made various complaints that though compensation has been paid and possession has been taken, still some farmers have not vacated their part of land which was creating obstruction in the development activities. In further development, UPSIDC entered into an agreement (Memorandum of Understanding) on 14.12.2013 with the Tehri Hyrro Development Corporation India Limited (hereinafter referred to as "THDCIL") to establish 1320 Megawatt Super Thermal Power Project on the said land and for that purpose land was sought to be transferred by UPSIDC to THDCIL. The further development in the present case was that district authorities, UPSIDC and THDCIL decided to pay more compensation beyond the compensation fixed by Reference Court in order to settle with the villagers so that UPSIDC took actual possession of land acquired. After certain negotiations with the villagers it was decided to pay compensation at the rate of Rs.721/- per square metre. The said additional compensation was termed as "ex gratia payment'. The total compensation was increased from Rs.7,13,37,504/- to Rs. 3,87,17,71,833/- i.e. on enhancement of about 380 Crores.

7. The main reliefs sought in the bunch of the writ petitions are briefly as follows:

a) Writ Petition No.31586 of 2016, the petitioners have sought for the relief which is as under:

(i) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of MANDAMUS commanding to Respondent no.3 to release the compensation in respect of petitioners' land comprising of Khata No.162 Plot No.270, 288, 522Sa, 549, 550, 591, 593, 686, 710, 735, 790, 802, 809 and 811 total area 5.391 Hectare situated in village Dashara Kherli, Pargana and Tehsil Khurja, district bulandshahr."

b) Writ Petition Nos. 52602 of 2011, 59955 of 2012, 59958 of 2012, 59962 of 2012 and 59964 of 2012:- in all these writ petitions, a common relief has been sought by the petitioners which is as under:

"(i) A writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned notifications dated 13.2.1991 and dated 23.3.1991 issued by respondent no.1 (Annex.Nos.1 and 2)."

8. In Writ Petition Nos.47504 of 2017, 50821 of 2017, 50824 of 2017, 51857 of 2017 and 57562 of 2017, petitioners have sought declaration of lapse of acquisition under Section 24 (2) of Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 (hereinafter referred as the Act, 2013).

9. When the matter was listed before this Court, after exchange of pleadings, a detailed order dated 29.8.2016 was passed whereby a serious note was taken about the huge payment of "ex-gratia amount' over and above the compensation determined by the authorities under Act, 1894 and a direction was passed to enquire into the matter by a High Powered Enquiry Committee to be constituted by Chief Secretary of Uttar Pradesh. The said Committee was to be headed by a Judicial Officer. It was also directed to examine the facts, (i) Where land acquired and compensation determined and paid under Act, 1894, whether it is permissible for authorities to again pay compensation from public exchequer to erstwhile land owners at an exorbitant rate and that too at a rate which is applicable after more than two decades from acquisition notification under Section 4 of Act, 1894 was issued; (ii) Whether acquired land had market value for the purpose of compensation at Rs.721/- per square metre on the date when notification under Section 4 of Act, 1894 was issued particularly when in this regard awards by District Judge under Section 18 of Act, 1894 have already been made determining much lesser value; (iii) If possession was taken over of acquired land in 1993, why District Administration did not take any effective steps to dispossess unauthorized occupants, and (iv) Who are the persons/authorities responsible to permit continued unauthorized possession of erstwhile tenure holders over acquired land and thereby creating a situation where Farmers re-entered the land and Administration found itself handicapped to dispossess them without accepting their demand.

10. The relevant part of the order is also reproduced hereinafter:

"31. Acquisition which commenced in 1990, SLAO made awards at the rate is less than Rs.2/- per square yard, enhanced to some extent by District Judge, Bulandshahr in some references, the rate has now been increased to several hundred times. Further, on acquisition finalized by SLAO or District Judge with regard to compensation and possession of land was also taken by parties in 1993, for the same land, again compensation is sought to be paid and the total amount which was earlier less than three crores is now increased to 275 crores and above. This is something fantastic and mind-blowing.

32. In our view, facts are self-speaking and smacks of something scammish somewhere. Initially, we intended to have the matter enquired by a Special Investigation Team, headed by a Judicial Officer, or by Central Bureau of Investigation but then it appears to us that authorities at District level and officials of UPSIDC and THDCIL, among themselves, have colluded to extract a huge money from public exchequer in the name of distribution of compensation to Farmers but these facts in entirety were not made known to Government, hence, we require Chief Secretary, U.P., Lucknow to constitute a High Powered Inquiry Committee headed by a Judicial Officer of the rank of not less than Additional Legal Remembrancer. It shall also have as Members, a Senior Official of Revenue Department and a competent Senior Police Official, who would conduct an indepth inquiry in the matter and submit report as to how all this has happened and who are the persons responsible.

33.The aforesaid Committee, besides other, shall also examine the facts, (i) Where land acquired and compensation determined and paid under Act, 1894, whether it is permissible for authorities to again pay compensation from public exchequer to erstwhile land owners at an exorbitant rate and that too at a rate which is applicable after more than two decades from acquisition notification under Section 4 of Act, 1894 was issued; (ii) Whether acquired land had market value for the purpose of compensation at Rs.721/- per square metre on the date when notification under Section 4 of Act, 1894 was issued particularly when in this regard awards by District Judge under Section 18 of Act, 1894 have already been made determining much lesser value; (iii) If possession was taken over of acquired land in 1993, why District Administration did not take any effective steps to dispossess unauthorized occupants, and (iv) Who are the persons/authorities responsible to permit continued unauthorized possession of erstwhile tenure holders over acquired land and thereby creating a situation where Farmers re-entered the land and Administration found itself handicapped to dispossess them without accepting their demand.

34. Chief Secretary, U.P., Lucknow while submitting report of Committee shall also file an affidavit stating, if this case is taken to be an example whether this can be treated as a policy of Government that where-ever erstwhile owners of acquired land, if re-enter the land and get possession unauthorizedly instead of taking appropriate action in law for ousting such unauthorized occupants, State would be justified in accepting their demand of compensation again, at an exorbitant rate, on the pretext of maintenance of law and order.

35. The Committee as directed above, shall be constituted within 10 days from today and shall make inquiry and submit report within three months. Such report shall be submitted to this Court with the affidavit of Chief Secretary, as directed above for further action in the matter."

11. The High Powered Committee consisted of Special Secretary/Additional Legal Remembrancer, Law Department, Deputy Inspector General of Police (Anti Corruption Cell), Lucknow and the Special Secretary, Department of Revenue, State Government submitted their Enquiry Report dated 06.3.2017 which was placed on record by Chief Secretary along with his affidavit sworn on 09.3.2014.

12. The summary of the conclusions of Committee on the four issues which are mentioned in the order dated 9.10.2017 passed by this Court, are as follows:

*"On the first issue as to whether when the land had been acquired and compensation had been determined under the provisions of Land Acquisition Act, 18942, it was permissible for the Authorities to again pay compensation from the public exchequer to the erstwhile land owners at an exorbitant rate and that too at a rate which was applicable after more than two decades of the acquisition, the finding recorded by the Committee is that it was not permissible to do so and that it was not permissible to subsequently take recourse to the provisions of Section 11(2) of the Act when the award had already been made under Section 11(1) of the Act.

Regarding the second issue as to whether the market value of the land on the date Section 4(1) of the Act notification was issued was Rs. 721 per sq. mtrs., the Committee has recorded a finding that Rs. 721/- per sq. mtrs. was not the market rate when Section 4(1) notification was issued on 9 March 1991 and in fact it was the circle rate prevailing in 2014.

Regarding the third issue as to why the District Administration did not take any effective steps to dispossess the unauthorized occupants when the possession of the land was taken in 1993, the finding of the Committee is that though the possession of the land was given to UPSIDC in 1993 but as the UPSIDC failed to make use of the land for a substantially long period, it gave an opportunity to the farmers to re-enter the land and do farming and thereby create a situation for them to make an unreasonable demand.

In regard to the fourth issue as to who are the persons/authorities responsible for permitting the erstwhile tenure holders of the acquired land to continue in an unauthorized possession of the land, the Committee has recorded a finding that as since only names of the officers of UPSIDC posted at Head Office UPSIDC, Regional Offices at Ghaziabad, Aligarh, Kanpur and the names of Officers of the Electricity Division, Kanpur, it was not possible to specify the officers responsible because of lack of information supplied by the Department. The Committee has, however, observed that those officers who were posted in UPSIDC for five years after possession was given to UPSIDC 1993, should be held responsible. The Committee has also noted that the officers continued consultation with the farmers for payment of compensation instead of getting the First Appeals filed in the High Court against the award made by the Reference Court decided."

13. This Court while taking a serious note of the abovementioned conclusions, directed to implead THDCIL vide order dated 09.10.2017. Thereafter, the matter was adjourned on many dates in order to complete the pleadings. In another order dated 31.10.2017 passed by this Court, seven writ petitions were also directed to be connected along with the leading Writ Petition No.31586 of 2016.

14. By another order dated 06.11.2019, after taking note of the Enquiry Report and other developments, the matter was directed to be placed before Hon'ble the Chief Justice with the request to constitute a bench headed by the Judge who had passed earlier order. Accordingly, this bench was constituted to decide the present bunch of writ petitions. In all the writ petitions pleadings have been exchanged.

15. In the leading writ petition, certain affidavits were also filed, latest being supplementary counter affidavit filed by the respondent no.4 on 3.1.2020, which is taken on record.

16. Shri. Raghvendra Singh, learned Advocate General assisted by Shri.Ajeet Singh, Senior Advocate, Additional Advocate General has submitted that due to peculiar circumstances prevailing in the concerned villages, great resentment was shown by villagers and due to their interference, possession of land was not transferred to the beneficiaries. He further vehemently submitted that there was no option left with the State Government except to pay ex-gratia amount to the villagers in order to get land vacated from villagers. He has relied upon a supplementary counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent no.1 on 06.11.2019 sworn on 05.11.2019. The relevant paragraphs of the said affidavit are reproduced hereinafter:

"That in between years 1993 and 1995, land measuring 392.317 hectare (969.415 Acre) in village Dashara Kherli pargana and Tehsil Khurja, District Bulandshahr and in another village Jahanpur, Naiphal @ Unchagaon and Rukanpur Tehsil Khurja district bulandshahr, was acquired by the State Government for Industrial Development (Growth Centre).

That in the aforesaid villages, after issuance of the Notification under Sections 4 (1)/17 and 6 (1)/17 of Land Acquisition Act, after due publication in the local daily newspapers and after hearing the affected farmers under Section 9 (1) (3), determination of compensation under Section 11 (1) of Land Acquisition Act were done on 22.10.1993, 15.10.1993, 16.10.1993 and 31.10.1995 respectively. The compensation as per the award and in few cases after decision of the court the amount has already been paid to the farmers.

That at the time of declaration of award, the physical possession of acquired land of all the four villages referred to above was transferred to U.P. State Industrial Development Corporation (UPSIDC) and after deleting the names of farmers over the acquired land, the name of U.P. State Industrial Development Corporation (State Government) was also recorded and mutated in revenue records.

That the said land was provided to the UPSIDC, but no development work was done by the UPSIDC on the land for quite some time and thereafter in the year 2011, it was provided to the THDC for setting up Super Thermal Power Plant (2x660 MW). When THDC started work at site,the farmers put resistance and started demanding higher compensation.

That since few days earlier, unfortunate incident of violence had taken place at Bhatta Parsaul, Greater Noida while taking possession on the acquired land, the State Government and other officers of the UPSIDC and Power Corporation took a decision to settle the matter after discussing with the farmers by negotiation in the meeting at district level.

That pursuant to above decision, matter was negotiated by the District Officers, officers of THDC and Power Corporation, wherein THDC agreed to pay some more amount as Ex-gratia at the rate of Rs.721/- per sq. meter. The farmers had also agreed on the same.

That since the amount was to be paid by the THDC, the State Government did not raise any objection.

That the THDC India Ltd. Transferred the amount required for this land including aforementioned Ex-gratia amount after approval of (Ministry Of Power, Government of India) Public Investment Board through RTGS in the account of SLAO, Bulandshahr.

That in the matter of Ex-gratia payment no financial aid by the State Government is given, and role of the State Government/District Magistrate is only to ensure and disburse the payment of Ex-gratia amount to the farmers through RTGS out of Ex-gratia amount made by THDC India Limited.

That Ex-gratia payment deposited by the THDC has also been paid to 1582 farmers and now only 142 farmers are left to whom the Ex-gratia amount has not been paid and only they are creating obstruction in the construction of Thermal Power Project.

That the State Government did not object for the enhanced payment because the matter was settled by the THDC itself and the THDC had also agreed to pay the Ex-gratia payment.

That the THDC is still ready to make payment and rather it has already deposited the amount in the account of Special Land Acquisition Officer, Bulandsahar."

17. Shri. H.N.Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Prabhakar Awasthi, Advocate appearing on behalf of respondent no.4 forcefully submitted that actual possession was not given to the respondent no.4 on any part of land which remained occupied by the villagers. He has relied upon certain communications in order to show that respondent no.4, repeatedly, intimated authorities to get the land vacated from villagers. However, no action was taken. He has relied upon a supplementary counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent no.4 sworn on 2.1.2020. The relevant part of the said supplementary counter affidavit is reproduced hereinafter:

"That from the fact stated above it is apparent that it was well informed by the corporation to the Government as well as to the T.H.D.C. India Ltd. And it is also noticed by the Government as well as by the T.H.D.C. that the Corporation has not get the actual physical possession of the acquired land though the land stood recorded with the name of the Corporation in the Government records. The Government of Uttar Pradesh as well as T.H.D.C. India Ltd. knowing fully well that actual possession of the land was not available to the Corporation and there is a Memorandum of Understanding between the T.H.D.C. and the Government of Uttar Pradesh to make available the land of the Corporation to T.H.D.C. India Ltd. and if it is not possible then to acquire land as per the acquisition policies of the State Government and this Memorandum of Understanding was entered on 31.12.2010 without knowing to the Corporation the Government of Uttar Pradesh by its own has proceeded to negotiate in the matter for making available to the land to T.H.D.C. for the purpose of project and for that purpose to negotiate with the farmers to deliver the possession on agreed rate which was ultimately negotiated @ 721 per Sqa. Meter.

That the Corporation was one of the party at the instance of the Government to negotiate with the farmers as land was originally acquired for the Corporation but virtually in absence of the actual physical possession the provision of Section 48 of the Land Acquisition Act stood attracted and the State Government with the farmers for taking the land under the agreement and that power was exercised by the State Government under Section 11 (2) of the Land Acquisition Act.

That in the entire proceeding the U.P.S.I.D.C. was to get back the amount already paid with interest and all the cost of acquisition with interest if payable and all legal cost was to be paid by the T.H.D.C. India Ltd.

That under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act land may be acquired for public purpose or for Company. The public purpose has been defined under Section 3 F of the Land Acquisition Act which include in Clause IV of the land for the Corporation owned or controlled by the State. The Corporation owned and controlled by the Government is defined under Section 3 CC means nobody corporate established by or under the Central Provincial or State Act and includes a Government Company has defined under Section 617 of the Companies Act, 1956.

That U.P. State Industrial Development Corporation is a Government Company registered under the Companies Act, 1956 and is fully owned and controlled by the State Government and as such the acquisition of the land for public purpose or for company includes for the Corporation which is a Company registered under the Companies Act.

That the State Government may acquired for public purpose which includes Corporation owned and controlled by the State Government i.e. Government Companies registered under the Companies Act and once the land is acquired for the Corporation the same will fully vested in the Corporation and the villages of collector/Special Land Officer or other revenue authorities work for taken for acquisition and to deliver the possession and once the land is acquired the same stood vested free from all encumbrances in the Corporation under Section 16 of the Land Acquisition Act.

That Section 11(2) provided that the land may be acquired and compensation may be paid under the agreement and such agreement is not required to be registered under Section 11 (4). The award is a decree as provided under Section 26(2) of the Land Acquisition Act and as such once the award is made and compensation was paid, possession was taken, no further registration or stamp is required if the acquisition is for public purpose and the Company. Section 50 of the Land Acquisition Act provides that in case of the acquisition on the case of the local authority or being the company may adduce the evidence for the determination of compensation and Section 51 grant exemption from taking of stamp on award or agreement made under the Land Acquisition Act.

That with the acquisition of the land in favour of the Corporation same stood vested in the Corporation and complete title of the land acquired stood transfer and Corporation is full owner and was competent to transfer the subject to getting actual physical possession. The Corporation in detail has entered at various stages to the Government, District Administration and the T.H.D.C. that the Corporation is not in actual physical possession of the complete land and the land may be transferred only after getting the possession from the farmers for which the Government of Uttar Pradesh has accepted to enter into negotiation with the farmers for getting the possession and by the Corporation and so that the Corporation may be in position to transfer the land to T.H.D.C.

That at the instance of the Government of Uttar Pradesh the District Magistrate, Bulandshahar and its authorities have made all effort for holding various meetings with the farmers and ultimately District Administration with the approval of the State Government, entered into an agreement with the farmers for payment of compensation so that the farmers may hand over the possession to the Corporation.

That in entire proceeding Corporation had not at all failed and Corporation has no means of taking forcibly possession and admittedly the District Administration taken of the forcibly possession on the rate of which the award was passed will create position of the law and order. The Corporation has no objection in transferring the land on the rate awarded by the Court if the State Government is in position to hand over the actual physical possession to the Corporation taking the same from the farmers otherwise the Corporation is to transfer on the rate agreed by the State Government through its agencies with the farmers and the said amount accepted by the T.H.D.C. subject to return all the amount already paid by the Corporation with interest."

18. We have also heard Shri Sanjay Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for petitioners, Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General and Sri H.N. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Prabhaker Awasthi, learned counsel for respondent-4 and Sri Ajeet Singh, learned Chief Standing Counsel assisted by Sri Sudhanshu Srivastava, learned counsel for respondents- 1 and 3 in the leading writ petition as well as in other connected writ petitions.

19. The High Powered Committee constituted in pursuance of the order passed by this Court submitted report on 06.3.2017 which was filed along with the affidavit of Chief Secretary, Government of U.P. sworn on 09.3.2017. It is relevant to note here that the conclusions of enquiry were neither disputed nor challenged by any of the respondents. The report has dealt with all the issues which were referred in the order dated 29.8.2016 passed by this Court. It is essential to mention the conclusion of the Committee on each of the issues which are as follows:

Point no.1

Where land acquired and compensation determined and paid under Act, 1894, whether it is permissible for authorities to again pay compensation from public exchequer to erstwhile land owners at an exorbitant rate and that too at a rate which is applicable after more than two decades from acquisition notification under Section 4 of Act, 1894 was issued;

"प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में स्थिति पूर्णतः स्पष्ट है कि भूमि अधिग्रहण के सम्बन्ध में अन्तर्गत धारा 11(1) एवार्ड की घोषणा विशेष भूमि अध्याप्ति अधिकारी द्वारा सुनवाई का अवसर प्रदान कर सक्षम स्तर के अनुमोदन से की गयी है और उक्त एवार्ड से असंतुष्ट प्रभावित कृषकों द्वारा अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत अनुमन्य विधिक उपचार अन्तर्गत धारा 18 रेफरेन्स भी सक्षम न्यायालय में योजित किया गया । इसके अतिरिक्त यू०पी०एस०आई०डी०सी० द्वारा रेफरेन्स में निर्णीत एवार्ड के सम्बन्ध में अपील भी मा० उच्च न्यायालय में योजित की गयी है। उक्त से यह भी स्पष्ट है कि प्रकरण में धारा 11(2) के प्राविधान आकर्षित नहीं हैं क्योंकि सम्पूर्ण कार्यवाही अन्तर्गत धारा 11(1) के अन्तर्गत अग्रसारित रही। जहाँ तक उ०प्र० भूमि अर्जन (करार द्वारा प्रतिकर की अवधारणा और अधिनिर्णय की घोषणा) नियमावली 1997 का प्रश्न है तो उक्त नियमावली प्रथमतः अधिसूचना की तिथि 16 सितम्बर 1997 से लागू है और प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में धारा 11(2) के लागू न होने के दृष्टिगत नियमावली के लागू होने का प्रश्न ही नहीं है।

Point No.2.

Whether acquired land had market value for the purpose of compensation at Rs.721/- per square metere on the date when notification under Section 4 of Act, 1894 was issued particularly when in this regard awards by district Judge under Section 18 of Act, 1894 have already been made determining much lesser value;

"प्रकरण में टी०एच०डी०सी० के आने के उपरान्त विभिन्न वार्ताओं के पश्चात् दिनांक12-8-2014 को यू०पी०एस०आई०डी०सी० के प्रबन्ध निदेशक, श्री मनोज कुमार सिंह के पत्र संख्या 132/एसआईडीसी /आर०एम० सूरजपुर कैम्प द्वारा जिलाधिकारी बुलन्दशहर को अवगत कराया गया कि काश्तकारों से वार्ता के पश्ताच् रू० 721/- प्रति वर्ग मीटर की दर से आम सहमति बनी है एवं इस धनराशि को टी०एच०डी०सी० से प्राप्त कर एक्सग्रेसिया के रूप में वितरित किया जाना है।

If possession was taken over of acquired land in 1993, why District Administration did not take any effective steps to dispossess unauthorized occupants.

"समिति ने स्थानीय प्रशासन, यू०पी० एस०आई०डी०सी० व टी०एच०डी०सी० द्वारा उपलब्ध कराये गये समस्त सुसंगत अभिलेखों के सम्यक परिशीलन से यह स्थापित पाया है कि वस्तुतः अन्तर्गत धारा-17 अर्जेंसी क्लाज में अधिग्रहण के उपरान्त भी यू०पी० एस०आई०डी०सी० का रवैया अधिग्रहीत भूमि के तात्कालिक उपयोग/उपभोग के सम्बन्ध में उदासीन रहा। जिलाधिकारी, बुलंदसशहर की आख्या दिनांक 12-06-1997 में भी उल्लेख है कि संदर्भित भूमि का कब्जा यद्यपि क्रमशः 15-10-93, 16-10-93, 08-10-93 व 07-10-93 को विधिक रूप से स्थानांतरित किया जा चुका है परन्तु भूमि का उपयोग यू० पी०एस०आई०डी०सी० द्वारा गत लम्बे समय से

यू० पी० एस० आई० डी० सी० के असकारात्मक रवैये के कारण अधिग्रहीत भूमि पर 1993 में ही कब्जा प्राप्त करने के उपरान्त कोई कार्यवाही नहीं करने से प्रभावित किसानों को अवसर प्राप्त हुआ कि वह अधिग्रहीत भूमि पर पुनः प्रवेश कर सके और भविष्य में परिस्थियाँ इतनी प्रतिकूल हो गई कि बिना उनके अनुचित मॉग को स्वीकार किये उक्त अधिग्रहित भूमि का उपयोग/उपभोग यू०पी०एस०आई०डी०सी० द्वारा किया जाना सम्भव नहीं हो पाया।

उपरोक्त की गयी कार्यवाही से विदित होता है कि अनधिकृत कृषकों को अधिग्रहित भूमि से हटाने के लिये मात्र कागज पर पत्राचार किया गया। इस अवधि में यू०पी०एस०आई०ंडी०सी० की तरफ से भूमि पर कार्य आरम्भ कराने की दृढ़ ईच्छा-शक्ति का अभाव परिलक्षित हुआ।"

Point No.4

Who are the persons/authorities responsible to permit continued unauthorized possession of erstwhile tenure holders over acquired land and thereby creating a situation where Farmers re-entered the land and Administration found itself handicapped to dispossess them without accepting their demand.

"इस समिति की अनुग्रह राशि की दर निर्धारण सम्बन्धी बैठक नहीं हुई और न ही अनुग्रह राशि के निर्धारण/वितरण के सम्बन्ध में निर्णय लिया गया। ऊर्जा मंत्रालय भारत सरकार के अपर सचिव श्री देवेन्द्र चौधरी द्वारा जिलाधिकारी बुलन्दशहर को किसानों के साथ नेगोशियेशन करने के लिये कहा गया (बैठक दिनांंक 29-01-2014 की प्रतिलिपि संलग्न V)। इसके उपरान्त जिलाधिकारी बुलन्दशहर द्वारा स्थानीय महत्वपूर्ण व्यक्तियों एवं कृषकों के प्रतिनिधियों के साथ वार्ता कर दर का निर्धारण कर प्रबन्ध निदेशक यू०पी०एस०आई०डी०सी० को सूचित किया गया। अन्ततः अनुग्रह राशि की दर का निर्धारण यू०पी०एस०आई०डी०सी० के प्रबन्ध निदेशक द्वारा किया गया। अतः अनुग्रह राशि की दर निर्धारित करने में टी०एच०डी०सी० की कोई भूमिका नहीं है।"

"प्रश्नगत प्रकरण के सम्बन्ध में सुसंगत है कि जिला प्रशासन द्वारा यू०पी०एस०आई०डी०सी० के अनुरोध पर तहसील खुर्जा जनपद बुलन्दशहर में ग्रोथ सेन्टर हेतु 392.32 हेक्टेयर भूमि, भूमि अर्जन अधिनियम 1894 की धारा 4(1)/17 के अन्तर्गत अर्जित की गयी। धारा 4(1)/17 की अधिसूचना का प्रकाशन दिनांक 9-3-1991 को, धारा 6(1)/17 की अधिसूचना का प्रकाशन दिनांक 30-3-2011 को करने के उपरान्त दिनांक 16-10-1993 तक यू०पी०एस०आई०डी०सी० को कब्जा प्रदान करते हुए उनका नाम खतौनी में दर्ज किया गया। इस प्रकार आपातिक स्थित (Emergency clauses) दर्शते हुए भूमि का अधिग्रहण किया गया किन्तु कब्जा प्राप्त करने के पश्चात् तत्काल प्रभाव से निर्माण कार्य न करने के कारण ऐसी स्थिति उत्पन्न हुई जिससे कृषक अपनी भूमि पर पुनः प्रवेश कर काश्तकारी करते रहे। यू०पी०एस०आई०डी०सी० का यह कर्तव्य था कि जब उनके द्वारा आपातिक स्थिति (Emergency clauses) के अन्तर्गत भूमि का अधिग्रहण किया गया था तो वे भूमि की बाउण्ट्री का निर्माण कराते एवं ग्रोथ सेन्टर के निर्माण करने की कार्यवाही आरम्भ करते और इसका विरोध करने पर स्थानीय प्रशासन से प्रभावी आवश्यक कार्यवाही करने का अनुरोध करते। अभिलेखों से स्पष्ट है कि वर्ष 1997 में ग्रोथ सेन्टर की बाउण्ट्री के निर्माण हेतु निविदा स्वीकार की गयी। इस प्रकार 4 वर्षों तक इस भूमि का प्रभावी उपयोग नहीं किया गया और यह भूमि बगैर देख-रेख के पड़ी रही अर्थात

जिसको देखने वाला कोई नहीं था। इस कारण कृषक भूमि अर्जन के उपरान्त भी काश्तकारी करते रहे। वर्ष 1997 के माह सितम्बर में करार नियमावली का प्राख्यापन हुआ एवं जब यह जानकारी उन काश्तकारों को मिली जो अपनी भूमि पर अधिग्रहण के पश्चात् भी काश्तकारी कर रहे थे तब उन्होने अपनी जमीन के अवैध कब्जे को छोड़ने के स्थान पर उग्र आन्दोलन आरम्भ कर दिया। अभिलेखों से स्पष्ट है कि आपातिक स्थित (Emergency clauses) को दर्शाते हुए जो भूमि का अधिग्रहण किया गया वह किसी भी स्तर से आवश्यक एवं उचित नहीं ठहराया जा सकता क्योंकि जिस भूमि का अधिग्रहण किया गया उस पर विकास/निर्माण कार्य कभी प्रारम्भ ही नहीं हुआ और 18 वर्ष पश्चात् ग्रोथ सेन्टर बनाने के स्थान पर टी०एच०ड़ी०सी० की तापीय विद्युत परियोजना को दे दिया गया।"

20. There is no dispute that in the name of ex-gratia payment, the total compensation amount was increased many folds. Payment of "Ex-gratia amount' was made without any legal basis. High Powered Committee also came to the specific conclusion that there was no provision of granting "ex-gratia' payment in Act, 1894 and there was absolutely no justification for "ex-gratia' payment. However, High Powered Committee has restrained themselve from naming the persons responsible for doing such illegal act, which has ultimately caused huge loss to public exchequer.

21. The High Powered Committee had deprecated conduct of U.P.S.I.D.C. It was also critical to government authorities. The State Officials, cannnot absolve themselves by contending that "since the amount was to be paid by the T.H.D.C., the State Government did not raise any objection.' The amount paid by T.H.D.C. is also a public money. The State has miserably failed to place on record what was the actual condition of the land? Whether any attempt was undertaken to remove the encroachers? Why State authorities surrendered before encroachers? Who were the Officers responsible for knowingly taking illegal decision and why not recovery be effected from erring officials of such illegal payment in the name of "ex-gratia amount'? These are the questions among others which remained unanswered.

22. The above-mentioned facts are self speaking and smacks of something scammish and in order to unearth the conspiracy behind such illegal decision, a proper investigation is warranted. Since number of government officials including senior officials belong to administrative cadre like I.A.S., P. C.S., are likely to be involved in this matter, it is not advisable to direct investigation to be conducted by State Police Administration. In order to unearth the conspiracy of payment of illegal "ex-gratia amount' it is necessary to have fair, honest and complete investigation.

23. In Common Cause, A Registered Society Vs. Union of India & Ors. (1999) 6 SCC 667, Court held in paras 174, 176 and 177 that:

"174. The other direction, namely, the direction to the C.B.I. to investigate "any other offence" is wholly erroneous and cannot be sustained. Obviously, direction for investigation can be given only if an offence is, prima facie, found to have been committed or a person's involvement is prima facie established, but a direction to the C.B.I. to investigate whether any person has committed an offence or not cannot be legally given. Such a direction would be contrary to the concept and philosophy of "LIFE" and "LIBERTY" guaranteed to a person under Article 21 of the Constitution. This direction is in complete negation of various decisions of this Court in which the concept of "LIFE" has been explained in a manner which has infused "LIFE" into the letters of Article 21."

"176. A man has, therefore, to be left alone to enjoy "LIFE" without fetters. He cannot be hounded out by the Police or C.B.I. merely to find out whether he has committed any offence or is living as a law-abiding citizen. Even under Article 142 of the Constitution, such a direction cannot be issued. While passing an order under Article 142 of the Constitution, this Court cannot ignore the substantive provision of law much less the constitutional rights available to a person. (See : Supreme Court Bar Association vs. Union of India, (1998) 4 SCC 409; AIR 1998 SC 1895).

"177.Mr. Gopal Subramaniam contended that the Court has itself taken care to say that the C.B.I. in the matter of investigation, would not be influenced by any observation made in the Judgment and that it would independently hold the investigation into the offence of criminal breach of trust or any other offence. To this, there is a vehement reply from Mr. Parasaran and we think he is right. It is contended by him that this Court having recorded a finding that the petitioner on being appointed as a Minister in the Central Cabinet, held a trust on behalf of the people and further that he cannot be permitted to commit breach of the trust reposed in him by the people and still further that the petitioner had deliberately acted in a wholly arbitrary and unjust manner and that the allotments made by him were wholly mala fide and for extraneous consideration, the direction to the CBI not to be influenced by any observations made by this Court in the Judgment, is in the nature of palliative. The CBI has been directed to register a case against the petitioner in respect of the allegations dealt with and findings reached by this Court in the Judgment under review. Once the findings are directed to be treated as part of the First Information Report, the further direction that the CBI shall not be influenced by any observations made by this Court or the findings recorded by it, is mere lullaby. "

24. In Secretary, Minor Irrigation & Rural Engineering Services, U.P. and Others Vs. Sahngoo Ram Arya & Anr. (2002) 5 SCC 521, Court held in paras 5 and 6 that:

"5. While none can dispute the power of the High Court under Article 226 to direct an inquiry by the CBI, the said power can be exercised only in cases where there is sufficient material to come to a prima facie conclusion that there is a need for such inquiry. It is not sufficient to have such material in the pleadings. On the contrary, there is a need for the High Court on consideration of such pleadings to come to the conclusion that the material before it is sufficient to direct such an inquiry by the CBI.

This is a requirement which is clearly deducible from the judgment of this Court in the case of Common Cause, (1999) 6 SCC 667. This Court in the said judgment at paragraph 174 of the report has held thus: (SCC p.750, para 174)

"174.The other direction, namely, the direction to CBI to investigate

"any other offence' is wholly erroneous and cannot be sustained. Obviously, direction for investigation can be given only if an offence is, prima facie, found to have been committed or a person's involvement is prima facie established, but a direction to CBI to investigate whether any person has committed an offence or not cannot be legally given. Such a direction would be contrary to the concept and philosophy of "LIFE' and "LIBERTY' guaranteed to a person under Article 21 of the Constitution. This direction is in complete negation of various decisions of this Court in which the concept of "LIFE' has been explained in a manner which has infused "LIFE' into the letters of Article 21."

6. It is seen from the above decision of this Court that the right to life under Article 21 includes the right of a person to live without being hounded by the Police or the CBI to find out whether he has committed any offence or is living as a law-abiding citizen. Therefore, it is clear that a decision to direct an inquiry by the CBI against a person can only be done if the High Court after considering the material on record comes to a conclusion that such material does disclose a prima facie case calling for an investigation by the CBI or any other similar agency, and the same cannot be done as a matter of routine or merely because a party makes some such allegations. In the instant case, we see that the High Court without coming to a definite conclusion that there is a prima facie case established to direct an inquiry has proceeded on the basis of "ifs" and '"buts" and thought it appropriate that the inquiry should be made by the CBI. With respect, we think that this is not what is required by the law as laid down by this Court in the case of Common Cause, (1999) 6 SCC 667."

25. In State of West Bengal and Others Vs. Committee for protection of Democratic Rights, West Bengal & Ors. (2010) 3 SCC 571, Court in paras 68, 69 and 70 held that:

"68.Thus, having examined the rival contentions in the context of the Constitutional Scheme, we conclude as follows:

(i) The fundamental rights, enshrined in Part III of the Constitution, are inherent and cannot be extinguished by any Constitutional or Statutory provision. Any law that abrogates or abridges such rights would be violative of the basic structure doctrine. The actual effect and impact of the law on the rights guaranteed under Part III has to be taken into account in determining whether or not it destroys the basic structure.

(ii) Article 21 of the Constitution in its broad perspective seeks to protect the persons of their lives and personal liberties except according to the procedure established by law. The said Article in its broad application not only takes within its fold enforcement of the rights of an accused but also the rights of the victim. The State has a duty to enforce the human rights of a citizen providing for fair and impartial investigation against any person accused of commission of a cognizable offence, which may include its own officers. In certain situations even a witness to the crime may seek for and shall be granted protection by the State.

(iii) In view of the constitutional scheme and the jurisdiction conferred on this Court under Article 32 and on the High Courts under Article 226 of the Constitution the power of judicial review being an integral part of the basic structure of the Constitution, no Act of Parliament can exclude or curtail the powers of the Constitutional Courts with regard to the enforcement of fundamental rights. As a matter of fact, such a power is essential to give practicable content to the objectives of the Constitution embodied in Part III and other parts of the Constitution. Moreover, in a federal constitution, the distribution of legislative powers between the Parliament and the State Legislature involves limitation on legislative powers and, therefore, this requires an authority other than the Parliament to ascertain whether such limitations are transgressed. Judicial review acts as the final arbiter not only to give effect to the distribution of legislative powers between the Parliament and the State Legislatures, it is also necessary to show any transgression by each entity. Therefore, to borrow the words of Lord Steyn, judicial review is justified by combination of "the principles of separation of powers, rule of law, the principle of constitutionality and the reach of judicial review".

(iv) If the federal structure is violated by any legislative action, the Constitution takes care to protect the federal structure by ensuring that Courts act as guardians and interpreters of the Constitution and provide remedy under Articles 32 and 226, whenever there is an attempted violation. In the circumstances, any direction by the Supreme Court or the High Court in exercise of power under Article 32 or 226 to uphold the Constitution and maintain the rule of law cannot be termed as violating the federal structure.

(v)Restriction on the Parliament by the Constitution and restriction on the Executive by Parliament under an enactment, do not amount to restriction on the power of the Judiciary under Article 32 and 226 of the Constitution.

(vi) If in terms of Entry 2 of List II of The Seventh Schedule on the one hand and Entry 2-A and Entry 80 of List I on the other, an investigation by another agency is permissible subject to grant of consent by the State concerned, there is no reason as to why, in an exceptional situation, court would be precluded from exercising the same power which the Union could exercise in terms of the provisions of the Statute. In our opinion, exercise of such power by the constitutional courts would not violate the doctrine of separation of powers. In fact, if in such a situation the court fails to grant relief, it would be failing in its constitutional duty.

(vii) When the Special Police Act itself provides that subject to the consent by the State, the CBI can take up investigation in relation to the crime which was otherwise within the jurisdiction of the State Police, the court can also exercise its constitutional power of judicial review and direct the CBI to take up the investigation within the jurisdiction of the State. The power of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution cannot be taken away, curtailed or diluted by Section 6 of the Special Police Act. Irrespective of there being any statutory provision acting as a restriction on the powers of the Courts, the restriction imposed by Section 6 of the Special Police Act on the powers of the Union, cannot be read as restriction on the powers of the Constitutional Courts. Therefore, exercise of power of judicial review by the High Court, in our opinion, would not amount to infringement of either the doctrine of separation of power or the federal structure.

69. In the final analysis, our answer to the question referred is that a direction by the High Court, in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution, to the CBI to investigate a cognizable offence alleged to have been committed within the territory of a State without the consent of that State will neither impinge upon the federal structure of the Constitution nor violate the doctrine of separation of power and shall be valid in law. Being the protectors of civil liberties of the citizens, this Court and the High Courts have not only the power and jurisdiction but also an obligation to protect the fundamental rights, guaranteed by Part III in general and under Article 21 of the Constitution in particular, zealously and vigilantly.

70. Before parting with the case, we deem it necessary to emphasise that despite wide powers conferred by Articles 32 and 226 of the Constitution, while passing any order, the Courts must bear in mind certain self-imposed limitations on the exercise of these Constitutional powers. The very plenitude of the power under the said Articles requires great caution in its exercise. In so far as the question of issuing a direction to the CBI to conduct investigation in a case is concerned, although no inflexible guidelines can be laid down to decide whether or not such power should be exercised but time and again it has been reiterated that such an order is not to be passed as a matter of routine or merely because a party has levelled some allegations against the local police. This extra-ordinary power must be exercised sparingly, cautiously and in exceptional situations where it becomes necessary to provide credibility and instil confidence in investigations or where the incident may have national and international ramifications or where such an order may be necessary for doing complete justice and enforcing the fundamental rights. Otherwise the CBI would be flooded with a large number of cases and with limited resources, may find it difficult to properly investigate even serious cases and in the process lose its credibility and purpose with unsatisfactory investigations."

"13.The issue involved herein, is no more res integra. This Court has time and again dealt with the issue under what circumstances the investigation can be transferred from the State investigating agency to any other independent investigating agency like CBI. It has been held that the power of transferring such investigation must be in rare and exceptional cases where the court finds it necessary in order to do justice between the parties and to instil confidence in the public mind, or where investigation by the State police lacks credibility and it is necessary for having "a fair, honest and complete investigation", and particularly, when it is imperative to retain public confidence in the impartial working of the State agencies. Where the investigation has already been completed and charge sheet has been filed, ordinarily superior courts should not reopen the investigation and it should be left open to the court, where the charge sheet has been filed, to proceed with the matter in accordance with law. Under no circumstances, should the court make any expression of its opinion on merit relating to any accusation against any individual. (Vide:

Such as where high officials of State authorities are involved, or the accusation itself is against the top officials of the investigating agency thereby allowing them to influence the investigation, and further that it is so necessary to do justice and to instil confidence in the investigation or where the investigation is prima facie found to be tainted/biased."

"24. Be it noted here that the constitutional courts can direct for further investigation or investigation by some other investigating agency. The purpose is, there has to be a fair investigation and a fair trial. The fair trial may be quite difficult unless there is a fair investigation. Therefore, in this case the stage of the case cannot be the governing factor.

25. "27.Before we advert to the facts of the present case and prayers made in the writ petition, it is useful to recall necessary principles as enumerated by this Court while exercising jurisdiction by this Court under Article 32 or the High Court under Article 226 for transferring investigation of a criminal case to a Central Agency. The Constitution Bench of this Court in State of West Bengal Vs. Committee for Protection of Democratic Rights, (2010) 3 SCC 571, has authoritatively laid down that the High Court under Article 226 and this Court under Article 32 can issue direction to CBI to investigate a cognizable offence within the State without consent of that State. The Constitution Bench also in the above context has held that although this Court has implied power and jurisdiction to direct for the transfer to CBI to investigate a cognizable offence but also has obligation to exercise the said power with great caution which must be exercised sparingly, cautiously and in exceptional situations. In paragraph 70 with regard to exercise of such power following has been laid down by the Constitution Bench:

"70. Before parting with the case, we deem it necessary to emphasise that despite wide powers conferred by Articles 32 and 226 of the Constitution, while passing any order, the Courts must bear in mind certain self-imposed limitations on the exercise of these constitutional powers. Insofar as the question of issuing a direction to CBI to conduct investigation in a case is concerned, although no inflexible guidelines can be laid down to decide whether or not such power should be exercised but time and again it has been reiterated that such an order is not to be passed as a matter of routine or merely because a party has levelled some allegations against the local police. 29. In E. Sivakumar Vs. Union of India & Ors, (2018) 7 SCC 365, Court in paras 12, 13, 14 and 16 held that:

"12. The third contention urged by the petitioner, that neither special reasons have been recorded nor the status report of the investigation already done by the Vigilance Commission has been considered, also does not commend us. As noted earlier, the High Court in the impugned judgment has exhaustively analysed all aspects of the matter as can be discerned from paragraphs 84 to 87, 91 to 97, 100 to 107; and again in paragraphs 141-144 which have been extracted hitherto. In our opinion, in the peculiar facts of the present case, the High Court has justly transferred the investigation to CBI after due consideration of all the relevant aspects, which approach is consistent with the settled legal position expounded in the decisions adverted to in the impugned judgment, including the decision in Subrata Chattoraj Vs. Union of India, (2014) 8 SCC 768, which predicates that transfer of investigation to CBI does not depend on the inadequacy of inquiry/investigation carried out by the State police. We agree with the High Court that the facts of the present case and the nature of crime being investigated warrants CBI investigation.

13. In Dharam Pal Vs. State of Haryana (2016) 4 SCC 160, this Court has underscored the imperativeness of ensuring a fair and impartial investigation against any person accused of commission of cognizable offence as the primary emphasis is on instilling faith in public at large and the investigating agency. The dictum in paragraph 24 and 25 of this reported decision is quite instructive which read thus:

"24. Be it noted here that the constitutional courts can direct for further investigation or investigation by some other investigating agency. The purpose is, there has to be a fair investigation and a fair trial. The fair trial may be quite difficult unless there is a fair investigation. We are absolutely conscious that direction for further investigation by another agency has to be very sparingly issued but the facts depicted in this case compel us to exercise the said power. 25. We may further elucidate. The power to order fresh, de novo or reinvestigation being vested with the constitutional courts, the commencement of a trial and examination of some witnesses cannot be an absolute impediment for exercising the said constitutional power which is meant to ensure a fair and just investigation. It can never be forgotten that as the great ocean has only one test, the test of salt, so does justice has one flavour, the flavour of answering to the distress of the people without any discrimination. 14. Suffice it to observe that we do not intend to deviate from the conclusion reached by the High Court that in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, it is but appropriate that investigation of the crime in question must be entrusted to CBI.

16. While parting, we may restate the observations made by the High Court in para 144 of the impugned judgment to clarify that the transfer of investigation of the crime in question to CBI is no reflection on the efficiency or efficacy of the investigation done by the State Vigilance Commission. 30. In Shree Shree Ram Janki Asthan Tapovan Mandir And Another Vs. State of Jharkhand and Ors, (2019) 6 SCC 777, Court has held in paras 12,14 and 22 that:

"12. The question as to whether the High Court could direct CBI to take over investigation in the facts of the present case needs to be examined. The Constitution Bench in its judgment State of W.B. Vs. Committee for Protection of Democratic Rights, (2010) 3 SCC 571 has examined the question as to the rights of CBI to investigate a criminal offence in a State without its consent. This Court examined Entry 2 of List II of VII Schedule of the Constitution. It was held that the legislative power of the Union to provide for the regular police force of one State to exercise power and jurisdiction in any area outside the State can only be exercised with the consent of the Government of that particular State in which such area is situated. The Court held that though the Court had wide powers conferred by Articles 32 and 226 of the Constitution, but it must bear in mind certain self-imposed limitations on the exercise of these constitutional powers. This extraordinary power must be exercised sparingly, cautiously and in exceptional situations where it becomes necessary to provide credibility and instil confidence in investigation or where the incident may have national or international ramifications or where such an order is necessary for doing complete justice and enforcing fundamental rights. 14. The Court approved earlier two Judge Bench Judgment Minor Irrigation & Rural Engg. Services vs. Sahngoo Ram Arya (2002) 5 SCC 521, wherein it was held that the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution can direct inquiry to be conducted by CBI but such power can be exercised only in cases where there is sufficient material to come to a prima facie conclusion that there is need for such inquiry. It was held that it is not sufficient to have such material in the pleadings. The Court also held that the right to live under Article 21 include the right of a person to live without being hounded by the police or CBI to find out whether he has committed any offence or is living as a law-abiding citizen.

22. It may be kept in mind that the public order (Entry 1) and the police (Entry 2) is a State subject falling in List II of the VII Schedule of the Constitution. It is a primary responsibility of the investigating agency of the State Police to investigate all offences which are committed within its jurisdiction. The investigations can be entrusted to Central Bureau of Investigation on satisfaction of the conditions as specified therein only in exceptional circumstances as laid down in State of W.B. Vs. Committee for Protection of Democratic Right, (2010) 3 SCC 571 case. Such power cannot and should not be exercised in a routine manner without examining the complexities, nature of offence and some time the tardy progress in the investigations involving high officials of the State investigating agency itself."

(Emphasis added)

31. From the above mentioned judgments, it is evident that High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution can issue direction to C.B.I. to investigate a case. However, Court must bear self imposed limitations on the exercise of the constitutional power. This power must be exercised to provide credibility and instil confidence in the investigation. Few circumstances where High Court could exercise such power is where higher officials of State authorities are involved. In the present case all the facts are glaring. The top officials on their own had decided to pay ex-gratia compensation, which was known to them to be illegal. In this case, State police would not be able to investigate fairly and we are of the considered view that in order to unearth truth, present matter should be referred to C.B.I. for investigation.

32. In these peculiar facts and circumstances, we have no other option but to direct Central Bureau of Investigation to conduct a preliminary inquiry and to register a First Information

Report to unearth the scam and to submit the status report of investigation to this Court in a sealed cover after three months. Let a certified copy of this order along with entire record be sent to the Director, C.B.I. New Delhi for compliance of the order. Registrar General of High Court is directed to take appropriate steps to comply the order.

33. With regard to Writ Petition No.31586 of 2016, the prayer made therein was regarding payment of compensation. We have not stopped the process of granting ex-gratia compensation, therefore, petitioners may be paid compensation, but it would be subject to ultimate result of the writ petition.

34. The petitioners of Writ Petition Nos.52602 of 2011, 59955 of 2012, 59958 of 2012, 59962 of 2012 and 59964 of 2012, have prayed for quashing of the notifications dated 13.2.1991 and 23.3.1991. All these writ petitions were filed in the year 2011 and 2012, after a period of about two decades of issuance of impugned notifications.

35. We have gone through the contents of all these writ petitions and found that there is not a single averment to explain such huge delay.

36. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the State submitted that these writ petitions may be dismissed on the ground of delay and laches.

37. This issue has been dealt with by the Apex Court in various judgments.

38. In Aflatoon Vs. Lt. Governor of Delhi, 1975 (4) SCC 285, Constitution Bench held in paras 9, 10 and 11 that:

"9.Assuming for the moment that the public purpose was not sufficiently specified in the notification, did the appellants make a grievance of it at the appropriate time? If the appellants had really been prejudiced by the non-specification of the public purpose for which the plots in which they were interested were needed, they should have taken steps to have the notification quashed on that ground within a reasonable time. They did not move in the matter even after the declaration under Section 6 was published in 1966. They approached the High Court with their writ petitions only in 1970 when the notices under Section 9 were issued to them. In the concluding portion of the judgment in Munshi Singh v. Union of India (supra), it was observed: [SCC p.344 para 10] :

"In matters of this nature we would have taken due notice of laches on the part of the appellants while granting the above relief but we are satisfied that so far as the present appellants are concerned they have not been guilty of laches, delay or acquiescence, at any stage."

We do not think that the appellants were vigilant.

10. That apart, the appellants did not contend before the High Court that as the particulars of the public purpose were not specified in the notification issued under Section 4, they were prejudiced in that they could not effectively exercise their right under Section 5A. As the plea was not raised by the appellants in the writ petitions filed before the High Court, we do not think that the appellants are entitled to have the plea considered in these appeals.

11.Nor do we think that the petitioners in the writ petitions should be allowed to raise this plea in view of their conduct in not challenging the validity of the, notification even after the publication of the declaration under Section 6 in 1966. Of the two writ petitions, one is filed by one of the appellants. There was apparently no reason why the writ petitioners should have waited till 1972 to come to this Court for challenging the validity of the notification issued in 1959 on the ground that the particulars of the public purpose were not specified. A valid notification under Section 4 is a sine qua non for initiation of proceedings for acquisition of property. To have sat on the fence and allowed the Government to complete the acquisition proceedings on the basis that the notification under Section 4 and the declaration under Section 6 were valid and then to attack the notification on grounds which were available to them at the time when the notification was published would be a putting premium on dilatory tactics. The writ petitions are liable to be dismissed on the ground of laches and delay on the part of the petitioners (see Tilokchand Motichand v. H.B. Munshi (1969) 1 SCC 110 and Rabindranath Bose v. Union of India, (1970) 1 SCC 84."

39. In P. Chinnanna & Ors Vs. State of A.P. & Ors, (1994) 5 SCC 486, Court held in para 11 that:

"11. .....In fact, in relation to acquisition proceeding involving acquisition of land for public purposes, the court concerned must be averse to entertain writ petitions involving the challenge to such acquisition where there is avoidable delay or laches since such acquisition, if set aside, would not only involve enormous loss of public money but also cause undue delay in carrying out projects meant for general public good."

40. In State of T.N. & Ors Vs. L. Krishnan & Ors, (1996) 1 SCC 250, Court held in paras 40 and 41 that:

"40.There is yet another and a very strong factor militating against the writ petitioners. Not only did they fail to file any objections in the enquiries held under Section 5-A, they also failed to act soon after the declarations under Section 6 were made. As stated above, the declarations under Section 6 were made in the year 1978 and the present writ petitions were filed only sometime in the year 1982-83 when the awards were about to be passed. It has been pointed out in Aflatoon (1975) 4 SCC 285 that laches of this nature are fatal. Having held that the public purpose specified in the notification concerned therein is not vague, Mathew, J. made the following observations:(SCC pp.290-91 paras 9-12)

"Assuming for the moment that the public purpose was not sufficiently specified in the notification, did the appellants make a grievance of it at the appropriate time? If the appellants had really been prejudiced by the non-specification of the public purpose for which the plots in which they were interested were needed, they should have taken steps to have the notification quashed on that ground within a reasonable time. They did not move in the matter even after the declaration under Section 6 was published in 1966. They approached the High Court with their writ petitions only in 1970 when the notices under Section 9 were issued to them.

Nor do we think that the petitioners in the writ petitions should be allowed to raise this plea in view of their conduct in not challenging the validity of the notification even after the publication of the declaration under Section 6 in 1966. Of the two writ petitions, one is filed by one of the appellants. There was apparently no reason why the writ petitioners should have waited till 1972 to come to this Court for challenging the validity of the notification issued in 1959 of the ground that the particulars of the public purpose were not specified. A valid notification under Section 4 is a sine qua non for initiation of proceedings for acquisition of property. To have sat on the fence and allowed the Government to complete the acquisition proceedings on the basis that the notification under Section 4 and the declaration under Section 6 were valid and then to attack the notification on grounds which were available to them at the time when the notification was published would be putting a premium on dilatory tactics. The writ petitions are liable to be dismissed on the ground of laches and delay on the part of the petitioners (See Tilokchand Motichand v. H.B. Munshi (1969) 1 SCC 110 and Rabindranath Bose v. Union of India (1970) 1 SCC 84).

From the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the Government, it is clear that the Government have allotted a large portion of the land after the acquisition proceedings were finalised to cooperative housing societies. To quash the notification at this stage would disturb the rights of third parties who are not before the Court."

41. The above observations speak for themselves - and are fatal to the writ petitioners."

41. In Urban Improvement Trust, Udaipur Vs. Bheru Lal & Ors, (2002) 7 SCC 712, Court held in para 21 that:

"21.Further, learned counsel for the appellant rightly submitted that on the ground of delay and laches in filing the writ petitions, the Court ought to have dismissed the same. In the present case, as stated above, the Notification under Section 6 was published in the Official Gazette on 24.5.1994. The writ petitions are virtually filed after two years. In a case where land is needed for a public purpose, that too for a scheme framed under the Urban Development Act, the Court ought to have taken care in not entertaining the same on the ground of delay as it is likely to cause serious prejudice to the persons for whose benefit the Housing Scheme is framed under the Urban Development Act and also in having planned development of the area. The law on this point is well settled. (Reliance Petroleum Ltd. v. Zaver Chand Popatlal Sumaira (1996) 4 SCC 579 and Hari Singh v. State of U.P. (1984) 2 SCC 624)."

42. In Swaika Properties (P) Ltd. & Anr. Vs. State of Rajasthan & Ors, (2008) 4 SCC 695, Court held in paras 16, 17 and 18 that:

"16. This Court has repeatedly held that a writ petition challenging the notification for acquisition of land, if filed after the possession having been taken, is not maintainable. In Municipal Corpn. of Greater Bombay v. Industrial Development Investment Co. (P) Ltd.(1996) 11 SCC 501 where K. Ramaswamy, J. speaking for a Bench consisting of His Lordship and S.B. Majmudar, J. held : (SCC p.520,para 29)

"29. It is thus well-settled law that when there is inordinate delay in filing the writ petition and when all steps taken in the acquisition proceedings have become final, the Court should be loath to quash the notifications. The High Court has, no doubt, discretionary powers under Article 226 of the Constitution to quash the notification under Section 4 (1) and declaration under Section 6. But it should be exercised taking all relevant factors into pragmatic consideration. When the award was passed and possession was taken, the Court should not have exercised its power to quash the award which is a material factor to be taken into consideration before exercising the power under Article 226. The fact that no third party rights were created in the case is hardly a ground for interference. The Division Bench of the High Court was not right in interfering with the discretion exercised by the learned Single Judge dismissing the writ petition on the ground of laches."

In the concurring judgment, S.B. Majmudar, J. held as under:(Industrial Development Investment case (1996) 11 SCC 501 SCC pp 522-23, para 35)

"35..... Such a belated writ petition, therefore, was rightly rejected by the learned Single Judge on the ground of gross delay and laches. The respondent-writ petitioners can be said to have waived their objections to the acquisition on the ground of extinction of public purpose by their own inaction, lethargy and indolent conduct. The Division Bench of the High Court had taken the view that because of their inaction no vested rights of third parties are created. That finding is obviously incorrect for the simple reason that because of the indolent conduct of the writ petitioners land got acquired, award was passed, compensation was handed over to various claimants including the landlord. Reference applications came to be filed for larger compensation by claimants including writ petitioners themselves. The acquired land got vested in the State Government and the Municipal Corporation free from all encumbrances as enjoined by Section 16 of the Land Acquisition Act. Thus right to get more compensation got vested in diverse claimants by passing of the award, as well as vested right was created in favour of the Bombay Municipal Corporation by virtue of the vesting of the land in the State Government for being handed over to the Corporation. All these events could not be wished away by observing that no third party rights were created by them. The writ petition came to be filed after all these events had taken place. Such a writ petition was clearly stillborn due to gross delay and laches."

17. Similarly, in State of Rajasthan v. D.R. Laxmi, (1996) 6 SCC 445 following the decision of this Court in Municipal Corporation of Greater Bombay (1996) 11 SCC 501 it was held : (D.R. Laxmi case, (1996) 6 SCC 445 SCC p 452, para 9)

"9.... When the award was passed and possession was taken, the Court should not have exercised its power to quash the award which is a material factor to be taken into consideration before exercising the power under Article 226. The fact that no third party rights were created in the case, is hardly a ground for interference. The Division Bench of the High Court was not right in interfering with the discretion exercised by the learned Single Judge dismissing the writ petition on the ground of laches."

18. To the similar effect is the judgment of this Court in Municipal Council, Ahmednagar v. Shah Hyder Beig (2000) 2 SCC 48 wherein this Court, following the decision of this Court in C.Padma v. Dy. Secy. To the Govt of T.N.

(1997) 2 SCC 627 held : (Shah Hyder case (2000) 2 SCC 48, SCC p.55,para 17)

"17.In any event, after the award is passed no writ petition can be filed challenging the acquisition notice or against any proceeding thereunder. This has been the consistent view taken by this Court and in one of the recent cases (C.Padma v. Dy. Secy. To the Govt of T.N. (1997) 2 SCC 627) ...."

43. In Banda Development Authority Vs. Motilal Agarwal (2011) 5 SCC 394 this Court held in paras 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23,24 and 25 that:

"17.It is true that no limitation has been prescribed for filing a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution but one of the several rules of self imposed restraint evolved by the superior courts is that the High Court will not entertain petitions filed after long lapse of time because that may adversely affect the settled/crystallized rights of the parties. If the writ petition is filed beyond the period of limitation prescribed for filing a civil suit for similar cause, the High Court will treat the delay unreasonable and decline to entertain the grievance of the petitioner on merits.

18. In State of Madhya Pradesh v. Bhailal Bhai, AIR 1964 SC 1006, the Constitution Bench considered the effect of delay in filing writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution and held: (AIR pp 1011-12 paras 17 and 21)

"17....It has been made clear more than once that the power to give relief under Article 226 is a discretionary power. This is specially true in the case of power to issue writs in the nature of mandamus. Among the several matters which the High Courts rightly take into consideration in the exercise of that discretion is the delay made by the aggrieved party in seeking this special remedy and what excuse there is for it.....It is not easy nor is it desirable to lay down any rule for universal application. It may however be stated as a general rule that if there has been unreasonable delay the court ought not ordinarily to lend its aid to a party by this extraordinary remedy of mandamus.

21.....Learned counsel is right in his submission that the provisions of the Limitation Act do not as such apply to the granting of relief under Article 226. It appears to us however that the maximum period fixed by the legislature as the time within which the relief by a suit in a Civil Court must be brought may ordinarily be taken to be a reasonable standard by which delay in seeking remedy under Article 226 can be measured. This Court may consider the delay unreasonable even if it is less than the period of limitation prescribed for a civil action for the remedy but where the delay is more than this period, it will almost always be proper for the court to hold that it is unreasonable."

19. In matters involving challenge to the acquisition of land for public purpose, this Court has consistently held that delay in filing the writ petition should be viewed seriously and relief denied to the petitioner if he fails to offer plausible explanation for the delay. The Court has also held that the delay of even few years would be fatal to the cause of the petitioner, if the acquired land has been partly or wholly utilised for the public purpose.

20. In Ajodhya Bhagat v. State of Bihar (1974) 2 SCC 501, this Court approved dismissal by the High Court of the writ petition filed by the appellant for quashing the acquisition of his land and observed: (SCC p.506,para 23)

"23. The High Court held that the appellants were guilty of delay and laches. The High Court relied on two important facts. First, that there was delivery of possession. The appellants alleged that it was a paper transaction. The High Court rightly rejected that contention. Secondly, the High Court said that the Trust invested several lakhs of rupees for the construction of roads and material for development purposes. The appellants were in full knowledge of the same. The appellants did not take any steps. The High Court rightly said that to allow this type of challenge to an acquisition of large block of land piecemeal by the owners of some of the plots in succession would not be proper. If this type of challenge is encouraged the various owners of small plots will come up with writ petitions and hold up the acquisition proceedings for more than a generation. The High Court rightly exercised discretion against the appellants. We do not see any reason to take a contrary view to the discretion exercised by the High Court."

21. In State of Rajasthan v. D.R.Laxmi (1996) 6 SCC 445, this Court referred to Administrative Law H.W.R. Wade (7th Ed.) at pages 342-43 and observed: (SCC p.453, para 10)

"10. The order or action, if ultra vires the power, becomes void and it does not confer any right. But the action need not necessarily be set at naught in all events. Though the order may be void, if the party does not approach the Court within reasonable time, which is always a question of fact and have the order invalidated or acquiesced or waived, the discretion of the Court has to be exercised in a reasonable manner. When the discretion has been conferred on the Court, the Court may in appropriate case decline to grant the relief, even if it holds that the order was void. The net result is that extraordinary jurisdiction of the Court may not be exercised in such circumstances."

22. In Girdharan Prasad Missir v. State of Bihar (1980) 2 SCC 83, the delay of 17 months was considered as a good ground for declining relief to the petitioner.

In Municipal Corpn. of Greater Bombay v. Industrial Development Investment Co. (P) Ltd. (1996) 11 SCC 501, this Court held: (SCC p 452, para 9)

"9. ....It is thus well-settled law that when there is inordinate delay in filing the writ petition and when all steps taken in the acquisition proceedings have become final, the Court should be loath to quash the notifications. The High Court has, no doubt, discretionary powers under Article 226 of the Constitution to quash the notification under Section 4 (1) and declaration under Section 6. But it should be exercised taking all relevant factors into pragmatic consideration. When the award was passed and possession was taken, the Court should not have exercised its power to quash the award which is a material factor to be taken into consideration before exercising the power under Articloe 226. The fact that no third party rights were created in the case is hardly a ground for interference. The Division Bench of the High Court was not right in interfering with the discretion exercised by the learned Single Judge dismissing the writ petition on the ground of laches."

23. In Urban Improvement Trust v. Bheru Lal (2002) 7 SCC 712, this Court reversed the order of the Rajasthan High Court and held that the writ petition filed for quashing of acquisition of land for a residential scheme framed by the appellant-Urban Improvement Trust was liable to be dismissed on the ground that the same was filed after two years.

24. In Ganpatibai v. State of M.P. (2006) 7 SCC 508, the delay of 5 years was considered unreasonable and the order passed by the High Court refusing to entertain the writ petition was confirmed. In that case also the petitioner had initially filed suit challenging the acquisition of land. The suit was dismissed in 2001. Thereafter, the writ petition was filed. This Court referred to an earlier judgment in State of Bihar v. Dhirendra Kumar (1995) 4 SCC 229 and observed: (Ganpatibai v. State of M.P. (2006) 7 SCC 508, SCC p.510, para 9)

"9. In State of Bihar v. Dhirendra Kumar (1995) 4 SCC 229 this Court had observed that civil suit was not maintainable and the remedy to question notification under Section 4 and the declaration under Section 6 of the Act was by filing a writ petition. Even thereafter the appellant, as noted above, pursued the suit in the civil court. The stand that five years after the filing of the suit, the decision was rendered does not in any way help the appellant. Even after the decision of this Court, the appellant continued to prosecute the suit till 2001, when the decision of this Court in 1995 had held that suit was not maintainable."

25. In Swaran Lata v. State of Haryana (2010) 4 SCC 532, the dismissal of writ petition filed after seven years of the publication of declaration and five years of the award passed by the Collector was upheld by the Court and it was observed: (SCC p.535 para 11)

"11. In the instant case, it is not the case of the petitioners that they had not been aware of the acquisition proceedings as the only ground taken in the writ petition has been that substance of the notification under Section 4 and declaration under Section 6 of the 1894 Act had been published in the newspapers having no wide circulation. Even if the submission made by the petitioners is accepted, it cannot be presumed that they could not be aware of the acquisition proceedings for the reason that a very huge chunk of land belonging to a large number of tenure-holders had been notified for acquisition. Therefore, it should have been the talk of the town. Thus, it cannot be presumed that the petitioners could not have knowledge of the acquisition proceedings."

44. From the above mentioned judgments, it is clear that there is a consistent view that in case there is an inordinate delay in approaching the Court and when all steps taken in the acquisition proceedings have become final, the Court should be loath to quash the proceedings.

45. In the present case, the notifications are of the year 1991, whereas the writ petitions were filed in the year 2011 and 2012, after a period of more than 20 years. Averments of the writ petitions are silent on the issue of any explanation of gross delay in approaching this Court.

46. Admittedly, the possession of the land was taken way back in the year 1993. The special land Acquisition Officer had made award in the year 1993 and 1995 and as such entire proceedings of acquisition was completed wayback in the year 1995.

47. In view of above discussions, we dismiss the Writ Petition Nos.52602 of 2011, 59955 of 2012, 59958 of 2012, 59962 of 2012 and 59964 of 2012 on the ground of gross delay and laches.

48. So far as the prayers made in the Writ Petition Nos. 47504 of 2017, 50821 of 2017, 50824 of 2017, 51857 of 2017 and 57562 of 2017 are concerned, as the matter is seized with the Hon'ble Supreme Court and there is a request to High Court for not to deal with such cases relating to the interpretation of or concerning Section 24 of Act of 2013. (State of Haryana Vs. M/s. G.D. Goenka Tourism Corporation Ltd: (2018) 3 SCC 585). Accordingly, we are not passing any order on these petitions at this stage.

49. Registrar General of this Court is directed to take appropriate steps to comply with the directions made in paragraph 32 of this judgment regarding direction to Central Bureau of Investigation to conduct preliminary enquiry and register First Information Report.

50. List leading Writ Petition i.e. 31586 of 2016 on 11.5.2020.

A. Civil Law-U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 – Object – The enactment having been made in the interests of the community with the object to ensure a more equitable distribution of land and to provide land for the landless agricultural labourers to ensure increased agricultural production and for other public purposes as best to subserve the common good – The provisions of the Act have to be read in a manner so as to subserve the intent and purpose of the enactment. (Para 14)

B. Civil Law-U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 – Section 195 and 198 – UPICLH Act, 1960 – Section 27 – Surplus land – Order of Preference – Power of Collector – A conjoint reading of the statutory provisions indicates that any land which remains surplus after making provisions for settlement of land with the Gaon Sabha under Section 27(1) and permitting the use thereof for other public purposes under Section 25, is to be settled by the Collector in accordance with the order of preference and subject to the limits specified respectively in subsections (1) and (3) of Section 198 of the 1950 Act – The order of preference provided under Section 198(1) provides for allotment in favour of landless agricultural labourers of the specified categories in the order of preference prescribed under clause (c) thereof. (Para 10 and 11)

C. Civil Law-U.P. Imposition of Ceiling On Land Holdings Act, 1960 – Section 27 (3) and (4) – Cancellation of lease – The petitioners were not eligible for grant of lease inasmuch as they did not belong to the class of landless agricultural labourers – They could not have been admitted to the land as per the order of preference in accordance with the provisions contained under Section 195 r/w Section 198 of the 1950 Act and as such the settlement of the surplus land under subsection (3) of Section 27 was irregular – The land in question being already in occupation of landless agricultural labourers belonging to scheduled castes, the land could not be said to be vacant and the same could not have been allotted to the petitioners. (Para 22)

D. Interpretation of Statute – The principle of construing a remedial statute so as to effectuate the purposes of the legislature and to accomplish the object sought – The Court's function, in view of the foregoing discussion, would thus be to construe the words used in an enactment, so far as possible, in a way which best gives effect to the purpose of the enactment . 2. Bharat Singh Vs. Management Of New Delhi Tuberculosis Centre, New Delhi & Ors. (1986) 2 SCC 614

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pawan Giri, holding brief of Sri B.N.Pathak, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Amit Manohar, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State respondents.

2. Challenge in the present petition is to an order dated 02.06.2008 passed by the Additional Commissioner(Administration),Vindhyachal Mandal, Mirzapur in Case No. 12/333 of 2007 (Ghurau Vs. Meghai) in proceedings under Section 27 (4) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling On Land Holdings Act, 19601, whereby the lease granted in favour of the petitioners has been cancelled and the land in question has been directed to be reverted to the State Government.

3. Contention of the learned counsel for the petitioners is that the lease had been granted to the petitioners after completion of the requisite procedural formalities and that the order impugned has been passed without giving proper opportunity to the petitioners and as such the same is legally unsustainable.

4. Per contra, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State respondents has supported the order passed by the Additional Commissioner by stating that the petitioners did not belong to the category of persons eligible for allotment of the ceiling surplus land and accordingly the proceedings for cancellation of allotment were rightly initiated. Placing reliance upon the order-sheet of the case, a copy whereof has been annexed as annexure CA-1 to the counter affidavit filed by the State respondents, it is submitted that the order has been passed after due notice and opportunity to the petitioners and as such the same cannot be said to be arbitrary and illegal. It has also been pointed out that the land in question being not vacant at the relevant point of time the same could not have been allotted to the petitioners.

5. In order to appreciate the rival contentions the relevant statutory provisions may be adverted to.

6. The disposal and settlement of land declared surplus in proceedings under the Ceiling Act is provided for under Chapter IV thereof. For ease of reference, Section 27 of the Ceiling Act which pertains to the settlement of surplus land is being extracted below:-

"Section 27 - Settlement of surplus land - (1) The State Government shall settle out of the surplus land in a village in which no land is available for community purposes or in which the land as available is less than 15 acres with the Gram Sabha of that village so, however, that the total land in the village available for community purposes after such settlement does not exceed 15 acres. The land so settled with the Gram Sabha shall be used for planting trees, growing fodder or for such other community purposes, as may be prescribed.

(2) The State Government may either settle any surplus land in accordance with sub-section (1) or sub-section (3) or use or permit its use in accordance with Section 25 or manage or otherwise deal with it in such manner as it thinks fit.

(3) Any remaining surplus land shall be settled by the Collector in accordance with the order of preference and subject to the limits, specified respectively in sub-sections (1) and (3) of Section 198 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950.

(4) The Commissioner may of his own motion and shall, on the application of any aggrieved person enquire into such settlement and if he is satisfied that the settlement is irregular he may after notice to the person in whose favour such settlement is made to show cause--

(i) cancel the settlement and the lease, if any, and thereupon, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law or in any instrument, the rights, title and interest of the person in whose favour such settlement was made or lease executed or any person claiming through him in such land shall cease, and such land shall revert to the State Government; and

(ii) direct that every person holding or retaining possession thereof may be evicted, and may for that purpose use or cause to be used such force as may be necessary.

(5) Every order passed by the Commissioner under sub-section (4) shall be final.

(6) The Commissioner acting of his own motion under subsection (4) may issue notice, and an application under that sub-section may be made,--

(a) in the case of any settlement made or lease granted before November 10, 1980, before the expiry of a period of seven years from the said date; and

(b) in the case of any settlement made or lease granted on or after the said date, before the expiry of a period of five years from the date of such settlement or lease or up to November 10, 1987, whichever be later.

(6-A) Where any surplus land has been settled by the Collector under sub-section (3), and any person other than the person in whose favour such settlement was made is in occupation of such land in contravention of the provisions of this Act, the Collector may, of his own motion and shall on the application of the person in whose favour such settlement was made, put him in possession of such land and may for that purpose use or cause to be used such force as he considers necessary.

(6-B) Where any person, after being evicted under this section, reoccupies the land or any part thereof without lawful authority, he shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years but which shall not be less than three months and also with fine which may extend to three thousand rupees :

Provided that the Court convicting the accused may while passing the sentence direct that the whole or such portion of the fine that may be recovered as the Court considers proper, be paid to the person in whose favour such settlement was made as damages for use and occupation.

(6-C) Where in any proceeding under sub-section (6-B), the Court at any stage after cognizance of the case has been taken is satisfied by affidavit or otherwise--

(a) that the accused is in occupation of the land to which such proceeding relates, in contravention of the provisions of the Act; and

(b) that the person in whose favour such settlement was made is entitled to the possession of such land ;

the Court may summarily evict the accused from such land pending the final determination of the case and may put the person in whose favour such settlement was made in possession of such land.

(6-D) Where in any such proceeding, the accused is convicted the interim order passed under sub-section (6-C) shall be confirmed by the Court.

(6-E) Where in any such proceedings the accused is acquitted or discharged and the Court is satisfied that the person so acquitted or discharged is entitled to be put back in possession over such land, the Court shall, on the application of such person direct that delivery of possession be made to him.

(6-F) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, every offence punishable under sub-section (6-B) shall be cognizable and non-bailable and may be tried summarily.

(6-G) For the purpose of speedy trial of offences under this section, the State Government may, in consultation with the High Court, by notification/constitute, special courts consisting of an officer not below the rank of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, which shall, subject to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, exercise in relation to such offences the powers of a Judicial Magistrate of the first class.

(7) The State Government may, by a general or special order to be published in the manner prescribed, declare that as from a date to be specified in this behalf, all surplus land situate in a circle which could not be settled under the provisions of this Act, shall vest in the Gram Sabha concerned, and the provisions of Section 117 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, shall mutatis mutandis apply in relation to such vesting."

7. In terms of sub-section (3) of Section 27 of the Ceiling Act the land remaining surplus after providing for the use thereof for community purposes by way of settlement with the Gaon Sabha in terms of sub-section (1) and for use for other public purposes in accordance with Section 25, is to be settled by the Collector in accordance with the order of preference and subject to the limits specified respectively in sub-sections (1) and (3) of Section 198 of the U.P.Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 19502.

8. Section 198 of the 1950 Act prescribes the order of preference to be followed in admitting persons to land under Sections 195 and 197 and the same is reproduced herein below :-

"198. Order of preference in admitting persons to land under Sections 195 and 197. - (1) In the admission of persons to land as bhumidhar with non-transferable rights or asami under Section 195 or Section 197 (hereinafter in this section referred to as allotment of land) the Land Management

(b) a person residing in the circle, who has become wholly disabled by enemy action while in active service in the Armed Forces of the Union;

(c) a landless agricultural labourer residing in the circle and belonging to any one of the following categories in the order of preference:-

(g) a landless freedom fighter residing in the circle who has not been granted political pension; and

(4) The Collector may of his own motion and shall on the application of any person aggrieved by an allotment of land inquire in the manner prescribed into such allotment and if he is satisfied that the allotment is irregular, he may cancel the allotment and the lease, if any.

(4-A) (Omitted by U.P.Act No. 27 of 2004 (w.e.f. 23.08.2004).

(5) No order for cancellation of an allotment or lease shall be made under sub-section (4), unless a notice to show cause is served on the person in whose favour the allotment or lease was made or on his legal representatives :

Provided that no such notice shall be necessary in proceedings for the cancellation of any allotment or lease where such proceedings were pending before the Collector or any other Court or authority on August 18, 1980.

(6) Every notice to show cause mentioned in sub-section (5) may be issued-

(a) in the case of an allotment of land made before November 10, 1980, (hereinafter referred to as the said date), before the expiry of a period of seven years from the said date; and

(b) in the case of an allotment of land made on or after the said date, before the expiry of a period of five years from the date of such allotment or lease or up to November 10, 1987, which ever be later.

(7) Where the allotment or lease of any land is cancelled under sub-section (4) the following consequences shall ensue, namely-

(i) the right, title and interest of the allottee or lessee or any other person claiming through him in such land shall case and the land shall revert to the Gaon Sabha;

(ii) the Collector may direct delivery of possession of such land forthwith to the Gaon Sabha after ejectment of every person holding or retaining possession thereof and may for that purpose use or cause to be used such force as may be necessary.

(8) Every order made by the Collector under sub-section (4) shall, subject to the provisions of Section 333, be final.

(9) Where any person has been admitted to any land specified in Section 132 as a sirdar or bhumidhar with non-transferable rights at any time before the said date and such admission was made with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector-in-charge of the sub-division in respect of the permissible area mentioned in sub-section (3), then notwithstanding anything contained in other provisions of this Act or in the terms and conditions of the allotment or lease under which such person was admitted to that land, the following consequences shall, with effect from the said date ensure, namely-

(a) the allottee or lessee shall be deemed to be an asami of such land and shall be deemed to be holding the same from year to year and the allotment or lease of the land to the extent mentioned above shall not be deemed to be irregular for the purposes of sub-section (4);

(b) the proceedings, if any, pending on the said date before the Collector or any other Court or authority for the cancellation of the allotment or lease of such land, shall abate."

9. Section 195 which provides for allotment of land is also being extracted below :-

"195. Admission to land. - The Land Management Committee with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector-in-charge of the sub-division shall have the right to admit any person as bhumidhar with non-transferable rights to any land (other than land being in any of the classes mentioned in Section 132) where-

(a) the land is vacant land;

(b) the land is vested in the Gaon Sabha under Section 117; or

(c) the land has come into the possession of Land Management Committee under Section 194 or under any other provisions of this Act."

10. A conjoint reading of the aforementioned statutory provisions indicates that any land which remains surplus after making provisions for settlement of land with the Gaon Sabha under sub-section (1) of Section 27 and permitting the use thereof for other public purposes under Section 25, is to be settled by the Collector in accordance with the order of preference and subject to the limits specified respectively in sub-sections (1) and (3) of Section 198 of the 1950 Act.

11. The order of preference provided under sub-section (1) of Section 198 provides for allotment in favour of landless agricultural labourers of the specified categories in the order of preference prescribed under clause (c) thereof.

12. Section 195 provides for admission of land other than land being in any of the classes mentioned in Section 132 where: (a) the land is vacant land; (b) the land is vested in the Gaon Sabha under Section 117; or (c) the land has come into the possession of Land Management Committee under Section 194 or under any other provisions of the Act.

13. Sub-section (4) of Section 27 of the Ceiling Act provides that the Commissioner may of his own motion and shall on the application of any aggrieved person enquire into such settlement and if he is satisfied that the settlement is irregular he may after notice to the person in whose favour such settlement is made to show cause cancel the settlement and the lease and as a consequence thereof the land shall revert to the State Government.

14. The U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 was promulgated as an Act to provide for imposition of ceiling on land holdings in the State of Uttar Pradesh and certain other matters connected therewith. The enactment having been made in the interests of the community with the object to ensure a more equitable distribution of land and to provide land for the landless agricultural labourers to ensure increased agricultural production and for other public purposes as best to subserve the common good, the provisions of the Act have to be read in a manner so as to subserve the intent and purpose of the enactment.

15. Land being pivotal to both income and employment around which socio-economic privileges and deprivations revolve the distribution of ceiling surplus land is seen as an instrument of land reforms aimed at creation of an egalitarian rural society. The enactment has been included in the Ninth Schedule of the Constitution of India so as to ensure speedy and unhindered implementation of the various legislative measures.

16. Imposition of ceiling and distribution of ceiling surplus land being therefore primarily concerned with the distributive aspect of land reforms aimed at reducing ineqalities of land owner-ship the allotment of ceiling surplus land is to be made in a manner to subserve the objects and purposes of the enactment so that the distribution of land is made to the real beneficiaries.

17. It is beyond question the duty of courts, in construing statutes to give effect to the intent of the law making power and to seek for that intent in every way. The object and interpretation of construction of statutes is to ascertain the meaning of the legislature and to ensure that the provisions are interpreted so as to subserve that intent. There is a general presumption that an enactment has to be given a purposive construction with a construction that best gives effect to the purpose of the enactment.

18. Reference may be had to the judgment in R (on the application of Quintavalle) Vs. Secretary of State for Health, for the proposition that in construing an enactment effort should be made to give effect to the legislative purpose. The observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"8. The basic task of the Court is to ascertain and give effect to the true meaning of what Parliament has said in the enactment to be construed. ... Every statute other than a pure consolidating statute is, after all, enacted to make some change, or address some problem, or remove some blemish, or effect some improvement in the national life. The Court's task, within the permissible bounds of interpretation, is to give effect to Parliament's purpose. So the controversial provisions should be read in the context of the statute as a whole, and the statute as a whole should be read in the historical context of the situation which led to its enactment."

19. The Court's function, in view of the foregoing discussion, would thus be to construe the words used in an enactment, so far as possible, in a way which best gives effect to the purpose of the enactment.

20. The principle of construing a remedial statute so as to effectuate the purposes of the legislature and to accomplish the object sought has been emphasised in the Construction of Statues by Crawford in the following terms:-

"...Remedial statutes, that is, those which supply defects, and abridge superfluities, in the former law, should be given a liberal construction, in order to effectuate the purposes of the legislature, or to advance the remedy intended, or to accomplish the object sought, and all matters fairly within the scope of such a statute be included, even though outside the letter, if within its spirit or reason."

21. Reference may also be had to the case of Bharat Singh Vs. Management Of New Delhi Tuberculosis Centre, New Delhi & Ors., where purposive interpretation safeguarding the rights of have-nots was preferred to a literal construction in interpreting a welfare legislation, and it was held as follows:-

"11. ...the court has to evolve the concept of purposive interpretation which has found acceptance whenever a progressive social beneficial legislation is under review. We share the view that where the words of a statute are plain and unambiguous effect must be given to them. Plain words have to be accepted as such but where the intention of the legislature is not clear from the words or where two constructions are possible, it is the court's duty to discern the intention in the context of the background in which a particular Section is enacted. Once such an intention is ascertained the courts have necessarily to give the statute a purposeful or a functional interpretation. Now, it is trite to say that acts aimed at social amelioration giving benefits for the have-nots should receive liberal construction. It is always the duty of the court to give such a construction to a statute as would promote the purpose or object of the Act. A construction that promotes the purpose of the legislation should be preferred to a literal construction. A construction which would defeat the rights of the have-nots and the underdog and which would lead to injustice should always be avoided..."

22. In the instant case the order passed by the Additional Commissioner has specifically recorded that the petitioners were not eligible for grant of lease inasmuch as they did not belong to the class of landless agricultural labourers they could not have been admitted to the land as per the order of preference in accordance with the provisions contained under Section 195 read with Section 198 of the 1950 Act and as such the settlement of the surplus land under sub-section (3) of Section 27 was irregular. It has further been recorded that the land in question being already in occupation of landless agricultural labourers belonging to scheduled castes, the land could not be said to be vacant and the same could not have been allotted to the petitioners.

23. The principal contention which is sought to be raised on behalf of the petitioners is that the order has been passed without notice and opportunity to the petitioners also does not inspire confidence inasmuch as the order-sheet of the case which is on record as part of the counter affidavit filed by the State respondents clearly shows that the order impugned has been passed after due notice and opportunity to the petitioners.

24. Counsel for the petitioners has not been able to demonstrate from the records that the petitioners belong to the eligible criteria so as to be entitled for allotment of the ceiling surplus land.

25. No other ground has been urged.

26. No material error or irregularity has been pointed out in the order impugned so as to warrant interference.

27. The writ petition lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

A. Constitution of India – Fundamental Rights – Nature – The text of the Constitution, is a conceptual philosophy of fundamental rights, and not an exhaustive guide to fundamental rights – The text of the Constitution is fixed, fundamental rights are always evolving. This is the essence of constitutional law jurisprudence – Evolution of constitutional law rights are guided and controlled by the text of the constitution, long settled judicial principles of interpretation of the constitution, and judicial precedents in point – The march of law is also assisted by consensus of values, in the comity of civilized nations. C. Constitution of India – Article 21 – Validity of Punishment – Imposed on delinquent student – Punishment has to be effective to serve its purpose; however, it cannot be purblind to human dignity, if it is to retain its constitutionality – Degree of injuries to self esteem, extent of degradation of human worth, depth of humiliation caused by the punishment, are facts to be probed in an enquiry into the validity of the punishment – Punishment for deviant conduct, cannot be so severe as to degrade human life. Every form of punishment should protect the essential sanctity of human life and comport with fundamental norms of decency evolved by a civilized society. (Para 117, 119 and 121)

D. Constitution of India – Article 21 – Rehabilitation and Reformation – Absence of an environment of reform, self development and rehabilitation in a university, denies the opportunity of redeeming one's reputation – The individual is permanently discarded by the institution, and loss of human self worth is total – This system of punishment is destructive of fundamental elements of human dignity, and violative of Article 21 of the Constitution of India – Held, The impugned action taken by the university, against the petitioner is violative of the fundamental right of human dignity of the petitioner, guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, as it fails to consider his susceptibility to reform. (Para 122 and 134)

E. University Law– Its role and contribution – Preservation of Constitutional values – University is a paternal institution – It is a microcosm of the Society – There are no other institutions of equal standing, to engage with the youth, deal with the discontent or aberration, and channelize youthful energies – The role of the University does not end in punishing perpetrators of violence. It begins with the identification of the causes of violence, communal hatred, and other forms of deviant conduct – Thereafter the responsibility to achieve behavioral change commences – The universities have the responsibility, to preserve this heritage, and the obligation to nurture these constitutional values. (Para 147, 148, 151 and 159)

F. Nudge – Methodology – Behavioral Change – Importance of Yoga, Meditation and Vipassana – The methodology of 'nudges', in creating behavioral change has been gaining acceptability. G. Therapeutic Approach – Significance – To solve Social Problem – Under the therapeutic method, however, an individual's happiness depends on his or her self-esteem, and self-esteem is a by-product of public recognition – With the rise of therapeutic approaches by mid century, they were increasingly seen as social pathologies that needed to be treated through counseling and psychiatric intervention – Therapeutic solutions to social problems, are being increasingly recognized by social scientists, medical experts, psychologists, and jurists alike. (Para 138 and 179)

M.	Conclusions & Reliefs
N.	Appendix

A. Reliefs sought

2. The petitioner has assailed the following orders passed by the respondent University:

(i) The order of suspension dated 13.02.2019 passed by the Proctor, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh;

(ii) The order dated 28.03.2019 whereby the petitioner was directed to appear before the disciplinary committee and respond to the query, which he was failed to answer on the earlier occasion;

(iii) The chargesheet dated 16.03.2019.

3. The petitioner has further prayed for a direction to be issued to the authorities to permit the petitioner to submit his project work and allow him to appear in the viva-voce test, in which he has been left out and to declare the result of the petitioner.

4. The petitioner has also prayed for a direction to be issued to the respondent University to permit the petitioner to pursue his studies in the ongoing academic sessions.

B. Arguments of the learned counsels for parties

5. Sri R. K. Ojha, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ratnakar Upadhyay, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned order was passed in violation of the statutes of the university. The punishment imposed upon the petitioner is disproportionate. There is no provision for reform and rehabilitation of delinquent students in the statutes, which has resulted in violation of the fundamental right of the petitioner guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

6. Sri Anish Kumar, Sri Pankaj Misra and Sri Gaurav Pundir, learned counsels for the petitioner in connected writ petitions adopt the aforesaid arguments of the learned Senior Counsel, apart from raising factual issues peculiar to the respective writ petitions in which they appear.

7. Sri V.K. Upadhyaya, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri V.D. Chauhan, learned counsel for the BHU submits that the BHU has taken action as per law.

8. The learned Senior Counsel relied on the affidavits filed by the B.H.U., on creation of a reform, self development and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students.

9. Sri Ajit Kumar Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri V. D. Chauhan, learned counsel for the IIT BHU, contends that the IIT BHU, as a matter of policy accepts and is willing to adopt a professionally designed reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students. However, good order and discipline have to be maintained in the university, at all costs. In fact IIT BHU is currently even running a reform programme. He fairly conceded that the programme is not fully developed, and does not have a supporting statutory/legal frame work.

10. Sri Shashank Shekhar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-AMU, submits that the AMU fully accepts the idea of a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students on an institutional basis. He however contends that no compromise with the good order, discipline and the stability of the academic atmosphere can be made in any manner.

11. Sri Rizwan Akhtar, learned counsel for the UGC, Sri Rakesh Srivastava, and Sri Abrar Ahmed, learned counsels for the Union of India, have also been heard.

C. Facts

12. The petitioner is pursuing his LLM course from the respondent Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh. The proceedings against the petitioner arise out of an incident of misconduct on 12.02.2019. The substance of the charges, as enumerated in the chargesheet dated 16.03.2019, is that the petitioner along with others persons, threatened and physically assaulted one Imran Khan on 12.02.2019. Imran Khan managed to escape, from the scene of the scuffle, but the petitioner and his companions, destroyed valuable documents and snatched a bag from his room. The petitioner and his companions tried to disrupt the communal harmony of the campus and created a law and order situation.

(i) Suspension, Enquiry, Current Status

13. The inquiry against the incident was earlier completed. However, the petitioner was later asked to re-testify before the enquiry committee and clarify the some issues. The enquiry is pending ever since. The petitioner stands suspended indefinitely.

D. Legal Issues common in all writ petitions

14. Absence of any reform and rehabilitative measures, in the administrative and legal frameworks of the universities, has serious legal and constitutional implications.

15. The impugned action and the statutory regime of imposing punishments will also be judged in such constitutional and legal perspectives. The discussion on these issues shall be common in all the companion writ petitions.

16. Calling attention to the statutes of the universities, namely, BHU, IIT BHU and AMU, the learned counsels for the petitioners; contended that the said statutes do not contain provisions for reform and rehabilitation of delinquent students. The action against delinquent students, is governed and regulated, solely by the penal provisions of the statutes of the respective universities. The punitive scheme is a common thread in the statutes of all the three universities.

17. In response, all the counsels for the various respondents universities', in fact conceded that as on date no structured and professionally designed programmes for reform, self development and rehabilitation of delinquent students, backed by a proper legal frame work, exist in the respective universities.

18. Accordingly, various orders were passed by this Court, from time to time, requiring the respective universities namely, Banaras Hindu University, Indian Institute of Technology Banaras Hindu University, and Aligarh Muslim University, as well as the University Grants Commission and the Union of India through the Ministry of Human Resource Development, New Delhi, to submit their responses in regard to creation of a reform and rehabilitation frame work, for delinquent students in universities and institutions of higher learning. The respondents were also required to indicate, whether they had any opposition or even reservation, in regard to the creation of the reform and rehabilitative programme for delinquent students in the universities.

19. All the respondents namely Banaras Hindu University (hereinafter referred to as BHU), Indian Institute of Technology, Banaras Hindu University (hereinafter referred to as IIT BHU), Aligarh Muslim University (hereinafter referred to as the AMU) as well as Union of India through Ministry of HRD and University Grants Commission (hereinafter referred to as UGC) have submitted their responses to the aforesaid issues.

E. Stands of respective respondents on affidavits

(i) Response of IIT BHU

20. The IIT BHU in its affidavit has recorded its full agreement with a reform oriented approach, to deal with deviant behaviour in students. Thus IIT, B.H.U., has made a ringing endorsement, of the need to adopt a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students. However, it has also underscored the need for punitive action, to maintain a peaceful environment in the campus. The relevant paras of the affidavit are quoted hereinunder:

"2. That the present affidavit is being filed in compliance of the order dated 19.9.2019 passed by this Hon'ble Court.

4. That the Institute as indicated in the foregoing paragraph, is in full agreement with a reform oriented approach. However, in cases where reformative steps do not yield the desired corrections in behavior and actions of erring students, the Institute has to resort to punitive action in order to maintain the peaceful environment in the campus."

21. By categorically stating its commitment to reform of delinquent students, the IIT BHU has been true to its founding principles, and has faithfully discharged its obligations, under law and to the society.

(ii) Response of AMU

22. Upon orders being passed by this Court, the AMU to its credit, constituted an expert committee. The report of the expert committee has been submitted, and is made part of the record of the Court. The relevant parts of the Committee Report are extracted hereinbelow:

"In the light of the above the committee observes as under:

1. Our criminal justice system envisages two type of laws: one for Juveniles and second for other than Juveniles. There is a separate law for Juveniles known as Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 whereas others are covered under Code of Criminal Procedure, 1. 1976 and Indian Penal Code, 1860. The application of AMU Discipline and Conduct Rules, 1985 does not come primarily under the definition of Juvenile therefore the protection available to Juveniles are not available to the Students of the university in general. It becomes more relevant in view of the fact that at the time of admission every the disciplinary jurisdiction of the Vice Chancellor and the other authorities of the University is required to sign a declaration to the effect that he submits himself to the disciplinary jurisdiction of the Vice Chancellor and the other authorities of the University.

2. That it is also pertinent to mention here that Aligarh Muslim University is primarily a RESIDENTIAL UNIVERSITY and there are approximately 36,665 Students [22.593 University Students and departments/courses/Schools in the Aligarh Muslim University. Among these students 12,158 students reside in 56 Hostels (22 for girls) in the campus within the radius of 10 KM. Therefore, the future career of thousands of the students cannot be allowed to be jeopardized for the sake of handful of students who are involved in the indiscipline act and are destroying the whole atmosphere of the University.

3. In principle that criminal activity has no role to play in our education system therefore the students who are involved in the criminal activity have also no role to play in our education system. The students who are indulged in the criminal activity have different mind-set and have nothing to do with their studies. They are not at all interested to pursue their studies and their presence only hampers the study of the other students who are interested to pursue their study. It is the duty of the University to marginalize such type of students so that the students at large, who are more interested to pursue their studies, may pursue their studies in cordial and peaceful/ atmosphere.

4. That as per existing rules of the University, there is no compulsory/ mandated counselling available to students against whom the discipline and conduct rules are invoked. These rules are also not invoked in a routine way but being a residential University there are day-today interactions/counselling with the Wardens, Provost Tutors, Teachers and Senior Students holding positions of Senior Hall/Food etc.

5. That the extreme punishments as provided in the 1985 rules are invoked when there is an extreme situation and continuance/presence of the students became a threat to the academic environment and campus life of the University.

6. At the same time the observations of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Ajay Bhanot in this matter are highly appreciable in the context to infuse a reformative approach that the solution lies in engaging with the students, and harnessing their energies creatively. Errant behavior has to be reformed and not condemned. Erring students have to be transformed and not judged. The purpose of education is to unlock the immense potentiality in the human resource of the nation. This is possible by bringing about a conceptual shift in the concept of enforcing discipline, in the portals of the University. Indiscipline unchecked is indiscipline unleashed. But it is equally true. that expelling students from the University is a short term, if not a myopic view of the issue. A balance has to be drawn by the University authorities. The University has to create an ecosystem, with qualified staff and detailed programs of engaging with such students, with a view to give them an opportunity to reform themselves. Expulsion of students would abandon them to their own devices, close the doors of reformation to them, and shut them out from the redeeming light of knowledge. Leaving children accused of misconduct or deviant behavior, to fend for themselves would create issues for the society at large. In case Universities decline to shoulder the responsibilities of bringing such children back to the correct path, and do not provide the frame work for mainstreaming this class of students, the consequences would be detrimental to the society at large. There is no better institution in our democratic frame work, to embrace the young and questing spirits who have strayed from their path of morally upright and correct conduct. The Universities are uniquely equipped to deal with the challenge on an institutional basis. The Universities are repositories of knowledge, resources and experience to meet the challenge at hand. What is at stake, is not merely the future of an individual, but stability of the society The concerns of the society have to be handled by the University. The magnitude of the challenge is large, but it is imperative for the Universities to accept it and provide the adequate response.

After detailed deliberations and in the backdrop of above the committee proposes that:

1. Structural reformative approach may be included in the AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules of 1985 as this committee has identified some areas (not all inclusive) for counselling by a psychologist as enumerated above.

2. As the misconduct offences/crimes related to internet and cyberspace were not available when the Discipline Rules were framed, the same needs to be identified and appropriately included in the AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules of 1985 as it is growing among young and youth.

3. Outside campuses were not established when these rules were framed, hence, there is also need to amend these rules to include a structure for those centres.

The committee therefore recommends to the Vice-Chancellor as follows:

AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules 1985 were framed almost 30 years back and in the light of the observations given above, a detailed and exhaustive exercise may be undertaken by a committee to be appointed by the Vice-Chancellor under the convenorship of the Proctor of the University to formulate and propose a draft of revised AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules, inclusive of reformative approach, after exploring similar rules already enforced by sister universities and institutions in India and abroad for further consideration of the Vice-Chancellor and Academic Council of the University."

23. The AMU has thus in principle, recognized the need for a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students in some areas in the university. The AMU too has accorded top priority, to the maintenance of discipline in the campus, and is rightly unwilling to compromise with the same.

(iii) Response of BHU

24. The initial affidavit filed by the BHU, in regard to their stand on a reformative and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students, stated in effect that the reformation of the students indulging deviant behaviour is achieved, by providing for various categories of punishments, depending upon the nature of indiscipline. It further asserted, that in the name of reformation, the University cannot give a "go by", to the objectives of the university. The relevant paras 17 and 18 of the affidavit dated 17.09.2019 are extracted hereunder:

"17. In the present case no such conditions exist and as such the continuance of the order of suspension of the petitioner from the privileges of the University and Hostel is in accordance with law. That 17. it is the University humbly that submitted administration and the Vice-Chancellor in particular is the custodian of the interests of all the students involved in various academic pursuits in the University. In the case of Banaras Hindu University the number of all the students at various levels runs into more than 30 thousand. For the smooth functioning of the University and maintenance of an environment conducive to academic pursuits the interest of an individual student must give way to the larger interests of all the students as a whole. This is not only in the interest of the students themselves but also in public interest. In the of reformation of the students the University name administration cannot give a go by to the objectives of the University nor can it take an action which may have the potential of destroying the smooth functioning of the University embroiling the University in large scale unrest both in the student as well as in the teaching community. If the University such situation is brought about a administration would be failing in its duty. The fact that Banaras Hindu University is the largest residential University in the country if not the world cannot be lost sight of. Even small spark has the potential of turning into a conflagration which may become difficult to contain.

18. That the facility and provisions aimed at reformation of the erring students found indulging in deviant behavior is inherent in the Ordinances of the University dealing with students' indiscipline by providing for various categories of punishments depending upon the nature of indiscipline."

25. However, subsequently, the BHU filed an affidavit on 26th September, 2019, easing its reservations, against a reform and rehabilitation programme. The affidavit exhibited a shift in stand, indicating a willingness to consider a reformative approach. The para 7 of the affidavit is extracted hereunder:

"7. That all the aforesaid mechanisms and provisions exist in the University for creation and preservation of an academic ambience conducive to teaching and learning and vibrant and peaceful community life. However, there exist no provision in the Rules of the University for any formal reformative mechanism or process for such students as are found involved in an offence involving moral turpitude or heinous crime and hence are suspended from the privileges of the University. However, the University is not averse to considering this aspect, if it is found appropriate by the University through Constitution of a Committee of stakeholders which may look into as to whether such a mechanism is desirable in principle in the context of maintenance of academic ambience of the University or it may be detrimental to it, particularly, to the interest of larger group of the students, teachers and employees."

26. In substance the BHU was open to the concept of a structured reformative programme. It has however, desisted from taking a categorical position, on this most critical issue. While openness to new ideas is appreciated, failure to take a specific stand is also noticed. The Court will go no further.

(iv) Response of UGC

27. Sri Rizwan Ali Akhtar, learned counsel for the UGC has relied on the affidavit filed by the UGC. The UGC in its affidavit, stated that the universities are autonomous institutions. The academic and administrative decisions, are to be taken by the universities concerned, as per law. It was also stated that "the UGC has no role to play on day to day function of the Central Universities".

(v) Response of UoI

28. The Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India has chosen not to file any affidavit, despite orders passed by the Court and opportunities granted by the Court. The Court has to proceed, with the hearing in the interests of justice.

29. It was informed that the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, on its part had sent communications to the AMU and BHU, to protect its interests. The Court finds that the interests of the Union of India, are in no manner adversely affected. In these cases the interests of the Union of India, are not converse to the universities.

"The best lack all conviction."
~WB Yeats

30. Present discontents cannot be addressed by rote responses. Contemporary problems cannot be resolved by jejune formulae.

31. The universities cannot avoid a stand at the decision point. By prevarication at the decision point, the university may postpone the reckoning, but cannot escape responsibility.

32. Law has to hold institutions accountable to their obligations, to the founding purposes, to the students and to the society at large.

33. Universities of eminence cannot justify present inertia on the foot of past glory. Universities have to be aware of the risks, of basking in the reflected glory of the past. Eminence is achieved by past glory, however, reputation is retained by present endeavours.

34. Universities at certain critical decision points, would be true to their founding purposes and extant obligations by making clear and creative interventions. The universities as well as other authorities cannot show ineptitude in the face of crises, and equivocation in the face of solutions. In these critical situations the universities as well as other authorities, have to stand up and intervene and not stand by and equivocate.

F. Evolution of Fundamental Rights by courts

35. The fundamental rights of citizens are stated in Part III of the Constitution of India. But as in all cases, text of the rights can never be the exhaustive description of all rights. Rights have to be interpreted from the text of the Constitution. The process of interpretation of the text, often results in the evolution of rights. The Constitution is the textual origin of fundamental rights. Constitutional law defines the substance of fundamental rights.

(i) Legislative lag, executive inertia and fundamental rights

36. The fast pace of life in modern times often, outstrips the capacity of the legislature, to cope with the consequences of social change. There is a limit to human foresight, but the possibilities of life are limitless. The limits of legislation are the constraints of human foresight. The legislative process is complex and even time taking. Human affairs do not wait on the legislative process. These facts frequently create a legislative lag. It is almost inevitable in the nature of things.

37. The first intersection of life with law, at times happens in courts, even before the legislature grapples with the problems. The courts are often seized, of various emerging issues in social and individual lives, before the legislatures are cognizant of them.

38. A legislative hiatus or executive lethargy, cannot cause a constitutional stasis. The enforcement of fundamental rights, cannot be forestalled by a legislative lag or executive inertia. Constitutional guarantees and Fundamental Rights, have to be enforced on demand. Constitutional overhang is perpetual. Law is always in motion, and never on a holiday.

39. The text of the Constitution, is a conceptual philosophy of fundamental rights, and not an exhaustive guide to fundamental rights. The text of the Constitution is fixed, fundamental rights are always evolving. This is the essence of constitutional law jurisprudence. There is a method in the evolution of constitutional law jurisprudence.

40. Evolution of constitutional law rights are guided and controlled by the text of the constitution, long settled judicial principles of interpretation of the constitution, and judicial precedents in point. The march of law is also assisted by consensus of values, in the comity of civilized nations. These universal values are often manifested in International Conventions and Treaties. Another source of such values is comparative international jurisprudence. The felt needs of the times are also factored in by the courts. Development of constitutional law happens on these sure foundations. Constitutional rights are distilled from this process. In this process, the courts discharge their constitutional obligations. This is not judicial activism by courts. It is judging.

41. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Vishaka Vs. State of Rajasthan, reported at 1997 (6) SCC 241, issued various guidelines for the safety of women at working places. The guidelines held the field, till the Parliament enacted the legislation in that regard. Judicial directions in that case preceded, the legislative enactment. Infact the legislature was alerted, to the need of a legislation to cover the field, by the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

42. This narrative will profit from the observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Rattan Chand Hira Chand v. Askar Nawaz Jung, reported at (1991) 3 SCC 67:

"The legislature often fails to keep pace with the changing needs and values nor is it realistic to expect that it will have provided for all contingencies and eventualities. It is, therefore, not only necessary but obligatory on the courts to step in to fill the lacuna. When courts perform this function undoubtedly they legislate judicially. But that is a kind of legislation which stands implicitly delegated to them to further the object of the legislation and to promote the goals of the society. Or to put it negatively, to prevent the frustration of the legislation or perversion of the goals and values of the society. So long as the courts keep themselves tethered to the ethos of the society and do not travel off its course, so long as they attempt to furnish the felt necessities of the time and do not refurbish them, their role in this respect has to be welcomed.

All courts have at one time or the other felt the need to bridge the gap between what is and what is intended to be. The courts cannot in such circumstances shirk from their duty and refuse to fill the gap. In performing this duty they do not foist upon the society their value judgments. They respect and accept the prevailing values, and do what is expected of them. The courts will, on the other hand, fail in their duty if they do not rise to the occasion but approve helplessly of an interpretation of a statute or a document or of an action of an individual which is certain to subvert the societal goals and endanger the public good."

G. Process of law and the courts : Current State & Contemporary Challenges

43. The pace of technological, social and economic developments, often pose a challenge to the courts. Courts of today often have to deal with complex issues ranging from science, technology, economics, archaeology, medicine, social sciences and across other fields of highly specialized knowledge.

44. Lawyers on occasions lack the expertise, to grasp and simplify issues of varying complexity, from fields unrelated to law. Judges do not fare any better. Parties have their interests to protect.

45. The intellectual capital created by traditional resources of the judicial process, may not be adequate to manage such contemporary challenges. The judicial process would have to evolve, to meet the felt needs of the time. The rising tides of human knowledge, cannot pass the courts by. This shall require change in procedures, and development of infrastructure.

46. The intellectual resource base has to be widened. The debate has to be broadbased, to include direct inputs from experts as well. This would also entail well equipped libraries, which are staffed by qualified personnel and research assistants, and may be even experts. Institutional arrangements for interface of the courts with experts, have to be in place to ensure procedural propriety.

47. Debate on these issues will pave the way for the most important change, i.e. change in mindset. For the process to be credible and efficacious, a change has to come from within the judicial system. But change is inevitable, if judicial adjudication is to be just and remain relevant. In this regard, the High Court has a responsibility to fulfill, if not an obligation to discharge.

H. Education

(i) Importance and scope

"Where the mind is without fear
and the head is held high,
Where knowledge is free".
~Tagore

48. In education mankind discovered the message of unquenchable optimism, that humans could be separated from the cycle of repetitive thought and action. Learning was the key to the uninterrupted progress of any society. Knowledge instilled the belief that human life could be improved. Through knowledge alone, the hope is realized that humans can be reformed, and humanity can be transformed. Education is the supreme act of nation building, which essentially means nurturing of constitutional values, realization of constitutional goals, and strengthening the rule of law.

49. The idea of the Indian nation is founded, on the ideals of the Indian civilization. Many of these ideals are manifested in the Constitution, and find expression in constitutional law.

50. The quest for knowledge defines the Indian civilization. A salient feature in the search for learning, distinguishes the Indian civilization. Knowledge in Hellenic civilization was founded on reason. The human thirst for knowledge was also quenched by revelation. The distinctive feature of learning in Indian civilization, is that India's search for knowledge, while always embracing reason as a method and never denying revelation as a source, insists on realization as its goal.

51. The diversity of thought is reflected in the plurality of discourse in India. The enduring values which define India, have been preserved and propagated by the tradition of civilized debate. The unity of our nation is protected by respect and affirmation of a multi hued cultural heritage and embracement of varied traditions of thought.

(ii) Role and obligation of universities

"Where the mind is led forward by thee
Into ever widening thought and action."
~Tagore

52. The universities are the custodians of the old values, even as they ceaselessly push the boundaries of modern knowledge.

53. In universities students of diverse backgrounds, and different beliefs, congregate in a common pursuit of knowledge. Through knowledge they will learn, that humanity unites more than diversity differentiates. With learning they will understand, that diversity enriches human life, and does not divide humankind. University experience will help them, cultivate constitutional values, and transcend violent and other aberrational tendencies.

54. Universities are not teaching shops, nor are they mere examining bodies. Universities nurture the intellect and develop the character of the young citizens in a wholesome manner. Students gain knowledge and imbibe values in universities. These dual pursuits constitute the founding purpose of a university, in fact its raison detre.

55. A unifocal approach promoting scholastic achievements, to the exclusion of character building, would undermine the founding principles of a university. A failure of character or deficit of values in students, may impel action against the delinquent student, but should also cause introspection in university authorities.

56. University education is not an arm's length transaction, between the teachers and the taught. Nor is university education an exact contractual relation, in the likeness of a consumer and a service provider.

I. Discipline in Universities: Concept, Need & Challenges

(i) Violence, intimidation and moral turpitude

"Where the clear stream of reason has not lost its way into the dreary desert sand of dead habit"
~Rabindranath Tagore

57. Violence degrades human life. Intimidation stifles human thought. Moral turpitude is the low ebb of human conduct. These are the scourges and yet inescapable facts of human life. Our society faces these issues, and our varsities grapple with them.

58. Violence, intimidation, and acts of moral turpitude, are not conducive to the academic atmosphere of a varsity, and pose a mortal threat to the values of a university. They retard the growth of free thought and reasoned debate. These evils have no place in our universities. The universities can prosper only when such evils are got rid of.

(ii) Communal disturbances in universities

"Where the world has not been broken up into fragments by narrow domestic walls".
~Rabindranath Tagore

59. In Writ C No. 32955 of 2019, (Ajay Singh Vs. Union of India and Others), the petitioner is charged with disturbing the communal harmony in the university.

60. Stoking communal hatred not only disrupts peace and order in a university, but can roil the foundations of law and harmony in our society. The problem cannot be tackled as a "discipline" issue alone. A composite and a conceptual approach has to be adopted. The roots of communal hate have to be analyzed and addressed. Communal hatred is a narrative, which stands in direct opposition, to our civilizational ethos and constitutional values. Communal hatred holds a threat, to the rule of law. Communal hatred cannot be countenanced in our universities, nor can be given any space in our society.

(iii) Discipline in universities

61. Discipline is the bedrock of any organization. In a university, discipline does not mean conformity of thought, or creation of a regimented class of people. In a varsity discipline is not the residue, after dissent is stifled and dissenters purged.

62. Discipline in a university is the consensus among all stakeholders, to live by the universal values which define the academic world. Discipline in a varsity is common allegiance and unshakable adherence, to values which nurture free thought, respect dissentient opinions, and create an environment of unimpeded academic pursuits. Hate and true debate cannot co-exist. Violence and true learning cannot cohabit.

63. Discipline has to be preserved at all costs, if the raison detre of the University is to be protected at all times. Indiscipline unchecked is indiscipline unleashed. However in our constitutional scheme, the means of ensuring discipline, is as important as the end of keeping discipline.

(iv) Statutory approach to maintaining discipline

64. The universities have created legal frameworks, to deal with acts of indiscipline, and to maintain discipline and order.

65. The power to take disciplinary action, and impose punishment upon delinquent students, is vested in the competent authorities, by the statutes of the concerned university. The following statutes govern and regulate, the process of initiating disciplinary action against delinquent students, and imposition of penalty for misconduct.

BHU -The Banaras Hindu University Act No. XVI of 1915 {Section 60}

ii. Chapter VIII, Ordinances Governing Maintenance of Discipline and Grievances Procedure.

iii. Notification, New Delhi, 31st July, 2017, BHU

AMU- The Aligarh Muslim University (Act No. XL of 1920), [Amendment] Act, 1981 (62 of 1981)

ii. Section 35 (5) of the AMU

iii. The Statutes of the University (as adapted under Section 28 of the Act) amended upto December, 2012).

IIT BHU - i. The Institutes of Technology Act, 1961

ii. The Institutes of Technology Amendment Act, 2012.

iii. Section 17(2) of the Act, 1961 (already quoted)

(The relevant extracts of the statutes are appended as appendix 1 to the writ petition.)

J. Statutory Regime of Punishments in light of Article 21 & Doctrine of Proportionality

66. The statutes of all the three universities contemplate only penal action, to deal with all forms of indiscipline or deviant conduct. The penal action may lead to suspension, and can even extend to expulsion and debarment.

67. The punitive provisions of the Statutes of the respective universities, manifest the deterrent intent of the law. A reformist approach to the problem is absent in the statutes. The makers of statutes have solely adopted a punitive or deterrent approach to the exclusion of other methods of dealing with issues of indiscipline or deviant conduct.

68. The aforesaid ordinances of the universities and the affidavits of the respondents have been perused. Submissions of the learned counsel for the universities have been considered. This Court finds that there is no structured, professionally designed reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, or therapeutic support system backed by a legal frame work, to deal with the delinquent students and like issues in the universities.

69. The statutory monopoly of a punitive approach, to deviant behaviour, and the exclusion of all other responses, often creates a lack of balance in the actions of the concerned University. In such cases, the punishment becomes disproportionate, not because the decision maker was incapable of measured action, but because the ordinances/statutes preclude a proportional response.

70. It is clarified, that the requirement of punitive provisions in the statutes is a given. The need to empower the authority, to take disciplinary action in law is undisputed. There is no infirmity in the statutory provisions. The inadequacy is in the reach of the statutory provisions.

71. The decision maker is constrained in his choices, by the absolute dominance of punitive provisions, and complete omission of reformative measures in the ordinances.

72. The impact of absence of reformative provisions and the presence of a statutory bias in favour of a punitive approach, on the fundamental rights of the petitioners, shall also be assessed in the next part of the judgment.

K. Punishments and Article 21
(i) Right to human dignity

73. A life without dignity is robbed of its meaning. Absent self worth, life is devoid of content.

74. Human dignity as a concept, was created by an international consensus, on universal human values. "Human dignity" and "self worth" are used, in close proxmity in international instruments, reflecting the affinity between the concepts.

75. The comity of nations, first pledged commitment to protecting the "dignity and worth" of the human person, in the charter of the United Nations. These eternal values were reiterated, in subsequent international instruments and conventions including the Convention for the Suppression of the Traffic in Persons and of the Exploitation of the Prostitution of Others (1951); the Supplementary Convention on the Abolition of Slavery, the Slave Trade, and Institutions and Practices Similar to Slavery (1956); the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (1979); the Convention on the Rights of the Child (1989); and the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (2006).

76. Human dignity and self worth, were increasingly incorporated in the jurisprudence of all liberty loving nations in the post World War II era.

77. The complexity of the concept of human dignity, never diluted the usefulness of the theory of human dignity in enhancing the worth of the human person. Human dignity made a decisive contribution in the development of the rights of life and liberty, in jurisprudential systems of free societies across the world.

78. However, the Court would do well to observe the caution, that a sweeping judicial definition of human dignity, would make an abstract theory, unintelligible. An unduly wide judicial construct of human dignity, would create unworkable judicial tests.

79. Likewise if the courts adopt too narrow a view of human dignity, a concept which has made stellar contribution to the advancement of human rights will be lost.

80. Keeping these pitfalls in mind, a balance has to be maintained, between attempting too much and recoiling from the task altogether.

81. The applicability of human dignity, would be determined in this case, by evolving a workable test or construct of human dignity and self worth applicable to these cases.

82. Human dignity is not inserted in the text of the fundamental rights under the Constitution of India. Human dignity occurs in the Preamble to the Constitution of India.

83. The Preamble to the Constitution, reflects the resolve of the People of India, to secure to all its citizens

"Justice social, economic and political;
Liberty of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship;
Equality of status and of opportunity;
and to promote among them all and
Fraternity assuring the dignity of the individual and the unity of the Nation."

The Preamble to the Constitution is not analogous, to a preamble to any legislative enactment.

84. The unique place of the Preamble, in the Constitution came to be noticed very early, in Sajjan Singh v. State of Rajasthan, reported at AIR 1965 SC 845. The Hon'ble Supreme Court found that the Preamble to our Constitution is "not of the common run". Further the Preamble bore the "stamp of deep deliberation" and precision.

85. This feature shines light on the special significance, attached to the Preamble by the framers of the Constitution. The Preamble was held to be a part of the Constitution, by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kesavananda Bharati v. State of Kerala, reported at (1973) 4 SCC 225.

86. The words 'life, law and liberty' in Article 21 of the Constitution of India, were freed from the confines of narrow and literal interpretation by the Courts. (See Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India, (1978) 1 SCC 248)

87. A defining moment came when the Hon'ble Supreme Court, liberated "life" from the fetters of mere physical existence. (see Olga Tellis v. Bombay Municipal Corpn. Reported at (1985) 3 SCC 545).

88. Over the years human dignity, has been read into the meaning of life and liberty, under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, by consistent pronouncements of the courts.

89. A broad overview of some of the leading pronouncements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, elevating human dignity to the status of a fundamental right, are discussed in the succeeding paragraphs.

(ii) Supreme Court on human dignity

90. The concept of human dignity forming a part of Article 21, was introduced in Prem Shankar Shukla v. UT of Delhi, reported at (1980) 3 SCC 526. While construing the constitutional rights of prisoners, in Prem Shankar Shukla (supra), Krishna Iyer, J. speaking for a three-Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court held:

"1. ... the guarantee of human dignity, which forms part of our constitutional culture, and the positive provisions of Articles 14, 19 and 21 spring into action when we realise that to manacle man is more than to mortify him; it is to dehumanise him and, therefore, to violate his very personhood, too often using the mask of "dangerousness" and security.

21. The Preamble sets the humane tone and temper of the Founding Document and highlights justice, equality and the dignity of the individual."

91. Undermining the human dignity of a detenue, under the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities (COFEPOSA) Act, 1974 was not countenanced by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Francis Coralie Mullin v. UT of Delhi, reported at (1981) 1 SCC 608 by ruling thus:

"6. ... The fundamental right to life which is the most precious human right and which forms the ark of all other rights must therefore be interpreted in a broad and expansive spirit so as to invest it with significance and vitality which may endure for years to come and enhance the dignity of the individual and the worth of the human person.

7. ... the right to life enshrined in Article 21 cannot be restricted to mere animal existence. It means something much more than just physical survival."

92. The right to live with human dignity flowing from Article 21, was employed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court to unlock the fetters of those living in bondage and setting them free in Bandhua Mukti Morcha v. Union of India, reported at (1984) 3 SCC 161. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bandhua Mukti Morcha (supra) observed that:

"10. ...This right to live with human dignity enshrined in Article 21 derives its life breath from the directive principles of State policy and particularly clauses (e) and (f) of Article 39 and Articles 41 and 42 and at the least, therefore, it must include protection of the health and strength of the workers, men and women, and of the tender age of children against abuse, opportunities and facilities for children to develop in a healthy manner and in conditions of freedom and dignity, educational facilities, just and humane conditions of work and maternity relief. These are the minimum requirements which must exist in order to enable a person to live with human dignity, and no State -- neither the Central Government nor any State Government -- has the right to take any action which will deprive a person of the enjoyment of these basic essentials."

93. Dehumanizing treatment given to the arrested activists of an organization by the police authorities was called out by the Hon'ble Supreme court, in Khedat Mazdoor Chetna Sangath v. State of M.P., reported at (1994) 6 SCC 260, wherein it was recognized:

"10. ... It is, therefore, absolutely essential in the interest of justice, human dignity and democracy that this Court must intervene; order an investigation, determine the correct facts and take strongest possible action against the respondents who are responsible for these atrocities."

94. The right of human dignity was also construed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in M.Nagaraj v. Union of India, reported at (2006) 8 SCC 212. In that case the right was held to be intrinsic to and inseparable from human existence:

"26. ... The rights, liberties and freedoms of the individual are not only to be protected against the State, they should be facilitated by it. ... It is the duty of the State not only to protect the human dignity but to facilitate it by taking positive steps in that direction. No exact definition of human dignity exists. It refers to the intrinsic value of every human being, which is to be respected. It cannot be taken away. It cannot give (sic be given). It simply is. Every human being has dignity by virtue of his existence.

42. India is constituted into a sovereign, democratic republic to secure to all its citizens, fraternity assuring the dignity of the individual and the unity of the nation. The sovereign, democratic republic exists to promote fraternity and the dignity of the individual citizen and to secure to the citizens certain rights. This is because the objectives of the State can be realised only in and through the individuals. Therefore, rights conferred on citizens and non-citizens are not merely individual or personal rights. They have a large social and political content, because the objectives of the Constitution cannot be otherwise realised."

95. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shabnam v. Union of India, reported at (2015) 6 SCC 702 elaborated the following elements of the human dignity;

"14. This right to human dignity has many elements. First and foremost, human dignity is the dignity of each human being "as a human being". Another element, which needs to be highlighted, in the context of the present case, is that human dignity is infringed if a person's life, physical or mental welfare is harmed. It is in this sense torture, humiliation, forced labour, etc. all infringe on human dignity. It is in this context many rights of the accused derive from his dignity as a human being."

(emphasis in original)

96. Aharon Barak (former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Israel), discussed the constitutional value of human dignity, in the following celebrated passage:

"The constitutional value of human dignity has a central normative role. Human dignity as a constitutional value is the factor that unites the human rights into one whole. It ensures the normative unity of human rights. This normative unity is expressed in the three ways: first, the value of human dignity serves as a normative basis for constitutional rights set out in the constitution; second, it serves as an interpretative principle for determining the scope of constitutional rights, including the right to human dignity; third, the value of human dignity has an important role in determining the proportionality of a statute limiting a constitutional right. "

97. The views of the Judge Aharon Barak, were approved and incorporated in the corpus of human dignity jurisprudence, in our country by the Hon'ble Supreme court in Jeeja Ghosh v. Union of India, reported at (2016) 7 SCC 761.

98. The consequences of loss of human dignity in an individual's life, were noted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mehmood Nayyar Azam v. State of Chhattisgarh, reported at (2012) 8 SCC 1.

99. Similar sentiments were expressed on human dignity, by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in National Legal Services Authority v. Union of India, reported at (2014) 5 SCC 438.

100. In Maharasthra University of Health Sciences v. Satchikitsa Prasarak Mandal reported at (2010) 3 SCC 786, the Hon'ble Supreme court upon consideration of good authority, reiterated the dignity of the individual as a core constitutional concept.

101. While in Selvi v. State of Karnataka reported at (2010) 7 SCC 263, the Hon'ble Supreme Court ruled thus:

"244.....we must recognize that a forcible intrusion into a person's mental processes is also an affront to human dignity and liberty, often with grave and long-lasting consequences."

102. Even prisoners have been found entitled to the fundamental rights while in custody by the Hon'ble Supreme Court (see Sunil Batra (II) Vs. Delhi Administration, reported at 1980 (3) SCC 488).

103. The importance of therapeutic approach in dealing with the criminal tendencies of prisoners and the necessity for reform, was considered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in T.K. Gopal v. State of Karnataka, reported at (2000) 6 SCC 168, by holding that:

"15. The therapeutic approach aims at curing the criminal tendencies which were the product of a diseased psychology. There may be many factors, including family problems. We are not concerned with those factors as therapeutic approach has since been treated as an effective method of punishment which not only satisfies the requirements of law that a criminal should be punished and the punishment prescribed must be meted out to him, but also reforms the criminal through various processes, the most fundamental of which is that in spite of having committed a crime, maybe a heinous crime, he should be treated as a human being entitled to all the basic human rights, human dignity and human sympathy. It was under this theory that this Court in a stream of decisions, projected the need for prison reforms, the need to acknowledge the vital fact that the prisoner, after being lodged in jail, does not lose his fundamental rights or basic human rights and that he must be treated with compassion and sympathy."

104. In Asfaq v. State of Rajasthan and Others, reported at (2017) 15 SCC 55, the Hon'ble Supreme Court emphasizing the need for reform of a convict held that "redemption and rehabilitation of such prisoners for good of societies must receive due wightage while they are undergoing sentence of imprisonment."

105. The judicial authorities can be multiplied, reiterating the above holdings. However, the same will add volume, but not value to the narrative.

106. Consistent and high authority have thus entrenched human dignity as fundamental to right to life, which flows from Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

107. The narrative would not be complete without reference to the most authoritative pronouncement, of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of K.S. Puttaswamy v. Union of India reported at (2017) 10 SCC 1

108. Dr. D. Y. Chandrachud, J. speaking for the Constitution Bench, firmly and irrevocably, reiterated that human dignity is a fundamental right under Article 21 of the Indian Constitution, with customary eloquence, in K.S. Puttaswamy (supra). Dr. D. Y. Chandrachud, J., upon consideration of the judicial precedents in point distilled the concept of human dignity and its place in part III of the Constitution:

"Jurisprudence on dignity

"108. Over the last four decades, our constitutional jurisprudence has recognised the inseparable relationship between protection of life and liberty with dignity. Dignity as a constitutional value finds expression in the Preamble. The constitutional vision seeks the realisation of justice (social, economic and political); liberty (of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship); equality (as a guarantee against arbitrary treatment of individuals) and fraternity (which assures a life of dignity to every individual). These constitutional precepts exist in unity to facilitate a humane and compassionate society. The individual is the focal point of the Constitution because it is in the realisation of individual rights that the collective well-being of the community is determined. Human dignity is an integral part of the Constitution. Reflections of dignity are found in the guarantee against arbitrariness (Article 14), the lamps of freedom (Article 19) and in the right to life and personal liberty (Article 21).

118. Life is precious intself. But life is worth living because of the freedoms which enable each individual to live life as it should be lived. The best decisions on how life should be lived are entrusted to the individual. They are continuously shaped by the social milieu in which individuals exist. The duty of the State is to safeguard the ability to take decisions. "Life" within the meaning of Article 21 is not confined to the integrity of the physical body. The right comprehends one's being in its fullest sense. That which facilitates the fulfillment of life is as much within the protection of the guarantee of life.

119. To live is to live with dignity. The draftsmen of the Constitution defined their vision of the society in which constitutional values would be attained by emphasising, among other freedoms, liberty and dignity. So fundamental is dignity that it permeates the core of the rights guaranteed to the individual by Part III. Dignity is the core which unites the fundamental rights because the fundamental rights seek to achieve for each individual the dignity of existence. Privacy with its attendant values assures dignity to the individual and it is only when life can be enjoyed with dignity can liberty be of true substance. Privacy ensures the fulfilment of dignity and is a core value which the protection of life and liberty is intended to achieve."

(iii) Comparative International Jurisprudence

109. A survey of comparative international jurisprudence, on the point of human dignity and the rights flowing therefrom, shows convergence in the values of human dignity across the free world.

110. The foreign authorities can be cited to show that human dignity is an accepted universal value in the comity of nations.

111. In Rosenblatt v. P Baer, reported at 1966 SCC OnLine US SC 22 : 383 US 75 (1966), the US Supreme Court found that "The essential dignity and worth of every human being" was at the root of any system of "ordered liberty".

"The right of a man to the protection of his own reputation from unjustified invasion and wrongful hurt reflects no more than our basic concept of the essential dignity and worth of every human being- a concept at the root of any decent system of ordered liberty."

112. In the case of Armoniene v. Lithuania, reported at (2009) EMLR 7, the European Court of Human Rights set its face against an act of disclosure of a person's state of health, causing "exclusion from social life", and found it violative of the right to privacy by holding thus:

"The Court takes particular note of the fact that the family lived not in a city but in a village, which increased the impact of the publication on the possibility that the husband's illness would be known by his neighbours and his immediate family, thereby causing public humiliation and exclusion from village social life."

113. The human dignity rights of prisoners included rehabilitation, in the opinion of the US Supreme Court in Procunier, Corrections Director, ET AL. Vs. Martinez ET AL. reported at 416 U.S. 396 (1974):

"The Court today agrees that "the weight of professional opinion seems to be that inmate freedom to correspond with outsiders advances rather than retards the goal of rehabilitation."

Balanced against the State's asserted interests are the values that are generally associated with freedom of speech in a free society - values which "do not turn to dross in an unfree one." Sostre v. McGinnis, supra, at 199. First Amendment guarantees protect the free and uninterrupted interchange of ideas upon which a democratic society thrives. Perhaps the most obvious victim of the indirect censorship effected by a policy of allowing prison authorities to read inmate mail is criticism of prison administration. The threat of identification and reprisal inherent in allowing correctional authorities to read prisoner mail is not lost on inmates who might otherwise criticize their jailors. The mails are one of the few vehicles prisoners have for informing the community about their existence and, in these days of strife in our correctional institutions, the plight of prisoners is a matter of urgent public concern. To sustain a policy which chills the communication necessary to inform the public on this issue is at odds with the most basic tenets of the guarantee of freedom of speech.

The First Amendment serves not only the needs of the polity but also those of the human spirit - a spirit that demands self-expression. Such expression is an integral part of the development of ideas and a sense of identity. To suppress expression is to reject the basic human desire for recognition and affront the individual's worth and dignity. 14 Cf. Stanley v. Georgia, 394 U.S. [416 U.S. 396, 428]557 (1969). Such restraint may be "the greatest displeasure and indignity to a free and knowing spirit that can be put upon him." J. Milton, Aeropagitica 21 (Everyman's ed. 1927). When the prison gates slam behind an inmate, he does not lose his human quality; his mind does not become closed to ideas; his intellect does not cease to feed on a free and open interchange of opinions; his yearning for self-respect does not end; nor is his quest for self-realization concluded. If anything, the needs for identity and self-respect are more compelling in the dehumanizing prison environment. Whether an O. Henry writing his short stories in a jail cell or a frightened young inmate writing his family, a prisoner needs a medium for self-expression. It is the role of the First Amendment and this Court to protect those precious personal rights by which we satisfy such basic yearnings of the human spirit."

114. The validity of a punishment causing loss of nationality, for an act of desertion in military service, was in issue before the US Supreme Court, in Trop Vs. Dulles, reported at 356 US 86 (1958). The US Supreme Court in Trop (supra) reiterated the importance and role of rehabilitation in a penal system, while dealing with the validity of the punishment. The principle holding of the US Supreme Court on these points is as under:

"Expatriation, in this respect, constitutes an especially demoralizing sanction. The uncertainty, and the consequent psychological hurt, which must accompany one who becomes an outcast in his own land must be reckoned a substantial factor in the ultimate judgment.

The novelty of expatriation as punishment does not alone demonstrate its inefficiency. In recent years we have seen such devices as indeterminate sentences and parole added to the traditional term of imprisonment. Such penal methods seek to achieve the end, at once more humane and effective, that society should make every effort to rehabilitate the offender and restore him as a useful member of that society as society's own best protection. Of course, rehabilitation is but one of the several purposes of the penal law. Among other purposes are deterrents of the wrongful act by the threat of punishment and insulation of society from dangerous individuals by imprisonment or execution. What then is the relationship of the punishment of expatriation to these ends of the penal law? It is perfectly obvious that it constitutes the very antithesis of rehabilitation, for instead of guiding the offender back into the useful paths of society it excommunicates him and makes him, literally, an outcast. I can think of no more certain way in which to make a man in whom, perhaps, rest the seeds of serious antisocial behavior more likely to pursue further a career of unlawful activity than to place on him the stigma of the derelict, uncertain of many of his basic rights. Similarly, it must be questioned whether expatriation can really achieve the other effects sought by society in punitive devices. Certainly it will not insulate society from the deserter, for unless coupled with banishment the sanction leaves the offender at large. And as a deterrent device this sanction would appear of little effect, for the offender, if not deterred by thought of the specific penalties of long imprisonment or even death, is not very likely to be swayed from his course by the prospect of expatriation. However insidious and demoralizing may be the actual experience of statelessness, its contemplation in advance seems unlikely to invoke serious misgiving, for none of us yet knows its ramifications."

(iv) Constitutionality of punishments under the statutes

"Universities are made by love, love of beauty and learning."

~ Annie Besant

115. The engagement of human dignity and Article 21 will now be examined in the context of punishment, imposed on a delinquent student.

116. The statutory scheme of enforcing discipline by imposition of punishments and suspension has a salutary purpose, but it needs to be compliant with the requirements of fundamental rights.

117. Punishment has to be effective to serve its purpose; however, it cannot be purblind to human dignity, if it is to retain its constitutionality.

118. Severity of a punishment is not sufficient basis for holding it unconstitutional. The enquiry into the constitutionality of a punishment, will examine the relationship between the punishment and its purpose, and whether the penalty can achieve the purpose. The enquiry will also determine whether the punishment degrades the human person, and whether it devalues human dignity against established norms of decency, or has a dehumanizing effect.

119. Degree of injuries to self esteem, extent of degradation of human worth, depth of humiliation caused by the punishment, are facts to be probed in an enquiry into the validity of the punishment.

120. Experience teaches the fact of human fallibility, but knowledge holds the hope of human redemption. If error is part of human nature, reform is an element of human spirit. The capacity of human beings to introspect on erring ways and the power of human will to reform deviant conduct are building blocks of the concept of human dignity. "Every sinner has a future, many a saint had a past."

121. Punishment for deviant conduct, cannot be so severe as to degrade human life. Every form of punishment should protect the essential sanctity of human life and comport with fundamental norms of decency evolved by a civilized society. Any act which dehumanizes life cannot be countenanced by societies and courts which value life and liberty. The degrading or dehumanizing elements of the punishment have to be eliminated to bring it in conformity with requirement of human dignity, contemplated by Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

122. Failure to consider susceptibility to reform, while denying the right to access privileges and activities of the university, negates the possibility of rehabilitation. Absence of an environment of reform, self development and rehabilitation in a university, denies the opportunity of redeeming one's reputation. Termination of dialogue with the delinquent student, without offering an opportunity to reform, makes him an outcaste. The individual is permanently discarded by the institution, and loss of human self worth is total. This system of punishment is destructive of fundamental elements of human dignity, and violative of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

123. Another aspect of the punishment which needs consideration, is the consequence exclusion from higher education.

124. Education is a most credible and effective mode of restoring self esteem and enhancing self worth. By denying opportunities of education to a delinquent student, without looking at the possibility of reform, the power to redeem one's errors and enhance self worth is taken away from an individual. In these cases, closure of avenues of education, extinguishes the hope for a better tomorrow. Loss of hope and its sequitor perpetual condemnation are fatal blows to the human spirit and self esteem.

125. Acts of deviant conduct, violence or intimidation, do not cease the need for social engagement or knowledge. Such needs are more acutely felt and require satisfaction in these cases.

126. Order may be enforced by punishments. Causes of deviant conduct can be addressed only by engagement. Punishments deal with the offence, reform deals with the offender.

127. Public interest however demands that the claim for further education, and engagement with delinquent students, should be guided and controlled by the authorities.

128. Statutory regimes in universities, dealing with delinquent behaviour and university environments, which are bereft of therapeutic and reform based support systems, are incompatible with the constitutional mandate to uphold human dignity. The violations of human dignity, in such cases, are summed up hereinunder:

129. Dignity violations occur when a punishment meted out to a student, does not consider his susceptibility to reform, and degrades his person by exclusion to the point where his diminished self worth cannot be reinstated due to systemic inadequacies or institutional shortcomings.

130. By denying further education, and neglecting to create an institutional system of reform, self development and rehabilitation, the university in effect tells the delinquent student, that it does not recognize the student's need to re-establish his self esteem. In other words, the student is not only impervious to reform, but incapable of enhancing his self esteem.

131. Dignity of an individual/student is injured, when it is found that the punishment precludes reform by rehabilitative measures, and prevents self enhancement by further education.

132. The punitive consequences of the action, cannot go beyond the requirements of the case. In this case they do.

An institutional reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, will enable a delinquent student to introspect on errors, express remorse and correct course.

133. Neglect by the universities to create an institutional reform, self development and rehabilitation programme thus places substantial obstacles in the enjoyment of the fundamental right of human dignity under Article 21.

134. The result of the preceding narrative is as follows:-

(i) The impugned action taken by the university, against the petitioner is violative of the fundamental right of human dignity of the petitioner, guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, as it fails to consider his susceptibility to reform, and does not enable the petitioner to undergo a reform and self development process to redeem himself.

(ii) The statutory omission of reform measures, is an inadequacy which renders the university incapable of rectifying the violation made by it. The systemic fault-line is contrary to the mandate of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

(v) Systemic responses : Responsibilities of the State and universities

135. Exercise of judicial power is the prerogative of the courts; but upholding the Constitution is not the monopoly of the courts.

136. To realize the fundamental rights guaranteed under the Constitution and to achieve the goals contemplated under the Preamble, all stakeholders have to play their part and all organs of governance have to perform their obligations. Constitutional ideals will become meaningful only if constitutional values animate the functioning of all institutions of governance. Universities have a special role to play.

137. The State and in this case the universities too, have the obligation to create an enabling environment, (emphasis supplied) where life and life enhancing attributes under Article 21 of the Constitution of India flourish and where constitutional ideals become a reality.

138. The importance of "therapeutic approach" in solving social dysfunctions, the growth in role of the State to give away public recognition in the way they treat their citizens, the evolution of law on the subject, and the contribution of universities were analyzed by Francis Fukuyama in his book "Identity". Some of the instructive passages are extracted below:

"The therapeutic turn in the popular culture of advanced liberal democracies such as the United States was inevitably reflected in its politics, and in an evolving understanding of the role of the state. In the classical liberalism of the nineteenth century, the state was held responsible for protecting basic rights such as freedom speech and association, for upholding a rule of law, and for providing essential public services such as police, roads, and education. The government "recognized" its citizens by granting them individual rights, but the state was not seen as responsible for making each individual feel better about himself or herself."

"Under the therapeutic method, however, an individual's happiness depends on his or her self-esteem, and self-esteem is a by-product of public recognition. Governments are readily able to give away public recognition in the way that they talk about and treat their citizens, so modern liberal societies naturally and perhaps inevitably began to take on the responsibility for raising the self-esteem of each and every one of their citizens".

"Therapeutic services came to be deeply embedded in social policy, not just in California but throughout the United States and in other liberal democracies. States began to offer psychological counseling and other mental health services, and schools began to incorporate therapeutic insights into the way that they taught children."

"In the early twentieth century, social dysfunctions such as delinquency or teen pregnancy were seen as deviant behaviour that needed to be dealt with punitively, often through the criminal justice system".

"But with the rise of therapeutic approaches by mid century, they were increasingly seen as social pathologies that needed to be treated through counseling and psychiatric intervention".

"The 1956 amendments to the Social Security Act allowed for federal reimbursements of a range of therapeutic services to strengthen family life and self-support."

"The therapeutic state metastasized across a wide number of institutions, including a large non-profit sector that by the 1990s had become the delivery vehicle for state-funded social services".

"Universities found themselves at the forefront of the therapeutic revolution."

(emphasis supplied)

139. These special needs of citizens have to be addressed by State action, and also through judicial interventions in a nuanced manner, and in a larger perspective. Exclusive reliance on coercive powers of the law, shall be inadequate and an unsatisfactory way of dealing with the problem. The therapeutic jurisprudence draws heavily from concept of human dignity and self worth for its philosophical underpinning.

140. Disciplinary action should also be supported by reformative philosophy. Reformative philosophy does not undermine the deterrent approach.

141. The statutory regime imposes punishment for delinquent acts. The reform programme will address the cause of delinquency itself. Framing the approach to discipline as a choice between punishment or reform is misleading. A just corrective system needs both. Both approaches complement each other and can be pursued simultaneously. Deterrent aspect may also be reinforced, by making grant of the degree contingent upon successful completion of the reform programme.

142. The ordinances providing for punishments for deviant conduct need to be duly supported by a legal framework for structured reform, self development and rehabilitation programmes. This environment will accord social recognition to the need for reform of delinquent students. The degrading effect of punishment will be ameliorated. Dialogue will end isolation, reform will reinstate self worth and education will enhance self esteem.

143. Structured reform, self development and rehabilitation programmes and therapeutic support, within a legal framework, will create an enabling environment (emphasis supplied) in the universities, to realize the fundamental right of human dignity, flowing from Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

L. Reform, Self Development & Rehabilitation

(i) Role of universities in achieving behavioral change

"You must be the change you wish to see in the world"

~Mahatma Gandhi

144. Non violence as a philosophy of thought, and a creed of conduct, was developed in India on a scale wider than elsewhere. From the Buddha to Ashoka and the Mahatma, behavioral change in adopting non violence as a way of life, at the national scale was greatly accomplished in India.

145. The response of the Indian civilization, to the challenges of communal hatred and communal otherness, was profound and without parallel. The unique response of the Indian society was fashioned by the universal philosophy of the Indian civilization; of affirming the unity of the human race, of embracing diversity, of respecting dissent, and creating a harmonious dialogue of faiths. The lives and teachings of saints and thinkers like Guru Nanak, Kabir, Vivekananda, Tagore and Mahatma Gandhi, bear testimony to this composite culture.

146. For each generation to produce such individuals of excellence is an exorbitant demand. Today behavioral change is achieved in a different manner, albeit more incrementally and less dramatically. Institutions like universities have a critical role to play. Universities have an obligation to the society and the individual. The universities have an irrevocable compact, and an organic connect with the society.

147. University is a paternal institution. By the act of suspension or debarment of a delinquent student, the university abandons its ward. The university has solved its problem, but the society has one at its hands. The downstream effects of the punishments, have not been considered by the respondents. Clearly there are direct costs to the society as well. There are no other institutions of equal standing, to engage with the youth, deal with the discontent or aberration, and channelize youthful energies.

148. The role of the University does not end in punishing perpetrators of violence. It begins with the identification of the causes of violence, communal hatred, and other forms of deviant conduct. Thereafter the responsibility to achieve behavioral change commences. The fruit of knowledge imparted by the universities lies in the manifestation of human values in the human personality and expression of humanity in human conduct. Knowledge which does not change human behaviour in this manner is futile.

(ii) Imbibing Constitutional values and purging communal hatred

149. The Indian civilizational ethos and the Indian constitutional values are congruent. The Supreme Court distilled the essence of Indian values, when it emphasised "our tradition teaches tolerance, our philosophy preaches tolerance and our Constitution practises tolerance; let us not dilute it" while upholding the religious rights of Jehovah's witnesses in Bijoe Emmanuel and others vs. State of Kerala and others, reported at (1986) 3 SCC 615.

150. Universities have to protect the space for open dialogue, respectful engagement and reasoned debate. Universities need to ensure that the space for constitutional values, is not encroached by communal hatred.

151. The universities have the responsibility, to preserve this heritage, and the obligation to nurture these constitutional values. University experience has to inculcate these values in the students.

152. The universities may consider holding seminars, workshops, heritage festivals, cultural festivals, literature festivals, and encourage other activities to achieve this end. This has to be a part of the larger programme of value creation and self development.

(iii) Present discontents of students and solutions

153. The preceding discussion shows how a reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, will create an enabling environment, for realization of the fundamental rights of the individual under Article 21. How such programme, will yield tangible benefits for the society, will now be examined.

154. The paradox of the digital age is a plethora of devices and a dilution of dialogue, the substitution of conversation by chatter. There is the ever present danger of growth of knowledge and diminution of thought. The young are empowered by technology, but made restless by the void in values, and lack of direction.

155. The dilemmas of the digital age were acutely summed up by Yuval Noah Harari in his profound and acclaimed work "Homo Deus":

"Today our knowledge is increasing at breakneck speed, and theoretically we should understand the world better and better. But the very opposite is happening. Our new-found knowledge leads to faster economic, social and political changes; in an attempt to understand what is happening, we accelerate the accumulation of knowledge, which leads only to faster and greater upheavals. Consequently we are less and less able to make sense of the present or forecast the future."

156. In this situation lack of avenues of engagement, absence of a structured reform, self development and therapeutic support system, leaves the students with little options. The choices available in the society, to satisfy their need for belonging, to recover self esteem, and to channelize youthful energies are not very encouraging.

157. Re-establishing meaningful dialogue, recreating an environment of fruitful conversation, and making empathetic engagement are some of the present challenges. The responsibility of reaching out and engaging with the students, and increasing quality interface with them, lies with the universities and the teachers.

158. These obligations can be accomplished by a meticulously created reform/self development programme and high quality of academic leadership within a comprehensive legal framework.

159. Universities are a microcosm of the society. They are laboratories of social change, and also agents of social transformation.

160. The manner in which the universities deal, with aberrations of violence other forms of deviant conduct, and deficit of values in students, has repercussions for the society at large. The divergent pulls of primordial instincts of hate and violence, against a citizen's duties in a nation ruled by law can best be managed by universities.

161. The universities are uniquely placed to deal with these issues. The universities have the intellectual capital, institutional framework and moral leadership, which puts them in the front rank of institutions to effect such change. The environment in the University should encourage and engender reflective actions instead of automatic choices.

162. The reform/self development and rehabilitation programme, will give an individual student correct direction in life, and prevent one from drifting away. The student will be anchored in constitutional values, and will not be led astray by social evils. The support and aid by the university will give one a sense of ownership and belonging. No harvest is richer for a nation, than citizens empowered by a constitutional value system.

163. The high pedestal at which teachers are placed in Indian traditions and thoughts, was recalled to explain the current role of teachers in Indian society, by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Avinash Nagra Vs. Navodaya Vidyalaya Samiti and Others, reported at (1997) 2 SCC 534. The relevant extracts were succinctly summed up by a Division Bench of this Court, in the case of Devarsh Nath Gupta Vs. State of U.P.

and Others, reported at 2019(6) ADJ 296 (DB):

"22. Special status of teacher has been reminded by Court in Avinash Nagra vs. Navodaya Vidyalaya Samiti and others (1997) 2 SCC 534. Quoting Father of the Nation, Court said that a teacher cannot be without character. If he lacks it, he will be like salt without its savour. A teacher must touch the hearts of his students. Boys imbibe more from the teacher's own life than they do from books. If teachers impart all the knowledge in the world to their students but do not inculcate truth and purity amongst them, they will have betrayed them. Quoting Shri Aurobindo, Court said that it is the teacher's province to hold aloft the torch, to insist at all times and at all places that this nation of ours was founded on idealism and that whatever may be the prevailing tendencies of the times, our children shall learn to live among the sun-lit peaks. Court also referred Dr. S. Radhakrishanan saying that we, in our country, look upon teacher as gurus or, as acharyas. An Acharya is one whose achar or conduct is exemplary. He must be an example of Sadachar or good conduct. He must inspire the pupils who are entrusted to his care with love of virtue and goodness. The ideal of a true teacher is "andhakaraniridhata gurur itya bhidhiyate" (Andhakar is not merely intellectual ignorance, but is also spiritual blindness). He, who is able to remove that kind of spiritual blindness, is called a 'guru'. Swami Vivekananda was also quoted saying that student should live from his very boyhood with one whose character is a blazing fire and should have before him a living example of the highest teaching. In our country, the imparting of knowledge has always been through men of renunciation. The charge of imparting knowledge should again fall upon the shoulder of Tyagis."

164. In Avinash Nagra (supra), the obligations of teachers to transform students into responsible citizens, and inculcate the value system of the Indian Constitution, was stated thus:

"...The State has taken care of service conditions of the teacher and he owed dual fundamental duties to himself and to the society. As a member of the noble teaching profession and a citizen of India he should always be willing, self-disciplined, dedicated with integrity to remain ever a learner of knowledge, intelligently to articulate and communicate and imbibe in his students, as social duty, to impart education, to bring them up with discipline, inculcate to abjure violence and to develop scientific temper with a spirit of enquiry and reform constantly to rise to higher levels in any walk of life nurturing Constitutional ideals enshrined in Article 51A so as to make the students responsible citizens of the country. Thus the teacher either individually or collectively as a community of teachers, should regenerate this dedication with a bent of spiritualism in broader perspective of the Constitutionalism with secular ideologies enshrined in the Constitution as an arm of the State to establish egalitarian social order under the rule of law. Therefore, when the society has given such a pedestal, the conduct, character, ability and disposition of a teacher should be to transform the student into a disciplined citizen, inquisitive to learn, intellectual to pursue in any walk of life with dedication, discipline and devotion with an inquiring mind but not with blind customary beliefs....."

165. The students entering universities embark on a new phase in their lives. Many are often removed from their comfort zone, and the secure environment of their homes, to face the challenges of independent life. At times these new challenges can be intimidating, and the uncertainties can create apprehensions, in the minds of the young adults.

166. Some students are unmoored in this trying phase of life and change of circumstances. Ragging of juniors in institutions of higher learning and other evils make the situations worse for freshers. Such students especially girls students in our country, need full institutional support to face these challenges.

167. It is the responsibility of the universities and the institutions of higher learning to create requisite environment of sensitizing the senior students and supporting the freshers in every possible manner.

168. A programme for self development implemented in a proactive manner shall foster constitutional values among students. Students need to realize the value of dissent in a democracy, but also have to understand the manner of dissent in a society ruled by law.

169. This process also requires initiation of engagement with the students and improving the quality of interface between the teachers and the taught. Educating the educators in this regard has to be a part of any such programme. Workshops have to be held and other methods have to be explored, to cultivate constitutional values in students and achieve behavioral change.

170. These are the preventive measures to address the issues of indiscipline, deficit in values and deviant behaviour in all institutions of higher learning.

171. The preventive measures preclude the occurrence of deviant behaviour. The post facto rehabilitation measures prevent recurrence of deviant behaviour. Both have to be integrated into one conjoint system of value creation, in the universities and institutions of higher learning.

172. Structured reform/self development programmes run by universities, can be catalysts for inducing behavioral change, and inculcating a constitutional value system in students. A successful reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, can convert a possible danger into a real asset for the society.

(iv) Creation of Reform, Self Development & Rehabilitation Programmes

173. Many branches of knowledge in modern times are devoted to the study of human psychology, social behaviour and behavioural change. Psychology, Psychiatry, Sociology, Anthropology and Behavioral Economics, are some fields dedicated to gaining insights into human behaviour and inducing behavioural change.

174. Works of the Nobel prize winning economist Richard Thaler deserve special mention. The methodology of

"nudges", in creating behavioral change has been gaining acceptability. The organization "Nudge" in Lebanon, has done noteworthy work with refugee children, and on environmental protection.

175. The Behavioral Insights Teams sometimes called "Nudge Units", are also existing in many nations including Australia, Canada, Germany, Qatar, the United Arab Emirates, Japan, the United States, and the United Kingdom. The Economic Survey released by India's Finance Ministry in July, 2019 has concluded with the clear recommendations that "the proposal to set up a behavioral economics unit in the NITI Ayog must be immediately activated". The report further noticed that the unit should work with State Governments, helping them to make their programme more effective, and informing them of the potential value of Behavioural Insights.

176. Ancient branches of knowledge and wellness like yoga, meditation, vipassana and so on may prove to be rich resources to benefit from.

177. Many scientific researches have confirmed the efficacy of these ancient systems of human wellness. These branches of knowledge have to be approached with a scientific and an open academic mindset. Personal beliefs have to be respected at all times. There can be no imposition of any system, which is resisted on grounds of faith or beliefs; in which cases other options may be given.

178. Socially useful work like planting and taking care of trees, and flora may be a part of the programme. Sports and sporting activities also go a long way in creating integrating social values, and enhancing emotional intelligence. Teaching needy children, serving the sick, and other forms of service to the society are options which may be explored. Counselling sessions with experts and psychologists could prove useful.

179. Therapeutic solutions to social problems, are being increasingly recognized by social scientists, medical experts, psychologists, and jurists alike.

180. Creation of course content of the reform or self development programme, and manner of its implementation has to be decided by the respondents. This requires wide consultations, deliberations and workshops with academia, varsities, institutions of research, student counsellors, psychologists, psychiatrists, students and other stakeholders.

181. The UGC is a statutory body, and cannot abdicate its responsibilities in this scenario. The functions of the UGC are enumerated in the University Grants Commission Act, 1956. The UGC will play an important role, in the creation and standardization of the course, for reformation and self development, and aid its implementation on an institutional basis.

182. The Government of India in particular, the Ministry of Human Resource Development, also has a contribution to make in the process. The Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, New Delhi, has to provide the necessary support to the University as may be required under law to create and implement the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme. This support would include the creation of necessary infrastructure for implementing the programmes.

183. Both the University Grants Commission and the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, are required to support the universities in their endeavours to create and implement the programmes of reform, self development and rehabilitation.

184. Law enforcement agencies the world over are engaging with the youth, to draw them away from the appeal of extreme ideologies.

185. The prestige enjoyed by universities and the teachers in society, will make the programme credible to concerned individuals, and acceptable to the student community. The key to the efficacy of any structured reform programme, is empathetic engagement and a supportive environment.

186. An impersonal approach and institutional prejudice, can make the programme a non starter. Due sensitization of all stakeholders is required, before implementing the programme.

187. The founding purpose of universities to supply intellectual and moral leadership to the society, and to be at the vanguard of social transformation, will be eminently achieved by effective reformation/therapeutic/self development programmes.

(v) Concerns of universities regarding discipline & restraints during the reformation, self development & rehabilitation programme:

188. The Court is cognizant of concerns of the universities, that a reform programme should not derail university administration, nor should it have a detrimental effect on discipline and good order in the campus. A reform and rehabilitation programme, is not intended to allow a wrongdoer to escape justice.

189. Apprehensions of the universities need to be addressed. The reform programme has to be created and structured and implemented in a manner that it does not adversely impact the good order and discipline in the university campus.

190. The start of reform programme does not inevitably mean a free access to, or unconditional reinstatement of a delinquent student into the university campus. In cases of indiscipline where presence of individuals poses a threat of breakdown of order in the university campus, a decision can be made only by the university. Even when such students undergo a reform programme, and the students are pursuing their academic studies, the university may impose restraints it deems fit.

191. To obviate possibilities of disruption in the academic atmosphere, various measures of graduated restrictions may be imposed on a case to case basis. These restraints may include minute monitoring of movements in campus, restricting movements and contact, an employee escort till the student is in the campus, alteration of class schedules and timings. Such lighter restrictions could continue, while undergoing reform programmes along with the academic course.

192. More stringent measures in aggravated cases, may include a campus ban, with on-line classes and home schooling. Transfer to constituent colleges or other universities from a pool of universities, or setting up separate premises are among the options. In these cases entry to the specific university campus may be barred, even as the reform programme is underway, and the student is prosecuting his academic course.

193. These are some illustrative instances, of restraints which may be imposed by the universities.

M. Proportionality & Punishment

194. The controversy has to be seen from another critical legal perspective. The doctrine of proportionality is an established ground of judicial review in the Indian Constitutional jurisprudence.

195. Aharon Barak, former President of Supreme Court of Israel in his book "Proportionality" thus defines the rules of the doctrine of proportionality, "According to the four components of proportionality a limitation of constitutional right will be permissible if, (1) It is designated for a proper purpose, (2) The measures undertaken to effectuate such a limitation are rationally connected to the fulfillment of that purpose, (3) The measures undertaken are necessary and in that there are alternative measures that may similarly achieve that same purpose with a lesser degree of limitation and finally; (4) Their needs to be a proper relation "proportionality strict senso and balance" between the importance of achieving the proper purpose and social importance of preventing the limitation on the constitutional right."

196. The concept of proportionality essentially visualizes, a graduated response to the nature of the misconduct by a delinquent student. The purpose of the institution, its role in the society and its obligations to the nation, provide the setting for adjudication of the issue of proportionality.

197. Proportionality first came to be applied in the context of punishments imposed for misconduct in service jurisprudence. The necessity of proportional punishment, in cases of misconduct by students is more strongly needed. Hence action of the respondent-University, is liable to be tested on the anvil of disproportionality.

198. The "doctrine of proportionality" was introduced, and embedded in the administrative law of our country, by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ranjit Thakur Versus Union of India, reported at (1987) 4 SCC 611. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ranjit Thakur held thus:

"Judicial review generally speaking, is not directed against a decision, but is directed against the "decision making process". The question of the choice and quantum of punishment is within the jurisdiction and discretion of the Court-Martial. But the sentence has to suit the offence and the offender. It should not be vindictive or unduly harsh. It should not be so disproportionate to the offence as to shock the conscience and amount in itself to conclusive evidence of bias. The doctrine of proportionality, as part of the concept of judicial review, would ensure that even on an aspect which is, otherwise, within the exclusive province of the Court-Martial, if the decision of the Court even as to sentence is an outrageous defiance of logic, then the sentence would not be immune from correction. Irrationality and perversity are recognised grounds of judicial review. "

199. The essence of proportionality is that, the competent authority while imposing a punishment upon a delinquent student, has to co-relate and balance the imperatives of institutional discipline with the demands of individual rights. Too light a punishment will not be conducive to institutional discipline. Too harsh a punishment will not be consistent with norms of justice.

200. The enquiry into the four components of proportionality, as elucidated by Justice Aharon Barak in his book "Proportionality" has been made in the preceding part of the judgment. The purpose and obligations of universities, have also received consideration, in the earlier part of the narrative.

201. The measures undertaken against the petitioner, are not rationally connected to the fulfillment of the purpose sought to be achieved. The proper and designated purpose of a punishment in a university, has to include reform of the student, not mere imposition of penalty. Clearly there are alternative reformative measures, that can achieve the same purpose, with a lesser degree of curtailment of the students rights.

202. The action taken against the petitioner, does not achieve the purpose, and social importance of the reform and rehabilitation of the delinquent student. These aspects need consideration by the respondents.

N. Conclusions and Reliefs

203. I see merit in the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner that without prejudice to his rights to establish his innocence before the University authorities, the future prospects of the petitioner may also be given due weightage. The petitioner has submitted a contrite apology before the Court (without prejudice to his defence) and also makes a prayer for being given a chance to atone his misconduct, reform himself and redeem his reputation.

204. Charges of the misconduct, and the material before this Court amply demonstrate that the petitioner is susceptible to reform. The material in the record and submissions of the counsels, underscore the urgent requirement of a reform, self development and rehabilitation programme in the University.

205. The acts of violence (if provided) may warrant disciplinary action to maintain discipline in the campus. But the facts of the case, also require reformative measures to protect the future of the petitioner.

206. In these circumstances, the University cannot deny the petitioner, the freedom to pursue his academic courses of his choice in the University.

207. However, in the facts of the instant case and the material in the records, the reinstatement of the petitioner in the LLM course shall happen in the manner and the time frame provided in the final directions.

208. These orders shall not affect the ongoing proceedings against the petitioner, or his right to pursue his remedies before the respondent University.

209. It is noteworthy that the delay in the final decision is due to the failure of the University to conclude the disciplinary proceedings expeditiously. The disciplinary proceedings cannot continue interminably for that would mean that the petitioner shall remain suspended indefinitely. This situation would cause a miscarriage of justice.

210. Since the enquiry has been almost completed, this Court is not going into the issue of validity of the suspension order at this stage. However, in case the directions to complete the enquiry are not complied within the stipulated time period, it shall be open to the petitioner to file a fresh writ petition.

211. In these facts, this Court is compelled to issue directions in the interest of justice to safeguard the future of the petitioner and also protect the rights of the University to conduct the disciplinary proceedings and addresses its concerns regarding good order and discipline in the University.

212. The issue relating to creation of reform, self development and rehabilitation programmes in the University was heard as a common issue in various writ petitions. The Secretary, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Union of India, New Delhi and the Chairman, University Grants Commission, New Delhi, were also parties in the leading two writ petitions, namely, Writ C No. 13214 of 2019 (Anant Narayan Mishra Vs. The Union of India and Others) and Writ C No. 26755 of 2019 (Mohammad Ghayas Vs. State of U.P. and Others). All connected writ petitions were heard together.

213. The directions issued to the Secretary, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Union of India, New Delhi and the Chairman, University Grants Commission, New Delhi, in the leading two writ petitions namely Writ C No. 13214 of 2019 (Anant Narayan Mishra Vs. The Union of India and Others) and Writ C No. 26755 of 2019 (Mohammad Ghayas Vs. State of U.P. and Others) being of a general nature, shall be part of all connected writ petitions including the instant writ petition.

214. The matter is remitted to the respondents.

215. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the respective respondents to execute the following directions :

I. The respondent University is directed to conclude the enquiry proceedings against the petitioner and take a final decision in the matter within a period of one month from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order;

I(i) In the event there is further delay in conclusion of the disciplinary proceedings, the petitioner may move an application before the University authorities for being provisionally permitted to continue his studies. In case, such application is made, the respondent University shall decide the same within a period of one month to ensure that the petitioner does not face any further academic loss due to the delay on the part of the respondent University;

I(ii) This direction is without prejudice to the right of the petitioner to benefit from the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme.

II. The University shall create a reform, self development and rehabilitation programme for students accused of misconduct and against whom disciplinary action or any action to deny facilities of the University is proposed or taken;

III. The reform, self development and rehabilitation programme should be created after wide consultations and workshops with institutions of higher learning and research, universities, experts, student counsellors/psychologists, psychiatrists, students and other stakeholders;

IV. University Grants Commission will aid the above process by providing the necessary support to the University to create, standardize and effectuate the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme in the university;

V. The Secretary, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, New Delhi, shall also provide the necessary support to create infrastructure in the University to effectuate the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme in the University, in light of this judgment and as per law;

VI. The reform, self development and rehabilitation programmes shall be processed as per law and integrated into the existing legal/statutory framework of the University dealing with deviant conduct and punishments;

VII. In case the petitioner is not reinstated after the disciplinary enquiry, the petitioner shall be given the benefit of the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme. After the creation of the self development and rehabilitation programme, the petitioner shall be reinstated as a student and permitted to continue his studies along with the said programme;

VIII. Attendance of the petitioner in the said programme shall be compulsory. An evaluation sheet of the petitioner's performance in the programme shall also be prepared;

IX. Once the reform, self development and rehabilitation programme is set in motion, all endeavours shall be made by the University to ensure that loss of academic time is not caused to the petitioner;

X. The exercise shall be completed, preferably, within six months, but not later than 12 months. At all times the respondents keeping in mind the best interests of the students and the society, shall make all efforts to expedite the compliance of the directions;

XI. It shall be open to the respondents to create a scheme for reform, self development and rehabilitation for convicts in criminal cases who wish to pursue further higher studies in the respondent University;

XII. The counsels for the respondents shall provide certified copy of this judgment along with a copy of the judgment of this Court rendered in Writ C No. 13214 of 2019 (Anant Narayan Mishra Vs. The Union of India and Others) to the Vice Chancellor, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh; the Secretary, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Union of India, New Delhi and the Chairman, University Grants Commission, New Delhi, for necessary compliances.

216. The writ petition is finally disposed of.

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Jamal Ahmad Khan

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Shivam Yadav

Chapter IV, rule 18 of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952- Affidavit sworn by the father of the Petitioner-but at relevant place-name of Petitioner shown-clear prohibition in Rules, 1952-correction requires in affidavit-not a matter of verification-after Affidavit sworn-no correction-W.P. dismissed with liberty to file fresh petition.

Cases cited:

1. Dwarka Nath Vs. Income Tax Officer and another, AIR 1966 Supreme Court, 81

(Delivered by Hon'ble Piyush Agrawal, J.)

1. The petitioner has filed the present writ petition seeking mandamus directing to respondent-2 to take appropriate steps on the complaint made by the petitioner on 10.4.2019 alleging that respondent-4 is engaged in commercial activity in the residential area.

2. Sri Shivam Yadav, learned counsel for the respondent has pointed out that affidavit filed in support of the writ petition is being sworn by father of the petitioner but at the relevant place of affidavit, name of the petitioner has been shown. There is defect in the affidavit filed in support of the writ petition. Therefore, the present writ petition is not maintainable.

3. On 24.10.2019, the counsel for the petitioner was granted time to move an appropriate application for correcting the affidavit. Learned counsel for the petitioner has moved an application to amend the said defect.

4. However, our attention has been drawn to Chapter IV, Rule 18 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952; wherein, it is provided that no interlineations, alternations or erasures in an affidavit shall be permitted after swearing has been done.

5. Chapter IV, Rule 18 of Allahabad High Court Rules reads thus:-

"18. Correction in affidavit:- All interlineations, alterations or erasures in an affidavit shall be initialled by the person swearing it and the person before whom it is sworn. Such interlineations, alterations or erasures shall be made in such manner as not to obliterate or render it impossible or difficult to read the original matter. In case, such matter has been obliterated so as to make it impossible or difficult to read it, it shall be re-written on the margin and initialled by the person before whom the affidavit is worn. No interlineation, alteration or erasure shall be made in an affidavit after it has been sworn"

6. In Dwarka Nath Vs. Income Tax Officer and another, AIR 1966 Supreme Court, 81, one of the question which comes for consideration before the Supreme Court was that the order of Commissioner Income Tax under Section 33 A of the Act was challenged under Article 226 of the Constitution, in which this Court has dismissed the writ petition on the ground that affidavit was defective and it was held that some of the paragraphs were based on perusal of the record and some paragraphs were on deponent's own knowledge. The Supreme Court held that if affidavit was defective in any manner, the High Court instead of dismissing the petition, should have given the appellant a reasonable opportunity to file a better affidavit. The relevant part of the judgement reads as under:-

"9.The High Court mainly dismissed the writ petition on the ground that the affidavit filed in support of the writ petition was highly unsatisfactory and that on the basis of such an affidavit it was not possible to entertain the petition. In exercise of the powers conferred by Article 225 of the constitution and of other powers enabling it in that behalf of the High Court of Allahabad framed the Rules of Court. Chapter XXII thereof deals with the procedure to be followed in respect of proceeding under Article 226 of the constitution other than a writ in the nature of habeas corpus. The relevant rule is sub-rule (2) of rule 1 of Chapter XXII, which reads :

The application shall set out concisely in numbered paragraphs the facts upon which the applicant relies and the grounds upon which the court is asked to issue a direction, order or writ and shall conclude with a prayer stating clearly, so far as circumstances permit, the exact nature of the relief sought. The application shall be accompanied by an affidavit or affidavits in proof of the facts referred to in the application. Such affidavit or affidavits shall be restricted to matters which are within the deponent's own knowledge."

7. We have heard the learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Anup Trivedi, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Abhinav Gaur for respondent- 4, Sri Shivam Yadav, learned counsel for the Development Authority and learned Standing Counsel for the State - respondents.

8. We have carefully perused the judgement of Supreme Court in Dwarka Nath (supra). The said extract shows that the Court has considered the sub rule 2 of Rule 1 of Chapter XXII of Allahabad High Court Rules, which deals with the procedure of writ under Article 226 and 227 of the Constitution. In that case, the dispute was with regard to the verification clause whether the amendment was made on the basis of personal knowledge or on the basis of perusal of record. Supreme Court has quoted the entire affidavit in its judgement.

9. In the present case, the matter is in respect of defective affidavit as the deponent's name has wrongly shown in the affidavit. This defect in the affidavit has referable to Chapter IV, which deals with the affidavits and oath commissioners. Chapter IV, Rule 18 deals with the corrections of the affidavit, which is extracted above. A perusal of Rule 18 shows that it clearly provide that no interlineation, alteration or erasure shall be made in an affidavit after it has been sworn.

10. In our view, the nature of mistake in the affidavit requires correction in the affidavit. It was not a matter of verification of the affidavit. Hence, in view of clear prohibition that after the affidavit sworn, it cannot be corrected. In the present case, Rule 18 of Chapter IV is attracted. Accordingly no correction is permissible, if there is no defect in the affidavit. But as held by Supreme Court in Dwarka Nath (supra) a defect in verification clause whether an affidavit has been sworn on the basis of personal knowledge or on perusal of document, it can be corrected by giving opportunity to the petitioner to rectify the mistake.

11. In view of the said fact, the learned counsel for the petitioner seeks the leave of this Court to withdraw this writ petition to file better affidavit.

12. The leave is granted.

13. The writ petition is dismissed with the liberty to file a fresh writ petition.

Application for retail outlet of Hindustan Petroleum Corporation -rejected-lease agreement does not contain any sub lease clause-apart from original lessor-two other persons were co-sharers in the said land-this facts not disclosed-this corretion not permissible after submission of form-impugned order perfect-W.P. dismissed.

Cases Cited-

1. Bharat Petroleum Corporation Ltd. and others Vs. Swapnil Singh, Civil Appeal no.69286929/2015

2. Smt. Sunita Gupta Vs. Union of India and others reported in 2009 (7) ADJ 534 (DB)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prakash Padia, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner.

2. Sri R. K. Jaiswal learned counsel has accepted notice on behalf of respondent no. 1 and Sri Vikas Budhwar, learned counsel has put his appearance on behalf of respondent nos. 2 and 3.

3. Sri Ghanshyam, Advocate, has filed an application for impleadment on behalf of newly added respondent Smt. Jyoti Yadav w/o Sri Prashant Kumar Yadav.

4. The petitioner has preferred the present writ petition challenging the order dated 09.07.2016 passed by the Chief Regional Manager, Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited, 85/4, Ispat Bhawan 3rd Floor, Sanjay Place, Agra/respondent no. 3 with further prayer to issue a mandamus commanding the respondents, specially respondent no. 3 to include the application of the petitioner in the forthcoming lottery draw for selection of retail outlet of Hindustan Petroleum Corporation for the location in question namely Faizabad Shamshabad Road KM. Stone between 2 and 4 District Farrukhabad under the OBC category.

5. Facts in brief as contained in the writ petition are that an advertisement was published by the respondent corporation on 13.10.2014 inviting applications from interested persons in respect of grant of retail outlet distributorship for various locations including the location in question.

6. It is contended in the writ petition that the petitioner is OBC category candidate. He applied on a prescribed form for the retail outlet in question. In this regard the petitioner had taken land on lease for a period of 30 years from one of the co-sharer of Khata No.356, Khasra No.202 area 0.9590 hectare situated in Village Khanpur, Pargana-shamshad, Tehsil Kayamganj, District Farrukhabad.

7. The application form submitted by the petitioner was duly examined by the respondent no.3/Chief Regional Manager, Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd.85/4, Ispat Bhawan, 3rd Floor, Sanjay Place, Agra, and he informed the petitioner that the candidatures of the petitioner was not found eligible for retail outlet dealership due to following reasons :-

a. The Khasra/khatauni/gata no. is not mentioned in the lease deed of the offered land.

b. The lease agreement for the offered land does not contain sublease clause, on the contrary sub-lease is barred.

8. In the aforesaid letter it is further stated that if the petitioner has any grievance he can make an application/representation within 10 days from the date of the letter. It is further contended that the petitioner has submitted his representation on 4.6.2016. Along with the said representation the petitioner submitted the extract of Khatauni no.18020901052 of Khata No.356, Khasra No.202 area 0.9590 hectare situated in Village Khanpur, Pargana-shamshad, Tehsil Kayamganj, District Farrukhabad in the name of Smt. Munni Devi, Revenue Map of the said khata and land drawing map of proposed outlet. Apart from the same petitioner also submitted a supplementary/corrigendum of lease deed executed by Smt. Munni Devi in favour of petitioner, which was registered on 4.6.2016 in the office of Sub Registrar, Kayamganj.

9. In view of the aforesaid it is argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner has already removed all the shortcoming, which were very minor in nature and as such petitioner became entitled for consideration of his application form for the grant of retail outlet in question.

10. The representation submitted by the petitioner was rejected by the respondent no.3 vide its order dated 09.7.2016. By the aforesaid order, the petitioner was informed that since he does not fulfill the norms for providing land in accordance with the Point No.4(vi) (kha) of the Dealer Selection Guidelines thus his application cannot be accepted. The order dated 9.7.2016 passed by the respondent no.3 is under challenge in the present writ petition.

11. It is argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that in response to the letter dated 26.5.2016 by which certain shortcomings were informed to the petitioner were removed by him while submitting certain papers and documents along-with his representation dated 4.6.2016. In view of the aforesaid it is argued that since the shortcomings pointed out by the respondent no.3 had already been removed, the order dated 9.7.2016 passed by him is absolutely arbitrary in nature and the same is liable to be set aside. It is further argued that by way of supplementary/corrigendum of lease dated 4.6.2016 all the shortcomings in land were removed by the petitioner.

12. In the said affidavit it is stated that total four applications were submitted for the aforesaid location, out of which three were rejected including the application form of the present petitioner at the time of scrutiny itself. In view of the aforesaid the only applicant was left to be considered for the grant of retail outlet dealership is Smt. Jyoti Yadav, the proposed applicant for impleadment.

13. It is argued by Sri Vikas Budhwar, learned counsel for the respondent Hindustan Petroleum Corporation that along-with the application form petitioner has submitted a lease deed dated 31.10.2014. From perusal of the same it is clear that there is neither any reference to gata number sought to be leased out nor any condition with respect to sub lease in favour of respondent corporation. During the course of scrutiny certain discrepancies were found in the application form of the petitioner as such a letter dated 26.5.2016 was written by the respondent no.3 to the petitioner. In response to the aforesaid letter petitioner submitted his representation dated 4.6.2016. Along-with the aforesaid representation the petitioner has appended a correction deed dated 4.6.2016 making correction in the lease deed dated 31.10.2014. It is further argued that vide correction deed dated 4.6.2016 petitioner has sought correction in the lease deed dated 31.10.2014 to the effect that gata no.202 was sought to be mentioned and for the first time provision of sub lease in favour of respondent corporation was made, copy of the correction deed dated 4.6.2016 is appended as annexure 3 to the counter affidavit. It is further argued by Sri Vikas Budhwar that after considering the representation of the petitioner, the corporation authorities passed the order dated 09.7.2016 whereby the claim set up by the petitioner was found "unsuitable" on the ground that in view of express condition of Clause 14-H (Viii) no alteration/addition/deletion is permissible after submission of the application form. It is further argued that the procedure and manner according to which selection ought to be conducted in respect of retail outlet is set out in the brochure for the selection of "Dealer for Regular and Rural Retail Outlet". The relevant clause being clause-4(vi) is reproduced hereinbelow :-

d) The same piece of land cannot be offered by more than one applicant for a particular RO location against an advertisement. In case more than one application is received offering the same piece of land all such applications would be rejected.

e) The selected candidate has to make available the offered land duly developed up to the road level by cutting/filling (as applicable) with good earth/murum layerwise compacted as per standard engineering practice to the satisfaction of the concerned OMC. The selected candidate is also required to provide retaining wall and compound wall of min. height: 1.5 meters designed as per site conditions as per approval of OMC

f) There is no commitment by the Oil Company for taking the offered land from the applicant, if an applicant after selection is unable to provide the land indicated in the application form within a period of 2 months (for Group 1) and 4 months (for Group 2) from the date of Letter of Intent (LOI) Oil Company will have the right to cancel/withdraw the LOI issued in favour of the selected candidate for allotment of dealership'.

14. It is further argued by Sri Vikas Budhwar that in the present case admittedly at the time of submission of application form dated 16.11.2014, though the petitioner mentioned in Clause 9 of his application form khasra and khatauni number 202 and appended the lease deed executed by one Smt. Munni Devi wife of Roshan Lal in favour of petiitoner on 31.10.2014 but in the said lease deed neither the gata number was mentioned nor there was any provision of sub lease as provided under Clause 4 -(Vi-b) of the selection guidelines. Apart from the same petitioner in the lease deed dated 31.10.2014 depicted himself to be the sole and exclusive owner of the land which was sought to be leased out. However, subsequently after rejection of his candidature on 26.5.2016 petitioner submitted a representation dated 4.6.2016 making correction in the lease deed dated 31.7.2014 with respect to khasra no.202 whereby besides lessor being Smt. Munni Devi names of two persons namely Jaiveer and Havaldar was also mentioned as co-owners. The aforesaid facts were not disclosed by the petitioner at the time of submission of his form that these persons were co-owners of the land in question. Apart from the same no consent letter from the co-owners was submitted along-with the application form as required under Clause 4 (Vi) of the brochure as quoted above.

15. Sri Vikash Budhwar, learned counsel for the respondent-corporation relied the following judgements :-

I. Civil Appeal Nos.6928-6929 of 2015 (Bharat Petroleum Corporation Ltd. and others Vs. Swapnil Singh) decided on September 8, 2015.

II. Smt. Sunita Gupta Vs. Union of India and others reported in 2009 (7) ADJ 534 (DB).

16. During the course of arguments certain papers and documents were provided by Sri Vikash Budhwar, learned counsel for the respondent corporation, the same are taken on record. It reveals from perusal of the aforesaid papers that the respondent no.4 was issued a letter of intent by the respondent corporation on 29.6.2018, thereafter no objection certificate was also issued on 15.2.2019. It is contended by Sri Vikash Budhwar that after the aforesaid proceedings, a letter of appointment was also issued in favour of the respondent no.4 and the respondent no.4 is at present running the retail outlet.

17. A short counter affidavit was also filed by Sri. R. K. Jaiswal, learned counsel on behalf of respondent no.1/Union of India. In the aforesaid short counter affidavit it is stated that after dismantling of the Administered Pricing Mechanism (APM) in the petroleum section with effect from 1.4.2002, the selection process of dealers/distributors for retail outlets (petrol pumps)/LPG distributorships (cooking gas agencies) is done by the oil marketing companies themselves subject to broad policy guidelines issued by Ministry from time to time relating to matters, like reservation for weaker section, reconstitution, revival of defunct outlets, resitement, and transparency in selection. The public section oil companies enjoy commercial freedom in the matter of marketing/distribution of petroleum products, through their respective networks of retail outlet dealership, LPG distributorships and SKO-LDO dealerships. The oil companies choose their own locations for setting up such dealerships/distributorship, if found viable after feasibility study thereof by the oil companies themselves. The Government has no role in the selection of sites. It may be noted that the answering respondent vide its letter dated 19th August, 2003 has advised certain broad parameters to the oil marketing companies and, thereafter, the companies frame their own guidelines for selection of dealers/distributorships.

18. It is further stated in paragraph 5 of the short counter affidavit that the Ministry of Petroleum & Natural Gas, Government of India has issued letter dated 02nd September, 2005 for pleading before the Hon'ble Courts all over the country to delete the Union of India from the array of respondents, at the time of admission stage itself. The copy of letter dated 2nd September, 2005 is annexed as annexure no.S.C.A.-2 to the short counter affidavit.

19. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

20. With the consent of learned counsel for the parties present writ petition is being disposed of finally at the admission stage.

21. From perusal of the facts as narrated above, it is clear that in terms of the advertisement dated 11.10.2014, an application form was submitted by the petitioner for grant of retail outlet dealership. Since certain discrepancies were found in the application form submitted by the petitioner a letter dated 26.5.2016 was written by the respondent no.3 to the petitioner. A reply dated 4.6.2016 was submitted by the petitioner stating therein that the discrepancies were duly removed. After the aforesaid letter was received in the office of the respondent corporation, the corporation rejected the same vide its order dated 9.7.2016 on the ground that Clause 4 (Vi) (kha) of the guidelines were not fulfilled by the petitioner. It reveals from perusal of the records that while submitting the application form the petitioner has submitted certain papers and documents. Two short comings were pointed out in the application form of the petitioner namely khasra/khatauni number is not mentioned in the lease deed and lease agreement does not contain any sub lease clause. After the aforesaid letter was received by the petitioner he submitted a representation. Along-with representation petitioner appended the correction dated 4.6.2016 making corrections in the lease deed dated 31.10.2014. By the aforesaid corrections the petitioner had sought correction in the lease deed dated 31.10.2014 to the effect that gata no.202 was sought to be mentioned and for the first time provision of sub lease in favour of the respondent corporation was also mentioned. The petitioner tried to remove the discrepancies as pointed out by the corporation vide letter dated 26.5.2016. Apart from the original lessor of the land two other persons namely Jaiveer and Havaldar were also co-sharers in the land. The aforesaid fact was not disclosed at any point of time by the petitioner or by Smt. Munni Devi before respondent corporation. No consent letters of the aforesaid co-sharers were submitted by the petitioner along-with his application form. Apart from the same corrections, which were made by the petitioner in the correction deed were also not liable to be taken into consideration by the respondent corporation due to the fact that these corrections are not permissible after submission of the application form.

22. In the case of Bharat Petroleum Corporation Ltd. (supra) it was held by the Supreme Court that :-

"We have gone through the records of the case along with the assistance of learned counsel for the parties and we find that the brochure read with the application form is absolutely clear in the sense that the applicant must be the owner of specified area of land or must have a registered lease deed of the specified area of land on the date of application. The admitted position (which is also clear from the counter affidavit filed by the respondent in this Court) is that on 13th September, 2011 when the application for allotment was made, the respondent was neither the owner of any land nor had any registered sale deed/lease deed in her name. In fact, the lease deed came into existence only on 20th December, 2012, and that was registered on 21st December, 2012. Clearly, on the date of the application, the respondent was not eligible in terms of the brochure and the application form.

The Culcutta High court has proceeded on the basis of a notarized lease agreement which appears to have been produced by the respondent before the High court, photocopy of the notarized lease agreement has been shown to us and that document is dated 13th September, 2011. Learned counsel for the respondent has relied upon this document to contend that the respondent was eligible as on 13th September, 2011 in terms of the notarized lease agreement.

We are unable to accept this contention of learned counsel for the respondent. The brochure and the application form clearly require the applicant to have a registered lease deed in her name. What is shown to us is a notarized document and admittedly this document, even though it may have been in existence, was formalised into a lease agreement only on 20th December, 2012 and that was registered on 21st December, 2012. The notarized document, therefore, does not advance the case of the respondent any further. Therefore, it is quite clear that the respondent was not eligible on the date of application, i.e., 13th September, 2011.

Under the circumstances, we allow these appeals and set aside the order passed by the Division Bench of the Culcutta High Court. No costs."

23. In the case of Smt. Sunita Gupta (supra) it was held by the Division Bench of this Court that :-

"23. Para 12.1 of guidelines for selection of retail outlet dealers, provides that an application form alongwith relevant documents should be submitted within the time prescribed,no addition/deletion/alteration will be permitted in the application once it is submitted. No additional documents whatsoever will be accepted or considered after the cut-off date of the application. In the present writ petition we have found that the petitioner could not file all required documents alongwith application form. The land proposed for the purpose was found joint ownership of several persons including her husband and no valid and legal partition of the land took place between them. The petitioner's husband was not found the sole owner of the land offered by her for retail outlet dealership. Under these circumstances the respondents were justified in reviewing the decision taken by the selection committee and cancelling the interview and selection of the petitioner.

24. On the basis of above submissions made by learned counsel for parties and their pleadings as well as the documents filed on record. We have found that the respondents have not committed any mistake in not taking into consideration the documents which have been submitted subsequent to last date of submission of the application form, because those documents could not be considered in view of Para 12.1 of guidelines. We have also observed that the respondents have afforded full opportunity to the petitioner of being heard and there is no violation of natural justice. No opportunity appears to have been afforded to the petitioner before cancellation of selection, but in pursuance of the order passed by this Court in writ petition, the respondents have afforded full opportunity to the petitioner of being heard on her representation. The respondents have rightly rejected the representation of the petitioner through detailed and speaking order, which does not suffer from any infirmity, mistake or error, because the husband of the petitioner has not been found exclusive owner and in possession of the land proposed for retail outlet and no legal partition has taken place among all co-sharers as memorandum of alleged partition dated 3.7.1984 is a waste paper having no evidentiary value, which cannot be relied on and referred to in any proceeding.

25. Under these circumstances no principles of natural justice has been violated by the respondents. The petitioner herself concealed the important facts at the time of presenting her application form and interview about the ownership of land and infrastructure facility. Thus the decision has been validly reviewed and selection of the petitioner has been rightly cancelled, which cannot be said to be vitiated in view of any fact and circumstance. The selection of the petitioner does not confer any right to a prospective candidate because no letter of intent has been issued by the respondents in pursuance of the selection and no agreement has been executed by the parties in response to above selection."

24. In view of the facts as stated above, we are of the opinion that the order passed by the respondent no.3 dated 9.7.2016, which is impugned in the present writ petition is absolutely perfect and valid order and does not call for any interference by this Court specially under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

25. The writ petition being devoid of merit is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J.)

1. Heard Sri Tarun Agrawal, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Vikas Budhwar, learned counsel for respondent Corporation.

2. Invoking extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner herein has challenged the order dated 2.11.2019, whereby candidature of the petitioner for the allotment of retail outlet dealership of petroleum products, in connection with advertisement dated 25.11.2018, has been rejected.

3. In narrow compass the facts of the case can be drawn like this that petitioner pursuant to advertisement dated 25.11.2018 issued by Bharat Petroleum Corporation Ltd, namely, respondent no. 1, invited application for allotment of retail outlet dealership of the petroleum product in district Chandauli for allocation at old National Highway No. 2 between Varanasi and Chandauli. The petitioner applied vide application dated 24.12.2018 filling up online application form. Petitioner submitted the documents in respect thereof which included the lease document relating to the land offered by the petitioner falling in Khasra No. 154 with a dimension of 35X35 metres total measuring to 1575 square metres.

4. The piece of land offered by the petitioner vide his application (hereinafter referred to as the Land in question) was obtained by the petitioner under a lease agreement executed and registered on 14/15.12.2018 for a period of 29 years and 11 months by the original tenure-holder Mangla Singh and thus, in view of the detail submitted by the petitioner, petitioner's application was entertained in Group-I category and having been selected in the draw of lots, he became entitled for consideration for allotment of retail outlet dealership.

5. In the meanwhile, it appears that, some complaint was made regarding offer of land by the petitioner to be not a valid offer and consequently a notice was issued to the petitioner by the Territory Manager Retail (Varanasi) on 10.6.2019 asking him to confirm as to whether the land offered by him was already subject matter of lease agreement between the tenure-holder Mangla Singh and one M/S. B.S.C.- C&C-"JV" (hereinafter referred to as original lessee) executed and registered on 20.11.2017 and was in subsistence till 19.11.2019. He was asked to submit reply within ten days.

6. The petitioner did submit a reply explaining away that the land though formed part of the lease agreement between tenure-holder and one original lessee but in view of surrender of land measuring 1925 square meters by the lessee on 15.9.2018 Mangla Prasad the tenure-holder got the right to execute a fresh lease of 1575 square meters out of the surrendered part. The petitioner appended with his reply dated 19.5.2019 the confirmation letter.

7. Having thus, received the reply of the petitioner the Territory Manager enquired from the Deputy Registrar, Sadar, Chandauli as to whether the second lease dated 15.12.2018 was valid in face of the fact that there already existed a lease dated 25.5.2018 in favour of one original lessee and whether the surrender letter amounted to a valid surrender and as to whether on the basis of such letter of surrender a subsequent lease could have been executed. The Deputy Registrar, Chandauli in his reply dated 28.6.2019 declined to answer the questions on the ground that the he does not enjoy any authority under the Registration Act, 1908 to enquire into the validity of written instrument and so far as the letter dated 15.9.2018 issued by the original leessee Satish Kumar in respect of lease deed numbers 53077/2018 and 5282 of 2018 is concerned no legal opinion can be expressed in respect of the legal effect of such letter.

8. It appears that on the same date i.e., 22.6.2019 the Territory Manager also enquired from the original lessee as to whether this letter was issued by Satish Kumar and in reply to that the authorized signatory of original lessee wrote to the Territory Manager that such letter is a valid one to the best of his knowledge and was issued by his office.

9. It appears that considering the reply of the petitioner submitted on 19.6.2019, the reply of the Deputy Registrar and that of Satish Kumar and having visited the site, the Land Evaluation Committee submitted report that the land did not meet the required norms and consequently the candidature of the petitioner was rejected vide order dated 27.7.2019.

10. The order dated 27.7.2019 came to be challenged before this Court vide Writ Petition No. 26050 of 2019 and as the order was absolutely non-speaking except referring to some report of the Land Evaluation Committee which was not discussed in the order and similarly orders were passed by the Corporation in some other matters challenged in a number of writ petitions filed before this Court all were heard and decided together by common judgment dated 13.8.2019 with Writ C No. 24484 of 2019 (Ansar Ali Vs. Union of India and 2 others) quashing the order impugned including the one dated 27.7.2019 (supra). The matter was remitted to the authority to consider afresh by supplying copy of the reports to the respective petitioners inviting their objections and then to decide the same by means of a reasoned and speaking order.

11. In view of the judgment of the High Court dated 13.8.2019 (supra), the respondents issued noticed to the petitioner on 4.10.2019 inviting objection and the petitioner submitted reply on 10.10.2019. Having considered the reply of the petitioner, this time the respondent-Corporation again rejected the candidature of the petitioner by a detailed order dated 2.11.2019 on the ground that in view of Clause-7 of the lease deed dated 25.5.2018 and Section 111(e) and Section 111 (f) of the Transfer of Property Act, the surrender under the letter dated 15.09.2018 would not amount to absolute surrender and consequently the offer of a piece of land would not be one referable to Group-I category and thus the candidature of the petitioner would be liable to be considered under Group-III category. Thus the candidature of the petitioner as such in Group-I category came to be rejected.

12. Assailing the order impugned now, the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner is three fold:-

(A) The lease was validly executed and registered and no one having put it to challenge the title and possessory rights to the extent as provided for under the lease were intact and valid on the date offer was made, for a period of 29 years and 11 months and such being the position on the date of submission of application by the petitioner, the offer of the petitioner was a valid offer of piece of land as defined under Group-A category and, therefore, the respondents were not justified in rejecting the same;

(B) The surrendered part of the lease under the letter dated 15.9.2018 (hereinafter referred to as letter) was a valid surrender in the light of the provision contained under Section 111 (e) and Section 111 (f) of the Transfer of Property Act, 1872 (hereinafter referred to as T.P. Act, /) and the interpretation thereof by the respondent Corporation is errorenous in law;

(C) A mere condition prescribed under the surrender letter as " Just in case there is some emergency space requirement for me and in case the surrender plot remain unused by you, I may use it temporarily" would not make the surrender bad and resultantly the subsequent lease is not invalid so as to reject the candidature of the petitioner in Group-A I category, in other words the argument is that the surrender letter was a valid one per provision contained in Para-7 of the lease deed dated 25.5.2018.

13. Thus advancing the above arguments further, on the argument A, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon Clause 4 (V) of the Guidelines as contained under the Brochure dated 24.11.2018 framed for selection of dealers for Regular and Rural Retail Outlets (for short Brochure). Clause-5 of the Brochure as it defines Groups I, II and III is reproduced hereinunder:

"Group 1: Applicants having suitable piece of land in the advertised location/area either by way of ownership/ long term lease for a period of minimum 19 years 11 months or as advertised by the OMC.

Group 2: Applicants having Firm Offer for a suitable piece of land for purchase or long term lease for a period of minimum 19 years 11 months or as advertised by the OMC.

Group 3: Applicants who have not offered land in the application."

14. The above provision has been quoted to the extent it is necessary for the appreciation of the argument of the petitioner referable to Group-I.

15. It is submitted by the learned counsel that since he had a valid lease agreement qua a of piece of land with a dimension of 35 metres X 45 metres and it being not questioned either by the lessor or by the original lessee who had surrendered that piece of land and since the lease was for a period of 29 years 11 months, a period more than required one, in favour of the petitioner to bring him within the ambit and scope of Group-I. He submits that it is not disputed that the land fell in Khasra 154 and was part of transfer by registered document and that too by a tenure-holder, the mere complaint by a third party would not make the offer of piece of land within Group-I category as bad. So according to him in view of the definition of land provided under Clause 4 (V), the petitioner being eligible candidate his application was rightly entertained and having been selected in draw of lots, he was right in offering the land for allotment of dealership of the petroleum products under the letter dated 7.2.2019.

16. The argument B and C since relate to the issue of surrender and part of surrender of lease rights by the original lessee referable to Section 111 (e) and 111 (f) of the Act, 1882 and the scope of para-7 of the lease deed dated 25.5.2018 both being related to each other the legal argument is that surrender of part of lease rights was valid and so also the subsequent lease in favour of the petitioner. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon various authorities of the High Court and the Supreme Court in support of his argument. He has drawn attention of the Court to Section 111 Sub-sections (e) and (f) Act No. 87 of 1882. For the appreciation of the argument so advanced, the two clauses are reproduced hereunder:

"(e) by express surrender; that is to say, in case the lessee yields up his interest under the lease to the lessor, by mutual agreement between them;

(f) by implied surrender;"

17. It has been argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that a bare reading of Clauses (e) and (f) clearly provide that the legislative intent is to acknowledge surrender of lease rights by act of specific written document or by implied surrender to wit by consent and, therefore, he argues that since Clause-7 of the lease deed prescribes for surrender of lease rights, entitling the lessee to take such an action in the light of the provision as contained in Clause (e) and (f). He contends that if original lessee had written letter, expressing relinquishment of his lease rights in respect of lease land, it would be a valid one.

18. He has placed reliance upon paragraph-27 of the Judgment of Apex Court in the case of H.K. Sharma v.. Ramlal (2019) 4 Supreme Court Cases 153. Paragraph-27 relied upon by the petitioner's counsel,of the judgment is reproduced hereunder:

"27. This Court in ShanMathuradas Manganlal & Co. V Nagappa Shankarappa Malage considerd the scope of Clauses (e) and (f) of Section 111of the TP Act and laid down the following principle in para 19 as under: (SCC P. 665)

"19. A surrender under clauses (e) and (f) of Section 111 of Transfer of Property Act, is an yielding up of the term of the lessee's interest to like a contract by mutual consent on the lessor's acceptance of the act of the lessee. The lessee cannot, therefore, surrender unless the term is vested in him; and the surrender must be to a person in whom the immediate reversion expectant on the term is vested. Implied surrender by operation of law occurs by the creation of a new relationship, or by relinquishment of possession. It the lessee accepts a new lease that in itself is a surrender. Surrender can also implied from the consent of the parties or form such facts as the relinquishment of possession by the lessee and taking over possession by the lessor. Relinquishmement of possession operates as an implied surrender. There must be a taking of possession, not necessarily a physical taking, but something amounting to a virtual taking of possession. Whether this has occurred is a question of fact."

19. In support of his contention he has further relied upon the judgment of Calcutta High Court in the Case of Abdul Majid v. Hari Charan Hlder and others 53 Ind. Cas 17 (MANU/ WB/0200/1917) and has placed reliance on paragraphs 2 and 3, wherein concurrent view has been expressed by two Judges. Paras 2 and 3 run as under:

" 2. It is contended on behalf f the plaintiff appellant that the surrender was not really a surrender, but a sale, because there was consideration, the consideration being the rent for which a decree had been obtained and accrued since the date of suit. It appears to me that there is no reason for saying that it was not a surrender to the landlord; no authority has been shown to us for holding that the surrender must be by instrument registered. For these reasons this appeal must be dismissed with costs.

3. I agree. Under Section 111 of the Transfer of Property Act, a lease of Immovable property determines, by express surrender, that is to say, by the lessee yielding up his interest under the lease to the lessor, by mutual agreement between them. It is found that in this case the lessee did surrender her interest by mutual agreement, and it seems to me that it makes no difference that the mutual agreement was by reason of a consideration that was received from the tenant by the landlord. The Transfer of Property Act does not require a registered document in such cases and no authority has been shown to us in support of this contention."*

20. Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn our attention on para-16 of the judgment in the case of Elias Meyer v. Manoranjan Bagchi and others 22c WN 441 (MANU/ WB/0534/1918). Para 16 of the judgment runs as under:

"16. In this country a surrender or relinquishment does not require to be in writing but can be inferred from the acts of the parties. This is well illustrated by the case of Chundermani Byabhsa v. Shambu Chandra Chukerbutty [1864] W.R. 270, a decision which has never been question in this Court."

21. Reliance has also been placed upon a judgment of Andhra Pradesh High Court in the Case of Konijeti Venkayya and ors v. Thammana Peda Venkata Subbarao and others AIR 1957 AP 619 (MANU/ AP/ 0347/1955). Counsel for the petitioner has vehemently argued that in India lease rights are surrendered orally also and at times even such relinquishment can be inferred from the conduct of the parties. He has tried to distinguish the Indian legal position from English one where the statute requires for surrender to be documented one evidencing the factum of surrender. He has relied upon para-6, 13 and 17 of the judgment (supra) which are reproduced hereinunder:

"6. On a surrender by the lessee, a lease of immovable property comes to an end. It has to be ascertained whether there was an actual surrender or surrender in fact by the plaintiff of his leasehold right under Exhibit B-8 in favour of the lessor, his father. In England it has been held that where the subject- matter of the lease is a reversion, it is a " a matter, lying in grant, and not in livery, and of which therefore, there could be no valid surrender in fact otherwise than by deed." Lyon v. Reed (1844) 153 ER 118 126 (E). under Section 111(e) of the Transfer of Property Act if a lessee yields up his interest under the lease to the lessor by mutual agreement between them, there is an express surrender or surrender in fact. In India, a surrender may be oral and may by inferred from the acts and conduct of the parties there being no statutory provision like Section 3 of the English Statute of Frauds that a surrender should be evidenced by a document in writing or like Section 3 of 8 and 9 Vic. C. 106 requiring a deed for the purposes. See Elias. Myer V. Maoranjan 22 Cal W/N 441: (AIR 1919 Cal 694) (F) Brojo Nath V. Maheswar 28 Cal LJ 220; (AIR 1918 Cal 233) (1) (G) Chunder Monee Nya Busan V. 13. According to English Decisions a fresh lease accepted by a lessee during the continuance of a prior lease operates as a surrender of the original lease because by accepting the new lease, the lessee is a party to an act the validity of which he is, by law, afterwards stepped from disputing and which would not be valid if the first lease continued to exist and the lessor was not in a position to upt the lessee in possession at the date of the new lease. The law attributed the ofrce of estappel to certain acts of notoreity such as livery of sees in, entry, aceptance of an estate See Parke B. in (1844) 153 ER 118 127 (E) and Chitty, J. in Wallis V. Hands 1893 2 CH 75 at PP 79 and 82 (o). The grant of new lease to a stranger with the tenants' assent and change of possession at about the time of the new lease were held to bring the case within the scope of the doctrine of implied surrender. The insistence on delivery of possession by the old lessee and the assumption that the lessor was in possession at the date of the new lease and delivered possession under the new lease was due to the fact that, in England, it was for a long time considered necessary that a lessor should be in possession of the land intended to be leased. I twas therefore decided by the English Courts that where a lessee assented to a lease being granted to Anr. And also gave up possession to the new lessee there was a surrender by operation of law. Davision V. Gent (1857) 1 H & N 744 (p), 189 & 2 CH 75 at pp 79 and 82 (o). This requirement of the English common law that the lessor should have been in possession and given possession to the lessee at the time of the lease was dispensed with by Section 4 (2) of the Law of property Act, 1925, but it influenced the course of decision In England. Another consideration which weighed with the English Courts in holding that an assent by the tenant to the new lease would not amount to a surrender by operation of law without actual delivery of possession to the new tenant was adverted to by Chitty,J., in 1893 2 CH 75 PP. 79 and 82 (o), in these terms:

To hold that mere oral assent to new lease operates as surrender in law would be a' most dangerous doctrine; it would practically amount to a repeal of the Statute of frauds and would let in all the mischief against which the statute is intended to guard; the policy of that statute is carried still further by the Statute 8 and 9 Vic. C.106, Section 3 which requires a deed in cases where formerly a mere writing would have sufficed.

17. It was argued for the Respondent that even if Exhibits B-8 and B-12 were inconsistent or in compatible, the operation of Exhibit B-8 would remain suspended only during 1947-1948 at the end of which the term of Exhibit B012 would expire and that Exhibit B-8 would continue to be in force from 1948-1949 onwards till 1962-1963 according to its tenor. Reliance was placed on the following observation of Ramesam J in (MANU/ TN/ 0049/292: ILR 48 Mad 815, 819 AIR 1925 Mad 127, 1278) (N).

22. Then again, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that in the case of

Jamuna Oil Mills v. The AddI. District Judge and others 1978 AWC 413 All (MANU/UP/ 0547/1978). Paragraphs 34 and 35 run as under:

"34. To begin with it, it will be proper to give in brief the requirements of express or implied surrender of tenancy rights. Section 111 of the Transfer of Property Act lays down, amongst others, that a tenant can surrender his or her rights expressly or impliedly. Woodfall in his book on '' Landlor and Tenant', 27th ED. P. 362 says that "an implied surrender can also be by the conduct of both the parties" He writes "the term surrender by operation of law or implied surrender (there being no distinction is the expression used to describe all those cases where the law implies surrender from unequivocal conduct of both parties which is inconsistent with the continuance of the existing tenancy;

35. In Amar Krishna v. Nazir Hasan AIR 1939 Oudh 257 at page 267 it was observed:*

An implied surrender takes place either by the creation of new relationship between the lesor and the lessee such as the acceptance of a new lease which must operate as implied surrender of the old one or in other ways based on the consent of the parties or by the relinquishment of possession by the lessee and taking over possession by the lessor which would lead to the inference of an implied surrender of the lease."

23. Placing reliance upon another judgment in the case of T.K. Lathika v. Karsandas Jamandas AIR 1995 SC 3335, (MANU/SC/0535/1999). Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed emphasis on paragraphs 11,12,13, and 15 which are reproduced hereunder:

"11. The principle which governs the doctrine of implied surrender of a lease is that when certain relationship exist between two parties in respect of a subject matter and a new relationship has come into existence regarding the same subject matter, the two sets cannot co-exist, being inconsistent and incompatible between each other, i.e. if the latter can come into effect only on termination of the former, then it would be deemed to have been terminated in order to enable the latter to operate. A mere alteration or improvement or even impairment of the former relationship would not ipso facto amount to implied surrender. It has to be ascertained on the terms of the new relationship vis- a-vis the erstwhile demise and then judge whether there was termination of the old jural relationship by implication.

12. The following passage in the Halsbury's Law of England, 4th Edn. Vol 27 at page 355, is apposite:*

449. Surrender by change in nature of tenant's occupation. A surrender is implied when the tenant remains in occupation of the premises in a capacity inconsistent with his being tenant, where, for instance, be becomes the landlord's employee, or where the parties agree that the tenant is in future to occupy the premises rent free for life as a license. An agreement by the tenant to purchase the reversion does not itself effect a surrender, as the purchase is conditional on a good title being made by landlord.

13. In Hill and Redman' s Law of Landlord and Tenant (16th Edn.) at page 451 it is observed that " a surrender does not follow from a mere agreement made during the tenancy for the reduction or increase of rent, or other variation of its terms, unless there is some special reasons to infer a new tenancy, where, for instance*

, the parties make change in the rent under the belief that the old tenancy is at an end.

15. In Krishna Kumar Khemka V. Grindlays Bank MANU/SC/0200/1991: [1990] 2 SCR 961 a two- judge Bench of this Court held thus:

Surrender of a part doe not amount to implied surrender of the entire tenancy and the rest of the tenancy remains untouched....

Likewise the mere increase or reduction of rend also will not necessarily import a surrender of an existing lease and the creation of anew tenancy"

24. Justifying the part of surrender of land as legally sustainable and accordingly defending letter dated 15.9.2018 and consequently subsequent lease deed dated 14/15.12.2018, learned counsel for the petitioner has cited the Supreme Court Judgment in the Case of Krishna Kumar Khemka v. Grindlays Bank P.L.C. and others (1990) 3 Supreme Court Cases 669 where the Apex Court vide paragraphs 8 and 9 has held thus:

"8. Learned counsel for the respondents, on the other hand, submitted that there was no new tenancy and surrender of flat Nos. 1 and 2 by the Grindlays and retaining two more flats does not amount to a new tenancy at least so far as Grindlays is concerned and a reduction of rend also does not create new tenancy inasmuch as the rent is that they had to pay was only for two flats in respect of each (sic which) their tenancy continue.

9. In Woodfall's Law of Landlord and Tenant, (25th edn., p. 969 paragraph 2079 reads as under:

"2079. Implied surrender of part only. If a lessee for yeas accepts a new lease by indenture of part of the lands, it is a surrender for that part only, and not for the whole; and though a contract for years cannot be so divided, as to be avoided for part of the years and to subsist for the residue, either by act of the party or act in law; yet the land itself may be divided, and the tenant may surrender one or two acres, either expressly or by act of law, any the lease for the residue will stand good and untouched."

In Halsbury's Law of England(4th end., Volume 27) paragraph 449 reads and under:

"449. Surrender by change in nature of tenant's occupation. A surrender is implied when the tenant remains in occupation of the premises in a capacity inconsistent with his being tenant, where, for instance, he becomes the landlord's employee, or where the parties agree that the tenant is in future to occupy the premises rent free for life as a licensee. An agreement by the tenant to purchase the reversion does not of itself effect a surrender, as the purchase is conditional does not itself being made by the landlord."

In Foa's General Law of Landlord and Tenant (7th edn.) by Judge Forbes, paragraph991 reads thus:

91. Lease of part- It has been held that acceptance of a new lease of part only of the demised premises operates as a surrender of that part and no more; but any arrangement between landlord and tenant which operates as a fresh demise wil work a surrender of the old tenancy, and this may result from an agreement under which the tenant gives up part of the premies and pays a diminish rent for the remainder- and it may result from the mere alteration in the amount of rent payable. Where one only of two or more lessees accepts a new lease, it is a surrender only of his share."

In Hill and Redman's Law of Lanlord and Tenant (16th edn. On page 451) it is observed:

"Any arrangement between the landlord and tenant which operates as a fresh demise will work a surrender of the old tenancy and this may result from an agreement under which the tenant gives up part of the premises and pays a diminished rent for the remainder, provided a substantial difference is thereby made in the condition of the tenancy. But a surrender does not follow from a mere agreement made during the tenancy for the reduction or increase of rent, or other variation of its terms, unless there is some special reason to infer a new tenancy, where, for instance, the parties make the change in the rent in the belief that the old tenancy is at an end."

From the above passages it can be inferred that surrender of a part does not amount to implied surrender of the entire tenancy and the rest of the tenancy remains untouched. We shall now examine the cases cited. In Konijeti Venkayya V. Thammana Peda Venkata Subbaro Viswanatha Sastri,J.referred to the abovementioned passage from Woodfall's Law of Landlord and tenant and observed that the principle of law is stated correctly."

25. Finally defending the lease deed executed in favour of the petitioner by the original tenure holder, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the Case of ITC Ltd v. State of U.P. (2011) 7 Supreme Court Cases 493 wherein it has been held that unless and until a duly executed and registered lease deed is questioned and canceled by competent court of law, it will have all legal effects and can not by itself amount to be bad by any unilateral action even at the end of lessor. Learned counsel has placed reliance upon legal position held by the Supreme Court in paragraph 30 of the said judgment which runs as under:

"30. A lease governed exclusively by the provisions of the Transfer of property Act, 1882 ("the TP Act, for short) could be canceled only by filling a civil suit for its cancellation or for a declaration that it is illegal, null and void and for the consequential relief of delivery back possession. Unless and until a court of competent jurisdiction grants such a decree, the lease will continue to be effective and binding. Unilateral cancellation of a registered lease deed by the lessor will neither terminate the lease nor entitle the lessor to seek possession. This is the position under private law. But where the grant of lease is governed by a statute or statutory regulations, and if such statute expressly reserves the power of cancellation or revocation to the lessor, it will be permissible for an authority, as the lessor, to cancel a duly executed and registered lease deed, even if possession has been delivered, on the specific grounds of cancellation provided in the statute."

26. A careful reading of the aforesaid citation reveals that even the lessor does not have the right to unilaterally terminate the lease and seek possession so long as the existing rights the lease has not been surrendered by the lessee. The lessor would not get any right out of his action except in those cases where the statutory regulation reserves the right of cancellation or revocation in favour of the lessor. So it is a statutory authority which enjoys the right to cancel the lease even unilaterally in cases where possession has been delivered to the lessee, provided of course, where grounds for cancellation are part of terms and condition of the lease.

27. Learned counsel for the petitioner has urged that in the present case, it is just a complaint by complainant a third party, and neither lessor nor, the original lessee who had surrendered part of the lease land making way for a subsequent lease in favour of the petitioner, has questioned the subsequent lease. The factual position of surrender followed by subsequent lease has created indefeasible rights favour of the petitioner and would not automatically get rendered as bad so as to reject his candidature on that count. He argues, therefore, the piece of land so long as it is a subject matter of a valid conveyance, until, of course cancelled or set aside or declared non est or bad by a competent court of law, the authorities were not justified in holding that the lease itself was bad.

28. On the question of condition being led in the surrender letter on right to re-entry in case of emergency or in case of non use of land, it is argued that this right stood extinguished the moment a subsequent lease got executed by the lessor. He submits that the execution of the subsequent lease, the petitioner being lessee herein entered into possession and the contingency as stipulated in the letter of surrender stood evaporated. It is further submitted that the lessee of the original lease had a contract of transfer in his favour from the original lessor and any terms and condition would be intra party on the principle of privity of contract between the two and it is admitted to the original lessee and the lessor and it has not been doubted at all even by the Corporation that the original lessee prior to the execution of subsequent lease on 15.12.2018 did not re-enter the land and so, those conditions would not be any more binding either upon the lessor or upon the petitioner and to the limited extent described under the lease agreement the rights, title have flown in favour of the petitioner from the lease agreement and the rights and interest of the original lessor have even got extinguished qua the land and the land has to be taken as a clean land free from all encumbrances to be taken within the definition of land under Clause 4 (V) of the Brochure as of Group-I category.

29. He submits that the complaint was absolutely baseless and the Corporation was not justified in questioning the lease deed and, therefore, he submits that the order impugned is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be quashed.

30. Per contra the argument advanced by the learned counsel for the respondent Corporation Sri Vikas Budhwar is that in view of the provision contained under the Registration Act which came into force in the year 1908, the legal position prior to the said order would not be applicable. In the present case according to him, a document that conveys transfer of immovable property is necessarily required to be registered under Section 17 of the said Act failing which the document is inadmissible in law and a document which is inadmissible in law cannot create any right or title in the eyes of law and thus the argument is that letter of surrender dated 15.9.2018 cannot be a valid surrender within the meaning and scope of the provisions of Transfer of Property Act,1882 read with relevant provision of registration under the Indian Registration Act, 1908.

31. The second argument advanced by the learned counsel for the respondent is that Clause-7 of the lease agreement does not talk of part surrender of lease and since the original lessee pursuant to the lease agreement dated 25.5.2018 was bound by the terms and conditions contained therein, he was not justified in surrendering lease rights in respect of the part of the property in variation to the conditions prescribed under the lease agreement and if at all it could have been, it ought to have been a registered one.

32. The third argument advanced by learned counsel appearing on behalf of the Corporation is that it is well within the rights of the Corporation to determine whether a land is suitable or not for the purposes of setting up retail outlet of the petroleum products. He submits that though dealership offer by the respondent Corporation is on the basis of owned dealership retail outlets, in the present case, but the Corporation would be the best judge to determine that a particular land is a suitable land for the purposes of investment. He submits that investment is long drawn one and, therefore, it has to be secured one. He submits that merely because the land is as per the measurement and located at the site itself would not make it suitable in every sense of word, meaning thereby, he argues, if the document qua land creates an impression of any likelihood of civil litigation relating to rights and title of the land property, the Corporation would be justified in not treating such land to be suitable land. Thus according to him merely because lessor and the original lessee have not questioned the title, it would hardly matter as in case if the documents relating to the lease or title of land are such that may make it questionable in court of law at an future point of time resulting in a long drawn civil litigation.

33. It is argued that the Corporation, may be a public sector Corporation, but if it is dong business then it is the best judge to ensure its business prospects. Merely because an advertisement has been issued inviting application and one is selected in draw of lots, would not create any indefeasible right in his favor to claim for allotment of dealership as a rule.

34. On the legal point raised by Sri Vikas Budhwar that if a lease deed is executed and it's surrendered is sought and the surrender of rights is in part of the lease property, it cannot be as part relinquishment is not contemplated either under the original lease agreement or under Section 111 of T.P. Act 1882 and if at all it is done, it is in variation to the clause of lease agreement and so it is required to be registered. Sri Budhwar has drawn attention of the Court towards Clause-7 of the original lease deed dated 25.5.2018 executed by the tenure holder Mangal Singh in favour of Ms. B.S.C.-C&C-JV. Clause-7 of the original lease deed dated 25.5.2018 is reproduced herein under:

"7. That the lessee shall be at liberty to vacate to determine this agreement by giving notice of two months in writing to the lessor expiring at any time during the currency of this period."

35. A bare reading of the Clause 7 clearly reveals that lessee shall be at liberty to vacate to determine this agreement by giving notices of two months in writing to the lessor during the currency of the lease period. It is argued that it talks of whole surrender of the lease as it refers to determination of the lease itself. Sri Budhwar has also taken us to Clause-8 of the lease deed which runs as under:

"8. That if lessee become unable to complain the above terms and condition the lessor will able to compensate his loss from the lessee company property situated at the above plot (land)"

36. Clause-8 of the lease shows that the lease has been executed on the terms and conditions is styled as such "hereinafter mentioned which is ageed by the parties as follows" shows that the terms and condition bound the lessee to act in the manner in which they are provided. He argues that since the lease did not provide for the part surrender of the land, the surrender letter dated 15.92011 would not amount to a lawful surrender.

37. Advancing the argument further he submits that under Section 111(e) what is contemplated is the surrender of the entire interest under the lease. He has relied upon paragraph-10 of the judgment in the case of Tirath Ram Gupta v. Gurubachan Singh and another AIR 1987 Supreme Court 770 which runs as under:

"The lessee has a right to transfer by sub-lease even a part of his interest in the property as provided in Section 108(j) of the Transfer of Property Act. A transferee from the lessee has a right to claim the benefit of contract to the lessee's interest, vis-a-vis the landlord, (vide Section 108 second paragraph of clause (c) of the Transfer of Property Act) Thus a sub-lessee who has obtained a part of the interest of the head tenant will be entitled to claim the benefit of the contract vis-a-vis the lessor, as the lessee (head tenant) cannot surrender the lease in part. Section 111(e) contemplates a surrender of the entire inter- est under the lease and not a part of the interest alone. Moreover, a lease can be determined only by restoring pos- session in respect of the entire property which was taken on lease (see Section 108(m). Section 115 of the Transfer of Property Act provides that the surrender of a lease does not prejudice an under-lease of the property or in part thereof previously granted by the lessee. The lessee, having parted with a part of the interest in the property in favour of the sub-lessee, cannot surrender that part of the property which is in the possession of the sub-lessee for he cannot restore possession of the same to the lessor apart from the fact the he can terminate the contract of lease only as a whole and not in respect of a part of it. Having regard to all these factors, even without going into the question of the partial surrender of lease being vitiated by collusion, it is not open to the appellant in law to contend that the second respondent is entitled to and had validly surrendered a portion of the lease-hold property and the first respondent, being the sub-tenant is bound by the surrender and should deliver possession."

38. He further argues that mere act or conduct of the party whether in writing or otherwise would not amount to determination of lease unless such intention to surrender in the existing lease is incorporated in writing any subsequent agreement is acknowledgment of the consent of the lessee in that regard. He therefore, seeks to urge that a surrender has to be in writing and that has to be a registered one and it should be in respect of entire property. He has placed reliance upon the Judgment of Supreme Court in the Case of H.K. Sharma Vs. Ram Lal (2019) 4 Supreme Court Cases 153 in which vide paragraphs 23 to 35 the Court has held thus:

"23. in other words, the question that arises for consideration is when the lessor enters into an agreement to sell the tenanted property to his lessee during the subsistence of the lease, whether execution of such agreement would ipso facto result in determination of the lease and sever the relationship of lessor and the lessee in relation to the leased property.

24. In our considered opinion, the aforementioned question has to be decided keeping in view the provisions of Section 111 of the TP Act and the intention of the parties to the lease- whether the parties intended to surrender the lease on execution of such agreement in relation to the tenanted premises or they intended to keep the lease subsisting notwithstanding the execution of such agreement.*

25. Chapter V of the TP Act deals with the leases of immo0valble property. This chapter consists of Section 105 to Section 117.*

26. A lease of an immovable property is a contract between the lessor and the lessee. Their rights are governed by Sections 105 to 117 of the TP Act read with the respective State rent laws enacted by the State. Section 111 of the T Act deals with the determination of lease. Clauses (a) to (h) set out the grounds on which a lease of an immovable property can be determined. Clauses (e) and (f) with which we are concerned here provide that a lease can be determined by an express surrender; in case, the lessee yields up his interest under the lease to the lessor by mutual agreement between them whereas clause (f) provides that the lease can be determined by implied surrender.*

27. This Court in Shah Mathuradas Manganlal & Co. V. Nagappa Shankarappa Malage considered the scope of clauses (e) and (f) of Section 111 of he TP Act and laid down the following principles in para 19 as under: (SCC p. 665)*

"19. A surrender under clauses (e) and (f) of Section 111 of Transfer of Property Act, is an yielding up of the term of the lessee's interest to him who has the immediate reversion or the lessor's interest. It takes effect like a contract by mutual consent on the lessor's acceptance of the act of the lessee. The lessee cannot, therefore, surrender unless the terms vested in him; and the surrender must be to a person in whom the immediate reversion expectant on the term is vested. Implied surrender by operation of law occurs by the creation of a new relationship, or by relinquishment of possession. It the lessee accepts a new lease that in itself is a surrender. Surrender can also be implied from the consent of the parties or from such facts as the relinquishment of possession by the lessee and taking over possession by the lessor. Relinquishment of possession operates as an inplied surrender. There must be a taking of possession, not necessarily a physical taking, but something amounting to a virtual taking of possession. Whether this has occurred is a question of fact."

28. It is in the light of the aforementioned legal principle, the question involved in this case has to be examined.*

that though the agreement contains 9 conditions but none of the conditions provides, much less in specific terms, as to what will be the fate of the tenancy. In other words, none of the conditions set out in the agreement dated 13.5.2003 can be construed for holding that the parties intended to surrender the tenancy rights.

30. A fortiori, the parties died not intend to surrender the tenancy rights despite entering into an agreement of sale of the tenanted property. In other words, if the parties really intended to surrender their tenancy rights as contemplated in clauses (e) or (f) of Section 111 of the TP Act while entering into an agreement to sell the suit house, it would have made necessary provision to that effect by providing a specific clause in the agreement. It was, however, not done. On the other hand, we find that the conditions set out in the agreement do not make out a case of express surrender under clause (e) or implied surrender under clause (f) of Section 111 of the TP Act.

31. It is for this reason, the law laid down by this court in R.Kanthimathi has no application to the facts of this case and is therefore, distinguishblae on fact. Indeed it will be clear from mere perusal of para 4 of the said decision quoted hereinbelow:(SCC p.341)

"4. As aforesaid, the question for consideration is , whether the status of tenant as such changes on the execution of an agreement of sale with the landlord. It is relevant at this junction first to examine the terms of the agreement of sale. The relevant portions of the agreement of sale recorded the following:

'I the aforesaid Mrs Bratrict Xavier hereby agree out of my own free will, to sell, convey and transfer the property to you Mrs. R. Kanthimathi wife of Mr. S. Ramaswami, 435 Trichy Road, Coimbatore for a mutually agreed sale consideration of Rs. 25,000/

I shall be proceeding to Coimbatore and shall execute the sale deed and present the same for admission and registration before the Registering Authority, accepting and acknowledge payment of the balance of consideration of Rs. 5000 (Rupees five thousand only) at the time of registration and shall complete the transaction for sale and conveyance as the property demised has already been surrendered to your possession.

(emphasis in original)

The words highlighted in italics of the agreement were construed by their Lordships for holding that these italicised words in the agreement clearly indicate that the parties had really intended to surrender their tenancy rights on execution of the agreement of sale and bring to an end their jural relationship of the landlord and tenant.

32. As observed supra, such is not the case here because we do not find any such clause or a clause akin thereto in the agreement dated 13-5-1993 and nor we find that the existing conditions in the agreement discern the intention of the parties to surrender the tenancy agreement either expressly or impliedly.

33. In the light of the foregoing discussion, we are of he consiered opinion that the tenancy in question between the parties did not result in its determination as contemplated under Section 111 of the TP Act due to execution of the agreement dated 13-5-1993 between the parties for sale of the suit house and the same remained unaffected notwithstanding execution of the agreement dated 13-5-1993

34. A fortiori, the respondent (lessor) was rightly held entitled to file an application against the appellant (lessee)

under Section 21 (1) (a) of the U.P. Act and seek the appellant's eviction from the suit house after determining the tenancy in question.

35. Before parting, we make it clear that we examined the terms of the agreement dated 13-5-1993 only for deciding the question as to whether the execution of agreement, in any manner, resulted in determination of the existing tenancy rights between the parties in relation to the suit house in the context of the TP Act and the U.P. Act and not beyond it."

39. On the question of agreement that varies essential terms of existing registered lease, it must be registered one. The learned counsel for the respondent has drawn our attention to Section 107 of the Transfer of Property Act and Section 17 of Registration Act. Which are reproduced hereunder:

"107. A lease of immovable property from year to year, or for any term exceeding one year, or reserving a yearly rent, can be made only by a registered instrument."

"Section 17 - Indian Registration Act, 1908

(a) instruments of gift of immovable property;

(iii) any debenture issued by any such company and not creating, declaring, assigning, limiting or extinguishing any right, title or interest, to or in immovable property except insofar as it entitles the holder to the security afforded by a registered instrument whereby the company has mortgaged, conveyed or otherwise transferred the whole or part of its immovable property or any interest therein to trustees upon trust for the benefit of the holders of such debentures; or

(iv) any endorsement upon or transfer of any debenture issued by any such company; or

(v) any document not itself creating, declaring, assigning, limiting or extinguishing any right or title or interest of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards to or in immovable property, but merely creating a right to obtain another document which will, when executed, create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish any such right, title or interest; or

(vi) any decree or order of a court [except a decree or order expressed to be made on a compromise and comprising immovable property other than that which is the subject-matter of the suit or proceedings] (Substituted by Act No. 21 of 1929 for the words 'and any award');

(vii) any grant of immovable property by government; or

(viii) any instrument of partition made by a revenue officer; or

(ix) any order granting a loan or instrument of collateral security granted under the Land Improvement Act 1871, or the Land Improvement Loans Act 1883; or

(x) any order granting a loan under the Agriculturists Loans Act 1884, or instrument for securing the repayment of a loan made under that Act; or [(x-a) any order made under the Charitable Endowments Act 1890 (6 of 1890) vesting any property in a treasurer of Charitable Endowments or divesting any such treasurer of any property; or] (Inserted by Act No. 39 of 1948)

(xi) any endorsement on a mortgage-deed acknowledging the payment of the whole or any part of the mortgage-money, and any other receipt for payment of money due under a mortgage when the receipt does not purport to extinguish the mortgage; or

(xii) any certificate of sale granted to the purchaser of any property sold by public auction by a civil or revenue officer.

Explanation: A document purporting or operating to effect a contract for the sale of immovable property shall not be deemed to require or ever to have required registration by reason only of the fact that such document contains a recital of the payment of any earnest money or of the whole or any part of the purchase money. (Inserted by Act No. 2 of 1927)*

(3) Authorities to adopt a son, executed after the 1st day of January 1872, and not conferred by a will, shall also be registered.

40. From the bare perusal of the aforesaid provision, it is urged, it is quite clear that every document which conveys transfer of immovable property needed to be registered and unless such document is registered, it does not at all or in anyway conveys the title may be in the limited scope of the document so executed. Learned counsel for the respondent has placed reliance upon para-3 of the judgment of Supreme Court in the Case of Sunil Kumar Roy v. Bhowra Kankanee Collieries Ltd. And others AIR 1971 Supreme Court 751 which runs as under:

"3. Mr. B. Sen for the appellant sought to raise the question about the admissibility of Exh. A-4 for want of registration. In the first place this contention cannot be entertained so long as the finding of the High Court on the only point which was canvassed before it about the reduction of the rate of royalty is not set aside. The High Court had held after an examination of the evidence that it had not been proved that there was any change in the market condition in July or in December 1953 to call for a reduction in the rate of royalty or that there was any mutual lessor or the lessee for such reduction which was to become effective from July 1952. No attempt was made by Mr. Sen to persuade us to reverse this conclusion. Even on the assumption that a mutual arrangement or agreement as evidenced by Exh. A-4 was arrived at between the appellant and the Eastern Coal Co. Ltd., we are unable to agree that any reduction in the rate of royalty could have been effected by means of Exh. A-4 which had not been registered under the provisions of the Indian Registration Act. It is well settled by now that a document which varies the essential terms of the existing registered lease, such as the amount of rent, must be registered: See Durga Prasad Singh V. Rajendera Narain Bagchi, (1910) ILR 37 Cal 293 which was approved by the Full Bench in Lalit Mohan Ghosh v Gopal Chuck Coal Company (1912) ILR 39 Cal 294 (FB) decision of the Madras High Court in Obai Goundan v. Ramalinga Ayyar, (1899) LIR 22 mad 217, taking a contrary view has not been followed by the High Courts in India and the consistent view that has been taken in that registration of an agreement is necessary which reduces the rent of an existing registered lease. See Mulla on Indian Registration Act, 7th Edn. Pages 75-76.

41. Learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance upon paragraphs 12 and 15 of the Judgment of the Supreme Court in the Case of Chandrakant Shankarao Machale v. Parubhai Bahiru Mohite (dead) (2008) 6 Supreme Court Cases 745. Paras 12 and 15 runs as under:

"12. The deed of mortgage dated 28-2-1983 was a registered document. The terms of a registered document could be varied or altered only by another registered document. A finding of fact has been arrived at that the appellant could not prove his possession as a tenant. We have noticed hereinbefore that the appellant was put in possession a a mortgagee. It was, therefore, in our opinion, impermissible in law to change his status from a mortgagee to that of a lessee by reason of an unregistered deed of lease (eve if we assume that the same had been executed.)

15. The deed of mortgage was a registered one. It fulfilled the conditions of a valid mortgage. Its terms could not have been varied or altered by reason of an unregistered document so as to change the status of the parties from mortgagee to a lessee. [See S. Saktivel V. M Venugoal pillai (SCC p. 108, para 6: AIR paras 6-7)].*

42. Counsel for the respondent has further placed emphasis upon paragraph 31 of the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of K.B. Saha and sons private limited v. Development Consultant Limited (2008) 8 Supreme Court Cases 564. Para 31 runs as under:

"31. The High Court in the impugned judgement relied on a decision of the Allahabad High Court in Ratan Lal V. Hari Shanker to hold that since the appellant wanted to extinguish the right of the respondent with the help of the unregistered tenancy, the same was not a collateral purpose. In Ratan lal case while discussion the meaning of the terms " collateral purpose" the High Court had observed as follows: (AIR pp. 180-81, para 4)

"4. The second contention was that the partition deed, even if it was not resisted could certainly be looked into for a collateral purpose... but the collateral purpose has a limited scope and meaning. It cannot be used for the purpose of saying that the deed created or declared or assigned or limited or extinguished a right to immovable property... term "collateral purpose' would not permit the party to establish any of these acts from the deed."

43. Counsel for the respondent has further placed reliance upon the judgment of the Madras High Court in the case of B. Ahmed Marcair v. Muthuvlliappa Chettiar 1961 AIR (Madras) 28 in which vide paragraphs 7 and 8 the court held thus:

"7. In this connection the learned District Munsif has pertinently pointed out the implications of the decision in Gopal Chandra Das v Harendra Natha datta, 63 Ind Cas 483 (Cal). In that case the Calcutta High Cout held that though no writing was ordinarily necessary in this country for surrendering a tenancy if the original lease is registered the surrender of a portion of the tenancy with an abatement of rent can only be effected by a registered instrument as in such a case the surrender involves a variation of the original contract of tenancy. The Calcutta High Court has also held that oral evidence as regards such surrender is inadmissible under Section 92 of the Evidence Act. This decision has been cited with the approval in the well-known commentaries on the Transfer of Property Act by Chitaley and Annaji Rao, Third Edition (1950) page 1861.

8.When the facts lead to the conclusion that there was sufficient interruption, substantial Interference - it need not be physical exposition (?) (Sic (dispossession) to the quiet enjoyment of the lessee of the demised land unde the lessor assured to the lessee under Section 108 C of the Transfer of Property Act what are the consequences which flow? The Courts below have rightly relied on the decision in Dhunput Singh v. Mohomed Kazim , ILR 24 Cal 296 and held that the lessee in this case can plead that his obligation to pay rent or balance of rent due to the lessor be held under suspension or must be held to have abated by reason of the conduct of the lessor. The effect of partial eviction by a lessor has been dealt with in the following passage at page 659 under Section 108(L) in Mulla's Transfer of Property Act Fourth Edition (by C.J. S.R.Das)

"If the premises are let for one rent, the rule of English law is that the eviction of the lessee by the lessor from part of the demised premises suspends the rent for the whole. The reason of the rule given in the earlier cases is that the landlord being in feudal times the defender and protector of the tenant should not be encouraged to disturb him. In later cases the reason given is that the landlord is not entitled to apportion his wrong. Judicial decisions in India on this point have not been uniform. In some cases this rule of English law has been followe and it has been held that if the rent is an entire rent for all the property leased, eviction by the lessor of the lessee from part of the property leased suspends the whole rent."

44. Yet another judgment in that regard relied upon by learned counsel for respondent is of Calcutta High Court in the case of M.S. Ram Singh v. Bijoy Singh Surana AIR 1972 Calcutta 190 wherein the Court in paras 19, 20 and 21 has held thus:

"19. Mr. Banerjee referred to the decision in Bengal Coal Co. Ltd V. Nonoranjan Bagchi AIR 1919 Cal 694 in which it was observed that a surrender or relinquishment does not require to be in writing but may be inferred from acts of parties. In Abdul Majid V . Hari Charan Halder AIR 1919 Cal 840, it was held that a surrender is not required to be by an instrument registered. The same view was taken in Sari Debi V. Sailabala Dasi AIR 1920 Cal 858 in which it was held that even though the original tenancy was created by the registered lease, its surrender would be valid if it is accepted and acted upon by the landlord. But in the present case, as the surreder was by instrument in writing it was compulsory registrable as was held in Nadig Neelakanta Rao V. state of Mysore. AIR 1960 Mys 87. It was held that as the instrument of surrender purports to extinsguish the rights of the tenant, valued at over Rs. 100.- it is compulsorily registrable.

20. Mr. Ghosh disputed the contention and in his turn contended on the authorities of this Court cited above, that as the surrender was accepted and acted upon as also evidenced by Exs 6 and 7, no further instrument was necessary. He further contended that surrender was not an extinguishment of interest in immovable property as contemplated in Cl. (B) of Section 17 (1) of the said Act but as it was relinquishment of the lessee's interest, Cl. (b) of Section 17 (1) was not attracted. Further the interest of the original tenant was that of a monthly tenant and such tenancy does not require registration under Cl. (d) and its surrender accordingly did not require registration. Mr. Ghosh also contended that the EX. 7 did not by itself create declare or extinguish any right as would appear reading the document as a whole and accordingly it came under the exception in Cl. (b) of sub-section (2) of S.17. On that ground the decision in Nadig Neelkanta Ra, AIR 1960 Mys 87 (supra) was sought to be distinguished.*

21. As we have seen surrender is an extinguishment of the lessee's interest and there is no dispute that value of the interest would be over Rs. 100/-. the document recites a surrender in praesenti and even if the surrender purports to be effective on a further date, it would make no difference on this aspect for the purposes of registration. Clause (b) of Section 17 (1) includes all instruments which purport or operate to create, assign, limit or extinguish whether in present or in future any right, title or interest of value of Rs. 100/- and upwards to or in immovable property. Apart from the surrender as evidenced by the document Ex.7 and the evidence in support thereof there is no other pleading or evidence in support of oral surrender nor it is dependent on any subsequent document. The document Ex. 7, as we have see, purports to extinguish the interest of the lessee in his tenancy, and though a surrender on a future date as contended it is an invalid surrender, for the purpose of Section 17(1) of the Indian Registration Act the document is* compulsorily registrable and is not excepted by any of the provision of the Act.

45. Placing reliance upon the judgment of Allahabad High Court in the case of Ratan Lal and others Vs. Hari Shanker and others AIR 1980 Allahabad 180. It is contended by the learned counsel for the respondent that mere family arrangement cannot be itself a document to create rights in favour of the beneficiaries which otherwise is required under law to be compulsorily registriable. Learned counsel for the respondent has placed reliance upon paragraph -5 of the judgment which is reproduced hereunder:

"Learned counsel then contended that the deed could be treated to be a family arrangement was not compulsorily registrable. This was not compulsorily registerable. This contention, in my opinion, is not correct. The Supreme Court in the case of Kale V. By. Director of Consolidation , (AIR 1976 SC 807), held that a family arrangement in case it is oral needs no registration, but if the terms thereof were reduced into writing, it became imperative to have the document registered and unless it was registered, it could not be looked into. The pleas of family arrangement is sought to be derived from Exhibit-1. That document is in writing. Even if it was treated to be a family arrangement, it required registration, and having not been registered, it could not be looked into for the purposes of showing it to be a family arrangement.

46. He has relied upon a judgment of the Madras High Court in the case of Ranganatha Gounder v. Perumal Nattar AIR 1999 Madras 133 wherein vide paragraph-3 of the judgment the Court has held thus:

"3. Mr.V Raghavachari, learned Counsel appearing for the petitioner, therefore contended that the order of the Court below is bad in law and the document shall not be received in evidence. Mr. K. Kannan, learned counsel appearing for the respondent would state that there is no legal right in favour of the defendant as a lessee when he executed the document in question and when that is so, he cannot validly transfer or extinguish any such alleged right in the property. Therefore, according to him, the document is not hit be Secs. 17 (1) (b) and 49 (c) of the Act. In elaborating this argument, he wold add that there is no lease document between the parties and, therefore, there is no legal right in the defendant. Applying my mind to the argument of the learned Counsel for the respondent, I find that no foundation is laid for such an argument. It must be noticed that the plaintiff himself relies upon this document. Mr. V. Raghavachari, in support of his contention that this document requires compulsory registration and in the absence of the same, it shall not be received in evidence, brought to my notice three judgments viz. Rangayya Appa Rau v. Kameshwara Rau , (1897) ILR 20 Mad 367: 7 m ad LJ 59 (DB); Neelakanta Rao. Vs. Sate of Mysore, AIR 1960 Mys 87 (DB) and M.S. Ram Singh V. B.S. Surana , AIR 1972 Cal 190 (DB) . In the first case, the plaintiff was a Zamidar ad the defendant was a tenant. He sues for declaration of his title and for possession of certain land of which the first defendant had been in possession as a tenant. It appears that the tenant having fallen into difficulties executed a document on the 20th June, 1888 addressed to the plaintiff in the following terms:

" To the Zamidar, (sic) & C, relinquishment report put in by Govindarazulau Kameswara Rau, cultivator of Gurazada. Being unable to cultivae the 16 acres 84 cents of dry land and 7 acrs and 87 cents of wet land, 24 acres and 72 cents in all which I have been cultivating in the village of Gurazada, and finding it inconvenient to pay the arrears on it, I have relinquished the rights to the Sirkar (i.e. Zamidar). I agree to the removal of that land from the village accounts in my name for Fasli 1298 and to your disposing of the same at your pleasure without may having anything to do with the arrears of Rs. 600 and odd due thereon. This relinquishment report is put in with consent."

The Courts below refused to admit that document for want of registration. In that context, the learned Judges of this Court held that the document referred to above was one given for consideration which moved from the plaintiff to the defendant, that is the waiver by the former of his right to the arrears of rent amounting to Rs. 600 due at the time of relinquishment, which is clear from the terms of the instrument itself and therefore, it requires registration. In Neelakanta Rao v. state of Mysore (AIR 1960 Mys 87) (referred above) , the question that was considered is whether the surrender deed executed between the tenant in favour of the landlord requires registration or not. The learned Judges have held as follows:

"A surrender deed executed by the tenant in favour of the landlord in respect of this tenancy the due of which exceeds Rs. 100 is clearly an instrument which purports to extinguish the right of the tenant, the value of which is over Rs. 100/- and as such comes within Cl. (B) of Sec. 17 91) and therefore is compulsorily registable. Such a document if not registered, cannot be received in evidence of the transaction of surrender affecting the property in view of S.49, Registration Act."

This was followed in the last judgment referred to above, In the case on h and, there is no dispute that the value of the property is more than Rs. 100/- since the plaintiff himself valued the suit properties at Rs. 300/-. Therefore, I have no hesitation to hold that the document dated 22-6-1995 stated to be entered into between the defendant and the plaintiff in O.S. No. 859 of 1995 on the file of Additional District Munsif, Villupuram, is compulsorily registrable and as it is not so done, it is inadmissible in evidence. Civil Revision petition is allowed. No costs Consequently C.M.P. No. 17480 of 1998 is dismissed."

47. Learned counsel for the respondent has finally relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Kale and others v. Deputy Director of Consolidation and others to argue that the family arrangement though have been held to be binding amongst the members of the family but such family arrangements may not be having any binding effect in respect of third party who is a stranger to the same and further no arrangement in respect of the strangers who are not part of the family would amount to a valid settlement creating rights, can be permitted to do away with the condition of registration of such a document. Further he has argued that even in cases of family settlement where it is sought to be reduced in writing then it is compulsorily required to be registered one. He submits that an oral family settlement may have a mutual binding effect and to that extent it may determine the rights of the parties to which they mutually agreed but when it is sought to be documented to have a force of law then it is required to be registered one. He has placed reliance upon paragraph-4 of the judgment of the Apex Court in which speaking for himself and for the majority V. R. Krishna Iyer, J and Murtaza Fazl Ali, J observed thus:

"(4) It is well settled that registration would be necessary only if the terms of the family arrangement are reduced into writing. Here also, a distinction should be made between a document containing the terms and recitals of a family arrangement made unde the document and a mere memorandum prepared after the family arrangment had already been made either for the purpose of the record or for information of the court for making necessary mutation. In such a case the memorandum itself does not create or extinguish any rights in immovable properties and therefore does not fall within the mischief of Section 17(2) (sic (Section 17 (1) (b)?) of the Registration Act and is, therefore not compulsorily registrable;"

48. Thus, the judgment of the High Court was set aside on the ground that it did not acknowledge the oral settlement between the parties for the reason that parties on account of some oral settlement/ some mutual settlement that was sustainable but then the High Court erred in law in rejecting such compromise only for being unregistered. It is argued by learned counsel for the respondent that the Apex Court took the view on account of the fact that mutuation petition before the Assistant Commissioner did not carry any terms of the family settlement but was merely in the nature of memorandum. Justice R.S. Sarkaria though gave a separate judgment but agreed to the findings returned by the majority on the ground that since the petition did not itself create or decline any right qua the immovable property above the value of Rs. 100/- or more was not hit by Section 17(b) of the Registration Act.

49. It has been finally submitted by the learned counsel appearing for respondent Corporation that since the condition prescribed under the alleged surrender letter amounted to variation of the conditions of the original lease, and so it was of necessity required to be registered in view of Section 17 of the Registration Act, 1908. Learned counsel for the respondent has further sought to distinguish the legal position prior to 1908 from post 1908 when Indian Registration Act came into force.

50. On the consideration of business prospects and discretion of the Corporation to consider the land as suitable or not, learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that evaluation of credentials and land evaluation at the site is primary function of the committee constituted for such purpose and the committee so constituted conducts its affairs very fairly in the presence of the applicant and after such exercise being conducted if it is found that the land is not suitable, Corporation has no reason to disagree unless there exists any element of bias, mala fides or arbitrariness reflected from the action and the decision taken by the committee. The judgment of committee qua suitability of site on the spot and wisdom of the Corporation's officials in the evaluation of the report qua suitability of land should not be ordinarily permitted to be questioned because it is the ultimate interest of the Corporation which is at the stake and not the person who has applied for the allotment of dealership. It is argued that to the extent of fairness in action, one can always plead for right to be considered but where no such element is detectable, one cannot claim the allotment as a rule merely because one has been selected in the draw of lots.

51. It is argued by the learned counsel for the respondent Corporation that since the lease itself has become questionable even if not by institution of civil proceedings at the end of lessor or lessee but the papers and the document that have been executed did have the elements to make it questionable in a court of law, and so the Corporation cannot be compelled to set up petrol pump unit for the sale of petroleum products compulsorily over such place.

52. Having heard learned counsels for the parties and their arguments advanced across the bar and having perused the records and having considered the merits in this case, two points emerge:

(A) Whether the piece of land offered by the petitioner is a subject matter of a valid lease deed, and so an offer of land deserves to be considered under Group-I?

(B) Whether the suitability of the land determined by the Corporation can be questioned and discretion of the respondent Corporation in the facts and circumstances of the present case, should be judicially reviewed in the absence of any mala fides or arbitrariness.

53. Now coming to the question that relates to the lease document of the petitioner dated 14/ 15.12.2018 presented by the petitioner seeking allotment of the retail outlet dealership, it is needed to be examined as to whether the rights created under the said lease agreement could be said to be a valid one and to that extent the lease to be held valid so as to hold the respondent's stand to the contrary as incorrect.

54. Lease has come to be defined under the Transfer of Property Act as a transfer of a right to enjoy such property, made for certain time, expressed or implied or in perpetuity in consideration of price paid or promised (Section 105 T.P. Act). So virtually transfer of property and interest therein by means of lease deed could be time specific or in perpetuity. A lease can, of course, be in the form of a written contract or as per the local usage (106 TP Act) . However, whether time specific or in perpetuity a lease has to be made only by a registered instrument but it should be accompanied by delivery of possession by the lessor in favour of the lessee (107 TP Act).

55. The rights and liabilities of the lessor as per Section 108 of the T.P Act are governed by the terms and condition that are contained in the lease document and so also they guide the future course of action for the purposes of determination of lease except as provided for under Section 111 of the T.P. Act, or to further create such lease in favour of a third party.

56. The argument advanced in the present case centers around the provision contained under Section 111 of the T.P. Act especially clauses (e) and (f) that talk of express and implied surrender of lease. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued first in favour of clause (e) of Section 111 and since the surrender letter has been objected to by the respondent being not a registered document as it varies the terms and conditions of the lease by conduct of dividing/ partitioning two property by lessee, alternatively it has been argued that the letter of surrender and thereafter no objection by the original lessee in respect of subsequent lease executed by the tenure-holder in favour of the petitioner, would amount to implied surrender.

57. Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn our attention to paragraph-27 of quoted hereinabove in the case of H.K. Sharma (supra) where implied surrender of lease has been discussed referring to another judgment of the Apex Court in the Case of Shah Mathurdas Maganlal & Co, that creation of a new relationship or relinquishment of the possession, is an act indicative of implied surrender of the lease and therefore, it is argued that since by the letter dated 15.9.2018 the original lease virtually surrendered certain area of the lease property in favour of the tenure holder lessor, it would amount to be a valid surrender in view of Section 111 and as such the relinquishment of the right would not require to be registered on one hand, and the second is that since the original lesee did not put any objection to the subsequent lease of a part of land in favour of the petitioner on 14/15.12.2018, such a conduct would be deemed as it would amount to be an implied surrender.

58. We have carefully gone through the judgment of the Apex Court and we find that the Apex Court has held vide paragraph 29 that the lease rights since are governed by the terms and condition contained therein and if the subsequent agreement did not provide about the fate of tenancy earlier created, such subsequent agreement would not amount to surrender of tenancy rights created under the lease and thus, vide paragraphs 32 and 33 the Court has held thus:

33. In the light of the foregoing discussion, we are of the considered opinion that the tenancy in question between the parties did not result in its determination as contemplated under Section 111 of the TP Act due to execution of the agreement dated 13-5-1993 between the parties for sale of the suit house and the same remained uneffected not withstanding execution of the agreement dated 13-5-1993."*

59. Applying the above principle to the facts of the present case, we find that in this case the term of the lease did not provide any such surrender or transfer of part of the land and, therefore, it is difficult to accept the letter of the lessee dated 15.9.2018 to be a letter referable to clause-7 of the lease agreement as the said clause does not talk of the part surrender of the lease rights qua land, or right in respect of part of the land or the relinquishment of rights in respect of any specific part of the land, nor, does it talk of part specific surrender of land nor, as to how part of land came to identified to justify any part specific surrendered of the lease rights. No such measurement was carried out on the spot to partition the land lawfully by a lessee in the absence of such right being conferred under the lease agreement to provide it a separate regular revenue number so as to hold that there was a consent or agreement between the original lessee and lessor to vary the lease in the manner in which it is stated to be done on account of the letter issued by the original lessee.

60. Coming to the judgment in the case of Abdul Majid (supra) it again refers to the mutual agreement of the rights as a whole while relinquishment or surrender has come to be recognized under Section 111of T.P. Act and that it cannot be read to be recognized part surrender of the lease rights. In cases where the part cannot be identified except when undertaken in accordance with provision of revenue laws and if the land falls in a revenue village the partition, therefore, unless it is identifiable in law with due exercise of act of partition, the part surrender of rights would amount to varying the condition of the lease agreement unilaterally and the legal position being very much clear that the document that acknowledges any relinquishment of rights in variation to the term of lease it is required to be registered. Such rights would not acquire validity by mere oral consent of the parties. The Apex Court judgment in the case of Sunil Kumar (supra) is very much attracted and applicable here in this case that the document that varies the essential terms of the existing registered lease is required to be registered under Section 17 of the Registration Act.

61. The doctrine of implied surrender as has come to be discussed by Andhra Pradesh High Court in its judgment in the case of Konijeti Venkayya (supra) also talks of a fact position where the subsequent agreement or mutual agreement has come to be reached between the parties in respect of lease property. Interest that has been held to be valid in the said case would not be attracted in the setting of the facts of the present case where there is no such surrender of wholesome lease rights at any point of time. It is a case where the surrender is guided by an act of partitioning the land which condition is not there in the present case to be taken as a right conferred upon the lessee under the original lease agreement, inasmuch as Clause 7 of the original lease agreement also does not stipulate any such situation where lease rights can be relinquished in part.

62. In our view judgment in the cases of Jamuna Oil Mills (supra) and T.K. Lathika (supra) would not be attracted as well in the present case. The land lord and tenant relationship which has come to be discussed in the said case is in respect of the tenanted premises as a whole the area of land that had been surrendered and not any part of the interest being transferred or relinquished in respect thereof.

63. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has vehemently urged that in the light of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Krishan Kumar Khemka (supra) the part surrender of the lease has come to be recognized and acknowledged as valid in law and a mere part surrender would not amount to surrender of entire lease rights. It is interesting to note that in the said case the Court was virtually dealing with the rights of the lessor because the lessee who had the tenanted premises of four flats had come to relinquish rights in respect of two flats duly identified as separate property and then in respect of remaining two flats the Court observed that it would be a surrender of rights in respect of part of the property and the Court, therefore, held that surrender of a part of the lease property would not amount to implied surrender of the entire tenancy and the rest of the tenant would remain untouched. Grindlays Bank that was the tenant of the four flat and had surrendered two flat only which was treated to be a partial surrender and therefore, in that fact background the Court held that they would continue to enjoy the tenancy in respect of the two remaining flats in their possession.

64. It is not disputed by the parties that the lease agreement is governed under the Transfer of Property Act and, therefore, if the lease rights can be created by a registered document and the document does not create any right that the lease property can be partitioned and any part surrender thereof can be made by the lessee and the property is identified as one and the same, in our considered opinion lessee cannot be permitted partition it in the absence of express condition so as to relinquish interest in part.

65. The judgment in the case of State of H.P. Vs. Kishan Lal (supra) very clearly holds that Section 111 (e) contemplates surrender of the entire interest under the lease and not a part of the interest alone. It is worth noticing that the judgment of the Apex Court in the Case of H.P v. Kishan Lal by a two judge bench has not been referred to and discussed in the case of Krishan Kumar Khemka (supra) relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner.

66. In the case of H. K. Sharma Vs. Ram Lal (supra) the Apex Court had categorically held that a subsequent agreement ipso facto would not result in determination of lease. The question therefore, is what are the terms and conditions provided in the lease and any act bringing an end to the agreement between the original lessor and the lessee has to be seen and given validity if mutually agreed in tune with terms and condition of the original lease agreement.

67. Coming to the issue of registration of a document as it is argued by the learned counsel for the respondent Corporation that the lease surrender letter dated 9.6.2018 was required to be registered one in order to create any right in favour of the lessor, to execute a subsequent lease, we find that while the lease agreement is necessarily required to be registered under Section 107 of the Transfer of Property Act, Section 17 of the Registration Act provides that non testamentary instruments that purport, decline or limit or extinguish rights in immovable property are required to be registered. Since in the present case, it has been argued by the learned counsel for the respondent Corporation that the doctrine of implied surrender would not be attracted as a part of property is sought to be surrender or in other words part of interest in the property is sought to be relinquished, the letter which has set into motion a subsequent lease was necessarily required to be registered one and since it is not a registered document, it cannot create any right in favour of the lessor to execute a subsequent agreement in respect of that property or part of the property surrendered.

68. He also argues that while the rights and properties are governed under the lease agreement in between the parties if a document is not registered which is otherwise required to be compulsorily registered, then on that count any subsequent document has come to be executed, the Corporation being third party is not bound by such agreement nor, there can it be compelled to acknowledge and admit that such a subsequent lease agreement as valid one. If any document is not required for any collateral purposes and was definitely meant to create rights to further create a third party right, such document of necessity, is required to be registered under the law. The Collateral purpose it is argued, as defined under the said judgment, would not be for the purposes of creating or assigning or limiting or extinguishing any right in the immovable property. Collateral purpose has also come to be defined in the Ratan Lal and others (supra) by Allahabad High Court wherein it was held that parties in a family arrangement that create right by putting them down in writing would not amount a collateral purpose and such document is required to be necessarily registered. So also the Madras High Court in the Case of Raghunath G (supra) and the same has remained reiterated by the Apex Court in the case of Kalu and other (supra). It is therefore, rightly argued that since the letter of the original lessee is sought to create a new kind of right in favour of the lessor, relinquishing the rights in part of the property, it would require to be registered in law.

69. What the petitioners have sought to urge is that the letter dated 15.9.2018 should be read in evidence as an act of surrender of lease, cannot be accepted in the light of legal principle discussed above. It is a case where the petitioner wants the Corporation to read a document which is otherwise inadmissible in evidence for want of due registration. Act of surrender under the letter dated 15.9.2018 is an express act and not guided by any mutual agreement and therefore, to that extent it being unilateral document creating right in favour of the lessor by means of alleged relinquishment of interest by the original lessee, it cannot be binding on the Corporation, a third party and the Corporation cannot be held to have manifestly erred in rejecting the letter that entitled the original tenure holder to create a further lease.

70. The legal position that emerges out from the above discussions can be summarized as under:

(i) Every transfer of rights and interest by a lease agreement to be time specific or in perpetuity is required to be in writing.

(ii) Every transfer of rights and interest in immovable property for a period beyond one year under lease agreement is required to be by registered instrument.

(iii) A lease agreement lays down terms and condition granting rights and interest of lessee and any variation done by the lessee is permissible in writing only and such document is also required to be registered.

(iv) Section 111 (e) and (f) contemplate relinquishment of rights and interest whether by express act or implied as required in law but such relinquishment should be of lease rights in its entirety as it determine the base as a whole.

(v) Part relinquishment of interest and rights qua leased property is recognized in India but that would be (a) subject to lease agreement (b) if lease property can be divided and identifiable, in other words part relinquishment/ surrender should be part specific and this position should be discernable from the terms of lease.

(vi) Division of a holding/ land or property under a lease if identified as one, it would amount to verying the terms and conditions of lease and, so is necessarily required to be registered.

(vii) Any mutual agreement to permit part surrender of property under a lease except when it provides for that, unless registered, will not bind a third party, as having no evidentiary value thereof and no rights can flow in favour of a third person.

71. In view of the above we are of the view that the lease deed if it has come to be rejected by the Corporation for not creating sufficient right in favour of the petitioner so as to accept offer of land, a subject matter of the lease agreement for the purpose of allotment of retail outlet dealership, nothing wrong has been committed and therefore the question-A stands answered in negative against the petitioner.

72. So far as the other question regarding the discretion of the Corporation, we are of the view that the Corporation is in the best position to decide which land suits to its business prospects and the discretion exercised in that regard has to be seen only from the view that the corporation would be interested in providing its investment only in safe and secured land. If the Corporation has found that the document pertaining to the land are not absolutely clean in the sense that there exists chances of litigation in future qua the land in which investment is to be made, the Corporation is in best position to understand to take decision as to whether the investment should be made or not over such land. So the suitability of the land lies within the domain and the discretion of the Corporation.

73. The Indian Oil Corporation being a public sector corporation and huge public money being involved in the matter any investment of the public money in a property that may turn out to be disputed in future would be against the public policy also and, therefore, we are of the opinion that for the purpose of suitability of land the discretion exercised by the Corporation in the normal circumstances be not interfered with unless it is found to be an act absolutely arbitrary hit by Article 14 of the Constitution or for mala fides in exercise of the discretion by the Corporation.

74. An exercise of evaluation and decision making is subject to judicial review in the event an action is vitiated for bias, mala fides and in violation of principles of natural justice. Even evaluation of credentials if vitiated for utter ignorance of laws or by whimsical action, would invite interference but where a document becomes a matter of contentious issue and involves complicated question of facts qua title and needed adjudication by a civil court for its valid declaration as involving valuable rights of parties, Corporation, a third party would be justified in keeping its hand off. Case in hand has the element to invite long drawn civil litigation in future and so if corporation decides to term such land as not suitable, we do not find any fault with the Corporation.

75. From the discussions that we have made above, we do not find that the discretion exercised by the Corporation is in any manner arbitrary or capricious one so as to warrant interference by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution. Consequently the writ petition fails and is dismissed with no order as to cost.

A. Civil Law-U.P. Industrial Dispute Act, 1947 – Section 4-K and 6-N – Labour Dispute – Reference regarding termination – Delay – Principle of moulding relief – Reference made after about 20 years from termination was a stale one and made at a point of time when practically no dispute fit for adjudication could be said to be in existence – The inordinate delay and latches, in the instant case, had rendered the claim 'dead' – It was not a case where the claim remained alive but was raised with delay – The principle of moulding relief, where the Tribunal is approached with delay, but in respect a 'live claim' would not apply to the facts of the instant case – The reference held invalid. (Para 12 and 14)

Held –

15. Moreover, in the impugned award, there is no clear cut finding that respondent No. 1 had worked for 240 days in twelve calendar months preceding the termination of his service. The Tribunal had merely observed that there is evidence to show that respondent No.1 had worked as daily wager continuously between November 1985 to 31.5.1990. The Tribunal thereafter referred to Section 6-N and then jumped to the conclusion that there is violation of the said provision. On this ground also the impugned award cannot be sustained in law.

Writ Petition allowed. (E-1)

5. Ratan Chandra Sammanta and others vs. Union of India and others, 1993 (II) LLJ 676 SC

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Case called out in revised list. Learned Standing Counsel Sri Shree Prakash Singh is present on behalf of the petitioners. No one is present on behalf of the respondents.

2. The petitioners have challenged the award dated 21.9.2016 passed by Industrial Tribunal (respondent No.2) in Adjudication Case No.7 of 2011 in a reference made under Section 4-K of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act'). The Reference was to the following effect :-

Whether the termination of service of Rajesh Kumar Awasthi son of Virendra Kumar Awasthi on 1.6.1990 by the employer was proper and valid. If not, to what relief the workman is entitled to and with what description?

3. The case of respondent No.1 was that he was appointed on the post of Assistant Pairokar in the department on 1.11.1985. He continuously worked since then. Abruptly, his service was terminated on 1.6.1990 without complying with the requirements of Section 6-N of the Act. The petitioners filed their written statement and categorically pleaded that there was no post of Assistant Pairokar in the department. Respondent No.1 was engaged as daily wager for doing pairvi of court cases. On direction of the then Director, the department stopped taking work from him since 1.6.1990. As he was engaged as daily wager having regard to exigency of work, therefore there is neither termination of service of respondent No.1 nor any question of non compliance of Section 6-N of the Act. The reference made to the Tribunal is bad in law and liable to be dismissed.

4. The record reveals that respondent No.1 had filed two writ petitions before this Court. The first writ petition bearing No.17783 of 1990 was filed by petitioner challenging the order dated 1.6.1990, by which the respondents stopped taking work from the petitioner. The writ petition was dismissed by order dated 21.4.1992 on the ground that the petitioner was only a daily wager. However the representation made by him dated 25.6.1990 was directed to be disposed of within a month. It seems that in compliance of the said direction, the representation of the petitioner was decided by the department on 26.4.1993 and the same was rejected. The request made for re-employment was turned down. The petitioner again approached this Court by way of Writ Petition No.16680 of 1988. It was dismissed on 14.2.2006 on the ground that it was a second writ petition for the same relief and thus not maintainable. The petitioner moved an application on 29.9.2009 seeking reference of dispute under the Act. The dispute raised by the petitioner was referred for adjudication to the Tribunal on 24.12.2010.

5. The Tribunal after considering respective case of the parties accepted the case of the petitioners that there was no post of Assistant Pairokar in the department and that engagement of respondent No.1 was only as a daily wager. It was further held that though respondent No.1 worked as a daily wager, but he was paid salary on monthly basis. He worked continuously from 1985 to 31.5.1990. However, without examining whether respondent No.1 had actually worked for 240 days in twelve calender month preceding termination of service, it was held that there was violation of Section 6-N of the Act. Thereafter, the Tribunal proceeded to consider the issue as to the relief to which respondent No.1 was entitled to. The Tribunal held that the dispute was raised in the year 2010, although service was terminated on 1.6.1990. After such long interval, it would not be proper to direct his reinstatement or grant back wages. Instead, it awarded a lumpsum compensation of Rs.1,50,000/-.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that since the service of respondent No.1 was allegedly terminated on 1.6.1990 and the reference was sought in the year 2009, it was apparently a stale claim and ought not to have been entertained. In support of his case, he has placed reliance on judgements of the Supreme Court in Chief Engineer, Ranjit Sagar Dam and others vs. Sham Lal, AIR 2006 SC 2682, and Prabhakar vs. Joint Director Sericulture Department and another, AIR 2016 SC 2984 and judgement of this Court in State of U.P. vs. Presiding Officer Labour Court and another (Writ-C No.50174 of 2016) decided on 14.11.2019. He further submitted that there is no clear cut finding that respondent No.1 had worked continuously for more than 240 days in twelve calender months preceding his termination from service. Consequently, the findings rendered by the Tribunal that there is violation of Section 6-N of the Act is not sustainable in law.

7. It is not in dispute that alleged termination of service was on 1.6.1990. The application seeking reference was filed on 29.9.2009. The reference order is dated 24.12.2010. Undoubtedly, there was delay of 19 years in seeking reference and 20 years if the period is reckoned from the date reference was made. During this period, respondent No.1 had filed two writ petitions before this Court as narrated above, but both of which were dismissed. The first writ petition was dismissed on 21.4.1992 followed by order of the department dated 26.9.1993 rejecting the representation of respondent No.1. The petitioner filed second writ petition in the year 1998 i.e., after more than five years. The said writ petition was also dismissed being for the same relief. Respondent No.1 again kept quite for three years and once again re-agitated the issue in the year 2009 followed by reference in the year 2010. Evidently, there was inordinate delay on part of respondent no.1 in seeking the reference.

8. In Chief Engineer, Ranjit Sagar Dam (supra), the Supreme Court placed reliance on Para 6 of its earlier judgement in Nedungadi Bank Ltd. vs. K.P. Madhavankutty,(2006) I LLJ 561 SC and others, which is as follows :-

""6. Law does not prescribe any time-limit for the appropriate Government to exercise its powers under Section 10 of the Act. It is not that this power can be exercised at any point of time and to revive matters which had since been settled. Power is to be exercised reasonably and in a rational manner. There appears to us to be no rational basis on which the Central Government has exercised powers in this case after a lapse of about seven years of the order dismissing the respondent from service. At the time reference was made no industrial dispute existed or could be even said to have been apprehended. A dispute which is stale could not be the subject-matter of reference under Section 10 of the Act. As to when a dispute can be said to be stale would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. When the matter has become final, it appears to us to be rather incongruous that the reference be made under Section 10 of the Act in the circumstances like the present one. In fact it could be said that there was no dispute pending at the time when the reference in question was made. The only ground advanced by the respondent was that two other employees who were dismissed from service were reinstated. Under what circumstances they were dismissed and subsequently reinstated is nowhere mentioned. Demand raised by the respondent for raising an industrial dispute was ex-facie bad and incompetent."

9. In the said judgement, the Supreme Court has also referred to another judgement in Ratan Chandra Sammanta and others vs. Union of India and others, 1993 (II) LLJ 676 SC wherein it was held that a casual labourer retrenched by the employer deprives himself of remedy available in law by delay itself.

10. In Prabhakar (supra), the Supreme Court, after considering various aspects resulting from delay in seeking reference, summarised the legal position thus :-

"42. To summarise, although there is no limitation prescribed under the Act for making a reference under Section 10(1) of the Act, yet it is for the 'appropriate Government' to consider whether it is expedient or not to make the reference. The words 'at any time' used in Section 10(1) do not admit of any limitation in making an order of reference and laws of limitation are not applicable to proceedings under the Act. However, the policy of industrial adjudication is that very stale claims should not be generally encouraged or allowed inasmuch as unless there is satisfactory explanation for delay as, apart from the obvious risk to industrial peace from the entertainment of claims after long lapse of time, it is necessary also to take into account the unsettling effect which it is likely to have on the employer's financial arrangement and to avoid dislocation of an industry."

11. The decision of this Court in State of U.P. vs. Presiding Officer (supra) cited by learned standing counsel holds that in case the termination was made in the year 1991 and reference in the year 2014, it cannot be said to be in respect of any live dispute.

12. Having regard to the legal principles enunciated by the Supreme Court in various decisions discussed above, the inescapable conclusion is that the reference made in the year 2010 with regard to alleged termination of respondent No.1 on 1.6.1990 was a stale one and made at a point of time when practically no dispute fit for adjudication could be said to be in existence. The consistent stand of the petitioners, since they stopped taking work from the respondent, had been that he could not be reengaged as there is no post of Assistant Pairokar nor his service was required otherwise. It was not a case where at any stage any assurance was extended to him even for re-consideration of his case for re-engagement. In such situation, even filing of two writ petitions before this Court, last of which stood dismissed on the ground that it was a second petition for the same cause of action, is not sufficient to infer that the respondent had been bonafidely pursuing the remedies. As noted above, the second writ was dismissed in 2006 itself, but again the respondent did not immediately sought reference but again waited for three years and filed the application in the year 2009.

13. It would be worthwhile to allude to an example cited by Supreme Court in Prabhakar (supra) to explain the concept as to when delay would be fatal, rendering the claim 'dead' and when not. To wit :-

"Take, for example, a case where the workman issues notice after his termination, questioning the termination and demanding reinstatement. He is able to show that there were discussions from time to time and the parties were trying to sort out the matter amicably. Or he is able to show that there were assurances by the Management to the effect that he would be taken back in service and because of these reasons, he did not immediately raise the dispute by approaching the labour authorities seeking reference or did not invoke the remedy under Section 2A of the Act. In such a scenario, it can be treated that the dispute was live and existing as the workman never abandoned his right. However, in this very example, even if the notice of demand was sent but it did not evoke any positive response or there was specific rejection by the Management of this demand contained in the notice and thereafter he sleeps over the matter for number of years, it can be treated that he accepted the factum of his termination and rejection thereof by the management and acquiesced into the said rejection."

14. The inordinate delay and latches, in the instant case, had rendered the claim 'dead'. It was not a case where the claim remained alive but was raised with delay. Therefore, the principle of moulding relief, where the Tribunal is approached with delay, but in respect a 'live claim' would not apply to the facts of the instant case. The reference itself was invalid.

15. Moreover, in the impugned award, there is no clear cut finding that respondent No.1 had worked for 240 days in twelve calendar months preceding the termination of his service. The Tribunal had merely observed that there is evidence to show that respondent No.1 had worked as daily wager continuously between November 1985 to 31.5.1990. The Tribunal thereafter referred to Section 6-N and then jumped to the conclusion that there is violation of the said provision. On this ground also the impugned award cannot be sustained in law.

16. In consequence and as a result of discussion made above, the impugned award dated 21.9.2016 is quashed. The petition is allowed. However, in case any payment has already been made to respondent No.1 in pursuance of interim order of this Court, it shall not be recovered.

Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Rules, 1954-Rule 29-Petitioner-Chairman of Cane Development Council-granted authorisation u/R 29 -to watch and check the weightments at cane purchase centres within concerned zone-authorisation order withdrawn-Power under Rule 29-to grant authorisation-discretionary-not an individual's rights-no rights of Petitioner is infringed-W.P. dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anoop Trivedi, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Siddhartha Baghel, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Mata Prasad, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondents. Sri Ravindra Singh and Sri Diptiman Singh, learned counsel for the parties who claim to be necessary parties but have not been impleaded, have also been heard.

2. The petitioner who has stated himself to be the Chairman of Cane Development Council, Daraula, Meerut had been granted authorisation by an order dated 18.10.2017 to watch and check weighments at the cane purchase centres within the zone concerned. The aforesaid authorisation had been made by the Cane Commissioner, Sugarcane and Sugar, U.P. (in short 'the Cane Commissioner') under Rule 29 of the U.P. Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Rules, 19541.

3. The Cane Commissioner by the order impugned dated 12.04.2018 has divested him of the power to watch and check the weighments etc., as granted in terms of the earlier order dated 18.10.2017. The order withdrawing the authorisation granted to the petitioner has referred to some enquiry report submitted by an enquiry team constituted by the District Magistrate.

4. The order withdrawing the authorisation issued under Rule 29 of the Rules, 1954 is sought to be assailed on the ground that the same has been passed without affording opportunity of hearing to the petitioner and without serving him a show cause notice.

5. In order to appreciate the controversy the provisions under the Uttar Pradesh Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Act, 19532 and the rules made thereudner namely the Rules, 1954 may be referred to.

6. The aforementioned Act, 1953 and the Rules, 1954 contain detailed and elaborate provisions regarding supply of the sugarcane by the cane growers, its purchase by the sugar factories and payment of price thereof. In terms of the scheme of the Act, 1953, a mechanism is provided for ensuring the required continuous supply of sugarcane to the sugar factories during the crushing season. Keeping in mind the interest of the sugarcane growers, cane growers' co-operative societies, sugar factories and also the inter se interest of the sugar factories in the area, the supply of sugarcane to the sugar factories in the quantity which may reasonably be required by them for production in a particular crushing season is regulated by the provisions of the Act, 1953.

7. The Act, 1953 and the Rules, 1954 also provide for an administrative mechanism for inspection of the cane purchase centres and also for checking of the weighments, weigh-bridges and weights.

8. In addition, under Chapter VIII of the Rules, 1954, which relates to weighments, the Cane Commissioner is empowered to authorise any person including such employees and representatives of cane grower's co-operative societies as he may consider necessary to watch or check weighments, weigh-bridges and weights and also to examine the parchas in which the weights and prices of the cane are recorded.

9. Section 11 of the Act, 1953 empowers the State Government to appoint any person or designate such officers of the Government as it thinks fit to be Inspectors within such local limits as may be assigned to them. The Inspectors are required to perform the duties and exercise the powers conferred upon them under the Act, 1953. For ease of reference Section 11 is being extracted below:-

"11. Inspectors.--(1) The State Government may for purposes of this Act appoint any person or designate such officers of the Government as it thinks fit to be Inspectors within such local limits as may be assigned to them.

(2) The Inspectors shall perform the duties and exercise the powers conferred or imposed upon them by or under this Act."

10. Chapter V of the Rules, 1954 relates to the Inspectors, and in terms of Rule 19 contained thereunder, the Cane Commissioner shall be ex officio Inspector for the whole of the State. The Commissioners, the Collectors, the Sub-Divisional Officers, the District Planning Officers, the Deputy Cane Commissioners, the Assistant Cane Commissioners, the Range Co-ordination Officers, the District Cane Officers, the Additional District Cane Officers and the Senior Cane Development Inspectors shall be ex officio Inspectors within their respective jurisdiction. In terms of the proviso to Rule 19 the Cane Commissioner may with the object that the inspection may be more effective has been empowered to extend the jurisdiction of the ex officio Inspectors other than the Commissioners, the Collectors, the Sub-Divisional Officers, the District Planning Officers and for the said purpose he may form special checking squads headed by such ex officio Inspectors. The powers and responsibilities of the Inspectors have been enumerated under Rule 20. For ready reference Rules 19 and 20 of the Rules, 1954, referred to above, are being reproduced below:-

"19. The Cane Commissioner and the Sugar Commissioner shall be ex officio Inspectors for the whole of the State. The Commissioners, the Collectors, the Sub-Divisional Officers, the District Planning Officers, the Deputy Cane Commissioners, the Assistant Cane Commissioners, the Range Co-ordination Officers, the District Cane Officers, the Additional District Cane Officers and the Senior Cane Development Inspectors shall be ex officio Inspectors within their respective jurisdiction.

Provided that where necessary the Cane Commissioner or the Sugar Commissioner, as the case may be, may with the object that the inspection may be more effective, by order extend the jurisdiction of ex officio Inspectors other than the Commissioners, the Collectors, the Sub-Divisional Officers, the District Planning Officers and may from special checking squads headed by such ex officio Inspectors.

20. Every Inspector may, within the local limits of his jurisdiction and with such assistance as may be necessary--

(a) enter any factory or other place which is used or which he has reason to believe is being used as a purchasing center or for the maintenance of any records, registers, accounts or other documents relevant thereto.

(b) examine the weighbridge or weights used, kept or possessed for the weighment or purchase of cane.

(c) cause any vehicle carrying cane or other consignments of cane to be weighed or re-weighed in his presence.

(d) check weighments, purchases and payments made.

(e) inspect factory roads, cattlesheds, cattle troughs and lighting arrangements made for weighments of cane.

(f) examine the records showing the amount of cane purchased and crushed.

(g) call for from the occupier of a factory or his employee, any information relating to the purchase, supply, crushing of cane and payment of cane price.

(h) issue from time to time such instructions as may be necessary to ensure equitable purchase of cane.

(i) examine any records, registers, accounts or documents of Cane-growers' Co-operative Societies.

(j) examine any record, register or documents or call for any information relating to the payment of purchase tax, commission and price of cane.

(k) take into his possession and remove from the premises of a factory or purchasing center such records, registers, documents statements and returns, maintained or caused to be maintained by the occupier of a factory as he may require for the purpose of any enquiry or examination, and

(l) exercise such other powers as may be necessary for carrying out the purposes of the Act and these Rules."

11. Chapter VIII of the Rules, 1954 may also be taken note of which is in respect of weighments, and whereunder in terms of Rule 29 the Cane Commissioner is empowered to authorise any person including such employees and representatives of cane growers' co-operative societies as he may consider necessary to watch or check weighments, weigh-bridges and weights, and also to examine the parchas in which the weights and prices of the cane are recorded. Rule 29 of the Rules, 1954 referred to above reads as under:-

"29. The Cane-Commissioner may authorise any person including such employees and representatives of Cane-growers' Co-operative Societies as he may consider necessary to watch or check weighments, weigh-bridges and weights, as also to examine the parchas in which the weights and prices of the cane are recorded."

12. The provision for grant of authorisation under Rule 29 to watch or check weighments is thus in addition to the elaborate administrative machinery provided for in terms of Section 11 of the Act, 1953 and the Rules 19 and 20 of the Rules, 1954 in terms of which the Cane Commissioner and certain other specified officers are to be ex officio Inspectors empowered with the power of inspection, which inter alia, includes the power to examine the weighments also.

13. It is therefore seen that the power to be exercised by the Cane Commissioner under Rule 29 to grant authorisation to watch or check weighments, is discretionary and is to be exercised whenever the Cane Commissioner may consider it necessary to do so. Conferment of discretionary powers in the hands of administrative authorities is not only well recognised but is also considered essential for effective administration.

14. The provisions under Rule 29 of the Rules, 1954 do not create any obligation on the Cane Commissioner to necessarily authorise any particular person to watch or check the weighments, weigh-bridges and weights as also to examine the parchas in which the weights and prices of the cane are recorded and no individual can claim any legally enforceable right with regard to the same.

15. Counsel for the petitioner has not been able to show any right of the petitioner to be allowed to watch or check weighments by virtue of his holding the office of the Chairman of the Cane Development Council, Daraula, Meerut.

16. In view of the above, no legal right of the petitioner has been infringed even if authorisation granted earlier by the Cane Commissioner has been withdrawn.

17. It has lastly been submitted that a fresh enquiry ought to be conducted in the matter after giving notice and opportunity to the petitioner.

18. The material on record, in particular, the communication dated 15.10.2019 (Annexure-15) of the writ petition indicates that the petitioner was given an opportunity during the course of the enquiry. However, if the petitioner still has some grievance, it would be open to him to approach the authority concerned.

19. This Court is of the view that since no legal rights of the petitioner have been infringed there is no ground for interference in the matter.

20. The writ petition thus fails and is dismissed subject to the observations made above.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Piyush Agrawal, J.)

1. Heard Sri W.H. Khan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Javed Hasain Khan, for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for State-respondents and Sri Vinod Kumar Chandel, for respondent nos. 2 and 3.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner is challenging the recovery certificate dated 24.8.2019 issued by Upper Mukha Adhikari, Zila Panchayat, Sonebhadra as well as recovery citation dated 0.1.2019 issued by Tehsildar Chunar, District Mirzapur, on the ground that there is no provision under UP Kshetra Samiti and Zila Panchayat Adhiniyam, 1961, to recover the contractual amount as arrears of land revenue.

3. Brief facts of the case is that in pursuance of the Advertisement dated 4.7.2015 issued by Adhyaksh and Upper Mukhya Adhikari, Zila Panchayat Sonebhadra and published in daily "Aaj' dated 7.7.2015 for awarding contract of realizing Parivahan Shulk for the year 2015-16, the petitioner submitted his tender and was a successful bidder of the price of Rs. 8 crores. In pursuance thereof an agreement was executed on 20.7.2015 between the petitioner and Zila Panchayat, Sonebhadra.

4. It has been averred that neither at the time of advertisement dated 4.7.2015/7.7.2015 nor at the time of entering into the contract dated 20.7.2015, the respondents informed the petitioner that validity of the by-laws of Zila Panchayat, Sonebhadra was under challenged by several persons whereby the realization of Pariwahan Shulka was stayed. In view of the pendency of litigation at various stages i.e. before this Court as well as before the Apex Court, the company as well as the firms did not pay the prescribed Pariwahan Shulka to the petitioner and therefore, the petitioner could not realize the same.

5. It is further averred that somehow, the petitioner deposited the first instalment of Rs. 01 crore and security deposit of Rs. 25 lakh, which was to be adjusted in the last instalment. Thereafter another two instalments, firstly on 30.9.2015, the petitioner deposited Rs. 3.50 crore along with tax of Rs. 7 lakhs and additional tax of Rs. 14,000/- and the other on 31.12.2015, deposited Rs. 3.25 crores along with tax of Rs. 07 lakhs and additional tax of Rs. 14,000/-.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that on 26.12.2015, Upper Mukhaya Adhikari wrote a letter to the petitioner for deposit of remaining amount of Parivahan Shulk within three days and in case of default the loss caused to the Zila Panchayat would be realized from the petitioner. In response thereto, the petitioner sent a reply dated 5.1.2016 to the Upper Mukha Adhikari in which it has been submitted that the petitioner was not informed by Zila Panchayat about the pending litigation, therefore, different companies are neither paying the tax nor cooperating with the petitioner as such the petitioner could not collect the prescribed fee.

7. He further submitted that when the coercive action was taken against the petitioner by terminating the agreement by order dated 18.1.2016, a Writ Petition No. 3954 of 2016 was filed before this Court in which the pleadings have been exchanged but the same is still pending. In the meantime, the impugned recovery notice has been issued for realization of Rs. 3,26,21,116/- including 10 % collection charges as arrears of land revenue.

8. The counsel for the petitioner submitted that admittedly in pursuance of advertisement dated 7.7.2015 published in daily "Aaj' , the petitioner applied for contract of Pariwahan Shulk for the period 2015-16 and the petitioner was successful bidder, thus the contract was executed in favour of the petitioner on 20.7.2015. But neither at the time of advertisement nor at the time of execution of contract, Zila Parishad had intimated the petitioner that litigation in respect of validity of by-laws of Zila Parishad is pending as such the Parivahan Shulk cannot be realized. It is further submitted that in view of pending litigation, the Parivahan Shulk could not be realized and the same was duly intimated to the respondents but instead of co-operating with the petitioner, the respondents choose to terminate the contract of the petitioner and also issued impugned recovery certificate to recover the contractual amount as the arrears of land revenue.

9. He further submitted that under UP Kshetra Samiti and Zila Panchayat Adhiniyam, 1961, there is no provision for recovery of contractual amount as an arrears of land revenue.

10. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgement and order passed by this Court in Writ C No. 12575 of 2013 (Subhas Tiwari Vs. State of UP) decided on 17.10.2014; relevant part of the judgement is extracted below :-

"Sri W.H. Khan, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioner has contended before us that the amount which are claimed under the recovery certificate are the sums which the Zila Panchayat alleges to be payable under the contract aforementioned and which cannot be recovered as arrears of land revenue in the light of various Division Bench judgments of this Court. In support of his submission Sri Khan has placed reliance on the judgment rendered by this Court in Mohd. Umar Vs. Collector / District Magistrate, Moradabad and others 2006 (3) AWC 2412; Sanjay Kumar Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and others 2013 (5) ADJ 506; Abrar Hussain Vs. District Magistrate / Collector and others in Writ Petition No. 40319 of 2006 decided on 26.11.2013. The counsel for the Zila Panchayat does not dispute the legal proposition and principles laid down in the aforementioned judgements and is also not able to dispute the position in law as noticed and declared in the aforesaid judgments.

For the view taken by the Division Benches of this Court, we find it just and proper to conclude that the impugned recovery certificate, seeking to enforce the recovery as arrears of land revenue, cannot be sustained."

11. The counsel for the petitioner further contended that in the absence of any provision under UP Kshetra Samiti and Zila Panchayat Adhiniyam, 1961, no recovery of contractual amount can be made as arrears of land revenue and in view of the judgement passed by this Court in case of Subhash Tiwari (supra), the impugned recovery citation is liable to be set aside.

12. Learned counsel for the respondents did not dispute the aforesaid contention made by the learned counsel for the petitioner.

13. We have considered the arguments of the learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record.

14. There is no factual dispute in the matter. The only contention raised by the counsel for the petitioner for consideration of this Court is that the contractual amount cannot be recovered as arrears of land revenue as U.P. Kshetra Samiti and Zila Panchayat Adhiniyam, 1961 does not empower the respondents to do so, therefore the impugned recovery certificate is liable to be set aside.

15. The respondents could not place any material before this Court to show any provision which empowers the Zila Panchayat to recover the contractual amount as arrears of land revenue.

16. This Court in the case of Subhash Chand Vs. Collector, Etawah and others, 1999 (1) AWC, 582 held as follows:

22. In our view the Theka money due is on account of Tehbazari fee payable to the Zila Parishad. The Zila Parishad in order to managing itself realisation of the Tehbazari fee has given it on Theka of the petitioner. It has passed its headache or burden to the Thekedar. The loss and profits are his responsibility. The Theka money flows from Tehbazari fee therefore how could it be taken away from the scope and ambit of the Act. In our view it has a direct nexus with the Tehbazari fee. We have to consider the substance and not the form while interpreting the document.

23. The Legislature has used the phraseology "any sum due" in Section 161 of U. P. Kshettra Panchayats and Zila Panchayats Adhiniyam, 1961. Similarly, the Legislature has used the phraseology "any sum due" in Section 159 also of the said Act. Thus, a combined reading of both these statutory provisions, i.e. Sections 159 and 161 of the said Act makes it crystal clear that the phraseology "any sum due" has been used by the Legislature in such a comprehensive sense that it covers in its widest amplitude any sum due under the Act or under any rule/bye-law framed thereunder and therefore, any such sura would be recoverable as arrears of land revenue, i.e. in the manner as provided under Chapter VIII of the said Act. Accordingly we are of the considered view that the term 'any sum due' in the facts and circumstances of present case, would Include the Theka money, i.e. the amount due from the Thekedar towards the Tehbazari fee or licence fee. This is the harmonious construction of the two provisions. The Legislature has used the term 'mutatis mutandis' in Section 161 of the Act which means in the given context that the provisions of Chapter VIII would apply to deal the recovery of taxes and certain other claims. The Legislature has purposely used the terms 'certain other claims' which includes any sum due. The mode of recovery provided by the Legislature is to recover as arrears of land revenue is a speedy and expeditious mode of recovery and we cannot question the wisdom of the Legislature in providing such a speedy and effective mode of recovery. It is very interesting aspect of the matter to note in the instant case. that the recovery certificate issued by the Atirikt Mukhya Adhikari, the respondent No. 3 to Collector Etawah attached as Annexure-1 to the writ petition has been challenged by means of this writ petition. A bare perusal of Annexure-1 shows that the amount of Rs. 2,75,000 which was sought to be recovered was shown as the amount due to the Zila Parishad. The relevant portion of Annexure-1 reads as under :

'महोदय, श्री सुभाष चन्द्र पुत्र श्री नत्थू सिंह निवासी संवारपुर परगवा इटावा जिसके संबंध में यह विश्वाश किया जाता है कि यह आपके जिले में स्थान संवारपुर परगना इटावा में निवास करता है उसकी

24. After hearing the learned counsel for the parties we are of the view that the amount in question can be recovered as arrears of land revenue and it is unfortunate that public money is not being paid by the petitioner. We are also of the view that the submissions raised by Mr. Agarwal that it cannot be recovered as arrears of land revenue are of no substance and we are also of the view that the petitioner introduced some pleas of the writ petition filed by one Sri Ali Hasan which is of no relevance in this petition as the land was different and the scope of that writ petition was different. It was regarding validity of fee.

25. We have considered the aforementioned judgments referred by the learned counsel for the petitioner first in Surendra Kumar Rai (supra)--the question of Section 161 was never discussed in this case. Similarly in Raj Bahadur Singh (supra)--it deals with U. P. Town Area Act. Bhagwati Prasad (supra)--it also deals with U. P. Town Area Act (Sections 20 and 21} Angad Pandey (supra)--it also deals with U. P. Town Area Committee and money dues which cannot be recovered as arrears of land revenue and it was held that any amount due to the Thekedar in view of the contractual term cannot be recovered as arrears of tax. Similarly in Umesh Chandra (supra)--it was observed that amount of Rs. 5,500 can be recovered under Section 158 of the Act as it is due to a Contractor and cannot be recovered under U. P. Moneys Recoveries of Dues Act as it is not tax or rent.

26. In other words the consistent view was that it is a contractual amount between the Contractor and Zila Panchayat and has no link with the fee. On the aforesaid facts we do not accept the ration as Section 161 did not fall for consideration in those judgments.

27. We are of the considered view that the plea raised by the petitioner that the money due cannot be recovered as arrears of land revenue and should not be ordinarily entertained in writ proceedings. We refuse to exercise, in the facts and circumstances, our discretion under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

17. Similar view has been taken by this Court in the case of Titu Singh Mathura Vs. District Magistrate/Collector, Mathura and others, 2003 (5) AWC 3479. Relevant part of the judgement is extracted below:-

6. From perusal of the aforesaid provisions of the Municipalities Act and Town Area Act, it is clear that the contention of the learned Counsel for the petitioner is well founded. Under Section 173-A of the Municipalities Act, it is provided that any sum due on account of tax, other thanoctroi or toll or any similar tax payable upon immediate demand, from a person to a board, the board may, recover as arrears of land revenue. In the instance case the amount in question became due from the petitioner as a result of default in payment of Theka money between the parties. Similarly Section 21 of the Town Areas Act provides that arrears of any tax imposed under this Act may be recovered and no other amount. Therefore, the provisions of Section 173-A of the Municipalities Act, and Section 21 of the Town Areas Act are not attracted. The amount in question is not a tax imposed under the aforesaid two Act and as such the amount due from the petitioner could not be recovered as arrears of land revenue. Besides the aforesaid decisions, there are two recent decisions also in Bisheshwar Singh @ Kalloo v. District Magistrate/Collector. Shahjahanpur and Ors. MANU/UP/0433/2001 and Rakesh Shukla v. District Magistrate/Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Phoolpur, Allahabad and Anr. MANU/UP/0554/2002. In these decisions also, the Division Bench found that the Theka money could not be recovered as arrears of land revenue. However, the Bench did not interfere on the ground that the equity was not in favour of the petitioner.

7. Therefore, in view of the decisions of the Division Benches, clearly holding that only taxes imposed under the Municipalities Act, and Town Area Act can be recovered as arrears of land revenue, we are of the opinion that the amount in question cannot be recovered as arrears of land revenue and the recovery certificate as well as the citation are liable to be quashed.

18. In the case of Iliyas Vs. State of UP and others, 2007 (2) ADJ, 143 (D.B.) this Court has held as follows:

4. In view of the aforesaid provisions the learned counsel for the petitioner submits that it is clear that only taxes, which are due to the municipalities can be recovered as arrears of land revenue and no other sum can be recovered as arrears of land revenue.

5. The petitioner has placed reliance upon a Division Bench judgment of this Court reported in 2006(3) UPLBEC, 2643 Mohammad Umar Vs. Collector/District Magistrate, Moradabad and others and reliance has been placed upon paras 10, 12 to 14 and paras 15 and 17 of the said judgment and has submitted that the Division Bench of this Court has held that amount due towards the contract for realization of Tehbazari cannot be recovered as arrears of land revenue and there is no provision under the Municipalities Act or U.P. Town Area Act authorizing the respondents to realize theka money as arrears of land revenue, as such, the said amount cannot be recovered in the said manner and has held that in view of the aforesaid fact, the respondents have no authority to recover the amount due to the petitioner as arrears of land revenue.

6. We have considered the submission made on behalf of the petitioner and the respondents. We are in full agreement with the judgment relied upon by the counsel for the petitioner. As there is no factual dispute in the present writ petition, the only question was to be decided whether the amount due against the petitioner can be recovered as arrears of land revenue or not. As in view of the Division Bench judgment of this Court, which is fully applicable to the present case, the Tehbazari amount due against the petitioner cannot be recovered as arrears of land revenue, as such, without inviting the counter affidavit, with the consent of the parties, the writ petition is being disposed of.

7. In view of the aforesaid fact, the recovery certificate dated 10.5.2004

(Annexure 5 to the writ petition issued by the respondents is hereby quashed. The writ petition is allowed. It is, however, open to the respondents to recover the amount from the petitioner in accordance with law.

19. This Court in the case of Mohd. Umar Vs. Collector / D.M. Moradabad and others, 2006 (9) ADJ 66 (All) (DB) has held herein below:

65. The first question which poses consideration is whether in the absence of execution of agreement an enforceable contract between the parties came into existence. The petitioners participated in the public auction for the collection of Tehbazari dues and were highest bidders. In a public auction the bidders offer their bids and the moment of fall of hammer on highest bid, that highest bid is taken to be accepted. In a public auction the fall of hammer concludes the contract. The auction proceedings, the list of bidders is the only evidence of the contract indicating that out of various offers the highest bid was accepted. Section 97 of the U.P. Municipalities Act relates to the execution of the contracts and provides that every contract made by or on behalf of a Municipality whereof the value or the amount exceeding to Rs.250/- shall be in writing provided that unless the contract has been duly executed in writing, no work including collection of materials in connection with the said contract shall be commenced or undertaken. Every such contract shall be signed by the President or the Vice President or by Executive Officer or Secretary or by any person or persons empowered under sub section (2) of sub-section (3) of previous section to sanction the contract if further and in the like manner empowered in this behalf by the Municipality. The auctions of Tehbazari contract were held in which the petitioners offered highest bids and made part payment of auction money. The petitioners having accepted the conditions of auction sale and having made payment in part performance of the contract a binding contract came into existence between the petitioners and the respondents. In a public auction on the acceptance of the highest bid of the tenderer a concluded contract between the parties enforceable at law came into existence. The highest bids of the petitioners at various auctions were in the nature of an offer which were accepted by the petitioners who were highest bidders and the petitioners deposited the amount in part a performance of the conditions of auction sales, therefore, a valid and legally enforceable contract came into being. Reliance in this regard may be placed on the decision in B.C. Mohendra Versus Municipal Board, Saharanpur AIR 1970 SC 729. Section 10 of the Indian Contract Act provides that all agreements are contracts if they are made by free consent of the parties competent to contract, for a lawful consideration and with a lawful object and are not expressly declared to be void. In all these cases the petitioners participated in an auction sale and being highest bidder made part payment under the terms and conditions of auction sales and carried out the work of collection of Tehbazari dues. The petitioners cannot wriggle out of the contract on the ground of non-execution of agreements. A concluded contract at auction sales came into being between the parties on the fall of hammer and acceptance of higher bid.

69. The decisions in the cases of Mahesh Chand (supra) and Surendra Kumar Rai (supra) have been distinguished and held to be per incuriam in the case of Subhash Chand Versus Collector Etawah and others 1999 (1) AWC 582 as the provisions of section 161 of the Adhiniyam 1961 did not fall for consideration in those judgments. Section 161 of the Adhiniyam 1961 provides that any sum due to Kshetra Panchayat under this Act or under any rule or under any bye-law made therein and declared by this Act or such rule or bye-law to be recovered in the manner provided by this Chapter shall mutatis mutandis be recoverable as provided in this Chapter. Section 161 deals with the recovery of dues of Kshettra Panchayat which is a distinct and separate body from a Zila Panchayat. The provisions exclusively relating to Kshettra Panchayat are not applicable to Zila Panchayats. Moreover, for the applicability of the provisions of section 161 any sum must be due to a Kshettra Panchayat and it must have been declared to be recoverable in the manner provided in Chapter VIII. In these writ petitions the Theka money is not due to Kshettra Panchayat under this Act or under any rule or any bye-laws made thereunder. The auction money is due to Zila Panchayats which are distinct and separate body. The amount being due to Zila Panchayats, the facts of the case of Subhash Chandra (supra) are distinguishable. In view of these facts, the unpaid amount of auction sale held by the Zila Panchayat cannot be recovered as arrears of land revenue.

20. Similar view has been taken by this Court in the case of Sanjay Kumar Gupta Vs. State of UP and others, 2013 (5) ADJ 506 (DB). Relevant part of the judgement is extracted below :-

9. Admittedly, the contract between the petitioner and Nagar Palika Parishad, Mawana was for realisation of entry fees/parking fees from the vehicles which enter the territory of Nagar Palika Parishad, Mawana, Meerut. It is thus in the nature of 'toll' and not 'tax'. Under Section 173(A) of the Municipalities Act, 1916, the Municipal Board can only recover a sum due on account of tax as arrears of land revenue. The section itself carves out an exception, by laying down that the Board will have no power to recover arrears of octroi or toll as arrears of land revenue. Interpreting the aforesaid provision of law, a Division Bench of this Court in Titu Singh v. District Magistrate/Collector, Mathura, 2003 (5) AWC 3479, has held that the arrears of theka money (parking fees) cannot be realised as arrears of land revenue. The said decision has been followed in [Iliyas v. State of U.P. and others,].

10. We are in respectful agreement with the view taken in the aforesaid decisions. Accordingly, it is held that the impugned citation for recovery of balance theka money, as arrears of land revenue is without jurisdiction.

11. Before parting, it may be stated that the contention of the respondents that since it is public money and therefore, the petitioner may be directed to pay the said amount, does not desist us from granting aforesaid relief to the petitioner as even in case it is public money, it has to be recovered only in accordance with the procedure prescribed by law.

12. The Apex Court in its judgment in Iqbal Naseer Usmani v. Central Bank of India and others, 2006 (2) SCC 241, repelled similar contention and held as under:

According to the High Court "the money of the Bank and financial institutions is public money, which should be in circulation, otherwise the Bank and depositors will suffer." We are afraid that while this may be very good sentiment, it cannot apply in the face of Section 3 of the Act for the reason that Section 3 does not envisage the provisions of the Act being utilised for recovery of every loan taken. Section 3(1)(b) permits this to be done only in respect of loans taken under a "State-sponsored scheme", which expression has been defined in Section 2(g) of the Act. Since it is admitted that the loan taken by the appellant was not under or in relation to a "State-sponsored Scheme" within the meaning of Section 2(g), whatever else it may be, it would not be recoverable by recourse to the machinery under Section 3 of the Act.

13. Following the law laid down by the Apex Court, we have no hesitation in granting the relief prayed for. Accordingly, the impugned citation dated 1.12.2009 issued by the Tehsildar, Mawana, District Meerut is hereby quashed.

21. In view of the legal proposition enumerative above as well as the principles laid down by this Court in the aforesaid judgements, it is very clear that contractual amount cannot be recovered as arrears of land revenue, in the absence of any provisions contained under UP Kshetra Samiti and Zila Panchayat Adhiniyam, 1961. Therefore, the action taken by the respondents by way of issuing the recovery citation is not legally justified.

22. The counsel for the respondents also could not bring any material or law contrary to the aforesaid judgements, before this Court, therefore, the action taken by the respondents in issuing recovery citation for recovery of the contractual amount as arrears of land revenue, is illegal.

23. In the facts of the case, we find just and proper to conclude that the impugned recovery certificate dated 24.8.2019 issued by Upper Mukhya Adhikari, Zila Panchayat, Sonebhadra and recovery citation dated 1.11.2019 issued by Tehsildar Chunar, Distt. Mirzapur, seeking to enforce the recovery of contractual amount as arrears of land revenue, cannot be sustained and are hereby quashed.

24. The writ petition is allowed. No order as to costs.

Writ Petition allowed. (E-1)

List of cases cited :-

1. Deepak Babaria and another Vs. State of Gujarat and others, (2014) 3 SCC 502

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J. & Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shashinandan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Vikas Budhwar, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Atul Tej Kulshrestha, learned counsel for the respondent Nos.3 and 4, Sri Arun Kumar Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for respondent Nos.1 and 2 and perused the record.

2. By means of this petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India the petitioner has questioned legality and propriety involved in the order dated 27.11.2019 whereby the petitioner's licence of the cattle fare/cattle market on his own land has come to be cancelled. He has accordingly, sought quashing of the order dated 27.11.2019 which has been filed as Annexure 7 to the writ petition.

3. Briefly stated facts of the case are that the petitioner having licence to run cattle market over his own land, was initially aggrieved against the notice dated 15.11.2019 whereby the running of the cattle market over the land of the petitioner was stopped on certain grounds regarding sanitation of the place over which the cattle market was being run and that too as a serious threat to the environment and the public at large. The petitioner rushed to this Court and this Court has, accordingly, passed an order on 21.11.2019 in Writ-C No.38021 of 2019 directing the respondent to consider the reply of the petitioner to get the spot inspection done of the place where the market was being run and that too in presence of the petitioner and thereafter take a decision by passing a reasoned and speaking order. It appears pursuant to the order dated 21.11.2019 the petitioner submitted his reply on 23.11.2019 and thereafter the District Magistrate constituted a five member Committee to get the inspection done of the place where the cattle market was being run by the petitioner. Some report was submitted on 26.11.2019 and consequential action has been taken on 27.11.2019 on the basis of report, which according to the order, recommended for action impugned as the cleanliness was not found to the satisfaction and as per norms under the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960 and also the Animal Market Rules framed thereunder and thus, the Upper Mukhya Adhikari, Zila Panchayat has come to exercise his power under Section 78-D of the 1961 Act, cancelling the licence of the petitioner.

4. Assailing the order impugned dated 27.11.2019 it has been contended on behalf of the petitioner that the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960 is a Central Act under which the Animal Markets Rules, 2018 have been framed and the Acts provide under Section 38 to make rules for the purposes to carry out the object of the Act, and further it is argued that the Rules provide for constitution of a Committee. The Committee that has to be constituted necessarily includes District Magistrate, one of the representative of the State Animal Welfare Board and other members also including the Chairperson of the Zila Panchayat but in the present case the Committee that was constituted by the District Magistrate did not consist of those members as have been mentioned in Rule 3 of the 2018 Rules. It is further submitted that all the powers under the Rules are vested with the Committee constituted for the said purpose and it is on the basis of the recommendation of the Committee that a decision to be taken by the Board. Further while Committee recommends for a decision be taken in the matter, the Committee shall afford a reasonable opportunity to the aggrieved party to be heard vide Rule 16 after the inspection of the animal market is carried out and, therefore, it is argued that the order passed by the respondent dated 27.11.2019 and the procedure followed by him in passing the order has been de hors the provisions as contained under the Rules and the Act and, therefore, unsustainable.

5. Per contra, the argument advanced by learned counsel appearing for the respondents is that the power vests with the Chairman of the Kshetra Panchayat under Section 78-D of U.P. Kshetra Panchayat and Zila Panchayat Adhiniyam, 1961 for the grant of licence as well as cancellation thereof and therefore, the power has been exercised taking recourse to the said provision and, it cannot be said that the power exercised is de hors the provisions contained under any Rule or Act.

6. Having heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned counsel appearing for the respondents, learned Standing Counsel and their arguments advanced across the Bar and having perused the record, we find that the controversy revolves around the decision making process as prescribed procedure to be followed for action in cases where the cattle market is being run is found not being run properly in the sense that the cleanliness and other hygiene is not maintained on the spot, has been allegedly not followed.

7. A close scrutiny of the Act of 1960 reveals that the scheme of Act clearly provides for such action to be preceded by a detailed procedure. The statements and objects of the Act of 1960 clearly disclose that since earlier provisions of the Act were only confined to only the urban areas within municipality limits, the legislature thought in its wisdom to enact a detailed law governing the field. Section 38 of the Act provides for rule making power of the Central Government and Section 41 provides for repeal of such provision if prevalent in any State relating to the subject matter of the Act, shall stand repealed within enforcement of the Provision of this Act of 1960. It is admitted to the parties that the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960 is the Central Law which is prevalent at this point of time and the State laws have come to be repeal by virtue of Section 41 of the Central Act. It is also not disputed to the parties that exercising the rule making power under Section 38 of the Central Act, Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in Animal Market Rules, 2018 (hereinafter referred to as the "Rule") have come to be enforced w.e.f. 22.03.2018 with it's publication in the official gazette as prescribed for under Section 38 of the Central Act. From the close scrutiny of the relevant provisions of the Rule, we come to notice that an Cruelty to Animals Committee is sought to be constituted vide Rule 3 of the said Rule. Rule 3 of the Rule is reproduced hereunder:

"3. Constitution of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Committee- (1) There shall be a Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Committee in each district for the purpose of exercising the powers under these rules, to be constituted or designated by the concerned State Government.

(2) The Committee shall comprise of the following members:-

(a) the District Magistrate;

(b) one representative of the State Animal Welfare Board;

(c) the Superintendent of Police of the district;

(d) one representative of a local Non Governmental Organisation dealing with animal welfare;

(e) one representative of the SPCA;

(f) district veterinary officer, who shall be the Member Secretary;

(g) chairperson of the Zilla Parishad or Autonomous Council, as the case may be;

(h) chairman of the Municipality; or Panchayat at the district level;

(i) the Committee may co-opt such other person, not exceeding three, with expertise in animal welfare, veterinary sciences, governance, and law enforcement.

Provided that the State Government may designate any Committee set up by it or a district administration under it or a State Act or the rules or regulations made thereunder for the upkeep of animal markets, as the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Committee for the enforcement of these rules.

Provided further that the provisions of clauses (a) to (I) shall not apply in the case a Committee referred to in the first proviso.

(3) A person who has been convicted under the Act shall be prohibited from being a member of the Committee."

8. From the perusal of the above provision it is quite explicit that a committee that is contemplated under the Rule shall consist of as many as nine members necessarily. The functions of the Committee have been provided under Rule 4. Rule 7 provides for the facilities that have to be maintained in the animal market to prevent cruelty to the animals and Rule 9 provides for certain practices which are rendered as prohibited practices, then Rule 14 provides for the inspection of the animal market. Rules 7, 9, 14, 15 and 16 lay down the procedure how the inspection has to be carried out. For the convenience these Sections are reproduced hereunder:

"7. Facilities at animal markets to prevent cruelty to animals - (1) Every animal market shall ensure that the following facilities are available:-

(i) water supply;

(ii) lighting in areas where the markets function after sunset;

(iii) feed storage area and feed supply;

(iv) provisions for proper disposal of dead animals from the site;

(v) provisions to ensure hygiene, proper disposal of manure and bio-waste.

(2) The Committee shall, for reasons to be recorded in writing, determine the maximum holding capacity of every animal market.

(3) specifications regarding the facilities mentioned in sub-rule (1) and the maximum holding capacity determined as per sub-rule (2), shall be intimated to each animal market by the Committee and prominently displayed at the animal market in such manner as the Committee may direct.

9. Prohibited practices - The following cruel and harmful practices shall be prohibited at animal markets, namely:-

(a) animal identification methods such as hot branding and cold branding;

(b) shearing of horns, bishoping in horses and ear cutting in buffaloes;

(c) casting animals on hard ground without adequate bedding during farriery;

(d) use of any hazardous chemicals on body parts of animals;

(e) sealing teats of the udder using any material such as adhesive pats to prevent suckling;

(f) forcefully drenching any fluids or liquids or using steroids or diuretics or antibiotics, other than prescribed by a veterinarian for the purpose of treatment;

(g) use of any type of muzzle, that hurts, to prevent young animals from suckling or eating good;

(h) injecting oxytocin into milch animals;

(i) castration of animals by quacks or traditional healers;

(j) nose-cutting or ear-slitting or cutting by knife or hot iron marking for identification purposes other than by a veterinarian;

(k) tying rope around the penis of animal; or

(l) any other prohibited practice as determined by the Committee, for reasons to be recorded in writing.

Provided that Committee may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, relax any of the above practices as per local conditions.

14. Powers of State Board to authorise inspection- For the purpose of ensuring compliance with these rules, the State Board, may authorise any of its officers in writing to inspect any animal market and submit a report to the State Board and the Committee for further action and any officer so authorised may-

(a) enter at reasonable times to inspect the animal market;

(b) require any person to produce any record kept by him with respect to the said market.

(c) take photographic and video proof of cruelty to animals.

15. Inspection of animal markets- (1) The Committee shall cause regular inspections of animal markets in tis jurisdiction to be made by authorised officials, as may be required.

(2) Every such inspection shall be followed by an inspection report, to be scrutinised by the Committee to recommend future action.

(3) The Committee may remove from the animal market, any animal, if it has rason to believe that the animal is being treated cruelly at an animal market, and the animal to seized shall be kept in the custody of the local SPCA or an animal welfare organisation recognised by the Board.

16. Action for non-compliance- If any animal market fails to comply with these rules, the Committee may recommend to the authority invested by law to licence or register an animal market in a State or Union Territory-

(a) for cancellation of licence or registration of such animal market;

(b) for imposition of a bar on any person from entering an animal market, if non-compliance is owing to any act or omct of whom, such recommendation is being made, an opportunity of being heard."

9. From the bare reading of the aforesaid provisions it is clearly revealed that the legislature has intended that it is the Committee which is vested with detailed power as provided under the Rules and, therefore, the Committee has to inspect the site where the animal market is being run and if the Committee finds anything wrong in terms of Rule 7 and Rule 9 of the Rules then the Committee shall prepare report for that purpose and shall also make recommendation to the authority who is vested by law to issue license or to cancel the same. However, any such recommendation before the Committee made the proviso to Rule 16 clearly stipulates that the such aggrieved person shall be given an opportunity to be heard in the matter.

10. Thus, applying the above Act and the Rules we find that the Committee as had been constituted by District Magistrate was completely de hors the rules prescribed and therefore, the constitution of the Committee was per se illegal and cannot result in any recommendation legally enforceable. If the committee is to be constituted as contemplated under the law then the constitution of the Committee has to be in consonance with the provisions contained under Rules 3. Besides that, the Committee while making a recommendation has to apply its mind by conducting such inspection as contemplated and to also record findings regarding non-compliance of the norms as contained under Rule 7 or commission of any prohibited practice as prescribed for under Rule 9. We find that the District Magistrate in the present case though, has discussed the inspection report but it is nowhere discussed as to what was the inspection report submitted and whether the petitioner had been offered any opportunity to explain his conduct by the Committee before making such recommendation because the provisions as already quoted above prescribed for such opportunity of hearing to be afforded to the petitioner by the committee itself. Here we are also reminded of the judgment of the Apex Court in Deepak Babaria and another Vs. State of Gujarat and others, (2014) 3 SCC 502 wherein the Court has held that when a thing is required to be done in a particular manner the same shall be done in that manner alone.

11. In such view of the matter, therefore, we are of the clear opinion that in the present case not only the procedure as prescribed for has not been followed but even the rule of natural justice has come to be violated which has been duly incorporated under Rule 16 of the Rules of 2018 and therefore, the order impugned dated 27.11.2019 cannot be sustained in law and deserves to be set aside and the same is accordingly, set aside, However, it is left open for the District Magistrate to initiate a fresh proceeding but strictly in accordance with law as per 1960 Act and the Rules framed thereunder of 2018 as have been discussed herein above in this judgment.

12. The writ petition thus stands allowed as above.

8. Ritesh Tiwari Vs. State of U.P., AIR 2010 SC 3823

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Mithal, J. & Hon'ble Vipin Chandra Dixit, J.)

1. Heard Sri Puneet Bhadauria, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Amit Verma, learned Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. The petitioners who are Muslims by religion have preferred this petition for the quashing of the order dated 12.06.2019 (wrongly mentioned as 21.06.2019 in the petition) passed by respondent No.4 Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Shahganj, District Jaunpur (wrongly mentioned as respondent No.3 Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur in the writ petition).

3. The aforesaid order disposes off the representations of the petitioners filed pursuant to the directions of the Court for permission/renewal of the license to use amplifiers and loudspeakers on religious places on the ground that such use of sound equipments is likely to cause animosity between the two religious groups of the village creating law and order situation.

4. The petitioner No.1 had moved application before the authority concerned for license/permission to use amplifiers and loudspeakers on two Mosques, Masjid Abu Bakar Siddiqui and Masjid Rahmani, both situate in village Baddopur, Tehsil Shahganj, District Jaunpur for the purposes of Azaan for Namaz.

5. The petitioner No.1 was granted permission by respondent No.4 Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Shahganj on 15.01.2018 to use sound equipments as aforesaid on Masjid Abu Bakar Siddiqui, Baddopur for the period from 15.01.2018 to 14.07.2018 for specified times mentioned therein with certain conditions. There is no permission on record with regard to the use of amplifiers and loudspeakers in respect of other mosque i.e. Masjid Rahmani of Village Baddopur, Tehsil Shahganj, District Jaunpur.

6. It is alleged that at one point of time, the said sound equipments had to be removed from the said mosque for repairs but when they were being refixed, the local area police stopped the petitioner No.1 from reinstalling the same. Accordingly, petitioner No.1 preferred Writ Petition (C) No. 11840 of 2018 (Masroor Ahmad and others Vs. State of U.P. and 5 others) and the same was disposed off vide order dated 07.03.2019 with liberty to the petitioner to move an application afresh for renewal of license to use amplifiers and loudspeakers in the mosque in accordance with law.

7. It is in consequence to the above direction and the fact that the license/permission granted earlier to the petitioner to use sound equipments at the aforesaid mosque had expired that a representation was submitted on 16.03.2019 before respondent No.4. The respondent No.4 called for a report from the Circle Officer, Shahganj who vide his report dated 09.05.2019 stated that a spot inspection was carried out on 07.03.2019 wherein it was found that in the area of both the mosques, there is a mixed population of Hindus and Muslims. If any party if allowed to use sound amplifiers, the tension between the two groups would escalate disturbing the peace in the area. The Sub-Divisional Magistrate along with the C.O. had also visited the area and it was found that on account of use of sound amplifying system in the area, there is a grave tension amongst the villagers comprising of persons of both religious groups of Hindus and Muslims. In the past also, dispute on this score had taken a serious turn. Therefore, in order to maintain law and order and peace in the area, it is appropriate not to grant permission to any group to use sound amplifying system on any religious place. Accordingly, the license of the petitioners cannot be renewed or extended and no fresh permission can be granted.

8. In short, on the reading of the aforesaid order, it becomes quite evident that the petitioners have been refused permission to use sound amplifying system at the mosque not only for the inherent reason of noise pollution but in order to maintain peace and tranquillity in the area.

9. It may not be out of context to mention that people in India do not realise that noise in itself is a sort of pollution. They are not even fully conscious about its ill effect on health though some concern is being shown to it in recent past.

10. On the other hand, internationally, especially in the U.S.A., England and such other countries, people are very much conscious of the noise pollution and as a matter of course do not even blow horns of their cars and honking is considered to be bad manners as it causes not only inconvenience to others but also pollutes the environment causing hazards to health.

11. The Central Government in exercise of powers under Sections 25 read with Section 6 (2) and Section 3 (2) of the Environment (Protection) Act, 1986 has framed Noise Pollution (Regulation and Control) Rules, 2000 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules").

12. The aforesaid Rules apart from placing restrictions on use of horns, sound emitting equipments, loudspeakers, public address system, etc., interalia categoriclly lays down that loudspeakers or public address systems shall not be used except after obtaining written permission of the authority.

13. From the aforesaid Rules, Rule 5 (1) of the Rules which is relevant for our purpose is reproduced hereinbelow-:

"5. Restrictions on the use of loud speakers / public address system and sound producing instruments.-

(1) A loud speaker or a public address system shall not be used except after obtaining written permission from the authority."

14. The authority competent to grant permission is defined under Section 2 (c) of the Rules to mean an include any authority or officer authorized by the Central Government or the State Government, as the case may be, including the District Magistrate, Police Commissioner, or any other officer not below the rank of the Deputy Superintendent of Police.

15. Thus, in view of the aforesaid Rules, no loudspeaker or public address system, in short any sound producing instrument/equipment or amplifier can be used in public place without the permission of the authority concerned.

16. In the case at hand, petitioner No.1 was granted permission to use sound equipments on the concerned mosque for a limited period from 15.01.2018 to 14.07.2018 for specified time of the day with certain conditions. This permission has not been extended or renewed thereafter. Its extension/renewal has been denied on account of law and order situation.

17. It is not the case of the petitioners in the entire writ petition that the installation of such sound equipments is not likely to cause any tension in the locality between the two groups and that law and order situation does not demand such refusal of permission.

18. The administrative authorities vested with the responsibility of maintaining law and order situation in any given area are duty bound to fulfill their obligations and to ensure that the tranquillity and peace of the area is not disturbed and if there is any tension in relation to any incident or dispute, the same be reconciled and settled. Thus, they are obliged to defuse tension and not to ensure that peace prevails in the area.

19. The Fundamental Duties referred to in Part IV-A of the Constitution of India obliges every citizen which includes the administrative officers as well inter-alia to promote harmony and the spirit of common brotherhood amongst all the people of the country irrespective of religious linguistic or sectional diversities and to ensure that practices derogatory to the dignity of women are renounced.

20. The relevant part of Article 51A of the Constitution of India is quoted below-:

"51A. Fundamental duties It shall be the duty of every citizen of India-:

a.....

e. to promote harmony and the spirit of common brotherhood amongst all the people of India transcending religious, linguistic and regional or sectional diversities; to renounce practices derogatory to the dignity of women"

21. In view of the above provision, every citizen of the country has to promote harmony and the spirit of common brotherhood and for that purpose it is necessary that any action which tends to disturb the harmony be checked and nipped in the bud.

22. The petitioners submit that the use of amplifiers and loudspeakers on the mosques for 2 minutes 5 times a day would neither cause noise pollution nor would disturb the tranquillity of the area. It is an essential part of their religious practice and it has become necessary with the increasing population to give call to the people on amplifiers and loudspeakers to come and pray.

23. It is true that one can practice, profess and propagate religion as guaranteed under Article 25 (1) of the Constitution of India but the said right is not an absolute right. The right under Article 25 is a subject to the wider Article 19 (1) (a) of the Constitution and thus both of them have to be read together and construed harmoniously.

24. In Acharaya Maharajshri, the Court in paragraph 30 has observed as under-:

"No rights in an organized society can be absolute. Enjoyment of one's rights must be consistent with the enjoyment of rights also by others. Where in a free play of social forces it is not possible to bring about a voluntary harmony, the State has to step in to set right the imbalance between competing interests....."

25. The Court in paragraph 31 of the said very judgment has further observed as under-:

"A particular fundamental right cannot exist in isolation in a watertight compartment. One fundamental right of a person may have to coexist in harmony with the exercise of another fundamental right by others and also with reasonable and valid exercise of power by the State in the light of the Directive Principles in the interests of social welfare as a whole."

26. In Church of God, it was held that the rights under Articles 25 and 26 of the Constitution of India are subject to public order, morality and health. No religion prescribes or preaches that prayers are required to be performed through voice amplifiers or by beating of drums and if there is such practice, it should not adversely affect the rights of the others including that of not being disturbed.

27. A similar view has been expressed by the Supreme Court in the case of Dr. Subramaniam Swamy and the right to manage religious affairs has been held to be subject to other provisions of Chapter-III of the Constitution of India.

28. A Division Bench of this Court in Sant Kumar and others held that right to practice one's religion freely is a fundamental right under Article 25 of the Constitution of India but the said right of religion and right to privacy which is also a fundamental right has to be read together and nobody has a right to practice religion in a way so as to invade privacy of others. The Court observing thus appealed to the public at large to refrain from using loudspeakers for various religious practices such as Akhand Ramayan, Kirtan, etc. as it causes inconvenience to public and creates noise pollution.

29. It may not be out of place to refer to a Supreme Court decision in RE-: Noise Pollution, wherein the Apex Court expressed opinion that the fundamental right of a person under Article 19 (1) of the Constitution of India of freedom of speech and expression are not absolute and no one can claim fundamental right to create noise by amplifying sound of his speech with the help of loudspeakers as every citizen has a fundamental right to live in peace, comfort and quietness of his house.

30. In Farad K. Vadia, it has been observed that "necessity of silence", "necessity of sleep", "process during sleep and rest" are all biological necessities and essentials for health and is part of human rights as noise is injurious to health.

31. It is universally acceptable today that noise adversely affects human health. It causes hearing loss or deafness, high blood pressure, depression, fatigue and even annoyance. Excessive noise has resulted in cardiac ailments, neurosis and nerves breakdown.

32. It is a cardinal principle of a exercise of equitable jurisdiction that the High Court in such exercise should maintain social balance by interfering where necessary and refusing where it is against social interest and public good.

33. In State of Maharashtra, it has been observed that in exercising equity jurisdiction in social interest, the Court should weigh the pros and cons of exercising the jurisdiction and to see whether the interference would cause more harmony to the society or its refusal.

34. In Ritesh Tiwari, the Court held that the equitable jurisdiction may be exercised to promote good faith and equity and in the larger public interest.

35. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, we are of a clear opinion that this matter does not require any interference by us in exercise of our extraordinary jurisdiction as otherwise it may result in causing social imbalance.

36. Accordingly, the writ petition is dismissed with no order as to costs.

A. Civil Law-U.P. Municipal Corporation Act, 1959 – Cantonments Act, 2006 – Application – The Municipality governing the area of civil residents is a local body as constituted under the U.P. Municipal Corporation Act, 1959 – Whereas the Cantonment Board operates basically in an area defined as cantonment of the defence under the erstwhile Cantonment Act, 1924, later superseded by the Cantonments Act, 2006. (Para 9)

B. Civil Law-Municipality and Cantonment Board – Transfer of property – Effect on title of Defence Department – An extension of Municipality to such area which was earlier under the territorial limits of the Cantonment Board, if it has been excised by the Government of India, Ministry of Defence, it is the general administration of such area that would stand transferred from the Cantonment Board to the Municipality – But a land that belongs to the defence, may be under the lease or old grant by the Ministry of Defence, Government of India in favour of civilian, would not automatically get transferred either to that individual who is the occupier of the property or to the Municipal Corporation – The title shall remain with the defence department unless and until it is transferred in the name of occupier by the competent authority – Merely because the property has occupied by civilian under an old grant basis, such a grantee only has status of mere occupier and does not become the title holder of the property. (Para 9 and 15)

C. Civil Law-Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorised occupants) Act, 1971 – Section 5B – Jurisdiction of Defence Department – Legislature has used the word 'Premises' in a generic sense, comprehending in it the land, the structure standing over it and every such other activity in forms of any fixture for the beneficial enjoyment of the premises and the public premises are such that belong to the Central Government – The property belongs to the defence department – It was a public premises for the purposes – Therefore the defence estate officer who has been assigned the duties of Presiding Officer to act under the Act, 1971 has the jurisdiction and so he rightly exercised the same in the present case. List of cases cited :-

1. Chief Executive Officer v. Surendra Kumar Vakil and others (1999) 3 SCC 555

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Since all the three above matters are connected and the reliefs claimed in two matters is on the basis of the pleadings raised and relief claimed in the leading writ petition bearing Writ- C No.- 46421 of 2006, all the three writ petitions are being heard and decided by this common judgment taking Writ- C No.- 46421 of 2006 as leading case.

2. Heard Sri Archit Mandhyan and Sri Ashish Jaiswal learned counsels appearing for the petitioner, Sri O.P. Gupta, learned counsel appearing for the Union of India and Sri Chandra Bhan Gupta, learned counsel appearing for the Cantonment Board.

3. By means of the present writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution, the petitioner has questioned the order dated 22nd November, 2001 passed by the Estate Officer, Agra, Cantt. Exercising power under the Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorised occupants) Act, 1971 (for short 'Act, 1971') and the order of the District Judge, Agra, dated 10th August, 2006, whereby appeal of the petitioner under the Act, 1971 has come to be rejected.

4. Briefly stated facts of the case are that the property in question is the land property with construction of a bungalow so recorded as Bungalow No.- 178 situate at Namiyar Mohalla, Ajmer Road, Agra. It has been the property of the Defence department and so recorded as well as a defence property under Defence Land Register. It so happened that the territorial limits of the cantonment board were excised and the area where the bungalow situates was brought within the municipal limits of the then Municipality of Agra, admeasuring 198.303 acres approximately and, accordingly, Ministry of Defence vide Circular No.- 79 dated 9th February,1957 excised the said area from the limits of the cantonment of Agra. With the exclusion of the area including the bungalow from the territorial limits of the cantonment board, Agra, the petitioner being in possession, it appears, applied for sanction of map to raise construction over the land in question before Nagar Mahaplika Parishad, Agra and Nagar Mahapalika Parishad, Agra approved the same on 28th March, 1958. With the approval so granted by the Nagar Mahapalika Parishad, Agra, the petitioner raised construction over the same. On 26th October, 1998, the petitioner was served with a notice under the signature and seal of the Estate officer under the Act, 1971.

5. The petitioner submitted reply asking for certain papers mentioned therein so that he may contest the matter. Thereafter, the petitioner filed a detailed objection to the notice before the Prescribed Authority of Agra Cantt. and requested for recall of the notice dated 11th November, 1998 and dropping of the proceedings. When nothing happened in the matter petitioner approached this Court and this Court vide order dated 27th January, 1999 passed in CMWP No.- 3190 of 1999 directed the prescribed authority to decide the objection of the petitioner and also supply the copies of documents requested by the petitioner. Again when nothing happened, the petitioner filed another petition and this Court vide order dated 8th August, 2001 directed the respondent No.3 to decide the objection of the petitioner and pass appropriate orders after affording opportunity of hearing to the petitioner. In compliance of the above order the prescribed authority under the order dated 22th November, 2001 rejected the objection of the petitioner and held the constructions to be unauthorized without there being any approval of the competent authority and, accordingly, directed for removal of the same. The petitioner then preferred a statutory appeal against the order passed by the prescribed authority and the same has also come to be rejected.

6. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and their arguments raised across the Bar and having perused the record, what we find that the moot question for our consideration in the present case is as to whether a property already recorded as a Defence property within the erstwhile territorial limit of cantonment, would cease to be a property of Government of India, defence department, in the event, the area of the cantonment board stands excised and the area where the defence property situates, comes within the extended municipal limits of the local Municipality. In the event the answer is in affirmative, say 'Yes', the impugned orders would be quashed and in the event the answer is in negative, the impugned orders would be upheld and the petitioner would be liable to remove the unauthorized construction. Accordingly, we framed following two questions to be answered in the present petition:-

(A). Whether the bungalow No.178 situate at Namiyar Mohalla, Ajmer Road, Agra ceased to be a defence property with the extention of the municipal limits and the land over which bungalow falls coming within the municipal limits; and

(B). Whether the defence Estate Officer acting as Prescribed Authority can exercise power under the Act, 1971 in respect of a property that falls within the municipal limits of a Municipality of Agra.

7. Now coming to the first question, we needed to trace out the history, if any pleaded, that has led to the occupation by the petitioner of the bungalow in question. Bungalow No.- 178 is admitted to the petitioner to be belonging initially to the defence department. The petitioner's claim to be in possession of the bungalow is since 1970 on-wards. Prior to the 19th February, 1957 the General Land Register, maintained by the Cantonment Board (for short 'GLR') admittedly show area as survey number in question within the cantonment board and the letter dated 30th November, 1957 issued by the Defence authority that the area where the bungalow stands stood transferred to the territorial authority of Municipality, Agra and the GLR showed entry in respect of the bungalow as occupied by private individual and the date of acquisition and possession column contains a remark "not-known". Municipal records shows that name of Shri G.D. Shiv Hare had been entered over the bungalow as tax of house receipts have been filed along with writ petition. Jal Sansthan receipt also stands in the name of Smt. G.D. Shiv Hare.

8. Nowhere it has been stated in the pleadings raised in the writ petition as to how the petitioner has entered into possession of the property. He is not the son of Mr. G.D. Shiv Hare whose name is recorded in the Municipal records with Chandra Prakash Shivhare (1981-86). So, at the most the status of the petitioner as an occupant would be of a sub-lessee/ sub-grantee. The original lessee or grantee seems to have passed away much earlier and there are no pleadings to that effect in the present writ petition. The bungalow property is admitted to the parties to be a subject matter of old grant. The petitioner not being a valid transferree from the defence department, the question is as to whether the bungalow in question ceased to be a defence property with the enforcement of the Municipality in the area. The notification states that the area ceases to be a defence area but from the perusal of the Government of India notification dated 26th December, 1961, it is very much clear that the property that was under use for non military purposes before excision, their control remains with the Ministry of Defence under Rule 2(B) of the ACR Rules. However, the minutes of Separation Committee show that the civil area notified can be transferred to the State Government free of cost but subject to certain formalities to be carried out.

9. It is not disputed that the both the Municipality as well as the Cantonment Board are the local bodies in their own rights having an operational area as per the respective Acts, under which they have been constituted. The Municipality governing the area of civil residents is a local body as in the present case constituted under the U.P. Municipal Corporation Act, 1959, an erstwhile municipality governed under the U.P. Municipalities Act, 1916 whereas the Cantonment Board operates basically in an area defined as cantonment of the defence under the erstwhile Cantonment Act, 1924, later superseded by the Cantonments Act, 2006. The landed property falling in the cantonment area may be also in occupation of a civilian if it is either under the old grant by the Government of India or under the lease of the department of the Defence. But the landed property of the cantonment which is recorded as such in the defence land register to be a defence property cannot be in the ownership of a private individual unless there is lease in perpetuity to that effect or by way of conveyance of sale. The Cantonment Act, 2006 provides for incorporation of a Cantonment Board for general administration of the land falling in the cantonment area in the same manner as the municipality in a civil area. An extension of Municipality to such area which was earlier under the territorial limits of the Cantonment Board, if it has been excised by the Government of India, Ministry of Defence, it is the general administration of such area that would stand transferred from the Cantonment Board to the Municipality or the Municipal Corporation as the case may be, but a land that belongs to the defence, may be under the lease or old grant by the Ministry of Defence, Government of India in favour of civilian, would not automatically get transferred either to that individual who is the occupier of the property or to the Municipal Corporation. The title shall remain with the defence department unless and until it is transferred in the name of occupier by the competent authority. The letter of the Under Secretary to the Government of India, Ministry of Defence written to the Director, Military Land and Cantonment explaining the excision of the civilian area from cantonment clarifies eight points. The letter in its entirety is reproduced hereunder:-

"No. 18/13/G/L & C/52/1028/ LC/ D/ (C&L)

Government of India

Ministry of Defence

New Delhi, the 7th February, 1955

To

The Director, Military Land and Cantonments

Excision of Civil areas from Cantonments

Sir,

I am directed to say that the question of terms on which assets located in the areas to be excised from cantonments may be dealt with has been under the consideration of the Government of India. It has now been decided that the following broad principles shall govern the excision of civil areas from cantonment:-

(a) Cantonments Board's assets and liabilities the area be transferred to the successor local body free of any compensation except for such financial adjustment which may be necessary in the local circumstances of each case.

(b) Income and expenditure be divided on the basis of actual income from a source, such as octroi, should normally be divided on population basis, a different method may, however, be adopted if the local conditions warrant the adoption of such a course.

(c) Government right in the leased sites etc., be transferred to the State Government, free of cost, subject to the condition that the income derived from such areas will be utilized for the resident of those areas exclusively.

(d) Vacant lands be retained for future use or eventual disposal by the Government of India.

(e) M.E.S. Properties, if any, be retained for use or eventual disposal.

(f) To report on the extent of, and terms on which the properties vesting in and belonging to the cantonment Board should be appropritioned between the two local bodies.

(g) To report on the needs of the two areas for the construction of new buildings, consequent upon the transfer of those existing to either local body, with financial effect.

(h) To report on any other matter relevant to excision in so far as financial adjustment or apportionment of assets and liabilities or assignment of easement/ ammonities is concerned.

Yours faithfully
Sd/-
Deputy Secretary to the Govt. of India"

10. From the bare reading of the aforesaid clauses given under the letter it is clearly revealed that Government right in the lease sites would be transferred to the State Government free of cost and that income derived shall be utilized for the residents of such area.

11. However, in order to make effective those transfer of the defence property to the State Government, it is required to have necessary approval of the competent authority. The letter of the Government of India, Ministry of Defence earlier issued in this regard dated 26th December, 1961 clearly stipulates following conditions:-

"2. As the lands excised from Agra Cantt. were surplus to Defence requirements, being in use for non-Military purposes before excision, their control remains with the Ministry of Defence under Rule 2(b) of the ACR Rules. The M.E.O. Agra Circle, is therefore, responsible for management of these lands under Rules 3(b) ibid and specific orders to this effect are not necessary.

3. In accordance with the minutes of the Separation Committee the M.E.O. Agra Circle, should initiate immediately proposals for:-

(a) Transfer of lease hold site inside the ex-notified civil area, to State Govt. free of cost.

(b) Conversion into free hold of all old grant and lease hold sites outside ex-notified civil area, on payment by the holders of conversion value at the rate of 25 times the current market rent in 5 easy instalments. In this connection the method followed in Sitapur Cantt. may be adopted.

(c) Disposal of vacant sites, by dividing into suitable plots, wherever necessary.

4. A site plan distinctly showing the sites involved and a statement containing GLR entries, should be furnished with each proposals."

12. From the reading of the aforesaid notification it is quite clear that although the area stood excised following extension of the municipal limits but the excision is only for the purposes of the municipal function. The rights and title do continue with the Union of India, Ministry of Defence. As in the earlier part of this order, we have discussed that the defence land register also shows that bungalow No. 178 to be in occupation of private individual but the land and bungalow do continue to be recorded as such and, accordingly, the property is a defence property. The petitioner in the entire pleadings has not disclosed as to how he has come to occupy the land of bungalow in question. He is not able to demonstrate any lease in his favour or in favour of his predecessor-in-interest and, therefore, his continuance is only subject to approval of the defence department and any construction upon vacant land or remodeling of the house necessarily required the approval of the competent authority. Merely because Agra Municipality had sanctioned some map for construction of building over the area, does not mean that the constructions have become legal. It may be legal for the authority to have exercised power under an Act but the question is whether sanction of Map was as per the lease agreement and the application was moved by the lessee. However, in the present case map was applied by the occupier who was not beneficiary of either lease agreement or old grant and so no such exercise could have been, in the absence of consent of the owner of the property and, the entire proceedings of sanction of map would be rendered void in the absence of consent of the owner and in our considered opinion, the owner has authority to question the constructions and if found illegal get it demolished. In the present case, therefore, we are of firm view that since the land of bungalow No.178 continued to belong to the defence department and the petitioner has failed to demonstrate either from the pleadings or from the document that he is valid transferee of the property he can defend constructions that have been rendered illegal for want of necessary sanction. A transfer of an area from the cantonment to the municipality, is a mere transfer for the purposes of municipal functions from one local body to the other local body but rights and title of the property of the original owner does continue and there can be no ipso facto transfer of title on extension of municipal limits to the area of such property. Thus following findings of the Prescribed Authority cannot be held bad as we do not find any perversity in the same:-

(1) The land in question, sy.no.131/381, B. No. 178, Ajmer Road, Namnir Agra Cantt. is Defence land owned by the Govt. of India, Ministry of Defence.

(2) Although it was excised alongwith other area, and merged with the Municipal area vide SRO No. 312 dated 25.6.1957 but this transfer has taken effect only in r/o Municipal function. The management of lands falling with in the excised area of Agra Cantt. still remains with the Defence Estates Officer, Agra Circle, Agra Cantt.

(3) It is clear from the Govt. orders issued vide their letter No. 18/1/ G/ L&C/ 58 dated 26.12.1961 that after the excision the administrative control of the area remained with the Ministry of Defence, Govt. of India and management comes under the D.E.O. Agra Circle, Agra Cantt. Till the formalities stipulated in para 3 and 4 of the said Govt. order are completed and the transfer of these lands to the State Govt. takes place, these lands remain under the management of D.E.O. Agra Circle, Agra Cantt."

13. In taking the above view we find support in the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Chief Executive Officer v. Surendra Kumar Vakil and others (1999) 3 SCC 555. In the said case a suit had been decreed of the vendors and vendees on the ground that one S.N. Mukharjee who was a occupancy holder and as such recorded in the GLR had died in the year 1972 leaving behind 11 legal heirs, who validly succeeded the property.

However, their names could not be mutated in the records over Bungalow No. 39 as they did not apply for the same. The heirs who had ultimately sold out the property in favour of the 24 persons by a registered sale deeds dated 26th February, 1983 through power of attorney holder Gopal Das Soni. The property was described as old grant of the cantonment board and so vendees were to abide by the terms and conditions on which the land was held in the name of ancestors of the vendors. The amendment deeds further came to be registered in respect of those sale deed to the effect that lease deed got wrongly transcribed as the land was of 'old grant' type. The Military Estate Officer issued notices on 3rd October, 1993 to the vendores for validating the terms and conditions of the old grant by dividing the property into four shares prior to the sanction of the competent authority and hence notices were also issued to the purchasers to show cause why action for resumption of the site be not taken against them. The plea taken by the respondents was that in view of the 'old grant' seller were having occupancy rights over the Bungalow No. 39, therefore, they validly transferred the rights to the purchasers. The Cantonment Board lost the suit and first appeal as well and so filed an appeal before the Apex Court. Apex Court repelled the arguments of the respondents and their claim on the legal principles qua 'old grant' and accepted the appeal vide paragraph Nos. 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19 that run as under:-

12. Under the Cantonment Land Administration Rules, 1925 General Land Registers are being maintained in respect of Sagar Cantonment. These registers were produced before the High Court and were also produced before us. These are old registers maintained in the form prescribed by the said Rules. In these registers the property in question is shown as being held by S.N. Mukherjee on old grant basis. As explained by Mittal in the passage cited above, the tenures under which permission was given to civilians to occupy Government land in the cantonments for construction of bungalows on the condition of a right of resumption of the ground, if required, came to be know as old grant tenures. Such tenures were given in accordance with the terms of the order No.179 issued by the Governor General in Council in the year 1836. These require that the ownership of land shall remain with the Government and the land cannot be sold by the grantee. Only the house or other property thereon may be transferred. Such transfers would require consent of the officer commanding the station when the transfer is to a person not belonging to the army. In respect of old grant tenure, therefore, the Government retains the right of resumption of land.

13. In the case of Raj Singh v. Union of India, AIR 1973 Delhi 169, the Delhi High Court examined the Regulations contained in order No.179 of 1836 regarding the grant of lands situated in cantonment areas and held that the Regulations were a self-contained provision prescribing the manner of grant and resumption of land in cantonment areas. It held that the petitioner therein being a mere occupier of the land under the said Regulations, he was in the position of a licensee whose licence under the grant and under the law was revocable at the pleasure of the licensor. This judgment of the Delhi High Court was approved by this Court in Union of India v. Tek Chand (Civil Appeal No. 3525 of 1983) by its judgment and order dated 5th of January, 1999 passed by S.P. Bharucha and V.N. Khare, JJ.

14. The respondent, however, contends that since the actual old grant was not produced in evidence by the appellants the case of the appellants that the land was held on old grant basis by Mukherjee is not proved by the appellants. This submission does not appeal to us. The respondents filed a suit claiming title over the land. If any conveyance in respect of this land had been executed at any time by the State/Military Estate Officer in favour of Mukherjee or his predecessor in title, the conveyance ought to have been produced by the person in whose favour it had been executed or his successor in title. Had a lease been granted in respect of the said land in favour of Mukherjee or his predecessor in title, the lessee or his successor in title should have produced the lease deed in his favour. Any grant in favour of the grantee would normally be in the possession of the grantee. The respondents, however, have not produced any title deeds relating to the land in question. They have only produced the document of sale from Dubey to Mukherjee and the four sale deeds from the heirs and legal representatives of Mukherjee in favour of the purchasing respondents. In none of these documents there is a clear recitation of the nature of the rights in the land held by the Vendor.

15. It is true that the appellants were also required to maintain a file/register of grants. They have not produced the file. The appellants, however, have led evidence to show that the concerned file of grants was stolen in the year 1985. They were, therefore, unable to produce the file pertaining to this grant. They do, however, have in their possession general land registers maintained under the Cantonment Land Administration Rules of 1925 in which they are required by these rules to maintain a record, inter alia, of the nature of the grant in respect of cantonment lands and the person in whose favour such grant is made. Both these registers are very old registers. They bear the endorsement of the officer who has maintained these registers in the regular course. These registers also show any subsequent changes made in respect of the lands under the relevant columns. Both these registers clearly show that the land is held on old grant basis by Mukherjee. The High Court seems to have rejected the record contained in the land grants registers on the ground that the terms of the grant have not been established because the document of grant itself has not been produced. The terms of the grant, however, are statutorily regulated under order No.179 of the Governor General in Council of 1836. The administration of lands in Cantonment areas is further regulated by the Cantonment Act, 1924 and the Cantonment Land Administration Rules of 1925. The 1836 Regulations expressly provide that the title to the land in cantonment areas cannot be transferred. But only occupancy rights can be given in respect of the land which remains capable of being resumed by the Government in the manner set out therein. There is no evidence to the contrary led by the respondents. In fact, under the amendment/admission deeds executed on 4/5.8.1983 the Vendors as well as the purchasers have stated that the site is wrongly mentioned as lease hold site instead of 'old grant' site in the four sale deeds. The mistake is being rectified by the execution of the four amending deeds clarifying that the Bungalow No.39 is held on 'old grant'. Undoubtedly, this was later retracted when cancellation deed was executed cancelling the amendment/admission deeds. Nevertheless, all the statutory provisions clearly indicate that the land being in the cantonment area was held by Mukherjee only as an occupant/licensee and that any transfer of the bungalow and other constructions on the said land required prior approval of the defence establishment. The power of attorney holder also corresponded with the Defence establishment and asked for mutation in favour of the purchasers.

16. However, even after they were expressly informed by the appellants of the need for prior permission before transfer, as well as for any further construction on the said land, the respondents proceeded with the construction work resulting in the notice to desist issued by the appellants under Section 185 of the Cantonments Act, 1924. The said section provides that the Board may, at any time, by notice in writing, direct the owner, lessee or occupier of any land in the cantonment to stop the erection or re-erection of a building in any case in which the Board considers that such erection or re-erection is an offence under Section 184. The Board also has power to direct the alteration or demolition of such unauthorised structure. On the facts before us, this action cannot be faulted.

17. The respondents drew our attention to a decision of this Court in the case of Union of India v. Purshotam Dass Tandon and another, 1986 Supp. SCC 720, where this Court observed that the Union of India had made no effort to establish its title and the grant had not been produced. Hence the terms of the grant or the date of the grant were not known. Therefore, the Union of India could not succeed in its contention that the land in the cantonment was held on old grant basis. In the present case, however, apart from the requirements of Order No.179 of Governor General in Council, 1836, the general land register maintained under the Cantonment Land Administration Rules of 1925 has been produced which supports the contention of the appellants that the land is held on old grant basis. The appellants have also led evidence to show that the file containing grant in respect of the said property, is not available with them because it has been stolen in the year 1985. The respondents on the other hand have not produced any document of title pertaining to the said land or showing the nature of the rights of the respondents over the said land except the sale deeds referred to earlier. The stand of the respondents relating to their rights over the said land has changed from time to time. In the sale deeds executed by the Vendees in favour of the respondents, the land is described as lease hold cantonment land. This was later changed by the respondents in the amendment deeds to old grant land. In the suit, the respondents have contended that they have become the absolute owners of the said land. These bare assertions do not carry any conviction. Had there been any conveyance or lease in respect of the said lands executed in favour of the respondents or their predecessor in title, such conveyance or lease should have come from their custody. There is, therefore, no document before the Court which would show that the respondents were the absolute owners of the said land as now contended by them. The Regulations as well as the general land registers, on the other hand, which are old documents maintained in the regular course and coming from proper custody, clearly indicate that the land is held on old grant basis. This is, therefore, not a case where the appellants had not produced any evidence in support of their contention that the land in the cantonment area was held on old grant basis by Mukherjee.

18. The respondents have drawn our attention to the decision in the case of Shri Krishan v. The Kurukshetra University, AIR 1976 SC 376 for showing that any admission made by them in ignorance of legal rights cannot bind them. This judgment does not help the respondents because the fact remains that the respondents have taken a changing stand in relation to the nature of their rights over the disputed land. The admissions, at least, indicate that the respondents were, at the material time, not sure about the exact nature of their right over the said land. Hence they have at one stage described the nature of their rights as lease hold, at another stage as old grant and at a third stage they have retracted from their admission that the land was 'old grant'. The last deed merely states that they have the same rights as their Vendees had in the said land. Looking to the nature of evidence, therefore, which was led in the present case, the High Court was not justified in coming to the conclusion that the land was not held on old grant basis by Mukherjee.

19. Therefore, since the land is held on old grant basis in the present case, the appellants are entitled to resume the land in accordance with law. In the premises the appeals are allowed, the impugned judgment and order of the High Court is set aside and the suit of the respondents is dismissed with costs."

14. The case of the petitioner is even worse. Vide paragraph 4 of the writ petition he has claimed that his ancestors were occupant of Bungalow No. 178 and possibly because of old grant only. However, he has not been able to produce any document to that effect inasmuch as he could not establish his right of succession, to wit, whether he is a direct descent of the original grantee or by way of sub-lessee or any sale agreement. He has sought to set up the claim of the entry in the name of Pyare Lal, possibly as his ancestor whose name had been entered on account of sale deed in the year 1957 but no such document has been brought on record to establish as to whether such sale was with permission of the competent authority or not. Sri G.D. Shivhare whose name finds entry in GLR, as a old grantee, the petitioner could not have obtained a better title than that of the old grantee, provided he produced any such document. Under the circumstances, therefore, the petitioner like the vendor and vendees in the above said case could not have claimed a valid right to raise constructions in the absence of proper sanction of the competent authority.

15. In view of the above we find merit in the argument advanced by the learned counsel for the respondent that merely because the property has occupied by civilian under an old grant basis, such a grantee only has status of mere occupier and does not become the title holder of the property. The petitioner has not produced any document that he has the old grant in favour of his predecessor-in-interest. He does not also show as to how he has come to occupy the property in the year 1970. At the most, therefore, he is an occupant, may be unauthorized one.

16. Now coming to the second question, it is necessary to first go through the relevant provisions of the Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorised Occupants) Act, 1971 which is relevant herein, to find answer to the question. Vide Section 2 of the Act, 1971 defines the premises and public premises separately. Vide Section 2 (c) and 2 (e) of the Act, 1971 are, accordingly, reproduced hereunder:-

2 (c) "premises" means any land or any building or part of a building and includes, -

(i) the garden, grounds and outhouses, if any, appertaining to such building or part of a building, and

(ii) any fittings affixed to such building or part of a building for the more beneficial enjoyment thereof;

2 (e) "public premises" means -

(1) any premises belonging to, or taken on lease or requisitioned by, or on behalf of the Central Government, and includes any such premises which have been placed by that Government, whether before or after the commencement of the Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorised Occupants) Amendment Act, 1980 (61 of 1980), under the control of the Secretariat of either House of Parliament for providing residential accommodation to any member of the staff of that Secretariat;"

17. From a bare reading of the aforesaid provision, it is clear that Legislature has used the word 'Premises' in a generic sense, comprehending in it the land, the structure standing over it and every such other activity in forms of any fixture for the beneficial enjoyment of the premises and the public premises are such that belong to the Central Government. We have already held that land and the house standing thereupon as bungalow No.- 178 is admittedly a property belong to the defence department and so it is a defence property. Section 5A & B provide for the removal of unauthorized constructions if made over and above such land of property and Section 5B empowers the authority to remove the unauthorized construction by undertaking of demolition exercise. Section 5C also provides for sealing of the unauthorized constructions. The relevant Section 5A, 5B and 5C of the Act, 1971 are reproduced hereunder:-

"5A. Power to remove unauthorised constructions, etc.-- (1) No person shall--

(a) erect or place or raise any building or [any movable or immovable structure or fixture],

(b) display or spread any goods.

(c) bring or keep any cattle or other animal, on, or against, or in front of, any public premises except in accordance with the authority (whether by way of grant or any other mode of transfer) under which he was allowed to occupy such premises.

(2) Where any building or other immovable structure or fixture has been erected, placed or raised on any public premises in contravention of the provisions of sub-section (1), the estate officer may serve upon the person erecting such building or other structure or fixture, a notice requiring him either to remove, or to show cause why he shall not remove such building or other structure or fixture from the public premises within such period, not being less than seven days, as he may specify in the notice; and on the omission or refusal of such person either to show cause, or to remove such building or other structure or fixture from the public premises, or where the cause shown is not, in the opinion of the estate officer, sufficient, the estate officer may, by order, remove or cause to be removed the building or other structure or fixture from the public premises and recover the cost of such removal from the person aforesaid as an arrear of land revenue.

(3) Where any movable structure or fixture has been erected, placed or raised, or any goods have been displayed or spread, or any cattle or other animal has been brought or kept, on any public premises, in contravention of the provisions of sub-section (1) by any person, the estate officer may, by order, remove or cause to be removed without notice, such structure, fixture, goods, cattle or other animal, as the case may be, from the public premises and recover the cost of such removal from such person as an arrear of land revenue.]

5B. Order of demolition of unauthorised construction.-- (1) Where the erection of any building or execution of any work has been commenced, or is being carried on, or has been completed on any public premises by any person in occupation of such public premises under an authority (whether by way of grant or any other mode of transfer), and such erection of building or execution of work is in contravention of, or not authorised by, such authority, then, the estate officer may, in addition to any other action that may be taken under this Act or in accordance with the terms of the authority aforesaid, make an order, for reasons to be recorded therein, directing that such erection or work shall be demolished by the person at whose instance the erection or work has been commenced, or is being carried on, or has been completed, within such period, as may be specified in the order.

Provided that no order under this sub-section shall be made unless the person concerned has been given by means of a notice [of not less than seven days] served in the prescribed manner, a reasonable opportunity of showing cause why such order should not be made.

(2) Where the erection or work has not been completed, the estate officer may, by the same order or by a separate order, whether made at the time of the issue of the notice under the proviso to sub-section (1) or at any other time, direct the person at whose instance the erection or work has been commenced, or is being carried on, to stop the erection or work until the expiry of the period within which an appeal against the order of demolition, if made, may be preferred under section 9.

(3) The estate officer shall cause every order made under sub-section (1), or, as the case may be, under sub-section (2), to be affixed on the outer door, or some other conspicuous part, of the public premises.

(4) Where no appeal has been preferred against the order of demolition made by the estate officer under sub-section (1) or where an order of demolition made by the estate officer under that sub-section has been confirmed on appeal, whether with or without variation, the person against whom the order has been made shall comply with the order within the period specified therein, or, as the case may be, within the period, if any, fixed by the appellate officer on appeal, and, on the failure of the person to comply with the order within such period, the estate officer or any other officer duly authorised by the estate officer in this behalf, may cause the erection or work to which the order relates to be demolished.

(5) Where an erection or work has been demolished, the estate officer may, by order, require the person concerned to pay the expenses of such demolition within such time, and in such number of instalments, as may be specified in the order.]

5C. Power to seal unauthorised constructions.-- (1) It shall be lawful for the estate officer, at any time, before or after making an order of demolition under section 5B, to make an order directing the sealing of such erection or work or of the public premises in which such erection or work has been commenced or is being carried on or has been completed in such manner as may be prescribed, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Act, or for preventing any dispute as to the nature and extent of such erection or work.

(2) Where any erection or work or any premises in which any erection or work is being carried on has, or have been sealed, the estate officer may, for the purpose of demolishing such erection or work in accordance with the provisions of this Act, order such seal to be removed.

(3) No person shall remove such seal except--

(a) under an order made by the estate officer under sub-section (2); or

(b) under an order of the appellate officer made in an appeal under this Act.]"

18. The Estate Officer is the officer who is appointed by the Central Government under Section 3 of the Act, 1971 by the notifying such officer in the Official Gazette. Sub-section (b) of Section 3 provides the power to be exercised by such officer within the defined local limits to be notified by the Government or the categories of public premises in respect of which, the Estate Officer shall exercise powers conferred and perform the duties imposed by the State under the Act. Section 3 of the Act, 1971 in its entirety is reproduced hereunder:-

"3. Appointment of estate officers.--The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette,--

(a) appoint such persons, being gazetted officers of Government 8 [or of the Government of any Union Territory] or officers of equivalent rank of the 2[statutory authority], as it thinks fit, to be estate officers for the purposes of this Act:

[Provided that no officer of the Secretariat of the Rajya Sabha shall be so appointed except after consultation with the Chairman of the Rajya Sabha and no officer of the Secretariat of the Lok Sabha shall be so appointed except after consultation with Speaker of the Lok Sabha:

Provided further that an officer of a statutory authority shall only be appointed as an estate officer in respect of the public premises controlled by that authority; and]

(b) define the local limits within which, or the categories of public premises in respect of which, the estate officers shall exercise the powers conferred, and perform the duties imposed, on estate officers by or under this Act."

(emphasis added)

19. From the perusal of the aforesaid provisions, it is very much clear that not only the local limits in respect of which the power should be exercised by the State Officer but it could be also property specific. The Military Estate Officer, namely Defence Officer appointed and notified by the Central Government to exercise the power under the Act, 1971 in the present case is not disputed. What is disputed is that since area has stood transferred from the cantonment limits to the local limit, the Military Estate Officer as such could not have exercised the power.

20. We do not find merit in the above argument for the simple reason that sub-section (b) of Section 3 not only talks of notifying the limits but also of the property. Admittedly, the bungalow No. 178 is the defence property and to that extent, therefore, it stands notified as a defence property. The notification of the 1957 by which municipal limits of Agra has been extended and the cantonment area has been excised, it equally saves the property of the Central Government particularly the defence where there is no proper exercise has been carried out transferring the property to the State Government. No document has been led, nor, anywhere it has been pleaded that the bungalow No.178 itself has stood ipso facto transferred with the notification of extension of municipal limits to the area where the bungalow situates.

21. Since we have already held that the property belongs to the defence department, it was a public premises for the purposes of Section 5B of the Act, 1971 and, therefore, the defence estate officer who has been assigned the duties of Presiding Officer to act under the Act, 1971 has the jurisdiction and so he rightly exercised the same in the present case. We do not find any error in the authority of the Defence Estate Officer exercising power under the Act, 1971. The question of constructions whether it would fall in the category of unauthorized use of the public premises or in contravention of conditions prescribed under the old grant, we may hold that the petitioner since has not been able to demonstrate that he had old grant in his favour and that he had otherwise been a valid lessee, any construction or alteration of the existing structure by the petitioner required prior sanction and in the event no such permission had been accorded, raising of the structure may be with the sanction of the local development authority, would not validate the development activity and the constructions made in that regard. Thus, we are of the view that the Defence State Officer, who exercised the power as Presiding Officer under the relevant provisions of the Act, 1971 rightly exercised the power and we do not find any fault at his end in the matter.

22. In view of the above the writ petition being Writ- C No.- 46421 of 2006 lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed and so other two writ petitions are also dismissed.

CIVIL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 03.01.2020

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Writ C No. 49756 of 2013

M/s Modi Industries Ltd., Distt: Ghaziabad ...Petitioner

Versus

Prescribed Officer, Labour Court, Distt: Agra & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Tarun Agrawal, Sri Shakti Swarup Nigam, Sri Alok Kumar Srivastava

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Ramgee Prasad

A. Civil Law-U.P. Industrial Dispute Act, 1947 – Section 4(k) – Labour dispute – Domestic Inquiry – Fairness – Where the fairness of the inquiry was seriously impeached by the workman so much so that the Labour Court framed a preliminary issue to this effect – The said issue being answered in favour of the workman – The Labour Court proceeded to require the Employers to lead evidence before it in support of the charges; and, of course, in his defence by the workman too – This course of action adopted by the Labour Court was eminently right, in the opinion of this Court. (Para 15 and 16)

B. Constitution of India – Article 226 and 227 – Labour Court – Scope of Interference – Perversity in finding – There is hardly any conflict that findings of fact recorded by a Labour Court, based on admissible evidence taking a plausible view are not to be disturbed by this Court in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226, or in the supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution – Interference can only be made when the findings of the Labour Court are perverse – Else, the Labour Court is a final Court of fact and its conclusions are not be to disturbed. (Para 19)

C. Civil Law-Labour Dispute – Loss of Confidence – Relationship of Employer with workman – Once the Labour Court has found the case to be one where charges are not at all proved, the case of loss of confidence cannot be imported for the mere fancy of the Employers. (Para 23)

D. Civil Law-Labour Dispute – The Sick Industrial Companies Act, 1985 – Reinstatement – Effect of declaring the employer sick – Entitlement of workman to get Back-wages – The finding recorded by the Labour Court that the charge on which that the workman's services have been terminated, has been held by it to be baseless and false – The direction of the Labour Court with a finding of that kind cannot be said to be illegal in any manner – The only modifications that are required to be made is on account of the fact that the Employers are no longer a functional unit and have since long closed down – In the circumstances, apart from modifying the award to exclude the direction regarding reinstatement, the ends of justice would be served by requiring the Employers to pay a lump sum of Rs.5 lakhs, in lieu of the direction for reinstatement with back-wages and continuity of service. 7. Modi Industries Ltd. vs. Additional Labour Commissioner, 1994 (1) LLJ 482

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. The petitioner M/s Modi Industries Ltd., Modi Nagar, District Ghaziabad, U.P. have preferred this petition under Article 226 of the Constitution challenging an award of the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Agra dated 07.09.2012 (published on 11.03.2013) made in Adjudication Case No. 200 of 1991. By the said award (for short the 'impugned award') the Labour Court has held the termination of services of the second respondent-workman (for short the 'workman') by the petitioner-Employers (for short the 'Employers') with effect from 16.12.1989 to be illegal and improper, setting aside the Employers' order dated 16.12.1989 with a consequential direction that the workman, a Godown Keeper shall be reinstated in service with continuity, payment of balance of his salary during the period of his suspension from service and the entire back wages. The Employers were further ordered to pay the entire back wages within a period of one month from the date of enforcement of the award. The workman has also been awarded costs in the sum of Rs. 2500/-.

2. Apart from the respective case of parties, the facts leading to this writ petition are that the workman was employed by the Employers at their Agra Depot with effect from 5th November, 1981. He was appointed on the post of a peon. Lateron, on November the 15th, 1985, the workman was promoted to the post of a Godown Keeper. As a Godown Keeper, he was responsible for the maintenance and upkeep of the Company's Godown at Agra. These Godowns were utilized to store poly packs of Vanaspati Ghee. The Employers did a surprise check of their Godown on 17th February, 1988 that was carried out by one Pradeep Kumar Agarwal, a Branch Executive with the Employers. He is said to have noticed that some of the poly packs carrying Vanaspati Ghee were deliberately slashed by a sharp object and were damaged. The aforesaid officer of the Employers is further said to have noticed that vegetable Ghee had been removed from the damaged poly packs and these damaged poly packs were dumped along with other damaged poly packs, in order to show that the Godown stock was as per inventory. An inspecting official of the Employers appears to have submitted a report, recommending initiation of legal action against the workman. The Employers on the basis of the aforesaid report on 11th March, 1988 served the workman with a charge-sheet dated 20th April, 1988. The workman was charged with deliberately damaging poly packs of vegetable Ghee by slashing these with a sharp edged object and removal of the packaged contents for personal use or benefit.

3. It also appears that a little later on the 3rd of May, 1988, post issue of the charge-sheet, the workman was placed under suspension pending conclusion of disciplinary proceedings by a formal order to that effect issued by the Employers. The workman submitted his reply to the charge sheet on 16th May, 1988. The Employers appointed an Inquiry officer to go into the validity of the charges against the workman. One A.C. Mittal was appointed as the Inquiry Officer. The Inquiry Officer submitted his report on 31st August, 1989 to the Employers. Relying upon the findings carried in the inquiry report dated 31st August, 1989, last mentioned, the workman was dismissed from service vide order dated 16th December, 1989.

4. It was in the context of this action taken by the Employers that the workman raised an industrial dispute under Section 4-K of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (for short the 'Act') on the basis of which the competent authority made a reference dated 27th September, 1991 to the Labour Court in the following terms (translated into English from Hindi vernacular):-

"Whether the act of the Employers in terminating the services of their workman Sri Vishan Chandra Agarwal s/o Sri Manohar Lal Agarwal, Godown Keeper with effect from 16.12.1989 is proper and lawful, if not to what relief/benefits the concerned workman is entitled to, and in what terms?"

5. The Labour Court registered the aforesaid reference as Adjudication Case No. 200 of 1991 and issued notice to parties. The workman filed his written statement dated 16.01.1993 whereas the Employers also filed their written statement on 16.01.1993. The workman filed his rejoinder statement dated 02.06.1993 whereas the Employers filed their rejoinder statement dated 04.06.1993. The Labour Court upon exchange of pleadings appears to have framed a preliminary issue on January the 12th, 1994 as regards the validity and procedural fairness of the domestic inquiry held. The aforesaid issue that was determined as a preliminary, reads thus:

"क्या सेवायोजकों द्वारा श्रमिक श्री विशन चन्द्र अग्रवाल के विरुद्ध की गई घरेलू जांच उचित, नियमित, वैधानिक है? यदि नहीं तो उसका प्रभाव।"

6. Both sides led evidence. On the preliminary issue regarding the fairness and regularity of the domestic inquiry framed by the Labour Court, after considering the evidence led on both sides, the Labour Court held by its order of November 14th, 2006 that the domestic inquiry conducted by the Employers was illegal and vitiated. The preliminary issue was thus answered in favour of the workman. In consequence of the aforesaid finding, the Labour Court directed parties to adduce evidence afresh before the Labour Court in support of the charge by the Employers, and by the workman, to defend himself.

7. Consequent upon the said direction both parties led evidence in support of their respective case before the Labour Court on the merits of the charges that were laid against the workman in the charge-sheet. On behalf of the Employers, one Pradeep Kumar Goyal, Branch Executive, last mentioned, testified on 19th February, 2007. He was cross examined the same day. Two other witnesses who appeared on behalf of the Employers were one Kamlendra and another Devendra. The workman took stand in the witness box on 21.09.2007 where he testified in support of his case. He was cross examined extensively at the conclusion of his examination-in-chief, the same day. After conclusion of evidence and hearing parties, the Labour Court by means of the impugned award, answered the reference in favour of the workman and against the Employers with an award in terms set out in the opening part of this judgment.

8. Aggrieved, the present writ petition has been filed by the Employers.

9. Heard Sri Shakti Swaroop Nigam, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Alok Kumar Srivastava, learned Counsel for the Employers and Sri Ramgee Prasad, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the workman.

10. The foremost fact to be considered is that the employers have charged the workman with intentional slashing of poly packs of vanaspati ghee and dishonest removal of the edible contents that he is alleged to have converted to his own use. He is further charged of mixing up the poly packs from which contents had been removed, with other damaged packets, in order to deceive the Employers by a stratagem that the empty packets would be accounted for in the godown stock of damaged packets, without detection of the removed contents.

11. Now, these charges were found established during the disciplinary proceedings but post reference to the Labour Court, on determination of the preliminary issue the Labour Court did not find the inquiry to be fairly and legally done, and by an order dated 14.11.2006 passed by the Labour Court, while determining the preliminary issue regarding fairness and regularity of the inquiry, ordered the employers to prove the charges before the Labour Court; and the workman to defend. The most vital fact in issue, therefore, is whether the employers were able to establish the charges before the Labour Court on merits when inquiry into those charges was laid open before the Labour Court. Decidedly , it was for the employers whether in the domestic inquiry or before the Labour Court to establish the charge against the workman by the civil standard. In other words, the employers were required to establish the charges by preponderance of probability. The aforesaid charges against the workman have arisen in the background of allegations that emanate from personal differences between the workman and Mr. P.K. Agarwal, Branch Executive of the Employers, who reported his misconduct leading to the disciplinary proceedings. Shorn of unnecessary detail, according to the workman's version, Mr. P.K. Agarwal removed one Rakesh Kumar, an office peon in August, 1988 because he would make him run errands at home. After Rakesh Kumar was removed, Mr. P.K. Agarwal required the workman to take over those household duties of his. It is claimed by the workman that Mr. P.K. Agarwal required him to do his household chores, including washing his linen which the workman says, he declined. Thereupon, Mr. P.K. Agarwal assigned him this job in the office and deputed him as office clerk to serve at the godown, where these poly packs are stored.

12. According to the workman on 16.02.2018, which was a holiday, Mr. P.K. Agarwal visited the godown in the workman's absence and removed the contents of some of the poly packs. The consignment of vanaspati Ghee had to be dispatched that day to a certain Jain Sales Corporation, Agra. Mr. P.K. Agarwal ordered the workman to go to the godown on the following day, that is on 17.02.1988. On reaching the godown, the workman claims to have found the slashed poly packs regarding which he gave telephonic information to Mr. P.K. Agarwal. The workman further claims to have submitted a complaint in the matter to the sales office which is on record as Exhibit W-4. After this report by the workman, Mr. P.K. Agarwal, on the letter head of the Employers, scribed a report which is Exhibit W-5. It is claimed by the workman also that since Mr. P.K. Agarwal knew that it was his misdeed, he stayed quiet for a month about the issue. At the end of it all, the workman says that in connivance with his brother-in-law, one S.C. Goel who is the Chief Chemist, Modi Nagar Factory of the Employers, he colluded with certain officers in the head office to draw a false report against the workman, wherein the workman was framed and suspended.

13. The Labour Court while going into the proof of the charges on evidence led by the employers and weighing probabilities, considering the workman's defence, returned a finding which reads to the following effect (in Hindi vernacular):

"उपर्युक्त के संबंध में पक्षों को सुना गया। उनके द्वारा दाखिल लिखित कथन, प्रत्युत्तर, साक्ष्य एवं अभिलेखों का अवलोकन किया गया। वादी श्रमिक के अनुसार वह गोदाम कीपर के पद पर कार्यरत रहा। आगरा सेल्स आफिस में कार्यरत श्री राकेश चपरासी को श्री प्रदीर कुमार अग्रवाल ब्रांच एक्जीक्यूटिव द्वारा वर्ष 1988 में घर का काम करने से मना करने के कारण हटा दिया। श्री राकेश को हटाने के बाद श्री प्रदीर कुमार अग्रवाल, ब्रांच एक्जीक्यूटिव द्वारा वादी से घर का काम और कपड़े धोने का काम करने के लिए कहा गया। वादी द्वारा मना कर देने पर श्री प्रदीप कुमार अग्रवाल ब्रांच एक्जीक्यूटिव नाराज हो गये और उनके द्वारा वादी श्रमिक से गोराम की जगह आफिस में काम लेने लगे और आफिस क्लर्कों से गोदाम का काम लने लगे ताकि कोई गलती होने पर वादी को फंसाया जा सके। वादी के अनुसार उसके द्वारा इसकी सूचना हेड आफिस को भी दी गयी थी। वाद में सुनवाई के दौरान प्रतिवादी सेवायोजक पक्ष द्वारा वादी श्रमिक की उक्त तथ्यात्मक साक्ष्य एवं कथन का कोई खंडन नहीं किया गया। अतः इसे सही मानने का पूर्ण औचित्य है।

वादी श्रमिक के अनुसार गोदाम की चाभियां स्वयं श्री प्रदीप कुमार अग्रवाल ब्रांच एक्जीक्यूटिव के पास रहती थी और वह जिसे चाहते थे उसे चाभियां देते थे। स्ओर मुख्य रूप से श्री प्रदीप कुमार अग्रवाल, ब्रांच एक्जीक्यूटिव की देखरेख में रहता था। प्रतिवादी साक्ष्य श्री प्रदीप कुमार अग्रवाल ब्रांच एक्जीक्यूटिव द्वारा अपनी शपथपूर्वक साक्ष्य में भी स्वीकार किया गया है कि गोदाम की चाभियां उनके पास रहती थी। दिनांक 16.02.1988 को वह गोदाम एवं बरामदें की सभी चाभियां अपने साथ घर ले आये थे। इस प्रकार तथ्यों के अवलोकन एवं विवेचन से स्पष्ट है कि गोदाम की चाभियां श्री प्रदीप कुमार अग्रवाल ब्रांच एक्जीक्यूटिव के पास रहने की स्थिति में गोदाम में रखे माल की चोरी अथवा डेमेज होने के संबंध में प्रतिवादी द्वारा वादी श्रमिक पर आरोप किस आधार पर लगाया गया है? इसका कोई तथ्यात्मक साक्ष्य एवं विवरण प्रतिवादी सेवायोजक पक्ष द्वारा वाद में सुनवाई के दौरान दाखिल/प्रस्तुत नहीं किया गया है।

उक्त साक्ष्य एवं कथन के अवलोकन एवं विवेचन के पश्चात मैं इस मत/निष्कर्ष का हूं कि वादी श्रमिक पर दिनांक 17.2.1988 को पोलीपैक की थैलियों को काटकर उसमें से घी निकालने का लगाया गया आरोप असत्य एवं निराधार है। प्रतिवादी द्वारा दी गयी उक्त साक्ष्य एवं कथन के परिप्रेक्ष्य में वादी श्रमिक पर लगाया गया आरोप सिद्ध/प्रमाणित नहीं होता है।"

14. Sri Shakti Swaroop Nigam, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has assailed the findings recorded by the Tribunal on ground, amongst others, that the Labour Court cannot sit in appeal over the conclusions of the domestic inquiry. It is submitted that the Labour Court can only do a Wednesbury review or a secondary review of the findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer and may interfere where the procedure by which the decision is reached is not found to be fair, just and reasonable. However, the Labour Court cannot go into the correctness or validity of the decision itself, if the Inquiry Officer has recorded findings taking a reasonable view of the evidence on record. In support of his contention, he placed reliance upon the decision in Depot Manager, A.P.S.R.T. Corporation vs. Reghuda Siva Sankar Prasad, 2007 (112) FLR 703. He has also, in particular, placed reliance upon the decision of the Supreme Court in West Bokaro Colliery (TISCO LTD.) vs. Ram Pravesh Singh, (2008) 3 SCC 729: 2009 (120) FLR 1147. In support of the contention aforesaid, referring to their Lordships decision in West Bokaro Colliery (TISCO LTD.) (supra), attention of this Court has been drawn to paragraphs 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18 of the report by Sri Nigam, where it is held:

"14. The Tribunal in its order on reappreciation of evidence came to the conclusion that in the absence of any independent evidence other than of fellow workmen, the charge of indecent, riotous and disorderly behaviour with superior and co-worker was not proved. Insofar as the absence from the duty is concerned, the Tribunal came to the conclusion that according to the workman, he had left the place of work at 12.25 p.m. and as the incident allegedly had taken place at 12.30 p.m., the respondent could not have reached the place of incident at 12.30 p.m. after collecting his other associates. In para 14 of its order, the Tribunal concluded that Management had failed to substantiate the charges brought against the workman beyond reasonable doubt.

15. This Court in Divl. Controller, KSRTC (NWKRTC) v. A.T. Mane [(2005) 3 SCC 254 : 2005 SCC (L&S) 407] held that: (SCC p. 258, para 9)

"9. From the above it is clear that once a domestic tribunal based on evidence comes to a particular conclusion, normally it is not open to the Appellate Tribunals and courts to substitute their subjective opinion in the place of the one arrived at by the domestic tribunal. In the present case, there is evidence of the inspector who checked the bus which establishes the misconduct of the respondent. The domestic tribunal accepted that evidence and found the respondent guilty. But the courts below misdirected themselves in insisting on the evidence of the ticketless passengers to reject the said finding which, in our opinion, as held by this Court in Rattan Singh [State of Haryana v. Rattan Singh, (1977) 2 SCC 491 : 1977 SCC (L&S) 298] is not a condition precedent. We may herein note that the judgment of this Court in Rattan Singh [State of Haryana v. Rattan Singh, (1977) 2 SCC 491 : 1977 SCC (L&S) 298] has since been followed by this Court in Devendra Swamy v. Karnataka SRTC [(2002) 9 SCC 644 : 2002 SCC (L&S) 1093]."

16. In U.P. SRTC v. Vinod Kumar [(2008) 1 SCC 115 : (2008) 1 SCC (L&S) 1 : (2007) 13 Scale 690] this Court again observed that in the absence of a challenge to the legality or fairness of the domestic enquiry, the Court should be reluctant to either interfere with the finding recorded by the enquiry officer or the punishment awarded by the punishing authority.

17. After going through the order of the Industrial Tribunal, we are of the opinion that the Tribunal has interfered with the findings recorded by the domestic tribunal as if it was the Appellate Tribunal. There was evidence present on record regarding indecent, riotous and disorderly behaviour of the respondent towards his superiors. The Management witnesses who were present at the scene of occurrence have unequivocally deposed about the misbehaviour of the respondent towards his superiors. Their evidence has been discarded by the Tribunal by observing that in the absence of independent evidence, the statements of the workmen who were present at the scene of occurrence could not be believed. The Industrial Tribunal fell in error in discarding the evidence produced by the Management only because the independent witnesses were not produced.

18. It is nobody's case that the independent witnesses were available at the scene of occurrence and the Management had failed to produce them. It is possible that at the time of occurrence, only the workers of the Management and the persons who were trying to put up the construction unauthorisedly were the persons present and no independent evidence was available. Statements of the fellow workmen had established the misconduct of the respondent. Enquiry officer accepted the testimony of the witnesses produced by the Management who had clearly implicated the respondent. It was a legitimate conclusion which could be arrived at and it would not be open to the Industrial Tribunal to substitute the said opinion by its own opinion."

15. This Court finds that though the principle which Sri Nigam has urged is well settled but that applies to a situation where the fairness of the inquiry is not in issue. In West Bokaro Colliery (TISCO LTD.) (supra) relied upon by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner, shows on a perusal of paragraph 8 of the report that there the respondent had made a statement before the Labour Court that he did not want to challenge the legality, fairness or proprietary of the domestic inquiry. It was in the context of that kind of a lis where the Labour Court reviewed the findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer that the law in paragraphs 14 to 18 of the aforesaid decision of their Lordships has been laid down. The present is one where the fairness of the inquiry was seriously impeached by the workman somuch so that the Labour Court framed a preliminary issue to this effect, as already detailed hereinabove. The said issue being answered in favour of the workman, the Labour Court proceeded to require the Employers to lead evidence before it in support of the charges; and, of course, in his defence by the workman too.

16. This course of action adopted by the Labour Court was eminently right, in the opinion of this Court. The law governing the course to be adopted by a Labour Court in such circumstances is laid down by their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Neeta Kaplish vs. Presiding Officer, Labour Court, (1999) 1 SCC 517: 1999 SCC (L&S) 302, where it is held thus:

"24. In view of the above, the legal position as emerges out is that in all cases where enquiry has not been held or the enquiry has been found to be defective, the Tribunal can call upon the management or the employer to justify the action taken against the workman and to show by fresh evidence that the termination or dismissal order was proper. If the management does not lead any evidence by availing of this opportunity, it cannot raise any grouse at any subsequent stage that it should have been given that opportunity, as the Tribunal, in those circumstances, would be justified in passing an award in favour of the workman. If, however, the opportunity is availed of and the evidence is adduced by the management, the validity of the action taken by it has to be scrutinised and adjudicated upon on the basis of such fresh evidence.

(Emphasis by Court)

25. In the instant case, the appellant had questioned the domestic enquiry on a number of grounds including that her own answers, in reply to the questions of the Presiding Officer, were not correctly and completely recorded and that the Enquiry Officer was not impartial and was biased in favour of the respondent. It was further contended that her own witnesses were not called and she was not given the opportunity to lead evidence. The Labour Court has discussed a few of these grounds but has not given any finding on the bias of the Enquiry Officer or the ground relating to incorrectly recording the statement of the appellant. The Labour Court, however, found that the enquiry was not fairly and properly held. It was after recording this finding that the Labour Court called upon the Management to lead evidence on merits which it did not do.

26. Learned counsel for the appellant (sic respondent) contended that in spite of the direction by the Labour Court to the respondent-Management to lead evidence, it was open to the Management to rely upon the domestic enquiry proceedings already held by the Enquiry Officer, including the evidence recorded by him, and it was under no obligation to lead further evidence, particularly as the Management was of the view that the charges, on the basis of the evidence already led before the Enquiry Officer, stood proved. It was also contended that under Section 11-A, the Labour Court had to rely on the "materials on record" and since the enquiry proceedings constituted "material on record", the same could not be ignored. The argument is fallacious.

27. The record pertaining to the domestic enquiry would not constitute "fresh evidence" as those proceedings have already been found by the Labour Court to be defective. Such record would also not constitute "material on record", as contended by the counsel for the respondent, within the meaning of Section 11-A as the enquiry proceedings on being found to be bad, have to be ignored altogether. The proceedings of the domestic enquiry could be, and were in fact, relied upon by the Management for the limited purpose of showing at the preliminary stage that the action taken against the appellant was just and proper and that a full opportunity of hearing was given to her in consonance with the principles of natural justice. This contention has not been accepted by the Labour Court and the enquiry has been held to be bad. In view of the nature of objections raised by the appellant, the record of enquiry held by the Management ceased to be "material on record" within the meaning of Section 11-A of the Act and the only course open to the Management was to justify its action by leading fresh evidence as required by the Labour Court. If such evidence has not been led, the Management has to suffer the consequences."

17. It is all the more important to point out that the decision of the Labour Court to hold an inquiry itself into the charges was not challenged by the Employers, once the domestic inquiry was condemned by the Labour Court not to be one that was procedurally fair, just and reasonable. Rather, they elected to lead evidence in support of the charges before the Labour Court, where the workman defended himself. This Court is of clear opinion that in a case like the present one where the Labour Court has directed evidence on the merits of the charge to be led before it, the Labour Court is not a Tribunal confined in its role to do a secondary review. In proceedings where all evidence is led before the Labour Court by the Employers and the workman after holding the domestic inquiry to be procedurally unfair, the Labour Court assumes the role of a primary decision maker. All questions of fact, assessment of evidence and proportionality of punishment to be awarded, if any, in this kind of exercise are open to the Labour Court. In the aforesaid background the decision in West Bokaro Colliery (TISCO LTD.) (supra) and Depot Manager, A.P.S.R.T. Corporation (supra) would not be of any assistance to the Employers. The Labour Court has recorded a categorical finding of fact, on a meticulous evaluation of evidence that was led before it, that charges against the workman carried in the Employer's charge sheet, are all false and baseless. It has further been held that termination of the workman's services by the Employers, based on these unproved charges, vide order dated 16.12.1989, is illegal and unjust.

18. The findings that have led to these firm conclusions by the Labour Court have been extracted hereinabove. Those findings in no way have been demonstrated by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner to be perverse or based on irrelevant evidence or non-consideration of relevant materials. The Labour Court has entered into a detailed analysis of the sequence of events about the manner in which the misconduct is said to have been committed, the articles recovered from the place of occurrence, the fact that no one is an eye witness to the workman's misconduct, and many others; all relevant considerations from which the conclusions drawn by the Labour Court could reasonably be recorded.

19. It is by far the legal position, about which there is hardly any conflict that findings of fact recorded by a Labour Court, based on admissible evidence taking a plausible view are not to be disturbed by this Court in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226, or in the supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution. Interference can only be made when the findings of the Labour Court are perverse. Else, the Labour Court is a final Court of fact and its conclusions are not be to disturbed. In this connection, reference may be make to the decision of their Lordships of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Management of Madurantakam Co-operative Sugar Mills Ltd vs. S. Viswanathan, 2005 (104) FLR 1229, where in paragraph 12 of the report, it is held:

"12. Normally, the Labour Court or the Industrial Tribunal, as the case may be, is the final court of facts in these type of disputes, but if a finding of fact is perverse or if the same is not based on legal evidence the High Court exercising a power either under Article 226 or under Article 227 of the Constitution of India can go into the question of fact decided by the Labour Court or the Tribunal. But before going into such an exercise it is necessary that the writ court must record reasons why it intends reconsidering a finding of fact. In the absence of any such defect in the order of the Labour Court the writ court will not enter into the realm of factual disputes and finding given thereon. A consideration of the impugned order of the learned Single Judge shows that nowhere he has come to the conclusion that the finding of the Labour Court is either perverse or based on no evidence or based on evidence which is not legally acceptable. Learned Single Judge proceeded as if he was sitting in a court of appeal on facts and item after item of evidence recorded in the domestic enquiry as well as before the Labour Court was reconsidered and findings given by the Labour Court were reversed. We find no justification for such an approach by the learned Single Judge which only amounts to substitution of his subjective satisfaction in the place of such satisfaction of the Labour Court."

20. In this view of the matter, this Court is of the opinion that the finding of the Labour Court holding the charges to be not proved against the workman is a sound finding that accords well with the law and evidence on record. The said finding does not require inference by this Court in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution.

21. The other contention urged by Sri Nigam is that whatever be the outcome and the findings of the Labour Court, looking to the essence of the charge that is one of theft, the findings of the domestic inquiry even if not found to be valid by the Labour Court, in principle, or in law, or even on facts, the present is a case of loss of confidence of the Employers in their workman. He submits that so far as the Employers are concerned, for their part are convinced that the workman has committed an act of theft by which he has shattered their confidence, as it is described. In the nature of things, the Employers cannot be compelled to reinstate a workman in service about whom, they by their conscience feel is a thief. In this connection Sri Nigam, again has placed reliance on the decision of the Supreme Court in Depot Manager, A.P.S.R.T. Corporation vs. Reghuda Siva Sankar Prasad (supra), where in paragraph 19 of their Lordships' decision, it is held:

"19. The learned Judges of the High Court have also failed to appreciate that once an employee has lost the confidence of the employer, it would not be safe and in the interest of the Corporation to continue the employee in the service. ...."

22. He has further placed reliance on the decision of Supreme Court in Divisional Controller, Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation vs. M.G.

Vittal Rao, (2012) 1 SCC 442, where it has been held:

"25. Once the employer has lost the confidence in the employee and the bona fide loss of confidence is affirmed, the order of punishment must be considered to be immune from challenge, for the reason that discharging the office of trust and confidence requires absolute integrity, and in a case of loss of confidence, reinstatement cannot be directed. [Vide Air India Corpn. v. V.A. Rebellow [(1972) 1 SCC 814 : AIR 1972 SC 1343] , Francis Klein & Co. (P) Ltd. v. Workmen [(1972) 4 SCC 569 : AIR 1971 SC 2414] and BHEL v. M. Chandrasekhar Reddy [(2005) 2 SCC 481 : 2005 SCC (L&S) 282 : AIR 2005 SC 2769].]

26. In Kanhaiyalal Agrawal v. Gwalior Sugar Co. Ltd. [(2001) 9 SCC 609 : 2002 SCC (L&S) 257 : AIR 2001 SC 3645] this Court laid down the test for loss of confidence to find out as to whether there was bona fide loss of confidence in the employee, observing that, (SCC p. 614, para 9) (i) the workman is holding the position of trust and confidence; (ii) by abusing such position, he commits an act which results in forfeiting the same; and (iii) to continue him in service/establishment would be embarrassing and inconvenient to the employer, or would be detrimental to the discipline or security of the establishment. Loss of confidence cannot be subjective, based upon the mind of the management. Objective facts which would lead to a definite inference of apprehension in the mind of the management, regarding trustworthiness or reliability of the employee, must be alleged and proved. (See also Sudhir Vishnu Panvalkar v. Bank of India [(1997) 6 SCC 271 : 1997 SCC (L&S) 1662 : AIR 1997 SC 2249].)

27. In SBI v. Bela Bagchi [(2005) 7 SCC 435 : 2005 SCC (L&S) 940 : AIR 2005 SC 3272] this Court repelled the contention that even if by the misconduct of the employee the employer does not suffer any financial loss, he can be removed from service in a case of loss of confidence. While deciding the said case, reliance has been placed upon its earlier judgment in Disciplinary Authority-cum-Regional Manager v. Nikunja Bihari Patnaik [(1996) 9 SCC 69 : 1996 SCC (L&S) 1194].

28. An employer is not bound to keep an employee in service with whom relations have reached the point of complete loss of confidence/faith between the two. [Vide Binny Ltd. v. Workmen [(1972) 3 SCC 806 : AIR 1972 SC 1975], Binny Ltd. v. Workmen [(1974) 3 SCC 152 : 1973 SCC (L&S) 444 : AIR 1973 SC 1403] , Anil Kumar Chakraborty v. Saraswatipur Tea Co. Ltd. [(1982) 2 SCC 328 : 1982 SCC (L&S) 249 : AIR 1982 SC 1062] , Chandu Lal v. Pan American World Airways Inc. [(1985) 2 SCC 727 : 1985 SCC (L&S) 535 : AIR 1985 SC 1128] , Kamal Kishore Lakshman v. Pan American World Airways Inc. [(1987) 1 SCC 146 : 1987 SCC (L&S) 25 : AIR 1987 SC 229] and Pearlite Liners (P) Ltd. v. Manorama Sirsi [(2004) 3 SCC 172 : 2004 SCC (L&S) 453 : AIR 2004 SC 1373].]

29. In Indian Airlines Ltd. v. Prabha D. Kanan [(2006) 11 SCC 67 : (2007) 1 SCC (L&S) 359 : AIR 2007 SC 548] , while dealing with the similar issue this Court held that: (SCC p. 90, para 56)

"56. ...loss of confidence cannot be subjective but there must be objective facts which would lead to a definite inference of apprehension in the mind of the employer regarding trustworthiness of the employee and which must be alleged and proved."

30. In case of theft, the quantum of theft is not important and what is important is the loss of confidence of employer in employee. (Vide A.P. SRTC v. Raghuda Siva Sankar Prasad [(2007) 1 SCC 222 : (2007) 1 SCC (L&S) 151 : AIR 2007 SC 152].)"

23. Once the Labour Court has found the case to be one where charges are not at all proved, the case of loss of confidence cannot be imported for the mere fancy of the Employers. In this connection the decision in Indian Airlines Ltd. Vs. Prabha D. Kanan, (2006) 11 SCC 67, clearly accepts the principle that loss of confidence is not something that is subjective with the employer but should be an inference based on tangible facts that may give rise to a reasonable apprehension in the employer's mind about the fidelity of the employee. It has been held in the decision in Indian Airlines Ltd. (supra) that facts that lead the employer to harbor apprehension regarding "trustworthiness of the employee ..... must be alleged and proved" [see decision in Indian Airlines Ltd. (supra)]. Thus, the contention of the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner that the workman has been found involved in a case of slashing poly packs of vanaspati ghee and removing the edible contents that he converted to his own use, is a fact that is not proved on the basis of findings recorded by the Labour Court, in the adjudication made by it, on evidence led by both sides. The charge being thoroughly dispelled, this possibly cannot be a case where principle of loss of confidence can be invoked by the Employers to keep the workman out of service.

24. The last limb of Sri Nigam's submission is based on a fact asserted in the writ petition that the Employer's unit, where the workman was employed, has suffered a closure and has been declared sick under the provisions of the Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985 (for short the "SICA'). It is submitted that before the repeal of the said Act, the Employers' industrial unit was closed down and has been declared sick with effect from 14.03.1991. As such, the petitioner cannot be reinstated in service. Refuting the aforesaid claim of the Employers, the workman in his counter affidavit, has stated in paragraph 5, that not reinstating the workman after the award has been made in his favour by the Labour Court is misplaced. It is averred that Section 22 of the SICA is not applicable to the present case, inasmuch as the said Act has been repealed and the BIFR and AIFR stand dissolved; all proceedings before them stand abated with effect from 01.12.2016, when the Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Repeal Act, 2003 came into force.

25. The petitioners have disputed the legal position emerging from the repeal of the SICA. The Court does not wish to go much into the effect of repeal of the said statute, as it is found to be unnecessary. Learned Counsel for the workman submits on the strength of a decision of this Court in Modi Industries Ltd. vs. Additional Labour Commissioner, 1994 (1) LLJ 482 that the liability of an employer to pay its workman for the work done is not affected by the provisions of the SICA. In Modi Industries Ltd. vs. Additional Labour Commissioner (supra), it has been held:

"[15] In my opinion, the aforesaid reasoning adopted by Hon'ble Supreme Court applies with full force to the facts of the present case also. The Parliament while putting Section 22 of the Act, 1985 could never have intended that the industrial unit under the garb of sickness or for any like difficulty may be allowed to shirk its liability to pay the wages to its workers for the work they have done. Thus proceedings under Section 3 of the U.P. Act of 1978 will not be affected by Section 22 of the Act of 1985."

26. It would make difference, however, in case they are no longer a working and viable industrial unit, where the workman may be reinstated in service. Apart form the fact that the petitioners have alleged in paragraph no. 4 of the writ petition that they have been declared sick under the SICA, they have also said that their unit has closed down.

27. It is averred in paragraph no.8 of the writ petition that the unit has been declared sick on 14.03.1991. In paragraphs 5 and 9 of the writ petition, there is no specific pleading traversing the contention of the Employers that they have been declared a sick unit on 14.03.1994, or on any other date under the SICA. Thus, for a fact there is no denial by the workman that the Employers' unit has been declared sick. The pleading in answer, however, is to the effect that SICA stands repealed with effect from 01.12.2016, as detailed hereinbefore. The workman has not disputed the Employers' case in paragraph 4 of the counter affidavit that they are a unit that has closed down. The said fact is not denied for a fact and must, therefore, be held to be admitted by non-traverse. Ordering the workman to be reinstated in a unit that is closed down and non-functional, would constitute a direction impossible of execution. The direction about payment of back-wages cannot, however, be faulted.

28. The learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioner submits that the Employers' unit being declared sick with effect from 14.03.1991, the Employers cannot be compelled to pay back-wages beyond the said date. According to him, the back-wages have to be confined to the period 16.12.1989 to 14.03.1991, that is to say, between the date of workman's termination from service and the date when the Employers' unit was declared sick. This Court is not in agreement with the said submission advanced by the learned Senior Counsel. The said plea about the petitioners' unit going sick and its effect on the liability was not raised, and in any case never urged before the Labour Court, as would appear from a perusal of the impugned award. This plea has been taken for the first time before this Court, which cannot be gone into in the first instance here. It is for this reason, amongst others, that this Court has earlier remarked that the Court is not inclined to go much into the position about rights of parties, emerging from repeal of the SICA.

29. The question that still remains to be examined is as to what back-wages is the workman entitled to? The Labour Court has ordered reinstatement with full back-wages and continuity of service. This is in keeping with the finding recorded by the Labour Court that the charge on which that the workman's services have been terminated, has been held by it to be baseless and false. The direction of the Labour Court with a finding of that kind cannot be said to be illegal in any manner. The only modifications that are required to be made is on account of the fact that the Employers are no longer a functional unit and have since long closed down. In the circumstances, apart from modifying the award to exclude the direction regarding reinstatement, the ends of justice would be served by requiring the Employers to pay a lump sum of Rs.5 lakhs, in lieu of the direction for reinstatement with back-wages and continuity of service, within two months of the date of this judgment.

30. In the result, this writ petition is allowed in part. The impugned award dated 07.09.2012 is modified to provide that in substitution of the direction to reinstate the workman with continuity of service, payment of salary for the period of suspension and the entire back-wages for the period that he remained out of service, there shall be a direction to the Employers to pay the workman a sum of Rs.5 lakhs in lump sum, within two months of the date of this judgment. In the event of default, the aforesaid sum shall carry interest reckoned at Bank Rate until realization in accordance with law. The Employers shall pay the workman costs in the sum of Rs.20,000/-.

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri T.S. Dabas, Sri Akash Gupta

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Civil Law-Arms Act, 1959 – Section 17(3) – Word 'Public peace' or 'Public safety' – Meaning – Obligation of authority – Public peace or public safety do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order – Public safety means safety of the public at large and not safety of few persons only – The Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and public safety before passing the order. (Para 29)

B. Civil Law-Arms Act, 1959 – Section 17(3) – Cancellation of Licence – Ground of pendency of criminal case – Acquittal – After acquittal the very basis of the order of cancellation vanished – The finding of the District Magistrate as affirmed by the Commissioner, that it was not in the interest of public peace and the public security that the licence remained with the petitioner/licencee, is not based on any evidence/material, except the police reports which in their turn were in view of the pendency of the criminal case against the petitioner – On mere apprehension expressed in the impugned orders that the petitioner would misuse the fire arm and would extend threat to the persons of the weaker section of the society, the arm licence could not be cancelled. (Para 36)

Writ Petition allowed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. I have heard Sri Akash Gupta holding brief of Sri T.S. Dabas, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Rakesh Kumar Singh, learned Standing Counsel appearing for Respondent Nos. 1 and 2.

2. By means of this writ petition the petitioner has challenged the order dated 2.1.2003, passed by the District Magistrate, Rampur in Case No. 397 of 1999 under Section 17 of the Arms Act, 1959, (State Vs. Ram Prasad) (Annexure-4 to the writ petition) by which the petitioner's Fire Arms Licence No. 1332/TT of double-barrel gun No. 1595 was cancelled. The appellate order dated 24.8.2006 passed by the Commissioner, Moradabad Mandal, Moradabad dismissing the petitioner's Appeal No. 26/02-03 under Section 18 of The Arms Act, 1959 (Ram Prasad Vs. State of U.P.) District Rampur (Annexure-6 to the writ petition) is also under challenge.

3. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the petitioner was granted licence No. 1332/TT of double-barrel gun on 22.8.1997. A criminal case, bearing Crime Case No. 181 of 1999 under Sections 323, 504, 506 IPC and Section 3(1) (X) of The Schedule Caste and Scheduled Tribe (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, P.S. Milak, District Rampur, was registered against the petitioner. In view thereof, the police of Police Station-Milak submitted a report dated 20.7.1999 to the District Magistrate/Collector, Rampur recommending cancellation of the petitioner's fire arms licence, as it was not in the public interest that the fire arm remain with the petitioner.

4. A show cause notice dated 10.8.1999 was issued to the petitioner as to why his fire arm licence be not cancelled on the aforesaid ground of pendency of criminal case.

5. The petitioner filed reply to the show cause notice, that the petitioner did not misuse the fire arm and the Criminal Case No. 181 of 1999 was lodged due to partybandi in the village, which was pending in the court. The fire arm licence was not liable to be cancelled and the show cause notice deserved to be withdrawn.

6. The District Magistrate, Rampur after considering the petitioner's reply, by order dated 2.1.2003 cancelled fire arm licence on the ground that in view of the pendency of the criminal case against the petitioner and considering the police reports dated 5.7.1999 and 8.10.2000, it was necessary to cancel the fire arm licence in public interest and public security.

7. After the order of cancellation dated 2.1.2003, the petitioner was acquitted in Session Trial No. 559 of 2000, arising out of Crime Case No. 181 of 1999 under Sections 323, 504, 506 IPC and Section 3(1) (X) of the Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 by judgment dated 17.1.2003 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Rampur.

8. The petitioner filed appeal No. 26/02-03 (Rram Prasad Vs. State of U.P.) under Section 18 of the Arms Act, 1959 challenging the order of cancellation of fire arm licence dated 2.1.2003, before the Commissioner, Moradabad Region, Moradabad. The petitioner filed copy of the order of his acquittal dated 17.1.2003 in the aforesaid appeal.

9. The Commissioner, Moradabad Region, Moradabad dismissed the petitioner's appeal by order dated 24.8.2006 and affirmed the order of cancellation dated 2.1.2003, taking the same view as in the order dated 2.1.2003 based on the police report that if the licence was restored, the petitioner will misuse the fire arm and terrorise the person of weaker sections. With respect to the judgment of acquittal dated 17.1.2003, it held that the petitioner was acquitted as the witnesses became hostile and there was some compromise between the accused and the victim.

10. The present petition has been filed challenging the aforesaid orders dated 24.8.2006 and 2.1.2003.

11. The submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that mere pendency of a criminal case was no ground to cancel the petitioner's fire arm licence. He submits that at the time when the order dated 2.1.2003 cancelling the fire arm licence was passed the criminal case was pending but after the order dated 2.1.2003, the petitioner was acquitted in the criminal case by judgment of the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Rampur and in view of the petitioner's acquittal, the appellate authority ought to have set aside the order of cancellation. The petitioner has no previous criminal history and in Crime Case No. 181 of 1999, the fire arm was not involved.

12. The learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in Hari Prasad Vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2005 (5) AWC 4939 (Allahabad).

13. On the other hand the learned Standing Counsel has argued that the order of cancellation was passed on the ground of pendency of the criminal case and even after acquittal, in view of the police reports dated 26.7.1999 and 8.10.2000, to the effect that if the fire arm licence was restored the petitioner would extend threat to the weaker sections and misuse the fire arm, the impugned orders deserve to be maintained.

14. I have considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsels for the parties and have perused the records.

15. Perusal of the impugned order dated 2.1.2003 passed by the District Magistrate shows that the fire arm licence has been cancelled on the ground that Criminal Case No. 181 of 1999 under Sections 323, 504, 506 IPC and Section 3(1) (x) of The Schedule Caste and Scheduled Tribe (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 was pending against the petitioner and in view thereof the police report was submitted that if the licence was restored the petitioner might misuse the fire arm. A perusal of the impugned appellate order also shows that the appeal has been dismissed on the ground of the police reports that the fire arm might be misused, although the petitioner was later on acquitted in the criminal case on 17.1.2003.

16. The matter which requires consideration is, whether on the ground of pendency of the criminal case the petitioner's fire arm licence could be cancelled and his appeal could be dismissed, notwithstanding his acquittal on 17.1.2003. It also requires consideration if the ground in the impugned orders that if the petitioner's fire arm licence remain with the petitioner, it would not be in the public interest and public security, are justified for cancellation and based on substantial material.

17. Section 17 of the Arms Act, 1959, deals with variation, suspension and revocation of the fire arm licence. Section 17 is reproduced as under:

"17. Variation, suspension and revocation of licences.--

(1) The licensing authority may vary the conditions subject to which a licence has been granted except such of them as have been prescribed and may for that purpose require the licence-holder by notice in writing to deliver-up the licence to it within such time as may be specified in the notice.

(2) The licensing authority may, on the application of the holder of a licence, also vary the conditions of the licence except such of them as have been prescribed.

(3) The licensing authority may by order in writing suspend a licence for such period as it thinks fit or revoke a licence--

(a) if the licensing authority is satisfied that the holder of the licence is prohibited by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force, from acquiring, having in his possession or carrying any arms or ammunition, or is of unsound mind, or is for any reason unfit for a licence under this Act; or

(b) if the licensing authority deems it necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to suspend or revoke the licence; or

(c) if the licence was obtained by the suppression of material information or on the basis of wrong information provided by the holder of the licence or any other person on his behalf at the time of applying for it; or

(d) if any of the conditions of the licence has been contravened; or

(e) if the holder of the licence has failed to comply with a notice under sub-section (1) requiring him to deliver up the licence.

(4) The licensing authority may also revoke a licence on the application of the holder thereof.

(5) Where the licensing authority makes an order varying a licence under sub-section (1) or an order suspending or revoking a licence under sub-section (3), it shall record in writing the reasons therefor and furnish to the holder of the licence on demand a brief statement of the same unless in any case the licensing authority is of the opinion that it will not be in the public interest to furnish such statement.

(6) The authority to whom the licensing authority is subordinate may by order in writing suspend or revoke a licence on any ground on which it may be suspended or revoked by the licensing authority; and the foregoing provisions of this section shall, as far as may be, apply in relation to the suspension or revocation of a licence by such authority.

(7) A court convicting the holder of a licence of any offence under this Act or the rules made thereunder may also suspend or revoke the licence:
Provided that if the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the suspension or revocation shall become void.

(8) An order of suspension or revocation under sub-section (7) may also be made by an appellate court or by the High Court when exercising its powers of revision.

(9) The Central Government may, by order in the Official Gazette, suspend or revoke or direct any licensing authority to suspend or revoke all or any licences granted under this Act throughout India or any part thereof.

(10) On the suspension or revocation of a licence under this section the holder thereof shall without delay surrender the licence to the authority by whom it has been suspended or revoked or to such other authority as may be specified in this behalf in the order of suspension or revocation.

18. A bare reading of Section 17 (3) of the Arms Act makes it evident that the licencing authority may by order in writing suspend a licence for such period as he things fit or revoke a licence; (b) if the licencing authority deems it necessary for the security of public peace or for public safety to suspend or revoke the licence. These two expressions "Security of public peace" and "for public safety" are of utmost importance. The licencing authority must be satisfied of the existence of these pre conditions.

19. In Masiuddin Vs. Commissioner, Allahabad Division, Allahabad and another reported in 1972 A.L.J. 573 this Court held in paragraph Nos. 4 and 7 as under:

"4. After a license is granted, the right to hold the license and possess a gun is a valuable individual right in a free country. The security of public peace and public safety is a valuable social interest. Section 17 shows that Parliament had decided that neither of the two valuable interests should unduly impinge on the other Section 17 seeks to establish a fair equilibrium between the two contending interests. It says: Hear the licensee first; and then cancel the license "if necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety". True, there is no express provision for hearing. True, there is no express provision for hearing. But the nature of the right affected, the language of Sec. 17, the grounds for cancellation, the requirement of a reasoned order and the right of appeal plainly implicate a fair hearing procedure. Jai Narain Rai v. District Magistrate, Azamgarh. While cancelling a licence, the District Magistrate acts as a quasi-judicial authority.

7. A license may be cancelled, inter alia on the ground that it is "necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety" to do so. The District Magistrate has not recorded a finding that it was necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to revoke the license. The mere existence of enmity between a licensee and another person would not establish the "necessary' connection with security of public peace or public safety. There should be something more than mere enmity. There should be some evidence of the provocative utterances of the licensee or of his suspicious movements or of his criminal designs and conspiracy in reinforcement of the evidence of enmity. It is not possible to give an exhaustive list of facts and circumstances from which an inference of threat to public security or public peace may be deduced. The District Magistrate will have to take a decision on the facts of each case. But in the instant case there is nothing in his order to indicate that it was necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to cancel the license of the petitioner. Mere enmity is not sufficient."

20. Thus, in Masiuddin's case (supra) it was held that a license may be cancelled, inter alia on the ground that it is necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety, to do so. Mere existence of enmity between the licensee and another person would not establish the necessary connection with security of public peace or public safety.

21. In Sheo Prasad Misra Vs. The District Magistrate Basti and others reported in 1978 Allahabad Weekly Cases, 122, (D.B.) this Court after considering Masiuddin case (supra) held in paragraph 4 which is reproduced as under:

4. "Learned Counsel for the petitioner contended that, while there was material before the licencing authority, viz., the District Magistrate, to show that some reports had been lodged against the petitioner, there was neither any material to warrant a conclusion that it was necessary to cancel the licence for security of public peace or public safety nor was a finding to that effect recorded. Learned Counel referred us to a decision of this Court in case of Masi Uddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, 1972 ALJ 572, where this Court held:

"A licence may be cancelled, inter alia, on the ground that it is "necessary for the security of public peace or for public safety, to do so. The District Magistrate has not recorded a finding that it was necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to revoke the licend. The mere existence of enmity between a licencee and another person would not establish the "necessary" connection with security of the public peace or public safety."

In case before us also the District Magistrate has not recorded any finding that it was necessary to cancel the licence for the security of public peace or for public safety. All that he has done is to have referred to some applications and reports lodged against the petitioner. The mere fact that some reports had been lodged against the petitioner could not form basis for cancelling the licence. The order passed by the District Magistrate and that passed by the Commissioner cannot, therefore, be upheld on the basis of any thing contained in Sections 17(3) (b) of the Act"

22. In Chhanga Prasad Sahu Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 1984 AWC 145 (FB), after noticing the provisions of Section 17 (3) of the Arms Act the Full Bench in paragraph 5 held as follows:

"A perusal of abovementioned provisions indicates that the licensing authority has been given the power to suspend or revoe an arms licence only if any of the conditions mentioned in sub-clauses (a) to (e) of sub-section (3) of Section 17 of Act exists." sub section (5) of Section 17 makes it obligatory upon the licensing authority to, while passing the order revoking/suspending an arms licence, record in writing the reasons therefore and to, on demand, furnish a brief statement thereof to the holder of the license unless it considers that it will not be in the public interest to do so."

In paragraph-9 it has been emphasised as under:-

"it is true that in order to revoke/suspend an arms licence, the licensing authority has necessarily to come to the conclusion that the facts justifying revocation/suspension of licence mentioned in grounds (a) to (e) of section 17 exist"

23. In Ilam Singh v. Commissioner, Meerut Division and others [1987 ALL. L.J. 416] this Court held that under Section 17(3) (b) the licencing authority may suspend or revoke a licence if it becomes necessary for the security of public peace or public safety. In this case no report was lodged against the licensee indicating that he had used the gun in the incident which led to the breach of public peace or public safety. It was held that there must be some positive incident in which the petitioner participated and used his gun which led to breach of public peace or public safety and in the absence of the use of the gun by the licencee against the security of public peace or public safety the licence of the gun could not be suspended or revoked. The relevant paragraphs 4 and 5 of the judgment in Ilam Singh (supra) are being reproduced as under:

"4. Having heard the learned counsel for the petitioner I am of the view that the submissions raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner cannot be said to be without substance. Section 17(3) (b) of the Arms Act enacts that licensing authority may by order in writing suspend a licence or revoke the same if it becomes necessary for the security of public peace or the public safety. When once a person has been granted a licence and he acquires a gun, it becomes one of his properties. In the present case no incident of breach of security of the public peace or public sfety at the behest of the petitioner has been pointed out. Even no report was lodged against the petitioner indicating that he used his gun in the incident which led to the breach of public peace or public safety. Even though some reports might have been lodged but that could not be said to be a sufficient reason to cancel the licence."

5. There must be some positive incident in which the petitioner participated and used his gun which led to the breach of the public peace or public safety. In the absence of the use of the gun by the petitioner against the security of public peace or public safety the licence of the gun of the petitioner was not liable either to be suspended or revoked. The licensing authority as well as the Commissioner committed errors on the face of the record in cancelling the licence of the gun held by the petitioner in utter disregard of the provisions of Section 17 (3) (b) of the Arms Act. In view of these facts the impugned orders cannot be sustained and deserves to be quashed."

24. In Habib v. State of U.P. and others [2002 (44) ACC 783] this Court held that mere involvement in a criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest and the order cancelling or revoking licence of fire arm was not justified. Paragraph 3 of this judgment reads as under:

"3. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of the licence under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a Division Bench of this court reported in Sheo Prasad Misra Vs. The District Magistrate, Basti and others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision reported in Masi Uddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest and the order cancelling or revoking the licence of fire arm has been set aside."

25. In Satish Singh v. District Magistrate, Sultanpur 2009 (4) ADJ 33 (LB), this Court elaborately explained what is detrimental to the security of the public peace or public safety and held that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest. Paragraphs 6 and 7 of Satish Singh case (supra) are being reproduced as under:

"6. A plain reading of section 17 indicates that the arms licence can be cancelled or suspended on the ground that the licensing authority deems it necessary for security of the public peace or the public safety. In the present case, while passing the impugned order, neither the District Magistrate nor the appellate authority has recorded the finding as to how and under what circumstance, the possession of arms licence by the petitioner, is detrimental to the public peace or the public security and safety. Merely because criminal case is pending more so, does not seem to attract the provisions of section 17 of the Arms Act. To attract the provisions of section 17 of the Arms Act with regard to public peace, security and safety it shall always be incumbent on the authorities to record a finding that how, under what circumstances and what manner, the possession of arms licence shall be detrimental to public peace, safety and security. In absence of such finding merely on the ground that a criminal case is pending without any mitigating circumstances with regard to endanger of public peace, safety and security, the provisions contained under Section 17 of the Arms Act, shall not satisfy.

7. Needless to say that right to life and liberty are guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India and the arms licences are granted for personal safety and security after due inquiry by the authorities in accordance with the provisions contained in Arms Act, 1959. The provisions of section 17 of the Arms Act with regard to suspension or cancellation of arms licence cannot be invoked lightly in an arbitrary manner. The provisions contained under Section 17 of the Arms Act should be construed strictly and not liberally. The conditions provided therein, should be satisfied by the authorities before proceeding ahead to cancel or suspend an arms licence. We may take notice of the fact that any reason whatsoever, the crime rate is raising day by day. The Government is not in a position to provide security to each and every person individually. Right to possess arms is statutory right but right to life and liberty is fundamental guaranteed by Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Corollary to it, it is citizen's right to possess firearms for their personal safety to save their family from miscreants. It is often said that ordinarily in a civilised society, only civilised persons require arms licence for their safety and security and not the criminals. Of course, in case the government feels that arms licence are abused for oblique motive or criminal activities, then appropriate measures may be adopted to check such mal-practice. But arms licence should not be suspended in a routine manner mechanically, without application of mind and keeping in view the letter and spirit of Section 17 of the Arms Act."

26. In the case of Satish (supra) due to accidental firing some one was killed. This court held that the same shall not amount to breach of public peace or tranquility. This Court also held that the authorities have to record finding based on material evidence with regard to breach of public peace and safety while cancelling the arms licence.

27. In Vishal Varshney Vs. State of U.P. and another [2009 (75) ALR 593] this Court held that cancellation of a fire arm licence merely on the ground of apprehension or likelihood of misuse of fire arm is illegal. In Jageshwar Vs. State of U.P. and others 2009 (67) Allahabad Criminal Cases 157 this court held that in view of the settled law the licence under the Arms Act cannot be suspended on the ground of mere involvement in a criminal case or criminal trial or on the basis of mere apprehension of misuse of fire arm by the licensee.

28. In Thakur Prasad Vs. State of U.P. and others reported 2013(31) LCD 1460 (LB) this Court after referring to the earlier pronouncements in the case of Ram Murli Madhukar Vs. District Magistrate, Sitapur [1998 (16) LCD 905] and Habib Vs. State of U.P., 2002 ACC 783, held in paragraphs 10 and 11 as follows:

"10. "Public peace" or "public safety" do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order public safety means safety of the public at large and not safety of few persons only and before passing of the order of cancellation of arm license as per Section 17 (3) of the Act the Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and safety involved in the case in view of the judgment given by this court in the case of Ram Murli Madhukar v. District Magistrate, Sitapur [1998 916) LCD 905], wherein it has been held that license can not be suspended or revoked on the ground of public interest (Jan-hit) merely on the registration of an F.I.R. and pendency of a criminal case."

11. Further, this Court in the case of Habib v. State of U.P. 2002 ACC 783 held as under:

"The question as to whether mere Involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of the licence under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a Division Bench of this Court in Sheo prasad Misra Vs. District Magistrate, Basti and Others, 1978 AWC 122, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision in Masi Uddin Vs.

Commissioner, Allahabad, 1972 ALJ 573, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot, in any way, affect the public security or public interest and the order cancelling or revoking the licence of fire arm has been set aside. The present impugned orders also suffer from the same infirmity as was pointed out by the Division Bench in the above mentioned cases. I am in full agreement with the view taken by the Division Bench that these orders cannot be sustained and deserves to be quashed and are hereby quashed.

There is yet another reason that during the pendency of the present writ petition, the petitioner has been acquitted from the aforesaid criminal case and at present there is neither any case pending, nor any conviction has been attributed to the petitioner, as is evident from Annexure SA-I and II to the supplementary affidavit filed by the petitioner. In this view of the matter, the petitioner is entitled to have the fire-arm licence."

29. Thus, it has been held by this Court that "Public peace" or "public safety" do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order. Public safety means safety of the public at large and not safety of few persons only. The Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and public safety before passing the order under Section 17 (3) of the Act.

30. In Mewalal @ Kunnu v. Commissioner, Allahabad Division, Allahabad and another [2014 (32) LCD 576] it was held that the licence cannot be refused/suspended/cancelled merely because there is ordinary breach of law and order. Paragraph 13, 14 and 16 of the said judgment read as under:

"13. In the case of Rama Kushwaha v. State of U.P. & others, reported in 2011 (29) LCD 1045 it has been held that a license cannot be refused/suspended/cancelled merely because there is an ordinary breach of law and order.

14. The relevant paras of the aforesaid judgment are being reproduced hereinunder:

8. Relying upon Ganesh Chandra Bhatt v. District Magistrate Almora; AIR 1993 All, 291, learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that this court has held in clear words that a licence can not be refused/suspended/cancelled merely because there is an ordinary breach of law and order.

9. "Public peace' or "public safety' do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order public safety means safety of the public at larger and not safety of few persons only. Before passing of the order in exercise of power conferred under Section 17 (3) of the Act the Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and safety involved in the case.

10. In Ram Murli Madhukar v. District Magistrate, Sitapur [1998 (16) LCD 905], this Court has held that licence cannot be suspended or revoked on the ground of public interest (Janhit).

11. It is well settled in law that mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of abuse of arms act are not sufficient grounds for passing the order of suspension or revocation of licence under Section 17 (3) of the Act. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of licence under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a division Bench of this Court Sheo Prasad Misra Vs. The District Magistrate, Basti and others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision of Msiuddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest. The law propounded in the said decisions has been subsequently followed in Habib Vs. Staate of U.P. reported in 2002 ACC 783, Ram Sanehi Vs. Commissioner, Devi Patan Division, Gonda and another.

16. In the case of Rajendra Singh v. Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow and others, reported in 2011 (29) LCD 1041 "Public Peace' or "public Safety' has been defined. The relevant paras 6 and 7 read as under:

6. "Public peace' or "public safety' do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order public safety means safety of the public at large and not safety of few persons only. Before passing of the order in exercise of power conferred under Section 17 (3) of the Act the Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace annd safety involved in the case.

7. it is well settled in law that mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of abuse of arms act are not sufficient ground for passing the order of suspension or revocation of licence under Section 17 (3) of the Act. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal cae or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of licence under Arms Act, has been dealth with by a Division Bench of this court Sheo Prasad Misra v. The District Magistrate, Basti and others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision of Masiuddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest. The law propounded in the said decisions has been subsequently followed in Habib v. State of U.P. reported in 2002 ACC 783."

31. In Chandrabali Tewari v. The Commissioner, Faizabad [2014 (32) LCD 1696] this Court again held that mere pendency of criminal case is no ground to cancel fire arm licence. It has also been held that as in that case there were no allegations that the licenced gun was ever taken out by the licensee and was used in the act, the order cancelling petitioner's fire arm licence was quashed. Paragraph 12 of the said judgment is being reproduced as under:

"12. In the case reported in [2012 (79) ACC 824] Allahabad High Court, Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 30724 of 1999 His Lordship has observed as follows:

"However, the impugned order nowhere indicates that the petitioner had used his licensed firearm or for that matter any firearm at all. The allegation in the impugned order is of physical assault (without use of firearm) and use of abusive language. Such an allegation, in my opinion cannot be the foundation of an impression by the District Magistrate that the petitioner, if allowed to retain his firearm license, would be a threat to future public peace and order."

32. In Ghanshyam Gupta v. State of U.P. and others [2016 (34) LCD 3035] this Court has again held that the necessary ingredients to invoke jurisdiction of the licencing authority in terms of Section 17 were clearly lacking and no finding had been returned on the basis of materials produced in that regard by the licencing authority, which must justify passing of the order of cancellation. Paragraph 9 of the said judgment is being quoted as under:

"9. In a recent decision of Lucknow Bench of this court in Surya Narain Mishra v. Stae of U.P. and others, reported in 2015 (7) ADJ 510, similar view has been taken by this Court relying upon subsequent decisions. Para-14 of the judgment is reproduced:

"14. In the case of Raj Kumar Verma v. State of U.P., 2013 (80) ACC 231 this court in paragraph No.3 held as under:-

"The ground for issue of show-cause notice, suspension and ultimately cancellation of the licence is that one and precisely one criminal case was registered against the petitioner. The District Magistrate has also held that the petitioner has been enlarged on bail. He has gone further to observe that if the licence remained intact, the petitioner, may disturb public peace and tranquility. The same findings have been given by the Commissioner, Unmindful of the fact that this Court is repeating the law of the land, but the deaf ears of the administrative officers do not ready to succumb the law of the land. The settled law is that mere involvement in a criminal case without any finding that involvement in such criminal case shall be detrimental to public peace and tranqulity shall not create the ground for the cancellation of Armed Licence. In Ram Suchi v. Commissioner, Devipatan Division reported in 2004 (22) LCD 1643, it was held that this law was relied upon in Balram Singh Vs. Satate of U.P. 2006 (24) LCD 1359. Mere apprehension without substance is simply an opinion which has no legs to stand. Personal whims are not allowed to be reflected while acting as a public servant."

33. In Jogendra Singh vs. State of U.P. and others [2018 (8) ADJ 871] this Court clearly held that for cancellation of a fire arm licence there had to be a definite finding that the possession of fire arm with the licensee was endangering public peace and public safety. In the absence of such finding it could safely be presumed that the licencing authority had erred in cancelling the fire arm licence. This Court also noticed that the State Government had issued guidelines which were circulated to all the District Magistrates to follow the same in the matters of cancellation/revocation of fire arm licence. The guidelines were reproduced as under:-

आयुध अधिनियम, 1959 की धारा - 17 मे अनुज्ञप्तियों मे परिवर्तन-परिवर्धन, उनके निलम्बन एवं प्रतिसंहरण के संबंध मे व्यवस्था

दी गयी है। उपरोक्त के अतिरिक्त मा0 सर्वोच्च न्यायालय एवं मा0 उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा भी समयकश् पर तत्सम्बन्ध मे विस्तश्त आदेश पारित किये गये है। गृह (पुलिस) अनुभाग-5 के शासनादेश संख्या-271 आर/छः-पु0-5-91-573/01, दिनांक 25.02.1991 द्वारा आग्नेयास्त्र लाइसेंसों का निलम्बन/निरस्तीकरण व शासनादेश संख्या-3017 आर/छः-पु0-5-99, दिनांक 15.05.1999 द्वारा व्यक्तिगत शस्त्र लाइसेंस(R) का दुरूप्रयोग रोकने के संबंध मे निर्देश दिये गये है।

2. उक्त के दृश्टिगत मुझे यह कहने का निर्देश हुआ है कि व्यक्तिगत शस्त्र लाइसेसों के अनुज्ञप्तियों मे परिवर्तन-परिवर्धन, उनके निलम्बन एवं प्रतिसंहरण के संबंध में निम्नानुसार कार्यवाही सुनिश्चित किया जाय-

(1) जिला मजिस्ट्रट/लाइसेसिग प्राधिकारी लिखित आदेश द्वारा अग्नेयास्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति का सुनिश्चित कालावधि के लिए निलम्बित कर सकता है या अनुज्ञप्ति को प्रतिसंहरित कर सकता है।

(2) उपरोक्त निलम्बन/प्रतिसंहरण तभी किया जाएगा जब जिला मजिस्ट्रट/लाइसेसिग प्राधिकारी को यह समाधान हो जाए कि-

(क) अनुज्ञप्तिधारी किसी विधि के अंतर्गत आयुध रखने हेतु प्रतिशिद्ध है या विकश्तचित्त है या किन्ही अन्य कारणों से आयुध अधिनियम मे अनुज्ञप्ति के अयोग्य है, अथवा

(ख) जब जिला मजिस्ट्रट/लाइसेसिग प्राधिकारी लोकशांति की सुरक्षा या "लोकक्षेत्र" के लिए अनुज्ञप्ति को निलम्बित या प्रतिसंहरित करने के युक्तियुक्त आधार पाता है, आवश्यक समझता है अथवा

(ग) जबकि यह प्रमाण हो कि अनुज्ञप्ति गलत जानकारी के आधार पर प्राप्त की गई है, अथवा

(घ) जबकि अनुज्ञप्ति की किसी शर्त का उल्लंघन किया गया है, अथवा

(ड़) जबकि अनुज्ञप्ति धारक को अपना शस्त्र परिदत्त करने का निर्देश दिया गया हो और उसके द्वारा शस्त्र का परिदान न किया गया हो।

(3) अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी को अनंत समय के लिए शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति निलंबित अथवा प्रतिसंहरित (निरस्त) नहीं करनी चाहिए। अनुज्ञप्ति के निलम्बन अथवा प्रतिसंहरण की अवधि सुनिश्चित होनी चाहिए।

(4) अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी को लाइसेंस निलंबित अथवा निरस्त करने का अधिकार आयुध अधिनियम की धा मजिस्टे्ट रा 17 (3) के अंतर्गत प्रदत्त है और उक्त कार्यवाही करने से पूर्व अनुज्ञप्तिधारी को सुने जाने का अवसर प्रदान किया जाना आवश्यक है।

(5) अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी मामले के तथ्यों और परिस्थितियों पर विचार करते हुए यदि यह उचित पाते हैं कि प्रकरण में तात्कालिक प्रभाव से आयुध अनुज्ञप्ति का अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी द्वारा परिदान किया जाना आवश्यक है तो ऐसा करने का आदेश अभिलिखित किया जाये।

(6) मात्र किसी आपराधिक मामले का लम्बित रहना शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति निरस्त/निलम्बित करने का पर्याप्त आधार नहीं है। यहाॅ यह भी स्पश्ट करना समीचीन है कि मात्र एक आपराधिक प्रकरण के लम्बित होने के आधार पर भी विशिश्ट मामलों में आयुध अनुज्ञप्ति को निलंबित/निरस्त किया जा सकता है, परंतु अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी को ऐसा करने के पर्याप्त आधार अपने आदेश में अभिलिखित किये जाय। यह भी आवश्यक है कि ऐसे आधार अभिलिखित करते समय यह स्पश्ट उल्लिखित किया जाय कि अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी को समाधान हो गया कि प्रश्नगत आपराधिक प्रकरण की प्रकृति ऐसी है कि वह आमजन और समाज की लोकशांति एवं लोक़क्षेम के प्रतिकूल है और यदि अनुज्ञप्तिधारी को

अनुज्ञप्ति रखने दी गई तो लोकशांति व लोकक्षेम पर प्रतिकूल प्रभाव पड़ेगा।

(7) यदि किसी शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति के निलंबन या प्रतिसंहरण की कार्यवाही आपराधिक वाद के आधार पर की गई हैं तो यदि उक्त आपराधिक अभियोग, दोशमुक्ति में परिवर्तित हो जाता हैं तो शस्त्र निलम्बन/निरस्त्रीकरण के आदेश का औचित्य भी समाप्त हो जाता है, परंतु यदि उक्त अभियेाग राज्य द्वारा अपील योग्य पाया जाए एवं उक्त प्रकरण की अपील की जाए तो राज्य को उक्त दोशमुक्ति के आदेश की अपील के निर्णय तक अनुज्ञप्तिधारी की शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति निलंबित/प्रतिसंहरित रह सकती है। अतः ऐसे प्रकरण जहाॅ जिला मजिस्टे◌ट के समक्ष दोशमुक्ति के अभिकथन द्वारा अपने शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति निलंबन/निरस्त्रीकरण की कार्यवाही को अपास्त करने की प्रार्थना की जाए, वहाॅ जिला मजिस्टे◌ट यह जानकारी करना सुनिश्चित करेंगे कि प्रकरण में कोई राज्य अपील योजित/प्रस्तावित तो नहीं की गई हैं? तथा उसके उपरान्त ही किसी निर्णय पर पहुचेंगे।

(8) जहाॅ पर अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी द्वारा यह समाधान किया जा रहा है कि अनुज्ञप्तिधारी का कृत्य लोकशांति और लोकक्षेम के प्रतिकूल है तो इसका तात्पर्य कानून व्यवस्था बिगड़ने की सामान्य परिस्थितियां¢ से नहीं समझा जाएगा, अपितु लोकशांति और लोकक्षेम प्रभावित होना तथा समाज पर व्यापक असर से तात्पर्यित है।

(9) शस्त्र निरस्त्रीकरण की कार्यवाही लम्बित रहने अथवा कोई आपराधिक विचारण लम्बित रहने के दौरान अनुज्ञप्तिधारी शस्त्र रखने के लिए अधिकार स्वरूप माॅग नहीं कर सकता हैं क्योंकि शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति एक अधिकार नहीं मात्र एक सुविधा है।

(10) अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी/जिला मजिस्टे◌ट अपने तात्विक समाधान के लिए पुलिस, अभियोजन एवं अन्य एजेंसियों से आख्या आहूत कर सकता है। इसके साथ ही जिला मजिस्टे◌ट द्वारा प्रकरण से संबंधित सभी सुसंगत अभिलेख पर विचार करने तथा मजिस्टे◌ट अनुज्ञप्तिधारी की पारिवारिक पश्ठभूमि, उसके पूर्व आपराधिक कश्त्य और उसका आपराधिक इतिहास को विचार में लेने के उपरांत ही समुचित आदेश पारित किया जाय।

(11) अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी/जिला मजिस्टे◌ट आयुध अधिनियम की धारा 17 के उपबंधों के अंतर्गत यह समाधान होने पर कि कोई अनुज्ञप्तिधारी किसी गंभीर अपराध में सम्मिलित होने, दोशसिद्ध होने या किसी अन्य आनुशांगिक कारण, जिसे वो तात्विक रूप से उचित पाता हो, के आधार पर अनुज्ञप्तिकारी को अनुज्ञप्ति धारण करने के लिए अयोग्य व्यक्ति की श्रेणी में पाता है तो वह शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति को निलंबित/प्रतिसंहरित कर सकता है।

(12) अग्नेयास्त्रों के लाइसेंस सुरक्षा की दश्ष्टि से स्वीकश्त किये जाते हैं। इनका प्रयोग शादी-विवाह अथवा सार्वजनिक स्◌ाि◌ानों पर प्रदर्शन नहीं किया जाना चाहिए। ऐसा किये जाने से जनता में भय का वातावरण व्याप्त होता है। जो व्यक्ति शस्त्रों का प्रयोग प्रदर्शन हेतु अथवा जनता में भय व्याप्त करते हुए पाए जाएॅ, उनके शस्त्र लाइसेंस की शर्त संख्या 5 का उल्लंघन करने के आरोप में एवं शस्त्र अधिनियम की धारा 17 (3) (ख), (घ), (ड़) के अधीन तत्काल निरस्त करते हुए विधिक कार्यवाही की जा सकती है।

(13) यदि लाइसेंसिंग अधिकारी के समक्ष सामग्री है और उन्हें यह स्पश्ट हो जाता है कि लाइसेंसी के पास शस्त्र रहने से शांति एवं जनसुरक्षा खतरे में पड़ सकती है, तो वह (लाइसेंसिंग अधिकारी) उक्त तथ्यों को अभिलिखित करने के उपरांत सीधे अथवा किसी जाॅच अथवा लाइसेंसी की सुनवाई का अवसर दिये बिना लाइसेंस निलम्बित/निरस्त

कर सकते हैं, परंतु उन मामलों में जिनमें लाइसेंसिंग अधिकारी को यह स्पश्ट है कि लाइसेंसी के पास शस्त्र रहने से जनशान्ति या जनसुरक्षा खतरे में पड़ सकती है और सही स्थित की जानकारी हेतु जाॅच लंबित हो तो ऐसी जाॅच के दौरान लाइसेंस निरस्त नहीं किया जा सकता है।

(14) आयुध अधिनियम की धारा 17 के अंतर्गत किसी कार्यवाही को प्रचलित करने से पहले जिला मजिस्टे"ट/अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी के लिए यह आवश्यक है कि वह अपने समक्ष प्रस्तुत पत्रावली पर अनुज्ञप्तिधारी की शस्त्र अनुभाग से मूल पत्रावली में संलग्न शस्त्र आवेदन, शपथपत्र, आख्या एवं सुसंगत दस्तावेजों का सूक्ष्म अध्ययन कर लें, ताकि यह सुनिश्चित किया जा सके कि अनुज्ञप्तिधारी द्वारा गलत तथ्यों के आधार पर शस्त्र आवेदन तो नहीं किया गया है या किसी शर्त का उल्लंघन तो नहीं किया गया है?

(15) उपरोक्त निर्देशों के अतिरिक्त आयुध अधिनियम-1959, आयुध नियमावली-2016 समय समय पर माननीय सर्वोच्च न्यायालय एवं माननीय उच्च न्यायालय इलाहाबाद द्वारा पारित आदेशों, भारत सरकार एवं राज्य सरकार द्वारा समयकभ् पर निर्गत निर्देशों का भी सम्यक अनुपालन किया जाए एवं यदि उक्त का अनुज्ञप्तिधारी द्वारा उल्लंघन पाया जाता है तो उसके शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति के निलंबन/निरस्तीकरण की विधि सम्मत कार्यवाही सुनिश्चित की जाय।

"4. It is apparent from the record that the aforesaid finding is perverse and against the record as the petitioner has already been acquitted in Case Crime No. 170/93. The non-cognizance report No. 242/96 dated 7.9.1996 under Sections 252 and 504 I.P.C. was also not investigated. Involvement and pendency of a case crime is no ground for cancellation of fire-arm licence. It is settled law, that after acquittal the very basis for cancellation of the arms licence stands vitiated. In this regard reference of the decision rendered in Lalji v. Commisioner, Kanpur and Anr. MANU/UP.0661/1999 has been made.

5. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal cae or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of the licence under Section 17 of the Arms Act has been considered by a Division Bench of this Court in Sheo Prasad Misra v. The District Magistrate Basti and others, 1979 (16) ACC 6 (Sum) wherein the Division Bench relied upon an earlier decision in Masi Uddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, 1972 ALJ 573. In both the aforesaid cases it has been held mere involvement in a criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest. In view of this proposition of law the order cancelling or revoking the licence of the petitioner or the aforesaid ground of involvement and pendency of a criminal case is not tenable."

35. From the aforesaid judgments some of the following propositions of law may be summarized as under:

(i) Right to hold fire arm licence granted by the authorities in accordance with the provisions contained in the Arms Act, 1959 is a valuable right of an individual.

(ii) Licencing authority has the power to suspend or revoke an arm's licence only if any of the conditions mentioned in Sub-Clauses (a) to (e) of Sub Section (3) of Section 17 of the Arms Act exists.

(iii) The provisions of Section 17 of the Act cannot be invoked lightly in an arbitrary manner.

(iv) The licencing authority has to satisfy itself if it is necessary for the security of public peace or for public safety to suspend or revoke the licence.

(v) Such satisfaction of the licencing authority must be expressed in the order and must be based on relevant material.

(vi) Public peace or public safety do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order. Public safety means safety of the public at large and not of few persons only.

(vii) Mere involvement or pendency of a criminal case does not, of its own, necessarily affect public peace or public safety. The licencing authority in each case has to record a finding as to how and under what circumstances the possession of the arm licence is detrimental to the public peace or public safety.

(viii) On mere apprehension of misuse of fire arm or that the licencee would extend threat to the persons of the weaker section, the arm licence cannot be cancelled. There must be some positive incident in which the licencee participated or used his arm, leading to breach of public peace or public security.

(ix) After acquittal of the licencee from the criminal case, the very basis of cancellation of arm licence is vanished.

36. In the present case the petitioner's licence was cancelled by the District Magistrate on the ground of pendency of criminal case against him. The petitioner was later on acquitted of the criminal case by order dated 17.1.2003. A perusal of the order of acquittal does not show the use of fire arm. After acquittal the very basis of the order of cancellation vanished. The finding of the District Magistrate as affirmed by the Commissioner, that it was not in the interest of public peace and the public security that the licence remained with the petitioner/licencee, is not based on any evidence/material, except the police reports which in their turn were in view of the pendency of the criminal case against the petitioner. On mere apprehension expressed in the impugned orders that the petitioner would misuse the fire arm and would extend threat to the persons of the weaker section of the society, the arm licence could not be cancelled.

37. I do not find any substance in the submission advanced by learned Standing Counsel in support of the impugned orders, in view of the above discussion.

38. The writ petition deserves to be allowed and is hereby allowed. The orders impugned are quashed. However, quashing of the impugned orders would not result in revival of the petitioner's fire arm licence automatically. The petitioner may apply for arm licence afresh under the Arms Act, 1959 read with Arms Rules, 2016 before the Licencing Authority, along with a certified copy of this Judgment, if so desires, to have the arm licence. If any such application is filed before the licencing authority within a period of 30 days, the same shall be considered and decided expeditiously by the licencing authority strictly in accordance with law but the licencing authority shall not refuse the arm licence on the ground of the impugned orders which have been quashed by this judgment.

39. Writ petition is allowed. No orders as to costs.

A. Civil Law-Arms Act, 1959 – Section 17(3) – Word 'Public peace' or 'Public safety' – Meaning – Obligation of authority – Public peace or public safety do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order – Public safety means safety of the public at large and not safety of few persons only – The Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and public safety before passing the order. (Para 29)

B. Civil Law-Arms Act, 1959 – Section 17(3) – Cancellation of Licence – Ground of pendency of criminal case – Acquittal – After acquittal the very basis of the order of cancellation vanished – The finding of the District Magistrate as affirmed by the Commissioner, that it was not in the interest of public peace and the public security that the licence remained with the petitioner/licencee, is not based on any evidence/material, except the police reports which in their turn were in view of the pendency of the criminal case against the petitioner – On mere apprehension expressed in the impugned orders that the petitioner would misuse the fire arm and would extend threat to the persons of the weaker section of the society, the arm licence could not be cancelled. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. I have heard Sri Akash Gupta holding brief of Sri T.S. Dabas, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Rakesh Kumar Singh, learned Standing Counsel appearing for Respondent Nos. 1 and 2.

2. By means of this writ petition the petitioner has challenged the order dated 2.1.2003, passed by the District Magistrate, Rampur in Case No. 397 of 1999 under Section 17 of the Arms Act, 1959, (State Vs. Raghuveer Singh) (Annexure-4 to the writ petition) by which the petitioner's Fire Arms Licence No. 1240/TT of double-barrel gun No. 7882 was cancelled. The appellate order dated 24.8.2006 passed by the Commissioner, Moradabad Mandal, Moradabad dismissing the petitioner's Appeal No. 26/02-03 under Section 18 of The Arms Act, 1959 (Ram Prasad Vs. State of U.P.) District Rampur (Annexure-6 to the writ petition) is also under challenge.

3. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the petitioner was granted licence No. 1240/TT of double-barrel gun on 2.9.1995. A criminal case, bearing Crime Case No. 181 of 1999 under Sections 323, 504, 506 IPC and Section 3(1) (X) of The Schedule Caste and Scheduled Tribe (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, P.S. Milak, District Rampur, was registered against the petitioner. In view thereof, the police of Police Station-Milak submitted a report dated 20.7.1999 to the District Magistrate/Collector, Rampur recommending cancellation of the petitioner's fire arms licence, as it was not in the public interest that the fire arm remain with the petitioner.

4. A show cause notice dated 10.8.1999 was issued to the petitioner as to why his fire arm licence be not cancelled on the aforesaid ground of pendency of criminal case.

5. The petitioner filed reply to the show cause notice, that the petitioner did not misuse the fire arm and the Criminal Case No. 181 of 1999 was lodged due to partybandi in the village, which was pending in the court. The fire arm licence was not liable to be cancelled and the show cause notice deserved to be withdrawn.

6. The District Magistrate, Rampur after considering the petitioner's reply, by order dated 2.1.2003 cancelled fire arm licence on the ground that in view of the pendency of the criminal case against the petitioner and considering the police reports dated 5.7.1999 and 8.10.2000, it was necessary to cancel the fire arm licence in public interest and public security.

7. After the order of cancellation dated 2.1.2003, the petitioner was acquitted in Session Trial No. 559 of 2000, arising out of Crime Case No. 181 of 1999 under Sections 323, 504, 506 IPC and Section 3(1) (X) of the Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 by judgment dated 17.1.2003 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Rampur.

8. The petitioner filed appeal No. 25/02-03 (Raghuveer Singh Vs. State of U.P.) under Section 18 of the Arms Act, 1959 challenging the order of cancellation of fire arm licence dated 2.1.2003, before the Commissioner, Moradabad Region, Moradabad. The petitioner filed copy of the order of his acquittal dated 17.1.2003 in the aforesaid appeal.

9. The Commissioner, Moradabad Region, Moradabad dismissed the petitioner's appeal by order dated 24.8.2006 and affirmed the order of cancellation dated 2.1.2003, taking the same view as in the order dated 2.1.2003 based on the police report that if the licence was restored, the petitioner will misuse the fire arm and terrorise the person of weaker sections. With respect to the judgment of acquittal dated 17.1.2003, it held that the petitioner was acquitted as the witnesses became hostile and there was some compromise between the accused and the victim.

10. The present petition has been filed challenging the aforesaid orders dated 24.8.2006 and 2.1.2003.

11. The submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that mere pendency of a criminal case was no ground to cancel the petitioner's fire arm licence. He submits that at the time when the order dated 2.1.2003 cancelling the fire arm licence was passed the criminal case was pending but after the order dated 2.1.2003, the petitioner was acquitted in the criminal case by judgment of the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Rampur and in view of the petitioner's acquittal, the appellate authority ought to have set aside the order of cancellation. The petitioner has no previous criminal history and in Crime Case No. 181 of 1999, the fire arm was not involved.

12. The learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in Hari Prasad Vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2005 (5) AWC 4939 (Allahabad).

13. On the other hand the learned Standing Counsel has argued that the order of cancellation was passed on the ground of pendency of the criminal case and even after acquittal, in view of the police reports dated 26.7.1999 and 8.10.2000, to the effect that if the fire arm licence was restored the petitioner would extend threat to the weaker sections and misuse the fire arm, the impugned orders deserve to be maintained.

14. I have considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsels for the parties and have perused the records.

15. Perusal of the impugned order dated 2.1.2003 passed by the District Magistrate shows that the fire arm licence has been cancelled on the ground that Criminal Case No. 181 of 1999 under Sections 323, 504, 506 IPC and Section 3(1) (x) of The Schedule Caste and Scheduled Tribe (Prevention of Atrocities)

Act, 1989 was pending against the petitioner and in view thereof the police report was submitted that if the licence was restored the petitioner might misuse the fire arm. A perusal of the impugned appellate order also shows that the appeal has been dismissed on the ground of the police reports that the fire arm might be misused, although the petitioner was later on acquitted in the criminal case on 17.1.2003.

16. The matter which requires consideration is, whether on the ground of pendency of the criminal case the petitioner's fire arm licence could be cancelled and his appeal could be dismissed, notwithstanding his acquittal on 17.1.2003. It also requires consideration if the ground in the impugned orders that if the petitioner's fire arm licence remain with the petitioner, it would not be in the public interest and public security, are justified for cancellation and based on substantial material.

17. Section 17 of the Arms Act, 1959, deals with variation, suspension and revocation of the fire arm licence. Section 17 is reproduced as under:

"17. Variation, suspension and revocation of licences.--

(1) The licensing authority may vary the conditions subject to which a licence has been granted except such of them as have been prescribed and may for that purpose require the licence-holder by notice in writing to deliver-up the licence to it within such time as may be specified in the notice.

(2) The licensing authority may, on the application of the holder of a licence, also vary the conditions of the licence except such of them as have been prescribed.

(3) The licensing authority may by order in writing suspend a licence for such period as it thinks fit or revoke a licence--

(a) if the licensing authority is satisfied that the holder of the licence is prohibited by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force, from acquiring, having in his possession or carrying any arms or ammunition, or is of unsound mind, or is for any reason unfit for a licence under this Act; or

(b) if the licensing authority deems it necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to suspend or revoke the licence; or

(c) if the licence was obtained by the suppression of material information or on the basis of wrong information provided by the holder of the licence or any other person on his behalf at the time of applying for it; or

(d) if any of the conditions of the licence has been contravened; or

(e) if the holder of the licence has failed to comply with a notice under sub-section (1) requiring him to deliver up the licence.

(4) The licensing authority may also revoke a licence on the application of the holder thereof.

(5) Where the licensing authority makes an order varying a licence under sub-section (1) or an order suspending or revoking a licence under sub-section (3), it shall record in writing the reasons therefor and furnish to the holder of the licence on demand a brief statement of the same unless in any case the licensing authority is of the opinion that it will not be in the public interest to furnish such statement.

(6) The authority to whom the licensing authority is subordinate may by order in writing suspend or revoke a licence on any ground on which it may be suspended or revoked by the licensing authority; and the foregoing provisions of this section shall, as far as may be, apply in relation to the suspension or revocation of a licence by such authority.

(7) A court convicting the holder of a licence of any offence under this Act or the rules made thereunder may also suspend or revoke the licence:
Provided that if the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the suspension or revocation shall become void.

(8) An order of suspension or revocation under sub-section (7) may also be made by an appellate court or by the High Court when exercising its powers of revision.

(9) The Central Government may, by order in the Official Gazette, suspend or revoke or direct any licensing authority to suspend or revoke all or any licences granted under this Act throughout India or any part thereof.

(10) On the suspension or revocation of a licence under this section the holder thereof shall without delay surrender the licence to the authority by whom it has been suspended or revoked or to such other authority as may be specified in this behalf in the order of suspension or revocation.

18. A bare reading of Section 17 (3) of the Arms Act makes it evident that the licencing authority may by order in writing suspend a licence for such period as he things fit or revoke a licence; (b) if the licencing authority deems it necessary for the security of public peace or for public safety to suspend or revoke the licence. These two expressions "Security of public peace" and "for public safety" are of utmost importance. The licencing authority must be satisfied of the existence of these pre conditions.

19. In Masiuddin Vs. Commissioner, Allahabad Division, Allahabad and another reported in 1972 A.L.J. 573 this Court held in paragraph Nos. 4 and 7 as under:

"4. After a license is granted, the right to hold the license and possess a gun is a valuable individual right in a free country. The security of public peace and public safety is a valuable social interest. Section 17 shows that Parliament had decided that neither of the two valuable interests should unduly impinge on the other Section 17 seeks to establish a fair equilibrium between the two contending interests. It says: Hear the licensee first; and then cancel the license "if necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety". True, there is no express provision for hearing. True, there is no express provision for hearing. But the nature of the right affected, the language of Sec. 17, the grounds for cancellation, the requirement of a reasoned order and the right of appeal plainly implicate a fair hearing procedure. Jai Narain Rai v. District Magistrate, Azamgarh. While cancelling a licence, the District Magistrate acts as a quasi-judicial authority.

7. A license may be cancelled, inter alia on the ground that it is "necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety" to do so. The District Magistrate has not recorded a finding that it was necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to revoke the license. The mere existence of enmity between a licensee and another person would not establish the "necessary' connection with security of public peace or public safety. There should be something more than mere enmity. There should be some evidence of the provocative utterances of the licensee or of his suspicious movements or of his criminal designs and conspiracy in reinforcement of the evidence of enmity. It is not possible to give an exhaustive list of facts and circumstances from which an inference of threat to public security or public peace may be deduced. The District Magistrate will have to take a decision on the facts of each case. But in the instant case there is nothing in his order to indicate that it was necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to cancel the license of the petitioner. Mere enmity is not sufficient."

20. Thus, in Masiuddin's case (supra) it was held that a license may be cancelled, inter alia on the ground that it is necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety, to do so. Mere existence of enmity between the licensee and another person would not establish the necessary connection with security of public peace or public safety.

21. In Sheo Prasad Misra Vs. The District Magistrate Basti and others reported in 1978 Allahabad Weekly Cases, 122, (D.B.) this Court after considering Masiuddin case (supra) held in paragraph 4 which is reproduced as under:

4. "Learned Counsel for the petitioner contended that, while there was material before the licencing authority, viz., the District Magistrate, to show that some reports had been lodged against the petitioner, there was neither any material to warrant a conclusion that it was necessary to cancel the licence for security of public peace or public safety nor was a finding to that effect recorded. Learned Counel referred us to a decision of this Court in case of Masi Uddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, 1972 ALJ 572, where this Court held:

"A licence may be cancelled, inter alia, on the ground that it is "necessary for the security of public peace or for public safety, to do so. The District Magistrate has not recorded a finding that it was necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to revoke the licend. The mere existence of enmity between a licencee and another person would not establish the "necessary" connection with security of the public peace or public safety."

In case before us also the District Magistrate has not recorded any finding that it was necessary to cancel the licence for the security of public peace or for public safety. All that he has done is to have referred to some applications and reports lodged against the petitioner. The mere fact that some reports had been lodged against the petitioner could not form basis for cancelling the licence. The order passed by the District Magistrate and that passed by the Commissioner cannot, therefore, be upheld on the basis of any thing contained in Sections 17(3) (b) of the Act"

22. In Chhanga Prasad Sahu Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 1984 AWC 145 (FB), after noticing the provisions of Section 17 (3) of the Arms Act the Full Bench in paragraph 5 held as follows:

"A perusal of abovementioned provisions indicates that the licensing authority has been given the power to suspend or revoe an arms licence only if any of the conditions mentioned in sub-clauses (a) to (e) of sub-section (3) of Section 17 of Act exists." sub section (5) of Section 17 makes it obligatory upon the licensing authority to, while passing the order revoking/suspending an arms licence, record in writing the reasons therefore and to, on demand, furnish a brief statement thereof to the holder of the license unless it considers that it will not be in the public interest to do so."

"it is true that in order to revoke/suspend an arms licence, the licensing authority has necessarily to come to the conclusion that the facts justifying revocation/suspension of licence mentioned in grounds (a) to (e) of section 17 exist"

23. In Ilam Singh v. Commissioner, Meerut Division and others [1987 ALL. L.J. 416] this Court held that under Section 17(3) (b) the licencing authority may suspend or revoke a licence if it becomes necessary for the security of public peace or public safety. In this case no report was lodged against the licensee indicating that he had used the gun in the incident which led to the breach of public peace or public safety. It was held that there must be some positive incident in which the petitioner participated and used his gun which led to breach of public peace or public safety and in the absence of the use of the gun by the licencee against the security of public peace or public safety the licence of the gun could not be suspended or revoked. The relevant paragraphs 4 and 5 of the judgment in Ilam Singh (supra) are being reproduced as under:

"4. Having heard the learned counsel for the petitioner I am of the view that the submissions raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner cannot be said to be without substance. Section 17(3) (b) of the Arms Act enacts that licensing authority may by order in writing suspend a licence or revoke the same if it becomes necessary for the security of public peace or the public safety. When once a person has been granted a licence and he acquires a gun, it becomes one of his properties. In the present case no incident of breach of security of the public peace or public sfety at the behest of the petitioner has been pointed out. Even no report was lodged against the petitioner indicating that he used his gun in the incident which led to the breach of public peace or public safety. Even though some reports might have been lodged but that could not be said to be a sufficient reason to cancel the licence."

5. There must be some positive incident in which the petitioner participated and used his gun which led to the breach of the public peace or public safety. In the absence of the use of the gun by the petitioner against the security of public peace or public safety the licence of the gun of the petitioner was not liable either to be suspended or revoked. The licensing authority as well as the Commissioner committed errors on the face of the record in cancelling the licence of the gun held by the petitioner in utter disregard of the provisions of Section 17 (3) (b) of the Arms Act. In view of these facts the impugned orders cannot be sustained and deserves to be quashed."

24. In Habib v. State of U.P. and others [2002 (44) ACC 783] this Court held that mere involvement in a criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest and the order cancelling or revoking licence of fire arm was not justified. Paragraph 3 of this judgment reads as under:

"3. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of the licence under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a Division Bench of this court reported in Sheo Prasad Misra Vs. The District Magistrate, Basti and others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision reported in Masi Uddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest and the order cancelling or revoking the licence of fire arm has been set aside."

25. In Satish Singh v. District Magistrate, Sultanpur 2009 (4) ADJ 33 (LB), this Court elaborately explained what is detrimental to the security of the public peace or public safety and held that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest. Paragraphs 6 and 7 of Satish Singh case (supra) are being reproduced as under:

"6. A plain reading of section 17 indicates that the arms licence can be cancelled or suspended on the ground that the licensing authority deems it necessary for security of the public peace or the public safety. In the present case, while passing the impugned order, neither the District Magistrate nor the appellate authority has recorded the finding as to how and under what circumstance, the possession of arms licence by the petitioner, is detrimental to the public peace or the public security and safety. Merely because criminal case is pending more so, does not seem to attract the provisions of section 17 of the Arms Act. To attract the provisions of section 17 of the Arms Act with regard to public peace, security and safety it shall always be incumbent on the authorities to record a finding that how, under what circumstances and what manner, the possession of arms licence shall be detrimental to public peace, safety and security. In absence of such finding merely on the ground that a criminal case is pending without any mitigating circumstances with regard to endanger of public peace, safety and security, the provisions contained under Section 17 of the Arms Act, shall not satisfy.

7. Needless to say that right to life and liberty are guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India and the arms licences are granted for personal safety and security after due inquiry by the authorities in accordance with the provisions contained in Arms Act, 1959. The provisions of section 17 of the Arms Act with regard to suspension or cancellation of arms licence cannot be invoked lightly in an arbitrary manner. The provisions contained under Section 17 of the Arms Act should be construed strictly and not liberally. The conditions provided therein, should be satisfied by the authorities before proceeding ahead to cancel or suspend an arms licence. We may take notice of the fact that any reason whatsoever, the crime rate is raising day by day. The Government is not in a position to provide security to each and every person individually. Right to possess arms is statutory right but right to life and liberty is fundamental guaranteed by Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Corollary to it, it is citizen's right to possess firearms for their personal safety to save their family from miscreants. It is often said that ordinarily in a civilised society, only civilised persons require arms licence for their safety and security and not the criminals. Of course, in case the government feels that arms licence are abused for oblique motive or criminal activities, then appropriate measures may be adopted to check such mal-practice. But arms licence should not be suspended in a routine manner mechanically, without application of mind and keeping in view the letter and spirit of Section 17 of the Arms Act."

26. In the case of Satish (supra) due to accidental firing some one was killed. This court held that the same shall not amount to breach of public peace or tranquility. This Court also held that the authorities have to record finding based on material evidence with regard to breach of public peace and safety while cancelling the arms licence.

27. In Vishal Varshney Vs. State of U.P. and another [2009 (75) ALR 593] this Court held that cancellation of a fire arm licence merely on the ground of apprehension or likelihood of misuse of fire arm is illegal. In Jageshwar Vs. State of U.P. and others 2009 (67) Allahabad Criminal Cases 157 this court held that in view of the settled law the licence under the Arms Act cannot be suspended on the ground of mere involvement in a criminal case or criminal trial or on the basis of mere apprehension of misuse of fire arm by the licensee.

28. In Thakur Prasad Vs. State of U.P. and others reported 2013(31) LCD 1460 (LB) this Court after referring to the earlier pronouncements in the case of Ram Murli Madhukar Vs. District Magistrate, Sitapur [1998 (16) LCD 905] and Habib Vs. State of U.P., 2002 ACC 783, held in paragraphs 10 and 11 as follows:

"10. "Public peace" or "public safety" do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order public safety means safety of the public at large and not safety of few persons only and before passing of the order of cancellation of arm license as per Section 17 (3) of the Act the Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and safety involved in the case in view of the judgment given by this court in the case of Ram Murli Madhukar v. District Magistrate, Sitapur [1998 916) LCD 905], wherein it has been held that license can not be suspended or revoked on the ground of public interest (Jan-hit) merely on the registration of an F.I.R. and pendency of a criminal case."

11. Further, this Court in the case of Habib v. State of U.P. 2002 ACC 783 held as under:

"The question as to whether mere Involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of the licence under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a Division Bench of this Court in Sheo prasad Misra Vs. District Magistrate, Basti and Others, 1978 AWC 122, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision in Masi Uddin Vs. Commissioner, Allahabad, 1972 ALJ 573, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot, in any way, affect the public security or public interest and the order cancelling or revoking the licence of fire arm has been set aside. The present impugned orders also suffer from the same infirmity as was pointed out by the Division Bench in the above mentioned cases. I am in full agreement with the view taken by the Division Bench that these orders cannot be sustained and deserves to be quashed and are hereby quashed.

There is yet another reason that during the pendency of the present writ petition, the petitioner has been acquitted from the aforesaid criminal case and at present there is neither any case pending, nor any conviction has been attributed to the petitioner, as is evident from Annexure SA-I and II to the supplementary affidavit filed by the petitioner. In this view of the matter, the petitioner is entitled to have the fire-arm licence."

29. Thus, it has been held by this Court that "Public peace" or "public safety" do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order. Public safety means safety of the public at large and not safety of few persons only. The Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and public safety before passing the order under Section 17 (3) of the Act.

30. In Mewalal @ Kunnu v. Commissioner, Allahabad Division, Allahabad and another [2014 (32) LCD 576] it was held that the licence cannot be refused/suspended/cancelled merely because there is ordinary breach of law and order. Paragraph 13, 14 and 16 of the said judgment read as under:

"13. In the case of Rama Kushwaha v. State of U.P. & others, reported in 2011 (29) LCD 1045 it has been held that a license cannot be refused/suspended/cancelled merely because there is an ordinary breach of law and order.

14. The relevant paras of the aforesaid judgment are being reproduced hereinunder:

8. Relying upon Ganesh Chandra Bhatt v. District Magistrate Almora; AIR 1993 All, 291, learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that this court has held in clear words that a licence can not be refused/suspended/cancelled merely because there is an ordinary breach of law and order.

9. "Public peace' or "public safety' do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order public safety means safety of the public at larger and not safety of few persons only. Before passing of the order in exercise of power conferred under Section 17 (3) of the Act the Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and safety involved in the case.

10. In Ram Murli Madhukar v. District Magistrate, Sitapur [1998 (16) LCD 905], this Court has held that licence cannot be suspended or revoked on the ground of public interest (Janhit).

11. It is well settled in law that mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of abuse of arms act are not sufficient grounds for passing the order of suspension or revocation of licence under Section 17 (3) of the Act. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of licence under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a division Bench of this Court Sheo Prasad Misra Vs. The District Magistrate, Basti and others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision of Msiuddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest. The law propounded in the said decisions has been subsequently followed in Habib Vs. Staate of U.P. reported in 2002 ACC 783, Ram Sanehi Vs. Commissioner, Devi Patan Division, Gonda and another.

16. In the case of Rajendra Singh v. Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow and others, reported in 2011 (29) LCD 1041 "Public Peace' or "public Safety' has been defined. The relevant paras 6 and 7 read as under:

6. "Public peace' or "public safety' do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order public safety means safety of the public at large and not safety of few persons only. Before passing of the order in exercise of power conferred under Section 17 (3) of the Act the Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace annd safety involved in the case.

7. it is well settled in law that mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of abuse of arms act are not sufficient ground for passing the order of suspension or revocation of licence under Section 17 (3) of the Act. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal cae or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of licence under Arms Act, has been dealth with by a Division Bench of this court Sheo Prasad Misra v. The District Magistrate, Basti and others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision of Masiuddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest. The law propounded in the said decisions has been subsequently followed in Habib v. State of U.P. reported in 2002 ACC 783."

31. In Chandrabali Tewari v. The Commissioner, Faizabad [2014 (32) LCD 1696] this Court again held that mere pendency of criminal case is no ground to cancel fire arm licence. It has also been held that as in that case there were no allegations that the licenced gun was ever taken out by the licensee and was used in the act, the order cancelling petitioner's fire arm licence was quashed. Paragraph 12 of the said judgment is being reproduced as under:

"12. In the case reported in [2012 (79) ACC 824] Allahabad High Court, Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 30724 of 1999 His Lordship has observed as follows:

"However, the impugned order nowhere indicates that the petitioner had used his licensed firearm or for that matter any firearm at all. The allegation in the impugned order is of physical assault (without use of firearm) and use of abusive language. Such an allegation, in my opinion cannot be the foundation of an impression by the District Magistrate that the petitioner, if allowed to retain his firearm license, would be a threat to future public peace and order."

32. In Ghanshyam Gupta v. State of U.P. and others [2016 (34) LCD 3035] this Court has again held that the necessary ingredients to invoke jurisdiction of the licencing authority in terms of Section 17 were clearly lacking and no finding had been returned on the basis of materials produced in that regard by the licencing authority, which must justify passing of the order of cancellation. Paragraph 9 of the said judgment is being quoted as under:

"9. In a recent decision of Lucknow Bench of this court in Surya Narain Mishra v. Stae of U.P. and others, reported in 2015 (7) ADJ 510, similar view has been taken by this Court relying upon subsequent decisions. Para-14 of the judgment is reproduced:

"14. In the case of Raj Kumar Verma v. State of U.P., 2013 (80) ACC 231 this court in paragraph No.3 held as under:-

"The ground for issue of show-cause notice, suspension and ultimately cancellation of the licence is that one and precisely one criminal case was registered against the petitioner. The District Magistrate has also held that the petitioner has been enlarged on bail. He has gone further to observe that if the licence remained intact, the petitioner, may disturb public peace and tranquility. The same findings have been given by the Commissioner, Unmindful of the fact that this Court is repeating the law of the land, but the deaf ears of the administrative officers do not ready to succumb the law of the land. The settled law is that mere involvement in a criminal case without any finding that involvement in such criminal case shall be detrimental to public peace and tranqulity shall not create the ground for the cancellation of Armed Licence. In Ram Suchi v. Commissioner, Devipatan Division reported in 2004 (22) LCD 1643, it was held that this law was relied upon in Balram Singh Vs. Satate of U.P. 2006 (24) LCD 1359. Mere apprehension without substance is simply an opinion which has no legs to stand. Personal whims are not allowed to be reflected while acting as a public servant."

33. In Jogendra Singh vs. State of U.P. and others [2018 (8) ADJ 871] this Court clearly held that for cancellation of a fire arm licence there had to be a definite finding that the possession of fire arm with the licensee was endangering public peace and public safety. In the absence of such finding it could safely be presumed that the licencing authority had erred in cancelling the fire arm licence. This Court also noticed that the State Government had issued guidelines which were circulated to all the District Magistrates to follow the same in the matters of cancellation/revocation of fire arm licence. The guidelines were reproduced as under:-

महोदय,

आयुध अधिनियम, 1959 की धारा -17 मे अनुज्ञप्तियों मे परिवर्तन-परिवर्धन, उनके निलम्बन एवं प्रतिसंहरण के संबंध मे व्यवस्था दी गयी है। उपरोक्त के अतिरिक्त मा0 सर्वोच्च न्यायालय एवं मा0 उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा भी समयकश् पर तत्सम्बन्ध मे विस्तशत आदेश पारित किये गये है। गृह (पुलिस) अनुभाग-5 के शासनादेश संख्या-271 आर/छः-पु0-5-91-573/01, दिनांक 25.02.1991 द्वारा आग्नेयास्त्र लाइसेंसों का निलम्बन/निरस्तीकरण व शासनादेश संख्या-3017 आर/छः-पु0-5-99, दिनांक 15.05.1999 द्वारा व्यक्तिगत शस्त्र

लाइसेंस(R) का दुरूप्रयोग रोकने के संबंध मे निर्देश दिये गये है।

2. उक्त के दृष्टिगत मुझे यह कहने का निर्देश हुआ है कि व्यक्तिगत शस्त्र लाइसेसों के अनुज्ञप्तियों मे परिवर्तन-परिवर्धन, उनके निलम्बन एवं प्रतिसंहरण के संबंध में निम्नानुसार कार्यवाही सुनिश्चित किया जाय-

(1) जिला मजिस्ट्रट/लाइसेसिग प्राधिकारी लिखित आदेश द्वारा अग्नेयास्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति का सुनिश्चित कालावधि के लिए निलम्बित कर सकता है या अनुज्ञप्ति को प्रतिसंहरित कर सकता है।

(2) उपरोक्त निलम्बन/प्रतिसंहरण तभी किया जाएगा जब जिला मजिस्ट्रट/लाइसेसिग प्राधिकारी को यह समाधान हो जाए कि-

(क) अनुज्ञप्तिधारी किसी विधि के अंतर्गत आयुध रखने हेतु प्रतिशिद्ध है या विकश्तचित्त है या किन्ही अन्य कारणों से आयुध अधिनियम मे अनुज्ञप्ति के अयोग्य है, अथवा

(ख) जब जिला मजिस्ट्रट/लाइसेसिग प्राधिकारी लोकशांति की सुरक्षा या "लोकक्षेत्र" के लिए अनुज्ञप्ति को निलम्बित या प्रतिसंहरित करने के युक्तियुक्त आधार पाता है, आवश्यक समझता है अथवा

(ग) जबकि यह प्रमाण हो कि अनुज्ञप्ति गलत जानकारी के आधार पर प्राप्त की गई है, अथवा

(घ) जबकि अनुज्ञप्ति की किसी शर्त का उल्लंघन किया गया है, अथवा

(ड़) जबकि अनुज्ञप्ति धारक को अपना शस्त्र परिदत्त करने का निर्देश दिया गया हो और उसके द्वारा शस्त्र का परिदान न किया गया हो।

(3) अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी को अनंत समय के लिए शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति निलंबित अथवा प्रतिसंहरित (निरस्त) नहीं करनी चाहिए। अनुज्ञप्ति के निलम्बन अथवा प्रतिसंहरण की अवधि सुनिश्चित होनी चाहिए।

(4) अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी को लाइसेंस निलंबित अथवा निरस्त करने का अधिकार आयुध अधिनियम की धा मजिस्टे°ट रा 17 (3) के अंतर्गत प्रदत्त है और उक्त कार्यवाही करने से पूर्व अनुज्ञप्तिधारी को सुने जाने का अवसर प्रदान किया जाना आवश्यक है।

(5) अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी मामले के तथ्यों और परिस्थितियों पर विचार करते हुए यदि यह उचित पाते हैं कि प्रकरण में तात्कालिक प्रभाव से आयुध अनुज्ञप्ति का अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी द्वारा परिदान किया जाना आवश्यक है तो ऐसा करने का आदेश अभिलिखित किया जाये।

(6) मात्र किसी आपराधिक मामले का लम्बित रहना शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति निरस्त/निलम्बित करने का पर्याप्त आधार नहीं है। यहाॅ यह भी स्पश्ट करना समीचीन है कि मात्र एक आपराधिक प्रकरण के लम्बित होने के आधार पर भी विशिश्ट मामलों में आयुध अनुज्ञप्ति को निलंबित/निरस्त किया जा सकता है, परंतु अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी को ऐसा करने के पर्याप्त आधार अपने आदेश में अभिलिखित किये जाय। यह भी आवश्यक है कि ऐसे आधार अभिलिखित करते समय यह स्पश्ट उल्लिखित किया जाय कि अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी को समाधान हो गया कि प्रश्नगत आपराधिक प्रकरण की प्रकृति ऐसी है कि वह आमजन और समाज की लोकशांति एवं लोक़क्षेम के प्रतिकूल है और यदि अनुज्ञप्तिधारी को अनुज्ञप्ति रखने दी गई तो लोकशांति व लोकक्षेम पर प्रतिकूल प्रभाव पड़ेगा।

(7) यदि किसी शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति के निलंबन या प्रतिसंहरण की कार्यवाही आपराधिक वाद के आधार पर की गई हैं तो यदि उक्त आपराधिक अभियोग, दोशमुक्ति में परिवर्तित हो जाता हैं तो शस्त्र निलम्बन/निरस्त्रीकरण के आदेश का औचित्य

भी समाप्त हो जाता है, परंतु यदि उक्त अभियोग राज्य द्वारा अपील योग्य पाया जाए एवं उक्त प्रकरण की अपील की जाए तो राज्य को उक्त दोशमुक्ति के आदेश की अपील के निर्णय तक अनुज्ञप्तिधारी की शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति निलंबित/प्रतिसंहरित रह सकती है। अतः ऐसे प्रकरण जहाॅ जिला मजिस्टेªट के समक्ष दोशमुक्ति के अभिकथन द्वारा अपने शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति निलंबन/निरस्त्रीकरण की कार्यवाही को अपास्त करने की प्रार्थना की जाए, वहाॅ जिला मजिस्टेªट यह जानकारी करना सुनिश्चित करेंगे कि प्रकरण में कोई राज्य अपील योजित/प्रस्तावित तो नहीं की गई हैं? तथा उसके उपरान्त ही किसी निर्णय पर पहुचेंगे।

(8) जहाॅ पर अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी द्वारा यह समाधान किया जा रहा है कि अनुज्ञप्तिधारी का कृत्य लोकशांति और लोकक्षेम के प्रतिकूल है तो इसका तात्पर्य कानून व्यवस्था बिगड़ने की सामान्य परिस्थितियां¢ से नहीं समझा जाएगा, अपितु लोकशांति और लोकक्षेम प्रभावित होना तथा समाज पर व्यापक असर से तात्पर्यित है।

(9) शस्त्र निरस्त्रीकरण की कार्यवाही लम्बित रहने अथवा कोई आपराधिक विचारण लम्बित रहने के दौरान अनुज्ञप्तिधारी शस्त्र रखने के लिए अधिकार स्वरूप माॅग नहीं कर सकता हैं क्योंकि शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति एक अधिकार नहीं मात्र एक सुविधा है।

(10) अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी/जिला मजिस्टेªट अपने तात्विक समाधान के लिए पुलिस, अभियोजन एवं अन्य एजेंसियों से आख्या आहूत कर सकता है। इसके साथ ही जिला मजिस्टेªट द्वारा प्रकरण से संबंधित सभी सुसंगत अभिलेख पर विचार करने तथा मजिस्टेªट अनुज्ञप्तिधारी की पारिवारिक पश्ठभूमि, उसके पूर्व आपराधिक कश्त्य और उसका आपराधिक इतिहास को विचार में लेने के उपरांत ही समुचित आदेश पारित किया जाय।

(11) अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी/जिला मजिस्टेªट आयुध अधिनियम की धारा 17 के उपबंधों के अंतर्गत यह समाधान होने पर कि कोई अनुज्ञप्तिधारी किसी गंभीर अपराध में सम्मिलित होने, दोशसिद्ध होने या किसी अन्य आनुशांगिक कारण, जिसे वो तात्विक रूप से उचित पाता हो, के आधार पर अनुज्ञप्तिकारी को अनुज्ञप्ति धारण करने के लिए अयोग्य व्यक्ति की श्रेणी में पाता है तो वह शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति को निलंबित/प्रतिसंहरित कर सकता है।

(12) अग्नेयास्त्रों के लाइसेंस सुरक्षा की दश्श्टि से स्वीकश्त किये जाते हैं। इनका प्रयोग शादी-विवाह अथवा सार्वजनिक स्ाि◌ानों पर प्रदर्शन नहीं किया जाना चाहिए। ऐसा किये जाने से जनता में भय का वातावरण व्याप्त होता है। जो व्यक्ति शस्त्रों का प्रयोग प्रदर्शन हेतु अथवा जनता में भय व्याप्त करते हुए पाए जाएॅ, उनके शस्त्र लाइसेंस की शर्त संख्या 5 का उल्लंघन करने के आरोप में एवं शस्त्र अधिनियम की धारा 17 (3) (ख), (घ), (ड़) के अधीन तत्काल निरस्त करते हुए विधिक कार्यवाही की जा सकती है।

(13) यदि लाइसेंसिंग अधिकारी के समक्ष सामग्री है और उन्हें यह स्पश्ट हो जाता है कि लाइसेंसी के पास शस्त्र रहने से शांति एवं जनसुरक्षा खतरे में पड़ सकती है, तो वह (लाइसेंसिंग अधिकारी) उक्त तथ्यों को अभिलिखित करने के उपरांत सीधे अथवा किसी जाॅच अथवा लाइसेंसी की सुनवाई का अवसर दिये बिना लाइसेंस निलम्बित/निरस्त कर सकते हैं, परंतु उन मामलों में जिनमें लाइसेंसिंग अधिकारी को यह स्पश्ट है कि लाइसेंसी के पास शस्त्र रहने से जनशान्ति या जनसुरक्षा खतरे में पड़ सकती है और सही स्थित की जानकारी हेतु जाॅच लंबित हो तो

ऐसी जाॅच के दौरान लाइसेंस निरस्त नहीं किया जा सकता है।

(14) आयुध अधिनियम की धारा 17 के अंतर्गत किसी कार्यवाही को प्रचलित करने से पहले जिला मजिस्टे*ट/अनुज्ञप्ति प्राधिकारी के लिए यह आवश्यक है कि वह अपने समक्ष प्रस्तुत पत्रावली पर अनुज्ञप्तिधारी की शस्त्र अनुभाग से मूल पत्रावली में संलग्न शस्त्र आवेदन, शपथपत्र, आख्या एवं सुसंगत दस्तावेजों का सूक्ष्म अध्ययन कर लें, ताकि यह सुनिश्चित किया जा सके कि अनुज्ञप्तिधारी द्वारा गलत तथ्यों के आधार पर शस्त्र आवेदन तो नहीं किया गया है या किसी शर्त का उल्लंघन तो नहीं किया गया है?

(15) उपरोक्त निर्देशों के अतिरिक्त आयुध अधिनियम-1959, आयुध नियमावली-2016 समय समय पर माननीय सर्वोच्च न्यायालय एवं माननीय उच्च न्यायालय इलाहाबाद द्वारा पारित आदेशों, भारत सरकार एवं राज्य सरकार द्वारा समयकभ् पर निर्गत निर्देशों का भी सम्यक अनुपालन किया जाए एवं यदि उक्त का अनुज्ञप्तिधारी द्वारा उल्लंघन पाया जाता है तो उसके शस्त्र अनुज्ञप्ति के निलंबन/निरस्तीकरण की विधि सम्मत कार्यवाही सुनिश्चित की जाय।

3. इस संबंध में मा0 न्यायालय द्वारा निम्नलिखित वादों (1) सी0पी0 साहू बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश राज्य 1984 ए0डब्लू0सी0 145,(2) कैलाश नाथ बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश राज्य 1985 ए0डब्लू0सी0 493, (3) हरप्रसाद बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश राज्य 2005 (5) ए0डब्लू0सी0 4939 तथा (4) नेशनल कैपिटल टेरिटरी आॅफ डेलही बनाम उमेश कुमार 2008 (3) एस0सी0सी0 क्रिमिनल 490 में पारित निर्णयों का सम्यक् अवलोकन करने के उपरान्त उमें दिये गये निर्देशों का पालन करते हुए ही कोई निर्णय लिया जाए।

4. कृपया उक्त निर्देशों का कड़ाई से अनुपालन सुनिश्चित किया जाए।""

"4. It is apparent from the record that the aforesaid finding is perverse and against the record as the petitioner has already been acquitted in Case Crime No. 170/93. The non-cognizance report No. 242/96 dated 7.9.1996 under Sections 252 and 504 I.P.C. was also not investigated. Involvement and pendency of a case crime is no ground for cancellation of fire-arm licence. It is settled law, that after acquittal the very basis for cancellation of the arms licence stands vitiated. In this regard reference of the decision rendered in Lalji v. Commisioner, Kanpur and Anr. MANU/UP.0661/1999 has been made.

5. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal cae or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of the licence under Section 17 of the Arms Act has been considered by a Division Bench of this Court in Sheo Prasad Misra v. The District Magistrate Basti and others, 1979 (16) ACC 6 (Sum) wherein the Division Bench relied upon an earlier decision in Masi Uddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, 1972 ALJ 573. In both the aforesaid cases it has been held mere involvement in a criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest. In view of this proposition of law the order cancelling or revoking the licence of the petitioner or the aforesaid ground of involvement and pendency of a criminal case is not tenable."

35. From the aforesaid judgments some of the following propositions of law may be summarized as under:

(i) Right to hold fire arm licence granted by the authorities in accordance with the provisions contained in the Arms Act, 1959 is a valuable right of an individual.

(ii) Licencing authority has the power to suspend or revoke an arm's licence only if any of the conditions mentioned in Sub-Clauses (a) to (e) of Sub Section (3) of Section 17 of the Arms Act exists.

(iii) The provisions of Section 17 of the Act cannot be invoked lightly in an arbitrary manner.

(iv) The licencing authority has to satisfy itself if it is necessary for the security of public peace or for public safety to suspend or revoke the licence.

(v) Such satisfaction of the licencing authority must be expressed in the order and must be based on relevant material.

(vi) Public peace or public safety do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order. Public safety means safety of the public at large and not of few persons only.

(vii) Mere involvement or pendency of a criminal case does not, of its own, necessarily affect public peace or public safety. The licencing authority in each case has to record a finding as to how and under what circumstances the possession of the arm licence is detrimental to the public peace or public safety.

(viii) On mere apprehension of misuse of fire arm or that the licencee would extend threat to the persons of the weaker section, the arm licence cannot be cancelled. There must be some positive incident in which the licencee participated or used his arm, leading to breach of public peace or public security.

(ix) After acquittal of the licencee from the criminal case, the very basis of cancellation of arm licence is vanished.

36. In the present case the petitioner's licence was cancelled by the District Magistrate on the ground of pendency of criminal case against him. The petitioner was later on acquitted of the criminal case by order dated 17.1.2003. A perusal of the order of acquittal does not show the use of fire arm. After acquittal the very basis of the order of cancellation vanished. The finding of the District Magistrate as affirmed by the Commissioner, that it was not in the interest of public peace and the public security that the licence remained with the petitioner/licencee, is not based on any evidence/material, except the police reports which in their turn were in view of the pendency of the criminal case against the petitioner. On mere apprehension expressed in the impugned orders that the petitioner would misuse the fire arm and would extend threat to the persons of the weaker section of the society, the arm licence could not be cancelled.

37. I do not find any substance in the submission advanced by learned Standing Counsel in support of the impugned orders, in view of the above discussion.

38. The writ petition deserves to be allowed and is hereby allowed. The orders impugned are quashed. However, quashing of the impugned orders would not result in revival of the petitioner's fire arm licence automatically. The petitioner may apply for arm licence afresh under the Arms Act, 1959 read with Arms Rules, 2016 before the Licencing Authority, along with a certified copy of this Judgment, if so desires, to have the arm licence. If any such application is filed before the licencing authority within a period of 30 days, the same shall be considered and decided expeditiously by the licencing authority strictly in accordance with law but the licencing authority shall not refuse the arm licence on the ground of the impugned orders which have been quashed by this judgment.

39. Writ petition is allowed. No orders as to costs.

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Departmental enquiry - - employee found guilty - hence removed - award made against the petitioner- right of the petitioner - opportunity to provide counter evidences, violated - order of the respondent quashed - award to be made after providing an opportunity of hearing.

Held, The Petitioner-Corporation (U.P.S.R.T.C.), having already reserved it's right to provide for counter evidence in case of a disciplinary enquiry finding them at fault. The petitioner was deprived of any such opportunity and the respondents in a hasty manner proceeded to pass the impugned order which stands as a manifest error of law. Hence, the impugned award cannot be sustained and is hereby quashed. The matter is remitted back to the Tribunal for deciding the same afresh in accordance with law in the light of the observations made in the judgement.

2. Shankar Chakravarti v. Britannia Biscuit Co. Ltd. and Another, AIR 1979 SC.

3. Kurukshetra University v. Prithvi Singh, AIR 2018 SC 973.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. The instant petition is directed against the award dated 12.12.2011 passed by Industrial Tribunal (3) U.P., Kanpur on a reference made to it under the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. The reference was whether the termination of service of Babu Ram, employee of the petitioner-Corporation on 28.11.2002 was proper and valid and if not, the relief to which the workman was entitled to. The reference has been answered in favour of the workman. As the workman had died on 17.10.2014 i.e., during pendency of the proceedings, therefore, he has been given relief of continuity in service till 17.10.2004 after holding the removal order dated 28.11.2002 to be illegal. The petitioner-Corporation has been directed to pay full back wages till the date of death of the workman.

2. The facts in brief are that Babu Ram (now represented by his son, respondent No.3), was working as driver with the petitioner-Corporation. While he was driving Bus No.UP-75A/3279 belonging to the petitioner-Corporation, it met with an accident on Agra-Tundla Highway. In the said accident, one Awdhesh Kumar Yadav died. In a claim petition filed before the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, by heirs and legal representatives of Awdhesh Kumar Yadav bearing No.108 of 1996 against the petitioner-Corporation, in which Babu Ram was arrayed as respondent No.2, it was held that the accident was an outcome of rash and negligent driving of the bus by Babu Ram and not any contributory negligence of the deceased. In sequel thereto, the petitioner-Corporation initiated departmental enquiry against Babu Ram. Babu Ram participated in the disciplinary enquiry. Ultimately, the enquiry officer submitted his report opining that Babu Ram was not responsible for the accident. The Regional Manager, who is the disciplinary authority, did not agree with the enquiry officer. He issued a show cause notice dated 30.1.2002 to Babu Ram stating his disagreement with the report of the enquiry officer while placing reliance on the judgement of Motor Accident Claims Tribunal. He was required to show cause as to why the loss caused to the Corporation as a result of rash and negligent driving be not recovered from him and why his services be not dispensed with. Babu Ram replied to the said notice on 27.5.2002. The Regional Manager after considering the enquiry report and the reply furnished by Babu Ram to the show cause notice and other evidence held Babu Ram guilty of the charges framed against him and directed for recovery of a sum of Rs.2,34,000/- from him and also for his removal from service. Babu Ram being aggrieved thereby sought reference of the dispute to the Industrial Tribunal and in pursuance whereof the impugned award was passed.

3. The Tribunal has held that the departmental enquiry held by the Corporation was in violation of principles of natural justice in as much as the show cause notice issued to Babu Ram disagreeing with the recommendations made by the enquiry officer does not contain any reason. According to the Tribunal, the reliance placed upon the award of the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal in disagreeing with the report of the enquiry officer was not a valid reason, as the said award was very much in existence when the enquiry officer submitted his report. The show cause notice should have contained other reasons. It has further been held that before inflicting major punishment, Babu Ram should have been given opportunity to submit his defence in writing and lead oral evidence but which was not granted to him and consequently there was violation of principles of natural justice. The order of removal, was therefore, held to be illegal and the reference answered in favour of the workman.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the findings recorded by the Tribunal are wholly illegal and perverse. It is pointed out that the show cause notice issued to Babu Ram on 30.1.2002 by the disciplinary authority contained specific reason to the effect that the court in its award found him guilty of rash and negligent driving. It is submitted that the finding recorded by the Tribunal that the show cause notice does not disclose any reason for disagreement with the opinion of the enquiry officer is thus wholly perverse and against the record. His further submission is that at the stage of second show cause notice against proposed punishment, there is no requirement of permitting the delinquent to lead oral evidence. Thus the view taken by the Tribunal is manifestly illegal. It is also urged that the petitioner-Corporation in paragraph 17 of the written statement reserved its right to prove charges before the Tribunal in case any fault is found with the departmental enquiry. Even if disciplinary enquiry held by the Corporation was discarded by the Tribunal, it ought to have given opportunity to the petitioners to lead evidence to prove the charge but in great haste it proceeded to pass the impugned award without affording such opportunity.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for respondent No.3 submitted that the departmental enquiry was initiated by the petitioner-Corporation almost three years after the accident took place. He further submitted that the enquiry officer had absolved Babu Ram of the charges levelled against him and consequently order of removal passed by the disciplinary authority was wholly illegal. He further submitted that the findings recorded by the Tribunal in relation to violation of principles of natural justice are findings of facts.

6. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

7. The disciplinary authority, after receipt of enquiry report given by the enquiry officer admittedly issued show cause notice dated 30.1.2002 to Babu Ram. The show cause notice specifically records that he is in disagreement with the opinion of the enquiry officer. The reason being that the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal in its award had found him guilty of rash and negligent driving. Babu Ram was also called upon to show cause as to why he should not be removed from service and why the loss caused to the Corporation to the tune of Rs.2,34,000/- be not recovered from him. It was followed by another notice dated 6.5.2002 in which also his explanation against proposed punishment was called for. The notice dated 30.1.2002 specifically contains reason for not agreeing with the recommendation made by the enquiry officer. The delinquent was thus fully aware of the fact that the disciplinary authority was not in agreement with the recommendation made by the enquiry officer and also the reason for disagreement. This also is the object of issuance of show cause notice when the disciplinary authority is in disagreement with the recommendation made by the enquiry officer. Such requirement stands fully achieved by the show cause notice issued to Babu Ram. The mere fact that the material, i.e. the award of the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal relying on which the disciplinary officer had disagreed with the recommendation made by the enquiry officer, was also available at the stage enquiry officer submitted his report, would not preclude the disciplinary authority to place reliance on such material. Moreover, there is no legal requirement that at the stage of second show cause notice against proposed punishment, any fresh enquiry be held by permitting the delinquent to lead oral evidence, as observed by the Tribunal.

8. Thus on both scores, I am of the considered onion that the findings returned by the Tribunal in relation to violation of principles of natural justice are not sustainable in law. Moreover, even if the disciplinary enquiry was found to be vitiated on the ground of violation of principles of natural justice, it is now well settled that where the employer has reserved its right to prove the charges before the Tribunal, the Tribunal is bound to give opportunity to the employer to lead evidence. The legal position in this regard was settled by the Supreme Court in Delhi Cloth & General Mills Co. v. Ludh Budh Singh, 1972 (3) SCR 29 by holding as follows :-

"(4) When a domestic enquiry has been held by the management and the management relies on the same, it is open to the latter to request the Tribunal to try the validity of the domestic enquiry as a preliminary issue and also ask for an opportunity to adduce evidence before the Tribunal, if the finding on the preliminary issue is against the management. However elaborate and cumbersome the procedure may be, under such circumstances, it is open to the Tribunal to deal, in the first instance, as a preliminary issue the validity of the domestic enquiry. If its finding on the preliminary issue is in favour of the management, then no additional evidence need be cited by the management. But, if the finding on the preliminary issue is against the management, the Tribunal will have to give the employer an opportunity to cite additional evidence and also give a similar opportunity to the employee to lead evidence contra, as the request to adduce evidence had been made by the management to the Tribunal during the course of the proceedings and before the trial has come to an end. When the preliminary issue is decided against the management and the latter leads evidence before the Tribunal, the position, under such circumstances, will be, that the management is deprived of the benefit of having the finding of the domestic Tribunal being accepted as prima facie proof of the alleged misconduct. On the other hand, the management will have to prove, by adducing proper evidence, that the workman is guilty of misconduct and that the action taken by it is proper. It will not be just and fair either to the management or to the workman that the Tribunal should refuse to take evidence and thereby ask the management to make a further application, after holding a proper enquiry, and deprive the workman of the benefit of the Tribunal itself being satisfied, on evidence adduced before it, that he was or was not guilty of the alleged misconduct.

(5) The management has got a right to attempt to sustain its order by adducing independent evidence before the Tribunal. But the management should avail itself of the said opportunity by making a suitable request to the Tribunal before the proceedings are closed. If no such opportunity has been availed of, or asked for by the management, before the proceedings are closed, the employer can make no grievance that the Tribunal did not provide such an opportunity. The Tribunal will have before it only the enquiry proceedings and it has to decide whether the proceedings have been held properly and the findings recorded therein are also proper.*

(6) If the employer relies only on the domestic enquiry and does not simultaneously lead additional evidence or ask for an opportunity during the pendency of the proceedings to adduce such evidence, the duty of the Tribunal is only to consider the validity of the domestic enquiry as well as the finding recorded therein and decide the matter. If* the Tribunal decides that the domestic enquiry has not been held properly, it is not its function to invite suo motu the employer to adduce evidence before it to justify the action taken by it."

9. The above principles of law was reiterated with approval in Shankar Chakravarti v. Britannia Biscuit Co. Ltd. and Another, AIR 1979 SC 1653 by a three Judges' Bench of the Supreme Court in following words :-

".....After an exhaustive review of the decisions bearing on the question and affirming the ratio in R.K. Jain's case (1972 Lab IC 13) this Court extracted the emerging principles from the review of decisions. Propositions 4, 5 and 6 would be relevant for the present discussion."

10. In a recent judgement of the Supreme Court in Kurukshetra University v. Prithvi Singh, AIR 2018 SC 973, the Supreme Court did not approve the approach of the Labour Court where it proceeded to answer the reference in favour of the workman, after holding that the departmental enquiry stood vitiated on account of violation of principles of natural justice without granting the employer opportunity to lead evidence to prove the charges. The relevant observations made by the Supreme Court are extracted below :-

"24. We are constrained to observe that first, the Labour Court committed an error in not framing a "preliminary issue" for deciding the legality of domestic enquiry and second, having found fault in the domestic inquiry committed another error when it did not allow the appellant to lead independent evidence to prove the misconduct/ charge on merits and straightaway proceeded to hold that it was a case of illegal retrenchment and hence the respondents' termination is bad in law.

31. The Labour Court will now afford the appellant (employer) an opportunity to lead evidence to prove the misconduct alleged by them in the written statement against the respondent and depending upon the findings, which the Labour Court would record on the issue of misconduct, the issue of termination would be decided in the light of what we have observed supra."

11. In the instant case also, albeit the petitioner-Corporation having reserved its right to prove the charges by leading evidence before the Tribunal in case the disciplinary enquiry was found to be vitiated, no such opportunity was given to the petitioner-Corporation, but in great haste it straight away proceeded to allow the reference resulting in manifest error of law.

12. For all the reasons mentioned above, the impugned award cannot be sustained and is hereby quashed. The matter is remitted back to the Tribunal for deciding the same afresh in accordance with law in the light of the observations made above.

13. The petition stands allowed accordingly.

16. उपरोक्त रिपोर्ट को प्राप्त होने के उपरान्त जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट ने आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा प्रतिप्रेषित वाद का पुनः निर्धारण दिनांक 17.01.2017 के आदेश के माध्यम से किया गया।

17. जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट ने अपने आदेश दिनांक 17.01.2017 में यह स्पष्टतः अंकन किया है कि अपीलीय न्यायालय के आदेश के क्रम में उपरोक्त वाद पुनर्स्थापित कर पुनः उनके द्वारा विचारणीय है एवं यह कि अपीलीय न्यायालय के उक्त आदेश में इंगित बिन्दुओं पर जाँच आख्या उपलब्ध कराये जाने हेतु पुलिस अधीक्षक, रायबरेली व चित्रकूट को निर्देशित किया गया। जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट द्वारा सम्यक विचारोपरान्त अपने आदेश दिनांक 17.01.2017 में निम्न तथ्यों का विवरण दिया गया:-

"पुलिस अधीक्षक द्वारा थानाध्यक्ष सलोन की दिनांक 15.01.2013 को उपलब्ध करायी रिपोर्ट के अनुसार मु०अ०सं०-645/12 के अभियुक्त के साथ शस्त्र लाइसेंस का प्रदर्शन करने के तत्समय भी विपक्षी के विरुद्ध मु०अ०सं०- 814/12 धारा 27/30 आर्म्स एक्ट पंजीकृत था, जिसके आधार पर इस न्यायालय द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 28.07.2014 के अन्तर्गत विपक्षी का उक्त शस्त्र लाइसेंस निरस्त कर दिया गया था परन्तु इस न्यायालय के उक्त आदेश के विरुद्ध योजित अपील में आयुक्त महोदय द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 05.05.2016 के अन्तर्गत इस न्यायालय का उक्त आदेश निरस्त कर दिया तथा शस्त्रधारक के आचरण व उसकी आम शोहरत, अपराधिक इतिहास एवं शस्त्रधारक के पास शस्त्र लाइसेंस बने रहने पर उसके निवास के क्षेत्र व कार्यक्षेत्र अमेठी व रायबरेली के लोग अपने आपको भयभीत व असुरक्षित महसूस करेंगे या सुरक्षित महसूस करेंगे, के सम्बन्ध में जाँच कराकर प्रकरण को पुनः विधिक रूप से निस्तारित किये जाने हेतु निर्देश आयुक्त महोदय द्वारा निर्देश दिये गये। मा० अपीलीय न्यायालय के उक्त निर्देश के क्रम में पुलिस अधीक्षक रायबरेली व चित्रकूट की प्राप्त उक्त जाँच आख्याओं के अन्तर्गत अवगत कराया गया है कि शस्त्र शस्त्रधारक के विरुद्ध थाना सलोन पर मु०अ०सं०- 814/12 धारा 27/30 आर्म्स एक्ट पंजीकृत है इस प्रकार प्रश्नगत लाइसेंसी शस्त्र के दुरुपयोग के सम्बन्ध में ही शस्त्र धारक उपरोक्त के विरुद्ध उक्त मुकदमा अपराध पंजीकृत है, ऐसी स्थिति में शस्त्र धारक की आम सोहरत अच्छी न होने एवं शस्त्र का दुरुपयोग होने को दृष्टिगत रखते हुए लाइसेंस को बहाल किये जाने की संस्तुति पुलिस अधीक्षक द्वारा नहीं की गयी है।"

18. ऊपरलिखित उक्त तथ्यों के विचरण पश्चात एवं पुलिस अधीक्षक, रायबरेली व पुलिस अधीक्षक, चित्रकूट द्वारा उपलब्ध कराई गई आख्याओं को दृष्टिगत रखने के उपरान्त जिलाधिकारी चित्रकूट द्वारा याची का शस्त्र लाइसेंस इस निष्कर्ष के साथ निरस्त किया गया कि याची के विरुद्ध एक अपराध मुकदमा पंजीकृत है एवं उसके पास शस्त्र लाइसेंस के बने रहने से लोक शान्ति एवं लोक सुरक्षा को खतरा है।

19. जिलाधिकारी के आदेश दिनांक 17.01.2017 के विरुद्ध याची द्वारा पुनः धारा 18 शस्त्र अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत अपील आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा के सम्मुख प्रस्तुत की गई।

20. उपरोक्त अपील का निर्णय आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा दिनांक 28 नवम्बर, 2017 को किया गया जिस निर्णय से याची का शस्त्र लाइसेन्स निरस्तीकरण आदेश जिलाधिकारी द्वारा दिनांक 17.01.2017 को सुसंगत ठहराया गया जिसके विरुद्ध याची द्वारा प्रस्तुत याचिका अनुच्छेद 226 भारत के संविधान के अन्तर्गत प्रस्तुत की गई।

21. याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा यह कथन किया गया कि जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट द्वारा जो आदेश 17.01.2017 को पारित किया गया वह आदेश आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा पारित प्रतिप्रेषित आदेश दिनांक 05.05.2016 का घोर उल्लंघन है तथा जो निर्देश आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा अपने प्रतिप्रेषित आदेश दिनांक 05.05.2016 के द्वारा दिये गये थे, जिलाधिकारी द्वारा उक्त निर्देशों की घोर अवहेलना करते हुए याची का शस्त्र लाइसेंस पुनः निरस्त किया गया।

22. याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा अपने कथन में यह कहा गया कि जिस अपराध

संख्या 645/2012 का विवरण जिलाधिकारी द्वारा अपने आदेश में दिया गया है उससे याची का कदापि कोई सम्बन्ध नहीं है व यह कि पुलिस आख्या दिनांक 16.06.2016 (आख्या की सही तिथि 23.06.2016), जो कि पुलिस अधीक्षक, चित्रकूट द्वारा प्रेषित की गई है में याची के विरुद्ध कोई अपराधिक इतिहास का विवरण नहीं दिया गया है तथा यह स्वीकार किया गया है कि याची की शोहरत खराब नहीं है।

23. याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा यह कथन किया गया कि पुलिस आख्या पुलिस अधीक्षक, रायबरेली दिनांक 26.10.2016 के अनुसार भी याची के विरुद्ध कोई अपराधिक इतिहास नहीं पाया गया और न ही जनशान्ति सुरक्षा के विरुद्ध कोई साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत किया गया।

24. याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा दिनांक 24 नवम्बर, 2016 को पुलिस अधीक्षक, रायबरेली द्वारा प्रेषित आख्या की ओर मेरा ध्यान आकर्षित किया गया जिसमें क्षेत्राधिकारी सलोन, रायबरेली द्वारा प्रेषित आख्या दिनांक 17 नवम्बर, 2016 का विवरण है।

25. याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा यह कहा गया कि याची के विरुद्ध सिवाय अपराध संख्या 814/12 अन्तर्गत धारा 27/30 शस्त्र अधिनियम, के अलावा कोई और अन्य अपराधिक मुकदमा कभी भी पंजीकृत नहीं हुआ है व यह कि याची एक सामाजिक व्यक्ति है जो अपने परिवार के भरण-पोंषण हेतु जिला रायबरेली के एक प्रतिष्ठान में सेवारत है।

26. याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का कथन है कि कभी भी किसी व्यक्ति द्वारा याची के विरुद्ध जनशान्ति सुरक्षा व व्यक्तिगत सुरक्षा से सम्बन्धित कोई शिकायत किसी भी थाने अथवा मजिस्ट्रेट के सम्मुख की है।

27. अन्त में याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने अपने कथन में यह कहा कि जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट द्वारा आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा के स्पष्ट निर्देशों का जानबूझकर उल्लंघन किया है।

28. याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा पुनः मेरा ध्यान आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा के निर्णय दिनांक 05.05.2016 की ओर आकर्षित किया गया जिसके अवलोकन से यह सुस्थापित होता है कि आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा अवर न्यायालय (जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट) को यह स्पष्ट निर्देश के साथ वाद प्रतिप्रेषित किया गया था कि वे इस तथ्य की गहराई से छानबीन करा लें की याची का आचरण व उसकी आम शोहरत अपराधिक प्रवृत्ति के व्यक्ति की तो नहीं है तथा याची के पास शस्त्र लाइसेंस बने रहने पर उसके निवास के क्षेत्र व उसके कार्य क्षेत्र अमेठी व रायबरेली के लोग अपने आप को भयभीत या असुरक्षित या सुरक्षित महसूस करेंगे ।

29. उक्त स्पष्ट प्रतिप्रेषित आदेश द्वारा आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा ने जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट को स्पष्टतः दो बिन्दुओं पर जाँच करने का निर्देश दिया था परन्तु जिलाधिकारी, चत्रकूट द्वारा प्रतिप्रेषित वाद का निर्धारण करते समय पुलिस अधीक्षक, रायबरेली एवं पुलिस अधीक्षक, चित्रकूट व क्षेत्राधिकारी, सलोन, रायबरेली द्वारा प्रेषित आख्याओं को लगभग पूर्णतः नजर अन्दाज किया साथ ही यह गलत निष्कर्ष निकाला कि थानाध्यक्ष सलोन की आख्या दिनांक 15.01.2013 के अनुसार मुकदमा अपराध सं० 645/2012 के साथ शस्त्र लाइसेंस का

प्रदर्शन करने के कारण याची के विरुद्ध धारा 27/30 शस्त्र अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत केस पंजीकृत किया गया।

30. यहाँ यह देखना उपयुक्त होगा कि जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट द्वारा याची के सम्बन्ध में दिये गये निर्देश कि यदि वह शस्त्र लाइसेंस धारक बना रहेगा तो क्या वह उसके निवास क्षेत्र व उसके कार्य क्षेत्र अमेठी व रायबरेली के लोग उससे भयभीत व असुरक्षित महसूस करेंगे अथवा नहीं, इस पर जिलाधिकारी चित्रकूट द्वारा किसी प्रकार की कोई टिप्पणी न करते हुए पुलिस अधीक्षक, रायबरेली एवं पुलिस अधीक्षक, चित्रकूट की आख्याओं को तोड़ मरोड़ कर पेश करते हुए याची के विरुद्ध निर्णय दिनांक 17.01.2017 पारित किया गया।

31. जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट का उक्त निर्णय दिनांक 17.01.2017 प्रथम दृष्ट्या आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा के द्वारा प्रतिप्रेषित आदेश एवं सुस्पष्ट निर्देशों का पूर्णतः उल्लंघन है अर्थात यह कि जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट द्वारा आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा के आदेश का अनुपालन न कर आयुक्त के आदेश की घोर अवमानना व उपेक्षा की गई है अतएव जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 17.01.2017 निरस्त होने योग्य है।

32. जिलाधिकारी द्वारा पारित उक्त आदेश दिनांक 17.01.2017 के विरुद्ध जो अपील याची द्वारा आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा के सम्मुख धारा 18 शस्त्र अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत योजित की गई वह अपील आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा अपने आदेश दिनांक 28 नवम्बर, 2017 को यह कहते हुए निरस्त की गई कि अपील बलहीन है।

33. याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा अपने कथन में आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा पारित अन्तिम आदेश दिनांक 28.11.2017 की ओर इस न्यायालय का ध्यान आकर्षित किया गया।

34. आयुक्त, चत्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा अपने आदेश दिनांक 28.11.2017 में निम्न विवरण दिया गया:-

"उभयपक्षों के तर्को / तथ्यों के अवलोकन के उपरान्त अवर न्यायालय की पत्रावली व प्रश्नगत आदेश का विधिवत परिशीलन कर विचार किया गया। अपीलीय न्यायालय के आदेश दिनांक 05.05.2016 में दिये गये निर्देशानुसार अधीनस्थ न्यायालय द्वारा प्रश्नगत कार्यवाही प्रारम्भ की गयी। पुलिस अधीक्षक, रायबरेली से प्राप्त आख्या दिनांक 24.11.2016 के अनुसार अपीलार्थी के विरुद्ध थाना-सलोन जनपद-रायबरेली में मु०अ०सं०- 814/12 अन्तर्गत धारा 27/33 आर्म्स एक्ट पंजीकृत है। पुलिस अधीक्षक, चित्रकूट से प्राप्त आख्या दिनांक 23.06.2016 के अन्तर्गत 'शस्त्र अनुज्ञापी के विरुद्ध मु०अ०सं०- 814/12 थाना-सलोन में पंजीकृत है, थाना-राजापुर जनपद चित्रकूट में अपराधिक इतिहास शून्य है, आमसोहरत ठीक बतायी जाती है, शस्त्रधारक द्वारा शस्त्र के दुरुपयोग किये जाने की संभावना से इंकार नहीं किया जा सकता है, निलम्बन आदेश वापस करने की संस्तुति नहीं की जाती है इस विरोधाभाषी आख्या से सन्तुष्ट न होकर पुनः पुलिस अधीक्षक चित्रकूट से स्पष्ट आख्या उपलब्ध कराये जाने के निर्देश अधीनस्थ न्यायालय द्वारा दिये गये। इस पर पुलिस अधीक्षक, चित्रकूट द्वारा पुनः आख्या दिनांक 05.01.2017 उपलब्ध करायी गयी जिसके साथ संलग्न उप निरीक्षक, थाना-राजापुर की आख्या दिनांक 14.12.2016 में उल्लिखित है कि मु०अ०सं०- 814/12 थाना- सलोन में पंजीकृत है। आवेदक ने अपने शस्त्र का दुरुपयोग किया है। आवेदक आपराधिक प्रवृत्ति का है जिसकी आम सोहरत ठीक नहीं है, के आधार पर अधीनस्थ न्यायालय ने यह पाया कि अपीलार्थी के पास शस्त्र लाइसेंस बने रहने से लोकशान्ति एवं लोकसुरक्षा को खतरा है जिसके कारण अपीलकर्ता का शस्त्र लाइसेंस निरस्त किया गया है। अपीलार्थी के विरुद्ध पंजीकृत अपराधिक मामला, आम सोहरत अच्छी न होना एवं अपीलार्थी के पास शस्त्र लाइसेंस बने रहने से लोकशान्ति एवं लोकसुरक्षा को खतरा होना शस्त्र लाइसेंस की शर्तो का स्पष्ट उल्लंघन है, के दृष्टिगत अपीलार्थी के शस्त्र लाइसेंस को बहाल किया जाना औचित्यपूर्ण नहीं है। अतः अपील बलहीन होने के कारण निरस्त किये जाने योग्य है।"

35. उपरोक्त विवरण के परिशीलनोपरान्त यह पूर्णतः स्पष्ट होता है कि आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा उपरोक्त निर्णय पारित करते समय अपने पूर्वाधिकारी (आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा) के निर्णय दिनांक 05.05.2016 एवं उक्त निर्णय के स्पष्ट निर्देशों का सम्यक परीक्षण नहीं किया गया तथा यह कि आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 17.01.2017 को मूल रूप से प्रतिस्थापित कर याची की अपील को यह कहते हुए कि अपील बलहीन है अतएव निरस्त की जाती है, कहकर खारिज किया गया।

36. यहाँ इस न्यायालय का यह कहना उपयुक्त नहीं होगा कि आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा अपने अन्तिम आदेश दिनांक 28 नवम्बर, 2017 को पारित करते समय पत्रावली का सम्यक परीक्षण नहीं किया व व्यक्तिगत अनुभव व दृष्टिकोण को प्रकट करने में वह असफल रहे।

37. याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा इस न्यायालय का ध्यान आयुद्ध अधिनियम, 1959 की धारा-17 की उपधारा-3 की ओर आकर्षित किया गया जो निम्नवत है:-

"17. अनुज्ञप्तियों में फेरफार, उनका निलम्बन और प्रतिसंहरण-(3) अनुज्ञापन प्राधिकारी लिखित आदेश द्वारा अनुज्ञप्ति को ऐसी कालावधि के लिये, जैसी वह ठीक समझे, निलम्बित कर सकेगा या अनुज्ञप्ति को प्रतिसंहृत कर सकेगा-

(क) यदि अनुज्ञापन प्राधिकारी का समाधान हो जाय कि अनुज्ञप्ति का धारक, किसी आयुध या गोलाबारूद को अर्जित करने, अपने कब्जे में रखने या वहन करने से इस अधिनियम या किसी अन्य तत्समय - प्रवृत्त विधि द्वारा प्रतिषिद्ध है या विकृत - चित्त का है या इस अधिनियम के अधीन अनुज्ञप्ति के लिए किसी कारण से अयोग्य है; अथवा

(ख) यदि अनुज्ञापन प्राधिकारी अनुज्ञप्ति को निलंबित करना या प्रतिसंहृत करना लोकशान्ति की सुरक्षा के लिये या लोकक्षेम के लिये आवश्यक समझे; अथवा

(ग) यदि अनुज्ञप्ति तात्विक जानकारी दबाकर उसके लिये आवेदन करने के समय अनुज्ञप्ति के धारक द्वारा या उसकी ओर से किसी अन्य व्यक्ति द्वारा दी गई गलत जानकारी के आधार पर अभिप्राप्त की गई थी; अथवा

(घ) यदि अनुज्ञप्ति की शर्तों में से किसी का भी उल्लंघन किया गया है; अथवा

(ङ) यदि अनुज्ञप्ति का धारक अनुज्ञप्ति का परित्याग की अपेक्षा करने वाली उपधारा (1) के अधीन सूचना का अनुपालन करने में असफल रहा है।"

38. उपरोक्त उपधारा (3) धारा 17 के अवलोकन से यह सुस्पष्ट होता है कि याची के

विरुद्ध उपधारा 3(ख) के अन्तर्गत ही कार्यवाही की जा सकती है।

39. यहाँ यह कहना सर्वथा उपयुक्त होगा कि प्रस्तुत वाद में याची के विरुद्ध न तो लोकशान्ति की सुरक्षा न ही लोकक्षेम हेतु किसी भी अधिकारी द्वारा कोई आख्या प्रस्तुत की गई अतएव जिलाधिकारी एवं आयुक्त के आदेश किन्ही भी परिस्थितियों में अनुकूल नहीं हैं।

40. याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री कुनाल शाह द्वारा अपने कथन के समर्थन में इलाहाबाद उच्च न्यायालय के निर्णय कुबेर सिंह व अन्य बनाम द्रिग्विजय सिंह व अन्य ए.आई.आर 1968 इला० 126 के प्रस्तर 29 एवं 30 पर विचार करने की प्रार्थना की गई।

41. प्रस्तर 29 में माननीय न्यायालय द्वारा कालूराम बनाम मेहताब बाई के वाद का परीक्षण कर उसे पुनर्स्थापित किया।

42. प्रस्तर 30 में भी उक्त सम्बन्ध में विचरण किया गया तथा यह सुस्थापित किया गया कि यदि कोई सम्यक न्यायालय स्पष्ट निर्देश देते हुए वाद को प्रतिप्रेषित करता है तब उस स्थिति में अवर न्यायालय का क्षेत्राधिकार सिर्फ उक्त निर्देशों के अनुपालन तक ही सीमित है न कि अन्यथा।

43. यहाँ उपरोक्त निर्णय कुबेर सिंह के प्रस्तर 29 एवं 30 को पुनर्स्थापित किया जाना आवश्यक है:-

"29. Kaluram v. Mehtab Bai, AIR 1959 Madh Pra 181 is a case laying down that any matter expressly or impliedly decided by the order of remand cannot be reopened after remand. Similarly, in Bai Bai v. Mahadu Marati, AIR 1960 Bom 543, the giving of anticipatory and provisional reasoning in respect of matter of an issue not decided by the trial court, given in support, of the finding on the preliminary issue decided by the trial court, was held not to be final. This case thus makes a differentation between a finding, decision or direction given in the case and mere observations made in support of the orde of remand. The last case brought to my notice is of Laxman Shivashankar v. Saraswati, AIR 1961 Bom 218. This merely lays down which findings recorded in a suit have the force of res judicata. No detailed comments need be made on the scope of Section 11 of the CPC or the principle of res judicata. It can simply be observed that every observation made does not operate as res judicata. It invariably depends on the facts and cirumstances of the case whether a finding recorded can or cannot be reagitated at a subsequent stage or in another suit.

30. The consistent view of all the High; Courts therefore, is that any finding, decision or direction given in the order of remand is final and cannot be re-opened in the same proceeding before the same Court or before any other Court. This principle is applicable to not only findings, decisions or directions expressly recorded in the case, but also to such findings, decisions or directions which can, by implication, be deemed to have been recorded. Similarly, if any point is not raised before the remand and the point is such which would have made the remand unnecessary, such point cannot be permitted to be raised at a subsequent stage, otherwise there would be no finality to any proceeding. However, all the observations made in a case cannot be placed in the same category as a finding, decision or direction. It very often happens that the remand of the case may be necessary not on one ground but on many, and for purposes of remand the party may raise only one point, and not all. Any comments made on the point raised cannot, therefore, be interpreted to mean that the other points were given up for ever, or cannot be raised during the re-hearing after remand."

44. याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा अपने कथन के समर्थन में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय के निर्णय के. टी. सुरेश कुमार बनाम पी. कुन्हप्पा नायर एवं अन्य (1999)2 एस.सी.सी. 711 के प्रस्तर 4 की ओर इस न्यायालय का ध्यान आकर्षित किया गया।

45. प्रस्तर 4 निम्नवत है:-

"4. Even that apart, when the appellate authority has remanded the matter by order dated 28.03.1979, a definite finding was made that the first order of the Land Tribunal dismissing the second application cannot be sustained because the dismissal of the first application was only on the ground that it was not maintainable. The said order of remand dated 28.03.1979 has become final since the same was not challenged before any superior court. Hence, the finding in the remand order is binding on the parties. This is another ground for our conclusion that the second application is not barred by the principle of res judicata."

46. याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा अपने कथन के समर्थन में एक अन्य निर्णय राम चरन बनाम उ०प्र० सरकार व अन्य की ओर मेरा ध्यान आकर्षित किया एवं उक्त वाद के प्रस्तर 13 को प्रस्तुत किया गया जो निम्नवत है:-

"13. In Ram Murti Madhukar v. District Magistrate, Sitapur, 1998 (16) LCD 905, in paragraphs 8 and 9 of the said report this Court has held as follows:-

"8. It is also well-settled in law that mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of abuse of Arms Act, are not sufficient ground for passing of the order of suspension or revocation of licence under Section 17 of the Act. A reference in this regard may be made to the decision of this Court in Ganesh Chandra Bhatt v. D.M. Almora, AIR 1993 All 291.

9. It is also well-settled in law that before passing of the order of suspension or revocation, under Clause (b) of sub-section (3) of Section 13 of the Act, the licensing authority must apply its mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and safety involved in the case. License cannot be suspended or revoked on the ground of Jan Hit.""

47. अन्त में याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा इस न्यायालय के द्वारा निर्णित वाद रिट सी नं०- 62813 वर्ष 2017 जय प्रकाश उर्फ राजू बनाम उ०प्र० सरकार व तीन अन्य दिनांकित 12.03.2019 की ओर मेरा ध्यान आकर्षित किया गया।

48. उक्त वाद जय प्रकाश उर्फ राजू में इस न्यायालय द्वारा यह निर्णित करते हुए याचिका स्वीकृत की गई कि जो निर्णय लाइसेंसिंग अथारिटी द्वारा दिया गया है वह सर्वथा पुलिस आख्या से भिन्न है एवं यह कि यदि याची को शस्त्र लाइसेंस दिया जाता है तब उस परिस्थिति में लोकशान्ति एवं लोकसुरक्षा के सम्बन्ध में कोई भी विवरण नहीं दिया गया है।

49. विपक्षी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट एवं आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 17.01.2017 एवं 28.11.2017 का समर्थन किया गया एवं यह कहा गया कि उक्त आदेश पूर्णतः विधिक है एवं आयुक्त द्वारा पारित पहले के आदेश दिनांक 05 मई, 2016 के अनुपालन में ही पारित किये गए हैं।

50. यहाँ यह कहना समाचीन होगा कि उपरोक्त जय प्रकाश उर्फ राजू भी उस चार पहिया वाहन टवेरा में याची के साथ उपस्थित था एवं अपने शस्त्र को गाड़ी की खिड़की के बाहर किये हुए था एवं यह कि उक्त जय प्रकाश भी उपरोक्त मु० सं 814/12 में सह-अभियुक्त था जिसकी याचिका इस न्यायालय द्वारा उसके पक्ष में दिनांक 12.03.2019 को निर्णित की गयी है।

51. सम्यक विचारोपरान्त एवं प्रस्तुत निर्णयों के अवलोकन के पश्चात मैं प्रस्तुत याचिका में बल पाता हूँ।

52. प्रस्तुत याचिका स्वीकार की जाती है तथा जिलाधिकारी, चित्रकूट द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 17.01.2017 एवं आयुक्त, चित्रकूटधाम मण्डल, बान्दा द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 28.11.2017 को निरस्त किया जाता है एवं यह आदेशित किया जाता है कि यदि याची के विरुद्ध कोई अन्य अपराधिक मुकदमा कायम न हो तो याची को अविलम्ब समस्त औपचारिकताएं पूर्ण करने के पश्चात दो माह के अन्दर शस्त्र लाइसेंस प्रदान किया जाए।

Counsel for the Opposite Party:

A. Sales/Trade Tax - Penalty - Section 15A(1)(o) - Trade Tax Act, 1948 - driver inadvertently forgot to carry the relevant documents during transit - the machine was not in working condition - it was returned back - no sale took place - the documents were subsequently produced before the assessing authority - no intention to evade tax made out.

Revision Allowed. (E-10)

List of cases cited: -

1. Commissioner of Sales Tax V. S/S Haring India Limited, Mohan Nagar, Ghaziabad 1988 UPTC 1343

2. M/s Polyplex Corporation Limited V. Commissioner of Trade Tax 2003 NTN (Vol. 23) 1061

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J).)

1. Heard Sri N.C. Gupta, learned counsel for the revisionist as well as Sri Bipin Kumar Pandey, learned Standing Counsel for the respondent.

2. By means of this revision the revisionist has challenged the order dated 02.01.2010, passed by the Commercial Tax Tribunal, whereby the second appeals preferred by the revisionist as well as the revenue have been rejected and the Tribunal had up held imposition of penalty as modified by the First Appellate Authority. This revision relates to assessment year 2005-06.

3. Facts of the case in brief are that the revisionist is a partnership form engaged in the business of manufacture and sale of textiles and is registered under Section 8-A of the U.P. Trade Tax Act, 1948 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act, 1948") as well as under the Central Sales Tax Act. The revisionist has given order for supply of the machine for cloth procesing to M/s Disha Enterprises Delhi and therefore, the aforesaid machine was purchased by M/s Disha Enterprises Delhi from M/s Romex Machine, TTC Area Thaney, Mumbai, Maharashtra. The said machine was booked by Vishal Haryana Road Lines and same was transported by vehicle alongwith bill no. 52, dated 08.03.2006, which was in the name of M/s Disha Enterprises, A-9 West Jyoti Nagar, 100 Feet Road, delhi and thereafter the same for delivery to the revisionist, for which M/s Disha Enterprises issued bill no. 0347, dated 13.03.2006 and bill no. 832000 and along with that import declaration Form No. 1520870.

4. Contention of revisionist is that the driver of the vehicle inadvertently left behind the papers of M/s Disha Enterprises and Form relating to import of the machine from the State of Delhi to the State of Uttar Pradesh and at the relevant point of time had only paper of import of machine from Maharashtra to Delhi. The officers of the revenue intercepted the vehicle on 13.03.20065 and the goods were detained due to the fact that the vehicle was not carrying all the papers and declaration form as required under the law. Admittedly, an amount of Rs.1,99,923/- was deposited as security and goods were released.

5. The assessing authority issued show cause notice to the revisionist and passed an order imposing penalty by means of order dated 10.10.2007 under Section 15A(1)(o) of the Act, 1948, for Rs.1,99,923/-.

6. Aggrieved by the order of the assessing authority, the revisionist preferred an appeal under Section 9 of the Act, 1948 against the penalty order. The First Appellate Authority partly allowed the appeal of the revisionist and reduced the penalty to Rs.99,223/- by means of order dated 6th March, 2009.

7. Against the order of the First Appellate Authority, the revisionist as well as the revenue preferred second appeal before the Trade Tax Tribunal (hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal"). The Tribunal rejected both the appeals. Hence this revision.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionist vehemently urged that it was only due to inadvertence that the driver of the vehicle was not carrying the relevant documents and the same were duly produced before the assessing authority and therefore, there was no intention on the part of the revisionist to evade tax, and therefore, penalty under Section 15A of the Act, 1948, could not have been imposed. It has further been submitted on behalf of revisionist that subsequently the machine was not found in working condition and the same was returned back to M/s Disha Enterprises, New Delhi and therefore in fact there was no sale. It is further submitted that the machine in question was being purchased for production for non taxable goods and in the light of the various provisions of the Act, 1948, the transaction i.e. purchase of the machine in question was not taxable and therefore there was no loss of revenue to the State Government and looking into the entire facts of the case it cannot be said that there was any intention to evade tax.

9. The First Appellate Authority, looking into the aforesaid facts reduced the penalty to Rs.99,923/-.

10. Learned Standing Counsel has submitted that the second appeals preferred by the revisionist as well as revenue were rejected by the Tribunal, up holding the order of the First Appellate Authority.

11. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

12. The assessing authority has imposed penalty on the revisionist only on account of the fact that the driver of the vehicle on which the goods in question were being transported, was not carrying the relevant Form-31/documents prescribed for inter-State sale which was mandatory for the revisionist to carry. The Assessing Authority has concluded that there was clear intention on the part of revisionist to evade tax, inasmuch as there were full chances that the said Form being misused by the revisionist by subsequently using he same for importing machines on subsequent occasion, and therefore, in exercise of power under Section 15A of the Act, 1948, penalty was imposed.

13. The revisionist has submitted that he had filed a detailed explanation indicating that the said transaction was not taxable and it is only due to human error that the driver was not carrying the relevant documents and subsequently the declaration Form-31 and other relevant documents were produced before the assessing authority at the very first instance. Thus, there was no intention to evade tax.

14. The First Appellate Authority accepted the submissions of the revisionist and only on this score reduced the penalty amount. Being aggrieved by the findings recorded by the First Appellate Authority, the revenue preferred second appeal before the Tribunal. It is relevant to note that the Tribunal rejected the appeal preferred by the revenue and has not interfered with the findings of fact recorded by the First Appellate Authority in this regard, inasmuch as, the Tribunal has also up held the finding of First Appellate Authority that the machine when not found in working condition was returned back, meaning thereby that the revisionist could not had gained any thing from the said transaction.

15. The only reason for up holding the reduced penalty is a finding recorded by the Tribunal that by not carrying the relevant documents indicates the intention of the revisionist to evade tax.

16. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, it is clear that the First Appellate Authority has recorded findings of fact that the goods were being imported for production of non taxable goods and therefore import of said machine is not liable to be taxed. Secondly, that the said machine was not found in working condition and therefore the same was returned to M/s Disha Enterprises, therefore there was no sale on which such penalty can be imposed.

17. Aforesaid facts, in the opinion of this Court, should have been considered by the Tribunal in their proper perspective and in case explanation given by the revisionist are accepted, then it is clear that it indicates that there was no intention to evade tax. Though the Tribunal was not relying on any document which may have given rise of any occasion for the assessing authority to initiate such proceedings,but looking into the fact that the revisionist at the very first instance produced the entire documents before the assessing authority, indicates that the revisionist fulfilled all the conditions as prescribed under the Act, 1948 and even then penalty has been imposed by the assessing authority.

18. Learned counsel for the revisionist has placed reliance on the judgment in the case of Commissioner of Sales Tax Vs. S/S Haring India Limited, Mohan Nagar, Ghaziabad, 1988 UPTC 1343, wherein the Court in para 8 of the judgment has observed as under :

"8. The provisions of Section 28-A (6) as it stood at the material time have been a subject matter of consideration by a Division Bench of this Court in Jain Shudh Vanaspati Ltd. Ghaziabad v. State of U.P. and others, 1983 UPTC (1) 198. Commenting upon the provision contained in Section 28-A as it stands after enactment of U.P. Act No. 33 of 1979, with which we are concerned, it was observed as under :

"The provision contained in Section 28-A as it stands after enactment of U.P. Act No. 33 of 1979 are materially different. It cannot be said that there is any assumption underlying therein that the goods to which the provision of Section 28-A applies has actually been sold inside the State and the section does not authorise the sales tax authorities either to seize the said goods or to penalise the importer thereof on any such assumption. Its present basis is the attempt to evade tax. The power to detain the goods and levy penalty in respect thereof cannot be exercised merely for the reason that the said goods were not accompanied by the requisite documents or that the documents accompanying them were false. This power can be exercised only if the goods detained are not accompanied by the requisite documents or that the documents accompanying themm are false and if there is material before the detaining authority to indicate that the goods are being imported in an attempt to evade assessment or payment of tax due or likely to be due under the Act."

At another place it was again observed as under :

"These provisions make it absolutely clear that the power to seize and detain the goods under sub-section (6) of Section 28-A cannot be exercised merely because the goods, when they reach the check post, were not accompanied by the declaration form contemplated by Section 28-A(1). The real occasion to detain the goods under sub-Section (6) arises only if the goods are not accompanied by the requisite documents and thee is material before the Check Post Officer on which he can reasonably record a satisfaction that the person importing the goods was attempting to evade assessment or payment of sales tax due or likely to be due."

19. The revisionist has further relied upon the judgment passed by the Uttrakhand High Court in the case of M/s Polyplex Corporation Limited Vs. Commissioner of Trade Tax, 2003 NTN

(Vol. 23) 1061, where the Court has relied on various judgment passed by this Court has concluded that there should be clear finding of fact by the concerned authority that the goods were been transported with intention to evade tax due or likely to be due under the Act and unless such a finding is recorded no penalty can be imposed.

20. Considering the submissions of learned counsel for the parties as well as various legal pronouncements discussed above, it is clear that there was no clear finding recorded by the authorities concerned to the effect that there was intention to evade tax under the Act. The finding of fact recorded by the Tribunal have not been rebutted by the revenue and therefore they have attained finality.

21. It is clear that the machine in question was found not in working condition and has been returned back and even otherwise no concluded transaction took place on which penalty could have been imposed by the revenue.

22. In the light of the above, the revision succeeds and impugned order dated 02.01.2010, passed by the Tribunal is hereby set aside.

23. The revision stands allowed.

Afzal by which application of the revisionist under Section 83 has been rejected on the ground that relief of eviction of defendant-tenant from Waqf property and for recovery of rent, arrears and damages is not maintainable before the Waqf Tribunal and for this relief the petitioner-applicant would have to approach the Civil Court, as, the suit is not covered by the disputes specified in Section 6 and 7 of U.P. 3. In taking this view the Tribunal has been persuaded by the decisions of the Supreme Court reported in (2010) 8 SCC 726; Ramesh Gobindram (dead) through LRs. Vs. Sugra Humayun Mirza Waqf, (2015) 3 SCC (Civ) 419; Faseela M. Vs. Munnerul Islam Madrasa Committee and Anr. and a decision of the Allahabad High Court in the case of Haji Ali Akbar Vs. Waqf Alal-Allah/Alal Khair Waqf rendered on 24.01.2019 in Petition No. 330 of 2019.

4. On a bare perusal of the aforesaid decisions the Court finds that all the said decisions pertain to a factual scenario existing prior to the amendment in Section 83 of the Waqf Act, 1995 by Act No. 27 of 2013 and the proceedings in question had been initiated prior to the said amendment. By the Act 27 of 2013 the following provision has been substituted as Section 83(1):-

"(1) The State Government shall, by notification in the Official Gazette, constitute as many Tribunals as it may think fit, for the determination of any dispute, question or other matter relating to a waqf or waqf property, eviction of a tenant or determination of rights and obligations of the lessor and the lessee of such property, under this Act and define the local limits and jurisdiction of such Tribunals."

5. The amending Act of 2013 has come into effect w.e.f. 01.11.2013 as per Notification dated 29.10.2013 which reads as under:-

"In exercise of the powers conferred by sub-section (2) of Section 1 of the Wakf (Amendment) Act, 2013 (No. 27 of 2013), the Central Government hereby appoints the 1st day of November, 2013 as the date on which the provisions of the said Act shall come into force."

6. In view of the amended provision Tribunals are empowered for determination of any dispute, question or other matter relating to a waqf or waqf property, eviction of a tenant or determination of rights and obligations of the lessor and the lessee of such property, under the Act, 1995. The amended provision has not been taken note of by the Tribunal and it has erred in relying upon decisions which are not based on the amended provision but are based on the provision existing prior to the amendment.

7. The Waqf Tribunal at Lucknow has been constituted by Notification dated 03.03.2014 subsequent to the aforesaid amendment of 2013.

8. Reference may also be made to Paragraph 45 to 47 of a recent decision of the Supreme Court reported in (2019) 4 SCC 698; Punjab Wakf Board Vs. Sham Singh Harike which was placed before the Court by Sri Q.H. Rizvi which read as under:-

"45. Section 83 sub-section (1) has been substituted by Act 27 of 2013. Substituted sub-section (1) is as follows:

"83. Constitution of Tribunals, etc. - (1) The State Government shall, by notification in the Official Gazette, constitute as many Tribunals as it may think fit, for the determination of any dispute, question or other matter relating to a waqf or waqf property, eviction of a tenant or determination of rights and obligations of the lessor and the lessee of such property, under this Act and define the local limits and jurisdiction of such Tribunals."

46. Section 83 sub-section (1) specifically includes eviction of a tenant or determination of rights or obligations of the lessor and lessee of such property.

47. In both the suits giving rise to these appeals the suits were filed much before the amendment of Section 83 by Act 27 of 2013. We, thus, in the present case have to interpret Section 83 as it existed prior to the above Amendment, 2013."

9. In the aforesaid case the Supreme Court was judging the validity of legal proceedings initiated prior to the amendment of 2013, as such, though it took notice of the amendment of 2013, it considered the pre amendment provisions.

10. Section 85 of the Act, 1995 relating to Bar of jurisdiction of Civil Court is as under:-

"85. Bar of jurisdiction of civil courts.- No suit or other legal proceeding shall lie in any civil court, revenue court and any other authority in respect of any dispute, question or other matter relating to any waqf, waqf property or other matter which is required by or under this Act to be determined by a Tribunal."

11. In this regard Para 53 of the decision of the Supreme Court in Punjab Wakf Board (supra) is relevant and it is as under:-

"53. Coming to Section 83 which relates to bar of jurisdiction in civil court, the relevant words are "any dispute, question or other matter relating to a wakf or wakf property" which is required by or under this Act to be determined by the Tribunal. Thus, bar of jurisdiction of civil court is confined only to those matters which are required to be determined by the Tribunal under this Act. Thus, the civil court shall have jurisdiction to entertain the suit and proceedings which are not required by or under the 1995 Act to be determined. Thus, answering the question of jurisdiction, question has to be asked whether the issue raised in the suit or proceeding is required to be decided under the 1995 Act by the Tribunal, under any provision or not. In the event, the answer is affirmative, the bar of jurisdiction of civil court shall operate."

12. On being confronted with the aforesaid legal position consequent to amendment of Section 83 w.e.f. 01.11.2013, the learned counsel for the opposite parties could not show that the legal position was otherwise.

13. In view of the above, the order dated 04.10.2019 is hereby quashed. The proceedings shall now stand revived before the Waqf Tribunal and shall be considered and disposed of as per law with expedition.

14. This Court appreciates the valuable assistance provided by Sri Q. H. Rizvi, learned Advocate in the matter.

15. The revision under Section 83(9) of the Act, 1995 is allowed in the aforesaid terms.

16. The Senior Registrar of this Court at Lucknow shall communicate this order to the Waqf Tribunal at Lucknow.

A. Criminal Law-Indian Penal Code-Section 302/34 -Appeal against conviction.

The law is well settled that the testimony of a witness cannot be discredited only on the ground that the witnesses are related or interested. The only requirement is that the testimony of such witness should be scrutinized cautiously and carefully. (Para 35)

It would be hard to believe that the close relatives shall leave the real culprit and shall implicate innocent persons falsely simply because they have enmity with the accused persons. (Para 48)

If the direct testimony of eye witnesses is reliable, the same cannot be rejected on the basis of hypothetical medical evidence, and the ocular evidence, if reliable, should be preferred over medical evidence. (Para 57)

The settled principle is that if there is some difference of such nature between the ocular testimony and medical evidence, ocular testimony being direct evidence will be preferred over the medical evidence. Both the eye-witnesses have clearly proved the time of death as they have stated that when the accused persons ran away after committing the offence. (Para 59)

Motive is not a sine qua non for the commission of a crime. Moreover, it takes a back seat in a case of direct ocular account of the commission of the offence by a particular person. In a case of direct evidence the element of motive does not play such an important role so as to cast any doubt on the credibility of the prosecution witnesses even if there be any doubt raised in this regard. Failure to prove motive or absence of evidence on the point of motive would not be fatal to the prosecution case when the other reliable evidence available on record unerringly establishes the guilt of the accused. (Para 64)

In a case of direct evidence the element of motive does not play such an important role as to cast any doubt on the credibility of the prosecution witnesses even if there be any doubts raised in this regard. If the eye-witnesses are trustworthy, the motive attributed for the commission of crime may not be of much relevance. Failure to prove motive or absence of evidence on the point of motive would not be fatal to the prosecution case when the other reliable evidence available on record unerringly establishes the guilt of the accused. (Para 69)

Minor contradictions, inconsistencies, embellishments or improvements on trivial matters which do not affect the core of the prosecution case, should not be made a ground on which the evidence can be rejected in its entirety. (Para 77)

Undoubtedly, delay in lodging FIR does not make the complainant's case improbable when such delay is properly explained. (Para 81)

It is settled law that the FIR is not supposed to contain all details of prosecution version. It is spontaneously written what comes in the mind of informant. The only requirement is that at the time of lodging FIR, the informant should state all those facts which normally strike to mind and help in assessing the gravity of the crime or identity of the culprit briefly. (Para 83)

The injuries found on the body of the deceased person find support from the medical evidence by which the date and time of causing the injuries is very much corroborated. There is no substantial contradiction or discrepancies in the evidence of the prosecution and some of the minor contradiction and discrepancies which have been discussed above goes to establish the reliability of the witnesses and that also shows that they are not tutored. Thus, the witnesses examined by prosecution are natural, credible and trustworthy. (Para 86)

Criminal Appeal rejected. (E-2)

1. This criminal appeal has been filed against the judgment dated 03.1.1986 in Sessions Trial No. 66 of 1984, State Vs. Pahalwan & others, passed by 1st Additional Sessions Judge, Jhansi by which the appellants Pahalwan Singh, Nathu Singh, Brij Kishore alias Pappu and Har Narain have been convicted and sentenced under Section 302/34 IPC for life imprisonment.

2. During pendency of appeal, appellant no. 3 Brij Kishore alias Pappu and appellant no. 4-Har Narain died and vide order dated 25.1.2018 of this Court, their appeal has been abated.

3. The appellant no. 2 Nathu Singh despite every process being issued did not appear nor he was arrested nor there was any trace of his sureties and hence vide order dated 04.7.2019 of this Court, Sri Rahul Mishra, Advocate has been appointed as Amicus Curiae to argue on behalf of appellant no. 2 Nathu Singh. Again by order dated 19.8.2019, Sri Harish Chandra Tiwari has been appointed as Amicus Curiae in place of Sri Rahul Mishra.

4. Brief facts of the case are that an FIR was lodge by Lakhan Lal Yadav at PS Prem Nagar on 03.2.1984 at 6.50 AM alleging that he resides in House No. 299, Nainagarh. On 03.2.1984 at about 5.30 AM his father Amrat Lal had gone to the latrine to ease himself, the informant was feeding his buffalo and thereafter, he also went to latrine to ease himself where he saw in the light of his torch that accused Pahalwan armed with a Sabbal (an iron rod used for digging), Har Narain, Brij Kishore and Nathu Singh armed with lathi in their hands were beating his father. The informant shouted for help whereupon, his younger brother Ram Sewak and several other persons reached there. Seeing them, the accused persons ran away from the place. All the accused persons were identified by the witnesses in the light of torch. They found that Amrat Lal was already died. The deceased Amrat Lal and accused Ram Charan are real brothers and accused Pahalwan is son-in-law of accused Ram Charan. Accused Pahalwan was dismissed from his railway service and he believed that on the complaint of Amrat Lal, the action was taken against him and because of that he was having enmity with Amrat Lal. Accused Ram Charan had hatched a conspiracy for his murder and after conspiracy in order to create defence of alibi, he got admitted himself in a hospital. The informant had seen the accused Ram Charan on 02.2.1984 at about 5.00 PM and he suspected that Ram Charan had conspired in murder of Amrat Lal. The accused persons are relatives and close associates of each other and they committed murder of Amrat Lal.

5. On the basis of this report, the offence was registered by the police. The inquest report was prepared and the postmortem of dead body was conducted. The accused persons were arrested and blood stained Tahmad of accused Brij Kishore alias Pappu was recovered from his possession at his instance, whereas when accused Pahalwan was arrested, he was wearing blood stained Bushirt and Pant. On his instance, the blood stained Sabbal was also recovered. All these articles were taken into possession by the police and were sent for chemical examination. The statements of witnesses were recorded by the Investigating Officer and after completion of investigation, charge sheet was submitted against accused Ram Charan, Brij Kishore alias Pappu, Pahalwan, Har Narain, Nathu and Veer Singh for the offence under section 302/120-B IPC.

Reovery of blood stained Tahmad, blood stained Sabbal, pant and shirt has also been denied. The accused persons have stated that they have been falsely implicated due to enmity. Accused Nathhu has stated that he has been falsely implicated because of enmity with one Dashrath, accused Har Narain stated that he was arrested from his house which is situated about 16-17 km away from the place of occurrence and he has been falsely implicated on account of relationship with Ram Charan. Accused Ram Charan has stated that he was ill on the date of incident and was admitted in a hospital and because of enmity, he has been falsely implicated. Accused Veer Singh has stated that he has been falsely implicated as there is no evidence against him. No defence evidence was given from the side of accused persons.

9. After hearing learned counsel for the accused persons and learned D.G.C. (Criminal) and after perusing the record, the learned trial court acquitted Ram Charan and Veer Singh from the charges and convicted the appellants.

10. Aggrieved by said judgement, this appeal has been filed on the ground that conviction is against the weight of evidence on record and against the law and the sentence awarded is too severe.

11. Heard Sri Rahul Mishra assisted by Sri Raghuvansh Mishra, learned counsel for appellant no. 1, Sri H.C. Tiwari, Amicus Curiae for appellant no. 2 and learned A.G.A. for the State.

12. The submission of the learned counsel/Amicus Curiae for the appellants is that both the eyewitnesses examined by the prosecution are real brothers and sons of the deceased and are partisan witnesses and because of inimical relations, they have given false evidence against accused-appellants. Their testimony is contradictory and they have made improvements. The place of occurrence is not proved and the presence of alleged eyewitnesses is highly doubtful on the place and at the time of occurrence. Two accused persons have been acquitted on the basis of same evidence and the incriminatory articles shown to have been recovered from the accused are planted and false.

13. On the contrary, the learned AGA has submitted that FIR has been lodged promptly naming the accused persons, two eyewitnesses have supported the prosecution version and the learned trial court has rightly convicted and sentenced the accused-appellants on the basis of evidence on record.

14. The only question which is required to be addressed and determined in this appeal is whether the conclusion of guilt arrived at by the learned trial court and the sentence awarded is legal and sustainable under law and suffers from no infirmity and perversity.

15. The prosecution examined PW-1 Lakhan Lal who proved written report as Ext. Ka-1 and as eye witness he gave statement with regard to the commission of offence. He has also proved the letter of Amrat Lal sent to S.P. Jhansi showing his apprehension that accused might cause harm to him which is Ext. Ka-2 along with certificate of posting Ext. Ka-3, letter of Amrat Lal sent to Divisional Railway Manager, dated 17.8.1982 Ext. Ka-4, letter of Amarat Lal sent to Divisional Railway Manager dated 11.11.1982 Ext. Ka-5 and memo of torch Ext. Ka-6. He has also identified Lota as material Ext. 1, two pants, two jarkins and one shirt of deceased as material Ext. 2 to 6, the Tahmad of Brij Kishore and the pant and shirt of Pahalwan as material Ext.- 7, 9 and 10 and the Sabbal which was used by the accused Pahalwan as weapon for offence material Ext.- 8. He has further stated that the accused Ramcharan is the brother of deceased Amratlal, accused Brij Kishore is son, accused Veer Singh is brother-in-law, Nathu is nephew (bhanja), accused Pahalwan is son-in-law of accused Ramcharan, whereas accused Har Narain is brother-in-law of accused Brij Kishore. PW-1 has stated that about one and three months before, at about 5-5.30 AM, his father Amrat Lal had gone to ease himself. After sometimes, he also went to ease himself. He heard some sound and in the light of torch, he saw that the accused persons Pahalwan having sabbal in hand, Nathu, Har Narain and Brij Kishore having lathi in their hands, were beating his father. He cried whereupon his younger brother Ramsewak and others reached there. The accused persons ran away from there. They went nearer and found Amrat Lal dead. He lodged FIR by giving a written report which was inscribed by one Dashrath on his dictation. The witness has further stated that about 3 years before accused Pahalwan committed marpeet with his father about which his father sent a complaint to SP and other authorities. His father also complained to the Railway Authorities about accused Pahalwan on the basis of which, he was removed from service. On account of this enmity, his father was killed by the accused persons.

16. PW-2 Ramsewak has also stated that on the shout of his brother, he reached there and saw the accused persons beating his father. Accused Pahalwan was having sabbal and others were having lathi in there hands. He saw this in the light of torch of his brother Lakhan. He found his father dead thereafter. He has also stated that accused Ramcharan had enmity with deceased and because of that and on his instigation the accused persons killed his father.

17. PW-3 Atar Singh is the witness of memo of Lota Ext. Ka-7, memo of blood stained and plain earth Ext. Ka-8, container of blood stained and plain earth material Ext. 12 & 13 and has stated that all these exhibits were taken into possession by police from the place of occurrence and memo was prepared on which he signed as witness.

Five witnesses were appointed as panch and in their presence the inquest report was prepared and dead body was sealed. Necessary form and letters were prepared for postmortem and the same was handed over to constables. He has further stated that the lota of deceased (a kind of pot for carrying water) mat. Ext.1 was also found there which was taken into possession, sealed and memo was prepared. Blood stained and plain earth was lifted from the place of occurrence, sealed and memo was prepared. All these articles were deposited in the PS on the same day at 3.35 PM vide GD no. 27 Ext. Ka-22. The witness is also a witness of arrest of accused Pahalwan and the recovery of blood stained shirt and pant he was wearing which were sealed and memo prepared and broght and deposited in the PS on the same day on 4.50 PM vide GD report Ext. He arrested accused Brij Kishore on 10.30 AM from Hardol chabutara on 3.2.1984 and on the same day accused Ramcharan was admitted in St. Jude's Hospital, who on being inquired, said that he is not well and therefore, after getting him discharged, he was sent to Civil Hospital. On being asked, accused Brij Kishore said that he can get his tahamad recovered he was wearing at the time of incident. He took him to his house and got recovered the same which he had concealed below his bedding. The same was sealed and memo was prepared. He also took statements of witnesses Sarjeet, Ramsewak and other witnesses. He inspected place of occurrence and prepared site map. The torch of Lakhanlal was taken in possession and after preparing memo, the same was duly returned to him. The recovered articles and accused Brij Kishore was admitted in Police Station. He also examined accused Pahalwan in the Police Station who made statement that he has concealed the weapon which was used in commission of offence and on his instance, IO got the sabbal recovered from Raidas Temple chabutara from below the sand. The sabbal was sealed which is Ext.-8 and memo was prepared which is Ext. Ka-10. Of both recoveries, he prepared site map and sealed articles were deposited in Police Station. He also examined accused Veer Singh and other witnesses in the Police Station itself. Accused Nathu surrendered on 8.2.1984 in the court who was examined in jail. Treatment papers of accused Ramcharan was obtained and after completing investigation, charge-sheet was submitted by him. He has further stated that incriminating articles recovered from the place of occurrence and during investigation was sent for chemical examination.

26. The learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the two witnesses of fact PW-1 Lakhan Lal Yadav and PW-2 Ramsewak Yadav have been wrongly relied upon by the learned trial court and they could not be believed as they are real sons of deceased and highly interested witnesses. There presence at the place of occurrence is doubtful at the time of incident as there is material contradiction, discrepancy and improvements in their statement. It has been stated by PW-1 that on his shout, his brother PW-2 and other 3-4 persons of the locality reached there, but none of such persons has been made witness nor any of them has been examined.

27. We have considered the above arguments in the light of evidence on record. Only PW-1 has stated that with PW-2, some persons of locality reached there. PW-2 has not stated as such. In the cross-examination, PW-1 has said that he did not recognize who were the persons reaching there. He has further said that he is not able to say whether they reached there when accused were beating his father or soon after the incident. He has further stated that after one or two hours, he saw some persons coming there. PW-2 has positively stated that except him, none reached there hearing the shout of his brother. It is pertinent to mention that in the charge-sheet, the IO has not shown any other eyewitness which means that either none came there at the time of incident or even if came, did not offer to be witness. It may be mentioned that people avoid becoming witness and giving evidence in such kind of cases. Life is complicated and none wants it to be more complicated. The submission with regards to non-examination or non-availability of independent witness is concerned, it is hardly relevant in view of unimpeachable testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 who have fully supported the prosecution version. In Bhagwan Jagannath Markad Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2016) 10 SCC 537 and Mukesh v State of NCT of Delhi, AIR 2017 SC 2161, it has been held that if a witness examined in the court is otherwise found reliable and trustworthy, the fact sought to be proved by that witness need not be further proved through other witnesses though there may be other witnesses available who could have been examined but were not examined. Non-examination of material witness is not a mathematical formula for discarding the weight of the testimony available on record however natural, trustworthy and convincing it may be. It is settled law that non-examination of eye-witness cannot be pressed into service like a ritualistic formula for discarding the prosecution case with a stroke of pen. Court can convict an accused on statement of sole witness even if he is relative of the deceased and non examination of independent witness would not be fatal to the case of prosecution.

28. The witnesses have been put to rigorous cross-examination on the point of deceased whether eased out or easing when killed, he got the opportunity to wear his pant and wash himself, where he eased out in the joint latrine or outside, whether his latrine was found there and his private part was found to have been washed, who pulled up his pant, whether the deceased was wearing underwear or LANGOT (a kind of underwear), whether his latrine got pasted on his clothes and the like, and on this basis, attempt has been made to show contradiction in the statement of witnesses. In a criminal incident like this, such contradiction or discrepancy is insignificant and meaningless, as it is not possible for witnesses to keep focus on such silly things while beholding a crime, particularly when the target of such crime is one's father himself.

29. The Supreme Court in Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v. State of Gujarat AIR 1983 SC 753 has laid down following principles to appreciate the testimony of eyewitnesses:

"(1) By and large a witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident. It is not as if a video tape is replayed an the mental screen. (2) Ordinarily it so happens that a witness is overtaken by events, The witness could not have anticipated the occurrence which so often has an element of surprise. The mental faculties therefore cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb the details. (3) The powers of observation differ from person to person. What one may notice, another may not. An object or movement might emboss its image on one person's mind, whereas it might go unnoticed on the part of another. (4) By and large people cannot accurately recall a conversation and reproduce the very words used by them or heard by them. They can only recall the main purport of the conversation. It is unrealistic to expect a witness to be a human tape recorder. (5) In regard to exact time of an incident, or the time duration of an occurrence, usually, people make their estimates by guesswork on the spur of the moment at the time of interrogation. And one cannot expect people to make very precise or reliable estimates in such matters. Again, it depends on the time-sense of individuals which varies from person to person. (6) Ordinarily a witness cannot be expected to recall accurately the sequence of events which take place in rapid succession or in a short time span. A witness is liable to get confused, or mixed up when interrogated later on. (7) A witness, though wholly truthful, is liable to be overawed by the Court atmosphere and the piercing cross-examination made by counsel and out of nervousness mix up facts, get confused regarding sequence of events, or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment. The sub-conscious mind of the witness sometimes so operates on account of the fear of looking foolish or being disbelieved though the witness is giving a truthful and honest account of the occurrence witnessed by him - perhaps it is a sort of a psychological defence mechanism activated on the spur of the moment."

The Supreme Court, therefore, held:

"Discrepancies which do not go to the root of the matter and shake the basic version of the witnesses, therefore cannot be annexed with undue importance. More so when the all important "probabilities-factor" echoes in favour of the version narrated by the witnesses."

30. In Ugar Ahir v. State of Bihar, AIR 1965 SC 277, it held:

"The maxim falsus in uno, falsu in omnibus (false in one thing, false in everything) is neither a sound rule of law nor a rule of practice. Hardly one comes across a witness whose evidence does not contain a grain of untruth or at any rate exaggerations, embroideries or embellishments. It is, therefore, the duty of the court to scrutinise the evidence carefully and, in terms of the felicitous metaphor, separate the grain from the chaff. But, it cannot obviously disbelieve the substratum of the prosecution case or the material parts of the evidence and reconstruct a story of its own out of the rest."

31. In State of UP v Anil Singh, 1988 (Supp.) SCC 686, it has been held by the Supreme Court that a Judge does not preside over a criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished. A Judge also presides to see that a guilty man does not escape from punishment. One is as important as the other. Both are public duties which the judge has to perform. Again, in Harijana Thirupala v. Public Prosecutor, High Court of AP, (2002) 6 SCC 470, it has been ruled as under:

"..In appreciating the evidence the approach of the court must be integrated not truncated or isolated. In other words, the impact of the evidence in totality on the prosecution case or innocence of the accused has to be kept in mind in coming to the conclusion as to the guilt or otherwise of the accused. In reaching a conclusion about the guilt of the accused, the court has to appreciate, analyse and assess the evidence placed before it by the yardstick of probabilities, its intrinsic value and the animus of witnesses."

32. In Krishna Mochi v. State of Bihar, (2002) 6 SCC 81, the Supreme Court of India again laid emphasis on realistic approach to be adopted by the criminal courts while appreciating evidence in criminal trial and said:

"The court while appreciating the evidence should not lose sight of these realities of life and cannot afford to take an unrealistic approach by sitting in an ivory tower. I find that in recent times the tendency to acquit an accused easily is galloping fast. It is very easy to pass an order of acquittal on the basis of minor points raised in the case by a short judgement so as to achieve the yardstick of disposal. Some discrepancy is bound to be there in each and every case which should not weigh with the court so long it does not materially affect the prosecution case. In case discrepancies pointed out are in the realm of pebbles, the court should tread upon it, but if the same are boulders, the court should not make an attempt to jump over the same. These days when crime is looming large and humanity is suffering and the society is so much affected thereby, duties and responsibilities of the courts have become much more. Now the maxim "let hundred guilty persons be acquitted, but not a single innocent be convicted" is, in practice, changing the world over and courts have been compelled to accept that "society suffers by wrong convictions and it equally suffers by wrong acquittals". I find that this Court in recent times has conscientiously taken notice of these facts from time to time."

33. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the alleged witnesses produced by the prosecution are family members, as such, they are interested witnesses. The conviction of the appellants is primarily based on the statement of these witnesses, and therefore, is liable to be set-aside. On the contrary, learned counsel appearing for the State has argued that there was sufficient documentary and expert evidence on record. The natural witnesses who were present at the spot at the time of occurrence were examined by the prosecution. The version of the eyewitnesses cannot be doubted. Their presence on the place of occurrence was natural and they had no reason to falsely implicate all or any of the accused in the case. It is contended that the version of the eyewitnesses is fully supported by the medical/forensic evidence, recovery of incriminatory articles and the statement of the Investigating Officer.

34. So far as the issue of related and interested witnesses is concerned, it has been submitted that both the fact witnesses are related witnesses and because of enmity there is all possibility that in order to frame the accused persons for the charge they have given evidence against them. It is not disputed that both the eyewitnesses are real brothers and sons of the deceased. But this cannot be a reason to disbelieve their testimony. Both lived with the deceased in the same house and in the same locality where the criminal incident took place. Their presence at the scene of occurrence is natural. The submission of the learned counsel for the appellant is that both these witnesses are related and highly interested witnesses as they are the real brothers and the deceased was their father. The plea of defence of false implication on account of enmity and family dispute has been rightly disbelieved by the learned trial court in absence of any cogent evidence. Moreover, these accused persons were close relatives and family members, or closely associated with them, and there is no reason why they will be falsely implicated by complainant side.

35. So far as first part of the argument with regards to the testimony of interested witness is concerned, there is no hard and fast rule that family members can never be true witnesses of the occurrence and they will always depose falsely before the Court. It always depends upon the facts and circumstances of a given case. The law in this regard is well settled that the testimony of a witness cannot be discredited only on the ground that the witnesses are related or interested. The only requirement is that the testimony of such witness should be scrutinized cautiously and carefully. Thus, the only requirement regarding evidence of related witnesses, under law, is that their evidence should be scrutinized with extra care and caution. But their evidence cannot be discarded only on the ground of their relationship.

36. The appreciation of evidence of related witnesses has been discussed by the Supreme Court in its various judgements. In Dalip Singh v. State of Punjab (1954) SCR 145, while rejecting the argument that witnesses who are close-relatives of the victim should not be relied upon, the Court held as under:

"A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalisation. Each case must be judged on its own facts. Our observations are only made to combat what is so often put forward in cases before us as a general rule of prudence. There is no such general rule. Each case must be limited to and be governed by its own facts."

37. In Masalti V. State of U.P. (AIR 1965 SC 202) Supreme Court Observed:

"But it would, we think, be unreasonable to contend that evidence given by witnesses should be discarded only on the ground that it is evidence of partisan or interested witnesses. ... The mechanical rejection of such evidence on the sole ground that it is partisan would invariably lead to failure of justice."

38. The Supreme Court has also taken the view that related witness does not necessarily mean or is equivalent to an interested witness. A witness may be called interested only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of litigation; a decree in a civil case, or in seeing a person punished in a criminal trial. In Darya Singh v State of Punjab, AIR 1965 SC 328, followed by State of UP v Kishanpal (2008) 16 SCC 73, the Court held as under:

"On principle, however, it is difficult to accept the plea that if a witness is shown to be a relative of the deceased and it is also shown that he shared the hostility of the victim towards the assailant, his evidence can never be accepted unless it is corroborated on material particulars."

39. Again, in Appa v. State of Gujarat, AIR 1988 SC 698, the Court has observed:

"Experience reminds us that civilized people are generally insensitive when crime is committed even in their presence. They withdraw from both, victim and vigilant. They keep themselves away from the Court. They take crime as a civil dispute. This kind of apathy of general public is indeed unfortunate but it is everywhere whether in village life or town and city. One cannot ignore this handicap. Evidence of witnesses has to be appreciated keeping in view such ground realities. Therefore, the Court instead of doubting the prosecution case where no independent witness has been examined must consider the broad spectrum of the prosecution version and then search for the nugget of truth with due regard to probability, if any suggested by the accused."

40. Similar view was taken in State of AP v S. Rayappa (2006) 4 SCC 512, where the court observed that it is now almost a fashion that public is reluctant to appear and depose before the court especially in criminal cases and the cases for that reason itself are dragged for years and years. The Court stated the principle as follows:

" ....by now, it is a well-established principle of law that testimony of a witness otherwise inspiring confidence cannot be discarded on the ground that he being a relation of the deceased is an interested witness. A close relative who is a very natural witness cannot be termed as interested witness. The term interested postulates that the person concerned must have some direct interest in seeing the accused person being convicted somehow or the other either because of animosity or some other reasons."

41. Further, in Pulicherla Nagaraju @ Nagaraja Reddy v. State of AP (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 500, the Supreme Court has held as under:

"In this case, we find that the trial court had rejected the evidence of PW1 and PW2 merely because they were interested witnesses being the brother and father of the deceased. But it is well settled that evidence of a witness cannot be discarded merely on the ground that he is either partisan or interested or closely related to the deceased, if it is otherwise, found to be trustworthy and credible. It only requires scrutiny with more care and caution, so that neither the guilty escape nor the innocent wrongly convicted. If on such careful scrutiny, the evidence is found to be reliable and probable, it can be acted upon. If it is found to be improbable or suspicious, it ought to be rejected. Where the witness has a motive to falsely implicate the accused, his testimony should have corroboration in regard to material particulars before it is accepted."

42. Similarly, in Satbir Singh v State of UP, (2009) 13 SCC 790, the Court has held as under:-

"It is now a well-settled principle of law that only because the witnesses are not independent ones may not by itself be a ground to discard the prosecution case. If the prosecution case has been supported by the witnesses and no cogent reason has been shown to discredit their statements, a judgment of conviction can certainly be based thereupon……"

43. The aforementioned observation of Masalti (supra) has been affirmingly quoted in subsequent judgements. Thus, for instance, in M.C. Ali v. State of Kerala:: AIR 2010 SC 1639; and Himanshu v. State (NCT of Delhis, (2011) 2 SCC 36, Bhajan Singh and others Vs. State of Haryana; (2011) 7 SCC 421, it was laid down that evidence of a related witness can be relied upon provided it is trustworthy. Such evidence is required to be carefully scrutinised and appreciated before reaching to a conclusion on the conviction of the accused in a given case.

44. Again, in Jayabalan v U.T. of Pondicherry; 2010(68) ACC 308 (SC), the Supreme Court has made following observation:

"We are of the considered view that in cases where the court is called upon to deal with the evidence of the interested witnesses, the approach of the court, while appreciating the evidence of such witnesses must not be pedantic. The court must be cautious in appreciating and accepting the evidence given by the interested witnesses but the court must not be suspicious of such evidence. The primary endeavour of the court must be to look for consistency. The evidence of a witness cannot be ignored or thrown out solely because it comes from the mouth of a person who is closely related to the victim."

45. Dharnidhar v State of UP, (2010) 7 SCC 759 referred the above observation of Jaya Balan (supra) and held that there is no hard and fast rule that family members can never be true witnesses to the occurrence and that they will always depose falsely before the Court. It will always depend upon the facts and circumstances of a given case. Similar view was taken by this Court in Ram Bharosey v. State of UP AIR 2010 SC 917, where the Court stated the dictum of law that a close relative of the deceased does not, per se, become an interested witness. An interested witness is one who is interested in securing the conviction of a person out of vengeance or enmity or due to disputes and deposes before the Court only with that intention and not to further the cause of justice. The law relating to appreciation of evidence of an interested witness is well settled, according to which, the version of an interested witness cannot be thrown over- board, but has to be examined carefully before accepting the same. Thus the statements of the alleged interested witnesses can be safely relied upon by the Court in support of the prosecution's story. But this needs to be done with care and to ensure that the administration of criminal justice is not undermined by the persons, who are closely related to the deceased. When their statements find corroboration by other witnesses, expert evidence and the circumstances of the case clearly depict completion of the chain of evidence pointing out to the guilt of the accused, then we see no reason why the statement of so called `interested witnesses' cannot be relied upon by the Court.

46. Again, in Balraje @ Trimbak v State of Maharashtra, (2010) 6 SCC 673, it has been held that when the eye-witnesses are stated to be interested and inimically deposed against the accused, it would not be proper to conclude that they would shield the real culprit and rope in innocent person. The truth or otherwise of the evidence has to be weighed pragmatically. The Court would be required to analyse the evidence of related witnesses and those witnesses who are inimical towards the accused. But if after careful analysis and scrutiny of their evidence, the version given by the witnesses appears to be clear, cogent and credible, there is no reason to discard the same.

47. Subsequently, in Jalpat Rai v State of Haryana AIR 2011 SC 2719 and Waman v State of Maharashtra AIR 2011 SC 3327, it was observed that the over-insistence on witnesses having no relation with the victims often results in criminal justice going away. The testimony of a witness in a criminal trial cannot be discarded merely because the witness is a relative or family member of the victim of the offence. In such a case, court has to adopt a careful approach in analysing the evidence of such witness and if the testimony of the related witness is otherwise found credible, accused can be convicted on the basis of testimony of such related witness. This view has been reiterated in Shyam Babu v State of UP, AIR 2012 SC 3311, Dhari & Others v State of UP, AIR 2013 SC 308 and Bhagwan Jagannath Markad (supra). Recently, in Ganapathi v State of Tamilnadu, AIR 2018 SC 1635, the Court found no force in the argument that the conviction based on the evidence of family members in a murder trial is not sustainable. In Rupinder Singh Sandhu vs State of Punjab, (2018) 16 SCC 475, it has been reiterated by the Supreme Court that relationship by itself will not render the witness untrustworthy. The Supreme Court laid down as below:

"Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible. ..... A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth."

48. Thus, in view of aforementioned decisions of the Supreme Court, it is now a settled position of law that the statements of the interested witnesses can be safely relied upon by the court in support of the prosecution story. But this needs to be done with care and to ensure that the administration of criminal justice is not undermined by the persons who are closely related to the deceased. When their statements find corroboration by other evidence, expert evidence and the circumstances of the case clearly depict completion of the chain of evidence pointing out to the guilt of the accused, then there is no reason as to why the statement of so-called 'interested witnesses' cannot be relied upon by the Court. It would be hard to believe that the close relatives shall leave the real culprit and shall implicate innocent persons falsely simply because they have enmity with the accused persons.

49. Now applying the principles discussed above, we find it true that PW-1 and PW-2 are the real brothers and son of the deceased. But, there is nothing in their statements which can create any amount of doubt, although, both have been cross-examined at length on every point very minutely. Both sides are close relatives and there is no reason for the witnesses to falsely implicate the accused persons in the said incident if the crime was committed by someone else. On the contrary, the accused persons did have enmity with deceased as on his complaint, Pahalwan was removed from service and he was son in law of accused Ramcharan and other accused persons are his son or closely related or associated. Both the eye-witnesses knew the accused persons who were beating the deceased and they recognized them in the light of torch. The time of incident is the time when people go out for easing. The presence of the deceased and PW-1 is not unnatural. PW-2 reached there on hearing the shout of PW-1. Both identified the accused persons and have also stated that accused Pahalwan was assaulting by sabbal and others were assaulting by lathi. There is no unnatural variation in their testimony so far as commission of the offence by accused-appellants is concerned. Both the witnesses were hardly 19 and 17 years in age respectively and belong to a very humble background and in such an age, it is not possible for them to plant and frame falsely the accused-appellants in such a crime, who were close relatives and had no personal grudge against them individually, except that their father was not in good terms with the accused Pahalwan. On critical analysis of their statements, we find that their account as eyewitness cannot be disbelieved and the learned trial court has rightly found them reliable and trustworthy.

50. It has been further mentioned by the learned counsel to the appellant that the deceased and his family were living elsewhere and therefore the presence of deceased and particularly, PW-1 and PW-2 is unnatural as the incident has been alleged to have taken place early in the morning. In support of this argument, a reference has been taken of the statement of PW-1 where he has stated that they started living in Awas Vikas Colony. From the very statement of PW-1, it is clear that the witness has stated "aap kab ki baat kar rahe hai" (of when you are talking) and then he has stated that prior to the incident when Pahalwan beat his father, they all with his father shifted to Awas Vikas Colony. This witness has clearly stated during his examination-in-chief that about two years nine months before, Pahalwan committed marpeet with his father about which a complaint was given to SP, Jhansi which is Ext. Ka-2. The above referred statement by the learned counsel can be related to this incident. It has been specifically stated by both the eyewitnesses that both the sides lived in the same locality and both the sides had joint latrine. The defence should have clarified from PW-1 whether they shifted for ever or not in view of the qualifying sentence "aap kab ki baat kar rahe hai." In Mahavir Singh Vs. State of Haryana, (2014) 6 SCC 716, it has been laid down that in case the question is not put to the witness in cross-examination who could furnish explanation on a particular issue, the correctness or legality of the said fact/issue could not be questioned. Moreover, it has been never the case of either side that the deceased and his family lived elsewhere. PW-1 has stated in detail about the houses in that locality and has also said that his house and house of accused Ramcharan is attached and behind the houses, there is open land through which one has to go to the said latrine. Thus, we do not find any substance in this argument.

51. Next limb of argument is the time of death and it has been argued with reference to the post-mortem report and statement of doctor that the deceased must have died in the midnight, much prior to the incident alleged by the prosecution. In his statement during cross-examination, the doctor has stated that it was more probable that the death might have taken place in the midnight at 12-01 AM as his bladder was empty and rectum was half filled. He has stated that if the deceased had not urinated, the bladder should have been full and if not eased, rectum should be full. Yellowish liquid indicates that the deceased might have taken some liquid substance just before death.

52. The law on the point of alleged discrepancies between ocular testimony and medical/post-mortem report needs to be discussed in brief here to arrive at correct conclusion. In Suresh Chandra Bahri Vs. State of Bihar, JT 1994 (4) SC 309 the Supreme Court referred "Modis Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology, 22nd Edition, pages 246, 247 which reads as under :

"Digestive conditions vary in individuals up to 2.5-6 hours depending upon healthy state of body, consistency of food motility of the stomach, osmotic pressure of the stomach contents, quantity of food in the duodenum, surroundings in which food is taken, emotional factors and residual variations and only very approximate time of death can be given."

53. In Solanki Chimanbhai Ukabhai vs State of Gujrat, AIR 1983 SC 484, it has been laid down:

"Ordinarily, the value of medical evidence is only corroborative. It proves that the injuries could have been caused in the manner alleged and nothing more. The use which the defence can make of the medical evidence is to prove that injuries could possibly have been caused in the manner alleged and thereby discredit the eye-witnesses. Unless, however, the medical evidence in its turn goes so far that it completely rules out all possibilities whatsoever of injuries taking place in the manner alleged by eye-witnesses, the testimony of eye-witnesses cannot be thrown out on the ground of alleged inconsistency between it and the medical evidence."

54. In Abdul Sayeed vs State of MP, 2010 (10) SCC 259 in which the above passage from Solanki (supra) has been quoted affirmingly to lay down:

"Thus, the position of law in cases where there is contradiction between medical evidence and ocular evidence can be crystallised to the effect that though the ocular testimony of a witness has greater evidentiary value vis-a-vis medical evidence, when medical evidence makes the ocular testimony improbable, that becomes a relevant factor in the process of evaluation of evidence. However, where medical evidence goes so far that it completely rules out all possibility of the ocular evidence being true, the ocular evidence may be disbelieved.".

55. In Krishnan Vs. State, AIR 2003 SC 2978, the supreme court considered the question how to reconcile where medical opinion suggesting alternative possibilities than ocular testimony? The court has observed:

" The ocular evidence being cogent, credible and trustworthy, minor variance, if any, with the medical evidence are not of any consequence. It would be erroneous to accord undue primacy to the hypothetical answers of medical witnesses to exclude the eye-witnesses' account which had to be tested independently. It is trite that where the eye witnesses' account is found credible and trustworthy, medical opinion pointing two alternative possibilities is not accepted as conclusive. Eye-witnesses account would require a careful independent assessment and evaluation for their credibility which should not be adversely prejudged making any other evidence, including medical evidence, as the sole touchstone for the test of such credibility."

56. Similarly, in Thamman Kumar v. State of Union Territory of Chandigarh, AIR 2003 SC 3975, the Supreme Court has explained the legal principle on the point by making following observation:

"There may be a case where there is total absence of injuries, which are normally caused by a particular weapon. There is another category where though the injuries found on the victim are of the type, which is possible by the weapon of assault, but the size and dimension of the injuries do not exactly tally with the size and dimension of the weapon. The third category can be where the injuries found on the victim are such which are normally caused by the weapon of assault but are not found on that portion of the body where they are deposed to have been caused by the eye-witnesses. The same kind of inference cannot be drawn in three categories of apparent conflict in oral and medical evidence enumerated above. In the first category it may legitimately be inferred that the oral evidence regarding assault having been made from a particular weapon is not truthful. However, in the second category and third category no such inference can straight-way be drawn. The manner and method of assault, the position of the victim, the resistance offered by him, the opportunity available to the witnesses to see the occurrence like their distance, presence of light and many other similar factors will have to be taken into consideration in judging the reliability of the ocular testimony."

57. The above view has been referred and quoted with approval in subsequent judgements. Thus, in Abdul Sayeed Vs. State of M.P, (2010) 10 SCC 259 Rakesh Vs. State of UP, 2012 (76) ACC 264 (SC) and Sadhu Saran Singh Vs. State of UP, (2016) 4 SCC 357, it has been held that if the direct testimony of eye witnesses is reliable, the same cannot be rejected on the basis of hypothetical medical evidence, and the ocular evidence, if reliable, should be preferred over medical evidence. Opinion given by a medical witness (doctor) need not be the last word on the subject. It is of only advisory character. Such an opinion shall be tested by the court. If the opinion is bereft of logic or objectivity, the court is not obliged to go by that opinion. If one doctor forms one opinion and another doctor forms a different opinion on the same fact, it is open to the Judge to adopt the view which is more objective or probable. Similarly if the opinion given by one doctor is not consistent with the probability, the court has no liability to go by the opinion merely because it is said by the doctor. Of course, due weight must be given to the opinions given by persons who are experts in the particular subject. Ocular evidence would have primacy unless established to be totally irreconcilable with the medical evidence. Testimony of ocular witness has greater evidentiary value.

58. The Supreme Court, while dealing with the medical evidence vis-a-vis eye-witness testimony, in Dayal Singh Vs. State of Uttaranchal, AIR 2012 SC 3046, has made observation that courts normally look at expert evidence with a greater sense of acceptability but it is equally true that the courts are not absolutely guided by the report of the experts especially if such reports are perfunctory, unsustainable and are the result of a deliberate attempt to misdirect the prosecution. Where the eye witness account is found credible and trustworthy, medical opinion pointing to alternative possibilities may not be accepted as conclusive. The expert witness is expected to put before the court all materials inclusive of the data which induced him to come to the conclusion and enlighten the court on the technical aspect of the case by examining the terms of science, so that the court, although not an expert, may form its own judgement on those materials after giving due regard to the expert's opinion because once the expert opinion is accepted it is not the opinion of the Medical Officer but that of the court. The skill and experience of an expert is the ethos of his opinion which itself should be reasoned and convincing. If the view of the expert has to find due weightage in the mind of the court, it has to be well authored and convincing.

59. In view of above, we are of the view that semi digested food found during post-mortem of the deceased person cannot be a decisive factor in the circumstances of the case to create doubt with regards to timing of death. The deceased was a railway employee and the daily routine, eating and sleeping habit of such person is governed by what duty he was performing at the time of death. It may also be noticed that many persons usually take tea or some liquid before going to ease out. It may also be noticed that because of uncertainty in the daily routine and the eating habit, constipation etc, it is always possible that rectum may not be clear in one time. Only on the basis that the doctor found rectum half filled at the time of post-mortem, it is not sufficient to show that the incident took place at a time much before what has been alleged by the prosecution. Moreover, the settled principle is that if there is some difference of such nature between the ocular testimony and medical evidence, ocular testimony being direct evidence will be preferred over the medical evidence. Both the eye-witnesses have clearly proved the time of death as they have stated that when the accused persons ran away after committing the offence, they went closer to their father and found that he was dead. No reason has been advanced from the side of appellants to create doubt on the ocular version on this point.

60. Two eyewitnesses have supported the version of the prosecution so far as the time and date of the offence is concerned. the statement of the doctor that death might have occurred in the mid night appears to be a mistaken statement and if read as a whole no importance can be attached to it and the time of occurrence appears to have been established to be at about 5 to 5-½ AM on 03.02.1984. The medical evidence in this case is not of that nature which completely rules out all possibility of ocular evidence being true or renders it false.

61. This appears to be a strange statement given by the doctor that death of deceased might have occurred in mid night as in his examination-in-chief, he has clearly stated that the deceased must have died on the date of incident at about 5-5-½ AM as injury was sufficient to cause death. Moreover, the two eye-witnesses who have been examined by the prosecution have clearly stated that the incident took place on 03.02.1984 at about 5 to 5-½ AM. So far as the discrepancy in the statement of the doctor is concerned, it is well settled that doctor can never be absolutely certain on point of time of duration of injuries and death. In Ram Swaroop v State of U.P., 2000 (40) ACC 432 (SC), the Supreme Court has held that the doctor can never be absolutely certain on point of time so far as duration of injuries and death are concerned. In Ramjee Rai v State of Bihar, 2007 (57) ACC 385 (SC), it has been further held that the medical science has not reached such perfection so as to enable a medical expert to categorically indicate the exact timing of death.

62. Another submission is that the injuries to the deceased are on his left part of body and mostly on the upper side and the prosecution has alleged that the deceased was beaten by accused persons surrounding him at the place. Moreover, the place of occurrence is situated at a very narrow place and it is not possible to hit the deceased by lathi and sabbal as it may hit the accused-appellants themselves. Moreover, if four accused persons were beating the deceased, he must have sustained injuries all over the body and not on the left side of his head. It is noteworthy that nine out of ten injuries found on the body of deceased in post-mortem is on the left side of his head covering ear, scalp and forehead. This submission is neither significant nor relevant as it is clear from the testimony of both the witnesses that they saw accused persons beating the deceased by lathi and sabbal. PW-1 Lakhan Lal has stated that from the place he saw the incident, he found his father lying zig zag and two accused persons were beating from opposite side with their face towards the witness, third was standing on the side of his father's leg whereas the fourth was in the right side towards him. Meaning thereby, all the four were involved in beating and commission of crime. This is no argument that if all the injuries are on left side of head, some of the accused must have been falsely implicated. On the contrary, it shows that the accused persons hit on head rapidly and repeatedly to ensure the death of the deceased in all probability. The brain of the deceased coming out from his head due to injury also supports this fact.

63. The other aspect is of motive for the incident. Learned counsel for appellants has submitted that there was no motive behind causing injury while learned counsel for State has submitted that there was a dispute with regard to removal of accused Pahalwan from his railway service. This was the cause and motive for the commission of offence. It has further been submitted by learned counsel for state that there is direct evidence and in that case, motive loses its importance and the case has to be examined on the basis of evidence on record.

64. In a number of decisions, like Abu Thakir v State; AIR 2010 SC 2119, State of U.P. v Nawab Singh; AIR 2010 SC 3638, Bipin Kumar Mondal v State of West Bengal; 2005 SCC (Criminal) 33, Shivraj Bapuray Jadhav v State of Karnataka; (2003) 6 SCC 392, Thaman Kumar v State of Union Territory of Chandigarh; (2003) 6 SCC 380, State of H.P. vs. Jeet Singh; (1999) 4 SCC370, it has been repeatedly held by the Supreme Court that motive is not a sine qua non for the commission of a crime. Moreover, it takes a back seat in a case of direct ocular account of the commission of the offence by a particular person. In a case of direct evidence the element of motive does not play such an important role so as to cast any doubt on the credibility of the prosecution witnesses even if there be any doubt raised in this regard. If the eye-witnesses are trustworthy, the motive attributed for the commission of crime may not be of much relevance. Failure to prove motive or absence of evidence on the point of motive would not be fatal to the prosecution case when the other reliable evidence available on record unerringly establishes the guilt of the accused.

65. In Badam Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh; AIR 2004 SC 26, it has been remarked by the Court that, even though existence of motive loses significance when there is reliable ocular testimony, in a case where the ocular testimony appears to be suspect, the existence or absence of motive acquires some significance regarding the probability of the prosecution case. In any case, we find with reference to judgements in Sheo Shankar Singh v State of Jharkhand; 2011(74) ACC 159 (SC), Ravinder Kumar v State of Punjab; 2001 (2) JIC (SC), State of H.P. v Jeet Singh; (1999) 4 SCC 370; Pannayar v State of Tamil Nadu by Inspector of Police; AIR 2010 SC 85 that the legal position regarding proof of motive as an essential requirement for bringing home the guilt of the accused is fairly well settled by a long line of decisions of the Court. These decisions have made a clear distinction between cases where prosecution relies upon circumstantial evidence on the one hand and those where it relies upon the testimony of eye-witnesses on the other. In the former category of cases proof of motive is given the importance it deserves, for proof of a motive itself constitutes a link in the chain of circumstances upon which the prosecution may rely. Proof of motive, however, goes into the background in cases where the prosecution relies upon an eye-witness account of the occurrence.

66. Though not necessarily required as the case in hand is based on direct evidence of eyewitnesses, it is pertinent to mention that there may be cases based on circumstantial evidence where absence of motive may become insignificant to establish guilt. In G. Prashwanath v State of Karnataka; AIR 2010 SC 2914, Jagdish v State of M.P.; 2009 (67) ACC 295 (SC) and Ujjagar Singh v State of Punjab; AIR 2008 SC (Supp) 190, it has been observed by the Supreme Court that it is true that in a case of circumstantial evidence motive does have extreme significance but to say that in the absence of motive, the conviction based on circumstantial evidence cannot, in principle, be made is not correct. Motive provides foundational material. But absence of motive is not of much consequence when chain of proved circumstances is complete to exclusively lead to the hypothesis of guilt.

67. We find that the Supreme Court has clearly opined in various decisions, such as Gopi Ram v St. Of UP, 2006 (55) ACC 673 SC, State of UP v Nawab Singh; 2005 SCC (Criminal) 33, Shivraj Bapuray Jadhav v State of Karnataka; (2003) 6 SCC 392, R.R. Reddy v State of AP, AIR 2006 SC 1656, Sucha Singh v State of Punjab; AIR 2003 SC 1471, State of Rajasthan v Arjun Singh AIR 2011 SC 3380, Varun Chaudhry v State of Rajasthan AIR 2011 SC 72 that the prosecution case could not be denied on the ground of alleged absence or insufficiency of motive. Motive is insignificant in cases of direct evidence of eyewitnesses. Failure to prove motive or absence of evidence on the point of motive would not be fatal to the prosecution case when the other reliable, truthful and acceptable evidence is available on record sufficient to establish the guilty of accused persons.

68. It has been contended on behalf of the appellants that the prosecution has failed to prove any motive for the commission of the crime and in absence of clear and emphatic motive, the order of conviction is liable to be set-aside and the accused persons are entitled for acquittal. This submission is, firstly, based on misreading of the record and secondly it is devoid of any merits. The evidence on record indicates that the relation between the parties were quite strained on account of the termination of railway service of accused Pahalwan on the complaint of the deceased. At earlier occasion also, accused Pahalwan committed marpeet with deceased and the family shifted to some other place for sometimes. Be that as it may, it is not always necessary for the prosecution to establish a definite motive for the commission of the crime. It will always be relatable to the facts and circumstances of a given case. It will not be correct to say as an absolute proposition of law, that the existence of a strong or definite motive is a sine qua non for holding an accused guilty of a criminal offence. It is not correct to say that absence of motive essentially results in the acquittal of an accused if he is otherwise found to be guilty. In Babu Lodhi v State of UP (1987) 2 SCC 352, the Court took the view that insofar as the adequacy of motive is concerned, it is not a matter which can be accurately weighed on the scales of a balance.

69. We are of the view that when there is sufficient direct evidence regarding the commission of offence, the question of motive should go away from the mind of the Court. Motive is a double edged weapon and the key question for consideration in cases based on direct evidence remains whether the prosecution had convincingly and satisfactorily established the guilt of all or any of the accused beyond reasonable doubt by adducing reliable and cogent evidence. As such, the proof of the existence of a motive is not necessary for a conviction for any offence. In the recent judgement of Saddik Vs. State of Gujarat, (2016) 10 SCC 663, it has been held that motive is not a sine qua non for the commission of a crime. Moreover, it takes a back seat in a case of direct ocular account of the commission of the offence by a particular person. In a case of direct evidence the element of motive does not play such an important role as to cast any doubt on the credibility of the prosecution witnesses even if there be any doubts raised in this regard. If the eye-witnesses are trustworthy, the motive attributed for the commission of crime may not be of much relevance. Failure to prove motive or absence of evidence on the point of motive would not be fatal to the prosecution case when the other reliable evidence available on record unerringly establishes the guilt of the accused.

70. It is pertinent to mention that where case is based on direct evidence it is not incumbent for the prosecution to allege or prove motive. It can, however, be pointed out that in this instant case, the motive was very much present with the accused persons. There was enmity as on the basis of complaint made by the deceased person accused Pahalwan was removed from service and earlier also accused Pahalwan committed marpeet with the deceased and the family was forced to shift to some other place. Moreover, from the perusal of the FIR, it is clear that motive has been alleged and the witnesses have proved it. It has been alleged in the FIR that there was enmity between deceased and accused Ramcharan and Pahalwan as Pahalwan lost his railway service on the complaint of deceased. In the statement, it has come that prior to incident also, Pahalwan committed marpeet with the deceased. Therefore, the learned trial court has rightly concluded that there was existing and immediate motive for the offence and it was not necessary for the prosecution to prove the service of Pahalwan and termination order by filing doccuments.

71. The ocular testimony finds further support from the recovery of sabbal on the instance of accused Pahalwan, recovery of blood stained tahmad on the instance of co-accused Brij Kishore, the blood stained shirt pant of accused Pahalwan and the blood stained earth recovered from the spot. The recovered articles were sent for chemical examination, the report thereof is Ext. Ka-35. The submission of the learned counsel is that the recovered items were planted and sabbal and tahamad was not recovered on their instance. The perusal of forensic report shows that 1. sabbal, 2. tahamad of accused Brijkishore, 3. pant & 4. shirt of accused Pahalwan and 5. jacket, 6. shirt, 7. jarsi, 8., 9. pants of deceased and 10. blood stained earth were sent for chemical examination. It is pertinent to mention that on item no. 1 to 8, human blood was found and on item no. 2 to 6 and 8, group A blood was found and it is noteworthy that the blood on above items tallied and it goes to establish that the blood stains on tahamad and pant shirt of accused tallied with the blood of the deceased. The defence has not given any explanation how the blood stains of deceased came on their tahamad, shirt and pants which they were wearing at the time of incident. It is also pertinent to mention that accused Brij Kishore and Pahalwan were arrested on the very date of incident and tahamad was recovered at the instance of Brij Kishore and accused Pahalwan was wearing the pant shirt at the time of arrest. The sabbal which was recovered at the instance of accused Pahalwan was blood stained but the blood was disintegrated and therefore, the blood group was not determined. The reason is understood as the same was recovered from below the sand.

72. The recovery was made by police before before PW-1 Lakhan Lal, PW-4 Sabarjeet and PW-5 Jahangir and these witnesses and police witness of recovery have proved recovery in their statements. The site map of place of recovery has been prepared and proved by police witnesses. The recovered articles have been produced and proved by witnesses during trial. There is no discrepancy on that point in their statements. The learned counsel has tried to discredit PW-4 on the basis that he is father of Dashrath who has been shown to be inscriber of FIR in the list of witnesses in the charge-sheet and was shown to have been present there at the time of incident. But, PW-4 has stated that Dashrath did not tell him about incident. He has also stated falsely about any criminal case pending against him. Even if it is so, it is not sufficient to discredit PW-4 and he has also stated that he lived separately from Dashrath. In respect of PW-5 before whom sabbal was recovered, it has been submitted by the learned counsel that he had given affidavit during investigation that no such recovery was made and as such PW-5 could not have been relied upon by the learned trial court. The learned trial court has taken the view that even if it was so, the police witnesses have proved the recovery and in view of the judgement of the Supreme Court in Nathu Singh v State of MP, 1974 Cri. L J 11, their testimony cannot be discarded for the reason that they are police witnesses and it has not been shown that the police had some enmity with accused. Further judgements such as Pramod Kumar Vs. State (GNCT) of Delhi, AIR 2013 SC 3344 and Govindaraju alias Govinda Vs. State of Shri Ramapuram P.S., AIR 2012 SC 1292 also affirm this view in which it has been held that the testimony of police personnel should be treated in the same manner as testimony of any other witness. There is no principle of law that without corroboration by independent witnesses, the testimony of police personnel cannot be relied on. The presumption that a person acts honestly applies as much in favour of a police personnel as of other persons and it is not a proper judicial approach to distrust and suspect them without good reasons. As a rule it cannot be stated that Police Officer can or cannot be sole eye witness in criminal case. Statement of Police Officer can be relied upon and even form basis of conviction when it is reliable, trustworthy and preferably corroborated by other evidence on record.

73. We are of the view that there is no error or perversity in the approach of the learned trial court. This instant case is based on direct evidence and the eyewitnesses saw the accused using sabbal for assaulting the deceased and the recovery has been made from a public place on the date of incident itself. Moreover, blood stains on tahamad and pant shirt of the group of deceased provides additional support to the direct evidence. The recovery of sabbal has been also proved by PW-5 Jahangir who has stated that on the instance of accused, said sabbal was recovered before him and memo of recovery was prepared on which he signed. So far as his affidavit is concerned which was given by him during investigation denying such recovery is no evidence as the witness has denied the same and has stated that his statement before the court is correct, and also in view of judgement of the Supreme Court in Ayaaubkhan v State of Maharashtra, AIR 2013 SC 58, where it has been held that affidavits have got no evidentiary value as the affidavits are not included in the definition of "evidence" in S. 3 of the Evidence Act.

74. The defence has disputed the place of occurrence and some omission has been pointed out in the site map prepared by IO and it has been submitted that the lane where the incident has been alleged to have taken place is so narrow that it is not possible for four persons to hit the deceased by lathi and sabbal. With reference to inquest report, the learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that in the beginning of the inquest report the officer who has prepared inquest report has shown the dead body in front of the door of Baldeo Nanhe. From the perusal of the site map, it is clear that the IO has shown where the dead body was found and from where the witnesses saw the incident. From the place, lota of deceased was also taken in possession and blood stained and plain earth was lifted. The Supreme Court in Jagdish vs State of UP, 1996 (33) ACC 495, has held that the IO is expected to show in the map what he has observed on spot. Other details based on saying of some persons are not needed to be mentioned as per legal requirement. This view has been further affirmed by this court in State of UP vs Lakhan Singh, 2014 (86) ACC 82 (All) (DB). During investigation, PW-11 IO prepared site-map in the presence of informant on the same day. The incident took place close to the latrine which has been shown in the site map. The houses on both sides of lane has been shown. It was not possible for the IO to ascertain where the deceased eased out and the latrine near the dead body was of the deceased or not. All the fact witnesses have also stated that the incident took place out side the latrine in the lane. In the written report Ext. Ka-1, it has been stated that the informant saw the accused persons beating his father there. That apart, the officer who has prepared inquest report has found the dead body at the same place and the police shifted the dead body to the open ground as the place where the dead body was found was very dirty. Hence, the place of occurrence has been established by prosecution and the arguments of the defence has got no force on the point of place of occurrence.

75. Inquest report of deceased was prepared by PW-10 after taking the dead bodies into possession from the place of occurrence. From perusal of inquest reports, it appears that the police team reached there on 6.50 AM and by 9.00 AM the dead body was duly sealed and after preparing inquest reports the dead bodies were handed over to constables Subhash and Shamim as deposed by him along with papers, necessary for submitting the same for post-mortem. For preparing inquest report, 5 Panches were nominated by PW-10. The panches were Bhagwandas, Hariram Yadav, Jangi, Chotelal and Sushil. The dead body was lying in the lane and the place was very dirty and therefore, the dead body was shifted in the open ground situated nearby in front of the house of Baldeo and Nanhe. The dead body was lying flat with eyes closed mouth half opened. On face, blood was clotted and bleeding. The deceased was wearing woolen pant, woolen inner, woolen jacket and jarsi and white shirt. 7 injuries were found including 6 lacerated wound around head and ear in the left side. In respect of the dead body the authority preparing inquest report and Panches were of the opinion that the deceased died because of injuries. The dead body was sealed and after preparing necessary papers, was handed over to the constable to take the dead body to the district hospital for post-mortem. The inquest reports have been duly proved by PW-10. Thus, there is nothing in this regard which can create any doubt on prosecution version to the benefit of the defence.

76. It can also be pointed out that defect in investigation, if any, cannot give any advantage to the defence unless such defect goes to the very root of the prosecution version. In Rupinder Singh Sandhu vs State of Punjab, (2018) 16 SCC 475, it has been remarked by the supreme court that even if there is lapse in investigation, the same cannot be used to give advantage to accused person in cases where prosecution has led credible evidence, as it is difficult to determine that the investigative defect occurred due to general inefficiency of system or deliberated to shield the accused. In our considered view, the defect pointed out on behalf of the defence appears to be very minor and insignificant in nature and no force can be attached to that part of the argument.

77. The learned counsel for the appellants has mentioned certain discrepancy and contradiction in the testimony of witnesses with regards to who reached first and other persons of the locality reached there or not. With regards to presence of other witnesses, discrepancy has been pointed out. From what distance, the witness saw the incident and whether there was enough light, from what angle accused persons assaulted the deceased and caused injury and the like. It needs to be pointed out that where own father of the two eyewitnesses was the victim, in such a horrendous situation, the witnesses are not supposed to be perfectionist to give the exact account of the incident. Some sort of contradiction, improvement, embellishment is bound to occur in the statement. As laid down in State of U.P. v. Naresh; 2011 (75) ACC 215) (SC), in all criminal cases, normal discrepancies are bound to occur in the depositions of witnesses due to normal errors of observation, namely, errors of memory due to lapse of time or due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of occurrence. Minor contradictions, inconsistencies, embellishments or improvements on trivial matters which do not affect the core of the prosecution case, should not be made a ground on which the evidence can be rejected in its entirety. The Court has to form its opinion about the credibility of the witness and record a finding as to whether his deposition inspires confidence.

78. In Gosu Jayarami Reddy and another Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh; (2011) 3 SCC(Cri) 630, it was observed that Courts need to be realistic in their expectation from the witnesses and go by what would be reasonable based on ordinary human conduct with ordinary human frailties of memory and power to register events and their details. A witness who is terrorized by the brutality of the attack cannot be disbelieved only because in his description of who hit the deceased on what part of the body there is some mix-up or confusion.

79. Further, in Parsu Ram Pandey v/s State of Bihar AIR 2004 SC 5068, Shivappa v. State of Karnataka; AIR 2682, Ramchandaran v/s State of Kerala AIR 2011 SC 3581, it was held that minor discrepancies or some improvements would not justify rejection of the testimonies of the eye-witnesses, if they are otherwise reliable. Some discrepancies are bound to occur because of the sociological background of the witnesses as also the time gap between the date of occurrence and the date on which they give their depositions in Court. In Mukesh Vs. State for NCT of Delhi, AIR 2017 SC 2161 and Bhagwan Jagannath Markad Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2016) 10 SCC 53, it was reiterated that minor contradictions in the testimonies of the Prosecution Witness are bound to be there and in fact they go to support the truthfulness of the witnesses.

80. A prompt F.I.R. lends credence to the prosecution case because a prompt F.I.R. eliminates all the chances of cooking up of a false story. In Meharaj Singh v. State of UP, (1994) 5 SCC 188 while emphasizing the importance of recording a prompt FIR, the Supreme Court observed as under:

"FIR in a criminal case and particularly in murder case is a vital and valuable piece of evidence for the purpose of appreciating evidence led at the trial. The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the FIR is to obtain earliest information regarding the circumstance in which the crime was committed, including the names of the actual culprits and the parts played by them, the weapons, if any, used, as also the names of the eye witnesses if any. Delay in lodging FIR often result in embellishment, which is a creature of an afterthought. On the account of delay, the FIR not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger also creeps in of the introduction of a coloured version of exaggerated story."

81. Similarly in Kishan Singh through LRs v. Gurpal Singh (2010) 8 SCC 775, the Supreme Court held that prompt and early reporting of the occurrence by the informant with vivid details gives assurance regarding truth of its version. In case there is some delay in recording the FIR the complainant must give an explanation for the same. Undoubtedly, delay in lodging FIR does not make the complainant's case improbable when such delay is properly explained.

82. Law expects a prompt first information report because it eliminates all the chances of coming up of a coloured version. In this instant case, the first information report was lodged with utmost promptness naming the accused persons and virtually there was no delay in lodging the same. A prompt first information report eliminates the chances of false implication and the fact that there is no delay in lodging FIR in this case, gives additional support to the prosecution version.

83. It has been also argued that the FIR lodged by the informant does not mention that the informant heard some sound (khatar-patar), nor about joint latrine or the name of other persons who reached there, saw the incident and identified the accused persons. It has also not been mentioned that at the time of incident, the deceased was in the latrine or easing out side and there are other omissions also. We are of the view that an FIR is not required to provide every detail of prosecution version. Those facts and details which are discovered during investigation are not supposed to be visualised by the informant at the time of lodging of FIR. It is settled law that the FIR is not supposed to contain all details of prosecution version. It is spontaneously written what comes in the mind of informant. It is not supposed to be guided by any legal advice and it is required to provide the brief of criminal happening and error and omission makes it more natural and genuine. It has been held in Bhagwan Jagannath Markad (supra) and Jarnail Singh Vs. State of Punjab, 2009 (6) Supreme 526 that the FIR is not the encyclopedia of all the facts relating to crime. The only requirement is that at the time of lodging FIR, the informant should state all those facts which normally strike to mind and help in assessing the gravity of the crime or identity of the culprit briefly.

84. In the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. the accused appellants had stated that they have been falsely implicated due to enmity. There is direct evidence of eye witnesses that all the appellants caused injury. Nothing has been stated in the statement as to under what circumstances the deceased died and why the eye witnesses are giving evidence against the appellants. It was also argued by the counsel to the appellants that in the facts and circumstances of the case, this is possible that the deceased was killed by someone else and the appellants were falsely implicated. We do not find any force in this argument. The learned trial court rightly concluded that there is direct evidence of the eye witnesses who had seen the occurrence which finds corroboration from the medical evidence and incriminatory articles. Thus imaginary theory propounded by the defence is not acceptable. There is no evidence nor any report that anybody else has caused injuries.

85. Learned trial court has examined the contentions of the appellant on the basis of evidence on record and with reference to relevant case law applicable to the facts and circumstances of this case and has found that in the circumstances under which the present incident occurred and was narrated by the witnesses during the examination before the Court, it is not probable to involve the accused on false ground. Further, it was also concluded by the learned trial court that the witnesses were knowing, both the victim and the accused, and there evidence would be material and could not be criticized on the ground that they were interested witnesses. It was also held that if witnesses examined in the Court are otherwise found reliable and trustworthy, the fact sought to be proved by that witness need not be further proved through other witnesses though there may be other witnesses available who could have been examined but were not examined. Learned trial court has assessed the prosecution witnesses and found that nothing came out from the examination-in-chief or cross examination which may discredit the testimony of the witnesses.

86. From the above discussion we are of the view that the learned trial court rightly concluded that the prosecution has been able to prove the charges beyond shadow of any doubt. Excluding the accused persons who have been acquitted, the number of the convicted accused persons/appellants has been four and two eyewitnesses have stated the whole incident in a very natural and spontaneous way. It is also clear that the FIR for the horrifying occurrence was lodged without any delay and even if for the sake of argument there was any delay, the same has been reasonably explained by the prosecution witnesses and circumstances of the case. The injuries found on the body of the deceased person find support from the medical evidence by which the date and time of causing the injuries is very much corroborated. Medical evidence clearly indicates that injuries were possible by lathi and sabbal which were assigned to the accused persons and because of injuries the deceased must have died immediately as the brain was coming out from the head. The place of occurrence has been fully established. There is no substantial contradiction or discrepancies in the evidence of the prosecution and some of the minor contradiction and discrepancies which have been discussed above goes to establish the reliability of the witnesses and that also shows that they are not tutored. Thus, the witnesses examined by prosecution are natural, credible and trustworthy.

87. As such, in view of the above discussion, the surviving accused-appellants namely Pahalwan and Nathu Singh have been rightly convicted for the offence under section 302/34 IPC. All these convicted persons have been awarded life imprisonment which is liberal option of punishment under section 302 IPC.

88. In our considered view, the judgement/finding of the learned trial court is sound and based on settled principles of law and the sentence awarded to the accused persons is adequate. There is no illegality or perversity in the judgement of the trial court, nor there is any misreading and wrong appreciation of the evidence on record. Therefore, we are of the view that the learned trial court has very rightly convicted the accused-appellants and adequately awarded sentence. The appeal has got no force and is liable to be dismissed.

89. The appeal is dismissed.

90. Appellants Pahalwan and Nathu Singh are directed to surrender before the learned trial court forthwith where from they will be sent to jail to undergo the sentence.

91. Amicus Curiae Sri Harish Chandra Tiwari, Advocate shall be paid Rs. Ten Thousands only for the assistance and legal service provided by him in conducting this appeal for the accused-appellant Nathu Singh.

92. Lower court record be transmitted back to the court below. Office is directed to send a copy of this order to the court below for communication and compliance.

THE HON'BLE NARENDRA KUMAR JOHARI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 96 of 1996

Sunil & Ors. ...Appellants (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Apul Mishra, Sri A.P. Mathur, Sri P.N. Mishra, Sri R.M. Pandey, Sri Raj Kumar Mishra, Sri V.P. Srivastava, Sri Rajneesh Pratap Singh, Sri S.P.S. Raghav

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
Sri G.S. Chaturvedi, Sri Ravindra Rai, Sri Amit Daga, Sri Arun Kumar Sharma, Sri Ashok Kumar Rai, D.G.A.

A. Criminal Law-Indian Penal Code - Sections 148, 302, 395, 506 - Appeal against conviction.

Their testimonies are not reliable. Considering the evidence of PW- 1 and PW- 2 in totality, no substantial variation or discrepancy is found regarding happening of occurrence or place of occurrence. The statements of witnesses Pw- 1 & Pw- 2 are supported and corroborated by post-mortem report and other prosecution papers. Their statements are also corroborated by the evidence of PW- 7 Doctor S.M. Gupta. There is no contradiction in their testimonies on the core of prosecution case. If some inconsistency is found, that do not affects the prosecution case substantially. (Para 39)

It is to be considered that spot map was prepared by I.O. on the pointing of complainant, as witness Pw- 1 has mentioned in cross examination. This fact has also been mentioned by I.O. in case diary which is available on record (back page of Paper No. 33 Kha/3 dated 12.04.1994) and the witness Pw- 1 has not been cross examined by counsels of accused persons on the above shortcomings of spot map. In the light of above dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court, I.O. cannot be asked about not showing the place of accused persons and eye witnesses. (Para 52)

If I.O. has not prepared spot map on scale or there was any fault of investigation in sketching the spot map it can be treated as latches of I.O., which does not affects the case of prosecution adversely, where direct, ocular and reliable evidence is available on record. (Para 53)

If eye-witnesses of occurrence are reliable and trustworthy then in that case no corroborative evidence is needed and conviction can be based on the evidence of even sole reliable eye-witness. (Para 54)

Admittedly the F.I.R. was lodged by complainant after that conversation with his wife but there is no detail of robbed articles in F.I.R. He has also mentioned in his evidence that accused persons had given threat to his wife and servant. (Para 56)

Considering the evidence on record, surrounding circumstances and keeping in mind that no looted articles were recovered from the pointing out of accused persons or from their residence at the time of proceeding of attachment which took place under the Provisions of Section 83 of Cr.P.C, the occurrence of robbery is not established. Prosecution has failed to prove the occurrence of robbery beyond reasonable doubt against accused persons. (Para 58)

No error of law as well as in appreciation of fact and evidence is found in impugned judgement. Therefore, conviction and sentence of appellants under Section 302/148 I.P.C. is affirmed. It is further concluded that since the prosecution could not prove the charge of Section 395 I.P.C. against appellants, hence appellants are acquitted from the charge of Section 395 I.P.C. (Para 59)

Criminal Appeal allowed. (E-2)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Narendra Kumar Johari, J.)

1. The instant appeal has been filed against the judgement and conviction order of appellants passed by Special Judge/Additional Sessions Judge, Aligarh in Sessions Trial No. 699 of 1994, Crime No. 105 of 1994, under Sections 148, 302, 395, 506 I.P.C., P.S.- Sikandrarau, District- Aligarh.

Sections 148, 302, 395 I.P.C. The Court has sentenced appellants for two years rigorous imprisonment under Section 148 I.P.C., life imprisonment under Section 302 I.P.C. and 10 years rigorous imprisonment and Rs. 5,000/- as fine to each appellants under Section 395 I.P.C. It has also been ordered that in case of default in payment of fine they will undergo rigorous imprisonment of two years. The court has acquitted all the appellants under Section 506 I.P.C.

3. During the pendency of appeal appellant no. 6- Ram Das and appellant no. 7- Ram Datt have died, consequently the appeal has been abated for them.

4. The fact of the case, as per prosecution, in brief is as under- complainant Ram Gopal has given a written application (tahrir) to S.H.O., P.S.- Sikandrarau, District- Aligarh dated 12.04.1994 that today at about 7.15 a.m. after defecation he was returning from forest to his home as he reached near goddess temple he saw that his neighbours Sunil, Ballu, Dhannu, Avadhesh, Kanhai Lal, Ram Das and Ram Datt opened fire on his son Satish with intention to kill him. His son was worshipping in the temple at that time. Due to fire-arm injury his son died on spot. Many persons including Rameshwer and Ghanshyam heard the sound of fire and his shouting. When complainant raised his voice and started running towards his house to save his life the aforesaid accused persons pursued him. They entered in his house and robbed his licencee gun, jewellery and cash by threatening his wife and servant. After committing robbery they fled away by giving threats of life.

5. On the basis of above tahrir, the F.I.R. was lodged against above persons under Section 396 I.P.C. at P.S.- Sikandrarau, District- Aligarh on 12.04.1994 at 9.30 a.m. as Crime No. 105 of 1994, under Sections 148, 302, 395 and 506 I.P.C, accordingly G.D. entry was made.

6. The investigation of offence was started by Sub-inspector Narendra Pal Singh with S.I. S.N. Rakesh. They reached on spot along with police force. The inquest report was prepared by Sub-inspector S.N. Rakesh and sealed dead body of deceased Satish was sent for post-mortem with constables S.P. Dube and Kailash Singh. The investigating officer collected blood-stained and plain soil from the spot. He prepared recovery memo of Hawan Kund and Lota. He enquired about the occurrence from persons present on spot. He further took the statement of witnesses and prepared spot map.

7. During the investigation he recovered the weapons 2 kattas (countrymade pistols) and cartridges on the pointing out of accused Sunil and Ballu. After completion of investigation the charge-sheet against accused persons has been filed by investigating officer under Sections 302, 395, 397 I.P.C. After appearance of accused persons, charges were framed against them under Sections 148, 302, 395, 506 I.P.C. They denied the charges, accordingly trial proceeded.

8. As documentary evidence prosecution has filed original tahrir (Ex. Ka- 1), chick F.I.R. (Ex. Ka- 2), chick report Crime No. 204, of 1994 (Ex. Ka- 3), inquest report (Ex. Ka- 4), Chalan Nas (Ex. Ka- 5), Sample Seal (Ex. Ka- 6), letter to C.M.O. (Ex. Ka- 7), photo dead body (Ex. Ka- 8), spot map (Ex. Ka- 9), recovery memo blood-stain and plain soil (Ex. Ka- 10), recovery memo of lota and hawan kund (Ex. Ka- 11), search memo of accused persons (Ex. Ka- 12), charge-sheet (Ex. Ka- 13), recovery of weapon

(Ex. Ka- 14), P.M.R. (Ex. Ka- 15). Apart from that the prosecution has produced to Ram Gopal Sharma (first informant and eye witness) as PW- 1, Ghanshyam as PW- 2 (eye witness), Smt. Raj Rani (mother of deceased who was present at the time of robbery in house) as PW- 3. Constable Kailash Singh (who carried the dead body of deceased from place of occurrence to mortuary) as PW- 4. Constable Surendra Singh (Chick and G.D. writer) as PW- 5. Ex-sub-inspector N.P. Singh (investigating officer) as PW- 6. Doctor S.M. Gupta (who carried post-mortem) as PW- 7. Sub-inspector Vinod Shukla (investigating officer) as PW- 8.

9. The statement of accused persons was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and all the incriminating materials/circumstances were put to them one by one in shape of incidence. The accused persons denied each allegations levelled against them by stating either incorrect or they don't know, however, they admitted that they belong to village of complainant and they are his neighbours. The accused persons further stated that in the village quarrel took place amongst children that is why they have been falsely implicated by complainant. The accused Kanhai replied that at the time of occurrence he was on his duty at School Kuthila.

10. Learned Sessions Judge after appreciating all the evidences and submissions made by the public prosecutor and defence counsel convicted and sentenced appellants as has been referred hereinabove. Aggrieved by the judgement and sentenced accused/appellants preferred the present appeal.

11. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the appellants have wrongly been convicted. The F.I.R. lodged by complainant is anti-timed, place of occurrence has been changed. Witnesses of prosecution who adduced their oral statement as witnesses of fact are not trustworthy. There are contradictions in their statement, investigating officer has recorded the statement of witnesses with inordinate delay. The position of accused person and places from where witnesses have seen the occurrence, has not been shown in site plan. The witness who was named in F.I.R., has not been produced. There is no F.S.L. report regarding the blood-stained soil. Police has not recovered all the weapons as mentioned in F.I.R. Motive for offence has not been proved. Prosecution has failed to prove his case against appellants beyond reasonable doubt. The judgement of trial court is against the principles of law. Appellants are entitled to be acquitted.

12. Per contra, learned counsel for the complainant and learned A.G.A. has replied that accused persons have committed the offence of murder with pre-planning. It was day light murder. The occurrence has been witnessed by eye-witnesses. The statement of eye-witnesses is well supported by medical evidence. Witnesses of prosecution are reliable and trustworthy. Weapons used in occurrence have been recovered on the pointing out of accused appellants. Motive of offence is proved. F.I.R. is prompt. There is no proof of anti-time F.I.R. If there is any defect in investigation, it does not affect the prosecution case adversely, particularly in the light of cogent and trustworthy evidence. There is no substantial contradiction in testimony of eye witnesses. Common object of accused persons/appellants is proved. The appellants have rightly been convicted by the learned sessions judge. Prosecution has proved his case against appellants beyond reasonable doubt. Order of sessions judge does not suffer from any illegality or infirmity. The appeal is liable to be dismissed.

We have considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

13. F.I.R.
