69. It has been also mentioned by the learned counsel to the accused-appellant that DW-1 Thakurdas has been examined who has proved GD no. 2 of 9.6.1994 of 00.35 AM of midnight as Ext. Kha-1 stated that ward boy Mataprasad of District Hospital, Hamirpur gave a memo in the Police Station to the effect that Babulal having sustained serious injury of firearm has been admitted for treatment in the Emergency of District Hospital for treatment on 8.6.1994 at 11.30 PM. The IO (PW-9) has denied this fact in his cross-examination. Even if it is correct, it further supports the date and time of incident. The report of the Hospital is a routine report in such situation. Maximum, it can be said that required attention was not paid by the police even though the said memo was indicative of commission of offence against the injured. This may be a lapse committed by the police, but, it can hardly render any advantage to the accused.

70. It has been also argued on behalf of the accused-appellant that there was no motive available to the accused to cause death of the deceased, nor it has been explained by the prosecution what was the enmity between the accused and deceased as mentioned in the dying declaration. On being asked about it, PW-9 IO has stated that he could not ask about it as the condition of the deceased was not good and he was physically in trouble. The learned trial court has pointed out that both accused and deceased were in Army and were of equal age and accused being Brahmin was annoyed for not being invited in the Tilak of the younger brother of deceased and felt insulted he committed this offence. We are of the view that it may be a reason for the commission of the offence by the accused. But, what was in the mind of accused and why he caused death of the deceased, can be explained only by the accused as the victim of the deadly assault did not survive to explain anything. Caste and group rivalry or neighborhood jealous, as it normally exists in society, may also have prompted the accused to commit offence. Moreover, the question of motive is not relevant in this case as the case is based on direct evidence. In a number of decisions, like Abu Thakir v State AIR 2010 SC 2119, State of UP v Nawab Singh AIR 2010 SC 3638, Bipin Kumar Mondal v State of West Bengal 2005 SCC (Criminal) 33, Shivraj Bapuray Jadhav v State of Karnataka (2003) 6 SCC 392, Thaman Kumar v State of Union Territory of Chandigarh (2003) 6 SCC 380, State of HP v Jeet Singh; (1999) 4 SCC 370, it has been repeatedly held by the Supreme Court that motive is not a sine qua non for the commission of a crime. Moreover, it takes a back seat in a case of direct ocular account of the commission of the offence by a particular person. In a case of direct evidence the element of motive does not play such an important role so as to cast any doubt on the credibility of the prosecution witnesses even if there be any doubt raised in this regard. If the eye-witnesses are trustworthy, the motive attributed for the commission of crime may not be of much relevance. Failure to prove motive or absence of evidence on the point of motive would not be fatal to the prosecution case when the other reliable evidence available on record unerringly establishes the guilt of the accused.

71. We find that the Supreme Court has clearly opined in various decisions, such as Gopi Ram v St. Of UP, 2006 (55) ACC 673 SC, R.R. Reddy v State of AP, AIR 2006 SC 1656, Sucha Singh v State of Punjab; AIR 2003 SC 1471, State of Rajasthan v Arjun Singh AIR 2011 SC 3380, Varun Chaudhry v State of Rajasthan AIR 2011 SC 72 and in the recent judgment of Saddik Vs. State of Gujarat, (2016) 10 SCC 663, it has been held that the prosecution case could not be denied on the ground of alleged absence or insufficiency of motive. Motive is insignificant in cases of direct evidence of eyewitnesses. Failure to prove motive or absence of evidence on the point of motive would not be fatal to the prosecution case when the other reliable, truthful and acceptable evidence is available on record sufficient to establish the guilty of accused persons.

72. We are of the view that when there is sufficient direct evidence regarding the commission of offence, the question of motive should go away from the mind of the Court. Motive is a double edged weapon and the key question for consideration in cases based on direct evidence remains whether the prosecution had convincingly and satisfactorily established the guilt of all or any of the accused beyond reasonable doubt by adducing reliable and cogent evidence. As such, the proof of the existence of a motive is not necessary for a conviction for any offence. If the eye-witnesses are trustworthy, the motive attributed for the commission of crime may not be of much relevance. Failure to prove motive or absence of evidence on the point of motive would not be fatal to the prosecution case when the other reliable evidence available on record establishes the guilt of the accused. In the case in hand, evidence shows that motive in terms of annoyance and insult for not being invited in Tilak has been alleged. As such and in view of the case law discussed above, we find no force in the submission with regards to absence of adequate motive.

73. It has been also argued by the learned counsel to the accused-appellant that the deceased died after 14 days from the date of incident and as such, the case is covered under section 304 IPC and the accused could be punished only for the offence of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. The learned counsel has also draw attention towards the cross-examination of PW-7 Dr. T.N. Agrwal who conducted postmortem of the dead body of the deceased in which he has stated that there was 250 ml puss found in the body of deceased and it developed in septicemia which resulted in death of the deceased. He has therefore, argued that the cause of death cannot be attributed to firearm injury.

74. We gave thoughtful consideration to this argument and perused the postmortem report and statement of the doctor. The deceased remained in treatment in three hospital and clearly best treatment was ensured to him. He died during treatment after 14 days. We find that the Doctor has stated that 4 pellets were recovered from abdominal wall from the back of lever and it shows that the pellets penetrated the abdomen and lever. Apparently, for the exit of recovery, the deceased was operated on abdomen massively which is clear from the seven stitched would found on abdomen, intestine and around. Naturally, it was necessary for the proper treatment to save the life of deceased. The Doctor has stated that the deceased died because of shock and septicemia because of firearm injury and the injury was sufficient to cause death.

75. It is pertinent to mention that firearm injury and injury caused by explosive substance are kept on different footing from the death caused by other weapon. Causing injury by firearm on the vital part of body from close range indicates the intention to cause death and extreme culpability on the part of accused, as, the moment fire is shot, it cannot be controlled by the person and there is no concept of slow firing as the pellets will come out with the mechanically designed speed and force. In case of other cutting or stab weapon, one can claim that enough force was not applied in causing injury. The death resulted during continuous treatment because of firearm injury and in such cases, operation is always complicated and can result in further complication and if death occurs, the reason can only attributed to the firearm injury caused by the accused. In such factual situation, the gap between injury and death is not decisive and the culpability is assessed on the basis of weapon used and the seriousness of injury caused on the vital part of the body. We do not find any force in the argument and there is nothing wrong in the conviction of the accused for the offence of murder under section 302 IPC.

76. On the basis of above discussion, we find that the delay in lodging FIR is natural in the facts and circumstances of the case and well explained. The defence version of ceremonial firing though not based on any evidence on record, indicates acceptance on the part of accused-appellant that the deceased sustained firearm injury which is further proved by medical and postmortem report. Entry wound was found of very close range on the stomach of the deceased which is certainly vital part of body. The doctor conducting postmortem has stated that four pellets were recovered from the dead body and the ante-mortem injury found on the body of deceased was sufficient to cause death. Four eye-witnesses whose presence near the place of occurrence has been found to be natural have proved the prosecution case and their testimonies find support from the dying declaration of the deceased. There is no contradiction, improvement or embellishment in their ocular account on any material aspect such as time, date, place and manner of occurrence and the eye-witnesses are trustworthy and spontaneous in their narration of the incident. We find that there is no perversity or illegality in the impugned judgment and sentence. The Criminal Appeal is liable to be dismissed.

77. The Criminal Appeal is accordingly dismissed.

78. The accused-appellant Vidya Sagar Dwivedi is directed to surrender before the learned trial court forthwith where from he shall be sent to jail to undergo the sentence.

79. Office is directed to send a copy of this order to the court below for communication and compliance along with lower court record.

5. The prosecution case is that the informant is resident of Napur and is employed in Bank of Indore, branch- Kachnav Kala, District- Bhind. On account of his prosperity the other villagers harbour jealously against him. They keep on plotting against the appellant for beating him. Marriage of his younger brother was fixed 07.03.2000 and in the morning accused, Rohit son of Desh Raj, threatened his brother, Hari Mohan, of life by pointing a country made pistol on his chest but because of the marriage ceremony in the house they kept quiet. On 09.03.2000 after seeing off relatives, the members of his family were sitting in the house at 09:20 p.m for dinner when Rohit son of Desh Raj along with Jagat Singh, Krishna Swaroop, Kunwar Bahadur, Satish Babu, Desh Raj, all sons of Raja Ram and Bharat son of Desh Raj came to his house. Bharat had gun in his hand and other persons were armed with l*athi* and farsa. Satish Babu and Jagat Narayan caught hold of his hand and Bharat son of Desh Raj made blow on his head by the butt of the gun and all the accuseds started saying that today they will kill him. He cried for help and then Ashwani Kumar son of Ramphal Dohrey and Hoti Lal resident of Purwa Adot and many other villagers came and saved him. The accuseds after beating him and hurling abuses ran away.

6. Report of this incident was registered at Police Station on 09.03.2000 as Case Crime No. 100 of 2000, under Sections- 147, 323, 504, 506 IPC. The injuries of the informant were examined by the doctor and he was referred for x-ray of his head. Fracture was found on the head of the informant, Narendra Chaudhary. The Investigating Officer after investigation submitted charge sheet and charges under Sections- 147, 323, 325, 504, 506 and 308 IPC were framed by the trial court. The accuseds denied the charges and sought trial.

7. P.W-1, Narendra Chaudhary, the informant of the case, in his examination-in-chief repeated the allegations mentioned in the FIR. In his cross-examination P.W-1 admitted that he is not aware on which post accused, Satish, is employed in police force. Accused, Jai Narain, is employed in P.A.C. He does knows where accsueds, Kishan Swaroop, Kunwar Bahadur and Bharat are employed. He admitted that the house of the accuseds are after the ten feet street near his house. He stated that his family takes water from well and public tap which is situated on the gate of Jagannath.

Thereafter he stated that the aforesaid tap is situated on the gate of the accuseds but his family never takes water from the same. He failed to reply from where his family members take water. He alleged that the accuseds throw stones in his house and this is resulted into dispute with his brothers with accused, Bharat about two years ago in the month of July, 1998 but not in his presence. No FIR was lodged regarding the aforesaid incident and also the incident dated 07.03.2000. On 07.03.2000 no altercation took place but accused, Rohit pointed a pistol on the chest of his brother and threatened him but not before him. He came to his house four days prior to the incident on leave. He came to his house on 03.03.2000 but did not met the accuseds on 04.03.2000, 05.03.2000, 06.03.2000, 07.03.2000 and 08.03.2000. He saw them at 06:00 p.m on 09.03.2000, i.e., the date of incident. There was some function in their house and therefore all of them had gathered in their house. He admitted that P.W-2, Ashwani Kumar, is his brother-in-law and Hoti Lal is his uncle (mama). He stated that there were two injuries on his body and not one, as stated in FIR. When he reached the hospital he realized that he has suffered two injuries. The blood stains on the earth were present where he got injured but the Investigating Officer did not took the same in his possession. Apart from causing him injuries the accuseds beated his father, Ram Sewak Chaudhary and Hari Mohan. But by what weapon they were beaten he does not knows. They also suffered injuries. Father suffered injuries on mouth and the brother was slapped. He admitted that he did not mentioned these facts in the FIR.

8. P.W-2, Ashwani Kumar, stated in his examination-in-chief that accuseds, Satish Babu and Jagat Ram, caught the hand of P.W-1, Narendra Chaudhary and abused him and accused, Bharat, caused blow on his head by the butt of the gun. In his cross-examination he admitted that P.W-1, Narendra Chaudhary, is his brother-in-law (behnoi). He was present at the time of incident in the house when the incident dated 07.03.2000 took place at 10 - 10:30 am. He recognizes the accuseds. The accuseds had come from south direction. At the time of incident, Hoti Lal, Mama of P.W-1, was sitting along with him. He accompanied P.W-1, to the police station on motorcycle. He was driving and P.W-1 was sitting on the motorcycle. Hoti Lal was also sitting and holding him from behind. They went to police station and after giving application at the police station went to the hospital. Hoti Lal was medically examined. On 14.03.2000 accused, Rohit Desh Raj, Bharat, Satish, Jagat Narain, Kishan Swaroop and Kunwar Bahadur, came to his house in village Tulsipur and threatened him that in case he gives statement in favour of P.W-1 they will kill him. He testified that Bharat had gun in his hand he cannot say which accused had lathi and which had farsa in his hand. There was only injury on the head of the P.W-1 and no other injury on his body.

9. P.W-3, Hoti Lal, mama of P.W-1, stated that on 07.03.2000 accused, Rohit, pointed a country made pistol on the chest of Hari Mohan and threatened him of life. On the date of incident 09.03.2004 the accuseds came to the house of the P.W-1. Accused, Bharat, had gun in his hand and other accuseds had lathi-danda, farsa etc., in their hands. Accuseds, Jagat and Satish, caught hold of hand of P.W-1. Accused, Bharat, caused injury on the head of the injured by the butt of his gun. There was only one injury on the head of P.W-1. Application was given by P.W-1 at the police station and FIR was lodged.

10. P.W-4, Head Constable, Anokhe Lal, proved the chik FIR. He further stated that he saw the injury on the head of the injured and got his signatures on the chik report.

11. P.W-5, Dr. V.V. Prakash, Senior Radiologist, stated that the injured came alone and was not accompanied by any policemen. His right parietal bone was found fractured and he gave his report accordingly.

12. P.W-6, Dr. R.B. Arya, found one lacerated wound 8.5 cm x 1 cm x bone deep 10 cm above right ear on scalp with fresh bleeding present on the body of the injured. Second injury was found to be pain in the back but no injury was found.

13. P.W-7, Sub-Inspector, Harendra Singh Yadav, proved the investigation of the case conducted by him.

14. P.W-8, Constable, Babu Lal Yadav, proved the signature of Sub-Inspector, Devendra Dixit on the charge sheet submitted before the court. He proved that Devendra Dixit had died and therefore he is proving his signature on the charge sheet

15. The statement of the accuseds were recorded under Section 313 CrP.C and all of them have stated that P.W-2, Ashwani Kumar and P.W-3, Hoti Lal are sala and mama of P.W-1 respectively and they have given false evidence before the court. They further stated that the family of P.W-1 is envious of prosperity of their family members and therefore they have been falsely implicated in this case on 09.03.2000. The bis the utensils of the cooks, used in marriage of the brother of P.W-1, were kept on the public tap and P.W-1 stumbled on the utensils in the night and fell on them which is resulted in head injury by falling over the utensils. On account of envy he has falsely implicated the accuseds in this case. They denied going to his house and causing injury. The investigation by Investigating Officer was stated to be illegal.

16. The trial court found that offences under Sections 323 and 325 IPC are not made out against the accuseds and as such acquitted them of the charges under the aforesaid sections. However they have been punished for committing offences under Sections 147, 504, 506 (2), 308/149 IPC.

17. Counsel for the appellant has submitted that the implication of all the appellants for offences under Section 308 IPC read with Section 149 IPC is not justified. His submission is that general and sweeping allegations have been levelled against all the accuseds when the role of causing blow on the head of P.W-1 has been assigned only to Bharat. Satish and Jagat Narain, have been assigned the role of catching the hand of the injured. The incident is of night and no source of light has been mentioned nor found during investigation by Investigating Officer and how the assailants were recognized in the night has not been explained. The common object of all the accuseds has not been established. Mere presence of accuseds, except Bharat, does not proves the allegation of unlawful assembly and the implication of the appellants for offence under Section 147 IPC is not justified. There is no motive of the crime except jealousy of the accuseds with the injured. On 07.03.2000 only accused, Rohit threatened the brother of P.W-1 and there also no other motive was assigned for the act of the co-accused, Rohit. Motive still has its corroborative value even when direct testimony is available. When the accused, Bharat, caused the injury to P.W-1 on his head by butt of the gun, he raised alarm and then P.W-2 and P.W-3 reached the scene of incident but they did not saw anyone on the scene of incident. The testimony of P.W-1 has not been corroborated any witness of fact. The implication of the appellants under Section 504 and 506 IPC is not justified since only on account of mere allegation that accuseds abused the complainant the ingredients of Section 504 and 506 are not satisfied. The insult must be of such degree that it should provoke a person to break public place or commit any other offence. The Investigating Officer has not recovered any blood stained clothes or blood stains on earth from the place of incident when P.W-1 has admitted that blood has fallen on the earth. The prosecution case does not stands proved but the accuseds have been illegally convicted and sentenced.

18. Learned A.G.A on the other hand has submitted that the offence alleged against the appellants stand fully proved. Witness of fact have proved that all the accuseds came with weapons. Bharat was having gun and others were armed with lathi and farsa. Two of them, namely, Jagat Narain and Satish Babu, caught hold of the hands of the informant and Bharat gave a blow from the butt of the gun on his head. On the scream of the injured P.W-2, Ashwani Kumar and P.W-3, Hoti Lal, came on the spot. The medical examination of the injured was conducted on the same day on 11:25 p.m and the doctor found the injury fresh. Fracture on parietal bone of the injured was found. The injury was found to be grievous by the doctor, P.W-6. The offence under Sections 147, 149, 308, 504 and 506(2) IPC are fully made out against the appellants.

19. After hearing the rival contentions the first argument of the counsel for the appellants that for implication under Sections 147 and 149 IPC mere presence of all the accuseds, except accused, Bharat, did not make them member of an unlawful assembly unless the participate in the act of rioting or do some overt act with necessary criminal intention or share common object of unlawful assembly needs consideration. The Apex Court in the case of Vijay Panduram Thakre vs. State of Maharashtra, (2017) 2 SCC (Crl.) 356 has held as follows:-

Section 149 IPC reads as under:

"149. Every member of unlawful assembly guilty of offence committed in prosecution of common object.--If an offence is committed by any member of an unlawful assembly in prosecution of the common object of that assembly, or such as the members of that assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of that object, every person who, at the time of the committing of that offence, is a member of the same assembly, is guilty of that offence." As is clear from the plain language, in order to attract the provision of the Section, following ingredients are to be essentially established.

(i) There must be an unlawful assembly.

(ii) Commission of an offence by any member of an unlawful assembly.

(iii) Such offence must have been committed in prosecution of the common object of the assembly; or must be such as the members of the assembly knew to be likely to be committed.

If these three elements are satisfied, then only a conviction under Section 149, I.P.C., may be substantiated, and not otherwise. None of the Sections 147, 148 and 149 applies to a person who is merely present in any unlawful assembly, unless he actively participates in the rioting or does some overt act with the necessary criminal intention or shares the common object of the unlawful assembly.

In the facts of the present case, we find that common object of the assembly, even if it is presumed that there was an unlawful assembly, has not been proved. The expression 'in prosecution of the common object' occurring in this Section postulates that the act must be one which have been done with a view to accomplish the common object attributed to the members of the unlawful assembly. This expression is to be strictly construed as equivalent to in order to attain common object. It must be immediately connected with common object by virtue of nature of object. In the instant case, even the evidence is not laid on this aspect. As pointed out above, the courts below were influenced by the fact that one of the injuries on the person of Ashok was on his head which became the cause of death and from this, common object is inferred.

In Mukteshwar Rai v. State of Bihar*, the accused persons were alleged to have formed an unlawful assembly, gathered in a village and set some houses on fire and ransacked. Two persons died as they got burnt and two could not be traced. This Court agreed with the finding of the High Court as to formation of the unlawful assembly. But as to the finding that the common object of the unlawful assembly was to commit murder took somewhat a different view and observed:*

"The specific overt acts attributed to A-1 and five others who are said to have actively participated in setting the fire and thrown some of the victims into the fire stand disbelieved. It may also be noted that none of the P.Ws. Is injured and we find from the judgment of the High Court that none of the witnesses say that any one of these appellants were armed. The learned Judge has extracted the incriminating part in each of the witnesses against these appellants. It stated that these accused were identified by those respective witnesses mentioned therein in discussing the case against each of th accused. There is nowhere any mention that any one of these appellants were armed. In such a situation the question is whether these appellants also had a common object of committing the murder. We have given earnest consideration to this aspect. Taking a general picture of the case and after a close scrutiny of the evidence we find that two persons were charred to death. This must have been the result of setting fire to those houses. With regards the other two missing persons it cannot be concluded that they were murdered in the absence of any iota of evidence. Under these circumstances we find it extremely difficult to hold that a common object of the unlawful assembly was to commit murder." We would also like to quote the following passage from Thakore Dolji Vanvirji & Ors. v. State of Gujarat.

20. In the present case it is to be decided whether all the accuseds would be constructively liable. So far as accused, Bharat, is concerned he has been assigned the role of causing blow on the head of the injured by butt of a gun. Satish Babu and Jagat Narain, have been assigned the role of catching hold of the injured, P.W-1, but there is no evidence against the remaining accuseds about any overt act on their part which may constitute offence under Sections 149 and 147 IPC. All the eye-witnesses have made general allegations against the other accuseds of accompanying the accused, named above, with lathi-danda and farsa. No doubt Section 149 IPC is vide in its sweep but in fixing the membership of the accuseds in unlawful assembly and in finding the common object, mere presence in any unlawful assembly does not make them participants in rioting by sharing common object and having necessary criminal intention. Therefore the conviction of all the appellants for offences under Sections 149 and 147 IPC does not appears to be justified. The prosecution has not been able to sustain the charge of rioting. Prosecution has to establish that there was unlawful assembly as defined in Section 141 IPC, that the accuseds were members of that assembly as defined in Section 142 IPC, that force of violence was caused by such assembly or by any member thereof and that it was used in prosecution of the common object of the assembly. The burden of proving the charge lies on the prosecution. Notwithfstanding the large number of persons accused for rioting and consequent difficulty of prosecution to name the specific act of particular accused, the court must see that all the ingredients required for unlawful assembly and rioting are strictly proved by the prosecution before convicting the accuseds.

21. Regarding the conviction of the accuseds for offence under Sections 504 and 506 IPC, the Apex Court in the case of Vikram Johar vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Another, 2019 (14) SCC 207 has held that follows:-

21. We need to notice Sections 503, 504 and 506 for appreciating the issues, which has come up for consideration, which are to the following effect:-

"503. Criminal intimidation.-- Whoever threatens another with any injury to his person, reputation or property, or to the person or reputation of any one in whom that person is interested, with intent to cause alarm to that person, or to cause that person to do any act which he is not legally bound to do, or to omit to do any act which that person is legally entitled to do, as the means of avoiding the execution of such threat, commits criminal intimidation.

Explanation.-- A threat to injure the reputation of any deceased person in whom the person threatened is interested, is within this section.

504. Intentional insult with intent to provoke breach of the peace.--Whoever intentionally insults, and thereby gives provocation to any person, intending or knowing it to be likely that such provocation will cause him to break the public peace, or to commit any other offence, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both.

506. Punishment for criminal intimidation.-- Whoever commits, the offence of criminal intimidation shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both;

If threat be to cause death or grievous hurt, etc.--And if the threat be to cause death or grievous hurt, or to cause the destruction of any property by fire, or to cause an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years, or to impute, unchastity to a woman, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, or with fine, or with both."

22. .....

23. In paragraph No.13 of the judgment, this Court has noticed the ingredients of Section 504, which are to the following effect:-

"13. Section 504 IPC comprises of the following ingredients viz. (a) intentional insult, (b) the insult must be such as to give provocation to the person insulted, and (c) the accused must intend or know that such provocation would cause another to break the public peace or to commit any other offence. The intentional insult must be of such a degree that should provoke a person to break the public peace or to commit any other offence. The person who intentionally insults intending or knowing it to be likely that it will give provocation to any other person and such provocation will cause to break the public peace or to commit any other offence, in such a situation, the ingredients of Section 504 are satisfied. One of the essential elements constituting the offence is that there should have been an act or conduct amounting to intentional insult and the mere fact that the accused abused the complainant, as such, is not sufficient by itself to warrant a conviction under Section 504 IPC."

"11. Xxxxxxxxxxxx A reading of the definition of "criminal intimidation" would indicate that there must be an act of threatening to another person, of causing an injury to the person, reputation, or property of the person threatened, or to the person in whom the threatened person is interested and the threat must be with the intent to cause alarm to the person threatened or it must be to do any act which he is not legally bound to do or omit to do an act which he is legally entitled to do.

12. In the instant case, the allegation is that the appellants have abused the complainant and obstructed the second respondent from discharging his public duties and spoiled the integrity of the second respondent. It is the intention of the accused that has to be considered in deciding as to whether what he has stated comes within the meaning of "criminal intimidation". The threat must be with intention to cause alarm to the complainant to cause that person to do or omit to do any work. Mere expression of any words without any intention to cause alarm would not be sufficient to bring in the application of this section. But material has to be placed on record to show that the intention is to cause alarm to the complainant. From the facts and circumstances of the case, it appears that there was no intention on the part of the appellants to cause alarm in the mind of the second respondent causing obstruction in discharge of his duty. As far as the comments posted on Facebook are concerned, it appears that it is a public forum meant for helping the public and the act of the appellants posting a comment on Facebook may not attract ingredients of criminal intimidation in Section 503 IPC."

22. Now reverting back to the case in hand we find that there is general allegation against the accuseds that after the co-

accused, Bharat, injured P.W-1 and he screamed all the accuseds abused and threatened him of life and went away. There is no allegation that such threat consisted of some injury to his person, reputation of property, or they did so with intent to cause alarm to P.W-1 or to cause him to do any act which he was not legally bound to do or omit to do any act which he was legally entitled to do as a means of avoiding the execution of such threat. Therefore the allegation under Sections 504 and 506 IPC were also not made out against all the appellants.

23. The offence under Section 308 IPC has also been found proved by the trial court against the appellants. There are ocular testimonies of three witnesses of fact in this regard. In law a person commits an offence under Section 308 IPC if he does not act with such intention or knowledge and under such circumstances that, if he thereby caused death he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. In the present case if considered this offence with the motive of only jealousy the offence under Section 308 IPC against accused, Bharat stands proved and not against the other accuseds. The injury of fracture on the left parietal bone of the injured has been found and it is sufficient to bring the case of appellant, Bharat, under Section 308 IPC, because had the injured died, he could have been convicted under Section 304 IPC.

24. Now regarding the offence of catching hold this court finds that such allegations are often made in cases to falsely implicate number of accuseds where the number of injuries on the injured party do not corelate with the number of accuseds. In the present case only one injury on the head of the appellant was found but there were 7 persons implicated by the prosecution. Two of them namely, Satish Babu and Jagat Narain, have been assigned the role of catching hold of injured, P.W-1. The Apex Court in the case of Balwantbhai B. Patel vs. State of Gujarat has held accordingly and set aside the judgment of conviction recorded by the High Court.

25. Regarding the role of exhortation assigned to the accuseds it has been found that it is a week type of evidence as held by the Apex Court in the case Jainul Haque vs. State of Bihar, 1974 AIR SC 0-45. The Apex Court has held in the above noted case that eye-witnesses are prone to exaggerate thing and to involve as many accuseds as possible. The evidence exhortation is, in very nature of things, a week piece of evidence. There is quite often tendency to implicate some persons, in addition to the actual assailants by attributing to that person role of exhortation to the assailants to assault the victim. Unless the evidence in this respect is clear, cogent and reliable no conviction for abetment can be recorded against the person assigned the role of exhortation. In the present case no clear evidence regarding the manner and actual words of exhortation was proved by the prosecution. Hence the role of exhortation assigned to the co-accuseds cannot be accepted. In the present case there is another important aspect of the case. All the accuseds in their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C have stated that there was jealousy on the part of injured which has resulted into their false implication. Similar allegation has been leveled by the injured against the accuseds stating that since he was employed in the bank and his family was prosperous therefore the accuseds were jealous and they caused the alleged offence against him. Both the sides have set up this motive of offence as jealousy only and nothing more. Although there is ocular testimony of three witnesses proving the fact of the accused, Bharat, causing head injury by the butt of gun to the injured P.W-1, but the defense of the accuseds that the injured himself suffered injury by falling on the utensils kept on the public tap in the night and on account of falling over the heavy utensils brought by halwai in marriages he suffered a solitary injury on his temporal bone. This injury was utilized by the injured to false implicate the appellants in this case since there was already relationship of jealousy between the two parties and the injured got and occasion to falsely implicate seven persons in this case. The defense of the accuseds under Section 313 Cr.P.C has not been examined at all by the trial court before convicting and sentencing the appellant. Nothing has been recorded by the trial court whether the defense set up by the accuseds inspires confidence or not. Its probability or improbability has also not been considered by the trial court. It has only recorded the finding that no effective oral or documentary evidence have been produced by the accuseds to prove that the injured suffered injuries after falling on the utensils kept on the public tap.

26. The Apex Court in the case of Reena Hazarika vs. State of Assam MANU/SC/1249/2018 has held regarding the requirement of Section 313 Cr.P.C

"16. Section 313, Code of Criminal Procedure cannot be seen simply as a part of audi alteram partem. It confers a valuable right upon an Accused to establish his innocence and can well be considered beyond a statutory right as a constitutional right to a fair trial Under Article 21 of the Constitution, even if it is not to be considered as a piece of substantive evidence, not being on oath Under Section 313(2), Code of Criminal Procedure The importance of this right has been considered time and again by this Court, but it yet remains to be applied in practice as we shall see presently in the discussion to follow. If the Accused takes a defence after the prosecution evidence is closed, Under Section 313(1)(b) Code of Criminal Procedure the Court is duty bound Under Section 313(4) Code of Criminal Procedure to consider the same. The mere use of the word 'may' cannot be held to confer a discretionary power on the court to consider or not to consider such defence, since it constitutes a valuable right of an Accused for access to justice, and the likelihood of the prejudice that may be caused thereby. Whether the defence is acceptable or not and whether it is compatible or incompatible with the evidence available is an entirely different matter. If there has been no consideration at all of the defence taken Under Section 313 Code of Criminal Procedure, in the given facts of a case, the conviction may well stand vitiated. To our mind, a solemn duty is cast on the court in dispensation of justice to adequately consider the defence of the Accused taken Under Section 313 Code of Criminal Procedure and to either accept or reject the same for reasons specified in writing."

27. Although the trial court has refused to consider the defence of the accuseds under Section 313 Cr.P.C on the ground that there is no oral or documentary evidence in support of the same but this court in exercise of apellate jurisdiction can consider the same. The finding of the court below that there is defence without supporting evidence hence defense of the accuseds set up under section 313 Cr.P.C cannot be considered, is not in accordance with requirement of law. The Apex Court in the case of Reena Hazarika (Supra) has clearly held that the statement of the accuseds under Section 313 Cr.P.C is not a substantive evidence but whether the defence setup therein is acceptable or not has to be considered. Whether the defense is acceptable or not or whether it is compatible or incompatible with the evidence available is an entirely different matter. If there is no consideration at all of the defense taking under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in the given facts of the case, the conviction stands vitiated.

28. In the present case the defence set up was that the injured fell on utensils of halwai in the night and suffered one injury of fracture on his left temporal bone therefrom. No internal damage in the brain of the injured was found by the doctor. It was a simple fracture on parietal bone. The utensils utilized by halwai while preparing food for large number of persons are mostly of heavy metals and have different type of edges and by abruptly falling on such utensils injury on head can occur. It is not absolutely impossible. Due to sudden fall the injury suffered by P.W-1 on head can be suffered by such fall on heavy utensils of halwai. From the statements of P.W-1 it is clear that he has avoided replying to the question from where his family brings the water. The public tap has been admitted to be situated on the gate of the house of the accuseds. It is not improbable that on the public tap infront of the house of the accuseds the utensils were being washed or kept for being washed and the injured stumbled against them and fell on them resulting in injury over his head. He has admitted that the accuseds were jealous of his family and accuseds have said that injureds was jealous of them and therefore there is possibility of false implication of appellants in this case by P.W-1. The trial court has not considered this aspect of defense.

29. After considering the totality of fact and circumstances on record this court find that at the most offence under Section 308 IPC was made out against the accused, Bharat, but on account of non-consideration of the defense of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the same can also not been sustained.

30. The judgment and order of this trial court is set aside. The office is directed to send back record of the court below along with copy of this judgment and order within three weeks.

31. The criminal appeal is allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Kumar Mishra-I, J.
Hon'ble Gautam Chowdhary, J.)

1. Sri Satish Trivedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Ajay Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the appellants is present.

2. By way of instant criminal appeal, challenge has been made to the validity and sustainability of the judgment and order of conviction dated 24.09.1991 passed by Special Judge, Moradabad, in Session Trial No.411 of 1987, State of U.P. Vs. Mohd. Ishaq and others, arising out of Case Crime No.82 of 1987, under Sections 304B, 201, 498A I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station- Behjoi, District- Moradabad, whereby the surviving appellant nos.2 and 3 has been sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life under Section 304B I.P.C., five years rigorous imprisonment under Section 201 I.P.C., two years rigorous imprisonment under Section 498A I.P.C. and two years rigorous imprisonment under Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

3. Heard Sri Ajay Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the surviving appellant nos.2 and 3 Mohd. Mushtaq and Mohd. Asghar, Sri Krishna Pahal, learned A.A.G. assisted by Sri Om Narain Tripathi, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record of this appeal.

4. Relevant facts of this appeal, as gathered from record, appear to be that Haji Mian Jan, informant PW-1 lodged the written report at Police Station Behjoi, District Moradabad (now District Sambhal) against the present appellants and his family members regarding fact that Khurshida Begum, daughter of the informant was married to Mohd. Ishaq some time ago but she was thrown out from her in-laws' house, therefore, she filed a case under Section 125 Cr.P.C. before the court below wherein maintenance to the tune of Rs.150/- was granted to her against which a revision was filed by Mohd. Ishaq before the Sessions Judge, Moradabad. It so happened, in revision a compromise took place that the husband of the deceased promised that he will keep his wife with peace and dignity in future. The Sessions Judge allowed to take his wife back to his home on 20.5.1985. It so happened that on 15.02.1986, the informant received a letter whereby fact of cruelty both mentally and physically being perpetrated upon the deceased was disclosed then the informant's son along with other relatives arrived at the house of the in-laws of his daughter on 17.02.1986 where they were badly treated and returned. Later on, the informant also visited the house of the in-laws of his daughter and he too was maltreated and returned. Thereafter, report was made to various higher authorities of the police, details whereof are made in the first information report itself. As the first information report proceeds further, it indicates that one Abdul Salam @ Sukha master, a neighbour of the informant came to him and told around at 8:00 a.m. on 25.03.1987 that the informant's daughter expired on 15.03.1987 and this death has been caused on account of non-fulfillment of dowry demand and consequent perpetration of cruelty and in order to cause disappearance of evidence, she was buried. Request was made for lodging the report and taking appropriate action. The written report is Ext. Ka-1.

5. Record further reveals that contents of the written information were taken down in the concerned Check FIR at Case Crime No.82 of 1987 under Sections 302, 201, 498A I.P.C. and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Behjoi, District Moradabad, on 26.03.1987 at 09:35 p.m. Check FIR is Ext. Ka-11.

6. On the basis of entries so made in the check F.I.R., a case was registered against the appellants in the relevant G.D. at the aforesaid Case Crime Number at Police Station Behjoi, under aforesaid Sections of I.P.C. and Dowry Prohibition Act against the appellant. General diary copy is on record.

7. After registration of the case, the investigation ensued and the same was entrusted to Circle Officer concerned who pursuant to the lodging of the first information report proceeded to the spot and facilitated for preparation of the inquest of the deceased. The inquest of the deceased Khurshida Begum was held by the Circle Officer concerned. It commenced at 11:00 a.m. and completed at 01:00 p.m. on 28.03.1987. Inquest report is Ext. Ka-14.

8. In the opinion of the inquest witnesses and the Investigating Officer concerned, it was suggested that post mortem of the dead body of Khurshida Begum be ensured in order to ascertain real cause of death. Therefore, relevant papers were prepared such as letter to CMO by R.I. Ext. Ka-13, photonash Ext. Ka-15, letter to R.I. Ext. Ka-16, Police Form 13 challan dead body Ext. Ka-17, letter to CMO Ext. Ka-18, and specimen seal Ext. Ka-19.

9. Thereafter, the dead body was sent for post mortem examination in the mortuary at Moradabad where post mortem examination on the cadaver of the deceased Khurshida Begum was done by the doctor on 29.03.1987 at 12:30 p.m. wherein he noted the following ante mortem injuries:

1. Contusion 4 cm x 3 cm on the left side neck upper part and on cutting blackish clotted blood present under the injury.

2. Contusion 4 ½ cm x 3 cm on the right side neck upper part and on cutting blackish clotted blood present under the injury.

3. Contusion 6 cm x 6 cm on the right side occipital region of head and on cutting blackish clotted blood present under the injury.

10. In the opinion of the doctor, cause of death was due to asphyxia as a result of throttling. This post mortem examination report is Ext. Ka-20.

11. In the meanwhile, the investigation continued. The Investigating Officer in the process recorded statement of various persons including the informant. He also prepared site plan of the place of occurrence Ext. Ka-21 and graveyard Ext. Ka-23.

12. Since relevant papers pertaining to the investigation and the post mortem report were admitted to the defence itself, therefore, no formal witnesses from the prosecution side was produced in proof of the same, thus papers were marked in exhibits. After doing the needful, the Investigating Officer filed charge sheet against the appellant Ext. Ka-22.

13. Pursuant thereto committal proceeding took place and after compliance with Section 207 Cr.P.C., the case was committed to the court of Sessions from where it was transferred to the IX-Additional Sessions Judge, Moradabad, for conduction of trial and disposal of the case, after numbering it as Sessions Trial No.411 of 1987 State Vs. Mohd. Ishaq and others. Learned trial Judge heard the prosecution and the appellants on point of charge and was prima-facie satisfied with the case against the appellants, accordingly, framed charges under Sections 302/34, 201, 498A I.P.C. and 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act. Charges were read over and explained to the appellants who abjured charges and claimed to be tried.

14. In turn, the prosecution was required to adduce its testimony in support of the charge brought against the appellants to prove their guilt, whereupon the prosecution produced the following witnesses whose reference is being sketched hereinbelow.

15. Mian Jan PW-1, Irshad Ahmad PW-2, Mohd. Salim PW-3, Nasheer Ahmad PW-4 and Laddan PW-5 are witnesses of fact. We have already discussed all the police papers and relevant papers were admitted to the defence, therefore, formal proof was dispensed with.

16. After that much, evidence for the prosecution was closed and statement of the appellants was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein they claimed to have been falsely involved on account of enmity in this case.

17. Except as above, no other testimony, whatsoever, has been adduced by the defence, therefore, evidence for the defence was also closed and the case was posted for arguments.

18. The learned trial Judge, Moradabad, after appraisal of facts and consideration of the merit of the case and evaluating the evidence on record, returned aforesaid finding of conviction and awarded sentence vide impugned judgment and order dated 24.09.1991.

19. Hence, this appeal.

20. At the outset, learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that in this case, all the ingredients of Section 304B are not applicable against the present surviving appellants namely Mohd. Mushtaq and Mohd. Asghar, for the specific reason that their role for controlling the working of the entire family in the shape of dominance was insignificant in the presence of the mother-in-law, father-in-law and husband of the deceased Khurshida Begum. There is not a single whisper and iota of evidence or any consistent attendant circumstance which may also allude to inference that both the surviving appellants voluntarily and tacitly ever indulged in any act of demand of dowry from the deceased, informant or the parents of the deceased. To say that the present appellants, both brothers of the husband of the deceased had connived with the rest of the family members; the father-in-law, the mother-in-law and the husband of the deceased and they were persistently sticking to the demand of dowry, not only this but also the factum of cruelty being perpetrated by the surviving appellants, cannot be accepted to have been satisfactorily proved / established by the prosecution as was required of it.

21. Once the fact of perpetration of cruelty is missing against particular appellants then conjectures and surmises alone would not work to fill in the gap created by the prosecution at a stage when specific role was imputed to have been played in the demand of dowry and perpetration of cruelty against the only accused the father-in-law, the mother-in-law and the husband. Nothing such or specific imputed on the point to the present appellants.

22. Two witnesses of fact namely Mian Jan PW-1 and Irshad Ahmad PW-2, father and brother of the deceased have been examined before the trial court, they have not spelled even a single word about any specific role in the shape of perpetration of cruelty or demand of dowry being made at their instance but the surviving appellants were married at the time of the incident and they had separate living with their family and they would not be beneficiary of the transaction and were not directly interested in raising any demand on account their disinterestedness in any dowry what to about its demand. Offence under the provisions of dowry death as such is not made out. There was no point in concealing or causing disappearance of the evidence regarding commission of the dowry death as such no offence under Section 201 I.P.C. is made out either. On that point also, finding of conviction is based on conjectures and erroneous analysis of fact and not supported by any cogent material available on record because there is no specification against the present two surviving appellants that they ever played any particular role. Allegations against them are vague and of trivial nature.

23. Once the case does not fall within four corners of Section 304B I.P.C. and the point of perpetration of cruelty and dowry demand soon before the occurrence by and on behalf of the accused being missing, the essential ingredient (of Section 304B I.P.C.) is virtually not existing since beginning against the present surviving appellants. May be that it is found to have been working for the other accused against whom specific role has emerged in the testimony of witnesses but it is not so against the present two surviving appellants who are none other than the two brothers of the husband of the deceased.

24. It is tendency in the cases pertaining to dowry death that the entire family is roped in. The court is required to act cautiously; be circumspect about false involvement of the accused. It is a case of false and vague allegations against the present two surviving appellants. There is virtually nothing against the present surviving appellants bringing their case under Sections 498A, 304B, 201 I.P.C. and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act.

25. Learned trial Judge failed to take stock of the aforesaid factual as well as legal aspects of this case which were very much apparent to it and erroneously recorded conviction against the appellants in casual manner, which finding is not based on material on record. The prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt.

26. Per contra, Sri Krishna Pahal, learned A.A.G. for the State has has submitted that the trial court has rightly acted on the evidence available before it and has rightly applied the principles of the presumption as envisaged under Section 113B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. The incident took place within seven years of the marriage of the deceased and the death in question as per post mortem examination report is unnatural and testimony of the prosecution witnesses is replete with fact that the in-laws side of the deceased demanded dowry, thus perpetrated cruelty upon the deceased Khurshida Begum. Merely because no specification has been made regarding demand of dowry and perpetration of cruelty, insofar as against the present two surviving appellants are concerned, that would not alone exonerate them of charges inter-alia under Section 304B I.P.C.

27. It is the admitted position that the post mortem examination report has been admitted to the defence and they cannot question the nature of the ante mortem injuries caused on the body of the deceased Khurshida Begum. Once it being so, the burden of proof bounced back to the appellants to come out specifically as to how it was caused on the body of the deceased. It is not proved and cannot be accepted under circumstances that the present appellants were residing separately at the time of occurrence. The charge sheet was rightly filed against the present appellants and all the ingredients of perpetration of cruelty are equally applicable to all the accused under prevailing facts and circumstances of the case. The trial court was justified in recording conviction and passing sentence against them.

28. We have also considered the above submissions pros and cons made by both the sides.

29. In the light of rival submissions and the claim of the appellants and the prosecution, the moot point that arises for adjudication of this appeal relates to fact whether the testimony of the prosecution witnesses of fact is innocuous and the charges framed against the appellants have been proved beyond reasonable doubt ?

30. We have carefully scrutinized the record and the testimony of the aforesaid two witnesses of fact namely PW-1 and PW-2 and have also scanned testimony of PW-3, PW-4 and PW-5. We would not indulge unnecessarily in roving scrutiny and exhaustive interpretation of facts as involved in this case. However, we can unhesitatingly observe that all the above five prosecution witnesses, if taken to be true, and normal construction is raised about the very import of their testimony on the point of demand of dowry then it is found to be not specific against the present surviving appellants. Whatever, we come across, is fact that mother-in-law, father-in-law in company with the husband of the deceased played vital role in demanding of dowry and perpetration of cruelty on the deceased but the present appellants have not been whispered by the prosecution witnesses about any specific role being played in the commission of the offence. The involvement of the appellants cannot be said to be either direct or indirect in this case. Things are, on the contrary, vague and general insofar as the role of the two appellants is concerned.

31. It has come in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses that all the brothers of the husband of the deceased have their own separate living though in the same house. It means that the control and the dominance over the family of the deceased was very much confined to her husband, mother-in-law and father-in-law and it did not travel beyond it. Now this being accepted and proved position, how can it be said that the present appellants ever exercised influence upon the deceased in raising demand of dowry. Mere conjectures and guess can be made at this stage that they might have sided with the aforesaid mother-in-law, father-in-law and the husband of the deceased but that conjecture cannot be accepted to be the established position, which was required to be proved as such under the relevant provisions of the Indian Evidence Act. That being so, any sort of presumption for committing dowry death as the accused as envisaged under Section 113B Indian Evidence Act, 1872 would be derogatory to the principles contained under the Indian Evidence Act itself.

32. Therefore, the approach adopted by the trial court is not based on material on record. To raise such presumption under Section 113B of the Indian Evidence Act against the appellants is not justified. Rest of the ingredients may be present but the fact that soon before her death, the deceased was subjected to cruelty is not specifically proved against the present appellants, for the reason that in the same house, they were residing in different portion and that being established position (emerging in testimony), how can it be said that the present appellants also colluded and connived with the other family members in view of fact that they were not beneficiary of the outcome of dowry (demand). The circumstances are cogent and conspicuous. They speak for themselves and need no explanation as such. We unequivocally are of the view that the trial court did not approach cautiously and properly to this virtual aspect abundantly supported position supported by evidence on record and wrongly recorded finding of conviction under Sections 304B, 201, 498A I.P.C. and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act against the two surviving appellants which is not justified.

33. It is settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that in cases where evidence and circumstances when weighed substantially and taken cumulatively raised strong suspicion about the manner and style of the occurrence that it was so caused by the accused-appellants, then benefit of doubt would be the only reasonable outcome of judicial scrutiny and this benefit of doubt always works in favour of the accused (appellants).

34. The learned trial court could not appraise substantive facts and testimony of this case in right perspective and considered things from narrow angle without properly scrutinizing the same on its entirety and intrinsic potency, instead it read testimony and circumstances only on its face value, whereas, proper scrutiny of fact vis a vis testimony on record would have brought truth on the surface. It is very easy to consider and examine testimony recorded in examination in chief, whereas, the Court has to cautiously contemplate on the entire testimony as a whole and particularly as emerging from the cross examination and then to proceed to record finding on merit for arriving at just conclusion.

35. We may record our satisfaction that arguments extended on behalf of the present appellants carry force and the same are approved and sustained by us. Consequently we hold in unambiguous term that the prosecution has not been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the two surviving appellants namely Mohd. Mushtaq and Mohd. Asghar. Thus charges framed against them become doubtful and they are entitled to the benefit of doubt.

36. In the wake of above discussion, we may sum up that the finding of conviction recorded by the trial court is on the face erroneous and perverse and the same cannot be sustained in the eye of law. Therefore, the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 24.09.1991 passed by Special Judge, Moradabad, in Session Trial No.411 of 1987, State of U.P. Vs. Mohd. Ishaq and others, arising out of Case Crime No.82 of 1987, under Sections 304B, 201, 498A I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station- Behjoi, District- Moradabad, is hereby set aside. Accused-appellants are acquitted of all charges as above. Accordingly, the instant appeal is allowed.

37. In this case, the accused-appellants Mohd. Mushtaq and Mohd. Asghar are already on bail. They need not surrender in this case. Their bail bonds cancelled and sureties discharged. However, they shall furnish surety bonds in compliance with Section 437A Cr.P.C.

38. Let a copy of this judgment/order be certified to the court concerned for necessary information and follow up action.

1. St. of H.P. Vs. Pardeep Kumar & ors., (2018) 13 SCC 808.

2. Bhajan Singh @ Harbhajan Singh & ors. Vs. St.of Har., 2011 (4) Supreme 639.

3. Sadayappan @ Ganesan Vs. State, represented by Inspector of Police, 2019 SCC OnLine SC 610.

(Hon'ble Ali Zamin, J.)

1. Heard Sri A.B.L. Gaur, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Saurabh Gaur for the appellants and the learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This appeal has been preferred being aggrieved from the judgement and order dated 22.05.2002 passed in Session Trial No.62 of 1998 (State vs. Rakesh and others) arising out of Case Crime No.2 of 1997, under Sections 323, 324, 307 read with Section 34 and 504 I.P.C., Police Station Mursan, District Aligarh by which learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.13, Aligarh has convicted the accused-appellants and sentenced each appellant to undergo life imprisonment and fine of Rs.10,000/- under Section 307/34 I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine further to undergo one year simple imprisonment, three months rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs.500/- for each offence under Sections 323 and 504 I.P.C. In default of fine to undergo simple imprisonment for a month to each under Sections 323/34 and 504 I.P.C.

3. During the pendency of the appeal appellant no.4 Brindavan died and appeal against him has been dismissed as abated vide order dated 10.04.2019. Hence, this appeal is confined only against the applicant no.1 Rakesh, appellant no.2 Gopal and appellant no.3 Mohan.

4. According to prosecution on 08.01.1997 injured Deshraj was looking after his crops in the field, when at about 12:00 hours of the day Rakesh, Gopal, Mohan sons of Brindavan and Brindavan came there and forcefully started filling fodder (kutti) from his burgi (small turret). On his objection accused persons started abusing and beating the injured Deshraj, accused Gopal fired shot from his illegal country-made pistol which hit his left leg. Mohan beat him with stick (lathi). Ram Mohan reached the spot otherwise they would have killed him. Jagdish son of Siya Ram, Shiv Shankar son of Bhagwandas, Chokhey Lal son of Jhabba Ram and others have witnessed the incident. Accused Jagdish is resident of Navipur and other accused are resident of village of the injured.

5. On the basis of written report (Ext.Ka-1) lodged by informant Komal Prasad on 08.01.1997 at 12:30 P.M. chik F.I.R. (Ext.Ka-4) was registered u/s 323, 504, 324 and 307 I.P.C.. Investigation of the case was entrusted to S.I. S.M. Husain (P.W.7) and G.D. entry (Ext.Ka-5) was also prepared on the same day. Injured Deshraj was sent to P.H.C., Mursan after preparing the majrubi chitthi along with constable Bhure Singh, where Dr. Ramveer Singh (P.W.5) examined the injured on 08.01.1997 at 1:30 P.M.and prepared injury report Ext.Ka-3, according to which following injuries were found on the body of the inured.

1. Gun shot wound of entry of size 2 c.m. x 1.5 c.m. muscle deep left thigh middle side 16 c.m. above medial end of left knee below palpable. No wound of exit Advised x-ray.

2. Contusion of size 2.5 c.m. x 1.5 c.m. back of right shoulder joint above supramedial angle reddish in colour.

3. Contusion 6 c.m. x 2 c.m. right side of chest back just below inferior angle reddish in colour.

4. Contusion 2 c.m. x 1 c.m. left side back and supramedial angle.

Injury no.1 kept under observation and advised x-ray. Injury nos.2, 3 and 4 are simple in nature. Injury no.1 is caused by fire arm weapon while injury nos.2, 3 and 4 are caused by hard and blunt object.

6. Investigating Officer observing necessary formalities prepared spot map (Ext.Ka-6) on the pointing of the informant Komal Prasad (P.W.1) and after completing the investigation filed charge sheet (Ext.Ka-7) under Sections 323/34, 324/34, 307/34 and 504 I.P.C. against accused persons before the court of C.J.M., Aligarh, who took cognizance of the case and committed accused to the court of sessions for trial where the Case Crime No. 2 of 1997 was registered as Session Trial No.62 of 1998, from where it was transferred to the court of Additional Sessions Judge-13th, who framed charge under Section 323/34, 324/34, 504 and 307/34 I.PC. against the accused persons.

7. Prosecution to prove charge against the accused persons produced seven witnesses. P.W.1 Komal Prasad infomrant, P.W.2 Deshraj injured and Ram Mohan (P.W.3) are the witnesses of fact, P.W. 4 Dr. R.P. Gupta conducted x-ray, P.W.5 Dr. Ramveer Singh conducted medical examination of the injured, P.W.6 Sri Ram, scribe of chik and G.D. and P.W.7 S.M. Husain I.O. are the formal witnesses. After examination of prosecution witnesses, statement of the accused persons were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. In their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., they have stated that on account of enmity case proceeded against them. Accused persons have produced D.W.1 Dr. V.P. Gupta in their defence.

8. After hearing the parties and perusal of the record the Additional Sessions Judge-13th, Aligarh passed the impugned judgement and order, hence this appeal.

9. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that according to prosecution Gopal had country-made pistol, Mohan had 'Lathi', Brindavan and Rakesh were unarmed. Accused persons beat Deshraj with leg and fists. Gopal fired from country-made pistol upon the injured, Mohan beat him with 'Lathi'. In the first information report Jagdish, Shiv Shankar, Chokhey Lal are alleged eye witnesses of the incident but no independent witness has been produced by the prosecution, only son and grandson interested and related witnesses have been produced which casts a doubt on the prosecution case. Next submission is that according to injured from a distance of near about one and half hand accused Gopal had fired shot at him and as per medical jurisprudence if injury is caused within a distance of five feet then blackening and tattooing will be present but as per injury report Ext.Ka-3 in the present case no blackening and tattooing has been found. Further alleged injury is not found through and through injury. In that situation pellets would have been found in the injury. But as per X-Ray report (Ext.Ka-2.), no abnormality has been found, therefore, he submits that injury as alleged is also not proved. He further submits that as per injury report fire arm injury has been found on the left thigh, therefore, it cannot be said that there was intention to kill the injured. He also submits that accused Gopal was admitted in Bagla Civil Hospital, Hathras on 08.01.1997 at 08.15 A.M. and he was discharged on 10.01.1997 at 09.00 A.M., which is proved by D.W.1 Dr.V.P.Gupta, therefore, accused Gopal was not present at the alleged time of the incident. Lastly, he submits that injured P.W.2 Deshraj has accepted that his wife had purchased six bighas land from Jagdish although he has denied knowledge of agreement to sell of the land executed by Panna Lal in favour of Jagdish and the agreement executed by Panna Lal in favour of Jagdish was cancelled by the High Court. But he has admitted that in respect of the six bighas land, which was purchased by his wife, Panna Lal has executed a sale deed before the incident in favour of accused and their sister Rajvati. Thus, it becomes clear from the evidence that there was enmity between the parties and that is why the accused persons have been falsely implicated in the case.

10. Per contra learned A.G.A. submits that it is a case of broad day light incidence. Prompt F.I.R. has been lodged regarding the incident. Doctor has opined that fire arm injury has been caused to the injured. Prosecution version is supported by medical evidence also. From the evidence on record the causing of the incident by the accused persons is proved. Witnesses have stated that with intention to kill, accused Gopal had fired upon the injured. By chance the injury was caused on a non-vital part but intention of causing fatal injury is clear. Learned trial judge has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellant and no interference is required by this Court.

11. As per first information report (Ext.Ka-4) incident occurred on 08.01.1997 at 12.00 hours of the day regarding which information was given at 12.30 P.M. on 08.01.1997. P.W.6 Sri Ram has stated that on the written report of informant Komal Prasad had registered Case Crime No.2 of 1997, under Sections 323, 504, 324, 307 I.P.C.of which chik no.2 of 1997 is in his writing and signature and has been proved by him as Ext.Ka-4. Relating to it an entry was made in the G.D. at serial no.24 on 08.01.1997 to which also he has proved as Ext.Ka-5. From his cross-examination nothing has been extracted so that inference may be drawn that on 08.01.1997 at 12.30 P.M. he did not register Case Crime No. 2 of 1997, under Sections 323, 504, 324, 307 I.P.C..

12. According to written report (Ext.Ka-1), the incident had occurred at about 12.00 hours of the day on 08.01.1997. This fact has been supported by P.W.1 Komal Prasad. In cross-examination too at page 17 of the paper book he has stated that the incident occurred at 12.00 hours of the day. He had proceeded for Police Station at 12.00 hours of the day and reached the Police Station at 12.30 P.M. He has further stated that Police Station from his village is at a distance of 1/2 km. and he took his father on foot taking him on a cot. He has also stated that in scribing the report 4-5 minutes were taken. From his cross-examination nothing has been extracted so that an inference can be drawn that incident did not occur at about 12.00 hours of the day. Injured P.W.2 Deshraj also has stated that near about three years before the incident had occurred at 12.00 hours of the day. In cross-examination he has stated that the investigating officer recorded his statement at about 12.30 P.M.. P.W.3 Ram Mohan has also stated that near about four years earlier, the incident had occurred at 12.00 hours of the day. From cross-examination of P.W.2 Deshraj and Ram Mohan nothing has been extracted so that any adverse inference can be drawn. Thus, on the point of occurrence of incident at 12.00 hours of the day and lodging first information report at 12.30 P.M. prosecution evidence is consistent, corroborative to each other.

13. As per chik report (Ext.Ka-4), distance of Police Station from the place of incident is 05 kms.. P.W.1 Komal Prasad in his cross-examination has stated that Police Station from his village is at a distance of 1/2 km. Thus, as per statement of the informant and chik report there is difference regarding distance of Police Station from the village but from the prosecution evidences as discussed above, it is established that first information report has been registered at 12.30 P.M.. Regarding occurrence of incident the witnesses have stated the time of incident on the basis of estimation as is evident from Ext.Ka-1 also, in which the time of incident has been mentioned as about 12:00 hours of the day. Therefore, on the basis of difference of distance between Police Station and village as observed above registration of the case at 12.30 P.M. cannot be doubted. Thus, in the facts and circumstances of the case, it is established that regarding incident at 12:00 A.M. F.I.R. has been lodged promptly without deliberation and consultation.

14. Admittedly, P.W.1 Komal Prasad is the son of injured Deshraj and P.W.3 Ram Mohan is the son of informant Komal Prasad. Therefore, witnesses produced by the prosecution are related to each other.

15. In the case of State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Pardeep Kumar and others, (2018) 13 SCC 808, Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraph 5 of the judgment has held as under:

"5... So far as examination of independent witnesses in support of the prosecution case is concerned all that would be necessary to say in this regard is that examination of independent witnesses is not an indispensable requirement and such non-examination is not necessarily fatal to the prosecution case..."

16. In the case of Bhajan Singh @ Harbhajan Singh & Ors. vs. State of Haryana, 2011 (4) Supreme 639, Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 26 of the judgment has held as under:

"26. Evidence of a related witness can be relied upon provided it is trustworthy. Such evidence is carefully scrutinised and appreciated before reaching to a conclusion on the conviction of the accused in a given case."

17. In Sadayappan @ Ganesan vs. State, represented by Inspector of Police, 2019 SCC OnLine SC 610, the Hon'ble Supreme court in para 11 of the judgment has held as under:

"11. Criminal law jurisprudence makes a clear distinction between a related and interested witness. A witness cannot be said to be an "interested" witness merely by virtue of being a relative of the victim. The witness may be called "interested" only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished."

18. In view of the above law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court we have to carefully scrutinize and appreciate evidence of witnesses as to whether they are trustworthy as well as whether witnesses will derive some benefit from the result of litigation in seeing the accused persons punished.

19. On going through the evidence of P.W.1 Komal Prasad, P.W.2 Deshraj and P.W.3 Ram Mohan we find that the witnesses are not likely to derive any benefit if accused are punished.

20. P.W.1 Komal Prasad has stated that he knows Maya Devi. Maya Devi had lodged report against him under Sections 323, 324 I.P.C.. He has also stated that a 'Marpeet' was committed with him regarding which he had lodged report, thereafter Maya Devi also lodged report. In the case of Maya Devi, Gopal was witness and in his report he was accused. He has also stated that on the basis of report by Mohan a case is pending under Section 307 I.P.C. against him, his son and his brother of which also there is cross case pending against Mohan. He has further stated that he knows Jagdish of his village but he has no knowledge whether Panna Lal had executed any agreement to sell for ten and half bighas land in favour of Jagdish. He has admitted that his mother's name is Asharfi Devi and 28 years before the incident his mother Asharfi Devi had purchased land from Jagdish. It is not in his knowledge that any case is pending regarding this land between Jagdish and Panna Lal. He has also stated that it is wrong to say that he has purchased this ten and half bighas land from Jagdish. True fact is that he has purchased seven and half bighas land from Jagdish. It is not in his knowledge that this seven and half bighas land was sold to accused persons and their sister Rajvati. He has also stated that regarding that land litigation is pending between Panna Lal and him. He has not arrayed accused persons as party in the case.

21. P.W.2 Deshraj in cross-examination has also stated that name of his wife is Asharfi Devi. He does not know Panna Lal. He has no knowledge about his land in the village and it is also not within his knowledge that Panna Lal executed a sale deed of seven and half bighas land in favour of Jagdish. His wife purchased six bighas land from Jagdish thirty years before the incident. He has no knowledge about the litigation on this land between Panna Lal and Jagdish and he has denied that Jagdish lost the case from the court of Munsif, Hathras and the High Court and has stated that the case was dismissed in default. He has further stated that it is not in his knowledge that the agreement to sell executed by Panna Lal in favour of Jagdish was cancelled by the High Court or not. He has admitted that before the incident in respect of six bighas land which was purchased by his wife Asharfi Devi a sale deed was executed by Panna Lal in favour of accused and their sister Rajvati. On purchase of his land by the accused persons he did not feel any ill-will because they had purchased the same legally. He has also stated that accused persons are not in possession after purchase of the land. Land is in possession of 'Supurdgar'. Above statements of witnesses P.W.1 Komal Prasad and P.W. 2 Deshraj show that there was a litigation between informant and accused about the land purchased by the wife of the injured and criminal cases between Komal Prasad and Mohan are pending. Thus, it is inferred that the witnesses had inimical terms with the accused.

22. It is well settled that enmity is a double edged weapon and it cuts both sides. On the basis of enmity on the one hand one can be falsely implicated and on the other hand one can cause incident also. Therefore, keeping in mind, we have to analyse the evidence of prosecution witnesses.

23. P.W. 1 Komal Prasad has stated that his father was on the field at 12.00 hours of the day to look after the field. Gopal, Mohan, Rakesh and Brindavan of the village were taking fodder from 'Burgi' on his filed. When his father objected they started abusing and beating him with legs, fists and 'Danda'. Gopal with intention to kill fired with illegal country made pistol, the shot hit the injured on left leg, Mohan beat him with a lathi. Receiving of fire arm injury by Deshraj in the left leg and other injuries on account of beating by accused persons is supported by the injury report (Ext.Ka-3) proved by P.W.5, Dr. Ramveer Singh. He has also stated that Shiv Shankar, Ram Mohan, Chokhey Lal and Jagdish reached the spot. He also reached the spot. In cross examination this witness has stated that if the Investigating Officer has not recorded in his statement regarding fire by Gopal with intention to kill and reaching the witnesses on the spot then he cannot tell any reason. It indicates that before the court this witness has improved his version regarding firing by accused with intention to kill. He has also stated that it is true that he wrote in his report that he had reached the spot. He has also stated that at the time of incident he was at his 'Gher' (boundary). The place of incident from his 'Gher' (boundary) is 3-4 fields away. He reached the spot on hearing noise. He had reached the place of incident at the time of committing 'Marpeet'. He had seen the accused committing 'Marpeet' in the way. He has given description with regard to taking out fodder from the 'Burgi'. From his statement it is inferred that the place of incidence is not far away from his 'Gher' (boundary). In case of 'gher' being situated near the place of incident and the incident has occurred in the field, incident can be seen by him. Therefore, his statement appears to be true that he had seen the incident while on the way and he also reached the spot. No other material has been elicited from his cross-examination so that his statement regarding abusing, beating by fists and legs by accused persons, causing 'Lathi' and fire arm injury to injured Deshraj by Mohan and Gopal respectively can be doubted. Thus, on careful scrutiny of his testimony, we find that even if the witness P.W.1 Komal Prasad had inimical terms with the accused, his evidence regarding abusing and causing leg and fists, 'Lathi' and fire arm injury by accused Rakesh, Mohan and Gopal respectively is trust worthy and reliable.

24. P.W.2 Deshraj is the injured and an important witness of the case. He has stated that he was looking after his field at about 12.00 hours of the day. At that time Brindavan, Rakesh, Gopal, Mohan came to his field and forcefully started taking 'Kuti' (fodder) from his Burgi. Deshraj objected and then accused persons abused him and started 'Marpeet' and Gopal with intention to kill fired upon him. The shot hit his left leg. The other accused persons beat him by 'Lathi', legs and fists. On his alarm Ram Mohan, Komal, Shiv Shanker, Jagdish, Chokhey Lal came there.

25. He has stated that if the Investigating Officer has not recorded his statement that Gopal had fired upon him with intention to kill then he cannot tell any reason of it. He has also stated that he told the Investigating Officer that Ram Mohan and Komal came to the spot and saved him. If the Investigating Officer has not recorded this in his statement then he cannot tell any reason for it. In above discussion, we have found Komal Prasad is a witness of incident and he reached the spot also, hence, even if in his statement it has not been recorded by the Investigating Officer, witnessing and reaching the place of incident of Komal Prasad cannot be doubted. Witnessing the incident by P.W. 3 Ram Mohan has been disclosed in the FIR itself which has been lodged promptly and is his cross-examination nothing has been extracted so that his presence on the spot can be doubted, therefore, witnessing and reaching the place of incident of P.W.3, Ram Mohan is also established.

26. P.W. 2 Deshraj the injured at page 29 of the paper book has stated that firstly accused persons abused then committed 'Marpeet' with him and during 'Marpeet' Gopal fired upon him. He has also stated that Mohan had a 'Lathi', Rakesh had nothing but he was beating him with legs and fists. Brindavan was also unarmed, he was beating him then Gopal fired on him the shot hit his thigh which is corroborated by the injury report (Ext. Ka-3). The statement of this witness regarding abusing and firing by Gopal and beating by 'Lathi' by accused is consistent with the written report (Ext.Ka-1). He has also stated that hearing the sound of fire, the witnesses came to the spot. The witnesses were already coming and going. The witnesses, who were coming and going on the way among them Komal Prasad and Ram Mohan were coming to the field itself. Shiv Shanker, Chokhey Lal and Jagdish were going to the market. He has also narrated the incident in detail on asking by the defence. The core case of the prosecution is not shaken from the cross-examination with regard to abusing by accused persons, beating by fists and legs by accused person, beating by 'Lathi' by accused Mohan and causing fire arm injury by the accused Gopal. Thus, on a careful analysis of the whole statement as discussed above, even if the accused and injured P.W.2 Deshraj had inimical terms his evidence regarding the incident is trust worthy and reliable.

27. P.W.3 Ram Mohan has also supported the prosecution version. From his cross-examination nothing material has been elicited so that his presence on the spot and his testimony regarding the incident can be doubted.

28. Defence has also produced D.W.1 Dr. V.P. Gupta in order to prove that accused Gopal was not present at the time of incident and this witness has stated that Gopal Sharma, the accused, was admitted in the hospital on 08.01.1997 at 8:15 A.M. and discharged on 10.01.1997 at 9:00 A.M. He has admitted in cross examination that in the Admission Register time of admission is not mentioned. On the bed head ticket name and address is not written in his hand writing. He has also stated that loose bundle of bed head tickets remains with the pharmacist. It is also stated that Mukesh Kumar who has written the name and address is still in service. According to him the patient had freedom of movement from which it can be inferred that the accused Gopal was not an indoor patient. He has also stated that he does not supervise patient at all times because patient remains in the ward and he does outdoor duty. Therefore, from the statement of this witness, it cannot be said that presence of accused Gopal at the time of incident was impossible. Accordingly, we find no substance in the contention of learned counsel for the appellant that Gopal was not present at the time of incident.

29. According to prosecution a fire arm injury in the thigh of Deshraj was caused by Gopal. P.W. 5 Dr.Ramveer Singh found injury no.1 a fire arm injury and he was feeling pellet in the injury. There was no tattooing and scorching in the wound and it was not an exit wound. X-ray was advised and according to P.W.4, no abnormality was found in the X-ray on which learned counsel for the appellants submits that if fire arm injury was caused and there was no exit wound then in that situation pellets would have been found in the body. P.W.2 in his cross-examination at page 24 of the paper book has stated had Gopal had fired upon him from a hand, one and half hand and at page 29 of the paper book has stated that Gopal had fired from a distance of 02 hands, on which he submits that as per medical jurisprudence if fire arm injury is caused within a distance of 05 feet then blackening and tattooing will be present.

30. In spot map (Ext. Ka-6) proved by P.W.7 S.I.Syed Masook Husain, Investigating Officer, place XA has been shown as the place of causing injury and place XB has been shown from where accused Gopal fired. The distance of place XA from place XB is shown as 10 steps . In cross examination at page 24 of the paper book he has stated that Gopal had fired upon him from a distance near about a hand, one and half hand and on page 29 he has stated that when the accused were taking out fodder from the 'Burgi' he was at a distance of two hands. He has further stated that the accused were committing 'Marpeet' and at that time Gopal fired. Such a statement has been made by the witness on 01.02.2000 and 01.03.2001. While the incident has taken place on 08.01.1997. The witness is also a rustic witness, therefore, in view of the nature of injury caused to him and the varied statement at the same time, i.e., a hand, one and half hand and two hands while as per spot map (Ex.Ka-6) distance has been shown as 10 feet which was prepared at the time of incident, therefore, there is no reason to disbelieve the distance disclosed in the spot map. Thus, on account of not finding blackening and scorching on the wound prosecution case cannot be doubted.

31. As per X-ray report (Ext. Ka-2) proved by Dr.R.P.Gupta no abnormality has been found in the fire arm injury. As per page 537 and 538 of MODI Medical Jurisprudence And Toxicology 24th Edition Reprint 2012, "when the wound of entrance is present, but not the wound of exit, it means that a bullet is lodged in the body, except in those rare cases where a bullet has been coughed out after entering the respiratory passages or lost in the stool after entering the intestinal tract and also where a bullet by coming in contact with a bone is so deflected as to pass out by the same orifice as it entered."

32. In view of Modi Medical Jurisprudence, in rare case bullet is deflected from the same orifice from which it entered. Prosecution evidence on the point of causing fire arm injury to injured Deshraj is consistent and corroborated with medical evidence. Therefore, keeping in view of Modi Medical jurisprudence, on the basis of not finding any bullet in the body of the injured and distance disclosed by witness between accused and himself, we do not find any substance in the contention of the learned counsel for the appellants that if fire arm injury is caused within a distance of two hands blackening and tattooing will be found and there is no exit injury, therefore, pellet should be present in the injury.

33. Considering the evidence produced by the prosecution as discussed above, we find that evidences of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W. 3 are consistent, trust worthy and reliable with regard to the incident, therefore, the contention of the learned counsel for the appellants also has no force that on account of enmity they have been falsely implicated.

34. According to Ext.Ka-1, accused Gopal caused fire arm injury on the left leg of injured Deshraj. Injured Deshraj has stated that when accused were beating him at that time Gopal fired upon him which indicates that firing by Gopal to the injured Deshraj was not in furtherance of common intention of other accused. It was his lone act. Therefore, all the accused persons cannot be held liable for causing fire arm injury by accused Gopal. Further, in Ext.Ka-1 it is mentioned that fire arm injury hit the left leg of Deshraj. Seat of injury is on the thigh which is not a vital part. Injured and other witnesses have improved their statement that with intention to kill the accused fired upon the injured, it was not the case of the prosecution that with intention to kill the shot was fired by the accused Gopal targeting a vital part but injury was caused on a non-vital part. As per evidence of the injured also the accused started beating and at once Gopal fired and the shot hit the injured on his thigh. In such a situation it cannot be inferred that intention of the accused was to kill the injured. Therefore, charge under Section 307 I.P.C. is not proved. Causing fire arm thigh injury by accused Gopal is proved, therefore, offence under Section 324 I.P.C against him is made out and for the same he is liable.

35. On a conspectus of facts and circumstances of the case and close scrutiny of the evidence available on record, as discussed above, we find that prosecution evidence is consistent, trust worthy, and corroborated by medical evidence. Fire arm injury by Gopal was not caused in furtherance of common intention of all the accused persons. Therefore, for causing fire arm injury he is alone liable for his act. Injury was not caused with intention to kill, therefore, he is not liable for punishment under Section 307 I.P.C. but fire arm injury on thigh is proved, for which he is liable to be punished under Section 324 I.P.C. Punishment of appellants Rakesh, Gopal and Mohan under Section 307/34 I.P.C is not proper and is liable to set aside. Consequently, they are liable to be acquitted under Section 307/34 I.P.C. So far as offence under Sections 323, 504 I.P.C. is concerned, prosecution evidence in this regard is consistent, corroborative to each other. Therefore, conviction and sentence is liable to be affirmed.

36. The appeal is, therefore, partly allowed. The impugned judgment and order convicting and sentencing the appellants Rakesh, Gopal and Mohan under Section 307 I.P.C. is set aside and they are acquitted for the offence under Section 307/34 I.P.C.. Appellant Gopal is convicted under Section 324 I.P.C. and in the facts and circumstances of the case he is sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for a period of two years. The appellant no.1 Rakesh, appellant no.2 Gopal and appellant no.3 Mohan are on bail. Their bail bonds are cancelled.

The court concerned is directed to take the appellants into custody to serve out the sentences awarded to them by the trial court under Sections 323, 504 I.P.C. and appellant Gopal under Section 324 I.P.C. as aforesaid.

Office is directed to communicate this decision to the court concerned forthwith and also send back the record.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Kumar Mishra-I, J.
Hon'ble Gautam Chowdhary, J.)

(1) Heard Sri Nazrul Islam Jafri, learned senior counsel assisted by Sri M. Islam, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Krishan Pahal, learned A.A.G. for the State assisted by Sri Bhanu Prakash Singh learned brief holder and perused the record of the appeal.

(2) By way of instant criminal appeal, challenge has been made to the validity and sustainability of the judgement and order dated 03.12.1990 passed by II Additional Sessions Judge, Rampur in Sessions Trial No.9 of 1989, (State Vs. Arvind and another), Case Crime No.88 of 1988, police station- Patwai, district- Rampur, whereby the appellant- Arvind- has been convicted and sentenced to undergo ten years R.I. and life imprisonment for offence under Sections 449 IPC and 302/34 IPC, respectively.

(3) Appropriate to mention that during the course of appeal, appellant no.2 Sita Ram expired, therefore, his appeal stood abated against him, vide order of this Court dated 03.12.2018.

(4) Facts engraved in the first information report- Exhibit Ka-1- reflect that there was pending civil litigation between father of the informant- Nem Chand- and accused- Arvind and Sitaram- both sons of Baburam- in respect of some landed property. It is stated that in the night intervening 17/18.6.1988 informant's father- Nem Chand, his uncle Mishri and Hemraj were sleeping in the courtyard of their house, it was around 1.30 a.m. that it started drizzling, therefore, the informant and his family members started moving inside the house holding their respective cots, at the same time miscreants standing at their portal outside flashed torch lights upon them, when Hemraj and Mishri too flashed their torches towards them and spotted co- accused- Arvind and Sitaram. Accused- Arvind and Sitaram- were possessing country-made gun and two others possessing swords were standing over there. All the miscreants rushed into the courtyard and asked informant's uncle- Hemraj- the whereabouts of Nem Chand. At that point of time, Nem Chand (father of the informant) emerged from inside the house. Thereupon, the accused- Arvind and Sitaram- fired on him (Nem Chand) with their country-made guns, which caused gunshot pellet injuries on the chest and stomach of the deceased. Alarm was raised, whereupon, Harprasad s/o Khyali and Kundan s/o Ishwari from the neighbourhood and the other co- villagers holding torches in their hands arrived on the spot, due to which, all the four assailants escaped away towards the west of the village towards the canal. Accused were identified in the torch light. Laden on a cot victim- Nem Chand- was (then) taken to the police station by the informant and his uncle, but Nem Chand breathed his last on the way near the police station. The informant wrote the FIR- Exhibit Ka-1- and lodged it at the Police Station.

(5) Contents of the written report were taken down in the concerned check FIR at Case Crime No.88 of 1988, under Section 302 IPC at Police Station- Patwai, District- Rampur at 2.30 a.m. on 18.6.1988. The copy of check FIR is Ex. Ka.13 and relevant entries were made in the concerned G.D. at serial no.3 at 2.30 A.M. on 18.6.1988 whereby case was registered against the accused. Copy of G.D. is Ext. Ka.-14.

(6) After registration of the case, Investigating Officer- Umesh Chandra Mishra P.W.9 swung into action and took-over investigation on 18.6.1988. He recorded the statements of Gajram Singh, Hemraj and Mishri at the police station. The dead body was lying in the police station but on account of it being night hours, proceedings for inquest were postponed until the following morning. On the next day (18.6.1988) at 6 A.M. the Investigating Officer appointed inquest witnesses and prepared the inquest report, which is Ext. Ka.-5. In the opinion of witnesses, it was thought proper to send the dead body of Nem Chand for post-mortem examination for ascertaining real cause of death.

(7) In the process relevant papers were also prepared by the Investigating Officer viz. Photonash (Exhibit Ka-6), challan dead body (Exhibit Ka-7), specimen seal (Exhibit Ka-8), letter to C.M.O. and R.I. (Exhibits Ka-9 and 11, respectively) etc. The dead body was sealed and was entrusted to S.I. Bhojraj Singh and Dharmveer Singh for post-mortem examination.

(8) Post-mortem examination on the cadaver of the deceased was conducted on 18.06.1988 at 01.45 P.M. by Dr. S.P. Singh P.W.11, wherein the following ante-mortem injuries were noted at the time of examination:

Ante mortem injuries

1. Gun shot wound of entry 3 cm x 3 cm x chest cavity deep over middle of sternum, margin lacerated and inverted. No blackening or scorching.

2. Multiple firearm wounds of entry, each measuring 1/2cm x ½ cm x left side of abdomen, margins lacerated and inverted, just below sub coastal margins.

3. Gun shot wounds of exit four in number, each measuring 2 cm x 2 cm x back of communicate injury no.2 on the back of abdomen (right side back of abdomen), margins lacerated and everted.

In the opinion of doctor, cause of death was stated to be haemorrhage and shock as a result of ante-mortem injuries. The post-mortem report is Exhibit Ka-15.

(9) The copy of the post-mortem report was obtained by the Investigating Officer on 20.6.1988. Blood stained clothes of the deceased- Nem Chand were sent for Chemical Examination at Agra. The Chemical Examiner's report is Exhibit Ka-16.

(10) Consequent whereupon the Investigating Officer also inspected the spot and prepared the site plan- Exhibit Ka-12. He also took sample of simple and blood stained clay-roll from the spot in two separate containers and prepared a memo of the same- Exhibit Ka-4. One empty cartridge .12 bore and three pellets were recovered from the spot, a memo of the same was also prepared as Exhibit Ka-3. Besides, he recorded statement of Omwarti (wife of the deceased- Nem Chand) and Niranjan, Bhawani Prasad. On 19.6.1988, he arrested the accused- Arvind and Sita

Ram- and interrogated them. He also recovered the torches and prepared the memo of the same as Exhibit Ka-2.

(11) After completing the necessary formalities the Investigating Officer filed the charge-sheet against the accused under Section 302 IPC.

(12) The case of the appellant was committed to the court of Sessions from where it was made over for trial and disposal to the aforesaid trial court. The trial court, after hearing the accused and the prosecution on point of charge, was satisfied with prima facie case for the offence under sections 449, 302/34 I.P.C., consequently it framed charges against accused under the aforesaid sections of I.P.C. The charges were read over and explained to the accused, who abjured the charges and claimed to be tried.

(13) In turn, prosecution was asked to adduce its testimony in order to prove the guilt. The prosecution produced in all 11 witnesses. Brief reference of the prosecution witnesses is ut-infra:-

(14) Gajram Singh P.W. 1 is the first informant and eye-witness of the occurrence. He has proved the written report Ext. Ka.-1. Hemraj P.W.2 and Mishri P.W.3 are the eyewitnesses and brothers of the deceased. Har Prasad is P.W.4, he has been declared hostile, similarly Kundan Lal P.W.5 has not supported the prosecution case. Smt. Omwati is P.W.6. She is also the eye witness and wife of the deceased. Nem Chand is P.W.7. He is witness of fact of recovery of empty cartridge and pellets. Sompal is P.W.8. Umesh Chandra Mishra is P.W.9 is the Investigating Officer of this case. Constable Bhojraj Singh is P.W.10. Dr. S.P. Singh P.W.11 has conducted post-mortem examination (Exhibit Ka-15) on the dead body of the deceased.

(15) Except as above, no other evidence was adduced by the prosecution, therefore, evidence for the prosecution was closed and the statement of the accused was recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein they have claimed to have been falsely implicated in the case on account of enmity.

(16) The defence did not lead any evidence, whatsoever.

(17) The learned trial court after hearing both the sides on merit and after appraising the facts and evaluating evidence on record returned finding of conviction and sentenced the appellant to ten years R.I. and life imprisonment for offence under Section 449 IPC and under Section 302/34 IPC, respectively.

(18) Resultantly, this appeal by the accused- appellant.

(19) Arguments advanced by the learned senior counsel Sri Nazrul Islam Jafri are manifold, the probability of commission of the offence by the present appellant- Arvind- is highly bleak on account of various facts and attendant circumstances of this case and the testimonial description of the prosecution witnesses of fact. The F.I.R. is ante- timed. How is it possible that the incident occurred at 1.30 a.m. in the night intervening 17/18.6.1988 and the matter was reported at the Police Station- Patwai, district- Rampur at 2.30 A.M. and the description about the lodging of the F.I.R. is quite dramatic and it is claimed that one shop was open around 2.30 a.m. from where help was sought by purchasing certain articles thereafter report was scribed outside the police station then it was lodged. It has emerged in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses that at the time of the lodging of the FIR, daroga ji was inside the police station which aspect goes to show police interference and deliberation in scribing and lodging the written report- Exhibit Ka-1. The source of light on the spot is absolutely missing. Under what circumstances when the accused were known and resident of the same village still they will not hide/conceal their faces while committing the offence has not been properly explained. In support of his claim on point of non- concealment of faces, learned senior counsel (for the appellant) has placed reliance on the law laid down in Criminal Appeal No.291 of 2010, Subhash vs. State of U.P. decided on 2nd November, 2017.

(20) The memo of torch was deliberately and belatedly prepared by the Investigating Officer after one month of the occurrence itself. Moreover, the source of light- the torch in question has not been produced before the trial court and the concerned witness Sompal P.W.8 has not whispered even a single word regarding the use of the torch and taking possession of the same by the Investigating Officer. Fact is that the matter was deliberated upon with the help of the police and on account of pending civil litigation involving landed property/will a false case has been thrusted upon the appellant for no worthy reason. There are material contradictions occurring in the statement of the prosecution witnesses. They are wholly unreliable, partisan and interested witnesses. Their testimony on the whole, does not inspire confidence. The circumstances when taken as a whole point out that no one infact saw the occurrence and the incident was caused by some unknown assailant, who was not identified till the inquest was prepared and the relevant entries were kept empty at the police station and after the matter was deliberated and sorted out by the informant side and the police, things were tried to be filled up in a casual manner. The charges under Sections 449, 302/34 IPC have not been proved beyond reasonable doubt.

(21) While retorting to the aforesaid argument, learned A.A.G. has submitted that in this case the main incident of shooting down the father (Nem Chand) of the informant has been proved profusely by the consistent testimony of the prosecution witnesses- i.e. particularly P.W.1 Gajram Singh and P.W.2 Hemraj. Their presence on the spot cannot be doubted. They are the natural persons present on the spot.

(22) The learned A.A.G. also engaged our attention to the testimony of P.W.5 Kundan Lal and claimed that by virtue of his testimony, it trickles out that Arvind was one among the assailants and he was sighted on the spot. Albeit, he turned hostile and resiled from his statement and he is not willing to come out specifically against the appellant. However, in the cross- examination participation of the present appellant- Arvind- in the incident cannot be ruled out as he has been spotted on the spot by the witnesses.

(23) He further submitted that lodging of the FIR is prompt. There is no point in claiming it to be ante- timed and there was no reason as such. The motive imputed for committing the crime is also specific and direct. In so far as the task of hiding faces by the assailants are concerned, then the mind set of the assailants cannot be taken to work uniformly in all cases and it is not a case that the assailants attempted to commit dacoity and in the process murdered the victim. The ill- will of the appellant was of such degree that they dared commit the offence in the presence of the other inmates of the house.

(24) We have considered the rival submissions and also considered the rival claim made by both the parties. In view of above, the point for adjudication of this appeal relates to fact whether the prosecution has been successful in proving charges against the appellant beyond all reasonable doubt?

(25) The genesis of the prosecution case is reflected from perusal of the first information report, Exhibit Ka-1, which, iner-alia, contains facts in form of allegation that some litigation regarding landed property was pending between the informant side and the present appellant. At the time of the occurrence, the deceased along with his family members was sleeping in the courtyard of his house at night, it was around 1/1.30 a.m. some drizzle took place and due to drizzle, his other family members sleeping over there in the courtyard took their cots and were in the process of moving inside the house when some persons, who were standing at the door (of the house) flashed their torches towards the informant side, whereupon, informant's uncles- Hemraj and Mishri- also flashed their torches towards them, then they saw the appellant (Arvind) possessing countrymade gun in company with others. The miscreants arrived in the courtyard asked about Nem Chand and in the meanwhile, informant's father Nem Chand arrived in the courtyard coming out of his house, when Arvind and other co-accused fired on him with their countrymade gun, which caused gunshot injury on the chest and stomach of the deceased. Alarm was raised, whereupon, the neighbours and the co- villagers possessing torches in their hands arrived on the spot, due to which, the assailants escaped away from the scene. The incident is stated to have been seen in the torch light and the assailants identified. It was also stated that two unknown persons were also among the assailants, who can be identified, as and when they are seen. In the concluding description, the written report entails description that the informant and his uncle were carrying the deceased on a cot to the police station, but the deceased succumbed to his injuries on way near the police station. The dead body was stated to be lying on the cot. The contents of the FIR have been entered in the concerned Check FIR and the relevant entries made in the General Diary on 18.6.1988 at 2.30 a.m. at Case Crime No.88 of 1988 and case was registered at Police Station- Patwai against the appellant in district- Rampur. The time of the occurrence was stated to be 1.30 a.m. on 18.6.1988.

(26) The basic contention raised on the point of occurrence relates to fact that the incident was not seen by anybody and the incident was caused by some unknown persons, but on account of pending civil litigation, the name of the appellant has been falsely involved in this case. It has also been claimed that there was no motive for the appellant to commit the offence. Further contention is that some unknown dacoits raided the village and they killed Nem Chand.

(27) We carefully scrutinized the testimony of the prosecution witnesses of fact and particularly the informant Gajram Singh P.W.1, Hemraj P.W.2, Mishri P.W.3, Har Prasad P.W.4, Kundan Lal P.W.5 and Omwati P.W.6 etc. They have given in their description of the occurrence every particular of the occurrence. All have stated about the accused that he (Arvind) participated in the offence and he in company with other co- accused opened fire on Nem Chand. It has also been claimed n behalf of the appellant that certain witnesses were not present- say- the presence of Omwati P.W.6 is doubtful. But, we are not impressed with the argument for the reason that merely because the presence of Omwati P.W.6 on the spot if doubtful, what about the presence of the other witnesses of fact- say- P.W.1 Gajram Singh, P.W.2 Hemraj and P.W.3 Mishri etc.

(28) We have to scrutinize the fact from particular angle whether, the presence of the witnesses of fact on the spot is natural and their testimony regarding the occurrence is worthy of credence and their version can be taken as truthful version or not?

(29) With that view in mind, we have also scrutinized the entire facts and circumstances of the case. Now, the admitted prevailing/existing circumstance is that the occurrence took place in the night intervening 17/18.6.1988 and it so happened that the deceased along with his family members was sleeping on the cot in the courtyard of the house and this house is inhabited by a number of family members of the deceased- Nem Chand. It Drizzled in the night around 1.30 a.m. (on 18.6.1988), when the family members, sleeping in the courtyard, were awakened and they tried to move inside the house with their cots when the incident is stated to have been caused by the appellant by opening fire on the deceased after arriving in the courtyard of the house.

(30) Sri N.I. Jafri, learned senior counsel has earnestly urged that it so happened that all the family members, who were sleeping in the courtyard had by that time moved inside the house in their respective rooms when the incident was caused by some unknown persons and nobody could see the real assailants.

(31) We are not ready to accept this piece of argument in the wake of the specific testimony of the prosecution witnesses of fact- say- P.W.1 Gajram Singh and P.W.2 Hemraj. They have in their examination-in-chief as well as in cross-examination, consistently and satisfactorily detailed about the very manner in which the incident commenced and culminated into death of Nem Chand. As per their testimony, it started drizzling around 1.30 a.m. On 18.6.1988 while the deceased along with Gajram Singh P.W.1 and Hemraj P.W.2 and other members of the family were sleeping in the courtyard and they tried to move inside their house, simultaneously, it so happened that four persons flashed their torch lights on them (prosecution side) and they entered in the courtyard, when the informant- Gajram Singh P.W.1, Hemraj P.W.2 and Mishri P.W.3 also flashed their torch light on the miscreants, when they saw accused- Arvind and Sitaram- possessing countrymade gun in company with two others and one of the two unknown possessing sword. The miscreants asked P.W.2 Hemraj and P.W.3 Mishri about Nem Chand, in the meanwhile, the informant's father- Nem Chand also came out of the room in the courtyard, when fire was opened by the appellant and one co- accused on him, which fire hit Nem Chand on his chest and stomach.

(32) This piece of testimony virtually goes unimpeachable. Merely because certain trivial aberrations occur in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses- say- P.W.3 Mishri and P.W.6 Omwati; that alone would not be suffice for over throwing the entire prosecution case. For the shake of argument, we can assume and hold that even P.W.6 Omwati was not present on the spot, even then the presence on the spot of the other prosecution witnesses- say- Gajram Singh P.W.1 and Hemraj P.W.2 is proved satisfactorily beyond doubt. Their conduct on the spot is natural, it has emerged in the cross-examination of Mishri P.W.3, as appearing on page No.33 of the paper book that the family members had gone inside their rooms, but that is a casual and isolated statement. No further cross- examination on this aspect done. His testimony virtually proves the presence of P.W.1 Gajram on the spot and may be that few members of the family were inside the house at the time of the occurrence, but the presence of P.W.3 Mishri in the courtyard is very much there and his testimony regarding the occurrence is innocuous and inaccessible.

(33) Now, the point of FIR being ante- timed is merely an argument not whispered by any cogent evidence or circumstance. The dead body was taken to the police station and the FIR was scribed outside the police station. No infirmity or inconsistency of any sort giving rise to any adverse circumstance is perceptible in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses.

(34) Major thrust has been given to the entire testimony of Omwati P.W.6 that a wholesome reading of her testimony negates the presence of the other prosecution witnesses of fact on the spot. We have also scrutinized carefully the entire testimony of P.W.6 Omwati as forthcoming about the occurrence. Obviously, she is vacillating on certain points, but she is not vacillating on the point of the commission of the offence and her deviation is minor, trivial and cannot be treated to be of dubious nature. She is partly reliable on point of occurrence, but because of certain deviations and contradictions in her statement in court and recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Contradictions in the statement of the P.W.1 Gajram Singh, P.W.2 Hemraj and P.W.3 Mishri with the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. are also there but all these contradictions are of minor and trivial nature but the substantive evidence regarding the occurrence being caused by appellant is established beyond doubt.

(35) The ocular testimony of the prosecution witnesses also finds support from the medical testimony on record. The post-mortem examination on the body of the deceased was done on 18.6.1988 at 1.45 P.M., wherein, Dr. S.P. Singh P.W.11 noted the three ante- mortem injuries and all these three ante- mortem injuries have been found in the shape of gunshot wounds. Injury no.1 and injury no.3 are the gunshot wound of entry and gunshot wound of exit. Thus, resembling to one shot and the injury no.2 is multiple firearm wound of entry; each measuring 1/2 cm x 1/2 cm x left side of abdomen. Injury no.2 must have been caused by diffraction of pellets. There is no blackening and tattooing found in the ante-mortem injuries. The post-mortem examination report has been prepared by Dr. S.P. Singh, and it is Exhibit Ka-15. In the opinion of doctor, the injuries caused on the deceased could have been caused around 2 A.M. in the concerned night (of the occurrence).

(36) Now, the overall outcome is that the testimony of the prosecution witnesses regarding participation of the present appellant- Arvind- in the occurrence at the relevant point of time has been innocuously proved and established by the consistent testimony of P.W.1 Gajram Singh, P.W.2 Hemraj and P.W.3 Mishri and the court is duty bound to concentrate on the point of actual occurrence and in case, actual occurrence is found to have been proved after evaluating the entire evidence, then to claim that by virtue of certain minor inconsistencies appearing in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses, the case of the prosecution becomes opaque and doubtful, is not an acceptable contention under prevailing facts and circumstances of this case.

(37) Here the incident has been proved beyond reasonable doubt. The presence of the prosecution witnesses at the time of occurrence, on the spot, is most natural though it has been claimed that there was no motive for committing the offence, but we come across evidence that some enmity on account of pending litigation was going on and apart from that certain light discrepancy also took place between the informant side and the accused prior to the incident. Moreover, it is case of eye- account testimony where gravity or triviality of the motive imputed shall not create much difference in the commission of the offence amply proved by the testimony of the prosecution witnesses. There is no specific suggestion to the prosecution witnesses that they were inside the house when the occurrence took place and they did not see the occurrence.

(38) We further notice that the lodging of the FIR is prompt and Sri Umesh Chandra Mishra P.W.9- who entered the relevant GD entry (Exhibit Ka-14) and lodged the case against the accused has proved the check FIR (Exhibit Ka-13).

(39) The two witnesses P.W.4 Har Prasad and P.W.5 Kundan Lal though named in the description of the FIR, have not supported the prosecution case, but they have been confronted with their statement regarding the occurrence as noted by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. A cumulative reading of their testimony also establishes fact that the incident took place in the night intervening 17/18.6.1988 and P.W.5 Kundan Lal has specifically stated in his cross- examination that he saw the assailants scampering away from the house of the deceased- Nem Chand. It appears that these two witnesses (P.W.4 and P.W.5) have been won- over by the defence and they are not telling the real story. However, their testimony would not minimise the significance of the testimony of the other prosecution witnesses and particularly P.W.1 Gajram Singh and P.W.2 Hemraj, who have given immaculate and innocuous version of the incident and have proved fact of participation of the appellant in the incident beyond all reasonable doubt.

(40) So far as the claim of the appellant regarding fact that the assailants had not concealed their faces while committing the offence is concerned, we may observe that it is not a case where the intention was to commit robbery or dacoity, but here the intention was to kill Nem Chand; and it being so the mind- set of the assailants cannot be interpreted and judged from their gesture while they did not hide their faces. Further, there is no point or circumstance in disbelieving the prosecution witnesses on the point of occurrence, on the contrary we find that the testimony of witnesses profusely establishes participation of the appellant in the offence. There is no plausible reason that the prosecution witnesses will leave the real culprit and falsely implicate the present appellant. Therefore, the above contention loses significance and is not helpful to the appellant.

(41) We have also perused carefully the afore-cited judgement placed by the learned senior counsel for the appellant.

In all humbleness, we may submit that the facts of this case in hand, after evaluation of the entire testimony is found to be highly distinguishable from the one referred by the learned senior counsel. Therefore, the same is not applicable to the given facts and circumstances of the case in hand.

(42) It is cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that prosecution would have to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt by producing convincing and clinching testimony in order to prove guilt of the accused. Here in this case testimony of witnesses of fact is consistent, clinching and creditworthiness of the witnesses of fact is found to be intact and inspiring confidence.

(43) The above critical scrutiny regarding the evidence, facts and circumstances of the case goes to unravel the truth in favour of the prosecution that it has successfully proved the incident to have been caused by the appellant in the night intervening 17/18.6.1988 at 1.30 A.M. at village- Patwai, district- Rampur, whereby, appellant- Arvind murdered Nem Chand by using countrymade gun; consequently, the conviction recorded and the sentence awarded by the learned trial Judge in Sessions Trial No.9 of 1989, (State Vs. Arvind and another), Case Crime No.88 of 1988, police station- Patwai, district- Rampur is wholly justified.

(44) Arguments advanced in support of the appellant sans merit and in the final outcome this appeal is dismissed.

(45) Appellant- Arvind is on bail. His bail bonds and surety bonds are hereby cancelled. He shall be taken into custody forthwith for serving out the sentence.

(46) Let a copy of this order/judgement be certified to the court below for necessary information an follow up action.

Naseem r/o District-Bahraich (accused/appellant herein) in the year 1989. Soon after her marriage, accused repeatedly demanded dowry of Rs.10,000/-, which was ultimately given him. It was further alleged that his daughter was murdered for dowry by the appellant and his younger brother-in-law Mohd. Ashfaq. Even after some days of marriage his daughter told that she was subjected to cruelty and also beaten for dowry demand. As the daughter was subjected to cruelty, he brought her to parental house. However, after some days on intervention of elders, she was returned to her matrimonial house. It was further alleged that earlier also an attempt of murder was committed upon her daughter by pouring kerosene oil over her body. committed at about 8 A.M. on 21.3.1995. However, no medical aid was provided to his daughter and she succumbed to burn injuries.

5. On the basis of written report, an F.I.R. (Ex.Ka.6) was lodged on 22.3.1995 at 8.30 A.M. at Police Station-Tehri Bazar, District-Siddharth Nagar. Distance between place of occurrence and police station was reported to be 2 Km.

6. The Investigating Officer visited the place of occurrence, prepared site plan and recovery memo (Ex.Ka.5) of a Tin-container, having capacity of 5 litres, in which two litres of kerosene oil was found. Inquest report was prepared and dead body was sent for post mortem.

7. Autopsy of dead body of Raina Parveen @ Munni was conducted on 23.3.1995 by Dr. S.S. Srivastava, who found following antemortem injuries:-

(1) Burn 1st to 3rd degree involve whole body except both foot and interior part of left leg before knee joint. Line of redness present.

(2) Abrasion (two) in area of 2 cm x 1 cm of forehead in middle point 4 cm above the arch of nose.

On internal examination, brain and brain membrane were found congested. Pleura, both lungs and larynx trachea were found congested. Inside trachea, small particles of carbon were found. In stomach, liquid and gas were present. Cause of death was shock as a result of antemortem burn injury.

8. Trial was committed to the Court of Sessions and charges under Sections 498-A and 304-B I.P.C. and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act were framed against the appellant and two others namely Imran @ Ganesh and Ashfaq Ahmad.

9. The prosecution in order to prove their case examined P.W.1-Faridddudin, P.W.2-Sawara Begum, PW.3-Dr.S.S. Srivastava, P.W.4-Ashiq Ali, P.W.5-Bansh Lochan Pandey and P.W.6- Jag Prasad Pandey.

10. P.W.1-Faridduddin (brother of deceased) in his chief examination supported the prosecution version on the issue that death was caused within 7 years of marriage, deceased was subjected to cruelty for demand of dowry by her husband soon before her death and death was caused by burns. In cross-examination this witness remained consistent, however mentioned about cordial relations between his sister and husband.

11. P.W.2-Sawara Begum, mother of the deceased also supported the prosecution version in her chief examination on the issue of demand of dowry and that deceased was subjected to cruelty. Deceased had written a letter to her that she was subjected to cruelty due to dowry demand. She also told P.W.-2 that her husband used to beat her. This witness also remained unshaken in cross-examination. However, she also mentioned about cordial relations between her daughter and husband (appellant).

12. P.W.-3, Dr. S.S.Srivastava conducted post mortem of dead body of deceased, proved injuries mentioned in the post mortem report. In his cross-examination, the Doctor stated that the injuries could be an outcome of an accident.

13. P.W.-4, Ashik Ali, neighbour of appellant, Panch to the Inquest report of dead body as well as to recovery of container with two litres of kerosene oil from the place of occurrence, supported the recovery memo. In cross-examination, P.W.-4 stated that there were cordial relations between the deceased and her husband. No incident of brawl between them was reported. P.W.-4 further mentioned that at the time of incident, appellant Naseem Ahmad was not present at his house.

14. P.W.-5, Bansh Lochan Pandey, proved written report and F.I.R. He mentioned about recordings of statements of the witnesses and recovery of a container containing two litres of kerosene oil from the place of occurrence.

15. P.W.-6, Jag Prasad Pandey was the Tehsildar at the relevant time, who prepared the inquest report of the dead body of deceased.

16. Statements of the appellant as well as other co-accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein they denied prosecution case and submitted that deceased died due to accident, while preparing food. Mohd. Harun was examined as defence witness (DW-1), who stated about cordial relations between the couple and that at the time of occurrence, appellant was present at his shop. Marriage was solemnised in 1987 or 1988. Deceased died due to accident while preparing food on stove.

17. Learned Trial Court after considering statement of the witnesses and other materials came to the conclusion that marriage of the deceased was solemnised within a period of 7 years from her death and she was subjected to cruelty soon before her death in regard to demand of dowry. Accused/appellant poured kerosene oil on the deceased and set her ablaze. Learned Trial Court rejected the defence story that deceased died due to accident while preparing food on the stove.

18. The learned trial court acquitted co-accused Imran and Ashfaq from all the charges in absence of sufficient evidence against them, however convicted the appellant for all the charges.

19. Ms. Chandrakala Chaturvedi, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant submitted that:

(i). The impugned judgment and order dated 24.3.2006 was passed only on the basis of sole testimony of PW-2 (mother of the deceased) whereas testimony of PW-1 (brother of the deceased) was found to be unreliable.

(ii). Demand of Dowry was not proved.

(iii) Year of marriage remained uncertain as there was different version of P.W.-1, P.W.-2 and D.W.-1 on the issue, therefore, it was not conclusively proved that death was caused within 7 years of marriage.

(iv). PW-1 (brother of deceased), P.W.-4 (neighbour of appellant) and D.W.-1 have stated about cordial relations between deceased and appellant, therefore allegations of cruelty for demand of dowry are without any basis.

(v). PW-4 and DW-1 stated that appellant-Naseem was not present at his home at the time of occurrence and reached house after the occurrence. Therefore, prosecution failed to prove presence of the appellant at his house at the time of occurrence.

(vi). Presence of 2 litres kerosene in container, half cooked rice on stove, of which some part had spilled over, at the place of occurrence indicates that deceased was burnt while cooking and her death was accidental.

(vii). Doctor (PW-3) has opined that death could be caused due to accident, which corroborates from the scene of occurrence and also supports the explanation given by appellant in the statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

(viii). The appellant is suffering from small lymphocytic Lymphoma (blood cancer) and is undergoing treatment at BHU, Varanasi. The appellant had already served more than 13 years of imprisonment and is suffering from major health issue therefore on humanitarian ground the appellant deserves acquittal.

20. Per contra, Shri. A.N. Mulla, learned A.G.A. opposed the submissions of the appellant and submitted that testimony of P.W.1 and P.W.2 was consistent and they completely supported the prosecution version. He further submitted that P.W.1, brother of deceased specifically stated that the marriage of his sister and appellant was solemnised in the year 1989, occurrence took place on 21.3.1995 i.e. within seven years of marriage. P.W.1 supported the prosecution version regarding demand of dowry as he specifically stated that appellant demanded Rs.10,000/- for opening a shop. Due to harassment and cruelty, deceased remained at her matrimonial house for about 3 years. She was taken back on request of family of appellant; but still subjected to cruelty. He further submitted that contradictions are trivial and are not affecting the basic prosecution case. He finally submitted that postmortem report completely supported the prosecution version that the deceased was not accidently burnt, but was set ablaze after pouring kerosene oil, which is evident from the nature of injury No.1 which indicates that she was burnt 1st to 3rd degrees, whole body except both foot and interior part of left leg before knee joint.

21. In the present appeal, conviction of the appellant is under Sections 498-A, 304-B, I.P.C. and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act.

22. In Kashmira Devi Vs. State of Uttarakhand & Ors, 2020 SCC Online SC 87, the Court held in paragraph 18 that "for sustaining the conviction under section 304-B I.P.C. the following essentials must be satisfied:-

(i) the death of a woman must have caused by burns or bodily injury or otherwise than normal circumstances;

(ii) such death must have occurred within seven years of her marriage;

(iii) soon before her death, the woman must have been subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or by relatives of her husband;

(iv) such cruelty or harassment must be for or in connection with demand for dowry;

(v) such cruelty or harassment is shown to have been meted out to the woman soon before her death.

(Vide Kans Raj Vs. State of Punjab & Ors (2000) 5 SCC 207 and Smt. Shanti & Anr. Vs. State of Haryana (1991) 1 SCC 371."

23. In the light of above legal positions, we have to ascertain as to whether in the facts and circumstances of present case, the prosecution is able to establish the ingredients of Section 304-B I.P.C.

24. The first issue is as to whether death of the deceased occurred within seven years of her marriage.

25. Accurate date of marriage was neither mentioned in FIR nor in testimony of any of the witnesses. Only year of marriage i.e. 1989 was mentioned, in the written report lodged by P.W.1. P.W.1 (brother of the victim) alleged that he was 2 years elder to the victim, while another sister Sikandar Jahan was 2 years elder to him. P.W.1 was 37 years as on 10.4.2002 when he was examined. Thus, the year of birth of P.W.1 would be 1965, that of victim as 1967 and that of elder sister Sikandar Jahan as 1963. The defence alleged that the victim was married in the year 1983-84. P.W.1 stated that the victim was around 25-26 years old at the time of her marriage. If that was so, then, year of birth of the victim would be 1957-58 which would surpass far beyond the year of birth of elder sister of the victim (1963). The trial court on cumulative assessment of the evidence of P.W.'s 1 & 2, was of the view that the period of marriage of the victim would fall between 11.4.1988 to 11.4.1989. P.W.2, mother of the deceased in her testimony recorded on 11.6.2002 stated that marriage of her daughter took place around 13-14 years ago. On the basis of testimony of P.W.1 and P.W.2, it can be safely presumed that marriage took place either in 1988 or 1989, thus the death on 21.3.1995 was within 7 years of marriage.

26. We are in complete agreement with the reasoning of the trial court as regards the year of marriage of the victim to which no perversity could be demonstrated.

27. The next issue which requires consideration of the Court is about cruelty and harassment subjected to deceased in connection with demand of dowry by her husband soon before her death. On this issue, written report as well as occular evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 has supported prosecution version that there was dowry demand of Rs.10,000/- after the marrriage which was fulfilled by the father of the deceased. Both the witnesses also stated that due to cruelty, deceased was forced to live at her parental house for about 3 years. It has also come in the evidence that she was subjected to cruelty soon after she returned to her matrimonial house. Thus, she was subjected to cruelty over demand of dowry soon before her death. Merely because P.W.1 and 2 stated in cross-examination that there were cordial relations between the deceased and her husband, the entire evidence on cruelty and demand of dowry cannot be rejected. The Court has to see whether the testimony of P.W.1 and 2 inspires confidence and we are of the definite view that nothing has come in evidence, except minor inconsistency or contradictions or exaggerations which could shake confidence in accepting testimony of P.W.-1 and 2 to be reliable.

28. In Rammi Vs. State of M.P., 1999 (8) SCC 649, the Court in paragraphs 25 and 26 held that:

"25. It is a common practice in trial courts to make out contradictions from the previous statement of a witness for confronting him during cross-examination. Merely because there is inconsistency in evidence it is not sufficient to impair the credit of the witness. No doubt Section 155 of the Evidence Act provides scope for impeaching the credit of a witness by proof of an inconsistent former statement. But a reading of the section would indicate that all inconsistent statements are not sufficient to impeach the credit of the witness. The material portion of the Section is extracted below:

155. Impeaching credit of witness.- The credit of a witness may be impeached in the following ways by the adverse party, or, with the consent of the court, by the party who calls him-

(3) by proof of former statements inconsistent with any part of his evidence which is liable to be contradicted;"

26. A former statement though seemingly inconsistent with the evidence need not necessarily be sufficient to amount to contradiction. Only such of the inconsistent statement which is liable to be "contradicted" would affect the credit of the witness. Section 145 of the Evidence Act also enables the cross-examiner to use any former statement of the witness, but it cautions that if it is intended to "contradict" the witness the cross-examiner is enjoined to comply with the formality prescribed therein. Section 162 of Code also permits the cross-examiner to use the previous statement of the witness (recorded under Section 161 of the Code) for the only limited purpose, i.e. to contradict the witness."

29. Submission of counsel for the appellant that testimony of P.W.1 was completely rejected by learned trial court is liable to be rejected, as we have perused the impugned judgment and find that the learned trial court relied upon testimony of P.W.1 however, noted contradictions in his testimony, which were trivial.

30. P.W.1 and 2 remained consistent in respect of issues such as deceased was subjected to cruelty soon before her death over demand of dowry, death took place within seven years of marriage. Medical examination, nature of injuries and testimony of Doctor S.S.Srivastava (P.W.-3), are clinching and sufficient to prove beyond doubt that death of victim was caused otherwise than under normal circumstances, on account of burn injuries, attributable to the appellant. Therefore, prosecution was able to prove all the necessary ingredients of Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act.

31. We have also considered the provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act 1872 and its applicability in the facts and circumstances of present case. Section 106 provides inter-alia that when any fact is exclusively within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him. In the present case, wife of the accused died in the house, where they ordinarily reside. The accused offers an explanation that death of his wife was caused by accident while cooking. We are of the view that explanation given by the accused is false which is a strong circumstance that accused is responsible for commission of the crime.

32. It is important to refer to paragraph 22 of State of Rajasthan Vs. Thakur Singh (2014) 12 SCC 211, on applicability of Section 106 of the Evidence Act.

"22. The law, therefore, is quite well settled that the burden of proving the guilt of an accused is on the prosecution, but there may be certain facts pertaining to a crime that can be known only to the accused, or are virtually impossible for the prosecution to prove. These facts need to be explained by the accused and if he does not do so, then it is a strong circumstance pointing to his guilt based on those facts."

33. Further presumption as to dowry death under Section 113-B Indian Evidence Act is also against the accused as prosecution has successfully substantiated the ingredients of "dowry death" that soon before her death, deceased was subjected to cruelty for demand of dowry by accused-appellant. Accused/appellant has completely failed to rebut the presumption.

34. In Baijnath and Others Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2017 (1) SCC 101, the Court in paragraph 30 held that:

"30. A conjoint reading of these three provisions, thus predicate the burden of the prosecution to unassailably substantiate the ingredients of the two offences by direct and convincing evidence so as to avail the presumption engrafted in Section 113B of the Act against the accused. Proof of cruelty or harassment by the husband or her relative or the person charged is thus the sine qua non to inspirit the statutory presumption, to draw the person charged within the coils thereof. If the prosecution fails to demonstrate by cogent coherent and persuasive evidence to prove such fact, the person accused of either of the above referred offences cannot be held guilty by taking refuge only of the presumption to cover up the shortfall in proof."

35. Lastly, we have to deal with the submission of appellant on lenient view on quantum of punishment.

36. In Hazara Singh Vs. Raj Kumar 2013 (9) SCC 516, the Court in paragraph 10 held that:

"10.....The legislature has bestowed upon the judiciary this enormous discretion in the sentencing policy, which must be exercised with utmost care and caution. The punishment awarded should be directly proportionate to the nature and the magnitude of the offence. The benchmark of proportionate sentencing can assist the judges in arriving at a fair and impartial verdict."

37. In State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Babulal & Ors, 2013 (12) SCC 308 , the Court in para 19 held that:

"19. In view of the above, the law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that one of the prime objectives of criminal law is the imposition of adequate, just, proportionate punishment which is commensurate with the gravity and nature of the crime and manner in which the offence is committed. The most relevant determinative factor of sentencing is proportionality between crime and punishment keeping in mind the social interest and consciousness of the society. It is a mockery of the criminal justice system to take a lenient view showing misplaced sympathy to the accused on any consideration whatsoever including the delay in conclusion of criminal proceedings. The Punishment should not be so lenient that it shocks the conscious of the society being abhorrent to the basic principles of sentencing. Thus, it is the solemn duty of the court to strike a proper balance while awarding sentence as awarding a lesser sentence encourages a criminal and as a result of the same society suffers."

38. In State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Surendra Singh, 2015 (1) SCC 222, the Court in paras 13 and 14 held that:

"13. We again reiterate in this case that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The sentencing courts are expected to consider all relevant facts and circumstances bearing on the question of sentence and proceed to impose a sentence commensurate with the gravity of the offence. The court must not only keep in view the rights of the victim of the crime but also the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment. Meagre sentence imposed solely on account of lapse of time without considering the degree of the offence will be counter-productive in the long run and against the interest of the society.

14. In a recent decision in the case of State of M.P. Vs. Bablu, (2014) 9 SCC 281, after considering and following the earlier decisions, this Court reiterated the settled proposition of law that one of the prime objectives of criminal law is the imposition of adequate, just, proportionate punishment which commensurate with gravity, nature of crime and the manner in which the offence is committed. One should keep in mind the social interest and conscience of the society while considering the determinative factor of sentence with gravity of crime. The punishment should not be so lenient that it shocks the conscience of the society. It is, therefore, solemn duty of the court to strike a proper balance while awarding the sentence as awarding lesser sentence encourages any criminal and, as a result of the same, the society suffers."

39. The case in hand is required to be decided on the issue of granting lesser punishment on the basis of aforesaid settled legal proposition regarding principle of sentencing. In the present case, accused husband has caused death of his wife by pouring kerosene and set her ablaze, which caused 3rd degree burns, over her whole body, except both foot and interior part of left leg before knee joint. Deceased was even not taken to the hospital. All essential ingredients of offences under section 304-B I.P.C. are proved beyond reasonable doubt. Sentence awarded is just and appropriate. In these circumstances, taking any lenient view will be against the aforesaid principles of sentencing.

40. We, in view of above, do not find any error in the impugned judgment and are thus of the considered opinion that prosecution has proved charges against the appellant under Sections 498-A, 304-B,

I.P.C and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act beyond any reasonable doubt.

41. The appeal is dismissed.

1. By way of the instant criminal appeal, challenge has been made to the validity and sustainability of the judgment and order of conviction dated 21.12.1987 passed by the VII-Additional Sessions Judge, Meerut, in Sessions Trial No.8 of 1986 (State of U.P. Vs. Faiyaz and others), under Section 302, 302/34 I.P.C., Police Station- Kithore, District- Meerut, whereby all the appellants have been sentenced to life imprisonment.

2. Heard Sri Ajay Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the appellants, Shri Krishna Pahal, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Bhanu Prakash Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

3. Prosecution case is that one Shaharyab s/o Afsar of village- Jadauda, P.S.- Kithore, District- Meerut lodged an F.I.R. at Police Station- Kithore, District- Meerut on 13.10.1985 at 3:15 p.m. against accused Faiyaz, Mahfooz, Hasnain and Tariqat alleging that the informant and his father Afsar were going to collect fodder from jungle on 13.10.1985 around 12:00 noon, while they were so proceeding and reached near the sugarcane filed of Faiyaz. Suddenly Faiyaz, Mahfooz, Hasnain and Tariqat, the co-villagers appeared on the scene from the sugarcane field possessing country made gun in their hands challenging that they will not spare the informant side whereupon the informant and his father got frightened and they tried to flee away from the scene when Faiyaz fired with his gun on informant's father due to which he fell down and the informant saved himself by fleeing away from the scene. On hearing the sound of the fire villagers Yusuf, Mahmood, Muzaffar, Hisamuddin, Nazar Hussain and Akhtar arrived on the spot and on seeing these persons the assailants also secured their escape and disappeared in the sugarcane field. Motive imputed in the F.I.R. was one as some previous altercation/ haggling that took place between the father of the informant and the accused side when Akhlaq wanted to construct the wall whereupon life threat was extended by the accused. After the occurrence the co-villagers and the informant rushed to the spot where the informant's father fell down then they came to know that the victim has died. One barrel and slipper belonging to the accused was also lying on the spot. This report is Ex. Ka-1. Relevant entries were made in the concerned check F.I.R. whereby case was registered at case crime no.333 of 1985 under section 302 I.P.C. at Police Station- Kithore, District- Meerut on aforesaid date and time. The check F.I.R. is Ex. Ka-3 and the concerned G.D. of the aforesaid date and time at aforesaid police station is Ex. Ka-4. Investigation of this case was taken by Inderdev P.W.-6. He took note of the contents of the F.I.R. and the concerned general diary entry and arrived on the spot at around 5:30 p.m. in the jungle of village Jadauda. He prepared the inquest report on the spot- Ex. Ka-5 and apart from that he also prepared relevant papers. The challan dead body, photo dead body and letter to C.M.O./R.I. and photo nash etc. These papers are Ex. Ka-6 to Ka-9. Besides he also prepared memo of simple and blood stained clay roll Ex. Ka-12. He also made the memo of slipper and the barrel found on the spot Ex. Ka-13. He prepared the site plan Ex. Ka-14. Besides he also sent the dead body of the deceased Afsar for post-mortem examination to mortuary where P.W.3 Dr. R. Singh conducted the post-mortem on the cadaver of the deceased on 14.10.1985 at 11:30 p.m. wherein the following ante-mortem injuries were noted :-

(i) Guns shot would of entry 1.5 cm x 1 cm x brain cavity deep on back of head 13 cm behind the right ear. The margins were inverted and eccohymosed and directing forward.

(ii) Lacerated wound (gun shot wound of exit) 15 cm x 10 cm x crenial cavity deep on right side of forehead and upper part of nose. Cranial cavity open and brain matter partially absent and communicating to injury no.1.

4. In the opinion of doctor the cause of death was shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injury. Post-mortem report is Ex. Ka-2. The investigation was completed and charge-sheet Ex. Ka-15 was submitted. Subsequently the trial commenced and after hearing both prosecution and the accused on point of charge prima facie ground was found existing for framing charge under section 302/34 I.P.C. The charge was abjured and the accused opted for trial.

5. The prosecution produced six witnesses out of whom P.W.1 Shaharyab, P.W.2 Yusuf and P.W.4, Hisammuddin- are witnesses of fact and the rest of the prosecution witnesses say- Dr. R. Singh is P.W.3, Ram Saran Singh P.W.5 and the investigating officer Inderdev P.W.6 are formal witnesses. Statement of the accused was recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein the accused claimed to have been falsely implicated on account of enmity. No evidence whatsoever was led by the defence. The case was heard on merit and after evaluating the facts and circumstances and evidence on record the learned trial judge passed aforesaid impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 21.12.1987, under section 302/34 I.P.C. and thus sentencing them to imprisonment for life. Consequently, this appeal.

6. Contention is that the first information report itself is suggestive of fact that the informant was not present on the spot and the natural corollary will be that after a blind murder took place and the informant received the information of the incident arrived on the spot and in consultation with the police a false report was lodged on account of subsisting enmity suggesting prejudicial bent of mind of the informant as has emerged in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses of fact. The deceased Afsar was having criminal antecedent and was involved in commission of heinous offences. There was no motive for the present surviving appellants to have ever indulged in the act of firing and remaining present on the spot at the time of the occurrence stated to have occurred at /around 12:00 noon on 13.10.1985 in the jungle of village Jadauda. Considering the entire case how can it be said that the incident took place around 12:00 in the noon and the report was lodged at 3:15 p.m. at the police station-Kithore in district- Meerut. The distance between the place of occurrence and the police station was stated to be more than 10 kms.

7. The prosecution case is not specific against the present appellants that they ever acted or reacted on the scene by participating in the commission of the offence and were acting in furtherance of the common intention of the main accused Faiyaz. On account of the enmity prejudice only P.W.1, the informant Shaharyab has lodged false information with the police. The point is that for application of common intention against an accused it would have to be proved within the four corners of section 34 I.P.C. that it was also the common intention of the another co-accused who was present on the spot and he too interacted to have the plan executed to a particular end but in this case this essential ingredient of subsisting common intention is altogether missing. There is no specification that all the four accused with intent to kill Afsar fired from their respective weapons. Had the prosecution witness P.W.1, the informant and the son of the deceased would have been present on the spot they would have narrated in particular as to when and in what manner the shots were fired. But the first information report is silent about any such specification of firing. However the case has been improved in the testimony before the trial court and the role of firing has been assigned in the F.I.R. itself to only one accused Faiyaz whereas the testimony of P.W.1 is to the magnitude that all fired. More so, what was the reason that the four assailants who are claimed to have been present on the spot all armed with country made gun will leave the one of the two persons to escape from the scene so as to give evidence against the miscreants. This is particular aspect and a particular circumstance not properly explained by the prosecution which naturally gives rise to fact that P.W.1 Shaharyab was not present on the spot at the time of the occurrence and a false case has been cooked up.

8. Regarding the appropriate time of the alleged occurrence that it in fact took place around 12:00 noon on 13.10.1985, the testimony of the doctor witness PW.3 Dr. R. Sing is indicative of the fact that the death of the victim might have taken place sometime in the night intervening 12/13/.10.1985 and the statement is specific in the cross-examination of the aforesaid witness. This being the reasonable probabilities of the case, how can it be said with certainty that the occurrence took place around 12:00 noon only on 13.10.1985. The "mens rea' as was required to be proved against the present appellants qua the main accused Faiyaz has not been established properly. There is nothing on the point as to from what distance/ range the shot was fired. Assuming it to be that any such occurrence took place even then the statement of P.W.1 Shaharyab reveals that at the very particular time when the shot hit the deceased this witness did not see that particular occurrence then how can it be said that the shot fired by Faiyaz hit the deceased.

9. Controverting the aforesaid argument learned Additional Advocate General Shri Krishna Pahal assisted by learned A.G.A. Shri Bhanu Prakash Singh have submitted that the case of the prosecution is well proved under section 302 I.P.C. by virtue of application of section 34 I.P.C.. Learned counsel also spelt out section 34 I.P.C. in support of his claim that in this case the act imputed is admittedly of criminal nature and the scene of occurrence is self-explanatory of the common intention of all the accused. It is noticeable that the appearance of the present appellants on the scene is in a group and all of them are possessing country made gun and an exhortation was made on the spot which frightened the deceased and his son P.W.1 and they tried to scamper away from the scene however in the meanwhile fire was opened which hit the deceased- Afsar. Post-mortem examination report is indicative of fact that only one shot was fired. When this particular aspect was asked by the trial court itself with P.W.1 then P.W.1 specifically suggested that only one fire was shot on the spot. However only one shot completed the task therefore there was no point in further opening another shot as no one was impeding his way to execute the crime. Each and every particular aspect regarding the occurrence, say- its commencement, manner of happening and its completion has been asked in all niceties by the defence in the cross-examination of the informant after strenuous test he remained intact. Consequently, it cannot be said that he was not present on the spot and the prevailing circumstances of this case are indicative of nothing else than the criminal bent of mind and the criminal intent working among all the assailants present on the spot to execute the plan who have been stated to be four in numbers. Learned A.A.G. also urged that there was no reason for false implication and sparing the real culprit, may be that there was some cause for false involvement but that could not work to the impact that the real culprits are given a go-bye and only false persons are named in the F.I.R.. There is no other person named the F.I.R. nor has anything adverse creating any doubt in the prosecution story has emerged in the cross-examination of P.W.1 which may render his testimony unworthy of credit. The case of the prosecution is proved to the hilt. Under circumstances, conviction is justified.

10. We have also considered the rival submissions. Now in the light of the above, the core consideration that arises for adjudication of this appeal relates to fact whether the prosecution has been able to establish the charge against the present appellants and in particular the fact that P.W.1 the informant was present on the spot and can it be

11. We can proceed straightway on the description of the F.I.R.. It proceeds on to describe that it was 12:00 noon on 13.10.1985 when the informant and the victim Afsar were proceeding to collect fodder and as soon as they reached near the sugarcane field of Faiyaz then Faiyaz, Mahfooz, Hasnain and Tariqat (co-villagers) all of a sudden appeared on the spot emerging out of the sugarcane field possessing country made gun in their hands exhorting that no one will be spared whereupon informant and his father tried to run away from the scene. In the meanwhile Faiyaz fired with his gun pointing on the father of the informant which fire hit him. He screamed and fell out. On hearing the noise of the sound of the fire a number of persons Yusuf, Akhtar Muzaffar and others arrived on the spot whereupon the assailants secured their escape. Certain other description has been also given regarding the point of discontent prevailing between the sides on account of some dispute regarding construction of some wall. Apart from that it has also been described in the F.I.R. that after that the informant went up to his father and found him dead and there was lying some barrel and slipper scattered on the spot. The report was lodged on the very same day at 3:15 p.m. at police station- Kithore of district-Meerut. The written report is Ex. Ka-1 and on the basis of the same relevant entries were noted down in the concerned check F.I.R. Ex. Ka-3 and the concerned G.D. Ex. Ka-4 and a case was registered against the accused at case crime no.333/ 1985, under section 302 I.P.C.. Consequently, the investigation ensued and it was taken over by Shri Inderdev Jha- P.W.6 who noted contents of the F.I.R. and arrived on the spot around 5:30 p.m. the very same day. He selected the witnesses for preparation of the inquest and prepared the inquest report Ex. Ka-5. Thereafter relevant papers were also prepared for sending the body for post-mortem examination. These papers are Ex. Ka-6 to Ka-9. Besides he also completed other formalities and collected the simple and the blood stained clay from the spot and prepared memo of the same Ex. Ka-12. Similarly, he also prepared memo of paper and barrel Ex. Ka-13. Site plan was also prepared which is Ex. Ka-14. Thereafter the investigation was taken over by Shri Ved Prakash, the second investigating officer who after recording statement of the accused filed the charge-sheet which has been proved by this witness as Ex. Ka-15.

12. That way we can notice that proper investigation after the lodging of the F.I.R. culminated into filing of the charge-sheet. Contention is that P.W.1 was not present on the spot and assuming it to be that he was present, even then the present surviving appellants have not been imputed any specific role nor any reactionary role previous or subsequent imputed so as to establish that they shared any common intention to kill Afsar though the fire might have been caused by main accused Faiyaz. The contention is that the first informant was allowed to escape unhurt and no attempt whatsoever was made to open fire on him. In that regard we have before us the testimony of P.W.1. We upon careful scrutiny of the entire testimony and in particular the examination-in-chief come across the fact that the incident as narrated in the first information report has been virtually dittoed and on cross-examination being done various aspects reflecting on point of involvement of the deceased and the informant in various criminal cases has been tried to be brought to the fore but that had got no relevancy with the description of the occurrence as has emerged in further cross-examination as appears on page No. 22 of the paper book, wherein in the first paragraph on point of the topography of the place of occurrence each and every particular relating the incident has been reasonably connected with the place of occurrence. All the relevant particulars of the incident as to what happened when the offence was being committed and the shot hit the deceased and where the deceased fell down has been properly replied and proved by P.W.1.

13. Contention is that at that very particular time when the shot hit Afsar, the informant P.W.1 did not see it. But we upon scrutiny of testimony of P.W.1 record our finding that the description of the occurrence given by P.W.1 is innocuous, in view of fact that no further cross-examination has been done on the point as to how he came to know about the fact that the shot fired by Faiyaz hit Afsar and it was under these circumstances that the trial court tried itself to unfold the truth by asking question to the witness on that point of occurrence then it transpired that only one shot was fired on the spot. Now the natural explanation is that two men are proceeding together and an offence is committed against them then it is most natural that the person under fear of imminent death would try to flee away from the scene and will not concentrate on the victim of the occurrence as to at what part of the body he has been hit although there is no cross-examination either general or specific on this aspect. The entire episode as described by the prosecution has been established in the cross-examination of P.W.1 in its entirety.

14. Now, the claim is that the accused never participated in the occurrence. That claim looses significance and goes into oblivion on account of specific testimony of P.W.1 regarding presence of the accused on the spot thus establishing their presence on the spot. Now the next contention comes into picture that assuming it to be that they were present on the spot even then no action or reaction was made by the present appellants and no nexus with the intent of the main accused to execute the plan with Faiyaz has been reasonably established. On that count also we may take notice of contents of section 34 of the Indian Penal Code which primarily stipulates about any criminal act being committed by several persons in furtherance of the common intention of all, each of such persons shall be liable for that act in the same manner as if it were done by him alone. Here, the act of one becomes act of all though no covert act done by others but they being present with weapons in hand profusely establishes prevalence of sharing of common intention to commit the crime. That being the dictum laid down under section 34 I.P.C.. We may refer to the attendant facts and circumstances of this case on the spot itself.

15. The scenario claimed and proved in this case appears to be that four persons are stated to have arrived in a group on the spot possessing weapons in their respective hands. Only one shot was fired by one among the four culprits. Can it be said that the other assailants present on the spot never entertained any such animus like the one who fired on the deceased ? The answer would be absolutely in negative. Possession of lethal weapon by other accused in company with prime accused itself is indicative of the animus shared by one and all. Since the presence of the co-accused is established on the spot beyond doubt then their remaining silent on the spot and not opening fire either in retaliation or as in reactionary measure on the fleeing of informant would not ipso-facto create a situation to be construed that the other three accused/the present appellants were not sharing the animus to commit the crime with the main accused. Here the liability is vicariously imposed by virtue of application of Section 34 I.P.C. The object and the intention was one to kill the deceased. Consequently, the argument falls flat that in the absence of any overt act common intention cannot be applied to the other accused though present on the spot.

16. Now we may observe with wisdom that in the matters of ascertaining prevalence of common intention among all the accused not only the evidence but the surrounding circumstances have also got their positive roles and in case it all if taken as a whole a reflection immediately emerges that each one present on the spot must have known the nature of the offence intended by the group, it being so each one forming the group shall be imputed with the same intention that was the animus working in the mind of one who executed the plan and it is established law that common intention may also develop on the spot itself. Here prior concert among the accused is proved by the way the offence was committed and manner of offence is self-explanatory. In this case the pre-concert among all the assailants is well established by the very description of the incident as well as the manner and style of the incident itself as emerging in testimony that all the assailants appeared on the spot from the sugarcane field of Faiyaz possessing country made gun in their respective hands, no matter if one shot was fired by one among the four assailants. If it so occurred and the same has been proved by the prosecution witnesses by cogent testimony then the only outcome is that all the assailants shared the common intention to kill and to kill the victim and nothing else. That being the position, claim of the appellant that they remained silent on the spot and never shared the common intention with the main assailant is not acceptable. The trial court has rightly held that the case is one attracting application of section 34 I.P.C. and by virtue of application of section 34 I.P.C. rightly recorded finding of conviction under section 302 I.P.C. against the accused-appellants which finding of conviction cannot be interfered by us, consequently, this appeal lacks merit and the same is dismissed.

17. In this case, appellants are on bail. Their bail bonds and sureties are cancelled. They shall be taken into custody forthwith for serving out the sentence imposed upon them.

18. Let a copy of this order/judgment be certified to the court below for necessary information and follow up action.

He along with the police team stayed in the house for about ½ hours but neither the witness from public came there nor he called them. At 3 p.m. after returning to the police station, an information was sent to the father of the child and parents of the child came in the evening to him. He did not record the confessional statement of the accused before the Magistrate at the police station nor informed the Magistrate about it that the accused confessional statement is to be recorded. He further denied the suggestion that he did not arrest the accused from the spot nor the abductee child was recovered from the possession of the accused.

29. PW4- Constable Sipahi Lal in his deposition before the trial Court has stated that on 16.4.2011 he was posted as Constable Clerk in the Police Out Post Nai Mandi, Police Station Kotwali Dehat,District Bulandshahr and on the said date he registered Case Crime No.307/80/2011, under Section 363 I.P.C. of which Chik FIR is in his hand writing and signature. He further endorsed about the registeration of the FIR in G.D.No.15 at 12.20 hrs. on 16.4.2011. He proved the Chik FIR (Ext. Ka.10) and G.D.No.15 (Ext. ka.11).

30. In his cross-examination, this witness has stated that on the basis of the written report submitted by the informant, he registered the FIR and for investigation he has written the name of S.I.Rajvir Singh Chauhan (Ext.Ka.10) which makes endorsement about the same in red ink, has not been written by him.

31. PW5-S.I.C.P.Singh has stated before the trial Court that he was the member of the police team which had arrested the accused persons along with the abductee child. He has proved the G.D. Ext.Ka.2, recovery memo of mobile Ext. Ka.3, recovery memo of the abductee child Rehan Ext. Ka.4, Supurdginama Ext. Ka.5, arrest memo of the accused persons along with their search memo Ext. Ka.6 to 9 and he was present when the accused persons were produced before the Court.

32. This witness has further stated that the accused Nadeem was arrested first and thereafter on the pointing out of the accused Nadeem, accused Mazhar was arrested from whose custody abductee child was also recovered.

33. In his cross-examination, this witness has stated that the police team had tried to request the witnesses from the public but they could not find any witness. He stated that it was a day time and many persons of the public were moving around, hence, they did not ask any of the persons of the public regarding their names nor enquired from the persons of the neighbouring house from where the recovery was made because of the paucity of time.

34. On a query being made by the Court what does he mean by 'paucity of time', then he answered, as the child was to be recovered quickly. He stated that at the time when the accused Nadeem was arrested, abductee child Rehan was not found along with him and in the present case along with the two accused, Chand was also an accused. He further stated that he did not know that in the incident of kidnapping whether the uncle of the abductee, namely, Chand was involved or not and again he stated that the police team was also told that one accused by the name of Chand was also involved in the present case.This witness denied the suggestion that none of the accused persons were arrested from the spot nor, any child was recovered from the spot.

35. This witness in his cross-examination has further stated that when the police team raided the house for the recovery of the child then 20-30 persons had arrived there and again stated that 15-20 persons arrived. The recovery memo was prepared at the place of occurrence. No person of the public was made as witness and 15-20 persons of the public who had arrived at the place of occurrence they did not enquire about their names nor other members of the team asked about their names from them. The recovery memo was signed by him but it did not mention that the accused were kept Baparda.

36. The house from where the child was recovered, he did not know about its area and also that how many stories were constructed in the said house. He further cannot state how many rooms were constructed in the said house from which the accused was arrested he did not remember and it took about 15 minutes to prepare the recovery memo. He denied the suggestion that the accused was not given the copy of recovery memo and further denied that the accused was not arrested on the spot nor the child was recovered and for some unknown reasons, false arrest has been shown.

37. PW6- S.I. Rajvir Singh Chauhan has stated before the trial Court that he was posted as In-charge of the Police Out Post Nai Mandi, Police Station Kotwali Dehat, District Bulandshahr on 16.4.2011 and he had taken over the investigation of the present case and after taking over the investigation he recorded the statement of the informant Shahabuddin and other witnesses and recorded the same in the case diary and further visited the place of occurrence, prepared the site plan at the pointing out of the informant, which is in his hand writing and signature and proved the site plan as Ext. Ka.12. On 17.4.2011, he received a message from mobile phone No.9711449810 that a child by the name of Rehan has been kidnapped/ abducted and police of police station Jagatpuri, Delhi has recovered him along with two accused who have confessed about the incident of kidnapping/abduction of the child.

38. He further stated that this witness along with Constable Vijendra Singh and Shahjad Singh proceeded from Police Out Post to Delhi and they also taken the informant Shahabuddin who was asked to reach at Anoop Shahr and from where he accompanied them to Police Station Jagatpuri, Delhi and reached there.

39. The informant on reaching at the Police Station Jagatpuri after seeing the accused, informed the police that he was the same person who had come to his house in the night and stayed. He recorded the statements of the accused persons in the case diary and further recorded the statements of S.I. Hasrat Ali, S.I. C.P.Singh, Head Constable Balvir Singh, Constable Jeetpal Singh under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

40. On 18.4.2011, he took transit remand of the accued Mazhar and Nadeem. On 17.4.2011, offence under Section 328, 379 & 411 I.P.C. was added and on the same day the case was converted from Section 363 I.P.C.to 364A I.P.C. and the same was also endoresed in the G.D. Ext. Ka.13. On 18.4.2011, the recovery of Motorola mobile phone which was taken from the Police Station Jagatpuri, the same was submitted by him to the police malkhana and also mentioned about the adding of the offence under Sections 328, 379 & 411 I.P.C.in the G.D. Rapat No.22 at 11.35 hrs. and proved the same as Ext. Ka.14. He also proved the recovery of the mobile phone Motorola as material Ext. Ka.1, which was recovered from the accused Nadeem before the trial Court. This witness has further stated that on 21.4.2011, he recorded the statement of the accused Chand in the case diary and thereafter the investigation of the case was transferred from him.

41. This witness in his cross-examination has stated that neither the recovery of the child nor the recovery of mobile phone was made in his presence. The accused were not brought Baparda from Delhi nor the accused were handed over to him Baparda. Except the informant he did not record the statement of any of the witnesses of fact. The informant had not seen any accused taking away his child. He did not submitted charge sheet against the accused and only prepared the site plan at the pointing out of the informant. He also admitted the fact that the accused Chand has been acquitted in the present incident and he was aware of the fact after going through the records.

42. PW7-Inspector Siddharth Tomar has deposed before the trial Court that on 25.4.2011 he was posted as Inspector In-charge of Police Station Kotwali, District Bulandshahr and under the orders of the C.O.City he had taken over the investigation of the case. On 5.5.2011, he recorded the statement of the witness Zahira wife of the informant, under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and after investigation he submitted charge sheet against the accused Nadeem, Mazhar & Chand in Case Crime No.307/80/11, under Sections 364A, 379, 328, 411 I.P.C. and proved the charge sheet as Ext. Ka.15 which is in his hand writing and signature.

43. In his cross-examination, this witness has stated that as the accused Chand was also involved in the present case hence, he submitted charge sheet against him also. He did not record the statement of the accused nor visited the place from where the abductee child was recovered. He was not aware of the fact that the accused Chand was the real brother of the father of the abductee. He was also not aware of the fact that the trial of the accused Chand was separated being S.T.No.1094/11 in the Court of Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.19 (F.T.C.) from where he was acquitted. He denied the suggestion that he carried on a wrong investigation and submitted wrong charge sheet.

44. On cross-examination made on behalf of the accused Mazhar from him, he has stated that the name of the accused Chand came during the course of investigation. There is no endorsement in the C.D. that the accused Mazhar and Nadeem were kept Baparda or any identification was held regarding them. He admitted that the FIR was registered against unknown persons. He denied the suggestion that he had not carried out the investigation in a fair manner and wrongly submitted charge sheet against the accused Nadeem and Mazhar.

45. After considering the prosecution evidence and defence version, the trial Court convicted and sentenced the accused Nadeem and Mazhar for the offence under Sections 364A, 379 & 411 I.P.C. and acquitted them of the charges under Section 328 I.P.C. as the prosecution has failed to prove its case for the said offence.

46. Being aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order passed by the trial Court, by which the accused/ appellants have been convicted and sentenced, they have preferred the instant appeal.

47. Heard Sri Shad Khan, learned counsel for the appellant Nadeem-appellant No.1, Sri Gautam Kumar Banerjee, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant no.2- Mazhar and Sri Gaurav Pratap Singh, learned A.G.A. appearing for the State and perused the lower court record.

48. Learned counsel appearing for appellant no.1 has submitted that from perusal of the F.I.R. It is evident that the same was lodged under Section 363 I.P.C. by the complainant against unknown person and there was no allegation of ransom for the kidnapping/abduction of the child of the complainant (PW1) Shahabuddin. He pointed out that in the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of the complainant also, there appears to be no mention for the demand of ransom for the return of the child and the statement of PW2-Smt. Zahira, wife of Shahabuddin, whose statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded after one month of the incident. It was mentioned that some ransom was demanded from them on a mobile phone, which is an afterthought.

49. He thus argued that in the FIR as well as in the statement of the informant recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., there was no allegation regarding demand of ransom from the complainant and for the first time before the trial Court PW1 Shahabuddin has stated that when he had written over the FIR then he received a call on his mobile phone from the mobile phone, which was taken away by the accused while abducting his son that if he want return of the child then Rs.5 lacs be paid today. He submitted that the fact regarding demand of ransom money was made subsequently just to improve the prosecution case to give a serious colour of the incident by the complainant in collusion with the police personnel.

50. He next submitted that during the course of investigation it has been found that one person by the name of Chand was also made an accused in the present case who happens to be the uncle of the abductee child and real brother of PW1 Shahabuddin and against whom the police has also submitted charge sheet in the present case along with two appellants and the trial of the accused Chand was separated being S.T. No.1094 of 2011 which ended in his acquittal as the informant and his wife did not depose against the said accused Chand as they have stated that he was not involved in the incident.

51. He further submitted that PW2-Smt. Zahira, wife of Shahabuddin and the mother of the abductee child, in her cross-examination has further admited that her husband was doing the work of embroidery and could hardly only earn Rs.10,000/- per month and they had only a small house and further they did not have any bank balance to the tune of Rs.2-3 lacs. In such circumstances, the financial position of the informant was not sound which could require the accused to demand such a huge amount of Rs.5 lacs from him.

52. He further argued that the abductee child was recovered by the police of Police Station Jagatpuri, Delhi from a house and at the time of arrest of the accused Mazhar along with the child at Delhi no independent witness of the said recovery has been shown though from the evidence of PW3 Hasrat Ali and PW5 S.I. C.P.Singh shows that many persons of the public had arrived and were available but the police made a lame excuse that the child was to be recovered hence due to paucity of time they did not take any public witness for making the recovery of the abductee child and arrest of the accused Mazhar from the house.

53. He argued that so far as the arrest of the accused Nadeem by the police is concerned, that too appears to be a false one as no independent witness of his arrest or of the recovery of the mobile phone was made part of his arrest or recovery of Motorola mobile phone though he was also arrested from a busy place where the witnesses were easily made available. All the witnesses of arrest of the two accused appellant and recovery of the abductee child are the police witnesses, hence, the said recovery and their arrest appears to be a false one.

54. It was further argued that the prosecution has tried to conceal the origin of the incident as the trial Court found that the first part of the incident could not be proved by the prosecution where it has been stated by PW1 Shahabuddin that one person by the name of of Alam had come to his house for business purposes on the evening on 15.4.2011 and had also assured him for getting export deal. He had come with cold-drink bottles with him and offered the same to PW1 and his wife PW2 who consumed the same and the cold drink was also consumed by the said person in the evening and thereafter when the said person had stayed back in their house and slept in the night, had walked out with the son of the informant, who on the next morning found that the said person and his minor son Rehan were not traceable, on which the informant after great search lodged the FIR of the incident.

55. Therefore, the prosecution case with respect to the offence under Section 328 I.P.C. could not be proved by the prosecution by the cogent evidence, hence, the trial Court has acquitted the appellant for the offence under Section 328 I.P.C.

56. Learned counsel for the appellants besides the above arguments has lastly argued that even if the prosecution case is taken at its face value, the conviction of the appellants under Section 364A I.P.C. is not sustainable in the eyes of law and the case would not travel beyond Section 365 I.P.C. He further argued that the appellants have been convicted for life imprisonment under Section 364A I.P.C. and have served out about 9 years in jail and the maximum punishment provided under Section 365 I.P.C. is 7 years and, therefore, the appellants be released by modifying/altering their conviction and sentence under Section 365 I.P.C. from Section 364A I.P.C. as the prosecution has failed to establish that the child was abducted by the two appellants for payment of ransom.

57. In support of his argument, learned counsel appearing for the appellant has placed reliance upon a judgment of this Court in case of Ashwani Dubey Vs. State of U.P., reported in (2016) 97 ACC 229 & Mahesh Vs. State of U.P., reported in (2016) 96 ACC 775, wherein this Court in a similar facts and circumstances has modified/altered the conviction and sentence from under Section 364A I.P.C. to Section 365 I.P.C.

58. Sri Gautam Kumar Banerjee, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the appellant no.2 has adopted the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for appellant no.1.

59. Per contra, learned A.G.A. on the other hand, has vehemently opposed the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the appellants and submitted that the appellant no.1 Nadeem was arrested by the police on 17.4.2011 and from his possession a motorola mobile phone belonging to the informant Shahabuddin was recovered and further he also confessed that the said mobile phone belonged to the informant Shahabuddin whose son was abducted by him along with his companion Mazhar, he further disclosed to the police that he can get the child recovered along with the accused Majahar. On the information given by the appellant Nadeem, the police reached to the house at Delhi and recovered the abductee child along with the accused Mazhar who was arrested by the police of police station Jagatpuri, Delhi and both the accused along with the abductee child were brought to the police station Jagatpuri, Delhi, thereafter an information was given by the police of the said police station to the concerned police station at Bulandshahr and the police of the concerned police station at Bulandshahr further took PW1 along with them and reached the police station Jagatpuri where they saw that the accused Mazhar who claimed himself to be the Alam, had visited his house on the day of the incident and identified him. PW1 further stated that it was he who had taken over his son in the night of 15/16.4.2011.The child was thereafter handed over to PW1 by the police of police station Jagatpuri, Delhi and the accused were brought from Delhi on transit remand to Bulandshahr and the case was converted from the offence under Section 363 I.P.C. to 364A I.P.C. and further offence under Sections 328, 379, 411 I.P.C. was also added in the present. After investigation the police submitted charge sheet for the offence under Sections under Sections 364A, 379, 411 328 I.P.C. and the accused were put to trial. He further argued that as the abductee child has been recovered from the possession of the appellant Mazhar on the information given by the appellant Nadeem from whom motorola mobile phone was recovered and from the said mobile phone a demand of ransom of Rs.5 lacs was made by the accused on the other mobile phone of PW1, as has been stated by PW1 and PW2 before the trial Court, hence, the trial Court has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellants for the offences in question.

60. We have given thoughtful consideration to the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and thoroughly perused the evidence on record.

61. It is an admitted fact that the FIR of the incident was lodged by PW1 Shahabuddin on 16.4.2011 at 12.20 hrs. for the offence under Section 363 I.P.C. against one unknown person namely, Alam for enticing and taking away his minor son by the said unknown person.The accused appellant Nadeem was arrested by the police on 17.4.2011 at 12.45 p.m. on the information given by the police informer and from his possession a motorola mobile phone which was of silver and gray colour being mobile No. RMRH 51500017908 was recovered and who disclosed that the said mobile phone belonged to the complainant Shahabuddin, resident of Bulandshahr and he confessed before the police that he along with his companion Chand son of Faqruddin of District Bulandshahr and Mazhar had abducted Rehan, aged about 3-4 years, son of Shahabuddin on 15/16.4.2011 at 3 a.m. (night hours) and the mobile phone of the informant/complainant which was recovered from him was taken away for demanding ransom. On the information and pointing out of the accused appellant Nadeem, the police raided the House No. F-161 Gali No.5, Shastri Park, Delhi. The police arrested the accused Majhor along with the son of the informant, namely Rehan and further recorded the statement of the accused Mazhar who has stated that he along with his companion Nadeem and Chand had abducted the son of the informant Rehan in the night of 15/16.4.2011 at 3 A.M. The police of Police Station Jagatpuri, Delhi thus arrested the accused along with the child and brought to the Police Station Jagatpuri, Delhi from where they informed the concerned police station of Bulandshahr regarding the arrest of the accused and recovery of the child. On which, the police of police station Kotwali Dehat,District Bulandshahr reached the Police Station Jagatpuri, Delhi along with the PW1 Shahabuddin who identified the person Alam who stated that the accused Mazhar was the person who had come to his house at 15.4.2011 disclosing his name as Alam for the purpose of getting an export order and had stayed in his house in the night and took away his son Rehan for which he lodged the FIR. The police thereafter handed over the abductee child to PW1 and prepared a supurdginama on 17.4.2011. The accused were produced before the before the Metropolitan Magistrate, Karkarduma, Delhi for transit remand on 18.4.2011 and thereafter they were brought to the District Bulandshar.

62. During the course of investigation, the case was converted under Section 364A I.P.C. from Section 363 I.P.C. and offences under Sections 328, 379, 411 I.P.C. were added and after the investigation PW7 submitted charge sheet for the offene under Sections 364A, 379, 328, 411 I.P.C and the accused were put to trial who denied the charges and stated that in order to save the accused Chand, they have been falsely implicated in the present case by the informant PW1 Shahabuddin in collusion with the police.

63. The argument of learned counsel for the appellants has great significance and has substance that in the FIR as well as in 161 Cr.P.C. statement of the informant, there was no mention for demand of ransom by the accused persons for the return of the abductee child. In the statement of PW2 Smt. Zahira recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., it has been stated by her that a call for ransom of Rs.5 lacs was made for the return of the child but the said statement was recorded after one month of the incident just to improve the prosecution case and for the first time before the trial Court it has been stated by PW1 that a ransom call was made from his mobile phone which was taken away by the accused while kidnapping his son in the night of 15/16.4.2011 on his other mobile. Moreover, it has been stated by him that when he had written the report of the incident,he received a call on his mobile by which he was threatened by the accused and a demand of ransom of Rs.5 lacs was made for the return of his child, which has not been established by the prosecution by a cogent evidence.'

64. Moreover, the accused Chand whose complicity has also come into light in the statement of the two appellants regarding kidnapping/abduction of the child of the informant, who was uncle of the abductee and real brother of PW1 the informant, and though charge sheet was submitted against him for the offences in question, he was put to trial in S.T .No.1094 of 2011 before the competent Court, but the PW1 and PW 2 who are his real brother and sister-in-law (Bhabhi) of accused Chand have failed to depose against him and stated that Chand was not involved in the present case along with the two appellants and on the basis of which the trial Court has acquitted him, which also raises suspicion regarding testimony of the said two witnesses against the appellants that they had abducted the child of the complainant for a ransom. But, considering the fact and evidence led by the prosecution that the abductee Rehan has been recovered by the police from the custody of the appellant Mazhar on the pointing out of the accused appellant Nadeem on 17.4.2011 from a house at Delhi which stands to be proved from the testimony of PW3, PW4 & PW5 who raided the house from where the abductee child was recovered and they have deposed about the arrest of the accused appellant Nadeem and recovery of Motorola mobile phone from him and further he took the police team to the house at Shastri Park, Delhi from where the abductee along with the accused appellant Mazhar were found and further the documentary evidence available on record such as recovery memo, arrest memo etc. goes to show that they had kidnapped/abducted the son of the complainant with an intent to cause abductee secretly and wrongfully confined as it transpires from the prosecution evidence, hence, the contention of learned counsel for the appellants that no case under Section 364A I.P.C. is made out against the appellants as the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt that the abductee was kidnapped/abducted for a ransom, hence, their conviction and sentence under Section 364A I.P.C. is not all justified and their conviction and sentence may be altered to Section 365 I.P.C., holds merit and is acceptable.

65. In view of the foregoing discussions and after scanning the entire evidence on record including the testimony of the witnesses and other documentary evidence, we have no hesitation to hold that the conviction of the appellants under Section 364A I.P.C. by the trial Court is unsustainable as the trial Court has failed to appreciate from the evidence on record that there was no cogent and legal evidence regarding demand of ransom for kidnapping or abducting the child of the informant/complainant by the accused persons. Hence, the conviction and sentence of the appellants under Section 364A I.P.C. is against the evidence on record and is liable to be set aside by this Court, which is accordingly set aside. But this Court hold the conviction of the appellants under Section 365 I.P.C. They are sentenced to 7 years R.I. under Section 365 I.P.C. with a fine of Rs.10,000/- on each of them and in default of payment of fine they shall further undergo imprisonment of six months

66. The appellants are stated to be jail for more than 9 years. As the maximum sentence awarded under Section 365 I.P.C. is 7 years and appellants have already served out the imprisonment of surplus period as they are stated to be in jail for the last more than 9 years, hence, the payment of fine as has been ordered by this Court under Section 365 I.P.C. and by the the trial Court, the same shall be treated to be the imprisonment against the fine imposed on them, hence, they shall be released forthwith, if they are not wanted in any other case. The period of six months of additional imprisonment which they could have been required to undergo in case of default of payment of fine of Rs.10,000/- each has also been undergone by them, hence, they are not required to make any payment of fine. The judgement and order of the trial Court is modified to that extent.

67. Sri Gautam Kumar Banerjee, learned Amicus Curiae on behalf of appellant no.2-Mazhar be paid honorarium as per the Rules as he placed his papers regarding his appointment as Amicus Curiae by the Legal Service Authority for arguing the appeal on behalf of appellant no.2-Mazhar.

68. It is further directed that the accused appellants shall furnish bail bond with surety to the satisfaction of the Court concerned in terms of the provision of Section 437-A of Cr.P.C.

69. In view of the above, the appeal stands partly allowed.

70. Let the lower court record be transmitted to the trial Court concerned along with the certified copy of this order by the office for its information and compliance forthwith.

6. The prosecution case in short conspectus is that the First Information Report was lodged on 18.5.1985 at 6.50 P.M. by Bahaar Singh S/o Ram Sahay in respect of an incident occurred on the same day at 4.30 P.M. which was registered as Case Crime No.158 of 1985, under Sections 147,148,149,302,201 IPC at police Kayamganj, District Farrukhabad. He divulged in the FIR that his father Ram Sahay was Pradhan of his village Lakhanpur for about 35 years. In the last election, Chandrakali, the wife of Kaptan Singh @ Kamta Prasad S/o Babu Ram Yadav had contested election against his father. His father had lost the election for which a petition was filed which is pending. About two & half years ago a dacoity had been committed in the house of Saudan Singh, who had named Atar Singh S/o Pyarey Lal and Mansha Ram and two others of which the case is pending. Besides this, two years ago a case under Section 396 IPC was filed by Sohan Lal Nunre of village Lakhanpur in which two persons were killed by dacoits. In the said case, Mansha Ram, Atar Singh and Deshraj, the brother of Kaptan Singh were named in the FIR by Sohan Lal. Atar Singh and Kaptan Singh were under the impression that the complainant's father has implicated them in the case of dacoity. About two years ago, Kaptan Singh, Mansha Ram and Atar Singh had fired upon his father and his brother Tahar Singh with intent to kill them but luckily they had escaped from there. In this case all the three accused persons were challaned by the police. On account of the above reasons, Kaptan Singh and Atar Singh were bearing enmity with his father. Two and half months ago family member of Kaptan Singh was murdered in the village in which Kali Charan S/o Ram Naresh Yadav had filed a false report against Vijayee and Mansha Ram along with Tahar Singh who is the brother of the complainant at the instance of Kaptan Singh and on account of which, his brother is in jail. After 2-4 days, the dead body of Nahar Singh, the elder brother of Atar Singh was found in a well in which Atar Singh had implicated the complainant, his father, Nanhey, Rajendra, Tejram etc. of his village in the case, on the basis of mere suspicion that they had committed murder of Nahar Singh. A case under Section 107 IPC was also filed by Kaptan Singh and others, which is still continuing and on account of these reasons Atar Singh and Kaptan Singh were inimical with his father Ram Sahay.

7. Today (on 18.5.1985) in the evening at about 4.30 P.M. his father Ram Sahay was sitting on a cot on the platform situated in front of his baithak. Atar Singh, his younger brother Sughar Singh, elder brother Nawab Singh, Phulwari and Mansha Ram of his village as well as Kaptan Singh and Deshraj emerged out from the house of Atar Singh and passed through the baithak of Rajju and reached at the platform. Atar Singh, Phulwari and Mansha Ram were armed with rifle, Sughar Singh, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj having double barrel gun and Nawab Singh was armed with countrymade pistol came over chabootra. As soon as his father saw them he got up and tried to run towards baithak, at this Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh had fired upon his father. After receiving gun shot injury his father ran towards baithak and fell down there. Sughar Singh, Nawab Singh and Phulwari went behind him and entered in the baithak. There too, they had again fired upon him. Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh were firing indiscriminately outside which had created reign of terror. His father had succumbed to the injuries in the baithak. All the accused persons thereafter dragged the dead body of his father from baithak and put him on the heap of wood of Arhar kept in an open vacant land of Sahab Singh. Atar Singh and Deshraj exerted that "Sale Ko Jalakar Rakh Kar Do" (burn him to ashes) and set the heap of wood of Arhar on fire. Other persons put dry leaves (patai) of sugarcane on fire. Thereafter they went towards the house of Kaptan Singh unleashing reign of terror by firing. This incident was witnessed by his mother who was standing at the door he himself, Sahab Singh S/o Bhawani Singh of his village and Brijender Singh who is the son of his brother's 'Sarhu' Soney Lal who resides there but they all were helpless seeing the murder of his father due to fear of accused persons armed with rifles and guns. The dead body of his father burnt to some extent has been lying on the spot, hence action be taken by lodging the FIR.

30. In his cross-examination he further deposed that at the eastern side of platform of Ram Sahay there is an open place which is 50 steps from east and 50 steps from door towards west. There is no wall. Gher of Sahab Singh towards north east about 50-55 meters. Open place of Sahab Singh is about 40-50 yards east and west. On the eastern side of field of Sahab Singh after half Km. agricultural fields of the village and the fields of Soney Lal, Sahab Singh and others are located. 15 minutes prior to the incident he along with Bahaar Singh had gone to see the field of muskmelon. The field of muskmelon is towards the east and south of the village. There is no field of Soney Lal. The field of Soney Lal is lying towards north and in between there is a field of Ram Sahay (Pradhan). P.W-2 was cross-examined at length with respect to the different field of the village situated near the place of incident. Again he was exhaustively cross-examined with respect to the field of villagers lying in the vicinity of the place of incident. He had deposed about the field of various villagers in a natural manner and he further deposed that the platform where Ram Sahay was sitting was 8-10 paces in length and width. The door of his baithak was towards east. His cot was closed to the door. Ram Sahai was sitting on the cot facing east. The cot was lying east to west. When the first fire was shot from the western side, at that moment Ram Sahay was sitting on the cot. 3 shot hit to Ram Sahay. Blood oozed out from the injury of Ram Sahay which fell on the cot and also on the ground. After 3 shots no fire was made at the platform as Ram Sahay ran inside baithak. After he entered in baithak firing had taken place but he could not count. At the platform 10-15 shots were made in the air. After Ram Sahay entered into baithak he heard 4-6 round of fire, but he could not see. The fire made by the accused persons in the air on the chabootra and while running from the place. After 10-15 minutes of firing by the accused persons there was atmosphere of panic and terror. He had deposed before the police that all the accused persons ran towards house of Kaptan Singh while firing in the air. After burning the dead body no fire was shot. The fire was doused by him, Bahaar Singh after arrival of women and children. He had stated about the said incident to the police, but he could not say as to why the same has not been mentioned by the police in his statement. When the police saw the dead body it was wet. No smoke was coming out from the dead body. Wet ashes and half wet wood lying there had been collected by the police. He had seen 10-15 cartridges were found at the place of incident. Cartridges were found only at the place of chabootra and baithak. The blood was only found inside baithak and at the platform. It is wrong to say that he had not seen the incident. It is wrong to say that he received the information about the murder of Ram Sahay in the morning when he was in Jasrathpur. It is wrong to say that on receiving information he and Bahaar Singh came from Jasrathpur to the place of incident. He also denied that he is deposing falsely about the incident on receiving information.

31. After examining the two witnesses of fact, the prosecution examined Dr. C.N. Bhalla on 18.11.2002 as P.W-3. Dr. C.N. Bhalla, Medical Officer Leprosy Control Unit Fatehgarh, District Farrukhabad deposed on that he was posted on 19.5.1985 as Pediatrician in District Hospital, Fatehgarh. On that date, at about 5 P.M. he had conducted the autopsy of Ram Sahay Yadav S/o Umarao. He was aged about 60 years. The dead body was brought in sealed cover by Constable Lal Mani and Constable Balram of police station Kayamganj, who had identified the dead body. The age of the deceased was aged about 60 years and one day had passed away since his death. His body was average built. Postmortem burn injury 4-6 degree was present. Head was partially burned and mussels were visible on the body. On some parts burned bones were visible and on some parts body was highly scorched.

32. The following ante-mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased (Ram Sahay):

1. Lacerated wound 3cm x 2.5cm x chest cavity in the left side 14cm below left ribs. Direction front to back;

3. Lacerated wound 3cm x 2.5cm x chest cavity left side of back below 8cm of scapula. Direction back to front;

34. On internal examination he found except frontal bone of the head all the bones were broken. Brain and its memberances were lacerated and the brain was coming out from injury. Left part of fourth and fifth ribs of the chest were broken. Both liver and its membranes were lacerated. Heart and its membranes were lacerated. Blood was filled in both part of chest. Stomach, small intestine, large intestine and gall bladder, both kidneys and spleen were lacerated.

35. He had opined that the cause of death was due to haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries.

36. The postmortem report was proved by him which was marked as Ext. Ka-2.

37. He deposed that death of Ram Sahay could have occurred on account of injuries sustained by him at 4.30 P.M. on 18.5.1985. Firstly he was injured by firing shots and thereafter his body was burned down.

38. In his cross-examination, he opined that there could be either side 4-6 hours regarding time of death. There could be possibility of receiving injuries at 11 P.M. in the night on 18.5.1985. In the stomach pasty food of 100gm. mixed with blood was found. He might have lastly taken meal prior to two hours before his death. He further deposed that as the dead body was 3-6 degree burnt, as such it was not possible to find out as to whether the injuries were of firearm.

39. On the internal examination wadding shots were recovered from different parts of the body which proves that the injuries were of firearm. It is not possible that wadding tikli and shots were present in the wounds from any previous injuries. He deposed that wadding tikli and shots were found in huge quantity, on account of which, heart, lung, liver, kidney and other internal organs were lacerated hence his death would have occurred instantaneously. He had not mentioned in his report about gun shot injury as the body was 3-6 degree burnt. He did not mention in his report as to from which part wadding tikli and pellets were recovered. He had found wadding tikli and pellets in all the four injuries. He could not say as to which bore of weapon was used. In pistol, rifle and revolver usually pellets are not used. The fire could have been shot from a distance between 4-12 feet.

40. The Dr. C.N. Bhalla was again examined in Sessions Trial No.129 of 1995 on 16.7.2009 as P.W-2. His deposition has been discussed in the connected Apeal filed by the accused Kaptan Singh and Deshraj.

41. S.S. Yadav, Retired Inspector, CBCID was examined on 26.5.2003 as P.W-4. He deposed on oath that he was posted as Sub-Inspector on 19.5.1985 at police station Kayamganj. On 18.5.1985 a case under Sections 302,201,147,148,149 IPC was registered as Case Crime No.158 of 1985. He visited the spot with in-charge Inspector Jagdamba Prasad Mishra and SSI K.L. Verma with police force where the deceased Ram Sahay r/o village Akhunpur, Police Station Kayamganj was murdered by firing and dead body was burnt. He had prepared the inquest report of the deceased

Ka-8 & Ka-9. He prepared the site plan. After preparing the police papers, he had sent the dead body of the deceased for autopsy through Constable Lal Mani and Constable Balram to District Hospital.

42. The defence had sought adjournment on 26.5.2003 to cross-examine him on the next date. Thereafter the case was adjourned incessantly by the defence and on 10.2.2009 after about six years he was again summoned and was re-examined with the permission of the court on behalf of all the accused persons of both the sessions trial separately.

43. S.S. Yadav, Retired Inspector of CBCID deposed on oath on 10.2.2009 that he was posted at the police station Kayamganj along with Constable Clerk Babu Lal and SSI K.L. Verma. He proved the chik FIR and rapat no.21-A prepared by Constable Clerk Babu Lal and proved his writing which was marked as Ext. Ka-8 & Ka-9. The charge sheet paper no.3-A in respect of accused Atar Singh, Sughar Singh, Nawab Singh, Mansha Ram and Phulwari under Sections 147,148,149,302,201 IPC prepared and signed by SSI K.L. Verma on 23.6.1985 which was proved and marked Ext. Ka-18. He further deposed that SSI K.L. Verma had already retired in 1998, since then his whereabouts is not known nor he had ever met with him.

44. In his cross-examination he deposed that SSI K.L. Verma had already retired in 1998. He did not know about his residence. He reached at the place of incident in this case. He could not remember at what time he reached there on 18.5.1985 as the incident is very old. When he reached on 18.5.1985 it was dark. He could not arrange light to conduct the inquest. He denied that he has made any overwriting on the last page of the inquest report. He denied any overwriting in crime number or section. He denied that he had made overwriting in respect of nakal rapat by putting "two" in place of one. He also denied that there is overwriting in case crime number. He had also denied that in the inquest report "Sections 147,148 & 149 IPC" was mentioned later on. He also denied that on the first page of case crime number was mentioned in the inquest report and that the chik report was not inconsistent with the inquest report. He also denied that any oral information was received at the police station about the murder of Ram Sahay on 19.5.1985 and reached at the same time along with the police force at the place of incident. He proved that the inquest was signed by him. He did not mention in the inquest report that it was prepared under the order of SSI K.L. Verma. Border of Police Station Campell is adjoining to District Etah and Budaun. There were known gangs in which gang of Sultan Dhanuk was active at the time of incident. He was not aware that in the gang females were also involved and Rajjo Devi was in the gang of Sultan. He had no information that members of Sultan gang used to take shelter with the deceased. It was also not known that deceased Ram Sahay was man of criminal nature and any criminal history is registered against him. Criminal history of Ram Sahay, deceased was not mentioned in the charge sheet.

45. This witness was cross-examined on behalf of the accused persons, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj on the same day i.e 10.2.2009 separately in the Sessions Trial No.129 of 1995 (State Vs. Kaptan Singh and another) as the trial had been consolidated with the S.T. No.327 of 1989 (State Vs. Atar Singh & others) on 17.9.1998 which was the leading case.

46. In his cross-examination P.W-4 S.S. Yadav deposed that he is not aware as to what time they had departed from the police station to the place of incident. SHO and SSI were along with him. He is not aware about other police personnel. He had gone in the police jeep. He did not remember at what time they reached at the place of incident. He went along with SSI K.L. Verma at the place of incident. He did not remember about the nature of work done by SSI K.L. Verma and the Inspector. He is not aware whose statement was recorded by the Inspector and SSI K.L. Verma. He has also not remembered that as to what were the places raided by them. He could not say about the distance from the house where the dead body of the deceased was lying. He did not mention about the injuries of the firearm in the inquest report. Only it is mentioned that the body was burned. He is not aware that village Akhunpur and village Akhunpur ka Nagla are two distinct villages.

47. Constable Phool Chandra Pairokar of Police Station Kotwali, Farrukhabad was examined on 5.5.2009 as P.W-5. This witness deposed that he knew Babu Lal, Constable Clerk and SSI Bhanwarpal Singh. He was posted along with them and used to see their reading and writing. He knows about their writing and signature. He proved the paper no.4-A/1, 24-A/3, chik FIR and paper no.21-A/1, copy of GD prepared by Constable Clerk Babu Lal which were marked as Ext. Ka-9. Paper no.3-A (charge sheet) in respect of Kaptan Singh and another of Sessions Trial No.129 of 1995 was written by SSI Bhanwarpal Singh was proved by him and the same was marked as Ext. Ka-20. He further deposed that Constable Clerk Babu Lal and SSI Bhanwarpal Singh have been transferred. Since then he had not met with them.

48. This witness was cross-examined by the defence on the same day. He deposed that it is wrong to say that he was never posted along with Constable Clerk Babu Lal and SSI Bhanwarpal Singh and that no proceeding of this case had taken place before him. He also denied that as a mere formality he is deposing falsely under pressure.

49. After examining the witnesses of fact and formal witnesses, the accused appellants were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

50. The statement of accused Atar Singh (since deceased), Sughar Singh, Nawab Singh (sons of Pyarey Lal), Mansha Ram and Phulwari under Section 313 Cr.P.C. were recorded on 8.5.2009. Their case was of denial and false implication due to enmity.

51. After the arguments were concluded, an application was moved on behalf of accused Sughar Singh on 6.7.2009 and it was pleaded that Sughar Singh was minor at the time of incident. The learned trial court separated the case of Sughar Singh and sent to the Juvenile Justice Board. The judgment in Sessions Trial No.129 of 1995 (State Vs. Kaptan Singh and another) and in Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989, State Vs. Atar Singh and others were pronounced on 22.7.2009.

52. The learned trial court proceeded to hold them guilty under Sections 148,302/34 IPC and accordingly convicted all the accused appellants for life imprisonment for the offence punishable under Section 302/34 IPC and for three years R.I. for the offence punishable under Section 148 IPC with a fine of Rs.15,000/-. Both the sentences were directed to run concurrently as already stated in the opening paragraph.

53. We have heard Sri Sukhveer Singh, learned counsel for the appellants and the learned A.G.A. Shri Ashwini Prakash Tripathi appearing on behalf of the State who have taken through the entire record.

54. Shri Sukh Veer Singh, learned counsel has submitted that due to passing away of Atar Singh, the appeal on his behalf of has stood abated. The accused Sughar Singh, the brother of Atar Singh was also facing trial in Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989 along with other accused appellants. His trial was separated as he was declared juvenile and acquitted by the trial court.

55. It is argued by the learned counsel Shri Sukh Veer Singh appearing for the appellants that the deceased Ram Sahay who was a man of criminal nature was done to death by unknown person belonging to his rival group of gang of dacoits and the appellants have falsely been implicated due to previous enmity by the complainant Bahaar Singh, who is son of the deceased. There is great inconsistency in the statement of P.W-1 Bahaar Singh with the statement of P.W-2 Brijendra Singh who have alleged to be the eyewitness of the incident. They were not at all present at the time of incident as there is discrepancy in their statement with the postmortem report of the deceased with respect to manner of assault by the accused persons hence it creates serious doubt about their presence. The prosecution has come up with the definite case that Atar Singh (since deceased), Mansha Ram and Phulwari were armed with rifle, Nawab Singh was having countrymade pistol, Sughar Singh who is the brother of Atar Singh and Nawab Singh, was having DBBL Gun, Deshraj and Kaptan Singh were also armed with DBBL Gun emerged out at the place of incident where the deceased Ram Sahay was sitting on a cot in front of his baithak. Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh started firing which hit to the deceased. The deceased got up and tried to ran inside his baithak. Three other accused persons, namely, Sughar Singh, Phulwari and Nawab Singh entered and fired shots inside baithak with their respective firearms, whereas the Doctor who had conducted the postmortem of the deceased had found four lacerated wounds on the body of Ram Sahay and from all the injuries wadding tikli and the cartridges were recovered. Dimension of injury nos.1,2 & 3 were 3cm x 2.5cm which could have been caused by single firearm weapon and those injuries could not be said to be the rifle injury. It cannot be said that the death had occurred on account of shot of rifle. As such the shots which were allegedly fired by Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Phulwari, armed with rifle, could not be the cause of death of Ram Sahay.

56. It is further argued that the investigating officer has recovered 8 empty cartridges of 12 bore and 3 empty cartridges of 315 bore from the place of incident and on internal examination, the wadding tiklis and pellets were found from different part of the dead body which go to show that the injuries could have been caused by bullet. Learned counsel has also pointed out that the incident had occurred at 4.30 P.M. on 18.5.1985, of which the FIR was lodged at 6.50 P.M. but the inquest was conducted by the investigating officer S.S. Yadav, P.W-4 on the next day between 6 A.M. to 9 A.M. At the time of conducting inquest some sections were added in the inquest report which is mentioned as Section 302/34 IPC and Section 147,148 IPC. Thus the FIR is ante-timed which was registered subsequent to the inquest of the deceased. The investigating officer has not been examined which has caused great prejudice to the defence to cross-examine him on various material points regarding recovery memo and site plan to discredit the testimony of the prosecution witnesses who are said to be the eyewitnesses of the incident. The investigating officer in whose presence the recovery memo of blood stained, plain earth, recovery memo of empty cartridges, memo relating to the raid of the houses of the accused persons was not examined. Those recovery witnesses who are mentioned in the FIR have also not been examined during trial. Non production of the investigating officer who prepared the recovery memos has made the entire recovery as false which corrodes the credibility of the prosecution witnesses.

57. Relying upon the case of Moti Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh; 2003 Law Suit (SC) 301 it is submitted by the learned counsel that on account of discrepancy between medical evidence with the prosecution case with respect to nature of injuries fired with firearm weapon assigned to the accused persons they were acquitted in the said case. Similarly, the case in hand it is not ascertainable with which firearm weapon injury was sustained by the deceased and who is responsible to cause death. As there is conflict between ocular testimony of P.W-1 Bahaar Singh and P.W-2 Brijendra and the medical evidence, they cannot be considered to be the eye witnesses. The Hon'ble Apex Curt in Ram Narain Singh Jaggar Singh Vs. State of Punjab (1975 AIR SC 1727) has set aside the conviction and held in para 7 "where the evidence of the witnesses for the prosecution is totally inconsistent with the medical evidence or the evidence of the ballistic expert, this is a most fundamental defect in the prosecution case and unless reasonably explained it is sufficient to discredit entire case."

58. In Mohinder Singh Vs. State; 1950 SCR 821 (AIR 1953 SC 415-1953 Cri LJ 1761) this Court observed in similar circumstances as follows:

"In a case where death is due to injuries or wound caused by a lethal weapon, it has also been considered before the duty of the prosecution to prove by expert evidence that it was likely or at least possible for the injuries to have been caused with the weapon with which and in the manner in which they are alleged to have been caused. It is elementary that where the prosecution has a definite or positive case, it is doubtful where the injuries which are attributed to the appellant were caused by a gun or by a rifle."

It is obvious that where the direct evidence is not supported by the expert evidence, then the evidence is wanting in the most material part of the prosecution case and it would be difficult to convict the accused on the basis of such evidence. While appreciating the evidence of the witnesses, the High Court does not appear to have considered this important aspect, but readily accept the prosecution case without noticing that the evidence of the eye witnesses in the Court was a belated attempt to improve their testimony and bring the same in line with the Doctor's evidence with a view to support an incorrect case."

59. In the present case Atar Singh (since deceased), Mansha Ram and Phulwari were allegedly armed with rifle while Nawab Singh was having countrymade pistol. According to the postmortem report of the deceased no rifle injury was found though it was stated by the P.W-1 Bahaar Singh that Atar Singh (since deceased), Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh had fired upon him. According to the prosecution case, Kaptan Singh was having DBBL Gun and Atar Singh (since deceased) and Mansha Ram were having rifle. After receiving shot of fire Ram Sahay, the deceased tried to run towards baithak and fell down. Thereafter Sughar Singh having DBBL Gun and Nawab Singh having countrymade pistol and Phulwari having armed with rifle entered inside baithak. Except three injuries over right and left chest, one on abdomen and one injury on the head of the deceased from wounds wadding tiklis of the cartridges were found. Injury nos.1,2 & 3 were of the same dimension which could have been caused by single weapon from close contact. As such the surviving accused appellants Mansha Ram, Phulwari and Nawab Singh cannot be made responsible for the cause of death of Ram Sahay. The appellants, namely, Atar Singh (since deceased), Nawab Singh and Sughar Singh are the real brothers and Sughar Singh has already been acquitted whose trial was also separated on account of his juvenility. Phulwari and Mansha Ram belonged to separate family, hence they have also no concern with the accused Kaptan Singh and Deshraj to involve themselves in the commission of offence.

60. The prosecution has also utterly failed to prove the common object and intention of all to commit the murder of Ram Sahay who hails from different caste and different family to come together sharing common intention and object to eliminate Ram Sahay. Only in order to add colour in the prosecution case, it was mentioned that after Ram Sahay was done to death, his dead body was dragged by the accused persons and brought towards an open land of Sahab Singh and the body was set on fire at the instigation of Atar Singh (since deceased) and Deshraj. When Ram Sahay already killed there was no occasion to bring the dead body in an open place in the broad day light and to set him on fire to destroy the evidence in the presence of the witnesses. It is also unnatural that the deceased's son and his wife who were present there had not uttered a single word or came forward to rescue Ram Sahay, their conduct creates serious doubt that they had seen the incident, even Smt. Nisar, who is the wife of the deceased and mother of the complainant has neither been produced nor examined as a witness of the incident. It appears that none has seen the incident which had taken place during the course of night which supports the testimony of the Dr. C.N. Bhalla, who had conducted the postmortem of the deceased who has deposed that the incident could have taken place during night hours at about 10-11 P.M. In fact the dead body was recovered on the next day. Thereafter the inquest was conducted and an ante-timed FIR was lodged. The site plan was prepared on the next day of the incident whereas the P.W-2 had deposed that the site plan was prepared on the same day of the incident. It has also been argued that according to the site plan, the blood was found at two places; one on the chabootra (platform) and another inside baithak of the deceased but while preparing the recovery memo of blood stained earth, it has not been specified from which place the blood stained earth was collected and has been mentioned that it was found from the place as jaiwaqua. No weapon was recovered from anyone of the accused persons, except the blood and the empty cartridges from the spot which do not connect the appellants in the commission of offence.

61. Learned counsel for the appellants has laid stress that the trial court only relying upon the ocular testimony of highly partisan witnesses erred in arriving at the conclusion that the accused appellants had shared common intention to kill Ram Sahay and convicted them for the offence under Sections 148,302/34 IPC for maximum sentence of life imprisonment hence the appellants are entitled to be acquitted of the charge mentioned hereinabove.

62. Per contra, leaned A.G.A. Shri Ashwini Prakash Tripathi appearing for the State has refuted the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the appellants while supporting the findings recorded by the learned trial court. He has submitted that the appellants along with two other accused persons, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj have been named in the FIR in respect of the incident by the son of the deceased Bahaar Singh who has also been examined as P.W-1. On account of previous enmity, which has already been divulged in the FIR in great detail, the appellants and two other accused persons were bearing grudge and enmity with the father of the deceased, Ram Sahay. On the fateful day on 18.5.1985 at about 4.30 P.M. all the accused persons came armed with lethal weapon and fired with their respective firearms without giving any opportunity to Ram Sahay to save himself who was sitting at the chabootra on a cot he received firearm injuries he ran towards baithak few paces away from the cot, when again received firearm injury over the head thereafter Ram Sahay fell down inside baithak. It is the specific case of the prosecution that three accused persons, namely, Atar Singh (since deceased), Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh fired firstly when Ram Sahay was sitting at the chabootra and thereafter three other accused persons, namely, Phulwari, Nawab Singh and Sughar Singh fired when he fell down inside baithak. The incident was witnessed by the complainant and his distant relative Brijendra Singh who was examined as P.W-2. Their statement does not find any material contradiction with respect to firing upon Ram Sahay, who was not only murdered by firing he was further mercilessly dragged 40-50 meter away by them. Atar Singh and co-accused Deshraj had exhorted and instigated that Ram Sahay be set on fire and they had lit the fire. In committing such a ghastly incident by all the accused persons, the complainant and other persons who were witnessing the incident could not muster courage to move forward to save his father as they were unarmed.

63. To prop up his submission, learned A.G.A. has relied upon the decision of Hon'ble the Apex Court passed in Criminal Appeal No.1479 of 2015 (Moti Ram Padu Joshi & others Vs. State of Maharashtra) wherein the Apex Court relied upon Rana Pratap; Vs. State of Haryana (1983) 3 SCC 327 observed in reference to reaction of a witness of an occurrence, as under:

"Yet another reason given by the learned Sessions Judge to doubt the presence of the witnesses was that their conduct in not going to the rescue of the deceased when he was in the clutches of the assailants was unnatural. We must say that the comment is most unreal. Every person who witnesses a murder reacts in his own way. Some are stunned, become speechless and stand rooted to the spot. Some become hysteric and start wailing. Some start shouting for help. Others run away to keep themselves as far removed from the spot as possible. Yet others rush to the rescue of the victim, even going to the extent of counter-attacking the assailants. Every one reacts in his own special way. There is no set rule of natural reaction. To discard the evidence of a witness on the ground that he did not react in any particular manner is to appreciate evidence in a wholly unrealistic and unimaginative way."

64. In the present case the P.W-2 Brijendra Singh who is the relative of P.W-1 was put to lengthy cross-examination by the defence to create doubt about his presence at the place of incident. The credibility of witness would not be effected merely on the score of relationship. In the case of Mohabbat & Ors vs State Of M.P (2009) 13 SCC 630 the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

"12. Merely because the eyewitnesses are family members their evidence cannot per se be discarded. When there is allegation of interestedness, the same has to be established. Mere statement that being relatives of the deceased they are likely to falsely implicate the accused cannot be a ground to discard the evidence which is otherwise cogent and credible. We shall also deal with the contention regarding interestedness of the witnesses for furthering the prosecution version."

13. "5. ... Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible."

The above position was also highlighted in Babulal Bhagwan Khandare v. State of Maharashtra [(2005) 10 SCC 404 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1553]

, Salim Sahab v. State of M.P. [(2007) 1 SCC 699 : (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 425] and Sonelal v. State of M.P.[(2008) 14 SCC 692 : (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 417] (SCC pp. 695-97, paras 12-13).

65. In view of the catena of decisions that it would be unreasonable that the evidence given by related witness should be discarded. It is further submitted that all the accused persons have been specifically named in the FIR and the name of other eyewitnesses have also been mentioned therein. Merely because all the witnesses have not been examined would not be fatal to the prosecution as in this particular case the trial proceeding remained pending for a long period and several witnesses who were mentioned in the FIR had died and others refused to depose on account of the pressure of the accused persons hence they were discharged. The evidence of the P.W-1 and P.W-2 cannot be termed as highly partisan and interested or chance witnesses. On the contrary their evidence is consistent and credit worthy.

66. Learned A.G.A. has further relied upon the decision of this Court passed in Criminal Appeal No.668 of 2002 (Abhilakh Singh Vs. State of U.P.) and contended that in the aforesaid case, the investigating officer was not examined and it was the case of the defence that since the investigating officer has not been examined, it has caused great prejudice to the defence. While relying upon the various decisions of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the said case it was observed that it is always desirable for the prosecution to examine the IO. Non-examination of the Investigating Officer does not in any way create any dent in the prosecution case much less affect the credibility of otherwise trustworthy testimony of the eye witnesses. If the presence of the eye-witnesses on the spot is established and the guilt of the accused is also proved by their trustworthy testimony, non-examination of I.O. would not be fatal to the case of prosecution. In that case despite the two investigating officers were retired the trial court has taken all efforts to procure their attendance but they could not be examined.

67. In the present case also in the absence of the examination of investigating officer as he had been retired and his whereabouts could not be known due to long gap, the trial court has proceeded to decide the case on the basis of reliable evidence available on record.

68. The FIR was promptly lodged within two hours of the incident. There was strong motive for the accused persons to kill Ram Sahay which has already been given in detail in the FIR. There is no reason for the P.W.-1 being the son of the deceased to falsely implicate the innocent persons leaving behind the actual culprit. The incident had taken place in broad-day-light in a dare devil manner. The charge sheet was submitted in two parts as the accused persons, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj were absconding against whom the process u/S 82/83 Cr.P.C. was initiated. Ultimately the charge sheet was submitted against Atar Singh (since deceased), Nawab Singh and Sughar Singh on 1.6.1985 who had surrendered on 30.6.1985 and Kaptan Singh and Deshraj surrendered on 18.6.1985 who were absconding against whom proceeding u/S 82/83 Cr.P.C. were initiated. Thereafter the case was successively adjourned for a long period of ten years when the charges were framed against present five accused persons on 30.6.1990 and against Kaptan Singh and Deshraj on 29.9.1995. Two separate trials were proceeded as Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989 & Sessions Trial No.129 of 1995. P.W-1 was firstly examined on 17.1.2001 and thereafter on 20.5.2004 again in the aforesaid trials separately.

69. Thus minor discrepancies are bound to occur in the statement of the witnesses due to long lapse of intervening period. The testimony of P.W-1 and P.W-2 in the present case is consistent which is fully corroborated by the postmortem report, according to which firing had taken place from close range and internal parts of the body were extensively damage muscles and burnt bones were visible and on some places body was highly scorched. No blackening and tattooing found by the Doctor as the body was burnt. The site plan also shows that the blood was recovered from the platform where Ram Sahay was initially sitting on the cot and when he tried to save himself he was fired at from a very close range which hit him over his head and thereafter he fell down inside baithak. This vivid description given by the two witnesses has proved beyond doubt that Ram Sahay was killed by the accused appellants, who died on the spot on account of indiscriminate firing by all accused persons. It could be difficult to say with certainty as to whose firearm hit the deceased first, but the nature of injuries received by the deceased clearly shows that the fire was made by DBBL Gun as 78 tikli were recovered though the shots which were recovered from the different parts of body of the deceased.

70. The Doctor had recovered all the wadding tikli from the dead body which was sealed by him. The investigating officer had also recovered 8 empty cartridges of 315 bore from the place of incident and inside baithak which shows that all the firearm weapon were used in firing indiscriminately. As such the learned trial court has rightly held that all the accused persons who were armed with deadly weapon arrived at the spot and had fired with a common object to kill Ram Sahay.

71. Accused Sughar Singh whose trial was separated as he had raised his plea of being juvenile at the fag end of the trial and was later on acquitted. The prosecution has proved the guilt of the accused appellants including Atar Singh (since deceased) to the hilt. Hence Atar Singh (since deceased), surviving accused appellants, namely, Nawab Singh, Mansha Ram and Phulwari along with Kaptan Singh and Deshraj of the connected appeals have rightly been convicted by the learned trial court. Their conviction deserves to be maintained.

72. We have given anxious consideration to the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the appellants and the learned A.G.A. on behalf of the State and have gone through the record.

73. It has been contended that the appellants had no immediate motive to commit the murder of Ram Sahay even the suggestions made by the prosecution that wife of appellant Kaptan Singh had won the election of Pradhan against Ram Sahay prior to two years of the alleged incident, remained unsubstantiated. Where the positive evidence against the accused is clear and cogent omission of motive is of no importance. It is always an impossible task for the prosecution to unravel the full dimension of the mental disposition of an offender towards the person whom he offended as held in this connection by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Himanchal Pradesh Vs. Jeet Singh 1999

(38) ACC 50 Supreme Court observing that "No doubt it is a sound principle to remember that every criminal act was done with a motive but its corollary is not that no criminal offence would have been committed if prosecution has failed to prove the precise motive of the accused to commit it. When the prosecution succeeded in showing the possibility of some ire for the accused towards the victim the inability to further put on record the manner in which such ire would have swelled up in the mind of the offender to such a degree as to impel him to commit the offence cannot be construed as a fatal weakness of the prosecution."

74. The admitted position of law is that enmity is a double edged weapon which can be a motive for the crime as also the ground for false implication of accused persons. In case of inimical witnesses, court is required to scrutinize their evidence with utmost care to find out whether their testimony inspires confidence notwithstanding the existence of enmity. Where enmity is proved to be the motive for the commission of crime, accused cannot urge that despite proof of motive of the crime, the witnesses proved to be inimical, should not be relied upon. Testimony of eye-witnesses, which is otherwise convincing and consistent, cannot be discarded simply on the ground that deceased was related to eye-witnesses or previously there had been some disputes between accused and deceased or the witnesses. Mere existence of enmity in this case particularly when it is alleged as a motive for the commission of crime cannot be made a basis to discard or reject the testimony of the eye-witnesses deposition of whom is otherwise consistent and convincing. If direct evidence is satisfactory and reliable, the same cannot be rejected on hypothetical medical evidence. If medical evidence when properly read shows two alternative possibilities but not any inconsistency, the one consistent with the reliable and satisfactory statement of the eye-witnesses has to be accepted.

75. Learned counsel Shri S.V. Singh submitted that the investigating officer was not examined in this case which has caused serious prejudice to the accused persons as it has deprived them to examine him on material points.

76. We see no substance as the investigating officer was not an eyewitness.

77. In Ram Ghulam Chaudhary Vs. State of Bihar; 2001 (43) ACC 929 the Hon'ble Apex Court in paras 25, 26 & 27 has held as under:

"25. In the case of Ram Dev v. State of U.P, reported in [1995] Supp. 1 SCC 547, this Court has held that it is always desirable for the prosecution to examine the Investigating Officer. However, non examination of the Investigation Officer does not in any way create any dent in the prosecution case much less affect the credibility of otherwise trustworthy testimony of the eye witnesses.

26. In the case of Behari Prasad v. State of Bihar, reported in [1996] 2 SCC 317, this Court has held that for non examination of the Investigating Officer the prosecution case need not fail. This Court has held that it would not be correct to contend that if the Investigating Officer is not examined the entire case would fail to the ground as the accused were deprived of the opportunity to effectively cross-examine the witnesses and bring out contradictions.

It was held that the case of prejudice likely to be suffered must depend upon facts of each case and no universal strait- jacket formula should be laid down that non-examination of Investigating Officer per se vitiate the criminal trial.

27. In the case of Ambika Prasad v. State (Delhi Admn.), reported in [2000] 2 SCC 646, it was held that the criminal trial is meant for doing justice not just to the accused but also to the victim and the society so that law and order is maintained. It was held that a Judge does not preside over criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished. It was held that a Judge presides over criminal trial also to see that guilty man does not escape. It was held that both are public duties which the Judge has to perform. It was held that it was unfortunate that the Investigating Officer had not stepped into the witness box without any justifiable ground. It was held that this conduct of the Investigating Officer and other hostile witnesses could not be a ground for discarding evidence of P.Ws. 5 and 7 whose presence on the spot was established beyond any reasonable doubt. It was held that non-examination of the Investigating Officer could not be a ground for disbelieving eye witnesses."

78. In the case of Ram Ghulam Chaudhary (Supra) the prosecution did not examine the investigating officer, however, all the accused persons were convicted by the trial court which was affirmed by Hon'ble the Apex Court.

79. Learned counsel for the appellant has pointed out various infirmities regarding investigation of the case.

80. There are umpteen pronouncements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court that investigation lapses, cannot provide ground of rejection of the prosecution and acquittal by a court in given case cannot be allowed to stand, solely, on the probity of investigation.

81. We will quote a few:

State of U.P. Vs. Harbhan Singh; 1998(37) ACC14 Supreme Court;

State of Karnataka Vs. K.Y. Reddy; 2000 SAR crime (37) Supreme Court;

Karnail Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh; 1995(32) ACC 742 Supreme Court.

82. In the aforesaid cases it was observed that any lapse during investigation of the case cannot be considered sufficient to discredit the prosecution version and if the eyewitnesses testimony is consistent and dependable, it is sufficient to sustain conviction. If there is any lacuna in the site plan, it will also not provide a ground for throwing out the prosecution case as weak and in co-inherent. It is indisputable in the present case that the occurrence took place in front of the house of the informant and at the time of incident, P.W-1 was present near his house. The learned trial curt has rightly held that the testimony of the eyewitnesses inspire confidence of the Court and ruled out possibility of being tortured or not being the eyewitnesses to the occurrence.

83. Failure to mention the exact place from where the blood was collected by the investigating officer cannot be doubted about the place of incident as it has been mentioned in the site plan that the same has been found from place B which has been shown as platform where the deceased was firstly fired at by the accused persons. The investigating officer had collected blood from the place of incident which is mentioned in the site plan that spillage of blood was found inside baithak as well as trail of blood was found up to the place where the dead body was burnt. Thus the argument of the learned counsel for the appellants is unrealistic and far-fetched and the Court cannot draw any inference for such imaginative doubt.

84. It is further argued that misfired cartridges and fired cartridges were not sent to the Ballistic Expert, Forensic Science Laboratory and the firearm weapon used by the appellants were never seized to corroborate the prosecution case.

85. The said lapses on the part of the investigating officer would not necessarily proved fatal to the case of the prosecution where the direct testimony of the two prosecution witnesses is on record.

86. Such omissions or lapses in the investigation cannot be a ground to discard the prosecution case which is otherwise credible and cogent.

87. In Nankaunoo Vs. State of U.P.; 2016(1) SC Cr.R 237 it was held as under:

"Any omission on the part of the investigating officer cannot go against the prosecution case. Story of the prosecution is to be examined dehors such omission by the investigating agency. Otherwise it would shake the confidence of the people not merely in the law enforcing agency, but also in the administration of justice."

88. In V.K. Mishra and another Vs. State of Uttrakhand and another; 2015(2) SC Cr.R it was held as under:

"The investigating officer is not obliged to anticipate all possible defences and investigate in that angle. In any event any omission on the part of the investigating officer cannot go against the prosecution. The interest of justice demands that such acts or omissions of the investigating officer should not be taken in favour of the accused or otherwise. It would amount to placing a premium upon such omissions."

89. In Appa Bhai and another Vs. State of Gujarat; 1988 (25) ACC168 Supreme Court had emphasised while appreciating the evidence the court should not attach undue importance to minor discrepancies. The discrepancies which do not shake the basic version of the prosecution case may be discarded. Similarly, the discrepancies which are due to normal error of perception or observation should not be given importance. The so called omission of not mentioning exact portion of the body of deceased where the shot had been fired cannot be said to be the significant omission. The evidence of the two witnesses stands corroborated by the medical evidence which clearly goes to show that several shots were received by the deceased and after firing they set on fire to the deceased to erase the evidence. The accused appellants and two others fled away after firing in air creating an atmosphere of terror and fear. The post event conduct of a witness varies from person to person. It cannot be a cast-iron reaction to be followed as a model by every one witnessing such an incident. Different persons would react differently on seeing any serious crime of such a nature and their behaviour and conduct would be different. Therefore, having witnessed a dastardly murder, it was not unnatural for the son or mother of the deceased to go near to the dead body. Learned trial court was justified in not rejecting the testimony of P.W-1 merely on that score.

90. In the present case where all the accused persons who were armed with firearm weapons emerged from the house of Atar Singh and after reaching on the platform when the deceased was sitting on the cot started firing resulting into his death in such a scenario it could not have been possible to meticulously observe all the action of each and every accused. The trial court cannot expect from the witnesses to depose in a parrot like fashion. The overall evidence of the witnesses appears to be untainted. The improvements, if any, made for the first time before the court ,no doubt need, to be eschewed but that does not mean that the entire evidence of the witnesses should be disbelieved only on the said ground.

91. It is well settled proposition of law that the testimony of a witness cannot be discarded in toto merely due to the presence of embellishments or exaggerations. This Court as well as Hon'ble the Apex Court has endorsed the in applicability of the doctrine falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus, which means "false in one things, false in everything". The Doctrine merely involves the question of weight of evidence which a court may apply in a given set of circumstances, but it is not what may be called "a mandatory rule of evidence". The evidence has to be sifted with care. Hardly one comes across a witness whose evidence does not contain a grain of untruth or at any rate exaggeration or embellishments. But the Court has to separate the grain from the chaff, truth from false. If after considering the whole mass of evidence, a residue of acceptable truth is established by the prosecution beyond any reasonable doubt, the Courts are bound to give effect to the result flowing from it and not throw it over board on hypothetical and conjectural ground. Minor variations of the evidence will not effect to the root of the matter. Such minor variations need not be given major importance.

92. The prosecution is not obliged to prove its case by leading separate evidence with respect to the common object of all the accused persons. Those factors found by the learned trial court on the available evidence on record, hence we have no reason to ignore the same with regard to the ocular testimony vis-a-vis conflict between the ocular testimony and the medical evidence. It is by now well settled that the medical evidence cannot override the evidence of ocular testimony of the witnesses. If there is a conflict between the ocular testimony and medical evidence naturally the ocular testimony prevails.

93. On the bare perusal of the First Information Report lodged against the accused persons, namely, Atar Singh, Mansha Ram, Phuwari, Nawab Singh, Deshraj and Kaptan Singh on 18.5.1985 at 6 P.M. relating to the incident occurred at 4.30 P.M. on the same day. The complainant Bahaar Singh who is the son of the deceased Ram Sahay has mentioned about the previous cases pending between the parties to show their animosity with the deceased which prompted them to reach at the spot together in a pre-planned manner to execute their evil design.

94. In our opinion, there was nothing unusual on the part of the complainant to narrate the previous animosity and ill-will of the accused persons who were involved individually and collectively in the cases mentioned therein in the First Information Report.

95. It was argued that no detail of any case has been mentioned in the FIR as to when such crime had taken place or what was the case crime number and what was the sessions trial number. It was highly impossible for a person to give such details soon after an incident which had occurred suddenly and executed in a barbarous manner, not only shooting the deceased with their respective firearm weapons by the accused appellants, the deceased was dragged by them in a most diabolic manner in broad-day-light up to 50-60 meters away from the actual place of incident which had occurred in front of house of the deceased and was kept on the heap of wood and was set on fire in order to efface the dead body. The entire episode which had occurred in a few minutes it could not have been possible for the son of the deceased who had lodged the FIR to depose the case crime number or the sessions trial number or the dates of incident in which the accused appellants were involved jointly or individually. However, he has broadly narrated the reasons for committing the murder of his father by the accused appellants. In these circumstances, it cannot be said that the FIR has been registered after due deliberation developing false story on the basis of misconceived facts.

96. It has also been argued that the FIR was lodged after conducting the inquest of the deceased as the crime number as well as Sections of IPC have not been mentioned in sequence.

97. We are again not impressed by such arguments of the learned counsel for the appellants as the FIR has promptly been lodged, of which detail account has been given in the FIR and on this point P.W-1 Bahaar Singh had also articulated in examination-in-chief in the witness box has narrated and has also with stood lengthy cross-examination. It has also been specifically mentioned by the Inspector S.S. Yadav, who was examined as P.W-4 that the police personnel arrived on the spot on 18.5.1985 but due to darkness, the inquest was started on 19.5.1985. It started at 6 A.M. on the next day and prepared in three hours and concluded at about 9 A.M. The inquest report shows that there is no addition or alternation in the section mentioned in it which has been prepared on 19.5.1985 as it could not be prepared on 18.5.1985 due to darkness. It was prepared in the same hand writing by the same person. The other police personnel who had accompanied after lodging the FIR has also been mentioned in the inquest memo. Hence it cannot be said that the FIR was ante-timed. Mere description of the Sections 302,201 along with Sections 147,148,149 IPC in particular manner , it cannot be said that the said FIR was lodged after great delay or ante-timed.

98. Learned counsel has pointed out infirmity in the statement of the complainant P.W-1 Bahaar Singh to doubt about his presence that if he claims himself to be the eyewitness of the incident and the place from where the first informant seen the incident but it has not been mentioned in the FIR nor it has been mentioned that the mother of the complainant had also seen the incident which has been developed during trial. FIR is not an encyclopedia of the case. A witness testimony need not be disbelieved only because certain facts did not find mention in the FIR.

99. There is no material omission in the statement of the prosecution witnesses as regards the firing by the appellants on the deceased. It has to be borne in mind that some discrepancies in the ocular account of a witness, unless they are vital, cannot per se affect the credibility of the evidence of the witness. Unless the contradictions are material, the same cannot be used to jettison the evidence in its entirety. Trivial discrepancies ought not to obliterate an otherwise acceptable evidence. Merely because there is inconsistency in the evidence, it is not sufficient to impair the credibility of the witness. It is only when the discrepancies in the evidence of a witness are so incompatible with the credibility of his version that the court would be justified in discarding his evidence.

100. Minor discrepancy in the statement of witnesses is not necessarily a false evidence. Such evidence is subject to close scrutiny. No evidence should be at once discarded simply because it came from the interested parties like P.W-1 Bahaar Singh being the son of the deceased Ram Sahay whose evidence cannot be discarded which is natural and trustworthy.

101. Even in the absence of actual assault of members by the unlawful assembly they can be held vicariously liable as there was common object to commit a crime. Where parties go with a common purpose to execute a common intention, each and everyone becomes responsible for the act of each and every other in execution and furtherance of their common object, as the purpose is common so must be the responsibility

102. The prosecution cannot perform miracles and it is not always possible to adduce clinching evidence as to the common bond between or amongst culprits of a particular crime. The prosecution case could not suffer a setback simply because all accused are not related to each other.

103. In Nathuni Yadav and others Vs. State of Bihar; 1997 (34) ACC 576 Supreme Court it was held that motive for doing criminal act is very difficult area for prosecution as one cannot see into the mind of another.

104. The P.W-1 and another witness Brijendra Singh was not examined in connected sessions trial have stated that they had witnessed the incident together from the gher. Merely because P.W-1 has not explained that he was coming along with him (P.W-2) from the field of muskmelon it can not be presumed that his presence is doubtful as the same was also not put during the course of cross-examination from him that at that time from where he was coming. Their presence has been amply shown in the site plan prepared by the investigating officer which has been indicated as southern of gher of Soney Lal. They were standing at a distance of 20-22 ft when the accused persons reached at the chabootra (platform) where the deceased Ram Sahay was sitting on a cot facing towards east. The cot was at a distance of 3-4 ft from the baithak. The accused Atar Singh and Mansha Ram having armed with rifle and Kaptan Singh having DBBL gun fired at Ram Sahay, the father of the P.W-1 when they reached on the platform. As soon as his father had seen them he at once got up to run inside baithak at that time Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh had fired from their respective firearm. Then another shot was fired upon him which hit to his father and he fell down inside his baithak. Exact mathematical calculation with respect to distance between the assailants and the deceased would not be possible to arrive at the conclusion that the presence of witnesses is doubtful. When the accused persons arrived near the cot then the distance from which they had fired would be in close contact with the body of the deceased because of the length of the barrel and hence there was no occasion that when the shot was made aiming towards from close distance the wads would fall down and would not pierce in the body rather wads and powder blast had caused laceration penetrating in the organs of the body. The shape of the abrasion of the entrance wounds also varies either circular or oval according to the angle the bullet strike at the body. The question regarding the direction of fire where from right to left or to back, it is necessary to ascertain the position of the victim at the time of the discharge of the bullet when the wound of entrance is present wad would lodge in the body. Wadding pieces, tikli and shots were found lodged in the body. No blackening or tattooing detected by the Doctor as the body was burn 4-6 degree.

105. The injury was hit to the deceased on his forehead when he turned around he made an attempt to save himself by entering into baithak. The Doctor had found two wadding pieces from brain; one from chest and another from abdomen. Five tiklis were found from brain; four from abdomen and two from chest. Besides this, 78 small pellets were found from brain, abdomen and chest. The Doctor has only given an opinion with regard to entering of the wadding into the body and had given approximate distance of firing from less than 4 ft. The wadding pieces which had entered into the body of the deceased clearly goes to show that the fire was made from very close range. It's barrel may or not may be touching the body of the victim while firing indiscriminately at the deceased. It is not necessary that the fire made by all the three accused persons firstly hit to the deceased. The nature of injury goes to show that firing made by rifle might have deflected owing to the fact that it was not fired at an immobile object. Some fire missed hence empty cartridges were found at platform as well as inside the baithak.

106. From the postmortem report it is quite evident that the first shot made from behind at the deceased as he tried to stood up who was sitting on the cot which is injury no.3 as it's direction is from back to front. Injury nos.1 & 2 which were on front of chest and abdomen when the deceased had turned around and his face was towards baithak and the assailants were standing facing towards east the direction is front to back. Injury no.4 was on his head hence direction was from right to left when the deceased tried to ran inside baithak the assailants were on his right side near the cot. The description of accused persons when they fired has been narrated by P.W-1 which fully supports the injuries described in the postmortem report.

107. It has been pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants that it is alleged that Sughar Singh, Phulwari and Nawab Singh entered into the baithak after the deceased fell down and they had also fired and at the same time, Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh were firing indiscriminately outside to unleash the reign of terror. Though Kaptan Singh did not enter into the baithak but his presence along with other accused persons making fire indiscriminately cannot be doubted.

108. The Doctor has also opined that the dimension of injury nos.1, 2 & 3 were the same meaning thereby it was fired by the same weapon by one person. Inside the body, one wadding piece was recovered from chest and one from abdomen, four tiklis from abdomen and two from chest and 78 small pellets were found from brain, abdomen and chest. The Doctor has also opined that injury may be caused by several weapons depending upon the distance. The learned counsel for the appellants has tried to make a mountain out of the mole.

109. The fact remains that as the body was burnt by the accused persons it was not possible to the Doctor to find blackening, tattooing and scorching. The site plan indicates that after killing the deceased at platform his dead body was dragged from the baithak by the accused persons and was taken to an open land 50 yards away. The trail of blood was found by the investigating officer which has been specifically mentioned in the site plan in red ink, which further corroborates the testimony of the P.W-1 Bahaar Singh and P.W-2 Brijendra Singh showing that the victim Ram Sahay was killed by firing and his dead body was mercilessly dragged by them and was set ablaze. Hence the ocular testimony has greater evidentiary value which cannot be disbelieved.

110. The cases which have been cited are not applicable under the present facts and circumstances of the case as in the present case the incident had taken place in the broad-day-light when all the accused persons in a pre-planned manner emerged out at the place of incident and started firing aiming at the deceased, out of them, two accused persons, namely, Atar Singh and Mansha Ram were armed with rifle and Kaptan Singh was armed with DBBL Gun which was specifically narrated by the complainant in the FIR and in his statement recorded before the trial court. Hence we find that there is no material infirmity in the ocular testimony with the medical evidence and the site plan. The plea of Kaptan Singh in statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that P.W-1 was not present at the time of incident cannot be accepted as it has to be proved with absolute certainty so as to exclude his presence anywhere else from the place of incident.

111. There is yet another material aspect of the case with respect to the post trial conduct of the accused appellants when they were held guilty of the crime and convicted for life imprisonment. All the accused persons preferred appeals before this Court with prayer for consideration of bail during pendency of the appeal u/S 389(i) Cr.P.C. and the learned counsel for the appellants has also tried to take the benefit with respect to the description of guns and rifles in the hands of various accused persons to obtain bail.

112. Thus only for the purpose of somehow getting bail one set of accused have shifted burden upon others for causing injury with gun and vice versa. But the fact remains that they had shared common intention and the firing had taken place and Ram Sahay, the deceased was done to death on the fateful day. It would be very difficult to fix liability upon one person only i.e. Sughar Singh in the entire episode who was pleaded juvenility and acquitted by the court below. All of them had come jointly with prior meeting of mind to eliminate Ram Sahay but whose shot of fire was fatal cannot be deciphered. Dragging of dead body from baithak to the field of Sahab Singh where he was put on fire further shows that all the accused persons were having common intention and involved in dragging the dead body as such the contention on behalf of other accused appellants has no substance that they had not fired at the deceased who had suffered homicidal death and the injuries sustained by him were all ante-mortem in nature as a result of firing with gun. It is common experience that in the confusion of the moment the witnesses are prone to make some error when they were seized by sudden fear.

113. We do not find any difference between the case of all the accused appellants. The prosecution has established that common object of the unlawful assembly was to commit the offence of rioting armed with deadly weapon punishable under Section 148 IPC.

114. It has also been argued that very detail account has been given in the FIR with regard to the previous cases but no detail description of the cases have been mentioned in the FIR hence does not prove the immediate motive on the part of the different sets of accused.

115. The description about the enmity has been made in the FIR by the informant without mentioning the details of the criminal cases. The prosecution case cannot be disbelieved only because it did not find mention in detail. We cannot expect from a grief stricken person to give better particulars of the case. The contents of the FIR has given an exhaustive account by the P.W-1, the son of the deceased as such possibility of inventing a story at that juncture trying to implicate all the accused persons is absolutely ruled out. The investigating officer had gathered material of two cases in which the accused persons were involved; one is Case Crime no.301 of 1983 relating to the FIR under Section 307 IPC pending in the court of IInd Additional District Judge as Sessions Trial No.90 of 1984 pertaining to a case filed by Ram Sahay, the deceased against Kaptan Singh, Mansha Ram and Atar Singh (State Vs. Kaptan Singh & others) and another is Case Crime No.300 of 1983, under Section 396 IPC which was against Nakse, Mansha Ram and Atar Singh pending in the court First Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate as Sessions Trial No.229 of 1983 (State Vs. Nakse & others). In spite of cross-examination of prosecution witnesses nothing fragile surfaced in their statement in this regard. Pre and post conduct of all the accused persons while committing crime has left no room of doubt that they had not formed an unlawful assembly sharing common object to eliminate the victim. The court can visualize the common object of the unlawful assembly from the entire evidence on record. Due to prolong continuation of the trial some embellishments in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses has bound to occur. We notice in this case, that there is sufficient evidence to show that barbaric incident had happened on 18.5.1985. It was the appellants and none others who had committed the crime to satiate their evil design.

116. There is nothing in the cross-examination of P.W.1, the first informant Bahar Singh that his attention was called to that part of his statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. in which he had omitted either to describe himself as an eyewitness of the incident or to name the place from where he had witnessed the same. We do not find any reason to disbelieve the evidence of P.W.1. Mere inconsistency in evidence is not sufficient to impair the credit of the witness.

117. Section 145 of The Indian Evidence Act, 1872

118. Cross-examination as to previous statements in writing.--A witness may be cross-examined as to previous statements made by him in writing or reduced into writing, and relevant to matters in question, without such writing being shown to him, or being proved; but, if it is intended to contradict him by the writing, his attention must, before the writing can be proved, be called to those parts of it which are to be used for the purpose of contradicting him.

119. A conjoint reading of the aforesaid provision indicates that any police officer making an investigation under chapter 12 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 or any police officer making any investigation under this chapter examines any person believed to be acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case, the police officer may reduce into writing any statement made to him in the course of examination u/s 161 Cr.P.C. and if it is true, he shall make separate entry to record all the statements of such person whose statement he records.

120. Section 162 (1) of Cr.P.C. stipulates that no statement made by any person to a police officer in the course of an investigation under this Chapter, shall, if reduced to writing, be signed by the person making it; nor shall any such statement or any record thereof, whether in a police diary or otherwise, or any part of such statement or record, be used for any purpose, save as hereinafter provided, at any inquiry or trial in respect of any offence under investigation at the time when such statement was made. Proviso to Section 162 (1) of Cr.P.C. mandates that when any witness is called for the prosecution in such inquiry or trial whose statement has been reduced into writing as aforesaid, any part of his statement, if duly proved, may be used by the accused, and with the permission of the Court, by the prosecution, to contradict such witness in the manner provided by Section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872); and when any part of such statement is so used, any part thereof may also be used in the re-examination of such witness, but for the purpose only of explaining any matter referred to in his cross-examination. Section 162 (2) of Cr.P.C. excludes any statement falling within the provisions of clause 2 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 and 27 of that Act from the application of the aforesaid proviso.

121. The object of Section 145 of the Evidence Act is to give a witness a chance of explaining the discrepancy and inconsistency and to clear up the point of ambiguity and dispute.

122. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Karan Singh & Ors. Vs State of Madhya Pradesh, Judgement Today 2003, Suppl. Vol. 2 SC 261, has held that when a previous statement is to be proved as an admission, the statement as such should be put to the witness and if the witness denies having given such a statement, it does not amount to any admission and if it is to be proved that he had given such a statement, the attention of the witness must be drawn to that statement. The object behind this provision is to give a witness a chance of explaining the discrepancy or inconsistency and to clear up the particular point of ambiguity or dispute.

123. The question of contradicting the evidence and the requirements of compliance in Section 145 of the Evidence Act has been considered by the Apex Court in the case of Tahsildar Singh and Another Vs The State of Uttar Pradesh, 1959 SCR Supl. (2) 875. The Apex Court in the aforesaid case was examining the question as to when an omission in the former statement can be held to be a contradiction and it was also indicated as to how a witness can be contradicted in respect of his former statement by drawing his attention to that portion of the former statement.

124. This question was again considered in the case of Binay Kumar Singh Vs The State of Bihar, 1997 Vol. 1 SCC 283. The Apex Court taking note of the earlier decision in Bhagwan Singh Vs The State of Punjab, 1952 AIR 214, explained away the same with the observation that on the facts of that case, there could not be a dispute with the proposition laid down therein. But while elaborating the second limb of Section 145 of the Evidence Act, it was held that if it is intended to contradict a witness, his attention must be called to those part of his writings of his earlier statements which are intended to be used for the purpose of contradicting him. It was further held that if the witness denies having made any statement which is inconsistent with his present stand, his testimony in Court on that score would not be vitiated until cross-examiner proceeds to comply with the procedure prescribed in the second limb of Section 145 of the Evidence Act.

125. Hence, the procedure prescribed u/s 145 of the Evidence Act if having not been complied, we do not find any reason to discredit the evidence of P.W.1 informant or to hold either that he is not a fully reliable witness or he had not seen the occurrence. The statement of the first informant, P.W-1 stands fully corroborated from the facts deposed by P.W.-2 in his examination-in-chief, who was not examined in Sessions Trial No.129 of 1995. Thus in view of the legal principles propounded hereinabove by the Apex Court, we are not inclined to reject the evidence of P.W.-1 & P.W-2. There is no law which lays down that a conviction cannot be recorded on the basis of the evidence of solitary witness.

126. The purpose of cross-examination is to test the veracity of the statement made by a witness in his examination-in-chief as also to impeach his credit. Not only it is the right of the accused to shake the credit of a witness, but it is also the duty of the court trying an accused to satisfy itself that the witnesses are reliable. It would be dangerous to lay down any hard and fast rule.

127. In our opinion, relevant and material omissions amount to vital contradiction which can be established by cross-examination and confronting the witness with his previous statement. The alleged omissions in the statement of the witnesses to the police could not have made their evidences in court unreliable with respect to material particular concerning the occurrence or identifying the accused. In the present case, there is ample evidence in the shape of oral testimony of P.W-1 Bahaar Singh who is the son of the deceased and P.W-2 Brijendra Singh, on the basis of which, the conclusion has rightly been drawn by the learned trial court that the witnesses had in fact seen the accused persons and their devilish act of dragging the dead body, hence we are in full agreement which does not require any interference.

128. We are of the opinion in a case like the present one the relatives and friends of the deceased would not spare the real culprits and falsely implicate others. We are of the considered view that the relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of the aforesaid eye witnesses.

129. In the case of Dalip Singh vs. State of Punjab AIR 1953 SC 364, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause' for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalisation. Each case must be judged on its own facts. Our observations are only made to combat what is so often put forward in cases before us as a general rule of prudence. There is no such general rule. Each case must be limited to and be governed by its own facts."

"Legal system has laid emphasis on value, weight and quality of evidence rather than on quantity multiplicity or plurality of witnesses. It is not the number of witnesses but-quality of their evidence which is important as there is no requirement under the Law of Evidence that any particular number of witnesses is to be examined to prove/disprove a fact. Evidence must be weighed and not counted. It is quality and not quantity which determines the adequacy of evidence as has been provided under Section-134 of the Evidence Act. As a general rule the Court can and may act on the testimony of a single witness provided he is wholly reliable."

131. On the analysis of the evidence, it is fully established that the victim succumbed to unnatural death with gun shot injuries whose dead body was dragged and burnt down so as to efface the evidence. Hence the prosecution case cannot be doubted or suspected merely that the witnesses are related to the deceased or on account of some minor variation or aberration in their testimony. The utterances have consistently and umpteen times been repeated by the witnesses who had narrated and unfolded the incident in a very natural and articulate manner. The overt act of the accused appellants at the relevant moment is fully established and is unimpeachable beyond a shadow of doubt consistent with the hypothesis of the guilt that within all human probability the act has been done by the accused appellants. The foul play of destroying the evidence by putting the corpse of the deceased on fire in the field of Sahab Singh after dragging him from his baithak and was decimated on account of bitterness has portrayed very inhuman and gruesome state of mind of the accused appellants. In the course of cross examination, the defence side has tried to evolve a story of false implication in order to overshadow the testimony of the eye witnesses. It cannot be doubted that the eye witnesses had not seen the accused appellant who had perpetuated the crime in a very relentless and devilish manner. The delay if any, in lodging the first information report will not falsify the entire prosecution version. The trial court has appreciated the evidence in the right perspective. We find from the record that the statement of the prosecution witnesses cannot be said to be untrustworthy simply on the basis that some of the facts deposed for the first time before the Court.

132. From the perusal of the charge sheet it clearly shows that the murder of Ram Sahay had taken place on 18.5.1985 at about 4.30 P.M. and the FIR was lodged on the same day at 6.50 P.M. The criminal law was set in motion and the police started investigating on 19.5.1985. The investigating officer raided the houses of Nawab Singh, Atar Singh and Sughar Singh (sons of Pyarey Lal), Mansha Ram, Phulwari, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj in the presence of Sahab Singh and Soney Lal, but they were not found at their houses nor any weapon was recovered. However, the memos were prepared and handed over to the wives of the accused persons which were marked as Ext. Ka-13, Ext. Ka-14, Ext. Ka-15 & Ext. Ka-16. The appellants had absconded after committing murder from their houses. Atar Singh (since deceased), Mansha Ram, Nawab Singh and Sughar Singh surrendered before the court below on 29.5.1985 and Phulwari was surrendered on 3.6.1985 while Kaptan Singh and Deshraj surrendered on 5.2.1986 & 10.2.1986 respectively. This is the conduct on the part of the accused persons that they had disappeared from the scene of occurrence to some unknown place for considerable period. The charge sheet was submitted on 30.6.1985 against Atar Sing, Nawab Singh, Sughar Singh, Mansha Ram and Phulwari wherein it was mentioned that accused Kaptan Singh and Deshraj are absconding. Thereafter the process under Section 82/83 Cr.P.C. was initiated to secure the presence of the accused appellants Kaptan Singh and Deshraj against whom ultimately charge sheet was submitted on 13.2.1986. Thus the act of absconding is relevant factor to be considered along with other evidence. Such circumstance may also leads to a proof of a guilty mind attempting to evade justice which is inconsistent with their innocence.

133. The long abscondence of the appellants who were seeking adjournment at the pre trial stage by moving exemption application for one reason or the other on each and every date separately and jointly leads to interference about their conduct that they were of guilty mind. Though it is true that even an innocent man may feel panicky and try to evade arrest when suspected of a grave crime such is the instinct of self-preservation. Normally the courts are not inclined to attach much importance to the act of absconding, treating it as a very small and insignificant in the evidence for sustaining conviction and it can scarcely be held as a determining link in completing the chain of evidence determining guilt of the accused. But in the present case soon after lodging of the FIR all the accused persons had absconded for a long period which is quite unnatural showing their guilty conscience. Such act of absconding on the part of all the accused appellants is no doubt relevant piece of evidence to be considered along with other evidence in the present case.

134. In view of the above conspectus, unusual sympathy to the accused persons merely because of long lapse of time would do more harm than justice from the point of view of the victim and the society at large as delay defeats justice. The prolong trial like in the present case has caused gross miscarriage of justice. We are shocked that the trial remained pending for about 24 years as it has been concluded in 2009 whereby the accused persons were convicted by the learned trial court in both the sessions trial.

135. On the basis of verbose and prolix discussions made above and after going through the materials available on record, we are of the considered opinion that findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial court are well substantiated and the accused persons well appropriately sentenced. Therefore, the conviction recorded by the trial Court against the accused appellants, Mansha Ram, Phulwari and Nawab Singh under Section 302/34,148 I.P.C. is hereby maintained and affirmed.

136. The appeals are devoid of merit and are accordingly dismissed.

137. Let a copy of this judgment and order along with original record be transmitted to the learned trial court for information and compliance.

138. Judgment certified and be placed on record.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Naheed Ara Moonis, J.)

1. The appellants Kaptan Singh and Deshraj have preferred the present appeals bearing Criminal Appeal Nos.4639 of 2009 & 4404 of 2009 respectively against their conviction in Sessions Trial No.129 of 1995. All the above named accused appellants were convicted by the judgment and order dated 22.7.2009 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Farrukhabad and each were directed to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life and also to pay fine of Rs.15,000/- under Section 302 IPC and three years rigorous imprisonment for the offence punishable under Section 148 IPC. Both the sentences were directed to run concurrently and in case of default of payment of fine they were further directed to undergo simple imprisonment of six months.

2. The prosecution was launched against seven accused persons, namely, Atar Singh, Sughar Singh, Nawab Singh (sons of Pyare Lal), Phulwari S/o Vijay, Mansha Ram S/o Shankar, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj (sons of Babu Ram) in pursuance of the FIR lodged against them by Bahaar Singh registered as Case Crime No.158 of 1985, under Sections 147,148,149,302 IPC at police station Kayamganj, District Farrukhabad on 18.5.1985 at 6.50 P.M.

3. The Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989 pertains to the trial of accused persons, namely, Atar Singh, Sughar Singh, Nawab Singh, Mansha Ram and Phulwari. The aforesaid trial of accused Sughar Singh was separated at the fag end on his plea of juvenility who was acquitted by the court below.

4. The aforesaid accused persons, namely, Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Phulwari as well as Nawab Singh have preferred separate appeals bearing Criminal Appeal No.4576 of 2009 & Criminal Appeal No.4664 of 2009 against their conviction in Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989.

5. The prosecution case in short conspectus is that the First Information Report was lodged on 18.5.1985 at 6.50 P.M. by Bahaar Singh S/o Ram Sahay in respect of an incident occurred on the same day at 4.30 P.M. which was registered as Case Crime No.158 of 1985, under Sections 147,148,149,302,201 IPC at police Kayamganj, District Farrukhabad. He divulged in the FIR that his father Ram Sahay was Pradhan of his village Lakhanpur for about 35 years. In the last election, Chandrakali, the wife of Kaptan Singh @ Kamta Prasad S/o Babu Ram Yadav had contested election against his father. His father had lost the election for which a petition was filed which is pending. About two & half years ago a dacoity had been committed in the house of Saudan Singh, who had named Atar Singh S/o Pyarey Lal and Mansha Ram and two others of which the case is pending. Besides this, two years ago a case under Section 396 IPC was filed by Sohan Lal Nuner of village Lakhanpur in which two persons were killed by dacoits. In the said case, Mansha Ram, Atar Singh and Deshraj, the brother of Kaptan Singh were named in the FIR by Sohan Lal. Atar Singh and Kaptan Singh were under the impression that the complainant's father has implicated them in the case of dacoity. About two years ago, Kaptan Singh, Mansha Ram and Atar Singh had fired upon his father and his brother Tahar Singh with intent to kill them but luckily they had escaped from there. In this case all the three accused persons were challaned by the police. On account of the above reasons, Kaptan Singh and Atar Singh were bearing enmity with his father. Two and half months ago family member of Kaptan Singh was murdered in the village in which Kali Charan S/o Ram Naresh Yadav had filed a false report against Vijayee and Mansha Ram along with Tahar Singh who is the brother of the complainant at the instance of Kaptan Singh and on account of which, his brother is in jail. After 2-4 days, the dead body of Nahar Singh, the elder brother of Atar Singh was found in a well in which Atar Singh had implicated the complainant, his father, Nanhey, Rajendra, Tejram etc. of his village in the case, on the basis of mere suspicion that they had committed murder of Nahar Singh. A case under Section 107 IPC was also filed by Kaptan Singh and others, which is still continuing and on account of these reasons Atar Singh and Kaptan Singh were inimical with his father Ram Sahay.

6. Today (on 18.5.1985) in the evening at about 4.30 P.M. his father Ram Sahay was sitting on a cot on the platform situated in front of his baithak. Atar Singh, his younger brother Sughar Singh, elder brother Nawab Singh, Phulwari and Mansha Ram of his village as well as Kaptan Singh and Deshraj emerged out from the house of Atar Singh and passed through the baithak of Rajju and reached at the platform. Atar Singh, Phulwari and Mansha Ram were armed with rifle, Sughar Singh, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj having double barrel gun and Nawab Singh was armed with countrymade pistol came over chabootra. As soon as his father saw them he got up and tried to run towards baithak, at this Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh had fired upon his father. After receiving gun shot injury his father ran towards baithak and fell down there. Sughar Singh, Nawab Singh and Phulwari went behind him and entered in the baithak. There too, they had again fired upon him. Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh were firing indiscriminately outside which had created reign of terror. His father had succumbed to the injuries in the baithak. All the accused persons thereafter dragged the dead body of his father from baithak and put him on the heap of wood of Arhar kept in an open vacant land of Sahab Singh. Atar Singh and Deshraj exerted that "Sale Ko Jalakar Rakh Kar Do" (burn him to ashes) and set the heap of wood of Arhar on fire. Other persons put dry leaves (patai) of sugarcane on fire. Thereafter they went towards the house of Kaptan Singh unleashing reign of terror by firing. This incident was witnessed by his mother who was standing at the door he himself, Sahab Singh S/o Bhawani Singh of his village and Brijender Singh who is the son of his brother's 'Sarhu' Soney Lal who resides there but they all were helpless seeing the murder of his father due to fear of accused persons armed with rifles and guns. The dead body of his father burnt to some extent has been lying on the spot, hence action be taken by lodging the FIR.

7. On the basis of the aforesaid FIR lodged by Bahaar Singh S/o Ram Sahai, police swung into action. A case was registered against Atar Singh, Sughar Singh, Nawab Singh, Phulwari, Mansha Ram, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj under Sections 147,148,149,302,201 IPC as Case Crime No.158 of 1985 on 18.5.1985 at police station Kayamganj, which was written by Constable Clerk Babu Ram marked as Ext. Ka-8 & Ext. Ka-9. S.S. Yadav, Inspector (C.B.C.I.D.) posted as Sub-Inspector at police station Kayamganj on 19.5.1985 had been entrusted to investigate the case. He along with in charge Inspector Jagdamba Prasad Mishra and SSI K.L. Verma with police force reached at the place of occurrence where the deceased Ram Sahay was done to death by firing upon him and his body was burned by the accused persons which was kept on the wood of Arhar. The inquest of the deceased was conducted in the presence of the witnesses and the inquest report was marked as Paper No.16-A/1,16-A/2, 16-A/3. It was duly signed by the Sub-Inspector S.S. Yadav who proved his signature and the same was marked as Ext. Ka-3. Thereafter the dead body was sealed, of which sample seal was prepared. He had further prepared papers of challan nash, police form no.13, letter to Chief Medical Officer, I/C Fatehgarh, letter to R.I., photo nash, chik FIR, copy of GD, site plan, memo of empty cartridges, memo of ashes of heap of Arhar, memo regarding search and arrest of accused persons, recovery of illegal firearm, memo of plain & blood stained earth, which were marked as Ext. Ka-4 to Ext. Ka-17. The recovery memos as mentioned above were made in the presence of Sahab Singh and Soney Lal which were signed by them.

8. The statement of the complainant and other witnesses were recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. The papers relating to the inquest of the deceased were handed over to Constable Lal Mani and Constable Balram along with the dead body and sent to the District Hospital for autopsy of the deceased. After conducting the investigation by SSI K.L. Verma, the charge sheet was submitted on 30.6.1985 against the accused persons, namely, Atar Singh, Sughar Singh, Nawab Singh, Mansha Ram and Phulwari, under Sections 147,148,149,302,201 IPC. The charge sheet was marked as Ext. Ka-18. The charge sheet had been submitted separately on 13.2.1986 against Kaptan Singh and Deshraj by SSI Bhanwar Pal Singh, under Sections 147,148,149,302,201 IPC, which was marked as Ext. Ka-20.

9. On submission of charge sheet, as usual the cognizance was taken by the concerned Magistrate and after compliance of provisions of Section 207 Cr.P.C. the case was committed to the court of sessions. The case was transferred to the Special Judge/Additional Sessions Judge, Farrukhabad. The charges were framed against Atar Singh, Sughar Singh, Nawab Singh, Mansha Ram and Phulwari on 30.6.1990, under Sections 148,302/34 IPC in Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989.

10. Against accused appellant Kaptan Singh and Deshraj the charges were framed on 29.9.1995 by the Second Additional Sessions Judge, Farrukhabad under Sections 147/148/302/149 & 201 IPC in Sessions Trial No.129 of 1995. Both the trials were consolidated on 17.9.1998.

11. The charges were read over to the above mentioned accused appellants who abjured the charges and claimed to be tried. Even though the accused appellants Kaptan Singh and Deshraj in Sessions Trial no.129 of 1995 were appearing intermittently in Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989. but the prosecution witness P.W-1 was again cross-examined in Sessions Trial no.129 of 1995. The accused persons were on trial for murder hence there was no justification to have a criminal trial pending for so long even when charges were already framed against them.

12. To bring home guilt of the accused appellants, the prosecution has examined Bahaar Singh, informant S/o Ram Sahay as P.W-1, Dr. C.N. Bhalla who conducted the autopsy of the deceased Ram Sahay as P.W-2 who was examined as P.W-3 in Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989, S.S. Yadav (Retired Inspector), CBCID as P.W-3. Phool Chandra, Pairokar who was examined as P.W-5 in Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989 has not been examined in the present case.

13. Bahaar Singh, the son of the deceased was examined on oath as P.W-1 on 20.5.2004. He deposed that the incident had taken place 19 years ago. It was about 4.30 P.M. in the evening, at that time, he was present at some distance in front of his house in gher. His father Ram Sahay was sitting on a cot over the platform (chabootra). At that moment Atar Singh (since deceased), Sughar Singh, Nawab Singh, Phulwari, Mansha Ram, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj emerged together from the house of Atar Singh (since deceased) and passed through the baithak of Ragghu reached at the platform of his house. Atar Singh (since deceased), Phulwari, Mansha Ram were having rifle, Kaptan Singh, Deshraj and Sughar were armed with gun and Nawab Singh was having Katta. When they came over the platform his father seeing them tried to run inside baithak. At the same time, Atar Singh (since deceased), Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh fired upon his father which hit him. His father received shots. His father fell down inside baithak. Thereafter Phulwari, Nawab Singh and Sughar Singh entered into the baithak and they had also fired there. He could not count the number of fire made by them. On account of firing the people were under the grip of terror. His father had died on the spot in baithak. Thereafter all the accused persons dragged the dead body of his father towards the open place of Sahab Singh. Piles of wood of Arhar was kept there. They had put the dead body on the wood. Atar Singh (since deceased) and Deshraj had put the fire on the heap of woods of Arhar. Atar Singh (since deceased) and Deshraj had challenged "Sale ko jalakar rakh kar do". All the accused persons thereafter moved towards the house of Kaptan Singh making fire. This incident was witnessed beside him his mother Nisar Devi who was standing at the door at the time of incident. This incident was also witnessed by Sahab Singh and Brijendra Singh as the accused persons were armed with rifle and gun, they could not go near to them. After dousing the fire he left the dead body and went to the police station to lodge the report. He went to police station Kayamganj to lodge the report. The witness accepted that the FIR (Ext. Ka-1) was written by him after the death of his father and was handed over at the police station Kayamganj. On the basis of which, the FIR was registered. He further deposed that on account of old enmity his father was done to death by the accused persons. Detail account of enmity has been given in the report.

14. P.W-1 Bahaar Singh was cross-examined on behalf of the appellants Kaptan Singh and Deshraj. He deposed that the opening door of the baithak of Ram Sahay was towards east. The platform is in front of the door. The length of baithak is 8-10 hand in length. Platform is equal to baithak in length but its width is about 8-9 f feet. Two trees of gulmohar were at the platform which were a little inside on eastern corner of the platform and about a ft or two inside. The main door of his house and Ragghu's towards north of baithak of house and his baithak is adjacent to the northern side of his house and main door. In this house, Ragghu and his son Munna and many females were residing, but no one lives in baithak. On the northern side of Ragghu's house, house of Faujdar is situated. The family of Faujdar resides therein. In front of house of Faujdar in north side there is a village consisting of 25-30 houses.

15. P.W-1 Bahaar Singh deposed on further cross-examination that at the time of incident his mother and wives of his two brothers were residing in the same house. His brother Tahar Singh was in jail on the day of incident in connection with the murder of Ram Naresh. Elder brother of Ram Sahay was Bhawani. House of Sahab Singh is towards southern side of his house adjacent to the houses of Soney Lal and Ram Prakash who live along with their family member in their houses. Akhunpur is a part of Mauza of Lakhanpur. His father was Pradhan of Lakhanpur for 35 years. Village of Master Kaptan Singh Nagla Akhunpur is away from his village.

16. It is wrong to say that a distance of 500 mtr. Is between the two Akhunpur. Kaptan Singh is a Teacher. He has no knowledge whether he has degree of M.A. or not. He is not aware since when Kaptan Singh was Teacher prior to the date of incident. Accused Deshraj is the brother of Kaptan Singh. Deceased Ram Naresh of Nagla Akhunpur was in the family of Kaptan Singh. Kali Charan is the son of Ram Naresh. Kali Charan had named his brother Tahar Singh and others in the murder of Ram Naresh. He is not aware whether Kali Charan had got the FIR in respect of murder of Ram Naresh by accused Kaptan Singh. He is also not aware that in the case of murder of Ram Naresh his brother Tahar Singh was convicted for life imprisonment. He never went to Kutchehry to do the pairvi in the case of Tahar Singh. He is not aware as to who was doing pairvi in his case. In the case of murder of Ram Naresh, Kali Charan had named his brother Tahar Singh and not Kaptan Singh. His father Ram Sahay had lost the election of Pradhan prior to his murder. Wife of Kaptan had won the election. He is not aware that his father Ram Sahay had given land of Mauza Lakhanpur in favour of National Inter College, Rampur. He has no knowledge whether any objection was raised with regard to the lease. It is wrong to say that said Arazi was sold in his and his brother Tahar Singh's favour. He is not aware as to whether any lease was cancelled which was given in favour of the college. It is wrong to say that Chandrakali had given a notice under Section 120-B for his eviction and fine was imposed upon him or on his brother. It is wrong to say that on account of eviction they had bearing enmity with Kaptan Singh and his family member. His father had never taken any contract of liquor in Kayamganj. He had never heard about that his father taken contract of liquor in Kayamganj. He had no knowledge that his father had taken any shop in share. He had never seen Ram Sahay running shop of liquor or grocery shop in Kayamganj. He is not aware that his father had various cases in Kayamganj. Bhawani, father of Ram Sahay had died prior to his birth. He is not aware that Bhawani was murdered while committing dacoity at the house of Raja Ram Gupta of Kayamganj. He is not aware about how much land belonged to Ram Sahay at the time of incident. After the death of his father the land was devolved upon him and his brother.

17. P.W-1 was cross-examined in great detail with respect to the location of the field of Ram Sahay, Soney Lal and Saudan Singh. He further deposed that he was at his home and had not gone to Kayamganj. His father used to go Kayamganj prior to the incident. On the day of incident, his father was at his house. He (P.W-1) had witnessed the incident from the gher, if the same has not been mentioned in the report he could not say the reason. He had written in the report that his mother had witnessed the incident from the door. He has not written about himself as he had seen the incident from the gher. He could not notice as such he did not mention his place from where he had seen the incident. Near the field of Soney Lal he and Brijendra Singh remained there for about 20 minutes. The place where his father was sitting was about 20-25 meters south east where they were sitting. Prior to sitting in gher he had come from the field of muskmelon. After returning from the field of muskmelon he and Brijendra Singh were sitting 20-25 minutes in gher. Thereafter incident had taken place. His statement has already been recorded in connection with the present case in the same court relating to Atar Singh (since deceased) and other accused persons. The witness was confronted with his statement recorded on 17.1.2001 in the case of State Vs. Atar Singh and others as P.W-1. He had admitted that he had given the statement in the said trial that he had seen the entire incident from 20-25 mtr. southern side from the place where his father was sitting. He was there last 15 -20 minutes prior to that he was at his house. Prior to the incident Brijendra was with him. He was cross-examined by the defence counsel in that case that he was not at his house and Brijendra was at Jasrathpur. Hence he had deposed the above statement. He denied that he has been tutored while giving above clarification. He was never asked in this regard hence he did not disclosed that he had gone to the field of muskmelon. The police had enquired from him at the police station. He does not remember about disclosing to the police that he was returning from the field of muskmelon he could not disclose about the reason if the same is not mentioned. When he saw the accused persons then they had not reached near to the cot of his father rather they had come upto the platform. The cot was lying on the southern side of the platform. The cot was 4-5 ft away from the door of the house. It was towards the south of door. The corner of the chabootra in the south from the door is about 7-8 ft.

18. After his cross-examination on 20.5.2004 he was again recalled and cross-examined on 16.6.2004. He deposed that his father was sitting on the cot which was lying 3-4 ft towards the south door of baithak. On seeing accused persons his father tried to run to enter into baithak. His father was shot dead by the miscreants as he got up and after receiving firearm injury his father fell down in the baithak. Miscreants could not stop his father as he entered in the baithak.

19. He could not say that as to in which year the witness Brijendra had admitted in school in Rampur, but he knows that he was studying prior to 2-3 years of the incident. Accused Kaptan Singh and Deshraj are not related to his family. His agriculture, house and business has no share with accused Kaptan Singh. It is wrong to say that he was not in his village on the day of incident and had not seen any incident. It is wrong to say that he had falsely named the accused Kaptan Singh and Deshraj as his brother Tahar Singh was named in the murder of Ram Naresh. It is also wrong to say that on account of enmity he is giving false statement today.

20. Dr. C.N. Bhalla has been examined as P.W-2 on 16.7.2009 in the present Sessions Trial bearing No.129 of 1995 (State Vs. Kaptan Singh and another) who was earlier examined as P.W-3 in Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989 (State Vs. Atar Singh & others) on 18.11.2002.

21. In his examination-in-chief, Dr. C.N. Bhalla, P.W-2 deposed on oath that he was posted as Pediatrician in District Hospital, Fatehgarh on 19.5.1985. On that day at about 5 P.M. he had conducted the postmortem of the dead body of Ram Sahay S/o Umrao, resident of village Akhunpur. He was aged about 60 years. The dead body was brought by Constable Lal Mani and Constable Balram. The dead body was received by him in a sealed condition and had identified the dead body. Ram Sahay died one day ago. Body was of average built. The dead body was burned 4-6 degree. Head was partially burned. Muscles were visible. Muscles on his body and under neath bones were seen burnt and visible. At some places, body was severely in burned condition.

22. P.W-2 further deposed that from head two wadding pieces; one from chest and one from abdomen, three tikli from the brain were extracted. Four tiklis from abdomen and two tikli from chest were recovered. 78 pellets were recovered from brain, chest and abdomen.

23. The following ante-mortem injuries were found:

1. Lacerated wound 3cm x 2.5cm x chest cavity in the left side 14cm below left ribs. Direction front to back;

2. Lacerated wound 3cm x 2.5cm x abdomen cavity subcortal margin in M.C.L. just below the right ribs. Direction front to back obliquely;

3. Lacerated wound 3cm x 2.5cm x chest cavity left side of back below 8cm of scapula. Direction back to front;

4. Lacerated wound 8cm x 5cm x depth of skull. Skull was cracked. Brain matter and blood was coming out. Right ear was lacerated. Direction right to left.

24. On Internal Examination: Except frontal bone of head all other bones were broken. Brain and its membranes were lacerated and the brain was coming out from injury. Left part of 4th and 5th ribs of the chest were broken. Both lever and its membranes were lacerated. Blood was filled in both parts of chest. Stomach, small intestine, large intestine and gall bladder, both kidneys and spleen were lacerated.

25. He deposed that in his opinion, the death of Ram Sahay was due to excessive bleeding from head and on account of ante mortem injuries. He opined that death could have occurred on account of the injuries received on 18.5.1985 at about 4.30 P.M. in evening. Firstly he was done to death by causing injury with firing and thereafter he was burned. He proved the postmortem report prepared and signed by him, which was marked as Ext. Ka-2. He further deposed that the instant postmortem has also been included in the Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989; State Vs. Atar Singh & others.

26. In his cross-examination on behalf of the accused appellants, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj, he deposed that while conducting autopsy he found four injuries. The description of which has been given in the postmortem report. He had not shown any injury of any gun shot as the body was burnt and lacerated wound was found due to firing. The length and width of injury nos.1, 2 & 3 on the body of the deceased were equal and same. This injury could have been caused by one or more than one firearm weapon. If the fire is shot from one place from different distance then the dimension of the injuries would be different. It is always not necessary that when the fire is shot from close range wadding and tikli would not be found in the body, if the fire is shot from the distance of 4 ft tikli would travel into the body. He could not say as to whether firing from within a distance of 4 ft wadding would travel into the body or not. He has no knowledge if the fire is made in contact with the body, the wadding would pierce in the body. It is not known to him that on firing wadding would enter into the body. wadding and tikli were found in all the four injuries of the deceased only due to this, it could not be said that there is a great possibility that the firing was done from close range as the dead body was burnt lacerated wound is found always when firing is made. This witness was put to a question as what he means about wadding, he answered wadding is a part of tikli. At this moment, tikli shots and wadding which were recovered from the body of the deceased were not before him. There could be possibility of 4-5 hours difference about death and the deceased would have died in the night around at 10-11 P.M.

27. S.S. Yadav, Inspector CBCID has been examined on 10.2.2009 as P.W-3 in the present Sessions Trial bearing No.129 of 1995 (State Vs. Kaptan Singh and another) who was examined as P.W-4 in Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989 (State Vs. Atar Singh & others) on 26.5.2003. The defence had sought adjournment on 26.5.2003 to cross-examine him on the next date. Thereafter the case was adjourned incessantly by the defence and on 10.2.2009 he was again summoned and was re-examined with the permission of the court on behalf of all the accused persons of both the sessions trial separately.

28. S.S. Yadav, P.W-3 who was retired as Inspector, CBCID was summoned and was granted permission for examination-in-chief again. He deposed on oath that the Constable Clerk Babu Lal and SSI K.L. Verma were posted along with him at the police station. He knew their writing and signature. The chik FIR paper no.4-A-1 and copy of GD no.21-A-1 were written and signed by Constable Clerk Babu Lal. It was marked as Ext. Ka-8 & Ext. Ka-9. He further deposed that paper no.8-A site plan, paper no.9-A (memo of recovery of empty cartridges), paper nos.9-A-2 & 9-A-4 relating to memo of raid and arrest in recovery of arms and paper no.9-A-5,9-A-6 & 9-A-7 were prepared and signed by SSI K.L. Verma. The above papers were marked as Ext. Ka-10 to Ka-17. Paper no.3-A is the charge sheet against accused persons, namely, Atar Singh, Sughar Singh, Nawab Singh, Mansha Ram and Phulwari under Sections 147,148,149,302,201 IPC which was written and prepared by SSI K.L. Verma on 30.6.1985. The charge sheet was marked as Ext. Ka-18. He deposed that SSI K.L. Verma had retired in 1998 since then his whereabout is not known nor he ever met with him.

29. In his cross-examination he deposed that SSI K.L. Verma reached to the superannuation in 1998. He is not aware about to which place he belongs. He had gone at the place of occurrence in this case. At what time, he reached on 18.5.1985 he could not remember as the incident is quite old. When he reached on 18.5.1985 it was dark. He did not make any arrangement of any light to conduct the autopsy. He did not mention in the inquest report that light was not available. He does not remember whether he read the FIR prior to filling the inquest report. He had mentioned on the last paper of the inquest report about the papers which is at serial no.3 one page copy of chik report. He had not done any overwriting over the number of two in nakal rapat. It is wrong to say that in place of one two figure has been made. Copy of chik report is in two pages. It is wrong to say that nakal rapat was in two pages rather it was in three pages. He had mentioned in the inquest report about the weapon, but he did not mention the nature of weapon used in the incident. In the inquest report at the top he had not made any overwriting in number 8 of case crime no.158. It is also wrong to say that in the inquest report Sections 147,148,149 IPC were added subsequently. On the back of first page of inquest case crime number is not mentioned. It is also wrong to say that on the first page of inquest report, case crime number was mentioned later on.

30. It is wrong to say that at the time of preparing inquest report, chik FIR was not in existence. It is also wrong to say that an oral information was given with respect to the murder of Ram Sahay on 19.5.1985 and then the police official reached at the place of incident. The inquest report bears his signature. He has not mentioned in the inquest report that under the direction of IO K.L. Verma, he has prepared inquest report, but he has mentioned the presence of SHO and SSI K.L. Verma. Recovery of weapon was not before him. Border of police station Campell is adjacent to Etah and Budaun. Various gangs of miscreant were active in the border area in which several big gangs were involved. At the time of incident gang of Sultan Dhanuk was active in that area. He is not aware whether females were also resided along with miscreants in the gang. he is not aware that Rajjo Devi is concubine of Sultan. He has no knowledge as to whether member of the gang of Sultan used to take shelter at the place of deceased Ram Sahay. It is also not known to him that Ram Sahay was a man of criminal nature. In the charge sheet criminal history of Ram Sahay is not described. He has no knowledge whether any criminal history of Ram Sahay is at the police station.

31. This witness was cross-examined by the counsel of the accused appellants Kaptan Singh and Deshraj. He deposed that he is not aware at what time they had departed from the police station to the place of incident. SHO and SSI had accompanied him. He is not aware about other police personnel. They had gone on the official jeep. He does not remember that at what time they reached at the place of incident. He went along with them at the place of occurrence. He does not remember as to what action was taken by SSI K.L. Verma and Inspector. He does not remember as to whose statements were recorded by the Inspector and SSI K.L. Verma. He also not remember as to which place they had raided. He could not say as to what distance from the deceased was lying from his house. His dead body was lying at the outside the village. He has not written mark of fire in the inquest report. He had mentioned about that the dead body was burnt. He has no knowledge that village Akhunpur and Nagla Akhunpur are two separate villages.

32. Constable Phool Chandra Pairokar of Police Station Kotwali, Farrukhabad was examined on 5.5.2009 as P.W-5. This witness deposed that he knew Babu Lal, Constable Clerk and SSI Bhanwarpal Singh. He was posted along with them and used to see their reading and writing. He knows about their writing and signature. He proved the paper no.4-A/1, 24-A/3, chik FIR and paper no.21-A/1, copy of GD prepared by Constable Clerk Babu Lal which were marked as Ext. Ka-9. Paper no.3-A (charge sheet) in respect of Kaptan Singh and another of Sessions Trial No.129 of 1995 was written by SSI Bhanwarpal Singh was proved by him and the same was marked as Ext. Ka-20. He further deposed that Constable Clerk Babu Lal and SSI Bhanwarpal Singh have been transferred. Since then he had not met with them.

33. This witness was cross-examined by the defence on the same day. He deposed that it is wrong to say that he was never posted along with Constable Clerk Babu Lal and SSI Bhanwarpal Singh and that no proceeding of this case had taken place before him. He also denied that as a mere formality he is deposing falsely under pressure.

34. After examining the witnesses of fact and formal witnesses, the accused appellants were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on 14.5.2009 and 18.7.2009. Accused appellant Deshraj was also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on 14.5.2009 and 18.7.2009. Both the appellants had denied the oral and documentary evidence and stated that they are innocent and they have falsely been implicated.

35. Learned trial court after taking into account the entire documentary and oral evidence of the prosecution witnesses arrived at the conclusion that the prosecution has proved its case against the accused appellants, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj who had motive and shared common intention with other accused persons who were armed with deadly weapon had committed ghastly murder of complainant's father Ram Sahay, hence guilty of the offence punishable under Sections 148,302/34 IPC. It was further held that as the prosecution has not proved the case that the appellants had tried to destroy the evidence of murder, the charge of offence under Section 201 IPC is not proved beyond doubt and hence reached to the conclusion that they deserve acquittal under Section 201 IPC.

36. Learned trial court had found that the offence punishable under Sections 302/34 & 148 IPC is proved to the hilt , hence they were convicted for life imprisonment with a fine of Rs.15,000/- and three years rigorous imprisonment and both the sentences were directed to run concurrently and in case of default, further simple imprisonment of six months.

37. We have heard S/Sri Rajrshi Gupta, Rizwan Ahmad and Rajeev Kumar, learned counsel appearing on behalf of appellants Deshraj and Kaptan Singh in both the abovementioned connected appeals and learned A.G.A. Shri Ashwini Prakash Tripathi appearing on behalf of the State and have gone through the record.

38. Learned counsel Shri Rajrshi Gupta has also filed written submission in support of his arguments advanced on behalf of the appellants, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj.

39. Learned counsel for the appellants has vehemently argued that the FIR lodged against the appellants and other accused persons with an elaborate narration of previous individual enmity of the first informant with different accused persons which gives rise of suspicion that the FIR has been lodged after due deliberation that too with so promptitude. Not only this, the FIR has been lodged at Kayamganj within 2 hours and 20 minutes of the alleged incident which is about 4 Km. from the police station. It was unnatural on the part of the first informant who is the son of the deceased Ram Sahay to narrate the previous history with regard to the dispute and cases pending between the parties in place of narrating actual incident with respect to killing of his father. It is also very unusual on the part of the police to mention the sections of IPC in the chik FIR which are in variance with the sections mentioned in the inquest report of the deceased. This gives reasonable inference that initially the panchayatnama was done by mentioning sections 302/201 IPC and after the FIR was lodged nominating more than five persons by adding Sections 147,148,149 IPC which was subsequently added. The last page of the panchayatnama of the deceased in the list of documents which were sent to the mortuary enclosed with the report the FIR is mentioned to contain one page and thereafter by interpolating "2" in place of 1 has been mentioned which shows that another FIR was registered under Sections 302 & 201 IPC and subsequently, it was suppressed by the prosecution by introducing the FIR named different person as accused with whom the first informant was inimical. Hence it can very well be said that the FIR was ante-timed and anti-dated which has been lodged by suppressing the genesis of the occurrence. The appellants have been implicated on account of previous enmity merely on suspicion by the first informant.

40. Learned counsel has made further submission that the cases which have been mentioned in the FIR showing previous enmity with the accused appellants, other accused persons with the deceased or with the family of first informant but neither any case crime number or exact date of alleged incident have been mentioned nor any evidence has come forth during trial. The motive has not been established by the prosecution against the accused appellants. In some cases family of the first informant were accused in which appellants and other accused persons were witnesses, as such there was motive to the first informant to falsely implicate the accused appellants and other accused persons in the present case. There is every chance of false implication of the accused appellants, namely, Kaptan Singh and his brother Deshraj. In a case of murder of Ram Naresh, the brother of the first informant Tahar Singh was in jail and was convicted in which the appellant Kaptan Singh was also a witness. Similarly, the complainant's father Ram Sahay, the deceased was an accused in the murder of Nahar Singh who was real brother of co-accused Atar Singh (since deceased), Sughar Singh and Nawab Singh. Hence this might have given motive to the first informant to falsely implicate those persons, namely, Atar Singh (since deceased), Sughar Singh and Nawab Singh in the murder of Ram Sahay.

41. Learned counsel has further submitted that the manner in which the incident has been described in the FIR is contrary to the ocular testimony, medical evidence and the site plan. It has been disclosed in the FIR that the P.W-1 Bahaar Singh and P.W-2 Brijendra Singh had witnessed the incident. It was narrated that all the accused persons armed with different firearm weapons from north side came to the house of the deceased Ram Sahay, out of whom three accused persons, Atar Singh (since deceased), Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh, the present appellant started firing. The fire hit to the deceased when he was sitting at the platform and he made an effort to enter into the baithak wherein three other accused persons, namely, Sughar Singh, Phulwari and Nawab Singh had entered and made fire therein. The postmortem report prepared by the Doctor gives narration of four gun shots wound found on the person of the deceased and all the injuries had wadding and tikli of the cartridges lodged in the body and according to Medico Legal and Ballistic finding, it is clear indicative of the fact that the firearm weapon shots were made as a contact shot which belies the ocular version stated by the two witnesses that the firearm wound was sustained by the deceased while he was sitting on his chabootra from a distance of 3-4 ft. As such it creates serious shadow of doubt on the veracity and truthfulness of the ocular testimony of the prosecution witnesses. The dimension of injury nos.1, 2 & 3 has been recorded by the Doctor who had conducted the autopsy of the deceased as 3cm x 2.5cm which further goes to show that these three wounds being contact shots were made by single fire weapon. Further more it is alleged that Ram Sahay was done to death and was dragged about a distance of 50-60 mtr. in an open land in an attempt to hide his dead body which was set to fire under the leaf and wood. When the person has already been killed by the accused persons who were armed with deadly weapon there was no reason to drag him in open place to hide in the presence of the son and wife of the deceased and also other relatives and the P.W-1 had deposed that he was standing 20-25 meter away from the place of incident. It is highly improbable that the accused persons had not caused any harm to him or any other witnesses. During the entire episode no person had made any effort to utter any word or try to stop the accused persons from making any indiscriminate firing and if they were apprehending of any harm to themselves they did not even fled away from the place of incident. This unusual or unreasonable conduct especially on the part of the son of the deceased who is said to be present during entire episode does not pass the test of commonsense and reasonableness or natural human conduct and hence creates doubt about the presence of the witnesses and the veracity of their testimony regarding incident.

42. The Doctor has also opined while conducting postmortem of the deceased that the incident could have taken place during night hours i.e. about 11 P.M., hence the incident could have been carried out in the dark night and no person actually seen the incident. which has been suppressed by the prosecution. When on the next day of the incident, the dead body of the deceased was discovered from the place where it was hidden, prosecution story has been concocted with a view to falsely implicate the persons against whom, the first informant was inimical.

43. The site plan was prepared by the investigating officer SSI K.L. Verma who has not been produced by the prosecution as a witness. The site plan and the memo of recovery of blood from the place of incident prepared by the investigating officer are highly contentious document worthy of no credence and unreliable in view of the fact that the investigating officer was not produced by the prosecution to give an opportunity to the defence to cross-examine him on material points.

44. Similarly, the two witnesses of recovery, namely, Soney Lal and Sahab Singh were not produced by the prosecution. In the recovery memo of blood it is mentioned that blood stained earth and plain earth were recovered from jaiwaqua place of incident without specifying as to from which place, the said recovery of blood stained and plain earth have been made i.e. whether from baithak or from chabootra or the place where the dead body was dragged for a distance of about 60 meters or the place where the dead body was found in hiding. The testimony of P.W-1 and P.W-2 shows that there was blood at the baithak where the deceased fell down after receiving shot on the cot. The blood was also found on the cot where he was sitting, but the site plan only mentioned blood inside baithak and mark of blood as a result of dragging in the site plan which goes to show that the prosecution is unable to point out the place from where the blood was actually collected. Due to non-examination of the investigating officer or the witnesses of the recovery memos to clarify site plan and the recovery memos, such contentious document are unworthy to place any reliance particularly that when the defence has no opportunity to cross-examine the investigating officer, who was not produced during the course of trial. The examination of the prosecution witnesses of fact alone cannot be made basis to accept that the prosecution has established its case beyond reasonable doubt.

45. According to the prosecution case, all the accused persons named in the FIR came together and had killed the deceased (Ram Sahay). There are two sets of accused persons who are not inter se related one set of accused persons, namely, Nawab Singh, Atar Singh (since deceased) and Sughar Singh who are real brothers and another set Phulwari and Mansha Ram. Hence Kaptan Singh and Deshraj have no concern with the other two sets of accused persons. The prosecution has utterly failed to prove that two separate sets of people had come with common object and intention to carry out the said crime. Individually the informant might have separate reason against each sets of accused persons, but to take revenge he had nominated his detractors in the present case. Except this nothing has been elicited by the prosecution that all the heterogeneous element of accused persons came together on the fateful day to carry the incident against the deceased.

46. P.W-1 who is the son of the deceased is an interested and partisan witness and had sufficient reason to falsely implicated the appellants along with other accused persons. There are material contradiction and improvement in his deposition from his previous statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Hence the learned trial court has committed manifest error in ignoring the material contradiction. The evidence of the prosecution witnesses is also in contradiction with the medical evidence which does not pass the test of reasonableness and ordinary prudence to rely upon the entire story of firing and dragging of the dead body and an attempt to destroy by putting on fire and concealing it under the leaves and wood in an open place. Furthermore the conduct of the P.W-1 during the entire episode from the evidence on record that he was present at the time of alleged occurrence. He alleged himself to be standing at about 20-25 meters from the place of alleged assault of his father and during the entire episode he did not raise single hue and cry. Even he did not make any effort himself by fleeing away or by calling person of the vicinity or by the neighbours to make an attempt to save his father. The reason for which the assailant could have attacked upon the deceased when P.W-1 was standing in front of the assailant they left the place without harming him or any one. In the statement of P.W-1 it has not been mentioned by him that Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh had fired upon his father in a close contact which also goes to show that no one was present at the time of incident who had seen the assailants firing at the deceased.

47. Learned counsel has further pointed out that there was no recovery of weapon or incriminating article from the accused persons also creates doubt about their presence at the time of incident to connect them with the crime. The circumstance also points out towards the innocence and false implication of the accused persons in the present case due to previous enmity as the appellant Kaptan Singh was a witness in the case of murder of Ram Naresh and the appellant Deshraj who happens to be the brother of Kaptan Singh have also been falsely implicated along with other accused persons.

48. Learned counsel for the appellants has further argued that the statement of P.W-2 C.N. Bhalla is not reliable as he did not know that wadding will enter into the body or not, if firing caused from a distance of less than 4 ft. He has also deposed that there is no difference between tikli and wadding, hence his statement cannot be accepted as unless the fire is shot in contact of the body wadding cannot enter into the body. The Doctor has admitted that dimension of injury nos.1, 2 & 3 is same which goes to show that all the injuries were caused by same person by using single weapon. The blackening, tattooing and scorching around wounds were not found while conducting autopsy. The Doctor has also deposed that injury nos.1, 2 & 3 may be caused by one or more than one firearm which may be caused by several weapons depending upon the distance, thus it is not ascertainable as to whose fire was hit to the various parts of the deceased.

49. It is further submitted that in view of the contradiction between oral evidence, medical evidence and delay in recording the statement by the investigating officer, non-availability of proper site plan and in the absence of any ballistic expert with regard to the fire, the ocular testimony makes the entire testimony improbable. This is a case where there are material exaggerations and contradictions, which raises reasonable doubt that the appellants were not involved in the commission of offence.

50. Learned counsel while relying upon in the case of Mahavir Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh, reported in (2016) 1 SCC (Cri.) 45 has submitted that the Hon'ble Apex Court relying upon the decision of Abdul Sayeed v. State of M.P. [Abdul Sayeed v. State of M.P., (2010) 10 SCC 259 held that where the medical evidence goes far that it completely rules out all possibility of the ocular evidence being true, the ocular evidence may be disbelieved.

51. Further relying upon the judgment of this Court in Criminal Appeal No.4623 of 2011 (Rameshwar Vs. State of U.P.) connected with Criminal Appeal No.2941 of 2012 (Vinod and others Vs. State of U.P.) decided on 13.8.2019, learned counsel has submitted that in the said case two persons were armed with gun; one was armed with shotgun and another was armed with axe. On the exhortation of one accused who was armed with axe that the deceased would not be spared they fired upon the brother of the complainant at about 6.30 P.M. on the fateful day, of which the FIR was registered on 17.2.2006 at 8.15 hours. The deceased was done to death by firing. They had fired upon the complainant's brother who died on the spot. The accused persons were acquitted as the prosecution has failed to prove the motive for the crime.There was delay in recording the statement of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Some of the witnesses introduced as an eyewitness after 8 months by P.W-8 and 2 who reached at the spot when nobody was there. While considering the pros & cons, the accused persons were acquitted by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court.

52. Lastly, it has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellants that the prosecution suffers from fatal error and omissions and as such it cannot be said that the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt against all the accused persons including the appellants. Looking into the evidence in its entirety, there is reasonable doubt about the involvement of the accused appellants along with other accused. Learned counsel for the appellants has laid stress that the trial court only relying upon the ocular testimony of highly partisan witness had erred in arriving at the conclusion that the accused appellants had common intention to kill Ram Sahay and convicted them for the offence under Sections 148,302/34 IPC for maximum sentence of life imprisonment hence the appellants are entitled to be acquitted of the charge mentioned hereinabove.

53. Per contra, leaned A.G.A. Shri Ashwini Prakash Tripathi appearing for the State has refuted the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the appellants while supporting the findings recorded by the learned trial court. He has submitted that both the appellants along with other accused persons, namely, Atar Singh, Sughar Singh, Nawab Singh, Phulwari and Mansha Ram have been named in the FIR, in respect of the incident, by the son of the deceased Bahaar Singh who has also been examined as P.W-1. On account of previous enmity, which has already been divulged in the FIR in great detail, the appellants and other accused persons were bearing grudge with the father of the deceased, Ram Sahay. On the fateful day on 18.5.1985 at about 4.30 P.M. all the accused persons came armed with lethal weapon and fired with their respective firearms without giving any opportunity to Ram Sahay who was sitting at the chabootra on a cot he received firearm injuries in order to save himself, he ran towards baithak few paces away from the cot, when again received firearm injury over his head Ram Sahay fell down inside baithak. It is the specific case of the prosecution that three accused persons, namely, Atar Singh (since deceased), Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh fired firstly when Ram Sahay was sitting at the chabootra and thereafter three other accused persons, namely, Phulwari, Nawab Singh and Sughar Singh fired when he fell down inside baithak. The incident was witnessed by the complainant and his distant relative Brijendra Singh who was examined as P.W-2. Their statement does not find any material contradiction with respect to firing upon Ram Sahay, who was not only murdered by firing he was further mercilessly dragged 40-50 meter away by them. Atar Singh and co-accused Deshraj had exhorted and instigated that Ram Sahay be set on fire and they had lit the fire. In committing such a ghastly incident by all the accused persons, the complainant and other persons who are witnessing the incident could not muster courage to move forward to save his father as they were unarmed.

54. To prop up his submission, learned A.G.A. has relied upon the decision of Hon'ble the Apex Court passed in Criminal Appeal No.1479 of 2015 (Moti Ram Padu Joshi & others Vs. State of Maharashtra) wherein the Apex Court relied upon Rana Pratap; Vs. State of Haryana (1983) 3 SCC 327 and observed in reference to reaction of a witness of an occurrence, as under:

"Yet another reason given by the learned Sessions Judge to doubt the presence of the witnesses was that their conduct in not going to the rescue of the deceased when he was in the clutches of the assailants was unnatural. We must say that the comment is most unreal. Every person who witnesses a murder reacts in his own way. Some are stunned, become speechless and stand rooted to the spot. Some become hysteric and start wailing. Some start shouting for help. Others run away to keep themselves as far removed from the spot as possible. Yet others rush to the rescue of the victim, even going to the extent of counter-attacking the assailants. Every one reacts in his own special way. There is no set rule of natural reaction. To discard the evidence of a witness on the ground that he did not react in any particular manner is to appreciate evidence in a wholly unrealistic and unimaginative way."

55. In the present case Brijendra Singh who is the relative of P.W-1 was not examined due to the reason he was an eyewitness and who supported P.W-1 in connected trial. Yet it is being tried to create doubt about his presence at the place of incident. The credibility of witness would not be effected merely on the score of relationship. In the case of Mohabbat & Ors vs State Of M.P (2009) 13 SCC 630 the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

13. "5. ... Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible."

56. To the same effect are the decisions in State of Punjab v. Jagir Singh [(1974) 3 SCC 277 : 1973 SCC (Cri) 886] , Lehna v. State of Haryana [(2002) 3 SCC 76 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 526] (SCC pp. 81-82, paras 5-9) and Gangadhar Behera v.State of Orissa [(2002) 8 SCC 381 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 32] ."

57. The above position was also highlighted in Babulal Bhagwan Khandare v. State of Maharashtra [(2005) 10 SCC

404 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1553] , Salim Sahab v. State of M.P. [(2007) 1 SCC 699 : (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 425] and Sonelal v. State of M.P.[(2008) 14 SCC 692 : (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 417] (SCC pp. 695-97, paras 12-13).

58. In view of the catena of decisions it would be unreasonable that the evidence given by related witness should be discarded. It is further submitted that all the accused persons have been specifically named in the FIR and the name of eyewitnesses has also been mentioned in the FIR. Merely because all the witnesses have not been examined would not be fatal to the prosecution as in this particular case the trial proceeding remained pending for a long period and several witnesses who were mentioned in the FIR had died and others refused to depose on account of the pressure of the accused persons they were discharged, hence the evidence of witnesses of fact cannot be termed as highly partisan and interested witnesses or chance witnesses. On the contrary their evidence is consistent and credit worthy.

59. Learned A.G.A. has further relied upon the decision of this Court passed in Criminal Appeal No.668 of 2002 (Abhilakh Singh Vs. State of U.P.) and contended that in the aforesaid case, the investigating officer was not examined and it was the case of the defence that since the investigating officer has not been examined, it has caused great prejudice to the defence. While relying upon the various decisions of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the said case it was observed that it is always desirable for the prosecution to examine the IO. Non-examination of the Investigating Officer does not in any way create any dent in the prosecution case much less affect the credibility of the otherwise trustworthy testimony of the eye witnesses. If the presence of the eye-witnesses on the spot is established and the guilt of the accused is also proved by their trustworthy testimony, non-examination of I.O. would not be fatal to the case of prosecution. In that case despite the two investigating officers were retired the trial court has taken all efforts to procure their attendance but they could not be examined.

60. In the present case also in the absence of the examination of investigating officer as he had retired, the trial court has proceeded to decide the case on the basis of reliable evidence available on record.

61. The FIR was promptly lodged within two hours of the incident. There was strong motive for the accused persons to kill Ram Sahay which has already been given in detail in the FIR. There is no reason for the P.W.-1 being the son of the deceased to falsely implicate the innocent persons leaving behind the actual culprit. The incident had taken place in broad-day-light in a dare devil manner. The charge sheet was submitted in two parts as the accused persons, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj were absconding against whom the process u/S 82/83 Cr.P.C. was initiated. Ultimately the charge sheet was submitted against Atar Singh (since deceased), Nawab Singh and Sughar Singh on 1.6.1985 who had surrendered on 30.6.1985 and Kaptan Singh and Deshraj surrendered on 18.6.1985 who were absconding against whom proceeding u/S 82/83 Cr.P.C. were initiated against them. Thereafter the case was successively adjourned for a long period of ten years when the charges were framed against five accused persons on 30.6.1990 and against the present appellants Kaptan Singh and Deshraj on 29.9.1995. Two separate trials were proceeded as Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989

& Sessions Trial No.129 of 1995. P.W-1 was firstly examined on 17.1.2001 and thereafter on 20.5.2004 again in the aforesaid trials separately.

62. Thus minor discrepancies are bound to occur in the statement of the witnesses due to lapse of period. The testimony of P.W-1 and P.W-2 in the present case is consistent which is fully corroborated by the postmortem report, according to which firing had taken place from close range and internal parts of the body were extensively damage muscles and burnt bones were visible and on some places body was highly scorched. No blackening and tattooing found by the Doctor as the body was burnt. The site plan also shows that the blood was recovered from the platform where Ram Sahay was initially sitting on the cot and when he trying to save himself he was fired at from a very close range which hit him over his head and thereafter he fell down inside baithak. This vivid description given by the two witnesses has proved beyond doubt that Ram Sahay was killed by the accused appellants, who died on the spot on account of indiscriminate firing by Atar Singh, Kaptan Singh and Mansha Ram. It could be difficult to say with certainty as to whose firearm hit the deceased first, but the nature of injuries received by the deceased clearly shows that the fire was made by DBBL Gun as 78 tikli were recovered through the shots which were recovered from different parts of the deceased's body.

63. The Doctor had recovered all the wadding tikli from the body which was sealed by him. The investigating officer had also recovered 8 empty cartridges of 315 bore from the place of incident and inside baithak which shows that all the weapons were used in firing indiscriminately. As such the learned trial court has rightly held that all the accused persons who were armed with deadly weapon arrived at the spot and had fired with a common object to kill Ram Sahay.

64. Accused Sughar Singh whose trial was separated as he had raised his plea of being juvenile at the fag end of the trial and was later on acquitted. The prosecution has proved the guilt of the other accused persons to the hilt. Hence the surviving accused appellants, namely, Nawab Singh, Mansha Ram and Phulwari along with the present appellants Kaptan Singh and Deshraj have rightly been convicted by the learned trial court. Their conviction deserves to be maintained.

65. We have given anxious consideration to the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the appellants and the learned A.G.A.

66. Every effort has been made to doubt about the presence of P.W-1 Bahaar Singh at the time of incident. In the statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. the appellant Kaptan Singh deposed that the complainant was not present at the time of incident as he had lodged the report on the next day. Plea of alibi must be proved with absolute certainty so as to exclude the presence of person concerned from the place of occurrence.

67. It has been contended that the appellants had no immediate motive to commit the murder of Ram Sahay even the suggestions made by the prosecution that wife of appellant Kaptan Singh had won the election of Pradhan against Ram Sahay prior to two years of the alleged incident, remained unsubstantiated. Where the positive evidence against the accused is clear and cogent, omission of motive is of no importance. It is always an impossible task for the prosecution to unravel the full dimension of the mental disposition of an offender towards the person whom he offended as held in this connection by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Himanchal Pradesh Vs. Jeet Singh 1999 (38) ACC 50 Supreme Court observing that "No doubt it is a sound principle to remember that every criminal act was done with a motive but its corollary is not that no criminal offence would have been committed if prosecution has failed to prove the precise motive of the accused to commit it. When the prosecution succeeded in showing the possibility of some ire for the accused towards the victim the inability to further put on record the manner in which such ire would have swelled up in the mind of the offender to such a degree as to impel him to commit the offence cannot be construed as a fatal weakness of the prosecution."

68. On the bare perusal of the First Information Report lodged against the accused persons, namely, Atar Singh, Mansha Ram, Phuwari, Nawab Singh, Deshraj and Kaptan Singh on 18.5.1985 at 6 P.M. relating to the incident occurred at 4.30 P.M. on the same day, the complainant Bahaar Singh who is the son of the deceased Ram Sahay has mentioned about the previous cases pending between the parties to show their animosity with the deceased which prompted them to reach at the spot together in a pre-planned manner to execute their evil design.

69. In our opinion, there was nothing unusual on the part of the complainant to narrate the previous animosity and ill-will of the accused persons who were involved individually and collectively in the cases mentioned therein.

70. It was argued that no detail of any case has been mentioned in the FIR as to when such crime had taken place or what was the case crime number and what was the sessions trial number. It was highly impossible for a person to give such details soon after an incident which had occurred suddenly and executed in a barbarous manner, not only shooting the deceased with their respective firearm weapons by the accused appellants, he was dragged by them in a most diabolic manner in broad-day-light up to 50-60 meters away from the actual place of incident which had occurred in front of house of the deceased and was kept on the heap of wood and was set on fire in order to efface the dead body. The entire episode which had occurred in a few minutes it could not have been possible for the son of the deceased who had lodged the FIR to depose the case crime number or the sessions trial number or the dates of incident in which the accused appellants were involved jointly or individually. However, he has broadly narrated the reasons for committing the murder of his father by the accused appellants. In these circumstances, it cannot be said that the FIR has been registered after due deliberation developing false story on the basis of misconceived facts. Nothing has occurred in the cross-examination of P.W-1 to discredit this witness as untrustworthy.

71. It has also been argued that the FIR was lodged after conducting the inquest of the deceased as the crime number as well as Sections of IPC have not been mentioned in sequence.

72. We are again not impressed by such arguments of the learned counsel for the appellants as the FIR has promptly been lodged, of which detail account has been given in the FIR and on this point P.W-1 Bahaar Singh had also articulated in examination-in-chief in the witness box has narrated and has also with stood lengthy cross-examination. It has also been specifically mentioned by the Inspector S.S. Yadav, who was examined as P.W-4 that the police personnel arrived on the spot on 18.5.1985 but due to darkness, the inquest was started on 19.5.1985. It started at 6 A.M. on the next day and prepared in three hours and concluded at about 9 A.M. The inquest report shows that there is no addition or alternation in the section mentioned in it which has been prepared on 19.5.1985 as it could not be prepared on 18.5.1985 due to darkness. It was prepared in the same hand writing by the same person. The other police personnel who had accompanied after lodging the FIR has also been mentioned in the inquest memo. Hence it cannot be said that the FIR was ante-timed. Mere description of the Sections 302,201 along with Sections 147,148,149 IPC in particular manner , it cannot be said that the said FIR was lodged after great delay or ante-timed as it was in existence when inquest was conducted.

73. Learned counsel has pointed out infirmity in the statement of the complainant P.W-1 Bahaar Singh to doubt about his presence that if he claims himself to be the eyewitness of the incident and the place from where the first informant seen the incident but it has not been mentioned in the FIR nor it has been mentioned that the mother of the complainant had also seen the incident which has been developed during trial. A witness's testimony need not be disbelieved only because certain facts did not find mention in the FIR. Suffice is to say that an FIR is not an encyclopedia of the case.

74. There is no material omission in the statement of the prosecution witnesses as regards the firing by the appellants or other accused persons on the deceased. It has to be borne in mind that some discrepancies in the ocular account of a witness, unless they are vital, cannot per se affect the credibility of the evidence of the witness. Unless the contradictions are material, the same cannot be used to jettison the evidence in its entirety. Trivial discrepancies ought not to obliterate an otherwise acceptable evidence. Merely because there is inconsistency in the evidence in this regard, it is not sufficient to impair the credibility of the witness. It is only when the discrepancies in the evidence of a witness are so incompatible with the credibility of his version that the court would be justified in discarding his evidence.

75. Minor discrepancy in the statement of the witnesses is not necessarily a false evidence. Such evidence is subject to close scrutiny. No evidence should be at once discarded simply because it came from the interested parties like P.W-1 Bahaar Singh being the son of the deceased Ram Sahay whose evidence cannot be discarded which is natural and trustworthy.

76. Even in the absence of actual assault of members by the unlawful assembly they can be held vicariously liable as there was common object to commit a crime. Where parties go with a common purpose to execute a common intention, each and everyone becomes responsible for the act of each and every other in execution and furtherance of their common object, as the purpose is common so must be the responsibility of a particular crime. The prosecution case could not suffer a setback simply because all accused are not related to each other.

77. The prosecution cannot perform miracles and it is not always possible to adduce clinching evidence as to the common bond between or amongst culprits

78. In Nathuni Yadav and others Vs. State of Bihar; 1997 (34) ACC 576 Supreme Court it was held that motive for doing criminal act is very difficult area for prosecution as one cannot see into the mind of another.

79. The P.W-1 and another witness Brijendra Singh who was examined in connected sessions trial have stated that they had witnessed the incident together from the gher. Merely because P.W-1 has not explained that he was coming along with P.W-2 from the field of muskmelon, it can not be presumed that his presence is doubtful as the same was also not put during the course of cross-examination from him that at that time from where he was coming. Their presence has been amply shown in the site plan prepared by the investigating officer which has been indicated as southern of gher of Soney Lal. They were standing at a distance of 20-22 ft when the accused persons reached at the chabootra (platform) where the deceased Ram Sahay was sitting on a cot facing towards east. The cot was at a distance of 3-4 ft from the baithak. The accused Atar Singh and Mansha Ram having armed with rifle and Kaptan Singh having DBBL gun fired at Ram Sahay, the father of the P.W-1 when they reached on the platform. As soon as his father had seen them he at once got up to run inside baithak at that time Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh had fired from their respective firearm. Then another shot was fired upon him which hit to his father and he fell down inside his baithak. Exact mathematical calculation with respect to distance between the assailants and the deceased would not be possible to arrive at the conclusion that the presence of witnesses is doubtful. When the accused persons arrived near the cot then the distance from which they had fired would be in close contact with the body of the deceased because of the length of the barrel and hence there was no occasion that when the shot was made aiming towards from close distance the wads would fall down and would not pierce in the body rather wads and powder blast had caused laceration penetrating in the organs of the body. The shape of the abrasion of the entrance wounds also varies either circular or oval according to the angle the bullet strike at the body. The question regarding the direction of fire where from right to left or to back, it is necessary to ascertain the position of the victim at the time of the discharge of the bullet when the wound of entrance is present wad would lodge in the body. Wadding pieces, tikli and shots were found lodged in the body. No blackening or tattooing detected by the Doctor as the body was burn 4-6 degree.

80. The injury was hit to the deceased on his forehead when he turned around he made an attempt to save himself by entering into baithak. The Doctor had found two wadding pieces and five tiklis from brain; one wadding and two tiklis from chest and one wad and four tiklis from abdomen. Besides this, 78 small pellets were found from brain, abdomen and chest. The Doctor has only given an opinion with regard to entering of the wadding into the body and had given approximate distance of firing from less than 4 ft. The wadding pieces which had entered into the body of the deceased clearly goes to show that the fire was made from very close range. It's barrel may or may not be touching the body of the victim while firing indiscriminately at the deceased. It is not necessary that the fire made by all the three accused persons would have hit to the deceased. The nature of injury goes to show that firing made by rifle might have deflected owing to the fact that it was not fired at an immobile object. Some fire missed hence empty cartridges were found at platform as well as inside the baithak.

81. From the postmortem report it is quite evident that the first shot made from behind at the deceased as he tried to stood up who was sitting on the cot which is injury no.3 as it's direction is from back to front. Injury nos.1 & 2 which were on front of chest and abdomen when the deceased had turned around and his face was towards baithak and the assailants were standing facing towards east the direction is front to back. Injury no.4 was on his head hence direction was from right to left when the deceased tried to ran inside baithak the assailants Atar Singh, Kaptan Singh and Mansha Ram were on his right side near the cot. The description of the abovementioned accused persons, when they fired, has been narrated by P.W-1 which fully supports the injuries described in the postmortem report.

82. It has been pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants that it is alleged that Sughar Singh, Phulwari and Nawab Singh entered into the baithak after the deceased fell down and they had also fired, and at the same time, Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Kaptan Singh were firing indiscriminately outside to unleash the reign of terror. Though Kaptan Singh did not enter into the baithak but his presence along with other accused persons making fire indiscriminately cannot be doubted.

83. The Doctor has also opined that the dimension of injury nos.1, 2 & 3 were the same meaning thereby it was fired by the same weapon by one person. Inside the body, one wadding piece was recovered from chest and one from abdomen, four tiklis from abdomen and two from chest and 78 small pellets were found from brain, abdomen and chest. The Doctor has also opined that injury may be caused by several weapons depending upon the distance.

84. The fact remains that as the body was burnt by the accused persons it was not possible to the Doctor to find blackening, tattooing and scorching. The site plan indicates that after killing the deceased at platform his dead body was dragged from the baithak by the accused persons and was taken to an open land 50 yards away. The trail of blood was found by the investigating officer which has been specifically mentioned in the site plan in red ink, which further corroborates the testimony of the P.W-1 Bahaar Singh and P.W-2 Brijendra Singh showing that the victim Ram Sahay was killed by firing and his dead body was mercilessly dragged by them and was set ablaze. Hence the ocular testimony has greater evidentiary value which cannot be disbelieved. The case cited by the learned counsel Mahavir Singh (Supra) is based upon different facts and circumstances of the case.

85. In Rameshwar (Supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellants, the Hon'ble Apex Court has set aside the judgment of the High Court whereby the High Court has reversed the finding recorded by the trial court and convicted the accused persons and the appeal was allowed setting at liberty the accused appellants, as such the case cited by the learned counsel would not apply under the circumstances of the present case.

86. In the present case the incident had taken place in the broad-day-light when all the accused persons in a pre-planned manner emerged out at the place of incident and started firing aiming at the deceased, out of them, two accused persons, namely, Atar Singh and Mansha Ram were armed with rifle and Kaptan Singh was armed with DBBL Gun which was specifically narrated by the complainant in the FIR and in his statement recorded before the trial court. Hence we find that there is no material infirmity in the ocular testimony with the medical evidence and the site plan. The plea of Kaptan Singh in statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that P.W-1 was not present at the time of incident cannot be accepted as it has to be proved with absolute certainty so as to exclude his presence anywhere else from the place of incident.

87. Accused persons, namely, Atar Singh, Nawab Singh, Sughar Singh belonged to one family & Mansha Ram had surrendered on 29.5.1985 while Phulwari had surrendered on 30.6.1985. However, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj absconded from their houses during the raid conducted by the investigating officer and his team at their houses. Neither they were found in the house nor any recovery of weapon could have been made. Thereafter Kaptan Singh and Deshraj had surrendered on 5.2.1986 and 19.2.1986 respectively and were sent to jail when the incident was of 18.5.1985.

88. There is yet another material aspect of the case with respect to the post trial conduct of the accused appellants when they were held guilty of the crime and convicted for life imprisonment. All the accused persons preferred appeals before this Court with prayer for consideration of bail during pendency of the appeal u/S 389(i) Cr.P.C. It was argued on behalf of Atar Singh, Mansha Ram and Phulwari that they were alleged to be armed with rifle but no rifle injury appears to have been recorded by the Doctor and in addition to this injury nos.3 & 4 had been fired from a very close range, but wads were recovered from chest and abdomen of the deceased which shows that the accused who were allegedly armed with rifle have not fired a shot in other words Ram Sahay died due to gun shot injuries.

89. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, the co-ordinate Bench of this Court rejected the bail application of all the accused appellants by order dated 19.7.2012 and granted bail to Deshraj as there was no allegation of firing against him. Later on second bail application was moved on behalf of Kaptan Singh. It was argued that the incident had taken place in two parts. There are seven accused persons involved in the present case, out of them, accused Deshraj whose shot did not hit the deceased was granted bail. It was also argued that initially Ram Sahay, the deceased was sitting on a chabootra when all the accused shot at him with their respective weapons. Thereafter Ram Sahay, the deceased ran inside the house to save himself where he was shot dead by co-accused Sughar Singh, who was armed with gun, Nawab Singh, who was armed with countrymade pistol and Phulwari who was armed with rifle. So far as appellant (Kaptan Singh) is concerned though he was armed with gun but he did not enter into the house of the deceased, thus Ram Sahay, the deceased died on account of the injuries caused by rifle as the dimensions of the injuries are same.

The appellant was on bail during trial and had not misused the liberty of bail and that he is in jail since 21.7.2009.

90. On the aforesaid submission on the part of the appellant Kaptan Singh, he obtained bail by clearly shifting responsibility of firing by Sughar Singh who was armed with gun and alleging that Ram Sahay, the deceased died on account of firing inside baithak and Nawab Singh and Phulwari caused injury with rifle as the dimensions of the injujry are same. The arguments which were advanced on behalf of the accused appellants initially that there was no shot of fire with rifle and Ram Sahay, the deceased died due to firing made by DBBL Gun. The appellant Kaptan Singh was having DBBL Gun and the postmortem report clearly corroborates the prosecution that cause of death was the result of firing with gun when the deceased was on his chabootra. Thus only for the purpose of somehow getting bail one set of accused have shifted burden upon others for causing injury with gun and vice versa. But the fact remains that they had shared common intention and the firing had taken place and Ram Sahay, the deceased was done to death on the fateful day. It would be very difficult to fix liability upon one person only i.e. Sughar Singh in the entire episode who had pleaded juvenility and acquitted by the court below. When all of them had come jointly with prior meeting of mind to eliminate Ram Sahay then whose shot of fire was fatal cannot be deciphered. Dragging of dead body from baithak to the field of Sahab Singh where he was put on fire further shows that all the accused persons were having common intention and involved in dragging the dead body as such the contention on behalf of other accused appellants has no substance that they had not fired at the deceased who had suffered homicidal death and the injuries sustained by him were all ante-mortem in nature as a result of firing with gun. It is common experience that in the confusion of the moment the witnesses are prone to make some error when they were seized by some fear.

91. It has also been argued that according to the site plan, the blood was found at two places; one on the chabootra (platform) and another inside baithak of the deceased but while preparing the recovery memo of blood stained earth, it has not been specified from which place the blood stained earth was collected and has been mentioned that it was found from the place as jaiwaqua.

92. Failure to mention the exact place from where the blood was collected by the investigating officer cannot be doubted about the place of incident as it has been mentioned in the site plan that the same has been found from place B which has been shown as platform where the deceased was firstly fired at by the accused persons. Thus the argument of the learned counsel for the appellants is unrealistic and far-fetched and the Court cannot draw any inference for such imaginative doubt.

93. It is further argued that misfired cartridges and fired cartridges were not sent to the Ballistic Expert, Forensic Science Laboratory and the firearm weapon used by the appellants were never seized.

94. The said lapses on the part of the investigating officer would not necessarily proved fatal to the case of the prosecution where the direct testimony of the two prosecution witnesses is on record.

95. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the investigating officer was not examined in this case which has caused serious prejudice to the accused persons. Non-examination of the investigating officer has deprived them to examine him on material points.

96. We see no substance as the investigating officer was not an eyewitness.

97. In Ram Ghulam Chaudhary Vs. State of Bihar; 2001 (43) ACC 929 the Hon'ble Apex Court in paras 25, 26 & 27 has held as under:

"25. In the case of Ram Dev v. State of U.P, reported in [1995] Supp. 1 SCC 547, this Court has held that it is always desirable for the prosecution to examine the Investigating Officer. However, non examination of the Investigation Officer does not in any way create any dent in the prosecution case much less affect the credibility of otherwise trustworthy testimony of the eye witnesses.

26. In the case of Behari Prasad v. State of Bihar, reported in [1996] 2 SCC 317, this Court has held that for non examination of the Investigating Officer the prosecution case need not fail. This Court has held that it would not be correct to contend that if the Investigating Officer is not examined the entire case would fail to the ground as the accused were deprived of the opportunity to effectively cross-examine the witnesses and bring out contradictions. It was held that the case of prejudice likely to be suffered must depend upon facts of each case and no universal strait- jacket formula should be laid down that non-examination of Investigating Officer per se vitiate the criminal trial.

27. In the case of Ambika Prasad v. State (Delhi Admn.), reported in [2000] 2 SCC 646, it was held that the criminal trial is meant for doing justice not just to the accused but also to the victim and the society so that law and order is maintained. It was held that a Judge does not preside over criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished. It was held that a Judge presides over criminal trial also to see that guilty man does not escape. It was held that both are public duties which the Judge has to perform. It was held that it was unfortunate that the Investigating Officer had not stepped into the witness box without any justifiable ground. It was held that this conduct of the Investigating Officer and other hostile witnesses could not be a ground for discarding evidence of P.Ws. 5 and 7 whose presence on the spot was established beyond any reasonable doubt. It was held that non-examination of the Investigating Officer could not be a ground for disbelieving eye witnesses."

98. In the case of Ram Ghulam Chaudhary (Supra) the prosecution did not examine the investigating officer, however, all the accused persons were convicted by the trial court which was affirmed by Hon'ble the Apex Court.

99. Learned counsel for the appellant has thus pointed out various infirmities regarding investigation of the case.

100. Such omissions or lapses in the investigation cannot be a ground to discard the prosecution case which is otherwise credible and cogent.

101. In Nankaunoo Vs. State of U.P.; 2016(1) SC Cr.R 237 it was held as under:

"Any omission on the part of the investigating officer cannot go against the prosecution case. Story of the prosecution is to be examined dehors such omission by the investigating agency. Otherwise it would shake the confidence of the people not merely in the law enforcing agency, but also in the administration of justice."

102. In V.K. Mishra and another Vs. State of Uttrakhand and another; 2015(2) SC Cr.R it was held as under:

"The investigating officer is not obliged to anticipate all possible defences and investigate in that angle. In any event any omission on the part of the investigating officer cannot go against the prosecution. The interest of justice demands that such acts or omissions of the investigating officer should not be taken in favour of the accused or otherwise. It would amount to placing a premium upon such omissions."

103. In Appa Bhai and another Vs. State of Gujarat; 1988 (25) ACC168 Supreme Court had emphasised while appreciating the evidence the court should not attach undue importance to minor discrepancies. The discrepancies which do not shake the basic version of the prosecution case may be discarded. Similarly, the discrepancies which are due to normal error of perception or observation should not be given importance. The so called omission of not mentioning exact portion of the body of deceased where the shot had been fired cannot be said to be the significant omission. The evidence of the two witnesses stands corroborated by the medical evidence which clearly goes to show that several shots were received by the deceased and after firing set on fire to the deceased to erase the evidence. The accused appellants and two others fled away after firing in air creating an atmosphere of terror and fear. The post event conduct of a witness varies from person to person. It cannot be a cast-iron reaction to be followed as a model by every one witnessing such an incident. Different persons would react differently on seeing any serious crime of such a nature and their behaviour and conduct would be different. Therefore, having witnessed a dastardly murdered, it was not unnatural for the son or mother of the deceased to go near to the dead body. Learned trial court was justified in not rejecting the testimony of P.W-1 merely on that score.

104. In the present case where all the accused persons who were armed with firearm weapons emerged from the house of Atar Singh and started firing resulting in death in such a scenario it could not have been possible to meticulously observe all the action of each and every accused. The trial court cannot expect from the witnesses to depose in a parrot like fashion. The overall evidence of the witnesses appears to be untainted. The improvements, if any, made for the first time before the court ,no doubt need, to be eschewed but that does not mean that the entire evidence of the witnesses should be disbelieved only on the said ground.

105. It is well settled proposition of law that the testimony of a witness cannot be discarded in toto merely due to the presence of embellishments or exaggerations. This Court as well as Hon'ble the Apex Court has endorsed the in applicability of the doctrine falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus, which means "false in one things, false in everything". The Doctrine merely involves the question of weight of evidence which a court may apply in a given set of circumstances, but it is not what may be called "a mandatory rule of evidence". The evidence has to be sifted with care. Hardly one comes across a witness whose evidence does not contain a grain of untruth or at any rate exaggeration or embellishments. But the Court has to separate the grain from the chaff, truth from false. If after considering the whole mass of evidence, a residue of acceptable truth is established by the prosecution beyond any reasonable doubt, the Courts is bound to give effect to the result flowing from it and not to throw it over board on hypothetical and conjectural ground. Minor variations of the evidence will not effect to the root of the matter. Such minor variations need not be given as major contradiction.

106. The prosecution is not obliged to prove its case by leading separate evidence with respect to the common object of all the accused persons. Those factors found by the learned trial court on the available evidence on record, hence we have no reason to ignore the same with regard to the ocular testimony vis-a-vis conflict between the ocular testimony and the medical evidence. It is by now well settled that the medical evidence cannot override the evidence of ocular testimony of the witnesses. If there is a conflict between the ocular testimony and medical evidence naturally the ocular testimony prevails.

107. It has also been argued that very detail account has been given in the FIR with regard to the previous cases but no detail description of the cases have been mentioned in the FIR hence does not prove the immediate motive on the part of the different sets of accused.

108. The description about the enmity has been made in the FIR by the informant without mentioning the details of the criminal cases. The prosecution case cannot be disbelieved only because it did not find mention in detail. We cannot expect from a grief stricken person to give better particulars of the case. The contents of the FIR has given an exhaustive account by the P.W-1, the son of the deceased as such possibility of inventing a story at that juncture trying to implicate all the accused persons is absolutely ruled out. The investigating officer had gathered material of two cases in which the accused persons were involved; one is Case Crime no.301 of 1983 relating to the FIR under Section 307 IPC pending in the court of IInd Additional District Judge as Sessions Trial No.90 of 1984 pertaining to a case filed by Ram Sahay, the deceased against Kaptan Singh, Mansha Ram and Atar Singh (State Vs. Kaptan Singh & others) and another is Case Crime No.300 of 1983, under Section 396 IPC which was against Nakse, Mansha Ram and Atar Singh pending in the court First Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate as Sessions Trial No.229 of 1983 (State Vs. Nakse & others). In spite of cross-examination of prosecution witnesses nothing fragile surfaced in their statement in this regard. Pre and post conduct of all the accused persons while committing crime has left no room of doubt that they had not formed an unlawful assembly sharing common object to eliminate the victim. The court can visualize the common object of the unlawful assembly from the entire evidence on record. Due to prolong continuation of the trial some embellishments in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses has bound to occur. We notice in this case, that there is sufficient evidence to show that barbaric incident had happened on 18.5.1985. It was the appellants who had formed an unlawful assembly with other accused appellants (of the connected Appeal) the common object of which was to use force and violence against the deceased Ram Sahay with deadly weapons and none others who had committed the crime to satiate their evil design punishable under Section 148 IPC.

109. There is nothing in the cross-examination of P.W.1, the first informant Bahar Singh that his attention was called to that part of his statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. in which he had omitted either to describe himself as an eyewitness of the incident or to name the place from where he had witnessed the same. We do not find any reason to disbelieve the evidence of P.W.1. Mere inconsistency in evidence is not sufficient to impair the credit of the witness.

110. Section 145 of The Indian Evidence Act, 1872

111. Cross-examination as to previous statements in writing.--A witness may be cross-examined as to previous statements made by him in writing or reduced into writing, and relevant to matters in question, without such writing being shown to him, or being proved; but, if it is intended to contradict him by the writing, his attention must, before the writing can be proved, be called to those parts of it which are to be used for the purpose of contradicting him.

112. A conjoint reading of the aforesaid provision indicates that any police officer making an investigation under chapter 12 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 or any police officer making any investigation under this chapter examines any person believed to be acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case, the police officer may reduce into writing any statement made to him in the course of examination u/s 161 Cr.P.C. and if it is true, he shall make separate entry to record all the statements of such person whose statement he records.

113. Section 162 (1) of Cr.P.C. stipulates that no statement made by any person to a police officer in the course of an investigation under this Chapter, shall, if reduced to writing, be signed by the person making it; nor shall any such statement or any record thereof, whether in a police diary or otherwise, or any part of such statement or record, be used for any purpose, save as hereinafter provided, at any inquiry or trial in respect of any offence under investigation at the time when such statement was made. Proviso to Section 162 (1) of Cr.P.C. mandates that when any witness is called for the prosecution in such inquiry or trial whose statement has been reduced into writing as aforesaid, any part of his statement, if duly proved, may be used by the accused, and with the permission of the Court, by the prosecution, to contradict such witness in the manner provided by Section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872); and when any part of such statement is so used, any part thereof may also be used in the re-examination of such witness, but for the purpose only of explaining any matter referred to in his cross-examination. Section 162 (2) of Cr.P.C. excludes any statement falling within the provisions of clause 2 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 and 27 of that Act from the application of the aforesaid proviso.

114. The object of Section 145 of the Evidence Act is to give a witness a chance of explaining the discrepancy and inconsistency and to clear up the point of ambiguity and dispute.

admission, the statement as such should be put to the witness and if the witness denies having given such a statement, it does not amount to any admission and if it is to be proved that he had given such a statement, the attention of the witness must be drawn to that statement. The object behind this provision is to give a witness a chance of explaining the discrepancy or inconsistency and to clear up the particular point of ambiguity or dispute.

116. The question of contradicting the evidence and the requirements of compliance in Section 145 of the Evidence Act has been considered by the Apex Court in the case of Tahsildar Singh and Another Vs The State of Uttar Pradesh, 1959 SCR Supl. (2) 875. The Apex Court in the aforesaid case was examining the question as to when an omission in the former statement can be held to be a contradiction and it was also indicated as to how a witness can be contradicted in respect of his former statement by drawing his attention to that portion of the former statement.

117. This question was again considered in the case of Binay Kumar Singh Vs The State of Bihar, 1997 Vol. 1 SCC 283. The Apex Court taking note of the earlier decision in Bhagwan Singh Vs The State of Punjab, 1952 AIR 214, explained away the same with the observation that on the facts of that case, there could not be a dispute with the proposition laid down therein. But while elaborating the second limb of Section 145 of the Evidence Act, it was held that if it is intended to contradict a witness, his attention must be called to those part of his writings of his earlier statements which are intended to be used for the purpose of contradicting him. It was further held that if the witness denies having made any statement which is inconsistent with his present stand, his testimony in Court on that score would not be vitiated until cross-examiner proceeds to comply with the procedure prescribed in the second limb of Section 145 of the Evidence Act.

118. Hence, the procedure prescribed u/s 145 of the Evidence Act if having not been complied, we do not find any reason to discredit the evidence of P.W.1 informant or to hold either that he is not a fully reliable witness or he had not seen the occurrence. The statement of the first informant, P.W-1 stands fully corroborated from the facts deposed by witness Brijendra Singh his examination-in-chief, who was examined as P.W-2 in connected Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989. Thus in view of the legal principles propounded hereinabove by the Apex Court, we are not inclined to reject the evidence of P.W.-1. There is no law which lays down that a conviction cannot be recorded on the basis of the evidence of solitary witness.

119. The purpose of cross-examination is to test the veracity of the statement made by a witness in his examination-in-chief as also to impeach his credit. Not only it is the right of the accused to shake the credit of a witness, but it is also the duty of the court trying an accused to satisfy itself that the witnesses are reliable. It would be dangerous to lay down any hard and fast rule.

120. In our opinion, relevant and material omissions amount to vital contradiction which can be established by cross-examination and confronting the witness with his previous statement. The alleged omissions in the statement of the witnesses to the police could not have made their evidences in court unreliable with respect to material particular concerning the occurrence or identifying the accused. In the present case, there is ample evidence in the shape of oral testimony of P.W-1 Bahaar Singh who is the son of the deceased and P.W-2 Brijendra Singh examined in connected sessions trial, on the basis of which, the conclusion has rightly been drawn by the learned trial court that the witnesses had in fact seen the accused persons and their devilish act, hence we are in full agreement which does not require any interference.

121. We are of the opinion in a case like the present one the relatives and friends of the deceased would not spare the real culprits and falsely implicate others. We are of the considered view that the relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of the aforesaid eye witnesses.

122. In the case of Dalip Singh vs. State of Punjab AIR 1953 SC 364, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause' for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalisation. Each case must be judged on its own facts. Our observations are only made to combat what is so often put forward in cases before us as a general rule of prudence. There is no such general rule. Each case must be limited to and be governed by its own facts."

"Legal system has laid emphasis on value, weight and quality of evidence rather than on quantity multiplicity or plurality of witnesses. It is not the number of witnesses but-quality of their evidence which is important as there is no requirement under the Law of Evidence that any particular number of witnesses is to be examined to prove/disprove a fact. Evidence must be weighed and not counted. It is quality and not quantity which determines the adequacy of evidence as has been provided under Section-134 of the Evidence Act. As a general rule the Court can and may act on the testimony of a single witness provided he is wholly reliable."

124. Learned counsel Shri Rajrshi Gupta appearing on behalf of the appellants, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj has made fervent plea on behalf of the appellant Deshraj that his role is distinguishable from the other accused persons who had fired at the deceased. Deshraj has been made an accused as he is the brother of Kaptan Singh.The said plea is clearly untenable that the appellant Deshraj has done nothing with his own hands. The manner in which ghastly murder had taken place, everyone must be taken to have intended the probable and natural result of the combination of the acts in which the appellant Deshraj had also joined. Appellant Deshraj having armed with gun. Atar Singh (since deceased) and Deshraj had put the fire on the heap of woods of Arhar after the dead body of Ram Sahay dragged from baithak to the field of Sahab Singh. The appellants Deshraj and Atar Singh had exerted to burn the dead body into ashes. It is not necessary that all the persons forming an unlawful assembly must do some overt act. The prosecution is not obliged to prove which specific over act was done by which of the accused. The failure of the prosecution to do so the prosecution case cannot be disbelieved when one person of the unlawful assembly is responsible as a principle for the acts of each and all, merely because he is a member of unlawful assembly overt act and active participation of the accused persons perpetuating the crime, indicates the common intention of the unlawful assembly fastening them vicariously with the requisite common object and knowledge.

125. There are umpteen pronouncements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court that investigation lapses, cannot provide ground of rejection of the prosecution and acquittal by a court in given case cannot be allowed to stand, solely, on the probity of investigation.

126. We will quote a few:

1. State of U.P. Vs. Harbhan Singh; 1998(37) ACC14 Supreme Court;

2. State of Karnataka Vs. K.Y. Reddy; 2000 SAR crime (37) Supreme Court;

3. State of Rajasthan Vs. Kishore; 1996(33) ACC 284 Supreme Court;

4. Karnail Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh; 1995(32) ACC 742 Supreme Court.

127. In the aforesaid cases it was observed that any lapse during investigation of the case cannot be considered sufficient to discredit the prosecution version and if the eyewitnesses testimony is consistent and dependable, it is sufficient to sustain conviction. If there is any lacuna in the site plan, it will also not provide a ground for throwing out the prosecution case as weak and in co-inherent. It is indisputable in the present case that the occurrence took place in front of the house of the informant and at the time of incident, P.W-1 was present near his house.

128. One peculiar feature of the trial is that it prolonged for more than 24 years from the date of incident till the date of decision. Since the trial began in 1989 in respect of other accused persons and the present trial which began in 1995 was also clubbed with that. On such unusual and monumental delay we feel shame in deciding of the case which took about 24 years. There are three stages of the trial when a person commits an offence i.e. pre-stage of trial, trial and post trial. At the pre-stage of trial, the order-sheet indicates that though the charge sheet was submitted on 30.6.1985 against Atar Singh, Phulwari, Nawab Singh and Sughar Singh, but the charge sheet was submitted against the appellants, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj only on 13.2.1986 as they were absconding. Thereafter the committal order was passed on 28.6.1989 and the case was successively adjourned on behalf of the appellants in both the sessions trial and at belated stage, both the trials were consolidated on 17.9.1998. After recording the evidence in Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989 of the other accused persons, the appellants in Sessions Trial No.129 of 1995 who were incessantly getting the case adjourned even after consolidation of both the trial, P.W-1 Bahaar Singh was again called in the witness box to be examined in the present sessions Trial between 20.5.2004 to 16.6.2004 when initially his statement had already been recorded during 17.1.2001 to 9.2.2001 in Sessions Trial No.327 of 1989.

129. From the perusal of the record it is also evident that Brijendra Singh who has been examined as P.W-2 in connected S.T. No.327 of 1989 has not been examined in the present Sessions Trial No.129 of 1995 (State Vs. Kaptan Singh and another) due to the reason that he was deterred by the accused persons to depose against the accused appellants, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj. Not only Brijendra Singh but other accused persons who had witnessed the incident and witness of recovery have been extended with threat of dire consequences and hence they refused to come to court and the prosecution had to move an application claiming discharge of Brijendra Singh, Sahab Singh, Soney Lal and Nisar Devi though their statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. were recorded by the investigating officer after the incident. There is another reason for the delay in trial as the accused appellants, namely, Deshraj and Kaptan Singh and one Phulwari were absconding against whom process under Sections 82/83 Cr.P.C. was initiated on 1.6.1985.

130. On the analysis of the evidence, it is fully established that the victim succumbed to unnatural death with gun shot injuries whose dead body was dragged and burnt down so as to efface the evidence. Hence the prosecution case cannot be doubted or suspected merely that the witnesses are related to the deceased or on account of some minor variation or aberration in their testimony. The utterances have consistently and umpteen times been repeated by the witnesses who had narrated and unfolded the incident in a very natural and articulate manner. The overt act of the accused appellants at the relevant moment is fully established and is unimpeachable beyond a shadow of doubt consistent with the hypothesis of the guilt that within all human probability the act has been done by the accused appellants. The foul play of destroying the evidence by putting the corpse of the deceased on fire in the field of Sahab Singh after dragging him from his baithak and was decimated on account of bitterness. The manner has portrayed very inhuman and gruesome state of mind of the accused appellants. In the course of cross examination, the defence side has tried to evolve a story of false implication in order to overshadow the testimony of the eye witnesses. It cannot be doubted that the eye witnesses had not seen the accused appellant who had perpetuated the crime in a very relentless and devilish manner. The delay if any, in lodging the first information report will not falsify the entire prosecution version. The trial court has appreciated the evidence in the right perspective. We find from the record that the statement of the prosecution witnesses cannot be said to be untrustworthy simply on the basis that some of the facts deposed for the first time before the Court.

131. From the perusal of the entire record it clearly shows that the murder of Ram Sahay had taken place on 18.5.1985 at about 4.30 P.M. and the FIR was lodged on the same day at 6.50 P.M. The criminal law was set in motion and the police started investigating on 19.5.1985. The investigating officer raided the houses of Nawab Singh, Atar Singh and Sughar Singh (sons of Pyarey Lal), Mansha Ram, Phulwari, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj in the presence of Sahab Singh and Soney Lal, but they were not found at their houses nor any weapon was recovered. However, the memos were prepared and handed over to the wives of the accused persons which were marked as Ext. Ka-13, Ext. Ka-14, Ext. Ka-15 & Ext. Ka-16. The appellants had absconded after committing murder from their houses. Atar Singh (since deceased), Mansha Ram, Nawab Singh and Sughar Singh surrendered before the court below on 3.6.1985 while the appellants Kaptan Singh and Deshraj surrendered on 18.6.1985. This is the conduct on the part of the accused persons that they had disappeared from the scene of occurrence to some unknown place for considerable period. The charge sheet was submitted on 30.6.1985 against Atar Sing, Nawab Singh, Sughar Singh, Mansha Ram and Phulwari wherein it was mentioned that accused Kaptan Singh and Deshraj are absconding. Thereafter the process under Section 82/83 Cr.P.C. was initiated to secure the presence of the accused appellants, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj against whom ultimately charge sheet was submitted on 13.2.1986. Thus the act of absconding is relevant factor to be considered along with other evidence. Such circumstance may also leads to a proof of a guilty mind attempting to evade justice which is inconsistent with their innocence.

132. The long abscondance of the appellants who were seeking adjournment at the pre-trial stage by moving exemption application for one reason or the other on each and every date separately and jointly leads to interference about their conduct that they were of guilty mind. Though it is true that even an innocent man may feel panicky and try to evade arrest when wrongly suspected of a grave crime such is the instinct of self-preservation. Normally the courts are not inclined to attach much importance to the act of absconding, treating it as a very small and insignificant in the evidence for sustaining conviction and it can scarcely be held as a determining link in completing the chain of evidence determining guilt of the accused. But in the present case soon after lodging of the FIR all the accused persons had absconded for a long period which is quite unnatural showing their guilty conscience. Such act of absconding on the part of all the accused appellants is no doubt relevant piece of evidence to be considered along with other evidence in the present case.

133. In view of the above conspectus, unusual sympathy to the accused persons merely because of long lapse of time would do more harm than justice from the point of view of the victim and the society at large. The prolong trial like in the present case has caused gross miscarriage of justice as delay defeats justice. We are shocked that the trial remained pending for 24 years as it has been concluded in 2009 whereby the accused persons were convicted by the learned trial court in both the sessions trial.

134. On the basis of verbose and prolix discussions made above and after going through the lower court record, we are of the considered opinion that findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial court are well substantiated by the evidence available on record. Therefore, the conviction recorded by the trial Court against the accused appellants, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj under Section 302/34,148 I.P.C. is hereby maintained and affirmed.

135. The appeals are devoid of merit and are accordingly dismissed.

136. The appellants, namely, Kaptan Singh and Deshraj are on bail. Their personal and surety bonds are hereby cancelled and they are directed to surrender before the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned immediately to serve out the sentence imposed upon them by the trial court and affirmed by us. In case they fail to surrender, the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned is directed to take appropriate action against them in this regard.

137. Let a copy of this judgment and order along with original record be transmitted to the learned trial court for information and compliance.

138. Judgment certified and be placed on record.

3. As per prosecution case, Kiran Devi W/o of Ratan Kumar and sister-in-law of deceased Prem Narayan was having affair with the accused Gulli and the said relation was not liked by the deceased and he had shown his anger. Accused Gulli felt insulted because of this objection and on 18.03.2003, when PW-4 Durjan was returning to his house, at about 10.00 p.m, he was apprehended by the accused persons and was also subjected to abusive language. Seeing this, one Siya Sharan (not examined) informed PW-1 Surendra and PW-3 Prem Narayan about the said incident and it is said that Prem Narayan alongwith his wife Laxmi had gone to save his father. When Prem Narayan reached to the place of occurrence, he saw accused persons quarreling with his father. Prem Narayan intervened in the matter and it is said that accused Gulli caused axe injuries to him. Further case of the prosecution is that when PW-4 Durjan and PW-5 Laxmi also intervened in the matter, they were beaten by other accused persons by club and axe. According to prosecution case, number of villagers gathered there and saw the occurrence. On account of beating given to Prem Narayan by accused Gulli, he died at the spot itself.

4. On the basis of written report, Ex.Ka.1, lodged by PW-1 Surendra on 19.03.2003, FIR, Ex.Ka.16, was registered against all the four accused persons, under Sections 302, 324, 323, 504 and 506 of IPC.

5. Inquest on the dead body was conducted on 19.03.2003, vide Ex.Ka.2, and the body was sent for Postmortem, which was conducted on the same day vide Ex.Ka.6 by PW-6 Dr. Maniram. Autopsy Surgeon has noticed following four injuries on the body of the deceased: -

Injuries on Durjan (PW-4):

7. The trial Judge has framed charge against all the accused-persons under Sections 504, 506(2), 323/34, 324, 325, 302/34 of IPC.

8. So as to hold accused persons guilty, the prosecution has examined nine witnesses. Statements of accused persons were also recorded under Section 313 of Cr.P.C in which, they pleaded their innocence and false implication.

9. By the impugned judgment, the trial Judge has convicted and sentenced the appellants as mentioned in para 1 of this judgment. Hence this appeal.

10. Sri Pradeep Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 6361 of 2008 submits:-

(i) that the act of accused appellant Gulli would not fall within the definition of murder and it would be culpable homicide not amounting to murder. He submits that quarrel was going on between Durjan and the accused persons and when deceased Prem Narayan reached to the place of occurrence, he seems to have been subjected to injuries unfortunately, resulting his death.

(ii) that the offence has been committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and, therefore, it would fall under Section 304 part-I of IPC.

(iii) that accused appellant Gulli is in jail since last 17 years and, therefore, his conviction be altered into Section 304 part-I of IPC and sentence be reduced to the period already undergone by him. It has been argued that appellant Gulli is a poor person; he is contesting this appeal through the legal aid and, therefore, he can pay very reasonable compensation to the deceased family.

11. In respect of accused-appellants, namely, Babu Lal, Khachere and Mantole in Criminal Appeal No. 950 of 2005, it has been argued by Shri Vishnu Kant Tiwari that:-

(i) the accused-appellants have not caused any injury to deceased Prem Narayan and, therefore, they cannot be convicted with the aid of Section 34 of IPC for committing the murder of the deceased.

(ii) except accused Gulli, other accused persons can, at best, be convicted under Section 325 of IPC for which, they have already remained in jail for about 4 months. It has been argued that these three appellants are also willing to pay reasonable compensation to injured Durjan.

12. On the other hand, supporting the impugned judgment and order, it has been argued by the State Counsel that the conviction of the appellants is in accordance with law. He submits that apart from accused Gulli, the other accused persons are also liable to be convicted with the aid of Section 34 of IPC and, therefore, their conviction under Section 302/34 of IPC is in accordance with law.

13. We have heard counsel for the parties and perused the record.

14. PW-1 Surendra, is a brother of the deceased and is also a son of PW-4 Durjan. He has stated that the deceased was residing at Orai, was working as a labour and at the eve of Holi, he came to his village. His sister-in- law Kiran Devi W/o Ratan Kumar was having relation with accused Gulli, which was objected by deceased Prem Narayan, as a result of which accused Gulli was not having good relation with the deceased. On the date of occurrence, when his father was returning to his village, after celebrating the Holi festival, at about 10.00 PM, near one culvert, accused persons apprehended him and started abusing him. This incident was witnessed by Siya Sharan (not examined) who immediately informed the same to him (this witness) and also to Prem Narayan. In turn, he, Prem Narayan and Laxmi had gone to the place of occurrence and there, they saw the accused persons carrying weapons with them and were quarreling with Durjan. When deceased Prem Narayan intervened in the matter, accused Gulli caused axe injury on his head and likewise, he also caused injury to PW-5 Laxmi and to Durjan. He states that hearing his cries, other villagers also gathered their and then the accused persons fled away from the spot. He states that deceased succumbed to his injuries at the place of occurrence itself. In his cross-examination but for minor contradiction, this witness remained firm and has reiterated as to the manner in which Prem Narayan was done to death by accused Gulli and Durjan and Smt. Laxmi were subjected to injuries.

15. PW-2 Hari Babu is a witness of inquest.

16. PW-4 Durjan is a father of the deceased Prem Narayan and PW-1 Surendra. He has stated that accused Gulli was having relation with his daughter-in-law Kiran, which was not liked by the deceased who had asked all the family members not to allow appellant Gulli to sit with the family members and on account of this, accused Gulli was not having good relation with the deceased. At the eve of Holi, when he was returning to his village, at about 10.00 p.m. he was apprehended by the accused persons and at that time, accused Gulli was having axe, whereas other accused persons were having club with them. He was being abused by the accused persons and while the quarrel was going on, deceased Prem Narayan, PW-1 Surendra and PW-5 Smt. Laxmi (PW-5) reached to the place of occurrence and then accused appellant Gulli gave a blow of axe on the head of the deceased, resulting his death, whereas he (Durjan) and PW-5 Laxmi were also beaten by them.

17. PW-5 Smt. Laxmi, is the wife of the deceased, has made almost similar statement as has been made by PW-4 Durjan and PW-1 Surendra. She too has stated that her sister-in law (Jethani) - Kiran was having relation with appellant Gulli and her husband came to know about the same who raised his objection. On the date of occurrence, accused persons apprehended her father-in law and when she along with the deceased and PW-1 Surendra had gone to intervene in the matter, her husband was done to death by accused appellant Gulli, who caused injures on the head of the deceased. She states that she was also beaten by Gulli, whereas her father-in-law PW-4 Durjan was beaten by other accused persons.

18. PW-6 Dr. Maniram, medically examined PW-4 Durjan, vide Ex.Ka.4, and noticed four injuries on his body. He further examined PW-5 Laxmi, vide Ex.Ka.5, and noticed two injuries, including a fracture of a metacarpal and damage to tandom. He also did postmortem of the deceased, vide Ex.Ka.6, and noticed four injuries.

19. PW-7 Dr. T.D. Gupta did X-Ray of PW-5 Smt. Laxmi, vide Ex.Ka.7, and PW-4 Durjan, vide Ex.Ka.8. He noticed fracture of forth and fifth metacarpal of right arm of Durjan.

20. PW-8 Jai Narain Verma, is the Investigating Officer, has duly supported the prosecution case. PW-9 Jagat Pal Singh assisted during investigation.

21. Close scrutiny of the evidence makes it clear that on 18.03.2003 when PW-4 Durjan was returning to his village, on the way at about 10.00 p.m., he was apprehended by the accused persons. There was exchange of words between them and information of this quarrel was given to deceased Prem Narayan, PW-1 Surendra and PW-5 Smt. Laxmi who immediately reached to the place of occurrence and while they were trying to intervene in the matter, they were also assaulted by the accused persons. As per evidence, it is the accused appellant Gulli who caused axe injuries on the head of the deceased, resulting his death. There is no evidence that except accused Gulli any other accused persons caused injuries to deceased Prem Narayan. Evidence also reflects that accused Babu Lal, Kachere @ Ashok, Mantole @ Santosh caused injuries to PW-4 Durjan, whereas injury to PW-5 Smt. Laxmi was caused by Gulli.

22. Considering all these aspects of the case, complicity of the accused persons in commission of the offence has been duly proved by the prosecution. If the evidence is viewed minutely, it is apparent that the deceased was done to death by Gulli and as the basic ingredients of Section 34 are missing, it is only Gulli who is liable to be convicted under Section 302 of IPC, whereas rest of the accused persons namely Babu Lal, Khachere @ Ashok, Mantole @ Santosh are not liable to be convicted under Section 302/34 of IPC or under Section 304 Part I or Part II of IPC. Their conviction under Section 302/34 of IPC for committing the murder of the deceased is accordingly set aside.

23. The next question, which arises for consideration of this Court is as to whether the act of accused-appellant Gulli would fall within the definition of 'murder' or it would be 'culpable homicide not amounting to murder'. Before proceeding further, it is relevant to refer to the provisions of Section 300 of IPC, which read as under:-

"300. Murder. - Except in the cases hereinafter excepted, culpable homicide is murder, if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or-

Secondly. - If it is done with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused, or -

Thirdly. - If it is done with the intention of causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, or -

Fourthly. - If the person committing the act knows that it is so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as aforesaid.

Exception 1. - When culpable homicide is not murder. - Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, whilst deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation, causes the death of the person who gave the provocation or causes the death of any other person by mistake or accident.

The above Exception is subject to the following provisos:-

First. - That the provocation is not sought or voluntarily provoked by the offender as an excuse for killing or doing harm to any person.

Secondly. - That the provocation is not given by anything done in obedience to the law, or by a public servant in the lawful exercise of the powers of such public servant.

Thirdly. - That the provocation is not given by anything done in the lawful exercise of the right of private defence.

Explanation. - Whether the provocation was grave and sudden enough to prevent the offence from amounting to murder is a question of fact.

Exception 2. - Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, in the exercise in good faith of the right of private defence of person or property, exceeds the power given to him by law and causes the death of the person against whom he is exercising such right of defence without premeditation, and without any intention of doing more harm than is necessary for the purpose of such defence.

Exception 3. - Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, being a public servant or aiding a public servant acting for the advancement of public justice, exceeds the powers given to him by law, and causes death by doing an act which he, in good faith, believes to be lawful and necessary for the due discharge of his duty as such public servant and without ill-will towards the person whose death is caused.

Exception 4. - Culpable homicide is not murder if it is committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and without the offender having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner.

Explanation. - It is immaterial in such cases which party offers the provocation or commits the first assault.

Exception 5. - Culpable homicide is not murder when the person whose death is caused, being above the age of eighteen years, suffers death or takes the risk of death with his own consent."

24. Exception 4 to Section 300 of the IPC applies in the absence of any premeditation. This is very clear from the wordings of the Exception itself. The exception contemplates that the sudden fight shall start upon the heat of passion on a sudden quarrel. The fourth exception to Section 300 IPC covers acts done in a sudden fight. The said Exception deals with a case of provocation not covered by the first exception, after which its place would have been more appropriate. The Exception is founded upon the same principle, for in both there is absence of premeditation. But, while in the case of Exception 1 there is total deprivation of self-control, in case of Exception 4, there is only that heat of passion which clouds men's sober reason and urges them to deeds which they would not otherwise do. There is provocation in Exception 4 as in Exception 1, but the injury done is not the direct consequence of that provocation. In fact, Exception 4 deals with cases in which notwithstanding that a blow may have been struck, or some provocation given in the origin of the dispute or in whatever way the quarrel may have originated, yet the subsequent conduct of both parties puts them in respect of guilt upon an equal footing. A "sudden fight" implies mutual provocation and blows on each side. The homicide committed is then clearly not traceable to unilateral provocation, nor could in such cases the whole blame be placed on one side. For if it were so, the Exception more appropriately applicable would be Exception 1. There is no previous deliberation or determination to fight. A fight suddenly takes place, for which both parties are more or less to be blamed. It may be that one of them starts it, but if the other had not aggravated it by his own conduct it would not have taken the serious turn it did. There is then mutual provocation and aggravation, and it is difficult to apportion the share of blame which attaches to each fighter. The help of Exception 4 can be invoked if death is caused (a) without premeditation, (b) in a sudden fight, (c) without the offenders having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner, and (d) the fight must have been with the person killed. To bring a case within Exception 4 all the ingredients mentioned in it must be found. It is to be noted that the "fight" occurring in Exception 4 to Section 300 IPC is not defined in IPC. It takes two persons to make a fight. Heat of passion requires that there must be no time for the passions to cool down and in this case, the parties had worked themselves into a fury on account of the verbal altercation in the beginning. A fight is a combat between two and more persons whether with or without weapons. It is not possible to enunciate any general rule as to what shall be deemed to be a sudden quarrel. It is a question of fact and whether a quarrel is sudden or not must necessarily depend upon the proved facts of each case. For the application of Exception 4, it is not sufficient to show that there was a sudden quarrel and there was no premeditation. It must further be shown that the offender has not taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner. The expression "undue advantage" as used in the provision means "unfair advantage".

25. Considering all these aspects of the case, we are of the view that the offence has been committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon sudden quarrel and the offender has not taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner.

26. The Apex Court in State of A.P. vs. Rayavarapu Punnayya and Another1 while drawing a distinction between Section 302 and Section 304 of IPC held as under:

"12. In the scheme of the Penal Code, "culpable homicide" is genus and "murder" its specie. All "murder" is "culpable homicide" but not vice-versa. Speaking generally, "culpable homicide" sans "special characteristics of murder", is "culpable homicide not amounting to murder". For the purpose of fixing punishment, proportionate to the gravity of this generic offence, the Code practically recognises three degrees of culpable homicide. The first is, what may be called, "culpable homicide of the first degree". This is the greatest form of culpable homicide, which is defined in Section 300 as "murder". The second may be termed as "culpable homicide of the second degree". This is punishable under the first part of Section 304. Then, there is "culpable homicide of the third degree". This is the lowest type of culpable homicide and the punishment provided for it is, also, the lowest among the punishments provided for the three grades. Culpable homicide of this degree is punishable under the second part of Section 304.

21. From the above conspectus, it emerges that whenever a court is confronted with the question whether the offence is "murder" or "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", on the facts of a case, it will be convenient for it to approach the problem in three stages. The question to be considered at the first stage would be, whether the accused has done an act by doing which he has caused the death of another. Proof of such causal connection between the act of the accused and the death, leads to the second stage for considering whether that act of the accused amounts to "culpable homicide" as defined in Section 299. If the answer to this question is prima facie found in the affirmative, the stage for considering the operation of Section 300 of the Penal Code, is reached. This is the stage at which the court should determine whether the facts proved by the prosecution bring the case within the ambit of any of the four clauses of the definition of "murder" contained in Section 300. If the answer to this question is in the negative the offence would be "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under the first or the second part of Section 304, depending, respectively, on whether the second or the third clause of Section 299 is applicable. If this question is found in the positive, but the case comes within any of the exceptions enumerated in Section 300, the offence would still be "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under the first part of Section 304, of the Penal Code."

27. In Budhi Singh vs. State of Himachal Pradesh2, the Supreme Court held as under:

"18. The doctrine of sudden and grave provocation is incapable of rigid construction leading to or stating any principle of universal application. This will always have to depend on the facts of a given case. While applying this principle, the primary obligation of the court is to examine from the point of view of a person of reasonable prudence if there was such grave and sudden provocation so as to reasonably conclude that it was possible to commit the offence of culpable homicide, and as per the facts, was not a culpable homicide amounting to murder. An offence resulting from grave and sudden provocation would normally mean that a person placed in such circumstances could lose self-control but only temporarily and that too, in proximity to the time of provocation. The provocation could be an act or series of acts done by the deceased to the accused resulting in inflicting of injury.

19. Another test that is applied more often than not is that the behaviour of the assailant was that of a reasonable person. A fine distinction has to be kept in mind between sudden and grave provocation resulting in sudden and temporary loss of self-control and the one which inspires an actual intention to kill. Such act should have been done during the continuation of the state of mind and the time for such person to kill and reasons to regain the dominion over the mind. Once there is premeditated act with the intention to kill, it will obviously fall beyond the scope of culpable homicide not amounting to murder....."

28. In Kikar Singh vs. State of Rajasthan3 the Apex Court held as under:

"8. The counsel attempted to bring the case within Exception 4. For its application all the conditions enumerated therein must be satisfied. The act must be committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion; (2) upon a sudden quarrel; (3) without the offender's having taken undue advantage; (4) and the accused had not acted in a cruel or unusual manner. Therefore, there must be a mutual combat or exchanging blows on each other. And however slight the first blow, or provocation, every fresh blow becomes a fresh provocation. The blood is already heated or warms up at every subsequent stroke. The voice of reason is heard on neither side in the heat of passion. Therefore, it is difficult to apportion between them respective degrees of blame with reference to the state of things at the commencement of the fray but it must occur as a consequence of a sudden fight i.e. mutual combat and not one side track. It matters not what the cause of the quarrel is, whether real or imaginary, or who draws or strikes first. The strike of the blow must be without any intention to kill or seriously injure the other. If two men start fighting and one of them is unarmed while the other uses a deadly weapon, the one who uses such weapon must be held to have taken an undue advantage denying him the entitlement to Exception 4. True the number of wounds is not the criterion, but the position of the accused and the deceased with regard to their arms used, the manner of combat must be kept in mind when applying Exception 4. When the deceased was not armed but the accused was and caused injuries to the deceased with fatal results, the Exception 4 engrafted to Section 300 is excepted and the offences committed would be one of murder.

9. The occasion for sudden quarrel must not only be sudden but the party assaulted must be on an equal footing in point of defence, at least at the onset. This is specially so where the attack is made with dangerous weapons. Where the deceased was unarmed and did not cause any injury to the accused even following a sudden quarrel if the accused has inflicted fatal blows on the deceased, Exception 4 is not attracted and commission must be one of murder punishable under Section 302. Equally for attracting Exception 4 it is necessary that blows should be exchanged even if they do not all find their target. Even if the fight is unpremeditated and sudden, yet if the instrument or manner of retaliation be greatly disproportionate to the offence given, and cruel and dangerous in its nature, the accused cannot be protected under Exception 4...."

29. All the above three cases were considered by the Apex Court in Surain

Singh v The State of Punjab4 and ultimately, it has been held by the Apex Court in that particular case, that the accused was liable to be convicted under Section 304 Part II of IPC and not under Section 302 of IPC.

30. In view of above, according to us, case of appellant Gulli would thus fall under Exception 4 of Section 300 of IPC and it can be safely held that the appellant is liable to be convicted for committing 'culpable homicide not amounting to murder'.

31. Now the question is whether appellant Gulli is liable to be convicted under Section 304 Part I or Part II of IPC. Considering the nature of injuries caused by him to the deceased, the weapon and the portion of body of the deceased, we are of the view that the appellant is liable to be convicted under Section 304 Part I of IPC and not under Section 304 Part II of IPC, whereas other accused persons, namely, Babu Lal, Khachere @ Ashok, Mantole @ Santosh are liable to be convicted under Section 323, 325 and 324/24 of IPC.

32. So far as the sentence part is concerned, accused-appellant Gulli @ Nand Kishore, has remained in jail for about 17 years. According to us, ends of justice would be served, if his sentence is reduced to the period already undergone by him under Section 304 Part-I of IPC. Order accordingly. He is reported to be in jail, he be set free forth, if not required in any other case.

So far as the sentence of other accused persons, namely, Babu Lal, Khachere @ Ashok, Mantole @ Santosh is concerned, they have remained in jail for about 4 months, the incident occurred on 18.03.2003, they are reported to be on bail since long and, therefore, their sentence is also reduced to the period already undergone by them. They need not surrender, and their bails bonds are discharged.

33. However, looking to the provisions of Section 357 of Cr.P.C. and judgment of the Apex Court in Ankush Shivaji Gaikwad v State of Maharashtra5, we are of the view that accused-appellant Gulli @ Nand Kishore is liable to compensate PW-5 Smt. Laxmi by paying a total compensation of Rs. 15,000/- (Fifteen Thousands). Likewise, other accused persons, namely, Babu Lal, Khachere @ Ashok, Mantole @ Santosh are liable to compensate PW-4 Durjan and PW-5 Smt. Laxmi by paying a total compensation of Rs. 12,000/- to them i.e. Rs.6,000/- to PW-4 Dujan and Rs.6,000/- to PW-5 Smt. Laxmi.

Accordingly, accused-appellant Gulli @ Nand Kishore is directed to deposit Rs. 15,000/- within a period of three months after being released from jail before the trial court and, in turn, the trial court shall disburse the said amount to PW-5 Smt. Laxmi. Accused-appellants Babu Lal, Khachere @ Ashok, Mantole @ Santosh are directed to deposit Rs.4,000/- each before the trial court within three months from today. Out of the total amount to be deposited by accused-appellants Babu Lal, Khachere @ Ashok, Mantole @ Santosh, the trial court shall reimburse Rs.6,000/- to PW-4 Durjan and Rs. 6,000/- to PW-5 Smt. Laxmi.

In case the appellants fail to deposit compensation within stipulated time, the court below shall proceed against them in the light of judgment of the Apex Court reported in Kumaran Vs State of Kerala and another (2017) 7 SCC 471.

34. The appeal is partly allowed.

35. We appreciate the assistance rendered by Shri Pradeep Mishra, Amicus and direct the State Government to pay Rs.7,000/- to him as his remuneration.

A. Civil Law- Civil Procedure Code – Section 92 – Public trust or Private trust – Method to determine nature of trust – Intention of Testator – Essence of a public or private trust is to be derived and ascertained from the expression of any trust deed or on the basis of any constructive criteria which may be relevant for the purpose. (Para 8)

Held- 18. Analysing the present case in the light of principles embodied in the apex court judgment, it is found that the trust deed succinctly provides that the endowments stand dedicated for maintenance of temple and shall vest in the deity. The management of the dedicated properties circumscribed amongst the family descendants of the founder trustee is yet another significant dimension which leans towards the nature of trust being a private Hindu Religious Endowment Trust.

B. Constitution of India – Article 25 – Freedom of religion – In our life we are governed by constitutional morality but there is freedom of religion too within the scope of Article 25 of the Constitution of India, therefore, this freedom is equally significant and personal – It is within the scope of this personal right that the Religious Endowments Act still has its application to subserve the will of an individual within our constitutional framework . 4. Kuldip Chand & anr. Vs. Advocate General to Government of H.P. & ors., (2003) 5 SCC 46

(Delivered by Hon'ble Attau Rahman Masoodi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Atul Kumar Dwivedi, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Brijesh Kumar Saxena, assisted by Sri Avtar Singh, learned counsel for respondents no. 1 and 2.

2. Permission for marking respondents no. 3 and 5 as "dead' was granted on the pointing out of a defect in the appeal due to their death while pendency of the suit.

3. The instant First Appeal From Order under Section 104 of Code of Civil Procedure (CPC) has arisen out of a judgement/order dated 16.1.2020 passed in Misc. Case No. 350/2013 instituted under Section 92 CPC seeking leave to initiate a suit proceeding for protection of the properties stated to belong to a public trust and maintaining accounts thereof.

4. After filing of the misc. case, parties appear to have exchanged objections and counter objections. The counter objections which were not filed alongwith the appeal were also placed before this Court during the course of arguments.

5. The court below by means of the impugned judgement/order has refused to grant leave observing that the Mandir Shri Mahabir Ji Trust, Bajranj Nagar, Gosainganj, Lucknow is not a religious public trust hence the prayer was turned down.

6. The point that crops up for consideration before this Court is as to whether the court below has rightly rejected the application filed by the appellants observing that the trust in question is not a public trust within the meaning of Section 92 of CPC and; as to whether the finding so recorded suffers from any illegality.

7. In our life we are governed by constitutional morality but there is freedom of religion too within the scope of Article 25 of the Constitution of India, therefore, this freedom is equally significant and personal. It is within the scope of this personal right that the Religious Endowments Act still has its application to subserve the will of an individual within our constitutional framework.

8. It is well settled that the essence of a public or private trust is to be derived and ascertained from the expression of any trust deed or on the basis of any constructive criteria which may be relevant for the purpose. In the present case, there does not appear to be much difficulty for the reason that the trust in question was established on the basis of a deed duly registered on 16.10.1973.

9. The issue as to whether Religious Endowment Trust is a public or private trust is essentially a question of facts and law both, but as stated above, the controversy in the present case hinges on the construction of registered trust deed.

10. The appellants have taken this Court through the contents of the trust deed in reply to which the respondents have also referred to the same by pointing out an empirical consideration thereof.

11. This Court has carefully noted the submissions put forth by learned counsel for the appellants to the effect that the trust deed does not exclude the worship by the public at large and the endowments mentioned in the trust deed being utilized for various public purposes thus, would lead to one and the only inference that the trust in question is a public trust. The details of income derived through properties was pointed out which is stated to have been aligned with the objects set out in the rules of governance that were registered by the successor-Manager after the death of the founder of the trust.

12. It is in the light of these objects that the appellants have heavily stressed to construe the nature of the trust as public.

13. Learned counsel for the appellants has further argued that the court below somehow has failed to consider the judgement rendered by the apex court reported in AIR 1957 SC 133 (Deoki Nandan v. Murlidhar and others) alongwith the judgement reported in (2003) 11 SCC 772 (I) (Mulla Gulam Ali & Safiabai D. Trust v. Deelip Kumar & Co.), which clearly indicate that once the beneficiaries are public, the religious trust must be construed as "Public'.

14. Per contra, Sri Brijesh Kumar Saxena, learned counsel for the respondents drawing attention of this Court to the trust deed has specifically pointed out the purpose of the trust within the meaning of sentences which for ready reference may be extracted hereunder:

"मिनमुकिर ने श्री महाबीर जी महराज का मन्दिर वाकै बजरंग नगर गोसाईगंज मजकूर बनवा कर उसमे श्री महाबीर जी महराज की स्थापना कराई है और समय समय पर श्री महाबीर जी के लिए जायदादे भी खरीदी है और इस मन्दिर व जायदाद के प्रबन्ध के लिए श्री महाबीर जी के हक मे एनडाउमेन्ट endownment कर दिया है जिसके कि इस समय मिनमुकिर मैनेजर ट्रस्टी है और इसके अलावा श्री गणेश प्रसाद पुत्र मिनमुकिर पं0 चन्द्रभूषण शास्त्री पुत्र श्री बल्देव प्रसाद जी व श्री विद्याधर त्रिपाठी पुत्र श्री चन्द्रभूषण शास्त्री व श्री लछिमन प्रसाद पुत्र श्री बल्देव प्रसाद कुर्मी निवासी गोसाईगंज मजकूर ट्रस्टी हैं और मनमुकिर ने यह व्यवस्था की है कि अपने जीवन भर वह मैनेजर रहेगा और उसके बाद उसके खानदान में से जिसको वह नामजद कर देगा वह मैनेजर होगा और इसी प्रकार हर मैनेजर को अधिकार होगा कि वह अपने बाद के लिए जहॉ तक हो सके मेरे ही खानदानियों में से किसी को नामजद कर देवे और अगर वह किसी कारण नामजद न कर सके तो उस समय जितने ट्रस्टी हो वह जहॉ तक हो सके मेरे खानदानियों में से किसी को जो उसकी राय में मैनेजरी की काबिलियत रखता हो कसरत राय से चुन लेवे यदि मेरी राय में कोई ट्रस्टी ठीक प्रकार से काम न करें तो मुझे अधिकार है कि उसको हटा दूॅ और यदि ऊपर लिखे चार ट्रस्टियों में से किसी का स्थान किसी भी कारण से खाली हो जावे तो उस कि जगह पर मुझको या इसी प्रकार जो कोई भी मैनेजर हो उसको अधिकार होगा कि जिस किसी को इस कार्य के योग्य समझे नियुक्त कर देवे इस प्रकार इस मन्दिर का सुचारू रूप से काम चल रहा है अब मेरी इच्छा है कि अपनी ऊपर लिखी जायदाद श्री महाबीर जी महराज विराजमान मन्दिर वाकै बजरंग नगर को समर्पित करके इसी ऊपर लिखे एनडाउमेन्ट मदकवूउमदज में शामिल कर दूॅ अतः मैने अपनी ऊपर लिखे जायदाद श्री महाबीर जी महराज को समर्पित कर दी और अब श्री महाबीर जी महाराज के सारे अख्त्यारात मालिकाना व भूमिधरी जो मुझको थे वह उनको प्राप्त हो गये और इस जायदाद का दाखिल खारिज मै श्री महाबीर जी के नाम नियमानुसार करा दूॅगा अब मुझको या मेरे वारिसान या कायम मुकामान को कोई अख्त्यार इस जायदाद मे बाकी नही रह गया और इसकी पाबन्दी सब पर लाजिम व आयद होगी और अगर कोई शख्स इसके खिलाफ कोई दावा या उज्र करे तो वह काबिल सुनवाई न होगा।'

15. Pointing out the essence of the trust being private, it is submitted that once the trust deed itself mentions the use of endowments to be utilized in the maintenance of temple, the intention of the testator is doubtlessly clear. It is submitted that not only the construction of Mahabirji temple was made by the founder trustee out of his own means and property but for future maintenance /management of the same, endowments were dedicated to the deity the management whereof was entrusted to his own family members. Thus, the future maintenance of the temple as per the trust deed stood secured through the means of dedicated property which also belonged to the founder trustee.

16. Having pointed out these two aspects of the trust deed very clearly, it is submitted that the judgement placed reliance upon by the court below, in fact, proceeds on a clear understanding of the apex court judgement reported in (1981) 2 SCC 226 (Sri Radhakanta Deb v. Commissioner of Hindu Religious Endowments) as followed in the case reported in (2003) 5 SCC 46 (Kuldip Chand and another Vs. Advocate General to Government of H.P. and others). The appeal is thus prayed to be dismissed.

17. Learned counsel for the appellant has ably argued the matter, however, he was unable to dispute the purpose and management of the endowments for the maintenance of Mahabirji temple. The trust deed has placed a blanket ban on the alienation of trust property for the same having been vested in the deity. The trust deed clearly makes out that the intention of the founder trustee was to constitute a Hindu Religious Endowment for a specific purpose of which the management was circumscribed in the descendants of the founder. It may be useful to extract para-14 of the judgement reported in (1981) 2 SCC 226 (supra) as under:-

"14. Thus, on a conspectus of the authorities mentioned above, the following tests may be laid down as providing sufficient guidelines to determine on the facts of each case whether an endowment is of a private or of a public nature:

(1) Where the origin of the endowment cannot be ascertained, the question whether the user of the temple by members of the public is as of right;

(2) The fact that the control and management vests either in a large body of persons or in the members of the public and the founder does not retain any control over the management. Allied to this may be a circumstance where the evidence shows that there is provision for a scheme to be framed by associating the members of the public at large;

(3) Where, however, a document is available to prove the nature and origin of the endowment and the recitals of the document show that the control and management of the temple is retained with the founder or his descendants, and that extensive properties are dedicated for the purpose of the maintenance of the temple belonging to the founder himself, this will be a conclusive proof to show that the endowment was of a private nature;

(4) Where the evidence shows that the founder of the endowment did not make any stipulation for offerings or contributions to be made by members of the public to the temple, this would be an important intrinsic circumstance to indicate the private nature of the endowment."

18. Analysing the present case in the light of principles embodied in the apex court judgment, it is found that the trust deed succinctly provides that the endowments stand dedicated for maintenance of temple and shall vest in the deity. The management of the dedicated properties circumscribed amongst the family descendants of the founder trustee is yet another significant dimension which leans towards the nature of trust being a private Hindu Religious Endowment Trust.

19. This Court may also note that by virtue of Section 92(2) CPC, for any trust which falls within the trappings of Religious Endowments Act, 1863, no relief specified in Section 92(1) CPC would lie through a suit under the said Rule.

20. Lastly learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the public worship and the dedicated properties being utilised for public purpose in terms of the registered rules of administration have altered the status of the trust to be public, hence the impugned order passed by the Court below is in gross violation of law.

21. The submissions made are attractive but unconvincing. The rules registered subsequently cannot eclipse the intention of trust deed but are rather a guidance for management evolved subsequently. This Court may note that the dedicated properties are a means to preserve the religious heritage which is inclusive of deity worship of Lord Hanuman unlike in Islam, Christianity or Judaism. A temple constructed for worship by all without there being any intention of receiving offerings from worshipers to maintain the same is strongly a circumstance that supports the case of the respondents. Therefore, this Court is of the considered opinion that the trust deed under consideration essentially constitutes a private Religious Endowment Trust, hence the impugned judgment/order passed by the court below refusing to grant leave under Section-92 CPC for want of elaborate discussion does not suffer from any illegality in the eyes of law.

22. The appeal is accordingly dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel Sri Gyanendra Srivastava, Sri Shobhit Mohan Shukla for respondent nos.2 and 3, Sri Vikas Singh for respondent no.4.

2. In the present writ petition, the following main reliefs have been sought:-

"(A) A writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the opposite parties to treat the petitioner having been approved by the District Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Sitapur and to allow him all benefits arising out of appointment on the post of Clerk including payment of salary etc.

(B) A writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the Accounts Officer of District Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Sitapur to pass salary bill in respect of the petitioner without any objection treating the petitioner to have been duly approved by the District Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Sitapur.

(B)(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the order dated 21.11.1998 passed by the opposite party no.2, B.S.A., Sitapur which is annexed as CA-1 with the counter affidavit."

3. After filing of the counter affidavit by the opposite party no.2, the order dated 21.11.1998 has been challenged by amending the writ petition.

4. By the order dated 21.11.1998, under issue, the respondent no.2 District Basic Education Officer, Sitapur, (hereinafter referred to as "BSA"), cancelled the selection process/interview wherein the petitioner was selected for the post of Clerk, the effect of which is that the BSA disapproved the appointment of the petitioner made by respondent no.4-Manager, Sri Dharwal Devi Vidya Mandir, Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Dharauli, District Sitapur, (in short "Institution") on the post of "Clerk". The main ground for cancellation of selection process/interview and disapproving the proposal of appointment of the petitioner made by the Institution on the post of Clerk is that the '"Type Test", as required under Rule 4 of the Rules of 1984 namely the U.P. Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High School) (Recruitment and Condition of Service of Ministerial Staff and Group 'D' Employees) Rules, 1984, was not held during the selection process.

5. Brief facts of the case are to the effect that the respondent no.4 sent the relevant documents vide letter dated 15.06.1998 to the respondent no.2-BSA. It was with regard to seeking permission to fill up the vacancy of Clerk, which came into existence on account of death of one Sri Mahesh Prasad, who was working on the post of Clerk in the Institution. Thereafter, vide letter dated 24.08.1998, BSA accorded the permission and in furtherance thereof, an advertisement dated 24.09.1998 was published in daily newspaper "Dainik Jagran" for making recruitment on the post of Clerk in the Institution. Pursuant to the the advertisement dated 24.09.1998, petitioner along with other candidates applied for the post in issue i.e. Clerk. The selection was held on 25.10.1998 by the duly constituted Selection Committee comprising of Manager, Principal and nominee of BSA. The petitioner was selected in the selection process and thereafter relevant documents including the select list was sent for approval of BSA vide letter of respondent no.4 dated 28.10.1999.

6. Thereafter, in absence of any response from the BSA on the select list within one month, the Committee of Management of the Institution approved recommendation of Selection Committee and appointment order dated 29.11.1998 was issued by the respondent and pursuant to the same the petitioner joined on the post of Clerk on 03.12.1998.

7. After considering the relevant documents, respondent no.2-BSA cancelled the selection process/interview held for selecting the candidate for the vacant post of Clerk in the Institution, the effect of which is that the BSA disapproved the appointment of the petitioner and the decision was duly communicated to the respondent no.4 vide letter dated 21.11.1998, Annexure No.1 to the Counter Affidavit dated 05.05.1991 filed on behalf of opposite party nos. 2 and 3. The letter dated 21.11.1998, as stated by the respondent no.4, was received by respondent no.4 on 06.12.1998.

8. The appointment of the petitioner was disapproved on the ground that during selection process 'Type Test' was not held.

9. For the purposes of reliefs sought in the writ petition as also assailing the order dated 21.11.1998, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that it is unsustainable in the eye of law keeping in view the provisions of Rule 15 particularly Sub Rule 5(iii) and Rule 16 of the Rules of 1984.

10. Elaborating his arguments, the learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the Committee of Management-respondent no.4 sent the relevant documents for approval of proceedings of Selection Committee dated 25.10.1998 including the select list wherein the name of petitioner find place and he was selected Selection Committee, duly constituted, before the respondent no.2-BSA vide letter dated 28.10.1998 and on the proposal of appointment of petitioner the decision ought to have been taken by the BSA within a month from the date of receipt of the letter dated 28.10.1998, as required under Rule 15 of the Rules of of 1984, which was not taken in the said time nor any decision was communicated by BSA to respondent no.4 within the said time and in absence of any decision or communication within statutory period provided under Rule 15 of the Rules of 1984,the Committee of Management-respondent no.4, taking into consideration of provision as envisaged in Rule 15(5)(iii), issued the appointment order dated 29.11.1998 to the petitioner. Rule 15(5)(iii) provides deemed approval of recommendation made by the Selection Committee if any decision thereon is not communicated by BSA within one month from the date of receipt of paper/select list. Pursuant to the appointment order dated 29.11.1998 the petitioner joined on the post in question on 03.12.1998.

11. It is further submitted that the order dated 21.11.1998, whereby the appointment of petitioner was disapproved, was served in the office of respondent no.4-Committee of Management of college on 06.12.1998, is antedated and prior to service of order dated 21.11.1998 the appointment of the petitioner was made on the post in issue i.e. Clerk. Thus, keeping in view provisions as envisaged in Rule 15 and 16 of the Rules of 1984 and facts of the case including the fact that appointing authority of the petitioner is Management of the Institution the order dated 21.11.1998 is unsustainable.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the impugned order dated 21.11.1998 passed by the respondent no.2-BSA whereby he disapproved the appointment of petitioner and cancelled the Selection Process/Interview related to appointment of petitioner on the ground that no "Type Test" was held in the selection process is also unsustainable in view of the fact that the "Type Test" was held and thereafter the Selection Committee recommended the name of the petitioner for providing appointment on the post in issue i.e. Clerk and on the basis of recommendation of the Selection Committee as also keeping in view the provisions of Rule 15 of Rules 1984 the appointment of petitioner was made by the respondent no.4 vide appointment order dated 29.11.1998. It is also stated that the respondent no.2 has no power to cancel the appointment of the petitioner, who was appointed against Group-C post, as the appointing authority of the petitioner is Committee of Management and not the respondent no.2-BSA. In this regard, reliance has been placed on paras 26(i) to 26(v) of the amended Writ Petition as also on the order dated 21.11.1998.

13. Lastly it is stated by the learned counsel for the petitioner that prior to passing of order dated 21.11.1998 no opportunity of hearing was given to the petitioner and as such the order dated 21.11.1998, on this ground, is liable to be interfered by this Court.

14. In view of aforesaid, the prayer is to allow the writ petition and quash the impugned order dated 21.11.1998.

15. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent no.2-BSA, Sri Shobhit Mohan Shukla on the basis of counter affidavit submitted that the writ petition for the reliefs sought is liable to be dismissed. Elaborating his argument, it is stated that as per the Rule 4 of Rules 1984, which is applicable in the instant case and not disputed by learned counsel for the petitioner, the 'Type Test', which was necessary for providing appointment on the post in issue i.e. Clerk, was not held and accordingly selection process was dehors the Rules and as such is nullity and taking into account the same the Selection Process/Interview was cancelled. It is also stated that on the basis of vitiated selection process appointment given to petitioner is also nullity as it is settled proposition of Law that an appointment dehors the Rules is nullity.

"26. That the averments made in paragraphs 26(i) to 26 (iii) of the writ petition are vehemently denied. In this regard, it may be stated that vide a letter dated 28.12.1998 bearing No.3875/98-99 the Manager of the Institution was informed in reference to the letter dated 03.12.1998 that type test was not taken in utter derogation to the Rules. True copy of letter dated 28.12.1998 is being annexed herewith as Annexure No.CA-3 to this affidavit.

29. That it would not be out of place to mention here again that after the interview held on 25.10.1998 complaints were made which received in the office of the answering opposite party no.2 on 29.10.1998. The facts of the complaints were inquired into and found to be correct inasmuch as various irregularities were committed in the interview held on 25.10.1998. In these circumstances it was quite necessary to maintain the fairness and legality in the selection and appointment to cancel the unfair and irregular selection held on 25.10.1998. Accordingly the answering opposite party no.2 vide his order dated 21.11.1998 cancelled the selection dated 25.10.1998 and intimated the opposite party no.4, but the opposite party no.4 ignoring the order of the opposite party no.2 dated 21.11.1998 issued the appointment letter dated 29.11.1998 to petitioner which is absolutely illegal and invalid. The answering opposite party no.2 again vide his letter dated 28.12.1998 (Annexure CA-3) apprised the opposite party no.4 that the appointment of the petitioner on the post of Clerk made by him is invalid. But one of the orders of the opposite party no.2 were complied with.

17. On the basis of the averments made in the counter affidavit dated 19.01.2020, Sri Shobhit Mohan Shukla further submitted that in response to the counter affidavit, no rejoinder affidavit has been filed and as such in view of observation made by the Division Bench of this Court in para 5 of the judgment reported in 2004 (22) LCD 1445 (Ravindra Pratap Yadav @ Mahajan Vs. State of U.P. & Ors.) the averments made in counter affidavit to amended Writ Petition filed by respondent nos.2 and 3 are liable to be treated as correct and in view of the same the admitted position is that no "Type Test" was held, which is mandatory and accordingly neither the selection process nor the appointment of petitioner is legally sustainable. The relevant part of the judgment reads as under:-

"5. Various others allegations have been made in the writ petition but in our opinion it is not necessary for us to go into same in view of the allegations in the counter-affidavit of the Nagar Nigam, Allahabad, respondent No. 4 to which no rejoinder affidavit has been filed and hence these allegations in the counter-affidavit have to be treated as correct."

18. On the basis of the documents annexed to the rejoinder affidavit dated 27.09.1999, Sri Shobhit Mohan Shukla, learned counsel for the respondent no.2-BSA further stated that on perusal of the same it is crystal clear that the "Type Test" was not held and only interview was held and thereafter the name of petitioner was recommended for providing appointment on the post in issue i.e. Clerk.

19. It is stated that in absence of type test, which is mandatory as per Rule 4 of Rules of 1984 the recommendation for appointment of petitioner on the post in issue i.e. Clerk in the office of respondent no.4 is void ab initio and nullity and being so appointment of petitioner is also nullity and keeping in view same as well as the principle laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court and by this Court to the effect that issuance of a writ or quashing/setting aside of an order if revives another illegal order then in that eventuality the writ court should not interfere in the matter on any ground including the ground of failure to follow the principle of Natural Justice. The writ petition for relief sought is liable to be dismissed.

20. In regard to the decision taken by the respondent no.2-BSA dated 21.11.1998 Sri Shobhit Mohan Shukla submitted that the decision was taken, within time as prescribed under Rule 15 of Rules 1984 and accordingly the appointment of the petitioner is unsustainable in the eye of law and in view of the same, the petitioner is not entitled to any benefit of Rule 15(5)(iii) of the Rules 1984.

21. On the basis of the affidavits on record, the learned counsel for Committee of Management-respondent no.4, Sri Vikas Singh, stated that the petitioner was a trained "Typist" from Khanna Commercial College, Alambagh, Lucknow, U.P. which is a recognized institute, as appears from the record, and taking into account the said fact, it appears that the appointment of the petitioner was made by the respondent no.4.

22. On query made to the learned counsel for the respondent no.4, Sri Vikas Singh, specifically on the issue of "Type Test", it has been stated that it appears that "Type Test" was not held and all the candidates who were before the Selection Committee participated in the selection process and they were interviewed and thereafter the select list was prepared. It is further stated that in the short counter affidavit dated 22.09.1999 as also in the detailed counter affidavit dated 19.12.2010 filed by the Committee of Management-respondent no.4 it has not been specifically stated that the "Type Test" was held.

23. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

24. Admitted facts of the present case, as appears from the pleadings and documents on record, are to the effect that the selection process was initiated for making recruitment/ appointment on the post of Clerk, which fell vacant on account of death of incumbent of the post, on 24.09.1998 (the date of advertisement). The advertisement was published after due permission of BSA vide letter dated 24.08.1998. The advertisement was published in daily newspaper "Dainik Jagran". In response to the advertisement 26 candidates applied for one post of Clerk in the Institution and 17 appeared in the Selection Process. The duly constituted Selection Committee considered the candidature of 17 candidates and being found suitable, the name of the petitioner was recommended by the Selection Committee for providing appointment on the post in issue i.e. Clerk.

25. The relevant records for the purposes of giving approval to the recommendation of Selection Committee and providing appointment to the petitioner was sent by the respondent no.4 vide letter dated 28.10.1998. The letter dated 28.10.1998 sent by Committee of Management-respondent no.4 was duly replied by respondent no.2-BSA vide letter dated 21.11.1998. Vide letter dated 21.11.1998 the selection process which includes recommendation of Selection Committee for providing appointment to the petitioner on the post of Clerk was cancelled on the ground to the effect that the "Type Test" was not held during selection process.

26. On the issue of "Type Test" in the Writ Petition it has not been stated that "Type Test" was held on 25.10.1998, the date on which selection was held. It appears further from the contents of the para 7 of the short counter affidavit filed by respondent no.4-Committee of Management dated 22.09.1999, which on reproduction reads as under, that no "Type Test" was held for the purpose of appointment on the post in issue i.e. Clerk.

"7. That since the petitioner was a trained typist from Khanna Commercial College which is recognized institution from the State Government and the petitioner was having requisite typing speed which was also confirmed and the petitioner was selected as per provisions of the above said rule, 1984 and a copy of the typing certificate is being filed herewith as Annexure No.-C-3 to this counter affidavit."

27. It is also evident from the documents annexed as Annexure No.R-1 to the rejoinder affidavit dated 27.09.1999 and the averments made therein as also from Annexure No.7 to the writ petition that no "Type Test" was held prior to making recommendation for providing appointment to the petitioner by the Selection Committee on the post of Clerk in the Institution.

28. In view of the aforesaid as well as keeping in view specific averments made in paras 26 and 29 of the counter affidavit dated 19.01.2020, quoted above, not refuted by filing the rejoinder affidavit and in view of the law laid down by this Court in the case of Ravindra Pratap Yadav (Supra) the same are liable to be treated as correct, this Court is of the view that "Type Test" was not held prior to making recommendation for providing appointment to the petitioner on the post in issue i.e. Clerk by the Selection Committee.

29. The Rule 4 of Rules 1984, which is quoted below, specifically provides the Minimum Qualification for the post of Clerk. The Rules of 1984 are admittedly applicable in the Institution. According to Rule 4 of Rules of 1984 a person having certificate of Intermediate Examination of the Board of High School and Intermediate Examination, Uttar Pradesh, or equivalent examination (with Hindi) and a minimum speed of 30 words per minute in Hindi Type Writing can be appointed on the post in issue i.e. Group -C post/post of Clerk.

30. Rule 4 of Rules of 1984 reads as under:-

"4. Minimum Qualification:-(1) The minimum qualifications for the post of clerk shall be Intermediate Examination of the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, or equivalent examination (with Hindi) and a minimum speed of 30 words per minute in Hindi typewriting.

(2) The minimum qualification for the post of a Group 'D' employee shall be Class V from an institution recognized by the Government of Uttar Pradesh or equivalent examination with Hindi."

31. Admittedly 17 persons appeared before the Selection Committee and to select the best amongst them as also to ascertain that a candidate is having minimum speed of 30 words per minute in Hindi Typewriting the "Type Test" was required, which as per record was not held. In addition, taking into account the Rule 4 of Rules of 1984, this Court is of the view that for fair and impartial selection the "Type Test" was/is mandatory and not holding the "Type Test" would vitiate the selection process.

32. At this stage, it is stated by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the side opposite (respondent nos.1 to 4) have failed to prove the fact that the "Type Test" was not held on 25.10.1998 and accordingly benefits should be given to the petitioner.

33. In regard to the aforesaid, it is relevant to point out that it is settled principle of law that plaintiff has to prove his own case and he can not succeed on the weakness of defense and the petitioner herein has failed to prove the fact, on the basis of pleadings and documents on record particularly documents annexed as Annexure R-1 to the rejoinder affidavit dated 27.09.1999 and Annexure No.7 to the writ petition, that the "Type Test" in selection process was held and thereafter the Selection Committee recommended the name of petitioner.

34. In view of aforesaid, this Court is of the view that the recommendation of Selection Committee and appointment of the petitioner made by the respondent no.4-Committee of Management vide appointment order dated 29.11.1998, in absence of "Type Test", both were/are de-hors the Rules and being so are nullity and void ab initio and accordingly the petitioner has no right to hold the post nor he is entitled to continue on the post nor he is entitled to salary from the State-Exchequer.

35. The Supreme Court in Yogesh Kumar vs. Government of NCT Delhi and others (2003) 3 SCC 548 held that appointment has to be strictly as per statutory rules. A person not possessing requisite qualification and appointment made dehors of the rules without following procedure, the appointment is illegal since inception, nonest, nullity and no legal right to continue or right over the post and length of continuous service of such illegal appointment will not help the petitioner.

36. Vide Mohd. Sartaj vs. State of U.P. (2006) 2 SCC 315, Sushil Kumar Dwivedi vs. Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Banda (DB) (2003) 2 UPLBEC 1216, in Mamta Mohanti case (supra) and Mohd. Sartaj case (Supra), Committee of Management vs. State of U.P. (DB) (2009) 2 ALJ 528 it was held that in case, approval is granted by the authority to a person who lacks qualification then it is a serious lapse on the part of the authority, justifying suitable disciplinary action against such careless and negligent authorities. Illegal appointments cannot be regularized. There is a distinction between irregularity and illegality. Irregularity can be regularized but not illegality.

37. In State of Karnataka vs. KGSD Canteen Employees Welfare Ass. (2006) 1 SCC 567, Mamta Mohanty case (Supra) and Sushil Kumar Dwivedi case (Supra) it was held that any action of an officer or authority of the State which is contrary to law, as in the facts of the present case approval granted by the B.S.A. in spite of the fact that the petitioners were not qualified and there was no sanctioned posts, such approval cannot bind the State to pay the salary from the State Exchequer (refer; State of Manipur vs. Y Token Singh (2007) 5 SCC 65).

38. In Pramod Kumar vs. U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission and others (2008) 7 SCC 153 Supreme Court held mandamus can be sought when there is a legal right and corresponding duty upon the State Agency. Petitioners who did not possess valid degree held had no right to appointment and, therefore, could not seek mandamus.

39. In Regional Manager, Central Bank of India vs. Madhulika Guruprasad Dahir and others (2008) 13 SCC 170 Supreme Court held that a person appointed against a reserved post for S.T. against forged social status certificate cannot upon termination claim to be retained merely on the ground that he has worked for over 20 years.

40. With regard to the other pleas taken by the learned counsel for the petitioner for interfering in the matter and allowing the writ petition, which are to the effect that opportunity of hearing was not given to the petitioner prior to passing of order dated 21.11.1998 and the respondent no.2-BSA has no power to cancel the appointment of petitioner, are concerned this Court is of the view that on the said grounds the interference in the matter is not required. It is in view of the principle to the effect that issuance of a writ or quashing/setting aside of an order if revives another pernicious or wrong or illegal order then in that eventuality the writ court should not interfere in the matter and should refuse to exercise its discretionary power conferred upon it under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The writ court should not quash the order if it revives a wrong or illegal order. Vide : Gadde Venkateswara Rao v. Government of Andhra Pradesh, AIR 1966 SC 828; Maharaja Chintamani Saran Nath Shahdeo v. State of Bihar, (1999) 8 SCC 16: AIR 1999 SC 3609: 1999 AIR SCW 3623; M.C. Mehta v. Union of India, (1999) 6 SCC 237: AIR 1999 SC 2583; Mallikarjuna Mudhagal Nagappa v. State of Karnataka, (2000) 7 SCC 238: AIR 2000 SC 2976: 2000 AIR SCW 3289; and Chandra Singh v. State of Rajasthan, (2003) 6 SCC 545: AIR 2003 SC 2889: 2003 AIR SCW 3518 and Raj Kumar Soni v. State of U.P., (2007) 10 SCC 635.

41. By the Order in issue dated 21.11.1998 the respondent no.2-BSA has cancelled/disapproved the selection process/interview wherein the petitioner was selected for the post of Clerk in the Institution on the ground that "Type Test" was not held during selection process. As the "Type Test" was not held, which was required as per Rule 4 of the Rules of 1984, quoted above, this Court is of the view that the recommendation of Selection Committee in favour of petitioner itself is nullity being dehors the Rules and being so the consequent appointment of the petitioner vide order dated 29.11.1998 on the post of Clerk made by Committee of Management (Manager)-respondent no.4 is also nullity and therefore taking into consideration the above stated legal proposition the cancellation thereof can not be interfered on the ground that no opportunity of hearing was given to the petitioner prior to passing of order dated 21.11.1998 as also on the ground that BSA, being not the appointing authority, has no power to cancel the appointment of petitioner.

42. In the judgment dated 14.05.2019 passed in the case of Sachchida Nand Chaturvedi Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2019(6) ADJ 189, this Court, on being found that the promotion order is nullity, decline to interfere in the matter. The relevant portion of the judgment reads as under:-

"28. Now both the aspects, whether an appointment made by a person holding charge of the Office only can be valid and whether if such appointment is illegal then principles of natural justice will apply or not, has been considered in a recent decision of Supreme Court in Union of India and another v. Raghuwar Pal Singh, MANU/SC/0240/2018 : (2018) 15 SCC 463, wherein it was held that a person looking after charge/duties of Office, could not discharge statutory power of appointment to Group 'C' or Group 'D' post. In fact even the question of applicability of principles of natural justice in such case where appointment has not been made by Competent Authority in accordance with Rules, which requires prior approval, has been considered in Raghuwar Pal Singh (supra), and it has been held that appointment de hors the Rules is nullity, hence, even principles of natural justice are not applicable in such cases. Paras 16 and 17 of judgment reads as under:

"16. We shall now consider the efficacy of the reason so recorded in the office order. The recruitment procedure in relation to the post of Veterinary Compounder is governed by the statutory Rules titled 'Central Cattle Breeding Farms (Class III and Class IV posts) Recruitment Rules, 1969, as amended from time to time and including the executive instructions issued in that behalf. As per the stated dispensation for such recruitment, the appointment letter could be issued only by an authorised officer and after grant of approval by the competent authority. Nowhere in the Original Application filed by the Respondent, it has been asserted that such prior approval is not the quintessence for issuing a letter of appointment.

17. For taking this contention forward, we may assume, for the time being, that the then Director Incharge H.S. Rathore, Agriculture Officer had the authority to issue a letter of appointment. Nevertheless, he could do so only upon obtaining prior written approval of the competent authority. No case has been made out in the Original Application that due approval was granted by the competent authority before issue of the letter of appointment to the Respondent. Thus, it is indisputable that no prior approval of the competent authority was given for the appointment of the Respondent. In such a case, the next logical issue that arises for consideration is: whether the appointment letter issued to the Respondent, would be a case of nullity or a mere irregularity? If it is a case of nullity, affording opportunity to the incumbent would be a mere formality and non grant of opportunity may not vitiate the final decision of termination of his services. The Tribunal has rightly held that in absence of prior approval of the competent authority, the Director Incharge could not have hastened issuance of the appointment letter. The act of commission and omission of the then Director Incharge would, therefore, suffer from the vice of lack of authority and nullity in law."

29. Court also relied on its earlier judgment in Kendriya Vidyalaya Sangathan and others v. Ajay Kumar Das and others, MANU/SC/0385/2002 : 2002 (4) SCC 503, wherein it had observed that if appointment letters are nullity, having been issued by an officer who did not wield authority to do so, there was no question of observance of principles of natural justice even though affected party was not before Court.

30. In Union of India and another v. Raghuwar Pal Singh (supra), Court clearly held that letter of appointment was issued by Director Incharge, without prior approval of Competent Authority is a nullity and that being so principles of natural justice are not attracted. It has also held that it was not an essential requirement and would have been an exercise in futility.

31. Since, in the present case also, promotion has been made under Rules 2001, not applicable in this case, it was a nullity and therefore, cancellation thereof cannot be interfered on the ground that no opportunity was given, since principles of natural justice are not attracted in the case in hand.

32. There are some other principles applicable in a writ jurisdiction which are attracted in the present case and go against petitioner. An order is not to be interfered in violation of principles of natural justice if in the given facts and circumstances of the case, only view possible is that order which is affected by impugned order, was patently illegal.

33. It is well established that principles of natural justice cannot be put in a straight jacket formula and there are certain circumstances particularly when the facts are not in dispute wherein non compliance of principles of natural justice will not vitiate administrative or quasi judicial order and/or High Court in exercise of writ jurisdiction may not interfere. One such exception to the application of principles of natural justice is where only one conclusion is possible. In the present case, it is evident from record that very promotion of petitioner as Junior Accounts Clerk was illegal, hence this Court, while exercising power under Article 226 of the Constitution is not bound to interfere. Observance of principles of natural justice is not an empty formality. Where only one conclusion is possible, this Court can decline to interfere in exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution.

34. In Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation and another v. S.G. Kotturappa, MANU/SC/0177/2005 : AIR 2005 SC 1933, Court held:

"The question as to what extent, principles of natural justice are required to be complied with would depend upon the fact situation obtaining in each case. The principles of natural justice cannot be applied in vacuum. They cannot be put in any strait-jacket formula. The principles of natural justice are furthermore not required to be complied with when it will lead to an empty formality. What is needed for the employer in a case of this nature is to apply the objective criteria for arriving at the subjective satisfaction. If the criterias required for arriving at an objective satisfaction stands fulfilled, the principles of natural justice may not have to be complied with...".

35. In Punjab National Bank and others v. Manjeet Singh and another, MANU/SC/8807/2006 : AIR 2007 SC 262, Court said:

"The principles of natural justice were also not required to be complied with as the same would have been an empty formality. The Court will not insist on compliance with the principles of natural justice in view of the binding nature of the award. Their application would be limited to a situation where the factual position or legal implication arising thereunder is disputed and not where it is not in dispute or cannot be disputed. If only one conclusion is possible, a writ would not issue only because there was a violation of the principle of natural justice."

36. In P.D. Agrawal v. State Bank of India and others, MANU/SC/8122/2006 : (2006) 8 SCC 776, it has been observed:

"The Principles of natural justice cannot be put in a straight jacket formula. It must be seen in circumstantial flexibility. It has separate facets."

37. In Writ Petition No. 31995 of 2000 (Ganesh Singh v. District Magistrate and others), decided on 29.4.2011, Court has held as under:

"16. The principles of natural justice cannot be kept in a straight jacket formula. They apply in the facts and circumstances of each and every case. If the appointment of petitioner would have been made in accordance with law or at least some prima facie material would have to be placed to show what has been stated by respondents is not ex facie correct, then the matter may have required some further investigation. In the case in hand no such thing has been placed on record by petitioner or even pleadings to show that procedure prescribed under 1974 Rules was observed and thereafter petitioner was appointed. The appointment, therefore, is ex facie illegal and in the teeth of the Rules.

17. In the circumstances, this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution do not find it a fit case warranting interference. The writ petition, therefore, lacks merit and is dismissed."

38. In Writ Petition No. 38893 of 2008 (Brijendra Singh v. State of U.P and others) decided on 18.5.2011 this Court has taken somewhat similar view as under:

"... it is well-settled that if only one conclusion is possible, the Court would not interfere in the impugned order...."

(emphasis added)

39. Another principle well established when a Court is required to exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of Constitution, it would be justified in declining to interfere in an order which has been passed in violation of principles of natural justice, if setting aside of such an order would result in revival of another illegal order. In other words, Court will not set aside an order merely on the ground that opportunity was not given or principles of natural justice were not followed, if as a result of setting aside such an order would revive in favour of petitioner concerned, another illegal order for the reason that this Court will not perpetuate illegality and no person can be allowed to enjoy benefit of an illegal order, by taking recourse to Institution of justice under Article 226 of Constitution.

40. A Division Bench of this Court (of which 1 was also a member) in Amarendra Singh v. State of U.P., MANU/UP/1480/2007 : 2008(1) ADJ 397 (DB) : 2008(1) ESC 734 has held that since the petitioner has invoked extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution, the remedy is not as a matter of right and this Court is not bound to interfere even if technically or otherwise the order impugned is found to be illegal or erroneous. There are certain exceptions which are well recognised and one of such exceptions is where setting aside of an order will result in revival of another illegal order.

41. In Champalal Binani v. The Commissioner of Income Tax west Bengal and others, MANU/SC/0170/1969 : AIR 1970 SC 645, Court while dealing with jurisdiction of the Court with respect to issuance of writ of certiorari held that "a writ of certiorari is discretionary, it is not issued merely because it is lawful to do so."

42. In Durga Prasad v. The Chief Controller of Imports and Exports and others, MANU/SC/0004/1968 : AIR 1970 SC 769 (para 7) and in Bombay Municipal Corporation for Greater Bombay v. Advance Builders (India) Pvt. Ltd., MANU/SC/0053/1971 : AIR 1972 SC 793 (para 13), it was held that writ jurisdiction is discretionary and the Court is not bound to interfere even if there is error of law.

43. It would be appropriate to refer the view expressed in Municipal Board, Pratabgarh and another v.

Mahendra Singh Chawla and MANU/SC/0190/1982 : 1982(3) SCC 331, which reads as under:

"...this Court is not bound to tilt at every approach found not in consonance or conformity with law. The interference may have a deleterious effect on the parties involved in the dispute. Laws cannot be interpreted and enforced divorced from their effect on human beings for whom the laws are meant. Undoubtedly, rule of law must prevail but as is often said, 'rule of law must run akin to rule of life. And life of law is not logic but experience'. By pointing out the error which according to us crept into the High Court's judgment the legal position is restored and the rule of law has been ensured its pristine glory. Having performed that duty under Article 136, it is obligatory on this Court to take the matter to its logical end so that while the law will affirm its element of certainty, the equity may stand massacred. There comes in the element of discretion which this Court enjoys in exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 136."

44. What has been observed by the Apex Court with reference to Article 136 of the Constitutions, in my view would equally be applicable when this Court is required to exercise its equitable extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. In a given case, having set legal position straight, still this Court may decline to interfere where the equity justifies the same or where the facts and circumstances warrant that discretionary relief should be declined. Where interference with an illegal order may result in revival lot another illegal order, the Court would be justified in refusing to interfere.

45. In Employees' State Insurance Corporation and others v. Jardine Henderson Staff Association and others, MANU/SC/3424/2006 : AIR 2006 SC 2767, Court held that relief in a writ of certiorari can be denied inter alia when it would be opposed to public policy or in a case where quashing of an illegal order would revive another illegal order. In para 62 of the judgment Court held that High Court under Article 226 and Supreme Court under Article 136 read with 142 of the Constitution has the power to mould relief in the facts of the case.

46. In Ramnik Lal N. Bhutta and another v. State of Maharashtra, MANU/SC/0279/1997 : AIR 1997 SC 1236, Court observed:

"The power under Article 226 is discretionary. It will be exercised only in furtherance of interest of justice and not merely on the making out of a legal point."

47. In State of H.P. v. Raja Mahendra Pal and others, MANU/SC/0227/1999 : (1999) 4 SCC 43, in para 6 of the judgment, Court held:

"...It is true that the powers conferred upon the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution are necessary in nature which can be invoked for the enforcement of any fundamental right or legal right but not for mere contractual right arising out of an agreement particularly in view of the existence of an efficacious alternative remedy. The constitutional Court should insist upon the party to avail of the same instead of invoking of extraordinary writ jurisdiction of this Court. This does not however debar the Court from granting the appropriate relief to a citizen under peculiar and special facts notwithstanding the existence of an alternative efficacious remedy. The existence of special circumstances are required to be noticed before issuance of the direction by the High Court while invoking the jurisdiction under the said Article...."

48. Similarly, in Director of Settlement V.M.R Apparao, MANU/SC/0219/2002 : (2002) SCC 638 in para 17 Court held that the power vested in High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is discretionary.

49. Following the principle laid down in the aforesaid decisions, this Court has reiterated the same view in a number of cases, including R.K. Shukla v. Chairman Town Area Committee and another (Writ A No. 19889 of 1991 decided on 17.1.2013). Suffice it to say that this Court is not bound to interfere even if technically or otherwise, order impugned, is found to be illegal or erroneous.

50. In Amrendra Singh v. State of U.P. and others, MANU/UP/1480/2007 : 2008(1) ADJ 397 (DB), this Court has declined to interfere in intra Court appeal with an order of Single Judge even though legally it was not sustainable since substantial justice had been done therein and setting aside order may have resulted in revival of another pernicious order."

43. The settled principles considered by this Court in the judgment passed in the case of Sachchida Nand Chaturvedi (supra), in my view, are fully applicable in the present case.

44. For the reasons aforesaid, this Court is of the view that order dated 21.11.1998 is not liable to be interfered in exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and the petitioner is not entitled to the reliefs sought in the present writ petition. Writ petition lacks merit and it is dismissed. No order as to costs.

10. Keeping in view the appointment of the petitioner by way of promotion by the competent Authority in the year 1985, as per the procedure prescribed under para-2 of Order, 1981 as well as the provisions inserted in the Act, 1982 i.e. Section 33-A

(1-A), inserted in the Act, 1982 vide U.P. Act No. 26 of 1991, which provides deemed regularization, the case of the petitioner ought to have been considered by the respondents for regularization under Section 33-A (1-A) of the Act, 1982 and ignoring the same, the appointment of the petitioner by way of promotion was considered by the respondent No. 5 for regularization under Section 33-C of the Act, 1982 and accordingly, the respondent No. 5 committed error of law and fact both. Section 33-A of the Act, 1982 on reproduction reads as under:-

"[33A. Regularisation of certain appointment. - (1) Every teacher directly appointed before the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission and Selection Boards (Amendment) Ordinance, 1985, on ad hoc basis against a substantive vacancy in accordance with paragraph 2 of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981, as amended from time to time, who possesses the qualifications prescribed under, or is exempted from such qualification in accordance with the provisions of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921, shall, with effect from the date of such commencement, be deemed to have been appointed in a substantive capacity provided such teacher has been continuously serving the Institution from the date of such appointment up to the date of such commencement.]

Explanation. - For the purposes of this sub-section a person shall be deemed to be related to another if -

(i) they are members of a Hindu undivided family; or

(ii) they are husband and wife; or

(iii) the one is related to the other in the manner indicated in the Second Schedule to the Intermediate Education Act, 1921.]"

11. It is further stated that the case of the petitioner for regularization was considered under Section 33-C of the Act, 1982, whereas the petitioner was appointed by way of promotion within the cut off date provided under Section 33-A (1-A) of the Act, 1982, as such keeping in view the same, the petitioner is entitled for regularization w.e.f. 01.08.1985 and in not providing the same, the respondents erred in law and facts both.

12. The prayer is to interfere in the matter and allow the writ petition.

13. Per contra, Sri Jogendra Nath Verma, learned State counsel, on the basis of the counter affidavit filed to the amended paras of the writ petition and in support of the order dated 21.12.2010, submitted that the order dated 21.12.2010 is just and proper in the eye of law and is not liable to interfered with.

14. Elaborating his arguments, Sri Jogendra Nathi Verma, learned State counsel submitted that in fact, five posts of Lecturer, Sanskrit in the institution namely Ram Naresh Intermediate College, Pure Dhanau, Kunda, Pratapgarh (in short "College") were created vide order dated 11.03.1981 of the Deputy Director of Education, Faizabad.

15. On the post in issue, an adhoc appointment was made on 21.02.1983 and thereafter, the person who was appointed on the said post did not turn back and subsequently, the vacancy was notified. The selection was held by the Board as per the procedure provided in the Act, 1982 and the Board selected one Sri Jitendra Kumar Sashtri.

16. Taking into account the selection of Sri Jitendra Kumar Sashtri on the vacant post of Lecturer, Sanskrit, the respondent No. 2/DIOS vide letter dated 27.05.1985 directed the respondent No. 3 to permit the joining of Sri Jiterndra Kumar Shashtri. The person selected by the Board namely Sri Jitendra Kumar Shastri never turned up and joined the post in question.

17. Keeping in view the said fact, the vacancy was considered as substantive vacancy vide order dated 10.07.1989, passed by the DIOS and thereafter, the vacancy was again notified.

18. After the order dated 10.07.1989, whereby the DIOS considered the vacancy as substantive vacancy, the Committee of Management passed the resolution dated 12.01.1992 in favour of the petitioner.

19. By the resolution dated 12.01.1992, the petitioner was promoted on the post of Lecturer, Sanskrit in the institution and the appointment of the petitioner was approved. Thereafter, the case of the petitioner for regularization was considered vide order dated 21.12.2010. The service of the petitioner were regularized under the provisions as envisaged under Section 33-C of the Act, 1982.

20. In this factual background, learned State counsel submitted that in fact the substantive vacancy came into existence in the year 1989 and subsequent to the same, the petitioner was appointed by way of promotion by the Committee of Management and keeping in view the date of appointment i.e. 01.01.1992 as well as the provisions as envisaged under Section 33-C of the Act, 1982, the regularization of the petitioner was done. Thus, the order dated 21.12.2010 is not liable to be interfered with by this Court. The prayer is to dismiss the writ petition.

21. Heard the submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

22. In the instant case, the claim of the petitioner is that he was appointed by way of promotion on 27.07.1985 under the Order of 1981 and joined on the post on 01.08.1985 and accordingly, he is entitled for regularization under Section 33-A (1-A) w.e.f. 01.08.1985.

23. It appears from the above quoted provisions including Section 33-A (1-A) that for the purposes of regularization under the aforesaid provisions of the Act, 1982, one of the relevant contingency is that the vacancy should be "substantive vacancy" and if promotion is made on the substantive vacancy on adhoc basis after following the proper procedure as mentioned in relevant provision i.e. Order of 1981 and a candidate also fulfills other eligibility provided under the aforesaid provision(s) then in that event the incumbent of the post can be regularized under the above quoted provision(s).

24. In view of the aforesaid, the question which is to be considered in the present case is that on which date the "substantive vacancy" came into existence?

25. For coming to the conclusion on the above said question, to the view of this Court, in addition to above referred provision, Section 18 of the Act, 1982, on relevant time, and Order of 1981 are also relevant. Accordingly, the relevant portion of the same are quoted below for ready reference:-

Section 18 of the Act, 1982:-

"18 Ad hoc Teachers.-(1) Where the management has notified a vacancy to the Commission in accordance with the provisions of this Act, and-

(a) the commission has failed to recommended the name of any suitable candidate for being appointed as a teacher specified in the Schedule within one year from the date of such notification ; or

(b) the post of such teacher has actually remained vacant for more than two months, then, the management may appoint, by direct recruitment or promotion, a teacher on purely ad hoc basis from amongst the person possessing qualifications prescribed under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 or the regulations made thereunder."

Order of 1981:-

"1. Short title and commencement.- The Order may be called the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981.

(2) It shall come into force at once.

2. Vacancies in which ad hoc appointment can be made.-The management of an institution may appoint by promotion or by direct recruitment a teacher on purely ad hoc basis in accordance with the provisions of this Order in the following case, namely ;*

(a) in the case of a substantive vacancy existing on the date of commencement of this Order caused by death, retirement, resignation or otherwise;

(b) in the case of a leave vacancy, where the whole or unexpired portion of the leave is for a period exceeding two months on the date of such commencement ;

(c) Where a vacancy of the nature in Clause (a) or Clause (b) comes into existence within a period of two months subsequent to the date of such commencement.

3. Duration of ad hoc appointments.-Every appointment of an ad hoc teacher under Paragraph 2 shall cease to have effect from the earliest of the dates, namely :*

(a) when the candidates recommended by the Commissioner or the Board joins the post ; or

(b) when the period of six months from the date of such ad hoc appointment expires.

4. Ad hoc appointment by promotion.-(1)" Every vacancy in the post of the Head of an institution may be filled by promotion :*

(a) in the case of an Intermediate College, by the seniormost teacher of the institution in the lecturer's grade ;

(b) in the case of a High School raised to the level of an Intermediate College, by the Headmaster of such High School ;

(c) in the case of a Junior High School raised to the level of a High School, by the Headmaster of such Junior High School ;

(2) Every vacancy in the post of a teacher in Lecturers grade may be filled by promotion by the sernior-most teacher of the institution in the trained-graduate (L. T.) grade.

(3) Every vacancy in the post of a teacher in the trained graduate (L. T.) grade shall be filled by promotion by the serniormost teacher of the institution in the trained Under-graduate (C. T.) grade.

(4) Every vacancy in the post of a teacher in the trained under-graduate (C. T.) grade shall be filled by promotion by the seniormost teacher of the institution in the J. T. C. grade or B.T.C. grade.

Explanation.-For the purposes of clauses (1) to (4) of this paragraph, the expression "senior-most teacher" means the teacher having longest continuous service in the Lecturer's grade or the trained graduate (L. T.) grade, or trained Under-graduate (C. T.) grade or J. T. C. or B. T. C. grade as the case may be."

26. From the aforesaid provisions, so far as it relates to regularization of appointment is concerned, it appear that:-

(i) Ad-hoc appointment should have been made by the Committee of Management on "substantive vacancy"

(ii) Ad-hoc appointment can be made against "substantive vacancy" by the Committee of Management, if the Management has notified the vacancy to the Commission and-

(a) the Commission failed to recommend the name of suitable candidate for being appointed as a Teacher within one year from the date of notification of vacancy by the Management, or

(b) the post of such teacher has actually remained vacant for more than two months.

(iii) Such Ad-hoc appointee (Teacher) has been continuously serving the institution from the date of appointment to the date of commencement of the Amending Act of 1991.

(iv) "Vacancy" would be "substantive vacancy" if it comes into existence on account of death, retirement, resignation or otherwise.

27. For considering the issue involved in the instant case, this Court is also of the view to quote the resolution of the Committee of Management dated 25.07.1985 and the second resolution dated 12.01.1992, the same read as under:-

Resolution dated 25.07.1985:-

पोस्ट धनोखी (कुण्डा), प्रतापगढ़"

28. From the bare perusal of the resolution dated 25.07.1985, it appears that the appointment of the petitioner by way of promotion on the post of Lecturer, Sanskrit was made purely on temporary basis taking into account the fact that the selected person namely Sri Jiterndra Kumar Shashtri did not join on the post in issue and the appointment was made subject to the joining of the selected candidate.

29. It is evident from the record that the post of Lecturer, Sanskrit was created vide order dated 11.03.1981 and prior to appointment on the post of Lecturer, Sanskrit by way of promotion of the petitioner, the said vacancy/post was notified, as appears from the resolution dated 27.07.1985, and one person namely Sri Jitendra Kumar Shastri was selected by the Commission, as per the procedure prescribed under the Act, 1982, and thereafter, on the directions issued by the DIOS, Pratapgarh vide letter dated 27.05.1985, the Committee of Management issued the letters dated 16.01.1985 and 09.07.1985 to the selected person Sri Jitendra Kumar Shastri for joining on the post, who did not responded to the said letters and never joined the institution.

30. Further, the petitioner was appointed by way of promotion in the year 1985 vide order dated 27.07.1985, on account of non joining of selected candidate namely Sri Jitendra Kumar Shastri and at that point of time, the vacancy was not notified by the Committee of Management. The vacancy was treated to be substantive vide order dated 10.07.1989. Thereafter, one Sri Tribhuvan Nath Mishra was also promoted on the post of Lecturer, Sanskrit w.e.f. 31.12.1990, who subsequently left the college. Thereafter, the petitioner was again promoted on the post of Lecturer, Sanskrit.

31. From the aforesaid facts and the provisions quoted hereinabove, it is apparent that on 27.07.1985, the date on which the petitioner was promoted on the post of Lecturer, Sanskrit, the vacancy was not substantive vacancy, as no requisition with regard to post/vacancy of Lecturer, Sanskrit was pending before the Commission.

32. Vide letter dated 10.07.1989, the vacancy was treated as substantive vacancy by the DIOS. After treating the vacancy as substantive vacancy vide letter dated 10.07.1989 issued by the DIOS, the petitioner was appointed by way of promotion on the post of Lecturer, Sanskrit w.e.f. 01.01.1992, as appears from the resolution dated 12.01.1992. This appointment of the petitioner by way of promotion was approved.

33. It is also evident from the resolution dated 12.01.1992, which was passed after the letter of the DIOS dated 10.07.1989 by which the vacancy was considered as substantive vacancy, the promotion of the petitioner was considered and he was promoted under 50% quota and the promotion of the petitioner vide second resolution dated 12.01.1992 appears to be made by the Committee of Management as per the procedure prescribed.

34. Considering the aforesaid facts, the case of the petitioner for regularization was considered and thereafter, the order dated 21.12.2010 for regularizing the services of the petitioner w.e.f. 20.04.1998 was passed by the respondent No. 5.

35. From the aforesaid facts including the resolution of Committee of Management, quoted above, it is evident that the post of Lecturer, Sanskrit fell vacant substantively on 10.07.1989, on which date the DIOS treated the said vacancy as substantive vacancy. Prior to that date, the vacancy in question is not liable to be treated as "substantive vacancy". It is in view of conjoint reading of the facts of the case as also Section 18, on relevant time, and Order of 1981.

36. Accordingly, the appointment of the petitioner by way of promotion on the post of Lecturer, Sanskrit vide order dated 27.07.1985 was not against "substantive vacancy" and being so, he is not entitled for regularization w.e.f. 01.08.1985 (date of joining) under Section 33-A (1-A) of the Act, 1982.

37. In view of the reasons recorded hereinabove, this Court is of the view that the petitioner is not entitled to the reliefs sought.

38. For the foregoing reasons, the writ petition lacks merit. It is hereby dismissed with no order as to costs.

(A) Service Law - U.P. Lekhpal Service Rules, 1958 - Rule 212 and 214-B - Chapter XIV - Land Record Manual - Cancellation of Lekhpal Examination Certificate - Rule 5 and 212- of the - petitioner was not held guilty of serious misconduct in obtaining certificate which can be the sole ground for cancellation of certificate - no opportunity of hearing provided - no provision either in Rules of 1958 or in Manual requiring a candidate to have three years of experience as on 30.04.1980 for the purpose of admission and issuance of certificate upon completion of training in lekhpal schools were given

The petitioner was granted appointment as a Lekhpal on a temporary basis on a temporary post in the year 1978 thereafter he took a special lekhpal examination in the year 1981. After verification it was found that as per the Government Order dated 15.05.1980 he did not completed three years of service as on 08.05.1980 as an untrained lekpal therefore his certificate was cancelled and was subsequently terminated from service. The non completion of three years of service as on 30.04.1980 for the purpose of admission and issuance of certificate upon completion of training in a lekhpal schools was laid down by aforementioned government order and not by any statutory provision. The condition imposed by the government order restricts condition of appointment as required under service rules. Such a fact exceeds the authority of competent government since it has effect of diluting or restricting the service conditions indicated in the service rules, without amendment to the same.

(B) Interpretation - purposive interpretation of subordinate legislation - statutory provision cannot be diluted, modified or overridden by government order - government order can fill up the gaps and supplement the rules by issuance of instructions no inconsistent with the already existing rules

The condition imposed by the government order dated 15.05.1980 is merely an enabling provision which has been passed to enable proper implementation of Rules 5 and 6 of the Service Rules. Therefore the condition are to be seen in its purposive character. It is apparent that the entire purpose of the government order was that a person entitles to be regularized in service should have sufficient experience in the field. In view of the facts of the case, the petitioner as already cleared the certificate examination in the year 1981 and was bereft of required service for only one year, it can be seen that the purpose of condition imposed by the government order stood fulfilled. It is also admitted that the at the time of passing of the impugned order, petitioner had completed more than 10 years of service and therefore to hold him ineligible foe regularization only on the basis that he had not completed requisite one year extra service is unreasonable.

As per averments made in the petition, petitioner was appointed as Lekhpal in Tehsil Bikapur on Ist May, 1978 in a temporary vacancy and subsequently appointment was made on 31st January, 1982 against permanent vacancy of one Bhawani Prasad who superannuated. It has been stated that thereafter petitioner appeared in Special Lekhpal Examination in the year 1981 and completed the same but by means of impugned orders, the training undergone by petitioner and certificate issued in pursuance thereof has been cancelled and petitioner's services have been terminated on account of the fact that he had not completed three years of continuous service as on 30th April, 1980 as required by the Government order dated 15th May, 1980.

4. Learned counsel for petitioner has submitted that it is an admitted fact that petitioner was appointed in a temporary vacancy on a temporary basis on Ist May, 1978. It has been further submitted that as per the U.P. Lekhpal Service Rules, 1958, the source of recruitment as required under Rule 5 is only for a candidate to have obtained the Patwari or Lekhpal School certificate. Names of such candidates having obtained the aforesaid certificate were required to be included in the list mentioned in Rule 6 for the purposes of procedure for recruitment. Learned counsel has also drawn attention to Rule 212 of Chapter XIV of Land Records Manual wherein it has been provided that candidates for admission to Lekhpals' schools will be selected by the District Officer of the District in which candidate resides. Attention has also been drawn to paragraph 214-B pertaining to cancellation of Lekhpal Examination Certificate and the conditions under which such cancellation can be effected. Learned counsel for petitioner has further submitted that it is an admitted fact that petitioner was prmitted to complete the special lekhpal examination in the year 1981 and was also issued a certificate to that effect, which however has been cancelled by means of the impugned orders. In view of aforesaid provisions, it has been submitted that cancellation order being contrary to provisions of paragraph 214-B of the Land Records Manual is thus liable to be quashed.

5. Learned counsel for petitioner has submitted that the condition for completion of three years in service prior to appearance in the Lekhpal examination has been incorporated in terms of the government order dated 15th May, 1980 which is only an enabling provision and can not run counter to the specific service rules governing the petitioner.

6. Learned State Counsel appearing on behalf of opposite parties has rebutted the submissions advanced by learned counsel for petitioner with the submission that petitioner's engagement in service was on a purely temporary basis in terms of rule 7(3) read with 18(b) of the Rules of 1958. It has been submitted that although there is no provision in the service rules with regard to requirement of a candidate having completed three years in service as on 30th April, 1980 but the same has been introduced by means of government order dated 15th May, 1980, which is not contradictory to any service regulations. It is an independent provision included by government order and is thus required to be seen in that light.

7. After consideration of submissions advanced by learned counsel for parties and perusal of record, it is evident that the opposite parties have admitted the fact that petitioner was granted appointment as a Lekhpal purely on a temporary basis on a temporary post in the year 1978. In the counter affidavit filed to the amended portion of writ petition, it has been admitted that petitioner was allowed to appear in the special lekhpal examination in the year 1981 but after verification, it was found that till the cut off date of 8th May, 1980 as required by the government order dated 15th May, 1980 he had completed only two years of service as untrained Lekhpal due to which the certificate issued to petitioner was cancelled.

8. A perusal of the entire counter affidavit makes it evident that the only ground taken for passing of impugned orders rests on the government order dated 15th My, 1980 and the fact that petitioner had not completed three years of service as on the cut off date of 8th May, 1980 provided by government order. No other reason for passing of impugned orders have been indicated either in the impugned orders or in the counter affidavit. As such adjudication in the present writ petition rests only with regard to condition of three years service having been rendered by petitioner in terms of government order dated 15h May, 1980.

9. The U.P. Lekhpal Service Rules, 1958 specifically governs the service conditions of petitioner. Rule 5 pertains to source of recruitment while Rule 6 indicates procedure for recruitment. Rule 8 pertains to educational qualifications required. Admittedly petitioner was appointed in terms of Rule 18(b) of the aforesaid rules pertaining to temporary vacancies read with Rule 7(3).

10. Regarding the source and procedure of recruitment, Rules 5 and 6 of the said Rules are as follows:-

"5. Source of recruitment.-- (1) Only such candidates as have obtained the patwari or lekhpal School Certificate and whose names have been brought on the list mentioned in Rule 6 shall be eligible for appointment to the service.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-rule (1), persons who belong to the category mentioned in Paragraph 2(3)(d) of revenue (B) Department G.O. No.4434/B, dated April 27, 1953, and are working in a temporary or officiating capacity, with or without break in service, shall be deemed eligible for appointment to the service.

(3) The ex-patwari who had a good record of service and fulfil other qualifications and conditions prescribed for appointment shall also be eligible for appointment to the service.

(4) Ex-patwaris shall be treated as new candidates and shall not get the benefit of their past service in any matter.

(5) Ex-patwaris who have already been absorbed in the service shall be deemed to have been appointed under these rules.

6. Procedure for recruitment.-(1) For purposes of recruitment, the Collector shall maintain in the following form a list of candidates who have passed the Patwari or Lekhpal School Examination.

xxxx xxxx xxxx

(2) Necessary material for the maintenance of this list shall be supplied each year, as soon as examination results are out, by the Collector in whose district the Lekhpal School is located. The Collection may, subject to the approval of the Director, add to the list so received the name of any other candidate who has passed the Patwari of Lekhpal School Examination.

(3) The names, in the list shall be arranged in order of seniority as determined by the year of examination. Seniority as between the candidates of the same year shall be judged on the basis of the aggregate marks obtained at the examination. Where the aggregate marks are equal, the seniority shall be determined on the basis of age.

[(3-A) A district-wise list of ex-patwaris fulfiling the conditions laid down in sub-rule (3) of Rule 5 shall be maintained by each Collector. The names in this list shall be arranged according to the length of service. If the length of service of two or more ex-patwaris is the same the names shall be arranged according to age.

NOTE- If any is is already maintained in this behalf under executive orders of Government it shall be deemed to be maintained under this sub-rule.

(4) The lists referred to the examination and the Collector shall remove the names of-

(a) Candidates who have received permanent appointment;

(b) Other candidates for good and sufficient reasons to be recorded in writing;

(c) Those candidates in the list prescribed in sub-rule (3) of Rule 6 who have exceeded the maximum age-limit for appointment."

11. Provision with regard to admission, training and examination of lekhpal school candidates is required to be done in terms of Chapter XIV of the Land Record Manual. Paragraph 212 of the aforesaid chapter pertaining to candidates for admission is as follows:-

"212. Candidates for admission-* (i) Candidates for admission to Lekhpal Schools will be selected by the District Officer of the district in which the candidate resides.*

(ii) The candidates to be selected must fulfil the conditions of nationality, as defined under Part II of the Constitution of India, and must have passed the Hindustani Middle or Junior High School or an equivalent or higher examination and shall not be less than 17 years and not more than 21 years of age on or before the date of admission

(iii) No candidate who has once been enrolled in some Lekhpal School will be admitted to another Lekhpal School except for good and sufficient reasons if so certified by the offer-in-charge. A certificate of qualifications obtained by concealment of the fact of previous enrolment in another school shall be void."

12. A perusal of aforesaid statutory provisions make it evident that there is no provision either in the rules or in the land record manual requiring a candidate to have three years of service as on 30th April, 1980 for purposes of admission and issuance of certificate upon completion of training in a lekhpal schools. The only such condition which forms the basis of impugned order is to be found in the government order dated 15th May, 1980.

13. Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Dr. Rajendra Singh versus State of Punjab reported in (2001) 5 SCC 482 has held that no government order, notification or circular can be a substitute of the statutory rules framed with the authority of law. It has been further held that following any other course would be disastrous and would be against the constitutional scheme and accepted service jurisprudence. The relevant portion of the judgment is as follows:-

"The settled position of law is that no Government Order, Notification or Circular can be a substitute of the statutory rules framed with the authority of law. Following any other course would be disastrous inasmuch as it would deprive the security of tenure and right of equality conferred upon the civil servants under the constitutional scheme. It would be negating the so far accepted service jurisprudence. We are of the firm view that the High Court was not justified in observing that even without the amendment of the rules, the Class II of the service can be treated as Class I only by way of notification. Following such a course in effect amounts to amending the rules by a Government Order and ignoring the mandate of Article 309 of the Constitution."

14. Similarly a full bench of this Court in the case Vijay Singh and others versus state of U.P. and others reported in 2005 (23) LCD 1696 has held that it is a settled legal proposition that executive instructions can not over ride the statutory provision nor can be issued in contravention of statutory rules for the reason that an administrative instruction is not a statutory rule nor does it have any force of law. Relevant portions of the judgment are as follows:-

" 6. It is settled legal proposition that executive instructions cannot override the statutory provisions [Vide B.N. Nagrajan v. State of Mysore, AIR 1966 SC 1942; Sant Ram Sharma v. State of Rajasthan and Ors., AIR 1967 SC 1910; Union of India and Ors. v. Majji Jangammyya and Ors., AIR 1977 SC 757; B.N. Nagarajan and Ors. v. State of Karnataka and Ors., AIR 1979 SC 1676; P.D. Agrawal and Ors. v. State of U.P. and Ors., (1987) 3 SCC 622; M/s. Beopar Sahayak (P) Ltd. and Ors. v. Vishwa Nath and Ors., AIR 1987 SC 2111; State of

Maharashtra v. Jagannath Achyut Karandikar, AIR 1989 SC 1133; Paluru Ramkrishananiah and Ors. v. Union of India and Ors., AIR 1990 SC 166; Comptroller and Auditor General of India and Ors. v. Mohan LalMalhotra and Ors., AIR.1991 SC 2288; State of Madhya Pradesh v. G.S. Dall and Flour Mills, AIR 1991 SC 772; Naga People's Movement of Human Rights v. Union of India and Ors., AIR 1998 SC 431; C. Rangaswamaeah and Ors. v. Karnataka Lokayukta and Ors., AIR 1998 SC 96.]

7. Executive instructions cannot amend or supersede the statutory rules or add something therein, nor the orders be issued in contravention of the statutory rules for the reason that an administrative instruction is not a statutory Rule nor does it have any force of law; while statutory rules have full force of law provided the same are not in conflict with the provisions of the Act. (Vide State of U. P. and Ors. v. Babu Ram Upadhyaya, AIR 1961 SC 751; and State of Tamil Nadu v. M/s. Hind Stone etc., AIR 1981 SC 711)."

15. This court in the case of Afsar Shahin versus Basic Shiksha Parishad and others reported in 2004 (22) LCD 1164 has also held to the same effect that a statutory provision can not be diluted, modified or overridden by government orders which fall within domain of the government under executive functions.

16. Upon applicability of aforesaid judgments, as is evident the only requirement not being fulfilled by petitioner for continuance and regularization in service has been imposed by government order dated 15th May, 1980. It is thus seen that requirement of three years of service as on 30th April, 1980 has been imposed for the first time by means of the aforesaid government order. As has been held by aforesaid judgments of Hon'ble the Supreme court, such a condition restricting the conditions of appointment under Rules 5 and 6 of the Service Rules of1958 could not have been imposed without necessary amendment in the relevant provision of Rule.

17. Learned State Counsel has however placed reliance upon judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Haryana versus S.J. Bahadur reported in (1972) 2 SCC 188 wherein it has been held that while the government can not amend or supercede the statutory rules by administrative instructions, at the same time if the rules are silent on any particular point, the government can very well fill up the gaps and supplement the rules by issuance of instructions not inconsistent with the rules already framed.

18. So far as aforesaid submission is concerned, it is evident that the judgment would be applicable only where rules are silent on any particular point which is a necessary requirement for the purposes of appointment and such instructions can be issued which are not inconsistent with the rules already framed. While there is no dispute with regard to the aforesaid proposition of law as held by Hon'ble the Supreme court but at the same time it is also a relevant issue as to whether the government order dated 15th May, 1980 merely fills in a gap or dilutes the very condition of appointment envisaged under the extant service rules. In the present case, it is evident that the condition imposed by the government order restricts conditions of appointment as required under service rules. Such a fact exceeds the authority of competent government since it has effect of diluting or restricting the service conditions indicated in the service rules, without amendment to same. This can not be done in view of judgments of Hon'ble the Supreme court indicated herein above.

19. The matter can be examined from another aspect as well that the condition imposed by the government order dated 15th May, 1980 is merely an enabling provision and has been passed to enable proper implementation of Rules 5 and 6 of the Service Rules. As such the conditions imposed by government order are to be seen in its purposive character.

20. With regard to purposive interpretation of statute or subordinate legislation, Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Abhiram Singh versus C.D. Commachen and others reported in (2017) 2 SCC 629 has held as follows:-

"37. In the same decision, Lord Steyn suggested that the pendulum has swung towards giving a purposive interpretation to statutes and the shift towards purposive construction is today not in doubt, influenced in part by European ideas, European community jurisprudence and European legal culture. It was said: [R. (Quintavalle) case [R. (Quintavalle) v. Secy. of State for Health, 2003 UKHL 13 : (2003) 2 AC 687 : (2003) 2 WLR 692 (HL)] , AC p. 700 C-F, para 21]

"21... the adoption of a purposive approach to construction of statutes generally, and the 1990 Act [Human Fertilisation and Embryology Act, 1990] in particular, is amply justified on wider grounds. In Cabell v. Markham [Cabell v. Markham, 148 F 2d 737 (2d Cir 1945)] Learned Hand, J. explained the merits of purposive interpretation [at p. 739]:

"Of course it is true that the words used, even in their literal sense, are the primary, and ordinarily the most reliable, source of interpreting the meaning of any writing: be it a statute, a contract, or anything else. But it is one of the surest indexes of a mature and developed jurisprudence not to make a fortress out of the dictionary; but to remember that statutes always have some purpose or object to accomplish, whose sympathetic and imaginative discovery is the surest guide to their meaning."

The pendulum has swung towards purposive methods of construction. This change was not initiated by the teleological approach of European Community jurisprudence, and the influence of European legal culture generally, but it has been accelerated by European ideas: see, however, a classic early statement of the purposive approach by Lord Blackburn in River Wear Commissioners v. Adamson [River Wear Commissioners v. Adamson, (1877) LR 2 AC 743 at p. 763 (HL)] . In any event, nowadays the shift towards purposive interpretation is not in doubt. The qualification is that the degree of liberality permitted is influenced by the context, e.g. social welfare legislation and tax statutes may have to be approached somewhat differently." (emphasis supplied)

39. We see no reason to take a different view. Ordinarily, if a statute is well drafted and debated in Parliament there is little or no need to adopt any interpretation other than a literal interpretation of the statute. However, in a welfare State like ours, what is intended for the benefit of the people is not fully reflected in the text of a statute. In such legislations, a pragmatic view is required to be taken and the law interpreted purposefully and realistically so that the benefit reaches the masses. Of course, in statutes that have a penal consequence and affect the liberty of an individual or a statute that could impose a financial burden on a person, the rule of literal interpretation would still hold good."

21. Similarly in the case of EERA versus State (NCT of Delhi) and another reported in (2017) 15 Supreme Court Cases 133, while following the judgment of Abhiram Singh (supra), it has been held as follows:-

" 30. The above expansion of purposive interpretation has been approvingly quoted by the majority in Abhiram Singh v. C.D. Commachen [Abhiram Singh v. C.D. Commachen, (2017) 2 SCC 629 : (2017) 2 SCC (Civ) 68] and that is why Section 123(3) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951 has been construed keeping in view electorate-centric interpretation rather than candidate-centric one. The submission is that the purposive interpretation has become the lan vital of statutory interpretation because of progressive social climate and the Judges' statesmanship. Krishna Iyer, J., in his inimitable style, had said ?when legislative purpose or intention is lost, then the process of interpretation is like to adorn the skin, and to miss the soul?. A court has to be progressive in its thought and should follow the path of construction that comprehensively meets the legislative intention. If a Judge gets stuck with the idea that construction is the safest, the enactment is not fructified, the purpose is missed and the soul is dismissed. A narrow construction of a concept invites a hazard whereas a broad exposition enlarges the sweep and achieves the statutory purpose. These are certain abstractions. It will apply in a different manner in different statutes, like Tax law, Penal law, Social Welfare legislation, Excise law, Election law, etc. That apart, the law intends to remedy a mischief. It also sets goal and has a remedial intent. It also states certain things which clearly mean what has been said. In that case, there is no room for the Judge and solely because he is a constructionist Judge, cannot possess such tool to fly in the realm of fanciful area and confer a different meaning. His ability to create in the name of judicial statesmanship is not limitless. It has boundaries. He cannot afford to romance all the time with the science of interpretation. Keeping these aspects in mind, I shall presently refer to some authorities where purposive construction has been adopted and where it has not been taken recourse to and the cardinal principle for the same."

22. Although the aforesaid judgments pertained to interpretation of statute viz-a-viz the Constitution of India but the same can be made applicable in the present case in view of the fact that statutory provisions regarding appointment have been sought to be diluted or conditions imposed by means of administrative orders.

23. In the light of aforesaid judgments of Hon'ble the Supreme court, it can be seen that the purpose of imposing the condition as indicated in the government order is only for a candidate to have necessary experience in the filed or subject prior to which he can be considered for regularization.

24. In the present case, it is admitted by opposite parties that petitioner was not only enrolled in the certificate examination but had successfully cleared the same in 1981. It is also admitted between parties that petitioner had completed two years of service as on 30th April, 1980. The only deficiency was with regard to one year service which was yet to be rendered by petitioner as on the cut off date.

25. If seen through the spectrum of purposive construction of any provision, it is apparent that the entire purpose of the government order was that a person entitled to be regularized in service should have sufficient experience in the field. In view of the fact that petitioner has already cleared the certificate examination in the year 1981 and was bereft of required service for only one year, it can be seen that the purpose of condition imposed by the government order dated 15th May, 1980 stood fulfilled by the petitioner.

26. It is also an admitted factor that at the time of passing of the impugned order, petitioner had completed more than 10 years of service and therefore to hold him ineligible for regularization only on the basis that he had not completed requisite one year extra service is unreasonable.

27. Another aspect of the matter as submitted by learned counsel for petitioner is that petitioner was permitted to be admitted and trained in terms of paragraph 212 of Chapter XIV of the land record manual whereafter he has successfully completed the examination and was issued the certificate thereof in the year 1981. Once a lekhpal examination certificate has been issued, the same can be cancelled only in terms of paragraph 214-B of Chapter XIV of land record manual which imposes the following conditions:-

"214-B. Cancellation of Lekhpal Examination Certificate- The Director may, at any time, cancel the Lekhpal Examination Certificate of a candidate if he is satisfied on the report of the collector that the candidate has been guilty of serious misconduct in circumstances connected with his securing the certificate; provided that no candidate's certificate will be cancelled unless either his explanation has been taken or he refuses to give his explanation or is not traceable. The Director may also report his case to Government for debarring him from service under the State Government."

28. Upon a perusal of the aforesaid provision, it is clear that there is no allegation against petitioner of serious misconduct regarding circumstances connected with his securing the certificate. It is also not the case of opposite parties that any opportunity of hearing was provided to petitioner prior to passing of the impugned orders. As such the conditions required for cancellation of lekhpal examination certificate also do not stand fulfilled in case of petitioner.

29. In view of aforesaid facts, it is apparent that the impugned order has been passed in violation of statutory provisions and without considering the purposive construction of the government order dated 15th May, 1980.

30. In view of the aforesaid, a writ in the nature of certiorari is issued quashing the orders dated 13th May, 1988 and 15th February, 1988. Since the petitioner has not actually performed the duties of post subsequent to passing of the impugned orders, he shall not be entitled to any salary for the said period but would be entitled to pensionary benefits of the post including pension with allowances with effect from the date of superannuation, as admissible and revised from time to time. The service period between 15.2.1988 till superannuation shall count as qualifying service for calculation of pensionary benefits. Orders pertaining to same shall be passed within a period of two months from the date a copy of this order is produced before the competent authority.

31. Consequently, the writ petition stands allowed.

(A) Compassionate Appointment - should not be provided after an expiry of 22 and a half years of the death of the petitioner's father - can be considered as per the scheme/rule applicable at the time of death of employee.

When the father of the petitioner expired on 17.05.1986, there was no Rule or statutory provision for appointment on compassionate ground existed in an unaided school/college covered under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921. Therefore, no such vested right accrued after the death of the petitioner's father. Thereafter the School/Institution was taken up in grant-in-aid in 01.04.1996. Even after the appointment of the petitioner in the year 2008, no such provision or rule existed for appointment of dependent of deceased in an unaided school/college covered under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 which subsequently taken up in grant. However, till date no such provision has come up in this regard.The appointment of the petitioner is not only in violation of Regulation 105 under Chapter III of the Act, 1921 as it is without the recommendation of the Committee required for appointment on compassionate grounds but has been filed belatedly after an expiry of 22 and a half years of the death of the petitioner's father.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Gyanendra Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for the respondent Nos. 1 to 3 and Sri Shubham Gupta, learned counsel for the respondent No. 4.

2. The writ petition has been filed seeking direction to the respondents to accord financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner as Assistant Teacher in Amar Shahid Chandra Shekhar Azad Inter College, Haraipur, District-Unnao (in short "College") and for payment of regular salary from the State Exchequer w.e.f. 01.11.2008.

3. Prior to filing of the present writ petition, the petitioner approached this Court by means of the Writ Petition No. 5854 of 2008 (Shailendra Kumar v. D.I.O.S. Unnao and others), thereby seeking direction to the respondents to appoint the petitioner on suitable post on compassionate ground under the Dying in Harness Rules. The said writ petition was finally disposed of by means of the judgment and order dated 19.09.2008, which reads as under:-

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel.

The instant writ petition has been preferred with the following reliefs:-

1. To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the Opp. Parties particularly Opp. Party No. 2 to consider the case of the petitioner for his appointment on compassionate grounds under Dying-in-harness Rules on any post as per qualification of the petitioner.

2. To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the Opposite Parties to decide the petitioner's latest representation dated 12.07.2007 as contained in Annexure No. 9 to this writ petition.

3. To issue any such other order which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case.

4. To award cost of the writ petition.

The petitioner restricts his prayer only to the extent that his representation as contained in Annexure No. 9 to the writ petition may be directed to be disposed of within the stipulated period.

Learned Standing Counsel has no objection to this innocuous prayer.

In the facts and circumstances of the case, I direct the petitioner to file a fresh comprehensive representation along with certified copy of this order as well as complete copy of the writ petition with all Annexures before opposite party no. 2 within a week from today and on such representation being filed, as stipulated above, the concerned competent authority shall decide the same by a speaking and reasoned order within three weeks of the receipt of representation, as contemplated above, exercising its unfettered discretion on the basis of record before him in accordance with relevant Rules, recent Government Orders, Scheme/Policy without being influenced by any of the observations in this judgment, since this Court has not entered into the merits of the present case.

Subject to the above observations and directions, writ petition stands partly allowed by moulding the relief to the extent indicated above.

No costs."

4. In compliance of the judgment and order dated 19.09.2008, the Committee of Management of the College considered the case of the petitioner for appointment on compassionate ground and vide order dated 16.10.2008, the petitioner was appointed by the respondent No. 4/Committee of Management of the College on the post of Assistant Teacher in the pay-scale of Rs. 5500-9000/-.

5. The respondent Nos. 1 to 3/State filed the counter affidavit annexing therewith the order dated 29.05.2009, passed by the District Inspector of Schools (DIOS), Unnao, whereby the claim of the petitioner with regard to appointment on suitable post on compassionate ground under the Dying in Harness Rules was rejected. On coming to know about the order dated 29.05.2009, the petitioner amended the writ petition and also challenged the order dated 29.05.2009.

6. In regard to the reliefs sought in the writ petition, learned counsel for the petitioner stated that the father of the petitioner was a Headmaster of the Institution and he expired on 17.05.1986. At that point of time, the petitioner was minor (one and half year old). On attaining the age of majority and being found himself eligible for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher, the petitioner applied for appointment on compassionate ground before the competent authority and on account of inaction on the part of the respondents in not providing the appointment on suitable post on compassionate ground, the petitioner approached this Court by means of the Writ Petition No. 5854 of 2008 (Shailendra Kumar v. D.I.O.S. Unnao and others), which was disposed of vide judgment and order dated 19.09.2008 and in compliance thereof, the Committee of Management of the College appointed the petitioner on the post of Assistant Teacher, as such the appointment of the petitioner is valid and he is entitled to salary from the State Exchequer.

7. Per contra, Sri Gyanendra Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for the respondent Nos. 1 to 3, on the basis of counter affidavit as also the contents of the impugned order dated 29.05.2009, submitted that the father of the petitioner expired on 17.05.1986 and at that point of time, the College was not in grant-in-aid. The Institution was taken up in grant-in-aid on 01.04.1996.

8. It is further stated that the provision for providing compassionate appointment to the employee of the Institution/College in grant-in-aid came into force on 30.07.1992 subsequently, amended in the year 1995. It is also stated that at the time of death of the father of the petitioner i.e. on 17.05.1986, there was no provision to provide appointment to the dependent of the employee of unaided school or college, as the case may be, covered under U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (in short "Act, 1921") nor there exits any provision under the Act, 1921, under which compassionate appointment can be provided to the dependent of deceased employee of unaided school or college, covered under the Act, 1921. The Institution was taken up in grant-in-aid on 01.04.1996 and beings so, under Regulations 103-107 of Chapter III of the Act, 1921, the petitioner is not entitled for appointment on compassionate ground as when the father of the petitioner expired, the College in issue was not in grant-in-aid. The provisions as envisaged under Regulation 103-107 of the Act, 1921 were/are applicable only on the Institution/College which were/are in grant-in-aid and the same would apply if an employee of the college, during service tenure, expires after college is taken in grant-in-aid and it would not apply in relation to the employee of unaided college.

9. It is further stated that even otherwise the mandatory provision as prescribed under Regulation 103-107 of the Act, 1921 have not been followed for providing appointment on compassionate ground to the petitioner. Without following the procedure prescribed under Regulation 103-107 of the Act, 1921, the Committee of Management of the College appointed the petitioner on the post of Assistant Teacher in the pay-scale of Rs. 5500-9000/-.

10. Accordingly, it is submitted that the appointment of the petitioner is not valid and he is neither entitled to continue on the post in issue nor he is entitled to payment of salary from the State Exchequer.

11. The prayer is to dismiss the writ petition.

12. In response to the submissions made by Sri Gyanendra Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for the respondent Nos. 1 to 3, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the appointment of the petitioner was made in the year 2008 vide order dated 16.10.2008 and he is still continuing in the College on the post of Assistant Teacher and in view of the facts and circumstances of the case particularly the continuation of the petitioner on the post of Assistant Teacher since 16.10.2008 (the date of appointment of the petitioner), the petitioner is entitled to continue on the post in question and his appointment on compassionate ground, at this stage, is not liable to be interfered with.

13. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance on the judgment of this Court passed in the case of Rani Srivastava v. State of Uttar Pradesh, 1989 SCC OnLine All 535 : (1990) 1 LLN 633 : (1990) 16 ALR 357 : (1990) 1 AWC 342. The relevant portion of the same on reproduction reads as under:-

"2. Undisputedly, Sri Gita Bal Mandir Junior High School, Kashipur (Nainital), is recognised under Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Act, 1972. In June 1984, the petitioner was appointed on a fixed salary on probation till 30 November 1984. By letter, dated 15 November 1984, she was made permanent with effect from 1 December 1984. In August 1985, a fresh letter was issued that she is being appointed temporary and her services were liable to be terminated at any time. The petitioner immediately made representation that she having become permanent by letter, dated 15 November 1984, she could not be appointed afresh temporary. No action was taken on it. And the process of issuing letter by secretary that she was being appointed temporarily either till June or May or April continued in 1986, 1987 and 1988. Each time petitioner objected. In 1985, she represented to secretary, that she having been appointed permanently the fresh letters of appointment treating her temporary were illegal. In 1989, it appears one of the members raised an issue that for better administration of college it was necessary to appoint a male principal and Basic Shiksha Adhikari also raised peculiar objection and wrote to the management that unless regular principal was appointed he was not willing to grant approval to the appointment of teachers. Consequently management issued advertisement, aggrieved by which petitioner approached this Court.

3. Doubt was raised on the language of letter appointing petitioner permanently in November 1984, and it was urged that the second clause indicated that petitioner was not a permanent employee. Needless to say that the order was issued in printed form containing various clauses. Therefore, no assistance could be derived from it. Moreover the original filed with supplementary affidavit dispelled any doubt as Cl. 2 and other clauses which were not relevant were either scored or crossed to show that it was not applicable.

4. Resignation by petitioner was yet another issue which was attempted to be pressed, but it could not be supported by any document. Even the letters issued in 1985, 1986 and 1987 do not state that since petitioner had resigned she was being appointed afresh temporarily. It was a futile attempt to give strength to letter appointing petitioner temporarily in 1985. Mere vague assertion that petitioner being headmistress must have removed papers was of no consequence. How could she remove the record of secretary or committee of management? No material thus could be brought on record to show that petitioner resigned in 1985.

5. Principal infirmity in appointment of petitioner, that could be pointed out, was that it was made without issuing any advertisement and recommendation by selection committee. May be; but could the management which appointed petitioner in 1984, and the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, who did not raise any objection to payment of salary for five years raise this objection in 1989? The appointing authority under rules is the committee of management. And the approving authority is the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, who under Uttar Pradesh Act 6 of 1979, is also to supervise the payment of salary and is empowered to inspect and check. For five years no objection was raised by him. And then suddenly when one of the members desired that a male principal should be appointed, he also raised an objection. The petitioner had raised objection as far back as 1985, against her being treated as temporary employee. No action was taken on it. Nor any decision was given. For procedural irregularity the petitioner should not be made to suffer. Normally it is to be presumed that management must have sent papers for appointment of petitioner to Basic Shiksha Adhikari who must have granted approval unless it is rebutted either by placing any communication by management or from record of Basic Shiksha Adhikari to show that things did not proceed as they are provided in the Act. In absence of any material there is no reason to doubt that committee of management would have appointed without intimating Basic Shiksha Adhikari and would have even issued letter appointing petitioner permanently and Basic Shiksha Adhikari would not have raised any objection in respect of payment of salary, etc., from 1984 to 1989. Change of secretary or Basic Shiksha Adhikari should not be permitted to create any difference, otherwise it shall result in creating arbitrariness and expose teachers of being thrown out of employment on one or the other pretext and shall never have security which is necessary for efficient discharge of duty. Equity stands in her favour and prevents both the appointing and approving authority from taking recourse to their own mistakes, for causing prejudice to petitioner. Estoppel, the principle of equity, is the shield for such unjust and unfair actions."

14. The prayer is to allow the writ petition.

15. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

16. From the pleadings made in the writ petition as also the documents on record, it is undisputed fact that the petitioner was appointed vide order dated 16.10.2008 on the post of Assistant Teacher in the pay-scale of Rs. 5500-9000/- by the Committee of Management/respondent No. 4 of the College.

17. It is also undisputed that prior to issuing the order of appointment dated 16.10.2008, the procedure as prescribed under Regulation 103-107 of the Act, 1921 was not allowed.

18. It is also undisputed that the provisions for providing appointment came into existence on 30.07.1992 subsequently amended in the year 1995 and the same were/are applicable on the Institutions/Colleges covered under the Act, 1921, which are on grant-in-aid.

19. It is also undisputed rather admitted that when the father of the petitioner expired on 17.05.1986, the School/Institution, in which the petitioner was appointed vide order dated 16.10.2008, was not in grant-in-aid as the same was taken in grant-in-aid on 01.04.1996.

20. It is also admitted fact that the father of the petitioner expired when the petitioner was minor (one and half year old) and on attaining the age of majority, the petitioner applied for appointment on compassionate ground in the year 2008 i.e. after 22 and a half year of death of his father.

21. From Regulations 103-107 under Chapter III of the Act, 1921, it appears that the appointment on compassionate ground can only be made on the recommendation of the Committee as provided under Regulation 105 and in the instant case as appears from the record, the appointment of the petitioner was not made on the recommendation made by the Committee as provided under Regulation 105 of the Act, 1921.

22. A Division Bench of this Court in the judgment dated 09.05.2017 passed in Special Appeal No.264 of 2017 (Abdul Qadir Vs. State of U.P.) observed as under:-

"Accepted position in the present case is that father of petitioner-appellant has died in the year 2012, and at the said point of time, when father of petitioner-appellant has died, there was no provision under which compassionate appointment could have been provided to the dependent of the deceased incumbent who have been serving in Government aided Madarsa. Service conditions at the said point of time was governed by non-statutory rule known as "Uttar Pradesh Ashaskeeya Arbi Tatha Fasi Madarson Ki Manata Niyamawali, 1987. On the date of death of petitioner-appellant's father, there was no provision in existence for offering appointment, is clearly indicative of the fact that the terms and condition of service that has been prevailing on the said date, there has been no provision for providing compassionate appointment, in case incumbent had died in harness.

Rules in question namely, Uttar Pradesh Non-Governmental Arbic and Persian Madarsa Recognition, Administration and Services Regulation, 2016 has been enforced w.e.f. 22.07.2016 wherein categorical mention has been made that it shall came into force from the date of notification in the gazette. Part-III of aforementioned Regulations deals with teaching and non-teaching employees, and in the said chapter while considering the terms and condition of teaching and non-teaching employees, provision has been incorporated for providing compassionate appointment to one of the dependent on death of an employee during service. One dependent has to apply within a period of five years in the Madarsa. Thus these statutory provisions are clear to the effect that for the first time while introducing the terms and condition of teaching and non-teaching employees, the aforementioned provisions has been introduced for providing compassionate appoint on death of employee in Madarsa during service period and dependent was free to move an application within a period of five years.

Consequently, under the scheme of things provided for, Regulations are clearly prospective in nature and effect and for the first time time provision has been incorporated for providing compassionate appointment on death of incumbent during service period to one of the dependent under the terms and condition of service, in this backdrop, claim that has been made to provide compassionate under the aforementioned regulation, certainty cannot be directed by us inasmuch as, we cannot proceed to enlarge the scope of aforementioned regulation, as on its face value, it is prospective in nature and would not include within its fold all such teaching and non teaching staff under whose condition of service, there has been no provision for providing compassionate appointment. Compassionate appointment has to be considered as per the scheme that has been in vague at the time of death of employee concerned. Apex Court in the case of Canara Bank v. Mahesh Kumar (2015) 7 SCC 412, has further provided that compassionate appointment cannot be made in the absence of Rules and Regulations, and request has to be considered strictly in accordance with the governing scheme, and no discretion is left with any authority to make compassionate appointment dehors the scheme. Here the scheme in question introduced by way of Regulation for providing compassionate appointment w.e.f. 22.07.2016 in no way suggests that benefit of the same would be extended even in reference of those employees, teaching and non teaching, whose death has taken place, prior to enforcement of Regulation.

In view of this, Special Appeal stands dismissed."

23. Insofar as the arguments made by the counsel for the petitioner pertaining to the vested rights accrued in favour of the petitioner is concerned, the law in this connection is well settled in the case of Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana (1994) 4 SCC 138, the Supreme Court explained the basic purpose of providing compassionate appointment to the dependent of a deceased employee, died in harness.

"The object is not to give a member of such family a post much less a post for post held by the deceased. What is further, mere death of an employee in harness does not entitle his family to such source of livelihood. The Government or the public authority concerned has to examine the financial condition of the family of the deceased, and it is only if it is satisfied, that but for the provision of employment, the family will not be able to meet the crisis that a job is to be offered to the eligible member of the family. The posts in Classes III and IV are the lowest posts in non-manual and manual categories and hence they alone can be offered on compassionate grounds, the object being to relieve the family, of the financial destitution and to help it get over the emergency. ... For these very reasons, the compassionate employment cannot be granted after a lapse of reasonable period which must be specified in the rules. The consideration for such employment is not a vested right which can be exercised at any time in future. The object being to enable the family to get over the financial crisis which it faces at the time of the death of the sole breadwinner, the compassionate employment cannot be claimed and offered whatever the lapse of time and after the crisis is over."

24. The law in this connection is well settled by the Supreme Court in large number of cases. The Supreme Court in the case of Commissioner of Public Instructions v. K.R. Vishwanath (2005) 7 SCC 206 laid down the following principles:--

"...the claim of person concerned for appointment on compassionate ground is based on the premises that he was dependent on the deceased employee. Strictly this claim cannot be upheld on the touchstone of Article 14 or 16 of the Constitution of India. However, such claim is considered as reasonable and permissible on the basis of sudden crisis occurring in the family of such employee who has served the State and dies while in service. That is why it is necessary for the authorities to frame rules, regulations or to issue such administrative orders which can stand the test of Articles 14 and 16. Appointment on compassionate ground cannot be claimed as a matter of right. ...High Courts and Administrative Tribunals cannot confer benediction impelled by sympathetic considerations to make appointments on compassionate grounds when the regulations framed in respect thereof do not cover and contemplate such appointments."

25. Similar view has been again taken by the Supreme Court in the case of State of J. & K. v. Sajad Ahmad Mir, (2006) 5 SCC 766 : 2006 (6) AWC 6209 (SC), wherein the Court observed as under:-

"Normally, an employment in Government or other public sectors should be open to all eligible candidates who can come forward to apply and compete with each other. It is in consonance with Article 14 of the Constitution. On the basis of competitive merits, an appointment should be made to public office. This general rule should not be departed from except where compelling circumstances demand, such as, death of the sole breadwinner and likelihood of the family suffering because of the set back. Once it is proved that in spite of death of bread earner, the family survived and substantial period is over, there is no necessity to say "goodbye' to the normal rule of appointment and to show favour to one at the cost of interests of several others ignoring the mandate of Article 14 of the Constitution."

26. Certain principles of law has been laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of V. Shivamurthy v. State of Andhra Pradesh (2008) 13 SCC 730, namely:--

"(a) Compassionate appointment based only on descent is impermissible. Appointments in public service should be made strictly on the basis of open invitation of applications and comparative merit, having regard to Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. Though no other mode of appointment is permissible, appointments on compassionate grounds are a well recognised exception to the said general rule, carved out in the interest of justice to meet certain contingencies.

(b) Two well recognized contingencies which are carved out as exceptions to the general rule are:

(i) appointment on compassionate grounds to meet the sudden crisis occurring in a family on account of the death of the bread-winner while in service.

(ii) appointment on compassionate ground to meet the crisis in a family on account of medical invalidation of the bread winner.

Another contingency, though less recognized, is where land holders lose their entire land for a public project, the scheme provides for compassionate appointment to members of the families of project affected persons. (Particularly where the law under which the acquisition is made does provide for market value and solatium, as compensation).

(c) Compassionate appointment can neither be claimed, nor be granted, unless the rules governing the service permit such appointments. Such appointments shall be strictly in accordance with the scheme governing such appointments and against existing vacancies.

(d) Compassionate appointments are permissible only in the case of a dependant member of the family of the employee concerned, that is, spouse, son or daughter and not other relatives. Such appointments should be only to posts in the lower category, that is, Classes III and IV posts and the crises cannot be permitted to be converted into a boon by seeking employment in Class I or II posts."

27. Further the Supreme Court in the case of Union of India v. Shashank Goswami (2012) 11 SCC 307 : 2012 (5) AWC 4734 (SC) has held that appointments on compassionate ground have to be made in accordance with the rules, regulations or administrative instructions taking into consideration the financial condition of the family of the deceased. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid judgment are quoted below:-

"9. There can be no quarrel to the settled legal proposition that the claim for appointment on compassionate grounds is based on the premise that the applicant was dependent on the deceased employee. Strictly, such a claim cannot be upheld on the touchstone of Article 14 or 16 of the Constitution of India. However, such claim is considered as reasonable and permissible on the basis of sudden crisis occurring in the family of such employee who has served the State and dies while in service. Appointment on compassionate ground cannot be claimed as a matter of right.

10. As a rule public service appointment should be made strictly on the basis of open invitation of applications and merit. The appointment on compassionate ground is not another source of recruitment but merely an exception to the aforesaid requirement taking into consideration the fact of the death of the employee while in service leaving his family without any means of livelihood. In such cases the object is to enable the family to get over sudden financial crisis and not to confer a status on the family. Thus, the applicant cannot claim appointment in a particular class/group of post. Appointments on compassionate ground have to be made in accordance with the rules, regulations or administrative instructions taking into consideration the financial condition of the family of the deceased."

28. Once again the Supreme Court in the case of Chief Commissioner, Central Excise and Customs, Lucknow v. Prabhat Singh (2013) (5) AWC 5062 (SC) held that compassionate appointment is not a gift to all those who seeks court's intervention and the Court may issue directions in the case where appointment on compassionate ground, could deprive a really needy family requiring financial support, and thereby, push into penury a truly indigent, destitute and impoverished family. Relevant portion of the aforesaid judgment is quoted below:--

"We are constrained to record that even compassionate appointments are regulated by norms. Where such norms have been laid down, the same have to be strictly followed...The very object of making provision for appointment on compassionate ground, is to provide succor to a family dependent on a government employee, who has unfortunately died in harness. On such death, the family suddenly finds itself in dire straits, on account of the absence of its sole bread winner. Delay in seeking such a claim, is an anti thesis, for the purpose for which compassionate appointment was conceived. Delay in raising such a claim, is contradictory to the object sought to be achieved... Courts and Tribunals should not fall prey to any sympathy syndrome, so as to issue directions for compassionate appointments, without reference to the prescribed norms. Courts are not supposed to carry Santa Claus's big bag on Christmas eve, to disburse the gift of compassionate appointment, to all those who seek a court's intervention. Courts and Tribunals must understand, that every such act of sympathy, compassion and discretion, wherein directions are issued for appointment on compassionate ground, could deprive a really needy family requiring financial support, and thereby, push into penury a truly indigent, destitute and impoverished family. Discretion is therefore ruled out. So are, misplaced sympathy and compassion."

29. In the case of MGB Gramin Bank v. Chakrawarti Singh reported in (2014) 13 SCC 583 : AIR 2013 SC 3365, the Supreme Court has observed as follows:

"Every appointment to public office must be made by strictly adhering to the mandatory requirements of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution. An exception by providing employment on compassionate grounds has been carved out in order to remove the financial constraints on the bereaved family, which has lost its bread-earner. Mere death of a Government employee in harness does not entitle the family to claim compassionate employment. The Competent Authority has to examine the financial condition of the family of the deceased employee and it is only if it is satisfied that without providing employment, the family will not be able to meet the crisis, that a job is to be offered to the eligible member of the family. More so, the person claiming such appointment must possess required eligibility for the post. The consistent view that has been taken by the Court is that compassionate employment cannot be claimed as a matter of right, as it is not a vested right.

The Court should not stretch the provision by liberal interpretation beyond permissible limits on humanitarian grounds."

30. A division Bench of this Court in the case of Vishal Singh v.State of U.P.

reported in 2018 (2) ESC 1036 (All.) (DB) was pleased to hold that the appointment on compassionate ground is given to tide over the immediate financial difficulties faced by the family of the deceased and that a minor cannot claim appointment on compassionate ground unless scheme itself envisages that as and when such minor becomes major, he can be appointed without any time limit.

31. Full Bench of this Court in the case of Shiv Kumar Dubey v. State of U.P., 2014 AWC 3016, formulated the principles which must govern the compassionate appointment in pursuance to the Dying in Harness Rules. In paragraph 29(ii), it was held by Full Bench of this Court that there is no general or vested right to compassionate appointment. Compassionate appointment can be claimed only where a scheme or rules provide for such appointment. Relevant portion in this regard is quoted below:--

29. We now proceed to formulate the principles which must govern compassionate appointment in pursuance of Dying in Harness Rules:

(i) A provision for compassionate appointment is an exception to the principle that there must be an equality of opportunity in matters of public employment. The exception to be constitutionally valid has to be carefully structured and implemented in order to confine compassionate appointment to only those situations which subserve the basic object and purpose which is sought to be achieved;

(ii) There is no general or vested right to compassionate appointment. Compassionate appointment can be claimed only where a scheme or rules provide for such appointment. Where such a provision is made in an administrative scheme or statutory rules, compassionate appointment must fall strictly within the scheme or, as the case may be, the rules;

32. In view of the facts as stated, it is clear that a person can not be given appointment on compassionate ground unless the Rules or the scheme provides for such appointment or their exists some vested rights in his favour.

33. In the present case, from the facts as narrated above, it is clear that:-

(i) At the time of death of father of petitioner, there was no Rule or statutory provisions for providing appointment on compassionate ground to the dependent of deceased employee working in unaided school/college covered under the Act, 1921 and as such no vested right accrued in favour of the petitioner on the death of his father to get appointment on compassionate ground.

(ii) In the year 2008, when the petitioner was appointed by the Committee of Management even at that point of time there was no provision or Rule under which the dependent of deceased employee of unaided school/college, covered under the Act, 1921, subsequently taken up in grant-in-aid, could be appointed on compassionate ground.

(iii) Even, subsequent to aforesaid, till date, no provision has been made under the Act, 1921 for providing compassionate appointment to the dependent of deceased employee of unaided school/college or unaided school/college subsequently taken up in grant-in-aid.

(iv) The appointment of the petitioner on compassionate ground is in violation of Regulation 105 under Chapter

III of the Act, 1921, as without the recommendation of Committee provided under Regulation 105, the Committee of Management of the college appointed the petitioner on compassionate ground on the post of Assistant Teacher.

(v) The petitioner was appointed on compassionate ground after 22 and a half year of death of his father. Highly belated appointment, against the spirit of providing compassionate appointment.

34. Taking into consideration the facts of the case and aforesaid settled legal preposition on the issue of providing compassionate appointment, according to which compassionate appointment can be given strictly as per the scheme/rule applicable at the time of death of the employee and should not be provided at highly belated stage, as also the Regulations 103-107 of Chapter III of the Act, 1921 this Court is of the view that the ground taken in the order impugned to the effect that the College was not in grant-in-aid when the father of the petitioner expired and accordingly, no right was accrued in his favour for seeking appointment on compassionate ground under the aforesaid Regulations, is justified.

35. In the aforesaid factual background and taking into consideration the settled legal position, narrated hereinabove with regard to compassionate appointment, this Court is of the view that the order passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Unnao dated 29.05.2009 is not liable to be interfered with.

36. In regard to the submissions made by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner was appointed vide order dated 16.10.2008 and he is still continuing in service on the post of Assistant Teacher in the College in question and the appointment of the petitioner, at this stage, is not liable to the interfered with and the direction be issued to the State/Respondents to pay salary to the petitioner w.e.f. 01.11.2008, this Court considered the judgment placed by the learned counsel for the petitioner in support of his case, referred hereinabove, and on due consideration of the same and the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Secretary, State of Karnataka and others v. Umadevi (3) and others, (2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753, wherein the Apex Court observed that any appointment made in violation of the Rules as also in violation of Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India would be nullity, I am of the view that the petitioner is not entitled to any indulgence from this Court on the ground that he is continuing on the post since 01.11.2008. The appointment made in violation of mandatory provisions of Statute/Rule would be illegal and thus, void. Illegality cannot be rectified. Illegality cannot be regularized, only an irregularity can be.

37. Needless to say that it is well settled that when there is conflict between law and equity, it is law which has to prevail. It is latin maxim "dura lex sed lex" is to be taken note of, which means 'that law is harsh but it is law. Equity can only supplement the law, but it cannot supplant or override it.

38. Further, it is also settled principle of law that Court should not exercise its jurisdiction only on sympathy.

39. Considering the entire aspects of the case including the reasoning recorded by this Court, hereinabove, this Court finds that the writ petition lacks merit.

40. It is accordingly dismissed with no order as to costs.

"17. We have perused the facts pleaded in the writ petition and the documents relied upon by the appellant. Indisputably, the appellant reported sickness on account of various ailments including difficulty in breathing. He was referred to hospital. Consequently, he was signed off for further medical treatment. Finally, the respondent permanently declared the appellant unfit for sea service due to dilated cardiomyopathy (heart muscles disease). As a result, the Shipping Department of the Government of India issued an order on 12.4.2011 cancelling the registration of the appellant as a seaman. A copy of the letter was sent to the appellant at his native place in Bihar where he was staying after he was found medically unfit. It further appears that the appellant sent a representation from his home in the State of Bihar to the respondent claiming disability compensation. The said representation was replied by the respondent, which was addressed to him on his home address in Gaya, Bihar rejecting his claim for disability compensation. It is further evident that when the appellant was signed off and declared medically unfit, he returned back to his home in the District of Gaya, Bihar and, thereafter, he made all claims and filed representation from his home address at Gaya and those letters and representations were entertained by the respondents and replied and a decision on those representations were communicated to him on his home address in Bihar. Admittedly, appellant was suffering from serious heart muscles disease (Dilated Cardiomyopathy) and breathing problem which forced him to stay in native place, wherefrom he had been making all correspondence with regard to his disability compensation. Prima facie, therefore, considering all the facts together, a part or fraction of cause of action arose within the jurisdiction of the Patna High Court where he received a letter of refusal disentitling him from disability compensation."

6. Replying the second objection regarding the delay in approaching the Court for claiming the dues, learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn attention of this Court towards another judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in re: M.R. Gupta vs. Union of India and others reported in (1995) 5 SCC 628, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that if the grievance of an employee is relating to the proper pay fixation etc. it shall be treated recurring cause of action and limitation shall not be treated as barred.

7. In the present case, the benefit of 6th Pay Commission accrued in the year 2006 and of 7th Pay Commission in the year 2016. The letter to that effect has been issued by the opposite party No.6 to the petitioner on 14.06.2017 seeking information. The said letter dated 14.06.2017 has been annexed as Annexure No.8 to the writ petition.

8. Further, the letter dated 20.02.2020, which has been brought into the notice of this Court by learned counsel for the petitioner, clearly reveals that the aforesaid grievance of the petitioner is pending consideration, for that, some documents have been asked and as per learned counsel for the petitioner those documents have already been provided to the Competent Authority.

9. It has been noted that all those correspondences have been made with the petitioner on his address at Sultanpur (U.P.). Besides, the petitioner is aged about 80 years and in the old age he has been suffering couple of diseases.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that the petitioner has preferred couple of representations to the Competent Authorities but no proper decision has been taken. Therefore, the petitioner may be permitted to prefer a fresh representation to the Authority Competent and the direction may be issued to decide the same within time frame.

11. Be that as it may, in view of the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in re: Nawal Kishore Sharma (supra) the cause of action in terms of Article 226 (2) of the Constitution of India has arisen within the jurisdiction of this Court at Lucknow and in view of the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in re: M.R. Gupta (supra), the cause of action for getting the benefits of 6th Pay Commission and 7th Pay Commission is still existing. Therefore, it is a recurring cause of action, hence, the second ground may not sustain in the eyes of law.

12. Therefore, in view of the above, the petitioner is permitted to prefer a fresh representation to the opposite party No.6 i.e. Deputy Inspector General, Group Centre, Central Reserve Police Force, Mokama Ghat, Patna, Bihar taking all pleas and grounds which are available with him enclosing therewith the copies of his earlier representations and other relevant documents which are necessary for disposal of his representation within a period of one month from today, and if, such representation is preferred by the petitioner within the aforesaid stipulated time, the Authority Competent shall consider and decide the same strictly in accordance with law by speaking and reasoned order with expedition, preferably, within a period of three months from the date of presentation of a certified copy of this order along with representation and the decision thereof be communicated to the petitioner forthwith.

13. In view of the aforesaid terms, the writ petition is disposed of finally.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ajay Pratap Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Sri Rishabh Tripathi and Sri K.M.Shukla, learned Counsel for the respondents.

2. The present petition has been filed, for the following main reliefs:-

"I. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of CERTIORARI thereby quashing the impugned order dated 4.7.2011 passed by the Director of Education (Secondary), U.P. , Lucknow (opposite party No. 2) contained as Annexure No. 1 to the writ petition.

II. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of MANDAMUS commanding the Opposite Parties to provide the financial approval to the petitioner on the post of Assistant Teacher (Modern Subject) in Ram Deshik Sanskrit Uchchtar Madhyamik Vidyalya, Ankaripur, District Faizabad as admittedly the opposite party NO. 6 and 7 are juniors to the petitioner and they have been accorded financial approval."

3. The brief facts of the case as stated in the writ petition, are that the petitioner was appointed on the post of Assistant Teacher (Modern Subject) on 1.7.2005 by the Manager, Committee of Management by following the due process in Ram Deshik Sanskrit Uchchtar Madhyamik Vidyalya Rampur, Ankaripur, District Faizabad (now Ayodhya) (in short "Institution"). The petitioner joined his duties on the post of Assistant Teacher (Modern Subject) on 4.7.2005. In the year 2008, with regard to taking the Institution in grant-in-aid, the name of the Teacher as well as Principal was submitted before the authorities concerned in which the name of the opposite party No. 6 and 7 does not find place. On 12.08.2010, the State Government issued a Government Order by which the institution of the petitioner was taken into grant-in-aid list. When the manager came to know regarding the grant-in-aid of the Institution, he immediately changed the list of teachers by mixing the name of his son and daughter-in-law viz Alok Kumar Tiwari (Opposite Party No. 7) and Mithilesh Kumar (opposite party no. 6). Thereafter, the District Inspector of Schools, Faizabad, sent a letter to the opposite party no. 2 on 29.03.2011 with the observation that two different lists have been submitted in respect of teaching staff and requested the respondent no. 2 to do the needful in the matter. From the records of District Inspector of Schools, Faizabad it appears that appointment of opposite party nos. 6 and 7 were of 01.07.2009 and 02.07.2009 respectively and petitioner has been working since 04.07.2005. The petitioner is still working on the post of Assistant Teacher (Modern Subject) since the date of joining. The petitioner is fully eligible and qualified for the appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher (Modern Subject) and being so entitled to salary from State.

4. Opposing the writ petition, the respondent nos. 4, 6 and 7 have filed counter affidavit and supplementary counter affidavit filed by the respondent nos. 6 and 7 is also on record.

5. In the affidavit filed by the opposite partiy nos. 4, 6 and 7 it is stated that Ram Deshik Sanskrit Uchchtar Madhyamik Vidyalya, Ramapur, Faizabad, where the petitioner was working, is affiliated to Sampurna Nand Sanskrit University, Varanasi(in short "University") and as per the Government Order dated 28.06.1993, the qualification for the post of Assistant Teacher (Modern/Adhunik) is Post Graduate with Second Division, whereas the petitioner is Post Graduate with Third Division and keeping in view the same the financial approval with regard to appointment of petitioner was not given by the respondent no. 2.

6. Pressing the writ petition for the reliefs sought the learned Counsel for the petitioner submitted that the petitioner was appointed in the recognized Institution affiliated to Sampurna Nand Sanskrit University, Varanasi, imparting education upto the Uttar Madhyma, on the post of Assistant Teacher and qualification provided for the posts of Assistant Teacher of Modern Subjects in Ordinance of University dated 26.06.1993 is only Post Graduate and not Post Graduate with Second Division and as such the petitioner is entitled to financial approval as also the salary from State Exchequer.

7. Per contra, learned Counsel for the State Sri Rishabh Tripathi as also the learned Counsel for the respondent nos. 6 and 7 Sri K.M.Shukla, submitted that in the instant case, as per Ordinance dated 26.06.1993 the minimum qualification for the post of Assistant Teachers (Modern Subjects/Adhunik) is Post Graduate with Second Division whereas the petitioner, admittedly is Post Graduate with Third Second as such he does not fulfill the minimum requisite qualification consequently he is not entitled to salary for State Exchequer.

8. On the basis of pleadings on record and submission of learned Counsel for the parties that the questioner(s) for consideration are that (i) Whether petitioner is eligible and qualifed for the post of Assistant Teacher (Modern Subject/Adhunik) being Post Graduate with Third Division and (ii) whether the requisite qualification for the post of Assistant Teacher (Modern Subject/Adhunik).

9. Heard learned Counsel for the parties and perused the records.

10. For deciding the questions involved in the instant writ petition, it would be appropriate to take notes of the relevant portion of Ordinance dated 28.06.1993 and earlier Ordinance dated 26.09.1991 of the University prescribing minimum qualification for the post of Assistant Teacher (Modern Subjects/Adhunik) in the recognized Institution imparting education upto Uttar Madhyma affiliated to University.

11. Relevant portion of Ordinance dated 26.09.1991 reads as under:-

"4–उत्तरमध्यमा स्तर तक मान्यताप्राप्त विद्यालय के अध्यापकों की न्यूनतम अर्हताएं निम्नलिखित होंगीः–

(क)सम्बद्ध विषय में कम से कम द्वितीय श्रेणी में स्नातकोत्तर उपाधि।

(ख) प्रशिक्षण और परम्परागत उपाधि को वरीयता।"

12. Relevant portion of Ordinance dated 28.06.1993 reads as under:-

"उत्तर मध्यमा स्तर तक मान्यता प्राप्त विद्यालयों के अध्यापकों की न्यूनतम अर्हताएँ निम्नलिखित होगी–

क) सम्बद्ध विषय में कम से कम द्वितीय श्रेणी में ष्कष् वर्गीय विषय में आचार्य उपाधि और आधुनिक विषयों के अध्यापकों के पदों के लिए स्नातकोत्तर उपाधि।"

13. To answer the questioner(s) aforesaid, this Court of the view that English version of Ordinance dated 28.06.1993 is also required to be considered but the same has not been produced by any of the party and accordingly the free hand translation of the same reads as under:-

"Minimum Second Class in related subject for "A" category subjects Acharya Degree and for the posts of Assistant Teachers (Modern Subjects/ Adhunik Vishyon) Post Graduate Degree."

14. From the above quoted provision, under consideration, it appears that word "And/और" has been used therein between two category of Assistant Teachers. Now the question is that what would be effect of word "And" in the provision.

15. "And" is a grammatical conjunction used to indicate that one or more classes/cases it connects. Further, it connects clauses or sentences and is generally used in cumulative sense.

16. The word "and" is generally conjunctive and in only exceptional circumstances, the word "and" may be capable of being read as "or", to manifest intention of legislature if the context so demands. In normal course the term "and" has a cumulative sense, requiring the fulfilment of all the conditions that are joined together. (Sec: S.Krishnan v. State of Madras, AIR 1951 SC 301: 1951 SCJ 453: 1951 SCR 621; Vidyacharan Shukla v. Khubchand Baghel, AIR 1964 SC 1099: (1964) 2 SCA 505:(1964) 6 SCR 129; Ishwar Singh Bindra v. State of Uttar Pradesh, AIR 1968 SC 1450: 1968 Cr.LJ 19 (1969) 1 SCR 219; State of Tamil Nadu v. R. Krishnamurthy, AIR 1980 SC 538; and Fakir Mohd. v. Sita Ram, AIR 2002 SC 433: (2002) 1 SCC 741: JT 2001 (10) SC 530.

17. Considering the aforesaid including the earlier Ordinance dated 26.09.1991 and the settled legal preposition with regard to use of word "And", I am of the view that the effect of word "And/vkSj" used in the relevant part of Ordinance dated 28.06.1993 is that the expression "Minimum Second Class" is required for appointment of Assistant Teacher on post(s) related to, "A" Category Subjects as also for "Modern Subjects".

18. Thus, the answer to question no. 2 is that Post Graduate Degree with minimum Second Class is required for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher (Modern Subject/ Adhunik).

19. In view of above, the answer to the question no. 1, is that the petitioner is not qualified for the post of Assistant Teacher (Modern Subject/Adhunik).

20. In view of the aforesaid, the petitioner is not entitled to the salary from the State Exchequer.

21. Thus, the writ petition for the relief sought is misconceived and hence dismissed accordingly.

22. No order as to to costs.

1. Since similar question of facts and law are involved in the bunch of writ petitions, therefore, they are being decided by this common order.

2. By means of bunch of writ petitions the petitioners have challenged the order passed by learned Advocate General vide which appointment of the petitioners have been cancelled and their services have been terminated with immediate effect.

3. In Writ Petition Nos.883 (SS) of 2019, 3047 (SS) of 2018, 3402 (SS) of 2018, 3880 (SS) of 2018 & 4634 (SS) of 2018, the petitioners have challenged order dated 22.12.2017 by means of which appointment order of the petitioners has been cancelled and their services have been terminated with immediate effect.

4. The background facts in which Writ Petition No.9184 (SS) of 2018 has been filed are briefly stated as under:-

(i) Petitioners are Class - IV employees and were working on the post of Peon (Anusewak) in the office of Chief Standing Counsel of High Court of Judicature at Allahabad as well as Lucknow. While Petitioners No.1 to 4 were working on the post of Peon (Anusewak) in the office of Chief Standing Counsel at Lucknow and Petitioners No. 5 & 6 were working as Peon (Anusewak) in the office of Chief Standing Counsel at Allahabad. Petitioners No.1, 3 & 5 belong to General Category, Petitioners Nos. 2 & 4 belong to Other Backward Category and Petitioner No.6 belongs to Scheduled Caste Category.

(ii) In year 2013, in the office of Respondent No.2 and State Law Officers (Establishment), several posts in Class - III category namely Stenographers, Assistant Review Officers and Computer Assistants as well as posts of Class - IV employees were lying vacant. Those posts were duly sanctioned in accordance with the procedure prescribed in the statute. Vide order/letter dated 18.06.2013 issued by Special Secretary (Law), Government of U.P. to Chief Standing Counsel of this Court at Allahabad and Lucknow, it was requested to make available the proposal to the State Government for appointment of Stenographers and other staffs in the office of Chief Standing Counsel in compliance of judgment and order dated 09.04.2013 passed in Writ Petition No. 1 (S/B) of 2013 (State of U.P. & Anr. Vs. Dallaram & Anr.). In pursuance of the said letter, the decision to fill up the aforesaid vacancies was taken by the then learned Advocate General.

(iii) In another order dated 25.11.2013 passed in Writ Petition No.7155 (MB) of 2008 (C/M Dhirja Devi Ram Adhar Kanya Inter Colleve V. State of U.P. & Ors.), the Division Bench of this Court passed the following orders:-

"Earlier, this Court had directed to send the record of listed cases to different counsel according to allocation of work.

Learned Standing Counsel pointed out that the records of the cases listed are not being sent by the CSC Office to them.

Today, the record of this case has not been sent by the CSC office, due to which the learned Standing Counsel is unable to argue the case.

Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that since last two dates, the record of this case is not made available with the learned Standing Counsel. Hence, arguments could not be held.

There appears mismanagement of the CSC office.

List/put up on 28.11.2013. On the said date, Principal Secretary (Law) shall appear in person before this Court to show cause as to why an adverse entry may not be entered in his character roll for failing to administer the office of Chief Standing Counsel and also for failing of non compliance of earlier direction issued by this Court which also amounts to a contempt. He shall also a show cause as to why a contempt proceeding may not be initiated against him for non complying with the order passed by this Court in not providing requisite infrastructure and assistance to this Court.

Principal Secretary (Law) be informed forthwith by learned Standing Counsel as well as Register of this Court for compliance.

Learned Standing Counsel shall also produce the copy of order passed earlier by the Division Bench of this Court by which certain directions were issued to the authority concerned on the date fixed.

List on 27.11.2013."

(iv) Pursuant to the aforesaid order(s), the Division Bench expressed annoyance against the State Government regarding non-providing of requisite infrastructure in the Chief Standing Counsel office. Thereafter, a decision was taken by respondent no.2/Advocate General, Uttar Pradesh to fill up the vacant posts in the Chief Standing Counsel office and for the said purpose, Notice No.737(3) dated 10.12.2013 was issued by Officer on Special Duty (O.S.D) in the office of respondent no.2 inviting applications from the eligible candidates for filling up vacancies on those posts on ad-hoc basis. The said notice was duly circulated and the same was also pasted on the notice boards in the office of Chief Standing Counsel of this Court at Allahabad and Lucknow.

(v) As per the aforesaid notice, last date for submitting the applications was 30.04.2014. The petitioners came to know about the aforesaid vacancy in the office of respondent no.2 and State Law Officers (Establishment). They applied for the said posts as they were eligible.

(vi) A three members selection committee was constituted for appointment on Class - IV posts of Peon (Anusewak) headed by the then Government Advocate at Lucknow. The other members were the then Chief Standing Counsel at Lucknow and the Standing Counsel at Lucknow. An interview took place on 18.06.2014 for the posts of Peon (Anusewak) and the petitioners succeeded in the said interview. After completing the interview, a select list was prepared and the selection committee sent its report/recommendation on 19.06.2014 to respondent no.2 for appointment of selected candidates.

(vii) On the basis of the aforesaid select list, vide office order dated 20.06.2014, a composite appointment letter on the post of Peon (Anusewak) was issued to the petitioners.

(viii) In furtherance of the aforesaid appointment order/letter, petitioners no.1 to 4 served their joining on the same day i.e. 20.06.2014 at the office of Chief Standing Counsel at Lucknow, petitioner no.5 served his joining on 01.07.2014 and petitioner no.6 served his joining on 20.06.2014 at the office of Chief Standing Counsel at Lucknow. Since then they were performing their duties till issuance of the impugned order dated 22.03.2018.

5. In Writ Petitions No.4520 (SS) of 2017 and Writ Petition No.5198 (SS) of 2017, the petitioners have prayed for a writ in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to release the petitioner's salary as well as pay arrears of salary w.e.f. July, 2014.

6. The Government of U.P. in pursuance of provisions of Clause (3) of Article 348 of Constitution of India notified the U.P. Advocate General and Law Officers Establishment Service rules, 2009 (hereinafter referred as "2009 Rules') on 11.11.2009. On 15.12.2009, the 2009 Rules was amended making amendments in Rule 25(2) and in appendix. The second amendment was made in rules 15 & 16 of 2009 Rules on 19.01.2010. By way of third amendment in 2009 Rules, Rule 31 was inserted on 10.02.2010.

7. In the year 2014, a complaint was made by an Additional Advocate General at Allahabad questioning the appointments of Assistant Review Officers. On the said complaint, the Chief Secretary, Government of U.P. wrote a letter dated 26.06.2014 to Principal Secretary (Law), Government of U.P. instructing therein that there is ban on appointments, hence appointments of Assistant Review Officers is against the appointment policy of the State. The said letter was modified vide order dated 15.07.2014 by the Chief Secretary, Government of U.P. It is also alleged in the instant proceedings that the services of the employees which were appointed on ad-hoc basis were regularised vide order dated 28.07.2014. An inquiry was instituted vide order dated 11.08.2014 issued by Special Secretary, Department of Law, Government of U.P. to inquire about the legality and validity of order dated 28.07.2014.

8. On 13.04.2015, the inquiry report was submitted by Government Advocate, Lucknow stating therein that appointments made by respondent no.2 were proper and valid, and were in accordance with law. It was also stated in the said inquiry report that order of regularisation of the employees of Class - III and Class - IV posts issued by respondent no.2 was also valid and in accordance with law.

9. Further, another inquiry report dated 23.05.2016 was submitted by Additional Advocate General, relevant portion of which is quoted hereinbelow for ready reference:-

"..... After looking into all the documents on record and giving a thoughtful consideration, do not find any discrepancy in either the selection process or in respect of any laxity in the educational qualifications or eligibility criterion and while making the appointments due care and caution was taken by both the Selection Committee and by the then Advocate General, U.P.

I am of the opinion that since no regular appointment had been made since the year 2010 and a large number of vacancies were available in the Office of the Advocate General both at Lucknow and Allahabad and looking to the interest of work, the then Advocate General had taken a decision to make appointment on different posts of Class III and Class IV category.

At this juncture, I would also like to mention that a bench comprising of Hon'ble Mr. Justice D.P. Singh and Hon'ble Mr. Justice Arvind Kumar Tripathi (II) in the case of State of U.P. And another Versus Dalla Ram and another (Writ Petition No.1/SB/2013), had strongly recommended to make appointments in the office of Advocate General, U.P., so that it functions in a proper and better manner and that being the necessity and need of the hour, the Advocate General thought it proper to make adhoc appointments at that point of time. It will also be not out of place if it is mentioned here that all the incumbents whose adhoc appointments were made in the year 2014 have been working since then but are not getting their salary and emoluments which is not in accordance with Constitutional requirements.

Hence, I conclude by saying that since appointments have been done in accordance with law and due to the exigencies of work interest and also in the light of the directions given by the Hon'ble High Court in the case of State of U.P. And another Versus Dalla Ram and another (Writ Petition No.1/SB/2013) and also because the incumbents on the post in question have been working since 2014, the appointments made may be treated as legal and salary may be paid to the persons who are still working."

10. Supplementary report/reply dated 12.09.2016 was also submitted, relevant portion of which is quoted hereinbelow:-

"..... In view of the judgment and order dated 25.11.2013 passed by the Hon'ble Court and looking into the exigencies of work selection and appointment was carried out and while making the aforesaid selection and appointment, due process was adopted as to why the proposal was not send to the government for relaxation in terms of the government order dated 15.03.2012 was not taken is not within my knowledge. Moreover, I have been asked to submit a report in this regard vide order dated 26.10.2015 specially provide that I should give an enquiry report in respect of the appointment made of the Ex-Advocate General Sri Vinay Chandra Mishra, in the office of Advocate General U.P./State Law Officers on the post of 6 Assistant Review Officers, 7 Stenographers and 6 Class IV employees.

Dear Sir, since the queries now raised are not a part of the original reference order on which I had submitted by Enquiry report, these queries are of no relevance.

(ii) That the order passed in the case of State of U.P. and others Vs. Dalla Ram and others related to present issue but since the Hon'ble Court in taken to the office that there was shortage of staff in the office of Advocate General, U.P./State Law Officers and he should issue certain directions and the Advocate General has acted in the light of the aforesaid order dated 25.11.2013 passed by the Hon'ble High Court and no Special Appeal has been preferred against the aforesaid judgment, hence the judgment and order passed by the Hon'ble High Court is of much relevance and needs to be implemented.

(iii) Third query as to why the advertisement was not issued for selection/appointment again cannot be clarified at my end as I was never a part of the selection committee, as it is not a part of the reference order dated 26.10.2015 by which I was appointed as the inquiry officer to enquire into the appointment made by the then Advocate General, U.P. On the post of Assistant Review Officer, Stenographers and Class IV employees. However, it may be clarified that the selection process undertaken at the end of the then Advocate General O.P. Is not taking any as I had already stated in my earlier enquiry report dated 23.05.2016."

11. Vide order dated 22.12.2017, respondent no.2 terminated the services of the petitioners. Vide order dated 03.02.2018, respondent no.2 modified the said termination order dated 22.12.2017 of the petitioners. Finally, order dated 22.03.2018 was passed terminating the services of the petitioners on the basis that appointments of the petitioners were contrary to the provisions of 2009 Rules and their services were regularised in contravention of the provisions of the said rules.

12. Mr. Gaurav Mehrotra, learned counsel appearing for the petitioners in Writ Petition No.9184 (SS) of 2018 has submitted that the appointing authority i.e. Advocate General was fully justified in making appointment on Class - III and Class - IV posts by merely resorting to the procedure prescribed in Sub-Rule 2 of Rule 14 of 2009 Rules. It is submitted that the situation occurred due to the decision and observation made by Division Bench vide order dated 09.04.2013 (supra) vide which the Division Bench expressed their concern on the functioning of the office of Advocate General of the State and submitted that due to non-availability of the sufficient staff, the Advocate General as well as Chief Standing Counsel(s) are not able to get the paper-book prepared, therefore, they were not able to assist the Court properly.

13. It is further submitted that in view of the observations, as mentioned above, the Advocate General appointed the petitioners on their respective posts after following the procedure prescribed in 2009 Rules. It is also submitted that a selection committee was constituted for selection of the petitioners on their respective posts. Examination was conducted and the committee recommended the names of the eligible candidates for appointment as they were found eligible. On the said recommendation, select list was prepared and as per the said list, the petitioners were appointed on their respective posts.

14. The learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that when the complaint regarding appointment of the petitioners were received, an inquiry committee was constituted and inquiry was conducted, and a report was submitted by the inquiry officer on 13.04.2015. In the said report it has been mentioned that statements of all employees were recorded by the enquiry officer. Ultimately, the euquiry officer recorded that he also had a telephonic conversation with the then Advocate General, during whose tenure the appointments in question were made. The then Advocate General gave his explanation that ad-hoc appointments were made in exigency of service on account of directions issued by this Hon'ble Court as also keeping in view the extreme shortage of Class - III and Class - IV employees in the office of Advocate General and State Law Officers. The appointments were made after getting the notice pasted on the notice board and after constituting selection committee for selection, on whose recommendation the selections were made. Ultimately, the enquiry officer opined that stricto sensu would apply only in regular appointments and not in ad-hoc appointments. The enquiry officer further opined that the Hon'ble Court had issued direction to the State Government to sanction appropriate posts of Class - III and Class - IV employees which were never sanctioned, thus in view of the shortage of employees, excessive work load and directions of this Hon'ble Court, as an emergent situation, the then Advocate General made appointments on ad-hoc basis. Even, Chief Secretary modified his earlier letter on 15.07.2014 making it clear that the ad-hoc appointments made by the then Advocate General were in accordance with rules.

15. The learned counsel has further submitted that the Advocate General vide its Letter No.56 PS AG UP-15 dated 14.04.2015 categorically opined that "from the records it is clear that all the persons who were appointed possessed requisite qualifications and they have been discharging their duties for about one year and as far as their performance is good, they may be allowed to continue till regular selection is made in accordance with law".

16. Thereafter, second inquiry was directed by the State Government regarding the appointment of the petitioners which was conducted by Additional Advocate General, Government of U.P., Lucknow. The second inquiry report dated 23.05.2016 was submitted by the inquiry officer i.e. Additional Advocate General. The inquiry officer during the course of inquiry went through the records in great detail and found that several posts including the posts of Class - IV employee duly sanctioned, were vacant in the office of Advocate General and State Law Offices, thus a decision was taken by the then Advocate General keeping in mind the interest of the institution and the aforesaid posts were filled on ad-hoc basis for which notice was circulated on 10.12.2013. Large number of persons applied for the same. It was also mentioned in the said inquiry report that the selection committee recommended the names of the petitioners, on being found eligible, for appointment on their respective posts.

17. It is specifically mentioned in the second inquiry report that on the basis of the documents, the inquiry officer found that there was no discrepancy either in the selection process or laxity in educational qualifications or eligibility criteria, thus he concluded that appointments had been done in accordance with law and in exigencies of work interest and also in light of directions of this Court.

18. It is further submitted that the petitioners, who were appointed on ad-hoc basis, were appointed on their respective posts due to exigency of service by the appointing authority exercising its discretion in view of the emergent situation which had emerged on account of directions issued by this Hon'ble Court vide orders dated 09.04.2013 and 25.11.2013 as also on account of acute shortage of staff in the office of Advocate General and State Law Officers. Though the notice could not be advertised in the news paper and employment exchange, but the notice was duly circulated by pasting the same on the notice board as prescribed in Rule 14(ii) of 2009 Rules. In such circumstances, appointment of the petitioners on ad-hoc basis cannot be faulted with or is not contrary to the provisions.

19. Learned counsel has fairly submitted that the petitioners had been working on ad-hoc basis on their respective posts for last several years after facing a proper selection process as per rules. There is also no allegation that the petitioners are not qualified or eligible candidates for their respective posts. The only allegation is that the selection was made in contravention of certain provisions of 2009 Rules.

20. It is also submitted that the procedure prescribed for selection was completely followed with and from the date of appointment till issuance of the impugned termination order, the petitioners continuously discharged their duties even thereafter there is deeming legal fiction of continuance of service of the petitioners on their respective posts in view of interim order dated 30.03.2018 passed by this Court in Writ Petition No.9184 (SS) of 2018.

21. Learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that it is not the case of the respondents that the petitioners have committed any kind of forgery or misrepresentation for procuring the job or that the petitioners do not possess the requisite qualification for Class - III and Class - IV posts. On the contrary, the appointing authority after going through the records has explicitly held that the petitioners possess the requisite qualifications, therefore, the petitioners undoubtedly deserve to be continued on their respective posts at least till regular selections are made in accordance with 2009 Rules.

22. Learned counsel for the petitioners in their respective other writ petitions have adopted the arguments advanced by Shri Gaurav Mehrotra, learned counsel appearing for Writ Petition No.9184 (SS) of 2018.

23. Per contra, Mr. H.P. Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for opposite parties no.2 to 4 has vehemently opposed the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the petitioners and submitted that the appointment was made on ad-hoc basis and the same is nothing but a fortuitous appointment, which does not create any right to the incumbents appointed on ad-hoc basis. It is submitted that they do not have any right to continue in service and their services can be terminated at any point of time without assigning any reason. The procedure for direct recruitment for the post of Peon has been laid down in Rule 16 of 2009 Rules. It is submitted that 2009 Rules was amended in the year 2010. The same is known as "Uttar Pradesh Advocate General and Law Officers Establishment (2nd Amendment) Rules, 2010."

24. It is submitted that Rule 14 of 2009 Rules envisages two things; firstly, determination of the number of vacancies to be filled during the course of the year of recruitment as also the number of vacancies to be reserved for candidates belonging to SC/ST and OBC category. Secondly, wide publication of the vacancies through advertisement in daily newspaper having wide circulation and through other means. The procedure relating to a fair and ethical appointment as well as the rules laying down the procedure to be followed in making an appointment to a public post were all given a go bye and in disdainful manner contrary to the applicable rules, appointment of the petitioners and other similarly situated incumbents were made in an arbitrary and whimsical manner.

25. Learned counsel for opposite parties no.2 to 4 has pointed out illegalities in appointment of the petitioners i.e., without determination of number of vacancies to be filled during the course of the year of recruitment and without determining the number of vacancies reserved for candidates belonging to SC/ST and OBC category, which is contrary to Rule 14 of 2009 Rules. It is further submitted that the appointment was made without notifying the vacancies to be filled by direct recruitment by issuing advertisement in daily newspapers having wide circulation and also such appointments were made without adhering to a fair, transparent and non-exploitive process of selection.

26. Learned counsel for opposite parties no.2 to 4 has invited attention towards Para - 12 of counter affidavit dated 24.04.2018 and submitted that on a complaint, a show-cause notice dated 27.10.2017 was issued by opposite party no.2 calling upon the petitioners to show-cause as to why in the absence of a fair, transparent and non-exploitive process of their appointments, their appointments be not cancelled and their services be not terminated. By way of aforesaid show-cause notice, a reply was called from the petitioners and other similarly situated incumbents to furnish the evidence on the points which are mentioned in Para - 12 of the counter affidavit. It is further submitted that the petitioners failed to provide even a single document leading to the conclusion that no publication was issued inviting applications for filling up the vacancies through direct recruitment and making vacancies known to public at large in consonance with Articles 14 & 16 of the Constitution of India.

27. It is also established that no interview letters were issued to the petitioners, no final list of meritorious candidates was prepared, examination was not conducted and also no candidates from the open market participated in the selection process, as no advertisement was published in the newspaper and no effort had been made to circulate the vacancies in the public at large.

28. Learned counsel for opposite parties no.2 to 4 has submitted that some documents, which are annexed in the writ petition, are fabricated and also not available on the records of the opposite parties. It is also submitted that some documents were forged by the petitioners. Learned counsel for opposite parties no.2 to 4 has invited attention towards Para - 24 of the counter affidavit and submitted that fraudulent purported notice has been issued under signature of one Poonam Kaushik, who had no authority to issue any such notice as not being a Gazetted Officer.

29. The file of the petitioners for regularisation was never put up before the then learned Advocate General by the Establishment Section of the Advocate General Office, Allahabad nor order dated 28.07.2014 has been issued or passed through the Establishment Section of the Advocate General Office, Allahabad. The dispatch register at Advocate General Office at Allahabad also does not record any entry relating to issuance of the purported fabricated order of regularisation dated 28.07.2014.

30. The learned counsel for opposite parties no.2 to 4 has submitted that it is a settled legal proposition that no person can be appointed even on a temporary or ad-hoc basis without inviting applications from all eligible candidates. If any appointment is made by merely inviting names from the Employment Exchange or putting a note on notice board etc., that will not meet the requirement of Articles 14 & 16 of the Constitution of India. Such a course violates the mandates of Articles 14 & 16 of the Constitution of India as it deprives the candidates who are eligible for the post, from being considered. A person employed in violation of these provisions is not entitled to any relief including salary. For a valid and legal appointment, mandatory compliance of the said constitutional requirement is to be fulfilled. It is further submitted that equality clause enshrined in Article 16 of the Constitution of India requires that every such appointment be made by an open advertisement as to enable all eligible persons to compete on merits.

31. It is submitted that in the instant case it is crystal clear that no procedure has been adopted in the appointment of the petitioners and similarly situated other incumbents and their appointment is sheer violation of the provisions of the applicable statutes. In such circumstances, the entire appointment is illegal, contrary to the provision and deserves to be set aside.

32. The learned counsel has futher submitted that the learned Advocate General vide orders dated 22.12.2017 and 22.03.2018 have already terminated/cancelled the appointment of 27 employees after affording due opportunity of hearing. It is submitted that appointment of all the 27 employees, who have been terminated, was found illegal, against the procedure prescribed in the Rules and their regularisation of ad-hoc services was also found illegal, therefore, there is no illegality or any arbitrariness in the said termination order. The instant writ petitions filed by the petitioners/employees have no merit and therefore, the same may be dismissed with cost.

33. The parties exchanged affidavits in their respective writ petitions, which are available on record.

34. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the materials available on record in all the above-mentioned writ petitions.

35. In the instant proceedings, the following issues for consideration are involved:-

"(I) whether the appointment of the petitioners is in violation of Rule 14(i) and 14(iii) of U.P. Advocate General and Law Officers Establishment Service rules, 2009 by not issuing/publishing advertisement in the daily newspapers and by not notifying vacancies in the Employment Exchange?

(II) whether the impguned order dated 22.03.2018 terminating the petitioners from the services has been issued mechanically, arbitrary and without following the procedure contained in the concerned service rules 2009 as well as violative of principle of natural justice?

(III) whether the petitioners who have alreeady put in long service on their respective posts from the date of their appointment till issuance of impugned order dated 22.03.2018 and even thereafter, in view of the deeming legal fiction of continuance in view of the interim order dated 30.03.2018 staying the operation and implementation of the impguned orders of termination, deserve to continue on their respective posts at least till the regular selection?"

36. The relevant provisions of 2009 Rules are reproduced here-under:-

37. A perusal of the aforesaid provisions would show that for appointment or recruitment on any post in the office of the Advocate General at Allahabad & Lucknow, a proper advertisement of the said post(s) would first have to be made in the news paper for wide circulation.

38. During the course of argument of instant case (Writ Petition No.9184 (SS) of 2018), learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that services of the petitioners and other similarly situated incumbents were never regularised by the State and they were working only on ad-hoc basis. However, learned counsel appearing for the State contradicted the submissions and categorically submitted that ad-hoc services of the petitioners and other similarly situated incumbents have already been regularised without following the procedure prescribed in law. In this juncture, this Court has passed the following order(s) on 08.01.2020:-

"During the course of argument, learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that petitioenrs have been appointed on ad hoc basis but they have not been regularized by the State.

Learned Counsel appearing for the State has contradicted the aforesaid statements made by learned Counsel for petitioners.

In view of above, learned Counsel for petitioners is directed to file an affidavit bringing on record the statements as stated above.

List this case on 22.01.2020.

Interim order, if any, shall continue till the next date of listing."

39. In pursuance to the aforesaid order dated 08.01.2020, an affidavit has been filed on behalf of the petitioners on 16.01.2020 wherein relevant contentions were given, which are as follows:-

"6. That the Petitioners came across an order dated 28.07.2014 issued a Letter No.121 PSAGOP-R-14 whereby, all the Class IV and Class III employees working on daily wages basis or on ad-hoc basis in the learned Advocate General establishment were ordered to be regularized. The aforesaid order dated 28.07.2014 has been referred by the Petitioners in the Paragraph No.19 of the Writ Petition and copy of the same has been annexed Annexure-15 to the Writ Petition.

7. That the Respondent Nos.2 to 4 by means of the Counter Affidavit dated 23.04.2018 in its paragraph 44 have denied the existence of aforesaid regularization order dated 28.07.2014.

10. That the Petitioners who are merely Class IV employees initially remained under the impression that vide order dated 28.07.2014 their services stood regularized however subsequently by means of the Counter Affidavit, the Respondents have denied the very existence of the order dated 28.07.2014 of purported regularization, as such the Petitioners have realized that the services of Petitioners have not been regularized and the Petitioners still continue to be ad hoc employees.

11. That thus the Petitioners in view of the aforesaid facts are presently, on the post of the Peons (Anusevak) on ad hoc presently, basis in the office of the Advocate General Establishment."

40. The contention of learned counsel appearing for the petitioners is that appointment of the petitioners were made to meet out the exigency of work as there was shortage of incumbents in the office of Advocate General. Keeping the aforesaid submission in view, vide order dated 22.01.2020, the opposite parties were directed to file an affidavit bringing on record the number of employees who are working in the Advocate General's Office at Allahabad and Lucknow as also the details of the employees whose termination orders are under challenge before this Court. In pursuance of the said order, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for opposite parties no.2 to 4 has filed affidavit dated 27.01.2020 wherein details were provided as per the directions of this Court. The relevant information contained in the affidavit are as follows:-

41. A Division Bench of this Court in the case of State of U.P. & Anr. Vs. Dalla Ram and Ors. (Writ Petition No.1/SB/2013)

has issued following order (relevant portion) on 09.04.2013 :-

".....

10. After hearing learned Chief Standing counsel Shri I.P.Singh at length and other counsel, we issue following directions for compliance by Principal Secretary, Law as well as the office of learned chief standing counsel:-

(1). The cases should be allotted to different State counsel immediately after receipt of cause list i.e. a day before. It shall be ensured that paper book is handed over or sent to the residence of different standing counsels by evening or night so that they may prepare the case and assist the court.

(2). All those cases where records are summoned or court requires appearance of Government officer, such government officers should meet the State Counsel along with records a day before so that State counsel may be ready with brief while assisting the court.

(3). Appointments may be made to provide photostat copy of the judgments by the learned Standing counsel to the courts during the course of hearing.

(4). Sufficient number of stenographers and other staff must be provided to the office of Chief Standing counsel to draft counter affidavit or affidavits in terms of instruction given by the courts or otherwise within the time frame provided for the purpose by the courts.

We are strange to note that there is no sufficient number of stenographer in the office of learned Chief Standing Counsel. Shri I.P.Singh learned Chief Standing counsel submits that outsourcing has been done and some appointment has been done on contract basis. It seems to be not proper. Government should create regular vacancies so that stenographer or clerks appointed in the office of learned chief standing counsel may not be disengaged and the office may be benefited by their experience. Functioning of office of learned chief standing counsel and courts are entirely different than the government department. Experience gained by the class 2,3 and class 4 employees while working in the office is an asset and office of learned chief standing counsel or the courts cannot be deprived from it. Government must create immediately requisite number of post of stenographers and other class III class IV post for the office of learned chief standing counsel/government advocate and immediately be filled up in accordance with rules by holding regular selection.

(5). The learned Chief Standing counsel/Government Advocate shall ensure that records are sent to court a day before by evening or at least by 10.00 0'clock in the morning and it must be checked by the persons who are assigned duty for the purpose.

(6). Necessary arrangements may be made in the Library to provide photostat copy of the journals and books to the learned Standing counsels/Government Advocates and in case, already not subscribed, sufficient number of journals be subscribed and library should be managed by the competent qualified persons.

Let the aforesaid direction be complied with expeditiously, say within a period of four months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

Principal Secretary, Law shall file his personal affidavit after due compliance the order.

11. We have issued aforesaid directions since, repeated orders have been passed by this court since last three or four years even more but respondent (State) have been failed to achieve its object and still substantial number of State Counsels are ill prepared or records are not sent to this court or counter affidavit is not filed within the time frame provided by the court.

12. On account of absence of assistance up to mark from the State counsels as well as non-filing of affidavit within time provided by the courts the backlog is increasing day by day. Inaction on the part of office of standing counsel on account of insufficient infrastructure obstruct the administration of justice. Court cannot function unless state counsels cooperate and provide assistance up to mark armed with case laws and paper book. Necessary infrastructure is necessary to tone up the administration of the office of Chief Standing Counsel so that requisite assistance may be provided to the court by the government counsels who are also officers of the court.

With the aforesaid direction, we disposed of writ petition finally. Registry shall list the case after four month for perusal of compliance report."

42. The aforesaid directions were issued by the Division Bench for ensuring proper functioning of the office of learned Chief Standing Counsel. In another writ petition bearing No.7155 (MB) of 2008 (supra), the Division Bench of this Court expressed their anguish about functioning of the Advocate General's Office.

43. In view of the aforesaid directions issued by the Division Bench(s), the appointing authority took a decision to make appointment on ad-hoc basis for Class - IV posts of Peon by resorting to the procedure prescribed in Rule 14(ii) of 2009 Rules i.e. by pasting the notice on notice board. The applications were invited and the selection was made from amongst the eligible candidates who had applied for the same. A three member committee was constituted for selection on Class - IV posts for which an interview was taken place on 18.06.2014 and thereafter a select list was prepared on 19.06.2014. On 20.06.2014, the appointing authority issued a composite appointment letter for peon.

44. Against other vacant posts, several appointments were made on ad-hoc basis by the authority concerned for proper functioning of the office of Advocate General at Allahabad and Lucknow.

45. After perusal of the entire documents and after hearing the submissions, there is no doubt that the said appointments were made in terms of order dated 09.04.2013 (supra) passed by a Division Bench of this Court. It is also clear that in those appointments, the statutory provisions were not followed due to exigencies of work in the office of Advocate General.

46. It is established by several judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court that a court can condone an irregularity in the appointment procedure only if the irregularity does not go to the root of the matter. For sanctioned posts having vacancies, such posts have to be filled by regular recruitment process of prescribed procedure otherwise, the constitutional mandate flowing from Articles 14, 16, 309, 315, 320 etc is violated.

47. In the case of Secretary, State of Karnataka and Others v. Umadevi and Others - (2006) 4 SCC 1, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as follows:-

"2. Public employment in a sovereign socialist secular democratic republic, has to be as set down by the Constitution and the laws made thereunder. Our constitutional scheme envisages employment by the Government and its instrumentalities on the basis of a procedure established in that behalf. Equality of opportunity is the hallmark, and the Constitution has provided also for affirmative action to ensure that unequals are not treated as equals. Thus, any public employment has to be in terms of the constitutional scheme."

48. In Uma Devi's case (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme court has further held that sometimes this process is not adhered to and the constitutional scheme of public employment is bypassed. The employer or the departments and instrumentalities have resorted to irregular appointments, especially in the lower rungs of the service, without reference to the duty to ensure a proper appointment procedure as per the rules adopted and to permit these irregular appointees to continue year after year, thus, keeping out those who are qualified to apply for the post concerned and depriving them of an opportunity to compete for the post. It has also led to persons who get employed, without the following of a regular procedure or even through the backdoor, approaching the Courts, seeking directions to make them permanent in their posts and to prevent regular recruitment to the posts concerned. The courts have not always kept the legal aspects in mind and have occasionally even stayed the regular process of employment being set in motion and in some cases, even directed that these illegal, irregular or improper entrants be absorbed into service. A class of employment which can only be called "litigious employment", has risen like a phoenix seriously impairing the constitutional scheme. Such orders are passed apparently in exercise of the wide powers under Article 226 of the Constitution. Whether the wide powers under Article 226 of the Constitution are intended to be used for a purpose certain to defeat the concept of social justice and equal opportunity for all, subject to affirmative action in the matter of public employment as recognised by our Constitution, has to be seriously pondered over. It is time, that the courts desist from issuing orders preventing regular selection or recruitment at the instance of such persons and from issuing directions for continuance of those who have not secured regular appointments as per procedure established.

49. It is further held that by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Umadevi's case (supra) that this Court has also on occasions issued directions which could not be said to be consistent with the constitutional scheme of public employment. Such directions are issued presumably on the basis of equitable considerations or individualisation of justice. The question arises, equity to whom? Equity for the handful of people who have approached the court with a claim, or equity for the teeming millions of this country seeking employment and seeking a fair opportunity for competing for employment? When one side of the coin is considered, the other side of the coin has also to be considered and the way open to any court of law or justice, is to adhere to the law as laid down by the Constitution and not to make directions, which at times, even if do not run counter to the constitutional scheme, certainly tend to water down the constitutional requirements.

50. I have already indicated the constitutional scheme of public employment, and the executive, or for that matter the court, in appropriate cases, would have only the right to regularise an appointment made after following the due procedure, even though a non-fundamental element of that process or procedure has not been followed. This right of the executive and that of the court would not extend to the executive or the court being in a position to direct that an appointment made in clear violation of the constitutional scheme, and the statutory rules made in that behalf, can be treated as permanent or can be directed to be treated as permanent.

51. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of National Fertilisers Limited & Ors. vs. Somvir Singh - (2006) 5 SCC 493 by referring to the ratio of Umadevi's case (supra) has held that persons who have been appointed for termporary purpose or temporary employees in posts, such person cannot claim regularisation.

52. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in a way laid down the same ratio in the case of State of Orissa and Ors. vs. Mamata Mohanty - (2011) 3 SCC 436 and held that candiddates who are not duly qualified if are appointed, the same would cause grave and irreparable injury to other unqualified candidates who would have otherwise applied, and therefore in such a case when unqualified persons seek regularization, that would be violative of the ratio in the case of Umadevi (supra) as also Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. The relevant observations of the Supreme Court in the case of Mamta Mohanty (supra) are made in para 36 of the judgment, and para 35 also is relevant because the same makes the legal position very clear that the object of issuing advertisement is to ensure open competition by calling of all the eligible candidates. These paras 35 and 36 read as under:-

"35. At one time this Court had been of the view that calling the names from employment exchange would curb to certain extent the menace of nepotism and corruption in public employment. But, later on, it came to the conclusion that some appropriate method consistent with the requirements of Article 16 should be followed. In other words there must be a notice published in the appropriate manner calling for applications and all those who apply in response thereto should be considered fairly. Even if the names of candidates are requisitioned from employment exchange, in addition thereto it is mandatory on the part of the employer to invite applications from all eligible candidates from the open market by advertising the vacancies in newspapers having wide circulation or by announcement in radio and television as merely calling the names from the employment exchange does not meet the requirement of the said article of the Constitution. (Vide Delhi Development Horticulture Employees' Union v. Delhi Admn. [(1992) 4 SCC 99 : 1992 SCC (L&S) 805 : (1992) 21 ATC 386 : AIR 1992 SC 789] , State of Haryana v. Piara Singh [(1992) 4 SCC 118 : 1992 SCC (L&S) 825 : (1992) 21 ATC 403 : AIR 1992 SC 2130] , Excise Supdt. v. K.B.N. Visweshwara Rao [(1996) 6 SCC 216 : 1996 SCC (L&S) 1420] , Arun Tewari v. Zila Mansavi Shikshak Sangh [(1998) 2 SCC 332 : 1998 SCC (L&S) 541 : AIR 1998 SC 331] , Binod Kumar Gupta v. Ram Ashray Mahoto [(2005) 4 SCC 209 : 2005 SCC (L&S) 501 : AIR 2005 SC 2103] , National Fertilizers Ltd. v. Somvir Singh [(2006) 5 SCC 493 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 1152 : AIR 2006 SC 2319] , Telecom District Manager v.

Keshab Deb [(2008) 8 SCC 402 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 709] , State of Bihar v. Upendra Narayan Singh [(2009) 5 SCC 65 : (2009) 1 SCC (L&S) 1019] and State of M.P. v. Mohd. Abrahim [(2009) 15 SCC 214 : (2010) 1 SCC (L&S) 508] .)"

36. Therefore, it is a settled legal proposition that no person can be appointed even on a temporary or ad hoc basis without inviting applications from all eligible candidates. If any appointment is made by merely inviting names from the employment exchange or putting a note on the noticeboard, etc. that will not meet the requirement of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution. Such a course violates the mandates of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India as it deprives the candidates who are eligible for the post, from being considered. A person employed in violation of these provisions is not entitled to any relief including salary. For a valid and legal appointment mandatory compliance with the said constitutional requirement is to be fulfilled. The equality clause enshrined in Article 16 requires that every such appointment be made by an open advertisement as to enable all eligible persons to compete on merit.

53. In the case of State of Haryana v. Piara Singh & Ors. - (1992) 3 SCR 826, the Hon'ble Supreme court has held that appointment to the public posts should ordinarily be made by regular recruitment through the prescribed agency and that even where ad-hoc or temporary employment is necessitated on account of the exigencies of administration, the candidate should be drawn from the employment exchange and that if no candidate is available or sponsored with the employment exchange, some method consistent with the requirements of Article 14 of the Constitution should be followed by publishing notice in appropriate manner for calling for applications and all those who apply in response thereto should be considered fairly, proceeded to observe that if an ad-hoc or temporary employee is continued for a fairly long spell, the authorities are duty bound to consider his case for regularization subject to his fulfilling the conditions of eligibility and the requirement of satisfactory service.

54. After perusing all the material and documents available on record, I am convinced that the appointment of the petitioners and other similarly situated incumbents on ad-hoc basis were violative of statutory provisions. The notices/vacancies were never advertised in daily news paper and employement exchange, as a requirement of statutory provisions of Rules applicable, therefore, appointment of the petitioners on ad-hoc basis is contrary to the Rules and therefore, found faulted.

55. However, there is no allegation that the petitioners committed any forgery or misrepresentation for procuring the job in the office of Advocate General. It is also not the case of the respondents that the petitioners did not possess the minimum requisite qualification as prescribed by the Rules or that the petitioners were not eligible to be appointed against their respective posts. Thus, it is evident that the petitioners and other similarly situated incumbents were appointed on their respective posts by the appointing authority i.e. learned Advocate General by exercising his discretion due to exigency of service, on account of acute shortage of staffs including on Class - IV posts in the office of Advocate General and State Law Officers and in view of the emergent situation which had emerged on account of directions issued by Division Bench of this Court vide order dated 09.04.2013 & 25.11.2013 (supra).

56. In the case of Dr. M.S. Mudhol and Anr. v. S.D. Halegkar and Ors. - (1993) 3 SCC 591, though the incumbents did not possess the minimum requisite qualification, the Hon'ble Supreme Court declied to interfere with the appointment of such incumbent and held as follows in Paras - 2, 6, 7 & 9:-

2. Admittedly, the 1st respondent who did not belong to the same school had M.A. degree in Political Science with third class with 41.1% aggregate marks, although he had his M.Ed. in second class. Respondent 1, according to the petitioners, however, did not also have the required experience of 10 years' teaching, since he was working as an Inspector of Schools prior to his selection as the Principal. The schools which he was inspecting had also classes only up to the 8th standard. Thus, except the degree of M.Ed. which he possessed, he did not have the other two statutory essential qualifications at the time of his appointment as the Principal. According to the petitioners, who are the members of the teaching staff of the same school but not aspirants for the post of Principal, the fact that the 1st respondent lacked the two essential qualifications came to their light for the first time in 1990 and, therefore, they moved the High Court by a writ of quo warranto against the 1st respondent. The High Court, however, dismissed the petition on the ground of laches and also on the ground that the petitioners had not asserted in the writ petition that the advertisement inviting the applications for the post of the Principal was published before the 1st respondent was selected as the Principal.

6. Since we find that it was the default on the part of the 2nd respondent, Director of Education in illegally approving the appointment of the first respondent in 1981 although he did not have the requisite academic qualifications as a result of which the 1st respondent has continued to hold the said post for the last 12 years now, it would be inadvisable to disturb him from the said post at this late stage particularly when he was not at fault when his selection was made. There is nothing on record to show that he had at that time projected his qualifications other than what he possessed. If, therefore, in spite of placing all his cards before the selection committee, the selection committee for some reason or the other had thought it fit to choose him for the post and the 2nd respondent had chosen to acquiesce in the appointment, it would be inequitous to make him suffer for the same now. Illegality, if any, was committed by the selection committee and the 2nd respondent. They are alone to be blamed for the same.

7. Whatever may be the reasons which were responsible for the non-discovery of the want of qualifications of the 1st respondent for a long time, the fact remains that the court was moved in the matter after a long lapse of about 9 years. The post of the Principal in a private school though aided, is not of such sensitive public importance that the court should find itself impelled to interfere with the appointment by a writ of quo warranto even assuming that such a writ is maintainable. This is particularly so when the incumbent has been discharging his functions continuously for over a long period of 9 years when the court was moved and today about 13 years have elapsed. The infraction of the statutory rule regarding the qualifications of the incumbent pointed out in the present case is also not that grave taking into consideration all other relevant facts. In the circumstances, we deem it unnecessary to go into the question as to whether a writ of quo warranto would lie in the present case or not, and further whether mere laches would disentitle the petitioners to such a writ.

9. In the circumstances, we decline to interfere with the appointment of the 1st respondent and dismiss the petition. There will be no order as to costs.

57. Similar view has been expressed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Rekha Chaturvedi (Smt.) v. University of Rajasthan and Ors. - 1993 Supp (3) SCC 168. Relevant portion of Para - 11 of the said case is reproduced hereunder:-

11. However, for the reasons which follow, we are not inclined to set aside the selections in spite of the said illegality. The selected candidates have been working in the respective posts since February 1985. We are now in January 1993. Almost eight years have elapsed.....

58. In Mamata Mohanty's case (supra), the following has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Para - 70:-

70. In the facts and circumstances of the case, we feel that terminating the services of those who had been appointed illegally and/or withdrawing the benefits of grant-in-aid scheme of those who had not completed the deficiency in eligibility/educational qualification or withdrawing the benefit thereof from those who had been granted from the date prior to completing the deficiency, may not be desirable as a long period has elapsed. So far as the grant of UGC pay scale is concerned, it cannot be granted prior to the date of acquisition of higher qualification. In view of the above, the impugned judgment/order cannot be sustained in the eye of the law.

59. In the case of State of U.P. and Anr. vs. Anand Kumar and Ors. - (2018) 13 SCC 560, the following has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Paras - 28, 29, 30, 31, 32 & 33:-

28. We are in agreement with the above findings. In view of clear mandate of law statutorily requiring minimum qualification for appointment of teachers to be appointed after the date of the Notification dated 23-8-2010, there is no doubt that no appointment was permissible without such qualifications. Appointments in the present case are clearly after the said date. Relaxation provision could be invoked for a limited period or in respect of persons already appointed in terms of applicable rules relating to qualifications. The Shiksha Mitras in the present case do not fall in the category of pre 23-8-2010 Notification whose appointment could be regularised.

29. Further difficulty which stares one in the face is the law laid down by this Court on regularisation of contractually appointed persons in public employment. Appointment of Shiksha Mitras was not only contractual, it was not as per qualification prescribed for a teacher nor on designation of teacher nor in pay scale of teachers. Thus, they could not be regularised as teachers. Regularisation could only be of mere irregularity. The exceptions carved out by this Court do not apply to the case of the present nature.

30. In view of our conclusion that the Shiksha Mitras were never appointed as teachers as per applicable qualifications and are not covered by relaxation order under Section 23(2) of the RTE Act, they could not be appointed as teachers in breach of Section 23(1) of the said Act. The State is not competent to relax the qualifications.

31. Since, we have given full hearing to all Shiksha Mitras through their respective counsel, it is not necessary to consider the argument of breach of procedure under Order 1 Rule 8 CPC.

32. On the one hand, we have the claim of 1.78 lakh persons to be regularised in violation of law, on the other hand is the duty to uphold the rule of law and also to have regard to the right of children in the age of 6 to 14 years to receive quality education from duly qualified teachers. Thus, even if for a stop-gap arrangement teaching may be by unqualified teachers, qualified teachers have to be ultimately appointed. It may be permissible to give some weightage to the experience of Shiksha Mitras or some age relaxation may be possible, mandatory qualifications cannot be dispensed with. Regularisation of Shiksha Mitras as teachers was not permissible. In view of this legal position, our answers are obvious. We do not find any error in the view [Anand Kumar Yadav v. Union of India, 2015 SCC OnLine All 3997 : ILR 2015 All 1108 : (2015) 8 ADJ 338] taken by the High Court.

33. Question now is whether in the absence of any right in favour of Shiksha Mitras, they are entitled to any other relief or preference. In the peculiar fact situation, they ought to be given opportunity to be considered for recruitment if they have acquired or they now acquire the requisite qualification in terms of advertisements for recruitment for next two consecutive recruitments. They may also be given suitable age relaxation and some weightage for their experience as may be decided by the authority concerned. Till they avail of this opportunity, the State is at liberty to continue them as Shiksha Mitras on same terms on which they were working prior to their absorption, if the State so decides.

60. In view of the aforesaid discussion and after going through all the material available on record as well as relevant rules and law, answer to the issues framed in Para-35 of this order are as follows:

(I) The ad-hoc appointments of the petitioners and other similarly situated incumbents were made in terms of order passed by Division Bench(s) of this Court, however without following the relevant statutory provisions due to exigency of work in the office of Advocate General. Therefore, the services of the petitioners and other similiarly situated incumbents are dehors the rules and without following the procedure prescribed. In such circumstances, the said order of appointment as well as the order of regularisation be treated as void ab initio.

(II) The impugned order dated 22.03.2018 terminating the services of the petitioners has been passed after following the procedure prescribed in the 2009 Rules as well as the law established.

(III) Considering the extreme shortage of Class - III and Class - IV employees in the office of Advocate General and in order to meet the requirement, it would be appropriate if the order of appointment of the petitioners and other similarly situated incumbents on ad-hoc basis remain in operation till regular selection is made.

61. In the peculiar fact situation, as stated above, it is directed that regular selection be made as per the relevant statute at the earliest and the petitioners and other similarly situated incumbents ought to be given opportunity to be considered for recruitment if they possess the requisite qualification in terms of advertisement as well as the statute. They may also be given suitable age relaxation and some wightage for their experience as may be decided by the authority concerned.

It is further directed that till regular selection is made, the State is at liberty to continue the petitioners and other similarly situated incumbents on their respective posts on same terms on which they were working.

It is also directed that the petitioners and other similarly situated incumbents be paid arrears of salary, if any, for the period they had worked, and in future be paid regularly.

62. With the aforesaid observations/directions, all the above-mentioned writ petitions are disposed of.

Pradeep Kumar Srivastava ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

(A) Service Law - Rule 6 of U.P. Government Servant (Discipline & Appeal) Rules, 1999 - appointing authority should be the disciplinary authority - only disciplinary authority may impose penalty

As per Rule 6 the notices can be issued either by the appointing authority or the head of the department in case of minor punishments. In present case, the appointing authority is the State Government while the head of the department would be the Engineer-in-Chief. The notices were passed by neither of the parties. However, the Executive Engineer, an incompetent authority in view of the abovementioned Rule, has issued the notices.

(B) Years of Service - pensionery benefits - service rendered by an employee on substantive post on ad-hoc basis including the years of service rendered later on after regularization would be counted for pensionery benefit

(C) Natural Justice - any order giving rise to civil consequences may not be passed without giving opportunity of hearing to the parties

(D) Interest - can be awarded as a compensation by the Courts where the pensionery benefits have been utilized by the department having no right to lien after the retirement of an employee - withhold the pension amount without any cogent reason

The purpose of awarding interest is that the interest would be the compensation which is allowed in the law for the use of money belonging to another or for delay in paying the said money after it has become double. (para 33)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Hemendra Pratap, learned counsel for the petitioner and Dr. Uday Veer Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The order under challenge is the Pension Payment Order (in short P.P.O.) dated 07.03.2019 issued after retirement of the petitioner on 31.12.2017 from the post of Assistant Engineer (Civil) wherein the pensionery benefits and gratuity have been sanctioned at the reduced rate thereby withholding a sum of Rs.6,93,270/-. Further, per petitioner's counsel the consequential benefits admissible after retirement as per law has not been paid to the petitioner, therefore, the petitioner prayed that those benefits with interest be paid.

3. The brief facts of the case are that the petitioner was initially appointed on the post of Junior Engineer (Civil) on 07.12.1977 against the sanctioned post, strictly in accordance with law. Thereafter, he joined on such post on 27.12.1977.

4. The services of the petitioner were regularized on such post as he was initially appointed on ad hoc basis on 10.12.1990 relating back with effect from 22.03.1984.

5. The petitioner was promoted on the post of Assistant Engineer (Civil) on 29.07.2015, thereafter, he was allowed the second promotional pay-scale and A.C.P. with grade pay of Rs.7600/-.

6. On 26.02.2016, the disciplinary proceedings were instituted against the petitioner.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn attention of this Court towards Annexure Nos.6, 7, 8 & 9 of the writ petition, which are the orders dated 09.08.2018, 29.08.2018, 13.09.2018 and 16.11.2018 respectively, making it abundantly clear that after the conclusion of the departmental inquiry the petitioner was fully exonerated on the charge and thereafter consequential orders were passed that no disciplinary/ departmental proceedings or any criminal proceedings are pending against the petitioner. However, before such orders having been passed the petitioner superannuated on 31.12.2017 after completing the age of 60 years from the post of Assistant Engineer (Civil).

8. It has also been noted that vide order dated 07.07.2018 the pay of the petitioner in the revised pay-scale was fixed at Rs.1,12,400/- with effect from 01.01.2016 on 01.07.2017, as order to this effect has been annexed as Annexure No.10 to the writ petition.

9. Annexure Nos.11 and 12 are the orders dated 12.03.2018 and 28.07.2018 to the effect that the petitioner was sanctioned provisional pension, 40% of the commuted value with 10% addition having been deducted.

10. The Executive Engineer concerned has issued the office memo dated 28.07.2018 (Annexure No.14 to the writ petition) sanctioning the additional provisional gratuity to the petitioner to the tune of Rs.9=00 lacs and the impugned P.P.O. dated 07.03.2019 has been issued to this effect.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner has apprised the Court that the petitioner while working on the post of Junior Engineer (Civil) in the year 2015, one misconceived recovery order dated 28.05.2015 against him had been passed on the basis of some miscellaneous advance. However, the petitioner submitted reply to the Executive Engineer and when no proper order has been passed, he filed the claim petition bearing Claim Petition No.1086 of 2015 before the State Public Service Tribunal, which was decided vide judgment and order dated 28.09.2015 thereby quashing such impugned orders dated 28.05.2015 and 04.06.2015 providing liberty to the Disciplinary Authority to issue show cause notices to the petitioner informing him the substance of imputations on the basis of which the petitioner was held liable for recovery within a period of two months then the petitioner would submit reply within a period of one month and thereafter the inquiry was to be concluded within the period of two months. As per the Tribunal, the whole exercise was to be concluded within a period of six months from the date of a certified copy of the order is served.

12. As per learned counsel for the petitioner, the said inquiry in terms of judgment and order dated 29.08.2015 has not been initiated and the amount, so recovered from the petitioner of Rs.96,000/-, has not been refunded to the petitioner.

13. As per learned counsel for the petitioner, by means of impugned P.P.O. dated 07.03.2019, the D.C.R. gratuity has been sanctioned by counting the total length of 27 years service of the petitioner instead of 33 years which the petitioner actually rendered withholding a sum of Rs.6,93,270/- for no cogent reasons.

14. Therefore in view of the above, the petitioner has prayed that the impugned P.P.O. dated 07.03.2019 be quashed and the opposite parties be directed to sanction and pay the commutation of pension to the petitioner on the basis of age 61 years, 40% of pension to be commuted the same having been deducted, out of provisional pension sanctioned by the opposite party No.5 vide order dated 12.03.2018 and 28.07.2018 (Annexure Nos.11 and 12 to the writ petition).

15. Sri Hemendra Pratap, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted also that even if for argument sake, it is admitted that some notices have been issued to the petitioner by the Executive Engineer pursuant to the order being passed by the Tribunal, even then such notices may not be sustained in the eyes of law for simple reason that the Executive Engineer was not a Appointing Authority of the petitioner as the Appointing Authority of the petitioner was the State Government. Therefore, such show cause notices were without jurisdiction and being violative of the Rule 6 of U.P. Government Servant (Discipline & Appeal) Rules, 1999 (here-in-after referred to as the "Rules, 1999"). Learned counsel for the petitioner has referred Rule 6 of the Rules, 1999. For brevity, such rule is being reproduced here-in-below:-

"6. Disciplinary authority. The appointing authority of a Government servant shall be his disciplinary authority, who, subject to the provisions of these rules, may impose any of the penalties specified in Rule 3 on him:

Provided that no person shall be dismissed or removed by an authority subordinate to that by which he was actually appointed:

Provided further that the Head of Department notified under the Uttar Pradesh Class II Services (Imposition of Minor Punishment) Rules, 1973, subject to the provisions of these rules, shall be empowered to impose minor penalties mentioned in Rule 3 of these rules:"

16. Per contra, Dr. Uday Veer Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents has submitted that the services of the petitioner were regularizd only on 10.12.1990 and as per the rules, particularly in view of Regulation 361 of Civil Service Regulations (in short C.S.R.), the ad-hoc services cannot be counted for the purposes of pensionery benefits as qualifying services. Further the P.P.O. dated 07.03.2019 has been prepared in the light of aforesaid regulation and other provision. As such while calculating the service rendered by the petitioner for the purpose of pensionery benefits, the opposite parties have not committed any illegality. Regulation 361 of C.S.R. provides as under:-

"361. The service of an officer does not qualify for pension unless it conforms to the following three conditions-

(a) the service must be under Government,

(b) the employment must be substantive and permanent and

(c) the salary must be paid by Government."

17. Dr. Singh has further submitted that the second aspect involved in the matter is the recovery orders being passed by the Executive Engineer in pursuance with the report of the Committee consisting three officers. However, per Dr. Singh, earlier also the Committee consisting three Assistant Engineers was constituted which submitted a report dated 22.02.2014. In furtherance thereto, the order dated 27.05.2015 was issued following consequential order dated 04.06.2015. The aforesaid orders were admittedly challenged by the present petitioner before the State Public Service Tribunal, U.P., Lucknow by way of filing claim petition bearing Claim Petition No.1086 of 2015. The claim petition was allowed by the learned Tribunal quashing the aforesaid orders. However, the opposite parties were given liberty to proceed with the matter in accordance with the direction given in the order dated 28.09.2015 by the Tribunal. The time schedule was also framed to initiate and conclude the enquiry. The enquiry was to be concluded within six months from the date of communication of the order of Tribunal by serving the certified copy.

18. Dr. Singh has also submitted that there is no dispute that the petitioner assailed the recovery order before the Tribunal and the Tribunal allowed the claim petition of the petitioner granting six months time to conclude the departmental inquiry. As per Dr. Singh, in compliance of the aforesaid order of the Tribunal dated 28.09.2015, the show cause notice was issued to the petitioner on 27.11.2015, which has not been denied by the petitioner. When no response was received, another notice dated 11.02.2016 was issued to remind the show cause notice dated 27.11.2015. On 27.01.2017, another notice was issued to the petitioner to submit reply. As a last opportunity the letter was issued on 15.09.2018 to the petitioner but he did not turn up. So, per Dr. Singh, the petitioner was given ample opportunity to defend his case regarding recovery of total amount of bitumen Rs.4,79,475/- and such recovery was inclusive of the amount embezzled/ misappropriated to the tune of Rs.1,07,400/- towards MNREGA.

19. As per Dr. Singh, instead of defending the aforesaid charge of recovery the petitioner preferred letters to the department to adjust/ deduct the amount from the gratuity and clear the other pensionery benefits. Therefore, a sum of Rs.6,93,270/- has been adjusted from the amount of gratuity of the petitioner and in view of the above, no illegality can be attributed to the impugned order.

20. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

21. During the course of arguments, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel was asked that even if the petitioner had shown his willingness to recover/ adjust the amount from the amount of gratuity if the same is recoverable, as to whether the recoverable amount has been determined by the Disciplinary Authority strictly in accordance with law and as to whether any formal order to that effect has been issued providing the copy thereof to the petitioner seeking explanation from him.

22. The aforesaid query of the Court was based on the trite law to the effect that if the recoverable amount has not been determined by the Disciplinary Authority, or if it is determined but the formal order to that effect has not been provided to the incumbent seeking explanation from him, the amount may not be recovered/ adjusted from the amount of gratuity of an employee, as it would not only against the principles of natural justice but would be against the public policy. Further, if any impugned order entails civil consequences, such order may not be issued without providing an opportunity of hearing to that effect.

23. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has tried to defend the impugned action of the opposite parties by submitting that since the petitioner had already given his undertaking to recover/ adjust the recoverable amount, therefore, no such formal order has been issued to the petitioner seeking explanation to that effect. So far as the point of factum of determination of recoverable amount is concerned, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has submitted that the petitioner was aware about the amounts, therefore, the determination of total recoverable amount has not been made.

24. As per the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, a sum of Rs.4,79,475/- was recoverable for loss of bitumen; sum of Rs.1,07,400/- was recoverable towards the loss of MNREGA scheme and other amounts claimed from the petitioner were related to the incident/ misshaping committed during his supervision when he was in service. Therefore, the total amount recoverable was Rs.6,93,270/-.

25. This Court is unable to comprehend as to how the aforesaid amount, which has been recovered from the petitioner, may sustain in the eyes of law when no exercise of determination of the amount recoverable has been made and no formal order to that effect could have been issued, therefore, no question arises for affording an opportunity of hearing in consonance with the principles of natural justice.

26. The arguments of learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel that ad hoc services of the petitioner cannot be counted for the purpose of pensionery benefits as qualifying service does not sustain in the eyes of law inasmuch as it is trite law that the services rendered by an employee on substantive post on ad hoc basis and later on the same are regularized under the rules, such ad hoc period shall be counted for the purpose of pensionery benefits as the qualifying service.

27. The Division Bench of this Court in re: Krishna Kant Pandey vs. State Public Services Tribunal, U.P. Lucknow and others reported in [2018 (36) LCD 109 has held by following the dictum of Hon'ble Supreme Court in re: Amarkant Rai vs. State of Bihar and others reported in (2015) 8 SCC 265 that retrospective regularization can be given to the employee as per rules.

28. After the judgment and order of the Tribunal having been passed, the Executive Engineer is said to have issued some notices against the petitioner to which the petitioner is said to have not replied and the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that since the said notices were without jurisdiction being issued by the incompetent authority, therefore, the petitioner was not required to submit the reply to the notices.

29. Sri Hemendra Pratap has rightly referred Rule 6 of the Rules, 1999, which categorically provides that the Appointing Authority of the government servant shall be his Disciplinary Authority and only the DisciplinaryAuthority may impose any penalty. In the present case, undisputedly the Appointing Authority of the petitioner is the State Government. The second proviso of Rule 6 empowers the Head of the Department to impose minor punishment. In the case in hand, the Head of the Department would be the Engineer-in-Chief. The Engineer-in-Chief had also not issued any show cause notice to the petitioner but the Executive Engineer has issued the notice, who is incompetent authority in view of the Rule 6 of the Rules, 1999.

30. Therefore in view of the dictum of Hon'ble Supreme Court in re: Union of India & others vs. B. V. Gopinath reported in [2014 (1) LBESR 75 (SC)] the show cause notices would be non est as the same are without jurisdiction. The relevant paras-47 and 49 are being reproduced here-in-below:-

"47. Further, it appears that during the pendency of these proceedings, the appellants have, after 2009, amended the procedure which provides that the charge memo shall be issued only after the approval is granted by the Finance Minister.

49. Although number of collateral issues had been raised by the learned Counsel for the appellants as well the respondents, we deem it appropriate not to opine on the same in view of the conclusion that the charge-sheet/ charge memo having not been approved by the disciplinary authority was not est in the eye of law."

31. Since the Tribunal had allowed six months time to conclude the denovo inquiry by providing show cause notice to the petitioner, such inquiry must have been conducted and concluded within the time frame and in view of the Full Bench judgment of this Court in re: Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi vs. The New India Assurance Company Limited and others reported in [2014 (32) LCD 405] , the Disciplinary Authority shall be precluded for conducting the departmental inquiry and in that case the imputation against the employee shall loose its efficacy.

32. In the present case, instead of Disciplinary Authority/ Appointing Authority or Head of the Department, the show cause notice has been issued by the incompetent officer, which is non est in the eyes of law. Therefore, the amount so withheld by the authority could have not been withheld and the petitioner should have been paid his entire post retiral dues counting his total length of service of 33 years at least after 13.09.2018 or 16.11.2018 (Annexure Nos.8 & 9 to the writ petition) whereby the State Government and Head of the Department itself observed that the petitioner retired from service on 31.12.2017 and on superannuation no departmental, administrative or criminal proceedings are pending against him, even no prosecution is pending against him. Therefore the delay of making payment of retiral dues would be unreasoned and uncalled for, hence, the petitioner would be entitled for interest on delayed payment.

33. The purpose of awarding interest is that the interest would be the compensation which is allowed in law for use of money belonging to another or for delay in paying the said money after it has become double. If the reason to withhold the pensionery benefits are unreasonable having no cogent reason to that effect, the employee who has suffered, should be compensated in the eyes of law for the simple reason that the money belonging to the employee, which should have been utilized by him but has been utilized by the department having no legal lien on that after the retirement of an employee.

34. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in re: S.K. Dua vs. State of Hariyana reported in (2008) 3 SCC 44, vide para-14 has observed as under:-

"14. In the circumstances, prima facie, we are of the view that the grievance voiced by the appellant appears to be well-founded that he would be entitled to interest on such benefits. If there are Statutory Rules occupying the field, the appellant could claim payment of interest relying on such Rules. If there are Administrative Instructions, Guidelines or Norms prescribed for the purpose, the appellant may claim benefit of interest on that basis. But even in absence of Statutory Rules, Administrative Instructions or Guidelines, an employee can claim interest under Part III of the Constitution relying on Articles 14, 19 and 21 of the Constitution. The submission of the learned counsel for the appellant, that retiral benefits are not in the nature of "bounty" is, in our opinion, well-founded and needs no authority in support thereof. In that view of the matter, in our considered opinion, the High Court was not right in dismissing the petition in limine even without issuing notice to the respondents."

35. The Division Bench of this Court in re: Radhika Devi vs. Union of India & others reported in [2002 (1) LBSER 949 (All)] has observed in para-2 as under-

"2. The petitioner has prayed for family pension, which has been paid, and now she claims interest due to late payment. Interest is the normal accretion on capital and it is not a penalty or punishment. If a certain amount is payable at a certain time, then the person to whom it is paid in time would invest it and earn interest. However, if there is delay in payment then the person who retained the money would have earned interest on the same. Hence, he has to pay not only the principal amount but also interest on the same."

36. In view of the facts and circumstances considered here-in-above and also in view of the dictum of Hon'ble Supreme Court as well as of this Court, I am of the considered opinion that the impugned P.P.O. dated 07.03.2019 does not sustain in the eyes of law so far as it calculated the total length of service of the petitioner as 27 years instead of 33 years and made deduction of Rs.6,93,270/-, therefore, the same is hereby quashed.

37. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the opposite parties to sanction and pay full admissible D.C.R. gratuity on the basis of length of service of 33 years of service and also to refund the amount of Rs.6,93,270/-, which has been withheld, with interest at the rate of 6% per annum.

38. The opposite parties are also commanded that the petitioner shall be paid all consequential service benefits, for that, the appropriate order shall be passed by the Competent Authority.

39. Since the denovo inquiry has not been conducted by the Disciplinary Authority/ Appointing Authority in terms of judgment and order dated 28.09.2015 passed by the State Public Service Tribunal in Claim Petition No.1086 of 2015 within the stipulated time, therefore, no such inquiry can be conduced against the petitioner and the petitioner shall be treated exonerated from the said charges.

40. The compliance of this order shall be made within a period of two months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

41. Accordingly, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kuldeep Pati Tripathi, learned counsel appearing for Lucknow Nagar Nigam, Sri Asit Chaturvedi, Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri G. S. Misra, Advocate appearing for IFCI Ltd., Sri J. N. Mathur, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Mudit Agarwal appearing for Shalimar Corporation Ltd. and Sri Manjiv Shukla, Additional Chief Standing Counsel for State.

2. In both the connected writ petitions, primarily, the subject matter of dispute is the property/land measuring 2,17,936 sq. ft. of the Sullage Farm situated at Village Ujariyon Gaon, District-Lucknow and it appears that keeping in view the same, both the writ petitions were clubbed vide order dated 31.05.2003 passed in Writ Petition No.4517 (MB) of 2013 filed by IFCI Ltd.

3. The Writ Petition No.2397 (MB) of 2013 was filed by Lucknow Nagar Nigam (in short "L.N.N.") challenging the auction proceedings of property/land in issue carried out by IFCI Corporation Ltd. The main prayers sought in the writ petition are as under: -

"(1) Issue writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari for quashing of the proceedings of the Sale of the land measuring about 2,17,936 sq. ft. land of Sullage Farm Situated in Village-Jagauli (earlier village-Ujariyaon) leased out to M/s Uptron Digital System Limited (M/s. Uptron India Ltd.), after summoning the same.

(2) Issue writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to stop further proceedings of confirmation of Sale of the land measuing about 2,17,936 sq. ft. land of Sullage Farm situated in Village-Jugauli (earlier Village-Ujariyaon) leased out to M/s Uptron Digital System Limited (M/s Uptron India Ltd.)."

4. The Writ Petition 4517 (MB) of 2013 was filed by IFCI Ltd. challenging the order dated 20.03.2013, whereby the L.N.N. determined/terminated the lease of the property/land in issue with effect from 19.06.2013 and the order dated 06.04.2013, whereby the L.N.N. has refused to accept the arrears of lease rent which was deposited by IFCI Ltd. During the pendecy of writ petition the relief for quashing of the order dated 19.06.2013 (Annexure No.20A to the writ petition) was added through amendment. The main prayers sought in the writ petition are as under:-

"To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari to quash the impugned orders dated 20.03.2013 and 06.04.2013.

To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari to quash the impugned order dated 19.06.2013.

To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the Lucknow Municipal Corporation not to interfere in the enjoyment of lease hold rights of the property in question by the petitioner.

To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the Lucknow Municipal Corporation to consider the renewal of the lease in respect of the property in question in favour of the petitioner."

5. It is relevant to clarify here that the order dated 20.03.2013, under challenge in the Writ Petition No.4517 (MB) of 2013, is in fact is a 'Notice' determining the lease and as such hereinafter the "Order dated 20.03.2013" is referred as "notice dated 20.03.2013".

6. Brief facts, which lead to the filing of the writ petitions, are as under:

7. The property/land in issue admittedly belongs to L.N.N. In other words, it is also not in dispute that the L.N.N. is the owner of the property/land in issue. The property/land in issue was leased out to Uptron India Ltd. The lease deed was executed on 23.05.1985 for a period of 30 years on payment of Rs.25,06,285 as a premium and as per term of the lease deed the Uptron India Ltd. the lessee was required to pay the lease rent by the end of month of April each year in advance and any failure in making of such payment of rent regularly in advance by the end of month of April each year shall render the lease deed terminable by the lessor/L.N.N. by giving only three months notice to the lessee through registered post to the registered office of Uptron India Ltd. The relevant part of the lease deed on reproduction reads as under:

"NOW THEREFORE it is mutually agreed and consented between the lessor and the lessee that in consideration of the said premium of Rs.22,06,265/-

(already paid by the lessee to the lessor in three installments by three cheques aggregating to Rs.25,06,265/- as stated above the receipt of which as already stated above, the lessor hereby acknowledges with the liability of refunding Rs.3,00,000/- as stated above) and in consideration of the rent of Rs.25,062.65/- (Rs.Twenty five thousand sixty two and Paise sixty five) only per annum payable from the date of handing over the possession of the land hereby demised, and in consideration of the mutually agreed terms and conditions contained herein, the Lessor does hereby grant to the lessee the lease of the said plot of land of its Sullage Farm in Village Ujariyaon, Lucknow rectangular in shape measuring 2,17,936 sq. ft. more particularly described in the scheduled below and for clarity shown by red lines in the plan attached herewith on the following terms and conditions:-

Provided that the Lessee shall not use the premises aforesaid for any purposes or in any manner which may become and nuisance to the neighbourers or the people living in the neighbourhood.

4. That in consideration of the Lessee having agreed to absolve the Lessor and to take upon itself the responsibility of filling up and/or raising the level of the land hereby demised at its own cost according to its own desire and needs, the Administrator had agreed to reduce the total amount of the premium from Rs.25,06,265/- to Rs.22,06,265/- and because, this change, in the initial agreement was affected by as agreement subsequent to the said three payments the

6. The lessee shall be fully entitled without the requirement of the consent of the Lessor to enter into the agreements of Collaboration or similar agreements with others or agreements to under let or sublet to subsidiary Companies or Ancillaries permitting these portions the user of the land hereby demised or of the building and structures thereon in connection with the legitimate business objects and activities of the lessee. 7. That it shall be lawful for the lessor or any one authorised in this respect to enter on or upon land hereby demised or the buildings or structures thereon from time to time to inspect the same and to bring to the notice of the Lessee any matter which may be considered undesirable by the lessor and to remove or discontinue any such thing whereupon the same shall be discontinued or removed unless the matter be amicably settled.

8. In view of the undisputed facts related to the ownership of property/land in issue and the terms of lease deed, it would be appropriate to mention here that the L.N.N. did not tansferred the property/land in issue in favour of Uptron India Ltd. and being lessee the Uptron India Ltd. was entitled to enjoy the rights of lessee as provided under the lease deed read with the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (in short "Act of 1882").

9. It is also not disputed that due to financial needs the Uptron India Ltd. mortgaged the property/land in issue with IFCI Ltd. For the purposes of mortgaging the property/land in issue, no objection certificate dated 13.10.1987 was issued by L.N.N.. It was issued to enable the Uptron India Ltd. to deposit the lease deed of the property/land in issue with Financial Institutions/Banks for the purposes of mortgaged and obtaining loan. The original lease deed dated 23.05.1985 was deposited with IFCI Ltd. and the mortgaged was created with respect to property/land in issue. It would be proper to mention here, on the basis of pleadings on record, that the Uptron India Ltd. took the financial assistance from IFCI Ltd., IDBI Bank, State Bank of India, for which, property in question was mortgaged as security.

10. Needless to say that the mortgaged was/is permissible as per the provisions of Section 108 (j) of the Act of 1882 and such mortgaged can be made by deposit of title deed as provided under Section 58 of the Act of 1882. In view of Section 108 (j) of the Act of 1882 the lessee i.e. Uptron India Ltd. was empowered to transfer the lease hold rights. In view of the Section 108 (j) of the Act of 1882 a lessee is not empowered to transfer more than the rights available to him under the lease deed.

11. It is further undisputed that the Uptron India Ltd. committed default in payment of its dues and as such the loan account(s) with above mentioned Financial Institutions became a Non Performing Assets (NPA). For recovery of due amount a meeting was held between the representative of secured creditors, Managing Director of Uptron India Ltd. and Principal Secretary, Department of Information and Technology, Government of U.P. on 17.01.2012. Thereafter a meeting of creditors was again held on 23.04.2012 and it was decided therein that IFCI Ltd. would initiate action under the Securitization and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Information of Security Interest Act, 2002 (in short "Act of 2002"). It is also stated in writ petition filed by IFCI Ltd. that in furtherance to the decision dated 23.04.2012 the State Bank of Patiala and IDBI Bank gave their consent in terms of Section 13 (9) of the Act of 2002. The IFCI Ltd. also called upon vide letter dated 02.05.2012 Uptron India Ltd. to make payment in terms of One Time Settlement (in short "OTS"). The amount i.e. Rs.13.90 crores, of OTS was also communicated by the IFCI Ltd. to the Uptron India Ltd. vide letter dated 22.05.2012. In absence of any response from the Uptron India Ltd. as also on account of non payment of due amount in terms of OTS the IFCI vide letter dated 01.08.2012 revoked its offer for OTS. After revoking the offer of OTS the IFCI Ltd. proceeded under the Act of 2002 and issued the notice dated 02.08.2012 under Section 13 (2) of the Act of 2002 to Uptron India Ltd. and its guarantor, the U.P. Electronics Corporation. No reply was given by the Uptron India Ltd. to the notice dated 02.08.2012. However, the reply was given by the guarantor, the U.P. Electronics Corporation. The reply submitted by the guarantor was rejected by the IFCI Ltd. vide order dated 05.10.2012 and thereafter the IFCI Ltd. issued the possession notice dated 08.12.2012 with respect to the property/land in issue through its authorized officer. The notice dated 08.12.2012 was issued in view of Rule 8 of Security Interest (Enforcement) Rules, 2002 (in short "Rules, 2002"). The notice was published on 09.12.2012 in daily newspaper (s) namely 'Times of India' and 'Dainik Jagran'. The possession notice dated 11.12.2012 under Rule 8 (6) of Rules, 2002 was also issued calling upon the Uptron India Ltd. to clear its dues within thirty days. In the notice dated 11.12.2012 it has been stated that IFCI Ltd. would proceed under Rule 8 (5) of Rules, 2002, if Uptron fails to clear its dues. The Uptron failed to clear the dues and accordingly public notice dated 22.01.2013 inviting bids for sale of the mortgaged properties including the property/land in issue was published on 23.01.2013 in daily newspaper(s) namely 'Times of India' and 'Dainik Jagran'. At this stage this Court feels it proper to reproduce the contents of possession notice dated 08.12.2012 as also the contents of public notice dated 22.01.2013.

"Rule 8 (1) POSSESSION NOTICE

WHEREAS IFCI Ltd. (formerly known as Industrial Finance Corporation of India, being secured creditor of M/s. UPTRON India Ltd. 12. It is also not in dispute that in the auction proceedings the bid of M/s. Shalimar Corporation Ltd. (in short "M/s. Shalimar") was accepted and IFCI Ltd. vide letter dated 01.03.2013 directed the M/s. 13. On coming to know about the auction proceedings carried out by IFCI Ltd., the L.N.N. being aggrieved by the auction proceedings approached this Court by means of Writ Petition No.2397 (MB) of 2013, for the reliefs quoted herein above, and while entertaining the writ petition, this Court on 19.03.2013 passed a detailed interim order, whereby the opposite parties to the writ petition including the IFCI Ltd. were restrained from confirming the sale proceedings. The interim order dated 19.03.2013 on reproduction reads as under :-

"Yesterday i.e. on 18.3.2013, learned Counsel for thepetitioner made a mention that the land measuring about 2,17,936 Sq.Ft. situated in village Jugauli (earlier village Ujariyaon) hasbeen auctioned but the sale has not been confirmed and the lastdate of confirmation of sale of the land in question is 20.3.2013.Therefore, it was urged that the matter is urgent and it may betaken up tomorrow. Accordingly, on permission being granted bythis Court, the instant writ petition has come up foradmission/hearing today.

At the outset, Sri S.K. Kalia, Senior Advocate, appearing onbehalf of the petitioner submits that he may be permitted toimplead the auction purchaser i.e. Shalimar Corps. Ltd., Lalbagh,Lucknow as opposite party No.5 in the array of the oppositeparties as he is necessary party.

Let him do so during the course of the day.

Issue notice.

Notice on behalf of opposite party No.1 has been acceptedby the Chief Standing Counsel, whereas notice on behalf ofopposite parties Nos. 2 and 3 has been accepted by Sri G.S.Misra, Advocate and on behalf of opposite party No.4 by SriSanjay Bhasin. On behalf of opposite party No.5, appearance hasbeen put in by Sri Vishal Dixit, Heard learned Counsel for the parties and perused the records.

Through the instant writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner challenges the proceedings ofthe sale of the land measuring about 2,17,936 Sq. Ft. situated atVillage Jugauli (earlier known as Village-Ujariayon), which hasbeen leased out to M/s UPTRON Digital System Limited (M/s UPTRON India Ltd.). It has also been prayed that opposite partiesmay be directed to stop the further proceedings of confirmation ofSale of the land in question.

According to the petitioner, land in question belongs toNagar Nigam Ltd., which was leased out to M/s UPTRON India Ltd.by the erstwhile Nagar Maha Palika, Luckow on 23.5.1985 for aperiod of 30 years on payment of Rs.25,06,285/- as premium andfurther M/s UPTRON India Ltd. was required to pay Rs.22,062.65per year as lease rent. According to him, M/s UPTRON IndiaLtd./Company registered under the Companies Act, 1956 and anundertaking of Government of Uttar Pradesh, applied for certainloan and cash credit facilities from certain Banks and financialinstitutions, to which State Bank of India required 'No ObjectionCertificate' for creating equitable mortgage pertaining to land inquestion vide letter dated 14.9.1987. The erstwhile Nagar MahaPalika, Lucknow granted 'No Objection Certificate' on 13.10.1987for equitable mortgage. Thereafter, certain loan and financial assistance was granted to M/s UPTRON India Ltd. Of late, M/sUPTRON India Ltd. became sick and as such, Company wasreferred to BIFR on 20.7.1994. Therefore, M/s UPTRON India Ltd.did not pay lease rent since 1998.

Learned Counsel for the petitioners submits that even afternot paying the lease rent since 1998 as per the terms andconditions of the lease agreement, the petitioner did not take anyaction against M/s UPTRON India Ltd. as M/s UPTRON India Ltd. isan undertaking of U.P. State Government. However, all of asudden, vide letter dated 11.3.2013, M/s UPTRON India Ltd.informed the Municipal Commissioner, Nagar Nigam, Lucknow thatthe Company has taken a loan of Rs.9.70 Crores in 1986-87 as along term loan from different banks and financial institutions suchas I.F.C.I,

I.D.B.I., State Bank of India and State Bank of Patialabut due to financial crunch, the Company could not repay thedebts and interest also and as such, the said Bank had publisheda notice in Newspaper 'Dainik Jagran' dated 8.12.2012 for takingpossession of the building of M/s UPTRON India Ltd. andthereafter on 22.1.2013, notice was also published, by which thebuilding was put to sale by inviting tender.

Learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that though the 3I.F.C.I. Ltd. was fully aware that building of M/s UPTRON IndiaLtd. is situated on the land belonging to Lucknow Nagar Nigamand the property was under lease with certain conditions butneither M/s UPTRON India Ltd. nor I.F.C.I. Ltd. brought to thenotice of the petitioner that the land belonging to the LucknowNagar Nigam has been taken possession by the I.F.C.I. Ltd. underRule 8 (1) of the Security and Reconstruction of Financial Assetsand Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 [hereinafterreferred to as the "Act"], which is in violation of the provisions ofSection 6 (1) of the Act. Thus, the entire action has been donebehind the back of the Luckow Nagar Nigam.

Learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that the auctionof the property in question was done on 1.3.2013 but till date thesame has not been confirmed.

Sri Sanjay Bhasin, learned Counsel for the opposite partyNo.4 submits that as stated by the petitioner's counsel, the matterhas been referred to BIFR, wherein the matter was reserved onceupon a time but subsequently, it was released and the matter hasbeen fixed for 18.4.2013. He submits that in the said proceedings,IFCI Ltd. is also one of the parties and as such, the conduct ofIFCI Ltd. is dubious and not on board. Therefore, the entireexercise has been done in a haste manner by the IFCI Ltd.

Sri G.S. Misra, learned Counsel for the opposite parties Nos.2 and 3 has filed a counter affidavit. The same is taken on record. He has raised a preliminary objection that the petitioner has got equally efficacious alternative remedy by filing Securitization Application under Section 17 of the Act before the Debts Recovery Tribunal. He further submits that lease deed, which was executed by the petitioner in favour of M/s UPTRON India Ltd. was for 30 years only and the same is going to expire in the year 2015 andas such, M/s UPTRON India Ltd. has no right.

Per contra, Sri S.K. Kalia, Senior Advocate, appearing onbehalf of the petitioner submits that due to non-availability of thePresiding Officer, Debts Recovery Tribunal, Lucknow, itsjurisdiction is attached with Debts Recovery Tribunal, Jabalpur andthe Presiding Officer, Debts Recovery Tribunal, Jabalpur hasearmarked two days in a month to hear the cases of DebtsRecovery Tribunal, Lucknow. He further submits that the opposite parties Nos. 2 and 3 are adament to confirm the sale of the landin question by fixing 20.3.2013 as date of confirmation of sale andas such, the petitioner has no option but to approach this Courtunder Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

Sri Vishal Dixit, learned Counsel for the auction purchaseri.e. opposite party No. 5 submits that in the auction notice, whichhas been published, it was not made clear as to what would bethe status of the auction purchaser i.e. whether he has been givenlease right or free hold right till 2015 as the term of the lease isgoing to expire in the year 2015. He submits that he has onlydeposited 1/4th amount at the time of bidding and the Bank hasassured him to consider the matter thereafter.

At this stage, a specific query was put to learned Counselfor the opposite parties Nos. 2 and 3 that since the lease of theland in question is going to expire in the year 2015, as such, whatis the status of the auction purchaser, to which learned Counselfor the opposite parties Nos. 2 and 3 submits that he may beallowed some time to file an affidavit to this effect.

Under the circumstances, we direct the parties to filerespective affidavits by tomorrow.

Since the confirmation of the sale of the property inquestion is going to expire tomorrow, as such, as an interimmeasure, we restrain the opposite parties from confirming thesale of the property in question.

List/put up tomorrow i.e. 20.3.2013."

14. Thereafter on 20.03.2013 the L.N.N. determined/terminated the lease of the land leased out to the Uptron India Ltd. on 23.05.1985. The reasons for termination of lease was non payment of lease rent from 1997-98. It is also stated in the notice dated 20.03.2013 that the Uptron India Ltd. has violated the term no.6 of lease deed, as the Uptron India Ltd. had used the property for the purposes other than those for which it was leased out and the parts of the property were rented out to third parties in an unauthorized manner and no information regarding the same was given to the L.N.N., as required under the lease deed.

15. According to term no. 6 of lease deed, the lessee-Uptron India Ltd. was entitled to entering into the agreements of collaboration or similar agreements with others or agreements to under let or sub-let to subsidiary Companies or Ancilliaries Companies permitting the use of portion of property leased out to the Uptron India Ltd. including building and structure thereon in connection with business objects and activities of lease. However, as per the same term, the Uptron India Ltd. was under obligation to intimate the L.N.N. within one month from the date of entering into agreement, as provied in term no.6 of lease deed.

16. It is also stated in the notice dated 22.03.2013 that Uptron India Ltd did not inform about the facts related to auction proceeding in relation to the property/land in issue at appropriate time.

17. After notice dated 20.03.2013, whereby the lease deed in favour of Uptron India Ltd. was determined/terminated, the IFCI Ltd. on 28.03.2013 tried to deposit the lease rent amounting to Rs.4,00992/- with L.N.N. which was outstanding since 1997-98. The L.N.N. by order dated 06.04.2013 refused to accept the lease rent on the ground that lease had already been determined/terminated and the matter is sub-judice before this Court.

18. Being aggrieved by the notice dated 20.03.2013 and order dated 06.04.2013 the IFCI Ltd. filed the Writ Petition No.4517 (MB) of 2013.

19. It would be appropriate to state here that on 27.05.2013 this Court passed the following order in Writ Petition 2397 (MB) of 2013.

".Heard Sri S. K. Kalia, Senior Advocate for the petitioner, Sri Anil Tiwari, Senior Advocate for the IFCI Limited and Sri J. N. Mathur, Senior Advocate appearing for Shalimar Corporation Limited.

It has been brought to out notice by Mr.J. N. Mathur that after filing of the instant writ petition, certain proceedings for cancellation of lease deed have been initiated by the petitioner. He submits that 1/4th of the bid amount has already been deposited by his client, namely, opposite party No.5/ Shalimar Corp. Limited. He further submits that on account of pendency of instant writ petition, they are losing the interest on the said amount. Accordingly, he prays that the said amount, which has been deposited with the IFCI Limited, may be directed to be invested in an interest bearing account.

The aforesaid request of the opposite party No.5 appears to be genuine.

Accordingly, we direct the IFCI Limited/opposite party No.2 to deposit the amount in the interest bearing account, which will be maintained separately and it will be in the joint name of IFCI and opposite party No.5 initially for a period of one year.The encashment of the aforesaid amount would be subject to the final outcome of the writ petition.

List/put up on 31.5.2013. Till then, interim order granted earlier shall remain in operation. "

20. In regard to the aforesaid order, it is stated by the counsel for the IFCI Ltd. as also by Shri J. N. Mathur, learned Senior Advocate appearing for M/s. Shalimar that the 25% of the bid amount is lying in interest bearing account.

21. It would also be appropriate to state here that the during the pendency of writ petitions, under consideration, the term of the lease provided under the lease deed dated 23.05.1985 i.e. 30 years, which was determined/terminated vide notice dated 20.03.2013 by L.N.N. (Lessor), has expired on 23.05.2015.

22. Sri Kuldip Pati Tripathi, learned counsel appearing for L.N.N. in support of the reliefs sought in Writ Petition No.2397 (MB) of 2013 filed by L.N.N. made following submissions.

(i) The property/land in issue belongs to L.N.N. and the same was leased out on 23.05.1985 to Uptron India Ltd. and only rights available under the lease can be auctioned and the property/land in issue cannot be aucti the borrowerThe borrowerthe borrowerThe borrowerthe borrower oned for recovery of any amount due on Uptron India Ltd.

(ii) In the instant case, it appears from the possession notice as well as public notice, pursuant to which auction proceedings were carried out, that in same, it has not been mentioned that lease hold rights are being auctioned. It appears from the contents of notices that ownership rights were being auctioned in the auction proceedings. The impression given in the notices is to the effect that IFCI Ltd. steps in as the owner of the property in issue.

(iii) The IFCI Ltd. had no right to sell the property/land in issue and what could have been auctioned off were only the rights available in the lease deed.

(iv) The notice issued under Section 13(2), order under Section 13(4), possession notice and public notice for auctioning the property are defective as they do not disclose the correct nature and status of the property/land in issue.

(v) The public notice for auctioning the property is in violation of Rule 8(6) sub-rule (a) and (f) of Rules, 2002, as in the same nowhere it has been mentioned that land in question belongs to L.N.N. which was leased out to Uptron India Ltd. and the lease hold rights are on sale in the auction proceedings.

(vi) The entire auction proceedings were carried out by IFCI Ltd. without giving any information to the L.N.N.. Being owner of the property the L.N.N. ought to have been informed in writing about the recovery of due amount by auctioning the property/land in issue. The fact pertaining to ownership of L.N.N. was well within the knowledge of IFCI Ltd. as the original lease deed was deposited for the purposes of seeking financial assistance by the Uptron India Ltd.

(vii) The property/land in issue is a public land belonging to L.N.N. and it cannot be sold/auctioned in the manner in which it was being sold/auctioned by the IFCI Ltd.

23. On the basis of aforesaid, Sri Kuldeep Pati Tripathi submitted that indulgence of this court is required. Prayer is allowed to the writ petition and quash the entire auction proceedings.

24. In regard to the Writ Petition No.4517 (MB) of 2013, Sri Kuldeep Pati appearing for L.N.N. submitted that the writ petition for the reliefs sought is liable to be dismissed. In this regard, he made following submission.

(i) In the writ petition the notice dated 20.03.2013, whereby the lease deed was determined/terminated, is under challenge and the same is not liable to be interfered as the Uptron India Ltd. violated the term nos. 2 and 6 of the lease deed dated 23.05.1985 and in exercise of power vested under term no.8 of lease deed it was determined/terminated. He further submitted that in the notice dated 20.03.2013 the reasons of termination of lease have been mentioned. Further submitted that reasons for termination of lease deed are that the lease rent due from 1997-98 was not paid and the Uptron India Ltd. failed to provide the information regarding sub-letting the parts of property/land in issue as also that the parts of the property/land in issue was sub-letted to third parties in an unauthorized manner.

(ii) It is further stated that in regard to the grounds/reasons for termination of lease there is no explanation in the writ petition nor it has been mentioned therein that the grounds/reasons mentioned in the notice dated 20.03.2013, whereby the lease was determined/terminated, are unsustainable.

(iii) With regard to the order dated 06.04.2013, whereby the L.N.N. refused to accept the lease rent, it is submitted by Sri Kuldeep Pati Tripathi that after determination/termination of lease on 20.03.2013 the IFCI Ltd. just to claim certain rights in the property/land in issue vide letter dated 28.03.2013 tried to deposit the due lease rent from 1997-98 and vide order dated 06.04.2013 the request to accept the lease rent was rejected on the ground to the effect that lease deed has already been terminated and the matter is sub-judice before this Court. The reasons mentioned in the order dated 06.04.2013 are just and proper.

(iv) It is also stated that during the pendency of writ petition, the term of the lease deed i.e. of 30 years, has already been expired and the present writ petition has become infructuous for all practical purposes.

(v) It is also stated that the tenancy was determined on 20.03.2013 and thereafter on 23.03.2013 the Uptron India Ltd. represented its case before the L.N.N. and after considering entire facts including the notice determining tenancy dated 20.03.2013 the L.N.N. passed the order dated 19.06.2013, challenged by the IFCI Ltd. In the facts of the case as also in view of the provisions of Section 111(h) there is no illegality in the order dated 19.06.2013.

25. Sri Asit Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri G. S. Misra, Advoate for IFCI Ltd. submitted that the writ petition No.2397 (MB) of 2013 filed by L.N.N. which relates to auction proceedings carried out by IFCI Ltd. under the provisions of Act of 2002 is not maintainable in view of availability of remedy of appeal under Section 17 of the Act of 2002 and being so the same is liable to be dismissed and L.N.N. be relegated to avail the remedy provided under Section 17 of the Act of 2002. In this regard reliance has been placed on the judgment passed by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Jagdish Singh vs. Heeralal and others, (2014) 1 SCC 479 and Union Bank of India vs. Satyawati Tondon, (2010) 3 SCC (Civ.) 260.

26. On merits, Sri Asit Chaturvedi, submiited that the possession notice as also the public notice pursuant to which the auction proceedings were carried out are not violative to any provision of Act of 2002 or Rules, 2002 and being so are not liable to be interfered by this Court. In this regard, it is further stated that in the public notice dated 22.01.2013, it has been specifically mentioned that property is being sold "AS IS WHERE IS AND WHATEVER THERE IS BASIS" and the same is sufficient compliance of the provisions contained in Act and Rules. Further submitted that the notice(s) were published in newspaper(s) in wide circulation and as such it is a presumption that the L.N.N. was well aware with the recovery proceedings initiated by the IFCI Ltd. It is further submitted that the IFCI Ltd. being secure creditor entered into the shoes of mortgagor when the property was mortaged with IFCI Ltd. after completion of all formalities including after taking note of NOC issued by the L.N.N. to mortgage the property in favour of Financial Institutions. To recover the due amount towards Uptron India Ltd. the recovery proceedings were initiated under the Act of 2002 against the property/land in issue mortgaged with IFCI Ltd. The recovery proceedings under the Act of 2002 are legally sustainable in view of the contents of possession notice and public notice as also in view of the provisions of Act of 1882. It is also stated that the L.N.N. ought to have applied to redeem the mortgaged property as provided under Section 60 of the Act of 1882 and it is still open for L.N.N. to approach the IFCI Ltd. for redemption of the mortgage property/land in issue.

27. With respect to the reliefs sought in the writ petition No. 4517 (MB) of 2013, it is submitted that :

(i) The L.N.N. being lessor ought to have received the lease rent, which was submitted on coming to know about the default committed by the Uptron India Ltd. The IFCI Ltd. tried to deposit the due lease rent from 1997-98 onwards through Bank Draft vide letter dated 28.03.2013. Further submitted that as per Section 65(d) of the Act of 1882 even after mortgage the Uptron India Ltd. (mortgagor) was bound to pay all the lease rent and for the default committed by the mortgagor the IFCI Ltd. can not be made to suffer ans as such the order dated 06.04.2013 whereby the L.N.N. refused to accept the rent submitted by IFCI Ltd. through demand draft is liable to be interfered by this Court.

(ii) In relation to notice dated 20.03.2013, whereby the lease of the property/land in issue was determined/terminated, Sri Asit Chaturvedi submitted that the notice dated 20.03.2013, terminating the lease was passed without any intimation to the IFCI Ltd. nor any opportunity was provided to the IFCI Ltd. to make the deficiency good. The notice dated 20.03.2003 is violative to the terms of the lease specifically term no.2 of the lease deed.

(iii) It is also stated that the order dated 19.06.2013, cancelling the lease deed is nothing but an eye wash as the decision to determine/terminate the lease was taken vide notice dated 20.03.2013.

(iv) It would be appropriate to mention here that in regard to violation of terms no.6 of the lease deed, one of the reasons of determination/termination of lease mentioned in the notice dated 20.03.2003, no argument has been advanced.

28. Sri J.N. Mathur, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Mudit Agarwal, appearing for M/S Shalimar, submitted that earlier M/s Shalimar was supporting the case of the IFCI Ltd. as the bid was settled in its favour and period of lease was not expired and M/s Shalimar could have utilized the property/land in issue for its business purpose and during the pendency of the present writ petitions the term of lease, which was of 30 years with provison of renewal, has already been expired on 23.05.2015 and now the terms of the lease can not be renewed and as such the 25 % of the bid amount deposited by M/s Shalimar with IFCI Ltd. be provided to M/S Shalimar. In this regard, Sri J.N. Mathur, learned Senior Advocate elaborating his arguments made following submissions:-

(i) Keeping in view the facts of the case as also the term no.1 read with term no.9 of the lease deed and provisions envisaged under Section 56 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 (in short "Act of 1872") the renewal of term of lease of property/land in issue is not possible.

(ii) Since the lease has been determined/terminated and lease rent by the L.N.N. has not been accepted from IFCI Ltd. as such also the present case would not fall under Section 116 of the Act of 1882, which provides lease by holding over and in this view also the IFCI Ltd. has no right to transfer the property/land in issue in favour of M/s Shalimar.

(iii) It is stated that Section 111 of the Act of 1882, provides determination of lease and taking note of Section 111(a) and (h) now the lease deed is not existence and in view of the same also the IFCI Ltd. has no right to transfer the property/land in issue.

(iv) With regard to deposit of rent it is stated in view of Section 65(d) of the Act of 1882 after the mortgage is created the IFCI Ltd. was under obligation to pay the lease rent.

(v) The lease rent was demanded by L.N.N. vide letter dated 18.01.2002, as appears from the notice dated 20.03.2013, however the lease rent was not paid till the notice dated 20.03.2013 was issued. The IFCI Ltd. through its letter dated 28.03.2013 tried to deposit the lease rent.

(vi) Admittedly, IFCI Ltd. being mortgagee of the property/land in issue took over the possession of the property/land in issue on 08.12.2012, as appears from the possession notice published in news paper on 09.12.2012 (Annexure No. 13 to the writ petition filed by IFCI Ltd.) and even then IFCI Ltd. failed to clear the dues immediately in terms of Section 65(d) of the Act of 1882.

(vii) Section 108 (j) of the Act of 1882 provides that the lessee can only mortgage or sub-lease whole or any part of his interest in the property and any transferee of such interest or part may again transfer it. It further provides that the lessee shall not by reason only of such transfer cease to be subject to any of the liabilities attaching to the lease and in view of the same as well as in view of Maxim(s) "Nemo Dat Quod Non Habet" (no one can bestow or grant a greater right, or a better title than he has himself) and "Nemo Plus Juris Tribuit Quam Ipse Habet" (no one gives what he has not got) only lease hold rights could have been auctioned but otherwise impression appears from the possession notice as also from the auction notice and accordingly in view of the same as also keeping in view the provisions of Rule 8(6) of the Rules, 2002 the auction proceedings are not sustainable.

29. With regard to the issue of maintainability of the writ petition no.2397 (MB) of 2013, Sri Kuldeep Tripathi and Sri J.N. Mathur, Senior Advocate, made following submissions:-

(i) Keeping in view the Section 2(f), which defines "borrower", Section 13, wherein the expression "borrower" has been used and which relates to taking measures against borrower and secured assets as also Section 17, which provides right to appeal and which says that any person (including borrower), aggrieved by any of the measures referred to in Sub-Section 4 of the Section 13 taken by the secured creditor or his authorized officer may make an application before the Debt Recovery Tribunal (in short "DRT"), the writ petition no.2397 (MB) of 2013 is maintainable and L.N.N. should not be relegated to avail the remedy of appeal provided under Section 17 of the Act of 2002. In this regard, it is further stated that the L.N.N. is neither a borrower nor a guarantor nor claiming any right through borrower or guarantor as legal heir/successor/ representative/ attorney/ assignee etc. nor has entered into the shoes of borrower or guarantor in any manner whatsoever it may be and in fact, the L.N.N. is owner of the property/land in issue as such taking into account the same, the writ petition is maintainable on behalf of L.N.N. challenging the auction proceedings initiated and carried out by IFCI Ltd.

(ii) It is also stated that expression "Any Person" referred in Section 17 of the Act of 2002 can not be read independently and it has to be read in the context of Section 13(4) and (5) of the Act of 2002 and a conjoint reading of both the provisions read with the definition of "borrower" provided under Section 2(f) of the Act of 2002 would make the point in issue crystal clear that expression "Any Person" would mean and cover either the borrower or guarantor or any person claiming through borrower or guarantor and would not cover the true owner of the property, who is neither borrower nor guarantor.

(iii) Further stated that the subject matter of both the writ petition is same i.e. property/land in issue and relegating the L.N.N. to approach the DRT would result in multiplicity of proceedings and it would not be in the interest of substantial justice between the parties.

(iv) Further submitted that the matter is pending since 2013 and more than 6 years have elapsed and the matter is ripe for final hearing as such relegating the matter to another forum would only prolong the litigation between the parties and it would not be in the interest of substantial justice, in this regard placed reliance on the judgments passed in the case of Regl. Provident Fund Commr. v.

(v) Further stated that it is well settled principle of law that availability of alternative remedy is not an absolute bar for granting relief in exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The restriction to remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution on the ground of alternate remedy is a self imposed restriction. In this regard reliance has been placed on the judgments passed in the cases of Ram and Shyam Co. v. State of Haryana & Ors., (1985) 3 SCC 267 at page 274 and Rajasthan SEB v. Union of India & Ors., (2008) 5 SCC 632 at page 633.

30. Heard counsel for the parties and perused the record.

31. We have also taken note of relevant statutory provisions referred by the counsel for the parties i.e. Act of 2002, Rules, 2002 and Act of 1882.

32. During the course of arguments, for the purposes clarification of facts and issues involved in the case, this Court on 18.09.2019 framed following questions:-

"(a) Whether the action on the part of the petitioner to put the auction of the property in question, which was mortgaged by the opposite party no.2/UPTRON Indian Ltd. as security while taking the loan, which was leased out and lease deed was executed in its favour by Lucknow Municipal Corporation, in view of the provisions of Section 105 read with 108 (J) and other relevant provisions of Transfer of Property Act, 1882, is correct or not ?

(b) Whether the public notice dated 22.01.2013 issued by the petitioner inviting bids for sale of the mortgaged property including the property in question (Annexure No.15 to the writ petition) is in accordance with law or not ?

(c) If the Lucknow Municipal Corporation has cancelled the original lease deed executed by it in favour of opposite party no.2/UPTRON India Ltd., then after expiry of the lease deed, the same can be extended by this Court while exercising the power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India."

33. After the above on 11.12.2019, this Court again framed the following questions:-

"(a) Whether the demand notice issued by the IFCI being the secured creditor of UPTRON under section 13 (2) of SARFAESI Act and auction process held for recovery of the amount towards outstanding dues of IFCI, is in accordance with law or not ?

(b) Whether the land in issue can be auctioned treating the UPTRON as owner of the property in question and only the lease hold rights can be auctioned as the Lucknow Nagar Nigam is the original owner of the property in question.

(c) Whether cancellation of lease by Lucknow Nagar Nigam is justified."

34. After conclusion of arguments, this Court feels that following questions are required to be considered in the matter in issue.

(i) Whether the writ petition no.2397 (MB) of 2013 filed by L.N.N. challenging the auction proceedings initiated and carried out by IFCI Ltd. in furtherance to recover the due amount from the Uptron India Ltd. (lessee of L.N.N.), which became due on account of default in payment of financial assistance provided by IFCI Ltd., is entertainable and maintainable before this Court or the L.N.N. should be relegated to avail the remedy available under Section 17 of the Act of 2002.

(ii) Whether the determination of lease by alleged order/notice dated 20.03.2013 by L.N.N. is just and proper.

(iii) Whether auction proceedings in relation to the property/land in issue, which belongs to L.N.N. and leased out to Uptron India Ltd., carried out by the IFCI Ltd. for recovery of outstanding dues/debt of Uptron India Ltd. under the provisions of the Act of 2002 and Rules 2002 is sustainable in the eye of law.

(iv) Whether the mortgagee IFCI Ltd. for the purposes of recovery of dues was empowered to sell the property/land in issue or was empowered to sell only lease hold rights available to the Uptron India Ltd. under the lease deed.

(v) Whether in the facts of the case, a direction can be issued to lessor to renew the lease.

(vi) Whether M/s. Shalimar is entitled to refund of 25% of bid amount with interest w.e.f. the date of passing of interim order dated 27.05.2013 in the Writ Petition No.2397 (MB) of 2013.

35. First, we would like to consider the issue of maintainability of the writ petition and in this regard, we feel it appropriate to reproduce Section 2(f), Section 13 and Section 17 of the Act of 2002.

"Section 2 (f) " borrower" means any person who has been granted financial assistance by any bank or financial institution or who has given any guarantee or created any mortgage or pledge as security for the financial assistance granted by any bank or financial institution and includes a person who becomes borrower of a (asset reconstruction company) consequent upon acquisition by it of any rights or interest of any bank or financial institution in relation to such financial assistance (or who has raised funds through issue of debt securities).

Section 13. Enforcement of security interest.-

"(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 69 or section 69A of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (4 of 1882), any security interest created in favour of any secured creditor may be enforced, without the intervention of the court or tribunal, by such creditor in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

[Provided that :

(i) the requirement of classification of secured debt as non-performing asset under this sub-section shall not apply to a borrower who has raised funds through issue of debt securities; and

Provided that the reasons so communicated or the likely action of the secured creditor at the stage of communication of reasons shall not confer any right upon the borrower to prefer an application to the Debts Recovery Tribunal under Section 17 or the Court of District Judge under Section 17A.

(4) In case the borrower fails to discharge his liability in full within the period specified in sub- section (2), the secured creditor may take recourse to one or more of the following measures to recover his secured debt, namely:-

(b) take over the management of the business of the borrower including the right to transfer by way of lease, assignment or sale for realising the secured asset;

Provided that the right to transfer by way of lease, assignment or sale shall be exercised only where the substantial part of the business of the borrower is held as security for the debt:

Provided further that where the management of whole, of the business or part of the business is severable, the secured creditor shall take over the management of such business of the borrower which is relatable to the security or the debt;

(c) appoint any person (hereafter referred to as the manager), to manage the secured assets the possession of which has been taken over by the secured creditor;

(d) require at any time by notice in writing, any person who has acquired any of the secured assets from the borrower and from whom any money is due or may become due to the borrower, to pay the secured creditor, so much of the money as is sufficient to pay the secured debt.

(5) Any payment made by any person referred to in clause (d) of sub- section (4) to the secured creditor shall give such person a valid discharge as if he has made payment to the borrower.

[(5A) Where the sale of an immovable property, for which a reserve price has been specified, has been postponed for want of a bid of an amount not less than such reserve price, it shall be lawful for any officer of the secured creditor, if so authorized by the secured creditor in this behalf, to bid for the immovable property on behalf of the secured creditor at any subsequent sale.]

[(5B) Where the secured creditor, referred to in sub-section (5A), is declared to be the purchaser of the immovable property at any subsequent sale, the amount of the purchase price shall be adjusted towards the amount of the claim of the secured creditor for which the auction of enforcement of security interest is taken by the secured creditor, under sub-section (4) of section 13.]

[5C) The provisions of section 9 of the Banking Regulation Act, 1949 (10 of 1949) shall, as far as may be, apply to the immovable property acquired by secured creditor under sub-section (5A).]

(6) Any transfer of secured asset after taking possession thereof or take over of management under sub- section (4), by the secured creditor or by the manager on behalf of the secured creditors shall vest in the transferee all rights in, or in relation to, the secured asset transferred as if the transfer had been made by the owner of such secured asset.

(7) Where any action has been taken against a borrower under the provisions of sub- section (4), all costs, charges and expenses which, in the opinion of the secured creditor, have been properly incurred by him or any expenses incidental thereto, shall be recoverable from the borrower and the money which is received by the secured creditor shall, in the absence of any contract to the contrary, be held by him in trust, to be applied, firstly, in payment of such costs, charges and expenses and secondly, in discharge of the dues of the secured creditor and the residue of the money so received shall be paid to the person entitled thereto in accordance with his rights and interests.

(8) where the amount of dues of the secured creditor together with all costs, charges and expenses incurred by him is tendered to the secured creditor at any time before the date of publication of notice for public auction or inviting quotations or tender from public or private treaty for transfer by way of lease, assignment or sale of the secured assets,-

(i) the secured assets shall not be transferred by way of lease, assignment or sale by the secured creditor; and

(ii) in case, any step has been taken by the secured creditor for transfer by way of lease or assignment or sale of the assets before tendering of such amount under this sub-section, no further step shall be taken by such secured creditor for transfer by way of lease or assignment or sale of such secured assets.]

(9) [Subject to the provisions of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, in the case of financing of a financial asset by more than one secured creditors or joint financing of a financial asset by secured creditors, no secured creditor shall be entitled to exercise any or all of the rights conferred on him under or pursuant to sub-section (4) unless exercise of such right is agreed upon by the secured creditors representing not less than (sixty percent) in value of the amount outstanding as on a record date and such action shall be binding on all the secured creditors:

Provided that in the case of a company in liquidation, the amount realised from the sale of secured assets shall be distributed in accordance with the provisions of section 529A of the Companies Act, 1956 (1 of 1956):

Provided further that in the case of a company being wound up on or after the commencement of this Act, the secured creditor of such company, who opts to realise his security instead of relinquishing his security and proving his debt under proviso to sub-section (1) of section 529 of the Companies Act, 1956 (1 of 1956), may retain the sale proceeds of his secured assets after depositing the workmen' s dues with the liquidator in accordance with the provisions of section 529A of that Act:

Provided also that liquidator referred to in the second proviso shall intimate the secured creditor the workmen' s dues in accordance with the provisions of section 529A of the Companies Act, 1956 (1 of 1956) and in case such workmen' s dues cannot be ascertained, the liquidator shall intimate the estimated amount of workmen' s dues under that section to the secured creditor and in such case the secured creditor may retain the sale proceeds of the secured assets after depositing the amount of such estimated dues with the liquidator:

Provided also that in case the secured creditor deposits the estimated amount of workmen' s dues, such creditor shall be liable to pay the balance of the workmen' s dues or entitled to receive the excess amount, if any, deposited by the secured creditor with the liquidator:

Provided also that the secured creditor shall furnish an undertaking to the liquidator to pay the balance of the workmen's dues, if any.

Explanation.- For the purposes of this sub- section,-

(a) "record date" means the date agreed upon by the secured creditors representing not less than [sixty percent] in value of the amount outstanding on such date;

(b) "amount outstanding" shall include principal, interest and any other dues payable by the borrower to the secured creditor in respect of secured asset as per the books of account of the secured creditor.

(10) Where dues of the secured creditor are not fully satisfied with the sale proceeds of the secured assets, the secured creditor may file an application in the form and manner as may be prescribed to the Debts Recovery Tribunal having jurisdiction or a competent court, as the case may be, for recovery of the balance amount from the borrower.

(11) Without prejudice to the rights conferred on the secured creditor under or by this section, secured creditor shall be entitled to proceed against the guarantors or sell the pledged assets without first taking any of the measured specifies in clause (a) to (d) of sub- section (4) in relation to the secured assets under this Act.

(12) The rights of a secured creditor under this Act may be exercised by one or more of his officers authorised in this behalf in such manner as may be prescribed.

(13) No borrower shall, after receipt of notice referred to in sub- section (2), transfer by way of sale, lease or otherwise (other than in the ordinary course of his business) any of his secured assets referred to in the notice, without prior written con ent of the secured creditor.

Section 17. Application against measures to recover secured debts.--

"(1) Any person (including borrower), aggrieved by any of the measures referred to in sub-section (4) of section 13 taken by the secured creditor or his authorised officer under this Chapter, [may make an application along with such fee, as may be prescribed] to the Debts Recovery Tribunal having jurisdiction in the matter within forty-five days from the date on which such measures had been taken:

[Provided that different fees may be prescribed for making the application by the borrower and the person other than the borrower.]

[Explanation.--For the removal of doubts it is hereby declared that the communication of the reasons to the borrower by the secured creditor for not having accepted his representation or objection or the likely action of the secured creditor at the stage of communication of reasons to the borrower shall not entitle the person (including borrower) to make an application to the Debts Recovery Tribunal under sub-section (1) of section 17.]

[(1A) An application under sub-section (1) shall be filed before the Debts Recovery Tribunal within the local limits of whose jurisdiction-

(a) the cause of action, wholly or in part, arises;

(b) where the secured asset is located; or

(c) the branch or any other office of a bank or financial institution is maintaining an account in which debt claimed is outstanding for the time being.]

[(2) The Debts Recovery Tribunal shall consider whether any of the measures referred to in sub-section (4) of section 13 taken by the secured creditor for enforcement of security are in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder.

(3) If, the Debts Recovery Tribunal, after examining the facts and circumstances of the case and evidence produced by the parties, comes to the conclusion that any of the measures referred to in sub-section (4) of section 13, taken by the secured creditor are not in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder, and require restoration of the management or restoration of possession of the secured assets to the borrower or other aggrieved person, it may by order,-

(i) declare the recourse to any one or more measures referred to in sub-ssection (4) of section 13 taken by the secured assets as invalid and

(b) restore the possession of the secured assets or management of secured assets to the borrower or such other aggrieved person, who has made an application under sub-section (1), as the case may be; and

(c)pass such other direction as it may consider appropriate and necessary in relation to any of the recourse taken by the secured creditor under sub-section (4) of section 13.

(4) If, the Debts Recovery Tribunal declares the recourse taken by a secured creditor under sub-section (4) of section 13, is in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder, then, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the secured creditor shall be entitled to take recourse to one or more of the measures specified under sub-section (4) of section l3 to recover his secured debt.

[(4A) Where-

(i) any person, in an application under sub-section (1), claims any tenancy or leasehold rights upon the secured asset, the Debt Recovery Tribunal, after examining the facts of the case and evidence produced by the parties in relation to such claims shall, for the purposes of enforcement of security interest, have the jurisdiction to examine whether lease or tenancy-

(a) has expired or stood determined; or

(b) is contrary to section 65A of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (4 of 1882); or

(c) is contrary to terms of mortgage; or

(d) is created after the issuance of notice of default and demand by the Bank under subsection (2) of section 13 of the Act; and

(ii) the Debt Recovery Tribunal is satisfied that tenancy right or leasehold rights claimed in secured asset falls under the sub-clause (a) or sub-clause (b) or sub-clause(c) or sub-clause (d) of clause (i), then notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, the Debt Recovery Tribunal may pass such order as it deems fit in accordance with the provisions of this Act.]

(5) Any application made under sub-section (1) shall be dealt with by the Debts Recovery Tribunal as expeditiously as possible and disposed of within sixty days from the date of such application:

Provided that the Debts Recovery Tribunal may, from time to time, extend the said period for reasons to be recorded in writing, so, however, that the total period of pendency of the application with the Debts Recovery Tribunal, shall not exceed four months from the date of making of such application made under sub-section (1).

(6) If the application is not disposed of by the Debts Recovery Tribunal within the period of four months as specified in sub-section (5), any party to the application may make an application, in such form as may be prescribed, to the Appellate Tribunal for directing the Debts Recovery Tribunal for expeditious disposal of the application pending before the Debts Recovery Tribunal and the Appellate Tribunal may, on such application, make an order for expeditious disposal of the pending application by the Debts Recovery Tribunal.

(7) Save as otherwise provided in this Act, the Debts Recovery Tribunal shall, as far as may be, dispose of application in accordance with the provisions of the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993 (51 of 1993) and the rules made thereunder.]

36. Section 17 of the Act of 2002 provides remedy of appeal before DRT to any person (including borrower), if he is aggrieved by any of the measures referred to in Sub-Section 4 of the Section 13 taken by the secured creditor or his authorized officer.

37. Section 13 of the Act, 2002, which starts from non-obstante clause, says that notwithstanding anything contained in Section 69 or Section 69-A of the Act of 1882, any security interest created in favour of any secured creditor be enforced, without the intervention of the Court or Tribunal, by such creditor in accordance with the provisions of the Act. As per Sub-Section (2) of Section 13 if the account/debt is classified by the secured creditor as NPA on account of default of repayment of secured debt or any installment thereof then the secured creditor may require the "borrower" by notice in writing to discharge in full his liabilities within 60 days from the date of notice failing which the secured creditor shall be entitled to exercise all or any of the rights under Sub-Section (4).

38. Sub-Section 4 of Section 13 of the Act, 2002 provides measures to recover the secured debt from the "borrower", in case the "borrower" fails to discharge his liabilities in full within the period specified in Sub-Section (2).

39. Sub-section 4 (d) of Section 13 of the Act of 2002 empowers the secured creditors to call upon "any person" who has acquired any of the secured assets from the borrower and from whom any money is due or may become due to the borrower, to pay the secured creditor, so much of the money as is sufficient to pay the secured debt.

40. As per Section 2(f) of the Act of 2002 expression "borrower" means a person who has been granted financial assistance by the Bank or Financial Institution or who has given any guarantee or created any mortgage or pledge as security for the financial assistance granted by any Bank or Financial Institution and would also include a person who becomes borrower of a securitization company or reconstruction company consequent upon acquisition by it of any rights or interest of any Bank or financial institution in relation to such financial assistance.

41. Taking into account the scheme of the Act of 2002 and above quoted provision, in our view the expression "borrower" would also cover any person or institution who claims any right in the secured asset as legal heir/successor/representative/assignee/attorney of "borrower" or "guarantor" and would also cover "any person" who by virtue of lawful agreement enters into the shoes of "borrower" or "guarantor". Expression "borrower" would also cover any person who is covered under Section 13 (4) (d) of the Act of 2002. As such, a person who is not in the category, as stated, would not be considered as "borrower".

42. In the instant case, in our view, in the light of the observation made hereinabove, the L.N.N. would not come within the purview of expression "borrower".

43. Reverting to Section 13 and 17 of the Act of 2002, we would like to observe, in the light of aforesaid, that the provisions of Section 13 would apply to the "borrower" and "any persons" who is covered under Section 13 (4) (d) of the Act of 2002 and would not apply on a person who is neither covered under the expression "borrower" nor is person as mentioned in Section 13 (4) (d) of the Act of 2002. Thus, in our view the person who is covered under the expression 'borrower' and "a person" who is covered under Section 13 (4) (d) of the Act of 2002 being "a person" aggrieved by the measures adopted by the secured creditor under Section 13(4) of the Act of 2002 can approach to the appellate forum provided under Section 17 of the Act of 2002.

44. It would be appropriate to mention here that under Section 17 (3) of the Act of 2002, if the Debts Recovery Tribunal, after examining the facts and circumstances of the case and evidence produced by the parties, comes to the conclusion that any of the measures referred to in sub-section (4) of section 13, taken by the secured creditor are not in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder, and require restoration of the management or restoration of possession of the secured assets to the borrower or other aggrieved person, it may by order, (i) declare the recourse to any one or more measures referred to in sub-ssection (4) of section 13 taken by the secured assets as invalid and (b) restore the possession of the secured assets or management of secured assets to the borrower.

45. Taking into consideration the provisions of Section 2 (f), 13 and 17 of the Act of 2002 and what we have observed herein above with respect to expression "borrower", we are of the view that Section 17(1) can not be read independently and it has to be read in the context of Section 13 of the Act of 2002, which provides measures for recovery of debt from the "borrower" and "the person" covered under Section 13 (4) (d) of the Act of 2002, and accordingly we hold that the L.N.N. or any other person, who is neither covered under the expression "borrower", as held by us, nor is a person covered under Section 13 (4) (d) of the Act of 2002 would not be covered under the expression "Any Person" mentioned under Section 17 of the Act of 2002.

46. For the reasons aforesaid, we are of the view that the remedy of appeal provided under Section 17 of the Act of 2002 is not available to L.N.N. as it is neither a borrower nor guarantor nor covered under the expression "borrower", as observed by us hereinabove, nor is "a person" covered under Section 13 (4) (d) and accordingly, we hold that the Writ Petition No.2397 (MB) of 2013 filed by L.N.N., challenging the auction proceedings initiated and carried out by IFCI Ltd. under the provisions of Act of 2002, is maintainable before this Court. First question answered accordingly.

47. In addition to above, in the light of the judgments, on which reliance has been placed on the issue of maintainability of the writ petition, we would also like to observe that relegating a party to avail the alternative remedy after elapsed of six years would prolonged the litigation between the parties and it would be against the principle of substantial justice. It is also in view of the fact that the matter is ripe for hearing and subjust matter of both the writ petition is the same.

48. In view of the aforesaid, we reject the submissions made by Sri Asit Chaturvedi on the issue of maintainability of writ petition.

49. With regard to question no.2, which relates to determination of lease, we have taken note of the following aspects:-

(i) The lease rent was demanded by the L.N.N. from Uptron India Ltd. vide letter dated 18.01.2002, as appears from notice dated 20.03.2013 (determining the lease) but the lease rent due from 1997-98 was not paid by the Uptron India Ltd.

(ii) The possession was taken by the IFCI Ltd. on 08.12.2012, as appears from the possession notice published on 09.12.2012, but the due lease rent even was not paid by the IFCI Ltd. till issung of notice dated 20.03.2013. The IFCI Ltd. after determination of lease submitted the lease rent to the L.N.N. through demand draft vide letter dated 28.03.2013. In view of the Section 65(d) of the Act of 1882, after taking over the possession of the property/land in issue, it was the liability of the IFCI Ltd. to clear the entire dues towards lease rent. The IFCI Ltd. failed to discharge its obligation as provided under Section 65(d) of the Act of 1882 in reasonable time.

(iii) The term no. 2 of the lease deed says that lease rent of each year shall be paid up by the lessee to lessor by the demand draft latest by the end month of April each year in advance and failure in making of such payment of rent regularly in advance by the end of April each year rendered the lease terminable by lessor by three months notice.

(iv) The violation of term no.6 of the lease deed, one of the reasons of determination of lease, is undisputed, which is the effect that Uptron India Ltd. failed to provide the information regarding sub-letting the parts of property/land in issue as also that the parts of the property/land in issue was sub-letted to third parties in an unauthorized manner.

(v) Terms no.8 of the lease deed provides termination of lease even before the expiry of the term of lease i.e. 30 years by notice of three months only.

(vi) Section 108(j) of the Act of 2002 empowers the lessee to transfer whole or any part of his interest in the property, which includes mortgage or sub-lease. It further provides that lessee shall not, by reason only of such transfer ceased to be subject to any of the liabilities attaching to the lease and in view of the same the determination of lease by the L.N.N., after taking possession of the property/land in issue by the IFCI Ltd., in terms of the lease deed could not be held faulty.

(vii) The determination of lease is provided under Section 111 of the the Act of 1882. Section 111 does not provide that prior to determination of lease through notice determining the lease an opportunity should be provided to the lessee. Moreover, in the terms and conditions of the lease deed dated 23.05.1985, in issue, it has not been mentioned that prior to determining the lease an opportunity should be given to lessee. We have taken this issue of opportunity of hearing as the same was raised by the counsel for IFCI Ltd.

(viii) Under this question, we are also taking up the issue related to orders dated 06.04.2013 and 19.06.2013, challenged by IFCI Ltd. It is in view of the fact that no question has been framed in this regard as the orders dated 06.04.2013 and 19.06.2013 relate to determination/termination of lease. In regard to order dated 06.04.2013, whereby the L.N.N. refused to accept the lease rent tendered by the IFCI Ltd., we are of the view that to accept the lease rent or to refuse to accept the lease rent after determination of lease is the choice of the lessor and the lessee can not compel the lessor to accept the lease rent. It is in view of the provisions of the Act of 1882 particularly Section(s) 112, 113 and 116. Thus, we are of the view that the order dated 06.04.2013 there is no illegality in the order dated 06.04.2013. In regard to the order dated 19.06.2013, we have taken note of the fact that after determination of lease vide notice dated 20.03.2013 the Uptron India Ltd. represented its case before the L.N.N. vide letter/representation dated 23.03.2013, as appears from the order dated 19.06.2013, and the same was rejected by the impugned order dated 19.06.2013 on the basis of the fact that the tenancy has already been determined. In view of Section 111(h) of the Act of 1882 the tenancy would come to an end on the expiration of notice to determined the lease and in the instant case, on 20.03.2013 the L.N.N. informed the Uptron India Ltd. that the lease would come to end after expiration of three months on 19.06.2013 and the same has been narrated in the impugned order dated 19.06.2013. Thus, we are of the view that there is no illegality in the order dated 19.06.2013. For the reasons aforesaid, we are of the view that the orders dated 06.04.2013 and 19.06.2013 are not liable to be interfered.

50. Taking into account the above said facts, we are of the view that the L.N.N. determined the lease deed as per terms and conditions of the lease deed dated 23.05.1985 and Section 111 of the Act of 1882 and there is no violation of any term of the lease deed or statutory provisions. Question no. 2 answered accordingly.

51. With regard to question no.3, which relates to auction proceedings, in relation to property/land in issue, initiated and carried out for recovery of debt by the IFCI Ltd., we have considered the following aspect of the case:-

(i) Admittedly, the property/land in issue, of which the L.N.N. is the owner, was leased out to Uptron India Ltd. and in this regard the lease deed dated 03.05.1985 was executed and being so the Uptron India Ltd. was entitled to the rights available under the lease deed read with Section 108 of the Act of 1882.

(ii) The Uptron India Ltd. was never become the owner of the property/land in issue.

(iii) The Uptron India Ltd. by submitting the title deed as provided under Section 58(f) of the Act of 1882 with the IFCI Ltd. mortgaged the property/land in issue, leased out by L.N.N. It was for taking financial assistance.

(iv) The Uptron India Ltd. committed default and failed to repay the due amount to the IFCI Ltd.

(v) The IFCI Ltd. for recovery of debt took recourse of the provisions of the Act of 2002 particularly Section 13.

(vi) A perusal of the possession notice dated 08.12.2012, published in the newspaper on 09.12.2012, shows that in the said notice it has not been specifically mentioned that IFCI Ltd. has taken the possession of the property leased out by the L.N.N. to the Uptron India Ltd. and IFCI Ltd. steps into the shoes of Uptron India Ltd. as lessee of the L.N.N.. From the contents of the possession notice, an impression can be drawn by the public at large that the IFCI Ltd. steps in as owner of the property.

(vii) From the letter dated 11.12.2012 written by IFCI Ltd. to Uptron India Ltd., U.P. Electronic Corporation and the Principal Secretary, Telecommunication Government of U.P., relevant portion of which is quoted hereinunder, also gives an impression that IFCI Ltd. was intending to sell the property/land in issue and not the lease hold rights.

(a) "We hereby give you notice under Rule 8(6) of the Security Interest (Enforcement) Rules, 2002 and in case the dues as mentioned in the possession notice are not cleared within the stipulated time off 30 days from the date of this letter, the secured creditor will proceed with the sale of the secured assets by invoking any modes as mentioned in Rule 8(5) of the Security Interest (Enforcement) Rules, 2002".

(viii) The auction/public notice dated 22.01.2013 is already quoted above, however, for ready reference relevant part of the same is quoted below:-

(b) ""... Sealed bids are invited for purchase of movable and immovable assets of two units of M/s UPTRON INDIA LTD. (UIL) at Village Jugauli (earlier known as Ujariyan Gaon), Near Gomti Barrage, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh AND ....."

Further under particulars of Assets, the description of the property for sale has been mentioned as under :

"Unit 1: Gomti Nagar, Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh

Village Jugauli (earlier known as UjariyanGaon) Near Gomti Barrage, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh admeasuring 8 Bigha, 2 Biswansi togather with all the buildings and structures / erections constructed erected thereon, plant and machinery attached to the earth or permanently fastened to anything attached to the earth and fixtures and fittings erected / installed thereon and every part thereof."

Para 5 of the auction/public notice again mentions reads as under:-

"The successful bidder shall deposit 25% of the amount of sale price after adjusting the EMD already deposited within two (2) working days of acceptance of the offer by the Authorized Officer failing which the EMD shall be forfeited. The balance 75% of the sale price is payable on or before 15th day of issue of letter of acceptance confirming the highest bid (Letter of Acceptance)."

(ix) A perusal of the auction notice dated 22.01.2013 would shows that in the same it has not been mentioned that the auction proceedings would be carried out by the IFCI Ltd. only with respect of lease hold rights.

(x) Section 108 (j) of the Act of 1882 provides that the lessee can only mortgage or sub-lease whole or any part of his interest in the property and any transferee of such interest or part may again transfer it and it further provides that the lessee shall not by reason only of such transfer cease to be subject to any of the liabilities attaching to the lease and in view of the same as well as in view of Maxim(s) "Nemo Dat Quod Non Habet" (no one can bestow or grant a greater right, or a better title than he has himself) and "Nemo Plus Juris Tribuit Quam Ipse Habet" (no one gives what he has not got) only lease hold rights could have been auctioned but otherwise impression appears from the possession notice as also from the auction notice, and accordingly in view of the same as also keeping in view the provisions of Rule 8(6) (a) of the Rules, 2002 the auction proceedings are not sustainable.

(xi) It would be relevant at this stage to refer the judgment of the Division Bench passed in the case of Rakesh Kumar Kaushal vs. State of U.P. & Others, 2019 (1) ADJ 689. In this case, the Division Bench of this Court after considering the Section 13,14 and 17 of the Act of 2002 and Rules 8 and 9 of the Rules, 2002, in facts of the case held that writ petition is maintainable and also held that the responsibility of bank does not get diluted by merely inserting a clause "as is where is and as is what is" and further held that secured creditor is under a mandate to disclose every aspect of the property to be auctioned under the provisions of Act of 2002 and Rules, 2002. The relevant paras are quoted below :

21. The manner and procedure, in which the secured assets have to be disposed of, has been detailed in the Rules, 2002, and especially in Rule 8 and 9 of the said Rules. For ready reference Rule 8 and 9 are quoted below:-

"8. Sale of immovable secured assets.--

(1) Where the secured asset is an immovable property, the authorised officer shall take or cause to be taken possession, by delivering a possession notice prepared as nearly as possible in Appendix IV to these rules, to the borrower and by affixing the possession notice on the outer door or at such conspicuous place of the property.

(2) The sale shall be confirmed in favour of the purchaser who has offered the highest sale price in his bid or tender or quotation or offer to the authorised officer and shall be subject to confirmation by the secured creditor: Provided that no sale under this rule shall be confirmed, if the amount offered by sale price is less than the reserve price, specified under sub-rule (5) of rule 9: Provided further that if the authorised officer fails to obtain a price higher than the reserve price, he may, with the consent of the borrower and the secured creditor effect the sale at such price.

(3) On every sale of immovable property, the purchaser shall immediately pay a deposit of twenty-five per cent. of the amount of the sale price, to the authorised officer conducting the sale and in default of such deposit, the property shall forthwith be sold again.

(4) The balance amount of purchase price payable shall be paid by the purchaser to the authorised officer on or before the fifteenth day of confirmation of sale of the immovable property or such extended period as may be agreed upon in writing between the parties.

(5) In default of payment within the period mentioned in sub-rule (4), the deposit shall be forfeited and the property shall be resold and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claim to the property or to any part of the sum for which it may be subsequently sold.

(6) On confirmation of sale by the secured creditor and if the terms of payment have been complied with, the authorised officer exercising the power of sale shall issue a certificate of sale of the immovable property in favour of the purchaser in the form given in Appendix V to these rules.

(7) Where the immovable property sold is subject to any encumbrances, the authorised officer may, if the thinks fit, allow the purchaser to deposit with him the money required to discharge the encumbrances and any interest due thereon together with such additional amount that may be sufficient to meet the contingencies or further cost, expenses and interest as may be determined by him.

(8) On such deposit of money for discharge of the encumbrances, the authorised officer may issue or cause the purchaser to issue notices to the persons interested in or entitled to the money deposited with him and take steps to make the payment accordingly.

(9)The authorised officer shall deliver the property to the purchaser free from encumbrances known to the secured creditor on deposit of money as specified in sub-rule (7) above.

(10)The certificate of sale issued under sub-rule (6) shall specifically mention that whether the purchaser has purchased the immovable secured asset free from any encumbrances known to the secured creditor or not."

22. The aforesaid provisions enjoins that Authorised Officer shall take or cause to be taken possession, by delivering a possession notice, and the same should also be published within 7 days in two leading newspapers, and the notice is also to be served upon the borrower as per the methods prescribed therein.

23. Sub-rule (3) of Rule 8 provides for possession of immovable property if it is actually taken by the Authorised Officer, who shall keep the same in his own custody or in the custody of any other person appointed by him, and it shall be his duty to take steps for preservation and protection of the secured interest. The rules further provides for obtaining the valuation of the property by the approved valuer and the secured asset also to fix reserve price of property by methods provided for in sub rule (5) by obtaining quotations, tenders, public auctions or by private treaty, and in case the secured asset is being sold by inviting tenders or holding public auction the secured creditor shall have the notice published in two leading newspapers having sufficient circulation clearly stating the terms for sale including description of the immovable property to be sold, the detail of encumbrances known to the secured creditor, the reserve price and place of public auction, deposit of earnest money, and any other thing which the Authorised Officer considers it material for a purchaser to know in order to judge the nature and value of the property.

24. Rule 9 of the aforesaid Rules provides for time of sale, issue of sale certificate and delivery of possession apart from other mandatory guidelines. Further, sub-rule (9) of Rule 9 provides that the Authorised Officer shall deliver the property to the purchaser free from encumbrances.

25. As far as the present case is concerned, the petitioner is not aggrieved by any of the measures taken by the respondent bank, rather he is aggrieved by inaction in not handing over the possession of the auction property and, therefore, there is no occasion for the petitioner to approach the Debt Recovery Tribunal challenging any action of the Bank taken under subsection (4) of section 13.Under sub-section (b), the Debt Recovery Tribunal can only restore the possession. It is admitted case of the parties that the petitioner was never in possession, inasmuch as he is only an auction-purchaser seeking possession of the auctioned property being the successful bidder.

26. The entire gamut of remedies provided under Section 17 of the SARFAESI Act is to oversee that the statutory provisions of Section 13(4) read with Rule 8 and 9 of the Rules, 2002 are adhered to, and the Debt Recovery Tribunal would immediately step in, whenever it finds any infraction by the secured creditor.

27. The respondent Bank in paragraph 8 of its short counter affidavit has stated that they have moved an application under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act on 08/05/2017, which was supposed to be disposed of by 7th June 2017, but the District Magistrate has failed to pass the order even till date i.e. 26.11.2018 despite the case being fixed on fifty nine occasions. It is for this reason that the physical possession could not be handed over to the petitioner and the Bank is eventually pursuing the matter before the District Magistrate Sultanpur. They have also stated that the Field General Manager of the Bank has also written a letter dated 09/08/2018 to the Director General, Directorate of Institutional Finance, Uttar Pradesh for early disposal of various application moved by the Bank under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act where the property in question is also involved.

28.That the respondent bank in support of its contention with regard to the alternative remedy has placed before us judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Agarwal Tracom Pvt Ltd vs Punjab National Bank and Others, 2017 AIR (SC) 5562.

29. That in the aforesaid judgment there was a dispute between the bank and the auction purchaser whereby the bank had forfeited the deposit money as the appellant therein had failed to pay regular instalments towards sale money in terms of memorandum of understanding. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraph number 31 of the said judgement have stated that the auction purchaser is one such person who is aggrieved by the action of the secured creditor in forfeiting their money, and found that the action of secured creditor in forfeiting the deposit made by the auction purchaser is part of the measures taken by the secured creditor under section 13 (4) and, therefore, the High Court was justified in dismissing the writ petition on the ground of availability of alternate remedy.

30. So far as the present case is concerned, there is no dispute between the auction-purchaser and the Bank with regard to any of the measures under section 13 (4) of the SARFAESI Act read with rule 8 and 9 of the Rules, 2002. Here, the petitioner, who is a auction-purchaser has deposited the entire amount of bid and the Bank has issued a sale certificate dated 15/07/2017, wherein it has been recorded that "the undersigned acknowledges the receipt of the sale price of Rs. 60 lakhs in full and handed over the delivery in possession of the schedule property". The said sale certificate issued under rule 9(6) has been signed by Authorised Officer, Allahabad bank. The Bank has stated that though the sale certificate has not been received by the petitioner, but the Bank is ready to hand over the sale certificate to the petitioner. In view of the above the judgment of the Hon'ble apex court in the case of Agarwal Tracom Pvt Ltd vs Punjab National Bank and Others is clearly distinguishable on facts, and in the peculiar set of facts and circumstances of this case, the petitioner does not have any efficacious alternative remedy under the SARFAESI Act.

31. Putting it differently, here the petitioner is not aggrieved by the action of the secured creditor nor any of the reliefs to which the DRT is empowered to grant under this section, would be of any use to redress the grievance of the petitioner, and therefore the plea of alternate remedy raised by the respondent bank is misconceived and is rejected.

32. It may be clarified here that the District Magistrate has not passed any order in excise of powers conferred upon him under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act, despite 59 dates having been fixed in this regard, and we, therefore, record our strong disapproval in the manner in which the District Magistrate has not taken any action on the application of the bank. It has further been brought out on record that a list of 47 properties is being enclosed wherein application under Section 14 of SARFAESI Act have been moved before the various District Magistrates in Uttar Pradesh, which are pending for more than 60 days without any order. The inaction on part of the District Magistrates will have a detrimental effect in securing the possession of the properties and therefore effective mechanism must be taken by respondent no.1 in this regard.

33. The 2nd issue which arises for our consideration is with regard to the clause contained in the advertisement for e-auction, which provides that the property was being sold on "as is where is Basis, as it is where it is Basis and whatever there is", which according to the Bank, dis-entitles the petitioner from seeking any claim against the respondent bank.

34. In this regard, we would like to mention that relevant provisions of the SARFAESI Act and the Security Interest (Enforcement) Rules have already been quoted wherein sub rule (5) of Rule 8 of the Rules, 2002, provides for publication of the notice into leading newspapers which shall include details as set forth in sub-clause (a) to (f). Sub-clause 6 (f) of Rule 8 provides for publishing of "any other thing which the authorised officer considers it material for a purchaser to know in order to judge the nature and value of the property". In these circumstance, a duty is cast upon the Authorized Officer to publish all details with regard to the property, whether the property has any encumbrances or not, whether the property is a vacant property or is tenanted, whether there is any other charge on the said property, and all other details which is material for the purchaser to know in order to judge the nature and value of the property.

35. In the present case, the advertisement does not disclose any such detail about the property from which it can be easily inferred that the same is in possession of some third-party, or that there is a litigation pending or for some material reason, it would be difficult to obtain the vacant possession of the property. A joint reading of section 13 (4) of the SARFAESI Act and Rule 9 (clauses 9 and 10) would clearly show that the Authorised Officer, shall deliver the property to the purchaser, free from all encumbrances, on deposit of money as specified in sub rule 2. However, the aforesaid rule does not prevent the bank from bringing the property for auction, when there are encumbrances attached to the property. Merely, by including a clause "as is where is basis or as is what is' condition stated in the sale notice does not obviate the bank from disclosing the encumbrances attached to the property, brought for auction.

36. The bank cannot shrug off its responsibility in disclosing the encumbrances in the advertisement when it is known that transparency is the essence of good governance and fair play. Concept of transparency is is becoming a core value in democratic and participative governance. The public demand for transparency is getting stronger in good governance. Transparency is built on the basis of free flow of information and the whole process of government, institutions and information needs to be accessible to the interested parties, as well as the information provided should be sufficient to be understood.

37. The undisputed fact in the case at hand is that when notice under section 13(4) of the SARFAESI Act was issued by the Bank, the physical possession of the mortgaged property was not taken. There is a duty cast upon the Bank under clause (9) of rule 9 of the Rules, 2002 to deliver the property to the purchaser free from encumbrances known to the secured creditor on deposit of money as specified in sub rule (7). In the writ petition it has rightly been asserted by the petitioner that he was shocked when he came to know that there were some defects in title of the aforesaid property and the same is defective, which was not disclosed by the Bank at any stage, rather it suppressed the material information.

38. It may be noted that when a person participates in auction to purchase a property, he relies on the auction notice and the documents shown to him by the secured creditor, as he is under a bona fide belief that any material aspect of the property must have been disclosed by the secured creditor inasmuch as the secured creditor is under a mandate to disclose any aspect which the Authorised Officer considers it material for the purchaser to know in order to judge the nature and value of the property as mandated under rule 8(6). The respondent bank has failed to disclose any such circumstance or material fact from which it could be gathered that the physical possession of the property would be difficult or near impossible. In the aforesaid circumstances the respondent Bank cannot take umbrage of the clause "as is where is" "as it is where it is" in order to deny physical possession of the auction property to the petitioner and to non-suit him. In other words, the respondent cannot shirk away the statutory responsibility to deliver possession of the property free from all encumbrances, to the person who was paid full consideration for the said property.

39. Accepting the contention of the Bank would be absolutely inequitable, wholly arbitrary and may on the contrary permit withholding of necessary information by the secured creditor in relation to its valuation in order to seek a higher price of the property. If such an advantage is permitted, it would directly affect the credibility of the entire process and the object of the SARFAESI Act, which is sought to be achieved.

40. The third-party, who comes forward to purchase the secured asset must have the confidence that he would get the property at the earliest and in case, considerable long time is consumed in transferring the property not only it would defeat the purpose of the Act but would also cause colossal loss and injury to a auction-purchaser, like the petitioner.

41. In light of the above, we are of the considered opinion that by merely inserting a clause "as is where is" and "as is what is" the responsibility of the Bank does not get diluted nor it can in any manner assist the bank in denying physical possession to the auction purchaser.

42. Needless to say, that when the Bank has information that there is certain charge on the property, or the property is already encumbered, etc. it can be made known when a notice is published under Rule 8(6) and it would not be necessary for the Bank in such a situation to hand over the physical possession of the property. But in the present case, the Bank has not given any details of any encumbrances, or charge on the property or any such fact which would deny the auction purchaser from the physical possession of the property, and therefore, just by inserting a clause "as is where is"" as is what is" it would not dis-entitle the successful auction purchaser from claiming the physical possession of the secured asset after paying the bid price to the satisfaction of the secured creditor."

52. Taking into consideration the above pointed out facts related to possession notice as also in the auction notice dated 22.01.2013 and the Rule 8(6) (a) of Rules, 2002 and the observation made by this Court in the case of Rakesh Kumar Kaushal (supra), we are of the view that the auction proceedings in relation to the property/land in issue carried out by the IFCI Ltd. are not sustainable. Question no. 3 answered accordingly.

53. Question no. 4 broadly relates to rights of the IFCI Ltd. in the property/land in issue. In this regard, Section 108(j) of the Act of 1882 is relevant, which empowers the lessee to transfer whole or any part of his interest in the property. It says that the lessee may transfer absolutely or by way of mortgage or sub-lease the whole or any part of his interest in the property and any transferee of such interest or part may again transfer it. In the instant case, the property/land in issue was mortgaged by the lessee-Uptron India Ltd. (Mortgager) with IFCI Ltd. (Mortgagee). By virtue of mortgage as also in view of Section 108(j) of the Act of 2002, the IFCI Ltd. entered into the shoes of lessee-Uptron India Ltd.

54. Thus, after taking note of the aforesaid as well as the Maxim(s) "Nemo Dat Quod Non Habet" (no one can bestow or grant a greater right, or a better title than he has himself) and "Nemo Plus Juris Tribuit Quam Ipse Habet" (no one gives what he has not got), we hold that IFCI Ltd. was not having more than the rights which were available under the lease to Uptron India Ltd. Question no.4 answered accordingly.

55. Question no. 5 is that whether in the facts of the case a direction can be issued to the lessor to renew the lease. In this regard, we have considered the following aspects:-

(i) The lease is a contract between the lessor and lessee. The lessor must have the capacity and the right to grant a lease. As per Section 7 of the Act of 1882 every person competent to contract and entitled to transferable property, or authorized to dispose of transferable property not his own, is competent to transfer such property. Though a minor cannot, his guardian can grant a lease. The manager of a lunatic, the Karta of a joint Hindu family, can grant a lease. But one out of several co-sharers cannot grant a lease unless he is authorized by all the co-sharers to do so. A lease of immovable property, as per Section 105 of the Act of 1882, is a transfer of a right to enjoy of such property made for certain time, express or implied or in perpetuity. The transaction must be in consideration of a price paid or promised (premium, salami or nazrana). In consideration of money, share of crops, service or any other thing of value to be rendered periodically or on specified occasions to the transferor by the transferee (rent). The rights and liabilities of the parties to the lease would be governed by the terms and conditions settled between the parties.

(ii) In the instant case, there is a registered lease deed and accordingly the rights and liabilities of the parties to the lease would be governed by the terms and conditions settled between the parties to the deed.

(iii) It is open to the parties to fix the duration or period of the lease. Section 106 of the Act of 2002 provides that, in the absence of a contract or local law or usage to the contrary, a lease of immovable property for agricultural or manufacturing purposes shall be deemed to be a lease from year to year, and a lease for any other purpose shall be deemed to be a lease from month to month.

(iv) Sometimes a lease contains a renewal clause. In the instant case, the lease was provided for 30 years with two rights of renewal for the similar term of 30 years.

(v) As per term 9 of the lease deed dated 23.05.1985, the lessee is under obligation to obtain the renewal from the lessor on the expiry of term of the lease.

(vi) A right of renewal should be exercised in writing.

(vii) The tenant not being in breach of terms of the lease is entitled for renewal of lease.

(viii) It appears from term 9 of the lease deed dated 23.05.1985 that right of renewal can be exercised during the term of the lease and not after determination of lease.

(ix) In the instant case, the lease was determined on 20.03.2013 and till that date the right of renewal was not exercised by lessee or any other person entered into the shoes of lessee.

(x) The term of the lease deed dated 23.05.1985 has already been expired on 23.05.2015.

56. In the facts of the case, as narrated herein above, we are of the view that no direction can be issued to the lessor-L.N.N. to renew the lease. Question no.5 is answered accordingly.

57. Question no.6 is to the effect that whether M/s. Shalimar is entitled to refund of 25% of bid amount with interest from the date of passing of order dated 27.05.2013. In this regard, we have considering the following aspects of the case.

(i) The bid, with respect to property/land in issue, submitted by M/s. Shalimar pursuant to auction notice dated 22.01.2013, published on 23.01.2013 in daily newspaper namely Dainik Jagran, was accepted by IFCI Ltd. and vide letter dated 01.03.2013 M/s. Shalimar was called upon to deposit 25% of the bid amount i.e. Rs.18,64,01,000/-, which was deposited by M/s. Shalimar.

(ii) On 19.03.2013 this Court passed the interim order, whereby restrained the opposite parties to the Writ Petition No.2397 (MB) of 2013 including IFCI Ltd. from confirming the sale of the property/land in issue.

(iii) Till today the sale of property in issue has not been confirmed in favour of M/s. Shalimar.

(iv) This Court on 27.05.2013 passed the interim order whereby directed the IFCI Ltd. to deposit the bid amount in the interest bearing account.

(v) Rule 9 (6) and 9 (9) of the Rules, 2002 casts duty on the authorized officer of the Financial Institution to issue sale certificate on confirmation of sale and also to deliver the possession of the property to the purchaser free from all encumbrances known to the secured creditor on deposit of amount as specified in Sub-rule (7) of Rule 9 of Rules, 2002.

(vi) In the instant case, on account of interim order passed by this Court, neither sale was confirmed nor possession was delivered to M/s. Shalimar by the authorized officer. On account of the same M/s. Shalimar could not utilize the property/land in issue.

(vii) In the preceding paras we have already held that auction proceedings in relation to property/land in issue carried out by IFCI Ltd. are unsustainable and the lease, which was rightly determined and no direction to renew the lease can be issued.

58. Taking into account the aforesaid, we are of the view that M/s. Shalimar is entitled to refund of 25% of bid amount i.e. 18,64,01,000/- from IFCI Ltd with interest from the date of passing of interim order dated 27.05.2013.

59. For the foregoing reasons, the Writ Petition No.4517 (MB) of 2013 (IFCI Ltd. vs. Lucknow Municipal Corporation and others) is hereby dismissed and Writ Petition No.2397 (MB) of 2013 (Lucknow Nagar Nigam vs. State of U.P. and others) is allowed and the auction/sale proceedings carried out in relation to property/land in issue i.e. land measuring 2,17,936 sq. ft. land of Sullage Farm situated in Village-Jugauli (earlier Village-Ujariyaon) leased out to M/s Uptron Digital System Limited (M/s Uptron India Ltd.) by Lucknow Nagar Nigam through lease deed dated 23.05.1985 are hereby quashed. Consequence shall follow. Further, keeping in view the interim order dated 27.05.2013 passed in Writ Petition No.2397 (MB) of 2013 and the observations made by us that M/s. Shalimar Corporation Ltd. is entitled to refund of 25% of bid amount from IFCI Ltd. as also in the interest of substantial justice, we provide liberty to M/s. Shalimar Corporation Ltd. to represent its case before the IFCI Ltd. for refund of 25% of the bid amount with interest within two months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order and we hope and trust that the IFCI Ltd. would release the same keeping in view the observations made herein above expeditiously.

3. Binod Kumar & ors. Vs. St. of Bihar & anr., (2014)10 SCC 663

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. The petition has been filed under Section 482 Criminal Procedure Code for quashing order dated 20.11.2017 passed in Complaint Case No.2664/2014 by Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.31, Lucknow and order dated 16.10.2018 passed by Addl. District & Sessions Judge, Court No.9, Lucknow in Criminal revision No.966 of 2017

2. In the petition it has been pleaded that respondent No.2 Jagdish Saran had borrowed a sum of Rs.2 lacs from the petitioner on 20.11.2010, however, respondent did not repay the borrowed money. On a request being made by the petitioner to repay the money, respondent No.2 abused him and threatened to kill. The petitioner, in this context, submitted an application to the police of police station Talkatora, Lucknow and higher police authorities. However, finding that no action was being taken by the police, the petitioner filed a Complaint Case No.2664 of 2014 which has been rejected by the Court below vide order dated 20.11.2017.

Feeling aggrieved, the petitioner filed a Criminal Revision No.966 of 2017 before the Sessions Court, which too has been rejected vide a detailed order dated 16.10.2018 (Annexure-3).

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the learned Magistrate has ignored the averment contained in para 7 of his complaint dated 12.8.2014 filed before the Court below, whereby he had demonstrated that on a phone call, the respondent No.2 used abusive language, with threat to kill him, and rejected the complaint on the ground of the dispute being of civil nature. The respondent No.2 has committed a criminal breach of trust by not repaying the loan taken by him. In this context, learned counsel relied on a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court of India reported in (2003)7 SCC 399 Kailash Kumar Sanwatia versus State of Bihar and another.

Learned counsel has submitted that the learned Magistrate as well as the revision Court have committed a manifest error in treating the issue involved in the matter of civil nature.

4. Per contra, learned Additional Government Advocate Mr. S.N. Goswami appearing on behalf of the State has submitted that the orders passed by both the Courts below are justified order(s). The dispute is of civil nature between two private parties as it involves transaction of money. He further submits that none of the ingredients of Section 405 or Section 409 are attracted in the present case.

5. I have heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Additional Government and perused the orders passed by the Courts below.

6. A perusal of the complaint dated 12.8.2014 filed under Sections 406, 504, 506 I.P.C., P.S. Tal Katora, district Lucknow shows that in paras 3 to 7 thereof, it has been stated by the petitioner that he gave loan of Rs.2 lacs on 20;11.2010 to the private respondent Jagdish Saran who assured to return it in a month. Thereafter, when the petitioner tried to recover his loan, the private respondent assured him on telephone that he will return the loan. Thereafter again, he assured that since he is about to get some money he would return the loan. Ultimately, the private respondent stopped coming to the petitioner's home and also stopped talking on telephone. Lastly, when the petitioner contacted him from his (private respondent) other telephone number, the latter abused and threatened him.

Contrary to the averments made in the complaint , it has been contended that the money was entrusted to the private respondent who with a dishonest intention misappropriated it for his own use to the detriment of the petitioner.

A further perusal of the averments made in the complaint reveals that the issue between the parties is a pure case of lending and borrowing, may be even a friendly loan. However, by no stretch of imagination, it can be an entrustment.

7. In the case of Kailash Kumar Samwatia (supra), the appellant entrusted a sum of Rs.1,50,200/- to the accused at the instance of another accused/Head Cashier of the State Bank of India and for preparing the drafts. Later on, he was informed that the money handed over by him was missing from the cash counter. On this, the informant appellant filed a written report on the basis of which case was instituted and investigation undertaken. Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 9 has explained the basic requirements to bring home the accusations under Section 405 I.P.C. which reads as under :

*"The basic requirement to bring home the accusations under section 405 are the requirements to prove con-jointly (1) entrustment, and (2) whether the accused was actuated by the dishonest intention or not; misappropriated it or converted it to his own use to the detriment of the persons who entrusted it. As the question of intention is not a matter of direct proof, certain broad tests are envisaged which would generally afford useful g*uidance in deciding whether in a particular case the accused had mens rea for the crime."

In Kailash Kumar Sanwatia' case (supra), there was a loss of money, therefore, it was held that ingredients necessary to constitute criminal breach of trust were absent and the accused persons cannot be convicted under Section 409 I.P.C. Although, there was an entrustment, however, due to an intervening situation, the accused person whom the money was entrusted was incapacitated from carrying out the job and therefore, it was held that the provisions of Section 405 or 409 I.P.C. are not attracted.

8. In the present case, even the element of entrustment is absent and therefore, learned Magistrate vide order dated 20.11.2017 has rightly rejected the complaint on the ground that the matter is purely of civil nature. Likewise, the learned revisional court has also rejected the revision on the same ground of the matter of being civil nature and since no element of criminal breach of trust is borne out from the record, therefore, ingredients of Section 405 I.P.C. are absent. Learned Courts below have rightly held that the dispute is purely of civil nature.

9. I find that there is a growing tendency in the business circles to convert purely civil disputes into criminal cases so as to unnecessary harass the common man by giving a criminal colour to civil dispute(s). In this context, Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case reported in (2014)10 SCC 663 Binod Kumar and others versus State of Bihar and another while relying on Indian Oil Corporation versus NEPC India Limited (2006)6 SCC 736 held in paras 10 and 11 as under :

"10. In Indian Oil Corporation versus NEPC India Limited, this Court has summarized the principles relating to exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to quash complaints and criminal proceedings as under:-(SCC pp. 747-48, para 12)

"12.The principles relating to exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure to quash complaints and criminal proceedings have been stated and reiterated by this Court in several decisions. To mention a few- Madhavrao Jiwajirao Scindia v. Sambhajirao Chandrojirao Angre (1988) 1 SCC 692, State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal,1992 Supp (1) SCC 335; Rupan Deol Bajaj v. Kanwar Pal Singh Gill (1995) 6 SCC 194, Central Bureau of Investigation v. Duncans Agro Industries Ltd (1996) 5 SCC 591; State of Bihar v. Rajendra Agrawalla (1996) 8 SCC 164, Rajesh Bajaj v. State NCT of Delhi,(1999) 3 SCC 259; Medchl Chemicals & Pharma (P) Ltd. v. Biological E. Ltd(2000) 3 SCC 269 [pic]Hridaya Ranjan Prasad Verma v. State of Bihar (2000) 4 SCC 168, M. Krishnan v. Vijay Singh (2001) 8 SCC 645 and Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. v. Mohd. Sharaful Haque(2005) 1 SCC 122. The principles, relevant to our purpose are:

(i) A complaint can be quashed where the allegations made in the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety, do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out the case alleged against the accused.

For this purpose, the complaint has to be examined as a whole, but without examining the merits of the allegations. Neither a detailed inquiry nor a meticulous analysis of the material nor an assessment of the reliability or genuineness of the allegations in the complaint, is warranted while examining prayer for quashing of a complaint.

(ii) A complaint may also be quashed where it is a clear abuse of the process of the court, as when the criminal proceeding is found to have been initiated with mala fides/malice for wreaking vengeance or to cause harm, or where the allegations are absurd and inherently improbable.

(iii) The power to quash shall not, however, be used to stifle or scuttle a legitimate prosecution. The power should be used sparingly and with abundant caution.

(iv) The complaint is not required to verbatim reproduce the legal ingredients of the offence alleged. If the necessary factual foundation is laid in the complaint, merely on the ground that a few ingredients have not been stated in detail, the proceedings should not be quashed. Quashing of the complaint is warranted only where the complaint is so bereft of even the basic facts which are absolutely necessary for making out the offence.

(v) A given set of facts may make out: (a) purely a civil wrong; or

(b) purely a criminal offence; or (c) a civil wrong as also a criminal offence. A commercial transaction or a contractual dispute, apart from furnishing a cause of action for seeking remedy in civil law, may also involve a criminal offence. As the nature and scope of a civil proceeding are different from a criminal proceeding, the mere fact that the complaint relates to a commercial transaction or breach of contract, for which a civil remedy is available or has been availed, is not by itself a ground to quash the criminal proceedings. The test is whether the allegations in the complaint disclose a criminal offence or not.

"11. Referring to the growing tendency in business circles to convert purely civil disputes into criminal cases, in paragraphs (13) and (14) of the Indian Oil Corporation's case (supra), it was held as under:-

"13. While on this issue, it is necessary to take notice of a growing tendency in business circles to convert purely civil disputes into criminal cases. This is obviously on account of a prevalent impression that civil law remedies are time consuming and do not adequately protect the interests of lenders/creditors. Such a tendency is seen in several family disputes also, [pic]leading to irretrievable breakdown of marriages/families. There is also an impression that if a person could somehow be entangled in a criminal prosecution, there is a likelihood of imminent settlement. Any effort to settle civil disputes and claims, which do not involve any criminal offence, by applying pressure through criminal prosecution should be deprecated and discouraged. In G. Sugar Suri v. State of U.P., this Court observed : (SCC p. 643. para 8)

*"8....It is to be seen if a matter, which is essentially of a civil nature, has been given a cloak of criminal offence. Criminal proceedings are not a short cut of other remedies available in law. Before issuing process a criminal court has to exercise a great deal of caution. For the accused it is a serious matter. This Court has laid certain principles on the basis of which the High Court is to exercise its jurisdiction under Section 482 the Code. Jurisdiction under this section has to be exercised to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice.'

14. While no one with a legitimate cause or grievance should be prevented from seeking remedies available in criminal law, a complainant who initiates or persists with a prosecution, being fully aware that the criminal proceedings are unwarranted and his remedy lies only in civil law, should himself be made accountable, at the end of such misconceived criminal proceedings, in accordance with law. One positive step that can be taken by the courts, to curb unnecessary prosecutions and harassment of innocent parties, is to exercise their power under Section 250 CrPC more frequently, where they discern malice or frivolousness or ulterior motives on the part of the complainant. Be that as it may."

(Emphasised by me)

10. In view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court and also considering the material on record, no offence under Section 406 I.P.C. is made out. The petitioner and the private respondent were known and familiar to each other and because of this, the petitioner gave a loan to the private respondent, therefore, the dispute is purely of civil nature. Hence, no offence under Section 406 is made out. Criminal proceedings cannot be invoked as a short cut for the purely civil remedies as the latter is more time consuming.

11. As regards the other allegation with regard to Sections 504, 506 I.P.C., there is a bald assertion in the complaint that the petitioner on being demanded his money was threatened, however, in support thereof, the statement under Sections 200 and 202 CrPC recorded by the trial court have not been filed with the present petition. It appears to be an effort on the part of the petitioner to settle civil dispute and claims which do not involve any criminal offence by applying pressure through criminal prosecution.

12. In view of the above, this Court does not find any fault with the orders impugned in the present petition. No case is made out to invoke the extraordinary writ jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC.

13. The petition fails and is accordingly dismissed. The petitioner is at liberty to avail other remedies, provided under law, for recovery of his money.

Special Appeal No. 65 of 2020

The Director General, R.P.F. Railway Board New Delhi & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Rajiv Kumar Singh ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Praveen Kumar Srivastava

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Vijay Gautam, Sri Ambrish Chatterji

(A) Civil Law-Railway Protection Force Rules, 1987 - Section 21 -Intra-Court Special Appeal - - made by the Central Government in exercise of powers conferred by of the Railway Protection Force Act, 1957 which are referrable to subject mentioned under Entry 22 of List 1 of the Seventh Schedule - special appeal against any revisional or appellate order passed under the aforesaid Act would be maintainable

The appellate and revisional jurisdiction having thus been exercised under a Central Act in respect of a matter enumerated under the Union List and not in respect of a matter under the State list or the Concurrent List of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India, the exclusion under Chapter VIII Rule 5 would not be attracted and therefore special appeal would be maintainable. (para 12)

(B) Civil Law-Railway Protection Force Rules, 1987-- Rule 52 -Concealment of facts in declaration form - clear obligation upon a prospective candidate to make a candid and truthful disclosure in respect of the information sought in the verification form - non disclosure or concealment of the material facts would have a direct link to the suitability of the person for being appointed in service

As per Rule 52, a prospective employee may be refused employment on the ground of unsatisfactory antecedents and character. Suppression of material information or making a false statement in reply to specific queries in the verification form which may lead to an inference of a dubious conduct and absence of a character of the prospective employee at the time of making the declaration may therefore also be held making him unsuitable for being appointed as a member of the force. (Para 37)

6. Avatar Singh Vs. UOI and ors. 2016 98) SCC 471 (followed)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. The present special appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 21.10.2019 passed in Writ-A No. 37611 of 2002 (Rajiv Kumar Singh Vs. Director General/R.P.F. and others) whereby the writ petition has been allowed and the orders dated 22.07.2002, 31.5.2001 and 12.4.2001, which were under challenge therein, have been set aside.

2. A preliminary objection has been raised by the learned Senior Counsel appearing for the respondent-petitioner that the special appeal is not maintainable as per the provisions contained under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules (Rules of the Court, 1952)1 inasmuch as the writ petition had been filed seeking to challenge the order of termination against the petitioner as also the orders passed in appeal and revision under the statutory rules.

3. The provision with regard to filing of an intra-court appeal under the Rules of the Court, 1952, is contained under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the aforementioned Rules, and the same is as follows :-

"5. Special appeal :- An appeal shall lie to the Court from a judgment (not being a judgment passed in the exercise of Appellate Jurisdiction) in respect of a decree or order made by a Court subject to the Superintendence of the Court and not being an order made in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction or in the exercise of its power of Superintendence or in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction or in the exercise of jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution in respect of any judgment, order or award-- (a) of a tribunal, Court or statutory arbitrator made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution or (b) of the Government or any Officer or authority, made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of Appellate or Revisional Jurisdiction under any such Act of one Judge."

4. The language under Rule 5, referred to above, is couched in a manner whereunder an intra-court appeal would not lie in certain specified cases. The Rule provides for certain specified exclusions whereunder a special appeal would not lie from a judgment of one judge of this Court. The exclusions under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court, 1952 were considered in the case of Vajara Yojna Seed Farm and Ors. Vs. Presiding Officer, Labour Court II and Ors.2 , and it was held as under :-

"64. From the above discussions and looking into the provisions of U.P. Act No. 14 of 1962 as amended by Amendment Act of 1981 and Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court, 1952, special appeal is excluded from a judgment of one Judge of this Court in following categories :-

(i) Judgment of one Judge passed in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction in respect of a decree or order made by a Court subject to the Superintendence of the Court.

(ii) Judgment of one Judge in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction.

(iii) Judgment of one Judge made in the exercise of its power of Superintendence.

(iv) Judgment of one Judge made in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction.

(v) Judgment of order of one Judge made in the exercise of jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution in respect of any judgment, order or award of a Tribunal, Court or Statutory Arbitrator made or purported to be more in the exercise or purported exercise of jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated in State List or Concurrent List.

(vi) Judgment or order of one Judge made in exercise of jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution in respect of any judgment, order or award by the Court or any officer or authority made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act."

5. The issue of maintainability of a special appeal under the aforementioned Rule again came up for consideration before a Full Bench of this Court in Sheet Gupta vs. State of U.P. and others3, and it was stated thus:-

"15. Having given our anxious consideration to the various plea raised by the learned counsel for the parties, we find that from the perusal of Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules a special appeal shall lie before this Court from the judgment passed by one Judge of the Court. However, such special appeal will not lie in the following circumstances:

1. The judgment passed by one Judge in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction, in respect of a decree or order made by a Court subject to the Superintendence of the Court;

2. the order made by one Judge in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction;

3 the order made by one Judge in the exercise of the power of Superintendence of the High Court;

4. the order made by one Judge in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction;

5. the order made by one Judge in the exercise of jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution of India in respect of any judgment, order or award by

(i) the tribunal,

(ii) Court or

(iii) statutory arbitrator made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution of India;

6. the order made by one Judge in the exercise of jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or 227 of the Constitution of India in respect of any judgment, order or award of

(i) the Government or

(ii) any officer or

(iii) authority,

made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any such Act, i.e. under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution of India. "

6. The various exclusions provided for under Rule 5 of Chapter VIII whereunder an intra-court appeal would not lie would therefore include a case where an appeal is sought to be preferred against an order made by one judge in exercise of jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or 227 of the Constitution of India in respect of any judgment, order or award of the government or any officer or authority made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution of India.

7. The question of maintainability of a special appeal under the Rules of the Court, 1952, in the context of a judgment rendered by a Single Judge in exercise of jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 and 227 of the Constitution in respect of judgment, order or award of a tribunal, Court or statutory arbitrator made in exerecise of jurisdiction under Uttar Pradesh or Central Act with respect to a matter enumerated in the Union List earlier came up for consideration in the case of Oriental Bank of Commerce, Kanpur Vs. Union of India (UOI) and Ors.4, and it was stated as follows:-

"4. Rule 5 of Chapter VIII of the High Court Rules, on the interpretation of which depends the decision on the point, reads as follows:

5. Special Appeal -- An appeal shall lie to the Court from a judgment (not being a judgment passed in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction) in respect of a decree or order made by a Court subject to the superintendence of the Court and not being an order made in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction or in the exercise of its power of superintendence or in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction or in the exercise of jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution in respect of any judgment, order or award -- (a) of a Tribunal, Court or statutory arbitrator made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated, in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution, or (b) of the Government or any Officer or authority, made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any such Act of one Judge.

On a plain reading of the above provision, it is clear that if the judgment of the learned single Judge has been passed in exercise of the jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution in respect of any judgment, order or award of a Tribunal, Court or statutory arbitrator made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution or of the Government or any officer or authority made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any such Act, then no appeal shall lie against the judgement of the single Judge. If on the other hand, the judgment of the single Judge is rendered with respect to any matter enumerated in the Union List, then an appeal may be filed against the judgment. " (emphasis supplied)

8. In a similar set of facts, as in the present case, whereunder objection was raised against maintainability of a special appeal challenging the judgment rendered by a Single Judge whereby an order of punishment and also the appellate and revisional orders thereagainst under the Cental Reserve Police Force Act, 1949, were questioned, a Division Bench of this Court in the Director General, C.R.P.F. Vs. Lalji Pandey5, repelled the objection and held the special appeal maintainable after taking into consideration that the subject matter in question was referable to armed forces of Union which was under the Union List. The observations made in the judgment are as follows :-

"11. From bare perusal of the above decision it is very much clear that no special appeal shall lie against the order made by Single Judge in exercise of jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or 227 of the Constitution of India in respect of any judgment, order or award of the government or any officer or any authority made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any such Act i.e., under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the 7th Schedule to the Constitution of India. Meaning thereby that in case the order under challenge in writ jurisdiction before the learned Single Judge was the order passed by the Government or any officer or any authority made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any such Central Act with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the Union List then the special appeal would be maintainable.

12. It is relevant to notice here that the Central Reserve Police Force Act, 1949 has been enacted in exercise of powers conferred to the Central Government under Paragraph 1 of List-I of 7th Schedule to the Government of India Act, 1935, which is presently Entry-2, List-I of the 7th Schedule of the Constitution of India.

Entry 2 of List-I (Union List) of 7th Schedule provides as under:

Naval, military and air force; any other armed forces of the Union.

13. In the case of Akhilesh Prasad v. Union Territory of Mizoram, AIR 1981 Supreme Court 806, it has been held that any other armed force of the Union includes the Central Reserve Police Force. Therefore, it can easily be concluded that the Central Reserve Police Force is covered under any other armed forces of the Union as provided in Entry 2, List-I (Union List) of the 7th Schedule of the Constitution of India.

14. In view of above, the present special appeal is maintainable and the preliminary objection raised by the respondent having no legal force is hereby rejected."

9. It is therefore seen that in a case, where the order under challenge before learned Single Judge exercising jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution of India, is in respect of any judgment, order or award by a Court or any officer or authority made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh or under any Central Act with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the Union List under the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution of India, a special appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court, 1952, would lie.

10. In the case at hand, the appellate and revisional orders have been passed by authorities under the provisions of the Railway Protection Force Rules,19876.

11. The Rules 1987 have been made by the Central Government in exercise of powers conferred by Section 21 of the Act, 1957. The Railway Protection Force Act and the Rules made thereunder would be referable to the subject matter under Entry 22 of List 1 of the Seventh Schedule, which reads as follows :-

"22. Railways".

12. The appellate and revisional jurisdiction having thus been exercised under a Central Act in respect of a matter enumerated under the Union List and not in respect of a matter under the State List or the Concurrent List of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India, the exclusion under Chapter VIII Rule 5 would not be attracted, and therefore the special appeal would be maintainable, and the objections raised by the learned senior counsel appearing for the respondent-petitioner with regard to maintainability of the special appeal cannot be sustained.

13. The facts of the case, as reflected from the records, are that the services of the petitioner who was working as a Constable in the Railway Protection Force, were terminated by an order dated 12.04.2001 passed by the Divisional Security Commissioner, Railway Protection Force, Samastipur on the ground that he had deliberately concealed the fact relating to the pendency of a criminal case registered as Case Crime No. 234 of 1993 dated 20.11.1993 under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 307, 504 and 506 IPC, in the declaration form submitted by him. The appeal filed there against under the provisions of the Railway Protection Force Act, 19577 was rejected by an order dated 31.5.2001 passed by the Chief Security Commissioner, Railway Protection Force, Gorakhpur. The petitioner thereafter preferred a revision, which too was rejected by means of an order dated 27.7.2001 passed by the Director General Railway Protection Force Railway Board, New Delhi.

14. The aforementioned orders were assailed by the petitioner by filing a writ petition, Writ-A No. 37611 of 2002, raising various grounds.

15. A detailed counter affidavit was filed on behalf of the respondents (appellants herein) inter alia submitting as under :-

"2.That before giving para-wise reply, it is therefore, expedient and necessary in the interest of justice to submit brief facts of the case which are as under:

(i) That in pursuance of the Employment Notice No. 1/96 issued on 01.11.96, the petitioner was selected and temporarily appointed on the post of constable in Railway Protection Force of N.E. Railway, Gorakhpur.

(ii) That after the selection, of the petitioner, a letter No. E/P/227/1/3 Pt-XI/1017 dated 08.09.1997 was issued to him by the Assistant Security Commissioner/N.E. Railway/Gonda through which he was called upon to fill up the declaration attestation form. In para- 18 of the aforesaid letter dated 08.09.1997, it was clearly stated that the appointment on the post of constable in R.P.F. will be subject to the satisfactory report from the Police authority about the character of the petitioner.

Photostat copy of the letter dated 08.09.1997 is being filed as Annexure No. CA-1 to the Counter Affidavit.

(iii) That it is further relevant to mention that at the top of the page no. 2 of the Attestation form, it was clearly mentioned that any wrong information or concealment of the true facts in the attestation form will be unsuitability and such person can be declared as unsuitable for the Government service. It was also mentioned that at any time during the service if it comes into knowledge that any false information has been given or true facts have been concealed in the attestation form by any candidate he can be discharged from service. It was also mentioned at page no. 4 Column (12) (i) of the attestation form that whether any case is pending in any court against him at the time of filling the attestation form, the petitioner concealed the true fact and answered in negative.

Photostat copy of the attestation form is being filed as Annexure No. C.A.-2 to this Counter affidavit.

(iv)That it is further submitted that in the police verification report submitted by the police authority through District Magistrate, Deoria about the petitioner it was found that the petitioner was an accused in a criminal case No. 234/93 under Section-147, 148, 149, 307, 323 and 504 I.P.C., P.S. Lar, District-Deoria and the same is still pending. Thus it is clear that the petitioner concealed the true facts and mislead the Railway Administration in obtaining Government Service on the post of constable in R.P.F. For the aforesaid concealment, the petitioner was issued charge sheet under Rule-153 of the R.P.F. Rules, 1987. The allegation against him was that he mislead the department and disobeyed the Rule 146.6 (IV) of R.P.F. Rule 1987.

(v) That a disciplinary enquiry was conducted as per Rules against the petitioner and the charges leveled against him were found proved. The Enquiry Officer submitted enquiry report to the disciplinary authority and the copy of the same was also given to the petitioner on 25.02.2001 and the petitioner submitted his defence/reply on 17.03.2001.

(Vi) That the disciplinary authority passed the order of removal from service dated 12.04.2001 after considering the entire material facts and circumstances as well as the relevant records. The petitioner preferred appeal as well as revision which were rejected by the competent authorities i.e. Chief Security, Commissioner, N.E. Railway, Gorakhpur and Director General, RPF, Railway Board, New Delhi on 31.05.2001 and 22.07.2002 respectively.

6- That the contents of para-5 the Writ Petition are not admitted and are vehemently denied. In reply it is submitted that a F.I.R. was lodge against the petitioner as well as others on 20.11.1993 against which the petitioner and others filed a Criminal Misc. Writ Petiton No.43732 of 1993; Kapildeo Singh & others Vs. State of U.P. and others and an iterim order was also passed on 2.12.1993. Later on the aforesaid writ petition was dismissed as having become infructuous on 11.2.1997. The petitioner as well as others filed a case u/s-482 Cr.P.C. in High Court for quashing the entire criminal proceedings in case crime No.234 of 1993 which is still pending. These facts have been disclosed by the petitioner in the Supplementary Affidavit filed by him in the present writ petition. Thus the averments of the petitioner in the para under reply that "the petitioner was not well aware about the pendency of any criminal case against him and therefore this fact was not mentioned by the petitioner while filling up the character verification form" are totally false and concocted. The petitioner has concealed the true facts in the writ petition also and has tried to mislead the Hon'ble Court. Thus the petitioner has given the contradictory statements and which one is correct is not known. The petitioner has been rightly punished with the penalty of removal from service for the concealment of the true facts.

11. That the content of para 12,13,14,15, & 16 of writ petition need no reply being the matter of record. However it is submitted that the statement of the petitioner in the paras under reply that he did not make any false declaration as he was not aware about the pendency of the criminal case, are totally false. In the supplementary affidavit filed by the petitioner, it has been specifically mentioned that a F.I.R. was lodged against him as well as others against which a Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 43732/1993 was filed and an intrim order was passed. Later on a case under section 482 Cr.P.C. was also filed in this Hon'ble Court which is pending. Thus petitioner was fully aware about the criminal case pending against him in which he was bailed out but he concealed this fact in his declaration form intentionally."

16. A rejoinder affidavit was filed by the petitioner in reply to the aforesaid counter affidavit whereunder the petitioner inter alia submitted as under :-

"4(d). That, it is relevant to mention here that the applicant filled up his Attestation Form in the month of September 1997, and that time the applicant was not disclosed the criminal case because the applicant was in impression that he would be acquitted from criminal charges for the reason that he has been falsely implicated in the aforesaid criminal case therefore the applicant has not disclosed the aforesaid criminal case at the time of filing up the attestation form."

17. Contention of learned counsel for the appellants is that despite there being a specific clause in the declaration form requiring the petitioner to furnish particulars of the pendency of any case before any court, the fact with regard to the pendency of the criminal case was deliberately suppressed by the petitioner and in view thereof his services were rightly terminated. It has been submitted that learned Single Judge though has extracted the relevant clause in his judgment, yet he has held that there was no clause in the declaration form wherein pendency of a criminal case was required to be disclosed, and solely on the basis of the said reasoning, the orders which were challenged in the writ petition have been set aside and the writ petition has been allowed.

18. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioner respondent has supported the order passed by the learned Single Judge and tried to contend that there being no clause in the declaration form specifically requiring information with regard to pendency of criminal proceedings there was no occasion for the petitioner to give any such information and accordingly the orders passed by the departmental authorities were rightly set aside by the learned Single Judge.

19. Rival contentions fall for consideration.

20. The outcome of the case rests upon the fact as to whether in terms of the relevant clause in the declaration form the petitioner was required to disclose any information with regard to pendency of a criminal case, and, further, whether on account of non-disclosure of the said fact the petitioner could be held to be guilty of the suppression of material information.

21. The information required to be furnished in the declaration form in para 12, which has been duly extracted in the judgment of the learned Single Judge, is as follows:-

"12 (प) (क) क्या आप कभी गिरफ्तार हुए हैं?

(ख) क्या कभी आप का चालान हुआ हैं?

(ग) क्या आप कभी बन्दी के रूप में रखे गये हैं?

(घ) क्या आप कभी परिबन्धित किए गये हैं?

(ड़) क्या कभी किसी न्यायालय द्वारा आप पर जुर्माना किया गया हैं?

(च) क्या कभी किसी न्यायालय द्वारा अभिशस्त किए गए हैं?

(छ)क्या आप किसी विश्वविद्यालय अथवा किसी अन्य शिक्षा प्राधिकारी/संस्था द्वारा किसी परीक्षा से वर्जित अथवा निष्कासित किए गये हैं?

(ज) क्या कभी कभी रेल अथवा लोक सेवा आयोग द्वारा इसकी किसी परीक्षा/चुनाव में भाग लेने से निवर्जित आयोग्य घोषित किय गये हैं?

(झ) क्या इस साक्ष्यंकन–पत्र को भारते समय आप के विरूद्ध किसी न्यायालय में कोई मामला विचाराधीन हैं?

(ञ) क्या इस साक्ष्यंय–पत्र को भरते समय आप के विरूद्ध किसी विश्वविद्यालय अथवा किसी प्राधिकारी के यहां संस्था में कोई मामला विचाराधीन हैं?

(पप) यदि उपयुक्त प्रश्नों में से किसी का उत्तर 'हां' हो तो उस मामले गिरफ्तारी/बन्दी बनाए जाने जुर्माना अभिशिस्त दण्डादेश/सजा इत्यादि तथा अथवा इस फार्म को भरते समय न्यायालय/विश्वविद्यालय शिक्षण/प्राधिकारी इत्यादि के यहॉ विचाराधीन मामले का विवरण देंण"

22. The english translation of the aforementioned para 12 of the declaration form, as given in the judgment of the writ court, is also being extracted below.

"12(i)(a) Whether you have ever been arrested?

(b) Whether you have ever been challaned?

(c) Whether you have ever been detained?

(d) Whether you have ever been bound?

(e) Whether any fine has ever been imposed by court on you?

(f) Whether you have ever been convicted by any court ?

(g) Whether you have ever been forbidden or expelled from any examination by any university or any other educational authority/institution?

(h) Whether you have ever been disqualified or with-held by the Railways or the Public Service Commission from appearing in any examination/selection process conducted by them?

(I) Whether any case is pending before any court while filling this verification form?

(j) Whether any case is pending with any university or any authority of any institution while filling this verification form?

(k) If reply to any of the queries raised above is in 'yes', then kindly give the details of arrest/detention, fine, conviction / sentence/punishment etc. or of the matter pending with the court/university/educational authority etc."

23. A plain reading of the aforementioned para 12 of the declaration form clearly shows that as per terms of para 12 (i) ¼>½ or 12 (i) (I) as per english translation, the petitoner was specifically required to give a response to the following question.

"12 (i) (झ) क्या इस साक्ष्यंकन–पत्र को भारते समय आप के विरूद्ध किसी न्यायालय में कोई मामला विचाराधीन हैं?

"12(i) (I) Whether any case is pending before any court while filling this verification form?"

24. It is therefore clear that the declaration form which was filled up by the petitioner at the time of his entry into service specifically required the petitioner to disclose information with regard to any case pending before any court at the time of filling up the verification form.

25. It is not the case of the petitioner that there was no requirement in the declaration form to disclose the information with regard to pendency of any criminal case against him rather the defence sought to be put forward by the petitioner before the departmental authorities, as is evident from the grounds urged by him in his revision filed before the Director General Railway Protection Force Railway Board, New Delhi, is to the effect that the revisionist did not mention the pending criminal case in the character verification form inadvertently and not deliberately because he was not aware of the technicalities of the rules at that time. The aforementioned ground, as taken by the petitioner in the revision filed by him, is as follows :-

"14. That the revisionist did not mention the pending criminal case in the character verification form inadvertently and not deliberately because he was not aware of the technicalities of the rules at that time."

26. The lodging of an F.I.R., registration of the criminal case and the petitioner subsequently having been enlarged on bail, are facts which have been admitted in the writ petition also, as stated in paragraph 6 thereof, which reads as follows :-

"6. That it may be pointed out that due to enmity and rivalry in the village politics a first information report was lodged at Police Station-Lar, District-Deoria on 20.11.1993 by one Ramji Singh of the same village against 17 persons of village Barhiha Dalpat and name of the petitioner was also included with other villagers in the aforesaid information report. The F.I.R. was lodged under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 307, 504 & 506 I.P.C. and was registered as Crime Case No. 234/93 at P.S.-Lar, District-Deoria. The petitioner alongwith other villagers however have been granted bail in the aforesaid case."

27. Further, admission with regard to the pendency of the criminal case has also been made by the petitioner in his rejoinder affidavit and the reason which he has sought to furnish therein to justify the non-disclosure of the information of the pending criminal case is that he was under an impression that he would be acquitted of the criminal charges.

28. In the face of the aforementioned facts, the contention of the learned Senior Counsel appearing for the respondent-petitioner disputing the fact that in terms of the declaration required in the verification form there was no specific requirement with regard to disclosure of the information in respect of any pending case before any court at the time of filling up the verification form, cannot be accepted.

29. The purpose of verification of the character and antecedents is one of the criteria to test the suitability of a candidate for the post in question before appointment is made.

30. It is considered desirable that the incumbent should not have antecedents of such a nature which may adjudge him unsuitable for the post.

31. The order dated 12.04.2001 terminating the services of the petitioner has taken note of the fact that the petitioner had suppressed the material information with regard to pendency of the criminal case while filling up the declaration in the verification form at the time of his entry into service.

32. It is not in dispute that a criminal case under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 307 504 and 506 IPC, registered as Case Crime No. 234 of 1993, was pending at the relevant point of time, in the year 1997, when the petitioner filled up the verification form and did not disclose the information regarding pendency of the said criminal case.

33. The declaration required to be furnished as per clause 12 (i) of the verification form specifically required disclosure of information with regard to pendency of any case before any court at the time of filling up the verification form. The requirement of filling the particulars under clause 12 (i) of the aforesaid verification form was for the purpose of verification of character and antecedents of the petitioner respondent as on the date of filling the verification form.

34. Suppression of material information or making a false statement would have a clear bearing on the character and antecedents of the respondent in relation to his continuance in service. The purpose of seeking information as sought in clause 12 of the verification form may not be for the purpose of finding out the nature and gravity of the offence or the result of the criminal case ultimately but the same would have to be seen with a view to verify the character and antecedents of the respondent so as to judge his suitability for being appointed in service.

35. The constitution and regulation of the Railway Protection Force is provided for in terms of the Railway Protection Force Act, 1957 and in exercise of the rule making power conferred by Section 21 of the aforesaid Act, the Railway Protection Force Rules, 1987 were made. Rule 52 thereof provides for verification of character and antecedents to test the suitability of the recruit being appointed as a member of the force. Rule 52 of the Rules, 1987, reads as follows.

"52. Verification:

52.1. As soon as a recruit is selected but before he is formally appointed to the Force, his character and antecedents shall be got verified in accordance with the procedure prescribed by the Central Government from time to time.

52.2. Where after verification, a recruit is not found suitable for the Force, he shall not be appointed as a member of the Force."

36. The aforementioned Rule, which provides for verification of character and antecedents of a recruit, also provides that where after the verification a recruit is not found suitable for the force, he shall not be appointed as a member of the force.

37. It is therefore seen that as per Rule 52, referred to above, a prospective employee may be refused employment on the ground of unsatisfactory antecedents and character. Suppression of material information or making a false statement in reply to specific queries in the verification form which may lead to an inference of a dubious conduct and absence of character of the prospective employee at the time of making the declaration may therefore also be held as making him unsuitable for being appointed as a member of the force.

38. The question of suppression of information or submitting false information in the verification form as to the question of having been criminally prosecuted or arrested or as to pendency of a criminal case was subject to divergent views and noticing the conflict of opinion in the various decisions, the Supreme Court in Jainendra Singh vs. State of U.P. through Principal Secretary, Home & Ors.8 pointed out certain cardinal principles, before granting relief to the aggrieved party in such matters, and referred the issues for consideration to a larger bench. The observations made in the judgment are as follows :-

"29. As noted by us, all the above decisions were rendered by a Division Bench of this Court consisting of two-Judges and having bestowed our serious consideration to the issue, we consider that while dealing with such an issue, the Court will have to bear in mind the various cardinal principles before granting any relief to the aggrieved party, namely:

29.1. Fraudulently obtained orders of appointment could be legitimately treated as voidable at the option of the employer or could be recalled by the employer and in such cases merely because the respondent employee has continued in service for a number of years, on the basis of such fraudulently obtained employment, cannot get any equity in his favour or any estoppel against the employer.

29.2. Verification of the character and antecedents is one of the important criteria to test whether the selected candidate is suitable to the post under the State and on account of his antecedents the appointing authority if finds it not desirable to appoint a person to a disciplined force can it be said to be unwarranted.

29.3. When appointment was procured by a person on the basis of forged documents, it would amount to misrepresentation and fraud on the employer and, therefore, it would create no equity in his favour or any estoppel against the employer while resorting to termination without holding any inquiry.

29.4. A candidate having suppressed material information and/or giving false information cannot claim right to continue in service and the employer, having regard to the nature of employment as well as other aspects, has the discretion to terminate his services.

29.5. The purpose of calling for information regarding involvement in any criminal case or detention or conviction is for the purpose of verification of the character/antecedents at the time of recruitment and suppression of such material information will have a clear bearing on the character and antecedents of the candidate in relation to his continuity in service.

29.6. The person who suppressed the material information and/or gives false information cannot claim any right for appointment or continuity in service.

29.7. The standard expected of a person intended to serve in uniformed service is quite distinct from other services and, therefore, any deliberate statement or omission regarding a vital information can be seriously viewed and the ultimate decision of the appointing authority cannot be faulted.

29.8. An employee on probation can be discharged from service or may be refused employment on the ground of suppression of material information or making false statement relating to his involvement in the criminal case, conviction or detention, even if ultimately he was acquitted of the said case, inasmuch as such a situation would make a person undesirable or unsuitable for the post.

29.9. An employee in the uniformed service presupposes a higher level of integrity as such a person is expected to uphold the law and on the contrary such a service born in deceit and subterfuge cannot be tolerated.

29.10. The authorities entrusted with the responsibility of appointing Constables, are under duty to verify the antecedents of a candidate to find out whether he is suitable for the post of a constable and so long as the candidate has not been acquitted in the criminal case, he cannot be held to be suitable for appointment to the post of Constable."

39. Upon reference, the matter was placed before three judge bench of the Supreme Court in Avatar Singh Vs. Union of India and others9, and upon taking notice of the various decisions on the issue the Hon'ble Bench summarized its conclusion and stated as follows :-

"38. We have noticed various decisions and tried to explain and reconcile them as far as possible. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we summarise our conclusion thus:

38.1. Information given to the employer by a candidate as to conviction, acquittal or arrest, or pendency of a criminal case, whether before or after entering into service must be true and there should be no suppression or false mention of required information.

38.2. While passing order of termination of services or cancellation of candidature for giving false information, the employer may take notice of special circumstances of the case, if any, while giving such information.

38.3. The employer shall take into consideration the government orders/instructions/rules, applicable to the employee, at the time of taking the decision.

38.4. In case there is suppression or false information of involvement in a criminal case where conviction or acquittal had already been recorded before filling of the application/verification form and such fact later comes to knowledge of employer, any of the following recourses appropriate to the case may be adopted:

38.4.1. In a case trivial in nature in which conviction had been recorded, such as shouting slogans at young age or for a petty offence which if disclosed would not have rendered an incumbent unfit for post in question, the employer may, in its discretion, ignore such suppression of fact or false information by condoning the lapse.

38.4.2. Where conviction has been recorded in case which is not trivial in nature, employer may cancel candidature or terminate services of the employee.

38.4.3. If acquittal had already been recorded in a case involving moral turpitude or offence of heinous/serious nature, on technical ground and it is not a case of clean acquittal, or benefit of reasonable doubt has been given, the employer may consider all relevant facts available as to antecedents, and may take appropriate decision as to the continuance of the employee.

38.5. In a case where the employee has made declaration truthfully of a concluded criminal case, the employer still has the right to consider antecedents, and cannot be compelled to appoint the candidate.

38.6. In case when fact has been truthfully declared in character verification form regarding pendency of a criminal case of trivial nature, employer, in facts and circumstances of the case, in its discretion, may appoint the candidate subject to decision of such case.

38.7. In a case of deliberate suppression of fact with respect to multiple pending cases such false information by itself will assume significance and an employer may pass appropriate order cancelling candidature or terminating services as appointment of a person against whom multiple criminal cases were pending may not be proper.

38.8. If criminal case was pending but not known to the candidate at the time of filling the form, still it may have adverse impact and the appointing authority would take decision after considering the seriousness of the crime.

38.9. In case the employee is confirmed in service, holding departmental enquiry would be necessary before passing order of termination/removal or dismissal on the ground of suppression or submitting false information in verification form.

38.10. For determining suppression or false information attestation/verification form has to be specific, not vague. Only such information which was required to be specifically mentioned has to be disclosed. If information not asked for but is relevant comes to knowledge of the employer the same can be considered in an objective manner while addressing the question of fitness. However, in such cases action cannot be taken on basis of suppression or submitting false information as to a fact which was not even asked for.

38.11. Before a person is held guilty of suppressio veri or suggestio falsi, knowledge of the fact must be attributable to him."

40. In the facts of the case at hand, the petitioner- respondent has admitted that the details of the pending criminal case were not disclosed by him in the declaration made in the verification form. It is also not the case of the petitioner that he was not aware of the pendency of the criminal case. The factum of deliberate suppression is highlighted from the stand taken by the petiitoner before in the departmental revision wherein it was stated that he did not mention pending criminal case in character verification form due to inadvertence. This is further fortified from the pleading in the writ petition wherein the fact with regard to lodging of an F.I.R. and the registration of criminal case and also enlargement on bail have been admitted. The averments in the rejoinder affidavit filed before the writ court further reinforce the admission with regard to suppression of the material fact inasmuch as the petitioner has sought to contend that at the time of filling up of the attestation form in the month of September, 1997, he had not disclosed pendency of the criminal case for the reason that he was under an impression that he would be acquitted in the criminal charges. It is in the above backdrop that the decision taken by the appellant-respondents that the petitioner had suppressed material information having a bearing on his character and antecedents, cannot be faulted with.

41. In terms of the principles laid down in the case of Avatar Singh (supra), referred to above, information given to the employer by a candidate as to the pendency of a criminal case whether before or after entering into service must be true and there should be no suppression or false mention of required information. There is thus a clear obligation cast upon a prospective candidate to make a candid and truthful disclosure in respect of the information sought in the verification form. Non-disclosure or concealment of the material facts would have a direct link to the suitability of the person for being appointed in service.

42. Having regard to the aforementioned facts and circumstances, we are unable to persuade ourselves to agree with the reasoning given and the order passed by the learned Single Judge while allowing the writ petition.

43. The judgment dated 21.10.2019 passed by the writ Court having been founded on a wrong premise that there was no requirement in the verification form with regard to disclosure of information regarding pendency of any case, the same cannot be legally sustained.

44. The judgment and order dated 21.10.2019 passed in Writ-A No. 37611 of 2002 (Rajiv Kumar Singh Vs. Director General/R.P.F. and others) is, therefore, liable to be set aside and is accordingly set aside.

45. The special appeal is accordingly allowed.

46. The writ petition stands dismissed.

(A) Civil Law-U.P. Cooperative Societies Employees' Service Regulations, 1975-Regulation 83(i), 85(vi)(c), proviso to 85(vi)(c) and clause (g) - Harmonious construction of statutes - on combined reading it is inferred that the suspension of an employee arrested for debt or on a criminal charge is obligatory and is to be made effective from the date of his arrest and the same is to continue for the period during which he is so detained in custody or is undergoing imprisonment

Where alternate construction are possible while interpreting a statutory provision, the Court must choose the one which will be in accord with the other parts of the statute and ensure its smooth, harmonious working, and eschew the other which leads to absurdity, confusion or friction, contradiction and conflict between its various provisions, or undermines, or tends to defeat or destroy the basic scheme for the purpose of enactment. (para 10)
In the said circumstance, the provision under clause (e) of Regulation 85 with regard to suspension not taking retrospective effect would not be applicable in a case where the suspension has been made under clause (i) of Regulation 83 for the reason that the employee has been arrested on a criminal charge. The suspension order having been passed as a consequence of the deeming provision under the Regulations, the validity of the same cannot be assailed by raising a plea of retrospectivity. (Para 12)

Special Appeal Rejected. (E-10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Biswanath Somadder, J.
Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. The present Special Appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 20th December, 2018, passed in Writ-A No.27513 of 2018 (Veer Bahadur Singh Vs. State of U.P. and two others), whereby the writ petition has been dismissed.

2. The appellant before us is the writ petitioner.

3. The contention raised by the appellant-writ petitioner that the suspension order could not have been passed with retrospective effect, has been dealt with by the learned Single Judge by referring to the provisions contained under the Uttar Pradesh Cooperative Societies Employees' Service Regulations, 1975.

4. For ease of reference, the relevant provisions under the aforesaid Regulations are being extracted below:-

"83. (i) An employee arrested for debt or on a criminal charge shall be placed under suspension from the date of his arrest:

Provided that if he is released on bail or on recognizance, he may with the approval of the Registrar, be permitted to resume and continue on duty until charges are framed against him by the trying Court:

Provided further that his duties may be varied if continuance on original duty be inexpedient or prejudicial to the interest of the society in the opinion of the Registrar or the appointing authority.

(ii) An employee who is convicted of a criminal charge involving moral turpitude by a Criminal Court shall be liable to dismissal.

Explanation.--"Conviction" means sentence of punishment, fine or both.

x x x x x

85. Disciplinary proceedings.--(i) The disciplinary proceedings against an employee shall be conducted by the Inquiring Officer (referred to in clause (iv) below) with due observance of the principles of natural justice for which it shall be necessary that--

(a) .....

(c) .....

(ii) (a) Where an employee is dismissed or removed from service on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(b) Where the employee has absconded and his whereabouts are not known to the society for more than three months; or

(c) Where the employee refuses or fails without sufficient cause to appear before the Inquiring Officer when specifically called upon in writing to appear; or

(d) Where it is otherwise (for reasons to be recorded) not possible to communicate with him, the competent authority may award appropriate punishment without taking or continuing disciplinary proceedings.

(iii) Disciplinary proceedings shall be taken by the society against the employee on a report made to this effect by the inspecting authority or an officer of the society under whose control the employee is working.

(iv) The Inquiring Officer shall be appointed by the appointing authority or by an officer of the society authorised for the purpose by the appointing authority:

Provided that the officer at whose instance disciplinary action was started shall not be appointed as an Inquiring Officer nor shall the Inquiring Officer be the appellate authority.

(v) In the case of an erring employee falling in sub-section (c) of clause (i) or sub-clause (a) of clause (ii) of Regulation No.5, the committee of management of the society, and if so provided in the bye-laws the Chairman or the Secretary of the society, shall draw up a duplicate charge-sheet against the employee and the same shall be communicated to the parent employer who shall, if prima facie case has been made out by the reporting authority, withdraw him from the society and take disciplinary action against him.

(vi) An employee other than one referred to in clause (v) may be placed under suspension in the following circumstances by the appointing authority or any other officer authorised for the purpose--

(a) when the said authority is satisfied that a prima facie case exists, which is likely to result in the removal, dismissal or reduction in rank of the employee;

(b) when an enquiry into his conduct is immediately contemplated or is pending and his further continuance on his post is considered detrimental to the interest of the society;

(c) when a complaint against him of any criminal offence is under police investigation for which he has been arrested or he is undergoing trial in a court of law for offence under the Indian Penal Code, U.P. Co-operative Societies Act, 1965 or any other Act or charges have been framed against him by the criminal court:

Provided that suspension shall be obligatory where it is called for in terms of clause (i) of Regulation No.83.

(vii) (a) An employee under suspension shall be entitled to a subsistence allowance as per relevant rules applicable to State Government employees from time to time:

Provided that an employee who is under suspension on the date of coming into force of these regulations shall continue to draw such portion of pay and such allowances as he was allowed to draw for the period of suspension:

Provided further that no payment of the subsistence allowance shall be made unless the employee has furnished a certificate, and the authority passing the order of suspension is satisfied that the employee was not engaged in any other employment, business, profession or vocation and had not earned remuneration therefor during the period under suspension.

(b) (1) When an employee is reinstated, the authority competent to order the reinstatement shall make specific order regarding pay and allowances to be paid for the period of suspension and whether or not the said period shall be treated as a period spent on duty:

Provided that where the authority passing the order of reinstatement is of the opinion that the employee has been fully exonerated or the suspension was wholly unjustified, the employee shall be given the full pay and allowances to which he would have been entitled had he not been suspended.

(2) In cases not covered by the proviso to foregoing sub-clause (1) the employee shall be given such proportion of pay and allowance as the competent authority may order.

(c) In cases falling under proviso to clause (b)(1) the period of suspension shall be treated as a period spent on duty for all purposes.

(d) In cases falling under clause (b)(2) the period of suspension shall not be treated as a period spent on duty, unless the competent authority specifically directs that it shall be so treated.

(e) The order of suspension shall not take retrospective effect.

(f) Leave shall not be granted to an employee under suspension.

(g) An employee against whom proceedings have been taken either for his arrest for debt or a criminal charge or who is detained under any law for preventive detention shall be considered as under suspension for the period during which he is so detained in custody or is undergoing imprisonment and not be allowed any pay and allowances other than the subsistence allowance admissible under sub-clauses (a) and (b) for such period until the termination of the proceedings taken against him or until he is released from detention and allowed to rejoin duty as the case may be.

(viii) In case of fine, the total amount of fine shall not exceed half month's pay or maximum fine, chargeable under the Payment of Wages Act, 1936, where this Act is applicable to the employee concerned and it shall be deducted from his pay in monthly instalments, each such instalment not exceeding one-fourth of his monthly salary.

(ix) The order of suspension may be revoked by--

(a) the authority which passed the orders, or

(b) the appointing authority, if there are sufficient reasons for revocation and the same shall be recorded in the order of revocation.

(x) No employee shall ordinarily remain under suspension for more than 6 months:

Provided that this conduction shall not apply to such cases where the suspension is made on criminal charges on the direction of the Court."

5. The learned Single Judge has referred to Regulation 83(i) wherein it is provided that an employee arrested for debt or on a criminal charge shall be placed under suspension from the date of his arrest. Further, notice has been taken of clause (vi)(c) under Regulation 85 which provides for placing an employee under suspension in the circumstance when a complaint against him of any criminal offence is under police investigation for which he has been arrested or he is undergoing trial in a court of law for an offence under the Indian Penal Code, U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 or any other Act or in a case where charges have been framed against him by the criminal court. The proviso to the aforesaid clause (vi)(c) makes the suspension obligatory where it is in terms of clause (i) of Regulation 83.

6. The learned Single Judge has held that the provision under clause (vii)(e) of Regulation 85, which was sought to be relied upon by the writ petitioner to contend that suspension shall not take retrospective effect would not be applicable in the case at hand for the reason that the suspension in this case was covered under clause (vi)(c) of Regulation 85, and the proviso contained therein made the suspension obligatory in a case where the same was in terms of clause (i) of Regulation 83.

7. Notice may also be taken of clause (g) of Regulation 85 wherein it is provided that an employee against whom proceedings have been taken either for his arrest for debt or a criminal charge or who is detained under any law for preventive detention shall be considered as under suspension for the period during which he is so detained in custody or is undergoing imprisonment and would not be allowed any pay and allowances other than the subsistence allowance admissible under sub-clauses (a) and (b) for such period until the termination of the proceedings taken against him or until he is released from detention and allowed to rejoin duty as the case may be.

8. It is, therefore, seen that in terms of Regulation 83(i) an employee arrested for debt or on a criminal charge is required to be mandatorily placed under suspension from the date of his arrest. Furthermore, under clause (vi)(c) of Regulation 85 the employee is to be placed under suspension in the circumstance when a complaint against him of any criminal offence is under police investigation for which he has been arrested or he is undergoing trial in a court of law for an offence under the Indian Penal Code, U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 or any other Act or charges have been framed against him by the criminal court.

9. The proviso to clause (vi)(c) makes the suspension obligatory where the same is in terms of clause (i) of Regulation No. 83. Also, under clause (g) of Regulation 85, the employee against whom proceedings have been taken for arrest is to be considered as under suspension for the period for which he is so detained in custody or is undergoing imprisonment. The provisions contained under Regulation 83 and Regulation 85 have to be read in their entirety and are required to be given a harmonious construction.

10. We may, in this regard, reiterate the settled principle of statutory construction that where alternative constructions are possible while interpreting a statutory provision, the Court must choose the one which will be in accord with other parts of the statute and ensure its smooth, harmonious working, and eschew the other which leads to absurdity, confusion or friction, contradiction and conflict between its various provisions, or undermines, or tends to defeat or destroy the basic scheme for the purpose of enactment.

11. A combined reading of the provisions contained under clause (i) of Regulation 83, clause (vi)(c) and the proviso thereof of Regulation 85, as also clause (g) of Regulation 85, lead to the inference that suspension of an employee arrested for debt or on a criminal charge is obligatory and is to be made effective from the date of his arrest and the same is to continue for the period during which he is so detained in custody or is undergoing imprisonment.

12. In the said circumstance, the provision under clause (e) of Regulation 85 with regard to suspension not taking retrospective effect would not be applicable in a case where the suspension has been made under clause (i) of Regulation 83 for the reason as that the employee has been arrested on a criminal charge. The suspension order having been passed as a consequence of the deeming provision under the Regulations, the validity of the same cannot be assailed by raising a plea of retrospectivity. The contention raised by the learned counsel for the appellant-writ petitioner in this regard therefore has rightly been rejected.

13. After considering the submissions made by the learned advocates for the parties and upon perusing the impugned judgment and order, we notice that the same has been rendered by the learned Single Judge with cogent and justifiable reasons.

14. In an Intra-Court Special Appeal, no interference is usually warranted unless palpable infirmities or perversities are noticed on a plain reading of the impugned judgment and order. In the facts and circumstances of the instant case, on a plain reading of the impugned judgment and order, we do not notice any such palpable infirmity or perversity. As such, we are not inclined to interfere with the impugned judgment and order dated 20th December, 2018.

15. For reasons stated above, the Special Appeal is liable to be dismissed and stands, accordingly, dismissed.

(A) Eligibility Test - Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination (ATRE) are only for qualification for recruitment not for advertisement for recruitment - eligibility tests are not meant for selection to any post but is conducted to determine the eligibility of the candidate for the post –

Once Sikhsha Mitras attain minimum qualification they shall form a class of persons and the benefit of judgment of Anand Kumar Yadav can be extended.

(B) Minimum qualifying marks - Rule 2(x) of U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981 - Government competent to prescribe cut off marks for passing ATRE - it is not necessary that the minimum qualifying marks are to be provided before examination starts - the principle that the Rules of the game cannot be changed once the game has started are not applicable in this case - competent authority was given power under aforesaid Rule to fix minimum qualifying marks and the same ought not to be interfered - ATRE -2018 and ATRE-2019 is valid only for a particular year

Qualifying marks are prescribed after the examination is conducted as the Recruitment Authority is in a position to assess how the candidates performed and determine the benchmarked keeping in mind the number of vacancies. The State Government rightly in the advertisement dated 1.12.2018 did not declare the cut off marks for qualifying the ATRE-2019. Arguments of the writ petitioner that the increase in the cut-off marks by the Government order dated 07.01.2019 nullifying the beneficial direction of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Anand Kumar Yadav case has no legs to stand and is pre mature as the benefit is available only at the time of recruitment, once they hold the prescribed minimum qualification and their names published in the merit list prepared under Rule 14(2) of the 1981.(paras 72 and 73) B.Ed. candidates were made eligible to be considered for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher, subject to them acquiring the minimum qualification, the State Government was bound to permit them to participate in the ATRE-2019 pasing which is the minimum qualification to be considered for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher. Accordingly, the State Government carried out the necessary amendments to the Rules 1981 to align them with the National Council for Teacher Education (NCTE) notification, prior to commencement of the recruitment process. (2) This Special Appeal alongwith the connected matters has, with the consent of parties, been taken up for disposal together since the issues raised are identical.

(3) These Special Appeals arise out of judgment and order dated 29.3.2019 passed in Writ Petition No.1188 (SS) of 2019 and other connected matters filed by Shiksha Mitras challenging the Government Order dated 7.1.2019, by which the State Government has fixed the qualifying marks of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination - 2019 at 60% - 65% (for general and reserved category respectively). The facts are being narrated from Mohd. Rizwan and others v. State of U.P. and others (Writ Petition No. 1188 (SS) of 2019).

(4) The reliefs sought in the aforesaid writ petitions were:

(a) A writ of Certiorari quashing the Government Order dated 7.1.2019; and

(b) A writ of mandamus directing the Secretary, Examination Regulatory Authority to declare the result of the ATRE - 2019 for 69,000 vacancies in terms of the Government Order dated 1.12.2018.

(5) The main grounds of challenge of the writ petitions to the policy decision were:

(a) Upon qualifying the TET examination prescribed by the NCTE, the Shiksha Mitras constituted a 'homogeneous class' and increasing the qualifying marks from 40-45% (as notified for ATRE - 2018) to 60-65% for ATRE - 2019 amounted to discrimination and nullification of the benefit granted to them by the Apex Court in Anand Kumar and others v. Union of India and others v. Union of India and others and connected writ petitions [(2018) 13 SCC 560]. The fixation of cut-off marks at 60%-65% was arbitrary and with a view to eradicate/ disqualify the petitioners (Shiksha Mitras) from being appointed on the post of Assistant Teacher; and

(b) There was a change in the rules of the game after the game had been played as the impugned Government Order notifying the qualifying marks was issued on 7.1.2019, i.e., a day after holding the ATRE - 2019 examination on 6.1.2019.

(6) The learned Writ Court allowed the writ petitions and quashed the Government Order dated 7.1.2019 fixing the minimum qualifying marks for

Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination, 2019 as 65% for General Category and 60% for reserved category and directed to declare the result of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination, 2019 in terms of Government Order dated 1.12.2018 and also notification/advertisement dated 5.12.2018, ignoring the Government Order dated 7.1.2019, in the same manner as the earlier result of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination-2018 was declared so far as the minimum qualifying marks are concerned, within a period of three months and the entire exercise shall be completed at the earliest, strictly in accordance with law. Relevant part of the impugned judgment contained in paras 181 and 182 reads as under:-

"181. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the issue and case law so cited by the learned counsel for the respective parties I am of the considered view that the Government Order dated 7.1.2019 is not sustainable in the eyes of law being arbitrary and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India as it makes an unreasonable classification by giving different treatment to two groups of identically situated persons appearing in two consecutive examinations and there is no valid reason and justification for drastically increasing minimum qualifying marks without having any nexus with the object sought to be achieved. It further appears that the Government Order dated 7.1.2019 is nullifying the beneficial direction of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re: Anand Kumar Yadav (supra), pursuant to which 25 marks of weightage has been prescribed under Rule 14(3)(a) of the Rules 1981 (22nd Amendment, 2018) purposely for practical experience which is an integral part of merit.

182. Accordingly, a writ in the nature of certiorari is issued quashing the Government Order dated 07.01.2019 issued by the Special Secretary, Basic Education Anubhag-4, Government of U.P., Lucknow."

(7) In the State of Uttar Pradesh, out of 1,78,000 'Shiksha Mitras', who were given fortuitous appointments as Primary Teachers on contractual basis, a total of approximately 1,37,500 'Shiksha Mitra' were absorbed as Assistant Teachers in Junior Basic Schools. Their absorption into the regular service of State as Assistant Teachers by amendment made by the State Government by its notification dated 30.5.2014 introducing the provision of Rule 16-A in the U.P. Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Rules, 2011 by the U.P. Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education (First Amendment) Rules, 2014 and consequential executive orders of the State Government were challenged in Writ-A No.34833 of 2014, Anand Kumar Yadav and others v. Union of India and others and connected writ petitions [(2015) 8 ADJ 338]. Ultimately, the Full Bench found that the engagement of Shiksha Mitras was not in the regular service of the State since they had not been appointed in accordance with the U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981 [In short, it has been referred to as '1981 Rules']. It found that their engagement was purely on contractual basis for a stipulated term of eleven months renewable subject to satisfactory performance and on payment of an honorarium. It also found that their appointments were not against sanctioned posts as determined by the Board of Basic Education under the 1981 Rules. It was also observed that the Shiksha Mitras did not fulfil the qualifications for a regular teacher under the 1981 Rules. The Full Bench thereafter proceeded to evaluate the rights of the Shiksha Mitras to continue in service in the light of the provisions of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education, 2009 [In short, it is referred to as 'RTE Act'] as well as the qualifications prescribed by the National Council For Teacher Education for Teachers [in short, it is referred to as 'NCTE'] imparting instructions in basic schools. On a detailed scrutiny of the aforesaid provisions, it held that the Shiksha Mitras did not possess the requisite qualification and therefore could not be appointed. The Full Bench also proceeded to strike down the Government Order dated 30.5.2014 which purported to the effect of their absorption even though they did not hold the qualification as were prescribed under the RTE Act and notifications issued by the NCTE.

(8) The decision of the Full Bench was subject to challenge by the State of U.P. before the Apex Court which upheld the judgment and the view taken by the Full Bench. While doing so, the Apex Court in State of U.P. and another v. Anand Kumar Yadav and others [(2018) 13 SCC 560] in paras 28 to 30 observed as under:-

"28. We are in agreement with the above findings. In view of clear mandate of law statutorily requiring minimum qualification for appointment of teachers to be appointed after the date of Notification dated 23rd August, 2010, there is no doubt that no appointment was permissible without such qualifications. Appointments in the present case are clearly after the said date. Relaxation provision could be invoked for a limited period or in respect of persons already appointed in terms of applicable rules relating to qualifications. The Shiksha Mitras in the present case do not fall in the category of pre 23 rd August, 2010 Notification whose appointment could be regularized.

29. Further difficulty which stares one in the face is the law laid down by this Court on regularization of contractually appointed persons in public employment. Appointment of Shiksha Mitras was not only contractual, it was not as per qualification prescribed for a teacher nor on designation of teacher nor in pay scale of teachers. Thus, they could not be regularized as teachers. Regularization could only be of mere irregularity. The exceptions carved out by this Court do not apply to the case of the present nature.

30. In view of our conclusion that the Shiksha Mitras were never appointed as teachers as per applicable qualifications and are not covered by relaxation order under Section 23(2) of the RTE Act, they could not be appointed as teachers in breach of Section 23 (1) of the said Act. The State is not competent to relax the qualifications.

(9) The Apex Court thereafter proceeded to consider the fate of 1,78,000 Shiksha Mitras who were continued in service pursuant to the decision of the State Government and it held thus:-

32. On the one hand, we have the claim of 1.78 Lakhs persons to be regularized in violation of law, on the other hand is the duty to uphold the rule of law and also to have regard to the right of children in the age of 6 to 14 years to receive quality education from duly qualified teachers. Thus, even if for a stop gap arrangement teaching may be by unqualified teachers, qualified teachers have to be ultimately appointed. It may be permissible to give some weightage to the experience of Shiksha Mitras or some age relaxation may be possible, mandatory qualifications cannot be dispensed with. Regularization of Shiksha Mitras as teachers was not permissible. In view of this legal position, our answers are obvious. We do not find any error in the view taken by the High Court.

33. Question now is whether in absence of any right in favour of Shiksha Mitras, they are entitled to any other relief or preference. In the peculiar fact situation, they ought to be given opportunity to be considered for recruitment if they have acquired or they now acquire the requisite qualification in terms of advertisements for recruitment for next two consecutive recruitments. They may also be given suitable age relaxation and some weightage for their experience as may be decided by the concerned authority. Till they avail of this opportunity, the State is at liberty to continue them as Shiksha Mitras on same terms on which they were working prior to their absorption, if the State so decides."

(10) The Apex Court confirmed the position found by the Full Bench that Shiksha Mitras did not possess requisite qualifications required for an Assistant Teacher and thus, they could not be regularized. However, the Apex Court also sought to balance the rights of 1,78,000 persons engaged by the State in Basic Schools in their capacity as Shiksha Mitras by observing that in the peculiar fact situation, they ought to be given an opportunity to be considered for recruitment if they have acquired or they now acquire the requisite qualifications in terms of advertisement for recruitment in the next two consecutive recruitment exercises to be conducted by the Board. It was held that they may be given suitable age relaxation "some weightage for their experience". Weightage, consciously, was to be given in respect of "experience" and not in connection with any examination.

(11) The appointment of Assistant Teachers in Junior Basic Schools is regulated by U.P. Basic Education Act, 1972 [in short, it has been referred to as '1972 Act'] which was enacted by the State Legislature to control basic education (education upto eighth class) in the State of U.P. Section 19 of the 1972 Act authorizes the State Government to make rules to carry out the purpose of the Act. 1981 Rules lay down sources of recruitment and qualification for appointment of teachers. Part III of the 1981 Rules relate to recruitment. Qualifications for teachers of basic schools are defined in Part IV.

(12) The National Council for Teachers' Education Act, 1993 [in brief, it is referred to as 'NCTE Act'] was enacted by Parliament for planned and co-ordinated development for the teacher education system and the regulation and proper maintenance of norms and standards.

(13) The RTE Act was enacted by the Parliament for free and compulsory education to all children of the age of 6 to 14 years. The RTE Act lays down the qualifications for appointment and terms and conditions of service of Teachers. Section 23 provides for qualification for appointment of teachers. The NCTE was designated as the authority under Section 23 (1) to lay down the qualifications for appointment of teachers. The Central Government in exercise of its powers conferred under Section 23 of the RTE Act issued a notification dated 31.3.2010 authorizing the NCTE as the 'Academic Authority' to lay down minimum qualification for a person to be eligible for appointment as a Teacher. On 1.4.2010, by 86th amendment to the Constitution of India, Article 21-A was inserted for providing free and compulsory education to the children of 6-14 years.

(14) The NCTE issued notification dated 23.8. 2010 laying down qualifications for appointment of teachers for elementary education. With regard to teachers appointed prior to the said notification, it was stated that they were required to have qualifications in terms of the National Council for Teacher Education (Determination of Minimum Qualifications for Recruitment of Teachers in Schools) Regulations, 2001 [in brief, it is referred to as 'the 2001 Regulations'].

(15) One of the minimum qualifications for a person to be appointed as Teachers in Classes I to VIII, as contained in notification dated 23.8.2010 is that he/she should pass the Teacher Eligibility Test (TET) which will be conducted by the appropriate Government. Being the Academic Authority, NCTE prescribed guidelines for conducting TET examinations by the appropriate Government vide its notification dated 11.2.2011 under Section 12-D read with Section 12-A of the NCTE Act and Section 23 of the RTE Act.

(16) The State Government in exercise of its powers conferred under Entry 25 of List III of Schedule VII and 1972 Act has prescribed an additional minimum qualification, i.e., passing the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination for being considered for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher which the Shiksha Mitra must qualify by obtaining the prescribed passing marks, and no special rights, relaxation or benefit can be claimed by the Shiksha Mitras. Necessary amendments were carried out in the 1981 Rules, incorporating qualifying the ATRE in the manner prescribed as a minimum qualification for being considered eligible for appointment as Teacher.

(17) After decision of the Apex Court, the State of U.P. proceeded to amend 1981 Rules. The Twentieth amendment to the 1981 Rules came to be notified on 9.11.2017. This Amendment, in Rule 2(v) defined a Shiksha Mitra to mean a person working in Junior Basic Schools run by the Basic Shiksha Parishad under Government Orders issued prior to the commencement of the U.P. Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Rules 2011 [in short 'UPRTE Rules, 2011']. It also included Shiksha Mitras appointed as Assistant Teachers in Junior Basic Schools and reverted as Shiksha Mitras pursuant to the judgment of the Supreme Court in Anand Kumar Yadav (supra). It also introduced a definition for the "Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination" to mean a written examination conducted by the Government for recruitment of persons in junior basic schools run by the Basic Shiksha Parishad. The "Qualifying Marks of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination" was defined to mean such minimum marks as would be determined by the Government from time to time. The relevant Clauses (w) (x) and (y) inserted vide Twentieth amendment in Rule 2 (1) of the 1981 Service Rules are being reproduced hereunder:-

Rule 2(1)(w) "Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination" means a written examination conducted by Government for recruitment of a person in junior basic schools run by Basic Shiksha Parishad;

Rule 2(1)(x) "Qualifying marks of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination" means such minimum marks as may be determined from time to time by the Government;

Rule 2(1)(y) *"Guideline of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination" means s*uch guidelines as may be determined from time to time by the Government."

(18) By the said Twentieth Amendment, the requirement to qualify the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination was included both in Rule 8 and Rule 14 as follows:-

*"*Rule 8 (1)(ii)(a) and (c)" and passed Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government";

Rule 14 (1)(a)" and passed Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government";

(19) Rule 5 which prescribed the essential qualifications to be possessed by a person desirous of being appointed as an Assistant Master or Mistress in a junior basic school read as follows:

"(a) Bachelors degree from a University established by law in India or a degree recognised by the Government equivalent thereto together with any other training course recognised by the Government as equivalent thereto together with the training qualification consisting of a Basic Teacher's Certificate (BTC), two years BTC (Urdu) Vishisht BTC. Two year Diploma in Education (Special Education) approved by the Rehabilitation Council of India or four year Degree in Elementary Education (B.EI.Ed.), two year Diploma in Elementary Education (by whatever name known) in accordance with the National Council for Teacher Education (Recognition, Norms and Procedure), Regulations, 2002 or any training qualifications to be added by National Council of Teacher Education for the recruitment of teachers in primary education.

teacher eligibility test passed conducted by the Government or by the Government of India and passed Assistant Teacher recruitment Examination conducted by the Government.

(b) a Trainee Teacher who has completed successfully six months special training programme in elementary education recognised by NCTE.

(c) a shikshamitra who possessed bachelors degree from a University established by law in India or a degree recognised by the Government equivalent thereto and has completed successfully two years distant learning B.T.C. course or Basic Teacher's Certificate (B.T.C.), Basic Teachers Certificate (B.T.C.) (Urdu) or Vishisht B.T.C. conducted by the State Council of Educational Research and Training (SCERT) and passed the Teacher Eligibility Test conducted by the Government or by the Government of India and passed Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government."

(20) The selection of Assistant Teacher as per the 1981 Rules is made in accordance with the "quality points" that may be obtained by an applicant computed in accordance with Appendix-I to the 1981 Rules. The Twentieth Amendment amended the Appendix-I to read as follows:

"[APPENDIX-I]

Quality points, and weightage for selection of candidates

	Name of Examination/ Degree	Quality Points
1.	High School	Percentage of marks in the examination x10 / 100
2.	Intermediate	Percentage of marks in the examination x10 / 100
3.	Graduation Degree	Percentage of marks in the examination x10 / 100
4.	B.T.C. Training	Percentage of marks in the examination x10 / 100
5.	Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination	Percentage of marks in the examination x10 / 100
6.	Weightage Teaching Experience as shiksha mitra or an teacher working as such in junior basic schools run by Basic Shiksha Praishad	2.5 marks per completed teaching year, upto maximum 25 marks, whichever is less.

Note:

1. If two or more candidates have equal quality points, the name of the candidate who is senior in age shall be placed higher in the list.

2. If two or more candidates have equal quality points and age, the name of the candidate shall be placed in the list in English alphabetical order."

(21) The 1981 Rules were thereafter amended yet again on 15 March 2018 when the Twenty-Second Amendment came to be promulgated.

(22) For a Shiksha Mitra, the Twenty-Second Amendment prescribed the essential academic qualifications as under:

"Rule 5(a)(ii)(c) a shikshamitra who possessed bachelors degree from a University established by law in India or a degree recognised by the Government equivalent thereto and has completed successfully two years distant learning B.T.C. course or Basic Teacher's Certificate (B.T.C.), Basic Teacher's Certificate (B.T.C.) (Urdu) or Vishisht B.T.C. conducted by the State Council of Educational Research and Training (SCERT) and passed the Teacher Eligibility Test conducted by the Government or by the Government of India."

(23) For the purpose of determination of vacancies, Rule 14(1)(a) after the Twenty-Second Amendment reads as follows:

"14(1)(a) Determination of vacancies

In respect of appointment, by direct recruitment to the post of Mistress of Nursery Schools and Assistant Master or Assistant Mistress of Junior Basic Schools under clause (a) of Rule 5, the appointing authority shall determine the number of vacancies as also the number of vacancies to be reserved for candidates belonging to Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes, Backward Classes, and other categories under Rule 9 and published in at least two leading daily newspapers having adequate circulation in the State as well as in concerned district inviting applications from candidates possessing prescribed training qualification and passed teacher eligibility test, conducted by the Government or by the Government of India and passed Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government."

(24) It would be also to be pertinent to compare sub-rules (2) and (3) of Rule 14 as amended by the Twentieth and Twenty-Second Amendments. This would be evident from the chart which is extracted herein below:-

(2) The appointing authority shall scrutinize the applications received in pursuance of the advertisement under clause (a) or (b) of sub-rule (1) of rule 14 and prepare a list of such persons as appear to possess the prescribed academic qualifications and be eligible for appointment.	(2) Preparation of Merit List- The appointing authority shall scrutinize the applications received in pursuance of the advertisement under clause (a) or clause (c) of sub-rule (1) and prepare a merit list of such persons as appear to possess the prescribed academic qualifications and passed Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination be eligible for appointment.
(3)(a). The names of candidates in the list prepared under sub-rule (2) in accordance with clause (a) of sub-rule (1) of rule 14 shall then be arranged in such manner that the candidate shall be arranged in accordance with the quality points and weight-age as specified in the appendix-I:	(3)(a). The names of candidates in the list prepared under sub-rule (2) in accordance with clause (a) of sub-rule (1) of rule 14 shall then be arranged in such manner that the candidate shall be arranged in accordance with the quality points and weightage as specified in the appendix-I:
Provided that if two or more candidates obtain equal marks, the candidate senior in age shall be placed higher:	Provided that if two or more candidates obtain equal marks, the candidate senior in age shall be placed higher:
	Provided that a person working as Shiksha Mitra in Junior Basic Schools run by Basic Shiksha Parishad shall be given weightage in the recruitment of the post of Assistant Teacher, only in two consecutive Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government after July 25, 2017.
	(b) The names of candidates in the list prepared under sub-rule (2) in accordance with clause (c) of sub-rule (1) of rule 14 shall then be arranged in such manner that the candidate shall be arranged in accordance with the quality points specified in the appendix-II:
3(b). The names of candidates in the list prepared under sub-rule (2) in accordance with clause (b) of sub-rule (1) of rule 14 shall then be arranged in such manner that the candidate shall be arranged in accordance with the quality points specified in the appendix-II
	Provided that if two or more candidates obtain equal marks, the candidate senior in age shall be placed higher.
Provided that if two or more candidates obtain equal marks, the candidate senior in age shall be placed higher.

(25) Sub-Rule (2) clearly mandates the preparation of a merit list to include only such persons who possess the prescribed academic qualifications and have passed the ATRE. Sub-rule (3) (a) reinforces the above position by prescribing that the names of candidates prepared under sub-rule (2) of Rule 14 is to be arranged in accordance with the quality points and weightage as specified in Appendix - I. It is in unequivocal terms provides for a weightage only in respect of every teaching year completed by Shiksha Mitra. As per clause 6 of the Appendix - I, Shiksha Mitras are entitled to a weightage of 2.5 marks subject to a maximum of 25 marks in respect of every completed year of teaching alone. Clause 5 of the Appendix - I does not make any provision for the grant of weightage at the stage of declaration of results.

(26) Significantly Rule 8 after its Twenty-Second Amendment while prescribing essential qualifications, has done away with the requirement of passing of the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government. Similarly the said Rule while prescribing the academic qualifications for a Shiksha Mitra has deleted the requirement of a Shiksha Mitra having passed the Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination. This requirement however, is continued in Rule 14(1)(a) as well as in sub-rules (2) and (3) thereof.

(27) After dictum of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra), the ATRE was introduced. Statutory Guidelines under Rule 2(y) of 1981 Rules for conducting first ATRE - 2018 examination were issued on 9.1.2018 and selection process was undertaken to fill-up approximately 68,500 vacancies in the primary schools in the State and the State Government started conducting written examination called Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination 2018 and issued an advertisement for filling up of 68,500 posts of Assistant Teachers in Junior High School. Clauses 1 (kha) and 7 (3) of the Guidelines dated 9.1.2018 for ATRE - 2018 read as under:-

Clause 1 (kha) सहायक अध्यापक भर्ती परीक्षा उ0प्र0 बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद द्वारा संचालित प्राथमिक विद्यालों में सहायक अध्यापक के पदों पर भर्ती हेतु कुल 68500 पदों के सापेक्ष आयोजित की जायेगी । विशेष परिस्थितियों में पदों की संख्या घट/बढ सकती है । यह परीक्षा मात्र इसी भर्ती के लिये ही मान्य होगी ।

Clause 7 (3) : सहायक अध्यापक भर्ती परीक्षा करना किसी व्यक्ति को भर्ती/ रोजगार के लिए अधिकार नहीं होगा क्यूंकि यह नियुक्ति के लिए केवल पात्रता मानदण्डो में से एक है।

(28) From clause 1 (Kha) it has been clearly mentioned that the said examination is valid for the recruitment of the particular year. In the said examination, the minimum qualifying marks for TET was 60% and 55%, as the case may be and for Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination 2018, it was 45% for general category and 40% for reserve category as per clause 7 (1) and 7 (2) of the guidelines which read as under:-

"7(1) सहायक अध्यापक भर्ती परीक्षा में शामिल हाने वाले अभ्यर्थियां का परीक्षा परिणाम वेबसाइट पर जारी किया जायेगा। सामान्य एवं अन्य पिछडा वर्ग के अभ्यर्थियों को पूर्णांक 150 में ो 67 अंक अर्थात 45 प्रतिशत और अधिक अंक प्राप्त करने वाले अभ्यर्थियों को सहायक अध्यापक भर्ती परीक्षा उत्तीर्ण होने का प्रमाण पत्र जारी किया जायेगा ।

7(2) अनुसूचित जाति/अनुसूचित जनजाति श्रेणी के अभ्यार्थियों के लिए न्यूनतम अर्हक अंक 40 प्रतिशत अर्थात पूर्णांक 150 में से 60 अंक होगा ।"

(29) Recruitments of first ATRE - 2018 were carried out under the Twenty-second Amendment. At that time, a challenge was laid by the Shiksha Mitras that after the Twenty-second Amendment qualifying the ATRE is no longer a minimum requirement, in the case of Kul Bhushan Mishra and others v. State of U.P. and others [(2019) 2 ADJ 442], wherein the writ petitioners have prayed for a direction that while preparing the merit list of the ATRE - 2018, which was conducted by the State of U.P. on 27.5.2018, weightage of 2.5% marks for every year of the working as Shiksha Mitra should be given and result be declared after adding the same.

(30) The Division Bench of this Court dealt with the aforesaid issues exhaustively in Kul Bhushan Misra's case (supra), and found that the Shiksha Mitras cannot claim the benefits under the Anand Kumar Yadav's case (supra) before they hold the prescribed minimum qualifications and qualify the ATRE and come within the zone of eligibility for being considered for appointment as Assistant Teacher. This Court held that not only is qualifying the ATRE a mandatory and minimum qualification to be considered for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher, but also that any benefit under the Anand Kumar Yadav's case (supra) shall be available to the Shiksha Mitras only during the 'process of recruitment' which will start once they qualify the ATRE by scoring the prescribed qualifying marks, and until they do so they cannot stake a claim to such weightage. Relevant portion of the judgment of Kul Bhushan Misra (supra) reads as under:-

"In our considered opinion the submission advanced on behalf of the appellants/petitioners must necessarily be evaluated bearing in mind the decision of the Supreme Court in Anand Kumar Yadav as well as the statutory amendments introduced in the 1981 Rules by virtue of the Twentieth and Twenty-Second Amendments.

Anand Kumar Yadav, expressly upheld and affirmed the decision rendered by the Full Bench of this Court. The Supreme Court confirmed the position found by the Full Bench that Shiksha Mitras did not possess the requisite qualifications required of an Assistant Teacher and, thus, they could not be regularised. However, the Supreme Court also sought to balance the rights of 1,78,000 persons engaged by the State Government in Basic Schools in their capacity as Shiksha Mitras by observing that in the peculiar fact situation, they ought to be given an opportunity to be considered for recruitment if they have acquired or they now acquire the requisite qualifications in terms of advertisements for recruitment in the next two consecutive recruitment exercises to be conducted by the Board. It is in that light that the second proviso to Rule 14 (3) must be read. The second proviso must also necessarily be interpreted in conjunction and against the backdrop of the significant observation of the Supreme Court in Anand Kumar Yadav where it was held that they may be given suitable age relaxation and "some weightage for their experience...". Weightage, crucially was to be given in respect of "experience" and not in connection with any examination.

The appointment of Shiksha Mitras as Assistant Teachers was unequivocally made subject to they having either acquired or now acquiring the requisite qualifications as prescribed under the 1981 Rules. Viewed in this light, it is manifest that Shiksha Mitras were not exempted from the rigours of possessing either the essential qualifications or otherwise meeting the requirements of the 1981 Rules and more particularly Rule 14 thereof. Rule 14(1)(a) in unambiguous terms confines the zone of eligibility to those who (a) possess the prescribed training qualification, (b) have passed the Teacher Eligibility Test and (c) the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. The procedure for preparation of the merit list is then prescribed in sub-rule (2) which mandates the inclusion of only such persons, who possess the prescribed academic qualifications and have additionally passed the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. Sub-rule (3) then proceeds to prescribe that the name of candidates shall be arranged in accordance with the quality points and weightage as specified in Appendix-I. Clause 5 of the Appendix-I provides for the manner in which quality point marks are to be computed with respect to marks obtained in the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. There is thus an unambiguous command enshrined in sub rules (1) and (2) read with the Appendix-I of a candidate passing the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. These provisions, significantly, do not prescribe or envisage the conferral of weightage to the marks obtained in the said examination.

The Appendix-I and more particularly Clause 5 thereof, provides for the computation of quality points based upon the marks obtained by an applicant in the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. As is evident from Clause 6 of the Appendix-I the weightage of 2.5 marks subject to a maximum of 25 marks is confined to every completed year of teaching. Weightage is not provisioned for in Clause 5 which deals with the computation of quality points with regard to the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. The Appendix-I in unambiguous terms provides for a weightage of 2.5 marks subject to a maximum of 25 only in respect of every completed year of teaching. Significantly although the second proviso to sub rule (3) was introduced by way of the Twenty-Second Amendment on 15 March 2018, the Appendix-I as amended by the Twentieth Amendment was not touched. This clearly seems to suggest that the rule making authority had no intention of amending or modifying the manner in which quality point marks were to be computed. Neither Clause 5 nor Clause 6 of the Appendix-I were varied. They continue to link the grant of weightage solely to every completed year of teaching. Similarly, Clause 5 continues to maintain the formula for computation of quality point marks as it is without providing for any addition or weightage being provided at this stage."

"Both sub-rules (1) and (2) of Rule 14 unequivocally mandate that a candidate desirous of appointment as an Assistant Teacher must have passed the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. Rule 14 (3)(a) then proceeds to prescribe that the names of candidates prepared under Rule 14 (2) is to be arranged in accordance with quality points and weightage as specified in Appendix-I. Appendix-I as noticed above restricts the application of weightage to every completed teaching year. Neither sub rules (2) and (3) nor the Appendix-I contemplate weightage being accorded at the time of computing quality points with respect to the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination or at the time of declaration of results of the said exam. This subject is dealt with exclusively by clause 5 of Appendix-I. This particular clause, as noticed above, has remained unaltered and untouched by the Twenty-Second Amendment. Even this clause does not prescribe a weightage being accorded to the marks obtained in the examination in question. The subject of weightage is considered principally by Clause 6. It is also signifiant to note that Clause 6 restricts the application of weightage to every completed teaching year alone. This particular Clause was also neither visited nor touched by the Twenty-Second Amendment.

Viewed in the above backdrop, we are of the considered view that weightage was not contemplated to be added to the marks obtained by a person in the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. Following the principle of identifying the hierarchy of provisions as enunciated by the Supreme Court, we find that sub-rules (2) and (3) of Rule 14 are the principal provisions. The prescription and requirements placed by these two provisions must be recognised to be the fundamental pedestal which must be achieved by any candidate seeking appointment as an Assistant Teacher. The second proviso to Rule 14 (3) must, therefore, be interpreted so as to fall in line and in tune with sub-rules (2) and (3). This would also flow from the language of the second proviso itself, which principally deals with the subject of grant of weightage in respect of recruitment to the post of Assistant Teacher. Sub-rule (4) of Rule 14 is also of no less significance. This provision in unambiguous terms prescribes that no person shall be eligible for appointment unless his or her name is included in the list prepared under sub-rule (2). Sub-rule (4) expressed in negative terms clearly operates as a statutory injunction against the appointment of any person unless he or she finds place in the list prepared in accordance with Rule 14 (2). Sub-rule (2) of Rule 14, as we have held above, clearly requires all persons to pass the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. This sub rule does not contemplate the grant of weightage at the stage of preparation of the result of the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. We have also recognised sub-rules (1), (2) and (3) of Rule 14 as well as Appendix-I to be the principal provisions. On a conjoint reading of these provisions, it is manifest that weightage is not liable to be accorded at the stage of computation of marks obtained by a candidate in the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. At the cost of repetition, we may only reiterate that the observation of the Supreme Court in Anand Kumar Yadav with respect to the grant of weightage also stood confined to the experience gained by a Shiksha Mitra. This observation stands embedded in the statute with Appendix-I prescribing weightage being accorded for every completed year of teaching."

(31) After conducting first ATRE - 2018 on 27.5.2018, the State Government by a Government Order dated 8.8.2018 has issued an order directing the concerned authorities to prepare the list as per minimum marks provided in clause 7 (1) and 7 (2) of the Government Order dated 9.1.2018. Result of first Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination 2018 was declared on 13.8.2018 in which 41,556 candidates were declared 'pass'. Pursuant to the result of revaluation being declared 4500 and odd candidates were also declared 'pass'.

(32) The State Government vide Government Order dated 1.12.2018 issued statutory guidelines and applications were invited for conducting second Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination 2019 (In short, it is referred to as 'ATRE - 2019') for filling up of 69,000 posts of Assistant Teachers and its advertisement was issued on 5.12.2018 wherein the date of examination was fixed as 6.1.2019. Clauses 1 (kha), 4 (2), 7 (2) and 17 (10) are relevant which read as under:-

1 (Kha) सहायक अध्यापक भर्ती परीक्षा उ0प्र0 बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद द्वारा संचालित प्राथमिक विद्यालों में सहायक अध्यापक के पदों पर भर्ती हेतु कुल 69000 पदों के सापेक्ष आयोजित की जायेगी । विशेष परिस्थितियों में पदों की संख्या घट/बढ सकती है । यह परीक्षा मात्र इसी भर्ती के लिये ही मान्य होगी ।

4 (2) राष्ट्रीय अध्यापक रिक्षा परिषद, नई दिल्ली द्वारा न्यूनतम अर्हता कक्षा 1 से 5 के सम्बन्ध में निर्गत अधिसूचना दिनांक 23.08.2010, 29.07.2011, 12.11.2014, 28.11.2014 ;एपेंडिक्स –2 की प्रस्तावना 1.2 में उल्लिखितद्ध तथा दिनांक 28. 06.2018 में निर्धारित अर्हताधारी सहायक अध्यापक भर्त्ती परीक्षा 2019 में आवेदन करने के लिए पात्र होंगें ।

7 (2) सहायक अध्यापक भर्ती परीक्षा उत्तीर्ण करना किसी व्यक्ति को भर्ती/रोजगाार के

लिए अधिकार नही होगा क्योंकि यह नियुक्ति के लिए केवल मानदण्डों में से एक है ।

17 (10) यदि किसी अभ्यर्थी को सहायक अध्यापक भर्ती परीक्षा में बैठने की अनुमति दे दी गई है तो इसका यह अर्थ नहीं लिया जायेगा कि अभ्यर्थी की पात्रता प्रमाणित हो गई है, इससे अभ्यर्थी को नियुक्ति के लिए कोई अधिकार नही मिलता है । पात्रता संबोधित भर्ती/नियोक्ता प्राधिकारी द्वारा अंतिम रूप से प्रमाणित की जाएगी । अभ्यर्थी को आवेदन करने से पहले अपनी योगयता से पूर्णतः संतुष्टि हानेा चाहिए और यदि यह दिए गए योग्यता मापदण्ड के अनुसार आवेदन के लिए योगय नही है तो वे आवेदन न करें और फिर भी आवेदन करतेहै तो इसके लिए अभ्यर्थी स्वयं जिम्मेदार होगा ।

(33) The second ARTE 2019 was conducted on 6.1.2019. In the said examination no minimum cut-off marks was fixed for Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination and the examination was conducted on 6.1.2019 without any such fixation of minimum qualifying marks. After the guideline dated 1.12.2018 was published in which the cut-off marks were not published, Writ Petition No.27461 of 2018 was filed before this Court calling for fixation of cut off marks of ATRE 2019 and the State Government had proceeded with expedition to secure punctilious compliance with orders issued by this Court therein fixing the cut off marks after taking relevant factors into consideration vide Government Order dated 7.1.2019 in exercise of powers conferred under the 1972 Act and Rule 2(1)(x) of the 1981 Rules in accordance with the procedure prescribed upon, which the said writ petition was dismissed as having become infructuous, fixing minimum 65% for general category and 60% for reserve category. The said Government Order dated 7.1.2019 has been assailed by the Shiksha Mitras by filing writ petitions on various grounds.

(34) Learned counsel for the writ petitioners proposed five issues for consideration before the learned Writ Court which read as under:-

"I. Whether the impugned Government Order makes an unreasonable classification by giving different treatment to two groups of identically situated persons appearing in two consecutive examinations?

II. Whether there are valid reason and justification for drastically increasing minimum qualifying marks and whether it has any nexus with the object sought to be achieved.

III. Whether the issuance of impugned Government Order nullifying the beneficial direction of the Hon'ble Apex Court's judgment is permissible in law?

IV. Whether practical working experience is an integral part of merit and whether special provision regarding weightage added in the statute can be nullified by general provisions of Rules?

V. Whether by providing the eligibility marks after holding the written examination the respondents are changing the Rule of game after the game starts?"

(35) The arguments of the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants (respondents in the writ petition) that the examination is a part of recruitment process is entirely misplaced as it is not the case that every candidate who qualifies the second ARTE has to necessarily be appointed as Assistant Teacher and he/she must meet the further criteria laid down under the 1981 Rules and the relevant recruitment advertisement. The learned Writ Court by impugned judgment has observed that no logic is fixed fixing the minimum qualifying marks for ATRE 2019 examination as 65% and 60% respectively.

The qualifying marks have been fixed for examination after completion of examination and there is no justification as to why the cut-off marks have been enhanced from 45% and 40% to 65% and 60% respectively. Relying on Rule 2 (x) of 1981 Rules, it has been observed that the qualifying marks should be 'minimum' and 'minimum' should be seen like 'minimum'. 'Minimum' may not be seen as 'maximum' and allowed the writ petitions vide impugned judgment and order dated 29.3.2019.

(36) Aggrieved by the said order, these Special Appeals have been filed on the ground that the learned Writ Court allowed the writ petitions while mixing the issue of qualifying examinations with the final recruitment, which is yet to commence, as even notification has not yet been issued for the purpose of recruitment by the State Government.

(37) In Special Appeal No. 207 (D) of 2019, Sri Raghvendra Singh, learned Advocate General has submitted that for filling up of 69,000 vacancies of Assistant Teachers in Primary Schools run by the U.P. Basic Education Board, the guidelines/schedule was issued by the State Government on 1.12.2018 for holding the ATRE - 2019. The selection was to be held in terms of 1981 Rules as amended from time to time including Twentieth and Twenty-second amendment. On 6.1.2019, the written examination was held. Thereafter, on 7.1.2019, the State Government determined the minimum qualifying marks of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination as 65% for unreserved category and 60% for reserved category. This order was issued by the Anubhag - 4 of the Basic Education Department determining the minimum qualifying marks as per Rule 2(x) of the Twentieth and Twenty-second amendments made in the 1981 Rules. He submitted that the determination of minimum marks was within the statutory competence of State Government. The increase in the minimum qualifying marks is justified on the ground of change in the pattern of the examination and increase in the number of applicants from approximately 1.07 lakhs in the year 2018 (first ATRE - 2018) to 4.1 lakhs in the year 2019, (second ATRE - 2019) learned Advocate General submits that minimum qualifying marks were increased keeping in view the change in procedure and criteria of examination inasmuch as in the previous selection, the examination was subjective whereas in the current examination, the paper was objective (multiple choice questions) and there is no whisper in rejoinder affidavit that allegedly there is no difference in subjective and objective type of questions. The determination of the quantum of minimum marks on 7.1.2019 is prior to declaration of result which could not have been construed as change in the rules of game. The qualifying marks were increased in order to increase in standard and merit in education. The learned Writ Court has erred in allowing the writ petitions on the premise that fixing the minimum qualifying marks are disadvantageous to Shiksha Mitras and allegedly trying to negate the case of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra).

(38) He further submitted that the order dated 7.1.2019 issued by the Anubhag - 4 was within the statutory competence of the State Government. There is no violation of U.P. Distribution of Work Rules, 1975 (Uttar Pradesh Karya (Batwara) Niyamawali, 1975) and even otherwise, no prejudice can be said to have been caused to the Shiksha Mitras.

According to the learned Advocate General, upholding the judgment of the learned Writ Court would entail appointments of such candidates who would be scoring less marks in written examination and shall consequentially negate the endeavour of the Government to ensure availability of meritorious candidates to be appointed as Teachers in the Primary Schools and the direction of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in para - 33 of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra) is very clear that the Shiksha Mitras have been given certain benefits but that does not mean that they would not secure minimum qualifying marks as fixed on 7.1.2019. He lastly submitted that reasons have been given in the counter affidavit regarding issuance of Government Order dated 7.1.2019 and these aspects were not considered by the learned Writ Court while allowing the writ petitions.

(39) Learned Senior Advocate, Sri Prashant Chandra, appearing for the appellants in Special Appeal No. 165 (D) of 2019 has submitted that the learned Writ Court has erred in treating the process of attaining of eligibility and qualifying the ATRE as recruitment of Teachers. The exercise of holding the ATRE is just for attaining of eligibility (a stage which has not yet been initiated). According to Shri Chandra, the learned Writ Court has misconstrued the eligibility as recruitment. He relying on the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Jharkhand Public Service Commission v. Manoj Kumar Gupta and other, Civil Appeal No.9441 of 2019, vide judgment and order dated 18.12.2019, wherein the Apex Court has held that eligibility tests are not meant for selection to any post but is conducted to determine the eligibility of the candidates for appointment as Lecturers in Universities and Colleges of the State of Jharkhand, has submitted that the learned Writ Court has mixed up the issue of eligibility and recruitment. The recruitment process under the 1981 Rules commences with the issuance of recruitment notification, a stage which has not yet come. Only guidelines for ATRE 2019 were issued on 1.12.2018 and they can by no stretch of imagination be said to be an advertisement for recruitment. They don't have any particulars of the actual recruitment process, such as district wise vacancies, manner of eligibility and recruitment etc. He further submitted that in the case of Jharkhand Public Service Commission v. Manoj Kumar Gupta (supra), the Apex Court has held that the State is free to determine the cut-off marks even after the examination has been held and the same does not amount to change in the rules of the game.

(40) He has drawn our attention to the recent decision of the Apex Court in the case of Municipal Corporation of Delhi v. Surendra Singh and others [(2019) 8 SCC 67], wherein the Apex Court while dealing with an identical situation of recruitment of Teachers, where cut-off marks was not prescribed in the advertisement, but later prescribed, after examination has been conducted, held that if the employer fixes the cut-off position, the same is not to be tinkered with unless it is totally irrational or tainted with mala fides.

(41) He further submitted that reducing the qualifying mark shall not only compromise on the merit, but also extend an unfair advantage to the Shiksha Mitras, somehow grabbing which is the sole intent behind the present lis. Therefore, any reduction in cut-off shall be detrimental to public interest as it will lead to the eventual appointment of Shiksha Mitras who, admittedly, are not sufficiently meritorious to qualify the ATRE at the qualifying marks determined by the Government. The children of India have a fundamental right to be taught by a duly qualified Teacher and the nation as a whole shall suffer if the minimum qualification is done away with.

(42) He next submitted that once the Shiksha Mitras attain the minimum qualification, they shall form a class of persons and indisputably, the benefit under the Anand Kumar Yadav case (supra) shall be extended to them at that stage. Until they do, there is no scope for any relaxation in a condition which has been uniformly applied to all candidates by the State Government in exercise of its powers under law.

(43) He also pointed out that the learned Writ Court has erred in holding that as the 1981 Rules did not envisage the recruitment of B.Ed. candidates to the post of Assistant Teacher (and provided for their appointment only to the post of Trainee Teacher), and as the Appendix - I did not provide a mechanism to lay down the procedure for calculating the quality point marks of B.Ed. candidates, hence the participation of the B.Ed. candidates in the ATRE - 2019 was bad.

(44) Lastly, he submitted that 1981 Rules have been amended well-in-time, prior to commencement of recruitment process to provide for recruitment of B.Ed. candidates directly to the post of Assistant Teacher, subject to them undergoing a post-appointment training, strictly in accordance with law and as prescribed by the NCTE. These changes have been brought about by the Twenty-Third amendment dated 29.1.2019, Twenty-fourth amendment dated 7.3.2019 and Twenty-fifth amendment dated 14.6.2019. By these amendments, the concept of 'trainee teacher' has entirely been done away with in accordance with the amendment issued by the NCTE and Appendix - I has also been amended to set-out the manner of calculating the quality point marks of B.Ed. candidates. With these arguments, he submitted that the reasoning assigned by the learned Writ Court while quashing the Government Order dated 7.1.2019 is contrary to the law laid down by the Apex Court in the cases of Municipal Corporation of Delhi v. Surender Singh and others [(2019) 8 SCC 67], Jharkhand Public Service Commission v. Manoj Kumar Gupta, Civil Appeal No.9441 of 2019 and Kul Bhushan Mishra and others v. State of U.P. and others [(2019) 2 ADJ 442] and prayed that Special Appeal No.165 (D) of 2019 be allowed by setting aside the impugned order.

(45) Sri S. K. Kalia, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the appellants in Special Appeal No.157 of 2019 has submitted that the learned Writ Court was of the view that Shiksha Mitras who appeared in the ATRE of 2018 and 2019 constitute one class and as such, fixation of different qualifying marks in the two examinations (ATRE - 2018 and ATRE - 2019) violates the principle of equality as intelligible differentia for classification between the two categories who appeared in the years 2018 and 2019 and prescription of qualifying marks in the two examinations violates the principle of equality as there is no reasonable nexus between the intelligible differentia and object sought to be achieved for classification. He submitted that the submission on behalf of the writ petitioners is absolutely untenable in the eyes of law because the candidates who appeared in 2018 (first ATRE - 2018) examination in pursuance of the Government Order dated 9.1.2018 and those who appeared in 2019 (second ATRE - 2019) examination in pursuance of the Government Order dated 1.12.2018 do not constitute one class. In both the Government Orders, in clause 1 (kha), it has been clearly mentioned that the said examination is valid only for the recruitment of that particular year.

(46) His submission is that as per the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra), 'Shiksha Mitras' were given an opportunity to appear in two consecutive examinations for recruitment in accordance with the advertisements dated 9.1.2018 (ATRE - 2018) and 1.12.2018 (ATRE - 2019), and as such, conditions of advertisements of both examinations have become relevant and candidates who appeared in pursuance of the said advertisement had to abide by the conditions of the advertisement.

(47) He next submitted that in furtherance and compliance of the judgment of the Apex Court, the State Government amended (Twentieth) the 1981 Rules vide notification dated 9.11.2017 and both the Government Orders provide age relaxation to the Shiksha Mitras upto the age of 60 years to appear in the examination and as such, there is no different treatment to the Shiksha Mitras in the examination. The appellants of Special Appeal No.157 of 2019 are possessing all requisite qualifications provided in the Government Order dated 1.12.2018 and for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher, they are Graduates having B.T.C. Training Certificate and have also passed the T.E.T. and they were fully eligible in accordance with the Rules and as per Government Order and the advertisement and as such, they appeared in the examination.

(48) Similarly, candidates having B.Ed. degree which was introduced in the eligibility conditions in the Government Order dated 1.12.2018 [clause 4 (2)], in pursuance of the notification of NCTE dated 28.6.2018, also appeared in the said examination and about 4,10,000 candidates appeared in the said examination which was held on 6.1.2019. He has drawn our attention towards paras 8 and 9 of the counter affidavit of the State Government and submitted that the State Government had justified its decision to prescribe higher cut-off marks in 2019 ATRE examination because the pattern of examinations of ATRE 2018 and ATRE 2019 was different. In 2018 examination, the candidates had to give short answers to the questions and in 2019 examination, it was objective based on OMR sheets and as such, the same was high scoring and if the findings of the learned Writ Court that both the examinations should be conducted in the same manner is to be upheld, then it vitiates the examination of 2019 itself and the reasoning is absolutely untenable.

(49) He also pointed out that the State Government also mentioned in its counter affidavit while justifying the higher cut-off marks that in 2018 ATRE examination only 1,07,000 candidates appeared against 68,500 vacancies whereas in 2019 ATRE examination, 4,10,000 candidates appeared against 69,000 vacancies and as such, it was absolutely justified on the part of the State Government to take these factors into account for determining the qualifying marks.

(50) Lastly, he has submitted that inclusion of B.Ed. candidates in the field of eligibility in 2019 examination was not challenged and was not in issue before the learned Writ Court and as such, the observations made in the impugned judgment are just obiter dicta and cannot be held to hold that examination was being conducted only for Shiksha Mitras because B.Ed. candidates could not be considered. The appellants who were not the Shiksha Mitras and who were possessing the relevant qualification as provided in the 1981 Rules and in the Government Order were eligible to appear and they appeared without any challenge. Similarly, the B.Ed. candidates have appeared without any challenge and such finding based on the said fact of classification and discrimination is absolutely unfounded. Fixation of qualifying marks for passing the examination is within the domain of the State Government under the 1981 Rules and the learned Writ Court could not have fixed the qualifying marks for declaration of result as has been done by the learned Writ Court and therefore, the judgment is not sustainable in the eyes of law and prayed that the same be set aside with a direction that the result of examination be declared as per Government Order dated 7.1.2019.

(51) Sri J. N. Mathur, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the appellants in Special Appeal No.158 of 2019 has submitted that the Apex Court in the case of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra) had left open for the State Government to take a decision with respect to granting of some kind of weightage in marks to the Shiksha Mitras for their experience and further provided that they shall be eligible to appear in two consecutive selection processes for the post of Assistant Teacher wherein the State Government shall take a decision regarding age relaxation to the Shiksha Mitras.

(52) He has also pointed out that the ATRE - 2019 was based on a different pattern as it only had multiple choice questions where the candidates had to select the correct answer out of four options. In contrast, the ATRE - 2018 had short answer type questions where the candidates had to write a couple of sentences on the topics given, therefore, while the ATRE - 2019 was objective in pattern and style to be completed in 2 1/2 hours, ATRE - 2018 was subjective in pattern to be completed in 3 hours. The State Government, taking into consideration the aforesaid contrast in the pattern of examination and the substantial increase in the number of candidates participating in the ATRE - 2019, took a conscious decision to fix the minimum qualifying marks at 65% for unreserved category and 60% for reserved category candidates vide Government Order dated 7.1.2019. He has drawn our attention to the rejoinder affidavit wherein the respondents had admitted before the learned Writ Court that the pattern of examination had changed in the ATRE - 2019, but the said change in the pattern of examination was never assailed by any candidate and all writ petitioners had appeared in the ATRE - 2019 examination held on 6.1.2019 without any protest or demur. He submitted that no prejudice was caused to the original writ petitioners by issuance of Government Order dated 7.1.2019 which was applicable to all candidates who had participated in the ATRE - 2019 examination.

(53) Per contra, Sri H. N. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Agnihotri Kumar Tripathi, Sri Upendra Nath Mishra, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Amit Kumar Singh Bhadauriya, and Dr. L. P. Mishra with Sri Avadesh Shukla, learned Counsels in support of the impugned judgment and order passed by the learned Writ Court, have submitted that since the Government

Order dated 7.1.2019 was found to be hit by the vice of unreasonable classification and no reason has been given for introducing such sharp increase in the minimum qualification mark, the learned Writ Court has rightly quashed the same holding that the same is violative of Article 14 of the Constitution as it makes an unreasonable classification by giving different treatment to two groups of identically situated Shiksha Mitras appearing in two consecutive ATRE examinations and there is no valid reason and justification for increasing the minimum qualifying marks, the State Government issued Government Order dated 7.1.2019 just to nullify the benefit of weightage given by the Apex Court in the case of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra). They further submitted that no explanation has been given as to how 'participation of B.Ed. trained candidates' in ATRE - 2019 for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher has been made directly, instead of Trainee Teacher, though minimum qualification for participation of B.Ed. candidates directly for Assistant Teachers was suitably amended only by Twenty-Third and Twenty-Fourth amendments of the Rules on 24.1.2019 and 7.3.2019 respectively.

(54) In respect of unreasonable classification, they submitted that vide Twenty-Second amendment in the 1981 Rules on 15.3.2018, second proviso to Rule 14(3)(a) read with Appendix - I for creating a statutory legal right in favour of Shiksha Mitra, for getting weightage of 2.5 marks per year subject to a maximum of 25 marks towards their service experience and the same was applicable only on those Shiksha Mitra, who had successfully acquired T.E.T. qualification and they were approximately 50,000 in number out of 1,37,500 Shiksha Mitras and they constitute a homogeneous class in itself as they were entitled to be given 'two consecutive opportunities of recruitment' as Assistant Teacher. All these T.E.T. qualified Shiksha Mitras were entitled to get the same treatment and benefits without any difference. The State Government issued an advertisement vide Government Order dated 9.1.2018 in respect of 68,500 vacancies. In the said examination, as per clause 7 (1) and (2) minimum qualifying marks for ATRE - 2018 was 45% for general category and 40% for reserve category. Result of ATRE - 2018 was declared on 13.8.2018 in which 41556 candidates were declared passed and pursuant to the result of re-evaluation being declared 4500 and odd candidates were also declared passed. In ATRE - 2018 examination, only half of Shiksha Mitras would have been selected and appointed as Assistant Teachers and the remaining half would have again been compelled to appear in the second ATRE - 2019 and an advertisement was published on 1.12.2018, the examination of which was held on 6.1.2019 and immediately on the next day, the impugned Government Order dated 7.1.2019 was issued by which the minimum qualifying marks were arbitrarily increased to 65% for unreserved category candidates and 60% for reserved category candidates just to deprive the Shiksha Mitras to get the benefit of weightage of 25 marks for their experience at the time of their selection. Vide Government Order dated 7.1.2019, the Government treated the Shiksha Mitras who had appeared in the ATRE - 2019 examination as different class, whereas in terms of the order passed by the Apex Court, all the T.E.T. qualified Shiksha Mitras were entitled to apply for two consecutive recruitments after getting the benefit of weightage and thus, the State Government has resorted to hostile discrimination and unreasonable classification amongst similarly situated Shiksha Mitras which was rightly struck down by the learned Writ Court.

(55) It is further submitted that apart from changing minimum qualification for the post of 'Assistant Teacher', the procedure for appointment of 'trainee teacher', contained in Rule 14(1)(c) and 14(1)(d), was deleted, though the provisions of 'trainee teacher' contained in Rule 2(u) and 8(2)(b) in the 1981 Rules were still maintained. Therefore, the B.Ed. qualification, despite Twenty-Third amendment, could not have been included in the process of evaluation for the post of 'Assistant Teacher' under Appendix - I. The rules of selection cannot be altered or amended, after the commencement of selection process and the rules regarding qualification for appointment, if altered or amended, during the continuation of the process of selection, would not affect the same.

(56) They further submitted that retrospective amendment in the 1981 Rules has been made by the State Government in violation of Section 19 of the Act only to justify illegal participation of B.Ed. in ATRE - 2019. Twenty-Third amendment of the 1981 Rules was introduced on 24.1.2019 for minimum qualification of the candidates participating in the ATRE - 2019 with inclusion of B.Ed. candidates with six months' training, that too, after holding the examination under Rule 8(2)(a) with retrospective effect from 1.1.2018. Twenty-Fourth amendment of the 1981 Rules was introduced on 7.3.2019 with effect from 28.6.2018, i.e., the date of NCTE notification and not with effect from 1.1.2018. Both Twenty-Third and Twenty-Fourth amendments of the 1981 Rules were brought with retrospective effect by the State Government to protect the participation of B.Ed. candidates in ATRE - 2019 examination. Twenty-Fifth amendment was introduced on 14.6.2019 whereby Appendix - I was amended (so as to include B.Ed. candidates and accordingly, Appendix - II modified).

(57) They have further submitted that all the three amendments cannot apply on ATRE - 2019 examination in view of the specific provisions contained in para - 4(1) of the statutory guidelines dated 1.12.2018 prepared under Rule 2(y) of the 1981 Rules which says that the ATRE - 2019 examination shall be held only as per Twenty-Second amendment of the 1981 Rules as these three amendments with retrospective effect are evidently beyond the Rule making powers of the State, contained in Section 19 of the 1972 Act as it does not confer any power of retrospective amendment in the 1981 Rules.

(58) Lastly, they submitted that fixation of minimum qualifying marks for ATRE - 2019 was merely a mechanical and arbitrary exercise of power, without any application of mind. Therefore, the learned Writ Court considered all these aspects of the matter and quashed the Government Order dated 7.1.2019 as the State Government has no explanation for conscious and deliberate use of the word 'minimum' by wrongly interpreting in Rule 2(x) of the 1981 Rules. With these submissions, they pray for dismissal of Special Appeals.

(59) Having heard the learned Senior Counsels for the parties and with their assistance perused the materials available on record of the case, we find merit in this batch of appeals and in our opinion, all these appeals deserve to be allowed.

(60) From perusal of the dictum of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra), it is apparent that the Apex Court was clear in its directive that 'mandatory qualifications' for appointment as Assistant Teacher prescribed under law cannot be dispensed with in any case and for anyone and the Shiksha Mitras must obtain the prescribed minimum qualification on their own merit, in the same manner as any other candidate and no special rights, relaxation or benefit can be claimed by them until they possess the prescribed minimum qualification. Only once a Shiksha Mitra acquires the 'requisite qualification in terms of the advertisement for recruitment', he/she may be extend certain benefits like 'weightage', 'age relaxation' and recruitment for next two consecutive recruitments in view of their experience. In Kul Bhushan Misra's case (supra), the Division Bench found that the Shiksha Mitras cannot claim the benefits under the Anand Kumar Yadav's case (supra) before they hold the prescribed minimum qualification and qualify the ATRE and come within the zone of eligibility for being considered for appointment as Assistant Teacher. The Division Bench was of the view that weightage was not contemplated to be added to the marks obtained by a person in the ATRE.

(61) The law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra), as discussed in the preceding paragraphs, it is crystal clear that the benefit would be available only at the time of recruitment, once they hold the prescribed minimum qualifications and their names are published in the merit list prepared under Rule 14 (2) of the 1981 Rules. There is no doubt that once Shiksha Mitras acquire requisite qualifications in terms of the advertisement for recruitment they may be extended benefit of weightage of marks for next two consecutive recruitments in view of their experience. The Apex Court nowhere provided that the Shiksha Mitras shall constitute a homogeneous class apart from the other fully qualified candidates participating in the selection process.

(62) During the pendency of these appeals, the Apex Court vide its order dated 16.1.2020 in the case of Bhola Prasad Shukla and others v. Union of India and others, Petition(s) for Special Leave to Appeal (C) No (s). 14621/2019, considered the matter of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra) and further clarified that no special benefit is available to the Shiksha Mitras until they obtain minimum qualifications prescribed under law and only those who are otherwise qualified shall be considered for such selection after extending to them the benefit as contemplated in para 33 of the decision in Anand Kumar Yadav (supra). In Bhola Prasad Shukla (supra) the Apex Court repelled the entitlement of Shiksha Mitras to be paid equivalent to the regularly appointed Teachers and was pleased to direct the State of U.P. to complete all requirements to be made in furtherance of the decision of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra) within six months from 16.1.2020. Relevant part of the order passed by the Apex Court on 16.1.2020 reads as under:-

"Thus, on two counts, benefit was extended to the present incumbents who are working as Shiksha Mitras. In the recruitment process undertaken by the Sate, such incumbents would be entitled to age relaxation as well as some weightage for experience as Sikash Mitras. What weightage ought to be given was completely left to the authorities. However, considering the exigencies of the situation and particularly the fact that primary education in the State ought not to suffer, the State was given liberty to take services of present incumbents on same terms on which the persons were working prior to their absorption.

In keeping with the directions issued by this Court, a circular was issued by the State Government on 20.09.2017. Para 4 of the Circular adverted to the decision taken at the government level and said para 4 was as under:-

"4. In this regard, I have been directed to say that in compliance of order dated 25.07.2017 passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in SLP (C) No.32599/2015, State of U.P. & Ors. vs. Anand Kr. Yadav & Ors, the following decision have been taken after consideration on the present facts on the government level:-

(1) By order dated 25.07.2017 passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in SLP (C) No.32599/2015, State of U.P. & Ors. vs. Anand Kr. Yadav & Ors., the retrenched Shiksha Mitras be paid the pay of Assistant Teacher till the 31.07.2017 by appointing them from the date 01.08.2017 in the Councils Primary Schools for the education purpose.

(2) In compliance of order dated 25.07.2017 of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, issued government order No.225379-5-14-282/98, dated 19.06.2014/79-5-15-3031/15 TC dated 22.12.2015 for absorption of previous Shiksha Mitras to the Council Primary Schools on the post of Assistant Teachers and in this regard, issued other government orders are set aside.

(3) In compliance of order dated 25.07.2017 of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in SLP (C) No.32599/2015, employed and working total 1,65,157 Shiksha Mitras in the Council Primary Schools be paid the fixed pay of Rs.10,000/- per months till 41 months, from 01.08.2017."

Thus a decision was taken to continue 1,65,157 Shiksha Mitras who were working in Primary Schools, for 41 months at fixed pay of Rs.10,000/- per month.

It was submitted by Mr. V. Shekhar and Dr. Manish Singhvi, learned Senior Advocates as well as by other learned counsel that recommendation was made by Project Approval Board on 15.03.2017 recommending, inter alia, salary and emoluments in the sum of Rs.38,870/- for Primary Teachers appointed on Contractual Basis. The submission was that Shiksha Mitras who are being continued under the present dispensation ought to be paid the salary and emoluments in the sum as recommended by the Project Approval Board.

The basic question which engaged the attention of this Court was whether persons who do not have the requisite qualifications, could be appointed as Teachers. The premise, therefore, was clear that the persons who were appointed for Shiksha Mitras did not have the requisite qualifications. The only sequitor therefore, could be that such persons would not be entitled to retain their posts. However, considering the fact that large number of persons were appointed as Shiksha Mitras and the State would take some reasonable time to switch over and make regular appointments, the liberty was given to the State to continue the services of the present incumbents on the same terms.

Since the Shiksha Mitras were not regularly appointed and qualified Teachers, it would not be proper to extend to them the same pay scales as is now being canvassed or projected. However, considering the entirety of the matter, in our view, the ends of justice would be met, directions as stated hereinafter are called for:

We have been given to understand that since the decision of this Court in State of U.P. Vs. Anand Kr. Yadav, selection process was undertaken to fill up approximately 69,000 vacancies in the Primary Schools in the State, in which selection process about 41,500 teachers were selected.

The record is not clear whether any Shiksha Mitras availing the benefit extended by this Court, were selected or not. But considering the large number of Shiksha Mitras, the State must undertake further selection process(s) as early as possible so that all the qualified Shiksha Mitras who are otherwise aspiring to be regularly selected teachers may have an opportunity available to complete in the process subject to the benefits already extended to them.

We, therefore, direct the State Government to initiate the process for selection, after assessing the actual number of vacancies, as early as possible and preferably six weeks from today and conclude the selection process within six months thereafter.

All Shiksha Mitras who are otherwise qualified shall be considered for such selection after extending to them the benefit as contemplated in Para 33 of the decision in (2018) 13 SCC 560.

It shall open to the State Government to consider and devise a weightage formula. We may, by way of example, suggest that for every four years of experience, the State may consider extending the benefit of one per cent. This is only by way of a suggestion. The matter is completely left to the discretion of the State and its authorities.

With the aforesaid directions, these SLPs are disposed of.

All applications for intervention/impleadment are also disposed of in same terms."

(63) To extend the benefit to all the Shiksha Mitras as per para 33 of the decision in Anand Kumar Yadav (supra), the State Government issued a Circular on 20.9.2017. Para - 4 of the Circular has been quoted in the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Bhola Prasad Shukla & others Vs Union of India & Ors. (supra) which we have reproduced in the preceding paragraphs. The State Government thereafter took a decision and introduced the relevant provision regarding benefit of grant of weightage to the Shiksha Mitras in the 1981 Rules vide Twentieth Amendment, which provides that Shiksha Mitras shall get extra marks for their past experience at the rate of 2.5 marks per completed teaching year upto maximum 25 marks whichever is lesser.

(64) By Twentieth amendment, 1981 Rules were amended. The weightage of maximum 25 marks on the basis of teaching experience of 10 years is not liable to be accorded at the stage of computation of marks obtained by a candidate in the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination as held by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Kul Bhuahan Mishra (supra).

(65) From perusal of 1981 Rules, as amended, makes it crystal clear that ATRE is only a qualifying examination and not a part of the recruitment process. The benefit of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra) shall be available to the Shiksha Mitras only during the process of recruitment which will start once they qualify ATRE by scoring the prescribed qualifying marks and until they do so, they cannot stake a claim to such weightage. The statutory guidelines for conducting second ATRE - 2019 issued on 1.12.2018 makes it clear that the ATRE is only a minimum qualification and by qualifying ATRE, no candidate shall stake a claim for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher.

(66) The exercise of holding the ATRE - 2019 is just for attaining of eligibility in order to be able to apply and to be considered for recruitment, a stage which has not yet been initiate because after declaration of the result ATRE - 2019, on the basis of minimum marks, as mentioned in the Government Order dated 7.1.2019, the result would be declared.

(67) The Apex Court in the case of Jharkhand Public Service Commission Vs. Manoj Kumar Gupta (supra) has held that eligibility tests are not meant for selection to any post but is conducted to determine the eligibility of the candidates for appointment as Lecturers. Relying on the aforesaid principles, we are of the view that the guidelines for conducting ATRE - 2019 issued under Rule 2 (y) of 1981 Rules on 1.12.2018 are not for advertisement of recruitment, i.e., only for qualification for recruitment. Once the Shiksha Mitras attain the minimum qualification, they shall form a class of persons and the benefit of judgment of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra) shall be extended to them, at that stage. At this stage, there is no scope for relaxing any condition which has been uniformly applied to all candidates.

(68) In exercise of powers under law, guidelines were issued on 1.12.2018 for qualifying the ATRE - 2019 examination in which no cut-off marks were notified. Accordingly, Writ Petition No.27461 of 2018 was filed for fixation of cut-off marks and the State Government has proceeded to fix cut-off marks, vide Government Order dated 7.1.2019, taking relevant factors into consideration and in exercise of powers conferred under the Act and Rule 2 (i)(x) of the 1981 Rules. As there was substantial increase in the number of candidates who appeared in ATRE - 2019 examination on account of NCTE notification dated 28.6.2018 and the State Government, in exercise of powers conferred under 1981 Rules, modified the pattern of examination from subjective to objective, took a conscious decision that only students who qualify for the ATRE - 2019 examination vide Government Order dated 7.1.2019 shall have sufficiently meritorious to be appointed on the post of Assistant Teacher in the State.

(69) The finding of the learned Writ Court that minimum qualifying marks were neither prescribed in the Government Order nor in the advertisement and as such, it cannot be provided subsequently is absolutely untenable in the teeth of Rule 2 (x) of 1981 Rules which empowers the State Government to determine the minimum marks from time to time. The aforesaid Rule does not provide that minimum qualifying marks are to be provided before the examination starts. On the other hand, without fixation of qualifying marks result cannot be declared and one cannot be said to have been passed the examination without scoring the qualifying marks. Further, Rule 2 (x) is not under challenge and as such, the Government was fully competent to prescribe the cut-off marks for passing 'ARTE'.

(70) In the previous examination (first ATRE - 2018), the State Government had prescribed the qualifying marks as is evident from Clause 7 (1) and (2) of instructions dated 1.12.2018 and the order was issued by the 'Shiksha Anubhag 11' of Government which business is now performed by the 'Shiksha Anubhag 4' and this aspect has not been considered by the learned Writ Court while assigning the reasoning in the impugned judgment, wherein the learned Writ Court observed that the order dated 7.1.2019 prescribing qualifying marks for the 'ARTE' has not been issued under any provision of RTE Act and is also not issued by the competent section of the Education Department of the Government, i.e., 'Shiksha Anubhag - 5', the same having been issued by 'Shiksha Anubhag - 4', and as such, the same cannot be treated the order of Government is nothing but a misconceived notion because in the first ATRE examination of 2018, guidelines were issued by 'Shiksha Anubhag - 11' which business has now been allocated to 'Shiksha Anubhag - 4' vide Government Order dated 6.6.2018. Even otherwise, the order of Government is referable to Article 166 of the Constitution and direct compliance of the same is not mandatory and it is only directory and any short-coming in that does not make the order nullity. The order dated 7.1.2019 has been issued by the Competent Section (Basic Education Section - 4) as such, there is no infirmity in any manner and thus we reject the submission of writ petitioners.

(71) In Anand Kumar Yadav (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court merely provided that the Shiksha Mitras shall be given an opportunity to participate in the selection process at hand in two consecutive selections, irrespective of age while being given benefit of age relaxation as determined by the State Government, in an open and transparent selection process along with other duly qualified candidates and it nowhere provided that the Shiksha Mitras shall constitute a homogeneous class apart from other duly qualified candidates participating in the selection process. The Hon'ble Supreme Court while keeping in mind the interest of the school children held that the regularization of unqualified Shiksha Mitras on the post of Assistant Teacher was illegal as the school children whose interests, though were not duly represented, had a right to obtain quality education from duly qualified teachers under the provisions of Right to Education Act and gave due importance to the merit of the candidates who are ultimately going to be appointed on the post of Assistant Teacher as the ultimate losers would be the small primary school children if the merit is compromised in the selection process.

(72) As a common parlance, qualifying marks are prescribed after the examination is conducted as the Recruiting Authority is in a position to assess how the candidates have performed and determine the benchmark keeping in mind the number of vacancies. The State Government rightly in the advertisement dated 1.12.2018 did not declare the cut-off marks for qualifying the ATRE - 2019.

(73) Thus, the arguments of the writ petitioners and finding recorded by the learned Writ Court that the increase in cut-off marks from 45% and 40% to 65% and 60% by the Government Order dated 7.1.2019 is nullifying the beneficial direction of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Anand Kumar Yadav (supra) has no legs to stand, and is pre-mature as the benefit is available only at the time of recruitment, once they hold the prescribed minimum qualifications and their names are published in the merit list prepared under Rule 14 (2) of the 1981 Rules.

(74) In respect of eligibility of B.Ed., candidates, there was no pleading but it was extensively argued by the respondents (original writ petitioners) that B.Ed. candidates are ineligible and their participation in the ATRE - 2019 was illegal and learned Writ Court in the impugned judgment has very categorically observed that there is no challenge in any of the writ petitions for inclusion of B.Ed. candidates but considered the issue and has held that there was no quality point marks provided for the candidates who are having B.Ed. qualification, therefore, their inclusion in the examination was unwarranted. In order to appreciate the aforesaid, we are reproducing the relevant paragraphs of the impugned judgement here-in-below:-

122. It is true that pursuant to notification dated 28.06.2018 of National Council of Teachers Education (N.C.T.E.), the B.Ed. candidates may very well appear in the examination of A.T.R.E. but those persons will have to complete six months bridge course in elementary education within two years of such appointment as Primary Teacher. Meaning thereby, the Assistant Teachers who are having B.Ed. degree and does not undergo six months bridge course in elementary education recognized by N.C.T.E. within two years of the appointment shall no longer remain Assistant Teacher, however, who are possessing B.T.C. qualification need not to undergo such exercise. The aforesaid fact make the difference between the status of the teachers having B.T.C. qualification and having B.Ed. qualification. Earlier, the persons having B.Ed. qualification could have been appointed on the post of 'Trainee Teachers' but pursuant to the notification dated 28.06.2018 issued by the N.C.T.C. those teachers may be appointed as Primary Teachers. Such type of persons were not permitted in earlier examination i.e. A.T.R.E.-2018 but have been permitted in the present examination i.e. A.T.R.E-2019 on the basis of decision of the State Government. Since there is no challenge for inclusion of 'B.Ed. candidates etc., therefore, this Court, however, is not indulging in the said issue, but one query of the Court has not been satisfied by any of the counsel for the opposite parties as to how the quality point marks of the candidates having B.Ed. qualification may be calculated on the basis of Appendix-I inasmuch as those candidates may not be getting any marks for item No.4 i.e. marks for B.T.C. qualification and item No.6 i.e. marks for weightage which can only be provided to the Shiksha Mitras. The complete scenario of the examination in question creates unexplained confusion, therefore, the same may be looked into in the fitness of things of the present issue.

153. Perusal of the aforesaid legal provision makes it clear that since there is a statutory prescription in the Rule for providing weightage, therefore, said statutory prescription may not be ignored and that weightage may only be given to Shiksha Mitras. Rule 14 (3) (b) provides prescription in respect of B.Ed. candidates etc. and whose merit list shall be arranged in accordance with quality points as per Appendix-II and admittedly, in the present selection the quality points shall be determined as per Appendix-I, therefore, it appears that in the present selection inclusion of B.Ed. candidates is unwarranted, however no one has assailed the inclusion of B.Ed. candidates by means of batch of these writ petitions.

154. It is true that there is no challenge in any of the writ petitions that the inclusion of B.Ed. candidates is unwarranted and uncalled for and they may not be selected getting quality point marks as per Appendix-I, but circumstances under which the aforesaid anomaly has been committed by the State Government has nowhere been explained in the counter affidavit or by way of argument.

168. I also find favour in the submission of Sri U.N. Misra that it cannot be comprehended as to what is the object of enhancing minimum qualifying marks from 45% to 65% for Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination when it is only a qualifying examination. Mr. U.N. Misra has rightly submitted that if the averment of the counter affidavit is believed to be correct, the said enhancement has been made to select the best available candidates, then who are the best candidates, as per State-respondent. Since the inclusion of B.Ed. candidates have been made in the present examination, therefore, it appears that the enhancement has been made to oust the Shiksha Mitras from the selection in question and to select the B.Ed. candidates. If it is the intention of the State-respondent to enhance the minimum qualifying marks, then it would be violative to the rules itself which categorically provides that the Shiksha Mitras would be getting 25 marks as weightage.

178. Besides, the counsel for the State-respondent could not convince as to how the quality points marks of B.Ed. candidates would be determined / calculated as per Appendix -I when these B.Ed. candidates would not be getting any marks for item no. 4 [marks of B.T.C.] and item no. 6 [weightage of 25 marks]. If these B.Ed. candidates are given quality point marks as per Appendix -II, they can easily get marks for all the items but quality points marks for this examination would be calculated as per Appendix-I.

179. This Court is unable to comprehend the rationale behind it but since this particular point has not been directly assailed, therefore, no order on this point needs to be issued.

180. However, it clearly reveals that neither the Board of Basic Education nor the State Government has carried out proper exercise before conducting selection in question permitting B.Ed. candidates in the present selection in question which increased the number of aspirants drastically without deciding the method for calculating their quality points marks, without determining the vacancies for them as B.Ed. candidates are different from B.T.C. candidates, enhancing the minimum qualifying marks for the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination-2019 by way of G.O. dated 7.1.2019 and conducting Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination-2019 differently from Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination-2018 whereas the State Government was to conduct two examinations in a same manner as per dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court. This unexplained anomaly may convince this Court to quash the entire selection process but keeping in view the fact that large number of candidates have already appeared in selection process, therefore, this Court is only examining/ testing the fitness of Government Order dated 7.1.2019."

(75) The minimum qualification for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher was prescribed by the NCTE in exercise of its powers under the RTE Act vide notification dated 23.8.2010 which provides that a person with B.Ed. qualification shall also be eligible for appointment for Class I to V provided he/she undergoes, after appointment an NCTE recognized six months special programme in elementary education. This benefit was extended upto 1.1.2012 by the NCTE. Relevant paragraph of the notification reads as under:-.

"3 Training to be undergone - A person --

(a) With B.A/B.Sc. with at least 50% marks and B.Ed. qualification shall also be eligible for appointment for class I to V upto 1st

January, 2012, provided he undergoes, after appointment, an NCTE recognized 6-months special programme in Elementary Education."

(76) Thereafter, the State of Uttar Pradesh vide its letter dated 26.7.2012 submitted a proposal to the Central Government for relaxation of the conditions referred to in clause 3(i)(a) and accordingly vide its notification dated 10.9.2012 the Central Government granted relaxation upto 31.3.2014 subject to inter alia the conditions that (i) the State Government shall conduct the TET as specified in the notification dated 23.8.2010, as amended from time to time and those persons who passed the TET shall be considered for appointment as a teacher and (ii) the State Government shall amend the Recruitment Rules so as to provide for minimum qualifications required for appointment of teaches laid down under the said notification as amended from time to time.

(77) After relaxation granted by the Central Government vide notification dated 10.9.2012, the NCTE issued a notification dated 28.6.2018 amending the master notification dated 23.8.2010 formally including B.Ed. qualified candidates as being eligible for appointment as a Teacher in Classes I to V, subject to them undergoing six months bridge course in elementary education recognized by the NCTE, post-appointment and within two years thereof. Relevant portion of the notification dated 28.6.2018 reads as under:-

"(1) In the said notification, in para 1 in sub-para (i), in clause (a) after the words the brackets "Graduation and two year Diploma in Elementary Education (by whatever name known), the following shall be inserted,

OR

"Graduation with at least 50% marks and Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.)"

2. In the said notification in para 3, sub-para (a), the following sub-para shall be substituted namely:-

"(a) who has acquired the qualification of Bachelor of Education from any NCTE recognized institution shall be considered for appointment as a teacher in classes I to V provided the person so appointed as a teacher shall mandatorily undergo a six month Bridge Course in Elementary Education recognized by the NCTE, within two years of such appointment as primary teacher."

(78) The Hon'ble Apex Court has laid down in a catena of judgments that the State Government can prescribe any qualification for teaching posts over and above the minimum qualification prescribed by NCTE. In Pardeep Kumar and Ors. Vs. State of Haryana and Ors. [2017 (1) SCT 799 (P&H)], the Hon'ble Court held:-

"15. It is self-evident from the NCTE notification dated 29.07.2011 that the qualifications laid down by it for appointment of a Teacher or that of a Principal are "minimum qualifications". NCTE has recommended Senior Secondary i.e. 10+2 with two years' Diploma in Elementary Education as the minimum qualification for the post of Teacher for Classes I to V. As an alternative qualification, it has also recommended "Graduation with two year Diploma in Elementary Education" as the minimum qualification. The State Government, however, with a view to improve the quality education, has enhanced the minimum qualification from 10+2 to Bachelor of Fine Arts/B.A. instead of 10+2 along with two-years' Diploma in Elementary Education. Such higher qualification neither is in conflict with nor does it offend the recommendations made by NCTE for a minimum qualification. The expression "minimum" leaves no room to doubt that the NCTE did not want any State Government to prescribe qualification for teaching posts lower than those recommended by it. None of the notifications issued by NCTE says or can be construed as an embargo on the powers of the State Government to prescribe a qualification higher than the one recommended by it. There is no judicial pronouncement as claimed by the petitioners' counsel that states that the States are incompetent to prescribe qualification higher than the "minimum" prescribed by NCTE. The first and second questions are thus answered against the petitioners."

(79) In State of U.P. and others v. Bhupendra Nath Tripathi and others [2010 (5) ESC 630], the Hon'ble Apex Court held:

"The State in its discretion is entitled to prescribe such qualifications as it may consider appropriate for candidates seeking admission into BTC course so long as the qualifications so prescribed are not lower than those prescribed by or under the NCTE Act. The State can always prescribe higher qualification."

(80) The Hon'ble Apex Court has approved the holding of an eligibility examination by the State of U.P. in the case of State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Shiv Kumar Pathak [(2018) 12 SCC 595] settling the position that TET qualified candidates who wish to apply for appointment of teacher must necessarily qualify the State Teacher Eligibility Test as well, in the following words:

"Appropriate Government may in its own wisdom decide as to the eligible candidates on the basis of having qualified the Central Teachers Eligibility Test. However, education being the subject matter of concurrent list of the power to frame appropriate legislation/regulations/rules works with the appropriate legislature of the State Government and as such State Government is well within as rights to prescribe the qualification of eligibility in the form that the candidates wanting to apply for the said post must necessarily qualify the Teachers Eligibility Test of said State. There would be no illegality (sic) in the same and merely because a state government had failed to conduct the State Teachers Eligibility Test (STET) in a given year would not amount to taking a decision not to hold the exams and to hold the candidates having qualified Central Teacher Eligibility Test as eligible."

(81) By virtue of the amendment in the NCTE notification dated 23.8.2010 on 28.6.2018, the appellants of Special Appeal No.165 (D) of 2019 participated in the TET examination on 18.11.2018 and qualified the same and therefore becoming eligible for appearing in the ATRE 2019, the writ petitioners knowing well about the amendment in the notification dated 23.8.2010 by NCTE notification dated 28.6.2018, they never challenged the validity of the said notification and thus, the notification issued by the NCTE being under a Central Enactment which is referable to Entry 66 of list I of the Seventh Schedule is binding upon the State Government and even a legislative exercise done by the State in the matter of laying down of standards in education would have to yield to the notifications of the NCTE inasmuch as the exercise of power by the State Government is referable to Entry 25 of List III of the Seventh Schedule, which besides being in the concurrent list is, subject to Entry 63, 64, 65 and 66 of List - I. The State Government rightly followed the mandate issued by the NCTE and permitted the B.Ed. candidates to appear in the second ATRE - 2019.

(82) In the guidelines dated 1.12.2018 issued for ATRE - 2019, it was specifically provided that candidates who are eligible under the NCTE notifications as amended from time to time, including vide notification dated 28.6.2018, shall be permitted to appear in the ATRE - 2019. The learned Senior Counsel for private respondents (original writ petitioners) has drawn our attention only to clause 4 (1) whereas as per clause 4 (2) they are eligible to appear in ATRE - 2019 examination. Clause 4 (2) is relevant which reads as under:-

4. आवेदन के लिए न्यूनतम अर्हता, आयु एवं निवास

(2) राष्ट्रीय अध्यापक परीक्षा परिषद्, नई दिल्ली द्वारा न्यूनतम अर्हता कक्षा 1 से 5 के सम्बन्ध में नितगित अधिसूचना दिनांक 23.08.2010, 29.07. 2011, 12.11.2014, 28.11.2014 (अपेंडिस्क – 2 की प्रस्तावना 1.2 में उल्लिखित) तथा दिनांक 28.06. 2018 में निर्धारित अर्हताधारी ष्सहायक अध्यापक भर्ती परीक्षा 2019ष् में आवेदन करने के लिए पात्रा होंगे ।

(83) Law on the subject is well settled. The Apex Court in the case of State of Uttar Pradesh v. Shiv Kumar Pathak (supra) has held that the NCTE is the Academic Authority and the State Government is under an obligation to act as per the notifications issued by the NCTE and not give effect to any contrary Rule, as follows:-

"There is no manner of doubt that the NCTE, acting as an "academic authority' under Section 23 of the RTE Act, under the Notification dated 31st March, 2010 issued by the Central Government as well as under Sections 12 and 12A of the NCTE Act, was competent to issue Notifications dated 23 rd August, 2010 and 11th February, 2011. The State Government was under obligation to act as per the said notifications and not to give effect to any contrary rule."

(84) A Division Bench of this Court in the case of Harsh Kumar and others v. State of U.P. and others [(2014) 2 ADJ 703], held that the action of the State in not permitting the B.Ed. candidates to participate in the TET examination to be considered for appointment as Assistant Teacher in basic education despite NCTE having notified B.Ed. candidates as eligible was illegal, arbitrary and unconstitutional. Relevant paragraphs 10, 11, 12 and 13 of the aforesaid judgment read as under:-

10.Thus, the point to be noted is that after the enforcement of the Act of 2009 and the issuance of the notification of 23 August 2010, the qualifications which have been prescribed for appointment of primary teachers must necessarily be those that are stipulated in the notification dated 23 August 2010, as amended by the notification dated 27 August 2011.

11. Undoubtedly, the Rules of 1981 do prescribe the essential qualification for appointment of Assistant Teachers in Junior Basic Schools where education is imparted from Classes I to V. The relevant qualifications which are prescribed in Rule 8 are as follows:

"(ii) Assistant Master and Assistant Mistress of Junior Basic School A Bachelor's Degree from a University established by law in India or a Degree recognised by the Government as equivalent thereto together with the training qualification consisting of a Basic

Teacher's Certificate, Vishist Basic Teachers Certificate (B.T.C.) two years BTC Urdu Special Training Course, Hindustani Teacher's Certificate, Junior Teacher's Certificate, Certificate of Teaching or any other training training course recognised by the Government as equivalent there:

Provided that the essential qualification for a candidate who has passed the required training course shall be the same which was prescribed for admission to the said training course."

12. The qualifications, which have been prescribed by the NCTE in the notification dated 29 July 2011 include Senior Secondary with at least 50% marks together with a 2-year Diploma in Education (Special Education). Once, these qualifications have been prescribed by the NCTE, this would necessarily be binding and it is not open to the State Government to exclude (from the zone of eligibility) the persons who are otherwise qualified in terms of the notification dated 23 August 2010 as amended on 29 July 2011.

13. In this view of the matter, we are of the opinion that the learned Single Judge was in error in coming to the conclusion that since the recruitment was in pursuance of a special drive, the Government was justified in confining the eligibility qualifications only to those who held the BTC qualifications for the reason that such candidates could not be adjusted earlier for want of TET qualification. The passing of the TET was introduced as a mandatory requirement by the notification dated 23 August 2010 issued by the NCTE. Persons who did not fulfill the eligibility conditions prescribed in the notification dated 23 August 2010, as amended on 29 July 2011, were not qualified for consideration for appointment as primary school teachers. Hence, there was no occasion for the State to contend or for that matter the learned Single Judge to accept the submission that in order to adjust such BTC qualified candidates, the present advertisement had been issued. The learned Single Judge held that the appellants could not claim equivalence with those candidates who possess BTC qualification. This, in our view, begs the question because once the Diploma in Education (Special Education) is held to be a qualification which is recognised for appointment of Assistant Teachers for teaching Classes I to V, it would be impermissible for the State Government to exclude them from being considered for appointment. In a special drive or otherwise, it is not open to the State Government to exclude one class of teachers who fulfill the qualifications for eligibility prescribed by the NCTE. Any such action would be impermissible for the simple reason that the exclusive power to prescribe eligibility qualifications for such teachers is vested in the NCTE. Once the NCTE has spoken on the subject, as it has through its notification, those qualifications must govern the eligibility requirement. Jurisdiction and power of the NCTE to do so is now settled beyond any doubt, as noted by the Supreme Court.

(85) The 1981 Rules have been amended well in time, and prior to commencement of the recruitment process to provide for recruitment of B.Ed. candidates directly to the post of Assistant Teacher, subject to them undergoing a post appointment training, strictly in accordance with and as prescribed by the NCTE. These changes have been brought about by the Twenty-Third amendment dated 29.01.2019; Twenty-Fourth amendment dated 07.03.2019 and the Twenty-Fifth amendment dated 14.06.2019. Vide these amendments, the concept of 'trainee teacher' has entirely been done away with in accordance with the amendment issued by the NCTE, and the Appendix - I has also been amended to set-out the manner of calculating the quality point marks of B.Ed. candidates.

(86) The Twenty-Third amendment of the 1981 Rules was carried out in the wake of NCTE notification dated 28.6.2018 on 24.1.2019 whereby minimum qualification of the candidates participating in ATRE - 2019 was amended with inclusion of B.Ed. candidates with six months training (that too after holding the ATRE examination) in Rule 8(ii) (a) with retrospective effect from 1.1.2018. Secondly, provisions of Rule 14 ((i) (c) and 14 (i) (d) regarding trainee teacher were deleted. On 7.3.2019 Twenty-Fourth amendment of the 1981 Rules was introduced, whereby retrospective effect to the charge of minimum qualification regarding B.Ed. was implemented with effect from 28.6.2018 i.e., date of NCTE notification and not with effect from 1.1.2018. Both Twenty-Third and Twenty-Fourth amendment of the 1981 Rules, though brought with retrospective effect by the State to permit the participants of B.Ed. candidates in ATRE - 2019 and due to these reasons the Shiksha Mitras never challenged the participation of B.Ed. candidates in ATRE - 2019 examination which was held on 6.1.2019. From perusal of Rule 14 as amended by Twenty-Third amendment makes it clear that the ATRE is only a qualifying examination and not a part of the recruitment process. Once abovementioned qualifications have been prescribed by the NCTE in its notification dated 28.06.2018 and the same is binding on the State Government and therefore B.Ed./BTC candidates were permitted to appear in ATRE - 2019 by clause 7 (1) and 7 (2) of the guidelines dated 1.12.2018 and they have been rightly included within the zone of eligibility to participate in the qualifying examination held on 6.1.2019. By subsequent amendment of 1981 Rules with effect from 1.1.2018 and with effect from 28.6.2018 were made by the State Government to give effect to the NCTE notification issued on 28.6.2018 as the State Government was under obligation to act as per the said notification and to fully implement the same and not to give effect to any contrary rule as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and Division Bench of this Court.

(87) The educational qualifications fixed by the NCTE for appointment as Assistant Teachers are binding on the recruitment made by the State Governments. The participation of B.Ed. candidates was never challenged before the learned Writ Court and the observations made in the impugned order dated 29.3.2020 pertaining to participation of B.Ed. candidates in the selection process are merely the obiter dicta having no bearing on the issue raised before the learned Writ Court regarding the legality and validity of the Government Order dated 7.1.2019 whereby the minimum qualifying marks had been fixed for ATRE - 2019 examination.

(88) In view of law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of State of Rajasthan v. Sanyam Lodha [(2011) 13 SCC 262], inclusion of B.Ed. candidates was never challenged by the writ petitioners and as such, since particular Rule had not been challenged, the prayer of reading down the said provision could not be made. The Apex Court in the case of Shiv Kumar Pathak (supra) wherein it has been held that the eligibility conditions for appointment of Assistant Teachers as laid down by the NCTE are binding on the State Government as the NCTE is the competent authority for fixing such educational qualifications for appointment of Assistant Teachers under Section 23 of the RTE Act as well as under Sections 12 and 12-A of the NCTE Act, 1993.

(89) The Apex Court in the case of State of U.P. vs. Shiv Kumar Pathak (supra), has held that the eligibility conditions for appointment of Assistant Teachers as laid down by the NCTE are binding on the State Government as the NCTE is the competent authority for fixing such educational qualifications and therefore, the B.Ed. candidates had been included by the State Government in clause 4 (2) of statutory guidelines dated 1.12.2018. In the aforesaid clause, it is very categorically stated that the notification dated 28.6.2018 issued by the NCTE whereby B.Ed. candidates were made eligible for appointment as Teacher in Primary Schools for teaching classes I to V provided the person so appointed as an Assistant Teacher shall mandatorily undergo six months' Bridge Course in Elementary Education recognized by the NCTE within two years after such appointment as Assistant Teachers.

(90) The Division Bench of this Court in Harsh Kumar v. State of U.P. and others (supra), has reiterated the same principles as laid down by the Apex Court in State of U.P. v. Shiv Kumar Pathak (supra).

(91) Para 4 of the Government Order dated 1.12.2018 provides for minimum qualification for appearing in the said examination in ATRE - 2019 and it provides that candidates possessing qualifications as provided in Rule 8 of 1981 Rules and having passed Teachers Eligibility Test, would be eligible to appear in the said examination and Clause 2 of Para - 4 of the Government Order provides the minimum qualification as provided in the notifications of the NCTE would be eligible to apply in the said examination. Thus the candidates possessing Bachelor Degree together with the B.T.C. Training and had passed TET examination or had B.Ed. degree to their credit were eligible for applying in the ATRE - 2019. The learned Writ Court erred in referring to the 1981 Rules, as the rules come into operation only at the stage of recruitment, which has not commencement as yet. The learned Single Judge erred in holding that as the Rules 1981 did not envisage the recruitment of B.Ed. candidates to the post of Assistant Teacher (and provided for their appointment only to the post of Trainee Teacher), and as the Appendix - I did not provide a mechanism to lay down the procedure for calculating the quality point marks of B.Ed. candidates, hence the participation of the B.Ed. candidates in the ATRE - 2019 was bad.

(92) Thus, we are of the view that once the B.Ed. candidates were made eligible to be considered for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher, subject to them acquiring the minimum qualification, the State Government was bound to permit them to participate in the ARTE - 2019 passing which is the minimum qualification to be considered for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher. Accordingly, the State Government carried out the necessary amendments to the 1981 Rules to align them with the NCTE notification, prior to commencement of the recruitment process.

(93) Sri J. N. Mathur, learned Senior Counsel, heavily relied on the decision of the Apex Court in Ayaaubkhan Noorkhan Pathan v. State of Maharashtra, [(2013) 4 SCC 465] wherein it has been held that a 'Person Aggrieved' does not include a person who suffers from a psychological or an imaginary injury; a 'person aggrieved' must therefore be one whose right or interest has been adversely effected or jeopardized and rightly submitted that the writ petitioners before the Writ Court were not persons falling in the category of a 'person aggrieved' and any micro-classification within the class of examinees is not sustainable in the eyes of law as in an open competition all examinees are to be treated as equals and argued that the issuance of Government Order dated 7.1.2019 does not amount to changing the rules of game.

(94) The principle that the Rules of the game cannot be changed once the game has started was not at all attracted in this matter since there was no change in the minimum qualifying marks fixed for the first time at 65% and 60% vide Government Order dated 7.1.2019 for ATRE - 2019 whereas the minimum qualifying marks fixed in the Government Order dated 9.1.2018 were meant exclusively for the ATRE - 2018 only.

(95) The Apex Court in the case of Municipal Corporation of Delhi vs. Surendra Singh and others (supra), while adjudicating a similar controversy pertaining to the fixation of minimum qualifying marks for selection of the most meritorious candidates, has held as legal and valid the action of the competent authority of fixation of minimum qualifying marks which were fixed after the examination was held but prior to the declaration of result. In the case in hand, the competent authority was given power under Rule 2 (x) of the 1981 Rules to fix minimum qualifying marks and the same ought not to have been interfered with as the fixation of benchmark for selection of most meritorious candidates is the prerogative of the employer and in no way amounts to changing the rules of game.

(96) Much reliance has been placed by the learned Senior Counsel for the private respondents-Shiksha Mitras in the case of K. Manjusree v. State of A.P. and another [2008 (3) SCC 512], wherein the question was whether correct criterion was adopted in making recruitment for posts of District & Sessions Judge which was granted by the A. P. State Higher Judicial Service Rules, 1958. The Rules prescribed quota for direct recruitment, educational qualifications,, etc. but did not prescribe any criterion for selection. There were however Resolutions dated 24.7.2001 and 21.2.2002 which prescribed criteria for selection of candidates. According to prescribed criterion, there were 75 marks for written examination and 25 for interview. It was decided vide Resolutions dated 30.11.2004 that existing criterion would be followed but while holding written examination, 100 marks were prescribed instead of 75. The High Court made two changes on administrative side after written examination and interviews were over. First, marks for written examination were proportionately scaled down so as to maintain ratio between written examination and interview as 3:1 (75:25) instead of 4:1 (100:25). This was done because original criterion prescribed 75:25 ratio. Secondly, it introduced minimum qualifying marks for interview also. This resulted in reshuffling of selection list. The Apex Court considered the effect of these recruitments and concluded that the Resolutions dated 24.7.2001 and 21.2.2002 provided qualifying marks for written examinations only but not for interview. Considering the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the Apex Court has held that the introduction of requirement of minimum marks for interview, after the entire selection process (consisting of written examination and interview) was completed, would amount to changing the rules of the game after the game was played, which is clearly impermissible.

(97) In respect of question, as to whether the Government Order dated 7.1.2019, whereby the minimum qualifying marks were fixed for all the candidates, who were participated in the examination of ATRE - 2019 on 6.1.2019 amounts to changing the rules of the game, the principle that the Rules of the game cannot be changed once the game has started was not at all attracted in the present facts and circumstances of the case because the minimum qualifying marks which had been fixed for the first time by the Government on 7.1.2019 will apply to all candidates who had participated in the ATRE qualifying examination - 2019 on 6.1.2019. In Rule 14 (1) (b) of the 1981 Rules, it has been provided that a separate Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination shall be conducted by the Government for every time vacancies are notified for recruitment on the post of Assistant Master or Assistant Mistress of Junior Basic School concerned. Rule 2 (x) of the 1981 Rules empowers the State Government to fix the qualifying marks of the ATRE from time to time. It has nowhere been provided that once the minimum qualifying marks have been fixed for the first ATRE, they shall be carried forward or be applicable for eternity on all future selection processes. The said argument of the Shiksha Mitras is contrary to the terms and conditions of statutory guidelines dated 1.12.2018.

(98) The Apex Court in the case of Jharkhand Public Service Commission v. Manoj Kumar Gupta (supra) has held that the State Government is free to determine the cut-off marks even after the examination has been held and the same does not amount to any change in the rules of the game. It is also held that eligibility tests are not meant for selection to any post but is conducted to determine the eligibility of the candidates for appointment as Lecturers. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment read as under:-

"The Jharkhand Public Service Commission (JPSC) issued an advertisement on 19.07.2006 inviting applications from candidates desirous of competing in the Jharkhand Eligibility Test (JET). This test is not meant for selection to any post but is Signature Not Verified Digitally signed by SARITA PUROHIT Date: 2019.12.19 conducted to determine the eligibility of the candidates for 12:36:18 IST Reason: appointment as lecturers in universities and colleges of the State of Jharkhand. This test called the State Level Eligibility Test (SLET) is conducted as per the guidelines laid down by the University Grants Commission (UGC).

2. The test consists of three papers - the first two papers are multiple choice questions to be answered on an Optical Mark Reader (OMR). One test is of a general subject and one test is of the subject for which the candidate applies. The third paper is a descriptive type question paper dealing only with the subject selected by the candidate. Relevant portion of the advertisement reads as follows:

"A candidate who does not appear in Paper I will not be permitted to appear in Paper II and Paper III. Paper III will be evaluated only for those candidates who are able to secure the minimum qualifying marks in Paper I and Paper II as per the table given in the following: CATEGORY MINIMUM QUALIFYING MARKS PAPERI PAPERII PAPERI + PAPERII GENERAL/OBC 40 40 100 (50%) PH/VH 35 35 90 (45%) SC/ST 35 35 80 (40%)

3. The writ petitioner obtained 50% marks in Papers I and II but he did not do as well in Paper III. The JPSC fixed a cut off percentage of 60 for Paper III which the writ petitioner did not attain and as such he was declared not successful and, therefore, ineligible to be considered for appointment as lecturer.

4. Aggrieved by the said action, the writ petitioner filed a writ petition before the High Court which allowed the same. The appeal filed by the JPSC before the writ court was also allowed mainly on the ground that the Public Service Commission could not have fixed qualifying marks of 60% and this amounted to changing the rules of the game after the advertisement had been issued and process of selection had started. It held that once the candidate had obtained 50% marks, the candidate could not be disqualified and the JPSC was not bound by the instructions of the UGC in this regard. The High Court also directed that the case of the writ petitioner would be considered on the basis of performance. The High Court held that no cut off marks had been provided for Paper III.

7. As far as the finding of the High Court that the rules of the game were changed after the selection process had started, we are of the considered view that this is not the case as far as the present case is concerned. There were no minimum marks provided for Paper III in the advertisement. This could be done by the moderation committee even at a later stage. This is not a change brought about but an additional aspect brought in while determining the merit of the candidates who are found fit to be eligible for consideration for appointment of Lecturers.

8. In view of the above, we are of the considered opinion that the High Court erred in holding that the JPSC could not fix the minimum marks for Paper III. Hence, we set aside the judgment of the High Court dated 09.11.2016.

(99) In the case in hand, Rule 2 (1) (x) of 1981 Rules empowers the State Government to fix minimum qualifying marks of ATRE from time to time and admittedly, no minimum marks were provided in the instructions dated 1.12.2018 and therefore, the State Government in exercise of the aforesaid power issued Government Order on 7.1.2019 prescribing minimum qualifying marks for ATRE - 2019 examination as 65% for general category candidates and 60% for reserved category candidates which is just and proper and this in nowhere amounts to changing the rules of the game. The judgment of K. Manjusree (supra) is distinguishable on facts.

(100) The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra), merely provided that the Shiksha Mitras shall be given an opportunity to participate in the selection process at hand in two consecutive selections, in an open and transparent selection process alongwith other duly qualified candidates and it nowhere provided that the Shiksha Mitras shall constitute a homogeneous clause apart from other duly qualified candidates participating in the selection process. The first ATRE - 2018 had been concluded somewhere in August, 2018 and selections made on 68,500 vacancies notified vide Government Order/statutory guidelines issued under Rule 2 (y) of 1981 Rules. Thereafter, the State Government notified fresh vacancies for appointment vide notification dated 1.12.2018, known as second ATRE - 2019. The ATRE - 2018 and ATRE - 2019 were two separate selection processes and were conducted under different Rules as the Twentieth amendment was applicable as per Government Order dated 9.1.2018 on the ATRE - 2018 examination and the Twenty-Second amendment was applicable as per Government Order dated 1.12.2018 on the ATRE - 2019 examination. It is also not in dispute that in ATRE - 2018 examination, only 1,07,000 candidates appeared against 68,500 vacancies whereas in ATRE - 2019 examination, 4,10,000 candidates appeared against 69,000 vacancies. As per clauses of the aforesaid ATRE, which we have quoted, it is very clear that examination of ATRE - 2018 and ATRE - 2019 is valid only for a particular year. The ATRE - 2019 examination was based on a different pattern as it only had multiple choice questions and there was no condition like clause 7 (1) and 7 (2) of ATRE - 2018 regarding minimum marks and thereafter, after examination of ATRE - 2019 was held on 6.1.2019, the State Government under Rule 2 (x) of 1981 Rules took a conscious decision and issued Government Order dated 7.1.2019 to fix 65% minimum qualifying marks for General Category and 60% for reserved category candidates.

(101) The minimum qualifying marks which had been fixed vide Government Order dated 7.1.2019 were made uniformly applicable on all duly qualified candidates participating in the selection at hand, irrespective of whether such candidates possessed a BTC degree, B.Ed. degree or were Shiksha Mitras. The minimum qualifying marks were made uniformly applicable to all the examinees sitting for ATRE - 2019 and thus, we are of the view that Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra) had never directed that Shiksha Mitras shall constitute one homogeneous clause for the purpose of recruitment nor it had caused any prejudice to the Shiksha Mitras because the same was applicable to all candidates who had participated in the ATRE - 2019 examination.

(102) The Apex Court in the case of Municipal Corporation of India vs. Surender Singh and others (supra), while adjudicating a similar controversy pertaining to the fixation of minimum qualifying marks for selection of the most meritorious has been pleased to uphold as legal and valid the action of the competent authority for fixing the minimum qualifying marks which were fixed after examination was held, but prior to the declaration of the result, since the advertisement did not specify any qualifying marks for the examination in question, and the candidates had participated in the examination knowing fully well that no qualifying marks have been fixed in the advertisement and the same will be fixed prior to declaration of the result.

(103) The power of the Government to prescribe the qualifying marks of passing the examination even after the advertisement and the examination in exercise of power conferred under Rule 2 (x) of 1981 Rules is supported by the judgment of the Apex Court in Municipal Corporation of Delhi vs. Surendra Singh and others (supra) and Jharkhand Pubic Service Commission vs. Manoj Kumar Gupta and others (supra). From the aforesaid, we are of the view that the decision of the Government for fixing of the minimum qualifying marks cannot be faulted.

(104) The examination conducted in 2019 for second ATRE - 2019 does not discriminate between the Shiksha Mitras who appeared in 2018 and The Shiksha Mitras who appeared in 2018 and 2019 do not constitute one class for the purposes of passing the examinations of 2018 and 2019 as the standards of both the examinations was different and they have to pass the examination as per the advertisement and the Rules regulating both the examinations.

(105) For the reasons aforementioned, it cannot be said that the Government Order dated 7.1.2019 is violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India nor it makes an unreasonable classification or is nullifying the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra). Accordingly, we set aside the impugned order 29.3.2019 passed in Writ Petition No.1188 (SS) of 2019 and other connected matters filed by Shiksha Mitras and dismiss the said writ petitions by allowing all the Special Appeals and direct the State of U.P. to declare the result of examination which was held on 6.1.2019 in terms of the Government Order dated 7.1.2019 at the earliest as directed by the Apex Court in the case of Bhola Prasad Shukla v. Union of India and others (supra). All applications for intervention/ impleadment/civil miscellaneous applications are also disposed of in same terms.

(106) No costs.

Special Appeal Rejected. (E-10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Biswanath Somadder, J.
Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. This Special Appeal arises in respect of a judgment and order dated 28th January, 2020, passed by a learned Single Judge in Writ-A No. 73517 of 2011 (Naresh Pal v. State of U.P. and others). By the impugned judgment and order the writ petition was allowed with certain directions.

2. This Special Appeal has been preferred by the writ petitioner.

3. For convenience, the operative portion of the impugned judgment and order is set out hereinbelow:-

"Accordingly, while this petition is allowed and the impugned order dated 22 October 2011 is set aside, the Court further provides that the order of 17 October 2011 shall also resultantly stand set aside since its continuance in light of what has been recorded above would perpetuate an illegality. The setting aside of the order of 17 October 2011 shall however not empower the respondents to recover salaries and other emoluments which the petitioner has drawn in the meanwhile pursuant to the work discharged and performed on the promotional post. The Committee of Management shall now proceed to draw a list of all eligible teachers and forward the same to the concerned Regional Level Committee bearing in mind the mandate of Rule 14 within a period of two weeks from today. The Joint Director of Education shall ensure that the requisite papers are placed before the concerned Regional Level Committee and a final decision taken with respect to the grant of promotion within a period of two months therefrom. "

4. In order to appreciate the controversy, the necessary statutory framework for recruitment by promotion in an institution recognised under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 may be adverted to.

5. The Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 19821 was enacted to provide for establishment of a Secondary Education Service Selection Board for the selection of teachers in institutions recognised under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921.

6. Section 2(l) defines the 'year of recruitment' as follows:-

"(l) 'Year of recruitment' means a period of twelve months commencing from first day of July of a calendar year".

7. Chapter III of the Act deals with the procedure for selection by promotion. Section 12, which is a part of Chapter III, is in the following terms:-

"12. Procedure of selection by promotion.--(1) For each region, there shall be a Selection Committee, for making selection of candidates for promotion to the post of a teacher, comprising

(i) Regional Joint Director of Education: -- Chairman

(ii)Senior most Principal of Government

Inter College in the region: -- Member

(iii) Concerned District Inspector of Schools -- Member/Secretary

(2) The procedure of selection of candidates for promotion to the post of a teacher shall be such as may be prescribed."

8. Section 32 stipulates that the provisions contained in the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and its regulations would continue to be in force insofar as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act or Rules or Regulations made under it, inter alia, for the purpose of selection, appointment and promotion in the rank of a teacher.

9. In exercise of the rule making power under section 35 of the Act, 1982, the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Rules, 19982 were made. The procedure for recruitment by promotion is provided for under Rule 14 of the aforementioned Rules and the same is as follows:-

"14. Procedure for recruitment by promotion.--(1) Where any vacancy is to be filled by promotion, all teachers working in Trained graduates grade or Certificate of Teaching grade, if any, who possess the qualifications prescribed for the post and have completed five years continuous regular service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment shall be considered for promotion to the Lecturers grade or the Trained graduates grade, as the case may be, without their having applied for the same.

Note.--For the purposes of this sub-rule, regular service rendered in any other recognized institution shall be counted for eligibility, unless interrupted by removal, dismissal or reduction to a lower post.

(2) The criterion for promotion shall be seniority subject to the rejection of unfit.

(3) The Management shall prepare a list of teachers referred to in sub-rule (1), and forward it to the Inspector with a copy of seniority list, service records, including the character rolls, and a statement in the pro forma given in Appendix 'A'. (4) Within three weeks of the receipt of the list from the Management under sub-rule (3), the Inspector shall verify the facts from the record of his office and forward the list to the Joint Director.

(5) The Joint Director shall consider the cases of the candidates on the basis of the records referred to in sub-rule (3) and may call such additional information as it may consider necessary. The Joint Director shall place the records before the Selection Committee referred to in sub-section (1) of Section 12 and after the Committee's recommendation, shall forward the panel of selected candidates within one month to the Inspector with a copy thereof to the Management.

(6) Within ten days of the receipt of the panel from the Joint Director under sub-rule (5), the Inspector shall send the name of the selected candidates to the Management of the institution which has notified the vacancy and the Management shall accordingly on authorization under its resolution issue the appointment order in the pro forma given in Appendix 'F' to the such candidate."

10. The provisions contained under section 12 of the Act, 1982, read with Rule 14 of the Rules, 1998, provide a complete procedure with regard to recruitment by promotion in an institution recognized under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921.

11. As per sub-rule (1) of Rule 14, all teachers working in the trained graduates grade or certificate of teaching grade, if any, who possess the qualifications prescribed for the post and have completed five years continuous regular service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment shall be considered for promotion to the lecturers grade or the trained graduates grade, as the case may be, without their having applied for the same. It is relevant to notice that the consideration for promotion in terms of the statutory rule is to be accorded to all teachers, who fulfill the prescribed eligibility criteria, and this entitlement for consideration for promotion is to be made without the teachers having applied for the same. The criterion for promotion, in terms of sub-rule (2), is seniority subject to the rejection of unfit.

12. Sub-rule (3) of Rule 14, aforesaid, enjoins upon the management to prepare a list of teachers referred to in sub-rule (1), and forward it to the Inspector with a copy of the seniority list, service records, including the character rolls and a statement in the proforma given in Appendix 'A', to the Rules, 1998.

13. In terms of sub-rule (4), (5) and (6), upon receipt of the list from the management under sub-rule (3), the Inspector is required to verify the facts from the record of his office within a specified period and forward the list to the Joint Director whereupon the Joint Director is to consider the cases of the candidates on the basis of the records referred to in sub-rule (3) and may call such additional information as may be considered necessary, and thereafter he is to place the record before the Selection Committee referred to in sub-section (1) of Section 12 and after the Committee's recommendation, the procedure with regard to forwarding of the panel of selected candidates to the Inspector and sending of names of the selected candidates to the management of the institution, upto the stage of issuance of appointment orders to the candidates, is provided for.

14. The scheme for recruitment by promotion, under the aforementioned statutory provisions, provides that consideration for recruitment by promotion is to be accorded to all teachers who fulfill the precribed eligibility criteria, without their having applied for the same. This clearly leads to an inference that all the teachers who fulfill the requisite eligibility criteria under sub-rule (1) of Rule 14 are entitled for consideration even if they have not applied for the same, and the list which is to be prepared by the management and forwarded to the Inspector in the prescribed proforma given it in Appendix 'A' to the Rules, 1998, for further processing, is to include the relevant records of all the teachers who fulfill the eligibility criteria under sub-rule (1) of Rule 14, irrespective of the fact, whether or not, they have applied for promotion.

15. The right of consideration under Rule 14, therefore, extends to all teachers fulfilling the prescribed eligibility criteria without any discretion in the matter to the Committee of Management, which is required to simply prepare a list of teachers fulfilling the eligibility criteria under sub-rule (1) and to forward it to the Inspector along with seniority list, service records, including the character rolls, and a statement in the prescribed proforma for further processing. Although, as per sub-rule (2), the criterion for promotion is seniority subject to the rejection of unfit, there is no contemplation under the rule for recommendation to be made by the Committee of Management based on the inter se seniority of the teachers who may be fulfilling the eligibility criteria.

16. In the facts of the present case, it is undisputed that the name of the petitioner alone was recommended by the concerned Committee of Management taking the view that he was the senior most teacher whereas Rule 14 of the Rules, 1998, enjoins upon the Committee of Management to forward the names of all eligible candidates, irrespective of their position in the seniority list. The right of consideration, in terms of Rule 14, having been extended to all teachers who possess the requisite qualification and have rendered qualifying service as prescribed, the direction issued by the learned Single Judge directing the Committee of Management to draw the list of all eligible teachers and forward the same to the Regional Level Committee as per the mandate of Rule 14 within a fixed time period, thus does not call for any interference.

17. We are really surprised as to why the writ petitioner is before us. The reason is, it will appear from the directions of the learned Single judge as quoted above that the principal prayer of the writ petitioner has been allowed. The judgment and order is supported with cogent and justifiable reasons. In an Intra-Court Special Appeal, no interference is usually warranted unless palpable infirmities or perversities are noticed on a plain reading of the impugned judgment and order. In the facts and circumstances of the instant case, on a plain reading of the impugned judgment and order, we do not notice any such palpable infirmity or perversity. As such, we are not inclined to interfere with the impugned judgment and order dated 28th January, 2020.

18. At this stage, learned counsel for the appellant- petitioner has tried to contend that the petitioner is the senior most teacher having the prescribed eligibility, and in case the Regional Level Committee finally decides in his favour, he may be granted continuity and other consequential benefits on the promotional post.

19. Since the matter has been remitted for consideration afresh as per the procedure under Rule 14 of the Rules, 1998, we refrain from making any observation with regard to the rights of the appellant-petitioner vis-a-vis other teachers who may be entitled for consideration under the statutory provision, leaving it open to the appellant-writ petitioner to raise all contentions before the authority concerned.

20. We make it clear that the above observation does not touch upon merit of the claim of the appellant- writ petitioner and also the claims which may be set up by other contending parties.

21. The Special Appeal stands disposed of accordingly.

A. Compassionate appointment - object is to allow the dependants of the deceased to overcome the financial crisis - reservation of vacancy of post for such appointment till such time when minor become major is contrary to the rules of such appointment

The fact that members of the family have survived for the last twenty three years raises a presumption that the immediate financial crisis caused by the death of earning member of the family has been tided over. The financial penury as existing in the year 1996 cannot be said to be existing now in the year 2020, except its emotional aspect. No appointment on compassionate ground at such belated stage can be granted. (para 21)

3. Shiv Kumar Dubey Vs. St. of U.P. 2014 (2) ADJ 312

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Varma, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. The father of the petitioner, Rajendra Singh was a Assistant Teacher in Primary School Nagala Sahjan, Patiyali District Etah (Kasganj), He died in harness on 18.09.1996, leaving behind his widow, one daughter and five sons. The mother of the petitioner, Smt. Ganga Shri, did not claim compassionate appointment. She made an application on 09.11.1999 to the then Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Etah that her sons are minor, therefore, the claim may be considered after her sons attain majority.

3. The petitioner submitted an application to the District Basic Education Officer for grant of compassionate appointment for the first time on 22.07.2004 along with an affidavit of his mother, which contained a recital to the effect that neither she nor her other children have any objection if the petitioner is given appointment. The application of the petitioner was forwarded by the District Basic Education Officer on 05.10.2004 to the Secretary, Basic Education, who in turn recommended to the same to the State Government for relaxation of time in giving appointment, which according to the petitioner is still pending for consideration.

4. Thereafter, on 23.09.2019, the petitioner again represented to the Director, Basic Education Lucknow for taking decision on the recommendation of the respondent no.2, which also remained pending.

5. The present writ petition has been filed for a direction to the respondent no.1 to take a decision upon the recommendation letter dated 11.08.2005 sent by the respondent no.2. He also prayed for mandamus commanding the respondents to appoint the petitioner on a suitable post.

6. Learned Counsel for the petitioner contended that the application for appointment under the dying in harness was moved by the mother of the petitioner within the time limit of 5 years and the claim of the petitioner has not been decided as yet. Therefore, a direction may be issued to the State Government to consider the same.

7. Per contra learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents submitted that the concept of compassionate appointment under the provisions of the U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 is to enable the bereaved family to tide over the immediate financial crises. Delay in making application for appointment on compassionate grounds raises a presumption that the immediate financial crises has been tided over.

8. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

9. The object of the U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servant Dying in Harness Rules is to remove the hardship of the family, whose bread-earner expired during the course of his employment, leaving the family in sudden economic crises. The appointment to be made under the aforesaid Rules is an exception to the general Rules for selection and appointment and it is entirely based on humanitarian approach to financially support dependents of the deceased Government Servant in the grip of a sudden penury caused by the death of the sole bread earner.

10. The rules which are relevant in present context are Rules 5 and 8. The Rule 5 is extracted herein below:-

"5. Recruitment of a member of the family of the deceased.-- (1) In case a Government servant dies in harness after the commencement of these rules and the spouse of the deceased Government servant is not already employed under the Central Government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State Government, one member of his family who is not already employed under the Central Government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State Government shall, on making an application for the purposes, be given a suitable employment in Government service on a post except the post which is within the purview of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission, in relaxation of the normal recruitment rules if such person--

(i) fulfils the educational qualifications prescribed for the post,

(ii) is otherwise qualified for Government service, and,

(iii) makes the application for employment within five years from the date of the death of the Government servant:

Provided that where the State Government is satisfied that the time-limit fixed for making the application for employment causes undue hardship in any particular case, it may dispense with or relax the requirement as it may consider necessary for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner.

(2) As far as possible, such an employment should be given in the same department in which the deceased Government servant was employed prior to his death.

(3) Each appointment under sub-rule (1) should be under the condition that the person appointed under sub-rule (1) shall upkeep those other family members of the deceased Government servant who are incapable for their own maintenance and were dependant of the above said deceased Government servant immediately before his death.

8.Relaxation from age and other requirements.-- (1) The candidate seeking appointment under these rules must not be less than 18 years at the time of appointment.*

(2) The procedural requirements for selection; such as written test or interview by a selection committee or any other authority, shall be dispensed with, but it shall be open to the appointing authority to interview the candidate in order to satisfy itself that the candidate will be able to maintain the minimum standards work and efficiency expected on the post.

(3) An appointment under these rules shall be made against an existing vacancy only."

11. A perusal of Rules 5 (iii) shows that the case of compassionate appointment, would be considered in relaxation of the normal recruitment rules if such persons make applications for employment within five years from the date of the death of the government servant; provided that where the State Government is satisfied that the time- limit fixed for making the application for employment, causes undue hardship in any particular case, it may dispense with or relax the requirement as it may consider necessary for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner.

12. Rule 8 provides for relaxation from age and other requirements. The said Rule provides that an appointment under the Rules 1974 shall be made against an existing vacancy only and that the candidate seeking appointment under these rules must not be less than 18 years at the time of appointment.

13. From the aforesaid Rules, it is clear that the application should have been preferred within a period of five years from the death of the employee and in any particular case where the State Government is satisfied that the time limit fixed for making the application for employment results in any undue hardship, it may dispense with or relax the requirement as it may consider necessary for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner.

14. In the case in hand, the claim for compassionate appointment is based on the fact that petitioner was minor at the time of the death of his father and further the application dated 22.07.2004 for relaxation of time in giving application remained pending.

15. The widow of her own accord waited for her son to attain majority and claimed compassionate appointment thereafter. Prior to this application she sought reservation of a post till her sons attains majority. It is settled position flowing from various decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the whole object of granting compassionate employment is to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis and to relieve the family of the financial destitution and to help it get over the emergency. None of the decisions of the Apex Court justify compassionate employment either as a matter of course and the only ground which can justify compassionate appointment is the sudden financial penury of the deceased's family caused by his death.

16. In Sanjay Kumar Vs. The State of Bihar & Ors, 2000 (10) SC 156 the Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the case for compassionate appointment made by a minor after he attained majority. The aforesaid decision emphasised that the appointment on compassionate grounds is given to tide over the immediate difficulties faced by the family of the deceased by observing as follows:

"We are unable to agree with the submissions of the learned senior counsel for the petitioner. This Court has held in a number of cases that compassionate appointment is intended to enable the family of the deceased employee to tide over sudden crisis resulting due to death of the bread-earner who had left the family in penury and without any means of livelihood. In fact, such a view has been expressed in the very decision cited by the petitioner in Director of Education and another v. Pushpendra Kumar and others, (supra). It is also significant to notice that, on the date when the first application was made by the petitioner on 2.6.88, the petitioner was a minor and was not eligible for appointment. This is conceded by the petitioner. There cannot be reservation of a vacancy till such time, as the petitioner becomes a major after a number of years, unless there are some specific provisions. The very basis of compassionate appointment is to see that the family gets immediate relief."

17. To grant any relief to the petitioner at this stage would be contrary to the decisions of the Supreme Court where the cases of minors had been considered and rejected on the ground that there cannot be a reservation of vacancy till such time as the minor becomes a major.

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of J & K and others V. Sajad Ahmed Mir reported in AIR 2006 SC 2743 in paragraph 17 has held as under:

"17. In the case on hand, the father of the applicant died in March, 1987. The application was made by the applicant after four and half years in September, 1991 which was rejected in March, 1996. The writ petition was filed in June, 1999 which was dismissed by the learned single Judge in July, 2000. When the Division Bench decided the matter, more than fifteen years had passed from the date of death of the father of the applicant. The said fact was indeed a relevant and material fact which went to show that the family survived in spite of death of the employee. Moreover, in our opinion, the learned single Judge was also right in holding that though the order was passed in 1996, it was not challenged by the applicant immediately. He took chance of challenging the order in 1999 when there was inter-departmental communication in 1999. The Division Bench, in our view, hence ought not to have allowed the appeal."

19. The question of delay in filing application for appointment under the Dying-in-Harness Rules and the consequences of such delay on the right to be appointed on compassionate ground was considered by a Full Bench of this Court in the case of Shiv Kumar Dubey vs. State of U.P., 2014 (2) ADJ 312. For convenience, the entire paragraph 29 of the aforesaid Full Bench decision is reproduced:-

"29. We now proceed to formulate the principles which must govern compassionate appointment in pursuance of Dying in Harness Rules:

(i) A provision for compassionate appointment is an exception to the principle that there must be an equality of opportunity in matters of public employment. The exception to be constitutionally valid has to be carefully structured and implemented in order to confine compassionate appointment to only those situations which subserve the basic object and purpose which is sought to be achieved;

(ii) There is no general or vested right to compassionate appointment. Compassionate appointment can be claimed only where a scheme or rules provide for such appointment. Where such a provision is made in an administrative scheme or statutory rules, compassionate appointment must fall strictly within the scheme or, as the case may be, the rules;

(iii) The object and purpose of providing compassionate appointment is to enable the dependent members of the family of a deceased employee to tide over the immediate financial crisis caused by the death of the bread-earner;

(iv) In determining as to whether the family is in financial crisis, all relevant aspects must be borne in mind including the income of the family; its liabilities, the terminal benefits received by the family; the age, dependency and marital status of its members, together with the income from any other sources of employment;

(v) Where a long lapse of time has occurred since the date of death of the deceased employee, the sense of immediacy for seeking compassionate appointment would cease to exist and this would be a relevant circumstance which must weigh with the authorities in determining as to whether a case for the grant of compassionate appointment has been made out;

(vi) Rule 5 mandates that ordinarily, an application for compassionate appointment must be made within five years of the date of death of the deceased employee. The power conferred by the first proviso is a discretion to relax the period in a case of undue hardship and for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner;

(vii) The burden lies on the applicant, where there is a delay in making an application within the period of five years to establish a case on the basis of reasons and a justification supported by documentary and other evidence. It is for the State Government after considering all the facts to take an appropriate decision. The power to relax is in the nature of an exception and is conditioned by the existence of objective considerations to the satisfaction of the government;

(viii) Provisions for the grant of compassionate appointment do not constitute a reservation of a post in favour of a member of the family of the deceased employee. Hence, there is no general right which can be asserted to the effect that a member of the family who was a minor at the time of death would be entitled to claim compassionate appointment upon attaining majority. Where the rules provide for a period of time within which an application has to be made, the operation of the rule is not suspended during the minority of a member of the family." (emphasis supplied)

20. Thus, the law is settled that object to grant compassionate appointment is to allow the family to tide over the immediate financial penury caused by the death of sole bread earner. Such appointment is not a matter of right and is in the nature of concession, which is to be extended for a specific purpose only.

21. The fact that members of the family have survived for the last twenty three years raises a presumption that the immediate financial crises caused by the death of earning member of the family has been tided over. Lifting of the immediate financial penury denies the justification for making appointment on compassionate ground. The financial penury as existing in the year 1996 can not be said to be existing now in the year 2020, except its emotional aspect. No appointment on compassionate ground at such belated stage can be granted nor any direction can be issued to consider the claim of the petitioner.

22. In view of the above discussion, this Court is of the opinion that no direction is required to be passed to the State Government to consider the claim of the petitioner.

23. In the above conspectus, the petition fails and is dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

1. Heard Sri V.K. Singh, Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Hritudhwaj Pratap Sahi, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Ashok Trivedi, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This special appeal has been filed by the petitioner/appellant against the judgement and order dated 22.12.2010 passed by learned Single Judge of this Court in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 6889 of 1992 (Anand Ram Nagar Vs. The Banaras State Bank Limited, Varanasi and another) by which the aforesaid writ petition was dismissed in part.

3. Briefly stated the facts of this case are that while petitioner/appellant Anand Ram Nagar was working as an Accountant in the Banaras State Bank Ltd., Varanasi and when strong room was opened on 24.01.1989, it was found that Rs. 1,00,000/- was short which led to filing of F.I.R. and after obtaining explanation from the petitioner/appellant, a charge-sheet was served on him containing charges of dereliction of duty. The petitioner/appellant submitted his reply denying the charge. However, upon due enquiry, he was found guilty and his services were terminated vide order dated 30.03.1990. Against the order dated 30.03.1990, he preferred a departmental appeal which was dismissed by order dated 16.07.1990. The application filed by the petitioner/appellant for review of the order dated 16.07.1990 was also rejected by order dated 22.10.1990. The aforesaid petition was filed by the petitioner challenging the aforesaid order. At the time of admission, an interim order was passed in favour of the petitioner/appellant staying the impugned orders in pursuance of which the petitioner/appellant continued in service and received salary. In the meantime, the petitioner/appellant was convicted by the criminal court vide judgement and order dated 24.07.1999 and consequently, second termination order dated 27.07.1999 was passed on account of his conviction in the criminal case. However, the appeal preferred by the petitioner/appellant against his conviction was allowed vide order dated 29.05.2000 and the petitioner/appellant was acquitted from all the charges.

4. Before the writ court, it was urged by the learned counsel for the petitioner/appellant that once the finding of the criminal court to the fact that money was never found short in the strong room of the bank had attained finality, the very basis of the departmental proceedings initiated against the petitioner which culminated into termination of his services, ceased to exist. It was also urged by the learned counsel for the petitioner/appellant that Branch Manager who was also charge-sheeted in respect of the same incident, was let off by award of a minor punishment. It was next urged that the finding recorded by the criminal court shall override the finding recorded in the disciplinary enquiry. Before the writ court, it was lastly urged that since the petitioner/appellant had retired, the extreme punishment of dismissal on the facts of the case was not warranted at all.

5. Learned Single Judge however, dismissed the writ petition by the order impugned in this special appeal.

6. Paragraph Nos. 8 to 14 of the judgement and order of the learned Single Judge which are relevant for our purpose are being reproduced hereinbelow :-

8. The petitioner was the second senior most officer in the Branch and as the Branch Manager was busy in other work, he was deputed for closing strong room on 23.1.1989 and in pursuance thereof, he allegedly checked the cash book and signed in lieu thereof showing a closing balance of Rs.6,64,454.24. However, when the strong room was opened in the morning of 24.1.1989 for verification in front of an Inspector of the Reserved Bank of India, the cash was allegedly found short by Rs.one lac consisting of 10 packets of Rs.100/- denomination but there was no tempering of the lock. After seeking his explanation, it was prima-facie found that the petitioner had not verified the cash before closing it and as such the following charge was framed against him.

"Dereliction of duties which is an act detrimental to the interest of the bank [clause 3(i) of Officers Employees Conduct] Regulations, 1986"

9. However, before the Criminal Court, the petitioner was charged under section 406 and 409 IPC and convicted for an offence under section 409 IPC vide order dated 24.7.1999 but the appeal was allowed vide order dated 29.5.2000. It would be appropriate to quote section 409 IPC which is as under:-

"Criminal breach of trust by public servant, or by banker, merchant or agent- Whoever, being in any manner entrusted with property, or with any dominion over property in his capacity of a public servant or in the way of his business as a banker, merchant, factor, broker, attorney or agent, commits criminal breech or trust in respect of that property, shall be punished with imprisonment for life, or with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine.

10. Apparently, the charge against the petitioner before the departmental enquiry and before the criminal court is entirely different. It is apparent that before the criminal court the petitioner was charged for criminal breach of trust. The nature of evidence to prove the respective charges is also entirely different. While proving criminal breach of trust, it is imperative to prove mensrea to cause loss to the Bank but in the departmental charge sheet only factum of negligence in exercise of his official duties has to be proved. Thus, assuming, that the criminal court has acquitted the petitioner with the finding that there was, in fact, no shortage but if the petitioner had not followed the standard operating procedure while verifying the cash and closing the strong room, he would still be guilty of dereliction of duty. It is admitted to the petitioner, during the departmental enquiry, that he did not physically verify the position of the cash before signing the closing balance in the strong room, which is the standard normal procedure. Therefore, it cannot be said that if the petitioner has been acquitted on charge under section 409 IPC, he should be absolved of the charge framed by the Bank. The finding of the criminal court would not over ride the findings recorded in the departmental enquiry. The petitioner has relied upon a decision of the Apex Court rendered in the case of G.M. Tank Vs. State of Guarat and others [2006 SCC (L&S) 1121] to contend that the acquittal in the criminal trial would render the departmental findings unsustainable. No doubt if the two charges are identical, the findings of the criminal court would have predominance over those in the departmental proceedings, but that is not the case here. The facts in Tank's case (Supra) are entirely different. The incumbent in that case was charged for the offence of acquisition of moveable and immovable property disproportionate to his known sources of income. This was the also the precise charge before the criminal court under Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947.Therefore, the ratio rendered therein would not apply to the present case. To the contrary, it has consistently been held in several decisions, including in the case of Suresh Pathrella Vs. Oriental Bank of Commerce [AIR 2007 SC 199] that acquittal in a criminal case would be no bar for drawing up disciplinary proceedings against the delinquent officer. In this case, the allegation against the incumbent was that he had defrauded the customer and the Bank of Rs. Ten lacs but he was acquitted in the criminal case on the ground that no loss to the Bank had occurred. Nevertheless, the Supreme court held that it would be no ground to hold that he could not be punished in the departmental enquiry if it is found that he misconducted himself in not complying with the normal operating procedure. Therefore, the argument that merely because the petitioner has been acquitted in the criminal charge, the termination order ought to be set aside, cannot be sustained.

11. So far as the argument that it was only a minor dereliction coupled with the fact that the petitioner has already retired, the penalty of dismissal would be too harsh when compared with the minor punishment awarded to the Branch Manager. The case of the Branch Manager is entirely different and it cannot be compared with that of the petitioner who was the person responsible for physically verifying the cash before signing and closing the books. An Accountant in a Bank holds a position of trust and even a minor dereliction or negligence may not only cause immense harm to the Bank but even its reputation as being custodian of the people's wealth. The petitioner being the officer assigned to close cash and the strong room, should have first verified the information contained in the cash book with actual position of the strong room by physical verification before signing it. The Apex Court in the case of Suresh Pathrella (Supra) itself has held that in the case of Bank employees, even if no loss is caused to the Bank, cannot be a ground to take a lenient view for proved misconduct especially when there was no malafide or violation of principles of natural justice. In such cases, consistent view of the Apex Court has been that the courts need not interfere. A Division bench in the case of D.S. Bishnoi Vs. State Bank of India and others [2004 (1) AWC 640] has held that highest degree of standards or devotion to duty and integrity are required to be maintained in order to maintain public confidence in the case of Banks and the courts should not interfere in findings of fact recorded by the Enquiry Officer. Merely because the petitioner has retired, the nature of misconduct cannot be watered down especially when the High Court is not permitted to re-appreciate the evidence which has been considered by the Enquiry Officer.

12. However, since the second termination order dated 27.7.1999 is based merely on the conviction of the petitioner which has been set aside in appeal, the order dated 27.7.1999 is bound to be quashed.

13. For the reasons above, this petition succeeds partly to the extent as aforesaid but is rejected for the other reliefs claimed.

14. In the circumstances of the case, no order as to cost.

7. It was contended by Sri V.K. Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner/appellant that once a criminal court came to the conclusion that no such incident as alleged in which cash in the strong room was found short, having taken place and it being settled down that acquittal in criminal trial would render departmental proceeding unsustainable, learned Single Judge erred in taking a view to the contrary and the reliance placed by him on Suresh Pathrella Vs. Oriental Bank of Commerce reported in AIR 2007 SC 199 and D.S. Bishnoi Vs. State Bank of India and others reported in 2004 (1) AWC 640, is wholly misconceived.

8. Per contra Sri Ashok Trivedi, learned counsel for the respondents made his submissions in support of the impugned order.

9. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material brought on record.

10. Record of this special appeal shows that while the petitioner/appellant was working as Accountant in the respondent-Bank when strong room was opened on 24.01.1989, it was found that Rs. 1,00,000/- was short which led to filing of a F.I.R. against the petitioner/appellant as well as the initiation of departmental proceedings.

11. After the petitioner/appellant was charge-sheeted, following charge was framed against the petitioner/appellant :-

"Dereliction of duties which is an act detrimental to the interest of the bank [clause 3(i) of Officers Employees Conduct] Regulations, 1986"

12. The petitioner/appellant submitted his reply in which he stated that keys of the cash chest continuously remained with the Branch Manager and the Chief Cashier and they are the persons who are responsible for checking of the whole amount of cash and so far as the petitioner/appellant was concerned, his job was only to check the day-to-day account upon the debit and credit scroll.

13. Copy of the charge-sheet was filed as Annexure No. 3 and his explanation was filed as Annexure No. 4 to the writ petition.

14. After the completion of enquiry, the enquiry report dated 25.08.1989 (Annexure No. 12 to the writ petition) was submitted by the Enquiry Officer in which he had found that the petitioner/appellant in dereliction of his duty had not checked the total amount of cash kept in the safe of the bank. Thereafter, the petitioner/appellant was served with a show-cause notice (Annexure No. 13 to the writ petition) issued by the respondent no. 4 by which he proposed to impose major punishment on the petitioner/appellant dismissing him from services and disqualifying him from future employment.

15. In response to the show-cause notice, the petitioner/appellant submitted his reply on 30.12.1989 (Annexure No. 14 to the writ petition) and appeared before respondent no. 4. However, respondent no. 4 dismissed the petitioner/appellant from his services by order dated 30.03.1990 (Annexure No. 15 to the writ petition). The petitioner/appellant then preferred an appeal on 16.05.1990 (Annexure No. 16 to the writ petition) against the order dated 30.03.1990 which was also dismissed by the respondent no. 3 by order dated 16.07.1990 (Annexure No. 17 to the writ petition). Thereafter, the petitioner/appellant moved an application on 13.09.1990 (Annexure No. 18 to the writ petition) before the respondent no. 2 with a prayer to review the order dated 16.07.1990 which was also rejected by him by order dated 22.10.1990 (Annexure No. 19 to the writ petition). Thereafter, the petitioner/appellant made a representation (Annexure No. 20 to the writ petition) before the respondent no. 5, Board of Directors, The Banaras State Bank Limited, Laxa Road, Varanasi which was also rejected. During the pendency of the writ petition filed by the petitioner/appellant challenging the aforesaid orders, the petitioner/appellant was convicted by the criminal court which led into passing of second termination order dated 27.07.1999 which was based upon his conviction. The said termination order was also challenged by the petitioner/appellant by amending the writ petition. The conviction of the petitioner/appellant was set-aside by the appellate court with specific finding that the prosecution had failed to prove that any such incident on 24.01.1989, in which upon opening of the strong room, Rs. 1,00,000/- was found short, had taken place.

16. Since there is no dispute about the fact that the aforesaid finding recorded by the appellate court has attained finality, in our opinion, keeping in view the principles propounded by the Apex Court in G.M. Tank Vs. State of Gujarat and others [2006 SCC (L&S) 1121], learned Single Judge should have allowed the writ petition in toto quashing the impugned order of dismissal and the appellate order also apart from quashing the second termination order on the ground of acquittal of petitioner/appellant in appeal.

17. Learned Single Judge has held that since the charges in the departmental proceedings and the criminal prosecution were identical, the finding recorded by the criminal court would not prevail over the finding recorded in the departmental proceeding.

18. In our opinion, the view taken by the learned Single Judge is per se erroneous. The charges framed in the departmental proceedings as well as in the criminal court were based upon the same incident which had taken place on 24.01.1989. The wordings of the charges framed in the criminal court and the departmental proceedings may be different but unless it was proved that any such incident as alleged by the bank had taken place on 24.01.1989, the petitioner/appellant could not be punished departmentally or convicted. The appellate court has recorded a categorical finding that the prosecution had failed to prove that any such incident as alleged by the bank had taken place on 24.01.1989 and no such shortage of cash was ever detected. In view of the aforesaid findings recorded by the appellate court which had attained finality, following the ratio of G.M. Tank (supra), that the acquittal in the criminal trial would render the departmental proceedings unsustainable, we are of the view that the impugned order can not be sustained. The two decisions which have been relied upon by the learned Single Judge namely Suresh Pathrella (supra) and D.S. Bishnoi (supra) for the purpose of upholding the validity of the impugned orders cannot be applied to the facts and circumstances of the present case. In the case of Suresh Pathrella (supra), the delinquent officer was proceeded departmentally on the allegation that he had defrauded a customer thereby causing a loss of Rs. 10,00,000/- to the bank. He was acquitted by the criminal court with a finding that no loss to the bank had occurred. There was no corresponding finding in the aforesaid case that the prosecution had failed to prove that the delinquent employee had defrauded the customer.

19. Once, the criminal court came to the conclusion that the prosecution had failed to prove that either any incident, as alleged, had taken place on 24.01.1989 or any amount was found short, the very foundation on the basis of which departmental proceedings were initiated against the petitioner/appellant in which he was found guilty of dereliction of duty, disappeared. If no such incident on the basis of which charge of dereliction of duty was framed and found proved against the petitioner/appellant in the departmental proceedings had taken place on 24.01.1989, the petitioner/appellant cannot be held guilty of dereliction of duty. Hence, we have no hesitation in holding that the finding recorded by the criminal court will override the finding recorded against the petitioner/appellant in the departmental enquiry.

20. Similarly, the principles enunciated in the case of D.S. Bishnoi (supra) that highest degree of standards or devotion to duty and integrity are required to be maintained in order to maintain public confidence in the case of banks and the courts should not interfere in findings of fact recorded by the Enquiry Officer. Merely because the petitioner has retired, the nature of misconduct cannot be watered down especially when the High Court is not permitted to re-appreciate the evidence which has been considered by the Enquiry Officer, is also not applicable to the facts and circumstances of the present case inasmuch as in the present case, the criminal court has recorded findings which are wholly irreconcilable with the findings recorded in the departmental enquiry with regard to the incident which was the basis of dismissal of the petitioner/appellant and his conviction by the trial court.

21. For the aforesaid reasons, this appeal is allowed and the impugned judgement and order dated 22.12.2010 passed by learned Single Judge of this Court in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 6889 of 1992 (Anand Ram Nagar Vs. The Banaras State Bank Limited, Varanasi and another) as well as the orders dated 30.03.1990, 16.07.1990 and 22.10.1990 passed by respondent nos. 4, 3 and 2 respectively, are hereby set-aside.

A. Service – Payment of salary - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908: Order II, Rule 2 - An issue, which had been decided in earlier litigation, arising again for determination between the same parties in a suit based on a fresh cause of action or where there is continuous cause of action, is not barred by principles of res-judicata or constructive res-judicata. (Para 13)

Writ Petition was dismissed taking into consideration principles of res-judicata/constructive res-judicata. In the present appeal, it was held that the resolution of the Board of Directors dated 06.06.2018, by which a decision was taken to make payment of arrears arising out of 6th Pay Commission recommendation w.e.f. 01.01.2006 to the employees of the IITUP and letter dated 21.12.2017, giving details of the burden of expenditure, were not there in the earlier round of litigation regarding payment of salary and increments.

This subsequent resolution gave rise to the fresh cause of action w.r.t. the payment of salary and arrears, in the light of sixth pay commission, which included the petitioner for the first time. (Para 9 to 14)

Appeal partly allowed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Hope Plantations Ltd. Vs. Taluk Land Board, Peermade & anr., (1999) 5 SCC 590 (Para 13)

Appeal against judgment and order dated 17.10.2019, passed in Writ Petition No. 34236 (SS) of 2018.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Divyanshu Sahay, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State and Sri Himanshu Hemant Gupta, learned counsel appearing for the respondent Corporation.

2. This intra court appeal arises against judgment and order dated 17.10.2019 passed in Writ Petition No.34236 (SS) of 2018, Sharwan Kumar vs. State of U.P. and others, whereby learned Single Judge had dismissed the writ petition as not maintainable taking into consideration principles of res-judicata/constructive res-judicata enshrined in Order II, Rule 2 C.P.C.

3. The appellant/petitioner was an employee of the Institute of Tool Room Training U.P. (hereinafter referred to as the ITTUP) who retired on 30.4.2011. The petitioner had filed Writ Petition No.375 of 1985, Sharwan Kumar vs. Institute of Tool Room Training, U.P. and others before this Court praying for the following reliefs:-

"(i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the opposite parties no.1 to 3 not to make any hostile discrimination between the petitioner and the opposite parties no.4 to 6 regarding grant of annual increments in the wage revision.

(ii) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the opposite parties no.1 to 3 to grant petitioner also at least five annual increments.

(iii) issue any other writ, order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit in the circumstances of the case, in favour of the petitioner.

(iv) award costs of this petition to the petitioner."

4. The aforesaid writ petition was disposed of with a direction to the respondents to decide the representation of the petitioner and when the representation of the petitioner was rejected, he filed Writ Petition No.9651 of 1988, Sharwan Kumar vs. State of U.P. and others, which was dismissed vide judgment and order of this Court dated 27.7.1999. Against the judgment and order dated 27.7.1999 the petitioner filed Special Appeal No.354 of 1999, which too was dismissed vide judgment and order dated 21.8.2008. Against judgment and order dated 21.8.2008, Civil Appeal No.8902 of 2010 In re: Sharwan Kumar vs. State of U.P. and others was filed by the petitioner before the Hon'ble Apex Court wherein the following order was passed:-

"This appeal by special leave is directed against the judgment and order dated 21.8.2008 passed by the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, Lucknow Bench, Lucknow in Special Appeal No.354 (SB) of 1999.

After hearing learned counsel for the parties, we do not find any reason to interfere with the impugned order. This appeal is, accordingly, dismissed.

However, learned counsel appearing for the appellant submitted that the salary of the appellant was with-held for about 10 years and it was released only after the contempt petition was filed, that too, without giving any increment and revision of pay. The respondents are directed to took into the matter and see that if the salary was not paid, as per the revised pay scale and increments have not been given, the same shall be calculated and released in favour of the appellant within a period of two months from today."

5. Hon'ble Apex Court vide order dated 29.7.2015 while dismissing the Civil Appeal directed the respondents to look into the matter and see if the salary has not been paid as per revised pay scale and increments have not been given, the same shall be calculated and released in favour of the appellant within a period of two months. Since the judgement and order dated 29.7.2015 was not complied with, the petitioner filed Contempt Petition (C) No.111 of 2016, Sharwan Kumar vs. Mahesh Kumar Gupta and others before the Hon'ble Apex Court which was disposed of vide order dated 27.11.2017. Relevant portion of order dated 27.11.2017 is reproduced as under:-

"We have seen the reply filed by the respondent no.3.

We are satisfied that the order has been substantially complied with. In case the petitioner is still aggrieved by the action taken, he can question it in the appropriate proceedings before the appropriate forum. The contempt petition is hereby dismissed with the aforesaid observations."

6. Vide order dated 27.11.2017, liberty was granted to the petitioner that in case he is still aggrieved by the action taken, he can question it in the appropriate proceedings. In the meantime, another Writ Petition (S/S) No.2766 of 2011, Shrawan Kumar vs. State of U.P. and others was filed challenging order dated 18.4.2011 passed by the ITTUP whereby the petitioner was superannuated at the age of 58 years instead of 60 years. In this petition, the petitioner further prayed for payment of salary on the basis of 5th and 6th Pay Commission. This writ petition was disposed of vide judgment and order dated 29.1.2014 with a direction to the Principal Secretary, Industrial Development Department as well as the Secretary of the Department of Technical Education to take a decision in the matter. Aggrieved by the said judgment and order dated 29.1.2014, the petitioner filed Special Leave to Appeal (Civil) No.12015 of 2014, Sharwan Kumar vs. State of U.P. and others, which was dismissed as withdrawn. However, petitioner was given time to submit representation. The representation of the petitioner was rejected, hence he filed another Writ Petition No.217 (SS) of 2015, Sharwan Kumar vs. State of U.P. and others in which the following prayers were made:-

"i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 22.7.2014 passed by the opposite party no. 1and order dated 4.4.2014 passed by the opposite party no. 2 as contained in Annexure Nos. 1 and 2 respectively to this writ petition;

7. In Writ Petition No.217 (SS) of 2015, a preliminary objection was taken by respondents/Corporation that the writ petition is not maintainable on the principles of res-judicata and constructive res-judicata. This Court while considering the preliminary objections, disposed of the said writ petition vide judgment and order dated 28.1.2016. While deciding the writ petition, finding was given by the learned writ court and held that it was not open for the petitioner to raise the said issue of entitlement to the revised pay-scale as recommended by 5th and 6th pay commission as the same were held to be barred by principles res-judicata or constructive res-judicata.

8. The petition filed before the learned Single Judge, the petitioner again prayed for the relief(s) which he had already prayed in the earlier round of litigations along with the prayer that he may be disbursed the arrears of salary along with the payment of leave encashment, annual increments, Assured Career Progression and dearness allowance in terms of G.O. dated 10.7.1998 read with G.O. dated 17.12.1998 and Office Order dated 28.1.2017 (Annexure-16) and G.O. dated 08.12.2008 read with G.O. dated 29.12.2016 and Resolution dated 06.06.2018 of ITTUP (Annexure-23) after giving benefit of the policy of Assured Career Progression notified by G.O. dated 02.12.2000; and dearness allowance payable in terms of G.O. dated 22.9.2005 but not paid since 01.01.2001. Learned Single Judge, vide judgment and order dated 17.10.2019, had given a detailed finding regarding the prayer made by the petitioner as well as his entire litigation history, which reads as under (para 18 to 23):-

"18. From a perusal of the pleadings on record and the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the contesting parties, it comes out that the petitioner had earlier filed writ petition in the year 1985 praying for being granted 5 annual increments. The said petition was disposed of with a direction to the respondents to consider the representation of the petitioner. On the representation being rejected, the petitioner challenged the said order by filing writ petition in the year 1988 namely Writ Petition No.9651 of 1988, which petition was dismissed vide judgment and order dated 27.7.1999. Though a copy of the said writ petition has not been brought on record yet from a perusal of the judgment and order dated 27.7.1999 it comes out that the reliefs that had been prayed for by the petitioner in the said writ petition were for grant of increments in the wage revision, 5 annual increments and promotion, meaning thereby that there was no prayer for being granted the 5th and 6th Pay Revision as has been prayed for in the instant petition. Upon the said petition having been dismissed vide judgment and order dated 27.7.1999, the petitioner filed Special Appeal No.354 of 1999 which special appeal was also dismissed vide judgment and order dated 21.8.2008. The petitioner raised a challenge to the said judgment by filing Civil Appeal No.8902 of 2010 before the Apex Court and the Apex Court vide order dated 29.7.2015 did not interfere with the judgment and order dated 21.8.2008 passed in the special appeal but considering the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that his salary was withheld for about 10 years, directed the respondents to look into the matter and see that if the salary was not paid as per the revised pay scale and increments had not been given, the same would be calculated and released in favour of the appellant. Thus the order dated 29.7.2015 passed by the Apex court would have to be seen in the context of the reliefs that had been prayed for by the petitioner before the writ Court which were not for payment of the 5th and 6th pay revision but were for grant of annual increments in the wage revision, grant of 5 annual increments and for grant of promotion. When the compliance of the order passed by the Apex Court dated 29.7.2015 was not made, the petitioner filed Contempt Petition (C) No.111 of 2016 alleging contempt of the order dated 29.7.2015 passed by the Apex Court which could only have been to the extent of the reliefs that had been prayed for by the petitioner in the writ Court.

However, the petitioner cleverly worded the contempt petition and indicated in paragraphs 1 and 2 of the contempt petition that the alleged violation by the respondents is by not paying the revised pay scale and increments to the appellant. At the risk of repetition, it is to be noted that in the writ Court in the petition of 1985 and thereafter in the year 1988, there was no prayer for payment of revised pay scales as per the 5th and 6th Pay Revision. After the Apex Court issued notice of contempt, the matter remained pending before the Apex Court. The petitioner being perfectly aware that no relief had either been prayed for by him in the writ petition of 1985 or 1988 for payment of the pay scales as per the 5th and 6th Pay Revision, filed Writ Petition (S/S) No.2766 of 2011 before this Court praying for various reliefs including payment of salary on the basis of 5th and 6th Pay Revision. Why this fact is essential is that the petitioner was perfectly conscious of the fact that the issue before the Apex Court in Civil Appeal No.8902 of 2010 was not covering the 5th and 6th Pay Revision and payment of salary on the basis of 5th and 6th Pay Revision. The said writ petition was disposed of by this Court vide judgment and order dated 29.1.2014 with a direction to the respondents to look into the matter. Being unsatisfied with the said order, the petitioner preferred Special Leave to Appeal (Civil) No.12015 of 2014 which was dismissed as withdrawn but after extending the time to enable the petitioner to present the matter in pursuance of the judgment of the writ Court. When the representation of the petitioner was rejected, he preferred another petition namely Writ Petition (S/S) No.217 of 2015, inter alia, praying for quashing the order whereby his representation was rejected as well as making a specific prayer, apart from other reliefs, of being given the benefits of 5th and 6th Pay Revision. Again, while filing the said petition, the petitioner was conscious of the fact that the issue before the Apex Court in Civil Appeal No.8902 of 2010 was not pertaining to 5th and 6th Pay Revision.

19. The writ Court in Writ Petition (S/S) No.217 of 2015 vide judgment and order dated 28.1.2016, so far as relief pertaining to revised pay scales was concerned, categorically held that it was not open for the petitioner to raise the said issue all over again as the same would be barred by principles of res-judicata and constructive res-judicata. However, considering the order dated 29.7.2015 passed by the Apex Court directing that the revised pay scale and increments shall be calculated and released in favour of the appellant, the writ Court observed that as there is already an order of the Apex Court, the respondents are bound to comply with the same. However, no positive mandamus was issued by the writ Court for compliance of any order. Sri Sahai has categorically stated that the judgment of this Court dated 28.1.2016 has attained finality as the same has not been challenged either before this Court by filing special appeal or before the Apex Court, hence the findings recorded therein pertaining to res-judicata or constructive res-judicata so far as it pertains to the 5th and 6th Pay Revision have attained finality. Subsequent thereto, the Apex Court decided the contempt petition after perusal of the reply filed by the respondents and being satisfied that the order (dated 29.7.2015) has been substantially complied with. However, it was provided that in case the petitioner is still aggrieved by the action taken, he can question it in the appropriate proceedings before the appropriate forum.

20. What would be relevant is that the order of the Apex Court dated 27.11.2017 has to be seen in the context of the order dated 29.7.2015 against which the contempt petition had been filed by the petitioner. As already indicated above, the order dated 29.7.2015 cannot be construed to be an order with respect to 5th and 6th Pay Revision as no such prayer had been made in the petition against which special leave petition had been filed by the petitioner. Thus, the liberty granted by the Apex Court vide order dated 27.11.2017 that in case the petitioner is still aggrieved by the action taken, he can question it in the appropriate proceedings, has to be seen in the context of what had been prayed for in the writ petition against the order in which initially order dated 29.7.2015 had been passed by the Apex Court, meaning thereby that neither before the writ Court in the year 1988 in Writ Petition No.9651 of 1998 or before the Apex Court, the 5th and 6th Pay Revision were involved. This would also be apparent from the conduct of the petitioner that he was perfectly conscious of the fact that the Apex Court while dealing with the Civil Appeal No.8902 of 2010 was not seized with the relief pertaining to 5th and 6th Pay Revision as in the interregnum period, the petitioner had already filed two writ petitions before the writ Court i.e. Writ Petition (S/S) No.2766 of 2011 and Writ Petition (S/S) No.217 of 2015 in which apart from other reliefs, the relief pertaining to 5th and 6th Pay Revision had also been prayed for. Thus, by no analogy or by any stretch of imagination can the liberty of the Apex Court dated 27.11.2017 be considered as giving liberty to the petitioner to again file a writ petition for grant of 5th and 6th Pay Revision in view of the detailed discussion made above.

21. Having thus summed up the litigations as entered into between the petitioner and the respondents and the issues involved therein, the preliminary objection pertaining to maintainability of the present petition would have to be seen.

22. The present petition, as already indicated above, has been filed for payment of salary along with emoluments, gratuity, leave encashment as also annual increments after giving benefit of the policy of Assured Career Progression, dearness allowance and for arrears of salary on account of 5th and 6th Pay Revision. The Orders as have been referred to by the petitioner as detailed above pertain to the orders that had been passed by the ITTUP for extending the benefit of 6th Pay Revision. Thus, primarily the reliefs as have been prayed for by the petitioner pertain to fixation of salary in terms of the 5th and 6th Pay Revision along with consequential benefits of dearness allowance, salary, gratuity, leave encashment, annual increments etc. The reliefs can be viewed in two ways. Firstly, when the petitioner had approached this Court by filing two petitions, namely, Writ Petition (S/S) No.2766 of 2011 and Writ Petition (S/S) No.217 of 2015 praying for being given the benefit of 5th and 6th Pay Revision and in Writ Petition (S/S) No.217 of 2015 it was categorically held that the said relief was barred on account of principle of res-judicata or constructive res-judicata, consequently the present petition would not be maintainable praying for the said relief. Once the ACP, dearness allowance, gratuity, leave encashment would all flow out after fixation of the pay of the petitioner in terms of the 5th and 6th Pay Revision keeping in view the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Balbir Singh Turn (supra) but once the relief pertaining to 5th and 6th Pay Revision cannot be granted to the petitioner in the present petition keeping in view the judgment of this Court in Writ Petition (S/S) No.217 of 2015, consequently there cannot be any occasion for granting the consequences flowing therefrom in the present petition i.e. gratuity, leave encashment, annual increments, ACP etc.

23. Secondly, if the gratuity, leave encashment ACP and dearness allowance are said to not flow after giving benefit of 5th and 6th Pay Revision then too the present petition would not be maintainable taking into consideration the principle of Order II, Rule 2 of the CPC wherein in case the petitioner did not pray for any relief to the said effect in the earlier two petitions filed by him in the year 2011 and 2015, consequently he would be precluded from making the said prayer by means of the present petition. Thus in both the views, the present petition would not be maintainable taking into consideration the principle of res-judicata or constructive res-judicata and principle of Order II, Rule 2 of the C.P.C."

9. On due consideration to the submission advanced and perusal of the record, we are in full agreement with the finding recorded by learned Single Judge except the finding with regard to the bar of res-judicata on resolution dated 6.6.2018. The relevant finding is as under:-

Hon'ble Apex Court while deciding the Contempt Petition (C) No.111 of 2016, Sharwan Kumar vs. Mahesh Kumar Gupta and others, vide its order dated 27.11.2017 granted liberty to the petitioner that in case he is still aggrieved by the action taken he can question it in the appropriate proceedings before the appropriate forum. It appears that this liberty was granted to the petitioner considering the reply of the contemnor before the Hon'ble Apex court vide their affidavit dated 15.11.2017, which is at page 346 of the appeal, particularly para 9 and 10. In the affidavit reference was given to the 60th meeting of the Board of Directors of IITUP wherein the Board of Directors pursuant to the government order dated 29.12.2016 considered the matter and resolved to provide the pay scale to the employees of ITTUP to be revised w.e.f. 1.1.2017 as per 6th Pay commission.

10. Thereafter on the joint recommendations made by the employees of IITUP including the petitioner, the State Government inquired/required the details of burden of expenditure arising if arrears, according to the recommendations of the 5th and 6th pay commission w.e.f. 1.1.2006 were paid to the employees of ITTUP. In reply, respondent no.3 has submitted a report dated 21.11.2017 to the government giving details of expenditure, to be incurred in case the recommendations of the 6th pay commission are implemented and the benefits of pay revision is given to the employees of ITTUP w.e.f. 1.1.2006. In the letter dated 21.12.2017 (supra) respondent no.3 has further conveyed that the government has already informed that the ITTUP is capable to bear the expenditure which may be incurred on payment of arrears w.e.f. 1.1.2006 to the employees of ITTUP.

11. In the backdrop, it appears that Board of Directors in its 61st meeting held on 6.6.2018 took a decision on point no.5 of the agenda and approved the payment of arrears as per 6th pay commission recommendation w.e.f. 1.1.2006, and also provided the budgetary allocation for the purpose of said payment and the matter was directed to be referred to State Government. It is in this background the fresh cause of action has accrued to the petitioner. The letter dated 21.12.2017 of respondent No.3 and respondent no.2 giving details of the burden of the expenditure and also the resolution of the Board of Directors passed in its 61st meeting held on 6.6.2018 was not there before the Apex Court when the liberty was granted to the petitioner.

12. Considering the aforesaid, we are of the view that the resolution of the Board of Directors dated 6.6.2018 by which a decision has been taken to make payment of arrears arising out of 6th pay commission recommendation w.e.f. 1.1.2006 to the employees of the ITTUP, read with letter dated 21.12.2017 coupled with the direction of Hon. Supreme Court undoubtedly give rise to the fresh cause of action to this limited extent.

13. Law in this regard is settled that if there is fresh cause of action, principle of res-judicata will not apply. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hope Plantations Ltd. vs. Taluk Land Board, Peermade and another; (1999) 5 SCC 590 has held as under:-

"31. Law on res judicata and estoppel is well understood in India and there are ample authoritative pronouncements by various courts on these subjects. As noted above, the plea of res judicata, through technical, is based on public policy in order to put an end to litigation. It is, however, different if an issue which had been decided in an earlier litigation again arises for determination between the same parties in a suit based on a fresh cause of action or where there is continuous cause of action....."

14. Considering the affidavits filed by the contemnor coupled with the fact that there was subsequent resolution of the Board of Directors dated 6.6.2018 passed in the 61st meeting whereafter respondent no.2 having approved the payment of arrears arising out of 6th pay commission w.e.f. 1.1.2006 and the budgetary allocation having also been provided and the matter was referred to the State Government, as also keeping in view the law laid down by Hon. Apex Court, we are of the opinion that to this limited extent, the writ petitioner has a fresh cause of action with respect to the payment of arrears of his salary in the light of sixth pay commission recommendation w.e.f. 1.1.2006 which also included the petitioner for the first time. The resolution dated 6.6.2018 was not before any court earlier, which has factually changed the entire situation. Hence, we direct the State Government to take a decision on the recommendation of the Board of Directors in their 61st meeting for grant of benefit available under 6th pay commission report to the petitioner w.e.f. 1.1.2006.

15. To the aforesaid extent, the order impugned in this appeal is modified.

16. The appeal is, accordingly, partly allowed.

Present appeal is against judgment dated 20.04.2007, passed in Writ Petition No. 484 (S/S) of 1987.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J.

Hon'ble Virendra Kumar-II, J.)

1. Heard Sri A.P. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Amrendra Pratap Singh, Advocate for appellant and learned Standing Counsel for respondents.

2. This intra-Court appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1952") has arisen from judgement dated 20.04.2007 passed by learned Single Judge by dismissing appellant's Writ Petition No.484 (S/S) of 1987 filed against punishment order of dismissal dated 29.09.1986.

3. Learned counsel for appellant contended that a major punishment of dismissal has been imposed upon appellant without holding any oral enquiry whatsoever. Appellant, at no point of time, admitted charge levelled against him.

4. Learned Single Judge, however, relying on Supreme Court's decision in L.K. Verma Vs. HMT Ltd. and Another 2006 (2) SCC 269 has observed that when reply was not given to charge-sheet, it amounts to admission of allegation levelled against him and, therefore, punishment is justified.

5. It is submitted by learned Senior Counsel that judgment of L.K. Verma (supra) has wrongly been relied as it does not lay down the law as stated by learned Single Judge. Repeatedly, a catena of decisions are available wherein it has been held by Apex Court as well as this Court that a major penalty of dismissal cannot be imposed without holding enquiry in accordance with Rules. Disciplinary Enquiry has to follow a procedure wherein Employer has first to prove charge and thereafter, employee is to be given opportunity of defence which has not been done in the case in hand. It has also been repeatedly held that non-submission of reply to the charge-sheet does not amount to admission of charge and in such case Department has to prove charge. Mere levelling of allegation upon employee does not amount to automatic proof of charge.

6. Facts, in brief, giving rise to the present appeal are that appellant was an Assistant Agricultural Inspector (Group-III) of Subordinate Agricultural Services. He was placed under suspension vide order dated 07.04.1981 on the allegations of embezzlement. A charge-sheet dated 22.02.1983 was served upon appellant. Three charges were imposed which read as under:-

(English Translation by Court)

7. Disciplinary Authority appointed an Enquiry Officer who issued notice to appellant but he did not submit reply to the charge-sheet. Thereupon Enquiry Officer straightaway submitted Enquiry Report dated 15.08.1986 holding charges proved and then punishment order was passed. Enquiry Report shows that it has discussed that opportunity was given to appellant to submit reply to the charge-sheet but he did not cooperate in enquiry by submitting reply to the charge-sheet and, therefore, Enquiry Officer proceeded by treating charges self proved. It is argued that this procedure adopted by Enquiry Officer is not consistent with law laid down in number of authorities.

8. Now the sole question up for consideration is "whether non holding of oral inquiry before imposing major penalty of removal would vitiate the entire proceeding including order of punishment."

9. In Meenglas Tea Estate v. The workmen., AIR 1963 SC 1719, Court observed "It is an elementary principle that a person who is required to answer a charge must know not only the accusation but also the testimony by which the accusation is supported. He must be given a fair chance to hear the evidence in support of the charge and to put such relevant questions by way to cross-examination as he desires. Then he must be given a chance to rebut the evidence led against him. This is the barest requirement of an enquiry of this character and this requirement must be substantially fulfilled before the result of the enquiry can be accepted.

10. In State of U.P. v. C. S. Sharma, AIR 1968 SC 158, Court held that omission to give opportunity to the officer to produce his witnesses and lead evidence in his defence vitiates the proceedings. Court also held that in the enquiry, witnesses have to be examined in support of the allegations, and opportunity has to be given to the delinquent to cross-examine these witnesses and to lead evidence in his defence.

11. In Punjab National Bank v. A.I.P.N.B.E. Federation, AIR 1960 SC 160, (vide para 66), Court held that in such enquiries evidence must be recorded in the presence of charge-sheeted employee and he must be given an opportunity to rebut the said evidence. Same view was taken in A.C.C. Ltd. v. Their Workmen, (1963) II LLJ. 396, and in Tata Oil Mills Co. Ltd. v. Their Workmen, (1963) II LLJ. 78 (SC).

12. In S.C. Girotra v. United Commercial Bank 1995 Supp. (3) SCC 212, Court set aside a dismissal order which was passed without giving employee an opportunity of cross-examination.

13. This Court in Subhas Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director and another, 2000(1) UPLBEC 541, said:-

"In our opinion after the petitioner replied to the charge-sheet a date should have been fixed for the enquiry and the petitioner should have been intimated the date, time and place of the enquiry and on that date the oral and documentary evidence against the petitioner should have been led in his presence and he should have been given an opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses against him and also he should have been given an opportunity to produce his own witnesses and evidence. If the petitioner in response to this intimation had failed to appear for the enquiry then an ex parte enquiry should have been held but the petitioner's service should have not been terminated without holding an enquiry. In the present case it appears that no regular enquiry was held at all. All that was done that after receipt of the petitioner's reply to the charge-sheet he was given a show-cause notice and thereafter the dismissal order was passed. In our opinion this was not the correct legal procedure and there was violation of the rules of natural justice. Since no date for enquiry was fixed nor any enquiry held in which evidence was led in our opinion the impugned order is clearly violative of natural justice."

(emphasis added)

14. The above judgment was followed by another Division Bench in Subhas Chandra Sharma v. U.P. Co-operative Spinning Mills and others reported 2001 (2) UPLBEC 1475 where Court held:

"In cases where a major punishment proposed to be imposed an oral enquiry is a must, whether the employee request, for it or not. For this it is necessary to issue a notice to the employee concerned intimating him date, time and place of the enquiry as held by the Division Bench of this Court in Subhash Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director, (2000) 1 UPLBEC 541, against which SLP has been dismissed by the Supreme Court on 16-8-2000."

15. In State of Uttar Pradesh v. Saroj Kumar Sinha reported (2010) 2 SCC 772 Court said :-

"An inquiry officer acting in a quasi-judicial authority is in the position of an independent adjudicator. He is not supposed to be a representative of the department/ disciplinary authority/ Government. His function is to examine the evidence presented by the Department, even in the absence of the delinquent official to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved. In the present case the aforesaid procedure has not been observed. Since no oral evidence has been examined the documents have not been proved, and could not have been taken into consideration to conclude that the charges have been proved against the respondents.

When a departmental enquiry is conducted against the government servant it cannot be treated as a casual exercise. The enquiry proceedings also cannot be conducted with a closed mind. The inquiry officer has to be wholly unbiased. The rules of natural justice are required to be observed to ensure not only that justice is done but is manifestly seen to be done. The object of rules of natural justice is to ensure that a government servant is treated fairly in proceedings which may culminate in imposition of punishment including dismissal/removal from service." (emphasis added)

16. Similar view was taken in Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank, (2009) 2 SCC 570 where Court said:

"Indisputably, a departmental proceeding is a quasi-judicial proceeding. The enquiry officer performs a quasi-judicial function. The charges levelled against the delinquent officer must be found to have been proved. The enquiry officer has a duty to arrive at a finding upon taking into consideration the materials brought on record by the parties. The purported evidence collected during investigation by the investigating officer against all the accused by itself could not be treated to be evidence in the disciplinary proceeding. No witness was examined to prove the said documents. The management witnesses merely tendered the documents and did not prove the contents thereof. Reliance, inter alia, was placed by the enquiry officer on the FIR which could not have been treated as evidence."

(emphasis added)

17. In Rajesh Prasad Mishra v. Commissioner, Jhansi Division, Jhansi and others reported 2010 (1) UPLBEC 216 Court observed, as under, after detail analysis of authorities on the subject:

"Now coming to the question, what is the effect of non-holding of oral inquiry, I find that, in a case where the inquiry officer is appointed, oral inquiry is mandatory. The charges are not deemed to be proved suo motu merely on account of levelling them by means of the charge sheet unless the same are proved by the department before the inquiry officer and only thereafter it is the turn of delinquent employee to place his defence. Holding oral enquiry is mandatory before imposing a major penalty, as held by Apex Court in State of U.P. & another Vs. T.P.Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831 as well as by a Division Bench of this Court in Subhash Chandra Sharma Vs. Managing Director & another, 2000 (1) U.P.L.B.E.C. 541."

18. In another case in Subhash Chandra Gupta v. State of U.P., 2012 (1)

UPLBEC 166, a Division Bench of this Court, after survey of law on this issue, observed as under:

"It is well settled that when the statute provides to do a thing in a particular manner that thing has to be done in that very manner. We are of the considered opinion that any punishment awarded on the basis of an enquiry not conducted in accordance with the enquiry rules meant for that very purposes is unsustainable in the eye of law. We are further of the view that the procedure prescribed under the inquiry rules for imposing major penalty is mandatory in nature and unless those procedures are followed, any out come inferred thereon will be of no avail unless the charges are so glaring and unrefutable which does not require any proof. The view taken by us find support from the judgement of the Apex Court in State of U.P. & another Vs. T.P.Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831 as well as by a Division Bench of this Court in Subash Chandra Sharma Vs. Managing Director & another, 2000 (1) U.P.L.B.E.C. 541.

A Division Bench decision of this Court in the case of Salahuddin Ansari Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2008 (3) ESC 1667 held that non holding of oral inquiry is a serious flaw which can vitiate the order of disciplinary proceeding including the order of punishment has observed as under:-

" 10..... Non holding of oral inquiry in such a case, is a serious matter and goes to the root of the case.

11. A Division Bench of this Court in Subash Chandra Sharma Vs. Managing Director & another, 2000 (1) U.P.L.B.E.C. 541, considering the question as to whether holding of an oral inquiry is necessary or not, held that if no oral inquiry is held, it amounts to denial of principles of natural justice to the delinquent employee. The aforesaid view was reiterated in Subash Chandra Sharma Vs. U.P.Cooperative Spinning Mills & others, 2001 (2) U.P.L.B.E.C. 1475 and Laturi Singh Vs U.P.Public Service Tribunal & others, Writ Petition No. 12939 of 2001, decided on 06.05.2005."

(emphasis added)

19. Even if employee refuses to participate in the enquiry, employer cannot straightaway dismiss him, but he must hold an ex-parte enquiry where evidence must be led as held in Imperial Tobacco Co. Ltd. v. Its Workmen, AIR 1962 SC 1348, Uma Shankar v. Registrar, 1992 (65) FLR 674 (All).

20. A Division Bench of this Court in Mahesh Narain Gupta v. State of U.P. and others, (2011) 2 ILR 570 had also occasion to deal with the same issue. It has held:

"At this stage, we are to observe that in the disciplinary proceedings against a delinquent, the department is just like a plaintiff and initial burden lies on the department to prove the charges which can certainly be proved only by collecting some oral evidence or documentary evidence, in presence and notice charged employee. Even if the department is to rely its own record/document which are already available, then also the enquiry officer by looking into them and by assigning his own reason after analysis, will have to record a finding that hose documents are sufficient enough to prove the charges.

In no case, approach of the Enquiry Officer that as no reply has been submitted, the charge will have to be automatically proved can be approved. This will be erroneous. It has been repeatedly said that disciplinary authority has a right to proceed against delinquent employee in exparte manner but some evidence will have to be collected and justification to sustain the charges will have to be stated in detail. The approach of the enquiry officer of automatic prove of charges on account of non filing of reply is clearly misconceived and erroneous. This is against the principle of natural justice, fair play, fair hearing and, thus, enquiry officer has to be cautioned in this respect."

(emphasis added)

21. Recently, entire law on the subject has been reviewed and reiterated in Chamoli District Co-operative Bank Ltd. Vs. Raghunath Singh Rana and others, AIR 2016 SC 2510 and Court has culled out certain principles as under:

"i) The enquiries must be conducted bona fide and care must be taken to see that the enquiries do not become empty formalities.

ii) If an officer is a witness to any of the incidents which is the subject matter of the enquiry or if the enquiry was initiated on a report of an officer, then in all fairness he should not be the Enquiry Officer. If the said position becomes known after the appointment of the Enquiry Officer, during the enquiry, steps should be taken to see that the task of holding an enquiry is assigned to some other officer.

(iii) In an enquiry, the employer/department should take steps first to lead evidence against the workman/delinquent charged and give an opportunity to him to cross-examine the witnesses of the employer. Only thereafter, the workman/delinquent be asked whether he wants to lead any evidence and asked to give any explanation about the evidence led against him.

(iv) On receipt of the enquiry report, before proceeding further, it is incumbent on the part of the disciplinary/punishing authority to supply a copy of the enquiry report and all connected materials relied on by the enquiry officer to enable him to offer his views, if any."

(emphasis added)

22. I may hasten to add that the above mentioned law is subject to certain exception. When the facts are admitted or no real prejudice has been caused to employee or no other conclusion is possible, in such a situation, the order shall not be vitiated. Reference may be made to some of such decisions of Supreme Court in K.L.Tripathi v. State Bank of India reported AIR 1984 SC 273 ; State Bank of Patiala v. S.K. Sharma, AIR 1996 SC 1669; and, Biecco Lawrie Ltd. v. West Bengal reported (2009) 10 SCC 32.

23. Learned Standing Counsel while not disputing that no oral enquiry was conducted by fixing any date, time or place, submitted that reliance placed by learned Single Judge on the judgement in L.K. Verma (supra) is correct and no inference is required.

24. We have gone through aforesaid judgement. Therein L.K. Verma was employed as a Safety Officer in HMT Limited. He was placed under suspension whereagainst he preferred an appeal before Labour Commissioner in terms of Rule 14 of U.P. Factories (Safety Officers) Rules, 1984 (in short "Rules, 1984"). Appeal was not decided. Hence, he filed writ petition which was disposed of directing Labour Commissioner to decide appeal. When the matter was pending before Commissioner, departmental enquiry was completed. A show-cause notice was issued to L.K. Verma on 08.01.1998 as to why punishment of dismissal be not awarded. Thereafter, Labour Commissioner issued notice to HMT Limited to appear on 02.04.1998. Employer sought adjournment on the ground that officers were busy in closing of financial year. Adjournment was refused by Labour Commissioner and he fixed 09.04.1998 for hearing of the parties which was a holiday. Memo of Appeal was also not supplied to Employer when this matter was pending before Labour Commissioner. Employer passed an order dated 21.02.1998 dismissing L.K. Verma from service. Later, Labour Commissioner vide order dated 12.04.1998 allowed appeal preferred by L.K. Verma against suspension order dated 20.05.1996. Aggrieved by order of Labour Commissioner passed on 12.04.1998, Employer i.e. HMT Limited filed writ petition before Uttranchal High Court which was allowed and, hence, matter came before Supreme Court. Supreme Court found that L.K. Verma was issued a charge-sheet on 20.05.1996 containing three charges. In departmental proceedings, he did not deny or dispute that he had used indecent language and also abused the officer. The findings of Enquiry Officer and punishment was challenged by L.K. Verma on the ground of malice which was negative by Supreme Court observing that out of three charges only charge-2 was found proved and L.K. Verma was exonerated in charges-1 and 3 which repel the contention of malice otherwise all the charges could have been held proved. Furthermore, when a charge is proved, question of exonerating employee on the ground of purported malice on the part of Management does not arise.

25. We do not find from aforesaid judgement that Court laid down as precedent that if no reply is given to charge-sheet, charges shall stand proved. On the contrary para-16 of judgement shows that L.K. Verma was found to have accepted that he made utterances which admittedly lack civility and he also threatened a superior officer. He sought to explain it that he was in tension but Court held that he could have at least tendered an apology but he did not do so. Court also held that witnesses were examined for proving charge before Enquiry Officer. Enquiry Officer recorded conclusion that both Management and witnesses corroborated each other's statements and though witnesses were cross-examined thoroughly, no contradiction was found in their statements in regard to said charge. This clearly shows that aforesaid judgement has been misread and does not state or lay down any law as stated in the impugned judgement of learned Single Judge. Therefore, we have no hesitation in holding that judgement of L.K. Verma (supra) is misread and has no application to the facts of the case and does not help respondents in any manner.

26. In view thereof, we allow this appeal. Impugned judgement dated 20.04.2007 passed by learned Single Judge in Writ Petition No.484 (S/S) of 1987 as well as punishment order dated 29.09.1986 are hereby set aside. Writ petition stands allowed. Appellant shall be entitled for all consequential benefits. However, this order shall not preclude respondents from proceeding afresh in accordance with law from the stage after service of charge-sheet.

4. Premlata Acharya Vs. Suman Acharya & ors, Special Leave to Appeal (C) No. 16315 of 2017

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J.)

1. Heard Sri Agnivesh holding brief of Sri Arimardan Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Shyam Sundar, learned standing counsel for the State-respondents.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying for the following relief:

"(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to permit the petitioner for remarriage without effecting the services of the petitioner."

3. Briefly stated facts of the present case are that the husband of the petitioner, namely Dharmendra Kumar was a class-IV employee in the respondent No.3 - Institution. During tenure of his service, he died on 06.03.2011. Therefore, the petitioner applied for her appointment on compassionate ground and she was appointed as a class-IV employee by appointment letter dated 23.12.2011, under the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servant Dying in Harness Rules, 1974. Now the petitioner wants to remarry with her devar (real younger brother of her husband), namely Sri Ranjeet Kumar. Averments in this regard has been made in paragraph-8 of the writ petition. In paragraph-9 of the writ petition, it is stated that the respondents are not permitting the petitioner to remarry with her devar Ranjeet Kumar.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the respondent Nos.2 and 3 have threatened that if the petitioner remarries with her devar, then action may be taken against her since her appointment was made on compassionate ground as she has to maintain the dependants of her deceased husband. Learned counsel for the petitioner states that the petitioner shall maintain dependants of her deceased husband including her mother-in-law. Learned counsel for the petitioner further states that to show her bona fide, the petitioner would pay every month, one third of her salary to her mother-in-law after she contracts marriage with her devar.

5. I have carefully considered the submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned standing counsel.

6. The petitioner has obtained employment on compassionate ground under Rule 5 of the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servant Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Rules, 1974'), which is reproduced below:

"5. Recruitment of a member of the family of the deceased - (1) In case a Government servant dies in harness after the commencement of these rules, and the spouse of the deceased Government servant is not already employed under the Central government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State Government, one member of his family who is not already employed under the Central Government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State Government shall, on making an application for the purpose, be given a suitable employment in Government Service on a post except the post which is within the purview of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission, in relaxation of the normal recruitment rules if such person -

(i) fulfils the educational qualifications prescribed for the post:

Provided that in case appointment is to be made on a post for which typewriting has been prescribed as an essential qualification and the dependent of the deceased Government servant does not possess the required proficiency in typewriting, he shall be appointed subject to the condition that he would acquire the requisite speed of 25 words per minute in typewriting well within one year and if he fails to do so, his general annual increment shall be withheld and a further period of one year shall be granted to him to acquire the requisite speed in typewriting and if in the extended period also he again fails to acquire the requisite speed in typewriting, his services shall be dispensed with.

Provided further that in case appointment is to be made on a post for which the knowledge of computer operation and typewriting has been prescribed as an essential qualification and the dependent of the deceased Government servant does not possess the required proficiency in computer operation and typewriting, he shall be appointed subject to the condition that he would acquire the 'CCC' certificate in computer operation awarded by the DOEACC Society or a certificate equivalent thereto from an Institution recognized by the Government together with the required speed of 25 words per minute in typewriting well within one year and, if he fails to do so, his general annual increment shall be withheld and a further period of one year shall be granted to him to acquire the required certificate in computer operation and the required speed in typewriting and if in the extended period also he again fails to acquire the required certificate in computer operation and the required speed in typewriting, his services shall be dispensed with."

(ii) is otherwise qualified for Government service; and

(iii) makes the application for employment within five years from the date of the death of the Government servant:

Provided that where the State Government is satisfied that the time limit fixed for making the application for employment causes undue hardship in any particular case, if may dispense with or relax the requirement as it may consider necessary for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner:

Provided further that for the purpose of the aforesaid proviso, the person concerned shall explain the reasons and give proper justification in writing regarding the delay caused in making the application for employment after the expiry of the time limit fixed for making the application for employment along with the necessary documents/proof in support of such delay and the Government shall, after taking into consideration all the facts leading to such delay, take the appropriate decision."

(2) As far as possible, such an employment should be given in the same department in which the deceased Government servant was employed prior to his death.

(3) Every appointment made under sub-rule (1) shall be subject to the condition that the person appointed under sub-rule (1) shall maintain other members of the family of deceased Government servant, who were dependent on the deceased Government servant immediately before his death and are unable to maintain themselves.

(4) Where the person appointed under sub-rule (1) neglects or refuses to maintain a person to whom he is liable to maintain under sub-rule (3), his services may be terminated in accordance with the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999, as amended from time to time."

7. From perusal of Rule 5 of the Rules, 1974, it is clear that appointment of dependent of a deceased employee under Rule 5 of the Rules, 1974 is conditional. The conditions are provided in sub-Rules (3) and (4) of Rule 5. Therefore, a person obtaining appointment under Rule 5(1) of the Rules, 1974 is bound to maintain other members of the family of the deceased government servant, who were dependent on the deceased government servant immediately before his death and are unable to maintain themselves. If the person so appointed under Rule 5(1) of the Rules, 1974 neglects or refuses to maintain a dependent of the deceased employee to whom he is liable to maintain under sub-Rule (3), then services of such compassionate appointee may be terminated under sub-Rule (4) in accordance with the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999, as amended from time to time. But the appointment of the dependent of the deceased employee under Rule 5(1) of the Rules, 1974, cannot be interfered with solely on the ground that he/ she has contracted remarriage. Remarriage is not restricted by the Rules, 1974.

8. Remarriage is a personal choice of the petitioner who has obtained employment on compassionate ground under the Rules, 1974, which does not curtail employment of the petitioner on remarriage. Even after remarriage, the petitioner is bound to comply with the provisions of sub-Rule (3) failing which he may suffer consequences under sub-Rule (4) of Rule 5.

9. Right to marry with person of choice, is an integral part of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Companionship of choice by remarriage by a widow cannot be denied as companionship is one of the faculties by which life can be enjoyed. Merely because compassionate appointment has been obtained by the petitioner, she cannot be forced to sacrifice her fundamental right under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. In the relevant Rules as enacted dealing with disciplinary proceedings, remarriage has not been mentioned as one of the misconduct, disqualifications or disabilities. This is possibly for reason that fundamental rights under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, cannot be curtailed on account of remarriage by a widow. Even if a statutory provision is enacted to prohibit remarriage by a widow, as a condition for employment under the dying in harness Rule, its validity may be liable to challenge for breach of fundamental rights guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

10. In Smt. Subhwanti Devi vs. Siksha Adhikshak, Basic Siksha, Nagar Chetra, Allanabad and others, 1988 UPLBEC 80 (paras-8 and 9), a Division Bench of this court considered termination of an employee on the ground of remarriage and held that remarriage may be a social or biological human necessity or it may be on account of oppressive or aggressive nature of certain anti-social elements but that cannot be made the basis for termination of service.

11. In Municipal Employees' Union vs. Additional Commissioner (Water) DWS & SDU and another, 1996 (73) FLR 963 (Paras-8 and 10), a Division Bench of Delhi High Court considered the similar controversy of remarriage of a widow and held that there being no restraint by any personal law against remarriage, she is entitled to remarry. Even if a Rule prohibiting remarriage exists, it may be liable to challenge for breach of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Even if any such condition is imposed in any contract of employment restricting a widow to remarry, that would be ultra vires to the provisions of Article 21 of the Constitution of India and will be of no effect in law.

12. In Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.19016 of 2013 (Smt. Anikta Srivastava vs. State of U.P. and others), decided on 11.04.2013, a Bench of this court considered similar controversy and held as under:

"Remarriage is a personal choice of the petitioner and same can not at all be curtailed in any manner whatsoever, under the provisions of Dying in Harness Rule, 1974 as on compassionate appointment being offered she will have to comply with the obligation that which has been cast upon her i.e. to maintain the family members of deceased and in the event of failure to maintain, she can be subjected to the disciplinary proceeding and nothing beyond the same. Authority concern could not have insisted and asked the petitioner to file undertaking that she would not remarry in future and taking of such an undertaking would be clearly violative of Article 21 of the Constitution of India, inasmuch as right to marry a person of owns choice has been curtailed.

Apex Court, in the case of Kapila Hingorani Vs. State of Bihar 2003(6) SCC1 , has proceeded to mention that term life used in Article 21 has a wide and for reaching concept. It means something more than mere animal existence and the inhibition against the deprivation of life extends to all those limits and localities by which life is enjoyed. Right to marry person of ones choice, has been accepted as integral part of Article 21 of Constitution a per the judgment of Apex Court, in the case of Lala Singh Vs. State of U.P. One cannot be denied of companionship, as companionship is one of the faculties by which life can be enjoyed, and merely because compassionate appointment ha been provided, a person cannot be forced to sign affidavit sacrificing his/her fundamental right, that in future remarriage will not at all be contracted . The employer has in effect misused his dominant status of employer by asking for such an affidavit. This Court also in the case of Smt. Subhwanti Devi Vs. Shiksha Adhikshak 1988 U.P.L.B.E.C. 80 (DB) has taken the view, that remarriage may be a social or a biological human necessity, but same can never be made for termination of service, and remarriage has not at all been defined as one of the misconduct, disqualifications or disabilities. "

13. In Special Leave to Appeal (C) No.16315 of 2017 (Smt. Premlata Acharya vs. Suman Acharya and others), decided on 28.07.2017, Hon'ble Supreme Court considered similar controversy in the matter of payment of family pension while considering the provisions of the Rajasthan Compassionate Appointment of Dependants of Deceased Government Servants Rule, 1996 and observed that the family pension should continue to be paid to the grandfather of the children for the benefit of the children as per the Rules and 50% of the salary of the widow who remarried leaving her children with the maternal grandfather of the children, should continue to be paid for the children until the last of them attains the age of 25 years.

14. For all the reasons afore-stated, the writ petition is disposed off making it open to the petitioner that she is free to contract her remarriage. She shall give an undertaking in the form of an affidavit before the respondent Nos.2 and 3 that she shall pay one third of her salary to her mother-in-law every month, after she contracts the remarriage and shall continue to pay it to her mother-in-law till her (mother-in-law) life time.

15. With the aforesaid observations, the writ petition is disposed off.

Counsel for the Petitioners:

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Service Law - Rule of absorption in service - regular employment is the general rule - exception to such employment is litigious employment - it cannot be claimed as a matter of right -

once a person has knowingly exercised the option for their absorption in public employment, they cannot turn round and claim the benefits of Old Pension Scheme which stood abolished before their appointment

When the petitioners claim to have been appointed, Old Pension Scheme was not in existence. It was abolished in March 2005, whereas the petitioners have been appointed by absorption in the months of September or October 2007. The basis of their appointments is the provision of Section 21 E of the U.P. Secondary Education (Services Selection Boards) Act, 1982 which was inserted by U.P. Act of 37 of 2006 published in the gazette on 11.12.2006. Therefore, the Old Pension Scheme which already stood abolished in March 2005 was neither available to the petitioner on the date of their appointments nor the petitioners are entitled for benefit under the said scheme.

B. Doctrine of Election - Rule of Estoppel - where one knowingly accepts the benefits of a contract or conveyance or an order, he is estopped to deny the validity or binding effect on him of such contract or conveyance or order

5. It appears that subsequently a Government order dated 06.06.2001 and 30.06.2003 imposed certain restrictions for engagement of subject expert who have completed three academic sessions, which was challenged by several persons by filing the writ petitions, leading writ petition being Writ Petition No.35653 of 2003 (Manoj Kumar Rastogi and Others Vs. State Of U.P. and Others) which was disposed of by order dated 28.10.2003 following the directions given in Writ Petition No.6319 (S/S) of 2003 (Chandra Kishore and others Vs. State of U.P. & others decided on 20.10.2003), which is reproduced below:-

"i) The impugned order dated 30.6.2003 which prohibits the renewal of those Subject Experts who have completed three academic session, is quashed.

ii) Similar restriction imposed in the order dated 6.6.2001 alongwith the restriction for non-payment during summer vacation are also quashed.

The order shall be issued within a period of 10 days so that the students may not suffer any more.

iv)The opposite party no.1 is directed to frame a policy for the regularization of the existing Subject Experts against the existing 4000 vacancies of the teachers in the aided educational institutions after taking into consideration the aforesaid observation and if required, make necessary amendment in the U.P. 6. By U.P. Act No.37 of 2006, published in the U.P. Gazette Extra Part I, Section (Ka), dated 11.12.2006, Section 21-E was inserted in U.P. Secondary Education (Services Selection Boards) Act 1982, (hereinafter referred to as "the Act 1982"), which is reproduced below:-

*"[21E. Absorption of subject experts. - (1) There shall be a list of subject experts working in private aided secondary schools possessing prescribed educational and training qualification including the subject experts who have received honorarium and worked for a minimum period of two academic sessions and were working on September 30, 2006. 7. It appears that in view of the provisions for absorption inserted in the Act, 1982 as aforequoted, the petitioners were absorbed and appointed in service as Teachers against substantive existing vacancies. These appointment orders of the petitioners have been issued in the month of September or October 2007. One such appointment order of the petitioner No.1, dated 09.10.2007, is reproduced below:-

8. The Old Pension/GPF Scheme was effective till March 2005. By the Uttar Pradesh Retirement Benefits (Amendment) Rules 2005 notified on 07.04.2005, Rule 3 was inserted in the Uttar Pradesh Retirement Benefit Rules 1961 whereby it was provided that the Rules 1961 shall not be applicable on employees entering in service on or after 01.04.2005. It appears that simultaneously by another Notification dated 07.04.2005, General Provident Fund (Uttar Pradesh) Rules 1985 were amended by the Amendment Rules 2005 which came into force w.e.f. 01.04.2005. A new Pension Scheme by Notification No.l-3-379/nl -2005-301(9)/2003, dated 28.03.2005 was enacted which was followed by Government Order No. l-3-1051/nl-2008-301(9)-2003 - 14.8.2008 providing that the New Pension Scheme shall apply to all State Government employees coming in service on or after 1.4.2005. Details have been provided in the said scheme, a copy of which has been filed as Annexure 11 to the writ petition.

9. On the facts as briefly noted above, the petitioners are claiming benefit of Old Pension Scheme and, therefore, they have filed the present writ petition.

Submissions

10. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the petitioners are entitled for Old Pension Scheme for reason that despite directions given in the order dated 28.10.2003 in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.35653 of 2003, the State Government delayed in framing policy for regularisation of Subject expert. If the State Government would have framed the requlrisation policy immediately after the aforesaid order in the case of Manoj Kumar Rastogi and Others (supra) then the petitioners could have got benefit of Old Pension Scheme. Therefore, for the delay caused by the State Government in framing the regularisation scheme, the benefit of Old Pension Scheme can not be denied to the petitioners.

11. Learned standing counsel submits that the petitioners are not entitled for Old Pension Scheme in view of the Statutory Provisions and the nature of their initial engagement as subject expert.

Discussion and Findings

12. I have carefully considered the submissions of learned counsels for the parties.

13. Undisputedly, the petitioners were engaged as subject expert by different engagement letters issued in the year 2000, as part timer on fixed honorarium. The relevant portion of the Government order dated 11.10.1999, permitting such engagement and the engagement letters of the petitioners, as already been reproduced above, leaves no manner of doubt that the petitioners were engaged on a fixed honorarium as a part time subject experts and they were not to be treated as Government employee and were not entitled for benefit of pension, provident fund and leave etc.

14. Petitioners have been absorbed and came to be appointed only after Section 21 E was inserted in the Act 1982 on 11.12.2006. The petitioners have been appointed and became part of service cadre and became Government Servant only on their appointments which were made in September and October 2007 when the new scheme was in force. The Old Pension Scheme was abolished in March 2005, which is much prior to the appointments of the petitioners. The petitioners themselves accepted the offer of their appointment by absorption after well looking into the relevant provisions and the Government orders as well as the offer for the post made to them. The provisions of the Scheme 21 E or the relevant Government orders or the Old Pension Scheme and the New Pension Scheme are not under challenge in the present writ petition. It is settled law that writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can not be issued either contrary to the statutory provisions or to disobey or ignore the statutory provisions. Under the circumstances none of the relief of mandamus as prayed by the petitioners can be granted to the petitioners.

Rules of absorption

15. In Secretary, State of Karnataka Vs. Uma Devi (2006) 4 SCC 1 (paras 3 & 4), the Constitution Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court laid down the law that regular appointment must be the rule. But sometimes this process is not adhered and the constitutional scheme of public employment is by-passed. A class of employment which can only be called "litigious employment", has risen like a phoenix seriously impairing the constitutional scheme. Whether the wide power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is intended to be used for a purpose certain to defeat the concept of social justice and equal opportunity for all, subject to affirmative action in the matter of public employment as recognised by our Constitution, has to be seriously pondered over. It is time, that the Courts desist from issuing orders preventing regular selection or recruitment at the instance of such persons and from issuing directions for continuance of those who have not secured regular appointments as per procedure established. In paragraphs 5 & 6 of the aforesaid judgment in the case of Umadevi (supra), Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"5. This Court has also on occasions issued directions which could not be said to be consistent with the Constitutional scheme of public employment. Such directions are issued presumably on the basis of equitable considerations or individualization of justice. The question arises, equity to whom? Equity for the handful of people who have approached the Court with a claim, or equity for the teeming millions of this country seeking employment and seeking a fair opportunity for competing for employment? When one side of the coin is considered, the other side of the coin, has also to be considered and the way open to any court of law or justice, is to adhere to the law as laid down by the Constitution and not to make directions, which at times, even if do not run counter to the Constitutional scheme, certainly tend to water down the Constitutional requirements. It is this conflict that is reflected in these cases referred to the Constitution Bench.

6. The power of a State as an employer is more limited than that of a private employer inasmuch as it is subjected to constitutional limitations and cannot be exercised arbitrarily (See Basu's Shorter Constitution of India). Article 309 of the Constitution gives the Government the power to frame rules for the purpose of laying down the conditions of service and recruitment of persons to be appointed to public services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or any of the States. That Article contemplates the drawing up of a procedure and rules to regulate the recruitment and regulate the service conditions of appointees appointed to public posts. It is well acknowledged that because of this, the entire process of recruitment for services is controlled by detailed procedure which specify the necessary qualifications, the mode of appointment etc. If rules have been made under Article309 of the Constitution, then the Government can make appointments only in accordance with the rules. The State is meant to be a model employer. The Employment Exchanges (Compulsory Notification of Vacancies) Act, 1959 was enacted to ensure equal opportunity for employment seekers. Though this Act may not oblige an employer to employ only those persons who have been sponsored by employment exchanges, it places an obligation on the employer to notify the vacancies that may arise in the various departments and for filling up of those vacancies, based on a procedure. Normally, statutory rules are framed under the authority of law governing employment. It is recognized that no government order, notification or circular can be substituted for the statutory rules framed under the authority of law. This is because, following any other course could be disastrous inasmuch as it will deprive the security of tenure and the right of equality conferred on civil servants under the Constitutional scheme. It may even amount to negating the accepted service jurisprudence. Therefore, when statutory rules are framed under Article 309 of the Constitution which are exhaustive, the only fair means to adopt is to make appointments based on the rules so framed."

(emphasis supplied)

16. In Pratap Kishore Panda & others Vs. Agni Charan Das & others (2015) 17 SCC 789 (para 17), Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to the law laid down by the Constitution Bench in Umadevi (supra) and held that the doctrine is that if employment of persons is contrary to or de-hors the statutory provisions and / or Rules and Regulations, then equities will not have any play even if such persons have been rendering services for service years. The most that can be done for such employees is for the State Government to devise a scheme, as a one time measure, for their absorption so long as the Governing Statute or the Rules and Regulations are not infringed.

17. In State of U.P. Vs. Anand Kumar Yadav (2018) 13 SCC 560, the Hon'ble Supreme Court summarised the principles of rule of equity in public employment and Articles 14 & 16 of the Constitution of India.

18. In Brij Mohan Lal Vs. Union of India & others (2012) 6 SCC 502 (paras 172 & 173), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that absorption in service is not a right.

19. In Indu Shekhar Singh & others Vs. State of U.P. & others (2006) 8 SCC 129 (para 26), the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to its earlier judgment in R.N. Gosain Vs. Yashpal Dhir (1992) (4) SCC 683, Ramankutti Guptan Vs. Avara (1994) 2 SCC 642 and Bank of India & others Vs. O.P. Swarnakar & others (2003) 2 SCC 721 and held that once person exercises his right of option and obtain entry in service on the basis of election, he cannot be allowed to turn round that the conditions are illegal. Further more, there is no fundamental right in regard to counting of the services rendered in an autonomous body. The past services can be taken into consideration only when the Rules permit the same or where a special situation exits, which would entitle the employee to obtain such benefit of past service. The aforesaid judgment in the case of Indu Shekhar Singh (supra) involved the controversy with regard to availability of benefit of past service rendered prior to absorption of deputitionist.

20. In the case of Mrigank Johari & others Vs. Union of India (2017) 8 SCC 256 (para 33), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that since the appellants accepted the terms and conditions of the absorption, they could not plead otherwise.

21. In Union of India Vs Onkar Chand (1988) 9 SCC 298 (para 12), the Hon'ble Supreme Court while considering the benefit of length of service on deputation before absorption and held that opting permanent absorption, a person cannot claim benefits of absorption as well as the service put in time in the deputation quota.

22. In Union of India & others Vs. K Savitri & others (1998) 4 SCC 358 (paragraph 9), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

"The service conditions of the redeployed employees under the Rules being governed by the provisions in the rules as well as the instructions issued from the Government of India from time to time and in view of the clear unambiguous language in para 11.1 of the instructions referred to above the conclusion is irresistible that the past services of the redeployed staff cannot be counted for seniority in the new organisation. The Tribunal, therefore, committed serious error in directing that the past services would counted for the seniority of the employees in the All India Radio." (emphasis supplied)

23. The principles of law of public employment as discussed above leaves no manner of doubt that regular employment must be a rule. The power of State as an employer is more limited than that of the private employer inasmuch as it is subject to constitutional limitation. But some time, this process is not adhered and constitutional scheme of public employment is by passed as happened in the present case. Such employment is called "litigious employment". Absorption in public employment is not a right. It is an exception to the normal rule of public employment. It is subject to conditions of absorption. Once the petitioners have knowingly and with open eyes exercised the option for their absorption in public employment, they cannot turn round and say that New Pension Scheme should not be enforced and instead the Old Pension Scheme which already stood abolished in March 2005 should be applied to them.

24 It is settled law that when a scheme is abolished, even pending applications seeking benefit of the scheme, unless saved, will also cease to exist. Reference in this regard may be had to the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State Bank of India and another vs. Raj Kumar, (2010) 11 SCC 661.

25. In the present set of facts when the petitioners claim to have been appointed, Old Pension Scheme was not in existence. It was abolished in March 2005, whereas the petitioners have been appointed by absorption in the months of September or October 2007. The basis of their appointments is the provision of Section 21 E of the Act, 1982 which was inserted by U.P. Act 37 of 2006 published in the gazette on 11.12.2006. Therefore, the Old Pension Scheme which already stood abolished in March 2005 was neither available to the petitioner on the date of their appointments nor the petitioners are entitled for benefit under the said scheme.

Estoppel

26. The petitioners have elected to accept their appointments by absorption pursuant to the provisions of Section 21 E. Their appointment is based on the doctrine of election which is Rule of estoppel which postulates that no party can accept and reject the same instrument and that 'a person cannot say at one time that a transaction is valid and thereby obtain some advantage to which he could only be entitled on the footing that it is valid and then turn round and say that it is void for the purpose of securing some other advantage.'

27. As per Halsbury's Laws of England (4th Edition) Vol. 16 (Paragraph 1508), after taking an advantage under an order a party may be precluded from saying that it is invalid and asking to set it aside.

28. In the case of Joint Action Committee of Air Line Pilots' Association of India (ALPAI) and others v. Director General of Civil Aviation and others, (2001) 5 SCC 435 (Paragraph-12), Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to its earlier judgments in the case of Babu Ram alias Durga Prasad v. Indra Pal Singh, 1998(6) SCC 358, P.R. Deshpande v. Maruti Balaram Haibatti, 1998(6) SCC 507 and Mumbai International Airport Private Limited v. Golden Chariot Airport and another, 2010 (10) SCC 422 and held that the doctrine of election is based on the rule of estoppel. The doctrine of estoppel by election is one of the species of estoppel in pais (or equitable estoppel) which is a rule in equity. By that rule, a person may be precluded by his actions or conduct or silence when it is his duty to speak, from asserting a right which he otherwise would have had.

29. In the case of Cauvery Coffee Traders, Mangalore v. Hornor Resources (International Company Limited), (2011) 10 SCC 420 (Paragraph 34), Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to its decision in the case of Nagubai Ammal v. B. Shama Rao, AIR 1956 SC 593, CIT v. V. MR.P. Firm Muar AIR 1965 SC 1216, NTPC Ltd. v. Reshmi constructions, Builders & Contractors, (2004) 2 SCC 663, Ramesh Chandra Sankla v. Vikram Cement (2008)14 SCC 58 and Pradeep Oil Corpn. v. MCD (2011) 5 SCC 270 and held that a party cannot be permitted to "blow hot and cold", "fast and loose" or "approbate and reprobate". Where one knowingly accepts the benefits of a contract or conveyance or an order, he is estopped to deny the validity or binding effect on him of such contract or conveyance or order. This rule is applied to do equity, however, it must not be applied in a manner as to violate the principles of right and good conscience. In the present set of facts the petitioners have completely failed to establish that they have any right to claim the benefit of the abolished old pension scheme which was abolished much prior to their appointments or a right for consideration of their appointment pursuant to Section 21 E of the Act 1982 inserted on 11.12.2006.

30. For all the reasons aforestated, I do not find any merit in this writ petition. Consequently, the writ petition fails and is hereby dismissed.

A. Civil law- U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921- Section 16FF - Recruitment in Minority Institution - - minority institution cannot adopt a selection process which does not answer to the requirements of Article 14 and 16 of the Indian Constitution

A process of recruitment which does not answer the rudimentary requirements of a fair and just process can neither commend sanction in law nor can it be preserved by the protective umbrella of Article 30 of the Constitution. The provisions of Section 16FF cannot be construed as conferring an immunity to the minority institution to claim a right to select and appoint by adopting a process which is neither fair or transparent. (Delivered by Hon'ble Yashwant Varma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vijay Kumar Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Prabhat Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Ankur Tandon, the learned Standing Counsel and Sri Ambuj Mishra, learned counsel holding brief of Sri Gautam Baghel, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. These three petitions with the consent of parties are taken up for hearing together and shall stand disposed of by this common judgment.

3. Writ A No.9034 assails the validity of an order dated 17 November 2011 passed by the Joint Director of Education and consequential order of 14 December 2012 passed by the District Inspector of Schools. The order of Joint Director dated 17 November 2011 itself has come to be made pursuant to the directions issued by the Court on Writ A No.20463 of 2011. The order directed the District Inspector of Schools to undertake a detailed enquiry in respect of the alleged irregularities in connection of the selection of two Assistant Teachers in the respondent minority institution. The two Assistant Teachers are the petitioners in the writ petitions which are also being disposed of by this common judgement.

4. The petitioners claim to have been selected and appointed in the Institution as Assistant Teachers in the LT Grade on 10 April 2003. On a petition filed at their behest, directions were issued to the District Inspector of Schools to pass appropriate orders in relation to the approval which was sought. The District Inspector of Schools by its order of 22 February 2005 accorded approval to the appointment of the petitioners. While matters could have rested there, it appears from the record that a complaint was made in 2010 to the District Inspector of Schools by certain members claiming affiliation to a new Committee of Management which had come to hold office. One of the complainants approached the Court by filing Writ Petition No.20463 of 2011 which came to be disposed of with a direction to the Joint Director of Education to enquire into the complaint and take appropriate decision. It is pursuant to those directions that the impugned order of 17 November 2011 came to be passed. Pursuant to the directions made by the Joint Director in that order, an enquiry is stated to have been initiated whereafter the Committee of Management passed the order terminating the services of petitioners. The orders of termination are assailed by the individual petitioners in the connected writ petitions.

5. As is evident from the findings which are recorded in the order of the Joint Director of Education of 17 November 2011, it has been found that there were gross illegalities and irregularities committed in the entire selection process. The enquiry which was undertaken by the educational authorities established that most of the members of the Selection Committee had subsequently stated that their signatures had been forged on the papers relating to selection which were forwarded by the Management. The respondents have also found serious discrepancies and lack of particulars in the advertisements which were issued. They have noted that in none of the advertisements were the subject or disciplines in respect of which appointments were sought to be made find mention. The Joint Director in its order has also noted that Mohd. Saleem Khan [petitioner in Writ A No.31865 of 2013] came to be appointed on the post of Assistant Teacher LT Grade even though he possessed the qualifications of B.Sc., B.Ed. whereas the advertised qualification was of B.A., B.Ed. Insofar as Mohd. Shoeb Khan [petitioner in Writ A No.31868 of 2013] is concerned, it has come to be noted in the impugned order that the said candidate admittedly held the qualifications of B.A. and testimonials establishing having passed the Drawing Grade Examination. The order essentially holds that the said petitioners did not hold the B.Ed. degree at all. It is these gross illegalities which according to the respondents constrained them to command the Management to terminate the services of the two Assistant Teachers.

6. Sri V.K. Singh learned Senior Counsel has firstly submitted that the Joint Director of Education clearly had no jurisdiction or authority to pass directions to the District Inspector of Schools to undertake any enquiry. Referring to the provisions made in Section 16FF of the Intermediate Education Act, 19211, it was contended that the power to interfere with the choice made by the Management stands vested only in the Regional Deputy Director of Education or the Inspector as the case may be. It was consequently submitted that the Joint Director had no power to recommend or command the Management to terminate the services of the petitioners. It was further submitted that the respondents could not have interfered with the selection made only if they found that the persons selected did not possess the minimum qualifications as prescribed or were otherwise ineligible. This submission is addressed in light of the provisions made in Section 16FF(4). Turning then to the issue of the record as maintained by the Selection Committee, it was submitted that there was no legal requirement obliging the Selection Committee to award quality point marks under different heads or fields. It was also submitted that it was not open for the respondents to take cognizance of the complaints many years after approval had been accorded to the appointment of the petitioners by the District Inspector of Schools.

7. Sri Tandon learned Standing Counsel has on the other hand submitted that bearing in mind the gross illegalities which were noticed in the course of enquiry and from which the selection proceedings undisputedly suffered, the respondents were fully justified in interfering with the entire process and command the respondent Management to terminate those illegal appointments. It was submitted that while a minority institution may be empowered to select appropriate and eligible persons in light of the provisions made under Section 16FF, the State cannot be said to be totally deprived or denuded of authority especially when the burden of salaries of such teachers would ultimately fall on public exchequer. Sri Tandon learned Standing Counsel submitted that despite the nature of disclosures which are carried in the order of Joint Director, the petitioners have failed to establish that the selection process was in fact carried forth in accordance with law or for that matter was imbued with at least the minimal attributes of fairness as the Constitution otherwise commands.

8. Sri Mishra learned counsel appearing for the Management submits that the entire selection process was mired and tainted by fundamental illegalities and clearly did not commend acceptance by the respondents. He has while referring to the advertisements which were issued submitted that while the advertisement in Hindustan Times made no reference to the number of posts for which the recruitment process was being undertaken, the second advertisement published in Hindustan referred to two posts of trained L.T. Grade Teachers being the subject matter of the recruitment. He highlighted the fact that neither of the two advertisements set forth the disciplines for which applications were being invited for the purposes of selection. It was further contended that the advertisement mentions that the dates of interview would be intimated to the applicants by registered post and yet no material have been brought forth to establish that even this stipulation was adhered to or that it was pursuant to the intimation so received that the petitioners here ultimately participated in the alleged interview. Insofar as the validity of the proceedings drawn by the Selection Committee is concerned, Sri Mishra learned counsel refers to the judgment rendered by a learned Judge in Ajay Singh And Another v. State of U.P. And Others2 where the position has been taken that the provisions made in Appendix -C contained in Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the 1921 Act would ipso facto apply to minority institutions also and in view thereof it was incumbent upon the Selection Committee to award quality point marks upon the evaluation of individual candidates. In Ajay Singh the legal position was enunciated thus:-

"In view of the aforesaid provisions, Appendix 'C' attached to Chapter-II becomes applicable in respect of selections made on the post of Lecturers in minority institutions automatically. Appendix 'C' regulates the manner in which quality point marks and interview marks ought to be provided as well as bifurcation of the same. Proceedings of selection are necessary to be submitted in Appendix 'C', referred to above. It is only on such proceedings submitted in Appendix 'C', that the educational authorities can act upon and take decision for grant of approval to selected candidate. Appendix 'C' reads as follows:"

From the affidavit filed by the Regional Joint Director of Education, noticed herein above, it is apparent that the proceedings of selection, as required, have not been intimated as required in Appendix 'C' nor there is any other record available to educational authorities on the basis whereof Appendix 'C' could be prepared for taking decision that the selection on the post in question is in accordance with law. Even otherwise none of the respondents being able to demonstrate as to what was the maximum marks fixed for interview, the entire documents submitted for selection are rendered mere paper transaction. This Court is also not able to ascertain what was the maximum marks fixed for interview.

In view of the aforesaid, the entire papers pertaining to the selection of Sri Desh Deepak Srivastava do not inspire confidence and therefore the selection of Sri Desh Deepak Srivastava cannot be said to have taken place in accordance with the provisions applicable."

9. Sri Mishra then placed reliance upon a judgment rendered by a learned Judge in Sanjay Kumar Singh v. District Inspector of Schools, Jaunpur and Others3 to submit that consequent to the promulgation of the Government Order dated 19 December 2000 and constitution of the Regional Level Committee in terms thereof, the District Inspector of Schools had clearly no jurisdiction to accord approval since that power stood taken away and conferred on the Committee. According to Sri Mishra where the entire selection process was tainted by such gross illegalities, the petitioners could not have been permitted to draw salaries from State exchequer and that the Management was fully justified in terminating their services. In Sanjay Singh the position as would prevail after the issuance of the Government Order of 19 December 2000 was explained as under:-

"In the present case, it has been sought to be contended that once approval had been accorded by the District Inspector of Schools in exercise of authority vested under Section 16FF of U.P. Act No. 2 of 1921, then salary has to be ensured ipso facto automatically. Such question is being looked into and answered accordingly.

Section 16FF and the provisions as contained in Chapter II Regulation 17 quoted above would go to show that approval is required before making appointment. After approval has been accorded, the same is followed by exercise to be undertaken by the committee of management of the institution in terms of Chapter II Regulation 18, wherein the committee of management has been obliged under the resolution to issue an order of appointment by registered post to the candidate in the form given in Appendix- 'B', requiring the candidate to join the duty within ten days of receipt of such order, failing which appointment of candidate would be liable to cancellation. It is only when appointment letter is issued after approval has been accorded in terms of Chapter II Regulation 18 of the Regulations framed under .P. Act No. 2 of 1921, and incumbent accepts the appointment and joins then situation arises for ensuring payment of salary. In cases where institution is not at all in grant-in-aid list of State Government, there is no issue as salary has to be ensured by Management from its own resources, and State has no role to play in the same. In case institution is on the grant-in-aid list of the State Government and the provisions of U.P. Act No. 24 of 1971 are applicable, and papers are received for ensuring payment of salary, then at the said point of time, salary can be refused to an incumbent in case it is found that the appointment has been made in contravention of the statutory provisions or against any other post other than the sanctioned post. Chapter II Regulation 19, thus, gives the District Inspector of Schools one more opportunity vis-a-vis the provisions of U.P. Act No.24 of 1971 to re-examine the matter, as U.P. Act No. 24 of 1971 provides for ensuring salary for the post against which maintenance grant is paid by the State Government, and the District Inspector of Schools has also to see and ensure that the salary is paid accordingly. "Shall decline to pay salary and other allowances" though couched in negative manner, casts mandatory duty on the District Inspector of Schools, while exercising authority under the provisions of U.P. Act No. 24 of 1971, to see and ensure that no incumbent, whose appointment is in contravention of the provisions of Chapter II of U.P. Act No. 24 of 1971 or an incumbent who has not been appointed against sanctioned post, gets salary. There are two stages of examination; (i) Pre-appointment stage, in accordance with Section 16FF of U.P. Act No. 24 of 1971 read with Chapter II Regulation 17; (ii) Post-appointment stage in terms of Chapter II Regulation 18 of U.P. Act No. 24 of 1971, after appointment letter is issued. Qua pre-appointment examination, District Inspector of Schools under Section 16FF of U.P. Act No.2 of 1921 has no authority to withhold the approval of selection where the incumbent possesses the minimum qualifications prescribed and is otherwise eligible whereas once approval has been accorded in terms of Section 16FF of U.P. Act No. 2 of 1921, and incumbent has been issued appointment letter, and has joined and claim of salary is covered under U.P. Act No. 24 of 1971, then before release of salary, District Inspector of Schools has to see that the incumbent has not been appointed in contravention of Chapter II of U.P. Act No. 2of 1921 and has not been appointed against non sanctioned post. District Inspector of Schools has to satisfy himself on these two counts while undertaking exercise under the provisions of U.P. Act No. 24 of 1971 read with Chapter II Regulation 19. Both the provisions operate in different field and deals with different stages; i. e. (i) Pre-appointment and (ii) Post appointment state, as such to say that once appointment has been approved under Section 16FF of U.P. Act No. 2 of 1921, grant of salary is automatic, cannot be accepted and District Inspector of Schools has to undertake requisite exercise before release of salary."

"The validity of Government Order dated 19.12.2000 had been subject matter of challenge in Special Appeal No.1394 of 2004, Committee of Management vs. Regional Joint Director of Education and another as well as in Special Appeal No.1078 of 2005, Munna Lal Singh and another vs. State of U.P. and others. This Court in both the cases has not at all found transgression or overstepping of jurisdiction in constitution of Regional Committee, rather constitution of Regional Committee under the aforesaid Government Order has been seen in the context of extending assistance in favour of lawful incumbent. In respect of payment of salary also, Regional Level Committee assists the District Inspector of Schools. As already noted and discussed above, at no place and in no way Government Order dated 19.12.2000 proceeds to encroach upon or is in conflict with the provisions of U.P. Act No.2 of 1921 or U.P. Act No. 24 of 1971, inclusive of Constitution of India. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Kolawana Gram Vikas Kendra vs. State of Gujrat and others, J.T. 2009 (13) SC 581, vis-a-vis minority institution has taken the view that such exercise is valid exercise and in no way circular issued in the said direction amounts to unconstitutional interference in the internal working of minority institution, and has approved the action of the State Government vis-a-vis issuance of such Government Order in respect of ensuring payment of salary in following terms:

"6. In our considered view this to be the interference in the selection process. It would be perfectly all right for a minority institution to select the candidates without any interference from the Government. However, the requirement of this prior approval is necessitated because it is for the Government to see as to whether there was actually posts available in the said institution as per the strength of students and secondly; whether the candidates, who were sought to be appointed, were having the requisite qualifications in terms of the rules and regulations of the Education Department. That is precisely the stand taken by the State of Gujrat before us in its counter affidavit. Para 3 of the said affidavit reads as under:

"Minority institutions are free to select their teaching and non-teaching staff. No Government Officer or the representative of the Board was appointed in the selection committee of the minority institution. There is no interference by the government in the administration of schools. However, N.O.C. Is required to be obtained to verify whether there is a vacancy of a teach of a particular subject as per the workload fixed by the Gujrat Secondary and Higher Secondary Education Board specially when government is providing grant-in-aid and that he possesses minimum required qualification for the post he is appointed"

7. From the reading of aforementioned para 3, it is clear that all that the Government wants to examine is as to whether the proposed appointments were within the framework of the rules considering the workload and the availability of the post in that institution and, secondly; whether the selected candidate had the necessary qualification for the subjects in which the said teachers were appointed. The same applies to the non-teaching staff also.

8. In view of this clear stand taken by the State Government, we cannot pursue ourselve to hold that the aforementioned circular amounts to any unconstitutional interference in the internal working of the minority institution. In that view, we would choose to dismiss these appeals. However, Mr. Ahmadi raised another point saying that if the prior approval or the no objection certificate, as the case may be, is not awarded within seven days without any reason, then it would be hazardous for the minority institution to run itself. We do expect the competent authority to issue the no objection certificate within the time provided in the said circular which is of seven days. Of course, if there are any objections, the authority will be justified to take some more time within the reasonable limits."

Consequently, for the reasons discussed above, and in the facts of the case, as till date in consonance with the Government Order dated 19.12.2000, the Regional Committee has not at all vetted the claim of petitioner in respect of release of salary under U.P. Act No. 24 of 1971; consequently, no orders have been passed by the District Inspector of Schools, as such Regional Committee constituted under Government Order dated 19.12.2000 is directed to examine the claim of petitioner in accordance with the parameters as provided for under Chapter II Regulation 19 of U.P. Act No. 2 of 1921 and take appropriate decision, within two months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this judgment, and along with necessary recommendations, papers be transmitted to the District Inspector of Schools for further follow-up action."

10. Having noticed the rival submissions the stage is now set to deal with the issues that arise. At the very outset it may be noted that the selection and appointment of teachers in a minority institution and the right of the respondents to review or scrutinise an appointment made is governed by the provisions made in Section 16FF. The provision firstly lays down the composition of the Selection Committee. In case selection is for the Head of the institution, it must comprise of an expert selected out of a panel prepared by the Director. In case of appointment of a Teacher, the Selection Committee must also include the Head of the Institution as a member. Section 16FF (2) then provides that the Selection Committee shall follow such procedure "as may be prescribed". Regulation 17 falling in Chapter II which admittedly governs selections undertaken by a minority institution, attracts the procedure prescribed by Regulation 10 clauses (e) and (f) to such selections. It is in that backdrop that Ajay Singh [and in the considered view of this Court correctly] holds that it is incumbent upon the Selection Committee to draw a chart evidencing a comparitive analysis of the respective merit of candidates and the award of quality point marks. Undisputedly in the present case not only was no such exercise undertaken, the members who were shown as constituting the Selection Committee have not only denied having participated in any such exercise, they have gone to the extent of asserting that their signatures as stated to appear on the record of selection have been forged. This aspect amounts to a flagrant violation of the procedure prescribed by statute.

11. The Court then notices that the advertisements which were issued failed to disclose the disciplines/subjects in respect of which applications were being invited. One of the advertisements did not even mention the number of posts for which the selection was sought to be undertaken. It would be preposterous to countenance or uphold advertisements like the ones which form subject matter of the instant writ petition as being constitutionally valid. The Court is constrained to enter these observations bearing in mind that the selectees were entering public employment and whose salaries were to be borne out of public exchequer.

12. Insofar as Mohd. Shoeb Khan [the petitioner in Writ A No.31868 of 2013] is concerned, it is not disputed that he did not possess the qualifications as prescribed. His appointment was thus clearly untenable and the respondents were clearly empowered not only to direct but also to ensure that the Management brought that illegality to an end. Regard must be had to the fact that Section 16FF does empower the State respondents to enquire whether the candidate selected holds the prescribed qualifications and "is otherwise eligible". Before this Court it was not disputed that the writ petitioner did not possess the prescribed qualification. In view thereof the respondents must be held to have acted within their jurisdiction in commanding the Management to annul that appointment. That writ petition consequently merits dismissal on this score alone.

13. That then takes the Court to consider the principal submission which is addressed, namely, the extent of the jurisdiction which the respondents could have validly exercised in light of the provisions of Section 16FF. But before proceeding to do so, it would be apposite to articulate two fundamental precepts which necessarily must be borne in mind while evaluating the correctness of the submission advanced.

14. Article 14 is undisputedly the soul of the Constitution and embodies the quintessence of constitutionalism as evolved by our Courts. The doctrine of equality and fairness, which forms its fundamental core, must inform all actions in a constitutional democracy. This Article also guides and fortifies the guarantee immortalised in Article 16 of the Constitution. The pledge of equality as incorporated in these two Articles must guide all actions taken in connection with public employment. An essential facet of employment under the State is a fair and impartial recruitment process. Explaining this vital precept this Court in Prashant Kumar Jaiswal And Others Vs. State of U.P. And Others4 observed:-

65. The Court additionally bears in mind that the selections in question were for recruitment to a public service, a service in and under a corporation of the State. Certificates and diplomas issued by organisations which this Court chooses to describe as "sweatshop centers" which have no recognition or approval cannot be accepted as rendering a holder thereof eligible for employment in public service. An incumbent aspiring to enter public service or a corporation of the State must possess qualifications which are recognised or capable of being recognised in law. This because of the very nature of the employment being sought. After all, the incumbent and others like him in public service are the sinews of the organ which we call the State. On them is placed the burden and obligation to ensure the well being of the citizen, to secure the welfare of the people. A member of such a service must necessarily be possessed of certain core qualifications of a particular standard. Dealing with the issue of public service and employment in the context of appointments having been obtained on the basis of false caste certificates, the Supreme Court in Chairman and Managing Director FCI & others Vs. Jagdish Balaram Bahira 2017 SCC Online 715 and others made the following significant and eloquent observations which would ring true even in the present case and guide the Court in dealing with such issues. The Supreme Court noted:

"77. Service under the Union and the States, or for that matter under the instrumentalities of the State subserves a public purpose. These services are instruments of governance. Where the State embarks upon public employment, it is under the mandate of Articles 14 and 16 to follow the principle of equal opportunity. Affirmative action in our Constitution is part of the quest for substantive equality. Available resources and the opportunities provided in the form of public employment are in contemporary times short of demands and needs. Hence the procedure for selection, and the prescription of eligibility criteria has a significant public element in enabling the State to make a choice amongst competing claims. The selection of ineligible persons is a manifestation of a systemic failure and has a deleterious effect on good governance. Firstly, selection of a person who is not eligible allows someone who is ineligible to gain access to scarce public resources. Secondly, the rights of eligible persons are violated since a person who is not eligible for the post is selected. Thirdly, an illegality is perpetrated by bestowing benefits upon an imposter undeservingly. These effects upon good governance find a similar echo when a person who does not belong to a reserved category passes of as a member of that category and obtains admission to an educational institution. Those for whom the Constitution has made special provisions are as a result ousted when an imposter who does not belong to a reserved category is selected. The fraud on the constitution precisely lies in this. Such a consequence must be avoided and stringent steps be taken by the Court to ensure that unjust claims of imposters are not protected in the exercise of the jurisdiction under Article 142. The nation cannot live on a lie. Courts play a vital institutional role in preserving the rule of law. The judicial process should not be allowed to be utilised to protect the unscrupulous and to preserve the benefits which have accrued to an imposter on the specious plea of equity. Once the legislature has stepped in, by enacting Maharashtra Act XXIII of 2001, the power under Article 142 should not be exercised to defeat legislative prescription. The Constitution Bench in Milind spoke on 28 November 2000. The state law has been enforced from 18 October 2001. Judicial directions must be consistent with law. Several decisions of two judge benches noticed earlier, failed to take note of Maharashtra Act XXIII of 2001. The directions which were issued under Article 142 were on the erroneous inarticulate premise that the area was unregulated by statute. Shalini noted the statute but misconstrued it.

91. Medical education is what middle-class parents across the length and breadth of the county aspire for their children (whether this will continue to be so in future is a moot question). There is intense competition for a limited number of under-graduate, post-graduate and super-speciality seats. This can furnish no justification for recourse to unfair means including adopting a false claim to belong to the reserved category. The fault - lines of our system, be it in education, health or law, are that its lethargy and indolence furnish incentives for the few who choose to break the rules to gain an unfair advantage. In such a situation, the court as a vital institution of democratic governance must be firm in sending out a principled message that there is no incentive other than for behaviour compliant with rules and deviance will meet severe reprimands of the law." (emphasis supplied)

66. The views expressed by the Supreme Court in Jagdish Balaram highlighting the concepts of "substantive equality", the recognition of "limited opportunities" all bid us to hold that in matters of public employment the processes undertaken must be strictly tested on the principles enshrined in Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution. The Supreme Court has aptly described public services as "instruments of governance". This clearly underpins the conclusion arrived at by this Court that there can be no entry in public services on the strength of unrecognised qualifications. This Court therefore finds itself unable to accept the submission that an unrecognised qualification or for that matter a certificate issued by an organisation which is not recognised or acknowledged by law can be accepted in recruitment to a public service or in an organisation which is State as understood in terms of Article 12 of the Constitution.

15. The aforesaid decision has since been affirmed by the Supreme Court in MUKUL KUMAR TYAGI VS. STATE OF UTTAR PRADESH5.

16. It is equally important to remember that Article 30 standing in Part III of the Constitution like all other rights is not absolute or untramelled. The Constitution while recognising and preserving the right of minorities to establish and administer educational institutions does not envisage it to be a carte blanche to maladminister or to ignore basic concepts of fairness which must infuse any recruitment exercise. While undertaking a process of selection, the administrators of a minority institution cannot claim immunity from the rigours of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution. It would be appropriate to recollect the following caveat enunciated in TMA Pai Foundation Vs. State of Karnataka6 by the Constitution Bench:-

"135.We agree with the contention of the learned Solicitor-General that the Constitution in Part III does not contain or give any absolute right. All rights conferred in Part III of the Constitution are subject to at least other provisions of the said Part. It is difficult to comprehend that the framers of the Constitution would have given such an absolute right to the religious or linguistic minorities, which would enable them to establish and administer educational institutions in a manner so as to be in conflict with the other Parts of the Constitution. We find it difficult to accept that in the establishment and administration of educational institutions by the religious and linguistic minorities, no law of the land, even the Constitution, is to apply to them.

136.Decisions of this Court have held that the right to administer does not include the right to maladminister. It has also been held that the right to administer is not absolute, but must be subject to reasonable regulations for the benefit of the institutions as the vehicle of education, consistent with national interest. General laws of the land applicable to all persons have been held to be applicable to the minority institutions also -- for example, laws relating to taxation, sanitation, social welfare, economic regulation, public order and morality.

137.It follows from the aforesaid decisions that even though the words of Article 30(1) are unqualified, this Court has held that at least certain other laws of the land pertaining to health, morality and standards of education apply. The right under Article 30(1) has, therefore, not been held to be absolute or above other provisions of the law, and we reiterate the same. By the same analogy, there is no reason why regulations or conditions concerning, generally, the welfare of students and teachers should not be made applicable in order to provide a proper academic atmosphere, as such provisions do not in any way interfere with the right of administration or management under Article 30(1).

17. Reiterating the legal position the Supreme Court in a recent decision in Sk. Md. Rafique Vs. Managing Committee Contai Rahamania High Madrasah and others7 held:-

this Court, thus put the matter beyond any doubt and clarified that the right under Article 30(1) is not absolute or above the law and that conditions concerning the welfare of the students and teachers must apply in order to provide proper academic atmosphere, so long as the conditions did not interfere with the right of the administration or management. What was accepted as correct approach was the test laid down by Khanna, J. in*Ahmedabad St. Xavier's College*5case that a balance be kept between two objectives - one to ensure the standard of excellence of the institution and the other preserving the right of the minorities to establish and administer their educational institutions. The essence of Article 30(1) was also stated - "to ensure equal treatment between the majority and the minority institutions" and that rules and regulations would apply equally to the majority institutions as well as to the minority institutions.

18. The imperatives of a fair and just process of recruitment in order to select the most deserving and qualified candidate is a facet which has an indelible bond to standards of education in an educational institution. The rights that are claimed by a minority institution, coonsequently must be read as being subject to the caveat noticed above, namely, the obligation to act in accordance with the mandate of Articles 14 and 16. A process of recruitment which does not answer even the rudimentary requirements of a fair and just process can neither commend sanction in law nor can it be preserved by the protective umbrella of Article 30 of the Constitution. Regard must also be had to the fact that the Institution was in receipt of State aid. Once that institution stands conferred that benefit, the respondents could legitimately claim the right to regulate the selection process within the narrow confine culled out above. The provisions of Section 16FF cannot be construed as conferring an immunity to the minority institution to claim a right to select and appoint by adopting a process which is neither fair nor transparent. The right to select a teacher must be read as being hedged and subject to the rigours of other parts of the Constitution.

19. The power of the State to regulate and overseee within this narrow confine has an ineradicable link to maintenance of standards of education. The power if so exercised can neither be viewed as an infringment nor can it be said to impinge upon the rights guaranteed by Article 30. The State cannot be expected to remain a mute spectator while a minority institution proceeds to adopt a selection process which does not answer the requirement of Articles 14 and 16. Article 30 is neither an impregnable barrier nor can it be construed as a restraint upon the power of the State to regulate the affairs of a minority institution to the extent that the said power is exercised and invoked in aid of maintenance of standards. A minority institution cannot be permitted in law to act with impunity and then rise up to claim an unbridled constitutional right to administer. That right must be balanced against the constitutional obligation placed upon all constituents to act in accordance with law and the Constitution.

20. The Court also bears in mind that in the present case, it is the Management which has proceeded to annul the appointment of the petitioners. It does not assert or contend that its rights to administer and manage have been interfered with. Bearing in mind the serious irregularities from which the selection process stood tainted, the Court is of the considered view that the petitioners are not entitled to any relief and the petitions must fail.

21. The writ petitions are consequently dismissed.

Absence of Assistant Teacher (C.T. 1. Heard Sri Raj Mohan Saggi, Advocate for petitioner and learned Standing Counsel, Sri S.P. Bharti and Sri Arvind Yadav, Advocates for respondents in Writ Petition No. 16680 of 1991 (hereinafter referred to as "First Petition"); Sri Arvind Yadav, Advocate for petitioner and learned Standing Counsel, Sri R.M. Saggi and Sri S.P. Bharti, Advocates for respondents in Writ Petition No. 11177 of 2017 (hereinafter referred to as "Second Petition"); and, Sri Uma Nath Pandey, Advocate for petitioner and learned Standing Counsel as well as Sri Arvind Yadav, Advocate for respondents in Writ

Petition No. 34882 of 2017 (hereinafter referred to as "Third Petition").

2. First Petition has been filed by sole petitioner-Ram Piarey praying for a writ of mandamus commanding respondents to permit him to continue to function as Ad hoc Teacher in C.T. Grade at Janta Uchchattar Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Deokali Kala, District Basti (hereinafter referred to as "College") and pay salary w.e.f. 12.12.1989, i.e., from the date of appointment till a candidate duly selected by Commission joins the post.

3. Brief facts as borne out from pleadings of First Petition are that College is a recognized, aided, secondary education institution governed by the provisions of U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1921"). For the purpose of payment of salary of teaching and non-teaching staff it is governed by the provisions of Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate College (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other Employees) Act, 1971 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1971") and for recruitment of Teaching staff it is governed by the provisions of U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act, 1982").

4. One, Sri Harish Chandra Pandey, Assistant Teacher (C.T. Grade) suddenly absented from College causing a short term vacancy. The Committee of Management of College treated said vacancy to be substantive and requisition and sent information to District Inspector of Schools, Basti (hereinafter referred to as "DIOS") so as to forward requisition to U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board (hereinafter referred to as "Board") but did not receive any recommendation within two months. Consequently Management proceeded to make ad hoc appointment under Section 18 of Act, 1982, vide resolution dated 01.10.1989. Vacancy was notified on notice board of College and thereafter Selection Committee made recommendation placing names of Sri Shatrughan Singh at Serial No. 1, Ram Piarey (petitioner) at Serial No. 2 and Sri Shyam Narayan Singh at Serial No. 3. Appointment letter was issued to Sri Shatrughan Singh on 12.11.1989 which was allegedly received by him on 13.11.1989 but he did not join within the period of 15 days. Thereafter Management, in its meeting dated 03.12.1989, resolved to cancel said appointment letter issued to Sri Shatrughan Singh and decided to issue appointment letter to next candidate, i.e., petitioner. Consequently appointment letter dated 05.12.1989 was issued to petitioner, pursuant whereto he joined on 12.12.1989. Intimation was given by Management of College to DIOS vide letter dated 15.12.1989 stating that appointment letter issued to Sri Shatrughan Singh was cancelled since he did not join and petitioner has now been appointed, therefore, his appointment be approved. DIOS however neither communicated any approval to petitioner's appointment nor made any arrangement for payment of salary. It appears that DIOS did not recognize appointment in view of Government Order dated 11.08.1989 whereby fresh appointment in C.T. Grade was banned on the ground that C.T. Grade has been declared a dying cadre. It is also stated in the First Petition that a radiogram was issued by Government on 20.06.1989 stopping all appointments in C.T. Grade in State of U.P.

5. Petitioner when filed First Petition made reference to some writ petitions pending at that time wherein validity of aforesaid radiogram dated 20.06.1989 was challenged, i.e., Writ Petitions No. 22054 of 1989, Dr. Hari Govind Mishra and others vs. District Inspector of Schools, Deoria and 2639 of 1990, Subhash and another vs. District Inspector of Schools, Deoria and others, alleging that since he is continuously working, entitled for payment of salary.

6. When First Petition initially came up before this Court for admission on 30.05.1991, Court connected it with Writ Petition No. 2639 of 1990 and directed it to be listed alongwith that. Subsequently on 16.12.1991 First Petition was further directed to be connected with Writ Petition No. 22244 of 1990.

7. Respondent-3 initially filed counter affidavit sworn on 26.03.1992 stating that Sri Harish Chand Pandey though absented without any prior permission but no substantive vacancy occurred since he was never terminated and no such information was given to DIOS. Therefore, Management's action of assuming that a substantive vacancy has occurred was clearly illegal and entire exercise of ad hoc appointment is also illegal. It was also pointed out that in anticipation of approval, Sri Shatrughan Singh was given ad hoc appointment vide appointment letter dated 12.11.1989 which was not approved by DIOS vide letter dated 13.07.1990 and it was challenged by Sri Shatrughan Singh in Writ Petition No. 22244 of 1990, which was pending.

8. Another counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of Respondent-3 in First Petition, sworn on 21.07.2010. It is stated tharein that Sri Harish Chand Pandey, Assistant Teacher C.T. Grade absented himself without prior permission from 01.07.1989 to 16.10.1989. During aforesaid period of absence of about three and half months, Management itself proceeded to make ad hoc appointment by placing an advertisement on the notice board of College, inviting applications from 09.10.1989 to 16.10.1989. Total four applications were received pursuant whereto selection was made and Sri Shatrughan Singh was issued appointment letter dated 12.11.1989 appointing him on ad hoc basis as Assistant Teacher C.T. Grade. Appointment letter of Sri Shatrughan Singh which was forwarded to DIOS was returned by DIOS vide letter dated 13.07.1990 disapproving the same on that ground that C.T. Grade has already been declared a dying cadre and no fresh appointment can be made on said post. In the meantime Sri Shatrughan Singh claimed that he had already joined on 15.11.1989 and challenging DIOS letter dated 13.07.1990 he filed Writ Petition No. 22244 of 1990 wherein an interim order was passed on 24.08.1990 to the following effect:

"In the meantime it is directed that till a duly selected candidate joins the post in question or the services of the petitioner are terminated in accordance with law the petitioner shall be allowed to continue on the said post and paid salary which is due to him, in if he has functioned on the said post. If he functions on the said post, he shall be entitled to get salary in accordance to law."

9. Respondent-3 has further stated in his counter affidavit that Ram Piarey was never appointed nor could have been appointed on the said post of Assistant Teacher C.T. Grade. In order to comply with aforesaid interim order, necessary instructions were issued to Management but neither Management allowed Shatrughan Singh to work nor forwarded salary bill. In this regard a letter dated 16.07.1991 was also sent by DIOS informing that Management's claim for seeking approval for appointment of Ram Piarey is not correct and it should proceed in accordance with interim order passed by this Court in Writ Petition No. 22244 of 1990. Since Management did not allow Shatrughan Singh to work, DIOS passed order dated 09.12.1991 attaching Sri Shatrughan Singh to his office and salary was paid to him.

10. Management also filed counter affidavit sworn by Dinesh Chandra Srivastava, Manager of the then Committee of Management of College stating that due to absence of Sri Harish Chand Pandey, a substantive vacancy arose, whereupon intimation was given to DIOS and Management then proceeded to make ad hoc appointment under Section 18(1)(b) of Act, 1982 vide resolution dated 01.10.1989 and appointed Sri Shatrughan Singh vide appointment letter dated 12.11.1989 but he failed to join. Thereafter another appointment letter was issued on 05.12.1989 appointing Sri Ram Piarey as Assistant Teacher C.T. Grade. Ram Piarey joined College on 12.12.1989 and working regularly. With regard to compliance of interim order dated 24.08.1990 it is said that Management enquired into matter and found that Sri Shatrughan Singh was not working in College hence he could not have been paid salary since interim order was conditional that if Shatrughan Singh was working on the post only then he was entitled for salary.

11. It is also evident from record that Writ Petition No. 22244 of 1990 has already been dismissed as infructuous on a statement made by counsel of Sri Shatrughan Singh on 06.07.2004 and the order reads as under:

"Counsel for the petitioner stated that in view of the orders of District Inspector of Schools, Basti dated 05.02.2002, the petitioner has get L.T. Grade. The prayers made in the writ petition have, therefore, become infructuous. The writ petition is dismissed as infructuous." (emphasis added)

12. Second Petition has been filed by Committee of Management of College and Sri Rahul Srivastava, Manager of Committee of Management impleading Sri Shatrughan Singh and Sri Ram Piarey, both as Respondents-4 and 5. It has also reiterated the initial facts as stated in First Petition that due to unauthorized absence of Sri Harish Chand Pandey, Assistant Teacher (C.T. Grade), Management treated to have occurred a substantive vacancy and passed resolution on 01.10.1989 for making ad hoc appointment. After advertisement of vacancy on the notice board of College, selection was held wherein a merit list was prepared in which Shatrughan Singh was placed at Serial No. 1; Ram Piarey at Serial No. 2 and Shyam Narayan Singh at Serial No. 3. Appointment letter dated 12.11.1989 was issued to Shatrughan Singh, who failed to join. Thereafter resolution dated 03.12.1989 was passed and Ram Piarey was issued appointment letter dated 05.12.1989 who joined College on 12.12.1989. Documents were forwarded to DIOS seeking approval of appointment of Ram Piarey on 15.12.1989. However, DIOS vide letter dated 13.07.1990 cancelled selection of Respondent-4 and returned documents on the ground that C.T. Grade has declared dying cadre, therefore, no appointment could be made. DIOS did not take any notice of appointment of Ram Piarey. The letter dated 13.07.1990 sent by DIOS, reads as under:

"आपके पत्र संख्या–शून्य दिनांक 20.11.89 जिसके अन्तर्गत विद्यालय के सी0टी0 ग्रेड के सहायक अध्यापक श्री हरिश्चन्द्र पाण्डेय जो दिनांक 1.7.89 से अचानक लापता हो गये हैं, के रिक्त स्थान पर श्री शत्रुध्न सिंह, एम0ए0 बी0एड0 की सी0टी0 ग्रेड में दिनांक 12.11.89 से प्रस्तावित तदर्थ अस्थायी नियुक्ति प्रकरण को अस्वीकृत करते हुए मूल रूप में इस निर्देश के साथ वापस किया जाता है कि शासन एवं विभाग द्वारा सी0टी0 ग्रेड के समस्त पदों को मृत Dying Cadre श्रेणी का घोषित कर दिया गया है। फलस्वरूप सी0टी0 ग्रेड में किसी रिक्ति पर नियुक्ति किये जाने का विधानतः कोई औचित्य नहीं उत्पन्न होता है।"

"With reference your letter No. Nil dated 20.11.1989 proposed resolution dated 12.11.1989, for ad hoc appointment of Shatrughan Singh M.A. B.Ed. in C.T. Grade on the vacancy caused by Assistant Teacher Sri Harish Chand Pandey in C.T. Grade who has all of sudden absented from 01.07.1989, is rejected and is being returned in original with direction that all the posts of C.T. Grade have been declared as "dying cadre" by the Government and the department. Consequently, there does not arise any justification for any appointment legally against any vacancy in C.T. Grade. (English translation by Court) (emphasis added)

13. This order of DIOS was challenged by Sri Shatrughan Singh in Writ Petition No. 22244 of 1990 wherein a conditional interim order was passed on 24.08.1990.

14. DIOS sent another letter dated 27.02.1991 enquiring from Management of College as to how selection and appointment was made in C.T. Grade when it was already declared a dying cadre and why Shatrughan Singh was not allowed to sign attendance register. Thereafter, Ram Piarey filed First Petition. DIOS passed order on 16.07.1991 directing Management to ensure payment of salary to Shatrughan Singh. College informed DIOS vide letter dated 11.03.1991 that Shatrughan Singh has never joined post and instead Ram Piarey was appointed who has joined post and working. DIOS put pressure on Management to allow Shatrughan Singh to join and thereafter passed order on 15.11.1991 making accounts to be operated by single operation. Another order was passed by DIOS on 09.12.1991 directing that Shatrughan Singh shall stand attached with the office of DIOS w.e.f. 02.08.1990. Said order dated 09.12.1991 passed by DIOS reads as under:

"आपके प्रार्थनापत्र दिनांक 10.09.91, 20.09.91 एवं 7.10.91 तथा इस कार्यालय स्तर से निर्गत हुए पूर्व आदेशों व निर्देशों के परिप्रेक्ष्य में यह सूचित किया जाता है कि जनता इण्टर कालेज देवकलां के अधिकारियों को आवश्यक निर्देश के उपरान्त भी कार्यभार ग्रहण नहीं कराया गया। फलस्वरूप आपको दिनांक 2.8.90 के पूर्वान्ह से इस कार्यालय से सम्बद्ध किया जाता है। आप कृपया आज की तिथि से अपनी उपस्थिति का योगदान अधोहस्ताक्षरी के कार्यालय में अग्रिम आदेशों तक सुनिश्चित करें। वेतन भुगतान के प्रकरण पर बाद में विचार सम्भव होगा। आदेश का त्वरित सअनुपालन सुनिश्चित करें।"

"With reference to your applications dated 10.09.91, 20.09.91 & 7.10.91 and orders/directions issued earlier on the level of this office, it is informed that even after there being necessary directions for the officers of the Janta Inter College, Devkalan, joining was not given. Hence, you are attached to this office w.e.f. 2.8.90 (Forenoon). Please ensure your presence from today in the office of the undersigned till further orders. Matter related to the payment of salary shall be considered later. Immediate compliance of the order be ensured."

(English translation by Court)
(emphasis added)

15. During pendency of Second Petition, DIOS passed order on 05.02.2002 granting L.T. Grade to Sri Shatrughan

Singh and he got his Writ Petition No. 22244 of 1990 dismissed as infructuous on 06.07.2004.

16. It appears that subsequently Joint Director of Education, Basti (hereinafter referred to as "JDE") made inspection of the office of DIOS on 21.07.2016 and passed an order on 22.07.2016 observing that Shatrughan Singh was found working in the office of DIOS though he was said to have been appointed as Assistant Teacher (C.T. Grade) in the College, hence this arrangement is illegal and DIOS could not have allowed Shatrughan Singh to remain attach with his office and should not have paid salary, instead should have appointed an Authorized Controller in the College, Management was not complying with the order of DIOS. Consequently, notice was issued to Management which was replied by Management vide letter dated 23.06.2016 and 05.08.2016. Management as well as both persons, Shatrughan Singh and Ram Piarey, were then directed by DIOS to appear in his office for oral hearing. Management again submitted representation dated 20.10.2016 alongwith his evidence.

17. Thereupon Shatrughan Singh filed a Writ Petition No. 45383 of 2016 challenging Joint Director of Education's letter dated 22.07.2016. This writ petition was disposed of vide judgment dated 21.09.2016, which reads as under:

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned Standing Counsel for the respondents.

The petitioner was posted as an Assistant Teacher in Janta Inter College, Devkali Kala, Sant Kabir Nagar but it appears that the management of the institution was not letting him to work and pay his salary therefore under some order passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Sant Kabir Nagar, he was attached to the office of the District Inspector of Schools, Sant Kabir Nagar and was allowed to work as an office assistant and paid salary under Section 3(3) of the Payment of Salaries Act, 1971. Thereafter, it appears, an inspection was carried out and the continued attachment of the petitioner in the office of the District Inspector of Schools, Sant Kabir Nagar was not found to be justified and, therefore, the Joint Director of Education, Basti Region, Basti called for report from District Inspector of Schools, Sant Kabir Nagar by impugned notice dated 22nd July, 2016 and, in the meantime, attached the petitioner to his own office.

The case of the petitioner is that there is no fault on the part of the petitioner if he had been attached to the office of the District Inspector of Schools, Sant Kabir Nagar but he apprehends that his salary may not be paid on account of the order of attachment.

As, admittedly, report has been called for from the District Inspector of Schools, Sant Kabir Nagar and not from the petitioner, the apprehension of the petitioner is misplaced. It is expected that the Joint Director, Basti Region, Basti would pass appropriate order in accordance with law to ensure that the petitioner is placed at an appropriate place. Accordingly, this writ petition is disposed of giving liberty to the petitioner to file a fresh writ petition if any penal action is taken against him."

18. Thereafter JDE passed order dated 31.01.2017 observing that attachment of Shatrughan Singh in the office of DIOS was not justified and, therefore, Shatrughan Singh should be allowed to join the College since he was appointed by Management and payment of salary should be made on his working in the College. The Second Petition has been filed by Management challenging this order of JDE.

19. Third Petition has been filed by Shatrughan Singh. I do not find it appropriate to reiterate the facts upto the stage when JDE passed order dated 31.01.2017 which has been challenged by Management in Second Petition and only subsequent events which have led to Third Petition would be relevant. It is stated by Shatrughan Singh-petitioner in Third Petition that he was relieved vide order dated 09.02.2017 passed by JDE with further direction to join College forthwith and Management was directed to allow Shatrughan Singh to join and then take steps for payment of salary. DIOS also passed order dated 13.02.2017 directing Management to ensure joining of Shatrughan Singh in the College. Shatrughan Singh appeared before Management of College on 17.02.2017 but he was refused to join, whereupon Shatrughan Singh filed representation before DIOS on 20.02.2017. DIOS in furtherance sent a report vide letter dated 09.03.2017 to JDE requesting for appropriate order in the matter. JDE sent letter dated 23.03.2017 directing DIOS to take appropriate steps to ensure joining of Shatrughan Singh in College. Thereupon DIOS sought permission to initiate proceedings against Management for single operation of accounts. Show cause notice dated 26.05.2017 was issued by DIOS to Management and thereafter DIOS sent letter dated 06.06.2017 recommending appointment of Authorized Controller in College. JDE vide order dated 03.07.2017 superseded Management and appointed Authorized Controller in exercise of power under Section 6(3) of Act, 1971. Thereafter surreptitiously JDE passed order dated 12.07.2017 recalling his order dated 03.07.2017. Shatrughan Singh has filed Third Petition challenging this order dated 12.07.2017 passed by JDE.

20. After hearing learned counsel for parties, in my view, the issues which need to be considered in this matter are:

(I) Whether their occurred any vacancy whatsoever due to alleged unauthorized absence of Sri Harish Chand Pandey, Assistant Teacher C.T. Grade and if so the nature of vacancy, whether it was a short term vacancy or substantive vacancy and which procedure for ad hoc appointment was to be followed by Management.

(II) Whether it was open to Management to make any ad hoc appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher (C.T. Grade) when C.T. Grade was declared a dying cadre and fresh appointments thereon were banned/ stopped by State Government.

(III) Whether appointment of Shatrughan Singh or as the case may be of Sri Ram Piarey, at all, was made validly by Management so as to entitle any of them or both of them to claim right to hold the post and/or to claim salary from State Exchequer.

21. The above facts clearly show that here is a Management of a College which acted patently illegal since its very inception and thereafter even educational authorities added further illegality by their unmindful actions and by non communication of appropriate directions or orders well in time.

22. Now coming to first question, it is an admitted case of parties that substantively appointed Assistant Teacher (C.T. Grade), Sri Harish Chand Pandey, suddenly absented himself without prior permission from competent authority, i.e., Management of College. Said absence per se did not result either in termination of service of Sri Harish Chand Pandey nor any order of termination was ever passed by competent authority. Therefore, at the best it can be said that absence of Sri Harish Chand Padey, Assistant Teacher C.T. Grade had resulted in a short term vacancy which could have been filled in by Management following the procedure prescribed under Section 18 of Act, 1982 read with Clause 2 of U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Second) Order, 1981 (hereinafter referred to as the "Second Order"). The first question, therefore, is answered by holding that alleged unauthorized absence of Harish Chand Pandey, Assistant Teacher (C.T. Grade) resulted in a short term vacancy and ad hoc appointment could have been made only after following procedure prescribed under Section 18 read with Clause 2 of Second Order.

23. Coming to second question, it is evident from record that by radiogram dated 20.06.1989 appointment on C.T. Grade were banned by State Government. It is also not in dispute that C.T. Grade has been declared a dying cadre vide Government Order No. 3299/15-7/89-11(1361)/89 Shiksha Anubhag-7 dated 11.08.1989. The power of State Government banning appointment of Teachers has been upheld by Supreme Court with reference to Section 9 of Act, 1921 in Dr. Ramji Dwivedi vs. State of U.P. and others 1983 (3) SCC 52 wherein a radiogram of 07.04.1981 whereby all appointments were stopped, upheld by Supreme Court. Subsequently a Division Bench of this Court in Durgesh Kumari V. State of U.P. and others 1995(3) UPLBEC 1387 has also recognized and upheld power of State Government of banning appointments of Teachers in recognized aided educational institutions. Therefore, when by radiogram dated 20.06.1989 appointment in C.T. Grade were stopped/ banned by State Government, in my view, Management could not have proceeded to make ad hoc appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher (C.T. Grade) since all appointments are stopped. The second question, therefore, is answered by holding that appointment in C.T. Grade were banned and order of State Government for banning such appointments by issuing radiogram was valid.

24. Now coming to third question, here also I find no hesitation in stating that even ad hoc appointment made by Committee of Management is patently illegal, void ab initio and nullity since entire exercise is in the teeth of statutory provisions, namely Section 18 of Act, 1982 read with Second Order, which has not been followed at all.

25. If ad hoc appointment in a short term vacancy could have been made by Management with reference to Section 18 of Act, 1982, it was incumbent upon it to follow the procedure prescribed in Clause 2 of Second Order. Clause 2 reads as under:

"2. Procedure for filling up short term vacancies.--(1) If short term* vacancy in the post of a teacher, caused by grant of leave to him or on account of his suspension duly approved by the District Inspector of Schools or otherwise, shall be filled by the Management of the institution, by promotion of the permanent senior most teacher of the institution, in the next lower grade. The Management shall immediately inform the District Inspector of Schools of such promotion alongwith the particulars of the teacher so promoted.

(2) Where any vacancy referred to in clause (1) cannot be filled by promotion, due to non-availability of a teacher in the next lower grade in the institution, possessing the prescribed minimum qualifications, it shall be filled by direct recruitment in the manner laid down in clause (3).

(3)(i) The management shall intimate the vacancies to the District Inspector of Schools and shall also immediately notify the same on the notice board of the institution, requiring the candidates to apply to the manager of the institution alongwith the particulars given in Appendix 'B' to this Order. The selection shall be made on the basis of quality point marks specified in the Appendix to the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981, issued with Notification No. Ma-4993/XV-7-1 (79)-1981, dated July 31, 1981, hereinafter to be referred to as the First Removal of Difficulties Order, 1981. The compilation of quality point marks shall be done under the personal supervision of the Head of Institution.

(ii) The names and particulars of the candidate selected and also of other candidates and the quality point marks allotted to them shall be forwarded by the manager to the District Inspector of Schools for his prior approval.

(iii) The District Inspector of Schools shall communicate his decision within seven days of the date of receipt of particulars by him failing which the Inspector will be deemed to have given his approval.

(iv) On receipt of the approval of the District Inspector of Schools or, as the case may be, on his failure to communicate his decision within seven days of the receipt of papers by him from the manager, the management shall appoint the selected candidate and an order of appointment shall be issued under the signature of the Manager.

Explanation.--For the purpose of this paragraph--

(i) the expression 'senior most' teacher means the teacher having longest continuous service in the institution in the Lecturer's grade or the Trained graduate (L.T.) grade, or Trained undergraduate (C.T.) grade or J.T.C. or B.T.C. grade, as the case may be;

(ii) in relation to institutions imparting instructions to women, the expression 'District Inspector of Schools' shall mean the 'Regional Inspectress of Girls Schools';

(iii) 'short term vacancy' means a vacancy which is not substantive and is of a limited duration."

26. Apparently aforesaid procedure has not been followed and, therefore, whether it is the ad hoc appointment of Shatrughan Singh or that of Ram Piarey, both are nullity in the eyes of law and non of them can be said to have been validly appointed at all, therefore, have no right either to hold post or to claim salary from State Exchequer.

27. The effect of non compliance of any part of Removal of Difficulties Order has been considered by the Apex Court in Prabhat Kumar Sharma & others Vs. State of U.P. & others, A.I.R. 1996 SC 2638 wherein it has been held that the procedure for ad hoc appointment under the Removal of Difficulties Order is mandatory and if the said procedure is not observed strictly, the appointment, if any, shall be void ab initio and would not confer any right upon the incumbent either to hold the post or to claim salary. This decision was reiterated and followed by the Apex Court recently in Shesh Mani Shukla Vs. D.I.O.S., Deoria & others, J.T. 2009 (10) S.C. 309. A Five Judges Bench of this Court very recently has also taken similar view in Jahaj Pal vs. District Inspector of Schools and others, 2019(3) ADJ 424.

28. Recently Supreme Court in Union of India and another vs. Raghuwar Pal Singh, 2018(15) SCC 463 said that an appointment which has not been made in accordance with procedure prescribed, is a nullity and for cancelling such appointment even principle of natural justice are not applicable.

29. This Court finds it strange that DIOS concerned at no point of time even made any attempt to analyze the statutory provisions as also the action taken by Management so as to make the things clear and to give a clear direction to the parties. On the contrary he (DIOS) also acted in such a disarranged manner that benefit was given to one or other party in a most illegal manner. It shows some kind of collusion also on the part of Management vis-a-vis Ram Piarey and educational authority i.e., DIOS vis-a-vis Shatrughan Singh. In my view, neither appointment of Shatrughan Singh nor that of Ram Piarey was made legally so as to entitle them for any benefit whatsoever and all otherwise orders passed by educational authorities are nullity in the eyes of law.

30. In the circumstances, I have no hesitation in dismissing First and Third Petitions, i.e., Writ Petitions No. 16680 of 1991 and 34882 of 2017.

31. Since Shatrughan Singh has been paid salary in a most illegal and arbitrary manner, inasmuch as there is no provision under which DIOS could have attached a Teacher of a Secondary Education Institution in his office and pay salary, therefore, the aforesaid salary paid to Shatrughan Singh is wholly illegal. I am clearly of the view that aforesaid salary which has been paid from State Exchequer must be recovered from concerned erring parties for which I hold Committee of Management, concerned DIOS as also Shatrughan Singh, individually as also jointly responsible. Let entire amount of salary which has been paid to Shatrughan Singh, illegally, be recovered from all three, namely, Committee of Management, concerned DIOS as also Shatrughan Singh, in equal proportion, and for this purpose Principal Secretary, Secondary Education, U.P. Government shall take appropriate steps forthwith and ensure recovery as directed above within six months. He shall also file a compliance report to this Court immediately after six months.

32. So far as Committee of Management's writ petition is concerned, here also it is evident that Management had also acted in a most erratic and illegal manner at every stage. However, in view of the fact of dismissal of First and Third Petition holding appointments of Shatrughan Singh and Ram Piarey, both as illegal, there is no occasion now to allow Shatrughan Singh to join College and in fact the Second Petition, i.e., Writ Petition No. 11177 of 2017 stands infructuous and is dismissed accordingly.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anil Kumar, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

2. By means of present writ petition, petitioners have prayed for quashing of the impugned order dated 26.12.2007 passed by respondent no.3/Director of Education (Basic), U.P. at Allahabad.

3. Facts, in brief, of the present case are that in the city of Fatehpur, there is an Institution known as Thawaishwar Purva Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Thawai, Fatehpur (in short 'Institution') is a recognized Basic Junior High School from the State of U.P under U.P. Basic Education Act, 1972.

4. As per the case of the petitioners, on 12.02.1989 three vacancies for the post of Peon was advertised in the Local Newspaper (Dainik Varta) of District Fatehpur by the Principal/ Manager of the Institution. In pursuance of said advertisement, petitioners were appointed by order dated 01.07.1989 issued by the Manager of the Institution, as contained in annexure no.3 to the writ petition.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that since the date of their joining, the petitioners were performing their duties regularly on the post of Peon. When the Institution has been brought under grant-in-aid list on 01.12.2006, the petitioners were under the impression that their names were sent by the Manager of the Institution to the respondent no.4. It came to the knowledge of the petitioners that their names are not in the grant-in- aid list, they submitted their representations to the competent authority. When the representations of the petitioners were not dicided of by competent authority, they approached this Court by filing Writ Petition No.46761 of 2007 (Ram Dinesh Singh and another Vs. State of U.P. and others) which was disposed of by means of order dated 25.09.2007, the same on reproduction reads as under:-

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioner as well as learned Standing Counsel and Sri Suresh Singh, learned counsel appearing for the respondents.

Petitioners allege to have been appointed as Peon in a Junior High School in the year 1989. It is further stated that at the time the petitioners were appointed, the institution was recognized as a Junior High School by the Basic Shiksha Parishad, U.P., at Allahabad. It is claimed that they have been continuously working in the institution.

A news item has been published whereby the State Government has taken a decision to bring large number of recognized Junior High Schools within the grant-in-aid list. Because of such application, the Management of the institution with an ulterior motive to engage its own men, has started to modify/alter the managers' return, inasmuch as teacher whose names find mention in the managers' return would become entitled for payment of salary under grant-in-aid list by the State Government.

At this stage of the proceedings, the petitioner have approached this Court for a writ of mandamus commanding the respondents not to alter/modify the managers' return as well as not to interfere in the function of the petitioner as Peon.

Large number of writ petitions for practically the same relief and with same allegations, are being filed before this Court every day. It is desirable that the State Government/ Director of Education (Basic) U.P. Lucknow, may, therefore, issue necessary directions for ensuring;

(a) That teachers, who have been validly appointed in recognized Junior High Schools are not adversely affected because of deliberate arbitrary actions of the Management of the Institution, as which are to be taken in the grant-in-aid list of the State Government.

(b) The right of the teachers, who are validly appointed since prior to the date institution is taken on the grant-in-aid list against sanctioned post is to be protected in accordance with law. For the said purpose, it is necessary that the authority competent to sanction salary bills for payment of salary to such teachers, amongst others must enquire as to whether the appointment of the teachers/head masters concerned has been made in strict compliance of the U.P. Recognized Basic School (Junior High School) (Recruitment) and Conditions of Service of Teachers) Rules, 1978 or not, inasmuch as once the institution is granted recognition as Junior High School under the U.P. Basic Education Act. The aforesaid prevision became applicable to the institution. The authority must record specific findings individualy in respect of such teachers, who are entitled for payment of salary through the public exchequer.

Let the Director of Education, (Basic) U.P. Lucknow take appropriate action as aforesaid, with intimation to the Basic Shiksha Parishad, preferably within six weeks from the date a certified copy of this order is filed before him.

With the aforesaid observations/directions, this writ petition is finally disposed of."

6. It is submitted by learned counsel for the petitioners that in pursuance of the aforesaid order, opposite party no.3/ Director of Education (Basic) U.P. at Lucknow has passed the impugned order dated 26.12.2007.

7. Accordingly, a query has been put to learned counsel for the petitioner to show in the writ petition on the basis of pleading whether the appointment of the petitioners was made as per rules or not.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner has failed to show any averment by way of pleading in the writ petition that their initial appointment on the post of Peon in the Institution by the Manager were as per the Rules which governs the field.

9. Thus taking into consideration the said facts as well as reasoning given in the impugned order dated 26.12.2007 passed by opposite party no.3/ Director of Education (Basic) U.P. Lucknow while rejecting the claim of the petitioners that their names were not mentioned in the attendance register and the photocopy of the attendance register which has been given by the petitioner no.1 available in the institution/ college and their appointment orders were also not available in the record of the institution/ college and on the basis of the same, it is clearly established that the petitioners are not working in the institution/ college, accordingly the representation of the petitioners have been rejected . So no interference is needed in the matter in question while exercising the power of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India as in the case of Council of Civil Service Unions (CCSU) v. Minister for the Civil Service [1984] 3 All ER 935, the scope of judicial review has been held by Lord Diplock is stated as under:-

"Judicial Review has I think developed to a stage today when, without reiterating any analysis of the steps by which the development has come about, one can conveniently classify under three heads the grounds on which administrative action is subject to control by judicial review. The first ground I would call 'illegality', the second 'irrationality' and the third 'procedural impropriety'.

By 'illegality' as a ground for judicial review I mean that the decision-maker must understand correctly the law that regulates his decision-making power and must give effect to it. Whether he has or not is par excellence a justiciable question to be decided, in the event of dispute, by those persons, the judges, by whom the judicial power of the State is exercisable.

By 'irrationality' I mean what can by now be succinctly referred to as 'Wednesbury unreasonableness'. It applies to a decision which is so outrageous in its defiance of logic or of accepted moral standards that no sensible person who had applied his mind to the question to be decided could have arrived at it. Whether a decision falls within this category is a question that judges by their training and experience should be well equipped to answer or else there would be something badly wrong with our judicial system…

I have described the third head as 'procedural impropriety' rather than failure to observe basic rules of natural justice or failure to act with procedural fairness towards the person who will be affected by the decision. This is because susceptibility to judicial review under this head covers also failure by an administrative tribunal to observe procedural rules that are expressly laid down in the legislative instrument by which its jurisdiction is conferred, even where such failure does not involve any denial of natural justice."

10. Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Mohd. Yunus v. Mohd. Mustaqim and Ors., AIR 1984 SC 38 Hon'ble the Apex Court held that there is a very limited scope under Article 226 of the Constitution and even the errors of law cannot be corrected in exercise of power of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution. The power can be used sparingly when it comes to the conclusion that the Authority/ Tribunal has exceeded its jurisdiction or proceeded under erroneous presumption of jurisdiction. The High Court cannot assume unlimited prerogative to correct all species of hardship or wrong decision. For interference, there must be a case of flagrant abuse of fundamental principles of law or where order of the Tribunal, etc. has resulted in grave injustice.

11. Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Indian Overseas Bank v. Indian Overseas Bank Staff Canteen Workers' Union (2000) 4 SCC 245, observed that it is impermissible for the Writ Court to re-appreciate evidence liberally and drawing conclusions on its own on pure questions of fact for the reason that it is not exercising appellate jurisdiction over the awards passed by Tribunal. The findings of fact recorded by the fact finding authority duly constituted for the purpose ordinarily should be considered to have become final. The same cannot be disturbed for the mere reason of having based on materials or evidence not sufficient or credible in the opinion of Writ Court to warrant those findings. At any rate, as long as they are based upon some material which are relevant for the purpose no interference is called for. Even on the ground that there is yet another view which can reasonably and possibly be taken the High Court can not interfere.

12. And in the case of Union of India v. Rajendra Prabhu, (2001) 4 SCC 472, it has been held that the High Court in exercise of its extraordinary powers under Article 226 of the Constitution, cannot re-appreciate the evidence nor it can substitute its subjective opinion in place of the findings of Authorities below.

13. Hon'ble the Apex Court has held in the case of Tata Cellular v. Union of India (1994) 6 SCC 651, this Court identified the grounds of judicial review of administrative action in the following words :

"The duty of the court is to confine itself to the question of legality. Its concern should be :

1. Whether a decision-making authority exceeded its powers?

2. Committed an error of law,

3. committed a breach of the rules of natural justice,

4. reached a decision which no reasonable tribunal would have reached or,

5. abused its powers.

Therefore, it is not for the court to determine whether a particular policy or particular decision taken in the fulfilment of that policy is fair. It is only concerned with the manner in which those decisions have been taken. The extent of the duty to act fairly will vary from case to case. Shortly put, the grounds upon which an administrative action is subject to control by judicial review can be classified as under :

(I) Illegality : This means the decision-maker must understand correctly the law that regulates his decision- making power and must give effect to it.

(ii) Irrationality, namely, Wednesbury unreasonableness.

(iii) Procedural impropriety."

14. Ho'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Heinz India Private Ltd. And another vs. State of U.P. and Ors. (2012) 5 Supreme Court Cases 443 after placing the reliance on the judgment of Reid Vs. Secy. Of State for Scotland (1999) 1 ALL ER 481 (HL) held that Judicial review involves a challenge to the legal validity of the decision. It does not allow the court of review to examine the evidence with a view to forming its own view about the substantial merits of the case. It may be that the tribunal whose decision is being challenged has done something which it had no lawful authority to do. It may have abused or misused the authority which it had. It may have departed from the procedures which either by statute or at common law as a matter of fairness it ought to have observed. As regards the decisions itself it may be found to be perverse or irrational or grossly disproportionate to what was required. Or the decision may be found to be erroneous in respect of a legal deficiency, as for example, through the absence of evidence, or of sufficient evidence, to support it, or through account being taken of irrelevant matter, or through a failure for any reason to take account of a relevant matter, or through some misconstruction of the terms of the statutory provision which the decision maker is required to apply. But while the evidence may have to be explored in order to see if the decision is vitiated by such legal deficiencies it is perfectly clear that in case of review, as distinct from an ordinary appeal, the court may not set about forming its own preferred view of evidence.

15. For the foregoing reasons, the writ petition lacks merit and is dismissed.

16. No order as to costs.

A. Civil Law-Education - U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921- Chapter II, Appendix "A" – Interpretation - Casus Omisus – A Judge must not alter the material of which the Act is woven, but he can and should iron out the creases. (Para 12, 16)

It is not allowable to read words in a statute which are not there, but where alternative lies between either supplying by implication words which appear to have been accidently omitted, or adopting a construction which deprives certain existing words of all meaning, it is permissible to supply the words. (Para 14)

The controversy in the present case is regarding the qualifications given under Clauses (a) and (b) of the respective statute; whether both need to be possessed by the candidate or possessing one of them would make the candidate eligible for appointment as teacher (Silai subject) for High School. (Para 5)

The Court held that the word "or" between Clause (a) and Clause (b) has been somehow missed. It is apparent drafting error or accidental omission. If the word "and" is read between these two clauses, then the qualifications mentioned in these two clauses would not only lead to irreconcilable conflict but would also result in absurdity and manifest contradiction and shall defeat the apparent purpose of the enactment for recruitment on the post of teacher. Note- Teacher possessing qualification under clause (b) should normally complete training relating to pedagogical science run or approved by Director of Education Suitable candidates can be exempted form training relating to pedagogical science."

5. All the petitioners have applied for Teacher in Silai subject for High School (Class 9 -10). The sole controversy involved in the present writ petitions is :-

"Whether for appointment as teacher (Silai subject) for High School (Class 9 - 10), a candidate should possess qualification as provide in the aforequoted Clause (a) OR Clause (b) OR both ?"

Submissions

6. Learned counsels for the petitioners submit that the qualification as provided in Clause (a) is Intermediate C.T. (Intermediate with tailoring or specialisation in tailoring in C.T.). The qualification provided in Clause (b) is High School and diploma from certain institute in Silai. The qualification provided in Clause (a) is higher qualification. Those who are merely High School have also been made eligible in Clause (b) provided they have diploma in Silai. Therefore, a candidate is required to possess qualification either in Clause (a) or in Clause (b).

7. Sri Khare has specifically referred to paragraph 23 of the writ petition and submits that in earlier selection the candidate possessing Intermediate Certificate with tailoring craft have been granted appointment pursuant to Advertisement issued by the selection board in the year 2003 and 2006 which has not been disputed by the selection board in its counter affidavit.

8. Learned counsels for the selection board and the learned standing counsel jointly submit that the qualifications as provide in Clause (a) and in Clause (b) both are to be possessed by a candidate so as to be eligible for the post of Teacher in Silai subject for teaching in High School (Class 9 -10).

Discussion and Findings

9. I have carefully considered the submissions of learned counsels for the parties.

10. The qualification provided in Clause (a) is Intermediate C.T. (Intermediate with tailoring or specialisation in tailoring in C.T.) which is admittedly possessed by all the petitioners. The persons having passed Intermediate must have passed High School. The qualification provided in Clause (b) is High School which does not specify any subject or specialisation. Therefore, for those persons who are High School, an additional qualification for diploma in Silai from specified institute has been provided so as to make them eligible to apply for the post. Thus, qualification mentioned in clause (b) is in alternative to the qualification mentioned in clause (a). The note appended to the item no.44 is merely with respect to the persons falling under Clause (b). It has nothing to do with Clause (a). Thus, a candidate so as to be eligible for the post in question must possess the qualification as provided in Clause (a) or in Clause (b) of item no.44 of Appendix "A" in Chapter II of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921. But word "or" is missing between clauses (a) and (b).

Casus Omissus

11. Casus Omisus is a matter which should have been, but has not been provided for in a statute, can not be supplied by courts subject to few exceptions, as to do so will be legislation and not construction. Casus Omisus can not be supplied by the courts except in case of clear necessity and when reason for it is found in the four corners of the statute itself but at the same time Casus Omisus should not be readily inferred.

12. In Reema Aggrawal vs Anupam (2004) 3 SCC 199 (para25) Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:-

"25. In Seaford Court Estates Ltd. v. Asher (1949) 2 All ER 155 (CA), Lord Denning advised a purposive approach to the interpretation of a word used in a statute and observed:(All ER p.164 E-H)

*"The English language is not an instrument of mathematical precision. Our literature would be much the poorer if it were. This is where the draftsmen of Acts of Parliament have often been unfairly criticised. A Judge, believing himself to be fettered by the supposed rule that he must look to the language and nothing else, laments that the draftsmen have not provided for this or that, or have been guilty of some or other ambiguity. It would certainly save the Judges trouble if Acts of Parliament were drafted with divine prescience and perfect clarity. In the absence of it, when a defect appears, a Judge cannot simply fold his hands and blame the draftsman. He must set to work on the constructive task of finding the intention of Parliament, and he must do this not only from the language of the statute, but also from a consideration of the social conditions which gave rise to it and of the mischief which it was passed to remedy, and then he must supplement the written word so as to give 'force and life' to the intention of the legislature.....A Judge should ask himself the question how, if the makers of the Act had themselves come across this ruck in this texture of it, they would have straightened it out? He must then do so as they would have doe. A Judge must not alter the material of which the Act is woven, but he can and should iron out the creases."

13. In Padma Sundara Rao Vs State of Tamil Nadu (2002) 3 SCC 533 (Para 15) Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the principles of construction and held as under:-

"15.Two principles of construction - one relating to casus omissus and the other in regard to reading the statute as a whole - appear to be well settled. Under the first principle a casus omissus cannot be supplied by the Court except in the case of clear necessity and when reason for it is found in the four corners of the statute itself but at the same time a casus omissus should not be readily inferred and for that purpose all the parts of a statute or section must be construed together and every clause of a section should be construed with reference to the context and other clauses thereof so that the construction to be put on a particular provision makes a consistent enactment of the whole statute. This would be more so if literal construction of a particular clause leads to manifestly absurd or anomalous results which could not have been intended by the Legislature. "An intention to produce an unreasonable result", said Danckwerts, L.J., in Artemiou v. Procopiou (1966 1 QB 878), (at All ER pp.544 -I), "is not to be imputed to a statute if there is some other construction available". Where to apply words literally would "defeat the obvious intention of the legislation and produce a wholly unreasonable result" we must "do some violence to the words" and so achieve that obvious intention and produce a rational construction. [Per Lord Reid in Luke v. I.R.C. (1963 AC 557) where at AC p. 577 he also observed: (at All ER p.664 -I) "This is not a new problem, though our standard of drafting is such that it rarely emerges".]

14. Thus, it is not allowable to read words in a statute which are not there, but where alternative lies between either supplying by implication words which appear to have been accidentally omitted, or adopting a construction which deprives certain existing words of all meaning, it is permissible to supply the words. Referring to Craies Statute Law (7th edition page 109) Hon'ble Supreme Court so observed in Surjit Singh Karla Vs. Union of India (1991) 2 SCC 87 (Para19) :-

"19. True it is not permissible to read words in a statute which are not there, but "where the alternative lies between either supplying by implication words which appear to have been accidentally omitted, or adopting a construction which deprives certain existing words of all meanings, it is permissible to supply the words"(Craies Statute Law, 7th Edition, P. 109). Similar are observations in Hameedia Hardware Stores V. B. Mohan Lal Sowcar, [1988] 2 SCC 513 at 524-25 where it was observed that the court construing a provision should not easily read into it words which have not been expressly enacted but having regard to the context in which a provision appears and, the object of the statute in which the said provision is enacted, the court should construe it in a harmonious way to make it meaningful. An attempt must always be made so to reconcile the relevant provisions as to advance the remedy intended by the statute. [See: Sirajul Haq Khan v. Sunni Central Board of Waqf,(1959) SCR 1287,1299].

15. In Gujrat Urja Vikas Nigam Ltd. Vs. Essar Power Ltd (2008) 4 SCC 755 (paras 53-56) Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to Maxwell and observed as under:-

"53. In the chapter on `Exceptional Construction' in his book on `Interpretation of Statutes' Maxwell writes :

"WHERE the language of a statute, in its ordinary meaning and grammatical construction, leads to a manifest contradiction of the apparent purpose of the enactment, or to some inconvenience or absurdity, hardship or injustice, presumably not intended, a construction may be put upon it which modifies the meaning of the words, and even the structure of the sentence. This may be done by departing from the rules of grammar, by giving an unusual meaning to particular words, by altering their collocation, by rejecting them altogether, or by interpolating other words, under the influence, no doubt, of an irresistible conviction that the legislature could not possibly have intended what the words signify, and that the modifications thus made are mere corrections of careless language and really give the true meaning."

54. Thus, Surjit Singh Kalra vs. Union of India (1991)2 SCC 87, this Court has observed that sometimes courts can supply words which have been accidentally omitted.

55. In G.P. Singh's `Principles of Statutory Interpretation' 9th Edn., 2004 at pp. 71-74 several decisions of this Court and foreign Courts have been referred to where the Court has added words to a statute (though cautioning that normally this should not be done).

*56.*Hence we have to add the aforementioned words at the end of Section 175 otherwise there will be an irreconciliable conflict between Section 174 and Section 175.

(Emphasis supplied)

16. In Hameedia Hardware Stores Vs. B. Mohan Lal Sowear(1988) 2 SCC 513 (Para 11,12) Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:-

"11. In Seaford Court Estates Ltd. v. Asher, (1949) 2 All ER 155, 164. Lord Denning L.J. said:

"When a defect appears, a judge cannot simply fold his hands and blame the draftsman. He must set to work on the constructive task of finding the intention of Parliament ..... and then he must supplement the written word so as to give 'force and life' to the intention of the legislature ..... A judge should ask himself the question how, if the makers of the Act had themselves come across this ruck in the texture of it, they should have straightened it out? He must then do as they would have done. A judge must not alter the material of which the Act is woven but he can and should iron out the creases."

12. This rule of construction is quoted with approval by this Court in M. Pentiah v. Muddala Veeramallappa, (1961) 2 SCR 295, 314 and it is also referred to by Beg, C.J. in Bangalore Water-Supply & Sewerage Board, etc. v. R. Rajappa (1978) 3 SCR 207. In the present case by insisting on the proof of the bona fides of the requirement of the landlord, the Court is not doing any violence to the statute nor embarking upon any legislative action. The Court is only construing the words of the statute in a reasonable way having regard to the context."

Conclusion

17. It appears that the word "or" between Clause (a) and Clause (b) has been some how missed. It is an apparent drafting error or accidental omission of the word "or". In various other entries preceding the item No.44, the word "OR" between Clause (a) and (b) has been used. For example, item Nos.37, 38, 39 and 41 providing for essential qualification for High School teacher in subjects - (37) spinning and weaving teacher, (38) wood craft teacher, (39) Book Craft teacher and (41) Metal Craft teacher, the word "OR" has been used between the qualification provided in Clauses (a) and (b). As discussed in para 10 above, a candidate to be eligible for the post of Trained Graduate Teacher (Silai) must posses the minimum qualification as provided in Clause (a) or Clause (b) of item No.44. If the word "and" is read between these two Clauses, then the qualifications mentioned in these two Clauses would not only lead to irreconcilable conflict but would also result in absurdity and manifest contradiction and shall defeat the apparent purpose of the enactment for recruitment on the post of teacher. Since between Clauses (a) and (b) of item No.44, the word "OR" does not exist, therefore, there is clear necessity to supply casus omissus to iron out creases so as to give force and life to the intention of the legislature to entries (a) and (b) of item No.44.

18. Thus, the question framed above is answered that a candidate who posses either the qualification provided in Clause (a) or the qualification provided in Clause (b) of item No.44 in Appendix "A" under Chapter II of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 shall be eligible for the post of Trained Graduate Teacher in Silai subject for High School (Class 9 -10).

19. For all the reasons aforestated, the impugned orders passed by the Secretary U.P. Secondary Education Selection Board, Allahabad, dated 31.10.2018 are hereby quashed. The aforesaid selection board is directed to declare the results within a month and proceed further in accordance with law.

20. All the Writ Petitions are allowed to the extent indicated above.

21. It is made clear that if any of the petitioners do not possess requisite qualification as provided either in Clause (a) or in Clause (b) of item No. 44, Appendix 'A' under Chapter II of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, then they shall not be considered for appointment.

(A) Appointment - denial of appointment of petitioner on the post of daily wager sweeper as per the Circular dated 01.11.1999 is against the principles of natural justice and is violation of Article 14, 16 and 21 of the Indian Constitution - reasonable opportunity of hearing must be given

Writ Petition disposed of. (E-10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmad, J.)

1. This writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been filed by the petitioner with the following prayer:-

(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 16.07.2016 and order dated 20.11.2015 passed by the respondent no.3 in rejecting the claim of the daily wager sweeper of the petitioner.

(ii) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondent authorities to treat the petitioner as daily wager sweeper from part time sweeper in pursuance of the circular dated 01.11.1999 made by the Chief Engineer, U.P. P.W.D., Lucknow in the department and to give all the benefits to the petitioner since the date on which Junior has been benefited in the department.

(iii) Issue any other suitable writ, order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the facts and circumstances existing in the present case.

(iv) Award the cost of this writ petition in favour of the petitioner throughout.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner argued that the petitioner was appointed and performing his duties as part-time sweeper in the department since 10.07.1998 and has been allowed to work time to time in Government residential colony of the department, in this regard experience certificate dated 30.08.2007 was issued by the Assistant Engineer, Nirman Khand-1, P.W.D., Banda.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner further argued that the Engineer-in-Chief U.P. Lok Nirman Vibhag, Lucknow issued a circular on 01.11.1999 to ensure for making appointment of part-time sweeper and other Class-IV employees on the post of Daily Wager Employee for the purpose of regularization in the Public Works Department, copy of the circular dated 01.11.1999 is annexed as Annexure No.1 to the writ petition. After the above circular, the petitioner moved an application on 04.01.2002 before the respondent no.3-Executive Engineer, Nirman Khand-1, P.W.D. Banda for getting appointment on the post of Daily Wager Employee in the department and on the application of the petitioner the Superintending Engineer, Banda Circle, P.W.D. Banda wrote a letter dated 06.05.2002 to the Engineer-in-Chief, Viyav "ga" Verg, P.W.D., Lucknow with the request grant of permission to appoint the petitioner on daily wager in the department but no action was taken by the respondents for appointing the petitioner on daily wager basis.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner further argued that the junior part-time sweeper to the petitioner namely Suresh Kumar working in the Public Works Department, Banda filed a Writ Petition No.47604 of 2012 before this Court to treat him as daily wager in spite of part-time sweeper as per Circular dated 01.11.1999 and this Hon'ble Court vide judgment and order dated 27.11.2012 disposed of the writ petition with the direction to decide the case of the petitioner-Suresh Kumar and in pursuance of the order dated 27.11.2012 the respondent no.3 by an order dated 12.03.2013 appointed the Suresh Kumar as daily wager employee and was being paid the benefit of payment of daily wager employee in the department.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner further argued that since the petitioner has been working on the post of sweeper since long time as part-time and several post of sweeper were falling lying vacant. The petitioner was also entitled for regular post in the department and since the petitioner has been engaged as part-time sweeper and is entitled to be treated as daily wager employee in the department as per Circular dated 01.11.1999 but he was deprived of his rights and whereas juniors have been given the benefit. Respondent did not consider the claim of the petitioner for treating him as daily wager sweeper, therefore, the petitioner approached this Hon'ble Court and filed Writ Petition No.41417 of 2015 with the request that he may be treated as daily wager sweeper in spite of part-time sweeper as per Circular dated 01.11.1999 and this Hon'ble Court vide order dated 24.09.2015 finally disposed of the writ petition. Relevant portion of the judgment and order dated 24.09.2015 is reproduced hereinbelow:-

"Learned Counsel for the petitioner has drawn the attention of the Court to a communication which has been issued by the Chief Engineer, Public Works Department, U.P., Lucknow dated 1st November, 1999 wherein it is mentioned that the practice of engaging part-time sweeper is highly objectionable as these employees are denied the benefit of regularization on the ground that they are working as part-time. The direction has been issued to discontinue such practice.

It is contended by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that in spite of the said clear direction of the Chief Engineer, the petitioner is being engaged as a part-time sweeper.

From the record it appears that the petitioner, for redressal of his grievance, has made a representation dated 6th July 2015 which is on the record as annexure-12 to the writ petition.

Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, I am of the view that the ends of justice would be subserved by issuing a direction upon the third respondent to consider the cause of the petitioner and pass appropriate order in accordance with law expeditiously, preferably within three months from the date of communication of this order.

The writ petition is, accordingly, disposed of. There shall be no order as to costs."

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the copy of the order dated 24.09.2015 was served by the petitioner before the respondent no.3 with a representation dated 05.10.2015 but the respondent no.3 was not passing any order in compliance of the direction issued by this Court, therefore, the petitioner filed a Contempt Petition No.1342 of 2016 before this Hon'ble Court, in which notices were issued against the respondent no.3 with a direction to comply with the order of writ court.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that after getting the contempt notice issued by this Hon'ble Court, the respondent no.3 passed the order dated 16.07.2016 which is impugned in the present writ petition and the claim of the petitioner was rejected on irreverent ground.

8. Learned Standing Counsel oppose the argument raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner and submitted that the impugned order dated 16.07.2016 is rightly passed and no interference is required by this Hon'ble Court and the petitioner is not entitled for any relief.

9. In the rejoinder affidavit learned counsel for the petitioner denied the averments made in the counter affidavit.

10. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the respondents and perused the record.

11. From the perusal of the impugned order dated 16.07.2016, which is filed as Annexure No.19 to the writ petition, the ground taken by the respondents while rejecting the claim of the petitioner is that the petitioner was not employed as part-time sweeper in the department but he has been performed the work of sweeper as per requirement from time to time by the Junior Engineer and he was paid cash payment by the department. It was further mentioned in the impugned order that there is a ban on 01.07.1992 by the Engineer-in-Chief against the appointment of the muster role employee in the department and it is further stated that Government Order dated 29.06.1991, 17.07.1991 and 02.09.1992 imposes ban for the appointment of daily wager employee in the department and it was further stated that the full time sweeper is not required in the department, as such, the petitioner is not entitled for being appointed on the post of daily wager sweeper.

12. From the perusal of the impugned order dated 16.07.2016 it is crystal clear that the respondent no.3 did not consider the direction of Circular dated 01.11.1999 issued by the Chief Engineer, Public Works Department U.P. Lucknow, wherein a clear cut direction was issued that the practice of engaging part-time sweeper is highly objectionable as these employees are denied the benefit of regularization on the ground that they are working as part-time. The direction has been issued to discontinue such practice. The respondent no.3 without considering the pith and substance of the Circular dated 01.11.1999 passed the impugned order and reliance has been placed in the Government Order dated 01.07.1992 mentioning therein that there is a ban for engaging a muster role employees whereas the case of the petitioner is not for engaging him as muster role employee. The respondent no.3 further referred the G.O. dated 29.06.1991, 17.07.1991 and 02.09.1992 by which he has mentioned that as per above G.O. there is a ban for the appointment of daily wager employee in the department, whereas these G.O. have no relevance regarding the appointment of the petitioner and petitioner is claiming on the basis of Circular dated 01.11.2019 for being considered as daily wager employee in the department, the respondent cannot apply these G.O., retrospectively, in the case of the petitioner.

13. It appears that the respondent no. 3 without application of mind and without considering the direction issued in the Circular dated 01.11.1999 of the Chief Engineer, P.W.D. U.P. Lucknow passed the impugned order dated 16.07.2016. While passing the impugned order, the respondent no.3 has not considered this fact that the petitioner was engaged as part-time sweeper since long and the Assistant Engineer has already issued an experience certificate which means that the petitioner was engaged on regular basis and not on the basis of cash payment as per the requirement of the department and he rendered his services in the department since 10.07.1998 and the authorities have recommended the case of the petitioner for considering his case for regularization on daily wager sweeper. This aspect was at all not considered and dealt with the respondent no.3 while passing the impugned order.

14. It is also not out of place to mention that the respondent no. 3 while passing the impugned order had at all not considered this aspect that the juniors to the petitioner were appointed as daily wager sweeper in the light of the Circular dated 01.11.1999.

15. It is also relevant to mention here that while passing the impugned order the respondent no.3 has not given any opportunity of hearing to the petitioner and the order was passed on surmises and conjectures and no valid reason was given in the impugned order for not considered the petitioner for daily wager sweeper in the light of the Circular dated 01.11.1999.

16. The denial of appointing the petitioner on the post of daily wager sweeper is against the principles of natural justice and also in violation of Article 14, 16 and 21 of the Constitution of India.

17. In view of the above discussion and argument advanced by learned counsel for the parties, the impugned order dated 16.07.2016 passed by respondent no.3 is quashed and the matter is remanded back to the respondent no.3 to consider the claim of the petitioner afresh in the light of the Circular dated 01.11.1999 issued by Chief Engineer, P.W.D. U.P. Lucknow and pass a reasoned and speaking order in accordance with law within a period of two months from the date of production of the certified copy of this order, thereafter , the respondent no.3 shall communicate the order passsed by him to the petitioner forthwith.

18. With the aforesaid observations, the writ petition is finally disposed of.

19. No order as to costs.

Petitioners-retrenched employees-claimed absorption by filing Writ-District Magistrate-no compliance-contempt filed-State Government passed an order-fresh cause of action-no wilful disobedience-no fresh direction can be passed in Contempt afresh.

Held, In the case in hand, since no direction was issued vide judgment and order dated 2.5.2016 passed in Special Appeal No.522 of 2012 nor any direction was issued in special Appeal No.110 of 2013, therefore, in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sudhir Vasudeva's case (supra), this court being the Court of contempt cannot travel beyond what has been ordered by the writ Court/special appellate court and therefore, I am not inclined to proceed against the contemners for alleged non-compliance of order dated 30.8.2019 passed by the contempt court. (Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and Shri Ramesh Kumar Singh, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Shri Pankaj Khare, Advocate for respondents.

2. Petitioners have preferred contempt petition alleging non-compliance of order dated 02.05.2016 passed in Special Appeal No. 522/2012 (Mewa Lal and others Vs. State of U.P. and others) whereby the appellate court while setting aside the judgment and order dated 05.1.2012 of learned Single Judge directed the opposite party to consider the case of the appellants in the light of judgment dated 26.02.2013 passed in Special Appeal No. 110 of 2013 State of U.P. and others versus Pramod Kumar and others.

3. It has been pleaded on behalf of the petitioners that the petitioners are the retrenched employees of the Directorate of Census Operation, U.P., Lucknow. The work and conduct of the petitioners have all throughout been good. Government Orders have been issued for absorption and appointment of the retrenched employees of the Census Department while relaxing age against vacant post(s) lying in different Departments. Copies of the Government Orders dated 21.08.2007 and 09.10.2007 are annexed with the petition as Annexures 3 and 4 respectively.

Pursuant to the Government Orders, the petitioners approached the respondent-authorities for absorption in the other Government Departments but since the respondents have not considered the grievance of the petitioners, hence, the petitioners filed Writ Petition No. 5602 (S/S) of 2009 and writ petition No. 7672 (S/S) of 2009. The Hon'ble Single Judge vide judgment and orders dated 14.09.2009 and 20.11.2009 directed District Magistrate, Barabanki to consider the petitioners' case for absorption keeping in view of the aforesaid Government Orders against the post of Lekhpal/Collection Amin or any other vacant post.

It is further pleaded that instead of complying the judgment and orders passed by the learned Single Judge dated 14.09.2009 and 20.11.2009 regarding petitioner Nos. 12 and 13, the District Magistrate, Barabanki vide orders dated 08.12.2009 and 29.12.2009 rejected the claim of the petitioners. Thereafter, the petitioners have challenged the order dated 08.12.2009 and 29.12.2009 vide writ petition No. 7180 (S/S) of 2010 (Mewa Lal and others Vs. State of U.P. and others) which was dismissed by this Court vide judgment and order dated 05.1.2012.

Aggrieved by the order dated 05.01.2012, petitioners filed Special Appeal No. 522 of 2012 (Mewa Lal and others Vs. State of U.P. and others) which was allowed by a Division Bench of this Court vide judgment and order dated 02.05.2016 setting aside the judgment and order dated 05.01.2012 passed by learned Single Judge in writ petition No. 7180 of 2010. The Division Bench in Special Appeal further directed the respondents to consider the case of the petitioners in the light of the judgment and order dated 26.02.2013 passed in Special Appeal No. 110 of 2013.

It is contended by learned counsel for the petitioners that even after the judgment in the Special Appeal, the respondents did not comply the order passed in Special Appeal No. 522 of 2012 hence, the present contempt petition has been filed.

4. The District Magistrate, Barabanki has filed an affidavit, inter alia stating that the judgment and order passed by the Division Bench in Special Appeal No. 522 of 2012 dated 02.05.2016 has been complied with and there is no willful defiance of the judgment passed by the Division Bench of this Court.

It is submitted on behalf of the respondents that vide Government Order dated 21.08.2007, scheme for temporary employees of census Department for the year 1991 and 2000-01 was formulated. Initially the scheme framed by the Government Order dated 21.08.2007 was for three years from the date of issuance of the Government Order which provided that no preference will be given in the matter of recruitment to the Census employees. A clarification was issued vide consequential Government Order dated 09.10.2007.

Subsequently, in compliance of the orders passed by this Court, in the case of the petitioners, the Government Order was issued on 23.08.2017 in which condition no. 4 mentioned in the Government order dated 21.08.2007 which provides that scheme will be only for three years from the date of issuance of State Government Order was relaxed for the petitioners. Thereafter, the Principal Secretary, General Administration conveyed a meeting of the census employees of different Departments to ensure the compliance of the order passed by this Court. The minutes of meeting dated 14.02.2019 circulated on 18.02.2019 are annexed along with affidavit of the District Magistrate, Barabanki.

Thereafter, pursuant to the decision taken by the State Government, consequential order dated 23.02.2019 was passed by the District Magistrate whereby cases of the writ petitioners were considered and appointment was offered to the eight writ petitioners. Consequently, appointment orders were issued to eight writ petitions on 23.02.2019. The copies of the appointment orders have been filed along with affidavit.

5. This Court vide order dated 12.03.2019 required the contemnor(s) to file fresh affidavit for taking conscious decision in respect of petitioner no. 2. Thereafter, the case of the petitioner no. 2 Raj Kumar was considered vide order dated 23.03.2019 by the District Magistrate, Barabanki and consequential appointment orders were issued by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, on 25.03.2019. Thereafter on 30.08.2019 the contempt court directed the respondents to offer lump sum amount to the persons who have attained the age of superannuation and could not be accommodated.

To make compliance of the order dated 30.08.2019, the District Magistrate, Barabanki vide his letter dated 13.09.2019 referred the matter to the State Government. The State Government after examining the matter sent the instructions to the District Magistrate Varanasi vide its letter dated 17.09.2019 that under the scheme, the eligible persons have been accommodated/appointed after extending the benefit of relaxation. It is further stated in the letter dated 17.9.2019 that under the scheme, there is no provision for providing lump sum amount to anybody nor there is any amount proposed in the budget, in this regard.

Learned counsel for respondents submitted that as per the scheme dated 21.08.2007, the relaxation mentioned therein was applicable only to the date of notification of vacancies and the census employees were not entitled for any other preferences or privileges. He further submitted that except petitioners 1, 5, 6, 11 and 12, the other petitioners have been appointed keeping in view the benefit of the scheme. The remaining five petitioners could not be adjusted as they have already attained the age of superannuation and since there is no provision in the scheme for providing lump sum amount to the retired employees and there is no budget for the same therefore, the same cannot be granted to them.

It is further submitted that in the light of the scheme, the case of the petitioners has been considered on merit and the orders dated 02.05.2016 passed in Special Appeal No. 522 of 2012 have been complied with, in its letter and spirit.

He has further submitted that even the appellate court in special appeal no. 522 of 2012 has not issued any order for giving lump sum amount to the retired employees nor there is any provision in the scheme and therefore, the five writ petitioners (since retired) are not entitled to the said benefit.

It is contended on behalf of the respondents that the order dated 30.8.2019 passed by the Contempt Court directing the authorities to offer lump sum amount to the persons who had attained the age of superannuation is beyond the four corners of the order dated 2.5.2016 passed in Special Appeal No.522 of 2012, which is alleged to have been violated and therefore was beyond the jurisdiction of the contempt court. Relevant portion (paras 2 and 3) of the order dated 30.8.2019 passed by the Contempt court reads as under :

"1.....

2. The matter remained pending with the concerned authorities around ten years. In the meantime, some of the petitioners attained the age of superannuation. However, a decision has been taken to accommodate those, who have not attained the age of superannuation pursuant to the judgment and order in question.

3. Since the petitioners cannot he held at fault for delayed decision by the authority concerned, it would be appropriate to offer lump-sum amount to the persons, who have attained the age of superannuation and could not be accommodated.

6. Submission of learned counsel for respondents in context of offering lump sum amount to the persons retired, which is beyond the scope of order dated 2.5.2016, appears to be correct. The operative part of the order dated 2.5.2016 passed in Special Appeal No.522 of 2012 reads as under :

"Accordingly, the special appeal is allowed and the order dated 05.01.2012 passed by the learned Single Judge is set aside. The respondents are directed to consider the case of the appellants in the light of the judgment and order dated 26.02.2013 passed in Special Appeal No.110 of 2013. "

7. A perusal of the aforesaid order dated 2.5.2016 depicts that the Division Bench has only directed the respondents to consider the case of the appellants in the light of judgment and order dated 26.2.2013 passed in Special Appeal No.110 of 2013 wherein the State Government was directed to consider the case of the private respondents on merit in the light of Scheme as well as the Government Orders issued towards the compliance of the judgment of the Apex Court as well as the judgment passed by learned Single Judge. The relevant portion of the order dated 26.2.2013 passed in Special Appeal No.110 of 2013 is reproduced as under :

"In that view of the matter when the majority of learned Single Judges have passed the judgments/orders in line with the Supreme Court's judgments, as above, the retrenched census employees can be absorbed only under the scheme framed by the State Government. Hence, the impugned judgment is modified to read that the State Government shall consider the cases of private respondents (writ petitioners) herein on merit and in the light of the scheme as well as Government orders issued towards the compliance of the judgments of Hon'ble the Apex Court as well as the judgments passed by learned Single Judges in line therewith.

This Special Appeal, thus, stands allowed to that extent. "

8. Perusal of the order dated 2.5.2016 passed in special appeal No.522 of 2012 (supra) as well as the order dated 26.2.2013 passed in Special appeal No.110 of 2013 reveals that in the special appeals, no direction was given to respondents to offer lump sum amount to the persons who has attained the age of superannuation and could not be accommodated.

9. Learned counsel for respondents has further submitted that since in compliance of the judgment and order dated 2.5.2016, the respondents have considered the case of the petitioners and have given appointments to petitioners 2, 3, 4, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 13 and since the petitioners 1, 5, 6, 11 and 12 had retired, therefore, as per rules, they could not have been accommodated/appointed. He further submitted that as per instructions of the State Government, under the Scheme, there is no provision for providing lump sum amount to anybody, nor any such amount is proposed in the budget.

Learned counsel for the respondents has relied on the judgment in (1996) 10 SCC 102 V. Kanakrajan Vs. General Manager South Eastern Railway and others wherein it has been held that the order of the High Court directing the authorities to consider the question of the appellant's promotion and the authorities refusing to entertain appellant's application for contempt whereby refusing to promote on the ground of unsuitability as per rules was upheld.

Learned counsel for the respondents has further relied on the judgment reported in (1996) 6 SCC 291 J.S. Parihar Vs. Ganpat Duggar and others wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that once there is an order passed by the Government on the basis of the directions issued by the Court, there arises a fresh cause of action to seek redressal in an appropriate forum and this cannot be considered to be willful violation of the order.

10. Relevant para 6 of the judgment is reproduced as under :

"6. The question then is whether the Division Bench was right in setting aside the direction issued by the learned Single Judge to redraw the seniority list. It is contended by Mr. S.K. Jain, the learned Counsel appearing for the Appellant, that unless the learned Judge goes into the correctness of the decision taken by the Government in preparation of the seniority list in the light of the law laid down by three Benches, the learned Judge cannot come to a conclusion whether or not the Respondent had willfully or deliberately disobeyed the orders of the Court as defined Under Section 2(b) of the Act. Therefore, the learned Single Judge of the High Court necessarily has to go into the merits of that question. We do not find that the contention is well founded. It is seen that, admittedly, the Respondents had prepared the seniority list on 2-7-1991. Subsequently promotions came to be made.

The question is whether seniority list is open to review in the contempt proceedings to find out whether it is in conformity with the directions issued by the earlier Benches. It is seen that once there is an order passed by the Government on the basis of the directions issued by the court, there arises a fresh cause of action to seek redressal in an appropriate forum. The preparation of the seniority list may be wrong or may be right or may or may not be in conformity with the directions. But that would be a fresh cause of action for the aggrieved party to avail of the opportunity of judicial review. But that cannot be considered to be the wilful violation of the order. After re-exercising the judicial review in contempt proceedings, a fresh direction by the learned Single Judge cannot be given to redraw the seniority list. In other words, the learned Judge was exercising the jurisdiction to consider the matter on merits in the contempt proceedings. It would not be permissible Under Section 12 of the Act. Therefore, the Division Bench has exercised the power Under Section 18 of the Rajasthan High Court Ordinance being a judgment or order of the Single Judge; the Division Bench corrected the mistake committed by the learned Single Judge. Therefore, it may not be necessary for the State to file an appeal in this Court against the judgment of the learned Single Judge when the matter was already seized of the Division Bench."

11. Hon'ble Supreme Court in (2014)3 SCC 373 Sudhir Vasudeva Chairman and Managing Director, Oil and Natural Gas Corporation Limited and others versus M. George Ravishekaran and others has held in para 19 as under :

"The power vested in the High Courts as well as this Court to punish for contempt is a special and rare power available both under the Constitution as well as the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971. It is a drastic power which, if misdirected, could even curb the liberty of the individual charged with commission of contempt. The very nature of the power casts a sacred duty in the Courts to exercise the same with the greatest of care and caution. This is also necessary as, more often than not, adjudication of a contempt plea involves a process of self-determination of the sweep, meaning and effect of the order in respect of which disobedience is alleged. The Courts must not, therefore, travel beyond the four corners of the order which is alleged to have been flouted or enter into questions that have not been dealt with or decided in the judgment or the order violation of which is alleged. Only such directions which are explicit in a judgment or order or are plainly self - evident ought to be taken into account for the purpose of consideration as to whether there has been any disobedience or willful violation of the same. Decided issues cannot be reopened; nor can the plea of equities be considered. The Courts must also ensure that while considering a contempt plea the power available to the Court in other corrective jurisdictions like review or appeal is not trenched upon. No order or direction supplemental to what has been already expressed should be issued by the Court while exercising jurisdiction in the domain of the contempt law; such an exercise is more appropriate, in other jurisdictions vested in the Court, as noticed above."

12. In view of the above, the law in this regard is settled and once there is an order passed by the government on the basis of the directions issued by the Court, a fresh cause of action has arisen for the aggrieved party to avail the appropriate judicial remedy and this cannot be said to be a wilful disobedience of the order and no fresh direction can be given while exercising the power of judicial review in contempt proceedings afresh.

13. In the case in hand, since no direction was issued vide judgment and order dated 2.5.2016 passed in Special Appeal No.522 of 2012 nor any direction was issued in special Appeal No.110 of 2013, therefore, in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sudhir Vasudeva's case (supra), this court being the Court of contempt cannot travel beyond what has been ordered by the writ Court/special appellate court and therefore, I am not inclined to proceed against the contemners for alleged non-compliance of order dated 30.8.2019 passed by the contempt court.

14. Having considered submission of learned counsel for respondents and after going through the judgments of V. Kanakarajan's case (supra) and J.S. Parihar's case (supra) and after taking note of the fact that in compliance of the judgment and order dated 2.5.2016 and order dated 7.9.2019 passed by the State Government, appointments to petitioners 2, 3, 4, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 13 have been given and the petitioners 1, 5, 6, 11 and 12 could not be appointed as per rules as they had already retired, I am of the opinion that the order passed by the District Magistrate declining to consider the case of the petitioners 1, 5, 6, 11 and 12 gives rise to fresh cause of action to the said petitioners for which they can avail the appropriate remedy as advised.

15. No case for wilful and deliberate disobedience has been made out. I am of the opinion that sufficient compliance has been made by the respondents and by no stretch, it can be considered to be a deliberate and wilful violation of the judgment and order dated 2.5.2016.

16. The contempt petition fails and is accordingly dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajendra Kumar-IV, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pramod Kumar, learned counsel for the revisionists, learned AGA for the State and perused the material on record.

2. This criminal revision has been filed by accused revisionists Lallan Babu and Smt. Rekha against the order dated 28.11.2017 passed by Additional Sessions Judge / Special Judge, POCSO Act, Court No. 1, Auraiya in Special Sessions Trial No.388 of 2015, State vs. Raj @ Guddu (Case Crime No. 150 of 2015), under Sections 363, 366, 376 I.P.C. and 3/4 POCSO Act, P.S. Phaphund, District Auraiya whereby trial court allowed the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. made by prosecution and summoned the accused-revisionists to face trial.

3. It has been contended by learned counsel for the revisionists that accused-revisionists are falsely implicated in the present case. They committed no offence. Investigating Officer during investigation did not find any evidence against the revisionists and he did not submit charge sheet. It has been further submitted that accused-revisionists are not named in F.I.R. They have not been charge-sheeted. There names have not come in the statement of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. but they have been summoned believing the evidence of P.W.-2 Anju Mishra (Victim). It has been further argued that trial Court did not appreciate the evidence in right perspective. The revisionists are the parents of alleged main accused Raj @ Guddu.

4. On the other hand learned AGA refuted the submission of learned counsel for the revisionists and submitted that accused-revisionists are parents of main accused Raj @ Guddu. They have provoked the main accused to commit the crime. PW-1 is not an eye witness. PW-2 is the victim, who supported the prosecution case and proved the involvement of revisionists in the present crime.

5. Brief facts of the case are as under :-

(a) An F.I.R. bearing Case Crime No. 150 of 2015 was lodged by one Awadhesh Kumar (Father of victim) against the accused Raj @ Guddu under Section 363 and 366 I.P.C. stating that his minor daughter (name of victim is withheld by me), aged about 15 years was seduced and abducted by accused Raj @ Guddu on 3.4.2015 at about 1:00 PM. Matter was investigated by Investigating Officer, who submitted charge sheet against the accused Raj @ Guddu.

(b) During the course of trial, statement of PW-1 Informant and PW-2 victim were recorded. PW-2 supported the prosecution case and disclosed the involvement of revisionists.

(c) PW-2 in her statement has stated that when she went to the shop of accused Raj @ Guddu on 3.4.2015 at about 11:00 AM, his parents (present revisionists) gave Rs.5000/- and provoked to go with Raj @ Guddu to Gujrat, thereafter, she went to Gujrat with Raj where she lived with him for about 2 ½ months.

(d) PW-1 Awadhesh Kumar (Informant) moved an application 39-B under Section 319 stating that victim PW-2 disclosed the involvement of Lallan Babu and Smt. Rekha in the present case and it is necessary to summon them for trial, application was objected by accused Raj @ Guddu by filing his objection / application no. 39-B. After hearing both parties and appreciating the entire record as well as statement of PWs-1 and 2, trial court allowed the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and summoned Lallan Babu and Smt. Smt. Rekha for facing trial in the aforesaid sections, relying the statement of PW-2 Victim.

6. Section 319 of The Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973 reads as under :-

"Section 319. Power to proceed against other persons appearing to be guilty of offence.

(1) Where, in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence which he appears to have committed.

(2)Where such person is not attending the Court, he may be arrested or summoned, as the circumstances of the case may require, for the purpose aforesaid.

(3) Any person attending the Court, although not under arrest or upon a summons, may be detained by such Court for the purpose of the inquiry into, or trial of, the offence which he appears to have committed.

(4) Where the Court proceeds against any person under sub- section (1), then-

(a) the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced a fresh, and the witnesses re- heard;

(b) subject to the provisions of clause (a), the case may proceed as if such person had been an accused person when the Court took cognizance of the offence upon which the inquiry or trial was commenced."

7. In Anil Arya v. State of U.P. and Others, Criminal Revision No. 1216 of 2005, decided on 09.09.2016, this Court held as under :-

"Whether evidence is correct or not or credible enough or not to sustain conviction and punishment is a matter which would be seen after revisionist put in appearance, lead evidence and thereafter Trial Court examine the entire evidence and record its finding thereon, but at the stage of summoning of revisionist on the basis of aforesaid statement in Trial under Section 319 Cr.P.C., the probable defence of accused summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. cannot be examined for the first time in a revisional jurisdiction by this Court."

8. In Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab and others 2014 (3) SCC 92, Court examined following five questions:

"(i) What is the stage at which power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised?

(ii) Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319 (1) Cr.P.C. could only mean evidence tested by cross-examination or the court can exercise the power under the said provision even on the basis of the statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned?

(iii) Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1) Cr.P.C. has been used in a comprehensive sense and includes the evidence collected during investigation or the word "evidence" is limited to the evidence recorded during trial?

(iv) What is the nature of the satisfaction required to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to arraign an accused? Whether the power under Section 319(1) Cr.P.C. can be exercised only if the court is satisfied that the accused summoned will in all likelihood be convicted?

(v) Does the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. extend to persons not named in the FIR or named in the FIR but not charged or who have been discharged?"

9. The aforesaid questions have been answered in para 117 of judgment as under :-

Question Nos. (i) and (iii) A. In Dharam Pal and Ors. v. State of Haryana and Anr. 2004 (13) SCC 9, the Constitution Bench has already held that after committal, cognizance of an offence can be taken against a person not named as an accused but against whom materials are available from the papers filed by the police after completion of investigation. Such cognizance can be taken under Section 193 Cr.P.C. and the Sessions Judge need not wait till 'evidence' under Section 319 Cr.P.C. becomes available for summoning an additional accused.

Section 319 Cr.P.C., significantly, uses two expressions that have to be taken note of i.e. (1) Inquiry (2) Trial. As a trial commences after framing of charge, an inquiry can only be understood to be a pre-trial inquiry. Inquiries under Sections 200, 201, 202 Cr.P.C.; and under Section 398 Cr.P.C. are species of the inquiry contemplated by Section 319 Cr.P.C. Materials coming before the Court in course of such enquiries can be used for corroboration of the evidence recorded in the court after the trial commences, for the exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C., and also to add an accused whose name has been shown in Column 2 of the charge-sheet.

In view of the above position the word 'evidence' in Section 319 Cr.P.C. has to be broadly understood and not literally i.e. as evidence brought during a trial.

Question No. (ii)

A. Considering the fact that under Section 319 Cr.P.C. a person against whom material is disclosed is only summoned to face the trial and in such an event under Section 319(4) Cr.P.C. the proceeding against such person is to commence from the stage of taking of cognizance, the Court need not wait for the evidence against the accused proposed to be summoned to be tested by cross-examination.

Question No. (iv)

A. Though under Section 319(4)(b) Cr.P.C. the accused subsequently impleaded is to be treated as if he had been an accused when the Court initially took cognizance of the offence, the degree of satisfaction that will be required for summoning a person under Section 319 Cr.P.C. would be the same as for framing a charge. The difference in the degree of satisfaction for summoning the original accused and a subsequent accused is on account of the fact that the trial may have already commenced against the original accused and it is in the course of such trial that materials are disclosed against the newly summoned accused. Fresh summoning of an accused will result in delay of the trial therefore the degree of satisfaction for summoning the accused (original and subsequent) has to be different.

Question No. (v)

A. A person not named in the FIR or a person though named in the FIR but has not been charge-sheeted or a person who has been discharged can be summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. provided from the evidence it appears that such person can be tried along with the accused already facing trial. However, insofar as an accused who has been discharged is concerned the requirement of Sections 300 and 398 Cr.P.C. has to be complied with before he can be summoned afresh.

10. The aforesaid judgment in fact lay down very clearly that power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised by Court against a person not named in First Information Report or no charge-sheet is filed by Police against him and the accused can be summoned only on the basis of examination-in-chief of witness and need not wait for cross-examination etc. With regard to degree of satisfaction of Court for summoning the accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C, Court has said that test are same as applicable for framing charge.

11. The above view was followed in Brijendra Singh and others Vs. State of Rajasthan (2017) 7 SCC 706 holding:

" ... since it is a discretionary power given to the court Under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure and is also an extraordinary one, same has to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. The degree of satisfaction is more than the degree which is warranted at the time of framing of the charges against others in respect of whom charge-sheet was filed. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised. It is not to be exercised in a casual or a cavalier manner. The prima facie opinion which is to be formed requires stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity."

12. Recently in Shiv Prakash Mishra Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others (2019) 7 SCC 806, Court relying on the above authorities as also Kailash Vs. State of Rajasthan and another (2008) 14 SCC 51, held as under:

"The standard of proof employed for summoning a person as an Accused person under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure is higher than the standard of proof employed for framing a charge against the Accused person. The power Under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure should be exercised sparingly. As held in Kailash Vs. State of Rajasthan and another (2008) 14 SCC 51, "the power of summoning an additional Accused Under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure should be exercised sparingly. The key words in Section are "it appears from the evidence"."any person"."has committed any offence". It is not, therefore, that merely because some witnesses have mentioned the name of such person or that there is some material against that person, the discretion Under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure would be used by the court." (emphasis added)

13. In view of above, it is clear that in order to summon a person under Section 319 Cr.P.C., mere taking of name is not sufficient but there must be something more to show implication of person who has been sought to be summoned.

14. Aforesaid statement of Informant and victim clearly show that revisionists and co-accused Raj @ Guddu were involved in the commission of crime and they also participated in incident. Whether evidence of witnesses is correct or not, credible enough or not to sustain conviction, is a matter which would be seen after revisionists put in appearance, lead evidence and thereafter, Trial Court examines the entire evidence and records its finding thereon. At the stage of summoning of the revisionists on the basis of aforesaid statements for trial, probable defence of accused-revisionists summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. cannot be examined for the first time under the revisional jurisdiction by this Court.

16. Looking to the facts of this case and in the light of exposition of law, as discussed above, I find that here is not a case where mere name of revisionists have been taken but details of incident have been given showing the manner in which revisionists have acted and committed crime. Hence, it cannot be said that there is no material whatsoever and also that on mere probability of complicity they have been summoned but there is appropriate material and evidence to justify summoning of revisionists under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and I find no manifest error in the order passed by Court below.

17. The revision lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This criminal revision under Section 397/401 of Cr.P.C. has been filed by Gopal @ Ram Gopal, against judgment and order dated 1.2.2020, passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No. 2, Aligarh, in Criminal Appeal No. 33/2019, Gopal @ Ram Gopal Vs. State of U.P., whereby, order dated 25.2.2019, passed by trial Court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court NO. 6, Aligarh, in Criminal Case No. 1705 of 2008, State Vs. Gopal @ Ram Gopal, arising out of Case Crime No. 212 of 2008, under Sections 498A, 323, 506 I.P.C. read with Section 3/4 of D.P. Act, Police Station Javan,, District Aligarh, has been enhanced by Appellate Court, with this contention that Appellate Court failed to appreciate facts and law placed before it. Convict appellant was convicted and sentenced for offenses punishable under Section 498-A I.P.C. with six months imprisonment and fine of Rs. 1,000/-, and for offence punishable under Section 4 of D.P. Act, with six months imprisonment and fine of Rs. 2,000/-, and in case of default in payment of fine, he was to undergo additional imprisonment of twenty days. Against, this judgment of conviction and sentence made therein, appeal was filed before Appellate Court of Session Judge, Aligarh, as Criminal Appeal No. 33/2019 (Gopal @ Ram Gopal Vs. State of U.P.) and this appeal was transferred to Court of Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No. IInd, of Aligarh, wherein, above appeal was dismissed, confirming the judgment of conviction dated 25.2.2019 of trial Court. But, suo motu acquittal under Section 323 I.P.C. was converted into conviction, and sentence awarded were enhanced to one year imprisonment with fine of Rs. 50,000/-, under Section 498-A I.P.C. and in case of default of fine, six months imprisonment and fine of Rs. 10,000/-, with one years rigorous imprisonment under Section 4 of D.P. Act and in default one month rigorous imprisonment, with further sentence of six months rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 1,000/-, and in default one month rigorous imprisonment for offence punishable under section 323 of I.P.C., with a direction for concurrent running of sentences and payment of 60 per cent of total amount as compensation to victim. Whereas, State has filed no appeal against judgment of acquittal, for offence punishable under section 323 of I.P.C. or against quantum of sentence, awarded by trial Court. Hence, appellate Court without issuing any notice and giving any opportunity and without being any appeal by State, has convicted for offence punishable under Section 323 of I.P.C. as well as enhanced sentence from six months simple imprisonment to one year rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 50,000/- and 10,000/-, respectively, for offences punishable under Sections 498A I.P.C. and 4 of D.P. Act. It was apparently, erroneous against provision of Section 386 of Cr.P.C. Hence, this revision with above prayer.

2. Learned counsel for the revisionist vehemently argued that Appellate Court was either to pass a judgment affirming the order of sentence or conviction made by trial Court, or to set aside it with further direction, if any. But, it may not enhance sentence or may convert acquittal in conviction without any appeal by State or giving any opportunity to convict appellant. It was an appeal by appellant, with prayer for setting aside impugned judgment of conviction and sentence made, therein. But in that appeal, the Appellate Court has convicted, after reversing judgment of acquittal for offence punishable under Section 323 of I.P.C. and enhanced sentence as above.

3. Learned AGA agreed with above situation of law and position of impugned order that it was passed in an appeal filed by convict appellant and no appeal by State was there, regarding enhancement of sentence or appeal against acquittal for offence punishable under Section 323 of I.P.C. was there. There is enhancement of sentence for offences for which there was conviction. This was without any appeal filed by State.

4. Section 386 of Cr.P.C. propounds: -

"386. Power of the Appellate Court. After perusing such record and hearing the appellant or his pleader, if he appears, and the Public Prosecutor if he appears, and in case of an appeal under section 377 or section 378, the accused, if he appears, the Appellate Court may, if it considers that there is no sufficient ground for interfering, dismiss the appeal, or may-

(a) in an appeal from an order or acquittal, reverse such order and direct that further inquiry be made, or that the accused be re- tried or committed for trial, as the case may be, or find him guilty and pass sentence on him according to law;

(b) in an appeal from a conviction-

(i) reverse the finding and sentence and acquit or discharge the accused, or order him to be re- tried by a Court of competent jurisdiction subordinate to such Appellate Court or committed for trial, or

(ii) alter the finding, maintaining the sentence, or

(iii) with or without altering the finding, alter the nature or the extent, or the nature and extent, of the sentence, but not so as to enhance the Same;

(c) in an appeal for enhancement of sentence-

(i)reverse the finding and sentence and acquit or discharge the accused or order him to be re- tried by a Court competent to try the offence, or

(ii) alter the finding maintaining the sentence, or

(iii) with or without altering the finding, alter the nature or the extent, or the nature and extent, of the sentence, so as to enhance or reduce the same;

(d) in an appeal from any other order, alter or reverse such order;

(e) make any amendment or any consequential or incidental order that may be just or proper; Provided that the sentence shall not be enhanced unless the accused has had an opportunity of showing cause against such enhancement: Provided further that the Appellate Court shall not inflict greater punishment for the offence which in its opinion the accused has committed, than might have been inflicted for that offence by the Court passing the order or sentence under appeal."

5. Under sub-Section (III) of "b" of Section 386 of Cr.P.C. written as above, it is mandate that Appellate Court will not enhance sentence unless there is an appeal by State for enhancement of sentence and the same is being here. Against judgment of acquittal, there must be an appeal by State, whereas, admittedly, in present appeal, there was neither appeal by State either for enhancement of sentence or for conviction in offence, for which there was acquittal by trial Court and learned Additional Session Judge, has passed impugned judgment of conviction and sentence under Section 323 of I.P.C., with enhancement of offence punishable under Sections 498-A read with 4 of D.P. Act. It was apparently erogenous and against the provision of law of 'Code' given as above.

6. Hence, apparently, it is misuse of process of law and perversity in the judgment.

7. Hence, this revision is being allowed.

8. Impugned judgment of Appellate Court is being set aside and file is remanded back to District and Sessions Judge, Aligarh, for its hearing afresh.

Counsel for the Revisionists:
Sri Shishir Pradhan

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
Govt. Advocate, Sri Ashok Kumar Singh

A. Criminal law- Code of Criminal Procedure,1973-Section 397/401, 156(3) & Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 506,504, 406,420-challenge to-remedy of revision against the order u/s 156(3)-prospective accused has no locus standi to challenge a direction for investigation of a cognizable case u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. before cognizance or issuance of process against the accused-accused gets right of hearing only if cognizance is taken or process issued-before that stage any order will be interlocutory in nature-hence, remedy of revision against the order u/s 156(3) is barred u/s 397.(Para 11 to 33)

Orders summoning witnesses, adjouring cases, passing orders for bail, calling for reports and such other steps in aid of the pending proceeding, may no doubt amount to interlocutory orders against which no revision would lie u/s 397(2) of the 1973 Code. But orders which are matters of moment and which affect or adjudicate the rights of the accused or a particular aspect of the trial cannot be said to be interlocutory order so as to be outside the purview of the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court.(Para 27)

The revision is dismissed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Dhari Singh, J.)

1. The instant criminal revision under Section 397/ 401 of Cr.P.C. has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 28.01.2020 passed in Criminal Misc. Case No.94 of 2020 (Raj Kishore v. Shalini Sahai and another), by which the learned Special Judge, SC/ ST Act, Lucknow has allowed the application moved by opposite party no.2 under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. directing the Station House Officer, Gomti Nagar to lodged an FIR and submit report.

2. Submission of learned Counsel for revisionists is that the opposite party no.2 Raj Kishore had moved an application under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. against the revisionists on 18.01.2020, which has been allowed by the impugned order. Learned Counsel has further submitted that the impugned order is arbitrary and contrary to the law laid down by the Apex Court.

3. Learned Counsel for revisionists has further submitted that earlier on 25.11.2019, the opposite party no.2 had lodged an FIR against the revisionist Anit Kumar and his wife Sadhna Srivastava have in Case Crime No.1412 of 2019, under Sections 506, 504, 406, 420 IPC at Police Station Gomti Nagar, District Lucknow. The revisionist no.1 being a police officer posted at Police Station Gomti Nagar, District Lucknow was appointed to investigate the matter. During investigation, the revisionist no.1 called both the parties to compromise the dispute regarding construction of house. Learned Counsel has again submitted that the application under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. has been moved only in order to put pressure upon the revisionists.

4. Learned Counsel for revisionists has further submitted that while discharging official duty, the revisionist no.1 had never used any word relating to caste against the opposite party no.2 and, therefore, the averments made in the application under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. is totally false and fabricated. Learned Counsel again submitted that the impugned order is contrary to law as no first information report can be lodged against any public servant without obtaining sanction from the competent authority for initiation of criminal proceedings. The revisionist no.1 is a public servant and, therefore, she is entitled for protection under Section 197 of Cr.P.C. She cannot be made accused without any sanction by the State Government. Therefore, in these background, the impugned order is liable to be quashed.

5. In support of his arguments, learned Counsel for revisionists has placed reliance in the case of Anil Kumar and others v. M.K. Aiyappa and another; (2013) 10 SCC 705.

6. Per contra, learned A.G.A. and learned Counsel appearing for opposite party no.2 have vehemently opposed the submissions advanced by learned Counsel for revisionists.

7. Learned Counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no.2 has submitted that the opposite party no.2 is a retired Government Employee and the revisionist no.2 is a contractor, builder and property dealer. The revisionist no.2 entered into an agreement with opposite party no.2 for construction of his house and paid Rs.50 lakhs but deliberately, the revisionist no.2 left the work incomplete. The opposite party no.2 made several request but no heed has been paid. Thereafter having left with no option, the opposite party no.2 moved an application under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. and the learned Court below while passing the impugned order on the said application has not committed any error. Learned Counsel has further submitted that the ratio laid down in the case of Anil Kumar (Supra) is not applicable to the instant case because the ration of the said case is applicable on the cases fall under the Prevention of Corruption Act in which there is specific provision under Section 19 but in the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, there is no such provision like Section 19 of the Prevention of Corruption Act.

8. Learned Counsel for opposite party no.2 has further submitted that the Full Bench of this Court in Father Thomas v. State of U.P. and another; 2011 (1) JIC 533 (ALL)(FB) has held that criminal revision against the order passed under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. is not maintainable as the order passed under Section 156(3) is an interlocutory order. Learned Counsel has submitted that under the provisions of Section 19 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, previous sanction is necessary for taking cognizance of an offence committed by a public servant but for lodging of an FIR, previous sanction is not necessary. Therefore, Section 19 of the Prevention of Corruption Act is not applicable in this case and accordingly, the instant criminal revision is liable to be dismissed.

9. I have heard learned Counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

10. In the instant case, the opposite party no.2 had moved an application under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. before the learned Magistrate with the allegation that the opposite party no.2 and the revisionist no.2 entered into an agreement for construction of house but the revisionist no.2, who is the contractor/ builder denied to complete the construction work after taking Rs.5,00,000/- (fifty lakhs) from the applicant. An FIR against the revisionist no.2 and his wife was lodged by the opposite party no.2 as Case Crime No.1412 of 2009. The revisionist no.1 is the Investigating Officer of this case. The revisionist no.1 called for both the parties and put pressure on the opposite party no.2 for compromise and on denial, used filthy language by making caste-based remark. The opposite party no.2 tried to lodge an FIR but when FIR has not been lodged, the opposite party no.2 moved the aforesaid application under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C.

11. The main objection taken by learned Counsel for opposite party no.2 is that an accused has no locus standi before an order of summoning is passed and since an order directing investigation is interlocutory in nature, such an order is not subject to a revision in view of the statutory bar contained in Section 397(2) of Cr.P.C. The main issues before this Court to adjudicate are as follows:

"(A) Whether the order of learned Magistrate made in exercise of powers under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. directing the police to register and investigate is open to revision at the instance of a person against whom neither cognizance has been taken nor any process is issued?

(B) Whether an order made under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C is an interlocutory order and remedy of revision against such order is barred under sub-section (2) of Section 397 of Cr.P.C.?"

12. Before examining any of the questions framed above, it would be necessary to reproduce the words of section 156 which falls in Chapter XII of Cr.P.C.:

"156. Police officer's powers to investigate cognizable cases.- (1) Any officer in charge of a police station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to inquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XIII.

*(2) No proceeding of a police officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground t*hat the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate.

(3) Any Magistrate empowered under Section 190 may order such an investigation as above mentioned."

Issue No.(A)

13. As pointed out in Suresh Chand Jain v. State of M.P. and others; AIR 2001 SC 571 that there is a difference in the position of a prospective accused against whom an order is made under section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. before cognizance is taken by the Magistrate, and an accused against whom investigation has been directed under section 202(1) of Cr.P.C. Although the nature of both the investigations is the same, but the former investigation is carried out by the police, essentially under Chapter XII of the Code which deals with: "Information to the Police and Their Powers to Investigate." The police officer-in-charge of the police station has the same powers for carrying out an investigation under section 156(1), without orders of the Magistrate as the Magistrate can direct under section 156 (3) of the Code. Section 154 (1) of the Code prescribes the steps to be taken on receipt of a report of a cognizable offence by such a police officer. 154(3) gives powers to the Superintendent to issue appropriate directions requiring a station officer to conduct investigation into a cognizable offence. This power is parallel to the power of the Magistrate to issue a similar direction to the Station officer under section 156(3) of the Code. The investigation culminates with the submission of the report by the police under section 173 of the Code. The post-cognizance investigation directed by the Magistrate under section 202(1) although it is of a limited nature at the stage of inquiry and is carried out mainly for helping the Magistrate decide whether or not there is sufficient ground for him to proceed further, but it is an investigation which is carried out on directions of the police after cognizance has been taken by the Magistrate on a complaint under sections 190(1)(a) and after examination of the complainant under section 200 of the Code.

14. In the case of Pratap v. State of U.P.; 1991 (28) ACC 422, it has been observed that merely because process has been issued against a person, it cannot be said that a decision adversely affecting his rights has been taken, as he has merely been asked to face trial in a Court of law. Therefore no principle of natural justice is infringed if a Magistrate issues process against a person without first affording him an opportunity of hearing. The Code does not contemplate holding two trials, one before the issue of process and the other after the process is issued. The legislature has provided an elaborate procedure for hearing an accused after the trial begins in a Court of law.

15. The thrust of the argument was that if after cognizance when the Court decides to conduct an inquiry under section 200 or 202 Cr.P.C, no right of hearing, beyond the right of the accused to be present personally or through counsel is permitted, where would the question arise of the accused having a right to be heard when an order by the Magistrate only directing the police to investigate a cognizable offence in exercise of powers under section 156(3) Cr.P.C was passed at the pre-cognizance stage.

16. In Bhagwan Samardha Sreepada Vallabha Venkata Vishwandaha Maharaj v. State of A.P. and others; JT 1999 (4) SC 537, it has been held that even after submission of a final report, the police in exercise of powers under section 173 (8) is empowered to further investigate the matter. No obligation is cast at that stage also to hear the accused, as casting such an obligation would unnecessarily place a burden on the Courts to search for all the potential accused and to provide them with an opportunity of being heard before further investigation could be conducted, defeating its purpose.

17. In the case of C.B.I. and another v. Rajesh Gandhi and another; 1997 Cr.L.J 63, it has been observed that the decision to investigate and the agency which should investigate the offence does not attract the principles of natural justice and the accused has no say in the matter as to who should investigate the offence he is charged with.

18. In Bhagwant Singh v. Commissioner of Police; 1985 (22) ACC 246 (SC), it was held that after consideration of the report under section 173(2) of the Code, where the Magistrate decides not to take cognizance and to drop the proceedings or reaches a conclusion that there was no sufficient ground for proceeding against some of the persons mentioned in the FIR, the Magistrate must give notice to the informant and provide him with an opportunity to be heard at the time of consideration of the report. Here again no right of hearing has been conferred on an accused when the Magistrate decides to hear the informant on receipt of the report under section 173 (2) of the Code, when he is of the opinion that no ground exists for proceeding against the accused.

19. In the case of Abdul Aziz v. State of U.P.; 2009 Cri.L.J 1683, the court has observed as under:

"Thus at the stage of Section 156(3) Cr. P. C. any order made by the Magistrate does not adversely affect the right of any person, since he has got ample remedy to seek relief at the appropriate stage by raising his objections. It is incomprehensible that accused cannot challenge the registration of F.I.R. by the police directly, but can challenge the order made by the Magistrate for the registration of the same with the same consequences. The accused does not have any right to be heard before he is summoned by the Court under the Code of Criminal Procedure and that he has got no right to raise any objection till the stage of summoning and resultantly he cannot be conferred with a right to challenge the order passed prior to his summoning. Further, if the accused does not have a right to install the investigation, but for the limited grounds available to him under the law, it surpasses all suppositions to comprehend that he possesses a right to resist registration of F.I.R."

20. From a consideration of the aforesaid laws, it is apparent that even when a complaint is filed under section 190(1) (a) and the Court decides to take cognizance and to adopt the procedure provided for inquiry under section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C, the accused is only permitted to remain present during the proceedings, but not to intervene or to raise his defence, until the order issuing summons is passed. The right of hearing of a prospective accused at the pre-cognizance stage, when only a direction for investigation by the police is issued by the Magistrate under section 156(3) Cr.P.C., can only be placed at a lower pedestal. It is only during the course of trial that the accused has been conferred rights at different stages to raise his defence. As the authorities show, that in the absence of any statutory right of hearing to the prospective accused at the pre-cognizance stage, when the direction to investigate has only been issued by the Magistrate under section 156(3), the accused cannot be conferred with any right of hearing even under any principle of audi alteram partem.

21. This Court has also seen that during the stage of investigation the accused has no right of intervention as to the mode and manner of investigation and who should investigate.

22. Even after submission of a final report, either when the police decides to order further investigation under section 173(8) Cr.P.C, or before accepting or rejecting the report, only the informant is required to be heard. The accused is not entitled to be heard even at this stage. In this view it would be unrealistic to confer a right of hearing when only an innocuous direction for investigation is passed by the Magistrate in a case disclosing a cognizable offence., especially when the allied order regarding the decision of a police officer to investigate in exercise of powers under section 156(1) is not vulnerable to challenge in the criminal revision. Also when objections to maintainability of a case are raised on the ground of limitation under section 468 or under section 195 Cr.P.C, the appropriate stage for raising these objections is at the time of cognizance or at the time of framing of charges, and not when a Magistrate issues a direction for investigation under section 156(3) Cr.P.C.

23. In the light of the aforesaid discussion, it is abundantly clear that the prospective accused has no locus standi to challenge a direction for investigation of a cognizable case under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C before cognizance or issuance of process against the accused. The first issue is answered accordingly.

Issue No.(B)

24. Section 397 (2) of Cr.P.C. reads as follows:

25. Only if cognizance is taken and process issued that the accused gets a right of hearing. Before that stage according to the learned Single Judge, any order, including an order under section 156(3) Cr.P.C, will be interlocutory in nature.

26. n the case of Madhu Limaye v. State of Maharashtra; 1978 (15) ACC 184, no doubt lays down that orders, such as the order in that case issuing process against the accused could not be described as a final order, but it was also not an interlocutory order, which could have attracted the bar to the maintainability of the criminal revision in view of section 397 (2) of the Code, because if the plea of the accused was rejected on a point which when accepted could have concluded the particular proceedings. Rather according to the said decision it should be described as a type of intermediate order falling in the middle course. In Madhu Limaye's case (Supra) an objection had been raised by the appellant that the cognizance taken by the Sessions Court without commitment of the case to it in exercise of powers under section 199(2) Cr.P.C, on a complaint under section 500 IPC by the Public Prosecutor based on the sanction by the State government under section 199(4) Cr.P.C was incompetent, as no complaint had been made by the aggrieved person Sri A.R. Antulay, the Chief Minister, and the alleged defamatory statements related to acts done in his personal capacity, and not in the discharge of his public duties. If this contention was accepted, it would have resulted in the order of cognizance passed by the Sessions Judge without the case being committed to him, being set aside. Hence this objection would go to the root of the matter, and could not be ignored only by describing the order as interlocutory in nature.

27. In the case of Amar Nath v. State of Maharashtra; AIR 1977 SC 2185, the Apex Court has held as under:

"6. Let us now proceed to interpret the provisions of Section 397 against the historical background of these facts. Sub-section (2) of Section 397 of the 1973 Code may be extracted thus :

The main question which falls for determination in this appeal is as to what is the connotation of the term "interlocutory order" as appearing in sub-section (2) of Section 397 which bars any revision of such an order by the High Court. The term "interlocutory order" is a term of well-known legal significance and does not present any serious difficulty. It has been used in various statutes including the Code of Civil Procedure, Letters Patent of the High Courts and other like statutes. In Webster's New World Dictionary "interlocutory" has been defined as an order other than final decision. Decided cases have laid down that interlocutory orders to be appealable must be those which decide the rights and liabilities of the parties concerning a particular aspect. It seems to us that the term "interlocutory order" in Section 397(2) of the 1973 Code has been used in a restricted sense and not in any broad or artistic sense. It merely denotes orders of a purely interim or temporary nature which do not decide or touch the important rights or the liabilities of the parties. Any order which substantially affects the right of the accused, or decides certain rights of the parties cannot be said to be an interlocutory order so as to bar a revison to the High Court against that order, because that would be against the very object which formed the basis for insertion of this particular provision in Section 397 of the 1973 Code. Thus, for instance, orders summoning witnesses, adjourning cases, passing orders for bail, calling for reports and such other steps in aid of the pending proceeding, may no doubt amount to interlocutory orders against which no revision would lie under Section 397(2) of the 1973 Code. But orders which are matters of moment and which affect or adjudicate the rights of the accused or a particular aspect of the trial cannot be said to be interlocutory order so as to be outside the purview of the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court."

28. In Amar Nath's case (supra), the order summoning the appellants in a mechanical manner after the police had submitted a final report against them leading to their release by the Judicial Magistrate, and the revision against that order before the Additional Sessions Judge preferred by the complainant had also failed. Even the subsequent complaint by the complainant had been dismissed on merits. Against the latter dismissal of the complaint when the complainant preferred a revision, the Sessions Judge set aside the order of the Judicial Magistrate and ordered further inquiry, whereupon the Magistrate straightaway summoned the appellants for trial. This order which appeared to infringe substantial rights acquired by the appellants was considered an order of moment and not a mere interlocutory order, which would invite the bar to entertaining the revision under S. 397(2) of the Code.

29. An order under section 156(3) Cr.P.C. passed by the Magistrate directing the police officer to investigate a cognizable case on the other hand is no such order of moment, which impinges on any valuable rights of the party. Were any objection to the issuance of such a direction to be accepted (though it is difficult to visualize any objection which could result in the quashing of a simple direction for investigation), the proceedings would still not come to an end, as it would be open to the complainant informant to move an application under section 154(3) before the Superintendent of Police (S.P.) or a superior officer under section 36 of the Code. He could also file a complaint under section 190 read with section 200 of the Code. This is the basic difference from the situations mentioned in Madhu Limaye and in Amar Nath's cases, where acceptance of the objections could result in the said accused being discharged or the summons set aside, and the proceedings terminated. Also the direction for investigation by the Magistrate is but an incidental step in aid of investigation and trial. It is thus similar to orders summoning witnesses, adjourning cases, orders granting bail, calling for reports and such other steps in aid of pending proceedings which have been described as purely interlocutory in nature in Amar Nath (supra).

30. As the direction for investigation passed by the Magistrate under section 156(3) is purely interlocutory in nature, and involves no substantial rights of the parties, we are of the view that the bar under section 397(2) Cr.P.C to the entertainment of a criminal revision can also not be circumvented by moving an application under section 482 Cr.P.C. As observed in State v. Navjot Sandhu, (2003) 6 SCC 641 in paragraph 29:

*"29. Section 482 of the Criminal Procedure Code starts with the words "Nothing in this Code". Thus the inherent jurisdiction of the High Court under Section 482 of the Criminal Procedure Code can be exercised even when there is a bar under Section 397 or some other provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code. However as is set out in Satya Narayan Sharma case [(2001) 8 SCC 607 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 39] this power cannot be exercised if there is a statutory bar in some other enactment. If the order assailed is purely of an interlocutory character, which could be corrected in exercise of revisional powers or appellate powers the High Court must refuse to exercise its inherent power. The inherent power is to be used only in cases where there is an abuse of the process of the court or where interference is absolutely necessary for securing the ends of justice. The inherent power must be exercised very sparingly as cases which require interference would be few and far between. The most common case where inherent jurisdiction is generally exercised is where criminal proceedings are required to be quashed because they are initiated illegally, vexatiously or without jurisdiction. Most of the cases set out hereinabove fall in this category. It must be remembered that the inherent power is not to be resorted to if there is a specific provision in the Code or any other enactment for redress of the grievance of the aggrieved party. This power should not be exercised against an express bar of law engrafted in any other provision of the Criminal Procedure Code. This power can*not be exercised as against an express bar in some other enactment."

31. However it is made clear that the initial order for investigation under section 156(3) is also not open to challenge in a writ petition, as it is now beyond the pale of controversy that the province of investigation by the police and the judiciary are not overlapping but complementary. As observed by the Privy Council in paragraph 37 in Emperor v. Khwaja Nazir Ahmad, AIR 1945 PC 18 when considering the scope of the statutory powers of the police to investigate a cognizable case under sections 154 and 156 of the Code, that it would be an unfortunate result if the Courts in exercise of their inherent powers could interfere in this function of the police. The roles of the Court and police are "complementary not overlapping and the combination of individual liberty with a due observance of law and order is only to be obtained by leaving each to exercise its own function."

32. In view of above, the order of the learned Magistrate passed in exercise of powers under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.c. directing the police to register and investigate is not open to revision at the instance of a person against whom neither cognizance has been taken nor any process issued and an order made under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. is an interlocutory order and remedy of revision against such order is barred under sub-section (2) of Section 397.

33. Accordingly, the criminal revision is hereby dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Santosh Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the revisionist, Mr. Sheetal Prasad Chakarvorty and Mr. P.K. Shahi, learned counsel for the State and perused the record.

2. This criminal revision under section 397/401 Cr.P.C. has been preferred by the revisionist against the impugned order dated 20.12.2019 passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Auraiya in Complaint Case No. 4329 of 2019, arising out of Misc. Case No. 268 of 2019 (Anand Kumar Pandey vs. Rani Devi and others), whereby the application moved under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. was treated as complaint and proceeded to record the statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C.

3. The brief allegations as alleged in the present case are that the complainant / revisionist filed an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. on 11.06.2019 before the learned Magistrate stating therein that the complainant had purchased land no.127/1 situated at Mauja Manepur, Phaphund, District-Auraiya from the opposite party no.3 and, thereafter, his name entered in the revenue record and he was absolute owner of the said land. Some trees were standing over the said land, but the accused opposite party no.2 to 4 obtained permission from the Forest Department by way of forged affidavit mentioned situation of trees in between Gata No.127/1 and 127/2, which was absolutely wrong. Thereafter, the accused opposite parties with joint conspiracy cut down the said trees situated at Gata No.127/1 only and committed offence of forgery and cheating by way of misrepresenting the correct situation of trees, whereas, the opposite party no.2 had already sold the said land to the complainant in the year 2011. With regard to the same, the complainant tried to lodge a first information report but no report was lodged. He had also sent a registered complaint to the Superintendent of Police, Auraiya even then no action was taken by the police though a cognizable offence has been made out against the accused persons. Therefore, the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. was moved by the complainant/ revisionist before the concerned court below for registration of the first information report.

4. It has been contended by learned counsel for the revisionist that vide order dated 20.12.2019, the concerned court below while disposing of the said application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. has treated the same as complaint and directed it to be registered as complaint case fixing date for recording statement of the complainant under Section 200 Cr.P.C.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionist vehemently submits that from perusal of the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. itself, a cognizable offence was made out and as such, it was required for the concerned court below to direct the police to investigate the matter. However, the learned Magistrate instead of directing for registration of the first information report treated the same as complaint, though cognizable offence is made out against them, therefore, the order passed by the court below is unsustainable in the eye of law.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist has relied upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Lalita Kumari vs. Government of U.P. and Others reported in 2014 (2) SCC 1, the Hon'ble Apex Court has laid down guidelines holding that an obligation is cast on a police officer to register afirstinformationreportunder Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure upon receiving anyinformationrelating to commission of a cognizable offence. It is contended that the Hon'ble Apex Court has categorically held that the registration of F.I.R. is mandatory under Section 154 of the Code, if the information discloses commission of a cognizable offence and no preliminary inquiry is permissible in such a situation. Only in acasewhere theinformationreceived does not disclose a cognizable offence, the necessity for a preliminary inquiry may arise which may be conducted only to ascertain whether cognizable offence is disclosed or not. In thatcasealso, once the preliminary inquiry discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, the F.I.R. must be registered.

7. Per contra learned A.G.A. has contended that the order passed by the court below suffers from no error. The learned Magistrate is well within his power to treat the same as complaint. When an application is moved under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. it is not necessary to direct in every case to register the first information report, hence in view of the decision of this court in Sukhbasi's (supra) case the court below has treated the same as complaint.

8. Having heard the learned counsel for the revisionist and perusing the impugned order as well as the complaint, this Court does not find substance in the argument of the learned counsel for the revisionist. To appreciate the legal position in this regard, it is appropriate to have reference to provision of Sections 154 and 156 Cr.P.C before proceeding further. Provision of Sections 154 and 156 Cr.P.C is reproduced as under:-

"154. Information in cognizable cases.

(1) Every information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, if given orally to an officer in charge of a police station, shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction, and be read Over to the informant; and every such information, whether given in writing or reduced to writing as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person giving it, and the substance thereof shall be entered in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the State Government may prescribe in this behalf.

(2) A copy of the information as recorded under sub- section (1) shall be given forthwith, free of cost, to the informant.

(3) Any person aggrieved by a refusal on the part of an officer in charge of a police station to record the information referred to in subsection (1) may send the substance of such information, in writing and by post, to the Superintendent of Police concerned who, if satisfied that such information discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, shall either investigate the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by any police officer subordinate to him, in the manner provided by this Code, and such officer shall have all the powers of an officer in charge of the police station in relation to that offence.

"156. Police officer's power to investigate cognizable case.-

(1) Any officer in charge of a police station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to inquire into or try under th provisions of Chapter XIII.

(2)No proceeding of a police officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate.

(3) Any Magistrate empowered under Section 190 may order such an investigation as above mentioned."

9. Perusal of the provision of Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C shows that a Magistrate is empowered to direct the Station House Officer of the Police Station concerned to investigate the case; qua which a Magistrate is competent to take cognizance under Section 190 Cr.P.C. At this stage, it is also useful to have reference of Section 190 Cr.P.C which is as under:-

"190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates.

(1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub- section (2), may take cognizance of any offence-

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under sub-section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try."

10. Perusal of aforesaid Section 190 Cr.P.C shows that a Magistrate has a wide power to take cognizance of an offence either on police report or on receipt of the complaint constituting such an offence, or upon information received from any person or even on his own knowledge as well; that such as offence has been committed.

11. Further, perusal of the aforesaid provisions, it is evident that the police can investigate into matters relating to commission of 'cognizable offences' brought to its notice under section 154 CrPC. Officer-in-charge of police station has power to investigate U/s 156(1) Cr.P.C. in such case. Magistrate has power to take cognizance U/s 190 Cr.P.C. on receiving the 'complaint'. Thus the matter relating to section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. relates to power of Magistrate to order investigation by police in matters relating to cognizable offences brought before it through complaint. Complaint has been defined in section 2(d) Cr.P.C. of as follows :-

"complaint' means any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate, with a view to his taking action under this Code, that some person whether known or unknown, has committed an offence, but does not include a Police report."

Code of Criminal Procedure has given different type of powers to deal with such matters relating to commission of cognizable offences when brought before it.

12. In the case of Lalita Kumari vs. Government of U.P. and Others reported in 2014 (2) SCC 1, the question which arose for consideration on a reference was "whether a police officer is bound to register a first information report (FIR) upon receiving aninformationrelating to commission of a cognizable offence under Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (in short "Code") or the police officer has the power to conduct a preliminary inquiry in order to test the veracity of such informationbefore registering the same in the context of the question before it.

13. The five judges Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Lalita Kumari (supra), taking note of the provisions contained in Section 154, 156 & 157 in Chapter XII of the Code of Criminal Procedure has held in paragraph nos. 120 to 120.8 as under:-

"120. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we hold:-

120.1 The registration of FIR is mandatory under Section 154 of the Code, if the information discloses commission of a cognizable offence and no preliminary inquiry is permissible in such a situation.

120.2 If the information received does not disclose commission of a cognizable offence but indicates that the necessity for an inquiry, a preliminary inquiry may be conducted only to ascertain whether cognizable offence is disclosed or not.

120.3 If the inquiry discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, the FIR must be registered. In cases where preliminary inquiry ends in closing the complaint, a copy of the entry of such closure must be supplied to the first informant forthwith (not later than one week) disclosing reasons in brief for closing the complaint and not proceeding further.

120.4 The police officer cannot avoid his duty of registering an offence if cognizable is disclosed. Action must be taken against an erring officer who do not register the FIR if information received by him discloses a cognizable offence.

120.5 The scope of preliminary inquiry is not to verify the veracity or otherwise by the information received but only to ascertain whether the information reveals any cognizable offence.

120.6 As to what type and in which cases the preliminary inquiry is to be conducted, will depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. The category of cases in which preliminary inquiry may be made are identified as under:-

(a) Matrimonial disputes/family disputes

(b) Commercial offences

(c) Medical negligence cases

(d) Corruption cases

(e) Cases where there is abnormal delay/laches in initiating criminal prosecution, for example, over 3 months' delay in reporting the matter without satisfactorily explaining the reasons for delay.

The aforesaid are only illustrations and not exhaustive of all conditions which may warrant preliminary inquiry.

120.7 While ensuring and protecting the rights of the accused and the complainant, a preliminary inquiry should be made time-bound and in any case it should not exceed 7 days. The fact of such delay and the causes of it must be reflected in the General Diary entry.

*120.8 Since the General Diary/Station Diary/Daily Diary is the record of all information received in a police station, we direct that all information relating to cognizable offences, whether resulting in registration of FIR or lead*ing to an inquiry, must be mandatorily and meticulously reflected in the said diary and the decision to conduct a preliminary inquiry must also be reflected, as mentioned above."

14. Acquainting the above directions issued by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Lalita Kumari (supra), in the context of the question referred before it, it is evident that all the directions issued therein apply in the matter of receipt of information of commission of a cognizable offence by the police and the stage of "investigation" as defined in Section 2(h) of the Code to be made by the police in exercise of power conferred upon it under Chapter XII of the Code.

15. From a careful reading of the observations and directions issued by the Apex Court in Lalita Kumari's (supra) case, it cannot be said that they relate in any manner or curtail the power of the Magistrate to make an "inquiry" as defined in Section 2(g) of the Code. The Hon'ble Apex Court has also observed as follows:-

"87. The term "inquiry" as per Section 2(g) of the Code reads as under:

"2.(g) "inquiry" means every inquiry, other than a trial, conducted under this Code by a Magistrate or Court."

Hence, it is clear that inquiry under the Code is relatable to a judicial act and not to the steps taken by the Police which are either investigation after the stage of Section 154 of the Code or termed as "preliminary inquiry" and which are prior to the registration of FIR, even though, no entry in the General Diary/Station Diary/Daily Diary has been made.

88. Though there is reference to the term "preliminary inquiry" and "inquiry" under Sections 159 and Sections 202 and 340 of the Code, that is a judicial exercise undertaken by the Court and not by the Police and is not relevant for the purpose of the present reference."

16. The question of power of Magistrate to order investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. came up for consideration before the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Mohammad Yousuf vs. Smt. Afaq Jahan & another reported in 2006 (1) SCC 627 wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that the "investigation" under the directions of the Magistrate under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. falling within Chapter XII contemplates "investigation" by the police authorities. Whether the investigation is started by the police by the registration of FIR on the information received by it or under the order of the Magistrate under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., it would be same kind of investigation which would end up only with the report contemplated under Section 173 of the Code. But when a Magistrate orders "investigation" under Chapter XII, he does so before he takes cognizance of the offence under Chapter XV of the Code.

It has also held that Chapter XV of the Code which confers power on the Magistrate to order "investigation" under Section 202 of the Code deals with the provisions relating to the steps which a Magistrate may adopt after taking cognizance of an offence on a complaint. Thus, the investigation under Section 202, which falls under Chapter XV, though refers to the power of a Magistrate to direct an investigation by a police officer, but is different from the "investigation" contemplated in Section 156(3) falling within Chapter XII of the Code.

17. The relevant paragraphs nos. 9, 10 & 11 of Mohammad Yousuf's (Supra) case are to be quoted herein:-

"9. But a Magistrate need not order any such investigation if he proposes to take cognizance of the offence. Once he takes cognizance of the offence he has to follow the procedure envisaged in Chapter XV of the Code. A reading of Section 202(1) of the Code makes the position clear that the investigation referred to therein is of a limited nature. The Magistrate can direct such an investigation to be made either by a police officer or by any other person. Such investigation is only for helping the Magistrate to decide whether or not there is sufficient ground for him to proceed further. This can be discerned from the culminating words in Section 202(1) i.e. "or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding".

10. This is because he has already taken cognizance of the offence disclosed in the complaint, and the domain of the case would thereafter vest with him.

11. The clear position therefore is that any Judicial Magistrate, before taking cognizance of the offence, can order investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code. If he does so, he is not to examine the complainant on oath because he was not taking cognizance of any offence therein. For the purpose of enabling the police to start investigation it is open to the Magistrate to direct the police to register an FIR. There is nothing illegal in doing so. After all registration of an FIR involves only the process of entering the substance of the information relating to the commission of the cognizable offence in a book kept by the officer in charge of the police station as indicated in Section 154 of the Code. Even if a Magistrate does not say in so many words while directing investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code that an FIR should be registered, it is the duty of the officer in charge of the police station to register the FIR regarding the cognizable offence disclosed by the complaint because that police officer could take further steps contemplated in Chapter XII of the Code only thereafter."

18. Further it is well settled law as laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of R.R. Chari vs the State of Uttar Pradesh reported in AIR 1951 SC 207, Narayandas Bhagwandas Madhavdas vs. State of West Bengal reported in AIR 1959 SC 1118 and Gopal Das Sindhi & others Vs. State of Assam & another reported in AIR 1961 SC 986 as also the decision of the Calcutta High Court in the case of Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, West Bengal vs. Abani Kumar Banerjee reported in AIR 1950 Calcutta 437.

19. The relevant part of Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affair's (supra) case is quoted herein below:-

".....What is taking cognizance has not been defined in the Code of Criminal Procedure and I have no desire to attempt to define it. It seems to me clear, however, that before it can be said that any Magistrate has taken cognizance of any offence under Section 190(1)(a) of the Cr PC, he must not only have applied his mind to the contents of the petition but he must have done so for the purpose of proceeding in a particular way as indicated in the subsequent provisions of this Chapter --proceeding under Section 200 and thereafter sending it for inquiry and report under Section 202. When the Magistrate applies his mind not for the purpose of proceeding under the subsequent sections of this Chapter, but for taking action of some other kind, e.g., ordering investigation under Section 156(3), or issuing a search warrant for the purpose of the investigation, he cannot be said to have taken cognizance of the offence." were approved by this Court in R.R. Chari v. State of Uttar Pradesh[1951 SCR 312] . It would be clear from the observations of Mr Justice Das Gupta that when a Magistrate applies his mind not for the purpose of proceeding under the various sections of Chapter XVI but for taking action of some other kind, e.g. ordering investigation under Section 156(3) or issuing a search warrant for the purpose of investigation, he cannot be said to have taken cognizance of any offence. The observations of Mr Justice Das Gupta above-referred to were also approved by this Court in the case of Narayandas Bhagwandas Madhavdas v. State of West Bengal [1960 (I) SCR 93] . It will be clear, therefore, that in the present case neither the Additional District Magistrate nor Mr Thomas applied his mind to the complaint filed on August 3, 1957, with a view to taking cognizance of an offence. The Additional District Magistrate passed on the complaint to Mr Thomas to deal with it. Mr Thomas seeing that cognizable offences were mentioned in the complaint did not apply his mind to it with a view to taking cognizance of any offence; on the contrary in his opinion it was a matter to be investigated by the police under Section 156(3) of the Code. The action of Mr Thomas comes within the observations of Mr Justice Das Gupta. In the circumstances, we do not think that the first contention on behalf of the appellants has any substance."

20. Further, in the case of Jamuna Singh Vs. Bhadai Shah, reported in AIR 1964 SC 1541 wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:-

".....when on a petition of complaint being filed before him a Magistrate applies his mind for proceeding under the various provisions of Chapter XVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, he must be held to have taken cognizance of the offences mentioned in the complaint. When however he applies his mind not for such purpose but for purposes of ordering investigation under s. 156(3) or issues a search warrant for the purpose of investigation he cannot be said to have taken cognizance of any offence*. It was so held by this Court in R.R. Chari v. State of U. P.(1) and again in Gopal Das v. State of, Assam(2) In the case before us the Magistrate after receipt of Bhadai Sah's complaint proceeded to examine him under s. 200 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. That section itself states that the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence on a complaint shall at once examine the complainant and the witnesses present, if any, upon oath. This examination by the Magistrate under s. 200 of the Code of Criminal Procedure puts it beyond doubt that the Magistrate did take cognizance of the offences mentioned in the complaint. After completing such* examination and recording the substance of it to writing as required by s. 200 the Magistrate could have issued process at once under s. 204 of the Code of Criminal Procedure or could have dismissed the complaint under s. 203 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. It was also open to him, before taking either of these courses, to take action under s. 202 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. That section empowers the Magistrate to "postpone the issue of process for compelling the attendance of persons complained against, and either enquire into the case himself or if he is a Magistrate other than a Magistrate of the third class, direct an enquiry or investigation to be made by any Magistrate subordinate to him, or by a police officer, or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of ascertaining the truth or falsehood of the complaint." If and when such investigation or inquiry is ordered the result of the investigation or inquiry has to be taken into consideration before the Magistrate takes any action under s. 203 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

We find that in the case before us the Magistrate after completing the examination under s. 200 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and recording the substance of it made the order in these words :--

"Examined the complaint on s.a. The offence is cognizable one. To S.I. Bakunthpur for instituting a case and report by 12.12.56."

If the learned Magistrate had used the words "for investigation" instead of the words "for instituting a case" the order would clearly be under s. 202 01' the Code of Criminal Procedure. We do not think that the fact that he used the words "for instituting a case" makes any difference. It has to be noticed that the Magistrate was not bound to take cognizance of the offences on receipt of the complaint. He could have, without taking cognizance, directed an investigation of the case by the police under s. 156(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Once however he took cognizance he could order investigation by the police only under s. 202 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and not under s. 156(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. As it is clear here from the very fact that he took action under s. 200 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, that he had taken cognizance of the offences mentioned in the complaint, it was open to him to order investigation only under s. 202 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and not under s. 156(3) of the Code. It would be proper in these circumstances to hold that though the Magistrate used the words "for instituting a case" in this order of November 22, 1956 he was actually taking action under s. 202 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, that being the only section under which he was in law entitled to act."

21. As to what would mean "by taking cognizance" has been clarified by the Apex Court in the case of R.R. Chari vs. the State of Uttar Pradesh reported in AIR 1951 SC 207. The relevant paragraph Nos. 8 & 9 of the said judgment read as under:-

"8. In Gopal Marwari v. Emperor (1), it was observed that the word 'cognizance' is used in the Code to indicate the point when the Magistrate or a Judge first takes judicial notice of an offence. it is a different thing from the initiation of proceedings. It is the condition precedent to the initiation of proceedings by the Magistrate. The court noticed that the word 'cognizance' is a word of somewhat indefinite import and it is perhaps not always used in exactly the same sense.

"9. After referring to the observations in Emperor v. Sou-rindra Mohan Chuckerbutty (2), it was stated by Das Gupta J. in Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, West Bengal v. Abani Kumar Banerjee (3) as follows :-

"What is taking cognizance has not been defined in the Criminal Procedure Code and I have no desire to attempt to define it. It seems to me clear however that before it can be said that any magistrate has taken cognizance of any offence under section 190 (1) (a), Criminal Procedure Code, he must not only have applied his mind to the contents of the petition but he must have done so for the purpose of proceeding in a particular way as indicated in the subsequent provisions of this Chapter-- proceeding under section 200 and thereafter sending it for inquiry and report under section 202. When the magistrate applies his mind not for the purpose of proceeding under the subsequent sections of this Chapter, but for taking action of some other kind, e.g., ordering investigation under section 156 (3), or issuing a search warrant for the purpose of the investigation, he cannot be said to have taken cognizance of the offence."

In our opinion that is the correct approach to the question before the court."

22. Further the aforesaid view had been noted with approval by the Apex Court in the case of Narayandas Bhagwandas Madhavdas vs. State of West Bengal reported in AIR 1959 SC 1118 by observing as under:-

".....It is, however, argued that in Chari's case this Court was dealing with a matter which came under the Prevention of Corruption Act. It seems to us, however, that makes no difference. It is the principle which was enunciated by Das Gupta, J., which was approved. As to when cognizance is taken of an offence will depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and it is impossible to attempt to define what is meant by taking cognizance. Issuing of a search warrant for the purpose of an investigation or of a warrant of arrest for that purpose cannot by themselves be regarded as acts by which cognizance was taken of an offence. Obviously, it is only when a Magistrate applies his mind for the purpose of proceeding under s. 200 and subsequent sections of Chapter XVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure or under s. 204 of Chapter XVII of the Code that it can be positively stated that he had applied his mind and therefore had taken cognizance."

23. Thereafter, the Full Bench of this Court in the case of Ram Babu Gupta Vs. State of U.P. & others reported in 2001 (43) ACC 50 has held that it is not possible to hold that when an application is moved before the Court only for exercise of powers under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., it will remain an application only and would not be in the nature of the complaint. It was held that in any case, the Magistrate has to apply his mind on the allegations in the complaint to use his powers under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. It was, thus, held that:-

"on receiving a complaint the Magistrate has to apply his mind to the allegations in the complaint upon which he may not at once proceed to take cognizance and may order it to go to the police station for being registered and investigated. The order of the Magistrate must indicate application of mind. If the Magistrate takes cognizance; he proceeds to follow the procedure provided in Chapter XV of Cr.P.C."

24. In India Carat Pvt. Ltd. vs. State of Karnataka reported in 1989 (2) SCC 132, considering the provisions as contained in Chapter XIV, Chapter XV and Chapter XVI of the Code, it was observed in paragraph 13' as under:-

"13. From the provisions referred to above, it may be seen that on receipt of a complaint a Magistrate has several courses open to him..... .....Yet another course open to the Magistrate is that instead of taking cognizance of the offence and following the procedure laid down under Section 200 or Section 202, he may order an investigation to be made by the police under Section 156(3). When such an order is made, the police will have to investigate the matter and submit a report under Section 173(2). On receiving the police report the Magistrate may take cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(c) and issue process straightaway to the accused. The Magistrate may exercise his powers in this behalf irrespective of the view expressed by the police in their report whether an offence has been made out or not. This is because the police report under Section 173(2) will contain the facts discovered or unearthed by the police as well as the conclusion drawn by the police therefrom. If the Magistrate is satisfied that upon the facts discovered or unearthed by the police there is sufficient material for him to take cognizance of the offence and issue process, the Magistrate may do so without reference to the conclusion drawn by the Investigating Officer because the Magistrate is not bound by the opinion of the police officer as to whether an offence has been made out or not. Alternately the Magistrate, on receiving the police report, may without issuing process or dropping the proceeding proceed to act under Section 200 by taking cognizance of the offence on the basis of the complaint originally submitted to him and proceed to record the statement upon oath of the complaint and the witnesses present and thereafter decide whether the complaint should be dismissed or process should be issued."

25. The question regarding the power of Magistrate to order investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. further came up for consideration before the Apex Court in the case of Sakiri Vasu vs. State of U.P. & Ors. reported in 2008 (2) SCC 409; wherein it is observed that Section 156(3) provides for a check by the Magistrate on the police performing its duties under Chapter XII of the Code. In case where the Magistrate finds that the police has not done its duties of investigating the case at all or has not done it satisfactorily, he can issue direction to the police to do the investigation properly and can also monitor the same.

26. It was held therein that although Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is very briefly worded but there is an implied power with the Magistrate under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. to order registration of a criminal case and/or to direct the officer in charge of the police station concerned to hold a proper investigation and take all such necessary steps that may be necessary for ensuring a proper investigation including monitoring the same.

27. The above view taken in Sakiri Vasu's (supra) case is supported by the reasoning therein that even though these powers have not been expressly mentioned in Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., they are implied in the said provision as when a power is given to an authority to do something it includes such incidental or implied powers which would ensure the proper doing of that thing. Relevant paragraph Nos. 18, 19 & 20 of the aforesaid judgement are noted as under:-

"18. It is well-settled that when a power is given to an authority to do something it includes such incidental or implied powers which would ensure the proper doing of that thing. In other words, when any power is expressly granted by the statute, there is impliedly included in the grant, even without special mention, every power and every control the denial of which would render the grant itself ineffective. Thus where an Act confers jurisdiction it impliedly also grants the power of doing all such acts or employ such means as are essentially necessary to its execution.

19. The reason for the rule (doctrine of implied power) is quite apparent. Many matters of minor details are omitted from legislation. As Crawford observes in his Statutory Construction (3rd edn. Page 267):-

If these details could not be inserted by implication, the drafting of legislation would be an indeterminable process and the legislative intent would likely be defeated by a most insignificant omission.

20. In ascertaining a necessary implication, the Court simply determines the legislative will and makes it effective. What is necessarily implied is as much part of the statute as if it were specifically written therein."

28. The abovenoted views have been considered in a latest decision judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Vinubhai Haribhai and Malaviya & Ors. vs. State of Gujarat & Anr. Reported in 2019 SCC Online SC 1346 while dealing with the power of the Magistrate to order further investigation under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. of the Code after the charge sheet is filed and cognizance is taken. The argument there was that the Magistrate would have no power to order further investigation into an offence after he takes cognizance of the offence on submission of the charge-sheet on the direction issued by it under Section 156(3) of the Code. Dealing with the said argument, it was observed that the power of a Magistrate under Section 156(3) of the Code is very wide, for it is this judicial authority that must be satisfied that a proper investigation by the police takes place. Relevant paragraph nos. 23 and 24 of the aforesaid judgment are quoted as under:-

23. It is thus clear that the Magistrate's power under Section 156(3) of the CrPC is very wide, for it is this judicial authority that must be satisfied that a proper investigation by the police takes place. To ensure that a "proper investigation" takes place in the sense of a fair and just investigation by the police - which such Magistrate is to supervise - Article 21 of the Constitution of India mandates that all powers necessary, which may also be incidental or implied, are available to the Magistrate to ensure a proper investigation which, without doubt, would include the ordering of further investigation after a report is received by him under Section 173(2); and which power would continue to ensure in such Magistrate at all stages of the criminal proceedings until the trial itself commences. Indeed, even textually, the "investigation" referred to in Section 156(1) of the CrPC would, as per the definition of "investigation" under Section 2(h), include all proceedings for collection of evidence conducted by a police officer; which would undoubtedly include proceedings by way of further investigation under Section 173(8) of the CrPC.

24. However, Shri Basant relied strongly on a Three Judge Bench judgment in Devarapalli Lakshminarayana Reddy & Ors. v. V. Narayana Reddy & Ors. (1976) 3 SCC 252. This judgment, while deciding whether the first proviso to Section 202 (1) of the CrPC was attracted on the facts of that case, held:

"17. Section 156(3) occurs in Chapter XII, under the caption : "Information to the Police and their powers to investigate"; while Section 202 is in Chapter XV which bears the heading: "Of complaints to Magistrates". The power to order police investigation under Section 156(3) is different from the power to direct investigation conferred by Section 202(1). The two operate in distinct spheres at different stages. The first is exercisable at the pre-cognizance stage, the second at the post-cognizance stage when the Magistrate is in seisin of the case. That is to say in the case of a complaint regarding the commission of a cognizable offence, the power under Section 156(3) can be invoked by the Magistrate before he takes cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(a). But if he once takes such cognizance and embarks upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV, he is not competent to switch back to the pre-cognizance stage and avail of Section 156(3). It may be noted further that an order made under sub- section (3) of Section 156, is in the nature of a peremptory reminder or intimation to the police to exercise their plenary powers of investigation under Section 156(1). Such an investigation embraces the entire continuous process which begins with the collection of evidence under Section 156 and ends with a report or charge-sheet under Section 173. On the other hand, Section 202 comes in at a stage when some evidence has been collected by the Magistrate in proceedings under Chapter XV, but the same is deemed insufficient to take a decision as to the next step in the prescribed procedure. In such a situation, the Magistrate is empowered under Section 202 to direct, within the limits circumscribed by that section an investigation "for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding". Thus the object of an investigation under Section 202 is not to initiate a fresh case on police report but to assist the Magistrate in completing proceedings already instituted upon a complaint before him." This judgment was then followed in Tula Ram & Ors. v. Kishore Singh (1977) 4 SCC 459 at paragraphs 11 and 15."

29. It may further be relevant to quote paragraph nos. 25 & 26 of Vinubhai's (supra) case, which read as under:-

25. Whereas it is true that Section 156(3) remains unchanged even after the 1973 Code has been brought into force, yet the 1973 Code has one very important addition, namely, Section 173(8), which did not exist under the 1898 Code. As we have noticed earlier in this judgment, Section 2(h) of the 1973 Criminal Procedure Code defines "investigation" in the same terms as the earlier definition contained in Section 2(l) of the 1898 Criminal Procedure Code with this difference - that "investigation" after the 1973 Code has come into force will now include all the proceedings under the CrPC for collection of evidence conducted by a police officer. "All" would clearly include proceedings under Section 173(8) as well. Thus, when Section 156(3) states that a Magistrate empowered under Section 190 may order "such an investigation", such Magistrate may also order further investigation under Section 173(8), regard being had to the definition of "investigation" contained in Section 2(h).

26. Section 2(h) is not noticed by the aforesaid judgment at all, resulting in the erroneous finding in law that the power under Section 156(3) can only be exercised at the pre-cognizance stage. The "investigation" spoken of in Section 156(3) would embrace the entire process, which begins with the collection of evidence and continues until charges are framed by the Court, at which stage the trial can be said to have begun. For these reasons, the statement of the law contained in paragraph 17 in Devarapalli Lakshminarayana Reddy (supra) cannot be relied upon.

30. In Ramdev Food Products Private Ltd. vs. State of Gujarat, reported in 2015 (6) SCC 439, the Apex Court after considering the provisions in Chapter XII, Chapter XIV and Chapter XV has considered the law laid down by the Apex Court in Lalita Kumari's (supra). The relevant paragraph nos. 19 and 22 of the aforesaid case are herein under:-

"19. Thus, this Court has laid down that while prompt registration of FIR is mandatory, checks and balances on power of police are equally important. Power of arrest or of investigation is not mechanical. It requires application of mind in the manner provided. Existence of power and its exercise are different. Delicate balance had to be maintained between the interest of society and liberty of an individual. Commercial offences have been put in the category of cases where FIR may not be warranted without enquiry.

22. Thus, we answer the first question by holding that the direction under Section 156(3) is to be issued, only after application of mind by the Magistrate. When the Magistrate does not take cognizance and does not find it necessary to postpone instance of process and finds a case made out to proceed forthwith, direction under the said provision is issued. In other words, where on account of credibility of information available, or weighing the interest of justice it is considered appropriate to straightaway direct investigation, such a direction is issued. Cases where Magistrate takes cognizance and postpones issuance of process are cases where the Magistrate has yet to determine "existence of sufficient ground to proceed". Category of cases falling under Para 120.6 in Lalita Kumari (supra) may fall under Section 202. Subject to these broad guidelines available from the scheme of the Code, e*xercise of dis*cretion by the Magistrate is guided by interest of justice from case to case."

31. Further in the case of Anil Kumar vs. M.K. Aiyappa reported in (2013) 10 SCC 705, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that where jurisdiction is exercised on a complaint filed in terms of Section 156(3) or Section 200 Cr.P.C. Relevant paragraph no.11 is as under:-

"11. A Special Judge is deemed to be a Magistrate under Section 5(4) of the PC Act and, therefore, clothed with all the magisterial powers provided under the Code of Criminal Procedure. When a private complaint is filed before the Magistrate, he has two options. He may take cognizance of the offence under Section 190 Cr.P.C. or proceed further in enquiry or trial. A Magistrate, who is otherwise competent to take cognizance, without taking cognizance under Section 190, may direct an investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. The Magistrate, who is empowered under Section 190 to take cognizance, alone has the power to refer a private complaint for police investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C."

32. Further another judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Madhao v. State of Maharashtra reported in (2013) 5 SCC 615; wherein the Apex Court held that magistrate had not exceeded his power nor violated any of the provisions contained in the Code. It is also settled position that any judicial magistrate before taking cognizance of the offence can order investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code. Relevant paragraph nos.13, 14, 15 & 16 of the said judgment is as under:-

13. When a magistrate receives a complaint he is not bound to take cognizance if the facts alleged in the complaint disclose the commission of an offence. The magistrate has discretion in the matter. If on a reading of the complaint, he finds that the allegations therein disclose a cognizable offence and the forwarding of the complaint to the police for investigation under Section 156(3) will be conducive to justice and save the valuable time of the magistrate from being wasted in enquiring into a matter which was primarily the duty of the police to investigate, he will be justified in adopting that course as an alternative to taking cognizance of the offence itself. As said earlier, in the case of a complaint regarding the commission of cognizable offence, the power under Section 156(3) can be invoked by the Magistrate before he takes cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(a). However, if he once takes such cognizance and embarks upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV, he is not competent to revert back to the pre-cognizance stage and avail of Section 156(3).

14. Where a Magistrate chooses to take cognizance he can adopt any of the following alternatives:-

(a) He can peruse the complaint and if satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding he can straightaway issue process to the accused but before he does so he must comply with the r*equirements of Section 200 and record the evidence of the complainant or his witnesses.*

(b) The Magistrate can postpone the issue of process and direct an enquiry by himself.

(c) The Magistrate can postpone the issue of process and direct an enquiry by any other person or an investigation by the police.

15. In case the Magistrate after considering the statement of the complainant and the witnesses or as a result of the investigation and the enquiry ordered is not satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding he can dismiss the complaint.

16. Where a Magistrate orders investigation by the police before taking cognizance under Section 156(3) of the

*Code and receives the report thereupon he can act on the report and discharge the accused or straightaway issue process against the accused or apply his mind to the complaint file*d before him and take action under Section 190 of the Code."

33. After perusing the whole scheme of Code of Criminal Procedure as well as the law settled by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgments, it is evident that if a person has a grievance that his FIR has not been registered by the police, his first remedy is to approach the Superintendent of Police with written application under Section 154(3) Cr.P.C. or other police officer referred to in Section 36 Cr.P.C. In case of S.P. also does not still registered FIR, no proper investigation is done, in such a case, the aggrieved person can approach concerned Magistrate under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. On receipt of the complaint, however, several courses are open to the Magistrate:-

(i) That a Magistrate can order investigation under Section 156(3) only at the pre-cognizance stage, that is to say, before taking cognizance under Sections 190, 200 and 204 and where a Magistrate decides to take cognizance under the provisions of Chapter 14 he is not entitled in law to order any investigation under Section 156(3) though in cases not falling within the proviso to Section 202 he can order an investigation by the police which would be in the nature of an enquiry as contemplated by Section 202 of the Code.

(ii) Where a Magistrate chooses to take cognizance he can adopt any of the following alternatives:

(a) He can peruse the complaint and if satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding he can straightaway issue process to the accused but before he does so he must comply with the requirements of Section 200 and record the evidence of the complainant or his witnesses.

(b) The Magistrate can postpone the issue of process and direct an enquiry by himself.

(c) The Magistrate can postpone the issue of process and direct an enquiry by any other person or an investigation by the police.

(iii) In case the Magistrate after considering the statement of the complainant and the witnesses or as a result of the investigation and the enquiry ordered is not satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding he can dismiss the complaint.

(iv) Where a Magistrate orders investigation by the police before taking cognizance under Section 156(3) of the Code and receives the report thereupon he can act on the report and discharge the accused or straightaway issue process against the accused or apply his mind to the complaint filed before him and take action under Section 190.

34. Thus, the above discussion pertaining to the power of the Magistrate under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. in Chapter XII read with Section 190 in Chapter XIV of the Code leaves no room for doubt that there is nothing in the Code of the Criminal Procedure, which curtails or puts any embargo on the power of the Magistrate to make an "inquiry" as defined under Section 2(g) of the Code or to order for "investigation" defined under Section 2(h) of the Code, in dealing with the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., i.e. in exercise of the power conferred upon it under Chapter XII or Chapter XIV of the Code to satisfy itself about the veracity of the allegations of commission of a criminal offence made therein.

35. In its discretionary power, it is open for the Magistrate to direct the police to register a criminal case under Section 154 Cr.P.C. and conduct investigation. At the same time, it is open for the Magistrate, where the facts of the case and the ends of justice so demand, to take cognizance of the matter by treating it as a complaint and proceed for the "inquiry" under Section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C.

36. It cannot be said nor it could be demonstrated that in each case, without application of its independent mind, the Magistrate shall issue simply direction to lodge a FIR and investigate the matter on an application filed under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. The power to conduct a preliminary inquiry into the report of commission of criminal offence, conferred on the Magistrate within the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure has not been curtailed by any of the observations made by the Apex Court in the case of Lalita Kumari's (supra).

37. However, it is pertinent to note that while exercising its discretionary power under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., the Magistrate like any other Court of discretionary jurisdiction is to act fairly and consciously and ensure that the discretion conferred upon it is exercised within the limits of judicial discretion. The entire emphasis is to act in an unbiased and just manner, strictly in accordance with law, to find out the truth of the case which shall come before it. It is a Magistrate who is the competent authority to take cognizance of an offence and it is his duty to decide whether on the basis of the record and documents produced, an offence is made out or not and if made out, what course of law should be adopted.

38. Keeping the above principles, if I test the same with the direction issued by the magistrate for treating the revisionist's application under Section 156(3) of the Code as complaint case and facts of these cases, it cannot be said that the Court concerned has committed illegally in exercise of its discretionary jurisdiction under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. or it has exceeded in its jurisdiction in any manner or has exercised jurisdiction not vested in it in law. It cannot be said also that any material injustice has been caused to the applicant on account of the decision of the Court below to treat the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding, rather than directing the police to register an FIR and investigate under Section 154 of the Code.

39. In view of the above discussions, there is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned order dated 20.12.2019 passed by the concerned Magistrate, which would warrant interference by this Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction.

40. The revision is, thus, found devoid of merits and hence dismissed.

1. This Criminal Revision under Sections 397/ 401 Cr.P.C has been preferred by Mushtaq Ali @ Guddu, Guljar, Abdul Majeed and Samim, accused-appellants, against judgment and order dated 14.08.1996, passed by Sri U.S. Tripathi, the then Sessions Judge, Kanpur Dehat, dismissing appeal of Appellant-Revisionists against judgment dated 08.12.1995 passed by 03rd Additional Civil Judge / Magistrate, Kanpur Dehat in Criminal Case No. 221 of 1995. By the judment and order dated 08.12.1995, learned Magistrate had found all the four Accused-Revisionists guilty under Section 323 read with Sections 34, 498-A, 506 IPC and Section 3 read with Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as "D.P. Act, 1961"). Each of them were convicted and sentenced under Section 323

IPC read with Section 34 IPC to undergo six month's imprisonment; under Section 498A IPC, 1 ½ years imprisonment; under Section 506 IPC two years imprisonment and under Section 3 read with Section 4 of D.P. Act, 1961, three month's simple imprisonment". All the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

2. Prosecution case in brief is that Smt. Raisa Begum, sister of Complainant - Mohammad Nafis was married to Accused, Mushtaq Ali @ Guddu on 30.04.1991. Smt. Raisa Begum had gone to her-in-laws house with jewelry received in dowry and cash of Rs.17,000/-. After a few days of marriage, all the four Accused-Revisionists started exerting pressure on her to bring T.V and cash from her parental house. Smt. Raisa expressed her inability to bring cash and T.V, whereupon accused started beating and torturing, even kept her starving. Information of this situation was sent by complainant's sister through postal inland letter, but members of her parental home continued to advise her to spend life by conciliating and adjusting with her in-laws. On getting information about serious problems and torture subjected to her sister, Complainant, Mohammad Nafis alongwith his relatives Zafer-U-deen and Munna reached the residence of accused in village Makanpur on 24.04.1993 at about 11:00 a.m. Seeing her brother, Smt. Raisa Bano started lamenting loudly and complained that her in-laws used to beat her and pressurized for bringing T.V and cash; did not offer food or cloth and also tried to set her on fire after pouring kerosene oil but any how she escaped.

3. At the time of filing of complaint Raisa was pregnant. She requested her brother to take her with him lest the accused would kill her. When Complainant requested accused, Nafis to send his sister with him, all Accused-Revisionists started beating Complainant with kicks and fists and also threatened that only dead-body of Complainant's sister would be sent out of their house. Despite repeated requests by Raisa, Accused-Revisionists locked her in a room in front of Complainant and his relatives. Thereafter Complainant went to Police Station Bilhor, for lodging a report, but report was not lodged, therefore, Complainant filed complaint on 27.04.1993.

4. Statements of Nafis under Section 200 Cr.P.C and his sister Raisa Begum under Section 202 Cr.P.C. were recorded and all the four accused were summoned. Thereafter charge was framed against Accused-Revisionists under Sections 324/34, 498-A, 504, 506 I.P.C and 3/4 D.P. Act, 1961.

5. In support of case, Complainant has examined Smt. Raisa Begum as P.W 1, Jamruddin as P.W 2 and Complainant himself as P.W. 3 under Section 244 Cr.P.C. On the basis of evidence, charge was amended and Accused-Revisionists were charged under Sections 323/34, 498-A, 504, 506 I.P.C and Section 3/4 D.P. Act, 1961. Consequent upon framing of amended charge, prosecution examined P.W-1 Raeesa Begum, P.W-2 Jafaruddin and P.W 3 Nafis under Section 246 Cr.P.C.

6. Accused-Revisionists were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. They denied the charge and claimed trial. In support of defence, accused produced D.W - 1, Saiyyad Ali Nabi, and D.W. - 2, Ali Akhtar.

7. After going through the evidence available on record and hearing arguments of learned counsel for the parties, learned Magistrate recorded judgement of conviction against all accused and sentenced them as detailed above by judgment and order dated 08.12.1995. The appeal filed by Accused-Revisionists before Sessions Judge, did not find favour and it was dismissed vide judgment and order dated 14.08.1996, which is impugned in this Revision.

8. Since Accused-Revisionist-3, Abdul Majeed @ Chhanga died on 07.12.2015, revision stood abated-qua Revisionist-3 vide order of this Court dated 18.09.2019.

9. I have heard Sri P.K. Singh, learned counsel for Revisionists-1, 2 and 4 and perused the material available on record.

10. Learned counsel appearing for Revisionists submitted that one of the Revisionist is 60 years of age and mother of Mushtaq Ali is also in advanced age and there is no specific allegation against her, therefore case of Revisionists can be segregated and period of sentence be reduced. It has also been submitted that Revisionists may be granted benefit of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1958").

11. Learned A.G.A. supporting the judgment in question argued that prosecution witnesses have clearly supported and proved case of prosecution and learned counsel for Revisionists having failed to point out any manifest error or illegality therein, no interference is called for in this revision considering the nature of allegations and offences found proved against Revisionists.

12. As per record, PW-1, Smt. Raisa Begum, the victim and sister of Complainant, has very categorically stated that for demand of dowry and non satisfaction thereof, she was treated with cruelty so much so that at one occasion Accused-Revisionists attempted to set her on fire by pouring kerosene oil and when she escaped somehow, later she was allowed to appear in Court when she promised with mother-in-law, i.e., Accused-Revisionist 4, that she will depose in their favour. She has also said very categorically that father-in-law used to exhort and said that victim PW-1, Smt. Raisa Begum, be beaten.

13. PW-2, Jamruddin is a witness who had participated in marriage, known to family of Complainant and was aware of complaint of victim that she used to be tortured and treated with cruelty for non satisfaction of demand of dowry by Revisionists.

14. Complainant, PW-3, Mohd. Nafees is the brother of victim. He has also supported prosecution case.

15. Nothing otherwise could be extracted from cross-examination of above witnesses and, therefore, in my view, aforesaid witnesses have deposed clearly, their statement is creditworthy, which has relied by Court below to prove the charge levelled against Revisionists in trial.

16. It is in this backdrop this Court has to examine, "whether Revisionists-1, 2 and 4 deserves any leniency in the matter of sentence" as argued by learned counsel for Revisionists; and "do they deserves to be granted benefit of Act, 1958".

17. Revisionists have been found guilty of demand of dowry and for non satisfaction of demand of dowry committing cruelty upon victim Smt. Raisa Begum and also an attempt to burn her by pouring kerosene oil. The offence founded on demand of dowry and non satisfaction thereof is not only quite serious but a curse. It is an evil spread in society wherein victim is always a woman. A woman is subjected to cruelty and torture for non satisfaction of dowry, i.e., for materialistic reasons. Decades and centuries have passed witnessing approach of in-laws of bridegroom of demanding dowry as if it is their birth right and obligation on the part of bride side to satisfy such demand. Time and again it has been deprecated and condemned, being always against civilized society. Even legislature has come forward to make stringent laws in this respect. Unfortunately the tentacles of disease are so deep embedded that instead of being reduced, we find its excess in most part of society, irrespective of caste, creed and religion. Those who support dowry, claim it to be an ancient tradition and means to help newly wedded couple to settle in their life. They forget that responsibility for a descent life of couple, is on both sides and cannot be claimed to be an obligation only on the part of bride's parents. Dowry is a root and host of social atrocities against woman. The custom of presenting dowry is the crudest expression of male dominance in society. I do not propose to write an essay on the subject since now it cannot be doubted that demand of dowry and cruelty for non satisfaction thereof is a blot on society and cannot be allowed to perpetuate in a civilized society, hence legislation made to prevent it must not only be implemented with widest amplitude but those who are guilty should be dealt with stern action and appropriate punishment should be improved so that it may not only be punitive to the violators but also a preventive lesson to others.

18. Demand of dowry from bride and her parents and torture of bride for non satisfaction can also be said to be violation of human rights in a big way. It is also a gender bias and discrimination towards woman. Whenever a demand of dowry is made to a bride and she resist for whatever reason, may be including financial scarcity and poverty of her parents, the ultimate result is adverse on bride which also cause loss of her self esteem and downgrade of status.

19. In a case where a bridegroom or his family members have committed offence of demanding dowry and committing cruelty and torture upon bride for non satisfaction of said demand, Court should adopt and ensure a zero tolerance policy against offenders and ensure enforcement of law strictly, stringently and without showing any leniency to such offenders.

20. Looking to the facts of this case, in the backdrop of above discussion, it cannot be doubted that Revisionists are guilty of committing one of the most heinous crime against woman and they deserve to be dealt with iron hands.

21. The contention of learned counsel for revisionists that Respondent-4 has no role in the matter and there is no specific allegation is incorrect inasmuch as victim herself has said clearly that her mother-in-law alongwith others was constantly pressurizing her to satisfy demand of dowry and also treated her with cruelty for non satisfaction thereof.

22. So far as advance age of Revisionists-1 and 4 is concerned, it cannot be overlooked that cannon of law which determine punishment to Accused-Revisionists up to the level of Appellate Court declared verdict in 1996 but pendency of matter for the last 23 years in this Court has helped Revisionists in deferring punishment so as now to claim that taking their advance age, some leniency in the matter of punishment be shown. Pendency of revision in this Court cannot be allowed to help offender.

23. A criminal offence is considered as a wrong against the State, and, society in particular, even though it is committed against individual(s). This Court in State of U.P. Vs. Babu and others 2007(9) ADJ, 107 (DB) has said:

"The duty of the Court of law is heavy in the sense that it should ensure that no innocent should be punished but simultaneously it is also under an obligation to see that no guilty person should escape from the clutches of law by taking advantage of so-called technicalities as this will not only lead to further serious threats to the entire society but may also shake the confidence of public at large in the system of dispensation of justice. Our experience has shown that exonerating a guilty person due to any reason whatsoever has caused more damage to the society since it has multiplied the occurrence of crime as well as has also produced more criminals attracting them to commit crime since easy acquittal has resulted in encouraging them to break law with impunity. It will be useful to remind with the words of caution as observed by the Hon'ble Apex Court (Krishna Ayer J.) in Shiva Ji Sahabrao Bobade (supra) emphasizing to keep balance between the individual liberty and evil of acquitting guilty persons. The Court observed that we should remind ourselves of necessary social perspective in criminal cases which suffers from insufficient forensic appreciation. The dangers of exaggerated devotion to the rule of benefit of doubt at the expense of social defence and to the soothing sentiment that all acquittals are always good regardless of justice to the victim and the community, demand special emphasis in the contemporary context of escalating crime and escape. The Courts having duty of judicial review owe the public accountability of such system. The golden thread of proof beyond reasonable doubt should not be stretched morbidly to embrace every hunch, hesitancy and degree of doubt. The excessive solicitude reflected in the attitude that a thousand guilty men may go but one innocent martyr shall not suffer is a false dilemma. Only reasonable doubts belong to the accused. Otherwise any practical system of justice will then break down and lose credibility with the community. The evil of acquitting a guilty person light-heartedly goes much beyond the simple fact that just one guilty person has gone unpunished*. If unmerited acquittals become general, they tend to lead to a cynical disregard of the law, and this in turn leads to a public demand for harsher legal presumption against indicted persons and more severe punishment of those who are found guilty. Too frequent acquittals of the guilty may lead to a ferocious penal law, eventually eroding the judicial protection of the guiltless. Miscarriage of justice may arise from the acquittal of the guilty no less than from the conviction of innocent." (emphasis added)*

24. The above observations were made on the question of conviction but, in my view, once the prosecution has succeeded to prove its case and conviction is upheld by all the Courts, if its consequence is allowed to be diluted by modifying punishment to the extent of having no consequence merely on the ground of time consumed in legal remedy, whatsoever, it would make a mockery of entire criminal system of justice since victim and his family i.e. the real suffers, as also the society, have no control over such proceedings and delay occurred therein.

25. Commenting upon sentencing policy, in State of U.P. Vs. Sanjay Kumar 2012 (8) SCC 537, Court said that punishments should reflect the gravity of offence and also criminal background of convict. The graver the offence and longer the criminal record, more severe is the punishment to be awarded. By laying emphasis on individualised justice, and shaping the result of crime to the circumstances of offender and needs of victim and community, restorative justice eschews uniformity of sentencing. In para 21 of the judgment, Court further said:

"Undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the public system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law and society could not long endure under serious threats" (English translation by Court)

26. Court further said that it is the duty of Courts to award proper sentence, having regard to the nature of offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed, etc. Courts should impose a punishment befitting the crime so that Courts are able to accurately reflect upon public abhorrence of the crime. It is the nature and gravity of crime, and not the criminal, which are germane for consideration of appropriate punishment in a criminal trial. Imposition of sentence without considering its effect on social order, in many cases, may be in reality, a futile exercise.

27. In Rajendra Pralhadrao Wasnik Vs. State of Maharashtra AIR 2012 SC 1377, Court said:

"Every punishment imposed is bound to have its effect not only on the accused alone, but also on the society as a whole."

28. In Hazara Singh Vs. Raj Kumar and others (2013) 9 SCC 516, Court referred to its earlier decision in Shailesh Jasvantbhai and another Vs. State of Gujarat and others (2006) 2 SCC 359 and quoted with approval, following passage:

"... undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law and society could not long endure under such serious threats. It is, therefore, the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed etc."

29. In Ahmed Hussein Vali Mohammed Saiyed and Anr. Vs. State of Gujarat 2009 (7) SCC 254, Court said:

*"99. The object of awarding appropriate sentence should be to protect the society and to deter the criminal from achieving the avowed object to law by imposing appropriate sentence. It is expected that the courts would operate the sentencing system so as to impose such sentence, which reflects the conscience of the society and the sentencing process has to be stern where it should be. ....

100. Justice demands that courts should impose punishment befitting the crime so that the courts reflect public abhorrence of the crime*. The court must not only keep in view the rights of the victim of the crime and the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment. The* court will be failing in its duty if appropriate punishment is not awarded for a crime which has been committed not only against the individual victim but also against the society to which both the criminal and the victim belong." (emphasis added)

30. In Hazara Singh Vs. Raj Kumar and others (supra), the Court in para 17 also said:

"We also reiterate that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The Court must not only keep in view the rights of the victim of the crime but also the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment." (emphasis added)

31. In the matter of awarding punishment multiple factors have to be considered by this Court. Law regulates social interests, arbitrates conflicting claims and demands. Security of individuals as well as property of individuals is one of the essential functions of the State. The administration of criminal law justice is a mode to achieve this goal. The inherent cardinal principle of criminal administration of justice is that the punishment imposed on an offender should be adequate so as to serve the purpose of deterrence as well as reformation. It should reflect the crime, the offender has committed and should be proportionate to the gravity of offence. Sentencing process should be stern so as to give a message to the offender as well as the person like him, roaming free in the society, not to indulge in criminal activities but also to give a message to society that an offence if committed, would not go unpunished. The offender should be suitably punished so that society also get a message that if something wrong has been done, one will have to pay for it in proper manner, irrespective of time lag.

32. Further sentencing process should be stern but tampered with mercy where-ever it is so warranted. How and in what manner element of leniency shall prevail, will depend upon multifarious reasons including the facts and circumstances of individual case, nature of crime, the matter in which it was committed, whether preplanned or otherwise, the motive, conduct, nature of weapon used etc. But one cannot lose sight of the fact that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to justice system as it is bound to undermine public confidence in the efficacy of law. The society cannot long endure such serious threats. It is duty of court to give adequate, proper and suitable sentence, having regard to various aspects, some of which, are noticed above.

33. In Ahmed Hussein Vali Mohammed Saiyed and another Vs. State of Gujrat (supra), Court confirmed that:

"any liberal attitude by imposing meager sentences or taking too sympathetic view merely on account of lapse of time in respect of such offences will be result-wise counter productive in the long run and against the interest of society which needs to be cared for and strengthened by string of deterrence inbuilt in the sentencing system". (emphasis added)

34 . In Jameel Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, 2010 (12) SCC 532, the Court held that:

*"It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The sentencing courts are expected to consider all relevant facts and circumstances bearing on the question of sentence and proceed to impose a sentence commensurate with the gravity of the offence."
(emphasis added)

35. In Guru Basavaraj @ Benne Settapa Vs. State of Karnataka, 2012 (8) SCC 734, Court said that:

"The cry of the collective for justice, which includes adequate punishment cannot be lightly ignored."

36. In Gopal Singh Vs. State of Uttarakhand, 2013 (3) JT 444, the Court said that:

"Just punishment is the collective cry of the society. While the collective cry has to be kept uppermost in the mind, simultaneously the principle of proportionality between the crime and punishment cannot be totally brushed aside. The principle of just punishment is the bedrock of sentencing in respect of a criminal offence" (emphasis added)

37. Thus, I do not find any reason to show leniency for any Revisionists considering nature of crime committed by them.

38. Now coming to second question, "whether Revisionists are entitled for benefit under Act, 1958"; learned counsel for Revisionists could not dispute that Section 3 thereof would have no application in the present case. Benefit, therefore, is claimed by requesting Court to exercise its power under Section 4 of Act, 1958.

39. I find that Section 4 of Act, 1958 imposes an obligation upon Court to have regard to the circumstances of case including nature of offence and character of offender. The word "may" in Section 4 has been held as not to be read as must in Ram Prakash vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, AIR 1973 SC 780.

40. Looking to the nature of offence, I do not find it appropriate to import Section 4 of Act, 1958 in the case in hand so as to grant any benefit to Revisionists-1, 2 and 4.

41. In view of above discussion, I answer both questions against Revisionists.

42. Revision lacks merit. Dismissed accordingly.

43. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Amit Chaudhary, learned amicus curiae, Mr. Punit Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for revisionist and Mr. Aniruddh Kumar Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of State. As per report of Chief Judicial Magistrate dated 17.12.2018, notices were served personally upon Opposite Party no.2 but no one has put in appearance on his behalf.

2. Present criminal revision has been filed against order dated 04.05.2018 passed by Juvenile Justice Board, Sitapur in Criminal Miscellaneous Case No.57 of 2017 bearing Case Crime No.153 of 2017, under Section 376 IPC, Police Station Mishrikh, District Sitapur. Under challenge is also the order dated 25.08.2018 passed by IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Sitapur in Criminal Appeal No.42 of 2018 upholding the order of rejection. Present case is where the revisionist was aged between 16 to 18 years, i.e. revisionist was aged about 16 years one month and 21 days.

3. Learned AGA at the very outset has submitted that the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act has undergone a major change in the year 2015 specifically with regard to Sections 15 and 18 of the said Act which would have a bearing on consideration of bail application filed by a child in conflict with law under Section 12 of the said Act. It has been submitted that Section 15 now provides for a preliminary assessment into heinous offences by the Juvenile Justice Board and in case of a heinous offence alleged to have been committed by a child who has completed or is above the age of 16 years, a preliminary assessment regarding his mental and physical capacity and ability to understand consequences of offence which he allegedly committed is required prior to consideration of bail application of such a child i.e. filed under Section 12 of the Act. Learned counsel has drawn attention to Section 2(33) of the Act in which "heinous offences" have been described as those which include offences for which minimum punishment under the Indian Penal Code or any other law for the time being in force is imprisonment for seven years or more. The upshot of arguments raised by learned AGA therefore is that while considering a bail application of such a child who has completed or is over the age of 16 years as on the date of occurrence of incident, not only the factors indicated in Section 12 of the Act are required to be seen but a preliminary assessment as contemplated under Section 15 and consequent orders passed under Section 18(3) of the Act are also required to be considered by the Board prior to passing any final order on a bail application filed by such a child under Section 1

4. Learned counsel has relied upon judgment rendered by this Court in the case of Radhika (Juvenile) vs. State of U.P. in Criminal Appeal No.4418 of 2019 and other connected matters. Reliance has also been placed on the judgment rendered by this Court in the case of Mangesh Rajbhar vs. State of U.P. & Another reported in 2018(6) ADJ 60.

5. Mr. Amit Chaudhary, learned Amicus Curiae assisted by Mr. Punit Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for revisionist has refuted the submissions advanced by learned AGA with the submission that provisions of Sections 15 and 18(3) of the Act are completely different from provisions indicated in Section 12 of the Act. Attention is drawn to Section 18 Sub-section (3) whereby the Juvenile Justice Board after preliminary assessment under Section 15 is required to pass an order that there is need for trial of the child as an adult but the said provisions are not to be found in Section 12 which has been kept completely separate from the changed provisions incorporated in the Act. As such, it has been submitted that the bail application of a child in conflict with law who has completed or is over the age of 16 years as on the date of incident is required to be seen only in terms of provisions of Section 12 of the Act without any reference to Sections 15 and 18(3) of the Act. Learned counsel has relied upon the judgment rendered by this Court in the case of Santosh vs. State of U.P. & Ors. rendered in Criminal Appeal No.5814 of 2018.

6. Upon consideration of submissions advanced by learned counsel for parties and perusal of record, it is evident that in case of a child in conflict with law as defined under Section 2(13) of the Act who is alleged to have committed an offence and has either completed or is over the age of 16 years, application for bail is required to be filed under Section 12 of the Act which is as follows:-

"12. Bail to a person who is apparently a child alleged to be in conflict with law.-(1) When any person, who is apparently a child and is alleged to have committed a bailable or non-bailable offence, is apprehended or detained by the police or appears or brought before a Board, such person shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or in any other law for the time being in force, be released on bail with or without surety or placed under the supervision of a probation officer or under the care of any fit person:

Provided that such person shall not be so released if there appears reasonable grounds for believing that the release is likely to bring that person into association with any known criminal or expose the said person to moral, physical or psychological danger or the person's release would defeat the ends of justice, and the Board shall record the reasons for denying the bail and circumstances that led to such a decision.

(2) When such person having been apprehended is not released on bail under sub-section (1) by the officer-in-charge of the police station, such officer shall cause the person to be kept only in an observation home in such manner as may be prescribed until the person can be brought before a Board.

(3) When such person is not released on bail under sub-section (1) by the Board, it shall make an order sending him to an observation home or a place of safety, as the case may be, for such period during the pendency of the inquiry regarding the person, as may be specified in the order.

(4) When a child in conflict with law is unable to fulfil the conditions of bail order within seven days of the bail order, such child shall be produced before the Board for modification of the conditions of bail."

7. Under Section 15 of the Act, a preliminary assessment into heinous offences is required to be made by Juvenile Justice Board and is particularly relevant in case of heinous offence alleged to have been committed by a child who has completed or is aged more than 16 years. In such a situation, the Board is required to conduct a preliminary assessment regarding his mental and physical capacity to commit such offence, ability to understand the consequences of offence and circumstances under which he has allegedly committed the offence. The said assessment is required to be made in order to ensure compliance of provisions of Section 18(3) of the Act. Sections 15 and 18 are as follows:-

"15. Preliminary assessment into heinous offences by Board.-(1) In case of a heinous offence alleged to have been committed by a child, who has completed or is above the age of sixteen years, the Board shall conduct a preliminary assessment with regard to his mental and physical capacity to commit such offence, ability to understand the consequences of the offence and the circumstances in which he allegedly committed the offence, and may pass an order in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 18:

Provided that for such an assessment, the Board may take the assistance of experienced psychologists or psycho-social workers or other experts. Explanation.?For the purposes of this section, it is clarified that preliminary assessment is not a trial, but is to assess the capacity of such child to commit and understand the consequences of the alleged offence.

(2) Where the Board is satisfied on preliminary assessment that the matter should be disposed of by the Board, then the Board shall follow the procedure, as far as may be, for trial in summons case under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974):

Provided that the order of the Board to dispose of the matter shall be appealable under sub-section (2) of section 101:

Provided further that the assessment under this section shall be completed within the period specified in section 14.

18. Orders regarding child found to be in conflict with law.-(1) Where a Board is satisfied on inquiry that a child irrespective of age has committed a petty offence, or a serious offence, or a child below the age of sixteen years has committed a heinous offence, then, notwithstanding anything contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, and based on the nature of offence, specific need for supervision or intervention, circumstances as brought out in the social investigation report and past conduct of the child, the Board may, if it so thinks fit,?

(a) allow the child to go home after advice or admonition by following appropriate inquiry and counselling to such child and to his parents or the guardian;

(b) direct the child to participate in group counselling and similar activities;

(c) order the child to perform community service under the supervision of an organisation or institution, or a specified person, persons or group of persons identified by the Board;

(d) order the child or parents or the guardian of the child to pay fine: Provided that, in case the child is working, it may be ensured that the provisions of any labour law for the time being in force are not violated;

(e) direct the child to be released on probation of good conduct and placed under the care of any parent, guardian or fit person, on such parent, guardian or fit person executing a bond, with or without surety, as the Board may require, for the good behaviour and child's well-being for any period not exceeding three years;

(f) direct the child to be released on probation of good conduct and placed under the care and supervision of any fit facility for ensuring the good behaviour and child's well-being for any period not exceeding three years;

*(g) direct the child to be sent to a special home, for such period, not exceeding three years, as it thinks fit, for providing reformative services including education, skill development, counselling, behaviour m*odification therapy, and psychiatric support during the period of stay in the special home:

Provided that if the conduct and behaviour of the child has been such that, it would not be in the child's interest, or in the interest of other children housed in a special home, the Board may send such child to the place of safety.

(2) If an order is passed under clauses (a) to (g) of sub-section (1), the Board may, in addition pass orders to?

(i) attend school; or

(ii) attend a vocational training centre; or

(iii) attend a t*herapeutic centre; or*

(iv) prohibit the child from visiting, frequenting or appearing at a specified place; or

(v)undergo a de-addiction programme.

(3) Where the Board after preliminary assessment under section 15 pass an order that there is a need for trial of the said child as an adult, then the Board may order transfer of the trial of the case to the Children's Court having jurisdiction to try such offences."

8. A conjoint reading of Sections 15 and 18(3) of the Act makes it evident that it is only when a heinous offence as defined under Section 2(33) of the Act is alleged to have been committed by a child who has completed or is above the age of 16 years that a preliminary assessment is required to be made. The wordings of said section make it apparent that such a preliminary assessment is required in order to enable passing of order in accordance with provisions of Section 18(3) of the Act. Proviso to Sub-section (1) of Section 15 enables the Board to take assistance of experienced psychologists or psycho-social workers or other experts. Explanation thereof also clarifies the fact that the preliminary assessment is not a trial but is only in order to assess the capacity of such child to commit and understand the consequences of alleged offence.

9. Sub-section (2) of Section 15 provides that where the Board is satisfied on a preliminary assessment that the matter should be disposed of by the Board, then the procedure, as far as may be for trial in summons case under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 is required to be followed.

10. The entire purpose of a preliminary assessment under Section 15 of the Act is only to enable the Board to pass relevant orders under Section 18 (3) of the Act which provides that the Board after preliminary assessment may pass an order that there is need for trial of the said child as a result and consequently may order transfer of trial of case to the Children's Court having jurisdiction.

11. It is a relevant factor that the preliminary assessment required to be made under Section 15 of the Act is only as a guide for the purposes of passing of relevant orders by the Board under Section 18(3), which in its turn is only to enable the Board to pass an order that there is need for trial of the said child as an adult. In case such an order is passed treating the child as an adult, the Board is required to order transfer of the trial of the case to Children's Court. It is thus evident that the entire purpose of passing an order by Board under Section 18(3) is for the purposes of trial. Neither Section 15 nor Section 18(3) of the Act indicates that such provisions are to be followed even in case of consideration of an application for bail under Section 12 of the Act. It is also a relevant fact that despite aforesaid provisions having been incorporated in Sections 15 and 18, there is no such consequential provision in Section 12 of the Act pertaining to grant of bail to such a child.

12. With regard to interpretation of statute, it is settled law that statute is an edict of the legislature and where the words of statute are clear without any ambiguity and the intention of the legislature is clearly conveyed, there is no scope for the court to innovate or take upon itself the task of altering the statutory provisions by breathing into the provisions, words which have not been expressly incorporated by the legislature.

13. It is only in case where the words of statute are ambiguous or a reading of which clearly indicates that it is a case of 'casus omissus' that the court can interpret the provisions incorporated in statute. Hon'ble the Supreme court referring to various pronouncements in the case of Bharat Aluminium Company versus Kaiser Aluminium Technical Services Inc. reported in (2012) 9 SCC 552 has held that the court must proceed on the footing that the legislature intended what it has said. Even where there is a 'casus omissus' it is for the others than the courts to remedy the defect. The relevant paragraph in the case of Bharat Aluminium Company (supra) is as follows:-

"65. Mr Sorabjee has also rightly pointed out the observations made by Lord Diplock in Duport Steels Ltd. [(1980) 1 WLR 142 : (1980) 1 All ER 529 (HL)] In the aforesaid judgment, the House of Lords disapproved the approach adopted by the Court of Appeal in discerning the intention of the legislature; it is observed that: (WLR p. 157 C-D)

"... the role of the judiciary is confined to ascertaining from the words that Parliament has approved as expressing its intention what that intention was, and to giving effect to it. Where the meaning of the statutory words is plain and unambiguous it is not for the Judges to invent fancied ambiguities as an excuse for failing to give effect to its plain meaning because they themselves consider that the consequences of doing so would be inexpedient, or even unjust or immoral. In controversial matters such as are involved in industrial relations there is room for differences of opinion as to what is expedient, what is just and what is morally justifiable. Under our Constitution it is Parliament's opinion on these matters that is paramount." (emphasis supplied)

In the same judgment, it is further observed: (WLR p. 157 F)

*"... But if this be the case it is for Parliament, not for the judiciary, to decide whether any c*hanges should be made to the law as stated in the Acts...." (emphasis supplied)"

14. The principles with regard to 'casus omissus' and its implementation have also been dealt with by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Shiv Shakti Cooperative Housing Society in which the relevant paragraphs are as follows:-

"19. It is a well-settled principle in law that the court cannot read anything into a statutory provision which is plain and unambiguous. A statute is an edict of the legislature. The language employed in a statute is the determinative factor of legislative intent. Words and phrases are symbols that stimulate mental references to referents. The object of interpreting a statute is to ascertain the intention of the legislature enacting it. (See Institute of Chartered Accountants of India v. Price Waterhouse [(1997) 6 SCC 312 : AIR 1998 SC 74] .) The intention of the legislature is primarily to be gathered from the language used, which means that attention should be paid to what has been said as also to what has not been said. As a consequence, a construction which requires for its support, addition or substitution of words or which results in rejection of words as meaningless has to be avoided. As observed in Crawford

v. Spooner [(1846) 6 Moo PCC 1 : 4 MIA 179] courts cannot aid the legislatures' defective phrasing of an Act, we cannot add or mend, and by construction make up deficiencies which are left there. (See State of Gujarat v. Dilipbhai Nathjibhai Patel [(1998) 3 SCC 234 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 737 : JT (1998) 2 SC 253] .) It is contrary to all rules of construction to read words into an Act unless it is absolutely necessary to do so. [See Stock v. Frank Jones (Tipton) Ltd. [(1978) 1 All ER 948 : (1978) 1 WLR 231 (HL)]] Rules of interpretation do not permit courts to do so, unless the provision as it stands is meaningless or of a doubtful meaning. Courts are not entitled to read words into an Act of Parliament unless clear reason for it is to be found within the four corners of the Act itself. (Per Lord Loreburn, L.C. in Vickers Sons and Maxim Ltd. v. Evans [1910 AC 444 : 1910 WN 161 (HL)] , quoted in Jumma Masjid v. Kodimaniandra Deviah [AIR 1962 SC 847] .)"

"23. Two principles of construction -- one relating to casus omissus and the other in regard to reading the statute as a whole -- appear to be well settled. Under the first principle a casus omissus cannot be supplied by the court except in the case of clear necessity and when reason for it is found in the four corners of the statute itself but at the same time a casus omissus should not be readily inferred and for that purpose all the parts of a statute or section must be construed together and every clause of a section should be construed with reference to the context and other clauses thereof so that the construction to be put on a particular provision makes a consistent enactment of the whole statute. This would be more so if literal construction of a particular clause leads to manifestly absurd or anomalous results which could not have been intended by the legislature. "An intention to produce an unreasonable result", said Danckwerts, L.J. in Artemiou v. Procopiou [(1966) 1 QB 878 : (1965) 3 All ER 539 : (1965) 3 WLR 1011 (CA)] (All ER p. 544 I), "is not to be imputed to a statute if there is some other construction available". Where to apply words literally would "defeat the obvious intention of the legislation and produce a wholly unreasonable result", we must "do some violence to the words" and so achieve that obvious intention and produce a rational construction. Per Lord Reid in Luke v. IRC [1963 AC 557 : (1963) 1 All ER 655 : (1963) 2 WLR 559 (HL)] where at AC p. 577 (All ER p. 664 I) he also observed: "This is not a new problem, though our standard of drafting is such that it rarely emerges."

15. As per Maxwell's interpretation of statutes, the four main rules to interpret a statute are the literal, golden, mischief and the integrated approach, known as the purposive approach. While the literal rule uses plain ordinary meaning of words, the golden rule is an extension thereof and is brought into play only where the literal rule creates an absurdity.

16. Regarding, the purposive approach, Lord Denning in the case of Notham vs London Borough of Barnet (1978)1 WLR 220 has held the purposive approach being one that will promote general legislative purpose underlying the provisions.

17. In addition to aforesaid statutory interpretations, three rules are also required to be kept in mind which are; ejusdem generis- meaning of same kind, Noscitur a sociis- meaning a word is known by the company it keeps, and expressio unius est exclusio aterius - meaning where express mention of one thing excludes other.

18. With regard to literal and purposive interpretation of statute, it is seen that statement of objects and reasons of the Act indicate that the legislation was required to be enacted in view of several issues such as incidence of abuse of children in institutions, inadequate facilities, quality of care and rehabilitation measures in homes, high pendency of cases etc. due to which enactment of the legislation was required to ensure proper care, protection, development, treatment and social integration of children in difficult circumstance by adopting a child friendly approach keeping in view the best interest of the children in mind.

19. Upon applicability of the literal rule of interpretation of statute read with the purposive intention, it is clear that the legislation was enacted keeping in view the best interest of the child in mind in order to ensure their proper care and social re-integration, which cannot be served by keeping the child interminably under custody while awaiting the result of detailed evaluation under Section 15 and consequent order under Section 18(3) of the Act.

20. Considering the fact that provisions of Section 15 read with Section 18(3) of the Act are not to be found in Section 12 of the Act, it cannot be said that the provisions incorporated in Section 15 and Section 18(3) are ejusdem generis with that of Section 12.

21. In the present case, it is easily seen that the wordings of all the three sections separately are quite clear and unambiguous therefore not requiring any additional supplement of words. The legislature in its wisdom has clearly not amended Section 12 of the Act as a consequence to provisions incorporated in Sections 15 and 18(3) of the Act. As such, the provisions of Sections 15 and 18 (3) cannot be read into Section 12 of the Act. As a consequence, it cannot be said that a preliminary assessment under Section 15 is required to be made at the time of consideration of bail application under Section 12 of the Act.

22. This Court in the case of Santosh (supra) has also held as follows:

"9. It is pertinent to mention here that Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act has not been amended so far as the parameters and yardstick for granting bail to the juvenile-accused is concerned. Therefore, while rejecting the bail application of such juvenile, it cannot be the criteria that the alleged offence is of serious and heinous nature. The order must show that the grant of bail to the juvenile accused is against his interest as there is possibility of his being associated with known criminals, or there is some sort of moral, physical or psychological danger to him or there is likelihood of end of justice being defeated. All these conditions have been incorporated in law in order to ensure justice to the juvenile."

23. In the case of Radhika (Juvenile) (supra), this Court was considering the question as to whether appeal filed under Section 101(5) of the Act is an appropriate remedy for appellants after getting their respective bail application rejected by Children's Court/ Special Sessions Judge, Protection of Children From Sexual Offences Act. Second question pertained to whether while deciding application of a juvenile between the age group of 16 to 18 years, the seriousness, gravity of offence and respective role in commission of crime would also be a determining factor while releasing them on the proceedings opted by them. Learned Single Judge while deciding the second question has clearly held that while deciding bail of such a delinquent ranging between the age group of 16 to 18 years, it would be discretionary upon the Court to take into account factors regarding his mental, physical capacity, ability to understand the gravity of a heinous offence and respective participation in crime and circumstances for the particular grave and serious offence in addition to grounds provided under Section 12 (proviso) of the Act. It has been held that all these factors too are determinative factors while adjudicating the bail applications of juvenile offenders in the age group of 16 to 18 years since not considering the said factors would reduce the object of present legislation to naught.

24. This Court in the case of Mangesh Rajbhar (supra) after considering provisions of Sections 15 and 18 of the Act has also held that (gravity of offence is certainly relevant though not decisive. It is this relevance amongst the other factors where gravity of offence committed works and serves as a guide to grant or refuse bail in conjunction with other relevant factors mentioned in proviso to Section 12(1) of the Act particularly on the ground that release of such a juvenile would defeat the ends of justice). It has further been held that orders under Section 18 although are concerned with final orders to be made while dealing with the case of juvenile can serve as a guide to exercise of power for grant of bail to juvenile.

25. The aforesaid two judgments have clearly taken into account the conditions required to be considered while adjudicating the bail application of juvenile under Section 12 of the Act. Particular emphasis has been laid upon the third condition that release of such a juvenile would defeat the ends of justice. It is under this provision of the proviso that both the judgments have held that gravity of charges and circumstances, under which a juvenile has allegedly committed an offence, has been held to be required to be seen at the time of consideration of bail application.

26. Once seen in the light of proviso to Section 12 of the Act, particularly the conditions indicated in Section 12 that the release of a juvenile between the age of 16 to 18 years and accused of a heinous offence would defeat the ends of justice, definitely the gravity of charges leveled against the person would be required to be seen since the words would 'defeat the ends of justice' cannot be seen in isolation or in a vacuum. In order for the Board or the Court of competent jurisdiction to arrive at a conclusion that release of a juvenile accused of heinous offence would defeat the ends of justice, necessarily the gravity of charges and circumstances, surrounding involvement of juvenile in the alleged heinous offence would be a material factor.

27. Keeping the aforesaid in mind, however it is made clear that the aforesaid factors that are to be required to be kept in mind would be completely different from the preliminary assessment required to be made under Section 15 of the Act. The factors regarding gravity of charge and circumstances surrounding a heinous offence is only for the purpose of understanding whether release of such a juvenile would defeat the ends of justice. For consideration of a bail application under Section 12 of the Act, a complete preliminary assessment under Section 15 of the Act is neither required to be done nor considered.

28. In the backdrop of aforesaid, present criminal revision is being adjudicated in the absence of any such report under Section 15 of the Act.

29. In the present case, the juvenile has been accused under Section 376 IPC. Learned counsel for revisionist has submitted that as per reading of the first information report, incident is said to be of 24.5.2017 when the revisionist is said to have outraged the modesty of daughter of complainant. Learned counsel for revisionist submits that medical examination was conducted on the very same day but does not corroborate the allegations levelled under Section 376 IPC. It has also been submitted that in the trial, the prosecutrix has already turned hostile. It has been submitted that revisionist is in custody since 26.5.2017 and more than two and half years have passed since then.

30. Learned AGA appearing on behalf of State has opposed the bail application on the ground that a perusal of medical report will make it apparent that the medical examination was conducted on the very same day and clearly indicates injuries upon the prosecutrix. It has also been submitted that revisionist was named in the FIR which was corroborated in the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

31. Upon consideration of factual situation and submissions advanced by learned counsel for parties, it is apparent that revisionist at the time of occurrence of alleged incident was aged more than 16 years. Although the charge levelled against revisionist is quite grave being under Section 376 IPC but it is also a relevant factor that trial has not yet concluded and evidence is ongoing. Revisionist has been in custody for more than two and half years since 26.05.2017.

32. The report of District Probation Officer, states that the revisionist does not have any criminal history and has studied uptill Class IX. Nothing adverse regarding his social behaviour has been indicated in the said report upon questioning of villagers.

33. A perusal of orders impugned indicates that bail has been rejected only considering the gravity of charges levelled against revisionist without seriously adverting to the provisions of Section 12 of the Act required to be considered for purposes of bail. There is no material on record to indicate that upon release from bail, the revisionist would be brought into association with any known criminal or would be exposed to moral physical or psychological danger. That his release would defeat the ends of justice cannot be seen in isolation only with regard to gravity of charges but has to be considered in terms of the report of District Probation Officer as well. Neither of the orders impugned nor any material on record indicate that release of revisionist would defeat the ends of justice.

34. In view of fact that there is no material on record to indicate that release of revisionist would bring him into association with any known criminal or would expose him to moral physical psychological danger or would defeat the ends of justice, the revision is allowed and order dated 04.05.2018 passed by Juvenile Justice Board, Sitapur in Criminal Miscellaneous Case No.57 of 2017 bearing Case Crime No.153 of 2017, under Section 376 IPC, Police Station Mishrikh, District Sitapur rejecting bail application of Revisionist and judgment and order dated 25.08.2018 passed by IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Sitapur in Criminal Appeal No.42 of 2018 are hereby set aside.

35. Let revisionist Jiya-Uddin be enlarged on bail in Criminal Miscellaneous Case No.57 of 2017 bearing Case Crime No.153 of 2017, under Section 376 IPC, Police Station Mishrikh, District Sitapur subject to executing personal bond by his father/ guardian along with two sureties in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court/board concerned. The father/ guardian shall also furnish an undertaking that he will keep the revisionist-applicant under his effective control and shall make every endeavour to ensure that the revisionist should not commit any illegal or immoral act and the revisionist should not join the association with any known criminal.

36. Before parting with the case, this Court would like to appreciate the assistance rendered by Mr. Amit Chaudhary, learned counsel, who was appointed amicus curiae in this matter vide order dated 21.1.2020. Registry is directed to pay Rs.20,000/- as fee to him for rendering assistance to this Court. Senior Registrar, High Court shall ensure compliance of same.

A. CriminalLaw- Prevention of Corruption Act,1988-Sections 13(1)(e) r/w 13(2)- Code of Criminal Procedure,1973-Section 397/401 - application-rejection of discharge application by trial court-two contradictory report of the Investigating agency-one report is in favour of accused while another is against him-relying upon two contradictory reports is the subject matter of evidence-Prima facie there is sufficient evidence against the accused-earlier report cannot be ignored altogether unless there is an order to that effect of any higher court-However revisionist was found to have spent only 4% more than his income while the judgement of Apex Court provides exemption upto 10%-trial court recorded at the stage of framing charge, there is no necessity to make in-depth appreciation of the evidence-it would be appropriate to frame charge against the accused to reach the truth.(Para 6 to 15)

At the initial stage of framing of a charge, the court is concerned not with proof but with a strong suspicion that the accused has committed an offence, which, if put to trial, could prove him guilty. All that the court has to see is that the material on record and the facts would be compatible with the innocence of the accused or not. The final test of guilt is not to be applied at that stage.(Para 11)

The revision is dismissed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Kumar Singh-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Dileep Kumar, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Manish Singh, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Attrey Dutt Mishra, learned A.G.A. and perused the record.

2. The instant revision has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 03.08.2019 passed by Special Court (MP/MLA), Allahabad of 2019 (State vs. Rakesh Dhar Tripathi), arising out of Case Crime No. 107 of 2013, under section 13 (1) (e) read with section 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, Police Station Mutthiganj, District Allahabad whereby discharge application of the revisionist has been rejected.

3. Submission made by the learned counsel for the revisionist is that it is apparent that the evidence collected by the Investigating Officer has not been taken into consideration while rejecting the discharge application. No reason has been assigned to form an opinion that a case existed against the revisionist to frame charge. At the stage of considering the discharge application, sufficient material for framing charge has to be there on record and not simply a prima-facie case. The discharge application has been rejected illegally on the ground that the sanction for prosecution has been accorded and that the court has already taken cognizance on police report/charge sheet submitted under section 173 (2) Cr.P.C. The trial court has completely ignored the supplementary police report filed under section 173 (8) Cr.P.C. with the permission of the Court, which has been filed after approval of the State Government. The supplementary police report completely exonerated the revisionist from accusation that he possessed disproportionate assets while holding post of Cabinet Minister of Govt. of U.P. during the check period. The non-consideration of the police report is against the ratio of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vinay Tyagi vs. Irshad Ali. The evidence which has been collected by the prosecution does not show that any offence has been committed by the revisionist. It is settled position of law that at the stage of consideration of discharge application, the Court ought to proceed with an assumption that materials brought on record by the prosecution are true and therefore in the present case, it is observed that there is no evidence found against the accused-revisionist regarding commission of offence. It is further mentioned that reasons are bound to be recorded while passing the order unless it is specifically excluded by the Legislation and in the present case, the trial court is not found to record reason for rejecting the discharge application. The learned Special Judge has recorded in the impugned order that there is presumption of commission of offence against the accused-revisionist without looking to the fact that such presumption at the stage of consideration of discharge can only be made on the basis of evidence collected during the investigation.

4. It would be pertinent to mention here the grounds which were taken by the revisionist before the court below seeking discharge. In the said application dated 04.02.2017 it has been mentioned that there was no dispute with respect to the income and expenditure of the revisionist rather the sole dispute was of the fact that the documentary evidence which was provided from the side of the revisionist in order to show his income, were ignored due to several technical reasons which was improper. How-so-ever strong doubt may exist but the doubt will never take place of proof. In case diary at page 99-K/224 a mention has been made of final enquiry (DFR) and on the basis of those documents, it was apparent that an amount of Rs.50,00,000/- was taken as debt by the revisionist but the same was not added in income only because while holding post of Cabinet Minister in U.P. Govt., its information was not given to the Vidhan Sabha Adhyaksh nor any mention was made of the same in affidavit filed at the time of election, while the expenditure of Rs.40,00,000/- has been added under the head of expenditure. It is against the principle of natural justice as well as provisions of section 13 (1) (e) of the Prevention of Corruption Act because the transaction, which has taken place, was through account using cheque. Non-inclusion of the said amount in the head of income of the revisionist was absolutely erroneous which needed to be added to his income. Similarly, the wife of the revisionist Smt. Pramila Tripathi had taken debt on various dates between the period 2005 to 2010 through account payee cheque to the tune of Rs.67,150,000/- which was to be returned after sale of the property but the said amount could not be returned because of litigation, the verification of those income is apparent from the paper no. 95 Ka/235 of the case diary and also a mention is made about it in the final enquiry report at page-45. Smt. Pramila Tripathi has been filing income tax return and she admits ownership of the said income and lives jointly with her husband. The said amount ought to have been added in the income of the accused-revisionist, which has not been done. Non-giving of information with respect to the said income to the Vidhan Sabha Adhyaksha may be violation of the rules, in respect to which action may be taken under appropriate provision, but the said income cannot be ignored from being taken into consideration. Therefore, if both the above mentioned incomes be added to the total income of the revisionist that would stand at Rs.1,17,15,000/-. Further, it is mentioned that the marriage of the daughter of the revisionist namely, Pragya Tripathi was performed on 22.02.2008 in which the expenditure incurred has been shown by the Investigating Officer on the basis of conjecture but the same has not been added under the head of expenditure as in usual in every marriage, gifts are given and for that the register pertaining to gift received was also checked by the Investigating Officer, which contained lot of amount given by various persons, when same is added, it came to Rs.11,00,850/- but the said amount has not been added in the income of the revisionist. Further, it is mentioned that the Investigating Officer has mentioned in evidence that Smt. Pramila Tripathi wife of the accused-revisionist had given her house No.2-A, Kapoor Road, Allahabad on rent to one Pradeep Srivastava on 1.10.2009 and House No.2, Block "C', Tulsiani Enclave, Allahabad was given to Ratan Singh from 16.12.2009 and Plot No.1/67, Ruchi Khand, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow was given on rent to Mohd. Shami since 01.01.2003. On the basis of documentary evidence and the agreement executed, during the check period, total amount of rent received stood at Rs.1,69,200.00 + Rs.3,54,888.00 + Rs.1,94,400.00, i.e total Rs.7,18,488/- while on the basis of oral evidence of the owner and the tenants of the said property, the said amount comes to Rs.7,66,400/-. This amount has not been added in the income of the revisionist and has been ignored by saying that about this no information was given which has been mentioned in Enquiry report (PDR) at page-40 of the case diary, paper no. 95K/191. Further, it is mentioned that the daughter of the revisionist namely, Pallavi Tripathi had paid income tax in the year 2008-09 to the tune of Rs.4460/-, in the year 2009-2010 Rs.32600/- and in the year 2010-11 to the tune of Rs.1,52,700/ and in the same year 2010-11 she also paid Rs.9089/- therefore, total amount paid as income tax was Rs.1,89,509/-, the said amount has been shown in the expenditure but the amount in respect of which the said income tax was paid i.e. Rs.5,70,350/-, was not added in the income of the revisionist, which ought to have been done. Further, it is mentioned that if the entire amount mentioned in the above three heads, which comes to Rs.24,37,600/- which if be added to the amount given in paragraph no. 6 i.e. Rs.1,17,15,000/-, the total amount/income would be Rs.1,41,52,600/-, which is more than the disproportionate expenditure shown of Rs.1,35,38,351.60. Thus, in comparison to the income, the expenditure is not on the higher side and therefore, no offence under section 13 (1) (e) and 13 (2) of P.C. Act is made out prima-facie against the revisionist, therefore, the accused-revisionist deserves to be discharged.

5. The said application was moved before the trial court, whereon the trial court has passed the impugned dated 03.08.2019 mentioning therein that after perusal of the file, it transpired that the Investigating Officer had submitted charge-sheet against the accused-revisionist under section 13 (1) (e) and 13 (2) of the P.C. Act on which cognizance was taken by the Court on 12.4.2016. It also transpires that as per prosecution version, against the revisionist, an FIR was got registered by Ram Subhag Ram, Inspector, U.P. Vigilance Establishment, Allahabad. In investigation, it was found that the revisionist while holding the post of Education Minister in State of U.P. had total income from all known sources to the tune of Rs.49,49,928/- and during the same period, he had purchased properties and spent money to the tune of Rs.02,67,08,605/-. Thus during the check period, the revisionist had spent Rs.2,17,58,677/- more than of his known sources of income, no plausible explanation could be given by the revisionist in respect of the same and hence he was prima-facie found guilty of owning assets disproportionate to his known sources of his income. On the basis of the said fact, a case under section 13 (1) e) and 13 (2) of P.C. Act was registered at P.S. Mutthiganj on 18.6.2013 and the investigation thereof was assigned to Vigilance Establishment, Varanasi, which was conducted by Inspector Bharat Ratna Varshney, who collected evidence in this matter. After retirement of Sri Varshney on 03.09.2015, further investigation was conducted by Inspector Prakash Singh and having found sufficient evidence against the revisionist, he has submitted charge-sheet against him on 14.3.2016 under section 13 (1) (e) and 13 (2) of P.C. Act which was forwarded to the Court by the then S.P. Sri Ram Pal Gautam of Vigilance Establishment, whereon the then Presiding Officer/Special Judge (Prevention of Corruption Act), Varanasi took cognizance on 12.4.2016 and issued summons against the accused on 14.11.2016. The revisionist appeared before the Court and moved bail application which was rejected and was sent to jail. Thereafter, the revisionist approached High Court by filing Bail Application No.42237 of 2016 which was allowed vide order dated 18.1.2017 conditionally and was released from jail on 19.1.2017.

6. Further, it is mentioned in the said order that in the meantime after cognizance having been taken on the charge-sheet and during hearing of the matter, a report was sent to the Court at the time when discharge/charge stage was there in the case by Hawaldar Singh Yadav, Inspector, Vigilance Establishment to the effect that a representation was moved by the revisionist before the Government on 30.08.2017 praying therein that further investigation may be got done on several points, based on that, Vigilance Department IV of State of U.P. passed an order on 7.5.2018 for further investigation to be conducted in this matter under section 173 (8) Cr.P.C., in reference to which a prayer was made before the Special Judge (Prevention of Corruption Act) to grant permission. By further investigation, during the check period (May 2007 to 31.12.2011) property earned worth Rs.1,11,94,402/- and the expenditure worth Rs.62,76,174/- thus total expenditure during check period was found to be 1,74,70,576/- and during this period income was found to be Rs.1,68,23,615 which was Rs.6,46,961/- more than the income, which in terms of percentage is 3.845% i.e 4% more while as per Hon'ble Supreme Court there was exemption to the extent of 10% and hence offence under section 13 (1) (e) and 13 (2) of P.C. Act would not be made out. The said report was forwarded by S.P., U.P. Vigilance Department, Shailendra Kumar Yadav on 30.3.2019. Further it is recorded in the impugned order that it is apparent from the said report that by supplementary report filed from the side of prosecution, the revisionist was found to have spent only Rs.6,46,961/- more than his income which was approximately 4% more and hence in view of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court which provided exemption upto 10%, no offence would be found to be made out against the revisionist. The trial court has recorded that at the stage of framing charge, there was no necessity to make any in-depth appreciation of the evidence provided and only prima-facie evidence is to be seen as to whether the same was sufficient for framing of charge or not. Large number of citations have been relied upon by the trial court in the impugned judgment and has opined that he is of the view that there was sufficient evidence against the accused-revisionist to frame charge under section 13 (1) (e) and 13 (2) of the P.C. Act and accordingly dismissed the discharge application of the revisionist.

7. I would like to rely upon the judgment rendered in Vinay Tyagi vs. Irshad Ali, (2013) 5 SCC 762, which too has been relied upon by the learned counsel for the revisionist. There were two questions framed for consideration in this case which are as follows:-

Question 1

1.1. Whether in exercise of its powers under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short "the Code"), the trial court has the jurisdiction to ignore any one of the reports, where there are two reports by the same or different investigating agencies in furtherance of the orders of a court? If so, to what effect?

Question 2

1.2. Whether the Central Bureau of Investigation (for short "CBI") is empowered to conduct "fresh"/"reinvestigation" when the cognizance has already been taken by the court of competent jurisdiction on the basis of a police report under Section 173 of the Code?

8. Answer to the above questions has been given in paragraph nos. 53 and 54 of the said judgment, which are as follows:-

"53. The court of competent jurisdiction is duty-bound to consider all reports, entire records and documents submitted therewith by the investigating agency as its report in terms of Section 173(2) of the Code. This rule is subject to only the following exceptions:

(a) Where a specific order has been passed by the learned Magistrate at the request of the prosecution limited to exclude any document or statement or any part thereof;

(b) Where an order is passed by the higher courts in exercise of its extraordinary or inherent jurisdiction directing that any of the reports i.e. primary report, supplementary report or the report submitted on "fresh investigation" or "reinvestigation" or any part of it be excluded, struck off the court record and be treated as non est."

"54. No investigating agency is empowered to conduct a "fresh", "de novo" or "reinvestigation" in relation to the offence for which it has already filed a report in terms of Section 173(2) of the Code. It is only upon the orders of the higher courts empowered to pass such orders that aforesaid investigation can be conducted, in which event the higher courts will have to pass a specific order with regard to the fate of the investigation already conducted and the report so filed before the court of the learned Magistrate.

9. It is apparent from the above position of law that in case there come on record several reports from the side of prosecution by way of supplementary report under section 173 (8) Cr.P.C., all these reports need to be taken into consideration by the trial court at the time of trial which include framing of charge. It is also apparent that earlier report filed from the side of prosecution, which holds the accused prima-facie guilty, cannot be ignored unless further investigation has been directed to be made by higher Court such as High Court and Hon'ble Supreme Court to that effect. In the case at hand, it is apparent that further investigation had been conducted at the instance of the accused-revisionist and after such further investigation made into the matter, an exoneration report has been filed in favour of the accused from the side of the prosecution, which has been ignored by the trial court and has come to the conclusion that there is sufficient evidence on record to frame the charge against the accused-revisionist under the above-mentioned sections. I do not find infirmity in the said order particularly keeping in view that in the initial report submitted from the side of the prosecution incriminating material was gathered against the accused-revisionist but in subsequent supplementary report it is being submitted from the side of the prosecution that there was some calculation mistake as several incomes and expenditures were omitted from being taken into consideration while submitting the first report. But keeping in view the position of law that the earlier report cannot be ignored altogether unless there is an order to that effect of any higher Court such as High Court or Hon'ble Supreme Court, therefore, the trial court appears to have been guided by the principle that there is one report on record in favour of the accused while there is another report also going against him, in such a situation, which of the two reports should be relied upon is the subject matter of evidence and therefore, holding that there is sufficient evidence prima-facie against the accused-revisionist, does not appears to be a wrong view. Here there is also not the case that prosecution has obtained any order to get the first report to be over looked/excluded.

10. I would also like to cite case laws of Hon'ble Supreme Court with respect to the position of law relating to framing of charge/discharge, which are as follows:

"1. Mauvin Godinho vs. State of Goa, (2018) 3 SCC 358, Paragraph no. 12 of which is as follows:

12. At the outset it would be pertinent to note the law concerning the framing of charges and the standard which courts must apply while framing charges. It is well settled that a court while framing charges under Section 227 of the Code of Criminal Procedure should apply the prima facie standard. Although the application of this standard depends on facts and circumstance in each case, a prima facie case against the accused is said to be made out when the probative value of the evidence on all the essential elements in the charge taken as a whole is such that it is sufficient to induce the court to believe in the existence of the facts pertaining to such essential elements or to consider its existence so probable that a prudent man ought to act upon the supposition that those facts existed or did happen. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial. [Refer Sajjan Kumar v. CBI[Sajjan Kumar v. CBI, (2010) 9 SCC 368 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 1371] , State v. A. Arun Kumar [Statev. A. Arun Kumar, (2015) 2 SCC 417 : (2015) 2 SCC (Cri) 96 : (2015) 1 SCC (L&S) 505] and Statev. S. Selvi [State v. S. Selvi, (2018) 4 SCC 641 : (2018) 1 Scale 5] .]

"2. State of M.P. vs. Rakesh Mishra, (2015) 13 SCC 8, Paragraph no. 7 of which is as follows:

*7. The major argument advanced by the State of Madhya Pradesh before us has been that the High Court traversed beyond the permissible limit while deciding the legality of order framing charges, being a pre-trial stage. Various authorities have been cited before us to prove that point. However, it would suffice to say that the law on this point is crystal clear that only charge-sheet along with the accompanying material is to be considered at the stage of framing of charges, so as to satisfy whether a prima facie case is made out. It has to be the subjective satisfaction of the court framing charges. In our opinion, the High Court has only examined the material before it against the prevailing law to reach its c*onclusions. Thus, the impugned judgment may not be assailable on this ground."

11. In the case of Amit Kapoor vs. Ram Chandra, (2012) 9 SCC 460,

Supreme Court has held that even in the case of strong doubt, charge can be framed. Para no. 19 of the said judgment is quoted as under:

"At the initial stage of framing of a charge, the court is concerned not with proof but with a strong suspicion that the accused has committed an offence, which, if put to trial, could prove him guilty. All that the court has to see is that the material on record and the facts would be compatible with the innocence of the accused or not. The final test of guilt is not to be applied at that stage."

12. In view of above position of law, it is apparent that if there is even serious doubt about the accused being involved in commission of offence that would be sufficient to frame charge against the accused. In the present case, there being two reports on record one exonerating the accused while other being inculpatory report against him, makes it a doubtful case which would certainly require a charge to be framed against the accused-revisionist.

13. From the side of the learned counsel for the revisionist reliance has been placed on the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in Krishnanand Agnihotri vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 1976 LawSuit (SC) 504, paragraph no. 33 of which is as follows:

"It will, therefore, be seen that as against an aggregate surplus income of Rs. 44,383.59 which was available to the appellant during the period in question, the appellant possessed total assets worth Rs.55,732.25, the assets possessed by the appellant were thus in excess of he surplus income available to him, but since the excess is comparatively small, it is less than ten per cent of the total income of Rs.1,27,715.43, we do not think it would be right to hold that the assets found in the possession of the appellant were disproportionate to this known sources of income so as to justify the raising of the presumption under sub-section (3) of section 5. We are of the view that on the facts of the present case the High Court as well as the Special Judge were in error in raising the presumption contained in sub-section (3) of section 5 and convicting the appellant on the basis of such presumption."

14. By relying upon the above citation, much stress has been laid by the learned counsel for the revisionist that since difference of income and expenditure has been bridged to a great extent and the same has come to be below 4% while as per the law laid-down in the above mentioned case the difference of upto 10% would be condonable and in view of that there was no reason for the accused to face trial. I do not agree with the said argument because the judgment which has been relied upon has been passed in appeal after full consideration of the evidence which had been brought on record while in the present case, it is elementary stage of the case when charges are yet to be framed. Moreover, I am of the view that there being two contradictory reports of the Investigating agency, it would be appropriate to frame charge against the accused revisionist in this case to reach the truth.

15. Accordingly, I do not find any infirmity in the impugned judgment. This revision deserves to be dismissed and is accordingly dismissed.

1. Heard Sri I.K. Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Amar Nath Tripathi, holding brief of Sri Ram Milan Dwivedi, learned counsel for the revisionist and learned A.G.A for the State.

2. Rejoinder affidavit filed today by the learned counsel for the revisionist, is taken on record.

3. The instant criminal revision is preferred challenging the order dated 18.11.2019 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, (D.A.A.), Banda in Criminal Misc. Case No. 128 of 2019 (State Vs. Pankaj Gautam), rejecting the release application dated 27.08.2019 under Sections 451 and 457 Cr.P.C filed by revisionist for releasing his firearm Rifle No. 10A-B 05878-315 N.P. Bore and three life cartridges and Pistol No. R.P. 213879-32 Bore and four life cartridges, in Sessions Trial No. 70 of 2019, under sections 286/386/392/504/411 I.P.C, Police Station Atarra, District Banda.

4. The factual matrix of the case shows that on 06.06.2019 Sheelman (informant) son of Ayodhya Prasad, driver of truck no. U.P.-44-AT 3202, was driving truck loaded with sand from Lahotera Ghat P.S. Naraini to Sultanpur and, near the Atarra Galla Mandi, the tyre of truck was busted/flat tyred. While cleaner of truck, Ravi, was replacing the busted tyre, at about 10:30 p.m. one white Maruti Car bearing registration no. U.P.-78-B 1059 reached there and two persons (accused) stepped out from the car, one of them had a pistol in his hand and the other person, wearing white kurta, had a rifle. Both used abusive language against mother and sister of the informant on the pretext that he had over loaded the truck with sand. At the relevant point of time, another truck bearing registration no. U.P.-44-AT-3201 driven by Mahesh Kashyap, who was accompanied with the informant, also reached there. Accused persons had demanded money from both drivers. While they asked for receipt of money, accused persons fired from the rifle and snatched Rs. 1,500/- each from both the drivers.

5. With respect to the aforesaid incident, an F.I.R was lodged by driver Sheelman on 07.06.2019 at about 3:41 a.m. registered as case crime no. 128 of 2019, under sections 286/386/392/504 IPC, Police Station Atarra, District Banda.

6. As per prosecution case, revisionist along with co-accused were arrested on 07.06.2019 at about 4:30 p.m; firearms and cartridges were recovered from them. Investigation Officer submitted charge sheet dated 11.06.2019 against both the accused persons under sections 286, 386, 392, 504 and 411 IPC.

7. It is submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that alleged incident took place on 06.06.2019 at about 10:30 p.m and the F.I.R was lodged on 07.06.2019 at 3:53 a.m whereas the arrest and recovery have been shown at about 4:30 a.m which shows the probability of false case in which revisionist has illegally been implicated. Revisionist is an army personnel and, original license holder and, has never been convicted in any criminal case. There is no criminal history of revisionist and the antecedents of the revisionist are through-out good. There is no previous complaint with respect to the misuse of firearms. Even, till date, to the best of his knowledge, no cancellation proceeding has been initiated with respect to the firearms in question which was renewed from time to time. It is further submitted that revisionist has got the licenses of firearms to protect the property and life of his family members. The firearms and cartridges in question are kept in maalkhana of concerned police station and there is every likelihood of their destruction in absence of proper maintenance, which will cause irreparable loss to the revisionist. It is also submitted that no identification parade has been conducted to ascertain the involvement of revisionist in the commission of crime.

8. Per contra, learned A.G.A has submitted that the revisionist has rightly been prosecuted in the present matter and the impugned order has rightly been passed on the basis of police report. It is further contended that during investigation, Investigating Officer has collected sufficient credible evidence showing complicity of applicant/revisionist in the commission of offence. The rifle and pistol used in commission of crime are case property and further a report for cancellation of license has already been sent to the District Magistrate.

9. Perused the record and carefully considered the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties.

10. Revisionist has moved an application for release of his firearms under sections 451 and 457 Cr.P.C. Before discussing the merits of the instant revision, the scope of section 451 and 457 Cr.P.C is required to be discussed in light of the present matter.

11. Provisions as embodied under section 451 Cr.P.C entrust a duty upon the Court to pass orders for custody or disposal of case property during an inquiry or trial. The provision of section 451 Cr.P.C is reproduced below:-

451. Order for custody and disposal of property pending trial in certain cases- When any property is produced before any Criminal Court during any inquiry or trial, the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the proper custody or such property pending the conclusion of the inquiry or trial, and, if the property is subject to speedy and natural decay, or if it is otherwise expedient so to do, the Court may, after recording such evidence as it thinks necessary, order it to be sold or otherwise disposed of.

Explanation.-For the purposes of this section, "property" includes-

(a) property of any kind or document which is produced before the Court or which is in its custody.

(b) any property regarding which an offence appears to have been committed or which appears to have been used for the commission of any offence.

12. A bare perusal of section 451 Cr.P.C clearly denotes that it enable the Court to pass appropriate order with respect to seized property, such as:

(i) For proper custody of property pending conclusion for inquiry or trial.

(ii) Pass order to sale the property or otherwise dispose of, after recording such evidence as it think necessary.

(iii) If property is subject to speedy and natural decay or if it is otherwise expedient so to do, to dispose of the same.

13. It is noteworthy to state that our police stations are flooded with seized articles and there is always possibility of misappropriation, misplace, replace, and damage of property which are seized and kept in police custody pending conclusion of an inquiry or trial. Noticing paucity of space in police stations, which are flooded with seized articles, and to reduce the scope of misappropriation of amount or replace/misplace of valuable articles or damage of property, goods, perishable product/commodities which are seized and kept in police custody pending conclusion of inquiry or trial, the Hon'ble Supreme Court had made certain observation, in the matter "Sunder Bhai Ambala Desai Vs. State of Gujarat reported in AIR 2003 SC 638", to avoid such circumstances and held that power under 451 Cr.P.C should be exercised promptly and at earliest.

14. Relevant paragraph nos. 7, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 17 of the case of Sunder Bhai Ambala Desai (Supra) is quoted below:

7. In our view, the powers under Section 451 Cr.P.C. should be exercised expeditiously and judiciously. It would serve various purposes, namely:--

1. Owner of the article would not suffer because of its remaining unused or by its misappropriation;

2. Court or the police would not be required to keep the article in safe custody;

3. If the proper panchnama before handing over possession of article is prepared, that can be used in evidence instead of its production before the Court during the trial. If necessary, evidence could also be recorded describing the nature of the property in detail; and

4. This jurisdiction of the Court to record evidence should be exercised promptly so that there may not be further chance of tampering with the articles.

11. With regard to valuable articles, such as, golden or silver ornaments or articles studded with precious stones, it is submitted that it is of no use to keep such articles in police custody for years till the trial is over. In our view, this submission requires to be accepted. In such cases, Magistrate should pass appropriate orders as contemplated under Section 451 Cr.P.C. at the earliest.

12. For this purpose, if material on record indicates that such articles belong to the complainant at whose house theft, robbery or dacoity has taken place, then seized articles be handed over to the complainant after:--

(1) preparing detailed proper panchnama of such articles;

(2) taking photographs of such articles and a bond that such articles would be produced if required at the time of trial; and

(3) after taking proper security.

13. For this purpose, the Court may follow the procedure of recording such evidence, as it thinks necessary, as provided under Section 451 Cr.P.C. The bond and security should be taken so as to prevent the evidence being lost, altered or destroyed. The Court should see that photographs of such articles are attested or countersigned by the complainant, accused as well as by the person to whom the custody is handed over. Still however, it would be the function of the Court under Section 451 Cr.P.C. to impose any other appropriate condition.

14. In case, where such articles are not handed over either to the complainant or to the person from whom such articles are seized or to its claimant, then the Court may direct that such articles be kept in bank lockers. Similarly, if articles are required to kept in police custody, it would be open to the SHO after preparing proper panchnama to keep such articles in a bank locker. In any case, such articles should be produced before the Magistrate within a week of their seizure. If required, the Court may direct that such articles be handed over back to the Investigating Officer for further investigation and identification. However, in no set of circumstances, the Investigating Officer should keep such articles in custody for a longer period for the purpose of investigation and identification. For currency notes, similar procedure can be followed.

17. In our view, whatever be the situation, it is of no use to keep such seized vehicles at the police stations for a long period. It is for the Magistrate to pass appropriate orders immediately by taking appropriate bond and guarantee as well as security for return of the said vehicles, if required at any point of time. This can be done pending hearing of applications for return of such vehicles.

15. In the aforesaid case, Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that object of the Code seems to be that any property which is in the control of Court either directly or indirectly should be disposed of by the Court and a just and proper order should be passed by the Court regarding its disposal. In a criminal case, the police always act under the direct control of Court and take orders from it at every stage of an inquiry or trial. Thus, the Court exercises an overall control on the action of Police Officers in every case where it has taken cognizance.

16. With respect to the custody of seized property pending trial, Hon'ble Supreme Court has made precise observations in the matter of "Smt. Basavva Kom Dyamangouda Patil Vs. State of Mysore and Others reported in (1977) 4 SCC 358" Para no. 4 of the aforesaid judgment is quoted below:-

4. "The object and scheme of the various provisions of the Code appear to be that where the property which has been the subject matter of an offence is seized by the police, it ought not to be retained in the custody of the Court or of the police for any time longer than what is absolutely necessary. As the seizure of the property by the police amounts to a clear entrustment of the property to a Government servant, the idea is that the property should be restored to the original owner after the necessity to retain it ceases. It is manifest that there may be two stages when the property may be returned to the owner. In the first place it may be returned during any inquiry or trial. This may particularly be necessary where the property concerned is sought to speedy or natural decay. There may be other compelling reasons also which may justify the disposal of the property to the owner or otherwise in the interest of justice. The High Court and the Sessions Judge proceeded on the footing that one of the essential requirements of the Code is that the articles concerned must be produced before the Court or should be in its custody. The object of the Code seems to be that any property which is in the control of the court either directly or indirectly should be disposed of by the Court and a just and proper order should be passed by the Court regarding its disposal. In a criminal case, the police always acts under the direct control of the Court and has to take orders from it at every stage of any inquiry or trial. In this broad sense, therefore, the Court exercises an overall control on the actions of the Police Officers in every case where it has taken cognizance."

17. In the matter of Smt. Basavva Kom Dyamangouda Patil (Supra) Hon'ble Supreme Court has dealt with the matter where case property pending trial is stolen or destroyed. Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that where property is stolen, lost or destroyed and there is no prima facie defence made out that the State or its Officers has taken due care and caution to protect the property, the Magistrate may, in an appropriate case, where the ends of justice so required, order payment of value of property.

18. Phrase "if it is otherwise expedient so to do" as embodied under section 451 Cr.P.C connotes wider expression giving ample power to the learned Magistrate to protect the property which is custodia legis. Once the property is produced before the Magistrate, he considers as to whom it should be handed over for safe custody pending the conclusion of inquiry or trial. Section 451 Cr.P.C provides an interim measure regarding the custody of property which has been seized during the investigation of crime. Word "expedient" shows that, in case, retention of property in Court would be more expensive and there being gradual damage pending trial, some order regarding interim custody has to be passed if some one come forward to take custody of property pending trial or inquiry.

19. Scope of Section 451 Cr.P.C has been made comprehensive, which includes all kind of material and documents produced before the Court or is in its custody and same may have been used for the commission of any offence or regarding which an offence appears to have been committed. The explanation gives a wider meaning of word "property" than it ordinarily has.

20. In my opinion, section 457 Cr.P.C is not fully applicable in the present matter, inasmuch as, it is applying in those matters where seizure of the property by police Officer is reported to Magistrate but such property is not produced before the criminal court during an inquiry or trial, whereas under section 451 Cr.P.C seized property is produced before any criminal court during an inquiry or trial and question of custody of property pending decision of inquiry or trial should be decided under this section.

"457. Procedure by police upon seizure of property:(1) Whenever the seizure of property by any police officer is reported to a Magistrate under the provisions of this Code, and such property is not produced before a Criminal Court during an inquiry or trial, the Magistrate may make such order as he thinks fit respecting the disposal of such property or the delivery of such property to the person entitled to the possession thereof, or if such person cannot be ascertained, respecting the custody and production of such property.

(2). If the person so entitled is known, the Magistrate may order the property to be delivered to him on such conditions (if any) as the Magistrate thinks fit and if such person is unknown, the Magistrate may detain it and shall, in such case, issue a proclamation specifying the articles of which such property consists, and requiring any person who may have a claim thereto, to appear before him and establish his claim within six months from the date of such proclamation.

22. In this view of the matter, under section 457 Cr.P.C, the seized property by the police is not produced before the Magistrate and the Magistrate has the power to decide who is the person entitled for its possession. Though Section 451 and 457 Cr.P.C. fall under Chapter XXXIV of the Cr.P.C. captioned as "Disposal Of Property", the scope of these sections are different.

23. In the present matter guns in question are confiscated by police and produce before the Magistrate which has been kept in police custody during the trial, therefore, provisions as embodied in section 451 Cr.P.C is attracted in the present matter.

24. It is admitted to the parties that revisionist is a license holder of both the firearms in question i.e. rifle and pistol, which is evident from the photo copy of the licenses annexed as Annexure no. 6 to the affidavit. In the same case crime number, revisionist has already been enlarged on bail vide order dated 26.07.2019 passed by this Court in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 29979 of 2019.

25. Revisionist is an Army personal and during his service period he has been granted license for both the aforesaid firearms and till date, to the best of his knowledge, no cancellation proceeding, for the said firearm license, has been initiated against him. In paragraph no. 8 of the counter affidavit it has simply stated that a report has been sent to the District Magistrate to initiate cancellation proceeding of firearms license in question but there is nothing on record to show that any proceeding has been initiated against the revisionist. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that up-till now the revisionist has not received any summon/notice relating to the case for cancellation of firearms license and no identification parade has been conducted to assertion the involvement of present revisionist, inasmuch as alleged offence is said to have been commissioned in night at about 10:30 p.m. Revisionist is a respectful and law abiding person and has obtained firearms to protect his life and property. As per submissions made by learned Senior Counsel, revisionist was never involved in the accomplishment of the alleged crime as mentioned in the F.I.R and, even, the forensic report has not been called for to ascertain the alleged involvement of firearms in question.

26. Be that as it may, the court below has illegally averted the intent of the legislation enshrined under section 451 Cr.P.C and has illegally rejected the application for release of firearms in question in a cursory manner, only relying upon the prosecution case and the police report depicting the safety of firearms in police custody. In the instant matter, where identity of firearms and, being licensee, entitlement of Sushil Kumar Dwivedi (revisionist) is not under cloud, it cannot be said that police custody is the "proper custody" of such property pending conclusion of the trial. Firearms are fragile and keeping it unattended for long period of time without proper care and maintenance, will put it in vulnerable condition and cause a progressive reduction in its quality.

27. Though firearms are safe in police station, the plausibility of it's being misused or misplaced or lost cannot be averted. Retention of seized property for indefinite period waiting result of inquiry or trial, will serve no purpose. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of "Smt. Basavva Kom Dyamangouda Patil (Supra) observed that property, subject of offence, seized by the police, it ought not to be retained in the custody of the court or of the police for any time longer than what is absolutely necessary.

28. In the facts and circumstances of the present case, after considering the rival submissions of the parties and perusal of record, I feel it expedient in the interest of justice that it will of no use to keep the firearms in question, in the police custody, over the years till the trial is concluded. Therefore, it would be better to release the aforesaid firearms and give it in the custody of revisionist (Sushil Kumar Dwivedi) who is the valid license holder of the aforesaid firearms.

29. Accordingly, as discussed above, without commenting on merits of the case under trial, the instant revision is allowed and order dated 18.11.2019 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (D.A.A.), Banda is hereby quashed.

30. The Court below is hereby directed to release the firearms in question, viz Rifle No. 10A-B 05878-315 N.P. Bore and three life cartridges and Pistol No. R.P. 213879-32 Bore and four live cartridges which are confiscated by the police in Case Crime No. 128 of 2019 (State Vs. Pankaj Gautam) in Sessions Trial No. 70 of 2019, under Sections 286/386/392/504/411 I.P.C, Police Station Atarra, District Banda, upon furnishing an appropriate bond by the present revisionist and guarantee to the satisfaction of the court below, ensuring the ownership and return of said firearms, if required, at any point of time.

2. K.D. Sharma v. SAIL, (2008) 12 SCC 481

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rakesh Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Suresh Chandra Gupta, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri N.C. Mehrotra, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This petition has been filed praying inter alia the following reliefs:

(a) issue a writ, order, direction in the nature of quashing the impugned order dated 07.12.2019 passed by opposite party no. 1 vide the revision no. 1063/2019 in the interest of justice contained in Annexure No. 1

(b) issue a writ, order, direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 13.06.2019 passed by opposite party no. 2 and release the amount of Rs 4,71,227/- and direct the opposite parties to refund the money with interest @ 18% in the interest of justice contained in Annexure No. 9, 10 & 11.

(c) issue a writ, order, direction in the nature of mandamus and commanding the opposite parties to pay Rs 60,000/- as demurrage and Rs 50,000/- as Advocate fees.

3. Briefly stated, the facts are these: On 29.05.2019 at about 07:00 p.m., the officials of Krishi Utpadan Mandi Samiti, Ghaziabad (for short the "Mandi Samiti'), intercepted two trucks bearing registration nos. HR 69 D 2960 and HR 69 C 4239, at NHAI Galalpurwa Toll Plaza. Each truck was laden with 350 quintals of rice which was being transported by the petitioner from Bahraich to Delhi without valid papers as required under The Uttar Pradesh Krishi Utpadan Mandi Adhiniyam, 1964 (for short "the Adhiniyam'). The officials, after confiscating the vehicles and the rice under section 36 of the Adhiniyam prepared a seizure memo and made a report to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Ghaziabad. Two criminal cases bearing Nos. 23518/2019 & 23519/2019 were instituted against the petitioner and the truck drivers namely Ravi Yadav and Jagtan Singh.

4. On 13.06.2019, before the court in seisin of the case could proceed with the complaint, the petitioner filed an application before the Mandi Samiti for compounding the offence. The Mandi Samiti, by its order dated 13.06.2019 passed under section 37-A(1) of the Adhiniyam acceded to the prayer and compounded the offence against the petitioner and the truck drivers, subject to payment of Rs 4,71,226/- (Rs 34,038 towards mandi fee and development cess and Rs 2,00,000/- towards composition fee with regard to truck no. HR 69 D 2960 and Rs 37,188 towards mandi fee and development cess and Rs 2,00,000/- towards composition fee with regard to truck no. HR 69 C 4239). On 13.06.2019 itself, the petitioner deposited the amount with the Mandi Samiti through RTGS. As soon as the payment was made, the trucks and the goods seized were released in favour of the petitioner. Subsequently, by two separate but identical orders passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate the criminal proceedings initiated against the petitioner and the two truck drivers were dropped. One such order dated 26.06.2019 passed in Case No. 23519 of 2019 is reproduced below:

"26/06/19 परिवाद प्रस्तुत परिवादी के अधिवक्ता उपस्थित उनकी तरफ से कथन किया गया की मामले का शमन अधिनियम की धारा – 37 ए0 के तहत किया जा चुका अतः वो मामले को आगे नही चलाना चाहते है। सचिव कृषि उत्पादन मण्डी समिति श्री सत्य पाल गंगवार की रिपोर्ट पत्रांक कृ0उ0म0स0 सचल दल 2019–209 दिनांक 13/06/19 को अवलोकन बयान किया। आधार पर्याप्त अतः धारा 37 (2) के तहत कार्यवाही समाप्त की जाती है।"

5. On 28.08.2019, the petitioner filed a revision (bearing Revision No. 256 of 2019, M/s Atul Rahul Agro Private Limited Vs. Secretary, Krishi Utpadan Mandi Parishad) under section 32 of the Adhiniyam before the Director, Rajya Krishi Utpadan Mandi Parishad, U.P., respondent no.1 herein, against the order dated 13.06.2019, inter alia, contending that the rice was being transported on valid papers. The said submission did not find favour with the respondent no. 1 and the revision was rejected as not maintainable by an order dated 07.12.2019. The respondent no. 1 held that once the petitioner had admitted his guilt and the offence had been compounded on the request of the petitioner itself, and the goods alongwith the trucks have been released, the challenge to the order compounding the offence was not maintainable. The relevant portion of the order date 07.12.2019 is extracted below:

"प्रश्नगत निगरानी मे बहस के समय निगरानीकर्ता फर्म के अधिवक्ता एवं विपक्षी मण्डी समिति, गाजियाबाद की ओर से सचिव उपस्थित हुए। उभय पक्षों को न्यायालय मे विस्तार से सुना गया और उनके द्वारा दाखिल अभिलेखों का अवलोकन किया गया। निगरानीकर्ता ने उ0 प्र0

अतः उक्त वर्णित तथ्यों के परिप्रेक्ष्य मे निगरानीकर्ता द्वारा दाखिल निगरानी पोषणीय न होने के कारण खारिज की जाती है। प्रश्नगत आदेश की प्रति निगरानीकर्ता फर्म एवं सभापति/सचिव मण्डी समिति, गाजियाबाद को प्रेषित की जाये।"

6. The orders dated 13.06.2019 and 07.12.2019 are under challenge in the present petition.

7. Sri Suresh Chandra Gupta, the learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that there was no evasion of any mandi fee and it was on account of the breakdown of truck No. HR 69 D 2960 that the trucks reached the toll on 29.05.2019. The counsel submits that the paper accompanying the said trucks were in order but in order to harass the petitioner and for extraneous consideration the trucks were seized by the officials of the Mandi Samiti. The counsel has contended with vehemence that since seizure of rice and the trucks was not reported to the Chief Judicial Magistrate forthwith, as contemplated under the proviso to section 36(1) of the Adhiniyam, the entire proceedings against the petitioner are liable to be set aside. He has further contended that in terms of section 37-A(1) reproduced in paragraph 15 of the petition, the maximum composition fee which could be charged from the petitioner was Rs 20,000/- with regard to one offence and as such the imposition of Rs 2,00,000/- towards composition fee was without jurisdiction. No other submission has been made.

8. Sri N.C. Mehrotra, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents, on the other hand, has supported the impugned orders. He has submitted that the rice was being transported by the petitioner without valid papers. He has submitted that the goods were seized and on receiving the application from the petitioner for compounding of offence, the same was compounded and as such it is not open to the petitioner to challenge the seizure. The counsel has submitted that the composition fee charged from the petitioner is in accordance with section 37-A(1) of the Adhiniyam. He has submitted that the petitioner has tried to mislead the Court by quoting unamended section 37-A in the writ petition. The petition according to him is liable to be dismissed with heavy cost.

9. The petitioner has challenged the levy of Rs 2,00,000/- on the strength of section 37-A(1) of the Adhiniyam, reproduced by him in paragraph 15 of the petition. Paragraph 15 of the petition are extracted below:

15. That "section-37 A Composition of offence-(1) A market committee or its sub-committee or with the authorisation by a resolution of a committee, its Chairman, may accept from any person who has committed or is reasonably suspected or having committed an offence punishable under this Act in addition to the fee or other amount recoverable from him, a sum of money not exceeding rupees 53(Twenty thousand) by way of composition fee and compound the offence."

10. Sri N.C. Mehrotra has submitted that section 37-A(1) reproduced in paragraph 15 of the petition is an unamended section. He has submitted that by U.P. Act 24 of 2018, Section 37-A of the Adhiniyam has been amended. Amended section 37-A is reproduced below:

37-A. Composition of offences.- (1) A market committee or its sub Committee or with the authorization by a resolution of a committee, its Chairman, may accept from any person who has committed or is reasonably suspected of having committed an offence punishable under this Act in addition to the fee or other amount recoverable from him, a sum of money equal to ten times the sum of market fee and development cess assessed due on the equivalent agricultural produce in accordance wíth the explanation given in the proviso to sub-rule (1) of Rule 66 of the Uttar Pradesh Krishi Utpadan Mandi Niyamavali, 1965 or Rupees Two Lakh, whichever is less and for other offence, a sum of money not exceeding rupees twenty thousand by way of composition fee and compound the offence.

(2) On the composition of any offence under sub-section (1) no proceeding shall be taken or continued against the person concerned in respect of such offence, and if any proceedings in respect of that offence have already been instituted against him in any Court, the composition shall have 9the effect of his acquittal.

11. The major contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the maximum fee which could be levied towards composition fee was Rs 20,000/-. The very foundation of this argument is unstable as the learned counsel for the petitioner has been relying on the unamended provisions of the Adhiniyam which did not provide for the composition fee of Rs Two Lakhs. The amended provisions, as applicable to the present matter, expressly provide for compounding of offences punishable under the Act on the payment of a sum of money equal to ten times the sum of market fee and development cess assessed due on the equivalent agricultural produce in accordance wíth the explanation given in the proviso to sub-rule (1) of Rule 66 of the Uttar Pradesh Krishí Utpadan Mandi Niyamavali, 1965 or Rupees Two Lakh, whichever is less. Thus, the petitioner's challenge to the authority of the market committee's power to charge Rupees Two Lakhs is absolutely misconceived.

12. Neither the application moved by the petitioner for compounding nor the order passed by the Mandi Samiti thereon has been brought on record. A copy of memo of revision dated 28.08.2019 preferred by the petitioner against the compounding order dated 13.06.2019 is also not on record. A perusal of annexure no. 6, which is alleged to be the memo of revision, shows that it is in fact a letter addressed to the Director Mandi Samiti requesting him to direct the concerned officials not to harass the petitioner. On top of the said letter, the following heading has been written by hand.

"Under the inherent and supervisory powers under Section 32 of the U.P. Krishi Utpadan Mandi Adhiniyam, 1984"

13. A perusal of Section 37-A as quoted by the petitioner in Paragraph 15 of the writ petition (reproduced above) on one hand, and Section 37-A as amended on the other, clearly shows that Section 37-A has been wrongly quoted by the petitioner. It is also to be noted that in spite of the amended provision being brought to the notice of the learned counsel for the petitioner, he has continued to rely upon the unamended provision to argue that a maximum composition fee of Rs 20,000/- could have been charged from the petitioner. The failure to bring the relevant documents such as the application for compounding and the memo or revision, and the overall conduct of the petitioner shows that the petitioner has not come before this Court with clean hands. The petitioner is thus guilty of suppression, concealment, misrepresentation of facts and attempting to mislead this Court.

14. In exercising its discretionary power under Article 226 and 227 of the Constitution, this Court is not just a Court of law, but is also a Court of equity and a person who invokes the writ jurisdiction of this Court is duty-bound to place all the facts before the Court without any reservation. It is well settled that in exercising jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution, this Court always keeps in mind the conduct of the party invoking such jurisdiction. If the petitioner does not disclose full facts or suppresses relevant material or is otherwise guilty of misleading the Court, then the Court may dismiss the action without adjudicating the matter on merits. In Prestige Lights Ltd. v. State Bank of India, (2007) 8 SCC 449, the Apex Court has observed that the said rule has been evolved in larger public interest to - "deter unscrupulous litigants from abusing the process of court by deceiving it. The very basis of the writ jurisdiction rests in disclosure of true, complete and correct facts. If the material facts are not candidly stated or are suppressed or are distorted, the very functioning of the writ courts would become impossible."

15. In K.D. Sharma v. Steel Authority of India Limited, (2008) 12 SCC 481, the Apex Court reiterated that the petitioners approaching this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution must disclose all the material facts without any qualification. It was held as under:-

"38. As per settled law, the party who invokes the extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 32 or of a High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is supposed to be truthful, frank and open. He must disclose all material facts without any reservation even if they are against him. He cannot be allowed to play "hide and seek" or to "pick and choose" the facts he likes to disclose and to suppress (keep back) or not to disclose (conceal) other facts. The very basis of the writ jurisdiction rests in disclosure of true and complete (correct) facts. If material facts are suppressed or distorted, the very functioning of writ courts and exercise would become impossible. The petitioner must disclose all the facts having a bearing on the relief sought without any qualification. This is because "the court knows law but not facts".

39. If the primary object as highlighted in Kensington Income Tax Commrs. [(1917) 1 KB 486 : 86 LJKB 257 : 116 LT 136 (CA)] is kept in mind, an applicant who does not come with candid facts and "clean breast" cannot hold a writ of the court with "soiled hands". Suppression or concealment of material facts is not an advocacy. It is a jugglery, manipulation, manoeuvring or misrepresentation, which has no place in equitable and prerogative jurisdiction. If the applicant does not disclose all the material facts fairly and truly but states them in a distorted manner and misleads the court, the court has inherent power in order to protect itself and to prevent an abuse of its process to discharge the rule nisi and refuse to proceed further with the examination of the case on merits. If the court does not reject the petition on that ground, the court would be failing in its duty. In fact, such an applicant requires to be dealt with for contempt of court for abusing the process of the court."

16. In light of the petitioner's deliberate attempts at misleading this Court and the judgments of the Apex Court cited above, the present petition is liable to be dismissed on this ground alone.

17. Even on merits, the present writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

18. Admittedly, on 13.06.2019, after the goods and the trucks were seized and criminal cases were instituted against the petitioner, the petitioner moved an application before the Mandi Samiti admitting the commission of offence and expressing his desire to pay the requisite mandi fee and development cess along with penalty if any. The request of the petitioner was acceded to and the Mandi Samiti, through its order dated 13.06.2019, compounded the offence subject to the payment of a total sum of Rs 4,71,226/- (Rs 2,34,038 with regard to truck no. HR 69 D 2960 and Rs 2,37,188 with regard to truck No. HR 69 C 4239). The very same day the petitioner deposited the said amount in the Mandi Samiti through RTGS, and thereafter, the goods and the trucks were released and the criminal proceedings initiated against the petitioner and the two truck drivers were dropped.

19. The petitioner accepted the order passed by the Secretary mandi and in pursuance thereto deposited a sum of Rs 4,71,226/- through RTGS in the criminal cases initiated instituted against him and on that basis, both the trucks of the petitioner were released and the criminal cases instituted against the petitioner were dropped.

20. In the aforesaid background, once the petitioner has admitted his guilt and has opted for compounding of the same, and has further deposited the penalty imposed upon him and has had the trucks released after getting the criminal cases instituted against him withdrawn, it is not open to the petitioner to turn around and challenge the seizure and order compounding the offence. The revision preferred by the petitioner against the compounding order dated 13.06.2019 passed by the Secretary, Mandi Samiti, has rightly been dismissed by the respondent no.1 as not maintainable.

21. The revision preferred by the petitioner against the said order has rightly been dismissed by the Director, Mandi Samiti.

22. Thus, in addition to suppression, concealment and attempts at misleading this Court, the writ petition is also totally misconceived and is accordingly dismissed with exemplary cost of Rs 2 lakhs.

23. The petitioner is directed to deposit the cost with the Senior Registrar of this Court at Lucknow within six weeks from today. The cost so deposited shall be remitted to the Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this Court. In case, the cost is not deposited by the petitioner within the time granted to him for the purpose, the same shall be realized from him as arrears of land revenue.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

2. This writ petition has been filed by the petitioner, who alleges himself to be the Manager since 1990 of Kedar Nath Shikshan Sansthan, a Society established in 1977 and renewed from time to time thereafter, against the order dated 31.12.2015 passed by the respondent no.4-the Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies & Chits, Head Quarters, Lucknow, in which he has directed the registration of list of members of the Committee of Management of the Society on the basis of documents submitted by the respondent nos.7 and 8 as the Manager and the President respectively of the Society.

3. The petitioner has further challenged the order dated 13.09.2011 passed by the respondent no.3 by which allegedly a modified list of membership of the Executive Committee of the Society has been registered, which was submitted by the respondent no.7 through an application dated 09.09.2011.

4. It has been submitted that the orders impugned have been passed on the basis of fraud played by the private respondents in collusion with the Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies & Chits, Faizabad and the Deputy Registrar Headquarters Lucknow. By the orders impugned, the respondent no.4 has affirmed the petitioner's expulsion from the post of the Manager as well as from the primary membership of the Society. It has been submitted that the action of the respondent nos.7 and 8 is without issuing any notice or affording any opportunity of hearing.

5. It has been submitted that a dispute came into being with the induction of Smt. Girija Singh, respondent no.8 on account of death of one Dr. Ram Kumar Tripathi, who was the founder member. Smt Girja Singh was elected as the President on the death of the sitting President of the Society on 19.05.2002 for the remaining term.

6. It has been submitted that the respondent no.8 soon after her election on the post of the President started inducting her relatives as members of the Society as well as its Executive Committee. The petitioner was opposed to such conduct and therefore the respondent no.7 posing as as the Manager, on the instructions of the respondent no.8, submitted an application for registration of list of members of the Executive Committee of the Society for the year 2011-12.

A copy of the letter dated 09.09.2011 and the accompanying list of members of Executive Committee has been filed as annexure - 3 & 4 to the writ petition.

7. In paragraph-9 of the petition, the petitioner states that no fresh elections had taken place and the respondent no.7 could not have been elected as the Manager of the Society in place of the petitioner, therefore, the conduct of the respondent no.3 in registering the list submitted by the respondent no.7 by his order dated 13.09.2011 was also an act of fraud and collusion.

8. It has been further submitted that the respondent no.3 did not issue any notice inviting objections before passing the order dated 13.09.2011, registering the amended list of Executive Members.

9. In paragraph-11 of the writ petition, the petitioner has stated that the reconstitution of the Executive Committee as reflected in the covering letter dated 09.09.2011 registered on 13.09.2011, was dubious and illegal. Consequently, in order to give it a colour of legitimacy, an Agenda was circulated on 17.10.2011 for a meeting of the General Body of the Society which was to be held on 29.10.2011. In the Agenda notice, no item relating to the issue of expulsion of the petitioner from the post of Manager or the Primary Membership of the Society was mentioned. By manipulating and forging the minutes of the meeting, an item concerning the petitioner's expulsion was added in the minutes. A copy of the minutes of the meeting dated 29.10.2011 has been filed as annexure-6 to the writ petition. It has been stated that the minutes of the meeting dated 29.10.2011 are completely silent on the list of Executive Committee Members submitted on 09.09.2011 and the order passed on 13.09.2011. When the reconstituted list of members of the Executive Committee, following the meeting dated 29.10.2011, was submitted for registration, the respondent no.3 issued notice to the petitioner on 19.11.2011. The petitioner submitted his objection on 01.12.2012 saying that the petitioner's expulsion was without any notice and completely fraudulent exercise.

10. It has been further submitted that since the Deputy Registrar, Faizabad, was related to the respondent no.8, the petitioner moved a transfer application before the respondent no.2 and the matter was transferred to the respondent no.4. After the matter was transferred to Lucknow, the petitioner and respondent no.8 again submitted the written submissions.

11. The petitioner also requested for personal hearing and for permitting him to produce certain documents like the proceedings register, the agenda register, the fee register, the income and expenditure register and the membership receipts, but all such requests were ignored and the respondent no.4 passed the order impugned without recording any finding on the effect of the order dated 13.09.2011, by which the reconstituted Executive Committee was registered by the respondent no.3 even prior to the meeting of the General Body, which allegedly expelled the petitioner from the post of the Manager and from primary membership of the Society.

12. It has been submitted by Sri Rohit Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioner, during the course of arguments, that although the order passed by the Deputy Registrar dated 31.12.2015 runs into 33 pages, it does not deal with the arguments made by the petitioner that the General Body meeting dated 29.10.2011 was a completely fraudulent exercise to cover up the expulsion of the petitioner carried out by the respondent no.7 and 8 even before holding of the meeting, as is evident from the letter dated 09.09.2011 and the order passed on 13.09.2011.

13. Sri Rohit Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioner, has vehemently argued on the basis of page nos. 53, 54 and 55 of the writ petition that it is evident that the reconstituted Committee of Management registered by the order dated 13.09.2011 mentions the respondent no.7 as the Manager instead of the petitioner, even before the petitioner was ousted in the alleged General Body meeting held on 29.10.2011.

14. A counter affidavit was filed on behalf of the State-respondents. It was specifically denied that the amended list of Executive Committee submitted by the Deputy Secretary contained the name of respondent no.7 as Manager. It was further submitted that the petitioner was expelled from the Society due to continuous absence from the meetings of the Society.

15. A counter affidavit was also filed by Sri Balram Yadav, on behalf of the private respondent nos.7 and 8 stating therein that no fraud was committed at all as alleged. The petitioner was expelled from the primary membership of the society and also from the post of Manager as he was not attending the meetings of the General Body or of the Executive Council for the past more than one year and had not deposited the prescribed membership fee. His membership had already come to an end automatically as per Bye-law no.6 of the Bye-laws of the society filed as C.A.-2 to the counter affidavit. It was further submitted that there is no provision in the bye-laws to give notice to a Member for expulsion from the membership of the Society, who does not deposit membership fee and who does not attend three consecutive meetings of the Executive Body.

16. The Agenda dated 17.10.2011 clearly stated that any other issue can be raised for discussion in the General Body meeting proposed to be held, with the approval of the President. The issue of misconduct of the petitioner and one Sripati Singh was raised after approval of the President in the meeting held on 29.10.2011 and thereafter, the proposal to expel them was put to vote and approved by the General Body.

17. During the course of arguments by the counsel for the parties, the discrepancy in the list submitted by letter dated 09.09.2011 as was pointed out by Sri Rohit Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioner, was disputed by Sri Balram Yadav, learned counsel for the respondent, who expressed doubt with regard to the correctness of the annexure filed with the writ petition.

18. This court passed an order on 04.09.2019 which is being quoted here in below:-

"Shri Balram Yadav, while answering to the query made by the Court earlier, has produced before this Court a copy of list of Committee of Management submitted by Shri Radhey Raman Dubey as Dy. Manager on 09.09.2011 for the year 2011-12.

From a perusal of the said list, it is apparent that it contains the name of the petitioner-Ram Sanwarey Yadav, as a Manager of the Institution and it has been signed by Smt. Girija Singh, Surjit Singh, Radhey Raman Dubey, Deomani and some others. However, Shri Balram Yadav has pointed out the page nos.53, 54, and 55 of the writ petition to show that a different list has been annexed with the covering letter being the same i.e. of 09.09.2011 showing Radhey Raman Dubey as Manager and removing the name of Shri Ram Sanwarey Yadav to buttress the arguments made by the petitioner that the decision to oust the petitioner from the Committee of Management was taken before 09.09.2011 and the intent is visible in the said list whereas the actual resolution for removal of Shri Ram Sanwarey Yadav was passed on 29.10.2011. Shri Balram Yadav, has also pointed out that the certified copy of the letter dated 09.09.2011 which has been filed as Annexure at page no.53 shows the same to have been obtained in 2013 certified copy of the Page nos.54 & 55 seem to have been obtained on 25.02.2012. They relate to different documents and they have been combined to show that they relate to one document.

Since it is the insistence of the petitioner that no such manipulations has been done and it is the certified copy of Page no.522 of the record of the Office of Dy. Registrar, Firms, Societies & Chits, Faizabad. Let the record of the office of the Dy. Registrar be produced on 18.09.2019 to enable the Court to come to a definite conclusion with regard to the list submitted through the covering letter dated 09.09.2011 and the list submitted after 29.10.2011, again for the year 2011-12 by Mr. Raghvendra Pratap Singh.
List this matter on 18.09.2019."

19. When the matter was taken up for hearing again on 18.09.2019, this court passed the following order:-

"In pursuance of the order passed earlier by this Court, the record has been produced by the learned Standing Counsel sent from the office of the Deputy Registrar, Firms Societies and Chits, Faizabad (now Ayodhya).

The letter dated 9.9.2011 can be found at Page no.98 of the record, which has been sent by Sri Radhey Raman Dubey of Kedar Nath Shikshan Sansthan, Sonegaon, Akbarpur, District Ambedkar Nagar, in which, it has been stated that the applicant wishes to get the list of members of the Committee of Management for the year 2011-12 registered in the office of the Deputy Registrar. The list submitted as Annexure shows Ram Sanwarey Yadav as Manager of the Samiti and it has been signed by Smt. Girija Singh, Surjit Singh, Rishabh Dev Singh, Dev Mani Verma, Radhey Raman Dubey, Neetu Singh, Ram Asrey Mishra and thumb impression of one Samsira is also appended thereto. A letter dated 11.11.2011 is also on record, which has been sent by Raghvendra Pratap Singh as Deputy Secretary of the Samiti. It informs the Deputy Registrar that a General Body meeting was held on 29.10.2011 and the Committee of Management has been reconstituted thereafter. A copy of the Minutes of the meeting held on 29.10.2011 as well as the amended list of Committee of Management for the year 2011-12 has been prayed to be registered. In the amended list annexed along with the said letter, Radhey Raman Dubey has been shown as Manager and Rajesh Pratap Singh has been shown as Deputy Manager and Raghvendra Pratap Singh as Deputy Secretary.

It is evident from the record that the contention raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner on the basis of pleadings that the Deputy Manager Radhey Raman Dubey had submitted a list even before the meeting held on 29.10.2011, removing the name of Ram Sanwarey Yadav as Manager of the Samiti is incorrect.

Sri Rohit Tripathi has very fairly stated that his client has misinformed him and that his client perhaps was also confused.

Sri Baldev Yadav appearing for the contesting respondents has said that all of the pleadings in the writ petition are based on this apparent inconsistency in the record. There is a deliberate attempt on misrepresentation of correct facts before this Court.

Having heard learned counsel for the parties, judgment is reserved."

20. It is apparent from the perusal of the pleadings on record filed by both the parties and from the record produced by the learned Standing Counsel as available in the office of the Deputy Registrar, Faizabad, that the petitioner resorted to deliberate misrepresentation amounting to fraud being played upon the court.

21. In (1992) 1 SCC 534 (Shrisht Dhawan Vs. Shaw Bros.) the Supreme Court in paragraph 20 has held as under:

"20. Fraud and collusion vitiate even the most solemn proceedings in any civilized system of jurisprudence. It is a concept descriptive of human conduct."

22. In (1994) 1 SCC 1 (S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu Vs. Jagannath) the Supreme Court in paragraph 5 has held as under:

"5.The principle of "finality of litigation" cannot be pressed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants. The courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the court, must come with clean hands. We are constrained to say that more often than not, process of the court is being abused. Property-grabbers, tax-evaders, bank-loan-dodgers and other unscrupulous persons from all walks of life find the court-process a convenient lever to retain the illegal-gains indefinitely. We have no hesitation to say that a person, who's case is based on falsehood, has no right to approach the court. He can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation."

23. In (2003) 8 SCC 319 (Ram Chandra Singh Vs. Savitri Devi and Others) the Supreme Court has held as under:

"15. Commission of fraud on court and suppression of material facts are the core issues involved in these matters. Fraud as is well-known vitiates every solemn act. Fraud and justice never dwells together.

16. Fraud is a conduct either by letter or words, which induces the other person, or authority to take a definite determinative stand as a response to the conduct of former either by word or letter.

17. It is also well settled that misrepresentation itself amounts to fraud. Indeed, innocent misrepresentations may also give reason to claim relief against fraud.

18. A fraudulent misrepresentation is called deceit and consists in leading a man into damage by willfully or recklessly causing him to believe and act on falsehood. It is a fraud in law if a party makes representations which he knows to be false, and injury ensues therefrom although the motive from which the representations proceeded may not have been bad.

23. An act of fraud on court is always viewed seriously. A collusion or conspiracy with a view to deprive the rights of the others in relation to a property would render the transaction void ab initio. Fraud and deception are synonymous."

24. In (2005) 6 SCC 149 (State of U.P. and Another Vs. T. Suryachandra Rao) it was held by the Supreme Court in paragraph-8 as under:

"8. By "fraud" is meant an intention to deceive; whether it is from any expectation of advantage to the party himself or from ill will towards the other is immaterial. The expression "fraud" involves two elements, deceit and injury to the person deceived. Injury is something other than economic loss, that is, deprivation of property, whether movable or immovable or of money and it will include and any harm whatever caused to any person in body, mind, reputation or such others. In short, it is a non-economic or non-pecuniary loss. A benefit or advantage to the deceiver, will almost always call loss or detriment to the deceived. Even in those rare cases where there is a benefit or advantage to the deceiver, but no corresponding loss to the deceived, the second condition is satisfied."

25. In Dalip Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2010 (2) SCC 114, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that "materialism has overshadowed the old ethos and the quest for personal gain has become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood, misrepresentation and suppression of facts in the court proceedings. In the last 40 years, a new creed of litigants has cropped up. Those who belong to this creed do not have any respect for truth. They shamelessly resort to falsehood and unethical means for achieving their goals. In order to meet the challenge posed by this new creed of litigants, the courts have, from time to time, evolved new rules and it is now well established that a litigant, who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands, is not entitled to any relief, interim or final."

26. It referred to several judgments of the Supreme Court like Hari Narain Vs. Badri Das AIR 1963 SC 1558, Welcome Hotel Vs. State of A.P. (1983) 4 SCC 575, G. Narayanaswamy Reddy Vs. Govt. of Karnataka (1991) 3 SCC 261, Prestige Lights Ltd. Vs. S.B.I. (2007) 8 SCC 449, Sunil Poddar Vs. Union Bank of India (2008) 2 SCC 326 and K.D. Sharma Vs. Steel Authority of India Limited (2008) 12 SCC 481, to observe that ".....the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court under Article 32 and of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is extraordinary, equitable and discretionary and it is imperative that the petitioner approaching the writ court must come with clean hands and put forward all the facts before the Court without concealing or suppressing anything and seek an appropriate relief. If there is no candid disclosure of relevant and material facts or the petitioner is guilty of misleading the Court, his petition may be dismissed at the threshold without considering the merits of the claim....."

27. This Court has considered the case of the petitioner on the basis of the pleadings made in the writ petition, the arguments raised before this Court both by the learned counsel for the petitioner and the respondents and it finds that the petitioner resorted to deliberate mis representation to invoke the jurisdiction of this Court.

28. This writ petition is therefore dismissed with a cost of Rs.50,000/-. The cost shall be deposited by the petitioner in the Registry of this Court within one month from today, which shall be forwarded by the Registry to the Child Welfare Committee, Lucknow, to be utilized for the welfare of children in need of care and protection. In case of failure to deposit the aforesaid cost by the petitioner, the Senior Registrar shall request the District Magistrate, Faizabad, to recover the amount from the movable and immovable properties of the petitioner as arrears of land revenue.

Held, the Explanation under Order XXIII Rule 3 of C.P.C. provides that an agreement or a compromise which is void or voidable under the Indian Contract Act shall not be deemed to be lawful within the meaning of this Rule. This Explanation gives a requirement that a compromise should be lawful to become binding. In a Suit under Section 229-B of the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act, the State Government and the Gaon Sabha are necessary parties. If they do not join in the compromise, then it is not a lawful compromise. (Para 52)

This Court has perused Section 341 and the Schedule attached to the Act and finds that there 29 is a specific provision of Second Appeal given in Column-6 against an order passed by the Divisional Commissioner in First Appeal. Because of the specific provision given in the Schedule to the Act and also for the reason that under Section 341(3), both substantive and procedural provisions have been given in the Act itself, which is a special Act, the provisions of the CPC, a general Act would not apply. (para 54) (E-9)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. This writ petition has been filed by the petitioner praying for quashing of the order passed by the opposite party no.1 dated 11.1.2018, upholding the order dated 30.7.2014 passed by the opposite party no.2, and for consequential reliefs.

2. The dispute relates to four plots of land situated in village Laxmanpur, Pargana, Tehsil and District Gonda.

3. It has been stated in the writ petition that initially the four plots of land were recorded in the name of Smt. Ram Raji, widow of Sheetla Prasad. On the death of Smt. Ram Raji, the name of Smt. Sampata, wife of Shiv Prasad being the only daughter, was recorded by the Supervisor, Kanoongo through PA-11 entry. On 6.7.1974, Bhikhu, Ram Sumran and Ram Kumar filed a suit under Section 229B/209 of the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act against Sampata by impleading the State of U.P. and the Gaon Sabha as parties and claiming Bhumidhari rights on the basis of an unregistered Will dated 5.9.1972, alleged to have been executed by Smt. Ram Raji and in the alternative, claimed to be heirs of Smt. Ram Raji being the nephews of her Late husband Shiv Prasad, and denying the existence of Sampata as a daughter of Ram Raji and Sheetla Prasad. The suit was contested by Sampata, who pleaded that she is the only daughter of Smt. Ram Raji and had inherited the property in dispute. The suit was also contested by the State of U.P. by filing written statement.

4. Initially, the trial court decreed the suit by judgment and order dated 20.1.1977 against which order, Sampata filed an Appeal, which was allowed on 6.12.1979 and the suit was dismissed. Against the order dated 6.12.1979, the plaintiffs filed a Second Appeal, which was allowed by judgment and order dated 18.10.1995. The Board of Revenue set aside the order passed by the Additional Commissioner in Appeal and remanded the matter to the Sub Divisional Officer, Tarabganj, Gonda (hereinafter referred to as "the opposite party no.2'). After remand of the suit to the opposite party no.2, the plaintiffs died and were substituted by their legal heirs. Similarly, the defendant Sampata also died and was substituted by her legal heir Kallu Ram, whose name had been recorded in PA-11 by the Supervisor, Kanoongo. Kallu Ram, whose name was recorded in the revenue records as Bhumidhar, executed two Sale Deeds on 31.7.2010 and 6.7.2012 in favour of the petitioner and one Sushila Devi. Kallu Ram also executed a Power of Attorney in favour of the Suraj Lal, husband of Smt. Manju Devi, authorizing him to prosecute the declaratory Suit, which was pending before the opposite party no.2 on behalf of the defendant Kallu Ram. In the meantime, the other purchaser, Smt. Sushila Devi transferred her share of purchased land through a registered Sale Deed on 17.1.2014 in favour of Smt. Manju Devi.

Kallu Ram after executing a Power of Attorney in favour of the husband of the petitioner on 31.7.2010 also executed another Power of Attorney on 21.2.2014 in favour of one Ayodhya Prasad. In the suit that was pending before the opposite party no.2, the plaintiffs made an application before the Collector, Gonda for transfer of the case to another Court and the said application was allowed on 7.7.2014 and the case was transferred from the Court of Sub Divisional Officer, Sadar, Gonda to the Court of Sub Divisional Officer, Tarabganj, Gonda. The record was received on 18.7.2014 and the Court fixed the date of 7.8.2014. The new Power of Attorney holder Ayodhya Prasad filed an application before the opposite party no.2 for preponing the date, which had earlier been fixed as 7.8.2014. The application was allowed and new date was fixed as 23.7.2014. It has been submitted that all this was done behind the back of the petitioner/her husband. After getting the date preponed, Ayodhya Prasad filed a collusive compromise between the plaintiffs and Kallu Ram, who had already sold off all his property and had no right or title or interest left in the same. On the basis of this compromise dated 23.7.2014 entered into by the new Power of Attorney on behalf of Kallu Ram, and the plaintiffs, Kallu Ram abandoned the entire claim in favour of the plaintiffs Bhikhu, Ram Kumar and Ram Sumran and others, and stated that they may be declared as Bhumidhar of the land in dispute. The declaratory Suit was decreed by opposite party no.2 on 30.7.2014, in terms of the compromise.

5. On coming to know of this compromise Decree, the petitioner filed an appeal before the Commissioner, which was allowed on 14.10.2015 and the matter was remanded to the opposite party no.2 to decide afresh after framing issues and after affording opportunity of hearing to all concerned.

6. Being aggrieved by the order passed by the Appellate Court, the opposite party no.3 filed a Second Appeal, which was allowed at the admission stage by the opposite party no.1 without serving the opposite parties therein, on the ground that the transfer was made by Kallu Ram during the pendency of the suit, where there was already a stay order in favour of the plaintiffs, hence, the Sale Deed was void. Further, the transferer Kallu Ram had not filed any Appeal against the judgment dated 30.7.2014 and the transferee pendente lite had no right to file such an appeal.

7. In Para-21 of the writ petition, it has been specifically stated that during the pendency of the suit, there was no restraint order passed by the trial court. It has also been submitted that a Suit for Declaration under Section 229-B of the Act could not have been decreed in terms of the compromise when the State of U.P. and the Gaon Sabha, who were parties to the suit, did not join in the compromise.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon judgments rendered by this Court in Raja Ram and another versus Deputy Director of Consolidation, Siddharth Nagar and others, 2006 (101) RD 121*; Shiv Prasad versus Deputy Director of Consolidation, Ghazipur and others,* 2006 (101) RD 624*; Surendra Narain Dubey versus Deputy Director of Consolidation,* 1973 RD 328*; Smt. Phenki versus Board of Revenue, Allahabad and others,* 2011 Allahabad Civil Journal 2057*; Saral Tiwari alias Jagdish Tiwari versus Board of Revenue, U.P. at Allahabad and others,* 2007(103) RD 54*; and Sita Ram versus Sia Ram, an order of the Board of Revenue, reported in* 1995 RD 161*,* to buttress his arguments.

9. It has been submitted that any person who is aggrieved by the judgment could have filed an appeal and, therefore, the ground taken by the Board of Revenue in its order impugned, is misconceived.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that in Hardevinder Singh versus Paramjit Singh, 2013 AIR SCW 447, and in Deposit Insurance and Credit Guarantee Corporation versus Raghupathi Ragavan and others, 2015 Allahabad Civil Journal 2084, the Supreme Court has held that even if the appellant was not a party in the learned Court below, but he was adversely affected by the judgment and he could file an application for grant of leave and prefer an appeal before the Appellate Court. Additionally, reliance has also been placed upon judgment rendered by this Court in Smt. Lal Dei through LRs and others versus Deputy Director of Consolidation, Varanasi and others, 2005 Allahabad Civil Journal 1908.

11. It has further been submitted by Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner, that a Second Appeal before the Board of Revenue against an order of remand passed in First Appeal was not maintainable.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in M/s. Jethanand and Sons versus the State of U.P. AIR 1961 SC 794, where the Supreme Court has held that an order is final if it amounts to a final decision relating to the rights of the parties in a dispute in civil proceedings. If after the order of remand, the civil proceedings still remain to be tried and the rights in dispute between the parties have still to be determined by the trial court, the order is not a final order within the meaning of Article 133 of the Constitution of India and the order remanding the case is not a judgment, Decree or final order against which, a regular Second Appeal would lie.

13. It has been submitted by the petitioner's counsel that the order of remand, which was passed by the Additional Commissioner was an order passed under Rule 23A of Order XLI of the Code of Civil Procedure (hereinafter referred to as "CPC') and against such an order of remand, only FAFO would lie before the Board of Revenue and for the said proposition of law, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon a judgment rendered by this Court in Mani Ram and others versus Viresh Kumar and others, 1985 RD 375.

14. It has been further argued that under Section 341 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act (hereinafter referred to as "U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act'), the provisions of the CPC are applicable on the proceedings under the Act, unless expressly provided otherwise. Elaborating his argument, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that a perusal of Schedule-II attached to the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act and Item no.34 would show that in such a case, a regular Second Appeal would not lie.

15. In the counter affidavit filed by the private respondents, the writ petition has been opposed as not being maintainable on behalf of Manju Devi, as she purchased the land in dispute pendente lite. It has been submitted that the Sale Deeds executed by Kallu Ram were void, as the matter was subjudice before the Revenue Courts for declaration of his rights over the property in question and there was already a stay on the sale of the property. The petitioner had knowledge of the pending litigation, as her husband was given Power of Attorney by Kallu Ram on 31.7.2010 to prosecute the suit pending in the Court of Sub Divisional Officer, Gonda. The petitioner made no attempt to get impleaded as a party to the said suit. Kallu Ram revoked the Power of Attorney given to the husband of the petitioner and executed a fresh Power of Attorney on 21.2.2014, appointing Ayodhya Prasad and the subsequent Power of Attorney being valid, Ayodhya Prasad rightly moved an application on behalf of Kallu Ram for settling the dispute on the basis of a compromise entered into between the legal heirs of the erstwhile plaintiffs and the legal heir of the erstwhile defendant.

16. It has been submitted that the petitioner had no right to challenge the compromise Decree dated 30.7.2014 as Kallu Ram did not challenge such compromise Decree. The appeal was wrongly entertained by the Additional Commissioner and the order dated 14.10.2015 was without jurisdiction, therefore, the respondents filed a Second Appeal, which was rightly entertained and allowed by the Board of Revenue. The petitioner was neither a person aggrieved nor had filed any application seeking leave to file appeal. The respondents had continued possession of their share of the property in question.

17. In the course of arguments, Sri Amarendra Nath Tripathi, appearing for the private respondents has refuted the argument raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner that no Second Appeal against an order of remand simpliciter was maintainable under Order XLI Rule 23A of the CPC.

18. Learned counsel for the respondents has read out Section 341 of the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act to say that the provisions of the CPC shall be applicable to the proceedings under the Act, unless otherwise provided for.

19. Learned counsel for the respondents has read out Section 331 also of the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act and has pointed out that the competent Courts are mentioned in Column-4 of Schedule-II, which have been designated to deal with certain types of Suits as mentioned in the Schedule. Reference has also been made to Column-5, which deals with first Appellate Court and thereafter, Section 331(4) of the Act has been read out to show how and where a Second Appeal can be filed against an order of the first Appellate Court i.e. before a Court mentioned in Column-6 of Schedule-II. It has been submitted that since the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act has substantive as well as procedural provisions, no forum of appeal could be created by the CPC, which is not provided in the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act itself.

20. Learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance upon judgment rendered in Jagdish and others versus Shaukeen and others, (2006) 100 RD 175, to argue that the provisions of CPC would not be applicable when there is a specific provision contained in U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act with regard to filing of Suit under Section 229-B for declaration of Bhumidhari or Sirdari rights or for ejectment under Section 209.

21. It has further been submitted that if the counsel for the petitioner is relying upon the CPC instead of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act, then under Section 96(3) of the CPC, no appeal against a compromise Decree could have been filed. Therefore, the First Appeal filed by the petitioner before the Court of Additional Commissioner was also not maintainable. In the alternative, if the learned counsel for the petitioner says that Section 96(3) is not applicable, then Order XLI Rule 23A would also not be applicable.

22. Learned counsel for the respondents has also pointed out that the argument with regard to the State of U.P. and the Gaon Sabha being essential signatories to the compromise under Section 229-B of the Act is also misconceived. A suit under section 229-B of the Act is only for those rights as are conferred under the Act itself. No new right was being asked for, by the plaintiffs. Ram Raji, the widow of Sheetla Prasad was already a Bhumidhar and the dispute related only to succession of a recorded tenure holder as it was claimed by the plaintiffs that Sampata was not the daughter of Ram Raji and Sheetla Prasad. It was nobody"s case that the Gaon Sabha and the State Government were not the owners of the land in question.

23. Learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance upon Saral Tiwari alias Jagadish Tiwari versus Board of Revenue, U.P. at Allahabad and others, (2007) 103 RD 54 and Raja Ram and another versus Joint Director of Consolidation, Allahabad and others, AIR 1993 Allahabad 72, to buttress his argument that the requirement of the State or Gaon Sabha being a party in a Compromise is only when fresh rights are claimed from the State or the Gaon Sabha.

24. Additionally, it has been argued that the Sale Deeds were executed on 31.7.2010 and 6.7.2012 by Kallu Ram and a Power of Attorney in favour of husband of the petitioner was also executed on 31.7.2010, giving him the authority to prosecute the pending Suit for Declaration in the Court of the Sub Divisional Officer, as is evident from the language of the Power of Attorney itself. It is evident that the Sale Deeds were subsequent to the filing of the Suit and, therefore, subservient to the rights of the defendant therein. The property was purchased by the petitioner during pendency of the Suit and during currency of an interim stay on alienation of property by the Court concerned, therefore, the doctrine of lis pendens under Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act would apply.

25. Learned counsel for the respondents has also placed reliance upon Guruswamy Nadar versus P. Lakshmi Ammal, (2008) 5 SCC 796 and Smt. Ram Peary and others versus Gauri and others, AIR 1978 Allahabad 318, to buttress his argument.

26. Learned counsel for the respondents has submitted that the subsequent Power of Attorney executed in favour of Ayodhya Prasad was validly executed by Kallu Ram and in the said Power of Attorney, the earlier one was specifically revoked. It is not the case of the petitioner that the Power of Attorney issued in favour of the husband of the petitioner was irrevocable. Moreover, the subsequent Power of Attorney was a registered one, whereas the earlier Power of Attorney made out in favour of Suraj Lal was an unregistered document. Moreover, the Power of Attorney was made out in favour of Suraj Lal in 2010 and in favour of Ayodhya Prasad in 2014, and that for four long years, no application for impleadment was filed by Manju Devi despite knowledge of the pending Suit at the time when the Sale Deed had been executed. The recorded tenure holder was already dead and Kallu Ram had been impleaded as the defendant, but his right had not yet been confirmed. Also, the suit was pending since 1974 and the compromise was filed in 2014. In between, forty years had elapsed, but no attempt was made by the defendant to produce any evidence that Sampata was the daughter of the recorded tenure holder Ram Raji.

27. It has also been submitted by the respondents' counsel that Kallu Ram could have sold only that over which, he had ownership. The ownership of the plot in question was not declared by the competent Court. Kallu Ram only had a PA-11 entry in his name, which conferred no right. The mutation proceedings had indeed been decided in favour of Sampata in 1974, but mutation itself does not confer any right, title or interest in the property in question when a regular Declaratory Suit has been filed, which is pending.

28. It has further been submitted that when the Appeal was filed by Manju Devi before the Additional Commissioner against the compromise Decree, saying that no compromise Decree could have been validly made without the Gaon Sabha and the State Government being signatories to the compromise, neither the Gaon Sabha nor the State Government filed any Appeal against the compromise Decree. If they were aggrieved, they did not challenge the order and it became final against them also. It has been argued that the Gaon Sabha and the State Government were only proforma parties and had no stake in the pending Declaratory Suit, as is evident from their subsequent conduct.

29. It has also been submitted by the learned counsel for the respondents that the compromise was filed on 23.7.2014 and the Suit was decreed on 30.7.2014. No objections were filed, either by Manju Devi or the Gaon Sabha or the State Government to the said compromise. If the compromise Decree had been passed without their knowledge, the proper remedy would have been to file an application for recall of the order and the First Appeal was not maintainable by Manju Devi alone.

30. Learned counsel for the respondents has also argued that if the compromise was collusive in nature, it could have been challenged in a separate Suit by the petitioner and the First Appeal was not maintainable.

31. Learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance upon a judgement rendered in Y. Sleebachen and others versus State of Tamil Nadu and another, (2015) 5 SCC 747, to say that against a compromise Decree, the party aggrieved should have approached the Court of first instance and it was not open to it to file an appeal.

32. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioner, in rejoinder, has submitted that Section 229-B of the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act relates to declaration of right against the recorded tenure holder. Sub-section (3) by its language itself makes it clear that the State Government and the Gaon Sabha are necessary parties. Notice under Section 80 of CPC/Section 106 of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act is necessary. The Declaratory Suit filed against the recorded tenure holder i.e. Sampata did not deny the title of Ram Raji, but denied that Sampata was the daughter.

33. Learned counsel for the petitioner has read out the plaint of the Suit filed as Annexure to the writ petition along with its relief clause and has argued that the plaintiffs were claiming Bhumidhari rights over a certain plot of land and Sirdari rights on the other plots of land. The ground for such claims was that Ram Raji, the erstwhile recorded tenure holder, had made out a Will in their favour and also that Sampata was not the daughter of Ram Raji and Sheetla Prasad, and on the death of the couple, plaintiffs being the nephews of Sheetla Prasad, were entitled to succession. In such a suit, if the parties agreed to a compromise and the defendant abandoned his claim, then it would only mean that the plaintiffs became Bhumidhar/Sirdar. It would result in a fresh declaration of a right of Bhumidhar or Sirdar, not only against the defending private persons, but also against the world at large, including the State and the Gaon Sabha. Sampata was already a recorded tenure holder in PA-11 and had also won the mutation proceedings upto the stage of Revision. If the suit failed, then Sampata would have remained the Bhumidhar and if the suit was allowed, then Ram Sumran and others would have become Bhumidhar.

34. It has also been argued that fraud and justice cannot go hand-in-hand. Once Kallu Ram had sold off the property in question, he had no right to enter into a compromise with the plaintiffs, as he had no interest left in the property. Moreover, if the property was being conveyed through a compromise, then it was compulsorily to be registered under Section 17 of the Registration Act.

35. It has also been argued by the petitioner's counsel that the Suit was transferred from the Court of Sub Divisional Officer, Sadar to the Court of Sub Divisional Officer, Tarabganj and a date of 7.8.2014 was fixed, which was preponed for extraneous consideration and a compromise was filed on 23.7.2014 and the Suit itself was decreed in terms of the compromise on 30.7.2014. In such a short period of time, neither the Gaon Sabha nor the State could file any objections thereto.

36. Learned counsel for the petitioner has pointed out the part of the order passed by the first Appellate Court, on Page 64 and 65 of the paper book and has argued that no finding has been returned by the Board of Revenue with regard to the specific statements made in the order of First Appeal against the conduct of the respondents.

37. It has also been submitted that Ayodhya Prasad, the subsequent Power of Attorney, bought the land in question from the private respondents in favour of his own father on 7.8.2014 soon after the Suit was decreed in favour of the respondents. A copy of the Sale Deed has been produced, which shows that Lalta Prasad, father of Ayodhya Prasad had bought two plots of land in dispute.

38. It has been submitted that since the Suit had been filed by the plaintiffs, the burden of proof was also on them. It has again been reiterated that under Section 341 of the Act, an order of remand is an order under Rule 23A of Order XLI of CPC and no Second Appeal would lie against such an order, but only an FAFO could have been entertained by the Board of Revenue.

39. It has further been submitted that under Order XXIII Rule 3 of the CPC, "parties to the compromise decree" cannot file an appeal against the same. However, the petitioner was not a party to the compromise and it was entered behind her back and to the prejudice of her interest. The vendor had deprived the Vendee of the right to property bought in exchange of valuable consideration. It has also been submitted that the doctrine of lis pendens does not mean that a Sale Deed executed during the pendency of litigation would automatically become void. It only means that the transferee shall step into the shoes of the transferer and his rights shall be subservient to the rights of the parties as determined in the suit.

40. Having heard the parties at length, this Court has also perused the pleadings on record. It appears that Bhikhu, Ram Sumran and Ram Kumar, sons of Ram Prasad had filed a Suit for Declaration under Section 229-B of the Act and for ejectment under Section 209 of the Act against Sampata, wife of Shiv Prasad, who was substituted by her son Kallu Ram. During the pendency of the said Suit, the Gaon Sabha, Laxmanpur through its Pradhan was the defendant no.2, and the State of U.P. through the Deputy Commissioner, Gonda was the defendant no.3. In the said Suit, it was alleged that one Dhondey was the original tenure holder, who had two sons; Sheetla Prasad and Ram Prasad. Sheetla Prasad was married to Smt. Ram Raji and they were issue-less. Ram Prasad had three sons, i.e. the plaintiffs. On certain plot of land in village Laxmanpur, the mother of defendant no.1 Ram Raji was recorded as Bhumidhar and on other plots of land, she was recorded as Sirdar and on still other plots of land, she was recorded as co-Sirdar along with the plaintiffs. On the death of Smt. Ram Raji, the plaintiffs claimed that being the nephews, they succeeded on one plot in question as Bhumidhar, and on all the remaining land as Sirdar. Also, that Ram Raji had made out a Will dated 5.9.1972 in favour of the plaintiffs also. It was also alleged that the defendant no.1 Sampata was not the daughter/legal heir of Ram Raji and Sheetla Prasad, but without any basis, she claimed to be their legal heir and successor. The plaintiffs had filed an application for mutation and correction of papers in the Court of Tehsildar, which application was rejected on 10.9.1972 against which, the plaintiffs had filed a Revision, which was also rejected on 23.3.1974. Hence, the need arose to file a Suit for Declaration and the same was actually filed on 6.7.1974. In Paragraph 8 of the Suit, it had been mentioned that defendant nos.2 and 3, as per statutory provisions, were necessary parties and had been given notice under Section 106 of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act read with Section 80 of CPC and despite service of notice on 26.4.1974, the defendant nos.2 and 3 had neither replied to the notice nor had recognized the rights of the plaintiffs as Bhumidhar/Sirdar of the property in question. In the prayer clause, a decree/declaration of Bhumidhari/Sirdari rights over the property in question was sought against all the defendants. Also, a decree of ejectment of the defendant no.1 was sought under Section 209 of the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act.

41. Initially the said Suit was decreed in favour of the plaintiffs against which, Sampata filed a First Appeal before the Court of Commissioner of Faizabad Division, Faizabad. The First Appeal was allowed on 6.12.1979. Aggrieved by the order passed in First Appeal, dismissing the Suit of the plaintiffs, the plaintiffs had filed a Second Appeal, which was allowed by the Board of Revenue on 18.10.1995, remanding the matter back to the Court of the Sub Divisional Officer, Sadar, Gonda with the direction that issues be framed and evidence be taken afresh of all parties concerned. After remand of the Suit, the plaintiffs died and were substituted by their legal heirs. The defendant no.1 also died and was substituted by her son Kallu Ram. Kallu Ram after selling off the property in dispute initially made out a Power of Attorney in favour of the husband of the petitioner so that he may pursue the pending litigation on 31.7.2010. Later on, a fresh Power of Attorney was executed by him in favour of one Ayodhya Prasad, who moved an application on 23.7.2014 before the trial court that the parties had willingly entered into a compromise to settle the Suit out of court.

42. In the compromise, mention was made of a fresh Power of Attorney executed in favour of Ayodhya Prasad in 2014, but neither the petitioner nor the respondents herein have filed a copy of the Power of Attorney so executed in favour of Ayodhya Prasad in this Court.

43. The Sub Divisional Officer by his order dated 30.7.2014, first mentioned the brief facts relating to the litigation and thereafter referred to the compromise filed before him on 23.7.2014 and thereafter, decreed the Suit in terms of the compromise, which was directed to become part of the order.

44. Learned counsel for the private respondents has pointed out from the contents of the compromise dated 23.7.2014 that Kallu Ram not only gave up his right to the property in question, but also admitted that his mother Sampata was not the daughter of Ram Raji and Sheetla Prasad. In the said compromise, mention has also been made of the fact that on the property in dispute, the plaintiffs alone had possession and that Kallu Ram was in no way interested in the property in question nor had possession over it.

45. The contents of the compromise filed in the Court of Sub Divisional Officer show that Kallu Ram gave up the claim of Sampata to be the daughter of Ram Raji and Sheetla Prasad. He also gave up all of his claim therefore, to the property in question. He undermined the very basis of his ownership of the property in dispute, which he had already sold off by two Sale deeds in the year 2010 and 2012. He in effect rendered himself open to be prosecuted for knowingly committing fraud with the transferee pendente lite and apparently for no good reason, as in the compromise, he gave up all his rights without getting anything in return. Such a compromise was highly unlikely to have been entered into with the knowledge of Kallu Ram. The application for taking the compromise on record was signed by Ayodhya Prasad, the new Power of Attorney holder and for disposing of the case also. The order sheet was signed only by Ayodhya Prasad, alleging that Kallu Ram was not available at the time.

46. It has come to the notice of the Court that Kallu Ram also sold off the very same property, which he had already disposed off in 2010 and 2012 through registered Sale Deeds, in favour of the father of Ayodhya Prasad, one Lalta Prasad on 7.8.2014 soon after the Declaratory Suit was disposed of on the basis of the compromise Decree.

47. The basic question that arises for decision of this dispute is whether such a compromise, which was not signed either by the Gaon Sabha or the Collector on behalf of State Government, could have been relied upon by the trial court to decide the matter.

48. Apparently, the date fixed by the trial court for hearing of the case in the presence of the parties was 7.8.2014. Later on, on an application moved by Ayodhya Prasad behind the back of the petitioner, it was preponed to 23.7.2014. On 23.7.2014, the compromise was filed in Court and on 30.7.2014, the Suit was decreed in favour of the plaintiffs on the basis of the compromise. The State Government impleaded through the Deputy Collector and the Gaon Sabha impleaded through the Gram Pradhan, were contesting defendants, as the relief claimed in the Prayer clause of the Suit was also for a declaration of Bhumidhari rights and Sirdari rights against all the defendants. This Court has noticed Para-8 of the plaint, where a specific averment in this regard was made.

49. This Court has already held in Jag Ram and another vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Gonda and others: Writ Petition No.459 (Consolidation) of 2002, decided today i.e. 28.05.2020, that no such compromise could have been made the basis of decreeing the suit by the trial court.

50. In the case of Parsottam vs. Narottam; 1970 ALJ 505, it was held by the Division Bench that a suit for declaration of Bhumidhari or Sirdari rights is to be filed against the State Government and the Gaon Sabha and any other person who claims Bhumidhari or Sirdari rights, in such land has to be impleaded as a party. It was held that the State Government and the Gaon Sabha are necessary parties to such a suit and, therefore, any Decree on the basis of compromise without their consent could be validly ignored by the Consolidation Authorities. The appellants therein claimed themselves to be Bhumidhars. The dispute whether the defendant-respondents were still Sirdars had to be adjudicated only in a suit under Section 229-B where the State Government and the Gaon Sabha were also necessary parties. The Revenue Court was not competent to look into the agreement between the parties and to give effect to it in view of the clear provisions of sub-section (3) of Section 229-B. It is well settled that there is no estoppel against the statute. If the statute requires that declaration of rights of a Sirdar can take place only in the presence of the State Government and the Gaon Sabha, then an agreement in the absence of these parties would be violative of such a statutory provision.

51. In Saral Tiwari alias Jagdish Tiwari (supra), a co-ordinate Bench of this Court was considering whether a compromise between the parties in a Suit for Declaration of Bhumidhari rights under Section 229-B of the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act, which was not signed by the Gaon Sabha or the State, could result in a valid Decree. The Court considered this fact that the plaintiff was seeking tenancy right in the land in dispute on the basis of possession. It was not a case where declaration of already existing tenancy right was being claimed by the plaintiff whose name even though he was in possession, was not recorded in the Khatauni for some reason. This Court held that tenancy rights being regulated by the provisions of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act, a fresh tenancy right could not be created in favour of a person on the basis of a compromise without Gaon Sabha and the State either conceding or being signatories to the said compromise.

52. The Explanation under Order XXIII Rule 3 of C.P.C. provides that an agreement or a compromise which is void or voidable under the Indian Contract Act shall not be deemed to be lawful within the meaning of this Rule. This Explanation gives a requirement that a compromise should be lawful to become binding. In a Suit under Section 229-B of the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act, the State Government and the Gaon Sabha are necessary parties. If they do not join in the compromise, then it is not a lawful compromise.

53. This Court is not convinced with the argument made by the learned counsel for the petitioner that only an FAFO was maintainable before the Board of Revenue and not a second appeal under Order XLI, Rule 23A of CPC.

54. This Court has perused Section 341 and the Schedule attached to the Act and finds that there is a specific provision of Second Appeal given in Column-6 against an order passed by the Divisional Commissioner in First Appeal. Because of the specific provision given in the Schedule to the Act and also for the reason that under Section 341(3), both substantive and procedural provisions have been given in the Act itself, which is a special Act, the provisions of the CPC, a general Act would not apply.

55. Now coming to the argument raised by the learned counsel for the respondents that the First Appeal itself was not maintainable before the Divisional Commissioner against the compromise Decree by a person, who was not a party to the Suit proceedings. This Court has carefully perused the judgment relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondents, namely, Y. Sleebachen (supra). A perusal of the same would show that the Supreme Court was considering a matter arising out of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. Three awards were passed in favour of the contractor against which, the State-respondents filed appeals, which were pending. During the pendency of the Appeals, a proposal to negotiate an out of Court settlement was mooted. During the negotiations, no definite amicable solution could be reached between the parties. As a result, the Appellate Court proceeded to hear the arguments. When the matter was being argued before the District Judge, the contractor came out with a proposal where he agreed to give certain concessions, which had earlier been asked for by the State, but had been refused by him. The District Government Pleader found that the action of the contractor was fair and just and, therefore, accepted the proposal of the contractor and the District Judge passed three consent Decrees. Before the High Court, it was pleaded that the District Government Pleader was not authorized to enter into any such settlement. The High Court set aside the consent Decree passed by the District Judge. The Supreme Court in Appeal filed by the contractor against the order of the High Court made certain observations that if the consent Decree contained certain concessions, which had not actually been agreed upon by the State Government and that the Government Pleader was not actually authorized to record the compromise on its behalf, then the State Government should have approached the District Judge concerned who had passed the consent Decree. The Supreme Court observed that it is not even remotely suggested in any of the grounds taken before the High Court that the Government Pleader had acted improperly. On the contrary, it was suggested that there was a failure of the compromise or that no compromise was recorded or agreed upon before the Court. The contents of the compromise itself being doubted, the Supreme Court observed that it is contrary to the record of the Appellate Court, and the statements recorded in the judgment of the District Judge, which was an impermissible ground of challenge raised for the first time in Appeal. The Supreme Court relied upon the observations made by the Court in State of Maharashtra versus Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak, (1982) 2 SCC 463, to observe that matters of judicial record are unquestionable. They are not open to doubt, and that they were bound to accept the statement of the Judge recorded in the judgment as to what transpired in Court. If a party thinks that the happenings in Court have been wrongly recorded in the judgment, it is incumbent upon such a party, while the matter is still fresh in the mind of the Judge, to call the attention of the very Judge, who had made the record, to the fact that the statement made with regard to his conduct was a statement that had been made in error. That is the only way to have the record corrected. If no such step is taken, the matter necessarily ends there. It observed that since no application was filed by the respondents before the District Judge immediately after the passing of the Decrees in terms of the compromise, or even thereafter, for recall of the compromise Decree with a plea that such a compromise was unacceptable to the Government and the Government Pleader was not authorized to enter into such settlement, the High Court could not have looked into such a ground raised for the first time in Appeal. This judgment of the Supreme Court is distinguishable and not applicable to the facts of the instant case.

56. The judgments cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner with regard to the permissibility of a person, not being a party to the proceedings to file an Appeal, if his rights are affected, are more in line with the general principles of law that any aggrieved person, may file an appeal, if his rights are being prejudiced or affected.

57. In the case of Hardevinder Singh (supra), the Supreme Court observed in Paragraphs 13, 14, 15 and 19 of the judgment thus:-

"13. Presently, it is apt to note that Sections 96 and 100 of the Code make provisions for preferring an appeal from any original decree or from a decree in an appeal respectively. The aforesaid provisions do not enumerate the categories of persons who can file an appeal. If a judgment and decree prejudicially affects a person, needless to emphasise, he can prefer an appeal. In this context, a passage from Smt. Jatan Kanwar Golcha v. M/s. Golcha Properties Private Ltd. [(1970) 3 SCC 573 : AIR 1971 SC 374] is worth noting:

"It is well settled that a person who is not a party to the suit may prefer an appeal with the leave of the appellate Court and such leave should be granted if he would be prejudicially affected by the judgment."

14. In State of Punjab v. Amar Singh and another [(1974) 2 SCC 70 : AIR 1974 SC 994], Sarkaria, J., while dealing with the maintainability of an appeal by a person who is not a party to a decree or order, has stated thus:

"84. Firstly, there is a catena of authorities which, following the doctrine of Lindley, L.J., in re Securities Insurance Co., (1894) 2 Ch 410 have laid down the rule that a person who is not a party to a decree or order may with the leave of the Court, prefer an appeal from such decree or order if he is either bound by the order or is aggrieved by it or is prejudicially affected by it. As a rule, leave to appeal will not be refused to a person who might have been made ex nominee a party- see Province of Bombay v. W.I. Automobile Association, AIR 1949 Bom 141; Heera Singh v. Veerka, AIR 1958 Raj 181 and Shivaraya v. Siddamma, AIR 1963 Mys 127; Executive Officer v. Raghvan Pillai, AIR 1961 Ker 114. In re B, an Infant (1958) QB 12; Govinda Menon v. Madhavan Nair, AIR 1964 Ker 235."

15. In Baldev Singh v. Surinder Mohan Sharma and others [(2003) 1 SCC 34], a three Judge- Bench opined that an appeal under Section 96 of the Code would be maintainable only at the instance of a person aggrieved by and dissatisfied with the judgment and decree. In the said case, while dealing with the concept of "person aggrieved', the Bench observed thus:

"A person aggrieved to file an appeal must be one whose right is affected by reason or the judgment and decree sought to be impugned. It is not the contention of Respondent 1 that in the event the said judgment and decree is allowed to stand, the same will cause any personal injury to him or shall affect his interest otherwise."

19. At this juncture, we may usefully reproduce a passage from Banarsi and others (AIR 2009 SC 1989 : 2003 AIR SCW 1494) (supra) wherein it has been stated thus:-

"Sections 96 and 100 CPC make provision for an appeal being preferred from every original decree or from every decree passed in appeal respectively; none of the provisions enumerates the person who can file an appeal. However, it is settled by a long catena of decisions that to be entitled to file an appeal the person must be one aggrieved by the decree. Unless a person is prejudicially or adversely affected by the decree he is not entitled to file an appeal. See Phoolchand v. Gopal Lal [AIR 1967 SC 1470], Jatan Kumar Golcha v. Golcha Properties (P) Ltd. (AIR 1971 SC 374)(supra) and Ganga Bai v. Vijay Kumar (AIR 1974 SC 1126)(supra). No appeal lies against a mere finding. It is significant to note that both Sections 96 and 100 CPC provide for an appeal against decree and not against judgment."

(Emphasis supplied)

58. A coordinate Bench of this Court in Smt. Lal Dei (supra), observed in Paragraphs 14, 15 and 16 thus:

"14. Similarly, in another decision given in case of Bramadeo (supra), this Court was ceased with similar issue and in this decision also the matter was considered in detail which will also be useful to be quoted here. The analysis as made in paras 8 to 11 in this judgment is quoted here:- (All. CJ p.355)

"8. At this stage I consider it proper to have Dictionary meaning of word 'Party'. In view of dictum in P.B. Samant v. A.R. Antuley, dictionary meaning of a word can be ascertained to have correct interpretation. In Webster Third New International Dictionary word 'Party' denotes one directly disclosed by record to be so involved in the prosecution of defence of a proceeding as to be bound by the decision or judgment therein; one indirectly disclosed by the record as being directly interested in the subject-matter of a suit or as having power to make a defence or control the proceedings or appeal from the judgment meaning of 'Party' is.

9. According to 'Bourvier's Law Dictionary' 'Parties' in law may be said to be those united in interest in the performance of an act. That term includes every party to an act. In equity all persons materially interested, either legally or beneficially in the subject-matter of a suit, are to be made parties to it, either as plaintiff or defendant so that there may be a complete decree that may bind them all (see Christian v. R. Co.). It is not indispensable that all the parties should have an interest in all the mattes contained in the suit, but it is sufficient if each party has an interest in some material matter in suit, and it is connected with the orders (see Brown v. Safe Deposit Co). In the absence of parties and without their having an opportunity to be heard, a Court is without jurisdiction to make an adjudication affecting them. Active parties are those who are so involved in the subject-matter in controversy that no decree can be made without their being in Court. Passive parties are those whose interests are involved in granting complete relief to those who ask it.

10. According to Words and Phrases (Permanent Edition) Volume 31 in its broadest meaning, the word party includes one concerned with, conducting, or taking part in any matter or proceeding, whether he is named or participates as formed party or not. A party to a judicial proceedings is one whose interest in subject matter, whether favourable or adverse is such that his presence on the record is either necessary or proper.

11. In view of the aforesaid meaning of the word 'party' it is evidence that if a person is concerned with conducting or taking part in any matter or proceeding he is a party even though he may not have been impleaded or made a party by the objector. Further the words under Section 11 of the Act are, 'any party' and not 'any person impleaded as party'. Legislature cannot make such provision that if an interested person is not made a party by the objector he cannot file an appeal; and he is helpless. Assuming he does not file an appeal he shall have to file an objection afresh which would be barred by Section 11-A in case he files a civil suit for cancellation of the order of the Consolidation Officer or Assistant Consolidation Officer that can abate under Section 5. In case he does not file an appeal or objection during consolidation operation, and if he prefers to file a suit after denotification under Section 52, his suit would be barred by Section 49 of the Act. By enacting Section 11 and using word 'any party' the intention of the Legislature cannot be to deprive a person from right of appeal. The interpretation of a particular statutory provision has to be effective and operative. I am accordingly, of the view that petitioners have a right of appeal even though they were not impleaded as a party in the objection filed by Smt. Rama Devi, respondent No. 4."

15. In these cases it was held that appeal filed by any aggrieved person is maintainable.

16. In another decision, in case of Sumer Chandra (supra) again the matter was considered and it was held that appeal by any aggrieved person is maintainable. In this decision reliance has been placed on the decision given by the Apex Court in case of Jatan Kunwar Golcha v. Golcha Properties Pvt. Limited., 1971 SC 374 and AIR 1979 Orissa, page 175. The extract of paras 18 and 19 will be useful to be noticed here-

"18. In Abdul Rasid Khan v. S.K. Rahimmullam, it has been held that a person who is not a party to the suit may prefer an appeal. Reliance was also placed in the judgment of the Apex Court which is quoted below-

"In Smt. Jatan Kunwar Golcha v. Golcha Properties Pvt. Ltd., AIR 1979 Orissa 175, it has been held that it is well settled that a person who is not a party to the suit may prefer an appeal with the leave of the Appellate Court and such leave should be granted if he would be prejudicially affected by the judgment. This decision has also been followed by a Division Bench of this Court in Teja Singh v. A.D.M. (Executive) Suldargarh. It was open to the petitioner to ask for leave to appeal to the Appellate Court and if he is prejudicially affected, leave was to be granted, as has been held by the Supreme Court in the case referred to above. But the petitioner did not take recourse to his position."

19. In the aforesaid judgment reliance has been placed on the judgment of the Apex Court reported in Smt. Jatan

Kunwar Golcha v. M/s Golcha Properties Pvt. Ltd., AIR 1971 SC 374 (V 58 C 91) (in Liquidation). The relevant portion of the Apex Court is quoted below-

"In our opinion apart from Rule 139 to which reference has been made by the High Court, the Official Liquidator as well as the learned Company Judge were bound by the rules of natural justice to issue a notice to the appellant and hear her before making the order appealed against. If there was default on their part in not following the correct procedure it is wholly incomprehensible how the appellant could be deprived of her right to get her grievance redressed by filing an appeal against the order which had been made in her absence and without her knowledge. It would be a travesty of justice if a party is driven to file a suit which would involve long and cumbersome procedure when an order has been made directly affecting that party and redress can be had by filing an appeal which is permitted by law. It is well settled that a person who is not a party to the suit may prefer an appeal with the leave of the Appellate Court and such leave should be granted if he would be prejudicially affected by the judgment."

(Emphasis supplied)

59. Learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance upon Guruswamy Nadar (supra) to argue that since the land in dispute had been bought by the petitioner during pendency of the Suit for Declaration and ejectment before the Sub Divisional Officer, Gonda, she did not have a right greater than that of the original defendant.

60. This Court has carefully perused the judgment rendered in Guruswamy Nadar (supra), where it was observed that normally as a public policy, once a suit has been filed pertaining to any subject matter of the property, in order to put an end to such kind of litigation, principals of lis pendens has been evolved so that litigation may finally terminate without the intervention of a third party. This is because of public policy, otherwise no litigation will come to an end. Therefore, in order to discourage that same subject matter of property being subjected to subsequent sale to a third person, this kind of transaction is to be checked. Otherwise, litigation will never come to an end.

61. This Court has also perused the judgment in Smt. Ram Peary (supra), which has been affirmed in the judgment of the Supreme Court. However, several judgments of the Supreme Court have dealt with the doctrine of lis pendens in a more comprehensive manner.

62. In the case of Raj Kumar versus Sardari Lal and others, 2004 AIR SCW 470, the doctrine of lis pendens as expressed in Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act was considered by the Supreme Court. The transfer took place during the pendency of the suit, but the Decree passed ex-parte in the suit was sought to be set aside, not by the defendant on record, but by a person, who did not come or was not brought on record promptly, and hence, apparently appeared to be a third party. The Supreme Court observed that such a person in accordance with the principles incorporated in Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act would be a representative-in-interest of the defendant-judgement debtor. Under Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act, a decree passed against the defendant transferor would also be executed against the lis pendens transferee of the defendant, even though he was not a party to the suit. Such a person can prefer an appeal being a person aggrieved. The person who is liable to be proceeded against in execution of the decree can file an appeal against the decree. Such a person can also file an application for recall under Rule 13 of Order IX of the CPC, as such, a person stepped into the shoes of the defendant and the decree was sought to be executed against him. It was held by the Supreme Court that a lis pendens transferee, though not brought on record under Order XXII Rule 10 of CPC, is entitled to move an application under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC to set aside a decree passed against his transferor, the defendant in the suit.

63. In the case of A Nawab John and others versus V.N. Subramaniyam, 2012 AIR SCW 4248, the Supreme Court was considering a case where a specific performance of a registered agreement and delivery of possession was sought by the plaintiff in a suit before the trial court. During the pendency of the suit, the sole respondent V.N. Subramaniam filed an application, praying that he may be impleaded as a party-defendant to the said suit on the ground that he had purchased the suit property. His application for impleadment was allowed and the plaint came to be amended mentioning the details of subsequent events. The Supreme Court examined the background of insertion of the doctrine of lis pendens in Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act. It referred to a judgement rendered by it earlier, reported in (1972) 2 SCC 200, which in turn relied upon "Commentaries on the Laws of Scotland", by Bell, where it was observed that "during pendence of an action of which the object is to vest the property or obtain the possession of the real estate, a purchaser shall be held to take that estate as it stands in the person of the seller, and to be bound by the claims which shall ultimately be pronounced".

64. The Supreme Court referred to the language of Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act and observed in Paragraph-17 that it is settled legal position that the effect of Section 52 is not to render transfers effected during pendency of a suit by a party to the suit void, but only to render such transfers subservient to the rights of the parties to such suit, as may be, eventually, determined in the suit. In other words, the transfer remains valid subject, of course, to the result of the suit. The pendente lite purchaser would be entitled to, or suffer the same legal rights and obligations of his vendor as may be eventually determined by the court. The mere pendency of the suit does not prevent one of the parties to the suit from dealing with the subject matter of the suit. The Section only postulates a condition that the lis pendens alienation will in no manner affect the rights of the other party under any decree, which may be passed in the suit unless the property alienated with the permission of the Court. In Paras 18 and 19 of the said judgment, the Supreme Court observed thus:-

"18. Such being the scope of Section 52, two questions arise: whether a pendente lite purchaser: (1) is entitled to be impleaded as a party to the suit?; (2) once impleaded what are the grounds on which he is entitled to contest the suit.

19. This Court on more than one occasion held that when a pendente lite purchaser seeks to implead himself as a party-defendant to the suit, such application should be liberally considered. This Court also held in Saila Bala Dassi v. Nirmala Sundari Dassi [AIR 1958 SC 394] that, "justice requires", a pendente lite purchaser "should be given an opportunity to protect his rights". It was a case, where the property in dispute had been mortgaged by one of the respondents to another respondent. The mortgagee filed a suit, obtained a decree and "commenced proceedings for sale of the mortgaged property". The appellant Saila Bala, who purchased the property from the judgment-debtor subsequent to the decree sought to implead herself in the execution proceedings and resist the execution. That application was opposed on various counts. This Court opined that Saila Bala was entitled (under Section 146 CPC) to be brought on record to defend her interest because, as a purchaser pendente lite, she would be bound by the decree against her vendor. There is some divergence of opinion regarding the question, whether a pendente lite purchaser is entitled, as a matter of right, to get impleaded in the suit, this Court in Amit Kumar Shaw v. Farida Khatoon [(2005) 11 SCC 403]: (AIR 2005 SC 2209: 2005 AIR SCW 2078), held that:

"Further pending the suit, the transferee is not entitled as of right to be made a party to the suit, though the court has a discretion to make him a party. But the transferee pendente lite can be added as a proper party if his interest in the subject-matter of the suit is substantial and not just peripheral. A transferee pendente lite to the extent he has acquired interest from the defendant is vitally interested in the litigation, where the transfer is of the entire interest of the defendant; the latter having no more interest in the property may not properly defend the suit. He may collude with the plaintiff. Hence, though the plaintiff is under no obligation to make a lis pendens transferee a party, under Order 22 Rule 10 an alienee pendente lite may be joined as party. As already noticed, the court has discretion in the matter which must be judicially exercised and an alienee would ordinarily be joined as a party to enable him to protect his interests. The court has held that a transferee pendente lite of an interest in immovable property is a representative-in-interest of the party from whom he has acquired that interest. He is entitled to be impleaded in the suit or other proceedings where his predecessor-in-interest is made a party to the litigation; he is entitled to be heard in the matter on the merits of the case."

The preponderance of opinion of this Court is that a pendente lite purchaser's application for impleadment should normally be allowed or "considered liberally."

65. In the case of Thomson Press (India) Limited versus Nanak Builders and Investors Private Limited and others 2013 (5) SCC 397, the Supreme Court was considering an appeal arising out of a suit for specific performance of prior agreement to sell filed by the buyer against the original owner/transferor/seller pendente lite. In Paragraph 26 to 29 of the said judgment, the Supreme Court after referring to Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act, observed that transfer during pendency of suit does not automatically render such transfer void. The provisions of the Section only render such transfers subservient to the rights of the parties to a litigation. The transferees acquiring any immovable property during litigation over it, are held to be bound, by application of the doctrine of lis pendens and by the decree passed in the suit even though they may not have been impleaded in it. "The whole object of the doctrine of lis pendens is to subject parties to the litigation, as well as others who seek to acquire rights in immovable property, which are the subject matter of litigation, to the power and jurisdiction of the Court so as to prevent the object of a pending action from being defeated." The Supreme Court further observed in Paragraphs 55 and 56 that a transferee pendente lite can be added as a party to the suit lest the transferee suffered prejudice on account of the transferor losing interest in the litigation post such transfer. Sometimes a transferor pendente lite may not even defend the title properly as he has no interest in the same or may collude with the plaintiff in which case the interest of the purchaser pendente lite will be ignored. To avoid such situations, transferee pendente lite can be added as a party defendant to the suit provided his interest is substantial and not just peripheral. This is particularly so where the transferee pendente lite acquires the interest in the entire estate that forms the subject matter of the dispute.

66. It is evident from a careful consideration of latest judgments of the Supreme Court dealing with Section 52 of Transfer of Property Act that the Supreme Court has emphasized that a transferee pendente lite is not void ab initio. It only makes such transfer subject to the rights of the parties finally determined. Also, if the transferee pendente lite can prove that the Decree had been obtained on collusion by the plaintiffs and the original defendant, the transferor pendente lite, such transferee is entitled to file Recall application or an Appeal against such a Decree on showing the Court that its interest had been prejudicially affected by failure of the transferor pendente lite to properly defend the action. Hence, this Court holds that Smt. Manju Devi was entitled to file the First Appeal before the Court of the Additional Commissioner against the compromise Decree dated 30.7.2014. The private respondents have been unable to produce any interim order of the trial court prohibiting alienation without permission of the Court.

67. Also, when the First Appeal was being heard by the Additional Commissioner, the Gaon Sabha and the State had filed objections to the compromise Decree that it could not have been passed without their participation in terms of Section 229-B(3) of the Act. If the Gaon Sabha and the State Government were not parties to the compromise, the trial court could not have decreed the Suit in their absence. The compromise Decree dated 30.7.2014 was rightly set aside by the First Appellate Court. The Second Appeal though maintainable before the Board of Revenue was improperly allowed by it only on the ground that transferee lis pendens is void.

68. The judgment and order passed by respondent no.1 dated 11.1.2018 is hence, liable to be set aside and is set aside.

69. The order of the Additional Commissioner in First Appeal dated 14.10.2015 being affirmed by this Court, the matter is remanded to the Court of the Sub Divisional Officer, Tarabganj, Gonda, who shall, after framing issues, give a reasonable opportunity of hearing to all concerned, including the subsequent purchasers, and pass appropriate orders in accordance with law within a period of six months from the date, a certified copy of this order is produced before him, as the Suit for Declaration was initially filed in his Court on 6.7.1974.

70. The writ petition stands allowed.

Civil Law-Tender for procurement of medicines under Ayush Mission-eligibility criteria-average turnover of Rs. 5 Crore in last three years with total turnover of Rs, 15 Crore—condition of minimum turnover existed prior- and depend on volume of procurement and other requirements-no malafide proved- W.P. dismissed.

Held, It is not a case where there is overnight change in the condition of the Tender rather in the last year also, the condition of minimum turnover was existing though the prior turnover required was of Rs. 9 crore. The minimum turnover criteria depend on the volume of procurement and other requirements. Interference therein be made if mala fide exists to favour someone. We have already expressed our opinion on the aforesaid. A case of mala fide or favour is not made out. (para 38) (E-9)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Munishwar Nath Bhandari, J, Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Prashant Chandra, Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner, Sri Savitra Vardhan Singh, learned counsel for opposite party nos. 1 & 2, Sri Shobhit Mohan Shukla, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 4 and learned standing counsel for the State.

2. By this writ petition, a challenge is made to Clause 46(4) of the Tender Specification dated 16.01.2020.

3. It is a case where side opposite floated tender to procure the medicines under Ayush Mission. The tender was floated on 16.01.2020 containing certain terms and conditions. A challenge to Clause 46 (4) of the Tender has been made, as it requires average turnover of 5 crore in last three years with total turnover of Rs. 15 crore in the year 2016-17, 2017-18 & 2018-19.

4. Challenge to the eligibility condition is on requirement of the prior turnover. It is mainly in reference to the Government order dated 10.03.2016 under para 16 of the Public Procurement Policy for Micro and Small Enterprises order of 2012 (in short 'the order of 2012'). It was to relax the condition of prior experience and prior turnover criteria. A reference of Para 4 of the said order has been given to show a direction to the Central Ministries/Departments/Public Sector Undertakings to relax the requirement of prior turnover and prior experience subject to procurement of quality material with technical specifications.

5. It is submitted that the conditions of prior turnover is in ignorance of the Government Order dated 10.03.2016 under para 16 of the order of 2012. Para 16 permits Government to remove the difficulties for procurement of goods and services from Micro and Small Enterprises. The respondents should not have kept the requirement of prior turnover, as it otherwise reduces competitions.

6. Coming to the facts of this case, it is submitted that by virtue of Clause 46(4) of the Tender, there would be no competition as only one enterprise would be eligible to get contract. It is for the reason that after the tender notice, only three enterprises participated therein out of which one is petitioner not confirming to the requirement of minimum turnover criteria. Out of two others, one Kerala State Homoeopathic Co-operative Pharmacy would also be eliminated having been blacklisted. It would leave only one Company namely M/s. Goa Antibiotics and Pharmaceuticals Limited. The aforesaid is not only contrary to the Government Order dated 10.03.2016 but to eliminate competition at the cost of public exchequer.

7. In view of above, a challenge to tender condition has been made. No purpose is sought to be achieved by putting condition of prior turnover in procurement of drugs under the Ayush Mission. A reference of Ayush Mission has also been given. It has been introduced by the Government of India to purchase Drugs. The Scheme introduced by the Government of India does not provide a condition of prior turnover for procurement of the drugs. Accordingly, the procurement agency could not have put a condition de hors the Scheme of the Government of India. The entire funding is by the Central Government thus the State Ayush Society Mission had no authority to act contrary to the Scheme.

8. The complete framework for the implementation of Ayush Mission has been given. The procurement of drugs has to be made from M/s. IMPC or a Public Sector Undertaking or pharmacies under the State or the co-operative Societies manufacturing quality drugs. Emphasis of the procurement agency should have been on the purchase of quality drugs than prior turnover eliminating competition.

9. Reference of the Government Procurement Policy has also been given. Therein also, no direction exist for a condition of prior minimum turnover. The condition laid down by the opposite party no. 4 is thus arbitrary and otherwise suffers from mala fide, as it intend to favour only one party leaving others. In the light of aforesaid, prayer is to set aside clause 46(4) of the Tender with a direction to the opposite parties to consider the bid given by the petitioner and if it is competitive, allow the supply of the drugs.

10. To substantiate the argument, learned counsel for the petitioner has made a reference of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Maa Binda Express Carrier and Another vs. North-East Frontier Railway and Others: (2014) 3 SCC 760. A specific reference of para 8 & 11 of the aforesaid judgment has been given. A further reference of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Michigan Rubber (India) Limited vs. State of Karnataka and Others: (2012) 8 SCC 216 has been given. Para 11, 12, 13 & 24 has been referred.

11. Learned counsel appearing for side opposite has contested the writ petition. It is submitted that the condition of prior turnover under Clause 46(4) has not been introduced for the first time but it was existing in the previous Tender also. The condition aforesaid was challenged earlier also. The writ petition was dismissed as rendered infructuous. The issue has no merit as condition of minimum turnover is to ensure supply of Drugs worth Rs. 15 crore (approx.) in this year.

12. To clarify the aforesaid, learned counsel has given an illustration. It is submitted that if the minimum turnover criteria is eliminated, the bids would be given without showing the capacity to supply the drugs. An establishment having a turnover of Rs. 50 lakh in a year may remain successful in the bid and if the purchase order is issued thereupon, the supply of Drugs worth Rs. 15 crore in a year would not be possible. The criteria of minimum turnover is to ensure supply of the volume of drugs for which the Tender is floated. It is not to eliminate the petitioner or to favour someone.

13. The bidders in this case are non else but the Public Sector Undertakings only and not a Private Enterprise. The opposite parties cannot have a reason to eliminate any of the Public Sector Undertaking because supply under the Ayush Mission has been emphasized through IMPC, Public Sector Undertaking or Pharmacies under the State Government and the Co-operative Societies manufacturing drugs in their own Unit having Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP) compliances. The participation pursuant to Tender is of non else but of Public Sector Undertakings which include even the petitioner. Thus the allegation of elimination with a view to favour someone is for sake of it.

14. It is further stated that jurisdiction of this Court to review conditions of the Tender is limited in view of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Tata Cellular vs. Union of India: 1994 (6) SCC 651. The court cannot sit as court of appeal on the terms and conditions of the Tender. It cannot even review terms and conditions of Tender. The interference is limited to the cases of mala fide or arbitrariness. Aforesaid grounds are not attracted in this case. The prayer is accordingly to dismiss the writ petition.

15. We have considered the rival submission of the parties and perused the record.

16. By this writ petition, a challenge is made to clause 46(4) of the Tender. For ready reference, the aforesaid clause is quoted hereunder:-

"विगत तीन वर्षों (2016-17, 2017-18, 2018-19) में होम्योपैथिक औषधियों निर्माता फर्मों का औसतन टर्न ओवर रू० 5 करोड़ न्यूनतम हो, अथार्त गत तीन वर्षों का सफल टर्न ओवर रू० 1 5 करोड़ होI"

17. The clause quoted above requires minimum average turnover of Rs. 5 crore in three years with gross turnover of Rs. 15 crore in the year i.e. 2016-17, 2017-18, 2018-19. The condition aforesaid has been kept for procurement of drugs worth Rs. 15 crore in this year. The challenge to Clause 46(4) of the Tender has been made firstly in reference to the Government order dated 10.03.2016, which has been issued under para 16 of the order of 2012. Para 4 of the order is quoted below for ready reference:-

"(4) In exercise of Para 16 of Public Procurement Policy for Micro and Small Enterprises Order 2012, it is clarified that all Central Ministries/Departments/Central Public Sector Undertakings may relax condition of prior turnover and prior experience with respect to Micro and Small Enterprises in all public procurements subject to meeting of quality and technical specifications."

18. The para quoted above gives discretion to the Central Ministries/Departments/Central Public Sector Undertakings to relax the condition of prior turnover and prior experience. It is for the Micro and Small Enterprises in all the public procurements. It is not in dispute that the procurement of drugs in this case is under a Scheme floated by the Government of India namely National Ayush Mission. It is even funded by the Central Government, thus it is for public procurement.

19. In the light of the aforesaid, the order of 2012 and the Government order dated 10.03.2016 would apply. The question would however be as to whether the order dated 10.03.2016 gives a mandate to relax the condition of prior turnover and prior experience in all the public procurement. We find use of the word 'may' in para 4 and thereby a discretion has been given in public procurement to relax the condition of prior turnover.

20. It is urged by the learned counsel for the petitioner to read the word 'may' as 'shall' in the facts and circumstances of this case.

21. We have considered the aforesaid submission but unable to accept it. The word 'may' cannot be read as 'shall' as the order dated 10.03.2016 was not issued to restrain condition of minimum turnover criteria in all circumstances. The order dated 10.03.2016 was issued in pursuance to Para 16 of the order of 2012 which is quoted hereinbelow for ready reference:-

"16. Removal of difficulty. % Any difficulties experienced during the course of implementation of the above policy shall be clarified by Ministry of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises through suitable Press releases which would be kept on the public domain."

22. Para 16 of the order of 2012 is to take care of the difficulties. The procurement from Micro and Small Enterprises with condition of prior experience or prior turnover criteria has not been taken away in all the cases but a liberty is given to eliminate the condition which can be in an appropriate case. It can be where procurement may not have nexus with the turnover.

23. In the light of aforesaid, challenge to clause 46(4) of the Tender cannot be accepted in reference to the order dated 10.03.2016.

24. The other issue raised by learned counsel for the petitioner is in reference to the procurement under the Ayush Mission. A reference of the Scheme introduced by the Government of India has been given. It is to emphasize that a condition does not exist for prior turnover criteria in procurement of drugs under the said Mission.

25. The contest to the argument has been made by learned standing counsel appearing for opposite party no. 4. He submits that the Scheme does not lay down terms and conditions of the Tender. It only gives guidelines as to how the Scheme is to be implemented. In the light of the aforesaid, procurement under the Ayush Mission is made after formulating terms and conditions of the agreement. It is not only to ensure procurement of drugs but the quality to benefit the public.

26. We find that the Manual for Procurement of Drugs under Ayush Mission does not provide terms and conditions of the Tender. It has given general guidelines of the Scheme. The terms and conditions of Tender is to be formulated by the procurement agency. Accordingly, challenge to clause 46 (4) of the Tender cannot be accepted in reference to the Manual for Procurement of Drugs under Ayush Mission.

27. It cannot be accepted even in the light of the Manual for Procurement of Goods 2017. The Government of India, Ministry of Finance, Department of Expenditure has issued the Manual for Procurement of Goods. It has a reference for procurement of the goods from micro and small enterprises. The clause in regard to procurement of material for small and micro enterprises is similar to what exists in the order dated 10.03.2016. The word 'may' has been used therein also. Condition of prior turnover and prior experience has been left at the discretion of the Procurement Agency. Clause 1.10.4 (ix) is quoted hereunder for ready reference:-

"(ix) Ministry of MSME have clarified that alll Central Ministries/Departments/Central Public Sector Undertakings may relax condition of prior turnover and prior experience with respect to Micro and Small Enterprises in all public procurements subject to meeting of quality and technical specifications."

28. If the comparison of the language of Clause quoted above is made with the order dated 10.03.2016, it would show use of same language, as exist in the order dated 10.03.2016 thus, the policy of 2017 does not incorporate a different condition than what exist under the Government order dated 10.03.2016. The word 'may' has been used even in the policy of 2017.

29. Now we may refer to the factual aspect raised by learned counsel for the petitioner. An allegation to eliminate competition has been made because pursuant to the tender, only three bids have been received. It is stated that the petitioner may be ousted on account of condition of prior turnover and another Public Sector Undertaking i.e. Kerala State Homoeopathic Co-operative Pharmacy having been blacklisted would also be ousted leaving only one Public Sector Undertaking. The condition is otherwise said to be tailor made.

30. We find that the condition of minimum turnover was incorporated in the Tender without knowing turnover of different Public Sector Undertakings and Co-operative societies so as to eliminate one or other undertaking. It is not a case where a favour is extended with pre-conceived notion to benefit any Private Enterprise. The bid pursuant to the Tender has been given only by Public Sector Enterprises of different States.

31. It is otherwise a fact that the clause 46(4) of the Tender cannot be said to be tailor made. It is looking to the volume of the drugs to be procured in a year. It is of Rs. 15 crore (approx) and for that if the side opposite has insisted for prior turnover of minimum 5 crore in average with 15 crore in last three years, it cannot be said to be a tailor made condition. The capacity of the bidder is required to be taken into consideration to ensure supply, thereby we cannot accept the submission of learned counsel for the petitioner for challenge to the Clause 46(4) on the aforesaid ground. If a bidder is having turnover of Rs. 50 lakh or even one crore in a year, whether he would be in a capacity to supply drugs worth Rs. 15 crore on remaining successful in the Tender. All these issues remain in the realm of the procurement agencies and not open for review by the Court exercising jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

32. The allegation of mala fide is also looked into. It is always easy to make allegation of mala fide then to prove it. The condition of prior turnover was inserted without having knowledge of the bidders thus question of mala fide does not arise. It may be unfortunate that out of many eligible Public Sector Enterprises, only three have participated in the Tender but merely for that reason, it cannot be said that conditions of Tender suffers from mala fide rather we find the condition to be reasonable. It is to ensure supply of drugs worth Rs. 15 crore. No reason of mala fide has been given by the petitioner other than eliminating the competitors. No bias against the petitioner has been shown.

33. In the light of the facts given above, we are unable to accept the allegation of mala fide so as to cause interference in Clause 16(4) of the Tender.

34. We may now refer to the judgment cited by learned counsel for the petitioner. It is in the case of Maa Binda Express Carrier (supra). The Apex Court has taken note of the limited jurisdiction of the Court in the contractual matters and even in the condition of Tender. Para 8 & 11 of the said judgment have been referred by learned counsel for the petitioner and are quoted hereunder for ready reference:-

"8. The scope of judicial review in matters relating to award of contract by the State and its instrumentalities is settled by a long line of decisions of this Court. While these decisions clearly recognize that power exercised by the Government and its instrumentalities in regard to allotment of contract is subject to judicial review at the instance of an aggrieved party, submission of a tender in response to a notice inviting such tenders is no more than making an offer which the State or its agencies are under no obligation to accept. The bidders participating in the tender process cannot, therefore, insist that their tenders should be accepted simply because a given tender is the highest or lowest depending upon whether the contract is for sale of public property or for execution of works on behalf of the Government. All that participating bidders are entitled to is a fair, equal and non-discriminatory treatment in the matter of evaluation of their tenders. It is also fairly well-settled that award of a contract is essentially a commercial transaction which must be determined on the basis of consideration that are relevant to such commercial decision. This implies that terms subject to which tenders are invited are not open to the judicial scrutiny unless it is found that the same have been tailor made to benefit any particular tenderer or class of tenderers. So also the authority inviting tenders can enter into negotiations or grant relaxation for bona fide and cogent reasons provided such relaxation is permissible under the terms governing the tender process.

11. In Michigan Rubber (India) Ltd. v. State of Karnataka and Ors. (2012) 8 SCC 216 the legal position on the subject was summed up after a comprehensive review and principles of law applicable to the process for judicial review identified in the following words:

"19. From the above decisions, the following principles emerge:

(a) the basic requirement of Article 14 is fairness in action by the State, and non-arbitrariness in essence and substance is the heartbeat of fair play. These actions are amenable to the judicial review only to the extent that the State must act validly for a discernible reason and not whimsically for any ulterior purpose. If the State acts within the bounds of reasonableness, it would be legitimate to take into consideration the national priorities;

(b) fixation of a value of the tender is entirely within the purview of the executive and courts hardly have any role to play in this process except for striking down such action of the executive as is proved to be arbitrary or unreasonable. If the Government acts in conformity with certain healthy standards and norms such as awarding of contracts by inviting tenders, in those circumstances, the interference by Courts is very limited;

(c) In the matter of formulating conditions of a tender document and awarding a contract, greater latitude is required to be conceded to the State authorities unless the action of tendering authority is found to be malicious and a misuse of its statutory powers, interference by Courts is not warranted;

(d) Certain preconditions or qualifications for tenders have to be laid down to ensure that the contractor has the capacity and the resources to successfully execute the work; and

(e) If the State or its instrumentalities act reasonably, fairly and in public interest in awarding contract, here again, interference by Court is very restrictive since no person can claim fundamental right to carry on business with the Government.

20. Therefore, a Court before interfering in tender or contractual matters, in exercise of power of judicial review, should pose to itself the following questions:

(i) Whether the process adopted or decision made by the authority is mala fide or intended to favour someone; or whether the process adopted or decision made is so arbitrary and irrational that the court can say: "the decision is such that no responsible authority acting reasonably and in accordance with relevant law could have reached"; and

(ii) Whether the public interest is affected. If the answers to the above questions are in negative, then there should be no interference under Article 226." (emphasis supplied)

35. Para 8 makes it clear that condition of Tender is not open to judicial scrutiny unless it is found to be tailor made. At the end of para 11, a reference of the earlier judgment has been given to show as to when interference in the Tender condition can be made. It is when it suffers from mala fide or intend to favour someone. The case in hand is not covered by the aforesaid judgment. The condition under challenge is neither suffering from mala fide nor it is tailor made to favour someone.

36. Another judgment cited by learned counsel for the petitioner is in the case of Michigan Rubber (India) Ltd. (supra). Para 11, 12, 13 & 24 have been referred and are quoted hereunder for ready reference:-

"11. In Tata Cellular vs. Union of India, (1994) 6 SCC 651, this Court emphasised the need to find a right balance between administrative discretion to decide the matters on the one hand, and the need to remedy any unfairness on the other, and observed:

"94. (1) The modern trend points to judicial restraint in administrative action.

(2) The court does not sit as a court of appeal but merely reviews the manner in which the decision was made.

(3) The court does not have the expertise to correct the administrative decision. If a review of the administrative decision is permitted it will be substituting its own decision, without the necessary expertise, which itself may be fallible.

(4) The terms of the invitation to tender cannot be open to judicial scrutiny because the invitation to tender is in the realm of contract. ... (5) The Government must have freedom of contract. In other words, a fair play in the joints is a necessary concomitant for an administrative body functioning in an administrative sphere or quasi-administrative sphere. However, the decision must not only be tested by the application of Wednesbury principle of reasonableness (including its other facts pointed out above) but must be free from arbitrariness not affected by bias or actuated by mala fides.

(6) Quashing decisions may impose heavy administrative burden on the administration and lead to increased and unbudgeted expenditure."

12) In Raunaq International Ltd. vs. I.V.R. Construction Ltd. & Ors. (1999) 1 SCC 492, this Court reiterated the principle governing the process of judicial review and held that the writ court would not be justified in interfering with commercial transactions in which the State is one of the parties except where there is substantial public interest involved and in cases where the transaction is mala fide.

13) In Union of India & Anr. vs. International Trading Co. & Anr., (2003) 5 SCC 437, this Court, in similar circumstances, held as under:

"15. While the discretion to change the policy in exercise of the executive power, when not trammelled by any statute or rule is wide enough, what is imperative and implicit in terms of Article 14 is that a change in policy must be made fairly and should not give the impression that it was so done arbitrarily or by any ulterior criteria. The wide sweep of Article 14 and the requirement of every State action qualifying for its validity on this touchstone irrespective of the field of activity of the State is an accepted tenet. The basic requirement of Article 14 is fairness in action by the State, and non-arbitrariness in essence and substance is the heartbeat of fair play. Actions are amenable, in the panorama of judicial review only to the extent that the State must act validly for a discernible reason, not whimsically for any ulterior purpose. The meaning and true import and concept of arbitrariness is more easily visualized than precisely defined. A question whether the impugned action is arbitrary or not is to be ultimately answered on the facts and circumstances of a given case. A basic and obvious test to apply in such cases is to see whether there is any discernible principle emerging from the impugned action and if so, does it really satisfy the test of reasonableness.

16. Where a particular mode is prescribed for doing an act and there is no impediment in adopting the procedure, the deviation to act in a different manner which does not disclose any discernible principle which is reasonable itself shall be labelled as arbitrary. Every State action must be informed by reason and it follows that an act uninformed by reason is per se arbitrary.

22. If the State acts within the bounds of reasonableness, it would be legitimate to take into consideration the national priorities and adopt trade policies. As noted above, the ultimate test is whether on the touchstone of reasonableness the policy decision comes out unscathed.

23. Reasonableness of restriction is to be determined in an objective manner and from the standpoint of interests of the general public and not from the standpoint of the interests of persons upon whom the restrictions have been imposed or upon abstract consideration. A restriction cannot be said to be unreasonable merely because in a given case, it operates harshly. In determining whether there is any unfairness involved; the nature of the right alleged to have been infringed, the underlying purpose of the restriction imposed, the extent and urgency of the evil sought to be remedied thereby, the disproportion of the imposition, the prevailing condition at the relevant time, enter into judicial verdict. The reasonableness of the legitimate expectation has to be determined with respect to the circumstances relating to the trade or business in question. Canalisation of a particular business in favour of even a specified individual is reasonable where the interests of the country are concerned or where the business affects the economy of the country.

24. Therefore, a court before interfering in tender or contractual matters in exercise of power of judicial review, should pose to itself the following questions:

(i) Whether the process adopted or decision made by the authority is mala fide or intended to favour someone;

OR Whether the process adopted or decision made is so arbitrary and irrational that the court can say: "the decision is such that no responsible authority acting reasonably and in accordance with relevant law could have reached";

(ii) Whether public interest is affected."

37. In para 11 of the judgment quoted above, the Apex Court has made a reference in the case of Tata Cellular vs. Union of India, (1994) 6 SCC 651. In the said case, certain restrictions have been imposed on the Courts to cause interference in the conditions of Tender.

38. A reference of the judgment in the case of Union Of India (Uoi) And Anr. vs International Trading Co.: 2003 5 SCC 437 would also be relevant on the facts of this case. It is not a case where there is overnight change in the condition of the Tender rather in the last year also, the condition of minimum turnover was existing though the prior turnover required was of Rs. 9 crore. The minimum turnover criteria depend on the volume of procurement and other requirements. Interference therein be made if mala fide exists to favour someone. We have already expressed our opinion on the aforesaid. A case of mala fide or favour is not made out.

39. In view of above, writ petition fails and is dismissed.

9.N.H.A.I. Vs. Ganga Enterprises & anr., (2003) 7 SCC 410

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and learned counsel for the respondents.

2. These writ petitions have been taken up together by this Court as they relate to the question whether an Industrial Adjudication case could have been entertained by the Labour Court on reference being made to it regarding daily wage workmen engaged by the Public Works Department on muster roll and whether the Public Works Department of the State of U.P. can be considered to be an industry under the Industrial Disputes Act.

3. The facts, in brief, of each of these writ petitions are being stated here in below.

4. Writ Petition No.6548 (MS) of 2010 challenges an order passed by the respondent no.1 dated 29.1.2009 in Adjudication Case No.16 of 1998 (Krishna Prasad versus Superintending Engineer, Faizabad Circle, Faizabad and others) whereby the respondent no.1 has issued directions that respondent no.3 shall be entitled to reinstatement and all service benefits. In this petition, Krishna Prasad was initially engaged as a Beldar on daily wage basis in 1981 and disengaged after November, 1989. After seven years of such disengagement, he approached the Deputy Labour Commissioner, Faizabad Region, Faizabad under Section 2(A) of the Industrial Disputes Act (for short "the Act') on 15.6.1996. The conciliation attempt having failed, the Deputy Labour Commissioner referred the matter to the respondent no.1, which was registered as Adjudication Case No.16 of 1998. After the written statement was filed by Krishna Prasad, the petitioners also filed a written statement, in which, they specifically disputed the applicability of the Industrial Disputes Act to Public Works Department of the State of U.P.. It was submitted that the engagement of daily wage workers takes place for carrying out work assigned by the Government of U.P. under the provisions of Paragraph 429 and 430 of Part-I, Volume-VI of the Financial Handbook and Muster Roll is maintained and wages are paid at the prescribed rates under the Minimum Wages Act. The daily wage workers are engaged to meet the exigencies of work and as per availability of budget and since there was no work available, the respondent no.3 was disengaged in 1989.

5. This Court has perused the written statement filed by the employers in which, in paragraph 1 and 2, it was clearly stated that the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 does not apply to the Public Works Department of State of U.P. The workers are engaged on the basis of Paragraphs 429 and 430 of the Financial Handbook, Volume-VI and payment is charged to the works under paragraph 667 of the Financial Handbook.

6. The respondent No.1 did not consider the preliminary objection raised regarding maintainability of the adjudication case first, but went on with the adjudication of the case on the basis of written statement and oral evidence of the respondent no.3 that he had worked w.e.f. 15.12.1981 upto 15.7.1989 continuously and that his name appeared at Serial No.182 in the seniority list of 270 workmen maintained by the establishment. No notice was given to him nor any retrenchment compensation was given before his disengagement on 15.7.1989. Since after the filing of the written statement by the employer, no attempt was made to appear before the respondent no.1 for cross examination of the workman despite several opportunities being given to them, the respondent no.1 relied upon evidence produced by the workmen to come to a conclusion that the respondent no.3 had been disengaged on 15.7.1989 in violation of section 6N of the Act. A direction was issued for his reinstatement and consequential benefits to be given to him in the Award dated 29.1.2009.

7. It appears that no interim order was granted by this Court in this writ petition and the workman was reinstated by the petitioners subject to final orders being passed by this Court. The Office Memorandum dated 7.5.2012 putting back the respondent no.3 into service on daily wage basis at the rate of Rs.100/- per day has been brought on record by the respondent no.3 by filing an application on 4.9.2017.

8. In Writ Petition No.4074 (MS) of 2010, the petitioners have challenged the award dated 10.11.2009 passed in Adjudication Case No.12 of 2002.

9. In the said writ petition, the case of the petitioners is that the respondent no.1 was engaged as daily wage labourer on 1.12.1984 and was disengaged in November, 1986. The respondent no.1 raised an industrial dispute before the Assistant Labour Commissioner, Faizabad in 2001 and after failure of conciliation proceedings, the matter was referred to the Labour Court for adjudication on 25.12.2002. The written statement was filed by the petitioners wherein, they stated clearly in Paragraph 1 and 6 that the Industrial Disputes Act does not apply to the Public Works Department of the State of U.P. which is a Government department where engagement of labourers is done as per Paragraph 429 and 430 of the Financial Handbook Volume-VI and that the Public Works Department being a Department of the Government of U.P. carries out work assigned to it on a cost to cost basis without any profit or loss.

The Labour Court however did not think it appropriate to decide the preliminary objection raised by the employer as to the maintainability of the adjudication case, but went on to decide the matter on the basis of evidence led both oral and documentary by the respondent no.1 and came to the conclusion that the respondent no.1 had been retrenched without following the procedure prescribed under Section 6N of the Act and was entitled for reinstatement. However, because of passage of time, full back wages were not given by the Labour Court, Faizabad, but a direction was issued for payment of 20% of the back-wages only.

10. This Court at the time of hearing the writ petition as fresh, did not pass any interim order. Several applications for grant of interim relief were filed as execution case had been initiated by the respondent no.1. When these applications were not taken up, the petitioners reinstated the respondent no.1 on 15.4.2015 as daily wage Beldar. The respondent no.1 moved an application for modification of the award by this Court and dismissal of the writ petition with the direction that the respondent no.1 be engaged as chowkidar as in the oral evidence filed by the employer's witness before the Labour Court, it had come out that the respondent no.1 was lastly engaged as chowkidar. In the absence of any interim order, the Deputy Labour Commissioner continued with the execution proceedings with regard to the back wages as granted by the Labour Court in the Award and attachment of the properties in the office of the Executive Engineer took place, as a result whereof, more than one lakh rupees was deposited before the Labour Court and an application bearing C.M. Application No.71364 of 2010 was moved before this Court. This Court by an order dated 8.9.2015 directed the Deputy Labour Commissioner to release the property, which had been attached, if the due amount had been deposited by the petitioners, but the amount so deposited by the petitioners would not be released in favour of the respondent no.1, although he may be allowed to continue in service in terms of the Award.

11. From the order sheet, it is evident that respondent no.1 died on 19.3.2017 and a substitution application was moved by his widow Mrs. Durgawati along with his son and daughter, who are both minors. This Court allowed the substitution application by its order dated 6.9.2017.

12. During the course of argument in these two writ petitions, learned counsel for the respondents Mr. Y.S. Lohit has relied upon several judgments of this Court and of the Supreme Court to submit that these writ petitions be dismissed.

13. This Court has perused the judgments cited by both learned counsel for the petitioners and the learned counsel for the respondents. No doubt, in Writ Petition No.4382 (SS) of 2001: State of U.P. and others vs. Harish Chandra, decided on 31.7.2015, this Court had dismissed a similar petition filed by the Irrigation Department, placing reliance upon the observations made by the Supreme Court in State of Maharashtra and another versus Sarva Shramik Sangh, Sangli and others, 2013 (16) SSC 16, wherein it was observed that the mere fact that correctness of the decision in the case of Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board vs. A. Rajappa (1978) 2 SCC 213 had been referred to a larger bench in State of U.P. versus Jai Bir Singh, (2005) 5 SCC 1, will not come in the way of the Court in following the existing law now covered by the seven Judges Constitution Bench judgment in Bangalore water supply case (supra), which is presently holding the field. Similarly, a coordinate Bench of this Court in Writ Petition No.6910 (MS) of 2002: Superintending Engineer Provincial Division P.W.D. Barabanki versus Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Lucknow has dismissed the writ petition on 20.3.2017 by observing that the judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in Bangalore water supply case (supra) has been followed in two coordinate Bench decisions in Sant Kumar Dubey versus Presiding Officer, Industrial Tribunal (IV), Uttar Pradesh, Agra and others: 1997 Labour and Industrial Cases 777 and in State of U.P. and others vs. Deep Chandra and others (2004) 1 UPLBEC 816, wherein it has been held that the Public Works Department of the Government of U.P. is an industry and covered by the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act as the petitioners therein had not taken the trouble to file any written statement before the Presiding Officer, Labour Court and there was no question of showing any interference in the Award.

14. This Court, however, having gone through the written statement filed by the writ petitioners herein in both the adjudication cases before the Labour Court, finds that a preliminary objection was raised regarding maintainability of the adjudication case before the Labour Court under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, yet the preliminary objection was ignored and orders were passed in favour of the private respondents only on the basis of oral and documentary evidence led by the workmen.

15. In Union of India and others versus Ranbir Singh Rathore and others (2006) 11 SCC 696, the Supreme Court had observed thus:-

"42. .....In any event we feel that the High Court's approach is clearly erroneous. The present appellants in the counter-affidavit filed had raised a preliminary objection as regards the maintainability of the writ petitions and had requested the High Court to grant further opportunity if the necessity so arises to file a detailed counter-affidavit after the preliminary objections were decided. The High Court in fact in one of the orders clearly indicated that the preliminary objections were to be decided first. But strangely it did not do so."

16. In National Highways Authority of India versus Ganga Enterprises and another, (2003) 7 SCC 410, the Supreme Court in Paragraph-6 observed thus:-

"6. The respondent then filed a writ petition in the High Court for refund of the amount. On the pleadings before it, the High Court raised two questions viz.: (a) whether the forfeiture of security deposit is without authority of law and without any binding contract between the parties and also contrary to Section 5 of the Contract Act; and (b) whether the writ petition is maintainable in a claim arising out of a breach of contract. Question (b) should have been first answered as it would go to the root of the matter. The High Court instead considered Question (a) and then chose not to answer Question (b). In our view, the answer to Question (b) is clear. It is settled law that disputes relating to contracts cannot be agitated under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It has been so held in the cases of Kerala SEB v. Kurien E. Kalathil [(2000) 6 SCC 293] , State of U.P. v. Bridge & Roof Co. (India) Ltd. [(1996) 6 SCC 22] and Bareilly Development Authority v. Ajai Pal Singh [(1989) 2 SCC 116] . This is settled law. The dispute in this case was regarding the terms of offer. They were thus contractual disputes in respect of which a writ court was not the proper forum. Mr Dave, however, relied upon the cases of Verigamto Naveen v. Govt. of A.P. [(2001) 8 SCC 344] and Harminder Singh Arora v. Union of India [(1986) 3 SCC 247]. These, however, are cases where the writ court was enforcing a statutory right or duty. These cases do not lay down that a writ court can interfere in a matter of contract only. Thus on the ground of maintainability the petition should have been dismissed."

17. Regarding the validity or otherwise of the preliminary objection raised by the petitioners, this Court has gone through the judgment in Bangalore Water Supply case (supra) carefully. While considering what constitutes the expression "industry' after critically examining the previous decisions, Justice Krishna Iyer, who delivered the main judgment i.e. opinion on his behalf and on behalf of two other Judges, has observed in Para-139 to 143 as follows:

""139. ... So we proceed to formulate the principles, deducible from our discussion, which are decisive, positively and negatively, of the identity of "industry' under the Act. We speak, not exhaustively, but to the extent covered by the debate at the Bar and, to that extent, authoritatively, until overruled by a larger Bench or superseded by the legislative branch.

I

140. "Industry', as defined in Section 2(j) and explained in Banerji [D.N. Banerji v. P.R. Mukherjee, 1953 SCR 302 : AIR 1953 SC 58] has a wide import.

(a) Where (i) systematic activity, (ii) organised by cooperation between employer and employee (the direct and substantial element is chimerical) (iii) for the production and/or distribution of goods and services calculated to satisfy human wants and wishes (not spiritual or religious but inclusive of material things or services geared to celestial bliss i.e. making, on a large scale prasad or food), prima facie, there is an "industry' in that enterprise.

(b) Absence of profit motive or gainful objective is irrelevant, be the venture in the public, joint, private or other sector.

(c) The true focus is functional and the decisive test is the nature of the activity with special emphasis on employer-employee relations.

(d) If the organisation is a trade or business it does not cease to be one because of philanthropy animating the undertaking.

II

141. Although Section 2(j) uses words of the widest amplitude in its two limbs, their meaning cannot be magnified to overreach itself.

(a) "Undertaking' must suffer a contextual and associational shrinkage as explained in Banerji [D.N. Banerji v. P.R. Mukherjee, 1953 SCR 302 : AIR 1953 SC 58] and in this judgment; so also, service, calling and the like. This yields the inference that all organised activity possessing the triple elements in I (supra), although not trade or business, may still be "industry' provided the nature of the activity (emphasis in original) viz. the employer-employee basis, bears resemblance to what we find in trade or business. This takes into the fold of "industry' undertakings, callings and services, adventures "analogous to the carrying (emphasis in original) on the trade or business'. All features, other than the methodology of carrying on the activity viz. in organising the cooperation between employer and employee, may be dissimilar. It does not matter, if on the employment terms there is analogy.

III

142. Application of these guidelines should not stop short of their logical reach by invocation of creeds, cults or inner sense of incongruity or outer sense of motivation for or resultant of the economic operations. The ideology of the Act being industrial peace, regulation and resolution of industrial disputes between employer and workmen, the range of this statutory ideology must inform the reach of the statutory definition. Nothing less, nothing more.

(a) The consequences are (i) professions, (ii) clubs, (iii) educational institutions, (iv) cooperatives, (v) research institutes, (vi) charitable projects, and (vii) other kindred adventures, if they fulfil the triple tests listed in I (supra), cannot be exempted from the scope of Section 2(j).

(b) A restricted category of professions, clubs, cooperatives and even gurukulas and little research labs, may qualify for exemption if, in simple ventures, substantially and, going by the dominant nature criterion, substantively, no employees are entertained but in minimal matters, marginal employees are hired without destroying the non-employee character of the unit.

(c) If, in a pious or altruistic mission many employ themselves, free or for small honoraria or like return, mainly drawn by sharing in the purpose or cause, such as lawyers volunteering to run a free legal services clinic or doctors serving in their spare hours in a free medical centre or ashramites working at the bidding of the holiness, divinity or like central personality, and the services are supplied free or at nominal cost and those who serve are not engaged for remuneration or on the basis of master and servant relationship, then, the institution is not an industry even if stray servants, manual or technical, are hired. Such eleemosynary or like undertakings alone are exempt -- not other generosity, compassion, developmental passion or project.

IV

143. The dominant nature test:

(a) Where a complex of activities, some of which qualify for exemption, others not, involves employees on the total undertaking, some of whom are not ''workmen' as in University of Delhi case [University of Delhi v. Ram Nath, (1964) 2 SCR 703 : AIR 1963 SC 1873] or some departments are not productive of goods and services if isolated, even then, the predominant nature of the services and the integrated nature of the departments as explained in Corpn. of Nagpur [Corpn. of the City of Nagpur v. Employees, (1960) 2 SCR 942 : AIR 1960 SC 675] will be the true test. The whole undertaking will be ''industry' although those who are not ''workmen' by definition may not benefit by the status.

(b) Notwithstanding the previous clauses, sovereign functions, strictly understood, (alone) qualify for exemption, not the welfare activities or economic adventures undertaken by Government or statutory bodies.

(c) Even in departments discharging sovereign functions, if there are units which are industries and they are substantially severable, then they can be considered to come within Section 2(j).

(d) Constitutional and competently enacted legislative provisions may well remove from the scope of the Act categories which otherwise may be covered thereby." (Emphasis supplied)

18. It is undisputed that muster roll employees are engaged by the Department of Irrigation and Public Works and other such Departments which carry out welfare activities relating to infrastructure etc. on behalf of the State Government in terms of Paragraph 429 and 430 of Volume-VI Part-I of Financial Handbook.

19. The Financial Handbook is a set of fundamental rules which govern the administration of not only Central Government but also the State Government. Volume-VI of the Financial Handbook deals with several matters including the matters relating to how contracts are to be signed with regard to construction work and how construction work itself is to be carried out by such Departments as the Department of Irrigation and Public Works.

20. The muster roll employees having been engaged under Paragraph 429 and 430, and work charge employees being engaged under Paragraph 630 of the Financial Handbook, are governed by the statutory provisions as given in the Financial Handbook with regard to their engagement and monitory benefits admissible to them on such engagement.

21. The Financial Handbook containing Fundamental Rules are in the nature of "law' as defined in Article 13 of the Constitution of India and they carry statutory force.

22. Since in the judgment rendered in Bangalore Water Supply case (supra), the majority opinion excluded Government departments which may otherwise be covered by the expansive definition of "industry' given in Paragraph 140 to 143, if there are constitutionally and competently enacted legislative provisions, governing such activities as undertaken by such Departments; the Public Works Department stands excluded from the expansive definition of "industry' as given by the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board case (supra).

23. Having perused the Awards impugned passed by the Labour Courts in these two writ petitions, the Court finds no mention at all or consideration of the preliminary objection raised with regard to the maintainability of the Adjudication case under the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act by the Labour Court concerned.

24. The Awards dated 29.1.2009 and 10.11.2009 are set aside. However, since the respondents have been engaged in the absence of any interim order as daily wage Beldars, the benefit granted to them by the authorities during the pendency of these writ petitions shall not be taken away from them. The amount of back wages deposited by the petitioners in Writ Petition No.4074 (MS) of 2010 before the Labour Court, shall be refunded to them on an appropriate application being moved by them.

25. The writ petitions stand allowed to this extent.

Civil law-U.P.Electricity Supply Code,2005- Cl.4.49Petitioner prayed for enhancement of load-bank guarantee was demanded by Respondent-payment of additional security is a condition for release of additional load-non payment-additional load not to be released-supply can be disconnected-event of deposit of additional security-cannot be said to be any dues recovered from Petitioner-demand of bank guarrantee or cash for grant of additional load is perfectly justified.W.P. dismissed.

Held, the scheme of the Act and the Code does not indicate that any process for recovery of additional security is contemplated or provided for because of the reason that the consequences for non deposit of additional security has been clearly provided in the Act itself. The payment of additional security being condition for release of additional load, in the event it is not paid the additional load is not to be released and further supply can be discontinued. No more is contemplated with regard to non payment of additional security. Thus, we are of the view that in the event of deposit of additional security by the petitioner for grant of additional load cannot be said to be any dues, which is to be recovered from the petitioner and therefore, the demand by the respondents of giving bank guarantee or cash for grant of additional load is perfectly justified. (4) Order dated 18.04.2019 reads as under :

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned counsel for the respondents.

The grievance of the petitioner is that the opposite parties is not allowing TOD (time of day) rebate to the petitioner, which is permissible to him as per order dated 09.12.2017, and the petitioner is being a HV-2 category industry, was entitled to the said rebate. The petitioner in this regard has made several representations to the respondents, but on receiving no response, had approached the Electricity Ombudsman U.P. under Section 43 (6) of the Electricity Act, 2003 read with Provisions of Regulations, 2007. Along with the said reference, the petitioner has preferred the application for interim relief, which is quoted below:-

"Hence for the facts & circumstances stated in the memo of statutory reference duly supported by an affidavit, it is most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Authority may kindly be pleased to direct the opp. party, UPPCL that after reduction of claimed amount of Rs.59,52,721/- against the TOD limit, rebate of 20% remaining money be accepted from the petitioner and his electricity connection should not be disconnected during the pendency of the matter."

After due consideration, the Electricity Ombudsman passed an order, directing the Executive Engineer, not to take any coercive steps against the petitioner. The petitioner is interpreting the said order as, if the entire recovery proceedings to the tune of Rs.1,11,97,943/- have been stayed and subsequent to the said interim order, the respondents are not even accepting the admitted liability while the petitioner is ready and willing to deposit Rs.70 lakhs, which is the undisputed amount, which the petitioner is ready and willing to deposit with the respondent no.3.

Sri S.P. Singh, learned counsel for the respondents disputes the interpretation as given by the petitioner in the writ petition and submits that at no stage, have the respondents refused to accept the admitted amount, which the petitioner is at liberty to deposit with them. He further submits that the assessment of electricity has been correctly made and the matter is under consideration before the Ombudsman and it is only the interim order, against which the petitioner has approached this Court.

After hearing counsel for the parties and perusing the record.

The innocuous prayer made by learned counsel for the petitioner is that he is ready and willing to deposit the undisputed amount of Rs.70 lakhs, which the respondents should be directed to accept.

Sri S.P. Singh, learned counsel for the respondents submits that they have no objection, if a direction is passed that the petitioner may deposit Rs.70 lakhs to respondent no.3, before the scheduled period i.e. 23.04.2019.

It is therefore provided that, if the petitioner tenders an amount of Rs.70 lakhs to respondent no.3, then respondent no.3 shall accept the same and give a receipt of the same to the petitioner.

With the above observations, writ petition stands disposed of."

(5) It has been stated by the petitioner that the petitioner has applied for additional load of 3100 KVA but the licensee has informed the petitioner vide letter dated 17.1.2020 that until and unless the cash or bank guarantee would not be furnished upto the extent of Court stayed amount as per the provisions of Clause 4.49 of the U.P. Electricity Supply Code, 2005, the additional load of 3100 KVA would not be released to him. Thereafter, the petitioner approached the Electricity Ombudsman by filing application in pending Reference No. 111 of 2019, wherein during the course of hearing, Electricity Ombudsman has discussed that we are bound with the provision of Clause 4.49 of the U.P.

Electricity Supply Code, 2005. Thereafter, the petitioner has filed the present writ petition for declaring the provision of Clause 4.49 of the U.P. Electricity Supply Code, 2005 as ultra vires.

(6) Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that Clause 4.49 of U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005 (hereinafter referred to as "Code 2005") is unconstitutional and ultra vires. The assessment amount having been stayed, which is still continuing, therefore, asking for submission of bank guarantee to recover the said amount is interference with the order of stay. He submits that provisions of Clause 4.49 of the Code 2005 is against Article 19 (1) (g) and Article 14 of the Constitution of India as by asking bank guarantee, the licensee is trying to snatch the petitioner's right for enhancement of plant capacity for surviving in the market. Therefore, Clause 4.49 of the Code, 2005 is unfair, unreasonable and arbitrary.

(7) The main thrust of submission of learned Counsel for the petitioner is that Clause 4.49 of 2005 Code to the extent of furnishing bank guarantee or cash for the purpose of release of additional load or reduction of load for the court stayed amount is ultra vires to Article 19 (1) (g) and Article 14 of the Constitution of India, hence no bank guarantee can be demanded from the petitioner.

(8) Before we proceed to consider the respective submission, it is necessary to look into the relevant provisions of the Electricity Act, 2003 and U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005.

(9) Part-VI of the Electricity Act, 2003 deals with distribution of electricity. Section 45 provides for power to recover charges, Section 46 relates to power to recover expenditure and Section 47 deals with power to require security. Sections 45, 46 and 47 of the Electricity Act, 2003 are quoted below:-

45. Power to recover charges.- (1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the prices to be charged by a distribution licensee for the supply of electricity by him in pursuance of section 43 shall be in accordance with such tariffs fixed from time to time and conditions of his licence.

(2) The charges for electricity supplied by a distribution licensee shall be -

(a) fixed in accordance with the methods and the principles as may be specified by the concerned State Commission ;

(b) published in such manner so as to give adequate publicity for such charges and prices.

(3) The charges for electricity supplied by a distribution licensee may include -

(a) a fixed charge in addition to the charge for the actual electricity supplied;

(b) a rent or other charges in respect of any electric meter or electrical plant provided by the distribution licensee.

(4) Subject to the provisions of section 62, in fixing charges under this section a distribution licensee shall not show undue preference to any person or class of persons or discrimination against any person or class of persons.

(5) The charges fixed by the distribution licensee shall be in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the regulations made in this behalf by the concerned State Commission.

46. Power to recover expenditure.- The State Commission may, by regulations, authorise a distribution licensee to charge from a person requiring a supply of electricity in pursuance of section 43 any expenses reasonably incurred in providing any electric line or electrical plant used for the purpose of giving that supply.

47. Power to require security.- (1) Subject to the provisions of this section, a distribution licensee may require any person, who requires a supply of electricity in pursuance of section 43, to give him reasonable security, as determined by regulations, for the payment to him of all monies which may become due to him -

(a) in respect of the electricity supplied to such persons; or

(b) where any electric line or electrical plant or electric meter is to be provided for supplying electricity to person, in respect of the provision of such line or plant or meter, and if that person fails to give such security, the distribution licensee may, if he thinks fit, refuse to give the supply or to provide the line or plant or meter for the period during which the failure continues.

(2) Where any person has not given such security as is mentioned in subsection (1) or the security given by any person has become invalid or insufficient, the distribution licensee may, by notice, require that person, within thirty days after the service of the notice, to give him reasonable security for the payment of all monies which may become due to him in respect of the supply of electricity or provision of such line or plant or meter.

(3) If the person referred to in sub-section(2) fails to give such security, the distribution licensee may, if he thinks fit, discontinue the supply of electricity for the period during which the failure continues.

(4) The distribution licensee shall pay interest equivalent to the bank rate or more, as may be specified by the concerned State Commission, on the security referred to in sub-section (1) and refund such security on the request of the person who gave such security.

(5) A distribution licensee shall not be entitled to require security in pursuance of clause (a) of sub-section (1) if the person requiring the supply is prepared to take the supply through a pre-payment meter."

(10) The U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005 has been framed under Section 181 of the Electricity Act, 2003. Clause 4.20 of the U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005 provides for security deposit. Clause 4.20 of the Supply Code is quoted below:-

" 4.20. Security Deposit

(a) [A security deposit to cover the estimated power consumption for two months shall be made by all consumer / applicant.

(b) The estimated consumption and security deposit amount for different categories of new consumers shall be determined by the Licensee with the approval of the Commission.

(d) Deleted

(e) The Licensee may give notice to any consumer for deposit of additional security deposit if:

(i) The security deposit falls short of covering the estimated power consumption bill for 2 months based on his average monthly consumption for the preceding financial year.

(ii) In case of a new connection, additional security shall be demanded only after completion of one full financial year.

(iii) Only when the required additional security deposit payable by the consumer exceeds 10% of the existing security deposit, a demand for additional security deposit, shall be made.

(iv) The security deposit is reduced due to adjustment of outstanding dues.

(v) Security deposit has become invalid or insufficient due to any other reason.

(f) [The consumer shall deposit the additional security within 30 days after the service of the notice. However, a maximum of three instalments, if considered prudent by the licensee, may be permitted.]

(g) If the existing security deposit is found to be in excess of more than 20% of the required security deposit, refund of the excess amount shall be made by adjustment in the ensuing bills within three billing cycles to the consumer.

(h) The security deposit shall be returned to consumer, upon termination of the agreement & finalization of permanent disconnection, and after adjustment of all dues, within 30 days. In this regard it shall be the responsibility of the licensee to keep a watch on the bank rate from time to time.

(i) The Licensee shall pay interest on security deposit to the consumers at bank rate as on 1st April of applicable financial year by way of credit in the bill of the consumer in the months of April, or May or June as per the applicable billing cycle. The interest rates are subject to change as per the tariff orders of Commission from time to time.]

(j) The amount of security deposit shall be accepted in parts according to the phasing agreed for release of load in case of "Phased Contract Demand". The subsequent additional security amount shall be deposited 30 days prior to the release of additional load.

The Licensee shall energise no connection until the requisite security amount has been deposited by the applicant / consumer.

A distribution licensee shall not be entitled to require security in pursuance of this section, if the person requiring the supply is prepared to take the supply through a prepayment meter, as and when distribution licensee provides a choice to consumer to opt for supply through pre-payment meter."

(11) Paragraph 4.43 of U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005 deals with enhancement of load. In the present case, petitioner has made application for enhancement of the load. Paragraph 4.43 (a), which is relevant for the purpose, is quoted below:-

"4.43 Enhancement of Load for cases other than Public Lighting:

(a) Applications for enhancement of load shall be filed in duplicate to the concerned sub divisional officer of the Licensee in the prescribed form (Annexure 4.10) along with the following:

(i) Prescribed Registration-cum-processing fee as approved by the Commission from time to time.

(ii) Work completion certificate and Test report from a LEC (Licensed Electrical Contractor).

(iii) Letter of approval from the Electrical inspector, if required.

(iv) Copy of the paid, latest electricity bills/ arrears due.

(v) If matter related to dues is stayed by court, the procedure as per clause 4.49 may be followed.

(vi) [Addendum to the Agreement to act as supplementary to the main agreement duly filled and signed by the consumer."

(12) Clause 4.43 (v) of the Constitution states that if matter related to dues is stayed by the court, the procedure as per clause 4.49 may be followed. Paragraph 4.43 sub-clause (e) provides as under:-

"(e) The application for enhancement of the sanctioned load will not be accepted if the consumer has any arrears of the licensee's dues."

(13) Clause 4.49, which is relevant, is as under:-

"4.49 Permanent disconnection/Release of Connection/ Enhancement and Reduction of Load where arrears disputed are stayed by Court/ other forums :

Where there is a stay order by any Court, Forum Tribunal, or by Commission, staying the recovery of any dues by licensee, and during the operating period of any such order-

(i) If a consumer sells a premises and an application for release of new connection is made by the purchaser; or

(ii) If any application for new connection, reconnection, enhancement or reduction of load is made by a consumer; or

(iii) If any application for permanent disconnection is made by a consumer the licensee shall release the new connection to such consumer and also permit reconnection, reduction or enhancement of Loads, as well as allow permanent disconnection, subject to:-

- submission of Bank Guarantee to the satisfaction of licensee, of equivalent amount of pending dues, by the applicant or owner, and,]

- agreement with licensee on terms of extension / invoking of guarantee, and \

- levy of surcharge amount on pending dues, and the application of such consumers shall not be kept pending by the licensee."

(14) Sub-clause (1) of Section 47 of the Electricity Act, 2003 provides that a licensee may require any person, who require supply of electricity in pursuance of Section 43, to give him reasonable security as may be determined by regulations, for the payment to him of all monies which may become due to him - (a) in respect of the electricity supplied to such person; or (b) where any electric line or electrical plant or electric meter is to be provided for supplying electricity to such person, in respect of the provision of such line or plant or meter.

(15) The U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005 provides detail procedure for billing. Clause 6.1 (a), (g) and (h), which are relevant in the present case, are quoted below:-

"6.1 General Provisions :

(a) The billing cycle for different categories of consumers is specified at Annexure 3.1. The Licensee shall notify the date by which each category of consumer shall receive the bill, as per the billing cycle specified in this Code. Such notification shall be made by the Licensee every year or one month before any change is made in the date.

(b) .....

(g) The Licensee shall dispatch the bills giving at least 15 days time to the consumer for making payments prior to the due date of payment. Where the bills are served to the consumer through hand held system, the consumer shall deposit the same within 7 days. The Bill shall contain details of the energy consumption, various charges, due date of 52 payment, disconnection date, arrears, Security deposit details, rebates, extracts pertaining to consumer rights, Mode of payment and collection facilities, Telephone Nos. and address of Customer service, and call centers, where consumers can make bill related complaints, Telephone Nos. and address of Consumer Grievance redressal forums etc. In case of cheques and bank drafts, the receiving authority in whose favour the amount should be drawn should be clearly mentioned.

(h) Bills of each consumer shall clearly reflect the arrears and amount of current billing separately. It shall be obligatory on the part of consumers to pay his electricity bills on or before due date of payment."

(16) The provisions of the Electricity Act, 2003 and U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005, as noted above, clearly indicate that a consumer is liable to pay charges for consumption of electricity in accordance with the tariff as fixed from time to time and there is a procedure for preparation of bill, sending of bill to the consumer and time frame for payment of the bill. The security/additional security is taken to cover up the advance payment for electricity to be consumed by the consumer. The consequences for not deposit of security/additional security has been provided in Section 47 of the Electricity Act, 2003 itself. Sub-section (1) of Section 47 clearly provides that if a person fails to give such security, the distribution licensee may refuse to give the supply of electricity or to provide the line or plant or meter for the period during which the failure continues. The submission of security is thus condition precedent for supply of electricity. The licensee being entitled not to give supply on failure of consumer to submit additional security, the question of realisation of amount of additional security does not arise.

(17) Sub-section (3) of Section 47 further provides that in the event person referred to in sub-section (2) fails to give such security, the distribution licensee may discontinue the supply of electricity for the period during which the failure continues. Section 56 of the Electricity Act, 2003 also empowers the licensee to disconnect the supply in default of payment. The security deposit/additional security deposit cannot be thus treated to be an arrear, which can be recovered as arrears of land revenue. The consequences of failure of giving additional security/security are provided in the Act itself. The provisions of the Electricity Act, 2003 and U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005 does not indicate that in the event additional security is not provided, the licensee shall initiate proceedings for recovery of the additional security. The initiation of proceeding for recovery of the amount of additional security is not contemplated because licensee is empowered not to release the supply in the event of non deposit and further to disconnect in the event additional security is not given as contemplated under sub-section (2) of Section 47. The additional security/security is nothing but an advance payment and when advance payment is not made the consequence as contemplated under the Electricity Act, 2003 have to take effect which no where indicates recovery in any manner.

(18) In this context it is also relevant to refer Clause 6.1 (h) of U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005, which provides that bills of each consumer shall clearly reflect- (i) the arrears and (ii) amount of current bill whereas Clause 6.1(g) provides that bills shall contain details of- (1) the energy consumption; (ii) various charges; (iii) due date of payment, disconnection date; (iv) arrears and (v) security deposit detail, rebates.

(19) A perusal of provisions of U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005 regarding billing indicate that details of security deposit has been separately provided.

(20) What is the object and purpose of security deposit and what is its nature has been considered by the Apex Court in the case of Ferro Alloys Corporation Limited vs. A.P. State Electricity Board and another reported in 1993 Supp (4) S.C.C. 136. The Apex Court in the said case was considering the security deposit under the provisions of Electric Supply Act, 1948. The Apex Court laid down that very nature of the security deposit is one of the advance payment. Following was laid down in paragraph 106 of the said judgment:-

"106. Thus, it will be clear that the true nature of the transaction in these cases is one of advance payment of charges for consumption of electricity estimated for a period of approximately three months. Such an advance is liable to be made good and kept at the stipulated level from month to month. It is open to the consumer to permit adjustment of the advance in the first instance. Thereafter, he could make good the shortfall in consumption charges and the security deposit before actual disconnection. Actually speaking, it is only after three months the disconnection takes place. Hence, it is like a running current account."

(21) The Apex Court in the said judgment has also laid down that there is no relationship of debtor and creditor with regard to security deposit and the relationship between consumer and the licensee is that of depositor and depositee.

(22) As noticed above, the scheme of the Act and the Code does not indicate that any process for recovery of additional security is contemplated or provided for because of the reason that the consequences for non deposit of additional security has been clearly provided in the Act itself. The payment of additional security being condition for release of additional load, in the event it is not paid the additional load is not to be released and further supply can be discontinued. No more is contemplated with regard to non payment of additional security. Thus, we are of the view that in the event of deposit of additional security by the petitioner for grant of additional load cannot be said to be any dues, which is to be recovered from the petitioner and therefore, the demand by the respondents of giving bank guarantee or cash for grant of additional load is perfectly justified.

(23) Now, we deal with the plea of the petitioner that restrictions imposed for granting additional load i.e. payment of bank guarantee or cash, in Clause 4.46 of the 2005 Code is unconstitutional, unreasonable and ultra vires to Article 19 (1) (g) and Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

(24) While considering whether a restriction is a reasonable restriction, one has to test the reasonableness of the restriction imposed upon the right guaranteed by Article 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution in an objective manner and from the stand point of interests of the general public and not from the stand point of interests of persons upon whom the restrictions have been imposed or upon abstract considerations. A restriction cannot be said to be unreasonable merely because in a given case it operates harshly.

(25) Under Article 13 (3) of the Constitution of India, for the purpose of Part-III of the Constitution, law includes any Ordinance, order, bye-law, rule, regulation, notification, custom or usage having in the territory of India the force of law. It would thus be clear that apart from the primary legislation, it also includes various forms of subordinate legislation. It is in that context that we can examine the contentions as raised on behalf of the petitioner.

(26) At this juncture, we may refer to the judgment in Gainda Ram and others Vs. Municipal Corporation of Delhi and others [(2010) 10 SCC 715]. The Supreme Court held that the reasonable restrictions on the fundamental right under Article 19 (1) (g) can be imposed either by existing law or by a law made by a State in the interest of general public. Therefore, nothing short of law can impose reasonable restrictions. We may thereafter reproduce para 49 of the said judgment, which reads as under:-

"49. In Bijoe Emmanuel v. State of Kerala [(1986) 3 SCC 615] this Court held: (SCC pp. 624-25, para 16)

"16. ...The law is now well settled that any law which may be made under clauses (2) to (6) of Article 19 to regulate the exercise of the right to the freedoms guaranteed by Articles 19 (1) (a) to (e) and (g) must be 'a law' having statutory force and not a mere executive or departmental instruction."

In coming to the aforesaid formulation in Bijoe Emmanuel this Court relied on two Constitution Bench decisions of this Court in Kameshwar Prasad Vs. State of Bihar and another Constitution Bench decision of this Court in Kharak Singh Vs. State of U.P."

(27) Restrictions to prevent a person from carrying on his trade or business, can be imposed only by law as set out in Article 13 (2) of Part-III of the Constitution of India. We may also gainfully refer to the judgment of the Supreme Court in Krishnan Kakkanth Vs. Government of Kerala and others [(1997) 9 SCC 495], where the Court observed that infringement of fundamental right under Article 19 (1) (g) must have a direct impact on the restriction on the freedom to carry on trade and not ancillary or incidental effects on such freedom to trade arising out of any governmental action. In that case, the purchases could be made from the approved dealers and that was a subject matter of challenge. Considering that, the Apex Court observed that the obligation to purchase from approved dealer has been fastened only to such farmer or agriculturist who has volunteered to accept financial assistance under the scheme on various terms and conditions.

(28) When a challenge is made that the impugned clause is violative of Article 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution, it is for the petitioner to demonstrate based on the material, impact of the restrictions on their business and in the absence of any material, it is difficult for the Court to countenance the said argument.

(29) In the case of Indian Drugs & Pharmaceuticals Ltd. and Others Vs. Punjab Drugs Manufacturers Association and Others. [(1999) 6 SCC 247], the Apex Court has held as under:-

"16. It is clear from the various judgments referred to above that a decision which would partially affect the sale prospects of a company, cannot be equated with creation of monopoly. In Ram Jawaya Kapur and Naraindas cases the Constitution Bench also held that the policy restrictions, as discussed above, can be imposed by exercise of executive power of the State under Article 162 of the Constitution. Therefore, the contention of the appellants in regard to creation of monopoly and violation of the fundamental right under Articles 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6) should fail. The judgments cited above also show that preference shown to cooperative institutions or public sector undertakings being in public interest, will not be construed as arbitrary so as to give rise to a contention of violation of Articles 14 of the Constitution. We have noted above that this Court in the cases of Oil & Natural Gas Commission v. Assn. of Natural Gas Consuming Industries of Gujarat, Krishnan Kakkanth and Hindustan Paper Corpn. Ltd. Vs. Govt. of Kerala has held that the preference shown to cooperative institutions or public sector undertakings being in public interest, will not be construed as arbitrary so as to give rise to a contention of violation of Article 14 of the Constitution."

(30) It would thus be clear that a decision, which partially affects the sale prospects of a company, cannot be equated with creation of monopoly. We may also refer to the observations in paragraph 8 of the judgment in Cooverjee B. Bharucha Vs. Excise Commissioner and the Chief Commissioner, Ajmer and others [AIR 1954 SC 220). Para 8 of the said judgment reads as under:-

"8. The contention that the effect of some of these provisions is to enable Government to confer monopoly rights on one or more persons to the exclusion of others and that creation of such monopoly rights could not be sustained under Art. 19 (6) is again without force. Reliance was placed on the decision in - 'Rashid Ahmad v. Municipal Board of Kairana', AIR 1950 SC 163 (B). That decision is no authority for the proposition contended for. Elimination and exclusion from business is inherent in the nature of liquor business and it will hardly be proper to apply to such a business principles applicable to trades which all could carry. The provisions of the regulation cannot be attacked merely on the ground that they create a monopoly. Properly speaking, there can be a monopoly only when a trade which could be carried on by all persons is entrusted by law to one or more persons to the exclusion of the general public. Such, however, is not the case with the business of liquor."

(31) In the instant case, the occasion for demanding bank guarantee arose only due to the reason that petitioner has prayed for enhancement of the load to 3100 KVA. The requirement of asking bank guarantee is for insulating the Corporation against apprehended or future losses. Clause 4.49 of U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005 is merely a protective provision rather than a provision for enforcing recovery. Clause 4.43 of U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005, which relates to enhancement of load for cases other than public lighting provides that if the matter relates to dues is stayed by court, the procedure as per Clause 4.49 may be followed. Clause 4.49 comes into play in the present case since the amount of assessment under Section 126 of the Electricity Act, 2003 has been stayed by the Court, which, according to the petitioner, is pending consideration.

(32) It is not the case of the petitioner that by any order or the impugned clause has the effect of totally prohibiting him from carrying on any business but in the instant case, in pursuance of Clause 4.49 of the 2005 Code, the petitioner was asked to furnish bank guarantee or cash for the purpose of release of additional load. This will not amount to full prohibition. (See State of Gujarat Vs. Mirzapur Moti Kureshi Kassab Jamat and others [(2005) 8 SCC 534].

(33) The another ground to challenge Clause 4.49 of U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005 is that Clause 4.49 overreach the order of the Court. It is submitted that there being stay by the Court against the assessment, the respondents cannot ask for submission of bank guarantee for an amount, which has already been stayed by the Court. It is contended that asking bank guarantee is a device to abridge the Court's order and power of judicial review. Reliance has been placed by counsel for the petitioner on PGF Limited and others Vs. Union of India and another : 2015 (13) SCC 50.

(34) The judgment relied by the learned counsel for the petitioner i.e. PGF Ltd. vs Union of India and another (supra) is not applicable in the facts and circumstances of the case because in the present case, Clause 4.49 of U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005 in no manner affects the consequence of the interim order of the Court. The Bank guarantee has been asked on the premise that petitioner has applied for enhancement of load. Had the petitioner not applied for enhancement of the load, there was no question for asking any bank guarantee.

(35) The next question for our consideration is whether by the impugned clause has the petitioner's right to life and liberty been affected? For this Court to intervene, it must be shown that the impugned clause is demonstrably arbitrary, capricious, irrational, discriminatory or violative of constitutional or statutory provisions. Otherwise, it cannot be struck down by a court, nor can the Court go into the wisdom of the State policy. Here, the petitioner has failed to demonstrate any of the aforesaid.

(36) In view of the foregoing discussions, we are satisfied that no grounds have been made out to declare Clause 4.49 of U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005 as ultra vires. Thus the prayer of the petitioner to declare Clause 4.49 of U.P. Electricity Supply Code 2005 as ultra vires is refused.

(37) With the aforesaid, the writ petition has no merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

A. Service – Termination - Contempt – Jurisdiction – The question referred to the Court was whether the judgment passed in Rajendra Prasad Singh's case, which has been affirmed by the Division Bench in Special Appeal No. 1211 of 2009, is correct or not?

The Court observed that termination orders passed in the year 1992 were set aside by learned Single Judge in three different writ petitions. One of them being the Rajendra Prasad Singh's case, against which special appeal filed by the State was also dismissed, as such, order of setting aside the termination order attained finality. Subsequently, appellants had passed termination order while considering the representation filed by respondent on the direction of Contempt Court. These orders were passed without even taking note that earlier termination orders were set aside and the issue brought before the authority was confined to payment of salary. There was no issue of termination of service before the authority, therefore, there was no justification in passing the termination order on the representation filed by the respondents. (Para 22)

The Court held that the common termination order passed in 1992 (on 21.03.1992) was bad in law and was rightly set aside on the ground that the GO dated 06.12.1991 was not related to writ petitioners as they were neither daily wagers nor working on work charge basis. It was related to future employments and services of the writ petitioners could not be terminated in view of the said GO. (Para 28)

In the light of the above observations, the view taken by the learned Single Judge in Rajendra Prasad Singh's case, which has been affirmed by the Division Bench, was held to be a correct view.

Appeal dismissed. Reference answered. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sunita Agarwal, J.
Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.
Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamsheri, J.)

1. Supplementary affidavit filed today on behalf of respondent, is taken on record.

2. Heard Shri H.N. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri A.K. Trivedi on behalf of the appellants, Shri J.K. Tiwari on behalf of respondent nos.1 to 6 and Ms. Subhash Rathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for respondent no.7.

3. The present Larger Bench is constituted under the order of Hon'ble the Chief Justice in pursuance of the following questions referred by a Division Bench of this Court, vide order dated 28.9.2017, passed in Special Appeal No.219 of 2015 and Special Appeal (Defective) No.31 of 2003 :-

1. "Whether the judgment of learned Single Judge passed in Rajendra Prasad Singh's case, which has been affirmed by the Division Bench in Special Appeal No.1211 of 2009, is correct or not.

2. Whether in absence of any post in the establishment/department in question, the appointment can be sustained or not.

3. Whether in the absence of post directives can be issued for ensuring payment of salary."

4. These cases have chequered history and before going into the questions referred above, it is necessary to consider the facts of the present case. From the record available, facts of the case are as follows :-

5. The respondents/writ petitioners were appointed on temporary basis by individual appointment letters dated 1.4.1990 by the Town Area Committee, Allahabad under the order issued by the then Chairman, Town Area Committe, Jhunsi, Allahabad, on the post of Helper for the purpose of maintenance of tube wells, which were transferred from the department of Jal Nigam. It was specifically mentioned in their appointment letters that it would be subject to the approval of the Committee.

6. The said appointments were duly approved in the meeting dated 25.4.1990, conducted under the chairmanship of the then Chairman, Town Area Committe, Jhunsi, Allahabad.

7. The State Government issued Government Order dated 6.12.1991/24.12.1991 whereby ban was imposed on appointment of any person as daily wager or on work charge basis by the Nagar Palika Nagar Nigam Department. On the basis of said ban, the services of the respondents/writ petitioners were terminated by the Town Area Committee, Jhunsi, Allahabad, under a common order dated 21.3.1992.

8. The respondents/writ petitioners namely Babu Lal, Anis Ahmad and Ram Lal approached this Court by way of filing Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.1093 of 1992 which was allowed by an order dated 8.12.1995 whereby their termination orders were set aside. For reference, the said order is reproduced hereinafter :-

"The petitioners have challenged the order dated 21.3.1992 annexure No.8 to the writ petition whereby petitioner's employments were terminated. The petitioners contend in the writ petition that they were appointed in various posts by order dated 1.4.1990 on temporary basis and started discharging their duties. Such appointment was duly approved by the Town Area Committee, Jhunsi in its meeting held on 25.4.1990. Thereafter, by order dated 21.3.1992 at Annexure No.8 to the writ petition the petitioners' services were terminated and hence the present writ petition.

Counter Affidavit was filed by the respondent no.1 and 2, but no counter affidavit was filed on behalf of the respondent no.3.

After hearing the parties and considering the materials available on record I find that the impugned order of termination in respect of the petitioners' services was passed in view of the fact that no clarification was given by the respondent no.3 in spite of the fact that such clarification was sought for by the respondent Nos.1 and 2 as to whether the petitioners' employment are to continue in spite of the Government Order dated 6.12.1991.

Upon considering the material I find that the Government Order dated 6.12.1991 does not relate to the petitioners as they are not daily wager or on work charge basis and further the said order relates to future appointment. In the circumstances, the petitioners' employment already made on temporary basis could not be terminated in view of the said Government Order.

In the aforesaid circumstances, there being justification in passing the impugned order of termination dated 21.3.1992 the said order is hereby quashed. Accordingly, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. There will be no order as to costs."

(emphasis supplied)

9. As per the record available, no special appeal was filed against the order dated 8.12.1995, as such, the order passed by the learned Single Judge dated 8.12.1995, has attained its finality.

10. Ramesh Bind, Rajendra Bind, Bhanu Pratap Singh, Paras Nath, Kishore Kumar, Ram Nath & Raghvendra Singh (respondents/writ petitioners) also challenged their termination order by way of filing Writ Petition No.10902 of 1992, which was also allowed by an order dated 29.7.2002 in terms of the earlier judgment and order dated 8.12.1995. The said order is also reproduced hereinafter :-

"Shri V.K. Gupta appears on behalf of the petitioners. Shri S.P. Gaur has not appear on behalf of the respondent.

Shri V.K. Gupta contended that the controversy involved in this writ petition is exactly the same and is covered by the decision given in W.P. No.10903/1992, Babu Lal and others Vs. Town Area Committee, Jhunsi and others decided on 8.12.95 by this Court.

Heard and perused the records of the writ petition.

This writ petition is disposed of finally on the same terms and conditions given in judgment dated 8.12.95, Babu Lal and others Vs. Town Area Committee Jhunsi and others."

(emphasis supplied)

11. Belatedly, the special appeal was filed against the order dated 29.7.2002 which was once dismissed in default, however, restored and is also listed in the present bunch as Special Appeal (Defective) No.31 of 2003.

12. Rajendra Bind and 5 others (respondents/writ petitioners) approached this Court by way of filing a Civil Misc. Contempt Writ Petition No.2632 of 2005 for violation of order dated 29.7.2002, passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ Petition No.10902 of 1992. The said contempt petition was disposed of by order dated 21.8.2006, which is reproduced hereinafter :-

"The applicants contend that the order dated 29.7.2002 continues to be violated as they have not been paid their salary. The order which was issued in Writ Petition No.10903 of 1992 was for quashing of the order of termination whereby the services of the employees of the town area Jhunsi were terminated. The applicant's writ petition was also disposed of on the same terms and conditions. There is no specific direction for payment of any past salary or any such other payments and as such, it would be appropriate that the applicants, approach the Chairman, Nagar Panchayat Jhunsi, Allahabad with a fresh application for clearance of their dues which shall be considered and disposed of preferably within 3 months of the date of production of the same alongwith a certified copy of this order.

The contempt petition is consigned to records with the aforesaid observations."

(emphasis supplied)

13. One of the employee namely Rajendra Pratap Singh, who was aggrieved by his termination order, filed another Writ Petition No.32445 of 1992, which was allowed, vide order dated 21.8.2009. For reference, the said order is reproduced hereinafter :-

"This case was on cause list on 19.8.2009 and on the request of the learned counsel for the petitioner was adjourned for 20.8.2009 and then for today, but today also none appeared for the petitioner. Learned standing counsel representing respondent no.3 is present. I have perused the record.

Aggrieved by the order dated 21.8.1992 (Annexure 8 to the writ petition) the under Article 226 of the Constitution seeking writ of certiorari quashing the said order whereby the Chairman, Nagar Kshetra Samiti Jhunsi, Allahabad has terminated his services from the post of Naib Moharrir. From the facts stated in the writ petition, it appears that on purely temporary basis on 1.4.1990 in the pay scale off Rs.305-330 subject to approval by body. The aforesaid appointment of the petitioner was later on approved by the Committee on 25.4.1990 (Annexure 2 to the writ petition). Thereafter, by order dated 1.9.1991, the petitioner was promoted with effect from 1.9.1991 in the pay scale of Rs.325-475 and the said promotion was also approved the Committee on 13.1.192. The district Magistrate, Allahabad vide letter dated 24.12.1991. However, informed all local bodies within Allahabad District that as per the Government Order dated 16.12.1991., no person should be employed on daily wage basis and pursuant thereto the impugned order has been passed.

Even the facts stated above, it is evident that the petitioner was not appointed on daily wage basis. It is also not the case of the respondent 1 and 2 that his appointment was illegal or contrary to the statute. In the circumstances, termination of the services of the petitioner pursuant of the Government Order dated 16.12.1991 cannot sustain.

The writ petition is, accordingly, allowed. The impugned order dated 21.08.1992 (Annexure 8 to the writ petition for all consequential benefits. No costs. "

(emphasis supplied)

14. The said order was challenged by the appellant - Town Area Committee, Jhunsi, Allahabad, by filing Special Appeal No.1211 of 2009, which was dismissed by this Court, vide order dated 18.11.2009 with the following observations :-

Heard Shri V.K. Dwivedi, learned counsel for appellant. Shri Pankaj Agarwal has entered appearance on behalf of petitioner-respondent.

By the judgment dated 21.8.2009 under challenge in this Special Appeal, learned Single Judge has found that the petitioner was initially appointed as Peon on temporary basis on 1.4.1990 in the pay scale of Rs.305-330 subject to approval of the Committee constituted by Local Body. The appointment was approved by the Committee on 25.4.1990 and thereafter by the order dated 1.9.1991, the petitioner was promoted w.e.f. 1.9.1991 in the pay scale of Rs. 325-475. This promotion was also approved by the Committee on 13.1.1992. The Town Area Committee, by the order dated 21.8.1992, to give effect to the Government Order dated 16.12.1991, circulated to the local bodies by the District Magistrate on 24.12.1991 to dispense with the services of daily waged employees, terminated the services of the petitioner. The Court found that the petitioner's appointment was neither illegal nor contrary to the rules. He was not appointed on daily wages and was not covered by the Government Order dated 16.12.1991.

Shri V.K. Dwivedi, learned counsel for appellant states that the petitioner was earlier an employee of Jal Sansthan and that in the year 1991 there was only 14 sanctioned posts. The petitioner was appointed in addition to the sanctioned post.

The appointment order dated 1.4.1990 would show that the petitioner was appointed on the post of peon to maintain the tubewell on temporary basis, and his services were thereafter confirmed.

We do not find that learned Single Judge has committed any error of facts and law in dismissing the writ petition.

The Special Appeal is dismissed."

(emphasis supplied)

15. Though the learned Single Judge as well as Division Bench had not noticed the earlier judgment, however, reasoning given by the learned Single Judge which was upheld by Division Bench was same as given by earlier Single Bench.

16. In pursuance of the order dated 21.8.2006 passed in contempt petition, the respondents/ writ petitioners approached the District Panchayat, Jhunsi, Allahabad, for ventilating their grievances regarding the non-payment of their salary. The Chairman, Nagar Panchayat, Jhunsi, Allahabad, vide order dated 29.10.2008 while considering the representation, terminated the services of the respondents/writ petitioners on the ground that their initial appointments were based on forged documents vide individual orders.

17. Another contempt petition was filed in the year 2007 being Contempt Petition No.2284 of 2007 which was disposed of, vide order dated 5.1.2019 on the ground that decision was already taken.

18. Rajendra Bind & others (respondents/writ petitioners) approached this Court by way of filing Writ A No.23102 of 2009, challenging their termination order dated 29.10.2008. The said writ petition was allowed by the learned Single Judge, vide order dated 19.2.2015 and the impugned termination order dated 29.10.2008 was quashed. The relevant part of the order is reproduced hereinafter :-

"In the Counter Affidavit, it has been sought to be urged that the appointment of the petitioners was made without any sanction of the appropriate Government. It has further been contended that the petitioners had been engaged to perform functions only during the pendency of the 'Maha Kumbh Mela'. However, none of these contentions appear to be borne out from the orders of appointment and in any view of the matter do not appear to have been urged in defence in the earlier litigation taken before this Court.

This Court is constrained to record its conclusion that the petitioners were never confronted with the adverse material nor were they afforded any opportunity of hearing prior to the making of the impugned order. Insofar as their appointments were concerned, no such plea was urged by the respondents in the earlier round of litigation. For all the aforesaid reasons, this Court finds that the impugned order dated 29th October, 2008 cannot be sustained.

Accordingly, this writ petition is allowed. The impugned order dated 29th October, 2008 is hereby quashed. The petitioners shall be entitled to resume work on their posts and be paid salary and other emoluments regularly in accordance with law."

19. The order dated 19.2.2015 (passed in Writ A No.23102 of 2009 - Rajendra Bind & ors. vs. Town Area Committee & others) was challenged before the Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal No.219 of 2015. As earlier mentioned, the Special (Defective) No.31 of 2003 was also tagged. The learned Division Bench while considering the appeal made the abovementioned reference, which is under consideration before this Larger Bench.

20. From the facts as mentioned above, it is evident that :-

(i) The initial termination orders passed in the year 1992 were set aside by the learned Single Judge in three writ petitions bearing Writ Petition Nos.10902, 10903 of 1992 and 32445 of 1992 by orders dated 8.12.1995, 29.7.2002 and 21.8.2009 respectively. One of the special appeal filed against the said order was dismissed vide order dated 18.11.2009 and another special appeal was filed belatedly, it was initially dismissed in default. Later on the appeal was restored which is listed along with the present bunch. One of the order passed by learned Single Judge was not even challenged. The crux is that the initial termination orders were set aside on merit.

(ii) The second round of litigation was initiated when the respondents/writ petitioners approached the Contempt Court by way of filing a contempt petition demanding their salary which was not paid. The said contempt petition was disposed of with liberty to approach the appellants for their redressal of grievances.

(iii) When the representations were moved, the appellants without considering that the termination orders passed earlier were already set aside and special appeal was also dismissed, and as such, order of this Court had attained finality, acted beyond the directions passed by the Contempt Court and again terminated the respondents/writ petitioners on the ground that their initial appointments were based on forged document.

(iv) The said order ex-facie was beyond the powers of the appellants. There was no occasion for the appellants to pass such order on the representation moved by the respondents/writ petitioners in pursuance of the order passed by the learned Contempt Court.

(v) The allegation of forged document was neither placed before the Court earlier nor any documents were ever confronted with the writ petitioners in earlier round of litigation.

(vi) The issues, such as appointment beyond the sanctioned post and the initial appointment was illegal, has no relevance in the present facts and circumstances, as the order of initial appointment had already been confirmed way back in the year 1995.

(vii) The entire exercise of the appellants by terminating the respondents/writ petitioners in the year 2008 was without jurisdiction, therefore,, it was an illegal order, which is unsustainable in the eyes of law also.

(viii) The appellants have acted arbitrarily by terminating the services of the respondents/writ petitioners when they approached for their demand of salary.

(ix) Appellants could not interfere with the order passed by the learned Single Judge, which was upheld by the Division Bench of this Court in the garb of contempt proceedings.

21. Shri H.N. Singh, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellants has tried to convince the Bench that the initial appointments of the respondents/writ petitioners was itself bad as the Chairman had no power to appoint the respondents/writ petitioners. In support of his submission, he relied upon the United Provinces Town Areas Act, 1914. However, on a pointed query, raised by the Bench, whether the appellants had power to pass termination orders while considering the representation pursuant to the order passed by the Contempt Court? Learned Senior Counsel was unable to justify the action taken by the appellants.

22. Termination orders passed in the year 1992 were set aside by learned Single Judge in three different writ petitions. One of the special appeal filed by the State was also dismissed, as such, order of setting aside the termination order attained finality. Subsequently, appellants had passed termination order while considering the representation filed by respondent on the direction of this Court (Contempt Court). These orders were passed without even taking note that earlier termination orders were set aside and the issue brought before the authority was confined to payment of salary. There was no issue of termination of service before the authority, therefore, there was no justification in passing the termination order on the representation filed by the respondents. We are of the definite view that the appellants have acted illegally and in arbitrary manner.

23. In view of the above discussion, we do not find any illegality and infirmity in the judgment and order passed by the learned Single Judge whereby the termination orders passed in the year 2008, were set aside. Accordingly, the Special Appeal No.219 of 2015 is dismissed.

24. In Re:- Special Appeal Defective No.31 of 2003 - In this special appeal, appellants have questioned judgment and order dated 29.7.2002 passed by learned Single Judge in Writ Petition No.10902 of 1992 whereby common termination order dated 21.3.1992 has been set aside qua the writ petitioners. The writ petition was allowed in same terms and conditions given in the judgment and order dated 8.12.1995 passed in Writ Petition No.1093 of 1992.

25. As already noted, the said common termination order was earlier challenged in the Writ Petition No.1093 of 1992 and the same was allowed and termination order dated 21.3.1992 was set aside, vide order dated 8.12.1995 qua the writ petitioners. Learned Single Judge held that :- "Upon considering the material I find that the Government Order dated 6.12.1991 does not relate to the petitioners as they are not daily wager or on work charge basis and further the said order relates to future appointment. In the circumstances, the petitioners' employment already made on temporary basis could not be terminated in view of the said Government Order. In the aforesaid circumstances, there being justification in passing the impugned order of termination dated 21.3.1992 the said order is hereby quashed. Accordingly, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. There will be no order as to costs." This order remain unchallenged.

26. Similarly, the common termination order dated 21.8.1992 was challenged in Writ Petition No.32445 of 1992 also. Learned Single Judge, vide judgment and order dated 21.8.2009 quashed the said termination order qua the writ petitioners. The learned Single Judge held that "it is evident that the petitioner was not appointed on daily wage basis. It is also not the case of the respondent 1 and 2 that his appointment was illegal or contrary to the statute. In the circumstances, termination of the services of the petitioner pursuant of the Government Order dated 16.12.1991 cannot sustain". Against the order, a Special Appeal 1211 of 2009 was preferred, however, the same was dismissed on 18.11.2009. The Division Bench held that "The appointment order dated 1.4.1990 would show that the petitioner was appointed on the post of peon to maintain the tubewell on temporary basis, and his services were thereafter confirmed. We do not find that learned Single Judge has committed any error of facts and law in dismissing the writ petition. The Special Appeal is dismissed". The said judgment and order was not challenged further.

27. Now the appellants are trying to reopen the case. The appellants have failed to point out any error in the impugned order as well as in the consistent view taken by Single Benches and Division Bench of this Court that common termination order dated 21.3.1992 was bad in law.

28. We are of the considered opinion that view taken by learned Single Bench and Division Bench of this Court is correct. The common termination order was bad in law and rightly set aside on the ground that the Government Order dated 6.12.1991 was not related to writ petitioners as they were neither daily wagers nor working on work charge basis. The Government Order dated 6.12.1991 was related to future employments and services of the writ petitioners could not be terminated in view of the said Government Order.

29. Accordingly, the Special Appeal Defective No.31 of 2003 is dismissed.

30. While dismissing the appeal, we answer the reference as follows :-

(a) Referred question no.1 - "Whether the judgment of learned Single Judge passed in Rajendra Prasad Singh's case, which has been affirmed by the Division Bench in Special Appeal No.1211 of 2009, is correct or not" -- We have dismissed Special Appeal Defective No.31 of 2003 by present judgment and affirmed the view taken by learned Single Judge in Writ Petition No.1093 of 1992, Writ Petition No.10902 of 1992, Writ Petition No.32445 of 1992 as well as view taken by Division Bench in Special Appeal No.1211 of 2009 that common termination order dated 21.8.1992 was bad in law, therefore, the view taken by the learned Single Judge in Rajendra Prasad Singh's case (Supra), which has been affirmed by the Division Bench in Special Appeal No.1211 of 2019 is a correct view.

(b) Referred question no.2 - "Whether in absence of any post in the establishment/department in question, the appointment can be sustained or not"

&

Referred question no.3 - "Whether in the absence of post directives can be issued for ensuring payment of salary." - So far as the question nos.2 and 3 are concerned, there is no need to answer these questions as the issues do not arise in the facts and circumstances of the present case.

31. The reference is answered, accordingly.

THE HON'BLE BALA KRISHNA NARAYANA, J.
THE HON'BLE ROHIT RANJAN AGARWAL, J.

Special Appeal No. 982 of 2002

The General Manager (Personnel), Uco Bank, Kolkata & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Dheeraj Kumar Dixit ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Manoj Misra, Sri Ravi Prakash Pandey, Sri V.K. Srivastava, Sri Virendra Kumar Srivastava, Sri R.N. Singh

Counsel for the Respondent:
Sri D.S.P. Singh

A. Service – Compassionate appointment – The Court in the writ petition struck down Clauses 7 and 8 of the Scheme for Recruitment of Dependents of Deceased Employee on Compassionate Ground, providing guidelines for the recruitment, framed by the Bank, while considering the case of the petitioner-respondent for compassionate appointment. While allowing the present appeal the Court reversed the judgment and held as follows.

B. The ground which can justify compassionate appointment is the penury condition of the deceased. And while considering penury condition for compassionate appointment, the income of the bereaved family from various sources including the gratuity, pension etc. has to be taken into account – The total income of the family of the deceased was more than 60% of the last drawn gross salary of the deceased, therefore the petitioner-respondent was not eligible for appointment on compassionate ground in the bank, as per the scheme of the Bank. (Para 4, 6, 9, 10, 12)

Appeal allowed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Umesh Kumar Nagpal Vs. St. of Har. & ors., JT 1994 (3) SC 525 (Para 6)

2. L.I.C. Vs. Asha Ram Chandra Ambedkar & anr., JT 1994 (2) SC 183 (Para 6)

3. State of Himachal Pradesh & anr. Vs. Shashi Kumar, in Civil Suit No. 988 of 2019 dated 16.01.2019 (Para 9, 12)

Appeal against judgment and order dated 31.07.2002, passed in Writ Petition No. 23899 of 2000.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Bala Krishna Narayana, J.
&
Hon'ble Rohit Ranjan Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ravi Prakash Pandey, learned counsel for the appellant.

2. None appears on behalf of the respondent.

3. This special appeal has been preferred by the General Manager (Personnel) of UCO Bank, Kolkata, and the Regional Manager, UCO Bank, Bhelpura, District Varanasi, against the judgement and order dated 31st July, 2002, passed by learned Single Judge of this Court in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.23899 of 2000.

4. The facts of this case as emerging from the perusal of the pleadings filed before the Writ Court are that the father of the petitioner-respondent Dhiraj Kumar Dixit was working on the post of Assistant Cashier in the UCO Bank, Chowk, Varanasi. He died in harness on 6.2.1997. The petitioner-respondent on 20.5.1997 claimed appointment on compassionate ground. His application remained pending. He filed writ petition no.1765 of 2000, which was disposed of by this Court on 17.1.2000 directing the petitioner-respondent to make a fresh representation, which was to be decided by the General Manager (Personnel), UCO Bank, Calcutta. The petitioner-respondent prepared a fresh representation and sent it by registered post alongwith a copy of the order passed by this court on 29.1.2000 and 1.2.2000. But since the representation was not decided he sent reminders on 3.3.2000 and 7.3.2000. The General Manager by his order dated 19.4.2000 rejected the representation of the petitioner-respondent on the ground that total income of the family of the deceased was more than 60% of the last drawn gross salary of the deceased, therefore, the petitioner-respondent was not eligible for appointment on compassionate ground in the bank, as per the scheme of bank. The petitioner-respondent had challenged before the Writ Court the Scheme for Recruitment of Dependants of Deceased Employee on Compassionate Ground (in brief Scheme), annexure-1 to the petition and the order dated 19.4.2000 passed by respondent no.1, annexure-5 to the writ petition.

5. Before the Writ Court, the petitioner-respondent had urged that the provident fund, gratuity, family pension, group insurance or insurance policy cannot be considered for determining the financial status or family income of the deceased's family nor it can furnish a ground for rejecting the claim for appointment on compassionate ground. It was also urged that the scheme framed by the Bank was ultra vires and arbitrary.

6. The stand taken by the respondent-appellant Bank before the Writ Court was that the head office of the Bank had framed a scheme on 21.9.1999 for recruitment of dependents of the deceased employees on compassionate grounds and the norms for eligibility have been laid down in the scheme which provides that if the monthly income of the bereaved family was 60% or more of the gross salary, the deceased employee was drawing at the time of his death, then such cases would not be considered for compassionate appointment. The Bank took a further stand that monthly income of the family of the petitioner-respondent on being calculated in accordance with the formula provided in the scheme, was above 60% of the last drawn gross salary of the deceased employee. Hence, the petitioner-respondent was not entitled for compassionate appointment. It was also urged before the Writ Court that the Bank had framed a scheme in pursuance of the decision of the Apex Court In Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana and others JT 1994(3) SC 525 in which the Apex Court in paragraph 7 has laid down that rules or executive instructions have to be framed by the public authority for providing employment on compassionate ground. Reliance was also placed by the respondent-appellant Bank on the decision of the Apex Court in Life Insurance Corporation of India Vs Mrs. Asha Ram Chandra Ambedkar and another JT 1994(2) SC 183. He further urged that the High Court while considering the appointment on compassionate ground cannot go behind the scheme framed by the Bank for giving appointment on compassionate ground and no mandamus can be issued directing to make appointment forbidden under the scheme framed by the Bank. The scheme neither suffered from any illegality nor the petitioner-respondent was entitled for appointment on compassionate grounds.

7. The learned Single Judge after considering the submissions advanced before him by learned counsel for the parties, allowed the writ petition by the order impugned in this special appeal.

8. Following paragraphs of the impugned judgement which are relevant for the purpose of deciding this special appeal is quoted hereinbelow :-

"Today most of the service whether government or inpublic sector or even otherwise are pension-abe and there is a provision for family pension. Every employee from peon in class-IV to head of department in class-I contributes to Provident Fund, is entitled to gratuity and is compulsorily insured. If these amounts which are payable to the family on death of the employee are clubbed together and a notional 11% insterest is calculated on it to arrive at 60% of the gross salary drawn by the deceased then this would hardly be any dependant who could be entitled for compassionate appointment.

Family pension is paid to the widow of the deceased. This is also a social security for the employee's widow. The calculation of 11% interest on the amount received by the family of the deceased and the Family Pension is not only against the letter and spirit of the apex court judgement but is contrary to basic philosophy of socio-economic justice. Further 11% interest was not paid even on Fixed Deposit Receipts in 1999. Today it is much less. The provision for calculating 11% interest is, thus, arbitrary.

For these reasons this writ petition succeeds and is allowed. Clauses 7 and 8 of the Scheme for Recruitment of Dependents of Deceased Employee on Compassionate Ground annexure-1 to the writ petition are struck down as arbitrary and irrational. Consequently, the impugned order dated 19.4.2000 passed by respondent no.1 annexure-5 to the writ petition is quashed. The respondents are directed to consider the representation of the petitioner afresh within six weeks and grant compassionate appointment in Class-III or IV according to his eligibility."

9. It has been contended by learned counsel for the respondent-appellant that it has been the consistent view of the Apex Court that while considering a claim for compassionate appointment, the income of the bereaved family from various sources including the gratuity, pension etc. has to be taken into account and an appointment on compassionate ground can only be provided on the ground which can justify compassionate appointment is the penury condition of the deceased family and the learned Single Judge was not at all justified in striking down clauses 7 and 8 of the scheme providing guidelines for the recruitment of the dependant of the deceased family on compassionate ground framed by the Bank. In support of his aforesaid contentions, learned counsel for the respondent-appellant has placed reliance upon by judgement of the Apex Court rendered in the case of State of Himachal Pradesh and another v. Shashi Kumar, in Civil Suit No.988 of 2019 dated 16th January, 2019.

10. Having considered the submissions made by learned counsel for the respondent-appellant and very carefully perused the law reports cited by him, we find that there is force in the submissions made by him. The Apex Court in the case of State of Himachal Pradesh and another (supra) after considering the entire law on the subject of compassionate appointment, came to the conclusion that while considering the penury condition of the bereaved family, the income of the bereaved family from different sources including the family pension has to be taken into consideration.

11. The paragraphs of the aforesaid judgement which are relevant for our purpose are being reproduced hereinbelow :-

"In view of the clear terms of the Policy, we are of the view that the High Court was in error in issuing a mandamus to the Government to disregard its Policy. Such direction could not have been issued by the High Court. The High Court has drawn sustenance in issuing mandamus in the above terms on a decision of this Court in Govind Prakash Verma (supra). That was a case of compassionate appointment where in the course of the proceedings before the High Court, a learned Single Judge had directed the Life Insurance Corporation, which was the employer of the deceased employee, to make an enquiry and submit a report on whether the members of the family engaged in gainful employment were also supporting the family of the deceased employee. This Court, in an appeal against the judgment of the High Court rejecting the petition for compassionate appointment, observed that the officer who had enquired into the matter in pursuance of the order of the learned Single Judge completely omitted to furnish any report on the points which were required by the High Court to be investigated. The High Court rejected the petition on the ground that the family was in receipt of family pension and other amounts towards terminal benefits. Reversing the view of the High Court, a two- Judge Bench of this Court held thus:

"6. In our view, it was wholly irrelevant for the departmental authorities and the learned Single Judge to take into consideration the amount which was being paid as family pension to the widow of the deceased (which amount, according to the appellant, has now been reduced to half) and other amounts paid on account of terminal benefits under the Rules..." The decision in Govind Prakash Verma (supra) has been considered subsequently in several decisions. But, before we advert to those decisions, it is necessary to note that the nature of compassionate appointment had been considered by this Court in Umesh Kumar Nagpal Vs. State of Haryana4. The principles which have been laid down in Umesh Kumar Nagpal (supra) have been subsequently followed in a consistent line of precedents in this Court. These principles are encapsulated in the following extract:

"2. ...As a rule, appointments in the public services should be made strictly on the basis of open invitation of applications and merit. No other mode of appointment nor any other consideration is permissible. Neither the Governments nor the public authorities are at liberty to follow any other procedure or relax the qualifications laid down by the rules for the post. However, to this general rule which is to be followed strictly in every case, there are some exceptions carved out in the interests of justice and to meet certain contingencies.

One such exception is in favour of the dependants of an employee dying in harness and leaving his family in penury and without any means of livelihood. In such cases, out of pure humanitarian consideration taking into consideration the fact that unless some source of livelihood is provided, the family would not be able to make both ends meet, a provision is made in the rules to provide gainful employment to one of the dependants of the deceased who may be eligible for such employment. The whole object of granting compassionate employment is thus to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis. The object is not to give a member of such family a post much less a post for post held by the deceased. What is further, mere death of an employee in harness does not entitle his family to such source of livelihood. The Government or the public authority concerned has to examine the financial condition of the family of the deceased, and it is only if it is satisfied, that but for the provision of employment, the family will not be able to meet the crisis that a job is to be offered to the eligible member of the family. The posts in Classes III and IV are the lowest posts in non-manual and manual 4 (1994) 4 SCC 138 categories and hence they alone can be offered on compassionate grounds, the object being to relieve the family, of the financial destitution and to help it get over the emergency. The provision of employment in such lowest posts by making an exception to the rule is justifiable and valid since it is not discriminatory. The favourable treatment given to such dependant of the deceased employee in such posts has a rational nexus with the object sought to be achieved, viz., relief against destitution. No other posts are expected or required to be given by the public authorities for the purpose. It must be remembered in this connection that as against the destitute family of the deceased there are millions of other families which are equally, if not more destitute. The exception to the rule made in favour of the family of the deceased employee is in consideration of the services rendered by him and the legitimate expectations, and the change in the status and affairs, of the family engendered by the erstwhile employment which are suddenly upturned." Specifically in the context of considering the financial circumstances of the family of the deceased employee, several judgments of this Court have elaborated on the principles to be followed.

The decision in General Manager (D&PB) Vs. Kunti Tiwary5 involved an interpretation of an office memorandum dated 7 August 1996 circulated to all banks in the light of the decision in Umesh Kumar Nagpal (supra). The Indian Banks Association adopted the directions of this Court in the Scheme which was proposed for the appointment of heirs of deceased employees. The Scheme contemplated that in order to determine the financial condition of the family, the following amounts would have 5 (2004) 7 SCC 271 to be taken into account:

"7...(a) Family pension.

(b) Gratuity amount received.

(c) Employee's/employer's contribution to provident fund.

(d) Any compensation paid by the Bank or its Welfare Fund.

(e) Proceeds of LIC policy and other investments of the deceased employee.

(f) Income of family from other sources.

(g) Employment of other family members.

(h) Size of the family and liabilities, if any, etc." Eventually, this recommendation was accepted in the Scheme. In the light of these recommendations and the Scheme, this Court observed that where the family of a deceased employee was not left without means of livelihood, the claim for compassionate appointment could not be sustained. It may be noted that in that case it was on a review of the overall financial position of the family, including amounts received towards terminal benefits that the decision was taken.

The decision of this Court in Punjab National Bank Vs. Ashwani Kumar Taneja6 followed the same principle. While reiterating the view which was taken in Kunti Tiwary (supra), this Court held that the Scheme specified the amounts which were required to be taken into consideration.

The decision in State Bank of India Vs. Somvir Singh7 has noticed the scheme for appointment of dependants of 6 (2004) 7 SCC 265 7 (2007) 4 SCC 778 deceased employees on compassionate grounds framed by the State Bank of India. The Court expressly held that the authorities were not in error in taking account of the terminal benefits, investments and the monthly family income including the family pension paid by the Bank. The view of this Court finds expression in the following extract:

"12. The competent authority while considering the application had taken into consideration each one of those factors and accordingly found that the dependants of the employee who died in harness are not in penury and without any means of livelihood. The authority did not commit any error in taking the terminal benefits and the investments and the monthly family income including the family pension paid by the Bank into consideration for the purposes of deciding as to whether the family of late Zile Singh had been left in penury or without any means of livelihood. The scheme framed by the appellant Bank in fact mandates the authority to take those factors into consideration. The authority also did not commit any error in taking into consideration the income of the family from other sources viz. the agricultural land." (emphasis supplied) In the view of this Court, the only issue to be considered was whether the claim for compassionate appointment had been considered in accordance with the Scheme. The income of the family from all sources was required to be taken into consideration according to the Scheme. This having been ignored by the High Court, the appeal filed by the Bank was allowed.

The judgment of a Bench of two-Judges in Mumtaz Yunus Mulani Vs. State of Maharashtra8 has adopted the principle that appointment on compassionate grounds is not a source of recruitment, but a means to enable the family of the deceased to get over a sudden financial crisis. The financial position of the family would need to be evaluated on the basis of the provisions contained in the Scheme. The decision in Govind Prakash Verma (supra) has been duly considered, but the Court observed that it did not appear that the earlier binding precedents of this Court have been taken note of in that case.

In Union of India Vs. Shashank Goswami, this Court considered a circular issued by the Office of the Comptroller and Auditor General of India in terms of which the total income of the family from all sources, including terminal benefits received, was required to be taken into account. Income limits were specified in the circular for Group "B', Group "C' and Group "D' posts. Taking note of the fact that a family pension has been authorized to the widow of the deceased employee, this Court held that the case of the dependant did not fall within the income limits meant for Group "C' posts.

The same principle has been reiterated in another decision of a Bench of two-Judges of this Court in State Bank of India Vs. Surya Narain Tripathi10. 8 (2008) 11 SCC 384 9 (2012) 11 SCC 307 10 (2014) 15 SCC 739 While adverting to a submission of learned counsel based on the decision in Govind Prakash Verma (supra), this Court noted thus:

"8. He relied upon the judgment of this Court in Govind Prakash Verma v. LIC[Govind Prakash Verma v. LIC, (2005) 10 SCC 289 : 2005 SCC (L&S) 590] where a view has been taken that the compassionate appointment cannot be refused on the ground that another member of the family had received appropriate employment and the service benefits were adequate. We may humbly state that this view runs counter to the view which was taken earlier in Umesh Kumar Nagpal [Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana, (1994) 4 SCC 138 : 1994 SCC (L&S) 930 : (1994) 27 ATC 537] which was not cited before the Court in Govind Prakash [Govind Prakash Verma v. LIC, (2005) 10 SCC 289 : 2005 SCC (L&S) 590] . The subsequent two judgments which were referred above also take the same view as in Umesh Kumar Nagpal[Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana, (1994) 4 SCC 138 : 1994 SCC (L&S) 930 : (1994) 27 ATC 537] . Mr Vikas Singh has drawn our attention to the judgment in SBIv. Somvir Singh [SBI v. Somvir Singh, (2007) 4 SCC 778 : (2007) 2 SCC (L&S) 92] where the 1998 Scheme has been considered.

9. In all the matters of compassionate appointment it must be noticed that it is basically a way out for the family which is financially in difficulties on account of the death of the breadearner. It is not an avenue for a regular employment as such. This is in fact an exception to the provisions under Article 16 of the Constitution. That being so, if an employer points out that the financial arrangement made for the family subsequent to the death of the employee is adequate, the members of the family cannot insist that one of them ought to be provided a comparable appointment. This being the principle which has been adopted all throughout, it is difficult for us to accept the submission made on behalf of the respondent." Now, it is in this background that it would be necessary to advert to the decision in Canara Bank (supra). A Scheme for compassionate appointment of 8 May 1993 was prevalent in Canara Bank when the employee died on duty in October 1998. Faced with the rejection of an application for compassionate appointment, the High Court was moved in a Writ Petition in which a learned Single Judge issued a direction for reconsideration of the claim for appointment. During the pendency of the appeal before the Division Bench, the Scheme for compassionate appointment was replaced by a new Scheme providing for ex gratia in lieu of appointment. The main issue which fell for consideration before this Court was whether the subsequent Scheme which was formulated in 2005 providing for ex gratia payment would govern or whether the application would have to be disposed of on the basis of the earlier Scheme of 1993. It may be noted that the application for compassionate appointment in that case had been rejected on the ground that the family of the respondent was not in indigent circumstances, as required by the Scheme for compassionate appointment of 1993.

Dealing with the applicability of the subsequent Scheme, a Bench of two-Judges of this Court held, following the earlier decision in State Bank of India Vs. Jaspal Kaur11, that the cause of action to be considered for compassionate appointment arose when the earlier Scheme was in force. Hence, the claim could not be decided on the basis of the subsequent Scheme which 11 (2007) 9 SCC 571 provided only for the payment of ex gratia. Moreover, as a matter of fact, the subsequent scheme was superseded in 2014 by reviving the Scheme for the provision of compassionate appointment.

Hence, the issue which has been dealt with in Canara Bank (supra) is whether the application for grant of compassionate appointment could have been rejected on the basis of a scheme which had come into force after the date of submission of the application. That, as this Court observed, was the main question which fell for consideration. The Bench of two-Judges, however, also noted that it was urged on behalf of the appellant - Bank that the family of the respondent was in receipt of family pension. This, the Court held, was of no consequence in considering the application for compassionate appointment.

Learned senior counsel appearing on behalf of the appellants has sought to distinguish the above observations, in the judgment in Canara Bank (supra), by submitting that it is not the case of the State of Himachal Pradesh that mere receipt of family pension would disable an applicant from submitting an application for compassionate appointment or preclude consideration of the claim. On the contrary, the submission which is urged is that the Scheme requires consideration of all relevant sources of income and hence, receipt of family pension would be one of the criteria which would be taken into consideration in determining as to whether the family of the deceased employee is in indigent circumstances.

We find merit in this submission, for the simple reason, that it is in accord with the express terms of the Scheme of 18 January 1990, as modified by the State. The Scheme contemplates that payments which have been received on account of welfare measures provided by the State including family pension are to be taken into account. Plainly, the terms of the Scheme must be implemented.

For these reasons, we have come to the conclusion that the High Court was not justified, based on the decision in Govind Prakash Verma (supra) in issuing a direction to the State to act in a manner contrary to the express terms of the Scheme which require that the family pension received by the dependants of the deceased employee be taken into account.

That leads the Court to the next aspect of the matter relating to the fixation of an income slab. In our view, the fixation of an income slab is, in fact, a measure which dilutes the element of arbitrariness. While, undoubtedly, the facts of each individual case have to be borne in mind in taking a decision, the fixation of an income slab subserves the purpose of bringing objectivity and uniformity in the process of decision making. The High Court was of the view that it was not open to the Finance Department to amend the Scheme. The circulars which are issued by the Finance Department cannot be construed to be an amendment of the policy. They are really clarificatory of the intent and purpose of the Scheme. The circulars are explanatory, since they are intended to guide the decision maker on the concept of indigency which is incorporated in the Scheme. In fact, as we have noted earlier, in the decision of this court in Shashank Goswami(supra), the Court was specifically dealing with a circular of the Comptroller and Auditor General of India which had imposed income limits respectively for Group "B', "C' and "D' posts for the purpose of guiding the decision in the case of compassionate appointment. The fixation of income limits was not construed to be and is not an arbitrary exercise of power. However, what we find from the record of this case is that the income limit was fixed (as the High Court observed) on 29 September 2008 by the letter of the Finance Department. The income limit of Rs.1,00,000/- for a family of four persons has since been revised to Rs.1,50,000/- on 20 April 2011. Mr. P.S. Patwalia has, on instructions, stated before this Court that this ceiling has been reiterated on 27 July 2017. What should be the appropriate income criterion is undoubtedly a matter of policy for the State Government to determine. However, we would impress upon the State Government the need to periodically revise the income limits preferably at intervals of three years. Inflation and the increase in the cost of living have an important bearing on financial exigencies faced by families of serving as well as deceased employees. In fixing the income criteria for considering cases of compassionate appointment, it would be appropriate if the State revisits the income limit at periodic intervals, as we have indicated above. We clarify that it would be open to the State to revise the income limits at a frequency of less than three years, if the State is so advised."

12. Thus, in view of the guidelines laid down by the Apex Court in the case of State of Himachal Pradesh and another v. Shashi Kumar (supra) and the pronouncement made in Clauses 7 and 8 of the scheme of recruitment of dependants of deceased employees on compassionate ground which provide that while considering the claim for compassionate appointment under the scheme, the income of the bereaved family from sources specified in the scheme is required to be taken into consideration, are neither unreasonable nor suffer from the vice of arbitrariness. Thus, we find that the view taken by learned Single Judge is wholly untenable and cannot be sustained. In our opinion, the learned Single Judge was not at all justified in striking down Clauses 7 and 8 of the scheme.

13. We accordingly allow the appeal and set aside the impugned order passed by learned Single Judge to the extent it seeks to strike down Clauses 7 and 8 of the scheme.

14. However, we leave it open to appellant to consider and examine the claim of the petitioner-respondent on compassionate ground strictly in accordance with the provisions of the scheme.

A. - Contempt Courts Act, 1971- Section 12, 19 – Contempt – Jurisdiction – Service/Payment of arrears of salary- Scope of contempt jurisdiction is to see whether the order of the Court has been complied with – in substance – or deliberately flouted leading to an inference of a "wilful, deliberate and contumacious" violation of the order of which non-compliance is alleged.

In the present case, where there is no direction to dispose of the applications/representation of the petitioner in a particular manner, the correctness, legality or propriety of the order passed by the respondent authority, in compliance of the directions under the order of the writ Court, cannot be gone into in contempt proceedings, since its scope, even otherwise is extremely limited and narrow. The correctness or otherwise of the orders which have been passed by the respondent, if required, may be tested in appropriate proceedings but not in contempt jurisdiction. (Para 24)

Appeal against judgment and order dated 31.07.2019 and 21.08.2019, passed in Contempt Petition No. 4283 of 2018.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Biswanath Somadder, J.
Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Let the rejoinder affidavit filed in Court today be taken on record.

2. This Special Appeal arises in respect of two orders dated 31st July, 2019 and 21st August, 2019, passed by a learned Single Judge in Contempt Application (Civil) No.4283 of 2018 (Shiv Mohan Dwivedi Vs. Vinod Kumar Sharma).

3. The appellants before us are the incumbents holding the office of District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh and the Director of Education, Secondary, U.P., Lucknow, respectively.

4. For convenience, both the impugned orders are set-out hereinbelow in their entirety:-

Order dated 31st July, 2019

".....learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has apprised the Court of the fact that the District Inspector of Schools vide order dated 20.11.2018 requested the Director of Education, Madhyamik for making available necessary budget to facilitate payment of arrears of salary of the applicant. The Director has forwarded the entire matter to the Secretary, Secondary Education, Lucknow being the competent authority for sanctioning the budget.

Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel seeks time so that in the meantime, the budget is sanctioned by the State Government.

Accordingly, the matter is adjourned for three weeks.

List on 21.8.2019, by which date, in case, the necessary budget is not sanctioned and payment is not made, the opposite party shall remain personally present before this Court to justify the delay in compliance of the order of this Court."

Order dated 21st August, 2019

"In the affidavit filed by the opposite party today before this Court, the stand taken is that despite specific request having been made by him to the Director of Education (Madhyamik) and the State Government to make available the required budget so as to ensure payment of arrears of salary to the applicant in terms of the order of the Writ Court, the amount has not been sanctioned so far.

Alongwith the affidavit, a letter written by the State Government to Director of Education dated 8.7.2019 has been filed, whereunder the State Government has directed the Director of Education to submit his clear report and also identify the officers who were guilty of the delay in making payment.

It is always open to the State Government to identify officers who are responsible for the delay in making payment to the applicant but that itself could not be an excuse for sitting tight over the matter and not sanctioning the required amount.

Leave is granted to learned counsel for the applicant to implead Principal Secretary, Secondary Education, U.P. Lucknow and Director of Secondary Education, U.P. Lucknow as respondents to the instant contempt petition by name.

Learned standing counsel shall communicate this order to the newly impleaded respondents within three days. They shall file their affidavits showing cause as to why the necessary budget has not been sanctioned so far. This is without prejudice to their right to proceed against the officers guilty for delay in making payment of the arrears to the applicant.

List on 23.9.2019."

5. The genesis of the contempt application is a judgment and order dated 8th December, 2016, passed by a learned Single Judge in Writ-A No.23338 of 2013 (Shiv Mohan Dwivedi Vs. State of U.P. and four others). The operative portion of the said judgment and order dated 8th December, 2016 is required to be noticed and is set-out hereinbelow:-

"The petitioner shall, within a period of two weeks from today, submit a detailed representation before the second respondent in regard to his claim for the release of salary which had been stopped in 2013. He shall alongwith his reply also furnish for the consideration of the second respondent a copy of the supplementary short counter affidavit filed in these proceedings on behalf of the Sampurnanand Sanskrit Vishwa Vidyalaya, Varanasi. In case a representation is so made by the petitioner within the time aforementioned, the respondent No.2 shall pass appropriate orders in accordance with law with due expedition and preferably within a period of one month from the date of production of a certified copy of this order."

6. A bare perusal of the operative portion of the said judgment and order dated 8th December, 2016, clearly reveals that there was a mandatory direction upon the respondent no.2 (being the appellant no.1 before us) to pass appropriate orders in accordance with law in respect of a representation to be made by the respondent-writ petitioners within a certain time frame.

7. It is admitted position that pursuant to the directions as contained in the judgment and order dated 8th December, 2016, two orders have been passed by the respondent no.2 (being the appellant no.1 before us) being orders dated 11th January, 2017 and 27th August, 2018. Both the aforesaid orders had been placed on record along with the complaince affidavit of the opposite party no. 1 (District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh) filed in the contempt case.

8. The principal contention of the learned counsel for the appellant is that the direction of the writ court was for consideration of the representation of the writ petitioner, and the said direction having been complied with in terms of the orders passed by the concerned respondent (appellant no. 1 herein), the contempt court could not have gone beyond the directions of the writ court and proceeded with the matter.

9. Learned counsel appearing for the respondent has tried to support the orders impugned by seeking to contend that the orders passed by the concerned authority stated to be in compliance of the directions of the writ court, have not been correctly passed.

10. Before proceeding to advert to the rival contentions of the parties, it may be necessary to take up the question with regard to maintainability of the present intra court special appeal, filed under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules (Rules of the Court, 1952)1, against orders passed in contempt proceedings initiated by filing an application under Section 12 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971.

11. In a case where the High Court, in a contempt proceeding, renders a decision on the merits of a dispute between the parties, either by an interlocutory order or final judgment, the question whether the same would be appealable under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, and if not, what would be the remedy of the person aggrieved, was considered in the case of Midnapore Peoples' Coop. Bank Ltd. and others Vs. Chunilal Nanda and others, and it was held that any direction issued or decision made by the High Court, in contempt proceedings, on the merits of a dispute between the parties, unless the same is incidental to or inextricably connected with the order punishing for contempt, would not be in the exercise of "jurisdiction to punish for contempt" and, therefore, would not be appealable under Section 19 of the Act, 1971. Such an order, passed by the Contempt Court, was held, amenable to a challenge in an intra court appeal under the relevant rules of the High Court. The position with regard to filing of appeals against orders in contempt proceedings were summarized thus :-

"11. The position emerging from these decisions, in regard to appeals against orders in contempt proceedings may be summarised thus:

I. An appeal under Section 19 is maintainable only against an order or decision of the High Court passed in exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt, that is, an order imposing punishment for contempt.

II. Neither an order declining to initiate proceedings for contempt, nor an order initiating proceedings for contempt nor an order dropping the proceedings for contempt nor an order acquitting or exonerating the contemnor, is appealable under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act. In special circumstances, they may be open to challenge under Article 136 of the Constitution.

III. In a proceeding for contempt, the High Court can decide whether any contempt of court has been committed, and if so, what should be the punishment and matters incidental thereto. In such a proceeding, it is not appropriate to adjudicate or decide any issue relating to the merits of the dispute between the parties.

IV. Any direction issued or decision made by the High Court on the merits of a dispute between the parties, will not be in the exercise of "jurisdiction to punish for contempt" and, therefore, not appealable under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act. The only exception is where such direction or decision is incidental to or inextricably connected with the order punishing for contempt, in which event the appeal under Section 19 of the Act, can also encompass the incidental or inextricably connected directions.

V. If the High Court, for whatsoever reason, decides an issue or makes any direction, relating to the merits of the dispute between the parties, in a contempt proceedings, the aggrieved person is not without remedy. Such an order is open to challenge in an intra-court appeal (if the order was of a learned Single Judge and there is a provision for an intra-court appeal), or by seeking special leave to appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution of India (in other cases)."

12. The question as to whether an intra court appeal would be available against an interlocutory order containing directions on merits of the dispute was answered by referring to the decision in Shah Babulal Khimji Vs. Jayaben D.Kania and another, and it was held that interlocutory orders which finally decide a question or issue in controversy in the main case or which finally decide a collateral issue or a question which is not the subject matter of the main case, are "judgments" for the purpose of filing appeals under the relevant rules of the High Court.

13. Taking note of the position that in a proceeding initiated under the Contempt of Courts Act, the High Court could either punish or discharge the alleged contemnor and in doing so, it could pass all such ancillary orders which are necessary for exercise of such powers but it could not issue any directions or orders regarding the main dispute or controversy between the parties which had led to the filing of writ petition, this Court, in A.P. Verma and Ors. Vs. U.P. Laboratory Technicians Association and Ors., held that if any order or direction is made by the Court concerning the merit of the controversy or dispute between the parties, or for implementation of any judgment or order, the same would be de hors the provision of the Contempt of Courts Act, and would be deemed to have been issued in exercise of powers conferred under Article 226 of the Constitution, and such direction would, therefore, be amenable to an appeal under Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court . The observations made in the judgment are as follows :-

"7....Thus there can be no doubt that in any proceeding initiated under the Contempt of Courts Act, the High Court can either punish or discharge the alleged contemner and in doing so it can pass all such ancillary orders which are necessary for exercise of such power but it cannot issue any directions or orders regarding the main dispute or controversy between the parties which has led to the filing of writ petition by either of the parties. However, if any order or direction is made by the Court concerning the merit of the controversy or dispute between the parties, or for implementation of any judgment or order, it will be de hors the provision of Contempt of Courts Act and they can only be deemed to have been issued in exercise of power conferred by Article 226 of the Constitution. Such direction would, therefore, be amenable to an appeal under Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court as they are not issued in exercise of any power conferred by the Act..."

14. In the instant case, a bare reading of the two orders dated 31st July, 2019 and 21st August, 2019 passed in the contempt proceedings clearly show that orders touch the merits of the dispute between the parties and relate to the manner of implementation of the judgment passed by the writ court, as such, the said directions would be referable to the powers conferred under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, and accordingly, the same would be amenable to an intra court appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court.

15. Coming to the merits of the present appeal, as we have already taken note of, the writ petition, being Writ A No. 23338 of 2013, had been disposed of in terms of judgment dated 8th December, 2016 whereunder the writ petitioner was required to submit a detailed representation before the respondent no.2 with regard to his claim for release of salary, and upon the representation being filed, the said respondent was to pass appropriate orders in accordance with law.

16. It is not in dispute that the aforementioned directions issued by the writ court in its judgment dated 8th December, 2016 had been complied with by the concerned respondent by passing orders dated 11th January 2017 and 27th August, 2018.

17. The question which thus arises is as to whether necessary orders having been passed by the authority concerned, stated to be in compliance of the directions issued by the writ court, was it open for the court exercising contempt jurisdiction to go beyond the directions contained in the judgment of the writ court and enter into the question of correctness, or otherwise, of the orders passed.

18. The broad contours governing the exercise of contempt jurisdiction are fairly laid out. The High Court, while exercising jurisdiction to punish for a breach or disobedience of its order, has to have due regard to the directions which had been issued and of which a breach is alleged. It has been consistently held that in dealing with a contempt petition, the High Court cannot go behind the order of which a breach is complained or, to take upon itself to decide issues which were not touched in the original order. The orders which seek to supplement the directions issued in terms of the original order, of which a breach is complained, cannot be passed in the exercise of contempt jurisdiction. In doing so, the Court would be expanding the scope of contempt jurisdiction, which would not be permissible.

19. The scope of contempt jurisdiction, in a case where an order had already been passed on the basis of the directions issued by the court, came up for consideration in J. Parihar Vs. Ganpat Duggar and Ors., and it was held that the authority concerned having passed an order, may be right or may be wrong, the contempt court could not proceed to consider the matter on merits. A fresh cause of action having arisen, it would be open to the party concerned to seek redressal before an appropriate forum. The observations made in the judgment are as follows :-

"6...The question is whether seniority list is open to review in the contempt proceedings to find out, whether it is in conformity with the directions issued by the earlier Benches. It is seen that once there is an order passed by the Government on the basis of the directions issued by the court, there arises a fresh cause of action to seek redressal in an appropriate forum. The preparation of the seniority list may be wrong or may be right or may or may not be in conformity with the directions. But that would be a fresh cause of action for the aggrieved party to avail of the opportunity of judicial review. But that cannot be considered to be the willful violation of the order. After re-exercising the judicial review in contempt proceedings, a fresh direction by the learned Single Judge cannot be given to redraw the seniority list. In other words, the learned Judge was exercising the jurisdiction to consider the matter on merits in the contempt proceedings..."

20. In a somewhat similar set of facts, as in the present case, in Lalith Mathur Vs. Maheswara Rao, the question of maintainability of a contempt petition came up for consideration in a case when the court's direction was to consider the employees' representation, which was duly complied with, though the representation was rejected on merits. It was held that the direction issued by the contempt court, that the employee be absorbed on a suitable post, was without jurisdiction and should not have been passed. The relevant extract of the judgment is as follows:-

"4. The High Court in the writ petition had issued a direction for the consideration of the respondent's representation by the State Government. This direction was carried out by the State Government which had considered and thereafter rejected the representation on merits. Instead of challenging that order in a fresh writ petition under Article 226, the respondent took recourse to contempt proceedings which did not lie as the order had already been complied with by the State Government which had considered the representation and rejected it on merits."

21. The basic parameters governing the exercise of contempt jurisdiction were examined in Jhareswar Prasad Paul and another vs. Tarak Nath Ganguly and others, and it was held that the court cannot, in the guise of exercising contempt jurisdiction, grant substantive relief not covered by the order which is subject matter of the proceedings and that a substantive relief not covered by the initial order could not be considered in contempt proceedings. In this case also, the contempt court had proceeded on the basis of the allegation that the respondent authorities had not complied with the initial order, "effectively" and "in appropriate manner". In the aforesaid background, the observations made in the judgment are as follows :-

"11. The purpose of contempt jurisdiction is to uphold the majesty and dignity of the courts of law, since the respect and authority commanded by the courts of law are the greatest guarantee to an ordinary citizen and the democratic fabric of society will suffer if respect for the judiciary is undermined. The Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 has been introduced under the statute for the purpose of securing the feeling of confidence of the people in general for true and proper administration of justice in the country. The power to punish for contempt of court is a special power vested under the Constitution in the courts of record and also under the statute. The power is special and needs to be exercised with care and caution. It should be used sparingly by the courts on being satisfied regarding the true effect of contemptuous conduct. It is to be kept in mind that the court exercising the jurisdiction to punish for contempt does not function as an original or appellate court for determination of the disputes between the parties. The contempt jurisdiction should be confined to the question whether there has been any deliberate disobedience of the order of the court and if the conduct of the party who is alleged to have committed such disobedience is contumacious. The court exercising contempt jurisdiction is not entitled to enter into questions which have not been dealt with and decided in the judgment or order, violation of which is alleged by the applicant. The court has to consider the direction issued in the judgment or order and not to consider the question as to what the judgment or order should have contained. At the cost of repetition, be it stated here that the court exercising contempt jurisdiction is primarily concerned with the question of contumacious conduct of the party, which is alleged to have committed deliberate default in complying with the directions in the judgment or order. If the judgment or order does not contain any specific direction regarding a matter or if there is any ambiguity in the directions issued therein then it will be better to direct the parties to approach the court which disposed of the matter for clarification of the order instead of the court exercising contempt jurisdiction taking upon itself the power to decide the original proceeding in a manner not dealt with by the court passing the judgment or order. If this limitation is borne in mind then criticisms which are sometimes levelled against the courts exercising contempt of court jurisdiction "that it has exceeded its powers in granting substantive relief and issuing a direction regarding the same without proper adjudication of the dispute" in its entirety can be avoided. This will also avoid multiplicity of proceedings because the party which is prejudicially affected by the judgment or order passed in the contempt proceeding and granting relief and issuing fresh directions is likely to challenge that order and that may give rise to another round of litigation arising from a proceeding which is intended to maintain the majesty and image of courts.

12. Judging the case in hand on the touchstone of the principles noted above, we find that the directions issued by the Division Bench in the impugned judgment in effect granted substantive reliefs not covered by the judgment/order passed in the original proceeding. In the judgment, no direction was issued by the High Court that the writ petitioners will be admitted to the cadre of Upper Division Clerks/Assistants in the Directorate. As noted earlier, they have all along been holding the posts of Clerk-cum-Cash Collector which are ex cadre posts. Entry of such persons into the cadre of Upper Division Clerks/Assistants has to be considered taking into account various aspects of the matter. It is one thing to say that the benefits under the government order may be extended to the writ petitioners also and extending benefits of the government order to the writ petitioners is one thing and directing their entry into the existing cadre of Office Assistants is a different thing. Such a dispute can only be determined on consideration of all relevant aspects of the matter and cannot be and should not be ordered in the summary proceeding for taking action for contempt of court. If the High Court felt that the grievance of the writ petitioners relating to the question of their entry into the cadre of Upper Division Clerks/Assistants has not been dealt with by the Court and specific direction has not been issued while disposing of the writ petitions/appeals then the appropriate course was to leave it to the parties (writ petitioners) to agitate the matter before the competent forum. Further the question of entry of holders of ex cadre posts, like the writ petitioners, into an existing cadre is a matter of policy which the Government has to decide. Be it noted here that on consideration of the matter the High Court held that no action for contempt of court need be taken against the respondents in the writ petition for deliberate disobedience of the judgment or order passed by the High Court. Thereafter it was not open to the court to pass any order granting substantive relief to the applicants (writ petitioners) on the plea that the question raised was also a part of their grievance in the writ petition.

13. In the facts and circumstances of the case, we are constrained to hold that the judgment/order passed by the High Court was without jurisdiction. In the result, the appeals are allowed. The judgment/order under challenge is set aside. The petition filed by the writ petitioners for taking action for contempt of court against the respondents is dismissed."

22. Taking a similar view in Director of Education, Uttaranchal and Ors. Vs. Ved Prakash Joshi and Ors., it was held that review of decision, contempt in respect of which is in question, in contempt proceedings was not permissible. It was reiterated that all that the contempt court is concerned with is whether the decision in question has been complied with or not, and it cannot test the correctness or otherwise of the order, traverse beyond it or give additional directions. The observations made in the judgment are being extracted below :-

"7. While dealing with an application for contempt, the Court is really concerned with the question whether the earlier decision which has received its finality had been complied with or not. It would not be permissible for a court to examine the correctness of the earlier decision which had not been assailed and to take a view different than what was taken in the earlier decision. A similar view was taken in K.G. Derasari v. Union of India [(2001)10 SCC 496]. The court exercising contempt jurisdiction is primarily concerned with the question of contumacious conduct of the party who is alleged to have committed default in complying with the directions in the judgment or order. If there was no ambiguity or indefiniteness in the order, it is for the party concerned to approach the higher court if according to him the same is not legally tenable. Such a question has necessarily to be agitated before the higher court. The court exercising contempt jurisdiction cannot take upon itself power to decide the original proceedings in a manner not dealt with by the court passing the judgment or order. Right or wrong the order has to be obeyed. Flouting an order of the court would render the party liable for contempt. While dealing with an application for contempt, the court cannot traverse beyond the order, non-compliance of which is alleged. In other words, it cannot say what should not have been done or what should have been done. It cannot traverse beyond the order. It cannot test correctness or otherwise of the order or give additional directions or delete any direction. That would be exercising review jurisdiction while dealing with an application for initiation of contempt proceedings. The same would be impermissible and indefensible. In that view of the matter, the order of the High Court is set aside."

23. The question as to whether a Court exercising contempt jurisdiction could pass supplemental order to the main order passed in the writ petition was taken up in the case of Sudhir Vasudeva, Chairman and Managing Director, Oil and Natural Gas Corporation and others Vs. M.George Ravishekaran and others, and it was held that the directions issued by the contempt judge which virtually amounted to supplementing the directions contained in the original order was beyond jurisdiction and could not be countenanced. The observations made in the judgment are as follows :-

"19. The power vested in the High Courts as well as this Court to punish for contempt is a special and rare power available both under the Constitution as well as the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971. It is a drastic power which, if misdirected, could even curb the liberty of the individual charged with commission of contempt. The very nature of the power casts a sacred duty in the Courts to exercise the same with the greatest of care and caution. This is also necessary as, more often than not, adjudication of a contempt plea involves a process of self-determination of the sweep, meaning and effect of the order in respect of which disobedience is alleged. The Courts must not, therefore, travel beyond the four corners of the order which is alleged to have been flouted or enter into questions that have not been dealt with or decided in the judgment or the order violation of which is alleged. Only such directions which are explicit in a judgment or order or are plainly self-evident ought to be taken into account for the purpose of consideration as to whether there has been any disobedience or wilful violation of the same. Decided issues cannot be reopened; nor can the plea of equities be considered. The Courts must also ensure that while considering a contempt plea the power available to the Court in other corrective jurisdictions like review or appeal is not trenched upon. No order or direction supplemental to what has been already expressed should be issued by the Court while exercising jurisdiction in the domain of the contempt law; such an exercise is more appropriate in other jurisdictions vested in the Court, as noticed above. The above principles would appear to be the cumulative outcome of the precedents cited at the Bar, namely, Jhareswar Prasad Paul v. Tarak Nath Ganguly [(2002) 5 SCC 352, V.M. Manohar Prasad v. N.Ratnam Raju [(2004) 13 SCC 610], Bihar Finance Service House Construction Coop. Society Ltd. v. Gautam Goswami [(2008) 5 SCC 339] and Union of India v. Subedar Devassy PV[(2006) 1 SCC 613].

20. Applying the above settled principles to the case before us, it is clear that the direction of the High Court for creation of supernumerary posts of Marine Assistant Radio Operator cannot be countenanced. Not only the courts must act with utmost restraint before compelling the executive to create additional posts, the impugned direction virtually amounts to supplementing the directions contained in the order of the High Court dated 2-8-2006...the direction to create supernumerary posts at the stage of exercise of the contempt jurisdiction has to be understood to be an addition to the initial order passed in the writ petition. The argument that such a direction is implicit in the order dated 2-8-2006 [M. George Ravishekeran v.ONGC Ltd., WP No. 21518 of 2000, order dated 2-8-2006 (Mad)] is self-defeating. Neither is such a course of action open to balance the equities i.e. not to foreclose the promotional avenues of the petitioners, as vehemently urged by Shri Rao. The issue is one of jurisdiction and not of justification. Whether the direction issued would be justified by way of review or in exercise of any other jurisdiction is an aspect that does not concern us in the present case. Of relevance is the fact that an alternative direction had been issued by the High Court by its order dated 2-8-2006 [M. George Ravishekeran v. ONGC Ltd., WP No. 21518 of 2000, order dated 2-8-2006 (Mad)] and the appellants, as officers of the Corporation, have complied with the same. They cannot be, therefore, understood to have acted in wilful disobedience of the said order of the Court. All that was required in terms of the second direction having been complied with by the appellants, we are of the view that the order dated 2-8-2006 passed in M. George Ravishekeran v. ONGC Ltd. [M. George Ravishekeran v. ONGC Ltd., WP No. 21518 of 2000, order dated 2-8-2006 (Mad)] stands duly implemented. Consequently, we set aside the order dated 19-1-2012 passed in Contempt Petition No. 161 of 2010, as well as the impugned order dated 11-7-2012 passed in Sudhir Vasudeva v. M. George Ravi Shekeran [Contempt Appeal No. 2 of 2012, decided on 11-7-2012 (Mad)] and allow the present appeal."

24. The scope of contempt jurisdiction is to see whether the order of the Court has been complied with - in substance - or deliberately flouted leading to an inference of a "wilful, deliberate and contumacious" violation of the order of which non-compliance is alleged. In a case, such as the present one, where there is no direction to dispose of the applications/representation of the petitioner in a particular manner, the correctness, legality or propriety of the order passed by the respondent authority, in compliance of the directions under the order of the writ Court, in our opinion, cannot be gone into in contempt proceedings, since its scope, even otherwise is extremely limited and narrow. The correctness or otherwise of the orders which have been passed by the respondent, if required, may be tested in appropriate proceedings but not in contempt jurisdiction.

25. Once the directions as contained in the judgment and order dated 8th December, 2016 had been complied with, the necessity of passing of the two orders could possibly not have arisen in contempt jurisdiction. The reason is that the two orders expand the scope of contempt jurisdiction and go behind the directions as contained in the judgment and order dated 8th December, 2016, passed by the writ Court. In the event, the writ petitioners were not satisfied, their remedies would lie elsewhere but certainly not by invoking the contempt jurisdiction of this Court under section 12 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971.

26. We, therefore, have no hesitation to set aside the two orders dated 31st July, 2019 and 21st August, 2019, passed by the learned Single Judge in Contempt Application (Civil) No.4283 of 2018 (Shiv Mohan Dwivedi Vs. Vinod Kumar Sharma) and the same are accordingly set aside.

27. The Special Appeal is, thus, allowed.

THE HON'BLE ASHWANI KUMAR MISHRA, J.

WRIT A No. 1915 of 2019

C/M, Shyamlal Khandelwal Inter College, Vishnuganj, Kannauj ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Yogesh Kumar Saxena

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Constitution of India-Articles 14, 16(1); U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921-Chapter III, Regulation 2(2) – Service – Interpretation of statute - Quota/Promotion -The question before the Court in the present petition is that whether the post of the Clerk(s) and class IV employee(s) in an educational institution recognized under U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, would have to be necessarily clubbed together for determining the 50% promotion quota, for recruitment to the post of Head Clerk and Clerk. (Para 1)

The Court found different and contrary interpretations/observations available of the abovementioned Regulation:

1. Once a Clerk is promoted as Head Clerk, his appointment to the post of Head Clerk is to be counted as a post held by way of promotion even if the initial appointment to the post of Clerk was by way of direct recruitment. The posts of Head Clerk and Clerk are to be considered as a single cadre for the purpose of applying the quota of promotion and direct recruitment. (Para 7 to 9)

This implies, where there are two posts i.e. of Head Clerk and of Clerk, one being the promotional post, the other will always have to be filled by way of direct recruitment, which hampers the chances of Class IV employee to be promoted as Clerk, for all times to come. (Para 10, 14, 18)

2. Even though a Clerk would be promoted as Head Clerk, he would always retain the colour of the source of his recruitment. (Para 11, 12) Such observation is contrary to the previous observation. (Para 13)

B. Fundamental Rule 9(4) defines the word 'cadre' to mean the strength of a service or part of a service sanctioned as a separate unit. In the legal sense, the word 'cadre' is not synonymous with 'service'. (Para 17)

Where promotion is to be made from two distinct feeding cadres to one post then respective quota of promotion viz-a-viz each distinct feeding cadre is separately assigned. Regulation 2(2) deals with avenues of promotion for two distinct posts from two distinct feeding cadres. (Para 16)

C. Questions referred: (1) Whether the language employed in Regulation 2(2) requires that the post of Clerk(s) and Class IV employee(s), carrying different pay scale and requiring distinct eligibility would have to be necessarily clubbed together and treated as one unit, for working out 50% reservation for promotion to the post(s) of Head Clerk and Clerk?
(2) Whether the language employed in the Regulation 2(2), has to be literally construed, even if it curtails the right of a class IV employee to be considered for promotion, on account of clubbing of post(s) so as to determine the 50% promotional quota?
(3) Whether the view that the colour of initial appointment would be retained by an employee, even after he gets promoted, lays down the correct law? (Para 19) (E-4)
Referred to larger bench.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.

1. Whether the post of Clerk(s) and class IV employee(s) in an educational institution recognized under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act of 1921') would have to be necessarily clubbed together for determining the fifty percent promotion quota, for recruitment to the post of Head Clerk and Clerk, on account of the language employed in regulation 2(2) of the Regulations framed under Chapter III of the Act of 1921, is the question arising for consideration in this matter.

2. Regulation 2(2) of the Regulations framed under Chapter - III of the Act of 1921 contains relevant provision for promotion and is extracted hereinunder:-

"2(2) Fifty per cent of the total number of sanctioned posts of head clerk and clerks shall be filled among the serving clerks and employees through promotion. If employees possesses prescribed eligibility and he has served continuously for 5 years on his substantive post and his service record is good, then promotion shall be made on the basis of seniority, subject to reject of the unfit.

If any employee is aggrieved by any decision or order of the management committee in this respect then he can made representation against it to the Inspector within two weeks from the date of such decision or order. Inspector on such representation can make such orders as he thinks fit. Decision of the Inspector would be final and promptly executed by the management.

Note--In calculating fifty per cent of posts parts less than half would be left and half or more than half post would be deemed as one."

3. What would be the method applicable for effecting promotion as per the aforesaid provision, has been a subject matter of examination by this Court in various cases. Reference to some of such decisions would be apposite at this stage. In Malkhan Singh vs. State of U.P. and others, 2011 (1) ADJ 638, following observations have been made in para 10 & 11 of the judgment which are reproduced hereinafter:-

"10. The short controversy engaging attention in these writ petitions is, "whether one post of Assistant Clerk, with which we are concerned, can be filled in by promotion or by direct recruitment."

11. Regulation 2, Chapter III of the Regulations under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 provides for filling of at least 50% of class III post by promotion. The cadre, in the case in hand, consist of one post of Head Clerk and three post of Assistant Clerk. Though the post of Head Clerk in status and pay scale is higher to the post of Assistant Clerk but for the purpose of Regulation 2 Chapter III of the Regulations, irrespective of the pay scale and status, all 4 post are to be considered as a single cadre for the purpose of applying the quota of promotion and direct recruitment. It is also not disputed by the parties that the post of Head Clerk can be filled in only by promotion. If the post of Head Clerk would have been occupied meaning thereby somebody is appointed, it would result in saying that one Class III post is already filled in by promotion, in rest of the post of Assistant Clerks, the quota of promotion and direct recruitment could have been calculated accordingly. It has been held that if there is only one post or three post, then the solitary post or two post out of three shall be filled in by promotion since promotion quota cannot be less than 50 per cent. In the present case since the post of Head Clerk is liable to be filled in by promotion and therefore, the DIOS has concluded that out of three posts of Assistant Clerk two have necessarily to be filled in by direct recruitment and only one by promotion and that too by applying reservation."

4. In Dina Nath vs. State of U.P. and others, 2009 (10) ADJ 671, following observations have been made in para 9 which are reproduced hereinafter:-

"9. The question up for consideration is slightly different. The submission of learned Counsel for petitioner is that the post of Head Clerk being 100% a promotion post under the Regulations has to be excluded for the purpose of determining respective quota of promotion on the post of Clerk and this question I have to consider in the light of the relevant Regulation 2 Chapter III. It is clear from Regulation 2(2) that in order to determine 50% promotion quota, the posts of Clerk and Head Clerk both have to be considered as a single unit. Promotion of a Clerk to the post of Head Clerk is also to be treated in promotion quota like promotion from Class IV to Class III. The submission of Sri Mukherji that the Head Clerk, being a different cadre, is available only for the persons working as Clerk and same cannot be treated at par with the post available for promotion to Class-IV to Class-III and, therefore, in order to form 50% quota for promotion, the post of Head Clerk has to be excluded is thoroughly misconceived and in the teeth of clear language of Regulation 2(2) which provides that 50% promotion quota has to be filled in not only from Class-IV employees but also from Class-III employees and, therefore, if a Class III employees, i.e., a Clerk is promoted as Head Clerk, it is to be treated as a vacancy filled in by promotion and shall count while calculating 50% promotion quota in the entire cadre. It is no doubt true that for the purpose of pay scale etc. Head Clerk constitute a different cadre than the post of Clerk but for the purpose of determining promotion quota, Regulation 2(2) clearly provides that it is the entire sanctioned strength of Head Clerk and Clerks which would be taken into account for the purpose of determining 50% promotion quota. Accepting the submission of Sri Mukherji would mean that certain words in Regulation 2(2) have to be treated redundant, which is not permissible. It is well settled principle of interpretation that if the statute is unambiguous, clear and does not admit of any doubt, the Court should interpret the same in a manner so as to give effect to each and every word contained therein without either adding or omitting any word therefrom. It is a harmonious and plain reading of the statute particularly when the language does not admit of any doubt."

5. Reliance is also placed upon the observations contained in paragraph 4 of the judgment in C/M Adarsh Inter College, Achchalda and another vs. State of U.P. and others, 2004 (4) ESC (Alld.) 2056, which is also extracted hereinafter:-

"4. The argument is wholly misconceived. Regulation 2 of Chapter III of the Regulations made under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 provide that for calculating the 50% quota, the post of Head Clerk is to be included with the post of clerks. There is only one post of Head Clerk, and two posts of clerks in the institution, out of which only one post has been filled up by direct recruitment and the other by promotion. The third post according to the Note appended to Regulation 2 has to be filled up by promotion of a class IV employee."

To similar effect are the observations of a Division Bench of this Court in Ramji Singh vs. District Inspector of Schools, Ballia and others, 2006 (2) ESC 1015.

6. This Court in Dina Nath (supra) and Malkhan Singh (supra) has taken the view that though the post of Head Clerk in status and pay scale is higher to the post of Clerk but for the purpose of regulation 2(2) of Chapter III of the Regulations, irrespective of the pay scale and status, the post(s) of Head Clerk and Clerk are to be considered as a single unit for the purpose of applying the quota for promotion and direct recruitment.

7. At this stage it would be appropriate to refer to a Division Bench judgment of this Court rendered in Special Appeal No.1535 of 2009 (Jagvir Singh vs. State of U.P. and others). In the aforesaid matter before the Division Bench, one Bhupendra Singh Chahar, was initially appointed as Clerk by way of direct recruitment. Thereafter he was promoted to the post of Head Clerk. The question that fell for consideration before the Division Bench was whether for the purpose of calculating the quota of promotion and direct recruitment, the appointment of Bhupendra Singh Chahar to the post of Head Clerk, should be counted as a post held by a direct recruit or by a promote. The Division Bench held thus:-

"Mr. Ojha, alternatively submits that promotion of Chahar as a Head Clerk cannot be counted for the purpose of promotion. This submission is also misconceived. The next higher post of a Clerk is that of a Head Clerk and when Chahar has been promoted as a Head Clerk that has to be counted for calculating the percentage of promotion."

8. Two propositions, one explicit and another implicit, clearly emerge out of the observations of the Division Bench. The explicit observation is that once a Clerk is promoted as Head Clerk, his appointment to the post of Head Clerk is to be counted as a post held by way of promotion even if the initial appointment to the post of Clerk was by way of direct recruitment.

9. Moreover, as the Division Bench has been pleased to hold that at the time of making the calculations for determining the number of seats occupied by direct recruit and promotee, the appointment to the post of Head Clerk will be apportioned towards promotional quota and the remaining vacancies will have to be worked out accordingly, it becomes implicit that the Division Bench has applied the quota rule after considering the post of Head Clerk and Clerk to be forming a single cadre. Thus the Division Bench implicitly upholds the proposition that the posts of Head Clerk and Clerk are to be considered as a single cadre for the purpose of applying the quota of promotion and direct recruitment.

10. Once this Court applies the above enunciated principles to the facts of the instant matter, where there are two posts i.e. one being the post of Head Clerk and the other being the post of Clerk, it follows that one of the two posts will have to be filled by promotion and the other post will have to be filled by direct recruitment. As appointment to the post of Head Clerk, in light of the explicit observations of the Division Bench in Jagvir Singh's case (supra) will be seen as a promotion post, therefore the remaining one post of Clerk would always then have to be filled by way of direct recruitment. However, this leads to an anomalous situation. The chances of the class four employee to be promoted as Clerk gets scuttled in the process, for all times to come. The right of a class IV employee to be considered for promotion against a class III post is well recognized under the regulations. Fifty percent of the post(s) of Clerk are to be filled by promotion from class IV employees. While clubbing the post of Clerk and Head Clerk for determining fifty percent posts for promotion under regulation 2(2), an interpretation which takes away the right of a class IV employee to be considered for promotion would have to be avoided. It is by now well settled that the right to be considered for promotion in the relevant service rules is a fundamental right and it cannot be curtailed (see: Hira Man vs. State of U.P. and others, (1997) 11 SCC 630). A principle of interpretation which results in denying right of consideration for promotion to a class IV employee would have the effect of violating Article 14 and 16(1) of the Constitution of India.

11. A similar situation arose before this Court in Writ-A No.31988 of 2014 (Gyan Singh vs. State of U.P. and others). This Court in the aforesaid case, however, observed that no such anomalous situation would arise because even though a Clerk would be promoted as Head Clerk, he would always retain the colour of the source of his recruitment. In other words if any person was initially appointed as clerk by way of direct recruitment and then internally he gets promoted as Head Clerk, he would in the eyes of law be holding the post as a direct recruit and the appointment now to be made to the post of Clerk will have to be done through promotion. Likewise, if any class IV employee is promoted as as Clerk and subsequently he gets promoted as Head Clerk, he would be said to be holding the post as a promotee as his initial source of recruitment was promotion. The relevant extract of the judgment of this Court in Gyan Singh (supra) expounding the above position is reproduced hereinafter:-

"One Chandra Kumar Pathak, who was a Class-IV employee in the institution was promoted on the post of Clerk on 8.7.2009. Subsequently, by virtue of putting in certain number of years of service, he was promoted within the cadre on the post of Head Clerk on 21.4.2014, which resulted in vancancy of one post in the cadre.

It is to be noted that at the relevant point of time there were only two Class-III posts in the institution. Sri Chandra Kumar Pathak was a promotee of Class-IV to Class III post. 50% quota reserved for promotion from Class-IV to Class-III post appears to have been filled up by his promotion and one remaining post is now to be filled up by direct recruitment.

The respondent no.5-Nirmal Kumar Pandey has been appointed on the said post on 15.5.2014 under Regulation 101 to 107 of Chapter III of the Regulation on account of death of his father, who was a Principal in another aided Intermediate College. The petitioner has challenged such an appointment of respondent no.5 on the ground that since one post is already filled up by promotion, which is the post of Head Clerk then the remaining post cannot be filled up by another promotion. As such, the claim of the petitioner for being appointed as a promottee will never occur since the post of Head Clerk is a promotion post, therefore the remaining one post will fall under direct recruitment quota and such an anomaly is not contemplated in the rules.

I have considered the submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioner.

On the first flush, the argument of Sri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner appears to be logical but a close scrutiny of the provision indicates the fallacy in the same. The Head Clerk and the Clerk are from one cadre. It is the internal arrangement within the cadre to be given nomenclature of Head Clerk with certain pecuniary benefit for the Clerk to be promoted to that post after putting certain years of service. This would not mean that the Head Clerk and the Clerk in itself from a separate cadre. Class III cadre is inclusive of Head Clerk and the Clerk and forms one single cadre. If there are only two posts, one is to be filled up by promotion and another by direct recruitment.

The vacancy that occurred upon which the petitioner and respondent no.5 are vying, was the vacancy due to promotion of one Chandra Kumar Pathak to the post of Head Clerk, who himself was a promotee from Class-IV to Class-III post as Clerk. As such, one post is to be filled by promotion and the another remaining post is to be filled through direct recruitment. The respondent no.5 being a direct recruit is entitled for the said post, if he is otherwise eligible, since the 50% quota of promotee is already filled upon promotion of Chandra Kumar Pathak from class IV to Class III on 8.7.2009."

12. The aforesaid position has been elucidated succinctly by the same learned judge in an interim order rendered in Writ-A No.16965 of 2017 (Dilip Rai vs. State of U.P. and others) which is being reproduced hereinunder:-

"Admittedly there are six posts of Class-III in the institution including that of the Head Clerk. The post of Head Clerk is to be filled from amongst senior most Clerks in the institution, but the post of Head Clerk is a part of the same cadre. Even if one is promoted to the post of Head Clerk, but at the time of consideration of posts as to how many posts shall be filled by promotion and how many posts shall be filled by direct recruitment it has to be seen whether the person who was promoted on the post of Head Clerk how did he join the cadre. If he was a direct recruitee then the post of Head Clerk will be treated as direct recruitment and if he was promoted on the post of Clerk and further promoted on the post of Head Clerk, then the post of Head Clerk will be treated to be a post through promotion amongst six posts including that of Head Clerk."

13. Though the above interpretation appears to be a very equitable solution to the problem at hand, but resort to such an interpretation would be in teeth of the observations made by the Division Bench in Jagvir Singh's case (supra) where the Division Bench has expressly observed that the next higher post of a clerk is that of a Head Clerk and when an Clerk is promoted as a Head Clerk, even though his initial source of appointment would have been direct recruitment, the same has to be counted for calculating the percentage of promotion.

14. Thus this Court is faced with a piquant situation as on one hand if the Court follows the dictum of the Division Bench in Jagvir Singh's case (supra) an anomalous situation, as elucidated above, surfaces inasmuch as the sole post of Clerk for all times to come would be filled by way of direct recruitment and the right of the class IV employee to be considered for promotion to the post of Clerk under Regulation 2(2) would be effaced forever. On the other hand if this Court goes by the interpretation accorded to regulation 2(2), contained in Chapter III of the Regulations framed under the Act of 1921 by this Court in Gyan Singh's case (supra) this Court would be ignoring the dictum of the Division Bench in Jagvir Singh's case (supra).

15. Judgments of this Court in Dina Nath (supra) and Malkhan Singh (supra) clearly acknowledge that post(s) of Clerk and Head Clerk carry different scale of pay and eligibility (Five years working on a substantive post of Clerk is essential for promotion to the post of Head Clerk whereas similar period of working on a class IV post is required for promotion to the post of Clerk). The only reason assigned for clubbing the two distinct posts of Clerk and Head Clerk for fifty percent promotion quota, by treating both the posts to be a single unit, is the use of expression fifty percent of the total number of sanctioned posts of Head Clerk and Clerk in Regulation 2(2).

16. Ordinarily, where promotion is to be made from two distinct feeding cadres to one post then the respective quota of promotion viz-a-viz each distinct feeding cadre is separately assigned. Regulation 2(2), however, deals with avenues of promotion for two distinct posts from two distinct feeding cadres. The promotion from Class IV post to the post of Clerk is one while the other promotion is from the post of Clerk to Head Clerk. In case fifty percent promotion quota is reckoned for both the promotional posts, separately, from two distinct feeding cadres then there would be no difficulty. It is only when two distinct feeding cadres are clubbed together for promotion to two different posts that the difficulty arises, as is the case in hand. Right to be considered for promotion to the post of Clerk, from Class IV post, once is recognized under Regulation 2(2), then such a right cannot be taken away by applying a particular principle of construction.

17. Attributes of a cadre have otherwise been clearly outlined in service jurisprudence. It is primarily the strength of a service which is sanctioned as a separate unit (see: K.S. Srinivasan Vs. Union of India, AIR 1958 SC 419; Chakradhar Paswan Vs. State of Bihar, (1988) 2 SCC 214). In Chakradhar Paswan (supra), the Apex Court has observed as under in paragraph 8:-

"8.....In service jurisprudence, the term 'cadre' has a definite legal connotation. In the legal sense, the word 'cadre' is not synonymous with 'service'. Fundamental Rule 9(4) defines the word 'cadre' to mean the strength of a service or part of a service sanctioned as a separate unit. The post of the Director which is the highest post in the directorate, is carried on a higher grade or scale, while the posts of Deputy Directors are borne in a lower grade or scale and therefore constitute two distinct cadres or grades. It is open to the Government to constitute as many cadres in any particular service as it may choose according to the administrative convenience and expediency and it cannot be said that the establishment of the Directorate constituted the formation of a joint cadre of the Director and the Deputy Directors because the posts are not interchangeable and the incumbents do not perform the same duties, carry the same responsibilities or draw the same pay. The conclusion is irresistible that the posts of the Director and those of the Deputy Directors constitute different cadres of the Service."

18. While interpreting a statutory provision the Court would have to see as to whether the principle of construction applied for the purpose subserves the object for which it is introduced or it would violate the right of the person conferred by law. If it is found that the right of a person to be considered for promotion is being taken away only on account of the construction applied to the statute then a different interpretation may have to be resorted so that the right created by law is protected. Or else, the action itself would be rendered arbitrary and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

19. Since, interpretation of Regulation 2(2) in the manner done is likely to effect chances of promotion available to a Class IV employee in large number of institutions, I am of the considered opinion that the following issue requires consideration by a larger bench, to be constituted by Hon'ble the Chief Justice for answering following questions:-

(i) Whether, the language employed in Regulation 2(2) of the Regulations framed under Chapter III of the Act of 1921 requires that the post of Clerk(s) and Class IV employee(s) in an educational institution recognized under the Act of 1921, carrying different scale of pay and requiring distinct eligibility would have to be necessarily clubbed together and treated as one unit, for working out fifty percent reservation for promotion to the post(s) of Head Clerk and Clerk, particularly when the promoted post(s) also carry distinct pay-scale and eligibility and do not form part of one cadre?

(ii) Whether, the language employed in Regulation 2(2) of the Regulations framed under Chapter III of the Act of 1921 has to be literally construed, even if it curtails the right of a class IV employee to be considered for promotion, on account of clubbing of post(s) so as to determine the fifty percent promotional quota as is laid down in the case of Dina Nath (supra) and in the case of Malkhan Singh (supra)?

(iii) Whether, the view taken by this Court in the case of Gyan Singh (supra) and in the case of Dilip Rai (supra) that colour of initial appointment would be retained by an employee, even after he gets promoted (be it direct recruitment or by promotion to obviate the difficulty caused due to clubbing of distinct posts in the feeding cadre), lays down the correct law?

A. Service – Pensionary benefits - The date of birth entered in the service book is taken as conclusive evidence for the purpose of retirement and it cannot be altered subsequently – Since there was no change or alteration in the date of birth in the service book by the Department and the entry was verified by the petitioner's husband himself, there was no occasion for providing any opportunity of hearing. (Para 7, 9, 12, 13, 15)

B. The stale claim and belated applications for alteration of the date of birth recorded in the service book after unexplained and inordinate delay, need to be scrutinized carefully and interference is made sparingly and without circumspection – In the present case, the dispute of date of birth was raised after attaining the age of superannuation. (Para 11, 17)

C. Pension is not a bounty but it is hard-earned benefit for long service which cannot be taken away – Withholding of retiral benefits is arbitrary and unfair on the part of the employer. The plea that the husband of the petitioner did not approach for payment of these benefits is legally not tenable. (Para 20 to 23)

Judgment dated 07.07.1997, passed in Original Application No. 256 of 1994.
Judgment dated 12.02.1994, passed by Assistant Engineer (M.G.) North Eastern, Railways, Gonda.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

1. The present writ petition has been preferred by the petitioner for following reliefs which are quoted hereunder:-

(i) For quashing of the judgment dated 28.07.2000 passed in Review Petition No. 23 of 1997 passed by opposite party No. 6

(ii) For quashing of the judgment dated 07.07.1997 passed in Original Application No. 256 of 1994 passed by opposite party No. 6

(iii) For quashing of the judgment dated 12.02.1994 passed by Assistant Engineer (M.G.) North-Eastern, Railways, Gonda, by which the husband of the petitioner was retired from service in illegal and arbitrarily manner

(iv) For directing the opposite parties to make full payment of salary to the petitioner from 14.02.1992 till 12.02.1994 treating husband of the petitioner as in continuous service with all consequential benefits.

(v) For directing the opposite parties for payment of entire pensionary benefits to the petitioner with interest at market rate and also direct the opposite parties for payment of family pension to the petitioner.

2. A dispute about date of birth of petitioner's husband exists. According to petitioner, the correct date of birth of her husband is 15.10.1942 but in Card "A" it was entered as 02.02.1935 due to which he was retired by order dated 12.02.1994 with effect from 14.02.1994. Felling aggrieved by the order dated 12.02.1994, the petitioner's husband preferred an Original Application No. 256 of 1994 before the Central Administrative Tribunal.

3. It was stated that applicant joined service in the Railways as "Gangman" on 19.04.1966 at the age of about 24 years. By the order dated 12.02.1994, he was made to retire with effect from 14.02.1994 at the age of 52 years by treating his date of birth to be 02.02.1935 whereas it was 15.10.1942.

4. In support of the contention raised above, the learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on Card "B", seniority list and medical reports wherein the date of birth of her husband was entered as 15.10.1942.

5. The date of birth of the husband was changed by the authorities from 15.10.1942 to 02.02.1935 in Card "A". It has further been submitted that entry of date of birth in the service book is a conclusive proof and it cannot be altered subsequently without affording any opportunity of hearing.

6. The learned Tribunal has failed to consider that Card "A", wherein the date of birth was shown as 02.02.1935, is a subsequent document, hence the same was wholly irrelevant and could have taken as primary evidence for the purpose of ascertaining the date of birth.

7. The learned Tribunal has ignored the provisions of law under which the date of birth entered in the service book is taken as conclusive evidence for the purpose of retirement and it cannot be altered subsequently. It has further been submitted if it is presumed that the date of birth of the husband was 02.02.1935, he would have been 31 years of age at the time of his initial appointment in the year 1966 whereas the maximum age for entering in the service was 25 years and if the date of birth of the husband is taken as 15.10.1942, he was about 24 years i.e. less than 25 years at the time of initial appointment.

8. Per contra, the learned counsel representing the Railways produced the service book in compliance of the earlier order of this Court. In the service book, date of birth of petitioner's husband was entered as 02.02.1935 and the same was verified by him by putting his signature and thumb impression.

9. Since the date of birth was verified by the petitioner's husband himself and if there was no alteration in the service book then there would arise no occasion for providing any opportunity of hearing.

10. It has further been contended that the husband of the petitioner was initially appointed as "Causal Labour" in the Department in the year 1956 and the services were regularized in the year 1996.

11. It has further been contended by the learned counsel for the Railways that after attaining the age of superannuation, an employee cannot dispute about his date of birth entered in the service record.

12. After hearing the learned counsel for the respective parties and examining the record which was produced before this Court, the date of birth of petitioner's husband entered in the service book as 02.02.1935 which was verified by the husband by putting his signature and thumb impression.

13. There is no alteration or cutting in the date of birth in the service book. Service book was also shown to the learned counsel for the petitioner and after the perusal of the same, he was unable to dispute the entry in the service book containing date of birth as 02.02.1935. There was no cutting or alternation in the entry in the service book.

14. If the contention of the petitioner is accepted that the date of birth of her husband is 15.10.1942 then at the time of initial appointment as "Causal Labour" in the year 1956, the age of the husband would have been about 14 years whereas the admissible age for entry in the service was between 18 to 25 at that time. So at any stretch of imagination the petitioner's husband would have not been given appointment and if it is calculated on the date of birth of 02.02.1935 the age would have been about 24 years which is within the maximum age limit of 25 years, thus the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner cannot be accepted.

15. Since there is no change or alteration in the date of birth in the service book by the Department and the entry of date of birth is verified by the husband of the petitioner, there was no occasion for providing any opportunity of hearing. According to the petitioner admittedly entry in the service book is the conclusive proof of determination of date of birth than three documents i.e. Card "B", medical reports and seniority list would be irrelevant for the purposes of determination.

16. The Apex Court in the case of Union of India Vs. Harnam Singh, 1993 AIR 1367, has been held that the date of birth entered in the service book is relevant for the reason that right to continue in service stands decided by its entry in the service book. A government servant, who has declared his age at the initial stage of the employment is precluded from making a request for correction of his age. Only exception to claim correction in date of birth is if he is in possession of the irrefutable proof relating to his date of birth and must do so without unreasonable delay.

17. In the case of Union of India & Ors. Vs. Kantilal Hematram Pandya, 1995 SCC (3) 17, it has been held that the stale claim and belated applications for alter-ation of the date of birth recorded in the service book after unexplained and inordinate delay, that too on the eve of retirement need to be scrutinized carefully and interference is made sparingly and without circumspection. In the present case, the dispute of date of birth was raised after attaining the age of superannuation.

18. Petitioner's husband filed the Original Application before Central Administrative Tribunal, to question the date of birth when he himself had verified it in the service record by putting his signature and thumb impression.

19. Under these circumstances, this Court does not find any illegality in the judgment dated 28.07.2000 passed in Review Petition No. 23 of 1997 and the judgment dated 07.07.1997 passed in Original Application No. 256 of 1994, hence does not call for any interference by this Court.

20. As far as prayer for payment of pension with other post retiral benefits and family pension are concerned, petitioner's husband retired from service with effect from 14.02.1994 but till date no post retiral benefits have been extended. Withholding of retiral is arbitrary and unfair on the part of the employer. The plea that the husband of the petitioner did not approach for payment of these benefits is legally not tenable.

21. The learned counsel for the Railways failed to show anything on record that the Railways had made any effort or initiated the procedure for payment of pension prior or even thereafter on the retirement of petitioner's husband.

22. The Apex Court in the cases of D.S. Nakara & Others Vs. Union of India, 1983 AIR 130, 1983 SCR (2) 165, Grid Corporation of Orissa And Others Vs. Rasanadas Das, (2003) 10 SCC, 297 and U.P. Raghavendra Acharya And Others Vs. State of Karnataka And Others, (2006) 9 SCC 630, it has been been held that pension is not a bounty but it is hard-earned benefit for long service which cannot be taken away. It is treated to be deferred salary. It is akin to right of property. The payment of pension does not depend upon the discretion of the Government. It is a social welfare measure rendering socio-economic justice to those who in the hey-day of their life ceaselessly toiled for the employer on an assurance that in their old age they would not be left in lurch.

23. The Apex Court in the case of State of Kerala And Ors. Vs. M. Padmanabhan Nair, 1985 AIR 356, 1985 SCR (2) 476 has held that pension and gratuity are no longer any bounty to be distributed by the Government to its employees on their retirement but a valuable rights and property in their hands and any culpable delay in settlement and disbursement thereof must be visited with the penalty of payment of interest at the current market rate till actual payment.

24. For the reasons mentioned hereinabove, the petitioner shall approach the competent authority within a period of ten days alongwith the certified copy of the order of this Court for payment of retiral dues and family pension and the authorities are directed to complete the necessary formalities and make the payment of due amount to the petitioner within a period of two months with 6 percent simple interest. The writ petition to claim retiral benefit is allowed while dismissing on the claim of the petitioner for taking the date of birth of her husband as 15.10.1942.

4. Being aggrieved by the inaction of the DIOS, the petitioner approached this Court by means of the Writ Petition No. 4520 (S/S) of 1998, whereby this Court after considering the facts of the case passed the final order on 08.10.1998, which reads as under:-

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioner learned standing counsel and also perused the record.

By means of this petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, petitioner prays for issuance of a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the District Inspector of Schools, Lucknow to accord approval to the appointment of the petitioner on Class IV post in Janta Girls Inter College, Alambagh, Lucknow.

6. Assailing the order dated 07.09.1999, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the procedure as required under the law was followed by the appointing authority i.e. Principal of the College and thereafter, the petitioner was appointed on the post in question i.e. Peon against the post under unreserved category and the DIOS while passing the impugned order failed to consider the entire facts in its true spirit and accordingly, denial of salary from the State Exchequer is unjustified.

7. Per contra, learned State Counsel submitted that the appointment of the petitioner was made after insertion of Regulations 101 to 104 in Chapter-3 of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (in short "Act, 1921") vide Notification No. 4001/15-7-2-(1)(90) dated 03.07.1992 subsequently amended vide Notification No. 300/15-7(1)(90) dated 02.02.1995. The Regulations 101 to 104 provides that prior approval of DIOS for appointment on the post in issue i.e. Peon, on which the petitioner was appointed vide order dated 10.08.1997, is necessary. In the instant case, the petitioner was appointed without taking prior approval of the DIOS, as such the appointment of the petitioner is illegal and arbitrary and being so, the petitioner is not entitled to salary from the State Exchequer. In this regard, reliance has been placed on the judgment passed in the case of Jagdish Singh v. State of U.P. and others reported in [(2006) 3 UPLBEC 2765]. The relevant portion of the same on reproduction reads as under:-

"9. First issue, which has arisen in these appeals, is interpretation of 'prior approval' as used in Regulation 101 of Chapter III. Prior to Insertion of Regulations 101 to 107 in U. P. Intermediate Education Act with effect from 30th July, 1992, there was no express provision under the U. P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and the Regulations framed thereunder requiring approval of appointment of Class III and Class IV employees, although the provisions were there in the U. P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 regarding approval of appointment of teachers. A Division Bench of this Court in 1982 UPLBEC - 232 Om Prakash v. District Inspector of Schools. Budaun and Ors., while considering the appointment of Class IV employee took the view that there is no provision for approval of appointment of Class IV employees. Regulations 101 to 107 were added providing for prior approval before filling up the vacancy of non-teaching post and providing for the appointment of dependent of deceased employee and a procedure thereof. Regulations 101 to 104 of the Regulations, which are relevant for the present case, are extracted below:

101. Appointing Authority except with prior approval of Inspector shall not fill up any vacancy of non-teaching post of any recognised aided institution.

Provided that filling of the vacancy on the post of Jamadar may be granted by the Inspector.

"102. Information regarding vacancy as a result of retirement of any employee holding a non-teaching post in any recognised, aided institution shall be given before three months of his date of retirement and information about any vacancy falling due to death, resignation or for any other reasons shall be intimated to the Inspector by the appointing authority within seven days of the date of such occurrence.

103. Notwithstanding anything contained in these regulations, where any teacher or employee of ministerial grade of any recognised, aided institution, who is appointed accordingly with prescribed procedure, dies during service period, then one member of his family, who is not less that eighteen years in age, can be appointed on the post of teacher in train graduate grade or on any ministerial post, if he possesses prescribed requisite academic qualifications, training eligibilities, if any, and he is otherwise fit for appointment.

Provided that anything contained in this regulation would not apply to any recognised aided institution establish and administered by any minority class.

Explanation.- For the purpose of this regulation "member of the family" means widow or widower, son, unmarried or widowed daughter of the deceased employee.

Note.- This regulation and Regulations 104 to 107 would apply in relation to those employees who have died on or after 1 January, 1981.

104. Management of any recognised, aided institution within seven days of the date of death shall present a report to the Inspector about the members of the family of deceased employee, in which particulars of name of the deceased employee, post held, pay scale, date of appointment, date of death, name of the appointing institution and names of his family members, their academic and training eligibilities, if any, and age shall also be given. Inspector shall make entries of particulars of the deceased in the register maintained by himself.

10. Regulations 103 and 104, as quoted above, provide that the appointing authority shall intimate vacancy falling on account of retirement before three months of the date of retirement. In other cases vacancy was required to be communicated within 7 days from occurrence. Regulation further provides for appointment on compassionate ground to dependent of teaching or non-teaching employee in a recognized aided institution. The management was also enjoined to inform about the death of employee, dependents of the employees and the District Inspector of Schools was to put up the application, received from the member of the deceased employee for appointment, to a committee as contemplated under Regulation 105 to consider the case and thereafter the application was to be sent to the management for issuing appointment letter. Regulations 101 to 107 have to be read in a manner to give effect/and meaning to the provisions incorporated with effect from 30th July, 1992. The entire provisions requires harmonious construction, so all the regulations become workable and every part of it is given meaning.

11. Regulation 101, which is to be interpreted, uses a word "Inspector shall not fill up any vacancy". The word 'fill up', for the purpose of appointment, embraces in itself a procedure, which initiates from intimation of vacancy till selection of a candidate. The submission, which has been placed by the learned Counsel for the appellant, is that Regulation 101 means that before starting to fill up any vacancy, prior approval of the Inspector is required. He contended that thus permission is required from Inspector by the appointing authority to start with process of selection and once the permission is granted by the Inspector, the appointing authority is free to proceed with selection and make appointment. They contended that the permission to start selection is one which is contemplated in Regulation 101.

12. As noted above, there was no provision prior to 30th July, 1992 requiring prior approval with regard to Class III and Class IV posts. It is although true that no procedure for filling up the Class III and Class IV posts is contained in the regulation, except the requirement of the qualification which has been mentioned in Chapter III Regulation 2(1) of the U. P. Intermediate Education Act. The word 'approval' as rightly contended by the learned standing counsel, is approval of certain action which has already been taken. Had the Legislature intended that no selection process for Class III and Class IV posts shall begin without permission of the District Inspector of Schools, the word 'approval' would not have been used and the word used would have been that without prior approval or permission of the District Inspector of Schools, the appointing authority shall not commence selection process. The word approval has been defined in Webster's Third New International Dictionary as 'the act of approving, approbation, sanction, certification as to acceptability.

13. A learned single Judge of this Court had considered Regulations 101 in 1997 (2) UPLBEC 102 Dingur v. District Inspector of Schools. Mirzapur and Ors. In paragraph 23 of the judgment it has been observed that prior approval, which has been referred to in Regulation 101, has to be granted after examining the proceeding relating to the appointment and finding out as to whether the appointment was really necessary and as to whether it was made after following the procedure in a fair manner in accordance with the provisions. Paragraph 23 of the judgment is quoted below:

"Further, the prior approval which has been referred to in the Regulation 101 in question has to be granted or refused by the competent authority not in an arbitrary manner but after examining the proceedings relating to the appointment and finding out as to whether the appointment was really necessary taking into consideration the norms fixed by the State Government justifying the continuance of the post and after satisfying as to whether the appointment was made after following the prescribed procedure in a fair manner and is in accordance with the provisions regulating the procedure which is prescribed for making such an appointment. It is only after the competent authority is satisfied that there is no defect in the procedure followed for making the appointment and such an appointment is infact necessary and further all the requisite conditions including the eligibility criteria etc. stand complied with and further the selection proceedings have been concluded in a fair manner that the District Inspector of Schools has to accord the prior approval which on the requisite conditions being satisfied cannot be withheld keeping in view the public interest involved as the State having undertaken to take the liability for payment of salary etc. of the teaching as well as non-teaching staff employed in a recognized Intermediate College or High School is bound to ensure that its smooth functioning is not hampered on account of refusal to grant approval to an appointment made by the committee of management in the interest of the institution."

14. Another learned single Judge had occasion to consider Regulation 101 in Writ Petition No. 36628 of 2002 Ram Dhani v. State of U.P. and Ors. and Writ Petition No. 36630 of 2002 Kailash Prasad v. State of U.P. and Ors. Vide its judgment dated 19th October, 2005, the learned single Judge, after considering the Regulation 102, took view that previous approval under Regulation 101 is required to be taken before issuing advertisement for filling up vacancy. Following was observed by the learned single Judge:

"In the present case, from the record, it transpires that no previous approval was sought from the District Inspector of Schools before making an advertisement. In my opinion, previous approval under Regulation 101 is required to be taken before issuing an advertisement for filling up the vacancy. Previous approval is required at this stage and not at the stage when a candidate is selected after the advertisement. In the present case, no permission was sought from the District Inspector of Schools, Gorakhpur, prior to the issuance of the advertisement. The Committee of Management has also filed a counter affidavit and has no where stated that previous permission was taken from the District Inspector of Schools, Gorakhpur or that they had applied for permission before issuing the advertisement. Consequently, the appointment of the petitioner was ex-facie in violation of Regulation 101 of the Regulations. Consequently, no financial approval could be accorded by the District Inspector of Schools, Gorakhpur."

15. Against the above judgment of the learned single Judge dated 19th October, 2005, special appeal was filed, which was decided by our Division Bench vide judgment dated 22nd February, 2006 in special appeal. Only two submissions, raised before us, were dealt with by us i.e. firstly if the District Inspector of Schools fails to communicate its decision within reasonable time, the appointment shall be deemed to have been made and secondly, Regulation 101 gives uncanalised and unguided power to the District Inspector of Schools to grant or refuse approval, which itself is violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. Both the above contentions were repelled by us in our judgment dated 22nd February, 2006. While considering the concept of approval, we made the following observation in the said judgment:

"The concept of the approval of an appointment is a well known concept under the U. P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 with regard to the appointment by the Selection Committee for direct recruitment as well as in the case of promotion. For appointment the procedure is prescribed in the various Regulations. The qualification for appointment is also provided in Chapter-Ill and other provisions of the Act and the Regulations framed. While considering the question of approval of appointment of a candidate, the District Inspector of Schools has to act in accordance with the other express provisions provided for qualification, eligibility and procedure prescribed for selection. It cannot be said that the power of approval as contemplated under Regulation 101 is not hedged by any guidance or qualification. It is not in the discretion of the District Inspector of Schools to pass an order for approval or disapproval at his sweet will. He has to pass an order taking into consideration the other provisions and Regulations of the Act. Thus the submission of the learned Counsel for the appellant that the said power is uncanalised and the provision itself is arbitrary, cannot be accepted."

16. The submission, which is now being raised before us in these appeals, was neither considered by us nor was pressed before us in the special appeal decided on 22nd February, 2006, although we have approved the judgment of the learned single Judge dismissing the writ petition but the question as to whether the prior approval is required to be taken before issuing an advertisement for filling up vacancy was neither canvassed before us nor felt for our consideration.

17. Original Notification by which Regulation 101 to 107 was inserted in Chapter III is in Hindi. It is useful to reproduce the original Regulation 101 which is as follows:

"101.नियुक्ति प्राधिकारी, निरिक्षक के पूर्वानुमोदन के सिवाच किसी मान्यताप्राप्त, सहायताप्राप्त संस्था के शिक्षणेत्तर स्टाफ की किसी रिक्ति को नहीं भरोगा:

प्रतिबन्ध यह है कि जमादार के पद की रिक्ति को निरीक्षक द्वारा भरने की अनुमति दी जा सकती है।"

18. Regulation 101, as quoted above, uses two words, namely, 'पूर्वानुमोदन' and 'अनुमति'. The first part of the Regulation provides that appointing authority except with prior approval of Inspector shall not fill up any vacancy of non-teaching post of any recognised aided institution whereas second part of the Regulation provides that permission for filling of post of sweeper (Jamadar) can be given by Inspector. Second part of the Regulation is In the nature of proviso. The main part of the Regulation contains word 'पूर्वानुमोदन' i.e. prior approval whereas second part of the Regulation uses word 'अनुमति', i.e. permission. Thus, the Statute uses both the word 'prior approval' and 'permission'. The meaning of both the word cannot be the same. In view of this, the submission of the learned Counsel for the appellant that Regulation 101 requires only permission to issue advertisement by appointing authority and if such permission is granted by Inspector, the appointing authority can fill up the post. Regulation 101 provides prior approval with regard to vacancy of non-teaching staff and permission is contemplated only for filling the post of sweeper. Regulation thus indicates that when the permission is given to the appointing authority to fill up post of sweeper. There is no further prior approval is required. This provision being in nature of proviso to the main Regulation shall operate as an inception to the first part of Regulation. Thus, the use of two words in Regulation 101 i.e. 'prior approval' and 'permission' itself negates construction of Regulation as contended by the counsel for the appellant.

19. When the prior approval of the Inspector is contemplated in Regulation 101, that prior approval embraces itself an examination of all aspects of the matter including existence of the vacancy, nature of the vacancy whether vacancy is to be filled up by management or it be filled by appointing the dependent of deceased employee who has claimed for appointment under the scheme of the Regulations 101 to 107.

20. Scheme of Regulations 101 to 107 makes it clear that after receiving an intimation of vacancy, the District Inspector of Schools is empowered to send the application of member of deceased employee, who is entitled for compassionate appointment to the institution, who has to issue appointment letter to such candidate. It is, however, implied in the scheme that in the event there is no candidate entitled for compassionate appointment to fill a particular vacancy, the intimation of which has been received by the District Inspector of Schools, the District Inspector of Schools can direct the appointing authority to fill up vacancy by direct recruitment but even in a case the selection is made by direct recruitment by the Principal/committee of management, prior approval is required of the District Inspector of Schools before issuing an appointment letter to the selected candidate. Without prior approval of the Inspector, the Principal or the committee of management cannot issue an appointment letter or permit joining of any candidate. The requirement of prior approval in Regulation 101 is a condition precedent before issuing an appointment letter and is mandatory. The observation of the learned single Judge in the case of Dingur v. District Inspector of Schools, Mirzapur (supra) as quoted above, is also to the effect that approval has to be considered by the District Inspector of Schools after examining ,the proceeding relating to appointment and after examining as to whether prescribed procedure in a fair manner has been followed or not.

21. The observation "of the learned single Judge in Ram Dhani's case (supra) that previous approval under Regulation 101 is required to be taken before issuing advertisement for filling up vacancy does not lay down correct law. We, however, make it clear that although prior approval is required from the District Inspector of Schools after completion of process of selection but there is no prohibition in the Principal/Management to seek permission of the District Inspector of Schools for filling up vacancy by direct recruitment. The permission may or may not be granted by the District Inspector of Schools but even if such permission to start the selection process or to issue advertisement is granted that is not akin to prior approval as contemplated under Regulation 101.

22. In view of the aforesaid, we are of the considered opinion that prior approval contemplated under Regulation 101 is prior approval by the District Inspector of Schools after completion of process of selection and before issuance of appointment letter to the selected candidate."

8. It is further submitted that the petitioner was appointed by the Principal of the College but prior to issuing of the order of appointment dated 10.08.1997, the approval, as required under the Regulations 101 was not taken by the appointing authority from the competent authority i.e. DIOS/opposite party No. 2. Thus, the impugned order being just and proper is not liable to be interfered with by this Court.

9. Keeping in view the provisions as envisaged under Regulation 101 in the Chapter III of the Act, 1921, the DIOS denied the approval of appointment of the petitioner, as such there is no illegality and infirmity in the impugned order.

10. Sri Srivastava, learned State Counsel, further submitted that a perusal of the averments made in the writ petition and the documents annexed thereto would show that prior to appointment, the post in issue was not advertised in two daily newspapers having vide circulation. Thus, the settled procedure required for recruitment was not followed and being so, the appointment of the petitioner is vitiated under the law and the petitioner is not entitled to the relief of payment of salary from the State Exchequer.

11. It is further stated that on the post for reserved category candidate, the petitioner was appointed. Thus also the appointment of the petitioner is not legal.

12. In view of the above, the prayer is to dismiss the writ petition.

13. In rebuttal, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that while entertaining the present writ petition, this Court on 04.11.1999 passed an interim order, which is quoted below, and on the strength of the interim order, the petitioner is still continuing in service in the pay band of Rs. 5200-20200/- with grade pay of Rs. 1800/- and is getting the salary from the State Exchequer and in view of the same, the petitioner may be allowed to continue in service and the writ petition for the reliefs sought may be allowed.

"Notice on behalf of opp. parties 1 to 3 has been accepted by the learned Chief Standing Counsel.

Issue notice to opp. parties 4 and 5.

Learned counsel for the opp. parties prays for and is granted four weeks time to file counter affidavit. List thereafter.

In the meantime it is provided that in case the petitioner's appointment has been made against a sanctioned post after selection and the petitioner is actually working on that post, he shall be paid salary regularly till further order of this Court. The operation of impugned order dated 7-9-99 as contained in Annexure-9 to the writ petition shall remain stayed till further orders of this Court."

14. In response to the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner in regard to continuance of the petitioner in service and payment of salary from State Exchequer on the strength of interim order, learned State Counsel submitted that the petitioner cannot get any benefit from the interim order, as the appointment of the petitioner is not valid.

15. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

16. In regard to submissions made by the learned State Counsel that the vacancy was not published in newspaper, which process is mandatory, this Court considered the pleadings and documents on record and it appears therefrom, particularly para 16 of the writ petition, that the vacancy in issue i.e. the vacancy of the post of Peon was notified on the "Notice Board" of the Institution and it was not advertised in two daily newspapers having vide circulation.

17. In National Fertilizers Ltd. [(2006) 5 SCC 493 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 1152] this Court referred to the decision in Union Public Service Commission v. Girish Jayanti Lal Vaghela [(2006) 2 SCC 482 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 339] wherein the Court had observed as under: (SCC p. 490, para 12)

"The appointment to any post under the State can only be made after a proper advertisement has been made inviting applications from eligible candidates and holding of selection by a body of experts or a specially constituted committee whose members are fair and impartial through a written examination or interview or some other rational criteria for judging the inter se merit of candidates who have applied in response to the advertisement made. A regular appointment to a post under the State or Union cannot be made without issuing advertisement in the prescribed manner which may in some cases include inviting applications from the employment exchange where eligible candidates get their names registered. Any regular appointment made on a post under the State or Union without issuing advertisement inviting applications from eligible candidates and without holding a proper selection where all eligible candidates get a fair chance to compete would violate the guarantee enshrined under Article 16 of the Constitution."

18. It is true that, at relevant time, the provisions of Chapter III of the U. P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, did not provide any procedure for selection on the post of the Peon. In the absence of any prescribed procedure under the rules, it is open to the management to adopt a procedure which conforms the provisions of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. The committee of management was free to issue advertisement in the news paper and to call names from the Employment Exchange for making selection.

19. In the aided Institution, the salary to the teachers and the staff is paid by the State Government. Since the salary is paid by the State Government, for all purposes the employment to the post of clerk is public employment. For a public employment, the minimum requirement which is needed is to advertise the post to enable all the eligible candidates to apply for the post. The committee of management cannot claim to select any person on its own choice without advertising the post in any news paper.

20. In view of the above, the petitioner's appointment made by the management, without advertisement of the vacancy and without inviting applications from the candidates from open market to participate in the selection process, is void appointment.

21. It appears from the pleadings on record that the specific stand taken by the State, based on Regulation 101 in the Chapter III of the Act, 1921, that the appointment of the petitioner was not made after seeking prior approval of competent authority i.e. DIOS/opposite party No. 2, is undisputed. The specific plea, based on the Regulation 101, taken in the counter affidavit has not been denied by the petitioner.

22. The Division Bench of this Court in the case of Jagdish Singh (supra) held that the appointment should be made after taking the approval from the competent authority, as provided under Regulation 101 in the Chapter III of the Act, 1921. At the cost of repetition, the relevant portion of the judgment passed by the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Jagdish Singh (supra) is quoted below for ready reference:-

"20. Scheme of Regulations 101 to 107 makes it clear that after receiving an intimation of vacancy, the District Inspector of Schools is empowered to send the application of member of deceased employee, who is entitled for compassionate appointment to the institution, who has to issue appointment letter to such candidate. It is, however, implied in the scheme that in the event there is no candidate entitled for compassionate appointment to fill a particular vacancy, the intimation of which has been received by the District Inspector of Schools, the District Inspector of Schools can direct the appointing authority to fill up vacancy by direct recruitment but even in a case the selection is made by direct recruitment by the Principal/committee of management, prior approval is required of the District Inspector of Schools before issuing an appointment letter to the selected candidate. Without prior approval of the Inspector, the Principal or the committee of management cannot issue an appointment letter or permit joining of any candidate. The requirement of prior approval in Regulation 101 is a condition precedent before issuing an appointment letter and is mandatory. The observation of the learned single Judge in the case of Dingur v. District Inspector of Schools, Mirzapur (supra) as quoted above, is also to the effect that approval has to be considered by the District Inspector of Schools after examining ,the proceeding relating to appointment and after examining as to whether prescribed procedure in a fair manner has been followed or not.

21. The observation "of the learned single Judge in Ram Dhani's case (supra) that previous approval under Regulation 101 is required to be taken before issuing advertisement for filling up vacancy does not lay down correct law. We, however, make it clear that although prior approval is required from the District Inspector of Schools after completion of process of selection but there is no prohibition in the Principal/Management to seek permission of the District Inspector of Schools for filling up vacancy by direct recruitment. The permission may or may not be granted by the District Inspector of Schools but even if such permission to start the selection process or to issue advertisement is granted that is not akin to prior approval as contemplated under Regulation 101.

22. In view of the aforesaid, we are of the considered opinion that prior approval contemplated under Regulation 101 is prior approval by the District Inspector of Schools after completion of process of selection and before issuance of appointment letter to the selected candidate."

23. In view of the above also, the appointment of the petitioner, without prior approval of the DIOS, is void and being so he is not entitled to any benefit or relief.

24. With regard to payment of salary and continuation on the post on the strength of the interim order dated 04.11.1999 and the arguments based on the same for seeking the reliefs sought, this Court is of the view that the interim order would not give any benefit or right to the petitioner to get the reliefs sought in the present writ petition.

25. The aforesaid view of this Court is in view of the observations made by the Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in Umadevi (3) case [(2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753], wherein it has been observed as under:-

"43. Thus, it is clear that adherence to the rule of equality in public employment is a basic feature of our Constitution and since the rule of law is the core of our Constitution, a court would certainly be disabled from passing an order upholding a violation of Article 14 or in ordering the overlooking of the need to comply with the requirements of Article 14 read with Article 16 of the Constitution. Therefore, consistent with the scheme for public employment, this Court while laying down the law, has necessarily to hold that unless the appointment is in terms of the relevant rules and after a proper competition among qualified persons, the same would not confer any right on the appointee. If it is a contractual appointment, the appointment comes to an end at the end of the contract, if it were an engagement or appointment on daily wages or casual basis, the same would come to an end when it is discontinued. Similarly, a temporary employee could not claim to be made permanent on the expiry of his term of appointment. It has also to be clarified that merely because a temporary employee or a casual wage worker is continued for a time beyond the term of his appointment, he would not be entitled to be absorbed in regular service or made permanent, merely on the strength of such continuance, if the original appointment was not made by following a due process of selection as envisaged by the relevant rules. It is not open to the court to prevent regular recruitment at the instance of temporary employees whose period of employment has come to an end or of ad hoc employees who by the very nature of their appointment, do not acquire any right. The High Courts acting under Article 226 of the Constitution, should not ordinarily issue directions for absorption, regularisation, or permanent continuance unless the recruitment itself was made regularly and in terms of the constitutional scheme. Merely because an employee had continued under cover of an order of the court, which we have described as "litigious employment' in the earlier part of the judgment, he would not be entitled to any right to be absorbed or made permanent in the service. In fact, in such cases, the High Court may not be justified in issuing interim directions, since, after all, if ultimately the employee approaching it is found entitled to relief, it may be possible for it to mould the relief in such a manner that ultimately no prejudice will be caused to him, whereas an interim direction to continue his employment would hold up the regular procedure for selection or impose on the State the burden of paying an employee who is really not required. The courts must be careful in ensuring that they do not interfere unduly with the economic arrangement of its affairs by the State or its instrumentalities or lend themselves the instruments to facilitate the bypassing of the constitutional and statutory mandates."

26. The Constitution Bench has observed that merely because an employee had continued under cover of an order of the court, which the court described as "litigious employment", he would not be entitled to any right to be absorbed or made permanent in the service.

27. Further, the Apex Court in re: Shesh Mani Shukla vs District Inspector of Schools, Deoria and others reported in (2009) 15 Supreme Court Cases 436 vide para 19 has held as under:-

"It is true that the appellant has worked for a long time. His appointment, however, being in contravention of the statutory provision was illegal, and, thus, void ab initio. If his appointment has not been granted approval by the statutory authority, no exception can be taken only because the appellant had worked for a long time. The same by itself, in our opinion, cannot form the basis for obtaining a writ of or in the nature of mandamus; as it is well known that for the said purpose, the writ petitioner must establish a legal right in himself and a corresponding legal duty in the State. (See Food Corpn. of India vs. Ashis Kumar Ganguly.) Sympathy or sentiments alone, it is well settled, cannot form the basis for issuing a writ or or in the nature of mandamus. (See State of M.P. vs. Sanjay Kumar Pathak.)"

28. The Apex Court in the case of Raghvendra Rao etc. v. State of Karnataka and others, JT 2009 (20) SC 520 has observed as under:-

"It is now a well-settled principle of law that merely because an employee had continued under cover of an order of Court, he would not be entitled to any right to be absorbed or made permanent in the service....."

29. For the foregoing reasons, the writ petition lacks merit. Hence dismissed with no order as to costs.

A. Service law- Civil Service Regulations: Regulation 36-Fundamental Rule 56 –Post retiral benefits-Retiral benefits of the petitioner have been paid without counting the services rendered on ad hoc basis. The Court held that the petitioner was appointed on substantive post in permanent establishment which is pensionable. Nature of his appointment i.e. ad hoc appointment is not of much relevance inasmuch as the period spent by him as ad hoc, ultimately resulted in regularization of the petitioner without any break in service. (Para 5)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Dr. Amrendra Narain Srivastava Vs. St. of U.P. & ors., in WP No. 61974 of 2011 (Para 3, 5)

2. Shashi Srivastava Vs. St. of U.P. & anr., [(2019) 2 UPLBEC 1326] (Para 4, 5, 8)

Present petition assails order dated 01.08.2016, passed by Principal Secretary, Public Works Department.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashok Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Ran Vijay Singh, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. By means of this petition, the petitioner has assailed the order dated 1.8.2016 passed by the Principal Secretary, Public Works Department rejecting the claim of the petitioner whereby he has prayed that his services rendered as an ad hoc employee w.e.f. 6.11.1973 to 31.12.2005 be counted in his total length of service for providing him all post retiral benefits.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the petitioner had requested that he may be given the benefit of judgment and order dated 1.3.2012 passed in passed in Dr. Amrendra Narain Srivastava Vs. State of U.P. and others, in Writ Petition No.61974 of 2011, whereby this Court has directed that ad hoc services so rendered by the employee shall be counted in the total length of service and such employee shall be given the retiral benefits counting said ad hoc services. The competent authority in the impugned order dated 1.8.2016 has categorically indicated that the present petitioner may not get the benefit of the order dated 1.3.2012 in re; Dr. Amrendra Narain Srivastava (supra) for the reason that the issue of the petitioner is different from the matter of Dr. Amrendra Narain Srivastava (supra). It has further been indicated in the impugned order that for providing such benefit, the provision of Regulation 361 of the Civil Service Regulations shall be abide by and since such provisions are not being abide by in the case of the petitioner, therefore, his services rendered on ad hoc basis shall not be counted.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn attention of this Court towards the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court in re; Shashi Srivastava Vs. State of U.P. and Another, reported in [(2019) 2 UPLBEC 1326], wherein the identical controversy has been decided. For the brevity, the judgment and order dated 20.5.2019 in re; Shashi Srivastava (supra) is being reproduced herein below:-

"1. Order dated 01.05.2018 having been recalled vide order of date passed on Recall Application, writ petition is restored to its original number. As requested and agreed by learned counsel for parties, We proceed to hear and decide this case finally at this stage.

2. Heard Sri Pradeep Verma, learned counsel for petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for State of U.P. And perused the material available on record.

3. This writ petition under Article 226 of Constitution of India has been filed against order dated 21.05.2014, whereby service rendered by petitioner on adhoc basis before regularization from the years 1975 to 1992 has not been treated 'qualifying service' for the purpose of retiral benefits by referring to Article 361 of Civil Service Regulations (hereinafter referred to as "C.S.R.").

4. In the impugned order dated 21.05.2014, Director, Bal Vikas Avam Pushtahar has said that under Article 361, adhoc service does not qualify for pension.

5. It is not disputed that retirement of petitioner is governed by fundamental Rule 56 read with relevant provisions of C.S.R. Every employee, whether permanent or temporary or ad-hoc is liable to retire on attaining age of superannuation as provided under fundamental Rule 56.

6. Under U.P. Retirement Benefit Rules, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1961") "qualifying service" is defined in Rule 3(8). It means 'service' which qualifies for pension in accordance with provisions of Article 368 of C.S.R. Rule 3(8) is quoted as below:-

"Rule 3(8)- " Qualifying service" means service which qualifies for pension in accordance with the provisions of Article 368 of the Civil Services Regulations:

Provided that continuous temporary or officiating service under the Government of Uttar Pradesh followed without interruption by confirmation in the same or any other post except-

(i) periods of temporary or officiating service in a non-pensionable establishment.

(ii) periods of service in a work-changed establishment, and

(iii) periods of service in a post, paid from contingencies; shall also count as qualifying service.

Note- If service rendered in a non-pensionable establishment, work-charged establishment or in post paid form contingencies falls between two periods of temporary service in a pensionable establishment or between a period of temporary service and permanent service in a pensionable establishment, it will not constitute an interruption of service."

(emphasis added)

7. Article 368, C.S.R., provides that service does not qualify, unless officer holds a substantive office in a permanent establishment. Articles 368 and 369 are quoted herein below:

"368. Service does not qualify unless the officer holds a substantive office on a permanent establishment.

369. An establishment, the duties of which are not continuous but are limited to certain fixed periods in each year, is not a temporary establishment. Service in such an establishment, including the period during which the establishment is not employed qualifies but the concession of counting as service the period during while the establishment is not employed does not apply to an officer who was not on actual duty when the establishment was discharged, after completion of its work, or to an officer who was on actual duty on the first day on which the establishment was again re-employed."

8. It is not in dispute that petitioner was appointed on substantive post in permanent establishment which is/was pensionable. Nature of his appointment i.e. ad-hoc appointment is not of much relevance in as much as period spent by him as ad-hoc was in permanent pensionable establishment, which ultimately resulted into regularization of petitioner without any break in service.

9. Moreover, vide Sub-rule 8 of Rule 3 of Rules 1961, qualifying service includes temporary service followed by confirmation and continued without interruption. In this view of the matter, services rendered by petitioner on ad-hoc basis followed by Regularization would stand covered under "qualifying service" defined under Rule 3(8) of Rules 1961, for the purpose of pension.

10. In taking this view we are fortified by a Division Bench decision in State of U.P. and Others vs. Dr. Amrendra Narain Srivastava, 2012 (8) ADJ 376. Similar issue recently has been considered by this Court in Dr. Indrapal Singh Sachan vs. State of U.P. and 4 Others, (Writ -A o. 62179 of 2015) decided on 07.02.2018, wherein this Court has followed judgment passed in Writ Petition No. 65873 of 2014 and directed that adhoc service would be counted for payment of retiral benefit treating the same as "qualifying service". Judgment passed in Dr. Indra Pal Singh Sachan (supra) reads as under:-

"Heard Shri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Shri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel appearing for the respondents.

Pleadings have been exchanged between the parties and we have perused the same.

The petitioner is aggrieved by the office order dated 9th September, 2015, passed by the Principal Secretary, AYUSH, State of U.P., whereby the representation of the petitioner, for payment of pensionary benefits, has been rejected.

The petitioner was appointed as Ayurvedic doctor on contract basis vide order dated 1.12.1988. The petitioner continued to function as such. A Writ Petition No. 4806 of 1990 (U.P. Anskalik Chikitsak Sangrah Samiti vs. State of U.P. and another), came to be filed by association of Ayurvedic doctors. It was decided vide judgment and order dated 11.9.1992, with a direction to consider the claim of their regularisation within six months and for the payment of full salary of a Medical Officer.

In pursuance of the above judgment of this Court, an office order was issued on 28.2.1992, directing for treating the services of the contract basis Ayurvedic doctors on ad hoc basis. The petitioner was also included in the list attached with the aforesaid office order and his services also were treated on ad hoc basis.

Subsequently, by order dated 25th September, 2009, the services of all ad hoc doctors were regularized and, accordingly, the services of the petitioners were also regularized with effect from 16.3.2005. The petitioner, ultimately, retired on 30.9.2007. On his retirement, he raised a claim for grant of pensionary benefits, which was not accepted. Therefore, he filed Writ Petition No. 49467 of 2012 (Dr. Indrapal Singh Sachan vs. State of U.P. and others), which was disposed of on 22.4.2015, observing that the issue arising in the petition stand answered by the decision of the Court, rendered in Writ Petition No. 61974 of 2011 (Dr. Amrendra Narain Srivastava vs. State of U.P. and others), which has been followed in Writ Petition No. 65873 of 2014 (Dr. Mohd. Mahboob Husain Abbasi vs. State of U.P. and 4 others). Accordingly, the Principal Secretary, Department of Medical Education, Government of U.P., Lucknow, was directed to consider the claim of the petitioner within a time-bound period, keeping into mind the parameters as has been settled in the aforesaid two decisions.

In pursuance of the above, the impugned order has been passed, rejecting the representation of the petitioner with regard to the claim of the pentionary benefits.

The claim of the petitioner has been distinguished in it from that of Dr. Amerendra Narain Srivastava, on the ground that the petitioner was never confirmed, therefore, his services cannot be counted for the purposes of grant of pension. In the case of Amrendra Narain Srivastava, the Division Bench has dealt with the Uttar Pradesh Retirement Benefit Rules, 1965, and the period of qualifying service mentioned therein vis a vis Regulation 368 of the Civil Services Regulations and came to the conclusion that the petitioner therein shall be entitled to pension from the date on which he joined the services by adding the services rendered by him in temporary capacity to his services rendered by him with the Government Department on substantive basis. In other words, on being absorbed in the Government Department in substantive capacity or being regularized, it was provided that the services earlier rendered by him may be in a temporary capacity has to be counted for the purposes of payment of pension.

The aforesaid decision has been followed in the case of Dr. Mohd. Mahboob Husain Abbasi.

In the instant case also, the services of the petitioner, treated to be on ad hoc basis vide order dated 28.2.1992, was ultimately regularized vide order dated 25.9.229 with effect from 16.3.2005. Thus, once the petitioner stood duly regularized/confirmed, the services, rendered by him prior to his regularization on ad hoc basis, would be included in his length of service for the purposes of grant of pension. In this way, for the purposes of pension, the petitioner has rendered service with effect from 28.2.1992 till 30.9.2007. The said period is more than the qualifying service period of 10 years necessary for the grant of pensionary benefits.

In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the distinction, made by the Principal Secretary in passing the impugned order, is not tenable and, accordingly, the same is hereby quashed, holding that services rendered by the petitioner with effect from 28.2.1992, shall be counted in his services rendered by him after his regularization for the purposes of grant of pension. The respondents are, as such, directed to work out the pension admissible to the petitioner as aforesaid and to start paying the same as well as the arrears. The arrears shall be paid with interest of 8 per cent within a period of three months.

The writ petition is allowed, accordingly."

(emphasis added)

11. Even otherwise, we find that Fundamental Rule 56, as operative in Uttar Pradesh made by Provincial Legislation, clearly provides that any person, who retires under Fundamental Rule 56, would be entitled for 'retiring pension'. Fundamental Rule 56, since, it is a Provincial enactment, would prevail over C.S.R., which are pre-constitutional provision. This aspect was considered by a Division Bench of this Court in Prasidh Narain Upadhyay, 2006(1)ESC 611, and Court held:

"12. The term "qualifying service" is defined in Section 1 Chapter 16 of Article 361 of the Civil Service Regulations which provides that the service of an officer does not qualify for pension unless it conforms to the following three conditions:

(A)The service must be under Government.

(B)The employment must be substantive and permanent.

(C)The service must be paid by Government.

13. In the present case, so far as the condition Nos. A and C are concerned, they are satisfied and the dispute is only with respect to condition No. B, i.e. lack of permanent character of service. However, in our view, the aforesaid provisions stand obliterated after the amendment of Fundamental Rule 56 by U.P. Act No. 24 of 1975 which allows retirement of a temporary employee also and provides in Clause (e) that a retiring pension is payable and other retiral benefits, if any, shall be available to every Government servant who retires or is required or allowed to retire under this Rule. Since the aforesaid amendment Rule 56 was Service Regulations, which are pre-constitutional would have to give way to the provisions of Fundamental Rule 56. In other words, the provisions of Fundamental Rule 56 shall prevail over the Civil Service Regulations, if they are inconsistent. Condition B (supra) of Article 361 of Civil Service Regulations are clearly inconsistent with Fundamental Rule 56 and thus, is inoperative.

14. A similar controversy came up for consideration earlier before this court in the case of Dr. Hari Shanker Ashopa Vs State of U.P. and others, 1989 ACJ 337. After referring to the Fundamental Rule 56 and various provisions contained in Civil Service Regulations, this Court observed as under:

"Clause (e) of Rule 56 unequivocally recognizes, declares and guarantees retiring pension to every Government servant who retires on attaining the age of superannuation, or who is prematurely retired or who retires voluntarily. To be precise, every Government servant (whether permanent or temporary) who retires under Clause (a) of Clause (b), or who is required to retire, or who is allowed to retire under Clause (C) of Rule 56, becomes entitled for a retiring pension, of course, the first and third conditions stipulated in Article 361 of the Regulations are satisfied."

(emphasis added)

12. This has been followed and further clarified in Babu Singh vs. State of U. P. and others, 2006 (8) ADJ 371 and Bansh Gopal Vs. State of U. P., 2006 (3) ESC 2248 (All.) and above decisions fully support the case of petitioner with which we are in agreement.

13. In view thereof, the writ petition is allowed. Impugned order dated 21.05.2014 is set aside. The respondents are directed to treat entire adhoc service of petitioner as 'qualifying service' for pensionary benefits. Accordingly, respondents shall also recalculate/recompute retiral benefits payable to petitioner and pay arrears within three months and regular pension shall be paid regularly. "

5. In the aforesaid judgment, the Division Bench of this Court has considered the judgment of this Court in re; Dr. Amrendra Narain Srivastava (supra) and also interpreted the relevant provisions of law of Civil Service Regulations. The view of the Division Bench in re; Shashi Srivastava (supra) is that since the petitioner of that writ petition was appointed on substantive post in permanent establishment which is pensionable, therefore, nature of his appointment i.e. ad hoc appointment is not of much relevance inasmuch as the period spent by him as ad hoc was in permanent pensionable establishment, which ultimately resulted in regularization of the petitioner without any break in service.

6. So far as this fact is concerned, there is no dispute in the present case. Further, this Court has interpreted the provisions of Fundamental Rule 56 as well as Regulation 361 of the Civil Service Regulations.

7. Learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel has tried to justify the impugned order placing reliance upon the contents of counter affidavit but there is nothing in the counter affidavit which could dispute the settled proposition of law that the services rendered as an ad hoc employee in the permanent pensionable establishment may not be ignored by providing the retiral benefits.

8. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the material available on record and the judgment in re; Shashi Srivastava (supra), I am of the considered opinion that the impugned order dated 1.8.2016 passed by opposite party no.1 is not sustainable in the eyes of law, therefore, the same is liable to be quashed.

9. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 1.8.2016 passed by opposite party no.1, which is contained in Annexure No.1 to the writ petition, is hereby quashed. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the opposite parties to revise the retiral benefits of the petitioner including pension, gratuity etc. calculating his services so rendered on ad hoc basis i.e. with effect from 6.11.1973 to 31.12.2005 and pay him such benefits.

10. Since the retiral benefits of the petitioner has been paid without counting the services rendered on ad hoc basis and without following the due procedure of law, therefore, the petitioner shall be entitled for the interest at the rate of 6% p.a. on the arrears of retiral benefits.

11. Compliance of the aforesaid order shall be made within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of the order of this Court, failing which the petitioner shall be entitled for the interest at the rate of 12% p.a.

12. The writ petition is accordingly allowed.

13. No order as to costs.

A. Service – Cancellation of provisional appointment – Concealment of pendency of criminal case – As per the guidelines issued by the Supreme Court, the employer may in its discretion, ignore suppression of fact or false information by condoning the lapse in the cases of trivial nature or in cases where the candidate was not aware about the pendency at the time of filling the form, depending upon the seriousness of crime. (Para 8)
In the present case, the petitioner had knowledge of the pendency of the criminal case which he deliberately concealed and the offence under which he is being proceeded against cannot be said to be of petty nature. Thus, the guidelines issued by the Supreme Court would not apply. (Para 9)

Precedent followed:

1. Avtar Singh Vs U.O.I. & ors., 2016 (8) SCC 471 (Para 2)

Petition against orders dated 03.06.2019 and 12.09.2019, passed by District Development Officer.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta, J.

1. The petitioner has called in question the order dated 3.6.2019 passed by District Development Officer, the seventh respondent cancelling the provisional appointment of the petitioner dated 15.12.2018 and the order dated 12.9.2019 rejecting the representation of the petitioner made in pursuance of order of this Court dated 9.7.2019 in Writ-A No.9601 of 2019.

2. The petitioner was selected for the post of Village Development Officer (Gram Vikas Adhikari). He was given a provisional appointment by order dated 10.10.2018. On that day itself, the petitioner gave a written undertaking in shape of an affidavit that no criminal case was pending against him and if the information furnished in this regard is later found to be incorrect, it shall be open to the authorities to cancel his appointment and also take other legal measures. During verification of his antecedents and character, it was reported by Superintendent of Police that Crime Case No.56A/2011 u/s 147, 148, 149, 379, 323, 504, 506, 427 IPC P.S. Dullahpur, district Ghazipur was pending against him. He was issued a show cause notice dated 11.12.2018 calling for his explanation with regard to concealment about pendency of criminal case. In response to the said notice, the petitioner submitted his explanation stating that on 10.10.2018, he initially affirmed an affidavit in which he disclosed about pendency of the criminal case. However, the District Development Officer refused to accept the said affidavit stating that it was not in prescribed format. The petitioner was compelled to submit another affidavit on prescribed proforma and in which certain incorrect facts were mentioned before hand including the fact that no criminal matter is pending against him. It was on account of said act of the respondents that he could not disclose about the pendency of criminal case in the affidavit submitted by him on 10.10.2018 in prescribed proforma. The petitioner, alongwith his explanation, enclosed the original affidavit dated 10.10.2018, which, according to him, he tried to submit initially, but was not accepted. The seventh respondent, after considering the explanation of the petitioner, by order dated 3.6.2019, rejected the same holding that (a) the attestation documents at serial no.10 Ka and Kha attached with the Application Form dated 6.4.2018 mentions 'No' against the column seeking information about pendency of criminal cases, which is palpably false; (b) again, after selection, when the petitioner was given provisional appointment, he was required to submit an affidavit by way of a declaration that no criminal proceedings are pending against him and regarding other antecedents. In the said affidavit, the petitioner categorically mentioned that no criminal matter is pending against him. However, upon police verification, it transpired that the said declaration is false as a criminal case was pending against him; (c) the affidavit on which reliance was placed by the petitioner in his explanation, upon verification from Public Notary before whom it purports to be sworn, was found to be a result of forgery. Aggrieved by the said order, the petitioner filed Writ-A No.9601 of 2019, which was disposed of by this Court by order dated 9.7.2019 permitting the petitioner to place all relevant material before the authority and who would consider the same in the light of law laid down by the Supreme Court in Avtar Singh Vs. Union of India and others, 2016 (8) SCC 471. In compliance of the said direction, the seventh respondent has now passed the impugned order dated 12.9.2019. While passing the said order, the seventh respondent has specifically considered the guidelines issued by the Supureme Court in paragraph 38 of the judgement in Avtar Singh's case (supra) and thereafter held that it was a case of deliberate concealment of material facts. Even a charge sheet was submitted in the said criminal case on 18.4.2011, much before the petitioner had filed application form for selection. The action taken against him is in consonance with the conditions of appointment wherein it was specifically provided that in case any thing is found incorrect in the declaration furnished, the appointment would be cancelled.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that (a) the petitioner was not aware of the pendency of the criminal case, as pairvi of the said case was being done by his brother Sanjeev, with whom, his relationship was strained; (b) the petitioner being not aware of the pendency of the criminal case was entitled to benefit of the guidelines laid down in paragraph 38.8 and 38.4.1; (c) in the original affidavit got prepared by the petitioner on 10.10.2018, he duly mentioned about pendency of criminal case pending against him, but which affidavit was not accepted by the seventh respondent. The petitioner was coerced to make declaration in the prescribed format. The submission is that since it was prepared before hand, therefore, the petitioner could not alter it nor mention about pendency of the criminal case; and (d) the incident was of a trivial nature; there were cross FIRs and consequently, a lenient view should have been taken.

4. Learned standing counsel, on the other hand, submitted that the petitioner is guilty of concealment of material facts. In fact, he tried to deceive the respondents in giving him appointment by deliberately suppressing the factum of pendency of criminal case against him. The offence is not of trivial nature, therefore, no sympathy could be shown to such a person.

5. The submissions made by learned counsel for the petitioner are palpably inconsistent with each other. While on one hand it is urged that the petitioner was not aware of the pendency of the criminal case, as his brother was doing pairavi in the said matter and he was informed by the counsel that criminal proceedings were no more pending, but on the other hand, it is sought to be contended that in one of the affidavits affirmed by the petitioner on 10.10.2018, but which was not accepted by the seventh respondent on the pretext that it was not on prescribed proforma, he duly mentioned about the pendency of the said criminal case. This itself is sufficient to reject the submissions made in this regard by learned counsel for the petitioner.

6. The affidavit allegedly got prepared by the petitioner on 10.10.2018, which according to him, was not accepted by the seventh respondent, mentions about pendency of Crime Case No.56A/2011 u/s 147, 148, 149, 379, 504, 506, 427 IPC P.S. Dullahpur, district Ghazipur in the Court of Third Sessions Judge, Ghazipur. The affidavit actually submitted by the petitioner before the authorities in paragraph 1 states that no criminal case is pending against the petitioner. The petitioner had also given an undertaking that in case the declaration is found to be false, it shall be open to the respondents to cancel his appointment and to take other legal proceedings as may be warranted. In the reply submitted by the petitioner in response to show cause notice, he took the stand that he never wanted to conceal any fact from the authorities. The affidavit on prescribed proforma contained certain incorrect information and under pressure he had to file it. The plea is on the face of it unacceptable. A perusal of the affidavit, which was filed by the petitioner before the authorities, reveals that the said affidavit was typed on a stamp paper. The name of the petitioner as well as of his father and his address are in same font as the remaining part of the affidavit. It is not the case of the petitioner that he had simply filled his name on any printed form made available to him on that date. The defence set up is wholly preposterous and bereft of any logic. It is interesting to note that the petitioner submitted another reply on 4.1.2019, which makes his case still worse. In the said reply, he alleged that the proforma supplied to him did not contain any column relating to pendency of criminal proceedings, on account of which information in this regard could not be furnished, while as noted above, in the affidavit filed by him, he stated in very first paragraph that no criminal case was pending against him and if the information furnished in this regard is found to be incorrect, the authorities shall be free to cancel his appointment.

7. It is noteworthy that the respondents sent copy of both the affidavits for verification to the Notary Sri Ambika Singh Yadav Advocate, before whom the affidavits purport to have been affirmed. Sri Ambika Singh Yadav vide his letter dated 15.2.2019 informed the respondents that the affidavit dated 10.10.2018, which is written over stamp No.56 AD 276687 (in prescribed format) was duly affirmed before him and is entered at serial no.367 in his register. The other affidavit which the petitioner claimed that it was not accepted, affirmed on stamp No.62 AD 802509, according to the Notary, did not bear his signature nor his stamp. In other words, the stamp and signature of the Notary on the said affidavit was a result of forgery. Learned counsel for the petitioner did not even attempt to assail the said finding in the order dated 3.6.2019.

8. The petitioner was well aware of the fact at the time of submitting application form and also when he gave affidavit regarding his character and antecedents that in case of suppression of any material fact or furnishing of wrong information, the appointment was liable to be cancelled. In such view of the matter, the irresistible conclusion is that the petitioner had deliberately suppressed correct information from the respondents and had rather furnished incorrect information with a deliberate attempt to procure appointment which otherwise would not have been given to him. The guidelines issued by the Supreme Court in paragraph 38.4.1 and 38.8, upon which reliance has been placed by learned counsel for the petitioner, are as follows:-

38.4.1. In a case trivial in nature in which conviction had been recorded, such as shouting slogans at young age or for a petty offence which if disclosed would not have rendered an incumbent unfit for post in question, the employer may, in its discretion, ignore such suppression of fact or false information by condoning the lapse.

38.8. If criminal case was pending but not known to the candidate at the time of filling the form, still it may have adverse impact and the appointing authority would take decision after considering the seriousness of the crime."

9. I have gone through the First Information Report which was filed against the petitioner and 9 other persons. The incident was in respect of certain dispute with the rival group of villagers in connection with making of rasta over sahan land. In the said incident, one Ram Janam S/o Kumar received grievous injuries to which he ultimately succumbed. There is also cross FIR from the side of the petitioner by his cousin brother. The Police, after investigation, has submitted a charge sheet against the petitioner and other co-accused persons and the trial is continuing on basis of charge sheet dated 18.4.2011. The incident was not of such nature that the petitioner may have forgotten the same nor trivial which could be ignored from consideration. The guideline issued by the Supreme Court in paragraph 38.4.1 would thus not apply. So far as the guideline laid down in paragraph 38.8, the same also would not apply as it is applicable only in respect of a candidate, who at the time of filling of the form, was not aware of the pendency of the criminal case and the Appointing Authority, after considering the seriousness of the crime, comes to the conclusion that the same will have no adverse impact. In the instant case, as noted above, the Appointing Authority has returned a clear cut finding that the petitioner had knowledge of the pendency of the criminal case which he deliberately concealed. The offence under which the petitioner is being proceeded against cannot be said to be of petty nature so as to extend the benefit of guidelines laid down in this regard.The Appointing Authority having considered the entire aspect and finding the petitioner not fit for job in view of his dishonest and dubious conduct, hardly any scope is left for this Court to come to the rescue of the petitioner.

10. Before parting, the Court is constrained to note that large number of such cases are coming before the Court where appointments are being cancelled on ground of furnishing of incorrect information by the candidates. The growing tendency in young people to procure appointment even at the cost of furnishing wrong information is really a disturbing trend. The Court is sanguine that deliberate misstatement and concealment would be eschewed. Even Courts would then only be able to come to their rescue.
