(B) Criminal Law - The Code of criminal procedure, 1973 - Proviso to Section 372 Cr.P.C. - victim's right of appeal - restricted to three eventualities - acquittal of the accused- conviction of the accused for lesser offence- for imposing inadequate compensation. (Para - 8)

List of Cases cited:-

1. N.C.W. Vs St. of Delhi, (2010) 12 SCC 599

2. Parvinder Kansal Vs St. (NCT of Delhi), (2020) 19 SCC 496

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mohd. Faiz Alam Khan, J.)

1. No one is present either for the applicant or for respondents no. 2 to 6 when this case is taken up for hearing. Learned A.G.A. is however present for the State.

2. Instant appeal has been filed by the victim under Section 372 Cr.P.C. against the judgment and order dated 07.03.2013 passed by the Judicial Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar whereby the trial Court has convicted the private respondents under Sections 323, 498-A, 506 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 D.P. Act, however, the accused persons/private respondents instead of sentencing to undergo imprisonment were given the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 and released on probation and also against the judgment and order dated 30.09.2016 passed by the Appellate Court i.e. Additional Sessions Judge (Fast Track Court-II), Ambedkar Nagar, whereby the appeal preferred by the state against sentence was dismissed.

3. Perusal of the record would reveal that the instant appeal has been listed after a long time as it was on 04.12.2017 this appeal was last listed and vide order dated 20.11.2017 the delay, which had occurred in preferring the appeal has been condoned by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court and the appeal was directed to be listed for admission.

4. Section 372 of the Cr.P.C., under which the instant appeal has been preferred, is reproduced for ready reference as under:-

Provided that the victim shall have a right to prefer an appeal against any order passed by the court acquitting the accused or convicting for a lesser offence or imposing inadequate compensation, and such appeal shall lie to the court to which an appeal ordinarily lies against the order of conviction of such court."

5. Perusal of this Section would reveal that the same is starting with a Non-Obstante Clause declaring that no appeal shall lie from any judgment or order of a Criminal Court except as provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force. Thus, it is clear that the appeal could only be preferred in accordance with the scheme provided in the Cr.P.C. or provided by any other law for the time being in force. The proviso to Section 372 Cr.P.C. provides a right to the victim of an offence to prefer an appeal and it says that the victim (as defined under Section 2w (wa) of the Cr.P.C. may prefer an appeal against any judgment or order passed by the Court acquitting the accused or convicting for a lesser offence or imposing inadequate compensation. Thus, the appeal under Section 372 Cr.P.C. could only be filed on the happening of three situations namely

(i) When the accused person(s) have been acquitted;

(ii) When the accused person(s0 have been convicted for a lesser offence;

(iii) Where inadequate compensation has been imposed by the Court (s).

6. The instant appeal has been preferred by the victim against the order of the trial court as well as of the first Appellate Court and it is evident that though the accused persons were convicted by the trial Court for the offence committed under Sections 323, 498-A, 506 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 D.P. Act, however, instead of sentencing them to undergo imprisonment the trial Court has given them benefit of Section 4 of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 and released themon probation and the appeal preferred by the state against sentencing has also been dismissed by the appellate Court.

7. The issue as to whether a victim of the crime may prefer an appeal under section 372 Crpc against inadequacy of sentence awarded to the accused persons is now no more res integra. Hon'ble Supreme Court in National Commission For Women v. State of Delhi, (2010) 12 SCC 599 has held as under:-

"11. An appeal is a creature of a statute and cannot lie under any inherent power. This Court does undoubtedly grant leave to appeal under the discretionary power conferred under Article 136 of the Constitution of India at the behest of the State or an affected private individual but to permit anybody or an organisation pro bono publico to file an appeal would be a dangerous doctrine and would cause utter confusion in the criminal justice system. We are, therefore, of the opinion that the special leave petition itself was not maintainable.

12. In Pritam Singh v. State [AIR 1950 SC 169 : (1950) 51 Cri LJ 1270] this Court while dealing with a criminal matter (after the grant of leave under Article 136 of the Constitution) considered the scope and ambit of this article and observed: (AIR pp. 171-72, para 9)

"9. On a careful examination of Article 136 along with the preceding article, it seems clear that the wide discretionary power with which this Court is invested under it is to be exercised sparingly and in exceptional cases only, and as far as possible a more or less uniform standard should be adopted in granting special leave in the wide range of matters which can come up before it under this article. By virtue of this article, we can grant special leave in civil cases, in criminal cases, in income tax cases, in cases which come up before different kinds of tribunals and in a variety of other cases. The only uniform standard which in our opinion can be laid down in the circumstances is that Court should grant special leave to appeal only in those cases where special circumstances are shown to exist. ... It is sufficient for our purpose to say that though we are not bound to follow them too rigidly since the reasons, constitutional and administrative, which sometimes weighed with the Privy Council, need not weigh with us, yet some of those principles are useful as furnishing in many cases a sound basis for invoking the discretion of this Court in granting special leave. Generally speaking, this Court will not grant special leave, unless it is shown that exceptional and special circumstances exist, that substantial and grave injustice has been done and that the case in question presents features of sufficient gravity to warrant a review of the decision appealed against."

13. In P.S.R. Sadhanantham v. Arunachalam [(1980) 3 SCC 141 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 649] this Court was dealing with the locus standi of a private person, in this case the victim's brother, who was neither a complainant nor a first informant in the criminal case but had filed a petition under Article 136 of the Constitution of India. This Court observed that the strictest vigilance was required to be maintained to prevent the abuse of the process of court, more particularly, in criminal matters, and ordinarily a private party other than the complainant, should not be permitted to file an appeal under Article 136, though the broad scope of the article postulated an exception in suitable cases. It was spelt out as under: (SCC p. 145, para 7)

"7. Specificity being essential to legality, let us see if the broad spectrum spread out of Article 136 fills the bill from the point of view of "procedure established by law'. In express terms, Article 136 does not confer a right of appeal on a party as such but it confers a wide discretionary power on the Supreme Court to interfere in suitable cases. The discretionary dimension is considerable but that relates to the power of the court. The question is whether it spells by implication, a fair procedure as contemplated by Article 21. In our view, it does. Article 136 is a special jurisdiction. It is residuary power; it is extraordinary in its amplitude, its limit, when it chases injustice, is the sky itself. This Court functionally fulfils itself by reaching out to injustice wherever it is and this power is largely derived in the common run of cases from Article 136. Is it merely a power in the court to be exercised in any manner it fancies? Is there no procedural limitation in the manner of exercise and the occasion for exercise? Is there no duty to act fairly while hearing a case under Article 136, either in the matter of grant of leave or, after such grant, in the final disposal of the appeal? We have hardly any doubt that there is a procedure necessarily implicit in the power vested in the summit court. It must be remembered that Article 136 confers jurisdiction on the highest court. The Founding Fathers unarguably intended in the very terms of Article 136 that it shall be exercised by the highest judges of the land with scrupulous adherence to judicial principles well established by precedents in our jurisprudence. Judicial discretion is canalised authority, not arbitrary eccentricity."

14. The Court then examined the implications of completely shutting out a private party from filing a petition under Article 136 on the locus standi and observed thus: (Arunachalam case [(1980) 3 SCC 141 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 649] , SCC p. 147, para 14)

"14. Having said this, we must emphasise that we are living in times when many societal pollutants create new problems of unredressed grievance when the State becomes the sole repository for initiation of criminal action. Sometimes, pachydermic indifference of bureaucratic officials, at other times politicisation of higher functionaries may result in refusal to take a case to this Court under Article 136 even though the justice of the lis may well justify it. While "the criminal law should not be used as a weapon in personal vendettas between private individuals', as Lord Shawcross once wrote, in the absence of an independent prosecution authority easily accessible to every citizen, a wider connotation of the expression "standing' is necessary for Article 136 to further its mission."

15. A reading of the aforesaid excerpts from the two judgments would reveal that while an appeal by a private individual can be entertained but it should be done sparingly and after due vigilance and particularly in a case where the remedy has been shut out for the victims due to mala fides on the part of the State functionaries or due to inability of the victims to approach the Court. In the present matter, we find that neither the State which is the complainant nor the heirs of the deceased have chosen to file a petition in the High Court. As this responsibility has been taken up by the Commission at its own volition this is clearly not permissible in the light of the aforesaid judgments."

8. In Parvinder Kansal v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2020) 19 SCC 496 Hon'ble Supreme Court has also held as under:-

"8. Chapter XXIX of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 deals with "Appeals" and Section 372 makes it clear that no appeal to lie unless otherwise provided by the Code or any other law for the time being in force. It is not in dispute that in the instant case appellant has preferred appeal only under Section 372 CrPC. The proviso is inserted to Section 372 CrPC by Act 5 of 2009. Section 372 and the proviso which is subsequently inserted read as under:

"372. No appeal to lie unless otherwise provided.-- No appeal shall lie from any judgment or order of a criminal court except as provided for by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force:*

Provided that the victim shall have a right to prefer an appeal against any order passed by the court acquitting the accused or convicting for a lesser offence or imposing inadequate compensation, and such appeal shall lie to the court to which an appeal ordinarily lies against the order of conviction of such court."

A reading of the proviso makes it clear that so far as victim's right of appeal is concerned, same is restricted to three eventualities, namely, acquittal of the accused; conviction of the accused for lesser offence; or for imposing inadequate compensation. While the victim is given opportunity to prefer appeal in the event of imposing inadequate compensation, but at the same time there is no provision for appeal by the victim for questioning the order of sentence as inadequate, whereas Section 377 CrPC gives the power to the State Government to prefer appeal for enhancement of sentence. While it is open for the State Government to prefer appeal for inadequate sentence under Section 377 CrPC but similarly no appeal can be maintained by victim under Section 372 CrPC on the ground of inadequate sentence. It is fairly well-settled that the remedy of appeal is creature of the statute. Unless same is provided either under Code of Criminal Procedure or by any other law for the time being in force no appeal, seeking enhancement of sentence at the instance of the victim, is maintainable. Further we are of the view that the High Court while referring to the judgment of this Court in National Commission for Women v. State (NCT of Delhi) [National Commission for Women v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2010) 12 SCC 599 : (2011) 1 SCC (Cri) 774] has rightly relied on the same and dismissed the appeal, as not maintainable."

9. Above placed case laws makes it clear that no appeal can be maintained by the victim under Section 372 CrPC on the ground of inadequacy of sentence. Thus the appeal preferred by the victim of the crime against inadequacy of sentence is not maintainable and is dismissed as such.

Ramawatar Vs St. of M.P., CRLA No. 1393 of 2021

(Delivered by Hon'ble Gautam Chowdhary, J.)

1. Heard Dr. S.B.Singh, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Rajeshwar Singh and Rakesh Chand Srivastava learned A.G.A. assisted by Madnesh Prasad Singh, learned State Law Officer for the State and perused the material on record.

2. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application has been filed praying for quashing of proceeding (including cognizance and summoning order) of S.T. No. 164 of 2019 arising out of Case Crime no. 30 of 2019, under Sections 323, 504 IPC and Section 3(1)(r) and 3(1)(s) of Schedule Caste and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, P.S. Aurai, District Bhadohi pending in the court of Additional District & Sessions Judge/Special Judge (SC/ST Act), Bhadohi Gyanpur pursuant to the compromise entered into between the parties.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submit that an FIR had come to be lodged by the opposite party no. 2 owing to some misunderstanding and misgivings between the parties. With passage of time, they have been able to resolve their differences and have settled their dispute amicably in writing. It is further submitted that vide order dated 08.02.2022, a co-ordinate Bench of this Court had referred the matter for verification of the compromise, which has been verified but the learned Court below has further observed that since the matter pertains to offence under SC/ST Act, the same is refused to be accepted. Learned counsel for the applicant contends that the matter under SC/ST Act can be compromised and in support of his contention, he has relied upon a decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court dated 25.10.2021 passed in Criminal Appeal No. 1393 of 2021 Ramawatar Vs. State of Madya Pradesh.

4. In the instant case, proceedings under Sections 323, 504 I.P.C. and Section 3 (1) (r) and 3 (1) (s) have been sought to be quashed on the basis of compromise entered into between the parties. Although Section 323, 504 I.P.C. are compoundable, but the sole question before this Court is as to whether proceedings under SC/ST Act can be quashed on the basis of compromise?

5. To consider the question, whether proceedings SC/ST Act can be quashed or not, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Ramawatar Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (supra) has framed following two questions for consideration:-

"1.whether the jurisdiction under Article 142 of the Constitution can be invoked for quashing of criminal proceedings arising out of "non-compoundable offences?

2.If yes, then whether the power to quash proceedings can be extended to offences arising out of special status such as SC/ST Act Act."

6. The Hon'ble Apex Court after due consideration answered the first question in affirmative.

7. Dealing with the second question, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph 14 has observed as under:

14. With respect to the second question before us, it must be noted that even though the powers of this Court under Article 142 are wide and far-reaching, the same cannot be exercised in a vacuum. True it is that ordinary statutes or any restrictions contained therein, cannot be constructed as a limitation on the Court's power to do "complete justice". However, this is not to say that this Court can altogether ignore the statutory provisions or other express prohibitions in law. In fact, the Court is obligated to take note of the relevant laws and will have to regulate the use of its power and discretion accordingly. The Constitution Bench decision in the case of Supreme Court Bar Assn. v. Union of India & Anr has eloquently clarified this point as follows:

"48. The Supreme Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 142 has the power to make such order as is necessary for doing complete justice "between the parties in any cause or matter pending before it". The very nature of the power must lead the Court to set limits for itself within which to exercise those powers and ordinarily it cannot disregard a statutory provision governing a subject, except perhaps to balance the equities between the conflicting claims of the litigating parties by "ironing out the creases" in a cause or matter before it. Indeed this Court is not a court of restricted jurisdiction of only dispute-settling. It is well recognised and established that this Court has always been a law- maker and its role travels beyond merely dispute-settling. It is a "problem solver in the nebulous areas" (see K. Veeraswami v. Union of India [(1991) 3 SCC 655 : 1991 SCC (Cri) 734] but the substantive statutory provisions dealing with the subject matter of a given case cannot be altogether ignored by this Court, while making an order under Article 142. Indeed, these constitutional powers cannot, in any way, be controlled by any statutory provisions but at the same time these powers are not meant to be exercised when their exercise may come directly in conflict with what has been expressly provided for in a statute dealing expressly with the subject."

8. In the instant case, the applicant has been charged with Section 3 (1) (r) (s) of SC/ST Act, which are quoted below:-

"3(1) (r) intentionally insults or intimidates with intention to humiliate a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribes in any place within public view:

3(1) (s) abuses any member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe by a caste name in any place within public view:"

9. From perusal of the record, it is apparent that parties have entered into compromise 22.12.2021, wherein it has been categorically stated in paragraph no.3 that the the dispute with regard to irrigation of the field arose between the informant and the servant of the applicant. On the other hand, no altercation between the informant and the applicant took place and the applicant settled the matter. Since the informant without any compulsion entered into a compromise and wishes to drop the present criminal proceedings against the accused-applicant, then the overriding objection of SC/ST Act would not be overwhelmed if the proceedings are quashed. It further appears that the opposite party no. 2, who would be the key prosecution witness, if the trial were to proceed, has declared his unequivocal intent to turn hostile at the trial. In such circumstances, it is apparent that merits and truth apart, the proceedings in trial, if allowed to continue, may largely be a waste of precious time of the learned court below.

10. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties regarding the compromise entered into between the parties and taking all these factors into consideration cumulatively, the compromise between parties be accepted and further taking into account the legal position as laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Ramawatar Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (supra), the present application deserves to be allowed.

11. Accordingly, it is allowed. The proceedings of the S.T. No. 164 of 2019 arising out of Case Crime no. 30 of 2019, under Sections 323, 504 IPC and Section 3(1)(r) and 3(1)(s) of Schedule Caste and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, P.S. Aurai, District Bhadohi pending in the court of Additional District & Sessions Judge/Special Judge (SC/ST Act), Bhadohi Gyanpur is hereby quashed.

4. It is stated in para 38 of the affidavit that out of 23 cases, only 12 are still pending against the accused-applicant. The close scrutiny of the averments of para 38 of the affidavit would reveal that though the accused-applicant has secured acquittal in some of the cases against him but some of the heinous cases including murder and rape etc., are still pending against him in the Courts.

5. The background of the present case is that a case was registered against the accused-applicant being FIR No.548 of 2019 under Sections 376, 420, 406, 506 IPC at Police Station Lanka, District Varanasi on a complaint by the victim, who later on attempted to commit suicide along with her friend within the precincts of the Supreme Court India on 16.08.2021. They were admitted in very serious and critical conditions in Ram Manohar Lohia Hospital, New Delhi and later on died on 21.08.2021 and 24.08.2021 respectively.

6. Present accused-applicant is a "Bahubali, a criminal turned politician which is evident from his long criminal history of heinous offences given in para 38 of the affidavit. The police after investigating the offence filed a charge-sheet against the accused-applicant in the said FIR No.548 of 2019 (supra). In order toterrorize and put undue pressure on the victim/prosecutrix, the accused-applicant got several cases registered against her and her friend/witness so that they would not support the prosecution case.

7. On 10.11.2020, the victim gave an application to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Varanasi alleging that co-accused-Amitabh Thakur, an Ex IPS officer was manufacturing false documents/evidence against the victim and her friend to favour of present accused-applicant on monetary consideration. It was alleged that prosecutrix's dignity, honour and image were being besmirch and tarnished. The accused and co-accused were abating and drawing her close to commit suicide. She was being continuously harassed physically and mentally and subjected to cruelty to change her stand before the Court. The accused-applicant and his henchman were employing all kinds of undue pressure on her to change her stand before the Court and turn hostile. She made allegations against the co-accused-Amitabh Thakur, who in active connivance with the present accused-applicant, extended threat to her life. She also said that she would be compelled to commit suicide because of the accused-applicant and co-accused-Amitabh Thakur.

8. The victim and her friend-Satyam Prakash Rai, thereafter, on 16.08.2021 attempted to commit suicide outside the Gate No.6 of the Supreme Court and went live on Facebook making serious allegations against the accused-applicant and co-accused-Amitabh Thakur. Statements made by two victims live on Facebook have been treated as dying declarations.

9. The Director General of Police constituted a Two Members Committee consisting of Director General, U.P. Police Recruitment and Promotional Board and Additional Director General, Women and Child Security Organization, Lucknow. The said Committee submitted its report on 27.08.2021. On the basis of said report, a written complaint was given by Sub Inspector Daya Shankar Dwivedi at Police Station Hazratganj, which is the basis of the FIR in question registered against the accused-applicant and co-accused.

10. Report of the two members team on the basis of which the FIR in question has been registered would mention that Bharat Singh, father of the accused-applicant gave an application on 03.03.2020 to S.S.P. Varanasi requesting him to get further investigation conducted under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. in FIR No.548 of 2019 (supra) registered against the accused-applicant.

11. Then, Senior Superintendent of police, Varanasi marked the said application to the then Circle Officer, Bhelupur, Mr.Amresh Kumar Singh. Mr.Amresh Kumar Singh prepared a report on the application and in last paragraph of his report said that the FIR No.548 of 2019 (supra) was falsely lodged in conspiracy of the prosecutrix, her friend, Satyam Prakash Rai, Angad Rai and Vijay Shankar Tiwari and recommended for fresh investigation under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. The case was pending in the Court but the Circle Officer, Amresh Kumar Singh made available the said report to co-accused-Amitabh Thakur and other persons under Right to Information Act despite the case being pending in the Court. This report was made public to defame the victim/prosecutrix and tarnish her character and dignity. It was made public to weaken the case against the accused-applicant. The Report of C.O. Bhelupur was a preliminary report on the application for further investigation, and final decision for further investigation was yet to be taken but the said report was made public in order to put undue pressure on the prosecutrix and her friend so that they should not support the prosecution case against the accused-applicant.

12. It is alleged that when the accused-applicant and his goons were not successful in breaking down/winning the victim and the witness, they put all kind of pressure and tortured them physically and mentally. Circle Officer, Bhelupur also assisted the accused-applicant. The victim and her friend were so much harassed and tortured that they became desperate as they perceived that they would not get justice. They had fears about their lives. Their dignity, character and image were being tarnished and besmirch. Under these circumstances, they went to Supreme Court, highest seat of justice and attempted suicide outside the Supreme Court gate and later on they died during the course of treatment. Co-accused-Amitabh Thakur ex-IPS officer has been granted bail by this court vide order dated 14.03.2022 but the case of the accused-applicant is different from the co-accused.

13. It is unfortunate and the greatest irony of the largest democracy of the world that as many as 43 percent of the Member of Lok Sabha who got elected in 2019 general elections are having criminal cases including cases related to heinous offences pending against them.

14. A constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in the case of Public Interest Foundation & Ors vs Union of India & Anr : (2019) 3 SCC 224 has taken note of 244th Law Commission report in which it was said that 30 per cent or 152 sitting M.P.s were having criminal cases against them, of which about half i.e. 76 were having serious criminal cases. This phenomenon has increased with every general election. In 2004, 24 per cent of Lok Sabha M.Ps. had criminal cases pending, which increased to 30 per cent in 2009 elections. In 2014, it went up to 34 per cent and in 2019 as mentioned above, 43 per cent Members of Parliament who got elected for Lok Sabha are having criminal cases pending against them. The Supreme Court has taken judicial notice of criminalization of politics and imperative needs of electoral reforms. There have been several instances of persons charged with serious and heinous offences like murder, rape, kidnapping and dacoity got tickets to contest election from political parties and even got elected in large number of cases.

15. The Supreme Court has said that this leads to a very undesirous and embarrassing situation of law breakers becoming law makers and moving around police protection. The Supreme Court in the said case has directed the Election Commission of India to take appropriate measures to curb criminalization in politics but unfortunately collective will of the Parliament has not moved in the said direction to protect the Indian Democracy going in the hands of criminals, thugs and law breakers. If the politicians are law breakers, citizens cannot expect accountable and transparent governance and the society governed by the rule of law be an utopian idea. After independence with every election, role of identities such as caste, community, ethnicity, gender, religion etc, has been becoming more and more prominent in giving tickets to winnable candidates. These identities coupled with money and muscle power has made entry of criminals in politics easy and every political party without exception (may be with some difference in degree and extent) uses these criminals to win elections. Giving tickets to candidates with serious criminal charges would break the confidence and trust of the civil society, law abiding citizens of this country in the electoral politics and elections.

16. No one can dispute that the present day politics is caught in crime, identity, patronage, muscle and money network. Nexus between crime and politics is serious threat to democratic values and governance based on rule of law. Elections of Parliament and State Legislature and even for local bodies and panchayats are very expensive affairs. The record would show that the elected members of Lok Sabha with criminal records are extremely wealthier candidates. For example, in 2014 Lok Sabha election 16 out of 23 winners having criminal charges in their credit related to murder were multi-millionaire. After candidates get re-elected, their wealth and income grows manyfold which is evident from the fact that in 2014, 165 M.Ps. who got re-elected, their average wealth growth was Rs.7.5 Crores in 5 years.

17. Earlier, "Bahubalis' and other criminals used to provide support to candidates on various considerations including caste, religion and political shelter but now criminals themselves are entering into politics and getting elected as the political parties do not have any inhibition in giving tickets to candidates with criminal background including those having heinous offence(s) registered against them. Confirmed criminal history sheeters and even those who are behind bars are given tickets by different political parties and surprisingly some of them get elected as well.

18. It is the responsibility of the Parliament to show its collective will to restrain the criminals from entering into the politics, Parliament or legislature to save democracy and the country governed on democratic principles and rule of law.

19. There is responsibility of civil society as well to rise above the parochial and narrow considerations of caste, community etc and to ensure that a candidate with criminal background does not get elected. Criminalization of politics and corruption in public life have become the biggest threats to idea of India, its democratic polity and world's largest democracy. There is an unholy alliance between organized crime, the politicians and the bureaucrats and this nexus between them have become pervasive reality. This phenomenon has eroded the credibility, effectiveness, and impartiality of the law enforcement agencies and administration. This has resulted into lack of trust and confidence in administration and justice delivery system of the country as the accused such as the present accused-applicant win over the witnesses, influence investigation and tamper with the evidence by using their money, muscle and political power. Alarming number of criminals reaching Parliament and State Assembly is a wake up call for all. Parliament and Election Commission of India are required to take effective measures to wean away criminals from politics and break unholy nexus between criminal politicians and bureaucrats.

20. This unholy nexus and unmindfulness of political establishment is the result of reaching person like the accused-applicant, a gangster, hardened criminal and "Bahubali' to the Parliament and becoming a law maker. This Court, looking at the heinousness of offence, might of the accused, evidence available on record, impact on society, possibility of accused tampering with the evidence and influencing/ winning over the witnesses by using his muscle and money power does not find that there is a ground to enlarge the accused-applicant on bail at this stage. This bail application is thus, rejected.

1.2- जांच के दौरान मिले साक्ष्य व गवाहों के कथन के अनुसार, दो अन्य अभियुक्त शालिम व कामिल की भी इस घटना में संलिप्तता पाई गई, अतः आवेदक व अन्य दो अपराधियों पर धारा 302, 304-

शव विच्छेदन आख्या:

2.1- मृतका जयवती के शव विच्छेदन आख्या के अनुसार, उनकी मृत्यु के कारण का अभिमत, मृत्यु पूर्व आग्नेयास्त्र द्वारा कारित चोट की वजह से निश्चेतावस्था था(Comma due to ante mortem fire arm injury) (मस्तिष्क के दाये भाग में धातुवत गोली पाई गई) व दाये ऑक्सिपिटल भाग में फटा हुआ घाव पाया गया तथा दायें ऑक्सिपिटो-पैराइटल भाग में प्रवेश घाव व आक्सिपिटल-पैराइटल हड्डी में फ्रैक्चर पाया गया।

2.2- मृतक अरविन्द के मृत्यु के कारण का अभिमत, मृत्यु पूर्व आग्नेयास्त्र द्वारा कारित चोट के कारण निश्चेतावस्था था। बायीं आंख की पलक के पाशविक भाग पर प्रवेश घाव व दायें ऑक्सिपिटल भाग में निकास घाव पाया गया।

3.1- आवेदक के विद्वान अधिवक्ता, श्री जगदेव सिंह ने प्रबलपूर्वक तर्क प्रस्तुत किये कि, आवेदक मृतका का पति व मृतक का जीजा है, अतः इस रिश्ते के नाते उसके पास इस अपराध को कारित करने का कोई भी कारण या उद्देश्य नहीं है। प्रथम सूचना तथ्य के वर्णन की भाषा, एक आम आदमी की न होकर, पुलिस द्वारा की जाने वाली कार्यवाही के किसी जानकार व्यक्ति के द्वारा लिखाई प्रतीत होती है।

3.2- आवेदक के विरुद्ध कथित रुप से मात्र एक ही साक्ष्य है, कि घटना की रात में 8 बजे अपने साथ मृतका व उसके भाई (मृतक) को उनके पैतृक घर से गज मेले में घुमाने के लिए गया था। घटना का कोई चक्षुदर्शी साक्ष्य नहीं है। आवेदक के विरुद्ध मात्र परिस्थितजन्य साक्ष्य है, जिसकी कढ़ियां आपस में नहीं मिल रही हैं तथा यह एक कमजोर साक्ष्य की श्रेणी में आता है।

3.3- आवेदक के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने अपने कथन को और बल देने के लिये उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा रमेश दासू चौहान प्रति महाराष्ट्र सरकार:(2019) 7 एस.सी.सी. 476 के मामले में दिये गये निर्णय पर इस न्यायालय का ध्यान आकर्षित करवाया कि जिन परिस्थितियों से अपराध कारित होने का अनुमान लगाया जाना है, उन्हे दृढ़ता और संजीदगी से स्थापित किया जाना चाहिए तथा परिस्थितियों को एक साथ मिलाकर एक श्रृंखला बननी चाहिये, जिससे इस निष्कर्ष तक पहुँचने में कोई पलायन न हो कि अपराध सभी मानवीय संभावनाओं के अन्तर्गत, केवल अपराधी ने ही कारित किया है, न की किसी अन्य के द्वारा कारित किया गया हो।

3.4- मृतका अपने पैतृक घर में कुछ दिनों पूर्व से अपनी इच्छा से रह रही थी। उसका आवेदक से कोई मनमुटाव नहीं हुआ था। आवेदक घटना के दिन अपनी ससुराल नहीं गया था तथा उस पर मनगढ़ंत आरोप लगाये गये हैं। उसको घटना के संबंध में कोई भी जानकारी नहीं है।

3.5- मृतका व मृतक के शव, एक दूसरे से करीब 700 मीटर की दूरी पर अलग-अलग खेतों में मिले थे, अतः यह संभावित है कि दोनों के साथ अलग-अलग कोई हादसा हुआ हो।

3.6- आवेदक के द्वारा कथित रुप से बताने व दिखाने पर, एक देशी कट्टा की बरामदगी की कार्यवाही असत्य है तथा उक्त कार्यवाही का कोई सार्वजनिक साक्ष्य भी नहीं है, अतः कथित बरामदगी, आवेदक के विरुद्ध कोई सारवान साक्ष्य नहीं माना जा सकता है।

3.7- प्रथम सूचनाकर्ता के धारा 161 दं.प्र.सं. के अन्तर्गत लिखित ब्यान में व उसके द्वारा दिये गये प्रथम सूचना तथ्य में भिन्नता है, कि आवेदक मृतक व मृतका को कथित रुप से अलग-अलग व अलग-अलग स्थान से मेला घुमाने ले गया था, जबकि प्रथम सूचना तथ्य के अनुसार आवेदक दोनों को एक साथ उनके घर से मेला घुमाने ले गया था।

3.8- आवेदक एक सम्मानित परिवार का सदस्य है, जिसको जमानत दिये जाने की दशा में

4.1- अभियोजन/शासन का पक्ष, श्री चन्दन अग्रवाल, अतिरिक्त शासकीय अधिवक्ता ने प्रबलता के साथ प्रस्तुत किया कि, अन्वेषण के दौरान एकत्रित साक्ष्यों व साक्षियों के कथन से यह प्रथम दृष्टवा पूर्णतः विदित होता है, कि आवेदक घटना के दिन अपनी ससुराल आया और अपनी पत्नी (मृतका) व उसके भाई (मृतक) को पुरानी घटनाओ को भुलाकर शान्ति पूर्वक जीवन व्यतीत करने की दिशा में, मेले में रात को घुमाने ले गया। मृतक को हलवाई की दुकान से व मृतका को घर से ले गया था और सुबह दोनों के शव पृथक-पृथक जगह से बरामद हुए तथा आवेदक न तो रात में वापस आया और न ही इन दोनों के साथ किन परिस्थितियों में घटना घटित हुई के बारे में कुछ बता ही पाया। जहां तक प्रथम सूचना के तथ्य में तथा धारा 161 दं.प्र.सं. के अंतर्गत अभिलिखित कथन इस विषय पर भिन्नता का प्रश्न है, वो विचारण के समय का विषय रहेगा तथा विधि का अतिसामान्य नियम है कि प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट कोई ज्ञान कोष नहीं होता है।

4.2- भारतीय साक्ष्य अधिनियम की धारा 106 के अनुसार "जब भी कोई तथ्य विशेषतः किसी व्यक्ति के ज्ञान में है, तब उस तथ्य को साबित करने का भार उस पर है"। अतः वर्तमान प्रकरण में आवेदक जो अपनी पत्नी व उसके भाई को, अपने साथ घटना की रात में मेला घुमाने ले गया था और सुबह उन दोनों का शव बरामद हुए, उस पर यह भार है कि वो बताये कि उस रात उन दोनों के साथ क्या और कैसे घटित हुआ था, जो वो बताने में अब तक असफल रहा है।

4.3- जांच के दौरान मिले साक्ष्य व गवाहों के लिखित कथन से परिस्थितियों को एक साथ मिला कर प्रथम दृष्टया एक श्रृंखला बन रही है कि आवेदक अपनी पत्नी (मृतका) के प्रति न केवल क्रूरता कारित करता था, बल्कि दहेज की मांग भी करता था। घटना के दिन वो अपनी ससुराल गया व अच्छे आपसी सम्बन्ध बनाने का झांसा देकर दोनों को रात में मेले घुमाने के बहाने साथ ले गया व सुबह उनके शव मिले। आवेदक न तो वापस आया और न ही कोई सूचना दी। अतः दहेज मृत्यु का अपराध कारित किया तथा अपनी पत्नी व उसके भाई की हत्या अपने दो साथियों के साथ मिलकर कारित कर हत्या का अपराध भी कारित किया। यह श्रृंखला आवेदक व अन्य दो अभियुक्तों की प्रत्यक्ष रुप से अपराध में संलिप्तता दर्शाती है न की किसी और की।

4.4- आवेदक द्वारा अपने दो साथियों के साथ मिलकर अपनी पत्नी व उसके भाई की हत्या कर व उनके शवों को छिपाकर अपराध के साक्ष्य को विलोपन का अपराध भी कारित किया है। अतः वर्तमान जमानत का आवेदन निरस्त किया जाये।

5.(क) सारगर्भित धारणा से संभवत: मूल नियम, जमानत है न की कारागार (देखें : राजस्थान राज्य, जयपुर बनाम बलचंद @ बलिया: (1977 एआईआर 2447, 1978 एससीआर (1) 535)। भा.दं.सं की धारा 439 के तहत जमानत देने की शक्ति के व्यापक आयाम है तथा न्यायालय को असीमित तो नही परन्तु पर्याप्त विवेकाधिकार प्रदान किये गये है, जिसका उपयोग न तो सामान्य रुप से और न ही मनमाने रुप से, परन्तु न्यायसंगत रुप से करने के लिए प्रस्तावित किया गया है । (देखें: राम गोविंद उपाध्याय बनाम सुदर्शन सिंह: (2002) 3 एससीसी 598 और नीरू यादव बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश शासन (2016)15 एससीसी 422)।

(ख) जमानत देने के लिये विचारात्मक कारक है, अपराध होने की परिस्थितियों की प्रकृति और गंभीरता; पीड़ित और गवाहों के संदर्भ में आरोपी की स्थिति और हैसियत; आरोपी के न्याय प्रक्रिया से भागने की संभावना; अपराध दोहराने की संभावना; मामले में संभावित सजा की कठोर संभावना के साथ अपने स्वयं के जीवन को खतरे में डालना; गवाहों के साथ छेड़छाड़; मामले का इतिहास और साथ ही इसकी जांच और अन्य प्रासंगिक आधार, जो अन्य

महत्वपूर्ण कारकों पर ध्यान करते हुए, व्यापक रूप से निर्धारित नहीं किये जा सकते है।(देखें : गुरचरण सिंह बनाम राज्य (दिल्ली प्रशासन), (1978) 1 एससीसी 118)

(ग) प्रासंगिक कारक कौन से हो सकते हैं, इसका कोई निर्धारित नियम (स्ट्रेट जैकेट फॉर्मूला) कभी भी नियत नहीं किया जा सकता है, हालांकि, कुछ महत्वपूर्ण कारक जिन्हें अन्य कारकों के साथ हमेशा विचारणीय माना जाता है, वो हैं , प्रथम दृष्टया अभियुक्त की संलिप्तता, प्रकृति और आरोप की गंभीरता, सजा की गंभीरता, आरोपी का चरित्र, स्थिति और उसकी अवस्थिति से संबंधित है।(देखें: उत्तर प्रदेश शासन प्रति अमरमणि त्रिपाठी, (2005) 8 एससीसी 21)

(घ) मन्नो लाल जायसवाल बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश शासन और अन्य: 2022 एससीसी ऑनलाइन एससी 89 में उच्चतम न्यायालय ने कहा है कि, जब अभियुक्तों को भारतीय दंड संहिता की धारा 149 के तहत दंडनीय अपराधों के लिए आरोपित किया गया है और जब उनकी उपस्थिति स्थापित हो जाती है और यह कहा गया हो कि वो विधि विरुद्ध जमाव के सदस्य थे, तो उनकी व्यक्तिगत भूमिका और/या व्यक्तिगत आरोपी द्वारा किया गया अत्युक्ति महत्वपूर्ण और/या प्रासंगिक नहीं होती है।

(ङ) आशिम बनाम राष्ट्रीय जांच एजेंसी : (2022) 1 एससीसी 695 में, उच्चतम न्यायालय ने कहा है कि एक बार जब यह स्पष्ट हो जाये कि समयोचित विचारण संभव नहीं हो पायेगा और आरोपी कारागार में एक दीर्घ अवधि व्यतीत कर चुका है, तो न्यायालय आम तौर पर उसे जमानत पर छोड़ने के लिए बाध्य हो जाते है।

(च) आरोपी को जमानत पर रिहा करने का आधार मात्र इसलिए कि अभियोजन का मामला, परिस्थितिजन्य साक्ष्य पर आधारित है, नहीं हो सकता है, अगर जांच के दौरान साक्ष्य/तथ्य एकत्र किये गये हो और प्रथम दृष्टया घटनाओं की पूरी श्रृंखला स्थापित हो गई है। (देखें : ईश्वरजी नागाजी माली बनाम गुजरात राज्य और अन्य 2022 एससीसी ऑनलाइन एससी 55)

(छ) यह भी ध्यान में रखा जाना चाहिए कि जमानत देने के लिए विधायिका ने "साक्ष्य" के स्थान पर "विश्वास करने के लिए उचित आधार" शब्दों का प्रयोग किया है, जिसका अर्थ है कि जमानत देने से संबंधित न्यायालय केवल इतनी संतुष्टि कर सकता है कि क्या आरोपी के खिलाफ कोई वास्तविक मामला है और अभियोजन पक्ष आरोप के समर्थन में प्रथम दृष्टया साक्ष्य पेश करने में सक्षम होगा। (देखें : प्रहलाद सिंह भाटी बनाम एनसीटी आफ दिल्ली और अन्य:(2001) 4 एससीसी 280)।

(ज) मुक्त न्याय का एक मौलिक आधार है, जिसके लिए हमारी न्यायिक प्रणाली प्रतिबद्ध है, कि वो कारक जो न्यायाधीश के मानस में ज़मानत को अस्वीकृत या स्वीकृत करने के लिए मूल्यांकित किये गये, वो पारित आदेश में उल्लेखित किये जायें। मुक्त न्याय इस धारणा पर आधारित है कि न्याय न केवल किया जाना चाहिए, बल्कि स्पष्ट और निस्संदेह रूप से होता हुआ दिखना भी चाहिए। न्यायसंगत निर्णय देने का न्यायाधीशों का कर्तव्य इस प्रतिबद्धता का हृदय है। (देखें: महिपाल बनाम राजेश कुमार,: (2020) 2 एससीसी 118 और सुश्री वाई बनाम राजस्थान राज्य और अन्य :2022 एससीसी ऑन लाइन एस सी 458)

(झ) जमानत के आवेदन पर आदेश पारित करते समय विस्तृत विवरण का उल्लेख, इस धारणा के नाते नहीं किया जा सकता है, कि मामला ऐसा है जिसके परिणामस्वरूप दोषसिद्धि हो सकती है या इसके विपरीत, दोषमुक्ति हो सकती है। हालांकि, जमानत के आवेदन पर निर्णय लेने वाला न्यायालय मामले के भौतिक पहलुओं से अपने निर्णय को पूरी तरह से अलग नहीं कर सकता, जैसे आरोपी के खिलाफ लगाए गए आरोप ; अगर आरोप यथोचित संदेह से परे साबित होते हैं और इसके परिणामस्वरूप दोषसिद्धि होती है तो सजा की गंभीरता; अभियुक्त द्वारा गवाहों को प्रभावित करने की उचित आशंका; साक्ष्यों से छेड़छाड़; अभियोजन के मामले में निराधारता; आरोपी का आपराधिक पूर्ववृत्त; और आरोपी के विरुद्ध आरोप के समर्थन में न्यायालय की प्रथम दृष्टया संतुष्टि। (देखेः मनोज कुमार खोखर बनाम राजस्थान राज्य और अन्य (2022)3 एनसीसी 501)।

विश्लेषण व निष्कर्ष:

6.1- पक्षों के विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं के कथन को उपरोक्त वर्णित जमानत की विधि के परिपेक्ष में सुना व पत्रावली का सम्यक परिशीलन किया।

6.2- आवेदक मृतका का पति व मृतक का जीजा है। वर्तमान प्रकरण में मृतका की आवेदक के साथ शादी के मात्रवर्ष के भीतर शारीरिक क्षति द्वारा मृत्यु कारित हुई है और साथ ही साथ मृतका के भाई की भी हत्या हुई है।

6.3- प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट के तथ्य व जाँच के दौरान साक्ष्यों व गवाहों के कथनों में यह प्रथम दृष्टया स्पष्ट रुप से विदित होता है कि आवेदक घटना के दिन रात में अपनी पत्नी व उसके भाई को मेला घुमाने ले गया था। रात में कोई भी वापस नहीं आया तथा सुबह मृतका व मृतक का शव अलग-अलग स्थान से बरामद हुए तथा आवेदक फरार रहा। भारतीय साक्ष्य अधिनियम की धारा 106 के अन्तर्गत आवेदक पर भार है कि वो बताये कि मेले में साथ ले जाने के बाद व उनके शव मिलने तक उन दोनों के साथ, कैसे क्या घटित हुआ। यह भी विदित रहे कि यह भार आवेदक पर तब आयेगा जब अभियोजन परिस्थियों की श्रृंखला पूर्ण करने में कामयाब हो पायेगा और अगर वो ऐसे तथ्य साबित करने में असफल रहता तो अपराध सिद्ध होने की संभावना प्रबल हो जाती है। (देखें सवितरी सामान्तरे प्रति उड़ीसा राज्य:2022 एस.सी.सी. ऑन लाइन एस.सी. 673)

6.4- पत्रावली पर उपस्थित जांच के दौरान गवाहान के ब्यान, शव विच्छेदन रिपोर्ट व अधिवक्ताओं के कथन से प्रथम दृष्टया व केवल जमानत के आवेदन पर विचार करने के उद्देश्य से यह प्रतीत होता है कि आवेदक पूर्व में अपनी पत्नी के साथ दहेज की मांग के लिये उसके साथ क्रूरता करता था। घटना के कुछ दिन पूर्व से मृतका अपने पैतृक निवास पर रह रही थी तथा घटना के दिन आवेदक वहां जाता है व अपनी पत्नी व उसके भाई को अपने साथ मेले घुमाने ले जाता है, यह तथ्य स्वतंत्र गवाहों के ब्यान में भी उल्लेखित है तथा न तो आवेदक न ही उसकी पत्नी व उसका भाई रात में वापस आते हैं। सुबह दोनों के शव एक दूसरे से कुछ दूरी पर बरामद होते है तथा दोनों के शव पर मृत्यु पूर्व आग्नेयास्त्र कारित चोट पाई जाती है और एक देशी कट्टा आवेदक के दिखाने पर बरामद भी होता है।

6.5- उपरोक्त परिस्थितियों की कड़ी जोड़ी जाये तो प्रथम दृष्टया एक श्रृंखला बन जाती है तथा जाँच के दौरान आवेदक के दो साथियों का नाम भी उजागर होता है जिनकी भी अपराध में संलिप्तता पाई जाती है। प्रथम दृष्टया परिस्थियों की श्रृंखला का एक ही निष्कर्ष है कि आवेदक इस जघन्य अपराध में सक्रिय रुप से लिप्त रहा।

6.6- अतः उपरोक्त वर्णित जमानत की विधि को ध्यान में रखते हुए तथा महत्वपूर्ण कारक जैसे प्रथम दृष्टया अभियुक्त (आवेदक) की अपराध में संलिप्तता, आरोप की गंभीरता, मामले में संभावित सजा की संभावना व कठोरता व गवाहों से छेड़छाड़ की संभावना को भी ध्यान में रखते हुए, यह न्यायालय इस निष्कर्ष पर पहुँचता है कि आवेदक को जमानत नहीं दी जा सकती है।

6.7- अतः जमानत का आवेदन बलहीन होने के कारण निरस्त किया जाता है।

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. By way of this appeal, the claimants-appellants who are legal heirs of the deceased have challenged the judgment and order dated 17.10.2014 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/ District Judge, Ghaziabad (hereinafter referred to as "Tribunal') in M.A.C.P. No. 224 of 2013. The appellants' claim petition for compensation on account of the death of the sole bread earner came to be dismissed by the Tribunal.

2. The brief facts as culled out from the record, placed before this Court are that on 09.01.2013 deceased Rajendra Kumar Pal was returning to his house after completing his duty from Ghaziabad Railway Station. At about 7:30 PM, when the deceased reached near Ghantaghar and when the deceased beside the road, a motorcycle bearing no. DL 13 SF 1906, which was being driven very rashly and negligently by its driver, hit the deceased and fled towards Mohan Nagar.

3. The deceased being on bicycle is not dispute and the accident occurred between the bicycle driven by the deceased and the motorcycle driven by the opponent.

4. In this accident, deceased sustained serious injuries. He was taken to Narendra Mohan Hospital from where he was referred to Max Hospital, Delhi where on 21.01.2013 he died during treatment on account of injuries sustained in the aforesaid accident. It is also averred that at the time of accident, the deceased was serving in Northern Railway. The First Information Report of the accident was lodged at police station Kotwali, District Ghaziabad.

5. Heard Mr. Sanjay Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the appellants and Mr. Rahul Sahai, learned counsel for the Insurance Company. None is present on behalf of owner.

6. It is submitted by learned counsel for the cliamants-appellants that learned Tribunal has rejected the claim petition of the appellants on the ground that appellants have failed to prove that the accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of the motorcycle in question, though involvement of vehicle is accepted by the learned Tribunal but learned Tribunal has failed to appreciate the evidence in right perspective. It is also submitted that Investigating Officer has submitted the charge sheet against the Sachin Kumar who was driving the motorcycle at the time of accident.

7. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the claimants-appellants that learned Tribunal has not considered the averments made by driver of motorcycle in his written statement where he has admitted the accident. Although, he has maintained that he was not negligent while driving the motorcycle. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that factum of accident is accepted by the driver of the motorcycle yet the learned Tribunal has not placed reliance on the aforesaid averment. It is next submitted that site plan, prepared by the Investigating Officer during the investigation, is not taken into consideration by learned Tribunal even the evidence of eye witnesses have been discarded/brushed aside. It is submitted that finding recorded by the learned Tribunal are perverse and bad in the eye of law and against the settled legal position for deciding claim petition arising out of motor accident.

8. Mr. Rahul Sahai, learned counsel for the Insurance Company has submitted that on the basis of evidence on record, it is nowhere proved that the motorcycle in question was involved in the aforesaid accident. It is further submitted that First Information Report was lodged against unknown vehicle and after two months of the accident, an application was given to the police authorities mentioning that the motorcycle no. DL 13 SF 1906 was involved. Evidence in this regard is totally concocted as to how the informant knew the number of offending motorcycle after two months of the accident.

9. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the Insurance Company that learned Tribunal meticulously examined the evidence on record and found that entire evidence regarding the accident, involving the aforesaid motorcycle are based on concocted story, hence, learned Tribunal is justified in not relying the evidence led by the claimants-appellants and the claim petition is rightly rejected. It is further submitted that there is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned judgment, which calls for any interference by this Court.

10. Having heard learned counsel for the parties. Certain aspects as prelude, we require our attention:-

(a) No doubt the First Information Report was lodged against the unknown vehicle but it is to be kept in mind that the informant was not the eye witness of the accident.

(b) The involvement of vehicle was known to the informant, he moved an application to the police authorities.

(c) Investigation is conducted by the police in order to reach to the logical conclusion that vehicle was involved, hence, it would not make any difference whether initially the F.I.R. was lodged against unknown vehicle as F.I.R. is only staring point of investigation. However, on completion of investigation, charge sheet was submitted against Shri Sunil Kumar-driver of the motorcycle and once the F.I.R., charge sheet and post-mortem report are filed before the learned Tribunal, prima facie, they would prove that the accident had occurred with the vehicle in question. The postmortem report of the deceased goes to show that he died out of injuries sustained in vehicular accident. The driver of the motorcycle admitted the factum of the accident in his written statement filed before the learned Tribunal which has not been proved to be in collusion by the insurance and it is also not proved by leading any cogent evidence that the vehicle was not involved.

11. We are supported in our view by the recent pronouncement of Division Bench of this Court in Smt. Minakshi Srivastava and Others Vs. Dheeraj Pandey and Others, F.A.F.O. No. 3425 of 2016, decided on 11.03.2022, where the factum of accident is accepted by the owner will apply and enure for the benefit of these claimants.

12. Learned counsel for the appellants has relied on the aforesaid decision of this Court in Smt. Minakshi Srivastava (Supra), wherein it is held that once the owner has accepted the involvement of vehicle in accident, the Tribunal cannot dismiss the claim petition unless proved otherwise. In this case on hand, although in his testimony, the driver of the motorcycle has deposed that accident did not take place by his motorcycle but in his written statement he has stated that accident did not take place due to his negligence, accident occurred due to the negligence of the deceased by not complying with the traffic rules. Hence, when the factum of the accident is admitted by the driver, his evidence against the pleadings cannot be accepted.

13. Perusal of impugned judgment goes to show that though the learned Tribunal has held that the burden of proof in claim petition under Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 cannot be considered as in civil or criminal cases yet the learned Tribunal has fallen in error in not considering the matter under beneficial piece of legislation. The learned Tribunal has come to conclusion that claimants did not prove that respondent-3 was driving the vehicle at the time of the accident, but the charge sheet was submitted against the driver-respondent no.3, was primary evidence of his driving the vehicle which has not been rebutted nor proved to be concocted as it is in evidence of driver of motorcyclist/respondent no.3 as D.W.-1 that he was coming from Chhapraula and going to Mohan Nagar. Hence, we hold that the motorcycle was involved in the accident.

14. The evidence on record comprises of oral testimony of witnesses and the documentary evidence in support of the said accident and injuries caused to deceased. The post-mortem report shows that the deceased died due to the injuries which he had sustained in the accident and hence, it is a homicidal death, which is proved. In our case, the case title Sunita and Others Vs. Rajasthan Sate Road Transport Corporation and Another, 2019 (1) T.A.C. (S.C.) will also be applicable to the facts of this case. The decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Mangla Ram Vs. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. and Others, 2018 (4) Supreme 525, relied by the appellants goes to show that pleadings of parties will have to be scrutinized in a holistic manner.

15. We are fortified in our view by the decisions of Apex Court in (a) Smt. Kaushnuma Begum And Ors vs. The New India Assurance Co. Ltd. (2001) 2 SCC 9., (b) Vimla Devi and others Vs. National Insurance Company Limited and others, 2019 (133) ALR 768; (c) Anita Sharma v. New India Assurance Co. Ltd. (2021) 1 SCC 171 (d) Dulcina Fernandes & Ors. vs. Joaquim Xavier Cruz & Anr., AIR 2014 SC 58, and on the decision of Madras High Court in Reliance General Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Subbulakshmi and Others, passed in C.M.A. No. 1482 of 2017 [C.M.P. No. 7919 of 2017. (CMA Sr. No. 76893 of 2016)] and the decision of Apex Court referred in the said case namely Puspabai Purshottam Udeshi Vs. Ranjit Ginning and Pressing Co., 1977ACJ 343 (SC), the ratio laid in these decisions would be applicable in such matters where Tribunal takes hyper technical stand in dismissing the claim petition which is filed under the beneficial piece of legislation. Despite the fact that judgment of Smt. Kaushnuma Begum And Ors vs. The New India Assurance Co. Ltd. (2001) 2 SCC 9 was very much in vogue, the Tribunal has dismissed the claim petition holding that there are discrepancies in the evidence of prosecution witnesses.

16. Now, we take up the issue of negligence as to who was negligent in the accident. The term negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental which is normally accidental. More particularly, it connotes reckless driving and the injured must always prove that the either side is negligent. If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply.

17. The principle of contributory negligence has been discussed time and again. A person who either contributes or author of the accident would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place.

18. The Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal From Order No. 1818 of 2012 (Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co.Ltd. Vs. Smt. Renu Singh And Others) decided on 19.7.2016 has held as under:

"16. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

17. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

18. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

19. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.

20. These provisions (sec.110A and sec.110B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

21. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

22. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side."

19. The learned Tribunal has failed to consider the above aspect while dismissing the claim petition. Hence, this appeal requires to be allowed and the impugned judgment and award of the Tribunal dismissing the claim petition being against the mandate of law and facts requires to be quashed.

20. The First Information Report was lodged by the brother of the deceased and it was averred that at the time of accident, the deceased was coming from Ghaziabad Railway Station on his bicycle after completing his duty. When the deceased took turn from G.T. road towards his house, the vehicle hit him from behind but in oral testimony, the witnesses twisted the statements and deposed that at the time of accident, deceased was stationary on bicycle beside the road, which cannot be accepted. Moreover, the site plan also goes to show otherwise. The site plan is in-consonance with the averments of F.I.R. that the accident took place when the deceased took turn towards his house from G.T. road. Copy of site plan is annexed in paper book, which goes to show that there was a divider on G.T. road and there is also a cut in the divider for crossing the road towards otherwise. The accident had taken place at the point where there is opening in the divider and the deceased is shown going and turning towards his right side from the road and offending motorcycle is shown coming from behind. The driver of motorcycle should have slowed down the speed of motorcycle, when he was approaching the place of accident in the divider because it is used for crossing the road and if it would have been done by the driver of the motorcycle, the accident could have been avoided.

21. In fact whether the deceased was also negligent has also to be decided and that he took turn towards right side from middle of the road without ensuring that any vehicle is not coming from behind because if this precaution would have been taken by the deceased, then also the accident could have been avoided. But it is seen that neither the driver of the motorcycle nor the deceased took any precaution due to which the accident could have been avoided. Both are co-authors of the accident. Hence, we hold that driver of the motorcycle and the deceased were both negligent in driving in their respective vehicles, hence, we hold the negligence of the driver of motorcycle and the deceased to the tune of 50% each.

22. The counsel for the respondent contended that no amount can be granted as the petition was dismissed and requested to reject the appeal and to the alternative or remand the same to the Tribunal to decide the compensation. The contentions are rejected in view of the decision in Bithika Mazumdar Vs. Sagar Pal, (2017) 2 SCC 748, and this Court feels that as nine years have elapsed from filing of appeal and that the record is before this Court, instead of directing the parties to go before the Tribunal only for the assessment of compensation as the deceased was a salaried person which could cause further delay rather it would be more justifiable if this Court decides the quantum as this Court has to decide only quantum under Section 166 of the Act, 1988 which would be the final amount payable to the claimants.

23. The compensation to be awarded is on the settled legal principles enunciated in the judgments of the Apex Court relating to persons who was in government job. Therefore, we are deciding the compensation here. Hence, we decide the compensation here without relegating the petitioners to the MACT as the record is here. There is no dispute about the salary which is proved by cogent evidence and, therefore, as nine years have already elapsed. We rancher to decide the compensation here without relegating the parties to the Tribunal as the other issues have been decided by the Tribunal meaning thereby that the policy of the vehicle was invoked and there was no breach of policy. The driver of the motorcycle had proper driving licence and, therefore, the Tribunal's view is so vulnerable that it cannot stand the scrutiny of this Court.

24. Now, we take up the issue of quantum of compensation payable to the appellants-claimants. As per the claim petition, the deceased was serving in Northern Railway in account section and was getting salary at Rs.61,635/- per month.

25. Learned counsel for the appellants-claimants has submitted that Senior Section Officer/Accounts of Northern Railway is produced as P.W.-4 before the learned Tribunal who has proved the income of the deceased. It is also submitted that deceased was a government servant, hence he was entitled to get compensation for future loss of income also.

26. Learned counsel for the Insurance Company has submitted that net income of the deceased is shown at Rs.30,926/- per month, which is to be taken into consideration. The accident of the deceased had taken place on 09.01.2013, hence, salary slip for the month of December, 2012 is relevant, which is on record. The aforesaid salary slip is proved by P.W.-4 Ashok Kumar, Senior Section Officer/Accounts, Northern Railway, who has deposed before the learned Tribunal on producing the original records.

27. As per the testimony of P.W.-4, the gross monthly salary of the deceased was Rs.61,635/-. As per the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in Vimal Kanwar and Others VS. Kishore Dan and Others, 2013 0 Supreme (SC) 441, the component of income tax would be deducted from the salary and provident fund shall not be deducted. Hence, out of gross salary, Rs.6,425/- towards income tax and Rs.700/- towards deduction for railway society and Rs.30 for insurance shall be deducted. Hence, the computable salary comes at Rs.54,480/- per month.

28. The age of the deceased was 57 years, hence in light of the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Sarla Verma and Others Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and Another, 2009 LawSuit (SC) 613 and National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 LawSuit (SC) 1093, and due to being employed and having the age of 57 years, 15% shall be added towards future prospects in the income of the deceased.

29. Keeping in view the number of dependents, 1/3rd shall be deducted for personal expenses. The multiplier of 9 has to be applied. Under the non pecuniary head, claimants-appellants shall be entitled to get Rs.15,000/- for loss of estate and Rs.15,000/- for funeral expenses. Apart from it, wife of the deceased shall also be entitled to get Rs.40,000/- for loss of consortium. In this way, claimants shall get Rs.70,000/- under the head of non pecuniary damages with increase of 10% for every three years as per the judgment of *Apex Cour*t in Pranay Sethi (Supra) rounded off Rs.1,00,000/-.

30. The total compensation payable to the appellants are computed herein below:

(i) Annual income Rs.54,480/- per month X 12 = Rs.6,53,760/- per annum.

(ii) Percentage towards future prospects : 15%. Rs.98,064/-

(iii) Total income : Rs.6,53,760 + Rs.98,064/- = Rs.7,51,824/-

(iv) Income after deduction of 1/3rd : Rs.5,01,216/-

(v) Multiplier applicable : 09

(vi) Loss of dependency : Rs.5,01,2016 X 09 = Rs.45,10,944/-

(vii) Amount under non pecuniary head: Rs.70,000/- +30,000/- = 1,00,000/-

(viii) Total compensation: Rs.45,10,944/- + Rs.1,00,000/- = Rs. 46,10,944/-

Rs.46,10,944/- - Rs23,05,472/- = Rs.23,05,472/-

31. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under:

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

32. In view of the above, the appeal is allowed. Judgment passed by the Tribunal is set aside. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited.

33. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC), 442, the order of investment be passed by Tribunal.

34. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagori P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291 and this High Court in total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) and in First Appeal From Order No.2871 of 2016 (Tej Kumari Sharma v. Chola Mandlam M.S. General Insurance Co. Ltd.) decided on 19.3.2021 while disbursing the amount.

35. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Union of India and Others, vide order dated 27.01.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. Since long time has elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Bank Account of claimant(s) in a nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

Counsel for the Petitioner:

A. Service Law – Suspension – Enquiry - Uttar Pradesh Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 - Rule 4(1) - The law is certain that the prosecution must stand on its own legs basing its findings on the evidence that has been led by it. It matters little as to whether the accused has made out a plausible defence or not. (Para 2)

Even if the petitioner had not replied to the charges and had not appeared on the dates fixed when the enquiry was undergone, it was the bounden duty of the Enquiry Officer to have seen whether the charges were proved on the basis of the evidence which was led by it. The cook was a person affected. The police officer namely Vishwajeet Pratap Singh was only a person who had informed the Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur on 23.7.2014 about the incident of slapping etc. which took place on 21/22 July 2014. He was not an eye-witness. Further no individual who had seen the incident was summoned as an eye-witness to prove the incident. (Para 5)

B. Mere suspicion should not be allowed to take the place of proof even in domestic enquiries. The principle that in punishing the guilty scrupulous care must be taken to see that the innocent are not punished, applies as must to regular criminal trials as to disciplinary enquiries held under the statutory rules. (Para 2)

There was only a medical report based on suspicion of a smell coming of alcohol from the petitioner while there was no blood report or urine report of the petitioner which actually would have proved that the petitioner had actually consumed liquor/alcohol to an extent to be called in a state of drunkenness. (Para 5)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Bachubhai Hassanalli Karyani Vs St. of Mah., (1971) 3 SCC 930 (Para 2)

2. Gurcharan Singh & anr. Vs St. of Punj., AIR 1956 SC 460 (Para 2)

3. R. Venkatakrishnan Vs C.B.I., AIR 2010 SC 1812 (Para 2)

4. U.O.I. Vs H.C. Goel, AIR 1964 SC 364 (Para 2)

Present petition assails order dated 27.08.2018, passed by Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur, order dated 17.10.2018, passed by Inspector General of Police, Varanasi Zone, Varanasi and order dated 25.01.2019, passed by the Additional Director General of Police, Varanasi Zone, Varanasi.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddhartha Varma, J.)

1. For an incident which occurred on 21/22.7.2014, information was given by the Station House Officer, Nevdhia, District

Jaunpur to the Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur that he had got a report through his mobile phone on 23.7.2014 that the petitioner under influence of alcohol has misbehaved with the private cook Shamshad Ahmad. The petitioner thereafter was suspended on 23.7.2014. A preliminary enquiry was undergone by a retired police officer by the name of Sagir Ahmad who submitted his report on 28.10.2014 finding a prima facie case against the petitioner. On the basis of the preliminary report, the enquiry was allotted on 20.6.2017 to Sri Sanjay Rai, Additional Superintendent of Police, Rural, Jaunpur by the Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur. A charge sheet was prepared on 28.7.2017 and was handed over to the petitioner on 1.8.2017. For the conducting of the enquiry dates were fixed on 1.8.2017, 16.8.2017, 3.9.2017, 5.10.2017, 13.10.2017, 27.11.2017, 4.12.2017, 20.12.2017, 21/23.12.2017, 6.1.2018, 17.1.2018, 18.2.2018 and 18/20.3.2018. Thereafter enquiry report was submitted on 24.4.2018 by the Enquiry Officer finding the petitioner guilty of the charges levied against him and a major punishment of removal was proposed under Rule 4(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991. On 30.4.2018, a show-cause notice was issued to the petitioner for his reply. Upon receiving the show-cause notice, the petitioner submitted his reply on 7.7.2018. Thereafter the punishment order was passed against the petitioner and he was removed from service vide order dated 27.8.2018. The appeal filed by the petitioner was dismissed on 17.10.2018 and similarly the revision filed by him was also dismissed on 25.1.2019. Aggrieved thereof, the petitioner had filed the instant writ petition.

2. Contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the enquiry was a sham enquiry inasmuch as the enquiry was being undergone in Jaunpur and the petitioner was posted at Varanasi from where he was unable to get leave to attend the enquiry. What is more, it has been stated that no eye-witness of the incident had been examined by the Enquiry Officer. The only persons who were examined as witnesses by the Enquiry Officer were Vishwajeet Pratap Singh, the Station House Officer who had by his mobile phone informed the Superintendent of Police on 23.7.2014 about the incident which had taken place on 21/22.7.2014 and the private cook Shamshad Ahmad. It has been contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that no other witness was examined. Still further, it is the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner that only a medical report which was based on smell coming from the petitioner of alcohol was relied upon. The blood test and the urine test of the petitioner were not undertaken and, therefore, it cannot with any certainty be said that the petitioner was guilty of having consumed alcohol. Still further, it is the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that if the incident of slapping etc. had taken place when the petitioner was inebriated then a First Information Report ought to have been lodged which in fact was never lodged. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the paragraph 31 of the writ petition, which had categorically stated that no medical officer was examined and also the sample of blood or urine was not used to prove the allegations, was not replied to in the counter affidavit. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that as per the judgments reported in (1971) 3 SCC 930 : Bachubhai Hassanalli Karyani vs. State of Maharashtra; AIR 1956 SC 460 : Gurcharan Singh & Anr. vs. State of Punjab and AIR 2010 SC 1812 : R. Venkatakrishnan vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, the law is certain that the prosecution must stand on its own legs basing its findings on the evidence that has been led by it. It matters little as to whether the accused has made out a plausible defence or not. Learned counsel for the petitioner relying upon a decision of the Constitution Bench of Supreme Court in Union of India vs. H.C. Goel reported in AIR 1964 SC 364 submitted that suspicion cannot be allowed to take the place of proof even in domestic enquiries. Since, learned counsel for the petitioner cited a certain paragraph of the judgment reported in AIR 1964 SC 364, the same is being reproduced here as under :

".....mere suspicion should not be allowed to take the place of proof even in domestic enquiries. It may be that the technical rules which govern criminal trials in courts may not necessarily apply to disciplinary proceedings, but nevertheless, the principle that in punishing the guilty scrupulous care must be taken to see that the innocent are not punished, applies as must to regular criminal trials as to disciplinary enquiries held under the statutory rules."

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner, therefore, submitted that the charge was not proved to the hilt and, therefore, it cannot be presumed that the petitioner was guilty of the charges.

4. Learned Standing Counsel, however, in reply submitted that if the petitioner chooses not to appear and to reply to the charge sheet, then the Police Department had no other option but to presume that the charges were proved.

5. Having heard Sri Pawan Giri, Advocate holding brief of learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned Standing Counsel and after having gone through the written arguments, I am of the view that the impugned order dated 27.8.2018 passed by the Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur, the order dated 17.10.2018 passed by the Inspector General of Police, Varanasi Zone, Varanasi and the order dated 25.1.2019 passed by the Additional Director General of Police, Varanasi Zone, Varanasi cannot be sustained in the eyes of law. Even if the petitioner had not replied to the charges and had not appeared on the dates fixed when the enquiry was undergone, it was the bounden duty of the Enquiry Officer to have seen whether the charges were proved on the basis of the evidence which was led by it. The cook was a person affected. The police officer namely Vishwajeet Pratap Singh was only a person who had informed the Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur on 23.7.2014 about the incident of slapping etc. which took place on 21/22 July 2014. He was not an eye-witness. Further no individual who had seen the incident was summoned as an eye-witness to prove the incident. Also, there was only a medical report that there was a suspicion on account of the fact that there was a smell coming of alcohol from the petitioner while there was no blood report or urine report of the petitioner which actually would have proved that the petitioner had actually consumed liquor/alcohol to an extent that he was in a state of drunkenness.

6. For the reasons stated above, the order dated 27.8.2018 passed by the Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur, the order dated 17.10.2018 passed by the Inspector General of Police, Varanasi Zone, Varanasi and the order dated 25.1.2019 passed by the Additional Director General of Police, Varanasi Zone, Varanasi are quashed and are set-aside.

7. The writ petition is, accordingly, allowed.

2. Pankaj Kumar Yadav Vs St. of U.P. & ors. (2020) 1 ADJ 187 DB

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Learned counsel for the petitioner filed the amendment application to add prayer No. (ii-A) and (ii-B) in the prayer clause.

2. As no objection has been raised by learned counsel for the respondents, this amendment application is allowed.

Order on Petition

1. Heard Mr. Dharmendra Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Manish Goel, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Mr. Vikram Bahadur Yadav, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. Initially, the instant petition has been filed by the petitioner with the following prayer:-

"(i) a writ, order or direction, in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents no.2 and 3 to permit the petitioner to appear in preliminary examination for the post of Sub-Inspector in Uttar Pradesh Police/Plantoon Commander P.A.C./Fire Branch (2020-21) between the dates 30.11.2021 to 03.11.2021 at any examination center of Prayagraj by making alternative arrangement for the same.

(ii) a writ, order or direction, in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents no.2 and 3 to take necessary action for the post of Sub-Inspector in Uttar Pradesh Police/Plantoon Commander PAC/Fire Branch (2021-21) after issuance of admit card for the same by making alternative arrangement."

3. Subsequently, by means of an amendment application, which has been allowed by this Court today itself, petitioner has prayed for following relief:-

"(ii-A) A writ of certiorari to call for entire records of those candidates whose exam date has admittedly been rescheduled/shifted and quash their result of online written exam conducted by respondent no.2 in furtherance of their notification dated 25.02.2021 amended notification dated 15.06.2021 and notification dated 01.11.2021.

(ii-B) A writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no.2 to pay compensation amount of Rs.10 Lacks to petitioner for violating his right of equality provided under Article 16 of Constitution of India (and equal treatment) to appear in online written exam (of U.P. Police Sub-Inspector/Plantoon Commander PAC/Fire Branch) after rescheduled the date like other candidates whose exams date has admittedly been rescheduled."

4. Brief facts of the case are that the petitioner applied for the post of Sub-Inspector in Uttar Pradesh Police/Plantoon Commander P.A.C./Fire Branch (2020-21), pursuant to the notification/amendment notification dated 25.02.2021/15.06.2021. The respondent no.2 issued the schedule for taking primary examination, vide letter dated 01.11.2021 which was to be held between 12.11.2021 to 02.12.2021.

5. As per the instructions given in the notification dated 01.11.2021, petitioner downloaded his admit card, in which the examination date was fixed on 22.11.2021.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that petitioner fell ill due to typhoid on 19.11.2021. The petitioner being under the impression that he would be in a position to attend the exams scheduled to be held on 22.11.2021 but after his treatment he was not in position to attend the exams on 22.11.2021, as also that the exams were scheduled to be held for a period from 12.11.2021 to 02.12.2021 in three shifts, thought that he would move an application, requesting to reschedule his examination between that period. The petitioner on the same date i.e. 22.11.2021 send online application on the website of respondent no.2 along with his medical papers with the request to reschedule his exam on any other date on or before 02.12.2021. The respondent no.2 did not pay any attention on the aforesaid application and when the petitioner did not get any response, he moved a representation dated 27.11.2021 through registered post, requesting that the respondents to conduct his online written examination but nothing was done, therefore, the present writ petition has been filed.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that Clause-3 of the notification dated 01.11.2021 provides that in case the examination so scheduled is not taken on the specified date due to technicalities in any of the centres, the examinations so affected will be taken on 03.12.2021. Clause-3 of the aforesaid notification is extracted below:-

"यदि किसी तकनीक समस्या के कारण किसी परीक्षा तिथि / पाली में किसी केंद्र विशेष पर परीक्षा आयोजित नहीं हो सकी तो ऐसे केंद्र की परीक्षा दिनांक 03.12.2021 को आयोजित की जाएगी।"

8. He further submits that Clause-8 of the notification dated 01.011.2021 provides that in case the candidates have any problem/objection in the said online written examination, they could contact the help desk number as provided. Clause-8 of the aforesaid notification is extracted below:-

"ऑनलाइन लिखित परीक्षा के सम्बन्ध में अभ्यर्थियों को यदि कोई समस्या / आपत्ती हो तो हेल्पडेस्क न०. 022-62337900 पर संपर्क कर सकते हैं।"

9. When the matter was taken up on 02.12.2021, the learned counsel for the petitioner pointed out that he had acquired knowledge that the exams of certain candidates were rescheduled, therefore, he moved supplementary affidavit as well as amendment application for bringing on record the necessary facts for proper adjudication of the matter.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the respondents have not acted according to the condition as mentioned in the notification and have rescheduled the examination of certain candidates who did not appear on the date specified in the admit card. He further submits that the respondents have adopted an arbitrary approach in re-scheduling the exams of some candidates who could not appear on the schedule date of exam for reasons beyond their control. The respondents have acted in unjustified manner in rescheduling the exams of nearly 125 candidates whereas denying the request of the petitioner for the same and have acted in unreasonable manner against the brochure which does not permit rescheduled of the examination in any case.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the Clause-2, given in general instructions as provided in Appendix-1 of U.P. Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service Rules in which Rule 125 provides:-

"(2) if a candidate fails to appear in the examination on the scheduled date and time, then he can give application to the committee formed for conducting the test in concerned district, giving reasons in details for absence and requesting to appear in the examination on some other date. The committee, after considering his application, can decide and may allow him to appear for test on some other date. The candidate will be given only one chance in this regard and if he fails to appear in the examination on rescheduled date and time, he shall be considered unsuccessful. The candidates may give application, before the last date fixed for this test, by the Board. No application will accepted after the last day. The committee shall inform the Board about all such cases where the date and time of the test has been rescheduled."

12. Placing reliance upon the aforesaid rules, it is the case of the petitioner that as he was ill, not being in a position to appear in the examination scheduled on 22.11.2021, he had moved an online application before the respondents on time i.e. on the same date making a request to reschedule his examination in between the dates provided in the notification but no such opportunity of hearing was given.

13. The respondents have acted in an arbitrary manner while permitting 125 students to appear in the examinations on some other dates, therefore, the petitioner has to be compensated for the same. In support of his submission, the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Asha Vs. Pt. B. D. Sharma University of Health Science and others reported in (2012) 7 SCC 389, wherein it has been held as follows:-

"Wherever the court finds that action of the authorities has been arbitrary, contrary to the judgements of this Court and violative of the Rules, regulations and conditions of the prospectus, causing prejudice to the rights of the students, the Court shall award compensation to such students as well as....."

14. The learned counsel for the petitioner submits that in exceptional/peculiar circumstances when there is no fault of the candidate/petitioner and such a person has approached the Court within time, the Court can always interfere in such matters when the legal right of the petitioner is affected for which he has approached the Court within time and the respondents have committed fault in not following the rules, regulations as well principles to be followed in case of selection or admission. In support of his submission, he has also placed reliance upon the judgement of Division Bench of this Court in case of Pankaj Kumar Yadav Vs. State of U.P. and others [2020 (1) ADJ 187 DB] wherein it has been held as follows:-

"(i) That in a case where candidate/student has approached the Court at the earliest and without any delay and that the question is with respect to the admission in medical course all the efforts shall be made by the concerned Court to dispose of the proceedings by giving priority and at the earliest.

(ii) Under exceptional circumstances, if the Court finds that there is no fault attributable to the candidate and the candidate has pursued his/her legal right expeditiously without any delay and there is fauly only on the part of the authorities and/or there is apparent breach of rules and regulations as well as related principles in the process of grant of admission which would violate the right of equality and equal treatment to the competing candidates....."

15. Thus, on the aforesaid grounds the petitioner is entitled to be granted the relief as prayed.

16. Learned Counsel for the State submits that no candidate has been permitted to appear on some other date than the date as mentioned in the admit card on the ground of individual difficulty. There is no discrimination as submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner because while the examination of 125 candidates were rescheduled on the ground that T.E.T. (Teacher Eligibility Test) examination date clashed with the date of exam of Sub-Inspector, therefore, the exam of separate class of candidates has been rescheduled on the ground of the examination of T.E.T. as the same clashed with the date of exam of Sub-Inspector.

17. Learned Counsel for the State further submits that reschedule of the examination is not permitted and if that is allowed, the Examination Regulatory Body will not be able to conclude the selection. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance of the order dated 18.11.2021, passed in Special Leave Petition

No. 6860 of 2021 (State of U.P. & others Vs. Pankaj Kumar) wherein following observations were made:-

"recruitment process undertaken by the competent authorities would be meaning less without a time line and the next recruitment process will also get effect since determination of the number of vacancies for the process will keep fluctuating."

18. With respect to the notification, the grounds raised by learned counsel for the petitioner regarding the conditions mentioned in the notification dated 01.11.2021, it has been submitted that the clauses have been misinterpreted.

19. A bare reading of the clauses as specified goes to show that in case of technicalities, the exams will be held on 03.12.2021 and not due to any individual difficulty of the candidates. It is also clear that for any of the problems while appearing in the examination, it was open to the candidates to approach the help desk number as provided and not for request for rescheduling the examination.

20. Lastly, counsel for the state submits that the examinations of such candidates whose date of examination clashed with the examinations of T.E.T. was rescheduled/changed only, that too, on the prior information given by them to the Board, so that the service agency could be able to make necessary arrangement for online written examination on said changed date. He has also brought on record the fact that the U.P.S.C. had also changed the date of provisional education (Teaching Service Examination) 2021 which was scheduled on 12.12.2021 taking into account the examination for the post of Samiksha Adhikari conducted by Allahabad High Court and the said examination was subsequently conducted on 22.12.2021. From the aforesaid, it is clear that the date of online examination was never changed on the ground of illness.

21. In the similar set of facts where candidate, namely, Arun Kumar could not appear in the examination pursuant to the same advertisement due to illness. He approached before Lucknow Bench of this Court by filing Writ No. 27264 (SS) of 2021 and the Court disposed of the writ petition with direction to the respondents to decide the representation of the petitioner.

22. This Court is of the opinion that there is no provision of rescheduling the examination on the ground of individual difficulty and certain candidates have been permitted to appear in the examination on another date as the date of the present examination clashed with some other examination, hence, the case of the petitioner does not stand on the ground of being discriminated.

23. In view of the aforesaid facts, the present petition lacks merits and is accordingly, dismissed.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SAURABH SHYAM SHAMSHERY, J.

Writ A No. 61226 of 2012

Hari Om Rastogi ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri A.C. Pandey, Sri Kshitij Shailendra

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Pension – Departmental Inquiry – Civil Service Regulations - Article 351-A - In the present case there is no irregularity in the process of departmental inquiry. The inquiry was initiated before the petitioner retired and it continued thereafter also and for that the sanction of the Governor was not required. However, when punishment was imposed for deduction of pension and gratuity, prior permission was taken from U.P. Public Service Commission as well as from the Governor and punishment order was passed under direction of the Governor. (Para 12 to 15)

B. Proportionality of punishment and scope of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution - The High Court/Tribunal, while exercising the power of judicial review, cannot normally substitute its own conclusion on penalty and impose some other penalty. If the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority or the appellate authority shocks the conscience of the High Court/Tribunal, it would appropriately mould the relief, either directing the disciplinary/appellate authority to reconsider the penalty imposed, or to shorten the litigation, it may itself, in exceptional and rare cases, impose appropriate punishment with cogent reasons in support thereof. (Para 24)

Article 351-A of CSR reserves right of the Governor to withheld of withdraw pension or part thereof, whether permanently or for specified period or to order recovery from pension of the whole or part for pecuniary loss caused to the Central or St. Government in eventualities that pensioner be guilty of grave misconduct in departmental or judicial proceedings or to have caused pecuniary loss to the government by misconduct or negligence. The word "grave misconduct" is something more than a "misconduct". The other eventuality is to have caused pecuniary loss to government by misconduct or negligence. (Para 18)

'Grave misconduct' - The petitioner was careless in passing orders and failed to follow requisite procedure to pass said orders. However, neither the Gaon Sabha concerned, who has apparently suffered pecuniary loss nor the St. Government had challenged the said orders and further the pecuniary loss, if caused, is not determined, even no rough calculation was made, therefore, conduct of petitioner would not falls under "grave misconduct". The punishment awarded (10% permanent deduction in pension, 50% deduction from pension as well as from gratuity) to petitioner appears to be very harsh and it would not be wrong to say that punishment is shockingly disproportionate. (Para 25)

Charges are proved against the petitioner are upheld to the extent discussed in the case. However, the order of punishment dated 03.08.2012 is set aside and matter is remanded back to respondents to pass a fresh order of punishment after considering the observations made in this judgment. (Para 26)

Writ petition partly allowed. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. A charge sheet dated 09.11.2006 was served to petitioner, working as a Consolidation Officer, Agra, contains following two charges:

"आरोप संख्या-1

ग्राम बिढ़ैल के वाद संख्या-1405 अन्तर्गत धारा-9 क ता0फै0 2.4.98 द्वारा ग्राम सभा के गाटा संख्या-374/070, 424/036, 426/0-67 कुल 1,73 एकड़ से नाम खारिज करके श्री देवेन्द्र कुमार मिश्रा, चकबन्दी अधिकारी द्वारा श्री फेरु सिंह पुत्र जौहरी नाम दर्ज करने का अनियमित आदेश पारित किया था। आपने वाद संख्या 191 अन्तर्गत धारा 109 में पारित आदेश दिनांक 28.10.03 द्वारा अमलदरामद करा दिया। जिससे ग्राम सभा को अपूर्णीय क्षति हुई तथा व्यक्ति विशेष को अनुचित लाभ पहुँचा। जिसके लिये आप दोषी है। तथा इस कृत्य से आपकी सत्यनिष्ठा संदिग्ध होती है।"

2. The petitioner filed applications dated 04.12.2006 and 13.02.2007 demanding the documents, contending that his signatures on the order referred in the charge sheet were forged and he had not put his signatures. He also seeks permission to examine the documents. However, neither documents were provided nor any oral evidence was recorded during inquiry. The Inquiry Officer conducted inquiry and submitted its report dated 09.08.2007 whereby the above referred both charges were found proved against petitioner.

3. Sri Kshitij Shailendra, learned counsel for petitioner submitted that Inquiry Officer has acted as an appellate authority and conducted inquiry as he was sitting in appeal against the orders passed by petitioner. The original records were not brought on record before Inquiry Officer and he erroneously came to conclusion that petitioner while passing certain orders as Consolidation Officer had committed procedure error which led to loss of revenue to Gaon Sabha concerned. Thereafter a copy of inquiry report was submitted to petitioner and a show cause notice dated 09.10.2007 was issued. Petitioner submitted reply to the show cause notice and again contended that orders were not passed by him and signatures were forged by a gang which was operating at the relevant time. It was also contended that there was no mala fide intention to pass such orders. The orders were passed on the basis of earlier orders and were in nature of execution.

4. Meanwhile, petitioner retired on 30.04.2008 after attaining age of superannuation. Thereafter a fresh show cause notice was issued on 09.07.2008 with proposed punishment of 50% deduction from pension as well as 50% deduction from gratuity. Petitioner replied the said show cause notice on 29.07.2008 again reiterating earlier stand that the orders passed by petitioner were in the nature of execution of earlier orders and that relevant documents were not shown to petitioner as well as the entire inquiry was vitiated as it was conducted without complying the principle of nature justice. The Commissioner (Consolidation) granted permission under Article 351-A of Civil Service Regulations (hereinafter referred to as "CSR") to continue inquiry after retirement of petitioner and finally the Chief Secretary under the orders of Governor passed impugned order dated 03.08.2012 whereby petitioner was awarded punishment of 10% permanent deduction in pension and 50% deduction each from pension as well as gratuity.

5. Sri Kshitij Shailendra, learned counsel for petitioner, further submitted that in case any party was aggrieved by the orders passed by petitioner, it would have challenged the same before Appellate Forum, however, none of the party has approached the Appellate Forum, therefore, the concerned parties were satisfied with the orders passed by petitioner. Even, Gaon Sabha concerned (supposed to suffer loss), had also not filed any appeal against orders passed by the petitioner.

6. Learned counsel for petitioner further argued that mere negligence or omission in performance of duty or error of judgment does not amount of misconduct and for that he placed reliance on a Division Bench judgment of this Court in State of U.P. and another vs. Rajesh Kumar Singh and another, 2019(11) ADJ 249 (DB)(LB), relevant paras 8, 9 and 10, are reproduced as under:

"8. What flows from Rule 3 of Conduct Rules is that if a government servant conducts himself in a manner which is inconsistent with due and faithful discharge of his duty in service, the same will amount to misconduct. However, every act of omission would not constitute misconduct for the purposes of drawing disciplinary proceedings as has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of J. Ahmad (supra). An act of omission which runs contrary to the expected conduct of an employee would certainly constitute misconduct, however some other act of omission or negligence in performance of duty and a lapse in performance of duty or error of judgment may amount to negligence in discharge of duty but would not constitute misconduct unless the consequences directly attributable to negligence would be such as to be irreparable or the resultant damage would be so heavy that the degree of culpability would be very high.

9. These observations have been made in the case of J. Ahmad (supra), relevant extract of which is mentioned herein below:-

"A single act of omission or error of judgment would ordinarily not constitute misconduct though if such error or omission results in serious or atrocious consequences the same may amount to misconduct as was held by this Court in P. H. Kalyani v. Air France, Calcutta (5), wherein it was found that the two mistakes committed by the employee while checking the load-sheets and balance charts would involve possible accident to the aircraft and possible loss of human life and, therefore, the negligence in work in the context of serious consequences was treated as misconduct. It is, however, difficult to believe that lack of efficiency or attainment of highest standards in discharge of duty attached to public office would ipso facto constitute misconduct. There may be negligence in performance of duty and a lapse in performance of duty or error of judgment in evaluating the developing situation may be negligence in discharge of duty but would not constitute misconduct unless the consequences directly attributable to negligence would be such as to be irreparable or the resultant damage would be so heavy that the degree of culpability would be very high."

10. Thus, for an act of omission to qualify 'misconduct', what is of primary importance is as to whether such act of omission or negligence would result in irreparable damage or damage caused by such an act would be so heavy that the degree of culpability would be very high. It is also clear that negligence or mistake may not ipso facto constitute misconduct when its consequences are serious."

7. Learned counsel also pointed out that Inquiry Officer has acted like Appellate Authority. He has scrutinized the orders passed by petitioner as he was sitting in appeal and pointed out the errors on law as well as deficiency in the procedure followed by petitioner while passing said orders.

8. Learned counsel also submitted that the procedure provided under Article 351-A of CSR whereby the Governor was empowered to institute or continue inquiry after retirement, was not followed in its letter and spirit as the order was passed by Commissioner (Consolidation) and under the order of Governor though punishment order was passed by Chief Secretary under direction of the Governor. The impugned punishment order is a non-speaking order as well as the punishment awarded is shockingly disproportionate to the charges levelled against petitioner. Lastly, learned counsel for petitioner submitted that the original records were never shown to petitioner rather it was mentioned in the inquiry report that original records were not brought before Inquiry Officer. He further relied on the judgments passed in Government of Andhra Pradesh and others vs. A Venkata Raidu (2007) 1 SCC 338; Subhash Chandra Sharma vs. Managing Director and another, (2000) 1 UPLBEC 541; Subhash Chandra vs. State of U.P. and others, 2017(2) ADJ 630; and, Lalta Prasad vs. State of U.P. and others, 2018(9) ADJ 365.

9. Learned counsel for petitioner placed heavy reliance on a judgment passed by Supreme Court in State of Jharkhand and others vs. Jitendra Kumar Srivastava and others, (2013)12 SCC 210 and relied on paras 12, 13, 14 and 15 of the judgment, which are reproduced as under:

"12. There is also a Proviso to Rule 43(b), which provides that:

A. Such departmental proceedings, if not instituted while the Government Servant was on duty either before retirement or during re-employment.

i. Shall not be instituted save with the sanction of the State Government.

ii Shall be in respect of an event which took place not more than four years before the institution of such proceedings.

iii Shall be conducted by such authority and at such place or places as the State Government may direct and in accordance with the procedure applicable to proceedings on which an order of dismissal from service may be made:

B. Judicial proceedings, if not instituted while the Government Servant was on duty either before retirement or during re-employment shall have been instated in accordance with Sub-clause (ii) of Clause (a) and

C. The Bihar Public Service Commission, shall be consulted before final orders are passed.

It is apparent that the proviso speaks about the institution of proceedings. For initiating proceedings, Rule 43(b) puts some conditions, i.e., Department proceeding as indicated in Rule 43(b), if not instituted while the Government Servant was on duty, then it shall not be instituted except:

(a) With the sanction of the Government,

(b) It shall be in respect of an event which took place not more than four years before the institution of the proceedings.

(c) Such proceedings shall be conducted by the enquiry officer in accordance with the proceedings by which dismissal of the services can be made.

Thus, in so far as the proviso is concerned that deals with condition for initiation of proceedings and the period of limitation within which such proceedings can be initiated.

13. Reading of Rule 43(b) makes it abundantly clear that even after the conclusion of the departmental inquiry, it is permissible for the Government to withhold pension etc. ONLY when a finding is recorded either in departmental inquiry or judicial proceedings that the employee had committed grave misconduct in the discharge of his duty while in his office. There is no provision in the rules for withholding of the pension/gratuity when such departmental proceedings or judicial proceedings are still pending.

14. Right to receive pension was recognized as right to property by the Constitution Bench judgment of this Court in Deokinandan Prasad v. State of Bihar, (1971) 2 SCC 330, as is apparent from the following discussion:

29. The last question to be considered, is, whether the right to receive pension by a Government servant is property, so as to attract Articles 19(1)(f) and 31(1) of the Constitution. This question falls to be decided in order to consider whether the writ petition is maintainable under Article 32. To this aspect, we have already adverted to earlier and we now proceed to consider the same.

30. According to the Petitioner the right to receive pension is property and the Respondents by an executive order dated June 12, 1968 have wrongfully withheld his pension. That order affects his fundamental rights under Articles 19(1)(f) and 31(1) of the Constitution. The Respondents, as we have already indicated, do not dispute the right of the Petitioner to get pension, but for the order passed on August 5, 1966. There is only a bald averment in the counter-affidavit that no question of any fundamental right arises for consideration. Mr. Jha, learned Counsel for the Respondents, was not prepared to take up the position that the right to receive pension cannot be considered to be property under any circumstances. According to him, in this case, no order has been passed by the State granting pension. We understood the learned Counsel to urge that if the State had passed an order granting pension and later on resiles from that order, the latter order may be considered to affect the Petitioner's right regarding property so as to attract Articles 19(1)(f) and 31(1) of the Constitution.

31. We are not inclined to accept the contention of the learned Counsel for the Respondents. By a reference to the material provisions in the Pension Rules, we have already indicated that the grant of pension does not depend upon an order being passed by the authorities to that effect. It may be that for the purposes of quantifying the amount having regard to the period of service and other allied matters, it may be necessary for the authorities to pass an order to that effect, but the right to receive pension flows to an officer not because of the said order but by virtue of the Rules. The Rules, we have already pointed out, clearly recognise the right of persons like the Petitioner to receive pension under the circumstances mentioned therein.

32. The question whether the pension granted to a public servant is property attracting Article 31(1) came up for consideration before the Punjab High Court in Bhagwant Singh v. Union of India A.I.R. 1962 Pun 503. It was held that such a right constitutes "property" and any interference will be a breach of Article 31(1) of the Constitution. It was further held that the State cannot by an executive order curtail or abolish altogether the right of the public servant to receive pension. This decision was given by a learned Single Judge. This decision was taken up in Letters Patent Appeal by the Union of India. The Letters Patent Bench in its decision in Union of India v. Bhagwant Singh I.L.R. 1965 Pun 1 approved the decision of the learned Single Judge. The Letters Patent Bench held that the pension granted to a public servant on his retirement is "property" within the meaning of Article 31(1) of the Constitution and he could be deprived of the same only by an authority of law and that pension does not cease to be property on the mere denial or cancellation of it. It was further held that the character of pension as "property" cannot possibly undergo such mutation at the whim of a particular person or authority.

33. The matter again came up before a Full Bench of the Punjab and Haryana High Court in K.R. Erry v. The State of Punjab I.L.R. 1967 P&H 278. The High Court had to consider the nature of the right of an officer to get pension. The majority quoted with approval the principles laid down in the two earlier decisions of the same High Court, referred to above, and held that the pension is not to be treated as a bounty payable on the sweet will and pleasure of the Government and that the right to superannuation pension including its amount is a valuable right vesting in a Government servant It was further held by the majority that even though an opportunity had already been afforded to the officer on an earlier occasion for showing cause against the imposition of penalty for lapse or misconduct on his part and he has been found guilty, nevertheless, when a cut is sought to be imposed in the quantum of pension payable to an officer on the basis of misconduct already proved against him, a further opportunity to show cause in that regard must be given to the officer. This view regarding the giving of further opportunity was expressed by the learned Judges on the basis of the relevant Punjab Civil Service Rules. But the learned Chief Justice in his dissenting judgment was not prepared to agree with the majority that under such circumstances a further opportunity should be given to an officer when a reduction in the amount of pension payable is made by the State. It is not necessary for us in the case on hand, to consider the question whether before taking action by way of reducing or denying the pension on the basis of disciplinary action already taken, a further notice to show cause should be given to an officer. That question does not arise for consideration before us. Nor are we concerned with the further question regarding the procedure, if any, to be adopted by the authorities before reducing or withholding the pension for the first time after the retirement of an officer. Hence we express no opinion regarding the views expressed by the majority and the minority Judges in the above Punjab High Court decision, on this aspect. But we agree with the view of the majority when it has approved its earlier decision that pension is not a bounty payable on the sweet will and pleasure of the Government and that, on the other hand, the right to pension is a valuable right vesting in a government servant.

34. This Court in State of Madhya Pradesh v. Ranojirao Shinde and Anr. (1968) 3 SCR 489 had to consider the question whether a "cash grant" is "property" within the meaning of that expression in Articles 19(1)(f) and 31(1) of the Constitution. This Court held that it was property, observing "it is obvious that a right to sum of money is property".

35. Having due regard to the above decisions, we are of the opinion that the right of the Petitioner to receive pension is property under Article 31(1) and by a mere executive order the State had no power to withhold the same. Similarly, the said claim is also property under Article 19(1)(f) and it is not saved by Sub-article (5) of Article 19. Therefore, it follows that the order dated June 12, 1968 denying the Petitioner right to receive pension affects the fundamental right of the Petitioner under Articles 19(1)(f) and 31(1) of the Constitution, and as such the writ petition under Article 32 is maintainable. It may be that under the Pension Act (Act 23 of 1871) there is a bar against a civil court entertaining any suit relating to the matters mentioned therein. That does not stand in the way of a Writ of Mandamus being issued to the State to properly consider the claim of the Petitioner for payment of pension according to law.

13. In State of West Bengal v. Haresh C. Banerjee and Ors. (2006) 7 SCC 651, this Court recognized that even when, after the repeal of Article 19(1)(f) and Article 31(1) of the Constitution vide Constitution (Forty-Fourth Amendment) Act, 1978 w.e.f. 20th June, 1979, the right to property was no longer remained a fundamental right, it was still a Constitutional right, as provided in Article 300A of the Constitution. Right to receive pension was treated as right to property. Otherwise, challenge in that case was to the vires of Rule 10(1) of the West Bengal Services (Death-cum--Retirement Benefit) Rules, 1971 which conferred the right upon the Governor to withhold or withdraw a pension or any part thereof under certain circumstances and the said challenge was repelled by this Court."

10. Sri Rajeshwar Tripathi, learned Standing Counsel appearing for State-Respondents, has opposed the above submissions and submitted that after the petitioner was retired, inquiry was continued after taking requisite permission under Article 351-A of CSR and punishment order was passed under direction of the Governor, therefore, in this regard there is not irregularity in the procedure followed by respondents. Petitioner has committed serious irregularities while passing orders, whereby concerned Gaon Sabha has suffered great loss. The explanation of petitioner that concerned orders were not signed by him and it was an act of a gang, are not only vague but petitioner has not submitted any documents in support of submission and also not brought on record any evidence that his signatures were forged. He further submits that judgments relied on by learned counsel for petitioner are distinguishable that in the present case petitioner has passed orders whereby loss was caused to Gaon Sabha concerned and thus he was not diligent towards his duties and made a vague allegation that his signatures were forged without any proof.

11. I have heard learned counsel for parties and perused the material available on record.

12. In the present case there are two issues. The first issue is, "whether departmental inquiry was legally continued after retirement of petitioner?"

13. Article 351-A of CSR empowers the Governor to institute or continue inquiry after retirement. In the present case, said permission was granted by Commissioner (Consolidation) vide order dated 13.01.2010. Learned counsel for petitioner has contended that said permission cannot be termed to be a valid permission as required under the provisions of Article 351-A of CSR. In this regard it is relevant to note that permission was also sought from the Public Service Commission and an order was passed by Chief Secretary under the orders of Government to conclude inquiry continued under Article 351-A and punishment order, as referred above, was also passed.

14. In this regard paragraphs no. 40, 41, 42, 43, 44 and 45 of a Full Bench judgment in Shivagopal and Ors. vs. State of U.P. and Ors., 2019(5) ADJ 441 are relevant and reproduced as under:

"40. Article 351-A empowers the Governor to withhold or withdraw pension or a part of it permanently or for specified period and order recovery from pension for pecuniary loss caused to the Government if the pensioner in departmental proceedings or in judicial proceedings, has been found: (i) guilty of grave misconduct or (ii) to have caused pecuniary loss to Government by misconduct or negligence during his service. The proviso to the Article spells out the circumstances/conditions in which the departmental proceedings/judicial proceedings is required to be instituted for the purposes of withholding/withdrawing pension. Article 351-A reads thus:

"351-A21. The Governor reserves to himself the right of withholding or withdrawing a pension or any part of it, whether permanently or for a specified period and the right of ordering the recovery from a pension of the whole or part of any pecuniary loss caused to Government, if the pensioner is found in departmental or judicial proceedings to have been guilty of grave misconduct, or to have caused pecuniary loss to Government by misconduct or negligence, during his service, including service rendered on re-employment after retirement:

Provided that-

(a) such departmental proceedings, if not instituted while the officer was on duty either before retirement or during reemployment-

(i) shall not be instituted save with the sanction of the Governor.

(ii) shall be in respect of an event which took place not more than four years before the institution of such proceeding; and

(iii) shall be conducted by such authority and in such place or places as the Governor may direct and in accordance with the procedure applicable to proceedings on which an order of dismissal from service may be made.

(b) Judicial proceedings, if not instituted while the officer was on duty either before retirement or during re-employment, shall have been instituted in accordance with sub-clause (ii) of clause (a); and

(c) the Public Service Commission, U.P. shall be consulted before final orders are passed.

Provided further that of the order passed by the Governor relates to a cash dealt with under the Uttar Pradesh Disciplinary Proceedings, (Administrative Tribunal) Rules, 1947, it shall not be necessary to consult Public Service Commission.

Explanation-For the purposes of this article-

(a) Departmental proceeding shall be deemed to have been instituted when the charges framed against the pensioner are issued to him or, if the officer has been placed under suspension from an earlier date, on such date ; and

(b) judicial proceedings shall be deemed to have been instituted:

(i) in the case of criminal proceedings, on the date on which complaint is made, or a charge-sheet is submitted, to a criminal court; and

(ii) in the case of civil proceedings, on the date on which the plaint is presented or, as the case may be, an application is made to Civil court

Note- As soon as proceedings of the nature referred to in this article are instituted the authority which institutes such proceedings shall without delay intimate the fact to the Audit Officer concerned."

41. Explanation to Article 351-A clarifies that departmental proceedings shall be deemed to have been instituted: (i) when charges are framed against the pensioner; or (ii) the officer has been placed under suspension from such date. Further, judicial proceedings is deemed to have been instituted against the pensioner: (i) in the case of criminal proceedings, on date on which complaint is made or charge-sheet is submitted to a criminal court; (ii) in case of civil proceedings on the date on which plaint is presented or as the case may be, an application is made to Civil Court.

42. Now we will refer to the proviso to Article 351-A. The proviso speaks about initiation of disciplinary proceedings or judicial proceedings against the government servant after retirement. For initiating proceedings the conditions specified therein must be satisfied, that is, departmental proceedings as indicated in proviso (a) if not instituted while the officer was on duty then it shall not be instituted except:

(ii). it shall be initiated on an event which took place not more than 4 years before the institution of the proceedings;

(iii). such proceedings would be conducted by such authority and in such place as the Governor may direct and in accordance with the procedure applicable to proceedings on which an order of dismissal from service may be made.

43. On perusal of Proviso and its Explanation, referred to above, deals only with the conditions for initiation for disciplinary proceedings/judicial proceedings and the limitation within which such initiation of the proceedings can be done has been made explicit.

44. In State of U.P. vs. Harihar Bhole Nath (Harihar Bhole Nath case), one of the issues involved therein was whether the sanction of the Governor was required to continue the proceedings after retirement. The Court held in negative as follows:

"But the said Rules read with the Proviso and the Explanation appended thereto construed in their entirely clearly postulate that the proceedings initiated before the delinquent officer reached his age of superannuation would be valid.....The question, however, is whether the sanction of the Governor was required even for the purpose of continuance of the proceedings which had already been initiated. Answer thereto must be rendered in the negative." (Refer: State of U.P. vs. R.C. Misra)

45. The issue before the Court in State of Orissa and others vs. Kalicharan Mohapatra and others was as to whether Rule 6 of All India Service (Death-cum-Retirement Benefits) Rules, 1958, could have been invoked during pendency of a criminal case against the government servant, inasmuch as, the charge against the government servant is not one of causing pecuniary loss to the State Government by misconduct or negligence within the meaning of the Rule. Relevant portion of Rule 6 for our purposes is extracted:

"6. Recovery from pension:- 6(1) The Central Government reserves to itself the right of withholding or withdrawing a pension or any part of it, whether permanently or for a specified period, and the right of ordering the recovery from pension of the whole or part of any pecuniary loss caused to the Central or a State Government, if the pensioner is found in a departmental or judicial proceedings to have been guilty of grave misconduct or to have caused pecuniary loss to the Central or a State Government by misconduct or negligence, during his service, including service rendered or re-employment after retirement.

Provided that no such order shall be passed without consulting the Union Public Service Commission:-- Provided further that--

(a) such departmental proceeding, if instituted while the pensioner was in service, whether before his retirement or during his re-employment, shall, after the final retirement of the pensioner, be deemed to be a proceeding under this sub-rule and shall be continued and concluded by the authority by which it was commenced in the same manner as if the pensioner had continued in service;

(b) .....

(c) .....

Explanation.- For the purpose of this rule:-

(a) a departmental proceeding shall be deemed to be instituted which the charges framed against the pensioner are issued to his or, if he has been placed under suspension from an earlier date, on such date and

(b) a judicial proceeding shall be deemed to be instituted--

(i) in the case of criminal proceedings, on the date on which a complaint is made or a charge-sheet is submitted, to the criminal court; and

(ii) in the case of civil proceedings, on the date on which the plaint is presented or, as the case may be, an application is made, to a civil court.

(2) Where any departmental or judicial proceeding is instituted under sub-rule (1), or where a departmental proceeding is continued under clause (a) of the proviso thereto against an officer who has retired on attaining the age of compulsory retirement or otherwise, he shall be sanctioned by the Government which instituted such proceedings, during the period commencing from the date of his retirement to the date on which, upon conclusion of such proceeding final orders are passed, a provisional pension not exceeding the maximum pension which would have been admissible on the basis of his qualifying service upto the date of retirement, or if he was under suspension on the date of retirement, upto the date immediately preceding the date on which he was placed under suspension; but no gratuity or death- cum-retirement gratuity shall be paid to him until the conclusion of such proceedings and the issue of final orders thereon.

Provided that where disciplinary proceeding has been instituted against a member of the Service before his retirement service under rule 10 of the All India Service (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1969, for imposing any of the penalties specified in clause (i), (ii) and (iv) of sub-rule 1 of rule 6 of the said rules and continuing such proceeding under sub-rule (1) of this rule after his retirement from service, the payment of gratuity or Death-cum- Retirement gratuity shall not be withheld." (emphasis supplied)

15. As referred above, the inquiry was initiated before the petitioner retired and it continued thereafter also and for that the sanction of the Governor was not required. However, when punishment was imposed for deduction of pension and gratuity, prior permission was taken from U.P. Public Service Commission as well as from the Governor and punishment order was passed under direction of the Governor, therefore, in the present case there is no irregularity in the process of departmental inquiry.

16. Now, I proceed to consider the second issue that, "whether charges were proved against petitioner and punishment thereon is proportionate or not?"

17. It is settled law that gratuity and pension are not bounties, as an employee earn these benefits of his long, continuous, faithful and unblemished service. The Supreme Court in D.S. Nakara and Ors. vs. Union of India, (1983) 1 SCC 305 held as under:

"31. From the discussion three things emerge : (i) that pension is neither a bounty nor a matter of grace depending upon the sweet will of the employer and that it creates a vested right subject to 1972 rules which are statutory in character because they are enacted in of exercise of powers conferred by the proviso to Article 309 and Clause (5) of Article 148 of the Constitution; (ii) that the pension is not an ex-gratia payment but it is a payment for the past service rendered ; and (iii) it is a social welfare measure rendering socio-economic justice to those who in the hey-day of their life ceaselessly toiled for the employer on an assurance that in their old age they would not be left in lurch....."

18. Article 351-A of CSR reserves right of the Governor to withheld of withdraw pension or part thereof, whether permanently or for specified period or to order recovery from pension of the whole or part for pecuniary loss caused to the Central or State Government in eventualities that pensioner be guilty of grave misconduct in departmental or judicial proceedings or to have caused pecuniary loss to the government by misconduct or negligence. The word "grave misconduct" is something more than a "misconduct". The other eventuality is to have caused pecuniary loss to government by misconduct or negligence.

19. Now I proceed to consider, whether charges against petitioner, if considered to be proved, yet they would fall under "grave misconduct" or any pecuniary loss was caused to government by said misconduct or by negligence.

20. The contents of charges are that the petitioner had passed two orders whereby he entered name of private persons on land purportedly belonged to Gram Sabha, thus caused loss to Gram Sabha. Undisputedly, said orders were not challenged either by Gram Sabha or by the State. There was no allegation of illegal gratification or of granting any favour.

21. I have carefully perused the inquiry report. The inquiry officer has dealt in the inquiry as to how due procedure was not followed by the petitioner and that required precautions were not adhered to. I found merit in the argument of learned counsel for petitioner that Inquiry Officer has scrutinized the orders like an Appellate Authority and not like an Inquiry Officer. The finding of loss are not supported by any evidence or valuation of land. No witness was examined from Gram Sabha. It was also not noticed by Inquiry Officer that one order was passed only in compliance of an earlier order. The record was not verified in absence of original record which remained untraceable. The Inquiry Officer has proceeded with inquiry like an Appellate Authority and failed to decide whether any grave misconduct was committed or any pecuniary loss was caused to Gaon Sabha.

22. It is also relevant to consider the reply of petitioner to the charges. He has denied his signature on the record on a vague ground that a gang was operating at the relevant time which used to got order prepared with forged signatures, however petitioner had not made any complaint or lodged any FIR. It appears that petitioner has made vague and baseless grounds in reply. It was not warranted from a responsible government officer.

23. In first charge the petitioner has passed an order in pursuance of a true copy of an order passed 10-12 years ago, without appreciating that original record was not available as destroyed due to fire and passed a cryptic order without taking other precautions, such as to frame issue or to take other precautions as it was likely to effect right of a Gaon Sabha, therefore, petitioner was careless and he has not put any explanation for it except a vague and baseless explanation that his signatures were forged. Similarly with regard to second charge also, petitioner has passed order in haste and without complying due provisions, as such he was not careful. However, there is no evidence of any pecuniary loss caused due to above referred orders passed by petitioner. There is no evidence that orders were passed to give undue benefit to someone or integrity of petitioner was doubtful. In these circumstances, the act of petitioner would not fall under "grave misconduct". Pecuniary loss, if any, caused was not quantified, however, the petitioner was careless and had not followed due process while passing orders and his reply was not only vague but without any legal basis.

24. In these circumstances, the Court proceed to consider, whether punishment awarded (10% permanent deduction in pension, 50% deduction from pension as well as from gratuity) is shockingly disproportionate or not vis-a-vis limited scope of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution. In this regard reference of a recent judgment of Supreme Court in Union of India and others vs. Ram Karan, (2022) 1 SCC 373 would be appropriate and paras 23, 24, 25 and 26 of the judgement are quoted hereunder:

"23. The well ingrained principle of law is that it is the disciplinary authority, or the appellate authority in appeal, which is to decide the nature of punishment to be given to the delinquent employee. Keeping in view the seriousness of the misconduct committed by such an employee, it is not open for the Courts to assume and usurp the function of the disciplinary authority.

24. Even in cases where the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority is found to be shocking to the conscience of the Court, normally the disciplinary authority or the appellate authority should be directed to reconsider the question of imposition of penalty. The scope of judicial review on the quantum of punishment is available but with a limited scope. It is only when the penalty imposed appears to be shockingly disproportionate to the nature of misconduct that the Courts would frown upon. Even in such a case, after setting aside the penalty order, it is to be left to the disciplinary/appellate authority to take a call and it is not for the Court to substitute its decision by prescribing the quantum of punishment. However, it is only in rare and exceptional cases where the court might to shorten the litigation may think of substituting its own view as to the quantum of punishment in place of punishment awarded by the competent authority that too after assigning cogent reasons.

25. The principles have been culled out by a three-Judge Bench of this Court way back in B.C. Chaturvedi v. Union of India and Ors. 1995(6) SCC 749 wherein it was observed as under:

18. A review of the above legal position would establish that the disciplinary authority, and on appeal the appellate authority, being fact-finding authorities have exclusive power to consider the evidence with a view to maintain discipline. They are invested with the discretion to impose appropriate punishment keeping in view the magnitude or gravity of the misconduct. The High Court/Tribunal, while exercising the power of judicial review, cannot normally substitute its own conclusion on penalty and impose some other penalty. If the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority or the appellate authority shocks the conscience of the High Court/Tribunal, it would appropriately mould the relief, either directing the disciplinary/appellate authority to reconsider the penalty imposed, or to shorten the litigation, it may itself, in exceptional and rare cases, impose appropriate punishment with cogent reasons in support thereof.

26. It has been further examined by this Court in Lucknow Kshetriya Gramin Bank (Now Allahabad, Uttar Pradesh Gramin Bank) and Anr. v. Rajendra Singh, (2013) 12 SCC 372 as under:

19. The principles discussed above can be summed up and summarised as follows:

19.1. When charge(s) of misconduct is proved in an enquiry the quantum of punishment to be imposed in a particular case is essentially the domain of the departmental authorities.

19.2. The courts cannot assume the function of disciplinary/departmental authorities and to decide the quantum of punishment and nature of penalty to be awarded, as this function is exclusively within the jurisdiction of the competent authority.

19.3. Limited judicial review is available to interfere with the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority, only in cases where such penalty is found to be shocking to the conscience of the court.

19.4. Even in such a case when the punishment is set aside as shockingly disproportionate to the nature of charges framed against the delinquent employee, the appropriate course of action is to remit the matter back to the disciplinary authority or the appellate authority with direction to pass appropriate order of penalty. The court by itself cannot mandate as to what should be the penalty in such a case.

19.5. The only exception to the principle stated in para 19.4 above, would be in those cases where the co-delinquent is awarded lesser punishment by the disciplinary authority even when the charges of misconduct were identical or the co-delinquent was foisted with more serious charges. This would be on the doctrine of equality when it is found that the employee concerned and the co-delinquent are equally placed. However, there has to be a complete parity between the two, not only in respect of nature of charge but subsequent conduct as well after the service of charge-sheet in the two cases. If the co-delinquent accepts the charges, indicating remorse with unqualified apology, lesser punishment to him would be justifiable." (emphasis supplied)

25. As discussed in earlier paragraphs, the petitioner was careless in passing orders and failed to follow requisite procedure to pass said orders. However, neither the Gaon Sabha concerned, who has apparently suffered pecuniary loss nor the State Government had challenged the said orders and further the pecuniary loss, if caused, is not determined, even no rough calculation was made, therefore, conduct of petitioner would not falls under "grave misconduct". The punishment awarded to petitioner appears to be very harsh and it would not be wrong to say that punishment is shockingly disproportionate.

26. Taking note of Ram Karan (supra), the findings that charges are proved against the petitioner are upheld to the extent discussed above. However, the order of punishment dated 03.08.2012 is set aside and matter is remanded back to respondents to pass a fresh order of punishment after considering the observations made in this judgment.

27. The writ petition is partly allowed with aforesaid observations and directions.

4. Accordingly, the application is allowed and delay in filing the appeal is hereby condoned.

Order on memo of main appeal

1. Heard Shri Shikhar Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant.

2. Learned counsel for the appellant contends that the issue involved in RERA APPEAL No. - 26 of 2022, RERA APPEAL No. - 27 of 2022 and RERA APPEAL No. - 8 of 2022 are the same. As such, the Court proceeds to hear all the appeals together. For convenience, facts of RERA APPEAL No. - 26 of 2022 are being taken.

3. The instant appeal has been filed under Section 58 of Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 (hereinafter referred as 'Act 2016') against the order dated 09.03.2022 passed by the Uttar Pradesh Real Estate Appellate Tribunal, Lucknow (hereinafter referred as 'Tribunal') in Appeal No. 85 of 2020 in re: U.P. Awas Vikas Evam Parishad vs Nishtha Bhatnagar.

4. The appeal has been filed by framing the following substantial questions of law which for the sake of convenience are reproduced below:

"(i) Whether a complaint by an allottee can be entertained under the provisions of Section 71 of Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 after the execution of a sale deed and handing over of possession by the Promoter including the appellant as defined under Section 2(zk) of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, to the allottee?

(ii) Whether delay interest on the deposited amount can be given to allottees, once they have accepted the terms of the conveyance deed and taken possession of the flat/residential unit without any protest?

(iii) Whether the allottee is entitled to interest, if he has been handed over possession of the flat with delay, but on the agreed commercial price?

(iv) Whether the allottee would be entitled to interest w.e.f. the date of enforcement of Act or from the proposed date of completion of project?"

5. Section 58 of the Act 2016 restricts the right of second appeal on the grounds specified in Section 100 of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 reads as follows:

"100. Second Appeal.-

(1) Save as otherwise expressly provided in the body of this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from every decree passed in appeal by any Court subordinate to the High Court, if the High Court is satisfied that the case involves a substantial question of law.

(2) An appeal may lie under this Section from an appellate decree passed ex parte.

(3) In an appeal under this section, the memorandum of appeal shall precisely state the substantial question of law involved in the appeal.

(4) Where the High Court is satisfied that a substantial question of law is involved in any case, it shall formulate that question.

(5) The appeal shall be heard on the question so formulated and the Respondent shall, at the hearing of the appeal, be allowed to argue that the case does not involve such question:

Provided that nothing in this Sub-section shall be deemed to take away or abridge the power of the Court to hear, for reasons to be recorded, the appeal on any other substantial question of law, not formulated by it, if it is satisfied that the case involves such question."

6. Thus, it is apparent that keeping in view Section 100 of the CPC read with Section 58 of the Act 2016 the second appeal can only be filed where a substantial question of law is involved meaning thereby that the existence of substantial question of law is the sine qua non for the exercise of jurisdiction under Section 58 of the Act 2016.

7. The principles for deciding when a question of law becomes a substantial question of law, have been enunciated by a Constitution Bench of Hon'ble the Apex Court Court in the case of Sir Chunilal V. Mehta & Sons Ltd. v. Century Spg. & Mfg. Co. Ltd. reported in AIR 1962 SC 1314, where the Apex Court held as under:

"The proper test for determining whether a question of law raised in the case is substantial would, in our opinion, be whether it is of general public importance or whether it directly and substantially affects the rights of the parties and if so whether it is either an open question in the sense that it is not finally settled by this Court or by the Privy Council or by the Federal Court or is not free from difficulty or calls for discussion of alternative views. If the question is settled by the highest court or the general principles to be applied in determining the question are well settled and there is a mere question of applying those principles or that the plea raised is palpably absurd the question would not be a substantial question of law."

8. In the case of Hero Vinoth v. Seshammal reported in (2006) 5 SCC 545,

Hon'ble the Apex Court referred to and relied upon Chunilal v. Mehta and Sons (supra) and other judgments and summarised the tests to find out whether a given set of questions of law were mere questions of law or substantial questions of law. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment of the Apex Court in Hero Vinoth (supra) are set out hereinbelow:

21. The phrase "substantial question of law", as occurring in the amended Section 100 Code of Civil Procedure is not defined in the Code. The word substantial, as qualifying "question of law", means of having substance, essential, real, of sound worth, important or considerable. It is to be understood as something in contradistinction with-technical, of no substance or consequence, or academic merely. However, it is clear that the legislature has chosen not to qualify the scope of "substantial question of law" by suffixing the words "of general importance" as has been done in many other provisions such as Section 109 of the Code or Article 133(1)(a) of the Constitution. The substantial question of law on which a second appeal shall be heard need not necessarily be a substantial question of law of general importance. In Guran Ditta v. Ram Ditta AIR 1928 PC 172 the phrase substantial question of law as it was employed in the last Clause of the then existing Section 100 Code of Civil Procedure (since omitted by the Amendment Act, 1973) came up for consideration and their Lordships held that it did not mean a substantial question of general importance but a substantial question of law which was involved in the case. In Sir Chunilal case AIR 1962 SC 1314 the Constitution Bench expressed agreement with the following view taken by a Full Bench of the Madras High Court in Rimmalapudi Subba Rao v. Noony Veeraju AIR 1951 Mad 969 (Sir Chunilal case AIR 1962 SC 1314).

When a question of law is fairly arguable, where there is room for difference of opinion on it or where the Court thought it necessary to deal with that question at some length and discuss alternative views, then the question would be a substantial question of law. On the other hand if the question was practically covered by the decision of the highest court or if the general principles to be applied in determining the question are well settled and the only question was of applying those principles to the particular fact of the case it would not be a substantial question of law.

9. To be "substantial", a question of law must be debatable, not previously settled by the law of the land or any binding precedent, and must have a material bearing on the decision of the case and/or the rights of the parties before it, if answered either way.

10. To be a question of law "involved in the case", there must be first, a foundation for it laid in the pleadings, and the question should emerge from the sustainable findings of fact, arrived at by Courts of facts, and it must be necessary to decide that question of law for a just and proper decision of the case.

11. Whether a question of law is a substantial one and whether such question is involved in the case or not, would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. The paramount overall consideration is the need for striking a judicious balance between the indispensable obligation to do justice at all stages and the impelling necessity of avoiding prolongation in the life of any lis. This proposition finds support from Santosh Hazari v. Purushottam Tiwari (2001) 3 SCC 179.

12. In a Second Appeal, the jurisdiction of the High Court being confined to substantial question of law, a finding of fact is not open to challenge in second appeal, even if the appreciation of evidence is palpably erroneous and the finding of fact incorrect as held in Ramchandra v. Ramalingam AIR 1963 SC 302. An entirely new point, raised for the first time, before the High Court, is not a question involved in the case, unless it goes to the root of the matter.

13. The principles culled out from the aforesaid judgements of Hon'ble the Apex Court relevant for this case may be summarised as follows:

(i) An inference of fact from the recitals or contents of a document is a question of fact, but the legal effect of the terms of a document is a question of law. Construction of a document, involving the application of any principle of law, is also a question of law. Therefore, when there is misconstruction of a document or wrong application of a principle of law in construing a document, it gives rise to a question of law.

(ii) The High Court should be satisfied that the case involves a substantial question of law, and not a mere question of law. A question of law having a material bearing on the decision of the case (that is, a question, answer to which affects the rights of parties to the suit) will be a substantial question of law, if it is not covered by any specific provisions of law or settled legal principle emerging from binding precedents, and, involves a debatable legal issue.

(iii) A substantial question of law will also arise in a contrary situation, where the legal position is clear, either on account of express provisions of law or binding precedents, but the Court below has decided the matter, either ignoring or acting contrary to such legal principle. In the second type of cases, the substantial question of law arises not because the law is still debatable, but because the decision rendered on a material question, violates the settled position of law.

(iv) The general Rule is, that High Court will not interfere with the concurrent findings of the Courts below. But it is not an absolute rule. Some of the well-recognised exceptions are where (i) the courts below have ignored material evidence or acted on no evidence; (ii) the courts have drawn wrong inferences from proved facts by applying the law erroneously; or (iii) the courts have wrongly cast the burden of proof. A decision based on no evidence, does not refer only to cases where there is a total dearth of evidence, but also refers to case, where the evidence, taken as a whole, is not reasonably capable of supporting the finding.

14. The aforesaid principles of law have already been considered by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Nazir Mohamed vs J. Kamala and others reported in AIR 2020 SC 4321.

15. Now the Court proceeds to see whether the four "substantial' questions of law, as have been framed by the appellants, are invoked "substantially' or not so as to invoke the jurisdiction of this Court. For this purpose facts of the case may also have to be indicated which are as follows.

16. From perusal of the appeal it comes out that the respondent had booked a "2BHK + STUDY" type of flat with the U.P. Awas Evam Vikas Parishad (hereinafter referred as 'Parishad') and paid a booking amount of Rs 1.81 lakhs in terms of scheme floated by the Parishad in the year 2012.

17. It is claimed that the respondent was allotted a flat in Mandakini Enclave vide a letter dated 27.09.2013. The Parishad thereafter demanded certain amount towards allotted flat and fixed the price of the flat at Rs. 37.50 lakhs. The respondent claims to have submitted the aforesaid amount. It is admitted that the possession of the flat was supposed to be given within 30 months from the date of allotment as per clause 9.1 of the brochure. It is only by means of letter dated 12.04.2017, a copy of which is at page 152 of the appeal, that the respondent has been asked to deposit an amount of Rs 5.87 lakhs so that the registration of the apartment can be done. Admittedly, the amount has been deposited in July 2017, the registration was done on 18.08.2017 and the possession has been given on 12.12.2017.

18. It is submitted that after having received the possession and after registration was done the respondent has filed a Complaint Case before the U.P. Real Estate Regulatory Authority (hereinafter referred to as "Authority') claiming refund of certain excess amount, refund of interest, compensation for delayed possession alongwith advocate fee and court fee. The complaint was registered as complaint no. 9201817572 in re: Smt Nishtha Bhatnagar vs U.P. Awas Evam Vikas Parishad and the Authority concerned vide order dated 31.01.2019, a copy of which is annexure 1 to the appeal, allowed the complaint and has directed the Parishad to pay interest on the total amount of Rs 37.50 lakh till the date of possession of the apartment. The interest has been directed to be paid at the rate of MCLR + 1%.

19. Being aggrieved the Parishad filed an Appeal no. 85 of 2020 in re: U.P. Awas Evam Vikas Parishad vs Nishtha Bhatnagar before the Tribunal. The Tribunal vide the impugned order dated 09.03.2022 has upheld the order of the Authority and hence the present second appeal.

20. The Court has gone through the appeal filed by the Parishad with assistance of Shri Sikhar Srivastava, learned counsel appearing for the appellant and the alleged substantial questions of law.

21. Following the principles of law laid down by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the judgments referred above, it is apparent that none of the "substantial' questions of law as have been framed by the appellant, fall within the ambit of being "substantial' questions of law. The reason for the same is that the "substantial' questions of law as have been framed in the instant Second Appeal are specifically covered by the specific provisions of law as per the interpretation given by Hon'ble the Apex Court and do not involve any debatable legal issue. Even otherwise the learned Tribunal has not ignored or acted contrary to the legal principles or has violated the provisions of the Act 2016 rather the same have been followed scrupulously. Learned Tribunal has also not ignored any material evidence or has drawn wrong inference or cast the burden of proof on the appellants herein as would be apparent from the perusal of the impugned judgment.

22. However, as the appeal has been filed and learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently argued on the aforesaid questions, as such the Court proceeds to answer the said questions as formulated by the appellant.

23. As regards the question of law no. 1 which is:

"(i) Whether a complaint by an allottee can be entertained under the provisions of Section 71 of Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 after the execution of a sale deed and handing over of possession by the Promoter including the appellant as defined under Section 2(zk) of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, to the allottee?"

24. Learned counsel for the appellant is unable to indicate anywhere from the Act 2016 that there is a bar per which a complaint cannot be filed after the possession has been taken. No case law to the said effect has been produced by learned counsel for the appellant and hence considering that there is no bar under the Act 2016 either restraining or refraining the allottee from filing of complaint after taking possession, the Court does not find any question of law involved in this regard.

25. As regards question no. 2 which is:

"Whether delay interest on the deposited amount can be given to allottees, once they have accepted the terms of the conveyance deed and taken possession of the flat/residential unit without any protest?"

and question no. 3 which is:

"Whether the allottee is entitled to interest, if he has been handed over possession of the flat with delay, but on the agreed commercial price?"

the same are linked to each other and as such are being dealt together.

26. A perusal of the order passed by the Authority as well as the Tribunal would indicate that the authority as well as the Tribunal have proceeded to grant compensation in terms of provisions contained in Section 71 read with Section 72 of the Act 2016. Even otherwise Section 18(3) of the Act 2016 categorically provides that if the promoters fail to discharge any other obligation imposed on him under this Act or the rules or regulations thereunder or in accordance with the terms and conditions of the agreement for sale, he shall be liable to pay such compensation to the allottees, in the manner as provided in the Act.

27. Admittedly, as per the brochure, the possession of the flat was to be given within 30 months from the date of allotment. Admittedly, the possession has only been given on 12.12.2017 after substantial delay and after the sale deed executed on 18.08.2017. Taking into consideration the said default on the part of the appellant and the categoric provision of Section 18(3) of the Act 2016, the Authority has awarded compensation in the shape of interest. Mere fact that the respondent accepted terms of conveyance deed and took possession of the flat cannot deprive the respondent from claiming compensation for the failure on the part of the promoter/appellant herein to discharge the obligations. As such, this Court does not find any question of law involved with regard to questions no. (2) and (3).

28. As regards question no. 4 which is:

"Whether the allottee would be entitled to interest w.e.f. the date of enforcement of Act or from the proposed date of completion of project?"

no substantial argument has been raised by learned counsel for the appellant. Even otherwise the learned Authority as well as learned Tribunal has categorically indicated that the amount of interest which is to be paid would be from the date of deposit of the aforesaid amount. Thus the Court does not find any question of law involved with regard to question no. 4 also.

29. Considering the aforesaid, the Court does not find any merit in the appeal. Accordingly the appeal is dismissed.

1. Heard Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Dharm Raj Mishra, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, Sri Abhinav Narain Trivedi, learned Chief Standing counsel assisted by Sri Hemant Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the State-respondents, Sri Vijay Bahadur Verma, learned counsel appearing for the respondents no. 4 to 12 and Sri Pankaj Gupta, learned counsel appearing for the respondent no. 14.

2. Instant petition has been filed praying for the following main reliefs:-

(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the judgment and order dated 21.04.2022, contained in Annexure No. 1, passed by the Opposite Party No. 1, judgment and order dated 05.07.2018/31.08.2020, contained in Annexure No. 2, passed by the Opposite Party no. 2 and judgment and order dated 25.05.1988, contained in Annexure No. 3, passed by the Opposite Party No. 3 with all consequential benefits.

(ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the Opposite Parties to restrain the private respondents from creating any third party right or changing the nature of land in dispute without reference to the judgments and orders, contained in Annexure Nos. 1 to 3 impugned in the petition, with all consequential benefits and allow the relief claimed in the suit in favour of the petitioner.

3. The case set forth by the petitioner is that a suit under Section 229-B of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Reforms Act, 1950 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1950") was filed by the father of the petitioners no. 1 & 2 and father-in-law of the petitioner no. 3. The said suit was dismissed vide order dated 25.05.1988. Being aggrieved, the petitioners filed a first appeal under the provisions of Section 331 (3) of the Act, 1950 which was dismissed vide order dated 05.07.2018 as corrected on 31.08.2020. Still being aggrieved, the petitioners filed a Revision No. 119 of 2021 under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 which has been dismissed vide impugned order dated 21.04.2022, a copy of which is annexure 1 to the writ petition and hence the writ petition.

4. A preliminary objection was raised by Sri Hemant Kumar Pandey, learned Standing counsel as well as Sri Vijay Bahadur Verma, learned counsel appearing for the respondents no. 4 to 12 that taking into consideration the specific provision of Section 331 (4) of the Act, 1950, the petitioners ought to have filed a second appeal and the revision itself was not maintainable under Section 333 of the Act, 1950. The same was opposed by the learned Senior Advocate by contending that there is no specific bar under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 per which the revision would not be maintainable.

5. Considering the same, this Court vide order dated 05.07.2022 had passed an order framing a question which for the sake of convenience is reproduced below:-

"Supplementary affidavit filed today be kept on record.

Heard Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mohd. Aslam and Sri Dharam Raj Mishra, learned counsel appearing for the petitioners, Sri Hemant Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the State, Sri Pankaj Gupta, learned counsel appearing for the Gaon Sabha and Sri Vijay Bahadur Verma, Advocate who files his Vakalatnama on behalf of respondents no. 5 to 12.

The question which needs to be gone into at the first instance is as to whether after dismissal of the appeal by the Commissioner vide order dated 05.07.2018/31.08.2020 which was filed by the petitioners under the provisions of Section 331 (3) of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1950"), the petitioner correctly filed a revision before the Board of Revenue under the provisions of Section 333 of the Act, 1950 or he should have filed a second appeal under the provisions of Act, 1950.

All the learned counsels would come prepared with this question tomorrow i.e 06.07.2022.

Put up this case tomorrow i.e 06.07.2022 for further hearing at 0215 P.M.

Till tomorrow, status quo as of today shall be maintained by all the parties pertaining to land in dispute."

6. All the learned counsels have been heard on the question as to whether the revision filed by the petitioners was correctly filed under the provisions of Section 333 of the Act, 1950 or whether the petitioners ought to have filed a second appeal under the provisions of Section 331 (4) of the Act, 1950.

7. Learned Senior Advocate while supporting the filing of the revision petition by the petitioners under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 argues that (a) it is the choice of the petitioners regarding the forum i.e to file a second appeal under the provisions of Section 331 (4) of the Act, 1950 or to file a revision under Section 333 of the Act, 1950. He contends that as both the forums are available to the petitioners, consequently they chose to avail the remedy of revision under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 and as such, there is no infirmity in having chosen to file a revision & (b) bare reading of Section 333 of the Act, 1950 would indicate that there is no bar in filing of a revision even after the appeal has been decided inasmuch as and once the legislature in its wisdom has not used a word "Second Appeal" under Section 333 of the Act, 1950, as such the said provision cannot be read in a restrictive manner so as to restrain or restrict filing of the revision under the provisions of Section 333 of the Act, 1950 after having filed an appeal under Section 331 (3) of the Act, 1950.

8. In support of his arguments, learned Senior Advocate has placed reliance on a judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Lachman Das Vs. Santosh Singh reported in 1996 All Civil Journal 324. No other ground has been urged by the learned Senior Advocate.

9. On the other hand, Sri Vijay Bahadur Verma, learned counsel appearing for the respondents no. 4 to 12 has placed reliance on a judgment of this Court in the case of Mirza Kishwar Beg Vs. Board of Revenue and Ors reported in RD (1975) 373 to contend that this Court has categorically held that once an appeal has been filed then the revisional jurisdiction cannot be invoked either at the instance of a party or by the Board itself suo moto.

10. Elaborating the same, Sri Verma argues that Section 333 of the Act, 1950 itself stipulates that the power of revision can be invoked either where no appeal lies or where an appeal lies but has not been preferred meaning thereby that the power of revision under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 could only be invoked by the petitioners in case they had not filed an appeal under the provisions of Section 331 (3) of the Act, 1950 and once the petitioners had filed an appeal, they could not subsequent thereto be permitted to invoke the power of revision of the Board under Section 333 of the Act, 1950.

11. Sri Hemant Kumar Pandey, learned Standing counsel has adopted the arguments of Sri Vijay Bahadur Verma, Advocate and further argues that once the petitioners having themselves chosen to invoke Section 331 (3) of the Act, 1950 while challenging the order passed under Section 229-B of the Act, 1950, consequently in case of being aggrieved by the order passed in the first appeal dated 05.07.2018/31.08.2020, the only remedy available to them was to have filed the second appeal under the provisions of Section 331 (4) of the Act, 1950. He argues that keeping in view the provisions of Section 333 of the Act, 1950 and the petitioners having themselves filed a first appeal as such, the power of revision was not available to them and they could only have filed a second appeal.

12. Heard learned counsel appearing for the contesting parties and perused the records on the question which has been framed by this Court vide order dated 05.07.2022.

13. From a perusal of the records it is apparent that against the dismissal of the suit filed under Section 229-B of the Act, 1950, an appeal was filed under Section 331 (3) of the Act, 1950 which was dismissed vide order dated 05.07.2018 as corrected on 31.08.2020. The petitioners thereafter filed a revision under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 before the Board of Revenue which has been dismissed vide impugned order dated 21.04.2022 against which the instant petition has been filed.

14. The question is as to whether the petitioners had a remedy of filing of a revision under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 more particularly when their first appeal had already been dismissed and it was the petitioners who were aggrieved against the order of the dismissal of the first appeal.

15. For this purpose, the Court would have to consider the provisions of Section 331 read with Schedule II & Section 333 of the Act, 1950 which for the sake of convenience are reproduced below:-

"331. Cognizance of suits, etc. under this Act. - (1) Except as provided by or under this Act no court other than a court mentioned in Column 4 of Schedule II shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the Civil Procedure Code, 1908 (V of 1908), take cognizance of any suit, application, or proceedings mentioned in Column 3 thereof [,] [or of a suit, application or proceedings based on a cause of action in respect of which any relief could be obtained by means of any such suit or application :]

[Provided that where a declaration has been made under Section 143 in respect or any holding or part thereof, the provisions of Schedule II insofar as they relate to suits, applications or proceedings under Chapter VIII shall not apply to such holding or part thereof.]

[Explanation. - If the cause of action is one in respect of which relief may be granted by the revenue court, it is immaterial that the relief asked for from the civil court may not be identical to that which the revenue court would have granted.]

[(1-A) Notwithstanding anything in sub-section (i), an objection, that a court mentioned in Column 4 of Schedule II, or, as the case may be, a civil court, which had no jurisdiction with respect to the suit, application or, proceeding, exercised jurisdiction with respect thereto shall not be entertained by any appellate or revisional court unless the objection was taken in the court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity and in all cases where issues are settled, at or before such settlement, and unless there has been a consequent failure of justice.]

(2) Except as hereinafter provided no appeal shall lie from an order or [decree] passed under any of the proceedings mentioned in Column 3 of the Schedule aforesaid:

[(3) An appeal shall lie from any decree or from an order passed under Section 47 or an order of the nature mentioned in Section 104 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (V of 1908) or in Order 43, Rule 1 of the First Schedule to that Code passed by a court mentioned in Column No. 4 of Schedule II to this Act in proceedings mentioned in Column 3 thereof to the court or authority mentioned in Column No. 5 thereof.

(4) A second appeal shall lie on any of the grounds specified in Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (V of 1908) from the final order or decree, passed in an appeal under sub- section (3), to the authority, if any, mentioned against it in Column 6 of the Schedule aforesaid.]

333. Power to call for cases (1) The Board or the Commissioner or the Additional Commissioner may call for the record of any suit or proceeding [other than proceeding under sub-section (4-A) of Section 198] decided by any court subordinate to him in which no appeal lies or where an appeal lies but has not been preferred, for the purpose of satisfying himself as to the legality or propriety of any order passed in such suit or proceeding and if such subordinate court appears to have;*

(a) exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law; or

(b) failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested, or

(c) acted in the exercise of jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity;

the Board or the Commissioner or the Additional Commissioner, as the case may be, may pass such order in the case as he thinks fit.

(2) If an application under this section has been moved by any person either to the Board or to the Commissioner or to the Additional Commissioner, no further application by the same person shall be entertained by any other of them.]

(Section 331)

16. A perusal of Section 331 of the Act, 1950 would indicate that except as provided under the Act, 1950 no Court other than a Court mentioned in Column 4 of Schedule II shall take cognizance of any suit, application or proceedings mentioned in Column 3 thereof or of a suit, application or proceedings based on a cause of action in respect of which any relief could be obtained by means of any suit or application.

17. Sub Section (3) of Section 331 of the Act, 1950 provides that an appeal shall lie from any decree or from an order passed under Section 47 or an order of the nature mentioned in Section 104 of the Code of Civil Procedure or in Order 43, Rule 1 of the First Schedule to that Code passed by a Court mentioned in Column 4 of Schedule II to the Act in proceedings mentioned in Column 3 thereof.

18. Sub Section (4) of Section 331 of the Act, 331 provides that a second appeal shall lie on any of the grounds mentioned in Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 from the final order or decree passed in an appeal under Sub Section (3) to the authority, if any, mentioned against it in Column 6 of the Schedule.

19. Schedule II, so far as it pertains to Section 331 of the Act, 1950 specifically provides at Serial No. 34 that under Section 229, 229-B and 229-C i.e suit for declaration of rights, the Court of original jurisdiction would be Assistant Collector Ist Class while a first appeal would lie to the Commissioner and a second appeal shall lie to the Board of Revenue. Thus, when Section 331 (4) is read along with Schedule II it is apparent that a second appeal against an order passed in first appeal shall lie to the Board of Revenue.

20. Section 333 of the Act, 1950, so far as it is relevant for the facts of the instant case, provides that the Board may call for the record of any suit or proceedings decided by any Court subordinate to him in which no appeal lies or where an appeal lies but has not been preferred. Thus, it is apparent that a revision under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 would be available only in those cases either in which no appeal lies or though an appeal lies but had not been preferred.

21. In the instant case, it is admitted that an appeal against the order passed under Section 229-B of the Act, 1950 was filed by the petitioners under Section 331 (3) of the Act, 1950 and thereafter they have filed a revision under Section 333 of the Act, 1950. However, keeping in view the specific provisions of Section 331 (4) of the Act, 1950 which uses the word "shall", it was mandatory for the petitioners, if aggrieved against the order passed under Section 331 (3) of the Act, 1950, to have filed a second appeal. It is settled proposition of law that an appeal is creation of statue. Once the statue, in its wisdom has specifically mandated under Section 331 (4) of the Act, 1950 for filing of second appeal by use of the word "shall", as such, in case the petitioners were aggrieved against the order passed under Section 331 (3) of the Act, 1950 they could only have filed a second appeal and no revision under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 was maintainable. This would also be clear from the words used in Section 333 of the Act, 1950 wherein it has been provided that the Board may call for the records of any suit or proceedings decided by any Court subordinate in which either no appeal lies or where an appeal lies but has not been preferred. Thus, the revision under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 can only be filed either where the petitioners had no remedy of filing an appeal (which is not the case) or where they had not filed the appeal which is also not the case inasmuch as the petitioner admittedly filed an appeal under Section 331 (3) of the Act, 1950. Thus, the revision under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 was clearly not maintainable and was wrongly preferred by the petitioners.

22. The arguments of learned Senior Advocate that as Section 333 of the Act, 1950 does not quantify or define "Appeal" as first appeal or and second appeal, as such he would be empowered to file a revision under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 as per litigants choice of choosing the forum, is clearly misconceived inasmuch as there cannot be two forums open to a litigant at his choice to either file a second appeal or a revision for in case the said argument of the learned Senior Advocate is accepted then Section 333 of the Act, 1950 would be treated as an alternative forum to Section 331 (4) of the Act, 1950, which would be absolutely a wrong interpretion of law. The reason is that the statutory scope and purpose of Section 333 is to be availed only in those situations or legal circumstances where against an order or judgment rendered by the subordinate Court either no appeal lies or where an appeal lies but it has not been preferred. However, those cases in which the statute provides the forum of second appeal, the power of revision can never be treated to be synonymous to power of appeal as it would defeat the very purpose of creation of the different forum.

23. The matter can also be looked from another perspective inasmuch as obviously the intention of legislature cannot be to make two forums available to a litigant and that too, at his own choice and thus merely because Section 333 of the Act, 1950 has only used the word "Appeal" and not second appeal, the same has to be reasonably interpreted to mean that where an appeal has been preferred under Section 331 (3) of the Act, 1950, the forum of filing of a revision under Section 333 of the Act, 1950 would not be available.

24. In this regard, the Court may refer to a judgment of this Court in the case of Mirza Kishwar Beg (supra) wherein this aspect of the matter has been considered and it was categorically held that once an appeal has been preferred then in such a case the revisional power could not be invoked by the Board either at the instance of a party or by the Board itself suo moto.

25. This aspect of the matter has also been considered by Uttrakhand High Court in the case of Prema Devi Vs. Mathura Dutt Pandey reported in AIROnline 2019 Utr 564 wherein the Court has held as under:-

6. The learned counsel for the petitioners submits that being aggrieved against the Appellate Court's order passed in an statutory appeal, no revision will lie under the Act, because once a special statute provides a Forum of Second Appeal under Section 331(4) to be read under II Schedule of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950, in that eventuality, the person, who is aggrieved by the First Appellate Court's order, is bound to invoke the Forum, which has been statutorily created of preferring a Second Appeal under sub Section (4) of Section 333 of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950, which has to be decided in the light of the provisions contained under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which has been made applicable over the second appellate proceedings under the Act, by reference. Even otherwise, this Court is of the view that once the statutory appeal has been decided, any judgement rendered by the appellate Court would not be revisable as appellate judgements are not revisable.

7. While on the other hand, the argument which has been extended by the learned counsel for the plaintiffs/respondents is that the provisions contained under Section 333 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, though it apparently seems to be a revisional power given under the Act, which has been vested with the Board or the Commissioner, as the case may be, hence, it would be amounting to exercise the same powers as contemplated under Section 331(4) of the Act could be treated as to be para materia provision and a forum to challenge the First Appellate Court's order. This Court is not in agreement with the argument as extended by the learned counsel for the plaintiffs/respondents the reason being that if his argument as extended is accepted then the provisions contained under Section 333 as to be treated as an alternative Forum to Section 331(4), it would be absolutely a wrong interpretation of law for the reason being that the statutory scope and purpose of Section 333, is to be availed in those situations or legal circumstances where any order or a judgement rendered by any subordinate Court could be subject to revision at the behest of the party aggrieved or even the revisional Court can suo moto take its call and initiate the proceedings of a revision. But in these cases where the Statute is providing a forum of second appeal, the powers of revision can never be treated to synonyms to powers of appeal, as it would defeat the very purpose of creation of the different forum.

8. But, if we compare the powers conferred to the second appellate Court under Section 331(4) of the Act, it does not provide that the Second Appellate Court can ever suo moto exercise the powers and take cognizance of an order passed under Section 331(1) of the Act until and unless the aggrieved party files a second appeal, like that provided in Revisional Power under Section 333.

9. Secondly, if the scope of revisional power, which is vested under Section 333 of the Act, would be confined in its application within the scope as provided therein the 3 clauses of the provisions under Section 333 of the Act, which is para materia to the provisions contained under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure. It happens to be absolutely distinct to the appellate power where the provision of Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure has been made applicable by reference, under Section 331(4)

10. If the argument as extended by the counsel for the plaintiffs/respondents is accepted, it will run contrary to the intention of the legislation itself the reason being that if Section 333 is to be read as a substitute or a synonymous to the provisions contained under Section 331(4) of the Act, it would rather limit the jurisdiction of interference by the Revisional Court as against the First Appellate Court's order within the scope of its interference provided under Section 3 clauses contained therein under Section 333, whereas on the other hand, the provisions contained under Section 331(4) is wide enough to enable the parties to place there case both on facts and law and thus the argument, which has been extended by the learned counsel for the plaintiffs/respondents is not accepted.

11. There is another logic as to why the argument of the learned counsel for the revisionist to treat the proceedings under Section 333 as to be the proceedings of the same parlance as that provided under Section 331(4) is not acceptable from the viewpoint that if this logic is accepted, then there was no need for the legislature to provide for a specific Forum for redressal of the grievance by a party, who is aggrieved by a First Appellate Court's judgement by preferring a second appeal that too within the ambit of Section 100 of the C.P.C. Hence, there was no necessity for the legislature to contemplate different provisions under the Act itself for redressal of the grievance as against the First Appellate Court's order because if the argument as extended is accepted then it will have an adverse effect as it would be leaving the forum to be chosen by the choice of the party, which is aggrieved by first appellate Court's order, selection of a forum cannot be made available by choice of a litigant to invoke a forum which suits to his convenience which is not the intention of the legislature.

26. As regards the judgment cited by learned Senior Advocate in the case of Lachman Das (supra) the same pertains to the distinction between appeal and revision. There cannot be any quarrel to the settled proposition of law inasmuch the scope of appeal and revision are clearly different. As such, the said judgment would have no applicability in the facts of the instant case.

27. Keeping in view the aforesaid discussion as well as the judgment of this Court in the case of Mirza Kishwar Beg (supra) and the judgment of Uttrakhand High Court in the case of Prema Devi (supra) the Court holds that the revision which was filed by the petitioners was wrongly filed and the Board patently erred in entertaining the same.

28. Considering the aforesaid, the writ petition is partly allowed. The impugned order dated 21.04.2022 passed by the Board of Revenue, a copy of which is annexure 1 to the writ petition is set aside. It is provided that it would be open for the petitioners to file a second appeal within a period of two weeks from today.

29. Sri Vijay Bahadur Verma, learned counsel appearing for the respondents no. 4 to 12 fairly submits that in case the appeal is filed within the aforesaid time then he would not be raising the plea of limitation before the Board of Revenue. It is thus provided that in case the second appeal is filed within the aforesaid time period then the Board of Revenue shall proceed to decide the same on merits.

30. It would be open for the petitioners to file an application for stay which will be considered by the Board of Revenue expeditiously.

31. The Court records the valuable assistance given by Sri Abhinav Narain Trivedi, learned Chief Standing counsel and Ms. Vaishnavi Bansal, Law Clerk Trainee of this Court.

Somaroo had died during pendency of the objection before Consolidation Officer. A compromise was entered into in the aforementioned Case No.1698 between petitioner and respondent no.7 (natural father and guardian of respondent no.6) by compromise deed dated 25.11.1999, which was verified by their counsel. Accordingly, Consolidation Officer by order dated 4.4.2001 allowed the objection on the basis of compromise after condoning the delay in filing the objection by separate order and ordered to record the name of petitioner's father Basedeo over Plot Nos.73/2 and 411/2. Notification under Section 52 of U.P.C.H. Act took place on 16.9.2006 in the village in question. Respondent no.6, Panna Lal filed an application before Consolidation Officer on 18.8.2017 against the order dated 4.4.2001 passed by Consolidation Officer stating that he (Panna Lal) was minor during the period of consolidation and came to know about the order dated 4.4.2001 on 6.8.2017 when the interference was made with possession of the petitioner. The basis of claim of respondent no.6 is registered adoption deed alleged to be executed on 20.11.1998 by Somaroo in favour of respondent no.6 (Panna Lal). Petitioner filed an objection to the restoration application and delay condonation application filed by respondent no.6. Consolidation Officer by order dated 4.7.2009 allowed the restoration application giving benefit of Section 5 of Limitation Act and set aside the earlier order dated 4.4.2001 fixing a date 18.7.2019 for further proceedings. Against the order dated 4.7.2019 petitioner filed an appeal under Section 11 of the U.P.C.H. Act before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation which was dismissed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation vide order dated 27.12.2019. The revision under Section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act filed by the petitioner against the order of the Consolidation Officer as well as the Settlement Officer of Consolidation was dismissed by the impugned order dated 9.5.2022, hence this writ petition.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that objection under Section 9A-2 of the U.P.C.H. Act filed by the parties were decided on the basis of compromise. The result of which, petitioner's father was ordered to be recorded expunging the name of Somaroo but respondent no.6 on the basis of manipulated gift deed, has setup his claim through belated restoration application after 16 years and the Consolidation Officer without giving cogent reason has allowed the restoration application. He further submitted that application for recall filed by respondent no.6 on 18.8.2017 was not maintainable as notification under Section 52 of the U.P.C.H. Act had already taken place on 16.9.2006. He placed reliance upon 1989 R.D. Page 281, Hari Ram Vs. D.D.C. Azamgarh on the point of Section 52 of the U.P.C.H. Act. He next submitted that even no condition has been imposed for allowing the restoration application which was belated by 16 years. He also submitted that the petitioner is in possession of the disputed plots and respondents have initiated the proceeding by way of restoration/recall in order to harass the petitioner, hence writ petition be allowed and the impugned orders are liable to be set aside.

5. On the other hand, learned counsel for respondent no.6 and 7 submitted that fraud has taken place before the Consolidation Officer in obtaining the order on the basis of compromise. He further submitted that respondent no.6 was minor at the time when the proceeding were pending and compromise has taken place, as such, the order passed on the basis of compromise was rightly set aside by the Consolidation Officer while allowing the restoration application. He next submitted that appeal and revision etc. can be filed against the order of consolidation authorities even after notification under Section 52 of U.P.C.H. Act. He placed reliance upon 2015 (127) R.D. 702 Sharda Prasad Tiwari Vs. State of U.P. and Others. He also submitted that the case has been restored on its original number by the Consolidation Officer so petitioner can take whatever objection he want before the Consolidation Officer, hence he prays for dismissal of the writ petition.

6. I have considered the submissions advanced on behalf of the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record. There is no dispute about the fact that objection under Section 9A (2) of the U.P.C.H. Act has been decided on the basis of compromise by which the name recorded tenure holder was expunged from whom respondent no.6 is claiming right, accordingly, restoration application filed by respondent no.6 was allowed by the Consolidation Officer for deciding the case on merit but no condition has been imposed upon respondent no.6 for filing the application with inordinate delay.

7. In Smt. Thaker Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation And Others 1975 R.D. 271, it has been held that the High Court should not interfere under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, in exercise of discretion in condoning the delay by consolidation authorities. In Ram Chand and Another Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and Others, 1984 R.D. 258, it has been held that order of condonation of delay raises no question of jurisdiction so as to call for interference by the Court in exercise of powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

8. On the point of Section 52 of the U.P.C.H. Act, Para No.11 in the case of Sharda Prasad Tiwari (supra) will be relevant which is as follows:

"11. The other argument that the consolidation operation was closed in the village by notification under Section 52 of the Act, on 30.4.1990 and the appeal was filed on 13.4.2002, as such, it was not maintainable has also no force. Section 6 of the General Clauses Act authorizes for filing of the appeal after repeal of the Act. Supreme Court in Gurucharan Singh Baldev Singh Vs. Yashwant Singh (1992) 1 SCC 428 and Glaxo Smith Kline PLC Vs. Controller of Patents and Designs AIR 2009 SC 1147 held that pre-existing right of appeal under the old law continues to exist and not destroyed by necessary implications after repeal of the law, in the absence of contrary intention in the repealing law. Division Benches of this Court in Gopi Singh Vs. D.D.C. and Others 1967 R.D. 214, Ram Bahadur Vs. D.D.C. and Others 1974 R.D. 627, and in Siddh Narain Vs. D.D.C. and Others 2007 (103) R.D. 627 have held that appeal and revision etc. can be filed against the orders passed by consolidation authorities even after the notification under Section 52 of the Act."

9. Considering the entire facts and circumstances as well as the ratio of law laid down by the Court on the point in issue no interference is required against the impugned orders except that since no condition has been imposed by the Consolidation Officer while allowing the restoration application of respondent no.6, as such, the impugned orders are modified to the extent that respondent no.6 will pay cost for allowing the restoration application to the sum of Rs.10,000/- to the petitioner on the date fixed before the Consolidation Officer.

10. The writ petition is finally disposed of with the following directions:

(i) The parties will appear before the Consolidation Officer on 22nd August, 2022.

(ii) The respondent no. 6 will pay cost of Rs. 10,000/- to the petitioner on the date fixed i.e. 22.8.2022 before the Consolidation Officer and the Consolidation Officer shall mention the same in the order sheet.

11. Since, the case is very old, as such, the Consolidation Officer is directed to decide the case expeditiously preferably within a period of six months after affording opportunity of hearing to the parties from the date of production of certified copy of this order before him.

A. Civil Law – Registration Act, 1908 – Sections 34 & 35(1)(c) – Registration of document – Non-appearance of the executor or representatives before the registering officer within four months after presentation of document for registration – Wife of executor did not admit the execution of deed – Effect – Application for registration was rejected – Validity challenged – Held, the representative of the executor i.e. her wife has not admitted the execution of the deed, hence the provision of Section 35(1)(c) of the Act is not applicable in this case – Further held, a document cannot be registered in absence of executor before the Registering Authority or his authorized representative, assignee or any other person as permissible under the Act, admitting the execution of the document. (Para 9 and 11)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

1. In compliance of order of this Court dated 13.04.2022, the affidavit of service has been filed by the learned counsel for the petitioner enclosing therewith the notices published in two newspapers i.e. Amar Ujala and Times of India as well as the notice pasted on the door of the Respondent No. 4. Despite the notice published in the new papers, no one has put in appearance on behalf of the Respondent no. 4.

2. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

3. The present petition has been preferred for quashing of the appellate order dated 15.12.2021 passed by Additional District Magistrate (F&R), Sultanpur and the order dated 12.11.2018 passed by Sub-Registrar, Tehsil- Sadar, District - Sultanpur refusing to register the document namely the sale deed said to be executed in favour of the petitioner.

4. The brief facts of the case as per the petitioner are that on 11.07.2018 the instrument was presented in the office of Sub-Registrar for the purpose of registration of the sale deed executed by one Tufail Ahmad - Respondent No.4 in favour of the petitioner. After the enquiry as provided under Section 34 of the Registration Act, 1908, when the document was to be registered, Tufail Ahmad went away from the office of the Sub-Registrar. The Sub-Registrar vide its order dated 12.11.2018 had rejected the application for registration of the instrument as time barred with the finding that despite notice/ summon to the Tufail Ahmad, he had not appeared. Against the said order, the petitioner preferred an appeal before the Additional District Magistrate (F&R), District Sultanpur and in the appeal vide order dated 15.12.2021 an order has been passed staying the proceedings of Appeal and file was consigned to record, feeling aggrieved by these orders, the present writ petition has been filed.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the registering authority has wrongly refused to register the instrument as the same was presented by executor and the signature had been made on the same in the office of Sub Registrar. It is further submitted that after the signature made and accepting the consideration amount, the presence of the seller is not required for the purpose of registration of the documents as the formalities had already been completed. It is further submitted that the authorities had not registered the instrument till the period of limitation and after that rejected the same as time barred. It is further submitted that the authorities are bound to register the document as per section 35(1)(c) of the Registration Act, 1908. It is further submitted that the appellate authority had passed the order without application of mind and, hence it is liable to be quashed.

6. On the other hand, learned State counsel has submitted that there is no illegality in the orders impugned as passed by the Respondent No.2 and 3 respectively.

7. After hearing learned counsel for the parties and going through the record and the provisions of Registration Act, 1908, where it has been provided that no document shall be registered under this Act, unless the persons executing such document, or their representatives, assigns or agents authorized as aforesaid, appear before the registering officer within the time allowed for presentation.

8. The reliance placed by learned counsel for the petitioner that his case is squarely covered under Section 35(1)(c) of the Registration Act, 1908 and hence the Sub-Registrar is under obligation to register the instrument. For convenience Section 35(1)(c) is quoted hereinbelow:

"if the person executing the document is dead, and his representative or assign appears before the registering officer and admits the execution, the registering officer shall register the document as directed in sections 58 to 61 inclusive."

9. In the present case, it is still not confirmed that Respondent No.4 is dead or alive, and his representative i.e. wife appeared and moved an application for recall of an earlier order where she has stated that her husband has been kidnapped and an F.I.R. has been lodged after the order passed by the Court. It is further stated that she is not aware that her husband is dead or alive. The representative of Respondent No.4 i.e. her wife has not admitted the execution of the deed, hence the provision of Section 35(1) (c) of the Act is not applicable in this case.

10. Section 34 of the Registration Act, 1908, provides that the presence of the person, who has to execute the sale deed, his representative or his agent is necessary within four months from the date of presenting the documents for the purpose of registration For convenience, Section 34 of the Act is quoted hereinbelow;

"34. Enquiry before registration by registering officer.?(l) Subject to the provisions contained in this Part and in sections 41, 43, 45, 69, 75, 77, 88 and 89, no document shall be registered under this Act, unless the persons executing such document, or their representatives, assigns or agents authorized as aforesaid, appear before the registering officer within the time allowed for presentation under sections 23, 24, 25 and 26: Provided that, if owing to urgent necessity or unavoidable accident all such persons do not so appear, the Registrar, in cases where the delay in appearing does not exceed four months, may direct that on payment of a fine not exceeding ten times the amount of the proper registration fee, in addition to the fine, if any, payable under section 25, the document may be registered.

(2) Appearances under sub-section (1) may be simultaneous or at different times.

(3) The registering officer shall thereupon?

(a) enquire whether or not such document was executed by the persons by whom it purports to have been executed;

(b) satisfy himself as to the identity of the persons appearing before him and alleging that they have executed the document; and

(c) in the case of any person appearing as a representative, assign or agent, satisfy himself of the right of such person so to appear.

(4) Any application for a direction under the proviso to sub-section (1) may be lodged with a Sub-Registrar, who shall forthwith forward it to the Registrar to whom he is subordinate.

(5) Nothing in this section applies to copies of decrees or orders."

11. It is an undisputed fact in the present case that the orders passed by the Sub Registrar is after the expiry of four months after presentation of document for registration and that the Respondent No. 4 had not appeared despite summons/notices, hence, there is no illegality in the order passed by the Sub-Registrar. A document cannot be registered in absence of executor before the Registering Authority or his authorized representative, assignee or any other person as permissible under the Act, admitting the execution of the document.

12. The appellate authority has rightly passed the order consigning the appeal to the record.

13. The appellate authority neither rejected the appeal nor closed the rights of the petitioner. Later on in case the executor is traced and may appear before the Sub-Registrar or if any of its respondent in case he is found to be dead, the petitioner may still move any appropriate application for registration of the instrument, if and as it may permissible under the law.

14. As discussion made hereinabove, there is no illegality in the orders impugned, hence the petition is devoid of merit and is accordingly dismissed.

XIV R. 1 an R. 2 – Issue of law, how long need to be decided first – The issue of law as mentioned in the application of the petitioner did not contain issues relating to the jurisdiction of the Court or a bar to the suit created by any law for the time being in force – Held, the contentions raised to direct the prescribed authority to decide the issue of law first is not tenable in law. (Para 13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Shri A.Z. Siddiqui, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel and Shri Vikrant Prakash, learned counsel for the respondent no. 2.

2. Present petition has been preferred to quash the impugned orders dated 04.07.2022 and 12.01.2022. It has further been sought to direct the Election Tribunal to first decide the preliminary issue before the further proceedings in the Election Petition and direct the Prescribed Authority to get the aforesaid original ballot paper be investigated by the Police after registering the FIR at the concerned Police Station.

3. The brief facts of the present case as per the petitioner are that the petitioner was declared elected as Gram Pradhan of Village Atwa, Kshetra Panchayat Kothwan, Tehsil Sandila, District Hardoi by the Election authorities on 03.05.2021. Later, some persons who were not elected had preferred an application under Section 12 C of the Uttar Pradesh Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 (henceforth be referred as, the Act, 1947) challenging the election of the petitioner. In the said proceedings, the notice was issued to the petitioner and in reply thereto, a written statement was submitted denying the facts narrated in the application preferred under Section 12 C of the Act, 1947.

4. The petitioner had moved applications for framing of issues in pursuance of which issues were framed pertaining questions of facts and law both.

5. The application of the petitioner to decide the issues of law first, as per Order XIV Rule 1 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908 (hereinafter for the sake of brevity referred as, the Code, 1908), was rejected by the prescribed authority vide its order dated 04.07.2022 and feeling aggrieved by the same, the present writ petition has been preferred.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied on Order XIV Rule 1 (4) which provides that issues are of two kinds, which are mentioned as follows:-

(a) issue of fact,
(b) issues of law.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further relied on Order XIV Rule 2 (2) of the Code, 1908 where the Court has been mandated to decide the issue of law first.

8. On the other hand, learned Standing Counsel has submitted that the proceedings pending before the prescribed authority is covered by the provisions of Uttar Pradesh Panchayat Raj (Settlement of Election Disputes) Rules, 1994 (hereinafter referred to as, the Rule, 1994) framed under Section 110, read with Section 12 C and Section 12 D of the United Provinces Panchayat Raj Act, 1947. It is further submitted that as per Section 12 C (5), proceedings before the prescribed authority under Section 12 C of the Act, 1947 was for questioning the election and are summary in nature and thus, the submissions raised for deciding the issues of law first, is not acceptable as per Order XIV 2 (2) of Code, 1908.

9. It is further submitted that evidence is going on and the petitioner is trying to linger the proceedings by moving applications time and again.

10. Shri Vikrant Prakash, learned counsel appearing for the respondent no. 2 has submitted that the petitioner is moving several applications time and again just to linger the proceedings. It is further submitted that earlier also, a petition bearing Writ C No. 2665 of 2022 was preferred by the wife of the petitioner, who had also contested the election and got only 10 votes, which was disposed of by this Court vide its order dated 11.05.2022 giving liberty to the petitioner of that petition to submit her reply/objection in the suit.

11. After hearing learned counsel for the parties and going through the records, the position which emerges out is that the submissions raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner that prescribed authority has to decide the issues of law first is not tenable. As per the petitioner, the issue of law is as under as pointed out from the annexure no. 7 to the present petition:-

"क्या प्रस्तुतु याचिका में आदेश 6 नियम 15 (4) व्यवहार प्रकृति संहिता का अनुपालन नहीं किया गया है, याद है तो प्रभाव?

12. Order XIV 2 (2) provides that if the issues of law as well as fact arise in a suit only the issues of law relates to the jurisdiction of the Court, or a bar to the suit created by any law for the time being in force is to be decided first. For convenience, the Order XIV 2 (2) of the Code, 1908 is quoted hereinbelow:-

(2) Where issues both of law and of fact arise in the same suit, and the Court is of opinion that the case or any part thereof may be disposed of on an issue of law only, it may try that issue first if that issue relates to-

(a) the jurisdiction of the Court, or

(b) a bar to the suit created by any law for the time being in force, and for that purpose may, if it thinks fit, postpone the settlement of the other issues until after that issue has been determined, and may deal with the suit in accordance with the decision on that issue.

13. Undisputedly, the petitioner has failed to show the issue of law as framed on the application of the petitioner (annexed at annexure no. 7 to the present petition) is covered by any of the conditions contained in Order XIV Rule 2 (2). The issue of law framed on Order VI Rule 15 (4), the Order VI deals with pleadings generally and Rule 15 (4) of Order VI is with regard to the person verifying the pleadings shall also furnish an affidavit in respect of pleadings. The issue of law as mentioned in the application of the petitioner did not contain issues relating to the jurisdiction of the Court or a bar to the suit created by any law for the time being in force and hence, the contentions raised to direct the prescribed authority to decide the issue of law first is not tenable in law.

14. The proceedings, as per Section 12 C (5) are summary in nature and the evidence is going on.

15. For the facts and circumstances mentioned hereinabove, this court does not find any good reason to interfere with the proceedings which are going on before the prescribed authority.

16. Petition is devoid of merit and is dismissed, accordingly.

(Para 17 and 18)

Writ petition disposed off. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Bhatia, J.)

1. Heard learned Counsel for the petitioner and learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel.

2. The present writ petition has been filed challenging the order dated 24.02.2016 whereby 06 country liquor and 02 Indian Made Foreign Liquor (IMFL) licenses of the petitioner were cancelled and the security as well as the licence fee was forfeited in exercise of powers under Section 34 of The United Provinces Excise Act, 1910 as well as the appellate order dated 22.03.2016 whereby the appeal preferred by the appellant was dismissed and the order dated 17.02.2017 whereby the revision preferred by the petitioner before the State Government was rejected.

3. The facts in brief leading to the filing of the present writ petition are that the petitioner was granted six licences of country liquor shop in District Amethi in exercise of the powers conferred under the Uttar Pradesh Excise (Settlement of Licenses for Retail Sale of Country Liquor) Rules, 2002 (in short 'the Rules 2002') and was also granted two licences for selling foreign liquor in District Amethi in terms of the provisions of Uttar Pradesh Excise [Settlement of Licenses for Retail Sale of Foreign Liquor (Excluding Beer and Wine Rules)] Rules, 2001 (in short 'the Rules 2001'). On 28.01.2016, an FIR came to be lodged in Case Crime No.103 of 2016, under Section 60 of the Excise Act read with Sections 419 and 420 IPC at Police Station Musafirkhana, District Amethi against one Guddu Singh and Babblu Singh. The said two accused took the name of the petitioner and in pursuant to the said statement, the petitioner was arrested under the said FIR. The allegations as contained in the FIR referred to violation of Section 60 of the Excise Act read with Sections 419 and 420 IPC and it was also stated that unauthorized liquor was found in a rice mill owned by the petitioner.

4. Subsequently, the proceedings were initiated for suspending the licences (six in number) in exercise of the powers conferred under the Rules 2002 and the Rules, 2001. A notice was served to the petitioner on 04.02.2016 referring to the FIR and alleging therein that there appeared to be a violation of Section 34 of the Excise Act and the Rules of 2002. The petitioner put in appearance and denied the allegations levelled against him, however, orders were passed suspending the six licences granted to the petitioner in respect of the six shops vide order dated 21.02.2016. Thereafter on 22.02.2016, the petitioner was called upon for personal hearing in terms of Rule 21(2) of the 2002 Rules. The petitioner filed a reply denying his involvement with the offence in question, he also filed his written submissions, however, an order dated 24.02.2016 was passed cancelling the six licences and through the same order, the basic license fee, the license fee and the security deposit were forfeited in favour of the State Government. Aggrieved against the said order cancelling the license, the petitioner preferred an appeal before the Excise Commissioner, which came to be dismissed on 22.03.2016.

5. Subsequent to the dismissal of the appeal, a final report was filed in favour of the petitioner in the Case Crime No.103 of 2016 wherein nothing incriminating was found against the petitioner and only the other two accused were charge-sheeted. It is also relevant that challenging the appellate order, the petitioner has preferred a revision before the State Government and during the pendency of the revision, the petitioner by means of an affidavit brought the subsequent development as took place in Case Crime No.103 of 2016 before the Revisional Authority and pleaded that as the sole ground for cancellation of the licenses and the action of forfeiture of security and licence fee was based upon the lodging of the FIR, in which ultimately a final report was filed in favour of the petitioner, the revision deserves to be allowed. The Revisional Authority, by the impugned order proceeded to dismiss the revision. On perusal of the said order, there appears to be no discussion with regard to the subsequent development that happened in Case Crime No.103 of 2016.

6. In the above referred three orders, which are under challenge, the main submission of the Counsel for the petitioner is that the entire action initiated and concluded by means of the above three orders, which are impugned herein, there is a serious error committed by the authority concerned in not following the mandate of law. He draws my attention to the Rules 2002 as well as the Rules 2001 which governs the grant of licenses in respect of country liquor and foreign liquor respectively. He also argues that even the time limit prescribed under the rules for filing replies was not adhered to.

7. Rule 21 of the Rules 2002 provides for the manner in which steps can be taken for suspension and cancellation of the license as well as provides for penalty. Rule 21 reads as under:

"21. Suspension and cancellation of the licence and penalties - (1) Licensing Authority may suspend or cancel the license -

(a) if any bottle or container of country liquor is found in the licensed premises on which duty has not been paid and which does not carry security hologram duly approved by the Excise Commissioner as a proof of payment of duty;

*(b) if any bottle or container of any other kind of liquor or intoxicating drug (for which licence is not granted) is found in the licensed premises;

(c) if any liquor or intoxicating drug is found in the possession of the licensee against the provisions of the Act or rules;

(d) if the affidavit submitted by the licensee at the time of application is found incorrect and assertions made therein are found to be false;

(e) if it is found that the licence has been obtained in a false name or the licensee is holding the licence on behalf of some other person.

(f) if the licensee fails to deposit monthly instalment of licence fee or replenish the deficit in security amount within prescribed period;

(g) if the licensee is convicted of an offence punishable under the Act or of any cognizable and nonbailable offence, or any offence punishable under Narcotics Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 or of any offence punishable under Sections 482 to 489 of the Indian Penal Code.

(2) The Licensing Authority shall immediately suspend the licence and issue a show cause notice for cancellation of licence and forfeiture of security. The licensee shall submit his explanation within 7 days of the receipt of notice. There after the Licensing Authority shall pass suitable orders after giving due opportunity of hearing to the licensee.

(3) In case the licence is cancelled the basic licence fee, licence fee deposited by him shall stand forfeited in favour of the Government and licensee shall not be entitled to claim any compensation or refund. Such licensee may also be blacklisted and debarred from holding any other exercise licence."

8. Similarly Rule 18 of the Rules 2001 provides for the manner of suspension and cancellation of the licence in respect of Foreign Liquor Shops, which is quoted hereinbelow:

"18. (1) Licensing authority may suspend or cancel the licnce. - (a) If any bottle is found in licensed premises on which duty has not been paid and which does not carry security hologram duly approved by the Excise Commissioner as a proof of payment of duty.

*(b) if any other kind of liquor or intoxicating drug (for which licence is not granted) is found in the licensed premises.

(c) if any liquor or intoxicating drug is found in the possession of the licensee against the provisions of the Act or rules;

(d) if the affidavit submitted by the licensee at the time of application is found incorrect and assertions made therein are found to be false.

(e) if the licensee is convicted of any offence punishable under the Act or of any cognizable and non-bailable offence, or any offence punishable under Narcotics Drugs And Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 or of any offence punishable under sections 482 to 489 of the Indian Penal Code,

(f) if any bottle/container is found in the licensed premises on which maximum retail price is not printed and

(g) if it is found that the licence has been obtained in a false name and the licensee is holding the licence on behalf of some other person.

(2) The licensing authority shall immediately suspend the licence and also serve a show cause notice for cancellation of licence and for forfeiture of security deposit, the licensee shall submit his explanation within 7 days of the receipt of notice. Thereafter the licensing authority shall pass suitable orders after giving due opportunity of hearing to the licensee, if he so desires.

(3) The licensee shall not be entitled to claim any compensation or refund for suspension or cancellation of licence under this rule.

(4) In case the licence is cancelled the licensee may also be blacklisted and debarred from holding any excise licence."

9. In the light of the mandate of said Rules, the Counsel for the petitioner argues that the steps for suspending and cancelling of the licence can take place only in the event of 'any other kind of liquor or intoxicating drugs are found in the "licensed premises"'. He argues that similar provisions exist in the Rules 2002 also, thus to exercise the power under the said Rules, it is incumbent that there should be an allegation and conclusion to the effect that any liquor or intoxicating drugs is found in the "licensed premises" or in "possession of the licensee". He submits that in the allegations contained in the FIR as well as in the notices issued to the petitioner, there is no averment to the effect that any liquor or intoxicating drugs was found in the "licensed premises" or in the "possession of the licensee" and without there being any finding to that effect, the powers could not have been exercised for suspension and cancellation of the license as has been done in the present case.

10. The Counsel for the petitioner further argues that in a similar case, where no liquor was found in the licensed premises and subsequently a final report had been filed in favour of the licensee, the appellate authority in exercise of appellate powers had quashed the cancellation order passed in respect of the said licensee vide order dated 22.03.2016 which is contained in Annexure-20 to the writ petition.

11. In the light of the aforesaid, the counsel for the petitioner argues that although the term of the licences have come to an end and the same cannot be renewed/ granted to the petitioner, the forfeiting of the basic licence fee, licence fee and the security, which was against the law, should be directed to be refunded to the petitioner.

12. Learned Standing Counsel, on the other hand, argues that the orders have been passed in exercise of powers under Section 60 read with Section 34 and Section 7 of The United Provinces Excise Act, as such, no fault can be found with the orders. He further argues that the offending liquor was found in the premises owned by the petitioner and thus no fault can be found in exercise of powers as has been done by means of the impugned order. He lastly prays that the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

13. Considering the submissions made at the bar, the first question to be determined is whether the condition existed for suspension and cancellation of the licence in terms of the powers conferred under the statutory enactment being The United Provinces Excise Act and the 2002 or the 2001 Rules.

14. It is common ground in between the parties that the Rules 2002 and 2001 as extracted above would be applicable to the grant of licence in respect of country liquor shop as well as the foreign liquor shop respectively.

15. The action as taken against the petitioner under the orders impugned herein was clearly an 'expropriatory action' and the provision in the Rules are also 'expropriatory'. It is well settled that expropriatory powers conferred on State through statutes are required to be interpreted strictly and the orders passed have to pass the 'strict scrutiny test'. On a plain reading of the provisions of the Rules 18 and 21 in the 2001 and 2002 Rules respectively, it is clear that the steps for suspension and cancellation of the licence can be taken only in the event that (i) any liquor is found in the licensed premises or (ii) it is found in the possession of the licensee. The other conditions specified in Rule 21 and Rule 18 need not detain this Court as the same do not arise in the present case. The words "licensed premises" has not been defined under the Act and the Rules referred above, however while granting of licence, the premises for which the licence has been granted is clearly delineated and specified in the licence itself and thus for the purposes of interpreting the word "licensed premises", reference has to be drawn to the premises referred to in the licence. Any infraction or possession of liquor or intoxicating drugs other than authorized in the 'licensed premises' would certainly empower the authority concerned to take action under Rules 18 or Rule 21 of the aforesaid Rules as the case may be. Similarly the possession of any liquor or intoxicating drugs other than the authorized in the possession of the licensee would also trigger the powers to be exercised under Rules 18 and 21 of the aforesaid Rules. In the absence of any allegation of any recovery from any place in the 'licensed premises' or in the 'possession of the licensee', the powers to suspend and cancel cannot be resorted to under the Act or the Rules referred above.

17. In the present case even the time limit of 07 days provided under Rule 18 and Rule 21 of the Rules was not adhered to for the reasons best known to the State.

18. The orders passed and impugned herein, thus were against the substantive provisions and also violated the procedural provisions.

19. In the present case, the allegations in the FIR were that the unauthorized liquor was found in a rice mill owned by the petitioner. Clearly the rice mill not being covered within the definition of "licensed premise" would not attract the rigor of Rules 18 and 21 of the aforesaid Rules. In any event subsequently even the said allegations of recovery of goods from the rice mill could not be substantiated and the police authority proceeded to file a final report in favour of the petitioner and which facts even demolishes the allegation in the FIR that any unauthorized liquor was found in possession of the licensee.

20. Thus for all the reasoning recorded above, the order passed against the petitioner are clearly unsustainable and are liable to be set aside.

21. Accordingly, the order dated 24.02.2016, the order dated 22.03.2016 and the order dated 17.02.2017 are set aside.

22. As no direction for renewal of the licences can be issued in view of the change in the policy of the State Government, the writ petition is disposed off with a direction to refund the proportionate basic license fee, the proportionate license fee and the security deposit as forfeited by means of the order dated 24.02.2016 within a period of two months from the date of the petitioner moving an appropriate application before the District Magistrate, District Amethi.

23. There shall be no order as to costs.

A. Civil Law - Societies Registration Act, 1860 – Section 4-B & 25(2) – Membership dispute – Electoral college – Earlier, the order of Assistant Registrar, Societies holding membership of 54 members genuine, was upheld by the High Court in writ petition and Special Appeal – Controversy of the same membership again raised – Exercise of power by Assistant Registrar u/s 4-B to change it, how long permissible – Remedy available discussed – While exercising power under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860, the Assistant Registrar, Societies cannot reopen the controversy to return a finding qua membership contrary to what has already been held by such an authority previously and affirmed by the High Court – Controversy with regard to the 54 members did not remain open to challenge any further except in proceedings to be drawn either under Section 25(1) of the Act, 1860 or through a common law remedy of instituting the suit. (Para 16 and 17)

B. Interpretation of Statute – de facto doctrine – Meaning and Scope – The doctrine of de facto is based on sound principle of public policy and is aimed at removing any kind of insecurity and confusion amongst the people whose rights would get prejudiced in the event the orders passed or actions taken by a person who in fact occupied the office, is held to be void on account of his occupation of office subsequently being held to be illegal. (Para 26)

Committee of management – Elected office bearer continuing in office and working – Challenge to the validity of the office, how far effect their proceeding and resolution – Application of de facto doctrine – Held, mere challenge to an office in absence of any order of interim stay or rider making continuance subject by express words, would not mean that such persons, board of Management or Committee illegally continued and so exercise of power would stand served by the de facto doctrine – Committee of Management that had validly continued until the elections were set aside, its conduct of proceeding including resolution adopted by it, shall stand saved by virtue of de facto doctrine. (Para 32 and 35)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Narendra Kumar Chaturvedi, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Amit Sexena, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Balwant Singh, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The petitioner, who claims to be a member of general body of the society is aggrieved against the order of the Assistant Registrar, Society dated 10th March, 2022, whereby he has rejected the objection of the present petitioner against the list of members of general body and finalized 251 members electoral college for the purposes to hold election of the Committee of Management of the society nominating District Inspector of Sanskrit Schools of Gorakhpur Division, Gorakhpur as an Election Officer.

3. It transpires from the record that earlier petitioner had approached this Court vide Writ - C No.- 29150 of 2019 against the order dated 1st July, 2015 passed under Section 25(2) of the Societies Registration Act, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1860') directing District Inspector of Schools, Gorakhpur to hold elections of the society.

4. The main argument advanced in the said case was that District Inspector of Schools wholly illegally further delegated the power to the associate District Inspector of Schools to conduct elections inasmuch as the elections that were held, were not in consonance with the scheme of the bye-laws.

5. The Contesting respondents in the said writ petition agreed for a fresh election to be held and, accordingly, direction was issued to the Assistant Registrar, Societies, Gorakhpur to ensure that fresh elections of the Committee of Management of the Societies were held under Section 25(2) of the Act, 1860 in accordance with bye-laws of the society. The operative portion of the order of this Court dated 18th September, 2019 is reproduced hereunder:-

"With consent of parties, the orders dated. 06.07.2019 passed by the Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Gorakhpur, the elections proceedings dated 11.06.2017 and 20.06.2019 are quashed and the matter is remitted to the Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Gorakhpur to execute the following directions:

1. The respondent no.2, Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Gorakhpur shall ensure that the fresh elections to the society are conducted under Section 25(2) of the Societies Registration Act as per the Bye-laws of the society.

2. The elections shall be conducted within a period of two months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

The writ petition is allowed to the extent indicated above."

6. It appears that after the aforesaid order was passed, the Deputy Registrar, Societies proceeded to issue notice dated 8th February, 2021 to both the petitioner and respondent No.- 2 to deposit requisite expenses to be incurred in holding elections. The list of general body members was forwarded by the respondent No.- 3 to the Assistant Registrar, Societies on 22nd January, 2021 for necessary approval and follow up action to hold election under Section 25(2) of the Act, 1860. This gave an opportunity this time to the petitioner to file his objections which he did file on 25th April, 2021 and claimed 108 members to be only the valid members and, therefore, prayed that rest of the members be held to be illegally enrolled. This is how the matter under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860 came to be adjudicated upon by the Assistant Registrar, Societies by the order impugned.

7. The main argument advanced herein this petition by learned Senior Advocate is that those members who had participated in the election held in the year 2004 should be taken to be only the valid members to form the electoral college because 52 members who were subsequently enrolled and were not the members in the year 2004 were wholly illegally inducted as members.

8. It is argued that the Committee of Management that was elected on 11th June, 2017 was ultimately held to be invalid and cancelled by this Court under its order dated 18th September, 2019, therefore, the list that was got registered for the year 2019-20 on 6th July, 2019 would be taken to be invalid and therefore, meeting convened by such Committee of Management on 28th July, 2019 would stand void. It is argued that depositing enrollment fee on 1st August, 2019 shows that the 86 members were got fraudulently enrolled.

9. It is in the above background, therefore, it is argued that Assistant Registrar, Societies was not justified in applying de facto doctrine in upholding memberships of 86 members on the ground that their membership fee was accepted as per the scheme of bye-laws prior as the election of the Committee of Management then in power having been quashed.

10. Per contra, it is argued by Sri Amit Saxena, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner that the petitioner could have grievance to the extent of his membership and he being not the Committee of Management, could not have set up grievance regarding others inasmuch as he argued that the order passed by the Assistant Registrar, Societies is a reasoned and speaking order in which he has dealt with various aspects of the matter of determination of the membership and is, therefore, fully justified in upholding the membership of 251 members submitted by the contesting respondents. He further submits that de facto doctrine has been correctly applied and thus prayed that the petition deserves to be dismissed.

11. Learned Standing Counsel would defend the order for the reasons assigned therein.

12. Rival submissions fall for consideration:-

13. The elections that were earlier held by the associate District Inspector of Schools dated 11th June, 2017 and so the consequential order dated 26th February, 2019 were basically questioned on the ground that the District Inspector of Schools could not have sub-delegated the power once he was directed by the Assistant Registrar, Societies to hold the elections and this is how the writ petition came to be allowed on 18th February, 2019 with a direction to the Assistant Registrar, Societies, Gorakhpur to conduct the elections as per the scheme of bye-laws under Section 25(2) of the Act, 1860. It, therefore, clearly transpires that insofar as the previous election is concerned there was no dispute of the membership, it only cropped up when a list of 251 members was forwarded by the contesting respondent No.- 3 in response to the notice of Assistant Registrar, Societies on 8th November, 2019 in which only expenditure to be incurred was required to be deposited. The Assistant Registrar, Societies proceeded to issue fresh notice on 8th January, 2021 directing the parties to produce their original documents so as to determine electoral college under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860. The objection taken before the Deputy Registrar, Societies by the present petitioner was that after verifying from the original records membership of 54 old members and 86 new members be held invalid and only the living members of 108 list of members that was there in 2004 election, be taken to be as consisting a valid electoral college. He has raised objection to the membership of 54 members on the ground that there was forged meeting held on 1st October, 2006 as there was nothing available on records to demonstrate as to whether any receipt was issued against the membership fee taken from each such member nor, membership fee was deposited in the account. Regarding 86 members the plea taken is that their membership was accepted on 1st August, 2019 only by a Committee of Management which was there in office and since very election pursuant to which the Committee continued in office came to be set aside by this Court on 18th September, 2019 it will be taken that those 86 members were enrolled by an illegally elected Committee of Management and so their membership was also liable to be cancelled.

14. I find that Assistant Registrar, Societies has discussed the issue of 54 members whose membership was finalized by the Assistant Registrar, Societies vide order dated 1st September, 2015 which came to be challenged before this Court vide Writ- C No.- 43837 of 2015 and the Court had repelled the argument questioning the membership of those 54 members earlier enrolled by erstwhile Committee of Management in the year 2006 and, therefore, the Court held that "the induction of 54 members cannot be faulted especially as it has not been shown anywhere nor argued that in past the members of both the committees acted separately or distinctly".

15. Thus, the Court declined to interfere with the order of Assistant Registrar, Societies and the petition was dismissed. The said judgement was unsuccessfully appealed against and it found favour with the findings of learned Single Judge by observing thus:-

"The issue as to whether the 54 members were validly inducted and whether the second appellant presided over or did not participate in the meeting in which they are said to have been enrolled are clearly disputed questions of fact. The Assistant Registrar, it may be noted while finalizing the composition of the general body of a society, is exercising only a summary jurisdiction and it is always open to a person aggrieved to question the same in appropriate proceedings instituted either before the Civil Court or by invocation of the provisions of Section 25 of the 1860 Act. The Assistant Registrar while proceeding to negative the claim of the subsequent elections has in our opinion correctly proceeded to direct the holding of fresh elections, the results of which shall be open to question by the rival factions by either invoking the jurisdiction of the civil court or by challenging the same in appropriate proceedings under the 1860 Act."

16. Having gone through the judgment of learned Single Judge and that of the Special Appellate Bench, in my considered view the controversy with regard to the 54 members enrolled in the year 2006 did not remain open to challenge any further except in proceedings to be drawn either under Section 25(1) of the Act, 1860 or through a common law remedy of instituting the suit.

17. The order of Assistant Registrar, Societies on the question of membership of those very 54 members having been held to be genuine members once stood upheld by a Coordinate Bench and then by Division Bench of this Court even while exercising power under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860, the Assistant Registrar, Societies cannot reopen the controversy to return a finding qua membership contrary to what has already been held by such an authority previously and affirmed by this Court. Section 25 as referred to in the order of Division Bench (supra) would be referable to Section 25(1) of the Act, 1860, where the question of membership can be raised while reference is being adjudicated upon.

18. Under the circumstances, therefore, I do not find any fault in the findings returned by the Assistant Registrar, Societies relating to 54 members.

19. Now I come to the second argument that Assistant Registrar, Societies wrongly applied de facto doctrine in upholding membership of 86 new members whose fee was deposited on 1st August, 2019 prior to the order of this Court dated 18th September, 2019, whereby the elections were set aside.

20. In support of his argument learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment of Division Bench of this Court in the case of Committee of Management Gangadin Ram Kumar Inter College v. Deputy Director of Education, Vth Region and others reported in 2006 (4) AWC 3731 All. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon paragraphs 22 and 23 of the judgment that run as under:

"22. learned Counsel for the appellant has further placed reliance on Division Bench judgment of this Court reported in Mohd. Iqbal v. State of Uttar Pradesh and Ors.,(1992) 2 UPLBEC 1558. In the aforesaid case two members were nominated by the State Government in the Board exercising power under proviso to Section 9 of the U.P. Municipality Act, 1916 by notification dated 2.8.1991. These two nominated members participated in the proceedings of no-confidence held on 12.8.1991 which was brought against the President of the Municipal Board Mohd. Iqbal. The President filed writ petition challenging the proceedings dated 12.8.1991 and participation of aforesaid two nominated members. Two nominated members who were earlier nominated vide notification dated 19.4.1990 also challenged the notification dated 12.8.1991. The Division Bench relying on an earlier judgment of the Division Bench held that the power of nomination given to the State Government was without providing any definite guide lines, thus the nomination dated 12.8.1991 was of no legal consequence. Thus, the notification nominating the two members was held to be illegal. It was contended before the Division Bench that their participation in the proceedings dated 12.8.1991 is saved by de facto doctrine because on the date when they participated in the proceedings the nomination was subsisting. The writ petition was filed even before the proceedings dated 12.8.1991 could take place seeking the interim relief restraining the nominated members to participate in the election. The Court did not grant any interim order staying the participation but only directed that their participation shall be subject to result of the writ petition. The Division Bench in the aforesaid case repelled the argument of saving the said proceedings dated 12.8.1991 on de facto doctrine. Following was observed in paragraphs 7 and 8:

7... If the result of no- confidence motion proceeding is subjected to the decision of a writ petition and if the right to hold office is directly questioned as it has been done in the cases on hand, then de facto doctrine could not protect the illegal participation of respondent Nos. 4 and 5 and voting right exercised by them in the ab-initio void no- confidence motion proceeding.

8... The Supreme Court lint the case of Gokaraju Rangaraju (supra) clearly enunciated that a judgment delivered by a Judge cannot be questioned in a collateral proceeding like appeal or revision but his right to hold office of a Judge can be questioned directly. The right to hold office of a member by respondents No. 4 and 5 under the notification dated 2.8.1991 has not been challenged by the petitioner in the instant cases in a collateral proceeding but directly. Therefore, reliance placed by Sri Ravi Kiran Jain on the case of Gokaraju Rangaraju (supra) is misplaced.

23. In the above case the Division Bench did not accept the submission based on de facto doctrine for saving of actions of illegally nominated members principally on the ground that the nomination of two members was directly under challenge in the writ petition. The Division Bench applied the judgment of the apex Court in Gokaraju Rangaraju (supra). The above case does not help the appellant in any manner rather support the view which we have taken in the present case. No benefit can be taken by the appellant of de facto doctrine."

21. Upon a bare reading of aforesaid paragraphs I find that there was already writ petition filed before the Court in which the nomination of 2 members was already under challenge and their participation in the voting was directed to be subject to the result of the writ petition.

22. This is a case quite distinguishable on facts. Here in this case there was no such rider operating in the writ petition being Writ - C No.- 29150 of 2019 which ultimately came to be allowed on 18th September, 2019. It is on the score of their being already a rider provided in the said case that Division Bench held that de facto doctrine would not be attracted to save the participation and consequential casting of votes by two nominated members.

23. It is a settled law that when the occupation of an office is under challenge and the interim order is passed by the Court that the no policy decision would be taken by such party in office nor, would its conduct resulting in finality to any proceeding then this doctrine would not apply. Even otherwise the Court is of the view that if the officer whose title is ultimately held to be defective then any act by him by which he would build up a personal right or claim or privilege or emolument by reason of his being in office, the doctrine would not be attracted (Cooley' Constitutional Limitations 8th Edition (2) 1355).

24. Here is a case where certain members have come to be enrolled and so no individual rights by any office bearer of Committee in office is sought to be invoked or built up for any personal gain rather it is the members who have the right to participate in an election and cast their respective votes so it is more prejudicing their right than the office bearers who by adopting resolution enrolled members to the general body of the society. By no stretch of imagination if Committee of Management is functioning and adopting resolution, it can be attributable to any personal gain of a particular office bearer individually or collectively by the Committee of Management.

25. It is one who applies for membership his application is taken into consideration and then the Committee or Society adopts the resolution as the case may be. For any Committee of Management that is in office, this is a routine and general exercise of power which cannot be questioned only on this score that subsequently such Committee of Management got ousted by virtue of its election being held to be invalid.

26. Coming to the de facto doctrine, the literal meaning of this would be "in fact'. The doctrine of de facto is based on sound principle of public policy and is aimed at removing any kind of insecurity and confusion amongst the people whose rights would get prejudiced in the event the orders passed or actions taken by a person who in fact occupied the office, is held to be void on account of his occupation of office subsequently being held to be illegal.

27. It is rightly said that doctrine is borne of necessity and to arrest mischief if there exists office in law and an authority occupies it by virtue of its appointment or election or nomination. Such a person or body is clothed with insignia of the office and exercises powers and functions as such and the authority to exercise such power is upheld by virtue of de facto doctrine.

28. Public policy is a matter of faith and trust that individual's repose in a system which has been created for their benefits. In case of Gokaraju Rangaraju v. State of Andra Pradesh and Achanti Sreenivasa Rao and others v. State of Andhra Pradesh reported in (1981) 3 SCC 132, it was held vide paragraphs 7, 8, 9, 10 and 17 thus:

"7. In Scadding v. Lorant [1851] 3 HLC 418, the question arose whether a rate for the relief of the poor was rendered invalid by the circumstance that some of the vestry men who made it were vestry men de facto and not de jure. The Lord Chancellor observed as follows :

With regard to the competency of the vestry men, who were vestry men de facto, but not vestry men de jure, to make the rate, your Lordships will see at once the importance of that objection, when you consider how many public officers and persons there are who were charged with very important duties, and whose title to the office on the part of the public cannot be ascertained at the time. You will at once see to what it would lead if the validity of their acts, when in such office, depended upon the propriety of their election. It might tend, if doubts were cast upon them, to consequences of the most destructive kind. It would create uncertainty with respect to the obedience to public officers and it might also lead to persons, instead of resorting to ordinary legal remedies to set right anything done by the officers, taking the law into their own hands.

8. Some interesting observations were made by the Court of Appeal in England in Re James (An Insolvent) [1977] 2 W.L.R. 1. Though the learned Judges constituting the Court of Appeal differed on the principal question that arose before them namely whether "the High Court of Rhodesia" was a British Court, there did not appear to be any difference of opinion on the question of the effect of the invalidity of the appointment of a judge on the judgments pronounced by him. Lord Denning M. R., characteristically, said :

He sits in the seat of a judge. He wears the robes of a judge. He holds the office of a judge. May be he was not validly appointed. But, still, he holds the office. It is the office that matters, not the incumbent... So long as the man holds the office and exercises it duly and in accordance with law, his orders are not a nullity. If they are erroneous they may be upset on appeal. But, if not, erroneous they should be upheld".

Lord Denning then proceeded to refer to the State of Connecticut v. Carroll decided by the Supreme Court of Connecticut, Re Aldridge decided by the Court of Appeal in New Zealand and Norton v. Shelby County decided by the United States Supreme Court. Observations made in the last case were extracted and they were :

Where an office exists under the law, it matters not how the appointment of the incumbent is made, so far as the validity of his acts are concerned. It is enough that he is clothed with the insignia of the office, and exercises its powers and functions.... The official acts of such persons are recognised as valid on grounds of public policy, and for the protection of those having official business to transact.

Scarman, L.J., who differed from Lord Denning on the question whether the High Court of Rhodesia was a British Court appeared to approve the view of Lord Denning, M. R. in regard to the de facto doctrine. He said :

He (Lord Denning) invokes the doctrine of recognition of the de facto judge, and the doctrine of implied mandate or necessity. I agree with much of the thinking that lies behind his judgment. I do think that in an appropriate case our courts will recognise the validity of judicial acts, even though they be the acts of a judge not lawfully appointed or derive their authority from an unlawful government. But it is a fallacy to conclude that, because in certain circumstances our Courts would recognise as valid the judicial acts of an unlawful court or a de facto judge, therefore, the Court thus recognised is a British Court.

10. The de facto doctrine has received judicial recognition in the United States of America also. In State v. Gardner (Cases on Constitutional Law by Mc. Gonvey and Howard Third Edition 102) the question arose whether the offer of a bribe to a City Commissioner whose appointment was unconstitutional was an offence. Bradbury, J. said :

We think that principle of public policy, declared by the English Courts three centuries ago, which gave validity to the official acts of persons who intruded themselves into an office to which they had not been legally appointed, is as applicable to the conditions now presented as they were to the conditions that then confronted the English Judiciary. We are not required to find a name by which officers are to be known, who have acted under a statute that has subsequently been declared unconstitutional, though we think such officers might aptly be called de facto officers.

17. A judge, de facto, therefore, is one who is not a mere intruder or usurper but one who holds office, under colour of lawful authority, though his appointment is defective and may later be found to be defective. Whatever be the defect of his title to the office, judgments pronounced by him and acts done by him when he was clothed with the powers and functions of the office, albeit unlawfully, have the same efficacy as judgments pronounced and acts done by a Judge de jure. Such is the de facto doctrine, born of necessity and public a policy, to prevent needless confusion and endless mischief. There is yet another rule also based on public policy. The defective appointment of a de facto judge may be questioned directly in a proceeding to which he be a party but it cannot be permitted to be questioned in a litigation between two private litigants, a litigation which is of no concern or consequence to the judge except as a judge. Two litigants litigating their private titles cannot be permitted to bring in issue and litigate upon the title of a judge to his office. Otherwise so soon as a judge pronounces a judgment a litigation may be commenced for a declaration that the judgment is void because the judge is no judge. A judge's title to his office cannot be brought into jeopardy in that fashion. Hence the rule against collateral attack on validity of judicial appointments. To question a judge's appointment in an appeal against his judgment is, of course, such a collateral attack."

29. In the case of Committee of Management Dayanand Arya Kanya Degree College, Moradabad and others v. Director of Higher Education, Allahabad and others reported in (1998) 4 SCC 104, the Court upheld the acceptance of voluntarily resignation of a teacher by the Committee of Management which was de facto in office. Vide paragraph 3 of the judgment the Court held that the Committee of Management that was continuing in office by virtue of interim order of the High Court, it would be taken to be a de facto and de jure as well.

30. Following the above judgment, a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Mehandi Hasan and others v. State of U.P. and others reported in (2014) 2 UPLBEC 1338, had an occasion to deal with the situation where Committee of Management continued to enjoy office by virtue of stay order passed by this Court even though subsequently the election was held to be invalid. In that case the Committee of Management which was continued by virtue of an interim order it issued an advertisement. The petitioners, who had applied against the advertisement and their selection was held but the same was questioned on the ground that their appointment was void ab initio as at that time the Committee was only on the strength of interim order. Vide paragraphs 15 and 16 of the judgment, the Court held thus:

"15. The principles of de facto and de jure have been explained by the Supreme Court in the case of Committee of Management, Dayanand Arya Kanya Degree College, Moradabad and others v. Director of Higher Education, Allahabad and others, MANU/SC/0050/1998MANU/ SC/0050/1998 : (1998) 4 SCC 104. In the said case one Dr. Manju Saraswat was a Principal of Dayanand Arya Kanya Degree College. She tendered her resignation from the post, which was accepted by the managing committee. The dispute arose whether the committee of management had power to accept the resignation as on the date when the committee of management had accepted the resignation, it was in the office by virtue of interim order passed by the High Court in a writ proceeding in favour of the committee of management. The resignation was not accepted by the Vice Chancellor on the ground that the authorized controller was appointed in the Institution and he had not accepted the resignation but it was accepted by the committee of management, which was continuing on the strength of the interim order. The High Court had also taken the same view. The Supreme Court took the view that as the committee of management was working in the Institution on the strength of interim order, its decision is saved by de facto and de jure both. The similar view was taken by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Committee of Management Gangadin Ram Kumar Inter College, Ramgarh Barwan, District Jaunpur v. Deputy Director of Education, Vth Region, Varanasi and others, MANU/UP/0622/ 2006 : 2006(4) ADJ 381 (DB).

16. After careful consideration of the matter, we are of the view that the appointment of writ petitioners are saved by the de facto doctrine. Accordingly, the impugned order of the learned Single Judge so far as it relates to the petitioners in Dr. Mehandi Hasan and another v. The State of U.P. and others, MANU/UP/0529/2007 : 2007(4) ADJ 664, is set aside and a direction is issued upon the respondents for the payment of salary of the writ petitioners. Accordingly, special appeal is disposed of."

31. Applying the above principle of de facto doctrine in the present case, I find that the present case stands on a much better footing than those cases discussed above. Here is a case where Committee of Management had stood elected and was continuing in office.

32. In my considered view unless and until election to any office or post is held bad, such elected office bearer or board of Management or Committee, to whatever name it is called, enjoy the office both de jure and de facto. A mere challenge to an office in absence of any order of interim stay or rider making continuance subject by express words, would not mean that such persons, board of Management or Committee illegally continued and so exercise of power would stand served by the de facto doctrine. No one would be entitled to any personal benefit for having occupied his office as such if such occupation is held bad.

33. In this case writ petition was filed challenging the election and no interim order was passed. While it is true that the elections were ultimately set aside but neither any plea was taken in the writ petition nor, any direction was issued that whatever the powers had been exercised by the Committee of Management in office by virtue of its election, would get rendered void or cancelled on account of election being set aside.

34. As a matter of fact from the bare reading of the aforesaid order of the High Court, I do not find that any plea regarding membership was ever raised.

35. Thus, Committee of Management that had validly continued until the elections were set aside, its conduct of proceeding including resolution adopted by it, shall stand saved by virtue of de facto doctrine.

36. In view of the above, therefore, I do not find any good ground to interfere with the order passed by the Assistant Registrar, Societies. Liberty rests with the petitioner to apply for common law remedy.

37. This petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed with no order as to cost.

38. Consigned to records.

A. Civil Law – UP Cooperative Society Act, 1965 – Sections 35 & 65 – Suspension of Committee of Management – Power, when can be exercised by the Registrar – Section 35 (1) contemplates two overt acts by the Registrar indicating that proceeding for suspension has commenced, namely (i) issuance of show cause notice calling for explanation of the Committee of Management and (ii) obtaining the opinion of general body of the society in a general meeting called for the purpose – Non compliance of provision of S. 35(1) – Effect – Held, the Registrar though has formed an opinion that suspension of the petitioner Committee of Management is necessary, but has not taken any steps towards supersession of the Committee of Management – The impugned order of suspension has been passed at a premature stage before the proceeding for supersession has actually commenced. 1. Veerpal Singh Vs The Registrar, Co-operative Societies, U.P. & ors.; A.I.R. 1973, SC 1249 (Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta, J.

Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. The petitioners have called in question an order dated 9.3.2022 passed by respondent no.2, Joint Commissioner and Joint Registrar, Cooperative, U.P. Moradabad Mandal, Moradabad suspending the first petitioner, which is Committee of Management of a primary agricultural Cooperative Society, in exercise of power under Section 35 (2) of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act'). Respondent no.2, while passing the above order, has placed reliance on an interim enquiry report submitted under Section 65 of the Act and has concluded that financial irregularities seem to have been committed by the petitioner Committee of Management. He has also held that there are repeated defaults on part of the petitioner Committee in observing its duties imposed upon it under law and in future there is likelihood of an adverse report coming against the petitioner Committee in enquiry that is pending under Section 65 of the Act. Consequently, it is desirable to keep the petitioner Committee of Management under suspension. By the same order, he has proceeded to appoint an interim Committee comprising of Additional District Cooperative Officer (Banking), Bijnor, Additional District Cooperative Officer, Tehsil Nagina and Additional Development Officer (Cooperative), Vikas Khand, Dhampur.

2. Sri Rakesh Pande, learned senior counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioners submitted that the impugned order suspending the petitioner Committee of Management is erroneous in law inasmuch as no proceeding for super-session of the Committee of Management has yet been initiated. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance on the language used in sub-section (2) of Section 35 of the Act and the judgement of the Supreme Court in Veerpal Singh Vs. The Registrar, Co-operative Societies, U.P. and others, A.I.R. 1973, SC 1249.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submitted that even otherwise, the impugned order is manifestly illegal inasmuch as the formation of opinion to keep the petitioner Committee of Management under suspension is based on conjecture that in future there is likelihood of an adverse report being submitted against the petitioner Committee in enquiry pending under Section 65 of the Act. He further submitted that certain other irregularities alleged relate to the period when the petitioner Committee of Management was not in power, therefore, it cannot be held accountable for the same.

4. Learned standing counsel appearing on behalf of State respondents and Sri Sujeet Kumar Rai, who has been heard as an intervenor, submitted that the stage of calling general body meeting as contemplated under sub-section (1) of Section 35 of the Act has yet not arrived. They submitted that in view of serious irregularities coming to knowledge of respondent no.2, he was justified in suspending the petitioner Committee of Management.

5. Section 35 (1) and (2), which are relevant for the present controversy, are reproduced below:-

"35. Supersession or suspension of Committee of Management.- [(1) Where, in the opinion, of the Registrar the Committee of Management of any Cooperative Society persistently makes default or is negligent in the performance of the duties imposed on it by this Act or the rules or the bye-laws of the society or commits any act which is prejudicial to the interest of the society or its members, or is otherwise not functioning properly, the Registrar after affording the Committee of Management a reasonable opportunity of being heard and obtaining the opinion of the General Body of the society in a general meeting called for the purpose in the manner prescribed may, by order in writing, supersede the Committee of Management:

Provided that where under the prescribed circumstances it is not feasible to convene a general meeting of the General Body of the society, the Registrar may dispense with the requirement of obtaining the opinion of the General Body of the society:

Provided further that in the case of Central Co-operative Bank or the Uttar Pradesh Co-operative bank, the suspension or supersession of the Committee of Management shall not be made by the Registrar unless the Reserve Bank of India has been consulted:

Provided also that the Committee of Management of the Primary Agriculture Co-operative Credit Society can be superseded by the Registrar only on the following grounds-

(i) if a society incurs losses for three consecutive years, or

(ii) if serious financial irregularities or fraud have been committed,

(iii) if there are judicial directives to this effect or there is perpetual lack of quorum.

(2) Where the Registrar, while proceeding to take action under sub-section (1) is of opinion that suspension of the Committee of Management during the period of proceeding is necessary in the interest of the society, he may suspend the Committee of Management which shall thereupon cease to function and make such arrangement as he thinks proper for the management of the affairs of the society till the proceedings are completed:

Provided that if the Committee of Management so suspended is not superseded it shall be reinstated and the period during which it has remained suspended shall count towards its term."

6. The power of Registrar to place Committee of Management of a Cooperative Society under suspension has been dealt with by the Supreme Court in Veerpal Singh (supra) in paragraphs 12, 13 and 14 as follows:-

"12. The Registrar has power under Section 35 (1) of the Act to, supersede the committee of management. The circumstances. under which he can exercise his powers are when in the opinion of the Registrar the society makes default or is negligent in the performance of duties imposed on it by the Act or the rules or the bye-laws of the society or commits any act which is prejudicial to the interest of the society or its members, or, is otherwise not functioning properly, the Registrar after affording the committee of management a reasonable opportunity of being heard and obtaining the opinion of the general body of the society in a general meeting called for the purpose in the manner prescribed may, by order in writing, supersede the committee of management.

13. These provisions indicate the circumstances under which the Registrar has power to supersede or suspend the committee of management and, to appoint an administrator. Sect-ion 35(2) of the Act confers power on the Registrar to suspend the committee of management during the period of proceedings for supersession. The Registrar has also power under Section 35 (2) of the Act to make arrangement, as he thinks proper for the management of the society till the proceedings are completed. The power to suspend the committee of management during the period of proceedings is exercisable when proceedings for supersession have commenced. Section 35 (1) of the Act shows that when the Registrar is of opinion that the committee of a cooperative society makes default or is negligent in the performance of duties or is otherwise not functioning properly the Registrar may supersede the committee of management and has to give an opportunity to the society to be heard in that behalf. The Registrar has also to obtain the opinion of the ,general body of the society. Therefore, the opinion of the Registrar is to be followed by some definite act which will commence the proceedings for supersession. The provisions in the Act indicate that some definite step like the issue of, a notice must be taken under the provisions of Section 35 (1) of the Act with a view to show that proceedings for supersession of the committee are set in motion.

14. It is therefore manifest that power exercisable under Section 35 (2) of the Act is confined to the time during the period of supersession proceedings. Unless the proceedings have started as indicated earlier the Registrar cannot call in aid the power exercisable under Section 35 (2) of the Act."

7. It is clear from the enunciation of law as made by the Supreme Court in the above judgement that the power to suspend the Committee of Management has to be preceded by an act which reflects that the proceeding for supersession has commenced. Sub-section (1) of Section 35 contemplates two overt acts by the Registrar indicating that proceeding for suspension has commenced, namely (i) issuance of show cause notice calling for explanation of the Committee of Management and (ii) obtaining the opinion of general body of the society in a general meeting called for the purpose. A perusal of the impugned order reveals that none of the above two steps have been taken so far. The Registrar though has formed an opinion that suspension of the petitioner Committee of Management is necessary, but has not taken any steps towards supersession of the Committee of Management.

8. Consequently, we are of the opinion that the impugned order of suspension has been passed at a premature stage before the proceeding for supersession has actually commenced.

9. Learned standing counsel appearing on behalf of State respondents and Sri Sujeet Kumar Rai appearing for the intervenor submitted that the Registrar be granted liberty to pass a fresh order instead of keeping the matter pending, as it will delay the matter and there are charges of financial irregularities against the petitioner Committee of Management.

10. Having regard to the above submissions, we quash the impugned order leaving it open to respondent no.2 to pass a fresh order in the light of the observations made above.

11. In the result, the writ petition succeeds in part and is allowed.

1. Heard Sri Nirankar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned State Counsel, Sri Gaurav Mehrotra assisted by Sri Devrishi Kumar, learned counsel representing U.P. State Cooperative Societies Election Commission(hereinafter referred to as the Election Commission), Sri Kuldeep Pati Tripathi, learned counsel representing the respondent no.4-District Cooperative Federation Limited, Bulandshahar and Sri S.P. Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no.6.

2. By instituting these proceedings, the petitioner has laid challenge to an order dated 17.04.2018 passed by the Chief Election Commissioner(Cooperative Societies), whereby the elections of District Cooperative Federation Limited, Bulandshahar(hereinafter referred to as the society), which were notified on 16.02.2018, were postponed.

3. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner, impeaching the impugned order, is that once the election process had commenced by way of issuing the notification dated 16.02.2018, the Election Commission or for that matter any other authority of the State Government does not have any jurisdiction to postpone the election process. It has also been argued by learned counsel appearing for the petitioner that as per the notification issued on 16.02.2018 by the Chief Election Commissioner himself, the entire time bound programme was notified wherein deadlines were given for various purposes including for the purpose of publication of provisional electoral college, filing objection to such provisional electoral college and publication of final electoral college. He has further stated that as per the said schedule, the date on which the final electoral college was to be published was 16.04.2018 whereas the impugned order has been passed a day thereafter, i.e., on 17.04.2018 and hence once the final electoral college was published in terms of the Election Notification on 16.02.2018 itself, the impugned order could not have been passed by the Chief Election Commissioner for the reason that the same amounts to interference in the election process which had already set in. It has also been argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that it was beyond the jurisdiction of the Chief Election Commissioner to have acted upon the complaint which was allegedly enquired into by the Additional District Magistrate(Finance and Revenue), Bulandshahar and was forwarded by the District Magistrate, Bulandshahar to the Chief Election Commissioner. Submission in this regard is that District Magistrate or Additional District Magistrate(Finance and Revenue) or for that matter any other authority of the State Government did not have any locus to interfere in the election process once it had been notified and process of the election had been set in motion.

4. On the other hand, it has been argued by Sri Gaurav Mehrotra, learned counsel for Election Commission and Sri S.P. Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no.6, learned State Counsel and Sri Kuldeep Pati Tripathi, learned counsel representing the respondent no.4, in unison that in terms of the provisions contained in Section 29 (3) of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965(hereinafter referred to as the Act of 1965), the Election Commission has all the authority and jurisdiction to postpone the election process or to cancel the same for the reason that it is a duty cast upon the Election Commission to ensure that free and fair poll takes place for constituting Committee of Management of every cooperative society throughout the state of Uttar Pradesh.

5. We have considered the rival submissions made on behalf of the respective parties and have also perused the records available before us. The issue/ question which falls for our consideration and decision is as to whether once election process commences and a notification for the said process is issued by the Chief Election Commissioner, whether any interference is legally permissible either by way of postponing the elections or cancelling the same by the Chief Election Commissioner on the ground that certain irregularities have been found in the electoral list.

6. It is not in dispute that by means of the notification dated 16.02.2018 issued by the Chief Election Commissioner, the election of the cooperative society concerned, which is a central cooperative society in terms of Section 2(d)(3) of the Act of 1965, was notified and as per the said notification various dates were fixed for completing the process of election including the date and time for publication of tentative electoral list, for filing objections against tentative electoral list and for publication of final electoral list, on the basis of which in terms of the said notification the election was to be held. As per the said schedule, the last date for publication of the final electoral list was 16.04.2018 which was to be published between 2.00 p.m. to 4.00 p.m. However, the Chief Election Commissioner on the next date, i.e., 17.04.2018 postponed the elections on the basis of certain letter received from the District Magistrate which was based on the report submitted by the Additional District Magistrate(Finance and Revenue), Bulandshahar.

7. So far as the submission of learned counsel for the petitioner that once election process is set in motion, the district authorities or for that matter or any other authority of the State Government did not have any jurisdiction to interfere in the same is concerned, we may point out that some enquiry report has been submitted based on which the letter has been written by the District Magistrate, Bulandshahar to the Chief Election Commissioner. The same in our considered opinion would not amount to any interference in the election process rather the report and the letter of the Additional District Magistrate and the District Magistrate concerned will only be a material on the basis of which the Chief Election Commissioner is empowered to take appropriate decision to ensure free and fair polls.

8. So far as the submission of learned counsel for the petitioner that even the Chief Election Commissioner does not have any authority or jurisdiction or power to interfere in the process of election once it has been set in motion, is concerned, we may indicate that in tune with the constitutional provisions available in part IX-B of the Constitution of India which was added by way of Amendment Act 2011 w.e.f. 15.02.2012, provisions contained in Section 243ZK of the Constitution of India provides that the election of a board shall be conducted before the expiry of the term of the board so as to ensure that the newly elected members of the board assume office immediately on the expiry of the term of the office of members of the outgoing board. Sub-section 2 of Article 243ZK clearly mandates the state legislatures to enact a law for the purposes of creating an authority or body for the superintendence, control, direction and preparation of the electoral rolls for and the conduct of all elections to a cooperative society.The Election Commission, thus, owes its existence not only to the State Legislation but also to Article 243K of the Constitution of India.

9. The Election Commission in the State of U.P. for the purpose of superintendence and other ancilliary functions including revision of electoral rolls can be found defined in Section 2(j) of the Act of 1965. Section 29(3) of the Act of 1965 provides that election to re-constitute a committee of management of every cooperative society shall be completed in the manner prescribed, under the superintendence, control and direction of the Election Commission. It further provides that such election is to be conducted at least 15 days before the expiry of the term of the committee of management and that of the members. Thus, provisions of part IX-B of Constitution of India read with the provisions contained in the Act of 1965 clearly mandate that election of member of the society ought to take place before the term of the outgoing member of the committee of management expires.

10. We may also notice that Article 243ZK (2) of the Constitution of India clearly mandates that by providing a law superintendence, direction and control of the preparation of electoral rolls and conduct of all elections to the cooperative society is to be vested in a body, which in the State of Uttar Pradesh, has been constituted as Election Commission for the Cooperative Societies. The words, 'Superintendence', 'Direction' and 'Control' not only in respect of preparation of electoral rolls but also for conduct of elections vest very wide powers in the Election Commission. We have no hesitation to observe that in so far as ensuring free and fair elections of the cooperative society for the state of Uttar Pradesh is concerned, the Election Commission by virtue of article 243ZK (2) of the Constitution of India and subsection 3 of section 29 of the Act of 1965 is vested with almost plenary powers, which in our considered opinion will include the authority/ power/ jurisdiction to postpone the election or even to cancel the election. However the condition precedent for exercising of such power or authority is that the purpose of postponement or cancellation of an election should be to ensure free and fair polls. Such authority is since all encompassing hence is to be exercised by the Election Commission/ Chief Election Commissioner very sparingly and only to achieve the object of conducting free and fair elections. Exercise of such powers cannot be permitted to be resorted to in a routine manner. The Election Commission and the Chief Election Commissioner has to bear in mind that though the Election Commission is an authority created by the statute and entrusted with very important function, however it has to act only for the purpose for which it has been created, namely, for superintendence,direction and control of preparation of electoral roll and also conduct of elections. Conduct of elections of a democratic institution in a free and fair manner is one of the most significant and important facet of a democratic polity.

11. We have already noticed that the statutory mandate as available in Article 243ZK as also under section 29 of Act of 1965 is that Committee of Management needs to be constituted before expiry of the term of the out-going committee of management.

12. In the instant case, the Chief Election Commissioner has exercised powers vested in him under Section 29(3) read with Article 243 ZK(2) of the Constitution of India while passing the impugned order dated 17.04.2018. It has been stated by learned counsel appearing for the Election Commission that the report of the Additional District Magistrate which was sent by the District magistrate to the Chief Election Commissioner related to illegal electoral roll, which is said to have been prepared in derogation of the order passed by this court on 09.04.2018 in Writ Petition No.10053 of 2018.

13. Be that as it may, based on some material, sufficiency of which cannot be gone into under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, if the Election Commissioner or Chief Election Commissioner comes to a conclusion that permitting the elections on the basis of illegal or incorrect electoral roll will not be in the interest of free and fair elections, in our considered opinion in such a situation the Election Commission/ Chief Election Commissioner exercising his ancillary powers is empowered and has jurisdiction to postpone or even to cancel such election. At this juncture, we may also notice that District Magistrate is not an alien to the election process for the reason that in terms of Rule 2(j) of U.P. State Co-operative Societies Election Rules 2014, he is the District Cooperative Election Officer. Thus, District Magistrate in his capacity as District/ Election Officer is part of the election commission itself and hence if he makes any complaint or submits any cogent material on the basis of which Chief election commissioner forms an opinion that permitting elections to go on would not be in the interest of free and fair polls,as observed above, the Chief Election Commissioner has the authority to take decision either to postpone or even to cancel the election process.

14. For the reasons as aforesaid, we are satisfied that the impugned order dated 17.04.2018 passed by the Chief Election Commissioner does not suffer from any illegality, much less any jurisdictional error as such it does not call for any interference by us in this writ petition.

15. At this juncture learned counsel for the petitioner insists that the petitioner was elected unopposed pursuant to the election programme declared by notification dated 16.02.2018 as such even if the elections are to be held now, the same should commence from the stage it was postponed by means of the impugned order.

16. The aforesaid submission of learned counsel for the petitioner in our considered opinion is not tenable for the reason that, the proviso appended to Section 29 of Act of 1965 provides that where Election Commission is satisfied that circumstances exists which render it difficult to hold the election on the date fixed, it may postpone the election and all proceedings pertaining to the election shall commence afresh in all respects. It is this power vested in the Election Commission under the said proviso appended to section 29(3) of the Act that vests jurisdiction in the chief election commissioner/ Election Commission to postpone the election and hence in our considered opinion the impugned order dated 17.04.2018 is referable to the said provision apart from the provision contained in Article 243-Z-K of the Constitution of India. The proviso clearly says that if for some reason elections were postponed then subsequent election is to commence afresh in all respects. The occurrence of the word in "all respects" would clearly mean that entire process of election is to be commenced de novo.

17. Rule 432 of U.P. Cooperative Societies Rules 1968 provides that if for any reason election of any cooperative society gets disrupted by the district magistrate or by the election officer, the process of election shall commence from the stage at which it was disrupted or from the stage prior to that or denovo as the Registrar may decide. The aforesaid provision of Rule 432 vests the discretion in the Registrar to decide the stage from which the elections are to be held. However, we may only note that the provision contained in the proviso appended to section 29(3) of the Act of 1965 will prevail over the said provision as the rules are only subordinate to the Principle Legislation which cannot override the provision of the Act under which the Rules have been framed. It is also to be noted that Rule 432 was inserted in U.P. Cooperative Societies Rules 1968 on 15.07.1994 i.e. prior to the provisions which have been inserted in the 1965 Act on the enactment of Part IX-B of the Constitution of India. It is also to be noticed that in tune with part IX-B of the Constitution of India, the state legislature has also amended the provision of 1965 Act on 28.03.2013 by Act No.13 of 13.

18. In view of the aforesaid, submission of learned counsel for the petitioner that election of the society should be held from the stage it was disrupted by issuing the impugned order, is highly misconceived.

19. The writ petition is, thus, hereby dismissed.

1. The short issue that arises for consideration in the instant writ petition is whether show cause notice issued to the petitioner seeking explanation as to why it should not be black listed and debarred from entering into contracts for next two years is a valid notice or not.

2. The petitioner-Company was given contract of "Door to Door Meter Reading, Bill Generation and Serving through SBM/Mobile App/Other Suitable Means with Downloading" by the respondent-Corporation on 23.7.2018 for a period of three years. Subsequently it was extended for two months more. On 6.06.2020, the petitioner was issued a notice threatening to blacklist it on account of alleged irregularities on its part. It was replied by the petitioner on 19.6.2020 and according to the case of the petitioner, the notice was dropped, as no action was taken in pursuance thereof. After about a year and a half, another notice dated 13.8.2021 was issued with the same/similar allegations. It was replied by the petitioner company on 23.8.2021 but thereafter no further action was taken. Yet another notice dated 18.8.2021 with the same allegations was issued, again threatening the petitioner to blacklist it. It was replied to by the petitioner company on 30.10.2021. The respondent-Corporation after considering the explanation arrived at a definite finding that the explanation offered is unsatisfactory and the alleged irregularities and breaches committed by the Company has resulted in tarnishing the image of the respondent-Corporation. Accordingly, the petitioner company has been called upon to show cause as to why it should not be black listed/debarred for a period of two years.

3. On 25.5.2022, we passed the following order:

"It is urged by Sri Prashant Chandra, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Kartikeya Dubey and Sri Ujjawal Satsangi, that the impugned show cause notice is illegal as it has been issued with premeditation to debar and blacklist the petitioner-firm for a period of two years, inasmuch as, the respondents have already disclosed their mind by recording finding to the effect that the explanation submitted by the petitioner-firm in response to earlier notice, has not been found to be satisfactory. In support of the said contention, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment of Supreme Court in Siemens Ltd. vs. State of Maharashtra and Others, 2006 (13) SCALE 297 and ORYX Fisheries Private Ltd. vs. Union of India and Others, 2010 (13) SCC 427.

Sri Udit Chandra, learned counsel for the respondent corporation, seeks time to obtain instructions by tomorrow.

Accordingly, the matter is adjourned.

Put up as fresh tomorrow."

4. Sri Udit Chandra, learned counsel for the respondent-Corporation, after seeking instructions, states that he does not wish to file any counter affidavit. He submitted that the notice is strictly valid inasmuch as the respondent-Corporation has only examined the explanation offered by the petitioner-Company and having found the same to be unsatisfactory, issued fresh notice for black listing the petitioner firm.

5. In Siemens Ltd. vs. State of Maharashtra and Others, 2006 (13) SCALE 297 a challenge was made to a show cause notice on the ground that if it has been issued with pre-meditation then issuing notice and seeking explanation would not serve any purpose as the person issuing notice had already made up its mind. The contention was upheld. The relevant observations made in this behalf in Paragraphs No. 8, 9 and 10 are reproduced below:

"8. Although ordinarily a writ court may not exercise its discretionary jurisdiction in entertaining a writ petition questioning a notice to show cause unless the same inter alia appears to have been without jurisdiction as has been held by this Court in some decisions including State of Uttar Pradesh v. Brahm Datt Sharma and Anr. MANU/SC/0711/1987: [1987] 2SCR444, Special Director and Anr. v. Mohd. Ghulam Ghouse and Anr, MANU/SC/0025/2004: 2004(164) ELT141 (SC) and Union of India and another v. Kunisetty Satyanarayana

MANU/SC/5137/2006: AIR2007SC906 but the question herein has to be considered from a different angle, viz, when a notice is issued with pre-meditation, a writ petition would be maintainable. In such an event, even if the courts directs the statutory authority to hear the matter afresh, ordinarily such hearing would not yield any fruitful purpose [See K.I. Shephard and Ors. v. Union of India and Ors. MANU/SC/0643/1987: (1988) ILLJ162SC]. It is evident in the instant case that the respondent has clearly made up its mind. It explicitly said so both in the counter affidavit as also in its purported show cause.

9. The said principle has been followed by this Court in V.C. Banaras Hindu University and Ors. v. Shrikant MANU/SC/8170/2006: AIR2006SC2304, stating:

The Vice Chancellor appears to have made up his mind to impose the punishment of dismissal on the Respondent herein. A post decisional hearing given by the High Court was illusory in this case.

In K.I. Shephard and Ors. etc. etc. v. Union of India and Ors, MANU/SC/0643/1987 (1988): ILLJ162SC, this Court held:

...It is common experience that once a decision has been taken, there is tendency to uphold it and a representation may not really yield any fruitful purpose.

[See also Shri Shekhar Ghosh v. Union of India and Anr. MANU/SC/8616/2006 : (2007)1SCC331 and Rajesh Kumar and Ors. v. D.C.I.T. and Ors. MANU/SC/4779/2006 :]2871TR91(SC)]

10. A bare perusal of the order impugned before the High Court as also the statements made before us in the counter affidavit filed by the respondents, we are satisfied that the statutory authority has already applied its mind and has formed an opinion as regards the liability or otherwise of the appellant. If in passing the order the respondent has already determined the liability of the appellant and the only question which remains for its consideration is quantification thereof, the same does not remain in the realm of a show cause notice. The writ petition, in our opinion, was maintainable."

6. Again in ORYX Fisheries Private Ltd. vs. Union of India and Others, 2010 (13) SCC 427, the Supreme Court held as follows:

"28. It is no doubt true that at the stage of show cause, the person proceeded against must be told the charges against him so that he can take his defence and prove his innocence. It is obvious that at that stage the authority issuing the charge-sheet, cannot, instead of telling him the charges, confront him with definite conclusions of his alleged guilt. If that is done, as has been done in this instant case, the entire proceeding initiated by the show cause notice gets vitiated by unfairness and bias and the subsequent proceeding become an idle ceremony."

"32. Therefore, while issuing a show-cause notice, the authorities must take care to manifestly keep an open mind as they are to act fairly in adjudging the guilt or otherwise of the person proceeded against and specially when he has the power to take a punitive step against the person after giving him a show cause notice."

7. In the case at hand, the situation is similar as the respondent-Corporation in the impugned show cause notice has already expressed its mind that the explanation offered is unsatisfactory and the petitioner-Company is guilty of the charges levelled against it.

8. In the above backdrop, even if the petitioner offers its explanation, it would be an empty formality and a futile exercise. Fairness demanded that the respondent should have taken care to keep their mind open to the issues while seeking the explanation. The respondent-Corporation having already held that the explanation is not worthy of acceptance, it could not be treated to be a show cause notice but a decision already taken. We accordingly quash the impugned notice leaving it open to the respondent-Corporation to issue fresh notice in accordance with law, if so advised.

9. The petition stands allowed to the extent indicated above.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J.
Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for petitioner and perused the record.

2. Petitioner is a Contractor and claimed to have executed some civil work in respect whereto payment has not been made. It is stated that amount is not disputed, therefore, writ petition is maintainable and reliance is placed on Food Corporation of India and another Vs. M/s Seil Ltd. and others, AIR 2008 SC 1101; M/s Chitra Gupta Trading vs. U.P. Public Works Department and others, 2010(5) ADJ 299 (DB); and, M/s Pratiksha Constructions Vs. State of U.P. and others (Writ Petition No. 41238 of 2013), decided on 11.02.2015.

3. However, we do not find that aforesaid authorities help petitioner in the present matter. In Food Corporation of India (supra) dispute relates to supply of levy sugar pursuant to Government orders which was governed by Essential Commodities Act, 1955 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act, 1955"). Under Section 3(2)(f) of Act, 1955 Central Government is empowered to direct any manufacturer of sugar to sell sugar to Central Government or State Government or a body owned or controlled by them for the purpose of making it available to public at fair price. This sugar is known commonly as levy sugar. Price of such levy sugar was fixed by Central Government in exercise of statutory power conferred under Section 3(3C) of Act, 1955 on yearly basis. Price of levy sugar although is required to be notified when sugar year commences but their exist a practice to notify previous year's price as a levy sugar on an ad hoc basis in October and final price used to be notified later on. Pursuant to such directions and notifications issued by Central Government under the provisions of Act, 1955 respondents Sugar Company supplied levy sugar to agencies of Central Government, i.e., Food Corporation of India as also UPPCF. The sugar mill demanded price of levy sugar from both, Food Corporation of India as also Directorate of Sugar, Ministry of Food. It is this non payment of price of levy sugar which caused sugar mill to approach Delhi High Court by filing writ petition. In respect of supply made to Central Government, Delhi High Court held that direction for making payment should be made but in respect of supply of levy sugar made to other agencies it was held that such direction is impermissible and remedy lies in common law. When matter came to Supreme Court it was held that supply of sugar was made in terms of statutory order as also on the directions made by Central Government and there is no factual dispute. Court held that contractual disputes involving public law elements are amenable to writ jurisdiction.

4. In other two judgments of this Court, i.e., M/s Chitra Gupta Trading (supra) and M/s Pratiksha Constructions (supra) directions for payment were issued but question as to whether writ petition is maintainable or not as such was not an issue raised, argued and decided.

5. This question has been considered specifically in Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited and another Vs. Dolly Das 1999 (4) SCC 450 wherein Court said that in absence of any constitutional or statutory rights being involved, a writ proceeding would not lie to enforce contractual obligations even if it is sought to be enforced against State or to avoid contractual liability arising thereto. In the absence of any statutory right, Article 226 cannot be availed to claim any money in respect of breach of contract or tort or otherwise.

6. In Kerala State Electricity Board and another Vs. Kurien E. Kalathil and others 2000 (6) SCC 293, Court said that interpretation and implementation of a clause in a contract cannot be subject-matter of a writ petition. Whether a contract envisages actual payment or not is a question of construction of contract. If a term of contract is violated, ordinarily remedy is not the writ petition under Article 226. A contract would not become statutory simply because it is for construction of a public utility and it has been awarded by a statutory body. A statute may expressly or impliedly confer power on a statutory body to enter into contracts in order to enable it to discharge its functions. Disputes arising out of the terms of such contracts or alleged breaches have to be settled by the ordinary principles of law of contract. The fact that one of the parties to the agreement is a statutory or public body will not by itself affect the principles to be applied. The disputes about the meaning of a covenant in a contract or its enforceability have to be determined according to the usual principles of the Contract Act. Every act of a statutory body need not necessarily involve an exercise of statutory power. Statutory bodies have power to contract or deal with property like private parties. Such activities may not raise any issue of public law. When it is not shown that contract is statutory and parties are within the realm of their authority, contract between the parties is in the realm of private law. The disputes relating to interpretation of terms and conditions of such contract cannot be agitated in a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution. The Court further said:

"That is a matter for adjudication by a civil court or in arbitration if provided for in the contract. Whether any amount is due and if so, how much and refusal of the appellant to pay it is justified or not, are not the matters which could have been agitated and decided in a writ petition."

7. Following the above authorities, a Division Bench of this Court in M/S Prabhu Construction Company through its Proprietor Vs. State of U.P. and another (Writ C No. 25075 of 2014) decided on 05.05.2014 said as under:

"In the present case, there is nothing on the record which may persuade us to hold that the contract is a statutory contract. The remedy of the contractor, if he is aggrieved by non-payment, would be to either file an ordinary civil suit or if there is an arbitration agreement between the parties, to invoke the terms of the agreement."

8. The Court also relied on its earlier decision in M/s R.S. Associate Vs. State of U.P. and others (Writ-C No. 11544 of 2014) decided on 24.02.2014.

9. Again in Alaska Tech Vs. State of U.P. 2014 (6) ADJ 591, a Division Bench of this Court observed as under:

"2. We are of the view that, in a matter of this nature which pertains to alleged non-payment of dues under a contract for supply of goods, it would neither be prudent nor judicious for this Court, in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution, to grant relief, which is in substance, is a prayer for a money decree. These matters, it must be emphasized, are not those relating to statutory contracts but are purely non-statutory contracts. Whether work has been satisfactorily performed, whether the rates which had been quoted are in accordance with the terms of the contract, whether the goods were of a quality as mandated, and above all, whether the claim is within limitation or otherwise, are issues which cannot appropriately be adjudicated upon under Article 226 of the Constitution."

10. The same view has been reiterated in M/S Goyal Stationary Mart through its Proprietor State of U.P. (Misc. Bench No. 10971 of 2015) decided on 27.11.2015; Budh Gramin Sansthan Vs. State of U.P. 2014 (7) ADJ 29; Kaka Advertising Agency Vs. U.P. Technical University and others 2014 (11) ADJ 227; M/s A.K. Constructions Vs. State of U.P. and others (Misc. Bench No. 1909 of 2014) decided on 07.03.2014; Major Travels through Proprietor Vs. State of U.P. and others (Misc. Bench No. 3472 of 2014) decided on 25.04.2014; and Uttaranchal Paper Converters and Publishers through Proprietor Vs. State of U.P. and others (Misc. Bench No. 3898 of 2015) decided on 13.05.2014.

11. In view thereof, we are clearly of the view that mandamus sought by petitioner cannot be granted in extraordinary equitable jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution.

12. Dismissed. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

A. Constitution of India – Article 19(1)(a) – Fundamental right to change the name – Intent to change the name was declared by making publication – Name was changed in Aadhar Card as well as in PAN also, however, the application for changing the name in Education certificate was rejected on the ground that it was made beyond the prescribed limitation provided under Regulation 7 of the Regulations framed under the Intermediate Education Act 1921 – Validity challenged – Held, right to change the name is a facet of fundamental right as guaranteed under Article 19(1) (a) of the Constitution of India – Kabir Jaiswal's case and Jigya Yadav's case relied upon – The foundation based upon which the impugned orders have been passed namely that the request was made beyond the limitation prescribed under Regulation 7 is wholly untenable and the same militates against the law laid down in the case of Anand Singh Vs U.P. Board of Secondary Education – Stand taken by the respondents denying the petitioner's right to change her name clearly violates her rights guaranteed under Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution of India. 3. Civil Appeal No.3905 of 2011; Jigya Yadav (Minor) Vs CBSE & ors. decided on 03.06.2021

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Bhatia, J.)

1. Heard Sri Yogeshwar Sharan Srivastava, the counsel for the petitioner, Sri Saharsh Srivastava, the counsel for the respondents 1 and 2, Sri Akhilesh Kumar Srivastava the counsel fro the respondent no.3 and Sri Gyanendra Kumar Srivastava, the counsel for the respondent no.4.

2. The present petition has been filed challenging the order dated 11.04.2019 (Annexure 1) as well as the order dated 22.03.2022 passed by the respondent no.2, as contained in Annexure no.15.

3. The facts in brief giving rise to the petition are as under :

4. The petitioner whose name as recorded in the educational records is Rajni Shrivastava and she wanted to change her name to Rashmi Srivastava and, as such, took steps for getting the same intent published in the newspapers. The publication was carried out in the newspaper 'Dainik Jagran' and 'Hindustan Times' as well as in the Gazette of India. In pursuance to the said publications, the petitioner desirous of changing the name in the school records, moved an application. In the High School Examination, the name of the petitioner was recorded as Rajni Shrivastava, she took the examination in the year 2009 and thereafter completed her intermediate examination in the year 2011. Thereafter the petitioner pursued her graduations studies and she qualified in the year 2015 with the same name i.e. Rajni Srivastava. The petitioner also claims to have got herself registered with the Council for the Nursing and Midwives, U.P. and was also issued a certificate and identity card with the name Rajni Srivastava.

5. After getting the publication done, with an intent to change her name from Rajni Shrivastava to Rashmi Srivastava, the petitioner moved an appropriate application to Aadhar authorities and in terms of the said application, the name was changed from Rajni Shrivastava to Rashmi Srivastava in Aadhar Card and subsequently on her moving an application, the name was changed in the Permanent Account Number (PAN) issued by the Ministry of Finance. As there arose a discrepancy in the Aadhar Card, PAN Card and the Bank Account on one hand as contrasted with the High School Certificate, the Intermediate Certificate and the Graduation Certificate where the name of the petitioner was recorded as Rajni Shrivastava, the petitioner preferred a writ petition before this Court being a Writ Petition No.2219 of 2019 (MS). The said writ petition was disposed off on 25.01.2019 permitting the petitioner to move an appropriate application with directions to the respondents to pass a reasoned order in the said application. The application of the petitioner was rejected vide order dated 11.04.2019 (Annexure 1) mainly on the ground that in terms of the mandate of the provisions as contained in the Regulations under Chapter III Regulation 7 of the Regulations framed under the Intermediate Education Act 1921 that the said request was beyond the prescribed limitation under the said Regulations. The similar representation of the petitioner before the University authorities and the other authorities were rejected on the ground that unless the correction as desired by the petitioner is made in the High School records, no consequent action can be taken.

6. When again the petitioner approached this Court by filing the present petition, this Court by means of an interim order dated 30.07.2021 directed the authorities to reconsider the grievance of the petitioner in the light of the judgment of this Court in the case of Anand Singh vs. U.P. Board of Secondary Education and others (2014) 3 ADJ 443 (DB) and in the case of Kabir Jaiswal vs. Union of India and others; AIR 2021 All 96. On the basis of the said order, the petitioner once again approached the respondent authorities and by means of the subsequent order, the request has been rejected once again on 22.03.2022. An amendment application was filed seeking to challenge the subsequent order dated 22.03.2022.

7. The counsel for the petitioner argues that right to change the name has been held is a facet of fundamental right as guaranteed under Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution of India, as such, he argues that the respondents could not have denied the claim of the petitioner. He further argues that the ground of limitation as taken by the respondents while passing the impugned order is wholly unjustified. He draws my attention to the judgment of this Court in the case of Anand Singh vs. State of U.P. (supra) wherein this court while interpreting the Regulation 7 of Chapter III came to the conclusion and recorded as under :-

"The substantive part of Regulation 7 provides for the correction of such entries in the certificate which have arisen because of any inadvertent clerical mistake or omission in the records of the Board or the Institution last attended by the candidate. It also provides that for this purpose, the candidate has to submit an application within three years of the date of issue of the certificate. However, under the proviso, any spelling mistake occurring in the name of the applicant or in the name of the applicant's father/mother in the certificate can be corrected when an application is filed for this purpose. The nature of the error which is contemplated in the substantive part of Regulation 7 is not the same as contemplated in its proviso nor is any time limit set out in the proviso.

It would be useful to examine the particulars of the candidate that are contained in a certificate issued by the Board. They include the year of the examination, the name of the candidate, the names of the parents, date of birth, subjects opted, division obtained, name of the School/Centre, certificate number, appearance as a regular/private candidate and the date of issue of the certificate. Of these, the date of birth, the subjects opted, the year of examination and the division obtained by the candidate are particulars which have an important bearing when admission to higher classes or employment is sought by the candidate. While making any correction in the entries relating to these matters, the requirement of moving the application within three years has to be adhered to as any correction in regard to these entries would have an impact on the rights of other candidates when they seek admission to higher classes or employment. However, the other particulars contained in the certificate, like the name of the candidate or the names of the parents of the candidate are not that relevant and any correction made in regard to these particulars would have no impact on the admission or employment of other candidates. When so considered, we feel persuaded to hold that the time limit of three years prescribed in the substantive part of Regulation 7 for submission of an application for making correction in the certificate issued by the Board in regard to the name of the candidate or the names of the parents of the candidate should not be insisted upon, particularly when the Board itself has considered it appropriate to have no time limit under the proviso for making correction in regard to any spelling mistake in the name of the candidate or his parents. The applicant must, however, explain to the Board the reasons on the basis of which the application could not be submitted earlier and if it is found that the claim is bona fide and is otherwise justified, there is no reason to reject the application, as in the present case, merely on the ground of delay. Undoubtedly, the Board has to examine whether any genuine ground has been made out for correcting the name and it would be open to the Board to consider all the relevant materials pertaining to the request for correction of the name. "

8. He has further drawn my attention to the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Jigya Yadav (Minor) vs. CBSE and others [Civil Appeal No.3905 of 2011 decided on 03.06.2021] wherein the Apex Court considered the various judgments of the various High Courts and recorded as under :

"171. As regards request for ?change? of particulars in the certificate issued by the CBSE, it presupposes that the particulars intended to be recorded in the CBSE certificate are not consistent with the school records. Such a request could be made in two different situations. The first is on the basis of public documents like Birth Certificate, Aadhaar Card/Election Card, etc. and to incorporate change in the CBSE certificate consistent therewith. The second possibility is when the request for change is due to the acquired name by choice at a later point of time. That change need not be backed by public documents pertaining to the candidate.

(a) Reverting to the first category, as noted earlier, there is a legal presumption in relation to the public documents as envisaged in the 1872 Act. Such public documents, therefore, cannot be ignored by the CBSE. Taking note of those documents, the CBSE may entertain the request for recording change in the certificate issued by it. This, however, need not be unconditional, but subject to certain reasonable conditions to be fulfilled by the applicant as may be prescribed by the CBSE, such as, of furnishing sworn affidavit containing declaration and to indemnify the CBSE and upon payment of prescribed fees in lieu of administrative expenses. The CBSE may also insist for issuing Public Notice and publication in the Official Gazette before recording the change in the fresh certificate to be issued by it upon surrender/return of the original certificate (or duplicate original certificate, as the case may be) by the applicant. The fresh certificate may contain disclaimer and caption/annotation against the original entry (except in respect of change of name effected in exercise of right to be forgotten) indicating the date on which change has been recorded and the basis thereof. In other words, the fresh certificate may retain original particulars while recording the change along with caption/annotation referred to above (except in respect of change of name effected in exercise of right to be forgotten).

(b) However, in the latter situation where the change is to be effected on the basis of new acquired name without any supporting school record or public document, that request may be entertained upon insisting for prior permission/declaration by a Court of law in that regard and publication in the Official Gazette including surrender/return of original certificate (or duplicate original certificate, as the case may be) issued by CBSE and upon payment of prescribed fees. The fresh certificate as in other situations referred to above, retain the original entry (except in respect of change of name effected in exercise of right to be forgotten) and to insert caption/annotation indicating the date on which it has been recorded and other details including disclaimer of CBSE. This is so because the CBSE is not required to adjudicate nor has the mechanism to verify the correctness of the claim of the applicant.

172. In light of the above, in exercise of our plenary jurisdiction, we direct the CBSE to process the applications for correction or change, as the case may be, in the certificate issued by it in the respective cases under consideration. Even other pending applications and future applications for such request be processed on the same lines and in particular the conclusion and directions recorded hitherto in paragraphs 170 and 171, as may be applicable, until amendment of relevant Byelaws. Additionally, the CBSE shall take immediate steps to amend its relevant Byelaws so as to incorporate the stated mechanism for recording correction or change, as the case may be, in the certificates already issued or to be issued by it."

9. In the light of the judgment in the cases of Kabir Jaiswal and Jigya Yadav (supra), it is now clearly well settled that right to change the name is a facet of fundamental right as guaranteed under Article 19(1) (a) of the Constitution of India and cannot be denied. The said right can be exercised in the manner prescribed in the directions as contained in paragraph 171 and 172 of the judgment of Jigya Yadav (supra), as recorded above.

10. In the present case, the foundation based upon which the impugned orders have been passed namely that the request was made beyond the limitation prescribed under Regulation 7 is wholly untenable and the same militates against the law laid down by this Court in the case of Anand Singh vs. U.P. Board of Secondary Education (supra).

11. In view of the law as laid down and discussed above, the stand taken by the respondents denying the petitioner's right to change her name clearly violates her rights guaranteed under Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution of India and not sustainable and is liable to be set aside. Thus, the orders dated 11.04.2019 (Annexure 1) and the order dated 22.03.2022 (Annexure 15) are set aside. The petitioner is directed to move an appropriate application afresh along with a copy of this order and the documents including the Aadhar Card and the PAN Card before the respondent no.2 along with the original certificate and mark-sheet. On receiving such application, the respondent no.2 is directed to carry out the desired change of name in the mark-sheet and Certificate. However, it is clarified that in the fresh certificate and mark-sheet issued to the petitioner, it would contain the name 'Rashmi Srivastava alias/nee, Rajni Shrivastava'. The said exercise shall be completed by the respondent no.2 within six weeks from the date of filing of the application. The petitioner shall thereupon be entitled to file the application before the respondents no.3 and 4 along with original records who shall also make the necessary corrections in the educational certificates/records issued to the petitioner in the light of the said fresh certificate issued to the respondent no.2. It is further directed that the respondent no.2 shall carry out the necessary corrections in the intermediate examination records of the petitioner also which shall be in consonance with the name change, as recorded in the High School Certificate in terms of the directions given above.

12. With the aforesaid observations, the writ petition stands disposed off.

(Para 14 and 15)

Writ petition disposed of. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta, J.
Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vinayak Mithal, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned standing counsel for respondents No. 1, 3 and 4, Sri Pankaj Srivastava for respondent No. 2 and perused the record.

2. At the outset, Sri Vinayak Mithal, learned counsel for the petitioner states that he does not wish to rebut the additional counter affidavit filed on behalf of the second respondent and prays that the instant petition be heard and decided.

3. The facts, which are not in dispute, are that the respondent Nagar Nigam issued an advertisement on 16.10.2004 inviting bids for auction of 25 plots to be settled on lease hold basis. One Jai Prakash Agarwal was the highest bidder for plot No. 604 as he had offered a premium of Rs. 23,50,000/- for obtaining the lease. It seems that twenty five percent of the premium amount was deposited by him on 22.12.2004 as earnest money on fall of the hammer. As per terms of auction, remaining amount was to be deposited within fifteen days of approval of the bid. Thereafter, the allottee had to take steps for execution of the lease deed within one month. On 7.3.2005, Jai Prakash Agarwal was informed that his bid had been accepted. Thereafter, it is alleged that he inspected the plot and came to know that it was under litigation and in illegal occupation of certain person. It also appears from the material placed on record that Nagar Nigam made efforts to obtain possession of the plot by requesting the Senior Superintendent of Police, Meerut to take action against illegal occupants. It is also an admitted fact that on 9.11.2009, Jai Prakash Agarwal submitted an application along with affidavit before respondent No. 2 for transfer of allotment in favour of the petitioner. The said request, it seems, was made in terms of Clause 17 of the auction document. By a communication dated 30.3.2012, the petitioner was informed that the request for transfer of the allotment in favour of the petitioner had been approved by Nagar Ayukt by order dated 6.3.2012 and the petitioner was required to deposit the remaining premium amount i.e. a sum of Rs.14,25,000/- along with 15% lease rent i.e. Rs. 3,52,500/-, in all a sum of Rs. 17,77,500/- to facilitate execution of lease deed in favour of the petitioner. The petitioner deposited Rs. 17,77,500/- on 7.12.2012, however, the lease was not executed in his favour. This compelled the petitioner to file the instant writ petition praying for a mandamus commanding the second respondent no. 2 to execute lease deed in favour of the petitioner and hand over vacant possession of the subject land within stipulated period.

4. According to respondent-Nagar Nigam, initially the original allottee Jai Prakash Agarwal moved an application on 19.3.2005 that he was no more interested in the plot and that the money deposited by him be returned to him. Thereafter, on 23.10.2009, he made request for allotment to be transferred in favour of one Surendra Pratap, followed by another application dated 9.11.2019 for transfer of the allotment in favour of the petitioner herein.

5. The case set up by Nagar Nigam, Meerut before this Court is that now it is not in a position to execute the lease deed. It is alleged that a gazette notification was issued on 11.9.1987 extending the limits of Nagar Nigam, Meerut so as to include the disputed plot as well. The said land, according to respondent No. 2, was banjar land and consequently vested in the government. On its inclusion within limits of Nagar Nigam, it came under the management of Nagar Nigam. In support of said stand, copy of Khatauni has been brought on record wherein the entry is 'Banjar-Nagar Nigam'.

6. The respondent Nagar Nigam contends that by virtue of section 128 of the Uttar Pradesh Municipal Corporation Act, 1959, it did not had any right to transfer the land without prior permission of the State Government and that no such permission was ever granted. It is also the case of the said respondent that subsequently, the State Government by another notification dated 14.9.2011 resumed the said plot in exercise of power under Section 117 (6) of the UP Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 for the Home Department, Uttar Pradesh to establish office of Anti-Terrorism Squad, Meerut Unit. In support of the said plea, copy of Khatauni of 1422-1427 Fasli has been brought on record. It is submitted that as a consequence of above, the Nagar Nigam was divested of all its rights. In other words, the contention is that the Nagar Nigam now does not have any right in the subject land nor is empowered to execute lease deed as has been prayed for in the writ petition.

7. In paragraph No. 13 of the additional counter affidavit, it is alleged that Municipal Commissioner, Nagar Nigam, Meerut passed an order on 26.7.2019 (during pendency of the writ), rejecting the claim of the petitioner. Consequently, cheques representing the sum realised from the petitioner (Rs. 17,77,500/-) were tendered to counsel for the petitioner, but he refused to accept. The said fact is also not disputed by Sri Vinayak Mithal, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner. He states that as the petitioner was pressing for execution of the lease deed in his favour, therefore, the offer to receive back the money, was declined.

8. He further submitted that in any event, the petitioner not being at fault, he is entitled to refund of the money with interest and exemplary compensation for the losses suffered by him in the process.

9. We have considered the rival submissions. In the backdrop of the admitted facts, we proceed to examine as to whether the petitioner could be granted the principal relief, i.e. a direction to the respondent Nagar Nigam, to execute lease deed in his favour and deliver possession of the subject land.

10. The notification dated 11.9.1987 published in Government Gazette seeks to include certain areas within the limits of Nagar Nigam, Meerut. It was issued in exercise of power under Section 3 of the U.P. Municipal Corporation Adhiniyam, 1959 (previously U.P. Nagar Mahapalika Adhiniyam, 1959). The subject land is plot no. 604, Village Roshanpur Darauli. Indisputably, as a consequence of the notification dated 11.9.1987, the subject land, Plot No. 604 of revenue Village Roshanpur Darauli got included in the territorial limits of Nagar Nigam, Meerut. As per khatauni, it is recorded as 'banjar' in name of Nagar Nigam, Meerut. Section 126 of the Act stipulates the manner of succession to property, assets, rights, liabilities and obligations of the Municipal Corporation constituted under the Act. Sub-Section 1 thereof provides the manner in which vesting of properties and assets takes place in favour of the Corporation. According to it, the plot in dispute, consequent to issuance of notification under Section 3 of the Act ceases to be under the control of the local authority having jurisdiction immediately preceding issuance of notification under Section 3 of the Act and come to be vested in Nagar Nigam, Meerut. Section 126(1)(a) and (b) which are relevant, are extracted below: -

"126. Succession to property, assets, rights, liabilities and obligations in certain cases. - (1) As from the appointed day [and subject to any direction of the State Government in this behalf] -

(a) all property, interests in property and assets including cash balances, wherever, situate which immediately before such day were vested in any [Municipal Council], Improvement Trust or other local authority established for the area included in the City or any part of such area or in any local authority having jurisdiction both within and outside such area shall vest in and be held by the Corporation of such City, for the purposes of this Act, and

(b) all rights, liabilities and obligations of the aforesaid [Municipal Council], Improvement Trust or other local authority [in relation to the area included in the City] whether arising out of any contract or otherwise, existing immediately before such day shall be the rights, liabilities and obligations of such Corporation."

10. Consequently, on 16.10.2004, when advertisement was issued, Nagar Nigam, Meerut was fully competent to settle it on leasehold basis. It is an admitted fact on record that for one reason or the other, the matter remained pending and on 14.9.2011, a notification was issued under Section 117(6) of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 by the State Government, resuming the subject land for use by the Home Department for constructing office of Anti-Terrorism Squad, Meerut Unit. As a consequence of the same, Nagar Nigam, Meerut was divested of its title, right and interest in the subject land. Section 117(6) which is relevant, is extracted below: -

"117(6) The State Government may, at any time, [by general or special order to be published in the manner prescribed], amend or cancel any [declaration, notification or order] made in respect of any of the things aforesaid, whether generally or in the case of any Gaon Sabha or other local authority and resume such thing and whenever the State Government so resumes any such thing, the Gaon Sabha or other local authority, as the case may be, shall be entitled to receive and be paid compensation on account only of the development, if any, effected by it in or over that thing :

Provided that the State Government may after such resumption, make a fresh declaration under sub-section (2) vesting the thing resumed in the same or any other local authority (including a Gaon Sabha), and the provisions of sub-section (3), (4) and (5), as the case may be, shall mutatis mutandis apply to such declaration."

11. Since, Nagar Nigam, Meerut is now having no right, title or interest in the subject land, it also cannot transfer any right in favour of the petitioner, nor is competent to execute any lease deed, the principal prayer made in the petition. The submission of learned counsel for the respondent Nagar Nigam in this behalf is therefore accepted.

12. However, the matter does not rest here. Initially, Nagar Nigam, Meerut was not in position to deliver possession of subject land to the original allottee on account of certain rival claim of title in the subject land. This is evident from a communication sent by the Municipal Commissioner, Nagar Nigam, Meerut to the District Magistrate, Meerut on 7.4.2005, mentioning that the subject land is recorded as banjar and consequently it vests in Nagar Nigam, Meerut. The rival claim relating to any portion of subject land being part of a burial ground, was disputed in the said communication. Another communication by Municipal Commissioner, Nagar Nigam, Meerut to Senior Superintendent of Police, Meerut dated 10.8.2007 reveals that subject land was not in possession of Nagar Nigam, Meerut, as it is admitted therein that one Mehak Singh Tank and his accomplices were not permitting the original allottee to take possession of the plot and request was made for providing police aid to facilitate handing over of possession to the allottee. It is also clear beyond doubt that the original allottee being unable to obtain possession, tried to get rid of the predicament by surrendering and transferring the allotment. However, the Nagar Nigam kept dragging its feet in the matter and ultimately it even approved transfer of allotment in favour of the petitioner on 30.6.2012, oblivious of the notification dated 14.9.2011, under Section 117(6) of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, divesting it of all its rights in the subject land. On the other hand, the petitioner bonafidely acting on the assurance extended to him by letter dated 30.3.2012, deposited the balance amount of Rs. 14,25,000/- and 15% lease rent amounting to Rs. 3,52,500/-, in all a sum of Rs. 17,77,500/-, expecting that it would be followed by execution of lease deed and entitlement to use the subject land, but once again Nagar Nigam, Meerut kept the matter pending.

13. It appears from the note sheet that even after 14.9.2011, Nagar Nigam, Meerut was not certain of the course to be adopted and on 20.6.2014, Municipal Commissioner, Nagar Nigam made an endorsement that the matter required permission of the State Government and enquired whether it had been obtained or not. Again note sheet dated 13.6.2014 reveals that there is office noting that on 15.2.2005, a Committee headed by Divisional Commissioner approved settlement of the land by auction; that now no suit was pending in respect of the subject land; that entire sum was in deposit with Nagar Nigam; that the land was vacant and that lease deed could be executed in favour of the petitioner in terms of Clause 17 of the auction document. On 13.6.2014 again, there is noting by Municipal Commissioner that in the first instance, a lease deed would be executed in favour of original allottee and then original allottee would execute lease deed in favour of the petitioner. He also made a query as to why lease deed had not been executed so far and also relating to possession/title of the subject land. It is also the specific case of the petitioner that in respect of other adjoining plots, auctioned on the same day, lease deeds were executed soon after the auction, but only in respect of petitioner's plot, the Nagar Nigam authorities had kept the matter pending.

14. It is clear from the facts noted above that it is Nagar Nigam, Meerut which was at fault in approving transfer of allotment in favour of the petitioner on 30.3.2012, despite issuance of notification under Section 117(6) of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act on 14.9.2011. Nagar Nigam, Meerut, at that time, ought to have informed the original allottee that transfer of allotment was not possible as Nagar Nigam, Meerut itself had been divested of its title. The petitioner having deposited huge sum, acting on the representation of Nagar Nigam, Meerut, is entitled to be compensated adequately.

15. Accordingly, we direct Nagar Nigam, Meerut to refund Rs. 17,77,500/- deposited by the petitioner on 7.12.2012, with 8% per annum simple interest, till the date of actual payment and a further sum of Rs. 5 lakhs as compensation in depriving the petitioner of the use and enjoyment of the subject land. These amounts shall be paid to the petitioner within one month from the date of communication of the instant order, failing which, interest @ 14% will be payable on the entire sum for the period in default, till date of actual payment.

16. In case the petitioner produces No-Objection Certificate along with affidavit of the original allottee for release of 25% of the bid amount deposited by him as earnest money, the said amount shall also be released in favour of the petitioner.

17. The petition stands disposed of accordingly.

Writ petition dismissed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Amreshwar Pratap Sahi, J.
Hon'ble Rajiv Lochan Mehrotra, J.)

1. Heard Sri Krishn Ji Khare, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Bhupeshwar Dayal, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. The petitioners have come up with a plea that the provisions of the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 would be attracted on the facts of the present case, firstly because the award will be deemed to have been finally made only when the final amount came to be determined on compromise in the proceedings which according to Sri Khare cannot be termed as proceedings of reference ending in the judgment under Section 18 of the 1984 Act. The second argument of Sri Khare is that the word compensation is included in the definition of the words "cost of acquisition" as defined Section 3(i) of the 2013 Act. The acquisition proceedings where the earlier compromise of 2003 was given effect to, should be read in continuity and therefore the consequential order will relate back to the date of the award under Section 11. He therefore, submits that this will amount to giving of an award and consequently the provisions of Sub-Section (2) and Section 24 would be attracted as these proceedings have to be treated as award under the aforesaid provision for extending the benefit as prayed for by the petitioner.

3. Section 24 (2) is extracted herein under:

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), in case of land acquisition proceedings initiated under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (1 of 1894) , , where an award under the said section 11 has been made five years or more prior to the commencement of this Act but the physical possession of the land has not been taken or the compensation has not been paid the said proceedings shall be deemed to have lapsed and the appropriate Government, if it so chooses, shall initiate the proceedings of such land acquisition afresh in accordance with the provisions of this Act:

Provided that where an award has been made and compensation in respect of a majority of land holding has not been deposited in the account of the beneficiaries, then, all beneficiaries specified in the notification for acquisition under section 4 of the said Land Acquisition Act, shall be entitled to compensation in accordance with the provisions of this Act."

4. It is an undisputed fact that the proceedings which have culminated in the compromise being arrived at was on a reference made by the Collector under Section 18 of the 1894 Act. The argument of Sri Khare that this should not to be treated to have culminated in a judgment in reference therefore, is unacceptable inasmuch as, had the reference not been made then there would have been no compromise and consequently this would be clearly a proceeding of reference under Section 18 for payment of enhanced compensation and not an award by the Collector under Section 11 of the 1984 Act. A reference is decided by a Court and not by the Collector who announces the award under Section 11 of the 1984 Act. The definition of the phrase "cost of proceedings" cannot add any such meaning to the word "award" under Section 11 of the Act.

5. We had framed the following question vide our order dated 10th August 2017:

"Heard Sri Krishan Ji Khare, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri B.Dayal, learned counsel for the respondents.

The dispute in the present writ petition centers around land acquisition proceedings and about the applicability of section 24 (2) of The Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013.

The contention of the learned counsel for the petitioners appears to be that the petitioners having accepted the compensation under protest, they filed a Reference under Section 18 of the 1894 Act which is stated to have been decided on the basis of compromise.The amount awarded in compromise by the Court having not been paid or deposited would attract section 24(2) of the Act, 2013.

Sri B. Dayal refutes the aforesaid contention of the applicability of section 24(2) of The Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 and Section 31 of The Land Acquisition Act, 1894. Both Sections are categorical to the effect that on making an award under section 11 of the Land Acquisition Act, such proceedings can be taken into account for staking a claim and not on the basis of proceedings under reference ending in an order of adjudication or further adjudication awarding enhanced compensation. In both Sections it is the award under section 11 of the Act, 1894 that is the basis of calculation.Consequently, the plea of the learned counsel for the petitioners cannot be accepted.

Learned counsel for the petitioners prays for time to study the matter.

List in the next cause list."

6. We have not been able to find any answer from Sri Khare to the aforesaid question framed inasmuch as the words used in Sub-Section (2) of Section 24 are clearly to the effect that the same would apply in Land Acquisition proceedings where an award under Section 11 of the1894 Act has been made. Thus for the purpose of calculating the leeway period of 5 years and for applying the provisions of lapse, the word "award" in Section 11 would be attracted and not the words "reference under Section 18". The definition clause relied upon by Sri Khare which defines "cost of acquisition" has no relevance at all so far as the applicability of provisions of Section 24 are concerned. The arguments of Sri Khare are misconceived, therefore, untenable. The argument that in the agreement arrived at in the reference proceedings would relate back to the date of award is equally misconceived inasmuch as no such contingency has been contemplated under Section 24 of the Act.

7. The petition lacks merit and is accordingly rejected.

As per the First Information Report, on 25.2.2021, at about 4.00 PM, the daughters of PW-1, namely, PW-4, aged about 15 years, and the deceased, aged about 12 years, went along with their mother (PW-2) to fertilize their field. In the meantime, the deceased went to the house of Ram Niwas (father of appellant) to have water. When she did not return, her mother (PW-2) sent PW-4 to look for her but she (PW-4) could not find the deceased in the house of Ram Niwas though she noticed the door of the house of Ram Niwas bolted from inside. PW-2 thought that the deceased must have gone back home. But when PW-2 returned from the field after about an hour, she did not find her daughter i.e. the deceased at home. When PW-1 returned back, PW-2 narrated the entire incident to him. Immediately whereafter, PW-1 went to the house of Ram Niwas but did not find his daughter (deceased) there. By alleging that from that very day the son of Ram Niwas, namely, Harendra (appellant), is also missing, FIR was lodged by PW-1 expressing suspicion against Harendra (the appellant) that he has vanished with his daughter (deceased).

7. On 2.3.2021, an application (Ext.Ka-2) was submitted by PW-1 stating therein that on 28.2.2021 he lodged a report against Harendra (the appellant) son of Ram Niwas under Section 363 IPC at Police Station Anoopshahar on suspicion whereas, on 2.3.2021 when PW-1 along with Rajni Sadhwi, Bhola Chaudhari, Vishnu Chaudhari, Rajveer, Veerpal entered the house of Ram Niwas in search of the deceased, they found soil near the latrine freshly laid. When he stepped on it, his foot sank. Suspecting something amiss the soil was dug/removed with "a spade".

They then discovered dead body of the deceased lying there. By stating as above and by claiming that the body of the deceased is lying at the spot, prayer was made for appropriate action. On this information, Police arrived at the spot, recovered the dead body from the house of Ram Niwas (father of the appellant) and prepared inquest report (Ext. Ka-6) on 2.3.2021 at about 6.00 PM; whereafter, the dead body was sent for autopsy.

8. On 2.3.2021, at about 11.14 PM, the post mortem examination of the body of deceased commenced which was concluded on 3.3.2021 at about 00.20 hours i.e. 12.20 AM.

9. As per autopsy report (Ex.Ka-5) following ante mortem injuries were found on the body of deceased;

(I) A ligature mark of size 25 cm x 2 cm present around the neck with a gap of 3 cm at back of neck. Mark present at 5cm below both ears horizontally placed above thyroid cartilage. On exploration echymosis present underneath and hyoid bone was found fractured.

According to the autopsy surgeon death was caused due to asphyxia as a result of ante mortem strangulation. The estimated time of death was six to seven days before.

10. During autopsy, Gynaecological Examination was also done. Autopsy report (Ex.Ka-5) in this regard recites as follows:

"Gynaecological Examination of Pelvical Region is done by me and two vaginal smears/slides are prepared and 1 swab is taken from vulva and one smear is taken from vagina. The pubic hair are cut and preserved. 1 comb from pubic hair is preserved and 1 comb from scalp hair is preserved. On local examination of pelvical region:- the margin of labia majora are oedematous and irregular. There is tear in labia majora at 3' 0 Clock position. Blood clot is present. The vaginal introitus is irregular in shape. The pelvical region is covered by soil and after cleaning, examination was done. The nails with scraps are preserved."

11. On 2.3.2021, the Investigating Officer prepared recovery memo (Ext.Ka-11) of the soil from the pit i.e. the place from where the body was recovered. However, the appellant was shown arrested from Chandigarh and on 3.3.2021, at about 3.30 PM, on the pointing out of the appellant, after further digging the pit from where dead body of deceased was recovered, a blue colour lower, red colour T-shirt and one pair of slipper of red colour (belonging to the deceased) and black coloured red blue T-shirt as well as grey colour lower (both belonging to the appellant) were also recovered, which, the appellant was allegedly wearing at the time of incident. In respect of this recovery, a recovery memo (Ext.Ka-12) was prepared.

12. After investigation, on 10.3.2021 charge sheet under Sections 363, 302, 201 and 376 AB, IPC and Section 5(m)/6 of POCSO Act was submitted in the Court of Special Judge (POCSO ACT)/Additional Sessions Judge, Bulandshahr.

13. On 12.3.2021, the trial court framed charges against the appellant under Sections 363, 376 AB,302, 201 IPC and Section 5(m)/6 of POCSO Act. Appellant denied all the charges and claimed trial. During trial, prosecution examined ten witnesses, PW-1, PW-2, PW-4 and PW-5 are witnesses of fact whereas rest of the prosecution witnesses are formal witnesses. After recording the statement of prosecution witnesses, trial court recorded the statement of appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and after analysing the evidence on record, convicted the appellant under Sections 302, 201 and 376 AB, IPC and Section 5(m)/6 of POCSO Act.

14. We have heard Sri Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, learned Amicus Curiae appointed by the High Court, Legal Aid Services Committee, for the appellant and Sri Amit Sinha along with Sri J.K.Upadhyaya, learned AGA, for the State, and have perused the record of the case.

SUBMISSION ON BEHALF OF THE APPELLANT

15. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that present case is based on circumstantial evidence and there is no eye witness account of the incident. The trial court wrongly convicted the appellant in spite of the fact that the prosecution failed to prove any of the incriminating circumstances against the appellant beyond the pale of doubt. He submitted that there is no admissible evidence on the basis of which the appellant may be connected with the present crime. Further, there is no evidence of the appellant being last seen alive with the deceased. Even the recovery of the dead body allegedly from the house of appellant is self-serving and in absentia therefore, has no incriminating value.

16. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that the alleged disclosure in respect of recovery of clothes of the deceased and of the appellant is not admissible as the place from where these clothes were allegedly recovered had been discovered already on 2.3.2021 i.e. a day before the said recovery. He submitted that on the basis of suspicion alone, the appellant has been falsely implicated. The FSL report cannot be used against the appellant in the present case as no blood was found on the recovered clothes of the appellant and the DNA too, could not be matched.

17. Sri Deshwal, learned counsel for the appellant also submitted that the trial court wrongly interpreted the FSL Report to assume that the lower carried gene material of female origin therefore, the appellant was involved when, in fact, there was no basis to assume that the lower was of the appellant. It was thus prayed that the order of conviction be set aside.

18. Learned counsel for appellant lastly submitted that as the present case rests on circumstantial evidence, death penalty is not to be awarded.

SUBMISSION ON BEHALF OF THE STATE

19 Per contra, learned AGA submitted that this is a case where a minor girl (deceased) has been brutally murdered after rape and as her dead body was recovered from a pit situated in the house of the appellant, this by itself is sufficient to convict the appellant. Learned AGA submitted that from the testimony of PW-2, mother of deceased, and PW-4, the sister of the deceased, it was proved that the deceased went inside the house of the appellant on 26.02.2021 to have water and thereafter, she did not return. PW-1 (the father of the deceased) in his statement disclosed that on the next day i.e. on 26.2.2021, when he went to the house of the appellant, he met the appellant in his house, who appeared nervous and had scratch marks on his face and neck. Thereafter, appellant absconded from the house.

20. Learned AGA submitted that the incriminating circumstances were duly proved and constituted a chain of circumstances indicating that the appellant is the person who committed rape and murder of the deceased therefore, the trial court has rightly convicted him. Hence, the present appeal is liable to be dismissed.

21. On the question of sentence, learned AGA submitted that as the appellant committed rape of a minor girl, aged below 12 years, and brutally murdered her, the trial court rightly awarded him death penalty.

22. Having noticed the rival contentions and having perused the record, before analysing the evidence in the context of the rival contentions, it would be apposite to notice the prosecution evidence, in brief.

ANALYSIS

34. The present case rests on circumstantial evidence. There is no eye witness account of either rape or murder. The law with regard to conviction on the basis of circumstantial evidence is now settled. The Supreme Court in the case of Sarad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra (1984) 4 SCC 116 reiterated the legal principles in that regard as follows:

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra [(1973) 2 SCC 793] where the observations were made :

"Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between "may be' and "must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved,

and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion ` consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

154. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence. "

35. The above principles have been recently discussed and followed by a three Judges Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Pappu Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh 2022 Live Law (SC) 144.

36. Summarising these legal principles, in Lochan Shrivas Vs. The State of Chhattisgarh, Manu/SC/1252./2021, a three Judge Bench of the Supreme Court, in para-14, observed as under:

"14. It is thus clear that for resting a conviction in the case of circumstantial evidence, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn, should be fully established, and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency, and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis, but the one proposed to be proved. There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused, and it must be such as to show that within all human probabilities, the act must have been done by the accused."

37. Bearing these legal principles in mind, we shall now evaluate the evidence of the case in hand. In the present case, the prosecution has relied upon the following circumstances:-

(I) On 25.2.2021 at about 4 PM the deceased entered the house of the appellant and was not seen alive thereafter.

(II) On 26.2.2021 PW-1 (father of the deceased) went to the house of the appellant to enquire about his missing daughter (the deceased) where he met the appellant. At that time though the appellant denied having any knowledge about informant's daughter but he noticed the appellant was nervous and having scratch marks on his neck.

(III) That except the appellant no other family member was present in the house on 26.02.2021 and, thereafter, the appellant left the hosue.

(IV) That on 2.3.2021, at about 3.00 PM, PW-1 (father of the deceased), accidentally, during search, found the dead body of his daughter (deceased) buried in a pit inside the house of the appellant.

(V) Upon receipt of information from PW-1, on 2.3.2021 the dead body was taken out from the pit by the Police and after inquest, autopsy was conducted on 03.03.2021, which suggested that the deceased was subjected to sexual assault and killed. The cause of death was due to asphyxia as a result of ante-mortem strangulation and the death was estimated to have occurred 6-7 days before, which coincides with the date of entry of the deceased in that house. Further, in the FSL Report presence of blood in the soil was found though its origin could not be confirmed due to disintegration.

(VI) On 3.3.2021 the appellant was arrested and on his disclosure statement, clothes of appellant and deceased, alleged to have been worn at the time of incident, were recovered from that pit where the dead body of the deceased was found, after digging further.

(VII) FSL report shows presence of human sperm on the underwear, lower and a used condom recovered from the spot by the field unit team.

(VIII) As per FSL report, male allele presence was found on vaginal slide, vaginal swab,vulval swab, piece of cloth plus hair of the victim and the DNA of the Hair comb of the victim matched with the biological material found present in the lower and it was of female origin.

FIRST CIRCUMSTANCE RELIED BY PROSECUTION.

38. PW-1, father of the deceased, PW-2- mother of the deceased, and PW-4 (elder sister of the deceased) in their testimony stated that on 25.2.2021 at about 4.00 PM deceased entered the house of appellant to have water and thereafter she could not be traced and on 2.3.2021 her body was dug out from a pit inside the house of appellant. Although PW-1 in his examination-in-chief stated that he had also witnessed the deceased entering the house of appellant but in his cross-examination PW-1 stated that when he returned home at about 6.00 PM, his wife (PW-2) had informed him about the deceased going there and then, on the next day, he visited the house of appellant. Thus, the testimony of PW-1 that he also witnessed the victim entering the house of appellant on 25.2.2021 at about 4.00 PM appears doubtful.

39. However, the testimony of PW-2, the mother of the deceased, and PW-4, elder sister of the deceased, is consistent with regard to the deceased entering the house of the appellant on 25.2.2021 at about 4.00 PM to have water. According to PW-2 and PW-4, they saw the deceased entering the house of appellant. During cross-examination no suggestion was put to either of the two witnesses, namely, PW-2 and PW-4, that they did not witness the deceased entering the house of appellant. Therefore, the fact that on 25.2.2021, at about 4.00 PM, deceased entered the house of appellant has been proved by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt.

SECOND CIRCUMSTANCE RELIED BY PROSECUTION.

40. PW-1 (father of the deceased) stated that on 26.2.2021 he visited the house of appellant to enquire about the deceased. He then met the appellant at his house. When he enquired about his daughter (the deceased), the appellant did not provide any information but appeared nervous and he left his house thereafter. PW-1 further stated that he noticed scratch marks on the neck of the appellant. Notably, no suggestion was put to this witness that there were no scratch marks or that the witness is telling lies in respect of the presence of scratch marks. Further, there is no suggestion to this witness that he did not visit the house of the appellant on 26.02.2022 or that on 26.02.2022 he did not meet the appellant in that house. Therefore, in our view, PW-1 proved beyond reasonable doubt the presence of the appellant at his house on 26.2.2021 and that when he met the appellant, PW-1 noticed scratch marks on the neck of the appellant.

41. At this stage, we may notice the submission of learned counsel for the appellant. He submitted that in the FIR it is specifically mentioned that on 25.2.2021 PW-1 went to the house of appellant and could not find him and since 25.2.2021 appellant is untraceable. It was argued that this statement in the FIR, which was lodged on 28.02.2021, is at variance with the statement in Court that on 26.2.2021 he went to the house of appellant and met him therefore it cannot be accepted.

42. In this regard, we may observe that the law is settled that an FIR is not a substantive piece of evidence unless it falls in any of the specified categories. Ordinarily, it can be used either to corroborate or contradict its maker. (See. Pandurang Chandrakant Mhatre and others Vs. State of Maharashtra (2009) 10 SCC 773).

43. In the present case, during cross-examination, PW-1 was not confronted with the contents of the FIR. Therefore, in our view, averments in the FIR cannot be taken into consideration as the Court can only consider the substantive evidence. In the present case, during cross-examination of PW-1, no attempt was made to confront PW-1 with the averments made in the FIR so as to demonstrate that he did not visit the house of appellant on 26.2.2021. In this view of the matter, in our view, the uncontradicted testimony of PW-1 would have to be believed. We are therefore of the view that the second circumstance relied by the prosecution that on 26.2.2021 PW-1 met the appellant at his house with scratch marks on his neck, is duly proved.

44. To create a doubt with regard to the testimony of PW-1, it was also contended by the learned counsel for the appellant that if PW-1, the informant, met the appellant at his house on 26.2.2021 and had noticed scratch marks on his neck then why the FIR was not lodged by PW-1 before 28.2.2021. It was urged that as the FIR is delayed and PW-1 has offered no explanation with regard to the delay, the testimony of PW-1 is unworthy of credit.

45. In this regard we may observe that the law in respect of delay in lodging the FIR is settled too. In cases like the present one, where a minor daughter has gone missing, the delay of three days is not very material because the family members of a missing girl to hide shame and probing questions, before making their grievance public, make all out effort to trace out the missing girl. It is only when they become helpless that they take recourse to legal process. Therefore, in such cases, the delay in lodging the FIR is not fatal to the prosecution case.

46. Otherwise also, where there is no plausible reason for false implication, delay in setting the law into motion is ordinarily to be condoned. In this regard we may profit from the observations of the Apex Court in the case of P. Rajgopal and others Vs. The State of Tamil Nadu (2019) 5 SCC where, in paragraph-12, a three-judge Bench of the Supreme Court, it was observed :

"12. xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx The delay may be condoned if the complainant appears to be reliable and without any motive for implicating the accused falsely."

47. In the present cae, notably, the defence did not even suggest existence of any kind of enmity of the informant (PW-1) or his family with the appellant. Therefore, there was no occasion for PW-1 to falsely implicate the appellant. Further, PW-1 stated that he had been searching for his daughter (deceased) but when his efforts could not bear fruit, he lodged the FIR on 28.2.2021. Under these circumstances, in our view, three days delay in lodging the FIR is natural and is not such which may render the prosecution version untrustworthy or make it look contrived.

CIRCUMSTANCE NO.3.

48. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that as the gate of the house of appellant was open and was accessible to all and, further, the evidence of PW-1 and PW-5 would suggest that in that house appellant's brother and his family also resided, the recovery of the dead body from a pit inside the house, cannot be considered a clinching circumstance against the appellant. In this regard, we find that though in the testimony of PW-1 and PW-5 it has come that in the house of appellant, his brother and his family also resided but there is no evidence that on 25.2.2021 or till the date of recovery of dead body i.e. 2.3.2021, the brother of the appellant or his family was present in the house. Further, in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. the appellant did not even state that on 25.2.2021 or on 26.2.2021 he was not present in that house or on those dates his brother and/or his family members were present. Rather, in this statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., he admitted his presence in that house on 1.3.2021. It is not his case that he was elsewhere and returned on 01.03.2021. Further, there is evidence of PW-1 that on 26.2.2021 the appellant was present in that house. In fact, PW-4, elder sister of deceased, also stated that when on 25.2.2021 she went to the house of the appellant to look for the deceased, she noticed that the door of the house was bolted from inside. In our view, since the presence of the appellant in that house on 26.2.2021 is proved by PW-1 and the appellant has not denied his presence in that house on 25.2.2021 or 26.2.2021 and in fact admitted his presence in that house on 1.3.2021, in absence of any evidence or explanation that he was not present in the house on 25.2.2021, it can safely be inferred that on 25.2.2021, at about 4.00 PM, when the deceased entered the house of appellant, he was present in that house and as there is no evidence that his other family members were also present in that house, no benefit can be extended to the appellant on the basis of the testimony of prosecution witnesses that others also resided in that house.

CIRCUMSTANCES NOS. 4 AND 5 RELIED BY PROSECUTION

49. Testimony of PW-1 and PW-5 shows that on 2.3.2021 at about 3.00 PM the dead body of the deceased was found buried in a pit inside the house of appellant and on the information furnished by PW-1, Police arrived at the spot and took out the dead body from that pit on 2.3.2021. The prosecution heavily relies on this circumstance as a clinching circumstance pointing towards the guilt of the appellant. Although, during cross-examination, both the witnesses, namely, PW-1 and PW-5, were given suggestion that the dead body was planted in the house of the appellant but both the witnesses denied the suggestion. Nothing was suggested to those witnesses and nothing could come out from their cross-examination to impute motive to them to make false accusations against the appellant. In our view, therefore, the testimony of PW-1 and PW-5 proves that the dead body of the deceased was discovered by PW-1 and PW-5 on 2.3.2021 buried in a pit inside the house of appellant and on the same day i.e., 2.3.2021 Police on the information furnished by PW-1 took out the dead body of the deceased from that pit.

50. Even PW-2 (mother of the deceased) and PW-4 (elder sister of the deceased) though are not witnesses of discovery of the dead body but they proved that on receipt of information they arrived at the house of appellant and saw the dead body of the deceased lying in the pit in a naked condition. The statement of Police Personnel Maharaj Singh (PW-7), the SI, who conducted the inquest proceeding, and Ram Khet Singh (PW-9), the Investigating Officer of the case, also proves that the dead body of the deceased was recovered on 2.3.2021 from a pit inside the house of appellant on the information given by PW-1.

51. We may also notice here that it is not the case of appellant that the dead body of the deceased was not recovered from his house. Rather, suggestions were put to PW-1 and PW-5 that the dead body was planted in his house. It is therefore established beyond doubt that the dead body was recovered from a pit situated inside the house of appellant. Since the appellant could not suggest any kind of enmity of the prosecution witnesses with him, we reject the defence plea that the dead body was brought from some where else and planted in the house of the appellant. Thus, in our considered view, prosecution has successfully proved that dead body of the deceased was discovered by PW-1 and PW-5 on 2.3.2021, at about 3.00 PM, in a pit situated in the house of appellant and, whereafter, the Police took it out from the pit on the same day and carried out inquest proceeding on the spot.

CIRCUMSTANCE NO.6 RELIED BY PROSECUTION.

52. The next circumstance relied by the prosecution is that on 3.3.2021 at about 15.30 hours (3.30 PM) the clothes of appellant and deceased, alleged to have been worn by them at the time of incident, were recovered from the pit at the instance of the appellant. Statement of Ram Khet Singh (PW-9)(the Investigating Officer) shows that the appellant was arrested from PGI Gate No.2, Chandigarh. Surprisingly, PW-9 did not disclose the date and time of arrest of the appellant. In his cross-examination, PW-9 stated that the entry of the appellant at the Police Station was made on 3.3.2021 at 14.51 hours (2.51 PM). PW-9 neither produced nor proved the G.D. entry of arrest and entry of the appellant at the Police Station. Prosecution did not even produce the arrest memo regarding the arrest of the appellant from Chandigarh. PW-9 in his testimony did not even state that he arrested the appellant. He only stated that on 3.3.3021 at 14.51 hours the entry of appellant at Police Station was made. All of this would suggest that PW-9 did not arrest the appellant. Rather, his arrest was made by some other officer. Therefore, in our view, prosecution has failed to prove the date, time and place of arrest of the appellant.

53. This aspect of the matter may be examined from another angle. According, to the prosecution, the appellant was arrested at Chandigarh. If it is so, it becomes an inter-state arrest therefore, it was necessary for the officer concerned to follow the guidelines issued by Courts from time to time in respect of such arrests. In the case of Sandeep Kumar vs. The State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi) and others i.e. Writ Petition (Criminal) No.2189 of 2018, decided on 12.12.2019), a Division Bench of Delhi High Court, approving the report of a Committee in respect of Protocol to be followed in respect of inter-state arrest, observed as under:

"15. The Committee has, after examining all of the above material in detail, given detailed suggestions as to the protocol to be followed by the police in the event of inter-state arrest. These read as under:

"1. The Police Officer after assignment of the case to him, must seek prior permission/sanction of the higher/superior officers in writing or on phone (in case of urgency) to go out of State/UT to carry out investigation.

2. In a case when the police officer decides to effect an arrest, he must set out the facts and record reasons in writing disclosing the satisfaction that arrest is necessary for the purpose of investigation. At first instance, he should move the Jurisdictional Magistrate to seek arrest/search warrants under Section 78 and 79 Cr PC except in emergent cases when the time taken is likely to result in escape of the accused or disappearance of incriminating evidence or the procurement of arrest/search warrant would defeat the purpose. The Police Officer must record reasons as to what were the compelling reasons to visit other State without getting arrest/search warrants.

3. Before proceeding outside the State, the police officer must make a comprehensive departure entry in the Daily Diary of his Police Station. It should contain names of the police officials and private individuals accompanying him; vehicle number; purpose of visit; specific place(s) to be visited; time and date of departure.

4. If the possible arrestee is a female, a lady police officer be made part of the team. The Police Officers should take their identity cards with them. All police officers in the team should be in uniform; bear accurate, visible and clear identification and name tags with their designations.

5. Before visiting the other State, the Police Officer must endeavour to establish contact with the local Police Station in whose jurisdiction he is to conduct the investigation. He must carry with him the translated copies of the Complaint/FIR and other documents in the language of the State which he intends to visit.

6. After reaching the destination, first of all, he should inform the concerned police station of the purpose of his visit to seek assistance and co-operation. The concerned SHO should provide/render all legal assistance to him. Entry to this effect must be made at the said police station.

7. After reaching the spot of investigation, search, if any should be strictly conducted in compliance of the procedure laid down u/s 100 Cr PC. All endeavour should be made to join independent public witnesses from the neighbourhood. In case of arrest, the police officer must follow the procedure u/s 41A and 41B and Section 50 and 51 Cr PC. The process of arrest carried out by the police must be in compliance with the guidelines given in DK Basu case (Supra) and the provisions of CrPC.

8. The arrested person must be given an opportunity to consult his lawyer before he is taken out of State.

9. While returning, the police officer must visit the local police station and cause an entry made in the Daily Diary specifying the name and address of the person(s) being taken out of the State; articles if any, recovered. The victim's name be also indicated.

10. Endeavor should be made to obtain transit remand after producing the arrestee before the nearest Magistrate unless exigencies of the situation warrant otherwise and the person can be produced before the Magistrate having jurisdiction of the case without infringing the mandate of S. 56 and 57 of Cr.P.C. within 24 hours.

11. The magistrate before whom the arrestee is produced, must apply his mind to the facts of the case and should not grant transit remand mechanically. He must satisfy himself that there exists material in the form of entries in the case diary that justifies the prayer for transit remand. The act of directing remand of an accused is fundamentally a judicial decision. The magistrate does not act in executive capacity while ordering detention of the accused. He must ensure that requirements of S. 41 (l)(b) are satisfied. The police officer must send the case diary along with the remand report so that the magistrate can appreciate the factual scenario and apply his mind whether there is a warrant for police remand or justification for judicial remand or there is no need for any remand at all. The magistrate should briefly set out reasons for his decision. (Manubhai Ratilal Patel v. State of Gujarat, (2013) 1 SCC 314)

12. Another mandatory procedural requirement for the Magistrate considering a transit remand application is spelt out in Article 22 (1) of Constitution of India. This entitles the person arrested to be informed as soon as may be the grounds of such arrest. The Magistrate has to ensure that the arrested person is not denied the right to consult and to be defended by a legal practitioner of his choice. The Magistrate should ask the person arrested brought before him whether in fact he has been informed of the grounds of arrest and whether he requires to consult and be defended by any legal practitioner of his choice. (DK Basu, Supra) After the pronouncement of this judgment by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, new Sections 41A to 41D have been added to prevent unnecessary arrest and misuse of powers. Denying a person of his liberty is a serious matter.

13. In terms of S. 41C, control rooms be established in every district. Names and addresses of the persons arrested and designation of the Police Officers who made the arrest be displayed. Control Room at State level must collect details of the persons so arrested.

14. The police officer must record all the proceedings conducted by him at the spot and prepare an 'arrest memo' indicating time, date of arrest and name of the relation/friend to whom intimation of arrest has been given. It must reveal the reasons for arrest.

15. Since the arrestee is to be taken out of his State to a place away where he may not have any acquaintance, he may be permitted to take along with him (if possible), his family member/acquaintance to remain with him till he is produced before the jurisdictional Magistrate. Such family member would be able to arrange legal assistance for him.

16. The arrested person must be produced before the jurisdictional Magistrate at the earliest, in any case, not beyond 24 hours from the date of arrest excluding the journey time so that arrest of such person and his detention, if necessary, may be justified by a judicial order. The 24 hours period prescribed u/s 57 Cr PC is the outermost limit beyond which a person cannot be detained in police custody. It does not empower a police officer to keep a person in police station a minute longer than is necessary for the purpose of investigation and it does not give him an absolute right to keep a person till 24 hours.

17. On arrival at the police station, the police officer must make an arrival entry in the record and indicate the investigation carried out by him, the person arrested and the articles recovered. He should also inform his senior police officers/SHO concerned about it immediately. The superior Police Officer shall personally supervise such investigation.

18. The police officer should effect arrest u/s 41(l)(b) Cr PC only when he has reasonable suspicion and credible information. He must satisfy himself about the existence of the material to effect arrest. There must be definite facts or averments as distinguished from vague surmises or personal feelings. The materials before him must be sufficient to cause a bona-fide belief. He cannot take shelter under another person's belief or judgment. He must affect arrest at his own risk and responsibility as the effect of illegal arrest could be commission of offence of wrongful confinement punishable u/s 342 IPC. Burden lies on the IO to satisfy the Court about his bona-fide. No arrest can be made because it is lawful for the police officer to do so. Denying a person of his liberty is a serious matter.

19. Medical examination soon after arrest to avoid possibility of physical torture during custody should be conducted.

20. The IO must maintain a complete and comprehensive case diary indicating the investigation carried out by him.

21. The log book of the vehicle used for transportation must be maintained and signed. The IO must indicate whether the vehicle was official or a private one; name of its driver and how and by whom it was arranged. Only official vehicle should be used for transportation to the extent possible.

22. At the time of recovery of the prosecutrix, the police officer, if he is satisfied that she is adult, should ascertain from her at the spot, whether she was present there with her free will. If the victim/prosecutrix is not willing to accompany the police officer or her relatives, the police officer must not exert force on the prosecutrix to take her away against her wishes. However, if the prosecutrix/victim of her own accord expresses willingness to accompany the police officer/relatives, her consent in writing should be obtained at the spot.

23. In case where the police officer finds the victim/prosecutrix to be a 'minor', soon after recovery, she should be produced before the local Child Welfare Committee for further decision regarding her custody. She must not be made to stay in the Police Station during night hours.

24. Statement of the prosecutrix u/s 164 Cr.P.C. must be recorded at the earliest.

25. MHA/Central Govt/Commissioner of Police must frame suitable guidelines for police officers to render all suitable assistance. The failure to adhere to the rules/guidelines should render the police officer liable for departmental action as well as contempt of the Court.

26. The public prosecutor should provide required assistance to the police officer visiting his State at the time of seeking transit remand.

27. The MHA/State Government should circulate the Rules/Guidelines/Notifications etc from time to time to the Police officers in the State to create awareness. Periodically training should be provided to the Police Officers to sensitize them.

28. Instructions/Guidelines of similar nature should exist in all the States/UTs for speedy, smooth and effective inter-State investigation.

29. The delinquent Police Officer can be directed to pay compensation under the public law and by way of strict liability."

54. In the present case, the arrest of appellant was made in a most casual and cursory manner without following due procedure. It is not disclosed as to what time and by whom the appellant was arrested. Further, there is nothing on record to show whether, before and after the arrest, any information was provided to local authorities of Chandigarh Administration or not. Even an arrest memo was not prepared. Thus, in view of the law laid down by Supreme Court in the case of D.K.Basu Vs. Union of India (1997) 1 SCC 416 and Division Bench of Delhi High Court in the case of Sandeep Kumar (supra), the arrest of the appellant appears to be illegal.

55. In the case of Rammi alias Rameshar Vs. State of M.P.(1999) 8 SCC 649, the Apex Court declined to place reliance on the information furnished by the accused as being basis of the recovery as there appeared material discrepancy between the testimony of the eye witnesses and the I.O. regarding the time when the accused was taken into custody.

56. In the present case, as there is no clear evidence as to when and from where the accused-appellant was arrested whereas the place from where the recovery of clothes etc. was made was already a dug out pit, we are not inclined to accept the information provided by the appellant as the basis of the recovery alleged or that it was made on the pointing out of the appellant.

57. Further, since the recovery of clothes of appellant and deceased was allegedly made on 3.3.2021 from the same pit from where a day before(i.e. on 2.3.2021), dead body of the deceased was recovered, in our view, the evidence that it was recovered at the instance of the appellant is not worthy of acceptance.

CIRCUMSTANCE NO.7 AND 8 RELIED BY PROSECUTION:

58. The next circumstance relied by the prosecution are the FSL reports which show presence of human sperm on the underwear, lower and used condom recovered by the field unit team. The other FSL report relied is in resect of presence male allele found on vaginal slide, vaginal swab, piece of cloth plus hair of the victim.

There is also FSL report with regard to the DNA match of the biological material found on the lower with that of the deceased. In so far as presence of human sperm in condom, lower and under wear is concerned, there is no satisfactory evidence as to whose garments or used condom they were. Further, there is no DNA match report that the sperm had origin in the appellant. Notably, the prosecution does not dispute that in the past other family members resided there. Therefore, in our view , the same is not a clinching circumstance as against the appellant. In so far as presence of male allele on vaginal slide, swab, etc. are concerned even though a DNA match may not have proved that it related to the appellant but it does corroborate the medical report in respect of rape of the victim. In so far as DNA of the biological material found on the lower matching with the deceased is concerned, it cannot be taken as a clinching circumstance against the appellant as it has not been proved satisfactorily that it was appellant's lower and nobody else's.

AGE OF THE DECEASED

59. According to PW-1 (father of the deceased) and PW-2 (mother of the deceased), the deceased was below 12 years of age. During cross-examination, accused-appellant did not contradict the age of the deceased as given by her parents (PW-1 and PW-2). Raj Kumar Singh Raghav (PW-10), the Principal of Primary School, Siraura, Anoopshahar, District Bulandshahar, where the deceased was a student of Class-V, on the basis of record, proved the date of birth of the deceased as 4.5.2010. PW-10 produced the transfer certificate of the deceased issued by the School which was marked Ext. Ka-17. The prosecution thus succeeded in proving that the deceased was a student of Class-V and her date of birth is 4.5.2010. As the date of incident is 25.2.2021, therefore, at the time of incident the age of the deceased would be around 10 years 9 months 21 days. We therefore hold that the deceased was below the age of 12 years on the date of the incident.

DOCTOR'S TESTIMONY

60. According to the Doctor Kirti (PW-6), who proved the post mortem report of the deceased and also did her gynaecological examination, there was tear in labia majora of the deceased at 3 0' Clock position and blood had clotted. PW-6 stated that margin of labia majora was edematous. During cross-examination, PW-6 (Dr. Kirti) accepted the possibility of rape of the deceased. On a question put by the Court, PW-6 stated that the deceased might have been subjected to sexual assault. Further, the presence of allele of male origin in the vaginal smear slide and swab confirm that the deceased was sexually assaulted. We are therefore of the view that before her murder the deceased was subjected to penetrative sexual assault.

61. From the discussion made above, following facts emerge:

(a) On 25.2.2021 at about 4.00 PM deceased entered the house of the appellant to have water and was not seen alive thereafter. Later, on 2.3.2021 her dead body, in a naked condition, was found buried in a pit inside the house of the appellant.

(b) On 25.2.2021 and 26.2.2021 appellant was present in that house and except the appellant, no other member of his family was present in that house on 25.2.2021 and 26.2.2021.

(c) On 26.2.2021, the appellant was noticed in that house by PW-1 with a scratch mark on his neck. Upon query about the girl (the deceased), the appellant appeared nervous and thereafter he escaped.

(d) On 02.03.2021, the body of the deceased was dug out from a pit inside the house. The loose surface of the soil suggested that the pit was recently dug to bury the body.

(e) The autopsy and medical evidence confirmed rape and murder of the deceased on or about 6 to 7 days before the autopsy (i.e. 02.03.2021) which suggests that the deceased was raped and murdered on or about 25.02.202, that is the day when she entered the house of the appellant to have water.

(f) The appellant gave no explanation either in respect of recovery of the body from his house or in respect of involvement of any other person. He also did not deny his presence in the house on 25.02.2021 or on 26.02.2021. The appellant also gave no explanation as to the reason for his implication or about his enmity with the prosecution witnesses so as to demonstrate that it is a case of false implication.

62. When all the above-mentioned proven circumstances are put together, in our view, they form a chain of circumstances so complete that they conclusively point towards the guilt of the appellant and rule out any other hypothesis consistent with his innocence. Thus, in our considered view, the only conclusion hypothesis that can be drawn from these proven circumstance is that it was the appellant who, after committing rape of the deceased, committed her murder and hid her dead body by burying it in a pit of his house.

OFFENCE UNDER POCSO ACT.

63. Penetrative sexual assault is defined in Section 3 of POCSO Act, which runs as follows:

"3. Penetrative sexual assault.-A person is said to commit "penetrative sexual assault" if-

(a) he penetrates his penis, to any extent, into the vagina, mouth, urethra or anus of a child or makes the child to do so with him or any other person; or

(b) he inserts, to any extent, any object or a part of the body, not being the penis, into the vagina, the urethra or anus of the child or makes the child to do so with him or any other person; or

(c) he manipulates any part of the body of the child so as to cause penetration into the vagina, urethra, anus or any part of body of the child or makes the child to do so with him or any other person; or

(d) he applies his mouth to the penis, vagina, anus, urethra of the child or makes the child to do so to such person or any other person."

63. As we have found the deceased to be a child within the meaning of Section 2 (I)(d) of POCSO Act, the appellant is held guilty of the offence of penetrative sexual assault of a child. According to Section 5(m) of POCSO Act, whoever commits penetrative sexual assault on a child below 12 years then he will be deemed to commit an offence of aggravated penetrative sexual assault and would be punished under Section 6 of POCSO Act. In the present case, the post mortem report (Ext.Ka-5 of the deceased) and statement of Dr. Kirti (PW-6) clearly suggests that the death of the deceased was committed by strangulation and she was subjected to sexual assault. The condition of vagina and labia majora (tear at 3 0'Clock) as well as presence of male allele in the vaginal smear and vaginal swab of the deceased clearly suggests that the accused committed penetrative sexual assault on the deceased before her murder and as the age of the girl (the deceased) was below 12 years, the appellant committed the offence of aggravated penetrative sexual assault punishable under Section 6 of POCSO Act.

64. As there was rape of woman below 12 years of age, Section 376-AB IPC also gets attracted. Section 376-AB IPC reads as under:

"376-AB. Punishment for rape on woman under twelve years of age.--Whoever, commits rape on a woman under twelve years of age shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than twenty years, but which may extend to imprisonment for life, which shall mean imprisonment for the remainder of that person's natural life, and with fine or with death:

Provided that such fine shall be just and reasonable to meet the medical expenses and rehabilitation of the victim:

Provided further that any fine imposed under this section shall be paid to the victim."

65. Thus, in our considered view, trial court rightly convicted the appellant under Sections 302, 376 AB, 201 IPC and Section 6 POCSO Act but as there was no commission of offence of kidnapping inasmuch as the deceased on her own entered the house of the appellant, the trial court rightly acquitted him of the charge of offence punishable under Section 363 IPC.

66. As we uphold the conviction of appellant both under Section 376 AB IPC and Section 6 of POCSO Act, under Section 42 of POCSO Act, the appellant may either be punished under Section 6 of POCSO Act or under Section 376 AB IPC , dependent on which one provides for greater punishment.

67. According to Section 42 of the POCSO Act, if an accused is found guilty of an offence punishable under Section 376-AB IPC and also under the provisions of POCSO Act, he is to be punished either under POCSO Act or under IPC, whichever provides greater punishment. Section 42 of POCSO Act is extracted below:

"42. Alternate punishment.-Where an act or omission constitutes an offence punishable under this Act and also under sections 166A, 354A, 354B, 354C, 354D, 370, 370A, 375, 376,  [376A, 376AB, 376B, 376C, 376D, 376DA, 376DB], 376E, section 509 of the Indian Penal Code or section 67B of the Information Technology Act, 2000, then, notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force, the offender found guilty of such offence shall be liable to punishment only under this Act or under the Indian Penal Code as provides for punishment which is greater in degree."

68. From a bare reading Section 42 of the POCSO Act it is clear the appellant may be punished either under Section 6 of POCSO Act (punishment for aggravated penetrative sexual assault) or under Section 376-AB IPC, dependent on whichever provides for a greater punishment.

69. Punishment for aggravated penetrative sexual assault has been provided under Section 6 of POCSO Act as follows:

"6. (1)Punishment for aggravated penetrative sexual assault.--Whoever commits aggravated penetrative sexual assault shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than ten years, but which may extend to imprisonment for life, and shall also be liable to fine, or with death.

(2) The fine imposed under sub-section(1) shall be just and reasonable and paid to the victim to meet the medical expenses and rehabilitation of such victim."

70. A comparative reading of Section 6 of POCSO Act and Section 376-AB of IPC would reveal that the punishment provided therein is at par with each other . Under both the Sections, the minimum sentence is 20 years which may be extended to imprisonment for life, which means remainder of offender's natural life, and with fine or with death.

71. As the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 (POCSO Act) is a Special Act, in our view, if the punishment provided under POCSO Act and the Indian Penal Code is the same then being a Special Act, it would be appropriate that the accused is punished under the provisions of POCSO Act. We therefore hold that the appellant is to be sentenced under Section 6 of POCSO Act instead of Section 376-AB IPC in addition to other offences for which he has been held guilty.

QUESTION OF SENTENCE:

72. The present case is based on circumstantial evidence. Though learned counsel for the appellant vehemently argued that in a case based on circumstantial evidence death penalty should not be awarded but the law is now settled that even a case based on circumstantial evidence, death penalty can be awarded. In the case of Sudam alias Rahul Kaniram Jadhav Vs. State of Maharashtra reported in (2019) 9 SCC 388, a three-Juge Bench of the Supreme Court in paragraph 19.1 observed as under:

"At this juncture, it must be noted that though it may be a relevant consideration in sentencing that the evidence in a given case is circumstantial in nature, there is no bar on the award of the death sentence in cases based upon such evidence (see Swamy Shraddananda v. State of Karnataka, (2007) 12 SCC 288; Ramesh v. State of Rajasthan, (2011) 3 SCC 685)."

Similar view has been reiterated in another three-judge Bench decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Shatrughan Baban Meshram Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2021) SCC 596.

73. In view of the decisions noticed above, we find no force in the argument advanced by learned defence counsel that the appellant cannot be awarded death penalty as the case is based on circumstantial evidence.

74. Now we shall consider whether it is a case in which death penalty is warranted or not ?.

75. It is settled that the death penalty is an exception and it can only be awarded in the rarest of rare cases. The Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Bachan Singh Vs. State of Punjab reported in 1980 (2) SCC 684 took notice of certain aggravating circumstances on the basis of which death penalty may be awarded. These were as follows:

"202. xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx,

Aggravating circumstances : A Court may, however, in the following cases impose the penalty of death in its discretion:

(a) if the murder has been committed after previous planning and involves extreme brutality; or

(b) if the murder involves exceptional depravity; or

(c) if. the murder is of a member of any of the armed forces of the Union or of a member of any police force or of any public servant and was committed – 3

(i) while such member or public servant was on duty; or

(ii) in consequence of anything done or attempted to be done by such member or public servant in the lawful discharge of his duty as such member or public servant whether at the time of murder he was such member or public servant, as the case may be, or had ceased to be such member or public servant; or

(d) if the murder is of a person who had acted in the lawful discharge of his duty under Section 43 of the CrPC, 1973, or who had rendered assistance to a Magistrate or a police officer demanding his aid or requiring his assistance under Section 37 and Section 129 of the said Code."

Thereafter, in paragraph 204, it took notice of certain mitigating circumstances on the basis of which death penalty may be commuted to imprisonment for life. These were as follows:

"204. xxxxxxxxxx

Mitigating circumstances:- In the exercise of its discretion in the above cases, the Court shall take into account the following circumstances:

(1) That the offence was committed under the influence of extreme mental or emotional disturbance.

(2) The age of the accused. If the accused is young or old, he shall not be sentenced to death.

(3) The probability that the accused would not commit criminal acts of violence as would constitute a continuing threat to society.

(4) The probability that the accused can be reformed and rehabilitated. The State shall by evidence prove that the accused does not satisfy the conditions 3 and 4 above.

(5) That in the facts and circumstances of the case the accused believed that he was morally justified in committing the offence.

(6) That the accused acted under the duress or domination of another person.

(7) That the condition of the accused showed that he was mentally defective and that the said defect unpaired his capacity to appreciate the criminality of his conduct."

In Shatrughan Baban Meshram's case (supra), the Supreme Court observed that while awarding death sentence, the mitigating and the aggravating circumstances have to be balanced but in the balance sheet of such circumstances, the fact that the case rests on circumstantial evidence has no role to play.

76. In the present case, the aggravating circumstances against the appellant are:

(i) The appellant committed rape and murder of a minor girl aged below 12 years.

(ii) The deceased was not only a minor girl, below 12 years, but was not totally fit as she used to stammer.

(iii) The appellant exploited the situation of deceased entering the house for water.

(iv) After committing the rape and murder, the appellant buried the body in a pit inside his house to remove the evidence of crime.

77. The mitigating circumstances in favour of the appellant are as follows:

(i) The appellant is a young man aged about 26 years.

(ii) He is not a habitual offender and there is no other case to his credit except the present one.

(iii)There are chances of him being reformed as there is no material on record to suggest that the appellant cannot be reformed or that he is likely to commit offence of the nature under consideration in their appeal.

78. A perusal of the impugned judgement would reflect that the trial court did not consider the mitigating circumstances in favour of appellant while awarding death penalty. Trial court merely considered the aggravating circumstances while awarding death penalty to the appellant. The trial court convicted the appellant on 14.7.2021 and next day i.e. 15.7.2021 awarded him death penalty.

79. Recently, in Pappu Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh (supra) a three-Judge Bench of the Apex Court deprecated such practice while observing as under:

"42. It could at once be noticed that both the Trial Court as also the High Court have taken the abhorrent nature of crime alone to be the decisive factor for awarding death sentence in the present case. As noticed, the Trial Court convicted the appellant on 07.12.2016 and on the next day, proceeded to award the sentence. The impugned sentencing order of the Trial Court does not indicate if the appellant was extended reasonable opportunity to make out a case of mitigating circumstances by bringing relevant material on record. The sentencing order also fails to satisfy if the Trial Court consciously pondered over the mitigating factors before finding it to be a "rarest of rare' case. The approach of the Trial Court had been that the accused-appellant was about 33-34 years of age at the time of occurrence and was supposed to be sensible. The Trial Court would observe that "if such heinous crime is committed by him, it is not justifiable to show any sort of mercy in the punishment.' The High Court though has made rather intense comments on the menace of rape and brutal murder of children as also on the society's abhorrence of such crime but has, thereafter, proceeded to confirm the death sentence with a cursory observation that there were no substantial mitigating factors and the aggravating circumstances were aplenty.

42.1. In other words, the impugned orders awarding and confirming death sentence could only be said to be of assumptive conclusions, where it has been assumed that death sentence has to be awarded because of the ghastly crime and its abhorrent nature. The tests and the norms laid down in the relevant decisions commencing from those in Bachan Singh (supra) seem not to have acquired the requisite attention of the Trial Court and the High Court. It would have been immensely useful and pertinent if the High Court, while taking up the question of confirmation of death sentence and making several comments in regard to the abhorrent nature of crime and its repulsive impact on society, would have also given due consideration to the equally relevant aspect pertaining to mitigating factors before arriving at a conclusion that option of any other punishment than the capital one was foreclosed. The approach of the Trial Court and the High Court in this matter while awarding sentence could only be disapproved; and we do so in no uncertain terms."

80. In the present case, no doubt the offence committed by the appellant was henious in nature and the manner in which it was committed shows depravity but at the same time it is noticed that appellant is a young man with no criminal antecedents and there is nothing on record to rule out the possibility of his reformation and rehabilitation, in our view, therefore, it would be just and proper to award him life imprisonment instead of death sentence. Accordingly, we commute the death penalty awarded by trial court to life imprisonment.

81. The present appeal is thus allowed in part. The death sentence awarded to the appellant is commuted to life imprisonment. The reference to confirm the death penalty is answered in negative. We modify the sentence awarded by the trial court to the appellant under Section 302 IPC and Section 6 of POCSO Act, as follows:

(a)Life imprisonment under Section 302 IPC.

(b)Life imprisonment under Section 6 POCSO Act.

82. Subject to above, the other sentences awarded to the appellant by the trial court including the amount of fine and default sentence will remain intact. The sentence and punishment awarded to appellant under Section 201 IPC is confirmed.

83. Let a copy of this order/judgment and the original record of the lower court be transmitted to the trial court concerned forthwith for necessary information and compliance. The office is further directed to enter the judgment in compliance register maintained for the purpose of the Court.

(5) In view of the judgments of the Apex Court in Bhupinder Sharma vs. State of Himachal Pradesh : (2003) 8 SCC 551 and Nipun Saxena and anothers vs. Union of India and others : 2018 SCC Online 2772, the name of the victim is not being mentioned and transcribed her as victim 'x' in the judgment hereinafter.

(6) At the first instance, application dated 07.02.2008 (Ext. Ka. 2) was moved by the informant Shyam Lal (P.W.1) before the Station House Officer, Police Station Khiro, District Raebareli to the effect that he is the resident of Village Pure Durgin Ka Purwa, Police Station Khiro, District Raebareli. In the evening of about 03:00 O'clock on 05.02.2008, his daughter (victim "x') aged about 5 years, while playing, went towards the house of his neighbour Vrindavan (convict/appellant No.2). After that, his daughter (victim "x') could not be traced despite of search in village and nearby areas. It has been alleged that the son of his brother Ganga Prasad, namely, Avadhesh was murdered one year ago by the family members of Ganga Dhar, against whom legal action was initiated. Therefore, he apprehended that due to the said enmity, these people picked up his daughter (victim "x').

(7) The informant Shyam Lal (P.W.1) got the aforesaid written report (Ext. Ka.2) scribed by his nephew Gyanendra outside the police station Khiro, who after scribing, read it over to him and after that informant put his signature on it and then proceeded to Police Station Khiro, District Raebareli and lodged the same.

(8) The evidence of P.W.6-Constable Brij Kishore Rawat shows that on 07.02.2008, he was posted as Constable Moharrir at Police Station Khiro, District Raebareli. On the basis of written report submitted by the informant Shyam Lal (P.W.1), he prepared Chik F.I.R. No. 07/08 and registered the case as Case Crime No. 20 of 2008, under Section 364 I.P.C. He proved the Chik F.I.R. (Ext. Ka. 9) and G.D. (Ext.Ka. 10).

(9) A perusal of the chik FIR shows that the distance between the place of incident and Police Station Khiro was 15 kilometers. It is significant to mention that a perusal of the chik FIR also shows that on its basis, a case crime no. 20 of 2008, under Section 364 I.P.C. was registered against the family members of Gangadhar, resident of Village Durgin Ka Purwa, Police Station Khiro, District Raebareli.

(10) Thereafter, on 08.02.2008, informant, Shyam Lal (P.W.1) had filed another application/written report (Ext.Ka.1) at Police Station Khiro, District Raebareli, informing that on 07.02.2008 he gave information about the missing of his daughter (victim 'x'). However, on 08.02.2008, in the morning at about 6-6:15 A.M., his wife Smt. Dhanawati (P.W.2) and his niece Milana daughter of Shiv Shankar Yadav came and told him, family members and relatives that his neighbours Heera Lal Yadav (convict/appellant no.1) s/o Triloki, Anil Kumar Yadav s/o Shakun Chandra Yadav, Resu d/o Prem Candra Yadav, Urmila and Vrindavan Yadav (convict/appellant no.2) went towards an under construction house of Prabhudei (D.W.1) wife of Gaya Prasad Yadav while carrying white sack, which seemed to be heavy and full. On this information, he (P.W.1), his brother Ganga Prasad, Sri Lal and his relatives Dev Narayan Yadav (P.W.3), Awadh Pal and Gyanendra Kumar Yadav (who transcribed the written report Ext. Ka.2) ran to the under construction house of Prabhudei (D.W.1) and saw that aforesaid accused persons were hiding the white sack in the under construction house of Prabhudei (D.W.1). Thereafter, Heera Lal Yadav (convict/appellant no.1) and Urmila were caught on the spot, whereas accused Anil Kumar Yadav and Resu fled away from there. Thereafter, when they opened the sack, they found the corpse of his daughter (victim "x'). On hue and cry, the police personnel present in the village reached at the place of occurrence.

(11) The evidence of P.W.8-S.I. Karunesh Singh shows that on 08.02.2008, he was posted as Constable Maharir at Police Station Khiro District Raebareli. On the said date at 7:15 A.M., the informant (Shyam Lal Yadav P.W.1) of Case Crime No. 20 of 2008 under Section 364 I.P.C. came at Police Station Khiro District Raebareli and submitted an application regarding the corpse of his missing daughter (victim 'x') and also about catching the accused persons. On the aforesaid written report (Ext. Ka.1), Sections 147, 302, 201, 120B I.P.C. were added in Case Crime No. 20 of 2008.

(12) The evidence of P.W.5, S.I. Raj Pal Singh shows that on 03.03.2007, he was posted as Principal Writer at Police Station Khiro District Raebareli. On the said date, on the basis of written report of Shri Ganga Prasad, chik No.14 of 2007, Crime No.43 of 2007 under Sections 302/201 I.P.C. was lodged at 11:15 A.M. against accused persons Anil Kumar, Vrindavan and Prem Chandra. He proved the said F.I.R. (Ext. Ka-7) and concerned G.D. (Ext. Ka-8).

(13) The investigation of the case was conducted by P.W.10 S.I. Rakesh Pratap Singh, who in his examination-in-chief, had deposed before the trial Court that on 07.02.2008, he was posted as Station House Officer at Police Station Khiro District Raebareli. On 07.02.2008, he started the investigation of Case Crime No.20 of 2018, under Section 364 I.P.C. On 07.02.2008, he recorded the statements of informant, Shyam Lal (P.W.1), his wife Smt. Dhanawati (P.W.2) and also inspected the place of occurrence and prepared the site plan (Ext. Ka-17).

P.W.10 had further deposed that on 08.02.2008, when the informant Shyam Lal (P.W.1) submitted an application regarding the corpse of his daughter (victim 'x') and caught hold of Heera Lal Yadav (convict/appellant no.1), Vrindavan Yadav (convict/appellant no.2), Kumari Urmila along with a corpse, report No.10 was lodged at Police Station Khiro at 07:15 A.M. After that he went along with S.I. S.N. Pandey (P.W.9), S.I. Radhey Shyam Chaudhary, informant Shyam Lal (P.W.1) and Dev Narayan (P.W.3) at the place of occurrence and found the corpse inside the sack. At the place of occurrence, family members of the informant, namely, Awadh Pal Yadav, Sri Lal, Constable Nawal Singh, Constable Ramteerath, Hira Lal Yadav (convict/appellant no.1), Vrindavan Yadav (convict/appellant no.2), Km. Urmila Yadav and some other villagers were also present. Thereafter, he directed S.I. S.N. Pandey (P.W.9) to conduct panchayatnama in accordance with law.

P.W.10 had further deposed that the proceeding to conduct panchaytnama of the corpse was started at 10 A.M. and ended at 11:30 A.M. Thereafter, Heera Lal Yadav, Vrindavan Yadav and Km. Urmila were taken into custody and sent along with S.I. Radhey Shyam Chaudhary, Constable Nawal Singh and Ramteerath to Police Station Khiro. He seized blood-stained plastic sack and prepared the recovery memo (Ext. Ka-5) and also collected blood soaked and plain soil from the spot and prepared recovery memo (Ext. Ka-4). After that, he reached the Police Station Khiro and recorded the statement of the accused Kumari Urmila, Heera Lal (convict/appellant no.1) and Vrindavan (convict/appellant no.2) under Section 161 Cr.P.C. On 09.02.2008, he recorded additional statement of the informant and inspected the place of occurrence on pointing out of informant and prepared the site plan (Ext. Ka-19). On the same day, he also recorded the statement of Dhanawati (P.W.2) and Km. Milana. On the information of an informer, he arrested the accused Ganga Dhar Yadav at 3:40 P.M. from Paho Tiraha. After that investigation of the case was conducted by S.I. Saroj Kumar Singh (P.W.11). In cross-examination, P.W.10 had deposed that on 07.02.2008, the F.I.R. of the incident was lodged in his presence. He denied that informant Shyam Lal (P.W.1) did not tell him in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that accused Urmila had called his daughter by showing plums (ber). He further deposed that when he reached at the place of the incident, he found that several thatches were put on fire but he did not record statement of anyone to know how, when and who had set fire on the thatches. He did not see anyone dousing the fire. He did not mention the factum of fire in the investigation proceedings. However, he mentioned in the case diary that he informed the Fire Brigade for dousing the fire. He further deposed that he did not mention in the site plan, about the fire. The first site plan was prepared by him on 07.02.2008 when he searched the house of the accused, however, he did not find anything therein. He further deposed that during search, none of the accused tried to escape and the search was made in the presence of the accused. He searched the house of the accused on his own and neither informant nor his wife nor any witness had told him that accused persons had kept the victim "x' there after kidnapping. On 07.02.2008, he did not search the house of Prabhudei (DW 1). On 08.02.2008, he sent the corpse of deceased (victim "x') for postmortem examination at about 11:30 P.M.

P.W.10 had further deposed that he did not record the statement of Constable Ramteerath and Constable Nawal Singh, however, he deputed them to search for the victim "x'. He further deposed that investigation of the case was with him for about ten days, during this period, he did not record the statement of any of the Constable mentioned above. Neither of these Constables informed him about the incident or corpse of the victim "x'. He denied the suggestion that he did not prepare the recovery memo on spot. He also denied the suggestion that as both the aforesaid Constables did not support the prosecution case, hence he did not record their statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

(14) The evidence of P.W.9- Surendra Narayan Pandey shows that on 08.02.2008, he was posted as Chowki In-charge at Semri P.S. Khiro District Raebareli. He conducted the panchayatnama of the corpse of the deceased (victim "x') on the direction of Station House Officer Rakesh Pratap Singh (P.W.10). First of all, he appointed the "panchan' and in their presence, he conducted the "panchayatnama', thereafter he sealed the corpse and sent that for post-mortem examination through Constable Shiv Shankar Yadav and Home Guard Vijay Kumar alongwith necessary documents viz. photo lash (Ext. Ka.14), letter to C.M.O. (Ext. Ka.15), challan lash (Ext. Ka. 16).

In cross-examination, P.W.9 had deposed that when he reached at the place of incident, the thatches were on fire and Station House Officer R.P. Singh (P.W.10) was present there. He further deposed that he did not remember whether R.P. Singh (P.W.10) had prepared memo of fire or not. He deposed that corpse was found from the under construction house of Gaya Prasad. He further deposed that at the time of conducting the "panchayatnama', copy of the F.I.R. was with him. He also deposed that signature of Investigating Officer was not on "panchyatnama' (Ext. Ka.3). He denied the suggestion that "panchayatnama' (Ext. Ka-3) was prepared after due deliberation at police station.

(15) The evidence of P.W.11- Saroj Kumar Singh shows that on 19.02.2008, he was posted as Station House Officer at Police Station Khiro District Raebareli. The investigation of Case Crime No.20 of 2008, under Sections 147, 364, 302, 201, 120B I.P.C. was entrusted to him on transfer of former Investigating Officer R.P. Singh (P.W.10). On 22.02.2008, he took arrested accused persons on police custody remand. On 06.03.2008, he arrested accused Anil Kumar Yadav and also recorded his statement. On 25.04.2008, Gangster Act was imposed upon accused Anil Kumar, Hira Lal and Vrindavan after the recommendation of the higher officials. On 30.04.2008 after recording the statement of witnesses, Awadh Pal, Ganga Prasad, Sri Lal S/o Lala, Shri Devnarayan S/o Suraj Bali, Gyanendra Kumar S/o Ram Pal Yadav, Bablu S/o Rajjo Yadav, Shiv Shankar Yadav, S.I. Thereafter, she came outside the said house and made noise, then, Shyam Lal (P.W.1) and women of his house came there by running. (26) The learned trial Court believed the evidence of prosecution witnesses and found the appellants, Heera Lal and Vrindavan guilty for the offences punishable under Sections 302 read with Section 149, 364, 201 and 147 I.P.C., and accordingly, convicted and sentenced the appellants in the manner stated in paragraph-2. However, the appellants were acquitted for the offences punishable under Sections 2/3 of U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986.

(27) Hence the instant appeal.

(28) Heard Shri Maneesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for appellant No.1/Heera Lal and Shri Arunendra, learned A.G.A. for the State-respondents. However, Shri Amitabh Tripathi, learned counsel for complainant is not present.

(29) Challenging the impugned judgment and order, the learned counsel for appellant No.1 has argued that:-

(I) There was delay in lodging and sending the FIR to the Magistrate concerned. According to him, it has been alleged in the F.I.R. that the daughter of the informant, P.W.1- Shyam Lal was missing from 05.02.2008 but the F.I.R. of the incident was lodged on 07.02.2008 i.e. after two days from the date of the incident. His submission is that the F.I.R. of the alleged incident was lodged after due deliberations just to implicate the convict/appellant, hence the benefit of doubt in lodging the F.I.R. belatedly ought to be granted to the convict/appellant.

(II) There is no eyewitness of the alleged occurrence and the case rests on circumstantial evidence. His submission is that the circumstances relied on, would not establish continuity in the links of the chain of circumstances to lead to an irresistible conclusion regarding the guilt of the convict/appellant. Thus, the convict/appellant is entitled to get the benefit of doubt in view of such circumstances and as such, the conviction and sentence awarded is liable to be set aside and he is entitled to be acquitted.

(III) P.W.1- Shyam Lal, P.W.2- Smt. Dhanawati and P.W.3- Devnarayan are highly interested and partisan witnesses as they are father, mother and uncle (fufa), respectively, of the deceased (victim "x'). His submission is that the family members of the deceased were examined as witnesses and they being interested witnesses cannot be relied upon. Furthermore, the prosecution did not examine any independent witness and, therefore, the prosecution has failed to establish its case beyond reasonable doubt.

(IV) The evidence of "last seen' the convict/appellant together with the victim has not been properly appreciated by the trial Court.

(V) The evidence of defense witness D.W.1-Prabhudei has not been properly dealt with by the trial Court and the trial Court erred in disbelieving the evidence of D.W.1- Prabhudei.

(V) The investigation of the case was tainted and the convict/appellant has falsely been implicated in the instant case.

(VI) There was no motive on the part of the convict/appellant to commit the murder of the deceased (victim "x') and the convict/appellant was falsely implicated in the instant case on account of old enmity.

(30) On the other hand, learned Additional Government Advocate while supporting the impugned judgment had argued that

(I) There is no delay in lodging the F.I.R., as the P.W.1- Shyam Lal (informant) has categorically deposed before the trial Court that on the date of the incident i.e. 05.02.2008, he was informed by his wife Smt. Dhanawati (P.W.2) at 5 P.M. that his daughter (victim "x') was not traceable, therefore, he searched his daughter. Inspite of all his efforts, his daughter could not be traced, therefore, on the next day of the incident, he went towards police station Khiro but on the way he met with a policeman, who asked that he should first search his daughter. He searched his daughter again but his daughter could not be traced. Thereafter, on 07.02.2008 he went to the police station again and informed the Inspector. The Inspector asked him to come with proper application. Thereafter he went outside the police station and after getting scribed the written report from his nephew Gyanendra, who after scribing the report read it over to him, put his (complainant's) signature thereon and thereafter lodged the F.I.R. of the incident. Thus delay, if any, in lodging the F.I.R. has properly been explained by the P.W.1- Shyam Lal, therefore, it cannot be said that this ground is fatal one to the prosecution case.

(II) The motive on the part of the convict/appellant has been established as it comes out from the evidence on record that before a year of the incident, nephew of the informant was murdered by the family of the convict/appellant in which the informant was one of the witness and doing pairvi of the case. This fact has also been supported by P.W.2- Smt. Dhanawati, therefore, it cannot be said that there was no motive to the convict/appellant to commit the murder of the victim "x'.

(III) The present case is based on circumstantial evidence and the prosecution has succeeded in establishing every circumstance of the chain of events that would fully support the view that the convict/appellant is guilty of the offence. The trial court has passed the judgment under appeal, after proper appreciation of evidence, and has come to the right conclusion by means of the impugned judgment and order.

(IV) The plea of the convict/appellant that P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 are highly interested and partisan witnesses as they are the family members of the deceased victim "x', is not sustainable because these witnesses have proved their presence. Moreso, the convict/appellant was arrested on spot along with sack, from which dead body of the daughter of the informant (victim "x') was recovered.

(V) The medical evidence also corroborates the prosecution case.

(VI) The trial Court, after appreciating the evidence on record, has rightly convicted the appellant by means of the impugned judgment and order. Thus, the instant appeal is liable to be dismissed.

(31) We have considered the arguments of Shri Maneesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for appellant No.1/Heera Lal and Shri Arunendra, learned A.G.A. for the State-respondents and have carefully gone through the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence awarded by the learned trial Court by means of the impugned judgment as well as the lower Court record.

(32) It would become manifest from the aforesaid that the learned trial Court has based the conviction of convict/appellant on testimonies of the informant Shyam Lal (P.W.1), his wife Smt. Dhanawati (PW-2) and Devnarayan (P.W.3), who are the father, mother and uncle (fufa), respectively, of the deceased.

(33) The first issue relates to the credibility of the F.I.R. So far as the credibility of the FIR in this case is concerned, learned counsel for the appellants has questioned its reliability on the ground that there was inordinate and unexplained delay of two days in lodging of the F.I.R. which has rendered the entire prosecution liable to be rejected. The issue whether prosecution case is liable to be thrown out merely on the ground of delay itself or not has been considered and examined by the Apex Court in several decisions, and it will be useful to refer to some of the authorities on the issue.

(34) The Hon'ble Apex Court in Tara Singh and others Vs. State of Punjab : AIR 1991 SC 63, in paragraph 4 of its judgment has observed as hereunder:-

"4. It is well-settled that the delay in giving the FIR by itself cannot be a ground to doubt the prosecution case. Knowing the Indian conditions as they are we cannot expect these villagers to rush to the police station immediately after the occurrence. Human nature as it is, the kith and kin who have witnessed the occurrence cannot be expected to act mechanically with all the promptitude in giving the report to the police. At times being grief-stricken because of the calamity it may not immediately occur to them that they should give a report. After all it is but natural in these circumstances for them to take some time to go to the police station for giving the" report. Of course the Supreme Court as well as the High Courts have pointed out that in cases arising out of acute factions there is a tendency to implicate persons belonging to the opposite faction falsely. In order to avert the danger of convicting such innocent persons the courts are cautioned to scrutinise the evidence of such interested witnesses with greater care and caution and separate grain from the chaff after subjecting the evidence to a closer scrutiny and in doing so the contents of the FIR also will have to be scrutinised carefully. However, unless there are indications of fabrication, the court cannot reject the prosecution version as given in the FIR and later substantiated by the evidence merely on the ground of delay. These are all matters for appreciation and much depends on the facts and circumstances of each case. In the instant case there are three eye-witnesses. They have consistently deposed that the two appellants inflicted injuries on the neck with kirpans. The medical evidence amply supports the same. In these circumstances we are unable to agree with the learned Counsel that the entire case should be thrown out on the mere ground there was some delay in the FIR reaching the local Magistrate. In the report given by P.W.2 to the police all the necessary details are mentioned. It is particularly mentioned that these two appellants inflicted injuries with kirpans on the neck of the deceased. This report according to the prosecution, was given at about 8.45 P.M. and on the basis of the report the Investigating Officer prepared copies of the FIR and dispatched the same to all the concerned officers including the local Magistrate who received the same at about 2.45 A.M. Therefore we are unable to say that there was inordinate and unexplained delay. There is no ground to doubt the presence of the eye-witnesses at the scene of occurrence. We have perused their evidence and they have withstood the cross- examination. There are no material contradictions or omissions which in any manner throw a doubt on their varasity. The High Court by way of an abundant caution gave the benefit of doubt to the other three accused since the allegation against them is an omnibus one. Though we are unable to fully agree with this finding but since there is no appeal against their acquittal we need not further proceed to consider the legality or propriety of the findings of the High Court in acquitting them. So far as the appellants are concerned, the evidence against them is cogent and convincing and specific over tacts are attributed to them as mentioned above. Therefore we see absolutely no grounds to interfere. The appeal is, therefore, dismissed."

(35) In State of Himanchal Pradesh Vs. Gian Chand reported in AIR 2001(1) SC 2075, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that :-

"Delay in lodging the FIR cannot be used as a ritualistic formula for doubting the prosecution case and discarding the same solely on the ground of delay in lodging the first information report. Delay has the effect of putting the Court in its guard to search if any explanation has been offered for the delay, and if offered, whether it is satisfactory or not. If the prosecution fails to satisfactorily explain the delay and there is possibility of embellishment in prosecution version on account of such delay, the delay would be fatal to the prosecution. However, if the delay is explained to the satisfaction of the court, the delay cannot by itself be a ground for disbelieving and discarding the entire prosecution case."

(36) Thus the legal position which emerges after going through the aforesaid dictum of the Apex Court referred to herein above is that it is settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that mere delay in lodging the FIR may not prove fatal in all cases, but in the given circumstances of the case delay in lodging the FIR can be one of the factors which may corrode the credibility of the prosecution version but delay in lodging the FIR cannot be a ground itself for throwing away the entire prosecution version as given in the FIR and later substantiated by the evidence, unless there are indications of fabrication. The Court has to further seek explanation for delay and check the truthfulness of the version to inquire and if the court is satisfied then the case of prosecution cannot fall on this ground alone.

(37) In the present case, the offence is said to have been committed on 05.02.2008 at 03:00 P.M., whereas the F.I.R. of the incident was lodged on 07.02.2008 at 08.00 P.M. at police station Khiro, district Raebareli, which is situated at a distance of 15 Kms. from the village of the informant P.W.1. It transpires from the record that on 07.02.2008, informant P.W.1 had submitted a written report (Ext. Ka.2) at Police Station Khiro, District Raebareli, stating therein that on 05.02.2008, at 03:00 P.M., his daughter, victim "x', aged about 05 years, while playing, went towards the house of Vrindavan (convict/ appellant no.2) and thereafter, his daughter, victim "x', could not be traced, even after search in the village and nearby areas. It was also alleged in the F.I.R. that Avadhesh, who was the son of his brother Ganga Prasad, was murdered one year ago by the family members of Gangadhar and an F.I.R. was lodged against them, therefore, he had apprehension that due to the said enmity, these people have picked up his daughter (victim "x') and hid her somewhere. On the basis of the aforesaid written report (Ext. Ka.2), an F.I.R., bearing Case Crime No. 20 of 2008, was registered on 07.02.2008, at 08:00 P.M. under Section 364 I.P.C. against the family members of Gangadhar. P.W.1-Shyam Lal, in his examination-in-chief, has stated before the trial Court that on the date and time of the incident i.e. on 05.02.2008 at 03:00 P.M., he was at Lalganj. His wife, Dhanawati (P.W.2), had telephonically informed him that when she was feeding bullocks at the door, Urmila called their daughter (victim "x') by showing plumps, on this, their daughter (victim "x') went towards the house of Urmila but when she did not return, she went to the house of Urmila at 03:30 P.M. to enquire, then, the father of Urmila told her that victim "x' did not come to his house. On receipt of this information, he came to his house at 05:00 P.M. and immediately thereafter went to the house of Urmila along with his wife Dhanawati (P.W.2) and his brother and asked the father of Urmila, namely, Vrindavan (convict/appellant no.2) about their daughter, then, Vrindavan told them that their daughter (victim "x') did not come to his house and thereafter, Vrindavan, Hira Lal and Urmila picked up lathi and asked them to leave the place. On the next day i.e. on 06.02.2008, he again searched his daughter (victim "x') but he could not find her. Thereafter, he proceeded to the police station for lodging report of missing of his daughter, however, in the way at Sahjaura Hotel, policemen met him and he told whole factum of the incident to the policemen, who, in turn, asked him to search his daughter (victim "x') and they would inform to the Inspector. On this assurance, he returned to his house and searched his daughter (victim "x') but could not find her. On the next date i.e. on 07.02.2008, he went to the police station Khiro, district Raebareli, wherein he stated whole factum of the incident of missing of his daughter to the Inspector, who, in turn, asked him to write down an application in this regard. Thereafter, he came outside the police station Khiro, wherein he got scribed a written report from his nephew Gyanendra, who after scribing it read over to him and thereafter he signed thereon and lodged it at the police station Khiro. On 08.02.2008, the informant P.W.1-Shyam Lal had submitted another written report (Ext. Ka.1) scribed by his nephew Gyanendra at police station Khiro in furtherance of the aforesaid incident and stated therein that on 08.02.2008, at 06:00-06:15 A.M., his wife Dhanawati (P.W.2) and his niece Milana, who went to attend the call of nature, came and informed him, his family members and his relatives that his neighbours Hira Lal Yadav, Anil Kumar Yadav, Reshu, Urmila and Vrindavan carrying a loaded white-sack from their house, went towards under construction house of Prabhudei (D.W.1). On this information, they all went towards the under construction house of Prabhudei and when they reached there, they saw that Hira Lal Yadav, Anil Kumar Yadav, Reshu, Urmila and Vrindavan were hiding a loaded white-sack in a under construction house of Prabhudei (D.W.1). Thereafter, Hiralal Yadav, Vrindavan and Urmila were caught on the spot along with the white-sack, whereas Anil Kumar Yadav and Reshu fled away. After that, when they opened the white sack, they found the dead body of his daughter (victim "x'). The informant P.W.1-Shyam Lal had proved Ext.Ka.1 and Ext. Ka.2. P.W.2-Dhanawati had supported the testimony of P.W.1. In these backgrounds, this Court is of the view that the delay, if any, in lodging the F.I.R. stands explained by the prosecution and is, in no way, fatal to the case of the prosecution.

(38) Now, this Court would deal with the contention of the learned Counsel for the appellant No.1 that there was delay in sending the F.I.R. to the Magistrate, therefore, the benefit of the same be accorded to the convict/appellant.

(39) It is pertinent to mention that Section 157 of the Cr.P.C. and its legal impact on the trial has been examined by the Apex Court in Ombir Singh v. State of Uttar Pradesh and Anr. (Criminal Appeal No.982 of 2011, decided on 26.05.2020), wherein the Apex Court had reiterated that mere delay in sending the FIR to the Magistrate in compliance of Section 157 of Cr.P.C cannot be a good ground for acquittal of the accused. Therefore, submission of the convict/appellant in this regard cannot be sustained.

(40) The next argument of the learned Counsel for the appellant No.1 is that there is no eye witness of the incident and the case rests on circumstantial evidence and the circumstances relied on would not establish continuity in the links of the chain of circumstances to lead to an irresistible conclusion regarding guilt of the convict/appellant, hence the convict/appellant is entitled to get the benefit of doubt.

(41) It is true that the present case rests on circumstantial evidence and the convict/appellant has been convicted for the murder of the daughter of the informant P.W.1 (victim "x') vide impugned judgment. In respect to convict the person in a case of circumstantial evidence, the Apex Court in the celebrated case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra: AIR 1984 SC 1622, has held that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established :-

"1. The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established;

2. The facts so established should be consistent with the hypothesis of guilt and the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;

3. The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency;

4. They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and

5. There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

(42) The aforesaid principles of law, which have been laid down by the Apex Court, show that while dealing with circumstantial evidence, the onus is on the prosecution to prove that the chain is complete and the infirmity of lacuna in prosecution cannot be cured by false defence or plea.

(43) In a case of circumstantial evidence, conditions precedent, before conviction could be based on circumstantial evidence, must be fully established such as (1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established. The circumstances concerned "must' or "should' and not "may be' established; (2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty; (3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency; (4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and (5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

(44) Keeping in mind the aforesaid principles of law, we proceed to examine the instant case whether the prosecution has been able to establish a chain of circumstances so as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion that the allegations brought against the accused persons are sufficiently proved and established.

(45) This Court has gone through the evidence of P.W.1-Shyam Lal and P.W.2-Dhanawati and have no hesitation in observing that their testimonies are wholly credible and reliable. It is true that there is no evidence of any witness who might have seen the convict/appellant causing death of the daughter of the informant Shyam Lal (P.W.1) and the prosecution case is based on circumstantial evidence of "last seen together" and P.W.2-Dhanawati has been examined to prove this fact. The statement of PW-2-Dhanawati is significant as an evidence of the circumstance of last seen. The last seen evidence is very important circumstantial evidence and if proved and found trustworthy, it can singularly lead to the inference of guilt.

(46) At this juncture, it would be apt to mention that in Ravi v State of Karnataka : AIR 2018 SC 2744, reversing the conviction based on "last seen together"

where there was a time gap of four days between last seen and recovery of dead body and as per postmortem report, the death must have occurred 30 hours ago, the Apex Court held that the time gap was considerably large and no corroboration was forthcoming, and therefore, in absence of any other circumstance which could connect the accused with crime, reasonable doubt as to involvement of accused is created and in such situation, the burden would not shift under section 106 of the Evidence Act. Following the judgments in Mohibur Rahman vs State of Assam : (2002) 6 SCC 715 and Malleshappa vs State of Karnataka : (2007) 13 SCC 399, the Hon'ble Apex Court held as under:

"Last seen together' is certainly a strong piece of circumstantial evidence against an accused. However, as it has been held in numerous pronouncements of this Court, the time lag between the occurrence of the death and when the accused was last seen in the company of the deceased has to be reasonably close to permit an inference of guilt to be drawn. When the time lag is considerably large,....., it would be safer for the court to look for corroboration."

(47) In the instant case, P.W.2-Dhanawati is the mother of the deceased victim "x'. She deposed before the trial Court that on the date of the incident i.e. on 05.02.2008, at 03:00-03:30 P.M., her daughter was playing in front of her door and she was also feeding her animals there. There was a plum tree in front of her house. Urmila (daughter of convict/appellant No.2, Vrindavan) came with a long stick (laggi) and plucked the plums from the tree and went towards her house with the plums and from there, she called her daughter, showing the plums. Thereafter, when her daughter started to go there, she tried to stop her, however, her daughter told her that she would come in a while and she went to the house of Urmila. After 20-25 minutes, when her daughter did not return, she went to the house of Urmila in search of her daughter. However, father of Urmila, namely, Vrindavan (convict/appellant no.2) met at his door and when she asked him about her daughter, then, Vrindavan told her that her daughter did not come there and after that Vrindavan took a danda, on this, she returned back. From the aforesaid, it is crystal clear that P.W.2-Dhanawati is the witness of "last seen' of her daughter going towards the house of Vrindavan. Appellant/convict has not disputed the fact that they were not arrested on spot along with loaded white sack, from which dead body of the deceased victim "x' was recovered. After a close scrutiny of the evidence given by P.W.1, P.W.2 and PW-3 and medical evidence, the learned trial Court has rightly concluded that the appellants committed the murder of the daughter of informant (victim "x').

(48) Furthermore, once it is established that Urmila, who was the daughter of convict/appellant Vrindavan, called the daughter of the informant (victim "x') by showing plums and on this, daughter of informant (victim "x') went towards the house of Urmila (i.e. Vrindavan house), it was on the convict/appellant to explain what happened thereafter. In view of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, the burden was on the convict/appellant to explain as to how injuries were found on the body of the deceased which could not have been caused. The learned trial Court has rightly convicted the convict/appellant for the murder of the daughter of the informant (victim "x').

(49) The next argument of the learned Counsel for the appellant No.1 that appellants were falsely implicated, but, there appears to be no reason for their false implication. Had it been so as alleged by appellants, any of the villagers would definitely come to adduce evidence in support of the appellants. This Court find that there is no force in the argument of the appellants regarding their false implication. If read in conjunction with the statement of last seen given by PW-2 Dhanawati, medical evidence as well as spot arrest conclusively indicate the hypothesis that it was they and they only, who have committed murder of the deceased.

(50) In view of the above discussion, this Court find that the conclusion of the learned trial court that the prosecution has successfully established that the convicts/appellants committed murder of the victim is based on unimpeachable evidence of "last seen' supported by medical evidence and the conduct of the appellants themselves prior to and soon after the incident.

(51) Learned Counsel for the appellant has next argued that though P.W.1- Shyam Lal, P.W.2- Dhanawati and P.W.3- Devnarayan are father, mother and 'fufa' (uncle) respectively, of the deceased (victim "x'), therefore, their testimonies cannot be relied upon as they are interested and partisan witnesses.

(52) It cannot be ignored that presence of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 at the time of the arrest of the convict/appellant along with loaded white-sack is well established and there appears to be no inconsistency in the evidence to show that their evidence is not a reliable one and the trial Court has also examined their evidence and did not find anything contrary on record to disbelieve their evidence.

(53) The criminal law jurisprudence makes a clear distinction between a related and interested witness. A witness cannot be said to be an "interested" witness merely by virtue of being a relative of the victim. The witness may be called "interested" only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished as held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Sudhakar Vs. State : (2018) 5 SCC 435. Thus, from the facts and circumstances of the case, it cannot be said that the testimonies of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 are not trustworthy and are not reliable.

(54) The medical evidence also corroborates the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses. The P.W.4- Dr. Arvind Kumar, who conducted the post-mortem of the deceased (victim "x') has opined the cause of death of the deceased (victim "x') due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries. P.W.4- Dr. Arvind Kumar had also opined that the death of the deceased (victim "x') was attributable on 05.02.2008 between 3 to 3:30 P.M. and the age of the deceased at the time of death was five years.

(55) So far as the submission of the learned Counsel for the convict/appellant that there was no motive on the part of the convict/appellant to commit the murder of the daughter of the informant P.W.1 is concerned, it transpires from the record that Avadhesh, who was son of the brother of the informant, was murdered before one year from the date of the incident by the family members of convict/appellant. The informant P.W.1 was one of the witness of that case and also doing pairvi of that case. Thus, the enmity between the family members of the convict/appellant and family members of P.W.1 and P.W.2 is well established. Thus, the contention of the convict/appellant is not sustainable in this regard.

(56) So far as the contention of the learned Counsel for the convict/appellant that the testimonies of defense witness i.e. D.W.1 Prabhudei has wrongly been discarded by the trial Court, is concerned, it transpires from the record that Section 39 of Cr.P.C. deals with the duty of the public to give information forthwith related to commission of certain offences if they became aware of such commission or of the intention of any other person to commit such offence. In absence of any reasonable excuse, since it is the duty of public to forthwith give information to the nearest Magistrate or police officer relating to the commission of offences or of the intention of any other person to commit any offence as specified under section 39 of Cr.P.C., if a person takes a plea of any reasonable excuse for not giving such information then the burden of proving such excuse shall lie on him. The evidence of D.W.1-Prabhudei shows that on 07.02.2008 at 08:00 P.M., when she had gone to her under construction house for picking up wood, she saw a hand protruding outside a sack and thereafter she came outside the under construction house and made noise, upon which Shyam Lal (P.W.1) and other family members came there. It is not in dispute that when D.W.1 Prabhudei saw a hand protruding outside a sack on 07.02.2008 at 08:00 P.M., she did not inform the police in terms of Section 39 of the Cr.P.C. but instead in her statement, she herself had stated before the trial Court that the police came on the next day at 04:00 A.M. In these backgrounds, this Court is of the view that the trial Court has rightly disbelieved the testimony of D.W.1 Prabhudei.

(57) Thus, from the evidence led by the prosecution it is well established that it was the convict/appellant, who was involved in the present case and has murdered the daughter of informant P.W.1-Shyam Lal. The prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt against the convict/appellant and the trial Court after scanning the entire prosecution evidence has rightly convicted and sentenced the convict/appellant for the offence in question.

(58) In view of the above and for the reasons stated hereinabove, no interference of this Court is called for in the instant appeal as the learned trial Court has rightly convicted and sentenced the convict/appellant by the impugned judgment and order.

(59) The instant appeal on behalf of appellant no.1- Heera Lal fails and deserves to be dismissed and is accordingly dismissed.

(60) The appellant no.1-Heera Lal, who is in jail, shall serve the sentence as awarded by the trial Court.

(61) Let a certified copy of this order as well as Lower Court Record be transmitted to the Court concerned for necessary information and compliance forthwith.

1. On a reference made by the learned Single Judge vide order dated August 3, 2018 to a larger Bench and constitution thereof by Hon'ble the Chief Justice, on administrative side, for consideration of the following questions, the matter has been placed before us :

(i) Whether a Single Judge of this Court while deciding Criminal Appeal (Defective) No. 523/2017 In re : Rohit Vs. State of U.P. and another vide judgment dated 29.08.2017 correctly permitted the conversion of appeal under Section 14 A of the Act, 1989 into a bail application by exercising the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C.?

(ii) Whether keeping in view the judgment of Rohit (supra), an aggrieved person will have two remedies available of preferring an appeal under the provisions of Section 14 A of the Act, 1989 as well as a bail application under the provisions of Section 439 of the Cr.P.C.?

(iii) Whether an aggrieved person who has not availed of the remedy of an appeal under the provisions of Section 14 A of Act, 1989 can be allowed to approach the High Court by preferring an application under the provisions of Section 482 of the Cr.P.C.?

(iv) What would be the remedy available to an aggrieved person who has failed to avail the remedy of appeal under the provision of Act, 1989 and the time period for availing the said remedy has also lapsed?

2. It is a case in which the appellants had filed an appeal under Section 14A of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 19891 challenging the order dated September 14, 2017 vide which the learned Court below had taken cognizance of the matter and the appellants had been summoned to face trial. The order dated April 12, 2018, vide which bailable warrants had been issued against the appellants, was also challenged.

3. Learned counsel for the appellants while referring to an order passed by a Single Bench of this Court in Criminal Appeal Defective No. 523 of 2017 titled as Rohit Vs State of U.P. and another2 submitted that an appeal filed after expiry of period of limitation provided under Section 14A of the 1989 Act, can be converted into a bail application in exercise of inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. As in the case in hand, the appeal was filed beyond 180 days, the same should be permitted to be converted into bail application and dealt with accordingly.

4. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for the respondents submitted that primarily all the questions, which have been referred to be considered by Full Bench of this Court, have been answered by a Full Bench of this Court in In Re : Provision of Section 14 (a) of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 20153. He further submitted that Section 14A (3) of the 1989 Act, which provides period of limitation for filing an appeal and limited discretion in case of delay, has been struck down. Meaning thereby, an appeal against an order passed by the Court below under the provisions of the 1989 Act, can be filed at any time. The judgment in Rohit's case (supra), as relied by learned counsel for the appellants, has specifically been overruled. This Court cannot rewrite the provisions of law, the same have to be interpreted as such.

5. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the paper book.

6. To appreciate the arguments raised by learned counsel for the parties with reference to interpretation of Section 14A of the 1989 Act, it would be appropriate to reproduce the aforesaid Section hereunder :

"14A. Appeals.-(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), an appeal shall lie, from any judgment, sentence or order, not being an interlocutory order, of a Special Court or an Exclusive Special Court, to the High Court both on facts and on law.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (3) of section 378 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), an appeal shall lie to the High Court against an order of the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court granting or refusing bail.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, every appeal under this section shall be preferred within a period of ninety days from the date of the judgment, sentence or order appealed from:

Provided that the High Court may entertain an appeal after the expiry of the said period of ninety days if it is satisfied that the appellant had sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal within the period of ninety days.

Provided further that no appeal shall be entertained after the expiry of the period of one hundred and eighty days.

(4) Every appeal preferred under sub-section (1) shall, as far as possible, be disposed of within a period of three months from the date of admission of the appeal."

7. The aforesaid Section was inserted in the 1989 Act vide Act No. 1 of 2016 with effect from January 26, 2016. Sub-section (1) thereof starts with non-obstante clause. It provides that notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, an appeal shall lie, from any judgment, sentence or order, not being an interlocutory order, of a Special Court or an Exclusive Special Court, to the Court concerned. Sub-section (2) thereof provides that notwithstanding anything contained in Section 378(3) of Cr.P.C., an appeal shall lie to this Court against an order of the court below granting or refusing bail. Sub-section (3) thereof, which again starts with non-obstante clause, provides for a period of ninety days to challenge any judgment, sentence or order in appeal. However, delay in filing the appeal can be condoned if sufficient cause is shown. Second proviso to sub-section (3) provides that no appeal shall be entertained after expiry of one hundred and eighty days. This provides for limited condonation of delay.

Question No. (I)

Whether a Single Judge of this Court while deciding Criminal Appeal (Defective) No. 523/2017 In re : Rohit Vs. State of U.P. and another vide judgment dated 29.08.2017 correctly permitted the conversion of appeal under Section 14A of the Act, 1989 into a bail application by exercising the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C.?

8. The aforesaid question does not require discussion in detail for the reason that the earlier judgment of this Court in Rohit's case (supra) has specifically been overruled by a Full Bench of this Court in In Re : Provision of Section 14 (a) of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015 (supra). The relevant paragraph 109 of the aforesaid judgment is extracted hereunder :-

"109. The proposition of a revival of the powers of this Court either under Section 482 Cr.P.C. or Sections 397 Cr.P.C. cannot be countenanced, more so in view of our opinion on the first question. The view expressed by the learned Judge in Rohit in this context to the effect that since there is no express repeal of Section 439 Cr.P.C., the same would revive upon the expiry of 180 days also does not commend acceptance. The learned Judge, in our considered view, has clearly erred in proceeding to consider the applicability of Section 439 Cr.P.C. on the principles of an express or implied repeal of a provision. What we find is an implied exclusion of the applicability of Section 439 Cr.P.C. by a special statute. We, therefore, find ourselves unable to sustain the line of reasoning adopted by the learned Judge in Rohit that the provisions of Section 439 Cr.P.C. would remain in suspension during the period of 180 days and thereafter revive on its expiry. The conclusion so arrived at cannot be sustained on any known principle of statutory interpretation. We are therefore, constrained to hold that both Janardan Pandey as well as Rohit do not lay down the correct law and must, as we do, be overruled."

9. The Single Judge judgment of this Court in Rohit's case (supra) has been overruled in In Re : Provision of Section 14 (a) of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015 (supra). Hence, the answer to the question is in negative.

Question No. (II)

Whether keeping in view the judgment of Rohit (supra), an aggrieved person will have two remedies available of preferring an appeal under the provisions of Section 14 A of the Act, 1989 as well as a bail application under the provisions of Section 439 of the Cr.P.C.?

10. While considering the validity of Section 14A (2) of the 1989 Act and second proviso to sub-section (3) thereof, the Full Bench of this Court in In Re : Provision of Section 14 (a) of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015 (supra) found that the 1989 Act being a Special Statute, will override the provisions of Cr.P.C. Section 14A of the 1989 Act starts with non-obstante clause which gives overriding effect on anything contained in Cr.P.C. As far as sub-section (3) thereof is concerned, it overrides anything contained in any other law for the time being in force. Meaning thereby the provisions of the Limitation Act, 19634 has also been overridden. While dealing with the issue of validity of Section 14A(2) of the 1989 Act, the Full Bench of this Court in In Re : Provision of Section 14 (a) of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015 (supra) opined that the provisions of Section 439 Cr.P.C. are clearly excluded as far as its application to the specific procedure provided in the 1989 Act is concerned. The relevant paragraphs 27, 28 and 31 are extracted hereunder :-

"27. The sole issue which ultimately arises for consideration is whether the provisions of Section 439 Cr.P.C. stand overridden and in case the answer to this question be in the affirmative whether in such a situation sub-section (2) is rendered ultra vires. Having conferred our thoughtful consideration on the submissions advanced in this respect, we find ourselves unable to conclude that sub-section (2) is liable to be declared ultra vires. At the very outset, we cannot possibly loose sight of the fact that the 1989 Act is a special statute and would on basic principles of statutory construction, override any other general enactment which may govern the investigation, enquiry and trial of criminal offences. We also cannot possibly ignore the non obstante clauses employed by the Legislature in the substantive provisions of Section 14A. We must also necessarily bear in mind that Section 20 of the 1989 Act in unambiguous and unequivocal terms provides that it would have overriding effect over all other statutes that may contain or prescribe a procedure to the contrary.

28. The provisions of this special enactment would also clearly have overriding effect over other enactments including the Cr.P.C. in light of Sections 4 and 5 thereof. While Section 4(2) of the Cr.P.C. provides that all offences under any other law are to be investigated, enquired into, tried and otherwise dealt with in accordance with its provisions, this statutory mandate is subject to the provisions in any other enactment which may regulate the manner of enquiring into, trying or dealing with offences. Section 5 only preserved those enactments which incorporated or embodied specific provisions contrary to the Code which were in force at the time when Cr.P.C. was promulgated. The provisions of the Cr.P.C. therefore would apply only in a situation where an enactment did not make any provision for investigation, enquiry or trial independently or where it was silent on these aspects. The 1989 Act however erects a comprehensive machinery for enquiry, investigation and trials of offences under the Act. It is therefore evident that it is the provisions of this special enactment which must prevail when it is found that its provisions prescribe a procedure inconsistent with those in the Cr.P.C. The answer to the first part of the question formulated by us, must necessarily be in the affirmative and we do therefore hold that the provisions of section 439 Cr.P.C. clearly stand eclipsed in light of the special procedure put in place by the 1989 Act. It is manifest that the concurrent powers recognised as existing in the High Courts by virtue of Section 439 Cr.P.C. stand impliedly excluded and overridden.

31. The decision of the Supreme Court in Salimbhai is thus in our considered opinion a clear and complete answer on the exclusion of the powers of the High Court under sections 439 and 482 Cr.P.C. insofar as the issue of bail is concerned."

11. Thus the answer to Question No.(II) will be in negative. An aggrieved person will not have two remedies namely, i.e. filing an appeal under Section 14A of the 1989 Act as well as filing a bail application in terms of Section 439 Cr.P.C.

Question No. (III)

Whether an aggrieved person who has not availed of the remedy of an appeal under the provisions of Section 14 A of Act, 1989 can be allowed to approach the High Court by preferring an application under the provisions of Section 482 of the Cr.P.C.?

12. The aforesaid question has been dealt with by Full Bench of this Court in In Re : Provision of Section 14 (a) of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015 (supra), where the question framed was as under :

"Whether in view of the provisions contained in Section 14-A of the Amending Act, a petition under the provisions of Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India or a revision under Section 397 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (in short "Cr.P.C.') or a petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C., is maintainable. OR in other words, whether by virtue of Section 14-A of the Amending Act, the powers of High Court under Article 226/227 of the Constitution or its revisional powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. shall stand ousted?"

13. The answer to the aforesaid was in the negative. It was held that against the judgments or orders, for which remedy has been provided under Section 14A of the 1989 Act, invoking the jurisdiction of this Court by filing petition under Articles 226 or 227 of the Constitution of India, a revision under Section 397 Cr.P.C. or an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., will not be maintainable. The relevant paragraphs thereof are extracted below :-

"64. At the outset, our answer to the first part of the question is in the negative. In other words, where an appeal under sub-section (1) and/or sub-section (2) of Section 14A of the Amending Act is maintainable against any judgment, sentence or order, not being interluctory in nature, a petition under the provisions of Articles 226/227 of the Constitution of India or a revision under Section 397 Cr.P.C. or a petition under Section

89. In our considered view, the contention which has been urged by Sri Sushil Shukla that the powers of the High Court under section 482 Cr.P.C. and its revisional power under section 397/401 Cr.P.C. along with the provisions contained under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India are not ousted by the provisions of Section 14 A of the Act of 2015 where an appeal has been provided from any judgment/sentence or order not being an interlocutory order of a Special Court/Exclusive Special Court to the High Court both on facts and on law is too broadly framed so as to merit acceptance. It must be borne in mind that the statute itself provides a remedy to an accused against any judgment, sentence and order of the Special Court/Exclusive Special Court to the High Court. Therefore, any person, who is aggrieved by an order of the Special Court/Exclusive Special Court can approach and prefer an appeal to the High Court for redressal of his grievance and any grievance of an accused/victim against the order of the court below can be examined both on facts and law by the High Court.....

94. We, therefore, answer Question (B) by holding that while the constitutional and inherent powers of this Court are not "ousted" by Section 14A, they cannot be invoked in cases and situations where an appeal would lie under Section 14A. Insofar as the powers of the Court with respect to the revisional jurisdiction is concerned, we find that the provisions of Section 397 Cr.P.C. stand impliedly excluded by virtue of the special provisions made in Section 14A. This, we hold also in light of our finding that the word "order" as occurring in sub-section(1) of Section 14A would also include intermediate orders."

14. Hence, the answer to Question No.(III) will be in negative namely, that the aggrieved person having remedy of appeal under Section 14A of the 1989 Act, cannot be allowed to invoke inherent jurisdiction of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

Question No. (IV)

What would be the remedy available to an aggrieved person who has failed to avail the remedy of appeal under the provision of Act, 1989 and the time period for availing the said remedy has also lapsed?

15. In the earlier Full Bench of this Court in In Re : Provision of Section 14 (a) of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015 (supra), one of the questions considered was with regard to validity of second proviso to sub-section(3) of Section 14A of the 1989 Act, which provides limitation for condonation of delay in filing appeals under Section 14A of the aforesaid Act. The aforesaid proviso was held to be ultra vires. The relevant paragraphs are extracted below :-

"55. .....It has left an aggrieved person without of remedy of even a first appeal against any judgment, sentence or order passed under the 1989 Act on the expiry of 180 days. As we contemplate the fatal consequences which would visit an aggrieved person on the expiry of 180 days, we shudder at the deleterious impact that it would have and find ourselves unable to sustain the second proviso which must necessarily be struck down, as we do, being in violation of Article 14 and 21 of the Constitution.

62. While we reject the challenge to section 14A (2), we declare that the second proviso to Section 14A (3) is violative of Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution and it is consequently struck down."

16. The second proviso to sub-section(3) of Section14A of the 1989 Act having been struck down by this Court in In Re : Provision of Section 14 (a) of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015 (supra), there will be no limitation to file an appeal against an order under the provisions of 1989 Act. Hence, the remedies can be availed of as provided.

17. In view of our aforesaid discussions, the answers to the questions referred are as under :-

(i) Question No.(I) is answered in negative as Rohit Vs State of U.P. and another, (2017) 6 ALJ 754 has been overruled by Full Bench of this Court in In Re : Provision of section 14 (a) of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015, (2018) 6 ALJ 631.

(ii) Question No.(II) is answered in negative holding that an aggrieved person will not have two remedies namely, i.e. filing an appeal under Section 14A of the 1989 Act as well as filing a bail application in terms of Section 439 Cr.P.C.

(iii) Question No.(III) is answered in negative holding that the aggrieved person having remedy of appeal under Section 14A of the 1989 Act, cannot be allowed to invoke inherent jurisdiction of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

(iv) Question No.(IV) - There will be no limitation to file an appeal against an order under the provisions of 1989 Act. Hence, the remedies can be availed of as provided.

18. While answering the questions referred to by the learned Single Judge, let the present criminal appeal be now placed before appropriate Court as per the roster on August 11, 2022.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Surendra Singh, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Nagendra Kumar Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 2.12.2011 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Kanpur Nagar in Sessions Trial No.1057 of 2007 convicting accused-appellant under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') and sentenced him to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.20,000/- and in default of payment of fine, further to undergo imprisonment for six months and in Sessions Trial No. 1058 of 2007 convicting him under Section 25 of Arms Act and sentencing him to undergo six months imprisonment with fine of Rs.1,000/- and in case of default of fine, further to undergo one month imprisonment.

3. Brief facts giving rise to this appeal are that a first information report was lodged by the complainant Balister Singh, Manager of New Dharamshala Hotel, Kanpur Nagar with the allegations that last night two persons namely, Mahesh and Pooran stayed in the aforesaid hotel and told their address as Mohalla Khataina House No.10/275, Agra. On the next morning, i.e., 04.06.2007, the day of FIR, the Manager took round of the room of the hotel at 8:00 am. When he called the above guests in room No.45 none responded. The Manager thought that the guest would have been sleeping. At 2:00 pm, when he again called from outside the room and none responded again, then he pushed the door of the room and it opened. The Manager entered the room and saw a person lying on the bed in a dead position and a blood stained brick was also lying there on the bed. The bed and wall of the room were also having blood on it. The Manager informed the owner of the hotel Sunny Singh and told him that the name of the dead person is Pooran and his associate Mahesh has run away after killing Pooran. Investigating officer took up the investigation. Blood stained pillow cover, blood stained plain earth, piece of bed sheet and sleepers etc were taken into possession. A knife was also recovered from the room. A sketch of the accused- Mahesh was circulated and on 22.07.2007, accused Mahesh was arrested by the I.O. During the course of investigation inquest report was prepared. Post mortem of the dead body of the deceased was conducted and after completion of the investigation, charge sheet was filed against the accused in the name of Rajesh Singh because the earlier name Mahesh was wrongly informed to the hotel deliberately and the actual name of deceased was Brijendra Singh.

4. The offence committed being exclusively triable by court of sessions the learned Magistrate committed the case to court of sessions.

5. The accused was summoned and on appearing he was read over the charges. the accused pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried, hence, the trial started and the prosecution examined 9 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Balister Singh	PW1
2	Sani Singh	PW2
3	Mahesh Chandra Gupta	PW3
4	Dr. A.K. Nigam	PW4
5	Shiv Narain Singh	PW5
6	Dori Lal Gautam	PW6
7	Rakesh Chandra	PW7
8	Shiv Kumar Gupta	PW8
9	Harpal Singh	PW9

6. In support of ocular version following documents were filed:

1	F.I.R. u/s 302 IPC	Ex.Ka4
2	F.I.R. u/s 25 Arms Act	Ex.Ka19
3	Written Report	Ex.Ka2
4	Recovery Memo of Blood Stained pillow cover & Knife, blood stained & plain earth, piece of Bedsheet & Slippers, Coins Beedi and Matchstick	Ex.Ka13
5	Recovery memo of 'Tamancha', Live Cartidges & Arrest of Memo	Ex.Ka14
6	Postmortem Report	Ex. Ka3
7	Panchayatnama	Ex.Ka2/6
8	Site Plan u/s 302 IPC	Ex.Ka12
9	Site Plan u/s 25 Arms Act	Ex.Ka16A
10	Charge-sheet u/s 302 IPC	Ex.Ka15
11	Charge sheet u/s 25 Arms Act	Ex.Ka 17

7. At the end of the trial and after recording the statement of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the appellant as mentioned above.

8. The accused-appellant is in jail since 22.7.2007. Learned counsel for the appellant has made three fold submissions. One, it is a clear case of acquittal as the circumstantial evidence is not sufficient and the chain is not complete which would point only to the guilt of accused-appellant who is in jail. Two, in the alternative, he has submitted that the injuries which are found though on the temporal part of the deceased, there is only one blow and that was with the brick and not by sharp edged knife which was found from the accused. There is no mention of any incised wound on the body of the deceased and, therefore, the offence is one which would be punishable under Section 304 Part I of IPC. Three, in the alternative, he has submitted that even if it is considered that the accused has committed the offence punishable under Section 302 of I.P.C., the term "life" in view of the judgments of the Apex Court in Maru Ram Vs. Union of India, 1981 (1) SCC 107 and in Vikas Yadav Vs. State of U.P, 2016 (9) SCC 541, would not be till last breath of appellant as it cannot be said that the death is so gruesome, that the appellant should be incarcerated in jail till the end of his life.

9. Sri N.K. Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State submits that it is not a case of acquittal as reason given by the learned Sessions Judge are cogent and the accused appellant cannot be given benefit of doubt. It is further submitted that this is also not a case which falls under Section 304 Part I. It is a clear case of murder and punishment under Section 302 of I.P.C does not call for interference.

10. Prosecution case is that before one day of the occurrence, accused and deceased stayed in New Dharamshala Hotel, Kanpur Nagar with fake names. Next day, deceased Brijendra Singh, earlier Pooran, was found dead in room No.45 of the hotel and the accused Rajesh Singh, earlier Mahesh, was found absconded from there. A blood stained brick was also found lying on the bed. There is no eye-witness of the occurrence. It is a case of circumstantial evidence. In a case of circumstantial evidence, the chain of circumstances should be completed in such a manner, as there is left no doubt that offence is not committed by anyone else but the accused only. During the course of the investigation, the motive is established, which was usurping the amount of Rs.1,50,000/- from the deceased. Evidence is there that the accused withdrew the amount from the account of the deceased by using his ATM card. Hotel record goes to show that accused and deceased stayed together in the same room of the hotel and the deceased was last seen in the company of the deceased by the Manager of the hotel and after that deceased was not seen with anybody-else. It is also a circumstance against the accused that he absconded from the hotel without informing the hotel staff and arrested later on by the investigating officer with the help of his sketch.

11. Considering the evidence of the witnesses and also considering the medical evidence including post mortem report, there is no doubt left in our mind about the guilt of the present appellant.

12. However, the question which falls for our consideration is whether, on reappraisal of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 of I.P.C. of the Indian Penal Code should be upheld or the conviction deserves to be converted under Section 304 Part-I or Part-II of the Indian Penal Code. It would be relevant to refer Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which read as under:

"299. Culpable homicide: Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide."

13. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts losing sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of I.P.Code. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences.

Section 299	Section 300
A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder if the act by which the death is caused is done.
INTENTION
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLED GE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

14. At the time of post mortem of the deceased following ante mortem injuries were found as per the post mortem report:-

(i) One contused swelling of 15cm x 10cm on the right side of the head, just above ear and there were several lacerated wounds just above it of size 1cm x 1cm

(ii) Behind the head in the area of 7cm x 5 cm there was contused swelling in which there were several lacerated wounds of size 1cm x 1cm

15. On internal examination a 10cm long fracture in temporal and parietal bone was found.

16. The above ante mortem injuries were inflicted by the brick which was found on the bed where the dead body was lying. It is very relevant to mention that a knife was also recovered from the room of the hotel but there was no injury of incised wound on the person of the deceased, which goes to show that the knife was not used by the accused.

17. On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. State of Karnataka, reported in 1994 SUPP (1) SCC 304, we are of the considered opinion that the offence would be one punishable under Section 304 part-I of the IPC as there are no injuries caused by knife found from room where dead body was found.

18. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussions, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, but the intention has to be inferred as the injuries were sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to have caused death, hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. Decided, (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

19. In view of the above, we hold that the accused has committed culpable homicide not amounting to murder and punish him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 10 years and fine of Rs.10,000/-. Sentence of default is maintained. Period of sentence for six months imprisonment under Section 25 Arms Act has already been undergone by the appellant. Fine and imprisonment for default under Section 25 Arms Act is maintained. If 10 years' incarceration is over, the Jail authority would release the accused if not wanted in any other offence.

20. This appeal is partly allowed. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Tribunal forthwith.

12. Gautam Manubhai Makwana Vs St. of Guj., Criminal Appeal No.83 of 2008

1. This appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 31.01.2013, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Jaunpur, in Session Trail No.362 of 2010 State of UP vs. Sikander and another arising out of Case Crime No.328 of 2010 under Section 302/34 IPC, Police Station-Machhlishahar, District-Jaunpur, whereby the appellants are convicted and sentenced for the offence under Section 302 IPC for life imprisonment with a fine of Rs.10,000/- and in default of payment of fine, further imprisonment for one year.

2. The brief facts of the case are that first information report of this case was lodged by complainant with the averments that the marriage of his daughter was solemnized with accused Sikander S/o Ram Khelawan. Till the two years of marriage, the relation between the husband and wife were cordial but in the meantime Sikander developed illicit relations with his elder sister-in-law (Badi Bhabhi). This was intimated by his daughter Seema to her parents. On this score the relations between her daughter and son-in-law became strained and Sikander started beating his daughter and pressurized her to bring Rs.50,000/- from her house. Once his daughter caught her husband and sister-in-law (Jethani) red handed in compromising position. Husband had beaten her badly. On 09.04.2010 his son-in-law came to his house at evening and told that his daughter had caught fire. He reached to the spot and found his daughter was lying unconscious in burning condition. She had 95 percent burn. She made dying-declaration also and died on 13.04.2010 during the course of treatment.

3. A first information report was registered on the basis of above written report. During course of investigation, I.O. recorded statement of witnesses, prepared site-plan. Dying-declaration of injured Seema was recorded by Nayab Tehshildar, Jaunpur. After the death of the deceased, inquest report was prepared and post mortem was conducted. Post mortem report is also placed on record. After making thorough investigation, charge sheet was submitted against the accused Sikander, husband of the deceased and Ram Khelawan, father-in-law of the deceased. Learned trial court framed charges against both the accused persons under Sections 498A & 304B IPC and under Section 4 Dowry Prohibition Act. Accused-appellants denied the charges and claimed to be tried. In alternative charge under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC was also framed.

4. Prosecution examined following witnesses:

1.	Hawal Dar	PW1
2.	Kala Vati	PW2
3.	Ram Bodh	PW3
4.	Pyare	PW4
5.	Ramesh Chandra Srivastava	PW5
6.	Awdhesh Kumar	PW6
7.	Dr. A.K. Srivastava	PW7
8.	Suresh Kumar	PW8
9.	Ombir Singh Dhaka	PW9
10.	Shyam Narayan Mishra	PW10

5. Apart from aforesaid witnesses, prosecution submitted following documentary evidence, which was proved by leading the evidence:

1.	FIR	Ex.ka5
2.	Written report	Ex.ka2
3.	Dying-declaration	Ex.ka4/17
4.	Post mortem report	Ex.ka7
5.	Panchayatnama	Ex.ka8
6.	Charge-Sheet	Ex.ka15
7.	Site plan	Ex.ka14

6. Deceased was hospitalised after the occurrence by the accused persons themselves. She died after 4 days of the occurrence during the course of treatment.

7. Heard Arvind Kumar Kushwaha, learned counsel assisted by Ms. Pooja, learned counsel for the appellants-Sikander and Ram Khelawan and Shri Patanjali Mishra, learned AGA for the State.

8. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that accused persons have been falsely implicated in this case. The deceased caught fire while cooking the food. It is further submitted by learned counsel that all the witnesses have turned hostile. PW1 is complainant and father of the deceased. He has not supported the prosecution case and declared hostile. PW2 Kalavati is mother of the deceased. She has also denied the demand of any amount or any sort of torturing her daughter by the accused persons. PW3 Ram Bodh is grandfather of the deceased and he has not supported the prosecution version. PW4 Pyare is also a witness of fact and has turned hostile. All these witnesses have not supported the prosecution version and on the basis of analysis of their evidence, no guilt against the accused appellants is established and proved.

9. Learned counsel for the appellants next submitted that dying-declaration of the deceased was recorded when she was surviving, but this dying-declaration has no corroboration with any prosecution evidence. All the witnesses of fact have turned hostile and nobody supported the version, which is mentioned in dying-declaration. Therefore, learned trial court committed grave error by convicting the accused on the basis of dying-declaration only when it was not corroborated at all.

10. Learned counsel for the appellants additionally submitted that if, for the sake of argument, it is assumed that appellants have committed the offence, in that case also no offence under Section 302 IPC is made out. Maximum this case can travel up to the limits of offence under Section 304 IPC because the deceased died after 4 days of the occurrence due to developing the infection in her burn-wounds, i.e., septicaemia. As per catena of judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court and this Court, offence cannot travel beyond section 304 IPC, in case the death occurred due to septicaemia. Learned counsel for the appellants also submitted that postmortem report also shows that cause of death was septicaemia. Learned counsel relied on the judgment in the case of Maniben vs. State of Gujarat [2009 Lawsuit SC 1380], and the judgment in Criminal Appeal Nos.1438 of 2010 and 1439 of 2010 dated 7.10.2017 and judgment of Criminal Appeal No.2558 of 2011 delivered on 1.2.2021 by this Court and several other judgments.

11. No other point or argument was raised by the learned counsel for the appellants and confined his arguments on above points only.

12. Learned AGA, per contra, vehemently opposed the arguments placed by counsel for the appellants and submitted that conviction of accused can be based only on the basis of dying-declaration, if it is wholly reliable. It requires no corroboration. Moreover, testimony of hostile witnesses can also be relied on to the extent it supports the prosecution case. Learned trial court has rightly convicted the appellants under Section 302 IPC and sentenced accordingly. There is no force in this appeal and the same may be dismissed.

13. First of all learned counsel for the appellants has raised the issue relating to the hostility of the witness, 4 witnesses of the fact were examined before learned trial court, namely, PW1 Hawal Dar, PW2 Kalavati, PW3 Ram Bodh, PW4 pyare. All these witnesses have turned hostile, but the testimony of hostile witnesses cannot be thrown away just on the basis of the fact that they have not supported the prosecution case and were cross-examined by the prosecutor. The testimony of hostile witnesses can be relied upon to the extent it supports the prosecution case. Needless to say that the testimony of hostile witnesses should be scrutinized meticulously and very cautiously.

14. Hon'ble Apex Court in Koli Lakhmanbhai Chandabhai vs. State of Gujarat [1999 (8) SCC 624], as held that evidence of hostile witness can be relied upon to the extent it supports the version of prosecution and it is not necessary that it should be relied upon or rejected as a whole. It is settled law that evidence of hostile witness also can be relied upon to the extent to which it supports the prosecution version. Evidence of such witness cannot be treated as washed off the record. It remains admissible in the trial and there is no legal bar to base his conviction upon his testimony if corroborated by other reliable evidence.

15. In Ramesh Harijan vs. State of U.P. [2012 (5) SCC 777], the Hon'ble Apex Court has also held that it is settled legal position that the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. The evidence of such witness cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether.

16. In State of U.P. vs. Ramesh Prasad Misra and another [1996 AIR (Supreme Court) 2766], the Hon'ble Apex Court held that evidence of a hostile witnesses would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon. Thus, the law can be summarized to the effect that evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant part thereof, which are admissible in law, can be used by prosecution or the defense.

17. Perusal of impugned judgment shows that learned trail court has scrutinised the evidence on record very carefully.

18. As far as the dying-declaration is concerned, it was recorded by Ramesh Chandra Srivastava, Nayab Tehsildar, Sadar District Jaunpur who was examined as PW5. Dying-declaration was recorded by PW5 after obtaining the certificate of mental-fitness from doctor in the hospital. After completion of dying-declaration also the said doctor has given certificate that during the course of statement, the victim remained conscious.

19. Learned counsel for the appellants has argued that dying declaration is doubtful and not corroborated by witnesses of fact, hence, it cannot be the sole basis of conviction. Legal position of dying declaration to be the sole basis of conviction is that it can be done so if it is not tutored, made voluntarily and is wholly reliable. In this regard, Hon'ble Apex Court has summarized the law regarding dying declaration in Lakhan vs. State of Madhya Pradesh [(2010) 8 Supreme Court Cases 514], in this case, Hon'ble Apex Court held that the doctrine of dying declaration is enshrined in the legal maxim nemo moriturus praesumitur mentire, which means, "a man will not meet his Maker with a lie in his mouth". The doctrine of dying declaration is enshrined in Section 32 of Evidence Act, 1872, as an exception to the general rule contained in Section 60 of Evidence Act, which provides that oral evidence in all cases must be directed, i.e., it must be the evidence of a witness, who says he saw it. The dying declaration is, in fact, the statement of a person, who cannot be called as witness and, therefore, cannot be cross-examined. Such statements themselves are relevant facts in certain cases.

20. The law on the issue of dying declaration can be summarized to the effect that in case the court comes to the conclusion that the dying declaration is true and reliable, has been recorded by a person at a time when the deceased was fit physically and mentally to make the declaration and it has not been made under any tutoring/duress/prompting; it can be the sole basis for recording conviction. In such an eventuality no corroboration is required. It is also held by Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid case, that a dying declaration recorded by a competent Magistrate would stand on a much higher footing than the declaration recorded by office of lower rank, for the reason that the competent Magistrate has no axe to grind against the person named in the dying declaration of the victim.

21. Deceased survived for 4 days after the incident took place. Her dying declaration was recorded by Ramesh Chandra Srivastava Nayab Tehsildar after obtaining the certificate of medical fitness from the concerned doctor. This dying declaration was proved by PW5 Ramesh Chandra Srivastava, Nayab Tehshildar. These witnesses have absolutely independent witnesses. In the wake of aforesaid judgments of Lakhan (supra), dying declaration cannot be disbelieved, if it inspires confidence. On reliability of dying declaration and acting on it without corroboration, Hon'ble Apex Court held in Krishan vs. State of Haryana [(2013) 3 Supreme Court Cases 280] that it is not an absolute principle of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction of an accused. Where the dying declaration is true and correct, the attendant circumstances show it to be reliable and it has been recorded in accordance with law, the deceased made the dying declaration of her own accord and upon due certification by the doctor with regard to the state of mind and body, then it may not be necessary for the court to look for corroboration. In such cases, the dying declaration alone can form the basis for the conviction of the accused. Hence, in order to pass the test reliability, a dying declaration has to be subjected to a very close scrutiny, keeping in view the fact that the statement has been made in the absence of the accused, who had no opportunity of testing the veracity of the statement by cross-examination. But once, the court has come to the conclusion that the dying declaration was the truthful version as to the circumstance of the death and the assailants of the victim, there is no question of further corroboration.

22. In Ramilaben Hasmukhbhai Khristi vs. State of Gujarat, [(2002) 7 SCC 56], the Hon'ble Apex Court held that under the law, dying declaration can form the sole basis of conviction, if it is free from any kind of doubt and it has been recorded in the manner as provided under the law. It may not be necessary to look for corroboration of the dying declaration. As envisaged, a dying declaration is generally to be recorded by an Executive Magistrate with the certificate of a medical doctor about the mental fitness of the declarant to make the statement. It may be in the from of question and answer and the answers be written in the words of the person making the declaration. But the court cannot be too technical and in substance if it feels convinced about the trustworthiness of the statement which may inspire confidence such a dying declaration can be acted upon without any corroboration.

23. From the above case laws, it clearly emerges that it is not an absolute principle of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction of an accused when such dying declaration is true, reliable and has been recorded in accordance with established practice and principles and if it is recorded so then there cannot be any challenge regarding its correctness and authenticity.

24. In dying declaration of deceased (Ex.ka4/17), it is also important to note that it was recorded on 09.04.2010 and the deceased died on 13.04.2010 while the incident took place on 09.04.2010. It means that she remained alive for 4 days after making dying declaration. Therefore, truthfulness of dying declaration can further be evaluated from the fact that she survived for 4 days after making it from which it can reasonably be inferred that she was in a fit mental condition to make the statement at the relevant time. Moreover, in the dying declaration, the deceased did not unnecessarily involved the other family members of the accused appellants. She only attributed the role of burning to her husband and father-in-law.

25. In such a situation, the hostility of witnesses of fact cannot demolish the value and reliability of the dying declaration of the deceased, which has been proved by prosecution in accordance with law and is a truthful version of the event that occurred and the circumstances leading to her death.

26. As already noticed, none of the witnesses or the authorities involved in recording the dying declaration had turned hostile. On the contrary, they have fully supported the case of prosecution. The dying declaration is reliable, truthful and was voluntarily made by the deceased, hence, this dying declaration can be acted upon without corroboration and can be made the sole basis of conviction. Hence, learned trial court has committed no error on acting on the sole basis of dying declaration. Learned trial court was completely justified in placing reliance on dying declaration Ex. Ka-4 and convicting the accused-appellants on the basis of it.

27. Now we come to the point of argument raised by learned counsel for the appellants that deceased died due to septicaemia, hence this case falls within the ambit of Section 304 IPC and not under Section 302 IPC. In this regard, learned counsel has submitted that deceased died after 11 days of incident due to the poisonous infection developed in her burn injuries, which could be avoided by good treatment. There was no intention of the appellants to cause the death of his wife.

28. It is admitted fact that the deceased died after four days of burning and post mortem report goes to show that she died due to septicaemia shock. Dr. A.K. Srivastava has been examined as PW7, who had conducted the post mortem of the deceased. He has specifically written in the post mortem report and deposed before the learned trial court that the cause of death was septicaemia shock due to burn injuries. Hence, the death of the deceased was septicaemial death.

29. The finding of fact regarding the presence of witnesses at the place of occurrence cannot be faulted with. Death of deceased was a homicidal death. The fact that it was a homicidal death takes this Court to most vexed question whether it would fall within the four-corners of murder or culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Therefore, we are considering the question whether it would be a murder or culpable homicide not amounting to murder and punishable under Section 304 IPC. Accused is in jail for the last more than 14 years.

30. In State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Mohd. Iqram and another, [(2011) 8 SCC 80], the Apex Court has made the following observations in paragraph 26, therein:

"26. Once the prosecution has brought home the evidence of the presence of the accused at the scene of the crime, then the onus stood shifted on the defence to have brought-forth suggestions as to what could have brought them to the spot in the dead of night. The accused were apprehended and, therefore, they were under an obligation to rebut this burden discharged by the prosecution and having failed to do so, the trial-court was justified in recording its findings on this issue. The High Court committed an error by concluding that the prosecution had failed to discharge its burden. Thus, the judgment proceeds on a surmise that renders it unsustainable."

31. In Bengai Mandal alias Begai Mandal vs. State of Bihar [(2010) 2 SCC 91], incident occurred on 14.7.1996, while the deceased died on 10.8.1996 due to septicaemia caused by burn injuries. The accused was convicted and sentenced for life imprisonment under Section 302 IPC, which was confirmed in appeal by the High Court, but Hon'ble The Apex Court converted the case under Section 304 Part-II IPC on the ground that the death ensued after twenty-six days of the incident as a result of septicaemia and not as a consequence of burn injuries and, accordingly, sentenced for seven years' rigorous imprisonment.

32. In Maniben vs. State of Gujarat [(2009) 8 SCC 796], the incident took place on 29.11.1984. The deceased died on 7.12.1984. Cause of death was the burn injuries. The deceased was admitted in the hospital with about 60 per cent burn injuries and during the course of treatment developed septicaemia, which was the main cause of death of the deceased. Trial-court convicted the accused under Section 304 Part-II IPC and sentenced for five years' imprisonment, but in appeal, High Court convicted the appellants under Section 302 IPC. Hon'ble The Apex Court has held that during the aforesaid period of eight days, the injuries aggravated and worsened to the extent that it led to ripening of the injuries and the deceased died due to poisonous effect of the injuries. Accordingly, judgment and order convicting the accused under Section 304 Part-II IPC by the trial-court was maintained and the judgment of the High Court was set aside.

33. In Chirra Shivraj vs. State of Andhra Pradesh [(2010) 14 SCC 444], incident took place on 21.4.1999. Deceased died on 1.8.1999. As per the prosecution version, kerosene oil was poured upon the deceased, who succumbed to the injuries. Cause of death was septicaemia. Accused was convicted under Section 304 Part-II IPC and sentenced for five years' simple imprisonment, which was confirmed by the High Court. Hon'ble The Apex Court dismissed the appeal holding that the deceased suffered from septicaemia, which was caused due to burn-injuries and as a result thereof, she expired on 1.8.1999.

34. We can safely rely upon the decision of the Gujarat High court in Criminal Appeal No.83 of 2008 (Gautam Manubhai Makwana Vs. State of Gujarat) decided on 11.9.2013 wherein the Court held as under:

"12. In fact, in the case of Krishan vs. State of Haryana reported in (2013) 3 SCC 280, the Apex Court has held that it is not an absolute principle of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction of an accused. Where the dying declaration is true and correct, the attendant circumstances show it to be reliable and it has been recorded in accordance with law, the deceased made the dying declaration of her own accord and upon due certification by the doctor with regard to the state of mind and body, then it may not be necessary for the court to look for corroboration. In such cases, the dying declaration alone can form the basis for the conviction of the accused. But where the dying declaration itself is attended by suspicious circumstances, has not been recorded in accordance with law and settled procedures and practices, then, it may be necessary for the court to look for corroboration of the same.

13. However, the complaint given by the deceased and the dying declaration recorded by the Executive Magistrate and the history before the doctor is consistent and seems to be trustworthy. The same is also duly corroborated with the evidence of witnesses and the medical reports as well as panchnama and it is clear that the deceased died a homicidal death due to the act of the appellants in pouring kerosene and setting him ablaze. We do find that the dying declaration is trust worthy.

14. However, we have also not lost sight of the fact that the deceased had died after a month of treatment. From the medical reports, it is clear that the deceased suffered from Septicemia which happened due to extensive burns.

15. In the case of the B.N. Kavatakar and another (supra), the Apex Court in a similar case of septicemia where the deceased therein had died in the hospital after five days of the occurrence of the incident in question, converted the conviction under section 302 to under section 326 and modified the sentence accordingly.

15.1 Similarly, in the case of Maniben (supra), the Apex Court has observed as under:

"18. The deceased was admitted in the hospital with about 60% burn injuries and during the course of treatment developed septicemia, which was the main cause of death of the deceased. It is, therefore, established that during the aforesaid period of 8 days the injuries aggravated and worsened to the extent that it led to ripening of the injuries and the deceased died due to poisonous effect of the injuries.

19. It is established from the dying declaration of the deceased that she was living separately from her mother-in-law, the appellant herein, for many years and that on the day in question she had a quarrel with the appellant at her house. It is also clear from the evidence on record that immediately after the quarrel she along with her daughter came to fetch water and when she was returning, the appellant came and threw a burning tonsil on the clothes of the deceased. Since the deceased was wearing a terylene cloth at that relevant point of time, it aggravated the fire which caused the burn injuries.

20. There is also evidence on record to prove and establish that the action of the appellant to throw the burning tonsil was preceded by a quarrel between the deceased and the appellant. From the aforesaid evidence on record it cannot be said that the appellant had the intention that such action on her part would cause the death or such bodily injury to the deceased, which was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause the death of the deceased. Therefore, in our considered opinion, the case cannot be said to be covered under clause (4) of Section 300 of IPC. We are, however, of the considered opinion that the case of the appellant is covered under Section 304 Part II of IPC."

16. In the present case, we have come to the irresistible conclusion that the role of the appellants is clear from the dying declaration and other records. However, the point which has also weighed with this court are that the deceased had survived for around 30 days in the hospital and that his condition worsened after around 5 days and ultimately died of septicemia. In fact he had sustained about 35% burns. In that view of the matter, we are of the opinion that the conviction of the appellants under section 302 of Indian Penal Code is required to be converted to that under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and in view of the same appeal is partly allowed.

35. On the overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the case coupled with medical evidence and the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Courts in above referred case laws, we are of the considered opinion that in the case at hand, the offence would be punishable under Section 304 (Part-I) IPC.

36. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussions it appears that the death caused by the accused persons was not pre-meditated but they intentionally caused such bodily injuries which were likely to cause death. Hence the instant case falls under the exceptions (1) and (4) to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 IPC, offence committed will fall under Section 304 (Part-I) IPC.

37. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we are of the view that appeal has to be partly allowed. The conviction of the appellants under Section 302 IPC is converted into conviction under Section 304 (Part-I) IPC and the appellants are sentenced to undergo ten years of incarceration with fine of Rs. 10,000/- and in case of default of payment of fine, the appellants shall further undergo simple imprisonment for 1 year.

38. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed.

TESTIMONY OF DEFENCE WITNESS

15. One witness Gopal, D.W.-1 has also been produced by the defence. This witness in his examination-in-chief has stated that his son Karamveer was employed in the house of Narayan Singh and was paid Rs.3,000/- per month and was also provided food and lodging. Narayan Singh used to pay accumulated salary in lump sum. On 09.08.2012 his son Karamveer had given him Rs.50,000/-. After 9 to 10 days a policeman came to his house and said that his son Karamveer has been detained by the police. He asked him (D.W.-1) to bring some money so that his son may be released. On 19.08.2012 at 6.30 PM he came to Police Station Kosikala and negotiated with the police, then they asked him to pay Rs.50,000/- for the release of his son. He paid Rs.50,000/- to the SO who said that his son will be released in the morning. He went back after giving the cash but his son was not released. Later on, he came to know that this cash amount was planted and his son has been falsely implicated. The cash belongs to him.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF APPELLANTS

16. The learned counsel for the applicant contended that there is no eyewitness of the incident. The prosecution has relied only on circumstantial evidence. The chain of circumstances as alleged by the prosecution is not complete. The FIR has been lodged on 19.08.2012 after a delay of 8 days and there is no plausible explanation for the delay. The conduct of the complainant is highly doubtful. There are major contradictions between the allegations of the FIR and the statement of the complainant. In the FIR only Karamveer, the accused has been named and it is alleged that Narayan Singh has left the house with Karamveer, but the complainant in his statement before the court has also implicated the other accused Vinod, and has said that Narayan Singh has left the house with Karamveer and Vinod and was seen by the witnesses going with them on a motorcycle. It is further contended that the arrest of the accused Karamveer has been shown in the record as on 20.08.2012 at 12.05 Noon, which is not supported by the public witnesses. According to public witnesses, the Karamveer was present in the village and was handed over to the police on 19.08.2012 or earlier. It also destroys the entire prosecution evidence of recovery of the dead body, spade, and cash at the pointing out of Karamveer. It is further contended that Karamveer never absconded and he remained present in the village itself, which shows his innocence. The recovery of the cash amount is also fabricated. The real fact is that Karamveer was detained by the police and the police demanded money to release him. The father of Karamveer paid Rs.50,000/- for that and the police planted it on Karamveer, showing the recovery of cash. The accused in his statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. has put up the above defence and has also produced his father, Gopal(D.W.-1) in support of it. Learned counsel for the applicant also contended that the investigating officer has not conducted the investigation in a fair and impartial manner and in collusion with the complainant has falsely implicated the appellant-accused. It is also contended that there is no evidence against the appellant Vinod. The evidence against the co-accused Karamveer is untrustworthy and unbelievable. The learned trial court has failed to appreciate the evidence and has ignored the major discrepancies and contradictions of the prosecution evidence. The finding of conviction recorded by the trial court is perverse and illegal.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE STATE

17. Per contra, the learned AGA for the State submitted that the deceased was missing and the complainant after making a thorough search at his level has given a missing report at the police station and thereafter lodged the FIR. So there is a plausible explanation for the delay in lodging the FIR. Learned AGA for the State conceded that there is no sufficient evidence against the appellant-accused Vinod, but submitted that so far as the appellant-accused Karamveer is concerned there is sufficient and cogent evidence against him. There is a chain of evidence so complete that it conclusively points to the guilt of the appellant Karamveer by leaving no reasonable doubt for the conclusion that the accused Karamveer is guilty. It is proved from the evidence that the deceased has left the house with the accused Karamveer. It also stands proved that he was last seen by the public witnesses in the company of accused Karamveer going on a motorcycle towards Hodal. The dead body has been recovered, buried in the field of the deceased, at the pointing out of accused Karamveer. This fact can be in the knowledge of the culprit only. The spade used in committing the murder of the deceased has also been recovered at the pointing out of accused Karamveer from the bushes near the field. From the statements of public witnesses, it stands fully proved that the dead body and the spade have been recovered at the pointing out of accused Karamveer. The motive of the crime is also proved. The deceased was having Rs.70,000/- with him and in greed for that money, his murder has been committed. Out of this money, Rs.50,000/- has been recovered from the house of the Karamveer's sister at the pointing of the accused Karamveer. It is admitted by the defense witness Gopal DW-1 that this money belongs to the deceased. Merely because the accused Karamveer has not absconded after the incident does not indicate his innocence. He may not have done so to avoid any suspicion being raised against him. So from the prosecution evidence, a complete chain of circumstances is established, which clearly points toward the guilt of the accused. The finding of conviction of accused Karamveer recorded by the trial court is just and proper and there is no illegality in it.

A N A L Y S I S

18. There is no eyewitness account of the incident and the prosecution case is based on circumstantial evidence.

In Sharad Birdhichand Sarda AIR 1984 SC 1622, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has laid down the following five golden principles to prove a case based on circumstantial evidence:-

"(1) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

(2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty.

(3) The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and unerringly point towards the guilt of the accused.

(4) They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

In the case of Haresh Mohandas Rajput v. State of Maharashtra 2011 (12) SCC 56 following its earlier decisions, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that when a case rests upon circumstantial evidence, such evidence must satisfy the following tests:-

"(i) the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn, must be cogently and firmly established;

(ii) those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing toward the guilt of the accused.

(iii) the circumstances, taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and none else; and

(iv) the circumstantial evidence in order to sustain conviction must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence."

19. The prosecution has relied on the following chain of circumstances:-

(i) On 11.08.2012 the deceased, Narayan Singh went from his home accompanying Karamveer and Vinod taking Rs.70,000/- cash and since then he was missing.

(ii) Deceased Narayan Singh was last seen going with Karamveer and Vinod on the way leading to Hodal.

(iii) On 20.08.2012 at 12.05 Noon Karamveer was arrested by the police and on his interrogation, he confessed his crime and stated that he along with his cousin Vinod has committed the murder of Narayan Singh in greed of Rs.70,000/-.

(v) The dead body of the deceased Narayan Singh was recovered at the instance of accused Karamveer, buried in the field of deceased Narayan Singh at Village Lalpur.

(vi) The spade used in the crime was also got recovered at the instance of accused Karamveer.

(vii) Rs.50,000/- cash was also recovered at the instance of accused Karamveer from the house of his sister Lakshmi from the village Balghadi contained in a box and kept in a purse.

20. According to the prosecution case, Narayan Singh left his house on 11-08-2012 at 1:30 PM with his servant Karamveer for Hodal with rupees seventy thousand. He was seen by the witnesses Prahlad Singh and Vijan, going on a motorcycle with Karamveer and Vinod on way to Hodal at the noon of 11-08-2012. The first information that Narayan Singh is missing was given to the police by Naval Singh the nephew of the deceased on 19-08-2012 and it was entered in the G.D. at 09:10 AM In this report, it is mentioned that on 11-08-2012 at 01:30 PM after a phone call from someone Narayan Singh left the house with Rupees seventy thousand where after he did not return nor his phone responded. Later, on the same day, Naval Singh gave another application on the basis of which F.I.R. was registered at 20:30 hours. In this application, it was alleged that on 11-08-2012 at 01:30 P.M. Narayan Singh had gone to Hodal with Karamveer taking Rs.70,000/- with him. In this report it was alleged that his uncle was last seen by Vijan and Prahlad going on a motorcycle on the way to Hodal. In the first missing report, the fact that Narayan Singh had left the house with Karamveer and that witnesses Vijan and Prahlad had seen them going on a motorcycle is not mentioned. It is established from the statements of witnesses that the aforesaid fact was well within the knowledge of complainant Naval Singh at the time when he gave the missing report to the police. Rather, the aforesaid fact was well within the knowledge of the complainant from the date of the incident itself. Naval Singh (P.W.-1) in his examination in chief has said that when his uncle did not return in the evening then he made a call on his mobile which was switched off. When Vijan and Prahlad came to his house, they told him that they have seen Narayan Singh, his uncle going with Kramveer and Vinod. Prahlad Singh P.W. 2 in his cross-examination has said that he grazed his cattle till 04:00 PM. At another place, the witness said that he met Naval at his house then he told that he had seen Narayan going with Karamveer. Quarter to an hour after reaching home he went to the house of Naval Singh. Vijan P.W. 3 in his examination in chief has said that when he came back to his village in the evening and heard that Narayan Singh is missing then he told Naval that he had seen Narayan Singh going with Karamveer on way to Hodal. So it is fully established from the prosecution evidence that the fact that Narayan Singh had left the house with Karamveer and was last seen by Prahlad and Vijan going on a motorcycle with Karamveer and Vinod on way to Hodal was well within the knowledge of the complainant from the very beginning but neither he gave any information to the police earlier nor he disclosed these facts in the missing report which was given on the morning of 19-08-2012. The aforesaid fact being in the knowledge of the complainant yet not finding a place in the missing report clearly reflect that the facts mentioned in the FIR later were an after thought may be in consultation with or at the behest of the police. There is no plausible explanation for informing the police or lodging the F.I.R. with so much delay i.e. after eight days of the incident. There are also major discrepancies in the statements of complainant Naval Singh and other witnesses in relation to the lodging of the missing report and the F.I.R. Complainant Naval Singh has given different versions. At one place he has said that he has lodged the missing report after 2-3 days. He has further said that he had lodged this report at about 4-4:30 pm while the missing report had been lodged after 8 days in the morning at 9:10 am. In his cross-examination, the witness has said that FIR was lodged on 11-08-2012. Correcting himself he has again said that FIR was lodged on 19-08-2012 but has further said that the two reports were not lodged on the same day while the missing report as well as FIR both have been lodged on the same day i.e. on 19-08-2012. He has further said that he had returned home at 5:30 pm after lodging the FIR, while, according to the record, the FIR was lodged on 19-08-2012 at 20:30 hours. Changing his statement the witness has further said that he met a police person on 18-08-2012 at the police station. Prahlad Singh PW-2 in his cross-examination has said that the missing report was lodged on the date when he last saw Narayan Singh going with Karamveer, so according to him, the missing report was lodged on 11-08-2012.

21. There are also other discrepancies in the statement of complainant Naval Singh. In his examination-in-chief, the witness reiterating the version of the FIR has said that his uncle Narayan Singh has left the house at 1:30 pm but in his cross-examination, the witness has put a different version and has said that his uncle and Karamveer has left the house at 9-9:30 am. At one place in his cross-examination, the witness has said that he and his uncle lived in the same house and that Narayan Singh had left the house in front of him while at another place the witness has said that the house of his uncle is separate from his house and it is situated at some distance and in between the two houses, there are houses of others, namely, Ramphool, Vijan, Omi, and Ran Singh. In the FIR only the accused Karamveer is named and it is alleged that Narayan Singh had gone with Karamveer while in his statement the witness Naval Singh PW-1 has also implicated accused Vinod by saying that his uncle Narayan Singh had gone with Karamveer and Vinod. From the appreciation of the statement of complainant Naval Singh PW-1, it transpires that his oral testimony is very inconsistent. He has changed his statements according to his convenience and in doing so he has made contradictory statements. There are major discrepancies in his oral testimony.

22. According to the prosecution case accused Karamveer was arrested on 20-08-2012 at 12:05 noon from Korvan Tiraha by SO Santosh Singh and his companions. He was interrogated by SO Santosh Singh. He confessed his crime and told that on 11-08-2012 he along with his cousin Vinod had committed the murder of Narayan Singh in greed of Rupees 70,000 and buried his dead body in his field. The gist of this interrogation was entered in G.D No. 23 at 12:45 pm. Thereafter, SO Santosh Singh accompanying police personnel and accused Karamveer came to village Lalpur at the field of Narayan Singh and at the pointing out of the accused Karamveer the dead body of Narayan Singh was recovered after digging a pit in the field. One spade used in committing the murder was also recovered from the bushes. Sub-inspector Santosh Singh PW-10 in his examination-in-chief has supported the aforesaid prosecution version. From the statements of the public witnesses produced by the prosecution, the aforesaid prosecution story of arrest and recovery does not find support. There are major contradictions regarding the date and time of arrest and recovery. Prahlad Singh PW-2 in his cross-examination has said that after 11-08-2012 he had seen Karamveer in the morning of 19-08-2012 at 10:00 am. In the evening at 5:00 pm, he asked about Narayan Singh from Naval Singh. He and Naval Singh inquired about Narayan Singh from Karamveer and handed him over to the police. The police came to the village at 6:00 pm and stayed there for a while, made some inquiries, and then took away Karamveer. Parmanand PW-4 has said that he had seen Karamveer in the village when police came on 18-08-2012 at 12 o'clock. The police came at 12'o clock and in front of him took away Karamveer. Dharam Singh PW-5 has said that police arrested Karamveer in the evening of 19-08-2012 from the house. Vijan PW-3 has stated that he told Naval Singh that he had seen Narayan Singh going with Karamveer, then Naval Singh called Karamveer who told him that he had left Narayan Singh at Hodal bypass and he did not know where he had gone. When a phone call was made to Narayan Singh it was not received, then Karamveer was arrested. The statements of public witnesses clearly establish that Karamveer was not arrested on 20-08-2012 at 12:05 noon as alleged by the police but earlier.

23. No separate memo of the recovery of the dead body has been prepared. In the inquest report itself, the description of the recovery has been entered by S.I. Narendra

Pal Singh (PW-9) who has conducted the inquest proceedings. PW-9 in his examination-in-chief has said that on 20-08-2012 he along with SO Santosh Singh, accompanying police personnel and the arrested accused Karamveer arrived at the field of Narayan Singh, and at the pointing out of accused Karamveer, after digging a pit, the dead body of Narayan Singh was recovered. The witness has not disclosed the timing of recovery. So neither in the document nor in the oral evidence the time of recovery of the dead body has been revealed. In the inquest report time 13:30 hrs is mentioned as the time of commencement of inquest proceedings. So it appears that the dead body has been recovered on 20-08-2012 sometime before 1:30 PM. This also does not match with the date and time stated by the public witnesses in their oral testimony. Parmanand (PW-4), Prahlad Singh (PW-2), Dharam Singh (PW-5), and Vijan (PW-3) are the panch witnesses of the inquest. Prahlad Singh PW-2 in his cross-examination has said that he met the police at the hut built in the field of Narayan Singh on 20-08-2012 at 10:00 AM. Karamveer was accompanying the police. He located the place where the dead body was buried. Firstly, Karamveer took out a spade and then he exhumed the dead body. So according to this witness, the dead body was recovered at about 10:00 AM. Vijan PW-3 has said that in the morning of 20-08-2012 he was called to the police station. He reached the police station at 7:30 AM. Vittan was also there. After some minutes they proceeded to Balghari in a jeep and returned from there at 9:00 AM. Thereafter he did not return to his house and proceeded with police in a jeep and reached the field at 10:00 am and remained there for 2 hours. So according to this witness, the timing of the recovery is sometime after 10:00 AM. Dharam Singh PW-5 has said that Karamveer was arrested by police on 19-08-2012 after 4:00 PM. The witness has further said that on the next morning at about 10:00 AM the police with Karamveer came to the village and then proceeded to the field of Narayan Singh from where at the pointing out of Karamveer, the dead body of Narayan Singh was recovered. So the aforesaid oral statements of the public witnesses fully demolish the prosecution case that accused Karamveer was arrested at 12:05 noon and was lodged in the lock-up of the police station at 12:30 PM and on his confession and disclosure statement, which was entered into G.D. at 12:45 PM, the police party recovered the body at the pointing out of Karamaveer.

24. According to the prosecution case, the spade used in the crime was also recovered at the pointing out of accused Karamveer. Its recovery memo is Ext Ka 16. S.I. Santosh Singh PW-10 has said that after recovery of the dead body the spade used in committing the murder was recovered at the pointing out of Karamveer at 15:30 hours. Two public persons, namely, Ram Singh and Dharam Singh, are witnesses of this recovery memo. Dharam Singh has been produced as PW-5 but his statement is not in consonance with the oral statement of S.I. Santosh Singh PW-10 as well as the prosecution case. According to the statement of Dharam Singh PW-5 first, the spade was recovered, and thereafter the dead body was exhumed. Dharam Singh PW-5 in his cross-examination has said that police with Karamveer reached the field of Narayan Singh at 10:00 AM. There is a drain near the field of Narayan Singh, Karamveer took out a spade from its bushes. He dug the pit from the same spade and exhumed the dead body. So according to this witness, the recovery of the spade was made at about 10:00 AM, and the dead body was recovered after the recovery of the spade, and the body was exhumed by the same spade which is again contradictory to the statement of S.I. Santosh Singh PW-10. Prahlad Singh PW-2 also in his cross-examination said that first Karamveer took out the spade and then he dug the pit to recover the dead body. While Dharam Singh PW-5 has stated that the spade was recovered from the bushes of the drain. The other witness Parmanand PW-4 in his cross-examination has said that the spade was recovered from the jowar field of Narayan Singh. On this issue, the statement of Prahlad Singh PW-2 is different. In his examination-in-chief, the witness has said that Karamveer got the spade recovered from the hut. The spade was kept in the hut. S.I. Narendra Pal Singh PW-9 has not said any fact about the recovery of the spade while according to the prosecution he was present on the spot at the relevant time. Although the presence of complainant Naval Singh PW-1 at the time of recovery of the dead body is not disclosed either in the documents or in the statement of S.I. Santosh Singh but the complainant Naval Singh PW-1 himself has said that he was present there at the relevant time but he has not made any statement about the recovery of the spade. From the analysis of the entire evidence on record, it transpires that the timing of arrest and recovery of the dead body and the spade as stated by the investigating officer S.I. Santosh Singh does not stand corroborated by the oral testimony of the public witnesses and there are major contradictions in this regard. According to public witnesses, the timing of recovery of the dead body and the spade is much before the arrest of the accused as disclosed in the documents which makes the recovery of the dead body and the spade at the pointing out of accused Karamveer highly doubtful.

25. The prosecution has also produced evidence of recovery of Rs.50,000/- cash at the pointing out of accused Karamveer from his sister's house at village Balghadi. Its recovery memo is Ex.Ka.-19. In the recovery memo, no time of recovery is mentioned. Investigating officer, Sub-Inspector Santosh Sinh(P.W.-10) has proved this recovery memo. His oral statement is also silent about the time of recovery. But from his statement, it appears that the said recovery has been made in the evening/night of 20.08.2012. According to Sub-Inspector Santosh Sinh(P.W.-10) after the recovery of the dead body and spade, the investigating officer prepared the recovery memo of the spade. He also prepared the site plan of the recovery place, collected blood-stained soil, and plain soil, sealed it in a container, and prepared its memo. He recorded the statements of inquest witnesses. Thereafter the investigating officer accompanying the police force, accused Karamveer, and witnesses Vittan and Vijan proceeded for Balghadi from where at the pointing out of accused Karamveer Rs.50,000/- cash was recovered from a purse kept in a box. Witness has further said that he prepared its memo on the spot, got it signed by the witnesses, provided a copy to the accused Karamveer, sealed the cash, and thereafter returned to the police station and deposited the cash and containers of blood-stained and plain earth in the Malkhana, vide G.D. entry No.41 at 20:10 hours. The aforesaid statement of Sub-Inspector Santosh Sinh(P.W.-10) is not supported by statements of witnesses of recovery memo Vittan and Vijan. Both the aforesaid witnesses have also not said about the time of recovery in their examination in chief.

From their statements during cross-examination, it is established that the said recovery is not of the evening of 20.08.2012, as stated by Sub-Inspector Santosh Sinh(P.W.-10). Vittan (P.W.-6) in his cross-examination has said that Karamveer was brought by police at 9.00 AM Changing his aforesaid statement the witness has further said that Karamveer was brought to the police station from the village by the police. He does not know the date. He also does not know for how many days the police detained him. On the same day in the morning, they proceeded to Balghadi from the police station in a police vehicle. He and Vijan went to Balghadi with the police. At another place the witness has said that immediately after recovery they returned to the police station, its memo was prepared at the police station and their signatures were obtained on it. The witness has further said that they returned to the police station at 9.00 AM So according to this witness the recovery of the cash was made in the morning and no recovery memo was prepared on the spot. It was prepared at the police station, where signatures of witnesses were obtained on it. On this point, Vijan P.W.-3 in his cross-examination has said that on 20.08.2012 he was called to the police station in the morning. He along with Vittan reached the police station at 7.30 AM, stayed for some time there, and thereafter proceeded for Balghadi by a Jeep, reached Balghadi at 8.00 AM, half an hour was spent at Balghadi and returned to the police station at 9.00 AM. So according to this witness also the recovery of cash was made in the morning of 20.08.2012 and they returned at the police station at 9.00 AM, whereas, as stated above, according to prosecution version the accused was arrested at 12.05 PM on 20.08.2012. If it was so, the timing of recovery of cash comes prior to arrest of the accused,which renders the recovery of cash completely doubtful.

26. There are also other discrepancies and contradictions in the evidence of prosecution in this respect. Vittan (P.W.-6) has failed to answer relevant questions on this point and has shown his ignorance. He has failed to tell the distance of the village Balghadi from his village. He has also failed to tell the time of reaching Balghadi. He has failed to disclose the direction in which village Balghadi is situated.

According to the prosecution at the time of recovery, only Vijan and Vittan public witnesses were present, but other witnesses produced by the prosecution have also given evidence about the recovery of cash in their statements. Nawal Singh (P.W.-1), the complainant in his cross-examination has said that police has taken him to Balghadi by a Jeep. They reached Balghadi at 4.30 PM on 19.08.2012. He, Praveen, Vijan, and 4-5 police personnel were present. Only these persons have gone there. So this witness has not taken the name of Vittan, the other witness of the recovery memo, and instead, he has disclosed the name of Praveen as a witness whose presence is not mentioned either in the recovery memo Ex. Ka-19 or in the statements of other witnesses. The witness has further said that the cash was given by the sister of Karamveer from a box. Witness has further said that after taking currency notes they came back and a memo was prepared and notes were sealed at Kosikala. He also got it signed. The signature of this witness is nowhere on the recovery memo. Witness has further said that thereafter police along with him came to his village at about 4.00 PM and arrested Karamveer. Karamveer was arrested from the house in front of the witness. The aforesaid statement of the witness also demolishes the entire prosecution case of arrest of accused Karamveer and recovery of cash at his pointing out. Prahlad Singh(P.W.-2) in his cross-examination on this point has stated that Vijan and police have got recovered Rs.50,000/- from the house of Karamveer's sister at village Balghadi. Police have shown the cash and have not sealed it. So prosecution evidence regarding recovery of Rs.50,000/- cash at the pointing out of Karamveer from his sister's house at village Balghadi has major contradictions on material points and cannot be relied upon.

Gopal (D.W.-1) in his statement has only said that his son Karamveer was employed at the house of Narayan Singh on a monthly salary of Rs.3,000/- and Narayan Singh used to pay him accumulated salary in lump sum. He has further said that on 09.08.2012 his son Karamveer had given him Rs.50,000/-. After 9 to 10 days a policeman came to his house and said that his son has been detained so he should come with some money so that he may be released. On 19.08.2012 at 6.30 PM he came to Police Station, Kosikala, where the police settled for a sum of Rs.50,000/- to release his son. He paid Rs.50,000/- to the SO, Police Station, Kosikala who stated that his son will be released in the morning, but his son was not released. Later on, it came to his notice that the same currency notes were planted to show false recovery from his son. So the witness has not admitted the fact of recovery, he has only said that the money was paid by Narayan Singh (the deceased) to Karamveer in lieu of his salary. He has explained the entire facts about the payment of money and recovery.

The aforesaid statement cannot be treated as an admission of recovery of cash at the pointing out of accused Karamveer and it does not help the prosecution in any manner as from the evidence on record it is established that the alleged recovery of money is prior to the arrest of the accused and, therefore, insignificant. In the case of S. K. Yusuf v. State of West Bengal, AIR 2011 SC 2283, the Apex Court in paragraph no.26 has held:-

"Undoubtedly, a conviction can be based solely on circumstantial evidence. However, the Court must bear in mind while deciding the case involving the commission of a serious offence based on circumstantial evidence that the prosecution case must stand or fall on its own legs and cannot derive any strength from the weakness of the defence case. The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established."

27. According to the prosecution the incident occurred on 11.08.2012. The deceased left his house at 1.30 PM and he was last seen in the company of accused Karamveer and Vinod at about 01.30-02.00 PM According to post-mortem report (Ex.Ka.-6), the autopsy of the dead body of Narayan Singh was conducted on 20.08.2012 at 07.15 PM The Autopsy surgeon, doctor Lal Singh (P.W.-8), in this report has mentioned the duration of death, about three days. In his examination in chief, he has not disclosed the duration of death. Instead he stated that the cause of death was haemorrhage due to ante-mortem injuries, which may have come on 11.08.2012 from a spade. The opinion of the doctor that ante-mortem injuries may come on 11.08.2012 is not relevant because the autopsy surgeon cannot give any opinion about the time of infliction of ante-mortem injuries. He may give his opinion only about the time of death. In his cross-examination, doctor Lal Singh (P.W.-8) has categorically stated that according to his report the death of the deceased might have occurred about three days earlier. He has further said that if the death had occurred four days earlier then he should not have written it about three days earlier. He also said that the duration of three days may be two days or two & a half-day. So according to the statement of the Autopsy surgeon the death of the deceased would not have occurred more than three days earlier. This does not match with the timing of death as alleged by the prosecution and there is a big difference between the two.

28. From the analysis of the statement of P.W.-1 Nawal Singh, it is clear that the statement of this witness is highly inconsistent. The witness has changed his version regularly and has made contradictory statements at different places as per his convenience. The two reports lodged by him are also doubtful. The witness being the complainant and nephew of the deceased is also an interested witness and hence a cautious approach is required while scrutinizing his testimony. His statement does not fulfill the standard of reliability. The statements of witnesses of last seen evidence are also inconsistent and there are major contradictions in it and they are also not reliable. The evidence of recovery of the dead body, spade, and Rs. 50,000/- cash at the pointing out of Karamveer also becomes doubtful from the statement of the investigating officer, Santosh Singh PW-10. The timing of recovery of the dead body and spade and Rs. 50,000/- cash precedes the timing of the arrest and disclosure statement, which demolishes the entire evidence of recovery of the dead body, spade, and cash at the pointing out of the accused Karamveer. The conduct of the complainant Nawal Singh is also not above board. It is established from the evidence that the deceased has only three female issues and a suggestion has been put to him that to grab the property of his uncle he has falsely implicated the accused. In the circumstances of the case, this possibility cannot be ruled out.

29. From the analysis of prosecution evidence, it is clear that there is no evidence against the accused Vinod. With regard to accused Karamveer, there are serious infirmities in prosecution evidence. The statements of witnesses are highly inconsistent and there are major contradictions and discrepancies in it on material points. Due to the above reasons, the prosecution evidence is not reliable.

30. In C Chenga Reddy v. State of A.P., 1996 SCC (Crl.) 1205, it has been held:-

"In a case based on circumstantial evidence, the settled law is that the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is drawn, should be fully proved and such circumstances must be conclusive in nature. Moreover, all the circumstances should be complete and there should be no gap left in the chain of evidence. Further, the proved circumstances must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and totally inconsistent with his innocence."

In the case of Satni Bai v. State of M.P., (2010) 2 SCC 646, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed, thus:-

"It has been consistently laid down by this court, that when a case rests only on circumstantial evidence, the inference of guilt can be justified only when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or the guilt of any other person. The circumstances from which an inference as to the guilt of the accused is drawn, have to be proved beyond reasonable done and have to be shown to be closely connected with the principal fact sought to be inferred from those circumstances."

Therefore, there are various judicial pronouncements of the Hon'ble Apex Court, and the law is settled that the conviction can be based on circumstantial evidence, but those circumstances must be fully proved and must be conclusive in nature.

31. Applying the aforesaid proposition of law on the present set of facts and evidence we are of the opinion that the prosecution evidence is not of the standard as to say that the prosecution has succeeded in proving the charges beyond reasonable doubt. In the given circumstances, it will not be safe to rely on the prosecution evidence and it will be just and proper to extend the benefit of the doubt to the accused Karamveer.

32. Before parting with the judgment it appears necessary to make some observations with regard to latches on part of the investigating officer. Very surprisingly he has not recorded the statement of the wife of the deceased, who is a natural witness, because the deceased had gone from his house with cash. The investigating officer has only recorded the statements of the complainant Nawal Singh, the nephew of the deceased, and others and proceeded. He has also not interrogated the complainant about the information given in the missing report, in which it is stated that after receipt of some phone call, the deceased had left his house. Neither the mobile of the deceased has been recovered nor its call details record has been collected by the investigating officer. Even the accused has not been interrogated about the mobile of the deceased, while it is established from the prosecution evidence that the deceased was in possession of a mobile at the time of the incident. Further, from the evidence on record, it is fully established that the arrest of the accused as shown in the record by the investigating officer is wholly manipulated and it has destroyed the whole prosecution case. So there are serious latches on the part of the investigating officer and it appears that he has not performed his duty diligently and honestly.

33. The appeal stands allowed. The judgment and order of conviction dated 17.03.2015, passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 4, Mathura, in Sessions Trial No. 254 of 2013 Crime No. 522 of 2012, Police Station Kosikala, District Mathura is hereby set aside. The appellant accused Vinod and Karamveer are hereby acquitted of the charges for which they have been tried and convicted.

34. The appellant Vinod is on bail. His bail bonds are hereby canceled and sureties stand discharged. He need not surrender, subject to compliance of the provisions of section 437-A Cr.P.C. The appellant Karamveer is in jail. He shall be set at liberty forthwith, if not wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of the provisions of section 437-A, Cr.P.C. The order be communicated to all concerned for necessary compliance.

35. Copy of the judgment and lower court record be transmitted to the trial court immediately.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. This appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 9.3.2017 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No.2, Firozabad in Sessions Trial No.616 of 2014 convicting accused-appellant under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') and sentenced him to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.10,000/- and in default of payment of fine, further to undergo imprisonment for six months.

2. Factual scenario as culled out from the record and the judgment of the Court below is that the accused-appellant is alleged to have set ablaze the deceased on 9.5.2014 when the accused went to the house of the deceased and demanded sum of Rs.10,000/- and when the deceased refused to give the said amount and requested him to come when her husband was in the house, the accused started abusing her and in his anger, poured kerosene on her and set her ablaze.

3. On the complaint of the husband of the deceased, First Information Report being No.387 of 2014 was registered under Section 307 of I.P.C. and thereafter, the investigation was moved into motion. After recording statements of various persons, the investigating officer submitted the charge-sheet against accused under Sections 302 & 307 of I.P.C.. The learned Chief Judicial Magistrate before whom charge sheet was laid put the same before the learned Sessions Judge. The learned Sessions Judge, on hearing the learned Government Advocate and learned counsel for the accused, framed charges under Section 302 & 307 of I.P.C..

4. On being read over the charges, the accused pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried, hence, the trial started and the prosecution examined 12 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Deen Dayal	PW1
2	Gulab Singh	PW2
3	Smt. Rekha	PW3
4	Jawahar Singh	PW4

5. In support of ocular version following documents were filed:

1	F.I.R.	Ex.Ka.13
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Dying Declaration	Ex. Ka.8 & 12
4	Postmortem Report	Ex. Ka.2
5	Panchayatnama	Ex.Ka.3
6	Charge-sheet	Ex.Ka.11

6. At the end of the trial and after recording the statement of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the appellant as mentioned above.

7. Heard Yogesh Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Vikas Goswami, learned A.G.A-I, assisted by Sri Nagendra Kumar Srivastava and Sri Janardan Prakash, learned A.G.As. for the State and perused the record.

8. It is submitted that the deceased in her first dying declaration mentioned that the accused poured kerosene and set her ablaze and then poured water on her, and that people started coming in and, her husband, after he came back from service, brought her to the hospital. Her statement was recorded at 7.12 p.m. on 9.5.2014 namely on the date of incident.

9. Learned counsel has thereafter taken us to the depositions of other witnesses who are hostile witnesses. Be that as it may, the main crux on which submission is made by Sri Yogesh Kr. Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant are that the deceased died out of burn injuries after six days, there are multiple dying declarations which give different version. The medical evidence according to the counsel for the appellant shows that she died due to septicemic shock and, therefore, it is submitted that looking to the F.I.R. and the dying declarations, it cannot be said that the deceased was done to death and she was murdered. It is submitted that even if it is considered that it was culpable homicide, it would be culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

10. In support of the his submissions, learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the decisions in Maniben vs. State of Gujarat, 2009 (8) SCC 796, Chirra Shivraj vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, 2010 (14) SCC 444, Criminal Appeal No.1438 of 2010 (Rama Devi alias Ramakanti vs. State of U.P.) decided on 7.10.2017 & Criminal Appeal No. 2558 of 2011 (Smt. Kanti and another vs. State of U.P.) decided on 1.2.2021.

11. Learned A.G.A. for the state has vehemently submitted the death of the deceased was though due to septicemic shock, the burn injuries goes to show that it would not be an offence punishable under Section 304 part I or II of I.P.C.

12. While going through the evidence of the witnesses in light of the judgments of the Apex Court referred by both the learned Advocates, we would have to evaluate whether deceased was done to death with a premeditation. Just because death was due to septicemic shock will not take it out from the purview of Section 300 of I.P.C. The evidence of most of the witnesses which has been recorded goes to show that most of them have given go by of their statements before the police under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. But, the medical evidence and dying declaration which are multiple in number have to be evaluated.

13. Whether the F.I.R. corroborates the dying declaration of the deceased? It is an admitted position of fact that it was the accused who had poured kerosene on the deceased, however, in one of her dying declaration she mentioned that the accused had poured water so as to save her. But the second dying declaration which is latest in point of time is silent. Therefore, one fact is that the accused was the brother in law of the deceased and when he demanded monies she gave him two slaps and in infuriation, he set her ablaze. This fact is borne out in both the dying declarations and the doctor has also opined against the accused. Therefore, this dying declaration has not been challenged by the counsel for the appellant and in the light of the decision in Govindappa and others Vs. State of Karnataka, (2010) 6 SCC 533, there is no reason for us not to accept the dying declaration and its evidentiary value under Section 32 of Evidence Act, 1872. However, it is submitted that looking to the facts, the accused-appellant had no intention to do away with his sister-in-law.

14. Considering the evidence of the witnesses and also considering the medical evidence including post mortem report, there is no doubt left in our mind about the guilt of the present appellant.

15. However, the question which falls for our consideration is whether, on reappraisal of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 of I.P.C. of the Indian Penal Code should be upheld or the conviction deserves to be converted under Section 304 Part-I or Part-II of the Indian Penal Code. It would be relevant to refer Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which read as under:

"299. Culpable homicide: Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide."

16. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts losing sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of I.P.Code. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences.

A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder if the act by which the death is caused is done.
INTENTION
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that	(4) with the

the act is likely to cause death.

knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

17. On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. State of Karnataka, reported in 1994 SUPP (1) SCC 304, we are of the considered opinion that the offence would be one punishable under Section 304 part-I of the IPC.

18. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussions, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused had no intention to cause death of deceased, the injuries were though sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to have caused death, accused had no intention to do away with deceased, hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. Decided, (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

19. We can safely rely upon the decision of the Gujarat High court in Criminal Appeal No.83 of 2008 (Gautam Manubhai Makwana Vs. State of Gujarat) decided on 11.9.2013 wherein the Court held as under:

"12. In fact, in the case of Krishan vs. State of Haryana reported in (2013) 3 SCC 280, the Apex Court has held that it is not an absolute principle of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction of an accused. Where the dying declaration is true and correct, the attendant circumstances show it to be reliable and it has been recorded in accordance with law, the deceased made the dying declaration of her own accord and upon due certification by the doctor with regard to the state of mind and body, then it may not be necessary for the court to look for corroboration. In such cases, the dying declaration alone can form the basis for the conviction of the accused. But where the dying declaration itself is attended by suspicious circumstances, has not been recorded in accordance with law and settled procedures and practices, then, it may be necessary for the court to look for corroboration of the same.

13. However, the complaint given by the deceased and the dying declaration recorded by the Executive Magistrate and the history before the doctor is consistent and seems to be trustworthy. The same is also duly corroborated with the evidence of witnesses and the medical reports as well as panchnama and it is clear that the deceased died a homicidal death due to the act of the appellants in pouring kerosene and setting him ablaze. We do find that the dying declaration is trust worthy.

14. However, we have also not lost sight of the fact that the deceased had died after a month of treatment. From the medical reports, it is clear that the deceased suffered from Septicemia which happened due to extensive burns.

15. In the case of the B.N. Kavatakar and another (supra), the Apex Court in a similar case of septicemia where the deceased therein had died in the hospital after five days of the occurrence of the incident in question, converted the conviction under section 302 to under section 326 and modified the sentence accordingly.

15.1 Similarly, in the case of Maniben (supra), the Apex Court has observed as under:

"18. The deceased was admitted in the hospital with about 60% burn injuries and during the course of treatment developed septicemia, which was the main cause of death of the deceased. It is, therefore, established that during the aforesaid period of 8 days the injuries aggravated and worsened to the extent that it led to ripening of the injuries and the deceased died due to poisonous effect of the injuries.

19. It is established from the dying declaration of the deceased that she was living separately from her mother-in-law, the appellant herein, for many years and that on the day in question she had a quarrel with the appellant at her house. It is also clear from the evidence on record that immediately after the quarrel she along with her daughter came to fetch water and when she was returning, the appellant came and threw a burning tonsil on the clothes of the deceased. Since the deceased was wearing a terylene cloth at that relevant point of time, it aggravated the fire which caused the burn injuries.

20. There is also evidence on record to prove and establish that the action of the appellant to throw the burning tonsil was preceded by a quarrel between the deceased and the appellant. From the aforesaid evidence on record it cannot be said that the appellant had the intention that such action on her part would cause the death or such bodily injury to the deceased, which was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause the death of the deceased. Therefore, in our considered opinion, the case cannot be said to be covered under clause (4) of Section 300 of IPC. We are, however, of the considered opinion that the case of the appellant is covered under Section 304 Part II of IPC."

16. In the present case, we have come to the irresistible conclusion that the role of the appellants is clear from the dying declaration and other records. However, the point which has also weighed with this court are that the deceased had survived for around 30 days in the hospital and that his condition worsened after around 5 days and ultimately died of septicemia. In fact he had sustained about 35% burns. In that view of the matter, we are of the opinion that the conviction of the appellants under section 302 of Indian Penal Code is required to be converted to that under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and in view of the same appeal is partly allowed.

17. The conviction of the appellants - original accused under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code vide judgment and order dated 19.12.2007 arising from

Sessions Case No. 149 of 2007 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No. 6, Ahmedabad is converted to conviction under Section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code. However, the conviction of the appellants - original accused under section 452 of Indian Penal Code is upheld. The appellants - original accused are ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and fine of Rs. 5000/- each in default rigorous imprisonment for six months under section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code instead of life imprisonment and sentence in default of fine as awarded by the trial court under section 302 IPC. The sentence imposed in default of fine under section 452 IPC is also reduced to two months. Accordingly, the appellants are ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and fine of Rs. 5000/-, in default, rigorous imprisonment for six months for offence punishable under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and rigorous imprisonment for a period of five years and fine of Rs. 2,000/-, in default, rigorous imprisonment for two months for offence punishable under section 452 of Indian Penal Code. Both sentences shall run concurrently. The judgement and order dated 19.12.2007 is modified accordingly. The period of sentence already undergone shall be considered for remission of sentence qua appellants - original accused. R & P to be sent back to the trial court forthwith."

20. In latest decision in Khokan@ Khokhan Vishwas v. State of Chattisgarh, 2021 LawSuit (SC) 80 where the facts were similar to this case, the Apex Court has allowed the appeal of the accused appellant. The decision of the Apex Court in the case of Anversinh v. State of Gujarat, (2021) 3 SCC 12 which was related to kidnapping from legal guardian, wherein it was established that the Court while respecting the concerns of both society and victim, propounded that the twin principle of deterrence and correction would be served by reducing the period of incarceration already undergone by the accused. In our case, this is not that gruesome matter where the accused cannot be dealt with in light of all these judgments. Judgments in Pravat Chandra Mohanty v. State of Odisha, (2021) 3 SCC 529 & Pardeshiram v. State of M.P., (2021) 3 SCC 238 will also enure for the benefit of the accused.

21. All others judgments which were pressed into service by the learned counsel for the appellant are not discussed as that would be repetition of what we have decided.

22. We come to the definite conclusion that the death was due to septicemia. The judgments cited by the learned counsel for the appellant would permit us to uphold our finding which we conclusively hold that the offence is not under Section 302 of I.P.C. but is culpable homicide and, therefore, sentence of the accused appellant is reduced to the period eight years with remission. The fine is reduced to Rs.5000/- to be paid to the original complainant. The default sentence would be six month without remission and will run after completion of eight years of incarceration. The accused is in jail since long. At least he has suffered for eight years imprisonment and must have repented to his deed which was out of anger.

23. Appeal is partly allowed. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Court below forthwith.

24. This Court is thankful to learned Advocates for ably assisting the Court.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. By way of this appeal, the appellant-Babu has challenged the Judgment and order dated 02.05.2013 passed by Court of Additional Session

Judge, Court No.5 Badaun in Session Trial No.147 of 2011 arising out of Case Crime No.1002 of 2010 under Section 304 Part I read with Section 34 IPC along with joint trial of Session Trial No.148 of 2011 arising out of Case Crime No.1012 of 2012 (State Vs. Babu) under Section 4/25 of Arms Act, Police Station- Kotwali Badaun, whereby the accused-appellant was convicted under Section 304(i) read with Section 34 IPC and under Section 4/25 Arms. The accused was sentenced for life imprisonment and fine of Rs.20,000/- for offence under Section 304 Part I IPC and three months imprisonment in default of payment of fine under Section 304 Part I IPC. The accused was sentenced for three years with fine of Rs.2,000/- and one month imprisonment for default of payment of fine under Section 4/25 Arms Act.

2. The brief facts of the case as culled out from the record and proceedings and the FIR are that a first information report was lodged by complainant Kamlesh averring that on 20.04.2010 she was returning home with her mother Rani after purchasing the vegetables and when they reached near Balmiki Pulia at about 6:00 pm, Babu son of Amar Singh and Munna Son of Kanhai came from behind. Babu put his hand on the shoulder of her mother, her mother gave a jerk and moved ahead, which annoyed Babu and he drove out a knife from his clothes and stabbed her mother in the abdomen. Both the accused ran away. There were other persons who are named in the FIR who are present. Along with other persons she took her mother to the hospital but she breathed her last.

3. S.I. Ram Kishore Singh tookup the investigation into motion, visited the spot, prepared site plan, recorded statements of the prosecutrix and witnesses and after completing investigation submitted charge sheet against the accused.

4. The matter being triable by court of sessions the learned Magistrate committed the case to court of sessions.

5. The learned trial court summoned the accused and framed charge under Section 304(i) read with Section 34 IPC, which was read over to the accused. The accused denied the charge and claimed to be tried. The prosecution so as to bring home the charge, examined five witnesses, who are as under:-

1	Vikas	P.W.1
2.	Kamlesh	P.W.2
3.	Dr. Ajay Kumar Verma	P.W.3
4.	Constable Rajendra Kumar	P.W. 4
5.	S.I. Ram Kishore Singh	P.W. 5

6. In support of the ocular version of the witnesses, following documents were produced and contents were proved by leading evidence:

1.	F.I.R.	Ext. Ka-4
2.	Written report	Ext. Ka-1
3.	Post mortem report	Ext. Ka-3
4.	Copy of G.D.	Ext. Ka-5
5.	Site-plan	Ext. Ka-6
6.	Inquest report	Ext. Ka-7
7.	Charge Sheet	Ext. Ka-13

7. After completion of prosecution evidence, the accused was examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused did not examine any witness in defence.

8. Heard Shri A.P. Tewari, learned counsel for the appellant, learned AGA for the State and also perused the record.

9. Perusal of record shows that occurrence of this case took place at 6:00 pm when the deceased was returning with her daughter complainant- Kamlesh after purchasing vegetables. The deceased was stabbed by the accused-appellant Babu in her abdomen. The occurrence took place in the public place. The post mortem of the deceased was conducted in which following ante mortem injuries were found:-

(i) Swelling on the right forehead and eye size 5cmx 3cm

(ii) Incised wound size 1.5cmx1.5cm muscle deep on the right side of the chest, 11cm below the right nipple. Margins inverted at the position of 5 o'clock lever was cut.

(iii) incised wound size 2cmx1cm skin deep on the back side of the chest, 20 cm below the left shoulder at 4 o'clock position.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that PW1-Vikas is said to be the eye-witness of the occurrence but he has not supported the prosecution case and has turned hostile. He was cross-examined by prosecution but nothing has come out from his statement which can prove the charge levelled against the appellant. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that PW2-Kamlesh is daughter of the deceased, therefore, she is interested witness and conviction cannot be based on the sole testimony of interested witness. Rest of the witnesses are formal in nature.

11. After some arguments, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that he is not pressing this appeal on its merit, but he prays only for reduction of the sentence as the sentence of life imprisonment awarded to the appellant by the trial court is very harsh. Learned counsel also submitted that appellant is in jail for the past more than 9 years.

12. Although the PW1 has not supported the prosecution case but the testimony of PW2- Kamlesh cannot be brushed aside only on the basis of that she was daughter of the deceased. The testimony of interested witness cannot be ignored on this ground alone but the testimony of interested witness should be scrutinized cautiously and carefully. As per the prosecution version PW2 was with the deceased at the time of occurrence and it is very natural that the daughter goes with her mother to purchase the vegetables. There is nothing unusual in it. PW2 is complainant of this case also. She has lodged first information report just after one and half hours of the occurrence, which is not delayed. Hence, there was no opportunity to falsely implicate the accused. Moreover, the testimony of PW2, who is eye-witness, supports the prosecution case completely in her cross-examination. Nothing has come out, which could give any benefit to the appellant. The knife, used in the commission of crime, recovered by the investigating officer on the pointing out of the accused-appellant Babu. This fact of recovery is proved by investigating officer as PW5.

13. Medical evidence also goes to show that injury No.2 in ante mortem injuries, mentioned in post mortem report, is the injury which could be inflicted by the weapon like knife. Hence, the ocular version of eye-witness PW2 is corroborated by medical evidence also.

14. While coming to the conclusion that the accused is the perpetrator of the offence, whether sentence of life imprisonment and fine is adequate or the sentence requires to be modified in the facts and circumstances of this case and in the light of certain judicial pronouncements and precedents applicable in such matters. This Court would refer to the following precedents, namely, Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

15. 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

16. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

17. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

18. While going through the record and the testimony of the witnesses specially the FIR and the medical version, the guilt of the accused is proved to the hilt and we are unable to disagree that the learned court below in recording the finding of guilt of the accused-Babu as the knife was found from the possession of the accused. The evidence of PW1 though has turned hostile. The evidence of Kamlesh who has categorically mentioned that Babu is the person who has inflicted the knife blow to the deceased on the abdomen. It was a single blow. They had even intimidated her.

19. The evidence of Dr. Dinesh Kumar who had performed the post mortem as narrated herein-above also testified this effect that the injuries were possible by the knife. Hence, we hold that it was the accused and the accused alone who was perpetrator of the offence.

20. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

21. Learned AGA also admitted the fact that appellant is languishing in jail for the last more than 9 years. The accused-appellant convicted under Section 304 Part I read with Section 34 IPC, which is a major offence and is sentenced for life imprisonment along with fine. In our opinion, ends of justice would be met if sentence is reduced to the period of 10 years imprisonment for the aforesaid offence.

22. Hence, the sentence awarded to the appellant-Babu by the learned trial-court is modified as sentence of 10 years rigorous imprisonment under Section 304 Part I read with Section 34 IPC and fine of Rs.10,000/-. Default sentence is maintained. Period of sentence for three years rigorous imprisonment under Section 4/25 of Arms Act and default sentence for the said punishment has already been undergone by the appellant. Fine and imprisonment for default under Section 4/25 Arms Act is maintained.

23. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed with the modification of the sentence, as above.

24. The Jailer to release the accused on completing tenure of his rigorous imprisonment as per jail record with remission.

25. Record be sent back to the court below.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. This appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 24.5.2010 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No.2, Saharanpur in Sessions Trial No. 06 of 2010 convicting accused-appellants under Section 302 read with Section 34 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') and sentenced them to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine, further to undergo imprisonment for six months.

2. Factual scenario as culled out from the record and the judgment of the Court below is that the accused-appellants are alleged to have set ablaze the deceased on 16.10.2009.

3. On the complaint of the brother of the deceased, First Information Report being No.434 of 2009 was registered under Section 498A, 304B IPC and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act and thereafter, the investigation was moved into motion. After recording statements of various persons, the investigating officer submitted the charge-sheet against accused under Sections 498A, 304B I.P.C. and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act. The learned Chief Judicial Magistrate before whom charge sheet was laid committed the same to the learned Sessions Judge. The learned Sessions Judge, on hearing the learned Government Advocate and learned counsel for the accused, framed charges under Section 498A, 304 of I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act.

4. On being read over the charges, the accused pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried, hence, the trial started and the prosecution examined 12 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Safdar	PW1 (hostile)
2	Jubeda	PW2 (hostile)
3	Abdul Gafur	PW3 (hostile)
4	Mahamood	PW4 (hostile)
5	Rajesh Chandra	PW5
6	Vivek Kumar Tripathi	PW6
7	Dr. Naresh Chandra	PW7
8	Raj Kumar Singh	PW8
9	Deepka Garg	PW9
10	Dr. M. R. Singh	PW10
11	Chandra Shekhar	PW 11
12	Dr. Namrata Pahuja	PW 12
13	Dr. Sunil Kumar	PW 13

5. In support of ocular version following documents were filed:

1	F.I.R.	Ex.Ka.15
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Dying Declaration	Ex. Ka.2
4	Injury Report	Ex. Ka-13
5	Postmortem Report	Ex. Ka. 19
6	Charge-sheet	Ex.Ka-12
7	Recovery Memo of Burnt Sandal Match Box, Plastic Botte	Ex. Ka-10
8	Recovery Memo of Electric Watch, Foam Gadda	Ex. Ka-11
9	Injury report	Ex. Ka-13
10	Death Report	Ex. Ka. 5
11	Post mortem report	Ex. Ka. 19
12	Report of Forensic Medicine and Toxicology	Ex. Ka. 21
13	Statement of Bhuri	Ex. Ka. 4

6. At the end of the trial and after recording the statement of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the appellant as mentioned above.

7. Heard learned counsel for the appellant, learned A.G.A for the State and perused the record.

8. It is submitted that the deceased in her dying declaration mentioned that the accused poured kerosene and set her ablaze. Her statement was recorded at 8.00 a.m. on 18.10.2009.

9. Learned counsel has thereafter taken us to the depositions of other witnesses who are hostile witnesses. Be that as it may, the main crux on which submission is made by learned counsel for the appellant are that the deceased died out of burn injuries after two days. The medical evidence according to the counsel for the appellant shows that she died due to septicemic shock and, therefore, it is submitted that looking to the F.I.R. and the dying declarations, it cannot be said that the deceased was done to death and she was murdered. It is submitted that even if it is considered that it was culpable homicide, it would be culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

10. In support of the his submissions, learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the decisions in Maniben vs. State of Gujarat, 2009 (8) SCC 796, Chirra Shivraj vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, 2010 (14) SCC 444, Criminal Appeal No.1438 of 2010 (Rama Devi alias Ramakanti vs. State of U.P.) decided on 7.10.2017 & Criminal Appeal No. 2558 of 2011 (Smt. Kanti and another vs. State of U.P.) decided on 1.2.2021.

11. Learned A.G.A. for the state has vehemently submitted the death of the deceased was though due to septicemic shock, the burn injuries goes to show that it would not be an offence punishable under Section 304 part I or II of I.P.C.

12. While going through the evidence of the witnesses in light of the judgments of the Apex Court referred by both the learned Advocates, we would have to evaluate whether deceased was done to death with a premeditation. Just because death was due to septicemic shock will not take it out from the purview of Section 300 of I.P.C. The evidence of most of the witnesses which has been recorded goes to show that most of them have given go by of their statements before the police under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. But, the medical evidence and dying declaration which are multiple in number have to be evaluated.

13. The evidence of P.W. 5 and P.W. 6 who recorded the so called statement of deceased on 16.10.2009 and 18.10.2009. Both have their oral testimony that the deceased was in hr senses. Dying declaration recorded as Ext. 2 is by the Tehsildar that her sister-in-law Najo and other accused had pored kerosene on her. The statement 9/3 by witness six is also important for us and, therefore, the evidence of witnesses goes to show that the accused had set the deceased on ablaze. The dying declaration has not been challenged by the counsel for the appellant and in the light of the decision in Govindappa and others Vs. State of Karnataka, (2010) 6 SCC 533, there is no reason for us not to accept the dying declaration and its evidentiary value under Section 32 of Evidence Act, 1872. However, it is submitted that looking to the facts, the accused-appellant had no intention to do away with the deceased. The reason the D.W. 1, 2 and 3 have also opined and the statement in 313 Cr.P.C. is also to serve extet a rebuttal of the charges and she is a mother. She has been wrongly roped and she tried to on the contrary douse the girl with water. They have taken her to the hospital. Baseem who is D.W.-1 who is husband of the deceased has also opined to the said defect. All these facts go to show punishment under Section 302 IPC is unwarranted.

14. Considering the evidence of the witnesses and also considering the medical evidence including post mortem report, there is no doubt left in our mind about the guilt of the present appellants.

15. However, the question which falls for our consideration is whether, on reappraisal of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 of I.P.C. of the Indian Penal Code should be upheld or the conviction deserves to be converted under Section 304 Part-I or Part-II of the Indian Penal Code. It would be relevant to refer Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which read as under:

"299. Culpable homicide: Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide."

16. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts losing sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of I.P.Code. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences.

A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder if the act by which

done-	the death is caused is done.

INTENTION

(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

17. On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. State of Karnataka, reported in 1994 SUPP (1) SCC 304, we are of the considered opinion that the offence would be one punishable under Section 304 part-I of the IPC.

18. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussions, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused had no intention to cause death of deceased, the injuries were though sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to have caused death, accused had no intention to do away with deceased, hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. Decided, (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

19. We can safely rely upon the decision of the Gujarat High court in Criminal Appeal No.83 of 2008 (Gautam Manubhai Makwana Vs. State of Gujarat) decided on 11.9.2013 wherein the Court held as under:

"12. In fact, in the case of Krishan vs. State of Haryana reported in (2013) 3 SCC 280, the Apex Court has held that it is not an absolute principle of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction of an accused. Where the dying declaration is true and correct, the attendant circumstances show it to be reliable and it has been recorded in accordance with law, the deceased made the dying declaration of her own accord and upon due certification by the doctor with regard to the state of mind and body, then it may not be necessary for the court to look for corroboration. In such cases, the dying declaration alone can form the basis for the conviction of the accused. But where the dying declaration itself is attended by suspicious circumstances, has not been recorded in accordance with law and settled procedures and practices, then, it may be necessary for the court to look for corroboration of the same.

13. However, the complaint given by the deceased and the dying declaration recorded by the Executive Magistrate and the history before the doctor is consistent and seems to be trustworthy. The same is also duly corroborated with the evidence of witnesses and the medical reports as well as panchnama and it is clear that the deceased died a homicidal death due to the act of the appellants in pouring kerosene and setting him ablaze. We do find that the dying declaration is trust worthy.

14. However, we have also not lost sight of the fact that the deceased had died after a month of treatment. From the medical reports, it is clear that the deceased suffered from Septicemia which happened due to extensive burns.

15. In the case of the B.N. Kavatakar and another (supra), the Apex Court in a similar case of septicemia where the deceased therein had died in the hospital after five days of the occurrence of the incident in question, converted the conviction under section 302 to under section 326 and modified the sentence accordingly.

15.1 Similarly, in the case of Maniben (supra), the Apex Court has observed as under:

"18. The deceased was admitted in the hospital with about 60% burn injuries and during the course of treatment developed septicemia, which was the main cause of death of the deceased. It is, therefore, established that during the aforesaid period of 8 days the injuries aggravated and worsened to the extent that it led to ripening of the injuries and the deceased died due to poisonous effect of the injuries.

19. It is established from the dying declaration of the deceased that she was living separately from her mother-in-law, the appellant herein, for many years and that on the day in question she had a quarrel with the appellant at her house. It is also clear from the evidence on record that immediately after the quarrel she along with her daughter came to fetch water and when she was returning, the appellant came and threw a burning tonsil on the clothes of the deceased. Since the deceased was wearing a terylene cloth at that relevant point of time, it aggravated the fire which caused the burn injuries.

20. There is also evidence on record to prove and establish that the action of the appellant to throw the burning tonsil was preceded by a quarrel between the deceased and the appellant. From the aforesaid evidence on record it cannot be said that the appellant had the intention that such action on her part would cause the death or such bodily injury to the deceased, which was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause the death of the deceased. Therefore, in our considered opinion, the case cannot be said to be covered under clause (4) of Section 300 of IPC. We are, however, of the considered opinion that the case of the appellant is covered under Section 304 Part II of IPC."

16. In the present case, we have come to the irresistible conclusion that the role of the appellants is clear from the dying declaration and other records. However, the point which has also weighed with this court are that the deceased had survived for around 30 days in the hospital and that his condition worsened after around 5 days and ultimately died of septicemia. In fact he had sustained about 35% burns. In that view of the matter, we are of the opinion that the conviction of the appellants under section 302 of Indian Penal Code is required to be converted to that under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and in view of the same appeal is partly allowed.

17. The conviction of the appellants - original accused under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code vide judgment and order dated 19.12.2007 arising from Sessions Case No. 149 of 2007 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No. 6, Ahmedabad is converted to conviction under Section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code. However, the conviction of the appellants - original accused under section 452 of Indian Penal Code is upheld. The appellants - original accused are ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and fine of Rs. 5000/- each in default rigorous imprisonment for six months under section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code instead of life imprisonment and sentence in default of fine as awarded by the trial court under section 302 IPC. The sentence imposed in default of fine under section 452 IPC is also reduced to two months. Accordingly, the appellants are ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and fine of Rs. 5000/-, in default, rigorous imprisonment for six months for offence punishable under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and rigorous imprisonment for a period of five years and fine of Rs. 2,000/-, in default, rigorous imprisonment for two months for offence punishable under section 452 of Indian Penal Code. Both sentences shall run concurrently. The judgement and order dated 19.12.2007 is modified accordingly. The period of sentence already undergone shall be considered for remission of sentence qua appellants - original accused. R & P to be sent back to the trial court forthwith."

20. In latest decision in Khokan@ Khokhan Vishwas v. State of Chattisgarh, 2021 LawSuit (SC) 80 where the facts were similar to this case, the Apex Court has allowed the appeal of the accused appellant. The decision of the Apex Court in the case of Anversinh v. State of Gujarat, (2021) 3 SCC 12 which was related to kidnapping from legal guardian, wherein it was established that the Court while respecting the concerns of both society and victim, propounded that the twin principle of deterrence and correction would be served by reducing the period of incarceration already undergone by the accused. In our case, this is not that gruesome matter where the accused cannot be dealt with in light of all these judgments. Judgments in Pravat Chandra Mohanty v. State of Odisha, (2021) 3 SCC 529 & Pardeshiram v. State of M.P., (2021) 3 SCC 238 will also enure for the benefit of the accused.

21. All others judgments which were pressed into service by the learned counsel for the appellant are not discussed as that would be repetition of what we have decided.

22. We come to the definite conclusion that the death was due to septicemia. The judgments cited by the learned counsel for the appellant would permit us to uphold our finding which we conclusively hold that the offence is not under Section 302 of I.P.C. but is culpable homicide and, therefore, sentence of the accused appellant is reduced to period eight years with remission. The fine is reduced to Rs.5000/- to be paid to the original complainant. The default sentence would be six month without remission and will run after completion of eight years of incarceration. The accused is in jail since long. At least he has suffered for eight years imprisonment and must have repented to his deed which was out of anger.

23. Appeal is partly allowed. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Court below forthwith.

24. This Court is thankful to learned Advocates for ably assisting the Court.

A. GENESIS:-

1. This election petition has been preferred by the petitioner calling in question the biennial elections of the Members of Council of State by the Elected Members of Uttar Pradesh, Legislative Assembly, 2020 (Rajya Sabha - 2020) dated 02.11.2020 wherein the respondents No.1 to 10 have been declared successful by the Returning Officer and it has been prayed that the election of duly elected respondents be declared null and void.

2. The primary ground of challenge as per the petitioner is that the results of the election insofar as it concerns the returned candidates has been materially affected by improper acceptance of their nomination and the improper rejection of the nomination of the petitioner.

3. Certain dates relevant for adjudication of the controversy are being noticed hereinafter.

(i) 20th October, 2020:- The notification was issued for biennial election to the Council of the State by the elected Members of the Uttar Pradesh Legislative Assembly 2020 to be held for 10 Members to the Council of the State by the Elected Members of the Uttar Pradesh Legislative Assembly.

(vi) 9th November, 2020:- The counting was also scheduled on 9th November, 2020 and the election was to be completed before 11th November, 2020.

4. The ten respondents of this petition along with the election petitioner had filed their respective nominations. During scrutiny of the nominations, objections were raised regarding nomination of the election petitioner and after due consideration, the Returning Officer by means of his order dated 28.10.2020 rejected the nomination of the election petitioner.

5. The election petitioner had moved a complaint/representation against the rejection of his nomination before the Election Commission of India and failing to get a response, the election petitioner preferred a writ petition before the Supreme Court of India under Article 32 of the Constitution of India which was withdrawn with liberty to avail the alternative statutory remedy and thereafter the petitioner has instituted the instant election petition.

6. This Court by means of the order dated 18.12.2020 had issued notices to the respondents. The respondents were duly served and they have put in appearance through their respective counsel. Each of the respondents have filed an application under Order VII, Rule 11 CPC. Few of the respondents namely the respondents No.1, 6 and 10 have also moved separate applications under Section 81 read with Section 86 of the Representation of People Act, 1951 (hereinafter referred to as "RPA", in short). In response to the aforesaid applications under Order VII, Rule 11 CPC as well as applications under Section 81 read with Sections 83 and 86 of RPA, the election petitioner has filed his reply and it is these applications which are under consideration of this Court.

7. The details of the said applications and its response which are being considered are mentioned hereinafter:-

8. It will be worthwhile to notice that the application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC as preferred by the respondent No.3 was not found on the record, however, the reply filed by the petitioner was on record.

9. In this view of the matter, a report was called from the computer section as well as from the Registry of this Court, who informed that no loose application relating to the aforesaid election petition is available either in defective mode or otherwise. The Court requested the learned counsel for the respondent No.3 to provide an attested copy of their application which has been taken on record.

10. The respondent No.10 had filed separate application under Section 81 read with Section 83 of RPA raising objections that the respondents No.1 and 10 had not received true attested copy of the election petition and had also made submissions in this regard during the course of hearing.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner also responded to the said arguments, however, later, it revealed that the petitioner had not filed his response in writing and accordingly a request was made that through a separate application a response has been filed by the petitioner to the application filed by the respondents No.1 and 10 and as the said grounds are common also in reply to the application of similar nature filed by the respondent No.6, accordingly, the learned counsel for the petitioner sought leave that his formal written response to the application under Section 81 read with Section 83 of RPA moved by the respondents No.1 and 10 be taken on record and considered.

12. This Court in its order dated 06.05.2022 while reserving the matter on the applications as aforesaid had noticed the aforesaid submissions and finds that since both the parties have argued exhaustively and the ground raised by all the respondents either in their application under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C., or in the separate applications under Sections 81 and 86 of the RPA where the point and ground of challenge being common to all the respondents and much time has been devoted on the said applications hearing all the parties, accordingly, the said applications and the response shall be treated to be the part of record and the Court while deciding the said plea shall consider the same and moreso no prejudice is likely to be caused to any party as all have been given adequate opportunity to make their detailed submissions, both oral and in writing which is also on record. Thus, this order/judgment shall decide all the aforesaid applications.

B. SUBMISSIONS OF COUNSEL FOR THE RESPONDENTS:-

13. Shri Raghvendra Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Mohd. Altaf Mansoor and Shri Anurag Kumar Singh, Advocates opened the arguments on behalf of the respondents No.1 and 10. It was followed and taken forward by Shri S.C. Misra, learned Senior Counsel along with Shri Sunil Kumar Chaudhary for the respondent No.6. Shri Kuldeep Pati Tripathi, learned counsel made his submissions on behalf of the respondents No.2, 3, 4 and 7 while Shri Gaurav Mehrotra and Nadeem Murtaza, learned counsel made submissions on behalf of the respondents No.5. Shri Surya Prakash Singh, learned counsel made submissions on behalf of the respondents No.8 and 9. The submissions of Shri Raghvendra Singh and Shri S.C. Misra, learned Senior Counsel had set the tone for the respondents which has been supplemented and reiterated by the other counsel.

14. The submissions raised by the learned counsel for the respondents in tandem can be structured as under:-

(I) The primary contention of the respondents is that the petitioner is not a duly nominated candidate and the petition is not maintainable at his behest for the following reasons:-

(a) The nomination form of the election petitioner suffered from inherent defects inasmuch as it was not a valid nomination in terms of Section 33 of RPA since it did not have the requisite ten valid proposers.

(b) The affidavit filed along with nomination in Form No.26 as provided under Rule 4-A of the Conduct of Election Rules, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules of 1961") was also defective and despite time having been granted, the same was not rectified. Consequently, the nomination was rendered bad and the petitioner cannot claim himself to be a duly nominated candidate.

(II) The election petition as preferred and filed before this Court is also not in accordance with Section 81 of RPA which relates to the presentation of the election petition so also the election petition does not adhere to the provisions of Section 83 of RPA. The petition lacks specific details and in absence of material facts and particulars which in turn indicates that there is no valid and subsisting cause of action, it renders the petition liable for rejection under Order VII Rule 11 CPC.

(III) The petitioner has leveled allegations of corrupt practice in the petition, but he has failed to give material particulars in respect thereto nor has he filed an affidavit in Form No.25 as required in terms of Rule 94-A of the Rules of 1961, being another flaw for which the petition is liable to be dismissed.

15. Thus, for all the above reasons, the petition at the behest of the election petitioner is not maintainable and is liable to be rejected at the preliminary stage under Order VII Rule 11 CPC.

16. Elaborating the submissions, learned counsel for the respondents have taken the Court through relevant provisions as contained in Part-V of RPA especially Chapter-I which relates to nomination of candidates, more particularly Sections 33 and 36. The attention of the Court has been drawn to Part-VI of RPA more particularly Sections 79, 81, 82, 83 and 86. Reference has also been made to the Rules of 1961 more particularly in context with Rule 4-A and Rule 94-A, also the prescribed Form No.2-C, Form No.25 and Form No.26 respectively.

17. The thrust of the submission of learned counsel for the respective respondents is that the election of returned candidates i.e. respondents cannot be called in question except by an election petition presented in accordance with the provisions of Part-VI of RPA. It is submitted that Section 79(b) of RPA defines the word 'candidate' to mean a person who has been or claims to have been a duly nominated candidate at any election.

18. It is submitted that in terms of Section 81 of RPA, an election petition can be filed by any candidate at such election or an elector. However, in the instant case, the election petitioner is not an elector. He also cannot be treated as a candidate since his nomination was duly rejected by the Returning Officer on 28.10.2020. Now, even if, the election petitioner claims himself to be a 'duly nominated candidate' at an election, even then it will not enure to his benefit since the nomination form filed by the petitioner was inherently defective. It is not in accordance with Section 33 of the RPA which relates to presentation of nomination paper and requirement for a valid nomination, consequently, the petitioner cannot even claims himself to be a duly nominated candidate, hence, the petition is not maintainable.

19. It was further explained that Section 33 of RPA provides that nomination paper must be delivered to the Returning Officer at the place and time specified in the notification, complete in all respects and in the prescribed form signed by the candidate and by the proposers. It is urged that since the petitioner has not been duly nominated by any recognized political party and he intended to contest the elections as an independent candidate, hence, in his case, in terms of proviso appended to Section 33 of RPA, the nomination form ought to be subscribed by ten valid proposers being the electors of the Constituency.

20. In the instant case, one of the proposer as mentioned in the nomination form namely Nawab Shah was not a valid elector of the Constituency, accordingly, he could not be treated as a proposer as a result the nomination form of the petitioner would be subscribed only by nine proposers and hence against the mandate of Section 33 of RPA, rendering the nomination form invalid.

21. It is also submitted that each nomination form in order to be valid and considered must also be accompanied with an affidavit required in Form No.26 in terms of Rule 4-A of the Rules of 1961 and in the instant case, the affidavit filed by the election petitioner in prescribed format of Form No.26 was defective as it did not have Clause 8(viii) as prescribed in the format of Form No.26.

22. It is urged that this aspect was brought to the notice of the election petitioner by the Returning Officer while receiving the nomination form on 27.10.2020 as also evident from the check-list, a copy of which has been brought on record by the election petitioner along with the election petition. However, there is nothing on record to indicate that the said defect was cured by the election petitioner. In absence of any rectification/revised affidavit filed with the returning officer, the nomination form of the petitioner could not be treated to be valid and accordingly, noticing the aforesaid, the Returning Officer rejected the nomination form of the election petitioner during scrutiny on 28.10.2020.

23. It is also pointed out that the right to contest the elections is not a right available under the common law. It is governed by the provisions of RPA and thus, if any election is to be called in question then the same is governed by the provisions of RPA. It is also submitted that the Apex Court has consistently held that the provisions of RPA are to be strictly construed and in case if there is a breach or non-compliance of the provisions of RPA then the person liable for such breach and non-compliance must bear the brunt and no equity or liberal approach can be taken in context of such a person.

24. It is, thus, argued that the nomination form of the petitioner was not valid so he could not be treated to be a candidate and at the same time he cannot claim himself to be a duly nominated candidate, hence, the petition was not maintainable at his behest and is liable to be dismissed.

25. Taking the submissions forward, it is urged that considering the mandate of Section 83 of RPA which provides that an election petition must contain concise but material fact on which the petitioner relies.

The petitioner is required to set forth full particular of any corrupt practice that he alleges including a full statement, as possible, relating to the names of the parties alleged to have committed such corrupt practice and date and place of the commission of such practice. The petition must be signed and verified, coupled with the fact, that where the petitioner has alleged any corrupt practice then the election petition must be accompanied by an affidavit in the prescribed format in support of allegation of such corrupt practice and particulars thereof as provided in Form No.25 which is relatable to Rule 94-A of the Rules of 1961. It is also urged that any schedule or any annexure to the petition shall also be signed by the petitioner and verified in the same manner as the election petition itself.

26. It is urged that the entire contents of the election petition targets the Returning Officer and various allegations have been leveled against him indicating that he is involved in corrupt practice with intent to benefit the other candidates, who are none other than the respondents and neither the details of the corrupt practice have been mentioned nor the election petition is accompanied by an affidavit in Form No.25 and even the copies of the election petition which have been received by the respondents No.1 and 10 are not duly verified including its annexure, schedule annexed with the petition and it is in gross violation of Sections 81, 83 and 86 of RPA and in absence of material particulars, the petition does not discloses a subsisting cause of action. Hence, the election petition is worthy of dismissal.

C. SUBMISSIONS OF COUNSEL FOR THE ELECTION PETITIONER:-

28. Shri Narendra Kumar Pandey, learned counsel assisted by Shri Vivek Kumar and Shri Jitendra Saksena, Advocates have refuted the submissions made by the learned counsel for the respondents and has urged that first and foremost the scope of Order VII Rule 11 CPC must be noticed. It is urged that the Apex Court has consistently held that while considering the applications under Order VII Rule 11 CPC, it is only and only the averments contained in the petition along with the documents filed by the petitioner is to be seen, the way they are, treating it to be true and without adding or subtracting any sentence or compartmentalizing any part of the petition. The entire petition must be read in a meaningful manner without culling out sentence in isolation and only then if the Court comes to the conclusion that the petition does not disclose any cause of action or that the petition is barred by any law for the time being in force, then the Court may exercise its powers to reject the petition.

29. Moving forward, learned counsel for the election petitioner has argued that insofar as the present petition is concerned, it is his specific case that he had filed two sets of nomination papers at around 02:50 PM on 27.10.2020. One set was in English on green colour paper while the other set was in Hindi on pink colour paper. It is urged that in terms of Section 33(4) of RPA, the Returning Officer while receiving a nomination paper must satisfy himself in respect of names and the electoral roll, numbers of the candidate and his proposers, as entered in the nomination paper are the same as those entered in the electoral rolls.

30. It is submitted that while two sets of nomination papers were filed, the petitioner was handed over the check-list which only indicated that the affidavit filed along with the nomination paper in Form No.26 was not correct and time was granted to the petitioner to furnish a revised and a fresh affidavit. It is also the specific case that the petitioner was given Serial No.22 in respect of the nomination form filed in English on green paper but not for the other form on pink colour paper which in seratum ought to be at S.No.23 and the said form was also complete in all respects but no number was given and the second nomination was also not considered by the Returning Officer.

31. It is also submitted that the alleged discrepancy which was raised at the time of scrutiny relating to the name of one of the proposers as mentioned in the nomination form filled in English on green colour paper related to the name of the proposer at S.No.3 as Nawab Shah, however, his correct name was Nawabjaan. It is urged that the serial number at which the name of Shri Nawab Shah (read Nawabjaan) as mentioned in the list prepared under Section 152 of RPA was correctly mentioned in the nomination form so also the signatures of Nawabjaan was also present. Hence, this inadvertent error, if any, was nothing but a misnomer and an inaccurate description and merely a technical & clerical error in the nomination paper which in terms of the proviso appended to Section 33(4) of RPA was liable to be ignored.

32. It is also urged that even in terms of Section 33(6) of RPA, a candidate is entitled to file maximum upto four sets of nomination papers and in the instant case, the election petitioner had submitted two sets of nomination papers one in English on green colour paper and one in Hindi on pink colour paper. The nomination form in pink colour paper was complete in all respects. Even if at all there was any discrepancy in the other set filled in English on green colour paper, nevertheless the Returning Officer ought to have considered the nomination paper filed by the petitioner on pink colour paper and in failing to consider it, the Returning Officer erred and illegally rejected the nomination paper of the election petitioner with an oblique motive.

33. It is further argued that even during the scrutiny of the nomination, two sets of objections were filed against the nomination of the election petitioner, one by Haridwar Dubey and the other by Shri Lalji Verma. The petitioner had also filed his response thereto and had clearly stated that the clerical error in the name of one of the proposers is liable to be overlooked being a misnomer in terms the proviso appended to Section 33(4) of RPA and it was also stated that though the Returning Officer had the complete list which is maintained in terms of Section 152 of RPA and the details of Nawabjaan could be easily verified. Moreover, the petitioner was willing to produce Nawabjaan in person, to verify the fact of proposing the name of the election petitioner by him within twelve hours, if permitted. The Returning Officer had ample power and jurisdiction vested in him to adjourn the hearing on the objections raised on the nomination form during scrutiny to the following day to provide the petitioner time and to enable him to rebut the objections, but no such opportunity was granted to the election petitioner thereby with a deliberate intent the nomination form of the petitioner was rejected to help the other candidates.

34. It is also urged that insofar as the affidavit in Form No.26 is concerned, though one column 8(viii) in the prescribed format Form No.26 was missing and the same had been informed by the Returning Officer as indicated in the check-list provided to the petitioner. However, the petitioner got a fresh/revised affidavit prepared which was submitted to the Returning Officer prior to commencement of scrutiny on 28.10.2020. The petitioner was not provided any receipt of the said affidavit nor any receipt was given regarding filing of second set of nomination form on pink colour paper, thus, the rejection of the nomination form of the petitioner was illegal, deliberate and bad.

35. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further urged that the petitioner has primarily structured his petition in two parts. One relates to the facts and details including material particulars relating to illegal rejection of the nomination form of the election petitioner and the other relates to the details, facts and material particulars relating to the issue of illegal acceptance of nomination form and affidavits of returned candidates.

36. It is urged that reference in certain paragraphs in the petition is to the manner in which the Returning Officer has acted and this is referred to by the learned counsel for the respondents, during their course of arguments, as allegations of corrupt practice. On the contrary, the said paragraphs actually indicate the sequence of event as they unfolded and the attitude/reaction of the Returning Officer which led to the illegal rejection of the nomination of the petitioner by taking recourse to immaterial, technical deficiencies which were of unsubstantial character. However, the same Returning Officer for the same/similar deficiencies and treating them to be of unsubstantial character, had accepted the nomination form of the returned candidates, reflecting dual standards adopted and this has materially affected the results of the election.

37. It is in this context that the facts have been detailed along with relevant schedule appended with the petition. The election petitioner has even brought on record certain photographs indicating that at the time of presentation of the nomination form, one form filled in English on green colour paper and the other form filled in Hindi on pink colour was presented before the Returning Officer. The election petitioner has also brought on record a copy of the revised affidavit in Form No.26 which was filed before the Returning Officer prior to the commencement of scrutiny of the nomination form and in this context if the contents of the election petition is read as a whole it will indicate the entire bundle of facts with material particulars have been clearly and categorically stated. Accordingly, it cannot be said that the petitioner has not disclosed a valid cause of action or that material particulars have not been indicated.

38. It is also urged that while dealing with the application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC, the Court is required to see the complete averment in the petition and treating the same to be true. The error/deficiencies as pointed out by the respondents are nothing but contentions which can form part of their defence and in any case such contentions being contestable questions are to be made subject matter of issues and only after permitting the parties to lead evidence, can the matter be decided. However, it cannot be said that the election petition is not in accordance with the provisions of Section 81 and Section 83 or Section 86 of RPA and that no valid and subsisting cause of action has been indicated in the election petition. No provision of any law has been pointed out which prohibits or bars the election petition. Hence, the applications moved by the respondents are frivolous and deserve to be rejected.

39. It is further submitted that the fact whether the petitioner had filed the second set of nomination on pink colour paper is a question of fact which can only be decided after leading of evidence. Prima-facie the pleadings are quite specific and even the photographs and schedules compliment the pleadings and the success of the said averments can only be tested after trial and not at this preliminary stage.

40. It is also submitted that the petitioner had sought the true copies available with the Returning Officer relating to the Form No.2-C i.e. nomination form of the returned candidates as well as their respective affidavits in Form No.26. Also, the petitioner had sought the CCTV Footage as the process of presentation of the nomination form was duly videographed to enable the petitioner to prove his plea regarding furnishing and presentation of second set of nomination filed by the election petitioner on pink colour paper but the same has not been provided to the petitioner in its entirety.

41. It is further urged that the petitioner had to seek judicial intervention by filing a writ petition before this Court at Prayagraj wherein an order was passed and in furtherance thereof only part compliance of the order of the Writ Court was made and the petitioner was provided with the Form No.2-C filed by the returned candidates. The petitioner was neither provided with the copy of the second set of nomination on pink paper nor all the affidavits of the returned candidates was provided. Even the CCTV Footage as required was not provided indicating that the Returning Officer was shielding an important piece of relevant evidence.

42. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also submitted that since the averments made in the election petition are primarily focused on the two issues relating to illegal rejection of the nomination of the petitioner and illegal acceptance of the nomination of the respondents and no allegation of corrupt practice has been alleged, hence, there was no requirement of filing an affidavit in terms of Rule 94-A of the Rules of 1961. Accordingly, the election petition cannot be said to be bad for want of affidavit in Form No.25 and in absence thereof the petition is not rendered non-maintainable.

43. It is also alternatively submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that even if, at all by any stretch of imagination, the averment as contained in the election petition are taken to be allegation of corrupt practice and there being no affidavit in terms of Form No.25 even then the petition is not liable to be rejected rather the Court should be magnanimous enough to permit the petitioner to furnish the affidavit within such day and time to be fixed and if in case, thereafter, the petitioner does not comply or furnish such an affidavit only then the Court may exercise its powers to reject the election petition and not before that.

44. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also drawn the attention of the Court to the Hand Book Of Returning Officers for Elections to the Council of State and State Legislative Council, issued by the Election Commission of India (hereinafter referred to as 'Handbook') and has urged that the same has statutory force. The said Handbook contains various clauses relating to the manner in which the nomination forms are to be treated at the time of presentation and scrutiny and instructions are imparted to the Returning Officers to adopt a liberal approach rather than to take a strict view as by adopting any hyper-technical or strict view it may result in rejection of a nomination form on technical grounds which causes irreparable injury. Such rejections are subjected to election petitions where the Court if sets aside the rejection order then elections of various returned candidate is declared null and void which in fact results in colossal waste of time, money and labour for all concerned and such a situation must be avoided.

45. The petitioner is a validly nominated candidate as per the RPA and is entitled to maintain the petition and even otherwise there is no error in presentation which may cast a cloud over the election petition, hence, all the applications moved by the respondents under Order VII Rule 11 CPC and under Sections 81 and 86 of RPA are liable to be dismissed.

D. LEGAL ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSIONS:-

47. The Court has heard the learned counsel for the respective parties at length over several dates and has also meticulously perused the record.

48. In order to appreciate the contention of the respective parties, this Court deems appropriate that it will be gainful to first have a glance at the relevant legal provisions of the RPA and the Rules of 1961.

49. The RPA in Part-V deals with the conduct of election. Chapter-I relates to nomination of candidates and for the present controversy Section 33 and Section

36 is relevant and the same is being reproduced for ready reference:-

"[33. Presentation of nomination paper and requirements for a valid nomination.--(1) On or before the date appointed under clause (a) of section 30 each candidate shall, either in person or by his proposer, between the hours of eleven O'clock in the forenoon and three O'clock in the afternoon deliver to the returning officer at the place specified in this behalf in the notice issued under section 31 a nomination paper completed in the prescribed form and signed by the candidate and by an elector of the constituency as proposer:

[Provided that a candidate not set up by a recognised political party, shall not be deemed to be duly nominated for election from a constituency unless the nomination paper is subscribed by ten proposers being electors of the constituency:

Provided further that no nomination paper shall be delivered to the returning officer on a day which is a public holiday:

Provided also that in the case of a local authorities' constituency, graduates' constituency or teachers' constituency, the reference to "an elector of the constituency as proposer" shall be construed as a reference to ten per cent. of the electors of the constituency or ten such electors, whichever is less, as proposers.]

[(1A) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), for election to the Legislative Assembly of Sikkim (deemed to be the Legislative Assembly of that State only constituted under the Constitution), the nomination paper to be delivered to the returning officer shall be in such form and manner as may be prescribed:

Provided that the said nomination paper shall be subscribed by the candidate as assenting to the nomination, and--

(a) in the case of a seat reserved for Sikkimese of Bhutia-Lepcha origin, also by at least twenty electors of the constituency as proposers and twenty electors of the constituency as seconders;

(b) in the case of a seat reserved for Sanghas, also by at least twenty electors of the constituency as proposers and at least twenty electors of the constituency as seconders;

(c) in the case of a seat reserved for Sikkimese of Nepali origin, by an elector of the constituency as proposer:

Provided further that no nomination paper shall be delivered to the returning officer on a day which is a public holiday.]

(2) In a constituency where any seat is reserved, a candidate shall not be deemed to be qualified to be chosen to fill that seat unless his nomination paper contains a declaration by him specifying the particular caste or tribe of which he is a member and the area in relation to which that caste or tribe is a Scheduled Caste or, as the case may be, a Scheduled Tribe of the State.

(3) Where the candidate is a person who, having held any office referred to in 4[section 9] has been dismissed and a period of five years has not elapsed since the dismissal, such person shall not be deemed to be duly nominated as a candidate unless his nomination paper is accompanied by a certificate issued in the prescribed manner by the Election Commission to the effect that he has not been dismissed for corruption or disloyalty to the State.

(4) On the presentation of a nomination paper, the returning officer shall satisfy himself that the names and electoral roll numbers of the candidate and his proposer as entered in the nomination paper are the same as those entered in the electoral rolls:

[Provided that no misnomer or inaccurate description or clerical, technical or printing error in regard to the name of the candidate or his proposer or any other person, or in regard to any place, mentioned in the electoral roll or the nomination paper and no clerical, technical or printing error in regard to the electoral roll numbers of any such person in the electoral roll or the nomination paper, shall affect the full operation of the electoral roll or the nomination paper with respect to such person or place in any case where the description in regard to the name of the person or place is such as to be commonly understood; and the returning officer shall permit any such misnomer or inaccurate description or clerical, technical or printing error to be corrected and where necessary, direct that any such misnomer, inaccurate description, clerical, technical or printing error in the electoral roll or in the nomination paper shall be overlooked.]

(5) Where the candidate is an elector of a different constituency, a copy of the electoral roll of that constituency or of the relevant part thereof or a certified copy of the relevant entries in such roll shall, unless it has been filed along with the nomination paper, be produced before the returning officer at the time of scrutiny.

[(6) Nothing in this section shall prevent any candidate from being nominated by more than one nomination paper:

Provided that not more than four nomination papers shall be presented by or on behalf of any candidate or accepted by the returning officer for election in the same constituency.]]

[(7) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (6) or in any other provisions of this Act, a person shall not be nominated as a candidate for election,--

(a) in the case of a general election to the House of the People (whether or not held simultaneously from all Parliamentary constituencies), from more than two Parliamentary constituencies;

(b) in the case of a general election to the Legislative Assembly of a State (whether or not held simultaneously from all Assembly constituencies), from more than two Assembly constituencies in that State;

(c) in the case of a biennial election to the Legislative Council of a State having such Council, from more than two Council constituencies in the State;

(d) in the case of a biennial election to the Council of States for filling two or more seats allotted to a State, for filling more than two such seats;

(e) in the case of bye-elections to the House of the People from two or more Parliamentary constituencies which are held simultaneously, from more than two such Parliamentary constituencies;

(f) in the case of bye-elections to the Legislative Assembly of a State from two or more Assembly constituencies which are held simultaneously, from more than two such Assembly constituencies;

(g) in the case of bye-elections to the Council of States for filling two or more seats allotted to a State, which are held simultaneously, for filling more than two such seats;

(h) in the case of bye-elections to the Legislative Council of a State having such Council from two or more Council constituencies which are held simultaneously, from more than two such Council constituencies.

Explanation.--For the purposes of this sub-section, two or more bye-elections shall be deemed to be held simultaneously where the notification calling such bye-elections are issued by the Election

Commission under sections 147, 149, 150 or, as the case may be, 151 on the same date.]

Scrutiny of nomination.--(1) On the date fixed for the scrutiny of nominations under section 30, the candidates, their election agents, one proposer 1[] of each candidate, and one other person duly authorised in writing by each candidate but no other person, may attend at such time and place as the returning officer may appoint; and the returning officer shall give them all reasonable facilities for examining the nomination papers of all candidates which have been delivered within the time and in the manner laid down in section 33.*

(2) The returning officer shall then examine the nomination papers and shall decide all objections which may be made to any nomination and may, either on such objection or on his own motion, after such summary inquiry, if any, as he thinks necessary, [reject] any nomination on any of the following grounds:--

[(a) [that on the date fixed for the scrutiny of nominations the candidate] either is not qualified or is disqualified for being chosen to fill the seat under any of the following provisions that may be applicable, namely:--

Articles 84, 102, 173 and 191, [].

[Part II of this Act, and sections 4 and 14 of the Government of Union Territories Act, 1963 (20 of 1963)] []; or

(b) that there has been a failure to comply with any of the provisions of section 33 or section 34; or

(c) that the signature of the candidate or the proposer on the nomination paper is not genuine.]

(3) Nothing contained in 8[clause (b) or clause (c)] of sub-section (2) shall be deemed to authorise the 9[rejection] of the nomination of any candidate on the ground of any irregularity in respect of a nomination paper, if the candidate has been duly nominated by means of another nomination paper in respect of which no irregularity has been committed.

(4) The returning officer shall not reject any nomination paper on the ground of any [] defect which is not of a substantial character.

(5) The returning officer shall hold the scrutiny on the date appointed in this behalf under clause (b) of section 30 and shall not allow any adjournment of the proceedings except when such proceedings are interrupted or obstructed by riot or open violence or by causes beyond his control:

Provided that in case [an objection is raised by the returning officer or is made by any other person] the candidate concerned may be allowed time to rebut it not later than the next day but one following the date fixed for scrutiny, and the returning officer shall record his decision on the date to which the proceedings have been adjourned.

(6) The returning officer shall endorse on each nomination paper his decision accepting or rejecting the same and, if the nomination paper is rejected, shall record in writing a brief statement of his reasons for such rejection.

[(7) For the purposes of this section, a certified copy of an entry in the electoral roll for the time being in force of a constituency shall be conclusive evidence of the fact that the person referred to in that entry is an elector for that constituency, unless it is proved that he is subject to a disqualification mentioned in section 16 of the Representation of the People Act, 1950 (43 of 1950)].

(8) Immediately after all the nomination papers have been scrutinized and decisions accepting or rejecting the same have been recorded, the returning officer shall prepare a list of validly nominated candidates, that is to say, candidates whose nominations have been found valid, and affix it to his notice board.]"

50. The next relevant provision regarding the election is contained in Part-VI of the RPA where Section 79(b) defines the word "candidate" which reads as under:-

"79 (b) "Candidate" means a person who has been or claims to have been duly nominated as a candidate at any election;"

51. In the same Part-VI, Chapter-II of RPA provides for presentation of election petitions. Sections 80, 80-A, 81 and 83 relates to the election petitions, its presentations and its contents and the said sections read as under:-

"80. Election petitions.--No election shall be called in question except by an election petition presented in accordance with the provisions of this Part.

[80A. High Court to try election petitions.--(1) The Court having jurisdiction to try an election petition shall be the High Court.

(2) Such jurisdiction shall be exercised ordinarily by a single Judge of the High Court and the Chief Justice, shall, from time to time, assign one or more Judges for that purpose:

Provided that where the High Court consists only of one Judge, he shall try all election petitions presented to that Court.

(3) The High Court in its discretion may, in the interests of justice or convenience, try an election petition, wholly or partly, at a place other than the place of seat of the High Court.

81. Presentation of petitions.--(1) An election petition calling in question any election may be presented on one or more of the grounds specified in 1[sub-section (1)] of section 100 and section 101 to the 2[High Court] by any candidate at such election or any elector 3[within forty-five days from, but not earlier than the date of election of the returned candidate or if there are more than one returned candidate at the election and dates of their election are different, the later of those two dates].

Explanation.--In this sub-section, "elector" means a person who was entitled to vote at the election to which the election petition relates, whether he has voted at such election or not.

2[(3) Every election petition shall be accompanied by as many copies thereof as there are respondents mentioned in the petition 3[] and every such copy shall be attested by the petitioner under his own signature to be a true copy of the petition.]

[83. Contents of petition.--(1) An election petition--

(a) shall contain a concise statement of the material facts on which the petitioner relies;

(b) shall set forth full particulars of any corrupt practice that the petitioner alleges including as full a statement as possible of the names of the parties alleged to have committed such corrupt practice and the date and place of the commission of each such practice; and

(c) shall be signed by the petitioner and verified in the manner laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908) for the verification of pleadings:

[Provided that where the petitioner alleges any corrupt practice, the petition shall also be accompanied by an affidavit in the prescribed form in support of the allegation of such corrupt practice and the particulars thereof.]
(2) Any schedule or annexure to the petition shall also be signed by the petitioner and verified in the same manner as the petition.]"

52. While Part VI, Chapter-III deals with trial of elections petitions and Section 86 reads as under:-

"[86. Trial of election petitions.--(1) The High Court shall dismiss an election petition which does not comply with the provisions of section 81 or section 82 or section 117.

Explanation.--An order of the High Court dismissing an election petition under this sub-section shall be deemed to be an order made under clause (a) of section 98.

(2) As soon as may be after an election petition has been presented to the High Court, it shall be referred to the Judge or one of the Judges who has or have been assigned by the Chief Justice for the trial of election petitions under sub-section (2) of section 80A.

(3) Where more election petitions than one are presented to the High Court in respect of the same election, all of them shall be referred for trial to the same Judge who may, in his discretion, try them separately or in one or more groups.

(4) Any candidate not already a respondent shall, upon application made by him to the High Court within fourteen days from the date of commencement of the trial and subject to any order as to security for costs which may be made by the High Court, be entitled to be joined as a respondent.

Explanation.--For the purposes of this sub-section and of section 97, the trial of a petition shall be deemed to commence on the date fixed for the respondents to appear before the High Court and answer the claim or claims made in the petition.

(5) The High Court may, upon such terms as to costs and otherwise as it may deem fit, allow the particulars of any corrupt practice alleged in the petition to be amended or amplified in such manner as may in its opinion be necessary for ensuring a fair and effective trial of the petition, but shall not allow any amendment of the petition which will have the effect of introducing particulars of a corrupt practice not previously alleged in the petition.

(6) The trial of an election petition shall, so far as is practicable consistently with the interests of justice in respect of the trial, be continued from day to day until its conclusion, unless the High Court finds the adjournment of the trial beyond the following day to be necessary for reasons to be recorded.

(7) Every election petition shall be tried as expeditiously as possible and endeavour shall be made to conclude the trial within six months from the date on which the election petition is presented to the High Court for trial.]"

53. The Rules of 1961 in Part-II under the head General Provisions, in Rule 4 provides for nomination papers and the format of such forms has also been prescribed in the said Rules.

54. Rule 4 of Rules of 1961 reads as under:-

"4. Nomination paper.--Every nomination paper presented under sub-section (1) of section 33 shall be completed in such one of the Forms 2A to 2E as may be appropriate:

Provided that a failure to complete or defect in completing, the declaration as to symbols in a nomination paper in Form 2A or Form 2B shall not be deemed to be a defect of a substantial character within the meaning of sub-section (4) of section 36."

55. For the present purposes, Form 2-C as prescribed in the Rules of 1961 is relevant. Similarly Rule 4-A which relates to the form of the affidavit to be filed at the time of delivering nomination papers was incorporated with the effect from 03.09.2002 in the Rules of 1961. Form-26 as prescribed in the Rules of 1961 relateable to Rule 4-A is relevant for the present controversy and it reads as under:-

"4A. Form of affidavit to be filed at the time of delivering nomination paper.--The candidate or his proposer, as the case may be, shall, at the time of delivering to the returning officer the nomination paper under subsection (1) of section 33 of the Act, also deliver to him an affidavit sworn by the candidate before a Magistrate of the first class or a Notary in Form 26."*

56. Rule 94-A of Rules of 1961 relates to the affidavit which is required to be filed in terms of proviso to Sub-section (1) of Section 83 of RPA and relatable to Form-25 of Rules of 1961 and is also relevant for the instant controversy and it reads as under:-

"94A. Form of affidavit to be filed with election petition.--The affidavit referred to in the proviso to subsection (1) of section 83 shall be sworn before a magistrate of the first class or a notary or a commissioner of oaths and shall be in Form 25."

57. Before proceeding further, it will also be relevant, at first, to take a glance at the decisions cited by the learned counsel for the respondents and then to the decisions cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner, in support of their respective contentions.

58. Learned counsel for the respondents have primarily relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Resurgence India (supra) wherein the issue before the Apex Court was noticed in paragraph 9 and 11 and the writ petitioner before the Apex Court sought a direction for making it compulsory for the Returning Officer to ensure that the affidavits filed by the candidates are complete in all respects and to reject those nomination papers which are accompanied by affidavits containing blank. It is in this context, the Apex Court after considering the submissions in para-22, 23 and 29 held as under:-

"22. Let us now test whether the filing of affidavit stating that the information given in the affidavit is correct but leaving the contents blank would fulfil the objective behind filing the same. The reply to this question is a clear denial. The ultimate purpose of filing of affidavit along with the nomination paper is to effectuate the fundamental right of the citizen under Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution of India. The citizens are required to have the necessary information at the time of filing of the nomination paper in order to make a choice of their voting. When a candidate files an affidavit with blank particulars, it renders the affidavit itself nugatory.

23. For that purpose, the Returning Officer can very well compel a candidate to furnish information relevant on the date of scrutiny. We were appraised that the Election Commission already has a standard draft format for reminding the candidates to file an affidavit as stipulated. We are of the opinion that along with the above, another clause may be inserted for reminding the candidates to fill the blanks with the relevant information thereby conveying the message that no affidavit with blank particulars will be entertained. We reiterate that it is the duty of the Returning Officer to check whatever the information required is fully furnished at the time of filing of affidavit with the nomination paper since such information is very vital for giving effect to the "right to know" of the citizens. If a candidate fails to fill the blanks even after the reminder by the Returning Officer, the nomination paper is fit to be rejected. We do comprehend that the power of the Returning Officer to reject the nomination paper must be exercised very sparingly but the bar should not be laid so high that the justice itself is prejudiced."

-----------------------------------

"29.What emerges from the above discussion can be summarised in the form of the following directions:

29.1. The voter has the elementary right to know full particulars of a candidate who is to represent him in Parliament/Assemblies and such right to get information is universally recognised. Thus, it is held that right to know about the candidate is a natural right flowing from the concept of democracy and is an integral part of Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution.

29.2. The ultimate purpose of filing of affidavit along with the nomination paper is to effectuate the fundamental right of the citizens under Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution of India. The citizens are supposed to have the necessary information at the time of filing of nomination paper and for that purpose, the Returning Officer can very well compel a candidate to furnish the relevant information.

29.3. Filing of affidavit with blank particulars will render the affidavit nugatory.

29.4. It is the duty of the Returning Officer to check whether the information required is fully furnished at the time of filing of affidavit with the nomination paper since such information is very vital for giving effect to the "right to know" of the citizens. If a candidate fails to fill the blanks even after the reminder by the Returning Officer, the nomination paper is fit to be rejected. We do comprehend that the power of the Returning Officer to reject the nomination paper must be exercised very sparingly but the bar should not be laid so high that the justice itself is prejudiced.

29.5. We clarify to the extent that para 73 of People's Union for Civil Liberties case [People's Union for Civil Liberties v. Union of India, (2003) 4 SCC 399] will not come in the way of the Returning Officer to reject the nomination paper when the affidavit is filed with blank particulars.

29.6. The candidate must take the minimum effort to explicitly remark as "NIL" or "Not Applicable" or "Not known" in the columns and not to leave the particulars blank.

29.7. Filing of affidavit with blanks will be directly hit by Section 125-A(i) of the RP Act. However, as the nomination paper itself is rejected by the Returning Officer, we find no reason why the candidate must be again penalised for the same act by prosecuting him/her."

59. Learned counsel for the respondents have then relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Jyoti Basu (supra) to buttress their submissions that a right to elect is fundamental though it is to democracy, is, anomalously enough, neither a fundamental right nor a common law right. It is pure and a simple statutory right. Since, the proceeding under the RPA are governed by the statute therefore neither the principles of common law nor the principles of equity apply. The proceedings have to be strictly construed and since the election petitioner has not complied with the various provisions contained in Sections 81, 83 read with Section 86 of the RPA which require strict compliance, hence the election petition is bad. Paragraphs 8 and 9 of the aforesaid decision is relevant which reads as under:-

"8. A right to elect, fundamental though it is to democracy, is, anomalously enough, neither a fundamental right nor a common law right. It is pure and simple, a statutory right. So is the right to be elected. So is the right to dispute an election. Outside of statute, there is no right to elect, no right to be elected and no right to dispute an election. Statutory creations they are, and therefore, subject to statutory limitation. An election petition is not an action at common law, nor in equity. It is a statutory proceeding to which neither the common law nor the principles of equity apply but only those rules which the statute makes and applies. It is a special jurisdiction, and a special jurisdiction has always to be exercised in accordance with the statute creating it. Concepts familiar to common law and equity must remain strangers to election law unless statutorily embodied. A court has no right to resort to them on considerations of alleged policy because policy in such matters as those, relating to the trial of election disputes, is what the statute lays down. In the trial of election disputes, court is put in a strait-jacket. Thus the entire election process commencing from the issuance of the notification calling upon a constituency to elect a member or members right up to the final resolution of the dispute, if any, concerning the election is regulated by the Representation of the People Act, 1951, different stages of the process being dealt with by different provisions of the Act. There can be no election to Parliament or the State Legislature except as provided by the Representation of the People Act, 1951 and again, no such election may be questioned except in the manner provided by the Representation of the People Act. So the Representation of the People Act has been held to be a complete and self-contained code within which must be found any rights claimed in relation to an election or an election dispute. We are concerned with an election dispute. The question is who are parties to an election dispute and who may be impleaded as parties to an election petition. We have already referred to the scheme of the Act. We have noticed the necessity to rid ourselves of notions based on common law or equity. We see that we must seek an answer to the question within the four corners of the statute. What does the Act say?

9. Section 81 prescribes who may present an election petition. It may be any candidate at such election; it may be any elector of the constituency; it may be none else. Section 82 is headed "Parties to the petition" and clause (a) provides that the petitioner shall join as respondents to the petition the returned candidates if the relief claimed is confined to a declaration that the election of all or any of the returned candidates is void and all the contesting candidates if a further declaration is sought that he himself or any other candidate has been duly elected. Clause (b) of Section 82 requires the petitioner to join as respondent any other candidate against whom allegations of any corrupt practice are made in the petition. Section 86(4) enables any candidate not already a respondent to be joined as a respondent. There is no other provision dealing with the question as to who may be joined as respondents. It is significant that while clause (b) of Section 82 obliges the petitioner to join as a respondent any candidate against whom allegations of any corrupt practice are made in the petition, it does not oblige the petitioner to join as a respondent any other person against whom allegations of any corrupt practice are made. It is equally significant that while any candidate not already a respondent may seek and, if he so seeks, is entitled to be joined as a respondent under Section 86(4), any other person cannot, under that provision seek to be joined as a respondent, even if allegations of any corrupt practice are made against him. It is clear that the contest of the election petition is designed to be confined to the candidates at the election. All others are excluded. The ring is closed to all except the petitioner and the candidates at the election. If such is the design of the staturte, how can the notion of "proper parties" enter the picture at all? We think that the concept of "proper parties" is and must remain alien to an election dispute under the Representation of the People Act, 1951. Only those may be joined as respondents to an election petition who are mentioned in Section 82 and Section 86(4) and no others. However desirable and expedient it may appear to be, none else shall be joined as respondents."

60. The next decision relied upon by the respondents is the case of U.S. Sasidharan (supra) which was in context with the allegation and material particulars in the election petition vis-a-vis a video cassette which was though filed in the Court but a copy thereof was not served on the respondents. The issue before the Apex Court has been noticed in paragraph-7 of the said decision and thereafter in paragraph 12 and 13 it was held that from a perusal of Section 83(1)(a)(b) it is sine qua non for an election petition to contain concise statement of material facts and also to set forth full particulars of corrupt practice. It has also been held that the procedure prescribed in the RPA for challenging an election much be strictly followed. So if there be any deviation for non compliance with the provision of Section 81(3), the courts have no other alternate but to dismiss the election petition. Paragraph 15 and 16 are relevant and relates to the differentiation between material facts or particulars and how they are to be construed in context with an election petition.

The relevant paras 15 and 16 reads as under:-

"15. We have already referred to Section 83 relating to the contents of an election petition. The election petition shall contain a concise statement of material facts and also set forth full particulars of any corrupt practice. The material facts or particulars relating to any corrupt practice may be contained in a document and the election petitioner, without pleading the material facts or particulars of corrupt practice, may refer to the document. When such a reference is made in the election petition, a copy of the document must be supplied inasmuch as by making a reference to the document and without pleading its contents in the election petition, the document becomes incorporated in the election petition by reference. In other words, it forms an integral part of the election petition. Section 81(3) provides for giving a true copy of the election petition. When a document forms an integral part of the election petition and a copy of such document is not furnished to the respondent along with a copy of the election petition, the copy of the election petition will not be a true copy within the meaning of Section 81(3) and, as such, the court has to dismiss the election petition under Section 86(1) for non-compliance with Section 81(3).

16. On the other hand, if the contents of the document in question are pleaded in the election petition, the document does not form an integral part of the election petition. In such a case, a copy of the document need not be served on the respondent and that will not be non-compliance with the provision of Section 81(3). The document may be relied upon as an evidence in the proceedings. In other words, when the document does not form an integral part of the election petition, but has been either referred to in the petition or filed in the proceedings as evidence of any fact, a copy of such a document need not be served on the respondent along with a copy of the election petition."

61. Learned counsel for the respondents on the aforesaid point has also relied on a decision of the Apex Court in Dr. Shipra (supra) and T. M. Jacob (supra) to buttress their submissions regarding material particulars and concept of a true copy.

62. From the perusal of the aforesaid decisions, it transpires that the case of Dr. Shipra (supra) came to be referred to a Larger Bench of the Apex Court in the case of T. M. Jacob (supra). It is the Constitution Bench of T. M. Jacob (supra) where the issue regarding the legislative intent and the object of serving a true copy of an election petition and the affidavit filed in support of the allegation of corrupt practice came to be considered. The relevant paragraphs of the said report are 22, 24, 28, 35, 36, 37, 39 and 40 which reads as under:-

"22. The defect found in the present case is almost identical to the defect which had been found in the copy of the affidavit supplied to the first respondent in Anil R. Deshmukh case [(1999) 2 SCC 205 : JT (1999) 1 SC 135] . The defect is materially different from the defect found in Dr Shipra case [(1996) 5 SCC 181] where the true copy of the election petition furnished by the election petitioner to the successful candidate did not show that the affidavit filed in support of the allegation of corrupt practices had been duly sworn or affirmed and verified by the election petitioner before a Notary, whose attestation was also found missing."

"24. Reliance on the above observations in Dr Shipra case [(1996) 5 SCC 181] divorced from the context in which that judgment had been rendered, is neither fair nor proper."

-----------------------------------

"28. Thus, our answer to the reference is that the judgment in Dr Shipra case[(1996) 5 SCC 181] is confined to the "fact situation" as existing in that case and has no application to the established facts of the present case and the wide observations made therein were made in the context of the facts of that case only."

"35. The object of serving a "true copy" of an election petition and the affidavit filed in support of the allegations of corrupt practice on the respondent in the election petition is to enable the respondent to understand the charge against him so that he can effectively meet the same in the written statement and prepare his defence. The requirement is, thus, of substance and not of form.

36. The expression "copy" in Section 81(3) of the Act, in our opinion, means a copy which is substantially so and which does not contain any material or substantial variation of a vital nature as could possibly mislead a reasonable person to understand and meet the charges/allegations made against him in the election petition. Indeed a copy which differs in material particulars from the original cannot be treated as a true copy of the original within the meaning of Section 81(3) of the Act and the vital defect cannot be permitted to be cured after the expiry of the period of limitation.

37. We have already referred to the defect which has been found in the copy of the affidavit served on the appellant in the present case. There is no dispute that the copy of the affidavit served on the appellant contained the endorsement to the effect that the affidavit had been duly signed, verified and affirmed by the election petitioner before a Notary. Below the endorsement of attestation, it was also mentioned:

Notary

There, however, was an omission to mention the name and particulars of the Notary and the stamp and seal of the Notary in the copy of the affidavit served on the appellant. There was no other defect pointed out either in the memo of objection or in CMP No. 2903 of 1996 or even during the course of arguments in the High Court or before us. Could this omission be treated as an omission of a vital or material nature which could possibly mislead or prejudice the appellant in formulating his defence? In our opinion: No. The omission was inconsequential. By no stretch of imagination can it be said that the appellant could have been misled by the absence of the name and seal or stamp of the Notary on the copy of the affidavit, when endorsement of attestation was present in the copy which showed that the same had been signed by the Notary. It is not denied that the copies of the election petition and the affidavit served on the appellant bore the signatures of Respondent 1 on every page and the original affidavit filed in support of the election petition had been properly signed, verified and affirmed by the election petitioner and attested by the Notary. There has, thus, been a substantial compliance with the requirements of Section 81(3) read with the proviso to Section 83(1)(c) of the Act. Defects in the supply of true copy under Section 81 of the Act may be considered to be fatal, where the party has been misled by the copy on account of variation of a material nature in the original and the copy supplied to the respondent. The prejudice caused to the respondent in such cases would attract the provisions of Section 81(3) read with Section 86(1) of the Act. The same consequence would not follow from non-compliance with Section 83 of the Act."

-----------------------------------

"39. Applying the test as laid down in Murarka Radhey Shyam Ram Kumar case[AIR 1964 SC 1545 : (1964) 3 SCR 573] to the fact situation of the present case, we come to the conclusion that the defects complained of in the present case were not such as could have misled the appellant at all. The non-mention of the name of the Notary or the absence of the stamp and seal of the Notary in the otherwise true copy supplied to the appellant could not be construed to be an omission or variation of a vital nature and thus the defect, if at all it could be construed as a defect, was not a defect of any vital nature attracting the consequences of Section 86(1) of the Act. Under the circumstances, it must be held that there was no failure on the part of the election petitioner to comply with the last part of sub-section (3) of Section 81 of the Act and, under the circumstances, Section 86(1) of the Act was not attracted and the election petition could not have been dismissed by reason of the alleged failure to comply with the provisions of Section 81 of the Act. In this connection, it is also relevant to note that the appellant, neither in the memo of objections nor in the written objections or in CMP No. 2903 of 1996 has alleged that he had beenmisled by the absence of the name, rubber stamp and seal of the Notary on the copy of the affidavit supplied to him or that he had been prejudiced to formulate his defence. Even during the arguments, learned counsel for the appellant was not able to point out as to how the appellant could have been prejudiced by the alleged omissions on the copy of the affidavit served on him.

40. In our opinion it is not every minor variation in form but only a vital defect in substance which can lead to a finding of non-compliance with the provisions of Section 81(3) of the Act with the consequences under Section 86(1) to follow. The weight of authority clearly indicates that a certain amount of flexibility is envisaged. While an impermissible deviation from the original may entail the dismissal of an election petition under Section 86(1) of the Act, an insignificant variation in the true copy cannot be construed as a fatal defect. It is, however, neither desirable nor possible to catalogue the defects which may be classified as of a vital nature or those which are not so. It would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and no hard and fast formula can be prescribed. The tests suggested in Murarka Radhey Shyam case [AIR 1964 SC 1545 : (1964) 3 SCR 573] are sound tests and are now well settled. We agree with the same and need not repeat those tests. Considered in this background, we are of the opinion that the alleged defect in the true copy of the affidavit in the present case did not attract the provisions of Section 86(1) of the Act for alleged non-compliance with the last part of Section 81(3) of the Act and that there had been substantial compliance with the requirements of Section 81(3) of the Act in supplying "true copy" of the affidavit to the appellant by the respondent."

63. From the aforesaid, it would be clear that the Constitution Bench in T. M. Jacob (supra) held that the proposition as held in Dr. Shipra (supra) was on its own facts as pertaining to the said case. However, the dictum which came to be noticed and laid down has been noticed in paragraphs 37, 39 and 40 as noted above.

64. The next decision relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondent is of V. Narayanswami (supra) which also relates to the issue of the disclosure of cause of action, the contents regarding material facts and material particulars, the distinction between the two and importance of the affidavit and its verification. The relevant paragraphs 23, 26, and 30 of the said decision reads as under:-

"23. It will be thus seen that an election petition is based on the rights, which are purely the creature of a statute, and if the statute renders any particular requirement mandatory, the court cannot exercise dispensing powers to waive non-compliance. For the purpose of considering a preliminary objection as to the maintainability of the election petition the averments in the petition should be assumed to be true and the court has to find out whether these averments disclose a cause of action or a triable issue as such. Sections 81, 83(1)(c) and 86 read with Rule 94-A of the rules and Form 25 are to be read conjointly as an integral scheme. When so read if the court finds non-compliance it has to uphold the preliminary objection and has no option except to dismiss the petition. There is difference between "material facts" and "material particulars". While the failure to plead material facts is fatal to the election petition the absence of material particulars can be cured at a later stage by an appropriate amendment. "Material facts" mean the entire bundle of facts, which would constitute a complete cause of action and these must be concisely stated in the election petition, i.e., clause (a) of sub-section (1) of Section 83. Then under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of Section 83 the election petition must contain full particulars of any corrupt practice. These particulars are obviously different from material facts on which the petition is founded. A petition levelling a charge of corrupt practice is required by law to be supported by an affidavit and the election petitioner is obliged to disclose his source of information in respect of the commission of corrupt practice. He must state which of the allegations are true to his knowledge and which to his belief on information received and believed by him to be true. It is not the form of the affidavit but its substance that matters. To plead corrupt practice as contemplated by law it has to be specifically alleged that the corrupt practices were committed with the consent of the candidate and that a particular electoral right of a person was affected. It cannot be left to time, chance or conjecture for the court to draw inference by adopting an involved process of reasoning. Where the alleged corrupt practice is open to two equal possible inferences the pleadings of corrupt practice must fail. Where several paragraphs of the election petition alleging corrupt practices remain unaffirmed under the verification clause as well as the affidavit, the unsworn allegation could have no legal existence and the court could not take cognizance thereof. Charge of corrupt practice being quasi-criminal in nature the court must always insist on strict compliance with the provisions of law. In such a case it is equally essential that the particulars of the charge of allegations are clearly and precisely stated in the petition. It is the violation of the provisions of Section 81 of the Act which can attract the application of the doctrine of substantial compliance. The defect of the type provided in Section 83 of the Act on the other hand can be dealt with under the doctrine of curability, on the principles contained in the Code of Civil Procedure. Non-compliance with the provisions of Section 83 may lead to dismissal of the petition if the matter falls within the scope of Order 6 Rule 16 and Order 7 Rule 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Where neither the verification in the petition nor the affidavit gives any indication of the sources of information of the petitioner as to the facts stated in the petition which are not to his knowledge and the petitioner persists that the verification is correct and the affidavit in the form prescribed does not suffer from any defect the allegations of corrupt practices cannot be inquired and tried at all. In such a case the petition has to be rejected on the threshold for non-compliance with the mandatory provisions of law as to pleadings. It is no part of the duty of the court suo motu even to direct furnishing of better particulars when objection is raised by the other side. Where the petition does not disclose any cause of action it has to be rejected. The court, however, cannot dissect the pleadings into several parts and consider whether each one of them discloses a cause of action. The petition has to be considered as a whole. There cannot be a partial rejection of the petition."

"26. Material facts and material particulars certainly connote two different things. Material facts are those facts which constitute the cause of action. In a petition on the allegation of corrupt practices the cause of action cannot be equated with the cause of action as is normally understood because of the consequences that follow in a petition based on the allegations of corrupt practices. An election petition seeking a challenge to the election of a candidate on the allegation of corrupt practices is a serious matter; if proved, not only does the candidate suffer ignominy, he also suffers disqualification from standing for election for a period that may extend to six years. Reference in this connection may be made to Section 8-A [-A. Disqualification on ground of corrupt practices.--(1) The case of every person found guilty of a corrupt practice by an order under Section 99 shall be submitted, as soon as may be, after such order takes effect, by such authority as the Central Government may specify in this behalf, to the President for determination of the question as to whether such person shall be disqualified and if so, for what period:Provided that the period for which any person may be disqualified under this sub-section shall in no case exceed six years from the date on which the order made in relation to him under Section 99 takes effect.(2) Any person who stands disqualified under Section 8-A of this Act as it stood immediately before the commencement of the Election Laws (Amendment) Act, 1975 (40 of 1975), may, if the period of such disqualification has not expired, submit a petition to the President for the removal of such disqualification for the unexpired portion of the said period.(3) Before giving his decision on any question mentioned in sub-section (1) or on any petition submitted under sub-section (2), the President shall obtain the opinion of the Election Commission on such question or petition and shall act according to such opinion."] of the Act. It was for this purpose that the proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 83 was inserted by Act 40 of 1961 (w.e.f. 20-9-1961) requiring filing of the affidavit in the prescribed form where there are allegations of corrupt practice in the election petition. Filing of the affidavit as required is not a mere formality. By naming a document as an affidavit it does not become an affidavit. To be an affidavit it has to conform not only to the form prescribed in substance but has also to contain particulars as required by the rules."

"30. It will thus be seen that the election petition not only lacked the material facts, it lacked material particulars, defective verification and the affidavit filed was not in the form prescribed. Moreover, the ingredients of corrupt practices, as defined in Section 123(1)(B) and 123(2) of the Act are also lacking. It is also not the case of the appellant that any MLA whom the appellant could not meet, received any gratification, as defined, whether as a motive or a reward for voting or refraining from voting, or there was any inducement or attempt to induce any such MLA to vote or refrain from voting. Also it is not the case of the appellant that any undue influence was exercised with the free exercise of any electoral right of any MLA which right, as noted above, has been defined in clause (d) of Section 79 of the Act. There is no allegation if any particular MLA was induced to vote or not to vote in a particular way because he was entertained or otherwise. The allegation is that the appellant himself could not meet the MLAs and he believed that if he had been given a chance to meet them he would have influenced their vote in his favour and against their party of affiliations. There is no allegation that the MLAs were prevented or influenced from freely exercising their electoral right. As stated earlier the appellant did not show as to why he could not meet the MLAs on 2-10-1997 when they were available in Pondicherry. The material fact must be that the appellant was prevented from meeting the MLAs which he did not allege and as to how he was so prevented would constitute material particulars."

65. Learned counsel for the respondents has also relied upon the case of Mithilesh Kumar Pandey (supra) which has already been noticed in the case of Dr. Shipra (supra) as well as T. M. Jacob (supra). However, in the case of Mithilesh Kumar Pandey (supra) the issue before the Apex Court was in respect of the mistake in the copies supplied to the returned candidates and thereafter considering the provisions of the law, the Apex Court in paragraph 15 laid down as under:-

"15. On a careful consideration and scrutiny of the law on the subject, the following principles are well established:

"(1) that where the copy of the election petition served on the returned candidate contains only clerical or typographical mistakes which are of no consequence, the petition cannot be dismissed straightaway under Section 86 of the Act,

(2) a true copy means a copy which is wholly and substantially the same as the original and where there are insignificant or minimal mistakes, the court may not take notice thereof,

(3) where the copy contains important omissions or discrepancies of a vital nature, which are likely to cause prejudice to the defence of the returned candidate, it cannot be said that there has been a substantial compliance with the provisions of Section 81(3) of the Act,

(4) prima facie, the statute uses the words ''true copy' and the concept of substantial compliance cannot be extended too far to include serious or vital mistakes which shed the character of a true copy so that the copy furnished to the returned candidate cannot be said to be a true copy within the meaning of Section 81(3) of the Act, and

(5) as Section 81(3) is meant to protect and safeguard the sacrosanct electoral process so as not to disturb the verdict of the voters, there is no room for giving a liberal or broad interpretation of the provisions of the said section."

66. Learned counsel for the respondents have also relied upon two decisions of the learned Single Judge of the Bombay High Court in Purushottam (supra) and Baban Yadav (supra) which also takes into account and follow the aforesaid reasoning as noticed in the preceding paragraphs.

67. The next decision upon which reliance has been placed by the respondents is that of Mulayam Singh Yadav (supra) wherein the issue before the Apex Court was whether or not schedule 14 which was part of the election petition could be treated as a integral part of the election petition. Answering the aforesaid issue, the Apex Court in paragraphs 11 to 14 of the said report held as under:-

"11. Whether or not Schedule 14 is an integral part of the election petition does not depend on whether or not the draftsman of the election petition has so averred. It has to be decided objectively, taking into account all relevant facts and circumstances. Schedule 14 is one of 25 schedules which is, as a matter of fact, part of the bound election petition. In respect of each of these schedules, except Schedule 14, it is averred that it is a part of the election petition. Each of these schedules, other than Schedule 14, mentions, verifies and contains some paper or document which can be placed between the leaves of paper that comprise that schedule and be bound with the election petition. Schedule 14 mentions and verifies a video cassette which cannot be placed between two leaves and be bound with the election petition. This is the explanation for the difference in the manner in which the averments relating to Schedule 14 and the other schedules are made in the election petition. Clearly, the video cassette mentioned and verified in Schedule 14 is as much an integral part of the election petition as the papers and documents mentioned and verified in the other schedules. Further, that the video cassette mentioned and verified in Schedule 14 is a part of the election petition and was intended to be such is evident from the affidavit of the first respondent verifying the allegations of corrupt practice made in the election petition. Therein, the first respondent has verified the correctness of what is stated in para 83 of the election petition, which refers to Schedule 14 and which has been quoted above, and to Schedule 14 itself. Yet again, that the video cassette mentioned and verified in Schedule 14 is and was intended to be a part of the election petition is shown by the fact that 15 video cassettes which were copies of the video cassette mentioned and verified in Schedule 14 were filed in the High Court along with the election petition for being served upon the respondents thereto.

12. Ordinarily, what is shown upon the video cassette that is mentioned and verified in Schedule 14 would have been set out in the election petition and then that video cassette could have been said to be evidence of the allegations made in the election petition. As this election petition is drafted, there is no description of what is shown on this video cassette except to say that it shows booth-capturing, violence and arson. As to booth-capturing, there are particulars contained in the other schedules but even in that regard the later paragraphs of the election petition make reference to Schedule 14 so that even in regard to booth-capturing the particulars shown in the video cassette mentioned and verified in Schedule 14 are relied upon. So far as the allegations of violence and arson are concerned, there are no particulars in the election petition absent the video cassette mentioned and verified in Schedule 14.

13. We are, therefore, satisfied that the video cassette mentioned and verified in Schedule 14 is an integral part of the election petition and that it should have been filed in court along with copies thereof for service upon the respondents to the election petition. Whereas 15 copies thereof were filed for service upon the respondents, the video cassette itself was not filed. The election petition as filed was, therefore, not complete.

14. Section 81 contemplates the presentation of an election petition that is complete and satisfies the requirements of Section 83. An election petition that is not complete must, having due regard to the imperative mandate of Section 86, be dismissed. The present election petition must, therefore, be dismissed."

68. In the aforesaid decision, it concluded that the video cassette which was mentioned and verified in schedule 14 was an integral part of the election petition and ought to have been filed in the court alongwith the copies thereof for service upon the respondents. Since 15 copies were filed for service upon the respondents but the video cassette itself was not filed, therefore, it held that the election petition was not complete and it violated the mandate of Sections 81 and 83 of RPA and thus, election petition was dismissed.

69. To buttress the submissions on the point regarding the election petitioner not being a duly nominated candidate learned counsel for the respondents have relied upon the case of Devendra Patel (supra). However, with due respect this Court finds that the said case has no applicability in the instant fact scenario; inasmuch as in the case of Devendra Patel (supra) the candidate was actually disqualified and this admitted position led the Supreme Court to hold that the election petitioner was not a duly nominated candidate. However, the facts of the instant case are quite different and there is no issue regarding disqualification of the election petitioner.

70. Learned counsel for the respondents has also relied upon a decision of a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Hari Krishna Lal (supra) and the issue therein was almost identical to the one involved in the instant case where the affidavit as required to be filed by the election petitioner was not filed despite the petitioner being put to notice. The Court concluded that the election petitioner was not a duly nominated candidate and had no locus to file the election petition.

71. Learned counsel for the respondents have also relied upon the case of Mithilesh Kumar Sinha (supra), Neelam Sanjeeva Reddy (supra), Giani Zail Singh (supra), K. R. Narayanan (supra) and Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam (supra) to submit that though the aforesaid cases related to the elections of the presidential candidates but even in the said case it was held that where the nomination form required certain number of proposers and that was not fulfilled then the nomination itself was bad and petition was not maintainable.

72. The learned counsel for the respondents have also relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Brij Mohan (supra), S. Ratnamma (supra) of the Andra Pradesh High Court and the case of Beti Joga (supra) of the Madhya Pradesh High Court.

73. The Apex Court in Brij Mohan (supra) and the Andra Pradesh High Court in S. Ratnamma (supra) as well as the M. P. High Court in Beti Joga (supra), were dealing with the issue of misnomer. However, this Court finds that in all the three cases the issue regarding misnomer was considered in light of the issue framed and finding have been returned after leading evidence at trial. In the instant case at hand, the issue is different since, the matter is not ripe for trial as the written statement has not been filed and only applications under Order VII Rule 11 are under consideration. Whereas, in the cases cited by the learned counsel for the respondents the Court had the benefit of seeing the respective pleadings as well as the evidence led by the parties to come to its conclusion, thus, in the humble opinion of this Court, the aforesaid three decisions may not have much relevance to decide the issue of misnomer at this preliminary stage.

74. Learned counsel for the respondents have thereafter relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Tej Bahadur (supra), and Smt. Hem Purohit (supra) and a decision of the Single Judge of the Uttrakhand High Court in Chandra Narain Tripathi (supra).

75. Upon noticing the aforesaid three cases, it reveals that in the case of Tej Bahadur (supra) the issue before the Apex Court was whether an application under Order 6 Rule 16 CPC of the respondents seeking expunging of certain paragraphs of the election petition as well as the application moved under Order VII Rule 11 CPC had been rightly considered and the election petition was rightly dismissed.

76. This Court finds that the case of Tej Bahadur (supra) cannot be pressed into service; inasmuch as in the said case the nomination paper was required to be accompanied by a certificate indicating that the candidate who was dismissed from service was not dismissed for corruption or for disloyalty while holding office under the government. Since in the said case, it was admitted that Tej Bahadur had been dismissed from service but his nomination paper was not accompanied by a certificate to the aforesaid effect, hence in this context the Apex Court found that the nomination paper of the election petitioner Tej Bahadur did not have the said certificate and it was in violation of Section 33 of RPA and held that the petition was rightly rejected. The facts of that case are at variance to the facts of the instant case diluting the applicability of the precedential value of the decision in Tej Bahadur (supra).

77. Regarding the case relied upon by the respondents in Chandra Narayan Tripathi (supra), this Court finds that in the said case, initially, an application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC was filed by the respondents which came to be rejected by the High Court. The said rejection order was affirmed by the Apex Court in Civil Appeal No.2122 of 2012 (Kapil Muni Karwariya v. Chandra Narayan Tripathi) by means of judgment of the Apex Court dated 15.02.2012. Later, the said election petition ultimately came to be dismissed after trial by means of judgment of the High Court dated 20.12.2013. Again, the aforesaid decision has been rendered on merits after the parties were permitted to lead evidence, hence, its ratio would not be applicable while considering the applications under Order VII Rule 11 CPC.

78. Lastly, learned counsel for the respondents have relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Azhar Hussain (supra) and the issue before the Apex Court in the said case was in respect of the challenge raised to the elections of the returned candidates on the ground of alleged corrupt practice. Paragraphs 27 and 28 of the said report reads as under:-

"27. The High Court held:

"It appears to me that if an averment of fact is an essential part of the pleading, it must be considered to be an integral part of the petition. If such an averment is not actually put in the election petition, the petition suffers from the lack of material facts and therefore, the statement of cause of action would be incomplete. If it is stated in the election petition, either in the body of the petition itself or by way of annexure, but its copy is not furnished to the respondent, the election petition would be hit by the mischief of Section 81(3) read with Section 86(1) of the Act. In my opinion, the reference to the poster and its proposed translation in the election petition, which was never incorporated into it, are material facts under Section 83(1)(a) of the Act and their absence cannot now be made good by means of an amendment. The pleading as it stands, and even if it were permitted to be amended would suffer from lack of cause of action on this material fact and, therefore, is liable to be struck out. The newspaper cuttings are not used by the petition as containing fact, but only as evidence to that extent amendment is allowed."

Whether the High Court was right in taking the aforesaid view?

28. It will be noticed that in the election petition it has been mentioned that a copy of the poster would be subsequently filed, and the cuttings of some newspaper reports would also be filed later on. The election petitioner sought an amendment to delete the averments on both these aspects. The High Court rejected the prayer in regard to poster (Ex. B), but granted the prayer in respect of the cuttings. The High Court has taken the view that the poster was claimed to be an integral part of the election petition and since it was not filed (much less its copy furnished to the respondent) the pleading suffered from infirmity and non-compliance with Section 83(1) read with Section 86(1) of the Act. Non-filing of the poster is fatal to the election petition as in the absence thereof the petition suffers from lack of material facts and therefore the statement of cause of action would be incomplete. Nothing turns on the fact whether or not the words "a copy of the said poster would be filed as Ex. B" are allowed to be retained in the election petition or are deleted as prayed for by the appellant. The fact remains that no copy of the poster was produced. It must also be realized that the election petitioner did not seek to produce the copy of the poster, but only wanted a reference to it deleted so that it cannot be said that the accompaniments were not produced along with the election petition. The fact remains that without the production of the poster, the cause of action would not be complete and it would be fatal to the election petition inasmuch as the material facts and particulars would be missing. So also it could not enable the respondent to meet the case. Apart from that the most important aspect of the matter is that in the absence of the names of the respondent's workers, or material facts spelling out the knowledge and consent of the respondent or his election agent, the cause of action would be incomplete. So much so that the principle enunciated by this Court in Nihal Singh case [(1970) 3 SCC 239] would be attracted. And the court would not even have permitted the election petitioner to lead evidence on this point. The High Court was therefore fully justified in taking the view that it has taken."*

79. Now the Court shall examine and notice the decisions cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner in support of his contentions.

80. The cases which have been cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner can be grouped into two sets. The first set relates to those decisions where the concept of Order VII Rule 11 CPC has been explained so also the distinction between the material particulars and cause of action. The other set of decisions are relating to the issue as to what can be considered to be an error of substantial character which may give rise to the rejection of nomination and what kind of errors, clerical or otherwise, which may not have a substantial bearing and thus can be ignored and cannot entail the dismissal of the election petition in limine.

81. In the first set, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Sopan Sukhdeo Sable (supra) wherein the Apex Court in paragraphs 10 to 14 of the said opinion by relying upon the earlier decisions have explained the extent and width of the powers and the manner in which Order VII Rule 11 CPC is to be considered. In the same opinion in paragraphs 18 to 20 the distinction of material facts and what will constitute material facts for a cause of action has been explained.

82. The other decision on the said point is of Mayar (H.K.) Ltd (supra) wherein the scope of Order VII Rule 11 CPC has been explained in paragraphs 11 and 12 while what will constitute material facts vis-a-vis cause of action has been explained in paragraph-18.

83. In string of the aforesaid decision, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon D. Ramachandran (supra) (relevant paragraphs 8 and 10) as well as H. D. Revanna (supra) (relevant paragraph 27). In both the aforesaid decisions, the Apex Court has considered the manner in which a preliminary issue is to be considered by the Court and what are the parameters to be noted by it.

84. The petitioner has also relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Kuldeep Singh Pathania (supra) wherein again the scope of Order VII and Rule 11 CPC has been explained in paragraphs 8 to 11 of the said opinion. See also Mohan Rawale (supra) wherein in paragraph 10 the issue of material facts vis-a-vis the scope of Order VII Rule 11 has been considered.

85. The second set of decisions which have been relied upon by the counsel for the petitioner is of Madiraju Venkata Ramana Raju (supra) wherein the issue regarding the proper disclosure of cause of action vis-a-vis the facts relating to corrupt practice have been noticed by the Apex Court in paragraphs 22, 25, 29 and 33.

86. The petitioner has also relied upon the case of Samant N. Balakrishna etc. (supra) wherein in paragraphs 29 and 30 the interplay between the Sections 81, 83 and 86 of the RPA has been discussed and how the same is to be considered in context with material facts leading to a cause of action for challenging an election petition in respect of allegation of corrupt practice.

87. The petitioner has also relied upon Paragraphs 25 and 26 of the decision of the Ponnala Lakshmaiah (supra) wherein the issue regarding facts of corrupt practice, the affidavit not being in prescribed format as provided under Form-25 also containing defect in verification has been held to be curable and for the said reason the petition was not liable to be rejected. The other decision is of Nandiesha Reddy (supra) wherein similar issue has been considered in paragraphs 24 to 26.

88. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Hira Singh Pal (supra) to buttress the submission that for clerical errors of unsubstantial character, the nomination cannot be rejected and reliance has been placed on paragraph 7 of the said decision.

89. Similarly, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Uttamrao Shidas Jankar (supra) (relevant paragraphs 26 to 31) and Rakesh Kumar (supra) (relevant paragraphs 19 to 21) wherein the Apex Court has taken note of the Election Hand Book for the Returning Officer and held the said Hand Book has statutory force. The powers of the Returning Officer has been considered and it has been held that as far as possible either suo moto or in light of the objections raised regarding the nomination of the candidates during scrutiny, as far as possible an opportunity must be given to the candidate to rebut the objections and only if the said objections cannot be rebutted or the clerical error or misnomer or technical error which cannot be cured despite providing opportunity only then the nomination may be rejected.

90. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Ram Awadesh Singh (supra) to urge what kind of defects can be considered to be of a substantial nature and unless so established, it is not open for the Returning Officer to reject the nomination on clerical errors which do not assume the character of substantial nature. In the same string, he also relies upon the decision of Madhya Pradesh High Court in Chandra Shekhar Chaturvedi (supra) wherein in paragraphs 20 and 24, the powers of the Returning Officer to correct/ignore misnomer and clerical error which do not partake the nature of substantial character has been considered.

91. Learned counsel for the petitioner has then relied upon the decision of Syed Dastagir (supra) where in paragraph 9, it has been explained as to how a plea in pleadings is to be construed.

92. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a recent decision of the Apex Court in A. Manju (supra), where the issue before the Apex Court was whether an election petition can be thrown out at the threshold on a plea of that the petition is not supported by an affidavit in Form-25 as prescribed under Rule-94 A of the Rules of 1961. The Apex Court held that it was not in sound discretion to reject the election-petition at threshold rather it was a curable defect and permit the election-petitioner to file an affidavit in support of the petition in Form-25 within time to be granted by the Court.

93. In the aforesaid context, this Court finds that since the affidavit in Form-25 is relatable to Rule 94-A of the Rules of 1961 and to Section 83 (1) of the RPA and is to be filed before the Court, hence, the Apex Court in the case of A. Manju (supra) found that instead of dismissing the petition at the threshold the Court may grant time to the petitioner to file the affidavit in Form-25.

However, the decision of the Apex Court A. Manju (supra) does not relate to an affidavit contained in Form-26 which is relatable to Rule 4-A of Rules of 1961 which is to be filed alongwith the Nomination Form in terms of Section 33 of the RPA. Thus, the said decision of A. Manju (supra) can be distinguished on the facts and controversy involved in the instant case.

94. Having noticed the relevant statutory provisions and the gamut of the decisions cited by the respective parties, now the stage is set to notice the merits of their respective contentions.

95. This Court shall proceed to deal with the submissions of the parties under the following subheadings:-

D(i) Should the petition be dismissed under Order VII Rule 11 CPC read with Section 33 of RPA, as the petitioner is not a duly nominated candidate since his nomination did not have the requisite number of valid proposers.

96. The submission of learned counsel for the respondents is that the word "candidate" as defined in Section 79(b) of RPA means a person who has been or claims to have been a duly nominated candidate at any election. It is urged that since the nomination of the petitioner was rejected, therefore, he was not a candidate and the only other way the petitioner can maintain the petition is if he claims and proves to be a duly nominated candidate.

97. It is urged that the nomination paper of the petitioner suffered from two inherent defects: (a) it did not have the required number of valid proposers; (b) the affidavit in Form-26 required to be filed in pursuance of Rule 4-A of Rules of 1961 was also defective and despite having been put to notice, the petitioner did not rectify the same, consequently, it rendered his nomination invalid.

98. In order to test the aforesaid submission, the Court has perused the nomination paper filed by the petitioner as Schedule-8 with the election petition which indicates that the petitioner's nomination form was given Serial No.22 and was presented at 02:50 PM on 27.10.2020. The said nomination form, under the heading of the particulars of proposers and signatures, mentions 10 names.

99. In terms of Section 33 and the first proviso appended thereto, any candidate who is not nominated by a recognized political party or in other words is contesting the elections as an independent candidate, his nomination paper must be subscribed by 10 proposers being electors of the constituency.

100. Apparently, the nomination paper of the petitioner as noticed above has 10 proposers and the serial number of the said proposers has also been mentioned as per the list prepared in terms of Section 152 of RPA, i.e. list of the members of the State Legislative Assemblies and Electoral College to be maintained by the Returning Officer.

101. The record would further indicate that the petitioner had filed a photocopy of the check list of the documents which was issued by the Returning Officer, as Schedule 10 to the petition, where in respect of the documents particularly affidavit in Form-26, it had been mentioned that all the columns in Form-26 have not been filled and that column 8(viii) is blank. The said check list also states that the candidate can submit the affidavit complete in all respect latest by the time fixed for commencement of scrutiny of nominations.

102. It is the averment of the petitioner that prior to the commencement of scrutiny, he had furnished a fresh/revised affidavit in Form-26 complete in all respect to the Returning Officer.

103. At the time of scrutiny of the nomination form of the petitioner, two sets of objections were filed, one by Sri Haridwar Dubey who is the respondent no. 9 and the other by Sri Lal Ji Verma who is the proposer of Sri Ramji, the respondent no. 6.

104. Both the said objectors raised a ground of challenge that the nomination form of the petitioner did not have ten proposers, since, the person named as third proposer in the form namely 'Nawab Shah' was not a member of the legislative assembly. The name of the person mentioned at serial no.26 as entered in the list maintained under Section 152 of the RPA is of 'Nawabjaan', who is not the proposer. Accordingly, Nawab Shah is not an electorate and if his name is excluded then there are only 9 proposers which is in direct breach of first proviso of Section 33 of the RPA, hence, the nomination being invalid was liable to be rejected.

105. The other objection being that the election petitioner had not furnished a complete affidavit in Form-26 as it contained blanks which could not be treated to be a proper compliance, rendering the nomination bad.

106. The petitioner responded to the said objections in writing and stated that the third proposer of his form, serial no. is 26 in the list maintained under Section 152 of the RPA is Nawabjaan. Inadvertently, his name was mentioned as Nawab Shah. The mention of incorrect name is a clerical error and is purely technical. Even otherwise, it being a misnomer is saved in terms of proviso appended to Sub-section (4) of Section 33 of RPA and deserved to be overlooked. The petitioner also sought leave of the Returning Officer that if permitted, he could produce Nawabjaan/the third proposer in person within 12 hours to satisfy the Returning Officer.

107. The controversy became alive as the Returning Officer by means of his order dated 28.10.2020 rejected the nomination form of the petitioner on the ground that it was accompanied by an affidavit in Form-26 with blanks and with some cutting over the contents and the said affidavit could not be accepted in light of the decision of Apex Court in Resurgence India (supra) resulting in rejection of the nomination.

108. It can be noticed that the issue raised by the respondents regarding the nomination paper being invalid on account of name of the third proposer being incorrect and from perusal of the order dated 28.02.02020, a copy of which has been brought on record as Schedule 18, indicates that the Returning Officer rejected the nomination form on the aforesaid ground.

109. This court finds that in so far as the issue of misnomer or giving the benefit of the proviso to Section 33(4) of RPA is concerned it primarily revolves around the objective satisfaction formed by the Returning Officer while screening the nomination form at the time of its presentation.

110. The word "misnomer" has been duly defined in the P. Ramanatha Aiyar "The Major Law Lexicon", 4th Edition, 2010, to mean as under:-.

"The using one name for another, a misnaming; mistake in a name, the giving an incorrect name to a person in a pleading, deed, will or other document.

A description by initials only instead of by the full name would be a 'Misnomer'.

Misnomer-means giving an incorrect or wrong name to a person even in a legal document."

111. In the instant case against the name of the third proposer where the serial number of the constituency being 26 was mentioned against the name of Nawab Shah and the Returning Officer upon verification from the list maintained under Section 152 of RPA could and ought to have satisfied himself regarding the correctness of the name of the third proposer whether it was Nawab Shah or Nawabjaan.

112. The issue whether the clerical error in the name of the third proposer is a misnomer or not and whether it was of substantial character or not can be considered only after the parties lead evidence as it also entails questions of fact whether the incorrect name of Nawab Shah could relate to the correct name of Nawabjann as commonly understood and whether was liable to be overlooked.

113. Another aspect which requires consideration is that the record reveals that similar objection was raised in respect of nomination form of another candidate namely Shri Ramji and it was raised by Shri Aslam Chaudhary, Shri Mohd. Aslam Rainee and Shri Hakim Lal.

114. The objections were considered by the Returning Officer, who after due verification of the signatures available with him as well as in light of the list available with him as per Section 152 of RPA found the objections to be frivolous and rejected the same. The copy of the order passed by the Returning Officer is on record as Schedule 13 with the election petition.

115. However, prima-facie, this Court finds that the Returning Officer did not undertake the exercise to verify the correctness of the name of third proposer in respect of the error pointed in the nomination form of the petitioner as was done by him while dealing with the objections against the nomination of Shri Ramji as evident from the order passed by Returning Officer, a copy of which has been brought on record as Schedule-13.

116. Insofar as the nomination form of the petitioner is concerned, the Returning Officer ought to have complied with the instructions as mentioned in Chapter-VI, Clause 4 to 7, 9.1 to 9.3 of Handbook for Returning Officers for Election to the Council of States and State Legislative Council.

117. Even though prima-facie the Returning Officer did not carry out the necessary exercise of verification regarding correctness of the name of the third proposer but even then it must be understood that this Court is not exercising any appellate powers or sitting in appeal over the order dated 28.10.2020 of the Returning Officer.

118. The issue of misnomer in context with the third proposer cannot be considered at the stage of Order VII Rule 11 CPC especially noticing the averments in the petition in this regard and also for the reason that this alleged error was not considered by the Returning Officer in light of the provisions of the proviso appended to Section 33(4) of RPA to give any finding whether the benefit of the said proviso could be extended to the petitioner and also in light of the instructions contained in the Handbook while passing the order dated 28.10.2020.

119. Hence, this Court is of the clear opinion that the election petition cannot be dismissed at this stage on the ground of incorrect mention of name of one proposer and in order to ascertain the proper and full effect of the proviso appended to Section 33(4) of RPA and whether it can save the petition would require evidence and cannot be a ground to dismiss the petition at this stage in exercise of powers under Order VII Rule 11 CPC.

D-(ii) Should the petition be dismissed as it lacks material particulars regarding allegations of corrupt practice and for want of Affidavit in Form-25 in compliance of Section 83(1) of RPA.

120. Another ground urged by the learned counsel for the respondents is that from the bare perusal of the pleadings, it would indicate that the issue raised by the petitioners is in context with the corrupt practices for which the petitioner has not filed the appropriate affidavit in Form-25, hence, the petition itself is not maintainable and is liable to be rejected.

121. It is also urged by the learned counsel for the respondents that in case the averments in the petition are not relating to corrupt practices as alleged by the counsel for the petitioner, then the said allegations as contained in the petition are scandalous and are liable to be expunged. In case if such allegations are expunged then again no cause of action will subsist and even then the petition is liable to fail.

122. On the other hand, learned counsel for the petitioner has stated that the allegations in the petition against the Returning Officer are not of corrupt practice but is a narrative of the events which transpired and indicative of the highhandedness of the Returning Officer in dealing with the nomination form of the petitioner which lead to the illegal rejection of his nomination and illegal acceptance of the nomination form of the returned candidates which is a ground available to the petitioner to challenge the election of the respondents in terms of Section 100(c) and (d)(i) of RPA.

123. Giving anxious consideration to this submission and also noticing the various decisions cited by the parties in context of pleadings of corrupt practice and non-filing of an affidavit in Form-25, the Court finds that in paragraph 15 of the election petition an allegation has been levelled against the Returning Officer that he shut his eyes and overlooked the specific provisions of Section 33 (4) and its proviso and Section 36 (5) along with its proviso willfully and deliberately to help the other candidates in the election in question and arbitrarily rejected the nomination paper of the petitioner.

124. In paragraph 16 of the election petition, again it has been alleged that the Returning Officer had adopted dual standards in the scrutiny of the nomination papers and rejected the nomination papers of the election petitioner on such frivolous, trivial, technical and clerical grounds. However, for similar errors in the nomination form of the respondents the Returning Officer accepted their nomination papers and affidavit in Form-26 for the candidates setup by the BJP namely, the respondents no. 8, 3, 4, 7, 9 and 10.

125. The petitioner has thereafter in paragraphs 28 to 45 of the election petition has pointed out the defects in the nomination forms as well as in the Affidavit in Form-26 of the returned candidates to urge that for the very same defects the nomination form of the petitioner has been rejected but for the returned candidates, the same defects have been ignored which is an arbitrary exercise of discretion and power by the Returning Officer clearly attracting Section 100(1)(d)(i) of RPA.

126. The word 'corrupt practice' is defined in Section 123 of RPA. If the same is noticed in context with the averments contained in the petition for the purposes of examining the respective contents at this preliminary stage, this Court finds that the contents of the petition suggests the manner in which the presentation of nomination form and its further processing was dealt with by the Returning Officer and how the petitioner felt discriminated and his expression of anguish. However that be so, it is still not an expression of any corrupt practice as strictly defined in the Act as the ingredients thereof which includes the involvement of a candidate or his agent and some officer or person for the commission of such corrupt practice which includes establishment of consent of the candidate and/or his agent and such vital ingredients are especially absent. The issue of corrupt practice requires evidence to be established and the same cannot be adjudicated at this preliminary stage without the written statement, issues and evidence.

127. Having noticed the aforesaid paragraphs of the election petition as detailed in the preceding paragraphs, it would be seen that the averments in the petition appears to be in context and consonance with the grounds for challenging the election of the returned candidates on account of illegal acceptance of their nomination and the illegal rejection of the nomination of the election petitioner.

128. Thus, for the reason that the matter at the moment is at preliminary stage and parties are yet to exchange pleadings and lead evidence, and as of now the pleadings have to be taken as it is without any addition and also taking it to be correct. Accordingly, at this stage, this Court does not find merit to treat the averments in the petition to be allegations of corrupt practice.

129. Moreover, even if on merits, the said averments may constitute corrupt practice, yet it cannot be made a ground to dismiss a petition at this nascent stage. The decision of the Apex Court in A. Manju (supra) helps the petitioner and this Court for the aforesaid reason is not inclined to reject the petition for non-filing of an affidavit in Form-25. Thus, the submission of the respondents in this regard is turned down.

D-(iii) Should the petition be dismissed for want of material particulars, cause of action and for want of filing a revised/fresh affidavit in Form-26 in compliance of Sections 33, 83 of RPA read with Rule 4-A of Rules of 1961.

130. Now, the issue which requires consideration is whether the nomination form of the petitioner was invalid for want of complete and proper affidavit in Form-26 filed by the petitioner and for the said reason the petitioner would not be a duly nominated candidate and not entitled to maintain the petition.

131. As per the petitioner, after he had received the check list on 27.10.2020 and was granted time to furnish the fresh/revised affidavit by the next day prior to the commencement of scrutiny proceedings, the petitioner had furnished the revised affidavit before the Returning Officer within the time so stipulated.

132. This aspect is refuted by the learned counsel for the respondents on two grounds (a) there is no document or material on record to establish that the said revised affidavit was ever filed before the Returning Officer (b) that there is no material particulars regarding the same in the petition and in absence of material particulars, the cause of action of the petitioner is not complete and the alleged copy which has been brought on record by the petitioner also is bereft of necessary details and again in absence of proper and material facts and pleadings the said document alone filed as Schedule 12 does not reveal any subsisting cause of action.

133. The contention raised by the respective parties will be considered within the following two folds: (i) the effect of the alleged second nomination form on pink colour paper said to be complete in all respect and (ii) the effect of the plea of filing or non-filing of revised affidavit in Form-26.

134. At the outset, it may be noted that a candidate is required and can file maximum 4 sets of nomination forms in terms of the provisio to Section 33(6) of RPA. Insofar as the affidavit in terms of Rule 4-A of Rules of 1961 in Form-26 is concerned, the same is to be filed in one original copy and does not require as many affidavits as the number of nomination forms filed.

135. From the perusal of paragraphs 60, 61 and 62 of the petition, the petitioner has set up his case that on 27.10.2020 he was made to wait in the nomination hall and though he was given the receipt only for one set of nomination paper but he was asked to wait and later informed that he will get the receipt in respect of the other set of nomination form filed in pink colour, tomorrow i.e. 28.10.2020. The petitioner has also mentioned in paragraph 61 that he had received a phone call by Mohd. Mushahid from the office of the returning officer and also categorically mentioned the mobile number from which he has received the aforesaid call. In paragraphs 65, 66 and 67, the petitioner has reiterated his stand regarding the filing of the second set of nomination form on pink colour paper.

136. From a complete and meaningful reading of the election petition, this Court finds that there is no reason pleaded why the Returning Officer would accept and give receipt for only one set of nomination paper to the petitioner and not the other set whereas insofar as the other candidates are concerned, they got the receipt and numbers for their nomination forms as all of them had filed two or more sets of nomination paper.

137. The petitioner also does not state with particularity why the petitioner did not raise the issue immediately of not having received the serial number/slip for the second set of nomination. The petitioner has also not filed any copy of the second nomination form in pink colour nor any explanation has been pleaded of not retaining any copy of the nomination from on pink paper though a copy of the nomination paper in English was retained by the petitioner.

138. The election petition also does not state when the petitioner procured the two sets of nomination forms since in the notice of the election which was duly published on 20.10.2020, it was clearly provided that the form of the nomination paper could be obtained at the place and time as mentioned in the notice of the election so published. This assumes significance where the existence of the second nomination is an issue and without any concrete pleadings and in absence of any supporting document or material the aforesaid plea becomes bald and fanciful.

139. Thus, even though the petitioner may have filed two sets of nomination but only one set of affidavit in Form-26 was filed with the nomination form on 27.10.2020 and admittedly it was defective and this defect was as informed to the petitioner through the check-list.

140. It is also to be seen that the nomination form of the petitioner was rejected because of the form in itself being defective and non-compliance of filing of revised affidavit in Form-26 in terms of Rule 4-A of Rules of 1961. Hence, even if the plea of the second nomination form in pink colour paper as alleged, being complete in all respect is accepted for the sake of arguments, however, in absence of the revised affidavit filed in Form-26, it will not render the nomination valid.

141. Accordingly, this Court for the aforesaid reasons is not inclined to return any finding on the issue of second set of nomination on pink paper. However, the Court shall look into the controversy from the perspective of filing or non-filing of the revised affidavit in Form-26 and the material particulars in respect thereof and its effect on the cause of action as pleaded.

142. To examine the effect of filing or non-filing of revised affidavit in Form-26, it will be relevant to examine the pleadings in Paragraph 70 and the copy of the said affidavit which has been brought on record as Schedule-12.

143. It would be seen that initially in Paragraph 13 of the election petition, it is stated that the petitioner had filed his revised/fresh affidavit before the Returning Officer on 28.10.2020 before the commencement of scrutiny proceedings by removing the defects as mentioned in the check-list dated 27.10.2020.

144. In paragraph 70 of the election petition, the petitioner has made averments regarding the filing of the fresh/revised affidavit in Form-26. Paragraph 70 of the election petition is being reproduced hereinafter for ready reference:-

"70. That the election petitioner pursuant to the direction given in the check-list dated 27.10.2020 filed a fresh Affidavit in Form-26 before Returning Officer on the 28.10.2020 i.e. before the scrutiny wherein all the columns of the Affidavit was properly filled up and no columns was left blank and the information which are not related to election petitioner, the election petitioner is specifically filled up the column by writing "not applicable". The photocopy of the Fresh/Revise Affidavit in Form-26 of election petitioner filed before Returning Officer dated 28.10.2020 before scrutiny of the nominations is being filed herewith and marked as SCHEDULE No. 12 to this election petition. It is made clear that the election petitioner after properly filling the each and every columns of the Fresh/Revise Affidavit dated 28.10.2020 (and no column has been left blank) and after getting it notarized by the Notary Officer on 28.10.2020 then submited before Returning Officer on 28.10.2020 before the start of the scrutiny of the nomination paper i.e. before 11:00 A.M. on 28.10.2020."

145 . From the perusal of aforesaid paragraph 70, all that can be discerned is that the election petitioner filed a fresh affidavit in Form-26 before the Returning Officer on 28.10.2020 prior to the commencement of scrutiny with complete filled up columns of the affidavit and no columns was left blank. It has also been mentioned that the photocopy of the fresh/revised affidavit in Form-26 filed before the Returning Officer before commencement of scrutiny of the nomination has been filed and marked as Schedule 12. It has further been clarified that the election petitioner after filling up each and every column of the fresh/revised affidavit leaving no column blank and after getting it notarized by the Notary Officer on 28.10.2020 submitted the same before the Returning Officer before the commencement of scrutiny.

146. At this stage, it will be worthwhile to glance at Schedule 12 which has been filed along with the election petition and it would indicate that the affidavit in Form-26 running in 13 pages is on pages 162 to 174 of the paper-book. The first page of the affidavit is at page 162 of the election petition and it reveals that the affidavit has been transcribed on an E-stamp worth of Rs.100/- which was issued at about 08:41 AM on 28.10.2020.

147. However, what is relevant to notice is that on all the 13 pages right from pages 162 to 174 of the paper-book, there is no signature of the election petitioner on the alleged copy of the revised affidavit. Even on page 13 of the affidavit, at running page 174 of the paper-book, the election petitioner has put his signatures in original but this signature in original has been affixed in election petition and not to the copy of the affidavit in Schedule 12 which does not bear the signatures of the election petitioner.

148. From the perusal of all the 13 pages of the alleged revised affidavit at pages 162 to 174 of the paper-book, it would reveal that (i) it does not contain the signature of the election petitioner, (ii) it does not contain the seal, stamp and signatures of notary, (iii) it also does not indicate that the petitioner had sworn the affidavit before the notary, (iv) who was the said notary before whom it was sworn as neither any notarial stamp nor the seal/stamp of the notary nor his name, signatures or his licence number is present, (v) there is also no mention of any time or place of swearing the affidavit, (vi) The photograph affixed has not been attested by the notary.

149. In absence of the aforesaid relevant requisite details, all that can be seen and noticed from Schedule 12 is that merely the language of affidavit as prescribed for Form-26 with details relating to the petitioner has been reduced on an E-stamp affixing a photograph of the election petitioner.

150. It will be worthwhile to notice that Rule 4-A of the Rules of 1961 specifically states that candidate or his proposers as the case may be shall at the time of delivering to the the Returning Officer, the nomination paper under Sub-section (1) of Section 33 of RPA also deliver to him an affidavit sworn by the candidate before a Magistrate of a first class or a notary in Form-26. If the condition as prescribed in Rule 4-A of the Rules of 1961 are perceived, it will prima facie be evident that the said affidavit falls short of the legal requirements.

151. This Court finds that if the case of the petitioner is taken at its face value, without any addition, subtraction and deletion, it would indicate that the petitioner has allegedly submitted two sets of nomination papers at 02:50 PM on 27.10.2020 i.e. the last date for filing of the nomination and that too, 10 minutes prior to the close of time for acceptance of nomination papers. A check list was issued to the petitioner on 27.10.2020 indicating that only one set of nomination paper has been received. The check-list also indicates that the affidavit in form-26 was not complete as the column 8(viii) of the said affidavit was completely missing.

152. In the aforesaid factual backdrop, categorical pleadings and averments regarding the details of the revised affidavit and its filing assumes great significance as in absence of the valid affidavit, the nomination of the petitioner looses its weight.

153. Thus it would be seen that actually it is the issue relating to the filing or non-filing of the revised affidavit in Form-26 prior to commencement of scrutiny is the heart and soul of the entire controversy at this stage.

154. The importance of a valid affidavit in Form-26 cannot be undermined. An affidavit in Form-26 is to be filed along with the nomination form and in case if such an affidavit is not correct or suffers from certain defects, the same can be cured only upto the time of the commencement of scrutiny and not thereafter. There is a distinction between an affidavit in Form-25, which is filed in support of allegations of corrupt practice which is furnished before the Court trying the election petition whereas the affidavit in Form-26 is to accompany the nomination form which is to be filed at the time of presentation of the nomination form before the Returning Officer.

155. Thus, there is a stark distinction between the two affidavits. Since, the affidavit in Form-25 is to be filed before the Court, hence, in appropriate circumstances, the Court has discretion to grant or not to grant time but no such discretion is vested with either the Returning Officer or the Court in respect of an affidavit in Form-26. Accordingly, the standard of pleadings, material particulars in respect of signing, verification, notarization and filing of the revised affidavit in Form-26 assumes prime importance.

156. If the pleadings in respect of such a important and imperative aspect intricately connected with a valid nomination is examined as mentioned in paragraphs 13 and 70 in juxtaposition with Schedule 12 as available on record indicates that it is extremely casual especially in context of an election petition where the pleadings, material facts and documents are to be properly scrutinized and any deviation from the requisites as provided in Sections 81 and 83 of RPA are to be strictly construed.

157. The petitioner having been bitten on 27.10.2020 in the sense that he did not get any receipt of the alleged second set of nomination yet he did not exercise caution and did not retain the duly filled, notarized copy of the revised affidavit nor insisted on the receipt of filing of the revised affidavit before the Returning Officer on 28.10.2020.

158. Moreover, even if, allegedly the said revised affidavit was filed before the Returning Officer prior to the commencement of scrutiny without obtaining a receipt and also knowing that the petitioner did not have a duly authenticated copy of the revised affidavit with him and yet the petitioner continued to participate in the scrutiny process on 28.10.2020 without raising any objection at the relevant and appropriate time was doing so at his own peril.

159. It will also be relevant to note that according to the petitioner, the scrutiny of his nomination paper was to be taken up last but in the interregnum the petitioner did not raise any objection in writing in respect of the non receipt of the second nomination or the revised affidavit and not even in respect of the deficiencies which were present in the affidavit of the other candidates in Form-26 and were illegally ignored and accepted by the Returning Officer.

160. Another aspect which can be discerned from the election petition is that the Returning Officer had passed the order rejecting the nomination form of the petitioner at about 07:49 PM on 28.10.2020 and the petitioner had escalated the matter by writing a letter to the Chief Election Commissioner on 30th of October, 2020 at New Delhi, a copy of which has been brought on record as Schedule-19 to the petition.

161. From the perusal of the said complaint, it would indicate that the subject has been mentioned as criminal conspiracy by the Returning Officer with a motive to help candidature of BSP in connivance with the other officials and a request to hold an inquiry in the criminal acts as well as hold the declaration of election outcome till completion of inquiry.

162. The said complaint as contained in Schedule 19 runs from Page 207 to 211 of the paper-book wherein much has been said regarding the conduct of the Returning Officer and allegations have been levelled indicating criminal conspiracy between the Returning Officer to help the BSP candidate.

163. From a perusal of the said complaint, it indicates that there is reference to certain enclosures, which is alleged to be attached with the said complaint as Annexure No. A to H. However, the said annexures have not been filed on record of this election petition along with the said complaint as contained in Schedule-19.

164. Apparently for the aforesaid reason, the said complaint cannot be said to be a true and a complete copy filed on record. It will also be relevant to point out that the contents of the said complaint as contained in Schedule-19 are at variance with the averments made in the election petition.

165. The relevant portion as contained in the complaint which has been brought on record as Schedule-19 are being reproduced hereinafter for ready reference:-

"It is to bring to your knowledge that after filling the two sets of nomination forms being S.N. 22 and 23 along with the affidavit with prescribed security money, receipts of the nomination forms and deposited amount of security money was not been provided by the RO in failure of his legal duties, in spite of repeated request at the time of submission. The subsequent facts proved that it was the deliberate act on part of the Returning Officer to cause actual predice to my right to contest elections and was a part of criminal conspiracy to affect the outcome of election.

On my forceful insistence to provide the receipt, the Returning Officer and his officials have asked me to sit back and told that they will provide after some time and and gave excuse that today is the last day of nomination and let the time limit be over to provide the receipt. As I did not have any other option, I waited for the same.

While I was waiting at Nomination Hall, the Returning Officer along with his associates stepped out from the nomination hall without either intimating me anything or giving me the receipt which, I was entitled to receive. I kept waiting in the nomination hall but no one has come with the copy of the receipts.

Thereafter I went to the office of the Principal Secretary of Vidhaan Sabha, where the Returning Officer with his associates were also sitting. Again I have asked to provide the receipts and then they assure that they will provide the receipt. I further waited for approximately an hour and left the Vidhan Sabha.

On the same day in the evening approximately between 7-7:15 p.m. I have received the call from the office of the Returning Officer. He asked me to meet at PATAL KARYALAYA of VIDHAN SABHA on the first floor. Approximately 7:30 pm when visited the Patal Karyalaya, the assistant of the Returning Officer provided me the copy of the receipt of the security deposit, certificate for receipt of oath receipt of green nomination paper and one checklist, but did not provide me the receipt of pink nomination paper in an attempt to defeat my right to contest election. On being asked about the receipt of the pink nomination form, he informed me that the same has been left with the Returning Officer and you will get the same tomorrow morning at 11a.m. at the time of scrutiny which is allotted to me.

Though the checklist he has directed to provide the revised affidavit with columns duly filled up before the commencement of scrutiny of nominations. As instructed by the Returning Officer we have submitted the revised affidavit before scrutiny. The original affidavit inadvertently did not have column 8 which was to be blank and in terms of check list we submitted the updated affidavit before the time.

Herewith attached the copy of the checklist as Annexure "C".

Again in the morning of 28th October 2020, I have asked the RO to provide the receipt of my pink nomination form. Then to my utter shock and surprise, he totally refused the same by falsely stating that I have submitted only one green nomination form thereby proving his ulterior intent to not issuing receipts at the time of receiving the documents. It is most pertinent to mention here that contrary to the Returning Officer statement, Annexure A & B referred herein above substantiate that the Applicant (Candidate) has submitted two sets of nomination paper one in pink and other in green. Thus it is clear from the annexures that the Returning Officer has knowingly and purposely removed my pink nomination form totally unbecoming duties of Returning Officer for free and Selections to give unlawful benefit to other candidate which is a criminal breach of trust and unfair practice by the government official who is bound by the law to ensure a free and fair election process. In this manner the entire election in issue became unfair. defeating the constitutional and statutory mandate calling for review on such actions.

Further I have also requested to initiate scrutiny of my nomination form. Then RO informed that the scrutiny will begin serial wise and my number is at last.

Around 2 p.m. the Returning Officer has called me to come forward for the scrutiny of my nomination form, then the BJP candidate, Mr. Hardwar Dubey and Mr. Lalji Verma, Proposer of BSP Candidate filed the written objection with respect to my nomination. Also one BJP minister Mr. Suresh Khanna and BSP General Secretary Mr. Satish Chandra Mishra continuously raised several objections verbally. At the time of scrutiny again I have asked for my pink nomination form, to which he again refused, for the unlawful benefit of the other candidate Then the Returning Officer provided me copies of the objections raised by the other candidate/proposer. The copy of said has been annexed ANNEXURE "D" and RO asked me to submit a reply by 4 p.m. The objections inter alia dealt with following issues:

a) It was alleged that one of the proposers in green form inadvertently mentioned Nawab Shah instead of Nawab Jan. It is submitted by us that in pink form the correct name Nawab Jan was mentioned which was erroneously mentioned as Nawab Shah in green form. It also came to our notice that in Part III of green form to be filled by RO, the name of candidate which RO noted as PRAKASH BAJPAI instead of the correct name as PRAKASH BAJAJ. The said act was not an inadvertent act of RO but a part of his criminal conspiracy as was clear from subsequent facts. The whole conspiracy of removing pink form and writing wrong name of candidate by RO in green form exposed the entire criminal conspiracy of RO. In spite of our request, we were not given the opportunity to rectify the name of proposer and our request to bring the proposer for physical verification was also not acceded by RO. In this manner our requests in terms of Representation of People Act was unlawfully not accepted by RO under intent of his criminal conspiracy. The copy of the relevant page of the pink and green form is attached as Annexure "E" and copy of the Part III of green form is attached as Annexure "F","

It was alleged that one column 8 in the affidavit which though being blank was not mentioned in the affidavit. The said objection was also frivolous as in terms of checklist I had filed updated affidavit having column 8;

The said objections apart from being frivolous instead of discharging their burden of proof towards validity of duly accepted nomination paper was hit by provisions of sections 33(4) of Representations of Peoples Act.

The said frivolous allegations were dealt with me in above said terms in my detailed reply wherein I had stated various citations to support my case. The my of my detailed reply is annexed as ANNEXURE "G".

In the light of the above mentioned facts it is clearly evident that Returning Officer has been involved in the criminal conspiracy to purposely reject the nomination form filled by me to extend the benefit to other candidate, which is clearly against the fair and transparent election procedure. The said fact makes the entire election unfair, defeating the constitutional mandates."

166. The said complaint states that the petitioner had filed a detailed reply to the objections filed by the candidates during scrutiny which also contained the citation. Moreover, noticing the reply which was filed by the petitioner, in response to the objections raised by Sri Haridwar Dubey and Lal Ji Verma which is on record as Schedule-16 and 17 respectively, it does not contain nor has any reference to any citation said to be filed by the election petitioner.

167. The replies which are contained in Schedule 16 and 17 and the compliant filed before the Election Commission of India contained in Schedule-19 again do not match and in absence of any reference to the citation which are not on record, it renders the said Schedule to be an incomplete copy. It is nowhere stated in the body of the election petition that the said annexures A to H which have been mentioned in the complaint contained in Schedule-19 are not being filed or that if filed, they are the same annexures which have been filed as Part of some other Schedule annexed with the election petition. It even does not indicate that the replies contained in Schedule 16 and 17 were accompanied by any annexure/citation, thus, there appears to be a mismatch as well as variance in the pleadings and the Schedule annexed and the petitioner appears to be taking a vacillating stand.

168. At this stage, the plea of the respondents No.1, 6 and 10 that they have not received a true copy as the affidavit filed in support of the election petition was not complete nor verified can also be considered.

169. However, this contention may not detain this Court for long as it would be seen that the petitioner has not annexed Annexures No.A to H with Schedule 19 which renders the petition as incomplete and not a true copy. Even if the objection raised by the respondents No.1, 6 and 10 regarding the affidavit in support of the election petition being incomplete is ignored yet the Schedule 19 being incomplete and not even a true copy placed before this Court for the reasons noticed in the previous paragraphs. Consequently, this Court finds that the petition suffers from the vice of non-compliance of Section 81(3) of RPA.

170. Now, coming back to the Form-26 i.e. the revised affidavit contained in Schedule-12 which as noticed in the preceding paragraphs is an incomplete and a bald copy and if it is seen in terms of Section 33(i) of RPA and Rule 4-A of the Rules of 1961, it will reveal that it was the bounden duty of the election petitioner to furnish a complete Form 2-C along with the affidavit in Form 26.

171. Insofar as the revised affidavit in Form-26 is concerned, the same had to be filed prior to the time of commencement of scrutiny but there is nothing on record to indicate that the said affidavit was actually signed by the petitioner and sworn before a Competent Notary, who notarized the same and it was filed before the Returning Officer before the appointed hour, either in pleadings or in any schedule annexed with the election petition.

172. It will be relevant to notice that the petitioner has sought to project that the nomination papers of the returned candidates has been illegally accepted, though, it also suffered from the same defects in respect of the affidavit in Form-26. However, this can only be seen once the petitioner first establishes and substantiates his own case and it is found that the petitioner is a duly nominated candidate meaning thereby that his Form 2-C and the affidavit in Form-26 was duly filled and completed, then he can claim to be duly nominated candidate.

173. The entire issue raised by the petitioner in the election petition revolves around the grounds of illegal rejection of nomination of the petitioner and illegal acceptance of nomination of the returned candidate.

174. It was essential for the petitioner to first establish prima-facie that he had filed a valid nomination and then the Court would consider the ground of illegal rejection of his nomination. To do so, the petitioner had to show that his nomination paper and affidavit in Form-26 was valid and as such for a valid cause of action, the petitioner ought to plead material facts in respect of the Form-2-C and the affidavit/revised affidavit in Form-26.

175. Material facts leading to a valid cause of action in this context would definitely require petitioner to plead and prima-facie establish that the revised affidavit was duly filed complete in all respects. Paragraph 70 of the election petition does not bear such material particulars in respect of the revised affidavit. If the petitioner would have pleaded the details regarding signing, swearing, verification, attestation and filing of the revised affidavit then the bald copy of the affidavit as contained in Schedule 12 could be co-related to come to prima-facie conclusion regarding the cause of action.

176. Alternatively, the petitioner could have filed the true copy of the duly signed, verified and attested affidavit complete in all respect as Schedule 12 and could have complemented the same by the averments in Paragraph 70 of the petition even then it could have given some assistance to co-relate and arrive at a conclusion regarding a valid cause of action. However, neither the details are mentioned in Paragraph 70 nor they can be ascertained from perusing Schedule 12.

177. In this view of the matter, there does not appear to be clear material facts pleaded to connect the pleadings and the Schedule 12 to form a valid cause of action in respect of the petitioner being a duly nominated candidate.

178. In absence of such material particulars, the cause of action also looses its steam as the alleged affidavit contained in Schedule 12, prima-facie cannot be treated to be an valid affidavit as required in terms of Rule 4-A of the Rules of 1961 especially when there is no signatures, seal of attestation, verification and signature of the notary.

179. One must remember that a litigant is not entitled to create an illusion of a cause of action by resorting to clever drafting. The cause of action must be clearly stated with material particulars and in this regard, this Court is reminded of the decision of the Apex Court in T. Arivandandam v. T.V. Satyapal and another, (1977) 4 SCC 467, wherein considering the question of Order VII Rule 11 CPC and its applicability, the Apex Court observed as under:-

"5. ... The learned Munsif must remember that if on a meaningful -- not formal -- reading of the plaint it is manifestly vexatious, and meritless, in the sense of not disclosing a clear right to sue, he should exercise his power under Order 7, Rule 11 CPC taking care to see that the ground mentioned therein is fulfilled. And, if clever drafting has created the illusion of a cause of action, nip it in the bud at the first hearing by examining the party searchingly under Order 10, CPC. An activist Judge is the answer to irresponsible law suits. The trial courts would insist imperatively on examining the party at the first hearing so that bogus litigation can be shot down at the earliest stage."

E. CONCLUSION:-

180. At this stage, this Court finds that there is conspicuous absence of material facts in respect of the cause of action relating to the fact of filing of a valid affidavit in Form-26. This necessarily leads to infer from a meaningful reading of the petition that the revised affidavit as brought on record is bereft of material particulars so also the pleadings in co-relation to it which creates a lacuna in the cause of action.

181. In light of the detailed discussions hereinabove, the irresistible conclusion is that the revised affidavit as annexed to the election petition is not as per norms and the initial affidavit was defective which rendered the nomination of the petitioner invalid. The petitioner is not a duly nominated candidate nor can he claim to be a duly nominated candidate at an election, hence, it creates an insurmountable hurdle for the petitioner to maintain this petition.

182. For the foregoing reasons, this Court has no hesitation to hold that the challenge raised by the respondents to the election petition must succeed and the election petitioner not being a duly nominated candidate is not entitled to maintain the election petition. Ergo, the election petition is dismissed in exercise of powers under Order VII Rule 11 CPC, with no order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is a claimants' appeal, seeking enhancement of the compensation awarded by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal.

2. On 18th of September, 2007, Ramasrey, a resident of Village Jamhoura, Post Sikandrabad, Police Station Neemgaon, District Lakhimpur Kheri, had gone to the north of his village in the fields, to answer the call of nature. While returning home at 7:30 p.m. on the Sitapur-Lakhimpur Road, as he reached the culvert near Village Jamhoura, a U.P. Roadways bus bearing Registration No. UP-25G-9999, that was driven at a high speed and negligently, hit him head-on. He was grievously injured and conveyed by the members of his family to the District Hospital, Lakhimpur Kheri, where during treatment, he breathed his last. At the time of his demise, Ramasrey was aged about 48 years. He was engaged in agriculture as well as supply of milk. He had a monthly income of Rs.7,000/-. In future, this income was expected to go double as per his dependents' claim. He left behind his widow, Smt. Bhagauta Devi, besides three sons as his dependents.

3. The claimants petitioned the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Lakhimpur Kheri seeking compensation in the sum of Rs. 20 lakhs. The claim petition was numbered as Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 207 of 2007 on the file of the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/ District Judge, Lakhimpur Kheri.

4. A written statement was filed on behalf of the Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation (for short, 'the Corporation), who denied the accident. They said that the bus in question, on the date of accident, was plying on the Sitapur-Gola Road. The bus was operated according to rules. It had all the necessary papers, such as the Registration Certificate, Road Tax Payment Certificate and Fitness Certificate. The driver had a valid and effective driving licence.

5. On the issue relating to the factum of accident involving the Corporation's bus, the Tribunal held that it was the Corporation's bus that was responsible for causing the accident, as it was driven negligently and at a high speed in the manner alleged by the claimants. The driving licence of the driver operating the bus was found valid and effective as also the other papers. There is just one remark by the Tribunal in its finding on the second issue that the route permit was not produced.

6. Before this Court, the issue is about the compensation, that is payable to the claimants, who are in appeal. The Tribunal, by the judgment impugned, has awarded the claimants compensation in the sum of Rs.1,48,670/- together with interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of order until realization. Out of the compensation payable, a two-thirds has been directed to be paid to the widow and one-third, in equal share, to the three sons of the deceased.

7. Dissatisfied by the quantum of compensation awarded by the Tribunal, the claimants have preferred the instant appeal.

8. Heard Mr. Ashish Kumar Pandey, learned Counsel for the appellant-claimants and Mr. Prabhakar Tiwari, learned Counsel for the Corporation.

9. The Tribunal has proceeded to work out the compensation on the basis that there was no proof that the deceased had a monthly income of Rs. 7000/-, and, therefore, his income would be reckoned on the daily-wage payable to an unskilled casual labourer, contemporaneous in time. The daily-wage of a casual labourer has been determined by the Tribunal at a figure of Rs. 60/- per day, which would lead to an annual income of Rs. 21,600/-. The Tribunal has made a deduction of Rs. 600/- for the fact that a daily-wager/casual labourer would not earn throughout the year. Thus, annual income of the deceased has been determined at a sum of Rs. 21,000/-.

10. There is no written certification of the deceased's age and, therefore, parole evidence, medical estimation and other circumstances have been taken into consideration by the Tribunal to arrive at a conclusion that the deceased was aged about 50 years. He has been placed in the age bracket of 50-55 years for the purpose of adopting a multiplier. A multiplier of '11' has been adopted. Thus, to the annual income of Rs. 20,000/-, a multiplier of "11' was applied to arrive at a total income of Rs. 2,20,000/-. A deduction of one-third towards personal expenses has been made in order to workout the dependency. The dependency has been calculated at a figure of Rs.1,46,670/-. To this, a sum of Rs.2000/- has been added on account of money spent on the funeral. It is, thus, that a compensation of Rs.1,48,670/- has been awarded by the Tribunal.

11. The learned Counsel for the claimants has argued that the daily-wages of a casual labourer fixed at a figure of Rs. 60/- is abysmally low. At the relevant time, the minimum wages fixed by the Government were Rs. 100/- per day. The applicable multiplier and the deduction made towards personal expenses too have been criticized as unlawfully disadvantageous to the claimants. It is also argued that nothing has been awarded towards future prospects or loss of estate and loss of consortium.

12. On the other hand, the learned Counsel for the Corporation has supported the award, saying that it is just.

13. In the opinion of this Court, the edifice on which the compensation has been assessed, that is a daily-wage of Rs. 60/-, is unrealistic and abysmally low. At the relevant time, there is no dispute that the minimum wages payable to an unskilled casual labourer was Rs. 100/-. This Court, therefore, thinks that the award has to be determined based on a daily-wage of Rs. 100/-. Also, no deduction can be made for the intermittent employment that a casual labourer gets. Therefore, the daily income of the deceased has to be revised to the figure of Rs. 100/-. The monthly income would be Rs. 3000/- and the annual income Rs.36,000/-, instead of Rs.20,000/- determined by the Tribunal.

14. The age of the deceased, accepting that it was in the age bracket of 50-55, would not deprive the claimants of the accretion towards future prospects, going by the rule in National Insurance Company vs. Pranay Sethi and others, (2017) 16 SCC 680. The deceased being self-employed, there would be an addition to his income of 10%. However, in the State of Uttar Pradesh, determination of future prospects has to be done in accordance with Rule 220-A(3) of the Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles Rules, 1998 (for short, "the Rules of 1998') framed under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short, 'the Act of 1988'). These rules are to be applied in preference to the Rule in Pranay Sethi (supra) in view of the decision of the Supreme Court in New India Assurance Co. Ltd v. Urmila Shukla and others, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 822. Thus, going by Rule 220-A(3)(iii), the claimants would be entitled to add 20% to the deceased's monthly emoluments by way of future prospects.

15. So far as the multiplier is concerned, it has to be applied according to the table in Paragraph 42 of the judgment of the Supreme Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others v. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121. This has been approved by the Constitution Bench decision in Pranay Sethi and followed in United India Insurance Company Ltd. v. Satinder Kaur alias Satwinder Kaur and others, 2020 SCC OnLine SC 410. In Sarla Verma (supra), about the applicable multiplier, going by different age brackets for the deceased, it has been held:

"40. The multipliers indicated in Susamma Thomas [(1994) 2 SCC 176 : 1994 SCC (Cri) 335] , Trilok Chandra [(1996) 4 SCC 362] and Charlie [(2005) 10 SCC 720 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1657] (for claims under Section 166 of the MV Act) is given below in juxtaposition with the multiplier mentioned in the Second Schedule for claims under Section 163-A of the MV Act (with appropriate deceleration after 50 years):

Age of the deceased	Multiplier scale as envisaged in Susamma Thomas [(1994) 2 SCC 176 : 1994 SCC (Cri) 335]	Multiplier scale as adopted by Trilok Chandra [(1996) 4 SCC 362]	Multiplier scale in Trilok Chandra [(1996) 4 SCC 362] as clarified in Charlie [(2005) 10 SCC 720 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1657]	Multiplier specified in Second Column in the Table in Second Schedule to the MV Act	Multiplier actually used in Second Schedule to the MV Act (as seen from the quantum of compensation)

'(1)	'(2)	'(3)	'(4)	'(5)	'(6)
Up to 15 yrs	-	-	-	15	20
15 to 20 yrs	16	18	18	16	19
21 to 25 yrs	15	17	18	17	18
26 to 30 yrs	14	16	17	18	17
31 to 35 yrs	13	15	16	17	16
36 to 40 yrs	12	14	15	16	15
41 to 45 yrs	11	13	14	15	14
46 to 50 yrs	10	12	13	13	12
51 to 55 yrs	9	11	11	11	10
56 to 60 yrs	8	10	09	8	8
Above 65 yrs	5	05	05	5	5

41. Tribunals/courts adopt and apply different operative multipliers. Some follow the multiplier with reference to Susamma Thomas [(1994) 2 SCC 176 : 1994 SCC (Cri) 335] [set out in Column (2) of the table above]; some follow the multiplier with reference to Trilok Chandra [(1996) 4 SCC 362] , [set out in Column (3) of the table above]; some follow the multiplier with reference to Charlie [(2005) 10 SCC 720 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1657] [set out in Column (4) of the table above]; many follow the multiplier given in the second column of the table in the Second Schedule of the MV Act [extracted in Column (5) of the table above]; and some follow the multiplier actually adopted in the Second Schedule while calculating the quantum of compensation [set out in Column (6) of the table above]. For example if the deceased is aged 38 years, the multiplier would be 12 as per Susamma Thomas [(1994) 2 SCC 176 : 1994 SCC (Cri) 335] , 14 as per Trilok Chandra [(1996) 4 SCC 362] , 15 as per Charlie [(2005) 10 SCC 720 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1657] , or 16 as per the multiplier given in Column (2) of the Second Schedule to the MV Act or 15 as per the multiplier actually adopted in the Second Schedule to the MV Act. Some tribunals, as in this case, apply the multiplier of 22 by taking the balance years of service with reference to the retiring age. It is necessary to avoid this kind of inconsistency. We are concerned with cases falling under Section 166 and not under Section 163-A of the MV Act. In cases falling under Section 166 of the MV Act, Davies method [Davies v. Powell Duffryn Associated Collieries Ltd., 1942 AC 601 : (1942) 1 All ER 657 (HL)] is applicable.

42. We therefore hold that the multiplier to be used should be as mentioned in Column (4) of the table above (prepared by applying Susamma Thomas [(1994) 2 SCC 176 : 1994 SCC (Cri) 335] , Trilok Chandra [(1996) 4 SCC 362] and Charlie [(2005) 10 SCC 720 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1657]), which starts with an operative multiplier of 18 (for the age groups of 15 to 20 and 21 to 25 years), reduced by one unit for every five years, that is M-17 for 26 to 30 years, M-16 for 31 to 35 years, M-15 for 36 to 40 years, M-14 for 41 to 45 years, and M-13 for 46 to 50 years, then reduced by two units for every five years, that is, M-11 for 51 to 55 years,

M-9 for 56 to 60 years, M-7 for 61 to 65 years and M-5 for 66 to 70 years."

16. Here, the Tribunal has placed the deceased in the age bracket of 50-55 years. There are two age brackets in Paragraph 42 of the decision in Sarla Verma, under which the deceased could, therefore, be placed. One is 46-50 years and the other, 51-55 years. There is no age bracket of 50-55 years in Sarla Verma. Considering that the Act of 1988 is a beneficial legislation, any doubt about an applicable principle that governs compensation must be construed in favour of the claimants. Here, what is all the more relevant is that according to medical opinion, in the absence of any written certification of age, the deceased has been estimated to be aged 50 years. This is indicated in the autopsy report. Therefore, in the opinion of this Court, the deceased ought to be placed in the age group of 46-50 years for the purpose of adopting the applicable multiplier. For the age bracket of 46-50, the applicable multiplier is '13'. Therefore, the claimants are entitled to determination of compensation by an application of the multiplier of '13'; not '11'.

17. Going by the number of dependents that the deceased left behind, that is to say, the claimants, deduction of one-third towards personal and living expenses ordered by the Tribunal is unexceptionable. This accords with Rule 220-A(2) of the Rules of 1998 as well as the principle laid down in Sarla Verma. However, the Tribunal has certainly gone wrong in not awarding anything by way of compensation for the loss of estate and the loss of consortium. The principle regarding compensation under the conventional heads has been authoritatively considered and laid down by the Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi thus :

"48. This aspect needs to be clarified and appositely stated. The conventional sum has been provided in the Second Schedule to the Act. The said Schedule has been found to be defective as stated by the Court in Trilok Chandra [UP SRTC v. Trilok Chandra, (1996) 4 SCC 362] . Recently, in Puttamma v. K.L. Narayana Reddy [Puttamma v.K.L. Narayana Reddy, (2013) 15 SCC 45 : (2014) 4 SCC (Civ) 384 : (2014) 3 SCC (Cri) 574] it has been reiterated by stating : (SCC p. 80, para 54)

"54. ... we hold that the Second Schedule as was enacted in 1994 has now become redundant, irrational and unworkable due to changed scenario including the present cost of living and current rate of inflation and increased life expectancy."

49. As far as multiplier or multiplicand is concerned, the same has been put to rest by the judgments of this Court. Para 3 of the Second Schedule also provides for general damages in case of death. It is as follows:

"3. General damages (in case of death):

The following general damages shall be payable in addition to compensation outlined above:

(i)	Funeral expenses	Rs 2000
(ii)	Loss of consortium, if beneficiary is the spouse	Rs 5000
(iii)	Loss of estate	Rs 2500
(iv)	Medical expenses -- actual expenses incurred before death supported by bills/vouchers but not exceeding	Rs 15,000 "

50. On a perusal of various decisions of this Court, it is manifest that the Second

Schedule has not been followed starting from the decision in Trilok Chandra [UP SRTC v.Trilok Chandra, (1996) 4 SCC 362] and there has been no amendment to the same. The conventional damage amount needs to be appositely determined. As we notice, in different cases different amounts have been granted. A sum of Rs 1,00,000 was granted towards consortium inRajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] . The justification for grant of consortium, as we find fromRajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] , is founded on the observation as we have reproduced hereinbefore.

51. On the aforesaid basis, the Court has revisited the practice of awarding compensation under conventional heads.

52. As far as the conventional heads are concerned, we find it difficult to agree with the view expressed in Rajesh[Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] . It has granted Rs 25,000 towards funeral expenses, Rs 1,00,000 towards loss of consortium and Rs 1,00,000 towards loss of care and guidance for minor children. The head relating to loss of care and minor children does not exist. ThoughRajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] refers to Santosh Devi [Santosh Devi v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., (2012) 6 SCC 421 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 726 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 160 : (2012) 2 SCC (L&S) 167] , it does not seem to follow the same. The conventional and traditional heads, needless to say, cannot be determined on percentage basis because that would not be an acceptable criterion. Unlike determination of income, the said heads have to be quantified. Any quantification must have a reasonable foundation. There can be no dispute over the fact that price index, fall in bank interest, escalation of rates in many a field have to be noticed. The court cannot remain oblivious to the same. There has been a thumb rule in this aspect. Otherwise, there will be extreme difficulty in determination of the same and unless the thumb rule is applied, there will be immense variation lacking any kind of consistency as a consequence of which, the orders passed by the tribunals and courts are likely to be unguided. Therefore, we think it seemly to fix reasonable sums. It seems to us that reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs 15,000, Rs 40,000 and Rs 15,000 respectively. The principle of revisiting the said heads is an acceptable principle. But the revisit should not be fact-centric or quantum-centric. We think that it would be condign that the amount that we have quantified should be enhanced on percentage basis in every three years and the enhancement should be at the rate of 10% in a span of three years. We are disposed to hold so because that will bring in consistency in respect of those heads."

(emphasis by Court)

18. The award of compensation under the conventional heads, particularly for the loss of consortium, subsequently received the consideration of the Supreme Court in Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. v. Nanu Ram alias Chuhru Ram and others, (2018) 18 SCC 130. In Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. (supra), it has been held:

"21. A Constitution Bench of this Court in Pranay Sethi[National Insurance

Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] dealt with the various heads under which compensation is to be awarded in a death case. One of these heads is loss of consortium. In legal parlance, "consortium" is a compendious term which encompasses "spousal consortium", "parental consortium", and "filial consortium". The right to consortium would include the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, solace and affection of the deceased, which is a loss to his family. With respect to a spouse, it would include sexual relations with the deceased spouse : [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149]

21.2. Parental consortium is granted to the child upon the premature death of a parent, for loss of "parental aid, protection, affection, society, discipline, guidance and training".

21.3. Filial consortium is the right of the parents to compensation in the case of an accidental death of a child. An accident leading to the death of a child causes great shock and agony to the parents and family of the deceased. The greatest agony for a parent is to lose their child during their lifetime. Children are valued for their love, affection, companionship and their role in the family unit.

22. Consortium is a special prism reflecting changing norms about the status and worth of actual relationships. Modern jurisdictions world-over have recognised that the value of a child's consortium far exceeds the economic value of the compensation awarded in the case of the death of a child. Most jurisdictions therefore permit parents to be awarded compensation under loss of consortium on the death of a child. The amount awarded to the parents is a compensation for loss of the love, affection, care and companionship of the deceased child.

23. The Motor Vehicles Act is a beneficial legislation aimed at providing relief to the victims or their families, in cases of genuine claims. In case where a parent has lost their minor child, or unmarried son or daughter, the parents are entitled to be awarded loss of consortium under the head of filial consortium. Parental consortium is awarded to children who lose their parents in motor vehicle accidents under the Act. A few High Courts have awarded compensation on this count [Rajasthan High Court in Jagmala Ram v. Sohi Ram, 2017 SCC OnLine Raj 3848 : (2017) 4 RLW 3368; Uttarakhand High Court in Rita Rana v. Pradeep Kumar, 2013 SCC OnLine Utt 2435 : (2014) 3 UC 1687; Karnataka High Court in Lakshman v. Susheela Chand Choudhary, 1996 SCC OnLine Kar 74 : (1996) 3 Kant LJ 570] . However, there was no clarity with respect to the principles on which compensation could be awarded on loss of filial consortium.

24. The amount of compensation to be awarded as consortium will be governed by the principles of awarding compensation under "loss of consortium" as laid down inPranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] . In the present case, we deem it appropriate to award the father and the sister of the deceased, an amount of Rs 40,000 each for loss of filial consortium."

19. The award under the conventional heads being provided on a dynamic scale and more to the advantage of the claimants in Pranay Sethi, as compared to Rule 220-A(4) of the 1998 Rules, the principle in the former would govern the award of compensation under the conventional heads.

20. There is one facet of the matter, which requires some further consideration, and that is about the award of compensation for the loss of consortium to the children. Here, all the three children are adults, with Mohan Lal being an all of 26 years, Shri Chandra 24 years and Prem Prakash 22 years, when the cause of action arose. In case of children, who are adults, compensation for the loss of parental consortium would not be their entitlement. The adult children would not be entitled to parental consortium, as held by me in Jiuti Devi and others vs. Manoj Kumar Rai and others, 2022 SCC OnLine All 46.

21. Thus, in the opinion of this Court, under the conventional head of compensation for the loss of consortium, the claimant, Smt. Bhagauta Devi would alone be entitled. She would be entitled to spousal consortium in the sum of Rs. 40,000/-. However, for the loss of estate, the claimants would be entitled to Rs. 15,000/- and likewise, for the funeral expenses, a sum of Rs. 15,000/-. The impugned award passed by the Tribunal has, therefore, to be modified and compensation re-determined as follows :

(iii) Annual Income (of the deceased) = 3600 x 12 = 43,200/-

(iv)Annual Dependency = Annual Income - one-third deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased = 43,200 - 14,400 = 28,800/-

(iv) Total Dependency = Annual Dependency x Applied Multiplier = 28,800 x 13 = 3,74,400/-

(v)Claimants' entitlement towards conventional heads = Loss of Estate + Funeral Expenses + dependent's Consortium = 15,000 + 15,000 + 40,000 = 70,000/-

The total claim of compensation would, therefore, work out to a figure of Rs.3,74,400 + Rs.70,000 = 4,44,400/-

22. The aforesaid sum of money would carry simple interest @ 7% per annum in accordance with Rule 220-A of the Rules of 1998 from the date of institution of claim petition until realization. However, the sum of money already deposited (paid or invested in terms of the impugned award or interim order of this Court) shall be adjusted.

23. In the result, this appeal succeeds and is allowed with costs throughout. The impugned award is modified and the compensation stands enhanced to a sum of Rs. 4,44,400/- (Rupees Four Lac Forty Four Thousand Four Hundred only). The said sum of money shall be payable by the Corporation. The claimants shall be entitled to simple interest @ 7% on the sum of compensation awarded from the date of institution of the claim petition until realization. The inter se apportionment of compensation and the other directions made by the Tribunal shall remain intact.

This judgment will dispose of the present appeal and connected Appeal Nos. 867 of 2011, 868 of 2011, 869 of 2011, 870 of 2011 and 871 of 2011.

2. This appeal arises out of a judgment and award of Mr. Balendu Singh, Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No. 1, Lucknow dated 26.10.2010 passed in Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 141 of 2005.

3. The appeal has been preferred by the claimants, who seek enhancement of the compensation awarded by the Tribunal. The claimants are the dependents of one Keshan (Krishna), who died in a motor accident on March the 8th, 2005 at about 5 O' Clock in the morning at a place beyond Bhitariya near Badaila-Narayanpur Chauraha, falling within the local limits of P.S. Ramsanehi Ghat in the District of Barabanki. According to the claimants, the deceased had boarded a tractor trolley, bearing Registration No. U.P. 78 A-9585, along with other natives of the village to do darshan of Mahadeva at Barabanki. On way to destination on the date, time and place indicated, the passengers on board the tractor trolley got down to answer the nature's call, the tractor trolley being parked on the left hand side of the road. Some passengers proceeded to the nearby fields and some stayed on board. There were still others, who de-boarded, but stood about the parked vehicle. At that time, a DCM truck bearing Registration No. U.P. 78 AN 4185, proceeding from the opposite direction, driven rashly and negligently, hit the stationary tractor trolley. The right side of the tractor trolley was damaged. In consequence of the accident, the deceased suffered serious injuries, of which he died.

4. A first information report of the accident was lodged with the Police by one Krishna Pal Singh, a passenger on board the ill-fated tractor trolley, on 8th March, 2005 at about 05:45 a.m. The information was registered as Case Crime No. 106 of 2005, under Sections 279, 304-A, 427 IPC, P.S. Ramsanehi Ghat, District Barabanki against the unknown driver of the DCM truck. This was so because after the accident, the offending truck was apprehended but the driver made good his escape. The inquest and autopsy of the dead body was done in accordance with law and the Police, after investigation, filed a charge-sheet against the driver of the offending vehicle, Suresh Kumar Mishra. The Police, as part of the case diary, also drew up a site plan of the accident.

5. Besides MACP No. 141 of 2005 giving rise to the present appeal, MACP Nos. 142 of 2005 to 146 of 2005 were filed by the dependents of the other deceased-victims of the aforesaid accident. All the claim petitions were tried together and decided by separate judgments and awards, all dated 26.10.2010 passed by the same Tribunal. The connected Appeal Nos. 867 of 2011 to 871 of 2011 arise out of the judgments and awards passed in the claim petitions instituted by the dependents of the other victims of the accident. Since common questions of fact and law arise in all the appeals, these were connected, heard together and are being decided by a common judgment, as already said. FAFO No. 866 of 2011 shall be treated as the leading case. However, the distinguishing features of each case in the matter of determining the compensation shall be indicated during the course of this judgment.

6. Heard Mr. Balendu Shekhar, learned counsel for the appellants and Mr. Anil Srivastava, learned counsel for respondent no. 2, United India Insurance Company Ltd. in the leading case and in all connected appeals, where parties are identically arrayed. The appellants shall hereinafter be referred to as the "claimants', whereas the United India Insurance Company-respondent no. 2 shall be called the "Insurance Company'. In the claim petition giving rise to the leading appeal, the owner of the offending truck, Anil Awasthi was arrayed as opposite party no. 1. Anil Awasthi, the owner of the vehicle shall hereinafter be referred to as the "owner'.

7. A written statement was filed on behalf of the owner, who has generally denied the case in the claim petition in almost evasive terms, but pleaded that the offending vehicle was in his registered ownership and that it was duly insured with the Insurance Company. It was not seriously pleaded that the offending vehicle was not involved in the accident but a clear case was set up that the liability, if any, adjudged by the Tribunal would fall on the shoulders of the Insurance Company. A separate written statement was filed on behalf of the Insurance Company, which wholesomely and specifically denied the case in the claim petition - the factum of accident and their liability under the law to indemnify. Defences of fact and law were raised by the Insurance Company, including those regarding the validity of the driver's licence on the date of accident, as also the validity of the offending vehicle's permit, registration papers and fitness certificate. The following issues were framed by the Tribunal in the claim petition giving rise to the leading appeal (translated from Hindi into English):-

(1) Whether on 08.03.2005 at 05:00 O' Clock in the morning at a place ahead of Bhitariya near Badaila-Narayanpur Crossing within the local limits of P.S. Ramsanehi Ghat, District Barabanki, the driver of truck DCM No. U.P. 78 AN 4185, driving it rashly and negligently, hit the stationary tractor trolley, leading to severe injuries suffered by Keshan (Krishna), who was standing near it and in consequence whereof he died?

(2) Whether at the time of accident, the driver of truck DCM No. U.P. 78 AN 4185 had a valid and effective driving licence?

(3) Whether at the time of accident, truck DCM No. U.P. 78 AN 4185 was insured with opposite party no. 2, United India Insurance Company Ltd. and driven according to the conditions of the policy?

(4) Whether the accident occurred on account of contributory negligence of the driver of the DCM truck and that of the tractor?

(5) Are the claimants entitled to any relief? If yes, to what sum of money and from which opposite party?

8. The claimants in all the appeals filed copies of the FIR, relative inquests, the postmortem reports, copy of the charge sheet filed against the driver of the offending vehicle and the site plan. Besides these documents, copies of the insurance cover/policy, the registration certificate, additional tax receipt relating to the offending vehicle and the driving licence of the driver thereof were all filed by Anil Awasthi, the owner.

9. PW-1 Bhaiya Lal was examined to prove the occupation, age and monthly income of the deceased, whereas PW-2 Sumat Lal was examined to prove the factum of accident. Sumat Lal is an eye witness and was a passenger on board the ill-fated tractor trolley. No oral evidence was admittedly led on behalf of the Insurance Company or the owner of the offending vehicle. It must be remarked here that in all the connected appeals, there are identical issues and similar evidence recorded, where Sumat Lal is a common witness about the accident. PW-1 differs in each case and is either the father or the son of the deceased concerned, examined to prove the occupation, age, income and other relevant facts about the deceased, necessary to work out the dependency.

10. Issue nos. 2 and 3 regarding the validity of the driving license and the insurance cover were not pressed by the insurance company at the hearing of the claim petition. Issue nos. 1 and 4 were answered in favour of claimants and against the Insurance Company. A sum of Rs. 4,41,500/- was awarded in favour of the claimant in the leading appeal with simple interest @ 6% per annum from the date of institution of the claim petition and compensation directed to be paid within 30 days of the date of award. In the event of default, the Tribunal directed 9% simple interest per annum to be paid to the claimants. There are some ancillary directions in the award as regards the inter se share of the claimants, besides its investment with a nationalized bank in an interest bearing account for a period of five years.

11. In all other appeals, different sums of money towards compensation have been awarded to the respective claimants. In all cases, the liability has been fastened upon the Insurance Company to satisfy the award. The claimants are disillusioned by the quantum of compensation awarded and have, therefore, appealed. No cross appeal has been preferred on behalf of the Insurance Company. In the present appeal and the connected appeals, there appears to be no issue about the factum of negligence, the accident, the contributory negligence or the liability of the Insurance Company. The only issue that arises for consideration in the leading appeal, as well as connected appeals, is about the quantum of compensation to which the claimants are entitled.

12. Learned counsel for the claimants, Mr. Balendu Shekhar has assailed the award, saying that compensation is far from adequate. It is, according to Mr. Shekhar, not a just award. He has particularly emphasized that the future prospects of the deceased have not at all been taken into consideration by the Tribunal and a deduction of 1/3rd has been made in each case towards personal expenses without reference to the number of dependents. He has also assailed the award for the quantum of compensation under the conventional heads of consortium, loss of estate and funeral expenses. Learned counsel for the claimants in support of his contention on the above score has placed reliance upon the decision of the Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in National Insurance Company v. Pranay Sethi and others, (2017) 16 SCC 680.

13. Mr. Anil Srivastava, learned counsel for the Insurance Company, on the other hand, has supported the award saying that just compensation has been ordered.

14. It would now be apposite to deal with the facts of each of the appeals, commencing with the leading case, in order to determine the validity of the award vis-a-vis the compensation awarded.

15. In the leading case, the deceased Keshan alias Krishna is survived by five dependents, to wit, his widow Smt. Shanti, two minor children, a son named Sumer and a daughter Km. Manisha aged 4 years and 6 months, respectively at the time the cause of action arose. Bhaiya Lal and Smt. Devrati, are the deceased's father and mother, respectively. The deceased's widow was aged 23 years, his father, 55 and mother 48. The deceased was aged 25 years. The deceased was a labourer and the Tribunal, going by the rate of daily-wages earned at the relevant time, determined the deceased's income at a figure of Rs. 3000/- as against Rs. 4000/- claimed. A deduction of 1/3rd was ordered towards the money that the deceased would spend on himself. The annual dependency was determined at a sum of Rs. 24,000/- and applying the multiplier of 18, the Tribunal worked out the substantive compensation in the sum of Rs. 4,32,000/- (other than conventional heads). Under the conventional heads a sum of Rs. 5000/- was awarded to the widow towards loss of consortium, Rs. 2000/- towards funeral expenses and Rs. 2500/- towards loss of estate. Thus, the total compensation worked out is a figure of Rs.4,41,500/-.

16. Considering the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties, there are three points on which the awarded compensation requires scrutiny and a just award made. It is to be seen whether the Tribunal was right in denying any compensation towards future prospects and that if the Tribunal was right in directing a deduction of 1/3rd of the deceased's income, given the number of his family members. It is also to be seen whether the award of compensation under the conventional heads is in accordance with law. The law regarding future prospects was summarized by the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi (supra), where it is held:

"56. The seminal issue is the fixation of future prospects in cases of deceased who are self-employed or on a fixed salary. Sarla Verma [Sarla Verma v. DTC, (2009) 6 SCC 121 : (2009) 2 SCC (Civ) 770 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1002] has carved out an exception permitting the claimants to bring materials on record to get the benefit of addition of future prospects. It has not, per se, allowed any future prospects in respect of the said category.

57. Having bestowed our anxious consideration, we are disposed to think when we accept the principle of standardisation, there is really no rationale not to apply the said principle to the self-employed or a person who is on a fixed salary. To follow the doctrine of actual income at the time of death and not to add any amount with regard to future prospects to the income for the purpose of determination of multiplicand would be unjust. The determination of income while computing compensation has to include future prospects so that the method will come within the ambit and sweep of just compensation as postulated under Section 168 of the Act. In case of a deceased who had held a permanent job with inbuilt grant of annual increment, there is an acceptable certainty. But to state that the legal representatives of a deceased who was on a fixed salary would not be entitled to the benefit of future prospects for the purpose of computation of compensation would be inapposite. It is because the criterion of distinction between the two in that event would be certainty on the one hand and staticness on the other. One may perceive that the comparative measure is certainty on the one hand and uncertainty on the other but such a perception is fallacious. It is because the price rise does affect a self-employed person; and that apart there is always an incessant effort to enhance one's income for sustenance. The purchasing capacity of a salaried person on permanent job when increases because of grant of increments and pay revision or for some other change in service conditions, there is always a competing attitude in the private sector to enhance the salary to get better efficiency from the employees. Similarly, a person who is self-employed is bound to garner his resources and raise his charges/fees so that he can live with same facilities. To have the perception that he is likely to remain static and his income to remain stagnant is contrary to the fundamental concept of human attitude which always intends to live with dynamism and move and change with the time. Though it may seem appropriate that there cannot be certainty in addition of future prospects to the existing income unlike in the case of a person having a permanent job, yet the said perception does not really deserve acceptance. We are inclined to think that there can be some degree of difference as regards the percentage that is meant for or applied to in respect of the legal representatives who claim on behalf of the deceased who had a permanent job than a person who is self-employed or on a fixed salary. But not to apply the principle of standardisation on the foundation of perceived lack of certainty would tantamount to remaining oblivious to the marrows of ground reality. And, therefore, degree-test is imperative. Unless the degree-test is applied and left to the parties to adduce evidence to establish, it would be unfair and inequitable. The degree-test has to have the inbuilt concept of percentage. Taking into consideration the cumulative factors, namely, passage of time, the changing society, escalation of price, the change in price index, the human attitude to follow a particular pattern of life, etc., an addition of 40% of the established income of the deceased towards future prospects and where the deceased was below 40 years an addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years would be reasonable.

58. The controversy does not end here. The question still remains whether there should be no addition where the age of the deceased is more than 50 years. Sarla Verma [Sarla Verma v. DTC, (2009) 6 SCC 121 : (2009) 2 SCC (Civ) 770 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1002] thinks it appropriate not to add any amount and the same has been approved inReshma Kumari [Reshma Kumari v. Madan Mohan, (2013) 9 SCC 65 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 191 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 826] . Judicial notice can be taken of the fact that salary does not remain the same. When a person is in a permanent job, there is always an enhancement due to one reason or the other. To lay down as a thumb rule that there will be no addition after 50 years will be an unacceptable concept. We are disposed to think, there should be an addition of 15% if the deceased is between the age of 50 to 60 years and there should be no addition thereafter. Similarly, in case of self-employed or person on fixed salary, the addition should be 10% between the age of 50 to 60 years. The aforesaid yardstick has been fixed so that there can be consistency in the approach by the tribunals and the courts."

17. The question whether future prospects are to be awarded in accordance with the principle laid down in Pranay Sethi or Rule 220-A(3) of the Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles Rules, 1998 (for short, the Rules of 1998) fell for consideration of the Supreme Court in New India Assurance Co. Ltd v. Urmila Shukla and others, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 822. The said appeal arose out of a decision of this Court, and, therefore, there is not the slightest doubt that the principle there squarely applies to the determination of future prospects in the State of U.P. In Urmila Shukla (supra), the question that arose for consideration before their Lordships is set forth in paragraph no. 4 of the report. It reads:

"4. The basic ground of challenge by the appellant is that sub-rule 3(iii) of Rule 220A is contrary to the conclusions arrived at by the Constitution Bench of this Court in National Insurance Company Ltd v. Pranay Sethi reported in (2017) 16 SCC 680."

18. In the case of Urmila Shukla, it was held :

"9. It is to be noted that the validity of the Rules was not, in any way, questioned in the instant matter and thus the only question that we are called upon to consider is whether in its application, sub-Rule 3(iii) of Rule 220A of the Rules must be given restricted scope or it must be allowed to operate fully.

10.The discussion on the point inPranay Sethiwas from the standpoint of arriving at "just compensation" in terms of Section 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

11.If an indicia is made available in the form of a statutory instrument which affords a favourable treatment, the decision inPranay Sethicannot be taken to have limited the operation of such statutory provision specially when the validity of the Rules was not put under any challenge. The prescription of 15% in cases where the deceased was in the age bracket of 50-60 years as stated inPranay Sethicannot be taken as maxima. In the absence of any governing principle available in the statutory regime, it was only in the form of an indication. If a statutory instrument has devised a formula which affords better or greater benefit, such statutory instrument must be allowed to operate unless the statutory instrument is otherwise found to be invalid.

12. We, therefore, reject the submission advanced on behalf of the appellant and affirm the view taken by the Tribunal as well as the High Court and dismiss this appeal without any order as to costs."

19. There is thus no cavil that in the State of U.P., so long as Rule 220-A(3) is on the statute-book, future prospects have to be determined according to the Rules of 1998 and not by the figures for determination thereof as laid down in Pranay Sethi.

20. There is one more question that arises for consideration. The question is whether Rule 220-A (3) of the Rules of 1998, that was inserted by Notification No. 777/XXX-4-2011-4(3)-2010 dated 26 September, 2011 (Eleventh Amendment) Rules, 2011, would apply retrospectively to an accident like the one here, that happened much prior to the introduction of Rule 220-A of the Rules of 1998. Here, the accident is one that took place on 08.03.2005. The said question fell for consideration before a Division Bench of this Court in F.A.F.O. No. 2581 of 2011, Sushil Kumar and others v. M/s. Sampark Lojastic Private Limited and others, decided on 26.04.2017. In Sushil Kumar (supra), it was held by their Lordships of the Division Bench :

"30. Rule 220-A was inserted in the Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles Rules, 1998 in view of the various decisions of the law courts for providing benefit on account of future prospects of the injured/deceased. It provides for addition of certain percentage of the income of the injured/deceased in his actual income depending upon the age of the injured/deceased for the purposes of determination of the compensation. The aforesaid Rule came into effect on 26.09.2011 after the decision of the claim petition but before filing of the appeal though the accident took place on 08.05.2010 much before the enforcement of the above Rule.

31. It is in view of the above that an argument is being raised that Rule 220-A of the Rules which came into effect on 26.09.2011 would not apply to the accident which had taken place on 08.05.2010.

32. In Ram Sarup Vs. Munshi AIR 1963 SC 553 it was laid down that a change in law during the pendency of an appeal has to be taken into account and will cover the rights of the parties.

33. The view expressed above was followed by the Supreme Court in Mula Vs. Godhu AIR 1971 SC 89.

34. In Dayawati Vs. Inderjit AIR 1966 SC 1423 the court had observed as under:- If the new law speaks in language, which expressly or by clear intendment, takes in even pending matters, the court of trial as well as the court of appeal must have regard to an intention so expressed, and the court of appeal may give effect to such a law even after the judgment of the court of first instance.

35. In Amarjit Kaur Vs. Pritam Singh AIR 1974 SC 2068 effect was given to the change in law during the pendency of an appeal as the hearing of an appeal under the procedural law of this country is in the nature of rehearing of the suit by superior court.

36. It was in the light of the above decisions that in Lakshmi Narayan Guin and others Vs. Niranjan Modak AIR 1985 SC 111 it was held that a change in law during the pendency of an appeal has to be taken into account and will cover the right of the parties.

37. The aforesaid decision was followed by a Division Bench of this court in U.P. State Road Transport Corporation Vs. Smt. Madhu Sharma and others, 2003 (4) AWC 2620 which was a case in relation to the provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act and it was observed that it is apparent that the change in law during the pendency of the original proceedings has to be taken into account so as to cover the rights of the parties.

38. In view of above decision the view expressed by the Division Bench of this court in ICICI Lombard (Supra) is not of good law as it does not takes into account the decisions referred to above in holding that the Rule 220-A of the Rules which came into effect on 26.09.2011 would not apply to the accident that took place prior to the said date only for the reason that the Rule was not specifically stated to be retrospective in nature."

21. Nothing has been brought to the notice of this Court that the decision of the Division Bench in Sushil Kumar has been expressly or impliedly overruled by a larger Bench or by their Lordships of the Supreme Court. The said decision still, therefore, continues to hold the field and is binding on this Court. Thus, there is no scope to doubt the principle relating to future prospects that are to be determined in accordance with Rule 220-A (3) of Rules of 1998.

22. It must also be remarked that for the same reason, whatever issues are governed by Rule 220-A would be dealt with according to its provisions and not in accordance with the decision in Pranay Sethi, insofar as the Rules of 1998 'afford better or greater benefit' to the claimants, to borrow the expression of their Lordships in Urmila Shukla.

23. Rule 220-A of the Rules of 1998 reads:

220-A. Determination of Compensation-

(1) X X X

(2) X X X

(3) The future prospects of a deceased, shall be added in the actual salary or minimum wages of the deceased as under-

(i)	Below 40 years of age	: 50% of the salary
(ii)	Between 40-50	: 30% of the years of age	salary

(iii)	More than 50 years :	20% of the salary
(iv)	When wages not sufficiently proved :	50% towards inflation and price index.

24. Going by the aforesaid position of law, it is evident that the deceased, a self-employed man well below the age of 40 years, would entitle his dependents, that is to say, the claimants, to add 50% to his income by way of future prospects.

25. Again, the deduction of that part of the deceased's income from the claimants dependency that he would have spent on himself, or so to speak, his personal expenses, in the opinion of this Court ought to be 1/4th, and not 1/3rd as directed by the Tribunal. This deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased is based on the decision of the Supreme Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121 that has been followed and approved by the Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi, and, later on, followed in United India Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Satinder Kaur alias Satwinder Kaur and others, 2020 SCC OnLine SC 410. In Sarla Verma (supra), it has been held :

"30. Though in some cases the deduction to be made towards personal and living expenses is calculated on the basis of units indicated in Trilok Chandra [(1996) 4 SCC 362], the general practice is to apply standardised deductions. Having considered several subsequent decisions of this Court, we are of the view that where the deceased was married, the deduction towards personal and living expenses of the deceased, should be one-third (1/3rd) where the number of dependent family members is 2 to 3, one-fourth (1/4th) where the number of dependent family members is 4 to 6, and one-fifth (1/5th) where the number of dependent family members exceeds six.

31. Where the deceased was a bachelor and the claimants are the parents, the deduction follows a different principle. In regard to bachelors, normally, 50% is deducted as personal and living expenses, because it is assumed that a bachelor would tend to spend more on himself. Even otherwise, there is also the possibility of his getting married in a short time, in which event the contribution to the parent(s) and siblings is likely to be cut drastically. Further, subject to evidence to the contrary, the father is likely to have his own income and will not be considered as a dependant and the mother alone will be considered as a dependant. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, brothers and sisters will not be considered as dependants, because they will either be independent and earning, or married, or be dependent on the father.

32. Thus even if the deceased is survived by parents and siblings, only the mother would be considered to be a dependant, and 50% would be treated as the personal and living expenses of the bachelor and 50% as the contribution to the family. However, where the family of the bachelor is large and dependent on the income of the deceased, as in a case where he has a widowed mother and large number of younger non-earning sisters or brothers, his personal and living expenses may be restricted to one-third and contribution to the family will be taken as two-third."

26. It must be noticed that the scale regarding deduction towards personal and living expenses of a married person under Rule 220-A(2)(ii) is also the same as in Sarla Verma.

27. This Court notices that the deceased has left behind five dependents, all of whom have claimed. There is no case that the deceased's parents were not dependent upon him. In usual circumstances, the father would have to be left out of the count of dependents assuming that he would have an income of his own, or else, the claimants would have to be burdened with the onus of producing evidence that he was dependent upon the deceased. Here, however, it is noticed that the father is 55 years old and the deceased was a labourer, a young man of 25 years, who was providing for the entire family. Considering the two minors to be a unit of one, the widow and the deceased's father and mother would make for a total of four dependents. In the circumstances, the number of the deceased's dependents are in the bracket of 4 to 6; to be precise 4. This would lead to the inevitable conclusion that the personal expense has to be fixed at a fraction of 1/4th, instead of 1/3rd, as directed by the Tribunal.

28. Again, so far as the conventional heads are concerned, this Court is of opinion that far less than what is to be awarded for the loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses has been directed by the Tribunal. Moreover, loss of consortium is not confined to the widow alone, but the parents too are entitled to be compensated for the loss of filial consortium. The two minor children are entitled to compensation on account of loss of parental consortium. In this regard, the holding of the Constitution Bench in Pranay Sethi is again of much relevance, where it is observed:

"48. This aspect needs to be clarified and appositely stated. The conventional sum has been provided in the Second Schedule to the Act. The said Schedule has been found to be defective as stated by the Court in Trilok Chandra [UP SRTC v. Trilok Chandra, (1996) 4 SCC 362] . Recently, in Puttamma v. K.L. Narayana Reddy [Puttamma v.K.L. Narayana Reddy, (2013) 15 SCC 45 : (2014) 4 SCC (Civ) 384 : (2014) 3 SCC (Cri) 574] it has been reiterated by stating : (SCC p. 80, para 54)

"54. ... we hold that the Second Schedule as was enacted in 1994 has now become redundant, irrational and unworkable due to changed scenario including the present cost of living and current rate of inflation and increased life expectancy."

49. As far as multiplier or multiplicand is concerned, the same has been put to rest by the judgments of this Court. Para 3 of the Second Schedule also provides for general damages in case of death. It is as follows:

"3. General damages (in case of death):

The following general damages shall be payable in addition to compensation outlined above:

(i)	Funeral expenses	Rs 2000
(ii)	Loss of consortium, if beneficiary is the spouse	Rs 5000
(iii)	Loss of estate	Rs 2500
(iv)	Medical expenses -- actual expenses incurred before death supported by bills/vouchers but not exceeding	Rs 15,000"

50. On a perusal of various decisions of this Court, it is manifest that the Second

Schedule has not been followed starting from the decision in Trilok Chandra [UP SRTC v.Trilok Chandra, (1996) 4 SCC 362] and there has been no amendment to the same. The conventional damage amount needs to be appositely determined. As we notice, in different cases different amounts have been granted. A sum of Rs 1,00,000 was granted towards consortium inRajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] . The justification for grant of consortium, as we find fromRajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] , is founded on the observation as we have reproduced hereinbefore.

51. On the aforesaid basis, the Court has revisited the practice of awarding compensation under conventional heads.

52. As far as the conventional heads are concerned, we find it difficult to agree with the view expressed in Rajesh[Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] . It has granted Rs 25,000 towards funeral expenses, Rs 1,00,000 towards loss of consortium and Rs 1,00,000 towards loss of care and guidance for minor children. The head relating to loss of care and minor children does not exist. ThoughRajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] refers to Santosh Devi [Santosh Devi v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., (2012) 6 SCC 421 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 726 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 160 : (2012) 2 SCC (L&S) 167] , it does not seem to follow the same. The conventional and traditional heads, needless to say, cannot be determined on percentage basis because that would not be an acceptable criterion. Unlike determination of income, the said heads have to be quantified. Any quantification must have a reasonable foundation. There can be no dispute over the fact that price index, fall in bank interest, escalation of rates in many a field have to be noticed. The court cannot remain oblivious to the same. There has been a thumb rule in this aspect. Otherwise, there will be extreme difficulty in determination of the same and unless the thumb rule is applied, there will be immense variation lacking any kind of consistency as a consequence of which, the orders passed by the tribunals and courts are likely to be unguided. Therefore, we think it seemly to fix reasonable sums. It seems to us that reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs 15,000, Rs 40,000 and Rs 15,000 respectively. The principle of revisiting the said heads is an acceptable principle. But the revisit should not be fact-centric or quantum-centric. We think that it would be condign that the amount that we have quantified should be enhanced on percentage basis in every three years and the enhancement should be at the rate of 10% in a span of three years. We are disposed to hold so because that will bring in consistency in respect of those heads."

(emphasis by Court)

29. The principles governing award of compensation under conventional heads, particularly with regard to award for loss of consortium, have been laid down by the Supreme Court in Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. v. Nanu Ram alias Chuhru Ram and others, (2018) 18 SCC 130. In Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. (supra), it has been held:

"21. A Constitution Bench of this Court in Pranay Sethi[National Insurance

Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] dealt with the various heads under which compensation is to be awarded in a death case. One of these heads is loss of consortium. In legal parlance, "consortium" is a compendious term which encompasses "spousal consortium", "parental consortium", and "filial consortium". The right to consortium would include the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, solace and affection of the deceased, which is a loss to his family. With respect to a spouse, it would include sexual relations with the deceased spouse : [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149]

21.2. Parental consortium is granted to the child upon the premature death of a parent, for loss of "parental aid, protection, affection, society, discipline, guidance and training".

21.3. Filial consortium is the right of the parents to compensation in the case of an accidental death of a child. An accident leading to the death of a child causes great shock and agony to the parents and family of the deceased. The greatest agony for a parent is to lose their child during their lifetime. Children are valued for their love, affection, companionship and their role in the family unit.

22. Consortium is a special prism reflecting changing norms about the status and worth of actual relationships. Modern jurisdictions world-over have recognised that the value of a child's consortium far exceeds the economic value of the compensation awarded in the case of the death of a child. Most jurisdictions therefore permit parents to be awarded compensation under loss of consortium on the death of a child. The amount awarded to the parents is a compensation for loss of the love, affection, care and companionship of the deceased child.

23. The Motor Vehicles Act is a beneficial legislation aimed at providing relief to the victims or their families, in cases of genuine claims. In case where a parent has lost their minor child, or unmarried son or daughter, the parents are entitled to be awarded loss of consortium under the head of filial consortium. Parental consortium is awarded to children who lose their parents in motor vehicle accidents under the Act. A few High Courts have awarded compensation on this count [Rajasthan High Court in Jagmala Ram v. Sohi Ram, 2017 SCC OnLine Raj 3848 : (2017) 4 RLW 3368; Uttarakhand High Court in Rita Rana v. Pradeep Kumar, 2013 SCC OnLine Utt 2435 : (2014) 3 UC 1687; Karnataka High Court in Lakshman v. Susheela Chand Choudhary, 1996 SCC OnLine Kar 74 : (1996) 3 Kant LJ 570] . However, there was no clarity with respect to the principles on which compensation could be awarded on loss of filial consortium.

24. The amount of compensation to be awarded as consortium will be governed by the principles of awarding compensation under "loss of consortium" as laid down inPranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] . In the present case, we deem it appropriate to award the father and the sister of the deceased, an amount of Rs 40,000 each for loss of filial consortium."

30. It must be noted that under Rule 220-A(4) of the Rules of 1998, compensation or damages under the non-pecuniary heads or the conventional heads have been stipulated. But, these are disadvantageous to the claimants and do not confer better or greater benefit upon them in comparison to the liquidated figures laid down in Pranay Sethi, where the figures under the conventional heads have been arrived at, bearing in mind the price index, falling bank interest, escalation of rates in different cases. There is a provision for 10% upward revision to be done in a span of three years. By contrast, the Rules of 1998, that have been amended to bring in Rule 220-A more than ten years ago, in the year 2011, cannot serve as a realistic index to award compensation under the conventional heads. The determination of compensation in Pranay Sethi would, therefore, be applicable. The revised and dynamic determination of compensation payable under the conventional heads stipulated in Pranay Sethi would prevail over that under the Rules of 1998. It is held, accordingly.

31. Here, each of the claimants are entitled to compensation for the loss of consortium. The widow is entitled to compensation for loss of spousal consortium, the parents to filial consortium and the two minor children to parental consortium. Of course for loss of estate, the award has to be enhanced to Rs. 15,000/- and an equal sum of money in compensation awarded towards funeral expenses in one set each. But, for the loss of consortium, each of the claimants are entitled to a sum of Rs. 40,000/- going by the principle laid down in Pranay Sethi and Magma General Insurance Company Ltd.

32. It is to be noted that the learned Counsel for the claimants has not disputed the finding of the Tribunal about the income of the deceased which, therefore, has to be held to be a sum of Rs. 3000/- per month.

33. There is no quarrel about the multiplier because it is the same according to the Second Schedule appended to the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short, "the MV Act') (as was then in force) framed under Section 163-A and in paragraph no. 42 of the decision of the Supreme Court in Sarla Verma. In case of conflict, it is to be determined in accordance with the decision in Sarla Verma. Accordingly, the compensation payable in the leading case is worked out as follows:-

(i) Monthly Income (of the deceased) = 3000/-

(ii) Monthly Income + Future Prospects(monthly income x 50%) = 3000+1500 = 4500/-

(iii) Annual Income (of the deceased) = 4500 x 12 = 54,000/-

(iv) Annual Dependency = Annual Income - one-fourth deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased = 54,000 - 13500 = 40,500/-

(v) Total Dependency = Annual Dependency x Applied Multiplier = 40,500 x 18 7,29,000/-

(vi) Claimants' entitlement towards conventional heads = Loss of Estate + Funeral Expenses + dependents' Consortium = 15,000 + 15,000 + 40,000x5 = 2,30,000/-

The total compensation would therefore, work out to a figure of Rs. 7,29,000 + Rs.2,30,000= 9,59,000/-

34. The aforesaid sum of money would carry simple interest at the rate of 7% per annum in accordance with Rule 220-A(6) of the Rules of 1998 from the date of institution of claim petition until realization. However, the sum of money already deposited (paid or invested in terms of the impugned award or interim order of this Court) shall be adjusted.

35. The other facts and issues in this appeal do not arise for consideration as there is no quarrel about the factum of accident, the identity of the vehicle and the liability of the Insurance Company to satisfy the award. The deceased here was Anand Prakash Singh alias Pintu. He was standing near the tractor trolley at the time of the accident. He is survived by four dependents, where claimant nos. 1 and 2 to the claim petition are the father and mother respectively, whereas claimant nos. 3 and 4 are the deceased's brothers. There is no evidence to show that the deceased's brothers were, in any way, dependent upon him nor are they Class-I heirs, as the Tribunal has remarked. However, the dependency for the deceased's parents has to be worked out, which the Tribunal too has accepted. The deceased's age at the time of the accident was 15 years. It is claimed by his father Om Prakash Singh, who has testified as PW-1, that the deceased was a student but would help him with farming. The deceased had an income of Rs. 3000/- per month from his exertions in the fields that the family utilized. The Tribunal accepted the deceased's income, not on the basis of what the father stated in the witness box, but going by the notional income indicated in the Second Schedule to the MV Act (as was then in force) framed under Section 163-A of the Act. The Tribunal deducted 1/3rd towards personal expenses. The Tribunal has applied a multiplier of "15' also going by the Second Schedule to the Act. Thus, deducting 1/3rd from the notional income of the deceased, the annual dependency for the two claimants was worked out to a figure of Rs. 10,000/-. Applying the multiplier of 15, the total dependency was worked out to a figure of Rs. 1,50,000/-. To this was added under the conventional heads of compensation for loss of estate and funeral expenses a sum of Rs. 2500/- and Rs. 2000/- respectively. Nothing was awarded towards parental consortium. In the aforesaid manner, the Tribunal arrived at a figure of compensation equal to the sum of Rs. 1,54,500/-. This was directed to be paid with 6% simple interest from the date of institution of claim petition.

36. Now, in this case, this Court finds that the Tribunal has erred in determining the notional income of the deceased at a figure of Rs. 15,000/- per annum in accordance with the Second Schedule framed under Section 163-A of the MV Act. This is so because the consistent view of the Supreme Court is that the notional income is to be enhanced so long as the Second Schedule is not amended. It must be noticed here that as the MV Act stands, the Second Schedule has been omitted vide Act No. 32 of 2019 with effect from 01.09.2019. In this regard, reference may be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in Kurvan Ansari alias Kurvan Ali and another v. Shyam Kishore Murmu and another, (2022) 1 SCC 317, where it has been held:

"11. As the claim was made under Section 163-A of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, since the deceased child was not an earning member, the Tribunal has considered notional income as per Schedule II for the purpose of fixing compensation. The Tribunal has awarded compensation by taking notional income of the deceased at Rs, 15,000 per annum by applying multiplier of 15, awarded compensation of Rs. 2,25,000 towards loss of dependency with interest @ 6% p.a. from the date of judgment. When the appeals are preferred by the insurance company as well as the appellants herein, by the impugned common judgment, the High Court has dismissed the appeal preferred by the insurance company, and in the appeal preferred by the claimants, while confirming the compensation awarded for loss of dependency at Rs. 2,25,000, has awarded a further sum of Rs. 15,000 towards funeral expenses and accordingly granted a total compensation of Rs. 2,40,000 with interest @ 6 p.a. payable by Respondent no. 2 insurance company and by permitting it to recover the same from Respondent 1 owner of the motorcycle.

12. In the judgment in Puttamma, this Court has observed that the Central Government was bestowed with the duties to amend Schedule II in vew of Section 163-A (3) of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, but it failed to do so. In view of the same, specific directions ewere issued to the Central Government to make appropriate amendments to Schedule II keeping in mind the present cost of living. In the said judgment, till such amendments are made, directions were issued for award of compensation by fixing a sum of Rs. 1,00,000/- (Rupees one lakh only) towards compensation for the non-earning children up to the age of 5 (five) years old and a sum of Rs 1,50,000 (Rupees one lakh fifty thousand only) for the non-earning persons of more than 5 (five) years old.

13. In R.K. Malik also, this Court has observed that the notional income fixed under Section 163-A of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 as Rs. 15,000 per annum should be enhanced and increased as the same continued to exist without any amendment since 11-1994. In Kishan Gopal where the deceased was a ten-year-old, this Court has fixed his notional income at Rs. 30,000 per annum.

14. In this case, it is to be noted that the accident was on 06.09.2004. In spite of repeated directions, Schedule II is not yet amended. Therefore, fixing notional income at Rs. 15,000/- per annum for non-earning members is not just and reasonable.

15. In view of the judgments in Puttamma, R.K. Malik and Kishan Gopal, we are of the view that it is a fit case to increase the notional income by taking into account the inflation, devaluation of the rupee and cost of living in. In view of the same, the judgment in Rajendra Singh relied on by the learned counsel for respondent 2 insurance company would not render any assistance to the case of the insurance company.

16. In view of the above, we deem it appropriate to take notional income of the deceased at Rs. 25,000/- (Rupees twenty-five thousand only) per annum....."

37. The aforesaid decision in Kurvan Ansari (supra) was followed by a Division Bench of this Court in Roop Lal and another vs. Suresh Kumar Yadav and others, 2022 SCC OnLine All 25.

38. It is further remarked that the Tribunal erred in deducting 1/3rd from the notional income of the deceased, inasmuch as the deceased was a young boy and a bachelor. The multiplier of 15, going by the Second Schedule to the MV Act, also appears to be contrary to the principle in Sarla Verma, which has been approved by the Constitution Bench of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi and followed in Satinder Kaur alias Satwinder Kaur. According to the paragraph no. 42 of the judgment in Sarla Verma, for the age group of 15-20 years, the multiplier of 18 is applicable; not 15.

39. The principle in Sarla Verma would require a deduction of 50% towards the personal and living expenses of the deceased. Rule 220-A (2)(i) of the Rules of 1998 also requires a deduction of 50% towards personal expenses of an unmarried deceased. However, 1/3rd deduction is permissible, where the family of the bachelor is large and dependent on the deceased's income. This is not the case here. The deceased has left behind two dependents or who can legitimately be called dependents. Thus, whether the principle in Sarla Verma is applied or Rule 220-A(2)(i) of the Rules of 1998, a deduction of 50% towards personal and living expenses of the deceased has to be made; not 1/3rd. Again, the deceased was a young boy of 15 years and the Tribunal erred in not granting any compensation for loss of future prospects. Going by his age, the claimants would be entitled to add 50% of the income towards future prospects. Likewise, the Tribunal ought to have awarded in compensation, for the loss of filial consortium to both parents, a sum of Rs. 40,000/- each, and for loss of estate and funeral expenses, a sum of Rs. 15,000/- respectively.

40. In this view of the matter, the compensation payable in this appeal is worked out as follows:-

(i) Annual Income (of the deceased) = = 25,000/-

(ii) Total Annual Income = Annual Income + Future Prospects (Annual Income x 50%) = 25,000+12,500 = 37,500/-

(iii) Annual Dependency = Annual Income - 50% deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased = 37,500 - 18,750 = 18,750/-

(iv) Total Dependency = Annual Dependency x Applied Multiplier = 18,750 x 18 = 3,37,500/-

(v) Claimants' entitlement towards conventional heads = Loss of Estate + Funeral Expenses + dependents' Consortium = 15,000 + 15,000 + 40,000x2 = 1,10,000/-

The total compensation would therefore, work out to a figure of Rs. 3,37,500/- + Rs.1,10,000/- = 4,47,500/-

41. The aforesaid sum of money would carry simple interest at the rate of 7% per annum in accordance with Rule 220-A(6) of the Rules of 1998 from the date of institution of claim petition until realization. However, the sum of money already deposited (paid or invested in terms of the impugned award or interim order of this Court) shall be adjusted.

42. The only question that arises for consideration in this appeal is about the quantum of compensation, inasmuch as the factum of accident, death of the deceased in that accident and liability of the Insurance Company are not in issue.

43. The deceased here is Chhota. He was standing near the parked tractor trolley when the accident happened. The deceased is survived by his widow and six children. At the time of the accident, he was aged 54 years. According to the claimants, the deceased had a monthly income of Rs. 4500/-. He was earning his living by toiling on his fields. The deceased's wife Sumeria has testified as PW-1 and admitted the fact in her cross-examination that the deceased was working as a labourer. The Tribunal has, therefore, proceeded on the basis that the deceased was working as a labourer. The Tribunal assessed the deceased's income, going by the prevalent rate of wages for casual labourers, at a figure of Rs. 100/- a day or Rs. 3000/- per month. On that basis, the deceased's annual income was determined at a figure of Rs. 36,000/-. On the said figure, a deduction of 1/3rd was made towards personal expenses.

44. The Tribunal applied the multiplier of 11 to an annual dependency of Rs. 24,000/- in order to arrive at the substantive dependency of Rs. 2,64,000/-. The multiplier of 11 was applied following the Second Schedule to the MV Act framed under Section 163-A. That multiplier was arrived at by placing the deceased in the age bracket of 51 to 55 years. Compensation under the conventional heads was awarded in the manner that for the loss of consortium, loss of estate and funeral expenses, a sum of Rs. 5000/-, Rs. 2500/- and Rs. 2000/- in that order were determined. Adding up the total entitlement, a compensation of Rs. 2,73,500/- was determined for the claimants by the Tribunal, carrying a simple interest of 6% per annum from the date of institution of the claim petition. It is further directed that in the event, compensation was not made good within 30 days, simple interest at the rate of 9% per annum would be levied.

45. In view of the legal position that has been discussed above, this Court finds that the Tribunal has erred in omitting from the compensation awarded the requisite sum towards future prospects. It must be remarked that there is no dispute about the monthly wages of the deceased. Considering that the deceased was aged more than 50 years, going by Rule 220-A (3) of the Rules of 1998, the dependents would be entitled to add 20% to his income towards future prospects.

46. Also the Tribunal has erred in deducting 1/3rd towards personal expenses, whereas going by the number of members in the deceased's family who are his dependents, a deduction of 1/5th ought to have been made. The multiplier of "11' is of course unexceptionable, going by the deceased's age.

47. The Tribunal has also awarded far below the sum payable under the conventional heads to each of the three dependents. The widow would be entitled to compensation for the loss of spousal consortium, and the two minor children, that is to say, claimant nos. 6 and 7, Ram Lal and Km. Mithilesh, for the loss of parental consortium. The adult children would not be entitled to compensation vis-a-vis parental consortium as held by me in Jiuti Devi and others v. Manoj Kumar Rai and others, 2022 SCC OnLine All 46.

48. In view of the aforesaid conclusions, the compensation payable to the claimants in this appeal would have to be revised in the following manner:-

(i) Monthly Income (of the deceased) = 3000/-

(ii) Monthly Income+Future Prospects (monthly income x 20%) = 3000+600 = 3600/-

(iii) Annual Income (of the deceased) = 3600 x 12 = 43,200/-

(iv) Annual Dependency = Annual Income - one-fifth deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased = 43,200- 8640= 34,560/-

(v) Total Dependency = Annual Dependency x Applied Multiplier = 34,560 x 11 = 3,80,160/-

(vi) Claimants' entitlement towards conventional heads = Loss of Estate + Funeral Expenses + dependents' Consortium = 15,000 + 15,000 + 40,000x3 = 1,50,000/-

The total compensation would therefore, work out to a figure of Rs.3,80,160 + Rs.1,50,000=5,30,160/-

50. All other issues are not being agitated by the parties. The limited question for consideration in this appeal is about the compensation payable to the claimants, that is to say, the dependents of the deceased Shiv Sewak Singh. The deceased Shiv Sewak Singh was sitting in the parked tractor trolley when he became a victim of the accident. He is survived by five dependents, who claimed, to wit, his widow Smt. Dhanman Devi, his son Vijay Shankar Singh, Km. Kusum Singh and Km. Nisha Singh, both daughters of the deceased Shiv Sewak Singh and the deceased's father, Shiv Badan Singh.

51. There is no evidence to show that the deceased's son Vijay Shankar Singh, who was 25 years old at the time of accident, was, in any way, dependent upon the deceased. However, so far as the widow (aged 44 years at the time of accident) and the deceased's father (claimed to be 83 years at that time) are concerned, they are clearly his dependents. So far as the two unmarried daughters, aged at the relevant time 20 and 18 years, are concerned, they too were the deceased's dependents. The deceased was asserted in the claim petition to be earning a sum of Rs. 6000/- per month from his employment with the Government fair price shop and agriculture. The Tribunal, on an evaluation of the evidence on record, has held the deceased's income to be Rs. 3000/- per month. For the purpose, the Tribunal has looked into the cross-examination of PW-1, Vijay Shankar Singh, the deceased's son, who has said that the deceased was employed as a labourer. There is no evidence led about the deceased's income from his employment with the Government fair price shop or agriculture. The Tribunal has, therefore, rightly concluded that the deceased was a labourer, who had a daily income of Rs. 100/- per day or Rs. 3000/- a month. Thus, the deceased's annual income has been reckoned as Rs. 36,000/-.

52. The deceased had four dependent members in his family and, therefore, a deduction of 1/4th ought to be made towards personal expenses. In the opinion of this Court the Tribunal was not right in directing a deduction of 1/3rd towards personal expenses. The deceased's age was 54 years at the time of accident and the parties are not at issue about this determination of his age done by the Tribunal. This Court finds the said determination is one made on the basis of cogent evidence, which includes the postmortem report. Going by the table for determination of the appropriate multiplier applicable, as set out in paragraph no. 42 of the judgment in Sarla Verma, the appropriate multiplier would be 11. The Tribunal has applied the said multiplier. The parties before this Court are not at issue whether "11' is the appropriate multiplier, the deceased being aged 54 years.

53. The Tribunal has not awarded anything towards future prospects, which ought to have been done according to Rule 220-A (3) of the Rules of 1998. The deceased was a casual labourer, whose income has been determined by the Tribunal at a figure of Rs. 100/- per day or Rs. 3000/- per month. The said income going by the provisions of Rule 220-A(3)(iii), given the age of the deceased, would entitle the claimants towards future prospects to add 20% to his wages.

54. The deceased has left behind his widow, who is entitled to compensation for the loss of spousal consortium and the father for the loss of filial consortium. However, as far as the children are concerned, they are all adults and bearing in mind what I have held in Jiuti Devi, they would not be entitled to compensation on account of the loss of parental consortium.

55. In view of the aforesaid conclusions, the compensation payable to the claimants in this appeal would have to be revised in the following manner:-

(i) Monthly Income (of the deceased) = 3000/-

(ii) Monthly Income+Future Prospects (monthly income x 20%) = 3000+600 = 3600/-

(iii) Annual Income (of the deceased) = 3600 x 12 = 43,200/-

(iv) Annual Dependency = Annual Income - one-fourth deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased = 43,200-10,800 = 32,400/-

(v) Total Dependency = Annual Dependency x Applied Multiplier = 32,400 x 11 = 3,56,400/-

(vi) Claimants' entitlement towards conventional heads = Loss of Estate + Funeral Expenses + dependents' Consortium = 15,000 + 15,000 + 40,000x2= 1,10,000/-

The total compensation would therefore, work out to a figure of Rs.3,56,400 + Rs.1,10,000 = 4,66,400/-

56. The aforesaid sum of money would carry simple interest at the rate of 7% per annum in accordance with Rule 220-A(6) of the Rules of 1998 from the date of institution of claim petition until realization. However, the sum of money already deposited (paid or invested in terms of the impugned award or interim orders of this Court) shall be adjusted.

57. The only issue involved in this appeal is about compensation payable to the claimants. No other issue arises for consideration, which stand concluded in terms of the judgment of the Tribunal and the parties are not at issue about other matters before this Court.

58. The claimants are the dependents of the deceased Dehla alias Ram Dayal. The deceased, Dehla alias Ram Dayal was sitting in the ill-fated parked tractor trolley at the time of the accident. He is survived by five dependents, to wit, his widow Smt. Asha, aged 28 years at the time the cause of action arose, besides a son, Deepak aged 8 years, a daughter Leelawati aged 6 years and another son Vikas, aged 3 years. Besides the aforesaid members in his nuclear family, the deceased has also left behind his dependent mother, Jiriya aged about 55 years. The age of the deceased at the time of accident is claimed to be 34 years. In the postmortem report, he was found to be 30 years. The Tribunal has determined him in the age bracket of 31-35 years for the purpose of working out the dependency. There is no quarrel between parties about the deceased's age.

59. The claimants have asserted that the deceased was engaged in agriculture to earn his livelihood and had an income of

Rs. 5000/- per month. The impugned award shows that PW-1 Sushil Kumar, who has testified in support of the deceased's income, amongst other matters, has supported the claim. This finding of the Tribunal appears to be an apparent error, inasmuch as a perusal of the record shows that the deceased' wife Smt. Asha Devi filed her affidavit testifying as PW-1 and asserted that the deceased would earn a sum of Rs. 4000/- per month from agriculture and working as a labourer. In her cross examination, she has maintained her stand that her husband would do agriculture and would go over whenever called by someone to work as a labourer. She has further said that her husband left home at 7 O'clock in the morning to work as a labourer and come back at 4 O'clock in the evening. In the circumstances, the finding of the Tribunal that the deceased would earn a sum of Rs. 3000/- per month, working as a labourer, cannot be accepted.

60. The Tribunal has looked into the evidence of some other person named Sushil Kumar, who is not a witness in the present case. The testimony of PW-1 Asha Devi is clear where she has stood firm during cross-examination that her husband was a labourer and earned Rs. 4000/- per month. He also earned some money out of agriculture. There is no basis to disbelieve the latter part of her assertion also. It is, therefore, held in modification of the Tribunal's finding that the deceased had an income of Rs. 4000/- per month from his twin occupation- doing agriculture and working as a casual labourer.

61. The deceased was a young man aged between 31-35 years. The Tribunal has not awarded anything towards future prospects. Going by the provisions of Rule 220-A(3) (ii) of the Rules of 1998, the deceased, being aged below 40 years, would be entitled to an addition to his monthly income by way of future prospects to the extent of 50%. The deceased being aged between 31-35 years, the multiplier of 16 would be applicable.

62. The deceased has left behind five dependents. Therefore, deduction towards personal expenses under the Rule in Sarla Verma would be 1/4th, the dependent family members being 4 to 6 in number. The Tribunal has deducted 1/3rd of the deceased's income towards personal expenses, which is contrary to the aforesaid Rule. The said finding is, therefore, not sustainable. It deserves to be modified.

63. Over and above the substantive compensation payable, the claimants are also entitled to compensation under the conventional heads determined in accordance with the principles laid down in Pranay Sethi.

64. In view of the aforesaid conclusions, the compensation payable to the claimants in this appeal would have to be revised in the following manner:-

(i) Monthly Income (of the deceased) = 4000/-

(ii) Monthly Income+Future Prospects (monthly income x 50%) = 4000+2000 = 6000/-

(iii) Annual Income (of the deceased) = 6000 x 12 = 72,000/-

(iv) Annual Dependency = Annual Income - one-fourth deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased = 72,000- 18,000 = 54,000/-

(v) Total Dependency = Annual Dependency x Applied Multiplier = 54,000x 16 =8,64,000/-

(vi) Claimants' entitlement towards conventional heads = Loss of Estate +

Funeral Expenses + dependents' Consortium = 15,000 + 15,000 + 40,000x5 =2,30,000/-

The total compensation would therefore, work out to a figure of Rs.8,64,000 + Rs.2,30,00 = 10,94,000/-

65. The aforesaid sum of money would carry simple interest at the rate of 7% per annum in accordance with Rule 220-A(6) of the Rules of 1998 from the date of institution of claim petition until realization. However, the sum of money already deposited (paid or invested in terms of the impugned award or interim orders of this Court) shall be adjusted.

66. The issue in this appeal is confined to the compensation payable to the claimants, of which they have sought enhancement. About the other issues, there is no cavil before this Court and the determination of the Tribunal is acceptable to the parties.

67. The deceased here is Shiv Pratap Singh. He was standing near the parked tractor trolley when the offending vehicle dashed against it. The deceased is survived by three dependents, to wit, his widow Gayatri Devi, besides a son and an unmarried daughter, both adults. Sushil Kumar is the deceased's son aged 20 years, whereas Km. Neha Singh is the deceased's daughter aged about 18 years at the time of the accident. In support of the deceased's income and loss of dependency, the relevant evidence is that of PW-1 Sushil Kumar, who is the deceased's son. He has proved by his evidence that the deceased was engaged in agriculture and supply of milk. The Tribunal, going by the then prevalent rates payable to the casual labourers, has estimated the income of the deceased at a figure of Rs. 3000/- per month. The claimants asserted that the deceased had an income of Rs. 5000/- per month from agriculture and supply of milk and would contribute Rs. 4000/- to his family. In his cross-examination, he has stated that his father had 15 bighas kachcha land and 6-7 cattle heads. However, he has admitted in his cross-examination that no document regarding ownership of the agricultural holdings has been brought on record. This witness has not been shaken about his stand that his father would earn Rs. 5000/- a month. There is not a word in the evidence of PW-1 to infer that the deceased was employed as a casual labourer. The Tribunal, in the impugned award, has held the income of the deceased to be Rs. 3000/- per month holding him to be a casual labourer. This finding is based on an error apparent in reading the testimony of PW-1. It has been remarked by the Tribunal in the impugned judgment to the following effect:

"पी.डब्लू.1 सुशील कुमार मृतक का पुत्र है, उसने अपनी प्रतिपरीक्षा में बताया कि मृतक मजदूरी करता था। अतः पी.डब्लू.1 की स्वीकृति से यह सिद्ध होता है कि मृतक का पेशा मजदूरी था। वर्तमान समय में प्रचलित मजदूरी को देखते हुए तथा माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा विभिन्न निर्णय विधियों में प्रकट किए गए अभिमत के अनुसार मृतक की मासिक आय 3000 रूपए अर्थात 36000 रु. वार्षिक आय निर्धारित किया जाना समीचीन होगा।"

68. This Court has looked into the records and across the length and breadth of the cross-examination of PW-1, there is not a word said in acknowledgement by PW-1 of the fact that the deceased would work as a labourer or a casual labourer. To the contrary, the stand maintained by PW-1 in his examination-in-chief and the cross-examination is that the deceased had an income of Rs. 5000/- per month from agriculture and dairy business. There is no doubt that no document relating to the land owned by the deceased has been filed. But, going by the unchallenged testimony of PW-1 Sushil Kumar, there is no reason to disbelieve his assertion. It is nowhere said that the deceased was a labourer or worked as a casual labourer. The inference of the Tribunal about the deceased's income is found on a non-existent basis. It cannot be accepted. In consequence, it is held that the deceased had an income of Rs. 5000/- per month.

69. The deceased was aged 55 years at the time of accident. Going by the provisions of Rule 220-A(3)(iii) of the Rules of 1998, the deceased is entitled to an accretion of his income by 20% towards future prospects.

70. The deceased has left behind two dependents. Going by Rule 220-A (2)(ii), the deduction towards personal expenses would be 1/3rd of the deceased's income. The Tribunal is right in deducting 1/3rd towards personal expenses of the deceased. The deceased was aged 55 years and the appropriate multiplier would, therefore, be 11, according to the schedule set out in paragraph no. 42 of the judgment in Sarla Verma. The Tribunal has erred in applying the multiplier of 8 acting in terms of the Second Schedule framed under Section 163-A of the MV Act. Under the conventional heads, the claimants would be entitled to loss of estate and funeral expenses in terms of the law laid down in Pranay Sethi. However, so far as the loss of consortium is concerned, this Court is of considered opinion that the widow alone is entitled to spousal consortium. Both children are adults and they are not entitled to parental consortium, bearing in mind the view that I have taken in Jiuti Devi.

71. In view of the aforesaid conclusions, the compensation payable to the claimants in this appeal would have to be revised in the following manner:-

(i) Monthly Income (of the deceased) = 5000/-

(ii) Monthly Income+Future Prospects (monthly income x 20%) = 5000+1000 = 6000/-

(iii) Annual Income (of the deceased) = 6000 x 12 = 72,000/-

(iv) Annual Dependency = Annual Income - one-third deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased = 72,000-24,000 = 48,000/-

(v) Total Dependency = Annual Dependency x Applied Multiplier = 48,000x11 = 5,28,000/-

(vi) Claimants' entitlement towards conventional heads = Loss of Estate + Funeral Expenses + dependents' Consortium = 15,000 + 15,000 + 40,000 = 70,000/-

The total compensation would therefore, work out to a figure of Rs.5,28,000 + Rs.70,000 = 5,98,000/-

72. The aforesaid sum of money would carry simple interest at the rate of 7% per annum in accordance with Rule 220-A(6) of the Rules of 1998 from the date of institution of claim petition until realization. However, the sum of money already deposited (paid or invested in terms of the impugned award or interim orders of this Court) shall be adjusted.

Conclusion :

All these appeals succeed and are hereby allowed. The impugned awards passed in each of the appeals are modified and compensation enhanced, including interest, as directed hereinabove. The claimants in each of the appeals shall be entitled to payment of the enhanced compensation with inter se share thereof in the same terms, as directed by the Tribunal. The claimants shall also be entitled to their costs in the respective appeals.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J. & Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. By way of this appeal, the claimants-appellants have approached this Court for enhancement of compensation awarded to appellants-claimants by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Senior District Judge, Ghaziabad ('Tribunal', for short), vide judgment/award dated 12.5.2008 in M.A.C.P. No.204 of 2004 (Smt. Raj Bala And Others vs. Parvesh Kumar And Another) whereby claimants/appellants was awarded Rs.9,87,300/-, with 7% rate of interest as compensation.

2. Heard Shri Devendra Dhama, learned counsel for the appellants-claimants and Shri Pawan Kumar Singh for the respondents-Insurance Company. None appears for the owner.

3. The accident involving the vehicle, though denied by the driver in his evidence, has been held by the Tribunal to be involved in the accident and the finding of fact that the accident occurred on 11.2.2004 involving the vehicle insured by the respondents has attained finality. Secondly, the finding of facts that the deceased, namely, Suresh Chandra, aged about 46 years worked in Nagar Telephone Nigam Ltd, Tugalkabad, New Delhi and left his widow, two sons and a daughter are also not in dispute. The income of the deceased is also not in dispute. The twin questions raised for our consideration for which this Court is called upon to decide are findings of the Tribunal as to whether the deceased driving motorcycle was a contributor to the accident had taken place to the tune of 50% and whether the compensation awarded by the Tribunal was in consonance with the principles enunciated by the Apex Court in catena of decisions for computing compensation.

4. As far as the compensation to be granted is concerned, learned counsel for the Insurance Company has submitted that in the State of Uttar Pradesh Rule 220 of the Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicle Rules, 2011, came into force in the year 2011 and hence, no future loss of income could be granted as in this case accident occurred in the year 2007. The Apex Court has held that future loss of income has to be awarded whether the rules specify or not. This is an accident of the year 2007. Just because the rules are silent, the claimants cannot be deprived of this benefit. In catena of decisions even prior to the year 2011 future loss of income was considered to be added to income of deceased. We cannot accept the submission of Sri Pawan Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-Insurance Company as in catena of decisions which are binding on this Court namely Pappu Deo Yadav Vs. Naresh Kumar, AIR 2020 SC 4424, Erudhaya Priya Vs. State Express Transport Corporation Ltd., AIR 2020 SC 4284 and Karthik Subramanian Vs. B. Sarath Babu & Anr., reported in 2021 ACJ 993 have laid down the principle that future loss of income has to be granted.

5. As far as the negligence is concerned, Shri Dhama, learned counsel for the appellants, has taken us to the evidence of four witnesses and the evidence of the driver of the opponent, who has stepped into the witness box. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that 50% decided to be contribution of appellants in view of the judgment in the case of Archit Saini and another vs. Oriental Insurance Co.Ltd., AIR 2018 (SC) 1143 is bad particularly when the Tribunal has returned the finding to this effect that the deceased was on correct side. The evidence of PW4, namely, Sunil Kumar, is on record, where the witness has deposed that it was one way path and the accident occurred in side lane where the driver of the opponent could not have come with his tempo and, therefore, it is submitted that in view of the judgments quoted herein below the finding holding the deceased to be guilty of 50% is bad, (a) Khenyei vs. New India Assurance Co.Ltd. & others, 2015 0 Supreme(SC) 397; (b) T.O.Anthony vs. Karvarnan and others, 2008 0 Supreme(SC) 157 (c) Rahisa Begum Since Deceased and another vs. Susheel Chandra Gupta and another, 2021 LawSuit (All) 805; and (d) Meera Devi and another vs. HRTC and others, 2014 0 Supreme(SC) 194.

6. It has also been contended by Shri Dhama, learned counsel for the claimants that there was no negligence on the part of the deceased and the finding of fact of the Tribunal is bad in the eye of law.

7. Shri Pawan Kumar Singh, learned counsel appearing for the respondent-Insurance Company, has vehemently submitted that from the site-plan, it can be seen that the accident had not taken place on the one-way road. It was the evidence of the driver of the said vehicle and that too in the findings returned by the Tribunal, therefore, it is just and proper that the road was not one-way. The deceased had contributed to the accident, which had taken place. It is further submitted that the Tribunal has shown leniency in not considering the deceased to be 100% negligent.

8. The term 'negligence' means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental which is normally accidental. More particularly, it connotes reckless driving and the injured must always prove that the either side is negligent. If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply.

9. The Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal From Order No. 1818 of 2012 (Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co.Ltd. Vs. Smt. Renu Singh And Others) decided on 19.7.2016 has held as under :

"16. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

17. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

18. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

19. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.

20. These provisions (section 110A and sec.110B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

21. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

22. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side."

(Emphasis added)

10. In view of the judgments relied by counsel for the appellants and the factual scenario, we are unable to accept the submissions of Shri Pawan Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the Insurance Company that the accident occurred due to co-authorship of the deceased.

11. In such view of the matter, the impact of the motorcycle, which according to the witnesses and even the finding returned by the Tribunal was on its correct side, we would consider the alternative submission of Shri Pawan Kumar Singh that it was not a one way road when there is a clinching evidence that the driver of the motorcycle was driving the motorcycle on correct side, this is also finding of fact by the Tribunal. The site-plan according to the decision of Archit Saini (supra) can not be the sole conclusion of the negligence. Hence, submission of Shri Pawan Kumar Singh cannot be acceded as is against weight of evidence on record. Even if we go by the submission of Shri Pawan Kumar Singh, a bare scanning of the siteplan would also not permit us to accept his submission as site-plan goes to show that it is against the version of the driver of the tempo, which is a light vehicle, but it is bigger in size in comparison to the motorcycle and driver of the tempo should have been more cautious while driving the same in a bye-lane. Therefore, we hold that finding of fact of the Tribunal is bad in the eye of law.

12. As far as compensation is concerned, the matter is very simple. The Tribunal could not have deducted HRA. Learned counsel for the appellant even pointed out to us that when we scan the record it transpires that salary of the deceased was considered after deducting HRA, which is against the mandate of Apex Court in the case of Vimal Kanwar and others vs. Kishore Dan and others (2013) 7 SCC 476.

13. We, therefore, are in full agreement with Shri Pawan Kumar Singh that the income tax has rightly been deducted. The amount, which would be considered to be datum figure would be Rs.26,800/-. As the deceased was a permanent employee and below the age of 50 years, 30% would have been added for future loss of income as we are unable to accept the submission of Shri Pawan Kumar Singh that no addition for future income can be granted as even in Malarvizhi and others vs. United India Insurance Co.Ltd and another [(2020) 4 SCC 228] and in Yadava Kumar vs. Divisional Manager, National Insurance Co.Ltd, [(2010) 10 Supreme Court Cases 341] it is held in judgment of National Insurance Company vs. Pranay Sethi [2014 (4) TAC 637 (SC)] , would apply retrospectively also. Hence the addition will have to be granted. 1/3 should be deducted for personal expenses of the deceased. Multiplier of 13 would be just and proper as the appellant was in the age group of 50 Years as per Apex Court judgment in Smt.Sarla Verma vs. Delhi Transport Corporation [2009 (2) TAC 677 (SC)] .

14. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that due to inadvertance, medical expenses are shown as Rs.10,00,000/- should be read as Rs.1,00,000/- as the deceased survived for two days, though, we award the medical expenses to be Rs.80,000/- as it is awarded by the Tribunal. Under the non-pecuniary heads, Rs.15,000/- shall be awarded for loss of estate, Rs.15,000/- for funeral expenses and Rs.40,000/- shall be awarded under the head of loss of consortium with upward remission of 10% every three years, rounded off lump-sum Rs.1,00,000/- as per Pranay Sethi (supra).

15. Hence, the total compensation, in view of the above discussions, payable to the appellants-claimants is being computed herein below:

i.	Annual Income	Rs.26,800/- x 12	Rs.3,21,600/-
ii.	Percentage towards Future-Prospects (30%)		Rs.96,480/-
iii.	Total Income	Rs.3,21,600/- + Rs.96,480/-	Rs.4,18,080/-
iv.	Income after deduction of 1/3	Rs.4,18,080/- - Rs.1,39,360/-	Rs.2,78,720/-
v.	Multiplier applicable	13
vi.	Loss of dependency	Rs.2,78,720/- x 13	Rs.36,23,360/-
Vii.	Medical Expenses		Rs.80,000/-
Viii.	After adding Non-pecuniary Damages	Rs.36,23,360/- +Rs.1,00,000/-	Rs.37,03,360/-
ix.	Total Compensation		Rs.38,03,360/-

16. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under:

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

17. Learned Tribunal has awarded rate of interest as 6% per annum but we are fixing the rate of interest as 7.5% in the light of the above judgment.

18. No other grounds were urged when the matter was heard.

19. The appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 8 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

20. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagori P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291 and this High Court in total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) and in First Appeal From Order No.2871 of 2016 (Tej Kumari Sharma v. Chola Mandlam M.S. General Insurance Co. Ltd.) decided on 19.3.2021 while disbursing the amount.

21. The records and proceedings be sent back to the Tribunal for disbursement.

Special Appeal Defective No. 162 of 2022

Raj Bali Singh ...Appellant
Versus
Sri Nitin Ramesh Gokaran & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Braj Lal

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Special Appeal-Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952-maintainability of –an appeal u/s 19 of the Contempt of Court's Act 1971 would be only from an order or a decision imposing a punishment for contempt-the case at hand the orders passed by the learned Single Judge in exercise of contempt jurisdiction merely dismiss the contempt petition, such orders are not amenable to appeal u/s 19 of the Contempt of Court's Act, 1971-Chapter VII Rule 5 of the Courts provides for an appeal to the Court from a "Judgment"-the orders are not in any manner touching the merits of the controversy or the dispute between the parties so as to be deemed to be judgment or deemed to have been issued in exercise of powers conferred under Article 226 of the Constitution of India-Hence, the Intra-Court Appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court is held to be not maintainable.(Para 1 to 12)

B. In order to constitute a judgment, an interlocutory order must: (a) decide a matter of moment; or (b) affect vital and valuable rights of the parties and must also work serious injustice to the party concerned. Routine orders which are passed by a Single Judge to facilitate the progress of a case may cause some element of inconvenience or prejudice to a party but do not constitute a 'Judgment' because they do not finally determine the rights or obligations of the parties. Procedural orders in aid of the progression of a case or to facilitate a decision are not judgments.(Para 10)

The appeal is dismissed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pritinker Diwaker, J. & Hon'ble Ashutosh Srivastava, J.)

1. This Intra-Court Appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court has been filed against the order dated 16.12.2020 passed by the learned Single Judge in Contempt Application (Civil) No. 2027 of 2020 (Raj Bali Singh versus Shri Nitin Ramesh Gokarn, Additional Chief Secretary / Principal Secretary and Shri Devendra Nigam, Executive Engineer) as also the order dated 10.3.2022 passed in CAPL (Civil) No. 6315 of 2021 (Raj Bali Singh versus Shri Nitin Ramesh Gokaran and another). By the order dated 16.12.2020, the learned Single Judge has ordered the Contempt Application to be consigned to record being of the view that there is no good ground to proceed further with the contempt application. By the order dated 10.3.2022, the second contempt application being CAPL (Civil) No. 6315 of 2021 has been dismissed as not maintainable and consigned to record.

2. The facts shorn of unnecessary details giving rise to the present proceedings are that the appellant / writ petitioner approached the writ Court inter-alia claiming the following reliefs:

"a) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no. 1 and 6 to reckon the petitioner's work charge establishment services into regular services for the purposes of gratuity, pension and consequential benefits.

b) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no. 6 to grant the pension and consequential benefits to the petitioner."

3. It was contended by the counsel for the appellant / writ petitioner that the controversy involved was squarely covered by the decision of the Apex Court in Prem Singh versus State of U.P. and others, Civil Appeal No. 6798 of 2019, dated 2.9.2019 and the writ petition be decided in terms of the aforesaid decision.

4. The writ Court by order dated 29.11.2019 disposed of the writ petition requiring the competent authority to look into the grievance of the petitioner and pass appropriate order strictly, in consonance with the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Prem Singh, expeditiously within a period of two months from the date of production of certified copy of the order. When the direction of the writ Court dated 29.11.2019 was not complied with, a contempt application, being CAPL (Civil) No. 2027 of 2020 was filed by the appellant / writ petitioner alleging violation of the direction of the writ Court.

5. Initially, the Contempt Court being prima facie satisfied that the direction of the writ Court had not been complied with issued notice to the contemnors i.e. Shri Nitin Ramesh Gokaran, Addl. Chief Secretary, Government of U.P. and Shri Devendra Nigam, Executive Engineer requiring their presence to answer the contempt proceedings. The contemnors filed an affidavit of compliance annexing a copy of the order dated 27.11.2020 passed by the Executive Engineer, whereby the claim of the appellant / writ petitioner was rejected. The learned Single Judge exercising contempt jurisdiction considered the compliance affidavit as also the order dated 27.11.2020 rejecting the claim of the writ petitioner. The learned Single Judge noted that the order dated 27.11.2020 duly considered the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Prem Singh (supra) as also the directions of the Apex Court in the case of State of U.P. through Principal Secretary and others versus Ram Murat and others; Civil Appeal No. 872 of 2020, decided on 21.10.2020. The learned Single Judge also took note of the Ordinance No. 19 of 2020 (U. P. Qualifying Service for Pension and Validation Ordinance, 2020) which has been made effective with retrospective effect and in relation to Sub Rule 8 of the Rule 3 of the U.P. Retirement Benefit Rules, 1961, the ordinance would be effective from April 1, 1961. It also noted the fact that in the case of Prem Singh (supra) the judgment was given by the Apex Court by reading down Rule 23 Sub Rule 8 of the U.P. Retirement Benefit Rules, 1961. The learned Single Judge, thus was of the view that no good ground existed to proceed further with the contempt proceeding and accordingly directed the contempt application to be consigned to record vide order dated 16.12.2020..

6. The appellant / writ petitioner filed yet another contempt application, being Contempt Application No. 6315 of 2021 alleging non compliance of the order dated 29.11.2019 passed by the writ Court in Writ Petition (A) No. 19190 of 2019. The said contempt application has been dismissed as not maintainable taking note of the dismissal of the earlier Contempt Application No. 2027 of 2020.

7. The question for consideration in this Intra-Court Appeal is as to whether an appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court will lay against an order of a Single Judge passed in exercise of contempt jurisdiction refusing to proceed further with the contempt proceeding and consigning the same to records.

8. To scope and ambit of maintainability of an appeal under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 and also an Intra-Court Appeal under the relevant rules of the High Court in a case of an order passed in contempt proceedings was considered in the case of Midnapore Peoples Co-operative Bank Ltd., and others versus Chunilal Nanda and others, 2006 (5) SCC

399 and it was held that any direction issued or decision made by the High Court in contempt proceedings on the merits of a dispute between the parties unless the same is incidental to or inextricably connected with the order punishing for contempt would not be in the exercise of "jurisdiction to punish for contempt" and, therefore, would not be applicable under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971. However, such an order was held amenable to a challenge in an Intra-Court Appeal under the relevant rules of the High Court. The position with regard to filing of appeals against orders passed in contempt proceedings was summarized in Para 11 of the decision which is being reproduced as under:

"11. The position emerging from these decisions, in regard to appeals against orders in contempt proceedings may be summarized thus :

I. An appeal under section 19 is maintainable only against an order or decision of the High Court passed in exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt, that is, an order imposing punishment for contempt.

II. Neither an order declining to initiate proceedings for contempt, nor an order initiating proceedings for contempt nor an order dropping the proceedings for contempt nor an order acquitting or exonerating the contemnor, is appealable under Section 19 of the CC Act. In special circumstances, they may be open to challenge under Article 136 of the Constitution.

III. In a proceeding for contempt, the High Court can decide whether any contempt of court has been committed, and if so, what should be the punishment and matters incidental thereto. In such a proceeding, it is not appropriate to adjudicate or decide any issue relating to the merits of the dispute between the parties.

IV. Any direction issued or decision made by the High Court on the merits of a dispute between the parties, will not be in the exercise of 'jurisdiction to punish for contempt' and therefore, not appealable under section 19 of CC Act. The only exception is where such direction or decision is incidental to or inextricably connected with the order punishing for contempt, in which event the appeal under section 19 of the Act, can also encompass the incidental or inextricably connected directions.

V. If the High Court, for whatsoever reason, decides an issue or makes any direction, relating to the merits of the dispute between the parties, in a contempt proceedings, the aggrieved person is not without remedy. Such an order is open to challenge in an intra-court appeal (if the order was of a learned Single Judge and there is a provision for an intra-court appeal), or by seeking special leave to appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution of India (in other cases).

The first point is answered accordingly."

9. From the above, it is more than clear that an appeal under Section 19 of the Contempt of Court's Act, 1971 would be only from an order or a decision imposing a punishment for contempt. Unless there is an order or decision on punishment, the appeal under Section 19 (1) of the Contempt of Court's Act, 1971 would not be competent. So long as no punishment is imposed by the learned Single Judge, it could not be said to be exercising its jurisdiction or power to punish for contempt. Since in the case at hand, the orders dated 16.12.2020 and 10.3.2022 passed by the learned Single Judge in exercise of contempt jurisdiction merely dismiss the contempt petition, such orders are not amenable to appeal under Section 19 of the Contempt of Court's Act, 1971. But whether such orders are amenable to an appeal contemplated under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court is to be considered in the light of the provisions of Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court which is quoted here-in-below:-

"5. Special appeal :- An appeal shall lie to the Court from a judgment (not being a judgment passed in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction) in respect of a decree or order made by a Court subject to the superintendence of the Court and not being an order made in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction or in the exercise of its power of superintendence or in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction 66[or in the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution in respect of any judgment, order or award--(a) of a tribunal, Court or statutory arbitrator made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution, or (b) of the Government or any officer or authority, made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any such Act of one Judge."

10. Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Courts provides for an appeal to the Court from a "judgment". The meaning of "judgment" for the purposes of Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court came to be examined by a Full Bench of this Court in the case of Ashutosh Shrotriya and others versus Vice Chancellor Dr. B. R. Ambedkar University and others reported in AIR 2015 All 187 (DB). The Full Bench after considering various judgments of the Apex Court proceeded to formulate the governing principles in Para 30 of the judgment which is reproduced as under:

"We now formulate the governing principles :

(i) The expression 'judgment' was advisedly not defined in the Letters Patents of various High Courts which conferred a right of appeal against a judgment of a Single Judge to a Division Bench of that Court;

(ii) The expression 'judgment' is not to be construed in the narrower sense in which the expression 'judgment', 'decree' or 'order' is defined in the CPC, but must receive a broad and liberal construction;

(iii) Every order passed by a trial Judge on the Original side of a High Court exercising original jurisdiction or, for that matter, by a learned Single Judge exercising the writ jurisdiction, would not amount to a judgment. If every order were construed to be a judgment, that would result in opening a flood of appeals and there would be no end to the number of orders which could be appealable under the Letters Patent;

(iv) Any interlocutory order to constitute a judgment, must possess the characteristic of finality in the sense that it must adversely affect a valuable right of a party or decide an important aspect of the trial in an ancillary proceeding. In order to constitute a 'judgment', the adverse effect on a party must be direct and immediate and not indirect or remote;

(v) In order to constitute a judgment, an interlocutory order must: (a) decide a matter of moment; or (b) affect vital and valuable rights of the parties and must also work serious injustice to the party concerned:

(vi) On the other hand, orders passed in the course of the proceedings of a routine nature, would not constitute a judgment even if they result in some element of inconvenience or hardship to one party or the other. Routine orders which are passed by a Single Judge to facilitate the progress of a case may cause some element of inconvenience or prejudice to a party but do not constitute a 'judgment' because they do not finally determine the rights or obligations of the parties. Procedural orders in aid of the progression of a case or to facilitate a decision are not judgments."

11. Now considering the impugned orders dated 16.12.2020 and 10.3.2022 against which the present appeal has been preferred, we are of the opinion that the orders cannot in any manner be said to touch the merits of the controversy or the dispute between the parties so as to be deemed to be judgment or deemed to have been issued in exercise of powers conferred under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and thus, making them amenable to an Intra-Court Appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court.

12. In view of the above discussion, the Intra-Court Appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court is held to be not maintainable and is, accordingly, dismissed.

Versus

Christ Church Mcconaghy School Society Lucknow & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:

Prashant Singh Atal, Ankit Singh, Dr. L.P. Misra, Pooja Singh, Pranjal Krishna, Santosh Kumar

A. Special Law -Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952-Societies Registration Act, 1860 - Section 4 & 4B - Saving Clause in British Statutes(Application to India) Repeal Act, 1960, the learned Single Judge opined that the British Statutes(Repeal) Act, 2004 received the assent of the President of India on 20.02.2004 and con-joint reading of the provisions of Section 3 of Repeal Act, 1960, sub-sections (1) (2)(3) and (4) of section 1 of the Act, 1949 as well as Repeal Act, 2004 shows that what was saved by Section 3 of the Act, 1960 was the application of any statute repealed by it in relation to India and to persons and things in any way belonging to or connected with India, in any country to which India (Consequential Provision) Act, 1949 extended, therefore, assuming that the said provision saved the application of the Indian Church Act, 1927, the same stood repealed w.e.f. 20.02.2004 but this aspect of the matter was not considered by the Deputy Registrar-Moreover the Deputy Registrar did no at all consider the question as to whether the CIBC was in existence defacto or not and further neither the appellant nor any other person claiming under CIBC or CIPBC had staked any claim to the management of the society since 1970, hence their defacto existence was seriously questionable-These findings recorded by learned Single Judge have substance for proper adjudication of the case and the Deputy Registrar has erred in not considering the aforesaid fact-Thus, the learned Single Judge rightly remanded back the matter to the Deputy Registrar to take a decision afresh in the light of Section 4 and 4-B of the Act, 1860 keeping in mind the directions of the Apex Court-Therefore, the plea of the appellant has no substance and is rejected.(Para 1 to 80) (E-6)

(A) Introduction

1. The instant intra Court appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 has been preferred by Most Rev. John Augustine (appellant herein/respondent no.3 in writ petition), challenging the correctness of the judgment and order dated 28.05.2015 passed in Writ Petition No. 406 (M/S) of 2015 : Christ Church McConaghy School Society, Lucknow and another Vs. Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Lucknow and others, whereby the learned Single Judge, while quashing the order dated 07.02.2015 passed by the Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Lucknow, by which the General Body of the writ petitioners' society (Christ Church Mc Conaghy School Society, Lucknow) was declared invalid and further directed the appellant herein (respondent no.3 in writ petition), to take action for re-constitution of the Committee of Management of Christ Church McConaghy School Society, Lucknow in accordance with bye-laws, allowed the writ petition in the following terms :-

"Having pondered over the issue as to whether the dispute needs to be referred to prescribed authority under Section 25 (1) of Act 1860 the Court is of the view that it is not a fit case for such reference as the opposite party no. 3 has set up his claim based on a separate general body belonging to CIBC distinct from the one existing at present. Thus the dispute is a fundamental one and the membership of the opposite party no. 3 and his associates in the existing general body itself is disputed. Therefore, considering the complicated questions of fact and law involved, the summary proceedings under Section 25(1) would not be suited for resolution of the same. The opposite party no. 3 and his associates would also find it difficult to take recourse to Section 25(1) as they would not be able to muster 2/3rd members of the existing general body as they are basing their claim on a different general body. In the facts and circumstances the appropriate remedy for opposite party no. 3 would be to get his rights declared in regular proceedings of a suit, whether pending or a fresh one. Till then he has no locus to interfere in the functioning of the petitioner-society nor to raise any dispute or objection with regard to it. As far as the list of officer-bearers and members of general body submitted by petitioner no. 2 for the year 2014-15 is concerned, the matter is remanded back to Deputy Registrar to take a decision afresh in the light of Section 4 and 4-B of Act 1860 keeping in mind the directions of the Supreme Court in the case of A.P. Aboobaker Musaliar Vs. District Registrar (G) Kozhikode and others (supra) and the observations made hereinabove, subject to any order or declaration by any court in favour of opposite party no. 3 in a pending or fresh suit, if filed by him or his associates.

It is made clear that the discussions made hereinabove are only for the purpose of adjudicating the validity of the order of the Deputy Registrar and any observations made shall not prejudice the rights of the parties pending adjudication in any proceedings before any court.

The writ petition is allowed in the aforesaid terms."

B. Factual Matrix

2. The facts leading to the instant intra Court appeal, in a nutshell, are as under:-

3. A Society has been registered under the Societies Registration Act (XXI of 1860) (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1860") in the year 1947 called "Christ Church McConaghy School Society, Lucknow' (hereinafter referred to as "Society'). The objects of the Society are :- to give Christian education among the people of Lucknow; to give opportunities for teaching, witness, and worship according to the faith, doctrine and practices of the Church of India, Burma and Ceylon, and more specially to the Christian staff and students; to maintain a Christian staff sufficient to preserve and strengthen the Christian character and purpose of the institution; to provide for the care of orphans and their education; to undertake any form of work which is directed to the improvement, increase and spread of education and is for the benefit of the people of India etc.

4. Rule-3 of the Rules and Regulations of the Society refers ex officio members of the Society, which is reproduced as under :-

(a) The Bishop of Lucknow for the time being.

(b) The Secretary of the Board of Education of the Lucknow Diocean Council for the time being.

(c) The Principal of Christ Church Mc Conaghy School, Lucknow for the time being.

(d) The Principal of La Martiniere College, Lucknow, for the time being.

(e) The civil Chaplain, Lucknow, for the time being.

(f) The priest in-charge of the Epiphany Church, Lucknow, for the time being.

(g) The Secretary of the Indian Board of the Lucknow Diocean Council for the time being.

(h) The Secretary of the Lucknow Diocesan Trust Association for the time being.

5. Rule 4 of the Rules and Regulations of the Society refers Members of the Society, according to which, there are three classes of Members of Society viz. (i) Life Members shall be those who subscribed a sum of not less than

Rs.10,000/- to the Society, and who shall have been accepted to be Life Members of the Society by the Managing Committee; (ii) Ordinary Members shall be those who subscribed a sum of Rs.200/- to the Society as admission fee and thereafter a sum of Rs.5/- per month as monthly subscription which shall be payable either monthly or as the Managing Committee shall direct and who shall have been accepted to be Ordinary Members of the Managing Committee of the Society; (iii) Honorary Members shall be those who are ex officio members of the society and other individuals who may be elected as Members of the Managing Committee either by the Society at the Annual General Meeting, or by the Managing Committee, but such persons shall cease to be members of the Society when they cease to be members of the Managing Committee.

6. Rule 8 of the Rules and Regulations of the Society says that the business and affairs of the Society shall be managed by a Managing Committee of not less than five and not more than twelve members, elected by the Society at the Annual Meeting and at least three members of the Managing Committee shall be ex officio members of the Society.

7. As per Rule 9 of the Rules and Regulations of the Society, the aforesaid ex officio members of the Society shall be the first Managing Committee and they shall continue in office until after the first General Meeting of the Society. As per Rule 10 of the Rules and Regulations of the Society, the Office Bearers of the Society shall be a Chairman, a Vice-Chairman, a Secretary and a Treasurer and these shall be elected at the Annual Meeting of the Society. The Office Bearers shall be elected from among the members of the Society and they shall be members of the Managing Committee. The other members of the Managing Committee shall also be elected by the Annual Meeting of the Society. Nevertheless the Bishop of Lucknow, if willing to act, shall always be ex officio Chairman of the Society as per Rule 15 of the Rules and Regulations of the Society.

8. Rule 15 of the Rules and Regulations of the Society provides that the Bishop of Lucknow, if willing to act, shall be the ex officio Chairman of the Society, otherwise the Chairman shall be elected by the General Meeting of the Society. Rule 49 of the Rules and Regulations of the Society provides that in order that the Constitution, canons and Rules of the Church of India, Burma and Ceylon and the Constitution, Rules and Regulations of the Diocese of Lucknow may be properly safeguarded, none of the proceedings or acts of the Society shall be valid without the assent of the Bishop of Lucknow from the time being.

9. After partition of India in 1947, the erstwhile Church of India, Burma and Ceylon (hereinafter referred to as "CIBC') became Church of India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon (hereinafter referred to as "CIPBC'), but no such amendment was made in the Rules and Regulations of the Society and in the Rules and Regulations of the Society, the Society has continued to refer CIBC.

10. On 27th November, 1970, six Churches including the erstwhile CIPBC merged into one entity and created "the Church of India' (hereinafter referred to as "CNI') under Indian Churches Act, 1927 and rules/regulations framed thereunder.

11. It appears that appellant herein, while claiming himself to be Metropolitan Church of India and Bishop of Diocese of Lucknow, had submitted an undated application to the Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Lucknow Division, Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as "Deputy Registrar"), which was received in the office of Deputy Registrar on 14.08.2014 (Annexure No.14 of the writ petition). In the aforesaid undated application, the appellant herein had prayed that in the light of Vinod Kumar M. Malviya and others Vs. Maganlal Mangaldas Gameti and others : (2013) 15 SCC 394, the present Managing Committee of the Society is illegal and, therefore, the approval/registration of the list of the members/office bearers of the Managing Committee of the writ petitioners' Society be cancelled and in its place the list of members and office bearers presented by CIPBC, be registered. In the aforesaid application, it has been admitted by the appellant that since 1970 (from the date of formation of CNI), respondent no. 1/writ petitioner no.1's Society is in control and management of the members of the CNI.

12. The Deputy Registrar, vide order dated 07.02.2015, declared the entire General Body of the writ petitioners' Society as invalid and directed the appellant herein (respondent no.3 in writ petition) to take action for re-constitution of the Committee of the Management of the petitioners' society in accordance with the bye-laws.

13. Feeling aggrieved by the aforesaid order dated 07.2.2015, the respondents no. 1 and 2/writ petitioners had approached this Court by filing writ petition No. 406 (M/S) of 2015, which was allowed by the learned Single Judge while quashing the order dated 07.02.2015 vide judgment and order dated 28.05.2015.

14. Hence the instant special appeal.

15. Pleadings have been exchanged between the parties.

C. Application for Impleadment filed by applicant-The Right Revd. Dr. Peter Baldev, Bishop Diocese of Lucknow (C.M. Application No. 109924 of 2019)

16. During the course of arguments, it has been pointed out by the learned Counsel for the parties that application for impleadment filed by the Right Revd. Dr. Peter Baldev, Bishop Diocese of Lucknow (C.M. Application No. 109924 of 2019) is pending and a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court, vide order dated 20.11.2019, observed that this application for impleadment be considered at the time of final hearing of the appeal. In these backgrounds, this Court proceeds to consider the application for impleadment.

17. Shri Anil Kumar Tewari, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Vivek Kumar, appearing on behalf of the applicant-the Right Revd. Dr. Peter Baldev, Bishop Diocese of Lucknow, has argued that the applicant-the Right Revd. Dr. Peter Baldev is presently the Bishop of Diocese of Lucknow, Church of North India. As per Clause-3 and Clause-15 of the bye-laws of the Society, the applicant being the Bishop of Diocese of Lucknow is the ex officio Chairman of the Society and therefore, he is vested with certain powers. He argued that after passing the interim order with regard to maintaining status quo in the present appeal vide order dated 15.06.2015, the parties inter se CIPBC and CNI maintained status quo with regard to the governance of the Society and that consequently the Society was being managed by the CNI. He argued that after passing the interim order dated 15.06.2015, the respondent no.2 has wrongly interpreted the interim order dated 15.06.2015 and not convened the meeting of the Society in the garb of the interim order dated 15.06.2015 and subsequently wrote a letter to Mr. Ricardo Henry Soler with regard to the applicant not being the Chairman of the Society even inspite of attending the annual general meeting of the society in the year 2015 and 2016 under the Chairmanship of the applicant. Thus, the conduct of the respondent no.2 is not good. In these backgrounds, his submission is that the applicant being the Chairman has no faith in the intentions and integrity of the respondent no.2, hence the applicant be impleaded as respondent no.5 in the present appeal.

18. Per contra, Shri Santosh Kumar, learned Counsel for the appellant, Shri Gaurav Mehrotra, learned Counsel for the respondent no.2 and Shri Nadeem Murtaza, learned Counsel for the respondent no.1 have vehemently opposed the aforesaid submissions of the learned Senior Counsel for the applicant and argued that as per the Memorandum, the business and affairs of the Society shall be managed by a Management Committee (Governing Body) of the Society. Clause-19 of the bye-laws explicitly provide that in any litigation etc., it is the Secretary of the Society who has to append his/her signature and above all necessary action on behalf of the Society. He argued that applicant-Right Revd. Dr. Peter Baldev, Bishop Diocese of Lucknow, was never a party either before the learned Single Judge during the writ proceedings nor was the applicant ever represented or was a party before the Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, U.P., Lucknow, by whom order dated 07.02.2015 was passed which was assailed in the writ petition filed by the respondent no.1/society and the Secretary of the respondent no.1/Society. Thus, applicant-Right Revd. Dr. Peter Baldev, Bishop Diocese of Lucknow has no locus standi to seek impleadment as a respondent before this Court. They argued that the Society is already impleaded as respondent no.1 in the instant intra Court appeal. The byelaws nowhere authorize the Chairman of the respondent no.1-Society to represent the respondent no.1-Society in any litigation, therefore, the impleadment application preferred by the applicant is absolutely frivolous and not maintainable and is liable to be rejected.

19. Having examined the submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for the parties and gone through the record, it is an admitted position that applicant was not a party before the Deputy Registrar nor before the learned Single Judge in a writ proceedings. Rule 19 of the Rules and Regulations of the Society clearly indicates that it is the Secretary, who shall sue and be sued on behalf of the Society and shall be the officer to execute all legal documents on behalf of the Society. It is not in dispute that presently, the respondent no.2 is the Secretary of the Society and managing the affairs of the Society.

20. On due consideration, this Court is of the view that the applicant is not the necessary party in the present special appeal. Accordingly, the application for impleadment filed on behalf of the applicant (C.M. Application No. 109924 of 2019) is hereby rejected.

D. Submissions of the parties on the Merit of the special appeal.

21. Heard Shri Santosh Kumar assisted by Shri Ankit Singh and Dr. Pooja

Singh, learned Counsel for the appellant, Shri Gaurav Mehrotra, learned Counsel for the respondent no.2, Shri Nadeem Murtaza, learned Counsel for the respondent no.1 and Shri V.P. Nag, learned Standing Counsel for the State.

D.1. Submission on behalf of the appellant

22. Challenging the impugned order dated 28.05.2015 passed by the learned Single Judge, Shri Santosh Kumar, learned Counsel for the appellant argued that on 23.11.1927, the National Assembly of the Church of England approved the request for the dissolution of the union existing between the Church of England and the Church of England in India and accordingly, it passed the Indian Church Measure, 1927, providing for such dissolution and that after such severance, the Church of England in India would be free to manage its own affairs. It further mentioned that the ecclesiastical law of Church of England so far as it exists in India, shall in India cease to exist as law; and no proceeding by way of rehearing or appeal from any decision, judgment, sentence, decree or other order of any ecclesiastical court or official of the Indian Church shall be entertained, admitted, prosecuted, heard or determined in by or before any of His Majesty's Courts of Justice in India or elsewhere, any Court of Commissioners delegate in India or his Majesty in Council. On 22.12.1927, the British Parliament passed an Act, known as the "Indian Church Act, 1927', by which union between Church of England and Church of England in India was dissolved and Church of England in India was free to manage its own affair. Later on, after creation of Pakistan from Indian mainland, the Church of England in India was succeeded by the Indian Church known as "CIPBC'. The Christ Church was established within the jurisdiction of CIPBC for the purpose of imparting education through Christ Church School and Christ Church College.

23. Shri Santosh Kumar has argued that on 23.03.1948, Ministry of Defence of the Government of India addressed a letter to Metropolitan of India, Burma and Ceylon, Calcutta; the Secretary of Church of Scotland Colonial Chaplaincy, Board In India; Apostolic Delegate of East Indies in Banglore; and Roman Catholic Archbishop of Bombay, stating therein that all Anglican Churches included in the list of maintained Churches (Second Schedule to Indian Church Act, 1927), which will have the effect of vesting them in the Indian Church Trustees w.e.f. 04.01.1948 and the Anglican Churches being maintained at State expenses will not be maintained by the Government after wind up of ecclesiastical affairs and they will also be transferred to Indian Church Trustees w.e.f. 1st April, 1948.

24. Learned Counsel for the appellant argued that on 26.12.1960, the Indian Church Act, 1927 was repealed but in the saving clause, it was declared that the repeal shall not affect the operation of any such statute in relation to India or person(s) or things connected to India. According to him, allegedly on 27.11.1970, Church of North India (CNI) came into existence out of the union of six churches, namely, (i) the Council of Baptist Churches in Northern India, (ii) the Church of the Brethren in India, (iii) the Disciples of Christ, (iv) the Church of India (formerly known as the Church of India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon), (v) The Methodist Church (British and Australasian Conferences), (vi) the United Church of Northern time. His submission is that CNI is neither registered as a Society nor a Company in the present time and CNI was never empowered to manage the affairs of the Society.

25. Sri Santosh Kumar has argued that on 20.02.2004 Indian (Consequential Provision) Act, 1949 was repealed vide British Statutes (Repeal) Act, 2004 (Act 17 of 2004). His submission is that the effect of the enactments of British Statutes (Repeal) Act, 2004, the British Statutes (Application to India) Repeal Act, 1960 and the India (Consequential Provision) Act, 1949 is that by virtue of the Church of India known as CIPBC in view of the Section 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897 is a statutory body having been created under the statute i.e. Indian Church Act, 1927. He argued that Section 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897 provides that the repeal shall not affect the previous operation of any enactment so repealed; affect any right privilege, obligation or liability acquired/accrued under any enactment so repealed etc. Therefore, the provisions of Indian Church Act, 1927 remained in force because the operation of the Statute does not get affected even after the repeal of the Act.

26. It has been argued by the learned Counsel for the appellant that the Society (Christ Church McConaghy School Society) was registered under the Act, 1880 in Uttar Pradesh with the objective of imparting Christian education and opportunities for teaching witness and worship according to the faith, doctrine and practices of the CIBC (earlier CIPBC) and more especially to Christian staff and students as stated in its Memorandum of Association. His submission is that the Society is to be run and managed by CIPBC Lucknow Diocease. Section 49 of the bye-laws of the Society states that the acts of the Society shall be done with the assent of Bishop of Lucknow. However, the registration of the Society had expired and was not renewed since 1977. On 17.04.2002, the registration of the Society was renewed but without disclosing to the Deputy Registrar that as per the bye-laws of the Society, its affairs were to be managed by the CIPBC Lucknow Diocese. He argued that the said renewal was sought by furnishing fraudulent information and the list of the Society contained various irregularities, viz. the Committee of Management list of Society for the years 1977-1978 and 2001-2002 was not countersigned by the old members and whatever subsequent addition and alterations was made in the list thereon was also not countersigned by the old members which is major irregularity. He argued that till now, the Society had no connection with CNI. In these backdrops, his submission is that the Society has never been dissolved and no dissolution has at all taken place and, therefore, the affairs of the Society including the properties of the Society and the Institution have to be managed by the Church of CIPBC, Lucknow Diocease and none else and any other claimant is nothing but a usurper.

27. Learned Counsel for the appellant has contended that appellant had filed a suit, bearing Regular Suit No. 104 of 2003, before the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Lucknow, seeking a decree of declaration to the effect that all the properties including the property in question are lawfully held by CIPBC and further restraining the defendants therein from administering and managing affairs of the property in question. The learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Lucknow, vide order dated 28.05.2003, granted interim protection in favour of CIPBC. Thereafter, on 24.02.2005, the appellant was elected and enthroned as the Bishop of Lucknow by the Lucknow Diocesan Council as per the provisions of the Constitutions, Cannons and Rules of the CIPBC. The certificate of enthronement duly signed by the concerned authorities has been annexed as Annexure No. 3 to the instant special appeal.

28. Sri Santosh Kumar has further submitted that the question as to whether the CNI is a successor of the CIPBC is no more res integra and now it is a settled position that the CIPBC has not become non-existent and the CNI is not the successor of the affairs and properties of the CIPBC in view of the judgment of the Apex Court rendered in Church of North India Vs. Lavajibhai Ratanji Bhai and others : 2005 (10) SCC 760, Vinod Kumar Mathur Sewa Malavia Vs. Maganlal Mangal Das Gameti and others : 2006 (9) SCC 282, and Vinod Kumar M. Malvia etc. Vs. Maganlal Mangal Das Gameti and others : 2013 (15) SCC 394.

29. Learned Counsel for the appellant has argued that in the year 2008, the appellant had filed a transfer petition bearing no. 680/2008, before the Apex Court seeking transfer of the Regular Suit No. 104 of 2003 pending before the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Lucknow from Lucknow to New Delhi, which was allowed by the Apex Court. After transfer, the Regular Suit No. 104 of 2003 has been renumbered as CS (OS) 2685 of 2008 and is pending before the Hon'ble Delhi High Court. In the meanwhile, in view of the dictum of the Apex Court in Vinod Kumar M. Malvia etc. Vs. Maganlal Mangal Das Gameti and others (supra), the appellant being the Bishop of CIPBC filed a complaint to the Deputy Registrar against the Managing Committee of the respondents' Society along with documents on 14.08.2014. On 04.09.2014, the Deputy Registrar issued notice to the respondent no.2. In response thereof, the respondent no.2 filed reply to the complaint on 25.11.2014. On 05.12.2014, the appellant filed rejoinder along with documents. Thereafter, pleadings were exchanged between the parties. On 07.02.2015, the Deputy Registrar examined the entity of the two churches, namely, CIPBC and CNI as both claimed their control over the affairs of the Society and the Deputy Registrar, after examining the issue in detail, has declared the entire general body of the Society as invalid and while affirming that the appellant is the rightful Bishop of Lucknow Diocese, directed him to take action for reconstitution of the Committee of Management of the Society in accordance with bye-laws of the Society and submit a status report thereafter. Not satisfied by the order of the Deputy Registrar dated 07.02.2015, respondent no.1 and 2 herein approached this Court by filing Misc. Bench No. 406 of 2015, which was allowed by the learned Single Judge vide impugned judgment and order dated 28.05.2015 while setting aside the order dated 07.02.2015 on the ground that the Deputy Registrar has exceeded its jurisdiction in determining the validity of Churches and further remitted the matter back to the Deputy Registrar and directed him to take a decision afresh in the light of Sections 4, 4B and 25 (2) of the Act, 1860 in regards to the list of office bearers and members, submitted by the respondent no.2 for the year 2014-15. Feeling aggrieved, the appellant has filed the instant appeal.

30. Submission of the learned Counsel for the appellant is that learned Single Judge, while passing the impugned order dated 28.05.2015, has erred in not appreciating the fact that the list of office bearers of the Management Committee and the General Body members as submitted by the respondent no.2 was not in conformity with the bye-laws of the Society nor in consonance with Section 4 of the Act, 1860, which requires the counter signature of the outgoing office bearers. He further argued that the Deputy Registrar had lawfully exercised statutory jurisdiction vested in it while passing the order dated 07.02.2015 as the complaint filed by the appellant before the Deputy Registrar was within the ambit of inquiry under Section 4B of the Act, 1860. He argued that Section 4 of the Act, 1860 requires a regular annual general meeting of Society and filing of list of members with Registrar. Subsequently, by U.P. Act No. 25 of 1958, Section 4 of Act, 1860 was amended, by which words "Registrar of Joint-stock Companies' were substituted by word "Registrar'. Another amendment was made by U.P. Act No. 52 of 1975 and existing Section 4 was renumbered as sub-section (1) and thereafter sub-section (2) was inserted w.e.f. 10.10.1975. A further amendment was made by U.P. Act No. 11 of 1984 w.e.f. 30.04.1984 and in sub-section (1), a proviso was inserted i.e. if the managing body is elected after the last submission of the list, the counter-signatures of old members, shall, as far as possible, be obtained on the list. If the old office-bearers do not countersign the list, the Registrar may, in his discretion, issue a public notice or notice to such persons as he thinks fit inviting objections within specified period and shall decide all objections received within the said period. Thereafter, a new section i.e. 4-A was inserted by U.P. Act No. 52 of 1975 w.e.f. 10.10.1975. Subsequently, Section 4-B was inserted by U.P. Act No. 23 of 2013 published in U.P. Gazette Extra-ordinary dated 09.10.2013. He argued that the reason for insertion of Section 4-B mentioned in "Statement of Objects and Reasons' of U.P. Act No. 23 of 2013 is that there is no provision of filing of list of General Body of Society and a large number of disputes in Societies are raised due to non-existence of correct list of General Bodies with Registrar. According to him, the list of members of General Body of the Society has to be filed at the time of registration or renewal of society and in the list, name, father's name and occupation of members must be mentioned. Thus, the Registrar is under a statutory duty to examine correctness of list of members of General Body of such Society on the basis of register of members of General Body and minutes thereof, cash book, receipt book of membership fee and Bank pass book of Society. If a member is not included in list, whether such non-inclusion also can be examined by the Registrar, is not very clear from sub-section (1) of Section 4-B of the Act, 1860 but this is made clear by sub-section (2) of Section 4-B of the Act, 1860, which provided that if there is any change of list of members of General Body of the Society referred to in sub-section (1) of Section 4-B of the Act, 1860 on account of induction, removal, registration or death of any member, a modified list of members of General Body shall be filed with Registrar within one month from the date of change.

31. It has been pointed out by the learned Counsel for the appellant that bare perusal of the aforesaid provisions shows that at the time of registration or renewal, a list of members of General Body of Society has to be filed by Assistant Registrar. Thereafter, whenever there is any change in the said list, same has to be informed to Registrar by submitting a modified list of members of General Body. When such a modified list is submitted to Registrar, examination allowed to be made by Registrar in respect of correctness of list of members of General Body in terms of sub-section (1) of Section 4-B of the Act, 1860, would also include removal of member(s) for the reason, when modified list is communicated to Registrar, whether modification is on account of induction or removal in any manner, both aspects and correctness thereof, can be examined by Registrar. The intendment of Legislature under Section 4 and Section 4B of the Act, 1860 is to empower the Registrar to examine correctness of any inclusion, alteration or change in the list of Membership of Society, particularly when an objection is raised. According to him, in the instant case, the Registrar in its order dated 07.02.2015 has examined the relevant records and has found the facts evident from record that list submitted by the respondents /writ petitioners' society for the year 2013-2014 is not in consonance with bye-laws of Society.

32. Learned Counsel for the appellant has argued that the Society remained unregistered from 1977 to 16.04.2002. The alleged Secretary of the Society had moved a letter dated 08.03.2002, requesting for renewal of Society from 27.10.1947 to March, 2002 and had thereby also filed a list of Committee of Management from the year 1977-1978 to 2001-2002 in haste and with a fraudulent intention, as the same was not countersigned by old members of the Society as mandated by law. Thereafter, the list of members submitted for the year 1981-82 had new members added in serial nos. 3, 4, 5 and 8 but the same was again not countersigned by old members. Further, in 1985, new names were added at serial no. 2, 3 and 7 of the list of members of the Society but again the same was not signed in accordance with Section 4 of the Act, 1860. Further, in 1986-87, the same irregularity was repeated. Moreover, the renewal of the registration of the Society in the the year 2002 was sought without disclosing to the Deputy Registrar that as per the bye-laws of the Society, the affairs of the same were to be run by CIPBC. Thus, the Deputy Registrar has lawfully declared the entire General Body of the respondent no.1's Society as illegal.

33. Learned Counsel for the appellant has further argued that no election of the Society was held till 2003, but the registration of the Society of the respondent no.2 was renewed on the basis of list of office bearers and proceedings of election on 16.04.2002. Further, the Secretary of the Society has submitted a list of 14 members to the Deputy Registrar and the Society's all ex officio members are related to CNI, which are both in clear contravention of the Rule 8 of the Rules and Regulations of the Society. However, the learned Single Judge, while passing the impugned order, has not paid any regards to the irregularities made by the respondents' Society.

34. Learned Counsel for the appellant has next argued that CNI has no role to play in the management of Society, which was formed in 1947 with the object of pursuing ideals of CIBC as mentioned in the Rules and Regulations of the Society in the wake of the judgment of the Apex Court in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya and others Vs. Maganlal Mangaldas Gameti and others (supra). Hence CNI does not have any locus poenitentiae in administration and running Chirst Church College but the learned Single Judge, while passing the impugned order, misinterpreted the judgment of the Apex Court rendered in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya and others Vs. Maganlal Mangaldas Gameti and others (supra) and also erred in appreciating the fact that CNI has ceased to have any legal existence whatsoever.

35. The next argument of the learned Counsel for the appellant that the CNI has continued to manage the Society under the assumption of validity of merger till it was declared otherwise. They are usurpers of office bearers by playing fraud. His submission is that fraud vitiates every solemn act, which cannot be validated even if continuing for a long period. To substantiate his submission, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in A.V. Papayya Sastry & Ors Vs Government of Andhra Pradesh. & Others : 2007 (4) SCC 221 and Meghmala & Ors vs G. Narasimha Reddy & Ors : 2010 (8) SCC 383.

36. Learned Counsel for the appellant has next argued that CNI cannot be a successor of the Society and it cannot be successor of CIPBC as merger is illegal. He argued that the British Parliament enacted the Indian Church Act, 1927, wherein it dissolved the union between Church of England and the Church of England in India, whereby the Church of England in India was free to manage its own affairs. Thereafter, the Indian Church Act, 1927 created a body known as Church of India, which later came to be known as CIPBC after partition of Pakistan from India. The Indian Church Act, 1927 was then repealed on 26.12.1960, however, in Section 3 of the said Act, titled as "Savings', it was declared that the repeal shall not affect the operation of any statute in relation to India and to persons and things in anyway belonging of any statute in relation to India and to person and things in anyway belonging to or connected with India. He pointed out that it is well settled law that "saving' implies "saving' of all right which the parties previously had and does not conferring any new rights upon the parties covered under the law being repealed. Moreover, Section 1 (1) of the India (Consequential Provision) Act, 1949 also stated that the pre-existing laws will, continue to operate until India, after becoming a Republic, passes a law to the contrary. Thereafter, India (Consequential Provision) Act, 1949 was repealed by British Statutes (Repealed) Act, 2004 (Act of 2004) w.e.f. 23.02.2004. The effect of repeal of British Statutes (Repealed) Act, 2004, British Statutes (Application to India) Repealed Act, 1960 and the Indian (Consequential Provision) Act, 1949 was that, CIPBC, in view of Section 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, was now a statutory body having been created under the Indian Church Act, 1926. His submission is that it can be easily inferred from the aforesaid that Indian Church Act, 1927 remained in force even after it was repealed, as the repeal did not affect the operation of the Statute. Hence, the CIPBC continued to exist. In these backdrops, his submission is that the learned Single Judge has erred in came to the conclusion that the CIPBC was in existence de facto, whereas there is sufficient proof to show that indeed CIPBC continues to exist and CNI has no existence in the eyes of law.

37. Learned Counsel for the appellant has further argued that as per the judgment and order dated 23.04.2012 passed by the High Court of Gujarat in First Appeal Nos. 1535 and 1536 of 2009 and the judgment of the Apex Court in Vinod Kumar M. Malavia etc. Vs. Maganlal Mangaldas Gameti & Ors (supra), there has been only resolutions in regard to the union of the six churches but such resolutions cannot affect the composition of the Church of India (CIPBC) created under the Indian Church Act, 1927. Further, the resolutions were neither exhibited nor proved in accordance with law. His submission is that the Rules and Regulations of the Society were never amended and in view of the same, CIPBC continued to be its governing body and the affairs, were still attributed to the Bishop of Lucknow, which is the appellant himself in the present case. In support of his submission, he has relied upon CNI Vs. Lavaji Ratanji Bhai : 2005 (10) SCC 760 and Vinod Kumar Mathursewa Malavia vs. Maganlal Mangaldas Gameti & Ors : 2006 (9) SCC 282.

38. Learned Counsel for the appellant has also argued that if the edifice or foundation of action falls, the superstructure would automatically falls. In support of his submission, he relied upon Chairman-cum-Managing Director Coal India Ltd. Vs. Ananta Shah and others : 2011 (5) SCC 142 and Kalabharti Advertising Vs. Hemant Vimal Nath Naricharma and others : 2010 (9) SCC 437.

39. Learned Counsel for the appellant has also argued that CNI is not entitled to manage the affairs of the Society. The bye-laws of the Society unequivocally shows that Bishop of diocease of Lucknow shall be Chairman of Society. According to him, the appellant was enthroned as the Bishop of Diocease of Lucknow on 24.02.2005 by the Lucknow Dioceasan Council as per the provisions of the Constitution, Canons and rules of the CIPBC at Christ Church, Hazratganj, Lucknow by Bishop's of the CIPBC. A certificate of enthronment has also been issued to the appellant which is duly signed by the concerned authorities. Moreover, the enthronement of the appellant as the Bishop of Lucknow Diocease has not been contested by the respondents' Society. In fact the order dated 07.02.2015 was passed by the Deputy Registrar while considering this fact only. This fact has also not been disputed by the respondents' Society. His submission is that a bare perusal of the Memorandum of Association and Rules and Regulations of the Society makes it clear that the Society is to be run by CPIBC and the Bishop of Lucknow has to be its Chairman alone.

40. Learned Counsel for the appellant, therefore, argued that the observation of the learned Single Judge that CNI was in control of management of the Society since past 34 years does not hold good as long continuation in management is not a ground for perpetuating illegality. Moreover, CIPBC had filed a Regular Suit No. 104 of 2003,, which was subsequently transferred to Delhi High Court and marked as CS (OS) No. 2685 of 2008, in which an interim injunction was granted by the Court in favour of CIPBC, in respect of the properties owned and lawfully held by the CIPBC including the Christ Church Lucknow property, and the same is still operative. The learned Single Judge has passed the impugned order dated 28.05.2015 without considering the operative interim injunction.

41. Lastly, learned Counsel for the appellant has argued that the observation of the learned Single Judge that CNI was in control of management of the Society since past 34 years does not hold good as long as continuation in management is not a ground for perpetuating illegality. Thus, the impugned order is liable to be quashed.

42. Shri Gaurav Mehrotra, learned Counsel for the respondent no.2, while supporting the impugned judgment and order dated 28.05.2015, has argued that respondent no.1 herein is a Society under the Act, 1860, which was established and registered under the Act, 1860, in the year 1947. As per recitals contained in the bye-laws of the respondent no. 1's society, it was formed inter alia to give Christian education and opportunities for teaching, witness and worship according to the faith, doctrine and practices of the "CIBC' and more specially to the Christian staff and students. After creation of Pakistan, the erstwhile CIBC became CIPBC but no such amendment was made in the bye-laws of the respondent no. 1's Society, which continued to refer CIBC.

43. Learned Counsel for the respondent no.2 has argued that in the year 1970, six Churches including the erstwhile CIBC merged into an entity, namely, CNI. The respondent no.2 and his associates indisputably are followers of the CNI and the appellant i.e. the rival claimant, is the follower of the CIBC and he is the Bishop of Lucknow Diocease. It is not disputed that ever since the formation of CNI, the respondent no.1's Society is in control and management of members of the CNI. This fact has also been admitted by the appellant in his application/complaint dated 14.08.2014.

44. Shri Gaurav Mehrotra has argued that on 30.09.2013, the Apex Court has passed the order in Vinod Kumar Malviaya etc. Vs. Maganlal Mangaldas Gameti and others (supra), holding that merger of First District Church of Brethren (hereinafter referred to as "FDCB") vide resolution dated 17.02.1970 was not in accordance with the provisions for such merger/dissolution prescribed under Act, 1860 and the Bombay Public Trust Act (hereinafter referred to as "BPTA") under which it was registered and, therefore, was illegal. He argued that out of six churches, which merged resulting in the formation of CNI in the year 1970, FDCB was a society registered under the Act, 1860 as also a trust registered under BPTA and other five churches were neither societies nor trusts registered under the aforesaid four Acts nor were they registered under any other statute. His submission is that erstwhile CNI was creation of a statute consequent to the Indian Church Measure Act, 1927, by which the union between the erstwhile Church of England and the Church of England in India was severed/dissolved and the Church of India came into being, unfettered by any control by the Church of England or the Church of England in India. The Act, 1972 was repealed by the British Statutes (Application to India) Repeal Act, 1960 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1960") insofar as it extended to and operated as part of law of India or any part thereof, subject however, saving its operation in relation to India and to persons and things in any way belonging to or connected with India in the country to which India (Consequential Provision) Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1947") extended. The Act, 1949 referred in Section 3 or 6 was repealed by the British Statutes (Repeal) Act, 2004 w.e.f. 23.02.2004 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 2004").

45. Learned Counsel for the appellant has argued that the genesis of pronouncement of Vinod Kumar M.

Malviya (supra) was a dispute challenging the said merger of FDCB by filing objections by members of FDCB Gujarat Chapter before the Charity Commissioner regarding change of reports, before the Charity Commissioner under the BPTA. The question before the Charity Commissioner were (i) whether the change was legal, (ii) whether the said change reports or any of the change reports are liable to be allowed. The Charity Commissioner answered both the question in affirmative and dismissed the objections against the change reports, allowed the properties vested in FDCB to be vested in CNI.

46. Shri Mehrotra argued that against the order of the Charity Commissioner, the objectors preferred an application before the City Civil Court, Ahmedabad under Section 72 of the BPTA alleging that there was no lawful merger of the trust and the property vested with the Property Committee continued to exist with it. He argued that the questions which arose before the learned City Civil Judge were (i) Whether the Society is dissolved and secondly, whether the Trust i.e. FDCB is also dissolved, (ii) Whether CNI is successor of the Trust i.e. FDCB, (iii) Whether by mere merger of FDCB into various other churches, the properties are by rules and regulations of the Society ipso facto vested in CNI, without having to perform any other obligation or formality. The learned City Civil Court opined that FDCB had not been dissolved as there was no proper proof of the same. Furthermore, as the trust and society are creations of statutes, they must be dissolved accordingly and the question of merger is a factual one, wherein the merging trust continues to exist unless specifically dissolved under the statute. Furthermore, without following Section 50-A of the BPTA which deals with the dissolution of trust, FDCB property cannot be vested with CNI. Thus, the learned Civil Court Judge quashed and set-aside the order of Charity Commissioner.

47. It has been argued by the learned Counsel for the appellant that against the aforesaid order of learned Civil Court Judge, first appeals were filed before the High Court of Gujarat, wherein the basic issue before the learned Single Judge was to determine whether CNI is the successor and legal continuation of FDCB or not. The Gujarat High Court dismissed the appeal and confirmed the order of the Civil Court. Thereafter, the matter went up to the Apex Court, which was eventually decided in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (supra).

48. Shri Mehrotra has argued that as per paragraph-13 of Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (supra), the primary issue for consideration before the Apex Court was "whether the alleged unification of the First District Church of Brethern with Church of North India is correct or not'. The Apex Court held that FDCB being a society registered under the Act, 1860 as also a trust under the BPTA. It could only be dissolved/merged as per the provisions of the said Acts and not otherwise. It also held that unless the properties vested in FDCB are divested in accordance with the provisions of the Act, 1860 and BPTA, merely by filing change reports CNI cannot be claim merger of trust and thereby the properties would vest in them. The passing of the resolution in the year 1970 in this regard was nothing but an indication to show the intention to merge and nothing else. In these backdrops, the Apex Court upheld the judgment of the City Civil Court and the High Court of Gujarat on the ground that there was no dissolution of the society and further the merger was not carried out in accordance with the provisions of law. It was further held that the Society and the trust being creatures of the Statute, have to resort to the modes provided by the statute six for amalgamation and the so called merger cannot be treated or cannot be given effect to the dissolution of the trust without taking any steps in accordance with the provisions of law, the effect of resolutions or deliberations is not acceptable in the domain of law. Thus, facts and circumstances of Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (Supra) is entirely different from the facts and circumstances of the instant case, hence the learned Single Judge has rightly observed that Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (Supra) is not applicable in the facts and circumstances of the instant case.

49. Shri Gaurav Mehoratra, learned Counsel for the respondent no.2 argued that after about ten months of the judgment of the Apex Court in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (Supra), the appellant preferred an undated application/complaint before the Deputy Registrar on 14.08.2014, enclosing therewith the list of alleged members of the Governing Body of the respondent no.1-Society for the year 2013-14 and 2014-15 as also an alleged list of General Body containing 12 names. He argued that the lists submitted by the appellant did not bear the signatures of the outgoing members and office bearers as required under Section 4 of the Act, 1860. However, the Deputy Registrar issued notice to the respondents no. 1 and 2 on 04.09.2014 on the aforesaid application/complaint preferred by the appellant. In response thereof, the respondents no. 1 and 2/writ petitioners filed their objections on 25.11.2004. Thereafter, the appellant filed replication on 05.12.2014 annexing therewith a modified list of members of general body. He argued that while the earlier list which was submitted along with application 14.08.2014 comprised 12 members, the subsequent list comprised 18 members including the respondent no.2 as ex officio member.

50. Shri Mehrotra has pointed out at this stage that the election of the Committee of Management of respondent no.1-Society in the meanwhile were held on 29.11.2014 and the list of office bearers for the year 2014-15 along with the list of members of general body were submitted by the respondent no.2 in November, 2014 before the Deputy Registrar under Section 4 and 4-B of the Act, 1860. The Deputy Registrar, while passing the order dated 07.02.2015, exercised his powers under Section 4 of the Act, 1860 and considered the genesis of the Act, 1927 and Act, 1960 etc. The Deputy Registrar also considered the judgment of the Apex Court rendered in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (supra) and opined that as per the decision of the Apex Court in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (supra), the formation of CNI was declared illegal and its occupation over the immovable properties of CNI had ceased consequent to the aforesaid dictum of the Apex Court and the provisions/rules of CNI are not applicable to the respondent no.1-Society. Therefore, CNI (subsequently CIBC and thereafter CIPBC) which was still in existence, in view of saving clause 3 of the Act, 1860, was entitled to control and manage the affairs of the respondent no.1-Society in view of the contents of its bye-laws which refer CIBC but nowhere refer CNI. The Deputy Registrar has also referred to the object of the respondent no.1-Society as mentioned in the bye-laws.

The Deputy Registrar has further opined that the appellant/respondent no.3 was the Bishop of Lucknow Diocese of the CIPBC and his election/appointment thereon was valid, therefore, he was entitled to function as Chairman of respondent no.1-Society. Consequently, the Deputy Registrar had accepted the lists submitted by the appellant and rejected those lists submitted by the respondent no.2/writ petitioner no.2. The rejection of the list submitted by the respondent no.2 was based on deficiencies therein as they were not in conformity with the provisions of the bye-laws. According to the Deputy Registrar, the list of the office bearers submitted by the respondent no.2 for the year 2007-08, 2008-09 and 2009-10 mentioned 13, 14 and 14 members, respectively, whereas the bye laws permitted only a maximum of 12 members. The Deputy Registrar has further opined that the inclusion of Vinod B. Lal Legal Advisor and Daniel Subhan as ex officio members was contrary to byelaws 3, therefore, he did not accept the list submitted by respondent no.2. Vide order dated 07.02.2015, the Deputy Registrar has directed the appellant to constitute the Committee of Management of respondent no.1 society as per its byelaws and submit the same.

51. Shri Mehrotra has further submitted that aforesaid order of the Deputy Registrar dated 07.02.2015 was challenged by the respondent no.1 and 2/writ petitioners before this Court in Misc. Single No. 406 of 2015. The learned Single Judge ultimately allowed the writ petition vide judgment and order dated 28.05.2015. He argued that the learned Single Judge, while passing the impugned order dated 28.05.2015, had framed two issues i.e. (i) whether the Deputy Registrar exceeded his powers as provided under Act, 1860; (ii) the applicability of pronouncement of the Apex Court in the matter of Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (supra). The learned Single Judge considered the provision contained in Section 4 of the Act, 1860 and also the scope of Section 4 of the Act, 1860. After considering the aforesaid, the learned Single Judge has rightly came to the conclusion that the Deputy Registrar had exceeded its jurisdiction as vide order dated 07.02.2015, the Deputy Registrar decided certain issues, which were clearly beyond the pale of Section 4 of the Act, 1860 as under Section 4 of the Act, 1860, the Deputy Registrar was not empowered to decide any lis pertaining to control and management of the respondent no.1-Society nor the validity or continuance of the Committee of Management in control since 1970 or its office bearers or their election.

52. Sri Mehrotra has drawn our attention to the subject of the application preferred by the appellant before the Deputy Registrar dated 14.08.2014 and argued that the subject of the said application was disapproval/cancellation of the "existing illegal Committee of Management and registration of the Committee of Management and its members/office bearers as presented by CIPBC. Thus, from the heading of the application as also its contents it was evident that appellant/respondent no.3 claiming himself to be part of CIPBC and its Bishop of Lucknow was laying claim to the management of the respondent no.1/society solely based on the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (supra) and nothing else. The learned Single Judge, while appreciating the fact that appellant/respondent no.3 that the appellant in his application had admitted the fact that respondents nos. 1 and 2 herein/writ petitioners were in control of the management of the respondent no.1/society since 1970, has rightly opined that it was not a case where two lists of the office-bearers had been submitted by the rival groups of the Society but a case of submission of a list of office bearers by persons including the appellant/respondent no.3 herein, who are strangers to the respondent no.1/society. Further, learned Single Judge has opined that prior to 14.08.2014, appellant/respondent no.3 never laid any claim to the management or membership of the respondent no.1/society and it was not their case that they were original members of the respondent no.1/society prior to 1970, hence the appropriate course for the appellant/respondent no.3 herein and his associates was to get their rights to manage the aforesaid respondent no.1/society declared by appropriate forum either under Section 25 (1) of the Act, 1860 or better in regular proceedings by a civil Court and the Deputy Registrar should not have initiated the proceedings on the basis of the application of the appellant/respondent no.3. His submission is that these findings recorded by the learned Single Judge is in accordance with law and also in accordance with Act, 1860.

53. Sri Mehrotra has further argued that the learned Single Judge has rightly placed reliance upon A.P. Aboobaker Musaliar Vs. District Registrar (G) Kozhikode and others : (2004) 11 SCC 247 and has rightly remanded back the matter to the Deputy Registrar to take a decision afresh in the light of Section 4 and 4-B of the Act, 1860 keeping in mind the ratio laid down in A.P. Aboobaker Musaliar (supra).

54. Sri Mehrotra, learned Counsel for the respondent no.1 has next argued that the appellant is habitual of committing such frauds, with the intention of illegally and unauthorizedly usurping the Management of the Societies related to various Christian organizations. The aforesaid is evident from the fact that earlier also in the year 2010, an application was moved by the appellant/respondent no.3 in respect of the Society at Allahabad, namely, The Allahabad High School Society' duly registered under the Act, 1860. Vide the aforesaid application dated 12.04.2012, the respondent no.3 had made an attempt to illegally get the proceedings initiated before the Assistant Registrar, Firms, Chits and Societies at Allahabad with an intention to usurping the Management of the afore-named Society, although the issue pertaining to the Management of the aforesaid Society had attained finality till the level of the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India. On the aforesaid application dated 12.04.2012, the Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Lucknow, vide its order dated 14.05.2012 sought report from the Assistant Registrar, Allahabad Region, Allahabad. Against the aforesaid order of Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, a Writ Petition, bearing Writ-C No. 31962 of 2012 was preferred by the Allahabad High Court Society, in which this Court, vide order dated 05.07.2012, issued direction for keeping the aforesaid dated 14.05.2012 in abeyance.

55. Sri Mehrotra has pointed out that in view of the grounds urged in Ground "Q' and Ground "U' of the memo of the appeal and averments contained in paragraphs 49 and 59 of the affidavit in support of the application for interim relief, the instant special appeal is not maintainable and the remedy of the appellant/respondent no.3 would lie in filing appropriate application for review before the learned Single Judge. In support of this submission, he has relied upon Bhavnagar University Vs. Palitana Sugar Mills Pvt. Ltd. and others : 2003 (12) SCC 111 and State of Maharashtra Vs. Ramdas Srinivas Naik : (1982) 2 SCC 463.

56. Learned Counsel for the respondent no.2 has further argued that appellant/respondent no.3 claiming himself to be Arch Diocesan of Lucknow and Attorney Holder of Indian Church Trustees had filed a suit for declaration and permanent injunction in the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Lucknow, which was registered as Regular Suit No. 104 of 2003. In this suit, the appellant has sought a declaration that the properties in dispute mentioned in Schedule No.1 to the plaint are the properties of the plaintiff and the defendants have no right, title and interest in the same as also a permanent injunction for restraining the defendants, their officers, members or any other person claiming or acting on behalf of defendants from interfering into the enjoyment of the properties of the plaintiff indicated in Schedule No.1 to the plaint and also from alienating these properties in any manner whatsoever. He pointed out that the Church of North India Trust Association and Moderator of Church of North India Trust Association were the defendants in the said suit. Schedule No.1 to the said plaint was in fact Schedule no.2 to the Act, 1927, wherein Christ Church was mentioned as Church under Diocese of Lucknow and Saint Thomas Church of Gonda was also mentioned. He argued that vide order dated 20.10.2008 passed by the Apex Court in Transfer Petition (Civil) No. 680 of 2008 filed by the appellant/respondent no.3, the aforesaid suit was transferred in the Hon'ble High Court of Delhi at New Delhi and after transfer, the aforesaid suit was re-numbered as CS (OS) No. 2685 of 2008 : Church of India and another Vs. Church of North India Trust Association and others and the same is pending consideration before the Hon'ble Court of Delhi. In the meanwhile, various other frivolous suits were filed with respect to succession and control of Church properties of Church of North India situated in various places including the diocese of Lucknow, out of which a majority of suit vide orders passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court have been transferred to the Hon'ble Delhi High Court for determination of issue of succession of Church of India wherein the appellant himself is a party in some of the suits. The Hon'ble High Court of Delhi is now ceased with the aforesaid suits and is hearing the matter. The matter after being listed on several dates was at the stage of evidence. In the meanwhile, an interlocutory application bearing IA No. 10822 of 2017 under Order VI Rule 17 read with Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 was filed by the plaintiffs seeking the amendment of the plaint. He pointed out that a perusal of prayer no. ii, which has been sought by means of the aforesaid amendment application under Order VI Rule 17 read with Section 151 C.P.C. would reveal that the plaintiffs of the aforesaid suit are intar alia seeking categorical declaration by means of the amendment in prayers to the effect that the Act of Unification of six churches held in November, 1970 into Church of North India (CNI) be declared illegal, null and void and inoperative. He pointed out that plaintiff no.2 in the aforesaid civil suit, bearing No. CS (OS) No. 2685 of 2008 is "Vulnerable and Father John Augustine, aged about 40 years, son of Late Dr. Z. Augustine, resident of St. Mary's Para Road, Rajajipuram, Lucknow i.e. the appellant in the instant Special Appeal, who was impleaded as respondent no.3 in the writ petition No. 406 (M/S) of 2015 and the same was decided by the learned Single Judge vide order dated 28.05.2015. Thus, it is quite clear that after the order dated 28.05.2015 (Supra), the appellant has choosen to seek an appropriate declaration, seeking declaration of the unification of six Churches into the Church of North India, as "illegal, null and void and inoperative'.

57. Sri Mehrotra has argued that the appellant, who is plaintiff no.2 in the aforesaid suit, bearing No. CS (OS) No. 2865 of 2008, has consciously sought to amend the plaint seeking declaration of unification of six Churches of India into the Church of North India as "illegal, null, void and inoperative' as the appellant is aware that such a declaration is explicitly required and the same does not flow from the judgment of the Apex Court passed in Vinod Kumar N. Malviya and others Vs. Mangan Lal Mangal Das Gameti and others (supra). He further argued that the appellant is further aware that such declaration would require leading of evidence which is not generally permissible in the writ proceedings before this Court in exercise of extra ordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India as also in the intra Court appeal before the Division Bench, which is continuation of such extra ordinary jurisdiction of this Court. Thus, it is not open for the appellant to allege contrary prior to the declaration, as has been sought by seeking to amend the plaint of the Civil Suit pending before the Hon'ble Delhi High Court at New Delhi.

58. Sri Mehrotra has, thus, argued that all the arguments which are being sought to be raised by the appellant, have already been settled by specific findings recorded by the learned Single judge by the impugned judgment and order dated 28.05.2015 after due discussion and consideration on each point. Hence, the instant special appeal is devoid of merits and same is liable to be dismissed with exemplary costs.

59. Shri Nadeem Murtaza, learned Counsel for the respondent no.1 has supported the aforesaid arguments advanced by Sri Gaurav Mehrotra, learned Counsel for the respondent no.2 and argued that he has nothing to add further more.

E. Analysis

60. It is pertinent to mention that during the course of the arguments, learned Counsel for the respondent no.2 has vehemently opposed the Ground "Q' and Ground "U' taken in the instant appeal as well as averments contained in paragraphs "49' and "59' of the affidavit filed in support of the application for interim relief by the appellant and argued that these types of the averments cannot be permitted to be made while assailing the order passed by the learned Single Judge in intra Court appeal.

61. Shri Santosh Kumar, learned Counsel for the appellant has submitted that he does not want to press the averments contained in Ground "Q' and Ground "U' in the instant appeal as well as averments contained in paragraphs "49' and "59' of the affidavit filed in support of the application for interim relief and the same may be treated as not pressed.

62. Considering the aforesaid, averments contained in Ground "Q' and Ground "U' in the instant appeal as well as averments contained in paragraphs "49' and "59' of the affidavit filed in support of the application for interim relief are hereby treated as not pressed.

63. The instant controversy starts from the undated application submitted by the appellant before the Deputy Registrar contained in Annexure No.14 to the writ petition (page no. 259 of the instant special appeal). This undated application was received in the office of the Deputy Registrar on 14.08.2014 and the same is reproduced as under :-

क्राइस्ट चर्च मैकानेगी स्कूल सोसाइटी फाइल सं0 1 3167, पंजीकरण सं0–96/1947–48 की स्थापना दिनांक 27.10.1947 को की गई थी। इसका मुख्य उद्देश्य चर्च ऑफ इंग्लैण्ड के ईसाई मूल्यों, विश्वास, सिद्धान्त एवं उपासना पद्धति के आधार पर शिक्षा का प्रचार–प्रसार आदि करना था। क्राइस्ट चर्च स्कूल उ0प्र0 की राजधानी लखनऊ अत्याधिक सराहनीय रुप से कार्यरत है, परन्तु 1970, से तथाकथित एक चर्च यूनियन "चर्च आफ नार्थ इण्डिया" नाम की एक नये ईसाई मत की संस्था ने क्राइस्ट चर्च कालेज का संचालन एवं प्रबंधन अवैध रुप से कब्जा कर लिया।

यहां यह विशेष रुप से उल्लेखनीय है कि चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया की स्थापना इण्डियन चर्च एक्ट 1927 के द्वारा की गई थी, इससे पूर्व इसको चर्च ऑफ इंग्लैण्ड इन इण्डिया के नाम से जाना जाता था। इस एक्ट के पारित होने के उपरान्त अंग्रेजी साम्राज्य द्वारा या चर्च ऑफ इंग्लैण्ड द्वारा स्थापित सभी धर्मप्रान्त (डायसिस) की सभी अचल सम्पत्तियां जैसे–स्कूल, चर्च एवं अन्य सभी प्रकार के संचालन, प्रबन्धन एवं आधिपत्य चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया में निहित हो गये। लखनऊ धर्मप्रान्त (डायसिस) की स्थापना सन् 1893 में हुई जोकि स्वयमेव चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया का हिस्सा बन गया। इसलिए लखनऊ धर्मप्रान्त (डायसिस) का बिशप एवं सदस्य क्राइस्ट चर्च कालेज की प्रबंधसमिति या सामान्य सभा का सदस्य होता है जो कि नहीं है। चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया का विश्वास, दर्शन एवं उपासना पद्धति अन्य किसी भी ईसाई संस्था से सुमेलित या मिश्रित नहीं है अर्थात एकदम भिन्न है और न ही इस संस्था का विलय किसी अन्य संस्था में हो सकता है। परन्तु कुछ स्वार्थी तत्वों के व्यक्तिगत स्वार्थ के कारण सन् 1970 चर्च यूनियन के नाम पर गठित संस्था चर्च ऑफ नार्थ इण्डिया से चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया या इसका लखनऊ धर्मप्रान्त (डायसिस) का कोई सम्बन्ध नहीं है। जिस व्यक्ति ने चर्च यूनियन या चर्च ऑफ नार्थ इण्डिया की सदस्यता ग्रहण की, उसकी सदस्यता चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया से स्वतः समाप्त हो गई। इस घटनाक्रम के आधार पर गैर–संस्था के लोग/सदस्य इस संस्था के प्रबंध तन्त्र पर काबिज हो गये तथा आज तक अप्राधिकृत रुप से काबिज है। इस प्रकार क्राइस्ट चर्च मैकानेगी स्कूल सोसाइटी, लखनऊ धर्मप्रान्त (डायसिस), चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया की एक अधीनस्थ संस्था है और इसके सही संचालन हेतु इस संस्था में मूल सदस्य एवं बिशप का सदस्य होना अनिवार्य है। उपरोक्त घटनाक्रम से न केवल चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया के अनुयायियों का घोर आर्थिक नुकसान हो रहा है अपितु गैर–ईसाई समुदाय के ऐसे लोगों का भी धार्मिक विकास एवं आस्था, श्रद्धा अवरुद्ध हो रही है, जिनका विश्वास चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया मत पर आधरित है। यही नहीं, बल्कि क्राइस्ट चर्च की वर्तमान प्रबंधसमिति ने कालेज प्रबन्धन से आधिपत्य समाप्त होने के भय से एक साथ कूट रचित तरीके से सन् 1970 से सन् 2010 तक की समस्त औपचारिकताओं/कार्यवाहियों का नवीनीकरण करा लिया जो कि सोसाइटी अधिनियम की मूल भावना के विरुद्ध है। इनकी सदस्य/पदाधिकारियों की सूची में ऐसे व्यक्ति भी सम्मिलित करके दर्शाये गये हैं जोकि तत्तसमय जीवित भी नहीं थे। अभी विगत वर्ष की दिनांक 30.10.2013 को माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने अपने एक महत्वपूर्ण निर्णय सिविल अपील सं0 8800–8801/2013 (विनोद कुमार एम0 मालवीय आदि बनाम मगनलाल मंगलदास गमेटी एवं अन्य) में चर्च ऑफ नार्थ इण्डिया के गठन को अवैधानिक घोषित कर दिया है।

माननीय सर्वोच्च न्यायालय के उक्त निर्णय से चर्च ऑफ नार्थ इण्डिया (सी0एन0आई0) का न केवल हजरतगंज, लखनऊ स्थित क्राइस्ट चर्च कालेज से विधितः आधिपत्य समाप्त हो गया है बल्कि सम्पूर्ण भारतवर्ष में स्थित चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया ;ब्च्ठब्द्ध के आधिपत्य में होने वाली समस्त अचल सम्पत्तियों पर से चर्च ऑफ नार्थ इण्डिया के अप्राधिकृत कब्जे भी मुक्त किये जाने योग्य हो गये हैं। चूंकि माननीय सवोच्च न्यायालय के उक्त निर्णय से चर्च ऑफ नार्थ इण्डिया के गठन को अवैधानिक घोषित कर दिया गया है इसलिए क्राइस्ट चर्च कालेज, लखनऊ पर से इस संस्था का विगत सन् 1970 से चला आ रहा अप्राधिकृत कब्जा स्वतः समाप्त हो गया है और सर्वाधिक महत्वपूर्ण विधिक तथ्य यह है कि क्राइस्ट चर्च मैकानेगी स्कूल सोसाइटी के मूल उपविधियों ;ठलम.ळूंद्ध के अनुसार

चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया (बर्मा एवं सीलोन) जो कि अब चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया (पाकिस्तान, बर्मा, सीलोन) कहा जाता है, का दावा एवं अधिकार सक्रिय हो गया है।

अतः क्राइस्ट चर्च मैकानेगी स्कूल सोसाइटी की वर्तमान अवैध प्रबंधसमिति को निरस्त करते हुए चर्च ऑफ इण्डिया ;ब्च्ठब्द्ध द्वारा प्रस्तुत प्रबंधसमिति एवं सदस्य

पदाधिकारियों की सूची को पंजीकृत करने की कृपा करें।

महान कृपा होगी।

64. A bare perusal of the aforesaid undated application reflects that the "subject' of the aforesaid application as well as "prayer' of the aforesaid application is to disapprove/cancel the existing Committee of Management and to register the list of members of the Committee of Management submitted by the CIPBC. In the aforesaid application, the appellant had admitted the fact that since the formation of CNI i.e. since 1970, the respondent no.1/Society has been controlled and managed by the members of the CNI.

65. The Deputy Registrar, Lucknow, had considered undated application submitted by the appellant and while exercising his powers under Section 4 and 4-B of the Act, 1860, the Deputy Registrar had considered the genesis of the Churches right from the period prior to promulgation of the Indian Churches Acts of 1927, Churches of England in India Act, and the British Statutes (Application to India) Repeal Act, 1960 etc. and also considered the judgment of the Apex Court rendered in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (supra) and opined that as per the dictum of Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (supra), the formation of CNI was declared illegal and its occupation over the immovable properties of Church of India had ceased consequent to the said dictum and provisions/rules of CNI are not applicable to the respondent no.1/Society, hence the Church of India (subsequently CIBC and thereafter CIPBC), which was still in existence, in view of saving Clause-3 of the Act, 1860, was entitled to control and manage the affairs of the respondent no.1/Society in view of the contents of its bylaws which refer CIBC but nowhere refers CNI. The Deputy Registrar had also referred the object of the Society as enumerated in the bylaws and the provisions contained therein, wherein the Bishop of Lucknow was to be its ex officio Chairman, and further opined that appellant was the Bishop of Lucknow, Diocese of the CIPBC and his election/appointment thereon was valid, therefore, he was entitled to function as Chairman of the Society and accordingly, the Deputy Registrar accepted the lists submitted by the appellant and and rejected those lists submitted by the respondent no.2. It appears that the rejection of the list submitted by the respondent no.2 was based on deficiencies therein as they were not in conformity with the provisions of the bylaws as lists of office bearers submitted by the respondent no.2 for the year 2007-08, 2008-09 and 2009-2010 mentioned 13, 14 and 14 members, respectively, whereas bylaws permitted only a maximum of 12 members and the inclusion of Vinod B. Lal Legal Advisor and Deniel Subhan as ex officio members was contrary to bylaw 3. In these backgrounds, the Deputy Registrar directed the appellant to constitute the Committee of Management of the Society as per its bylaws and submit the same vide order dated 07.02.2015.

66. The aforesaid order of the Deputy Registrar dated 07.02.2015 was challenged by the respondents no. 1 and 2 by filing Misc. Single No. 406 of 2015. The learned Single Judge, after hearing the learned Counsel for the parties and gone through the record, allowed the writ petition vide judgment and order dated 28.05.2015 by quashing the order of the Deputy Registrar dated 07.02.2015, which is impugned in the instant special appeal.

67. The first limb of argument of the learned Counsel for the appellant is that the Deputy Registrar has lawfully exercised statutory jurisdiction vested in it as the complaint filed by the appellant was within the ambit of enquiry under Section 4B of the Act, 1860 and the Deputy Registrar has rightly passed the order dated 07.02.2015 but the learned Single Judge erred in arriving its conclusion that the Deputy Registrar, while adjudicating the application of the appellant, had exceeded its jurisdicion. According to him, no election was held in the Society till 2003 and the registration of the Society was renewed on the basis of list of office bearers and proceedings of election on 16.04.2002 but the learned Single Judge did not consider the matter in this aspect and erred in allowing the writ petition by means of the impugned order.

68. It is pertinent to mention that forming a Society for collectively promoting some cause with a common object is a voluntary act of any member of the Society at large. The Societies Registration Act, 1860 has been enacted by Central Legislature not with a view to create any control or supervision or superintendence over the functions of a Society by the State or its authorities. Purpose of such a legislation is only to provide aid to the members of the Society so that objects of the Society are achieved and the Society functions smoothly. With this object alone there are certain powers and functions vested in the Registrar (which includes the Deputy Registrar as well) under the Societies Registration Act, 1860. The relevant provisions which concern this matter contained in the Societies Registration Act, 1860 are Sections 4, 4-A, 4-B and 25, which are reproduced as under :-

"4. Annual List of managing body to filled:- (1) Once in every year on or before the fourteenth day succeeding the day on which, according to the rules of the society, the annual general meeting of the society is held, or; if the rules do not provide for an annual meeting, in the month of January, a list shall be filled with the Registrar, of the names, addresses and occupations of the Governor's council, directors, committee, or other governing body then entrusted with the management of the affairs of the society.

Provided that if the managing body is elected after the last submission of the list, the counter signatures of the old members, shall as far as possible, be obtained on the list. If the old office bearers do not countersign the list, the Registrar may, in his discretion, issue a public notice or notice to such persons as he thinks fit inviting objections within a specified period and shall decide all objections received within the said period.

(2) Together with list mentioned in Sub-section (1), there shall be sent to the Registrar a copy of the memorandum of association including any alteration, extension, or abridgement of purposes made under Section 12, and of the rules of the society corrected up to date and certified by not less than three of the members of the said governing body to be a correct copy and also a copy of the balance sheet for the preceding year of account.

4A. Charges etc., in rules to be intimated to Registrar.- A copy of every changes made in rules of the society and intimation of every change of address of the society, certified by not less than thee of the members of the governing body shall be sent to the Registrar within thirty days of the change."

4-B. (1) At the time of registration/renewal of a society, list of members of General Body of that society shall be filed with the Registrar mentioning the name, father's name, address and occupation of the members. The Registrar shall examine the correctness of the list of members of the General Body of such society on the basis of the register of members of the General Body and minutes book thereof, cash book, receipt book of membership fee and bank pass book of the society.

(2) If there is any change in the list of members of the General Body of the society referred to in sub-section (1), on account of induction, removal, resignation or death of any member, a modified list of members of General Body, shall be filed with the Registrar, within one month from the date of change.

(3) The list of members of the General Body to be filed with the Registrar under this section shall be signed by two office-bearers and two executive members of the society.

12. Societies enabled to alter, extend or abridge their purposes.- Whenever it shall appear to the governing body of any Society registered under this Act, which has been established for any particular purpose or purposes, that it is advisable to alter, extend, or abridge such purpose to or for other purposes within the meaning of this Act, or to amalgamate such society either wholly or partially with any other Society, such governing body may submit the proposition to the members of the society in a written or printed report, and may convene a special meeting for the consideration thereof according to the regulations of the society;

but no such proposition shall be carried into effect unless such report shall have been delivered or sent by post to every member of the Society ten days previous to the special meeting convened by the governing body for the consideration thereof, nor unless such proposition shall have been agreed to by the votes of three-fifths of the members delivered in person or by proxy, and confirmed by the votes of three-fifths of the members present at a second special meeting convened by the governing body at an interval of one month after the former meeting.

25. Disputes regarding election of office-bearers:- The prescribed authority may, on a reference made to it by the Registrar or by at least one fourth of the members of a society registered in Uttar Pradesh, hear and decide in a summary manner any doubt or dispute in respect of the election or continuance in office of an office bearer of such society, and may pass such orders in respect thereof as it deems fit.

Provided that the election of an office bearer shall be set aside where the prescribed authority is satisfied.

(a) that any corrupt practice has been committed by such office bearer; or

(b) that the nomination of any candidate has been improperly rejected; or

(c) that the result of the election in so far it concerns such office bearer has been materially affected by the improper acceptance of any nomination or by the improper reception, refusal or rejection of any vote or the reception of any vote which is void or by any non compliance with the provisions of any rules of the society.

Explanation I.-A person shall be deemed to have committed a corrupt practice who, directly or indirectly, by himself or by any other person:

(i) induces, or attempts to induce, by fraud, intentional misrepresentation, coercion or threat or injury, any elector, to give or to refrain from giving a vote in favour of any candidate, or any person to stand or not to stand as, or to withdraw or not to withdraw from being a candidate the election.

(ii) With a view to inducing any elector to give or to refrain from giving a vote in favour of any candidate, or to inducing any person to stand or not to stand as, or to withdraw or not to withdraw from being, a candidate at the election, offers or gives any money, or valuable consideration, or any place or employment, or holds out any promise of individual advantage or profit to any person;

(iii) Abets (within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code) the doing of any of the Acts specified in Clauses (i) and (ii);

(iv) Induces or attempts to induce a candidate or elector to believe that he, or any person in who he is interested, will become or will be rendered an object of divine displeasure or spiritual censure;

(v) Canvases on grounds of caste, community, sect or religion;

(vi) Commits such other practice as the State Government may prescribe to be a corrupt practice.

Explanation II- A 'promise of individual advantage or profit to a ' person' includes a promise for the benefit of the person himself, or of any one in whom he is interested.

Explanation III- The State Government may prescribe the procedure for hearing and decision of doubts or disputes in respect of such elections and make provision in respect of any other matter relating to such elections for which insufficient provision exists in this Act or in the rules of the society.

(2) Where by an order made under Sub-section (1), an election is set aside or an office-hearer is held no longer entitled to continue in office or where the Registrar is satisfied that any election of office bearer of a society has not been held within the time specified in the rules of that society, he may call a meeting of the general body of such society for electing such office bearer or office bearers, and such meeting shall be presided over and be conducted by the Registrar or by any officer authorized by him in this behalf, and the provisions in the rules of the society relating to meetings and elections shall apply to such meeting and election with necessary modifications.

(3) Where a meeting is called by the Registrar under Sub-section (2), no other meeting shall be called for the purpose of election by any other authority or by any person claiming to be an office bearer of the society.

Explanation:-For the purposes of this section, the expression prescribed authority means an office or Court authorized in this behalf by the State Government by notification published in the official Gazette"

69. Section 4 of the Act provides and obligate for filing annual list of managing body to be filled once in every year on or before the fourteenth day succeeding the day on which, according to the rules of the society, the annual general meeting of the society is held, and if the rules do not provide for an annual meeting, in the month of January, a list is to be filled with the Registrar, giving therein the names, addresses and occupations of the incumbents entrusted with the management of the affairs of the society. A proviso has been added to the Section provided that if the managing body is elected after the last submission of the list, counter signatures of the old office bearers do not countersign the list, the Registrar may, in his discretion, issue a public notice or notice to such persons as he thinks fit inviting objections within a specified period and shall decide all objections received within the said period. Section 4A obligates that every changes made in rules of the society has to be informed within thirty days of the change.

70. Section 4-B of the Act, 1860 has been enacted by the State Legislature with an object of avoiding a situation where the membership of a Society becomes subject matter of a dispute on account of non-existence of correct list of the members of the General Body of the Society with the Registrar. Object of this amendment further is to check that illegal persons are not able to claim themselves to be the members or office bearers of such Society. In order to avoid these situations, Section 4-B of the Act, 1860 has been enacted. Section 4-B of the Act, 1860 requires filing of list of members of the General Body with the Registrar at the time of registration and also at the time of renewal. It further mandates that on filing of the list of the members of the General Body of the Society, the Registrar shall examine the correctness of the list of the members of such Society on the basis of certain documents and records mentioned therein. Sub-section (2) of Section 4-B further requires that if there is any change in the list of members of the General Body of the Society on account of various exigencies, namely, induction, removal, registration or death of any member, a modified list of members is to be filed with the Registrar within one month from the date of change. Sub-section (3) of Section 4-B mandates that list of members of the General Body to be filed with the Registrar needs to be signed by two office bearers and two executive members of the Society.

71. The object and purpose of Section 25 of the Act, 1860 is to provide for forum to decide disputes regarding election of office-bearers of registered Societies. A careful reading of Section 25(1) of the Societies Registration Act reveals that the Prescribed Authority envisaged therein assumes jurisdiction to decide any doubt or dispute in respect of the election or continuance in office of an office-bearer of a Society only in two situations i.e. (1) on a reference to be made to it by the Registrar and (2) on a reference to be made to the Prescribed Authority by at least one-fourth members of the Society. In absence of any of the aforesaid two modes of references, the Prescribed Authority or Sub Divisional Officer even in terms of the Notification dated 28.10.1975, will have no jurisdiction to entertain any application from any one in relation to any doubt or dispute as referred to in Section 25(1) of the Societies Registration Act. The very assumption of the jurisdiction by the Prescribed Authority/Sub Divisional Officer under Section 25(1) of the Societies Registration Act is dependent on either of the two conditions or situations enumerated therein i.e. to say, the Prescribed Authority will assume jurisdiction to proceed under Section 25(1) of the Societies Registration Act only in case of availability of reference before him from the Registrar or in a case of reference to be made by one-fourth members of the Society. In absence of fulfillment of either of these two conditions, the Prescribed Authority/Sub Divisional Officer cannot assume jurisdiction on his own on a mere application made by any member of a Society provided such application/reference is not made by one-fourth members of the Society.

72. Sub-Section (2) of Section 25 of the Act, 1860 comes into operation after the election is set aside, or an office bearers is held no longer entitled to continue in office. The satisfaction of the Registrar that any election of office bearers of Society has not been held within the time specified to the Rules of that Society is to be arrived in accordance with the provisions in Bye-laws of the Society, to which the members have subscribed. If there is no provision in the Bye-laws for holding the elections after the expiry of the tenure of the executive committee or office-bearers, the Registrar may intervene to fill in the gap and to provide for such any eventuality by calling the meeting of the general body of the Society for electing office-bearers. Where the election of the office-bearers of the Society has been set aside under sub-section (1) and the time limit of holding election has expired the Registrar may step in and provide for holding elections. However in cases where the Bye-laws of the Society do not provide for any such eventuality the Registrar does not get authority to call any meeting of the general body of the Society to elect executive committee or office-bearers and to preside over such meeting or to authorizes any officer in that behalf. The Rules of the Society have to take precedence, except where they are inconsistent of the provision of the Act.

73. The expression "Prescribed Authority" has been defined in the explanation appended to Sub-section (3) of Section 25 of the Societies Registration Act to mean an officer or court authorized in this behalf by the State Government by notification to be published in the Official Gazette. The State Government by means of notification published in the Official Gazette dated 28.08.1975 has authorized the Sub Divisional Officers within their respective jurisdictions to act as "Prescribed Authority'. The Prescribed Authority is, thus, a creation of the Act, 1860 for the purposes of exercising his jurisdiction under Section 25(1) of the Act, 1860. Any statutory authority created under an enactment or Legislation has to act within the four-corners or bounds of the enactment or the Legislation under which it is created. Such statutory authority is empowered to exercise his jurisdiction only in accordance with the provisions contained in the Act or the Legislation which confers such jurisdiction. Accordingly, the Prescribed Authority being creation of the Societies Registration Act is also empowered to exercise his jurisdiction only in accordance with the provisions contained in Societies Registration Act, more specifically Section 25 of the said Act and not otherwise. It is the Statute or the Legislation which confers the nature of jurisdiction to be exercised by a statutory authority. In any circumstance, such a statutory authority conferred with certain statutory functions cannot be permitted to go beyond the prescriptions available in the Statute. Accordingly, the Prescribed Authority under Section 25 of the Act, 1860 is also bound by the statutory prescriptions available therein.

74. From the aforesaid provisions, it is quite clear that the object and scope of the provisions of Section 4 and 25 of the Act, 1860 are quite separate and distinct.

75. In the instant case, the controversy starts from the undated application of the appellant, which was received in the office of the Deputy Registrar on 14.08.2014, as reproduced hereinabove. It reflects that the appellant and his associates had neither been in control and management of the respondent no.1/Society for the last 34 years nor the appellant was an ordinary or a life member of the respondent no.1/Society either prior to or after 1970. The "subject' of the aforesaid application as well as "prayer' made therein shows that the appellant sought relief before the Deputy Registrar to disapprove/cancel the "existing' illegal Committee of Management and to register the Committee of Management and its members/officer-bearers as presented by CIPBC. To substantiate his claim, the appellant presented himself before the Deputy Registrar as part of CIPBC and its Bishop of Lucknow and claimed the management of the respondent no.1/society in the light of the dictum of the Apex Court in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (Supra). It was not the case of the appellant before the Deputy Registrar through the aforesaid application that rival groups of the same society had submitted two lists of office bearers of the Society but the appellant and his associates putforth his claim before the Deputy Registrar by enclosing the alleged list of office bearers, who appears to be not members of the Society since 1970 by claiming the members of CIPBC. It is an admitted fact that prior to filing the aforesaid application i.e. 14.08.2014, the appellant and his associates never laid any claim to the management or membership of the respondent no.1/Society. The claim of the appellant, through the aforesaid application, was not the case before the Deputy Registrar that he and his associates were original members of the respondent no.1/society prior to 1970. In these backgrounds, the learned Single Judge has rightly opined that appropriate course for the appellant/respondent no.3 and his associates was to get their rights to manage the respondent no.1/Society declared by appropriate forum either under Section 25 (1) of the Act, 1860 or better in regular proceedings by a civil Court and the Deputy Registrar should not have initiated the proceedings on the basis of the application of appellant as the appellant appears to be a stranger.

76. As stated hereinabove, the entire claim of the appellant as enumerated in the aforesaid application was based on the dictum of Vinod Kumar Malviya (supra). The learned Single Judge, after going through the facts and circumstances of the Vinod Kumar Malviya's case, has opined that the merger of Church of India (CIBC) and validity of the formation of CNI were not in issue in the said case nor did the Apex Court declare the creation of CNI to be illegal. This Court is of the opinion that dictum of Vinod Kumar Malviya's case is not applicable in the instant case and the learned Single Judge has rightly rejected the plea of the appellant by observing that the merger of CIBC and validity of formation of CNI were not in issue in the said case nor did the Apex Court declare the creation of CNI to be illegal and the Deputy Registrar has wrongly interpreted the aforesaid judgment of the Apex Court.

77. The learned Single Judge also noted the fact that the issue of the validity of succession of CNI to CIBC is pending consideration before Hon'ble Delhi High Court in various suits transferred to it by the Apex Court including the suits filed by the appellant and CNI, which manages the properties of CNI is a party to the suit and the relief of declaration of title over the properties mentioned in Schedule to the plaint and permanent injunction has been claimed. Therefore, the learned Single Judge recorded finding that the Deputy Registrar, while passing the order dated 07.02.2015, did not consider aforesaid fact and erred in proceeding on the assumption that the Apex Court had declared the formation of CNI to be illegal which was apparently erroneous as already discussed earlier. In these backdrops, the learned Single Judge has rightly opined that the Deputy Registrar has exceeded its jurisdiction in considering and deciding the issue as the issue as to the existence or otherwise of the CIBC based on various provisions of Act, 1927, 1960 etc. and holding that it was very much in existence as per law and was entitled to control and manage the respondent no.1/society. This finding, in our view, has rightly been recorded by the learned Single Judge as under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860, the Registrar is not supposed to make adjudication of dispute of correctness of membership like a Court but whenever a list is submitted or there is any change in the list of members and any objection is raised or otherwise, the Registrar has to prima facie satisfy himself that change has been made in accordance with the provisions of bye-laws and prima facie genuine. For this purpose, the Registrar may examine agenda, minutes of meeting and other relevant steps taken by the Society. To this extent, an inquiry can be made by the Registrar to find out whether list of members or change in list of members is correct or not. If the dispute in respect of the elections of the office bearers or their continuance, qua a registered Society, such dispute must necessarily be referred to the Prescribed Authority under Section 25(1) of the Act, 1860, and therefore, the Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Lucknow could not have interfered in the matter.

78. So far as the plea of the appellant that CNI has no role to play in the management of the respondent no.1/Society in view of the dictum of the Apex Court in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (supra) and further the CNI is not the successor of Society and also not entitled to manage the affairs of the Society, are concerned, it transpires from the judgment of Apex Court in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (Supra) that the genesis of the Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (supra) was a dispute challenging the said merger of FDCB by filing objections by members of FDCB Gujrat Chapter before the Charity Commissioner regarding change of reports, before the Charity Commissioner under the Bombay Port Trusts Act. The questions before the Charity Commissioner were (i) whether the change was legal, (ii) whether the said change reports or any of the change reports are liable to be allowed. The Charity Commissioner answered both the questions in affirmative and dismissed the objections raised against the change reports, allowed the properties vested in FDCB to be vested in CNI. Against the order of the Charity Commissioner the objectors preferred an application before the City Civil Court, Ahmedabad under Section 72 of the BPT Act alleging that there was no lawful merger of the trust and the property vested with the Property Committee continued to exist with it. The questions which arose before the learned City Civil Judge were as under:-- (i) Whether the society is dissolved and secondly, whether the Trust i.e. FDCB is also dissolved ?; (ii) Whether CNI is successor of the Trust i.e. FDCB?; and (iii) Whether by mere merger of FDCB into various other churches, the properties are by rules and regulations of the society ipso facto vested in CNI, without having to perform any other legal obligation or formality?. The learned City Civil Court opined that FDCB had not been dissolved as there was no proper proof of the same. Furthermore, as a trust and society are creations of statutes, they must be dissolved accordingly and the question of merger is a factual one, wherein the merging trust continues to exist unless specifically dissolved under the statute. Furthermore, without following Section 50-A of the BPT Act which deals with the dissolution of trust, FDCB property cannot be vested with CNI. Thus, the learned Civil Court Judge quashed and set aside the order of the Charity Commissioner. The matter went to the High Court of Gujarat. The basic issue before the learned Single Judge of the Hon'ble High Court of Gujarat was to determine whether CNI is the successor and legal continuation of FDCB or not. The Gujrat High Court dismissed the appeal and confirmed the order of the Civil Court. In these backdrops, the matter went up to the Supreme Court which was decided in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya's case (supra). The primary issue enumerated in paragraph 13 of the said judgment for consideration before the Apex Court was 'whether the alleged unification of the First District Church of Brethren with Church of North India is correct or not and the same would answer all the ancillary issues raised before the Supreme Court'. The Apex Court held that FDCB being a Society registered under Act, 1860 also a trust under the BPT Act it could only be dissolved/merged as per the provisions of the said Acts and not otherwise. It also held that unless the properties vested in FDCB are divested in accordance with the provisions of the Act, 1860 and BPT Act, merely by filing change reports CNI cannot claim merger of trust and thereby the properties would vest in them. The passing of the resolution in the year 1970 in this regard was nothing but an indication to show the intention to merge and nothing else. The Supreme Court upheld the judgment of the City Civil Court and the High Court on the ground that there was no dissolution of the society and further the merger was not carried out in accordance with the provisions of law. It further held that the society and the trust being creatures of the statute, have to resort to the modes provided by the statute for amalgamation and the so called merger cannot be treated or cannot be given effect to the dissolution of the trust without taking any steps in accordance with the provisions of law, the effect of resolutions or deliberations is not acceptable in the domain of law. Thus, from the facts and circumstances of the instant case, it is quite clear that the dictum of the Apex Court in Vinod Kumar M. Malviya (supra) is not applicable in the instant case and the learned Single Judge had rightly came to the conclusion that neither the status of the respondent no.1/Society nor the validity of merger of Church of India (CIBC) with CNI was an issue nor was it decided by the Apex Court, hence the Deputy Registrar wrongly presumed that the Apex Court declared the creation of CNI as illegal. In fact the aforesaid issue is pending consideration before the Hon'ble Delhi High Court in various suits including the suit filed on behalf of the appellant. Hence the plea of the appellant in this regard has no substance and it is rejected accordingly.

79. In regard to the plea of the Saving Clause in British Statutes (Application to India) Repeal Act, 1960, the learned Single Judge has opined that the British Statutes (Repeal) Act, 2004 received the assent of the President of India on 20.02.2004 and con-joint reading of the provisions of Section 3 of Repeal Act, 1960, sub-sections (1), (2), (3) and (4) of Section 1 of the Act, 1949 as well as Repeal Act, 2004 shows that what was saved by Section 3 of the Act, 1960 was the application of any statute repealed by it in relation to India and to persons and things in any way belonging to or connected with India, in any country to which India (Consequential Provision) Act, 1949 extended, therefore, assuming that the said provision saved the application of the Indian Church Act, 1927, the same stood repealed w.e.f. 20.02.2004 but this aspect of the matter was not considered by the Deputy Registrar. Moreover, the Deputy Registrar did not at all consider the question as to whether the CIBC was in existence defacto or not and further neither the appellant nor any other person claiming under CIBC or CIPBC had staked any claim to the management of the respondent no.1/society since 1970, hence their defacto existence was seriously questionable. In our view, these findings recorded by the learned Single Judge have substance as the aforesaid points are relevant for proper adjudication of the case and the Deputy Registrar has erred in not considering the aforesaid fact. Thus, the learned Single Judge has rightly remanded back the matter to the Deputy Registrar to take a decision afresh in the light of Section 4 and 4-B of the Act, 1860 keeping in mind the directions of the Apex Court in case of the A.P. Aboobaker Vs. District Registrar (G) Kozhikode and others : (2004) 11 SCC 247 and the observations made in the body of the judgment subject to any order or declaration by any court in favour of appellant in a pending or fresh suit, if filed by him or his associates.

80. The learned Single Judge has also clarified that the discussions made in the impugned judgment are only for the purpose of adjudicating the validity of the order of the Deputy Registrar and any observations made shall be prejudice the rights of the parties pending adjudication in any proceedings before any Court. Thus, the plea of the appellant that the observation of the learned Single Judge that the appellant was a stranger and if this finding of the learned Single Judge is not set-aside, the appellant shall suffer irreparable loss in a pending issue, has no substance and is also rejected.

(F) Conclusion

81. In view of the aforesaid discussions, this Court is of the considered opinion that there is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned judgment and order dated 28.05.2015 passed by the learned Single Judge.

82. The intra Court appeal lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

1. The order dated 04.08.2020 passed by the State of Uttar Pradesh whereby one increment of the Petitioner has been withheld with cumulative effect and an adverse entry has been ordered to be made in his character roll is under challenge in the present writ petition.

2. The Petitioner is a member of the Uttar Pradesh Development Authorities Centralised Services created under the Uttar Pradesh Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973. He was initially appointed to the post of Junior Engineer on 08.08.1986 and was posted at Ghaziabad Development Authority. From there he was transferred to Allahabad Development Authority. In the year 2005, he was transferred to Lucknow Development Authority (for short the "Authority'). It appears that in the Gomti Nagar Extension Scheme, under the River View Apartment Phase-1, the Authority had constructed 1245 flats known as Ganga, Yamuna, Saraswati, Sharda and Vanasthali Apartments through the agency of Larsen & Toubro Limited. The construction of the said Apartments was started in the year 2008 and was completed in October, 2011. After almost three years thereafter, on 06.07.2014, the Chief Minister of the State made a surprise inspection of the 'Saraswati Apartments'. During his visit, the allottees inter alia made a complaint regarding water logging in the basement of the Apartment. In this regard the 'River View Jan Kalyan Samiti', an association of the residents of the River View Apartments also submitted a representation to the District Magistrate, Lucknow.

3. On 06.07.2014, the then Vice Chairman of the Authority submitted a report to the Principal Secretary to the Chief Minister. In his report, the Vice Chairman stated that at the time of inspection on 06.07.2014 the water logging in the basement of the Apartment was on account of the faulty construction carried out by the construction agency. It was also stated that engineers namely, S.N. Tripathi, R.N. Singh, D.S. Chauhan and Kailash Singh continued to remain in the said project from the time the construction started till the time of its completion. On 16.07.2014, the Vice Chairman again submitted a report in which it was reiterated that water logging in the basement was due to the defective design and certain short comings in the construction work carried out by the construction agency. The name of the Vice Chairman, Secretaries and the engineers who were posted in the said project was also mentioned. The name of engineers and the duration of their posting in the said project as indicated in the said letter is extracted below: -

दिनांक 25.08.2015 को अधोहस्ताक्षरी के निरीक्षण के समय यह पाया गया कि बेसमेन्ट के पानी की निकासी हेतु विभिन्न स्थानों पर डक्ट बनाये गये हैं जिनमें पम्प स्थापित कर पानी बाहर निकाला जाना था। सचिव, लखनऊ विकास प्राधिकरण द्वारा उपलब्ध करायी गयी सूचना में उल्लेख किया गया है कि निरीक्षण के समय 0.5 एच0पी0 के 03 पम्प लगे थे, जिन्हें हटाकर वर्तमान में 2.5 एच0पी0 के 03 पम्प मेसर्स एल0एण्डटी0 लि0 द्वारा लगाये गये हैं। अभिलेखों के परिशीलन से यह स्पष्ट है कि निर्माण संस्था द्वारा संस्थापित किये जाने वाले पम्पों की क्षमता के सन्दर्भ में कोई परिकल्पना स्वीकृत नही करायी गयी है वर्तमान में एल0एण्डटी0 द्वारा बेसमेन्ट में आने वाले बरसाती पानी के सम्बन्ध में एक अहस्ताक्षरित गणना सीट उपलब्ध करायी गयी है, जिसमें तीन एल0पी0एस0 डिस्चार्ज को 10 मीटर हेड के साथ पम्प डिजाइन किये जाने का उल्लेख किया गया है, परन्तु पम्प की क्षमता हेतु कोई गणना नहीं की गयी है। एल0एण्डटी0 द्वारा उपलब्ध कराये गये उल्लिखित डेटा के आधार पर तीन एल0पी0एस0 डिस्चार्ज के साथ 10 मीटर हेड के साथ पम्पिंग हेतु पम्प की क्षमता हेतु परिषद स्तर से गणना करायी गयी है, जिसमें प्रत्येक सम्प हेतु 0.5 हार्स पावर की क्षमता का पम्प लगाया जाना उचित पाया गया है जिससे स्पष्ट है कि मात्र बरसाती पानी आने पर 0.5 हार्स पावर के पूर्व स्थापित पम्प पानी निकासी हेतु पर्याप्त थे, परन्तु उनके क्रियाशील न होने एवं अन्य माध्यमों से बेसमेन्ट में पानी आने के कारण जल भराव की स्थिति उत्पन्न हुई। चूंकि पानी निकासी से सम्बन्धित अनुरक्षण का दायित्व एल0एण्डटी0 का ही था। अतः जल भराव की स्थिति हेतु प्रथम दृष्टया निर्माणकर्ता फर्म मेसर्स एल0एण्डटी0 लि0 दोषी प्रतीत होती हैं।'''

9. On 09.06.2016, the Petitioner was served with a show cause notice dated 16.05.2016 along with a copy of the inquiry report dated 04.09.2015. In his report, the Inquiry Officer found Charges 1 and 2 proved and Charge 3 was found to be partly proved against the Petitioner.

10. On 23.06.2016, the Petitioner submitted his reply to the show cause notice dated 16.05.2016. On 12.03.2019, in connection with the show cause notice, the State Government called the Petitioner for personal hearing. On 12.03.2019, the Petitioner again submitted a representation. Thereafter, the order impugned in the present writ petition was passed.

11. Shri Vikas Singh, learned counsel for the Petitioner has raised the following four contentions:

a. No oral enquiry, whatsoever, was held against the Petitioner.

b. Copies of the documents relied upon by the Inquiry Officer in his inquiry report were not supplied to the Petitioner.

c. The order impugned is a non-speaking order and cannot be sustained.

d. The Petitioner has been discriminated in the matter of punishment inasmuch as for the same charge the other officers have been exonerated whereas the Petitioner has been punished.

12. Shri Ajay Kumar Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State-Respondent has supported the impugned order.

13. Heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

14. The service condition of the Petitioner is governed by the Uttar Pradesh Development Authorities Centralised Services Rules, 1985. As per Rule 33 of the said Rules, the rules regarding disciplinary proceedings, appeals and representations against punishments, as are applicable to the Government Servants apply to the officers and other employees of the service, subject to such modifications as the Government may make from time to time.

15. In exercise of the power conferred by the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution, the Rules known as the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 (for brevity "the Rules'), have been framed by the Government of Uttar Pradesh. The Rules prescribe the detailed procedure to be followed in the matters of enforcing discipline and imposing penalty/punishment against Government servants and in appeals in case of proven misconduct.

16. Rule 3 of the Rules specifies the minor and major penalties which can be imposed on a Government servant. Withholding of increments with cumulative effect is one of the major penalties which can be inflicted upon a Government servant.

17. The procedure and the manner in which an inquiry has to be conducted before imposing any major penalty on a Government servant is laid down in Rule 7 of the Rules. Sub-rule (v), (vi), (vii) & (x) of Rule 7 being relevant are being extracted below for ready reference:-

7. Procedure for imposing major penalties. - Before imposing any major penalty on a Government servant, an inquiry shall be held in the following manner:

(i) to (iv) (omitted as unnecessary)

(v) The charge-sheet, along with the copy of the documentary evidences mentioned therein and list of witnesses and their statements, if any shall be served on the charged Government Servant personally or by registered post at the address mentioned in the official records. In case the charge-sheet could not be served in aforesaid manner, the charge-sheet shall be served by publication in a daily newspaper having wide circulation:

Provided that where the documentary evidence is voluminous, instead of furnishing its copy with charge-sheet, the charge Government servant shall be permitted to inspect the same before the Inquiry Officer.

(vi) Where the charged Government servant appears and admits charges, the Inquiry Officer shall submit his report to the Disciplinary Authority on the basis of such admission.

(vii) Where the charged Government servant denies the charge the Inquiry

Officer shall proceed to call the witnesses proposed in the charge-sheet and record their oral evidence in presence of the charge Government servant who shall be given opportunity to cross-examine such witnesses. After recording the aforesaid evidences, the Inquiry officer shall call and record the oral evidence which the charged Government servant desired in his written statement to be produced in his defence:

Provided that the Inquiry Officer may for reasons to be recorded in writing refuse to call a witness.

(viii) & (ix) (omitted as unnecessary)

(x) Where the charged government servant does not appear on the date fixed in the inquiry or at any stage of the proceeding in spite of the service of the notice on him or having knowledge of the date, the inquiry officer shall proceed with the inquiry ex parte. In such a case the inquiry officer shall record the statement of witnesses mentioned in the charge-sheet in absence of the charged government servant.

(xi) to (xii) (omitted as unnecessary)"

18. Rule 8 of the Rules provides that after the inquiry is completed, the Inquiry Officer shall submit his inquiry report to the Disciplinary Authority along with all the records of the inquiry. Rule 9 of the Rules prescribes the procedure to be adopted by the Disciplinary Authority after receiving the inquiry report.

19. With regard to the first contention, it is alleged that after the Petitioner submitted his reply to the charge-sheet, the Petitioner, alongwith R.N. Singh, D.S. Chauhan and Kailash Singh was summoned by the Inquiry Officer on 12.01.2015. The Inquiry Officer put some questions to the Petitioner, and after obtaining his answers to the same, the Petitioner was asked to leave. In Paragraph 12 of the writ petition, the Petitioner has categorically stated that no oral inquiry, whatsoever, was held by the Inquiry Officer against the Petitioner; no evidence was led by the Respondents and the charges were not proved. The Respondent's Reply to the above assertions can be found in Paragraph 15 of the counter affidavit. Paragraph 12 of the writ petition and Paragraph 15 of the counter affidavit are being reproduced below for ready reference: -

PARAGRAPH 12 OF THE WRIT PETITION

"12. That the petitioner begs to submit that after submission of reply to the charge-sheet denying the charges by the delinquent officer, it is the obligation upon the inquiry officer before calling the delinquent officer to prove his innocence to ask the department to prove the charges against the delinquent and thereafter the delinquent be given an opportunity to rebut the same in order to prove his innocence and any departure from this requirement is in violation of the principle of the natural justice. In the present case, the inquiry officer never fixed any date for the department to prove the charges levelled against the petitioner or any of the three officers mentioned above. For the first time, after submission of the reply of the petitioner on 22.10.2014 to the charge-sheet dated 04.10.2014, the inquiry officer summoned on 12.01.2015 not only the petitioner but also three other officers namely S/Shri R.N. Singh Executive Engineer, D.S. Chauhan Assistant Engineer, Kailash Singh Junior Engineer for conducting inquiry and on 12.01.2015, only the petitioner along with three above mentioned chargesheeted officers were present before the inquiry officer but no one on behalf of the department was present on that date before the inquiry officer to prove the charges against the petitioner on the basis of only two documentary evidence in support of the above charges. Except on 12.01.2015, no other date was fixed by the inquiry officer to hold inquiry in respect of the chargesheet dated 04.10.2014 by the inquiry officer against the petitioner."

PARAGRAPH 15 OF THE COUNTER AFFIDAVIT

"15. That the contents of paragraphs 8 to 18 of the writ petition needs no comments.

20. Thus, it is not in dispute that no oral inquiry, as provided in sub-rule (vii) of Rule 7 of the Rules, was held by the Inquiry Officer.

21. By a catena of decisions, the Apex Court has laid down the principles regarding the manner in which disciplinary proceedings are to be conducted and the procedure to be followed therein. It is not necessary to refer to all these decisions. Suffice it to refer to a few decisions on this topic.

22. In State of Uttranchal and others v. Kharak Singh, (2008) 8 SCC 236, after referring to some leading decisions on the issue, the Apex Court consolidated the principles to be followed in disciplinary proceedings. Paragraphs 15 (relevant portion) and 17 of the said report are being extracted below:

"15. From the above decisions, the following principles would emerge:

(i) The enquiries must be conducted bona fide and care must be taken to see that the enquiries do not become empty formalities.

(ii) omitted

(iii) In an enquiry, the employer/department should take steps first to lead evidence against the workman/delinquent charged and give an opportunity to him to cross-examine the witnesses of the employer. Only thereafter, the workman/delinquent be asked whether he wants to lead any evidence and asked to give any explanation about the evidence led against him.

(iv) On receipt of the enquiry report, before proceeding further, it is incumbent on the part of the disciplinary/punishing authority to supply a copy of the enquiry report and all connected materials relied on by the enquiry officer to enable him to offer his views, if any.

* * *

17. On the other hand, one Mr P.C. Lohani, Dy. Divisional Forest Officer, Nandhaur acting as an enquiry officer after putting certain questions and securing answers submitted a report on 16-11-1985. No witnesses were examined. Apparently there was not even a presenting officer. A perusal of the report shows that the enquiry officer himself inspected the areas in the forest and after taking note of certain alleged deficiencies secured some answers from the delinquent by putting some questions. It is clear that the enquiry officer himself has acted as the investigator, prosecutor and judge. Such a procedure is opposed to principles of natural justice and has been frowned upon by this Court."

23. In Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank & Ors., (2009) 2 SCC 570, the Apex Court reiterated that charges levelled against the charged Government servant must be proved by leading cogent evidence. Paragraph 14 of the said report is reproduced below: -

"Indisputably, a departmental proceeding is a quasi judicial proceeding. The Enquiry Officer performs a quasi judicial function. The charges leveled against the delinquent officer must be found to have been proved. The enquiry officer has a duty to arrive at a finding upon taking into consideration the materials brought on record by the parties. The purported evidence collected during investigation by the Investigating Officer against all the accused by itself could not be treated to be evidence in the disciplinary proceeding. No witness was examined to prove the said documents. The management witnesses merely tendered the documents and did not prove the contents thereof. Reliance, inter alia, was placed by the Enquiry Officer on the FIR which could not have been treated as evidence."

and then in paragraph 23 of the said decision, the Apex Court held as follows: -

".....The materials brought on record pointing out the guilt are required to be proved. A decision must be arrived at on some evidence, which is legally admissible. The provisions of the Evidence Act may not be applicable in a departmental proceeding but the principles of natural justice are. As the report of the Enquiry Officer was based on merely ipse dixit as also surmises and conjectures, the same could not have been sustained. The inferences drawn by the Enquiry Officer apparently were not supported by any evidence. Suspicion, as is well known, however high may be, can under no circumstances be held to be a substitute for legal proof."

24. In State of U.P. and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772, where the delinquent employee had not even submitted his reply to the charge-sheet, while considering the impact of Rule 7 of the Rules, the Apex Court observed as under: -

"27. A bare perusal of the aforesaid sub-rule shows that when the respondent had failed to submit the explanation to the charge-sheet it was incumbent upon the inquiry officer to fix a date for his appearance in the inquiry. It is only in a case when the government servant despite notice of the date fixed failed to appear that the inquiry officer can proceed with the inquiry ex parte. Even in such circumstances it is incumbent on the inquiry officer to record the statement of witnesses mentioned in the charge-sheet. Since the government servant is absent, he would clearly lose the benefit of cross-examination of the witnesses. But nonetheless in order to establish the charges the Department is required to produce the necessary evidence before the inquiry officer. This is so as to avoid the charge that the inquiry officer has acted as a prosecutor as well as a judge.

28. An inquiry officer acting in a quasi-judicial authority is in the position of an independent adjudicator. He is not supposed to be a representative of the department/ disciplinary authority/ Government. His function is to examine the evidence presented by the Department, even in the absence of the delinquent official to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved."

25. In Brij Bihari Singh v. Bihar State Financial Corpn., (2015) 17 SCC 541 the Apex Court observed as under: -

"9. It is well settled that a person who is required to answer a charge imposed should know not only the accusation but also the testimony by which the accusation is supported. The delinquent must be given fair chance to hear the evidence in support of the charge and to cross-examine the witnesses who prove the charge. The delinquent must also be given a chance to rebut the evidence led against him. A departure from this requirement violates the principles of natural justice. Furthermore, the materials brought on record pointing out the guilt are required to be proved. If the enquiry report is based on merely ipse dixit and also conjecture and surmises, it cannot be sustained in law.'

26. Thus, it is well settled that the prosecution has to prove the charges by producing documents through witnesses and placing such witnesses to be cross examined by the charged Government servant. Even in the absence of the charged Government servant, the Inquiry Officer is obliged to examine the evidence presented by the Department to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved.

27. A perusal of the charge-sheet would show that all the three charges are based on the alleged complaint dated 06.07.2014 of the Jan Kalyan Samiti addressed to the Chief Minister and the proceeding of the meeting dated 12.08.2014. Admittedly, the Petitioner had given a detailed reply to the charge-sheet denying the charges levelled against him. However, the Inquiry Officer did not hold any oral inquiry and has given his report only on the basis of the reply submitted by the Petitioner. Sub-rule (vii) of Rule 7 of the Rules mandates that in all cases where the charged Government servant denies the charges, the Inquiry Officer shall proceed to call the witnesses proposed in the charge-sheet and record their oral evidence in the presence of the charged Governmnet servant, who shall then be given an opportunity to cross-examine such witness. In the present case the aforesaid procedure has not been observed. Since no oral evidence has been examined, the documents cannot be said to have been proved, and could not have been relied upon to hold the Petitioner guilty in the matter. In the absence of any oral inquiry, no amount of reasoning given by the Inquiry Officer is going to validate the proceeding. In view of the above, this Court is constrained to hold that the inquiry proceedings stands vitiated for not following the mandatory provisions of sub-rule (vii) of Rule 7 of the Rules.

28. The second contention of the learned counsel for the Petitioner also has merit. As already mentioned above, the Petitioner was summoned by the Inquiry Officer on 12.01.2015. On the said date, after eliciting the Petitioner's reply to the questions put by the Inquiry Officer, no further proceedings were held. A perusal of the inquiry report shows that after 12.01.2015, the Inquiry Officer entered into correspondence with the Vice Chairman of the Authority and thereafter submitted his report after taking into account the information furnished by the Vice Chairman. The relevant portion of the inquiry report, to which attention of this Court was drawn by the learned counsel for the Petitioner, is extracted below: -

29. The supply of copies of the documents sought to be relied upon by the authorities to prove the charges levelled against a Government servant are necessarily required to be provided to the delinquent employee. The Apex Court, through numerous judgments, has clearly laid down the rationale for the rule. The proposition of law that a Government employee facing a departmental enquiry is entitled to all the relevant statements, documents and other materials to enable him to have a reasonable opportunity to defend himself in the departmental enquiry against the charges is too well established to need any further reiteration. In Kashinath Dikshita v. Union of India, (1986) 3 SCC 229, the importance of access to relevant documents which are to be used against the Government servant was explained. It was held that access to such documents is necessary for the Government servant to effectively meet the charges against him. In the said case, the enquiry proceedings had been challenged on the ground that non-supply of the statements of the witnesses and copies of the documents had resulted in the breach of rules of natural justice. The appellant therein had requested for supply of the copies of the documents as well as the statements of the witnesses at the preliminary enquiry. The request made by the appellant was turned down by the disciplinary authority. The Apex Court observed as follows: -

"10. ... When a government servant is facing a disciplinary proceeding, he is entitled to be afforded a reasonable opportunity to meet the charges against him in an effective manner. And no one facing a departmental enquiry can effectively meet the charges unless the copies of the relevant statements and documents to be used against him are made available to him. In the absence of such copies, how can the concerned employee prepare his defence, cross-examine the witnesses, and point out the inconsistencies with a view to show that the allegations are incredible?"

30. In the case at hand, the Inquiry Officer has, admittedly, taken into account a large number of documentary evidences furnished by the Authority behind the back of the Petitioner and utilised them against the Petitioner, but copies thereof were never supplied to the Petitioner. Thus the Petitioner was denied an opportunity to make an effective representation against the charges levelled against him. In these circumstances, the inquiry proceeding, which has been held in violation of the principles of natural justice stands vitiated.

31. This brings this Court to the third submission of the learned counsel for the Petitioner. The impugned order has been assailed on the ground of the same being a non-speaking order.

32. In the impugned order, the State Government has stated some facts and extracted the charges levelled against the Petitioner, the reply submitted by the Petitioner to the said charges, the findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer in connection with the respective charges and, thereafter, without even adverting to the submissions made by the Petitioner, the findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer have been upheld by a cryptic order. The relevant portion of the order pertaining to Charge 1 is extracted below: -

''मौखिक सुनवाई दिनांक 12.03.2019 को श्री श्रीवास्तव द्वारा मौखिक कथनों के अतिरिक्त लिखित विवेचन भी उपलब्ध कराया गया। सुनवाई के दौरान उक्त अभियन्ताओं द्वारा लिखित रूप से उपलब्ध कराये गये विवरण में, इसी प्रकरण में अन्तर्ग्रस्त अन्य अभियन्ता श्री आर0एन0सिंह, तत्कालीन अधिशासी अभियन्ता व श्री बी0एस0 चौहान तत्कालीन सहायक अभियन्ता के विरूद्ध अधिरोपित आरोपों के सम्बन्ध में जांच अधिकारी के अभिमत को उल्लिखित करते हुए श्री श्रीवास्तव द्वारा स्वयं को आरोपों से मुक्त किये जाने का उल्लेख किया गया है। चूंकि किसी प्रकरण में अवर अभियन्ता, सहायक अभियन्ता एवं अधिशासी अभियन्ता के कार्य एवं दायित्व भिन्न भिन्न प्रकार के हो सकते हैं, अतएव उन पर अधिरोपित आरोपों के सम्बन्ध में जांच अधिकारी के निष्कर्ष भिन्न भिन्न हो सकते हैं। अतः श्री श्रीवास्तव द्वारा उन पर अधिरोपित आरोपों के सम्बन्ध में कहे गये कथन एवं स्वयं को निर्दोष बताया जाना समीचीन नहीं है।''

Charges 2 and 3 have also been dealt with in a similar manner.

33. The necessity of giving reasons by a body or authority in support of its decision has come up for consideration before the Apex Court in several cases.

34. In Union of India v. Mohan Lal Kapoor, (1973) 2 SCC 836, the Apex Court has held as under:-

"Reasons are the links between the materials on which certain conclusions are based and the actual conclusions. They disclose how the mind is applied to the subject-matter for a decision whether it is purely administrative or quasi-judicial. The should reveal a rational nexus between the facts considered and the conclusions reached."

35. In G. Valli Kumar v. Andhra Education Society, 2010 (2) SCC 497, the Apex Court observed as under: -

"that the requirement of recording reasons by every quasi judicial or even in administrative authority entrusted with the task of passing an order adversely affecting an individual and communication thereof to the affected person is one of the recognized facets of the rules of natural justice and violation thereof has the effect of vitiating the order passed by the authority concerned."

36. In the case at hand, the Petitioner had submitted a detailed reply to the show-cause notice. However, the submissions made by the Petitioner have been brushed aside by the State Government by making a cryptic observation that in a case the work and responsibility of a Junior Engineer, Assistant Engineer and Executive Engineer could be different.

37. A perusal of the impugned order passed by the State Government would only reveal the total non-application of mind by the State Government and is liable to be set aside on this ground alone.

38. Coming to the last contention raised on behalf of the Petitioner, it is a matter of record that the charges levelled against R.N. Singh and Dhirendra Singh Chauhan were identical to the charges levelled against the Petitioner. Both the said officers and the Petitioner had submitted their reply to the respective charges. The reply submitted by them were identical to the one submitted by the Petitioner. As already mentioned above, with respect to R.N. Singh and Dhirendra Singh Chauhan, the Inquiry Officer submitted his separate report dated 12.01.2015 exonerating them of the charges levelled against them. The findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer with respect to the charges levelled against the Petitioner and R.N. Singh are extracted below: -

यह विदित होता है कि उक्त अपार्टमेन्ट के आवंटियों को कब्जा देने के पूर्व सीवर लाइन से पम्पिंग करने की व्यवस्था की गयी थी। बाद में सीवर की नेटवर्किंग पूर्ण होने पर उसे सुचारू रूप से चलना था, किन्तु इसे समय से पूर्ण न किये जाने एवं इसका समुचित रख–रखाव न करने तथा दूसरे ट्रंक सीवर लाइन के चालू न होने के कारण बैकफ्लो की स्थिति उत्पन्न हुई। अपचारी अभियन्ता के कार्यकाल में चूंकि 50–60 आवंटियों को ही कब्जा दिलाया गया। कदाचित उस समय एवं उतने आवंटियों के उपयोग हेतु व्यवस्था पर्याप्त थी, किन्तु भविष्य में अधिक संख्या में आवंटियों अध्यासन के फलस्वरूप सुचारू व्यवस्था न किये जाने के कारण ऐसी स्थिति उत्पन्न होना स्वाभाविक है। इस स्थिति में इसके लिए अपचारी अभियन्ता को उत्तरदायी माना जाना उचित प्रतीत नहीं होता है और उल्लिखित परिस्थितियों में यह आरोप उस पर प्रमाणित नहीं होता है।"

The findings recorded in the case of Dhirendra Singh Chauhan is similar to one recorded in the case of R.N. Singh.

39. In his representation dated 12.03.2019 to the State Government, the Petitioner had specifically stated that the charges levelled against him, R.N. Singh and Dhirendra Singh Chauhan were identical and the reply given by them were also the same but despite the said fact, the other officers were exonerated by the Inquiry Officer but on the same charges the Petitioner was found guilty. Paragraphs 10 and 11 of the representation dated 12.03.2019 is extracted below: -

"10. उपरोक्त प्रस्तर संख्या–9 से यह स्पष्ट रूप से विदित होता है कि पूर्व जांच अधिकारी महोदय ने समान आरोप में श्री आर0एन0सिंह, तत्कालीन अधिशासी अभियंता व श्री डी0एस0 चौहान, तत्कालीन सहायक अभियंता व प्रार्थी द्वारा जांच अधिकारी के समक्ष प्रस्तुत समान तथ्यों के आधार पर विस्तारपूर्वक एक समान उत्तर दिये जाने के उपरान्त कतिपय अन्य कारणों से श्री आर0एन0 सिंह, व श्री डी0एस0 चौहान को जांच में बरी कर दिया जबकि प्रार्थी को दोषी ठहरा दिया गया है इस प्रकार स्पष्ट है कि प्रार्थी के साथ विभेदीकरण किया गया है।

11. यहां यह भी उल्लेखनीय है कि कार्य के अन्तिम भुगतान के समय तैनात तत्कालीन अभियन्ताओं की संस्तुति पर प्राधिकरण की निविदा समिति द्वारा इन कार्यों का समापन करने की संस्तुति की गयी थी तथा तत्कालीन उपाध्यक्ष महोदय द्वारा इसका अनुमोदन किया गया था। कार्य पूर्ण होने के उपरान्त ही उस वक्त तैनात अभियंता सर्वश्री आर0एन0सिंह तत्कालीन अधिशासी अभियंता, श्री डी0एस0 चौहान तत्कालीन सहायक अभियंता द्वारा सम्बन्धित ठेकेदार को अन्तिम भुगतान तभी किया गया होगा जब उस वक्त कार्य को संतोषजनक पाते हुए तथा उस कार्य में कोई कमी न पाते हुए अपनी आख्या प्रस्तुत की होगी (संलग्नक–7)। परन्तु जांच अधिकारी द्वारा श्री आर0एन0सिंह व श्री डी0एस0 चौहान को जांच में बरी करते हुये प्रार्थी को दोषी ठहरा दिया गया है।"

40. In the impugned order, the State Government has failed to give any reason or justification as to why the basis for exoneration of other two employees is inapplicable to the case of the Petitioner. Simply stating that the responsibility of the Engineer could be different is insufficient, especially where the specific responsibility of the Petitioner has not even been determined. The Petitioner's reply to the charge sheet is almost identical to that of other two employees, namely, R.N. Singh and Dhirendra Singh Chauhan and there does seem any reason to treat them differently. More so, when the Petitioner had been posted at the site in question for a much shorter time and even left much before the other two employees.

41. In Bongaigaon Refinery & Petrochemicals Ltd. v. Girish Chandra Sarma, (2007) 7 SCC 206 while dealing with discrimination in imposition of punishment the Apex Court has stated as under: -

18. After going through the report and the finding recorded by the Division Bench of the High Court, we are of opinion that in fact the Division Bench correctly assessed the situation that the respondent alone was made a scapegoat whereas the decision by all three Committees was unanimous decision by all these members participating in the negotiations and the price was finalised accordingly. It is not the respondent alone who can be held responsible when the decision was taken by the Committees. If the decision of the committee stinks, it cannot be said that the respondent alone stinks; it will be arbitrary. If all fish stink, to pick one and say only it stinks is unfair in the matter of unanimous decision of the Committee.

42. In yet another case in State of U.P. and others v. Raj Pal Singh, (2010) 5 SCC 783 , the Apex Court has observed as under: -

"5. Though, on principle, the ratio in aforesaid cases would ordinarily apply, but in the case in hand, the High Court appears to have considered the nature of charges leveled against the 5 employees who stood charged on account of the incident that happened on the same day and then the High Court came to the conclusion that since the gravity of charges was the same, it was not open for the disciplinary authority to impose different punishments for different delinquents. The reasonings given by the High Court cannot be faulted with since the State is not able to indicate as to any difference in the delinquency of these employees.

6. It is undoubtedly open for the disciplinary authority to deal with the delinquency and once charges are established, to award appropriate punishment. But when the charges are same and identical in relation to one and the same incident, then to deal with the delinquents differently in the award of punishment, would be discriminatory. In this view of the matter, we see no infirmity with the impugned order requiring our interference under Article 136 of the Constitution."

43. In Tata Engineering and Locomotive Co. Ltd. v. Jitendra Prasad Singh and others, (2001) 10 SCC 530 the Apex Court has upheld the finding recorded by the High Court by observing as under: -

"Since as many as three workmen on almost identical charges were found guilty of misconduct in connection with the same incident, though in separate proceedings, and one was punished with only one month's suspension, and the other was ultimately reinstated in view of the findings recorded by the Labour Court and affirmed by the High Court and the Supreme Court, it would be denial of justice to the appellant if he alone is singled out for punishment by way of dismissal from service."

44. A Division Bench of this Court in Vinod Kumar Srivastava v. Secretary, Public Works Department and others, 2012 (4) ADJ 272 while dealing with the issue of discrimination in imposing the punishment observed as under: -

"13. The finding of the enquiry officer is that on account of traffic congestion the old road is found to be damaged in sufficient length and at the same time two rainy seasons intervened. It has been further stated that no final payment has yet been made and only running payment has been made and the contract is not yet complete.

14. There appears to be no dispute about the fact, from the facts stated above that in respect to the same project, same length/period of the road all the three i.e. the petitioner, D. P. Roy and Sunil Kumar were together. There is further no dispute that no maintenance grant was there for about two years and two rainy seasons intervened upon which slight damage, if any, to the work in question can be duly noticed. The work contract was still not complete and only running payment was made. In view of the circular issued by the department itself (annexure no. 4 to the rejoinder affidavit) about lepan/painting work of the road Junior Engineer is responsible to the extent of 30% and the Assistant Engineer to the extent of 15%. It appears to be a case where after about two years of the initial work the Minister concerned just visited the site while going on the way and he reported the matter to the competent official, upon which impugned exercise was undertaken. Another Assistant Engineer and another Junior Engineer engaged with the petitioner were not found at fault.

15. Above mentioned facts leads to a situation that no action against two officers has been taken, although in different enquiries, in relation to the same project, same site, same length, period of the road nothing adverse by lapse of time and for various other reasons so stated in the enquiry officer's report dated 24.9.2004 (annexure no. 3 to rejoinder affidavit), is found then why the petitioner alone is to be punished. The Junior Engineer has been exonerated on the ground that nothing wrong on merit of charge was found. Factum of lapse of two years, two rainy seasons have intervened, no maintenance grant being there and as such it is a case where same factual premises can apply to the petitioner also. All these aspects were stated by the petitioner in his representation (annexure no. SA-2) but nothing has been taken into account and the impugned order has been passed." (emphasis supplied)

45. For the reasons stated above, it is apparent that the Petitioner has been discriminated in the matter of imposition of penalty. In the facts and circumstances of the case, the Petitioner is entitled to parity quo - R.N. Singh and Dhirendra Singh Chauhan. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 4.8.2020 passed by the Respondent cannot be sustained.

46. The result is that the writ petition is allowed. The impugned order dated 04.08.2020 is hereby quashed.

47. There shall be no order as to costs.

(Para 7 and 9)

1. Laxmi Kant & ors. Vs Satyawan & ors.; 1996 SCC (4) 208

2. U.P. Avas Evam Vikas Parishad & ors. Vs Om Prakash Sharma; 2013 (5) SCC 182

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. This writ petition has been filed praying for issuance of a writ in the nature of certiorari for quashing the orders dated 01.02.2012 and 14.09.2012 passed by the Vice Chairman, Kanpur Development Authority, Kanpur and for issuance of a writ in the nature of mandamus directing the Kanpur Development Authority to allot Plot No. 85, Govind Nagar, District Kanpur in favour of the petitioner.

2. The facts as argued by the learned counsel for the petitioner are that the Kanpur Development Authority had published an auction notice on 25.12.2011 in "Amar Ujala" a daily newspaper for allotment of plots in residential areas.

3. In pursuance of the said notice, the petitioner deposited registration fee and requested for allotment of plot No. L-85, Govind Nagar, Kanpur and a proposal was also prepared for allotment of the said plot to the petitioner. On 01.02.2012 the Vice Chairman, Kanpur Development Authority, the Respondent No. 2 herein, rejected the allotment. But the petitioner was not informed. Unaware of the order dated 01.02.2012 that had already been passed, the petitioner filed a writ petition No. 10424 of 2012 which was disposed of by this Court on 28.02.2012 with a direction that petitioner's representation be considered and decided by the Respondent No. 2.

4. The Respondent No. 2 thereafter has rejected the representation on 14.09.2012. This writ petition has, therefore, been filed challenging the orders dated 01.02.2012 and 14.09.2012.

5. It has been submitted that petitioner's bid was the highest in auction. The auction notice dated 25.12.2011 had fixed Rs.9,522/- per sq. fit as reserved price of plot in question and the petitioner had proposed Rs.11,200/- per sq. fit in his bid. His being the highest bid, the petitioner had also deposited Rs.4,83,000/- on 12.01.2012 but by the impugned orders the auction itself for allotment of Plot No. L-85, Govind Nagar, Kanpur has been cancelled without giving opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

6. Shri Anoop Trivedi, Advocate, has appeared for Kanpur Development Authority and he has relied upon his counter affidavit wherein it has been averred that in the brochure it has been stipulated that the power to accept or reject a bid would vest in the Vice Chairman of the Kanpur Development Authority and his decision would be final. After the auction was completed the Auction Committee while analyzing the bids had found that two persons - Petitioner and one another had colluded amongst themselves and both these bidders were related to each other and only two bids were filed for Plot No. L-85 with a difference of only Rs. 100/- per sq. fit. No other person had bid for the Plot No. L-85 and the two bids being found collusive and non-competitive, the Respondent No. 2 had cancelled the auction with respect to Plot No. L-85 and it was proposed to re-auction the same. This decision was duly communicated to the petitioner by a letter dated 29.02.2012 written by Tehsildar, Kanpur Development Authority, Zone - 3, Kanpur. Detailed reasons have also been given by the Respondent No. 2 while deciding the representation of the petitioner in his order dated 14.09.2012.

7. We have perused the impugned order and we find that reasons have been given in detail therein. Moreover, this Court is aware that the rights of the highest bidders are governed by the Statutory Rules, if any, and the conditions of auction. The brochure issued by the Kanpur Development Authority had clearly stipulated that the Authority was not bound to accept the highest bid tendered. The Authority having reserved its right to reject even the highest bid and also the right to withdraw the plot itself from the auction in spite of the highest bid, no right accrues to the highest bidder. Acceptance and confirmation of the highest bid by the Auction Committee having not been done, it cannot be said that any right accrues to the petitioner warranting interference by this Court to issue a mandate to force the authority to sell the plot in question to the petitioner even if the price bid by him has been found non-competative by the Authority.

8. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Laxmi Kant and others Vs. Satyawan and others, 1996 SCC (4) 208 has found that the conditions of auction are mentioned in the tender document. The bidder participating in an auction on the basis of such conditions cannot question the same on the ground that it was not open to the Authorities to prescribe such conditions. On the contrary, the principle of acquiescence and estopple would prevent them from doing so. It would not be open to a participant to the auction proceeding to question the conditions at a later stage or as an afterthought.

9. The aforesaid judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court has been relied upon again in the case of U.P. Avas Evam Vikas Parishad and others Vs. Om Prakash Sharma: 2013 (5) SCC 182 wherein the Supreme Court has considered several earlier precedents and come to the conclusion that bidders participating in the tender process have no other right except the right to equal and fair treatment. No contract comes into existence merely by submission of the highest bid until it is accepted. Mere deposit of 20 per cent or part payment of the bid amount by the highest bidder at the fall of the hammer does not amount to acceptance of the bid. Communication of acceptance of the highest bid is necessary for concluding the contract and it cannot be said that the auction process has been finalised until a contract follows it.

10. In view of the facts as mentioned in the impugned order and the law settled by Hon'ble Supreme Court we are of the considered opinion that merely because petitioner's bid was the highest and above the reserved price fixed by the Respondent No. 2, it cannot be said that any right accrued to the petitioner to entail a Mandamus to be issued by this Court.

11. The writ petition being devoid of merits is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J. & Hon'ble Om Prakash Tripathi, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondents.

2. Sri Dr. Arjun Singh, learned counsel appearing for the opposite party no. 6, has raised a preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the writ petition and submitted that the order impugned is an interlocutory order and the petition is not maintainable against such order. The petitioner should wait for final order to be passed whereafter a statutory remedy of filing appeal will be available before Divisional Level Committee.

3. This writ petition has been filed challenging the order dated 08.06.2022 passed by the respondent no.2 District Level Caste Scrutiny Committee.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that in terms of a judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in the case of Kumari Madhuri Patil and Another vs. Additional Commissioner, Tribal Development and Others, AIR 1995 SC 94, where the Court has held that for examination of whether a candidate belongs a particular reserved category, the matter should be referred to the Vigilance Cell for conducting the inquiry for which it directed that each Directorate should constitute a Vigilance Cell consisting of Senior Deputy Superintendent of Police and such number of Police Inspectors to investigate into the claims for reservation, no enquiry by Vigilance Cell has been done.

5. The petitioner had filed an objection to complaint made against her. The District Level Scrutiny Committee should have referred the matter of the petitioner for investigation to Vigilance Cell. The petitioner's objection has been rejected by means of impugned order passed by District Level Scrutiny Committee saying that the directions issued by the Supreme Court in the case of Kumari Madhuri Patil (Supra) have been incorporated in the Government Orders dated 02.07.1994 and 05.01.1996. There being no direction in the two Government Orders for referring the matter for investigation to the Vigilance Cell, the petitioner's objection is misconceived.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that in similar case, a coordinate Division Bench of this Court has entertained a petition, namely, Writ-C No.3338 of 2022 (Mohd. Israr Khan vs. State of U.P. and others). The Court has found that the order impugned passed by the District Level Scrutiny Committee was in violation of judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Kumari Madhuri Patil (Supra) and therefore, the Court has entertained the petition and directed the Standing Counsel to seek instructions and stayed the order impugned till the next date of listing.

7. This Court has perused the interim orders dated 06.06.2022, 21.06.2022 and 26.06.2022 passed in said petition. It is apparent that initially this Court had granted time to Standing Counsel to seek instructions as to why the directions issued by the Supreme Court in the case of Kumari Madhuri Patil (Supra) were not followed in such matters. When no instructions were forthcoming, the District Level Committee was restrained from passing a final order till the next listing of the petition.

8. Sri Manish Mishra, learned counsel appearing for the State-respondents has relied upon a Division Bench judgment in the case of Nasrin Bano vs. State of U.P. and others, M.B. No.36397 of 2018, wherein the order of District Level Scrutiny Committee was challenged by the petitioners and mandamus was sought to the State-respondents to enquire the dispute regarding Caste Certificate through Vigilance Cell as per Government Order dated 05.01.1996 in which guidelines had been framed in the light of a judgment of the Supreme Court in Kumari Madhuri Patil (Supra). The Division Bench considered the arguments made by the learned counsel for the petitioners in Nasrin Bano (Supra) that Scrutiny Committee should have referred the matter to the Vigilance Cell and should not have conducted inquiry through Revenue Officials. The Division Bench in the case of Nasrin Baso (Supra) thereafter has considered in detail judgments rendered by two Division Benches of this Court in Taramuni Tharu vs. State of U.P. and others, Writ Petition No.1611 (MB) of 2008, decided on 23.09.2010 and PIL No.1396 of 2011, Tharu Shakti Samiti and another vs. State of U.P. and others, decided on 12.01.2011, wherein this Court had observed that State Government had constituted only one Scrutiny Committee and there was no appellate authority over such Scrutiny Committee for verification of Caste Certificate. Therefore, the Divisional Level Committee has been constituted by the Government Order dated 27.01.2011.

9. The Division Bench in Nasrin Bano (Supra) observed that after judgment rendered in Tharu Shakti Samiti (Supra), the State Government had issued another Government Order dated 28.02.2011 where scrutiny of Caste Certificate was to be done by the Committee of District Level and then Appeal was provided to the Divisional and State Level Committees. The Division Bench in Nasrin Bano (Supra) also considered the observations made by the Division Bench in the case of Hizwana Bano vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2011 (1) ADJ 441 and came to the conclusion that the Government Orders issued by the State Government on 05.01.1996, 27.01.2011 and 28.02.2011 had taken into account the observations made by the Supreme Court in the case of Kumari Madhuri Patil (Supra) and also by the Division Benches of this Court in Taramuni Tharu (Supra) and Tharu Shakti Samiti (Supra) and constituted a valid mechanism for investigation of Caste Certificates issued by the Revenue Officials. It had dismissed the writ petition of Nasrin Bano on 17.12.2018 finding that the relevant Government Orders had sufficiently complied with the observations made by the Supreme Court in Kumari Madhuri Patil (Supra) and by the judgments of earlier Division Benches of this Court.

10. In view of the submission made by Sri Manish Mishra, learned Standing Counsel, this Court finds that there is no good ground to give parity to the petitioner of the case of Mohd. Israr Khan and to give benefit of interim order granted by the Division Bench, which was passed only because the Standing Counsel could not produce relevant instructions, although, time had already been granted to him to do so.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner in rejoinder has pointed out a Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Mairaj Ahmed vs. State of U.P. and others, Writ-C No. 160 of 2019. It has been submitted that the said writ petition was allowed by the Court and the impugned order had been set-aside giving a direction to the District Level Scrutiny Committee to adopt the procedure as given in the case of Kumari Madhuri Patil (Supra) to decide the validity of the Caste Certificate of the petitioner therein in accordance with the observations made by the Supreme Court in the case of Kumari Madhuri Patil (Supra).

12. This Court has carefully perused the Division Bench judgment dated 16.01.2019 and finds that the order challenged in the said writ petition was an appellate order passed by the Divisional Level Scrutiny Committee. The Court had considered the observations made by the Supreme Court in the case of Kumari Madhuri Patil (Supra) and the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner that guidelines framed therein were not followed. It had also referred to the facts of the writ petition wherein the petitioner being "Thathera" (Tinker of vessels) had alleged to be a Backward Caste at Serial No.59 of Schedule-1 of Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Schedules Tribes and Other Backward Classes) Act, 1994. However, after such certificate was issued to him and he contested the Election for the post of President of Nagar Panchayat, Sahanpur allegation of fraud was made by the private respondents saying that the petitioner was "Sheikh" and not a member of Backward Class of "Thathera".

13. The Division Bench referred a judgment rendered in Rasheed Ahmad vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others reported in 2009 (7) AJD 385, where considering a similar case the Division Bench had observed that only because the name is prefixed by the word "Sheikh", the class of a person cannot be determined. The question as to whether a person belongs to upper caste or not is required to be decided on the basis of other relevant evidence.

14. It is apparent from the perusal of the judgment rendered in the case of Mairaj Ahmed (Supra) that Division Bench had not noticed the earlier Division Bench judgments rendered in the case of Nasrin Bano (Supra). Without noticing binding precedents of this Court or relevant Government Orders, the Division Bench had passed the order dated 16.01.2019 placing reliance only upon the question of fact relating to the ancestors of the petitioner prefixing their names with the word "Sheikh", cannot be said to be upper caste as per judgment rendered in the case of Rasheed Ahmad (Supra).

15. The judgment in the case of Mairaj Ahmed (Supra) cannot said to be rendered after considering all the relevant Government Orders and the Scheme framed therein in compliance of the judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in the case of Kumari Madhuri Patil (Supra) and the Division Bench judgments of this Court in the cases of Taramuni Tharu (Supra) and Tharu Shakti Samiti (Supra).

16. This writ petition is disposed of with a direction to the petitioner to approach the District Level Scrutiny Committee and place all the relevant facts with regard to the validity of the Caste Certificate claimed by the petitioner.

17. Since this Court is sitting in Division Bench and has considered the judgments rendered by earlier coordinate Benches and finds that there is a difference in approach of the two Division Benches in the cases of Nasrin Bano (Supra) and Mairaj Ahmed (Supra). The matter is referred to the Hon'ble Chief Justice to constitute a Larger Bench for considering the following questions:

(i) "Whether the Government Orders dated 05.01.1996, 27.01.2011 and 28.02.2011 have been issued in exercise of executive jurisdiction by the State Government after considering the directions issued by the Supreme Court in the case of Kumari Madhuri Patil (Supra)?"

(ii) "Whether the judgment rendered in the case of Mairaj Ahmed (Supra) can be considered to have laid down a valid proposition of law that the District Level Scrutiny Committee should not have ignored the observations made by the Supreme Court in the case of Kumari Madhuri Patil (Supra) for verification of Caste Certificate by a Vigilance Cell moved by Police Officers ?".

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Manu Khare, Sri Navin Sinha (Senior Adv.)

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Anjali Upadhya, Sri Ramendra Pratap Singh

A. Company Law – Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code 2016 – Sections 7 & 33(2) – Insolvency Resolution process – After auction, the bid was accepted and confirmed by the NCLT – GNIDA, the lessor, claimed the arrears of rental and interest thereon – Liability of auction purchaser to pay it – As per the sale certificate, the plot, in question was sold on 'As is where is' , 'As is what is', 'Whatever there is', and 'No recourse' basis – Auction purchaser, the petitioner accepted the condition. He was a signatory of Transfer Memorandum – Effect – Held, the petitioner stepped into the shoes of the Creditor Debtor and also got itself bound to honor the contractual obligation – He was bound to honor the commitments as laid down in the lease deed – Held further, the petitioner being a beneficiary of a transfer is bound to honor the contractual obligation as contained in the Transfer Memorandum. [Para 19(ii), 21, 60, 66 and 67]

B. Constitution of India – Article 226 – Writ of mandamus – Contractual obligation – Scope of interference – Solitary relief sought for refund of amount claimed to be deposited under protest, how far can be granted – Held, resiling and wriggling from contractual obligations are not within the realm of the writ proceedings – Writ petition, seeking the solitary relief of mandamus without assailing any order, is not maintainable – Cases of Suganmal and Salonah Tea Company Ltd. relied upon. (Para 68, 79 and 82)

C. Transfer of Property Act, 1882 – Section 3 – Doctrine of constructive notice – Doctrine of Caveat Emptor – Meaning and scope – Caveat Emptor means 'let the buyer beware' – This doctrine puts the duty on the purchaser to carry out all necessary inspection of the property before entering into an agreement. If the purchaser fails to conduct such an inspection, then later, on identification of defects in the property may not be a ground to revoke or claim damages under the contract – High Court held the words 'As is where is' finds its root in the common law doctrine of 'Caveat Emptor'. (Para 31 and 32)

D. Defects in property – Latent defect and patent defect – Meaning – Liability of purchaser to inspect the defect, how far exist before purchasing the property – Difference between latent defect and patent defect – Latent defects are such type of defects which are unlikely to be discovered by a purchaser during investigation. On the other hand, the second category is patent defects, which are discoverable if the buyer would have carried out inspection – High Court held the conditions shown in sale certificate is the defect falls under the second category i.e patent defect. (Para 34)

E. Lease – Leasehold and freehold – Difference – Right of lessor over the land leased out, which is being put to liquidation – Held, lessor has a paramount interest over the property so sought to be leased to the lessee as there is a marked difference between leasehold and freehold as in the case of former only possession is transferred and not the ownership or title, however, in the later ownership and possession stands transferred. (Para 40 and 43)

"The extent and the scope of judicial intervention in writ jurisdiction in the matter of contractual obligation embodied in the commercial contract is a subject matter of present petition."

2. Factual matrix of the case as worded in the present petition are that the petitioner claims itself to be a Partnership firm registered u/s 12 (I) of Limited Liability Partnership Act 2008 with Government of India Ministry of Corporate Affairs having its registered office at D.S.C.- 319 DLF South Court Saket New Delhi 110017. As per the pleadings set forth in the petition one Moser Baer India

Private Ltd. (hereinafter referred as Corporate Debtor) was allotted a commercial plot no. 66 admeasuring 2,70,201 square meters at Udyog Vihar Greater NOIDA, District Gautam Budh Nagar by the respondent no. 2 Greater NOIDA Industrial Development Authority (hereinafter referred as GNIDA) for a period 90 years. Record further reveals that initially the lease deed was executed on 26.06.2001 between GNIDA on one part and Corporate Debtor on the other part setting out the terms and the conditions (covenants) of the leased land in question. It is further pleaded in the petition that an application purported to be u/s 7 of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code 2016 (hereinafter referred to as IBC Code) was instituted by a Financial Creditor being M/s Alchemist Assets Reconstruction Company Limited bearing no. I.B.378 (P.B.) 2017 for initiating Insolvency Resolution Process against Carporate Debtor. The said application was admitted on 14.11.2017 by National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) and one Mr. Debendra Singh was appointed as Interim Resolution Professional (hereinafter referred to as IRP).

3. Eventually, NCLT by virtue of its order dated 20.09.2018 allowed the application preferred by IRP u/s 33(2) IBC Code while orderding Liquidation of Coroprate Debtor. In furthrance thereof the Liquidator made a public announcement on 24.09.2018 under Regulation 12 of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy (Lilquidation Process) Regulation 2016 (hereinafter referred as to 2016 Regulation) inviting claims owed and due to Corporate Debtor giving details and description of the assets of Corporate Debtor such as location of the land and buildings so constructed thereon along with the plant and machinery embodied thereon. An advertisement/sale notice of the assets of the Corporate Debtor was published on 08.03.2019 by the Liquidator wherein not only details and description of the assets including the land and the buildings was mentioned which was put to auction but reserve price of auction being bieng 145.67 crores and the earnest money to be deposited being 14.57 crores was also reflected. The petitioner as per its own showing, participated in the auction so conducted and the bid of the petitioner was found to be commensurate to the expectation of the Liquidator. Consequently, the NCLT accepted the offer of the petitioner on 16.07.2019 and the petitioner thereafter received the acceptance letter dated 16.07.2019 of the Liquidator. According to the petitioner, full and final payment of Rs. 145.75 crores was made by it and on 11.09.2019 and a Certificate of Sale under Regulation 33 of 2016 Regulation was issued in favour of the petitioner. Consequent to the issuence of the sale certificate on 11.09.2019 the petitioner approached GNIDA on 30.01.2020 followed on 11.09.2020 for issuance of Transfer Memorandum. It has come on record that on 11.09.2020 GNIDA corresponded with the Liquidator claming arrears of past lease rentals of Rs. 4,71,40,620/- as principal dues and interest towards lease rentals of Rs. 6,26,86,769/-. Record further reveals that the liquidator replied to the said letter on 08.10.2020 coming with the stand that as the demised land had already been subject matter of public auction as per the IBC Code- 2016, objections were invited to file claims for getting registered by the creditors and as GNIDA did not get registered its claim so, the auction proceedings were concluded and the same was also confirmed by NCLT hence the request so acceded by the GNIDA cannot be accepted. It has been further averred in para 14 of the writ petition that the petitioner wanted to start with its project and thus under extreme pressure of the GNIDA, the petitioner deposited the arrears of lease rent and interest thereon beng Rs. 5,80,28,025/- for issuance of Transfer Memorandum on 27.10.2020 under protest. In support of the said contention petitioner has appended as annexure- 10 a letter sent by it addressed to GNIDA which is being termed as protest letter along with details of the deposits so sought to be made by it.

4. According to the petitioner finally the Transfer Memorandum was issued by GNIDA on 24.12.2020, a copy whereof has been appended at page 79 of the writ petition.

5. Lamenting quiescent demeanor in non refund of the amount which has been deposited under protest the petitoner is before this court by means of the present writ petiton seeking following reliefs:-

"I. issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondent no. 2 to refund the amount of Rs. 5,80,28,025/- along with intrest @ 18% per annum from the date of deposition till date of refund.

II. issue any other writ, order or direction, which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the facts and circumstances of the present case.

III. Award cost of the petition to the petitioner."

6. Contesting the claim of the petitioner, a counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of GNIDA sworn by respondent no. 3 on 13.06.2021 wherein following averments have been made in paragraph nos. 12, 13, 14, 15 which are quoted as under:-

"12. That the contents of para 10 of the writ petition are not admitted hence specifically denied. The petitioner has not annexed the lease deed which was executed between Greater Noida Authority and M/s Moser Bear. Without prior permission of the Greater Noida Autority M/s Moser Baer cannot sale the leae property. The M/s Moser Baer should have informed the Aurthority that they have become bankrupt and they cannot pay the lease rent of the plot allotted to them. No information has been given to the Greater Noida Authority by the M/s Moser Baer. Moreover lease rent has not been paid and the Greater Noida Authority will charge transfer charges as per policy of the Greater Noida Authority from the petitioner company, then only name of the company can be recorded in the Authority's record.

13. That the contents of para 11, 12 and 13 of the writ petition are not admitted hence specifically denied. As per the liquidation of the company of M/s Moser Baer and petitioner compoany that was between them and not with the Greater Noida Authority. In case, any amount due against the plot, the Greater Noida Authority is liable to realize it from the lesee/allottee/purchaser. The Greater Noida Authority has nothing to do with the letter dated 30.09.2020. The company has to pay the transfer charges and all the dues including lease rent of the plot. It is further stated that the dues which are pending against, the Greater Noida Authority is laible to realize from the allottee/purchaser. Moreover, the petitioner company and M/s Moser Baer have flouted the terms and condition of the lease deed.

14. That the contents of para 14 and 15 of the writ petition are not admitted hence specifically denied. The petitionr company was require to deposit lease rent and transfer charges of the polot. The Greater Noida Authority has transfer the plot in the name of the petitioner company by issuing the transfer memorandum dated 24.12.2020. 11 conditions have been given in the transfer memorandum.

15. That the contents of para 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 of the writ petition are not admitted hence specifically denied. The M/s Moser Baer shojld have taken prior permission from the Greater Noida Authority and they should have informed that the company has becomebankrupt and they are going to insolvency. Since the petitioner company purchased the plot should have also inquire from the Authority what are the dues are pending agianst the plot. Since the petitioner compay has entered in the shoes of M/s Moser Baer, hence they have to clear all the deus. It is specifically denied that petitioner is not entitle for any refund of the amount of Rs. 5,80,33,025/-."

7. In nutshell, the stand taken by the GNIDA in their counter affidavit is that GNIDA was at no point of time apprised of the fact that Corporate Debtor lessee became bankrupt and proceedings were drawn under IBC Code- 2016 against it culminating into auction of the demised land and transfer of the same, therefore, auction in favour of the petitioner is illegal. It has been further alleged in the counter affidavit that once the petitioner stepped into the shoes of the Corporate Debtor lessee then as per the covenant contained in lease deed so executed from time to time and Transfer Memorandum the petitioner is liable to make good the arrears of the lease rentals and interest thereon.

8. Rejoiner affidavit has also been filed by the petitioner in reply to the counter affidvit so filed by the GNIDA retereating their stand in the writ petition.

9. A supplementary counter affidavit has been filed by GNIDA on 10.11.2021 sworn by respondent no. 3 annexing copy of the lease deed dated 26.06.2001 so executed between GNIDA on one part and the Corporate Debtor on the other part.

10. A supplementary rejoinder affidavit has been filed in reply of the supplementary counter affidavit. An impleadment application has been filed by the petitioner on 10.2.2022 seeking impleadment on M/s Moser Baer India Private Limited Company in Liquadation for making him as a party respondent no. 4. A supplementary affidavit and compilation of judgments have been filed by petitioner.

ARGUMENT OF PETITIONER

12. Sri Navin Sinha, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Manu Khare, learned counsels for the petitioner have made manifolds submissions namely:-

(a). The petitioner being a bonafide auction purchaser, purchased immovable asscets consequent to the auction/sale held in pursuance of the orders of NCLT after paying the bid amount cannot be fastened with any monetory liability which was attached with Corporare Debtor under Liquidation.

(b). Once under the provisions of the IBC Code- 2016 claims were invited by Resolution Professional and GNIDA did not get his claim registered then it is estopped to claim the said amount as the same is hit by the doctrine of waiver and acquiescence.

(c). Even otherwise, the petitioner is liable to pay lease rentals and interest thereon and honour the contractual obligation and commitments so set out in the lease deed only from the date of the issuance of acceptance letter confirming the auction/execution of the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 and not from a date anterior to it.

(d). Deposit of an amount of Rs. 5,80,28,025 was under protest and thus, the petitioner is entitled to refund of the same and the GNIDA being the instrumentality of the said State cannot withhold the said amount on the pretext that though the amount is not liable to be paid but was paid under protest.

13. Elaborating the said submissions, learned Senior Counsel has argued that the status of the petitioner is of a bonafide purchaser as the petitioner has participated in the bid which was conducted pursuant to the order passed by NCLT on 20.09.2018 wherey Corporate Debtor was declared as insolvant and the petitioner under bonafide belief that there was neither any latent or patent defect in the immovable property, which was to be put to auction participated in the same and thus once the petitioners bid had been approved and it had deposited the entire amount, then the petitioner is not liable to clear the arrears of the lease rentals and the interest thereon which is being claimed by the GNIDA. Sri Sinha, has further invited the attention towards correspondence of the Liquidator to the GNIDA wherein it has been recited that despite due publication of invitation of the claims relatable to the dues owed to the Corporate Debtor, GNIDA did not either lodge or got registered its claim and thus, according to learned Senior Counsel GNIDA has forgone its right to claim the said amount as once the proceedings under the Code came to an end and the Corporate Debtor got liquidated then the dues so sought to be claimed by the GNIDA is not only unjustified besides being not backed by any of the provision of law.

14. Sri Navin Sinha, learned Senior Counsel in order to buttress his submission has relied to and referred to the several judgments so as to contened that the condition mentioned in the Certificate of Sale dated 11.09.2019 being "AS IS WHERE IS", "AS IS WHAT IS", "WHATEVER THERE IS" AND "NO RECOURSE" cannot be stretched so far as to include within its encompass a situation that the petitioner is liable to pay past dues of the company in liquidation. According to the learned Senior Counsel who appears for the petitioner harmonious interpretation is to be given so as to give literal meaning while personifying that only those dues which are legal and payable, are to be included and not those dues and liabilities which are not to be paid or discharged particularly when there was latent and patent defects in the property which is being put to auction and the liabilies so attached to it, was at no point of time apprised or confornted to the petitioner who is a bonafide auction purchaser. Learned Senior Counsel in support of the said submission has relied upon the following judgments:-

"1. Al Champdandy Industries Limited vs. Official Liquidator and Another reported in (2009) 4 SCC 486

2. Rana Girders Limited vs. Union of India and Others reported in (2013) 10 SCC 746

3. Haryana State Electricity Board vs. Hanuman Rice Mills Dhanauri and Others reported in (2010) 9 SCC 145

4. State of Karnataka and Another vs. Shreyas Papers (P) Ltd. and Others reported in (2006) 1 SCC 615

5. Telangana State Southern Power Distribution Company Limited and Another vs. Srigdhaa Beverages reported in (2020) 6 SCC 404

6. Raman Roadways Private Limited vs. State of Maharashtra and Others 2021 SCC Online Bom 534

7. Sales Tax Officer, Banaras and Others vs. Kanhaiya Lal Makund Lal Saraf AIR 1959 SC 135"

15. Learned Senior Counsel has further argued that the petitioner is not shying away from discharging the contractual obligation as engrafted in the lease deed so executed between the GNIDA on one part and Corporate Debtor on other part as though the petitioner has stepped into the shoes of the Corporate Debtor in pursuance of the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 but the conditions are to be tailored in such a manner so as to give logical meaning as the petitioner is bound to honour the commitment so made either from the date of acceptance of auction or from the date of execution of Transfer Memorandum.

16. Sri Sinha has invited the attention of the Court towards paragraph no. 14 of the writ petition so as to further contend that not only specific averments about deposit of past lease rentals along with interests under protest were made but the letter dated 27.10.2020 was also annexed giving details of the paymens made by it under protest. According to learned Senior Counsel even if assuming that the amount in question has been deposited voluntarily then to GNIDA being the instrumentality of the State, had no occassion or justification to retain the said amont on the guise that the petitioner has deposited the said amount for executation of Transfer Memorandum. The argument of the learned Senior Counsel is that once the amount is not liable to be paid and the GNIDA has received the same without any legal justification then in that contingency the amount is liable to paid back to the person who had extended the same.

ARGUMENT OF RESPONDENTS (ANSWERERS)

17. Sri Ramendra Pratap Singh, who appears for GNIDA has countered the submission of learned Senior Counsel while arguing that the petitioner is not entitled to any relief particularly in view of the fact that, might be the petitioner claims itself to be a bonafide auction purchaser but in view of the fact that the present case relates to auction of an immovable property being a lease land of which the GNIDA is the lessor then without there being any communication about the bankruptcy of the Creditor Debtor and the fact that insolvency proceeding got initiated culminating into passing of an order of 20.09.2018, the GNIDA is not only necessary party but also has substantial interest therein as according to the term and covenant contained in the lease deed not only the lease rentals has to be paid but also in case of subletting or assigning of the lease in favor of the third person concurrence and approval of GNIDA is/was necessary. Sri Singh in order to buttress his contention has sought to argue that the petitioner being auction purchaser and claiming interest over the lease land premises is liable to make the payment of the past lease rentals and interest of late payment and also honour the commitments so engrafted in the lease deed and Transfer Memorandum and petitioner cannot wriggle out from the contractual obligation and the dues so attached with the lease deed as the petitioner herein has stepped into the shoes of Corporate Debtor. It has been further argued that contractual obligation cannot be a subject matter of adjudication in the present proceedings particularly when the present petition is being sought to be filed for getting a judicial seal in resiling and wriggling from contractual obligation. Sri Singh further argued that in view of the contractual obligation set out in the lease deed in question executed with Corporate Debtor and by virtue of the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 now the petitioner is bound by the covenants of lease deed of erstwhile lessee and thus, the petitioner cannot evade payment of arrears of lease rentals as well as of the interest thereon.

18. Smt. Shubhash Rathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel who appears for respondent no. 1 has though not filed any counter affidavit but according to her the main contesting party is the respondent nos. 2, 3 and thus according to her she is adopting the argument of the counsel for the respondent nos. 2 and 3 and she has nothing to add except the fact that the writ petition so preferred by the petitioner is not maintainable as it tantamount to insisting the Court to give it a licence to wriggle out from the contractual obligation.

REPLICATION OF THE PETITIONER (SUITOR)

19. The learned counsel for the petitioner in rejoinder affidavit had reiterated the argument, which he had made at the first instance while arguing the writ petition. However, the same is not being repeated, as the same is nothing but repetition of the argument, made at the time of arguing the petition.

QUESTION OF DETERMINATION

"(i) Whether under the the facts and circumstances of the case, the petitioner has any lawful right to claim refund of Rs. 05,80,28,025/- along with interest @ 18% per annum, deposited by him to get the lease of the disputed plot transferred in its name as per Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020?

(ii) Whether payment of the dues attached to the disputed property can be questioned by the petitioner when as per sale certificate dated 11.09.2012, the disputed plot was sold on "AS IS WHERE IS", "AS IS WHAT IS", "WHATEVER THERE IS", AND "NO RECOURSE" basis and accepting the conditions, and the petitioner deposited the amount to get the lease transferred in its name?

(iii) Whether the claim of refund of the disputed amount is hit by the principle of approbate and reprobate?

(iv) Whether under the IBC, the petitioner as an auction purchaser of lease hold rights of the disputed plot, has protection under the IBC from payment of lease rent and other dues attached to the property, particularly when the right of the liquidated company in the disputed property was purchased by the petitioner on "AS IS WHERE IS", "AS IS WHAT IS", "WHATEVER THERE IS", AND "NO RECOURSE" basis?"

SYMPOSIUM

20. We have heard the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

21. Undisputedly, the petitioner herein is an auction purchaser who had purchased the lease hold rights of the Creditor Debtor through public bidding pursuant to a judicial order passed by NCLT in liquidation proceedings purported to be under IBC Code-2016. It is further not in dispute that GNIDA is the lessor and Creditor Debtor is/was a lessee. None of the parties have disputed the fact that the Creditor Debtor was in-dues with respect to lease rentals which also exposed it to penal interest. The only question which is to be decided in the present proceeding is as to whether the petitioner being the auction purchaser is liable to pay the arrears of rentals and interest thereon from a date anterior to the acceptance and confirming of bid by the NCLT/Execution of Transfer Memorandum on 24.12.2020. These questions are to be answered in the light of the question so framed by this Court for determination of the issue as extracted hereinabove. Ancillary and Incidental questions are to be answered which are interwoven with each other which are relatable to the import and the impact of the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 viz a viz conduct of the petitioner and the scope of the writ petition in altering the covenants of the lease deed and the Transfer Memorandum in question.

22. To begin with the answer of question no. (ii) is to be first analyzed.

23. As per the lease deed so executed on 26.06.2001 between the GNIDA one part and the Corporate Debtor on the other part, the word lessee has been defined in such a manner that the expression shall unless the context does not admit include his/her/their/its heirs, executors, administrator, representative and permitted assignees. Further the lease deed itself provides that the same is for 90 years and the lessee has to pay 50% of the premium of the plot at the time of execution of the lease deed and residue 50% of the premium of the plot for the period from 30.12.2001 to 30.06.2006 and further nonpayment thereof within the stipulated period attracts interest @ 15% compounded six monthly.

24. Sub-clause (I) of Clause 9 itself provides that the lessee may transfer, relinquish, mortgage or assign its interest in the demise premises or building constructed thereon or both, however, the same is subject to prior permission/concurrence to be given by lessor by GNIDA. Clause 15 itself stipulates that the GNIDA being the lessor may require successor in the interest of the lessee to abide by and faithfully carry out the terms and conditions, stipulation, provisions and agreements therein contained.

25. Clause (a),(b) of Clause 3 under heading no. (IV) commencing with the word "AND IT IS HERE BY FURTHER AGREED AND DECLARED BY AND BETWEEN THE PARTIES TO THESE PRESENTS AND FOLLOWS" itself stipulates that lessee agrees that the sums dues under the deed on account of premium, rent interest or damage for use and occupation shall be paid by the lessee and the lessor shall have first charge upon the demise premises for the amount of unpaid lease rent and interest. Conjoint reading of the said covenants itself shows that the expression lessee itself encompasses to it the legal heirs, assignee, representative etc and the land being the lease land can only be transferred with prior permission to be accorded by the lessor for transfer. Nonetheless, by virtue of the lease deed the lessee is under obligation to pay the unpaid rentals and in case of delay the lessee gets automatically exposed to penal interest. Learned counsel for the parties have not disputed the fact that the lease deed dated 26.06.2001 executed between GNIDA and Corporate Debtor is in existence though subsequently other lease deeds were executed on 22.03.2002, 05.09.2002 and supplementary lease deed on 28.11.2007 wherein the terms and the conditions so mentioned in the lease deed dated 26.06.2001 stood intact and applicable.

26. Now the question arises how the words "AS IS WHERE IS", "AS IS WHAT IS", "WHATEVER THERE IS", AND "NO RECOURSE" as stipulated in certificate of sale issued by Liquidator on 11.09.2019 is to be interpreted. It is further not in dispute that the petitioner itself approached the GNIDA for grant of Transfer Memorandum and when the GNIDA insisted for payment of past rentals and interest thereon the same was paid by the petitioner under protest (though disputed by GNIDA) and eventually, on 24.12.2020 Transfer Memorandum was executed wherein in Clause 4 of the same the petitioner accepted the fact that he is bound by the terms and condition (covenant) as contained in the lease deed dated 26.06.2001 and further in Clause 7 of the same the fact that after transfer of the demise land in favour of the petitioner if there are any dues like premium/lease/additional possession then the petitioner being a lessee is bound by it. Under Clause 11 the petitioner has also accepted the condition that in case of the Resolution of the Board, any liability with respect to interest on lease rent is being fastened then the petitioner is bound to pay it. Notably, the conditions mentioned in the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 became the part and parcel of the Sale Certificate so executed and registered on 30.07.2021 in between Creditor Debtor (Transferor) and the petitioner (Transferee) wherein not only the reference of the lease deed so executed between GNIDA and the Creditor Debtor was taken into account but also the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 issued by GNIDA in favour of the petitioner was also taken note of and was made basis for issuance of the sale certificate as apparent from internal page 3 of the sale certificate dated 30.07.2021. Clause 4 of the sale certificate dated 30.07.2021 itself reveals that the transferor being the Corporate Debtor has assured and undertook that the demised land is free from all sorts of encumbrances land as mortgage, sale, gift, lien, agreement, dispute, litigation, injunctions, banks or private loans, securities, guarantees, attachment with any decree of court of law.

27. In the light of the abovenoted instrument so executed from time to time, the present case is to be decided. The words "as is where is basis" has been subject matter of interpretation and consideration before the Hon'ble Apex Court umpty number of times in following decision:-

28. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of U.T. Chandigarh Administration And Another Vs. Amarjeet Singh And Others reported in 2009 (4) SCC 660 in paragraph nos. 19 and 20 observed as under:-

"19. In Lucknow Development Authority, it was held that where a developer carries on the activity of development of land and invites applications for allotment of sites in a developed layout, it will amount to `service', that when possession of the allotted site is not delivered within the stipulated period, the delay may amount to a deficiency or denial of service, and that any claim in regard to such delay is not in regard to the immovable property but in regard to the deficiency in rendering service of a particular standard, quality or grade. The activity of a developer, that is development of land into layout of sites, inviting applications for allotment by assuring formation of a lay out with amenities and delivery of the allotted sites within a stipulated time at a particular price, is completely different from the auction of existing sites either on sale or lease. In a scheme for development and allotment, the allottee has no choice of the site allotted. He has no choice in regard to the price to be paid. The development authority decides which site should be allotted to him. The development authority fixes the uniform price with reference to the size of plots. In most development schemes, the applications are invited and allotments are made long before the actual development of the lay out or formation of sites. Further the development scheme casts an obligation on the development authority to provide specified amenities. Alternatively the developer represents that he would provide certain amenities, in the Brochure or advertisement. In a public auction of sites, the position is completely different. A person interested can inspect the sites offered and choose the site which he wants to acquire and participate in the auction only in regard to such site. Before bidding in the auction, he knows or is in a position to ascertain, the condition and situation of the site. He knows about the existence or lack of amenities. The auction is on `as is where is basis'. With such knowledge, he participates in the auction and offers a particular bid. There is no compulsion that he should offer a particular price. When the sites auctioned are existing sites, without any assurance/representation relating to amenities, there is no question of deficiency of service or denial of service. Where the bidder has a choice and option in regard to the site and price and when there is no assurance of any facility or amenity, the question of the owner of the site becoming a service provider, does not arise even by applying the tests laid down in Lucknow Development Authority or Balbir Singh.

20. Where there is a public auction without assuring any specific or particular amenities, and the prospective purchaser/lessee participates in the auction after having an opportunity of examining the site, the bid in the auction is made keeping in view the existing situation, position and condition of the site. If all amenities are available, he would offer a higher amount. If there are no amenities, or if the site suffers from any disadvantages, he would offer a lesser amount, or may not participate in the auction. Once with open eyes, a person participates in an auction, he cannot thereafter be heard to say that he would not pay the balance of the price/premium or the stipulated interest on the delayed payment, or the ground rent, on the ground that the site suffers from certain disadvantages or on the ground that amenities are not provided."

29. Following the said judgment the Hon'be Apex Court in the case of Punjab Urban Planning and Development Authority And Others Vs. Raghu Nath Gupta And Others reported in 2012 (8) SCC 197 in para 14 observed as under:-

"14. We notice that the respondents had accepted the commercial plots with the open eyes, subject to the above mentioned conditions. Evidently, the commercial plots were allotted on "as is where is" basis. The allottees would have ascertained the facilities available at the time of auction and after having accepted the commercial plots on "as is where is" basis, they cannot be heard to contend that PUDA had not provided the basic amenities like parking, lights, roads, water, sewerage etc. If the allottees were not interested in taking the commercial plots on "as is where is" basis, they should not have accepted the allotment and after having accepted the allotment on "as is where is" basis, they are estopped from contending that the basic amenities like parking, lights, roads, water, sewerage etc. were not provided by PUDA when the plots were allotted. Over and above, the facts would clearly indicate that there was not much delay on the part of PUDA to provide those facilities as well. As noted, the electrical works and health works were completed by 24.12.2002 and 22.11.2002 respectively and all the facilities like parking, lights, roads, water, sewerage etc. were also provided."

30. Yet in the case of Rajasthan State Industrial Development And Investment Corporation And Another Vs. Diamond & Gem Development Corporation Limited And Another reported in 2013 (5) SCC 470 in para 30 has observed as under:-

"The terms and conditions incorporated in the lease deed reveal that, the allotment was made on "as-is- where-is" basis. The same was accepted by the respondent-company without any protest, whatsoever. The lease deed further enabled the appellant to collect charges, in case it decided to provide the approach road. Otherwise, it would be the responsibility of the respondent-company to use its own means to develop such road, and there was absolutely no obligation placed upon the appellant to provide to the respondent the access road. As the respondent-company was responsible for the creation of its own infrastructure, it has no legal right to maintain the writ petition, and courts cannot grant relief on the basis of an implied obligation. The order of the High Court is in contravention of clause 2(g) of the lease deed."

31. Apparently the words "AS IS WHERE IS" finds its root in the common law doctrine of "Caveat Emptor" which means "let the buyer beware'. This doctrine puts the duty on the purchaser to carry out all necessary inspection of the property before entering into an agreement. If the purchaser fails to conduct such an inspection, then later, on identification of defects in the property may not be a ground to revoke or claim damages under the contract. In such cases it is presumed that the purchaser had the notice of defects, if any.

32. Section 3 of the Transfer of Property Act 1882 incorporates the doctrine of constructive notice under Section 3 which is read as under:-

"A person is said to have notice" of a fact when he actually knows that fact, or when, but for willful abstention from an enquiry or search which he ought to have made, or gross negligence, he would have know it.

Explanation II: Any person acquiring any immovable property or any share or interest in any such property shall be deemed to have notice of the title, if any, of any person who is for the time being in actual possession thereof."

33. Nonetheless the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, also envisages the duty of the seller to disclose to the buyer any material defect in the property or in the seller's title thereto of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover. This is, however, subject to the presence of contract to contrary between the parties.

34. Now, another facet needs to be examined as to what are the types of defects which a buyer is expected to inquire into before purchasing the property. There are two types of defects namely latent defects and patent defects. Latent defects are such type of defects which are unlikely to be discovered by a purchaser during investigation. On the other hand, the second category is patent defects which are discoverable if the buyer would have carried out inspection. Here in the present case the defects falls under the second category, being patent defects as Court finds that on 24.09.2018 the public announcement was made by Liquidator inviting claims due from the Corporate Debtor wherein in item no. 5 the details of the demised premises in question was given. Further the sale notice for assets of the Corporate Debtor was also published which is annexure- 4 at page no. 45 wherein again description of the land was given. It is a matter of common knowledge that whenever a property is being sought to be sold through auction and the reserve price runs into crores of rupees (which in the present case is 145.67 crores) then it is clearly expected that purchaser might have got carried out inspection of the title deed as well as of the liabilities attached to it.

The petitioner herein is a registered liability partnership company duly registered with Government of India Ministry of Corporate Affairs and thus, it becomes highly implorable and inconceivable that the petitioner was not having knowledge about the liability of the Corporate Debtor. The present case can also be analyzed from another point of angle that the petitioner is not a illiterate person but the presumption is that legal option is freely accessible to it. It is not a case wherein the demised premises which is being put to auction is in remote part of the country or there is no via media of getting internal details of the Corporate Debtor and its liabilities particularly when it is a matter of common knowledge that once the demised land is leasehold then obviously an intending party would approach the lessor to get the details with respect to title and position of lease rentals. In other words, this Court cannot peep into mind of the petitioner so as to perceive as to whether any investigation was conducted at the level of intending party or to what extent.

35. This Court further finds that the defect, if any, falls under the category of patent defect which could have been easily discovered in case proper investigation of the property in question would have been done at the end of the petitioner. Moreover, an additional fact to be noticed at the stage is that the petitioner on 24.12.2020 itself became a signatory to the Transfer Memorandum clearly accepting the terms and conditions/covenant of lease deed in question which was executed on 26.06.2021 along with subsequent lease deeds and also the supplementary lease deed executed between the GNIDA and Corporate Debtor while stepping into the shoes of the Corporate Debtor. Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 as discussed above in particular clause 4, 5, 7 and 11 itself depicts that the petitioner is liable to pay the arrears of lease rentals and interest thereon. The terms and conditions of the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 itself became a basis of the sale certificate executed between corporate debtor and the petitioner on 30.07.2021 as internal page 3 itself shows that the sale certificate was being issued in pursuance of the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020. Moreover, clause 4 of the sale certificate dated 30.07.2021 which is internal page 4 shows that after execution of the transfer memorandum dated 24.12.2020 the transferee being the corporate debtor has assured and undertaken that the demise premises in question is free from all encumbrance meaning thereby that even in fact the liabilities and the obligation so contained in the lease deed dated 26.06.2021 followed by subsequent lease deed so executed there on between the GNIDA and the Corporate Debtor was accepted by the petitioner while undertaking to comply with the terms and conditions and the obligations set out therein and the same became the basis of the sale certificate.

36. This Court finds that the words so employed in the sale certificate being "AS IS WHERE IS", "AS IS WHAT IS", "WHATEVER THERE IS" AND "NO RECOURSE" are to be interpreted in such a manner so as to give with a logical conclusion in the light of the instrument so executed between the parties while bounding the petitioner to clear the unpaid arrears of lease rentals as well as interest on delayed payment.

37. Answering to the question no. (iv) this Court has to bear in the mind the fact that the demise premise in question which has been put to auction is a lease land as already discussed earlier and the contractual obligation so set out and settled between the GNIDA and the Corporate Debtor which has not been disputed by any of the parties. More so, the petitioner being an auction purchaser by virtue of Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 coupled with the sale certificate dated 30.07.2021 got itself bound with the contractual obligation as set out in the lease deed. The IBC Code-2016 may grant protection to the petitioner with respect to the purchase and the transfer of the demised land through auction, however, so far as the contractual obligations are concerned, they are governed by the underline agreements which are in the shape of lease deed so executed from time to time. The view of the Court further stands amplified from the execution of the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 wherein the petitioner not only stepped into the shoes of the Corporate Debtor but also agreed to comply with the terms and conditions and covenant contained in the lease deed.

38. Nonetheless, the sale certificate dated 30.07.2021 itself pressed into service the contractual obligation as set out in the lease deed and Transfer Memorandum as these are the instruments which not only delivered the possession of the lease land but also created relationship of lessor and lessee. In the opinion of the Court the IBC Code 2016 only grants limited protection to the petitioner to be inducted by mode of stepping into the shoes of Corporate Debtor, however, in order to be a lessee the conditions so provided in the lease deed and the Transfer Memorandum are to be adhered to. This Court has also to bear in mind the fact that the petitioner rights as a lessee has not been created by any fiction of law, however, the same is to be governed by the obligation so contained in the lease deed. Thus, this Court is of the firm opinion that IBC Code-2016 does not grant any protection to the petitioner for possessing the status of an auction purchaser in such a manner so as to wriggle out from the contractual obligation of nonpayment of lease rents in the light of doctrine of "AS IS WHERE IS", "AS IS WHAT IS", "WHATEVER THERE IS" AND "NO RECOURSE"

39. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Union Bank Of India Vs. Official Liquidator and Others reported in 1994 (1) SCC 575 had the occasion to consider the aspect relating to the guarantee or warranty of the official liquidator with regard to the title and encumbrances of the immovable property which are put to auction. The Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no. 14 has held as under:-

"14.When the Official Liquidator sells the property and assets of a companyin liquidation under the orders of the Court he cannot and does not hold out any guarantee or warranty in respect thereof. This is because he must proceed upon the basis of what the records of the company in liquidation show. It is for the intending purchaser to satisfy himself in all respects as to the title, encumbrances and so forth of the immovable property that he proposes to purchase. He cannot after having purchased the property on such terms then claim diminution in the price on the ground of defect in title or description of the property. The case of the Official Liquidator selling the property of a company in liquidation under the orders of the Court is altogether different from the case of an individual selling immovable property belonging to himself. There is, therefore, no merit in the application made on behalf of Triputi that there should be a diminution in price or that it should not be made liable to pay interest on the sum of Rs 1 crore 98 lakhs. "

40. The right of the lessor over the land leased out which is being put to liquidation, has also been matter of consideration before the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Phatu Rochiram Mulchandani Vs. Karnataka Industrial Area reported in 2015 (5) SCC 244 wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph nos. 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38 has observed as under:-

"31. As the Company had gone into liquidation and there was an order of winding up when the notice of cancelling the lease was given, the next question is as to whether prior permission of the Company Court was necessary before terminating the lease. Case of the appellant is that such prior permission is required under Section 537 of the Companies Act and the appellant has relied upon the judgment of Karnataka High Court in the case of Karnataka State Electronics Development Corporation Ltd. v. The Official Liquidator OSA No. 31 of 2004, decided on 21.06.2005. On the other hand, respondent stated that before terminating the lease no prior permission under the aforesaid provision of the Companies Act was needed and it was only for resuming the land that such a permission was required which led the Board to file an application for this very purpose. The respondents have relied upon the judgment of the Karnataka High Court in the case of Hanuman Silks Vs. Karnataka Industrial Areas Development Board, AIR 1997 Kar 134. It, therefore, becomes necessary to discuss these two judgments in the first instance.

32. In Karnataka State Electronics Development Corpn. Ltd. v. Official Liquidator OSA No. 31 of 2004, decided on 21.06.2005 (KAR) there was an allotment of industrial plot in favour of Anco by the Karnataka State Electronics Development Corporation (Corporation) on lease-cum-sale basis for which an agreement was executed. As per the said agreement, the Company was to establish its manufacturing unit within two years from the date of allotment of the Industrial Plot. In the meantime, the said Anco went into liquidation and winding up orders dated 8.6.2000 were passed. Much after the winding up orders, the corporation cancelled the lease-cum- sale deed on 28.6.2003 and took "paper possession" of the industrial plot. Thereafter, the Corporation filed the application in the Company Petition requesting the Company Judge to declare the Cancellation Order passed by the Corporation to be valid and direct the O.L. not to interfere with its paper possession. The Company Judge rejected the said application keeping in view the language employed in Section 537 of the Companies Act. The Corporation filed appeal which came to be dismissed by the Division Bench. The Division Bench was not impressed with the arguments that the Corporation was not aware of the winding up proceedings and for this reason it had resumed the possession of the industrial plot, after cancellation thereof, without obtaining the leave of the Court. Once the plea of ignorance was denounced, the court addressed the question as to whether the Corporation could have cancelled the allotment of industrial plot made in favour of the Company in liquidation and answered the same in the negative with the following observations:-

"11. Now the only question before us is, whether after an order was made by this Court in winding up the respondent Company (Company in liquidation), the applicant Corporation could have ventured to cancel the allotment of industrial plot made in favour of the Company in liquidation? This could be answered only after noticing the provisions of Sec. 537 of the Act.

12. Section 537 of the Act, provides for avoidance of certain attachments, executions, etc. in winding up by or subject to supervision of Court. The winding up proceedings would commence from the date of presentation of the petition before this Court for winding up of the Company as envisaged under Section 433 of the Act and other similar provisions under the Act. Once such proceedings are initiated, any assets of the Company cannot be meddled without the leave of the Court. This settled legal proceedings, time and again is stated by various High Courts and also the highest Court. An elaboration of this settled legal principle, in our view, is wholly unnecessary.

In the present case, an order of cancellation of the lease- cum-sale agreement is passed by the applicant Corporation, after presentation of the Company Petition and after passing the winding up order, but without the leave of the Court, and in our opinion, any such action is void. A void order cannot be regularised and, therefore, rightly the learned Company Judge has not acceded to the request made by the applicant Corporation. We do not see any error in the order passed by the learned Company Judge and, therefore, no interference with the said order is called for. Accordingly, appeal requires to be rejected and is rejected. No order as to costs. Ordered accordingly."

33. Though the aforesaid observations give the impression that there cannot even be a cancellation of the allotment of industrial plot in respect of a Company in liquidation without the prior permission of the Company court, we are of the view that these observations are to be read in the factual context of the aforesaid case. As noted above, the Corporation had not only cancelled the lease but had even resumed the land by taking "paper possession". Further, in the application filed before the Company Court, it did not pray for permission to take possession. On the contrary, the Corporation took up the stand that it already had the possession which should be declared as validly taken and the prayer made was to direct the Official Liquidator not to interfere with the possession. It is in this context that the High Court held that same could not be done without the leave of the court. We are of the opinion that the observations are to be read giving restricted meaning that possession could not be taken without the prior leave of the court. It may not be correct to hold that the law requires that prior permission of the Company Judge is mandated even for cancellation of the lease. In fact, question of resumption of land or taking possession thereof could have arisen only after the cancellation of the lease. We will dilate on this aspect further after discussing the judgment in M/s. Hanuman Silks10.

34. In M/s. Hanuman Silks v. Karnataka Industrial Areas Development Board, AIR 1997 Kar 134 the said Company was allotted plots by the Board for which lease-cum-sale agreements were entered into on 18.8.1993 and 19.8.1993. The Company was to erect the factory within 12 months and to commence the production within 24 months (same conditions as in the instant case). The Company failed to commence the civil construction work and did not complete the construction nor commenced production by these stipulated dates. Show cause notices were given by the Board and after that the plots allotted to the Company were resumed on 25.7.1995. The Company filed the petitions for quashing of the letters of resumption. The High Court formulated two questions which arose for consideration. We are concerned only with the first question which was couched in the following terms:- (AIR p. 137, para 10)

"10. (a) Whether the Board can take possession of the plots in the possession of its lessees, without having recourse to a civil suit for possession or to an eviction proceedings under the provisions of the Karnataka Public Premises (Eviction of unauthorized occupants Act), 1974".

35. After taking note of various provisions of the Act and discussing case law cited by both the parties, the Court concluded that no where does the Act provide for the Board taking back possession of leased plots from the lessee, without recourse to eviction proceedings, whatever be the circumstances. On the other hand, the Act contains a specific provision (Section 25) providing for application of Public Premises Act to premises leased by the Board. The absence of any provision enabling the Board to take possession from lessees and the express provision for making Public Premises Act applicable to the premises leased by the Board, leads to inescapable conclusion that termination of leases and eviction of lessees are left to be governed by contract and general law. Therefore, any act of forcible dispossession of a lessee by the Board will be an act otherwise than in accordance with law. The court further held that the power of re-entry and 'resumption' that is reserved by the Board in the lease-cum-sale agreement, does not authorize the Board to directly or forcibly resume possession of the leased land, on termination of the lease. It only authorizes the Board to take possession of the leased land in accordance with law. It could be either by having recourse to the provisions of the Public Premises Act or by filing a Civil Suit for possession and not otherwise.

36. It, thus, becomes clear that even though order of re-entry or resumption can be passed by the Board, but for taking possession the Board is supposed to have recourse to legal proceedings act in accordance with law. However, this was a case where the Company had not gone into liquidation and, therefore, the question of applicability of Section 537 of the Companies Act could not arise.

37. In the present case, we are confronted with a situation where Company is in liquidation. Thereafter, we have to understand the implication of the provisions of Section 537, which reads as under:

"537. Avoidance of certain attachments, executions, etc., in winding up by Tribunal.

(i) Where any Company is being wound up by Tribunal-

(a) any attachment, distress or execution put in force, without leave of the Tribunal against the estate or effects of the Company, after the commencement of the winding up; or

(b) any sale held, without leave of the Tribunal of any of the properties or effects of the Company after such commencement shall be void.

(2) Nothing in this Section applies to any proceedings for the recovery of any tax or impost or any dues payable to the Government.

38. It is clear from the above that prior permission of the Court is required in respect of any attachment, distress or execution put in force or for sale of the properties or effects of the Company. We are of the opinion that the serving of cancellation notice simplicitor would not come within the mischief of this section as that by itself does not amount to attachment, distress or execution etc. No doubt, after the commencement of the winding up, possession of the land could not be taken without the leave of the Court. Precisely for this reason the Board had filed the application seeking permission. But according to us no such prior permission was required before cancelling the lease. In fact, it is only after the cancellation of the leases that the Board would become entitled to file such an application under Section 537 of the Act. Had the Board gone ahead further and taken the possession, after the cancellation and then approached the Company Judge, the situation which occurred in Karnataka State Electronics Development Corpn.Ltd. v. Official Liquidator OSA No. 31 of 2004, decided on 21.06.2005 (KAR) would have prevailed. On the other hand, it would have been premature on the part of the Board to approach the Company Judge for permission to resume the land without cancelling the lease in the first instance. "

41. The judgment in the case of Phatu Rochiram (Supra) has been followed recently in the case of Stressed Assets Stabilization Fund Vs. West Bengal Small Industries Development Corporation reported in 2019 (10) SCC 148 in paragraph nos. 12 and 13 has observed as under:-

"12. This Court is of the opinion that the reasoning and conclusion of the High Court do not call for interference. The finding that since the exercise by the lessor (WBSIDC) of its right to determine the lease attained finality. the mortgagee (represented by the appellant) could not claim rights superior to that of the lessee, is in consonance with settled law.

13. There can be no dispute, nor was it contended that a donee or a grantee (as the status of the lessee company in liquidation as in this case) can have no rights in excess of that possessed by the donor or the grantor. The mortgagee (whose shoes SASF has stepped into) of the lessee (Wellman) can have no right greater or better than that of the lessee in terms of the deed of lease. The observations in Phatu Rochiram Mulchandani³ apply to the facts of this case. The appeal, therefore fails and is dismissed, without order as to costs."

42. The Hon'ble Apex Court in case of State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Union Bank of India reported in 2016 (2) SCC 757 in paragraph no. 23 has observed as under:-

"23. It is pertinent to mention here that the land in dispute being a Government property, the appellant-Bank cannot get any right over it. Moreover, neither the appellant-Bank is a lessee of the land in question nor any lease has ever been sanctioned by the Govt, of U.P. in its favour. Hence, the appellant is not entitled to get any right or to keep possession of the properties in question situated at 19, Clive Road and 10, Edmoston Road."

43. Applying the above judgments in the facts of the present case an inescapable conclusion stands drawn that lessor has a paramount interest over the property so sought to be leased to the lessee as there is a marked difference between leasehold and freehold as in the case of former only possession is transferred and not the ownership or title, however, in the later ownership and possession stands transferred.

44. Recently in the case of Delhi Development Authority Vs. Karam Department of Finance Investment (India) Private Limited and Others reported in 2020 (4) SCC 136 the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no. 13, 14, 15, 16, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25 has observed as under:-

"13. In Perpetual Lease, granted to Shri Trilochan Singh Rana and Mrs. Rani Rana, one of the conditions provided that lessor may impose conditions to claim and recover a portion of the unearned increase in the value (i.e. the difference between the premium paid and the market value) of the residential plot at the time of sale, transfer, assignment or parting with the possession, the amount to be recovered being percent of the unearned increase. The relevant clause (4)(a) of the Perpetual Lease is as follows:-

"(4)(a) The Lessee shall not sell, transfer assign or otherwise part with the possession of the whole or any part of the residential plot except with the previous consent in writing of the Lessor which he shall be entitled to refuse in his absolute direction.

Provided that such consent shall not be given for a period of ten years, from the commencement of the Lease unless, in the opinion of the Lessor, exceptional circumstances exist for the grant of such consent.

Provided further that in the event of the consent being given, the Lessor may impose such terms and conditions as he thinks fit and the Lessor shall be entitled to claim and recover a portion of the unearned increase in the value (i.e. the difference between the premium paid and the market value) of the residential plot at the time of sale, transfer, assignment or parting with the possession, the amount to be recovered being fifty percent of the unearned increase and the decision of the Lessor in respect of the market value shall be final binding."

14. We have already noticed above that original lessee Trilochan Singh Rana entered into agreement of sale with M/s. Ocean Construction Industries Pvt. Ltd. dated 29.09.1988 to transfer the rights for a of Rs.76,00,000/-. Exercising power under Section 269UD of Income Tax Act, 1961, appropriate authority passed a purchase order dated 13.12.1988 of the property in question. After the aforesaid purchase order an amount of Rs.17,86,240/- towards payment of unearned increase was paid to the DDA by Income Tax Department. After the aforesaid purchase order, auction notice dated 20.03.1989 was issued giving details of the properties, which included the property in question.

15. In pursuance of the auction notice, the writ petitioner gave highest bid and was declared auction purchaser for an amount of Rs.1,08,05,000/-. The writ petitioner paid the full amount and was delivered the possession on 25.04.1989. Sale Deed was also executed in favour of writ petitioner on 25.09.1997. The petitioner made an application to the DDA for grant of freehold rights and also deposited amount of Rs.3,45,729/-. While processing the application for conversion of leasehold rights to free hold rights, DDA made a demand of Rs.1,43,90,348/- towards unearned increase, which was challenged by the writ petitioner. Whether writ petitioner was liable to pay unearned increase payment is the question to be answered.

16. We have already noticed the clause (4)(a) of the Perpetual Lease Deed dated 18.03.1970, which provided that in event sanction is given by lessor to the lessee for sale, transfer or assignment, lessor shall be entitled to claim and recover a portion of the unearned increase in the value. The unearned increase being the difference between the premium paid and the market value. The object behind the said clause was that a lessee when is permitted to transfer the leasehold rights, the lessor should not be deprived of the difference between the premium paid and the market value. The clause was inserted in the Perpetual Lease to compensate the lessor. The present is not a case where lessee is making any transfer or seeking any permission from the lessor to give his consent.

20. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied on Clauses 1 and 2 of the Sale Deed, which are to the following effect:-

"1. That in pursuance of the said auction and consideration of the sum of Rs. 1,08,05,000/- (Rs. One Crore Eight Lakh and Five Thousand only) already paid by the Vendor/Auction Purchaser to the Vendor as aforesaid, the receipt of which the Vendor hereby acknowledged, the Vendor hereby transfers, conveys and sells to the Auction Purchaser, the Vendee, by way of sale of that plot of land measuring 725 sq. yds. bearing No. 14 in Block A-2 in the lay out plan of Safdarjung Development Scheme, Ring Road, South Delhi (Villages Mohammadpur Munirka and Humayunpur Revenue Estate, together with all rights, titles, interests, appurtenances, easements, privileges in and pertaining to the aforesaid property in favour of the Vendee absolutely and forever, with the provisions of Section 269UE(1) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and all the powers rights and interests vested in the Vendor with regard to the sale, transfer and conveyances of the aforesaid property to the Vendee hereto.

2. That on the execution of this sale deed, the Vendee has become the absolute and exclusive owner of the property hereby sold, conveyed and transferred to it and that the Vendee shall have absolute rights and title to the same and to deal with the property in any manner it likes. It is made clear that the Vendor has no right and is left with no interest, claim or title of any nature whatsoever into on upon the aforesaid property."

21. A plain reading of the above clauses does give impression that what was sold to the writ petitioner was all rights, titles, interests and appurtenances but when we read Clause 3 of the same Sale Deed, the said clause gives a different impression. Clause 3 of the Sale Deed is as follows:-

"3. That the Vendor hereby represents and assures to the Vendee that his right in the property hereby sold, transferred and conveyed is in terms of agreement for transfer dated 29-9-1988 between Mr. Trilochan Singh Rana and Mis, Rani Rana transferor and M/s. Ocean Construction Industries Pvt. Ltd. (through its Director Shri Jugal Kishore Malhan) transferee."

22. The principles of construction of documents are well settled. While construing the documents/intention of the parties have to be ascertained. In this context, reference is made to judgment of this Court in Sahebzada Mohammad Kamgarh Shah Vs. Jagdish Chandra Deo Dhabal Deb and Others, AIR 1960 SC 953. In Paragraph Nos. 12 and 13, following was laid down:-

"12. In his attempt to establish that by this later lease the lessor granted a lease even of these minerals which had been excluded specifically by Clause 16 of the earlier lease, Mr Jha has arrayed in his several well established principles of construction. The first of these is that the intention of the parties to a document of grant must be ascertained first and foremost from the words used in the disposition clause, understanding the words used in their strict, natural grammatical sense and that once the intention can be clearly understood from the words in the disposition clause thus interpreted it is no business of the courts to examine what the parties may have said in other portions of the document. Next it is urged that if it does appear that the later clauses of the document purport to restrict or cut down in any way the effect of the earlier clause disposing of property the earlier clause must prevail. Thirdly it is said that if there be any ambiguity in the disposition clause taken by itself, the benefit of that ambiguity must be given to the grantee, the rule being that all documents of grants must be interpreted strictly as against the grantor. Lastly it was urged that where the operative portion of the document can be interpreted without the aid of the preamble, the preamble ought not and must not be looked into.

13. The correctness of these principles is too well established by authorities to justify any detailed discussion. The task being to ascertain the intention of the parties, the cases have laid down that that intention has to be gathered by the words used by the parties themselves. In doing so the parties must be presumed to have used the words in their strict grammatical sense. If and when the parties have first expressed themselves in one way and then go on saying something, which is irreconcilable with what has gone before, the courts have evolved the principle on the theory that what once had been granted next be taken away, that the clear disposition by an earlier clause will not be allowed to be cut down by a later clause. Where there is ambiguity it is the duty of the Court to look at all the parts of the document to ascertain what was really intended by the parties. But even here the rule has to be borne in mind that the document being the grantor's document it has to be interpreted strictly against him and in favour of the grantee."

23. This Court further in Paragraph No.14 has held that in cases of ambiguity, several parts of the document have to be examined to find out what was really intended by the parties. In Paragraph No. 14, following was laid down:-

"14. .....In cases of ambiguity it is necessary and proper that the court whose task is to construe the document should examine the several parts of the document in order to ascertain what was really intended by the parties. In this much assistance can be derived from the fourth condition of the conditions which were imposed by the lease as regards the grant of sub-leases. This condition provided inter alia that all such under- leases to be granted by the lessee shall be subject to the provisions of Clause 16 of the principal lease"

24. Before we construe the document, we need to first notice the auction notice by which the property was to auction. Auction notice, which has been brought on the record as Annexure-R1 indicate that details of four properties were given in the auction notice. It is useful to look into the details given as follows:-

Details of Properties	Reserve Price
1. Property No. B-6, Friends Colony Mathura Road, New Delhi. This is a lease hold residential plot measuring 195.097 sq. Mt. together with buildings and structure thereon and fixtures and fitting therein	34.20 lacs
2.Property No. 14,	1.08 crores

Block A-2, Safdarjung Development Area, New Delhi. This is a lease hold residential plot measuring (725 sq. yds.) with a double storeyed building. The Ground Floor consists of drawing dining bed room, kitchen and a garage. The First Floor consists of 3 bed rooms, 3 bath rooms, store and a lobby over the garage. There are 2 floors each having a servant room W.O. and a cocking verandah.
3. Property No. A-8/23, Vasant Vihar, New Delhi. This is a lease hold residential plot N. 23 in Street No. A-8 in the lay out plan of Vasant Vihar of the Servants Cooperative. House Building Society Ltd., and measuring 150 Sq. yds alongwith the super structure build thereon. (Covered area 1350 Sq. Ft).	36.60 Lacs
4. Property bearing House No. E- 444 (Ground Floor), Greater Kailash Part-II, New Delhi-110048. All rights, titles and Interests in the dwelling unit on ground floor, and mazanine floor of House No. E-444, Greater Kailash, Part-II, New Delhi, together with undivided. Indivisible and impartible ownership right of 35% in the land underneath of the said building and including the followings :- 1. One drawing-cum-dining hall, three bed rooms with attached bath rooms, balcony, kitchen, storage space (servants Quarters) and servant's bath rooms on ground floor. 2. Front lawn and back courtyard on the ground floor. Parking space for a Maruti Car in the Driveway. Ingress and Egress from the main gate to the dwelling unit.	25.60 lacs

25. A perusal of the details of the properties indicate that property in question is included as Item No. 2, which is mentioned as "This is a lease hold residential plot". It is to be noticed that in so far as properties at Sl. Nos. 1, 2 and 3, the words mentioned are "leasehold residential plots" whereas with regard to property details given at Sl. No.4, it has been mentioned that "all rights, titles and interests in the dwelling unit", which, if contrasted with details of properties given at Sl. Nos. 1, 2 and 3 contains the intendment. Thus, there cannot be any doubt that property in question, which was put in auction was a property as lease hold rights residential plots. When property is auctioned, the terms and conditions of auction are binding on both the parties. When petitioner submitted his bid in pursuance of the auction notice, he was bidding for lease hold residential plot with a double storied building. While interpreting the Sale Deed, the auction notice has to be looked into to find out the nature of transaction. The Sale Deed cannot be read divorced to the auction notice or to auction notice. Auction of a leasehold residential plot and auction of freehold residential plot carries different connotations. Leasehold rights are limited rights, which are subservient to freehold rights of a property. In giving bid for leasehold rights and freehold rights, different considerations are there. Clause 3 as noted above indicate that the property sold and transferred is in terms of the agreement dated 29.09.1988 between Trilochan Singh Rana and Mrs. Rani Rana to M/s. Ocean Construction Industries Pvt. Ltd. Trilochan Singh Rana and Mrs. Rani Rana were only lease holders. Thus, they could best transfer their right, which was conferred to them by the Indenture dated 18.03.1970."

45. Another aspect which needs to be considered is with respect to the fact that whether the claim so set up by the GNIDA can be negated on the ground that it had not lodged and got registered its claim in the proceeding under IBC Code. It has come on record that GNIDA did not get registered its claims in the proceedings purported to be under IBC Code-2016, however, this Court finds that merely because the claim has not been registered by GNIDA under IBC Code cannot be a ground to negate their claim particularly when the demised premises in question is leasehold and one of the condition for recognizing the petitioner being an auction purchaser as a lessee is making good the deficiency in the payment of lease rentals along with interest thereon. Learned Senior Counsel could not point out any of the provisions so as to fortify the legal submission that mere non-registration of the claim before the competent authority under IBC Code coupled with the fact that Transfer Memorandum and sale certificate has been executed therein denuded the GNIDA from claiming the arrears and interest thereon.

46. Nonetheless, Section 55 1 (g) of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 reads as under:-

"(g) to pay all public charges and rent accrued due in respect of the property up to the date of the sale, the interest on all encumbrances on such property due on such date, and, except where the property is sold subject to encumbrances, to discharge all encumbrances on the property then existing."

47. According to Section 55 1 (g) of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 in absence of a contract to the contrary the buyer and the seller of immovable property respectively are subject to liabilities, and have the rights and the seller is bound to pay all public charges and rent accrued due in respect of the property up to the date of the sale, the interest on all encumbrances on such property due on such date, and, except where the property is sold subject to encumbrances, to discharge all encumbrances on the property then existing. The determining factors are the words employed in Section 55 of the Transfer of Property Act being " in absence of a contract to the contrary".

48. Applying the said provision in the facts of the present case, this Court finds that there exist not only lease deed but also a Transfer Memorandum and sale certificate which excludes the general principle as enshrined in section 55 1(g) of the Transfer of Property Act.

49. The High Court of Madras in the case of K. Madhu and Ors. Vs. Dugar Finance India Ltd. and Ors. reported in (2008) 145 CompCase 277 (Mad) in paragraph no. 33 has observed as under:-

"23. A reading of the above judgments clearly shows that Section 55 (1) (g) of the Transfer of Property Act is absolute in its character, where there exists a covenant guaranteeing the non-existence of encumbrances irrespective of the fact that the same was discovered after the sale, the liability is that of the seller only. The purchaser making the payment on behalf of the vendor is entitled to the recoupment of the same. However, where there existed no such covenant to the contrary, there could arise no automatic invoking of Section 55(1)(g), to the benefit of the purchaser that there existed an implied condition that there was no encumbrance."

50. Learned Senior Counsel in support of the argument relatable to the question nos. (ii) and (iv) had relied upon the judgment in the case of A.I. Champdany (supra) so as to contend that the petitioner is not liable to pay lease rentals and interest thereon despite the stipulation contained "AS IS WHERE IS", "AS IS WHAT IS", "WHATEVER THERE IS" AND "NO RECOURSE". The said judgment is not of any aid or help as the said judgment relates to dues of the municipality which the Hon'ble Apex Court found not having charge over the property put to auction as even otherwise it did not come within the purview of the Crown Debt. The Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no. 27, 29 has observed as under:-

"27. Once the property is sold, the assets of the company are required to be distributed to the creditors in order of preference. As the respondent- Municipality was not a secured creditor, the impugned Judgment cannot be sustained.

29. Dues of the Municipality would also not even otherwise come within the purview of the crown debt. Even a crown debt could be discharged only after the secured creditors stand discharged. "

51. Sri Sinha next relied upon the judgment in the case of Rana Girders Limited (supra) in order to contend that the excise duty dues are not liable to be paid by the auction purchaser of the erstwhile company which was put to auction. The Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no. 23 observed as under:-

"23. We may notice that in the first instance it was mentioned not only in the public notice but there is a specific clause inserted in the Sale Deed/Agreement as well, to the effect that the properties in question are being sold free from all encumbrances. At the same time, there is also a stipulation that "all these statutory liabilities arising out of the land shall be borne by purchaser in the sale deed" and "all these statutory liabilities arising out of the said properties shall be borne by the vendee and vendor shall not be held responsible in the Agreement of Sale." As per the High Court, these statutory liabilities would include excise dues. We find that the High Court has missed the true intent and purport of this clause. The expressions in the Sale Deed as well as in the Agreement for purchase of plant and machinery talks of statutory liabilities "arising out of the land" or statutory liabilities "arising out of the said properties" (i.e. the machinery). Thus, it is only that statutory liability which arises out of the land and building or out of plant and machinery which is to be discharged by the purchaser. Excise dues are not the statutory liabilities which arise out of the land and building or the plant and machinery. Statutory liabilities arising out of the land and building could be in the form of the property tax or other types of cess relating to property etc. Likewise, statutory liability arising out of the plant and machinery could be the sales tax etc. payable on the said machinery. As far as dues of the Central Excise are concerned, they were not related to the said plant and machinery or the land and building and thus did not arise out of those properties. Dues of the Excise Department became payable on the manufacturing of excisable items by the erstwhile owner, therefore, these statutory dues are in respect of those items produced and not the plant and machinery which was used for the purposes of manufacture. This fine distinction is not taken note at all by the High Court. "

52. The afore noted judgment is clearly distinguishable as the Excise dues does not create charge upon the property put to auction.

53. The next judgment as sought to be relied to and referred to by the learned Senior Counsel who appears for the petitioner is the case of Haryana State Electricity Board Vs. (supra) The said judgment is also of no assistance to the petitioner in view of the fact that the Hon'ble Apex Court had held that electricity arrears do not constitute a charge over the property and that is why a transferee of the premise cannot be made liable for payment of dues of the previous owner/occupier. The relevant extract of the judgment in paragraph nos. 10, 11, 12, 13 are quoted hereinunder:-

"10. The appellant relies on the subsequent decision of this court in Paramount Polymers (supra) to distinguish the decision in Isha Marbles. In Paramount Polymers (supra), the terms and conditions of supply contained a provision (clause 21A) providing that reconnection or new connection shall not be given to any premises where there are arrears on any account, unless the arrears are cleared. In view of the said express provision, this Court distinguished Isha Marbles on the following reasoning:

"15...This Court in Hyderabad Vanaspati Ltd. v. A.P. SEB [1998] 2 SCR 620 has held that the Terms and Conditions for Supply of Electricity notified by the Electricity Board under Section 49 of the Electricity (Supply) Act are statutory and the fact that an individual agreement is entered into by the Board with each consumer does not make the terms and conditions for supply contractual. This Court has also held that though the Electricity Board is not a commercial entity, it is entitled to regulate its tariff in such a way that a reasonable profit is left with it so as to enable it to undertake the activities necessary. If in that process in respect of recovery of dues in respect of a premises to which supply had been made, a condition is inserted for its recovery from a transferee of the undertaking, it cannot ex facie be said to be unauthorized or unreasonable. Of course, still a court may be able to strike it down as being violative of the fundamental rights enshrined in the Constitution of India. But that is a different matter. In this case, the High Court has not undertaken that exercise.

16. The position obtaining in Isha Marbles (supra) was akin to the position that was available in the case on hand in view of the Haryana Government Electrical Undertakings (Dues Recovery) Act, 1970. There was no insertion of a clause like Clause 21A as in the present case, in the Terms and Conditions of Supply involved in that case. The decision proceeded on the basis that the contract for supply was only with the previous consumer and the obligation or liability was enforceable only against that consumer and since there was no contractual relationship with the subsequent purchaser and he was not a consumer within the meaning of the Electricity Act, the dues of the previous consumer could not be recovered from the purchaser. This Court had no occasion to consider the effect of clause like Clause 21A in the Terms and Conditions of Supply. We are therefore of the view that the decision in Isha Marbles (supra) cannot be applied to strike down the condition imposed and the first respondent has to make out a case independent on the ratio of Isha Marbles (supra), though it can rely on its ratio if it is helpful, for attacking the insertion of such a condition for supply of electrical energy. This Court was essentially dealing with the construction of Section 24 of the Electricity Act in arriving at its conclusion. The question of correctness or otherwise of the decision in Isha Marbles (supra) therefore does not arise in this case especially in view of the fact that the High Court has not considered the question whether Clause 21A of the terms and conditions incorporated is invalid for any reason."

11. In Paschimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Ltd. v. DVS Steels & Alloys Pvt.Ltd. [2009 (1) SCC 210] this court held, while reiterating the principle that the electricity dues did not constitute a charge on the premises, that where the applicable rules requires such payment, the same will be binding on the purchaser. This court held:

"11...A transferee of the premises or a subsequent occupant of a premises with whom the supplier has no privity of contract cannot obviously be asked to pay the dues of his predecessor in title or possession, as the amount payable towards supply of electricity does not constitute a `charge' on the premises. A purchaser of a premises, cannot be foisted with the electricity dues of any previous occupant, merely because he happens to be the current owner of the premises....

12....When the purchaser of a premises approaches the distributor seeking a fresh electricity connection to its premises for supply of electricity, the distributor can stipulate the terms subject to which it would supply electricity. It can stipulate as one of the conditions for supply, that the arrears due in regard to the supply of electricity made to the premises when it was in the occupation of the previous owner/occupant, should be cleared before the electricity supply is restored to the premises or a fresh connection is provided to the premises. If any statutory rules govern the conditions relating to sanction of a connection or supply of electricity, the distributor can insist upon fulfillment of the requirements of such rules and regulations. If the rules are silent, it can stipulate such terms and conditions as it deems fit and proper, to regulate its transactions and dealings. So long as such rules and regulations or the terms and conditions are not arbitrary and unreasonable, courts will not interfere with them.

13...A stipulation by the distributor that the dues in regard to the electricity supplied to the premises should be cleared before electricity supply is restored or a new connection is given to a premises, cannot be termed as unreasonable or arbitrary. In the absence of such a stipulation, an unscrupulous consumer may commit defaults with impunity, and when the electricity supply is disconnected for non-payment, may sell away the property and move on to another property, thereby making it difficult, if not impossible for the distributor to recover the dues. Provisions similar to Clause 4.3(g) and (h) of Electricity Supply Code are necessary to safeguard the interests of the distributor."

12. The position therefore can may be summarized thus :

(i) Electricity arrears do not constitute a charge over the property. Therefore in general law, a transferee of a premises cannot be made liable for the dues of the previous owner/occupier.

(ii) Where the statutory rules or terms and conditions of supply which are statutory in character, authorize the supplier of electricity, to demand from the purchaser of a property claiming re-connection or fresh connection of electricity, the arrears due by the previous owner/occupier in regard to supply of electricity to such premises, the supplier can recover the arrears from a purchaser.

Position in this case

13. The appellant did not plead in its defence that any statutory rule or terms and conditions of supply, authorized it to demand the dues of previous owner, from the first respondent. Though the appellant contended in the written statement that the dues of Durga Rice Mills were transferred to the account of the first respondent, the appellant did not specify the statutory provision which enabled it to make such a claim. The decision in Paramount Polymers shows that such an enabling term was introduced in the terms and conditions of electricity supply in Haryana, only in the year 2001."

54. Another judgment so cited is the case of Shreyas Papers (P) Ltd. (supra), however, the said judgment is of no help to the petitioner as in the said case there was only transfer of individual assets of the defaulting company rather than the defaulting company being sold as a going concern and the Hon'ble Apex Court while interpreting Section 15 (1) of the Karnataka Sales Tax Act (1957) in paragraph nos. 17 and 22 observed as under:-

"17. In the present case, since it is not a matter of dispute that there was only the transfer of individual assets of the Defaulting Company, rather than the Defaulting Company being sold as a going concern, in light of our expressed views, Section 15 of the KST Act is not attracted. The first limb of Mr. Hegde's arguments must, therefore, fail.

22. In the present case, firstly, no provision of law has been cited before us that exempts the requirement of notice of the charge for its enforcement against a transferee who had no notice of the same. It remains to be seen, therefore, if in the facts of the present case, the First Respondent had noticeactual or constructiveof the charge. At the outset, in the advertisement/notice dated 17.3.1992 issued by the Corporation, mention is only made of the sale of the Defaulting Company's assets and there is no indication, whatsoever, of any sales tax arrears. Further, the bid offer made on behalf of the First Respondent on 5.6.1992

specifically excludes any statutory liabilities, including sales tax. This offer was accepted by the Corporation on 15.7.1992. Even at that stage, there was no mention of any sales tax arrears. The sale of the assets took place pursuant to the agreement dated 12.8.1992 in which a specific clause was inserted that the First Respondent would be liable to pay all property taxes, other taxes, electricity bills, water taxes and rents from the date of the agreement (i.e. 12.8.1992). For the first time, by letter dated 8.1.1993 of the Second Appellant to the Mandal Panchayath, Aloor Taluk, the issue of sales tax dues of the Defaulting Company was brought to the surface. This is further borne out by the correspondence between the First Respondent and the Corporation. Thus, it is evident that the First Respondent had no actual notice of the charge prior to the transfer. As to whether the First Respondent had constructive notice of the charge, no substantive argument on this issue was made, either before the High Court or at any rate before us. Hence, we cannot hold that the First Appellant had constructive notice of the charge. "

55. Similarly, so far as the case of Telangana State Southern Power Distribution Company Ltd. (supra) the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph nos. 16, 16.1, 16.2 has observed as under:-

"16. We have gone into the aforesaid judgments as it was urged before us that there is some ambiguity on the aspect of liability of dues of the past owners who had obtained the connection. There have been some differences in facts but, in our view, there is a clear judicial thinking which emerges, which needs to be emphasized:

16.1 . That electricity dues, where they are statutory in character under the Electricity Act and as per the terms & conditions of supply, cannot be waived in view of the provisions of the Act itself more specifically Section 56 of the Electricity Act, 2003 (in pari materia with Section 24 of the Electricity Act, 1910), and cannot partake the character of dues of purely contractual nature.

16.2 . Where, as in cases of the E-auction notice in question, the existence of electricity dues, whether quantified or not, has been specifically mentioned as a liability of the purchaser and the sale is on "AS IS WHERE IS, WHATEVER THERE IS AND WITHOUT RECOURSE BASIS", there can be no doubt that the liability to pay electricity dues exists on the respondent (purchaser)."

56. Perusal of the above noted paragraphs itself shows that the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that electricity dues are statutory in nature and as per terms and the condition of supply the same cannot be waved of. Infact the said judgment goes against

57. The next judgment cited is the case of Raman Roadways Private Limited (supra) the said judgment no where supports the case of the petitioner as the said judgment holds that property tax was merely a statutory dues without creating any encumbrances over the property and the same is not liable to be paid.

58. The judgments so cited by the learned Senior Counsel as referred to above are clearly distinguishable and do not apply in the present facts of the case particularly when there already exists specific Clause 3(b) under Chapter No. (IV) of the lease deed dated 26.06.2001 providing that the lessor shall have first charge upon the demise premises for the amount of unpaid lease rents and interest thereon and other dues of authority. Moreover, as discussed above the petitioner herein has accepted the terms and covenant contained in the lease deed and also signatory to the Transfer Memorandum date 24.12.2020 which even in fact became the basis of the sale certificate dated 30.07.2021.

59. Addressing the question of refund of the amount so paid by the petitioner being (i) and (iii) they are interlinked and they are decided compositely.

60. In order to be entitled to be refunded the amount so deposited under protest the petitioner has to place relevant facts before the court as to how and by which manner it had been pressurized to deposit the amount and it deposited the same under protest. The Court finds that the petitioner himself was a signatory of Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 and the same became a basis of issuance of sale certificate on 30.07.2021. Further the petitioner stepped into the shoes of the Creditor Debtor and also got itself bound to honor the contractual obligation. Barring the allegations made in paragraph no. 14 of the writ petition and a letter so appended marked to the GNIDA dated 27.10.2020, there is nothing on record to show that any challenge/protest was made to the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020. As already noticed the petitioner was bound to honor the commitments as laid down in the lease deed and the petitioner paid the arrears of lease rentals and interest and thereafter, it became the lessee. More so, the conduct of the petitioner itself shows that it approbated and reprobated at the same time as though it on the basis of the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 it, became a lessee while holding interest over the leased land but the petitioner is avoiding performance of contractual obligation while playing hot and cold at the same time.

61. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of R.N. Gosain vs. Yashpal Dhir reported in (1992) 4 SCC 683 has observed as under:-

"10. Law does not permit a person to both approbate and reprobate. This principle is based on the doctrine of election which postulates that no party can accept and reject the same instrument and that "a person cannot say at one time that a transaction is valid any thereby obtain some advantage, to which he could only be entitled on the footing that it is valid, and then turn round and say it is void for the purpose of securing some other advantage". [See: Verschures Creameries Ltd. v. Hull and Netherlands Steamship Co. Ltd., (1921) 2 R.B. 608, at p.612, Scrutton, L.J]. According to Halsbury's Laws of England, 4th Edn.,Vol. 16, "after taking an advantage under an order (for example for the payment of costs) a party may be precluded from saying that it is invalid and asking to set it aside". (para 1508)."

62. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Shyam Telelink Limited vs. Union of India, reported in (2010) 10 SCC 165 has observed as under:

"23. The maxim qui approbat non reprobat (one who approbates cannot reprobate) is firmly embodied in English Common Law and often applied by Courts in this country. It is akin to the doctrine of benefits and burdens which at its most basic level provides that a person taking advantage under an instrument which both grants a benefit and imposes a burden cannot take the former without complying with the latter. A person cannot approbate and reprobate or accept and reject the same instrument."

63. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Cauvery Coffee Traders, Mangalore vs. Hornor Resources (International) Company Limited, reported in (2011) 10 SCC 420 has held as under:

"34. A party cannot be permitted to "blow hot and cold", "fast and loose" or "approbate and reprobate". Where one knowingly accepts the benefits of a contract or conveyance or an order, is estopped to deny the validity or binding effect on him of such contract or conveyance or order. This rule is applied to do equity, however, it must not be applied in a manner as to violate the principles of right and good conscience. (Vide: Nagubai Ammal & Ors. v. B. Shama Rao & Ors., AIR 1956 SC 593; C.I.T. Vs. MR. P. Firm Maur, AIR 1965 SC 1216; Maharashtra State Road Transport Corporation v. Balwant Regular Motor Service, Amravati & Ors., AIR 1969 SC 329; P.R.

Deshpande v. Maruti Balaram Haibatti, AIR 1998 SC 2979; Babu Ram v. Indrapal Singh, AIR 1998 SC 3021; Chairman and MD, NTPC Ltd. v. Reshmi Constructions, Builders & Contractors, AIR 2004 SC 1330; Ramesh Chandra Sankla & Ors. v. Vikram Cement & Ors., AIR 2009 SC 713; and Pradeep Oil Corporation v. Municipal Corporation of Delhi & Anr., (2011) 5 SCC 270).

35. Thus, it is evident that the doctrine of election is based on the rule of estoppel- the principle that one cannot approbate and reprobate inheres in it. The doctrine of estoppel by election is one of the species of estoppels in pais (or equitable estoppel), which is a rule in equity. By that law, a person may be precluded by his actions or conduct or silence when it is his duty to speak, from asserting a right which he otherwise would have had."

64. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sri Gangai Vinayagar Temple and another vs. Meenakshi Ammal and others, reported in (2015) 3 SCC 624 has observed as under:

"16.2. Secondly, on a proper perusal of the plaint, it ought to have been palpably evident that the Plaintiff/Tenant in O.S.5/78 feared dispossession from the demised premises because of what they considered to be an illegal transfer; but since all the Defendants had averred in their Written Statement that they had no intention of doing so, the suit ought not to have been dismissed but ought to have been decreed without more ado solely so far as the prayer of injunction was concerned. But, in the Trial Court the title to the leased land had become the fulcrum of the fight, owing to the pleadings of the Tenant in which it had repeatedly and steadfastly challenged the title of the Trust as well as the Transferees. The Tenant should not be permitted to approbate and reprobate, as per its whim or convenience, by disowning or abandoning a controversy it has sought to have adjudicated."

65. Proposition of law as culled out by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the above noted decisions draws irresistible conclusion that a party cannot approbate and reprobate at the same time as once it becomes beneficiaries of certain documents/instruments then the said party cannot elect to honor the commitments of certain parts which are beneficial to it and wriggle out of those conditions which puts liability upon it.

66. Nevertheless, Transfer Memorandum was executed on 24.12.2020 and the petitioner signed the same and in absence of the any challenge to the same the petitioner is bound by it and it has to comply with the contractual obligation in-toto. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of R. K. Mittal and Others vs. State of U.P. and Others reported in 2012 (2) SCC 232 in paragraph no. 53 has observed as under:-

"53. Reverting to the case in hand, we may notice that the lease deed executed in favour of the predecessor-in-interest of R.K. Mittal and the other appellants had contained specific stipulations that the lessee will obey and submit to all directions issued, existing or thereafter to exist, as obeyed by the lessor. The erection of the structure was also to be in accordance with the approved plans. Clause (h) of the lease deed specifically provides that the constructed building shall be used only for the purpose of residential, residential-cum-or surgical clinic and for no other purpose, that too subject to such terms as are imposed by the lessor. The transfer deed which was executed in favour of the present appellants, with the approval of the Development Authority, also contained similar clauses and also provided that the terms and conditions imposed by Development Authority from time to time shall be binding on the transferee. Clause 15 of the transfer deed stipulated that the transferee shall put the property to use exclusively for residential purpose and shall not use it for any purpose other than residential. After raising the construction on the plot in question, admittedly, the appellants have put the property to a different use other than residential. The property was rented out to two different commercial undertakings, i.e., Andhra Bank and a company by the name `Akariti Infotech'. It is not even the case of the appellants before us that the Development Authority had granted any specific permission to them to use the property for any purpose other than residential."

67. Perusal of the above noted paragraph of the judgment itself shows that the transfer deed is an instrument which is normally executed in case of transfer of lease land in favour of any third party which sets out with the terms and conditions of the transfer. Applying the said judgment this Court finds that the petitioner being a beneficiary of a transfer is bound to honor the contractual obligation as contained in the Transfer Memorandum.

68. Admittedly, the petitioner is seeking refunds of certain amount which he claims to have deposited under protest for discharge the contractual obligation. Now the question arises as to whether this Court can in exercise of the jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India by virtue of judicial fiat grant relief to the petitioner which tantamount to resiling and wriggling away from a contractual obligation.

69. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Har Shankar and Others vs. The Dy. Excise and Taxation Commercial and Others reported in 1975 (1) SCC 737 in paragraph no. 22 observed as under:-

"The writ jurisdiction of High Courts under Article 226 of the Constitution is not intended to facilitate avoidance of obligations voluntarily incurred."

70. In the Case of M/s Radhakrishna Agarwal and Others vs. State of Bihar and Others reported in 1977 (3) SCC 457 in paragraph nos. 12, 13, 14 and 15 observed as under:-

"12. The Patna High Court had, very rightly divided the types of cases 'in which breaches of alleged obligation by the State units agents can be set up into three types. These were stated as follows :--

"(i) Where a petitioner makes a grievance of breach of promise on the part of the State in cases where an assurance or promise made by the State he has acted to his prejudice and predicament, but the agree- ment is short of a contract within the meaning of article 299 of the Constitution;

(ii) Where the contract entered into between the person aggrieved and the State is in exercise of a statutory power under certain Act or Rules framed thereunder and the petitioner alleges a breach on the pan of State; and

(iii) Where the contract entered into between the State, and the person aggrieved is non-statutory and purely contractual and the rights and liabilities of the parties are governed by the terms of the contract, and the petitioner complains about breach of such contract by the State."

13. It rightly held that the cases such as Union of India v. M/s. AngloAfghan Agencies,(1) and Century Spinning & Manu- facturing Co. Ltd. v. Ulhasnagar Municipal Council(2); and Robertson v. Minister of Pensions,(3) belong to the first category where it could be held that public bodies or the State are as much bound as private individual are to carry out obligations incurred by them because parties seeking to bind the authorities have altered their position to their disadvantage or have acted to their detriment on the strength of the representations made by these authorities. The High Court thought that in such cases the obligation could sometimes be appropriately enforced on a Writ Petition even though the obligation was equitable only. We do not propose to express an opinion here on the question whether such an obligation could be enforced in proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution now. It. is enough to observe that the cases before us do not belong to this category.

14. The Patna High Court also distinguished cases which belong to the second category, such as K.N. Guruswami v. The State of Mysore;(4) ' D.F. South Kheri v. Ram Sanehi Singh;(5) and M/s. Shree Krishna Gyanoday Sugar Ltd. v. The State of Bihar,(6) where the breach complained of was of a statutory obligation. It correctly pointed out that the cases before us do not belong to this class either.

15. It then, very rightly, held that the cases now before us should be placed in the third category where questions of pure alleged breaches of contract are involved. It held, upon the strength of Umakant Saran v. The State of Bihar;(7) and Lekhrai Sathram Das v.N.M. Shah;(8) and B.K. Sinha v. State of Bihar(9) that no writ order can issue under Article 226 of the Constitution in such cases "to compel the authorities to remedy are a breach of contract pure and simple"."

71. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Premji Bhai Parmar and Others vs. Delhi Development Authority and Others reported in 1980 (2) SCC 129 in paragraph no. 8 observed as under:-

"8. Though we are not inclined to reject the petitions on this preliminary objection as we have heard them on merits it is undeniable that camouflage of Art. 14 cannot conceal the real purpose motivating these petitions, namely, to get back a part of the purchase price of flats paid by the petitioners with wide open eyes after flats have been securely obtained and petition to this Court under Art. 32 is not a proper remedy nor is this Court a proper forum for re-opening the concluded contracts with a view to getting back a part of the purchase price paid and the benefit taken. The undisputed facts are that petitioners offered themselves for registration for allotment of flats that may be constructed by the, Authority for MIG scheme. After the registration and when the flats were constructed and ready for occupation brochures were issued by the Authority. One such brochure for ', allotment of MIG flats in Lawrence Road residential scheme is Annexure R-1. This brochure specifies the terms and conditions including price on which flat will be offered. It also reserved the right to surrender or cancel the registration, the mode and method of paying the price and handing over the possession. There is an application form annexed to the brochure. Annexure 'A' to the brochure sets out the price of flat on the ground floor, first floor and second floor respectively. It sets out the premium amount payable for land as also the total cost in respect of the flats on the ground floor, first floor and second floor. The statement also shows the earnest money deposited at the time of the registration and the balance payable. It is on the basis of these brochures that the applicants applied for the flats in Lawrence Road and other MIG schemes. They knew and are presumed to know the contents of the brochure and particularly the price payable. They offered to purchase the flats at the price on which the Authority offered to sell the same. After the lots were drawn and they were lucky enough to be found eligible for allotment of flats, each one of them paid the price set out in the brochure and took possession of the flat, and thus sale became complete. There is no suggestion that there was a mis-statement or incorrect statement or any fraudulent concealment in the information supplied in the brochure published by the Authority on the strength of which they applied and obtained flats. How the seller works out his price is a matter of his own choice unless it is subject to statutory control. Price of property is in the realm of contract between a seller and buyer. There is no obligation on the purchaser to purchase the flat at the price offered. Even afar registration the registered applicants may opt for other schemes. His light to enter into-other scheme opting out of present offer is not thereby jeopardised or negatived and applicants so outnumbered the available flats that lots had to be drawn. With this background the petitioners now contend that the Authority has collected surcharge as component of price which the Authority was not authorised or entitled to collect. Even if there may be any merit in this contention, though there is none, such a relief of refund cannot be the subject-matter of a petition under Art. 32. And Art. 14 cannot camouflage the real bone of contention. Conceding for this submission that the Authority has the trappings of a State or would be comprehended in 'other authority' for the purpose of Art. 12, while determining price of flats constructed by it, it acts purely in its executive capacity and "is bound by the obligations which dealings of the State with the individual citizens import into every transacting entered into the exercise of its constitutional powers But after the State or its agents have entered into the field of ordinary contract, the relations are no longer governed by the Constitutional provisions but by the legally valid contract which determines rights and obligations of the parties inter se. No question arises of violation of Art. 14 or of any other constitutional provision when the State or its agents, purporting to act within this field, perform any act. In this sphere, they can only claim rights conferred upon them by contract and are bound by the. terms of the contract only unless some statute steps in and confers some special statutory power or obligation on the State in the contractual field which is apart from contract" (see Radhakrishna Agarwal & Ors. v. State of Bihar & Ors.) Petitioners were under no obligation to seek allotment of flats even after they had registered themselves. They looked at the price and flats and applied for the flats. This they did voluntarily. hey were advised by the brochures to look at the flats before going in for the same. They were lucky enough to get allotment when the lots were drawn. Each one of them was allotted a flat and he paid the price voluntarily. They are now trying to wriggle out by an invidious method so as to get back a part of the purchase price not offering to return the benefit under the contract, namely, surrender of flat. I The Authority in its affidavit in reply in terms stated that it is. willing to take back the fiats and to repay them the full price. The transaction is complete, viz., possession of the flat is taken and price is paid. At a later stage when they are secure in possession with title, petitioners are trying to get back a part of the purchase price and thus trying to re-open and wriggle out of a concluded contract only partially. In a similar and identical situation a Constitution Bench of this Court in Har Shankar & ors. etc. etc. v. The Dy. Excise & Taxation Commr. & ors. has observed that those who contract with open eyes must accept the burdens of the contract along with its benefits. Reciprocal rights and obligations arising out of contract do not depend for their enforceability upon whether a contracting party finds it prudent to abide by the terms of the contract. By such a test no contract would ever have a binding force. The jurisdiction of this Court under Art. 32 of the Constitution is not intended to facilitate avoidance of obligations voluntarily incurred. It would thus appear that petitions ought not to have been entertained. However, as the petitions were heard on merits, the contentions canvassed on behalf of the petitioners may as well be examined."

72. In the case of Divisional Forest Officer vs. Bishwanath Tea Co. Ltd. reported in 1981 (3) SCC 238 the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph nos. 8 and 9 has observed as under:-

"8. It is undoubtedly true that High Court can entertain in its extraordinary jurisdiction a petition to issue any of the prerogative writs for any other purpose. But such writ can be issued where there is executive action unsupported by law or even in respect of a Corporation where there is a denial of equality before law or equal protection of law. The Corporation can also file a writ petition for enforcement of a right under a statute. As pointed out earlier, the respondent (Company) was merely trying to enforce a contractual obligation. To clear the ground let it be stated that obligation to pay royalty for timber cut and felled and removed is prescribed by the relevant regulations. The validity of regulations is not challenged. Therefore, the demand for royalty is unsupported by law. What the respondent claims is an exception that in view of a certain term in the indenture of lease, to wit, Clause 2, the appellant is not entitled to demand and collect royalty from the respondent. This is nothing but enforcement of a term of a contract of lease. Hence, the question whether such contractual obligation can be enforced by the High Court in its writ jurisdiction.

9. Ordinarily, where a breach of contract is complained of, a party complaining of such breach may sue for specific performance of the contract, if contract is capable of being specifically performed, or the party may sue for damages. Such a suit would ordinarily be cognizable by the Civil Court. The High Court in its extraordinary jurisdiction would not entertain a petition either for specific performance of contract or for recovering damages. A right to relief flowing from a contract has to be claimed in a civil court where a suit for specific performance of contract or for damages could be filed. This is so well settled that no authority is needed. However, we may refer to a recent decision bearing on the subject. In Har Shankar and Ors. etc. etc. v. The Deputy Excise and Taxation Commissioner and Ors., the petitioners offered their bids in the auctions held for granting licences for the sale of liquor. Subsequently, the petitioners moved to invalidate the auctions challenging the power of the Financial Commissioner to grant liquor licence. Rejecting this contention, Chandrachud J., as he than was speaking for the Constitution Bench at page 263 observed as under:

"Those who contract with open eyes must accept the burdens of the contract along with its benefits. The powers of the Financial Commissioner to grant liquor licences by auction and to collect licence fees through the medium of auctions cannot by writ petitions be questioned by those who, had their venture succeeded, would have relied upon those very powers to found a legal claim. Reciprocal rights and obligations arising out of contract do not depend for their enforceability upon whether a contracting party finds it prudent to abide by the terms of the contract. By such a test no contract could ever have a binding force."

Again at page 265 there is a pertinent observation which may be extracted.

`Analysing the situation here, a concluded contract must be held to have come into existence between the parties. The appellants have displayed ingenuity in their search for invalidating circumstances but a writ petition is not an appropriate remedy for impeaching contractual obligations."

`This apart, it also appears that in a later decision, the Assam High Court itself took an exactly opposite view in almost identical circumstances. In Woodcrafts Assam v. Chief Conservator of Forests, Assam, a writ petition was filed challenging the revision of rates of royalty for two different periods. Rejecting this petition as not maintainable, a Division Bench of the High Court held that the complaint of the petitioner is that there is violation of his rights under the contract and that such violation of contractual obligation cannot be remedied by a writ petition. That exactly is the position in the case before us. Therefore, the High Court was in error in entertaining the writ petition and it should have been dismissed at the threshold."

73. In the case of Barielly Development Authority and Another vs. Ajay Pal Singh and Others reported in 1989 (2) SCC 116 the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph nos. 20, 21 and 22 observed as under:-

"20. Thus the factual position in this case clearly and unambiguously reveals that the respondents after voluntarily accepting the conditions imposed by the BDA have entered into the realm of concluded contract pure and simple with the BDA and hence the respondents can only claim the right conferred upon them by the said contract and are bound by the terms of the contract unless some statute steps in and confers some special statutory obligations on the part of the BDA in the contractual field. In the case before us, the contract between the respondents and the BDA does not con- tain any statutory terms and/or conditions. When the factual position is so, the High Court placing reliance on the decision in Ramana Dayaram Shetty case (AIR 1979 SC 1628) has erroneously held:

"It has not been disputed that the contesting opposite party is included within the term 'other authority' mentioned under Article 12 of the Constitution. Therefore, the contesting opposite parties cannot be permitted to act arbitrarily with the principle which meets the test of reason and relevance. Where an author- ity appears acting unreasonably this Court is not powerless and a writ of mandamus can be issued for performing its duty free from arbitrariness or unreasonableness."

21. This finding, in our view, is not correct in the light of the facts and circumstances of this case because in Ramana Dayaram Shetty case there was no concluded contract as in this case. Even conceding that the BDA has the trap- pings of a State or would be comprehended in 'other authori- ty' for the purpose of Article 12 of the Constitution, while determining price of the houses/flats constructed by it and the rate of monthly instalments to be paid, the 'authority' or its agent after entering into the field of ordinary contract acts purely in its executive capacity. Thereafter the relations are no longer governed by the constitutional provisions but by the legally valid contract which determines the rights and obligations of the parties inter-se. In this sphere, they can only claim rights conferred upon them by the contract in the absence of any statutory obligations on the part of the authority (i.e. B.D.A. in this case) in the said contractual field.

22. There is a line of decisions where the contract entered into between the State and the persons aggrieved is non- statutory and purely contractual and the rights are governed only by the terms of the contract, no writ or order can be issued under Article 226 of the Constitution of India so as to compel the authorities to remedy a breach of contract pure and simple Radhakrishna Agarwal & Ors. v. State of Bihar & Ors., [1977] 3 SCR 249; Premji Bhai Parmar & Ors. etc. v. Delhi Development Authority & Ors, [1980] 2 SCR 704 and D.F.O. v. Biswanath Tea Company Ltd., [1981] 3 SCR 662."

74. In Noida Entrepreneur Association vs. U.P. Financial Corporation and Another reported in 1994 Supp (2) SCC 108 the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph nos. 2, 3 and 4 has observed as under:-

"2. The Association filed a writ petition before the Allahabad High Court seeking a direction to the Corporation to adhere to the guidelines laid down by the IDBI in respect of interest and the penal interest. The High Court dismissed the writ petition. This appeal by the Association is against the judgment of the High Court.

3. According to the Association the Corporation is charging from them the interest at higher rate than the ceiling provided under the guidelines issued by the IDBI. It is further alleged that the penal interest in the event of default in repayment, provided in the agreement was also over and above the norms laid down by the IDBI.

4. WE have heard learned counsel for the appellant. He has taken us through the judgment of the High Court and the other material on record. The High Court declined to exercise its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of lndia on the short ground that the appellant-petitioner was disputing the contractual obligations entered into by the parties under the ordinary law of contract. While dismissing the writ petition the High Court observed as under:

"We feel on the facts and circumstances of this case that since only the petitioner has come before us, the proper remedy for the petitioner even otherwise is to go to the civil court and get the matter adjudicated in the suit. This is, nowever, without prejudice to the right of the petitioner to approach the IDBI by means of representation if they really have power to take action they can take necessary action if it is so desirable under that power against respondent 1."

75. In the Case of Improvement Trust Ropar Through Its Chairman vs. Tejinder Singh Gujral And Others reported in 1995 Supp (4) SCC 577 the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no. 3 has observed as under:-

"3. No writ petition can lie for recovery of an amount under a contract The High Court was clearly wrong in entertaining and allowing the petition There is no separate law for the advocates"

76. Yet in the case of State of Orissa vs. Narain Prasad and Others reported in AIR 1997 S.C. 1493 the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no. 35 observed as under:-

"35. Lastly we may also invoke the holding in Har Shankar and Jageram that the writ petitioners, having entered into agreements voluntarily,containing the conditions aforesaid and having done the business under the licences obtained by them, cannot be allowed to either wriggle out of the agreements nor can they be allowed to challenge the validity of the Rules which constitute the terms of the contract. The High Court should not have exercised its extra-ordinary discretionary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution in aid of such licencees."

77. Orissa State Financial Corporation vs. Narsingh Ch. Nayak And Others reported in 2003 (10) SCC 261 the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no. 6 has observed as under:-

"6. The said order is under challenge in this appeal. On a plain reading of the impugned order it is manifest that the High Court, while considering the writ petition filed by the owner of the vehicle for quashing of the notice of auction sale and for other consequential reliefs, has passed order drawing up a fresh contract between the parties and has issued certain further directions in the matter; the corporation has been directed to advance a fresh loan to the writ petitioner to enable him to purchase a new truck; to enter into agreement for realization of the balance loan amount in accordance with law; to write off the remaining amount of Rs. 16,500/-and to order waiving of the interest till date etc. The order to say the least, was beyond the scope of the writ petition which was being considered by the High Court and beyond the jurisdiction of the court in a contractual matter. No doubt, while exercising its extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution, the High Court has wide power to pass appropriate order and issue proper direction as necessary in the facts and circumstances of the case and in the interest of justice. But that is not to say that the High Court can ignore the scope of the writ petition and nature of the dispute and enter the field pertaining to contractual obligations between the parties and issue such directions annulling the existing contract and introducing a fresh contract in its place."

78. Yet in the case of Rajasthan State Industrial Development (supra) the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph nos. 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24 has observed as under:-

"19. There can be no dispute to the settled legal proposition that matters/disputes relating to contract cannot be agitated nor terms of the contract can be enforced through writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution. Thus, writ court cannot be a forum to seek any relief based on terms and conditions incorporated in the agreement by the parties. (Vide: Bareilly Development Authority & Anr. v. Ajay Pal Singh & Ors., AIR 1989 SC 1076; and State of U.P. & Ors. v. Bridge & Roof Co. (India) Ltd., AIR 1996 SC 3515).

20. In Kerala State Electricity Board & Anr. v. Kurien E. Kalathil & Ors., AIR 2000 SC 2573, this Court held that a writ cannot lie to resolve a disputed question of fact, particularly to interpret the disputed terms of a contract observing as under: (SCC pp. 298-99, paras 10-11)

"10.....The interpretation and implementation of a clause in a contract cannot be the subject-matter of a writ petition. ....If a term of a contract is violated, ordinarily the remedy is not the writ petition under Article 226. We are also unable to agree with the observations of the High Court that the contractor was seeking enforcement of a statutory contract.....

11.....The contract between the parties is in the realm of private law. It is not a statutory contract. The disputes relating to interpretation of the terms and conditions of such a contract could not have been agitated in a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. That is a matter for adjudication by a civil court or in arbitration if provided for in the contract.... The contractor should have relegated to other remedies."

21. It is evident from the above, that generally the court should not exercise its writ jurisdiction to enforce the contractual obligation. The primary purpose of a writ of mandamus, is to protect and establish rights and to impose a corresponding imperative duty existing in law. It is designed to promote justice (ex debito justiceiae). The grant or refusal of the writ is at the discretion of the court. The writ cannot be granted unless it is established that there is an existing legal right of the applicant, or an existing duty of the respondent. Thus, the writ does not lie to create or to establish a legal right, but to enforce one that is already established. While dealing with a writ petition, the court must exercise discretion, taking into consideration a wide variety of circumstances, inter-alia, the facts of the case, the exigency that warrants such exercise of discretion, the consequences of grant or refusal of the writ, and the nature and extent of injury that is likely to ensue by such grant or refusal.

22. Hence, discretion must be exercised by the court on grounds of public policy, public interest and public good. The writ is equitable in nature and thus, its issuance is governed by equitable principles. Refusal of relief must be for reasons which would lead to injustice. The prime consideration for the issuance of the said writ is, whether or not substantial justice will be promoted. Furthermore, while granting such a writ, the court must make every effort to ensure from the averments of the writ petition, whether there exist proper pleadings. In order to maintain the writ of mandamus, the first and foremost requirement is that the petition must not be frivolous, and must be filed in good faith. Additionally, the applicant must make a demand which is clear, plain and unambiguous. It must be made to an officer having the requisite authority to perform the act demanded. Furthermore, the authority against whom mandamus is issued, should have rejected the demand earlier. Therefore, a demand and its subsequent refusal, either by words, or by conduct, are necessary to satisfy the court that the opposite party is determined to ignore the demand of the applicant with respect to the enforcement of his legal right. However, a demand may not be necessary when the same is manifest from the facts of the case, that is, when it is an empty formality, or when it is obvious that the opposite party would not consider the demand.

IV. Interpretation of terms of contract

23. A party cannot claim anything more than what is covered by the terms of contract, for the reason that contract is a transaction between the two parties and has been entered into with open eyes and understanding the nature of contract. Thus, contract being a creature of an agreement between two or more parties, has to be interpreted giving literal meanings unless, there is some ambiguity therein. The contract is to be interpreted giving the actual meaning to the words contained in the contract and it is not permissible for the court to make a new contract, however is reasonable, if the parties have not made it themselves. It is to be interpreted in such a way that its terms may not be varied. The contract has to be interpreted without giving any outside aid. The terms of the contract have to be construed strictly without altering the nature of the contract, as it may affect the interest of either of the parties adversely. (Vide: United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Harchand Rai Chandan Lal, AIR 2004 SC 4794; Polymat India P. Ltd. & Anr. v. National Insurance Co. Ltd. & Ors., AIR 2005 SC 286).

24. In DLF Universal Ltd. & Anr. v. Director, T. and C. Planning Department Haryana & Ors., AIR 2011 SC 1463, this court held:

"It is a settled principle in law that a contract is interpreted according to its purpose. The purpose of a contract is the interests, objectives, values, policy that the contract is designed to actualise. ?It comprises joint intent of the parties. Every such contract expresses the autonomy of the contractual parties' private will. It creates reasonable, legally protected expectations between the parties and reliance on its results. Consistent with the character of purposive interpretation, the court is required to determine the ultimate purpose of a contract primarily by the joint intent of the parties at the time the contract so formed. It is not the intent of a single party; it is the joint intent of both parties and the joint intent of the parties is to be discovered from the entirety of the contract and the circumstances surrounding its formation. As is stated in Anson's Law of Contract, "a basic principle of the Common Law of Contract is that the parties are free to determine for themselves what primary obligations they will accept...Today, the position is seen in a different light. Freedom of contract is generally regarded as a reasonable, social, ideal only to the extent that equality of bargaining power between the contracting parties can be assumed and no injury is done to the interests of the community at large."

The Court assumes "that the parties to the contract are reasonable persons who seek to achieve reasonable results, fairness and efficiency...In a contract between the joint intent of the parties and the intent of the reasonable person, joint intent trumps, and the Judge should interpret the contract accordingly."

79. Applying the said judgments in the present case this Court finds that the petitioner is seeking a judicial intervention for resiling and wriggling from contractual obligations which are not within the realm of the present proceedings.

80. Another issue which needs to be taken note of is the fact as to whether a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution would lie seeking mandamus for only refund of money when the same is disputed. The said issue is no more res integra as in the case of Suganmal Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh reported in AIR 1965 Supreme Court page 1740 wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:-

"6. On the first point, we are of opinion that though the High Court have power to pass any appropriate order in the exercise of the powers conferred under article 226 of the Constitution, such a petition solely praying for the issue of a writ of mandamus directing the State to refund the money is not ordinarily maintainable for the simple reason that a claim for such a refund can always be made in a suit against the authority which had illegally collected the money as a tax. We have been referred to cases in which orders had been issued directing the state to refund taxes illegally collected, but all such had been those in which the petitions challenged the validity of the assessment and for consequential relief for the return of the tax illgally collected. We have not been referred to any case in which the courts were moved by a petition under article 226 simply for the purpose of obtaining refund of money due from the State on account of its having made illegal exactions. We do not consider it proper to extend the principle justifying the consequential order directing the refund of amounts illegally realised, when the order under which the amounts had been collected has been set aside, to cases in which only orders for the refund of money are sought. The parties had the right to question the illegal assessment orders on the ground of their illegality or unconstitutionality and, therefore, could take action under Art. 226 for the protection of their fundamental right and the Courts, on setting aside the assessment orders exercised their jurisdiction in proper circumstances to order the consequential relief for the refund of the tax illegally realised. We do not find any good reason to extend this principle and, therefore, hold that no petition for the issue of a writ of mandamus will be normally entertained for the purpose of merely ordering a refund of money to the return of which the petitioner claims a right. "

81. The judgment in the case of Suganmal (supra) was followed in the case of Salonah Tea Company Ltd. And Others vs. Superintendent of Taxes Nowgong And Others reported in 1988 (1) SCC 401 wherein in paragraph no. 6 and 7 the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

"6. In this case indisputably it appears that tax was collected without the authority of law. Indeed the appellant had to pay the tax in view of the notices which were without jurisdiction. It appears that the assessment was made under section 9(3) of the Act. Therefore, it was with out jurisdiction. In the premises it is manifest that the respondents had no authority to retain the money collected without the authority of law and as such the money was liable to refund. The only question that falls for consideration here is whether in an application under Article 226 of the Constitution the Court should have directed refund. It is the case of the appellant that it was after the judgment in the case of Loong Soong Tea Estate the cause of action arose. That judgment was passed in July 1973. It appears thus that the High Court was in error in coming to the conclusion that it was possible for the appellant to know about the legality of the tax sought to be imposed as early as 1963, when the Act in question was declared ultra vires as mentioned hereinbefore. Thereafter the taxes were paid in 1968. Therefore the claim in November, 1973 was belated. We are unable to agree with this conclusion. As mentioned hereinbefore the question that arises in this case is whether the Court should direct refund of the amount in question. Courts have made a distinction between those cases where a claimant approaches a High Court seeking relief of obtaining refund only and those where refund is sought as a consequential relief after striking down of the order of assessment etc. Normally speaking in a society governed by rule of law taxes should be paid by citizens as soon as they are due in accordance with law. Equally, as a corollary of the said statement of law it follows that taxes collected without the authority of law as in this case from a citizen should be refunded because no State has the right to receive or to retain taxes or monies realised from citizens without the authority of law.

7. In Suganmal v. State of Madhya Pradesh and others, AIR 1965 SC 1740, this Court held that the High Courts have power to pass any appropriate order in the exercise of the powers conferred on them under Article 226 of the Constitution. A petition solely praying for the issue of a writ of mandamus directing the State to refund the money alleged to have been illegally collected by the State as tax was not ordinarily maintainable for the simple reason that a claim for such refund can always be made in a suit against the authority which had illegally collected the money as a tax and in such a suit it was open to the State to raise all possible defences to the claim, defences which cannot in most cases,, be appropriately raised and considered in the exercise of writ jurisdiction. It appears that Section 23 of the Act deals with refund. In the facts of this case, the case did not come within section 23 of the Act. But in the instant appeal, it is clear as the High Court found in our opinion rightly that the claim for refund was a consequential relief."

82. In the case in hand the Court finds that only a solitary relief has been sought in the nature of mandamus directing the GNIDA to refund the amount so deposited by the petitioner along with 18% per annum. The judgment in the case of Suganmal and Salonah Tea Company Ltd. (supra) are squarely applicable in the facts of the present case particularly when refund is being sought on the basis of certain deposits so made by the petitioner for discharging the contractual obligation. This Court is of the firm opinion that the present writ petition so instituted, seeking the solitary relief of mandamus without assailing any order, is not maintainable.

83. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has lastly argued that the amount in dispute was deposited under protest and thus, the GNIDA is under legal obligation to refund the same. Sri Ramendra Pratap Singh, who appears for GNIDA has argued that for discharge of the contractual obligations the petitioner has deposited the said amount and the same cannot be refunded. The Court notices the fact that there is a marked difference between the deposit of amount under protest and protest against the very instruments which occasioned deposit of the said amount. In the present case in hand, the entire pleadings centers around the deposit of amount under protest but there has been no attempt made by the petitioner to raise protest or challenge the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020, which became instrumental in deposit of the lease rentals and interest thereon. Hence, in the firm opinion of the Court, the interpretation so sought to be suggested by the petitioner that since the amount was deposited under protest, the petitioner is entitled to refund of the same is out of context besides being misconceived and misplaced.

84. Meticulously, analyzing the facts of the case in hand from the four corners of law this Court cannot subscribe to the argument of the learned Senior Counsel who appears for the petitioner as the controversy sought to raked up by the petitioner devolves around factual issues relating to the contractual obligation so embodied in the underline instruments be that the lease deed so executed from time to time or the Transfer Memorandum so executed between the parties. More so, the sale certificate itself has been issued after noticing the fact that the petitioner transferee (auction purchaser) is bound by the covenants contained in the lease deed as well as the Transfer Memorandum. Writ jurisdiction cannot be expanded in an elastic manner so as to stretch it to such a position which tantamounts to giving its judicial seal while delving into the factual issue as to whether pressure/coercion so adopted was practiced upon the petitioner. Nonetheless, to put the nail in the coffin the above noted instruments being sale deed certificate, Transfer Memorandum had not been put to challenge before any Court of law. More so, the conduct of the petitioner itself explicitly makes it clear that the petitioner has approbated and reprobated at the same time just in order to get the benefits and to wriggle out from obligations.

85. An impleadment application for impleading M/s Moser Baer India Private Limited Company in Liquadation for making it as fourth respondent, is not required to be allowed in view of the judgment/order so passed today.

SUMMATION

86. In summation of the discussion made herein above, we hold: -

(a). Merely because the petitioner is a bonafide auction purchaser who had purchased assets Corporate Debtor through auction/bidding so conducted by orders of NCLT, will not absolve it from paying arrears of lease rental and interest thereon.

(b). The Insolvency Bankruptcy Code-2016 grants limited protection to the petitioner (auction purchaser) while allowing it to step into the shoes of the Corporate Debtor but in order to the lessee of the principle lessor (GNIDA) the petitioner has to honor the commitments and discharge its contractual obligation as embodied in the lease deeds, Transfer Memorandum and Sale Certificate.

(c). The conduct of the petitioner also dis-entitles it to be granted relief under the equitable jurisdiction as the petitioner has approbated and reprobated at the same time as on one hand it seeks to become a lessee while being put in possession for enjoying the immovable assets of Corporate Debtor but on the other hand it wriggles and resiles from the contractual obligation.

(d). The words so employed in the Certificate of Sale Deed dated 11.09.2019 being "AS IS WHERE IS", "AS IS WHAT IS", "WHATEVER THERE IS" AND "NO RECOURSE" read with the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 so executed between the petitioner (auction purchaser) and GNIDA as well as the Sale Certificate dated 30.07.2021 itself creates contractual obligation upon the petitioner to honor the commitments and to discharge the obligations so embodied in the lease deed dated 26.06.2021 and the subsequent lease deeds for the payment of past lease rentals and interest thereon.

(e). GNIDA being the principal lessor has paramount interest over the demised land put to auction and it has legal as well as contractual right to raise demand of out standing arrears of lease rentals and interest thereon.

(f). High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India cannot by a judicial fiat creates a podium to facilitate avoidance of agreements while wriggling out from contractual obligations so embodied therein.

(g). A writ petition containing solitary relief of refund of the amount deposited for fulfilling contractual obligation, is not maintainable.

(h). Even otherwise, in absence of any challenge being made to the covenants of the Transfer Memorandum dated 24.12.2020 and the Sale Certificate dated 30.07.2021, the petitioner is not entitled to refund of the amount so deposited by him claiming it to be under protest.

CONCLUSION

87. In view of the forgoing discussions, the writ petition is devoid of merit and thus, liable to be dismissed. It is, therefore, dismissed.

88. All pending applications stands disposed of.

89. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

90. No order as to costs.

1. Heard Sri Harsh Vikram, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Neeraj Tripathi, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Shashank Shekhar Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel and Sri Surya Bhan Singh and Sri Devesh Vikram, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State respondents.

2. The instant writ petition has been filed praying for quashing of the order dated 23.09.2021 passed by the court of Additional Sub-Divisional Magistrate Sadar, Moradabad in Case No. 04080 of 2018, Computerized Case No. T201813540104080 (Mahendra Singh and others Vs. State of U.P.) in proceedings under Section 144 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 20061 and the order dated 23.11.2021 passed by the Member Board of Revenue, U.P. Allahabad in Case No. Rev/2396/2021/Moradabad, Computerized Case No. AL20211354002396 (Mahendra Singh and others Vs. Smt.Sharda Devi and others) in proceedings under Section 210 of the Revenue Code. A further direction is sought to the private respondent nos. 3 to 8 not to interfere in the peaceful possession of the petitioners on land bearing Gata No. 251Aa situate at Bhaypur Tehsil and District Moradabad.

3. The case as set up in the writ petition is that the land bearing Gata No. 521 Ka area 3.2380 acre situate at village Bhaypur Tehsil and District Moradabad was allotted to the predecessors-in-interest of the petitioners; however due to mistake of revenue authorities, their names were wrongly recorded as class III tenure holder and treating them to be asami, proceedings under Rule 176-A (2) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Rules, 19522 were initiated and an exparte order dated 07.03.2003 was passed directing their names to be expunged from the revenue records. The land in question was thereafter allotted to the respondent nos. 3 to 8. Upon an application filed by the petitioners, the aforestated order was recalled by an order dated 04.12.2003 and the proceedings were thereafter dropped with the passing of an order dated 23.03.2006 under Rule 176-A (2). The order dated 23.03.2006 was put to challenge by the subsequent allottees as also the State of U.P. by filing a revision before the Additional Commissioner (Administration), Moradabad and in terms of an order dated 31.03.2010, the revisions were allowed and the order dated 23.03.2006 was set aside. The earlier order dated 07.03.2003, whereby the names of the predecessors-in-interest of the petitioners had been expunged, was affirmed. The petitioners thereafter preferred a revision before the Board of Revenue being Revision No. 13 of 2010-2011, which is stated to be pending.

4. It is further stated that the predecessors-in-interest of the petitioners died in the meantime and the petitioners thereafter instituted a suit for declaration under Section 144 of the Revenue Code and also moved an application seeking temporary injunction against the respondents under Section 146 of the Revenue Code. The aforestated application seeking temporary injunction was rejected by the trial court by means of an order dated 23.09.2021, which was subjected to challenge in a revision being Revision No. 2396 of 2021 before the Board of Revenue, which was also dismissed at the stage of admission. Aggrieved against the aforestated order, the present writ petition has been filed.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioners has made his submissions as under :-

5.1 The revisional court erred in dismissing the revision on the ground of maintainability. The provision for grant of injunction having been separately provided for under Section 146 of the Revenue Code any order passed thereon disposing the application, either by granting or refusing to grant the injunction, would have the effect of terminating the proceedings under Section 146 and therefore the order would be revisable.

5.2 Section 209 creates a bar in respect of certain appeals and in terms of clause (d) thereof, an appeal is barred against an order granting or rejecting an application for stay.

5.3 Section 210 provides for a revision before the Board or the Commissioner in respect of any suit or proceeding decided by any subordinate revenue court in which no appeal lies. In the instant case, the application for injunction filed under Section 146 having been finally decided and an appeal thereagainst being barred as per Section 209, the order rejecting the application for injunction would be revisable under Section 210. Reliance in this regard has been placed on the decision in the case of Talib Khan Vs. Additional Commissioner (Administration) Moradabad Division, Moradabad3

6. Learned Additional Advocate General has refuted the aforestated contentions raised on behalf of the petitioners by submitting as under :-

6.1 The provision for injunction available under Section 146 is during the course of a suit under Section 144 and accordingly an order rejecting the application seeking injunction cannot be said to be "case decided" so as to be amenable to a revision under Section 210.

6.2 The remedy of first appeal under Section 207 of the Revenue Code, apart from being available against a final order or decree passed in a suit, is also available against an order of the nature specified in Order XLIII Rule 1 of the First Schedule of the Code of Civil Procedure, 19084. Order XLIII Rule 1 (r) provides for an appeal against an order under Rule 1, Rule 2 of Order XXXIX which is with regard to grant of temporary injunctions in a suit. The provision with regard to grant of injunction under Section 146 being similarly worded as the Order XXXIX Rule 1, an order rejecting the application seeking injunction in a pending suit under Section 144, would be appealable as per clause (c) of sub-section (2) of Section 207 of the Revenue Code.

6.3 The bar under Section 209 against filing an appeal against an order rejecting an application for stay would not be attracted inasmuch as in the present case, in terms of the order in question the injunction sought by the petitioners has been refused and the same cannot be said to be an order rejecting an application for stay. Placing reliance upon the judgment in the case of Mulraj vs Murti Raghonathji Maharaj5, it has been contended that there is a distinction between an order of an injunction and an order of stay.

7. Rival contentions now fall for consideration.

8. The provision with regard to declaratory suits finds place under Chapter IX of the Revenue Code. Section 144 is with regard to declaratory suits by the tenure holders and the same reads as follows :-

"144. Declaratory suits by tenure holders.— (1) Any person claiming to be a bhumidhar or asami of any holding or part thereof, whether exclusively or jointly, with any other person, may sue for a declaration of his rights in such holding or part.

(2) In every suit under sub-section (1) instituted by or on behalf of—

(a) a Bhumidhar, the State and the Gram Panchayat shall be necessary parties;

(b) an asami, the land-holder shall be a necessary party."

9. The corresponding provisions with regard to declaratory suits under the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 19506 (now repealed) was contained under Section 229-B of the said enactment, and the same was as follows :-

"229-B. Declaratory suit by person claiming to be an asami of a holding or part thereof.— (1) Any person claiming to be an asami of a holding or any part thereof, whether exclusively or jointly with any other person, may sue the landholder for a declaration of his rights as asami in such holding or part, as the case may be.

(2) In any suit under sub-section (1) any other person claiming to hold as asami under the land-holder shall be impleaded as defendant.

(3) The provisions of sub-sections (1) and (2) shall mutatis mutandis apply to a suit by a person claiming to be a bhumidhar with the amendment that for the word "landholder" the words "the State Government and the Gaon Sabha are substituted therein."

10. Section 144 contains the provision for declaratory suits by tenure holders and in terms thereof any person claiming to be a bhumidhar or asami of any holding or part thereof, whether exclusively or jointly with any other person, may sue for a declaration of his rights in such holding or part thereof. The State and the Gram Panchayat shall be necessary parties in every such suit instituted by or on behalf of the bhumidhar, and in the case of a suit instituted by an asami, the landholder shall be a necessary party.

11. Section 146 contains the provision for injunction, and the same reads as follows :-

"146. Provision for injunction.— If in the course of a suit under Section 144 or 145, it is proved by affidavit or otherwise —

(a) that any property, trees or crops standing on the land in dispute is in danger of being wasted, damaged or alienated by any party to the suit; or

(b) that any party to the suit threatens or intends to remove or dispose of the said property, trees or crops in order to defeat the ends of justice, the Court may grant a temporary injunction, and where necessary, also appoint a receiver."

12. The corresponding provision with regard to grant of injunction during the course of a suit instituted under the provisions of Section 229-B and 229-C of the UPZA and LR Act, as then it stood, was contained under Section 229-D of the said enactment which reads as follows :-

"229-D. Provision for injunction.— (1) If in the course of a suit under the provisions of Sections 229-B and 229-C, it is proved by an affidavit or otherwise-

(a) that any property, trees or crops standing on the land in dispute is in danger of being wasted, damaged or alienated by any party to the suit; or

(b) that any party to the suit threatens or intends to remove or dispose of the said property, trees or crops in order to defeat the ends of justice, the Court may grant a temporary injunction and where necessary, also appoint a receiver.

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall apply to a suit filed under sub-section (4-D) of Section 122-B."

13. Section 146 contains the provision for injunction and in terms thereof, if in the course of a suit under Section 144 or 145 it is proved by affidavit or otherwise : i.e. (i) that any property, trees or crops standing on the land in dispute is in danger of being wasted, damaged or alienated by any party to the suit; or (ii) that any party to the suit threatens or intends to remove or dispose of the said property, trees or crops in order to defeat the ends of justice, the Court is empowered to grant a temporary injunction, and where necessary, also appoint a receiver.

14. It would be relevant to notice that Section 214 of the Revenue Code provides for applicability of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 to every suit, application or proceedings under the Code. For ease of reference Section 214 of the Revenue Code is being extracted below:-

"214. Applicability of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 and Limitation Act, 1963.— Unless otherwise expressly provided by or under this Code, the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 and the Limitation Act, 1963 shall apply to every suit, application or proceedings under this Code."

15. Section 341 of the repealed UPZA and LR Act, provided for applicability of the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, to proceedings under the said Act, in similar terms.

16. The power to grant temporary injunction during the pendency of a suit has been conferred by Order XXXIX Rule 1 of the CPC, which reads as follows:-

"Order XXXIX Rule 1. Cases in which temporary injunction may be granted.--Where in any suit it is proved by affidavit or otherwise--

(a) that any property in dispute in a suit is in danger of being wasted, damaged or alienated by any party to the suit, or wrongfully sold in execution of a decree, or

(b) that the defendant threatens, or intends, to remove or dispose of his property with a view to defrauding his creditors,

(c) that the defendant threatens to dispossess, the plaintiff or otherwise cause injury to the plaintiff in relation to any property in dispute in the suit, the Court may by order grant a temporary injunction to restrain such act, or make such other order for the purpose of staying and preventing the wasting, damaging, alienation, sale, removal or disposition of the property or dispossession of the plaintiff, or otherwise causing injury to the plaintiff in relation to any property in dispute in the suit as the Court thinks fit, until the disposal of the suit or until further orders."

17. The language and phraseology of Section 146 of the Revenue Code as also Section 229-D of the repealed UPZA and LR Act, are in terms which are similar to the language of Order XXXIX Rule 1, and therefore the provisions under Section 146 would be seen as being supplemental to Order XXXIX Rule 1 CPC, the applicability whereof is provided as per terms of Section 214 of the Revenue Code.

18. Section 207 of the Revenue Code provides for the remedy of a first appeal to any party aggrieved by certain orders specified in the section. Section 207 reads as follows:-

"207. First appeal.— (1) Any party aggrieved by a final order or decree passed in any suit, application or proceeding specified in Column 2 of the Third Schedule, may refer a first appeal to the Court or officer specified against it in Column 4, where such order or decree was passed by a Court or officer specified against it in Column 3 thereof.

(2) A first appeal shall also lie against an order of the nature specified —

(a) in Section 47 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908; or

(b) in Section 104 of the said Code; or

(c) in Order XLIII Rule 1 of the First Schedule to the said Code.

(3) The period of limitation for filing a first appeal under this section shall be thirty days from the date of the order or decree appealed against."

19. It is relevant to notice that as per sub-section (2) of Section 207, a first appeal shall also lie against an order of the nature specified— (i) in Section 47 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908; or (ii) in Section 104 of the said Code; or (iii) in Order XLIII Rule 1 of the First Schedule to the said Code.

20. It would therefore be seen that apart from the remedy of a first appeal being available against final orders or decrees passed in a suit, application or proceeding specified in column 2 of the Third Schedule, the said remedy is also available against an order of the nature specified in Section 104 of the CPC or in Order XLIII Rule 1 of the First Schedule of the CPC.

21. Section 104 of the CPC and also the Order XLIII Rule 1 of the First Schedule of the CPC, which have been referred under sub-section (2) of Section 207 of the Revenue Code, and which would be relevant for appreciation of the controversy at hand are being extracted below :-

"104. Orders from which appeal lies.-- (1) An appeal shall lie from the following orders, and save as otherwise expressly provided in the body of this Code or by any law for the time being in force, from no other orders :--

(b) ***
(c) ***
(d) ***
(e) ***
(f) ***
(ff) an order under Section 35-A;
(ffa) an order under Section 91 or Section 92 refusing leave to institute a suit of the nature referred to in Section 91 or Section 92, as the case may be;
(g) an order under section 95;
(h) an order under any of the provisions of this Code imposing a fine or directing the arrest or detention in the civil prison of any person except where such arrest or detention is in execution of a decree;
(i) any order made under rules from which an appeal is expressly allowed by rules:
Provided that no appeal shall lie against any order specified in clause (ff) save on the ground that no order, or an order for the payment of a less amount, ought to have been made.
(2) No appeal shall lie from any order passed in appeal under this section."

"FIRST SCHEDULE
ORDER XLIII
APPEALS FROM ORDERS

"1. Appeals from Orders.— An appeal shall lie from the following orders under the provisions of Section 104, namely :-
(a) an order under Rule 10 of Order VII returning a plaint to be presented to the proper Court except where the procedure specified in Rule 10-A of Order VII has been followed;
(b) ***
(c) an order under Rule 9 of Order IX rejecting an application (in a case open to appeal) for an Order to set aside the dismissal of a suit;
(d) an order under Rule 13 of Order IX rejecting an application (in a case open to appeal) for an order to set aside a decree passed ex parte;
(e) ***
(f) an order under Rule 21 of Order XI;
(g) ***
(h) ***
(i) an order under Rule 34 of Order XXI on an objection to the draft of a document or of an endorsement;
(j) an order under Rule 72 or Rule 92 of Order XXI setting aside or refusing to set aside a sale;
(ja) an order rejecting an application made under sub-rule (1) of Rule 106 of Order XXI, provided that an order on the original application, that is to say, the application referred to in sub-rule (1) of Rule 105 of that Order is appealable.
(k) an order under Rule 9 of Order XXII refusing to set aside the abatement or dismissal of a suit;
(l) an order under Rule 10 of Order XXII giving or refusing to give leave;
(m) ***
(n) an order under Rule 2 of Order XXV rejecting an application (in a case open to appeal) for an order to set aside the dismissal of a suit;
(na) an order under Rule 5 or Rule 7 of Order XXXIII rejecting an application for permission to sue as an indigent persons;
(o) ***
(p) orders in interpleader-suit under Rule 3, Rule 4 or Rule 6 of Order XXXV;
(q) an order under Rule 2, Rule 3 or Rule 6 of Order XXXVIII;
(r) an order under Rule 1, Rule 2, Rule 2-A, Rule 4 or Rule 10 of Order XXXIX;
(s) an order under Rule 1 or Rule 4 of Order XL;

(t) an order of refusal under Rule 19 of Order XLI to readmit, or under Rule 21 of Order XLI to rehear, an appeal;

(u) an order under Rule 23 or Rule 23A of Order XLI remanding a case, where an appeal would lie from the decree of the Appellate Court;

(v) ***

(w) an order under Rule 4 of Order XLVII granting an application for review."

22. It would be seen that sub-rule (r) under Rule 1 of Order XLIII contains reference to an order under Rule 1 of Order XXXIX which relates to the provisions for grant of temporary injunctions during the pendency of a suit.

23. A combined reading of the provisions contained under clause (b) and clause (c) under sub-section (2) of Section 207 together with the provisions under Section 104 of the CPC and Order XLIII Rule 1 of the First Schedule thereof in conjunction with Order XXXIX Rule 1 and also the provisions relating to injunction under Section 146 of the Revenue Code, would lead to the inference that an order with regard to injunction passed in exercise of powers under Section 146 during the course of a suit under Sections 144 or 145, would be amenable to the remedy of a first appeal under Section 207.

24. It would be relevant to notice that sub-section (3) of Section 331 of the UPZA and LR Act contained a similar provision with regard to the remedy of an appeal from an order of the nature mentioned in Section 104 of the CPC or in Order XLIII Rule 1 of the First Schedule thereof.

25. Having arrived at an inference that an order passed in exercise of powers under Section 146 would be subject to an appeal under Section 207, the contention raised on behalf of the petitioners with regard to an appeal against an order granting or rejecting an application for a stay being barred in terms of clause (d) of Section 209, would be required to be adverted to.

26. Section 209 of the Revenue Code which contains a bar against certain appeals, is being extracted below :-

"209 Bar against certain appeals..—Notwithstanding anything contained in Sections 207 and 208, no appeal shall lie against any order or decree-

(a) made under Chapter XI of this Code;

(b) granting or rejecting an application for condonation of delay under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963;

(c) rejecting an application for revision;

(d) granting or rejecting an application for stay;

(e) remanding the case to any subordinate Court;

(f) where such order or decree is of an interim nature;

(g) passed by Court or officer with the consent of parties; or

(h) where order has been passed ex-parte or by default:

Provided that any party aggrieved by order passed ex-parte or by default, may move application for setting aside such order within a period of thirty days from the date of the order:

Provided further that no such order shall be reversed or altered without previously summoning the party, in whose favour order has been passed to appear and be heard in support of it."

27. Section 209 provides that certain orders or decrees are not appealable, and clause (d) thereof refers to an order granting or rejecting an application for a stay.

28. An appeal against order granting or rejecting an application for stay would therefore be barred notwithstanding anything contained under Sections 207 and 208.

29. The question which thus falls for consideration is as to whether an order passed under Section 146 of the Revenue Code granting or refusing to grant a temporary injunction can be held to be an order granting or rejecting an application for stay so as to attract the bar under Section 209 and to hold such order to be non-appealable.

30. The question with regard to the effect of a stay order and its distinction from an order of injunction fell for consideration in the case of Mulraj vs Murti Raghonathji Maharaj4 wherein it was held that an order of injunction is generally issued to a party by which it is forbidden from doing certain acts whereas a stay order is addressed to a court which prohibits it from proceeding further. The distinction between a stay order and an order of injunction was drawn by observing as follows :-

"8...In effect therefore a stay order is more or less in the same position as an order of injunction with one difference. An order of injunction is generally issued to a party and it is forbidden from doing certain acts. It is well settled that in such a case the party must have knowledge of the injunction order before it could be penalised for disobeying it. Further it is equally well settled that the injunction order not being addressed to the court, if the court proceeds in contravention of the injunction order, the proceedings are not a nullity. In the case of a stay order, as it is addressed to the court and prohibits it from proceeding further, as soon as the court has knowledge of the order it is bound to obey it and if it does not, it acts illegally, and all proceedings taken after the knowledge of the order would be a nullity. That in our opinion is the only difference between an order of injunction to a party and an order of stay to a court. In both cases knowledge of the party concerned or of the court is necessary before the prohibition takes effect. Take the case where a stay order has been passed but it is never brought to the notice of the court, and the court carries on proceedings ignorance thereof. It can hardly be said that the court has lost jurisdiction because of some order of which has no knowledge...

10. As we have already indicated, an order of stay is as much a prohibitory order as an injunction order and unless the court to which it is addressed has knowledge of it, it cannot deprive that court of the jurisdiction to proceed with the execution before it. But there is one difference between an order of injunction and an order of stay arising out of the fact that an injunction order is usually passed against a party while a stay order is addressed to the court. As the stay order is addressed to the court as soon as the court has knowledge of it, it must stay its hand; if it does not do so, it acts illegally. Therefore, in the case of a stay order as opposed to an order of injunction, as soon as the court has knowledge of it, it must stay its hand and further proceedings are illegal; but so long as the court has no knowledge of the stay order it does not lose the jurisdiction to deal with the execution which it has under the Code of Civil Procedure."

31. The difference between an injunction and an order of stay were noticed in the decision of United States Supreme Court in Jean Marc Nken, petitioner Vs. Eric H. Holder, Jr., Attorney General7, wherein it was held that a stay and an injunction were not synonymous since an injunction refers to an order requiring a person to act or refrain from acting and a stay is a temporary suspension of legal proceedings. It was observed as follows :-

"An injunction and a stay have typically been understood to serve different purposes. The former is a means by which a court tells someone what to do or not to do. When a court employs "the extraordinary remedy of injunction," Weinberger v. Romero-Barcelo8, it directs the conduct of a party, and does so with the backing of its full coercive powers."

32. It would therefore be seen that an order of injunction and an order of stay have been held to be distinct and to serve different purposes. An injunction order is generally issued to party and operates in personam whereas a stay operates upon the judicial proceedings itself by halting or postponing the same wholly or in part, or by temporarily divesting an order of its enforceability.

33. An order of stay in a pending review before a higher forum or Court may have some overlap with injunction, in the sense that both have the effect of preventing further action before the legality of the same has been conclusively determined. A stay order achieves this result by temporarily suspending the source of authority to act ─ the order or the judgment in question, while an order of injunction has the effect of commanding or forbidding the action and is a mandate operating in personam.

34. In the case at hand the application seeking interim relief filed by the petitioners under Section 146 of the Revenue Code contains a prayer for issuance of a direction for maintaining status quo till the disposal of the declaratory suit filed under Section 144. The affidavit filed along with the application contains an assertion that the defendants in the suit were trying to forcibly take possession of the property in question and to destroy the same, and in view thereof an order directing status quo was required.

35. The order dated 23.09.2021 in terms of which the application under Section 146 was disposed contains specific reference to the prayer made on behalf of the petitioners for a direction to maintain status quo during the pendency of the suit and thereafter the court upon consideration of the material on record and the submissions made by counsel for parties drew a conclusion that there was no material to indicate any urgency in the matter which may require passing of an order directing for maintaining status quo and accordingly the application seeking temporary injunction was rejected.

36. The application filed under Section 146 was for a direction to the parties to maintain status quo during the pendency of the suit i.e. an injunctive relief, which was declined in terms of the order rejecting the application under Section 146. The application in question did not seek any relief for grant of a stay order to any court or authority and was not directed against any order passed by the court or authority.

37. It may be noticed that Section 146 contains a provision with regard to grant of a temporary injunction in the course of a suit under Section 144 or Section 145, and the terminology of the section does not cover orders granting stay. The marginal heading of the section is titled as "Provision for injunction" which clearly goes to show the scope of the section and its legislative intent.

38. The order dated 23.09.2021 passed by the respondent no. 2 before whom the suit is pending therefore cannot be held to be an order rejecting an application for stay so as to attract the bar under Section 209 and to make the order non-appealable. The order in question, from its plain reading and also taking into consideration the contents of the application along with the affidavit filed by the petitioners seeking the prayer for interim relief, makes it clear that it is an order declining to grant a temporary injunction as was being sought under Section 146.

39. The temporary injunction which was sought under Section 146 during the pendency of the suit under Section 144 was as per terms of the provisions under Order XXXIX Rule 1 CPC and the said order being referable to sub-rule (r) under Rule 1 of Order XLIII, the same would be of the nature specified under clause (b) and clause (c) of sub-section (2) of Section 207 and in view thereof a first appeal under Section 207 would lie against the said order.

40. The order in question passed under Section 146 having been held to be appealable under Section 207 the said order would not be revisable under Section 210 in view of the condition contained under sub-section (1) of Section 210 which is to the effect that the revision would lie only in a case "in which no appeal lies".

41. The legal position can therefore be summarized by stating that an order passed upon an application seeking temporary injunction under Section 146 of the Revenue Code during the course of a suit under Section 144 or 145 would be amenable to a first appeal under Section 207, and would not be revisable under Section 210.

42. As regards the decision in the case of Talib Khan (supra) relied upon on behalf of the petitioners, it may be observed that the specific provision contained under sub-section (3) of Section 331 of the UPZA and LR Act, as then it stood, which provided for a remedy of an appeal against an order of the nature mentioned in Section 104 of the CPC or in Order XLIII Rule 1 of the First Schedule, having not been taken note of the said decision cannot be held to be an authority for the proposition that an order rejecting an application for temporary injunction during the pendency of a declaratory suit under the Revenue Code or under the analogous provision of the repealed UPZA and LR Act, would be revisable.

43. The Board of Revenue in terms of an order dated 23.11.2021 has rejected the revision preferred by the petitioners against the order rejecting their application for temporary injunction under Section 146 after observing that the order of the trial court was based on merits and the application for temporary injunction had been rejected for the reason that there was no material to support the claim sought to be raised. Further, taking note of the fact that the case was pending before the trial court where the parties would have ample opportunity to adduce evidence in support of their case, the revision was rejected at the stage of admission.

44. The order rejecting an application seeking temporary injunction under Section 146 of the Revenue Code having been held to be not amenable to the remedy of a revision under Section 210, the order passed by the Board of Revenue rejecting the revision at the stage of admissibility therefore cannot be faulted.

45. The writ petition thus fails and is accordingly dismissed.

46. Counsel for the petitioners at this stage seeks liberty to invoke statutory remedy of an appeal against the order rejecting their application for temporary injunction. In this regard, it is only required to be observed that dismissal of the writ petition would not preclude the petitioners from taking recourse to any appropriate legal remedy as they may be advised.

Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicants:
Rishad Murtaza, Aishwarya Mishra, Syed Ali Zafar Rizvi

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Sections 482 - Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005-Section 12-applicant ousted from her matrimonial house, when she was carrying the pregnancy of almost 7 months-applicant made complaint to the police but no assistance was provided to her-applicant filed complaint case- the court below dismissed the application with the order for calling the report of Protection officer i.e. Domestic Incident Report-Apex Court held that for proceeding in the case u/s 12 of the Act, 2005, the DIR of the Protection Officer is not mandatory before passing any order-if DIR has been received by the Magistrate either from the Protection Officer or the service provider then it becomes obligatory on the part of the Magistrate to take note of the said report before passing an order on the application filed by the aggrieved party, but if no complaint or application of domestic violence is received by the Magistrate from the Protection Officer or the service provider, the question of considering such a report does not rise at all. (Para 1 to 10)

B. The Magistrate has jurisdiction to take cognizance of the complaint u/s 12 of the D.V. Act in the absence of a Domestic Incident Report under Rule 5 when the complaint is not filed on behalf of the aggrieved person through a Protection Officer or service provider. Such a purposeful interpretation has to be given bearing in mind the fact that the immediate relief would have to be given to an aggrieved person and hence the proviso cannot be interpreted in a manner which would be contrary to the object of the D.V. Act which renders Section 12 bereft of its object and purpose.(Para 8)

The application is allowed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajeev Singh, J.)

1. Heard Shri Rishad Murtaza, learned counsel for the applicants, Shri Aniruddha Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State and Ms. Madhulika Yadav, learned counsel for the private respondent nos. 2 to 5.

2. This application has been filed seeking quashing of the order dated 03.03.2022 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate V, Lucknow, whereby Domestic Incident Report has been called for. A further prayer has been sought to direct the court concerned to proceed in Complaint Case No. 557 of 2022 under the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act.

3. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that the marriage of applicant no. 1 was solemnized with respondent no. 2 as per the Hindu Rites on 17th June, 2017 and out of their wedlock, applicant no. 2 was born, who is at present in the care and custody of applicant no. 1 (mother). Respondent nos. 3 to 5 are the mother-in-law, brother-in-law and sister-in-law respectively. It has further been submitted that applicant no. 1 was ousted from her matrimonial house by respondent nos. 2 to 5 on 1st October, 2020, when she was carrying the pregnancy of almost 7 months of applicant no. 2. Later on, applicant no. 2 born in Fatima Hospital, Lucknow. It has also been submitted that since the private respondents were not taking care of the applicants, applicant no. 1 made complaint in local police station, but no assistance was provided to her from the local police. Thereafter, she preferred application under Section 12 of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act, 2005') in the court of ACJM V, Lucknow, which was registered as Complaint Case No. 557 of 2022. Submission of the learned counsel for the applicants is that in place of issuing notice on the aforesaid application, the Presiding Officer called for the report of Protection Officer, i.e., Domestic Incident Report (for short "DIR') and fixed the matter for 3rd March, 2022. As the report of the Protection Officer was not received, the applicants, while relying on the decision of this Court in the case of Manoj Kumar yadav Vs. State of U.P. & Ors. (Appilcation u/s 482 Cr.P.C. No. 2384 of 2020), moved application to the court below to proceed without calling for the DIR. However, the court below vide impugned order dated 3rd March, 2022, in spite of issuing notice to the respondents, dismissed the said application with the order for calling the report of Protection Officer.

4. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the applicants that the DIR is not mandatory for adjudicating the matter under Section 12 of the Act, 2005. It has further been submitted that this controversy has already been decided by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Prabha Tyagi Vs. Kamlesh Devi, (2022) SCC Online SC 607. It has, thus, been submitted that indulgence of this Court is necessary. The impugned order dated 03.03.2022 is liable to be set aside and the court below may be directed to proceed in the matter and conclude the same expeditiously.

5. Learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel for the complainant vehemently opposed the prayer of the applicants and submitted that without DIR of Protection Officer, the correct picture of the incident will not be clear to the court below and, therefore, there is no illegality in the impugned order passed by the court below by calling for the DIR. However, they have no objection if the court below is directed to proceed in the matter expeditiously.

6. Considering the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the applicants, learned A.G.A. as well learned counsel for the private respondents and going through the impugned order and other relevant documents, it is undisputed fact that the complaint under Section 12 of the Act, 2005 was filed on 25th January, 2022 and the court concerned called for the DIR from the Protection Officer and fixed the matter for 3rd March, 2022. It is also undisputed that since the report was not made available, another application was moved by the applicants with the prayer to proceed in the matter and issue notice to the private respondents, but the court below rejected the said applicant and called for the DIR.

7. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Prabha Tyagi (supra) has already answered the issue, whether before proceeding in the matter, the DIR is mandatory or not under the provisions of the Act, 2005 in order to invoke the substantive provision of Sub-sections 18 to 21 and 22 of the Act, 2005. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that Section 12 of the Act, 2005 does not make it mandatory for a Magistrate to consider the DIR filed by the Protection Officer or the Service Provider before passing any order under the Act, 2005. It has also been clarified that even in absence of DIR, the Magistrate is empowered to proceed ex parte and pass interim as well as final order under the provisions of Act, 2005.

8. Relevant portions of the judgment of Prabha Tyagi (supra) are quoted hereinbelow:

"25. The submissions of the learned amicus curiae counsel for the respective sides were on the following points for consideration which were raised vide order dated 11th February, 2022:

"(i) Whether the consideration of Domestic Incident Report is mandatory before initiating the proceedings under D.V. Act, in order to invoke substantive provisions of Sections 18 to 20 and 22 of the said Act?

(ii) Whether it is mandatory for the aggrieved person to reside with those persons against whom the allegations have been levelled at the point of commission of violence?

(iii) Whether there should be a subsisting domestic relationship between the aggrieved person and the person against whom the relief is claimed?"

Legal Framework:

26. For an easy and immediate reference, the following provisions of the Protection of Women from D.V. Act are extracted as under:

"2. Definitions.--In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires,--

(a) "aggrieved person' means any woman who is, or has been, in a domestic relationship with the respondent and who alleges to have been subjected to any act of domestic violence by the respondent;

x x x

(e) "domestic incident report' means a report made in the prescribed form on receipt of a complaint of domestic violence from an aggrieved person;

"12. Application to Magistrate.--(1) An aggrieved person or a Protection Officer or any other person on behalf of the aggrieved person may present an application to the Magistrate seeking one or more reliefs under this Act:

Provided that before passing any order on such application, the Magistrate shall take into consideration any Domestic Incident Report received by him from the Protection Officer or the service provider.

(2) The relief sought for under Sub-Section (1) may include a relief for issuance of an order for payment of compensation or damages without prejudice to the right of such person to institute a suit for compensation or damages for the injuries caused by the acts of domestic violence committed by the respondent:

Provided that where a decree for any amount as compensation or damages has been passed by any court in favour of the aggrieved person, the amount, if any, paid or payable in pursuance of the order made by the Magistrate under this Act shall be set off against the amount payable under such decree and the decree shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the Civil Procedure Code, 1908 (5 of 1908), or any other law for the time being in force, be executable for the balance amount, if any, left after such set off.

(3) Every application under Sub-Section (1) shall be in such form and contain such particulars as may be prescribed or as nearly as possible thereto.

(4) The Magistrate shall fix the first date of hearing, which shall not ordinarily be beyond three days from the date of receipt of the application by the court.

(5) The Magistrate shall Endeavour to dispose of every application made under Sub-Section (1) within a period of sixty days from the date of its first hearing."

"17. "23. Power to grant interim and ex parte orders.--(1) In any proceeding before him under this Act, the Magistrate may pass such interim order as he deems just and proper.

(2) If the Magistrate is satisfied that an application prima facie discloses that the respondent is committing, or has committed an act of domestic violence or that there is a likelihood that the respondent may commit an act of domestic violence, he may grant an ex parte order on the basis of the affidavit in such form, as may be prescribed, of the aggrieved person under section18, section 19, section 20, section 21 or, as the case may be, section 22 against the respondent."

59. We are, therefore, of the view that the High Court was not right in holding that the application filed by the appellant herein was not accompanied by a Domestic Incident Report and therefore under the proviso to Sub-Section (1) of Section 12 of the D.V. Act, the Magistrate had no authority to issue orders and directions in favour of the appellant.

(i) Following are the judgments where the High Courts have held that the Domestic Incident Report is not a sine qua non for entertaining or deciding the application under Section 12 of the D.V. Act by the learned Magistrate.

a) In Nayanakumar v. State of Karnataka, [ILR 2009 Kar 4295], the High Court of Karnataka (Kalaburagi Bench) while dealing with Section 12 of the D.V.

Act, held that in case a Domestic Incident Report is received by the Magistrate either from the Protection Officer or from the Service Provider, then it becomes obligatory on the part of the Magistrate to take note of the said Domestic Incident Report before passing an order on the application filed by the aggrieved party. It was further clarified that the scheme of the D.V. Act makes it clear that it is left to the choice of the aggrieved person to go before the service provider or the Protection Officer or to approach the Magistrate under Section 12 of the D.V. Act.

b) In Abhiram Gogoi v. Rashmi Rekha Gogoi, [(2011) 4 Gau LR 276], the Gauhati High Court held that Section 9(1)(b) of the D.V. Act makes it clear that it is the duty of the Protection Officer to make a Domestic Incident Report to the Magistrate upon receipt of a complaint of domestic violence and forward copies thereof to the police officer-in-charge of the police station within the local limits of whose jurisdiction domestic violence is alleged to have been committed and to the service providers in that area.

c) In the case of Md. Basit v. State of Assam, [(2012) 1 Gau LR 747], the Gauhati High Court differed with the view taken by the Madhya Pradesh and Jharkhand High Courts and held that Section 12 only contemplates as to who can file a complaint under Section 12 of the D.V. Act, what relief may be sought for, what the contents of the complaint must be and how the complaint ought to be examined. That if the complaint conforms to the said pre-conditions, the same may be taken cognizance of. The High Court noted that an application under Section 12(1) of the D.V. Act may be filed either by an aggrieved person herself, or by a Protection Officer. The Court went on to hold that the provision does not require a Magistrate to specifically call for a Domestic Incident Report. That it would only be mandatory to consider such report, if the same had been filed by the Protection Officer before the Magistrate. The Gauhati High Court differed with the view taken by the Madhya Pradesh and Jharkhand High Courts, to the extent that the latter Courts observed that the Magistrate would not be obligated to consider the Domestic Incident Report even if the same was filed by the Protection Officer.

d) Delving on the same issue, the High Court of Himachal Pradesh in Rahul Soorma v. State of Himachal Pradesh, [2012 SCC OnLine HP 2574], held that the purpose of the D.V. Act is to give immediate relief to the aggrieved person; therefore, it was wrong to suggest that the Magistrate has no jurisdiction to take cognizance of the application under Section 12 of the D.V. Act before the receipt of a Domestic Incident Report by the Protection Officer or the service provider.

e) Further, the High Court of Andhra Pradesh in A. Vidya Sagar v.State of Andhra Pradesh, [2014 SCC OnLine Hyd 715], rejected the contention of the petitioner therein that a domestic violence case can be instituted and taken cognizance of on the basis of the Domestic Incident Report only and not otherwise.

f) In its judgment in the case of Ravi Kumar Bajpai v. Renu Awasthi Bajpai, [ILR 2016 MP 302], the High Court of Madhya Pradesh speaking through J.K. Maheshwari, J., while discussing on the legislative intent of the D.V. Act, held that if the legislative intent was to call for a report from the Protection Officer as a precondition by the Magistrate to act upon a complaint of aggrieved person, then it would have expressed that intention emphasizing the words in the main section. The High Court relied on various judgments pertaining to the interpretation of a provision and proviso thereof.

g) The Division Bench of the High Court of Delhi in Shambhu Prasad Singh v. Manjari, [(2012) 190 DLT 647] speaking through Ravindra Bhat, J. dealt with the conflicting views of the two Single Judges on the question whether a Magistrate can act straightaway on the complaint made by an aggrieved person under the D.V. Act. It was held that Section 12(1) of the D.V. Act does not mandate that an application seeking relief under the said D.V. Act must be accompanied with a Domestic Incident Report or even that it should be moved by a Protection Officer. So also, Rule 6 which stipulates the form and manner of making an application to a Magistrate does not require that the Domestic Incident Report must accompany an application for relief under Section 12.

It was further held that an obligation to submit a Domestic Incident Report is imposed only on the Protection Officers under Section 9 of the D.V. Act and upon the service providers under Section 10 of the D.V. Act and the learned Magistrate "shall' take into consideration, the Domestic Incident Report if it is filed and not otherwise.

h) In Rakesh Choudhary v. Vandana Choudhary, [2019 SCC OnLine J&K 512], the High Court of Jammu and Kashmir rejected the argument of the petitioner therein that the report of the Protection Officer is sine qua non for issuing process in a petition under Section 12 of the D.V. Act. The Court held that the proviso to Section 12(1) of the D.V. Act only stipulates that the learned Magistrate shall take into consideration the Domestic Incident Report filed by the Protection Officer or the Service Provider, but it does not stipulate that a report "shall be called for' before any relief could be granted.

i) Further, the High Court of Bombay at Aurangabad Bench, while dealing with a criminal writ petition in the case of Vijay Maruti Gaikwad v. Savita Vijay Gaikward, [(2018) 1 HLR 295], observed that if the matter is before the Court and the wife preferred not to approach the Protection Officer, the Court is not bound to call the report of Protection Officer.

j) Lastly, in the case of Suraj Sharma v. Bharti Sharma, [2016 SCC OnLine Chh 1825], the High Court of Chhattisgarh while expressing its view on Section 12 of the D.V. Act also held that the Domestic Incident Report shall not be conclusive material for making any order.

61. On an analysis of the aforesaid judgments from various High Courts, we find that the High Courts of Andhra Pradesh, Bombay, Delhi, Gauhati, Himachal Pradesh, Jammu & Kashmir, Karnataka, and Madhya Pradesh, are right in holding that if Domestic Incident Report has been received by the Magistrate either from the Protection Officer or the service provider then it becomes obligatory on the part of the Magistrate to take note of the said report before passing an order on the application filed by the aggrieved party, but if no complaint or application of domestic violence is received by the Magistrate from the Protection Officer or the service provider, the question of considering such a report does not arise at all. As already discussed, the D.V. Act does not make it mandatory for an aggrieved person to make an application before a Magistrate only through the Protection Officer or a service provider. An aggrieved person can directly make an application to the jurisdictional Magistrate by herself or by engaging the services of an Advocate. In such a case, the filing of a Domestic Incident Report by a Protection Officer or service provider does not arise. In such circumstances, it cannot be held that the Magistrate is not empowered to make any order interim or final, under the provisions of the D.V. Act, granting reliefs to the aggrieved persons. The Magistrate can take cognizance of the complaint or application filed by the aggrieved person and issue notice to the respondent under Section 12 of the D.V. Act even in the absence of Domestic Incident Report under Rule 5. Thus, the Magistrate has jurisdiction to take cognizance of the complaint under Section 12 of the D.V. Act in the absence of a Domestic Incident Report under Rule 5 when the complaint is not filed on behalf of the aggrieved person through a Protection Officer or service provider. Such a purposeful interpretation has to be given bearing in mind the fact that the immediate relief would have to be given to an aggrieved person and hence the proviso cannot be interpreted in a manner which would be contrary to the object of the D.V. Act which renders Section 12 bereft of its object and purpose.

64. In view of the above discussion, the three questions raised in this appeal are answered as under:

"(i) Whether the consideration of Domestic Incidence Report is mandatory before initiating the proceedings under Domestic Violence Act, 2005 in order to invoke substantive provisions of Sections 18 to 20 and 22 of the said Act?"

65. It is held that Section 12 does not make it mandatory for a Magistrate to consider a Domestic Incident Report filed by a Protection Officer or service provider before passing any order under the D.V. Act. It is clarified that even in the absence of a Domestic Incident Report, a Magistrate is empowered to pass both ex parte or interim as well as a final order under the provisions of the D.V. Act.

"(ii) Whether it is mandatory for the aggrieved person to reside with those persons against whom the allegations have been levied at the point of commission of violence?"

9. As the controversy in question has already been decided by the Hon'ble Apex Court by holding that for proceeding in the case under Section 12 of the Act, 2005, the DIR of the Protection Office is not mandatory before passing any order.

In view of the above facts and circumstances as well as the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Prabha Tyagi (supra), it is evident that the court below has committed error in rejecting the application for expedite disposal of the case by the impugned order and calling for the DIR, in place of proceeding in the matter.

10. The impugned order dated 03.03.2022 is hereby set aside. The application stands allowed.

11. The court below is directed to proceed in the matter and conclude the same expeditiously, strictly in accordance with law and the principle laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Prabha Tyagi (supra), without giving any unnecessary adjournments to either of the parties.

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Sections 482 & 82 - Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 120-B, 384, 389, 405, 420,467, 468, 465, 471 & 504 - Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988-Section 7/13(1)(b)-challenge to-Non-bailable warrant-In the present case, the process issued or even the publication does not indicate any specified time and place-Furthermore, none of the sections as mentioned in Section 82(4) are the part of the FIR of which the applicant is allegedly accused of, as such, the applicant , prima facie cannot be declared as proclaimed offender in exercise of powers u/s 82(4) of the Cr.P.C.-Thus, on that count also, the apprehension of the applicant is not justified.(Para 1 to 22)

B. On a plain reading, the intent and purpose of section 82 is to secure the presence of the accused who does not participate in the proceedings despite issuance of warrants. To exercise the said powers, the court is to form 'reasons to believe' based upon material before him that any person against whom a warrant has been issued has absconded or is concealing himself so that such warrant cannot be executed. The second requirement is that the court shall issue a written proclamation requiring the accused to appear at a specified place and at a specified time which could not be less than 30 days from the date of publication of such proclamation. In the absence of the court forming the 'reasons to believe' the power clearly cannot be exercised and in terms of the powers so conferred, it is also essential that the written proclamation should specify the place and the time for appearance which could not be less than 30 days from the date of application.(Para 13, 14)

The application is allowed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Bhatia, J.)

1. Heard Sri Siddhartha Sinha, learned Counsel for the applicant as well as Sri S.N. Tilhari, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the State and perused the record.

2. The present application under Section 482 of Cr.P.C. has been filed challenging the order dated 14.06.2022 issued in exercise of powers under Section 82 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (in short "the Cr.P.C."). Although other prayers have been made in the application, however, the Counsel for the applicant confines his submission to the challenge to the order dated 14.06.2022 alone.

3. The facts in brief are that an FIR No.82 of 2022, under Sections 120-B, 384, 389, 405, 420, 465, 471, 504 IPC read with Section 7/13(1)(b) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 at Police Station Kaiserbagh, District Lucknow was registered against the applicant. It is also on record that subsequently, Sections 467 and 468 IPC were added.

4. It is argued by the Counsel for the applicant that on 09.05.2022, a non-bailable warrant was issued by the court concerned at the instance of the investigating authorities who had alleged that the applicant is not co-operating with the investigation. Subsequently, an application was moved on 24.05.2022 stating therein that despite efforts for arresting the accused in terms of the non-bailable warrant issued on 09.05.2022, the applicant has concealed himself, as a result whereof, non-bailable warrant could not be executed, as such, it was prayed that a proclamation under Section 82 of Cr.P.C. be issued and published against the applicant. An affidavit was also filed on 24.05.2022 in support of the application, wherein the averments similar to the one made in the said application were made. Subsequently, on 25.05.2022, an application was moved by the Investigating Officer stating that in pursuance to the non-bailable warrant issued on 09.05.2022, efforts were made for arresting the accused which has resulted in vain and as an application had already been filed on 24.05.2022 for passing orders against the accused under Section 82 of Cr.P.C., and prayed that the orders be passed. It was also recorded in the said application that during the investigation, it was revealed that the applicant is in the process of selling of valuable assets and may leave the country and as such, it was essential that process be issued against the applicant under Section 82 of the Cr.P.C. On the said applications, an order came to be passed on 14.06.2022 wherein after recording the contents of the application and the submissions made by the Public Prosecutor, the court recorded that prima facie, there was no reason to disbelieve the contents of the application or the affidavit in its support and thus, proceeded to pass an order for issuance of process under Section 82 of the Cr.P.C. The said order is under challenge in the present proceedings.

5. The Counsel for the applicant argues that the application filed for issuance of process under Section 82 of the Cr.P.C. clearly fell short of the requirements prescribed for issuance of process under Section 82 of the Cr.P.C., inasmuch as, in the application, it was only stated that the non-bailable warrant issued by the court could not be executed. He thus argues that based upon the application and the affidavit, the court could not have formed an opinion which is sine qua non for exercise of powers under Section 82 of the Cr.P.C.

6. T he Counsel for the applicant further argues that in pursuance to the order passed by this Court, the process issued under Section 82 of the Cr.P.C. is also defective, inasmuch as, neither any specified time nor any specified place has been recorded in the proclamation and thus, the proclamation falls short of the requirements as specified under Section 82(1) of the Cr.P.C. He lastly submits that in the present case, in which the investigating authority has approached the court for issuance of the process under Section 82 of the Cr.P.C. was malafide and only with a view to deny the benefit of anticipatory bail to the applicant in the light of observations made in the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Lavesh vs State (NCT of Delhi); 2012 LawSuit (SC) 562) [Equivalent Citation (2012) 8 SCC 730] wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed in para 10 as under:

"(10) From these materials and information, it is clear that the present appellant was not available for interrogation and investigation and declared as "absconder". Normally, when the accused is "absconding" and declared as a "proclaimed offender", there is no question of granting anticipatory bail. We reiterate that when a person against whom a warrant had been issued and is absconding or concealing himself in order to avoid execution of warrant and declared as a proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code is not entitled the relief of anticipatory bail."

7. In the light of the said submission, he argues that the proceedings under Section 82 of the Cr.P.C. has been initiated by the impugned order are liable to be set aside.

8. Sri Tilhari, learned A.G.A. appearing on behalf of the State opposes the application and argues that only process have been issued against the applicant as he was not co-operating with the investigation and despite efforts being made, the non-bailable warrant could not be executed against him which is exactly the intent and purpose of Section 82 of Cr.P.C. He further argues that para 10 of the judgment in the case of Lavesh vs State (NCT of Delhi) (supra) is confined to the cases where a person is declared a proclaimed offender or absconder under Section 82(4) of the Cr.P.C. and thus, the apprehension of the applicant is misfounded.

9. Sri Tilhari further argues that in terms of the mandate of Section 82 (2) of the Cr.P.C., a publication was also made in the newspaper. He has drawn my attention to the publication by passing a copy of the same newspaper which is taken on record. Curiously enough, the said publication in the newspaper also does not specify time and place for appearance of the applicant. He lastly submits that the directions be issued to the applicant to co-operate with the investigation.

10. In rejoinder, the Counsel for the applicant argues that his anticipatory bail was rejected by the court below and the applicant has approached this Court by filing an application which is likely to come up tomorrow i.e. 24.05.2022 before the appropriate Court. He also places reliance on the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State through CBI vs Dawood Ibrahim Kaskar and others; (2000) 10 SCC 438 and places emphasis on paragraph 24 which is quoted below:

"24. Now that we have found that Section 73 of the Code is of general application and that in course of the investigation a Court can issue a warrant in exercise of power thereunder to apprehend, inter alia, a person who is accused of a non-bailable offence and is evading arrest, we need answer the related question as to whether such issuance of warrant can be for his production before the police in aid of investigation. It cannot be gainsaid that a Magistrate plays, not infrequently, a role during investigation, in that, on the prayer of the Investigating Agency he holds a test identification parade, records the confession of an accused or the statement of a witness, or takes or witnesses the taking of specimen handwritings etc. However, in performing such or similar functions the Magistrate does not exercise judicial discretion like while dealing with an accused of a non-bailable offence who is produced before him pursuant to a warrant of arrest issued under Section 73. On such production, the Court may either release him on bail under Section 439 or authorise his detention in custody (either police or judicial) under Section 167 of the Code. Whether the Magistrate, on being moved by the Investigating Agency, will entertain its prayer for police custody will be at his sole discretion which has to be judicially exercised in accordance with Section 167(3) of the Code. Since warrant is and can be issued for appearance before the Court only and not before the police and since authorisation for detention in police custody is neither to be given as a matter of course nor on the mere asking of the police, but only after exercise of judicial discretion based on materials placed before him, Mr. Desai was not absolutely right in his submission that warrant of arrest under Section 73 of the Code could be issued by the Court solely for the production of the accused before the police in aid of investigation."

11. The Counsel for the applicant has also drawn attention to the orders passed by this Court in the cases of Kunwar Mahendra Pratap Singh @ Chandan Singh (Application u/s 482 No.2261 of 2021) decided on 18.08.2021, Pankaj Singh @ Ajay Singh vs State of Uttar Pradesh and others (Application u/s 482 NO.175 of 2022) decided on 25.01.2022, Kalbe Raza Abidi vs State of U.P. (Application U/S 482 No.102 of 2022) decided on 11.01.2022 and Vinod Kumar Singh @ Vinod Singh vs State of U.P. (Application U/S 482 No.5195 of 2021) decided on 10.12.2021.

12. Considering the submissions made at the bar, this court is to consider whether the steps for issuance of the process under Section 82 of the Cr.P.C. could be resorted to in the facts of the case and whether the process issued under Section 82 of the Cr.P.C. is in accordance with the scope of Section 82 (1) of the Cr.P.C.?

13 . To appreciate the controversy as raised at the bar, it is essential to look at Section 82 of the Cr.P.C., which is quoted below:

"82. Proclamation for person absconding - (1) If any Court has reason to believe (whether after taking evidence or not) that any person against whom a warrant has been issued by it has absconded or is concealing himself so that such warrant cannot be executed, such Court may publish a written proclamation requiring him to appear at a specified place and at a specified time not less than thirty days from the date of publishing such proclamation.

(2) The proclamation shall be published as follows:--

(i) (a) it shall be publicly read in some conspicuous place of the town or village in which such person ordinarily resides;

(b) it shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the house or homestead in which such person ordinarily resides or to some conspicuous place of such town or village;

(c) a copy thereof shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the Court-house;

(ii) the Court may also, if it thinks fit, direct a copy of the proclamation to be published in a daily newspaper circulating in the place in which such person ordinarily resides.

(3) A statement in writing by the Court issuing the proclamation to the effect that the proclamation was duly published on a specified day, in the manner specified in clause (i) of sub-section (2), shall be conclusive evidence that the requirements of this section have been complied with, and that the proclamation was published on such day.

[(4) Where a proclamation published under sub-section (1) is in respect of a person accused of an offence punishable under section 302, 304, 364, 367, 382, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 402, 436, 449, 459 or 460 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), and such person fails to appear at the specified place and time required by the proclamation, the Court may, after making such inquiry as it thinks fit, pronounce him a proclaimed offender and make a declaration to that effect.

(5) The provisions of sub-sections (2) and (3) shall apply to a declaration made by the Court under sub-section (4) as they apply to the proclamation published under sub-section (1).]"

14. On a plain reading, the intent and purpose of Section 82 is to secure the presence of the accused who does not participate in the proceedings despite issuance of warrants. To exercise the said powers, the court is to form 'reasons to believe' based upon material before him that any person against whom a warrant has been issued has absconded or is concealing himself so that such warrant cannot be executed. The second requirement is that the court shall issue a written proclamation requiring the accused to appear at a specified place and at a specified time which could not be less than 30 days from the date of publication of such proclamation. In the absence of the court forming the 'reasons to believe' the power clearly cannot be exercised and in terms of the powers so conferred, it is also essential that the written proclamation should specify the place and the time for appearance which could not be less than 30 days from the date of application.

15. The reason recorded in the impugned order by the court below while issuing the process under Section 82 of the Cr.P.C. are to the effect that there is no reason to disbelieve the version as contained in the application and the affidavit filed in support thereof. There is no averment or mention of the Magistrate having perused any martial, nor is there any consideration to any other material relating to the execution of the non-bailable warrant. The reasoning recorded clearly falls short of the requirements to pass an order which cannot be done only after having 'reasons to believe'. It is well established that 'reasons to believe' as contained in various statutes, both fiscal and penal, have been interpreted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court to hold that the 'reasons to believe' should be based upon the material as exists and should demonstrate application of mind, as the steps proposed to be taken are harsh and stringent in nature and have the effect of infringing the rights of the citizen guaranteed under Articles 21 and 300-A of the Constitution of India.

16. The expression 'reasons to believe' has come for interpretation on various occasions before the Hon'ble Supreme Court wherein it was categorically held in the case of N. Nagendra Rao & Co vs State Of A.P.; (1994) 6 SCC 205 that expression 'reasons to believe' means formation of an opinion which may be subjective but it must be based on material on record. It cannot be arbitrary, capricious or whimsical. In the case of Dr. Partap Singh and another vs Director Of Enforcement; (1985) 3 SCC 72, it has been held that 'reasons to believe' is not synonymous with subjective satisfaction of the Officer. The belief must be held in good faith; it cannot be merely be a pretence. In the case of Dr. Jai Shanker vs State of Himachal Pradesh; (1973) 3 SCC 83, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that expression 'reasons to believe' mean a belief which a reasonable person would entertain on the facts before him.

17. The reasons recorded in the impugned order clearly do not show any application of mind, or reference to any material before the Magistrate to demonstrate as to how the Magistrate formed 'reasons to believe' and thus on that ground alone, the order is liable to be set aside.

18. Coming to the second part of the requirement as specified under Section 82(1), the process so issued should indicate specific date, time and place for appearance, as the sole purpose of Section 82 of the Cr.P.C is to secure the presence of the accused and without there being any specific time and place mentioned in the order, the same would not satisfy the requirements which is contemplated under Section 82 (1) of the Cr.P.C. In the present case, the process issued or even the publication does not indicate any specified time and place and thus on this ground also, the process issued under Section 82 cannot be sustained.

19. As regards the third submission of the Counsel for the applicant that the whole action was done to deny the benefit of anticipatory bail by the State, I do not find any material on record to substantiate the said submission. Furthermore, the State would not benefit by getting the issuance of proclamation under Section 82(1) as in terms of the mandate of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Lavesh vs State (supra), the benefit of anticipatory bail are not available only when the person is declared proclaimed offender under Section 82(4) of the Cr.P.C. or abscond and not prior thereto.

20. It is interesting to note that in terms of the prescription of Section 82(4) of the Cr.P.C., in the cases where the proclamation prescribed and published under sub-section (1) is in respect of a person accused of an offence punishable under Sections 302, 304, 364, 367, 382, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 402, 436, 449, 459 or 460 IPC, the court can declare the person, who fails to appear at the specified place and time required under proclamation, as a proclaimed offender and make declaration to that effect.

21. In the present case, none of the sections as mentioned in Section 82(4) are the part of the FIR of which the applicant is allegedly accused of, as such, the applicant, prima facie cannot be declared as proclaimed offender in exercise of powers under Section 82(4) of the Cr.P.C., thus on that count also, the apprehension of the applicant is not justified.

22. In view of the reasonings recorded above, the application is allowed and the order dated 14.06.2022 is set aside.

23 . It is informed at the bar by the Counsel for the applicant that the passport of the applicant has already been seized by the police authority, however, in case the passport has not been seized by the police authority, the applicant shall surrender the passport before the court concerned.

24. It is further clarified that investigating authority shall be at liberty to carry out the investigation in accordance with law in respect of the offence in question and the applicant shall also be at liberty to avail such remedy as may be available to him under law.

2. Mahesh Kumar Agarwal Vs St. of U.P. & anr. (2013) SCC OnLine All 13094

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sadhna Rani (Thakur), J.)

1. Learned counsel for the applicant is present. He has filed the amendment application with affidavit. The same be kept on the record.

2. As per facts of the case, an F.I.R. was registered against the unknown persons that they were manufacturing fake pan masala and selling the same in half of the rate of the original, which is resulting into the loss of the State exchequer, hence an action be taken against them. During investigation, the police apprehended three persons one from outside the unit and the rest two from inside the unit manufacturing the said fake pan masala with various branded empty pouches and raw material manufacturing pan masala etc. The present accused is said to have apprehended from out side the manufacturing place, sitting in a car and from car also some incriminatory material is said to have been found. Vide order dated 27.10.2021 the coordinate bench of this Court enlarged the accused on bail in the same case under Sections 420,467, 468, 471 I.P.C. and Section 63 of Copy Right Act, 1957. Later on, Sections 272 and 419 I.P.C. are also said to have been added. The trial court took cognizance against all the accused persons including the present one in the added sections 419 and 272 I.P.C. also. It appears from the record that since the charge sheet was filed in the court the present accused remained absent and after summons, then bailable warrants and at last, non bailable warrants against the present accused vide order dated 19.04.2022 were issued. The co-accused Amit Dixit is said to have been bailed out in the added Sections 419 and 272 I.P.C. also vide order dated 04.03.2022 of this court.

3. By means of this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. learned counsel for the applicant seeks to invoke the inherent jurisdiction of this Court by staying the further proceedings in Case No. 117543 of 2021 pending before the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar in relation to Case Crime No. 799 of 2021 registered at Police Station Chakeri, District Kanpur Nagar under Sections 420, 419, 467, 468, 471, 272 I.P.C. and Section 63 of Copy Right Act, 1957 and the prayer is also made not to arrest the applicant during trial. In support of this application an affidavit has been filed wherein the prayer of quashing the entire proceedings in relation to additional sections 272 and 419 I.P.C. in the same case is also made.

4. Thus, it is clear that in his entire application and affidavit the applicant has not made any prayer to quash the proceedings under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. and Section 63 of Copy Right Act, 1957.

5. So far as Section 272 I.P.C. is concerned, it is argued by the learned counsel for the applicant that after coming into force of the Food Safety and Standard Act, Sections 272 and 273 I.P.C. with regard to adulteration cases have become redundant. So the charge sheet, cognizance order of all the proceedings under these sections against the applicant are not maintainable.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has drawn the attention of the court towards Sections 5 of Cr.P.C., which is apposite to mention here:-

"5. Saving. Nothing contained in this Code shall, in the absence of a specific provision to the contrary, affect any special or local law for the time being in force, or any special jurisdiction or power conferred, or any special form of procedure prescribed, by any other law for the time being in force."

7. Learned counsel for the applicant has also drawn the attention of the court towards the judgement of the Apex Court in M/s Pepsico India Holdings (Pvt.)

Limited and another Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2010 SCC OnLine All 1708 wherein it is observed that nothing in the penal code shall affect the provisions of any Special Act and when for any act or omission in a particular subject, a special set of rules have been framed, in that situation the provisions of the I.P.C. have to be ignored or over looked.

8. On the basis of this observation it is argued that in the present case the charge sheet has been filed under Section 272 I.P.C. pursuant to the impugned government order, although adulteration of food stuff is covered by Special Act i.e. The Food Safety and Standards Act, 2006.

9. The attention of the court is also drawn towards Mahesh Kumar Agarwal Vs. State of U.P. and another reported in 2013 SCC OnLine All 13094 wherein it was found that as per judgement in M/s Pepsico India Holdings (supra) the impugned G.O. dated 11.05.2010 issued by the State Government has been quashed so the first information report registered under Section 272/273 I.P.C. was also quashed.

10. I have through the Apex Court observation in M/s Pepsico India Holdings (supra) wherein it has been clearly observed that the PFA was enacted for the prevention of adulteration of food being a special Act it eclipsed sections 272 and 273 of I.P.C. In other words, the said Act made sections 272 and 273 I.P.C. redundant as punishment provided under the PFA Act was much more stringent than what was provided under Sections 272 and 273 I.P.C. The Apex Court, however, observed in the judgement that -

"In view of the aforesaid crystal clear legal proposition and particular provisions under the FSSA we are in agreement with the arguments advanced by the petitioner's Counsel that for adulteration of good or misbranding, after coming into force of the provisions of FSSA vide notification dated 29th July, 2010, the authorities can take action only under the FSSA as it postulates an over riding effects over all other food related laws including the PFA Act. In view of the specific provisions under the FSSA the offences relating to adulteration of food that are governed under the FSSA after July 29, 2010 are to be treated as per the procedures to be followed for drawing and analysis of samples as have been provided for. The provisions of penalties and prosecution have also been provided therein. Therefore, before launching any prosecution against an alleged offence of food adulteration, it is necessary for the concerned authorities to follow the mandatory requirements as provided under Sections 41 adn 42 of the FSSA and, therefore, the police have no authority or jurisdiction to investigate the matter under FSSA. Section 42 empowers the Food Safety Officer for inspection of food business, drawing samples and sending them to Food Analyst for analysis. The Designated Officer, after scrutiny of the report of Food Analyst shall decide as to whether the contravention is punishable with imprisonment or fine only and in the case of contravention punishable with imprisonment, he shall send his recommendations to the Commissioner of Food Safety for sanctioning prosecution. Therefore, invoking Sections 272 and 273 of the Penal Code, 1860 in the matter relating to adulteration of food pursuant to the impugned government order is wholly unjustified and non est. furthermore, it appears that the impugned Government Order has been issued without application of proper mind and examining the matter minutely and thus the State Government travelled beyond the jurisdiction.

In view of the aforesaid discussions, the writ petitions are allowed. The impugned G.O. dated 11.5.2010 issued by the State Government contained in Annexure-1 to the writ petition is hereby quashed."

11. In the case in hand there is dispute regarding adulteration of pan masala, which is an edible item. It is clear that the charge sheet under Section 272 I.P.C. has been filed against the above legal proposition. In the case of adulteration regarding edible items it is the designated officer who is entitled to investigate such matters under Food Safety and Standards Act, 2006. Sections 41 and 42 of this Act provide power of search, investigation, prosecution and procedure thereof and the procedure of launching any prosecution also.

12. Thus, in the light of above judgements the charge sheet filed under Section 272 I.P.C. against the applicant and consequently the cognizance order and the whole proceedings under Section 272 I.P.C. are liable to be quashed.

13. So far as Section 419 I.P.C. is concerned which is regarding punishment for cheating by personation is reproduced as under:-

"419. Punishment for cheating by personation.?Whoever cheats by personation shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both."

14. Cheating by personation is defined under Section 416 of I.P.C.. It is apposite to reproduce this section also:-

"416. Cheating by personation.?A person is said to "cheat by personation" if he cheats by pretending to be some other person, or by knowingly substituting one person for another, or representing that he or any other person is a person other than he or such other person really is.

Explanation.?The offence is committed whether the individual personated is a real or imaginary person. Illustration"

15. As per this section a person can be said to cheat some one by pretending himself to be some other person or by knowingly substituting one person for another or representing that he or any other person is a person other than he or such other person really is.

16. As this a simple case of preparing fake pan masala and using fake wrappers to be genuine branded wrappers, there is no allegation of cheating by personation in the first information report. Thus, in my opinion the case under Section 419 I.P.C. can also be said to be not made out against the applicant.

17. Thus, the charge sheet, cognizance order and the whole proceedings with regard to Sections 272 and 419 I.P.C. in the present case are liable to be quashed. Consequently, the charge sheet dated 29.08.2021 in Case Crime No. 799 of 2021 above and the cognizance order dated 26.11.2021 and the entire proceedings with respect to Sections 272 and 419 I.P.C. against the applicant - Santosh Sahgal are quashed.

18. So far as the other sections are concerned, though, the arguments were made regarding quashing of the proceedings under sections 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. and Section 63 of Copy Right Act, 1957 also but as no prayer regarding quashing of charge sheet, cognizance order or entire proceedings regarding these sections is made by the applicant so there is no need to discuss the allegations regarding these sections.

19. So far as the prayer regarding quashing of Non Bailable Warrants dated 19.04.2022 and 10.04.2022 against the applicant are concerned, the jurisdiction of recalling or cancelling the warrant rests with the trial court. In this regard, the prayer of the applicant is rejected, otherwise also in the rest Sections i.e. 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. and Section 63 Copy Right Act, 1957 the applicant has been bailed out by this Court vide order dated 27.10.2021.

20. As the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is being disposed of, so the question of staying further proceedings of the trial court in Case No. 117543 of 2021 above during pendency of the present criminal application does not arise.

21. The application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is, thus, partly allowed.

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Section 482 - Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 323 & 504-quashing of entire proceedings-When the complaint is made in writing by a public servant acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties, the Magistrate need not examine the complainant and the witnesses before proceeding with the matter and issuing process-In a case where a report made by a police officer is deemed to be a complaint by virtue of the explanation to Section 2(d) and the Magistrate proceeds to take cognizance thereon u/s 190(1)(a), treating it to be a complaint, and proceeds to issue process without following the procedure of examining the complainant u/s 200 and the witnesses u/s 202 , the issuance of process or summons cannot be held to be vitiated-Moreso, there would be no material change in the procedure of trial and such the applicant cannot be said to have been prejudiced by the order of cognizance by the Magistrate, for this reason also.(Para 1 to 57)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vipul Shukla, learned counsel for the applicants and Sri Pankaj Saxena, learned Additional Government Advocate-I for the State-opposite party.

2. The present application under Section 482 CrPC has been filed with a prayer for quashing of the charge-sheet no. 262 of 2020 dated 19.07.2020, the cognizance order dated 25.02.2021 and entire proceedings of Case No. 14457 of 2021 pending in the court of Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate III, Kanpur Nagar (State Vs. Atmaram Yadav and others) in Case Crime No. 249 of 2020 under Sections 323, 504 IPC, P.S. Vidhnu, District Kanpur Nagar insofar as it relates to the applicants.

3. The facts as pleaded in the application are to the effect that an FIR No. 0249 was registered on 01.06.2020 under Sections 379, 323, 504 Indian Penal Code1 at P.S. Vidhnu, District Kanpur Nagar in which the applicants herein were named as accused. The case was investigated by the police and charge-sheet no. 262 of 2020 was submitted on 19.07.2020 under Sections 323, 504 IPC whereupon the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate III, Kanpur Nagar passed an order of cognizance on 25.02.2021.

4. Apart from raising contentions which are factual in nature and would relate to examining the defence of the applicants, the principal grounds urged by counsel for the applicants to seek quashing of the proceedings are as follows :

4.1 The FIR having been lodged in respect of cognizable offences under Sections 379, 323, 504 IPC and upon investigation the charge-sheet having been filed only under Sections 323, 504 IPC, which are offences of non-cognizable nature, the case would be covered by the explanation to Section 2 (d) of the Code of Criminal Procedure2 and it would be deemed to be a compliant. As a consequence cognizance ought to be taken by the Magistrate under Section 190 (1) (a) CrPC and not under Section 190 (1) (b). In support of his submissions, learned counsel places reliance upon the judgment in the case of Mahendra Kumar Chaudhary and others Vs. State of U.P. and another3.

4.2 The order passed by the Magistrate taking cognizance is not a reasoned order as is the requirement as per the law laid down in the case of Pepsi Foods Ltd. Vs. Special Judicial Magistrate4.

5. Controverting the aforestated submissions, learned Additional Government Advocate-I appearing for the State-opposite party submits as under :

5.1 The FIR having been registered in respect of offences of a cognizable nature the same was investigated by the police and a report having been submitted disclosing offences under Section 323, 504 IPC which are of a non-cognizable nature the report would be deemed to be a complaint as per the explanation to Section 2 (d). Referring to the proviso to Section 200 CrPC, it is submitted that the complaint having been made by a police officer, who is a public servant acting in the discharge of his official duties, the Magistrate while taking cognizance under Section 190 (1) (a) was not required to examine the complainant and witnesses. It is submitted that since cognizance has been taken on a police report treating the same to be a deemed complaint, no reasons are required to be assigned for the purpose.

5.2 The case having been duly investigated and a report having been submitted, the order of cognizance even if held to be referable to Section 190 (1) (b), the same cannot be said to have led to a failure of justice since in a summons case as per the procedure prescribed under the Code there is no distinction with regard to the manner in which the trial is to proceed between cases instituted on a police report and those instituted otherwise than on a police report; this is more so for the reason that Section 465 is also applicable to challenges to interlocutory orders such as a cognizance order or summons order.

5.3. No prejudice having been caused to the applicants with regard to the procedure the order taking cognizance even if it is held to be vitiated would be a mere irregularity and as per Sections 461 and 462 the proceedings would not be vitiated. It is pointed out that an order taking cognizance based on a police report has been given a greater standing as compared to an order taking cognizance based on an information of any person other than a police officer for the purpose of deciding on the irregularity of the order. Reliance has been placed upon the decision in Pradeep S. Wodeyar vs. The State of Karnataka5.

6. The provisions relating to information to the police and their powers to investigate are contained under Chapter XII of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. Section 154 of the Code provides for the manner of giving information to an officer in-charge of the police station relating to commission of a cognizable offence, and the manner in which the same is to be reduced in writing and entered in a book maintained for the purpose. Section 155 of the Code relates to giving of information as to non-cognizable cases and investigation of such cases. Sub-section (1) thereof, provides that when information is given to an officer in-charge of a police station of the commission within the limits of such station of a non-cognizable offence, he shall enter it in the prescribed book and refer the informant to the Magistrate. Sub-section (2) states that no police officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate having power to try such cases or commit the case for trial. As per sub-section (3), any police officer receiving such order may exercise the same powers in respect of the investigation as an officer in charge of a police station may exercise in a cognizable case, except the power to arrest without warrant.

7. In terms of Section 156(1) of the Code, any officer in-charge of a police station may investigate any cognizable offence, without the order of a Magistrate. Sub-section (3) of Section 156 provides that any Magistrate empowered under Section 190 may order an investigation.

8. Section 173 of the Code, as per terms of sub-section (1) and sub-section (2) thereof, lays down that every investigation under Chapter XII shall be completed without unnecessary delay and on completion the officer in charge of the police station shall forward to the Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence on a police report, a report in the prescribed form setting forth the required particulars.

9. Section 190 of the Code relates to cognizance of offences by Magistrates and falls under Chapter XIV, which is in respect of conditions requisite for initiation of proceedings. Section 190 of the Code lays down that the concerned Magistrate may take cognizance of any offence in three contingencies, namely; (a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence, (b) upon a police report of such facts, and (c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

10. Section 2(d) alongwith explanation, as it finds place under the Code, is as follows:-

"(d) "complaint" means any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate, with a view to his taking action under this Code, that some person, whether known or unknown, has committed an offence, but does not include a police report.

Explanation.--A report made by a police officer in a case which discloses, after investigation, the commission of a non-cognizable offence shall be deemed to be a complaint; and the police officer by whom such report is made shall be deemed to be the complainant;"

11. The legislative changes brought in the definition of "complaint" and the insertion of the explanation made it clear that the report made by a police officer will be deemed to be a complaint only if the offence is discovered, after investigation by the police, to be a non-cognizable one. The explanation clearly states that a report by a police officer in a case which discloses, after investigation, the commission of a non-cognizable offence shall be deemed to be a complaint; and the police officer by whom such report is made shall be deemed to be a complainant.

12. The scope of the explanation to Section 2 (d) was considered in the case of Keshab Lal Thakur Vs. State of Bihar6 and it was observed that the explanation would be available only in a case where the police initiates investigation into a cognizable offence but ultimately finds that only a non-cognizable offence has been made out.

13. The interpretation of the provisions contained under Section 2 (d) and the explanation appended to the section have been considered in extenso in a recent decision of this Court in Mahendra Kumar Chaudhary and others vs. State of U.P. and another3 and after examining the provision as it existed under the old Code7 and as it presently stands with the enforcement of the new Code8 and also referring to the legislative history and the Law Commission Report9 the following three cases were held to be illustrative.

"Case I. where the police report has been submitted following investigation in a non-cognizable case without conforming to the provisions of sub-section (2) of Section 155;

Case II. where the police investigates a case relating to a cognizable offence, which discloses, after investigation, the commission of a non-cognizable offence;*

Case III. where a non-cognizable offence is reported and upon an order by the Magistrate under sub-section (2) of Section 155, the same is investigated, and the police report which is submitted also discloses non-cognizable offence."*

14. The alternative situations which would emerge in respect of the aforementioned three cases were described as follows :-

"39.1. In Case I where the police report has been submitted following investigation in a non-cognizable case without conforming to the provisions of sub-section (2) of Section 155, the same would be deemed to be a complaint.

39.2. In Case II where the police investigates a case relating to a cognizable offence, which discloses, after investigation, the commission of a non-cognizable offence, the same would also be deemed to be a complaint by virtue of the explanation to Section 2 (d).

39.3. In Case III where a non-cognizable offence is reported and upon an order by the Magistrate under sub-section (2) of Section 155, the same is investigated and the police report, which is submitted, also discloses non-cognizable offence, the same would not be covered within the purview of the explanation to Section 2 (d) to bring it within the ambit of the term 'complaint'. "

15. It was thereafter held that the explanation takes within its sweep only a case, where at the stage of commencement of the investigation commission of a cognizable offence is alleged or where it is doubtful as to whether it relates to a cognizable or a non-cognizable offence, and the investigation discloses only the commission of a non-cognizable offence; other categories, stand excluded by necessary implication.

16. The present being a case where the FIR having been initially registered in respect of offences of cognizable nature and after investigation the report which was submitted having disclosed offences of a non-cognizable nature, the explanation to Section 2 (d) would stand attracted and the report made by the police officer shall be deemed to be a complaint and the police officer by whom the report has been made shall be deemed to be a complainant.

17. A question would therefore arise as to whether the order of cognizance by the Magistrate on the basis of the report, which in the instant case would have to be held to be a deemed complaint by virtue of the explanation to Section 2 (d), can be held to be irregular or vitiated.

18. In order to answer the aforestated question it would be necessary to examine the meaning and purport of the expression "taking cognizance of an offence".

19. The question as to when cognizance of an offence can be held to have been taken under Section 190 of the Code came up for consideration in Darshan Singh Ram Kishan Vs. The State of Maharashtra10, where it was held that cognizance takes place at a point when a Magistrate first takes judicial notice of an offence, whether on a complaint, or on a police report, or upon information of a person other than a police officer. The observations made in the judgment in this regard are as follows :-

"8. As provided by Section 190 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, a Magistrate may take cognizance of an offence either, (a) upon receiving a complaint, or (b) upon a police report, or (c) upon information received from a person other than a police officer or even upon his own information or suspicion that such an offence has been committed. As has often been held, taking cognizance does not involve any formal action or indeed action of any kind but occurs as soon as a Magistrate applies his mind to the suspected commission of an offence. Cognizance, therefore, takes place at a point when a Magistrate first takes judicial notice of an offence. This is the position whether the Magistrate takes cognizance of an offence on a complaint, or on a police report, or upon information of a person other than a police officer. Therefore, when a Magistrate takes cognizance of an offence upon a police report, prima facie he does so of the offence or offences disclosed in such report."

20. The meaning of the word "cognizance' and the point in time and determination of occurrence of cognizance together with its distinction with "issuance of process' was explained in S.K.Sinha, Chief Enforcement Officer Vs. Videocon International Limited11, and it was held that "cognizance' connotes to take notice judicially and it occurs simultaneously with the application of mind by the court or Magistrate to the suspected commission of an offence. The question whether cognizance of an offence was taken or not depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case and no rule of universal application can be laid down to determine it. Referring to the earlier decisions in Supdt. & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Abani Kumar Banerjee12, R.R. Chari v. State of U.P.13, Narayandas Bhagwandas Madhavdas v. State of W.B.14, Gopal Das Sindhi v. State of Assam15, Nirmaljit Singh Hoon v. State of W.B.16, Darshan Singh Ram Kishan v. State of Maharashtra10, and Devarapalli Lakshminarayana Reddy v. V. Narayana Reddy17, it was observed as follows :-

"19. The expression "cognizance" has not been defined in the Code. But the word (cognizance) is of indefinite import. It has no esoteric or mystic significance in criminal law. It merely means "become aware of" and when used with reference to a court or a Judge, it connotes "to take notice of judicially". It indicates the point when a court or a Magistrate takes judicial notice of an offence with a view to initiating proceedings in respect of such offence said to have been committed by someone.

20. "Taking cognizance" does not involve any formal action of any kind. It occurs as soon as a Magistrate applies his mind to the suspected commission of an offence. Cognizance is taken prior to commencement of criminal proceedings. Taking of cognizance is thus a sine qua non or condition precedent for holding a valid trial. Cognizance is taken of an offence and not of an offender. Whether or not a Magistrate has taken cognizance of an offence depends on the facts and circumstances of each case and no rule of universal application can be laid down as to when a Magistrate can be said to have taken cognizance.

21. Chapter XIV (Sections 190-199) of the Code deals with "Conditions requisite for initiation of proceedings". Section 190 empowers a Magistrate to take cognizance of an offence in certain circumstances...

22. Chapter XV (Sections 200-203) relates to "Complaints to Magistrates" and covers cases before actual commencement of proceedings in a court or before a Magistrate. Section 200 of the Code requires a Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence to examine the complainant and his witnesses on oath. Section 202, however, enacts that a Magistrate is not bound to issue process against the accused as a matter of course. It enables him before the issue of process either to inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit for the purpose of deciding whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding further. The underlying object of the inquiry under Section 202 is to ascertain whether there is prima facie case against the accused. It thus allows a Magistrate to form an opinion whether the process should or should not be issued. The scope of inquiry under Section 202 is, no doubt, extremely limited. At that stage, what a Magistrate is called upon to see is whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding with the matter and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction of the accused.

23. Then comes Chapter XVI (Commencement of proceedings before Magistrates). This Chapter will apply only after cognizance of an offence has been taken by a Magistrate under Chapter XIV. Section 204, whereunder process can be issued, is another material provision...

24. From the above scheme of the Code, in our judgment, it is clear that "Initiation of proceedings", dealt with in Chapter XIV, is different from "Commencement of proceedings" covered by Chapter XVI. For commencement of proceedings, there must be initiation of proceedings. In other words, initiation of proceedings must precede commencement of proceedings. Without initiation of proceedings under Chapter XIV, there cannot be commencement of proceedings before a Magistrate under Chapter XVI. The High Court, in our considered view, was not right in equating initiation of proceedings under Chapter XIV with commencement of proceedings under Chapter XVI.

25. Let us now consider the question in the light of judicial pronouncements on the point.

26. In Supdt. & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Abani Kumar Banerjee12 the High Court of Calcutta had an occasion to consider the ambit and scope of the phrase "taking cognizance" under Section 190 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 which was in pari materia with Section 190 of the present Code of 1973. Referring to various decisions, Das Gupta, J. (as His Lordship then was) stated: (AIR p. 438, para 7)

"7. ... What is "taking cognizance' has not been defined in the Criminal Procedure Code, and I have no desire now to attempt to define it. It seems to me clear, however, that before it can be said that any Magistrate has taken cognizance of any offence under Section 190(1)(a) CrPC, he must not only have applied his mind to the contents of the petition, but he must have done so for the purpose of proceeding in a particular way as indicated in the subsequent provisions of this Chapter, proceeding under Section 200, and thereafter sending it for enquiry and report under Section 202. When the Magistrate applies his mind not for the purpose of proceeding under the subsequent sections of this Chapter, but for taking action of some other kind, e.g., ordering investigation under Section 156(3), or issuing a search warrant for the purpose of the investigation, he cannot be said to have taken cognizance of the offence."

27. R.R. Chari v. State of U.P.13, was probably the first leading decision of this Court on the point. There, the police, having suspected the appellant-accused to be guilty of offences punishable under Sections 161 and 165 of the Penal Code (IPC) as also under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947, applied to the District Magistrate, Kanpur to issue warrant of arrest on 22-10-1947. Warrant was issued on the next day and the accused was arrested on 27-10-1947.

28. On 25-3-1949, the accused was produced before the Magistrate to answer the charge-sheet submitted by the prosecution. According to the accused, on 22-10-1947, when warrant for his arrest was issued by the Magistrate, the Magistrate was said to have taken cognizance of offence and since no sanction of the Government had been obtained before that date, initiation of proceedings against him was unlawful. The question before the Court was as to when cognizance of the offence could be said to have been taken by the Magistrate under Section 190 of the Code. Considering the circumstances under which "cognizance of offence" under sub-section (1) of Section 190 of the Code can be taken by a Magistrate and referring to Abani Kumar Banerjee12, the Court, speaking through Kania, C.J. stated: (Chari13 case, p. 208, para 3)

"3. It is clear from the wording of the section that the initiation of the proceedings against a person commences on the cognizance of the offence by the Magistrate under one of the three contingencies mentioned in the section. The first contingency evidently is in respect of non-cognizable offences as defined in CrPC on the complaint of an aggrieved person. The second is on a police report, which evidently is the case of a cognizable offence when the police have completed their investigation and come to the Magistrate for the issue of a process. The third is when the Magistrate himself takes notice of an offence and issues the process..."

29. Approving the observations of Das Gupta, J. in Abani Kumar Banerjee12, this Court held that it was on 25-3-1949 when the Magistrate issued a notice under Section 190 of the Code against the accused that he took "cognizance" of the offence. Since before that day, sanction had been granted by the Government, the proceedings could not be said to have been initiated without authority of law.

30. Again in Narayandas Bhagwandas Madhavdas v. State of W.B.14 this Court observed that when cognizance is taken of an offence depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case and it is impossible to attempt to define what is meant by taking cognizance. Issuance of a search warrant for the purpose of an investigation or a warrant of arrest of the accused cannot by itself be regarded as an act of taking cognizance of an offence. It is only when a Magistrate applies his mind for proceeding under Section 200 and subsequent sections of Chapter XV or under Section 204 of Chapter XVI of the Code that it can be positively stated that he had applied his mind and thereby had taken cognizance of an offence (see also Ajit Kumar Palit v. State of W.B.18, and Hareram Satpathy v. Tikaram Agarwala19.

31. In Gopal Das Sindhi v. State of Assam15, referring to earlier judgments, this Court said:(AIR p. 989, para 7)

"7...We cannot read the provisions of Section 190 to mean that once a complaint is filed, a Magistrate is bound to take cognizance if the facts stated in the complaint disclose the commission of any offence. We are unable to construe the word "may' in Section 190 to mean "must'. The reason is obvious. A complaint disclosing cognizable offences may well justify a Magistrate in sending the complaint, under Section 156(3) to the police for investigation. There is no reason why the time of the Magistrate should be wasted when primarily the duty to investigate in cases involving cognizable offences is with the police. On the other hand, there may be occasions when the Magistrate may exercise his discretion and take cognizance of a cognizable offence. If he does so then he would have to proceed in the manner provided by Chapter XVI of the Code."

32. In Nirmaljit Singh Hoon v. State of W.B.16, the Court stated that it is well settled that before a Magistrate can be said to have taken cognizance of an offence under Section 190(1)(a) of the Code, he must have not only applied his mind to the contents of the complaint presented before him, but must have done so for the purpose of proceeding under Section 200 and the provisions following that section. Where, however, he applies his mind only for ordering an investigation under Section 156(3) or issues a warrant for arrest of the accused, he cannot be said to have taken cognizance of the offence.

33. In Darshan Singh Ram Kishan v. State of Maharashtra10, speaking for the Court, Shelat, J. stated that under Section 190 of the Code, a Magistrate may take cognizance of an offence either (a) upon receiving a complaint, or (b) upon a police report, or (c) upon information received from a person other than a police officer or even upon his own information or suspicion that such an offence has been committed. As has often been said, taking cognizance does not involve any formal action or indeed action of any kind. It occurs as soon as a Magistrate applies his mind to the suspected commission of an offence. Cognizance, thus, takes place at a point when a Magistrate first takes judicial notice of an offence.

34. In Devarapalli Lakshminarayana Reddy v. V. Narayana Reddy17, this Court said: (SCC p. 257, paras 13-14)

"13. It is well settled that when a Magistrate receives a complaint, he is not bound to take cognizance if the facts alleged in the complaint, disclose the commission of an offence. This is clear from the use of the words "may take cognizance' which in the context in which they occur cannot be equated with "must take cognizance'. The word "may' gives a discretion to the Magistrate in the matter. If on a reading of the complaint he finds that the allegations therein disclose a cognizable offence and the forwarding of the complaint to the police for investigation under Section 156(3) will be conducive to justice and save the valuable time of the Magistrate from being wasted in enquiring into a matter which was primarily the duty of the police to investigate, he will be justified in adopting that course as an alternative to taking cognizance of the offence, himself.

14. This raises the incidental question: What is meant by "taking cognizance of an offence' by a Magistrate within the contemplation of Section 190? This expression has not been defined in the Code. But from the scheme of the Code, the content and marginal heading of Section 190 and the caption of Chapter XIV under which Sections 190 to 199 occur, it is clear that a case can be said to be instituted in a court only when the court takes cognizance of the offence alleged therein. The ways in which such cognizance can be taken are set out in Clauses (a), (b) and (c) of Section 190(1). Whether the Magistrate has or has not taken cognizance of the offence will depend on the circumstances of the particular case including the mode in which the case is sought to be instituted, and the nature of the preliminary action, if any, taken by the Magistrate. Broadly speaking, when on receiving a complaint, the Magistrate applies his mind for the purposes of proceeding under Section 200 and the succeeding sections in Chapter XV of the Code of 1973, he is said to have taken cognizance of the offence within the meaning of Section 190(1)(a). If, instead of proceeding under Chapter XV, he has, in the judicial exercise of his discretion, taken action of some other kind, such as issuing a search warrant for the purpose of investigation, or ordering investigation by the police under Section 156(3), he cannot be said to have taken cognizance of any offence." (emphasis supplied)

21. The meaning and connotation of the expression 'taking cognizance' again came up for consideration in Fakhruddin Ahmad Vs. State of Uttaranchal and another20, and it was held that the expression being of indefinite import it was neither practical nor desirable to precisely define as to what is meant by "taking cognizance' and the question as to whether the Magistrate has taken cognizance of an offence would depend upon the circumstances of the particular case, including the mode in which the case is sought to be instituted and the nature of preliminary action. Taking note of the earlier decisions in Ajit Kumar Palit v. State of W.B.18, Emperor Vs. Sourindra Mohan Chuckerbutty21 Chief Enforcement Officer v. Videocon International Ltd.11 Supdt. & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Abani Kumar Banerjee12, and R.R. Chari v. State of U.P.13, it was stated thus :-

"9. Before examining the rival contentions, we may briefly refer to some of the relevant provisions in the Code. Chapter XIV of the Code, containing Sections 190 to 199 deals with the statutory conditions requisite for initiation of criminal proceedings and as to the powers of cognizance of a Magistrate. Sub-section (1) of Section 190 of the Code empowers a Magistrate to take cognizance of an offence in the manner laid therein. It provides that a Magistrate may take cognizance of an offence either (a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence; or (b) upon a police report of such facts; or (c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge that such offence has been committed.

10. Chapter XV containing Sections 200 to 203 deals with "Complaints to Magistrates" and lays down the procedure which is required to be followed by the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence on complaint. Similarly, Chapter XVI deals with "Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates". Since admittedly, in the present case, the Magistrate has taken cognizance of the complaint in terms of Section 190 of the Code, we shall confine our discussion only to the said provision. We may, however, note that on receipt of a complaint, the Magistrate has more than one course open to him to determine the procedure and the manner to be adopted for taking cognizance of the offence.

11. One of the courses open to the Magistrate is that instead of exercising his discretion and taking cognizance of a cognizable offence and following the procedure laid down under Section 200 or Section 202 of the Code, he may order an investigation to be made by the police under Section 156(3) of the Code, which the learned Magistrate did in the instant case. When such an order is made, the police is obliged to investigate the case and submit a report under Section 173(2) of the Code. On receiving the police report, if the Magistrate is satisfied that on the facts discovered or unearthed by the police there is sufficient material for him to take cognizance of the offence, he may take cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(b) of the Code and issue process straightaway to the accused. However, Section 190(1)(b) of the Code does not lay down that a Magistrate can take cognizance of an offence only if the investigating officer gives an opinion that the investigation makes out a case against the accused. Undoubtedly, the Magistrate can ignore the conclusion(s) arrived at by the investigating officer.

12. Thus, it is trite that the Magistrate is not bound by the opinion of the investigating officer and he is competent to exercise his discretion in this behalf, irrespective of the view expressed by the police in their report and decide whether an offence has been made out or not. This is because the purpose of the police report under Section 173(2) of the Code, which will contain the facts discovered or unearthed by the police as well as the conclusion drawn by the police therefrom is primarily to enable the Magistrate to satisfy himself whether on the basis of the report and the material referred therein, a case for cognizance is made out or not.

13. The next incidental question is as to what is meant by the expression "taking cognizance of an offence" by a Magistrate within the contemplation of Section 190 of the Code?

14. The expression "cognizance" is not defined in the Code but is a word of indefinite import. As observed by this Court in Ajit Kumar Palit v. State of W.B.18

"19... The word "cognizance' has no esoteric or mystic significance in criminal law or procedure. It merely means--become aware of and when used with reference to a court or Judge, to take notice of judicially."

Approving the observations of the Calcutta High Court in Emperor v. Sourindra Mohan Chuckerbutty21 (at ILR p. 416), the Court said that

"taking cognizance does not involve any formal action, or indeed action of any kind, but occurs as soon as a Magistrate, as such, applies his mind to the suspected commission of an offence."

15. Recently, this Court in Chief Enforcement Officer v. Videocon International Ltd.11 speaking through C.K. Thakker, J., while considering the ambit and scope of the phrase "taking cognizance" under Section 190 of the Code, has highlighted some of the observations of the Calcutta High Court in Supdt. & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Abani Kumar Banerjee12, AIR 1950 Cal 437 which were approved by this Court in R.R. Chari v. State of U.P.13 The observations are : (Abani Kumar Banerjee case, AIR 1950 Cal 437 [AIR p. 438, para 7].

"7. ...What is "taking cognizance' has not been defined in the Criminal Procedure Code, and I have no desire now to attempt to define it. It seems to me clear, however, that before it can be said that any Magistrate has taken cognizance of any offence under Section 190(1)(a) CrPC, he must not only have applied his mind to the contents of the petition, but he must have done so for the purpose of proceeding in a particular way as indicated in the subsequent provisions of this Chapter, proceeding under Section 200, and thereafter sending it for enquiry and report under Section 202. When the Magistrate applies his mind not for the purpose of proceeding under the subsequent sections of this Chapter, but for taking action of some other kind e.g. ordering investigation under Section 156(3), or issuing a search warrant for the purpose of the investigation, he cannot be said to have taken cognizance of the offence."

16. From the aforenoted judicial pronouncements, it is clear that being an expression of indefinite import, it is neither practicable nor desirable to precisely define as to what is meant by "taking cognizance". Whether the Magistrate has or has not taken cognizance of the offence will depend upon the circumstances of the particular case, including the mode in which the case is sought to be instituted and the nature of the preliminary action.

17. Nevertheless, it is well settled that before a Magistrate can be said to have taken cognizance of an offence, it is imperative that he must have taken notice of the accusations and applied his mind to the allegations made in the complaint or in the police report or the information received from a source other than a police report, as the case may be, and the material filed therewith. It needs little emphasis that it is only when the Magistrate applies his mind and is satisfied that the allegations, if proved, would constitute an offence and decides to initiate proceedings against the alleged offender, that it can be positively stated that he has taken cognizance of the offence. Cognizance is in regard to the offence and not the offender."

22. The meaning of the term "cognizance' was again subject matter of consideration in Subramanian Swamy Vs. Manmohan Singh and another22, wherein it was held that the term though not statutorily defined, yet judicial pronouncements give it a definite meaning and connotation and broadly it means taking judicial notice by competent court of a cause or matter presented before it so as to decide whether there is basis for initiating proceedings for judicial determination. It was observed that the scope of consideration by the court at this stage would be as to whether material produced before court prima facie discloses commission of offence and a detailed enquiry and sifting of evidence is not to be undertaken at this stage. Referring to the earlier decisions in R.R. Chari v. State of U.P.13, State of W.B. Vs. Mohd. Khalid23, and State of Karnataka and another Vs. Pastor P. Raju24, it was observed as follows:-

"34. The argument of the learned Attorney General that the question of granting sanction for prosecution of a public servant charged with an offence under the 1988 Act arises only at the stage of taking cognizance and not before that is neither supported by the plain language of the section nor the judicial precedents relied upon by him. Though, the term "cognizance" has not been defined either in the 1988 Act or CrPC, the same has acquired a definite meaning and connotation from various judicial precedents. In legal parlance cognizance is "taking judicial notice by the court of law, possessing jurisdiction, on a cause or matter presented before it so as to decide whether there is any basis for initiating proceedings and determination of the cause or matter judicially".

38. The Court then referred to some of the precedents including the judgment in Mohd. Khalid case,(1995) 1 SCC 684 and observed: (Pastor P. Raju case, (2006) 6 SCC 728,[SCC p. 734, para 13].

"13. It is necessary to mention here that taking cognizance of an offence is not the same thing as issuance of process. Cognizance is taken at the initial stage when the Magistrate applies his judicial mind to the facts mentioned in a complaint or to a police report or upon information received from any other person that an offence has been committed. The issuance of process is at a subsequent stage when after considering the material placed before it the court decides to proceed against the offenders against whom a prima facie case is made out."

23. In State of WB Vs. Mohd. Khalid23, observing that the expression 'taking cognizance' has not been defined in the Code, it was held to mean taking notice of an offence, and to include the intention of initiating judicial proceedings against the offender in respect of that offence or taking steps to see whether there is any basis for initiating judicial proceedings or for other purposes. It was also observed that the word 'cognizance' indicates the point when a Magistrate or a Judge first takes cognizance or judicial notice of an offence and it is entirely a different thing from initiation of proceedings; rather it is a condition precedent to the initiation of proceedings. It was further stated that while taking cognizance of an offence the Court is not required to pass a reasoned order and it can take into consideration not only police report but also on other materials on record.

"43...Then, the question is as to the meaning of taking cognizance. Section 190 of the Code talks of cognizance of offences by Magistrates. This expression has not been defined in the Code. In its broad and literal sense, it means taking notice of an offence. This would include the intention of initiating judicial proceedings against the offender in respect of that offence or taking steps to see whether there is any basis for initiating judicial proceedings or for other purposes. The word "cognizance' indicates the point when a Magistrate or a Judge first takes judicial notice of an offence. It is entirely a different thing from initiation of proceedings; rather it is the condition precedent to the initiation of proceedings by the Magistrate or the Judge. Cognizance is taken of cases and not of persons.

"Cognizance (Judicial), knowledge upon which a judge is bound to act without having it proved in evidence: as the public statutes of the realm, the ancient history of the realm, the order and course of proceedings in Parliament, the privileges of the House of Commons, the existence of war with a foreign State, the several seals of the King, the Supreme Court and its jurisdiction, and many other things. A judge is not bound to take cognizance of current events, however notorious, nor of the law of other countries."

78. Coming to taking cognizance, it has been held by the High Court that it is not a reasoned order. We are of the view that the approach of the High Court in this regard is clearly against the decision of this Court in Stree Atyachar Virodhi Parishad26 case, which is as under:

"It is in the trial, the guilt or the innocence of the accused will be determined and not at the time of framing of charge. The court, therefore, need not undertake an elaborate enquiry in sifting and weighing the material. Nor is it necessary to delve deep into various aspects. All that the court has to consider is whether the evidentiary material on record if generally accepted, would reasonably connect the accused with the crime. No more need be enquired into."

24. A similar observation with regard to there being no necessity to write detailed orders at the stage of issuing process was made in Kanti Bhadra Shah and another Vs. The State of West Bengal.27

25. In U.P. Pollution Control Board Vs. Mohan Meakins Ltd. and others28, the correctness of the order of the Sessions Court quashing the order of issuing process for the reason that the Magistrate had not passed a speaking order, which had been affirmed by the High Court, was under consideration and referring to the decision in the case of Kanti Bhadra (supra) it was observed that the Sessions Judge could have himself looked into the complaint to form his own opinion where process could have been issued by the Magistrate on the basis of the averments contained in the complaint instead of relegating the work to the trial Magistrate for doing the exercise over again. It was stated thus :-

"6. In a recent decision of the Supreme Court it has been pointed out that the legislature has stressed the need to record reasons in certain situations such as dismissal of a complaint without issuing process. There is no such legal requirement imposed on a Magistrate for passing detailed order while issuing summons vide Kanti Bhadra Shah v. State of W.B27. The following passage will be apposite in this context: (SCC p. 726, para 12)

"12. If there is no legal requirement that the trial court should write an order showing the reasons for framing a charge, why should the already burdened trial courts be further burdened with such an extra work. The time has reached to adopt all possible measures to expedite the court procedures and to chalk out measures to avert all roadblocks causing avoidable delays. If a Magistrate is to write detailed orders at different stages merely because the counsel would address arguments at all stages, the snail-paced progress of proceedings in trial courts would further be slowed down. We are coming across interlocutory orders of Magistrates and Sessions Judges running into several pages. We can appreciate if such a detailed order has been passed for culminating the proceedings before them. But it is quite unnecessary to write detailed orders at other stages, such as issuing process, remanding the accused to custody, framing of charges, passing over to next stages in the trial."

7. It was unfortunate that the Sessions Judge himself did not look into the complaint at that stage to form his own opinion whether process could have been issued by the Chief Judicial Magistrate on the basis of the averments contained in the complaint. Instead the Sessions Judge relegated the work to the trial Magistrate for doing the exercise over again…"

26. In Rajesh Talwar Vs. CBI Delhi and another29, it was observed that the correctness of the order whereby cognizance of the offence has been taken by the Magistrate, unless it is perverse or based on no material, should be sparingly interfered with.

27. The meaning of the expressions "cognizance' under Section 190 and "summons' in Section 204 were considered in Bhushan Kumar and another Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) and another30 and it was stated that while issuing summons under Section 204 a reasoned order is not required. It was held that the Magistrate is not bound to give reasons for issuing an order of summons under Section 204 and the order issuing process cannot be quashed only on the ground that the Magistrate had not passed a speaking order. The questions which were specifically considered are as follows :-

"(a) Whether taking cognizance of an offence by the Magistrate is same as summoning an accused to appear?

(b) Whether the Magistrate, while considering the question of summoning an accused, is required to assign reasons for the same?"

(emphasis supplied)

28. Taking notice of the earlier decisions in Chief Enforcement Officer v. Videocon International Ltd.11, Kanti Bhadra Shah v. State of W.B.27, Nagawwa v. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi31, Chief Controller of Imports & Exports v. Roshanlal Agarwal32 and U.P. Pollution Control Board v. Bhupendra Kumar Modi33 it was observed as follows :-

"11. In Chief Enforcement Officer v. Videocon International Ltd.11 (SCC p. 499, para 19) the expression "cognizance" was explained by this Court as "it merely means "become aware of' and when used with reference to a court or a Judge, it connotes "to take notice of judicially'. It indicates the point when a court or a Magistrate takes judicial notice of an offence with a view to initiating proceedings in respect of such offence said to have been committed by someone." It is entirely a different thing from initiation of proceedings; rather it is the condition precedent to the initiation of proceedings by the Magistrate or the Judge. Cognizance is taken of cases and not of persons. Under Section 190 of the Code, it is the application of judicial mind to the averments in the complaint that constitutes cognizance. At this stage, the Magistrate has to be satisfied whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction. Whether the evidence is adequate for supporting the conviction can be determined only at the trial and not at the stage of enquiry. If there is sufficient ground for proceeding then the Magistrate is empowered for issuance of process under Section 204 of the Code.

12. A "summons" is a process issued by a court calling upon a person to appear before a Magistrate. It is used for the purpose of notifying an individual of his legal obligation to appear before the Magistrate as a response to violation of law. In other words, the summons will announce to the person to whom it is directed that a legal proceeding has been started against that person and the date and time on which the person must appear in court. A person who is summoned is legally bound to appear before the court on the given date and time. Wilful disobedience is liable to be punished under Section 174 IPC. It is a ground for contempt of court.

13. Section 204 of the Code does not mandate the Magistrate to explicitly state the reasons for issuance of summons. It clearly states that if in the opinion of a Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding, then the summons may be issued. This section mandates the Magistrate to form an opinion as to whether there exists a sufficient ground for summons to be issued but it is nowhere mentioned in the section that the explicit narration of the same is mandatory, meaning thereby that it is not a prerequisite for deciding the validity of the summons issued.

14. Time and again it has been stated by this Court that the summoning order under Section 204 of the Code requires no explicit reasons to be stated because it is imperative that the Magistrate must have taken notice of the accusations and applied his mind to the allegations made in the police report and the materials filed therewith.

16. In Nagawwa v. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi31, this Court held that it is not the province of the Magistrate to enter into a detailed discussion on the merits or demerits of the case. It was further held that in deciding whether a process should be issued, the Magistrate can take into consideration improbabilities appearing on the face of the complaint or in the evidence led by the complainant in support of the allegations. The Magistrate has been given an undoubted discretion in the matter and the discretion has to be judicially exercised by him. It was further held that: (SCC p. 741, para 5)

"5. ...Once the Magistrate has exercised his discretion it is not for the High Court, or even this Court, to substitute its own discretion for that of the Magistrate or to examine the case on merits with a view to find out whether or not the allegations in the complaint, if proved, would ultimately end in conviction of the accused."

17. In Chief Controller of Imports & Exports v. Roshanlal Agarwal32, this Court, in para 9, held as under: (SCC pp. 145-46)

"9. In determining the question whether any process is to be issued or not, what the Magistrate has to be satisfied is whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction. Whether the evidence is adequate for supporting the conviction, can be determined only at the trial and not at the stage of inquiry. At the stage of issuing the process to the accused, the Magistrate is not required to record reasons...

18. In U.P. Pollution Control Board v. Bhupendra Kumar Modi33, this Court, in para 23, held as under: (SCC p. 154)

"23. It is a settled legal position that at the stage of issuing process, the Magistrate is mainly concerned with the allegations made in the complaint or the evidence led in support of the same and he is only to be prima facie satisfied whether there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused."

19. This being the settled legal position, the order passed by the Magistrate could not be faulted with only on the ground that the summoning order was not a reasoned order."

(emphasis supplied)

29. The aforementioned position with regard to the order issuing summons/process not required to be a detailed and reasoned order was reiterated in Nupur Talwar vs. Central Bureau of Investigation and another34 after noticing that the provisions under the Code do not require detailed consideration or passing of reasoned orders at the stage of summons/issuance of process. Referring to the views taken in Kanti Bhadra Shah v. State of W.B.27, U.P. Pollution Control Board v. Bhupendra Kumar Modi33, Chief Controller of Imports & Exports v.

Roshanlal Agarwal32 and Bhushan Kumar and another Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) and another30, it was stated as follows:-

"11. Undoubtedly, merely for taking cognizance and/or for issuing process, reasons may not be recorded. In Kanti Bhadra Shah v. State of W.B., this Court having examined Sections 227, 239 and 245 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, concluded, that the provisions of the Code mandate, that at the time of passing an order of discharge in favour of an accused, the provisions referred to above necessitate reasons to be recorded. It was, however, noticed, that there was no such prescribed mandate to record reasons, at the time of framing charges against an accused.

12. In U.P. Pollution Control Board v. Mohan Meakins Ltd.28 the issue whether it was necessary for the trial court to record reasons while issuing process came to be examined again, and this Court held as under: (SCC pp. 748-49 & 752, paras 2-3, 5-6 & 12)

"2. Though the trial court issued process against the accused at the first instance, they desired the trial court to discharge them without even making their first appearance in the court. When the attempt made for that purpose failed they moved for exemption from appearance in the court. In the meanwhile the Sessions Judge,...entertained a revision moved by the accused against the order issuing process to them and, quashed it on the erroneous ground that the Magistrate did not pass "a speaking order' for issuing such summons.

3. The Chief Judicial Magistrate (before whom the complaint was filed) thereafter passed a detailed order on 25-4-1984 and again issued process to the accused. That order was again challenged by the accused in revision before the Sessions Court and the same Sessions Judge...again quashed it by order dated 25-8-1984.

5. We may point out at the very outset that the Sessions Judge was in error for quashing the process at the first round merely on the ground that the Chief Judicial Magistrate had not passed a speaking order. In fact it was contended before the Sessions Judge, on behalf of the Board, that there is no legal requirement in Section 204 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short "the Code') to record reasons for issuing process.

13. Whether an order passed by a Magistrate issuing process required reasons to be recorded, came to be examined by this Court again in Chief Controller of Imports & Exports v. Roshanlal Agarwal32 wherein this Court concluded as below: (SCC pp. 145-46, para 9)

"9. In determining the question whether any process is to be issued or not, what the Magistrate has to be satisfied is whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction. Whether the evidence is adequate for supporting the conviction, can be determined only at the trial and not at the stage of inquiry. At the stage of issuing the process to the accused, the Magistrate is not required to record reasons. This question was considered recently in U.P. Pollution Control Board v. Mohan Meakins Ltd.28 and after noticing the law laid down in Kanti Bhadra Shah v. State of W.B. (2000) 1 SCC 722 it was held as follows: (Mohan Meakins Ltd. case,[(2000) 3 SCC 745, SCC p. 749, para 6)]

"The legislature has stressed the need to record reasons in certain situations such as dismissal of a complaint without issuing process. There is no such legal requirement imposed on a Magistrate for passing detailed order while issuing summons. The process issued to the accused cannot be quashed merely on the ground that the Magistrate had not passed a speaking order."

xxx

15. It is therefore apparent, that an order issuing process, cannot be vitiated merely because of absence of reasons.

(emphasis supplied)

30. The material that may be considered while taking cognizance and issuing process was also discussed in the aforesaid decision of Nupur Talwar and it was held that the purpose of examining such material at the stage of taking cognizance and issuing process would be tentative as distinguished from consideration of actual evidence during trial. It was held that at this stage the test to be applied is as to whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused and the Magistrate is not required to weigh the evidence meticulously and to scrutinize the same as is to be done at the stage of trial. It was also observed that in the absence of any legal requirement under Section 204, it was not necessary for the Magistrate to give detailed reasons while passing an order issuing process. The observations made in the judgment in this regard are as follows :-

"36. The basis and parameters of issuing process, have been provided for in Section 204 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

37. The criteria which needs to be kept in mind by a Magistrate issuing process, have been repeatedly delineated by this Court..."

xxx

39. The same issue was examined by this Court in Jagdish Ram v. State of Rajasthan (2004) 4 SCC 432 wherein this Court held as under: (SCC p. 436, para 10)

"10. The contention urged is that though the trial court was directed to consider the entire material on record including the final report before deciding whether the process should be issued against the appellant or not, yet the entire material was not considered. From perusal of order passed by the Magistrate it cannot be said that the entire material was not taken into consideration. The order passed by the Magistrate taking cognizance is a well-written order. The order not only refers to the statements recorded by the police during investigation which led to the filing of final report by the police and the statements of witnesses recorded by the Magistrate under Sections 200 and 202 of the Code but also sets out with clarity the principles required to be kept in mind at the stage of taking cognizance and reaching a prima facie view. At this stage, the Magistrate had only to decide whether sufficient ground exists or not for further proceeding in the matter. It is well settled that notwithstanding the opinion of the police, a Magistrate is empowered to take cognizance if the material on record makes out a case for the said purpose. The investigation is the exclusive domain of the police. The taking of cognizance of the offence is an area exclusively within the domain of a Magistrate. At this stage, the Magistrate has to be satisfied whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction. Whether the evidence is adequate for supporting the conviction, can be determined only at the trial and not at the stage of inquiry. At the stage of issuing the process to the accused, the Magistrate is not required to record reasons.[Chief Controller of Imports & Exports v. Roshanlal Agarwal,(2003) 4 SCC 139].

All along having made a reference to the words "there is sufficient ground to proceed" it has been held by this Court that for the purpose of issuing process, all that the court concerned has to determine is: whether the material placed before it "is sufficient for proceeding against the accused"? The observations recorded by this Court extracted above, further enunciate that the term "sufficient to proceed" is different and distinct from the term "sufficient to prove and establish guilt".

65..Sub-section (1) of Section 204 CrPC quoted above itself does not impose a legal requirement on the Magistrate to record reasons in support of the order to issue a process and in U.P. Pollution Control Board v. Mohan Meakins Ltd.28 and Chief Controller of Imports & Exports v. Roshanlal Agarwal32, this Court has held that the Magistrate is not required to record reasons at the stage of issuing the process against the accused. In the absence of any legal requirement in Section 204 CrPC to issue process, it was not legally necessary for the Magistrate to have given detailed reasons in her order dated 9-2-2011 for issuing process to the petitioner and her husband Dr Rajesh Talwar.

66. The fact however remains that the Magistrate has given detailed reasons in the order dated 9-2-2011 issuing process and the order dated 9-2-2011 itself does not disclose that the Magistrate has considered all the relevant materials collected in the course of investigation. Yet from the mere fact that some of the relevant materials on which the petitioner relies on have not been referred to in the order dated 9-2-2011, the High Court could not have come to the conclusion in the revision filed by the petitioner that these relevant materials were not considered. Moreover, this Court has held in Nagawwa v. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi (1976) 3 SCC 736 that whether the reasons given by the Magistrate issuing process under Section 202 or 204 CrPC were good or bad, sufficient or insufficient, cannot be examined by the High Court in the revision. All that the High Court, however, could do while exercising its powers of revision under Sections 397/401 CrPC when the order issuing process under Section 204 CrPC was under challenge was to examine whether there were materials before the Magistrate to take a view that there was sufficient ground for proceeding against the persons to whom the processes have been issued under Section 204 CrPC."

31. The meaning and scope of expression "taking cognizance' again fell for consideration in Sunil Bharti Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation35 and it was reiterated that though the expression has not been defined in the Code; however, when the Magistrate applies his mind for proceeding against the person concerned, he is said to have taken cognizance of an offence. It was stated that formation of such opinion is to be stated on the basis of a material available on record.

"48. Sine qua non for taking cognizance of the offence is the application of mind by the Magistrate and his satisfaction that the allegations, if proved, would constitute an offence. It is, therefore, imperative that on a complaint or on a police report, the Magistrate is bound to consider the question as to whether the same discloses commission of an offence and is required to form such an opinion in this respect. When he does so and decides to issue process, he shall be said to have taken cognizance. At the stage of taking cognizance, the only consideration before the court remains to consider judiciously whether the material on which the prosecution proposes to prosecute the accused brings out a prima facie case or not.

49. Cognizance of an offence and prosecution of an offender are two different things. Section 190 of the Code empowered taking cognizance of an offence and not to deal with offenders. Therefore, cognizance can be taken even if offender is not known or named when the complaint is filed or FIR registered. Their names may transpire during investigation or afterwards.

51. On the other hand, Section 204 of the Code deals with the issue of process, if in the opinion of the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding. This section relates to commencement of a criminal proceeding. If the Magistrate taking cognizance of a case (it may be the Magistrate receiving the complaint or to whom it has been transferred under Section 192), upon a consideration of the materials before him (i.e. the complaint, examination of the complainant and his witnesses, if present, or report of inquiry, if any), thinks that there is a prima facie case for proceeding in respect of an offence, he shall issue process against the accused.

52. A wide discretion has been given as to grant or refusal of process and it must be judicially exercised. A person ought not to be dragged into court merely because a complaint has been filed. If a prima facie case has been made out, the Magistrate ought to issue process and it cannot be refused merely because he thinks that it is unlikely to result in a conviction."

32. The question as to whether at the stage of issuance of process to the accused in case of taking cognizance of an offence based upon a police report under Section 190 (1) (b) CrPC, it is mandatory for the court to record reasons for its satisfaction that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused was subject matter of consideration in State of Gujarat Vs. Afroz Mohammed Hasanfatta36 and it was held that the Magistrate is only required to be satisfied about sufficient grounds to proceed and issue summons on basis of prima facie evidence in the charge-sheet and other documents filed by the police but the Magistrate is not explicitly required to record reasons therefor at the stage of issuing summons.

33. Distinguishing the cognizance taken on the basis of a police report from a case instituted on a private complaint, it was held, in Afroz Mohammed Hasanfatta, that the order for issuance of process without explicitly recording reasons for the issue of process does not suffer from any illegality. The observations and discussions made in the decision on the aforesaid point are as follows:-

"13.2...While taking cognizance of an offence under Section 190(1)(b) CrPC, whether the court has to record reasons for its satisfaction of sufficient grounds for issuance of summons

14...The order of taking cognizance of the second supplementary charge-sheet and issuance of summons to the respondent Afroz Hasanfatta reads as under:

"I take in consideration charge-sheet/complaint for the offence of Sections 420, 465, 467, 468 IPC, etc. Summons to be issued against the accused."

15. The first and foremost contention of the respondent-accused is that summoning an accused is a serious matter and the summoning order must reflect that the Magistrate has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto and in the present case, the order for issuance of process without recording reasons was rightly set aside by the High Court. In support of their contention that the summoning order must record reasons showing application of mind, reliance was placed upon Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Special Judicial Magistrate4, The second limb of submission of the learned Senior Counsel appearing for the respondent-accused is that there has to be an order indicating the application of mind by the Magistrate as to the satisfaction that there are sufficient grounds to proceed against the accused irrespective of the fact that whether it is a charge-sheet by the police or a private complaint.

16. It is well settled that at the stage of issuing process, the Magistrate is mainly concerned with the allegations made in the complaint or the evidence led in support of the same and the Magistrate is only to be satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused. It is fairly well settled that when issuing summons, the Magistrate need not explicitly state the reasons for his satisfaction that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused. Reliance was placed upon Bhushan Kumar v. State (NCT of Delhi)30...

17. After referring to Bhushan Kumar v. State (NCT of Delhi),(2012) 5 SCC 424 Chief Enforcement Officer v. Videocon International Ltd.11, and other decisions, in Mehmood Ul Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda37, it was held as under:

"20. The extensive reference to the case law would clearly show that cognizance of an offence on complaint is taken for the purpose of issuing process to the accused. Since it is a process of taking judicial notice of certain facts which constitute an offence, there has to be application of mind as to whether the allegations in the complaint, when considered along with the statements recorded or the inquiry conducted thereon, would constitute violation of law so as to call a person to appear before the criminal court. It is not a mechanical process or matter of course. As held by this Court in Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Special Judicial Magistrate4, to set in motion the process of criminal law against a person is a serious matter."

The above observations made in para 20 is in the context of taking cognizance of a complaint. As per definition under Section 2(d) CrPC, complaint does not include a police report.

18. The learned Senior Counsel appearing for the respondent-accused relied upon various judgments to contend that while taking cognizance, the court has to record the reasons that prima facie case is made out and that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused for that offence. The learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent-accused relied upon the judgments in Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Special Judicial Magistrate, (1998) 5 SCC 749 and Mehmood Ul Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda, (2015) 12 SCC 420 to contend that while taking cognizance, the court has to record reasons that prima facie case is made out and that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused for that offence. On the facts and circumstances of those cases, this Court held that the order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. However, what needs to be understood is that those cases relate to issuance of process taking cognizance of offences based on the complaint. Be it noted that as per the definition under Section 2(d) CrPC, "complaint" does not include a police report. Those cases do not relate to taking of cognizance upon a police report under Section 190(1)(b) CrPC. Those cases relate to taking cognizance of offences based on the complaint. In fact, it was also observed in Mehmood Ul Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda37, (at SCC p. 430, para 21) that "under Section 190(1)(b) CrPC, the Magistrate has the advantage of a police report; but under Section 190(1)(a) CrPC, he has only a complaint before him. Hence, the Code specifies that "a complaint of facts which constitutes an offence".

19...The procedure for taking cognizance upon complaint has been provided under Chapter XV -- Complaints to Magistrates under Sections 200 to 203 CrPC. A complaint filed before the Magistrate may be dismissed under Section 203 CrPC if the Magistrate is of the opinion that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding and in every such case, he shall briefly record his reasons for so doing. If a complaint is not dismissed under Section 203 CrPC, the Magistrate issues process under Section 204 CrPC. Section 204 CrPC is in a separate chapter i.e. Chapter XVI -- Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates. A combined reading of Sections 203 and 204 CrPC shows that for dismissal of a complaint, reasons should be recorded. The procedure for trial of warrant cases is provided in Chapter XIX -- Trial of Warrant Cases by the Magistrates. Chapter XIX deals with two types of cases -- A-Cases instituted on a police report and B-Cases instituted otherwise than on police report. In the present case, cognizance has been taken on the basis of police report.

20. In a case instituted on a police report, in warrant cases, under Section 239 CrPC, upon considering the police report and the documents filed along with it under Section 173 CrPC, the Magistrate after affording opportunity of hearing to both the accused and the prosecution, shall discharge the accused, if the Magistrate considers the charge against the accused to be groundless and record his reasons for so doing. Then comes Chapter XIX-C -- Conclusion of trial -- the Magistrate to render final judgment under Section 248 CrPC considering the various provisions and pointing out the three stages of the case. Observing that there is no requirement of recording reasons for issuance of process under Section 204 CrPC, in Raj Kumar Agarwal v. State of U.P.38, B.K. Rathi, J. the learned Single Judge of the Allahabad High Court held as under: (SCC OnLine All paras 8-9)

"8. ...As such there are three stages of a case. The first is under Section 204 CrPC at the time of issue of process, the second is under Section 239 CrPC before framing of the charge and the third is after recording the entire evidence of the prosecution and the defence. The question is whether the Magistrate is required to scrutinise the evidence at all the three stages and record reasons of his satisfaction. If this view is taken, it will make speedy disposal a dream. In my opinion the consideration of merits and evidence at all the three stages is different. At the stage of issue of process under Section 204 CrPC detailed enquiry regarding the merit and demerit of the cases is not required. The fact that after investigation of the case, the police has submitted the charge-sheet, may be considered as sufficient ground for proceeding at the stage of issue of process under Section 204 CrPC however subject to the condition that at this stage the Magistrate should examine whether the complaint is barred under any law,... At the stage of Section 204 CrPC if the complaint is not found barred under any law, the evidence is not required to be considered nor are the reasons required to be recorded. At the stage of charge under Section 239 or 240 CrPC the evidence may be considered very briefly, though at that stage also, the Magistrate is not required to meticulously examine and to evaluate the evidence and to record detailed reasons.

9. A bare reading of Sections 203 and 204 CrPC shows that Section 203 CrPC requires that reasons should be recorded for the dismissal of the complaint. Contrary to it, there is no such requirement under Section 204 CrPC. Therefore, the order for issue of process in this case without recording reasons, does not suffer from any illegality."

We fully endorse the above view taken by the learned Judge.

21. In para 21 of Mehmood Ul Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda37, this Court has made a fine distinction between taking cognizance based upon charge-sheet filed by the police under Section 190(1)(b) CrPC and a private complaint under Section 190(1)(a) CrPC and held as under: (SCC p. 430)

"21. Under Section 190(1)(b) CrPC, the Magistrate has the advantage of a police report and under Section 190(1)(c) CrPC, he has the information or knowledge of commission of an offence. But under Section 190(1)(a) CrPC, he has only a complaint before him. The Code hence specifies that "a complaint of facts which constitute such offence". Therefore, if the complaint, on the face of it, does not disclose the commission of any offence, the Magistrate shall not take cognizance under Section 190(1)(a) CrPC. The complaint is simply to be rejected."

22. In summoning the accused, it is not necessary for the Magistrate to examine the merits and demerits of the case and whether the materials collected is adequate for supporting the conviction. The court is not required to evaluate the evidence and its merits. The standard to be adopted for summoning the accused under Section 204 CrPC is not the same at the time of framing the charge. For issuance of summons under Section 204 CrPC, the expression used is "there is sufficient ground for proceeding..."; whereas for framing the charges, the expression used in Sections 240 and 246 IPC is "there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence...". At the stage of taking cognizance of the offence based upon a police report and for issuance of summons under Section 204 CrPC, detailed enquiry regarding the merits and demerits of the case is not required. The fact that after investigation of the case, the police has filed charge-sheet along with the materials thereon may be considered as sufficient ground for proceeding for issuance of summons under Section 204 CrPC.

23. Insofar as taking cognizance based on the police report is concerned, the Magistrate has the advantage of the charge-sheet, statement of witnesses and other evidence collected by the police during the investigation. Investigating officer/SHO collects the necessary evidence during the investigation conducted in compliance with the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code and in accordance with the rules of investigation. Evidence and materials so collected are sifted at the level of the investigating officer and thereafter, charge-sheet was filed. In appropriate cases, opinion of the Public Prosecutor is also obtained before filing the charge-sheet. The court thus has the advantage of the police report along with the materials placed before it by the police. Under Section 190(1)(b) CrPC, where the Magistrate has taken cognizance of an offence upon a police report and the Magistrate is satisfied that there is sufficient ground for proceeding, the Magistrate directs issuance of process. In case of taking cognizance of an offence based upon the police report, the Magistrate is not required to record reasons for issuing the process. In cases instituted on a police report, the Magistrate is only required to pass an order issuing summons to the accused. Such an order of issuing summons to the accused is based upon subject to satisfaction of the Magistrate considering the police report and other documents and satisfying himself that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. In a case based upon the police report, at the stage of issuing the summons to the accused, the Magistrate is not required to record any reason..."

34. In the case at hand the Magistrate having taken cognizance on the basis of a report ─ deemed to be a complaint, by virtue of explanation to Section 2 (d), and not on the basis of a private complaint, the case would be squarely covered by the decision in State of Gujarat Vs. Afroz Mohammad Hasanfatta36 wherein it was held that the Magistrate is only required to be satisfied about sufficient grounds to proceed and issue summons on basis of prima facie evidence in the charge-sheet and other documents filed by the police but the Magistrate is not explicitly required to record reasons therefor at the stage of issuing summons.

35. The decision in the case of Pepsi Foods Ltd. Vs. Special Judicial Magistrate4 sought to be relied on behalf of the applicants to contend that while taking cognizance the court has to record reasons would not be applicable since that case relates to issuance of process taking cognizance of offences based on a complaint.

36. In this regard it may be noted that as per the definition under Section 2 (d), "complaint" does not include a police report and the present being a case where pursuant to an FIR in respect of cognizable offences the case was investigated and a report was placed disclosing non-cognizable offences, by virtue of the explanation to Section 2 (d) the report made by the police officer would be held to be a "deemed complaint" and in view of the proviso to Section 200 the police officer concerned who would be "deemed to be the complainant", would not be required to be examined by the Magistrate before issuance of process under Section 204. The reason for this being that the Magistrate in the instant case has the advantage of the police report along with the materials placed before it by the police. This may include statement of witnesses and other evidence collected by the police during the investigation. This would be a case distinct from one under Section 190 (1) (a) CrPC where the Magistrate has only a complaint before him.

37. The explanation to Section 2 (d) contains a deeming provision and in terms thereof a report made by a police officer in a case which discloses, after investigation, the commission of a non-cognizable offence shall be "deemed to be a complaint"; and the police officer by whom such report is made shall be "deemed to be the complainant."

38. The nature and effect of a deeming provision and the legal fiction created in terms thereof came up for consideration in Ali M.K. And others Vs. State of Kerala and others,39 and after extensively referring to the case law on the point, it was observed as follows :-

"13...Therefore, the vital question is whether the appointment is made in the exigencies of public service. For that purpose, Note 1 assumes significance. It is, as noted above, a deeming provision. Such a provision creates a legal fiction. As was stated by James, L.J. in Levy, Re, ex p Walton40.

"when a statute enacts that something shall be deemed to have been done, which in fact and in truth was not done, the court is entitled and bound to ascertain for what purposes and between what persons the statutory fiction is to be resorted to. After ascertaining the purpose full effect must be given to the statutory fiction and it should be carried to its logical conclusion and to that end it would be proper and even necessary to assume all those facts on which alone the fiction can operate."

[See Hill v. East and West India Dock Co.41, State of Travancore Cochin v. Shanmugha Vilas Cashewnut Factory42, American Home Products Corpn. v. Mac Laboratories (P) Ltd.43 and Parayankandiyal Eravath Kanapravan Kalliani Amma v. K. Devi44. In an oft-quoted passage, Lord Asquith stated: (All ER p. 599 B-D).

"If you are bidden to treat an imaginary state of affairs as real you must surely, unless prohibited from doing so, also imagine as real the consequence and incidents which, if the putative state of affairs had, in fact, existed must inevitably have flowed from or accompanied it. ... The statute states that you must imagine a certain state of affairs, it does not say that having done so, you must cause or permit your imagination to boggle when it comes to the inevitable corollaries of that state of affairs."

(See East End Dwellings Co. Ltd. v. Finsbury Borough Council45.)

"The word "deemed' is used a great deal in modern legislation. Sometimes it is used to impose for the purposes of a statute an artificial construction of a word or phrase that would not otherwise prevail. Sometimes it is used to put beyond doubt a particular construction that might otherwise be uncertain. Sometimes it is used to give a comprehensive description that includes what is obvious, what is uncertain and what is, in the ordinary sense, impossible."

[Per Lord Radcliffe in St. Aubyn (L.M.) v. Attorney-General (No. 2)46 All ER p. 498 F-G.]

14. "Deemed", as used in statutory definitions "to extend the denotation of the defined term to things it would not in ordinary parlance denote, is often a convenient devise for reducing the verbiage of an enactment, but that does not mean that wherever it is used it has that effect; to deem means simply to judge or reach a conclusion about something, and the words "deem' and "deemed' when used in a statute thus simply state the effect or meaning which some matter or thing has -- the way in which it is to be adjudged; this need not import artificiality or fiction; it may simply be the statement of an undisputable conclusion." (Per Windener, J. in Hunter Douglas Australia Pty. v. Perma Blinds47.)

15. When a thing is to be "deemed" something else, it is to be treated as that something else with the attendant consequences, but it is not that something else (per Cave, J., R. v. Norfolk County Court48.)

"When a statute gives a definition and then adds that certain things shall be "deemed' to be covered by the definition, it matters not whether without that addition the definition would have covered them or not."(Per Lord President Cooper in Ferguson v. McMillan49.)

16. Whether the word "deemed" when used in a statute established a conclusive or a rebuttable presumption depended upon the context (see St. Leon Village Consolidated School Distt. v. Ronceray50.)

"I ... regard its primary function as to bring in something which would otherwise be excluded."

(Per Viscount Simonds in Barclays Bank v. IRC51).

"Deems" means "is of opinion" or "considers" or "decides" and there is no implication of steps to be taken before the opinion is formed or the decision is taken.[See R. v. Brixton Prison (Governor), ex p Soblen52, All ER p. 669 C.]

39. It would therefore be seen that while interpreting a provision creating a legal fiction, the Court would be required to ascertain for what purpose the fiction is created and thereafter the Court is to assume all those facts and consequences which are incidental or which follow as necessary corollaries in order to give effect to the fiction.

40. The fiction created by a deeming provision is essentially an assumption or supposition in law with regard to existence of a state of facts. The fiction in the realm of law has a defined role to play and while construing the same it is not to be extended beyond the purpose for which it is created or beyond the language of the section by which it is created. It would be required to be borne in mind that the statute introduces a legal fiction for a certain purpose and it would not be legitimate to travel beyond the scope of that purpose or to stretch it to point where it loses the purpose for which it has been created or employed.

41. In the facts of the present case, the report made by the police officer having been "deemed to be a complaint" by virtue of the explanation to Section 2 (d), the legal fiction thus set up cannot be stretched to a point so as to equate the same to a "private complaint" and thereby derive a conclusion that while taking cognizance thereon the Magistrate would be required to record detailed reasons.

42. The matter may be examined from another perspective, as to whether the order taking cognizance, if held to be irregular, can be said to have occasioned failure of justice or to have vitiated the proceedings. Chapter XXXV of the Code is in respect of irregular proceedings. The provisions contained under Section 460, 461 and 465, under Chapter XXXV, which are relevant for ensuing discussion, are being extracted below.

"460. Irregularities which do not vitiate proceedings.-If any Magistrate not empowered by law to do any of the following things, namely:-

(a) to issue a search-warrant under section 94;

(b) to order, under section 155, the police to investigate an offence;

(c) to hold an inquest under section 176;

(d) to issue process under section 187, for the apprehension of a person within his local jurisdiction who has committed an offence outside the limits of such jurisdiction;

(e) to take cognizance of an offence under clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 190;

(f) to make over a case under sub-section (2) of section 192;

(g) to tender a pardon under section 306;

(h) to recall a case and try it himself under section 410; or

(i) to sell property under section 458 or section 459, erroneously in good faith does that thing, his proceedings shall not be set aside merely on the ground of his not being so empowered.

461.Irregularities which vitiate proceedings.- If any Magistrate, not being empowered by law in this behalf, does any of the following things, namely:-

(a) attaches and sells property under section 83;

(b) issues a search-warrant for a document, parcel or other thing in the custody of a postal or telegraph authority;

(c) demands security to keep the peace;

(d) demands security for good behavior;

(e) discharges a person lawfully bound to be of good behavior;

(f) cancels a bond to keep the peace;

(g) makes an order for maintenance;

(h) makes an order under section 133 as to a local nuisance;

(i) prohibits, under section 143, the repetition or continuance of a public nuisance;

(j) makes an order under Part C or Part D of Chapter X;

(k) takes cognizance of an offence under clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 190;

(l) tries an offender;

(m) tries an offender summarily;

(n) passes a sentence, under section 325, on proceedings recorded by another Magistrate;

(o) decides an appeal;

(p) calls, under section 397, for proceedings; or

(q) revises an order passed under section 446, his proceedings shall be void.

465.Finding or sentence when reversible by reason of error, omission or irregularity.-(1) Subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, no finding, sentence or order passed by a Court of competent jurisdiction shall be reversed or altered by a Court of appeal, confirmation or revision on account of any error, omission or irregularity in the complaint, summons, warrant, proclamation, order, judgment or other proceedings before or during trial or in any inquiry or other proceedings under this Code, or any error, or irregularity in any sanction for the prosecution, unless in the opinion of that Court, a failure of justice has in fact been occasioned thereby.

(2) In determining whether any error, omission or irregularity in any proceeding under this Code, or any error, or irregularity in any sanction for the prosecution has occasioned a failure of justice, the Court shall have regard to the fact whether the objection could and should have been raised at an earlier stage in the proceedings."

43. Section 460 pertains to irregularities which do not vitiate proceedings, whereas Section 461 is in respect of irregularities which vitiate proceedings. Clause (e) of Section 460 refers to taking cognizance of an offence under clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1) of Section 190. Clause (a) of sub-section (1) of Section 190 refers to receipt of a complaint of facts which constitute an offence and clause (b) refers to a police report of the facts. Therefore, in a case where a Magistrate, who is not empowered by law, takes cognizance of an offence either under clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1) of Section 190, even erroneously, the proceedings will not be held to be vitiated. It is only in a case, where a Magistrate, who is not empowered, takes cognizance of an offence under Section 190 (1) (c), upon information received from a person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, the act of taking cognizance can be held to vitiate proceedings in view of clause (k) of Section 461 of the Code.

44. The question as to whether an order issuing summons could be held to be vitiated on the ground that it did not contain reasons was also examined in the decision of Nupur Talwar vs. Central Bureau of Investigation and another34 and taking into consideration the provisions under Section 461 of the Code, which expressly delineates irregularities in procedure which would vitiate proceedings, it was held that since orders passed under Section 204 do not find mention under Section 461, the said orders could not be faulted on the ground that they did not contain reasons.

45. Section 465 of the Code embodies the principle that the finding, sentence or order passed by the court of competent jurisdiction would not be reversible on account of any error, omission or irregularity unless the same has occasioned a "failure of justice". In determining as to whether there has been any failure of justice, sub-section (2) of Section 465 provides that regard would be had to the fact whether the objection regarding the irregularity could and should have been raised at an earlier stage in the proceedings. Section 465 relates to proceedings before trial or any inquiry, and since cognizance is pre-trial or inquiry stage, any irregularity of a cognizance order would be covered under the provision.

46. The object of provisions contained under Chapter XXXV of the Code has been subject matter of consideration in a recent decision of the Supreme Court in Pradeep S.Wodeyar Vs. The State of Karnataka5, wherein it has been held that the purpose of these provisions is to prevent irregularities, that do not go to the root of the case, from delaying the proceedings. Taking notice of a growing tendency on part of the accused using delaying tactics by seeking to challenge every interlocutory order with a view to prolong the proceedings and prevent the commencement or conclusion of the trial, and referring to the earlier decisions in A.R.Antulay vs Ramdas Sriniwas Nayak And Another53 and Santhosh De Vs. Archana Guha54, it has been observed as follows :-

"44. The overarching purpose of Chapter XXXV CrPC, as is evident from a reading of Sections 460 to 466, is to prevent irregularities that do not go to the root of the case from delaying the proceedings. Sections 462-464 lay down specific irregularities which would not vitiate the proceedings. Section 465 on the other hand is a broad residuary provision that covers all irregularities that are not covered by the above provisions. This is evident from the initial words of Section 465, namely, "Subject to the provisions hereinabove contained". Therefore, irregular proceedings that are not covered under Sections 461-464 could be covered under Section 465. It is also evident that the theme of "failure of justice', uniformly guides all the provisions in the Chapter. There is no indication in Section 465 and in Sections 462-464 that the provisions only apply to orders of conviction or acquittal. All the provisions use the words "finding, sentence or order". Though one of the major causes of judicial delay is the delay caused from the commencement of the trial to its conclusion, there is no denying that delay is also predominantly caused in the pre-trial stage. Every interlocutory order is challenged and is on appeal till the Supreme Court, on grounds of minor irregularities that do not go to the root of the case. The object of Chapter XXXV of the CrPC is not only to prevent the delay in the conclusion of proceedings after the trial has commenced or concluded, but also to curb the delay at the pre-trial stage. It has been recognized by a multitude of judgments of this Court that the accused often uses delaying tactics to prolong the proceedings and prevent the commencement or conclusion of the trial. The object of Chapter XXXV is to further the constitutionally recognized principle of speedy trial. This was highlighted by Justice Jeevan Reddy while writing for a two judge Bench in Santhosh De v. Archana Guha where the learned judge observed:

"15. The facts of this case impel us to say how easy it has become today to delay the trial of criminal cases. An accused so minded can stall the proceedings for decades together, if he has the means to do so. Any and every single interlocutory order is challenged in the superior Courts and the superior Courts, we are pained to say, are falling prey to their stratagems. We expect the superior Courts to resist all such attempts. Unless a grave illegality is committed, the superior Courts should not interfere. They should allow the Court which is seized of the matter to go on with it. There is always an appellate Court to correct the errors. One should keep in mind the principle behind Section 465 Cr. P.C. That any and every irregularity or infraction of a procedural provision cannot constitute a ground for interference by a superior Court unless such irregularity or infraction has caused irreparable prejudice to the party and requires to be corrected at that stage itself, because such frequent interference by superior Court at the interlocutory stages tends to defeat the ends of Justice instead of serving those ends. It should not be that a man with enough means is able to keep the law at bay. That would mean the failure of the very system."

45. Section 465 would also be applicable to challenges to interlocutory orders such as a cognizance order or summons order on the ground of irregularity of procedure. This interpretation is supported by sub-section (2) to Section 465 which states that while determining if the irregularity has occasioned a failure of justice, the Court shall have regard to whether the objection could or should have been raised at an earlier stage in the proceeding. Therefore, the very fact that the statute provides that the Court is to consider if the objection could have been raised earlier, without any specific mention of the stage of the trial, indicates that the provision covers challenges raised at any stage. The Court according to sub-Section (2) is to determine if the objection was raised at the earliest."

47. The question as to whether condoning the irregularity of the cognizance order under Section 465 would lead to a "failure of justice" was considered in the aforestated decision in the case of Pradeep S.Wodeyar Vs. The State of Karnataka5 and while referring to the gradation in irregularity of cognizance order under Sections 460 and 461, it was observed as follows :-

"48.(ii) Gradation in irregularity of cognizance order under Sections 460 and 461- Under Sections 460 and 461, the order taking cognizance based on a police report has been given a greater standing as compared to an order taking cognizance based on information received from any person other than a police officer or upon the own knowledge of the Magistrate, for the specific purpose of deciding on the irregularity of the order. The reason behind the gradation is because in the former case, the Magistrate has material based on an investigation by the police to ground his decision which may be absent when cognizance is taken based on information by any other person. In this case, cognizance was taken based on the SIT report. Therefore, the case squarely falls under Section 190(b) of CrPC which under Section 460, even if irregular would not vitiate the proceedings."

48. In the facts of the present case also the cognizance was taken based on a report made by the police which under Section 460 even if irregular would not have the effect of vitiating the proceedings.

49. The legal position with regard to the manner of taking cognizance and issuing process as per the procedure prescribed under the Code and as to whether the detailed reasons are required to be recorded at the stage of taking cognizance or issuing of process has been elaborated in a recent decision of this Court in Badri Prasad and others Vs. State of U.P. and another.55

50. The aforementioned reasoning also finds support from the principle of statutory construction that the provisions of a statute are to be read in a way that renders them compatible and not contradictory. It is a cardinal principle of construction of a statute that effort should be made in construing the different provisions so that each provision will have its play and in the event of any conflict a harmonious construction should be given. The well-known principle of harmonious construction is that effect shall be given to all the provisions and for that any provision of the statute should be construed with reference to the other provisions so as to make it workable. In this regard, reference may be had to the decisions in Sultana Begum Vs. Prem Chand Jain56 and Commissioner of Income Tax Vs. Hindustan Bulk Carriers57.

51. It would be apt to apply the aforestated principles to consider the question as to whether in a situation where the report made by the police officer having been held to be covered by the explanation to Section 2 (d) and accordingly having been deemed to be a complaint, the cognizance taken thereon by the Magistrate can be assailed on the ground that the procedure as required in the case of a "private complaint" as per Sections 200 and 202 has not been followed.

52. For ease of reference Section 200 of the Code is being extracted below:-

"200. Examination of complainant.- A Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence on complaint shall examine upon oath the complainant and the witnesses present, if any, and the substance of such examination shall be reduced to writing and shall be signed by the complainant and the witnesses, and also by the Magistrate:

Provided that, when the complaint is made in writing, the Magistrate need not examine the complainant and the witnesses-

(a) if a public servant acting or-purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties or a Court has made the complaint; or

(b) if the Magistrate makes over the case for inquiry or trial to another Magistrate under section 192:

Provided further that if the Magistrate makes over the case to another Magistrate under section 192 after examining the complainant and the witnesses, the latter Magistrate need not re-examine them."

53. Clause (a) of the first proviso to Section 200 of the Code provides that when the complaint is made in writing by a public servant acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties, the Magistrate need not examine the complainant and the witnesses before proceeding with the matter and issuing process. Therefore, in a case where a report made by a police officer is deemed to be a complaint by virtue of the explanation to Section 2(d) and the Magistrate proceeds to take cognizance thereon under Section 190(1)(a), treating it to be a complaint, and proceeds to issue process without following the procedure of examining the complainant under Section 200 and the witnesses under Section 202, the issuance of process or the summons cannot be held to be vitiated.

54. Moreover, in the facts of the present case looking at the nature of the offence disclosed in the police report, the case which is to be tried would be a summons case and the procedure prescribed for the same would be as per Chapter XX of the Code, wherein there is no distinction with regard to the manner in which the trial is to proceed between cases instituted on a police report and those instituted otherwise than on a police report i.e. a complaint. Accordingly, there would be no material change in the procedure of trial and as such the applicant cannot be said to have been prejudiced by the order of cognizance by the Magistrate, for this reason also.

55. The line of reasoning referred to above also follows from the principles enunciated in the case of Mahendra Kumar Chaudhary and others Vs. State of U.P. and another3.

56. Having regard to the foregoing discussion the challenge raised to the cognizance order on both the grounds i.e. cognizance ought to have been taken under Section 190 (1) (a) as is required in the case of a "private complaint" and that the same should have been based on a reasoned order, cannot be held to be in conformity with the legal principles in regard to the manner of taking cognizance and issuing process as per the procedure prescribed under the Code and therefore cannot be accepted.

57. The prayer for quashing of the charge-sheet no. 262 of 2020 dated 19.07.2020, the cognizance order dated 25.02.2021 and entire proceedings of Case No. 14457 of 2021 pending in the court of Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate III, Kanpur Nagar (State Vs. Atmaram Yadav and others) in Case Crime No. 249 of 2020 under Sections 323, 504 IPC, P.S. Vidhnu, District Kanpur Nagar insofar as it relates to the applicants is therefore refused.

58. Counsel for the applicants, at this stage, submits that the offences which are of cognizable nature would be covered under the 'Category A' as specified in the order of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Satendra Kumar Antil Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation and another58 and the requisite conditions specified therein also stand fulfilled and in view of the same, a direction may be issued to the court below to consider the grant of bail.

59. Learned A.G.A.-I appearing for the State opposite party has no objection to the prayer so made.

60. Counsel for the applicants states that the applicants would submit to the jurisdiction of the court below and apply for bail.

61. In case any such application is moved the court below would be expected to pass appropriate orders thereon in accordance with the settled principles of law.

62. The application stands disposed of accordingly.

State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Bipin Kumar Tripathi, Sri V.P. Srivastava (Senior Adv.)

A. Criminal Law -Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Section 482, 311 - Indian Penal Code, 1860-Section 364-application u/s 311 for summoning certain witnesses was rejected - the same could not be rejected on the sole ground that the case had been pending for an inordinate amount of time-delay in conclusion of the proceedings should not be the reason for rejection of an application u/s 311 Cr.P.C.- In the instant case, the additional witness who claims himself to be an eye witness of the incident in his statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C., sought to be summoned for arriving at the just decision of the case – Trial court adopted a hyper technical view in rejecting the application-it has failed to adhere to the well known adage that every trial is a voyage in which quest for truth is the goal.(Para 1 to 16)

B. The power conferred u/s 311 Cr.P.C. is to be invoked by the court to meet the ends of justice, for strong and valid reasons and it is to be exercised with great caution and circumspection. The determinative factor in this regard should be whether the summoning or recalling of the witness is in fact, essential to the just decision of the case keeping in view that fair trial-which entails the interests of the accused, the victim and of the society-is the main object of the criminal procedure and the court is to ensure that such fairness is not hampered or threatened in any manner.(Para 9 to 11)

The application is allowed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. This is a petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. against the order dated 29.04.2022 by virtue of which the application of the applicant under section 311 Cr.P.C. for summoning certain witnesses was rejected.

2. Heard Sri V. P. Srivastava, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Bipin Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr Vijendra Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 and Mr L. M. Singh, learned AGA for the State.

3. In short, facts giving rise to present case are that an FIR vide Case Crime No. 1052 of 1996, under Section 364 IPC was lodged on 19.10.1996 by the informant against the applicant and three others alleging therein that on 18.10.1996 at about 7 p.m. elder brother of the informant along with one Sanjay Rai were going Girdharganj to buy vegetables; at that time applicant and other named accused persons came in a jeep and took away brother of the informant with them and when the informant reached to his house from his village, Sanjay Rai is said to have narrated all these facts to the informant. The informant further apprehends that his brother has been abducted with intention to kill him because of old enmity with one co-accused Prajapati Shukla @ Jhanney Shukla, named in the FIR.

4. Investigation is said to have been carried out but about one month none of the prosecution witnesses were examined and even the statement of informant was not recorded and as such the investigation was transferred to CBCID, Gorakhpur on 31.12.1996 by parcha no. 3 and during course of process of investigation, the matter was again transferred to CBCID, Allahabad. During pendency of investigation, Investigating Officer, CBCID, Gorakhpur submitted charge sheet against Madhusudan Shukla (applicant) and Devi Sharan Yadav in the matter on 9.9.1997 under Sections 302, 364, 201/34 IPC and against accused Prajapati Shukla @ Jhannu Shukla and Girija Shanker Pandey on 4.11.1997 under Sections 364, 302, 201/34 IPC, whereupon cognizance was taken by the learned Magistrate. However, later on, the second Investigating Officer H. N. Kanojiya, Inspector CBCID, Allahabad is said to have submitted final report against the applicant and other co accused persons. But the Trial Court has proceeded merely on the basis of the previous charge sheets, without taking any notice of the final report submitted by second Investigating Officer.

5. During course of trial, after recording of the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., an application (163 kha) under Section 311 Cr.P.C. dated 25.4.2022 was filed on behalf of the accused applicant to produce one Sanjay Rai as well as Second Investigating Officer H. N. Kanjiya, Inspector CBCID, Allahabad either as defence witness or court witness for the just and proper decision of the trial, which has been rejected by the trial court vide order dated 29.04.2022 noticing the fact that this Court, considering it to be one of the oldest matter, on earlier occasion had already directed the trial court to conclude the trial of the matter within six months. It is this order which is subject matter of challenge before this Court.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has contended that examination of the witnesses named in the application filed by the applicant under Section 311 Cr.P.C. is very essential for the just decision of the case. It is further submitted that applicant has been falsely implicated in the present case, which is based on last seen testimony and the applicant has no criminal history to his credit. In support of his arguments, he relied upon the judgements of Rajaram Prasa Yadav Vs State of Bihar and others, reported in 2013 14 SCC 461; The State represented by the Deputy Superintendent of Police Vs N. Seenivsagan, reported in AIR 2021 SC 2441.

7. On the other hand learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 and learned AGA for the State pleading the legality and validity of the impugned order contended that application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. moved by the applicant at the fag end of the trial was nothing, but a deliberate attempt to delay the conclusion of the trial. By way of aforesaid application, applicant wanted to re-open the entire case, which in law is not permissible. Even otherwise, application of the applicant under Section 311 Cr.P.C. was an attempt to fill up a lacuna.

8. I have carefully considered the submissions as well as gone through the record.

9. The nature and scope of the powers to be exercised by the court under Section 311 Cr.P.C. was elaborately considered in the case of Rajaram Prasad Yadav v State of Bihar and another (supra) and after considering the earlier precedents, the principles to be followed by the courts with regard to exercise of powers under the said section have been explained and enumerated. It has been stated thus:-

"14. A conspicuous reading of Section 311 Cr P C would show that widest of the powers have been invested with the courts when it comes to the question of summoning a witness or to recall or re-examine any witness already examined. A reading of the provision shows that the expression "any" has been used as a prefix to "court", "inquiry", "trial", "other proceeding", "person as a witness", "person in attendance though not summoned as a witness", and "person already examined". By using the said expression "any" as a prefix to the various expressions mentioned above, it is ultimately stated that all that was required to be satisfied by the court was only in relation to such evidence that appears to the court to be essential for the just decision of the case.

Section 138 of the Evidence Act, prescribed the order of examination of a witness in the court. The order of re-examination is also prescribed calling for such a witness so desired for such re-examination. Therefore, a reading of Section 311 CrPC and Section 138 Evidence Act, insofar as it comes to the question of a criminal trial, the order of re-examination at the desire of any person under Section 138, will have to necessarily be in consonance with the prescription contained in Section 311 Cr.P.C. It is, therefore, imperative that the invocation of Section 311 Cr.P.C. and its application in a particular case can be ordered by the court, only by bearing in mind the object and purport of the said provision, namely, for achieving a just decision of the case as noted by us earlier. The power vested under the said provision is made available to any court at any stage in any inquiry or trial or other proceeding initiated under the Code for the purpose of summoning any person as a witness or for examining any person in attendance, even though not summoned as witness or to recall or re-examine any person already examined. Insofar as recalling and re-examination of any person already examined, the court must necessarily consider and ensure that such recall and re-examination of any person, appears in the view of the court to be essential for the just decision of the case. Therefore, the paramount requirement is just decision and for that purpose the essentiality of a person to be recalled and re-examined has to be ascertained. To put it differently, while such a widest power is invested with the court, it is needless to state that exercise of such power should be made judicially and also with extreme care and caution.

23. From a conspectus consideration of the above decisions, while dealing with an application under Section 311 Cr P C read along with Section 138 of the Evidence Act, we feel the following principles will have to be borne in mind by the courts:

a) Whether the court is right in thinking that the new evidence is needed by it? Whether the evidence sought to be led in under Section 311 is noted by the court for a just decision of a case?

b) The exercise of the widest discretionary power under Section 311 CrPC should ensure that the judgment should not be rendered on inchoate, inconclusive speculative presentation of facts, as thereby the ends of justice would be defeated.

c) If evidence of any witness appears to the court to be essential to the just decision of the case, it is the power of the court to summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person.

d) The exercise of power under Section 311 Cr P C should be resorted to only with the object of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof for such facts, which will lead to a just and correct decision of the case.

e) The exercise of the said power cannot be dubbed as filling in a lacuna in a prosecution case, unless the facts and circumstances of the case make it apparent that the exercise of power by the court would result in causing serious prejudice to the accused, resulting in miscarriage of justice.

f) The wide discretionary power should be exercised judiciously and not arbitrarily.

g) The court must satisfy itself that it was in every respect essential to examine such a witness or to recall him for further examination in order to arrive at a just decision of the case.

h) The object of Section 311 Cr P C simultaneously imposes a duty on the court to determine the truth and to render a just decision.

i) The court arrives at the conclusion that additional evidence is necessary, not because it would be impossible to pronounce the judgment without it, but because there would be a failure of justice without such evidence being considered.

j) Exigency of the situation, fair play and good sense should be the safeguard, while exercising the discretion. The court should bear in mind that no party in a trial can be foreclosed from correcting errors and that if proper evidence was not adduced or a relevant material was not brought on record due to any inadvertence, the court should be magnanimous in permitting such mistakes to be rectified.

k) The court should be conscious of the position that after all the trial is basically for the prisoners and the court should afford an opportunity to them in the fairest manner possible. In that parity of reasoning, it would be safe to err in favour of the accused getting an opportunity rather than protecting the prosecution against possible prejudice at the cost of the accused. The court should bear in mind that improper or capricious exercise of such a discretionary power, may lead to undesirable results.

l) The additional evidence must not be received as a disguise or to change the nature of the case against any of the party.

m) The power must be exercised keeping in mind that the evidence that is likely to be tendered, would be germane to the issue involved and also ensure that an opportunity of rebuttal is given to the other party.

n) The power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. must therefore, be invoked by the Court only in order to meet the ends of justice for strong and valid reasons and the same must be exercised with care, caution and circumspection. The court should bear in mind that fair trial entails the interest of the accused, the victim and the society and, therefore, the grant of fair and proper opportunities to the persons concerned, must be ensured being a constitutional goal, as well as a human right."

10. In the case of The State represented by the Deputy Superintendent of Police (supra), the Apex Court has held that if it appeared to the Court that the evidence of a person who is sought to be recalled is essential to the just decision of a case, the Court could do so under Section 311 Cr.P.C. The relevant extract is as under:-

"13. In our view, having due regard to the nature and ambit of Section 311 of the Cr.P.C., it was appropriate and proper that the applications filed by the prosecution ought to have been allowed.Section 311 provides that any Court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceedings under the CrPC, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or recall and re-examine any person already examined and the Court shall summon and examine or recall and re-examine test, therefore, is whether it appears to the Court that the evidence of such person who is sought to be recalled is essential to the just decision of the case."

11. Thus, the power to summon material witnesses under Section 311 Cr.P.C. which falls under Chapter XXIV containing the general provisions as to inquiries and trials has been held to confer a very wide power on the courts for summoning witnesses and accordingly the discretion conferred is to be exercised judiciously as wider the power the greater is the necessity for application of judicial mind. The power conferred has been held to be discretionary and is to enable the court to determine the truth after discovering all relevant facts and obtaining proper proof thereof to arrive at a just decision in the case. The power conferred under Section 311 Cr.P.C. is to be invoked by the court to meet the ends of justice, for strong and valid reasons and it is to be exercised with great caution and circumspection. The determinative factor in this regard should be whether the summoning or recalling of the witness is in fact, essential to the just decision of the case keeping in view that fair trial - which entails the interests of the accused, the victim and of the society - is the main object of the criminal procedure and the court is to ensure that such fairness is not hampered or threatened in any manner.

12. In the case of Manju Devi Vs State of Rajasthan, (2019) 6 SCC 203, Hon'ble Apex Court had noted that an application Under Section 311 Cr.P.C could not be rejected on the sole ground that the case had been pending for an inordinate amount of time (ten years there). Rather, it noted that "the length/duration of a case cannot displace the basic requirement of ensuring the just decision after taking all the necessary and material evidence on record. In other words, the age of a case, by itself, cannot be decisive of the matter when a prayer is made for examination of a material witness". Speaking for the Court, Hon. Mr. Justice Dinesh Maheshwari expounded on the principles underlying Section 311 in the following terms:

"10. It needs hardly any emphasis that the discretionary powers like those Under Section 311 Code of Criminal Procedure are essentially intended to ensure that every necessary and appropriate measure is taken by the Court to keep the record straight and to clear any ambiguity insofar as the evidence is concerned as also to ensure that no prejudice is caused to anyone. The principles underlying Section 311 Code of Criminal Procedure and amplitude of the powers of the court thereunder have been explained by this Court in several decisions. In Natasha Singh Vs CBI, (2013) 5 SCC 741, though the application for examination of witnesses was filed by the Accused but, on the principles relating to the exercise of powers Under Section 311, this Court observed, inter alia, as under:

"8. Section 311 Code of Criminal Procedure empowers the court to summon a material witness, or to examine a person present at "any stage" of "any enquiry", or "trial", or "any other proceedings" under Code of Criminal Procedure, or to summon any person as a witness, or to recall and re-examine any person who has already been examined if his evidence appears to it, to be essential to the arrival of a just decision of the case. Undoubtedly, Code of Criminal Procedure has conferred a very wide discretionary power upon the court in this respect, but such a discretion is to be exercised judiciously and not arbitrarily. The power of the court in this context is very wide, and in exercise of the same, it may summon any person as a witness at any stage of the trial, or other proceedings. The court is competent to exercise such power even suo motu if no such application has been filed by either of the parties. However, the court must satisfy itself, that it was in fact essential to examine such a witness, or to recall him for further examination in order to arrive at a just decision of the case.

15. The scope and object of the provision is to enable the court to determine the truth and to render a just decision after discovering all relevant facts and obtaining proper proof of such facts, to arrive at a just decision of the case. Power must be exercised judiciously and not capriciously or arbitrarily, as any improper or capricious exercise of such power may lead to undesirable results. An application Under Section 311 Code of Criminal Procedure must not be allowed only to fill up a lacuna in the case of the prosecution, or of the defence, or to the disadvantage of the Accused, or to cause serious prejudice to the defence of the Accused, or to give an unfair advantage to the opposite party. Further, the additional evidence must not be received as a disguise for retrial, or to change the nature of the case against either of the parties. Such a power must be exercised, provided that the evidence that is likely to be tendered by a witness, is germane to the issue involved. An opportunity of rebuttal however, must be given to the other party. The power conferred Under Section 311 Code of Criminal Procedure must therefore, be invoked by the court only in order to meet the ends of justice, for strong and valid reasons, and the same must be exercised with great caution and circumspection. The very use of words such as "any court", "at any stage", or "or any enquiry, trial or other proceedings", "any person" and "any such person" clearly spells out that the provisions of this Section have been expressed in the widest possible terms, and do not limit the discretion of the court in any way. There is thus no escape if the fresh evidence to be obtained is essential to the just decision of the case. The determinative factor should therefore be, whether the summoning/recalling of the said witness is in fact, essential to the just decision of the case."

13. In the instant case, record (application 163 Kha) reveals that the additional witness, namely, Sanjay Rai, who claims himself to be an eye witness of the incident in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., sought to be summoned by the applicant by way of additional evidence, was cited in the list of witness by both the Investigating Officers at the time of filing of the charge sheet and while submitting final report but he was not produced by the prosecution side in the trial proceedings. Whereas the Second witness sought to be examined is the second Investigating Officer, who submitted the final report after thorough investigation and, therefore, their examination in the trial proceedings are necessary for arriving at the just decision of the case, when allegedly the case is based upon circumstantial evidence.

14. The observation of the trial court in the impugned order that the applicant, by moving the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. belatedly wants to derail the trial, also to fill up a lacuna and to delay the trial proceedings and more particularly it has also noted in the impugned order that Sessions Trial is pending since 2013, and evidence under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded on 12.4.2022 and the case was fixed on 13.4.2022 for defence evidence but on that date it has been endorsed by counsel for the applicant that applicant does not want to give any defence evidence and in view thereof the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. has been rejected but the court below has not returned any finding as to why the evidence of witnesses sought to be summoned is not necessary.

15. Keeping in view the various pronouncements, the observations noted by the Trial Court in the impugned order are not tenable when the paramount consideration is "just decision of a case" and also keeping in view the decision of Apex Court in Manju

Devi (supra) wherein it has specifically been held that delay in conclusion of the proceedings should not be the reason for rejection of an application under Section 311 Cr.P.C., the order impugned is liable to be quashed. Moreover, trial Court appears to have adopted a hyper technical view in rejecting the application, however, what it appears to have ignored is the purpose for which the salutary provisions of Section 311 Cr.P.C. has been incorporated. It has failed to adhere to the well known adage that every trial is a voyage in which quest for truth is the goal. The trial court can summon any witness even if evidence of both sides is closed. What is required to be demonstrated is, evidence of such witness is essential to the just decision of the case.

16. Accordingly, this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is hereby allowed. The order of the learned trial Court dated 29.04.2022 is hereby quashed.

17. Court below is directed to fix a short date for the examination of the witnesses sought to be summoned by the applicant and on that date if the applicant fails to examine the witnesses, court below shall proceed in the matter without giving any further opportunity to the applicant to lead his evidence. Since the records indicate that the matter is oldest one, the trial Court is directed to take up the matter on day today basis and dispose of the trial as early as possible but not later than six months from the date of receipt of a copy of this order.

The application is rejected. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjay Kumar Singh, J.)

1- Heard Mr. Pawan Kumar, learned counsel for the applicants, Mr. Arun Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel for the complainant/opposite party no.2 and learned A.G.A. fo

2- By means of this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the applicants have made a prayer for quashing the impugned charge-sheet dated 4.6.2020 and summoning order dated 16.9.2020 in Criminal Case No. 3297 of 2020 arising out of Case Crime No. 106 of 2020 (State Vs. Vinod & Others) under Sections 323, 504, 506, 325, 308 I.P.C. pending in the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Maharajganj.

3- At the out-set on the matter being taken up, learned counsel for the complainant / opposite party no. 2 raises preliminary objection that the applicants have not come with clean hands before this Court as the averment made in paragraph no.2 of the affidavit filed in support of this application "that this is the first application on behalf of the applicants before this Court" is totally incorrect and false. In support of his submission, he pointed out that earlier the applicants had preferred an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 1982 of 2021 through Mr. Sumit Kumar Srivastava, advocate challenging the charge-sheet dated 04.06.2020, cognizance order dated 16.09.2020 as well as the entire proceedings of the aforesaid case no. 3297/2020. In the said application the applicant no-1(Vinod) was the deponent. The said application was disposed of vide order dated 29.1.2021 declining to quash the proceedings of the aforesaid case before the concerned court below with further direction that applicants shall appear before the court below within 30 days and for a period of 30 days interim protection was granted to the applicants. It is further pointed out that the said order dated 29.1.2021 has not been complied with by the applicants and thereafter they filed another application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 12919 of 2022 through Mr. S.K.Tiwari advocate challenging the non bailable warrant dated 03.01.2022, 09.03.2022 and 19.04.2022 issued against them, in which the applicant no-2 (Dinesh) is the deponent and the said application is still pending before this Court. During pendency of the aforesaid second application, the applicants have again preferred the instant third application under Section 482 Cr.P.C.through Mr. Pawan Kumar advocate, with the prayer to quash the charge-sheet dated 4.6.2020 and summoning order dated 16.9.2020 as well as entire proceedings of aforesaid case without disclosing the fact of filing aforesaid two applications.

4- When learned counsel for the applicants was confronted with the aforesaid facts, he became speechless and did not dispute the aforesaid factual aspect of the matter. However, he submits at the Bar that the deponent of this case is maternal uncle of applicant no.1 Vinod and he did not inform him about the filing of aforesaid applications under Section 482 Cr.P.C. Nos. 1982 of 2021 and 12919 of 2022, therefore, he has not given reference of the same in the affidavit. He has fairly submits that since the deponent has concealed the material facts before him as well as before this Court, therefore he has no objection in imposing some cost upon the deponent.

5- Having heard the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and examining the matter in its entirety, I find substance in the submissions of learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no.2 that the applicants have not come with clean hands and tried to obtain order in their favour by playing fraud upon the Court.

6- Under the facts of the case, I am of the considered view that the applicants have no respect to the order of this Court. Furthermore, they have not approached this Court with clean hands and filed this application suppressing the material facts, therefore, they do not deserve any indulgence by this Court. The courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One, who comes to the court, must come with clean hands and no material facts should be concealed. I am constrained to hold that more often the process of the court is being abused by unscrupulous litigants to achieve their nefarious design. I have no hesitation in saying that a person, whose case is based on falsehood can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation. The judicial process cannot become an instrument of oppression or abuse or a means in the process of the Court to subvert justice, for the reason that the Court exercises its jurisdiction, only in furtherance of justice. The applicants have misused the process of law by filing successive applications before this Court suppressing the material facts and documents and misled the Court. Honesty, fairness, purity of mind should be of the highest order to approach the court, failing which the litigant should be shown the exit door at the earliest point of time.

7- In view of the above, the application is rejected with costs, which is quantified at Rs.5,000/- (rupees five thousand only) to be deposited by the deponent (Rajesh s/o Late Baccha Lal, R/o village Pakri Siswa, police station-Ghughuli District Maharajganj) within one month with the Registrar General of this Court, failing which the same shall be recovered from the deponent as arrears of land revenue. After deposition of aforesaid amount, the Registrar General shall forward the same to the account of Rajkiya Bal Greh Shishu, Allahabad being Account No. 3785336735, State Bank of India, Khuldabad Branch, Prayagraj, IFSC Code SBI N0002560, 9 Micro Code 211002015, which shall be used for the welfare of the children

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Section 482 & 156(3)-Application u/s 156(3) was filed against the accused but the court concerned directed the same to be registered as a complaint-It cannot be that by treating an application moved u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint, making an inquiry into it and then proceeding as per section 204 Cr.P.C., the complainant will not get an effective and efficacious remedy to ventilate his grievances-The power of a Magistrate or such court cannot be curtailed so as to place it in a tight compartment to exercise it in a particular direction and way only mechanically without being left to pass any other order as per his wisdom- Moreso,the Court differed with a view taken in the Case of Soni Devi in which the FIR to be ordered to be registered whereas special judge takes cognizance, the mode of taking cognizance will be as prescribed u/s 190 Cr.P.C., hence, the Special Judge, SC/ST (PA) Act is well within his powers to treat an application moved u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C.

as a complaint-Hence, the matter directed to be placed before a Division Bench.(Para 1 to 21)

The application is disposed of. (E-6)

List of Cases cited:

1. Soni Devi Vs St. of U.P. & ors. (2022) 5 ADJ 64

2. Ram Swarup Vs Mohd. Javed Razack & anr.(2005) 10 SCC 393

(Delivered by Hon'ble Samit Gopal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Arvind Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Ankit Srivastava, learned counsel for the State and perused the records.

2. The present Criminal Misc. Application under Section 482 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (Cr.P.C.) has been filed by the applicant Naresh Kumar Valmiki, with the following prayers :

"It, therefore, most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to stay the effect and operation of the order dated 12.8.2021 (Annexure No. 2) passed by Special Judge (SC/ST), Etah and also be pleased to direct to the police of police station : Aliganj, District : Etah to lodge the FIR and investigate the case against the accused persons in accordance with law and/or may pass such other and further order as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper, so the justice be done between the parties.

It is further, most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to quash the order dated 12.8.2021 (Annexure No. 2) passed by Special Judge (SC/ST), Etah in criminal misc. case no. 220 of 2021 (Naresh Kumar vs. Indrajit & ors.) and further be pleased to direct to the learned Special Judge (SC/ST (PA) Act, Etah to proceed application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. in accordance with law and direct to the police of police station : Aliganj, District : Etah to lodge the FIR and investigate the case against the accused persons in accordance with law and/or may pass such other and further order as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper, so the justice be done between the parties."

3. Learned counsel for the applicant has confined his argument only to the aspect that the impugned order dated 12.8.2021 passed by Special Judge, SC/ST (PA) Act, Etah is ex-facie bad, illegal and not sustainable in the eyes of law as an application dated 5.4.2021 was filed under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. against Indrajit Singh, Abhijit @Chhote Yadav, Akhilesh and Umesh, with the prayer that appropriate order be passed for registration of F.I.R. and investigation upon the same, but the court concerned vide its order dated 12.8.2021 directed the said application filed under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. to be registered as a complaint and further directed that the matter be posted for further date for recording of statement of the complainant under Section 200 Cr.P.C.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant argued that the opposite party no. 2 to 5 who are the accused in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., are not the members of Scheduled Castes and/or Scheduled Tribes. He has relied upon the judgment of a co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Soni Devi vs. State of U.P. and others : 2022 (5) ADJ 64 and has argued that the issue as to whether an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. specifically with regards to an offence under The Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 (hereinafter referred as "the Act 1989'), can be treated as a complaint or not, is no more res integra but it has been held in the said judgement that the same cannot be treated as a complaint and the only option before the concerned court is to direct lodging of a First Information Report and investigation thereupon. It is argued that in view of the said judgement, the order impugned be set aside and the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. be directed to be ordered to be registered as a First Information Report and investigation be carried out against the accused persons.

5. Per contra, learned State counsel has opposed the said argument and has argued that Special Judge, SC/ST(PA) Act is not bound to direct lodging of a F.I.R. only on an application moved under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. before him. It is argued that the court concerned has to apply its judicial mind and then reach to a conclusion as to what order has to be passed and the order as such passed, has to reflect the independent opinion of the court concerned.

6. This Court has gone through the judgement passed in the case of Soni Devi (Supra).

7. Two questions were framed in the same. The first question is not being referred to, as the same does not relate to the issue in dispute. The second question as framed therein in paragraph 15 is as follows:

"15. The second question for consideration before this Court is as to whether Special Judge can treat the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint case or not."

8. At this stage before further going into the issue, answer as given to the second question in paragraph 18 of the judgement is as follows:

" 18. .... Therefore answer to the second question that Special Judge can treat the application under Section 156 (3)Cr.P.C. as a complaint case or not ? Answer is "No" in view of Rule 5(1) of the Amended Act."

9. A Special Judge established or specified for the purposes of the Act 1989, is for providing speedy trial and also shall have the power to directly take cognizance of the offence under the Act 1989. It is settled proposition of law that on receipt of a complaint a Magistrate has to apply his judicial mind to the allegations in the complaint and then to take a decision as to whether he would proceed at once to take cognizance of the offence in terms of Section 190 Cr.P.C. or order for investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.

10. In the case of Ram Swarup vs Mohd. Javed Razack & Anr: (2005) 10 SCC 393, the Apex Court has held that forwarding a complaint to the police for investigation is not necessary in every case. If, prima facie, an offence is made, cognizance can be taken by the Magistrate himself.

11. Legal position in a situation of filing of a complaint before a Magistrate is very well clear and explicit. A Magistrate or such court, as the case may be, has to apply his judicial mind to the allegations in the complaint against the accused persons and thereafter, he has to make up his mind and proceed as to whether it should be sent to the police station with directions to Officer In-charge for its registration and investigation in terms of Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. or to take cognizance of the offence as alleged and proceed to examine the complainant and his witnesses and take further steps in this regard as per the Code of Criminal Procedure or even reject the same. The powers of a Magistrate or such court cannot be curtailed so as to place it in a tight compartment to exercise it in a particular direction and way only mechanically without being left to pass any other order as per his wisdom. A court cannot be ordered to pass a particular order and act in a particular way only without any discretion left to its wisdom. It cannot be that by treating an application moved under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint, making an inquiry into it and then proceeding as per Section 204 Cr.P.C., the complainant will not get an effective and efficacious remedy to ventilate his grievances.

12. Section 14(1) of the Act, 1989 reads as under :

"14. (1) For the purpose of providing for speedy trial, the State Government shall, with the concurrence of the Chief Justice of the High Court, by notification in the Official Gazette, establish an Exclusive Special Court for one or more Districts:

Provided that in Districts where less number of cases under this Act is recorded, the State Government shall, with the concurrence of the Chief Justice of the High Court, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify for such Districts, the Court of Session to be a Special Court to try the offences under this Act:

Provided further that the Courts so established or specified shall have powers to take cognizance directly of offences under this Act."

13. Section 193 Cr.P.C. reads as under :

"193. Except as otherwise expressly provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, no Court of Session shall take cognizance of any offence as a Court of original jurisdiction unless the case has been committed to it by a Magistrate under this Code."

14. A perusal of these two sections makes it clear that there is an express provision under Section 14 (1) of the Act which provides powers to Special Court to directly take cognizance of an offence under the Act 1989. The mode of taking cognizance has to be as per Section 190 Cr.P.C. Since the scheme of Code of Criminal Procedure provides for cognizance to be taken by Magistrates in the manner specified under Section 190 Cr.P.C. and the Session Judges are restricted to directly take cognizance of the offences except where there is specific provision for the same. Hence, if a Sessions Judge or a Special Judge, as the case may be, takes cognizance, the mode of taking cognizance of an offence will be as prescribed under Section 190 Cr.P.C. and hence, the Special Judge, SC/ST (PA) Act is well within his powers to treat an application moved under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint.

15. Rule 5 of The Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Rules, 1995 reads as under :

"5. (1) Every information relating to the commission of an offence under the Act, if given orally to an officer in-charge of a police station shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction, and be read over to the informant, and every such information, whether given in writing or reduced to writing as aforesaid, shall be signed by the persons giving it, and the substance thereof shall be entered in a book to be maintained by that police station.

(2) A copy of the information as so recorded under sub-rule (1) above shall be given forthwith, free of cost, to the informant.

(3) Any person aggrieved by a refusal on the part of an officer in-charge of a police station to record the information referred to in sub-rule (1) may send the substance of such information, in writing and by post, to the Superintendent of Police concerned who after investigation either by himself or by a police officer not below the rank of Deputy Superintendent of Police, shall make an order in writing to the officer in-charge of the concerned police station to enter the substance of that information to be entered in the book to be maintained by the police station."

16 . Section 154 Cr.P.C. reads as under :

"154. (1) Every information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, if given orally to an officer in charge of a police station, shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction, and be read over to the informant; and every such information, whether given in writing or reduced to writing as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person giving it, and the substance thereof shall be entered in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the State Government may prescribe in this behalf:

Provided that if the information is given by the woman against whom an offence under section 326A, section 326 B, section 354, section 354A, section 354B, section 354C, section 354D, section 376, section 376A, section 376AB, section 376B, section 376C, section 376D, section 376DA, section 376DB, section 376E or section 509 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) is alleged to have been committed or attempted, then such information shall be recorded, by a woman police officer or any woman officer:

Provided further that -

(a) in the event that the person against whom an offence under section 354, section 354A, section 354B, section 354C, section 354D, section 376, section 376A, section 376AB, section 376B, section 376C, section 376D, section 376DA, section 376DB, section 376E or section 509 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) is alleged to have been committed or attempted, is temporarily or permanently mentally or physically disabled, then such information shall be recorded by a police officer, at the residence of the person seeking to report such offence or at a convenient place of such person's choice, in the presence of an interpreter or a special educator, as the case may be;

(b) the recording of such information shall be videographed;

(c) the police officer shall get the statement of the person recorded by a Judicial Magistrate under clause (a) of sub-section (5A) of section 164 as soon as possible.

(2) A copy of the information as recorded under sub-section (1) shall be given forthwith, free of cost, to the informant.

(3) Any person, aggrieved by a refusal on the part of an officer in charge of a police station to record the information referred to in sub-section (1) may send the substance of such information, in writing and by post, to the Superintendent of Police concerned who, if satisfied that such information discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, shall either investigate the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by any police officer subordinate to him, in the manner provided by this Code, and such officer shall have all the powers of an officer in charge of the police station in relation to that offence."

17. The reading of said rules makes it clear that the language of Rule 5 and that of Section 154 Cr.P.C. is akin. Since Rule 5 talks of information to the Officer In-charge of a police station, the said provisions can never be strictly applied on a Special Judge who has been empowered to pass appropriate orders on an application moved under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.

18. Thus, this Court differs with the view taken in the case of Soni Devi (Supra) in its second question as decided as to whether it is correct ?

19. Let the matter be placed before a Division Bench of this Court for appropriate decision on the same.

20. Since there is a difference from the view taken in the case of Soni Devi (Supra) by this Court which is the only argument raised by learned counsel for the applicant and there is a prayer for staying the effect and operation of the impugned order, the same is not allowed.

21. Let the matter be placed before Honourable The Chief Justice for nominating a Bench for deciding the issue in question.

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure,1973-Section 482 - Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 328, 376, 504, 506 & ¾ POCSO Act - IT Act-Section 66-quashing of entire proceedings-In the present case POCSO Act had leveled against the applicant but in support of the age proof of O.P. of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof for such facts, which will lead to a just and correct decision of the case- The impugned order suffers from illegality as it is only to delay the trial.(Para 1 to 9)

B. The exercise of the power u/s 311 Cr.P.C. cannot be dubbed as filling in a lacuna in a prosecution case, unless the facts and circumstances of the case make it apparent that the exercise of power by the Court would result in causing serious prejudice to the accused, resulting in miscarriage of justice. (Para 4,5)

The application is allowed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Gautam Chowdhary, J.)

1. Heard Sri V.P. Srivaastava, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Kamalesh Kumar Nishrad, learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State, Sri Awadhesh Rai, learned counsel for O.P. No. 2 and perused the record.

2. This application has been filed with a prayer to quash the order dated 4.9.2021 passed by Special Judge (POCSO Act)/ Additional Sessions Judge, Ghaziabad in S.T. No. 192 of 2019 arising out of Case Crime NO. 1592 of 2016, under sections 328, 376, 504, 506 IPC and section 3/4 POCSO and section 66 I.T. Act , P.S. Sihani Gate, Ghaziabad and also to quash the order dated 12.11.2021 passed by learned Addl. Sessions Judge (Rape and POCSO Act), Court NO. 2, Ghaziabad.

3. It is contended by learned counsel for the applicant that O.P.No. 2 had lodged an F.I.R. on 3.10.2016 as case crime No. 712 of 2016, under sections 328, 376, 504, 506 IPC. P.S. Kotwali Ghaziabad, District Ghaziabad wherein it has been wrongly stated by O.P. No. 2 that prior to this F.I.R. her father has also lodged an F.I.R. in District Varanasi. Thereafter the matter has been investigated and charge sheet has been submitted on 4.3.217 whereupon the cognizance has been taken on 3.4.2017 against the applicant. It is next argued by learned counsel for the applicant that in the present case POCSO Act has also been levelled against the applicant but in support of age proof of O.P. No. 2 no document has been filed whereas according to prosecution case the O.P.No. 2 has taken the admission after passing the XII Class.

4. Now, the question before this court is that Section 311 Cr..P.C. provides as, " 311. Power to summon material witness, or examine person present. Any Court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or. recall and re- examine any person already examined; and the Court shall summon and examine or recall and re- examine any such person if his evidence appears to it to be essential to the just decision of the case. Witnesses can be examined at any time, but he can not be permitted in order to fill up the lacuna in the prosecution case.

5. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the applicant has placed the reliance of Rajaram Prasad Yadav Vs. State of Bihar and another AIR 2013 SC 3081, which is reproduced as under:

"while dealing with an application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. read along with Section 138 of the Evidence Act, we feel the following principles will have to be borne in mind by the Courts:

a) Whether the Court is right in thinking that the new evidence is needed by it? Whether the evidence sought to be led in under Section 311 is noted by the Court for a just decision of a case?

b) The exercise of the widest discretionary power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. should ensure that the judgment should not be rendered on inchoate, inconclusive speculative presentation of facts, as thereby the ends of justice would be defeated.

c) If evidence of any witness appears to the Court to be essential to the just decision of the case, it is the power of the Court to summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person.

d) The exercise of power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. should be resorted to only with the object of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof for such facts, which will lead to a just and correct decision of the case.

e) The exercise of the said power cannot be dubbed as filling in a lacuna in a prosecution case, unless the facts and circumstances of the case make it apparent that the exercise of power by the Court would result in causing serious prejudice to the accused, resulting in miscarriage of justice."

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has also place the reliance of Md. Ghouseuddin Vs. Syed Riazul Hussain and another 2021 Supreme (SC) 858,paragraph No. 5 of the judgement is quoted below:

"Having heard learned counsel for the parties and going through the record, we are of the considered opinion that even if the question as to the jurisdiction of the High Court need not be over-emphasized, the fact remains that the Trial Court had given sound and tangible reasons for rejecting the application for summoning of the document(s)- moved at such a belated stage and without any justification for such relief. The High Court has completely glossed over this aspect in the impugned judgment. The right to summon document(s) indeed, is available but that has to be exercised when the trial is in progress and not when the trial is completed, including after the statement of accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C. had been recorded. The efficacy of the trial can not be whittled down by such belated application."

7. Learned A.G.A. for the State as well as learned counsel for O.P. No. 2 state that as the section 311 Cr.P.C. provides that it is the satisfaction of the Court that he can recall any evidence at any time. There is no illegally or irregularity in the impugned orders, therefore, the same may not be quashed.

8. Considering the facts, circumstances of the case, submissions made by learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. and learned counsel for O.P. No. 2. The impugned orders suffer from illegality as it is only to delay the trial. The High School and Intermediate certificates are the most relevant documents for examining and ascertaining the age of the girl. Under such circumstances, the impugned orders dated 4.9.2021 passed by Special Judge (POCSO Act)/ Additional Sessions Judge, Ghaziabad as well as order dated 12.11.2021 passed by learned Addl. Sessions Judge (Rape and POCSO Act), Court No. 2, Ghaziabad are hereby quashed.

9. Accordingly, this application is allowed.

A. (Para 1 to 8)

The application is allowed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Syed Aftab Husain Rizvi, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned AGA for the State and perused the material on record.

2. This criminal misc. application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. is filed to quash the impugned order dated 05.08.2021 passed by Principal Judge Family Court, Bijnor in case no.868 of 2019 (Sudha Devi vs. Lav Kumar) under Section 128 Cr.P.C. By the impugned order, the learned court below has allowed the application U/s 128 Cr.P.C. filed by opposite party no.2 for recovery of arrears of Rs.36,000/- from 06.01.2011 to 06.01.2013 and consequently issued recovery warrant.

3. The opposite party no.2 instituted a proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. for maintenance which was allowed on 19.01.2000 and Rs. 500/- per month maintenance allowance was granted in favour of the opposite party no.2. Later on she moved an application No.71 of 2005, under Section 127 Cr.P.C. for enhancement of maintenance and this application was allowed on 25.11.2009 and maintenance was enhanced from Rs. 500/- to Rs. 3000/- per month. Thereafter the opposite party no.2 moved an application no.14 of 2013 under Section 128 Cr.P.C. for recovery of arrears of maintenance from 06.01.2011 to 06.01.2013 i.e. 24 months @ Rs.3000/- per month total amounting to Rs. 72,000/- on 12.02.2013. Learned Magistrate after considering the entire evidence and material on record allowed this application in part for recovery of entire one year maintenance allowance of Rs.36,000/- and refused to recover the remaining 12 months arrears of Rs.36,000/- observing that it has become time barred. The opposite party no.2 again moved an application No.406 of 2014 U/s 128 Cr.P.C. for recovery of arrears of maintenance allowance from 06.01.2012 to 06.01.2013 i.e.12 months of Rs.36,000/- before the family court, Bijnor. This application was rejected by the Principal Judge, Family Court on the ground that earlier this point has been decided and no fresh order is required. Thereafter, the opposite party no.2 moved another application No.868 of 2019 on 25.10.2019 under Section 128 Cr.P.C. for recovery of balance amount of arrears of maintenance allowance from 06.01.2011 to 06.01.2013 of Rs. 36,000/- for 12 months. It is alleged in that application that earlier an application was moved for recovery of arrears from 06.01.2011 to 06.01.2013 for total amounting of Rs.72,000/- but the learned trial court has awarded only one years arrears maintenance amounting to Rs.36,000/-. Hence remaining arrears of maintenance for one year amounting to Rs. 36,000/- is still due from the applicant. The learned Principal Judge, Family Court by the impugned order has allowed the aforesaid application and has issued the recovery warrant for recovery of arrears of Rs.36,000/- against the applicant.

4. The contentions of learned counsel for the applicant are that the impugned order is apparently perverse, illegal, arbitrary and bad in the eye of law. The court concerned has earlier refused to recover the two years arrears of maintenance allowance observing that only one year arrears can be recovered and has refused to recover the arrears from 06.01.2011 to 06.01.2012. Recovery of Rs.36,000/- arrears from 06.01.2012 to 06.01.2013 has already been made. The opposite party no.2 moved another application for recovery of remaining amount of Rs. 36,000/- which was rejected on 11.12.2013. But the learned Principal Judge, Family Court on the subsequent application has reviewed the previous order and in illegal manner has allowed the application.

5. The learned AGA not disputed the aforesaid facts.

6. It is admitted fact that monthly maintenance of Rs.3000/- was granted in favour of opposite party no.2 on 25.11.2009. She moved an application for recovery of arrears from 06.01.2011 to 06.01.2013 for 24 months total amounting to Rs.72,000/- on 12.02.2013. This application was partly allowed for recovery of only one year arrears from 06.01.2012 to 06.01.2013 and it was also held that under provisions of law as the application has been moved on 12.02.2013 only one year of maintenance prior to the date of application can be recovered and the court issued recovery warrant for recovery of maintenance from 06.01.2012 to 06.01.2013 of Rs.36,000/- only. The second application moved by the opposite party no.2 was also rejected on the aforesaid ground. The opposite party no.2 thereafter moved a third application which has been allowed by the Principal Judge, Family Court.

Section 125 (3) Cr.P.C. provides as follows:

"If any person so ordered fails without sufficient cause to comply with the order, any such Magistrate may, for every breach of the order, issue a warrant for levying the amount due in the manner provided for levying fines, and may sentence such person, for the whole or any part of each month's (allowance for the maintenance or the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be), remaining unpaid after the execution of the warrant, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month or until payment if sooner made:

Provided that no warrant shall be issued for the recovery of any amount due under this section unless application be made to the court to levy such amount within a period of one year from the date on which it became due."

7. From the aforesaid provisions, it is clear that for recovery of arrears the application is maintainable only to the extent of one year prior to the filing of application. The maintenance holder cannot be permitted to accumulate the maintenance for a period more than 12 months and as such no application for execution of maintenance order can be entertained for a period exceeding 12 months immediately preceding the date of application.

8. Considering the aforesaid provision of law, the learned Magistrate vide his order dated 12.02.2015 has allowed the application in part only for recovery of arrears of maintenance for one year i.e. from 06.01.2012 to 06.01.2013 and Rs.36,000/- was recovered and the application was dismissed for recovery of arrears of maintenance from 06.01.2011 to 06.01.2012. The learned Principal Judge Family Court has failed to consider the legal provisions in this respect and has misinterpreted the previous orders and the law. The arrears of maintenance from 06.01.2011 to 06.01.2012 has become irrecoverable. So the impugned order suffers from manifest illegality, no recovery warrant could have been issued against the applicant for recovery of arrears of maintenance which has become time barred. The impugned order is not sustainable and is liable to be set aside.

9. Accordingly, the application is hereby allowed and the impugned order dated 05.08.2021 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court in case no.868 of 2019 (Sudha Devi vs. Law Kumar) under Section 128 Cr.P.C. is hereby quashed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Syed Aftab Husain Rizvi, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and learned AGA for the State and perused the material on record.

2. This application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. is filed to quash/ set aside the order dated 25.11.2021 passed in connection with default bail application filed under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. in case crime no. 327 of 2019 under Section 302, 397/34 IPC, P.S. Mauaima, District Prayagraj by the court of CJM Allahabad. It is further prayed that applicant be released on bail in the aforesaid case crime.

3. On 19.07.2019 at 13:40 hrs, an FIR was lodged by informant Naveen Kumar Jaiswal against three unknown motorcycle riders registered as case crime no.327 of 2019 under Section 397 and 302 IPC at P.S. Mauaima, Prayagraj with respect to the incident dated 19.07.2019 at 9:40 am with regard to loot and murder of Anil Dohre, Branch Manager, Allahabad Bank. During the course of investigation, the name of the applicant came into the light. He moved an application for surrender and on the basis of police report, the applicant surrendered on 26.08.2021 and taken into judicial custody and sent to jail.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that even after completion of 90 days on 24.11.2021 from the first date of judicial remand, the Investigating Officer has not filed a police report under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. against the applicant. On 25.11.2021 at 10:00 am the applicant has applied for default bail under Section 167 (2) Cr.P.C. The Chief Judicial Magistrate passed an order and called a report from the Additional Public Prosecutor vide order dated 25.11.2021. In compliance of the aforesaid order, the Additional Public prosecutor submitted its report, thereafter he submitted another report before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad. In the intervening time of two reports of the Additional Public Prosecutor, the Investigating Officer has enough time to submit a charge-sheet in the case against the applicant. The Chief Judicial Magistrate after receiving the copy of police report/ charge-sheet registered it as case no.13041 of 2021 and taken cognizance but the reference of the offence is not mentioned therein. So this cognizance order is illegal. The Chief Judicial Magistrate has authorized the detention of the applicant against the procedure established by law in violation of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. On 25.11.2021, the Chief Judicial Magistrate after receiving the second report, submitted by Additional Public Prosecutor, heard and rejected the default bail application of the applicant-accused. Learned counsel further contended that till the filing of the default bail application and inasmuch as also the first report submitted by Additional Public Prosecutor, the Investigating Officer has not submitted the charge-sheet, whereas according to Section 167 (2) Cr.P.C. the prescribed time limit i.e. 90 days has already expired on 24.11.2021. The second report dated 25.11.2021 submitted by Additional Public Prosecutor reveals that the Investigating Officer was called to submit charge-sheet. The Chief Judicial Magistrate has awaited for second report submitted by Additional Public Prosecutor and after receiving thereof, heard and rejected the default bail application, whereas the Chief Judicial Magistrate ought to heard and decide the default bail application on the basis of first report dated 25.11.2021 submitted by Additional Public Prosecutor. The Chief Judicial Magistrate only in order to anyhow extinguish statutory/ fundamental right of the applicant for default bail has awaited for a second report, whereas the applicant has already availed the remedy and make out a case of default bail prior to the submission of the charge-sheet. Thus, the right of default bail of the applicant cannot be extinguished but even though the Chief Judicial Magistrate has denied the applicant, his statutory as well as fundamental right as provided in Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. and article 21 of the Constitution of India respectively. The impugned order dated 25.11.2021 is against the procedure established by law and is sans of merit and not sustainable in the eye of law. Applicant undertakes that if he is released on bail, he will neither abscond nor tamper the prosecution case and not misuse the liberty of bail and will abide by the terms and conditions if so imposed by the Court. It is also submitted that reliance placed upon the judgment in Pragyna Singh Thakur vs. State of Maharashtra (2011) 10SCC 445 and Constitution Bench Judgment in Sanjay Dutt's case by learned Magistrate for rejecting the application for default bail is misconceived. The Pragyna Singh Thakur case has been observed as per incuriam by subsequent judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bikramjit Singh vs. State of Punjab 2020 (10) SCC 616. Learned counsel placed reliance on the following citations:

I) Bikramjit Singh vs. State of Punjab, 2020 (10) SCC 616

ii) M. Ravindran vs. The Intelligence Officer, Directorate of Revenue intellegence, 2021 (2) SCC 485

iii) Criminal Misc. Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. No.10247 of 2021 (Rajendra Singh Yadav alias Raju Jahreela vs. State of U.P.) decided on 15.11.2021

iv) Chhotu vs. State of U.P., 2020 (5) ADJ 572.

v) Harendra vs. State of U.P. 2020 (5) LLJ 170

vi) Gayasuddin alias Gayasuddin Mian vs. State of Jharkhand, 2005 (Cr.LJ 4230).

Learned counsel further submitted that an indefeasible right has accrued to the applicant. Charge-sheet has been filed after moving of the bail application. Hence impugned order is perverse and against the law.

5. Learned AGA opposing the application submitted that impugned order is perfectly just and legal. Learned Magistrate ha not committed any illegality in rejecting the default bail application. The reasoning recorded by the learned Magistrate cannot be said to be illegal, perverse or erroneous which is based on a judgment in Pragyna Singh Thakur's case (Supra) and Constitution Bench Judgment of Sanjay Dutt's case. No jurisdictional error has been committed by the learned Magistrate in exercising his jurisdiction.

6. The provision of Section 167 (2) Cr.P.C. provides as follows:

"Section 167(2) in The Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973

(2) The Magistrate to whom an accused person is forwarded under this section may, whether he has or has not jurisdiction to try the case, from time to time, authorise the detention of the accused in such custody as such Magistrate thinks fit, for a term not exceeding fifteen days in the whole; and if he has no jurisdiction to try the case or commit it for trial, and considers further detention unnecessary, he may order the accused to be forwarded to a Magistrate having such jurisdiction: Provided that-

(a) 1 the Magistrate may authorise the detention of the accused person, otherwise than in the custody of the police, beyond the period of fifteen days; if he is satisfied that adequate grounds exist for doing so, but no Magistrate shall authorise the detention of the accused person in custody under this paragraph for a total period exceeding,-

(i) ninety days, where the investigation relates to an offence punishable with death, imprisonment for life or imprisonment for a term of not less than ten years;

(ii) sixty days, where the investigation relates to any other offence, and, on the expiry of the said period of ninety days, or sixty days, as the case may be, the accused person shall be released on bail if he is prepared to and does furnish bail, and every person released on bail under this sub- section shall be deemed to be so released under the provisions of Chapter XXXIII for the purposes of that Chapter;]

(b) no Magistrate shall authorise detention in any custody under this section unless the accused is produced before him;

(c)no Magistrate of the second class, not specially empowered in this behalf by the High Court, shall authorise detention in the custody of the police. 1 Explanation I.- For the avoidance of doubts, it is hereby declared that, notwithstanding the expiry of the period specified in paragraph (a), the accused shall be detained in custody so long as he does not furnish bail;]. 2 Explanation II.- If any question arises whether an accused person was produced before the Magistrate as required under paragraph (b), the production of the accused person may be proved by his signature on the order authorising detention.]"

7. It is undisputed that accused has surrendered on 26.08.2020 and was remanded to judicial custody on the same date while charge-sheet has been filed on 25.11.2021. A three Judge Bench in M. Ravindran (Supra) has observed that while computing the period of 90 days under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. the date on which the accused was remanded to judicial custody has to be excluded and the date on which charge-sheet is filed has to be included. According to this period of 90 days will expire on 24.11.2021. The charge-sheet has been submitted on 25.11.2021. It is also established from the record that on 25.11.02021 before filing of charge-sheet, the accused-applicant has moved the bail application on which report was called by the learned Magistrate from the Public Prosecutor. He submitted his report. Thereafter a second report was submitted and meanwhile, charge-sheet was filed. So it is established that accused-applicant has availed his right of bail before filing of charge-sheet. It does not matter whether any order has been passed on the aforesaid application or not.

8. A three Judges Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bikramjit Singh Vs. State of Punjab, 2020 (10) SCC 616 after considering almost the entire gamut of case law on the point including Sanjay Dutt (supra) has observed as follows in paragraphs- 27 to 31 and 36.

"27. The second vexed question which arises on the facts of this case is the question of grant of default bail. It has already been seen that once the maximum period for investigation of an offence is over, under the first proviso (a) to Section 167(2), the accused shall be released on bail, this being an indefeasible right granted by the Code. The extent of this indefeasible right has been the subject matter of a number of judgements. A beginning may be made with the judgment in Hitendra Vishnu Thakur v. State of Maharashtra (1994) 4 SCC 602, which spoke of "default bail" under the provisions of the Terrorist and Disruptive Activities (Prevention) Act, 1987 (hereinafter referred to as "TADA") read with Section 167 of the Code as follows:

"19. Section 20(4) of TADA makes Section 167 of Cr.P.C. applicable in relation to case involving an offence punishable under TADA, subject to the modifications specified therein...while clause (b) provided that reference in sub-section (2) of Section 167 to "15 days', "90 days' and "60 days' wherever they occur shall be construed as reference to "60 days', "one year' and "one year' respectively. This section was amended in 1993 by the Amendment Act 43 of 1993 with effect from 22-5-1993 and the period of "one year' and "one year' in clause (b) was reduced to "180 days' and "180 days' respectively, by modification of sub-section (2) of Section 167. After clause (b) of sub-section (4) of Section 20 of TADA, another clause (bb) was inserted which reads:

"20. (4)(bb) in sub-section (2), after the proviso, the following proviso shall be inserted, namely:--

"Provided further that, if it is not possible to complete the investigation within the said period of one hundred and eighty days, the Designated Court shall extend the said period up to one year, on the report of the Public Prosecutor indicating the progress of the investigation and the specific reasons for the detention of the accused beyond the said period of one hundred and eighty days; and'"

20. ... Sub-section (2) Section 167 of the Code lays down that the Magistrate to whom the accused is forwarded may authorise his detention in such custody, as he may think fit, for a term specified in that section. The proviso to sub- section (2) fixes the outer limit within which the investigation must be completed and in case the same is not completed within the said prescribed period, the accused would acquire a right to seek to be released on bail and if he is prepared to and does furnish bail, the Magistrate shall release him on bail and such release shall be deemed to be grant of bail under Chapter XXXIII of the Code of Criminal Procedure...Section 167 read with Section 20(4) of TADA, thus, strictly speaking is not a provision for "grant of bail" but deals with the maximum period during which a person accused of an offence may be kept in custody and detention to enable the investigating agency to complete the investigation and file the charge-sheet , if necessary, in the court. The proviso to Section 167(2) of the Code read with Section 20(4)(b) of TADA, therefore, creates an indefeasible right in an accused person on account of the "default' by the investigating agency in the completion of the investigation within the maximum period prescribed or extended, as the case may be, to seek an order for his release on bail. It is for this reason that an order for release on bail under proviso (a) of Section 167(2) of the Code read with Section 20(4) of TADA is generally termed as an "order-on-default" as it is granted on account of the default of the prosecution to complete the investigation and file the challan within the prescribed period. As a consequence of the amendment, an accused after the expiry of 180 days from the date of his arrest becomes entitled to bail irrespective of the nature of the offence with which he is charged where the prosecution fails to put up challan against him on completion of the investigation. With the amendment of clause (b) of sub- section (4) of Section 20 read with the proviso to sub- section (2) of Section 167 of CrPC an indefeasible right to be enlarged on bail accrues in favour of the accused if the police fails to complete the investigation and put up a challan against him in accordance with law under Section 173 Cr.PC. An obligation, in such a case, is cast upon the court, when after the expiry of the maximum period during which an accused could be kept in custody, to decline the police request for further remand except in cases governed by clause (bb) of Section 20(4). There is yet another obligation also which is cast on the court and that is to inform the accused of his right of being released on bail and enable him to make an application in that behalf. (Hussainara Khatoon case. This legal position has been very ably stated in Aslam Babalal Desai v. State of Maharashtra where speaking for the majority, Ahmadi, J. referred with approval to the law laid down in Rajnikant Jivanlal Patel v. Intelligence Officer, Narcotic Control Bureau, New Delhi wherein it was held that :

'9. ... "13. ... The right to bail under Section 167(2) proviso (a) thereto is absolute. It is a legislative command and not court's discretion. If the investigating agency fails to file charge-sheet before the expiry of 90/60 days, as the case may be, the accused in custody should be released on bail. But at that stage, merits of the case are not to be examined. Not at all. In fact, the Magistrate has no power to remand a person beyond the stipulated period of 90/60 days. He must pass an order of bail and communicate the same to the accused to furnish the requisite bail bonds."

21. Thus, we find that once the period for filing the charge- sheet has expired and either no extension under clause (bb) has been granted by the Designated Court or the period of extension has also expired, the accused person would be entitled to move an application for being admitted to bail under sub-section (4) of Section 20 TADA read with Section 167 of the Code and the Designated Court shall release him on bail, if the accused seeks to be so released and furnishes the requisite bail. We are not impressed with the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant that on the expiry of the period during which investigation is required to be completed under Section 20(4) TADA read with Section 167 of the Code, the court must release the accused on bail on its own motion even without any application from an accused person on his offering to furnish bail. In our opinion an accused is required to make an application if he wishes to be released on bail on account of the "default' of the investigating/prosecuting agency and once such an application is made, the court should issue a notice to the public prosecutor who may either show that the prosecution has obtained the order for extension for completion of investigation from the court under clause (bb) or that the challan has been filed in the Designated Court before the expiry of the prescribed period or even that the prescribed period has actually not expired and thus resist the grant of bail on the alleged ground of "default'. The issuance of notice would avoid the possibility of an accused obtaining an order of bail under the "default' clause by either deliberately or inadvertently concealing certain facts and would avoid multiplicity of proceedings. It would, therefore, serve the ends of justice if both sides are heard on a petition for grant of bail on account of the prosecution's "default'... No other condition like the gravity of the case, seriousness of the offence or character of the offender etc. can weigh with the court at that stage to refuse the grant of bail to an accused under sub-section (4) of Section 20 TADA on account of the "default' of the prosecution."

28. In the Constitution Bench judgement in Sanjay Dutt v. State through CBI (1994) 5 SCC 410, one of the questions to be decided by the Constitution Bench was the correct interpretation of Section 20(4)(bb) of TADA indicating the nature of right of an accused to be released on default bail. The enigmatic expression "if already not availed of" is contained in paragraphs 48 of the aforesaid judgment as follows:

"48. We have no doubt that the common stance before us of the nature of indefeasible right of the accused to be released on bail by virtue of Section 20(4)(bb) is based on a correct reading of the principle indicated in that decision. The indefeasible right accruing to the accused in such a situation is enforceable only prior to the filing of the challan and it does not survive or remain enforceable on the challan being filed, if already not availed of. Once the challan has been filed, the question of grant of bail has to be considered and decided only with reference to the merits of the case under the provisions relating to grant of bail to an accused after the filing of the challan. The custody of the accused after the challan has been filed is not governed by Section 167 but different provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure. If that right had accrued to the accused but it remained unenforced till the filing of the challan, then there is no question of its enforcement thereafter since it is extinguished the moment challan is filed because Section 167CrPC ceases to apply. The Division Bench also indicated that if there be such an application of the accused for release on bail and also a prayer for extension of time to complete the investigation according to the proviso in Section 20(4)(bb), both of them should be considered together. It is obvious that no bail can be given even in such a case unless the prayer for extension of the period is rejected. In short, the grant of bail in such a situation is also subject to refusal of the prayer for extension of time, if such a prayer is made. If the accused applies for bail under this provision on expiry of the period of 180 days or the extended period, as the case may be, then he has to be released on bail forthwith. The accused, so released on bail may be arrested and committed to custody according to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure. It is settled by Constitution Bench decisions that a petition seeking the writ of habeas corpus on the ground of absence of a valid order of remand or detention of the accused, has to be dismissed, if on the date of return of the rule, the custody or detention is on the basis of a valid order.

53. As a result of the above discussion, our answers to the three questions of law referred for our decision are as under:

(2)(b) The "indefeasible right" of the accused to be released on bail in accordance with Section 20(4)(bb) of the TADA Act read with Section 167(2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure in default of completion of the investigation and filing of the challan within the time allowed, as held in Hitendra Vishnu Thakur is a right which enures to, and is enforceable by the accused only from the time of default till the filing of the challan and it does not survive or remain enforceable on the challan being filed. If the accused applies for bail under this provision on expiry of the period of 180 days or the extended period, as the case may be, then he has to be released on bail forthwith. The accused, so released on bail may be arrested and committed to custody according to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The right of the accused to be released on bail after filing of the challan, notwithstanding the default in filing it within the time allowed, is governed from the time of filing of the challan only by the provisions relating to the grant of bail applicable at that stage."

29. The question as to whether default bail can be granted once a charge sheet is filed was authoritatively dealt with in a decision of a three-Judge Bench of this Court in Uday Mohanlal Acharya v. State of Maharashtra (2001) 5 SCC 453. The majority judgment of G.B. Pattanaik, J. reviewed the decisions of this Court and in particular the enigmatic expression "if already not availed of" in Sanjay Dutt. The Court then held :

"13....The crucial question that arises for consideration, therefore, is what is the true meaning of the expression "if already not availed of"? Does it mean that an accused files an application for bail and offers his willingness for being released on bail or does it mean that a bail order must be passed, the accused must furnish the bail and get him released on bail? In our considered opinion it would be more in consonance with the legislative mandate to hold that an accused must be held to have availed of his indefeasible right, the moment he files an application for being released on bail and offers to abide by the terms and conditions of bail. To interpret the expression "availed of" to mean actually being released on bail after furnishing the necessary bail required would cause great injustice to the accused and would defeat the very purpose of the proviso to Section 167(2) of the Criminal Procedure Code and further would make an illegal custody to be legal, inasmuch as after the expiry of the stipulated period the Magistrate had no further jurisdiction to remand and such custody of the accused is without any valid order of remand. That apart, when an accused files an application for bail indicating his right to be released as no challan had been filed within the specified period, there is no discretion left in the Magistrate and the only thing he is required to find out is whether the specified period under the statute has elapsed or not, and whether a challan has been filed or not. If the expression "availed of" is interpreted to mean that the accused must factually be released on bail, then in a given case where the Magistrate illegally refuses to pass an order notwithstanding the maximum period stipulated in Section 167 had expired, and yet no challan had been filed then the accused could only move to the higher forum and while the matter remains pending in the higher forum for consideration, if the prosecution files a charge-sheet then also the so-called right accruing to the accused because of inaction on the part of the investigating agency would get frustrated. Since the legislature has given its mandate it would be the bounden duty of the court to enforce the same and it would not be in the interest of justice to negate the same by interpreting the expression "if not availed of" in a manner which is capable of being abused by the prosecution. A two-Judge Bench decision of this Court in State of M.P. v. Rustam setting aside the order of grant of bail by the High Court on a conclusion that on the date of the order the prosecution had already submitted a police report and, therefore, the right stood extinguished, in our considered opinion, does not express the correct position in law of the expression "if already not availed of", used by the Constitution Bench in Sanjay Dutt. In the aforesaid premises, we are of the considered opinion that an accused must be held to have availed of his right flowing from the legislative mandate engrafted in the proviso to sub-section (2) of Section 167 of the Code if he has filed an application after the expiry of the stipulated period alleging that no challan has been filed and he is prepared to offer the bail that is ordered, and it is found as a fact that no challan has been filed within the period prescribed from the date of the arrest of the accused. In our view, such interpretation would subserve the purpose and the object for which the provision in question was brought on to the statute-book. In such a case, therefore, even if the application for consideration of an order of being released on bail is posted before the court after some length of time, or even if the Magistrate refuses the application erroneously and the accused moves the higher forum for getting a formal order of being released on bail in enforcement of his indefeasible right, then filing of challan at that stage will not take away the right of the accused. Personal liberty is one of the cherished objects of the Indian Constitution and deprivation of the same can only be in accordance with law and in conformity with the provisions thereof, as stipulated under Article 21 of the Constitution. When the law provides that the Magistrate could authorise the detention of the accused in custody up to a maximum period as indicated in the proviso to sub-section (2) of Section 167, any further detention beyond the period without filing of a challan by the investigating agency would be a subterfuge and would not be in accordance with law and in conformity with the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code, and as such, could be violative of Article 21 of the Constitution. There is no provision in the Criminal Procedure Code authorising detention of an accused in custody after the expiry of the period indicated in proviso to sub-section (2) of Section 167 excepting the contingency indicated in Explanation I, namely, if the accused does not furnish the bail...But so long as the accused files an application and indicates in the application to offer bail on being released by appropriate orders of the court then the right of the accused on being released on bail cannot be frustrated on the off chance of the Magistrate not being available and the matter not being moved, or that the Magistrate erroneously refuses to pass an order and the matter is moved to the higher forum and a challan is filed in interregnum. This is the only way how a balance can be struck between the so-called indefeasible right of the accused on failure on the part of the prosecution to file a challan within the specified period and the interest of the society, at large, in lawfully preventing an accused from being released on bail on account of inaction on the part of the prosecuting agency. On the aforesaid premises, we would record our conclusions as follows:

3. On the expiry of the said period of 90 days or 60 days, as the case may be, an indefeasible right accrues in favour of the accused for being released on bail on account of default by the investigating agency in the completion of the investigation within the period prescribed and the accused is entitled to be released on bail, if he is prepared to and furnishes the bail as directed by the Magistrate.

6. The expression "if not already availed of" used by this Court in Sanjay Dutt case [(1994) 5 SCC 410 : 1994 SCC (Cri) 1433] must be understood to mean when the accused files an application and is prepared to offer bail on being directed. In other words, on expiry of the period specified in para (a) of the proviso to sub-section (2) of Section 167 if the accused files an application for bail and offers also to furnish the bail on being directed, then it has to be held that the accused has availed of his indefeasible right even though the court has not considered the said application and has not indicated the terms and conditions of bail, and the accused has not furnished the same."

30. B.N. Agrawala, J. dissented, holding:

"29. My learned brother has referred to the expression "if not already availed of" referred to in the judgment in Sanjay Dutt case [(1994) 5 SCC 410 : 1994 SCC (Cri) 1433] for arriving at Conclusion 6. According to me, the expression "availed of" does not mean mere filing of application for bail expressing therein willingness of the accused to furnish the bail bond. What will happen if on the 61st day an application for bail is filed for being released on bail on the ground of default by not filing the challan by the 60th day and on the 61st day the challan is also filed by the time the Magistrate is called upon to apply his mind to the challan as well as the petition for grant of bail? In view of the several decisions referred to above and the requirements prescribed by clause (a)(ii) of the proviso read with Explanation I to Section 167(2) of the Code, as no bail bond has been furnished, such an application for bail has to be dismissed because the stage of proviso to Section 167(2) is over, as such right is extinguished the moment the challan is filed.

30. In this background, the expression "availed of" does not mean mere filing of the application for bail expressing thereunder willingness to furnish bail bond, but the stage for actual furnishing of bail bond must reach. If the challan is filed before that, then there is no question of enforcing the right, howsoever valuable or indefeasible it may be, after filing of the challan because thereafter the right under default clause cannot be exercised."

31. The law laid down by the majority judgment in this case was however not followed in Pragya Singh Thakur v. State of Maharashtra. This hiccup in the law was then cleared by the judgment in Union of India v. Nirala Yadav, which exhaustively discussed the entire case law on the subject. In this judgment, a Two-Judge Bench of this Court referred to all the relevant authorities on the subject including the majority judgment of Uday Mohanlal Acharya (supra) and then concluded:

"44. At this juncture, it is absolutely essential to delve into what were the precise principles stated in Uday Mohanlal Acharya case and how the two-Judge Bench has understood the same in Pragyna Singh Thakur. We have already reproduced the paragraphs in extenso from Uday Mohanlal Acharya case and the relevant paragraphs from Pragyna Singh Thakur. Pragyna Singh Thakur has drawn support from Rustam case to buttress the principle it has laid down though in Uday Mohanlal Acharya case the said decision has been held not to have stated the correct position of law and, therefore, the same could not have been placed reliance upon. The Division Bench in para 56 which has been reproduced hereinabove, has referred to para 13 and the conclusions of Uday Mohanlal Acharya case. We have already quoted from para 13 and the conclusions.

45. The opinion expressed in paras 54 and 58 in Pragyna Singh Thakur which we have emphasised, as it seems to us, runs counter to the principles stated in Uday Mohanlal Acharya which has been followed in Hassan Ali Khan and Sayed Mohd. Ahmad Kazmi. The decision in Sayed Mohd. Ahmad Kazmi case has been rendered by a three-Judge Bench. We may hasten to state, though in Pragyna Singh Thakur case the learned Judges have referred to Uday Mohanlal Acharya case but have stated the principle that even if an application for bail is filed on the ground that the charge- sheet was not filed within 90 days, but before the consideration of the same and before being released on bail, if the charge-sheet is filed the said right to be enlarged on bail is lost. This opinion is contrary to the earlier larger Bench decisions and also runs counter to the subsequent three-Judge Bench decision in Mustaq Ahmed Mohammed Isak case. We are disposed to think so, as the two-Judge Bench has used the words "before consideration of the same and before being released on bail", the said principle specifically strikes a discordant note with the proposition stated in the decisions rendered by the larger Benches.

46. At this juncture, it will be appropriate to refer to the dissenting opinion by B.N. Agarwal, J. in Uday Mohanlal Acharya case. The learned Judge dissented with the majority as far as interpretation of the expression "if not already availed of" by stating so:

"29. My learned Brother has referred to the expression "if not already availed of' referred to in the judgment in Sanjay Dutt case for arriving at Conclusion 6. According to me, the expression "availed of' does not mean mere filing of application for bail expressing therein willingness of the accused to furnish the bail bond. What will happen if on the 61st day an application for bail is filed for being released on bail on the ground of default by not filing the challan by the 60th day and on the 61st day the challan is also filed by the time the Magistrate is called upon to apply his mind to the challan as well as the petition for grant of bail? In view of the several decisions referred to above and the requirements prescribed by clause (a)(ii) of the proviso read with Explanation I to Section 167(2) of the Code, as no bail bond has been furnished, such an application for bail has to be dismissed because the stage of proviso to Section 167(2) is over, as such right is extinguished the moment the challan is filed.

30. In this background, the expression "availed of' does not mean mere filing of the application for bail expressing thereunder willingness to furnish bail bond, but the stage for actual furnishing of bail bond must reach. If the challan is filed before that, then there is no question of enforcing the right, howsoever valuable or indefeasible it may be, after filing of the challan because thereafter the right under default clause cannot be exercised."

On a careful reading of the aforesaid two paragraphs, we think, the two-Judge Bench in Pragyna Singh Thakur case has somewhat in a similar matter stated the same. As long as the majority view occupies the field it is a binding precedent. That apart, it has been followed by a three- Judge Bench in Sayed Mohd. Ahmad Kazmi case. Keeping in view the principle stated in Sayed Mohd. Ahmad Kazmi case which is based on three-Judge Bench decision in Uday Mohanlal Acharya case, we are obliged to conclude and hold that the principle laid down in paras 54 and 58 of Pragyna Singh Thakur case (which has been emphasised by us: see paras 42 and 43 above) does not state the correct principle of law. It can clearly be stated that in view of the subsequent decision of a larger Bench that cannot be treated to be good law. Our view finds support from the decision in Union of India v. Arviva Industries India Ltd.

36. A conspectus of the aforesaid decisions would show that so long as an application for grant of default bail is made on expiry of the period of 90 days (which application need not even be in writing) before a charge sheet is filed, the right to default bail becomes complete. It is of no moment that the Criminal Court in question either does not dispose of such application before the charge sheet is filed or disposes of such application wrongly before such charge sheet is filed. So long as an application has been made for default bail on expiry of the stated period before time is further extended to the maximum period of 180 days, default bail, being an indefeasible right of the accused under the first proviso to Section 167(2), kicks in and must be granted.

9. The judgment rendered in the case of Bikramjit Singh (Supra) had been followed in the subsequent three Judges Bench Judgment in the case of M Ravindran (Supra). The observations made in para 25.1 & 25.2 may be referred which is as follows:

"25.1 Once the accused files an application for bail under the Proviso to Section 167(2) he is deemed to have "availed of' or enforced his right to be released on default bail, accruing after expiry of the stipulated time limit for investigation. Thus, if the accused applies for bail under Section 167(2), CrPCread with Section 36A(4), NDPS Act upon expiry of 180 days or the extended period, as the case may be, the Court must release him on bail forthwith without any unnecessary delay after getting necessary information from the public prosecutor, as mentioned supra. Such prompt action will restrict the prosecution from frustrating the legislative mandate to release the accused on bail in case of default by the investigative agency.

25.2 The right to be released on default bail continues to remain enforceable if the accused has applied for such bail, notwithstanding pendency of the bail application; or subsequent filing of the charge-sheet or a report seeking extension of time by the prosecution before the Court; or filing of the charge-sheet during the interregnum when challenge to the rejection of the bail application is pending before a higher Court. "

10. From the above discussion, it is clear that charge-sheet has been submitted after statutory period of 90 days and before filing of charge-sheet, the accused has moved application for bail. Subsequent filing of charge-sheet will not defeat the indefeasible right accrued to the applicant-accused. Learned Magistrate has failed to appreciate the facts and law on the point and order passed by learned Magistrate is against the law.

11. In view of above, present application succeeds and is hereby allowed. Accordingly, impugned order dated 25.11.2021 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Prayagraj is hereby quashed. Application for default bail filed by applicant shall stand allowed. Accordingly, applicant shall be released on bail on his furnishing a personal bond and two sureties of like amount to the satisfaction of court concerned. However, in the interest of justice following conditions are also imposed.

(i) The applicant shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the date fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present in court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the trial court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law.

(ii) The applicant shall remain present before the trial court on each date fixed, either personally or through his counsel. In case of his absence, without sufficient cause, the trial court may proceed against him under section 229-A I.P.C.

(iii) In case, the applicant misuses the liberty of bail during trial and in order to secure his presence proclamation under section 82 Cr.P.C., may be issued and if applicant fails to appear before the court on the date fixed in such proclamation, then, the trial court shall initiate proceedings against him, in accordance with law, under section 174-A I.P.C.

(iv) The applicant shall remain present, in person, before the trial court on dates fixed for (1) opening of the case, (2) framing of charge and (3) recording of statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the trial court absence of the applicant is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the trial court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of bail and proceed against him in accordance with law.

6. Dataram Singh Vs St. of U.P. & anr. (2018) 3 SCC 22

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. This case is taken up in the revised call.

2. Heard Ms. Divya Tripathi, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Anirudha Singh, learned A.G.A.-I for the State and perused the record.

3. The applicant, Kuldeep, has moved this second bail application seeking bail in Case Crime No.189 of 2016, under Sections 498-A, 304-B, 302 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Achalganj, District Unnao.

4. The first bail application was rejected by Hon'ble Mr. Justice Karunesh Singh Pawar vide order dated 16.04.2019 passed in Criminal Misc. Case No. 3503 (B) of 2017. This second bail application has been placed before this regular Bench in the light of Hon'ble The Chief Justice's order dated 20.10.2021 as the instant bail application has been released by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.

5. While rejecting the first bail application on 16.04.2019, a co-ordinate Bench of this Court was pleased to observe as under:

"Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

The contention of the learned counsel for the applicant is that the applicant is falsely implicated in the present case. There was no demand of dowry made by the applicant from his wife. It is contended that there is no evidence to prove the said allegations made in the FIR regarding the demand of dowry and the cruelty that has been alleged in the FIR thus, the FIR is false. The postmortem report as well as the statement of witnesses does not supported the case of prosecution. The deceased has committed suicided as she was depressed and the applicant and his family members have no role in the alleged incident. There is no previous criminal history of the applicant. The applicant is in jail since August, 2016 and the applicant will not misuse the liberty if he is enlarged on bail. It is lastly contended that the co-accused mother and father of the applicant have been granted bail by this Court which is annexed as Annexure-5 to this bail application.

Learned counsel for the complainant and learned A.G.A. opposed the prayer for bail and has submitted that parity with the bail order of mother and father cannot be claimed by the present accused-applicant and their bail were granted on different ground which are not available to the present accused-applicant (husband). It is contended that there are antemortem injuries one bite mark and another is abraded contusion apart from ligature mark which has not been explained. It is a heinous offence, both the wife of the applicant and the daughter were died. In this case under Section 304B IPC, the burden of proof is on the accused-applicant. The applicant-accused has miserably failed to give any explanation of murder of both the deceased wife and minor daughter. The statement of Neetu Gupta, the complainant corroborates the prosecution story. The mother of the deceased has also corroborates the prosecution story.

The learned counsel for the applicant submitted that deceased family members i.e., Ritu (sister), Amit (brother), Ram Sevak (uncle) and Raja Ram (another uncle) had also committed sucide and Ram Swaroop (father) has also died due to heavy consumption of alcohol. Therefore, the deceased was having a family history of suicide.

In reply to this, the learned AGA has submitted that it has no co-relation with the present case and moreover the two persons have lost their life in this case i.e., one is deceased Rajani and another is her minor daughter Yashi.

Without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case and considering the submissions advanced, I find that no good ground is made out for enlarging the applicant on bail.

The bail application of the applicant Kuldeep involved in Case Crime

No. 189 of 2016, under Section 498A, 304B, 302 IPC and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Achalganj, District Unnao is, accordingly, rejected. "

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that three years period have been passed from the order dated 16.04.2019 but the trial has not been concluded.

7. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that she is conscious about the fact that this is the second bail application, therefore, she cannot raise those grounds which could have been taken in the first bail application but she is pressing the present application only on the ground that the applicant is in jail for about 6 years yet the trial has not been concluded.

8. Apart from above submissions, the learned counsel for the applicant also submits that applicant is in jail since 12.08.2016 and has already undergone a substantial period of about six years in jail and till date trial has not yet been concluded.

9. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that in compliance of order dated 30.05.2022 passed by this Court, she has filed the supplementary affidavit dated 02.06.2022 which is on record and in para 5 of the supplementary affidavit filed in support of the bail application it has been mentioned that out of 18 prosecution witnesses only 02 prosecution witnesses have been examined and charge sheet has been filed on 01.10.2016 and further submits that it will take much time for conclusion of trial. Therefore, in the light of the dictum of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Union of India vs. K.A. Najeeb reported in AIR 2021 Supreme Court 712 and Paras Ram Vishnoi vs. The Director, Central Bureau of Investigation passed in Criminal Appeal No.693 of 2021 (Arising out of SLP (Crl) No.3610 of 2020), wherein it has been held that if the accused person is in jail for substantially long period and there is no possibility to conclude the trial in near future, the bail application may be considered. Besides, learned counsel for the applicant has referred the dictum of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Gokarakonda Naga Saibaba v. State of Maharashtra, (2018) 12 SCC 505, wherein it has been held that if all fact / material witnesses have been examined, the bail application of the accused may be considered and they were entitled for bail. Para-16 of the case K.A.Najeeb (supra) is being reproduced here-in-below:-

"This Court has clarified in numerous judgments that the liberty guaranteed by Part III of the Constitution would cover within its protective ambit not only due procedure and fairness but also access to justice and a speedy trial. In Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee Representing Undertrial Prisoners v. Union of India, it was held that undertrials cannot indefinitely be detained pending trial. Ideally, no person ought to suffer adverse consequences of his acts unless the same is established before a neutral arbiter. However, owing to the practicalities of real life where to secure an effective trial and to ameliorate the risk to society in case a potential criminal is left at large pending trial, Courts are tasked with deciding whether an individual ought to be released pending trial or not. Once it is obvious that a timely trial would not be possible and the accused has suffered incarceration for a significant period of time, Courts would ordinarily be obligated to enlarge them on bail."

10. The Apex Court in the case of Paras Ram Vishnoi (supra) has observed as under:-

"On consideration of the matter, we are of the view that pending the trial we cannot keep a person in custody for an indefinite period of time and taking into consideration the period of custody and that the other accused are yet to lead defence evidence while the appellant has already stated he does not propose to lead any evidence, we are inclined to grant bail to the appellant on terms and conditions to the satisfaction of the trial court."

11. In support of her contention, learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance of Hon'ble Apex Court judgment in the case of Kamal Vs. State of Haryana, 2004 (13) SCC 526 and submitted that the Hon'ble Apex Court was pleased to observe in paragraph no. 2 of the judgment as under :-

"2. This is a case in which the appellant has been convicted u/s 304-B of the India Penal Code and sentenced to imprisonment for 7 years. It appears that so far the appellant has undergone imprisonment for about 2 years and four months. The High Court declined to grant bail pending disposal of the appeal before it. We are of the view that the bail should have been granted by the High Court, especially having regard to the fact that the appellant has already served a substantial period of the sentence. In the circumstances, we direct that the bail be granted to the appellant on conditions as may be imposed by the District and Sessions Judge, Faridabad."

12. Learned counsel for the applicant has also placed reliance of Hon'ble Apex Court judgment in the case of Takht Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2001 (10) SCC 463, and submitted that the Hon'ble Apex Court was pleased to observe in paragraph no. 2 of the judgment as under:-

"2. The appellants have been convicted under Section 302/149, Indian Penal Code by the learned Sessions Judge and have been sentenced to imprisonment for life. Against the said conviction and sentence their appeal to the High Court is pending. Before the High Court application for suspension of sentence and bail was filed but the High Court rejected that prayer indicating therein that the applicants can renew their prayer for bail after one year. After the expiry of one year the second application was filed but the same has been rejected by the impugned order. It is submitted that the appellants are already in jail for over 3 years and 3 months. There is no possibility of early hearing of the appeal in the High Court. In the aforesaid circumstances the applicants be released on bail to the satisfaction of the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sehore. The appeal is disposed of accordingly."

Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that ratio of law applicable in aforesaid cases is also applicable in the case of the applicant, therefore, the applicant be enlarged on bail by this Court sympathetically.

13. Several other submissions regarding legality and illegality of the allegations made in the F.I.R. have also been placed forth before the Court. The circumstances which, according to the counsel, led to the false implication of the accused, have also been touched upon at length. It has been assured on behalf of the applicant that he is ready to cooperate with the process of law and shall faithfully make himself available before the court whenever required and is also ready to accept all the conditions which the Court may deem fit to impose upon him. The applicant undertakes that in case he is released on bail he will not misuse the liberty of bail and will cooperate in trial. It has also been pointed out that the applicant is not having any criminal history and he is in jail since 12.08.2016 and that in the wake of heavy pendency of cases in the courts, there is no likelihood of any early conclusion of trial.

14. Learned A.G.A. opposed the prayer for bail by submitting that applicant is involved in heinous crime and further submitted that in compliance of this Court's order dated 04.01.2022, a communication dated 12.01.2022 of Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Unnao was received in the office and from perusal of the same, it transpires that only two prosecution witnesses were examined. The said letter is on record.

15. On being confronted on the point about the progress of trial and period of incarceration of the present applicant, learned Additional Government Advocate has submitted that this is being a matter of record, therefore, he has nothing to say.

16. After perusing the record in the light of the submissions made at the Bar and after taking an overall view of all the facts and circumstances of this case, at the very outset, this Court anguish towards the poor progress of trial, the trial must have been concluded by now and the learned trial court is having powers to take coercive method to conclude the trial and also armed with the provisions of Section 309 Cr.P.C., therefore, this Court is unable to comprehend as to how there is no good progress in the trial, the nature of evidence, the period of detention already undergone, the unlikelihood of early conclusion of trial and also the absence of any convincing material to indicate the possibility of tampering with the evidence, and considering that applicant is in jail since 12.08.2016 and the trial has not yet been concluded and out of 18 witnesses only two witnesses have been examined as per the communication dated 12.01.2022 of the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Unnao and the averment made in para 5 of the supplementary affidavit by the applicant as well as considering the larger mandate of the Article 21 of the Constitution of India and the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Dataram Singh vs. State of U.P. and another, reported in (2018) 3 SCC 22, Union of India vs. K.A. Najeeb reported in AIR 2021 Supreme Court 712 and Paras Ram Vishnoi vs. The Director, Central Bureau of Investigation passed in Criminal Appeal No.693 of 2021 (Arising out of SLP (Crl) No.3610 of 2020), Gokarakonda Naga Saibaba v. State of Maharashtra, (2018) 12 SCC 505, Kamal Vs. State of Haryana, 2004 (13) SCC 526 and Takht Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2001 (10) SCC 463, this Court is of the view that the applicant may be enlarged on bail.

17. The prayer for bail is granted. The application is allowed.

18. Let the applicant, Kuldeep, involved in Case Crime No.189 of 2016, under Sections 498-A, 304-B, 302 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Achalganj, District Unnao, be enlarged on bail on his executing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned on the following conditions :-

(i) The applicant will not make any attempt to tamper with the prosecution evidence in any manner whatsoever.

(ii) The applicant will personally appear on each and every date fixed in the court below and his personal presence shall not be exempted unless the court itself deems it fit to do so in the interest of justice.

(iii) The applicant shall cooperate in the trial sincerely without seeking any adjournment.

(iv) The applicant shall not indulge in any criminal activity or commission of any crime after being released on bail.

(v) In case, the applicant misuses the liberty of bail and in order to secure his presence proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is issued and the applicant fails to appear before the court on the date fixed in such proclamation, then, the trial court shall initiate proceedings against him, in accordance with law, under Section 174-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(vi) The applicant shall remain present, in person, before the trial court on the dates fixed for (i) opening of the case, (ii) framing of charge and (iii) recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the trial court default of this condition is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the trial court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of his bail and proceed against him in accordance with law.

(vii) The party shall file computer generated copy of such order downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad or certified copy issued from the Registry of the High Court, Allahabad.

(viii) The concerned Court/ Authority/ Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

19. It may be observed that in the event of any breach of the aforesaid conditions, the court below shall be at liberty to proceed for the cancellation of applicant's bail.

20. It is clarified that the observations, if any, made in this order are strictly confined to the disposal of the bail application and must not be construed to have any reflection on the ultimate merit of the case.

21. Being a peculiar case, the trial court is directed to conclude the trial of this case preferably, within a period of six months from today without granting any unnecessary adjournment to either parties except there is any legal impediment or order of higher Court.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS :

ARGUMENTS ON BEHALF OF THE APPLICANT:

5. Sri Gopal Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel has submitted that applicant has been falsely implicated in present case. He has further submitted that in the ancestral village of applicant i.e. Banveerpur, a traditional wrestling competition is organized annually. As such on 3.10.2021, a public meeting was also organized in the wrestling competition, in which the Deputy Chief Minister, Mr. Keshav Prasad Maurya, was the Chief Guest. Learned Senior Counsel has categorically stated that in the name of farmers, some leaders of the opposition parties, in association with anti-social elements, decided to protest the visit of the Chief Guest in village, Banveerpur, against a statement made by the father of applicant, namely, Ajay Mishra "Teny", regarding protest of the farmers in relation to the three Agricultural Laws. It is stated that the helicopter of the Chief Guest was to be landed at Maharaja Agrasen Play Ground Helipad, Tikuniya and thereafter, the Chief Guest had to proceed by road to the place of wrestling competition. However, without any permission, a number of protesters, who were armed with lathis, swords etc., gathered there along with notorious persons and encroached the entire area and even dug up the helipad, making it impossible to land the helicopter there. He has further stated that the description of the incident as narrated in the F.I.R. is false, rather three persons including the driver of the vehicle of applicant were killed by the protesters and no such incident, as alleged in the F.I.R., had taken place.

6. Learned Senior Counsel has further submitted that on being chased by the protesters, the driver of the vehicle tried to run away from there in order to save himself as well as the applicant, but since the road, which was only 12 ft. wide, and on which, admittedly (in the F.IR. itself) the protesters were standing on both sides of the road, the vehicle overturned and fell into the ditch on the side of the road. He has next submitted that one F.I.R. No. 220 of 2021, u/s 143, 147, 148, 149, 323, 324, 336, 302, 109 I.P.C., P.S. Tikuniya, District Kheri, was also lodged by one Sumit Jaiswal stating therein that on 3.10.2021, a wrestling competition was scheduled to be held at the village of Ajay Mishra "Teny", in which Deputy Chief Minister, Mr. Keshav Prasad Maurya, Government of U.P. was the Chief Guest. It is alleged in the F.I.R. that the informant, along with other persons, went to receive the Chief Guest. The informant was in the Thar vehicle, which was being driven by one Hari Om Mishra. However, on the way, the protesters attacked the vehicles, in which the driver of the Thar vehicle, namely, Hari Om Mishra received head injury and he stopped the vehicle on the side of the road. Thereafter, the driver was dragged from the vehicle by the protesters. The informant and others somehow succeeded to run away from the spot to save their lives, but the driver, Hari Om Mishra and two others were not so lucky and were caught by the protesters and later on, as per information, were killed by them. There being a cross version of the present case, the applicant is entitled for bail.

7. Learned Senior Counsel has also vehemently pointed out that Crime No. 220/2021 lodged from the accused side is a sort of cross version on the ground that both the sides have sustained injuries including the death of eight persons and the lodging of subsequent FIR by way of cross version is permissible under law on the basis of Full Bench judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Upkar Singh vs. Ved Prakash & others1, and as such the present bail application is sought to be decided on the basis of evidence of both the cases arising out of same transaction relating to the same occurrence at the same point of time and same place as propounded by Full Bench judgment of Supreme Court and the contents of paras 23 & 24 of the aforesaid judgment of three Judges is being quoted below:

"23. Be that as it may, if the law laid down by this Court in T.T. Antony case is to be accepted as holding that a second complaint in regard to the same incident filed as a counter-complaint is prohibited under the Code then, in our opinion, such conclusion would lead to serious consequences. This will be clear from the hypothetical example given hereinbelow i.e. if in regard to a crime committed by the real accused he takes the first opportunity to lodge a false complaint and the same is registered by the jurisdictional police then the aggrieved victim of such crime will be precluded from lodging a complaint giving his version of the incident in question, consequently he will be deprived of his legitimated right to bring the real accused to books. This cannot be the purport of the Code.

24. We have already noticed that in the T.T. Antony case this Court did not consider the legal right of an aggrieved person to file counterclaim, on the contrary from the observations found in the said judgment it clearly indicates that filing a counter-complaint is permissible."

8. Sri Gopal Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel, has argued that a false and concocted story of firing has been cooked up by the prosecution. As per the FIR itself, after the said incident, the applicant is stated to have run away firing as a cover, but admittedly there is no such firearm injury sustained by any of the deceased person or injured person either. Learned Senior Counsel, to buttress his arguments, has placed much reliance on the autopsy report of deceased farmers, wherein not a single firearm injury has been observed by the doctor. During the course of investigation, the statement of the doctor, who conducted the autopsy of the deceased farmers, was recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., in which, he has opined that all these injuries may have been caused in an accident. Learned Senior Counsel has also submitted that the protesters brutally killed three persons, namely, Hari Om Mishra, Shubham Mishra and Shyam Sunder, who were traveling in the ill-fated Thar vehicle. He has further submitted that the applicant was called during the course of investigation and he joined and cooperated in the investigation and never misused the liberty given by the Investigating Agency.

9. Regarding the criminal history of the applicant, learned Senior Counsel has submitted that in Case Crime No. 92 of 2005, u/s 147, 323, 504, 506, 452 I.P.C., P.S. Tikuniya, District Kheri, the applicant has been acquitted by the trial court vide judgment and order dated 24.03.2018 passed in Criminal Case No. 1497 of 2017 (State Vs. Ashish Mishra @ Monu). A copy of the judgment and order dated 24.03.2018 is on record. The applicant has no other case pending against him. The other case was withdrawn by the State.

10. Learned Senior Counsel has submitted that as per the admitted case of the prosecution, the Thar vehicle was being driven by Hari Om Mishra, and the applicant was sitting on the left side, therefore, the case of prosecution of crushing the protesters by the applicant is improbable.

11. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has submitted that the applicant went to jail on 10.10.2021, and was released on 15.2.2022. He surrendered in compliance of the order of the Apex Court on 24.4.2022 and is in jail since then. He has complied with the order of the Apex Court and has even cooperated in investigation. The charge-sheet has already been filed and the applicant is ready to cooperate in the trial and there is no likelihood of him misusing the liberty, in case, he is enlarged on bail.

12. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the applicant was enlarged on bail by this Court vide order dated 10.2.2022 (corrected vide order dated 14.2.2022). The Supreme Court has not rejected the bail application. Rather, it has remanded it back for consideration on the ground that the victim has not been heard. The said order shall not affect the merits of the case as the case of the applicant for bail is clearly made out.

13. Learned Senior counsel has stated that as per paragraph 43 of the order of the Supreme Court, the case has been remanded back to the High Court for fresh adjudication in a fair, impartial and dispassionate manner. Paragraph 43 of the said order reads as follows :-

"43. This Court is tasked with ensuring that neither the right of an accused to seek bail pending trial is expropriated, nor the "victim' or the State are denuded of their right to oppose such a prayer. In a situation like this, and with a view to balance the competing rights, this Court has been invariably remanding the matter(s) back to the High Court for a fresh consideration. We are also of the considered view that ends of justice would be adequately met by remitting this case to the High Court for a fresh adjudication of the bail application of the Respondent-Accused, in a fair, impartial and dispassionate manner, and keeping in view the settled parameters which have been elaborated in paragraphs 30 & 31 of this order."

14. Learned Senior Counsel has further referred to paragraph 46 of the order of Supreme Court, wherein no opinion has been expressed on the facts or merits and all questions of law have been left open for this Court to consider and decide preferably within a period of three months. Paragraph 46 of the said order reads as follows :-

"46. We set aside the impugned order dated 10.02.2022 (corrected on 14.2.2022) and remit the matter back to the High Court. Respondent No.1 shall surrender and be taken into custody as already directed in paragraph 39 above. We have not expressed any opinion either on facts or merits, and all questions of law are left open for the High Court to consider and decide. The High Court shall decide the bail application afresh expeditiously, and preferably within a period of three months. The appeal is disposed of in the above terms."

15. Learned Senior Counsel has stated that the bail applications of the co-accused persons, Lavkush, Ankit Das, Sumit Jaiswal and Shishupal, which have been rejected by this Court vide order dated 9.5.2022, passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application Nos. 2986 of 2022, 1853 of 2022, 2461 of 2022 and 2699 of 2022, shall have no bearing on the case of the applicant, as he was not a party in personam in the case decided by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court.

16. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the prosecution has not come with clean hands as the case was later on modified from being that of gunshot injuries to that of injuries due to crushing by vehicles. The applicant was admittedly not driving the said Thar vehicle, rather was sitting by the side of the driver, and it was the driver, who might have panicked due to rage of the public at large. The case is of mob lynching and there was so hue and cry at the place of occurrence that there was no chance of anybody hearing the applicant saying "teach them a lesson."

17. Counsel for the applicant, Sri B.M. Sahai, has stated that the applicant has not abused the bail and has complied with the conditions thereof, when he was accorded bail. He should again be enlarged on bail. The police has filled up the lacuna in the prosecution case by roping in the new witnesses. There is no possibility of applicant daring to commit such an offence, who happened to be a political person, as there is no possibility of three vehicles crushing 15,000 persons, who are said to have gathered at the place of occurrence.

18. Learned counsel has further stated that the provisions of Section 144 Cr.P.C. were applicable to the agitating farmers as well and they have categorically flouted the proclamation under Section 144 Cr.P.C., as they are stated to have even dug up the helipad meant for the landing of the helicopter of the Deputy Chief Minister, making it non-functional. The procession by any means cannot be termed as peaceful.

19. Learned counsel has further stated that initially at the time of lodging of the FIR, Sections 279, 338 and 304-A IPC were mentioned, but the same have been deleted later on by the investigating agency with the permission of the C.J.M. concerned. This implies that the vehicles were being driven at a normal speed.

20. Learned counsel has further placed reliance on para 40 of the remand order dated 18.4.2022, passed by the Apex Court, wherein it has been observed as follows:-

"40. ..... regardless of the stringent provisions in a penal law or the gravity of the offence, has time and again recognized the legitimacy of seeking liberty from incarceration. To put it differently, no accused can be subjected to unending detention pending trial, especially when the law presumes him to be innocent until proven guilty. Even where statutory provisions expressly bar the grant of bail, such as in cases under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1967, this Court has expressly ruled that after a reasonably long period of incarceration, or for any other valid reason, such stringent provisions will melt down, and cannot be measured over and above the right of liberty guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution. (See Union of India v. K.A. Najeeb, (2021) 3 SCC 713)."

21. Learned counsel has further stated that in paragraph 28 of the order of the Apex Court, it has been propounded that the grant of bail under Section 439 Cr.P.C. is one of wide amplitude and this discretion is unfettered. On the contrary, the High Court or the Sessions Court must grant bail after the application of a judicial mind, following well-established principles, and not in a cryptic or mechanical manner.

22. Sri Salil Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel arguing on behalf of the applicant, has stated that the capturing of helipad in order to show protest is itself an offence, which is established by the statements of the witnesses, which have been annexed to the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the victim. This shows the malice at the part of the protestors.

23. Learned counsel has further stated that one Punto car from the side of the applicant was ransacked by the protesters with an ulterior motive, which goes to show their defiance of law.

24. Learned counsel has next stated that the statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. of one witness, namely, Prabhujeet Singh categorically indicates that he had seen one Satish Rana running away from the Thar vehicle and later on, he is said to have seen Sumit Jaiswal running from the said vehicle firing in air. The said statement is on page number 164 of the counter affidavit filed by the victim/complainant, indicating the absence of applicant at the scene of occurrence.

25. Sri Salil Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel, has further stated that the district administration has provided one gunner each to all the ninety-eight witnesses and moreover, their family members are being provided proper security and a coverage of CCTV cameras alongwith a barrier on the road to their residence and thus, there is no possibility of any person hampering or tampering with the prosecution witnesses.

26. Learned counsel for applicant has further stated that in the statement of another witness, namely, Simranjeet Singh, recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., copy whereof has been filed in the rejoinder affidavit, it has been stated that the applicant and the co-accused person, Sumit Jaiswal are said to have taken the refuge in a sugarcane field after firing in air.

27. Learned counsel has placed much reliance on the site plan, wherein no sugarcane field finds mention. The said discrepancy categorically falsifies the prosecution story that applicant had alighted from Thar vehicle after firing and had taken shelter in the sugarcane field.

28. Sri Salil Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel, has further stated that from the side of the applicant, three persons were put to death and three had sustained grievous injuries including fractures, which have not been explained by the prosecution. The said non-explanation of the injuries caused is fatal to the prosecution and the applicant is entitled for bail on this ground. Learned counsel has placed reliance on the judgement of the Supreme Court in Padam Singh vs. State of U.P.2, wherein it has been held that:-

"5. ....when the prosecution does not explain the injury sustained by the accused at about the time of the occurrence or in the course of occurrence, the court can draw the inference that the prosecution has suppressed the genesis and origin of the occurrence and has thus, not presented the true version. It is also well settled that where the evidence consists of interested or inimical witnesses, then, non-explanation of the injury on the accused by the prosecution assume greater importance....."

29. Learned counsel has placed much reliance on the judgement of the Supreme Court passed in Vijayee Singh vs. State of U.P3., which is quoted below:
10. It was further observed that:

"... in a murder case, the non-explanation of the injuries sustained by the accused at about the time of the occurrence or in the course of altercation is a very important circumstance from which the court can draw the following inferences:

(1) that the prosecution has suppressed the genesis and the origin of the occurrence and has thus not presented the true version;

(2) that the witnesses who have denied the presence of the injuries on the person of the accused are lying on a most material point and therefore their evidence is unreliable.

(3) that in case there is a defence version which explains the injuries on the person of the accused it is rendered probable so as to throw doubt on the prosecution case."

30. Learned counsel has next stated that it is undisputed fact that in the charge sheet, after filing of the bail application, new sections were added and a correction/amendment application was moved in this Court which was allowed vide order dated 18.1.2022 and the sections so mentioned in the charge sheet were amended in the memo of the bail application, which has already been undertaken in the original memo of the bail application. Pursuant thereto, Sections 279/338/304A IPC were deleted and Sections 307/326/427/34 IPC, Section 30 Arms Act and Section 177 Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 were added.

31. Learned counsel has further argued that the FIR is the foundation stone of the offence and the story as narrated in it, has been later on completely changed by the prosecution, which itself is indicative of false implication. It is not a case of improvement or embellishment, rather a case of turning the case upside down.

32. Learned counsel has further stated that right of the private defence as contemplated under Section 97/103 IPC is available to the accused side as even according to the prosecution case, the three persons sitting in Thar vehicle were murdered and three others are stated to have sustained grievous injuries. There was no possibility of applicant being present there and escaping.

33. Learned counsel has next stated that the investigating agency inspected the place of occurrence and also reconstructed/re-created the alleged occurrence and in the inspection report of recreation, it has been mentioned that at the time of occurrence, the Thar vehicle was running at a normal speed from the place of meeting i.e. Maharaja Agrasen Inter College ground upto 98 meters approximately, till turning to Kalesharan and thereafter, due to some reason, the speed of Thar vehicle was increased from its normal speed. It is also submitted that while reconstructing the alleged occurrence, the inspection team installed the dummy of farmers at both sides of the road and the dummy Thar vehicle alongwith two other dummies of Fortuner and Scorpio vehicles by running with normal speed upto 98 meters approximately, from Maharaja Agrasen Inter College were collided with the dummies of farmers after increasing the speed of the vehicles, which corroborates the factum of loosing of mental equilibrium of the driver of Thar vehicle, Hari Om Mishra, who has been murdered by the complainant side.

34. Learned counsel has further stated that the story set up by the prosecution is false as the ballistics expert report of the weapons seized from the applicant side does not support the same.

35. Learned counsel has placed reliance on the call detail report (CDR) which reveals that the mobile no. 9721258797 of the applicant Ashish Mishra @ Monu was attended 25 times within a span of 40 minutes between 2.48 pm and 3.28 pm on 3.10.2021, and the location report of the said mobile reveals his presence at the same place throughout the day. Thus, the plea of alibi of the applicant of having been present at the place of dangal finds support from the CDR and location report available. The said fact finds support from the statement of a considerable number of witnesses, who have filed their notarial affidavits and submitted through registered posts demonstrating that the applicant was not present at the place of occurrence but rather, he was present at the place of dangal. The SIT has deliberately not recorded their statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

36. Learned counsel has further stated that the charge-sheet under Sections 188 and 143 IPC has also been filed against the protesters indicative of their malice having formed unlawful assembly, disobeying the order duly promulgated by the public servant.

37. Learned counsel has submitted that in the present subject matter, charge sheet has been filed under Sections 34, 149 and 120-B IPC which is against the principles of constructive criminality. It was the complainant side, which was aggressor and not the applicant. The three accused persons in the cross FIR are in jail. Much reliance has been placed on para 60 of the judgement of Allahabad High Court in Nanha S/o Nabhan Kha vs. State of U.P.4, which reads as under:

"60. As regards the second part of the referred question whether it is duty of the co-accused to disclose in his bail application the fact that on an earlier occasion the bail application of another co-accused in the same case has been rejected. The prior rejection of the bail application of one of the accused cannot preclude the court from granting bail to another accused whose case has not been considered at the earlier occasion. The accused who comes up with the prayer for bail and who had no opportunity of being heard or placing material before the Court at the time when the bail of another accused was heard and rejected, cannot be prejudiced in any other manner by such rejection."

38. Learned counsel has further placed reliance on the judgment of Supreme Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation5, which reads as under:

"18. In his reply, Shri. Jethmalani would submit that as the presumption of innocence is the privilege of every accused, there is also a presumption that the appellants would not tamper with the witnesses if they are enlarged on bail, especially in the facts of the case, where the appellants have cooperated with the investigation. In recapitulating his submissions, the learned senior counsel contended that there are two principles for the grant of bail - firstly, if there is no prima facie case, and secondly, even if there is a prima facie case, if there is no reasonable apprehension of tampering with the witnesses or evidence or absconding from the trial, the accused are entitled to grant of bail pending trial. He would submit that since both the conditions are satisfied in this case, the appellants should be granted bail.

21. In bail applications, generally, it has been laid down from the earliest times that the object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it is required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty.

22. From the earliest times, it was appreciated that detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some un-convicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, `necessity' is the operative test. In this country, it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances.

23. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson.

39. Coming back to the facts of the present case, both the Courts have refused the request for grant of bail on two grounds: The primary ground is that the offence alleged against the accused persons is very serious involving deep rooted planning in which, huge financial loss is caused to the State exchequer ; the secondary ground is that the possibility of the accused persons tampering with the witnesses. In the present case, the charge is that of cheating and dishonestly inducing delivery of property and forgery for the purpose of cheating using as genuine a forged document. The punishment for the offence is imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years. It is, no doubt, true that the nature of the charge may be relevant, but at the same time, the punishment to which the party may be liable, if convicted, also bears upon the issue. Therefore, in determining whether to grant bail, both the seriousness of the charge and the severity of the punishment should be taken into consideration.

40. The grant or refusal to grant bail lies within the discretion of the court. The grant or denial is regulated, to a large extent, by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. But at the same time, right to bail is not to be denied merely because of the sentiments of the community against the accused. The primary purposes of bail in a criminal case are to relieve the accused of imprisonment, to relieve the State of the burden of keeping him, pending the trial, and at the same time, to keep the accused constructively in the custody of the court, whether before or after conviction, to assure that he will submit to the jurisdiction of the court and be in attendance thereon whenever his presence is required.

41. This Court in Gurcharan Singh v.. State (Delhi Admn.)6, observed that two paramount considerations, while considering petition for grant of bail in a non-bailable offence, apart from the seriousness of the offence, are the likelihood of the accused fleeing from justice and his tampering with the prosecution witnesses. Both of them relate to ensure the fair trial of the case. Though, this aspect is dealt by the High Court in its impugned order, in our view, the same is not convincing.

42. When the undertrial prisoners are detained in jail custody to an indefinite period, Article 21 of the Constitution is violated. Every person, detained or arrested, is entitled to speedy trial, the question is: whether the same is possible in the present case."

39. Learned counsel has also referred the judgment of Privy Council in Mirza Akbar vs. Kind Emperor7, which reads thus:

"This being the principle, their Lordships think the words of Sec. 10 must be construed in accordance with it and are not capable of being widely construed so as to include a statement made by one conspirator in the absence of the other with reference to past acts done in the actual course of carrying out the conspiracy, after it has been completed. The common intention is in the past. In their Lordships' judgment, the words "common intention" signify a common intention existing at the time when the thing was said, done or written by the one of them. Things said, done or written while the conspiracy was on foot are relevant as evidence of the common intention, once reasonable ground has been shown to believe in its existence. But it would be a very different matter to hold that any narrative or statement or confession made to a third party after the common intention or conspiracy was no longer operating and had ceased to exist is admissible against the other party. There is then no common intention of the conspirators to which the statement can have reference. In their Lordships' judgment Sec. 10 embodies this principle. That is the construction which has been rightly applied to Sec. 10 in decisions in India, for instance, in Emperor v. Ganesh Raghunath, I.L.R. 55 Bom. 839 (1931) and Emperor v. Abani I.L.R. 38 Cal. 169. In these cases the distinction was rightly drawn between communications between conspirators while the conspiracy was going on with reference to the carrying out of the conspiracy and statements made, after arrest or after the conspiracy has ended, by way of description of events then past."

40. Learned counsel has referred to the judgment of the Supreme Court in Satender Kumar Antil vs. Central Bureauu of Investigation & another8, which reads thus:

"66. What is left for us now to discuss are the economic offences. The question for consideration is whether it should be treated as a class of its own or otherwise. This issue has already been dealt with by this Court in the case of P. Chidambaram v. Directorate of Enforcement, (2020) 13 SCC 791, after taking note of the earlier decisions governing the field. The gravity of the offence, the object of the Special Act, and the attending circumstances are a few of the factors to be taken note of, along with the period of sentence. After all, an economic offence cannot be classified as such, as it may involve various activities and may differ from one case to another. Therefore, it is not advisable on the part of the court to categorise all the offences into one group and deny bail on that basis..."

41. He has also placed reliance on the case law of P. Chidambaram v. Directorate of Enforcement9, which reads as under:-

"23. Thus, from cumulative perusal of the judgments cited on either side including the one rendered by the Constitution Bench of this Court, it could be deduced that the basic jurisprudence relating to bail remains the same inasmuch as the grant of bail is the rule and refusal is the exception so as to ensure that the accused has the opportunity of securing fair trial. However, while considering the same the gravity of the offence is an aspect which is required to be kept in view by the Court. The gravity for the said purpose will have to be gathered from the facts and circumstances arising in each case. Keeping in view the consequences that would befall on the society in cases of financial irregularities, it has been held that even economic offences would fall under the category of "grave offence" and in such circumstance while considering the application for bail in such matters, the Court will have to deal with the same, being sensitive to the nature of allegation made against the accused. One of the circumstances to consider the gravity of the offence is also the term of sentence that is prescribed for the offence the accused is alleged to have committed. Such consideration with regard to the gravity of offence is a factor which is in addition to the triple test or the tripod test that would be normally applied. In that regard what is also to be kept in perspective is that even if the allegation is one of grave economic offence, it is not a rule that bail should be denied in every case since there is no such bar created in the relevant enactment passed by the legislature nor does the bail jurisprudence provide so. Therefore, the underlining conclusion is that irrespective of the nature and gravity of charge, the precedent of another case alone will not be the basis for either grant or refusal of bail though it may have a bearing on principle.

But ultimately the consideration will have to be on case-to-case basis on the facts involved therein and securing the presence of the accused to stand trial.

CONTENTIONS OF THE VICTIM/COMPLAINANT:

42. Learned counsel for the victim/complainant, Sri Amarjeet Rakhra, at the outset, has vehemently opposed the prayer for bail of the applicant on the ground that the bail rejection order of the applicant at the Court of Sessions does not include all the sections, wherein the bail is being sought by the applicant from this Court. The bail application in the added sections i.e. 307, 326, 427, 34 IPC, 30 Arms Act and 177 Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, has been directly moved before the High Court without taking recourse to the Sessions Court, Kheri, which is not permissible under law.

43. Learned counsel has further stated that applicant is the mastermind of the crime and is the main accused person to whom the lead role has been assigned. He is the only named accused person in the FIR, who is alleged to have been involved in the gruesome and cold-blooded murder of five innocent, unarmed persons. The bail application of four co-accused persons, who were not named in the FIR and whose role was of assisting, aiding and conspiring with the applicant in the commission of the said offence, have already been rejected by a detailed and reasoned order of this Court dated 9.5.2022 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application Nos. 2986 of 2022, 1853 of 2022, 2461 of 2022 and 2699 of 2022.

44. Learned counsel has next stated that as far as rejection of bail is concerned, there may not strictly be parity, yet propriety and consistency in judicial approach demands that this Court may reject the bail application of the applicant, Ashish Mishra @ Monu, whose role in the commission of crime is much more prominent than of the co-accused persons, whose bail applications have been rejected.

45. Learned counsel has further argued that the applicant, who is the son of Union Minister of State For Home, and who himself is a political person, was a contender on BJP ticket from Nighasen Constituency for Uttar Pradesh Assembly Elections held in the year 2022. The applicant has a criminal history of two more cases in addition to the present case. Learned counsel has stated that the power, the applicant yields, can be appreciated from the fact that in one of the cases, the applicant has been acquitted, while the other case has been withdrawn by the State Government. The character, behavior, means, position and standing of the accused, when viewed in juxtaposition of crime in question, is such that releasing him on bail would result in justice being thwarted.

46. Learned counsel, Sri Rakhra has further stated that appreciating the fact that free and fair investigation was not possible due to the status and profile of the applicant and sensing the seriousness of the offence committed by him, none other than the Apex Court had constituted a Special Investigation Team (SIT) of five senior police officers and the said team was headed by a retired Judge of Punjab and Haryana High Court.

47. Learned counsel for the victim has further stated that in addition to this, notwithstanding the powers of the trial court in this regard, the Apex Court, while sensing the gravity of the situation, had directed the State Government to provide security/armed gunners to the prosecution witnesses in the present case and it was also directed that the statements of the witnesses under Section 164 Cr.P.C. may be recorded by the Magistrate, to prevent the possibility of the witnesses being pressurized, threatened or won over by the accused.

48. Learned counsel has next stated that despite the protection provided to the witnesses, two of them, namely, Diljyot Singh and Hardeep Singh have been assaulted and threatened by the associates and supporters of the applicant warning them to dare depose against the applicant. A copy of the FIR No. 46 of 2022, P.S.- Tikuniya, District- Kheri, lodged on 11.3.2022 and FIR No. 126 of 2022 lodged on 11.4.2022 at P.S.- Bilaspur, District- Rampur, have also been annexed to the counter affidavit, which indicates that the release of the applicant shall lead to witnesses being won over by him.

49. Learned counsel has next stated that gravity of the offence and the severity of the punishment in the event of conviction are also the relevant factors, which weigh heavily against the relief of bail being granted to the applicant.

50. The applicant alongwith his associates has been charge-sheeted for causing a premeditated and cold-blooded murder of as many as five persons (four farmers and one journalist) and injuring thirteen other persons. The offence committed by applicant includes murder, which is punishable with death or imprisonment for life.

51. Learned counsel has contended that there are other injured witnesses, who have given the statement that the applicant was the inmate of the Thar vehicle that had deliberately run over them with an intention to cause their death and the inmates are said to have been seen and heard exhorting to kill the farmers. The witnesses had seen the applicant getting off from Thar vehicle and running towards the fields under the cover of his own firing. Learned counsel has placed reliance on the statements of several witnesses recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. to the effect. Learned counsel has referred to the call detail record (CDR) of the applicant, wherein he is said to have made extra judicial confession. Learned counsel has referred the statements of witnesses, namely, Taufeek Ahmad, Arun Kumar Gupta and Yasin Mohammad in support of the said contention. Learned counsel has also referred the statements of independent witnesses, the photographer and the police officials, who have stated that the applicant was missing from the site of wrestling competition at the time of offence thereby negating his plea of alibi.

52. Learned counsel has further stated that the motive to commit crime is also proved and the applicant had full knowledge of the fact that the road route from which the Chief Guest was to travel, had been altered and yet the applicant, in a premeditated and cold-blooded manner, went on the route of the retrieving farmers running at a high speed with a view to teach them a lesson and ran them over from behind.

53. Learned counsel has also stated that the FSL report conclusively establishes the fact that the fire arms (pistol and rifle) of the applicant were used, thus corroborating the statement of the eye witnesses.

54. Learned counsel has stated that the prosecution allegations are further substantiated by the CCTV camera footages/DVR suggesting that on the date of incident i.e. 3.10.2021, the three vehicles (carrying the applicant and other co-accused persons) headed to the place of incident, with other miscreants/assailants clinging to them.

55. Learned counsel has stated that there are other video clips to prove that the unarmed farmers, who were running to their homes, were trampled and crushed under the wheels of the Thar vehicle and the other two vehicles, namely, Fortuner and Scorpio, coming from behind.

56. Learned counsel for the victim/complainant has stated that the arguments tendered by the counsels for the applicant such as inconsistency of the injuries sustained by the deceased with the version of the FIR are not tenable, the fact is that the charge sheet having already been filed and the circumstance has already been dealt with by the Apex Court at the time of setting aside the bail granted to the applicant.

57. Learned counsel has further stated that the police officers and the district authorities to name a few, Awdhesh Kumar Yadav, Vishambher Yadav, SDM Swati Shukla, have categorically stated that the three vehicles in question were being driven at a high speed and despite their efforts to stop them, the vehicles in question drove past them and crushed the innocent farmers. There are statements of twenty witnesses, who have testified that they saw the applicant in the Thar jeep running over the farmers.

58. Learned counsel has further submitted that eight witnesses have stated before SIT that they saw and heard the applicant abetting and asking the driver of the Thar vehicle to kill the protestors by crushing them.

59. Learned counsel has stated that the said vehicles have been used as a weapon in view of the settled case law of the Supreme Court referred in the order of the Supreme Court. The ratio of this case is applicable to the present case. Para 45 of the judgement of the Supreme Court in the case of Alister Anthony Pareira vs. State of Maharashtra10, reads hereinunder:-

"45. In Prabhakaran v. State of Kerala, 2007 (14) SCC 269, this Court was concerned with the appeal filed by a convict who was found guilty of the offence punishable under Section 304 Part II IPC. In that case, the bus driven by the convict ran over a boy aged 10 years. The prosecution case was that the bus was being driven by the Appellant therein at the enormous speed and although the passengers had cautioned the driver to stop as they had seen children crossing the road in a queue, the driver ran over the student on his head. It was alleged that the driver had real intention to cause death of persons to whom harm may be caused on the bus hitting them. He was charged with offence punishable under Section 302 IPC. The Trial Court found that no intention had been proved in the case but at the same time the accused acted with the knowledge that it was likely to cause death, and, therefore, convicted the accused of culpable homicide not amounting to murder punishable under Section 304 Part II IPC and sentenced him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for five years and pay a fine of Rs.15,000/- with a default sentence of imprisonment for three years. The High Court dismissed the appeal and the matter reached this Court.

46. While observing that Section 304A speaks of causing death by negligence and applies to rash and negligent acts and does not apply to cases where there is an intention to cause death or knowledge that the act will in all probability cause death and that Section 304A only applies to cases in which without any such intention or knowledge death is caused by a rash and negligent act, on the factual scenario of the case, it was held in Prabhakaran case that the appropriate conviction would be under Section 304 IPC and not Section 304 Part II IPC. Prabhakaran does not say in absolute terms that in no case of an automobile accident that results in death of a person due to rash and negligent act of the driver, the conviction can be maintained for the offence under Section 304 Part II Indian Penal Code even if such act (rash or negligent) was done with the knowledge that by such act of his, death was likely to be caused. Prabhakaran turned on its own facts.

47. Each case obviously has to be decided on its own facts. In a case where negligence or rashness is the cause of death and nothing more, Section 304A may be attracted but where the rash or negligent act is preceded with the knowledge that such act is likely to cause death, Section 304 Part II Indian Penal Code may be attracted and if such a rash and negligent act is preceded by real intention on the part of the wrong doer to cause death, offence may be punishable under Section 302 Indian Penal Code."

60. Learned counsel has further stated that 37 witnesses have got their statements recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. that they saw the applicant and his associates firing from the weapons as a cover and running away from the scene of occurrence.

61. Learned counsel has placed much reliance on the statement of photographer Manish Gupta, who has stated that of the twenty photographs clicked by him, none of them shows the applicant at the scene of occurrence between 02:03:49 and 04:03:42.

62. Learned counsel has stated that by the FIR No. 220 of 2021 from the side of the applicant, a cross version has been tried to be created and the FIR has been registered on the next date of incident in which the name of the applicant is deliberately missing who was sitting in the Mahindra Thar car.

63. Learned counsel has stated that a perusal of the final report prepared by the SIT reveals that with a view to deal with the protesting farmers and teaching them a lesson, the applicant Ashish Mishra @ Monu, as a premeditated plan, collected his friends and associates and lodged them at Shiva Hotel, Tikuniya. The co-accused persons, Ankit Das, Lateef @ Kale, Nandan Singh Bhist, Satyam Tripathi and Shekhar Bharti, all associates of Ashish Mishra @ Monu, gathered at Lakhimpur Kheri with the arms and ammunition notwithstanding the fact that Section 144 Cr.P.C. was in place and it was not permissible to carry firearms in the region. The applicant, Ashish Mishra @ Monu, the applicant got piqued and wanted to take revenge from the protesting farmers because the Punto vehicle carrying his supporters was damaged to some extent in the protest. In addition to it, the hoardings bearing the photographs of the applicant and his father, Ajay Mishra @ Teny (Union Minister of State for Home) were damaged and due to the protest of the farmers, the then Deputy Chief Minister, Keshav Prasad Maurya, had to alter the route to the wrestling venue. With the anger and revenge in mind, the applicant is said to have left the wrestling venue armed with firearms, alongwith his associates and conspired to teach the protesting farmers a lesson and with this intent, drove his Mahindra Thar vehicle over the farmers, who were returning home after peaceful demonstration.

64. Learned counsel has stated that as a malafide intent, the applicant has attempted to place all the blame on the driver- Hari Om Mishra, who is no more, while as a matter of fact, he was nothing more than a tool to execute the evil designs of the applicant. Learned counsel has further referred the portion of the remand order of the Apex Court dated 18.4.2022, wherein it has been observed that :-

"35. The High Court has completely lost sight of the principles which conventionally govern the Court's discretion when deciding the question whether or not to grant bail, held that while the allegations in the FIR that the accused used his firearm and the subsequent postmortem and injury reports may have some limited bearing, there was no legal necessity to give undue weightage to the same."

65. He has argued that while remitting the Bail Application to the High Court for adjudication afresh, the Apex Court has cited certain earlier decisions given by it on the principles which should govern the discretion of bail vested with the Courts.

66. It has been held in Kanwar Singh Meena vs. State of Rajasthan.11, that:

"10. Each criminal case presents its own peculiar factual scenario and therefore, certain grounds peculiar to a particular case may have to be taken into account by the court.....The High Court or the Sessions Court is bound to cancel such bail orders particularly when they are passed releasing accused involved in heinous crimes they ultimately result in weakening the prosecution case and have adverse impact on the society.

67. In Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee & Anr.12, it has been held that:-

"9. ..... It is well settled that, among other circumstances, the factors to be borne in mind while considering an application for bail are:

"(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;

(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;

(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail."

68. In the case of Mahipal vs. Rajesh Kumar alias Polia & Anr.13, it has been held that:-

"12. The determination of whether a case is fit for the grant of bail involves the balancing of numerous factors, among which the nature of the offence, the severity of the punishment and a prima facie view of the involvement of the accused are important. No straitjacket formula exists for courts to assess an application for the grant or rejection of bail. At the stage of assessing whether a case is fit for the grant of bail, the court is not required to enter into a detailed analysis of the evidence on record to establish beyond reasonable doubt the commission of the crime by the accused. That is a matter for trial. However, the Court is required to examine whether there is a prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence and on a balance of the considerations involved, the continued custody of the accused subserves the purpose of the criminal justice system. Where bail has been granted by a lower court, an appellate court must be slow to interfere and ought to be guided by the principles set out for the exercise of the power to set aside bail."

69. In Shahzad Hasan Khan vs. Ishtiaq Hasan Khan and Another14, it is held that :-

"8. Having regard to the facts and circumstances of this case we are of the opinion that the learned judge committed serious error in recalling his order dated June 3, 1986 and enlarging the respondent on bail. The occurrence took place, in broad daylight, in a busy market place and there are a number of eye witnesses to support the case against the respondent who was named as an assailant in the First Information Report. Immediately after the occurrence he could not be traced (it was alleged that he had absconded) for more than a month, attempts were made on his behalf to tamper with evidence. In view of these facts and circumstances respondent 1 was not entitled to bail if the seriousness of the matter was realized and a judicious approach was made...."

70. In Ramesh Bhavan Rathod vs. Vishanbhai Hirabhai Makwana (Koli) and others15, it is held that:-

"20. The first aspect of the case which stares in the face is the singular absence in the judgement of the High Court to the nature and gravity of the crime. The incident which took place on 9 May 2020 resulted in five homicidal deaths. The nature of the offence is a circumstance which has an important bearing on the grant of bail. The orders of the High Court are conspicuous in the absence of any awareness or elaboration of the serious nature of the offence. The perversity lies in the failure of the High Court to consider an important circumstance which has a bearing on whether bail should be granted."

CONTENTIONS OF THE STATE:

71. Sri Vinod Kumar Shahi, learned A.A.G. assisted by Sri Prachish Pandey, learned AGA for the State has reiterated the arguments tendered by learned counsel for the victim/complainant and has stated that in the peculiar circumstances, there are three first informants including the victim, who is being represented through his advocate.

72. Learned A.A.G. has stated that the present clash between the accused persons and the farmers was not a face to face one, rather the applicant and the other accused persons came from the back at a fast speed and crushed five innocent persons to death and injured thirteen others.

73. Learned A.A.G. has further stated that the point raised by the defence that no one sustained any gunshot injuries, carries no weight because the first informant Jagjeet Singh himself has stated that he was not an eye witness to the incident and as the FIR is not an encyclopedia of events, it cannot be said that the prosecution version stands falsified.

74. Learned A.A.G. has further argued that the carrying of kirpans by a Sikh is by his religious belief, and some of the farmers were carrying lathis, which does not fall within the category of deadly weapons, and which categorically proves that the innocent farmers were not the aggressors at all. The autopsy report corroborates the modus operandi of the applicant and other accused persons as five innocent persons were put to death in a most brutal, barbaric and gruesome manner.

75. Learned A.A.G. has also stated that in compliance of the order of the Apex Court, all the witnesses have been provided protection by the State Government and despite that, the applicant has threatened and even got the two witnesses assaulted. The charge sheet filed by the SIT is elaborate and well documented and the applicant was found the main perpetrator of the events that took place on 3.10.2021.

76. Sri V.K. Shahi, learned A.A.G. has submitted that on the directions of the Supreme Court, the investigation of the present case as well as of F.I.R. No.220 of 2021 was conducted by the SIT under the monitoring of Justice (Retd.) Rakesh Kumar Jain, Hon'ble Judge, Punjab & Haryana High Court and supervised by S.B. Shiradkar, A.D.G., Intelligence Headquarter, Nanded, Maharashtra with the members (1) Ms. Padmaja Chauhan, I.G., I.P.S., (2) Dr. Preetinder Singh, D.I.G., IPS.

77 . Learned A.A.G. further submitted that in the said incident, by the vehicle of the applicant and his followers, about eighteen protesters were crushed of which four protesting farmers namely, Nakshatra Singh, Daljeet Singh, Lavpreet Singh, Gurvinder Singh and one journalist Raman Kashyap had expired and thirteen other persons were injured.

78. Learned A.A.G. has submitted that the statements of all the injured persons were recorded during the course of investigation u/s 161 Cr.P.C. The statements of other eye witnesses were also recorded and they have supported the prosecution story. He further submitted that the statements under Section 164 Cr.P.C. were also recorded of few of the witnesses and all the witnesses of the fact have supported the prosecution version that the applicant reached the spot with his vehicle followed by other vehicles at a high speed and barged into them and crushed the protesters. Thereafter, he had run away firing as cover. Learned A.A.G. has also submitted that the statements of the doctors, who conducted the autopsy of the body of the deceased persons as well as medico legal examination of injured persons, were also recorded, in which, all of them have categorically stated that injuries found on the body of the deceased persons may have been caused by hitting from a vehicle. Sri Shahi also submitted that in the video clip, it is also found that vehicles are reaching the spot.

79. Learned A.A.G. has placed much reliance on the FSL report of the weapons of the accused persons, which categorically indicates that the said weapons were used. He has lastly submitted that in the incident, involvement of 17 persons was found along with the applicant, out of which, three persons, namely, Hari Om Mishra, Subham Mishra and Shyam Sunder were killed by the crowd of the protesters and after detailed investigation, charge sheet has been submitted against rest of the 14 persons including the applicant.

CONCLUSION:

80. Had both the sides observed a bit of restraint, we would not have seen the loss of eight invaluable human lives. As per the arguments tendered by both the parties, five persons (four farmers and one journalist) from the side of the first informant/victim are said to have died in the incident, and three persons are said to have been put to death from the side of the applicant. In addition to it, 13 persons sustained injuries from the side of informant and 3 from the side of applicant.

81. Both the sides have referred certain pictures and audio visuals that were taken up from social media. The media has an indispensable role in highlighting the matters pertaining to public utility at large. The media is supposed to provide news to the society, but sometimes we have seen that individual views are overshadowing the news thus putting an adverse effect on truth. Of late, media is seen overstepping upon the sanctity of judiciary in high profile criminal cases, as was evident in the cases of Jessica Lal, Idrani Mukherjee and Aarushi Talwar etc.

82. The three Judge Bench led by Chief Justice of India, R.M. Lodha, found the issue to be very serious and even considered to frame a few guidelines in order to balance the interest and rights of the stake holders.

83. The vital difference between the convict and accused has to be looked into by keeping at stake the cardinal principles of "presumption of innocence until proven guilty' and "guilt beyond reasonable doubt'. Media trial apart from taking up the investigation on its own leads to forming public opinion against the suspect even before the court takes cognizance of the case as a result the accused who should have been presumed innocent is treated a criminal. The excessive publicity of the suspect in the media before the trial in a court of law, either incriminates a fair trial or results in characterizing the accused or suspect as the one who has certainly committed the crime. The reason the jury members were kept aloof of the access to media was obvious. Classic examples of the menace are the cases of K.M. Nanawati and O.J. Simpson.

84. In the case of Saibal Kumar Gupta and Ors. v. B.K. Sen and Anr.16, the Supreme Court held that when there is an ongoing trial by one of the regular tribunals of the country then trial by newspapers must be prohibited. This is based upon the view that such action by the newspaper of doing an investigation tends to interfere with the course of justice, whether the investigation tends to prejudice the accused or the prosecution.

85. Now the problem has been multiplied by the electronic and social media especially with the use of tool kits. At various stages and forums, it has been seen that ill-informed and agenda driven debates are being undertaken by media running Kangaroo Courts.

86. It is true that hearing of the bail plea cannot be converted into a mini trial, but owing to the circumstances, the parties i.e. the applicant, the victim and the State have been heard at length. It is also very true that after the amendment in the Cr.P.C. and by adding Section 2 (wa) and proviso to Section 24(8) the rights of the victim are on a higher pedestal than that of the complainant provided under Section 301 Cr.P.C.

87. The District Administration had issued a proclamation under Section 144 Cr.P.C., which was in effect on the date of incident and was equally applicable to not only the applicant and his associates, but also to the agitating/protesting farmers. The same has not been followed by either of the parties.

88. The change of route of the Chief Guest was an open secret, as it was known to one and all including the applicant and the protestors.

89. The trial has not yet started as charge have not been framed, so the ambiguity in sections, if any, in the final report can be corrected at the stage of framing of charge.

90. The controversy of some sections not finding mentioned in the bail rejection order of the Court of Sessions has already been put to rest by this Court vide order dated 18.1.2022, and it does not require fresh adjudication.

91. Several inconsistencies, embellishments and improvements have been referred by the defence in the statements of witnesses to the site plan, which cannot be delved into at this stage, rather are to be seen by the trial court concerned.

92. It is also true that the prosecution cannot claim parity as a right to the co-accused whose bail applications have been rejected by this Court, but yet the presence of the three vehicles at the spot from one of which the applicant was seen coming out is a crucial circumstance weighing against the applicant. The said Thar vehicle was registered in the name of father of the applicant and he was seen in the said vehicle recovered from the spot, although the applicant was not seen driving it. There are two FIRs lodged by the witnesses having being threatened. The cross-version to the present case does not help the accused.

93. T aking into consideration the complicity of the applicant, there being apprehension of the witnesses being influenced, severity of punishment as drawn from the nature and gravity of the accusations, after taking due consideration of the submissions of the parties, and the settled case law of Alister Anthony Pareira (supra), without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, I do not find it a fit case for bail.

94. The bail application of the applicant-Ashish Mishra @ Monu is hereby rejected.

95. It is clarified that the observations made herein are limited to the facts brought in by the parties pertaining to the disposal of bail application and the said observations shall have no bearing on the merits of the case during trial.

6. Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Corp. Vs Kulsum & ors., (2011) 8 SCC 142

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This judgment will dispose of FAFO No.34 of 2016 and FAFO No.33 of 2016, both of which relate to the same motor accident and give rise to identical questions of facts and law. Both the appeals have, accordingly, been heard together. FAFO No.34 of 2016 shall be treated as the leading case.

2. In the leading appeal, the Insurance Company has challenged the judgment and award passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/ Additional District Judge, Court No.2, Sultanpur dated 13.10.2015, in MACP No.36 of 2014. By the award impugned, the Tribunal has held the claimant-respondents entitled to a compensation in the sum of Rs.3,54,000/- along with simple interest at the rate of 7% per annum from the date of institution of the claim petition until realization. The liability to pay the compensation has been fastened upon the United India Insurance Company Limited, who are the insurers of the offending vehicle. The Insurance Company have, therefore, appealed the impugned award primarily seeking to unshackle themselves of the liability to indemnify the owner under the insurance policy.

3. In the leading appeal, the deceased is Suresh Kumar @ Lallu, who died in the fatal accident. Compensation for his death in the motor accident is the subject matter of action. The claimants are his dependents.

4. In the connected appeal, the deceased is Smt. Dhanpatti Devi, mother of Suresh Kumar @ Lallu, who also met a fate the same as her son, Suresh Kumar in the same road accident. The claimants in this appeal are the dependents of the late Dhanpatti Devi wife of Radheyshyam. The Insurance Company, in this appeal too, say that they ought not to be saddled with the liability to indemnify in terms of the insurance policy.

5. In both the appeals, there were some other issues about the quantum of compensation also raised in the grounds, but at the hearing, the learned Counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company, Mr. Anchal Mishra has confined his submissions to the liability of the Insurance Company to satisfy the award.

6. The question on which the learned Counsel for the Insurance Company has addressed the Court is : Whether in view of the provisions of Section 103(1-A) of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short, "the Act') [as amended vide Uttar Pradesh Act 5 of 1993, sec. 2 (w.r.e.f. 16-1-1993)], the absence of a route permit authorizing a particular bus to ply on a specified route would discharge the insurer of his liability on a policy issued in favour of the owner, if the bus, placed at the disposal and under the control of a State Transport Undertaking on contract, plies on a route without such permit?

7. The facts giving rise to the leading appeal are:

On 22.10.2013 at about 11:40 a.m., Suresh Kumar @ Lallu was proceeding on a bicycle along with his mother, Smt. Dhanpatti Devi on the Varanasi-Lucknow State Highway, returning home after darshan at the Devi Mari Mai Dhaam. As the mother and son reached a place near the BDDV Mahila Maha Vidyalaya, Madanpur Paniar, a Volvo Bus, bearing Registration No. UP-32-CZ-0403, approached from the Jaunpur side. It was driven negligently and at a high speed. The bus hit the bicycle from the rear side. The accident resulted in Suresh Kumar @ Lallu's death on the spot. The claimant-respondents, who are dependents of Suresh Kumar @ Lallu, instituted the claim petition giving rise to this appeal, demanding a compensation in the sum of Rs.35,82,000/-. The claimants proceeded against the owner M/s. Logistics Private Limited under care of Santosh Kumar Jha, resident of Opposite Ambedkar Bus Stand, Alambagh, Lucknow. In addition, the driver of the bus, Vinay Kumar Sharma was also arrayed as a party.

8. The insurers of the vehicle, United India Insurance Company Limited through the Manager, Regional Office United Indian Insurance Company Limited, Second Floor, Kapoorthala Bagh Complex, Aliganj, Lucknow were also arrayed as a party.

9. The driver of the offending vehicle, who was opposite party no.1 to the claim petition, filed a separate written statement denying the accident. He, however, said that the vehicle was insured with the United India Insurance Company Limited. He was driving the vehicle under a valid and effective driving licence. The bus was working on contract under the control of the Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation (for short, "the Corporation'). The Corporation ought to have been made a party. To like effect is the separate written statement, paper No. 13 ख filed on behalf of the owner.

10. The Insurance Company filed their own written statement, paper No. 10ख. They denied most of the claimants' case for want of knowledge. However, in their special pleas, it was stated that the claimants had not presented the necessary documents to hold the Insurance Company liable, such as the FIR, the charge-sheet, the site-plan, the postmortem report, the registration certificate, the road tax payment papers, the route permit and the insurance certificate.

11. According to the appellant-Insurance Company, the claim was barred by Section 149(2)(b) of the Act read with Section 64VB of the Insurance Act, 1938. The Insurance Company went to the extent of denying having insured the offending bus. It was also pleaded that the claim petition was barred by Section 158 of the Act.

12. Upon the pleadings of parties, the following issues were framed (translated into English from Hindi):

(1) Whether on 22.10.2013 at about 11:40 a.m. at the B.D.D.V. Mahila Maha Vidyalaya located within the limits of Village Madanpur Paniar, P.S. Lambhua, District Sultanpur, when the deceased Suresh Kumar @ Lallu along with his mother, Dhanpatti Devi, was cycling his way back after Darshan, Bus bearing Registration No. UP-32CZ-0403 proceeding from the Jaunpur side, driven negligently and at a high speed by its driver, who was intoxicated, hit the bicycle from the rear side, leading to Suresh Kumar @ Lallu's death on the spot and that of his mother, Dhanpatti Devi on 22.10.2013 at the District Hospital, Sultanpur?

(2) Whether the offending vehicle in question No. UP-32CZ-0403 had all valid papers, such as registration, insurance etc., that were effective, if yes, its effect?

(3) Whether the driver of the offending vehicle in question No. UP-32CZ-0403 had an effective and valid driving licence, if yes, its effect?

(4) Whether the petition is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties?

(5) Whether the claimants are entitled to any compensation, if yes, from whom and how much?

13. The claimants examined PW-1, Radheyshyam and PW-2, Ramesh Kumar in support of their case and by way of documentary evidence, produced through a list of documents a photostat copy of the FIR, postmortem report, inquest report, registration certificate, fitness certificate, driving licence, insurance certificate. In addition, through another list, paper No. 16ग, a copy of the FIR, a copy of the charge sheet, a copy of the site-plan, a copy of the postmortem report were filed. No oral evidence was led by any of the opposite parties to the claim petition, including the appellant-Insurance Company. The owner and the driver, however, filed documentary evidence, being the offending vehicle's registration certificate, fitness certificate, the driver Vinay Kumar's driving licence, the insurance certificate, the document regarding payment of tax, a copy of the contract with the State Road Transport Corporation and a copy of deed (of agreement) with the Corporation.

14. Heard Mr. Anchal Mishra, learned Counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company in support of this appeal and Mr. Ved Prakash Yadav, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the claimant-respondents. No one appeared on behalf of respondent no.7, the owner.

15. In this appeal, the moot question involved is whether the appellant-Insurance Company are obliged to pay the awarded compensation in terms of the insurance policy, for the reason that no route permit has been produced, authorizing the owner or the Corporation operating the offending vehicle to ply the particular vehicle on the specified route. It is submitted by Mr. Anchal Mishra, learned Counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company that unless the particular vehicle, which is a private vehicle insured by the owner, has a valid route permit to operate on the route, where the accident occurred, the Insurance Company would not be liable to indemnify. In support of his contention, the learned Counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company has placed reliance on the decision of a Division Bench of this Court in F.A.F.O. No.937 of 2009, U.P.S.R.T.C. through Regional Manager, 6 Sapru Marg, Lucknow v. The Oriental Insurance Ltd. through Regional Manager, Regional Office, Balmiki Marg, Lalbagh, Lucknow, decided on 25.08.2010. The said case is related to a Corporation's Bus, about which it was contended that it was not proved by production of a valid route permit that the Bus had a permit to ply on the route where the accident occurred. On that ground, the Insurance Company had denied its liability to indemnify the Corporation. Relying on the provisions of Section 66 of the Act, it was held that the requirement of route permit to ply on a particular route was necessary, whether the owner of the transport vehicle was an individual or the State Transport Corporation. In U.P.S.R.T.C. v. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. (supra), it was held:

"Further, " Motor Vehicle", "permit", "Public Service Vehicle" and Transport Vehicle are defined under Section 2 sub-section (28) (31) (35) and 47) of the Motor Vehicle Act 1988:-

"(28) "Motor Vehicle" or "Vehicle" means any mechanically propelled vehicle adapted for use upon road whether the power of propulsion is transmitted thereto from an external and internal source and includes a chassis to which a body has not been attached and a trailer; but does not include a vehicle running upon fixed rails or a vehicle of a special type adapted for use only in a factory or in any other enclosed premises or a vehicle having less than four wheels fitted with engine capacity of not exceeding[twenty-five cubic centimeters];

(31) "permit" means a permit issued by a State or Regional Transport Authority or an authority prescribed in this behalf under this Act authorising the use of a motor vehicle as transport vehicle;

(35) "public service vehicle" means any motor vehicle used or adapted to be used for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward , and includes a maxicab, a motorcab, contract carriage , and stage carriage;

(47) "transport vehicle" means a public service vehicle, a goods carriage , an educational institution bus or a private service vehicle;"

Chapter V of the Act deals with control of transport vehicles and in the said chapter section 66 provides as under:-

"66. Necessity for permits. (1) No owner of a motor vehicle shall use or permit the use of the vehicle as a transport vehicle in any public place whether or not such vehicle is actually carrying any passengers or goods save in accordance with the conditions of a permit granted or countersigned by a Regional or State Transport Authority or any prescribed authority authorising him in use of the vehicle in that place in the manner in which the vehicle is being used."

Moreover in the said chapter Sections 70, 71 and 72 provides the procedure for application for stage carriage permit , procedure of Regional Transport Authority in considering application for stage carriage permit and grant of stage carriage permit respectively.

In view of the said provision as find place in Chapter V of the Act, legal position which emerges out that the vehicle which either owned by private individuals or by Corporation or by any authority can operate on a route in order to carry the passengers only when it holds a valid permit to use the said vehicle as a transport vehicle in public place subject to conditions as mentioned in sub section (3) of Section 66 of the Act."

Second submission as made by the learned counsel for the appellant that at the time of accident the bus was covered with valid documents i.e. permit, registration , insurance and even if it was not covered by the valid permit as per the practice and procedure adopted by the Corporation that vehicles are sent on the route on the basis of the permit issued to another vehicle as such the appellant is not liable to pay the compensation but the same is payable by insurance company is factually incorrect and wrong submission. In this regard issue no. 3 was framed by the Tribunal and while deciding the said issue finding of fact has been given by the Tribunal that at the time of accident, bus was covered by valid insurance policy but the same was operated without valid permit, so the insurance company was not liable to pay any compensation. Said findings given by the Tribunal are perfectly valid and in accordance with law as provided under section 66 of the Act, as stated above which specifically provides that transport vehicle can only operate on the route with a valid permit and in the present case , it is not disputed by the learned counsel for the appellant that bus in question at the time of accident was not covered by valid permit issued as per the provisions as provided under Sections 70,71, and 72 of the Act.

Further even otherwise while deciding the issue no. 3 , the Tribunal has also given a categorical finding that the Corporation/ appellant could not claim the benefit of the provisions of Section 103 of the Act because the mandatory provisions and the directions as provided under Section 101 and 102 of the Act has not been complied by the Corporation."

16. This Court may notice the principle that the owner of a commercial vehicle can place it through a contract at the disposal of the State Transport Corporation, who would then be regarded as its owner under Section 2(30) of the Act, entitled to operate the bus on any route under a permit issued to the Corporation, irrespective of the fact whether the particular vehicle had a permit for that route. The Corporation are entitled, by virtue of Section 103(1-A) of the Act [as amended vide Uttar Pradesh Act 5 of 1993, sec. 2 (w.r.e.f. 16-1-1993)], to ply one vehicle or the other owned by the State Transport Undertaking or a vehicle that is placed at their disposal by its owner under an arrangement entered into between such owner and the Corporation for the use of the said vehicle by the latter, on any route for which the Corporation holds a permit. The insurance policy would enure to the benefit of the person, who is lawfully plying the vehicle, which would include the Corporation as the term owner has been given an expanded meaning under Section 2(30) of the Act. It is not the law that each time a vehicle is placed at the disposal of another person, or for that matter the Corporation, a new policy has to be taken out. This point is settled in view of the decision of the Supreme Court in Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation v. Kulsum and others, (2011) 8 SCC 142.

17. But, the issue that Mr. Anchal Mishra has raised is not just about the insurance policy issued in favour of the owner, enuring to the benefit of the Corporation, when the vehicle was placed at the Corporation's disposal and the State undertaking were operating it, under their control, pursuant to an agreement for the purpose. The issue is whether a route permit for the offending vehicle, authorizing the Corporation to ply it on the route, where the accident occurred, was necessary to produce in order to fasten liability upon the Insurance Company. Broadly speaking, there is a difference between the liability of an Insurance Company to indemnify a commercial vehicle operating in a public place in that, that while a private operator of a commercial vehicle must hold a route permit for a specific vehicle operating on a specified route, under Section 66 of Chapter VI of the Act, the State Road Transport Corporation by virtue of Section 103(1-A) of the Act, as amended in its application in Uttar Pradesh, can operate any vehicle owned by them or placed at their disposal on a route for which they hold a route permit. The question was examined in a number of decisions of this Court. In F.A.F.O. No. 194 of 2011, The Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Kripa Ram and ors., decided on 17.08.2017, it was held by Mahendra Dayal, J:

"10. The plain reading of Section 103 of the Act clearly reveals that the procedure for issuance of permit in favour of U.P. S.R.T.C., is contained in it. Once an independent provision for issuance of permit as stipulated in Chapter-VI of the Act has been made, no permit under Section 66 of the Act would be necessary.

11. A perusal of Section 103 (1A) also clearly reveals that the State Transport undertaking is required to take permit only in respect of a particular route. There is no requirement that the vehicle number should also find place in such permits. Once a motor vehicle is operated by U.P.S.R.T.C.

it will, be fully covered under the provisions of Chapter-VI of the Act. There is no reason as to why the stipulation incorporated in the Insurance Policy may require satisfaction of permit issued under Section 66 of the Act.

12. It has also been submitted by the learned counsel for the respondent No. 3 that similar issue came for consideration before this Court several times and the controversy has been finally settled that the permit required for U.P.S.R.T.C. buses, does not require the registration number of the buses to be mentioned therein.

13. The learned counsel for the respondent No. 3 has referred to a judgment of the Division Bench of this Court rendered in FAFO No. 1090 of 2011, decided on 23.7.2015. In this case also similar question was raised and the Division Bench held that once the requirement for issuance of permit for notified route or notified area has been made, the argument of learned counsel for the appellant that bus number must be mentioned on the permit, cannot be accepted. It was also held that no such statutory requirement is contemplated either under the Act or under the Rules. A Co-ordinate Bench of this Court also had an occasion to examine this aspect of the matter in FAFO No. 462 of 2016 and FAFO No. 504 of 2014. In both the cases the Co-ordinate Bench came to the conclusion that Section 103 of the Motor Vehicles Act envisages the procedure of issuance of permit in favour of U.P.S.R.T.C. The Honb'le Single Judge, while deciding the appeals considered the matter in detail and found that once a motor vehicle operated by U.P.S.R.T.C. is covered under Chapter VI of the Act, no permit as provided under Section 66 of the Act is required. It was also considered by the Court that Rule 130 of the U.P. Motor Vehicle Rules 1998 prescribes the procedure for issuance of permit in favour of U.P.S.R.T.C. The prescribed form for obtaining permit is Form No. S.R. 46. This form also clearly mentions the issuance of permit under Section 103 of the Act. The other vehicles which are operated privately or issued permit in form S.R. 29 are regulated by Section 66 of the Act."

18. The question again fell for consideration before this Court in Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., Barabanki v. Smt. Mithlesh and others, 2017 (4) ADJ 111 (LB). In Smt. Mithlesh (supra), it was held:

"11. A plain reading of the provisions extracted above, clearly shows that Section 98 gives an overriding effect to the provisions contained in Chapter VI of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. Section 103 sub-section (1) contains non-obstante clause, therefore, any provision contained in Chapter V inconsistent with the provisions of Chapter VI of the Act would have no application.

12. Insofar as the question of issuance of permit is concerned, Section 103 (1) of the Act clearly envisages the mechanism for issuance of permits in favour of UPSRTC. Once an independent provision for issuance of permits is stipulated under the statute, to say that for operating a vehicle by UPSRTC under Section 103(1A) of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, a permit under Section 66 of the Act would be necessary, in my humble consideration, such a proposition of law is misconceived and does not deserve acceptance. The rejection of contention is further strengthened when we look at the definition of owner as defined under Section 2(30) of the Act quoted hereinabove.

13. Section 103 was inserted by U.P. Act No. 5 of 1993 w.e.f. 17.1.1993 and is applicable insofar as the present case is concerned. Once a motor vehicle operated by UPSRTC is fully covered under the provisions of Chapter VI of the Act, there is no reason as to why the stipulation incorporated in the insurance policy may require satisfaction of permit issued under Section 66 of the Act for a vehicle covered under the provisions of Section 103 read with Section 103 (1A) of the Act.

14. There is yet another reason as to why meaning of stipulation in the insurance policy be not confined and interpreted within the ambit of Section 66. The stipulation itself provides for a permit issued under the provisions of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. The condition in the insurance policy is wide enough to bring all the types of permits conceived under the Act within the cover of insurance policy, as such, the question raised by the appellant on the strength of Section 66 of the Act is without any legal foundation. The plea advanced by learned counsel for the appellant was also considered in the light of relevant Rules i.e. U.P. Motor Vehicle Rules, 1998. Rule 130 of the above Rules prescribes the procedure for issuance of permits in favour of UPSRTC in Form SR-46. Form SR-46 as is prescribed for the vehicles operated by UPSRTC clearly mentions the issuance of such a permit under Section 103 of the Act, whereas, the vehicles operated privately are to be issued a permit in Form SR-29 which is regulated under Section 66 of the Act. This is however, not to suggest that a privately operated vehicle may not have a permit under Section 66 of the Act. It may be fruitful to bear in mind that private operators first of all purchase a vehicle which is bound to have a permit and then comes operation of a vehicle on the notified route; but for a State Undertaking, a route under a scheme comes into existence first which follows by a permit and operation of vehicle in terms of permit comes last.

15. Once the prescribed statutory norms for the purposes of issuance of permit stand at variance, there is no reason as to why the permits issued under Chapter V and Chapter VI of the Act may not be treated to be satisfying the condition of insurance policy placed reliance upon. The two chapters being mutually exclusive provide for distinct permits which have to operate interdependently."

19. The same principle has been endorsed by this Court in Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., Lko. v. Smt. Daya Devi and others, 2017 (4) ADJ 778 (LB), and again, in a much later decision in Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., Lko. v. Smt. Saroj and others, 2021 (6) ADJ 346 (LB).

20. Here, the learned Counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company has attempted to raise the further issue that the Corporation were not impleaded as a party, though they were necessary parties, and on that account, the permit held by the Corporation for the route on which the offending vehicle was operated by them in terms of the contract between the owner and the Corporation could not be produced. It is further urged that if the Corporation were not impleaded, it was the duty of the owner to have placed on record the permit held by the Corporation to ply on the route, where the accident occurred.

21. It must be recorded that there is no plea raised on behalf of the appellant-Insurance Company in their written statement about non-joinder of the Corporation as a necessary party to the proceeding. The plea was raised on behalf of the Owner and the Driver and Issue No. 4 about non-joinder of the Corporation as a necessary party was framed at their instance. However, at the hearing, the said issue was not pressed and none of the opposite parties to the claim petition, including the appellant-Insurance Company, pressed for a decision on the said issue. Thus, so far as non-impleadment of the Corporation is concerned, it does not appear to be a case which the Insurance Company are entitled to agitate now. So far as the fundamental plea that the Corporation's permit for the route, in any case, was required to be brought on record, if not by the non-party Corporation, by the claimants, who seek compensation, it must be remarked that the Corporation are an establishment of the State, wholly owned and controlled by it. There is a presumption of fact-quite rebuttable about regularity attached to all official actions, a principle embodied under clause (e) of Section 114 of the Evidence Act, 1872. The provisions of Section 114(e) of the Evidence Act are based on a salutary principle, and assuming that the Evidence Act does not apply proprio vigore to proceedings before the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, the principle there based on time-tested wisdom does certainly apply. There is no reason why the Corporation would ply a vehicle of theirs on a route, where they do not hold permit. A copy of the agreement between the authorized signatory on behalf of the owner and the Regional Manager of the Corporation for the Lucknow Region is on record as paper No. 15ग. A perusal of Clause 29 of the said agreement, where the owner has been described as the second party and the State Road Transport Corporation as the first party, reads:

"Permit of the undertaking Bus will be in the name of First Party and the fees spent to obtain the permit will be borne by the First Party."

22. The offending vehicle was being operated by the Corporation in terms of the agreement dated 25.10.2000, which carries a covenant that the Corporation would operate on the basis of a permit taken out by them and the expenses whereof the Corporation would bear. Bearing in mind the principle about regularity in official actions, it has to be presumed that the Corporation were operating on a route for which they held a permit. The provisions of sub-Section (1-A) of Section 103 show that the Corporation do not require a permit for every vehicle that they operate with its number mentioned on the permit. They can detail any vehicle on any route of theirs, including a vehicle that has been leased out to them or which they operate under an agreement from its owner. The presumption, therefore, that arises clearly is that the offending vehicle was being operated on a route for which the Corporation held a permit. The accident occurred on that route. It was for the appellant-Insurance Company, under the circumstances, to prove by affirmative evidence, that the Corporation did not have a permit to operate on the route where the accident occurred. The presumption about regularity in official actions is rebuttable, and this presumption too could be rebutted. But, it was not. The appellant-Insurance Company did not lead any evidence, whatsoever, to show that on the date of accident on the route, the offending vehicle was plying, the Corporation did not hold a valid permit to operate.

23. In the circumstances, there is no force whatsoever in the contention that the appellant-Insurance Company raise in this appeal. No other point was pressed.

In re. : FAFO No. 33 of 2016

24. This appeal is again by the Insurance Company and arises out of the claim relating to the death of Smt. Dhanpatti Devi, the other victim of the accident, who was riding the bicycle along with her son, Suresh Kumar @ Lallu on 22.10.2013. The other details and issues need not be gone into as the relevant facts and the issue, on the basis of which the award here has been sought to be impeached, are the same as those involved in the leading appeal. No additional point has been pressed in this appeal by Mr. Anchal Mishra, learned Counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company.

25. In the result, both the appeals fail and are dismissed with costs throughout. The interim orders passed are hereby vacated.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is an appeal by the Insurance Company, arising out of the judgment and award passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No.2, Unnao dated 05.07.2002 in Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 276 of 1999. The Insurance Company seeks to relieve itself of the liability to pay the compensation awarded.

2. On the 4th of November, 1999, the deceased, Kali Shanker, accompanied one Radhey Lal, a native of his village, was proceeding to participate in the last rites of the latter's mother, who had passed away. The members of the funeral procession, if it could be called that, boarded an attached trolley to the tractor bearing Registration No. UP-35/9751 in order to ferry the mortal remains of Radhey Lal's mother to the cremation ground. At about half past eleven in the morning hours, as the tractor reached a place called Gadan Khera within the local limits of Police Station Kotwali Unnao, close-by to Jagat Mohan Memorial School, the tractor-trolley turned turtle. It happened because of the driver's negligence. The accident resulted in grievous injuries to Kali Shanker, who succumbed by the time he was conveyed to the hospital. Information in this regard was given to Police Station Kotwali, Unnao. The Police caused the dead body of Kali Shanker to be subjected to autopsy on 05.11.1999. On the 6th of November, 1999, Kali Shanker's son, Jagdish got a First Information Report lodged regarding the incident. Chhota son of Chetau, opposite party to the claim petition, is the tractor owner. He died pending the claim petition and, therefore, his sons, Shivpal and Rajpal, were substituted. Besides his sons, Lal Bahadur son of Binda and Vishun son of Jagan were also impleaded as opposite parties nos.4 and 5 - all four as co-owners in Chhota's stead.

3. The Oriental Insurance Company Limited, 249/1, Civil Lines, Unnao through its Branch Manager are the the tractor's insurers. The aforesaid Insurance Company, who shall hereinafter be referred to as the 'insurers', are the appellants.

4. A joint written statement was filed by respondent nos. 2 to 5 to the claim petition, that is to say, the co-owners of the offending tractor and one on behalf of the insurers. It would be apposite to mention that while alive, Chhota too had filed a written statement.

5. The original owner, Chhota as well as the succeeding co-owners took a stand that the offending tractor was not involved in the accident. That apart, they said that the liability, if any, would be that of the insurers.

6. On the pleadings of parties, the following issues were framed (translated into English from Hindi):

(1) Whether on 04.11.1999 at 11:30 in the day near Jagat Mohan Memorial School, tractor bearing Registration No. UP-35/9751 was driven at high speed and negligently, in consequence of which the tractor-trolley turned turtle, leading to Kali Shanker's death?

(2) Whether at the time of the aforesaid accident, the tractor driver had a valid and effective driving licence?

(3) Whether at the time of the aforesaid accident, the tractor and trolley were insured with the insurers?

(4) Whether at the time of the accident, the tractor and the trolley were being operated in violation of the Motor Vehicles Act?

(5) Whether the claimants are entitled to any compensation and from whom?

(6) Whether the claimants are entitled to any relief and from whom?

7. There is not much quarrel between parties about the factum of accident before this Court, which was held by the Tribunal to have resulted from the rash and negligent driving of the tractor-trolley. On the second issue, the Tribunal found that the driver had a valid driving license, effective from 08.09.1999 to 02.11.2002. On the third issue, the Tribunal noted that the insurers had raised an objection that the tractor was insured with them for the purpose of doing agricultural work and the trolley was not at all insured, rendering them not liable to pay compensation. The Tribunal made a short shrift of this objection, disposing it of with the remark that the objection is not tenable as the insurance cover note that has been produced in original shows that at the time of accident, the tractor was insured with the insurers from 05.11.1998 to 04.11.1999.

8. While deciding Issue Nos. 4, 5 and 6, the Tribunal has dealt with the quantum of compensation payable and determined it at a sum of Rs. 78,000/- payable with interest at the rate of 9% per annum from the date of presentation of the claim petition. The claimants have not preferred any cross-objection or a separate appeal, seeking enhancement of the quantum.

9. Heard Mr. Pramod Kumar, learned Counsel for the insurers and Mr. Prem Kumar Singh, learned Counsel for the claimant-respondent nos. 1, 2 and 3.

10. The deceased was a passenger, who was travelling on the tractor-trolley. The trolley does not appear to have been registered or insured as a separate vehicle for carrying even goods. It could never have been registered as a passenger vehicle or insured as such. The policy covering the tractor is a Kisan Package Insurance Policy, which apparently limits the liability of the insurers to third parties in case of death or bodily injury to any person caused by or arising out of the use of the tractor for agricultural purposes. The tractor is neither a passenger vehicle nor a goods vehicle. The trolley was absolutely unregistered and uninsured, as already said. In this case, the deceased was travelling on the trolley to the cremation ground to participate in the last rites of Radhey Lal's mother. The tractor was travelling on a public road. It was not at all engaged in any kind of agricultural operations. The deceased was certainly not the owner or the driver of the tractor.

11. The question about the liability of the Insurance Company to pay compensation in the case of death of a passenger travelling on a tractor-trolley arose for consideration before the Supreme Court in Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Brij Mohan and others, (2007) 7 SCC 56. It was held in Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Brij Mohan (supra) :

"10. Furthermore, the respondent was not the owner of the tractor. He was also not the driver thereof. He was merely a passenger travelling on the trolley attached to the tractor. His claim petition, therefore, could not have been allowed in view of the decision of this Court in New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Asha Rani [New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Asha Rani, (2003) 2 SCC 223 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 493] wherein the earlier decision of this Court in New India Assurance Co. v. Satpal Singh [(2000) 1 SCC 237 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 130] was overruled. In Asha Rani [New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Asha Rani, (2003) 2 SCC 223 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 493] it was, inter alia, held : (SCC p. 235, paras 25-27)

"25. Section 147 of the 1988 Act, inter alia, prescribes compulsory coverage against the death of or bodily injury to any passenger of "public service vehicle'. Proviso appended thereto categorically states that compulsory coverage in respect of drivers and conductors of public service vehicle and employees carried in a goods vehicle would be limited to the liability under the Workmen's Compensation Act. It does not speak of any passenger in a "goods carriage'.

26. In view of the changes in the relevant provisions in the 1988 Act vis-à-vis the 1939 Act, we are of the opinion that the meaning of the words "any person' must also be attributed having regard to the context in which they have been used i.e. "a third party'. Keeping in view the provisions of the 1988 Act, we are of the opinion that as the provisions thereof do not enjoin any statutory liability on the owner of a vehicle to get his vehicle insured for any passenger travelling in a goods vehicle, the insurers would not be liable therefor.

27. Furthermore, sub-clause (i) of clause (b) of sub-section (1) of Section 147 speaks of liability which may be incurred by the owner of a vehicle in respect of death of or bodily injury to any person or damage to any property of a third party caused by or arising out of the use of the vehicle in a public place, whereas sub-clause (ii) thereof deals with liability which may be incurred by the owner of a vehicle against the death of or bodily injury to any passenger of a public service vehicle caused by or arising out of the use of the vehicle in a public place."

(See also National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Bommithi Subbhayamma [(2005) 12 SCC 243] and United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Tilak Singh [(2006) 4 SCC 404 : (2006) 2 SCC (Cri) 344] .)

11. Although the effect of 1994 amendment in the Motor Vehicles Act did not call for consideration in Asha Rani

[New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Asha Rani, (2003) 2 SCC 223 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 493], a three-Judge Bench of this Court had the occasion to consider the said question in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Baljit Kaur [(2004) 2 SCC 1 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 370] in the following terms : (SCC pp. 7-8, paras 17-19)

"17. By reason of the 1994 amendment what was added is "including owner of the goods or his authorised representative carried in the vehicle'. The liability of the owner of the vehicle to insure it compulsorily, thus, by reason of the aforementioned amendment included only the owner of the goods or his authorised representative carried in the vehicle besides the third parties. The intention of Parliament, therefore, could not have been that the words "any person' occurring in Section 147 would cover all persons who were travelling in a goods carriage in any capacity whatsoever. If such was the intention, there was no necessity of Parliament to carry out an amendment inasmuch as the expression "any person' contained in sub-clause (i) of clause (b) of sub-section (1) of Section 147 would have included the owner of the goods or his authorised representative besides the passengers who are gratuitous or otherwise.

18. The observations made in this connection by the Court in Asha Rani case [New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Asha Rani, (2003) 2 SCC 223 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 493] to which one of us, Sinha, J., was a party, however, bear repetition : (SCC p. 235, para 26)

"26. In view of the changes in the relevant provisions in the 1988 Act vis-à-vis the 1939 Act, we are of the opinion that the meaning of the words "any person' must also be attributed having regard to the context in which they have been used i.e. "a third party'. Keeping in view the provisions of the 1988 Act, we are of the opinion that as the provisions thereof do not enjoin any statutory liability on the owner of a vehicle to get his vehicle insured for any passenger travelling in a goods vehicle, the insurers would not be liable therefor.'

19. In Asha Rani [New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Asha Rani, (2003) 2 SCC 223 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 493] it has been noticed that sub-clause (i) of clause (b) of sub-section (1) of Section 147 of the 1988 Act speaks of liability which may be incurred by the owner of a vehicle in respect of death of or bodily injury to any person or damage to any property of a third party caused by or arising out of the use of the vehicle in a public place. Furthermore, an owner of a passenger-carrying vehicle must pay premium for covering the risks of the passengers travelling in the vehicle. The premium in view of the 1994 amendment would only cover a third party as also the owner of the goods or his authorised representative and not any passenger carried in a goods vehicle whether for hire or reward or otherwise."

12. Interpretation of the contracts of insurance in terms of Sections 147 and 149 of the Motor Vehicles Act came up for consideration recently before a Division Bench of this Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Laxmi Narain Dhut [(2007) 3 SCC 700 : (2007) 2 SCC (Cri) 142 : (2007) 4 Scale 36] wherein it was held : (SCC p. 714, paras 23-24)

"23[24]. As noted above, there is no contractual relation between the third party and the insurer. Because of the statutory intervention in terms of Section 149, the same becomes operative in essence and Section 149 provides complete insulation.

24[25]. In the background of the statutory provisions, one thing is crystal clear i.e. the statute is beneficial one qua the third party. But that benefit cannot be extended to the owner of the offending vehicle. The logic of fake licence has to be considered differently in respect of the third party and in respect of own damage claims."

It was further observed : (SCC pp. 718-19, paras 33-35)

"33[36]. It is also well settled that to arrive at the intention of the legislation depending on the objects for which the enactment is made, the court can resort to historical, contextual and purposive interpretation leaving textual interpretation aside.

34[37]. Francis Bennion in his book Statutory Interpretation described "purposive interpretation' as under:

"A purposive construction of an enactment is one which gives effect to the legislative purpose by--

(a) following the literal meaning of the enactment where that meaning is in accordance with the legislative purpose, or

(b) applying a strained meaning where the literal meaning is not in accordance with the legislative purpose.'

35[38]. More often than not, literal interpretation of a statute or a provision of a statute results in absurdity. Therefore, while interpreting statutory provisions, the courts should keep in mind the objectives or purpose for which statute has been enacted. Justice Frankfurter of US Supreme Court in an article titled as "Some Reflections on the Reading of Statutes' (47 Columbia Law Review 527), observed that,"legislation has an aim, it seeks to obviate some mischief, to supply an adequacy, to effect a change of policy, to formulate a plan of Government. That aim, that policy is not drawn, like nitrogen, out of the air; it is evidenced in the language of the statutes, as read in the light of other external manifestations of purpose.' "

(See also Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Meena Variyal [(2007) 5 SCC 428 : (2007) 2 SCC (Cri) 527 : (2007) 5 Scale 269] .)

12. The question whether a passenger travelling in a goods vehicle was a third party fell for consideration of the Supreme Court in New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Vedwati and others, (2007) 9 SCC 486, where it was held:

"6. "4. This Court had occasion to deal with cases of passengers travelling in goods vehicles which met with accident resulting in death of such person or bodily injury. Such cases belong to three categories i.e. (1) those covered by the old Act; (2) those covered by the Act; and (3) those covered by amendment of the Act in 1994 by the Motor Vehicles (Amendment) Act, 1994 (hereinafter referred to as "the Amendment Act').

5. The present appeals belong to the second category.

6. In Satpal Singh case [(2000) 1 SCC 237 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 130] this Court proceeded on the footing that provisions of Section 95(1) of the old Act are in pari materia with Section 147(1) of the Act, as it stood prior to the amendment in 1994.

7. On a closer reading of the expressions "goods vehicle', "public service vehicle', "stage carrier' and "transport vehicle' occurring in Sections 2(8), 2(25), 2(29) and 2(33) of the old Act with the corresponding provisions i.e. Sections 2(14), 2(35), 2(40) and 2(47) of the Act, it is clear that there are conceptual differences. The provisions read as follows:

Old Act

"2. (8) "goods vehicle" means any motor vehicle constructed or adapted for use for the carriage of goods, or any motor vehicle not so constructed or adapted when used for the carriage of goods solely or in addition to passengers;

***

(25) "public service vehicle" means any motor vehicle used or adapted to be used for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward, and includes a motorcab, contract carriage, and stage carriage;

***

(29) "stage carriage" means a motor vehicle carrying or adapted to carry more than six persons excluding the driver which carries passengers for hire or reward at separate fares paid by or for individual passengers either for the whole journey or for stages of the journey;

***

(33) "transport vehicle" means a public service vehicle or a goods vehicle;'

The Act (New Act)

"2. (14) "goods carriage" means any motor vehicle constructed or adapted for use solely for the carriage of goods, or any motor vehicle not so constructed or adapted when used for the carriage of goods;

***

(35) "public service vehicle" means any motor vehicle used or adapted to be used for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward, and includes a maxicab, a motorcab, contract carriage, and stage carriage;

***

(40) "stage carriage" means a motor vehicle constructed or adapted to carry more than six passengers excluding the driver for hire or reward at separate fares paid by or for individual passengers, either for the whole journey or for stages of the journey;

***

(47) "transport vehicle" means a public service vehicle, a goods carriage, an educational institution bus or a private service vehicle;'

(emphasis in original)

8. "Liability' as defined in Section 145(c) of the Act reads as follows:

"145. (c) "liability", wherever used in relation to the death of or bodily injury to any person, includes liability in respect thereof under Section 140;'

9. Third-party risks in the background of vehicles which are the subject-matter of insurance are dealt with in Chapter VIII of the old Act and Chapter XI of the Act. Proviso to Section 147 [of the Act] needs to be juxtaposed with Section 95 of the old Act. Proviso to Section 147 of the Act reads as follows:

"Provided that a policy shall not be required

(i) to cover liability in respect of the death, arising out of and in the course of his employment, of the employee of a person insured by the policy or in respect of bodily injury sustained by such an employee arising out of and in the course of his employment other than a liability arising under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 (8 of 1923), in respect of the death of, or bodily injury to, any such employee--

(a) engaged in driving the vehicle, or

(b) if it is a public service vehicle engaged as a conductor of the vehicle or in examining tickets on the vehicle, or

(c) if it is a goods carriage, being carried in the vehicle, or

(ii) to cover any contractual liability.'

It is of significance that the proviso appended to Section 95 of the old Act contained clause (ii) which does not find place in the new Act. The same reads as follows:

"(ii) except where the vehicle is a vehicle in which passengers are carried for hire or reward or by reason of or in pursuance of a contract of employment, to cover liability in respect of the death of or bodily injury to persons being carried in or upon or entering or mounting or alighting from the vehicle at the time of the occurrence of the event out of which a claim arises,'

The difference in the language of "goods vehicle' as appearing in the old Act and "goods carriage' in the Act is of significance. A bare reading of the provisions makes it clear that the legislative intent was to prohibit goods vehicle from carrying any passenger. This is clear from the expression "in addition to passengers' as contained in the definition of "goods vehicle' in the old Act. The position becomes further clear because the expression used is "goods carriage' is solely for the carriage of "goods'. Carrying of passengers in a goods carriage is not contemplated in the Act. There is no provision similar to clause (ii) of the proviso appended to Section 95 of the old Act prescribing requirement of insurance policy. Even Section 147 of the Act mandates compulsory coverage against death of or bodily injury to any passenger of "public service vehicle'. The proviso makes it further clear that compulsory coverage in respect of drivers and conductors of public service vehicle and employees carried in goods vehicle would be limited to liability under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 (in short "the WC Act'). There is no reference to any passenger in "goods carriage'.

10. The inevitable conclusion, therefore, is that provisions of the Act do not enjoin any statutory liability on the owner of a vehicle to get his vehicle insured for any passenger travelling in a goods carriage and the insurer would have no liability therefor.

11. Our view gets support from a recent decision of a three-Judge Bench of this Court in New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Asha Rani [(2003) 2 SCC 223 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 493 : (2002) 8 Supreme 594] in which it has been held that Satpal Singh case [(2000) 1 SCC 237 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 130] was not correctly decided. That being the position, the Tribunal and the High Court were not justified in holding that the insurer had the liability to satisfy the award."

This position was also highlighted in Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Devireddy Konda Reddy [(2003) 2 SCC 339 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 540] , SCC pp. 341-43, paras 4-11. Subsequently also in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Ajit Kumar [(2003) 9 SCC 668 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 1915] , in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Baljit Kaur [(2004) 2 SCC 1 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 370] and in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Bommithi Subbhayamma [(2005) 12 SCC 243] the view in Asha Rani case [(2003) 2 SCC 223 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 493 : (2002) 8 Supreme 594] was reiterated."

13. Now, Vedwati (supra) was a case relating to a goods vehicle. The case of a tractor is all the more different and the insurers, by no means, can be held liable to indemnify the owner for an injury sustained by a person travelling on a tractor as a passenger; or the trolley attached to the tractor. The same view was reiterated by the Supreme Court in New India Insurance Company v. Darshana Devi and others, (2008) 7 SCC 416, where the deceased was a person travelling on the tractor's mudguard, that was ferrying a consignment of Safeda to Hoshiarpur.

14. The aforesaid view of the law has been followed by this Court in National Insurance Company Ltd. v. Smt. Leela alias Vimla, 2014 SCC OnLine All 16209, which was also a fatal accident, where the deceased was travelling on a tractor. It was held that a passenger travelling on a tractor, which is not a transport vehicle but one that can be used for agricultural purpose alone, would not make the Insurance Company liable to indemnify the owner for the compensation awarded in case of death of a passenger. To like effect is the decision of this Court in Mohan Kushwaha and others v. Ghanshyam and another, 2011 SCC OnLine All 2570, where it was held:

"9. The argument has no substance inasmuch as it is settled that a tractor is not a transport vehicle and can only be used for agricultural purposes. It cannot carry passengers.

10. It is equally settled that tractor and trolley are two different motor vehicles and have to be insured separately. The trolley in the present case was not insured.

11. In Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Brij Mohan, 2007 ACJ 1909 (SC), the Supreme Court held that as the tractor-trolley was not insured in addition to the tractor and the tractor was not being used for agricultural purposes for which it was insured, the claim of the labourer travelling in the trolley on being injured in an accident was not maintainable against the insurance company and the owner of the vehicle was liable for the compensation. The aforesaid decision was followed by the Apex Court in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Serjerao, 2008 ACJ 254 (SC). It was held that liability regarding labourers travelling in trolleys is only upon the owner of tractor-trolley and the insurance company is not liable to indemnify the loss.

12. Similar view has been expressed by the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. V. Chinnamma, 2004 ACJ 1909 (SC). In the said case the tractor and the trolley attached to it were used for transporting vegetables for sale in the market and not for agricultural purposes. It was held that the tractor was meant to be used for agricultural purposes. It cannot be used as a transport vehicle. The trailer or the trolley attached to the tractor would also be required to be used for agricultural purposes unless registered otherwise. In view of aforesaid facts and cir cumstances, there is no force in the appeal and the same is dismissed as devoid of merit."

15. The same principle has been followed in a more recent decision of this Court in Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. v. Biddo Devi (Deceased) and others, 2018 SCC OnLine All 6027.

16. Bearing in mind the fact that the deceased was travelling on board a tractor-trolley on a public road, proceeding to the cremation ground to participate in the funeral rites of Radhey Lal's mother, it was certainly not a case of an injury or death sustained by a third party in the course of use of the tractor for an agricultural purpose. The insurers cannot be held liable at all under the policy to satisfy the award or indemnify the owner. The finding recorded by the Tribunal, therefore, on Issue No. 3 is patently flawed and liable to be set aside.

17. In the result, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. The impugned award dated 05.07.2002 passed by the Tribunal is modified. It is ordered that the compensation awarded shall be recoverable from the owners. The insurers shall stand discharged of their liability. The statutory deposit of Rs. 25,000/- made in this appeal shall be permitted to be withdrawn by the insurers.

18. Costs easy.

List of Cases cited: -

1. National Insurance Co. Ltd. New Delhi Vs Jugal Kishore & ors. (1988 (1) SCC 626),

2. Baij Nath Chaudhary Vs Sardar Avtar Singh & ors. (FAFO No. 838/1995 decided on 11.12.2019),

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is an owner's appeal, arising out of a judgment and award passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, awarding compensation to the claimants, but relieving the insurers of their liability.

2. The accident giving rise to this claim happened on 03.07.2009 at about 12:00 noon within the local limits of Police Station Mohanlalganj. The deceased, Ram Kumar alias Kunware was proceeding on a bicycle along with his daughter. As he reached the Dahiar Turn, a motorcycle bearing Registration No. UP-32CQ-7136 proceeded from the side of Mohanlalganj, which was driven at a high speed and negligently. It hit Ram Kumar, leading to grievous injuries. He was rushed to the Government Hospital, Mohanlalganj, but before any aid could be extended, he passed away. The claimants are six in number. Smt. Nanhakai is the deceased's widow, whereas Rupesh, Dileep and Sandeep are his sons. Km. Mamta and Km. Renu are the deceased's daughters. When the cause of action arose, out of the five children of the deceased, Rupesh alone was a major, aged 20 years. Dileep was aged 17 years, whereas Sandeep, 15. Km. Mamta and Km. Renu were aged 12 years and 8 years respectively. All the six claimants are arrayed as respondent nos. 1 to 6 to this appeal. The owner of the motorcycle is the appellant, whereas respondent no. 7, the National Insurance Company Limited through its Zonal Manager, Nawal Kishore Road, Hazaratganj, Lucknow is arrayed as respondent no. 7.

3. The claim petition was brought by the six respondents to this appeal, who shall hereinafter be called the 'claimants', arraying Rajesh Kumar and the National Insurance Company Limited as the two opposite parties. Rajesh Kumar shall hereinafter be referred to as 'the owner' whereas the National Insurance Company Limited aforesaid shall be called 'the insurers', unless the context necessitates a particular reference.

4. The claimants asked for a compensation in the sum of Rs.15,30,500/-. The Tribunal, after trying the petition, has allowed it in part, awarding a compensation of Rs.3,16,800/- with 7% interest from the date of the award (for short, 'the impugned award') until realization. The awarded compensation has been directed to be paid by the owner, relieving the insurers of their liability.

5. Aggrieved, this appeal has been preferred by the owner.

6. Eschewing unnecessary details about the owner's and the insurers' case pleaded in the written statement, it would suffice to record that the owner has denied the accident and said that he reached the site of accident after it had already taken place. He stopped by the wayside upon coming across the accident. He was surrounded by the locals and implicated as the perpetrator. The stand of the owner is not to the effect that he was not the one who was riding the offending motorcycle. To the contrary, the owner's stand is that his vehicle was not involved in the accident, but while riding it, he chanced upon the site of accident. His vehicle was duly insured with the insurers and he was riding it with a valid and effective driving licence. His registration certificate and all necessary documents were in order. The owner raised a plea that liability, if any, would be that of the insurers.

7. The insurers put in their written statement, where they not only denied the factum of the accident or the involvement of the offending vehicle, but also pleaded that the claimants have neither supplied a copy of the cover note or the policy, so as to enable the insurers to ascertain whether the offending vehicle was insured with them. It was also stated in the insurers' pleadings that the claimants had not served a copy of the First Information Report, the charge-sheet in the criminal case and the site-plan. Also, a copy of the injury report, postmortem report etc. were not available in order to enable the insurers to ascertain the cause of death, and if it was referable to the injuries sustained by the deceased. A plea was also raised on behalf of the insurers that the claimants have neither impleaded the rider, who was operating the motorcycle at the relevant time or filed a copy of his driving license. Thus, apart from raising a plea of non-joinder of necessary party, that is to say, the rider, the crux of the insurers' case was that the motorcycle was operated by a person different from the owner, Rajesh Kumar.

8. It must be remarked here that the name of the motorcyclist operating the offending vehicle, has figured later on in the evidence as one Satish Kumar, a man different from its owner, Rajesh Kumar.

9. On the pleadings of parties, the Tribunal framed the following issues (translated into English from Hindi) :

(1) Whether on 30.07.2009 at about 12:00 noon at Mohanlalganj, Lucknow when the deceased, Ram Kumar @ Kunware was riding his bicycle along with his daughter, the rider of motorcycle bearing Registration No. UP-32CQ-7136, riding it at a high speed and negligently, hit the bicycle, that led the deceased to sustain injuries, causing his death by the time he reached hospital?

(2) Whether on the date and time of the accident, the offending motorcycle No. UP-32CQ-7136 was insured with opposite party no.2 and its insurance was valid and effective?

(3) Whether on the date and time of the accident, the rider of the offending motorcycle No. UP-32CQ-7136 was in possession of a valid and effective driving licence?

(4) Whether the accident occurred on account of contributory negligence of the deceased riding the bicycle?

(5) Whether the rider of the motorcycle is a necessary party and his non-impleadment to the claim petition makes it bad for non-joinder?

(6) Whether the claimants are entitled to any relief? If yes, from whom and how much?

10. In support of the claim, the claimants led documentary evidence, which includes a copy of the FIR relating to Crime No. 417 of 2009, under Sections 337, 338, 304, 427 IPC, Police Station Mohanlalganj, District Lucknow, Paper No. C5/2, and a photostat copy of the postmortem report, Paper Nos. C5/3 and 5/4. In addition, more documentary evidence was filed through a subsequent list, Paper No. C16 that includes a certified copy of the charge-sheet, a certified copy of the check FIR, a certified copy of the site-plan, a certified copy of the accident inspection report, a certified copy of the postmortem report, registration certificate of the offending motorcycle and the insurance papers. The insurers filed a certified copy of the deceased's family register, a photostat copy of the ration card, a copy of an order dated 28.12.2009 passed by the Circle Officer, Mohanlalganj. Along with these papers, a photostat copy of Rajesh Kumar's driving licence was also filed. The claimants examined Nanhakai as PW-1, the widow of the deceased and Km. Renu, the deceased's daughter, who was the pillion rider of the ill-fated bicycle, as PW-2. No oral evidence was led on behalf of the owner or the insurers.

11. Before commencement of hearing in the appeal, an application under Order XLI Rule 27 CPC was made on behalf of the owner, seeking to bring on record the original insurance policy and the driving licence. Before the application was considered and allowed, the learned Counsel for the insurers was required to seek instructions and verify the genuineness of the owner's driving licence and the insurance policy relating to the Insurance Company. This opportunity was granted vide order dated 27.11.2021. The application to admit additional evidence was allowed vide order dated 06.12.2021. Both the documents, that is to say, the insurance policy and the driving licence, were admitted to record and marked as Appellant Exhibits Nos. A1 and A2. The hearing of the appeal proceeded immediately thereafter and judgment was reserved.

12. Heard Mr. Rajesh Kumar Shukla, learned Counsel for the owner, Ms. Pooja Arora, Advocate holding brief of Mr. S.C. Gulati, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the insurers and Mr. Rajesh Trivedi, learned Counsel for the claimants.

13. The learned Counsel for the owner has argued that his motorcycle was never involved in the accident and it was a case of 'hit and run'. He happened to reach the scene of occurrence riding his motorcycle, the offending vehicle and was framed in the case by the locals. This issue has been examined by the Tribunal and the evidence of PW-2, Renu, who was the pillion rider of the ill-fated bicycle along with the deceased, has been believed to hold the owner's motorcycle as the offending vehicle. The Tribunal has also concluded, from the evidence of PW-2, that the offending vehicle was being driven at a high speed and negligently, which resulted in the fatal accident. The Tribunal has also looked into the site-plan to hold it to be a case of the motorcyclist's negligence.

14. This Court has looked into the evidence of PW-2 as well, who is a very important witness, and must say that the conclusions of the Tribunal on the first issue cannot be faulted. Rather, the owner does not dispute the fact that he was riding the offending vehicle and chanced upon the accident, which caused him to stop as an onlooker. His case is that he was implicated, because the real perpetrator had fled. There is not a shred of evidence to suggest any case of false implication or there being another vehicle that did a 'hit and run'. The finding returned by the Tribunal on the first issue, that the offending vehicle is the one responsible for the accident, therefore, is flawless and must receive our affirmation.

15. It is the second and the third issues, where there has been serious contention between parties about the fact whether the offending vehicle was driven by the owner, that is to say, Rajesh Kumar, or by another man called Satish Kumar, son of Sundar Lal. This name does not figure in the pleadings of the insurers, but has been mentioned in the FIR lodged by the deceased's son, Rupesh.

16. The contention of the learned Counsel for the owner is that the mention of Satish Kumar's name in the FIR is a matter of incorrect information, inasmuch as the informant was not an eye-witness. He lodged the information on the basis of whatever was conveyed to him by his sister, or may be, some other person present at the site of the accident. The FIR was lodged very promptly, that is to say, within an hour and a half of the occurrence. In the circumstances, there is a strong possibility about the name of the rider being mistaken or misunderstood at any step in the communication from the eye-witness to the informant. Learned Counsel for the owner emphasizes that the Police, after ascertainment of the identity of the offending vehicle's rider, charge-sheeted the owner and not Satish Kumar, who is, in no way, connected to the accident. It is submitted that the owner does not dispute his presence on the spot though he denies the involvement of his vehicle in the accident, a fact not believed by the Tribunal. As such, to hold that it was some Satish Kumar who was driving the offending vehicle and not the owner, is acknowledgment of a patently unbelievable stand by the insurers to wriggle out of their liability under the policy.

17. The contention of the learned Counsel for the insurers, on the other hand, is that even if the owner had a valid driving licence and an insurance policy also, purchased from them, that was valid and effective on the date of accident, the insurers would nevertheless not be liable, because the vehicle was driven by another man called Satish Kumar. According to the learned Counsel for the insurers, it has not been shown that Satish Kumar too had a valid and effective driving licence on the date of accident. It is also argued that the claimants are in collusion with the owner, inasmuch as in the FIR lodged by the deceased's son, the rider of the offending vehicle has been clearly named as Satish Kumar with his parentage, but later on, the Police, during investigation, have deliberately framed the owner as the one responsible for the fatal accident. Learned Counsel for the insurers submits that it is clearly a case of an unauthorized man called Satish Kumar driving the owner's vehicle without a valid driving licence and causing the accident, but later on, in order to saddle the insurers with the liability, the owner in collusion with the claimants and the Police has taken the responsibility upon himself.

18. This Court has considered the rival submissions on the point and carefully perused the record.

19. The Tribunal in its finding has relieved the insurers of the liability firstly on the ground that a photostat copy of the driving licence and the insurance policy, besides the registration certificate, have been filed that are not even attested.

20. The other ground that has weighed with the Tribunal to relieve the insurers of their liability is an acceptance of the insurers' case that the offending vehicle was driven by a man, going by the name Satish Kumar and not the owner. As already noticed, a case of collusion between the owner, the claimants and the Police has been mooted by the insurers to shake off their liability under the insurance policy. So far as the question of admissibility of a photostat copy of the driving license or the insurance policy, or for that matter, the registration certificate is concerned, the Tribunal has gone wrong in holding the same to be inadmissible. Once photostat copies of these documents were produced by the claimant or even if not produced, it was the duty of the Insurance Company to have verified the existence of an insurance policy issued by them in relation to the offending vehicle and also the genuineness of the license, upon which reliance was placed by the claimants. Of course, so far as the driving license is concerned, the burden of the Insurance Company to verify its genuineness would not be in derogation of their case that the vehicle was not driven by the owner, whose license was put in evidence, but by another man Satish Kumar. Likewise, in case of the registration certificate, it was the duty of the insurers to have verified the fact whether the offending vehicle was plying under a valid registration certificate, issued by the competent Registration Authority. The claimants cannot be subjected to the burden of producing and proving the original or attested copies of these documents. In this connection, reference may be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in National Insurance Company Ltd., New Delhi v. Jugal Kishore and others1 which was a motor accident claim case arising under the Motor Vehicles Act, 19392. Apart from the principles laid down there, specific to Section 95 of the Act of 1939, a principle of wide import in the matter of burden of proof regarding production of the Insurance Policy and the Driving License in an accident claim case was stated thus :

10. Before parting with the case, we consider it necessary to refer to the attitude often adopted by the Insurance Companies, as was adopted even in this case, of not filing a copy of the policy before the Tribunal and even before the High Court in appeal. In this connection what is of significance is that the claimants for compensation under the Act are invariably not possessed of either the policy or a copy thereof. This Court has consistently emphasised that it is the duty of the party which is in possession of a document which would be helpful in doing justice in the cause to produce the said document and such party should not be permitted to take shelter behind the abstract doctrine of burden of proof. This duty is greater in the case of instrumentalities of the State such as the appellant who are under an obligation to act fairly. In many cases even the owner of the vehicle for reasons known to him does not choose to produce the policy or a copy thereof. We accordingly wish to emphasise that in all such cases where the Insurance Company concerned wishes to take a defence in a claim petition that its liability is not in excess of the statutory liability it should file a copy of the insurance policy along with its defence. Even in the instant case had it been done so at the appropriate stage necessity of approaching this Court in civil appeal would in all probability have been avoided. Filing a copy of the policy, therefore, not only cuts short avoidable litigation but also helps the court in doing justice between the parties. The obligation on the part of the State or its instrumentalities to act fairly can never be over-emphasised.

(Emphasis by Court)

21. Following the aforesaid decision of the Supreme Court, this Court in Baij Nath Chaudhary v. Sardar Avtar Singh and others3 held that it was the duty of the insurers to rebut and/or lead evidence to establish that the vehicle was not insured with it or that the driver's license was fake. The objection, in any case, is no longer available, inasmuch as the originals of the driving license and the insurance policy were produced before this Court and sought to be admitted in evidence through an application under Order XLI Rule 27 CPC. That application has been allowed and both the documents have been admitted to record and marked as exhibits. Therefore, before this Court, it cannot be contended in any case that the offending vehicle was not insured with the insurers or that the driving license produced was fake. In fact, no evidence to dispute any of the papers regarding the offending vehicle has been led by the insurers. But, the vehicle plied on authorized papers, notwithstanding the insurers' case about the motorcycle being driven by Satish Kumar, a person other than the owner, who is alleged by the claimants to be operating the motorcycle, has to be examined. It is so because the Tribunal has opined that it was not the owner who was driving the motorcycle on the fateful day, but Satish Kumar, whose name has figured in the First Information Report. About Satish Kumar, if he be the rider operating the offending motorcycle, not an iota of evidence has been placed on record to show that he held a valid driving license by any of the parties. Therefore, if Satish Kumar were indeed operating the motorcycle, the insurers may or may not be liable. The insurers could still be liable, because they have not come up with a positive stand and evidence after due inquiry, that Satish Kumar, who, according to them, was operating the motorcycle, did not hold a valid license, so as to constitute a violation of the insurance policy covering the offending vehicle.

22. But, in this case, this Court may not be required to go that far. It would first have to be determined whether for a fact, the Tribunal was right in opining that it was not the owner who was operating the motorcycle on the date of accident, but another man called Satish Kumar. The Tribunal, in order to opine that way, has taken note of an order dated 28.12.2009 issued by the Circle Officer (of Police) that mentions the fact that Rupesh Kumar, the first informant, had said that the Police had wrongfully charge-sheeted Rajesh Kumar. The Tribunal has taken the aforesaid piece of evidence, together with the First Information into consideration, where Satish Kumar has been named as the person operating the offending vehicle at the time of the accident, by the first informant Rupesh Kumar. The Tribunal has connected these two facts with the failure of the claimants to examine Rupesh Kumar as a witness on their behalf. The Tribunal has also taken into account the testimony of P.W.1 Smt. Nanhakai to the effect that her son had told this witness that it was Satish Kumar who was operating the offending vehicle. About the testimony of P.W.2, Renu, who is the only eye-witness of the accident, the Tribunal has remarked that she too has not denied the fact that Satish Kumar was operating the vehicle and has not testified about the fact as to who was actually operating it. The Tribunal has also taken into account the circumstance that Satish Kumar had sustained injuries, whereas Rajesh Kumar had none. The conclusions of the Tribunal may seem based on a thorough consideration of the evidence on record, but this Court, for reasons indicated, is of opinion that the conclusions reached on the basis of evidence on record are not sound. The Tribunal has been much influenced by the fact that in the First Information Report lodged by Rupesh Kumar, Satish Kumar with his parentage has been named as the man operating the offending vehicle at the time of the accident.

23. This Court has noted as well that the First Information Report was lodged by Rupesh Kumar within an hour and a half of the accident and he was not an eye-witness. He has lodged the report upon information by others; may be by his sister Renu. Now, as Renu's testimony would show, she could identify the person operating the offending vehicle at the time of the accident, but did not know his name. Any information passed on by her to the first informant or gathered by the informant from other sources could be much flawed. It is true that a police report, charge-sheeeting a person in the criminal case subject matter of motor accident claim, is not conclusive about the identity of the rider, or for that matter, any fact that is up for trial before the Tribunal, but the police report is certainly a valid piece of evidence. The Police, after investigation, contrary to the man named in the FIR as the one riding the motorcycle, have concluded that it was the owner who was riding the offending vehicle and operating it at the time of the accident.

24. A police report filed after investigation is the result of an official act and cannot be totally discounted, when it comes to fixing the identity of the person who was operating the offending vehicle. Quite apart, of the highest relevance, is the evidence of P.W.2, Renu, who is the only eye-witness of the accident. This witness was cross-examined, where she has said that she did not know the name of the man who was operating the motorcycle, but he is present in Court. This reference is obviously to Rajesh Kumar and not Satish, because Satish was not a party to the case and there is no record that he ever appeared before the Tribunal. The remark of the Tribunal that it was Satish Kumar who was operating the vehicle, as the deposition by P.W.1 on information from her son has not been denied by P.W.2, is not borne out from the record. P.W.2, in her testimony, including the cross-examination, has nowhere accepted the fact that it was Satish Kumar who was operating the offending vehicle. Rather, the testimony of P.W.2 indicates that no question was put to her at any point of time or a suggestion given that it was Satish Kumar, who was operating the offending vehicle. The further remark of the Tribunal, therefore, that P.W.2 has not said anything in her evidence as to who was operating the offending vehicle, is contrary to the record. She has pointed out to a person standing in Court that he was the man operating the offending vehicle, but has not taken the man's name, because she did not know it, a fact which she has clearly asserted. If the man standing in Court, who is very unlikely to have been Satish Kumar, whom the witness said was the one operating the vehicle, was indeed Satish Kumar, the evidence about that man's identity could be produced by the insurers by calling him as a witness, or requesting the Court to ascertain it. Far from it, no suggestion was given to P.W.1 that the man whom she was identifying was Satish Kumar.

25. So far as P.W.1 Nanhakai is concerned, like her son, the first informant Rupesh Kumar, she was not an eye-witness of the accident and her evidence that it was Satish Kumar who was operating the offending vehicle is a remote hearsay based upon her son's information, who had himself heard about the fact and not seen it.

26. On going through a xerox copy of the record, on the basis of which this appeal has been heard, this Court did not find any medical examination report on record regarding the injuries sustained by Satish Kumar, on the foot of which, the Tribunal has remarked that Satish Kumar has sustained injuries, whereas Rajesh Kumar has not. There is no other evidence discernible from the record that led the Tribunal to say this. The circumstantial evidence, on the foot of which the Tribunal has supported its conclusions to hold that it was Satish Kumar who was operating the offending vehicle, therefore, also appears to be unreliable.

27. The conclusion, therefore, would be that the offending vehicle was ridden by the owner at the relevant time and not Satish Kumar. The conclusion, to the contrary, recorded by the Tribunal is not sustainable. The owner had a valid driving license and insurance policy, and there is no other facet of the quarrel between parties about a breach of the terms of the policy, entitling the insurers to be relieved of their obligation to satisfy the award.

28. In the result, this appeal succeeds and stands allowed. The impugned award passed by the Tribunal is modified to the extent that the compensation awarded and directed to be paid by the owner shall be payable by the insurers.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is a claimants' appeal under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short, "the Act') seeking enhancement of the award made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (for short, "the Tribunal').

2. The facts giving rise to this appeal are these:

On 28.03.2012 at about 02:30 p.m., one Rahul Tiwari was on board a Vikram tempo bearing Registration No. UP-42AT-

2014 owned by his father, Angad Tiwari. He was proceeding on board the said vehicle along with some of his friends in a funeral procession from Gonda to Ayodhya. The tempo was moving on the left side of the road towards Ayodhya. As the vehicle reached near village Balapur on the Nawabganj-Katra Road within the local limts of P.S. Nawabganj, District Gonda, Rahul Tiwari met some relatives of his. The tempo was parked on the left hand side of the road and Rahul Tiwari was engaged in a conversation with the relatives. Suddenly, a tanker bearing Registration No. HR38K/0913 came on from the Nawabganj side driven recklessly at a high speed. The tanker hit the tempo and those standing around it, leading to Rahul Tiwari's death besides that of some others on the spot. Still others from amongst occupants of the Tempo were left injured. The deceased was employed on a vehicle bearing Registration No. UP43T/1057 as a Khalasi, a job that yielded him an income in the sum of Rs. 7000/- per mensem. He further earned a sum of Rs. 3000/- per month from his agricultural pursuits. The deceased Rahul Tiwari, therefore, had a monthly income of Rs. 10,000/-.

3. A First Information Report about the accident was lodged, giving rise to Crime No. 115 of 2012, under Sections 275, 337, 338, 304A and 427 IPC, P.S. Nawabganj, District Gonda. It is on the basis of these facts that the two claimants here, who are the father and the mother of the deceased Rahul Tiwari, instituted a claim petition before the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Faizabad. They claimed in compensation for the untimely death of their son, a sum of Rs. 21,60,000/- together with interest. The National Insurance Company Limited, Civil Lines, Faizabad through its Manager were impleaded as opposite party no. 1 to the claim petition, who are respondent no. 1 to this appeal. Smt. Urmila Rungta, who was the owner of the offending vehicle-tanker, was impleaded as opposite party no. 2 to the claim petition and respondent no. 2 to this appeal. Both the Insurance Company and the owner filed their separate written statements. The Insurance Company and the owner both denied the involvement of the offending vehicle. The owner further pleaded that the driver of the offending vehicle, Prahlad had a valid and effective driving licence on the date of accident and the vehicle was insured with respondent-Insurance Company from 14.01.2012 to 13.01.2013. The liability, if any, would, therefore, fall on the shoulders of the Insurance Company.

4. Upon pleadings of parties, the following issues were framed (translated into English from Hindi):

(1) Whether on 28.03.2012 at about 02:30 in the day at village Balapur Nawabganj-Katra Road falling under the Police Station Nawabganj, District Gonda when the deceased Rahul Tiwari was proceeding on a Vikram tempo with his friends towards Ayodhya, and had parked the tempo on the left hand side of the road to talk to some relatives, tanker bearing Registration No. HR38K/0913 driven by its driver negligently and at a high speed hit the tempo and its occupants who were standing resulting in the death of Rahul Tiwari and some others?

(2) Whether the driver of the tanker bearing Registration No. HR38K/0913 had a valid driving licence at the time of the accident?

(3) Whether at the time of accident, the tanker bearing Registration No. HR38K/0913 was insured with opposite party no. 1?

(4) Whether the claim petition is bad for non-joinder of the owner and the driver of the tempo?

(5) Whether the claimants are entitled to compensation? If yes, from whom and how much?

5. In support of the claim petition, claimant-appellant no. 1 Angad Tiwari has testified as CPW-1 and Harishyam Tiwari as CPW-2. Documentary evidence was also filed, which includes the Ration Card, a copy of the First Information Report, the Registration Certificate of the offending vehicle, the driving licence of the vehicle's driver, the offending vehicle's insurance papers, its permit, the offending vehicle's fitness certificate, its pollution clearance certificate, the accident inspection report, the charge sheet filed in the criminal case and a copy of the family register. No evidence was led on behalf of the insurance company, either oral or documentary.

6. On behalf of the owner of the offending vehicle, the registration certificate of the said vehicle, its permit, fitness certificate and the driving licence of its Driver, Prahlad were filed.

7. Issue no. 1 was answered in favour of the claimant-appellants, holding the offending vehicle to be responsible for the accident on account of being driven negligently and at a high speed. It was held that the offending vehicle hit the tempo and the persons standing around it, resulting in the death of Rahul Tiwari and others. Issue nos. 2 and 3 were both answered in favour of the claimant-appellants, holding that the driver of the offending vehicle held a valid and effective driving licence on the date and time of the accident and the offending vehicle was insured with respondent-Insurance Company. In answering Issue No. 4, the non-joinder of the owner and the driver of the tempo was held to be not fatal to the claim.

8. In working out the compensation payable to the claimants, the Tribunal held the deceased to be aged between 15-20 years, though it was asserted that he was 21 years old. The Tribunal held that there was no proof about the income of the deceased, and, therefore, the deceased's income had to be worked out on a notional basis, relying on the decision of the Supreme Court in Laxmi Devi and others vs. Mohammad Tabbar and another, (2008) 12 SCC 165. The annual income was held to be Rs. 36,000/-. This notional income was worked out on the basis of an unskilled daily wager's prevalent wages, which were, in the opinion of the Tribunal, not more than Rs. 100/- per day. Since the deceased was unmarried, 50% was directed to be deducted towards his personal expenses. The annual dependency of the claimants was, therefore, held to be Rs. 18000/-. The Tribunal applied a multiplier of "13' by taking into consideration the age of the dependents, both of whom were held to be, on an average, aged 47 years. The age of the deceased was not made the basis to determine the applicable multiplier. Thus, to the annual income of Rs. 18,000/-, a multiplier of 13 was applied to arrive at a total dependency of Rs. 2,34,000/-. To the aforesaid figure were added, under the conventional heads, funeral expenses, compensation for the loss of estate and love and affection, a sum of Rs. 5000/-, Rs. 5000/- and Rs. 10,000/- in that order. Adding up the figure of Rs. 20,000/- under the conventional heads to the substantive total dependency of Rs. 2,34,000/-, the Tribunal passed an award directing the Insurance Company to pay the claimants a sum of Rs. 2,54,000/- with 6% simple interest per annum from the date of institution of the claim petition until realization. Both the claimants were held entitled to an equal share of the compensation. It was further directed that a sum of Rs. 50,000/- in favour of each of the claimants shall be invested with a Nationalized Bank, in an interest bearing account, for a period of five years. It is the aforesaid order that the claimant-appellants have assailed in this appeal, seeking enhancement of the compensation awarded.

9. Heard Mr. Mukesh Singh, learned Counsel for the claimant-appellants and Mr. Deepak Mehrotra, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the Insurance Company.

10. It is submitted by the learned Counsel for the claimants that the award made is grossly inadequate and deserves to be enhanced. He submits that the Tribunal has erred in inferring the income of the deceased on a notional basis and pegging it down to a figure of Rs.100/- per day. It is also argued that the multiplier of 13, applied on the basis of the age of the dependents, is manifestly illegal, inasmuch as what is relevant is the age of the deceased. It is also submitted that nothing has been added to the deceased's income towards future prospects, which he is entitled to in view of the decision of the Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in National Insurance Company vs. Pranay Sethi and others, (2017) 16 SCC 680. It is argued that going by the principles laid down in Pranay Sethi (supra), the Tribunal has also erred in granting a miserably low compensation under the conventional heads.

11. Mr. Deepak Mehrotra, learned Counsel for the Insurance Company has supported the impugned award and says that it is a just award, which ought not to be disturbed by this Court.

12. This Court has considered the submissions advanced on behalf of both parties and carefully perused the record. There is not much to be said in criticism of the Tribunal's opinion about the income of the deceased. The reason is that there is hardly any evidence offered on behalf of the claimants to establish the deceased's income from his employment as a Khalasi on a commercial vehicle or the other component earned out of agricultural exploits. The Tribunal may not be perfectly right in determining the deceased's income on a notional basis, considering the fact that the deceased was a young man, held to be aged between 15-20 years; asserted by the claimants to be 21 years old. The deceased, no doubt, was in the prime of his youth and has to be credited with actual income from his exertions. The Tribunal, however, is not wrong in estimating the deceased's income on the basis of that earned at the relevant time by an unskilled labourer, because there is no evidence about any skilled profession that the deceased pursued, or about his income from employment in agriculture. Therefore, this Court is of opinion that the Tribunal was right in holding the deceased's income to be Rs.100/- per day on the basis of contemporary daily-wages earned by an unskilled labourer. In consequence, the monthly income of the deceased would be Rs.3000/-, which the Tribunal has rightly determined. The Tribunal has erred in not adding anything towards future prospects. The deceased, at his youthful age, had the entire future open to him and would, in course of time, earn much higher wages. The question about the entitlment to compensation on account of future prospects is no longer res integra in view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi, where it is held:

"56. The seminal issue is the fixation of future prospects in cases of deceased who are self-employed or on a fixed salary. Sarla Verma [Sarla Verma v. DTC, (2009) 6 SCC 121 : (2009) 2 SCC (Civ) 770 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1002] has carved out an exception permitting the claimants to bring materials on record to get the benefit of addition of future prospects. It has not, per se, allowed any future prospects in respect of the said category.

57. Having bestowed our anxious consideration, we are disposed to think when we accept the principle of standardisation, there is really no rationale not to apply the said principle to the self-employed or a person who is on a fixed salary. To follow the doctrine of actual income at the time of death and not to add any amount with regard to future prospects to the income for the purpose of determination of multiplicand would be unjust. The determination of income while computing compensation has to include future prospects so that the method will come within the ambit and sweep of just compensation as postulated under Section 168 of the Act. In case of a deceased who had held a permanent job with inbuilt grant of annual increment, there is an acceptable certainty. But to state that the legal representatives of a deceased who was on a fixed salary would not be entitled to the benefit of future prospects for the purpose of computation of compensation would be inapposite. It is because the criterion of distinction between the two in that event would be certainty on the one hand and staticness on the other. One may perceive that the comparative measure is certainty on the one hand and uncertainty on the other but such a perception is fallacious. It is because the price rise does affect a self-employed person; and that apart there is always an incessant effort to enhance one's income for sustenance. The purchasing capacity of a salaried person on permanent job when increases because of grant of increments and pay revision or for some other change in service conditions, there is always a competing attitude in the private sector to enhance the salary to get better efficiency from the employees. Similarly, a person who is self-employed is bound to garner his resources and raise his charges/fees so that he can live with same facilities. To have the perception that he is likely to remain static and his income to remain stagnant is contrary to the fundamental concept of human attitude which always intends to live with dynamism and move and change with the time. Though it may seem appropriate that there cannot be certainty in addition of future prospects to the existing income unlike in the case of a person having a permanent job, yet the said perception does not really deserve acceptance. We are inclined to think that there can be some degree of difference as regards the percentage that is meant for or applied to in respect of the legal representatives who claim on behalf of the deceased who had a permanent job than a person who is self-employed or on a fixed salary. But not to apply the principle of standardisation on the foundation of perceived lack of certainty would tantamount to remaining oblivious to the marrows of ground reality. And, therefore, degree-test is imperative. Unless the degree-test is applied and left to the parties to adduce evidence to establish, it would be unfair and inequitable. The degree-test has to have the inbuilt concept of percentage. Taking into consideration the cumulative factors, namely, passage of time, the changing society, escalation of price, the change in price index, the human attitude to follow a particular pattern of life, etc., an addition of 40% of the established income of the deceased towards future prospects and where the deceased was below 40 years an addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years would be reasonable.

58. The controversy does not end here. The question still remains whether there should be no addition where the age of the deceased is more than 50 years. Sarla Verma [Sarla Verma v. DTC, (2009) 6 SCC 121 : (2009) 2 SCC (Civ) 770 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1002] thinks it appropriate not to add any amount and the same has been approved inReshma Kumari [Reshma Kumari v. Madan Mohan, (2013) 9 SCC 65 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 191 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 826] . Judicial notice can be taken of the fact that salary does not remain the same. When a person is in a permanent job, there is always an enhancement due to one reason or the other. To lay down as a thumb rule that there will be no addition after 50 years will be an unacceptable concept. We are disposed to think, there should be an addition of 15% if the deceased is between the age of 50 to 60 years and there should be no addition thereafter. Similarly, in case of self-employed or person on fixed salary, the addition should be 10% between the age of 50 to 60 years. The aforesaid yardstick has been fixed so that there can be consistency in the approach by the tribunals and the courts."

13. The question, however, to be considered is whether the future prospects are to be awarded in accordance with the principles laid down in Pranay Sethi or under Rule 220-A(3) of the Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles Rules, 1998 (for short, "the Rules of 1998') framed under the Act. This issue engaged the attention of the Supreme Court in New India Assurance Co. Ltd v. Urmila Shukla and others, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 822. The aforesaid decision was rendered by their Lordships of the Supreme Court in the context of a motor accident claim that arose from the State of Uttar Pradesh and, therefore, squarely applies to the determination of future prospects in the State of U.P. The said decision holds that future prospects are to be determined in accordance with the Rules of 1998, which provide a precise statutory guide and scale for assessment of such prospects. In Urmila Shukla (supra), the question that arose before their Lordships is set forth in Paragraph No.4 of the report. It reads:

"4. The basic ground of challenge by the appellant is that sub-rule 3(iii) of Rule 220A is contrary to the conclusions arrived at by the Constitution Bench of this Court in National Insurance Company Ltd v. Pranay Sethi reported in (2017) 16 SCC 680."

14. In answer to the question, it was held in Urmila Shukla thus:

"9. It is to be noted that the validity of the Rules was not, in any way, questioned in the instant matter and thus the only question that we are called upon to consider is whether in its application, sub-Rule 3(iii) of Rule 220A of the Rules must be given restricted scope or it must be allowed to operate fully.

10.The discussion on the point inPranay Sethiwas from the standpoint of arriving at "just compensation" in terms of Section 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

11.If an indicia is made available in the form of a statutory instrument which affords a favourable treatment, the decision inPranay Sethicannot be taken to have limited the operation of such statutory provision specially when the validity of the Rules was not put under any challenge. The prescription of 15% in cases where the deceased was in the age bracket of 50-60 years as stated inPranay Sethicannot be taken as maxima. In the absence of any governing principle available in the statutory regime, it was only in the form of an indication. If a statutory instrument has devised a formula which affords better or greater benefit, such statutory instrument must be allowed to operate unless the statutory instrument is otherwise found to be invalid.

12. We, therefore, reject the submission advanced on behalf of the appellant and affirm the view taken by the Tribunal as well as the High Court and dismiss this appeal without any order as to costs."

15. There is little doubt that future prospects in the State of Uttar Pradesh have to be determined in accordance with the Rules of 1998 and not by the principles laid down in Pranay Sethi. Rule 220-A(3) confers greater benefit upon the claimant and going by the principle in Urmila Shukla, it embodies the preferred principle to apply in order to determine future prospects. The deceased was aged below 40 years and, therefore, the claimants are entitled to add 50% to his monthly emoluments by way of future prospects.

16. So far as the deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased goes, the decision of the Supreme Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others v. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121 that has been approved in the decision of the Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi and followed in United India Insurance Company Ltd. v. Satinder Kaur alias Satwinder Kaur and others, 2020 SCC OnLine SC 410, lays down the clear principle that "for bachelors, normally, 50% is deducted as personal and living expenses", to borrow the precise expression of their Lordships. In Sarla Verma (supra), it has been held:

"30. Though in some cases the deduction to be made towards personal and living expenses is calculated on the basis of units indicated in Trilok Chandra [(1996) 4 SCC 362], the general practice is to apply standardised deductions. Having considered several subsequent decisions of this Court, we are of the view that where the deceased was married, the deduction towards personal and living expenses of the deceased, should be one-third (1/3rd) where the number of dependent family members is 2 to 3, one-fourth (1/4th) where the number of dependent family members is 4 to 6, and one-fifth (1/5th) where the number of dependent family members exceeds six.

31. Where the deceased was a bachelor and the claimants are the parents, the deduction follows a different principle. In regard to bachelors, normally, 50% is deducted as personal and living expenses, because it is assumed that a bachelor would tend to spend more on himself. Even otherwise, there is also the possibility of his getting married in a short time, in which event the contribution to the parent(s) and siblings is likely to be cut drastically.

Further, subject to evidence to the contrary, the father is likely to have his own income and will not be considered as a dependant and the mother alone will be considered as a dependant. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, brothers and sisters will not be considered as dependants, because they will either be independent and earning, or married, or be dependent on the father.

32. Thus even if the deceased is survived by parents and siblings, only the mother would be considered to be a dependant, and 50% would be treated as the personal and living expenses of the bachelor and 50% as the contribution to the family. However, where the family of the bachelor is large and dependent on the income of the deceased, as in a case where he has a widowed mother and large number of younger non-earning sisters or brothers, his personal and living expenses may be restricted to one-third and contribution to the family will be taken as two-third."

17. It must be remarked that the scale regarding deduction towards personal and living expenses of a deceased bachelor is also 50% under Rule 220-A(2)(i) of the Rules of 1998, unless the family of the bachelor is large and dependent on the income of the deceased, in which case the deduction shall be one-third. The case here is not one where the deceased, who was decidedly a bachelor, left behind a large family, dependent on his income. He has left behind two dependents who are his parents. Therefore, in the opinion of this Court, deduction of 50% would apply, whether the rule in Sarla Verma is applied or the provisions of Rule 220-A(2)(i) are followed.

18. The multiplier adopted by the Tribunal, in the opinion of this Court, is grossly inadequate. The Tribunal seems to have applied the multiplier, going by the age of the dependents. The multiplier is to be determined in accordance with the age of the deceased; not his dependents. In this connection, reference may be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in Amrit Bhanu Shali and Ors. vs National Insurance Co. Ltd. and Ors., (2012) 11 SCC 738. In Amrit Bhanu Shali (supra), it was held:

"15. The selection of multiplier is based on the age of the deceased and not on the basis of the age of the dependent. There may be a number of dependents of the deceased whose age may be different and, therefore, the age of the dependents has no nexus with the computation of compensation.

16. In Sarla Verma [(2009) 6 SCC 121 : (2009) 2 SCC (Civ) 770 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1002] this Court held that the multiplier to be used should be as mentioned in Column (4) of the table of the said judgment which starts with an operative multiplier of 18. As the age of the deceased at the time of the death was 26 years, the multiplier of 17 ought to have been applied. The Tribunal taking into consideration the age of the deceased rightly applied the multiplier of 17 but the High Court committed a serious error by not giving the benefit of multiplier of 17 and bringing it down to the multiplier of 13."

19. The deceased here was placed in the age bracket of 15-20 years and going by his age, the multiplier, as mentioned in Paragraph No.42 of the judgment of the Supreme Court in Sarla Verma, would be 18; and not 13, that the Tribunal has applied.

20. So far as the compensation awarded under the conventional heads is concerned, the principles laid down by the Constitution Bench in Pranay Sethi are of decisive importance, where it is observed:

"48. This aspect needs to be clarified and appositely stated. The conventional sum has been provided in the Second Schedule to the Act. The said Schedule has been found to be defective as stated by the Court in Trilok Chandra [UP SRTC v. Trilok Chandra, (1996) 4 SCC 362] . Recently, in Puttamma v. K.L. Narayana Reddy [Puttamma v.K.L. Narayana Reddy, (2013) 15 SCC 45 : (2014) 4 SCC (Civ) 384 : (2014) 3 SCC (Cri) 574] it has been reiterated by stating : (SCC p. 80, para 54)

"54. ... we hold that the Second Schedule as was enacted in 1994 has now become redundant, irrational and unworkable due to changed scenario including the present cost of living and current rate of inflation and increased life expectancy."

49. As far as multiplier or multiplicand is concerned, the same has been put to rest by the judgments of this Court. Para 3 of the Second Schedule also provides for general damages in case of death. It is as follows:

"3. General damages (in case of death):

The following general damages shall be payable in addition to compensation outlined above:

(i)	Funeral expenses	Rs 2000
(ii)	Loss of consortium, if beneficiary is the spouse	Rs 5000
(iii)	Loss of estate	Rs 2500
(iv)	Medical expenses -- actual expenses incurred before death supported by bills/vouchers but not exceeding	Rs 15,000"

50. On a perusal of various decisions of this Court, it is manifest that the Second Schedule has not been followed starting from the decision in Trilok Chandra [UP SRTC v.Trilok Chandra, (1996) 4 SCC 362] and there has been no amendment to the same. The conventional damage amount needs to be appositely determined. As we notice, in different cases different amounts have been granted. A sum of Rs 1,00,000 was granted towards consortium inRajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] . The justification for grant of consortium, as we find fromRajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] , is founded on the observation as we have reproduced hereinbefore.

51. On the aforesaid basis, the Court has revisited the practice of awarding compensation under conventional heads.

52. As far as the conventional heads are concerned, we find it difficult to agree with the view expressed in Rajesh[Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] . It has granted Rs 25,000 towards funeral expenses, Rs 1,00,000 towards loss of consortium and Rs 1,00,000 towards loss of care and guidance for minor children. The head relating to loss of care and minor children does not exist. ThoughRajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] refers to Santosh Devi [Santosh Devi v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., (2012) 6 SCC 421 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 726 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 160 : (2012) 2 SCC (L&S) 167] , it does not seem to follow the same. The conventional and traditional heads, needless to say, cannot be determined on percentage basis because that would not be an acceptable criterion. Unlike determination of income, the said heads have to be quantified. Any quantification must have a reasonable foundation. There can be no dispute over the fact that price index, fall in bank interest, escalation of rates in many a field have to be noticed. The court cannot remain oblivious to the same. There has been a thumb rule in this aspect. Otherwise, there will be extreme difficulty in determination of the same and unless the thumb rule is applied, there will be immense variation lacking any kind of consistency as a consequence of which, the orders passed by the tribunals and courts are likely to be unguided. Therefore, we think it seemly to fix reasonable sums. It seems to us that reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs 15,000, Rs 40,000 and Rs 15,000 respectively. The principle of revisiting the said heads is an acceptable principle. But the revisit should not be fact-centric or quantum-centric. We think that it would be condign that the amount that we have quantified should be enhanced on percentage basis in every three years and the enhancement should be at the rate of 10% in a span of three years. We are disposed to hold so because that will bring in consistency in respect of those heads."

(Emphasis by Court)

21. The award of compensation under the conventional heads, particularly, the one for loss of consortium, came up for consideration of the Supreme Court in Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. v. Nanu Ram alias Chuhru Ram and others, (2018) 18 SCC 130. In Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. (supra), it has been held:

"21. A Constitution Bench of this Court in Pranay Sethi[National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] dealt with the various heads under which compensation is to be awarded in a death case. One of these heads is loss of consortium. In legal parlance, "consortium" is a compendious term which encompasses "spousal consortium", "parental consortium", and "filial consortium". The right to consortium would include the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, solace and affection of the deceased, which is a loss to his family. With respect to a spouse, it would include sexual relations with the deceased spouse : [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149]

21.1. Spousal consortium is generally defined as rights pertaining to the relationship of a husband-wife which allows compensation to the surviving spouse for loss of "company, society, cooperation, affection, and aid of the other in every conjugal relation". [Black's Law Dictionary(5th Edn., 1979).]

21.2. Parental consortium is granted to the child upon the premature death of a parent, for loss of "parental aid, protection, affection, society, discipline, guidance and training".

21.3. Filial consortium is the right of the parents to compensation in the case of an accidental death of a child. An accident leading to the death of a child causes great shock and agony to the parents and family of the deceased. The greatest agony for a parent is to lose their child during their lifetime. Children are valued for their love, affection, companionship and their role in the family unit.

22. Consortium is a special prism reflecting changing norms about the status and worth of actual relationships. Modern jurisdictions world-over have recognised that the value of a child's consortium far exceeds the economic value of the compensation awarded in the case of the death of a child. Most jurisdictions therefore permit parents to be awarded compensation under loss of consortium on the death of a child. The amount awarded to the parents is a compensation for loss of the love, affection, care and companionship of the deceased child.

23. The Motor Vehicles Act is a beneficial legislation aimed at providing relief to the victims or their families, in cases of genuine claims. In case where a parent has lost their minor child, or unmarried son or daughter, the parents are entitled to be awarded loss of consortium under the head of filial consortium. Parental consortium is awarded to children who lose their parents in motor vehicle accidents under the Act. A few High Courts have awarded compensation on this count [Rajasthan High Court in Jagmala Ram v. Sohi Ram, 2017 SCC OnLine Raj 3848 : (2017) 4 RLW 3368; Uttarakhand High Court in Rita Rana v. Pradeep Kumar, 2013 SCC OnLine Utt 2435 : (2014) 3 UC 1687; Karnataka High Court in Lakshman v. Susheela Chand Choudhary, 1996 SCC OnLine Kar 74 : (1996) 3 Kant LJ 570] . However, there was no clarity with respect to the principles on which compensation could be awarded on loss of filial consortium.

24. The amount of compensation to be awarded as consortium will be governed by the principles of awarding compensation under "loss of consortium" as laid down inPranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] . In the present case, we deem it appropriate to award the father and the sister of the deceased, an amount of Rs 40,000 each for loss of filial consortium."

(Emphasis by Court)

22. Again, Rule 220-A(4) of the Rules of 1998 provides for compensation under the non-pecuniary heads, but the scale of compensation or damages provided under Rule 220-A(4) do not confer better and greater benefit upon the claimants compared to the liquidated figures under each head stipulated in Pranay Sethi. The principle in Pranay Sethi envisages 10% upward revision to be done for the compensation payable under the conventional heads, bearing in mind the price index, falling bank interest, escalation of rates in different cases. The Rules of 1998, that have been amended to introduce Rule 220-A more than ten years ago, in the year 2011, do not serve as a realistic index to award compensation under the conventional heads. The determination of compensation in Pranay Sethi would, therefore, be applicable. Now, by the decision in Pranay Sethi, for the loss of estate and funeral expenses, a sum of Rs.15,000/- each would be payable.

23. So far as compensation for the loss of filial consortium is concerned, the claimants, who are the mother and the father of the deceased, would be entitled to Rs.40,000/- each.

24. In the circumstances, the compensation payable stands to be revised as follows:

(i)Monthly Income (of the deceased) = 3000/-

(ii)Monthly Income + Future Prospects (monthly income x 50%) = 3000+1500= 4500/-

(iii)Annual Income (of the deceased) = 4500 x 12= 54,000/-

(iv)Annual Dependency = Annual Income - 50% deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased = 54,000 - 27,000 = 27,000/-

(iv)Total Dependency = Annual Dependency x Applied Multiplier = 27,000 x 18=4,86,000/-

(v) Claimants' entitlement towards conventional heads = Loss of Estate + Funeral Expenses + dependents' Consortium = 15,000 + 15,000 + 40,000+40,000 = 1,10,000/-

The total compensation would therefore, work out to a figure of Rs.4,86,000 + Rs.1,10,000= 5,96,000/-

33. The aforesaid sum of money would carry simple interest @ 7% per annum in accordance with Rule 220-A of the Rules of 1998 from the date of institution of claim petition until realization. However, the sum of money already deposited (paid or invested in terms of the impugned award or interim order of this Court) shall be adjusted.

34. In the result, this appeal succeeds and is allowed with costs throughout. The impugned award is modified and the compensation enhanced to a sum of Rs.5,96,000/- (Rupees Five Lac Ninety Six Thousand only). The said sum of money shall be payable by the Insurance Company. The claimants shall be entitled to simple interest @ 7% on the sum of compensation awarded from the date of institution of the claim petition until realization. The inter se apportionment of compensation and the other directions made by the Tribunal shall remain intact.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellants and learned counsel for the respondents. Perused the record.

2. This appeal has been preferred by appellants/claimants against the judgment and order dated 03.02.2016 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal Chandauli/Additional District Judge, Court No.1, Chandauli (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in Motor Accident Claim Petition No.107 of 2013, Smt. Renu Devi and others v. Gufran Ahmad and others by which the claim petition of appellants was rejected by learned tribunal.

3. The incident having taken place is not in dispute. The dispute is whether said incident is covered under Sections, 165, 166 and 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (in short M.V. Act) or is a murder, the legal representatives of deceased whether are entitled to any compensation under M.V. Act is the crux of the litigation.

4. The brief facts as culled out from the record are that on 31.5.2013 at about 01.45 a.m. (night), deceased Ashok Kumar Yadav, who was constable in U.P Police Department, was on duty with S.H.O. and other police personnels and were in Government Jeep No.UP 66 G 0072, near Madho Singh Toll Plaza within the jurisdiction of Police Station Orai, District Sant Ravidas Nagar, a truck bearing No.UP 70 CT 7486 came on the spot and the Police enquired from the truck driver regarding the goods loaded in the truck. On making this enquiry, the truck driver started the truck and ran away from there. The Police jeep chased the aforesaid truck and after overtaking the truck, the jeep crossed the toll plaza and stopped the truck and when police personnel signalled, the truck driver to stop the truck, the truck driver deliberately broke the barrier of toll plaza by driving rashly and negligently and damaged the barrier and hit the jeep from behind. Consequently, the jeep was fleeing in air and it overturned. In this accident, Constable Ashok Singh Yadav sustained serious injuries due to which he died during treatment.

5. The Motor accident claims tribunal held that it was a case of murder and not a case of rash and negligent driving by the truck driver. The tribunal also held that the murder of deceased was caused using the truck as a weapon and if any vehicle is used as a weapon then no compensation can be granted to the claimants under M.V. Act and the claim petition preferred by appellants who were legal representatives of deceased was rejected.

6. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that death of the deceased had taken place while he was in police jeep, hence it was death while using motor vehicle. It is also submitted that at the time of accident, the truck driver was driving the truck rashly and negligently. The truck hit the jeep at a very high speed from behind causing accident.

7. It is further submitted by learned counsel for appellants that learned Tribunal erred in holding that the death of the deceased was murder simplicitor and not accidental death. Learned counsel submitted that under the M.V. Act if an accident arises due to use of motor vehicle then claimants are entitled to compensation. Learned counsel for appellants has relied on the judgments titled Rita Devi v. New India Assurance Co. Ltd., 2000 ACJ 801 (SC), and Ambalika Singh and others v. United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others, 2018 (1) TAC 207.

8. Learned counsel for Insurance company vehemently submitted that the death of deceased was consequence of planned murder by the truck driver. It was not an accident, but the truck driver intentionally hit the jeep, there was mens rea on the part of the truck driver. Learned counsel also submitted that the first information report of the occurrence was lodged under Sections 307 and 302 of Indian Penal Code (I.P.C) along with other Sections and as per contents of F.I.R., the truck driver intentionally hit the police jeep. It is also submitted that the charge sheet is also filed under Section 302 of I.P.C. It is further submitted that it is proved that the act of truck driver can be termed as murder and not accident, and hence, the claimants are not entitled to compensation under M.V. Act and learned tribunal has rightly rejected the claim petition. It is argued that there is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned judgment/award which calls for any interference by this Court under Section 173 of M.V. Act.

UNDISPUTED FACTS:

9. The death of deceased police Constable Ashok Singh Yadav had taken place when he was on duty and he was in the police Jeep when it hit the truck. As per the records, the truck involved in the accident was illegally transporting cattle, when the police enquired from the truck driver, he started the truck and ran away. The police jeep while chasing the truck overtook the said vehicle and crossed the toll plaza and stopped the jeep, after stopping the jeep, the police personnel signalled the truck driver and tried to stop it but the truck driver deliberately broke the barrier and hit the jeep from behind causing the incident to occur.

FINDINGS:

10. In Rita Devi (supra), the Apex Court held that murder can be of two types " murder simplicitor" and "accidental murder". In the case filed Rita Devi (supra) the question before the Apex Court was whether a murder can be an accident in any given case. The Apex Court held that in the common parlance is a felonious act where death is caused with intent and the perpetrators of that act normally have a motive against the victim for such killing, but there are also instances where murder can be by accident in a given set of facts, which depends on the proximity of the cause of such murder.

11. It was held that if the dominant intention of the act of felony is to kill any particular person then such killing is not an accidental murder but is a murder simplicitor, while if the cause of murder or act of murder was originally not intended and the same was caused in furtherance of any other felonious act then such murder is an accidental murder.

12. The claim petition in aforesaid case namely Rita Devi (supra) was filed under Section 163A of M.V. Act, 1988 in which the claimants were not required to prove the act of negligence on the part of driver and the element of negligence rather they were required to prove that the death of the deceased had taken place out of use of the motor vehicle, but in the case on hand, the claim petition was filed under Section 166 of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. Hence, the appellants/claimants are required to prove the negligence also on the part of the truck driver.

13. The Apex Court in Rita Devi (supra) has held that if any act of murder was originally not intended and the same was caused in furtherance of any other felonious act then such murder is an accidental murder.

14. The law on this issue about murder in case of use of motor vehicle and compensatory jurisprudence is clarified by the Supreme Court in Rita Devi (supra). The Supreme Court drew distinction between the term "murder" which is not an accident and a "murder" which is an accident. The Supreme Court laid down the test that if the dominant intention of the felonious act is to kill any particular person, then such killing is not accidental murder but a murder simpliciter. However, if the cause of murder or act of murder was originally not intended and the same was caused in furtherance of any other felonious act, then such murder is an accidental murder. Para 10 of the judgment is relevant and is reproduced hereunder:

"10. The question, therefore is, can a murder be an accident in any given case? There is no doubt that "murder", as it is understood, in the common parlance is a felonious act where death is caused with intent and the perpetrators of that act normally have a motive against the victim for such killing. But there are also instances where murder can be by accident on a given set of facts. The difference between a "murder" which is not an accident and a "murder" which is an accident, depends on the proximity of the cause of such murder. In our opinion, if the dominant intention of the Act of felony is to kill any particular person then such killing is not an accidental murder but is a murder simpliciter, while if the cause of murder or act of murder was originally not intended and the same was caused in furtherance of any other felonious act then such murder is an accidental murder."

15. In Rita Devi (supra), the deceased was employed to drive an auto rickshaw for ferrying passengers on hire. On the fateful day, the auto rickshaw was parked in the rickshaw stand at Dimapur when some unknown passengers engaged the deceased for a journey. As to what happened on that day is not known. It was only on the next day that the police was able to recover the body of the deceased but the auto rickshaw in question was never traced out. The owner of the auto rickshaw claimed compensation from the insurance company for the loss of auto rickshaw. The heirs of the deceased claimed compensation for the death of the driver on the ground that the death occurred on account of accident arising out of use of the motor vehicle. The Apex Court held that the murder to be an accidental murder most satisfy certain tests, the Court in Para 14 is held:-

"14. Applying the principles laid down in the above cases to the facts of the case in hand, we find that the deceased, a driver of the autorickshaw, was duty bound to have accepted the demand of fare-paying passengers to transport them to the place of their destination. During the course of this duty, if the passengers had decided to commit an act of felony of stealing the autorickshaw and in the course of achieving the said object of stealing the autorickshaw, they had to eliminate the driver of the autorickshaw then it cannot but be said that the death so caused to the driver of the autorickshaw was an accidental murder. The stealing of the autorickshaw was the object of the felony and the murder that was caused in the said process of stealing the autorickshaw is only incidental to the act of stealing of the autorickshaw. Therefore, it has to be said that on the facts and circumstances of this case the death of the deceased (Dasarath Singh) was caused accidentally in the process of committing theft of the autorickshaw."

16. In Rita Devi (supra), the Supreme Court relied on Challis v. London and South Western Railway Company, (1905) 2 KB 154 and Nisbet v. Rayne & Burn, (1910) 1 KB 689 would throw light so as to draw the distinction between the felonious act which accidentally results in death and a murder simpliciter. Paras 11 to 13 of the judgment are reproduced hereinbelow:

"11. In Challis v. London and South Western Rly. Co. [(1905) 2 KB 154 : 74 LJKB 569 : 93 LT 330 (CA)] the Court of Appeal held where an engine driver while driving a train under a bridge was killed by a stone wilfully dropped on the train by a boy from the bridge, that his injuries were caused by an accident. In the said case, the Court rejecting an argument that the said incident cannot be treated as an accident held:

"The accident which befell the deceased was, as it appears to me, one which was incidental to his employment as an engine driver, in other words it arose out of his employment. The argument for the respondents really involves the reading into the Act of a proviso to the effect that an accident shall not be deemed to be within the Act, if it arose from the mischievous act of a person not in the service of the employer. I see no reason to suppose that the legislature intended so to limit the operation of the Act. The result is the same to the engine driver, from whatever cause the accident happened; and it does not appear to me to be any answer to the claim for indemnification under the Act to say that the accident was caused by some person who acted mischievously."

12. In the case of Nisbet v. Rayne & Burn [(1910) 2 KB 689 : 80 LJKB 84 : 103 LT 178 (CA)] where a cashier, while travelling in a railway to a colliery with a large sum of money for the payment of his employers' workmen, was robbed and murdered. The Court of Appeal held:

"That the murder was an ,,accident" from the standpoint of the person who suffered from it and that it arose ,,out of" an employment which involved more than the ordinary risk, and consequently that the widow was entitled to compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906. In this case the Court followed its earlier judgment in the case of Challis [(1905) 2 KB 154 : 74 LJKB 569 : 93 LT 330 (CA)] . In the case of Nisbet [(1910) 2 KB 689 : 80 LJKB 84 : 103 LT 178 (CA)] the Court also observed that ,,it is contended by the employer that this was not an "accident" within the meaning of the Act, because it was an intentional felonious act which caused the death, and that the word "accident" negatives the idea of intention". In my opinion, this contention ought not to prevail. I think it was an accident from the point of view of Nisbet, and that it makes no difference whether the pistol shot was deliberately fired at Nisbet or whether it was intended for somebody else and not for Nisbet."

13. The judgment of the Court of Appeal in Nisbet case [(1910) 2 KB 689 : 80 LJKB 84 : 103 LT 178 (CA)] was followed by the majority judgment by the House of Lords in the case of Board of Management of Trim Joint District School v. Kelly[1914 AC 667 : 83 LJPC 220 : 111 LT 305 (HL)]."

17. The term accident has not been defined under the M.V. Act. Sections 165, 166, and 168 of the M.V. Act, 1988 read as follows:

Section 165 of M.V. Act , Claims Tribunals-

(1) A State Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, constitute one or more Motor Accidents Claims Tribunals (hereafter in this Chapter referred to as Claims Tribunal) for such area as may be specified in the notification for the purpose of adjudicating upon claims for compensation in respect of accidents involving the death of, or bodily injury to, persons arising out of the use of motor vehicles, or damages to any property of a third party so arising, or both. 18. In light of the judicial pronouncement let us consider the facts, in case on hand the original act of truck driver was to flee with the truck in order to escape from being arrested by the police because cattle were being illegally transported by him, hence, this was the felonious act of truck driver. In furtherance of this original felonious act, the truck driver hit the police vehicle from behind in which the deceased was also there at that time he was on duty. The truck driver hit the police jeep with great speed so that the jeep overturned several times and lastly, fell into the ditch. This fact itself shows that the truck driver was driving the vehicle rashly and negligently and at a very high speed that firstly it broke the toll barrier and then hit the police vehicle. It is pertinent to mention that truck driver has not stepped into the witness box. Learned tribunal has fallen into error in holding that this matter does not fall within the purview of rash and negligent driving by the truck driver. The learned Tribunal has also fallen into error in holding that if any vehicle is used as a weapon for murder then no compensation can be awarded under M.V. Act because learned tribunal has lost sight of the fact that the death of the deceased had taken place due to the accident arising out of use of motor vehicle. The term murder has to be looked into from two angles one murder due to accident and murder where it is felonious act (a) Murder due to accident: the murder of the deceased was due to an accident arising out of the use of motor vehicle. Therefore, the Trial Court wrongly came to the conclusion that the claimants were not entitled for compensation as claimed by them. (b) Murder is felonious act: in common parlance, murder is a felonious act, where death is caused with intent and the perpetrators of the act normally had the motive against the victim for such killing; however, on the other hand, there could also be other instances where murder was not originally intended and the same was caused in furtherance of other felonious act. In our case the judgment of Ambalika Singh (supra) will have to be also discussed.

19. The aforesaid provisions of the M.V. Act would demonstrate that the term accident has not been defined in the M.V. Act and, therefore, importance of the term "accident" and importance of the term out of use of motor vehicle and negligence would be important.

20. The term use of motor vehicle has been explained by the Apex Court in the case of Shivaji Dayanu Patil v. Vatschala Uttam More, 1991 3 SCC 530, the term use of motor vehicle means where the term use of motor vehicle has been explained even leakage of petrol and, thereafter, where the explosion in the place and fire occurred resulting in death of certain villagers. This involved the petrol tanker and one another truck was held to be accident arising out of use of motor vehicle and, therefore, there is a casual relationship between earlier event of accident which was due to collision and later incident of explosion and fired such connection need not be direct or immediate once. If it is demonstrated that the death occurred due to use of motor vehicle, then prima facie claim petition would be maintainable. It goes without saying that it is because of use of motor vehicle that accident occured. Later on while deciding the matter finally, also the Apex Court in Judgment titled New India Assurance Company Limited Versus Yadu Sambhaji More reported in, (2011) AIR SC 666 has taken similar view which goes to show that the tribunal had jurisdiction to entertain such petitions, that to in use or arising out of use of the motor vehicle has been consistently followed in the later judgment. The Apex Court has criticised the finding by the tribunal of rejecting the claim petitions.

21. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

22. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

23. We will have also to consider the definition of the word "Accident' : (i) The word "accident" is derived from the Latin verb "accidere" signifying "fall upon, befall, happen, chance." In an etymological sense anything that happens may be said to be an accident and in this sense, the word has been defined as befalling a change; a happening; an incident; an occurrence or event. In its most commonly accepted meaning, or in its ordinary or popular sense, the word may be defined as meaning: a fortuitous circumstance, event, or happening; an event happening without any human agency, or if happening wholly or partly through human agency, an event which under the circumstances is unusual and unexpected by the person to whom it happens; an unusual, fortuitous, unexpected, unforeseen or unlooked for event, happening or occurrence; an unusual or unexpected result attending the operation or performance of a usual or necessary act or event; chance or contingency; fortune; mishap; some sudden and unexpected event taking place without expectation, upon the instant, rather than something which continues, progresses or develops; something happening by chance; something unforeseen, unexpected, unusual, extraordinary or phenomenal, taking place not according to the usual course of things or events, out of the range of ordinary calculations; that which exists or occurs abnormally, or an uncommon occurrence; and (ii) Unavoidable accident: One which is not occasioned in any degree, either directly or remotely, by the want of such care and prudence as the law holds every man bound to exercise and the term unavoidable accident does not find any mention in the Act.

24. The facts in this case are that the precedents are in favour of the appellants, the incident occurred due to use of motor vehicle. The facts cumulative prove show that incident occurred due to (A) use of motor vehicle (B) due to negligence of the driver. The death occurred due to use of motor vehicle being driven rashly and negligently. There is casual connection between the first and the second incident and therefore the claim petition under the M.V. Act was maintainable. The tribunal has not taken a holistic view of the matter.

25. Reference to the recent decisions in case of Kalim Khan v. Fimidabee, 2018 (J) SCC 687 and the recent decision of this Court in Ambalika Singh v. United India Insurance Co. Ltd., 2017 (0) AIJ-UP 381149, deciding similar dispute and the petition could not have been dismissed.

26. In our case, the facts reveal that it was an avoidable accident and the driver has driven the vehicle rashly and dashed the vehicle of the police department from behind. It was his duty to take proper care, but as he was committing an illegal act and was scared of getting arrested, he committed this act maximum. The res ipsa loquior would also play of major role, the reason being that the accident speaks for itself the reason being the incident would not have occurred namely checking of the truck and, thereafter, chasing the truck. This act of the driver would not have been possible and, therefore, it cannot be said that there is no casual connection between the first incident and the second incident. The learned tribunal with utmost respect has not taken holistic view in the matter while holding that the truck was used as a weapon, the accident is by the use of vehicle and it has to be turmed to be an accident. The term "negligence' would assume significance the term negligence in common parlance would go to show that the driver drove the vehicle negligently as narrated herein-below.

27. Just because the charge sheet is laid under Section 302 will not take the case from the purview of using the vehicle negligently. The evidence of all the witnesses go to show that the driver of the vehicle drove the vehicle rashly and negligently and came from behind and dashed with the jeep deliberately may be he had not caused murder that is not the subject matter of our concerned but the death occurred due to the ante mortem injuries caused due to use of truck in which the truck which dashed with the police vehicle in which the deceased was seated.

28. The judgment of this High Court in UPSRTC v. Vidya Devi, 2011 ACJ 2659 will also enure for the benefit of the claimants-appellants, the dismissal of the claim petition is bad in eye of law.

29. On the basis of above discussions, we come to the conclusion that the death of the deceased was result of the rash and negligent driving by truck driver and the accident had taken place while using the motor vehicle by the deceased. Hence, we upturn the finding of learned tribunal given on issue nos. 1 and 4 and set aside the order, rejecting the claim petition. The findings given on issue Nos. 2 and 3 because at the time of accident, the truck in question was duly insured by Insurance Company/respondent no.3 and the truck driver was having valid and effecting driving licence and we confirm the said findings as nothing is demonstrated by the insurance company to take a different view in the matter.

30. Now we come to the part of the compensation. The accident in question had taken place before 9 years and the record is before us. There are no complicated questions as the deceased was a salaried person the documents are there and, therefore, the next issue which arises is that the matter has remained pending for long, the record and proceedings are before this Court should the matter be remanded to the Tribunal so that compensation is decided or decide this court can the same? The answer is in the affirmative as per the judgments of the Apex Court in Bithika Mazumdar and another Vs. Sagar Pal and others, (2017) 2 SCC 748 and of this Court in F.A.F.O. No. 1999 of 2007 (Oriental Insurance Company Limited vs.

Smt. Ummida Begum and others) and in F.A.F.O. No. 1404 of 1999 (Smt. Ragini Devi and others Vs. United India Insurance Company Limited and another) decided on 17.4.2019 where in it has been held that if the record is with the appellate Court, it can decide compensation instead of relegating the parties to the Tribunal. The provisions of section 173 read with section 168 will permit this Court to decide the matter.

31. Here the calculation is to on settled principles for grant of compensation where deceased was a salaried person. Hence, we take up the issue with regard to the quantum of compensation payable to the appellants/claimants.

32. Admittedly, the deceased was a police Constable and he was 28 years of age at the time of accident. The pay slip of the deceased, pertaining to the relevant month of April, 2013, is on record which is exhibited as paper No.39C. According to the pay slip, the basic pay of deceased was Rs.10,130/- per month and Dearness Allowance was Rs.7,294/- per month. The net income of the deceased is shown Rs.18,263/- per month. The deceased was paid Rs.150/- per month as allowance and Rs.750/- per month as diet allowance, these two amounts are being deducted from the total salary. Hence the computable salary comes to Rs.17,363/- per month. The deceased was Government servant and below 40 years of age. Hence, as per National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050, 50% will have to be added towards future loss of income. The deceased was survived by his widow and three minor children along with his parents, the age of father of the deceased was 55 years, it is not shown that the father was dependent or not on the deceased and for two minor children shall be taken as one unit, hence 1/3 will be deducted towards personal expenses of the deceased. As per decision titled Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121 multiplier of 17 would be applied. As per decision of Pranay Sethi (supra), the claimants/appellants would be entitled to Rs.15,000/- for lost of assets and Rs.15,000/- for funeral expenses. The wife of the deceased would be entitled to get Rs.40,000/- for loss of consortium with addition of 10% every three years. Hence, we fix total compensation Rs.1,00,000/- under the head of non pecuniary damages plus Rs.50,000/- each to three minor children who have lost their father at a tender age.

33. In this backdrop we evaluate the income in view of the judgment of National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 and Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121 and, the calculation of compensation would be as follows:

i. Income Rs.17,363/- p.m.

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 50% namely Rs.8681/-

iii. Total income : Rs. 17,363 + Rs. 8,681= Rs.26044/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/3: Rs.17,363/-

v. Annual income : Rs.17,363 x 12 = 2,08,356

v. Multiplier applicable : 17 (as the deceased was in the age bracket of 26-30 years)

vi. Loss of dependency: Rs.2,08,356 x 17 = Rs.35,42,052/- viii. Under the head of non pecuniary damages = Rs.1,00,000 + Rs.50,000/-

ix. Total compensation : Rs.36,92,000/- (round figure).

34. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National 7 Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

35. We deem it fit to rely on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma and others Vs. R. Venugopal, 2012 (3) SCC 378 wherein the Apex Court has considered the judgment rendered in General Manager, Kerala State Road Transport Corporation, Trivandrum Vs. Susamma Thomas and others, AIR 1994 SC 1631 for disbursement.

36. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma (supra), the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate nor rustic villagers.

37. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunal shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and judgment of A.V. Padma (supra), the same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

38. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount of Rs.36,92,000/- within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited.

39. Out of the total amount of compensation, father and mother of the deceased would receive Rs.3,00,000/- each. The three minor children of the deceased would get Rs.5,00,000/- each plus Rs.50,000/- each, which shall be kept in fix deposit in nationalized Bank with regard to the children who are still minor till attaining the age of majority. The rest of the amount shall be paid to wife of the deceased.

40. Record be transmitted to tribunal.

41. Recently the Gujarat High Court in case titled the Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Chief Commissioner of Income Tax (TDS), R/Special Civil Application

No.4800 of 2021 decided on 05.04.2022, it is held that interest awarded by the tribunal or appellate court under Section 171 of Motor Vehicles Act is not taxable under the Income Tax Act, 1961

42. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Private Ltd. v. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. As 8 years have elapsed since occurrence of accident, the amount be deposited in the Saving Account of claimants in Nationalized Bank. The amount shall be credited in the said account with without investment as the case may be.

43. We are thankful to learned counsel for the parties for ably assisting this court in getting this old appeal disposed of.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. This appeal has been preferred by the appellants against the judgement and order dated 22.07.2015 passed by Motor Accident Claim Tribunal/Special Judge (Anti-Corruption Act) Court No.1, Varanasi passed in MACP No.83 of 2014 (Smt. Chanda Srivastava and others Vs.

Shadab Ahmad and others), by way of which, the claim petition of the appellants/claimants was dismissed.

2. Brief facts of the case are that a claim petition was filed by the appellants before the learned Tribunal for seeking compensation of death of Kripa Shankar Lal, employee of Income Tax Department, who died in a road accident. As per the averments made in the claim petition on 10.10.2013 at about 8:00 pm, the deceased was travelling in car bearing No. UP 65 CT 3842 with Income Tax Officer Shri Himanshu Kumar from Varanasi to Lucknow in connection with official work. The driver of the car was driving the vehicle rashly and negligently. When they reached at village Asroga, Police Station-Kudwar, District Sultanpur, the driver of the car lost the balance and control due to high speed seeing a truck, coming from the opposite direction and the car overturned beside the road. In this accident Kripa Shankar Lal and Himanshu Kumar sustained serious injuries. They were taken to the government hospital, Sultanpur, where Kripa Shankar Lal died. The accident took place due to negligence of car driver.

3. Heard learned counsel for the appellants and learned counsel for the respondent.

4. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the learned Tribunal misinterpreted the evidence on record as it did not consider the oral and documentary evidence of claimants in the right perspective. Learned counsel further submitted that the principles of compensation in Motor Vehicle Act, 1988 envisage a beneficial legislation and strict rules to prove the petition are not required. Trial before the Tribunal is summary in nature. Learned counsel submitted that it was night at the time of accident and an unknown truck came from opposite direction and the eyes of car driver were dazzled in the headlights of the truck and since the car driver was moving at a high speed, he could not control the vehicle and it overturned after getting disbalanced. It is next submitted that PW2 Himanshu Kumar is the eye-witness of the accident because he himself was travelling in the car. He has deposed before the learned Tribunal and in his testimony he has specifically deposed that the driver of the car became uncomfortable because his eyes were dazzled in the light of the truck, coming from opposite direction and due to high speed of the car, the driver lost control and car was overturned. Learned counsel submitted that the Tribunal has not believed this part of the evidence, which could not be disbelieved because there is no dispute that PW2 was travelling in the car and he was the best witness to narrate the manner of accident. It is further submitted that the car driver has also appeared before the learned Tribunal as DW2, namely, Salman Ali. He has deposed that an unknown truck hit the car from behind. Learned Tribunal rejected the claim petition on the basis of the statement made by car driver DW2 without considering the fact that no driver would admit his negligence. Hence, claim petition was wrongly rejected.

5. Learned counsel for the insurance company submitted that first information report of the accident was lodged at police station against unknown vehicle and during investigation no such vehicle could be traced and investigating officer submitted final report. Hence, the learned Tribunal rightly concluded that the technical inspection report of the car goes to show that all the damages in the car are on the rear side which shows that the car was hit by a vehicle from behind and due to that reason it was overturned on the right side of the road. Hence, the Tribunal has rightly disbelieved the evidence adduced by the appellants and the claim petition was rejected.

6. The compensatory jurisprudence under the Motor Vehicle Act, 1988 is a beneficial piece of legislation. The burden of proof in claim petitions is not as strict as it is in civil or criminal matters. While deciding the claim petition, the learned Tribunal had not kept in mind the principles of standard of proof in motor accident claim petition.

7. In Anita Sharma and Others Vs. The New India Assurance Co. Ltd. and Another, (2021) 1 SCC 171, the Full Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court narrated the view taken in Parmeshwari Vs. Amir Chand, (2011) 11 SCC 635, that it is very difficult to trace the witnesses and collecting information for an accident which took place many hundreds of kilometers away and further it is held by Hon'ble Apex Court in Anita Sharma and Others (Supra) that in a situation of this nature, the Tribunal has rightly taken a holistic view of the matter. It was necessary to be borne in mind that strict proof of an accident caused by a particular bus in a particular manner may not be possible to be done by the claimants. The claimants were merely to establish their case on the touchstone of preponderance of probability.

8. The Division Bench of Madras High Court also held in Reliance General Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Subbulakshmi and Others, passed in C.MA. No. 1482 of 2017 [C.M.P. No. 7919 of 2017. (CMA Sr. No. 76893 of 2016)] has referred the case of Puspabai Purshottam Udeshi Vs. Ranjit Ginning and Pressing Co., 1977ACJ 343 (SC), in which it is observed that the normal rule is that it is for the plaintiff to prove negligence but as in some cases considerable hardship is caused to the plaintiff as the true cause of the accident is not known to him but is solely within the knowledge of the defendant who caused it, the plaintiff can prove the accident but cannot prove how it happened to establish negligence on the part of the defendant. This hardship is sought to be avoided by applying the principle of res ipsa loquitur. The general purport of the words res ipsa loquitur is that the accident 'speaks for itself or tells its own story. There are cases in which the accident speaks for itself so that it is sufficient for the plaintiff to prove the accident and nothing more. It will then be for the defendant to establish that the accident happened due to some other cause than his own negligence. Where the maxim is applied the burden is on the defendant to show either that in fact he was not negligent or that the accident might more probably have happened in a manner which did not connote negligence on his part. For the application of the principle it must be shown that the car was under the management of the defendant and that the accident is such as in ordinary course of things does not happen if those who had the management used proper care.

9. In Bimla Devi and Others VS. Himachal RTC reported in 2009 (13) SCC 530, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that it was necessary to be borne in mind that strict proof of an accident caused by a particular vehicle in a particular manner may not be possible to be done by the claimants. The claimants were merely to establish their case on the touchstone of preponderance of probability. The standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt could not have been applied.

10. In the case on hand, the appellants have brought the case that at the time of accident the eyes of car driver were dazzled in the headlight of a truck which was coming from opposite direction and since the car was being driven at a very high speed, the driver of the car could not maintain the balance and lost control and car was overturned beside the road. Hence, it does not make any difference if that unknown truck could not be traced by the investigating officer and final report was submitted because it is not a case that unknown truck hit the car. Learned Tribunal has relied on technical inspection report of the car and held that it was having damage on the rear side. Hence, the manner of the accident, as contemplated by the appellants, was not believed. It is also held that the driver of the car stepped into the witness-box and deposed that he was driving at a moderate speed. Had it been so, the car could not overturn. The technical report cannot be the sole basis on which the Tribunal could rely heavily as held in the judgement of the Apex Court in Archit Saini and Antother Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Limited, AIR 2018 SC 1143. The issue of negligence is also required in this matter. It is also pertinent to mention that the informant of First Information Report was also examined on behalf of the appellants as PW3. Although, he has written an FIR that when he reached at the spot of the accident, people told him that some unknown vehicle had hit the car but in his own deposition as PW3 before the learned Tribunal he has also stated that the accident had taken place because eyes of the car driver were dazzled in the headlight of the truck coming from the opposite direction. Morever, in this case PW2 Himanshu Kumar who is Income Tax Officer, is the best eye-witness who could bring the fact before the learned Tribunal as to how the accident had taken place because he himself was travelling in the car alongwith the deceased. He has specifically deposed that the accident had taken place due to negligence of the driver of the car because he was driving at a very high speed and his eyes were dazzled when the headlights of the truck, coming from opposite direction, met with his eyes, due to high speed he could not control the car and lost control over it. Learned Tribunal has not given any justification or cogent reason to disbelieve evidence. Hence, the learned Tribunal has erred in disbelieving the evidence of co-passenger. Hence, there is sufficient evidence on record which convinces us that the accident had taken place because the car driver was driving at a very high speed as a result of which he could not control the car and it was overturned after being disbalanced. Hence, the finding of the learned Tribunal is upturned and we hold the driver of the car negligent.

11. The deceased was a salaried person. As the matter is pending since the year 2014, we remit back the matter to the learned Tribunal to decide the issue of compensation alongwith other issues except the issue Nos.1 and 5 on the basis of judgements of the Apex Court and this High Court as the deceased was a salaried person. Matter be decided within three months from the date when certified copy of this judgement is placed before the Tribunal and the record is received by the Tribunal.

12. Record be sent back to the Tribunal forthwith.

1. Vaishali Vs U.O.I.(2011 ACJ 106),

2. U.O.I.Vs Rina Devi (2019 (3) SCC 572),

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

This is a claimant's appeal, arising out of a judgment and order dated 16.09.2013, passed by the Railway Claims Tribunal, Lucknow Bench, Lucknow rejecting the claim for compensation on account of injuries sustained in an untoward incident.

2. Ajay Kumar, the sole appellant here, who preferred the application for compensation before the Tribunal, said in his application, raising the claim, that he was travelling on a second class general ticket on board the Farakka Express on March 18, 2007 from Delhi to Kanpur.

When the train was passing through the Govindpuri Railway Station, there was a sudden "jerk and jolt' in its movement, that led the appellant to be thrown off board. In consequence, the appellant was grievously injured. He was admitted to the care of the Lala Lajpat Rai Hospital, Kanpur, where he underwent surgery of amputation closure. In consequence of the accident, the appellant lost his journey ticket. Along with the claim application, the appellant has submitted photostat copies of documents that include the discharge slip from the G.S.V.M. Medical College, Kanpur, Lala Lajpat Rai and Associated Hospital, Kanpur, a copy of his ration card and a copy of the permanent disability certificate issued by the Chief Medical Officer, Kanpur Dehat, besides some papers relating to the treatment received by the applicant as an out-patient at the G.S.V.M. Medical College, Lala Lajpat Rai and Associated Hospital. The claimant prayed that he may be granted compensation in the sum of Rs. 4 lacs with pendente lite and future interest at the rate of 18% per annum from the date of incident.

3. The respondent-Union of India through the General Manager, Northern Railways, filed a written statement, refuting the appellant's claim. The written statement was filed on 27.11.2007. The respondent took a stand that the appellant was neither a passenger on board the Farakka Express nor did he suffer a fall from the train on 13.03.2007 near Govindpuri Railway Station. There are some additional pleas set out in the written statement and this Court must remark that the written statement is so carelessly drafted that in paragraph no. 8 thereof, it is said that "the deceased was not the passenger of the Farakka Express train on 13.03.2007". Admittedly, this is a case where, in consequence of the untoward incident, the appellant has survived the fall and it is he who is claiming compensation. It is further pleaded in the written statement that the untoward incident never took place and the story has been fabricated. It is also averred that the claim application does not disclose an untoward incident within the meaning of Section 123(c)(2) read with Section 8 of the Railways Act, 19891.

4. On the pleadings of parties, the following issues were framed :

1. Whether the injured was a bona fide passenger of the train in question?

2. Whether the incident of sustaining injuries by the injured falls under the ambit of Section 124-A of the Railways Act, 1989?

3. What are the injuries sustained by the injured applicant?

4. To what relief?

5. In support of the claim, the appellant, Ajay Kumar, examined himself as AW1. His examination-in-chief was put in, in the form of an affidavit along with photostat copies of documents viz. the discharge slip from the hospital, the handicap certificate from the Chief Medical Officer, Kanpur Dehat and medical prescriptions. Another witness who testified on behalf of the appellant was Smt. Maya, AW2, an eye-witness of the incident. She too put in an affidavit, carrying her evidence by way of examination-in-chief. Both the witnesses for the appellant were cross-examined on behalf of the respondents.

6. The respondent filed documentary evidence, which is an inquiry report of the Inspector, RPF/GMC, Kanpur, a police G.D. entry and a report of the Station In-charge, NCR, Govindpuri. This Court notices that no witness was examined on behalf of the respondents. The Tribunal, after hearing parties, decided Issue Nos. 1 and 2 together, by the judgment impugned. It is remarked by the Tribunal that according to the evidence of the appellant, he fell off the Farakka Express while it was passing through the Govindpuri Railway Station on 18.03.2007 and got injured. He was hospitalised in the Lala Lajpat Rai Hospital, Kanpur by Smt. Maya Devi. It is remarked that during his cross-examination, the appellant has said that after the untoward incident, the Police had visited the site and returned without extending any help. The Police made no efforts to convey him to the hospital. It is said that it was Smt. Maya Devi who took him to the hospital. The Tribunal notes that Smt. Maya Devi has also submitted an affdiavit and has been cross-examined by the learned Counsel for the respondent. Smt. Maya Devi, in her cross-examination, said that she picked up the injured appellant from the site and took him to the Police and Railway Authorities. The Police arranged a tempo to convey the appellant to the hospital. This difference in the version of the appellant and his witness, Maya Devi, has been regarded as a contradiction by the Tribunal, fundamental enough to shake the veracity of the appellant's case.

7. The Tribunal has then considered the documentary evidence offered by the respondents. It is remarked that the inquiry conducted by the Inspector, RPF/GMC, Kanpur and the Police G.D. show that a certain porter, Chhote Lal from the West Cabin, at 07:00 hours, handed over a memo regarding a man who had sustained injuries by train. When the police officials reached at the site, they found the appellant and his nephew, Deepu alias Pradeep Kumar there. The Tribunal records the fact that the inquiry report of the Inspector says that the second class general ticket, on which the appellant was travelling, was from Delhi to Jhinjhak. It was recovered from the person of the injured by the Police and he was dispatched to the Lala Lajpat Rai Hospital by the police officials. Again, at this stage, the assertion in the cross-examination of the appellant that the Police, after reaching the site, went away without assisting him, has been found, on a comparison with the report of the Inspector, RPF/GMC, Kanpur to be a material contradiction. Apart from the contradiction, the Tribunal has concluded that the appellant had a ticket up to Jhinjhak and therefore, at Govindpuri, he was not a bona fide passenger. It has been held by the Tribunal that initially, burden lies upon the appellant to prove his case of being a victim of an untoward incident by adducing documentary evidence, and the respondents need not disprove the case of the appellant, which on its own strength, is not proved by cogent evidence. The Tribunal has remarked that no evidence was produced on behalf of the appellant, leading to a failure on the appellant's part to discharge his evidential burden under Section 102 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. The Tribunal has held that it is not proved that the appellant was a bona fide passenger on board the train in question, or that he sustained injuries in an untoward incident while travelling on board the said train. In this view of the matter, the Tribunal has dismissed the claim vide judgment and order dated 26.09.2013.

8. Aggrieved, the appellant has come up through this appeal under Section 23 of the Railway Claims Tribunal Act, 1987.

9. Heard Ms. Amrita Singh, learned Counsel for the appellant and Mr. Manendra Nath Rai, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents. The records have been carefully perused.

10. The way the Tribunal has looked at the evidence of the appellant AW1 and his witness Smt. Maya Devi, AW2 is patently fallacious. It has disbelieved the untoward incident on account of a contradiction in the testimonies of the appellant and Smt. Maya Devi that could logically be there, given that the appellant had sustained a grievous injury in the untoward incident, leading to amputation of one of his limbs. The contradiction in the evidence of the two, about which the Tribunal has made much ado, is that whereas the appellant says that the Police came to the site and went away without assisting him and that it was Smt. Maya Devi who conveyed him to the hospital, Smt. Maya Devi says that she picked up the appellant on seeing him fall off the train and suffer injuries and took him to the Police and the Railway Authorities. According to Smt. Maya Devi, AW2 it was the Police who arranged a tempo to convey the appellant to the hospital. This has been discerned as a vital contradiction in the cross-examination of the appellant and his witness Smt. Maya Devi. The evidence of parties is not to be understood or appreciated as if it were by the rules of grammar. It is to be appreciated to understand facts relevant to the issue or the fact in issue itself, as it unfurled on the ground. The Tribunal lost sight of the fact that the appellant was a man who had suffered a grievous injury as a result of the fall from the train that led to the traumatic amputation of one of his lower limbs. In the quick sequence of events after the untoward incident, it is very logical that the appellant misunderstood that the Police did not help, but Smt. Maya Devi conveyed him to the hospital. The fact that Smt. Maya Devi took the help of the Railway Authorities and the Police in conveying the appellant to the hospital may be presenting a full picture of which the traumatized appellant reported the half, that he perceived. Both the appellant and Smt. Maya Devi are ad idem on the point that it was she who picked up the appellant and got him conveyed to the hospital. Whether she did this of her own, without any assistance from the Police or with their assistance, is not at all material. As already remarked, this could be the result of an aberration in perception that the appellant suffered from in the throes of his agony post accident. The Tribunal has, therefore, gone utterly wrong in inferring a contradiction on this count between the testimonies of AW1 and AW2.

11. The other count on which the Tribunal has held against the appellant is that he could not establish himself to be a bona fide passenger on Board the Farakka Express, when he claims to have met the accident. In reaching this conclusion, the Tribunal has heavily relied on the inquiry report conducted by the Inspector, RPF/GMC Kanpur, enclosing with it a copy of the Police G.D. No. 4. The Tribunal has remarked that a perusal of the inquiry report and the Police G.D. shows that at 07:00 hours, a porter, Chhote Lal from the West Cabin, handed over a memo regarding a person who had sustained injuries by train. The report has further been noticed to show that when the Police officials reached the site, they found the appellant and his nephew Deepu alias Pradeep Kumar there. The general ticket from Delhi to Jhinjhak was recovered from the appellant and he was dispatched to the Lala Lajpat Rai Hospital by the Police for treatment. It is remarked that what the appellant has said in his cross-examination is not acceptable, in view of the entry in the G.D. The Tribunal has inferred that the appellant had a journey ticket from Delhi to Jhinjhak, and not Kanpur. Since Govindpuri is beyond Jhinjhak, he was not a bona fide passenger on board the Farakka Express, when he suffered the injury, as a result of the untoward incident. The Tribunal has also remarked that the appellant has been trying to mislead the Tribunal and for the purpose, has planted a false witness Smt. Maya Devi. It has also been stated by the Tribunal that the appellant has not come with clean hands.

12. On a reading of the inquiry report submitted by the Inspector, RPF/GMC, Kanpur, the Police G.D. and the cross-examination of Smt. Maya Devi, it is evident the finding of the Tribunal on this score is not only wrong, but also perverse. Perverse this Court says because once the Inspector, RPF/GMC, Kanpur had acknowledged in his inquiry report supported by the G.D. that a railway ticket had been recovered from the appellant, entitling him to travel from Delhi to Jhinjhak, the failure of the respondent in producing the recovered ticket would result in failure to discharge evidential burden on the respondents' part. The inference would be that the appellant was travelling on a valid ticket up to Kanpur and the respondents, after admittedly recovering the railway ticket, have not produced it in evidence, because if produced, it would go against their stand. There is no explanation given why the recovered ticket mentioned in the report of the Inspector, RPF/GMC, Kanpur has not been put in evidence by the respondents. Therefore, it has to be held that the appellant was travelling on a valid railway ticket from Delhi to Kanpur. If one were to assume on the admitted state of evidence, that is established by the report of the Inspector, RPF/GMC, Kanpur, that the appellant had a ticket valid up to Jhinjhak alone and had overshot his destination, suffering the accident at Govindpuri, that too would not deprive him of his status as a bona fide passenger. If a passenger overshoots his destination vis-à-vis the railway ticket held by him, the legal position is beyond cavil. All that the Railways can do is to charge him for the extra distance travelled, but cannot dub him as a passenger not bona fide travelling on board train. In this connection, reference may be made to the decision of the Bombay High Court in Vaishali v. Union of India2, where it has been held :

10. ....Merely because he had over-travelled beyond his authorised distance of Bhusawal, it would not be enough to label him a mala fide or fraudulent passenger. Looking to the rulings cited and provisions of the Act, Railway Manual, at the most, the Railways could have recovered excess fare or charge from him beyond the travelling destination; furthermore, he could also be allowed to return to the station of his destination in view of the Rules. .....

13. Also, it is well-settled that the mere absence of a railway ticket with the victim of a railway accident would not show that he was not a bona fide passenger. The claimant would discharge his initial burden or evidential burden by asserting on affidavit that he was a bona fide passenger, whereupon the burden would shift to the Railways and the issue has then to be decided, after both the sides lead evidence, according to the facts of each case and the circumstances. In this regard, reference may be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in Union of India v. Rina Devi3, where it was held :

29. We thus hold that mere presence of a body on the railway premises will not be conclusive to hold that injured or deceased was a bona fide passenger for which claim for compensation could be maintained. However, mere absence of ticket with such injured or deceased will not negative the claim that he was a bona fide passenger. Initial burden will be on the claimant which can be discharged by filing an affidavit of the relevant facts and burden will then shift on the Railways and the issue can be decided on the facts shown or the attending circumstances. This will have to be dealt with from case to case on the basis of facts found. The legal position in this regard will stand explained accordingly.

(Emphasis by Court)

14. Here, the facts place the appellant, as already said, on a much better footing, because possession of railway ticket by him is admitted to the Inspector, RPF/GMC, Kanpur Nagar and a mention of it is to be found in the Police G.D. The reference to the ticket specifically shows that it was taken away by the police officials, when the appellant was sent to the hospital.

15. Before parting with the matter, the fact that the appellant sustained injuries in an untoward incident while travelling on board the train in question, can be best visualised by the very natural description of the incident in the cross-examination of AW2 Smt. Maya Devi, who is, in no way, related to the appellant. She has, in her cross-examination, described the incident thus :

घटना 18-3-2007 की है। घटना 5 बजे के लगभग की है। घायल अजय मेरे सामने गिरा था। उस समय गाड़ी चल रही थी। पहले मैने घायल को उठाया और अपना काम मैं उस समय भूल गयी। मैं घायल को नहीं जानती थी। घटनास्थल से घायल को उठाकरके, लोग स्टेशन ले गए वहाँ पुलिस और रेलवे - वालों को बताया। फिर पुलिस ने टेम्पों कराकर, उसमें घायल को, अस्पताल ले गए। पुलिस वालों ने कोई लिखा-पढ़ी नहीं की। पुलिस मेरे साथ गयी थी। मैं अजय के कहने पर गवाही देने आयी हूँ। यह कहना गलत है कि मैं यहाँ पर गलत बयान दे रही हूँ।

सुनकर तस्दीक किया।

16. The aforesaid testimony of AW2 Smt. Maya Devi leaves this Court in no manner of doubt that the appellant was a bona fide passenger on board the Farakka Express, who suffered a fall from the train and became the victim of an untoward incident, while the train was moving.

17. In the circumstances, the Railways must be held, as already said, to have failed to discharge their evidential burden by producing the ticket, leading to an adverse inference against the Railways. By no means can the appellant be regarded as one who was not a bona fide passenger, under the circumstances, travelling up to Kanpur. The findings returned by the Tribunal, in the considered opinion of this Court, cannot at all be sustained and the judgment deserves to be reversed.

18. In the result, this appeal succeeds and is allowed with costs. The impugned judgment and order dated 16.09.2013 passed by the Railway Claims Tribunal, Lucknow Bench, Lucknow in Case No. OA0700241 is hereby set aside and reversed. The claim application stands allowed.

19. It is ordered that the appellant is entitled to receive in compensation a sum of Rs. 4 lacs, which shall be paid to him, within a period of 90 days from the date of receipt of a copy of this judgment, by the respondents. In the event, the compensation awarded is not paid within a period of 90 days, the compensation awarded shall carry interest at the rate of 9% per annum after expiry of the period of 90 days from the date of this judgment till realisation. Let the lower court records be sent down to the Tribunal, together with a certified copy of this judgment passed by this Court.

20. Let a copy of this order be communicated to the General Manager, Northern Railways, Baroda House, New Delhi by the Senior Registrar.

Civil Law– Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Sections -168 & 171 : - Claimant's Appeal for enhancement - quantum of compensation - left leg of appellant was amputed from his hip - Partial permanent disability - determination of compensation u/s 168 must be reasonable, just, fair, equitable & accepted by legal standards - Assessment of income by tribunal is erroneous - Income reassessed by High Court - Since injured would be incapacitated for lifetime, 40% must be added for future loss of income - Age of appellant was 27 years at the time of accident - hence, multiplier should 17 be applied - amount granted for pain, shock and suffering enhanced - Omission to grant any amount for future medical expenses & procuring artificial limb was erroneous - therefore, compensation awarded by the tribunal, enhanced as from Rs. 3,64,160 with 9% rate of interest to Rs. 15,80,000/- with 7.5% rate of interest - Appeal is partly Allowed - judgment of tribunal shall stand modified accordingly. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned counsel for the respondents. Perused the record.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimant, challenges the judgment/award dated 08.07.2002 and decree dated 22.07.2002 passed by Motor Accident Claim Tribunal Agra/Additional District Judge, Court No.11, Agra (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in Motor Accident Claim Petition No.147 of 2000 awarding a sum of Rs.3,64,160/- with interest at the rate of 9% as compensation.

3. The brief facts as culled out from the record are that on 8.5.2000, appellant/claimant Satpal Singh was going from Delhi to Ghaziabad by Scooter No. DL 5 S 4011 with Dharamveer Singh at about 12 O'clock in the night when the scooter reached at Mohan Nagar, Sales Tax Check Post, a truck bearing UP 20 D 4827, which was being driven very rashly and negligently by its driver, came from behind and hit the aforesaid Scooterist. The wheel of the truck ran over the left leg (lower limb) of the appellant. The applicant was admitted to the nearest Hospital at Mohan Nagar, District Ghaziabad where he remained admitted from 9.3.2000 to 7.4.2000 and during his treatment his left leg (lower limb) was amputed from the hip.

4. The accident is not in dispute. The factum of negligence has attained finality. The issue regarding the driver of the truck having valid and effective driving licence has also been decided by the tribunal in favour of the appellant which is not challenged in this appeal. Hence only the issue of quantum of compensation is to be looked into by us.

5. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that learned Tribunal has assessed the income of the appellant at Rs.1800/- per month (eighteen hundred only) which is very meagre because the appellant was aged 27 years old on date of accident. The applicant was a TV Mechanic and his income was not less then Rs.7,000/- per month in the year of accident, but learned Tribunal has equated his income with labourer. It is further submitted by learned counsel that no amount for future loss of income is awarded by the tribunal. Appellant was aged 27 years and he could have progressed in life and his income would have increased year by year, but learned tribunal did not consider this fact.

6. It is next submitted by counsel for the appellant that left leg of appellant was amputed from the hip and as per medical certificate, he has sustained permanent disability to the tune of 90%, but in fact the appellant has become 100% disabled so his permanent disability should be considered at 100%. It is also submitted that tribunal has applied multiplier of 14 while it should have been 17 keeping in view age being 27 years. It is next submitted that tribunal has awarded a very meagre amount of Rs.5,000/- for pain, shock and suffering, and no amount for future medicines, special diet and attendant charges, etc., have been awarded, learned Tribunal is not considered the loss of amenities.

7. Learned counsel for the Insurance Company submitted that the income of the appellant was not be proved, he was Mechanic, but he has failed to prove his monthly income to be Rs.7,000/- per month. Hence, learned Tribunal has rightly assessed his monthly income at Rs.1800/- per month. It is next submitted by learned counsel that as per medical certificate, the permanent disability of the appellant was found to the tune of 90% and learned Tribunal has also considered 90% it cannot be 100%. Learned counsel for Insurance Company very fairly submitted that the multiplier should be in accordance with judgment of Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121. It is also submitted that there is no evidence on record that appellant suffered any future loss of income. The amount under non pecuniary heads has been fairly awarded by the tribunal. It is submitted that Tribunal has awarded compensation with 9% rate of interest which is on higher side.

8. This is the case where a 27 year old man has lost his one limb from the hip joint on account of injuries sustained in road accident but the learned tribunal has awarded total compensation of Rs.3,64,160/- which cannot be said to be just compensation.

9. This is a case of injury which is very grave in nature. The wheel of the truck ran over the left leg of the appellant and during treatment his left leg was imputed from the hip joint which made him in capacitated from pursuing in good career in life though he was a TV Mechanic at the time of accident. He is not able to walk, run or even seat properly. He has lost amenities and pleasure of life it can safely be assumed that he had bleak prospects of marriage and family life. He is not able to live the normal life, his disability which is to the tune of 90% is permanent in nature, his normalacy of life can't be restored as it was before the accident, but Court should provide "just compensation".

10. We have to keep in mind all the factors which are relevant for just and proper compensation as is the object of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short, "the Act of 1988').

11. Section 168 of the Act, 1988, contemplates determination of 'just compensation'. 'Just' means-fair, reasonable and equitable amount accepted by legal standards. 'Just compensation' does not mean perfect or absolute compensation. 'Just compensation' principle requires examination of particular situation obtaining uniquely in individual case. When compensation is to be determined on an application under Section 166 of the Act, 1988, various heads under which damages are to be assessed, have to be looked into by Tribunal.

12. The question of determination of compensation for injured directly came up before Supreme Court in Raj Kumar Vs. Ajay Kumar and another, 2011(1) SCC 343 and Anthony v. Managing Director, K.S.R.T.C. 2020 ACJ 1592 relied by applicant's counsel. Therein, claimant sustained fracture of both bone of left leg and fracture of left radius in a motor accident on 01.10.1991. Tribunal awarded compensation under the heads of loss of future earning, pain and sufferings, loss of earning during period of treatment, medical expenses, conveyance and special diet. He was awarded total compensation of Rs. 94,700/- and 9% interest. His appeal for enhancement was rejected by Tribunal and ultimately went in appeal to Supreme Court. It observed that scheme of Act, 1988 shows that award must be "just", which means that compensation should, to the extent possible, fully and adequately restore claimant to the position prior to the accident. The object of awarding damages is to make good the loss suffered as a result of wrong done as far as money can do so, in a fair, reasonable and equitable manner. A person is not only to be compensated for physical injury, but also for the loss which he suffered as a result of such injury. It means that he is to be compensated for his inability to lead a full life, his inability to enjoy those normal amenities which he would have enjoyed but for the injuries, and his inability to earn as much as he used to earn or could have earned. The heads under which compensation needs be awarded in "personal injury" cases are detailed in para 6 of the judgment titled Raj Kumar Vs. Ajay Kumar (supra) and it reads as under:

"6. The heads under which compensation is awarded in personal injury cases are the following:

Pecuniary damages (Special Damages)

(i) Expenses relating to treatment, hospitalization, medicines, transportation, nourishing food, and miscellaneous expenditure.

(ii) Loss of earnings (and other gains) which the injured would have made had he not been injured, comprising:

(a) Loss of earning during the period of treatment;

(b) Loss of future earnings on account of permanent disability.

(iii) Future medical expenses.

Non-pecuniary damages (General Damages)

(iv) Damages for pain, suffering and trauma as a consequence of the injuries.

(v) Loss of amenities (and/or loss of prospects of marriage).

(vi) Loss of expectation of life (shortening of normal longevity).

In routine personal injury cases, compensation will be awarded only under heads (i), (ii)(a) and (iv). It is only in serious cases of injury, where there is specific medical evidence corroborating the evidence of the claimant, that compensation will be granted under any of the heads (ii) (b), (iii), (v) and (vi) relating to loss of future earnings on account of permanent disability, future medical expenses, loss of amenities (and/or loss of prospects of marriage) and loss of expectation of life."

13. "Disability" refers to any restriction or lack of ability to perform an activity in the manner considered normal for a human-being. "Permanent disability" refers to the residuary incapacity or loss of use of some part of the body, found existing at the end of period of treatment and recuperation, after achieving maximum bodily improvement or recovery which is likely to remain for remainder life of injured. Permanent disability can be either partial or total. "Partial permanent disability" refers to a person's inability to perform all the duties and bodily functions that he could perform before the accident, though he is able to perform some of them and is still able to engage in some gainful activity. "Total permanent disability" refers to a person's inability to perform any avocation or employment related activities as a result of the accident.

14. The percentage of disability certified in medical terms has been considered and Courts have observed that percentage of disability in respect of a part of body does not mean the same percentage with respect to whole body and it may be different. Para 9 of judgment in Raj Kumar Vs. Ajay Kumar (supra) said as under:

"9. The percentage of permanent disability is expressed by the Doctors with reference to the whole body, or more often than not, with reference to a particular limb. When a disability certificate states that the injured has suffered permanent disability to an extent of 45% of the left lower limb, it is not the same as 45% permanent disability with reference to the whole body. The extent of disability of a limb (or part of the body) expressed in terms of a percentage of the total functions of that limb, obviously cannot be assumed to be the extent of disability of the whole body. If there is 60% permanent disability of the right hand and 80% permanent disability of left leg, it does not mean that the extent of permanent disability with reference to the whole body is 140% (that is 80% plus 60%). If different parts of the body have suffered different percentages of disabilities, the sum total thereof expressed in terms of the permanent disability with reference to the whole body, cannot obviously exceed 100%."

(emphasis added)

15. Court also castigated that Tribunals wrongly assume that percentage of permanent disability is same in terms of percentage of loss of future earning capacity. The two aspects are different. Relevant observations in para 10 of the judgment in Raj Kumar Vs. Ajay Kumar (supra) are reproduced as under:

"10. Where the claimant suffers a permanent disability as a result of injuries, the assessment of compensation under the head of loss of future earnings, would depend upon the effect and impact of such permanent disability on his earning capacity. The Tribunal should not mechanically apply the percentage of permanent disability as the percentage of economic loss or loss of earning capacity. In most of the cases, the percentage of economic loss, that is, percentage of loss of earning capacity, arising from a permanent disability will be different from the percentage of permanent disability. Some Tribunals wrongly assume that in all cases, a particular extent (percentage) of permanent disability would result in a corresponding loss of earning capacity, and consequently, if the evidence produced show 45% as the permanent disability, will hold that there is 45% loss of future earning capacity. In most of the cases, equating the extent (percentage) of loss of earning capacity to the extent (percentage) of permanent disability will result in award of either too low or too high a compensation."

(emphasis added)

16. Court also held that in some cases evidence and assessment may show that percentage of loss of earning capacity as a result of permanent disability is approximately the same as percentage of permanent disability and in that case said percentage for determination of compensation may be adopted but it is not always. It is in this context Court further said that in order to determine, whether there is any permanent disability and if so the extent of such disability, a Tribunal should consider, and decide, with reference to evidence:

"(i) whether the disablement is permanent or temporary;

(ii) if the disablement is permanent, whether it is permanent total disablement or permanent partial disablement;

(iii) if the disablement percentage is expressed with reference to any specific limb, then the effect of such disablement of the limb on the functioning of the entire body, that is the permanent disability suffered by the person."

17. It was also observed that ascertainment of the effect of permanent disability on actual earning capacity involves three steps. First is to ascertain what activities claimant could carry on in spite of permanent disability and what he could not do as a result of permanent disability. The second is to ascertain claimant's avocation, profession and nature of work before accident, as also his age. The third step is to find out whether claimant is totally disabled from earning any kind of livelihood or despite permanent disability, claimant could still effectively carry on activities and functions, which he was earlier carrying on and whether he was prevented or restricted from discharging his previous activities and functions, but could carry on some other or lesser scale of activities and functions so that he continues to earn or can continue to earn his livelihood.

18. The role of Tribunal was elaborately discussed by observing that it is not a silent spectator when medical evidence is tendered in regard to the injuries and their effect, in particular the extent of permanent disability. Tribunal does not function as a neutral umpire as in a civil suit. It is an active explorer and seeker of truth who is required to hold an enquiry into the claim for determining 'just compensation'. Tribunal should take an active role to ascertain the true and correct position so that it can assess 'just compensation'. Court also observed that when a doctor gives evidence about percentage of permanent disability, Tribunal must find out whether such percentage of disability is functional disability with reference to whole body or whether it is only with reference to a limb. In para 19 of the judgment in Raj Kumar Vs. Ajay Kumar (supra) Court summarized the principles in respect of "permanent disability" and assessment of compensation and in para 20 it gives certain illustrations in regard to assessment of loss of future earning. Same are reproduced as under:

"19. We may now summarize the principles discussed above:

(i) All injuries (or permanent disabilities arising from injuries), do not result in loss of earning capacity.

(ii) The percentage of permanent disability with reference to the whole body of a person, cannot be assumed to be the percentage of loss of earning capacity. To put it differently, the percentage of loss of earning capacity is not the same as the percentage of permanent disability (except in a few cases, where the Tribunal on the basis of evidence, concludes that percentage of loss of earning capacity is the same as percentage of permanent disability).

(iii) The doctor who treated an injured-claimant or who examined him subsequently to assess the extent of his permanent disability can give evidence only in regard the extent of permanent disability. The loss of earning capacity is something that will have to be assessed by the Tribunal with reference to the evidence in entirety.

(iv) The same permanent disability may result in different percentages of loss of earning capacity in different persons, depending upon the nature of profession, occupation or job, age, education and other factors."

19. A three Judge Bench considered the question of "just compensation" in a case of permanent disability in Sanjay Verma Vs. Haryana Roadways, 2014(3) SCC 210. Court observed that besides determination of damages under the head "loss of income" and "medical expenses", Tribunal must also award compensation under the head "future treatment" and "pain and sufferings" and where there is requirement of an attendant, cost of attendant should also be included for award of compensation.

20. In Kajal Vs. Jagdish Chand reported in 2020 (0) AIJEL-SC 65725, the Apex Court has quoted pertinent observations from a very old case Philips Vs. Western Railway Company (1874) 4QBD 406 as under:

"You cannot put the plaintiff back again into his original position, but you must bring your reasonable common sense to bear, and you must always recollect that this is the only occasion on which compensation can be given. The plaintiff can never sue again for it. You have, therefore, now to give him compensation once and for all. He has done no wrong, he has suffered a wrong at the hands of the defendants and you must take care to give him full fair compensation for that which he has suffered." Besides, the Tribunals should always remember that the measures of damages in all these cases "should be such as to enable even a tortfeasor to say that he had amply atoned for his misadventure."

21. Hon'ble Apex Court has further quoted pertinent observations from H. West & Son Ltd. v. Shephard 1963 2 WLR 1359 as under:

"Money may be awarded so that something tangible may be procured to replace something else of the like nature which has been destroyed or lost. But money cannot renew a physical frame that has been battered and shattered. All that Judges and courts can do is to award sums which must be regarded as giving reasonable compensation. In the process there must be the endeavour to secure some uniformity in the general method of approach. By common assent awards must be reasonable and must be assessed with moderation. Furthermore, it is eminently desirable that so far as possible comparable injuries should be compensated by comparable awards.

In the same case Lord Devlin observed that the proper approach to the problem was to adopt a test as to what contemporary society would deem to be a fair sum, such as would allow the wrongdoer to "hold up his head among his neighbours and say with their approval that he has done the fair thing", which should be kept in mind by the court in determining compensation in personal injury cases."

22. Section 168 of MV Act stipulates that there should be grant of just compensation. Thus, it becomes challenge for a Court of law to determine just compensation which should not be bonanza for the claimant/victim and at the same time it should not be too meagre. Hon'ble the Apex Court in Rajkumar Vs Ajay Kumar and others (2011) 1 SCC 343 has laid down the heads under which compensation is to be awarded for personal injuries which is as follows:

"Pecuniary damages (Special damages)

(i)Expenses relating to treatment, hospitalization, medicines, transportation, nourishing food, and miscellaneous expenditure.

(ii) Loss of earnings (and other gains) which the injured would have made had he not been injured, comprising:

(a) Loss of earning during the period of treatment;

(b) Loss of future earnings on account of permanent disability.

(iii) Future medical expenses.

Non-pecuniary damages (General damages)

(iv) Damages for pain, suffering and trauma as a consequence of the injuries.

(v) Loss of amenities (and/or loss of prospects of marriage).

(vi) Loss of expectation of life (shortening of normal longevity).

In routine personal injury cases, compensation will be awarded only under heads (i), (ii) (a) and (iv). It is only in serious cases of injury, where there is specific medical evidence corroborating the evidence of the claimant, that compensation will be granted under any of the heads (ii)(b), (iii), (v) and (vi) relating to loss of future earnings on account of permanent disability, future medical expenses, loss of amenities (and/or loss of prospects of marriage) and loss of expectation of life.

23. In K. Suresh v. New India Assurance Company Ltd. and Ors., Hon'ble the Apex Court has held as follows :

"2...There cannot be actual compensation for anguish of the heart or for mental tribulations. The quintessentiality lies in the pragmatic computation of the loss sustained which has to be in the realm of realistic approximation. Therefore, Section 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for brevity the Act) stipulates that there should be grant of just compensation. Thus, it becomes a challenge for a court of law to determine just compensation which is neither a bonanza nor a windfall, and simultaneously, should not be a pittance."

24. Hence, keeping in mind the above contours of "just compensation", we proceed to determine the quantum of compensation. It is not disputed that appellant has submitted the bills for medical expenses and treatment worth Rs.87,000/-. As far as disability of the appellant is concerned, Doctors have issued disability certificate to the tune of 90% for body as a whole and the Tribunal has also considered the same percentage. Hence, we do not disturb the percentage of permanent disability.

25. Perusal of judgment shows that despite holding that the appellant was a T.V. Mechanic, the learned Tribunal has considered his monthly income at Rs.1800/- on the ground that he could not adduce any evidence in this regard. We are even fortified in our view by the following authoritative pronouncements.

(i) Sanjay Kumar Vs. Ashok Kumar and another, (2014) 5 SCC 330;

(ii) Syed. Sadiq and others Vs. Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Company Limited, (2014) 2 SCC 735;

(iii) V. Mekala Vs. M. Malathi and another, (2014) 11 SCC 178; and

(iv) Hari Babu Vs. Amrit Lal and others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 718 (All.).

(v) Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles (Eleventh Amendment) Rules, 2011.

26. Learned tribunal has assessed income at Rs.1800/- per month of injured appellant on the basis of The Minimum Wages Act, the said finding is bad. Learned tribunal could not have equated the appellant with labourer because before learned tribunal the appellant led evidence and opined that he was a T.V. Mechanic meaning thereby, that he was a technical and skilled person. The accident took place in the year of 2000, hence, we hold the income of the appellant at Rs.4,000/- per month.

27. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgment of Jithendran v. New India Assurance Company Ltd and another, 2021 ACJ 2736 has held that in case of injury, 40% would be added towards future prospects, considering the fact that injured would be incapacitated for life, the same would be applicable to the facts of this Case.

28. Keeping in view the aforesaid decisions 40% would be added for future loss of income of the appellant, it is the result of his permanent disability and that too to the tune of 90%. The age of appellant was 27 years at the time of accident, hence, multiplier of 17 shall be applied, Rs.87,000/- were spent on medical expenses which are rightly granted by the tribunal. Learned tribunal has granted a meagre amount of Rs.5,000/- for pain and suffering. This is a case of amputation of one leg, hence Rs.1,00,000/- is granted for pain, shock and suffering as held by the Apex Court in Syed Sadiq Etc. Vs. Divisional Manager United India Insurance Company Ltd., (2014) 2 SCC 735. Learned tribunal has not granted any amount for future medical expenses hence, we grant Rs.40,000/- for future medicines, Rs.10,000/- (lumps sum) for special diet and Rs.5,000/- for attendant charges are also granted.

29. We can take judicial notice of the fact that in some of the cases, the injured as the case in hand requires artificial limb for betterment in movement, where leg is amputated. Purpose of social welfare legislation is to find out ways and means to help the sufferer in all possible fields. If Tribunal finds with medical advice that artificial limb can procure his self-dependency, all possible efforts should be made to get it executed and whatever necessary expenses, it requires, must be treated to be a part of compensation, which should be allowed against the persons liable to pay compensation. Hence, the appellant would be entitled to get Rs.1,00,000/- for procuring artificial limb.

30. Where the appellant has become disabled to the tune of 90% and that too by his leg, he is not able to seat properly and walk and he has lost pleasures of life because he cannot live a normal life after the accident. It is natural that he had bleak prospects of marriage and family life as he was a young man of 27 years of age only. It cannot be said that appellant lost amenities of life to the great extent which cannot be restored at all, therefore, we grant Rs.2,00,000/- for loss of amenities. On the basis of above discussion, the amount of compensation payable to the appellant is computed herein-below.

31. On the basis of above discussions, the amount of compensation payable to the appellant is computed herein-below.

i. Annual Income : Rs.4,000/- p.m.

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 40% which would be Rs.1600/-

iii. Total income (i+ii) : Rs.5600/-

iv. Annual Income : Rs.5600 x 12 = 67,200/-

v. Multiplier applicable : 17

vi. Loss of dependency: (Rs.67,200 x 17)=Rs.11,42,400/-

vii. Permanent disability at the rate of 90% = Rs.10,28,000/- (rounded figure) viii. Medical expenses = Rs.87,000/-

ix. For Artificial limb = Rs.1,00,000/-

x. For loss of amenities : Rs.2,00,000/-

xi. For Special diet : Rs.10,000/-

xii. For attendant charges = Rs.5,000/- xiii. For future medicines = Rs.40,000/-

xiv. For transportation expenses = Rs.10,000/-

xv. For pain, shock and suffering : Rs.1,00,000/-

xvi. Total compensation (vii+viii+ix+x+xi+xii+xiii+xiv+xv) : Rs.15,80,000/- (in rounded figure)

32. The tribunal has awarded the rate of interest @ 9% but as far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National 7 Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2)

T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

33. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the additional amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. However, for period of 22.7.2002 to 17.12.2003 no interest would be payable in view of decision of Apex Court reported in Lakkamma and Others Vs. The Regional Manager M/s United India Insurance Co. Ltd., AIR 2021 SC 3301. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

34. Learned Tribunal has awarded rate of interest as 9% per annum but we are award of interest at 7.5% on the enhanced amount in the light of the above judgment of the Apex Court.

35. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH 6 (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate nor rustic villagers.

36. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

37. No other grounds were urged when the matters were heard.

38. Recently the Gujarat High Court in case titled the Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Chief Commissioner of Income Tax (TDS), R/Special Civil Application No.4800 of 2021 decided on 05.04.2022, it is held that interest awarded by the tribunal under Section 171 of Motor Vehicles Act is not taxable under the Income Tax Act, 1961.

39. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Private Ltd. v. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. As 10 years have elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Account of claimants in Nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

40. We are thankful to learned counsels for the parties for ably assisting this court in getting this old appeal disposed of.

41. Record be sent back to tribunal below forthwith.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard Sri Nigamendra Shukla, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Amitanshu Gour, learned Advocate, appearing for Sri S.B.L. Gour, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and award dated 20.2.2008 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No.2, Bulandshahr (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in Motor Accident Claim Case No.246 of 1999 awarding a sum of Rs.2,90,000/- as compensation with interest at the rate of 6%.

3. It is an admitted position of fact that the accident occurred on 28.5.1999. The claim petition was filed under Sections 163 A, 166 & 140 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act'). The evidence was led and only in the year 2007 the claimants deleted Section 166 and 140 of the Act which was much after the evidence was recorded. Only heading of section was corrected and nothing was corrected in the body of the claim petition, namely, income of the deceased was Rs. 6,000/- per month and the monetary loss claimed was Rs.20,000/- which was beyond the scope of Section 163A of the Act. After the pleadings were over, the evidence was closed and the matter was fixed for arguments, the Tribunal recast the issues and framed five issues. One of them was regarding negligence. Had the Tribunal considered the matter only under Section 163A, there was no question of deciding the issue of negligence. The Tribunal has considered the matter as if it was a matter under Section 166 of the Act and, therefore, once the Tribunal decides the matter under Section 166 and not under Section 163 A of the Act by deciding issue of negligence, it was under an obligation to decide the future loss of income.

4. The accident took place on 28.5.1999. The deceased-Isttyak was 25 years of age at the time of accident. The Tribunal considered his income to be Rs.2400/- per month, deducted 1/3rd towards personal expenses of the deceased, granted multiplier of 15 on the basis of age of parents and has granted Rs.2,000/- under non pecuniary damages.

5. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that the deceased was earning Rs.3300/- per month and the Tribunal has erred in not considering the same. It is further submitted that the Tribunal has not granted any amount under the head of future loss of income. It is further submitted that the Tribunal has granted multiplier of 15 considering the age of the parents of the deceased which is bad and it should be 18 as the deceased was in the age bracket of 21 to 25.

6. It is lastly submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that the amount awarded under non-pecuniary heads and interest, awarded by the Tribunal or on the lower side and are required to be enhanced.

7. As against this, learned counsel for the respondent has contended that the income which has been considered by the Tribunal is just and proper as there was no income proof. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the respondent that non grant of future loss of income and multiplier of 15 granted by the Tribunal are just and proper. is just and proper. It is also contended by learned counsel for the respondent that the deceased being bachelor, the deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased would be 1/2.

8. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, income of the deceased, even in the year of accident can be considered to be at least Rs.3000/- per month looking the fact that he was mason by profession. As the petition was under Section 163 A of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, future prospects cannot be given was the submission of learned counsel for respondent but, in this case, the Tribunal has considered the claim petition as one under Section 166 of Motor Vehicles Act as originally filed. This is clear from the order passed in 2008 when after evidence was led the Tribunal recast the issues and decided the issue of negligence which it could not do so if it had considered the claim under Section 163A of M.V. Act as negligence cannot be decided or considered in a claim under Section 163 A. Therefore, once the Tribunal has decided the matter under Section 166 by deciding issue of negligence, it was under an obligation to decide the future loss of income which has not done. Hence, we grant addition of 40% towards future loss of income of the deceased. The deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased would be 1/2 as the deceased was bachelor. Multiplier of 18 should be granted as the deceased was in the age bracket of 21-25. Further, Rs.40,000/- each to the parents be granted in view of the decision in Kurvan Ansari Alias Kurvan Ali Vs. Shyam Kishore Murmu, 2021 (0) AIJEL-SC 67995.

9. Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellants is computed herein below:

i. Income: Rs.3,000/-per month (Rs.36,000 per year)

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 40% namely 14,400/-

iii. Total income : Rs.36,000 + Rs.14,400 = 50,400/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/2 towards personal expenses : Rs.25,200/-

v. Multiplier applicable : 18

vi. Loss of dependency: Rs.25,200 x 18 = Rs.4,53,600/-

vii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs.40,000 + Rs.40,000/- = Rs.80,000/- viii. Total compensation : Rs.5,33,600/-

10. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

11. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest as directed above. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Tribunal forthwith.

12. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or rustic villagers.

13. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansaguri P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount. The said decision has also been reiterated by High Court Gujarat in R/Special Civil Application No.4800 of 2021 (The Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Chief Commissioner of Income Tax (TDS) decided on 5.4.2022.

14. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

(A) Civil Law – Civil Procedure Code, 1908 - Section 92 - Order 1, Rule 8, Order 7, Rule 11, Order 32, Rules 1: - Defendants' Appeal - against remand order of Civil Appellate Court for fresh decision before Trial court - Maintainability of - Suit filed by a representative - under Order 1 rule 8 - seeking permanent injunction for restraining the defendants-appellants from management & selling of the property in question as well as for transferring the entire management work including right of maintenance of the deity from appellants to the Administration - objection taken under Order 7 rules 11 - trial court rejected - the Plaint on the ground of 'non-disclosure of cause of action' & 'suit barred by law' - court held that - 'no cause of action' is different from a Plea that 'Plaint does not disclosure a cause of action' - words 'Cause of Action' means 'any cause of action' - hence suit is maintainable - and admittedly, it is defendant's own case that neither public or private Trust was created nor any deity was installed - thus, section 92 not attracted - hence, rejection of plaint by trial court is not proper - order of lower appellate court needs no interference - appeal dismissed.(Para – 18, 20, 21, 22, 30, 32, 33)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rohit Ranjan Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kartikeya Saran, learned counsel for the defendants-appellants and Sri Santosh Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the plaintiffs-respondents No.2 to 7.

2. This appeal under Order 43 Rule 1(u) of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (hereafter referred to as "CPC") arises out of judgment and decree dated 18.7.2018 passed by Additional District Judge, Court No.6, Mirzapur in Civil Appeal No.42 of 2016 setting aside the judgment and order dated 11.12.2017 passed by Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division) Mirzapur in Original Suit No.265 of 2015 and remanding back the matter to the Trial Court.

3 . A brief sketch of facts is necessary for the better appreciation of the case which are as under :

4. The dispute relates to the property being Arazi No.548, 549/1, 549/2, 546, 547, 554, 569, 570, 571, 575, 577 and 572 measuring 5 Bigha and 18 Biswa situated in Village-Tarkapur, Tappa - 84, Pargana - Kantit, Tehsil and District Mirzapur. On 13.03.1947, one Kedar Nath Mishra was given a lease of aforesaid land in perpetuity. He executed an agreement for largesse (bakshishnama) (Endowment Deed) dated 17.08.1949, dedicating the entire property to "Lord Ram Chandraji" and His idol was to be installed over the said property and thereafter necessary religious worship was to be performed under the control and guidance of one Kailash Nath Agrawal, after him, his successors.

5. Kailash Nath Agrawal did not get the idol of Lord Ram Chandraji installed over the property dedicated, thus a suit under Order 1 Rule 8 C.P.C. was filed by the plaintiffs-respondents being Original Suit No.265 of 2014 against the present appellants claiming relief of permanent injunction restraining the appellants from managerial capacity of the property in question, as well as restraining the appellants from selling off the property in dispute and also for transferring the entire managerial work and rights for maintaining and taking care of the deity to the district administration. The said suit was contested by the defendants-appellants who filed their written statement denying the plaint allegation.

6. An application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC was filed by the defendants-appellants on 18.3.2015, on the ground that the suit filed by the plaintiffs was not maintainable in view of Order 7 Rule 11 (a) and (d) CPC, as it did not disclose any cause of action and from the statement in the plaint, the suit appears to be barred by law. The Trial Court vide order dated 11.12.2017 allowed the application 75Ga filed by defendants-appellants and rejected the objection 78Ga filed by plaintiffs-respondents and dismissed the suit. Against the said judgment and order, Civil Appeal No.42 of 2017 was preferred in which the lower Appellate Court framed following point of determination :

"क्या प्रस्तुत वाद आदेश 7 नियम 11 जा. दी. के प्राविधानों से बाधित है?"

7. The lower Appellate Court vide judgment and order dated 18.7.2018 allowed the appeal and set aside the order dated 11.12.2017 and remanded the matter back and directed the Trial Court to frame issues on the basis of pleading of the parties and decide the suit on merits. Hence this appeal.

8. Sri Kartikeya Saran, learned counsel appearing for the appellants submitted that the suit filed under Order 1 Rule 8 C.P.C. on behalf of plaintiffs was not maintainable as no deity has been installed in the property in question and thus no person can file a suit as a next friend. He next contended that the person, who was a party to the agreement dated 17.8.1949 or his legal heirs could file civil suit for the breach of the clauses mentioned in the said agreement and no third party can maintain a suit against the appellants. He next contended that suit at the instance of the plaintiffs-respondents was not maintainable under Order 1 Rule 8 CPC and at best could have been filed under Section 92 read with Order 32 Rule 1 CPC as the matter relates to public charity and the issue raised by the plaintiffs is for installation of a deity and claiming to be the next friend of the deity. He also contended that from perusal of the document of 1949 and the event, which had followed since then, no trust either private or public was created and in other words, condition mentioned therein had become redundant in the present time.

9. According to appellants' counsel, installation of an idol accessible to public at large is sine qua non for creation of a public trust. In the instant case, neither idol has been installed till date nor any trust has been created, thus institution of a suit as a next friend of a deity cannot be maintained. He then tried to impress upon the Court that application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC was maintainable before the Trial Court as the plaintiffs have failed to disclose any cause of action. Moreover, from the reading of the plaint it is clear that no suit under Order 1 Rule 8 CPC is maintainable.

10. Reliance has been placed upon decision of Apex Court in the case of Rajendra Bajoria and others vs. Hemant Kumar Jalan and others, Civil Appeal Nos.5819-5822 of 2021 decided on 21.9.2021.

11. Sri Santosh Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that endowment once made cannot be revoked. According to him, endowment was created by dedication of property to the deity "Shri Ram Chandraji" and the property became debutter property. He then contended that registered deed dated 17.8.1949 by Kedar Nath Mishra was not a deed of agreement. It was in fact a deed of dedication in favour of deity "Shri Ram Chandraji", and Kailash Nath Agrawal was appointed only as a manager. According to him, once the dedication was made to the deity, which is a juristic person, the legal personality of deity can exist and endowment made is competent and efficacious independently, even if the idol does not exist. According to him, it is pious obligation of Kailash Nath Agrawal and his legal heirs to have carried out the pious purpose for which Kedar Nath Mishra had executed the deed in the year 1949. He then contended that Section 92 is not attracted in the present case as it relates to "public charity' and if there is any alleged breach of trust created for public purpose then a suit under Section 92 CPC is maintainable, while the plaintiffs had filed the present suit under Order 1 Rule 8 CPC as a representative suit so as to give effect to deed of 1949.

12. He has relied upon a Full Bench decision of Calcutta High Court in case of Bhupati Nath Smrititirtha vs. Ram Lal Maitra 1909 Law Suit (Cal) 89, wherein the question which was referred to the Full bench was; "Does the principle of Hindu Law which invalidates a gift other than to a sentient being capable of accepting it, apply to a bequest to trustees for the establishment of an image and the worship of a Hindu deity after the testator's death and make such a bequest void?" The Calcutta High Court held that Hindu Law recognizes dedications for the establishment of the image of a deity and for the maintenance and worship thereof.

13. I have heard the respective counsels and perused the material before this Court.

14. Before adverting to decide the issue as to whether the application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC was maintainable or not, and whether the lower Appellate Court had rightly remanded the matter to the Trial Court, to be decided on merit after framing of issues or not, glance of provisions of Section 92, Order 1 Rule 8, Order 7 Rule 11 and Order 32 Rule 1 of CPC are necessary for better appreciation of the case which are extracted hereasunder :
