(2) Save as provided by the Religious Endowments Act, 1863 (XX of 1863), or by any corresponding law in force in the territories which, immediately before the 1st November, 1956, were comprised in Part B States, no suit claiming any of the reliefs specified in sub-section (1) shall be instituted in respect of any such trust as is therein referred to except in conformity with the provisions of that sub-section.

(3) The Court may alter the original purposes of an express or constructive trust created for public purposes of a charitable or religious nature and allow the property or income of such trust or any portion thereof to be applied cypres in one or more of the following circumstances, namely :

(a) where the original purposes of the trust, in whole or in part,

(i) have been, as far as may be, fulfilled; or

(ii) cannot be carried out at all, or cannot be carried out according to the directions given in the instrument creating the trust or, where there is no such instrument, according to the spirit of the trust; or

(b) where the original purposes of the trust provide a use for a part only of the property available by virtue of the trust; or

(c) where the property available by virtue of the trust and other property applicable for similar purposes can be more effectively used in conjunction with, and to that end can suitably be made applicable to any other purpose, regard being had to the spirit of the trust and its applicability to common purposes; or

(d) where the original purposes, in whole or in part, were laid down by reference to an area which then was, but has since ceased to be, a unit for such purposes; or

(e) where the original purposes, in whole or in part, have, since they were laid down,

(i) been adequately provided for by other means, or

(ii) ceased, as being useless or harmful to the community, of

(iii) ceased to be, in law, charitable, or

(iv) ceased in any other way to provide a suitable and effective method of using the property available by virtue of the trust, regard being had to the spirit of the trust."

"8 - One person may sue or defend on behalf of all in same interest- (1) Where there are numerous persons having the same interest in one suit,-

(a) one or more of such persons may, with the permission of the Court, sue or be sued, or may defend such suit, on behalf of, or for the benefit of, all persons so interested;

(b) the Court may direct that one or more of such persons may sue or be sued, or may defend such suit, on behalf of, or for the benefit of, all persons so interested.

(2) The Court shall, in every case where a permission or direction is given under sub-rule (1), at the plaintiff's expense, give notice of the institution of the suit to all persons so interested either by personal service, or, where, by reason of the number of persons or any other cause, such service is not reasonably practicable, by public advertisement, as the Court in each case may direct.

(3) Any person on whose behalf, or for whose benefit, a suit is instituted or defended, under sub-rule (1), may apply to the Court to be made a party to such suit.

(4) No part of the claim in any such suit shall be abandoned under sub-rule (1), and no such suit shall be withdrawn under sub-rule (3), of rule 1 of Order XXIII, and no agreement, compromise or satisfaction shall be recorded in any such suit under rule 3 of that Order, unless the Court has given, at the plaintiff's expense, notice to all persons so interested in the manner specified in sub-rule (2).

(5) Where any person suing or defending in any such suit does not proceed with due diligence in the suit or defence, the Court may substitute in his place any other person having the same interest in the suit.

(6) A decree passed in a suit under this rule shall be binding on all persons on whose behalf, or for whose benefit, the suit is instituted, or defended, as the case may be.

Explanation - For the purpose of determining whether the persons who sue or are sued, or defend, have the same interest in one suit, it is not necessary to establish that such persons have the same cause of action as the person on whom behalf, or for whose benefit, they sue or are sued, or defend the suit, as the case may be."

"11. Rejection of plaint. - The plaint shall be rejected in the following cases-

(a) where it does not disclose a cause of action;

(b) where the relief claimed is undervalued, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to correct the valuation within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;

(c) where the relief claimed is properly valued, but the plaint is returned upon paper insufficiently stamped, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to supply the requisite stamp-paper within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;

(d) where the suit appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any law:

(e) where it is not filed in duplicate;

(f) where the plaintiff fails to comply with the provisions of Rule 9;

Provided that the time fixed by the Court for the correction of the valuation or supplying of the requisite stamp-paper shall not be extended unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded, is satisfied that the plaintiff was prevented by any cause of an exceptional nature form correcting the valuation or supplying the requisite stamp-paper, as the case may be, within the time fixed by the Court and that refusal to extend such time would cause grave injustice to the plaintiff."

"1. Minor to sue by next friend.- Every suit by a minor shall be instituted in his name by a person who in such shall be called the next friend of the minor.

Explanation-In this Order, "minor" means a person who has not attained his majority within the meaning of section 3 of the Indian Majority Act, 1875 (9 of 1875) where the suit relates to any of the matters mentioned in clauses (a) and (b) of section 2 of that Act or to any other matter."

15. From the reading of Section 92 CPC, it is clear that a suit in a representative capacity is fundamentally maintainable on behalf of the entire body of persons who are interested in the trust. It is for the vindication of public rights. The principal object behind the provision is to afford protection to public trust and to prevent vexatious proceedings from being initiated by irresponsible person against the trust, as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Chairman Madappa vs. M.N. Mahanthadevaru and Ors. AIR 1966 SC 878.

16. For the application of this Section, three conditions must be satisfied, (i) the Suit must relate to public, religious or charitable trust; (ii) there must be allegation of breach of trust or the direction of the Court must be required for administration of a trust and; (iii) the reliefs claimed must be mentioned in the Section.

17. In Ranchhoddas Kalidas & Ors. vs. Goswami Shree Mahalaxmi Vahuji & Ors. AIR 1953 Bom. 153, Bombay High Court had explained the conditions, which must be satisfied so as to maintain a suit under Section 92 CPC.

18. For leave to file suit in representative capacity under Section 92 CPC, existence of trust is necessary. While the object of Order 1 Rule 8 CPC is that all persons interested in a suit, either as a plaintiff or as a defendant, must be joined as parties so that the Court may finally adjudicate upon the rights of all parties and the orders of the Court may be safely executed by those, who are compelled to obey them and future litigation may be avoided. This rule is an enabling provision which entitles one party to represent many, who have a common cause of action.

19. In Kumaravelu Chettiar and Ors. vs. T.P. Ramaswami Ayyar and Ors. AIR 1933 PC 183, Privy Council held that Order 1 Rule 8 CPC has been framed in order to save time and expenses, to ensure a single comprehensive trial of questions in which large body of persons are interested and to avoid harassment to parties by multiplicity of suits. It is thus a rule of convenience.

20. The distinction between the suit under Section 92 and Order 1 Rule 8 CPC is that in a suit to be instituted under Section 92, prior permission of the Court is mandatory, while in a suit under Order 1 Rule 8, the leave can be granted post institution of the suit.

21. Thus, from the reading of Section 92 and Order 1 Rule 8 CPC, it is clear that a suit under Section 92 can only be maintained where it relates to public charitable and religious trust, and there is an allegation of breach of trust and direction of the Court is required for the administration of trust, while there is no such requirement for filing a suit under Order 1 Rule 8 CPC, which though is a representative suit but on other footing.

22. Now coming to order 7 Rule 11 (a) and (d) it is clear that a plaint can be rejected if it does not disclose a cause of action or where from the statement made in the plaint, the suit appears to barred by any law. The Rule is mere procedure. The Court has to give a meaningful reading to the plaint and if it is manifestly vexatious or meritless in the sense of not disclosing a clear right to sue, the Court may exercise its power under this rule.

23. A plea that there was no cause of action for the suit is different from the plea that plaint does not disclose a cause of action. In the latter case, it is the duty of the Court to decide the question before issuing summons, and reject the plaint without issuing summons. In State of Orissa vs. Klockner & Co. (1996) 8 SCC 377 and in Raptakos Brett and Co. Ltd. vs. Ganesh Property 1998 (7) SCC 184 the Apex Court had clarified the said position.

24. The words "cause of action" means "any cause of action". If the plaint discloses a cause of action even in part it cannot be rejected. Recently, the Supreme Court in Rajendra Bajoria and others (supra) while dealing with matter under Order 7 Rule 11 held that reading of the averments made in the plaint should not only be formal but also meaningful. Relevant paras 15, 17 and 20 are extracted hereas under :

"15. It could thus be seen that this Court has held that reading of the averments made in the plaint should not only be formal but also meaningful. It has been held that if clever drafting has created the illusion of a cause of action, and a meaningful reading thereof would show that the pleadings are manifestly vexatious and meritless, in the sense of not disclosing a clear right to sue, then the court should exercise its power Under Order VII Rule 11 of Code of Civil Procedure. It has been held that such a suit has to be nipped in the bud at the first hearing itself.

17. It could thus be seen that the court has to find out as to whether in the background of the facts, the relief, as claimed in the plaint, can be granted to the Plaintiff. It has been held that if the court finds that none of the reliefs sought in the plaint can be granted to the Plaintiff under the law, the question then arises is as to whether such a suit is to be allowed to continue and go for trial. This Court answered the said question by holding that such a suit should be thrown out at the threshold. This Court, therefore, upheld the order passed by the trial court of rejecting the suit and that of the appellate court, thereby affirming the decision of the trial court. This Court set aside the order passed by the High Court, wherein the High Court had set aside the concurrent orders of the trial court and the appellate court and had restored and remanded the suit for trial to the trial court.

20. It could thus be seen that this Court has held that the power conferred on the court to terminate a civil action is a drastic one, and the conditions enumerated Under Order VII Rule 11 of Code of Civil Procedure are required to be strictly adhered to. However, Under Order VII Rule 11 of Code of Civil Procedure, the duty is cast upon the court to determine whether the plaint discloses a cause of action, by scrutinizing the averments in the plaint, read in conjunction with the documents relied upon, or whether the suit is barred by any law. This Court has held that the underlying object of Order VII Rule 11 of Code of Civil Procedure is that when a plaint does not disclose a cause of action, the court would not permit the Plaintiff to unnecessarily protract the proceedings. It has been held that in such a case, it will be necessary to put an end to the sham litigation so that further judicial time is not wasted."

25 . In the instant case, the endowment deed executed by Kedar Nath Mishra on 17.8.1949 clearly states that the property mentioned was dedicated to "Lord Ram Chandraji" and the deed further took note of the fact that the possession was also transferred to the deity and the doner did not keep any right with him. He had appointed Kailash Nath Agrawal to manage the affairs and look after worship of the deity after it was installed, which was in times to come, to be looked after by his legal heirs. Relevant extract of the endowment deed is as under :

"पट्टा मजकूर का कुल नजराना बाबू कैलाशनाथ अग्रवाल वल्द देवी प्रसाद अग्रवाल निवासी मोहल्ला बसनई बाजार मिरजापुर ने अदा किया है और बवख्त हासिल करने पट्टा मजकूर यह बात तै हो गई थी नियत जायदाद श्रीराम चंद्र जी को जो उसी इमारत में स्थापित होगें समर्पित कर दी जावेगी और चढाई जावेगी चुनांच तय मुकिर इस बात तै शुदा के मुताबिक वदुरूस्ती होश हवास व खुशी वो रजामंदी विलाकिसी जब्रो इकरात जायदाद मुझ हिस्सा जैल श्री रामचंद्र जी को जो उसी इमारत में स्थापित होगें समर्पित कर देते हैं अब जायदाद मजकूर से कोई वास्ता हम मुकिर को बाकी नहीं है और हम मुकिर ने कब्जा भी अपना ...कर दिया है और श्रीरामचंद्र जी को कब्जा दे दिया है और श्री रामचंद्र जी जायदाद मुफस्सला जैल के यहां ...इस्तम्दवादी बजरिये वसतावेजताजा हो गये और आइन्दा हमेशा रहेगें जायदाद मजकूर का इंतजाम मिनजानिब श्री रामचंद्र जी व० कैलाशनाथ वल्द बाबू देबी प्रसाद अग्रवाल मजकूर व बाद वफात उनके वरसान सिलसिले वार करते रहे और जायदाद ...की आमदनी श्रीरामचंद्र जी के सेवा व पूजा व राजभोग इत्यादि में खर्च करते रहेगें और उनको या उनके वरसान किसी और शख्स को जायदाद मजकूर की आमदनी की किसी और मद में खर्च करने का अख्तियार न होगा और उनको यह उनके वरसान और किसी शख्स को जायदाद मजकूर को किसी और तौर पर मुन्तब्दिल करने का अख्तयार हासिल न होगा।"

26. The Hindu Law has been recognizing the religious and charitable gifts from ancient time and the Hindu concepts of religious and charitable gifts is as old as the Rigveda, wherein the term used is "Istha' and "Purtta". The compound word Istha-Purtta has been retained in the writings of all Brahminical sages and commentators down to modern days. By "Istha" mean Vedic sacrifices and rites and gifts in connection with the same; "Purtta", on the other hand, means and signifies other pious and charitable acts which are unconnected with any Srauta or Vedic sacrifice.

27. In every act of dedication, there are two essential parts, one of which is called Sankalpa or the formula of resolve, and the other Utsarga or renunciation. Sankalp state what object the founder has in making the gift, while Utsarga, on the other hand, completes a gift by renouncing ownership of the thing given.

28. In all types of endowment, the purpose of founder is clearly expressed in the Sankalpa while Utsarga or renunciation divests the founder of his rights in the property dedicated.

29. Thus, once a property is dedicated to a deity, after Sankalp and Utsarg, as in the present case for establishment of idol of "Shri Ram Chandraji" the endowment was complete at the hands of doner Kedar Nath Mishra, and it vested in the juristic person Shri Ram Chandraji though the idol was not installed. The Full Bench of Calcutta High Court in Bhupati Nath Smrititirtha (supra) held as under :

"66. To sum up

(i) The view that no valid dedication of property can be made by a will to a deity, the image of which is not in existence at the time of the death of the testator, is based upon a double fiction, namely fist that a Hindu deity is for all purposes a juridical person and secondly that a dedication to the deity has the same characteristics and is subject to the same restrictions as a gift to a human being. The first of these propositions is too broadly stated and the second is in-consistent with the first principles of Hindu jurisprudence.

(ii) The Hindu Law recognises dedications for the establishment of the image of a deity and for the maintenance and worship thereof. The property so dedicated to a pious purpose is placed extra commercial and is entitled to special protection at the hands of the sovereign whose duty it is to intervene to prevent fraud and waste in dealing with religious endowments Manohar Ganesh Tambekar v. Lakhmiram Govindram (1887) I.L.R. 12 Bom. 247 affirmed, on appeal, by the Judicial Committee in Chotelal Lakhmiram v. Monohar Ganesh Tambekar (1899) I.L.R. 24 Bom. 50 L.R. 26 I.A. 199. It is immaterial that the image of the deity has not been established before the death of the testator or is periodically set up and destroyed in the course of the year."

30. The suit filed by the plaintiff seeking relief of permanent injunction restricting defendants-appellants from the managerial capacity of the property and also restraining them from selling the property in question as well as for transferring the entire managerial work and right for maintaining and taking care of the deity from the appellants to the administration, was thus maintainable under Order 1 Rule 8 CPC.

31. The endowment made in 1949 by Kedar Nath Mishra divesting himself from the property, and vesting the same in Lord Shri Ram Chandraji, and giving only the managerial work to be performed by Kailash Nath Agrawal and his successors in form of worship and rituals of the deity.

32. The argument as to non maintainability of suit under Order 1 Rule 8 CPC holds no ground. It is the own case of the defendants-appellants that neither public or private trust was created, nor any deity was installed. Once the stand is to the extent that no public trust was created after 1949, Section 92 is not attracted and the suit under Order 1 Rule 8 CPC was thus maintainable.

33. Now coming to the question as to whether any cause of action arose for filing the suit, the statement made in the plaint clearly reflect that Kedar Nath Mishra endowed the property to Lord Shri Ram Chandraji on 17.8.1949 giving managerial right to Kailash Nath Agrawal and his successors. The argument that endowment deed was never brought to its existence as no idol was installed would not attract Order 7 Rule 11 CPC in the present case. From reading of the application filed by the defendants-appellants for rejection of plaint, no case is made out either under Order 7 Rule 11 (a) or (d) CPC. The Trial Court committed gross error in allowing the application under Order 7 Rule 11(a) and (d) and dismissing the suit. The lower Appellate Court had rightly set aside the order of the Trial Court and remanded back the matter to be decided after framing the issues on the basis of the pleading of the parties and directing to decide the suit on merit.

34. This Court finds that once the property was endowed in 1949 to Lord Shri Ram Chandraji, the rights of doner came to an end and the property vested in the deity whether it was installed or not. Lord Shri Ram Chandraji is a juristic person and the property vested in Him once the endowment was complete following the Sankalp and Utsarg.

35. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, I find that the judgment and order of lower Appellate Court needs no interference by this Court.

36. The appeal fails and is hereby dismissed.

Special Appeal No.165 of 2022

Kamal Kishore ...Appellant
Versus
Debts Recovery Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Deepak Kumar Jaiswal, Sri Sanjay Kumar Gupta

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Gyan Prakash Shrivastava, Sri S.K. Srivastava, Sri Padmaker Pandey

A. Banking Law – Mortgage – Transfer - Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993 - Sections 29 & 30 - Second Schedule to the 1961 Act: Rules 54, 56, 57, 60 and 61; Section 222, 276; Transfer of Property Act, 1882: Section 48, 60.

A.(a) Right to appeal u/s 30, RDDBFI Act - The learned Single Judge was not right in holding that since the petitioner-appellant had not followed the procedure prescribed u/Rule 60 of the Second Schedule to the 1961 Act, he could not ask the auction sale, not yet confirmed, to be set aside through an appeal u/s 30 of the RDDBFI Act. (Para 23)

An appeal u/s 30 of the RDDBFI Act can be preferred by a person aggrieved by the Recovery Officer's orders, notwithstanding the fact that he has not invoked the provisions of Rule 60 or 61 of the Second Schedule to the 1961 Act. This is so because S.30 of the RDDBFI Act opens with a non-obstante clause that gives an overriding effect to the provisions of S.30 of the said Act. It is S.29 of the RDDBFI Act, extracted hereinabove, that makes provisions of Second Schedule of the 1961 Act applicable to proceedings for recovery under the RDDBFI Act. The application of the Rules, including Rules 60 and 61 of the Rules under the Second Schedule of the 1961 Act to a recovery under the RDDBFI Act cannot, therefore, be construed in a manner so as to derogate from the plenary right of a person aggrieved by the Recovery Officer's order of any kind to appeal to the Tribunal. (Para 18)

A.(b) Harmonious constructions of the provisions of Sections 29 & 30 of the RDDBFI Act - The right of a person aggrieved by an order of the Recovery Officer under the aforesaid Act cannot be confined in the manner that he must of necessity invoke Rule 60 of 61 by making an application before the Recovery Officer in the first instance and against the order of the Recovery Officer, come up in appeal u/s 30. If that were done, it would whittle down the scope of the appellate powers of the Tribunal against all orders of the Recovery Officer, that include an order of attachment, auction and sale prior to its confirmation. If the challenge is laid on grounds completely different from those envisaged u/Rule 60 of the Rules framed under the Second Schedule of the 1961 Act, there may not be any requirement of deposit at all. The challenge may be on grounds like those envisaged u/Rule 61 of the Rules aforesaid or on any other ground. (Para 22)

B. Transfer of Property Act, 1882 - Section 48 - 'Property once mortgaged is always mortgaged'. This principle is applicable to preserve and keep intact the mortgagee's estate. It does not militate against the mortgagor's right to redeem or transfer his interest in favour of a third party, who would then acquire as part of the mortgagor's estate the equity of redemption. (Para 24)

B.(a) The learned Single Judge was not right because S. 48 of the TP Act gives priority to an earlier right or clogs a later created right, if the two sets of rights cannot exist together or be exercised to their full extent together. The sale of the mortgagor's right, which could be no more than the right to redeem after paying off the mortgage debt, is in no way one that cannot coexist with the mortgagee's interest or charge on the property held by the mortgagor's transferee. The sale by the mortgagor would not in any way impair the mortgagee's right or militate against his security unless it could be shown that the transfer in fact would impair it. This could be the case, if the mortgagor were to transfer the right to a person or entity, who under the law would take it free from all encumbrance. The sale deed executed in favour of the petitioner-appellant does not in any manner rid the property of the bank's encumbrance, traceable to the mortgage by deposit of title deeds. It is only a change of hand or name or identity of the mortgagor with no impairment of the security. (Para 27)

All that S.48 of the TP Act postulates is that the purchaser of the mortgagor's interest would take it as much subject to the mortgage as the original owner. (Para 28)

The prior transfer that is a mortgage in favour of the bank can certainly coexist with a transfer of mortgagor's estate or interest in favour of the petitioner-appellant by the judgment-debtor. It is just that the petitioner-appellant will hold it subject to the mortgagee's interest to secure repayment of his debt. That has been ensured in the present case by the petitioner-appellant under orders of the Tribunal since set at naught by the Appellate Tribunal and the learned Single Judge. The Tribunal was right in saying that it is always open to the mortgagor or a purchaser of the charged property, to redeem the property by paying off the creditor. The Tribunal has rightly remarked that the right of redemption of mortgage is a statutory right, which can only be extinguished in one of the ways mentioned in para 2 of S.60 of the TP Act. (Para 30)

B.(b) The learned Single Judge considered the transfer to the petitioner-appellant during the subsistence of the bank's mortgage a second charge without discharging the first charge and therefore thought that S.48 of the TP Act would hinder creation of any right in favour of the petitioner-appellant. What was transferred to the petitioner-appellant was not at all any kind of a mortgagee's interest or created a further charge on the property already mortgaged with the Bank. It was, in fact, transfer of the larger estate of the mortgagor, which cannot be called a charge on the property. (Para 31)

Appeal allowed. Impugned order passed by the learned Single Judge is set aside. Writ petition allowed. Order dated 19.09.2013 passed by the Appellate Tribunal is quashed. Order dated 08.03.2013 passed by the Tribunal setting aside the auction sale dated 13.10.2009 is restored with modification. (Para 33) (E-4)

1. This Special Appeal is directed against the judgment and order of a learned Single Judge of this Court in Writ - C No. 57359 of 2013 dated January 17, 2022 dismissing the petitioner-appellant's writ petition and affirming an order of the Debts Recovery Appellate Tribunal at Allahabad in Appeal No. 8114 of 2013. The Debts Recovery Appellate Tribunal, by the order under challenge before the learned Single Judge, has reversed an appellate order of the Debts Recovery Tribunal at Allahabad in Appeal No. 23 of 2009 under Section 30 of the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993 (for short "RDDBFI Act") and restored the auction sale dated October 13, 2009 in DRC No. 213 of 2002 by the Recovery Officer attached to the Tribunal in favour of Respondent No. 4 to this appeal, Ramu Jaiswal.

2. The facts giving rise to this appeal are that the petitioner-appellant purchased through a registered sale deed dated July 28, 1995 land comprising Arazi No. 286, situate at Village Kukradeo, District Kanpur Dehat from Harish Kumar son of Bhagwandas. Harish Kumar shall hereinafter be referred to as 'the judgment-debtor'. Upon the land being purchased by the petitioner, he established a small-scale industry. The property above described and purchased by the petitioner shall hereinafter be called 'the property in dispute'. Prior to execution of the sale deed in the petitioner-appellant's favour by the judgment-debtor, the latter had mortgaged his one-fourth share in the property in dispute in favour of Central Bank of India, Branch Sisamau, Kanpur Nagar in order to secure a loan that he had availed. The judgment-debtor had defaulted in the repayment of loan that he owed the Bank. The Bank filed Application No. 580 of 2000 for recovery of its outstandings amounting to ₹ 10,68,844/- which was decided against the judgment-debtor by the Debts Recovery Tribunal. DRC No. 215 of 2002 was issued against the judgment-debtor in proceedings for enforcement of the certificate.

3. On April 2, 2009 the Recovery Officer fixed a date for holding the auction, scheduling it on June 10, 2009 at 11:00 a.m. On the said date, the auction could not be held. The Recovery Officer thereupon got a sale proclamation published in Amar Ujala Hindi Daily issue dated October 11, 2009 scheduling the auction for October 13, 2009 at 11:00 a.m. The order to do so was passed by the Recovery Officer on August 19, 2009. On October 13, 2009 the auction was held, with only one bidder, that is to say, Ramu Jaiswal/ Respondent No. 4, who purchased the property in dispute for a sum of ₹ 93,500/-. The petitioner-appellant challenged the aforesaid auction sale dated October 13, 2008 by preferring Misc. Appeal No. 23 of 2009 under Section 30 of the RDDBFI Act before the Debts Recovery Tribunal, Allahabad (for short 'the Tribunal'). The confirmation in the auction sale was stayed by an interim order passed by the Tribunal on November 12, 2009 subject to deposit of ₹ 92,200/- which the petitioner made good. The respondent No. 4, Ramu Jaiswal made an application for impleadment in the aforesaid appeal, but it appears that the application was dismissed for non-prosecution. The order of the Tribunal dated April 8, 2013 to which allusion would be made a little later, however, shows that the fourth respondent, who shall hereinafter be called 'the auction purchaser' appears to have been heard by the Tribunal and his case was considered in Appeal No. 23 of 2009, which was allowed by the Tribunal vide order dated April 8, 2013 on the ground that the right of redemption, that the petitioner had purchased from the judgment-debtor, would continue up to confirmation of the sale and the sale was not binding, so long as it was not confirmed. It was also held that the petitioner had already deposited the amount, for which the property in dispute was sold in favour of the fourth respondent. There was a further direction to refund the sale price to the auction purchaser, together with simple interest @ 10% per annum from the date of sale till full payment was made by the petitioner-appellant.

4. Upon an appeal carried to the Debts Recovery Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad (for short 'the Appellate Tribunal') from the order of the Tribunal dated April 8, 2013, the Appellate Tribunal vide its order dated September 12, 2013 allowed the fourth respondent's appeal and set aside the order made by the Tribunal, reviving the order of the Recovery Officer, affirming the sale in favour of the auction purchaser. It was this order of the Appellate Tribunal that the petitioner-appellant had questioned before this Court in Writ - C No. 57359 of 2013 that came up before the learned Single Judge. The learned Single Judge has upheld the determination of the Appellate Tribunal, restoring the auction sale in favour of the fourth respondent.

5. Aggrieved, the petitioner has preferred the instant appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of Court.

6. Heard Mr. Deepak Kumar Jaiswal, learned counsel for the petitioner-appellant, Mr. Gyan Prakash Shrivastava, learned counsel appearing for Respondent No. 3 and Mr. S.K. Srivastava, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Padmaker Pandey, learned counsel for Respondent No. 4.

7. The records have been carefully perused, including the affidavits that were exchanged before the learned Single Judge, together with the annexed documents.

8. The learned Counsel for the petitioner-appellant has assailed the impugned order primarily on the ground that his right to challenge the auction sale held by the Recovery Officer under Section 30 of the RDDBFI Act is in no way restricted by the provisions of Rules 60 and 61 of the Second Schedule to the Income Tax Act, 1961 (for short "the 1961 Act"). He submits that the provisions of Section 29 of the RDDBFI Act that make the provisions of the Second and Third Schedules to the 1961 Act applicable with necessary modifications to recovery of debt due under the former Act, adjudged by the Tribunal have to be harmoniously construed with the provisions of Section 30 of the RDDBFI Act.

9. It is emphasized that the provisions of Section 30 of the RDDBFI Act make every order of the Recovery Officer appealable and that right cannot be curtailed for a judgment-debtor or other person aggrieved by order of the Recovery Officer, or even a person whose interest are affected by a sale held by the Recovery Officer, by subjecting the rights of any of the person(s) above named to the rigors of Rule 60 or 61 framed under the Second Schedule to the Transfer of Property Act. It is not that in every case where a sale is held and a person's right adversely affected by it, according to the learned Counsel for the petitioner-appellant that an application under Rule 60 or 61 of the Rules framed under the Second Schedule has to be made in the first instance to the Recovery Officer and failing there, an appeal would lie to the Tribunal under Section 30 of the RDDBFI Act.

10. The learned Counsel for the petitioner-appellant submits that if such a construction were placed on the provisions of Sections 29 and 30 of the RDDBFI Act, it would be whittle down the scope of the remedy under Section 30, which is available to any person aggrieved by an order of the Recovery Officer and is cast in the widest possible terms.

11. It is also submitted by the learned Counsel for the petitioner-appellant that the learned Single Judge has completely misapplied the provisions of Section 48 of the Transfer of Property Act, which are not at all attracted to the facts of the present case. It is also submitted that the learned Single Judge has misconstrued a sale of the mortgagor's interest in favour of the petitioner-appellant by the judgment-debtor as creation of a second charge which the sale is not. He submits that the sale in favour of the petitioner-appellant can co-exist with the bank's charge based on the equitable mortgage.

12. The learned counsel for respondent No.4 has supported the impugned order passed by the learned Single Judge on both counts of its reasoning. The learned Single Judge has expressed opinion that a sale by the Recovery Officer in execution of a recovery certificate issued under RDDBFI Act has to be done in accordance with Rules 54 to 61 of the Second Schedule to the 1961 Act. It is submitted that the said rules are applicable by virtue of provision of Section 29 of the RDDBFI Act. It is pointed out that the provisions of the Second and Third Schedule to the 1961 Act being applicable as far as possible, with necessary modifications for recovery of a debt due under the RDDBFI Act, those provisions have to be strictly complied with. The crux of the submissions that the learned Counsel for respondent No.4 has come up with and which has been the reasoning of the Appellate Tribunal also, in one part, is that the petitioner-appellant having not preferred any objection(s) before the Recovery Officer, either under Section 60 or 61 of the Rules framed under the 1961 Act, his appeal from the order of the Recovery Officer holding the auction sale was not competent.

13. In order to appreciate the contention of learned Counsel for parties, it would be necessary to refer to the provisions of Sections 29 and 30 of the RDDBFI Act, that read:

"29. Application of certain provisions of Income-tax Act.--The provisions of the Second and Third Schedules to the Income-tax Act, 1961 (43 of 1961) and the Income-tax (Certificate Proceedings) Rules, 1962, as in force from time to time shall, as far as possible, apply with necessary modifications as if the said provisions and the rules referred to the amount of debt due under this Act instead of to the Income-tax: Provided that any reference under the said provisions and the rules to the "assessee" shall be construed as a reference to the defendant under this Act.

30. Appeal against the order of Recovery Officer.--(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 29, any person aggrieved by an order of the Recovery Officer made under this Act may, within thirty days from the date on which a copy of the order is issued to him, prefer an appeal to the Tribunal.

(2) On receipt of an appeal under sub-section (1), the Tribunal may, after giving an opportunity to the appellant to be heard, and after making such inquiry as it deems fit, confirm, modify or set aside the order made by the Recovery Officer in exercise of his powers under sections 25 to 28 (both inclusive)."

14. Again, the provisions of Rules 54, 56, 57, 60 and 61 of the Second Schedule to the 1961 Act, that provide the mechanism for the recovery of tax envisaged under Section 222 and 276 of the 1961 Act, are extracted hereinbelow :

"54. Mode of making proclamation.--(1) Every proclamation for the sale of immovable property shall be made at some place on or near such property by beat of drum or other customary mode, and a copy of the proclamation shall be affixed on a conspicuous part of the property and also upon a conspicuous part of the office of the Tax Recovery Officer.

(2) Where the Tax Recovery Officer so directs, such proclamation shall also be published in the Official Gazette or in a local newspaper, or in both; and the cost of such publication shall be deemed to be costs of the sale.

(3) Where the property is divided into lots for the purpose of being sold separately, it shall not be necessary to make a separate proclamation for each lot, unless proper notice of the sale cannot, in the opinion of the Tax Recovery Officer, otherwise be given.

55. Time of sale.--No sale of immovable property under this Schedule shall, without the consent in writing of the defaulter, take place until after the expiration of at least thirty days calculated from the date on which a copy of the proclamation of sale has been affixed on the property or in the office of the Tax Recovery Officer, whichever is later.

56. Sale to be by auction.--The sale shall be by public auction to the highest bidder and shall be subject to confirmation by the Tax Recovery Officer:

Provided that no sale under this rule shall be made if the amount bid by the highest bidder is less than the reserve price, if any, specified under clause (cc) of rule 53.

57. Deposit by purchaser and resale in default.--(1) On every sale of immovable property, the person declared to be the purchaser shall pay, immediately after such declaration, a deposit of twenty-five per cent on the amount of his purchase money, to the officer conducting the sale; and, in default of such deposit, the property shall forthwith be resold.

(2) The full amount of purchase money payable shall be paid by the purchaser to the Tax Recovery Officer on or before the fifteenth day from the date of the sale of the property.

58. Procedure in default of payment.--In default of payment within the period mentioned in the preceding rule, the deposit may, if the Tax Recovery Officer thinks fit, after defraying the expenses of the sale, be forfeited to the Government, and the property shall be resold, and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claims to the property or to any part of the sum for which it may subsequently be sold.

59. Authority to bid.--(1) Where the sale of a property, for which a reserve price has been specified under clause (cc) of rule 53, has been postponed for want of a bid of an amount not less than such reserve price, it shall be lawful for an Assessing Officer, if so authorised by the Principal Chief Commissioner or Chief Commissioner or Principal Commissioner or Commissioner in this behalf, to bid for the property on behalf of the Central Government at any subsequent sale.

(2) All persons bidding at the sale shall be required to declare, if they are bidding on their own behalf or on behalf of their principals. In the latter case, they shall be required to deposit their authority, and in default their bids shall be rejected.

(3) Where the Assessing Officer referred to in sub-rule (1) is declared to be the purchaser of the property at any subsequent sale, nothing contained in rule 57 shall apply to the case and the amount of the purchase price shall be adjusted towards the amount specified in the certificate.

60. Application to set aside sale of immovable property on deposit.--(1) Where immovable property has been sold in execution of a certificate, the defaulter, or any person whose interests are affected by the sale, may, at any time within thirty days from the date of the sale, apply to the Tax Recovery Officer to set aside the sale, on his depositing--

(a) the amount specified in the proclamation of sale as that for the recovery of which the sale was ordered, with interest thereon at the rate of one and one-fourth per cent for every month or part of a month], calculated from the date of the proclamation of sale to the date when the deposit is made; and

(b) for payment to the purchaser, as penalty, a sum equal to five per cent of the purchase money, but not less than one rupee.

(2) Where a person makes an application under rule 61 for setting aside the sale of his immovable property, he shall not, unless he withdraws that application, be entitled to make or prosecute an application under this rule.

61. Application to set aside sale of immovable property on ground of non-service of notice or irregularity.--Where immovable property has been sold in execution of a certificate, such Income-tax Officer as may be authorised by the Principal Chief Commissioner or Chief Commissioner or Principal Commissioner or Commissioner in this behalf, the defaulter, or any person whose interests are affected by the sale, may, at any time within thirty days from the date of the sale, apply to the Tax Recovery Officer to set aside the sale of the immovable property on the ground that notice was not served on the defaulter to pay the arrears as required by this Schedule or on the ground of a material irregularity in publishing or conducting the sale:

Provided that--(a) no sale shall be set aside on any such ground unless the Tax Recovery Officer is satisfied that the applicant has sustained substantial injury by reason of the non-service or irregularity; and unless the applicant deposits the amount recoverable from him in the execution of the certificate."

(b) an application made by a defaulter under this rule shall be disallowed

15. The learned Counsel for respondent No.4 has emphasized that there was no application by the petitioner-appellant before the Recovery Officer to whom the provisions of Rules 54 to 61 framed under the 1961 Act are applicable, seeking to exercise his right as a person whose interests were affected by the sale under Rule 60, or under Rule 61 on the ground that notice was not served on the defaulter to pay the arrears, as required by the Schedule or that there was a material irregularity in publishing or conducting the sale. The petitioner, from the order of auction sale dated October 13, 2009 had straightway appealed to the Tribunal under Section 30 of the RDDBFI Act, which was, therefore, not maintainable.

16. In addition, it has also been argued that upon initiation of recovery proceedings by the Recovery Officer attached to the Tribunal, the petitioner-appellant had filed objections that were rejected by the Recovery Officer vide order dated October 28, 2006, which remain unchallenged. The learned Single Judge has accepted the petitioner-appellant's contention on this score, firstly on the reasoning that after the auction proceedings were held ending in favour of the fourth respondent on October 13, 2009, the petitioner did not take any steps to repay the outstanding loan. Rather, the earlier challenge that he had laid to the proceedings before the Recovery Officer on October 18, 2010 remained unfruitful. Now, so far as the order dated October 28, 2006 rejecting the petitioner-appellant's objections to the recovery proceedings on the ground of his independent rights as the mortgagor's transferee are concerned, the same does not impair the petitioner-appellant's right to challenge after the auction sale was held, as that is the statutory right of the petitioner-appellant under Rules 60 and 61 of the Rules framed under the Second Schedule to the 1961 Act. That right accrues only after the auction sale is held and not earlier. Therefore, the finality attached to the order dated October 28, 2006, so far as the present cause of action is concerned, post auction is not at all relevant. The learned Single Judge has particularly emphasized the point that the proclamation for sale is governed by Rules 54, 55, 60 and 61 of the Second Schedule to the 1961 Act and relied on the decision of the Supreme Court in C.N. Paramasivam and another v. Sunrise Plaza through Partner and others, (2013) 9 SCC 460 to remark that the rules are mandatory in character and their breach would render the auction non-est in the eyes of law. But, relying on C.N. Paramasivam (supra) the learned Single Judge has further held that the Rules being mandatory in nature, the petitioner-appellant would get a right to ask the sale to be set aside under Rule 60, provided he made an application to set aside the same within 30 days of the auction sale upon depositing the amount specified in the sale proclamation together with interest at the rate of 6% per annum. The learned Single Judge has held that here the petitioner-appellant never moved an application under the said Rule and challenged the auction sale by filing an appeal, where an interim order was passed, directing him to deposit an amount equal to that for which the auction sale was made. It was remarked that the petitioner-appellant's case is based on an advantage that he seeks to derive out of the said interim order, or so, the petitioner-appellant's argument proceeds.

The learned Single Judge has then held that it would be relevant to note that the petitioner-appellant has never taken any steps or deposited any amount towards the outstanding loan to show his bona fides before the interim order was passed. It has been held that the petitioner-appellant has not exercised his right, if any, as provided under the Second Schedule to the 1961 Act and therefore, the submission that there was no adherence to those Rules by the Recovery Officer, is not available to the petitioner-appellant.

17. On the above count, it appears that the learned Single Judge was of opinion that the right of appeal under Section 30 could not be exercised by the petitioner-appellant, unless as a person whose interest was affected by the sale, he had made an application to the Recovery Officer within 30 days of the auction sale, asking the sale to be set aside by making the necessary deposits under Section 60, or made an application in terms of Rule 61. He could not have simply appealed under Section 30 of the RDDBFI Act without making either an application under Rule 60 or 61 before the Recovery Officer.

18. The reasoning of the learned Single Judge on this score does not appeal to us, because it is not that the provisions of the relevant Rules for recovery under the Second Schedule to the 1961 Act are applicable in derogation of the right of a person aggrieved by any order of the Recovery Officer made under the RDDBFI Act, to prefer an appeal under Section 30 of the said Act to the Tribunal. An appeal under Section 30 of the RDDBFI Act can be preferred by a person aggrieved by the Recovery Officer's orders, notwithstanding the fact that he has not invoked the provisions of Rule 60 or 61 of the Second Schedule to the 1961 Act. This is so because Section 30 of the RDDBFI Act opens with a non-obstante clause that gives an overriding effect to the provisions of Section 30 of the said Act. It is Section 29 of the RDDBFI Act, extracted hereinabove, that makes provisions of Second Schedule of the 1961 Act applicable to proceedings for recovery under the RDDBFI Act. The application of the Rules, including Rules 60 and 61 of the Rules under the Second Schedule of the 1961 Act to a recovery under the RDDBFI Act cannot, therefore, be construed in a manner so as to derogate from the plenary right of a person aggrieved by the Recovery Officer's order of any kind to appeal to the Tribunal.

19. The aforesaid question fell for consideration very recently before a Division Bench of the Bombay High Court in Sarang Avinash Kamtaker v. Alpha Organic and others, MANU/MH/ 1202/2022, where considering an identical contention, the Division Bench held :

"22. So far as the contention raised by learned Counsel on behalf of Kamtekar that Alpha Organic failed to invoke the provisions of Rules 60 and 61 of the Second Schedule of the IT Act, in the absence of which, the Appeal is not tenable, we find that the DRAT for the reasons mentioned in paragraph 12 rightly came to the conclusion that the said contention on behalf of Kamtekar deserves to be rejected. Rule 60 of the Second Schedule of the IT Act provides for setting aside of the sale of the immovable property by deposit of the amount specified in the proclamation of sale and interest thereon along with penalty for payment to the purchasers within 30 days from the date of the sale. Rule 61 provides for setting aside the sale on ground of non-service of notice or irregularity. Section 30 (1) of the RDDB & FI Act provides for an Appeal. It reads thus:-

"30(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 29, any person aggrieved by an order of the Recovery Officer made under this Act may, within thirty days from the date on which a copy of the order is issued to him, prefer an appeal to the Tribunal."

23. Section 30 (1) starts with a non-obstante clause. The DRAT in support of its conclusion that Section 30 (1) overrides Section 29 of the RDDB & FI Act, took support from the observation of this Court in Hill Properties Ltd. (supra). We may usefully refer to paragraph 29 of the said decision which reads thus:-

"29. Section 30 as now substituted by Act 1 of 2000 begins with a non-obstante clause. A person aggrieved by an order of the Recovery Officer may within thirty days from the date on which a copy of the order is issued to him, prefer an appeal to the Tribunal. Under Sub-section (2) of Section 30 a power is given to set aside or modify an order made under Sections 25 to 28. Section 30 co-jointly with Section 29 would mean that irrespective of the Appellate remedy provided in Part VI of IInd Schedule (Rule 86) to the I.T. Act an Appeal would lie to the Tribunal in respect of orders made under the Second Schedule to the I.T. Act. We may clarify that considering the language of Rule 11(6) an appeal would not lie under Rule 86 of the Second Schedule. Therefore, under Section 30 even if an appeal as provided under Rule 86 is not available because of Rule 11(6) making the order of the Recovery Officer conclusive, nevertheless Section 30 of the Act provides a remedy by way of Appeal against the order passed under the IInd Schedule. We may clarify here that Section 20 is a provision for Appeal from an order of the Tribunal, when Section 30 is a provision for appeal against the order of the Recovery Officer."

24. Section 30 thus provides for an appellate forum against any orders of the Recovery Officer which may not be in accordance with law. The contention of learned Counsel on behalf of Kamtekar that unless the provisions of Rules 60 and 61 are resorted to, the Appeal under Section 30 is not maintainable can only be stated to be rejected."

20. The aforesaid decision of the Bombay High Court follows an earlier decision in Hill Properties Limited v. Union Bank of India & Ors., 2016 SCC OnLine Bom 10362.

21. The same issue fell for consideration before the Madras High Court in Nazims Continental and others v. The Indian Overseas Bank, Triplicane Branch, Madras and others, 2009 SCC OnLine Mad 862, where it was held:

"20. In view of the provisions of law and finding of the Court and discussions made above, we hold that the recovery officer has also jurisdiction to entertain an application under rules 60, 61 and 62 of Part-III of 2nd Schedule to the Income Tax Act and in case any person is aggrieved against such order, may prefer appeal u/s 30 of the Act, 1993. As the defaulter or any person whose interests are affected by sale is supposed to pay the pre-deposit amount under Rule 60 and a defaulter required to pay pre-deposit amount under Rule 61 except the person whose interests are affected due to non-service of notice on defaulter to pay the arrerars or material irregularity in publishing or conducting the sale should apply under Rule 61 or the purchaser, who may file application under Rule 62, who are not liable to pre-deposit any amount, in such case, for preferring an appeal u/s 30 of Act, 1993, against an order of recovery officer under Rules 60, 61 or 62, no pre-deposit amount required to be deposited.

21. Section 30 starts with non obstante clause, as evident from the said provision and quoted hereunder:--

"30. Appeal against the order of Recovery Officer.

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 29, any person aggrieved by an order of the Recovery Officer made under this Act may, within thirty days from the date on which a copy of the order is issued to him, prefer an appeal to the Tribunal.

(2) On receipt of an appeal under sub-section (1), the Tribunal may, after giving an opportunity to the appellant to be heard, and after making such enquiry as it deems fit, confirm, modify or set aside the order made by the Recovery Officer in exercise of his powers under sections 25 to 28 (both inclusive)."

In the case of Union of India v. I.C. Lala (AIR 1973 SC 2204), Supreme Court held that non obstante clause does not mean that the whole of the said provision of law has to be made applicable or the whole of the other law has to be made inapplicable. It is the duty of the Court to avoid the conflict and construe the provisions to that they are harmonious.

22. Mode of recovery of debt is prescribed u/s 25 of DRT Act, as quoted hereunder:--

"25. Modes of recovery of debts.- The Recovery Officer shall, on receipt of the copy of the certificate under sub-section (7) of section 19, proceed to recover the amount of debt specified in the certificate by one or more of the following modes, namely:--

(a) attachment and sale of the movable or immovable property of the defendant;

(b) arrest of the defendant and his detention in prison;

(c) appointing a receiver for the management of the movable or immovable properties of the defendant."

From the aforesaid provision it will be evident that apart from attachment and sale of movable or immovable property of the defendant, the recovery officer, under the said provision, may proceed to recover the amount of debt by arresting the defendant and his detention in prison or by appointing a receiver for the management of the movable or immovable properties of the defendant. Those two provisions made under clauses (b) and (c) of Section 25 cannot be challenged before the Recovery Officer under II or III Schedule of Income Tax Act. Therefore, except by preferring an application (appeal) u/s 30 against the order of recovery officer, any aggrieved person has no other option. It cannot be said that for sale of movable or immovable property as made under II Schedule to Income Tax. Act, including Rules 60 or 61 or 62 of Part-III of II Schedule, then by way of appeal only u/s 30 could be preferred and no such appeal could be preferred directly against the order of attachment and sale of movable or immovable property of the defendant, if recovery officer pass such order u/s 25. Therefore, we hold that against the order of attachment and sale of movable or immovable property of defendant, who are the defendants before the Tribunal, an aggrieved person, instead of moving application under Rule 60 of 61 or 62, may also prefer an application (appeal) u/s 30 of the Act, 1993. Therefore, there being a concurrent jurisdiction, DRT u/s 30 and recovery officer under Rules 60, 61 and 62 of Part-III of II Schedule of Income Tax Act in regard to movable property and jurisdiction of Tribunal under Part-II of II Schedule of Income Tax Act in regard to movable property, application of any defendant cannot be entertained by Tribunal u/s 30 without pre-deposit of the amount in terms with Rules 60 or 61 bypassing the jurisdiction of the recovery officer under the aforesaid provisions of II Schedule of Income Tax Act. Further, the auction purchaser being not a defendant in the original application u/s 19, cannot file an appeal u/s 30 against the order of recovery officer, if it intends to prefer an application, if under the provision of Rule 62 of Part-III of II Schedule to Income Tax Act."

22. The aforesaid position of the law makes it pellucid that it is not imperative for a defaulter or any person whose interest is affected by the sale held by the Recovery Officer acting under the RDDBFI Act to take resort to the provisions of Section 60 or 61 of the Second Schedule to the 1961 Act. Doing a harmonious constructions of the provisions of Sections 29 and 30 of the RDDBFI Act, the right of a person aggrieved by an order of the Recovery Officer under the aforesaid Act cannot be confined in the manner that he must of necessity invoke Rule 60 of 61 by making an application before the Recovery Officer in the first instance and against the order of the Recovery Officer, come up in appeal under Section 30. If that were done, it would whittle down the scope of the appellate powers of the Tribunal against all orders of the Recovery Officer, that include an order of attachment, auction and sale prior to its confirmation. If the challenge is laid on grounds completely different from those envisaged under Rule 60 of the Rules framed under the Second Schedule of the 1961 Act, there may not be any requirement of deposit at all. The challenge may be on grounds like those envisaged under Rule 61 of the Rules aforesaid or on any other ground.

23. Mindful of the fact that the petitioner-appellant was claiming to redeem the mortgagor's interest, akin to an objection under Rule 60, the Tribunal directed the petitioner-appellant to deposit the amount specified in the proclamation of sale as the one for which the recovery was ordered. The petitioner-appellant, accordingly, deposited a sum of ₹ 92,200/- on 13.11.2009. The Tribunal, therefore, permitted the petitioner-appellant, who had stepped into the shoes of the judgment debtor-mortgagor through a registered sale deed of the mortgagor's estate, to exercise the equity of redemption and set aside the sale, subject to the condition that the petitioner-appellant would have to bear all expenses of the sale, pay poundage fees and further pay 10% simple interest to the auction purchaser till payment was made. In our opinion, therefore, the learned Single Judge was not right in holding that since the petitioner-appellant had not followed the procedure prescribed under Rule 60 of the Second Schedule to the 1961 Act, he could not ask the auction sale, not yet confirmed, to be set aside through an appeal under Section 30 of the RDDBFI Act.

24. The other principle on which the learned Single Judge has held against the petitioner-appellant is that 'property once mortgaged is always mortgaged'. That principle is applicable to preserve and keep intact the mortgagee's estate. It does not militate against the mortgagor's right to redeem or transfer his interest in favour of a third party, who would then acquire as part of the mortgagor's estate the equity of redemption.

25. The learned Single Judge has proceeded to conclude against the petitioner-appellant on another facet of the right that the petitioner-appellant acquired from the judgment-debtor through the registered sale deed of July 28, 1995. The learned Single Judge held as follows:

"14. There is another issue which would also be relevant for adjudication of present case that Section 48 of TP Act, 1882 provides that no right will be created by way of second charge on the property without discharging the first charge."

26. Section 48 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (for short "TP Act") reads:

"48. Priority of rights created by transfer.--Where a person purports to create by transfer at different times rights in or over the same immoveable property, and such rights cannot all exist or be exercised to their full extent together, each later created right shall, in the absence of a special contract or reservation binding the earlier transferees, be subject to the rights previously created."

27. In the opinion of this Court, in applying the principle of priority amongst transferees to infer that the sale deed dated July 28, 1995 could not have been executed by the judgment-debtor so long as he had not rid the property of the mortgage, subject to which he had availed the loan from the Bank, the learned Single Judge was not right because Section 48 of the TP Act gives priority to an earlier right or clogs a later created right, if the two sets of rights cannot exist together or be exercised to their full extent together. The sale of the mortgagor's right, which could be no more than the right to redeem after paying off the mortgage debt, is in no way one that cannot co-exist with the mortgagee's interest or charge on the property held by the mortgagor's transferee. The sale by the mortgagor would not in any way impair the mortgagee's right or militate against his security unless it could be shown that the transfer in fact would impair it. This could be the case, if the mortgagor were to transfer the right to a person or entity, who under the law would take it free from all encumbrance. The sale deed executed in favour of the petitioner-appellant does not in any manner rid the property of the bank's encumbrance, traceable to the mortgage by deposit of title deeds. It is only a change of hand or name or identity of the mortgagor with no impairment of the security.

28. However, all that Section 48 of the TP Act postulates is that the purchaser of the mortgagor's interest would take it as much subject to the mortgage as the original owner. An indication of this principle in the context of Section 48 of the TP Act is discernible in the remarks of the Division Bench of the Delhi High Court in Sh. Ishar Dass Malhotra v. Sh. Dhanwant Singh and others, 1983 SCC OnLine Del 284, which say:

"8.

..... It will thus be seen that a mortgage by deposit of title deeds is like any other mortgage and there is a transfer of interest in the property mortgaged to the mortgagee. The question, therefore, of the subsequent purchaser having bought the property subject to a mortgage by deposit of title deeds bona fide, with or without notice, is of no relevance. The subsequent purchaser cannot avoid the mortgage by leading evidence to show that he made all reasonable inquiries to find out if the property was subject to a mortgage by deposit of title deeds or not. S.48 of the T.P. Act does not admit of any such exception. According to this section, when a person purports to create, by transfer at different times, rights in or over the same immovable property, and such rights cannot all exist or be exercised to their full extent together, each later created right shall in the absence of a special contract or reservation binding the earlier transferees, be subject to the rights previously created. Further, proviso to S.48 of the Registration Act enacts that a mortgage by deposit of title deeds shall take effect as against any mortgage deed subsequently executed and registered relating to the same property. Thus, a subsequent sale cannot have priority over a mortgage by deposit of title deeds created before the sale....."

29. The principle embodied in Section 48 of the TP Act is succinctly stated in Nagalinga Nadar v. K. Mehrunisa Begum, 1979 SCC OnLine Mad 146, where it was held:

"17. There is yet another objection raised by the learned counsel for the first respondent, according to whom, no question of bona fide purchase by the appellant without notice would arise at all, in view of S. 48 of the Transfer of Property Act. It is his contention that the question of bona fide purchase or other acquisition of title without notice are confined to cases, which have all been provided for under the Transfer of Property Act under Ss. 39, 41, 43, 53, 53-A and 100 and inasmuch as S. 48 is not one of them, the appellant cannot claim that he is a bona fide purchaser from the second respondent without notice. S. 48 of the Transfer of Property Act runs thus:

"Where a person purports to create by transfer at different times rights in or over the same immovable property and such rights cannot all exist or be exercised to their full extent together, each later created right shall; in the absence of a special contract or reservation binding the earlier transferees; be subject to the rights previously created:"

It is not in dispute that the mortgage had been earlier created by the second respondent in favour of the first respondent on 17th January, 1966 and the sale had later been effected by the second respondent in favour of the appellant on 10th January, 1973. It is also seen that the first respondent's rights as mortgagee over the property and the rights of the appellant as a purchaser of the property free from encumbrance cannot co-exist or be exercised to their full extent together and there is no special contract or binding reservation. It would therefore follow that the sale in favour of the appellant is subject to the mortgage in favour of the first respondent. In this connection, the learned counsel for the first respondent invited our attention to the decision in Arunachala Asari v. Sivan Perumal Asari, AIR 1970 Mad 226. Though the question that arose therein was with reference to the question of priority with reference to S. 48 of the Transfer of Property Act and Ss. 47 and 49 of the Indian Registration Act, Ramamurthy, J. dealt with the true scope of S. 48 of the Transfer of Property Act. At page 533, the learned Judge observed thus:

"S. 48 of the Transfer of Property Act is founded upon the equally important principle that no man can convey a better title than what he has. If a person had already effected a transfer, he cannot derogate from his grant and deal with the property free from the rights created under the earlier transaction. His prior title as absolute and free owner is curtailed or diminished by rights already created under the earlier transcation. S. 48 of the Transfer of Property Act is absolute in its terms and does not contain any protection or reservation in favour of a subsequent transferee who has no knowledge of the prior transfer. Knowledge or no-knowledge, a subsequent transferee cannot claim any priority as against an earlier transferee. Whenever the Legislature desires to protect the rights of a transferee in good faith for consideration, specific provision to that effect is made--Vide for instance, S. 27 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877 and Ss. 38 to 41 of the Transfer of Property Act, In all other cases, the well settled rule that a man cannot derogate from his grant will have to be applied."

30. Thus, the view of the learned Single Judge that Section 48 of the TP Act would lead to the result that no right can be created in favour of the petitioner-appellant does not accord with the law. The prior transfer that is a mortgage in favour of the bank can certainly coexist with a transfer of mortgagor's estate or interest in favour of the petitioner-appellant by the judgment-debtor. It is just that the petitioner-appellant will hold it subject to the mortgagee's interest to secure repayment of his debt. That has been ensured in the present case by the petitioner-appellant under orders of the Tribunal since set at naught by the Appellate Tribunal and the learned Single Judge. The Tribunal, in our view, was right in saying that it is always open to the mortgagor or a purchaser of the charged property, to redeem the property by paying off the creditor. The Tribunal has rightly remarked that the right of redemption of mortgage is a statutory right, which can only be extinguished in one of the ways mentioned in paragraph 2 of Section 60 of the TP Act.

31. There is another reason why the learned Single Judge would have thought that Section 48 of the TP Act would hinder creation of any right in favour of the petitioner-appellant. This is because he considered the transfer to the petitioner-appellant during the subsistence of the bank's mortgage a second charge without discharging the first charge. What was transferred to the petitioner-appellant was not at all any kind of a mortgagee's interest or created a further charge on the property already mortgaged with the Bank. It was, in fact, transfer of the larger estate of the mortgagor, which cannot be called a charge on the property. Therefore also, in our opinion, the view taken by the learned Single Judge and the Appellate Tribunal does not commend to us. In the opinion of this Court, the law entitles the petitioner-appellant to exercise his right that he has purchased from the judgment-debtor, that is the right to redeem the mortgaged property to the same extent and the manner in which the judgment-debtor could have done.

32. However, while setting aside the auction sale, the interest of the auction purchaser also have to be protected, keeping in view the spirit of Rule 60 of the Rules framed under the Second Schedule of the 1961 Act, and also, in order to adjust equities. This the Court proposes to do by awarding an appropriate rate and term of interest to the auction purchaser payable by the petitioner-appellant.

33. In the result, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order passed by the learned Single Judge is set aside. The writ petition stands allowed. The order dated 19.09.2013 passed by the Appellate Tribunal is hereby quashed and the order dated 08.03.2013 passed by the Tribunal setting aside the auction sale dated 13.10.2009 is restored with the modification that the auction purchaser-respondent no.4 shall be entitled to refund of the purchase price deposited by him with the Recovery Officer from the petitioner-appellant together with compound interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date it was deposited by the auction purchaser with the Recovery Officer till deposit in these terms is made by the petitioner-appellant with the Recovery Officer.

A. Civil Law – Election – Maintainability of Special Appeal - U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 - Section 12-C - Special appeals arising out of writ petition filed against the order passed by a Election Tribunal u/s 12-C are barred by Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court. (Para 8)

The Sub Divisional Magistrate, while passing order dated 13.05.2022 has clearly mentioned that the order is being passed by him, acting as prescribed authority under the Act. U/s 12-C of the Act, the election petition lies before such authority as may be prescribed. It is not the case of the appellant that Sub Divisional Magistrate is not the authority prescribed to deal with a petition u/s 12-C. The contention that the election petition was not presented in the manner prescribed could be considered, had the appeal been maintainable. As this appeal is not maintainable, we cannot arrogate to ourselves the power to dwell on the issue. Likewise, provision relating to revision before District Judge, will not detract from the legal position that the proceedings originate from an order of Election Tribunal under U.P. Act. (Para 9)

Present special appeal assails order dated 25.05.2022, passed by learned Single Judge Hon'ble Saumitra Dayal Singh, J. in Civil Misc. Writ Petition C No.14609 of 2022.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta, J.
Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. This intra-Court appeal is directed against the order dated 25.05.2022 passed by a learned Single Judge in a writ petition filed by the petitioner challenging the order dated 13.05.2022 passed by the Prescribed Authority/Sub Divisional Magistrate Baberu in a petition filed against him under Section 12-C of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 challenging his election as Gram Pradhan of Gram Sabha Hardauli.

2. Sri Gajendra Pratap, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Virendra Singh, appearing on behalf of respondent no.5 raised a preliminary objection to the maintainability of the instant special appeal. It is submitted that the present special appeal is barred as it is directed against the order of learned Single Judge passed under Article 226 in respect of an order passed by the Election Tribunal constituted under U.P. Act. It is urged that in view of specific exclusion made under Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, this appeal is incompetent.

3. On the other hand, Sri Shailendra, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri S.N. Iqbal appearing for the appellant submitted that the special appeal is perfectly maintainable, inasmuch as, the election petition itself was still-born not having been presented in the manner prescribed; that the Act itself contemplates filing of revision before District Judge which shows that the Sub Divisional Magistrate while exercising power under Section 12-C of the U.P. Act does not act as an Election Tribunal but in administrative capacity; and in any view, the Election Tribunal does not have trappings of civil court.

4. The facts necessary for disposal of the instant appeal are that respondent no.5 presented a petition under Section 12-C of U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred as 'the Act') challenging the election of the appellant on the post of Gram Pradhan. The appellant filed an application on 18.08.2021 raising various issues touching upon the maintainability of the election petition. On 13.05.2022, respondent no.3 i.e. Prescribed Authority/U.P. Zila Adhikari, Baberu, Banda while acting as Election Tribunal directed for recounting of the ballots. Aggrieved thereby, the appellant filed writ petition no.14609 of 2022 before this Court which was allowed in part and recounting of only polling booth no.103, ward no.5, Gram Panchayat-Hardauli was permitted. Being further aggrieved thereby, the instant appeal has been filed.

5. The provision relating to intra-Court appeal is governed by Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952. It reads as follows:

5. Special appeal :- An appeal shall lie to the Court from a judgment (not being a judgment passed in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction) in respect of a decree or order made bya Court subject to the superintendence of the Court and not being an order made in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction or in the exercise of its power of superintendence or in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction 66[or in the exercise ofthe jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution in respect of any judgment, order or award--(a) of a tribunal, Court or statutory arbitrator made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution, or (b) of the Government or any officer or authority, made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any such Act of one Judge.

6. The above provision has come up for interpretation in reference to orders passed by Election Tribunals under Section 12-C of U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 in Vajara Yojna Seed Farm, Kalyanpur (M/s.) & others vs. Presiding Officer, Labour Court II, U.P., Kanpur & another, 2003 (1) UPLBEC 496.

7. Paragraphs 59, 60, 61 & 62 of the said judgment specifically deals with the issue being raised in the instant appeal. The Division Bench held that the Election Tribunal while deciding the election petition under Section 12-C of the Act has all the trappings of Court and that a special appeal under Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules of Court would not be maintainable. The relevant paragraphs from the said judgment dealing with the above issue are extracted below:

59. The third category special appeal being Special Appeal Nos. 1118 of 2002 and 532 of 2002 arise out of writ petition in which order of Election Tribunal was challenged. The Election Tribunal while deciding the Election Petition functions as a Tribunal. Statutory rules have been framed regarding procedure to be followed while deciding the Election Petition. Certain provisions of Code of Civil Procedure as well as provisions of Evidence Act are attracted while deciding the Election Petition. The Election Tribunal decides lis between the parties. Parties are entitled to lead evidence before the Election Tribunal. Election Tribunal, has thus, all trapping of Court and Election Tribunal is a Tribunal. Special appeal against the order passed in writ petition arising out of order of Election Tribunal is not maintainable. Under Section 12-C of U.P. Panchayat Raj Act Election Petition is to be heard and decided in accordance with the statutory rules, namely, Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat (Settlement of Disputes Relating to Membership) Rules, 1994. Rule 11 of the aforesaid 1994 Rules are extracted below :-

"11. Procedure before the Judge.- (1) Except so far as provided by the Act or in these Rules, the procedure provided in Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 in regard to suits shall in so far as it is not inconsistent with the Act or any provisions of these Rules and it can be made applicable, be followed in the hearing of the petitions :

Provided that:

(a) any two or more petitions to the membership of the same person may be heard together;

(b) the Judge shall not be required to record the evidence in full but shall make a memorandum of the evidence sufficient in his opinion for the purpose of deciding the case;

(c) the Judge may, at any stage of the proceedings; require the petitioner to give further cash security for the payment of the casts incurred or likely to be incurred by any respondent;

(d) for the purpose of deciding any issue, the Judge shall only be found to order production of or to receive only so much evidence, oral or documentary as he considers necessary;

(e) any person aggrieved from the decision of the Judge may apply for review to the Judge within 15 days from the date of decision and the Judge may thereupon review the decision.

(2) The provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (Act No. 1 of 1872) shall, subject to the provision of the Act and these Rules, be deemed to apply in all respects in the proceedings for the disposal of the petition."

60. Taking into consideration the aforesaid Rules and the power which is being exercised by the Election Tribunal, it is clear that Election Tribunal functions as Tribunal and it has all trapping of Court. In Special Appeal No. 532 of 2002 the Election Tribunal is Additional District Judge, Bareilly. Two decisions cited by Sri V.S. Sinha, Advocate appearing for the appellant in Special Appeal No. 532 of 2002 need to be considered. The decision of Prakash Timbers (Summary of Cases) (supra) was with regard to order passed by Company Law Board. The aforesaid case was on its own footing. In the aforesaid case the Division Bench of this Court had no occasion to consider as to whether Election Tribunal is a Tribunal. In these special appeals since orders were passed by Election Tribunal, the appeal is barred by Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court. The Division Bench judgment of this Court in Pratappur Sugar and' Industries' case (supra) has clearly held that if writ petition was filed challenging the order of Tribunal, special appeal is not maintainable. The Division Bench in Paragraph 15 of the aforesaid judgment held as under :-

"15. For the reasons discussed above, the inescapable conclusion is that an Additional/Deputy Labour Commissioner while exercising jurisdiction under Sub-section (6) of Clause II of the Standing Orders Junctions as a Tribunal. The writ petition had been filed challenging the order of Deputy Labour Commissioner and being a Tribunal, the present special appeal under Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court is not maintainable. The special appeal is accordingly dismissed."

61. The next case relied by Counsel for the appellant is State of U.P. v. Smt. Dayavati Khanna (supra). In the aforesaid case the argument which was raised before the Division Bench was to the effect that special appeal would be competent only from an order passed in a writ petition which is required to be heard by Single Judge but not when an order is passed by Single Judge in a writ petition cognizable by Division Bench. The said argument was considered and it was held that appeal was maintainable since the judgment passed was of a Single Judge dated 29th April, 1993. The aforesaid judgment does not in any manner help the Counsel for the appellant. The Division Bench judgment of this Court reported in 1998 (32) ALR 603, Smt. Rama Devi v.

Smt. Madhnri Verma and Ors., is fully applicable in the present case. In the aforesaid judgment the Division Bench held special appeal not maintainable in a case, which arose out of writ petition, filed against the order of Election Tribunal. In the aforesaid case Prescribed Authority exercising power under Section 12-C of U.P. Panchayat Raj Act passed a recounting order, The Division Bench upheld the objection or maintainability of the special appeal. It was laid down in Paragraph 6 of the judgment:

"6. It is clear from the aforesaid Rule that no special appeal is maintainable in the cases where the controversy does not originate before the High Court. The Rule admittedly is based on a logic that the Prescribed Authority or the Revisional Authority which act as Tribunal/Court having already appreciated the matter from judicial angle and in order to get finality the decision of the Single Judge should be taken as final and no appeal should further be maintainable. This Court has taken similar view in Sita Ram Lal v. D.I.O.S., Azamgarh and Ors., wherein the main object of Chapter VIII, Rule 5 has been duly discussed."

62. In view of the foregoing discussions, it is clear that special appeal arising out of writ petition filed against the order passed by Election Tribunal are also barred by Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court. Consequently Special Appeal Nos. 1118 of 2002 and 532 of 2002 are liable to be dismissed as not maintainable.

8. It has been clearly held in paragraph 62 that special appeals arising out of writ petition filed against the order passed by a Election Tribunal under Section 12-C are barred by Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court.

9. The Sub Divisional Magistrate, while passing order dated 13.05.2022 has clearly mentioned that the order is being passed by him, acting as prescribed authority under the Act. Under Section 12-C of the Act, the election petition lies before such authority as may be prescribed. It is not the case of the appellant that Sub Divisional Magistrate is not the authority prescribed to deal with a petition under Section 12-C. The contention that the election petition was not presented in the manner prescribed could be considered, had the appeal been maintainable. As this appeal is not maintainable, we cannot arrogate to ourselves the power to dwell on the issue. Likewise, provision relating to revision before District Judge, will not detract from the legal position that the proceedings originate from an order of Election Tribunal under U.P. Act.

10. We, accordingly, uphold the preliminary objection and dismiss the special appeal as not maintainable.

THE HON'BLE MRS. MANJU RANI CHAUHAN, J.

Writ A No. 563 of 2022

Smt. Pushpa Srivastava ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:

Sri Kripa Shankar Pandey, Sri Sunil Kumar Srivastava, Sri Radha Kant Ojha (Senior Adv.)

C.S.C., Sri Santosh Kumar Tripathi

A. Service Law – Termination - Grant-in-aid (Technical or Industrial Institutions) Rules, 1949 - Grant-in-aid Rules, 1947 - Rules 7 of Appendix-4 - The impugned termination order has been passed without giving any notice, providing opportunity of hearing and without proper inquiry, hence the same is arbitrary, unjust and against the principles of natural justice. (Para 21)

Perusal of the records goes to show that termination order has been passed without any show cause notice, proper inquiry and without furnishing the documents, relying on which the impugned order has been passed. The termination order has been passed relying on such documents, which have not been served upon the petitioner and also on the ex-parte inquiry report submitted by three members Committee which was constituted for some other purpose rather than to enquire on the complaint of some person w.r.t. forged appointment letter, when the petitioner had already submitted a reply dated 09.07.2021 in respect of selection of Clerk in the Institution. (Para 20)

B. Nothing has been brought on record to show that there was any reason for entertaining a complaint which was made by some unknown persons, not related to the petitioner or to the Institution, as to whether it was accompanied by any affidavit or not, and, so much so, as to what was the basis of such a complaint. This Court keeps in mind the peculiar case of petitioner who has worked from 1997 till passing of impugned order without there being any complaint against her. She has been made to suffer only when she has raised her voice against the Management. The respondents are directed to reinstate the petitioner forthwith on the post of Instructor (on which she was working prior to passing of termination order) (as writ challenging reversion order is still pending). (Para 21, 22)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Present petition assails termination order dated 03.12.2021, passed by Manager, Committee of Management of Silai, Kadhai, Bunai Prkshishan Evam Utpadan Kendra.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Radha Kant Ojha, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Mr. Sunil Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Santosh Kmar Tripathi, learned counsel for respondent nos. 5 & 6 and Mr. Anil Kumar Singh Baghel, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The writ petition has been filed with the following prayer:-

"(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the order dated impugned termination order dated 03.12.2021 (Annexure no.14 to the writ petition) passed by respondent Manager, Committee of Management of Silai, Kadhai, Bunai Prkshishan Evam Utpadan Kendra.

(ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding and directing the respondents not to interfere in the peaceful functioning of petitioner as Principal in the institution and pay her arrears of salary as well as regular salary and continue the same month to month.

(iii) Issue any other suitable writ, order or direction in favour of the petitioner as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the present facts and circumstances of the case.

(iv) Award the cost of the petition in favour of the petitioner."

3. The Nehru Bal Mandal is a registered society which runs a number of institutions recognized by the Board of Basic Education, Uttar Pradesh, as well as Social Welfare Department. The Silai, Kadhai, Bunai Prakshikshan Evam Utpadan Kendra, Allahabad (hereinafter referred to as Institution) is run by the aforesaid Society since 1974 after being recognized by the Social Welfare Department. The aforesaid institution is governed under the provisions of grant-in-aid (Technical or Industrial Institutions) Rules, 1949 (in short Rules, 1949). As per the aforesaid rules, the Committee of Management is empowered to run the institution, appoint the staff of the institution, pay the salary of the staff of the institution. This rule is however silent about the governance of un-aided schools.

4. The petitioner was appointed as Instructor for one year probation period in the Institution on 30.06.1997, after following the proper procedure as provided under law, on account of resignation being tendered by one Instructor, namely, Usha Mishra. The petitioner joined her duty in the Institution on 01.07.1997 and continued up to 25.09.2013. She was confirmed and promoted as Senior Instructor, being Senior most Instructor, she was handed over charge of officiating Principal on 26.09.2013 as the services of the then Principal of the Institution, namely, Chanchal Sharma were terminated by the Committee of Management. The petitioner's services were regularized as Principal by the then Committee of Management of the Institution on 17.11.2016 on the basis of long and satisfactory service.

5. The Institution where the petitioner was working as Principal was not in grant-in-aid list, therefore, the respondent Committee of Management was continuously approaching the Government for extension and Government grants, ensuingly the State Government took the Institution in grant-in-aid list by order dated 29.12.2017, and sanctioned 7 post. The Director, Social Welfare, U.P., Lucknow, also agreed to proceed for providing revised salary of the employees of the Institution by order dated 12.02.2019, accordingly he asked the Management as well as District Social Welfare Officer, Prayagraj to provide the statement of working employees in the Institution. In furtherance of the above, the District Social Welfare Officer, Prayagraj asked the management to produce the approved list of employees. Subsequently, the then management provided the approved list of employees of the Institution on 14.02.2019, which was inturn approved by the District Social Welfare Officer, Prayagraj and submitted for its approval to the Director, Social Welfare Department on 20.02.2019. The name of the petitioner finds place in the list which establishes that the petitioner was working as regular Principal of the Institution and receiving salary from the Government exchequer since 29.12.2017 till date. The petitioner has worked up to best of her abilities and capability, having unblemished record, there being no complaint whatsoever against her by anyone.

6. It appears that the resignation as tendered by one Anita Mishra, Clerk of the Institution before the Management on 27.07.2019 has not been approved by respondent no.2 and the petitioner did not have any such information in this regard. Without clarifying the real situation with respect to vacancy of clerk the Committee of Management advertised the vacancy of clerk in the aforesaid Institution on 23.09.2020 and held the interview for the same on 24.11.2020. The petitioner being head of the panel participated in the selection proceedings in which the candidates for the post of clerk were interviewed. As the Government order dated 05.12.2018 provides for three members in the Selection Committee, an objection was raised by the petitioner as the panel consisted of four members but the same was ignored by representative of the Management namely Pramod Shukla. Petitioner being employee of the Institution did not vehemently oppose the panel and proeeded accordingly, therefore, interview was held, in which one Neelam Singh was selected as Assistant Clerk. Neelam Singh joined the Institution but the State authority has not approved the appointment dated 16.02.2021 till date.

7. The entire exercise as well as the appointment letter dated 16.02.2021 was challenged by one candidate, who participated in the interview by means of filing Writ Petition No. 625321 of 2021, the Hon'ble Court was pleased to call for records of the said selection from the Management and the matter is still pending for consideration. Another Writ Petition being Writ No.16121 of 2021 was filed by one Anita Mishra which is also pending before this Hon'ble Court. In one of the petitions, the petitioner therein had taken a ground of number of irregularities in the selection so held as well as with respect to members of the Selection Committee and consideration of the videography of the interview. The respondent Committee of Management by letter dated 26.06.2021 asked the petitioner (present writ petition) to explain the situation of the interview as one Uttam Anand who had filed the petition had narrated about some videography being conducted and asked her to produce the same before them, if there was any such videography. The petitioner submitted a detailed reply on 29.06.2021 but without considering the same, the petitioner was asked to clarify the situation of the interview with respect to members of the Selection Committee. The petitioner submitted explanation dated 09.07.2021 which was repetition of the reply earlier submitted.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the Committee of Management was annoyed by the petitioner as she was not cooperating in the illegal exercise of selection of Neelam Singh as Assistant Clerk, therefore, the petitioner was being harassed by sending number of notices. In order to harass the petitioner, an Inquiry Committee was constituted by the Manager of the Institution on 09.08.2021 and 8 employees including 2 of the Institution were asked to appear before the Inquiry Committee on 10.08.2021. The information to appear before the inquiry committee was given by means of letter dated 09.08.2021 which does not mention about forged signatures of Manager on petitioner's appointment letter. When the petitioner appeared before the Committee as informed verbally, along with the documents as required, no members of the inquiry committee was present to continue the inquiry which was initiated on 09.08.2021, and an information was given that the inquiry has been completed and an ex-parte inquiry report was submitted by the Inquiry Officer.

9. Surprisingly, on 12.08.2021 without any notice, opportunity of hearing or the ex-parte report being given to the petitioner, relying upon the report of the three members Committee headed by Dr. Salik Ram Dwivedi. Smt. Neetu Singh, Senior Most Instructor was given the charge to perform the duties of Principal of the Institution. The letter dated 12.08.2021 did not contain the name of the petitioner but her name was later added, showing her to be instructor and the same was sent to the petitioner through registered post along with letter of attestation of signature of Smt. Neetu Singh who was given the charge of Principal of the Institution. The aforesaid order dated 12.08.2021 vide which Smt. Neetu Singh was appointed to discharge the function of Principal in the Institution as well as the order reverting the petitioner on the post of Instructor was challenged by means of filing Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.17363 of 2021 which is still pending.

10. In the aforesaid matter, notices have been issued to Smt. Neetu Singh who was given the charge of performing the work of Principal in the Institution. When the Committee of Management came to know about filing of the writ petition, the petitioner was placed under suspension by order dated 25.11.2021. The suspension order was accompanied by charge sheet, mentioning 23 charges against the petitioner without there being any evidence with regard to the allegations made against the petitioner. The entire exercise has been done being, annoyed by the petitioner, as she had opposed the procedure of appointment of clerk namely, Neelam Singh who was relative of one of the members of the Management. After being served with the suspension order along with copy of the charge sheet, the petitioner requested for the documentary evidence in order to submit a reply but surprisingly within a week termination order has been passed on 03.12.2021 without giving any notice, opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the termination order has been passed in arbitrary manner as the same has been passed just after six days of passing of the suspension order wherein along with the suspension order a charge sheet was given to the petitioner, without any show cause notice or proper inquiry. Though, the termination order speaks about some reports dated 11.11.2021 as well as 24.11.2021 and a resolution of the Committee of Management dated 01.12.2021, the aforesaid documents were not served upon the petitioner prior to passing the impugned order, therefore, the same cannot be sustained in the eyes of law. The impugned termination order is in violation of Office/Government order dated 05.12.2018 which provides that termination order cannot be passed without taking permission/approval of Director of Social Welfare Department as well as in violation of provision of Rules 7 of Appendix-4 of grant-in-aid Rules 1947, therefore, the same is illegal.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the termination order speaks about the report of handwriting expert according to which signature of Late. Keshav Dutt Mishra, the then Manager found on the appointment letter dated 30.06.1997 did not match with the signatures of Late. K.D. Mishra made on other documents. Such a procedure adopted by the Management is not permissible in the eyes of law, therefore, the termination order is based upon the report, which cannot be relied upon. The conduct of the Committee of Management, wherein on the basis of some complaints the signatures of the then Manager placed on the appointment letter of the petitioner were sent to the Forensic Lab before the handwriting expert is not justified as the original appointment letter was missing and Mr. K.D. Mishra expired by that time, therefore, the procedure seems to be unjustified and no reliance can be placed upon such report.

13. On one hand when the petitioner who is working in the Institution since 30.06.1997 was promoted from the post of Instructor to Principal, there was no occasion of conducting any inquiry after so many years with respect to the appointment letter on the basis of false and baseless complaints and proceed to terminate the petitioner relying upon some ex-parte report vide which the signature of the then Manager on the appointment letter was verified by the handwriting expert. The impugned termination order has no legs to stand as the charge sheet as furnished to the petitioner along with the suspension order is based on no evidence and if any the same has not been furnished to the petitioner to enable her to submit its reply. Thus, the termination order is arbitrary, unjustified, illegal and in violation of principles of natural justice, hence, cannot be sustained in the eyes of law.

14. Learned Standing Counsel could not dispute the aforesaid fact that the termination order has been passed without any notice or inquiry and relying upon the ex-parte report. Mr. Santosh Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel for respondent nos.5 and 6 submits that a complaint was made by one Prabhat Ranjan with respect to appointment letter of the petitioner obtained by forging signatures of the then Manager Mr. K.D. Mishra, on which an inquiry was conducted.

15. In one part of the inquiry, the signatures of Late. K.D. Mishra as on the photo copy of the petitioner's appointment letter (as the original records were not available) was sent for verification before the handwriting expert wherein it was found that there is difference in signatures of Late. K.D. Mishra on the appointment letter as compared to that in the other documents.

16. In another set of inquiry, three members Committee was constituted, headed by Dr. Salik Ram Dwivedi and the said committee asked for appointment letter dated 30.06.1997 but the original appointment letter was not submitted by the petitioner which shows her conduct and also approves the allegations made in the complaint.

17. Learned counsel for Committee of Management has also denied the promotion of the petitioner on the post of Senior Instructor and Principal as there is no resolution in that regard. He further submits that inquiry report has been sent before the Director Social Welfare department, waiting for his directions in this regard. An FIR has also been lodged against the petitioner with respect to the forgery which has been committed by her in obtaining fake and fabricated appointment letter. He further submits that two notices dated 23.10.2021 and 27.10.2021 have been given to the petitioner to submit her reply on the aspect, but neither the original documents nor any reply has been submitted in this regard, therefore, there is no illegality in the order impugned and no interference is required in such case where the petitioner has obtained appointment letter by committing fraud.

18. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

19. Perusal of the records goes to show that termination order has been passed without any show cause notice, proper inquiry and without furnishing the documents, relying on which the impugned order has been passed. It would not be out of place to mention that as per the records, the letter dated 09.07.2021 goes to show that some inquiry with respect to selection for the post of Clerk in which one Neelam Singh was appointed, was being conducted and in furtherance of the same, the letter dated 09.08.2021 was also given to 8 employees including the petitioner of the present institution, were asked to appear before the Inquiry Committee with respect to some applications placed by employees of the Institutions. Nothing has been brought on record to show that there was any reason for entertaining a complaint which was made by some unknown persons, not related to the petitioner or to the Institution, as to whether it was accompanied by any affidavit or not, and, so much so, as to what was the basis of such a complaint. The inquiry with respect to the signatures of the then Manager who had issued the appointment letter way back in the year 1997 was compared with photographed/photostat disputed signatures in other documents could not be taken into consideration for believing that the petitioner had committed some forgery as the report itself mentioned that the same was subject to an inspection of original photographs of these photographed/photostat disputed signatures placed before the handwriting and finger expert. The other stand taken by the learned counsel for the Committee of Management that signature of the then Manager on petitioner's appointment letter are forged, cannot be believed, as on one hand the petitioner was promoted from time to time and it is only after the objection raised by the petitioner with respect to selection of clerk in the institution being done not in accordance with law, all the proceedings have been initiated in the year 2020 and petitioner has been reverted to post of Instructor on 12.08.2021.

20. This Court also finds that the termination order has been passed relying on such documents, which has not been served upon the petitioner and also on the ex-parte inquiry report submitted by three members Committee which was constituted for some other purpose rather than to enquire on the complaint of some person with respect to forged appointment letter, when the petitioner had already submitted a reply dated 09.07.2021 in respect of selection of Clerk in the Institution.

21. This Court while deciding the matter also keeps in mind the peculiar case of petitioner who has worked from 1997 till passing of impugned order without there being any complaint against her, who has been made to suffer only when she has raised her voice against the Management. Undoubtedly, the impugned termination order has been passed without giving any notice, providing opportunity of hearing and without proper inquiry, hence the same is arbitrary, unjust and against the principles of natural justice.

22. In view of the aforesaid, the termination order dated 03.12.2021 cannot be sustained in the eyes of law and the same is hereby set aside. The respondents are directed to reinstate the petitioner forthwith on the post of Instructor (on which she was working prior to passing of termination order) (as writ challenging reversion order is still pending).

23. With the aforesaid observations, the writ petition is allowed.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

THE HON'BLE MRS. MANJU RANI CHAUHAN, J.

Writ A No. 620 of 2022

Gagan Sharma ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Seemant Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Selection - U.P. Police Constable and Head Constable Service Rules, 2015- Appendix-3 of Rule 16(g) - Explanation IV to Section 11 and Order 2 Rule 2 C.P.C. - No litigant has a right to unlimited drought on the Court time and public money in order to get his affairs settled in the manner he wishes. However, access to justice should not be misused as a licence to file misconceived and frivolous petitions. (Para 18)

Filing successive misconceived and frivolous applications for clarification, modification or for seeking a review of the order interferes with the purity of the administration of law and salutary and healthy practice. Such a litigant must be dealt with a very heavy hand. (Para 20, 21, 22)

It is an admitted position between the parties that for the same relief as made in the present writ petition, the petitioner has already fled Writ-A No. 12672 of 2020 (Gagan Sharma Vs St. of U.P. & 3 Others), which has been dismissed by a Writ Court vide judgment and order dated 03.08.2021, however, in the said writ petition, according to the learned counsel for the petitioner, the grounds taken in the same are different from those, which have been taken in the present writ petition. (Para 9)

The issue of filing successive writ petition has been considered by the Apex Court time and again, accordingly it has been held that even if the earlier writ petition has been dismissed as withdrawn, Public Policy which is reflected in the principle enshrined in Order 23 rule 1 C.P.C., mandates that successive writ petition cannot be entertained for the same relief. (Para 10)

Even if a party does not pray for the relief in the earlier writ petition, which he ought to have claimed in the earlier petition, he cannot file a successive writ petition claiming that relief, as it would be barred by the principle of constructive res judicata enshrined in Explanation IV to Section 11 and Order 2 rule 2 C.P.C. (Para 12)

It is abundantly clear that even if the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure are not applicable in writ jurisdiction, the principle enshrined therein can be resorted to for the reason that the principles, on which the Code of Civil Procedure is based, are founded on public policy and, therefore, require to be extended and made applicable in writ jurisdiction also in the interest of administration of justice. Any relief not claimed in the earlier writ petition should be deemed to have been abandoned by the petitioner to the extent of the cause of action claimed in the subsequent writ petition and in order to restrain the person from abusing the process of the Court, such an order/course requires not only to be resorted to but to be enforced. (Para 17)

B. Medical fitness is a subject best left for determination by experts and should not be lightly interfered with unless it be shown to be contrary to the standards prescribed or otherwise be liable to be assailed on other judicially manageable parameters. (Para 28)

Opinion of a committee of non-experts under Rule 15(d) for physical test of a candidate cannot override the opinion of the team of experts, i.e. Medical Board under Rule 15(g) of the Rules. Any Court of law or any person cannot express any opinion about a person whether he is healthy or unwell or what disease he has. It is the Doctor, who is an expert of that field, can diagnose the disease and give opinion about the same. (Para 27, 30)

The second writ petition is not maintainable for issuing a direction upon the respondent authorities to treat the petitioner medically fit in the selection on the post of Constable Civil Police pursuant to the advertisement dated 16.11.2018, as the earlier writ petition for the same relief stood dismissed vide order dated 03.08.2021, wherein a Coordinate Bench of this Court had found no error in the opinion of the medical board as also the appellate medical board. (Para 23)

C. Second writ petition filed for the same relief cannot be entertained by this Court. The proper remedy available to the petitioner was to file a recall application in his earlier writ petition referred to above or to file a Special Appeal against the judgment and order passed in the said writ petition. (Para 32)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Seemant Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Ashish Singh Nagwanshi, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has prayed made following relief:

(a) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus directing the respondents to treat the petitioner has medically fit in the selection on the post of Constable Civil Police initiated vide advertisement dated 16.11.2018 issued by the Additional Secretary (Recruitment), Uttar Pradesh Police Recruitment and Promotion Board, Lucknow in view of Appendix-3 of Rules 15 (9) of Uttar Pradesh Police Constable and Head Constable Service Rules, 2015.

(b) Issue a writ, order of direction in the nature of Mandamus directing the respondents to appoint the petitioner on the post of Constable Civil Police and also be sent for training on the post of Constable Civil Police, treating the petitioner to be not having any such physical deformity which has been notified under the Uttar Pradesh Police Constable and Head Constable Service Rules, 2015 and by the State Government, within stipulated period of time as fixed by this Hon'ble Court.

(c) Issue any other suitable writ, order or direction, which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case.

(d) Award the cost of writ petition to the Writ Petition. "

3. Before coming on the merits of the claim set up on behalf of the petitioner, Mr. Nagwanshi, learned Standing Counsel has raised preliminary objection to the maintainability of this writ petition by contending that the petitioner has earlier approached this Court by means of Writ-A No. 12672 of 2020 (Gagan Sharma Vs. State of U.P. & 3 Others). The said writ petition has been dismissed by a Writ Court vide judgment and order dated 3rd August, 2021. Learned counsel for the State-respondents, therefore, submits that this second writ petition nearly for the same relief cannot be entertained by this Court and the same is liable to be dismissed on this ground alone. The proper remedy available to the petitioner is to file a recall/modification application in the said writ petition or file a special appeal against the order passed therein.

4. In the present writ petition, it is the case of the petitioner that an advertisement was issued by the Additional Secretary (Recruitment), U.P. Police Recruitment and Promotion Board, Lucknow i.e. respondent no.3 dated 16th November, 2018 in respect Constable Civil Police and Constable PAC Direct Recruitment-2018. By the said advertisement, total 49568 posts were advertised, out of which, 31360 were advertised for the post of Constable Civil Police, whereas 18208 posts were advertised for the post of Constable Police Armed Constabulary. Pursuant to the aforesaid advertisement, petitioner applied under General Category. The petitioner qualified in all the stages of recruitment and ultimately, he was selected on the post of Constable Civil Police in the final select list issued by the respondent-authority vide notification dated 2nd March, 2020. Thereafter the petitioner was called for appearing in Medical Examination at Reserve Police Line, Bulandshahr, which was conducted by the District Medical Board, Bulandshahr, wherein he was declared medically unfit due to having cubitus valgus deformity, which means excess curve in the elbows. The petitioner also appeared in re-medical examination, which was conducted at Reserve Police Line, Meerut by the Regional Medical Board, Meerut and in the said re-medical examination, the petitioner was again declared medically unfit on the same deformity. Feeling aggrieved by the same, the petitioner approached this Court earlier by means of Writ-A No. 12672 of 2020 (Gagan Sharma Vs. State of U.P. & 3 Others), which was dismissed by a Writ Court vide judgment and order dated 3rd August, 2021, wherein the Writ Court relying upon the medical report of the petitioner, according to which the petitioner was examined by the Medical Board, which was duly constituted by the Chief Medical Officer, Bulandshahr and he was found medically unfit due to having excess angle in both elbows.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that it is no doubt true that for the same relief, as has been made in the present writ petition, petitioner filed Writ-A No. 12672 of 2020 (Gagan Sharma Vs. State of U.P. & 3 Others) but grounds taken in the present writ petition and in Writ-A No. 12672 of 2020 (Gagan Sharma Vs. State of U.P. & 3 Others) are different. The petitioner has filed the present writ petition on some new grounds which he has not taken in his earlier writ petition. Therefore, the present writ petition is maintainable. In support of this plea, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Madhvi Amma Bhawani Amma Vs. Kunjijutty Pillai Meenakshi Pillai reported in 2000 LawSuit (SC) 833 as well as the Full Bench Judgment of the High Court of Karnataka in the case of Abdul Razak Amjadulla Abusali Vs. State of Karnataka by its Secretary, Department of Home & Others reported in 2017 LawSuit (Kar) 709.

6. New grounds pressed before this Court by the learned counsel for the petitioner are that in the Appendix-3 of Rule 16 (g) of the U.P. Police Constable and Head Constable Service Rules, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as the "Rules, 2015"), which provides the deformities, for which the candidates are required to be medically tested, cubitus valgus deformity has been mentioned. Neither any notification has been issued by the State Government mentioning that the cubitus valgus is a deformity nor the respondent authorities had ever disclosed at any point of time to the petitioner about the same i.e. at the time of the medical examination conducted by the District Medical Board and re-medical examination conducted by the Regional Medical Board. So long as the cubitus valgus is not taken into as physical deformity, the claim of the petitioner cannot be rejected on account of the same. On the Cumulative strength of the aforesaid, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that in view of Rules, 2015, the claim of the petitioner is liable to be considered treating the petitioner to be medically fit in all aspects.

7. On the other-hand, learned Counsel for the State-respondents submits that there is no provision of law to dispute the medical examinations of the petitioner which were conducted by teams of Doctors only on the allegation that in Rules, 2015, the cubitus valgus deformity has not been notified nor in any notification or Government Order of the State the said deformity has been notified. The candidature of the petitioner has rightly been rejected by the Medical Boards referred to above. Therefore, on merits also, no interference is required to be made by this Court in exercise of powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

8. I have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the present writ petition.

9. It is an admitted position between the parties that for the same relief as made in the present writ petition, the petitioner has already filed Writ-A No. 12672 of 2020 (Gagan Sharma Vs. State of U.P. & 3 Others), which has been dismissed by a Writ Court vide judgment and order dated 3rd August, 2021, however, in the said writ petition, according to the learned counsel for the petitioner, the grounds taken in the same are different from those, which have been taken in the present writ petition.

10. The issue of filing successive writ petition has been considered by the Apex Court time and again, accordingly it has been held that even if the earlier writ petition has been dismissed as withdrawn, Public Policy which is reflected in the principle enshrined in Order 23 rule 1 C.P.C., mandates that successive writ petition cannot be entertained for the same relief. (Vide M/s. Sarguja Transport Service Vs. State Transport Appellate Tribunal & Ors., AIR 1987 SC 88; Ashok Kumar & Ors. Vs. Delhi Development Authority, 1994 (6) SCC 97; and Khacher Singh Vs. State of U.P. & Ors., AIR 1995 All. 338).

11. In Sarguja Trasnport Service (Supra), the Apex Court has specifically opined that in the instant case, the High Court was right in holding that a fresh writ petition was not maintainable before it in respect of the same subject-matter since the earlier writ petition had been withdrawn without permission to file a fresh petition.

12. Even if a party does not pray for the relief in the earlier writ petition, which he ought to have claimed in the earlier petition, he cannot file a successive writ petition claiming that relief, as it would be barred by the principle of constructive res judicata enshrined in Explanation IV to Section 11 and Order 2 rule 2 C.P.C. as has been explained, in unambiguous and crystal clear language by the Apex Court in Commissioner of Income Tax, Bombay Vs. T.P. Kumaran reported in 1996 (10) SCC 561; Union of India & Ors. Vs. Punnilal & Ors. reported in 1996 (11) SCC 112; and M/s. D. Cawasji & Co. & Ors. Vs. State of Mysore & Anr. reported in AIR 1975 SC 813.

13. Similar view has been reiterated by the Apex Court in Avinash Nagra Vs. Navodaya Vidyalaya Samiti & Ors. reported in (1997) 2 SCC 534 and by the other Court in Uda Ram Vs. Central State Farm & ors. reported in AIR 1998 Raj. 186; and M/s. Rajasthan Art Emporium Vs. Rajasthan State Industrial and Investment Corporation & Anr. reported in AIR 1998 Raj. 277.

14. In the case of M/s. D. Cawasji & Co. etc. (Supra), the Apex Court observed as under:-

"Be that as it may, in the earlier writ petitions, the appellants did not pray for refund of the amounts paid by way of cess for the years 1951-52 to 1965-66 and they gave no reasons before the High Court in these writ petitions why they did not make the prayer for refund of the amounts paid during the years in question. Avoiding multiplicity of unnecessary legal proceedings should be an aim of the Courts. Therefore, the appellants could not be allowed to split up their claims for refund and file writ petitions in this piecemeal fashion. If the appellants could have, but did not, without any legal justification, claim refund of the amounts paid during the years in question, in the earlier writ petitions, we see no reason why the appellants should be allowed to claim the amounts by filing writ petitions again. In the circumstances of this case, having regard to the conduct of the appellants in not claiming these amounts in the earlier writ petitions without any justification, we do not think, we would be justified in interfering with the discretion exercised by the High Court in dismissing the writ petitions which were filed only for the purpose of obtaining the refund....in view of the above, the petition is liable to be dismissed as not maintainable and it is dismissed accordingly...."

15. Similarly, in the case of State of U.P. & Anr. Vs. Labh Chand reported in AIR 1994 SC 754, the Apex Court has held as under:-

"This reason is not concerned with the discretionary power of the Judge or Judges of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution to entertain a second writ petition whose earlier writ petition was dismissed on the ground of non-exhaustion of alternative remedy but of such a Judge or Judges having not followed the well established salutary rule of judicial practice and procedure that an order of a Single Judge Bench or a Larger Bench of the same High Court dismissing the writ petition either on the ground of latches or non-exhaustion of alternative remedy as well shall not be bye-passed by a Single Judge Bench or Judges of a Larger Bench except in exercise of review or appellate powers possessed by it..... But as the learned Single Judge constituting a Single Judge Bench of the same Court, who has in the purported exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution bye-passed the order of dismissal of the writ petition made by a Division Bench by entertaining a second writ petition filed by the respondent in respect of the subject matter which was the subject matter of the earlier writ petition, the question is, whether the well established salutary rule of judicial practice and procedure governing such matters permit the learned Single Judge to bye-pass the order of the Division Bench on the excuse that High Court has jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution to entertain a second writ petition since the earlier writ petition of the same person had been dismissed on the ground of non-availing of alternative remedy and not on merits.... Second writ petition cannot be so entertained, not because the learned Single Judge had no jurisdiction to entertain the same, but because entertaining of such a second writ petition would render the order of the same Court dismissing the earlier writ petition, redundant and nugatory although not reviewed by it in exercise of its recognized power. Besides, if a learned Single Judge could entertain a second writ petition of a person respecting a matter on which his first writ petition was dismissed in limine by another Single Judge or a Division Bench of the same Court, it would encourage an unsuccessful writ petitioner to go on filing writ petitions after writ petition in the same matter, in the same High Court and for it brought up for consideration before one Judge after another. Such a thing, if is allowed to happen, it would result in giving full scope and encouragement to an unscrupulous litigant to abuse the process of the High Court exercising its writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution in that any order of any Bench of such Court refusing to entertain a writ petition could be ignored by him with impunity and the relief sought in the same matter by filing a fresh writ petition. This would only lead to introduction of disorder, confusion and chaos relating to exercise of writ jurisdiction by Judges of the High Court, for there could be no finality for an order of the Court refusing to entertain a writ petition. It is why the rule of judicial practice and procedure that a second writ petition shall not be entertained by the High Court on the subject matter respecting that the writ petition of the same person was dismissed by the same Court even if the order of such dismissal was in limine, be it on the ground of latches or on the ground of non-exhaustion of alternative remedy, has come to be accepted and followed as salutary rule in exercise of writ jurisdiction of the Court."

(Emphasis added).

16. In the case of Burn & Co. Vs. Their Employees, reported in AIR 1957 SC 38, the Apex Court has held as under:-

"That would be contrary to the well-recognised principle that a decision once rendered by a competent authority on a matter in issue between the parties after a full enquiry should not be permitted to be re-agitated. It is on this principle that the rule of res judicata enacted in Section 11, Civil P.C. is based. That section is, no doubt in terms in application to the present matter, but the principle underlying it, expressed in the maxim "interest rei publicae ut sit finis litium", is founded on sound public policy and is of universal application. (Vide Broom's Legal Maxims, Tenth Edition, page 218). 'The rule of res judicata is dictated' observed Sir Lawrence Jenkins C.J. in Sheoparasan Singh Vs. Ramnandan Prasad Narayan Singh, 43 Ind. App. 91: ILR 43 Cal. 694: (AIR 1916 PC 78) (C), by a wisdom which is for all time."

17. Therefore, in view of the above referred judgments, it is abundantly clear that even if the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure are not applicable in writ jurisdiction, the principle enshrined therein can be resorted to for the reason that the principles, on which the Code of Civil Procedure is based, are founded on public policy and, therefore, require to be extended and made applicable in writ jurisdiction also in the interest of administration of justice. Any relief not claimed in the earlier writ petition should be deemed to have been abandoned by the petitioner to the extent of the cause of action claimed in the subsequent writ petition and in order to restrain the person from abusing the process of the Court, such an order/course requires not only to be resorted to but to be enforced.

18. In the case of Dr. Buddhi Kota Subbarao Vs. K. Parasaran & Ors., reported in AIR 1996 SC 2687, the Apex Court has observed as under:-

"No litigant has a right to unlimited drought on the Court time and public money in order to get his affairs settled in the manner he wishes. However, access to justice should not be misused as a licence to file misconceived and frivolous petitions."

19. Similar view has been reiterated by the Apex Court in the case of K.K.

Modi Vs. K.N. Modi & Ors., reported in (1998) 3 SCC 573.

20. In Tamil Nadu Electricity Board & Anr. Vs. N. Raju Reddiar & Anr. reported in AIR 1997 SC 1005 the Apex Court held that filing successive misconceived and frivolous applications for clarification, modification or for seeking a review of the order interferes with the purity of the administration of law and salutary and healthy practice. Such a litigant must be dealt with a very heavy hand.

21. In Sabia Khan & ors. Vs. State of U.P. & ors., reported in (1999) 1 SCC 271, the Apex Court held that filing totally misconceived petition amounts to abuse of the process of the Court and such litigant is not required to be dealt with lightly.

22 In the case of Abdul Rahman Vs. Prasoni Bai & Anr., reported in (2003) 1 SCC 488, the Apex Court held that wherever the Court comes to the conclusion that the process of the Court is being abused, the Court would be justified in refusing to proceed further and refuse the party from pursuing the remedy in law.

23. Thus, in view of the above, the second writ petition is not maintainable for issuing a direction upon the respondent authorities to treat the petitioner medically fit in the selection on the post of Constable Civil Police pursuant to the advertisement dated 16th November, 2018, as the earlier writ petition for the same relief stood dismissed vide order dated 3rd August, 2021, wherein a Coordinate Bench of this Court had found no error in the opinion of the medical board as also the appellate medical board.

24. The Full Bench Judgment of the High Court of Karnataka relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner in the case of Abudul Razak, Amjadulla, Abusali (Supra) is not applicable in the case of the petitioner. The Full Bench of the Karnataka High Court while deciding the point no.1 in the said case has answered that that a second writ petition based on the very same grounds which were raised in the first writ petition assailing the order of detention is not maintainable on the principles of res judicata. However, the Full Bench has also clarified that a second writ petition assailing the very same detention order passed on fresh grounds or new grounds that were not available when the first writ petition was filed, is maintainable. When as matter of fact in the present case, the new grounds taken in the present petition with respect to the fact that the relevant rule does not take the cubitus valgus as a medical deficiency, were already available to the petitioner, while filing earlier writ petition being Writ-A No. 12672 of 2020.

25. The judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Madhvi Amma Bhawani Amma (Supra) is also not applicable in the case of the petitioner because the same issue was already been decided against the petitioner by a Coordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 3rd August, 2021 and no new issue has been pressed in this second writ petition.

26. In view of the aforesaid, this Court is of the opinion that this second writ petition is not maintainable and is liable to be dismissed on this ground alone.

27. This Court has also not found any good ground to interfere in the present writ petition on merits. Any Court of law or any person cannot express any opinion about a person whether he is healthy or unwell or what disease he has. It is the Doctor, who is an expert of that field, can diagnose the disease and give opinion about the same.

28. A learned Single Judge of this Court in the case of Diwakar Paswan Vs. State of U.P. & 6 Others reported in 2021 (1) ADJ 454, wherein the learned Single Judge has opined as follows:

"No material has been placed on record, or otherwise referred, to suggest that the opinion of the Medical Board or the Appellate Medical Board could in any manner be said to be casual, inchoate, perfunctory or vague. We are therefore of the view that the Medical Board being an expert body, its opinion is entitled to be given due weight, credence and value.

A similar view has been taken in recent judgments of this Court in Vivek Kumar v. State of U.P.1 and Md. Arshad Khan v. State of U.P.2 wherein it was held that matters relating to medical evaluation of candidates in a recruitment process involve expert determination and it may not be desirable to supplant the procedure prescribed as laid down under the relevant recruitment rules and taking any other view may have the effect of derailing the recruitment process.

Dealing with an identical challenge this Court in Prakash Singh Vs. State of U.P.3 held:

"The petitioner essentially calls upon the Court to rule on and evaluate the correctness of the reports submitted by experts in their fields. These submissions and reliefs have evidently been sought and addressed without bearing in mind the contours of the writ jurisdiction. The opinion of a Medical Board is the outcome of an evaluation by experts in the subject. Except in exceptional situations such as where a finding of unfitness is returned in violation or disregard of the standards prescribed or on grounds which may call upon this Court to consider the correctness of the opinion on a legal plain, it would be wholly inappropriate for this Court to either interfere with the same or substitute its own opinion with respect to the medical fitness of a particular candidate. Treading this path may also cause serious prejudice and jeopardise the recruitment process itself. The Court is constrained to enter this note of caution conscious of its own limitations with respect to adjudging the medical fitness or otherwise of a particular candidate. In the ultimate analysis, it would be pertinent to emphasise that such requests must be entertained with due care and circumspection."

The Delhi High Court in a recent decision handed down in the matter of Km Priyanka Vs. Union of India cautioned against interfering with the opinion formed by medical boards constituted for selection of members of the armed forces on the strength of certificates issued by private or civilian doctors in the following terms: -

"8. We have on several occasions observed that the standard of physical fitness for the Armed Forces and the Police Forces is more stringent than for civilian employment. We have in Priti Yadav Vs. Union of India 2020 SCC Online Del 951;Jonu Tiwari VS. Union of India 2020 SCC Online Del 855; Nishant Kumar Vs. Union of India SCC Online Del 808; and Shravan Kumar Rai Vs. Union of India 2020 SCC Online Del 924 held that once no mala fides are attributed and the doctors of the Forces who are well aware of the demands of duties of the Forces in the terrain in which the recruited personnel are required to work, have formed an opinion that the candidate is not medically fit for recruitment, opinion of private or other government doctors to the contrary cannot be accepted inasmuch as the recruited personnel are required to work for the Forces and not for the private doctors or the government hospitals and which medical professionals are unaware of the demands of the duties of the Forces."

Although learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon certain interim orders passed by learned Judges of the Court and which stand appended as Annexure 7 to the writ petition, the Court notes that none of those interim orders notice or deal with the principles as elucidated by the Division Bench in Rahul or the decisions in Manish Kumar and Prakash Singh noticed above.

It becomes pertinent to note that the opinions formed by the Medical and Review Boards have not been assailed by the petitioner on the ground of mala fides. A review of those decisions is sought solely on the basis of a contrary opinion rendered by a doctor of a government hospital. Permitting a reopening of a medical examination conducted by the respondents solely on that basis would set a dangerous precedent especially when the Court by virtue of its inherent limitations would be wholly unequipped to undertake a comparative analysis or evaluation of competing medical opinions. Medical fitness is a subject best left for determination by experts and should not be lightly interfered with unless it be shown to be contrary to the standards prescribed or otherwise be liable to be assailed on other judicially manageable parameters.

Quite apart from the consistent view taken by Courts on this question regard must also be had to the fact that the medical examination in the present case was undertaken in accordance with the provisions made in the statutory rules. Those Rules confer finality upon the opinions formed by the Medical Boards subject to an appeal against the same before a Review Medical Board. Those Rules do not envisage or contemplate a challenge to those reports based upon reports and opinions privately obtained by candidates. Permitting such a course of action would not only be contrary to the Rules which apply and bind the candidate but also result in derailing the recruitment process itself"

29. This Court, therefore, is in respectful agreement with the decision taken by the learned Single Judge in the case of Diwkar Paswan (Supra) and finds no good ground to entertain the present writ petition.

30. A Division Bench of this Court in the case of State of U.P. and others Vs. Bhanu Pratap Rajput, reported in 2021 (2) ADJ 451, has observed as follows:

"16. The medical examination by the Medical Board consisting of medical experts under Rule 15(g) cannot be said to be inferior to the physical standard test conducted by a team of non-experts. Therefore, we find that the finding recorded by the learned Single Judge in the impugned judgment that the assessment of physical standard by the committee constituted under Appendix-2 to the Rules, 2015 is liable to be preferred over the determination made by the Medical Board in terms of the Appendix-3, is not sustainable. Opinion of a committee of non-experts under Rule 15(d) for physical test of a candidate cannot override the opinion of the team of experts, i.e. Medical Board under Rule 15(g) of the Rules."

31. This Court also agrees with the observations made by the Division Bench of this Court in the aforesaid case.

32. Lastly, this Court finds substance in the submission made by the learned Standing Counsel that this second writ petition filed for the same relief cannot be entertained by this Court. For same relief, second writ petition is not maintainable. The proper remedy available to the petitioner was to file a recall application in his earlier writ petition referred to above or to file a Special Appeal against the judgment and order passed in the said writ petition.

33. The present writ petition is devoid of merits, and, accordingly, dismissed.

34. There shall be no order as to costs.

CIVIL SIDE

THE HON'BLE MRS. MANJU RANI CHAUHAN, J.

Writ A No. 3146 of 2022

Anoop Kumar Singh & Anr. ...Appellants

Versus

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Abhay Kumar Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Gagan Mehta

A. Service Law – U.P. Higher Education Service Commission (Procedure for Selection of Teachers) Regulations, 2014 - Regulation 12 - The examiners as well as experts being an independent body, their decision cannot be interfered as the same is given after proper consultation and research. In case of any mistake, the benefit of change in the answer key is given to each and every candidate, after following due process. The change in the tentative answer key can be made only after the expert opinion, the Commission takes into consideration the objections as raised by the candidates and after placing the same before the experts, the answer key is uploaded. The deletion of answer can be possible only after the experts opinion and benefit of deleted question is given to each and every candidate, in such a manner that there is no discrepancy or discrimination with any candidates. (Para 12)

B. Sympathy or compassion does not play any role in the matter of directing or not directing re-evaluation of an answer sheets. The law is well settled that the burden is on the candidates, not only to demonstrate that the key answer is incorrect but also to show that it is a glaring mistake which is totally apparent and no inferential process or reasoning is required to show that the key answer is wrong. (Para 22)

Even the policy decision incorporated in the Rules/Regulations providing for rechecking/verification/re-evaluation cannot be challenged unless there are grounds to show that the policy itself is in violation of some statutory provision. (Para 20)

In the present case, the final key was published on 11.02.2022 only after taking into consideration the experts opinion as well as the objections raised by the candidates,. (Para 15)

C. The Courts cannot judicially review the expert opinion unless and until the key answer is patently wrong. The Constitutional Courts must exercise great restrain in such matters and should be reluctant to entertain a plea challenging the correctness of the key answers. The Court should not over step its jurisdiction by giving the directions for re-evaluation which would amount to judicially reviewing the decision of the expert in the field. (Para 22, 24, 26)

Indubitably, conducting and holding of examinations in a most fitting and fair manner is peremptory and is solemn duty of examining body to provide for fair procedure, rules, regulations or bye-laws, keeping in mind that the career and fate of the students depends upon the result of the examinations. It is settled law that when a decision is taken by the Committee of Expert having high academic qualifications and long experience in the specialised field, the Courts should not normally interfere in the matters unless there are compelling circumstances for doing so. 10. Jitendra Singh Vs U.O.I. & anr., Writ-C No. 53877 of 2017 (Para 32)

Present petition prays for quashing of impugned result dated 17.02.2022 by the U.P. Higher Education Service Commission.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Abhay Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners, Mr. Gagan Mehta, learned counsel for respondent nos.2 & 3 and Mr. Shailendra Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The writ petition has been filed by the petitioners with the following prayer:-

"(i) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned result annexed as Annexure No.11 published on the 17.02.2022 by the Respondent no.2 Uttar Pradesh Higher Education Service Commission.

(ii) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding/directing the respondent no.2 to re-evaluate the answer sheet of the petitioners and declare a fresh result on the basis of re-evaluation.

(iii Issue a appropriate writ order or direction to the respondent no.2 to consider the candidature of the petitioners for interview for post of Assistant Professor of Geography subject."

3. In the present writ petition, counter and rejoinder affidavits have been exchanged between the parties, supplementary counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of respondent nos.2 & 3 is also taken on record. Both the parties agree that this petition be disposed of at this stage, without calling for any further affidavit.

4. Brief facts of the case are that the respondent-Commission published an advertisement for filling the vacancies of Assistant Professor in various subjects. The petitioners being eligible applied for the post of Assistant Professor in Geography subject. The petitioners appeared in written examination scheduled on 30.10.2021 and attempted the questions to the best of their ability and knowledge. After the examination, the answer key inviting objections from the candidates in case of any wrong answer in the answer key was published by the respondent-Commission. The question papers were in four sets i.e. A, B, C, D and the petitioners were given "D' Series of the booklet. The petitioners found that some of the answers given in the answer key published by respondent-Commission were wrong, therefore, they raised their objections separately with respect to questions at serial no. 2, 3, 14, 29, 34, 55, 56, 65, 66 and 79. Without considering the objections as raised by the petitioners, the final result was published by only correcting question no. 14 of "D' series of the booklet, as suggested by the petitioners. Apart from the aforesaid, the Commission has also deleted one question i.e. question no.36 and corrected one question i.e. question no.43 of the "D' series of the booklet. The revised and final result of the written paper of Assistant Professor (Geography) were declared on 11.02.2022 without correcting the answers as raised in the objections by the petitioners. The answers of 10 questions as stated above were said to be incorrect relying upon certain books as placed by the petitioners but respondent-Commission neither corrected the questions which was wrongly answered by the Commission in the answer key, as objected by the petitioners nor communicated the reason behind non consideration of rest 8 questions as suggested by the petitioners.

5. The petitioners found that question no. 29 of "D' series of the booklet had two correct answers but the objection with respect to the same could not be raised prior to declaration of the result.

6. The questions which still need to be corrected as per the objections raised by the petitioners are as follows:-

`Question No.3.

Which of the following is in pre-active stage of teaching?

(A) Evaluating
(B) Diagnosis
(C) Sequencing
(D) Remediating

As per the answer key, the correct answer is (C) whereas as per the books of UPKAR Prakashan and another book of Drishti for UGC NET JRF, available with the petitioner shows that both (B) and (C) answers are correct.

Question No.29

Reflecting teaching is:

(A) Problem Centered

(Ocean Deposits)	(Source)
(A) Ooze -	Biotic
(B) Red Clay -	Biotic
(C) Tiktites -	Cosmogeneous
(D) Mud -	Volcanic

As per the answer key, the correct answer is (D) whereas relying upon the book of Samudra Vigyan written by Savindra Singh and another book of Bhautik Bhoogol ka Swaroop written by Savindra Singh, the correct answer is (B).

7. The petitioners are confident and self possessed that in case the answers as relied upon by the petitioners and raised in their objections, if taken into consideration, the petitioners will qualify in the written examination.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the petitioners while raising their objections has placed reliance upon the reliable and renowned books, therefore, their objections should have been taken into consideration prior to declaration of the result. The conduct of the respondents to declare the result without considering the objections of the petitioners amounts to arbitrariness and hard-heartedness on their part, therefore, he submits that the selection of the petitioners on the post of Assistant Professor (Geography) has been denied by not taking into consideration the objections as raised byby the petitioners, which in case done, the petitioners would have succeeded.

9. Thus, the present writ petition has been filed with the prayer to direct the respondents to re-evaluate the answer sheets on the basis of the answers as given by the petitioners in the objections placed before respondents-Commission and declare the result of the petitioners accordingly.

10. On the other hand Mr. Gagan Mehta, learned counsel for respondent nos. 2 & 3 and Mr. Shailendra Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents submit that the relief as prayed on behalf of the petitioners cannot be granted by this Court while exercising its power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The request of the petitioners for re-evaluation of the answer sheets regarding question no.3, 29, 55, 65, 66 and 79 cannot be accepted as the correctness of the option given in the answer key is based upon experts opinion as obtained by the respondent-Commission and in the opinion of the subject experts, the answer key has been rightly uploaded. Since the answer key has been examined by the subject experts and the petitioners have not pleaded mala fide as against the respondents, as such no judicial review would lie and the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

11. Learned counsel for respondent-Commission has specifically mentioned that panel of examiners and experts is an independent body as the same has been constituted under Regulation 12 of the U.P. High Education Service Commission (Procedure for Selection of Teachers) Regulations, 2014, which reads as follows:-

"(1) The Chairman Examination Committee shall prepare for every subject, a list of persons qualified for appointment as examiners and submit the same for approval fo the Commission, such list shall be revised at least once in every two years:

Provided that a person included in the previous list shall be eligible for inclusion in the revised list.

(2) The list referred in sub-section (1) shall contain, as far as possible, information about the persons included therein regard to their academic qualifications, teaching experience at the degree and the postgraduate levels or professional experience and, the particulars, of the earlier examinations conducted by the Commission in which they acted as examiners.

(3) The Chairman Examination Committee shall, with the prior approval of the Commission, appoint Paper Setters and Moderators from amongst the persons included in the list referred to in sub-section (1).

(4) In making such appointments every care shall be taken to ensure that no person as so appointed who was found guilty of misconduct by any university, Government or Government body, or against whom any inquiries or investigations are pending or allegations of misconduct, or whose integrity is doubtful. Any person whose work as Head Examiner, Paper Setter or Valuer is found to be unsatisfactory by the Commission shall not be reappointed for that purpose."

12. The examiners as well as experts being an independent body, their decision cannot be interfered as the same is given after proper consultation and research. They further submit that in case of any mistake, the benefit of change in the answer key is given to each and every candidate, after following due process. The change in the tentative answer key can be made only after the expert opinion, the Commission takes into consideration the objections as raised by the candidates and after placing the same before the experts, the answer key is uploaded. The deletion of answer can be possible only after the experts opinion and benefit of deleted question is given to each and every candidate, in such a manner that there is no discrepancy or discrimination with any candidates.

13. As regards the issue regarding discrepancy between English and Hindi version, the instruction no.15 of the question booklet itself provides that the English version will be taken as final, Instruction No.15, reads as follows:-

"यदि हिंदी या अंग्रेजी विवरण में कोई विसंगति हो तो अंग्रेजी विवरण अंतिम माना जायेगा /

In case of any discrepancy between the English and Hindi version, English version will be taken as final."

14. They further submit that the objections as raised by the candidates to the answer key was taken into consideration and the duly appointed experts of the subjects submitted their opinion on the same before the Commission placing reliance upon books like fundamentals of remote sensing by George Joseph and physical Geography by Sunil Singh from which specially question no.55, 65, 66 and 79 were verified.

15. Only after taking into consideration the experts opinion, after considering the objections raised by the candidates, the final key was published on 11.02.2022.

16. Lastly, learned counsel for respondents submit that there is no provision of re-evaluation, therefore, the re-evaluation of answer sheets cannot be permitted as prayed by the petitioners. In support of their submission, they relying upon the judgement of High Court of Tripura Vs. Tirtha Sarathi Mukherjee and Others, reported in 2009 II SCALE 708, H.P. Service Commission Vs. Mukesh Thakur and Others, reported in AIR 2010 SC 2620 and Ran Vijay Singh and Others Vs. State of U.P. and Others, reported in AIR 2018 SC 52.

17. Therefore, learned counsel for respondents submit that the writ petition is not maintainable and the same is liable to be dismissed.

18. I have considered the submissions made on behalf of learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the present writ petition.

19. Learned counsel for the petitioners has not brought to this Court's attention any Rules, Regulations or any guidelines framed by the respondents, notification or circular issued by the respondents or any authority of law that may permit re-evaluation.

20. The issue of re-evaluation of answer book or sheet is no more res integra. This issue has been considered by the Apex Court in the case of Maharashtra State Board of Secondary and Higher Secondary Education & Anr. Vs. Paritosh Bhupesh Kurmarsheth & Ors., reported in AIR 1984 SC 1543, wherein the Apex Court rejected the contention that in absence of provision for re-evaluation, a direction to this effect can be issued by the Court. The Apex Court further held that even the policy decision incorporated in the Rules/Regulations providing for rechecking/ verification/re-evaluation cannot be challenged unless there are grounds to show that the policy itself is in violation of some statutory provision. The Apex Court held as under:-

"In our opinion, this approach made by the High Court was not correct or proper because the question whether a particular piece of delegated legislation - whether a rule or regulation or other type of statutory instrument - is in excess of the power of subordinate legislation conferred on the delegate as to be determined with reference only to the specific provisions contained in the relevant statute conferring the power to make the rule, regulation, etc. and also the object and purpose of the Act as can be gathered from the various provisions of the enactment. It would be wholly wrong for the court to substitute its own opinion for that of the legislature or its delegate as to what principle or policy would best serve the objects and purposes of the Act and to sit in judgment over the wisdom and effectiveness or otherwise of the policy laid down by the regulation-making body and declare a regulation to be ultra vires merely on the ground that, in the view of the Court, the impugned provisions will not help to serve the object and purpose of the Act. So long as the body entrusted with the task of framing the rules or regulations acts within the scope of the authority conferred on it, in the sense that the rules or regulations made by it have a rational nexus with the object and purpose of the Statute, the court should not concern itself with the wisdom or efficaciousness of such rules or regulations. It is exclusively within the province of the legislature and its delegate to determine, as a matter of policy, how the provisions of the Statute can best be implemented and what measures, substantive as well as procedural would have to be incorporated in the rules or regulations for the efficacious achievement of the objects and purposes of the Act. It is not for the Court to examine the merits or demerits of such a policy because its scrutiny has to be limited to the question as to whether the impugned regulations fall within the scope of the regulation-making power conferred on the delegate by the Statute.

In our opinion, the aforesaid approach made by the High Court is wholly incorrect and fallacious. The Court cannot sit in judgment over the wisdom of the policy evolved by the legislature and the subordinate regulation-making body. It may be a wise policy which will fully effectuate the purpose of the enactment or it may be lacking in effectiveness and hence calling for revision and improvement. But any draw-backs in the policy incorporated in a rule or regulation will not render it ultra vires and the Court cannot strike it down on the ground that in its opinion, it is not a wise or prudent policy, but is even a foolish one, and that it will not really serve to effectuate the purposes of the Act. The legislature and its delegate are the sole repositories of the power to decide what policy should be pursued in relation to matters covered by the Act and there is no scope for interference by the Court unless the particular provision impugned before it can be said to suffer from any legal infirmity in the sense of its being wholly beyond the scope of the regulation-making power or its being inconsistent with any of the provisions of the parent enactment or in violation of any of the limitations imposed by the Constitution."

21. This view referred to above has been approved, relied upon and reiterated by the Apex Court in the case of Pramod Kumar Srivastava Vs. Chairman, Bihar Public Service Commission, Patna & Ors, reported in J.T. 2004 SC 380 observing as under:

"Under the relevant rules of the Commission, there is no provision wherein a candidate may be entitled to ask for reevaluation of his answer-book. There is a provision for scrutiny only wherein the answer-books are seen for the purpose of checking whether all the answers given by a candidate have been examined and whether there has been any mistake in the totalling of marks of each question and nothing them correctly on the first cover page of the answer-book. There is no dispute that after scrutiny no mistake was found in the marks awarded to the appellant in the General Science paper. In the absence of any provision for re-evaluation of answer-books in the relevant rules, no candidate in an examination has got any right whatsoever to claim or ask for re-evaluation of his marks."

22. This Court feels that sympathy or compassion does not play any role in the matter of directing or not directing re-evaluation of an answer sheets. The law is well settled that the burden is on the candidates, not only to demonstrate that the key answer is incorrect but also to show that it is a glaring mistake which is totally apparent and no inferential process or reasoning is required to show that the key answer is wrong. The Constitutional Courts must exercise great restrain in such matters and should be reluctant to entertain a plea challenging the correctness of the key answers. The Court should not over step its jurisdiction by giving the directions for re-evaluation which would amount to judicially reviewing the decision of the expert in the field.

23. The legal position in this respect has been summarised in case of Ran Vijay Singh and Ors. Vs. State of U.P. and Ors., reported in (2018) 2 SCC 357 which is follows:-

"30. The law on the subject is therefore, quite clear and we only propose to highlight a few significant conclusions. They are:

30.1. If a statute, Rule or Regulation governing an examination permits the re-evaluation of an answer sheet or scrutiny of an answer sheet as a matter of right, then the authority conducting the examination may permit it;

30.2. If a statute, Rule or Regulation governing an examination does not permit re-evaluation or scrutiny of an answer sheet (as distinct from prohibiting it) then the court may permit re-evaluation or scrutiny only if it is demonstrated very clearly, without any "inferential process of reasoning or by a process of rationalisation" and only in rare or exceptional cases that a material error has been committed;

30.3. The court should not at all re-evaluate or scrutinise the answer sheets of a candidate--it has no expertise in the matter and academic matters are best left to academics;

30.4. The court should presume the correctness of the key answers and proceed on that assumption; and

30.5. In the event of a doubt, the benefit should go to the examination authority rather than to the candidate."

24. Undoubtedly, the Courts cannot judicially review the expert opinion unless and until the key answer is patently wrong.

25. There is no doubt that the candidates put in dreadful efforts while preparing for an examination, it must not be unremembered that even the examination authorities as well as experts put in equally great efforts to successfully conduct the examination, therefore the Court must consider the internal checks and balances put in place by the examination authorities before interfering with the efforts put in by the candidates who have successfully participated in the examination and the examination authorities.

26. Therefore, the Court should restrain in interfering with the efforts put in by the candidates as well as the examination authorities unless and until the mistake is apparent on the face of record and no research has to be done in proving the same, as the same will be an unending process resulting in uncertainty and confusion.

27. Keeping in mind the aforesaid, the Court in case of U.P.P.S.C. and Ors. Vs. Rahul Singh and Ors. reported in AIR 2018 SC 2861 has observed as follows:-

"Unless the candidate demonstrate that the key answers are patently wrong on the fact of it, the Courts cannot enter into the academic field, weigh the pros cons of the arguments given by both sides and then come to the conclusion as to which of the answer is better or more correct."

28. Indubitably, conducting and holding of examinations in a most fitting and fair manner is peremptory and is solemn duty of examining body to provide for fair procedure, rules, regulations or bye-laws, keeping in mind that the career and fate of the students depends upon the result of the examinations.

29. A Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in the case of University of Mysore Vs. C.D. Govinda Rao & Anr., reported in AIR 1965 SC 491, has held that where the decision under challenge has been taken by the Committee of Expert, "normally the Courts should be slow to interfere with the opinion expressed by the experts" unless there are allegations of mala fide against any of the Members of the Expert Committee. The Court further observed as under:-

".....It would normally be wise and safe for the Courts to leave the decisions of academic matters to experts who are more familiar with the problems they face than Courts....."

30. It is settled law that when a decision is taken by the Committee of Expert having high academic qualifications and long experience in the specialised field, the Courts should not normally interfere in the matters unless there are compelling circumstances for doing so.

31. The aforesaid issue is also well settled in view of the judgement of Apex Court in case of Bihar Staff Selection Commission Vs. Arun Kumar ,reported in (2020) 6 SCC 362. There are otherwise catena of judgements of Supreme Court holding that in the competitive selection test, prayer for re-evaluation of marks cannot be accepted unless a rule for it exists.

32. Taking into consideration the settled position of law in the matters where the answer key is disputed, this Court in case of Jitendra Singh Vs. Union of India and Another, passed in Writ C No. 53877 of 2017, has held that the Court has to proceed on the assumption and presumption that the answer key is correct as the same is based on experts opinion given by the persons specialised. In the event of any doubt, benefit should go to the examination authority rather than to the candidate. It is with a rider that the Court should not re-evaluate or scrutinize the answer sheets of the candidates as it has no expertise in the matter, the academic matters are best left to the academicians there being no scope of judicial review in the matter.

33. Appropriately, considering the capitulations made by learned counsel for respondent no.2 and law laid down by the Apex Court, established position of law, this Court finds no good ground to interfere in the present petition, the same is accordingly dismissed.

CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE VIVEK KUMAR BIRLA, J.
THE HON'BLE VIKAS BUDHWAR, J.

Writ A No. 6014 of 2022

Pankaj Dhar Dubey ...Appellant
Versus
U.O.I. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Bashist Tiwari, Sri Rajesh Kumar

Counsel for the Respondents:
A.S.G.I., Sri Vivek Kumar Singh

A. Service Law – Promotion – Constitutional Validity - Constitution (42nd Amendment) Act, 1976 - Section 46 - Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 - Sections 5(2), 5(4) & 27 - Central Administrative Tribunal Act, 1985 - Section 17.

Writ jurisdiction in contempt proceedings - Ordinarily the High Court, in the exercise of its powers of judicial review u/Article 226 of the Constitution of India and its power of judicial superintendence u/Article 227 of the Constitution of India, would not interfere with the order of the Tribunal, passed in the exercise of its contempt jurisdiction u/s 17 of the 1985 Act, discharging the contemnors after holding that no case of willful contempt was made out against the respondents. (Para 25)

This Court cannot enter into the merits of the matter as the same is subject to interpretation which can be done on original side as in contempt jurisdiction the Courts of law has to not only uphold the majesty and dignity of the Courts of law but also lift the veil so as to find out as to whether there was willful disobedience of the orders passed on original side and not to function as an original or appellate court for determination of the dispute inter se between the parties. (Para 33)

B. Alternative remedy - It is always open for the petitioner herein to take recourse to the provisions contained u/s 19(v) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 while filing original application before the 5th Respondent challenging the orders negating the claim of the petitioner or depriving the petitioner of his legal and genuine right to be considered for promotion. Even otherwise, from the all four corners of law this Court finds that motion so pressed in service by means of the present writ petition is not even otherwise liable to be entertained under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India particularly when the order itself was conditional subject to existence of vacancy and suitability of the petitioner as per the Rules and once the issue w.r.t. the fact that there remains no vacancy against which the claim of the petitioner would be considered has been raised by the Railways then it was rightly not interfered by the 5th Respondent in contempt proceedings as the Contempt Court cannot go into the merit of the matter as the remedy lies elsewhere and not in contempt jurisdiction. (Para 34)

C. Constitutional Validity - Constitution (Forty-Second Amendment) Act, 1976: Section 46 - The petitioner herein as though raised the issue of constitutional validity of the 42nd Amendment Act, 1976 in so far as it pertains to S. 46 which deals with the matter pertaining to Tribunal, however, neither the UOI nor the respective Secretary to whom the Ministry is to be represented have been made party in the present proceedings. This Court finds that the UOI through General Manager North Eastern Railway has only been arrayed as a party. Thus in the absence of any impleadment of a proper and necessary party this Court cannot delve into the issue regarding constitutional validity so sought to be raised at the behest of the petitioner, leaving it open to the petitioner to challenge the same in appropriate proceedings as and when it is occasioned. (Para 36, 37)

D. The petitioner wants a direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the 5th Respondent to decide the case by constituting a Bench of two members. The writ courts would be well advised to decide the petitions on the points raised in the petition and if in a rare case keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case any additional points are to be raised then the concerned and affected parties should be put to the notice of the additional points to satisfy the principles of natural justice. Parties cannot be taken by surprise. (Para 36)

The present writ petition challenging the order whereby contempt proceedings has been dropped and notices have been discharged is not liable to be interfered in present proceeding and thus it is liable to be dismissed. (Para 38)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

Present petition assails order dated 03.12.2021, passed by Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench, Allahabad.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.
Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Bashist Tiwari, learned counsel assisted by Sri Rajesh Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Vivek Kumar Singh, who has accepted notice on behalf of the respondent no.1-Union of India.

2. In view of the order which is being proposed to be passed today there is no need to issue notice to the respondent nos.2 to 5.

3. This is a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India instituted by the petitioner seeking following reliefs:-

"(i) To issue writ order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 03.12.2021 passed by Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench, Allahabad in Civil Misc. Contempt Petition No.330/00070 of 2010, Pankaj Dhar Dubey v. U.C. Dwadas Shreni and Others (Annexure No.1 to the writ petition) arising out of order dated 06.12.2006 passed by Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench, Allahabad in Original Application No.509 of 2004, Pankaj Dhar Dubey v. Union of India and Others (Annexure No.9 to the writ petition).

(ii) To issue writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding and directing the respondents to give promotion to the petitioner on the post of Lab Assistant in scale of Rs.530-610/- in pursuance of Railway Board's Letter dated 21.01.1984 (Annexure No.3 to the writ petition)

(iii) To issue writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench, Allahabad/respondent No.5 to decide the case by constituting a bench of two judicial members.

(iv) To issue writ order or direction in the nature of declaration declaring Section 46 of the Constitution (Forty-second Amendment) Act, 1976 by which Article 323A has been inserted in the Constitution of India (Annexure No.15 to the writ petition) and Section 5(2) and 5(4) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 (Annexure No.16 to the writ petition) as unconstitutional and ultra vires and struck down the same being violative of Articles 50 and 368 of the Constitution of India and against the basic structure of Constitution of India."

4. On 16.05.2022 following order was passed:-

"On being confronted with the preliminary objection raised by Sri Vivek Kumar Singh, learned counsel appearing for Union of India that the present writ petition against the order dropping the contempt proceedings is not maintainable, Sri Bashist Tiwari, learned counsel for the petitioner although sought to argue on the issue of preliminary objection, however, after some argument he prays that the matter may be adjourned for today and may be listed as fresh after one week so as to enable him to further prepare the matter.

Since this is a nominated matter, therefore, put up this case as fresh on 25th May, 2022, at 2:00 P.M. for which learned counsel for the parties have agreed.

It is made clear that in case learned counsel for the parties are not present, this Court shall proceed to consider and decide the matter on merits."

5. Perusal of the reliefs as sought in the present writ petition it will reveal that the petitioner has insisted that this Court may issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the order dated 03.12.2021, passed by Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench, Allahabad (5th Respondent) in Civil Misc. Contempt Petition No.330/00070 of 2010 in Original Application No.330/00509 of 2004 (Pankaj Dhar Dubey vs. U.C. Dwadas Shreni and two Others) whereby the contempt petition so preferred by the petitioner herein was consigned to record and the notices were discharged on the ground that there had been no willful disobedience on the part of the alleged contemnors, who were joined as opposite parties in the above noted contempt petition. Further relief is also being sought directing the respondents herein to give promotion to the petitioner on the post of Lab Assistant in the pay scale of Rs.530-610/- in pursuance of the Railway Board's Letter dated 21.01.1984 and to further declare Section 46 of the Constitution of India (42nd Amendment) Act, 1976 by which Article 323A has been inserted in the Constitution of India and Sections 5(2) and 5(4) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 as unconstitutional, ultra vires and struck down the same being violative of Articles 50 and 368 of the Constitution of India.

6. Factual matrix of the case as worded in the present writ petition are that the petitioner claims himself to be engaged as Substitute Science Bearer in the pay scale of Rs.2550-3200/- by virtue of the order dated 25.01.2000 passed by the Assistant Personnel Officer, Headquarters, North Eastern Railway, Gorakhpur. Alleging disparity and differential treatment the petitioner filed Original Suit No.1136 of 2003, Pankaj Dhar Dubey vs. Union of India and Others, before the Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench, Allahabad (5th respondent) seeking a direction to be promoted as Lab Assistant in the pay scale of Rs.530-610/-(pre-revised) in pursuance of the Railway Board's Letter dated 21.01.1984. The Original Application so preferred by the petitioner herein came to be decided by the 5th respondent by virtue of the order dated 23.09.2003 while granting liberty to the petitioner to file a fresh representation raising his grievances and the same was directed to be considered by the Railways. The petitioner has further come up with the case that on 17.12.2004 the petitioner was granted temporary status with effect from 23.05.2000 and by virtue of the order dated 28.02.2005 the petitioner was posted as Chaukidar in the pay scale of Rs.2500-3200/- in the Telecommunication Department of Railways.

7. The petitioner herein has further averred that he had instituted Original Application No.509 of 2004 before the 5th respondent being Pankaj Dhar Dubey vs. Union of India and Others seeking following reliefs:-

"(i) To issue an order or direction setting aside the order dated 22.12.2003 passed by C.P. Office, N.E. Railway, Gorakhpur.

(ii) To issue an order or direction commanding the respondents to give promotion to the applicant as Lab Assistant in the scale of Rs.530-610/- in pursuance of Railway Board's letter dated 21.01.1984 after regularizing the applicant in scale of Rs.2550-3200 in Boys Inter College, N.E. Railway, Gorakhpur.

(iii) To issue an order or direction commanding the respondents to give seniority, arrears of salary for difference of pay for the post of Science Bearer and Lab Assistant after completion of one year service from the date of his appointment excluding four months' period."

8. Record reveals that the Original Application No. 509 of 2004 so instituted by the petitioner herein came to be disposed of by Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench, Allahabad on 06.12.2006 with the following directions:-

"8. In the result, the O.A. Is finally disposed of with a direction to the respondents to consider the case of the applicant for promotion to the post of Lab Assistant in the School run by the N.E.R., if there is vacancy and if the applicant is otherwise found suitable under the relevant Rules within a period of six months from the date of certified copy of this order is produced before them. The order dated 22.12.2003 (Annexure-1) is rendered ineffective and will not come in the way of such consideration for promotion. No order as to costs."

9. The petitioner herein has further averred in paragraph 13 of the writ petition that a review application was preferred by the Railways against the order dated 06.12.2006, which was dismissed by the 5th respondent on 10.12.2007 as time barred. The records further reveal that the Railways preferred Writ Petition No.16050/2008 which was dismissed on 27.03.2008. The operative portion of the order is being quoted herein as under:-

"1. Contesting respondent, Pankaj Dhar Dubey, was appointed on casual basis by the petitioners. He filed an Original Application No. 1136 of 2003 before the Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench, Allahabad for his regularization. This was disposed of on 23rd day of September, 2003 directing the petitioners to decide the case of contesting respondent. Petitioners rejected the case of contesting respondent for regulation by the order dated 22nd December, 2003. Contesting respondent filed another Original Application No. 509 of 2004 challenging the order dated 22nd December, 2003, wherein he prayed that he should be regularized as well as promoted to the post of Lab Assistant. During the pendency of the said application, contesting respondent was regularized on Group D post. The Central Administrative Tribunal by its order dated 6th day of December, 2006 has directed the petitioners to reconsider the promotion of contesting respondent. Hence this writ petition.

2. We have hear learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Bashist Tiwari, learned counsel for the contesting respondent.

3. Learned Central Administrative Tribunal under the impugned judgment has sent back the matter to the petitioners for reconsider of the case of the contesting respondent for promotion. Needless to add, this consideration has to be done in accordance with law.

4. In view of the aforesaid, we see no justification to interfere in the matter.

5. This writ petition is dismissed with the aforesaid observations."

10. In the meantime, it appears that a contempt petition was also instituted by the petitioner herein in which the following order was passed:-

"1. Sri A.V. Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondents has stated at the outset that he has filed Review Application prior to filing of Review Application against the order passed in Original Application. Sri B. Tiwari, learned counsel for the applicant states that the said Review Application has been dismissed on the ground of limitation and as such the order of this Tribunal ought to have been complied by the respondents in true spirit.

2. Having heard the counsel for the parties, we are satisfied that ends of justice would be met if the respondents are directed to ensure the compliance of the order of this Tribunal passed in the O.A. within a period of three months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order. In case the compliance is not done within three months, it would be open to the applicant to file fresh contempt petition.

3. In view of the above, the CCP is dismissed. Notices are discharged."

11. Records further reveal that the petitioner herein also instituted an Execution Application under Section 27 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 for execution of the judgment and the order dated 06.12.2006 in which on 18.11.2009 the following order was passed :-

"1. MA (Execution) No. 12 of 2008 : Heard learned counsel for the parties.

2. Applicant filed OA No. 509 of 2004 praying for direction to set aside order dated 22.12.2003 passed by C.P. Office, N.E. Railway, Gorakhpur, to issue an order/direction commanding the respondents to give promotion to the applicant as Lab. Assistant in the scale of Rs. 530-610/- in pursuance to Railway Board's letter dated 21.1.1984 after regularizing the applicant in scale of Rs. 2550-3200/- in Boys Inter College, N.E. Railway, Gorakhpur and for direction commanding the respondents to give seniority, arrears of salary for difference of pay for the post of 'Science Bearer' and Lab Assistant etc. Tribunal vide order dated 06.12.2006, decided OA No. 509 of 2004. Para 5 and 7 of the Tribunal order dated 6.12.2006 is reproduced below :-

"5. We have considered the respective arguments in the context of the applicant's claim for promotion to the post of Lab Assistant. He appears to be correct on the point that the posts of Lab Assistant were created vide letter dated 6.9.1984 (Annexure-9) of General Manager (P) for Boys High School, Gorakhpur, run by N.E.R. There is no clear cut denial from the side of the respondents of the factum of creation of posts of Lab Assistant. The reply does not say that the said posts were subsequently abolished or surrendered or kept in abeyance. Though there is such plea in respect of the post of Science Bearer, which the applicant was holding before 20.1.2003. So to the extent the order dated 22.12.2003 (Annexure-1) says that there are no posts of Lab Assistant in the School run by N.E.R. does not appear to be correct.

7. Sri Srivastava may be correct in saying that the casual worker or worker with temporary status before regularization may not be eligible for promotion to the post of Lab Assistant. As on today, the applicant stands regularized in Group 'D' as Chowkidar, but in a different unit named Signal Communication Microwave. The question is as to whether a Group 'D' employees of this unit will be eligible for promotion to the post of Lab Assistant in the school, run by the N.E.R. The letter dated 21.1.1984 alone does not appear to be sufficient to decide the question as it can be construed both ways. No doubt, para 2 of the letter dated 21.1.1984 does not say that such Group 'D' employees should be of Laboratory or of the School run by the N.E.R. Or of a particular unit. But then the Railways is a big organization divided into different division/units so without knowing the detailed scheme for filling up the post of Lab Assistant in the school of N.E.R., it is difficult to pronounce whether regular Group 'D' employee of a unit, different to the unit where such vacancies may exist, will or will not be eligible for such promotion. We leave it to the authorities concerned to decide the same in the light of the relevant Rules on the subject."

3. A statement is made at the bar that the respondents challenged said order by filing Writ Petition in Allahabad High Court which was dismissed; Contempt Petition against respondent has also been dismissed.

4. Present Execution Application has been filed seeking Execution of the order of Tribunal dated 6.12.2006 (referred to above). The applicant has himself filed copy of order dated 25.4.2008 titled 'Speaking Order', communicated through department letter dated 25.04.2008 (Annexure-5 to the Execution Application). The relevant extract of the said order reads :-

".....I find that at present the applicant belongs to Signal and Telecom department whereas the post of Lab Asst. which was earlier belonging to Railway School is not existing at present as such his claim is not considerable."

5. Perusal of the said order shows that observations made in para no. 7 of the Tribunal order (quoted above) have not been taken into account.

6. In view of the above said speaking order dated 25.04.2008 is set aside with direction to the concerned respondent authority to pass fresh orders (within three months of receipt of certified copy of this order) and comply with order of Tribunal dated 21.12.2003 in O.A. No. 509 of 2004.

7. Execution Application No. 12 of 2008 is disposed of subject to above observations."

12. Eventually, by virtue of the order dated 25.04.2008, the matter pertaining to the promotion of the petitioner was found not in favour of the petitioner herein and accordingly a speaking order was passed by respondent-General Manager North Eastern Railway, Gorakhpur. Thereafter the petitioner herein preferred a Contempt Application No. 70 of 2010 before the 5th Respondent on which on 09.11.2010 notices were issued requiring passing of a conditional order for framing of the charges in case the order passed in Original Application No.509 of 2004 (Pankaj Dhar Dubey vs. Union of India and Others) is not complied with. The said sequence of event occasioned the Railways to prefer Writ-A No.72926 of 2010 (Union of India vs. Pankaj Dhar Dubey and Another) before this Court, which came to be dismissed by this Court on 17.08.2017. The operative portion of the said order is being quoted as under:-

"(23) Further, as observed hereinabove, once the Tribunal itself had issued directions on 22.01.2008 for ensuring the orders for compliance in the contempt to jurisdiction and leaving it open to the respondent no. 1 to file a fresh Contempt Application in the event of non-compliance vide judgment dated 22nd January, 2008, we see no reason over and above the reasons indicated hereinabove as to why the respondent no. 1 could not have filed the Contempt Application when he alleges the order dated 24th February, 2010 to be a contemptuous order which is yet to be examined in the proceedings before the Tribunal.

(24) The Contention raised on merits as to whether the orders of the Tribunal were being capable of complied with or not, is a matter of defence but that by itself cannot be a ground to treat the proceedings initiated under Section 17 to be without jurisdiction or unfounded.

(25) Consequently, for all the aforesaid reasons and the facts in the present case that have emerged, we do not find this to be a case to invoke our extra-ordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India or our supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 thereof so as to preempt the proceedings of contempt on the mere issuance of the notices to the officials of the petitioners."

13. Now by virtue of the order dated 03.12.2021 passed in Civil Misc. Contempt Petition No.330/00070 of 2010 in Original Application No.330/00509 of 2004 (Pankaj Dhar Dubey vs. U.C. Dwadas Shreni and two Others) the same has been consigned to record and notices so issued to the respondents herein have been discharged.

14. Sri Vivek Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no.1-Union of India, at the very outset, has raised a preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the present writ petition before this Court on the ground that the order which is being impugned in the present proceedings is an order discharging the alleged contemnors and not proceeding against them, against which no writ petition under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India lies before this Court. In order to buttress his submission he has cited the following judgments:-

(B) Service Bench No.1793 of 2013 (Dr. P.V. Jaganmohan vs. Union of India), decided on 30th May, 2014.

(c) Writ Petition (S/B) No.590 of 2018 (Dr. Harish Kumar vs. Dr. S.C. Gairola and Others), decided on 20.12.2018

15. On the other hand, Sri Bashist Tiwari, learned counsel for the petitioner has cited the following judgments in order to substantiate his argument that the writ petition lies before this Court in the proceeding under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India even against the order wherein the contemnors are discharged:-

(A) L.Chandra Kumar vs. Union of India (1997) 3 SCC 261

(B) T. Sudhakar Prasad (supra)

(c) Delhi Judicial Service Association, Tis Hazari Court, Delhi vs.

State of Gujarat and Others (1991) 4 SCC 406

(D) Sujitendra Nath Singh Roy vs. State of West Bengal, 2015 AIR SCW 1833

16. Sri Tiwari, learned counsel for the petitioner has sought to argue that in view of the mandate as contained in the judgment of L. Chandra Kumar (supra), this Court in exercise of jurisdiction as envisaged under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India can entertain not only the writ petition so preferred against the order passed by the Central Administrative Tribunal under Section 17 of the Central Administrative Tribunal Act, 1985 but also punish the contemnors in that regard. According to Sri Tiwari, learned counsel for the petitioner the plenary powers so attached to Article 226 of the Constitution of India nowhere puts any embargo or restricts the scope of Article 226 of the Constitution of India so as to denude itself from examining the validity of an order passed by the Central Administrative Tribunal when the Central Administrative Tribunal abstains itself from exercising the powers as conferred under Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunal Act, 1985. Sri Tiwari has further argued that the power so conferred under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India cannot be negated or circumscribed even by a constitutional amendment as the High Court in exercise of the jurisdiction under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India can eliminate the contingency of any injustice/illegality so sought to be committed therein and the power of judicial superintendence is always available with it.

17. Sri Tiwari, learned counsel for the petitioner has further drawn the attention of the Court towards the judgment of T. Sudhakar Prasad (supra) so as to further contend that in the matter of exercise of contempt jurisdiction, if any material irregularity is being committed by the Central Administrative Tribunal then it can be always put to naught and the same can obviously be rectified at the stage of the proceedings under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India. In nutshell, the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is to the extent that the writ petition is maintainable before this Court in case of any order so passed by the Central Administrative Tribunal denuding the exercise of contempt jurisdiction.

18. Sri Vivek Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the Union of India has argued that now the issue with regard to the maintainability of the proceedings under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India against the orders discharging the contemnors and not proceeding against them is no more res integra as in view of the judgments of the Hon'ble Apex Court in T. Sudhakar Prasad (supra) as well as in the case of Dr. P.V. Jaganmohan (supra) and Dr. Harish Kumar (supra), the writ petition does not lie before this Court against the order whereby notices are discharged and the contempt proceedings are dropped by the Central Administrative Tribunal.

19. We have carefully considered the submissions so made by the learned counsel for the parties and have perused the records and we find that the present case does not necessitate the occasion to seek response from the respondents and with the consent of the learned counsel for the parties the present petition is being decided accordingly.

20. The Parliament of India in exercise of powers so conferred therein in order to provide for the adjudication or trial by administrative tribunals of disputes and complaints with respect to recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to public services and posts in connection with affairs of Union or of any State or of any local or other authority within the territory of India or under the control of the Government of India or of [any corporation or society owned or controlled by the Government in pursuance of Article 323-A of the Constitution] and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto enacted an Act by the name and nomenclature of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985. Section 17 which deals with the provisions pertaining to contempt which is being quoted in extenso:-

"17. Power to punish for contempt.--A Tribunal shall have, and exercise, the same jurisdiction, powers and authority in respect of contempt of itself as a High Court has and may exercise and, for this purpose, the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 (70 of 1971), shall have effect subject to the modifications that--

(a) the references therein to a High Court shall be construed as including a reference to such Tribunal;

(b) the references to the Advocate-General in section 15 of the said Act shall be construed,--

(i) in relation to the Central Administrative Tribunal, as a reference to the Attorney-General or the Solicitor-General or the Additional Solicitor-General; and

(ii) in relation to an Administrative Tribunal for a State or a Joint Administrative Tribunal for two or more States, as a reference to the Advocate-General of the State or any of the States for which such Tribunal has been established."

21. As a matter of fact the Parliament has also enacted an Act by the name and nomenclature of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, which also contains various provisions pertaining to initiation of contempt proceedings and culminating them to its terminus point. The issue with regard to the different facet of the Central Administrative Tribunal Act, qua its establishment, constitution and its jurisdiction was subject matter of challenge before the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of L. Chandra Kumar (supra) wherein the Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph nos.90, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98 and 99 has observed as under:-

"90. We may first address the issue of exclusion of the power of judicial review of the High Courts. We have already held that in respect of the power of judicial review, the jurisdiction of the High Courts under Article 226/227 cannot wholly be excluded. It has been contended before us that the Tribunals should not be allowed to adjudicate upon matters where the vires of legislations is questioned, and that they should restrict themselves to handling matters where constitutional issues are not raised. We cannot bring ourselves to agree to this proposition as that may result in splitting up proceedings and may cause avoidable delay. If such a view were to be adopted, it would be open for litigants to raise constitutional issues, many of which may be quite frivolous, to directly approach the High Courts and thus subvert the jurisdiction of the Tribunals. Moreover, even in these special branches of law, some areas do involve the consideration of constitutional questions on a regular basis; for instance, in service law matters, a large majority of cases involve an interpretation of Articles 14, 15 and 16 of the Constitution. To hold that the Tribunals have no power to handle matters involving constitutional issues would not serve the purpose for which they were constituted. On the other hand, to hold that all such decisions will be subject to the jurisdiction of the High Courts under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution before a Division Bench of the High Court within whose territorial jurisdiction the Tribunal concerned falls will serve two purposes. While saving the power of judicial review of legislative action vested in the High Courts under Article 226/227 of the Constitution, it will ensure that frivolous claims are filtered out through the process of adjudication in the Tribunal. The High Court will also have the benefit of a reasoned decision on merits which will be of use to it in finally deciding the matter.

93. Before moving on to other aspects, we may summarise our conclusions on the jurisdictional powers of these Tribunals. The Tribunals are competent to hear matters where the vires of statutory provisions are questioned. However, in discharging this duty, they cannot act as substitutes for the High Courts and the Supreme Court which have, under our constitutional setup, been specifically entrusted with such an obligation. Their function in this respect is only supplementary and all such decisions of the Tribunals will be subject to scrutiny before a Division Bench of the respective High Courts. The Tribunals will consequently also have the power to test the vires of subordinate legislations and rules. However, this power of the Tribunals will be subject to one important exception. The Tribunals shall not entertain any question regarding the vires of their parent statutes following the settled principle that a Tribunal which is a creature of an Act cannot declare that very Act to be unconstitutional. In such cases alone, the concerned High Court may be approached directly. All other decisions of these Tribunals, rendered in cases that they are specifically empowered to adjudicate upon by virtue of their parent statutes, will also be subject to scrutiny before a Division Bench of their respective High Courts. We may add that the Tribunals will, however, continue to act as the only courts of first instance in respect of the areas of law for which they have been constituted. By this, we mean that it will not be open for litigants to directly approach the High Courts even in cases where they question the vires of statutory legislations (except, as mentioned, where the legislation which creates the particular Tribunal is challenged) by overlooking the jurisdiction of the concerned Tribunal.

94. The directions issued by us in respect of making the decisions of Tribunals amenable to scrutiny before a Division Bench of the respective High Courts will, however, come into effect prospectively i.e. will apply to decisions rendered hereafter. To maintain the sanctity of judicial proceedings, we have invoked the doctrine of prospective over-ruling so as not to disturb the procedure in relation to decisions already rendered.

95. We are also required to address the issue of the competence of those who man the Tribunals and the question of who is to exercise administrative supervision over them. It has been urged that only those who have had judicial experience should be appointed to such Tribunals. In the case of Administrative Tribunals, it has been pointed out that the administrative members who have been appointed have little or no experience in adjudicating such disputes; the Malimath Committee has noted that at times, IPS Officers have been appointed to these Tribunals. It is stated that in the short tenures that these Administrative Members are on the Tribunal, they are unable to attain enough experience in adjudication and in cases where they do acquire the ability, it is invariably on the eve of the expiry of their tenures. For these reasons, it has been urged that the appointment of Administrative Members to Administrative Tribunals be stopped. We find it difficult to accept such a contention. It must be remembered that the setting-up of these Tribunals is founded on the premise that specialist bodies comprising both trained administrators and those with judicial experience would, by virtue of their specialised knowledge, be better equipped to dispense speedy and efficient justice. It was expected that a judicious mix of judicial members and those with grass-roots experience would best serve this purpose. To hold that the Tribunal should consist only of judicial members would attack the primary basis of the theory pursuant to which they have been constituted. Since the Selection Committee is now headed by a Judge of the Supreme Court, nominated by the Chief Justice of India, we have reason to believe that the Committee would take care to ensure that administrative members are chosen from amongst those who have some background to deal with such cases.

96. It has been brought to our notice that one reason why these Tribunals have been functioning inefficiently is because there is no authority charged with supervising and fulfilling their administrative requirements. To this end, it is suggested that the Tribunals be made subject to the supervisory jurisdiction of the High Courts within whose territorial jurisdiction they fall. We are, however, of the view that this may not be the best way of solving the problem. We do not think that our constitutional scheme requires that all adjudicatory bodies which fall within the territorial jurisdiction of the High Courts should be subject to their supervisory jurisdiction. If the idea is to divest the High Courts of their onerous burdens, then adding to their supervisory functions cannot, in any manner, be of assistance to them. The situation at present is that different Tribunals constituted under different enactments are administered by different administrative departments of the Central and the State Governments. The problem is compounded by the fact that some Tribunals have been created pursuant to Central Legislations and some others have been created by State Legislations. However, even in the case of Tribunals created by Parliamentary legislations, there is no uniformity in administration. We are of the view that, until a wholly independent agency for the administration of all such Tribunals can be set-up, it is desirable that all such Tribunals should be, as far as possible, under a single nodal Ministry which will be in a position to oversee the working of these Tribunals. For a number of reasons that Ministry should appropriately be the Ministry of Law. It would be open for the Ministry, in its turn, to appoint an independent supervisory body to oversee the working of the Tribunals. This will ensure that if the President or Chairperson of the Tribunal is for some reason unable to take sufficient interest in the working of the Tribunal, the entire system will not languish and the ultimate consumer of justice will not suffer. The creation of a single umbrella organisation will, in our view, remove many of the ills of the present system. If the need arises, there can be separate umbrella organisations at the Central and the State levels. Such a supervisory authority must try to ensure that the independence of the members of all such Tribunals is maintained. To that extent, the procedure for the selection of the members of the Tribunals, the manner in which funds arc allocated for the functioning of the Tribunals and all other consequential details will have to be clearly spelt out.

97. The suggestions that we have made in respect of appointments to Tribunals and the supervision of their administrative function need to be considered in detail by those entrusted with the duty of formulating the policy in this respect. That body will also have to take into consideration the comments of experts bodies like the LCI and the Malimath Committee in this regard. We, therefore, recommend that the Union of India initiate action in this behalf and after consulting all concerned, place all these Tribunals under one single nodal department, preferably the Legal Department.

98. Since we have analysed the issue of the constitutional validity of Section 5(6) of the Act at length, we may no pronounce our opinion on this aspect. Though the vires of the provision was not in question in Dr. Mahabal Ram's case, we a believe that the approach adopted in that case, the relevant portion of which has been extracted in the first part of this judgment, is correct since it harmoniously resolves the manner in which Sections 5(2) and 5(6) can operate together. We wish to make it clear that where a question involving the interpretation of a statutory provision or rule in relation to the Constitution arises for the consideration of a single Member Bench of the Administrative Tribunal, the proviso toSection 5(6) will automatically apply and the Chairman or the Member concerned shall refer the matter to a Bench consisting of at least two Members, one of whom must be a Judicial Member. This will ensure that questions involving the vires of a statutory provision or rule will never arise for adjudication before a single Member Bench or a Bench which does not consist of a Judicial Member. So construed, Section 5(6) will no longer be susceptible to charges of unconstitutionality.

99. In view of the reasoning adopted by us, we hold that Clause 2(d) of Article 323A and Clause 3(d) of Article 323B, to the extent they exclude the jurisdiction of the High Courts and the Supreme Court under Articles 226/227 and 32 of the Constitution, are unconstitutional. Section 28 of the Act and the "exclusion of jurisdiction" clauses in all other legislations enacted under the aegis of Articles 323A and 323B would, to the same extent, be unconstitutional. The jurisdiction conferred upon the High Courts under Articles 226/227 and upon the Supreme Court under Article 32 of the Constitution is part of the inviolable basic structure of our Constitution. While this jurisdiction cannot be ousted, other courts and Tribunals may perform a supplemental role in discharging the powers conferred by Articles 226/227 and 32 of the Constitution. The Tribunals created under Article 323A and Article 323B of the Constitution are possessed of the competence to test the constitutional validity of statutory provisions and rules.

All decisions of these Tribunals will, however, be subject to scrutiny before a Division Bench of the High Court within whose jurisdiction the concerned Tribunal falls. The Tribunals will, nevertheless, continue to act like Courts of first instance in respect of the areas of law for which they have been constituted. It will not, therefore, be open for litigants to directly approach the High Courts even in cases where they question the vires of statutory legislations (except where the legislation which creates the particular Tribunal is challenged) by overlooking the jurisdiction of the concerned Tribunal.Section 5(6) of the Act is valid and constitutional and is to be interpreted in the manner we have indicated."

22. Yet in the case of T. Sudhakar Prasad (supra) the Hon'ble Apex Court had the occasion to consider the proceedings relating to contempt jurisdiction of the Central Administrative Tribunal, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph nos.16 and 17 has observed as under:-

"16. The Constitution Bench invoked the doctrine of prospective overruling and made its directions to come into effect prospectively, i.e., from the date of its judgment.

17. It is thus clear that the Constitution Bench has not declared the provisions of Article 323-A (2)(b) or Article 323-B(3)(d) or Section 17 of the Act ultra vires the Constitution. The High Court has, in its judgment under appeal, noted with emphasis the Tribunal having been compared to like courts of first instance and then proceeded to hold that the status of Administrative Tribunals having been held to be equivalent to court or tribunals subordinate to High Court the jurisdiction to hear their own contempt was lost by the Administrative Tribunals and the only course available to them was either to make a reference to High Court or to file a complaint under Section 193, 219 and 228 of IPC as provided by Section 30 of the Act. The High Court has proceeded on the reasoning that the Tribunal having been held to be subordinate to the High Court for the purpose of Articles 226/227 of the Constitution and its decisions having been subjected to judicial review jurisdiction of the High Court under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution the right to file an appeal to the Supreme Court against an order passed by the Tribunal punishing for contempt under Section 17 of the Act was defeated and on these twin grounds Section 17 of the Act became unworkable and unconstitutional. We do not find any basis for such conclusion or inference being drawn from the judgments of this Court in the cases of Supreme Court Bar Association (supra) or L. Chandra Kumar (supra) or any other decision of this Court. The Constitution Bench has in so many words said that the jurisdiction conferred on the High Courts under Articles 226/227 could not be taken away by conferring the same on any court or Tribunal and jurisdiction hitherto exercised by the High Court now legislatively conferred on Tribunals to the exclusion of High Court on specified matters, did not amount to assigning tribunals a status of substitute for the High Court but such jurisdiction was capable of being conferred additionally or supplementally on any Court or Tribunal which is not a concept strange to the scheme of the Constitution more so in view of Articles 323-A and 323-B. Clause (2)(b) of Article 323-A specifically empowers the Parliament to enact a law specifying the jurisdiction and powers, including the power to punish for contempt, being conferred on administrative tribunals constituted under Article 323-A. Section 17 of the Act derives its legislative sanctity therefrom. The power of the High Court to punish for contempt of itself under Article 215 of the Constitution remains intact but the jurisdiction power and authority to hear and decide the matters covered by sub-section (1) of Section 14 of the Act having been conferred on the administrative tribunals the jurisdiction of the High Court to that extent has been taken away and hence the same jurisdiction which vested in the High Court to punish for contempt of itself in the matters now falling within the jurisdiction of tribunals if those matters would have continued to be heard by the High court has now been conferred on the administrative tribunals under Section 17 of the Act. The jurisdiction is the same as vesting in the High Courts under Article 215 of the Constitution read with the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971. The need for enacting Section 17 arose, firstly, to avoid doubts, and secondly, because the Tribunals are not courts of record. While holding the proceedings under Section 17 of the Act the tribunal remains a tribunal and so would be amenable to jurisdiction of High Court under Article 226/227 of the Constitution subject to the well-established rules of self- restraint governing the discretion of the High Court to interfere with the pending proceedings and upset the interim or interlocutory orders of the tribunals. However any order or decision of tribunal punishing for contempt shall be appealable only to the Supreme Court within 60 days from the date of the order appealed against in view of the specific provision contained in Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 read with Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985. Section 17 of Administrative Tribunals Act is a piece of legislation by reference. The provisions of Contempt of Courts Act are not as if lifted and incorporated in the text of Administrative Tribunals Act (as is in the case of legislation by incorporation); they remain there where they are yet while reading the provisions of Contempt of Courts Act in the context of Tribunals, the same will be so read as to read the word Tribunal in place of the word High Court wherever it occurs, subject to the modifications set out in Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunals Act. Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 provides for appeals. In its text also by virtue of Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 the word High Court shall be read as Tribunal. Here, by way of abundant caution, we make it clear that the concept of intra-tribunal appeals i.e. appeal from an order or decision of a member of a Tribunal sitting singly to a bench of not less than two members of the Tribunal is alien to the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985. The question of any order made under the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 by a member of the Tribunal sitting singly, if the rules of business framed by the Tribunal or the appropriate government permit such hearing, being subjected to an appeal before a Bench of two or more members of Tribunal therefore does not arise. Any order or decision of the Tribunal punishing for contempt is appealable under Section 19 of the Act to the Supreme Court only. The Supreme Court in the case of L. Chandra Kumar has nowhere said that orders of tribunal holding the contemnor guilty and punishing for contempt shall also be subject to judicial scrutiny of High Court under Article 226/227 of the Constitution in spite of remedy of statutory appeal provided by Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act being available.

The distinction between orders passed by Administrative Tribunal on matters covered by Section 14 (1) of Administrative Tribunals Act and orders punishing for contempt under section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act read with Section 17 of Administrative Tribunals Act, is this : as against the former there is no remedy of appeal statutorily provided, but as against the later statutory remedy of appeal is provided by Section 19 of Contempt of Courts Act itself."

23. Notably a Division Bench of this Court sitting at Lucknow had the occasion to consider the issue regarding the maintainability of writ proceedings under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India in the matters wherein challenge was laid to the orders whereby the Central Administrative Tribunal did not proceed with the contempt and discharged the contemnors despite the allegations of the applicant therein that the orders put to compliance were not complied with.

24. In the case of Dr. P.V. Jaganmohan (supra) the Division Bench of this Court has observed as under:-

".....In T. Sudhakar Prasad case (supra), the facts were that a contempt application was moved invoking the contempt jurisdiction of Andhra Pradesh Administrative Tribunal under Section 17 of the Act seeking initiation of proceedings against the Principal Secretary, Irrigation and CAD Department, alleging therein that there was willful disobedience by the contemner of an order passed by the Tribunal in favour of the applicant. The Tribunal initiated the proceedings. The State of Andhra Pradesh and the Principal Secretary filed a writ petition (CWP No. 34841 of 1997) in the High Court of Andhra Pradesh laying challenge to the jurisdiction of the Tribunal to take cognizance of the contempt case. In another matter, an application was also moved invoking contempt jurisdiction of the High Court, without approaching the Tribunal under Section 17 of the Act, and complaining of willful disobedience of an order passed by the Andhra Pradesh Administrative Tribunal. In both the matters, question arose as to whether such proceedings were appropriately maintainable before the High Court or the Administrative Tribunal. The issue has been disposed of by a Division Bench of the Andhra Pradesh High Court holding therein that in view of the decision rendered by the Supreme Court in L. Chandra Kumar v. Union of India [(1997) 3 SCC 261 : 1997 SCC (L&S) 577], Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 does not survive and consequently, the Administrative Tribunals set up under the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 cannot exercise the contempt jurisdiction under Section 17 of the said Act, as the same had become non est under law. The contempt proceedings before the Administrative Tribunal are set aside as being devoid of jurisdiction and the applicants were at liberty to initiate contempt proceedings by following the procedure as applicable to the contempt of subordinate courts provided under the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 and the rules framed thereunder by the Andhra Pradesh High Court. In other contempt application, same view was taken. The said order of the High Court was put to challenge before the apex court and the apex court in Para-16 of the said judgment held as under:

In the aforesaid case, the apex court found that where the remedy of statutory appeal is provided, the appeal shall lie before the Supreme Court only and a categorical finding has been recorded to the effect that any order or decision of the Tribunal punishing for contempt is appealable under Section 19 of the Act to the Supreme Court only. The reliance placed by the learned counsel for the petitioner upon T. Sudhakar Prasad case (supra) is only in respect of the words "while holding the proceedings under Section 17 of the Act the Tribunal remains a Tribunal and so would be amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution subject to the well-established rules of self-restraint governing the discretion of the High Court to interfere with the pending proceedings and upset the interim or interlocutory orders of the Tribunals."

The twin conditions have been taken into consideration and a particular portion of the judgment being relied upon by the counsel for the petitioner is wholly misconceived. Judgment has to be read as a whole and if the judgment is read as a whole, then the only outcome would be that, for punishing for contempt, appeal would be maintainable before the Supreme Court.

In a later case of R.Mohajan (supra), the appellants were not fully implementing the orders, therefore, the Tribunal, vide order dated 23-3-2010, directed for issuance of Rule 8 notice to the contemnors/appellants returnable within two months and directed to list the matter for orders on 3-5-2010. On 30-3-2010, counsel for the contemnors/appellants appeared before the Tribunal and placed on record various documents to show that the orders have been complied with. Not satisfied with the report filed by the Department, the Tribunal passed the order dated 11-6-2010 directing the contemnors/appellants to present before it to receive charges of contempt and adjourned the matter for 30-7-2010. Against the said order, the contenmors preferred an appeal. The apex court taking into consideration L. Chandra Kumar case (supra) and T. Sudhakar Prasad case (supra), came to the conclusion that the appeal was very much maintainable before the Supreme Court and in Para-9 of the said judgment, it was held as under:

"9. In view of the clarification by the three-Judge Bench of this Court in T. Sudhakar Prasad (supra), we reject the objection as to the maintainability of the present appeal and hold the same as maintainable."

So it is clear from the above finding that not only in respect of punishment under the Contempt of Courts Act, but also in respect of interlocutory orders, the appeal has been found to be maintainable by the apex court.

More or less similar question arose before the Supreme Court as to what will be position where a contemner has been discharged from contempt proceedings by the High Court. If the proceedings have been dropped under the Contempt of Courts Act, then whether the appeal would be maintainable before the Division Bench of the High Court as provided under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act or the Special Leave Petition would be maintainable under Article 136 of the Constitution of India.

In the case of Mahboob S. Allibho*y (supra), the facts were that contempt notice was issued and ultimately the proceedings for contempt were dropped* against the contemners. In connection with the said dispute, a notice was issued to the contemners as to why a complaint be not filed against them under Sections 191, 192, 209 and 210 of the Indian Penal Code. The said order was subjected to challenge before the apex court. The apex court found that no appeal would be maintainable against the order dropping proceeding for contempt or refusing to initiate the proceeding for contempt, which is apparent not only from sub-section (1) of Section 19 but also from sub-section (2) of Section 19 which provides that pending any appeal the appellate court may order that if the appellant is in confinement, he be released on bail and the appeal be heard notwithstanding that the appellant has not purged his contempt. While considering the maintainability of the appeal, it was held in the following form:

"4.....This Court in the case of Baradakanta Mishra v. Justice Gatikrushna Misra, C.J. of the Orissa H.C., AIR 1974 SC 2255 : (1975) 1 SCR 524, said: ...Where the court rejects a motion or a reference and declines to initiate a proceeding for contempt, it refuses to assume or exercise jurisdiction to punish for contempt and such a decision cannot be regarded as a decision in the exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt. Such a decision would not, therefore, fall within the opening words of Section 19, sub-section (1) and no appeal would lie against it as of right under that provision.

Again in the case of D.N. Taneja v. Bhajan Lal [(1988) 3 SCC 26, it was said: "The right of appeal will be available under sub-section (1) of Section 19 only against any decision or order of a High Court passed in the exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt. In this connection, it is pertinent to refer to the provision of Article 215 of the Constitution which provides that every High Court shall be a court of record and shall have all the powers of such a court including the power to punish for contempt of itself. Article 215 confers on the High Court the power to punish for contempt of itself. In other words, the High Court derives its jurisdiction to punish for contempt from Article 215 of the Constitution. As has been noticed earlier, an appeal will lie under Section 19(1) of the Act only when the High Court makes an order or decision in exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt. It is submitted on behalf of the respondent and, in our opinion rightly, that the High Court exercises its jurisdiction or power as conferred on it by Article 215 of the Constitution when it imposes a punishment for contempt. When the High Court does not impose any punishment on the alleged contemnor, the High Court does not exercise its jurisdiction or power to punish for contempt. The jurisdiction of the High Court is to punish. When no punishment is imposed by the High Court, it is difficult to say that the High Court has exercised its jurisdiction or power as conferred on it by Article 215 of the Constitution."

No appeal is maintainable against an order dropping proceeding for contempt or refusing to initiate a proceeding for contempt is apparent not only from sub-section (1) of Section 19 but also from sub-section (2) of Section 19 which provides that pending any appeal the appellate court may order that-

(a) the execution of the punishment or the order appealed against be suspended;

(b) if the appellant is in confinement, he be released on bail; and

(c) the appeal be heard notwithstanding that the appellant has not purged his contempt.

Sub-section (2) of Section 19 indicates that the reliefs provided under clauses (a) to (c) can be claimed at the instance of the person who has been proceeded against for contempt of court.

5. But even if no appeal is maintainable on behalf of the person at whose instance a proceeding for contempt had been initiated and later dropped or whose petition for initiating contempt proceedings has been dismissed, he is not without any remedy. In appropriate cases he can invoke the jurisdiction of this Court under Article 136 of the Constitution and this Court on being satisfied that it was a fit case where proceeding for contempt should have been initiated, can set aside the order passed by the High Court. In suitable cases, this Court has to exercise its jurisdiction under Article 136 of the Constitution in the larger interest of the administration of justice."

So the question regarding the maintainability of the writ petition against the discharge of contempt proceedings as held in the above case, the apex court has ruled that the appeal would be maintainable against an order discharging the contemner from contempt proceedings.

In the case of Smt. R.S. Sujatha (supra), the Tribunal issued contempt notice and ultimately convicted the contemner upto the rising of the Court alonwith a fine of Rs.2000/-. The said order was challenged before the Division Bench of Karnataka High Court and the Division Bench of the Karnataka High Court placing reliance upon the case of T. Sudhakar Prasad (supra), came to the conclusion that the appeal would be maintainable before the Supreme Court in such circumstances. In Paragraphs-7 and 8 of the said judgment, the Court held as under:

"7. .....The first portion extracted above is relied on by the learned counsel for the petitioner and the second portion is relied on by the respondents. A careful reading of the decision of the Supreme Court makes it clear that once an order is passed by an Administrative Tribunal punishing a party for contempt, the remedy is only by way of appeal to the Supreme Court under Section 19 of Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 and not by seeking judicial review under Article 226/227 of the constitution. The observation that Tribunal would be amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226/227 of the constitution cannot be read in isolation. In fact similar observations are made in CHANDRA KUMAR also. The said observations should be read with the subsequent statement of law. The mere fact that the order imposing punishment for contempt is passed in violation of principles of natural justice or by not following the procedure contemplated under Section 17 of the AT Act read with the CC [CAT] Rules, would not, by itself, mean that instead of filing an appeal, the party aggrieved can challenge the order in a proceedings under Article 226/227 of the Constitution.

8. Though the order dated 19.12.2002 which is under challenge is passed in a proceedings initiated and pending under Section 19 of the AT Act, it is a final order in so far as the proceedings initiated for contempt are concerned. Therefore, it has to be held that an appeal under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act and not a writ petition under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India is the remedy of the petitioner."

The legal position, which crystallizes from the case laws referred to hereinabove, is that against an order dropping/discharging contempt proceedings, the appeal would be maintainable before the apex court as it cannot be inferred that where no remedy of statutory appeal is provided, then jurisdiction can be created under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India before the High Court. The conviction under Section 19 has to be considered in reference to the discharge proceedings and when the discharge order is without a remedy, then there is no provision for intra court appeal before the Tribunal or the rules framed therein.

The reasoning given in Mahboob S. Allibhoy case (supra) applies with full force in the present case, therefore, we hold that the writ petition against the discharge proceedings would not be maintainable and the appropriate remedy to the petitioner is to approach the apex court by way of appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution of India."

25. Further the High Court of Uttarakhand at Nainital in Dr. Harish Kumar (supra) had also the occasion to consider the maintainability of the writ petition wherein the contempt proceedings were dropped initiated from the orders passed by the Central Administrative Tribunal, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph nos.14, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25 has observed as under:-

"14. In examining this question, it must be borne in mind that a contempt proceeding is not a dispute between two parties. The proceeding is, primarily, between the Court and the person who is alleged to have committed Contempt of Court. The person, who informs the court or brings to its notice that Contempt of such Court has been committed, does not stand in the position of a prosecutor. He simply assists the Court in ensuring that its dignity and majesty is maintained and upheld. It is for the Court which initiates the proceedings to decide, considering the facts and circumstances of the case, whether the person, against whom such proceeding has been initiated, should be punished or discharged [State of Maharashtra vs. Mahboob S. Allibhoy and another[5]]. As the petitioner is merely an informant, who has brought to the notice of the Court that its orders have been violated, he cannot claim to be a person aggrieved by the order passed by the Tribunal discharging the contemnors, and in refusing to punish them on the ground that no case of willful contempt has been made out.

17. A right of appeal is available under Section 19(1) only against any decision or order of a High Court passed in the exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt. The High Court derives its jurisdiction to punish for contempt from Article 215 of the Constitution. Article 215 of the Constitution of India does not confer any new jurisdiction or status on the High Courts. It merely recognises that the High Courts are Courts of Record and, by virtue of being Courts of Record, have inherent jurisdiction to punish for contempt of themselves. Such inherent power to punish for contempt is summary. It is not governed or limited by any rule of procedure excepting principles of natural justice. The jurisdiction contemplated by Article 215 is inalienable. It cannot be taken away or whittled down by any legislative enactment subordinate to the Constitution. The provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 are in addition to and not in derogation of Article 215 of the Constitution. The provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 cannot be used for limiting or regulating the exercise of jurisdiction contemplated by the said Article. (T. Sudhakar Prasad6). The High Court exercises its jurisdiction or power, as conferred on it by Article 215 of the Constitution, when it imposes a punishment for contempt. When it decides not to impose any punishment on the alleged contemnor, the High Court does not exercise its jurisdiction or power to punish for contempt. The jurisdiction of the High Court is to punish. When no punishment is imposed by the High Court, it is difficult to hold that the High Court has exercised its jurisdiction or power as conferred on it by Article 215 of the Constitution. [D.N. Taneja vs. Bhajan Lal[7]; Mahboob S. Allibhoy5].

18. On whether an appeal lies against the order of the Tribunal, punishing the respondents for contempt, the Supreme Court, in T. Sudhakar Prasad6, observed:

".....It is thus clear that the Constitution Bench has not declared the provisions of Article 323-A(2)(b) or Article 323-B(3)(d) or Section 17 of the Act ultra vires the Constitution. The High Court has, in its judgment under appeal, noted with emphasis the Tribunal having been compared to like 'courts of first instance' and then proceeded to hold that the status of Administrative Tribunals having been held to be equivalent to court or Tribunals sub-ordinate to High Court the jurisdiction to hear their own contempt was lost by the Administrative Tribunals and the only course available to them was either to make a reference to High Court or to file a complaint under Sections 193, 219 and 228 of IPC as provided by Section 30 of the Act. The High Court has proceeded on the reasoning that the Tribunal having been held to be subordinate to the High Court for the purpose of Articles 226/227 of the Constitution and its decisions having been subjected to judicial review jurisdiction of the High Court under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution the right to file an appeal to the Supreme Court against an order passed by the Tribunal punishing for contempt under Section 17 of the Act was defeated and on these twin grounds Section 17 of the Act became unworkable and unconstitutional. We do not find any basis for such conclusion or inference being drawn from the judgments of this Court in the cases of Supreme Court Bar Association vs. Union of India, (1998) 4 SCC 409, or L. Chandra Kumar, (1997) 3 SCC 261 or any other decision of this Court. The Constitution Bench has in so many words said that the jurisdiction conferred on the High Courts under Articles 226/227 could not be taken away by conferring the same on any court or Tribunal and jurisdiction hitherto exercised by the High Court now legislatively conferred on Tribunals to the exclusion of High Court on specified matters, did not amount to assigning Tribunals a status of substitute for the High Court but such jurisdiction was capable of being conferred additionally or supplementally on any Court or Tribunal which is not a concept strange to the scheme of the Constitution more so in view of Articles 323-A and 323-B. Clause (2)(b) of Article 323- A specifically empowers the Parliament to enact a law specifying the jurisdiction and powers, including the power to punish for contempt, being conferred on Administrative Tribunals constituted under Article 323-A. Section 17 of the Act derives its legislative sanctity therefrom. The power of the High Court to punish for contempt of itself under Article 215 of the Constitution remains intact but the jurisdictional power and authority to hear and decide the matters covered by Sub-section (1) of Section 14 of the Act having been conferred on the Administrative Tribunals the jurisdiction of the High Court to that extent has been taken away and hence the same jurisdiction which vested in the High Court to punish for contempt of itself in the matters now falling within the jurisdiction of Tribunals if those matters would have continued to be heard by the High Court has now been conferred on the Administrative Tribunals under Section 17 of the Act. The jurisdiction is the same as vesting in the High Courts under Article 215 of the Constitution read with the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971. The need for enacting Section 17 arose, firstly, to avoid doubts, and secondly, because the Tribunals are not "courts of record". While holding the proceedings under Section 17 of the Act the Tribunal remains a Tribunal and so would be amenable to jurisdiction of High Court under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution subject to the well- established rules of self-restraint governing the discretion of the High Court to interfere with the pending proceedings and upset the interim or interlocutory orders of the Tribunals. However any order or decision of Tribunal punishing for contempt shall be appealable only to the Supreme Court within 60 days from the date of the order appealed against in view of the specific provision contained in Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 read with Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985....."

19. The Supreme Court, in L. Chandra Kumar vs. Union of India & others[8], has nowhere said that orders of Tribunals holding the contemnor guilty and punishing for contempt shall also be subjected to judicial scrutiny of the High Court under Article 226/227 of the Constitution, inspite of the remedy of a statutory appeal being available. The distinction between orders passed by Administrative Tribunal on matters covered by Section 14(1) of the 1985 Act and orders punishing for contempt under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act read with Section 17 of 1985 Act is this: as against the former there is no remedy of appeal statutorily provided, but as against the latter, a statutory remedy of appeal is provided by Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act itself. Any order or decision of the Tribunal punishing for contempt is appealable, under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act , only to the Supreme Court. [T. Sudhakar Prasad6; R. Mohajan and others vs. Shefali Sengupta and others[9]]

20. That no appeal is maintainable against an order dropping proceeding for contempt, or in refusing to initiate a proceeding for contempt, is apparent from sub section (1) of Section 19 (Mahboob S. Allibhoy5). Where the Court declines to initiate proceedings for contempt, it refuses to assume or exercise jurisdiction to punish for contempt, and such a decision cannot be regarded as a decision in the exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt. Such a decision would not, therefore, fall within the opening words of Section 19 (l), and no appeal would lie against it as of right under that provision. [Baradakanta Mishra vs. Mr. Justice Gatikrushna Misra C.J. of the Orissa H.C.[10]; Mahboob S. Allibhoy5]. When the finding is that the alleged contemnor did not wilfully disobey the order, there is no order punishing the respondent for violation of the order; and, accordingly, an appeal under Section 19 would not lie. [J.S. Parihar vs. Ganpat Duggar & others[11]]. While an appeal would lie to the Supreme Court, against the order of the Tribunal exercising its jurisdiction to punish for contempt, no appeal would lie against the order of the Tribunal refusing to exercise jurisdiction to punish for contempt.

21. While it is clear that no appeal would lie against the order passed by the Administrative Tribunal refusing to punish the respondents/contemnors in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 17 of the 1985 Act (which confers on them the power of contempt akin to the High Court), the petitioners would contend that, since the power of judicial review exercised by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is a part of the basic structure of the Constitution, the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act or Section 17 of the 1985 Act would not come in its way to set aside the order passed by the Administrative Tribunal refusing to punish the respondents/contemnors for contempt.

22. Subordination of Tribunals and Courts functioning within the territorial jurisdiction of a High Court can be either judicial or administrative or both. The power of superintendence exercised by the High Court under Article 227 of the Constitution is judicial superintendence and not administrative superintendence, such as the one which vests in the High Court under Article 235 of the Constitution over subordinate courts. In L. Chandra Kumar8, the Constitution Bench did not agree with the suggestion that the Tribunals be made subject to the supervisory jurisdiction of the High Courts within whose territorial jurisdiction they fall, as the Constitutional scheme does not require that all adjudicatory bodies, which fall within the territorial jurisdiction of a High Court, should be subject to its supervisory jurisdiction, i.e. the supervision of the administrative functioning of the Tribunals. (T. Sudhakar Prasad6)

23. Administrative Tribunals are alternative institutional mechanisms designed to be no less effective than the High Court, but, at the same time, not to negate the judicial review jurisdiction of Constitutional Courts. The Administrative Tribunals are not assigned a status equivalent to that of the High Court and, for the purpose of judicial review or judicial superintendence, they are subordinate to the High Court. High Courts are creatures of the Constitution, and their Judges hold constitutional office having been appointed under the Constitution. The Tribunals are creatures of statute and their members are statutorily appointed and hold a statutory office. [T. Sudhakar Prasad6; State of Orissa vs. Bhagaban Sarangi[12]]. There is no anathema in the Tribunal exercising jurisdiction of the High Court and in that sense being supplemental or additional to the High Court, but at the same time not enjoying a status equivalent to the High Court, and also being subject to judicial review and judicial superintendence of the High Court. (T. Sudhakar Prasad6).

24. While the powers of the High Court under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India are, no doubt, a part of the basic structure of the Constitution of India (L. Chandra Kumar8), and such a power cannot be negated or circumscribed even by a constitutional amendment let alone legislation - plenary or subordinate, the distinction between existence of the power and its exercise must be borne in mind. The mere existence of a power does not justify the exercise of the power. [Rattan Bai and another vs. Ram Dass and others[13]]. While the powers of judicial review conferred on the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, and the power of judicial superintendence conferred on it under Article 227 of the Constitution of India are, no doubt, extremely wide, its exercise is hedged by self imposed limitations. The High Court would not exercise its power of judicial review akin to that of an appellate Court to hear and adjudicate the writ petition on its merits. In the exercise of its powers of judicial review, the High Court would not substitute its views for that of the Administrative Tribunal to come to a different conclusion or to examine the order on its merits, and hold that the Administrative Tribunal had erred in not punishing the respondents-contemnors. In the exercise of its jurisdiction, under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India, the High Court would also not take upon itself the task of imposing punishment itsjnelf or to direct the Tribunal to do so.

25. Ordinarily the High Court, in the exercise of its powers of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and its power of judicial superintendence under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, would not interfere with the order of the Tribunal, passed in the exercise of its contempt jurisdiction under Section 17 of the 1985 Act, discharging the contemnors after holding that no case of willful contempt was made out against the respondents."

26. Much reliance has been placed upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner upon the judgment in the case of L.Chandra Kumar (supra) so as to contend that this Court can exercise the jurisdiction under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India as there is no fetter to restrict the exercise of the powers under preliminary jurisdiction. However, this Court finds that the judgment in the case of the L.Chandra Kumar (supra) did not deal with the issue regarding maintainability of writ proceedings against the order passed by Central Administrative Tribunal in the contempt jurisdiction whereby the contempt proceedings were closed and the notices were discharged.

27. So far as the reliance and reference so placed upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner in the case of Sujitendra Nath Singh (supra) is concerned, the same is with respect to West Bangal Land Reforms and Tenancy Tribunal refusing to initiate contempt proceedings. More so, the judgment in the case of Delhi Judicial Service Association, Tis Hazari Court, Delhi (supra) is also not applicable as the said judgment does not deal with the provisions of the Contempt of Courts, 1971.

28. Analysis of the judgment of this Court in the case of Dr. P.V. Jaganmohan (supra) will reveal that this Court has mandated that writ petition challenging the order passed by Central Administrative Tribunal dropping the contempt proceedings and discharging the notice is not amenable to the jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution and further in the case of Dr. Harish Kumar (supra) a Division Bench of the Hon'ble High Court at Uttarakhand had opined that ordinarily High Court in exercise of the powers of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India as well as the powers so conferred under Article 227 of the Constitution of India possessing judicial superintendence would not interfere with an order passed by the Central Administrative Tribunal in exercise of its contempt jurisdiction under Section 17 of the Central Administrative Tribunals Act while discharging the contemnours after holding that no case of of willful contempt is made out, however, this Court is proceeding to make analysis of the issue with regard to the fact whether the Tribunal was justified in dropping the charges and discharging the contemnors or not.

29. This Court finds that the order passed in Original Application No.509 of 2004 by the 5th Respondent on 06.12.2006 as extracted above reveals that the original application so preferred by the petitioner herein was disposed of with the direction to the official respondents to consider the case of the petitioner for promotion to the post of Lab Assistant in the School run by N.E.R. if there is any vacancy and if the petitioner herein is found suitable under the relevant Rules, within a period of six months from the date of a certified copy is produced before them and the order so negating the claim of the petitioner dated 22.12.2003 was rendered in effective and was directed not to come in the way of consideration of the claim of the petitioner for promotion. Meaning thereby that the order itself was conditional, however, subject to two essential conditions (a) existence of vacancy (b) suitability of the petitioner under relevant Rules. The order passed by the Contempt Court on 03.12.2021 which is subject matter of challenge before this Court records a specific stand taken by the respondents on the basis of an additional affidavit dated 13.05.2019 that there is no vacancy of Lab Assistant existing with the school run by N.E.R. It has also been recited in the order under challenge that vide order dated 07.11.2017, the petitioner herein has been posted from the post of Chaukidar under Divisional Signal and Telecommunication Engineer/N.E.R./Gorakhpur to Lab Attendant, Level-1 (Grade Pay 1800) in the North Eastern Girls Inter College, Gorakhpur and an order has been passed entitling him financial up-gradation which was due on 24.05.2000 and making admissible to MACPs. The factual position so recited in the order dated 03.12.2021 under challenge has not been disputed by the petitioner and the affidavit so mentioned therein have also not been annexed with the writ petition. More so though allegation has been made in the petition with regard to the fact that there are various posts lying vacant for consideration of the claim of the petitioner for promotion to Lab Assistant while referring to Annexure-14, at page 130 which happens to be the composition of the Railway School Staff but this Court finds inability to even go to the said question particularly in absence of any specific documents as well as the affidavits so filed before the Tribunal. Nonetheless this Court in the case of Santosh Kumar Srivastava vs. The Managing Director, U.P. Rajiya Nirman Nigam Ltd. And others, reported in [(2001) 1 UPLBEC 642) has held in paragraphs 10 to 17 as under:-

"10. Inspite of my anxious consideration, I am not persuaded with the contention for the reason that the direction of this Court was two-fold, firstly to declare the result and secondly to consider their cases for appointment in accordance with law keeping in view the vacancy position. First part of direction has been complied with by declaring the result and, therefore, now the controversy centres round to the second part only. The second part of the order is clear and admits only one interpretation, that to consider them for appointment provided there is vacancy. The order of the Division Bench is "to consider their cases for appointment in accordance with law keeping in view the vacancy position". Therefore, in the absence of vacancy, they are not required to be considered. In order words, consideration of their claim for appointment in the event of their being declared successful, is dependent on the availability of the posts. Respondents in their counter-affidavit have disclosed the existing number of sanctioned posts of Sub-Engineers and the number of Sub-Engineers who are already working in the Nigam (Corporation). It appears that due to financial constraint, the Nigam with the approval of the State Government decided to down size their strength. Consequently, they reduced the posts of Sub-Engineers from 443 to 330. Therefore, the second part of the direction being dependent on the vacancy position, in the absence of any vacancy, was not possible to be carried out and therefore, in the facts and circumstances, it cannot be held that it amounts to deliberate defiance of this Court's order. Respondents have given detailed explanation in their affidavit, which, in my opinion, is convincing and sufficient.

11. It is settled legal position that a selected candidate has no right to the post and he cannot claim appointment as a matter of right but he is only entitled to be considered. In the case in hand, in view of the fact that there was no vacancy and the Nigam has decided not to make any appointment unless the surplus employees are adjusted against the vacancies, in my opinion, it could not be held that the respondents have wilfully flouted the order of this Court. The authorities cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner are also of no help as in the case of Jatinder Kumar and others v. State of Punjab, (supra), the Apex Court has held that a selected candidate has no right to be appointed which could be enforced by mandamus. Similar view was taken in the case of State of Bihar v. Secretariat Assistant Successful Examinees Union, (supra), wherein the Apex Court has quashed that part of the order of the High Court wherein mandamus was issued to make appointment.

12. During the course of submission, Mr. Hajela, learned counsel sought to argue that there was a clear direction of the Division Bench to consider the petitioner against the existing vacancy for appointment. I am afraid such interpretation, if accepted, will amount to restore that part of the judgment of the learned single Judge which has been quashed by the Division Bench. The learned single Judge vide order dated 21.5.1992 directed the Nigam to declare the result of the petitioners within a period of two weeks from the date of filing of the certified copy of the order and in case, they have qualified, the letter of appointment may be issued in their favour within a period of one month from the date of publication of the result. The Division Bench, on appeal, by the Nigam quashed the second part of the order directing to appoint the petitioners in view of the settled legal position that such a direction could not be appropriately issued.

13. In a contempt proceeding, it is to be seen as to whether there is any wilful disobedience or not and if such wilful disobedience is found to be on account of compelling circumstances, the contemner may not be held liable for contempt.

14. In the case of Dushyant Somal v. Sushma Somal, AIR 1981 SC 1026, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under :

"Nor is a person to be punished for contempt of court for disobeying an order of Court except when the disobedience is established beyond reasonable doubt, the standard of proof being similar, even if not the same, as in a criminal proceeding. Where the person alleged to be in contempt is able to place before the Court sufficient material to conclude that it is impossible to obey the order, the Court will not be justified in punishing the alleged contemnor."

15. In the case of Niaz Mohammad and others v. State of Haryana and others, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"9. Section 2(b) of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act') defines "civil contempt" to mean "wilful disobedience to any judgment decree, direction, order, writ or other process of a Court...." Where the contempt consists in failure to comply with or carry out an order of a Court made in favour of a party, it is a civil contempt. The person or persons in whose favour such order or direction has been made can move the Court for initiating proceeding for contempt against the alleged contemner with a view to enforce the right flowing from the order or direction in question. But such a proceeding is not like an execution proceeding under Code of Civil Procedure. The party in whose favour an order has been passed, is entitled to the benefit of such order. The Court while considering the issue as to whether the alleged contemner should be punished for not having complied with and carried out the direction of the Court, has to take into consideration all facts and circumstances of a particular case. That is why the framers of the Act while defining civil contempt, have said that it must be wilful disobedience to any judgment, decree, direction, order, writ or other process of a Court. Before a contemner is punished for non-compliance of the direction of a Court, the Court must not only be satisfied about the disobedience of any judgment, decree, direction or writ but should also be satisfied that such disobedience was wilful and intentional. The civil court while executing a decree against the judgment-debtor is not concerned and bothered whether the disobedience to any judgment, or decree, was wilful. Once a decree has been passed it is the duty of the Court to execute the decree whatever may be the consequence thereof. But while examining the grievance of the person who has invoked the jurisdiction of the Court to initiate the proceeding for contempt for disobedience of its order, before any such contemner is held guilty and punished, the Court has to record a finding that such disobedience was wilful and intentional. If from the circumstances of a particular case, brought to the notice of the Court, the Court is satisfied that although there has been a disobedience but such disobedience is the result of some compelling circumstances under which it was not possible for the contemner to comply with the order, the Court may not punish the alleged contemner."

16. Therefore, before holding guilty for the alleged defiance of the order, the Court is required to take into consideration all facts and circumstances of a particular case and has to be satisfied that such disobedience is wilful, deliberate and intentional before punishing the contemner under the Contempt of Courts Act. If, however, it is found that there is disobedience but such disobedience is on account of some compelling circumstances under which it is impossible for the contemner to comply with the order, the contemner may not be punished. In the case in hand, as noticed earlier, there was only direction to consider the petitioner for appointment in accordance with law keeping in view the vacancy position. In the absence of any va- cancy, there is no occasion to consider the petitioner for appointment and, therefore, no part of the order of this Court can be said to have flouted by the respondent-contemner.

17. Having heard learned counsel for the parties at length and having regard to all the facts and circumstances of the case, in my opinion, there is no wilful obedience on the part of the respondents by not considering their claim for appointment in view of the fact that no vacancy exists. In such a circumstance, it cannot be held that the respondents have wilfully disobeyed the order of this Court and as such liable to be punished for committing contempt of this Court."

30. Yet the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Kapildeo Prasad Sah and Others vs. State of Bihar reported in (1999) 7 SCC 569 had the occasioned to consider the contingency wherein the dispute has arisen with regard to the existence of vacancy, which is coming as a hurdle for granting benefit and the Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraph 10 to 12 has observed as under:-

"10. In his famous passage, Lord Diplock in Attorney General vs. Times Newspapers Ltd. [(1973) 3 All ER 54] said that there is also "an element of public policy in punishing civil contempt, since administration of justice would be undermined if the order of any court of law could be disregarded with impunity". Jurisdiction to punish for contempt exists to provide ultimate sanction against the person who refuses to comply with the order of the court or disregards the order continuously. Initiation of contempt proceedings is not a substitute for execution proceedings though at times that purpose may also be achieved.

11. No person can defy court's order. Wilful would exclude casual, accidental bonafide or unintentional acts or genuine inability to comply with the terms of the order. A petitioner who complains breach of court's order must allege deliberate or contumacious disobedience of the court's order.

12. Nothing has been shown that the claim of the respondents that appellants have not been appointed against any vacancy existing on January 1, 1992 is not true or that the respondents are intentionally or deliberately advancing this plea to deprive the appellants of their right to the arrears of the salary for some ulterior motive. That being so, it was not a case where proceedings for contempt could have been initiated against the respondents. High Court is right in dismissing the contempt petition. However, since there is a serious dispute whether any vacancy existed or not as on January 1, 1992 against which appellants or anyone of them could have been appointed the matter certainly needs examination but perhaps only by way of an interlocutory application in the writ petition and not by way of contempt. Thus, though upholding the order of the High Court, we send the matter back to the High Court to go into the question if any vacancy existed as on January 1, 1992 and, if so, pass appropriate orders."

31. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Jhareswar Prasad Paul and Another vs. Tarak Nath Ganguly and Others reported in 2002 CRI. L.J. 2935 in para 11 has held as under:-

"The purpose of contempt jurisdiction is to uphold the majesty and dignity of the courts of law. Since the respect and authority commanded by the courts of law are the greatest guarantee to an ordinary citizen and the democratic fabric of society will suffer if respect for the juidiciary is undermined. The Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 has been introduced under the statute for the purpose of securing the feeling of confidence of the people in general for true and proper administration of justice in the country. The power to punish for contempt of courts is a special power vested under the Constitution in the courts of record and also under the statute. The power is special and needs to be exercised with care and caution. It should be used sparingly by the courts on being satisfied regarding the true effect of contemptuous conduct. It is to be kept in mind that the court exercising the jurisdiction to punish for contempt does not function as an original or appellate court for determination of the disputes between the parties. The contempt jurisdiction should be confined to the question whether there has been any deliberate disobedience of the order of the court and if the conduct of the party who is alleged to have committed such disobedience is contumacious. The court exercising contempt jurisdiction is not entitled to enter into questions which have not been dealt with and decided in the judgment or order, violation of which is alleged by the applicant. The court has to consider the direction issued in the judgment or order and not to consider the question as to what the judgment or order should have contained. At the cost of repetition be it stated here that the court exercising contempt jurisdiction is primarily concerned with the question of contumacious conduct of the party, which alleged to have committed deliberate default in complying with the directions in the judgment or order. If the judgment or order does not contain any specific direction regarding a matter or if there is any ambiguity in the directions issued therein then it will be better to direct the parties to approach the court which disposed of the matter for clarification of the order instead of the court exercising contempt jurisdiction taking upon itself the power to decide the original proceeding in a manner not dealt with by the court passing the judgment or order. If this limitation is borne in mind then criticisms which are sometimes leveled against the courts exercising contempt of court jurisdiction "that it has exceeded its powers in granting substantive relief and issuing a direction regarding the same without proper adjudication of the dispute" in its entirety can be avoided. This will also avoid multiplicity of proceedings because the party which is prejudicially affected by the judgment or order passed in the contempt proceeding and granting relief and issuing fresh directions is likely to challenge that order and that may give rise to another round of litigation arising from a proceeding which is intended to maintain the majesty and image of courts."

32. In Director of Education, Uttaranchal and others vs. Ved Prakash Joshi and Others reported in 2005 CRI. L.J. 3731, it has been held that while dealing with the application for contempt the Court cannot traverse beyond the order non compliance whereof is alleged. It is held-:-

"It cannot traverse beyond the order. It cannot test correctness or otherwise of the order or give additional directions or delete any direction. That would be exercising review jurisdiction while dealing with an application for initiation of contempt proceedings. The same would be impermissible and indefensible. In that view of the matter, the order of the High Court is set aside."

33. Applying the said judgments in the facts of the case the Court finds that this Court cannot enter into the merits of the matter as the same is subject to interpretation which can be done on original side as in contempt jurisdiction the Courts of law has to not only uphold the majesty and dignity of the Courts of law but also lift the veil so as to find out as to whether there was willful disobedience of the orders passed on original side and not to function as an original or appellate court for determination of the dispute inter se between the parties.

34. Nonetheless, it is always open for the petitioner herein to take recourse to the provisions contained under Section 19(v) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 while filing original application before the 5th Respondent challenging the orders negating the claim of the petitioner or depriving the petitioner of his legal and genuine right to be considered for promotion. Even otherwise, from the all four corners of law this Court finds that motion so pressed in service by means of the present writ petition is not even otherwise liable to be entertained under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India particularly when the order itself was conditional one subject to existence of vacancy and suitability of the petitioner as per the Rules and once the issue with regard to the fact that there remains no vacancy against which the claim of the petitioner would be considered has been raised by the Railways then it was rightly not interfered by the 5th Respondent in contempt proceedings as the Contempt Court cannot go into the merit of the matter as the remedy lies elsewhere and not in contempt jurisdiction.

35. Though this Court has discussed in detail and proceeded to observe that the present case does not warrant interference under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India particularly when the contempt proceedings have been dropped and notices have been discharged against the alleged contemnors and this Court finds that there is no occasion even otherwise to take different view from the view so taken by the 5th Respondent, however, the Court finds that a relief has also been sought to challenge 42nd Amendment for declaring The Constitution (Forty-Second Amendment) Act, 1976 being Section 46 pertaining to Tribunals Under Part XIVA whereby Article 323-A was introduced in so far as it pertains to Section 5(2) and 5(4) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985. Section 5(2) and 5(4) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 reads as under:-

5. Composition of Tribunals and Benches thereof*. (1) Each Tribunal shall consist of 1[a Chairman and such number* of Judicial and Administrative Members] as the appropriate Government may deem fit and, subject to the other provisions of this Act, the jurisdiction, powers and authority of the Tribunal may be exercised by Benches thereof.

[(2) Subject to the other provisions of this Act, a Bench shall consist of one Judicial Member and one Administrative Member.]

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-Section(1), the Chairman--[(a) may, in addition to discharging the functions of the Judicial Member or the Administrative Member of the Bench to which he is appointed, discharge the functions of the Judicial Member or, as the case may be, the Administrative Member, of any other Bench;]

(b) may transfer [a Member] from one Bench to another Bench;

(c) may authorise [the Judicial Member] or the Administrative Member appointed to one Bench Bench to discharge also the functions of [the Judicial Member or the Administrative Member, as the case may be] of another Bench; and]

(d) may, for the purpose of securing that any case or cases which, having regard to the nature of the questions involved, requires or require, in his opinion or under the rules made by the Central Government in this behalf, to be decided by a Bench composed of more than [two members], issue such general or special orders, as he may deem fit.

[Provided that every Bench constituted in pursuance of this clause shall include at least one Judicial Member and one Administrative Member.]"

36. Essentially, while seeking above mentioned relief the petitioner wants a direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the 5th Respondent to decide the case by constituting a Bench of two members. This Court finds that the issue pertaining to establishment and the constitution of Central Administrative Tribunal had already been decided in the case of L. Chandra Kumar (supra) and further in paragraph nos. 97, 98 and 99 (as extracted above) the Hon'ble Apex Court had the occasion to deal with Section 5(2) and 5(4) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985. More so, the petitioner herein as though raised the issue of constitutional validity of the 42nd Amendment Act, 1976 in so far as it pertains to Section 46 which deals with the matter pertaining to Tribunal, however, neither the Union of India nor the respective Secretary to whom the Ministry is to be represented have been made party in the present proceedings. This Court finds that the Union of India through General Manager North Eastern Railway has only been arrayed as a party. Thus in the absence of any impleadment of a proper and necessary party this Court cannot delve into the issue regarding constitutional validity so sought to be raised at the behest of the petitioner. Nonetheless, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of V.K. Majotra vs. Union of India and Others reported in AIR 2003 SC 3909 in paragraph 8 and 9 have clearly observed as under:-

"8. We have perused the pleadings of the writ petition and the counter affidavits filed by the respondents before the High Court. Counsel for the parties are right in submitting that the point on which the writ petition has been disposed of was not raised by the parties in their pleadings. The parties were not at issue on the point decided by the High Court. Counsel for the parties are also right in contending that the point raised in the writ petition was neither adverted to nor adjudicated upon by the High Court. It is also correct that vires of Section 6(2)(b)(bb) and (c) of the Act were not challenged in the writ petition. The effect of the direction issued by the High Court that henceforth the appointment to the post of Vice-Chairman be made only from amongst the sitting or retired High Court Judge or an advocate qualified to be appointed as a Judge of the High Court would be that Sections 6(2)(b)(bb) and (c) of the Act providing for recruitment to the post of Vice-Chairman from amongst the administrative services have been put at naught/obliterated from the statute book without striking them down as no appointment from amongst the categories mentioned in Clauses (b) (bb) and (c) could now be made. So long as Section 6(2)(b)(bb) and (c) remains on the statute book such a direction could not be issued by the High Court. With respect to the learned Judges of the High Court we would say that the learned Judges have over stepped their jurisdiction in giving a direction beyond the pleadings or the points raised by the parties during the course of the arguments. The writ courts would be well advised to decide the petitions on the points raised in the petition and if in a rare case keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case any additional points are to be raised then the concerned and affected parties should fee put to the notice oft the additional points to satisfy the principles of natural justice. Parties cannot be taken by surprise. We leave the discussion here.

9. We are also in agreement with the submissions made by the counsel for the appellants that the High Court exceeded its jurisdiction in issuing further directions to the Secretary, Law Department, Union of India, the secretary Personnel and Appointment Department, Union of India, the Cabinet Secretary of Union of India and to the Chief Secretary of the U.P. Government as also to the Chairman of the CAT and other appropriate authorities that henceforth the appointment to the post of presiding officer of various other Tribunals such as CEGAT, Board of Revenue, Income Tax Appellate Tribunal etc., should be from amongst the judicial members alone. Such a finding could not be recorded without appropriate pleadings and notifying the concerned and affected parties."

37. Thus taking into aforesaid factual and legal aspect this Court is not delving into the issue regarding challenge to the constitutional provisions so laid in the present petition leaving it open to the petitioner to challenge the same in appropriate proceedings as and when it is occasioned.

38. Accordingly, this Court is of the firm opinion that the present writ petition so preferred by the petitioner challenging the order whereby contempt proceedings has been dropped and notices have been discharged is not liable to be interfered in present proceeding and thus it is liable to be dismissed.

39. Resultantly, it is dismissed.

40. Interim order if any stands discharged.

41. Cost made easy.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE VIVEK KUMAR BIRLA, J.
THE HON'BLE VIKAS BUDHWAR, J.

Writ A No. 6334 of 2022

Smt. Poonam Rani ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Chandra Jeet Yadav

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Constitutional validity - Misconduct – Dismissal/Removal - Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 - Sections 7 & 13(1)(d) read with Section 13(2) - Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 - Rule 3-B(iv).

Locus standi – This Court has laid down in a number of decisions that in order to have the locus standi to invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction u/Article 226, an applicant should ordinarily be one who has a personal or individual right in the subject matter of the application, though (1) the case of some of the writs like habeas corpus or quo warranto this rule is relaxed or modified. In other words, as a general rule, infringement of some legal right or prejudice to some legal interest in hearing the petitioner is necessary to give him a locus standi in the matter. (Para 12 to 15)

The present case also does not come within the parameters of Public Law Litigation and further the issue so sought to be raised by the petitioner is not of any public importance. The present case is nothing but the proceedings relating to Public Interest Litigation in service matters which as per the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court is not maintainable. (Para 23, 24)

B. Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999: Rule 3-B(iv) - Constitutional Validity - It is the settled principal of law that in case any party asserts and assails the validity of a provision on the ground that it is violative of Article 309 and 311 of the Constitution of India then it is for the said party to not only make necessary pleadings but also adduce materials to show that the same is in violation of Article 309 and 311 of the Constitution of India. Even otherwise the presumption is always that legislature understands and correctly appreciates the need of the people and in order to rebut the said presumption, the onus is upon the party who alleges it to be unconstitutional. (Para 28)

The Court should try to sustain its validity to the extent possible. It should strike down the enactment only when it is not possible to sustain it. The Court should not approach the enactment with a view to pick holes or to search for defects of drafting, much less inexactitude of language employed. Indeed, any such defects of drafting should be ironed out as part of the attempt to sustain the validity/constitutionality of the enactment. After all, an Act made by the Legislature represents the will of the people and that cannot be lightly interfered with. The unconstitutionality must be plainly and clearly established before an enactment is declared as void. (Para 31)

Grounds on which the constitutional validity can be challenged - The Constitutional validity of Act can be challenged only on two grounds namely (i), lack of legislative competence and (ii) violation of any of the fundamental rights guaranteed in Part-III of the Constitution. A third exception was carved out with regard to the fact that the Courts of law can even hold the statutory enactment to be ultra vires, where there is "manifest arbitrariness". (Para 35)

C. In view of the provisions contained under Article 309 and 311 of the Constitution of India, the conditions of services takes within its ambit, the cases of dismissal or removal from service. A conjoint reading of Articles 309 and 311 reveals that Article 311 is confined to the cases wherein an inquiry has been commenced against an employee and an action of penal nature is sought to be taken. Whereas, Article 309 covers the broad spectrum of conditions of service and holds a wider ground as compared to Article 311. That would also include conditions of service beyond mere dismissal, removal or reduction in rank. It holds merit to St. that this wide ground contemplated u/Article 309 also takes in its sweep the conditions regarding termination of service including compulsory retirement. The expression "conditions of service" takes within its sweep the cases of dismissal or removal from service. (Para 49, 50)

The penalties of dismissal and removal is nowhere foreign in service jurisprudence as the said penalties amongst others finds its presence in almost all the disciplinary Rules throughout the various services and there difference is widely accepted. (Para 51)

D. The distinction between 'dismissal' and 'removal' - Under the Constitution 'removal' and 'dismissal' stand on the same footing except as to future employment. In this sense removal is but a species of dismissal. Mentioning thereby that by no stretch of imagination it can be said that attachment of a disqualification of future employment can there be said to be ultra-virus, arbitrary or discriminatory. (Para 52, 54)

E. Words and Phrases – 'person aggrieved' - The words 'person aggrieved' do not really means a man who is disappointed of a benefit which he might have received if some other order had been made. A 'person aggrieved' must be a man who has suffered a legal grievance, 'a man against whom a decision has been pronounced which has wrongfully deprived him of something, or wrong fully refused him something, or wrongfully affected his title to something. (Para 12)

FACTS

2. Factual matrix of the case as worded in the writ petition are that the petitioner Smt. Poonam Rani claims herself to be the the wife of Sri Yogesh Kumar, who was posted as Junior Engineer in Paschimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Victoria Park, Meerut. Records reveal that certain allegations were levelled against his performance while discharging official duty which occasioned laying of a trap pursuant whereto, he was found indulged in corruption coupled with misconduct pursuant whereto a Criminal Case No.11 of 2018 was registered on 19.1.2018 purported to be under Sections 7, 13(1)(d) read with Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 (In short Act of 1988) Police Station Mainather, District Moradabad and thereafter a first information report was also lodged and proceedings for prosecution was also drawn and he was placed under suspension on 22.1.2018. Sanction was also proceeded to be obtained under Section 17 of the Act of 1988 which was accorded on 15.2.2018. Simultaneously, a charge sheet was also issued to the petitioner by the Disciplinary Authority on 6.8.2019 and thereafter one Sri Pramod Gogneya was appointed as the Enquiry Officer and regular departmental enquiry was conducted by the Enquiry Officer, who in turn tendered its enquiry report on 6.1.2021 holding the husband of the petitioner guilty of the two charges which was sought to be levelled upon it. Ultimately, on 7.7.2021 an order was passed whereby the husband of the petitioner was dismissed from services.

3. Sri Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner has made a statement at bar that the order dated 7.7.2021 dismissing the husband of the petitioner has been further carried in a departmental appeal before the appellate authority which is stated to be pending.

4. The petitioner herein claiming herself to be the wife of Yogesh Kumar, who had been dismissed by virtue of order dated 7.2.2021 has approached this Court while filing the present petition seeking following reliefs:-

(I) Interpret the JUSTICE, Social, Economic and Political provided in the preamble of the Constitution of India, Article 309 and 311 of the Constitution of India, in the contest of the involved substantial question of law as to interpretation of this Constitution framed as follows:

(a) Does word "Dismissal" used under Article 311 of the Constitution of India includes impression or sprit or means of "Dismissal from the Service which disqualify from future employment" or penalty provided under Rule 3-B-(iv) of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rule, 1999 stands repugnant/ inconsistent to the impression or sprit or means to the word "Dismissal" used under Article 311 of the Constitution of India?

(b) Does in exercise of powers conferred by the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India, its permissible or within jurisdiction to amend/modify/alter/identify or clarify the word "Dismissal" used under Article 311 of the Constitution of India as "Dismissal from the service which disqualify from future employment" and "Dismissal from service which does not disqualify from employment" as designed amended/modified/altered/ identified and clarified vide Rule 3-B-(iii) and (iv) of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal), Rules, future and 1999 or not?

(c) Does proviso of Article 309 of the Constitution of India creates jurisdiction/authority to design "Rules" which may regulate the future of the persons appointed to public services and posts in connection with affairs of the union or of any State, after dismissal of service or penalty provided under Rule 3-B-(iv) of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal), Rules, 1999 or Rule 3-B-(iv) of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal), Rules, 1999 is repugnant/ inconsistent to the earlier/basic part of Article 309 of the Constitution of India specified as "Subject to the provisions of this Constitution Acts of the appropriate legislature may regulate the recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to public services and posts in connection with affairs of Union or of any State?

(d) Does Rule 3-B-(iv) framed under the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal), Rules, 1999 in exercise of the powers conferred by the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India and in suppression of the Civil Service (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, 1930 and Punishment and Appeal Rules for Subordinate Service Uttar Pradesh, 1932 is in accordance with jurisdiction/authority/ limits prescribed as "Subject to the provisions of this Constitution, Acts of the appropriate legislature may regulate the condition of service of persons appointed to the public services and posts in connection with affairs of the Union or of any the State" under Article 309 of the Constitution of India?

the family members/dependents of a Government Servant?

(f) Does designing of penalty and empowerment of the appointing authority/ disciplinary authority with "Dismissal from the service which disqualify from the future employment" in exercise of the powers conferred by the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution, substantially makes appointing authority/disciplinary authority as supreme controller of life and dignity of a Government servant and his family members/dependents, even after dismissal from service and consequence whereof a Government servant becomes life time slaves of appointing authority/disciplinary authority after dismissal of services?

(g) Does after making "Rules" in exercise of power conferred by the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution, the necessity of making "Acts" of/by appropriate legislation may regulate the recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to the public services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or of any State comes to an end or continuance of such Rules is in conflict to the Article 85 to Article 111 and Article 174 to Article 200 of the Constitution of India or not?

(II) Issue an order or direction in the nature of "Public Law Litigation" to restrain appointing authorities/disciplinary PALIEKAMARRAORTAROAK authorities or other competent authorities from imposing and implementing penalty provided under 3-B-(iv) of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal), Rules, 1999 upon any Government servant.

(III) Issue an order or direction in the nature of "Public Law Litigation" commanding to appointing or other competent authorities/disciplinary authorities authorities, to protect the rights guaranteed to the family members/ dependents of the Government servants through preamble of the Constitution, Article 14 and 21 of the Constitution of India, Article 5, 23(i) and 25(ii) of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 from despotism of Rule 3-B-(iv) of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal), Rules, 1999.

(IV)Issue an order or direction in the nature of "Public Law terminate Litigation" to the relationship of supreme controller of life and dignity of a Government servant and slaves arising out from imposition of penalty provided under Rule 3-B-(iv) of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal), Rules, 1999 by the appointing authorities/ disciplinary authorities or other competent authorities and maintain the relationship of employer and employee.

(V) Issue an appropriate order or direction to declare the penalty provided under Rule 3-B-(iv) of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal), Rules, 1999 as void ab initio/ultra vires to preamble of the Constitution, Article 13, 14, 21 and 311 of the Constitution of India.

(VI) Issue any suitable order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the fact and circumstances of the instant case.

(VII) Award cost of the petition in favour of the petitioner.

5. Sri Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner has made manifold submissions namely:-

(a) The provisions contained under Rule 3-B-(iv) of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 (In short of the Rules, 1999) in so far as it provides that in case of dismissal from service then it would disqualify from further employment is ultra-virus of Article 309 read with 311 of the Constitution of India.

(b) Article 311 of the Constitution of India nowhere envisages any differential treatment or differentiation with respect to disqualification from future employment in the case of dismissal vis-a-vis penalty of removal where there is no disqualification for future employment and thus Rule 3-B-(iv) of the Rules, 1999 is ultra-virus.

(c) The petitioner herein though is the wife of a dismissed employee (Yogesh Kumar) but in view of the doctrine so enunciated by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Raju Ramsingh Vasave Vs. Mahesh Deorao Bhivapurkar and others (2008) 9 SCC 54, the writ petition so instituted by the petitioner herein is maintainable as the petitioner has locus standi to institute the present petition.

6. Elaborating the first submission, learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that once Article 311 of the Constitution of India itself provides for imposition of punishment of dismissal or removal or reduction in rank without containing any fetters with respect to any disqualification so attached thereto, then 1999 Rules which have been enacted under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India cannot provide for any disqualification in case an officer or employee is visited with the punishment of dismissal while putting a condition disqualifying him or her from future employment.

7. Sri Yadav, in order to buttress his submission with respect to locus standi has invited the attention of the Court towards the judgment in the case of Raju Ramsingh Vasave (Supra) while referring to paragraph 45 of the judgment so as to further contend that the present case falls within the domain of Public Law Litigation (PLL) as the same may not be a subject matter of public interest litigation and as an issue relatable to public importance is being raised then this Court can suo motu exercise its jurisdiction.

8. Sri Mourya, learned Standing Counsel has refuted the submissions of Sri Yadav, who appears for the petitioner while arguing that the present writ petition is nothing but a public interest litigation involving matters pertaining to service issues and further the petitioner has no legal right to maintain the present petition as even otherwise no cause of action has arisen.

9. According to Sri Mourya learned Standing Counsel once the dismissed employee being the husband of the petitioner is not before this Court and he has availed his remedy before appellate authority by filing appeal against the dismissal order as stated by the learned counsel for the petitioner then this petition need not further retain the board and the same is liable to be dismissed with heavy cost.

POINTS OF DETERMINATION

(a) Locus standi of the petitioner to institute and maintain the proceeding under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

(b) The issue relating to constitutional validity of Rule 3-B-(iv) of the Rules, 1999.

DISCUSSION

10. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record and with the consent of the parties, the present petition is being decided without seeking any response from the respondents.

11. A question arises as to whether the petitioner qualifies the definition of an aggrieved person or not in order to not only institute but to maintain the present petition. To answer the said question, the petitioner has to show herself to be an aggrieved party so as to have some interest while putting into motion the present proceedings.

12. The words "aggrieved person" have subject matter of judicial scrutiny in empty number of judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court. To start with reference is being made to the case of Jasbhai Motibhai Desai Vs. Roshan Kumar, Haji Bashir Ahmed and others (1976) 1 SCC 671 paragraphs 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 30, 34 & 37 quoted hereunder:-

"12. According to most English decisions, in order to have the locus standi to invoke certiorari jurisdiction, the petitioner should be an "aggrieved person" and, in a case of defect of jurisdiction, such a petitioner will be entitled to a writ of certiorari as a matter of course, but if he does not fulfil that character, and is a "stranger", the Court will, in its discretion, deny him this extraordinary remedy, save in very special circumstances.

13. This takes us to the further question: Who is an "aggrieved per son" and what are the qualifications requisite for such a status ? The expression "aggrieved person" denotes an elastic, and, to an extent, an elusive concept. It cannot be confined within the bounds of rigid, exact and comprehensive definition. At best, its features can be described in a broad, tentative manner. Its scope and meaning depends on diverse, variable factors such as the content and intent of the statute of which contravention is alleged, the specific circumstances of the case, the nature and extent of the petitioner's interest, and the nature and extent of the prejudice or injury suffered by him. English Courts have sometimes put a restricted and sometimes a wide construction on the expression "aggrieved person". However, some general tests have been devised to ascertain whether an applicant is eligible for this category so as to have the necessary locus standi or 'standing' to invoke certiorari jurisdiction.

14. We will first take up that line of cases in which an "aggrieved person" has been held to be one who has a more particular or peculiar interest of his own beyond that of the general public, in seeing that the law is properly administered. The leading case in this line in Queen v. Justices of Surrey(1) decided as far back as 1870. There, on the application by the highway board the Justices made certificates that certain portions of three roads were unnecessary. As a result, it was ordered that the roads should cease to be repaired by the parishes.

15. E, an inhabitant of one of the parishes, and living in the neighbourhood of the roads, obtained a rule for a certiorari to bring up the orders and certificates for the purpose of quashing them on the ground that they were void by reason of the notices not having been affixed at the places required by law. On the point of locus standi (following an earlier decision Hex v. Taunton St. Mary(2), the Court held that though a certiorari is not a writ of course, yet as the applicant had by reason of his local situation a peculiar grievance of his own, and was not merely applying as one of the public, he was entitled to the writ ex debito justitiae.

16. It is to be noted that in this case was living in the neighbourhood of the roads were to be abandoned as a result of the certificates issued by the Justices. He would have suffered special inconvenience by the abandonment. Thus had shown a particular grievance of his own beyond some inconvenience suffered by the general public. He had a right to object to the grant of the Certificate. Non-publication of the notice at all the places in accordance with law, had seriously prejudiced him in the exercise of that legal right.

30. Typical of the cases in which a strict construction was put on the expression "person aggrieved", is Buxton and ors. v. Minister of Housing and Local Government(4). There, an appeal by a Company against the refusal of the Local Planning Authority of permission to develop land owned by the Company by digging chalk, was allowed by the Minister. Owners of adjacent property applied to the High Court under s. 31(1) of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1959 to quash the decision of the Minister on the ground that the proposed operations by the company would injure their land, and that they were 'persons aggrieved' by the action of the Minister. It was held that the expression 'person aggrieved' in a statute meant a person who had suffered a legal grievance; anyone given the right under Section 37 of the Act of 1959 to have his representation considered by the Minister was a person aggrieved, thus Section 31 applied, if those rights were infringed; but the applicants had no right under the statute, and no legal rights had been infringed and therefore they were not entitled to challenge the Minister's decision. Salmon J. quoted with approval these observations of James T. J. in In Re Sidebothem:-

"The words 'person aggrieved' do not really means a man who is disappointed of a benefit which he might have received if some other order had been made. A 'person aggrieved' must be a man who has suffered a legal grievance,`a man against whom a decision has been pronounced which has wrongfully deprived him of something, or wrong fully refused him something, or wrongfully affected his title to something."

34. This Court has laid down in a number of decisions that in order to have the locus standi to invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226, an applicant should ordinarily be one who has a personal or individual right in the subject matter of the application, though (1) the case of some of the writs like habeas corpus or quo warranto this rule is relaxed or modified. In other words, as a general rule, in fringement of some legal right or prejudice to some legal interest in hearing the petitioner is necessary to give him a locus standi in the matter.

37. It will be seen that in the context of locus standi to apply for a writ of certiorari, an applicant may ordinarily fall in any of these categories: (i) 'person aggrieved'; (ii) 'stranger'; (iii) busybody or meddlesome interloper. Persons in the last category are easily distinguishable from those coming under the first two categories. Such persons interfere in things which do not concern them. They masquerade as crusaders for justice. They pretend to act in the name of Pro Bono Publico, though they have no interest of the public or even of their own to protect. They indulge in the pastime of meddling with the judicial process either by force of habit or from improper motives. Often, they are actuated by a desire to win notoriety or cheap popularity; while the ulterior intent of some applicants in this category, may be no more than spoking the wheels of administration. The High Court should do well to reject the applications of such busybodies at the threshold."

13. In Thammanna Vs. K Veera Reddy and others (1980) 4 SCC 62 paragraphs 15, 16 & 17 are quoted hereunder:-

"15. It was not obligatory for the Election-Petitioner to join the appellant as a respondent. There were no allegations or claims in the election-petition which would attract Section 82 of the Act. From that point of view, the appellant was not a necessary party to be impleaded. Of course, if the appellant had made an application within the time prescribed, in compliance with Section 86(4) of the Act, the Court would have been bound to join him as a respondent. But the question of Section 86 (4) coming into play never arose as the Election-Petitioner had already impleaded the appellant as Respondent 5 in the election- petition. Even so, Respondent 5 did not join the controversy. He neither joined issue with the contesting respondent 1, nor did he do anything tangible to show that he had made a common cause with the Election-Petitioner against Respondent 1. In fact, the only parties between whom the matters in controversy were at issue, were the Election- Petitioner and Respondent 1. The other respondents, including the appellant, did not participate or side with either contestant in that controversy.

16. Although the meaning of the expression "person aggrieved" may vary according to the context of the statute and the facts of the case, nevertheless, normally "a 'person aggrieved' must be a man who has suffered a legal grievance, a man against whom a decision has been pronounced which has wrongfully deprived him of something or wrongfully refused him something or wrongfully affected his title to something."

17. In the face of the stark facts of the case, detailed above, it is not possible to say that the appellant was aggrieved or prejudicially affected by the decision of the High Court, dismissing the election-petition.

14. In Dr Duryodhan Sahu and others Vs. Jitendra Kumar Mishra and others (1998) 7 SCC 273 paragraphs 16 & 17 are quoted hereunder:-

16. In Thammanna versus K. Veera Reddy and other (1980) 4 S.C.C. 62 it was held that although the meaning of the expression 'person aggrieved' may vary according to the context of the statute and the facts of the case, nevertheless normally, a person aggrieved must be a man who has suffered a legal grievance, a man against whom a decision has been pronounced which has wrongfully deprived him of something or wrongfully refused him something or wrongfully affected his title to something.

17. In Jasbhai Motibhai Desai Versus Roshan Kumar Haji Bashir Ahmed and others (1976) 1.S.C.C. 671 the Court held that the expression 'aggrieved person' donotes an elastic, and to an extent, an elusive concept. The Court observed:

"...It cannot be confined within the bounds of a rigid, exact, and comprehensive definition. At best, its features can be described in a broad tentative manner. Its scope and meaning depends on diverse, variable factors such as the content and intent of the statue of which contravention is alleged, the specific circumstances of the case, the nature and extent of the petitioner's interest, and the nature and extent of the prejudice or injury suffered by him'.

15. In Ayaaubkhan Noorkhan Pathan Vs. State of Maharashtra and others (2013) 4 SCC 465 paragraphs 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17 are quoted herein under:-

"9. It is a settled legal proposition that a stranger cannot be permitted to meddle in any proceeding, unless he satisfies the Authority/Court, that he falls within the category of aggrieved persons. Only a person who has suffered, or suffers from legal injury can challenge the act/action/order etc. in a court of law. A writ petition under Article 226of the Constitution is maintainable either for the purpose of enforcing a statutory or legal right, or when there is a complaint by the appellant that there has been a breach of statutory duty on the part of the Authorities. Therefore, there must be a judicially enforceable right available for enforcement, on the basis of which writ jurisdiction is resorted to. The Court can of course, enforce the performance of a statutory duty by a public body, using its writ jurisdiction at the behest of a person, provided that such person satisfies the Court that he has a legal right to insist on such performance. The existence of such right is a condition precedent for invoking the writ jurisdiction of the courts. It is implicit in the exercise of such extraordinary jurisdiction that, the relief prayed for must be one to enforce a legal right. Infact, the existence of such right, is the foundation of the exercise of the said jurisdiction by the Court. The legal right that can be enforced must ordinarily be the right of the appellant himself, who complains of infraction of such right and approaches the Court for relief as regards the same. State of West Bengal & others, AIR 1962 SC 1044; Rajendra Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1996 SC 2736; and Tamilnad Mercantile Bank Shareholders Welfare Association (2) v. S.C. Sekar & Ors., (2009) 2 SCC 784).

10. A "legal right", means an entitlement arising out of legal rules. Thus, it may be defined as an advantage, or a benefit conferred upon a person by the rule of law. The expression, "person aggrieved" does not include a person who suffers from a psychological or an imaginary injury; a person aggrieved must therefore, necessarily be one, whose right or interest has been adversely affected or jeopardised. (Vide: Shanti Kumar R. Chanji v. Home Insurance Co. of New York, AIR 1974 SC 1719; and State of Rajasthan & Ors. v. Union of India & Ors., AIR 1977 SC 1361).

11. In Anand Sharadchandra Oka v. University of Mumbai, AIR 2008 SC 1289, a similar view was taken by this Court, observing that, if a person claiming relief is not eligible as per requirement, then he cannot be said to be a person aggrieved regarding the election or the selection of other persons.

12. In A. Subhash Babu v. State of A. P. , AIR 2011 SC 3031, this Court held:

"The expression "aggrieved person' denotes an elastic and an elusive concept. It cannot be confined within the bounds of a rigid, exact and comprehensive definition. Its scope and meaning depends on diverse, variable factors such as the content and intent of the statute of which contravention is alleged, the specific circumstances of the case, the nature and extent of complainant's interest and the nature and the extent of the prejudice or injury suffered by the complainant."

13. This Court, even as regards the filing of a habeas corpus petition, has explained that the expression, "next friend' means a person who is not a total stranger. Such a petition cannot be filed by one who is a complete stranger to the person who is in alleged illegal custody.

14. This Court has consistently cautioned the courts against entertaining public interest litigation filed by unscrupulous persons, as such meddlers do not hesitate to abuse the process of the court. The right of effective access to justice, which has emerged with the new social rights regime, must be used to serve basic human rights, which purport to guarantee legal rights and, therefore, a workable remedy within the framework of the judicial system must be provided. Whenever any public interest is invoked, the court must examine the case to ensure that there is in fact, genuine public interest involved. The court must maintain strict vigilance to ensure that there is no abuse of the process of court and that, "ordinarily meddlesome bystanders are not granted a Visa". Many societal pollutants create new problems of non-redressed grievances, and the court should make an earnest endeavour to take up those cases, where the subjective purpose of the lis justifies the need for it.

16. In Ghulam Qadir v. Special Tribunal & Ors., (2002) 1 SCC 33, this Court considered a similar issue and observed as under:- "There is no dispute regarding the legal proposition that the rights under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can be enforced only by an aggrieved person except in the case where the writ prayed for is for habeas corpus or quo warranto. Another exception in the general rule is the filing of a writ petition in public interest. The existence of the legal right of the petitioner which is alleged to have been violated is the foundation for invoking the jurisdiction of the High Court under the aforesaid article. The orthodox rule of interpretation regarding the locus standi of a person to reach the Court has undergone a sea change with the development of constitutional law in our country and the constitutional Courts have been adopting a liberal approach in dealing with the cases or dislodging the claim of a litigant merely on hyper-technical grounds. In other words, if the person is found to be not merely a stranger having no right whatsoever to any post or property, he cannot be non-suited on the ground of his not having the locus standi." (Emphasis added)

17. In view of the above, the law on the said point can be summarised to the effect that a person who raises a grievance, must show how he has suffered legal injury.

Generally, a stranger having no right whatsoever to any post or property, cannot be permitted to intervene in the affairs of others.

16. Now another fact which needs to be examined is the fact as to whether the present petition which is in fact in the guise of public interest litigation is maintainable at the behest and instance of the petitioner.

17. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Raju Ramsingh Vasave (Supra) while referring to paragraph 45.

45. We must now deal with the question of locus standi. A special leave petition ordinarily would not have been entertained at the instance of the appellant. Validity of appointment or otherwise on the basis of a caste certificate granted by a committee is ordinarily a matter between the employer and the employee. This Court, however, when a question is raised, can take cognizance of a matter of such grave importance suo motu. It may not treat the special leave petition as a public interest litigation, but, as a public law litigation. It is, in a proceeding of that nature, permissible for the court to make a detailed enquiry with regard to the broader aspects of the matter although it was initiated at the instance of a person having a private interest. A deeper scrutiny can be made so as to enable the court to find out as Cate "Segy HOW to whether a party to a lis is guilty of commission of fraud on the Constitution. If such an enquiry subserves the greater public interest and has a far-reaching effect on the society, in our opinion, this Court will not shirk its responsibilities from doing so.

18. According to Sri Yadav, the present proceedings cannot be said to be a public interest litigation but it is Public Law Litigation and thus the same is maintainable.

19. On the other hand, learned Standing Counsel has referred to certain judgments of the Apex Court so as to contend that in service matter Public Interest Litigation is not maintainable. Namely:-

20. In Dr. B. Singh Vs. Union of India and others (2004) 3 SCC 363 paragraph 16 is quoted hereunder:-

"16. As noted supra, a time has come to weed out the petitions, which though titled as public interest litigations are in essence something else. It is shocking to note that Courts are flooded with large number of so called public interest litigations, whereas only a minuscule percentage can legitimately be called as public interest litigations. Though the parameters of public interest litigation have been indicated by this Court in large number of cases, yet unmindful of the real intentions and objectives, Courts at times are entertaining such petitions and wasting valuable judicial time which, as noted above, could be otherwise utilized for disposal of genuine cases. Though in Dr. Duryodhan Sahu and Ors. v. Jitendra Kumar Mishra and Ors. (AIR 1999 SC 114), this Court held that in service matters PILs should not be entertained, the inflow of so-called PILs involving service matters continues unabated in the Courts and strangely are entertained. The least the High Courts could do is to throw them out on the basis of the said decision. This tendency is being slowly permitted to percolate for setting in motion criminal law jurisdiction, often unjustifiably just for gaining publicity and giving adverse publicity to their opponents. The other interesting aspect is that in the PILs, official documents are being annexed without even indicating as to how the petitioner came to possess them. In one case, it was noticed that an interesting answer was given as to its possession. It was stated that a packet was lying on the road and when out of curiosity the petitioner opened it, he found copies of the official documents. Apart from the sinister manner, if any, of getting such copters, the real brain or force behind such cases would get exposed to find out whether it was a bona fide venture. Whenever such frivolous pleas are taken to explain possession, the Court should do well not only to dismiss the petitions but also to impose exemplary costs, as it prima facie gives impression about oblique motives involved, and in most cases show proxy litigation. Where the petitioner has not even a remote link with the issues involved, it becomes imperative for the Court to lift the veil and uncover the real purpose of the petition and the real person behind it. It would be desirable for the Courts to filter out the frivolous petitions and dismiss them with costs as afore-stated so that the message goes in the right direction that petitions filed with oblique motive do not have the approval of the Courts."

21. In Dattaraj Nathuji Thaware Vs. State of Maharashtra (2005) 1 SCC 590 paragraph 16 is quoted hereunder:-

"(7) When a particular person is the object and target of a petition styled as PIL, the court has to be careful to see whether the attack in the guise of public interest is really intended to unleash a private vendetta, personal grouse or some other mala fide object.

(8) Therefore, as rightly submitted by learned counsel for the appellant, writ petition itself was not maintainable, to that extent the High Court's order cannot be maintained. But it appears that the official respondents have already initiated action as regards the caste certificate. Though PIL is not to be entertained in service matters, that does not stand on the way of the officials from examining the question in the right perspective. In the present case admittedly the officials have initiated action. What action will be taken in such proceedings is not the subject matter of controversy in the present appeal. However, it shall not be construed as if we have expressed any opinion on the merits of the proceedings stated to be pending. The only issue which has been examined relates to the locus standi of the writ petitioner (respondent No.7) to file PIL.

23. Analysing the judgment meticulously, this Court finds that the judgment so relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner being Raju Ramsingh Vasave (Supra) is not applicable in the facts of the case as the present case does not fall within the exceptions so culled out in the said judgment. The present case also does not come within the parameters of Public Law Litigation and further the issue so sought to be raised by the petitioner is not of any public importance.

24. Nonetheless, the present case is nothing but the proceedings relating to Public Interest Litigation in service matters which as per the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court is not maintainable.

25. There is another reason for not interfering in the present proceedings at the instance of the petitioner particularly in view of the fact that the petitioner happens to be the wife of Yogesh Kumar, who had been dismissed from service and further he has also preferred departmental appeal which is stated to be pending thus the present proceeding is nothing but collateral proceedings just in order to obtain a benefit indirectly which cannot be granted by this Court directly particularly when the dismissal order has not been challenged by an aggrieved party being the dismissed employee itself.

26. Petitioner herein is not an aggrieved party and she happens to be a wife of the dismissed employee, who has her own agenda of getting not only monetary benefits but other benefits attached thereto which cannot be granted by this Court in present proceeding. Nonetheless this Court could have taken a pause on the issue of maintainability of present petition but this Court is also examining the validity of Rule 3-B-(iv) of the 1999 Rules.

27. This Court before embarking any enquiry with respect to the constitutional validity of the provisions contained under Rule 3-B-(iv) of the Rules, 1999 has to bear in mind the relevant factors which need to be taken into consideration for adjudicating the validity of the statutory enactment while forming an opinion as to whether the same needs to be declared to be ultra-virus.

28. It is the settled principal of law that in case any party asserts and assails the validity of a provision on the ground that it is violative of Article 309 and 311 of the Constitution of India then it is for the said party to not only make necessary pleadings but also adduce materials to show that the same is in violation of Article 309 and 311 of the Constitution of India. Even otherwise the presumption is always that legislature understands and correctly appreciates the need of the people and in order to rebut the said presumption, the onus is upon the party who alleges it to be unconstitutional.

29. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Chiranjit Lal Chaudhary Vs. Union of India, AIR 1951 SC 41 in paragraph-10 has held as under: -

"..I consider to be well-founded on principle, that the presumption is always in favour of the constitutionality of an enactment, and the burden is upon him who attacks it to show that there has been a clear transgression of the constitutional principles..."

30. In the case of State of Bihar Vs. Sm. Charusila Dasi, AIR 1959 SC 1002, in paragraph 14, the Apex Court has held as under:-

"... It is now well settled that there is a general presumption that the legislature does not intend to exceed its jurisdiction, and it is a sound principle of construction that the Act of a sovereign legislature should, if possible, receive such an interpretation as will make it operative and not in- operative;.."

31. In AIR 1997 SC 1511, State of Bihar vs. Bihar Distillery Ltd., the Supreme Court in paragraph 18 has held as under:-

"18. The Court should try to sustain its validity to the extent possible. It should strike down the enactment only when it is not possible to sustain it. The Court should not approach the enactment with a view to pick holes or to search for defects of drafting, much less inexactitude of language employed. Indeed, any such defects of drafting should be ironed out as part of the attempt to sustain the validity/constitutionality of the enactment. After all, an Act made by the Legislature represents the will of the people and that cannot be lightly interfered with. The unconstitutionality must be plainly and clearly established before an enactment is declared as void."

32. In Greater Bombay Coop. Bank Ltd. Vs. United Yarn Tex (P) Ltd, 2007(6) SCC 236, provides as under:-

"82. The constitutional validity of an Act can be challenged only on two grounds, viz. (i) lack of legislative competence; and (ii) violation of any of the Fundamental Rights guaranteed in Part III of the Constitution or of any other constitutional provision. In State of A. P. & Ors. v. McDowell & Co. & Ors. [(1996) 3 SCC 709], this Court has opined that except the above two grounds, there is no third ground on the basis of which the law made by the competent legislature can be invalidated and that the ground of invalidation must necessarily fall within the four corners of the afore-mentioned two grounds.

(83) Power to enact a law is derived by the State Assembly from List II of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution. Entry 32 confers upon a State Legislature the power to constitute co- operative societies. The State of Maharashtra and the State of Andhra Pradesh both had enacted the MCS Act, 1960 and the APCS Act, 1964 in exercise of the power vested in them by Entry 32 of List II of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution. Power to enact would include the power to re-enact or validate any provision of law in the State Legislature, provided the same falls in an Entry of List II of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution with the restriction that such enactment should not nullify a judgment of the competent court of law. In the appeals/SLPs/petitions filed against the judgment of the Andhra Pradesh High Court, the legislative competence of the State is involved for consideration. Judicial system has an important role to play in our body politic and has a solemn obligation to fulfil. In such circumstances, it is imperative upon the Courts while examining the scope of legislative action to be conscious to start with the presumption regarding the constitutional validity of the legislation. The burden of proof is upon the shoulders of the incumbent who challenges it. It is true that it is the duty of the constitutional courts under our Constitution to declare a law enacted by the Parliament or the State Legislature as unconstitutional when Parliament or the State Legislature had assumed to enact a law which is void, either for want of constitutional power to enact it or because the constitutional forms or conditions have not been observed or where the law infringes the Fundamental Rights enshrined and guaranteed in Part III of the Constitution.

(84) As observed by this Court in CST v. Radhakrishnan in considering the validity of a Statute the presumption is always in favour of constitutionality and the burden is upon the person who attacks it to show that there has been transgression of constitutional principles. For sustaining the constitutionality of an Act, a Court may take into consideration matters of common knowledge, reports, preamble, history of the times, objection of the legislation and all other facts which are relevant. It must always be presumed that the legislature understands and correctly appreciates the need of its own people and that discrimination, if any, is based on adequate grounds and considerations. It is also well-settled that the courts will be justified in giving a liberal interpretation in order to avoid constitutional invalidity. A provision conferring very wide and expansive powers on authority can be construed in conformity with legislative intent of exercise of power within constitutional limitations. Where a Statute is silent or is inarticulate, the Court would attempt to transmutate the inarticulate and adopt a construction which would lean towards constitutionality albeit without departing from the material of which the law is woven. These principles have given rise to rule of "reading down" the provisions if it becomes necessary to uphold the validity of the law."

33. In Zaheer Ahmed Latifur Rehman Sheikh Vs. State of Maharashtra and others, JT 2010(4) SCC 256 in paragraph 34 and 35, the Supreme Court has held as under:-

"(34) It is a well-established rule of interpretation that the entries in the List being fields of legislation must receive liberal construction inspired by a broad and generous spirit and not a narrow or pedantic approach. Each general word should extend to all ancillary and subsidiary matters which can fairly and reasonably be comprehended within it. [Reference in this regard may be made to the decisions of this Court in Navinchandra Mafatlal v. Commr. of I.T. [AIR 1955 SC 58], State of Maharashtra v. Bharat Shanti lal Shah [(2008) 13 SCC 5]]. It is also a cardinal rule of interpretation that there shall always be a presumption of constitutionality in favour of a statute and while construing such statute every legally permissible effort should be made to keep the statute within the competence of the State Legislature [Reference may be made to the cases of: Charanjit Lal Choudhary v. Union of India [AIR 1951 SC 41], T.M.A. Pai Foundation v. State of Karnataka [(2002) 8 SCC 481], Karnataka Bank Ltd. State of AP [(2008) 2 SCC 254]]

(35) One of the proven methods of examining the legislative competence of a legislature with regard to an enactment is by the application of the doctrine of pith and substance. This doctrine is applied when the legislative competence of the legislature with regard to a particular enactment is challenged with reference to the entries in various lists. If there is a challenge to the legislative competence, the courts will try to ascertain the pith and substance of such enactment on a scrutiny of the Act in question. In this process, it is necessary for the courts to go into and examine the true character of the enactment, its object, its scope and effect to find out whether the enactment in question is genuinely referable to a field of the legislation allotted to the respective legislature under the constitutional scheme. This doctrine is an established principle of law in India recognized not only by this Court, but also by various High Courts. Where a challenge is made to the constitutional validity of a particular State Act with reference to a subject mentioned in any entry in List I, the Court has to look to the substance of the State Act and on such analysis and examination, if it is found that in the pith and substance, it falls under an entry in the State List but there is only an incidental encroachment on any of the matters enumerated in the Union List, the State Act would not become invalid merely because there is incidental encroachment on any of the matters in the Union List."

34. In Namit Sharma Vs. Union of India, 2013(1) SCC 745, in paragraph 51 and 61, the Supreme Court has held as under:-

"(51) Another most significant canon of determination of constitutionality is that the courts would be reluctant to declare a law invalid or ultra vires on account of unconstitutionality. The courts would accept an interpretation which would be in favour of the constitutionality, than an approach which would render the law unconstitutional. Declaring the law unconstitutional is one of the last resorts taken by the courts. The courts would preferably put into service the principle of "reading down' or "reading into' the provision to make it effective, workable and ensure the attainment of the object of the Act. These are the principles which clearly emerge from the consistent view taken by this court in its various pronouncements.

(61) It is a settled principle of law, as stated earlier, that courts would generally adopt an interpretation which is favourable to and tilts towards the constitutionality of a statute, with the aid of the principles like ''reading into' and/or ''reading down' the relevant provisions, as opposed to declaring a provision unconstitutional. The courts can also bridge the gaps that have been left by the legislature inadvertently. We are of the considered view that both these principles have to be applied while interpreting Section 12(5). It is the application of these principles that would render the provision constitutional and not opposed to the doctrine of equality. Rather the application of the provision would become more effective."

35. Another additional aspect needs to be further noticed at this juncture that though the earlier law was to the effect that the Constitutional validity of Act can be challenged only on two grounds namely (I), lack of legislative competence and (ii) violation of any of the fundamental rights guaranteed in Part-III of the Constitution. However, the exception to the said Rule has been noticed in the case of Shayara Bano Vs. Union of India, 2017 (9) SCC 1, wherein a third exception was carved out with regard to the fact that the Courts of law can even hold the statutory enactment to be ultra vires, where there is "manifest arbitrariness. The Hon'ble Apex Court in its majority opinion 3:2 has held in paragraphs-87, 88, 89 and 101 as under: -

"(87) The thread of reasonableness runs through the entire fundamental rights Chapter. What is manifestly arbitrary is obviously unreasonable and being contrary to the rule of law, would violate Article 14. Further, there is an apparent contradiction in the three Judges' Bench decision in McDowell (supra) when it is said that a constitutional challenge can succeed on the ground that a law is "disproportionate, excessive or unreasonable", yet such challenge would fail on the very ground of the law being "unreasonable, unnecessary or unwarranted". The arbitrariness doctrine when applied to legislation obviously would not involve the latter challenge but would only involve a law being disproportionate, excessive or otherwise being manifestly unreasonable. All the aforesaid grounds, therefore, do not seek to differentiate between State action in its various forms, all of which are interdicted if they fall foul of the fundamental rights guaranteed to persons and citizens in Part III of the Constitution.

(88) We only need to point out that even after McDowell (supra), this Court has in fact negated statutory law on the ground of it being arbitrary and therefore violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. In Malpe Vishwanath Acharya v. State of Maharashtra, (1998) 2 SCC 1, this Court held that after passage of time, a law can become arbitrary, and, therefore, the freezing of rents at a 1940 market value under the Bombay Rent Act would be arbitrary and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India (see paragraphs 8 to 15 and 31).

(89) Similarly in Mardia Chemicals Ltd. & Ors. v. Union of India & Ors. etc. etc., (2004) 4 SCC 311 at 354, this Court struck down Section 17(2) of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002, as follows:

"(64) The condition of pre-deposit in the present case is bad rendering the remedy illusory on the grounds that: (i) it is imposed while approaching the adjudicating authority of the first instance, not in appeal, (ii) there is no determination of the amount due as yet, (iii) the secured assets or their management with transferable interest is already taken over and under control of the secured creditor, (iv) no special reason for double security in respect of an amount yet to be determined and settled, (v) 75% of the amount claimed by no means would be a meagre amount, and (vi) it will leave the borrower in a position where it would not be possible for him to raise any funds to make deposit of 75% of the undetermined demand. Such conditions are not only onerous and oppressive but also unreasonable and arbitrary. Therefore, in our view, sub-section (2) of Section 17 of the Act is unreasonable, arbitrary and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution.

(90) In two other fairly recent judgments namely State of Tamil Nadu v. K. Shyam Sunder (2011) 8 SCC 737 at paragraphs 50 to 53, and A.P. Dairy Development Corpn. Federation v. B. Narasimha Reddy (2011) 9 SCC 286 at paragraph 29, this Court reiterated the position of law that a legislation can be struck down on the ground that it is arbitrary and therefore violative of Article 14 of the Constitution.

(101) It will be noticed that a Constitution Bench of this Court in Indian Express Newspapers v. Union of India, (1985) 1 SCC 641, stated that it was settled law that subordinate legislation can be challenged on any of the grounds available for challenge against plenary legislation. This being the case, there is no rational distinction between the two types of legislation when it comes to this ground of challenge under Article 14. The test of manifest arbitrariness, therefore, as laid down in the aforesaid judgments would apply to invalidate legislation as well as subordinate legislation under Article 14. Manifest arbitrariness, therefore, must be something done by the legislature capriciously, irrationally and/or without adequate determining principle. Also, when something is done which is excessive and disproportionate, such legislation would be manifestly arbitrary. We are, therefore, of the view that arbitrariness in the sense of manifest arbitrariness as pointed out by us above would apply to negate legislation as well under Article 14."

36. Recently, in one of the decisions in the case of K.S. Puttaswamy (Aadhar) Vs. Union of India, reported in 2019 (1) SCC 1 in paragraphs 103, 104 and 105 has held as under:-

"103. In support of the aforesaid proposition that an Act of the Parliament can be invalidated only on the aforesaid two grounds, passages from various judgments were extracted 21. The Court also noted the observations from State of A.P. & Ors. v. MCDOWELL & Co. & Ors.22 wherein it was held that apart from the aforesaid two grounds, no third ground is available to validate any piece of legislation. In the process, it was further noted that in Rajbala & Ors. v. State of Haryana & Ors.23 (which followed MCDOWELL & Co. case), the Court held that a legislation cannot be declared unconstitutional on the ground that it is "arbitrary' inasmuch as examining as to whether a particular Act is arbitrary or not implies a value judgment and courts do not examine the wisdom of legislative choices, and, therefore, cannot undertake this exercise.

104. The issue whether law can be declared unconstitutional on the ground of arbitrariness has received the attention of this Court in a Constitution Bench judgment in the case of Shayara Bano v. Union of India & Ors.24. R.F. Nariman and U.U. Lalit, JJ. 21 State of M.P. v. Rakesh Kohli, (2012) 6 SCC 312; Ashoka Kumar Thakur v. Union of India, (2008) 6 SCC 1 22 (1996) 3 SCC 709 23 (2016) 2 SCC 445 24 (2017) 9 SCC 1 discredited the ratio of the aforesaid judgments wherein the Court had held that a law cannot be declared unconstitutional on the ground that it is arbitrary. The Judges pointed out the larger Bench judgment in the case of Dr. K.R. Lakshmanan v. State of T.N. & Anr.25 and Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India & Anr.26 where "manifest arbitrariness' is recognised as the third ground on which the legislative Act can be invalidated. Following discussion in this behalf is worthy of note:

"87. The thread of reasonableness runs through the entire fundamental rights chapter. What is manifestly arbitrary is obviously unreasonable and being contrary to the rule of law, would violate Article 14. Further, there is an apparent contradiction in the three-Judge Bench decision in McDowell [State of A.P. v. McDowell and Co., (1996) 3 SCC 709] when it is said that a constitutional challenge can succeed on the ground that a law is "disproportionate, excessive or unreasonable", yet such challenge would fail on the very ground of the law being "unreasonable, unnecessary or unwarranted". The arbitrariness doctrine when applied to legislation obviously would not involve the latter challenge but would only involve a law being disproportionate, excessive or otherwise being manifestly unreasonable. All the aforesaid grounds, therefore, do not seek to differentiate between State action in its various forms, all of which are interdicted if they fall foul of the fundamental rights guaranteed to persons and citizens in Part III of the Constitution.

88. We only need to point out that even after McDowell [State of A.P. v. McDowell and Co., (1996) 3 SCC 709] , this Court has in fact negated statutory law on the ground of it being arbitrary and therefore violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. In Malpe Vishwanath Acharya v. State of Maharashtra [Malpe Vishwanath Acharya v. State of Maharashtra, (1998) 2 SCC 1] , this Court held that after passage of time, a law can become arbitrary, and, 25 (1996) 2 SCC 226 26 (1978) 1 SCC 248 therefore, the freezing of rents at a 1940 market value under the Bombay Rent Act would be arbitrary and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India (see paras 8 to 15 and 31).

99. However, in State of Bihar v. Bihar Distillery Ltd. [State of Bihar v. Bihar Distillery Ltd., (1997) 2 SCC 453] , SCC at para 22, in State of M.P. v. Rakesh Kohli [State of M.P. v. Rakesh Kohli, (2012) 6 SCC 312 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 481], SCC at paras 17 to 19, in Rajbala v. State of Haryana [Rajbala v. State of Haryana, (2016) 2 SCC 445], SCC at paras 53 to 65 and in Binoy Viswam v. Union of India [Binoy Viswam v. Union of India, (2017) 7 SCC 59], SCC at paras 80 to 82, McDowell [State of A.P. v. McDowell and Co., (1996) 3 SCC 709] was read as being an absolute bar to the use of "arbitrariness" as a tool to strike down legislation under Article 14. As has been noted by us earlier in this judgment, McDowell [State of A.P. v. McDowell and Co., (1996) 3 SCC 709] itself is per incuriam, not having noticed several judgments of Benches of equal or higher strength, its reasoning even otherwise being flawed. The judgments, following McDowell [State of A.P. v.

McDowell and Co., (1996) 3 SCC 709] are, therefore, no longer good law."

105. The historical development of the doctrine of arbitrariness has been noticed by the said Judges in Shayara Bano in detail. It would be suffice to reproduce paragraphs 67 to 69 of the said judgment as the discussion in these paras provide a sufficient guide as to how a doctrine of arbitrariness is to be applied while adjudging the constitutional validity of a legislation.

"67. We now come to the development of the doctrine of arbitrariness and its application to State action as a distinct doctrine on which State action may be struck down as being violative of the rule of law contained in Article 14. In a significant passage, Bhagwati, J., in E.P. Royappa v. State of T.N. stated: (SCC p. 38, para 85) "85. The last two grounds of challenge may be taken up together for consideration. Though we have formulated the third ground of challenge as a distinct and separate ground, it is really in substance and effect merely an aspect of the second ground based on violation of Articles 14 and 16. Article 16 embodies the fundamental guarantee that there shall be equality of opportunity for all citizens in matters relating to employment or appointment to any office under the State. Though enacted as a distinct and independent fundamental right because of its great importance as a principle ensuring equality of opportunity in public employment which is so vital to the building up of the new classless egalitarian society envisaged in the Constitution, Article 16 is only an instance of the application of the concept of equality enshrined in Article 14. In other words, Article 14 is the genus while Article 16 is a species. Article 16 gives effect to the doctrine of equality in all matters relating to public employment. The basic principle which, therefore, informs both Articles 14 and 16 is equality and inhibition against discrimination. Now, what is the content and reach of this great equalising principle? It is a founding faith, to use the words of Bose, J., "a way of life", and it must not be subjected to a narrow pedantic or lexicographic approach. We cannot countenance any attempt to truncate its all-embracing scope and meaning, for to do so would be to violate its activist magnitude. Equality is a dynamic concept with many aspects and dimensions and it cannot be "cribbed, cabined and confined" within traditional and doctrinaire limits. From a positivistic point of view, equality is antithetic to arbitrariness. In fact equality and arbitrariness are sworn enemies; one belongs to the rule of law in a republic while the other, to the whim and caprice of an absolute monarch. Where an act is arbitrary, it is implicit in it that it is unequal both according to political logic and constitutional law and is therefore violative of Article 14, and if it effects any matter relating to public employment, it is also violative of Article 16. Articles 14 and 16 strike at arbitrariness in State action and ensure fairness and equality of treatment. They require that State action must be based on valid relevant principles applicable alike to all similarly situate and it must not be guided by any extraneous or irrelevant considerations because that would be denial of equality. Where the operative reason for State action, as distinguished from motive inducing from the antechamber of the mind, is not legitimate and relevant but is extraneous and outside the area of permissible considerations, it would amount to mala fide exercise of power and that is hit by Articles 14 and 16. Mala fide exercise of power and arbitrariness are different lethal radiations emanating from the same vice: in fact the latter comprehends the former. Both are inhibited by Articles 14 and 16." (emphasis supplied)

68.This was further fleshed out in Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India, where, after stating that various fundamental rights must be read together and must overlap and fertilise each other, Bhagwati, J., further amplified this doctrine as follows: (SCC pp. 283-84, para 7) "The nature and requirement of the procedure under Article 217. Now, the question immediately arises as to what is the requirement of Article 14: what is the content and reach of the great equalising principle enunciated in this article? There can be no doubt that it is a founding faith of the Constitution. It is indeed the pillar on which rests securely the foundation of our democratic republic. And, therefore, it must not be subjected to a narrow, pedantic or lexicographic approach. No attempt should be made to truncate its all-embracing scope and meaning, for to do so would be to violate its activist magnitude. Equality is a dynamic concept with many aspects and dimensions and it cannot be imprisoned within traditional and doctrinaire limits. We must reiterate here what was pointed out by the majority in E.P. Royappa v. State of T.N. , namely, that: (SCC p. 38, para 85) "85. ... From a positivistic point of view, equality is antithetic to arbitrariness. In fact equality and arbitrariness are sworn enemies; one belongs to the rule of law in a republic, while the other, to the whim and caprice of an absolute monarch. Where an act is arbitrary, it is implicit in it that it is unequal both according to political logic and constitutional law and is therefore violative of Article 14....' Article 14 strikes at arbitrariness in State action and ensures fairness and equality of treatment. The principle of reasonableness, which legally as well as philosophically, is an essential element of equality or non-arbitrariness pervades Article 14 like a brooding omnipresence and the procedure contemplated by Article 21 must answer the test of reasonableness in order to be in conformity with Article 14. It must be "right and just and fair" and not arbitrary, fanciful or oppressive; otherwise, it would be no procedure at all and the requirement of Article 21 would not be satisfied." (emphasis supplied)

37. This Court has also considered the validity of a statutory enactment after following the judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court, while holding that the third ground is also available with a party, who alleges that the statutory enactment is unconstitutional, but it has been observed that the party, who alleges that an enactment is unconstitutional, is possessed with a heavy burden to prove the same and he cannot discharge its onus in a cavalier manner by merely stating that the Amendment Act is unreasonable. In the case of Noida Employees Association and others Vs. State of U.P, 2019(5) ADJ 602, this High Court has held as under: -

"23. Coming to the exact challenge raised by the petitioners, the learned Advocate General would submit, the challenge being to the enactment of the State Legislature, the grounds of challenge are limited i.e. two and strict, being either the Act be shown to be beyond the legislative competence of the State Legislature or in violation of any of the fundamental rights guaranteed under Part-III of the Constitution of India or of any other constitutional provision. There does not exist any third ground to challenge the Amending Act. Relying on that principle firmly emphasised by the Supreme Court in State of A.P. & Ors Vs MCDOWELL & Co. & Ors., (1996) 3 SCC 709, it has been submitted, the burden to establish unconstitutionality of a Statute is a heavy burden that lies strictly on the challenger/petitioners. It cannot be discharged in a cavalier manner by merely stating that the Amending Act is arbitrary or unreasonable. In absence of any challenge raised to the legislative competence or any constitutional infirmity in the Amending Act, it does not lie with the petitioners to set up a loose plea of the Amending Act being contrary to the original Act. Such a ground does not exist. According to him, 'arbitrariness' does not exist as a ground to challenge plenary legislation."

38. Now let us examine the various provisions so engrafted in the constitution as well as the statutory enactment which are occupying the field.

ARTICLES OF CONSTITUTION OF INDIA

309. Recruitment and conditions of service of persons serving the Union or a State*.--Subject to the provisions of this Constitution, Acts of the appropriate Legislature may regulate the recruitment, and conditions of service of persons appointed, to public services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or of any State: Provided that it shall be competent for the President or such person as he may direct in the case of services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union, and for the Governor 2 of a State or such person as he may direct in the case of services and posts in connection with the affairs of the State, to make rules regulating the recruitment, and the conditions of service of persons appointed, to such services and posts until provision in that behalf is made by or under an Act of the appropriate Legislature under this article, and any rules so made shall have effect subject to the provisions of any such Act.*

311. Dismissal, removal or reduction in rank of persons employed in civil capacities under the Union or a State.--(1) No person who is a member of a civil service of the Union or an all-India service or a civil service of a State or holds a civil post under the Union or a State shall be dismissed or removed by an authority subordinate to that by which he was appointed. [(2) No such person as aforesaid shall be dismissed or removed or reduced in rank except after an inquiry in which he has been informed of the charges against him and given a reasonable opportunity of being heard in respect of those charges [Provided that where it is proposed after such inquiry, to impose upon him any such penalty, such penalty may be imposed on the basis of the evidence adduced during such inquiry and it shall not be necessary to give such person any opportunity of making representation on the penalty proposed:

Provided further that this clause shall not apply--]

(a) where a person is dismissed or removed or reduced in rank on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(b) where the authority empowered to dismiss or remove a person or to reduce him in rank is satisfied that for some reason, to be recorded by that authority in writing, it is not reasonably practicable to hold such inquiry; or

(c) where the President or the Governor, as the case may be, is satisfied that in the interest of the security of the State it is not expedient to hold such inquiry.

(3) If, in respect of any such person as aforesaid, a question arises whether it is reasonably practicable to hold such inquiry as is referred to in clause (2), the decision thereon of the authority empowered to dismiss or remove such person or to reduce him in rank shall be final.]

THE UTTAR PRADESH GOVERNMENT SERVANT (DISCIPLINE AND APPEAL) RULES, 1999

In exercise of the powers conferred by the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution and in suppression of the Civil Service (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, 1930 and Punishment and Appeal Rules for Subordinate Service Uttar Pradesh, 1932, the Governor is pleased to make the following rules :

1. Short title and commencement.-(1) These rules may be called the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999.

(2) They shall come into force at once.

(3) They shall apply to Government servants under the rule making power of the Governor under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution except the Officers and the Servants of the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad covered under Article 229 of the Constitution of India.

3. Penalties:-The following penalties may, for good and sufficient reasons and as hereinafter provided, be imposed upon the Government Servant:*

A- Minor Penalties......

*B- Major Penalties

(i) Withholding of increments with cumulative effect;

(ii) Reduction to a lower post or grade or time scale or to a lower stage in a time scale:

(iii) Removal from the service which does not disqualify from future employment;

(iv) Dismissal from the service which disqualify from future employment.

39. Article 309 of the Constitution of India itself provides that subject to the provisions of the Constitution, Acts of the appropriate legislature, they may regulate the recruitment and condition of service of persons appointed to public services and post in connection with the affairs of the Union or of any State.

40. Proviso has also been appended to Article 309 of the Constitution of India envisaging that it shall be competent for President or such persons as it may direct in the case of services and post in connection with the affairs of Union and for the Governor of a State or such person as it may direct in case of services and post in connection with the affairs of the State to make Rules regulating the recruitment and condition of service of persons appointed to such services and post until provision in that behalf is made by or under an Act of appropriate legislature.

41. Notably Article 311 of the Constitution of India puts an obligation that no person who is a member of civil Services of Union or All India Service or a Civil Service of State or holds Civil Post under Union or a State shall be dismissed or removed by an authority subordinate to that by which he/she was appointed.

42. Undisputedly, in the case in hand the Rules, 1999 have been enacted in exercise of powers conferred by proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India which itself explicitly depicts that the enactment of the Rules is supported by statutory backing and the source of power is referable to proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India.

43. Now a question arises as to whether insertion of Rule 3-B-(iv) of the Rules, 1999 in so far as it provides for a disqualification for future employment in case of dismissal ultra-virus or not.

44. A bare reading of Article 311 of the Constitution of India itself depicts that a safeguard has been provided to the persons holding civil post either under Union or State that they should not be dismissed or removed by the authority subordinate to that by which they have been appointed and further the fact that before dismissing removing or reducing in rank an enquiry is must while giving reasonable opportunity to be heard.

45. It is not the case of the petitioner that there has been any violation of Article 311 of the Constitution of India with respect to dismissal or removal by an authority subordinate to appointing authority or the dismissal, removal or reduction has been made without giving reasonable opportunity. However, according to the pleadings and the arguments so set forth by the counsel for the petitioner, the words pertaining to disqualification from future employment could not have been attached with the penalty of dismissal.

46. This Court finds that the argument so sought to be raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner is totally misconceived besides the misplaced and also out of context particularly in view of the fact that in the matter of service jurisprudence, there is a marked difference between dismissal and removal. There is always disqualification attached for future employment in former case and in the later case, there is no such disqualification for future employment.

47. Proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India itself confers the source of framing of the Rules and rightly so the Rules,1999 have been framed and so far as Article 311 of the Constitution of India is concerned it guarantees certain protection to the person holding civil post either in the Union or State.

48. The petitioner herein cannot question the wisdom of the employer to include or exclude any penalty but the Constitutional guarantee so bestowed under Article 311 of the Constitution of India remains alive with respect to necessary safeguard that the employer or the officer working under Union or State cannot be dismissed or removed by an authority below the appointing authority or without affording reasonable opportunity in this regard. Hence the submissions so raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner that Rule 3-B-(iv) of the Rules 1999 is totally misplaced and misconceived and out of context.

49. Hon'ble Apex Court in the recent judgment in Civil Appeal No.2365 of 2020, Nisha Priya Bhatiya Vs. Union of India decided on 24.4.2020 in paragraph 42 has observed as under:-

42. A conjoint reading of Articles 309 and 311 reveals that Article 311 is confined to the cases wherein an inquiry has been commenced against an employee and an action of penal nature is sought to be taken. Whereas, Article 309 covers the broad spectrum of conditions of service and holds a wider ground as compared to Article 311. That would also include conditions of service beyond mere dismissal, removal or reduction in rank. It holds merit to state that this wide ground contemplated under Article 309 also takes in its sweep the conditions regarding termination of service including compulsory retirement. In Pradyat Kumar Bose Vs. The Hon'ble The Chief Justice of Calcutta High Court 12, this Court touched upon the ambit and scope of Article 309 of the Constitution and expounded that the expression "conditions of service" takes within its sweep the cases of dismissal or removal from service.

50. Applying the judgments the present facts of the case an irresistible conclusion stands drawn that in view of the provisions contained under Article 309 and 311 of the Constitution of India, the conditions of services takes within its ambit, the cases of dismissal or removal from service.

51. Nevertheless the penalties of dismissal and removal is nowhere foreign in service jurisprudence as the said penalties amongst others finds its presence in almost all the disciplinary Rules through out the various services and there difference is widely accepted.

52. The distinction between dismissal and removal had also been subject matter of judicial scrutiny by the Hon'ble Apex Court in several judgments. Namely:

In AIR 1954 S.C. 369 Shyamlal v. State of Uttar Pradesh and another relevant para 15 is quoted hereunder:-

" The word "removal" which is used in the rules is also used in this clause and it may safely be taken, for reasons stated above, that under the Constitution removal and dismissal stand on the same footing except as to future employment. In this sense removal is but a species of dismissal. Indeed, in our recent decision in 'Satischandra Anand v. Union of India', AIR 1953 SC 250 at p. 252 (D) it has been said that these terms have been used in the same sense in Article 311."

53. Following the said judgment the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Dr. Dattatraya Mahadev Nadkarni Vs. Municipal Corporation of Greater Bombay (1992) 2 SCC 547 in paragraph nos. 6, 7 & 8 have observed as under:-

6. We find force in the contention raised by the appellant. In Shyamlal v. State of U.P.[1] while dealing with the provisions of Article 311 of the Constitution of India it was held that under the Constitution removal and dismissal stand on the same footing except as to future employment. In this sense removal is but a species of dismissal. Removal, like dismissal, no doubt brings about a termination of service but every termination of service does not amount to dismissal or removal.

7. In S.R. Tiwari v. District Board, Agra[2] (SCR p. 69) it has been observed:

"It is settled law that the form of the order under which the employment of a servant is determined is not conclusive of the true nature of the order. The form may be merely to camouflage an order of dismissal for misconduct, and it is always open to the court before which the order is challenged to go behind the form and ascertain the true character of the order. If the Court holds that the order though in the form merely of determination of employment is in reality a cloak for an order of dismissal as a matter of punishment, the Court would not be debarred merely because of the form of the order in giving effect to the rights conferred by statutory rules upon the employee."

8. The only difference in the punishment of dismissal and removal is that in case of dismissal the employee is disqualified from future employment while in case of removal he is not debarred from getting future employment. In the present case a perusal of Section 83 clearly shows that the punishments provided are: fine, reduction, suspension or dismissal from service.

54. Net analysis of the above caption judgment itself mandates that though the penalty of dismissal and removal stand on same footing except as to the issue future employment. Mentioning thereby that by no stretch of imagination it can be said that attachment of a disqualification of future employment can where be said to be ultra-virus, arbitrary or discriminatory.

55. Resultantly, in view of the foregoing discussions, the present writ petition is wholly misconceived besides being not maintainable and is liable to be dismissed.

56. Accordingly, it is dismissed.

57. No order as to costs.

CIVIL SIDE

THE HON'BLE DINESH PATHAK, J.

Writ B No. 98 of 2021

Om Prakash Singh & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri Sanjay Kumar Singh, Sri Yogesh Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Bhupendra Kumar Tripathi, Sri Sunil Kumar Singh

A. Civil Law - Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226 - U.P. Revenue Code, 2006- Section 101 - exchange of land proceeding-petitioner run a school and for that purpose the petitioners moved an application requesting for exchange of their plot with the plots of Gaon Sabha- the Tehsil authorities submitted reports thrice in favour of exchange but the application was rejected on account of difference of valuation between the plots which were sought to be exchanged-the revisional court has given a perverse finding that the Gaon Sabha was not agreed upon for exchange whereas resolution was passed in favour of the petitioners and the same has never been withdrawn by the Gaon Sabha-Trial court and Board of revenue committed same error in deciding the case without considering the reports submitted by Tehsil authorities with respect to the valuation of plots under exchange.(Para 1 to 14)

The writ petition is partly allowed. (E-6)

List of Cases cited:

1. Gram Panchayat Pusawali Block Junawai, Tehsil Gunnaur, District Badaun Vs St. of U.P. & ors. (2007) 1 ADJ 263

2. Babu Ram Verma Vs Sub-DiVs Officer & ors. (1996) 2 AWC 1036

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners, learned counsel for Gaon Sabha and the learned Standing Counsel.

2. Petitioners have invoked the extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India challenging the order dated 12.10.2020 passed by the Board of Revenue (Respondent no.2) in Revision No. 3097 of 2018 and the order dated 30.10.2018 passed by the Sub Divisional Officer (Respondent no.3) in Case No. 09244 of 2018 in a proceeding for exchange of land under Section 101 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 (in brevity the Code, 2006).

3. Facts culled out from the pleadings of the parties are that plot no.524 area 0.150 hectare and plot no.523 (kha) area 0.053 hectare, belongs to the Gaon Sabha (Respondent no.4), are situated adjacent to a school namely Nageshwar Prasad Shyam Sunder Shikshan Sanstha allegedly run by the petitioners. Considering the suitability of the aforesaid plots to be used as a playground for school children, the petitioners, who are the recorded tenure holders of plot no.318 area 0.466 hectare situated in Village Suichak, Tehsil Rajatalab, District Varanasi, have moved an application dated 15/17.5.2017 (Annexure-4) under Section 101 of the Code, 2006, requesting for exchange of their plot no.318 area 0.203 hectare (out of total area 0.466 hectare) with the plots of the Gaon Sabha i.e. plot nos. 524 and 523(Kha). The Gaon Sabha, in turn, has passed resolution dated 04.06.2017 (Annexure-3) accepting the proposal of the petitioners for exchange of the land, as mentioned above. It appears that on the application for exchange, the Tehsil authorities have submitted their report thrice in favour of exchange which are annexed as Annexures-5, 6, 7 & 8 respectively. During pendency of the application for exchange, an objection dated 27.06.2018 (Annexure-9) purported to have been filed on behalf of Gaon Sabha through the Standing Counsel (Revenue). The petitioners have filed their replication dated 25.07.2018 (Annexure-10), inter alia, raising the question of maintainability of the aforesaid objection dated 27.06.2018.

4. Exchange application moved by the petitioners was rejected by respondent no.3, vide order dated 30.10.2018 (Annexure-12), basically on account of difference of valuation between the plots which were sought to be exchanged. Having been aggrieved with the order passed by respondent no.3, a revision petition (Annexure-13) has been preferred by the petitioners which was dismissed as well, affirming the order passed by respondent no.3, vide order dated 12.10.2020 (Annexure-14) passed by respondent no.2. Both the aforesaid orders are under challenge in this writ petition.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the petitioners have moved an application for exchange and a resolution dated 04.06.2017 was passed by the Gaon Sabha accepting the proposal for exchange. On the aforesaid application, the Tehsil authorities have submitted their report dated 29.06.2017, 30.07.2017 and 24.08.2017 respectively. He has questioned the authority of Vijay Kumar Pandey, Standing Counsel (Revenue) who has illegally filed objection dated 27.06.2018 whereas Gaon Sabha has not passed any resolution as required under Section 62 of the Code, 2006, authorizing any person to contest the aforesaid matter. Detail provision, as enunciated under Appendix-II of the U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016 (in brevity Rules, 2016) has not been followed in filing the said objection. It is further submitted that respondents no. 2 & 3 have illegally discarded the exchange, only relying upon the objection filed by the Standing Counsel (Revenue), without considering the reports submitted by the Lekhpal, Naib Tehsildar and Kanoongo. Next submission is that the trial court has illegally emphasized the difference of valuation of plots which were subject matter of exchange proceeding, whereas in all the reports submitted by the revenue authorities no such difference of valuation has been shown. Location of the plot, adjacent to road side, belongs to Gaon Sabha cannot be a solitary ground for rejection of the said application unless the difference of valuation of plots in exchange, as enshrined under Section 101 (2) (b) of the Code, 2006, is made out. It is also submitted that the revisional court has given a perverse finding that the Gaon Sabha was not agreed upon for exchange whereas the resolution dated 04.06.2017 was passed in favour of the petitioners and the same has never been withdrawn by the Gaon Sabha and even till date the said resolution stands.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the Gaon Sabha contended that in pursuance of the resolution dated 04.06.2017, no approval was granted by the authority concerned as was sought to be obtained in the said resolution. Further contention is that all the reports submitted by the revenue authorities are not in favour of the petitioners for exchange of land. He has also emphasized the provision as enunciated under Section 101(3) of the Code, 2006 and contended that the property was undivided, therefore, the petitioner cannot exchange their land with the Gaon Sabha. He has supported the conduct of the Standing Counsel (R) who has filed objection on behalf of the Gaon Sabha and contended that no particular resolution had been passed for exchange of plots. According to counsel for Gaon Sabha, provision, as enunciated under Section 62 of the Code, 2006, is applicable only with respect to the matters of compromise and withdrawal and so far as the matter of consent of Gaon Sabha is concerned, the Standing Counsel (Revenue) is free to contest the matter on behalf of the Gaon Sabha. Further contention is that exchange of Gaon Sabha's land with plot of the petitioners is not beneficial in the interest of Gaon Sabha, therefore, such exchange cannot be permitted. Learned counsel for the Gaon Sabha has also made emphasis that there was a difference of valuation of more than 10% between the plots sought to be exchanged, in contravention of provision under Section 101 (2) (b) of the Code, 2006. Lastly, it is contended that the petitioners have no locus standi to move an application for exchange of land for benefit of the school.

7. I have carefully considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record on Board.

8. Having regard to the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties, vexed question for consideration arises qua maintainability of objection dated 27.06.2018 said to have been filed on behalf of Gaon Sabha through Standing Counsel (Revenue) and the legal sanctity of the impugned orders passed by respondents no.2 and 3, without considering the Tehsil reports in respect of the valuation of plots under exchange.

9. A perusal of impugned order evinces aversion of plea with respect to the maintainability of objection dated 27.06.2018 said to have been filed on behalf of Gaon Sabha. There is nothing on record to show that any person has been authorized to do pairvi in the matter on behalf of Gaon Sabha. In paragraph nos. 18, 21, 25 etc. of the writ petition, the petitioner has specifically averred with regard to the non-maintainability of the objection allegedly filed on behalf of Gaon Sabha through the Standing Cousnel (Revenue) and existence of resolution dated 04.06.2017 passed by Gaon Sabha for exchange of plots in question. It is also averred in the writ petition that Gaon Sabha concerned has not consented to contest the matter on its behalf. In the counter affidavit evasive denial has been made on behalf of Gaon Sabha in this regard. No specific plea has been taken in the counter affidavit to show that against the resolution dated 04.06.2017 any subsequent resolution was passed by Gaon Sabha for its denial or to pursue the lis in opposition initiated by the petitioners for exchange of plots. There are succinct provision under the Code, 2006 relating to the litigation on behalf of Gaon Sabha to sue or to be sued. Section 62 and 72 of the Code, 2006 enunciate the provision conduct of suit and legal proceeding and the appointment of lawyers. Relating procedures are made under Rules 72 to 76 of the Rules, 2016. In this respect Appendix-II to the Rules, 2016 is also relevant with respect to the procedure of litigation.

10. Provision with respect to the litigation of Gaon Sabha as mentioned in the Code, 2006 and the Rules, 2016 are mandatory in nature, as expounded by the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Gram Panchayat Pusawali Block Junawai, Tehsil Gunnaur, District Badaun vs. State of U.P. & Others reported in 2007 (1) ADJ, 263 discussing the similar provision as it was mentioned in the U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act and U.P. Gaon Sabha & Bhumi Prabandh Samiti Manual. In the matter of Gram Panchayat Puswali (Supra) the earlier Division Bench's decision in the matter of Babu Ram Verma vs. Sub Divisional Officer & Others reported in AWC 1996 (2), 1036 was considered.

11. A perusal of the objection dated 27.06.2018 (Annexure-9) reveals that it was only signed by the Standing Counsel (Revenue) but the pleadings, as made in the objection, has not been verified by the person authorized on behalf of Gaon Sabha. Counsel appointed on behalf of the parties is not supposed to verify the facts relating to the case. He may take a legal ground or plea in the pleadings but cannot make denial with respect to the factual aspect of the case. Both the courts below are miserably failed to consider the maintainability of the objection in the eyes of law, as raised on behalf of the petitioners. In the litigation, verification of pleading is held mandatory under the provisions as enunciated under Order VI Rule 15 C.P.C.

12. So far as difference of valuation of plots is concerned, which were subject matter of exchange, it is evident from the record that the Tehsil authorities have submitted reports thrice in favour of exchange mentioning the valuation of the plots. All the Tehsil reports were submitted in favour of exchange showing the equal valuation of plots. There is nothing on record to show that there is difference of valuation more than 10% of the lower valuation between the plots, which were sought to be exchanged as required under Section 101(2) of the Code, 2006. Though the trial court has given a vague ground qua difference of valuation of plots, without pointing out their valuation, but has failed to discuss the case precisely in light of the reports submitted by Tehsil authorities.

13. The Board of Revenue also committed the same error in deciding the revision without considering the reports submitted by Tehsil authorities with respect to the valuation of plots under exchange. Moreover, the Board of Revenue has considered the new aspect of the matter showing unwillingness of Gaon Sabha in exchange of plots in question. There is nothing on record to show the reluctant attituted of Gaon Sabha in exchanging the plots in question. Counsel for Gaon Sabha has failed to place any document to prove that the resolution dated 04.06.2017 was ever reversed by the subsequent resolution. Under the law, resolution dated 04.06.2017 still considered to be in existence.

14. In this conspectus as above, this Court finds force in the present writ petition. Learned counsel for Gaon Sabha has failed to substantiate his submissions in supporting the impugned orders. Resultantly, the impugned order dated 12.10.2010 (Annexure-14) passed by respondent no. 2 and the order dated 30.10.2018 passed by respondent no. 3 (Annexure-12) are hereby quashed and the parties are relegated before the respondent no.3 who is hereby directed to revisit the matter, considering the maintainability of objection dated 27.06.2018 and the reports submitted by Tehsil authorities from time to time strictly in accordance with law, after giving proper opportunity of hearing to the parties.

15. Accordingly, the present writ petition is partly allowed.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1860- Section 8- Motive- Circumstantial evidence - No doubt, in a case based on circumstantial evidence, motive has a role, particularly in assessing the probative value of the incriminating circumstances and it may serve as a vital link to the chain of circumstances but motive by itself is not sufficient to hold the accused guilty.

Settled law that in a case based on circumstantial evidence, motive may be one of the links of the circumstances, but the charge against the accused cannot be brought home solely on the ground of motive.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1860- Section 8- Subsequent Conduct- Abscondence after commission of offence- The prosecution has been successful in proving that the appellant-Ram Pratap @ Tillu was not available at his last known residence and could only be arrested after about more than five and a half months despite issuance of coercive steps in between. This circumstance is reflective of the conduct of the appellant of making himself scarce soon after the incident, which is relevant under Section 8 of Indian Evidence Act- No doubt, abscondence of an accused is a relevant fact and is admissible under Section 8 of the Indian Evidence Act but abscondance by itself is not a circumstance on the basis of which an accused may be convicted though, in conjunction with other surrounding circumstances, it may serve as a vital link to the chain of incriminating circumstances.

Abscondence of accused serves only as one of the vital links of circumstances against an accused but conviction cannot be based solely upon the factum of Abscondence.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 172- Lapses on part of Investigating Officer- As per Section 172 of Cr.P.C. it is the duty of the investigating Officer to maintain a case diary of the case and note down all the steps of investigation in the case diary on a daily basis. Ordinarily, the lapses on the part of Investigating Officer do not affect the outcome of a criminal trial based on ocular account but in a case based on circumstantial evidence, these lapses assume importance and where the prosecution relies heavily upon recovery/ seizure of incriminating articles from the house of the accused then such recovery/seizure has to be proved beyond the pale of doubt therefore, here, such lapses on the part of Investigating Officer are fatal to the prosecution case.

In a case based on circumstantial evidence, the lapses on the part of the investigating officer are relevant , particularly with regard to search , seizure or recoveries; in distinction to cases based on ocular or direct evidence.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1860- Section 27- Though it cannot be laid as a rule that wherever prosecution has failed to prove the origin of blood found on the article, the recovery is to be held not incriminating but in any case the recovery has to be proved beyond reasonable doubts-Doubted the recovery of blood-stained towel and the lock-alleged recovery is not on the basis of a disclosure statement-When the recovery was made in absentia (i.e. when appellant was not even present in the house) of articles, which are not proved to be bearing human blood much less of the relevant group, in our view, the recovery,firstly, is not duly proved, and secondly, is not to be taken as a clinching circumstance to hold the appellant guilty.

In order to make the recovery admissible, the same has to be proved beyond reasonable doubt. Where the recovery is not based upon a disclosure by the accused and is carried out in his absence, the same could not be held to establish the guilt of the accused.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1860- Sections 3 & 8- Although prosecution might have been successful in proving the motive for the crime against the appellant and also that the appellant made himself scarce after the incident, but except these two circumstances prosecution failed to prove beyond reasonable doubt any other incriminating circumstance on the basis of which we may hold the appellant guilty.Merely on the basis of motive and abscondence, though it may give rise to strong suspicion, the accused cannot be held guilty-In the case at hand, the chain of circumstances pointing to the guilt of appellant could not be completed.

Settled law that suspicion howsoever strong cannot take the place of proof and therefore, the accused cannot be held guilty merely on the basis of motive and subsequent conduct of absconding. (Para 44, 45, 46, 48, 52, 55, 60, 62)

1. The present appeal has been preferred by the appellant, Ram Pratap @ Tillu, against the judgment and order dated 21.3.2020 and 21.5.2020 passed by 8th Additional Sessions Judge, Etawah by which the trial court convicted the appellant under Section 302 IPC and awarded death sentence to him with fine of Rs.5 Lacs and in default two years R.I.

2. As death sentence was awarded, a reference, i.e., Reference No.5 of 2020 was made to the High Court under Section 366 Cr.P.C. for confirmation of death penalty.

INTRODUCTORY FACTS

3. In the present case, six persons of a family, namely, Suresh Chandra, deceased no.1 (in short D-1), Vimla Devi, deceased no.2 (in short D-2), Avnish, deceased no.3(in short D-3), Rashmi, deceased no.4 (in short D-4), Surabhi, deceased no.5 (in short D-5) and Shweta, deceased no.6 (in short D-6), were brutally murdered. Suresh Chandra (D-1) and Vimla Devi (D-2) were husband and wife whereas Avnish (D-3), Rashmi (D-4), Surabhi (D-5) and Shweta (D-6) were their son and daughters.

4. The FIR of the present case was lodged by Hom Singh (PW-1) on 28.5.2012 at about 7.45 AM. As per FIR, Vimla Devi (D-2), sister of informant (PW-1), was married to Suresh Chandra Yadav (D-1). The appellant, Ram Pratap @ Tillu is the brother of Suresh Chandra Yadav (D-1). Both the brothers resided separately and their properties stood divided. The appellant was a criminal minded person. He had disposed of his entire property and was pressurising his brother Suresh Chandra Yadav (D-1) and Vimla Devi (D-2) for additional property and money.

5. According to the FIR, the above circumstances were conveyed by Suresh Chandra Yadav (D-1) to the informant (PW-1) and his brother Suresh (PW-2). Consequently, both PW-1 and PW-2 went to village Pilkhar to pacify the appellant but the appellant continued to pressurise Suresh Chandra Yadav (D-1) for money. On 15.6.2012 the marriage of Avnish (D-3), nephew of the informant (PW-1), was to take place. Due to all these reasons, appellant used to be annoyed with D-1 and kept an evil eye on the property of D-1. It is alleged that with that motive, in the night of 27/28.5.2012, appellant with the help of his associates committed the murder of Suresh Chandra Yadav (D-1), Vimla Devi (D-2), Avnish (D-3), Rashmi (D-4), Surabhi (D-5) and Shweta (D-6) thereby eliminating the entire family of Suresh Chandra Yadav (D-1).

6. The FIR of the present case was registered at Police Station Ikdil, District Etawah as Case Crime No.261 of 2012, under Section 302 IPC. After registration of the case, on 28.5.2012 the Investigating Officer recovered bloodstained and plain soil from the spot. He also recovered bloodstained pieces of clothes and gold earring from the spot and prepared a recovery memo (Ext.Ka-8) in respect thereof. On the same day, Investigating Officer recovered from the spot a piece of bread (Roti), 'Laddoo', 'Kachauri', three empty quarter bottle of wine, bowl containing Dal and potato vegetables in respect of which a recovery memo (Ext.Ka-9) was prepared. Thereafter, from the house of appellant, one bloodstained lock and one piece of bloodstained towel was recovered in respect whereof, a recovery memo Ext.Ka-10 was prepared. Next day, on 29.5.2012, from the spot, bloodstained piece of bedsheets, bloodstained pieces of cots and bloodstained and plain pieces of bricks were also recovered in respect whereof, a recovery memo (Ext.Ka-48) was prepared. During investigation inquest reports were prepared and autopsy of the bodies were conducted. Autopsy reports Ext.42 to Ext.47 revealed as follows:-

7. During investigation, on 19.11.2021 appellant was arrested and at his instance an axe was recovered. Investigating Officer prepared recovery memo of the axe as Ext.Ka-2.

8. After investigation, charge sheet was submitted against the appellant and co-accused Varun Raj. The case was committed to the court of Session and on 12.4.2013 charges under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC were framed against the appellant and co-accused Varun Raj. The appellant and accused Varun Raj denied the charges and claimed trial.

9. During trial, prosecution examined Hom Singh (PW-1), Suresh (PW-2), Malkhan Singh (PW-3), Shiv Raj Singh (PW-4), Ashok Chandra Dubey (PW-5), Vinod Kumar Pandey (PW-6), Devendra Kumar Dwivedi (PW-7), Sudhakar Singh (PW-8), Sanjay Dubey (PW-9), Manish Jaat (PW-10) and Padamakant Dubey (PW-11). Nahne Ram has been examined as CW-1. Out of 11 prosecution witnesses, PW-1, PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4 are witnesses of facts. Rest of the prosecution witnesses are formal witnesses. CW-1, Nahne Ram, the Tehsildar, is a Court witness.

10. After recording the statement of prosecution witnesses, on 14.10.2019 and 26.10.2019 the trial court recorded the statement of accused-appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. In the meantime, on 21.11.2019 public prosecutor filed certified copy of FSL report dated 5.3.2013. On 25.11.2019 learned defence counsel made endorsement "No objection" on the application filed by the public prosecutor and FSL report dated 5.3.2013 was taken on record. Thereafter, on 29.11.2019, 3rd statement of appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded and after that Nanhe Ram, the Tehsildar, was examined as CW-1. Thereafter, on 20.1.2020, fourth statement of appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C.was recorded.

11. On 16.12.2019, certified copy of the FSL report dated 29.8.2013 was filed and after perusing the entire evidence on record, trial court convicted the appellant under Section 302 IPC and awarded him death penalty. Co-accused Varun Raj was acquitted.

12. As according to the trial court the case fell in the category of the rarest of rare cases, trial court awarded death penalty to the appellant.

13. We have heard Sri Yadu Nandan Yadav, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri S.D.Yadav, Advocate holding brief of Sri Ram Naresh Singh, learned counsel for the informant and Sri Amit Sinha, learned AGA, for the State and have perused the record.

SUBMISSIONS MADE ON BEHALF OF APPELLANT

14. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the trial court committed grave error in convicting the appellant as it is a case of no admissible evidence. He submitted that there is no eye witness account of the incident. The prosecution case is based on circumstantial evidence but prosecution has miserably failed to prove the incriminating circumstances and the chain of circumstance could not be proved.

15. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the trial court heavily relied upon motive for the crime and subsequent abscondence of the appellant as incriminating circumstances but they by themselves cannot form basis of conviction. He submitted that the motive shown that after eliminating his brother and his family, the appellant would inherit the property is misconceived because upon conviction for murder of the deceased no one can succeed to the estate of the deceased. Sri Jadu Nandan Yadav, learned counsel for the appellant, submitted that the recovery of bloodstained lock and bloodstained towel is rendered doubtful as one of the independent witnesses of the recovery, namely, Ashok Kumar, was not examined by the prosecution. He contended that as recovery of bloodstained towel is doubtful, serological report is of no value. Even if recovery of bloodstained towel is accepted, it cannot be said that the blood found on the piece of towel is of the deceased persons inasmuch as there is no serological report to indicate that the blood group of the deceased matched with the blood found on the towel. Moreover, there is no report on record regarding the blood group of any of the deceased persons. Therefore, mere presence of blood on the recovered piece of towel is of no consequence and cannot be taken as an incriminating circumstance to hold the appellant guilty.

16. Learned counsel for the appellant also submitted that the incriminating circumstances, that is of abscondence of the appellant and recovery of bloodstained towel and lock from the house of the appellant, were not put to the appellant while recording his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. which caused prejudice to him therefore, those circumstances were to be eschewed. Hence, the appellant is entitled to be acquitted.

17. In the alternative, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the facts of the case and the nature of evidence led do not warrant a death penalty.

SUBMISSIONS MADE ON BEHALF OF THE STATE AND THE INFORMANT

18. Learned AGA as well as the informant's counsel submitted that the prosecution has successfully proved the guilt of appellant beyond reasonable doubt and the trial court rightly convicted the appellant in the present case.

19. Learned AGA submitted that the appellant is the real brother of Suresh Chandra Yadav (D-1) and immediately after the crime, he absconded and could only be arrested after six months. His conduct shows he was guilty. Moreover, he eliminated the entire family of his brother only to grab his property and after the incident, property of his brother, Suresh Chandra Yadav (D-1), came to the appellant and appellant executed a Power of Attorney in favour of his wife Smt. Manju to enable transfer of the property in favour of his daughter (Diksha). Thereafter, Diksha disposed off the entire property for Rs. Five crores. Thus, the motive for the crime stands duly proved as against the appellant.

20. Learned AGA also submitted that the appellant offered no explanation in respect of blood stained towel recovered from his house. Even the recovery was not challenged during cross-examination of the witnesses. The serological report was also not challenged. In fact, the defence counsel endorsed 'no objection' on the application through which the FSL report was filed. It was submitted that in the present case as many as six person including small children were brutally murdered, therefore, trial court rightly awarded death penalty to the appellant.

21. Having noticed the rival submissions and having perused the entire record of the case, before evaluating the prosecution evidence it would be appropriate to notice in brief the deposition of the prosecution witnesses.

Prosecution witnesses:-

22. Hom Singh PW-1 is the informant, who lodged the FIR of the present case. This witness stated that his sister Vimla Devi (D-2) was married to Suresh Chandra (D-1). Appellant was the sole brother of Suresh Chandra (D-1). Property of both the brothers had already been divided between them. Appellant disposed of his entire property and was eyeing the property of his brother. PW-1 stated that appellant is a criminal minded person and use to pressurize PW-1's sister (D-2) and Suresh Chandra (D-1) for money and property and also use to threaten them. PW-1 further stated that his brother-in-law (D-1) and his sister (D-2) conveyed all these facts to him, as a result, PW-1 and Suresh (PW-2) had gone to village-Pilkhar to settle the matter but in spite of their effort, the appellant continued to harass D-1 and D-2. PW-1 stated that the marriage of Avinash (D-3), his nephew, was fixed for 15.6.2015. Due to that, appellant was annoyed. On 27.5.2012, at about 6:00 pm, his brother-in-law, Suresh Chandra (D-1), informed PW-1 on mobile phone that appellant and co-accused Varun Raj, Kallu, Rajveer, Satyaveer, Dutt Singh and Suresh Chandra have threatened him that as, till date, land has not been transferred in the name of appellant, they will eliminate his entire family in the night itself. As per PW-1, he assured his brother-in-law (D-1) that he will come in the morning. But, in the morning, PW-1 received information that his brother-in-law and his entire family has been killed. PW-1 proved the written report as Ext. Ka 1. PW-1 also stated that associates of appellant have threatened him that if he does not compromise the matter then his entire family will also be eliminated.

23. In his cross-examination, PW-1 stated that two-three times he participated in a panchayat held to settle the property dispute between the appellant and Suresh Chandra (D-1). PW-1 also stated that the mobile on which he received the phone call from Suresh Chandra (D-1) has been lost and, therefore, he could not provide its number as he is illiterate. He denied the suggestion that deceased No. 1 did not give him a phone call.

24. Suresh has been examined as PW-2. He is brother of Hom Singh (PW-1). In his statement PW-2 stated that his sister Vimla Devi (D-2) was married to Suresh Chandra Yadav (D-1). PW-2 stated that the brother of Suresh Chandra Yadav (D-1), namely, Rampratap @ Tillu (appellant), lived separately and the property had been divided between brothers. PW-2 reiterated that the appellant is a criminal type of a person and as he had disposed of his entire property, he was pressurizing his brother (D-1) and D-1's wife (D-2) for money and property. PW-2 stated that one day before the incident, he alongwith his brother Hom Singh (PW-1) went to settle the matter but all their efforts were in vain. PW-2 stated that 15.6.2012 was the date fixed for the marriage of his nephew Avnish (D-3), invitation cards had also been distributed but, in the night of 27/28.5.2012, appellant along with his associates, namely, Varun and Dileep, killed his brother-in-law Suresh Chandra(D-1); his sister Vimla Devi (D-2); his nephew Avnish (D-3); his neices Rashmi (D-4), Shweta (D-5) and Surbhi (D-6). In his cross-examination, PW-2 admitted that the appellant had a separate residence in the village where his brother-in-law Suresh Chandra (D-1) resided.

25. Malkhan Singh has been examined as PW-3. This witness stated that on 28.5.2012, after receiving information about the murder of Suresh Chandra (D-1) and his family members, he arrived at village-Pilkhar. In his presence, from the spot, blood stained soil and other materials were recovered. PW-3 stated that Investigating Officer prepared recovery memo i.e. Paper No. 8Ka/1, 8Ka/2, 8 Ka/3 and 8Ka/4 which were read over to him and after hearing the contents of these recovery memos, he had put his signatures. In his cross-examination, this witness denied the suggestion that recovery memo was not prepared before him and that he put his signature on plain papers. PW-3 also denied the suggestion that the entire paper work was done at the police station. Interestingly, PW-3 did not specifically state that recovery of blood stained towel and lock was made from the house of appellant. He only stated that paper No.8Ka/3 (Ext.Ka.10) was read over to him and was signed by him.

26. Shivraj Singh was examined as PW-4. According to this witness, he and alongwith Rajesh @ Pappu (not examined) had gone to Barthana for some work on 10.11.2012. At the outskirts of Barthana, he met the appellant on a motor cycle. At that time, there were two more persons with the appellant who disclosed their name as Dilip and Vikas @ Varun. They stated that Hom

Singh (PW-1), who comes from PW-4's family, has lodged an FIR against the appellant in respect of murder of his brother and his brother's family, therefore, he should ensure that the matter is settled. In this way, PW-4 tried to prove that the appellant had confessed his guilt. In his cross-examination, PW-4 stated that he went to Barthana to buy items for domestic use. He, however, could not disclose either the location of the shop or the name of the shopkeeper. PW-4 also stated that the day when he met the accused persons, the Sub Inspector had recorded his statement at about 10.00 AM. Interesting, PW-4 stated that he went to the market at around 12 pm and was there till 4-5 pm. In these circumstances, it be noted the trial court discarded the testimony of this witness.

27. Ashok Chandra Dubey is PW-5. This witness stated that he prepared parcha No. 4 of the case diary and perused the investigation parchas prepared earlier by the earlier Investigating Officer and started investigation of the case on 28.10.2012. On 30.10.2012 he recorded another statement of Hom Singh (PW-1) as also the statements of witnesses of recovery, namely, Ashok Kumar (not examined) and Malkhan Singh (PW-3). On 19.11.2012, he arrested appellant-Rampratap @ Tillu and, at his pointing out, recovered country-made pistol, empty cartridge and two motor cycles. He also stated that at the pointing out of the appellant, an axe, allegedly used in the crime, was recovered on 19.11.2012 in respect whereof, he prepared recovery memo (Ext.Ka-2). PW-5 also proved the site plan including its index (Ext. Ka-3) and proved submission of charge sheet (Ext. Ka-4) on 17.1.2013. In his cross-examination, PW-5 stated that after the arrest of appellant he did not record his statement at the spot. However, according to PW-5, on 19.11.2012 axe was recovered on the pointing out of the appellant from roof of the shop of Rajveer (not examined). PW-5 admitted that recovery of the axe was made after about six months of the incident.

28. Vinod Kumar Pandey has been examined as PW-6. This witness is the first Investigating Officer of the case. PW-6 stated that on 28.5.2012, he was posted as Station House Officer at P.S. Ikdil, Etawah and on that day, Hom Singh (PW-1) handed over a written report against appellant and his associates in respect of murder of six persons of the family of his brother-in-law. He recorded the statement of PW-1 and inspected the spot and recovered blood-stained and plain soil from the spot alongwith blood stained golden earring and prepared recovery memo (Ext.Ka-8). He also prepared the site plan (Ext. Ka-6) of the spot. PW-6 also prepared the site plan (Ext. Ka 7) of the house of appellant; and recovery memo (Ext.Ka-9) of food items including empty quarter bottles of wine found in the house of the deceased. PW-6 stated that he recovered a blood stained lock and blood stained towel from the house of the appellant. He proved the recovery memo of the same as Ext. Ka 10. PW-6 also produced these items in Court as material Ext. ka-2 to ka-16. In his cross-examination, PW-6 stated that Parcha No. 1 of the case diary is not in his hand writing. He also stated that details of both the site plans i.e. Ext. Ka-6 and Ka-7 were not in his writing. PW-6 stated that the site plan Ex. Ka-6 and Ex. Ka-7 were prepared on the instructions of the informant and at his pointing out.PW-6 admitted that the sample seal of material exhibits is not available on record as it was sent to the Forensic Laboratory. PW-6 denied the suggestion that he did not inspect the spot and that he completed the investigation exercise sitting at the police station.

29. Devendra Kumar Dwivedi has been examined as PW-7. He is the 3rd Investigating Officer of the case. He stated that on 5.8.2012, he was posted at Police Station-Ikdil and during investigation of the case, he prepared Parcha No. 20 of the case Diary. On 17.8.2012, he prepared parcha No. 21. He disclosed about his attempts to arrest the appellant-Rampratap @ Tillu. In his cross-examination, PW-7 stated that parcha Nos. 20 and 21 of the case diary were not in his hand writing and that those were in the hand writing of Head Constable. Likewise, parcha Nos. 22 and 23 of the case diary was also not in his hand writing.

30. S.I. Sudhakar Singh has been examined as PW-8. He was a Sub Inspector posted at Police Station Ikdil. On 28.5.2012, he prepared the inquest report of Suresh Chandra (D-1) (Ext.Ka-11) and his wife Smt. Vimla Devi (D-2) (Ext.Ka-16). PW-8 proved the inquest reports of Suresh Chandra (D-1) and Smt. Vimla Devi (D-2) as Ext.Ka-11 and Ka-16. He also proved preparation of other documents, like, Challan Nash, Photo Nash etc. which were marked as Ext. Ka-11 to Ka-20. PW-8 stated that inquest report of Avnish Chandra (D-3) and Km. Surabhi (D-4) was prepared by HCP Amar Singh, who has since retired. He stated that inquest report of Km. Rashmi (D-5) and Km. Shweta (D-6) was prepared by SI Babu Lal Dohre, who has since expired. PW-8 proved the inquest report of Avnish Chandra (D-3), Km. Surabhi (D-4), Km. Rashmi (D-5) and Km. Shweta (D-6) which were marked as Ka-21, Ka-26, Ka-32 and Ka-37, respectively He also proved other documents, like, Challan Nash, Photo Nash etc.

31. PW-9 Sanjay Dube, Nursing Assistant, CHC Jashwant Nagar, Etawah. According to this witness, on 28.5.2012 he was posted as Nursing Assistant at Police Hospital, Etawah and he was present along with Dr. D.P.Singh at the post mortem house. He stated that on that day autopsy of all the six deceased persons was conducted by Dr. D.P.Singh. PW-9 proved the post mortem reports of all the six deceased persons as Ext.Ka.42 to Ka-47. This witness identified/proved the signature of Dr. D.P.Singh on the post mortem reports.

32. In his cross-examination PW-9, Sanjay Dubey, stated that he was not assigned duty in the post mortem house. He denied the suggestion that Dr. D.P.Singh did not prepare the post mortem report in his presence. He also stated that his job is to note the name of the dead body. He stated that in the post mortem house only the Doctor who conducts the post mortem and Sweeper are present. PW-9 admitted that he was not in the post mortem house at the time of autophy. He also admited that the entries in autopsy reports Ext.Ka-42 to Ka-47 were not made in his presence. He stated that he cannot state about the contents of the autopsy reports. PW-9, however, denied the suggestion that he wrongly verified the signature of Dr. D.P.Singh who conducted the autopsy of the bodies.

33. The prosecution examined Manish Jaat as PW-10. He is the second Investigating Officer of the case. He stated that on 29.5.2012 he was assigned investigation of the present case. On 29.8.2012 he prepared CD Parcha No. 2 and recorded the clarificatory statement of the informant. On 30.5.2012 he prepared CD ParchaNo. 3 and made copy of inquest report and autopsy reports. On 29.5.2012 prepared the recovery memo (Ext. Ka-48) of all bloodstained items recovered from the spot. He deposed about attempts to arrest the appellant. On 7.6.2012 he prepared CD Parcha No.8 in respect of obtaining the process under Section 82 Cr.P.C. against the appellant. In CD Parcha no.15 of the case diary, dated 29.6.2012, he entered his efforts to arrest the appellant, He also conducted raids on the house of appellant and his sister to arrest the appellant,which was entered in CD Parcha No. 17, dated 8.7.2012, and in Parcha no. 18, dated 11.7.2012. He also copied the list of the items seized from the house of the appellant under Section 83 Cr.P.C. He stated that after making entry in CD parcha no. 19, dated 3.8.2012, he was transferred.

34. In his cross-examination PW-10 stated that parcha nos. 2 to 18 of the case diary are in one writing but they are not in his handwriting. PW-10 stated that informant is a resident of village Bandhana; he was not a witness of the incident; and that he arrived at the place of the incident on receipt of information from the villagers. He also stated that the previous Investigating Officer did not lift any item from the spot even though it was there and it was PW-10 who prepared the memo Ext.Ka.48. He further stated that witnesses of recovery memo (Ext.Ka-48) were not from that village but from a place falling under other Police Stations. PW-10 stated that he did not prepare site plan of the spot. He also stated that during investigation he did not record statement of any witness of fact or of any formal witness. He, however, denied the suggestion that he did not inspect the spot or had completed the investigation sitting at home.

35. Head Constable, Padamkant Dubey, has been examined as PW-11. He proved the chik FIR (Ext.Ka-49) and G.D.entry (Ext.Ka-50) in respect thereof. PW-11 stated stated that Sushil Kumar, who prepared chik FIR (Ext.Ka-49) and G.D.entry (Ext.Ka-50) had died. He proved the entries by recognizing his handwriting and signature.

36. Nahne Ram, Tehsildar, has been examined as CW-1. This witness stated that Ram Sanehi (father of the appellant) died on 10.11.1997 and after his death his agricultural land was equally divided between his two sons, namely, Suresh Chandra (D-1) and Ram Pratap (appellant). He stated that the appellant disposed of his entire agricultural land between the year 2004 and 2011 through six sale deeds. CW-1 stated that half of the ancestral land of Suresh Chandra (D-1) was inherited by the appellant vide entry dated 25.7.2015. On 7.2.2016, appellant executed a power of attorney in favour of his wife, Manju. On 12.4.2016, Manju executed a sale deed of the property in favour of her minor daughter, Km. Diksha Yadav @ Aaradhya and for 22 plots of different sizes, she executed sale deeds in favour of several persons. Later , in the year 2019, Km. Diksha Yadav, daughter of the appellant, after attainment of majority, executed six sale deeds in favour of different persons of the property which came to her on transfer from her mother. According to CW-1, these properties were located on National Highways No.2 and were extremely valuable with a going rate of about Rs. Two Crores per hectare. He stated that the properties sold using power of attorney would be of the value of about Rs. Five Crores.

37. In his cross-examination, CW-1 stated that, during investigation, the Investigating Officer did not record his statement. CW-1 admitted that the appellant inherited the property of Suresh Chandra (D-1) and being the owner had all the rights to transfer the property.

38. After statements of the prosecution witnesses were recorded, trial court recorded the statement of appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on 14.10.2019, 26.10.2019 and 29.11.2019. After the statement of CW-1 was recorded an additional statement of the appellant was recorded on 20.1.2020.

39. On 21.11.2019 the prosecution filed a certified copy of the FSL report through an application on which, on 25.11.2019, defence counsel endorsed "No objection" as a consequence whereof, the same was taken on record.

40. The trial court convicted and sentenced the appellant as above.

Analysis:-

41. The present case is based on circumstantial evidence. There is no eye witness account of the murders/incident. As to when conviction can be recorded in a case based on circumstantial evidence, the law is well settled. For the sake of brevity, instead of noticing multiple legal pronouncements in that regard, we deem it appropriate to notice a recent decision of a three-Judge Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Shatrughna Baban Meshram Vs. State of Maharashtra (2021) 1 SCC 596, where, in paragraph 42, legal principles to be followed in a case based on circumstantial are crystallised as follows :-

".....42. Before we deal with the second submission on sentence, it must be observed that as laid down by this Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra [(1984) 4 SCC 116], a case based on circumstantial evidence has to face strict scrutiny. Every circumstance from which conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must be fully established; the circumstances should be conclusive in nature and tendency; they must form a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused; and such chain of circumstances must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and must exclude every possible hypothesis except the one sought to be proved by the prosecution. The decision in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda V. State of Maharashtra [(1984) 4 SCC 116] had noted the consistent view on the point including the decision of this Court in Hanumant v. State of M.P. [1952 SCR 1091] in which a bench of three judges of this Court had ruled (AIR pp 345-46, para 10):-

"10. It is well to remember that in cases where the evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should in the first instance be fully established, and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. Again, the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so far complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show that within all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

42. Keeping the aforesaid legal principles in mind, we shall evaluate the prosecution evidence. In the present case, prosecution had relied upon following circumstances:-

(A) Motive;

(B) Long abscondence of appellant Ram Pratap @ Tillu;

(C) Receipt of phone call by the informant-Hom Singh (PW-1) from Suresh Chandra (D-1) in the evening, preceding the night of the incident, that the appellant has threatened to kill D-1 and his family.

(D) Recovery of blood stained lock and blood stained towel from the house of the appellant;

(E) Extra judicial confession of the appellant before Shiv Raj Singh (PW 4);

(F) Recovery of blood stained axe on the pointing out of appellant;

(G) The serologist report which indicated presence of blood on the towel recovered from the house of appellant.

Motive:-

43. In the present case the motive set up by the prosecution is that the appellant who is the brother of Suresh Chandra Yadav (D-1) wanted to grab D-1's property as the appellant had already disposed off his entire property. Hom Singh, the informant (PW-1), and Suresh PW-2 stated that several times they participated in a Panchayat held to resolve the dispute between the appellant and the deceased No. 1 (Suresh Chandra). As per their testimony, appellant had already disposed of his entire property therefore he use to pressurize Suresh Chandra (D-1) and his wife Vimla (D-2) for money and property and to grab D-1's property, appellant committed the murder of his brother (D-1) and of his entire family. Tehsildar-Nanhey Ram (CW-1) stated that after death of D-1's father, the entire property equally devolved upon Suresh Chandra (D-1) and Ram Pratap (appellant) but appellant disposed of his entire property by executing registered deeds between the year 2004 and 2011. CW-1 further proved that after the death of Suresh Chandra (deceased No. 1), half of the property was inherited by the appellant on 25.7.2015 regarding which, on 7.2.2016, appellant executed power of attorney in favour of his wife, Manju and, on 12.4.2016, Manju, executed a sale deed in favour of her daughter Km. Diksha Yadav @ Aradhya. In addition to that she executed sale deeds in favour of different persons of 22 plots and, later, after attaining majority, Diksha (daughter of appellant), in the year 2019, executed sale deeds of the properties in favour of different persons. CW-1 proved that the property of Suresh Chandra (D-1) was very valuable and the property transferred through several sale deeds would be worth Rs. Five crores.

44. Thus, from the statement of Hom Singh (informant) PW-1, Suresh (PW-2) and Nanhey Ram-Tehsildar (CW-1), it is proved that appellant was a beneficiary of his brother's murder and could, therefore, be said to have motive to wipe out his brother Suresh Chandra (D-1) and his entire family to grab his property.

No doubt, in a case based on circumstantial evidence, motive has a role, particularly in assessing the probative value of the incriminating circumstances and it may serve as a vital link to the chain of circumstances but motive by itself is not sufficient to hold the accused guilty.

State of Maharashtra reported in [(2007) 13 SCC (501) observed as follows:-

".....26. Proof of motive by itself may not be a ground to hold the accused guilty. Enmity, as is well-known, is a double edged weapon. Whereas existence of a motive on the part of an accused may be held to be the reason for committing crime, the same may also lead to false implication. Suspicion against the accused on the basis of their motive to commit the crime cannot by itself lead to a judgment of conviction."

Long abscondence of the appellant-

45. According to the prosecution, after the incident, appellant absconded and in spite of best efforts, he could not be promptly arrested. The statement of Sub Inspector-Ashok Chandra Dubey (PW-5) shows that appellant was arrested on 19.11.2012 i.e. after about five and a half months of the incident. Sub Inspector-Manish Jaat (PW-10), one of the Investigating Officers of the case, stated that on 7.6.2012, he approached the Court to obtain process under Section 82 Cr.P.C. against the appellant and on 8.6.2012, he got a news item published in news paper for the arrest of the appellant and thereafter, he tried to obtain a proclamation against the appellant under Section 83 Cr.P.C. Later, on 11.7.2012, in Parcha No. 18, PW-10 entered the list of the articles attached from the house of appellant. Thus, the testimony of Sub Inspector- Manish Jaat (PW-10), one of the Investigating Officers, reveals that efforts were made to arrest the appellant and as the appellant made himself scarce coercive processes under Sections 82 & 83 Cr.P.C. were undertaken to secure his arrest. From this it can be held that the prosecution has been successful in proving that the appellant-Ram Pratap @ Tillu was not available at his last known residence and could only be arrested after about more than five and a half months despite issuance of coercive steps in between. This circumstance is reflective of the conduct of the appellant of making himself scarce soon after the incident, which is relevant under Section 8 of Indian Evidence Act. Illustration (i) to Section 8 Evidence Act says:-

"(i) A is accused of a crime. The facts that, after the commission of the alleged crime, he absconded, or was in possession of property or the proceeds of property acquired by the crime, or attempted to conceal things which were or might have been used in committing it, are relevant."

46. The Supreme Court in the case of Sujit Biswas Vs. State of Assam [2013 (12) SCC 406] observed in paragraph 23, as follows:-

"23..... the mere abscondence of an accused does not lead to a firm conclusion of his guilty mind. An innocent man may also abscond in order to evade arrest, as in light of such a situation, such an action may be part of the natural conduct of the accused. Abscondence is in fact relevant evidence, but its evidentiary value depends upon the surrounding circumstances, and hence, the same must only be taken as a minor item in evidence for sustaining conviction. (See: Paramjeet Singh V. State of Uttarakhand, (2010) 10 SCC 439; and S.K. Yusuf v. State of W.B., (2011) 11 SCC 754." Thus, no doubt, abscondence of an accused is a relevant fact and is admissible under Section 8 of the Indian Evidence Act but abscondance by itself is not a circumstance on the basis of which an accused may be convicted though, in conjunction with other surrounding circumstances, it may serve as a vital link to the chain of incriminating circumstances.

CALL OF D-1 To PW-1 ON THE EVE OF THE INCIDENT:

47. Hom Singh (PW 1) stated that on the eve of the incident, at about 6 pm, he received a phone call from his brother-in-law Suresh Chandra (D-1) that appellant has threatened him that D-1's entire family will be killed in the night. In his cross examination, PW-1 neither disclosed the mobile number on which the call was received nor mobile number of D-1 from which the alleged call was made. Interestingly, PW-1, to avoid close cross-examination, stated that the mobile on which he received the call from Suresh Chandra (D-1) has been lost. In these circumstances, the statement of PW-1 in respect of receipt of phone call from the deceased on the eve of the incident does not inspire our confidence. We are therefore of the view that prosecution cannot take help of this alleged circumstance, inasmuch as, prosecution has failed to prove the said circumstance beyond reasonable doubt.

Recovery of blood stained lock and blood stained towel from the house of the appellant-

48. The fourth circumstance relied by the prosecution is recovery of blood stained lock and towel from the house of the appellant on 28.5.2012, i.e. on the day, FIR of the present case was lodged. PW-6, Sub Inspector- Vinod Kumar Pandey, first Investigating Officer of the case, stated that on 28.5.2012 he recovered a blood stained lock and blood stained piece of towel from the house of appellant and he prepared a seizure memo (Ext. Ka-10). Perusal of the seizure memo dated 28.5.2012 reveals that on 28.5.2012, Vinod Kumar Pandey (PW-6) in the presence of two witnesses, namely, Malkhan Singh (PW-3) and Ashok Kumar (not examined), recovered/seized a blood stained lock and blood stained towel from the house of the appellant. Strangely enough, in the seizure memo (Ext. Ka-10), dated 28.5.2012, no time is mentioned and except the signature of Vinod Kumar Pandey (PW-6), the Investigating Officer, there is no signature of any other police personnel who was in the team of Policemen headed by Vinod Kumar Pandey (PW-6) at the time the house of the appellant was searched. If PW-6 alone carried out the search then it creates a serious doubt about the whole exercise as to why he did not involve the other team members in the exercise. Further, it is also not clear from the seizure memo (Ext. Ka 10), dated 28.5.2012, as to whet the verandah from where the blood stained towel was recovered could be accessed from outside or not. If that verandah was accessible from outside, the presence of towel would not be of much significance. Notably, the towel was not recovered on the basis of a disclosure statement but in a search operation. Therefore, it was necessary for the prosecution to establish that the place from where recovery of the towel was made was not accessible to all and sundry but only to the accused by showing that he had been in exclusive control or possession of that house. It is also not mentioned in the seizure memo (Ext. Ka-10), dated 28.5.2012, as to how witnesses Malkhan Singh (PW-3) and Ashok Kumar (not examined) were present at the time of search even though they were residents of different village.

49. Site plan (Ext. Ka-7) shows that the blood stained towel was recovered from place-'B' which is an inner portion of the house. A careful scrutiny of the site plan (Ex.Ka-7) would reflect that the lock was recovered from the main door (Point no.A) which opens in the front verandah. In this front verandah there is opening of two more rooms. One is of appellant's wife Manju and the other is towards east. Both these rooms have entry to other portions of the house including the inner verandah as well as point "B' from where the alleged towel was recovered. Neither the seizure memo (Ext.Ka-10) nor the site plan shows that those two rooms were found locked. Hence, there is no clinching evidence that the inner verandah where "Point B' is located was not accessible from outside. Interestingly, in his cross examination, PW-6 (Vinod Kumar Pandey) stated that he prepared the site plan (Ext.Ka-7) of the house of the appellant on the instructions of informant-(Hom Singh)(PW-1). He also stated that he prepared the site plan (Ext. ka-7) of the house of appellant exactly as narrated by Hom Singh (PW-1). This is strange because perusal of seizure memo (Ext. Ka-10) dated 28.5.2012 would show that search and seizure was made in the presence of witnesses Malkhan Singh (PW-3) and Ashok Kumar (not examined) but not Hom Singh (PW-1) i.e.informant. It is not even mentioned in seizure memo dated 28.5.2012 (Ext. Ka-10) that at the time of search and seizure, PW-1 was present. In fact, there is no signature of PW-1 on Ext. Ka-10.

50. Further, PW-3 Malkhan Singh does not state that the blood stained lock and blood stained towel was recovered in his presence from the house of appellant. He only stated that paper No. 8 Ka/3 (Ext. Ka-10) was prepared before him and read over to him and thereafter, he put his signature thereon. The testimony of PW-3 therefore does not support the recovery of lock and towel although it supports the preparation of recovery memo. The other witness of the recovery, namely, Ashok Kumar has not been examined.

51. In addition to above, PW-6 Vinod Pandey, the Investigating Officer, stated that he did not himself prepare parcha No. 1 of the case diary dated 28.5.2012 and that it is not mentioned in the case diary as to who has written Parcha No. 1. He also admitted that Parcha No. 1 to 16 of the case diary are in one handwriting. If parcha No.1 of the case diary dated 28.5.2012 has not been written by PW-6, the Investigating Officer, who allegedly made recovery of blood stained towel and lock from the house of appellant on 28.5.2012, and it is not known as to who wrote parcha No.1, then the entire exercise of recovery of blood stained items from the house of appellant is rendered doubtful. Similar statements have been given by other Investigating Officers. Sub Inspector Devendra Kr. Dwivedi (PW 7), in his cross examination, stated that parcha Nos. 20 and 21 of the case diary are not in his hand writing. He also admitted that parcha Nos. 22 and 23 are not in his handwriting. In fact, he could not disclose as to who had written parcha Nos. 22 and 23 of the case diary. Further, PW-10, Sub Inspector, Manish Jaat, in his cross examination, stated that parcha Nos. 2 to 18 are in one handwriting but those were not in his handwriting.

52. In our opinion, these circumstances suggest that investigation of the present case was not conducted properly. Rather, it appears tainted. As per Section 172 of Cr.P.C. it is the duty of the investigating Officer to maintain a case diary of the case and note down all the steps of investigation in the case diary on a daily basis. Ordinarily, the lapses on the part of Investigating Officer do not affect the outcome of a criminal trial based on ocular account but in a case based on circumstantial evidence, these lapses assume importance and where the prosecution relies heavily upon recovery/ seizure of incriminating articles from the house of the accused then such recovery/seizure has to be proved beyond the pale of doubt therefore, here, such lapses on the part of Investigating Officer are fatal to the prosecution case.

53. Thus, on the basis of the discussion above, we are of the view that the alleged recovery of blood stained lock and bloodstained towel from the house of the appellant on 28.5.2012 has not been proved beyond reasonable doubt and it has also not been established beyond reasonable doubt that the place from where the towel was recovered was not accessible without removal of the lock allegedly put on the main door.

Extra Judicial Confession-

54. The fifth circumstance relied by the prosecution is extra judicial confession alleged to have been made by appellant before Shivraj Singh (PW-4). The law in respect of the value of an extra judicial confession is settled by a catena of decisions of the Apex Court. The Apex Court in the case of Sahadevan Vs. State of Tamil Nadu reported in [2012 (6) SCC 403] observed as follows:-

"14. It is a settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that extra-judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence. Wherever the Court, upon due appreciation of the entire prosecution evidence, intends to base a conviction on an extra- judicial confession, it must ensure that the same inspires confidence and is corroborated by other prosecution evidence. If, however, the extra- judicial confession suffers from material discrepancies or inherent improbabilities and does not appear to be cogent as per the prosecution version, it may be difficult for the court to base a conviction on such a confession. In such circumstances, the court would be fully justified in ruling such evidence out of consideration."

The case of Sahadevan (supra) has been discussed and approved by a three Judges Bench of Supreme Court in the case of Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan Vs. State of Gujarat etc. reported in (2020) 14 SCC 750.

In the instant case, as per Shivraj Singh (PW 4), on 10.11.2012, when he alongwith Rajesh @ Pappu (not examined) had gone to village-Bharthana, the appellant alongwith two other co-accused, Dileep and Vikku@Varun, had contacted him and had informed him about the existence of FIR against the appellant in respect of the murder and had requested PW-4 to ensure a settlement at any cost. In his cross examination, Shivraj Singh (PW-4) stated that on 10.11.2012 i.e., the date when he met the appellant, his statement was recorded by the police at 10:00 am. He stated that he had gone to market at about 12:00 noon and remained there till 4-5 pm. PW-4 could not disclose the location of the shop which he had visited that date. Thus, if the statement of Shivraj Singh (PW-4) was recorded at about 10.00 AM how could he have made a disclosure about the meeting with the appellant when he had allegedly met him after noon. Thus, the statement of PW-4 does not inspire our confidence. Moreover, the statement of PW-4 is not in respect of any specific statement made by the appellant by way of confession of his guilt but it is in respect of the knowledge of the FIR being lodged against him and for settlement of the matter. We are, therefore, in agreement with the finding of the trial court that the testimony of PW-4 (Shivraj Singh) is not worthy of credit. We therefore discard the circumstance of extra judicial confession alleged to have been made by the appellant.

Recovery of blood stained axe on the pointing out of the appellant-

55. According to the prosecution, on 19.11.2012 appellant was arrested and on his pointing out a bloodstained axe was recovered. S.I. Ashok Chandra Dubey (PW-5) stated about the recovery of axe at the instance of the appellant. Recovery memo of axe (Ext. Ka-2) shows that on 19.11.2012 at the instance of the appellant from the roof of a shop of Rajbeer Singh (not examined) a bloodstained axe was recovered. Learned AGA submitted that recovery of axe is admissible under Section 27 of Indian Evidence Act and is therefore an incriminating circumstance against the appellant. Notably, the alleged axe was recovered after about five and half months of the incident and that too, from an open place which is not proven to be inaccessible or concealed. Rather, it is an open roof, therefore, in our view, it has hardly any relevance more so, when there is no evidence on record to show that the axe was sent for forensic examination to find out whether there was presence of human blood on it. Thus, in our view, recovery of the axe cannot be treated as an incriminating circumstance to convict the appellant for the murder of the deceased.

Serological Report-

56. As, we have already disbelieved the recovery of bloodstained lock and bloodstained towel from the house of appellant, the report of the serologist loses its relevance. Even otherwise though the serologist report dated 05.03.2013 (paper no. 122 ka/2) shows presence of blood on the towel but its origin is not ascertained. Report of the serologist shows that the sample quantity on the lock was so small that it could not be ascertained whether it was bloodstained or not. The note of serologist on the report suggests that in respect of the origin and classification of the blood, a separate report was awaited. Order-sheet of the case dated 16.12.2019 shows that Pairokar of Police Station Ikdil filed a supplementary case diary, alongwith certified copy of FSL report dated 29.8.2013. FSL report dated 29.8.2013 shows that origin of the blood on the piece of towel (recovered from the house of appellant) could not be ascertained as it got disintegrated. Thus, there is no clinching evidence that the blood found on the towel was human blood much less of the group of the deceased.

57. In the case of Raghav Prapanna Tripathi Vs. State of U.P. AIR 1963 SC 74 the issue was whether the two missing persons were killed or not because their bodies were not traced out though some blood-staines were found. In that context, in absence of serologist's report that the blood was of human origin, by a majority view, the Supreme Court observed, in paragraph no. 21, as follows:-

"In this connection, reference may also be made to circumstances 9 and 10, relating to the recovery of the bloodstained earth from the house. The blood-stained earth has not been proved to be stained with human blood, Again we are of opinion that it would be far-fetched to conclude from the mere presence of blood-stained earth that earth was stained with human blood and that the human blood was of Kamla and Madhusudhan. These circumstances have, therefore, no evidentiary value."

58. In Balwan Singh Vs. State of Chhattisgarh and another (2019) 7 SCC 781 a three judges Bench of the Apex Court after discussing several earlier judgments of the Supreme Court including the judgment in Raghav Prapanna Tripathi (supra), in paragraph no. 23, held as under:-

"From the aforementioned discussion, we can summarise that if the recovery of bloodstained articles is proved beyond reasonable doubt by the prosecution, and if the investigation was not found to be tainted, then it may be sufficient if the prosecution shows that the blood found on the articles is of human origin though, even though the blood group is not proved because of disintegration of blood. The Court will have to come to the conclusion based on the facts and circumstances of each case, and there cannot be any fixed formula that the prosecution has to prove, or need not prove, that the blood groups match."

59. Recently, the Apex Court after discussing all the relevant judgments this regard, in the case of Madhav Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh AIR 2021 SC 4031 observed, in paragraph no. 32, as follows:-

"Therefore, as pointed out by this Court in Balwan Singh Vs. State of Chhattisgarh (2019) 7 SCC 781, there cannot be any fixed formula that the prosecution has to prove, or need not prove that the blood groups match. But the judicial conscience of the Court should be satisfied both about the recovery and about the origin of the human blood."

60. From the above noted judgments of Supreme Court, what emerges is that though it cannot be laid as a rule that wherever prosecution has failed to prove the origin of blood found on the article, the recovery is to be held not incriminating but in any case the recovery has to be proved beyond reasonable doubts. In the instant case, we have already doubted the recovery of blood-stained towel and the lock. Moreover, this alleged recovery is not on the basis of a disclosure statement. In these circumstances, when the recovery was made in absentia (i.e. when appellant was not even present in the house) of articles, which are not proved to be bearing human blood much less of the relevant group, in our view, the recovery,firstly, is not duly proved, and secondly, is not to be taken as a clinching circumstance to hold the appellant guilty.

61. That apart, we also notice that the serologist report dated 29.8.2013 was not even put to appellant u/s 313 Cr.P.C. However, as there is nothing incriminating in it against the appellant, we do not propose to remand the matter to trial court on that ground.

62. In view of the discussion above, we find that although prosecution might have been successful in proving the motive for the crime against the appellant and also that the appellant made himself scarce after the incident, but except these two circumstances prosecution failed to prove beyond reasonable doubt any other incriminating circumstance on the basis of which we may hold the appellant guilty. Merely on the basis of motive and abscondence, though it may give rise to strong suspicion, the accused cannot be held guilty. The Apex Court in case of The State of Odisha Vs. Banabihari Mohapatra and another AIR 2021 SC 1375, in paragraph no. 38, observed:-

"It is well settled by a plethora of judicial pronouncement of this Court that suspicion, howsoever strong cannot take the place of proof. An accused is presumed to be innocent unless proved guilty beyond reasonable doubt. This proposition has been reiterated in Sujit Biswas v. State of Assam reported in AIR 2013 SC 3817."

Recently, a three judges bench of Apex Court in the case of Shailendra Rajdev Paswan (supra), in paragraph 16, observed as follows:-

"16. It is well settled by now that in a case based on circumstantial evidence the Courts ought to have a conscientious approach and conviction ought to be recorded only in case all the links of the chain are complete pointing to the guilt of the accused. Each link unless connected together to form a chain may suggest suspicion but the same in itself cannot take place of proof and will not be sufficient to convict the accused."

63. In the case at hand, the chain of circumstances pointing to the guilt of appellant could not be completed. Therefore, in our view, the appellant is entitled to be acquitted.

64. For all the reasons recorded above, the judgment of the trial court in our opinion cannot be sustained and is liable to be set aside. The appeal is allowed. The reference to confirm the death penalty is answered in negative and reference to confirm the death penalty awarded to accused-appellant Ram Pratap @ Tillu is rejected. The judgment and order of the trial court is set aside. The appellant Ram Pratap @ Tillu is acquitted of all the charges for which he has been tried. The appellant shall be released forthwith, unless wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of the provisions of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. to the satisfaction of the court below.

65. Let a copy of the judgment be sent to the court below for information and compliance.

(Reference No. 12 of 2021)

Virendra Baghel ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellant:
From Jail, Sri Rizwan Ahmad, Sri Dilip Kumar (Senior Adv.)

A.G.A.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872-Circumstantial Evidence-There is no eye witness account of either rape or murder-For conviction to rest solely on circumstantial evidence, it is necessary for the prosecution to prove beyond reasonable doubt each of the circumstances that is to be relied against the accused and must demonstrate that the circumstances form a chain so complete that it leaves no reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and shows that in all human probability the act has been done by the accused.

Settled law that in a case of circumstantial evidence the prosecution has to prove each circumstance beyond reasonable doubt so that the same makes the links of a chain complete pointing only to the guilt of the accused.

Criminal Law-Indian Evidence Act, 1872-Section 3- Chance witness had to explain his presence at the place where he witnessed the deceased in the company of the appellant-Explanation rendered by PW-4 for his presence there is not satisfactory and convincing-Conduct of the chance witness subsequent to the incident is also important, particularly, whether he has informed anyone about the fact.

Where a chance witness fails to explain his presence at the place of occurrence as well as his subsequent conduct, then his testimony cannot be held to be trustworthy and reliable.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872-Sections 25 & 27- Confession made by an accused to the Investigating Officer is concerned, it is not admissible in evidence by virtue of Section 25 of the Indian Evidence Act-However, that portion of the confession that leads to the recovery of any incriminating material, such portion alone, is admissible under Section 27 of the Evidence Act-Material discrepancy in the testimony of witnesses with regard to the time of arrest of the accused. Ordinarily, where the arrest of the accused becomes doubtful a taint gets attached to the testimony of police witnesses with regard to the disclosure of the accused being the basis of recovery-recovery of slippers of the deceased and bricks were allegedly made in the presence of a number of witnesses but none of those witness were examined during trial. Recovery was sought to be proved solely on the basis of testimony of Sanjay Singh (PW-11), the Investigating Officer, whose testimony, in respect of arrest, we have found unreliable.

Only that portion of the confession of the accused that distinctly pertains to the recovery is admissible in evidence but where the arrest is doubtful, independent witnesses have not been examined and the testimony of the investigating officeris also unreliable, then no credibility can be assigned to the recovery.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 293- Human blood on the jeans (pant) of the appellant is not a clinching circumstance against the appellant as it has not been confirmed whether the blood was of the deceased or of the appellant-There was no semen found and so far as blood is concerned its origin was not ascertained, that is, whether it was of the appellant or the deceased- Neither the recovery memo of nail clipping of the appellant nor the medical report of the appellant was prepared and proved. Even the doctor, who examined the appellant and took his nail clipping, was not examined. Further, there is no evidence on record to show that the alleged nail clipping of the appellant was sealed and forwarded to forensic lab for analysis. In absence of these material evidences, merely on the basis of bald statement of the Investigating Officer, it cannot be held that the nail clipping sent to forensic lab was of the appellant. Otherwise also, we do not consider the presence of blood in the nail clipping as a clinching circumstance against the appellant for the reasons: (a) due to disintegration it could not be determined that blood found on nail clipping was human blood; and (b) if one uses nail to scratch one's body, often traces of blood get trapped in the nails hence presence of blood there, in absence of determination of its origin, in our view, is not a clinching incriminating circumstance.

Where the prosecution has failed to ascertain the origin of the blood, as the blood was found to be disintegrated, and has also failed to prove the recovery memo of the nail clipping then the same cannot be said to constitute a clinching evidence against the accused.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 53 A-When the appellant was arrested, as per provisions of Section 53A Cr.P.C., his medical examination should have been conducted. No such medical examination of the appellant has been brought on record much less proved.

Not conducting the medical examination of the accused would be one of the grounds for disbelieving the story of the prosecution.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 106 of the Evidence Act does not absolve the prosecution of its primary responsibility to prove the prosecution case beyond reasonable doubt-Before shifting the burden upon the accused to furnish explanation of the incriminating circumstances appearing against him, it is necessary for the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt-The prosecution has failed to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the deceased was last seen alive with the accused-appellant and that the recoveries were made at the instance of the appellant therefore, burden could not have been placed upon the appellant to explain those circumstances.

Settled law that the burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act cannot be shifted upon the accused before the prosecution proves its case beyond reasonable doubt. (Para 43, 44, 51, 55, 56, 58, 59, 61, 62)

Introductory facts

6. The prosecution story in a nutshell is that an FIR was lodged by PW-1 on 26.04.2019, at about 6.10 hours at Police Station Linepar, District Firozabad, under Section 363 IPC, against unknown person, which was registered as Case Crime No. 61 of 2019. As per the FIR, on 25.04.2019, at about 11.00 AM, the deceased (i.e. daughter of the informant-PW-1), aged about 11 years, had gone missing. The FIR neither named any suspect nor disclosed where the girl could have gone yet, without any basis it was registered under Section 363 IPC.

7. On 26.04.2019, at about 13.16 hours, an information is received by Police Station Basaipur Mohamadpur, Firozabad that dead body of a lady is lying in Gram Sofipur behind the shop of Barashree in a burnt condition. This information is entered as G.D. Entry No. 20 at 13.16 hours on 26.04.2019 whereafter S.I. Sahab Singh (PW-10) arrived at the spot and prepared the inquest report (Ext. Ka-13), by about 16.30 hours. By the time the inquest report was prepared, the identity of the body could not be established. Therefore, inquest proceeding was conducted in respect of an unknown body of a girl aged about 13 years.

8. On 27.04.2019 family members of the deceased identified the dead body as to connect it with the missing girl referred to in Case Crime No. 61 of 2019 (supra).

9. The autopsy of the body was conducted on 27.04.2019 at about 3.30 PM. As per autopsy report (Ext. Ka-4) the body was in a decomposed condition, rigor mortis had passed all over the body and the skin had peeled off at places. The autopsy surgeon found following ante mortem injuries:-

1. Fracture of Nasal Bone and mandible, skin and muscles absent.

2. Fracture right radious and ulna lower part, right palm missing, skin and muscle absent, bone exposed of whole right upper limb

3. Depressed fracture of left tempo parietal, skin absent, bone exposed.

4. Contusion 8cm X 4cm upper part of chest, right of midlime

5. Abraded contusion 18cm X 3cm on back of chest

Note:- Skin and muscle missing at places (face, scalp, right upper limb).

Genital Organs (vagina) found lacerated. Uterus was non gravid. Vaginal smear slide was prepared and sent for examination.

10. As per autopsy report, death occurred about two days before due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante mortem injuries. After autopsy, a sealed bundle of clothes i.e. Salwar, Kurta and one pair of Payal was handed over to police.

11. On 28.04.2019, the appellant was arrested regarding which, an arrest memo (Ext. Ka-10) was prepared and, on his pointing out, four bloodstained bricks and one pair of black colour Chappal (slipper) of the deceased were recovered from the spot on 28.04.2019. Investigating Officer also lifted bloodstained and plain earth from the spot and prepared the recovery memo (Ext. Ka-14). Recovery memo of slipper of deceased is Ext. Ka-15 and recovery memo of bloodstained bricks is Ext. Ka-16. On 28.04.2019, Investigating Officer also seized Jeans (pant) of the appellant which he allegedly wore at the time of the incident and was wearing at the time of arrest. In this regard a seizure memo (Ext. Ka-17) was prepared. The jeans (pant) of the appellant was seized to find out whether it carried semen stain. During investigation, Top, Kurta, one pair Payal, bloodstained and plain earth, Bricks, Jeans (pant of appellant), Vaginal smear and nail clippings of the victim were sent to Forensic Lab, Agra, U.P. Forensic Lab Report, dated 15.06.2019, was forwarded to C.O. Sadar, Firozabad. As per Forensic report, dated 15.06.2019, on all the items blood was found. On item nos. 1 (Top), 2 (Kurta), 4 (earth piece), 5, 6 (Bricks), 7 (Jeans Pant) and 8 (Vaginal smear) human blood was found. On item no. 8 (vaginal smear) blood/sperm of human origin was found. No sperm could be found on Jeans Pant.

12. After investigation, Investigating Officer submitted charge-sheet against the appellant under Sections 363, 302, 376AB, 201 IPC and Section 3(2)(V) SC/ST Act and 5(m) POCSO Act. After submission of charge sheet cognizance was taken and on 26.8.2019 charges were framed under section 363, 302, 376 A B, 201 IPC and 3(2)(v) SC/ST Act and 5(m)/6 POCSO Act against the appellant. Appellant denied all the charges and claimed trial.

Prosecution Evidence

14. PW-1 is the informant of the case. She is the mother of the deceased. She stated that on 25.4.2019, at about 11 am, her daughter (the deceased), aged about 11 years, had gone to play but she did not return. At that time, she (the deceased) wore payjama-kurta. PW-1 stated that report of the incident was dictated by her to X (not examined), who wrote it, and the same was given by her at the police station. The written report was marked Ext. Ka-1. PW-1 stated that, later, she came to know that the appellant raped and killed her daughter by crushing her head with the help of bricks. She further stated that the bricks used in the incident were recovered at the instance of the appellant.

15. During cross-examination, PW-1 stated that she is illiterate but can sign. On the report, she had put her thumb impression. PW-1 stated that the incident is of 25th but she is not aware about the month and the year as she is illiterate. PW-1 stated that now she does not remember who was the scribe of the report. PW-1 stated that she named the appellant. His name was disclosed by her Jethani (PW-2). During cross-examination, PW-1 stated that the house of the appellant is in front of her house and that after lodging the report, the appellant was apprehended by her and others and they took him to the police station. She further stated that she does not remember after how many days of the report, appellant was apprehended and taken to the police station. She also could not tell as to for how many days the appellant was detained at the police station. PW-1 could not tell as to on how many papers police got her thumb impression.

She stated that the written report was dictated by her and was scribed at the police station. She stated that the police did not take her to any other place except the police station. PW-1 also stated that the written report (Ext. Ka-1) was read over to her. She denied the suggestion that the report was not read over to her.

16. PW-2 is the Aunt of the deceased (wife of the elder brother of the father of the deceased). She stated that on 25.4.2019, at about 11:00 AM, when she was sitting at her house, deceased was seen crossing the railway track. PW-2 requested the deceased not to cross the track but she (deceased) did not pay any attention to her advise and crossed the railway track. When the deceased was standing across the track, she saw the accused also crossing the track and talking to the deceased and thereafter the appellant took her away. During cross-examination, PW-2 stated that the railway track is near her house but she does not know the place from where the dead body was recovered. She (PW-2) also stated that she had informed the informant (PW-1) on the same about what she had seen but she was not aware as to who was the accused in the report. PW-2 stated that she witnessed the deceased crossing the railway line at about 11 AM. But after the train passed from the line, she did not see the deceased thereafter. PW-2 stated that the appellant and the deceased were spotted together, talking to each other, for five minutes and, thereafter, where they went she does not know. PW-2 denied the suggestion that she did not witness the deceased in the company of the appellant.

17. PW-3 is the uncle of the deceased. According to PW-3, the deceased was enticed away and killed by the appellant after committing rape. PW-3 stated that the deceased belonged to Bahalia caste, which is a scheduled tribe. During cross-examination, PW-3 stated that on the date of incident, he was not at home. He had gone to buy bangles. He stated that his wife (PW-2) informed him about the incident, at about 3 pm. PW-3 stated that his brother and brother's wife (PW-1) had gone to lodge the report on the date of incident. He stated that he had gone to the police station along with the wife of his brother (PW-1) to lodge the FIR but he is not aware whether any person's name was disclosed in the FIR or not. PW-3 stated that after a day or two of the incident, dead body of the deceased was recovered. PW-3 accepted the suggestion that he did not witness the deceased (i.e. the victim) going with any one and that what he has stated is on the information received from his wife.

18. PW-4 is the neighbour of informant (PW-1). He stated that on 25.4.2019 when he was going to the market, he saw the appellant with the deceased standing in front of a bank in Ram Nagar. He asked the deceased as well as the appellant as to where they were going and the appellant informed him that they were going to the market. PW-4 stated that thereafter he did not see the deceased alive. He stated that the appellant enticed away the deceased, raped and murdered her.

19. During cross-examination, PW-4 stated that he is a graduate and sells bangles. He has no relationship with the family of the deceased and that his house is about 50 meters away from the house of the informant. He stated that on 25.4.2019 he had left his house to go to Shikohabad for business at about 5.30 am; sold bangles till about 10 am and returned back home by about 2.00 pm. PW-4 stated that he used the same path for going and coming back home and on that route no Bank is located. During cross-examination, PW-4 stated that he saw the deceased at Ram Nagar S.B.I. Bank at about 11.30 am but admitted that this information was not given by him either to the informant or to the police.

20. Constable Ravindra Singh, is PW-5. He proved the chik FIR as Ext. Ka-2 and computerized G.D. Entry of kayami mukadma as Ext. Ka-3.

21. In his cross-examination, PW-5 stated that the case was lodged against unknown person and at the police station, the informant (PW-1) and the scribe (not examined) had arrived on 26.4.2019 at 6:10 am in the morning and they had come with a written report (Ext. Ka-1). PW-5 denied the suggestion that he did not prepare the chik FIR as per the application given by the informant (PW-1).

22. Jitendra Singh is PW-6. He is one of the witnesses of the inquest report (Ext. Ka-13). He stated that on 26.4.2019, in Sofipur region of police station Basai Mohammadpur, a dead body of an unknown female was recovered which was in a decomposing state. The inquest of the body was completed by about 1:00 PM.

23. In his cross-examination, PW-6 stated that he is a resident of Sofipur; while he was going towards his field, on the way, seeing the crowd, he stopped; police arrived there 5 to 6 minutes after his arrival; he does not know who informed the police; the dead body was lying in field but he does not know whose field it was. PW-6 stated that dogs had eaten a major portion of the body. The body was carrying a payjama. But the condition of the body was very bad, therefore, it was not possible to identify the same. PW-6 stated that where the body was lying, there were no bushes around.

24. Dr. Anurag Vyas is PW-7. He is the autopsy surgeon who conducted the autopsy of the body, on 27.4.2019. PW-7 stated that he received the body in an unsealed condition. According to PW-7, dead body was in a decomposed condition and rigor mortis had passed from all over the body. Skin peeled off at the places and eyes, mouth, tongue and teeth were not present. He described the injuries noticed by him, which we have already noticed above.

25. According to PW-7, vagina was ruptured and he had prepared a vaginal smear slide and had sent it for pathological examination. According to PW-7, time of death was about two days before autopsy and cause of death was due to ante mortem injuries. PW-7 stated that salwar, kurta and one pair of anklet (after sealing) were sealed and handed over to the police. PW-7 proved the autopsy report as Ext. Ka-4. In his cross-examination, PW-7 stated that the right hand of the body of the deceased was missing, skin and muscles of face and scalp were also missing. According to PW-7, the age of the deceased would be around 13 years. PW-7 stated that the deceased might have taken food 3 to 5 hours before her death. He stated that the body of the deceased was identified as per information provided by father or uncle of the deceased.

26. Baldev Singh Khaneda is PW-8. He is the 3rd Investigating Officer who investigated the case from 21.6.2019. He proved few stages of the investigation and addition of Section 3 (2)(v) SC/ST Act. He proved the charge sheet as Ext. Ka-11.

27. In his cross-examination, PW-8 stated that he perused the caste certificate of the victim (deceased) she was member of SC/ST caste. He stated that during investigation he had asked the doctor whether the victim had been raped and the doctor had confirmed it.

28. PW-9 is Sub Inspector Chhatrapal Singh. He is the first investigating Officer of the case. He stated that on 26.4.2019, he was posted at police station Linepar as Sub Inspector. On registration of the case, he recorded the statement of witnesses including PW-1 (mother of the deceased). PW-9 stated that PW-1 in her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. had expressed suspicion against the appellant and at her instance, he inspected the spot. PW-9 proved the site plan as Ext. Ka-12. PW-9 further stated that on 27.4.2019 it was entered in C.D. Parha No.2 that the kidnapee's body has been recovered and identified by her family members; and that dead body was sent to mortuary for post mortem. He stated that during investigation name of the appellant surfaced and Sections 302, 376 AB IPC ¾ POCSO Act were added whereafter, the investigation was conducted by the Station House Officer.

29. In his cross-examination, PW-9 stated that after lodging the FIR, he went to the house of informant (PW-1) and had recorded her statement. PW-1 supported the FIR and expressed suspicion against the appellant. Other than the name of the appellant, PW-1 did not disclose name of any other person. PW-9 stated that PW-1 had informed him that although nobody was named in the FIR but she has suspicion against the appellant. He further stated that when he went to the house of the appellant he could not find him. PW-9 admitted that neither the dead body of the deceased was recovered by him nor he sent the body for autopsy. He stated that the body was sent for post mortem by police of police station Basai Mohammadpur, Firozabad. PW-9 stated that he received the autopsy report from police station Basai Mohammadpur, Firozabad. PW-9 stated that while he investigated the matter, he could not arrest the appellant because after addition of sections 302, 376 AB IPC, investigation was taken over from him by S.H. O. Sanjay Singh (PW-11). PW-9 stated that except expression of suspicion by PW-1 against the appellant, he could not collect any other evidence against the appellant. PW-9 stated that after recovery of dead body, the name of appellant surfaced in the statement of witnesses. According to those witnesses, the appellant had taken away the deceased.

30. Sub Inspector, Sahab Singh is PW-10. He stated that on 26.4.2019 while he was posted at Basai Mohammadpur, Firozabad he received information from mobile No. 8006288765 at No. 100 that in village Sofipur, behind the shop of Bara, a body of a lady is lying in a burnt condition. After receiving the information, he arrived at spot along with lady constables and prepared the inquest report (Ext. Ka-13). PW-10 produced the clothes of the deceased in Court, which were made material Ext. Nos. 15, 16 and 17.

31. During cross-examination PW-10 stated that the dead body was in a decomposed condition and at the time of inquest, the identity of the body could not be fixed. The body was in a red-green colour kurti, which had yellow prints, and maroon coloured salwar. PW-10 stated that he handed over the clothes in a sealed condition to the police of police station -

Linepar. He stated that after the inquest proceeding, he did not carry out any further investigation of that case.

32. Sub Inspector, Sanjay Singh is P.W. 11. He is the Second Investigating Officer of the case. He stated that on 27.4.2019 he prepared parcha No. II A of the case diary and on 28.4.2019, arrested the appellant who confessed his guilt and on his pointing out, from the spot, blood stained and plain earth was lifted and recovery memo (Ext. Ka 14) was prepared. PW-11 produced the blood stained and plain earth which were made material Ext. 1 to 6. PW-11 stated that he also recovered slippers of the deceased from the spot and prepared recovery memo (Ext. Ka-15). According to PW-11, the slippers were identified by deceased's father (not examined). According to PW-11, from the spot, four bricks and one blood stained main brick was recovered of which a recovery memo Ext. Ka-16 was prepared. PW-11 produced the bricks as material Ext. 7 to 10 and also produced the main brick used by the appellant to crush the face of the deceased, which was marked material Ext. 11 and 12. PW-11 stated that he recovered the jeans (pant) of the accused-appellant and prepared its recovery memo (Ext. Ka-17). PW-11 produced the jeans (pant) of the appellant as material Ext. 14. PW-11 proved the arrest memo of the appellant as Ext. Ka-18. According to PW-11, on 29.4.2019 medical examination of appellant was conducted and his nail clippings were taken by the doctor. PW-11 stated that on 29.5.2019, he collected the caste certificate of deceased and added Section 3(2)(v) of the SC/ST Act thereafter, further investigation was conducted by Circle Officer (PW-8) as the deceased belonged to Bahalia caste, which is one of the scheduled tribes. On 25.8.2021, examination-in-chief of PW-11 was again recorded. He stated that he had prepared site plan of the place of the incident. The same was marked Ext. 19. During cross-examination, PW-11 stated that he arrested the appellant on 28.4.2019 on the basis of information furnished by the informer. He stated that at the time of appellant's arrest, there was no public witness. PW-11 stated that the place of incident was a secluded place where new plots were being carved out. At the spot there was a half constructed room. Only its wall was there. The place of incident was about 400 to 500 meters away from the main road. PW-11 stated that at the time when the accused had taken him to the spot, there was no dead body. He denied the suggestion that the case was not properly investigated and that he deliberately did not rope in independent witnesses.

33. After the prosecution evidence was recorded, the trial court recorded statement of the appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The appellant denied the incriminating circumstances and stated that dead body of an unknown lady was recovered in a decomposed condition; without identification, inquest report was prepared; and merely on the basis of suspicion, he has been made accused.

Defence Evidence

34. After the statement of appellant was recorded two defence witnesses were examined, namely:-

35. Seetu is DW-1. He stated that the appellant is his uncle. On 24.4.2019, there was a marriage of his sister -Mangla. Appellant attended the marriage of his sister from the evening of 24.4.2019 and was there till 26.4.2019. DW-1 stated that attending that marriage, Mannu s/o Sultan, who happens to be son of his Bua, was also present. In his cross-examination, DW-1 stated that he resided in District Jalaun whereas the appellant is resident of District Firozabad. DW-1 stated that he did not go to invite the appellant. The invitation was given by his brother on phone. He admitted that during the course of marriage video was prepared and photographs were taken but there is no photograph of the appellant with DW-1. He also stated that the appellant is not his close relative. He denied the suggestion that his uncle (appellant) did not attend the marriage of his sister and his photo is not there in the video.

36. Mannu is DW-2. He stated that Seetu (DW-1) is his friend. DW-2 came on 23.04.2019 to attend the marriage of sister of Seetu (DW-1) there he met the appellant in the evening of 24.04.2019. DW-2 stated that he returned from the marriage on 27/28.04.2019. DW-2 stated that he is not aware as to when appellant returned from the marriage. During cross-examination, DW-2 stated that he is not aware as to from where the Baraat came and when the Baraat arrived. At that time he was in his house, having food. He denied the suggestion that appellant was not present in the marriage.

37. The trial court upon consideration of the evidence on record found the appellant guilty of rape and murder of the deceased and, accordingly, convicted him under Sections 363, 302, 376 AB, 302 IPC read with Sections 3(2)(v) SC/ST Act and awarded death penalty under Sections 302, 376 AB IPC read with Section 3(2)(v) SC/ST Act.

38. We have heard Sri Dilip Kumar, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Sri Rizwan Ahmad for the appellant; and Sri Amit Sinha, learned AGA for the State and have perused the record.

Trial Court Findings

39. Trial court found following incriminating circumstances proved:-

(i) The deceased was last seen alive in the company of the appellant on 25.04.2019, firstly, at about 11.00 am near the railway crossing by PW-2 and, secondly, at about 11.30 am near SBI Ram Nagar by PW-4 and, thereafter, she was not seen alive;

(ii) Body of the deceased was recovered on 26.04.2019. The autopsy conducted on 27.04.2019 and the serologist report disclosed that she was raped and murdered two days before;

(iii) On the disclosure made by the appellant on 28.04.2019 blood stained brick and slippers of the deceased was recovered;

(iv) At the time of arrest on 28.04.2019, the Jeans (Pant) worn by the appellant carried blood stain; and

(v) The serologist report confirmed presence of human blood on the brick recovered at the instance of the appellant as also on the Jeans (pant) and nail clippings of the appellant.

40. Trial court found that the proven circumstances constituted a chain so complete that it conclusively pointed towards the guilt of the appellant and as the appellant failed to discharge the burden placed upon him under Section 106 of the Evidence Act to explain as to why he should not be held guilty, convicted the appellant and sentenced him accordingly as already noticed above.

Submission of behalf of the appellant

41. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that there is no admissible evidence on record against the appellant and trial court failed to appropriately appreciate the evidence on record and wrongly convicted the appellant in the present case. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that perusal of the FIR (Ext. ka 2) shows that it was lodged against unknown person but the informant (PW-1), who lodged the FIR, in her testimony stated that she had named the appellant. This shows that prosecution did not come with clean hands and have contrived the story on suspicion/guess work. He submitted that as per the informant (PW-1), after the FIR, the appellant was apprehended by the informant (PW-1) and others and was handed over to the police and, therefore, the prosecution story that the appellant was arrested by the police on 28.4.2019 on the information of an informer, appears false and as arrest of the appellant become doubtful, the alleged recoveries at the instance of the appellant would neither be admissible nor can be used against the appellant. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that the evidence of PW-2 and PW-4 in respect of the circumstances of last seen is neither reliable nor conclusive. Further, even if it is accepted then too, merely on the basis of the evidence of last seen, appellant cannot be convicted as the time gap between the appellant last seen alive with deceased and the recovery of dead body is very large. Moreover, the prosecution has failed to show that the place where the deceased was last seen alive with the appellant was in close proximity to the place from where her body was recovered. He further submitted that the name of the appellant surfaced on the basis of information given by PW-2 but, according to PW-2, she had given that information on the very first day yet, the appellant was not named in the FIR, which was lodged on 26.04.2019. This casts a pale of doubt on the testimony of PW-2 that she saw the appellant with the deceased on 25.04.2019 at about 11.00 am. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that though the serological report mention that human blood was found on the jeans (pant) of the appellant but the recovery memo (Ext. Ka-17) of the pant does not mention blood stain on the pant, therefore, it appears, after recovery of the pant, false evidence was created by the police. Moreover, the blood group was not matched with the deceased. Hence, it cannot be said with certaintly that the blood found on the pant of the appellant was of the deceased. He also submitted that the dead body of the deceased was found in village Sofipur, behind the shop of Barashree, within the jurisdiction of police station Basi Mohammad Pur whereas, according to the prosecution, the place of incident was a half constructed room. This place is totally different from the place from where the dead body was found. Thus, the alleged disclosure statement becomes totally doubtful because if the appellant, after committing rape and murder, covered the body in a half constructed room with bricks how the same was recovered from some other place. Therefore, the prosecution story appears false and no reliance can be placed on it. Learned counsel for the appellant also submitted that according to Jitendra (PW-6), one of the witnesses of the inquest report, the dead body was lying in an open field. If it was so, then the alleged hiding of the body in a half constructed room and recovery of bricks therefrom, allegedly on the basis of disclosure, falls to the ground. It was urged that the trial court failed to consider this important aspect of the case and without properly evaluating the evidence related to recovery and last seen convicted the appellant and thereby committed a grave mistake. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the present case is a case based on circumstantial evidence; the prosecution miserably failed to prove the incriminating circumstances beyond reasonable doubt and the chain of circumstances was not complete and, therefore, conviction and sentence recorded by court below is liable to be set aside. In the alternative, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that as the present case totally rests upon circumstantial evidence, reference to confirm death penalty should be negatived.

Submission on behalf of the State

42. Per contra, learned AGA submitted that there is evidence on record which proves that the appellant was last seen along with the deceased and on the same day, deceased was murdered; that apart from last seen evidence, on the pointing out of the appellant blood stained bricks were recovered and as per the forensic lab report, on the bricks human blood was found. As per evidence of autopsy surgeon, the vagina was found ruptured, therefore, it is apparent that before murder the girl was raped. Learned AGA submitted that forensic lab report confirmed that on the Jeans (pant) of the accused-appellant there was human blood and in nail clipping of the appellant, blood was found, which is a corroborative piece of evidence confirming the involvement of the appellant in the rape and murder of the deceased. Learned AGA further submitted that the prosecution has successfully proved the chain of circumstances and the trial court rightly convicted the appellant. On the question of sentence, learned counsel for the state submitted that since it is a case of rape of a minor girl and, thereafter, the girl was brutally murdered, death sentence awarded to the appellant is justified and, therefore, the appeal is liable to be dismissed and death penalty awarded by the trial court should be confirmed.

Analysis

43. The instant case is based on circumstantial evidence. There is no eye witness account of either rape or murder. As to when conviction can be recorded on evidence of a circumstantial nature, the law is settled. In a recent decision in the case of Anwar Ali Vs. State of Himanchal Pradesh 2020 (10) SCC 166, a three judge Bench of the Supreme Court, after noticing various decisions, on the issue, in para-15, 16 and 17, observed as follows:-

"15. It is also required to be noted and it is not in dispute that this is a case of circumstantial evidence. As held by this Court in a catena of decisions that in case of a circumstantial evidence, the circumstances, taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and none else and the circumstantial evidence in order to sustain conviction must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence.

16. In Babu V. State of Kerala (2010) 9 SCC 189, it is observed and held in paras 22 to 24 as under:

"22. In Krishnan V. State (2008) 15 SCC 430, this Court after considering a large number of its earlier judgments observed as follows:

"15. ...This Court in a series of decisions has consistently held that when a case rests upon circumstantial evidence, such evidence must satisfy the following tests:

(i) the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn, must be cogently and firmly established;

(ii) those circumstances should be of definite tendency unerringly pointing towards guilt of the accused;

(iii) the circumstances, taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and none else; and

(iv) the circumstantial evidence in order to sustain conviction must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence."

23. In Sharad Birdhichand Sarda V. State of Maharashtra (1984) 4 SCC 116 while dealing with circumstantial evidence, it has been held that the onus was on the prosecution to prove that the chain is complete and the infirmity or lacuna in prosecution cannot be cured by false defence or plea. The conditions precedent before conviction could be based on circumstantial evidence, must be fully established. They are: (SCC p. 185, para 153)

(i) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established. The circumstances concerned "must" or "should" and not "may be" established;

(ii) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;

(iii) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency;

(iv) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and

(v) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused. A similar view has been reiterated by this Court in State of U.P. V. Satish (2005) 3 SCC 114 and Pawan Vs. State of Uttranchal (2009) 15 SCC 259.

24. In Subramaniam V. State of T.N. (2009) 14 SCC 415, while considering the case of dowry death, this Court observed that the fact of living together is a strong circumstance but that by alone in absence of any evidence of violence on the deceased cannot be held to be conclusive proof, and there must be some evidence to arrive at a conclusion that the husband and husband alone was responsible therefor. The evidence produced by the prosecution should not be of such a nature that may make the conviction of the appellant unsustainable. (See Ramesh Bhai Vs. State of Rajasthan) (2009) 12 SCC 603)." (emphasis supplied)

17. Even in G. Parshwanath V. State of Karnataka (2010) 8 SCC 593, this Court has in paras 23 and 24 observed as under:

"23. In cases where evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should, in the first instance, be fully established. Each fact sought to be relied upon must be proved individually. However, in applying this principle a distinction must be made between facts called primary or basic on the one hand and inference of facts to be drawn from them on the other. In regard to proof of primary facts, the court has to judge the evidence and decide whether that evidence proves a particular fact and if that fact is proved, the question whether that fact leads to an inference of guilt of the accused person should be considered. In dealing with this aspect of the problem, the doctrine of benefit of doubt applies. Although there should not be any missing links in the case, yet it is not essential that each of the links must appear on the surface of the evidence adduced and some of these links may have to be inferred from the proved facts. In drawing these inferences, the court must have regard to the common course of natural events and to human conduct and their relations to the facts of the particular case. The court thereafter has to consider the effect of proved facts.

24. In deciding the sufficiency of the circumstantial evidence for the purpose of conviction, the court has to consider the total cumulative effect of all the proved facts, each one of which reinforces the conclusion of guilt and if the combined effect of all these facts taken together is conclusive in establishing the guilt of the accused, the conviction would be justified even though it may be that one or more of these facts by itself or themselves is/are not decisive. The facts established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and should exclude every hypothesis except the one sought to be proved. But this does not mean that before the prosecution can succeed in a case resting upon circumstantial evidence alone, it must exclude each and every hypothesis suggested by the accused, howsoever, extravagant and fanciful it might be. There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused, where various links in chain are in themselves complete, then the false plea or false defence may be called into aid only to lend assurance to the court."

44. From above, it is clear that for conviction to rest solely on circumstantial evidence, it is necessary for the prosecution to prove beyond reasonable doubt each of the circumstances that is to be relied against the accused and must demonstrate that the circumstances form a chain so complete that it leaves no reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and shows that in all human probability the act has been done by the accused.

45. In light of the legal principles noticed above, we shall now evaluate the prosecution case on the weight of the evidence led during the course of trial.

46. In the present case, the prosecution relied upon following circumstances against the appellant:-

(i) The deceased was last seen alive with the appellant on 25.4.2019, firstly, at about 11 AM and, secondly, at 11:30 AM, and thereafter, her body was recovered on 26.04.2019 and as per the post mortem, dated, 27.04.2019, the deceased could have died two days before. Meaning thereby that she died in close proximity to the time when she was last seen alive with the appellant.

(ii) Autopsy report confirms that the deceased was raped and murdered.

(iii) When the appellant was arrested, he confessed his guilt and on his pointing out blood stained bricks used as a weapon of assault were recovered and forensic lab report proved presence of human blood on the bricks.

(iv) The jeans (pant) worn by the appellant at the time of arrest had human blood stain as confirmed by forensic report.

(v) At the instance of the appellant slippers of the deceased were recovered.

(vi) The deceased was a minor girl aged below 12 years.

47. We will now examine whether the circumstances relied by the prosecution, have been duly proved and whether the trial court justifiably convicted the appellant.

Last seen circumstances

48. To prove the circumstances of last seen, the prosecution relied upon the testimony of PW-2 and PW-4. PW-2 is Tai of the deceased and is sister-in-law (Jethani) of mother of the deceased. She (PW-2) stated that on 25.4.2019, at about 11:00 AM when she was sitting at her house, she saw the deceased crossing the railway track in front of her house. She stated that after she had crossed the track, she saw the appellant also there. In her cross-examination, PW-2 stated that soon thereafter a train passed on that track. It took 10 minutes for the train to pass. After that train passed, she did not see the deceased. As in her cross-examination PW-2 specifically stated that after the train passed, she did not see the deceased, the evidence is not conclusive, firstly, because it is not clear that the deceased was on her own or going with the appellant and, secondly, because talking to a known person is not a conclusive indica of being together. Moreover, the testimony of PW-2 is not that the deceased and the appellant crossed the railway track together but it is of the appellant following her. Thus, in our considered view, this circumstance is not conclusive of the deceased being in the company of the appellant or vice versa. Further, PW-2 stated that on same day she informed the informant (PW-1) about the circumstance noticed by her. PW-1 admitted this fact. But, in spite of that, PW-1 did not mention this circumstance in the FIR and no suspicion is expressed against the appellant even though the FIR was lodged on the next day. Rather, it is stated in the FIR that her daughter has gone somewhere. This casts a serious doubt as to whether PW-2 actually witnessed the appellant with the deceased on 25.04.2019 at 11.00 AM. Thus, the testimony of PW-2 with regard to the appellant being noticed in the company of the deceased does not inspire our confidence. We, therefore, discard her evidence that she saw the appellant with the deceased on 25.4.2019 at about 11:00 AM.

49. In so far as PW-4 is concerned, he stated that on 25.4.2019, at about 11.30 AM while he was going to the market, he saw the deceased with the appellant in front of the Bank situated in Ram Nagar. He also stated that he inquired from the deceased as well as the appellant as to where they were going upon which the appellant informed him that they were going to the market. During cross-examination, PW-4 stated that on 25.4.2019, at about 5:30 am, he had left his house to go to Shikohabad to sell bangles. He sold bangles till 10 am and returned to his house at about 2:00 PM on 25.04.2019. PW-4 stated that he chose the same route to go to the market as he took to return home and on that route, in between, there is no Bank. Thus, the statement of PW-4 that on 25.4.2019, at about 11:30 am, he saw the deceased with the appellant in front of SBI Bank appears incorrect because if there was no bank on way then how could he witness the appellant with the deceased at or near the Bank. The testimony of PW-4 therefore does not inspire our confidence.

50. Moreover, PW-4 is a chance witness. The law in respect of value of the testimony of a chance witness has been recently surveyed and reiterated by the Apex Court in the case of Rajesh Yadav and others Vs. State of U.P., 2022 (3) ADJ 114 (SC). The relevant observations are contained in paragraph 27 extracted below:-

"27. The principle was reiterated by this court in Jarnail Singh Vs. State of Punjab, (2009) 9 SCC 719:

"21. In Sachchey Lal Tiwari Vs. of U.P. [(2004) 11 SCC 410: 2004 SCC (Cri) Supp 105] this Court while considering the evidentiary value of the chance witness in a case of murder which had taken place in a street and a passerby had deposed that he had witnessed the incident, observed as under:

If the offence is committed in a street only a passerby will be the witness. His evidence cannot be brushed aside lightly or viewed with suspicion on the ground that he was a mere chance witness. However, there must be an explanation for his presence there.

The Court further explained that the expression "chance witness" is borrowed from countries where every man's home is considered his castle and everyone must have an explanation for his presence elsewhere or in another man's castle. It is quite unsuitable an expression in a country like India where people are less formal and more casual, at any rate in the matter of explaining their presence.

22. The evidence of a chance witness requires a very cautious and close scrutiny and a chance witness must adequately explain his presence at the place of occurrence Satbir Singh v. Surat Singh [(1997) 4 SCC 192: 1997 SCC (Cri) 538], Harjindar Singh Vs. State of Punjab [(2004) 11 SCC 253: 2004 SCC (Cri) Supp 28], Acharaparambath Pradeepan [(2006) 13 SCC 643: (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 241] and Sarvesh Narain Shukla v. Daroga Singh [(2007) 13 SCC 360: (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 188]). Deposition of a chance witness whose presence at the place of incident remains doubtful should be discarded (vide Shankarlal vs. State of Rajasthan [(2004) 10 SCC 632: 2005 SCC (Cri) 579]).

23. Conduct of the chance witness, subsequent to the incident may also be taken into consideration particularly as to whether he has informed anyone else in the village about the incident (vide Thangaiya Vs. T.N. (2005) 9 SCC 650. Gurcharan Singh (PW 18) met the informant Darshan Singh (PW 4) before lodging the FIR and the fact of conspiracy was not disclosed by Gurcharan Singh (PW 18) and Darshan Singh (PW 4). The fact of conspiracy has not been mentioned in the FIR. Hakam Singh, the other witness on this issue has not been examined by the prosecution. Thus, the High Court was justified in discarding the part of the prosecution case relating to conspiracy. However, in the fact situation of the present case, acquittal of the said two co-accused has no bearing, so far as the present appeal is concerned."

51. In view of the law noticed above, PW-4 being a chance witness had to explain his presence at the place where he witnessed the deceased in the company of the appellant. In the present case, PW-4 stated that enroute to the place of business he had the occasion to witness the appellant and the deceased together but, during cross-examination, he admitted that in that route no Bank falls therefore, the place where he witnessed them together does not fall in that route. Thus, we can safely conclude that the explanation rendered by PW-4 for his presence there is not satisfactory and convincing. Further, as per case of Jarnail Singh Vs. State of Punjab, 2009 (9) SCC 719, which was discussed by Apex Court in case of Rajesh Yadav (supra), conduct of the chance witness subsequent to the incident is also important, particularly, whether he has informed anyone about the fact. In the present case, PW-4, in his testimony, specifically stated that he did not inform the fact that he witnessed the deceased along with the appellant on 25.4.2019 at about 11:30 am. Therefore, on this ground also, the testimony of PW-4, who is a chance witness, is not reliable and is unworthy of acceptance.

52. As, both the witnesses i.e. PW-2 and PW-4 of the last seen circumstance, in our view, do not inspire our confidence, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution could not prove beyond reasonable doubt that the deceased was last seen alive in the company of the appellant.

Confession before police and consequential recovery

53. Another circumstance relied by the prosecution is that when the appellant was arrested, he confessed his guilt and on his pointing out, blood stained bricks were recovered and the Forensic Lab report confirmed the presence of human blood on these bricks. As far as confession made by an accused to the Investigating Officer is concerned, it is not admissible in evidence by virtue of Section 25 of the Indian Evidence Act which reads as follows:-

25. Confession to police officer not to be proved. --No confession made to a police officer, shall be proved as against a person accused of any offence.

However, that portion of the confession that leads to the recovery of any incriminating material, such portion alone, is admissible under Section 27 of the Evidence Act.

54. As far as the recovery of the bricks and slippers of deceased on the pointing out of appellant is concerned, the same appears doubtful because, in our view, the arrest of the appellant, alleged to have been made on 28.04.2018 on the basis of information received from an informer, is extremely doubtful. Notably, PW-1, the informant and mother of the deceased stated that the appellant was apprehended by her and others, after lodging the FIR, and was brought to the police station where he was detained. Although, PW-1 was not aware as to how long the appellant was detained at the police station but, as per her (PW-1's) testimony, he was apprehended by PW-1 and other persons after lodging the FIR. There is no evidence that after being handed over to the police, the appellant was released. Whereas, as per police witness, appellant was arrested on 28.04.2019, at about 2.00 PM, on the basis of information received from an informer. Consequently, there arises a serious doubt in respect of the arrest of appellant on 28.04.2019.

55. In the case of Rammi alias Rameshwar Vs. State of M.P. (1999) 8 SCC 649, the Apex Court declined to place reliance on the evidence of recovery on the basis of information furnished by accused on the ground that there was material discrepancy in the testimony of witnesses with regard to the time of arrest of the accused. Ordinarily, where the arrest of the accused becomes doubtful a taint gets attached to the testimony of police witnesses with regard to the disclosure of the accused being the basis of recovery. In the present case, the testimony of PW-1 creates a serious doubt with regard to the arrest of the appellant on 28.04.2019, therefore, recovery of bloodstained bricks on his pointing out, after his arrest, also becomes doubtful more so, when it has no support from an independent witness testimony. At this stage, we may observe that recovery of slippers of the deceased and bricks were allegedly made in the presence of a number of witnesses but none of those witness were examined during trial. Recovery was sought to be proved solely on the basis of testimony of Sanjay Singh (PW-11), the Investigating Officer, whose testimony, in respect of arrest, we have found unreliable in view of the statement of PW-1. This fact also cast a doubt on the recovery. Thus, it hardly matters if, as per forensic lab report, the bricks recovered carried human blood.

56. Further, human blood on the jeans (pant) of the appellant is not a clinching circumstance against the appellant as it has not been confirmed whether the blood was of the deceased or of the appellant. It is very much possible that there may be traces of blood on one's trouser for multiple reasons such as presence of an injury or a bleeding boil or scratch, etc. Notably, the recovery memo of the pant (Ext. Ka-17) does not reflect that at the time of recovery the pant carried blood mark or stain. In fact, Ext. Ka-17 (recovery memo of the jeans of the accused-appellant) reflects that the jeans of the appellant was recovered and sent to forensic lab to ascertain whether there was any semen on it. There was no semen found and so far as blood is concerned its origin was not ascertained, that is, whether it was of the appellant or the deceased. Thus, in our considered view, the presence of blood on the Jeans of the appellant is not an incriminating circumstances which may clinch the issue against the appellant.

57. Another notable feature which creates a doubt as to the genuineness of the recovery is that as per the inquest report (Ext. Ka-13), dead body of the deceased was lying behind the shop of Barashree whereas Jitendra Singh (PW-6), a panch witness, stated that the body was lying in a field. While the recoveries (slippers, bricks) were made from an under constructed room in a colony where, according to the disclosure, the girl was raped, killed and the body was hidden. There is no evidence as to how dead body came near the shop of Barashree from that room where it was hidden, if the disclosure statement is to be accepted. This unexplained inconsistency in the prosecution case casts a serious doubt on the alleged recoveries made at the instance of the appellant.

FSL Report

58. Trial court also relied upon the forensic laboratory report, dated 15.06.2019, which indicates that in the nail clipping blood was found. Although, as per the forensic lab report, the nail clipping was of the deceased, but the trial court in its judgment observed that there is no evidence that nail clipping of the deceased was taken and sent for chemical analysis. The court below observed that as per the testimony of Sanjay Singh (PW-11), the Investigating Officer, nail clipping of the appellant was taken. Therefore, the trial court concluded that nail clipping sent to forensic lab was of the appellant and as blood was found on the nail clipping, it is a clinching circumstance/evidence against the appellant. We do not agree with the findings and observations of the trial court in this regard. No doubt, PW-11 (Sanjay Singh), the Investigating Officer, stated that on 29.04.2019 he prepared parcha no.4 of the case diary and entered that the appellant was medically examined and the doctor had taken his nail clipping, but neither the recovery memo of nail clipping of the appellant nor the medical report of the appellant was prepared and proved. Even the doctor, who examined the appellant and took his nail clipping, was not examined. Further, there is no evidence on record to show that the alleged nail clipping of the appellant was sealed and forwarded to forensic lab for analysis. In absence of these material evidences, merely on the basis of bald statement of the Investigating Officer, it cannot be held that the nail clipping sent to forensic lab was of the appellant. Otherwise also, we do not consider the presence of blood in the nail clipping as a clinching circumstance against the appellant for the reasons: (a) due to disintegration it could not be determined that blood found on nail clipping was human blood; and (b) if one uses nail to scratch one's body, often traces of blood get trapped in the nails hence presence of blood there, in absence of determination of its origin, in our view, is not a clinching incriminating circumstance. Therefore, this piece of evidence does not help the prosecution.

Non-compliance of Section 53A Cr.P.C.

58. In the present case when the appellant was arrested, as per provisions of Section 53A Cr.P.C., his medical examination should have been conducted. No such medical examination of the appellant has been brought on record much less proved. Sanjay Singh (PW-11), the Investigating Officer, though stated that the appellant was medically examined but during trial neither medical report of the accused nor the doctor who examined him was produced. The Apex Court in the case of Krishan Kumar Malik Vs. State of Haryana (2011) 7 SCC 130 highlighted the object of section 53A of the Code of Criminal Procedure by observing as under:-

"44. Now, after the incorporation of Section 53 (A) in the Criminal Procedure Code, w.e.f. 23.06.2006, brought to our notice by learned counsel for the respondent State, it has become necessary for the prosecution to go in for DNA test in such type of cases, facilitating the prosecution to prove its case against the accused. Prior to 2006, even without the aforesaid specific provision in the Cr.P.C. prosecution could have still resorted to this procedure of getting the DNA test or analysis and matching of semen of the appellant with that found on the undergarments of the prosecutrix to make it a fool proof case, but they did not do so, thus they must face the consequences."

60. In the present case as per FSL report dated 15.06.2019 sperm was found in the vaginal smear of the victim (deceased), therefore, by DNA profiling of the biological material, if any, obtained from the accused-appellant it could have been determined whether the sperm found had its origin in the appellant. But, unfortunately, no effort in that regard was made. Therefore, in light of the observations of the Apex Court in Krishan Kumar Malik's case (supra), the prosecution has to face the consequences.

Section 106 Evidence Act

61. Trial court placed reliance on the provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act to hold the appellant guilty as he failed to explain the circumstance of last seen and other circumstances relied by the prosecution. Section 106 of the Evidence Act does not absolve the prosecution of its primary responsibility to prove the prosecution case beyond reasonable doubt. In Shivaji Chintappa Patil Vs. State of Maharashtra 2021 (5) SCC 626, in paragraph no. 23, the Apex Court clarified the law as to when Section 106 of the Evidence Act would operate by observing as follows:-

"It could thus be seen, that it is well-settled that Section 106 of the Evidence Act does not directly operate against either a husband or wife staying under the same roof and being the last person seen with the deceased. Section 106 of the Evidence Act does not absolve the prosecution of discharging its primary burden of proving the prosecution case beyond reasonable doubt. It is only when the prosecution has led evidence which, if believed, will sustain a conviction, or which makes out a prima facie case, that the question arises of considering facts of which the burden of proof would lie upon the accused."

62. From above, it is clear that before shifting the burden upon the accused to furnish explanation of the incriminating circumstances appearing against him, it is necessary for the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt.

63. In the present case the prosecution has failed to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the deceased was last seen alive with the accused-appellant and that the recoveries were made at the instance of the appellant therefore, burden could not have been placed upon the appellant to explain those circumstances. Thus, in our view, the court below wrongly took aid of the provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act to convict the appellant.

64. In view of the discussion made above, we are of the considered view that the prosecution failed to prove the guilt of the appellant beyond reasonable doubt, the conviction of the appellant is therefore unsustainable. Consequently, the appeal is allowed. The judgment and order of the trial court is set aside. The reference to confirm the death penalty is rejected. The appellant is acquitted of the charges for which he has been tried. As he is in jail, he shall be released forthwith, unless wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of the provisions of section 437-A Cr.P.C. to the satisfaction of the trial court below.

65. Let the lower court record be sent along with certified copy of the order to the trial court for compliance.

THE HON'BLE RAMESH SINHA, J.
THE HON'BLE MRS. SAROJ YADAV, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 843 of 2014

Vipin ...Appellant

Versus

State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Shri Ram Kant Jayswal, Advocate

Counsel for the Respondent:

Ms. Ruhi Siddiqui, A.G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 302- Conviction under- Death of wife by burning – Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 11- Plea of Alibi- The convict /appellant has taken the plea of alibi that he was in field when the incident occurred, but this fact has not been proved by him by any evidence. The burden of proving his presence in the field at the time of incident was on the convict/appellant himself but he did not adduce any evidence to prove the same.

Where the accused adopts the plea of alibi then the burden is upon him to prove the same by relative evidence, failing which the court may take an adverse inference against him.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 106- The accused has stated that the deceased got burnt accidentally but this fact is also not believable in the absence of any evidence/material on record to prove the accidental burnt specially when the contusions were found on the cadaver of body in the post-mortem-examination. If the deceased caught fire accidentally, then how contusions have occurred on her body has not been explained by the convict/appellant.

Failure to explain the injuries of the deceased who was living with the accused will constitute an incriminating fact against the accused.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 106- Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 113- The convict/ appellant himself has stated in his statement under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C. that he used to live with his wife Seema Devi in his house. He did not say that his parents were there when accident took place or the deceased caught fire accidentally while cooking food.

Where the explanation given by the accused to discharge the burden of proof cast upon him under section 106 of the Evidence Act, is not consistent with his statement given under Section 113 of the Cr.Pc, then such explanation may not be accepted by the court. (Para 10, 12, 22)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Saroj Yadav, J.)

1. This criminal appeal has been preferred against the judgement and order dated 15.5.2014 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Hardoi in Sessions Trial No.18/2013 arising out of Case Crime No.315 of 2012 wherein convict/appellant was tried under Sections 498-A, 304-B of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (in short I.P.C.) and under Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act (in short D.P. Act.) and in alternate to Section 304-B to under Section 302 I.P.C., Police Station Atrauli, District Hardoi whereby the convict/appellant was acquitted under Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and under Section 3/4 of the D.P.Act but convicted under Section 302 I.P.C. and sentenced to life imprisonment coupled with a fine of Rs.20,000/- and in default of payment of fine, to undergo further imprisonment for six months.

i). A First Information Report (in short F.I.R.) was registered as Case Crime No.315 of 2012, under Sections 498-A and 304-B I.P.C. and under Section 3/4 of the D.P.Act. at Police Station Atrauli, District Hardoi on 26.4.2012, on the basis of a written report submitted by the complainant Newaji. It was narrated in the written report that the complainant married his daughter Seema Devi to Vipin about two years ahead. Vipiin, Bachaan and Bittan were demanding one gold chain, one gold ring and a motorcycle in dowry. It was told by Seema Devi, daughter of the complainant many times that she was being tortured for non -fulfillment of the demand of dowry. The complainant placated them many times but they did not yield. On 22.4.2012, Seema Devi, daughter of the complainant was burnt after dousing with kerosene oil by Vipin, Kedar and Bittan. After burning Seema Devi, persons from her matrimonial home carried her to the hospital where she died during treatment and in-laws ran away after leaving the dead body. He (the complainant) somehow got the information and reached at Balrampur Hospital alongwith his family members and found the dead body of Seema Devi. The complainant got the post-mortem-examination done in the medical college and brought the dead body to his home and cremated.

ii). The report was lodged on 26.4.2012 at 4.00 p.m. The inquest of the dead body was also made on 23.4.2012 at 5.45 p.m. to 6.45 p.m. at mortuary of Balrampur Hospital, Lucknow, on the information received from the Balrampur Hospital, Lucknow which is Exhibit Ka-5 on the record. Thereafter, the dead body was sent for post-mortem-examination alongwith necessary papers by the officer who conducted the inquest. The post-mortem-examination of the deceased was conducted on 24.4.2012 at 12.50 p.m. by a panel of two doctors. Thereafter, the F.I.R. was registered on 26.4.2012 and case was investigated and chargesheet was submitted against the accused Vipin(husband of the deceased), Bachaan, brother in law of the deceased (Jeth) and Smt. Bittan, sister-in-law of the deceased (Jethani) under Section 498-A and 304-B of the I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of the D.P.Act. The Magistrate concerned took cognizance of the case and committed the same to the court of Sessions for trial. Learned Sessions Court framed charges against all the three accused persons namely Vipin, Bachaan and Smt. Bittan, under Sections 498-A and 304-B and in alternate, a charge under Section 302 I.P.C. was also framed. Further a charge under Section 3/4 of the D.P.Act was also framed.

iii). All the accused persons denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

iv). The prosecution in order to prove its case, examined seven witnesses, which are as under :

a. P.W.-1- Newaji (the complainant and father of the deceased)

b. P.W.-2 - Smt. Shiv Pyari (the mother of the deceased).

c. P.W.-3- Shri Vivek Chandra, C.O. who investigated the case, initially.

d. P.W.-4 - Police Constable Rakesh Bahadur Singh who registered the case and made entry in the concerned General Diary (G.D.)

e. P.W.-5 - Shri Surendra Bahadur Yadav, S.D.M. who conducted the inquest of the dead body and sent the same for post mortem.

f. P.W.-6 -Shri Sukh Ram Bharti, who is second investigating officer and took over the investigation from Shri Vivek Chandra (P.W.- 3).

g. P.W.-7- Dr. Sushil Kumar Srivastava who conducted autopsy on the cadaver.

v). Apart from oral evidence, relevant documents have also been proved by the prosecution, which are as under :-

a. Exhibit Ka-1- Written report.
b. Exhibit Ka-2 - Site Plan.
c. Exhibit Ka-3- Chik F.I.R.
d. Exhibit Ka-4- Concerned G.D.
e. Exhibit Ka-5 - Inquest report.
f. Exhibit Ka-6 - A letter to the C.M.O.
g. Exhibit Ka-7- Challan Nash.
h. Exhibit Ka-8- Photo Nash.
i. Exhibit Ka-9- Specimen Seal.
j. Exhibit Ka-10- Chargesheet.
k. Exhibit Ka-11 - Post-Mortem-examination Report.

vi). After close of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused persons were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein accused Vipin admitted his marriage with the deceased but disputed the date of marriage. He denied the allegation of demand of dowry and stated that Seema Devi got burnt accidentally. When the fact came to his knowledge, he got her admitted in the hospital where she died. He denied the fact that he ran away from the hospital leaving the dead body of the deceased. He also stated that report was lodged due to enmity and witnesses have deposed falsely. He further stated that he himself informed about the incident to the family of the deceased. In the last, he stated that he used to live alongwith Seema Devi in his own house. Seema Devi was alone in the house and she got burnt accidentally while cooking food. When he received information about the incident in the field, then he carried her for treatment and sent the information to her parental home. On this, persons from her parental home came and demanded money from him. When he did not pay then they got lodged the F.I.R. falsely. No witness in defence was produced by the convict/ appellant, though opportunity was given by the trial Court.

vii). The learned trial Court after hearing the arguments of both the sides and analyzing the evidence available on record, came to the conclusion that all the ingredients of Section 304-B I.P.C. are not proved. It has not been proved that the incident occurred within seven years of marriage as the period of marriage or the date of marriage has not been proved by the prosecution. Learned trial Court also came to the conclusion that the fact of demand of dowry was also remained unproved as P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 father and mother of the deceased, respectively have stated in their statements made before the trial court that they sent their daughter with Vipin last time happily and there was no demand at that time. Learned trial court also took note of the statement of P.W.-1 that no report of demand of dowry or of torture was lodged by him nor any 'panchayat' was called by him. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 both in their statements, have stated that they are poor persons but the accused Vipin has some agricultural land and he does farming on that. Learned trial Court also concluded that the information was given by the convict himself as in the cross examination, both P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 have accepted that they received the information of the incident from Vipin on telephone.

viii). Learned trial court acquitted Bachaan and Bittan finding no role of them as there was evidence on record that they live separately in their own house and the investigating officer also did not show in the site plan the house of the Bachaan and Bittan as per their statement, their house is after 10-15 houses of the place of occurrence. The trial Court held guilty Vipin for the alternate charge framed i.e. under Section 302 I.P.C. as in the opinion of the trial court, the deceased died of burnt injuries in the house of her husband and in the post-mortem-examination report four contusions were found on the cadaver. No explanation about contusions found were offered by the convict. In the opinion of the learned trial Court, it was the duty of the convict Vipin who is the husband of the deceased to explain how she died and who caused contusions on her body. Under Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, the onus lies on the accused to explain the facts specially within knowledge. Hence, the learned trial court held the convict guilty under Section 302 I.P.C. and sentenced him to life imprisonment coupled with a fine of Rs.20,000/- and in default, further sentence of six months.

ix). Learned trial court acquitted the convict of charges framed under Section 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of the D.P.Act.

3. Being aggrieved of the above conviction and sentence, this appeal has been preferred.

4. Heard Shri Rama Kant Jaiswal, learned counsel for the convict/appellant and Mrs. Ruhi Siddiqui, learned A.G.A. for the respondent State.

5. Learned counsel for the convict/appellant argued that the judgement and order passed by he learned court below is erroneous and against the evidence available on record. The F.I.R.was lodged after a delay of four days of the incident i.e. after due deliberations with mala fide intentions. The oral evidence and medical evidence do not inspire confidence and are contradictory. The appellant was not present at the place of occurrence as he was working in his field at the time of the incident. When he received the information of the incident, he himself admitted the deceased in a hospital and sent information to the parental home of the deceased. He further submitted that no odour of kerosene oil was found by the doctor conducting the post- mortem-examination. He further argued that the question regarding contusions found on the body of the deceased was not put to the appellant under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C. which is a great error and the accused cannot be supposed to explain these contusions. He further argued that Section 106 of the Evidence Act shall not apply in the facts and circumstances of the case because prosecution did not prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. First, the prosecution has to prove its case only after that the burden shifts on the appellant to offer explanation. He further argued that in fact the deceased caught fire accidentally while cooking food. He further argued that the appellant was not the only person who was residing in the house, his parents also reside in the same house, so the burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act does not lie on him only, to explain the injuries found on the body of the deceased. He further argued that the contusions found on the body of the deceased might occur while running here and there in a burning state with pegs and grass-cutting machine which is usually kept in the villages for cutting the fodder for the cattle.

6. Learned counsel for the convict/appellant relied upon the case laws Samsul Haque Vs. State of Assam : 2019(18) SCC 161. and also on extracts of book C.D. FIELD'S Commentary on LAW OF EVIDENCE ACT, 1872 contained on page no.4640 and 4641.

7. Contrary to it, learned A.G.A. argued that the deceased was staying with her husband, the convict, in the same house. The convict got her admitted in the hospital. Thereafter, he ran away from the scene. It is the version of the convict himself that he got her admitted in the hospital. The fact that the cremation was done by the parents of the deceased, has not been disputed. The conduct of the convict/appellant after the incident gives support to the version of the prosecution. The convict in his statement under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C. has stated that the deceased caught fire accidentally while cooking food but this statement of the convict is not reliable because in the site plan, the place of incident has been shown as a room with a bed. If the deceased was cooking food there and caught fire accidentally, then why other articles kept in the room were not burnt. The convict/appellant has also stated in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that he was not present at the spot when incident occurred. But no such evidence has been led by the convict/appellant to prove the plea of alibi i.e. his absence from the place of incident. The contusions found on the body of the deceased has not been explained and no such suggestion has been put to the doctor P.W.-7 that these contusions occurred due to the fact that the deceased was running here and there in a burning state and dashed to pegs or the grass cutting machine. The husband and wife living in a house and wife died an unnatural death i.e. due to burn injuries and contusions were found on her body, then a heavy burden lies on the husband under Section 106 of the Evidence Act, to explain how she sustained the contusions and got burnt.

8. Learned A.G.A. relied upon the following case laws :

ii). Shaikh Sattar Vs. State of Maharashtra : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 906.

iii). Ranjit Kumar Haldar Vs. State of Sikkim : (2019) (3) JIC 192 (SC).

9. Considered the rival submissions, perused the original record of the trial court as well as of the appeal and also gone through the referred case laws.

10. Perusal of the record shows that in this matter, it is not disputed that the deceased was the wife of the convict Vipin and she was living with him in the same house. The date and place of occurrence is also not disputed. It is also not disputed that the deceased died of burn injuries that too in the house of the convict/appellant. The convict/appellant has also stated that after the deceased got burnt, he admitted her in the hospital. The stand of the convict Vipin is that the deceased caught fire accidentally while she was cooking food and he received information in the field where he was working and he came to the house and got her admitted in the hospital. Under Section 313 Cr.P.C., he has stated that he himself sent the information to the parental home of the deceased. On that, the persons from her parental home came and demanded money from him. He could not give money, therefore he was implicated falsely. His statement shows that he has admitted that he used to live alongwith the deceased in his house. According to him, Seema Devi was alone in the house at the time of incident. It is also deducible from his statement that he was in the field at the time of the incident. Thus, the convict /appellant has taken the plea of alibi that he was in field when the incident occurred. But this fact has not been proved by him by any evidence. The burden of proving his presence in the field at the time of incident was on the convict/appellant himself but he did not adduce any evidence to prove the same. Secondly, he has stated that the deceased got burnt accidentally but this fact is also not believable in the absence of any evidence/material on record to prove the accidental burnt specially when the contusions were found on the cadaver of body in the post-mortem-examination. If the deceased caught fire accidentally, then how contusions have occurred on her body has not been explained by the convict/appellant.

11. Learned counsel for the convict/ appellant has tried to justify the contusions by arguing that these contusions might occur by dashing with pegs and grass cutting machine while running here and there in a burnt state. But no such suggestion has been made or any question has been asked in this regard, to the medical witness i.e. P.W.-7 who conducted the post mortem examination of the cadaver. Thus, this argument has no force in it.

12. Learned counsel for the convict/ appellant has vehemently argued that the prosecution has to stand on its own legs and to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubts and cannot shift the burden on the convict/ appellant to explain how the death occurred. He relied upon the extract of the book C.D. FIELD'S Commentary on LAW OF EVIDENCE ACT, 1872 and submitted that Section 106 of the Evidence Act can have no application where a number of persons reside in the house and in this case, as per the statement of P.W.-1, the mother-in-law and father-in-law of the deceased also used to reside in the same house. Hence, the house was not in the exclusive possession of the convict/ appellant, therefore the burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act cannot be laid on the convict/ appellant to explain how the deceased got burnt and how the contusions occurred. But this argument of the learned counsel for the convict/appellant is not tenable for the reason that the convict/ appellant himself has stated in his statement under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C. that he used to live with his wife Seema Devi in his house. He did not say that his parents were there when accident took place or the deceased caught fire accidentally while cooking food.

13. In Ranjit Kumar Haldar Vs. State of Sikkim (supra), Hon'ble Apex Court in this regard has held as under :-

"14) The general rule is that the burden of proof is on the prosecution. Section 106 of the Act was introduced not to relieve the prosecution of their duty but it is designed to meet the situation in which it would be impossible or difficult for the prosecution to establish facts which are especially within the knowledge of the accused.

15) In Shambu Nath Mehra v. State of Ajmer, AIR 1956 SC 404, the Court held as under:

"8. ...Section 106 is an exception to Section 101. Section 101 lays down the general rule about the burden of proof.

"Whoever desires any court to give judgment as to any legal right or liability dependent on the existence of facts which he asserts, must prove that those facts exist."

Illustration (a) says-- "A desires a court to give judgment that B shall be punished for a crime which A says B has committed. A must prove that B has committed the crime."

9. This lays down the general rule that in a criminal case the burden of proof is on the prosecution and Section 106 is certainly not intended to relieve it of that duty. On the contrary, it is designed to meet certain exceptional cases in which it would be impossible, or at any rate disproportionately difficult, for the prosecution to establish facts which are "especially" within the knowledge of the accused and which he could prove without difficulty or inconvenience. The word "especially" stresses that. It means facts that are pre-eminently or exceptionally within his knowledge. If the section were to be interpreted otherwise, it would lead to the very startling conclusion that in a murder case the burden lies on the accused to prove that he did not commit the murder because who could know better than he whether he did or did not. It is evident that that cannot be the intention and the Privy Council has twice refused to construe this section, as reproduced in certain other Acts outside India, to mean that the burden lies on an accused person to show that he did not commit the crime for which he is tried. These cases are Attygalle v. Emperor [AIR 1936 PC 169] and Seneviratne v. R. [(1936) 3 All ER 36, 49].

11. We recognise that an illustration does not exhaust the full content of the section which it illustrates but equally it can neither curtail nor expand its ambit; and if knowledge of certain facts is as much available to the prosecution, should it choose to exercise due diligence, as to the accused, the facts cannot be said to be "especially" within the knowledge of the accused. This is a section which must be considered in a commonsense way; and the balance of convenience and the disproportion of the labour that would be involved in finding out and proving certain facts balanced against the triviality of the issue at stake and the ease with which the accused could prove them, are all matters that must be taken into consideration. The section cannot be used to undermine the well established rule of law that, save in a very exceptional class of case, the burden is on the prosecution and never shifts."

14. In State of Rajashtan Vs. Thakur Singh : 2014(12) SCC 211, Hon'ble Apex Court in this regard has held as under :-

15. We find that the High Court has not at all considered the provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, 1872. This section provides, inter alia, that when any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him.

16. Way back in Shambhu Nath Mehra v. State of Ajmer this Court dealt with the interpretation of Section 106 of the Evidence Act and held that the section is not intended to shift the burden of proof (in respect of a crime) on the accused but to take care of a situation where a fact is known only to the accused and it is well nigh impossible or extremely difficult for the prosecution to prove that fact. It was said (AIR P 406, Para 11) :

"11. This [Section 101 lays down the general rule that in a criminal case the burden of proof is on the prosecution and Section 106 is certainly not intended to relieve it of that duty. On the contrary, it is designed to meet certain exceptional cases in which it would be impossible, or at any rate disproportionately difficult, for the prosecution to establish facts which are "especially" within the knowledge of the accused and which he could prove without difficulty or inconvenience. The word "especially" stresses that. It means facts that are pre-eminently or exceptionally within his knowledge. If the section were to be interpreted otherwise, it would lead to the very startling conclusion that in a murder case the burden lies on the accused to prove that he did not commit the murder because who could know better than he whether he did or did not."

17. In a specific instance in Trimukh Maroti Kirkan v. State of Maharashtra this Court held that when the wife is injured in the dwelling home where the husband ordinarily resides, and the husband offers no explanation for the injuries to his wife, then the circumstances would indicate that the husband is responsible for the injuries. It was said : (SCC p 694, para 22)

"22. Where an accused is alleged to have committed the murder of his wife and the prosecution succeeds in leading evidence to show that shortly before the commission of crime they were seen together or the offence takes place in the dwelling home where the husband also normally resided, it has been consistently held that if the accused does not offer any explanation how the wife received injuries or offers an explanation which is found to be false, it is a strong circumstance which indicates that he is responsible for commission of the crime."

15. In the present matter, the convict/appellant though has stated that he was in the field at the time when the incident occurred, has not led any evidence to prove that he was not present in the house and was in the field. The fact that the deceased caught fire accidentally while cooking food is also not believable in the absence of any evidence/material to prove that the other goods kept in the same room where she was allegedly cooking food and caught accidental fire, were not burnt. Furthermore, when the convict was not present at the time of incident, then how he came to know that his wife caught fire accidentally while cooking food.

16. Learned counsel for the convict/ appellant has vehemently argued that under Section 313 of Cr.P.C., the convict was not asked about the contusions found on the body of the deceased. So he cannot be supposed to explain the contusions found on her body. In support of his contentions, he relied upon Samsul Haque Vs. State of Assam (supra) wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has laid down as under :-

"22. It is trite to say that, in view of the judgments referred to by the learned Senior Counsel, aforesaid, the incriminating material is to be put to the accused so that the accused gets a fair chance to defend himself. This is in recognition of the principles of audi alteram partem. Apart from the judgments referred to aforesaid by the learned Senior Counsel, we may usefully refer to the judgment of this Court in Asraf Ali v. State of Assam. The relevant observations are in the following paragraphs:

"21. Section 313 of the Code casts a duty on the Court to put in an enquiry or trial questions to the accused for the purpose of enabling him to explain any of the circumstances appearing in the evidence against him. It follows as necessary corollary therefrom that each material circumstance appearing in the evidence against the accused is required to be put to him specifically, distinctly and separately and failure to do so amounts to a serious irregularity vitiating trial, if it is shown that the accused was prejudiced.

22. The object of Section 313 of the Code is to establish a direct dialogue between the Court and the accused. If a point in the evidence is important against the accused, and the conviction is intended to be based upon it, it is right and proper that the accused should be questioned about the matter and be given an opportunity of explaining it. Where no specific question has been put by the trial Court on an inculpatory material in the prosecution evidence, it would vitiate the trial. Of course, all these are subject to rider whether they have caused miscarriage of justice or prejudice. This Court also expressed similar view in S. Harnam Singh v. The State (Delhi Admn.) (AIR 1976 SC 2140), while dealing with Section 342 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1898 (corresponding to Section 313 of the Code). Non- indication of inculpatory material in its relevant facets by the trial Court to the accused adds to vulnerability of the prosecution case. Recording of a statement of the accused under Section 313 is not a purposeless exercise."

17. No doubt the specific question has not been asked to the convict under Section 313 Cr.P.C. about the contusions found on the body of the deceased, but a question has been asked about the burning of Seema Devi by him after dousing with kerosene oil. He answered that she caught fire accidentally and he got her admitted in a hospital. When he was asked about the statement of P.W.-7, the doctor who conducted the post-mortem-examination, he showed his ignorance. In these circumstances, the referred case law is of no help to the convict/ appellant as convict/ appellant and the deceased were living in the same house at the time of the incident and she died of burn injuries and contusions were also found on her body that too on the vital parts of the body. No other articles of the house were found burnt. There is no evidence to show that the convict/ appellant was present at the spot at the time of incident as he alleges that he was in the field.

18. As far as argument of learned counsel for the convict/ appellant about the demand of money by the complainant is concerned, it is a very feeble argument, as the convict himself has stated that after the death of the deceased, they demanded money. Even if it is assumed that they lodged the report for not paying the money demanded, the factum of death of the deceased in the house of the convict due to burn injuries alongwith contusions received, cannot be wiped out merely on saying that they demanded money. No person has been examined even to prove this fact that the complainant demanded money. The medical evidence does not show the accidental death as contusions were found on the cadaver. The plea of alibi is to be established with certainty but no evidence has been led to establish the fact.

19. In Shaikh Sattar Vs. State of Maharashtra (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court in this regard has held as under :-

"35. Undoubtedly, the burden of establishing the plea of alibi lay upon the appellant. The appellant herein has miserably failed to bring on record any facts or circumstances which would make the plea of his absence even probable, let alone, being proved beyond reasonable doubt. The plea of alibi had to be proved with absolute certainty so as to completely exclude the possibility of the presence of the appellant in the rented premises at the relevant time. When a plea of alibi is raised by an accused it is for the accused to establish the said plea by positive evidence which has not been led in the present case. We may also notice here at this stage the proposition of law laid down in the case of Gurpreet Singh Vs. State of Haryana, (2002) 8 SCC 18 as follows:

"20..... This plea of alibi stands disbelieved by both the courts and since the plea of alibi is a question of fact and since both the courts concurrently found that fact against the appellant, the accused, this Court in our view, cannot on an appeal by special leave go behind the above noted concurrent finding of fact".

20. In the present case, it has not been explained who caused the contusions. The deceased caught fire accidentally. It is also not proved that the convict/appellant was working in the field at the time of incident.

21. Thus, to sum up, in this matter, the date and place of occurrence is not disputed. The medical evidence shows that the deceased died of ante-mortem burn injuries and contusions were also found on the cadaver. The convict/appellant did not prove the fact that he was in the field at the time of the incident. The statement of the convict that deceased caught fire accidentally while cooking food is not found reliable. The deceased and convict/ appellant were residing in the same house at the time of the incident, then it was the duty of the convict/appellant to explain how the deceased caught fire and how contusions occurred on her body. Hence, the learned trial court has rightly held the convict /appellant guilty under Section 302 I.P.C. for causing the death of his wife Seema Devi, and sentenced accordingly. There appears no reason or ground to interfere with the conviction and sentence recorded by the trial Court.

22. In the result, the appeal has no merit and is hereby dismissed.

23. The convict/appellant Vipin is in jail. He shall undergo the sentence awarded by the trial court.

24. Let the original record, received from trial Court be sent back alongwith the copy of this judgement, to the court concerned for information and necessary action.

Criminal Appeal No. 1387 of 2013

Sanjay Singh ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Mr. Jaikaran

Counsel for the Respondent:
Govt. Advocate

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32- The dying declaration of the deceased is very natural, cogent, trustworthy with ring of truth as she has given a very precise statement against the person who set her ablaze. He has not implicated any other in-laws in the crime. This dying declaration has been corroborated by the statement of P.W.10, P.W3 and also by statement of P.W.1.

Where the court finds the dying declaration to be cogent, true and trustworthy and has been further corroborated by other evidence then the same can be solely relied upon to convict the accused.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 154- Hostile Witness- The evidence of a hostile witness cannot be thrown out, completely. It is settled law that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded in toto, whatever is found in his/her evidence in corroboration of the other evidence, the court can take into consideration that part of the evidence of that witness.

Settled law that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole and relevant parts ofthe testimony of a hostile witness, which are admissible in law, can be used by the prosecution or the defence.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 & 304- The deceased died in the hospital during the treatment after four days, in the hospital, so it cannot be said the offence travels only upto the offence punishable under Section 304 instead of Section 302 of I.P.C. Hence this contention of the learned counsel for the defence has no force. In the postmortem report it has also been noted by the autopsy surgeon that deceased died "as a result of ante-mortem burn leading to septicemia and shock." Hence the evidence available on record is sufficient enough to prove the guilt of the convict/appellant and the learned trial court has rightly held him guilty and sentenced him for the offence punishable u/s 302 I.P.C.

As the deceased died after four days of the occurrence because of septicaemia caused by the burn injuries sustained by her, therefore the present offence would be that of murder and not culpable homicide not amounting to murder. (Para 12, 14, 18)

1. Rajesh Yadav & anr. Vs St. of U.P. 2022 SCC Online SC 150

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Saroj Yadav, J.)

1. This Criminal Appeal has been filed by the appellant against the judgment and order dated 13/14.08.2013 passed by Special Judge (E.C.) Act/ Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.4, Rae Bareli in Sessions Trial No.116 of 2007 (State Vs. Sanjay Singh) arising out of Crime No.31 of 2007 under Section 498-A, 323, 504 and 302 of of Indian Penal Code,1860 (in short I.P.C.) and Section ¾ of Dowry Prohibition Act (in short D.P. Act). Whereby the convict/appellant has been held guilty and sentenced under Section 498A, 302 of I.P.C. and Section 4 of the D.P. Act, Police Station Shivgarh, District Rae Bareli. The convict has been awarded the following sentences :-

Sl. No.	Sections	Sentences awarded
1.	Under section 498-A I.P.C.	Rigorous imprisonment of three years coupled with a fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine, six months simple imprisonment.
2.	Under section 302 I.P.C.	Life imprisonment coupled with a fine of Rs.20,000/- and in default of payment of fine, two years additional imprisonment.
3.	Under section 4 of D.P. Act.	Rigorous imprisonment of two years coupled with a fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine, three months simple imprisonment.

2. The facts in short, necessary for disposal of this appeal are as under:-

(i) A First Information Report (in short FIR) was registered at Case Crime No.31 of 2007, under Sections 498A, 323, 504, 307 of I.P.C. and Section ¾ of D.P. Act, Police Station Shivgarh, District Rae Bareli, on the basis of a the written report submitted by the complainant Ajeet Pratap Singh. In the written report it was narrated that elder sister of the complainant Manju Singh was married to Sanjay Singh about 10 years ahead. His brother-in-law used to harass and torture his sister soon after the marriage and used to say that her parents had not given sufficient dowry and they just show that they were rich people. Sanjay Singh used to ask his sister to bring a buffalo and a motorcycle, otherwise he will not let her live with peace. One son was born to his sister out of this wedlock. Sanjay Singh started to live separately in a house situated adjacent to his parents. After this he started torturing and harassing his sister more and pressurized her to bring a buffalo and a motorcycle. When his sister refused to accede to the demands he frequently used to beat and torture her. Due to this harassment and torture his sister came to her parental house, about 5 months before and started to live there. About one month ahead, brother of her father-in-law died, therefore, his sister went to his matrimonial home Jagatpur. When she was coming back, her mother-in-law and father-in-law asked her to stay there and assured that now Sanjay Singh has reformed himself. On this she stayed there and started to live with Sanjay Singh.

(ii) On 25.01.2007 he received a phone call from village Ahasan Jagatpur that Sanjay Singh has set ablaze Manju after pouring Kerosene oil. On this the complainant, his younger brother Sonu Singh, cousin Santosh and many other people of the village went to village Ahasan Jagatpur and found that his sister was badly burnt. The smell of kerosene oil was coming out from her body. His sister Manju told him that Sanjay Singh has set her ablaze after beating and dousing with kerosene oil. His sister was being carried by Sonu Singh and Santosh Singh to hospital in Bachhrawa. The condition of his sister was very serious.

(iii) After registration of the FIR investigation started. The dying declaration of the deceased was recorded by Mr. Piyush Srivastava, 'Naib Tehsildar' in the hospital where the deceased was under treatment. The deceased died during treatment on 29.01.2007 in the hospital. The written information of death was given by the complainant at the concerned police station (Exhibit Ka-18). After investigation chargesheet was submitted in the Court concerned against the convict/appellant under Sections 498-A, 323, 504 and 302 of I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of D.P. Act. The Magistrate concerned took cognizance on the chargesheet and committed the case to the Sessions Court for trial. The Sessions Court framed charges under sections 498A, 302 of I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of D.P. Act. The convict/appellant denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

(iv) The prosecution in order to prove its case examined ten witnesses in toto, which are as under:-

1. P.W.1 Sonu Singh brother of the deceased.

2. P.W.2 Mabood Khan an independent witness.

3. P.W.3 Santosh Singh cousin brother of the deceased.

4. P.W.4 Dr. Y.N. Tiwari, who conducted autopsy on the cadaver of the deceased Manju Singh.

5. P.W.5 Smt. Kirti Singh a witness from the family of accused.

6. P.W.6 Sub Inspector Arvind Mohan Jaiswal, who investigated the matter initially.

7. P.W.7 Sub-Inspector M. S. Khan who conducted inquest of the dead body and prepared 'Panchayatnama' and relevant papers and sent the dead body for postmortem.

8. P.W.8 Mr. Piyush Srivastava, 'Naib Tehsildar', who recorded the dying declaration of the deceased.

9. P.W.9 Sub-Inspector Mr. R.P. Singh who took over the investigation from the I.O. Arvind Mohan Jaiswal.

10. P.W.10 Raja Ram Singh, the uncle of the deceased who scribed the written report upon the dictation of the complainant Ajeet Singh.

(v) Apart from the above oral evidence, documentary evidence has also been proved by the prosecution, which are as under:-

1. Exhibit Ka-1 postmortem report.

2. Exhibit Ka-2 bed head ticket.

3. Exhibit Ka-3 discharge slip.

4. Exhibit Ka-4 prescription of Naveen Prathmik Swasthya Kendra, Bachhrawa, Rae Bareli, of deceased.

5. Exhibit Ka-5 recovery memo of the recover of burnt sari, blouse etc. from the spot.

6. Exhibit Ka-6 recovery memo of taking into custody half burnt sweater and ash.

7. Exhibit Ka-7 Site plan of the place of occurrence.

8. Exhibit Ka-8 carbon copy of concerned G.D. , whereby the case was altered under Section 302 of the I.P.C.

9. Exhibit Ka-9 Chick FIR.

10. Exhibit Ka-10 concerned G.D.

11. Exhibit Ka-11 'Panchayatnama'.

12. Exhibit Ka-12 Police Form No.13

13. Exhibit Ka-13 Police Form No.379.

14. Exhibit Ka-14 letter to C.M.O. for conducting postmortem.

15. Exhibit Ka-15 dying declaration.

16. Exhibit Ka-16 chargesheet.

17. Exhibit Ka-17 written report.

18. Exhibit Ka-18 information of the death of the deceased.

(vi) After completion of prosecution evidence the statement of convict/appellant was recorded under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Cr.P.C.), wherein he denied all the facts and circumstances and stated that the deceased was of blunt mind, she herself set her ablaze. He has further stated that the deceased herself set her ablaze. He was not at the spot. Whatever allegations have been made against him are false. His son Golu lives with him, previously Golu used to live with Manju, the deceased in her parental home, but now the relatives of Manju sent back Golu to him and asked his mother to get him convicted.

No defence witness was produced by the convict/appellant, though opportunity was given by the trial court.

(vii) After hearing the arguments of both the sides and analyzing the evidence available on record, the learned lower court relied upon the dying declaration made by the deceased in the hospital where she was admitted for treatment after being burnt by the convict/appellant. The dying-decleration was recorded by the 'Naib Tehsildar' on the same day, on which incident occurred. The dying declaration so made was corroborated by the evidence of witnesses of facts as well as by evidence of formal witnesses. Medical evidence is consistent with the dying declaration made by the deceased. The learned trial court did not find any reason to disbelieve the dying declaration made by the deceased.

(viii) P.W.10 Raja Ram Singh, uncle of the deceased who ascribed the written report, dictated by the brother of the deceased, Ajeet Singh. This witness has proved the written report as Exhibit Ka-17. It is noteworthy that Ajeet Singh the complainant had died during the pendency of the case. This witness has also proved all the facts stated in the written report, as he accompanied the complainant to the place of incident when the information was received in his village about the unfortunate incident of burning of the deceased. This witness has also proved the recovery of the articles by the Investigating Officer from the place of the incident.

(ix) The learned trial court also relied upon the examination-in-chief of P.W.1, the another brother of deceased who in the cross-examination has turned hostile. On the basis of evidence available on record the learned trial court concluded that prosecution has proved the charges framed against the convict/appellant beyond reasonable doubt. The deceased was tortured and subjected to cruelty for non-fulfillment of demand of a buffalo and a motorcycle as dowry and ultimately she was burnt alive dowsing with kerosene oil on 25.01.2007 and she died of burn injuries during treatment.

(xi) Being aggrieved of this conviction and sentence the convict/appellant preferred this appeal.

3. Heard Shri Jaikaran, learned counsel for the appellant and Ms. Smiti Sahai, learned A.G.A. for the State-respondent.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that learned trial court did not appreciate the evidence in the right preservative and erroneously held the convict/appellant guilty and sentenced him. All the allegations made in the FIR regarding demand of dowry or setting ablaze the deceased are false. The son of the deceased was allegedly present at the time of incident, but he has not been examined by the prosecution. The mother-in-law of the deceased allegedly carried her for the treatment to the hospital, but she has not been examined. The dying declaration of the deceased was manipulated and written on the behest of the complainant. The case was registered initially under Section 307 of I.P.C., but subsequently converted under Section 302 of I.P.C. after the death of the deceased. The deceased died due to septicemia which developed for want of proper treatment. Hence the offence may not travel beyond the offence punishable under Section 304 of I.P.C. Hence this conviction should be converted to Section 304 from Section 302 of I.P.C. and the convict/appellant should be sentenced to the period already undergone and be released.

5. Contrary to it learned A.G.A. submitted that there is sufficient evidence available on record for convicting the convict/appellant for the offence for which he has been convicted and punished. She submitted that the dying declaration of the deceased is very natural and trustworthy as she has implicated only the wrong doer and none-else. The dying declaration has been recorded by the 'Naib Tehsildar' on the day of incident itself. There was no chance for tutoring or manipulating.

6. P.W. 10 Raja Ram has proved the written report and also the fact that deceased told him before the complainant and other persons who were present there that she was burnt by Sanjay Singh, her husband. This witness has also proved the fact that she was being tortured and harassed by the convict/appellant for demand of a Buffalo and a Motorcycle.

7. P.W.1 though turned hostile in the cross-examination, but in examination-in-chief he has fully supported all the facts written in the F.I.R. P.W.3 Santosh Singh, cousin brother of the deceased has also supported very well the case of the prosecution. Ms. Kirti Singh P.W.5 who is the aunt of Sanjay Singh, the convict, has also stated that she saw Manju in burnt condition as she came out of her house in a burning state. She has also stated that the deceased Manju came to his maternal home before 15 days of the incident, after hearing the news of the death of her (P.W.5's) husband. The deceased died due to burn injuries as has been noted in the postmortem report. Hence there is no error or discrepancy in the impugned judgment and order passed by the learned trial court.

8. Considered the rival submissions and perused the original record as well as the record of the appeal. The FIR which was registered on the basis of written report Exhibit Ka-17. The complainant (now dead) has narrated that his real elder sister Manju Singh was married to Sanjay Singh, ten years back. Sanjay Singh used to torture and beat his sister for demand of one buffalo and a motorcycle. Due to unbearable torture his sister came to his parental house five months before the incident, but as the brother of father-in-law of Manju namely Rajendra Singh died, so his sister Manju went there to his matrimonial home. When she was coming back to his parental house her in-laws asked him to stay there and told that Sanjay Singh has reformed himself. On this assurance, she stayed there. On 25.01.2007 at about 08:00 AM he received telephonic call that Sanjay Singh firstly thrashed Manju Singh and thereafter set her ablaze after dowsing with kerosene oil. Unfortunately the complainant died during the pendency of the trial and his statement could not be recorded in the trial court. But the report has very well been proved by P.W.10 Raja Ram Singh who is the uncle of the deceased. He has stated before the trial court that report was scribed by him upon the dictation made by Ajeet Singh and Ajeet Singh after hearing the same wrote his name and address on the same. Whatever was dictated by Ajeet Singh he wrote in the written report. He further stated that he accompanied Ajeet Singh after getting the news of Manju being burnt by Sanjay Singh on 25.01.2007. When he reached at Ahasan Jagatpur he found Manju seriously burnt and asked her about the incident then she told that Sanjay Singh firstly thrashed her, thereafter set her ablaze after dowsing with kerosene oil. This witness has also stated that whenever Manju used to come to her parental house she used to tell that Sanjay Singh tortured and harassed her for one buffalo and a motorcycle. This witness has also stated that his statement was also recorded by the Investigating Officer and he was also a witness to the recovery of articles from the place of incident. This witness recognized her signatures on recovery memos Exhibits Nos. Ka 5 & 6.

9. P.W.3 Santosh Singh, who is the cousin brother of the deceased has also supported very well the prosecution story. He also accompanied the complainant to the maternal house of the deceased where the incident occurred, after getting the news of the incident. He has stated in his examination-in-chief that on the information received he alongwith Ajeet Singh, Sonu Singh and Raja Ram Singh went to the maternal home of Manju Singh and found that mother of Sanjay Singh (convict) was taking Manju in a burnt condition on a Tanga, they all three stopped their motorcycle and asked Manju about the incident then she told that Sanjay Singh firstly beat her and thereafter set her ablaze after dowsing with kerosene oil. Manju was seriously burnt and telling about the incident weepingly. Thereafter they took Manju to Naveen Prathmik Swastha Kendra, Bachhrawa, Rae Bareli from where she was referred to District Hospital for treatment and she died after three or four days. Thus this witness has also supported the prosecution case to the extent that Manju Singh the deceased told Ajeet Singh, Sonu Singh and Raja Ram Singh that she was beaten and burnt by convict Sanjay Singh.

10. Sonu Singh, P.W.1 is the real brother of the deceased Manju Singh. He in his examination-in-chief fully supported the prosecution case, but cross-examination was not made on the day of examination-in-chief. As the defence counsel moved the adjournment application on the date on which examination-in-chief was recorded. The examination-in-chief of this witness was recorded on 12.06.2008 and the cross-examination was made by the defence on 20.07.2009 after a period of more than a year. In cross-examination so made, this witness turned hostile and did not support the prosecution version and whatever stated by him in his examination-in-chief. Therefore, with the permission of the Court Additional District Government Counsel examined the witness. The most important witness of this case is P.W.8 Mr. Piyush Srivastava, 'Naib Tehsildar', who recorded the dying declaration of the deceased. The dying declaration so recorded is Exhibit Ka-15 on the record which reads as under:-

"आज दिनाँक 25/01/07 को प्राप्त सूचना के आधार पर जिला अस्पताल रायबरेली में श्रीमती मंजू सिंह पत्नी संजय सिंह नि. असहनजगतपुर थाना शिवगढ़ जिला रायबरेली के मृत्यु पूर्व बयान प्राप्त किया, जो निम्न प्रकार हैः— मैं मंजू सिंह आज सुबह अपने घर पर थी, उस समय मेरे पति घर पर थे, उन्होंने पहले मुझसे लड़ाई की, और लड़ने के बाद मुझे मारा पीटा और मारपीट कर मुझ पर मिट्टी का तेल डालकर आग लगा दी और घर से भाग गये। मेरे पति का नाम संजय सिंह पुत्र भगवान बख्श सिंह नि. ग्राम असहनजगतपुर है। मेरे परिवार में सास, ससुर मेरे साथ रहते हैं। मुझे उनसे कोई शिकायत नहीं है। मेरी शिकायत मेरे पति से है, उसने ही मुझे जलाया है। मुझे मेरी सास व गाँव वालों ने बचाया और यहाँ अस्पताल लाये।"

11. This witness PW-8 has stated that on 25.01.2007 he was posted as 'Naib Tehsildar' (West) in Tehsil Sadar, Rae Bareli. On that date, on the direction of the then S.D.M. Sadar he went to record the dying declaration of Smt. Manju Singh wife of Sanjay Singh, resident of Ahasan Jagatpur, Police Station Shivgarh, District Rae Bareli. Before starting to record the statement of Manju Singh, Dr. Rajendra Sharma certified that Manju Singh is in the state of giving statement, thereafter he recorded the statement of Manju Singh. Manju Singh stated that her husband Sanjay Singh scuffled with her and beat her, thereafter set her ablaze after dousing with kerosene oil and ran away from the house. Manju Singh also stated that she has no complaint against her mother-in-law. She has further stated that she was burnt by her husband and her mother-in-law and other people of the village saved her and carried to hospital. This witness has further stated that after recording of the statement he read over the same to Manju Singh and Manju Singh affixed her thumb impression of right hand on the statement and this witness has also signed on that. This witness has further stated that doctor has given fitness certificate after recording of the statement also, the doctor signed on the statement and put the seal of the hospital on the same. This witness has proved the dying declaration written in his handwriting and under his signature as Exhibit Ka-15. This witness has been cross-examined by the defence counsel, but nothing adverse could be brought out in his statement. There is nothing on the record to show that the dying declaration of the deceased was manipulated or given at the behest of the complainant. In the cross-examination this witness has stated that among the attendants who were present near Manju Singh when he reached, her mother-in-law was also there. He ousted all the attendants from the room before recording of the statement of Manju Singh. In the presence of the mother of the convict it was not possible to tutor Manju Singh to give statement against the convict Sanjay Singh.

12. The dying declaration of the deceased is very natural, cogent, trustworthy with ring of truth as she has given a very precise statement against the person who set her ablaze. He has not implicated any other in-laws in the crime. This dying declaration has been corroborated by the statement of P.W.10, P.W3 and also by statement of P.W.1.

13. The Investigating Officer P.W.6 Sub-Inspector Arvind Mohan Jaiswal has also stated that when he recorded the statement of the deceased in the hospital she has stated that her husband used to ask for a buffalo and a motorcycle as dowry and when she opposed he used to beat her and on the day of incident at about 7:00 AM Sanjay Singh beat her and set her ablaze dousing with kerosene oil. Hence, there is no reason on the record to doubt the veracity or truthfulness of the dying declaration of the deceased Manju Singh.

14. Learned counsel for the convict/appellant argued that the trial court has taken into consideration the statements of hostile witnesses also, which is not justified. But this argument of the defence does not carry any weight because the dying declaration of the deceased is very well being supported by P.W.3 and P.W.10. Further more, the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be thrown out, completely. It is settled law that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded in toto, whatever is found in his/her evidence in corroboration of the other evidence, the court can take into consideration that part of the evidence of that witness.

15. In this regard the Hon'ble Apex Court very recently in the case of Rajesh Yadav and another Vs. Sate of U.P. 2022 SCC Online SC 150 held as under:-

"21. The expression "hostile witness" does not find a place in the Indian Evidence Act. It is coined to mean testimony of a witness turning to depose in favour of the opposite party. We must bear it in mind that a witness may depose in favour of a party in whose favour it is meant to be giving through his chief examination, while later on change his view in favour of the opposite side. Similarly, there would be cases where a witness does not support the case of the party starting from chief examination itself. This classification has to be borne in mind by the Court. With respect to the first category, the Court is not denuded of its power to make an appropriate assessment of the evidence rendered by such a witness. Even a chief examination could be termed as evidence. Such evidence would become complete after the cross examination. Once evidence is completed, the said testimony as a whole is meant for the court to assess and appreciate qua a fact. Therefore, not only the specific part in which a witness has turned hostile but the circumstances under which it happened can also be considered, particularly in a situation where the chief examination was completed and there are circumstances indicating the reasons behind the subsequent statement, which could be deciphered by the court. It is well within the powers of the court to make an assessment, being a matter before it and come to the correct conclusion.

22. On the law laid down in dealing with the testimony of a witness over an issue, we would like to place reliance on the decision of this Court in C. Muniappan v. State of T.N., (2010) 9 SCC 567:

"81. It is settled legal proposition that:

"6. ... the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. The evidence of such witnesses cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether but the same can be accepted to the extent their version is found to be dependable on a careful scrutiny thereof."

(Vide Bhagwan Singh v. State of Haryana, (1976) 1 SCC 389, Rabindra Kumar Dey v. State of Orissa, (1976) 4 SCC 233, Syad Akbar v. State of Karnataka, (1980) 1 SCC 30 and Khujji v. State of M.P., (1991) 3 SCC 627, SCC p. 635, para 6.)

82. In State of U.P. v. Ramesh Prasad Misra [(1996) 10 SCC 360: 1996 SCC (Cri) 1278] this Court held that (at SCC p. 363, para 7) evidence of a hostile witness would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon. A similar view has been reiterated by this Court in Balu Sonba Shinde v. State of Maharashtra [(2002) 7 SCC 543: 2003 SCC (Cri) 112], Gagan Kanojia v. State of Punjab [(2006) 13 SCC 516: (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 109], Radha Mohan Singh v. State of U.P. [(2006) 2 SCC 450: (2006) 1 SCC (Cri) 661], Sarvesh Narain Shukla v. Daroga Singh [(2007) 13 SCC 360: (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 188] and Subbu Singh v. State [(2009) 6 SCC 462: (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1106].

83. Thus, the law can be summarised to the effect that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant parts thereof which are admissible in law, can be used by the prosecution or the defence.

84. In the instant case, some of the material witnesses i.e. B. Kamal (PW 86) and R. Maruthu (PW 51) turned hostile. Their evidence has been taken into consideration by the courts below strictly in accordance with law. Some omissions, improvements in the evidence of the PWs have been pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants, but we find them to be very trivial in nature.

85. It is settled proposition of law that even if there are some omissions, contradictions and discrepancies, the entire evidence cannot be disregarded. After exercising care and caution and sifting through the evidence to separate truth from untruth, exaggeration and improvements, the court comes to a conclusion as to whether the residuary evidence is sufficient to convict the accused. Thus, an undue importance should not be attached to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the heart of the matter and shake the basic version of the prosecution's witness. As the mental abilities of a human being cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb all the details of the incident, minor discrepancies are bound to occur in the statements of witnesses."

Vide Sohrab v. State of M.P., [(1972] 3 SCC 751 : (1972) SCC (Cri) 819 : AIR 1972 SC 2020], State of U.P. v. M.K. Anthony, [(1985) 1 SCC 505 : 1985 SCC (Cri) 105], Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v. Sate of Gujrat, [(1983) 3 SCC 217 : 1983 SCC (Cri) 728 : AIR 1983 SC 753], State of Rajasthan v. Om Prakash, [(2007) 12 SCC 381 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 411], Prithu v. State of H.P., [(2009) 11 SCC 585 : (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 1502], State of U.P. v. Santosh Kumar, [(2009) 9 SCC 626 : (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 88] and State v. Saravanan, [(2008) 17 SCC 587 : (2010) 4 SCC (Cri) 580]."

16. The argument of the learned counsel that the son and mother-in-law of the deceased who were allegedly present at the time of incident have not been examined by the prosecution which creates doubt, is not tenable at all because it is a choice of the prosecution to whom it wants to produce to prove its case. The case of the prosecution has very well been proved by the witnesses of fact as well as by the witness who recorded the dying declaration of the deceased.

17. Learned counsel for the convict/appellant very vehemently argued that deceased was not treated medically well, therefore she died, as she was not so badly burnt as to die. So the offence can travel only upto the offence punishable under Section 304 of I.P.C. instead of Section 302 of I.P.C.. This argument of the defence counsel is also of no value. The medical-examination report, Exhibit Ka-4 where the deceased was first examined in a burnt condition, it has been noted that superficial to deep burn was found on the body and she was found 55 to 65 percent burnt and referred to District Hospital for treatment. In Exhibit Ka-2 which is 'bed-head- ticket' of the deceased issued by Rana Beni Madhav District Hospital Rae Bareli it has been noted that 55 to 65 percent burn injuries were present on the body of the victim.

18. In the postmortem report following ante-mortem injuries were found :-

"Superficial to deep skin burn at place over scalp, forehead, face, neck and interior and posterior of Chest front and back, upper part of abdomen front and back both upper limbs. Line of redness present at place"

The deceased died in the hospital during the treatment after four days, in the hospital, so it cannot be said the offence travels only upto the offence punishable under Section 304 instead of Section 302 of I.P.C.. Hence this contention of the learned counsel for the defence has no force. In the postmortem report it has also been noted by the autopsy surgeon that deceased died "as a result of ante-mortem burn leading to septicemia and shock." Hence the evidence available on record is sufficient enough to prove the guilt of the convict/appellant and the learned trial court has rightly held him guilty and sentenced him for the offence punishable u/s 302 I.P.C. There appears no ground and reason for interference in the conviction and sentence recorded by the trial court.

19. The appeal is dismissed, accordingly.

20. The convict/appellant is already in jail. He shall serve the sentence awarded to him by the trial court. Let the original record received be sent back along with copy of this judgment to the trial court for information and necessary action.

Criminal Appeal No. 1425 of 2017

Pushpa Devi ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Anil Kumar Srivastava, Sri Ram Bahadur, Sri Yogesh Kumar Srivastava, A/R0050, Sri Raghubeer Singh, Sri Noor Muhammad.

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32- Dying Declaration-This dying declaration has not been challenged by the counsel for the appellant- There is no reason for us not to accept the dying declaration and its evidentiary value under Section 32 of Evidence Act, 1872.

Where the dying declaration is found to be reliable and trustworthy and the same is also not challenged, then the Court would accept the said dying declaration and secure the conviction of the accused solely on the basis of the dying declaration.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 & 304 Part – I- The deceased died due to septicemia after about 20 days. All these facts go to show that the death occurred due to septicemia which developed because of the setting her ablaze the deceased which is corroborated by oral testimony. Thus, the death has occurred due to the act of Pushpa who has been aided by the other co-accused and it is a homicidal death- The offence would be under Section 304 Part-I of IPC as (i) the death occurred after 20 days, (ii) the burns were only 36%, (iii) the death was due to septicemia - The death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused had no intention to cause death of deceased, the injuries were though sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to have caused death, accused had no intention to do away with deceased, hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I- The offence is not under Section 302 of I.P.C. but is culpable homicide and, therefore, sentence of the accused- appellants is reduced to the period of eight years with remission under Section 304 Part-I of IPC. The fine is reduced to Rs.2,000/- each.

Where the death is due to septicaemia, the offence was not premeditated and the accused did not have the intention to commit the murder of the deceased, the offence will fall under Exceptions 1 and 4 of Section 300 IPC and will therefore be punishable under Section 304 Part-1 of the IPC. (Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Both these appeals challenges the judgment and order dated 9.2.2017 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.8, Firozabad in Sessions Trial No.245 of 2015 convicting accused-appellant- Pushpa Devi, under Section 498A of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') and sentenced her to undergo simple imprisonment for two years with fine of Rs.2,000/- and in default of payment of fine, further to undergo simple imprisonment for three months; she was further convicted under Section 323 IPC and sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for three months with fine of Rs.500/- and in case of default of payment of fine, to undergo further simple imprisonment for one months; she was further convicted under Section 302 IPC and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine, further to undergo simple imprisonment for six months. The accused-appellant-Bantu @Vimal Babu and accused-appellant- Munni Devi were convicted under Section 498A IPC and sentenced them to undergo simple imprisonment for two years each with fine of Rs.2,000/- each and in default of payment of fine, further to undergo simple imprisonment for three months each. All the sentences were to run concurrently as per direction of the Trial Court.

2. Accused-appellants, Pushpa Devi, Bantu @ Vimal Babu and Munni Devi were trying along with Dilip Kumar for commission of offence under Section 498A, 304B, 314 and 323 read with Section ¾ Dowry Prohibition Act. ON 4.7.2015, learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of sessions which was numbered as Sessions Case No. 245 of 2015 (State Vs. Dilip Kumar and others).

3. Factual scenario as culled out from the record and the judgment of the Court below is that on 03.12.2014, a written First Information Report (hereinafter referred as 'FIR) was given mentioning that Rajni was married with Dilip Kumar on 4.6.2013 but after the marriage,the in-laws started harassing the deceased-Rajni and demanded more dowry. For which on 2.12.2014, a phone was received that all the four persons had set ablaze the deceased-Rajni at about 3:00 (afternoon). She was taken to the hospital at Firozabad. Thereafter she was referred to Agra. She has pregnancy of eight months.

4. On the complaint of the father of the deceased, First Information Report being No.491 of 2014 was registered under Sections 498A, 307, 323 IPC and ¾ D.P. Act and thereafter, the investigation was moved into motion. After recording statements of various persons, the investigating officer submitted the chargesheet against accused persons under Sections 498A, 304B, 314, 323 IPC and ¾ D.P. Act.. The learned Chief Judicial Magistrate before whom charge sheet was laid put the same before the learned Sessions Judge. The learned Sessions Judge, on hearing the learned Government Advocate and learned counsel for the accused-Pushpa Devi, framed charges under Section 302, 498A, 323 of I.P.C. and the accused- Dilip Kumar, Bantu @ Vimal Babu and Smt. Munni Devi framed charge under Section 498A IPC.

5. On being read over the charges, the accused-appellants pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried, hence, the trial started and the prosecution examined 15 witnesses who are as follows:

2	Omkar	PW2
3	Manoj Kumar	PW3
4	Shankar Lal	PW4
5	Dharmendra Singh	PW5
6	Dr. R.C. Johri	PW6
7	Dr. Anand Kumar	PW7
8	Nanhey Ram	PW8
9	Kehar Singh Rana	PW9
10	Prashan tKumar Prasad	PW10
11	Yogendra Kumar Yadav	PW11
12	Geeta Ram	PW12
13	Raj Kamal Singh	PW13
14	Krishna Murari Dixit	PW14
15	Dr. R.D. Gautam	PW15

6. In support of ocular version following documents were filed:

1.	F.I.R.	Ex. Ka.5
2.	Written Report	Ex. Ka.1
3.	Dying Declaration	Ex. Ka.12
4.	Medical Report	Ex. Ka.13
5.	Postmortem Report	Ex. Ka.4
6.	Panchayatnama	Ex. Ka.2
7.	Charge-sheet	Ex. Ka.6
8.	Site Plan with Index	Ex. Ka.7

7. At the end of the trial and after recording the statement of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the accused - appellants as mentioned above.

8. Heard Yogesh Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Vikas Goswami, learned A.G.A-I, in Criminal Appeal No.1689 of 2017 and Sri Nagendra Kumar Srivastava and Sri Janardan Prakash, learned A.G.A in Criminal Appeal No.1425 of 2017 for the State and perused the record.

9. It is submitted that the deceased in her first dying declaration mentioned that the Pushpa Devi (sister-in-law) locked her in the room and set her ablaze by pouring kerosene. Mother-in-law and husband had helped Pushpa Devi in the occurrence of the said crime. Four family members (Pushpa Devi, Banti, Mother-in-law and husband) had harassed her after marriage. The neighbors brought her to the hospital. Her statement was recorded at 5:40 p.m. on 7.12.2014 namely after five days of incident i.e. on 2.12.2014. Meaning thereby she was alive till 7.12.2014.

10. Learned counsel for appellants has thereafter taken us to the depositions of other witnesses who are declared as hostile witnesses. Be that as it may, the main crux on which submission is made by Sri Yogesh Kr. Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant are (i) the deceased died out of burn injuries after six days, (ii)there are multiple dying declarations in which she has given different version, (iii) The medical evidence according to the counsel for the appellant shows that she died due to septicemic shock and, therefore, it is submitted that looking to the F.I.R. and the dying declarations, it cannot be said that the deceased was done to death and she was murdered. It is submitted that even if it is considered that it was culpable homicide, it would be culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

11. In support of the these submissions, learned counsel for the appellants has relied on the decisions in Maniben vs. State of Gujarat, 2009 (8) SCC 796, Chirra Shivraj vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, 2010 (14) SCC 444, Criminal Appeal No.1438 of 2010 (Rama Devi alias Ramakanti vs. State of U.P.) decided on 7.10.2017 & Criminal Appeal No. 2558 of 2011 (Smt. Kanti and another vs. State of U.P.) decided on 1.2.2021 but is punishable under Section 302IPC as it was cold blooded murder with predetermination.

12. Learned A.G.A. for the state has vehemently submitted the death of the deceased was though due to septicemic shock, the burn injuries goes to show that it would not be an offence punishable under Section 304 part I or II of I.P.C.

13. While going through the evidence of the witnesses in light of the judgments of the Apex Court referred by both the learned Advocates, we would have to evaluate whether deceased was done to death with a premeditation. Just because death was due to septicemic shock will not take it out from the purview of Section 300 of I.P.C. The evidence of most of the witnesses which has been recorded goes to show that most of them have given go by of their statements before the police under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. But, the medical evidence and dying declaration which are multiple in number have to be evaluated.

14. This fact is borne out in both the dying declarations and the doctor has also opined against the accused. Therefore, this dying declaration has not been challenged by the counsel for the appellant and in the light of the decision in Govindappa and others Vs. State of Karnataka, (2010) 6 SCC 533, there is no reason for us not to accept the dying declaration and its evidentiary value under Section 32 of Evidence Act, 1872. The main allegations is that Pushpa Devi w/o Banti bolted the room and poured kerosine on her and at that time the husband and mother in law were present. This is the dying declaration dated 7.12.2014 taken by Krishna Murari in presence EMO Hospital. The fact is proved that the deceased had 40% burn injuries. Witnesses PW- 1 to PW-5 have not supported the prosecution case. Dr. Jauhari, has deposed on oath that he along with other doctor had treated the deceased patient from 5.12.2014 to 9.12.2014 when she had 40% burn injuries . Dr. Anand Kumar had carried out the post mortem and they were septicemic death because of the burn injuries. Her death was because to septicemia. Tehsildar as PW-8 had performed the punchnama. PW-8 is also signatory of Panchayatnama. She died due to septicemia after about 20 days. All these facts go to show that the death occurred due to septicemia which developed because of the setting her ablaze the deceased which is corroborated by oral testimony. Thus, the death has occurred due to the act of Pushpa who has been aided by the other co-accused and it is a homicidal death.

15. Considering the evidence of the witnesses and also considering the medical evidence including post mortem report, there is no doubt left in our mind about the guilt of the present appellants.

16. However, the question which falls for our consideration is whether, on reappraisal of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, the conviction of the appellants under Section 302 IPC of I.P.C. of the Indian Penal Code should be upheld or the conviction deserves to be converted under Section 304 Part-I or Part-II of the Indian Penal Code. It would be relevant to refer Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which read as under:

"299. Culpable homicide: Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide."

17. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts losing sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of I.P.Code. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences.

A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder if the act by which the death is caused is done.
INTENTION
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

18. On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. State of Karnataka, reported in 1994 SUPP (1) SCC 304, we are of the considered opinion that the offence would be one punishable under Section 304 part-I of the IPC.

19. We are holding that the offence would be under Section 304 Part-I of IPC as (i) the death occurred after 20 days, (ii) the burns were only 36%, (iii) the death was due to septicemia and the judgments on septicemia cited by the learned AGA cannot be made applicable to the facts of this case.

20. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussions, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused had no intention to cause death of deceased, the injuries were though sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to have caused death, accused had no intention to do away with deceased, hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. Decided, (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

21. We can safely rely upon the decision of the Gujarat High court in Criminal Appeal No.83 of 2008 (Gautam Manubhai Makwana Vs. State of Gujarat) decided on 11.9.2013 wherein the Court held as under:

"12. In fact, in the case of Krishan vs. State of Haryana reported in (2013) 3 SCC 280, the Apex Court has held that it is not an absolute principle of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction of an accused. Where the dying declaration is true and correct, the attendant circumstances show it to be reliable and it has been recorded in accordance with law, the deceased made the dying declaration of her own accord and upon due certification by the doctor with regard to the state of mind and body, then it may not be necessary for the court to look for corroboration. In such cases, the dying declaration alone can form the basis for the conviction of the accused. But where the dying declaration itself is attended by suspicious circumstances, has not been recorded in accordance with law and settled procedures and practices, then, it may be necessary for the court to look for corroboration of the same.

13. However, the complaint given by the deceased and the dying declaration recorded by the Executive Magistrate and the history before the doctor is consistent and seems to be trustworthy. The same is also duly corroborated with the evidence of witnesses and the medical reports as well as panchnama and it is clear that the deceased died a homicidal death due to the act of the appellants in pouring kerosene and setting him ablaze. We do find that the dying declaration is trust worthy.

14. However, we have also not lost sight of the fact that the deceased had died after a month of treatment. From the medical reports, it is clear that the deceased suffered from Septicemia which happened due to extensive burns.

15. In the case of the B.N. Kavatakar and another (supra), the Apex Court in a similar case of septicemia where the deceased therein had died in the hospital after five days of the occurrence of the incident in question, converted the conviction under section 302 to under section 326 and modified the sentence accordingly.

15.1 Similarly, in the case of Maniben (supra), the Apex Court has observed as under:

"18. The deceased was admitted in the hospital with about 60% burn injuries and during the course of treatment developed septicemia, which was the main cause of death of the deceased. It is, therefore, established that during the aforesaid period of 8 days the injuries aggravated and worsened to the extent that it led to ripening of the injuries and the deceased died due to poisonous effect of the injuries.

19. It is established from the dying declaration of the deceased that she was living separately from her mother-in-law, the appellant herein, for many years and that on the day in question she had a quarrel with the appellant at her house. It is also clear from the evidence on record that immediately after the quarrel she along with her daughter came to fetch water and when she was returning, the appellant came and threw a burning tonsil on the clothes of the deceased. Since the deceased was wearing a terylene cloth at that relevant point of time, it aggravated the fire which caused the burn injuries.

20. There is also evidence on record to prove and establish that the action of the appellant to throw the burning tonsil was preceded by a quarrel between the deceased and the appellant. From the aforesaid evidence on record it cannot be said that the appellant had the intention that such action on her part would cause the death or such bodily injury to the deceased, which was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause the death of the deceased. Therefore, in our considered opinion, the case cannot be said to be covered under clause (4) of Section 300 of IPC. We are, however, of the considered opinion that the case of the appellant is covered under Section 304 Part II of IPC."

16. In the present case, we have come to the irresistible conclusion that the role of the appellants is clear from the dying declaration and other records. However, the point which has also weighed with this court are that the deceased had survived for around 30 days in the hospital and that his condition worsened after around 5 days and ultimately died of septicemia. In fact he had sustained about 35% burns. In that view of the matter, we are of the opinion that the conviction of the appellants under section 302 of Indian Penal Code is required to be converted to that under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and in view of the same appeal is partly allowed.

17. The conviction of the appellants - original accused under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code vide judgment and order dated 19.12.2007 arising from Sessions Case No. 149 of 2007 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No. 6, Ahmedabad is converted to conviction under Section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code. However, the conviction of the appellants - original accused under section 452 of Indian Penal Code is upheld. The appellants - original accused are ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and fine of Rs. 5000/- each in default rigorous imprisonment for six months under section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code instead of life imprisonment and sentence in default of fine as awarded by the trial court under section 302 IPC. The sentence imposed in default of fine under section 452 IPC is also reduced to two months. Accordingly, the appellants are ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and fine of Rs. 5000/-, in default, rigorous imprisonment for six months for offence punishable under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and rigorous imprisonment for a period of five years and fine of Rs. 2,000/-, in default, rigorous imprisonment for two months for offence punishable under section 452 of Indian Penal Code. Both sentences shall run concurrently. The judgement and order dated 19.12.2007 is modified accordingly. The period of sentence already undergone shall be considered for remission of sentence qua appellants - original accused.

R & P to be sent back to the trial court forthwith."

22. In latest decision in Khokan@ Khokhan Vishwas v. State of Chattisgarh, 2021 LawSuit (SC) 80 where the facts were similar to this case, the Apex Court has allowed the appeal of the accused appellant. The decision of the Apex Court in the case of Anversinh v. State of Gujarat, (2021) 3 SCC 12 which was related to kidnapping from legal guardian, wherein it was established that the Court while respecting the concerns of both society and victim, propounded that the twin principle of deterrence and correction would be served by reducing the period of incarceration already undergone by the accused. In our case, this is not that gruesome matter where the accused cannot be dealt with in light of all these judgments. Judgments in Pravat Chandra Mohanty v. State of Odisha, (2021) 3 SCC 529 & Pardeshiram v. State of M.P., (2021) 3 SCC 238 will also enure for the benefit of the accused.

23. All others judgments which were pressed into service by the learned counsel for the appellant are not discussed as that would be repetition of what we have decided.

24. We come to the definite conclusion that the death was due to septicemia. The judgments cited by the learned counsel for the appellant would permit us to uphold our finding which we conclusively hold that the offence is not under Section 302 of I.P.C. but is culpable homicide and, therefore, sentence of the accused- appellants is reduced to the period of eight years with remission under Section 304 Part-I of IPC. The fine is reduced to Rs.2,000/- each. The default sentence would be six months without remission and will run after completion of eight years of incarceration. The accused-appellants are in jail. They have suffered for eight years imprisonment and must have repented to his deed which was out of anger.

25. The accused-appellants in Criminal Appeal No.1425 of 2017 have been convicted for the offence under Section 498A IPC. Looking to the facts and circumstances of the case, we confirmed the conviction of Bantu and Smt. Munni Devi to the period already undergone as they have been convicted under Section 498A IPC. The fine is maintained. The default sentence is also maintained. If they have not paid fine the fine be deposited within eight weeks from today failing which they shall surrender for undergoing the default sentence. If the fine is already paid, they did not pay the fine.

26. The accused have already undergone the punishment under Section 498A IPC and under Section 323 of IPC, hence, we do not delve into the same.

27. Both the appeals are partly allowed. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Court below forthwith.

28. This Court is thankful to learned Advocates for ably assisting the Court.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MRS. SAROJ YADAV, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2422 of 2008

Shrawan Kumar Maurya ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Mr. Anurag Shukla (Amicus Curiae)

Counsel for the Respondent:
Government Advocate

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3 -Both these two witnesses of facts have proved the incident committed by the convict/appellant. In the lengthy cross-examinations made by the defence counsel nothing adverse can be brought in their evidence. The medical evidence is in corroboration of and consistent with the ocular evidence. The place of occurrence has very well been proved by the eye witnesses P.W.1 & 2 as well as by Investigating Officer who prepared the site plan of the spot. The site plan as Exhibit Ka-5 is on the record, wherein the place of committing the crime has been shown and proved by the Investigating Officer who has prepared the site plan of the place of occurrence- Mere absence of blood on the place of incident where the alleged incident took place will not make the whole incident untruthful when the trust-worthy ocular evidence as well as medical evidence is there, about the incident.

Where the ocular testimony is consistent, cogent and trustworthy and the same is corroborated by the medical evidence and the place of occurrence has also been established by the prosecution, then the story of the prosecution cannot be doubted merely on the basis of absence of blood on the place of the occurrence.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 53- A- The mere non-examination of the accused medically after the incident cannot create the clouds of doubts on the evidence of eye-witnesses well supported with medical evidence specially when the accused was arrested after two days of the incident. Further more in Section 53, 53A and Section 54 of Cr.P.C. related provisions were amended and made effective on 23.03.2006, while this incident occurred on 19.03.2006.

Where the accused was taken into custody after considerable delay then his medical examination will not serve any purpose- As the provisions u/s 53-A of the Cr.Pc. were incorporated through amendment subsequent to the occurrence, hence the same cannot operate retrospectively. (Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Saroj Yadav, J.)

1. This Criminal Appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 16.09.2008 passed in Sessions Trial No.796 of 2006, arising out of Crime No.50 of 2006, under Section 376 of Indian Penal Code,1860 (in short I.P.C.), Police Station Machhrehta, District Sitapur passed by by Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No.8, Sitapur whereby the convict/appellant was held guilty for the offence punishable under Section 376 of I.P.C. and sentenced to life imprisonment. The trial court also directed the convict/appellant to pay Rs.25,000/- as compensation to the victim.

2. The facts necessary for disposal of this appeal, shorn of unnecessary details are as under:-

(i) A First Information Report (in short FIR) was registered at Case Crime No.50 of 2006, under Section 376/452 of I.P.C. at Police Station Machhrehta District Sitapur on the basis of written report presented by the complainant Shyamlal. It was narrated in the written report that on 19.03.2006 at about 12:30 PM his daughter (x) aged about one year was playing on the platform situated infront of his house. Shrawan Kumar Maurya, resident of the village of complainant picked up her on the pretext of giving her toffee. He (convict) took the victim in his thatched house and committed rape on her. Upon hearing the cry of the girl Sharadendu Dixit, resident of the same village, Suman wife of the complainant and Ram Kishore, brother-in-law of the complainant reached on the spot, then the convict/appellant ran away. The condition of his daughter was serious.

(ii) The FIR was registered on 19.03.2006 on the date of incident at about 3:15 PM. Investigation started, the girl was medically examined on the same day at about 6:30 PM at Dufrin Hospital, Sitapur. After investigation a chargesheet under Section 376 of I.P.C. was submitted against the convict/appellant in the Court of Magistrate concerned. The Magistrate concerned took cognizance and committed the case for trial to the Court of sessions. The Court of Sessions framed charge under section 376 of I.P.C. against the convict/appellant. He denied the charge and claimed to be tried.

(iii) The prosecution in order to prove its case examined nine witnesses in toto, which are as under:-

1. P.W.1 Shyamlal, complainant and father of the victim girl.

2. P.W.2 Smt. Suman, an eyewitness and the mother of the victim girl.

3. P.W.3 Sharadendu Dixit an eyewitness.

4. P.W.4 Head Moharrir Dinesh Bahadur Singh, who registered FIR and has proved the chick FIR and concerned G.D.

5. P.W.5 Sub-Inspector, Babau Upadhyaya, who is the 3rd Investigation Officer (in short I.O.) who finally submitted the chargesheet against the convict/ appellant.

6. P.W.6 Dr. Suman Mishra, who medically examined the victim on the date of incident itself.

7. P.W.7 Sub-Inspector Abdul Haleem who initially investigated the case.

8. P.W.8 Inspector Harilal Kardam, who is the second I.O. of the case.

9. P.W.9 Dr. Ashish Wakhlu who performed surgery on the victim girl.

(iv) Apart from oral evidence, the relevant documents have also been proved by the prosecution which are as under:-

a. Exhibit Ka-1 written report.

b. Exhibit Ka-2 Chick FIR.

c. Exhibit Ka-3 Carbon copy of the concerned G.D.

d. Exhibit Ka-4 Chargesheet.

e. Exhibit Ka-5 Medico Legal report of the victim girl.

f. Exhibit Ka-6 Site plan of the place of occurrence.

g. Exhibit Ka-7 Surgical report of the victim girl.

h. Exhibit Ka-8 Letter to Superintendent Gandhi Memorial and Associate Hospital, Lucknow.

(v) After completion of prosecution evidence statement of the convict/appellant was recorded under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (in short Cr.P.C.), wherein he denied the crime and has stated that all the evidence is false. He also stated that the case was registered due to the enmity at the behest of Sharadendu Dixit because Sharadendu Dixit wanted him to work, in his field forcibly, when he denied, some altercations took place then he (Sharadendu Dixit) said that he would implicate him (convict) in a false case. No defence witness was produced by the convict/appellant though opportunity was given by the trial court.

3. Heard Mr. Anurag Shukla, learned Amicus Curiae on behalf of appellant and Mr. Dhananjay Kumar Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State-respondent.

4. Learned counsel for the convict/appellant argued that the trial court has erred in convicting and sentencing the convict/appellant, because the place of occurrence has not been proved. The FIR is ante -time as the alleged time of occurrence is 12:30 PM on 19.03.2006 and the FIR was lodged on the same day at 3:15 PM and victim was medically examined at 6:30 PM.. The conduct of family members of the victim was unnatural because no person shall leave her 10 months old child unattended at the platform. As per prosecution story the child was seriously injured, but she was not taken to the hospital first. She was taken to the hospital for medical aid after six hours. The victim who is so seriously injured would not survive for such a longtime. Injury report shows that there was fresh bleeding at 6:30 PM with clotted blood. In six hours blood would dry after coagulation. There is no whisper, how and when informant did receive information about the incident when he was on his field. He further argued that allegedly the rape was committed on earth, but not a single bruise or redness was found on the back of the child. The offence as has been alleged cannot possibly be committed by a man on such a small child. He further argued that in the FIR there is nothing that anybody saw the convict/appellant committing the crime, but subsequently the witnesses have improved their versions before the trial court. No evidence is there on the record about giving the medical aid to the victim after six hours. The compliance of section 53 and 54 of Cr.P.C. was not made by the Investigating Officer. In fact the girl got injured after falling on a picket of roof of "Arhar Plant" and the convict was falsely implicated at the behest of Sharadendu Dixit. Hence the impugned judgment and order should be set-aside.

5. Learned Amicus Curiae, relied upon the following case laws:-

1. Brathi alias Sukhdev Singh Vs. State of Punjab 1991 (1) SCc 519.

2. Nirmal Singh Kahlon Vs. State of Punjab 2009 (1) SCC 441.

3. Shakila Abdul Gafar Khan Vs. Vasant Raghunath Dhoble and another 2003 (7) SCC 749.

4. Bhikari Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh 1966 AIR SC 1.

5. Rahim Beg and another Vs. State of U.P. (1972) 3 SCC 759.

6. Contrary to it, learned A.G.A. argued that the prosecution has proved its case beyond all reasonable doubts. The incident was witnessed by the mother of the victim girl, an independent eye witness Sharadendu Dixit who reached at the place after hearing the cry of the victim girl. The ocular account given about the incident is consistent with the medical evidence. Medical examination of the victim girl was done on the same day and serious injuries were found on the private parts of the victim girl. The lady doctor who conducted the medical examination of the victim girl has been examined as P.W.6 and she has proved all the injuries found on the private parts of the victim girl and has also said in cross-examination that in her opinion the injuries found on the body of the victim girl would only be possible due to the rape committed on her and such injury cannot occur by fall on any article or sharp-edged object. The girl was so seriously injured due to the alleged criminal act of the convict that she was subjected to surgery and that has been proved by P.W.9 Dr. Ashish Wakhlu . Hence there is no error in the impugned judgment and order and the appeal should be dismissed.

7. Considered the rival submissions, perused the original record of trial court and gone through the case laws cited. The facts as well as the evidence available on record show that this unfortunate incident occurred with a girl aged about 11 months, who is unable to understand and speak anything about the crime. Allegedly the incident occurred on 19.03.2006 at about 12:30 PM. The victim girl was playing at the platform situated in front of her house and she was picked up by the convict from there. The convict took her in his thatched house and committed rape on her. Hearing the cry of the innocent and helpless child the mother of the child P.W.2 and one independent witness Sharadendu Dixit, resident of the same village reached at the spot and witnessed the incident. An FIR of the crime was lodged on the same day at about 03:15 PM and the girl was medically examined on the same day at about 6:30 PM. In the medical report of the victim Exhibit Ka-5, the following observation has been made by the doctor:-

"Physical exam. 77 cm length, wt 9 kg. Teeth 4/4 No marks of injury present anywhere in body.

Local exam- Hymen torn bleeding out. Post vag wall tear present at 8 O'clock position complete P teat at 6 O'clock position.*

Inernal Examination- (1) Complete P tear size 3 cm x 1 cm x communicating with rectum clotted blood present with fresh bleeding at 6 O'clock position.*

(2) Post Vag. wall torn extending up to post. fornix x 4 cm x 1 cm x muscle deep situated at 8 O'clock. Vag smear prepared. sent to pathologist for evidence of spermatozoa. Above examination done in presence of Surgeon Dr. Bhardwaj, a paediatrician, Dr. S.P. Singh and anaesthestist Dr. V.P. Singh.

Adv. She is referred to KGMC for further manggement adv X-ray elbow wrist with both hands for age determination.*

Supplementary report is awaited."

8. P.W.1 father of the victim girl and the complainant has proved his written report as Exhibit Ka-1. He stated before the trial court that incident occurred about ten and half months ahead at about 12:30 PM during day. His daughter was about one year old at the time and she was playing outside the house on the platform. His wife and brother-in-law Ram Kishore were present in the house. The convict took her daughter and committed rape on her. Upon hearing the cry of the girl, his wife Suman, brother-in-law Ram Kishore and independent witness Sharadendu Dixit reached at the spot, then Shrawan Kumar Maurya, convict ran away leaving his daughter in injured condition. His wife, bother-in-law and independent witness Sharadendu Dixit had told him the whole incident. Thereafter he got written the report Exhibit Ka-1 by Sharadendu Dixit, who wrote the report on his (complainant's) dictation and read-over the same to the complainant, then he affixed his thumb impression on that and lodged the FIR in the police station.

9. He has further stated that after registering the FIR his injured daughter was sent to hospital alongwith police personnel, whereupon medical examination of the girl was conducted in the presence of his wife at female Hospital Sitapur. He has further stated that at the time of incident he was working in the field alongwith other family members and neighbours. He and other persons also reached at the spot and saw that his wife was weeping keeping the victim girl in her lap. When he asked, she told him about the incident and he saw that the blood was oozing out from the private parts of the girl. This witness is not the eye witness of the incident, he lodged the FIR of the crime upon the narrations made by the eye witnesses i.e. his wife, Sharadendu Dixit and his brother-in-law who reached at the spot after hearing the cry of the girl. Smt. Suman is the mother of the victim. She has stated in the Court as P.W.2 that at the time of incident her daughter was 11 months old, she could not speak. The incident occurred about 11 months ahead at about 12:00 O'clock in the day, her daughter was playing at the platform in front of the house and she (witness) was brooming in the courtyard of her house. The accused Shrawan Kumar Maurya, present in the Court took her daughter on the pretext of giving toffee and committed rape on her. The girl cried and when she heard the cry of the girl she came out of the house, at the same time Sharadendu Dixit and her brother-in-law was also reached at the spot after hearing the cry of the girl. All the three persons reached the spot and saw that accused Shrawan Kumar Maurya was committing rape on her daughter. They all saw the accused committing the rape on her daughter and recognized him very well. When they reached at the spot, accused Shrawan Kumar Maurya ran away towards south, leaving the girl there. The condition of the girl was serious and she was unconscious. Thereafter she went to Police Station about after one to two hours alongwith her husband. Her husband presented an application at the police station and lodged the FIR. Her daughter was medically examined at female hospital Sitapur. Thereafter her daughter was referred to Medical College as her condition was serious. She remained admitted for eight days there. Thereafter her treatment continued for about 7 months. Her (witness') statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer. In the cross-examination of this witness no major contradiction has occurred. Witness has proved the incident and denied the suggestion that accused was implicated falsely at the behest of Sharadendu Dixit.

10. Sharadendu Dixit has been examined as P.W.3, who is an independent eye witness and resident of the same village. He has stated before the Court that on 19.03.2006 at about 12:30 PM during the day he heard a cry of the victim-girl. At that time he was coming back from his grove to his house. The cry was coming from the house of Shrawan Kumar Maurya, the accused. After hearing the cry, he reached at the spot and saw that accused Shrawan Kumar Maurya was committing rape on the victim girl under the thatch of his house. At the same time, Suman mother of the girl and Ram Kishore the brother of Suman also reached there and they all witnessed Shrawan Kumar Maurya committing rape on the victim girl. When accused Shrawan Kumar Maurya saw them, he left the girl and ran away. The blood was oozing out from the private parts of the girl and she was in unconscious state. He has further stated that he scribed the report of the incident at the dictation of wife of Shyamlal. He wrote whatever was dictated to him by the wife of Shyamlal. Thereafter he read over the same to Shyamlal, thereafter Shyamlal affixed his thumb impression on that. Thereafter Shyamlal and his wife alongwith their girl went to police station. This witness has proved the written report Exhibit Ka-1 as written in his own handwriting. This witness has further stated that the I.O. recorded his statement about the incident. This witness has also been cross-examined at length by the learned counsel for the convict / appellant, but nothing adverse has come out in his cross-examination. This witness has also denied the suggestion put by defence counsel that he has deposed in the case due to enmity with the accused. He has also denied the suggestion that the girl was injured by falling on a picket of root 'Arhar plant'.

11. Both these two witnesses of facts have proved the incident committed by the convict/appellant. In the lengthy cross-examinations made by the defence counsel nothing adverse can be brought in their evidence. The medical evidence is in corroboration of and consistent with the ocular evidence.

12. P.W.6, the lady doctor who medically examined the victim girl has proved its medical report as Exhibit Ka-5. In the cross-examination she has denied the suggestion that girl got injured by falling on some hard and sharp edged object. This witness has clearly stated that such type of injury could occur due to rape.

13. P.W.4 Head Moharir Dinesh Bahadur Singh has proved the chick FIR and concerned GD and stated before the Court that the case was registered by him on the basis of the written report presented by the complainant who came there to lodge the FIR. This witness has proved chick FIR as Exhibit Ka-2 and concerned GD as Exhibit Ka-3 written in his own hand writing. This witness has further stated that after lodging the FIR he gave the copy of the same to the complainant and sent the victim girl alongwith Constable 453 Shiv Sharma to Sitapur Hospital for medical examination and thereafter handed over the 'Nakal Chick' and carbon copy of 'Nakal Rapat' to Sub Inspector Abdul Haleem for investigation who recorded his statement.

14. Sub Inspector Abdul Haleem who initially investigated the case has been examined as P.W.7. He has proved the part of the investigation conducted by him. He has stated in examination-in-chief that on 19.03.2006 he was posted at Police Station Machhrehta as Sub Inspector. On that day the Case Crime No.50 of 2006 under Section 376 and 452 of I.P.C. was entrusted to him for investigation. 'Nakal Chick' and carbon copy of 'Nakal Rapat' was given to him. The case was registered in his presence. The girl was sent for medical examination and treatment. He recorded the statement of Head Moharir Dinesh Bahadur Singh on the same day at the Police Station, thereafter he reached at the spot where the incident occurred.

15. Thereafter S.O. Harilal Kardam reached the spot alongwith force and he took over the investigation. Inspector Harilal Kardam has been examined as P.W.8. He has stated before the trial court that the case was registered in his absence for that reason Sub Inspector Abdul Haleem was entrusted with the investigation. When he came back at Police Station and took over the investigation. He got the medical report of the victim girl on 20.03.2006. He made an entry of the same in the case diary. Inspected the place of occurrence and prepared the site plan in his own hand writing and signature, which is correct. This witness has proved the site plan as Exhibit Ka-6. He has further stated that he arrested accused Shrawan Kumar Maurya on 21.03.2006 and recorded his statement and he confessed the crime. After this stage of investigation he was transferred from the police station.

16. Thereafter the investigation was taken over by Sub-Inspector Babau Upadhyay who completed the investigation and submitted the chargesheet against the accused under Section 376 of I.P.C. and has proved the same as Exhibit Ka-4. Sub-Inspector Babau Upadhyay has been examined as P.W.5.

17. By the evidence of P.W.2 and 3 who are the eye witnesses of the incident and evidence of formal witnesses, the charge framed against the accused has been proved beyond reasonable doubt. The medical evidence is in corroboration of the ocular account given by the eye witnesses.

18. The argument raised by learned Amicus Curiae on behalf of the convict/appellant that the place of occurrence has not been proved is not tenable at all. The place of occurrence has very well been proved by the eye witnesses P.W.1 & 2 as well as by Investigating Officer who prepared the site plan of the spot. The site plan as Exhibit Ka-5 is on the record, wherein the place of committing the crime has been shown and proved by the Investigating Officer who has prepared the site plan of the place of occurrence.

19. Learned counsel for the defence submitted that not a single drop of blood was found at the spot where the rape was allegedly committed. Mere absence of blood on the place of incident where the alleged incident took place will not make the whole incident untruthful when the trust-worthy ocular evidence as well as medical evidence is there, about the incident.

20. In the case State of Rajasthan Vs. Satya Narain (1998) 8 SCC 404 the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that merely because of absence of blood at the place of occurrence, the occurrence of the incident itself cannot be doubted.

21. The contention of the learned Amicus Curiae that FIR is ante -time is also not tenable because as per the evidence available on record the incident occurred on 19.03.2006 at about 12:30 PM and the FIR was lodged on the same day at about 3:15 PM. The FIR was well within a reasonable time and cannot be termed as ante- timed.

22. Learned counsel for the Amicus Curiae submitted that conduct of the family members of the child was unnatural and un-believable because they did not take the injured girl to the hospital whose condition was serious instead they first went to the police station, this creates a serious doubt. This contention of the learned Amicus Curiae have no force, because generally in the cases where the injury has been received as a result of crime the person goes first to inform the police or lodge the FIR. So the conduct of the family members of the victim cannot be termed as unnatural, specially when they are of village and illiterate persons.

23. The argument of the learned Amicus Curiae that convict was not medically examined as is mandatory under Section 53 and 54 of Cr.P.C. and this goes against the prosecution. The mere non-examination of the accused medically after the incident cannot create the clouds of doubts on the evidence of eye-witnesses well supported with medical evidence specially when the accused was arrested after two days of the incident. Further more in Section 53, 53A and Section 54 of Cr.P.C. related provisions were amended and made effective on 23.03.2006, while this incident occurred on 19.03.2006.

24. The case law cited by the learned Amicus Curiae in Nirmal Singh Kahlon Vs. State of Punjab (supra), wherein in paragraph 28 on which the amicus relied upon the following law has been laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, which reads as under:-

"28. An accused is entitled to a fair investigation. Fair investigation and fair trial are concomitant to preservation of fundamental right of an accused under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. But the State has a larger obligation i.e. to maintain law and order, public order and preservation of peace and harmony in the society. A victim of a crime, thus, is equally entitled to a fair investigation. When serious allegations were made against a former Minister of the State, save and except the cases of political revenge amounting to malice, it is for the State to entrust one or the other agency for the purpose of investigating into the matter. The State for achieving the said object at any point of time may consider handing over of investigation to any other agency including a central agency which has acquired specialization in such cases."

This case law is of no help to the convict/appellant as there is nothing on record to show that fair investigation was not made or the accused was not afforded fair opportunity to defend himself or fair trial was not made. Rest of the case law cited by learned Amicus Curiae is not applicable in the matter due to the difference of facts and circumstances of the case.

25. To sum up, in the present matter the incident has been proved by the eye-witnesses P.W.1 and P.W.-2 supported with medical evidence beyond all reasonable doubt against the convict/appellant. The trial court has committed no error in holding the accused guilty and sentencing him to imprisonment for life, coupled with a direction to give Rs.25,000/- to the victim girl as compensation. There appears no reason to interfere with the judgment and order passed by the learned trial court.

26. The appellant Shrawan Kumar Maurya is stated to be in jail, accordingly he shall serve out the sentence awarded by the trial Court.

27. The appeal is dismissed, accordingly.

28. Mr. Anurag Shukla, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant shall be paid his remuneration from Legal Services Sub-Committee of this Court as permissible under the Rules.

29. Office is directed to send a copy of this order along with the lower Court record to the trial Court concerned for necessary information and compliance forthwith.

Counsel for the Respondent:
Govt. Advocate

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Sections 231 & 311 - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 114- Section 131-The victim, Udit alias Vasu was not examined by the prosecution- The prosecution need not examine all its witnesses and that discretion lies with the prosecution whether to tender or not any particular witness to prove its case- Adverse inference against prosecution can be drawn only if withholding of witness was with oblique motive- No oblique motive found for which the victim was not produced by the prosecution as a witness before the trial Court. There is nothing in law which compels the prosecution to examine all such witnesses whose names find mention in the charge sheet to produce them before the trial Court and on this ground, nothing adverse against prosecution can be inferred.

It is not mandatory for the prosecution to examine all its witnesses but adverse inference can be drawn where the prosecution withholds a witness out of oblique motives.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 364-A - There is nothing on record to show and establish that any demand of ransom was made or communicated to the first informant- The victim as discussed above, was not examined before the trial court. Therefore, the fact that any such demand of ransom was made to the victim, has also not been established. Cumulative reading of the testimonies of prosecution witnesses of fact leads only to one irresistible inference that the case against the appellants falls within the ambit of section 364 I.P.C. only rather than one under sections 363, 364A and 368 I.P.C.- The appellants are, thus, liable to be convicted under section 364 I.P.C., for which, they are liable to be sentenced to undergo ten years' rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 10,000/- each.

Where the prosecution fails to establish the demand for ransom and the victim has been withheld from testifying, then instead of the offence u/s 363,364A and 368 of the IPC the offence would be of Section 364 IPC. (Para 28, 33, 35, 36, 37)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Kumar Srivastava-I, J.)

1. By means of the instant appeals, the appellants have assailed the judgment and order dated 27.09.2007 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge (Fast Track Court), Court No.4, Lucknow in Sessions Trial No.319 of 1999 arising out of Case Crime No.205 of 1997, under Sections 363, 368 and 364A of the Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as "I.P.C."), Police Station Aminabad, District Lucknow whereby the appellants, namely, Pankaj Mohan Srivastava and Neeraj Mohan Srivastava (in Criminal Appeal No.2585 of 2007) have been convicted and sentenced for five years' rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs.4,000/- each for the offene under Section 363 I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine, they have further been directed to undergo for a period of six months' additional rigorous imprisonment. They have also been convicted and sentenced for life imprisonment with a fine of Rs.10,000/- each for the offence under Sections 364A & 368 I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine, a separate recovery proceeding has been directed to be initiated against them. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently except the recovery of fine.

The appellant- Rajit Ram Verma (in Criminal Appeal No.2809 of 2007) has been convicted and sentenced for five years' rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs.4,000/- for the offene under Section 363 I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine, he has further been directed to undergo for a period of six months' additional rigorous imprisonment. He has also been convicted and sentenced for life imprisonment with a fine of Rs.10,000/- for the offence under Sections 364A and 368 I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine, a separate recovery proceeding has been directed to be initiated against him. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently except the recovery of fine.

The appellant, namely, Rajesh (in Criminal Appeal No.2366 of 2007) has been convicted and sentenced for five years' rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs.4,000/- each for the offence under Section 363 I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine, he has further been directed to undergo for a period of six months' additional rigorous imprisonment. He has also been convicted and sentenced for life imprisonment with a fine of Rs.10,000/- for the offence under Sections 364A and 368 I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine, a separate recovery proceeding has been directed to be initiated against them. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently except the recovery of fine.

2. Since the aforesaid criminal appeals have been preferred against the impugned judgment and order dated 27.09.2007 passed in Sessions Trial No.319 of 1999 arising out of Case Crime No.205 of 1997, under Sections 363, 368 and 364A I.P.C., Police Station Aminabad, District Lucknow, therefore, they have been heard together and are being decided by a common judgment.

3. The prosecution case, in brief, is that a written report, Ext.-Ka-1 came to be lodged at Police Station Kotwali Qaiserbagh by the first informant, Rajendra Kumar Gupta stating therein that his son, Udit alias Vasu, aged about 4 years, a student of Class-Nursery, had gone to his school, Saint Teressa Day School, Naya Gaon, Lucknow. When the first informant went to bring his son back to home, he came to know that someone else had taken his child away from the school.

4. On the basis of aforesaid written report, Ex. Ka-1, Case Crime No.NIL/1997 came to be registered under Section 363 I.P.C. at Police Station Qaiserbagh against unknown persons. However, since the matter pertained to territorial jurisdiction of Police Station Aminabad, therefore, original written report and F.I.R. which were initially registered at Police Station Qaiserbagh were sent to Police Station Aminabad where it came to be registered as Case Crime No.205 of 1997 under Section 363 I.P.C.

5. According to the recovery/arrest memo, Ex. Ka-2, the victim, Udit alias Vasu was recovered on 26.12.1997 from the house of co-accused, Daya Ram Verma situated at Village Changupur, Police Station Jaisinghpur, District Sultanpur where the appellants, Pankaj Mohan Srivastava, Rajit Ram Verma and Neeraj Mohan Srivastava were arrested and recovery/arrest memo, Ex. Ka-2 was also prepared on the spot.

6. Upon conclusion of investigation, charge sheet, Ex. Ka-7 came to be submitted against the appellants. The appellants, Pankaj Mohan Srivastava, Neeraj Mohan Srivastava, Rajit Ram Verma and Rajesh were charged under Sections 363, 368 and 364 I.P.C. vide order dated 03.05.1999 whereas the co-accused, Daya Ram Verma was charged under Section 368 I.P.C. only vide order dated 17.04.2003. However, co-accused, Daya Ram verma has been acquitted by the learned trial court.

7. In order to bring home guilt of appellants, the prosecution has examined following witnesses :-

(i) P.W.-1, Rajendra Kumar Gupta, the first informant, who is the father of victim, Udit alias Vasu.

(ii) P.W.-2, Asad Raja, who had accompanied the first informant, P.W.-1, Rajendra Kumar Gupta on 26.12.1997 when the victim was recovered. He is also a witness to the recovery/arrest memo, Ex. Ka-2.

(iii) P.W.-3, Paridin Rawat, who was posted as Head Moharrir at Police Station Kotwali Kaiserbagh on 18.11.1997 who registered Crime No.NIL/1997, under Section 363 I.P.C. against unknown persons and also entered the same in G. D. No.30 at 13: 20 hrs. He has also proved Chik F.I.R. as Ex. Ka-3 and G.D. as Ex. Ka-4.

(iv) P.W.-4 S. I., Rama Kant Tiwari, who headed the Special Task Force constituted by the then S.S.P., Lucknow for effecting the recovery of victim, Udit alias Vasu has proved the recovery/arrest memo, Ex. Ka-2.

(v) P.W.-5 Ram Dev Diwedi, Investigating Officer had prepared site plan of place of occurrence as Ex. Ka-5 and also prepared site plan of place of recovery of victim, Ex. Ka-6. Upon conclusion of investigation, he has submitted the charge sheet, Ex. Ka-7.

8. The statements of appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. In their detailed statements, the appellants have denied the allegations levelled against them. They have stated to have been falsely implicated.

9. The appellant, Rajesh has stated that on 26.12.1997 at about 8:30 P.M. he was distributing "Prasad' after conclusion of evening prayer. The appellant, Pankaj Mohan Srivastava and his father were also present in the temple. Meanwhile, many persons appeared on the spot who wanted to know about appellant, Pankaj Mohan Srivastava. They hurled abuses. When objected, Constable R. P. Kanaujia kicked the father of appellant, Pankaj Mohan Srivastava and asked him to accompany them for being a witness.

10. The appellant, Rajit Ram Verma has, in his statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C., stated that the victim, Udit alias Vasu was shown to him at S.S.P. Office.

11. Triveni Prasad Verma was examined from the side of defence as D.W.-1, who has stated that the appellants-Rajesh and Pankaj Mohan Srivastava were present in the temple, who were taken away by the police personnel from the temple.

12. Upon conclusion of trial, learned trial Court convicted and sentenced the appellants as above by the impugned judgment and order dated 27.09.2007.

13. Aggrieved by the aforesaid impugned judgment and order dated 27.09.2007, the appellants have preferred these appeals.

14. We have heard Sri Ram Kushal Tiwari and Sri Ankit Kumar, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Dhananjay Kumar Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing for the State-respondents and have perused the entire record available before us.

15. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the appellants are innocent and have been falsely implicated in this case. The finding of guilt of appellants recorded by the learned trial Court is against the weight of evidence which is illegal and, therefore, the same deserves to be set aside.

16. Learned counsel for the appellants has also argued that the prosecution has miserably failed to establish that there was any demand of ransom and any threat to the life of victim was extended by the appellants. Therefore, the conviction of appellants dehors the necessary ingredients which constitute offence under Section 364A I.P.C. is not sustainable. They have also submitted that the victim, who was an important witness, was not examined by the prosecution, therefore, the entire prosecution story becomes doubtful and the appellants deserve to be given benefit of doubt.

17. To buttress their aforesaid arguments, reliance has been placed on the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in Criminal Appeal No.533 of 2021 @ Special Leave Petition (Crl.) No.308 of 2021, Shaik Ahmed vs. State of Telangana.

18. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has opposed the submissions made by learned counsel for the appellants. He submits that the child of first informant, Udit alias Vasu was kidnapped in a planned manner by the appellants, some of whom were employees of the first informant, to procure ransom. The victim was recovered from the Village Changupur on 26.12.1997 from where the appellants, namely, Pankaj Mohan Srivastava, Neeraj Mohan Srivastava and Rajit Ram Verma were arrested on the spot.

He further submits that a letter demanding ransom was recovered from the possession of the appellant-Rajit Ram Verma, which was sent to Forensic Science Laboratory (hereinafter referred to as FSL) for comparison of hand writing. According to FSL report, the same was found to be in the handwriting of the appellant, Rajit Ram Verma, vide FSL Report, paper No.A17/2 and A17/1.

19. It is also contended by the learned A.G.A. that the prosecution, in exercise of its right under Section 231 Cr.P.C., has examined four witnesses of facts and has thus, successfully proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. The prosecution cannot be compelled to produce all or any particular witness mentioned in the charge sheet in order to bring home guilt of appellants. Learned A.G.A. has concluded his arguments by submitting that the impugned judgment and order is well discussed and reasoned wherein no interference in exercise of power under Section 386 Cr.P.C. by this Court is required and the appeals deserve to be dismissed.

20. Upon a close scrutiny of testimony of first informant, P.W.-1, Rajendra Kumar Gupta, we find that he is father of victim, Udit alias Vasu, aged about 4 years, a student of Class Nursery of Saint Teressa Day School situated at Naya Gaon, Lucknow. On 18.11.1997 when this witness went to receive his child back from Saint Teressa Day School, he did not find his child in the school and he came to know that his child has been taken away by some unknown persons from the school. A prompt written report in respect of aforesaid incident came to be lodged on the date of incident itself i.e. on 18.11.1997 as Ex. Ka-3. He has also stated on oath that on 26.12.1997 at about 9:30 A.M., he received a telephonic call in Hotel Vaishali, Aminabad whereby he was directed to bring Rs.5,00,000/-, failing which, he was threatened that his child, victim will be done to death.

21. P.W.-2, Asad Raja happens to be manager of the first informant. This witness, in his testimony, has stated that he accompanied the first informant, P.W.-1, Rajendra Kumar Gupta and police personnels to the place from where the victim, Udit alias Vasu was recovered.

22. P.W.-3, Paridin Rawat, Head Constable, in his testimony, has stated that the then S.S.P., Lucknow had constituted a Special Task Force for effecting recovery of victim. This Special Task Force was headed by P.W.-3. He has stated on oath that on 26.12.1997, the first informant informed him about receiving a telephonic call demanding ransom. This witness has proved recovery/arrest memo, Ex. Ka-2 which, according to this witness, was prepared at the place of recovery by him in his own handwriting.

23. S.I., Rama Kant Tiwari has been examined as P.W.-4, who, in his testimony, has stated that on 26.12.1997, he was informed by the first informant that someone has telephonicaly demanded from him Rs.5,00,000/- as ransom for releasing his child. He has been asked to reach at platform no.1, Sultanpur Railway Station. Thereafter, this witness accompanied by the first informant, Ajay Bhatnagar, P.W.2-Asad Raja and other police personnels reached Sultanpur Railway Station where the appellant-Rajesh was arrested by the police personnels, who told that the victim, Udit alias Vasu is kept in the Village-Changupur by the appellants-Pankaj

Mohan Srivastava, Neeraj Mohan Srivastava and Rajit Ram Verma. Thereafter, the police party and the appellant-Rajesh went to Village Changupur where the victim was recovered and the appellants- Pankaj Mohan Srivastava, Neeraj Mohan Srivastava and Rajit Ram Verma were arrested. This witness has proved the recovery/arrest memo, Ex. Ka-2.

24. Investigating Officer, Ram Dev Diwedi has been examined as PW-5, who, in his testimony, has stated that he prepared site plan of place of occurrence, Ex. Ka-5 and after recovery of victim from Village Changupur, he also visited and prepared the site plan of place of recovery of victim as Ex. Ka-6. Upon conclusion of investigation, he submitted charge sheet against the appellants, Ex. Ka-7.

25. We have undertaken a survey of prosecution evidence in the light of rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and we find that the appellants, namely, Pankaj Mohan Srivastava and Neeraj Mohan Srivastava were employees of the first informant. In spite of this fact, the first informant had given an innocent written report without naming them in the written report, Ex. Ka-1 when his son, victim, Udit alias Vasu had gone missing on 18.11.1997. We also find that the victim was recovered on 26.12.1997 after about 38 days from the date of incident from Village Changupur.

26. Had there been any intention of the first informant to falsely rope in appellants, namely, Pankaj Mohan Srivastava and Neeraj Mohan Srivastava, who were employees of the first informant, he would have very easily named these appellants in the first information report itself. However, he did not do so. As mentioned above, the victim was recovered on 26.12.1997 after about 38 days from the date of incident. Thus, we do not see any reason as to why the first informant would risk his son's life for false implication of the appellants, namely, Pankaj Mohan Srivastava and Neeraj Mohan Srivastava or other appellants for getting rid of appellants, namely, Pankaj Mohan Srivastava and Neeraj Mohan Srivastava from his private employment. We, thus, do not find any substance in the contention of learned counsel for the appellants that the appellants, namely, Pankaj Mohan Srivastava and Neeraj Mohan Srivastava were falsely implicated by the first informant because they were his employees.

27. For considering the submission made on behalf of the appellants that the victim, Udit alias Vasu was not examined by the prosecution, we may refer to the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bhagwan Jagannath Markad and others vs. State of Maharashtra reported in (2016) 10 SCC 537 and in Nand Kumar vs. State of Chhattisgarh reported in (2015) 1 SCC 776 wherein their Lordships of Hon'ble Supreme Court while explaining the provisions of Sections 231 and 311 Cr.P.C. and Sections 114 and 131 of Indian Evidence Act, have held that the prosecution need not examine all its witnesses and that discretion lies with the prosecution whether to tender or not any particular witness to prove its case.

28. Adverse inference against prosecution can be drawn only if withholding of witness was with oblique motive. In the present case, we do not find, as discussed above, any oblique motive for which the victim was not produced by the prosecution as a witness before the trial Court. There is nothing in law which compels the prosecution to examine all such witnesses whose names find mention in the charge sheet to produce them before the trial Court and on this ground, nothing adverse against prosecution can be inferred. The argument of learned counsel for the appellants to the contrary is, thus, not tenable.

29. Learned counsel for the appellants have submitted that the prosecution has failed to establish ingredients of the offence under Section 364A I.P.C. under which they have been convicted. In order to appreciate the aforesaid contention of learned counsel for the appellants, it is necessary to refer to Section 364A I.P.C. which is extracted herein below:-

"364A.- Whoever kidnaps or abducts any person or keeps a person in detention after such kidnapping or abduction, and threatens to cause death or hurt to such person, or by his conduct gives rise to a reasonable apprehension that such person may be put to death or hurt, or causes hurt or death to such person in order to compel the Government or [any foreign State or international inter-governmental organisation or any other person] to do or abstain from doing any act or to pay a ransom, shall be punishable with death, or imprisonment for life, and shall also be liable to fine."

30. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Vishwanath Gupta vs. State of Uttaranchal reported in (2007) 11 SCC 633 in paragraph 9 has held as under :-

"9. The important ingredient of Section 364-A is the abduction or kidnapping, as the case may be. Thereafter, a threat to the kidnapped/abducted that if the demand for ransom is not met then the victim is likely to be put to death and in the event death is caused, the offence of Section 364-A is complete. There are three stages in this section, one is the kidnapping or abduction, second is threat of death coupled with the demand of money and lastly when the demand is not met, then causing death. If the three ingredients are available, that will constitute the offence under Section 364-A of the Penal Code....."

31. Insofar as the demand of ransom is concerned, the same has to be communicated as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Malleshi vs. State of Karnataka reported in (2004) 8 SCC 95 in paragraph 13, which is quoted herein below :-

*"13. To pay a ransom as per Black's Law Dictionary means "to pay price or demand for ransom". The word "demand" means "to claim as one's due"; "to require"; "to ask relief"; "to summon"; "to call in court"; "an imperative request preferred by one person to another, under a claim of right, requiring the latter to do or yield something or to abstain from some act"; "an asking with authority, claiming or challenging as due". The definition as pointed out above would show that the demand has to be communicated. It is an imperative request or a claim made."

32. Adverting to the facts of the case at hand, we are able to notice a significant fact that there is nothing on record to show and establish that any demand of ransom was made or communicated to the first informant. Though, the first informant, in his testimony, has stated that he had received a telephonic call in this regard, however, who made such call has neither been alleged nor proved by the prosecution. P.W.-5, Ram Dev Diwedi, Investigating Officer, in his testimony, has stated that he was informed by P.W.-4, S.I., Rama Kant Tiwari that a letter demanding ransom was recovered from the possession of appellant, Rajit Ram Verma at the time of his arrest, which was sent to FSL for comparison of handwriting. A photocopy of which is available on record as Paper No.A10/1 and its FSL report is also available on record as Paper No.A17/2 and A17/11.

33. The appellant, Rajit Ram Verma has denied the fact that any such letter was recovered from his possession. However, if we, for the sake of argument, assume that any such letter was recovered from the possession of the appellant, Rajit Ram Verma at the time of his arrest and the same was in his own hand writing, the prosecution has failed to prove that such letter demanding or requiring any ransom to be paid was ever communicated to the first informant or his family members or any other person. The victim as discussed above, was not examined before the trial court. Therefore, the fact that any such demand of ransom was made to the victim, has also not been established.

34. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Criminal Appeal No.533 of 2021@ Special Leave Petition (Crl.) No.308 of 2021, Shaik Ahmed vs. State of Telangana in paras 12 to 16 has held as under :-

"12. We may now look into section 364A to find out as to what ingredients the Section itself contemplate for the offence. When we paraphrase Section 364A following is deciphered:-

(i) "Whoever kidnaps or abducts any person or keeps a person in detention after such kidnapping or abduction"

(ii) "and threatens to cause death or hurt to such person, or by his conduct gives rise to a reasonable apprehension that such person may be put to death or hurt,

(iii) or causes hurt or death to such person in order to compel the Government or any foreign State or international intergovernmental organisation or any other person to do or abstain from doing any act or to pay a ransom"

(iv) "shall be punishable with death, or imprisonment for life, and shall also beliable to fine."

13. The first essential condition as incorporated in Section 364A is "whoever kidnaps or abducts any person or keeps a person in detention after such kidnapping or abduction". The second condition begins with conjunction "and". The second condition has also two parts, i.e., (a) threatens to cause death or hurt to such person or (b) by his conduct gives rise to a reasonable apprehension that such person may be put to death or hurt. Either part of above condition, if fulfilled, shall fulfill the second condition for offence. The third condition begins with the word "or", i.e., or causes hurt or death to such person in order to compel the Government or any foreign State or international inter-governmental organisation or any other person to do or abstain from doing any act or to pay a ransom. Third condition begins with the word "or causes hurt or death to such person in order to compel the Government or any foreign state to do or abstain from doing any act or to pay a ransom". Section 364A contains a heading "kidnapping for ransom, etc." The kidnapping by a person to demand ransom is fully covered by Section 364A.

14. We have noticed that after the first conditionthe second condition is joined by conjunction "and", thus, whoever kidnaps or abducts any person or keeps a person in detention after such kidnapping or abduction and threatens to cause death or hurt to such person.

15. The use of conjunction "and" has its purpose and object. Section 364A uses the word "or" nine times and the whole section contains only one conjunction "and", which joins the first and second condition. Thus, for covering an offence under Section 364A, apart from fulfillment of first condition, the second condition, i.e., "and threatens to cause death or hurt to such person" also needs to be proved in case the case is not covered by subsequent clauses joined by "or".

16. The word "and" is used as conjunction. The use of word "or" is clearly distinctive. Both the words have been used for different purpose and object. Crawford on Interpretation of Law while dealing with the subject "disjunctive" and "conjunctive" words with regard to criminal statute made following statement:-

".....The Court should be extremely reluctant in a criminal statute to substitute disjunctive words for cojunctive words, and vice versa, if such action adversely affects the accused."

35. After scrutinizing the evidence adduced by the prosecution to prove the charges under Section 364A I.P.C. against the appellants, we find that though the first informant, P.W.-1, Rajendra Kumar Gupta, in his testimony, has stated that he had received a telephonic call demanding Rs.5,00,000/- as ransom and had also received a letter demanding such ransom which he handed over to the Investigating Officer and that photocopy of such letter is available on record as Paper No.A-10/1, but we also notice the fact that P.W.-5, Ram Dev Diwedi, Investigating Officer, in his testimony, has very clearly stated that he was informed by P.W.-4, S.I., Rama Kant Tiwari that the alleged letter, demanding ransom was recovered from the possession of the appellant-Rajit Ram Verma, which was sent to FSL for comparison of handwriting. However, this witness, in his cross-examination, has himself admitted that the alleged letter demanding ransom which was sent to FSL for comparison of handwriting, was recovered from the possession of appellant-Rajit Ram Verma at the time of his arrest and that the first informant, P.W.-1, Rajendra Kumar Gupta had not handed over any letter demanding ransom to him. Therefore, the prosecution story regarding the letter demanding ransom having been written and sent by the appellant-Rajit Ram Verma does not inspire confidence. We are, therefore, of the considered view that the prosecution has been unable to prove that ransom was ever demanded or required to be paid. There is not even an iota of evidence against the appellants, even faintly, showing that they had either demanded or were involved in demanding any ransom. Therefore, necessary ingredients to prove the charge under Section 364A I.P.C. were not proved against the appellants.

36. Cumulative reading of the testimonies of prosecution witnesses of fact leads only to one irresistible inference that the case against the appellants falls within the ambit of section 364 I.P.C. only rather than one under sections 363, 364A and 368 I.P.C. It will be useful to extract section 364 I.P.C. herein below:

"364. Kidnapping or abducting in order to murder - Whoever kidnaps or abducts any person in order that such person may be murdered or may be so disposed of as to be put in danger of being murdered, shall be punished with 1[imprisonment for life] or rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine."

37. Thus, upon a thorough marshaling of the facts of this case and thread bare scrutiny of the evidence on record, we have no hesitation in holding that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove by any cogent evidence that the appellants after kidnapping the victim had made any demand of ransom for releasing him or any ransom was paid to them. Thus, the prosecution has been unable to establish the necessary ingredients for convicting appellants under section 364A I.P.C.. Therefore, the recorded conviction of the appellants and the sentence awarded to them under sections 363, 364A & 368 I.P.C. by the Trial Court vide impugned judgement and order cannot be sustained which are accordingly liable to be set aside. The appellants are, thus, liable to be convicted under section 364 I.P.C., for which, they are liable to be sentenced to undergo ten years' rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 10,000/- each and in default of payment of fine, they would further undergo six months' additional rigorous imprisonment.

38. The instant appeals are, thus, partly allowed. The conviction of appellants- Pankaj Mohan Srivastava, Neeraj Mohan Srivastava, Rajit Ram Verma and Rajesh under Sections 363, 364A and 368 I.P.C. and sentences awarded therefor are hereby set aside and accordingly they are acquitted of these charges. The appellants are convicted under Section 364 I.P.C. and are hereby awarded sentence of rigorous imprisonment for ten years with a fine of Rs.10,000/- each and in default of payment of fine, they would undergo further six months' additional rigorous imprisonment.

39. In case, the appellants have already undergone sentences awarded to them for the offence under Section 364 I.P.C., they shall be released forthwith, unless required in any other case.

40. The appellants, after their release, shall file a personal bond of Rs.50,000/- and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the learned trial Court in compliance of Section 437A Cr.P.C within a period of two months from the date of their release.

41. Let a copy of this judgment be placed on records of Criminal Appeal Nos.2809 of 2007 and 2366 of 2007.

42. Let the lower court record along with a copy of this judgment be transmitted forthwith to the concerned trial Court for information and necessary compliance.

Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 -Section 321 - Withdrawal from prosecution - Court is required to consider whether withdrawal from prosecution would further cause of justice or not and whether it would be in public interest to allow the withdrawal from prosecution.

Public Prosecutor filed application u/s 321 Cr.P.C. stating that there is no sufficient evidence available on record to support the charge & that prosecution case is weak - FIR got registered because of political rivalry - complainant himself submitted an application that he would have no objection, if the application is allowed - Held - When the complainant himself is not supporting the prosecution case, there was no chance of conviction of the accused - case has been remained pending since 2007 and continuance of trial would be nothing but a futile exercise and Court's precious time would get wasted for futile exercise, if the application for withdrawal from prosecution is not allowed (Para 24)

Allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Present revision has been filed by the State under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C. against the order dated 14.10.2020 passed by learned Special Judge/M.P./M.L.A./ VI-Additional Sessions Judge, Raebareli on an application filed by the Public Prosecutor for withdrawal from prosecution in Criminal Case No.573 of 2012: State vs Mayankeswar Saran Singh and others arising out of Crime No.158 of 2007 under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 436, 397, 395, 323, 504, 506, 427 IPC and 2/3 U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, (for short 'Gangsters Act') Police Station Mohanganj, District Raebareli.

2. Learned trial Court has rejected the said application on the ground that charge has not yet been framed inasmuch as the accused has not remained present before the Court. The case has remained pending since 2007. Application for withdrawal from prosecution under Section 321 Cr.P.C. was moved in the year 2012/2019. However, Public Prosecutor in application had not stated any fact on the basis of which it would be evident that withdrawal from prosecution would be in larger public interest. Public Prosecutor has only mentioned in the application that there is no sufficient evidence available on record to support the charge. Prosecution case is weak and, therefore, in public interest, permission be granted for withdrawal from prosecution. It has been observed that on the basis of present case, provisions of Section 2/3 of the Gangsters Act were invoked against the accused Mayankeswar Saran Singh. District Magistrate gives permission for invoking the provisions under Section 2/3 of the Gangsters Act only where there is sufficient evidence against the accused for his prosecution. Learned Magistrate therefore, held that stand of the prosecution itself is contradictory.

3. It has been further observed that Public Prosecutor has not applied his judicial mind properly at the time of filing of the application. Accused, Mayankeswar Saran Singh was a sitting M.L.A. and State Minister in the Cabinet of the State Government. It has been said that despite him holding a constitutional post, he along with 20-25 people sprinkled petrol on the house of the complainant and set it on fire. Withdrawal from prosecution in such a case would not be in public interest, and if such a case is allowed to be withdrawn, wrong massage would be sent in public and it would not be in the public interest.

4. The facts of the case are that the election for U.P. Legislative Assembly 2007, respondent No.2- Mayankeswar Saran Singh, who was sitting M.L.A. from Tiloi Constituency in Raebareli was a candidate of Samajwadi Party and Dinesh Pratap Singh was the candidate of Bahujan Samajwadi Party in the said State Assembly Election. The complainant (respondent No.14) was supporter of Mr.Dinesh Pratap Singh, candidate of Bahujan Samajwadi Party. He was earlier a supporter of the accused, Mayankeswar Saran Singh.

5. During course of said election for U.P. Legislature Assembly Election 2007, an FIR came to be registered on a complaint of respondent No.14 alleging that on 03.05.2007 at around 10:00 P.M., when the complainant was sitting outside his house at that time, respondent No.2 along with his 20-25 supporters came from 4 vehicles. They started abusing him. Accused-Maynkeswar Saran Singh exhorted others to kill the complainant as he had opposed him in the election. He also exhorted his supporters to take out petrol from the vehicles and set the house of the complainant on fire. On this exhortation, Ashok Singh, Krishna Kumar Soni, Manoj Singh, Narsingh, Kunj Bihari Singh, Lallan Singh and 8-9 persons, who came along with him took out petrol from their vehicles and ran towards the complainant. The complainant went inside his house and closed the door from inside. Persons came with accused-Mayankeswar Saran Singh tried to break open the house, and when they were not successful, they sprinkled petrol and set the door of the house on fire. It was said that that complainant could flee from the place from another door. On raising alarm by him, some villagers came running towards the house of the complainant but the accused terrorized them by firing and threatened them that if anyone come near the house of the complainant, he would loose his life. After an hour, the accused went back in their vehicles. It was alleged that wife and children of the complainant were badly assaulted. It was further alleged that the accused were throwing children in the fire. However, their mother could save them. It was further alleged that the accused had also taken away jewellery, which was kept for marriage of the daughter of the complainant, and his household items were set on fire. The accused had destroyed tractor of the complainant and they had set the tractor trolley on fire.

6. On the basis of the compliant, FIR No.31 of 2007 was registered on 04.05.2007 against respondent No.2 and other accused.

7. Police after investigating the offence filed charge-sheet against respondent No.2 and other persons on which cognizance was taken on 13.07.2009.

8. Public Prosecutor had filed an application under Section 321 Cr.P.C. for withdrawal from prosecution after the State Government granted permission for withdrawal from prosecution. In the said application, it was said that Mr.Dinesh Pratap Singh, who was rival candidate in the State Assembly Election 2007, was present at the police station when the FIR came to be registered on 04.05.2007. It was further said that medical examination of the son of the complainant was conducted on 04.05.2007 at 12:50 Hours. However, no medical examination of any other person was conducted. It was further said that the investigating officer recorded the statements of the family members of the complainant, and there were glaring contradictions in the statements of the family members and other independent witnesses. The application further mentions that on considering the evidence available in the case diary, case against the accused appears to be very weak. Complainant's son, Sajjan Singh did not mention that how he received three injuries. Son of the complainant was in security of Dinesh Pratap Singh. There is no date mentioned in the approval allegedly granted by District Magistrate for invoking provisions of the Gangsters Act against the accused and, therefore, it was prayed that the application be allowed and it should be withdrawn from prosecution.

9. Notice was issued to the complainant, respondent No.14. Initially, he opposed the application for withdrawal but on 06.03.2020, he moved another application and said that he did not press his objection agaisnt withdrawal from prosecution and his objection be rejected and he would have no objection, if application under Section 321 Cr.P.C. was allowed.

10. Heard Mr.Anurag Verma, learned A.G.A. along with Mr.V.K. Sahi, learned Additional Advocate General for the State and Mr.Sudhir Pandey, learned counsel for opposite party No.14.

11. Section 321 Cr.P.C. as applicable in the State of U.P. reads as under:-

"321. Withdrawal from prosecution. The Public Prosecutor or Assistant Public Prosecutor in charge of a case may, on the written permission of the State Government to that effect (which shall be filed in the Court), with the consent of the Court, at any time before the judgment is pronounced, withdraw from the prosecution of any person either generally or in respect of any one or more of the offences for which he is tried; and, upon such withdrawal,-

(a) if it is made before a charge has been framed, the accused shall be discharged in respect of such offence or offences;

(b) if it is made after a charge has been framed, or when under this Code no charge is required, he shall be acquitted in respect of such offence or offences: Provided that where such offence-

(i) was against any law relating to a matter to which the executive power of the Union extends, or

(ii) was investigated by the Delhi Special Police Establishment under the Delhi Special Police Establishment Act, 1946 (25 of 1946), or

(iii) involved the misappropriation or destruction of, or damage to, any property belonging to the Central Government, or

(iv) was committed by a person in the service of the Central Government while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, and the Prosecutor in charge of the case hag hot been appointed by the Central Government, he shall not, unless he hag been permitted by the Central Government to do so, move the Court for its consent to withdraw from the prosecution and the Court shall, before according consent, direct the Prosecutor to produce before it the permission granted by the Central Government to withdraw from the prosecution."

12. The scope of Section 321 Cr.P.C., ambit of power and manner in which it has to be exercised by the Public Prosecutor have been dealt with in several decisions by the Supreme Court. Only a few decisions rendered by the Supreme Court would be apt to quote here to throw light on the scope of Section 321 Cr.P.C. and ambit and manner of exercise of the power by the Public Prosecutor under the aforesaid section. Ultimate authority to allow withdrawal from prosecution vests with the Court and the guiding consideration must always be interest of administration of justice when deciding the question whether prosecution should be allowed to be withdrawn or not.

"5.....Therefore when the Additional Sessions Judge made the impugned order, there was no material before him to warrant the conclusion that sufficient evidence would not be forthcoming to sustain the charges or that there was any reliable subsequent information falsifying the prosecution case or any other circumstance justifying withdrawal of the case against the respondents. Consenting to the withdrawal of the case on the view that the attitude displayed by the prosecution made it "futile" to refuse permission does not certainly serve the administration of justice. If the material before the Additional Sessions Judge was considered sufficient to enable him to frame the charges against the respondents, it is not possible to say that there was no evidence in support of the Prosecution case. The application for stay of the proceeding made before the committing Magistrate cannot also be said to falsify the prosecution case. If the prosecuting agency brings before the court sufficient material to indicate that the prosecution was based on false evidence, the court would be justified in consenting to the withdrawal of the prosecution, but on the record of the case, as it is, we do not find any such justification....."

14. In Balwant Singh and others Versus State of Bihar (1977) 4 SCC 448, the Supreme Court, while considering the role of the Public Prosecutor while moving an application for withdrawal from prosecution, has dealt upon the consideration which must weigh for moving such an application. The Public Prosecutor must keep in mind the administration of justice inasmuch as he is discharging the statutory responsibility and while discharging the statutory responsibility the only factor, which should be considered, is administration of justice and nothing else.

Relevant portion of paragraph-2 is reproduced hereinbelow:-

"2. .....The statutory responsibility for deciding upon withdrawal squarely vests on the public prosecutor. It is non-negotiable and cannot be bartered away in favour of those who may be above him on the administrative side. The Criminal Procedure Code is the only matter of the public prosecutor and he has to guide himself with reference to Criminal Procedure Code only. So guided, the consideration which must weigh with him is, whether the broader cause of public justice will be advanced or retarded by the withdrawal or continuance of the prosecution. As we have already explained, public justice may be a much wider conception than the justice in a particular case. Here, the Public Prosecutor is ordered to move for withdrawal....."

15. In Sheonandan Paswan Versus State of Bihar and others (1983) 1 SCC 438, the Supreme Court has held that before an application is moved under Section 321 Cr.P.C., the Public Prosecutor needs to apply his mind to the facts of the case independently, without being influenced by outside factors. Relevant paragraphs, on reproduction, read as under:-

"85. In our opinion, the object of Section 321 Cr.P.C. appears to be to reserve power to the Executive Government to withdraw any criminal case on larger grounds of public policy such as inexpediency of prosecutions for reasons of State; broader public interest like maintenance of law and order; maintenance of public peace and harmony, social, economic and political; changed social and political situation; avoidance of destabilization of a stable government and the like. And such powers have been, in our opinion, rightly reserved for the Government; for, who but the Government is in the know of such conditions and situations prevailing in a State or in the country? The Court is not in a position to know such situations."

134. The statutory responsibility for deciding upon withdrawal squarely rests upon the Public Prosecutor. It is non-negotiable and cannot be bartered away. The court's duty in dealing with the application under Section 321 is not to reappreciate the grounds which led the Public Prosecutor to request withdrawal from the prosecution but to consider whether the Public Prosecutor applied his mind as a free agent un-influenced by irrelevant and extraneous or oblique considerations as the court has a special duty in this regard inasmuch as it is the ultimate repository of legislative confidence in granting or withholding its consent to withdrawal from prosecution. The court's duty is to see in furtherance of justice that the permission is not sought on grounds extraneous to the interest of justice."

16. The Supreme Court has also dealt with in a catena of decisions the manner in which an application for withdrawal from prosecution moved by the Public Prosecutor needs to be considered by the Court.

17. In State of Punjab Versus Union of India and others (1986) 4 SCC 335, the Supreme Court has held that while granting permission to the Public Prosecutor for withdrawal from prosecution, the Court needs to be satisfied itself that the Public Prosecutor has properly exercised statutory function and has not attempted to interfere with the normal course of justice for ulterior purposes. The administration of criminal justice should be the touchstone on which the application under Section 321

Cr.P.C. needs to be decided. Relevant portion of paragraph-1, on reproduction, reads as under:-

"1. ..... The ultimate guiding consideration while granting a permission to withdraw from the prosecution must always be the interest of administration of justice and that is the touchstone on which the question must be determined whether the prosecution should be allowed to withdraw. The Public Prosecutor may withdraw from the prosecution of a case not merely on the ground of paucity of evidence but also in order to further the broad ends of public justice, and such broad ends of public justice may well include appropriate social, economic and political purposes."

18. Similar views have been reiterated in Sheonandan Paswan Versus State of Bihar and others (1987) 1 SCC 288 by the Supreme Court. Paragraph-73, on reproduction, reads as under:-

"73. Section 321 gives the Public Prosecutor the power for withdrawal of any case at any stage before judgment is pronounced. This presupposes the fact that the entire evidence may have been adduced in the case, before the application is made. When an application under Section 32I Cr.P.C. is made, it is not necessary for the court to assess the evidence to discover whether the case would end in conviction or acquittal. To contend that the court when it exercises its limited power of giving consent under Section 32I has to assess the evidence and find out whether the case would end in acquittal or conviction, would be to rewrite Section 321 Cr.P.C. and would be to concede to the court a power which the scheme of Section 321 does not contemplate. The acquittal or discharge order under Section 321 are not the same as the normal final orders in criminal cases. The conclusion will not be backed by a detailed discussion of the evidence in the case of acquittal or absence of prima facie case or groundlessness in the case of discharge. All that the court has to see is whether the application is made in good faith, in the interest of public policy and justice and not to thwart or stifle the process of law. The court, after considering these facets of the case, will have to see whether the application suffers from such improprieties or illegalities as to cause manifest injustice if consent is given. In this case, on a reading of the application for withdrawal, the order of consent and the other attendant circumstances, I have no hesitation to hold that the application for withdrawal and the order giving consent were proper and strictly within the confines of Section 321 Cr.P.C."

19. In S.K. Shukla and others Versus State of U.P. and others (2006) 1 SCC 314, the Supreme Court has held that the Public Prosecutor cannot work like a post box. He needs to act objectively being an officer of the Court and it is always open to the Court to reject the prayer if it is not guided in the interest of administration of justice. Relevant portion of paragraph-32, on reproduction, reads as under:-

"32. .....The Public Prosecutor cannot act like a postbox or act on the dictates of the State Government. He has to act objectively as he is also an officer of the court. At the same time the court is also not bound by that. The courts are also free to assess whether a prima face case is made or not. The court, if satisfied, can also reject the prayer."

20. In Vijaykumar Baldev Mishra alias Sharma Versus State of Maharashtra (2007) 12 SCC 687 the Supreme Court has held as under:-

"12. Section 321 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 provides for withdrawal from prosecution at the instance of the public prosecutor or Assistant public prosecutor. Indisputably therefor the consent of the Court is necessary. Application of mind on the part of the Court, therefore, is necessary in regard to the grounds for withdrawal from the prosecution in respect of any one or more of the offences for which the appellant is tried. The provisions of TADA could be attracted only in the event of one or the other of the four 'things' specified in Nalini (supra) is found applicable and not otherwise. The Review Committee made recommendations upon consideration of all relevant facts. It came to its opinion upon considering the materials on record. Its recommendations were based also upon the legality of the charges under TADA in the fact situation obtaining in each case. It came to the conclusion that in committing the purported offence, the appellant inter alia had no intention to strike terror in people or any section of the people and in fact the murder has been committed only in view of group rivalry and because the parties intended to take revenge, the provisions of the TADA should not have been invoked.

13. The Public Prosecutor in terms of the statutory scheme laid down under the Code of Criminal Procedure plays an important role. He is supposed to be an independent person. While filing such an application, the public prosecutor also is required to apply his own mind and the effect thereof on the society in the event such permission is granted."

21. In Rahul Agarwal Versus Rakesh Jain and another (2005) 2 SCC 377, the Supreme Court has held that while considering an application moved under Section 321 Cr.P.C., the Court should consider all relevant circumstances and find out whether the withdrawal from prosecution advances the cause of justice. The withdrawal can be permitted only when the case is likely to end in an acquittal and continuance of the case would only cause severe harassment to the accused. Relevant para-10 is extracted hereunder:-

"10. From these decisions as well as other decisions on the same question, the law is very clear that the withdrawal of prosecution can be allowed only in the interest of justice. Even if the Government directs the Public Prosecutor to withdraw the prosecution and an application is filed to that effect, the court must consider all relevant circumstances and find out whether the withdrawal of prosecution would advance the cause of justice. If the case is likely to end in an acquittal and the continuance of the case is only causing severe harassment to the accused, the court may permit withdrawal of the prosecution. If the withdrawal of prosecution is likely to bury the dispute and bring about harmony between the parties and it would be in the best interest of justice, the court may allow the withdrawal of prosecution. The discretion under Section 321, Code of Criminal Procedure is to be carefully exercised by the court having due regard to all the relevant facts and shall not be exercised to stifle the prosecution which is being done at the instance of the aggrieved parties or the State for redressing their grievance. Every crime is an offence against the society and if the accused committed an offence, society demands that he should be punished. Punishing the person who perpetrated the crime is an essential requirement for the maintenance of law and order and peace in the society. Therefore, the withdrawal of the prosecution shall be permitted only when valid reasons are made out for the same."

"116. In view of above, the Public Prosecutor is the final authority to apply mind and take a decision whether an application for withdrawal of a criminal case is to be moved or not. For that, option is open to him to receive necessary instructions or information from the Government to make up mind on the basis of material made available. The Public Prosecutor cannot act like post box or at the dictate of the State Government. He has to act objectively as he is also an officer of the court. It is also open for the appropriate Government to issue appropriate instruction to him but he has to act objectively with regard to the withdrawal of cases. But the instruction sent by the government shall not be binding and it is the Public Prosecutor who has to take a decision independently without any political favour or party pressure or like concerns. The sole object of the Public Prosecutor is the interest of administration of justice. Power conferred on Public Prosecutor to take independent decision for the interest of administration of justice is not negotiable and cannot be bartered away in favour of those who may be above him on administrative side. He is stood to be guided by letter and spirit of Code of Criminal Procedure only and not otherwise. Neither the Public Prosecutor nor the Magistrate can surrender their discretion while exercising power at their end.

117. Similarly, the Court has duty to protect the administration of criminal justice against possible abuse or misuse by the executive by resort of the provisions contained in Section 321 Cr.P.C. The court has to record a finding that the application moved by Public Prosecutor is in the interest of administration of justice and there is no abuse or misuse of power by the Public Prosecutor or the Government. In case an application is allowed, it must be recorded by the Court that the application has been moved in good faith to secure the ends of justice and not in political or vested interest. The court has final say in the matter and the decision should be free and fair with independent exercise of mind in the interest of public policy and justice. It must ensure that the application is not moved to thwart or stifle the process of law or suffers from such improprieties or illegalities as to cause manifest injustice if consent is given."

23. In the present case, from reading of the application, it appears that Public Prosecutor had filed the application under Section 321 Cr.P.C. in good faith after careful consideration of the material available on record. The FIR got registered because of political rivalry. The complainant himself has submitted an application before the learned trial Court that he would have no objection, if the application is allowed, and his earlier objection on application under Section 321 Cr.P.C. for withdrawal from prosecution be ignored.

24. The Court is required to consider whether withdrawal from prosecution would further cause of justice or not and whether it would be in public interest to allow the withdrawal from prosecution. When the complainant himself is not supporting the prosecution case, this Court is of the view that there is no chance of conviction of the accused in the case. The case has been remained pending since 2007 and continuance of trial would be nothing but a futile exercise and Court's precious time would get wasted for futile exercise, if the application for withdrawal from prosecution is not allowed.

25. Considering the stand of the complainant, this Court is of the view that withdrawal from prosecution would be in the interest of justice. It would be appropriate to allow the application for withdrawal from prosecution. In view thereof, this Court finds that view taken by the learned Special Judge does not appear to be correct view. The revision is allowed. Impugned order dated 14.10.2020 passed by learned Special Judge/M.P./M.L.A./ VI-Additional Sessions Judge, Raebareli is hereby set aside. The application for withdrawal from prosecution is also allowed.

THE HON'BLE RAJEEV MISRA, J.

Criminal Revision No. 614 of 2021

Vishal Singh @ Pitarsan @ Vishal Kumar Singh ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Kirtikar Pandey

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
G.A.

Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 - Section 9 & 94 - Presumption and determination of age - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007 - by virtue of S. 9 of Act of 2015, Court, before whom the matter is pending & the claim of juvenility is raised by an accused, then such Court is competent to make an enquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary excluding an affidavit and thereafter record a finding stating the age of person as nearly as may be - For making a claim with regard to juvenility the claimant must produce some material which may prima facie satisfy the court that an inquiry into the claim of juvenility is necessary - Initial burden has to be discharged by the person who claims juvenility - As to what materials would prima facie satisfy the court cannot be catalogued - documents mentioned in Sub-section (2) of Section 94 of JJ Act, 2015, shall be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the Court (Para 33, 51)

Incident occurred on 4.11.2017, a prompt F.I.R. lodged, revisionist named as accused - charge-sheet against accused submitted - Magistrate took cognizance - matter pending in the court - revisionist filed an application u/s 9 Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 to be declared a Juvenile on the date of occurrence i.e. 4.11.2017 - on the ground that date of birth recorded in the certificate-cummark-sheet issued by U.P. Board is 17.12.2000, as such, revisionist was aged about 17 years 8 months and 16 days on the date of occurrence - on the other hand first informant stated that the Revisionist date of birth recorded in the mark-sheet, is 9.1.199, as such, on the date of occurrence revisionist was aged about 18 years 10 months and 3 days - Trial court held that since it was revisionist who was claiming juvenility the burden to prove and establish the same was upon revisionist himself and revisionist having failed to do so, Court below rejected the application filed by revisionist claiming juvenility - Criminal Revision filed before High Court - Held - Revisionist failed to discharge the initial burden - claim of revisionist does not appear to be bona fide either - revision dismissed.

Dismissed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajeev Misra, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Kirtikar pandey, learned counsel for revisionist and learned A.G.A. for State.

2. Perused the record.

3. This criminal revision has been filed challenging judgement and order dated 27.1.2021, passed by Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C II, Ballia, in Misc. Application Criminal No. Nil of 2019, dated 29.3.2019 (Paper No.3 Kha), whereby aforesaid application filed by accused Vishal Sigh @ Pitarsan @ Vishal Kumar Singh, claiming therein that he be declared juvenile on the date of occurrence i.e. 4.11.2017 has been rejected.

4. Present Criminal Revision came up for admission on 19.3.2021 and this Court passed the following order:

"Heard learned counsel for the revisionist and learned AGA for the State.

The present revision under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C. has been preferred by the revisionist against the order dated 27.1.2021, passed by A.S.J./F.T.C.-II, Ballia, in S.T. No. 54 of 2018 (State vs. Vishal) arising out of Case Crime No. 745 of 2017 under sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 504, 506, 304 IPC, Police Station Dokati, District Ballia whereby the application of the revisionist declaring himself to be juvenile, has been rejected.

The submission of counsel for the revisionist is that the procedure as prescribed under section 94 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 has not been followed. He further argues that there is nothing on record to demonstrate that the matriculation certificate filed by the revisionist is forged one, in the alternative, even if the Court came to the said conclusion, the subsequent procedure as prescribed under section 94 should have been resorted which have not been done. Thus, the order suffers from material irregularity.

Matter requires consideration.

Issue notice to the opposite party no. 2 returnable at an early date.

Steps be taken to serve the opposite party no. 2 within two weeks.

The opposite party no. 2 shall file counter affidavit within four weeks. Rejoinder affidavit may be filed within two weeks thereafter.

Put up this matter as fresh on 28.4.2021.

Till the next date of listing, further proceedings in S.T. No. 54 of 2018 (State vs. Vishal) arising out of Case Crime No. 745 of 2017 under sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 504, 506, 304 IPC, Police Station Dokati, District Ballia shall remain stayed as against the revisionist only. "

5. Pursuant to above order dated 19.3.2021, office has submitted a report dated 16.6.2021, stating therein that as per report received from C.J.M, Ballia notice has been served upon opposite party-2, personally.

6. However, inspite of service of notice, no one has put in appearance on behalf of opposite party-2. Learned A.G.A. has filed a counter affidavit to which a rejoinder affidavit has also been filed by revisionist.

7. Counsel for the parties agreed that instant revision be decided finally at the stage of admission without calling for the record. Accordingly, with the consent of counsel for the parties and as provided under Rules of the Court, present criminal revision was heard and is now being disposed of finally at the admission stage, itself.

8. Record shows that in respect of an incident which is alleged to have occurred on 4.11.2017, a prompt F.I.R. dated 4.11.2017 was lodged by first informant/opposite party-2 Surya Dev Pandey and was registered as Case Crime No. 0745 of 2017 under sections 147, 148, 149, 324, 308, 323, 504, 506 IPC and section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, P.S. Dokati, District Ballia. In the aforesaid F.I.R, 12 persons namely, Vishal Singh @ Pitarsan, Vishal Singh @ Bua, Sonu Singh, Pawan Singh, Krishna Singh, Bhola Singh, Chandan Singh, Monu, Chotu, Ajeet Singh, Shivjogit Singh, Dharmendra Singh have been nominated as named accused.

9. Investigating Officer upon completion of investigation of concerned case crime number submitted the charge-sheet against accused including applicant. Concerned Magistrate took cognizance upon same. As offence complained of is triable by Court of Sessions, concerned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Sessions. Resultantly, S.T. No. 54 of 2018 (State vs. Vishal), arising out of Case Crime No. 0745 of 2017, under sections 147, 148, 149, 324, 308, 323, 504, 506 IPC and section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, P.S. Dokati, District Ballia came to be registered, and now pending in the court of Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C. II, Ballia.

10. Subsequently, revisionist filed an application dated 29.3.2019 (paper no. 3-kha) before Court below in terms of Section 9 Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (herein after referred to as act, 2015) praying therein that revisionist be declared a Juvenile as he was below 18 years of age on the date of occurrence i.e. 4.11.2017.

11. Aforesaid application was filed by revisionist on the ground that revisionist has passed his High School Examination, conducted by U.P. Board of High School and Intermediate Education from Kesari Balika Higher Secondary School, Shobha Chapra, District-Ballia in the year 2014. The date of birth of revisionist recorded in the certificate-cum-mark-sheet issued on 30.5.2014 by U.P. Board of High School and Intermediate Education in respect of aforesaid examination undertaken by revisionist is 17.12.2000. As such, revisionist was aged about 17 years 8 months and 16 days on the date of occurrence, which is 4.11.2017.

12. Claim of juvenility raised by revisionist was opposed by prosecution/first informant-opposite party-2. According to first informant-opposite party-2, revisionist was major on the date of occurrence i.e. 4.11.2017 as he was more than 18 years of age. Revisionist has passed his High School Examination conducted by U.P. Board of High School and Intermediate Education in the year 2016 with Roll No. 2312942. The date of birth of revisionist recorded in the mark-sheet, pertaining to above noted examination is 9.1.1999. As such, on the date of occurrence which is 4.11.2017 revisionist was aged about 18 years 10 months and 3 days.

13. In view of above noted two certificates/marksheets of revisionist, regarding his High School Examination before Court below, the Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C. II, Ballia passed an order dated 22.9.2020, which reads as under:

"1. To declare this accused Vishal Singh alias Peterson this present application has been filed on his behalf but without assigning any particular provision of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 or Juvenile Justice Act, 2015.

2. This Court has heard the submissions of both the rival sides on this application. As it appeared from the case file that during the proceeding of this particular application my learned Predecessor has conducted almost the entire proceeding. This Court is not in position to hold that either it was right or wrong but considering the law laid down in Ashwani Kumar Saxena Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2012) 9 SCC 750, in which it has been emphatically instructed to the Subordinate Courts to conduct inquiry regarding the determination of age of the person claiming minor and has said in a very strong words that in the process of such inquiry the process of trial by recording the testimonies of applicant/witness(s) etc., is prohibited. More or less very similar approach has been shown by the three Judges Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Abuzar Hossain alias Ghulam Hossain Vs. State of Bengal (2012) 10 SCC 489 and also in Prag Bhati Vs. State of U.P. (2016) 12 SCC 744 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held in similar manner. However, while deciding this aforesaid two cases the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that there should be no strict pattern or manner to conduct inquiry to determine the age of a person claiming minor and in a very recent judgment in Criminal Appeal No. 108/19 Sanjeev Kumar Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and another the Hon'ble Supreme Court has again dealt with this aspect in a very detailed manner and has time and again referred the Ashwani Kumar Saxena case(supra).

3. Considering the above in a situation as it appears from the records that the entire focus of this Court presided over my learned Predecessor was to extract truth circumfenced with a particular certificate claiming as of matriculation by calling witnesses and for recording their evidence in respect of the said certificate. Keeping in mind the guiding light transmitted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ashwani Kumar Saxena case, this Court is not ready to go along with the process opted by his learned predecessor. This is on record that the matriculation certificate filed by the applicant is very aggressively opposed by the prosecution accompanied with victim's Advocate and the prosecution has vehemently raised question over the veracity of this certificate. Although the prosecution has filed a photocopy of a certificate of a person named as Peterson Ram and has claimed that this is very same person as of the accused claiming his name as Vishal Kumar Singh alias Peterson here this is very pertinent to note that everywhere in the case record Vishal Singh alias Peterson has been mentioned and nowhere in the record Vishal Kumar Singh alias Peterson noted and this is very well settled in Criminal Jurisprudence System name of the accused has utmost important value and even difference of one word in the name of the accused can create a very big difference as well as consequence. However, this Court has no intention to give place the photocopy of the alleged certificate of a person namely Peterson Ram on the record to consider further but this is also truth this has already created serious doubt in the mind of this Court regarding veracity of the alleged matriculation certificate which was allegedly produced for establishing the accused as minor.

4. In aforesaid all the referred cases as well as in the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000(S.94) for determining the aged matriculation certificate has been given priority over other alternatives. 5. It has been held in Ashwani Kumar Saxena case(Supra) by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that in case the Court finds any such fabrication or has any sort of suspect over/in the matriculation certificate the Court may very much conduct an inquiry in this regard but scope of the inquiry as well as manner of the inquiry has not been given anywhere regarding checking the veracity of such certificate.

6. On the aforesaid analysis this Court keeps pending the application filed for declaration of the accused Juvenile pending and meanwhile this Court deems it fit to provide both the rival copies of the matriculation certificate as one in the name of Vishal Kumar Singh alias Peterson and other in the name of Vishal Ram alias Peterson for their verification and in this regard the SHO of the concerned Police Station i.e. Police Station Dokati, Ballia is directed to submit the report within a week. Further, this Court directs the Director U.P. Secondary Board, Lucknow to provide the records on that basis age of this alleged Vishal Kumar Singh was noted in the matriculation certificate as well as other ancillary papers to show this particular person has appeared in the matriculation examination on that stipulated date conducted by the U.P. Secondary Board, Lucknow within a week to this Court.

Ordered accordingly.

Notice be issued for the aforesaid purposes to the S.H.O. of the Police Station Dokati, Ballia related with this Sessions Trial No. 54/2018 (Case Crime No. 745/2017) and to the Director, U.P. Secondary Board, Lucknow."

14. Pursuant to above order dated 22.9.2020, no information/report was submitted by U.P. Secondary Education Board Lucknow, regarding the sanctity or genuineness of aforementioned certificates-cum-marksheet pertaining to the High School examinations undertaken by revisionist. However, two Police reports (other than a report contemplated under section 173 (2) Cr.P.C.) were submitted by Police of concerned Police Station. The first report was submitted on 15.10.2020, whereas the second report was submitted on 28.12.2020. In both the reports, it was reiterated that the date of birth of revisionist as mentioned in the High School Certificate is 17.2.2000. No conclusion was drawn by the Police regarding the authenticity/genuineness of the two certificates-cum-mark sheets of High School Examination undertaken by the revisionist in the year 2014 and 2016 respectively or on the date of birth of revisionist recorded therein.

15. In the light of above, Court below itself proceeded to hold an enquiry / to adjudicate the claim of juvenility raised by revisionist.

17. In the light of above, as well as the two Police reports, Court below proceeded to evaluate the claim of juvenility raised by revisionist. Court below disbelieved the Police reports submitted by Police of Police Station Dokati, District Ballia as according to court below the two reports dated 15.10.2020 and 28.12.2020 are contradictory to each other. It shall be apt to reproduce the observations made by Court below itself in this regard, which is contained in the penultimate part of paragraph 18, and reads as under:

the concerned police has brazenly taken two stances in their two reports that in report dated 15.10.2020 the police speaks that it talked with the said Naveen Singh on telephone whereas in report dated 28.12.2020 the police says that Naveen Singh's old number is running switched off.

18. A.P.W.1 Arjun Yadav was disbelieved by Court below by observing as under:

" hence this person can only prove the fact of presence of such records in the school but cannot prove the contents therein noted in the documents which he brought before the Court"

19. A.P.W.2 Rita Devi, mother of revisionist was also disbelieved by Court below vide following observations contained in paragraph 16 of the impugned order:

"From the aforesaid testimonies of this APW2, mother of the applicant this only can be drawn out that this witness, however she was mother of the applicant was not able to tell the exact date of birth of her son because at the one hand she deposed that the applicant's date of birth was11 17.2.2000 but on the other hand she has admitted that she was an illiterate and she had memorized the age of (not the date of birth) the applicant through Pandit Ji. "

20. Having recorded aforesaid findings coupled with the fact that since it was revisionist who was claiming juvenility the burden to prove and establish the same was upon revisionist himself and revisionist having failed to do so, Court below by means of impugned judgement and order dated 27.1.2021 rejected the application (paper no.3ka) filed by revisionist claiming juvenility.

21. Thus feeling aggrieved by above judgement and order, revisionist has now approached this Court by means of present criminal revision.

22. Mr. Kirtikar Pandey, learned counsel for revisionist in challenge to the impugned order dated 27.1.2021 submits that order impugned in present criminal revision is manifestly illegal and without jurisdiction. He then submits that juvenility of an accused has to be decided as per section 94 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015. Aforesaid section is procedural in nature and contains four sub-sections i.e. a,b,c,d which are preferential in nature. In case the first preference is not available, the Court can rely upon second preference and so on as the case may be. In the present case, revisionist has passed his High School Examination in the year 2014 and his date of birth recorded therein is 17.12.2000. The occurrence in question occurred on 4.11.2017. As such, applicant was aged about 17 years 8 months and 16 days on the date of alleged occurrence and therefore a juvenile. There is nothing on record to show that the certificate/mark-sheet of the High School Examination undertaken by revisionist in the year 2014 is forged or fictious. As such, Court below has erred in law in not relying upon the same. Case of revisionist is squarely covered under section 94(1) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015.

23. It is also contended that claim of juvenility raised by revisionist was disputed by prosecution/first informant-opposite party-2. Reliance was placed upon certificate/mark-sheet of High School Examination of revisionist alleged to have been undertaken by revisionist in the year 2016 with Roll NO. 2312942 wherein name of revisionist was shown as Peterson Ram S/o Manoj Ram and the name of mother has been shown as Rita Devi and the date of birth of revisionist recorded therein is 1.1.1999. Except for this document, no other evidence was adduced by first informant-opposite party-2 to dispute the claim of juvenility raised by revisionist.

24. In the aforesaid circumstance, burden was upon first informant/opposite party-2 to establish the fact that date of birth of revisionist is 1.1.1999. Once revisionist had already passed his High School Examination in the year 2014, wherein his date of birth was recorded as 17.12.2000, there was no occassion before revisionist to retake the High School Examination showing his date of birth as 1.1.1999 which admittedly is to his disadvantage. In view of aforesaid facts and circumstance, court below ought to have accepted the claim of juvenility raised by revisionist. Even otherwise, Court below has disbelieved A.P.W.1 Arjun Yadav and A.P.W.2 Ritu Devi on wholly trivial grounds. As such, order impugned in present criminal revision is liable to be set-aside by this Court, and the application dated 29.3.2019 (Paper No. 3 Kha) filed by revisionist for declaring him a juvenile on the date of occurrence is liable to be allowed.

25. Per contra, the learned A.G.A. has opposed this revision. He submits that impugned order passed by Court below is perfectly just and legal. Findings recorded by Court below are definite and cogent findings. Same cannot be classified as illegal, perverse or erroneous. As such, same are not liable to be interfered with by this Court. Court below has exercised its jurisdiction with due diligence and not in casual and caviliar manner. Once two contradictory High School Certificates-cum-mark-sheets of revisionist were brought on record, court below rightly passed the order dated 22.9.2020, whereby the Police of Police Station-Dokati was directed to conduct an enquiry in the matter and further directions were issued to U.P. Secondary Education Board to submit a report regarding above. However, no report was submitted by U.P. Secondary Education Board in respect of certificate/marksheet of High School Examination undertaken by revisionist in the years 2014 and 2016, respectively. The Police reports submitted on 15.10.2020 and 28.12.2020 by Police of Police Station Dokati were rightly disbelieved as no attempt was made to verify the genuineness of the two certificate-cum-marksheet of High School examination undertaken by revisionist in the year 2014 and 2016 respectively or the date of birth of revisionist.

26. As such, exercise undertaken by Court below to adjudicate upon the claim of juvenility of revisionist is perfectly just and legal. Since revisionist was major on the date of occurrence, as such, no indulgence be granted by this Court in favour of revisionist.

27. Before proceeding to evaluate the rival submissions urged on behalf of the parties, it would be appropriate to refer the relevant provisions of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, as well as Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007.

28. Section 9 of Act 2015 provides for the procedure to be followed by a Magistrate who has not been empowered under this act. Same reads as under:

9. Procedure to be followed by a Magistrate who has not been empowered under this Act.-

(1) When a Magistrate, not empowered to exercise the powers of the Board under this Act is of the opinion that the person alleged to have committed the offence and brought before him is a child, he shall, without any delay, record such opinion and forward the child immediately along with the record of such proceedings to the Board having jurisdiction.

(2) In case a person alleged to have committed an offence claims before a court other than a Board, that the person is a child or was a child on the date of commission of the offence, or if the court itself is of the opinion that the person was a child on the date of commission of the offence, the said court shall make an inquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) to determine the age of such person, and shall record a finding on the matter, stating the age of the person as nearly as may be:

(3) Provided that such a claim may be raised before any court and it shall be recognised at any stage, even after final disposal of the case, and such a claim shall be determined in accordance with the provisions contained in this Act and the rules made thereunder even if the person has ceased to be a child on or before the date of commencement of this Act.

(3) If the court finds that a person has committed an offence and was a child on the date of commission of such offence, it shall forward the child to the Board for passing appropriate orders and the sentence, if any, passed by the court shall be deemed to have no effect.

(4) In case a person under this section is required to be kept in protective custody, while the person's claim of being a child is being inquired into, such person may be placed, in the intervening period in a place of safety.

29. Section 94 of Act, 2015 provides for the procedure for determining the age of a Juvenile. Same is extracted herein under:

"Presumption and Determination of Age- (1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under section 14 or section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining -

(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(iii) and only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board:

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person.

30. Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules provides the procedure to be followed in determining the age of a child in conflict with law. For ready reference same is reproduced herein under:

"Procedure to be followed in determination of Age. (1) In every case concerning a child or a juvenile in conflict with law, the court or the Board or as the case may be the Committee referred to in rule 19 of these rules shall determine the age of such juvenile or child or a juvenile in conflict with law within a period of thirty days from the date of making of the application for that purpose.

(2) The Court or the Board or as the case may be the Committee shall decide the juvenility or otherwise of the juvenile or the child or as the case may be the juvenile in conflict with law, prima facie on the basis of physical appearance or documents, if available, and send him to the observation home or in jail.

(3) In every case concerning a child or juvenile in conflict with law, the age determination inquiry shall be conducted by the court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee by seeking evidence by obtaining-

(a) (i) the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available; and in the absence whereof;

(ii) the date of birth certificate from the school (other than a play school) first attended; and in the absence whereof;

(iii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(b) and only in the absence of either (i), (ii) or (iii) of clause (a) above, the medical opinion will be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board, which will declare the age of the juvenile or child. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, the Court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee, for the reasons to be recorded by them, may, if considered necessary, give benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his/her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

and, while passing orders in such case shall, after taking into consideration such evidence as may be available, or the medical opinion, as the case may be, record a finding in respect of his age and either of the evidence specified in any of the clauses (a)(i), (ii), (iii) or in the absence whereof, clause (b) shall be the conclusive proof of he age as regards such child or Ihe juvenile in conflict with law.

(4) If the age of a juvenile or child or the juvenile in conflict with law is found to be below 18 years on the date of offence, on the basis of any of the conclusive proof specified in sub-rule (3), the Court or the Board or as the case may be the Committee shall in writing pass an order stating the age and declaring the status of juvenility or otherwise, for the purpose of the Act and these rules and a copy of the order shall be given to such juvenile or the person concerned.

(5) Save and except where, further inquiry or otherwise is required, inter alia, in terms of section 7A, section 64 of the Act and these rules, no further inquiry shall be conducted by the court or the Board after examining and obtaining the certificate or any other documentary proof referred to in sub-rule (3) of this rule.

(6) The provisions contained in this rule shall also apply to those disposed of cases, where the status of juvenility has not been determined in accordance with the provisions contained in sub-rule (3) and the Act, requiring dispensation of the sentence under the Act for passing appropriate order in the interest of the juvenile in conflict with law."

31. What shall be the procedure to be followed by Court upon an application filed by an accused claiming himself to be a juvenile came up for consideration in Sanjeev Kumar Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and another, (2019) 12 SCC 370. The Court observed as follows in paragraph 11:

" 11. Upon a claim being raised that an accused was a juvenile on the date of the commission of the offence, the court is required to make an enquiry, take evidence and to determine the age of the person. The court has to record a finding whether the person is a juvenile or a child, stating the age as nearly as may be. Rule 12(3) of the 2007 Rules contains a procedural provision governing the determination of age by the court or by the Board. Rule 12(3) stipulates thus:

32. The issue whether an enquiry can be conducted by the Court for declaring the age of an accused as well as the nature of such enquiry came up for consideration in Ashwani Kumar Saxena Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2012) 9 SCC 750. Following was observed by the Court in paragraphs 32 and 34:

"32. "Age determination inquiry" contemplated under Section 7-A of the Act read with Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules enables the court to seek evidence and in that process, the court can obtain the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available. Only in the absence of any matriculation or equivalent certificates, the court needs to obtain the date of birth certificate from the school first attended other than a play school. Only in the absence of matriculation or equivalent certificate or the date of birth certificate from the school first attended, the court needs to obtain the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat (not an affidavit but certificates or documents). The question of obtaining medical opinion from a duly constituted Medical Board arises only if the abovementioned documents are unavailable. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, then the court, for reasons to be recorded, may, if considered necessary, give the benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his or her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

34. Age determination inquiry contemplated under the JJ Act and the 2007 Rules has nothing to do with an enquiry under other legislations, like entry in service, retirement, promotion, etc. There may be situations where the entry made in the matriculation or equivalent certificates, date of birth certificate from the school first attended and even the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat may not be correct. But court, Juvenile Justice Board or a committee functioning under the JJ Act is not expected to conduct such a roving enquiry and to go behind those certificates to examine the correctness of those documents, kept during the normal course of business. Only in cases where those documents or certificates are found to be fabricated or manipulated, the court, the Juvenile Justice Board or the committee need to go for medical report for age determination."

33. Subsequently, a three judges Bench in Abuzar Hossain @ Ghulam Hossasin Vs. State of West Bengal (2012) 10 SCC 489 also considered the aforesaid issue and concluded as follows in paragraphs 39 and 48:

" 39. Now, we summarise the position which is as under:

39.1. A claim of juvenility may be raised at any stage even after the final disposal of the case. It may be raised for the first time before this Court as well after the final disposal of the case. The delay in raising the claim of juvenility cannot be a ground for rejection of such claim. The claim of juvenility can be raised in appeal even if not pressed before the trial court and can be raised for the first time before this Court though not pressed before the trial court and in the appeal court.

39.2. For making a claim with regard to juvenility after conviction, the claimant must produce some material which may prima facie satisfy the court that an inquiry into the claim of juvenility is necessary. Initial burden has to be discharged by the person who claims juvenility.

39.3. As to what materials would prima facie satisfy the court and/or are sufficient for discharging the initial burden cannot be catalogued nor can it be laid down as to what weight should be given to a specific piece of evidence which may be sufficient to raise presumption of juvenility but the documents referred to in Rules 12(3)(a)(i) to (iii) shall definitely be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the court about the age of the delinquent necessitating further enquiry under Rule 12. The statement recorded under Section 313 of the Code is too tentative and may not by itself be sufficient ordinarily to justify or reject the claim of juvenility. The credibility and/or acceptability of the documents like the school leaving certificate or the voters' list, etc. obtained after conviction would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no hard-and-fast rule can be prescribed that they must be prima facie accepted or rejected. In Akbar Sheikh [(2009) 7 SCC 415 : (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 431] and Pawan [(2009) 15 SCC 259 : (2010) 2 SCC (Cri) 522] these documents were not found prima facie credible while in Jitendra Singh [(2010) 13 SCC 523 : (2011) 1 SCC (Cri) 857] the documents viz. school leaving certificate, marksheet and the medical report were treated sufficient for directing an inquiry and verification of the appellant's age. If such documents prima facie inspire confidence of the court, the court may act upon such documents for the purposes of Section 7-A and order an enquiry for determination of the age of the delinquent.

39.4. An affidavit of the claimant or any of the parents or a sibling or a relative in support of the claim of juvenility raised for the first time in appeal or revision or before this Court during the pendency of the matter or after disposal of the case shall not be sufficient justifying an enquiry to determine the age of such person unless the circumstances of the case are so glaring that satisfy the judicial conscience of the court to order an enquiry into determination of the age of the delinquent.

39.5. The court where the plea of juvenility is raised for the first time should always be guided by the objectives of the 2000 Act and be alive to the position that the beneficent and salutary provisions contained in the 2000 Act are not defeated by the hypertechnical approach and the persons who are entitled to get benefits of the 2000 Act get such benefits. The courts should not be unnecessarily influenced by any general impression that in schools the parents/guardians understate the age of their wards by one or two years for future benefits or that age determination by medical examination is not very precise. The matter should be considered prima facie on the touchstone of preponderance of probability.

39.6. Claim of juvenility lacking in credibility or frivolous claim of juvenility or patently absurd or inherently improbable claim of juvenility must be rejected by the court at the threshold whenever raised.

34. Aforesaid judgements came to be considered in Prag Bhati Vs. State of U.P. (2016) 12 SCC 744 wherein a Bench of two judges concluded as follows in paragraph 36:

"36. It is settled position of law that if the matriculation or equivalent certificates are available and there is no other material to prove the correctness of date of birth, the date of birth mentioned in the matriculation certificate has to be treated as a conclusive proof of the date of birth of the accused. However, if there is any doubt or a contradictory stand is being taken by the accused which raises a doubt on the correctness of the date of birth then as laid down by this Court in Abuzar Hossain[Abuzar Hossainv.State of W.B., (2012) 10 SCC 489 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 83] , an enquiry for determination of the age of the accused is permissible which has been done in the present case."

35. In Sanjeev Kumar Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and another (2019) 12 SCC 370, the Bench took notice of above mentioned judgements and delianted its view in paragraph 15 in following words:

" 15. The above decision in Abuzar Hossain [Abuzar Hossain v. State of W.B., (2012) 10 SCC 489 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 83] was rendered on 10-10-2012. Though the earlier decision in Ashwani Kumar Saxena [Ashwani Kumar Saxena v. State of M.P., (2012) 9 SCC 750 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 594] was not cited before the Court, it appears from the above extract that the three-Judge Bench observed that the credibility and acceptability of the documents, including the school leaving certificate, would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no hard-and-fast rule as such could be laid down. Concurring with the judgment of R.M. Lodha, J., T.S. Thakur, J. (as the learned Chief Justice then was) observed that directing an inquiry is not the same thing as declaring the accused to be a juvenile. In the former the court simply records a prima facie conclusion while in the latter a declaration is made on the basis of evidence. Hence the approach at the stage of directing the inquiry has to be more liberal : (Abuzar Hossain case[Abuzar Hossain v. State of W.B., (2012) 10 SCC 489 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 83] , SCC pp. 513-14, para 48)

36. It is thus apparent that the scheme provided for in Section 94 of Act, 2015 contemplates preferential provisions on the basis of which the age of an accused who is in conflict with law is to be determined by the Court or the Board as the case may be. It may further be noted that the enquiry undertaken in pursuit of aforesaid exercise is different from declaring the accused as a juvenile. Observations contained in paragraph 15 of the judgement in Sanjeev Kumar Gupta (Supra) leave no room of doubt or ambiguity, in this regard.

37. When the case in hand is examined in the light of the provisions contained in Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007 and the case law noted above, the inescapable conclusion is that by virtue of section 9 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, the Court before whom the matter is pending and the claim of juvenility is raised by an accused then such Court is competent to make an enquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary excluding an affidavit and thereafter record a finding on the matter stating the age of person as nearly as may be. As such, the order impugned in present criminal revision cannot be faulted on the ground that Court below had no jurisdiction in the matter.

38. This leads to the second issue involved in this case i.e. whether in the facts and circumstances of the case the enquiry undertaken to determine the date of birth of revisionist is judicious or is arbitrary i.e. in ignorance of the law and material on record. It is established from record that claim of juvenility raised by revisionist was based upon the Certificate-cum-marksheet of High School Examination undertaken by revisionist in the year 2014. The date of birth of revisionist recorded therein is 17.12.2000. Since the occurrence took place on 4.11.2017, the age of revisionist on the date of occurrence as per aforesaid document was 17 years 8 months and 16 days.

39. However, aforesaid claim raised by revisionist was opposed by first informant-opposite party-2. Reliance was placed upon another certificate-cum mark-sheet of High School Examination undertaken by revisionist in the year 2016 with Roll No. 2312942, wherein the name of father of revisionist was mentioned as Manoj Ram and that of the mother as Rita Devi. As per aforesaid document, the date of birth of revisionist was 1.1.1999 and therefore, revisionist was aged about 18 years 10 months and 3 days on the date of occurrence.

40. Since there were two conflicting certificates cum mark-sheets of High School Examination undertaken by petitioner in the year 2014 and 2016 respectively, court below rightly passed the order dated 22.9.2020, whereby a direction was issued to the U.P. Board of Secondary Education Lucknow to submit a report regarding above. Direction was also issued to the Police of Police Station Dokati to submit a report regarding date of birth of revisionist.

41. However, in compliance of aforesaid order, no report was submitted by U.P. Secondary Education Board Lucknow. Police of Police Station Dokati, submitted two reports on 15.10.2020 and 28.12.2020 respectively, wherein it was reiterated that the date of birth of revisionist is 17.12.2000.

42. In view of above, the enquiry undertaken by Court below to determine the age of revisionist cannot be faulted with. Court below was well within its jurisdiction to itself enquire about the age of revisionist, itself.

43. This leads to the last issue involved in present case i.e. whether inspite of the High School Certificate of revisionist available on record, Court below could have proceeded to undertake an enquiry to adjudicate upon the age of revisionist and secondly whether the conclusion drawn by Court below is illegal, perverse or erroneous.

44. A similar issue came up for consideration before the Supreme Court in Sanjeev Kumar Gupta (Supra) wherein inspite of the High School Certificate of accused being available yet Court proceeded to determine the age of accused as per the provisions of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000. Court referred to the earlier judgement of Supreme Court on the issue. Strong reliance was placed upon the two judges Bench judgement in Parag Bhati (Supra) and on basis thereof Court proceeded to evaluate the claim of juvenility raised by accused therein. It is thus apparent that irrespective of the fact that High School Certificate of an accused being available on record, yet in a given set of facts and circumstances particularly, when a doubt is raised regarding the date of birth recorded therein, Court shall be well within its jurisdiction to undertake an enquiry for deciding the age of an accused. In the light of above, the submission urged by learned counsel for revisionist that since the Certificate-cum-mark-sheet of High School Examination undertaken by revisionist was available on record, which was not found to be forged or fictitious then Court below had no jurisdiction to undertake an enquiry for adjudicating the date of birth of revisionist, is wholly misconceived.

45. From the record it is apparent that what is in dispute is the date of birth recorded in the certificate cum mark-sheet of the High School Examination undertaken by revisionist in the year 2014 and 2016, respectively and not the fact as to whether revisionist has passed the High School Examination or not. Therefore, by virtue of aforesaid judgement, court below was well within its jurisdiction to hold an enquiry for adjudicating the age of revisionist to find out whether revisionist was a juvenile on the date of occurrence or not.

46. As already noted above, oral evidence adduced by revisionist in support of his claim was disbelieved by Court below. This Court has itself examined the deposition of the two witnesses namely, A.P.W.1 Arjun Yadav and A.P.W.2 Ritu Devi and does not find any error in the conclusion drawn by court below for disbelieving aforesaid witnesses.

47. With regard to the documentary evidence adduced on behalf of revisionist in proof of his juvenility, the Court finds that no connecting evidence was laid by revisionist in support of his claim. Since the Certificate-cum-mark-sheet of High School Examination undertaken by revisionist in the year 2014 was disputed, burden fell upon revisionist himself to lead cogent and reliable connecting evidence in support of his claim. No attempt was made by revisionist to establish that consistently his date of birth has been recorded as 17.12.2000. On what basis, aforesaid date was mentioned in the High School Certificate has also not been disclosed nor any evidence has been led in this regard. Resultantly, no illegality has been committed by Court below in rejecting the claim of juvenility raised by revisionist.

48. There is another aspect of the matter which also needs to be noticed. In the present case, parties knew each others case and led evidence. No attempt was made by revisionist to adduce such evidence, which would establish his date of birth as 17.12.2000. The mark-sheet/High School certificate of revisionist relied upon by the prosecution wherein the date of birth of revisionist is mentioned as 09.01.1999, could not be disputed in the light of evidence, if any, adduced by revisionist. There is one more aspect of the matter. The principal of the Institution was not discarded as there was no such evidence adduced by revisionist. No evidence was led by revisionist to corroborate the entry regarding his date of birth as 17.12.2000 occurring in the High School certificate. At this stage, the observations made by the Apex Court in paragraph-28 of the judgement in Babloo Pasi vs. State of Jharkhand and Another, 2008 (13) SCC 133 become relevant. Accordingly, same is extracted herein under:-

"28. It is trite that to render a document admissible under Section 35, three conditions have to be satisfied, namely: (i) entry that is relied on must be one in a public or other official book, register or record; (ii) it must be an entry stating a fact in issue or a relevant fact, and (iii) it must be made by a public servant in discharge of his official duties, or in performance of his duty especially enjoined by law. An entry relating to date of birth made in the school register is relevant and admissible under Section 35 of the Act but the entry regarding the age of a person in a school register is of not much evidentiary value to prove the age of the person in the absence of the material on which the age was recorded."

49. Way back in the year 1988, the Apex Court dealt with the issue as to how an entry occurring in school record is to be proved. Following was observed in paragraph-14 of the judgement in Birad Mal Singhvi vs. Anand Purohit, AIR 1988 SC 1796.

"14. We would now consider the evidence produced by the respondent on the question of age of Hukmi Chand and Suraj Prakash Joshi. The respondent examined Anantram Sharma PW 3 and Kailash Chandra Taparia PW5. Anantram sharma PW 3 has been the Principal of New Government Higher Secondary School, Jodhpur since 1984. On the basis of the scholar's register he stated before the High Court that Hukmi Chand joined school on 24.6. 1972 in 9th class and his date of birth as mentioned in scholar's register was 13.6.1956. He made this statement on the basis of the entries contained in the scholar's register Ex. 8. He admitted that entries in the scholar's register are made on the basis of the entries contained in the admission form. He could not produce the admission form in original or its copy. He stated that Hukmi Chand was admitted in 9th class on the basis of transfer certificate issued by the Government Middle School, Palasni from where he had passed 8th standard. He proved the signature of Satya Narain Mathur the then Principal who had issued the copy of the scholar's register Ex. 8. Satya Narain Mathur was admittedly alive but he was not examined to show as to on what basis he had mentioned the date of birth of Hukmi Chand in Ex. 8. The evidence of Anantram Sharma merely proved that Ex. 8 was a copy of entries in scholar's register. His testimony does not show as to on what basis the entry relating to date of birth of Hukmi Chand was made in the scholar's register. Kailash Chandra Taparia PW 5 was Deputy Director (Examination) Board of Secondary Education, Rajasthan, he produced the counter foil of Secondary Education Certificate of Hukmi Chand Bhandari. a copy of which has been filed as Ex. 9. He also proved the tabulation record of the Secondary School Examination 1974, a copy of which has been filed as Ex. 10. In both these documents Hukmi Chand's date of birth was recorded as 13.6.1956. Kailash Chandra Taparia further proved Ex. 11 which is the copy of the tabulation record of Secondary School Examination of 1977 relating to SuraJ Prakash Joshi. In that document the date of birth of Suraj Prakash Joshi was recorded 11.3.1959 Kailash Chandra Taparia stated that date of birth as mentioned in the counter foil of the certificates and in the tabulation form Ex. 12 was recorded on the basis of the date of birth mentioned by the candidate in the examination form. But the examination form or its copy was not produced before Court. In substance the statement of the aforesaid two witnesses merely prove that in the scholar's register as well as in the Secondary School examination records the date of birth of a certain Hukmi Chand was mentioned as 13.6.1956 and in the tabulation record of Secondary School Examination a certain suraj Prakash Joshi's date of birth was mentioned as 11.3.1959. No evidence was produced by the respondent to prove that the aforesaid documents related to Hukmi Chand and Suraj Prakash Joshi who had filed nomination nation papers. Neither the admission form nor the examination form on the basis of which the aforesaid entries relating to the date of birth of Hukmi Chand and Suraj Prakash Joshi were recorded was produced before the High Court. "No doubt, Exs. 8, 9. 10. 11 and 12 are relevant and admissible but these documents have no evidentiary value for purpose of proof of date of birth of Hukmi Chand and Suraj Prakash Joshi as the vital piece of evidence is missing, because no evidence was placed before the Court to show on whose information the date of birth of Hukmi Chand and the date of birth of Suraj Prakash Joshi were recorded in the aforesaid document. As already stated neither of the parents of the two candidates nor any other person having special knowledge about their date of birth was examined by the respondent to prove the date of birth as mentioned in the aforesaid documents. Parents or near relations having special knowledge are the best person to depose about the date of birth of a person. If entry regarding date of birth in the scholars register is made on the information given by parents or some one having special knowledge of the fact, the same would have probative value. The testimony of Anantram Sharma and Kailash Chandra Taparia merely prove the documents but the contents of those documents were not proved. The date of birth mentioned in the scholar's register has no evidentiary value unless the person who made the entry or who gave the date of birth is examined. The entry contained in the admission form or in the scholar register must be shown to be made on the basis of information given by the parents or a person having special knowledge about the date of birth of the person concerned. If the entry in the scholar's register regarding date of birth is made in the basis of information given by parents, the entry would have evidentiary value but if it is given by a stranger or by someone else who had no special means of knowledge of the date of birth, such an entry will have no evidentiary value." Merely because the documents Exs. 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 were proved, it does not mean that the contents of documents were also proved. Mere proof of the documents Exs. 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 would not tantamount to proof of all the contents or the correctness of date of birth stated in the documents. Since the truth of the fact, namely, the date of birth of Hukmi Chand and Suraj Prakash Joshi was in issue, mere proof of the documents as produced by the aforesaid two witnesses does not furnish evidence of the truth of the facts or contents of the documents. The truth or otherwise of the facts in issue, namely, the date of birth of the two candidates as mentioned in the documents could be proved by admissible evidence i.e. by the evidence of those persons who could vouch safe for the truth of the facts in issue. No evidence of any such kind was produced by the respondent to prove the truth of the facts. namely, the date of birth of Hukmi Chand and of Suraj Prakash Joshi. In the circumstances the dates of birth as mentioned in the aforesaid documents have no probative value and the dates of birth as mentioned therein could not be accepted."

50. This Court cannot loose site of the views expressed in Manoj @ Monu @

Vishal Chaudhary vs. State of Haryana and Another, 2022 SCC Online SC 185, wherein the Court delineated its views with regard to section 35 of the Evidence Act in paragraph-32 and 38 of the report, which reads as under:-

"32. Section 35 of the Evidence Act, 1872 is attracted both in civil and criminal proceedings. It contemplates that a register maintained in the ordinary course of business by a public servant in discharge of his official duty or by any other person in performance of a duty specially enjoined by the law of the country in which such register is kept would be a relevant fact. This Court in a judgement reported as Ravinder Singh Gorkhi v. State of U.P. held as under:-

'23. Section 35 of the Evidence Act would be attracted both in civil and criminal proceedings. The Evidence Act does not make any distinction between a civil proceeding and a criminal proceeding. Unless specifically provided for, in terms of Section 35 of the Evidence Act, the register maintained in the ordinary course of business by a public servant in the discharge of his official duty, or by any other person in performance of a duty specially enjoined by the law of the country in which, inter alia, such register is kept 18 (2006) 5 SCC 584 would be a relevant fact. Section 35, thus, requires the following conditions to be fulfilled before a document is held to be admissible thereunder: (i) it should be in the nature of the entry in any public or official register; (ii) it must state a fact in issue or relevant fact; (iii) entry must be made either by a public servant in the discharge of his official duty, or by any person in performance of a duty specially enjoined by the law of the country; and (iv) all persons concerned indisputably must have an access thereto.'

38. The appellant sought to rely upon juvenility only on the basis of school leaving record in his application filed under Section 7A of the 2000 Act. Such school record is not reliable and seems to be procured only to support the plea of juvenility. The appellant has not referred to date of birth certificate in his application as it was obtained subsequently. Needless to say, the plea of juvenility has to be raised in a bonafide and truthful manner. If the reliance is on a document to seek juvenility which is not reliable or dubious in nature, the appellant cannot be treated to be juvenile keeping in view that the Act is a beneficial legislation. As also held in Babloo Pasi, the provisions of the statute are to be interpreted liberally but the benefit cannot be granted to the appellant who has approached the Court with untruthful statement."

51. This Court is not unmindful of the fact that while adjudicating the claim of juvenility a liberal approach should be adopted and the benefit of doubt if any should be granted in favour of accused. At this stage, reference may also be made to the judgement of Apex Court in Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs. State of U.P. and Ors., 2021 SCC Online SC 1079 , wherein Court considered the entire gamut of case law on the point and ultimately delineated its views in paragraph 29, which reads as under:

"29. What emerges on a cumulative consideration of the aforesaid catena of judgments is as follows:

(i) A claim of juvenility may be raised at any stage of a criminal proceeding, even after a final disposal of the case. A delay in raising the claim of juvenility cannot be a ground for rejection of such claim. It can also be raised for the first time before this Court.

(ii) An application claiming juvenility could be made either before the Court or the JJ Board.

(iia) When the issue of juvenility arises before a Court, it would be Under Sub- section (2) and (3) of Section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015 but when a person is brought before a Committee or JJ Board, Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 applies.

(iib) If an application is filed before the Court claiming juvenility, the provision of Sub-section (2) of Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would have to be applied or read along with Sub-section (2) of Section 9 so as to seek evidence for the purpose of recording a finding stating the age of the person as nearly as may be.

(iic) When an application claiming juvenility is made Under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 before the JJ Board when the matter regarding the alleged commission of offence is pending before a Court, then the procedure contemplated Under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would apply. Under the said provision if the JJ Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Board shall undertake the process of age determination by seeking evidence and the age recorded by the JJ Board to be the age of the person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of the JJ Act, 2015, be deemed to be true age of that person. Hence the degree of proof required in such a proceeding before the JJ Board, when an application is filed seeking a claim of juvenility when the trial is before the concerned criminal court, is higher than when an inquiry is made by a court before which the case regarding the commission of the offence is pending (vide Section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015).

(iii) That when a claim for juvenility is raised, the burden is on the person raising the claim to satisfy the Court to discharge the initial burden. However, the documents mentioned in Rule 12(3)(a)(i), (ii), and (iii) of the JJ Rules 2007 made under the JJ Act, 2000 or Sub-section (2) of Section 94 of JJ Act, 2015, shall be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the Court. On the basis of the aforesaid documents a presumption of juvenility may be raised.

(iv) The said presumption is however not conclusive proof of the age of juvenility and the same may be rebutted by contra evidence let in by the opposite side.

(v) That the procedure of an inquiry by a Court is not the same thing as declaring the age of the person as a juvenile sought before the JJ Board when the case is pending for trial before the concerned criminal court. In case of an inquiry, the Court records a prima facie conclusion but when there is a determination of age as per Sub-section (2) of Section 94 of 2015 Act, a declaration is made on the basis of evidence. Also the age recorded by the JJ Board shall be deemed to be the true age of the person brought before it. Thus, the standard of proof in an inquiry is different from that required in a proceeding where the determination and declaration of the age of a person has to be made on the basis of evidence scrutinised and accepted only if worthy of such acceptance.

(vi) That it is neither feasible nor desirable to lay down an abstract formula to determine the age of a person. It has to be on the basis of the material on record and on appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties in each case.

(vii) This Court has observed that a hyper-technical approach should not be adopted when evidence is adduced on behalf of the Accused in support of the plea that he was a juvenile.

(viii) If two views are possible on the same evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the Accused to be a juvenile in borderline cases. This is in order to ensure that the benefit of the JJ Act, 2015 is made applicable to the juvenile in conflict with law. At the same time, the Court should ensure that the JJ Act, 2015 is not misused by persons to escape punishment after having committed serious offences.

(ix) That when the determination of age is on the basis of evidence such as school records, it is necessary that the same would have to be considered as per Section 35 of the Indian Evidence Act, inasmuch as any public or official document maintained in the discharge of official duty would have greater credibility than private documents.

(x) Any document which is in consonance with public documents, such as matriculation certificate, could be accepted by the Court or the JJ Board provided such public document is credible and authentic as per the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act viz., Section 35 and other provisions.

(xi) Ossification Test cannot be the sole criterion for age determination and a mechanical view regarding the age of a person cannot be adopted solely on the basis of medical opinion by radiological examination. Such evidence is not conclusive evidence but only a very useful guiding factor to be considered in the absence of documents mentioned in Section 94(2) of the JJ Act, 2015."

52. When the case in hand is examined in the light of aforesaid principles laid down regarding the parameters, in accordance with which the claim regarding juvenility has to be adjudicated the object and nature of the claim of juvenility raised by an accused, this Court does not find any good ground to interfere in this criminal revision. Revisionist has failed to discharge the initial burden as observed in Abuzar Hossain (Supra), and noted in sub-paragraph 39.2 of paragraph 28 in Rishipal Singh Solanki (Supra). The claim of revisionist does not appear to be bona fide either.

53. In view of above, revision fails and is liable to be dismissed.

54. It is accordingly dismissed.

55. Cost made easy.

Criminal Law - Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 319 - Power to proceed against other persons appearing to be guilty of offence - doctrine "judex damnatur cum nocens absolvitur" (Judge is condemned when guilty is acquitted)- A person not named in the FIR or a person though named in the FIR but has not been charge-sheeted or a person who has been discharged can be summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. provided during trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused - Section 319 of the Cr.P.C. is meant to rope in even those persons who were not implicated when the charge sheet was filed but during the trial the Court finds that sufficient evidence has come on record to summon them and face the trial (Para 12, 15)

Criminal Law - Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 319 - Evidence - apart from evidence recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilised only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. - 'evidence' is thus, limited to the evidence recorded during trial." - though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court not necessarily tested on the anvil of Cross-Examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity - Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner (Para 10)

Revisionists named in the FIR & were also assigned role in the incident but absolved by the Investigating Officer - In the St.ment of the first informant/O.P. No.2 u/s 161 Cr.P.C. names of the revisionists appeared - first informant/O.P. No.2 in her St.ment recorded before the Court named the revisionists who were St.d to be present with fire arms on the date of the incident and incessantly fired upon the car of the first informant and injured both the first informant and her driver - St.ment of the first informant/injured/O.P. No.2 naming the revisionists establishes the complicity of the revisionists and unrebutted evidence can lead to the conviction of the revisionists - ingredients of exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. made out (Para 17)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashutosh Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Manish Tiwary, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Syed Imran Ibrahim, learned counsel for the revisionists, the learned A.G.A. and perused the record.

2. The present criminal revision has been filed assailing the order dated 21.5.2022 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Varanasi in S.T. No. 1164 of 2021 (State vs. Srinivas and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 985 of 2018, under Sections 307, 504, 506 and 120-B I.P.C., P.S. Lanka, District Varanasi whereby the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. moved by the O.P. No.2 has been allowed and the revisionists have been summoned to face trial of Case Crime No. 985 of 2018, under Sections 307, 504, 506 and 120-B I.P.C., P.S. Lanka, District Varanasi.

3. It has been vehemently contended by Sri Manish Tiwary, learned Senior Counsel that the order impugned is patently illegal and has been passed against the settled principles of law and as such is not sustainable. The learned Court below has erred in law in omitting to consider the settled position of law to the effect that to summon an accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C. the evidence which has already been tested once during the course of investigation should not be the same and there needs to be something more to enable the Court to exercise the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The revisionists are lawyers by profession and practicing in the District Court Varanasi and have been implicated only in their professional capacity. A dispute exists between the O.P. No.2/first informant and one Kripa Shankar Rai and the revisionists have been impleaded as accused only pre-emptively. It is also contended that the exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. by the Court below is contrary to the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of S. Mohammad Ispahani vs. Yogendra Chandak and others reported in 2017 (16) SCC 226. Reliance is further placed on the decisions of the Apex Court reported in 2019 (7) SCC 806; 2019 (4) SCC 342 and 2017 (7) SCC 706. It is accordingly prayed that the revision be allowed and the order dated 21.5.2022 be set aside.

4. Learned counsel for the O.P. No.2 has opposed the revision by submitting that the order dated 21.5.2022 is just and proper and warrants no interference by this Court. Reliance is placed on the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Nahar Singh vs. The State of U.P. and another reported in 2022 Live Law (SC) 291.

5. In order to appreciate the rival contentions it would be apt to briefly state the facts of the case leading up to filing of the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. by the opposite party and the exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. by the learned Court below. The genesis of the case between the parties arises out of an F.I.R. dated 20.9.2018 lodged by the O.P. No.2 at 4:42 hours in respect of an incident stated to have taken place on 19.9.2018 at 23:00 hours wherein it has been alleged that while she was coming back to her house from work 8 persons apprehended her in her car being driven by her driver. The eight persons incessantly fired at her vehicle in which both she and her driver sustained injuries. The O.P. No.2 has stated to have identified four persons (including the revisionist herein) out of the eight persons. The Investigating Officer on 20.9.2018 (i.e. the date of lodging the F.I.R.) recorded the statement of the first informant/Opposite Party No.2 in which the names of the revisionists were mentioned. On 24.9.2018 the statements of son, husband and elder brother-in-law were got recorded and none of the witnesses mentioned the names of the revisionists. The factum of the existence of long standing enmity with one Srinivas Singh (co-accused) was stated by the witnesses. On 21.10.2018 the statement of the injured driver of the O.P. No.2 was also got recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. in which he also stated the names of the revisionists. On 21.12.2018 the Investigating Officer, on the basis of CCTV footage and mobile location etc., concluded that the complicity of the revisionists in the alleged incident was not true and removed their names after confronting the O.P. No.2 of the alibi of the revisionists. On 14.1.2019 the second statement of the O.P. No.2 was also got recorded wherein she reiterated her earlier statement. The Investigating Officer on 04.11.2019 submitted charge sheet against three persons, the names of the revisionists did not find place in the charge sheet dated 04.11.2019. On 5.5.2022 the examination in chief commenced and the O.P. No.2 in her depositions as PW-1, merely repeated her version as stated in the FIR, on 10.5.2022 the O.P. No.2 moved an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. before the Court below with a prayer to summon the revisionists and co-accused Kripa Shankar Rai. The said application has been allowed by the impugned order dated 21.5.2022 and the revisionists have been summoned to face trial.

6. I have heard the learned counsels for the parties and have perused the record.

7. The principles for exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. by Criminal Courts are well settled. The Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in Hardeep Singh vs. State of Punjab and others reported in 2014 (3) SCC 92 has elaborately considered all contours of Section 319 Cr.P.C. The Apex court held that power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is a discretionary and extra-ordinary power which has to be exercised sparingly. The Court further held that the test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the judgement their Lordships held as under:-

"105. Power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is a discretionary and an extra-rdinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be 6 Page 65exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court not necessarily tested on the anvil of Cross-Examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. In Section 319 Cr.P.C. the purpose of providing if ''it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence' is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused." The words used are not ''for which such person could be convicted'. There, is therefore, no scope for the Court acting under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

8. A two judge Bench of the Apex Court again reiterated the same ratio in Rajesh and others vs. State of Haryana [2019 (6) SCC 368]; Ramesh Chandra Srivastava vs. The State of U.P. and another [Cri. Appeal No. 990 of 2021, arising out of SLP (Crl.) No. 6381 of 2020 decided on 13.9.2021.

9. The question as to in what situations the power under the section can be exercised in respect of persons not named in the FIR or named in the FIR but not charge-sheeted or discharged (as in the case at hand) was also considered and it was held that a person whose name does not appear in the FIR or in the charge sheet or whose name appears in the FIR and not in the charge-sheet can still be summoned by the Court provided the conditions under the section stand fulfilled. The Apex Court in the case Hardeep Singh (Supra) observed as under:-

"111. Even the Constitution Bench in Dharam Pal (CB) has held that the Sessions Court can also exercise its original jurisdiction and summon a person as an accused in case his name appears in Column 2 of the chargesheet, once the case had been committed to it. It means that a person whose name does not appear even in the FIR or in the chargesheet or whose name appears in the FIR and not in the main part of the chargesheet but in Column 2 and has not been summoned as an accused in exercise of the powers under Section 193 Cr.P.C. can still be summoned by the court, provided the court is satisfied that the conditions provided in the said statutory provisions stand fulfilled.

117.6. A person not named in the FIR or a person though named in the FIR but has not been charge-sheeted or a person who has been discharged can be summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. provided from the evidence it appears that such person can be tried along with the accused already facing trial. However, in so far as an accused who has been discharged is concerned the requirement of Sections 300 and 398Cr.P.C. has to be complied with before he can be summoned afresh."

10. The word "evidence' as used under Section 319(1) of Cr.P.C. was also considered in Hardeep Singh (Supra) and the Court observed as under:-

"84. The word "evidence" therefore has to be understood in its wider sense both at the stage of trial and, as discussed earlier, even at the stage of inquiry, as used under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The court, therefore, should be understood to have the power to proceed against any person after summoning him on the basis of any such material as brought forth before it. The duty and obligation of the court becomes more onerous to invoke such powers cautiously on such material after evidence has been led during trial.

85. In view of the discussion made and the conclusion drawn hereinabove, the answer to the aforesaid question posed is that apart from evidence recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilised only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The "evidence' is thus, limited to the evidence recorded during trial."

11. The principles with regard to exercise of power by the Court to summon an accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C. were reiterated in S. Mohammed Ispahani (supra) and it was held that the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to summon even those persons who are not named in the charge-sheet to appear and face trial is unquestionable. The Court observed as under:-

"28. Insofar as power of the Court under Section 319 of the Cr.P.C. to summon even those persons who are not named in the charge sheet to appear and face trial is concerned, the same is unquestionable. Section 319 of the Cr.P.C. is meant to rope in even those persons who were not implicated when the charge sheet was filed but during the trial the Court finds that sufficient evidence has come on record to summon them and face the trial. In Hardeep Singh's case, the Constitution Bench of this Court has settled the law in this behalf with authoritative pronouncement, thereby removing the cobweb which had been created while interpreting this provision earlier. As far as object behind Section 319 of the Cr.P.C. is concerned, the Court had highlighted the same as under:

"19. The court is sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency. The desire to avoid trial is so strong that an accused makes efforts at times to get himself absolved even at the stage of investigation or inquiry even though he may be connected with the commission of the offence."

12. The power to proceed against persons named in FIR with specific allegations against them, but not charge-sheeted was reiterated in Rajesh and others vs. State of Haryana reported in 2019 (6) SCC 368 and it was held that persons named in the FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet can be summoned to face trial, provided during trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused.

13. In Saeeda Khatoon Arshi vs. State of U.P. and another reported in 2020 (2) SCC 323 it was held that it is the duty of the Court to give full effect to the words used by the legislature so as to encompass any situation which the Court may have to tackle while proceeding to try an offence and not allow a person who deserves to be tried to go scot-free by being not arraigned in the trial in spite of the possibility of his complicity which can be gathered from the documents presented by the prosecution.

14. The presumption of innocence is the general law of the land as every man is presumed to be innocent unless proven to be guilty. Alternatively, certain statutory presumptions in relation to certain class of offences have been raised against the accused whereby the presumption of guilt prevails till the accused discharges his burden upon an onus being cast upon him under the law to prove himself to be innocent. The entire effort is not to allow the real perpetrator of an offence to get away unpunished. The provision of Section 319 Cr.P.C. has been incorporated in the Code of Criminal Procedure in furtherance of the said objective.

15. Section 319 Cr.P.C. springs out of the doctrine "judex damnatur cum nocens absolvitur" (Judge is condemned when guilty is acquitted) and this doctrine must be used as a Beacon Light while understanding the ambit and spirit underlying the enactment of Section 319 Cr.P.C. It is the duty of the Court to do justice by punishing the real culprit, where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the Court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial. Section 319 Cr.P.C. allows the Court to proceed against any person who is not an accused in a case before it. Thus, the person against whom summons are issued in exercise of such powers has to be necessarily not be an accused already facing trial. He can either be a person named in the column 2 of the charge-sheet filed under Section 173 Cr.P.C. or a person whose name has been disclosed in any material before the Court that is to be considered for the purpose of trying the offence, but not investigated. He has to be a person whose complicity may be indicated and connected with the commission of the offence.

16. The Court is the sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the rule of law and therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the Courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused at times, get away by manipulating the investigation and/or the prosecuting agency. The desire to avoid trial is so strong that an accused makes efforts at times to get himself absolved even at the stage of investigation or enquiry even though he may be connected with the commission of the offence.

17. Now applying the ratio of the various decisions discussed above to the case at hand, the Court finds that the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Varanasi while exercising the powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to summon the revisionists who though were named in the FIR but absolved by the Investigating Officer has taken note of the fact that the revisionists were named in the FIR dated 20.9.2018 and were also assigned a role in the incident. In the statement of the first informant/O.P. No.2 recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. on 20.9.2018 and 14.1.2019 the names of the revisionists has appeared. In the statement of driver of the first informant/O.P. No.2, who was also injured in the incident, the name of the revisionists has surfaced. The first informant/O.P. No.2 in her statement recorded before the Court in the capacity of PW-1 has named the revisionists who were stated to be present with fire arms on the date of the incident and incessantly fired upon the car of the first informant and injured both the first informant and her driver. The Court below has opined that the statement of the first informant/injured/O.P. No.2 naming the revisionists establishes the complicity of the revisionists and unrebutted evidence can lead to the conviction of the revisionists. Thus, the ingredients of exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. in the case at hand are made out. Accordingly, the Court below upon considering the settled legal position regarding the exercise of powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. has formed the view on the basis of the statement of the PW-1/Informant/injured Opposite Party No.2 that the revisionists be tried together with the other accused and for the said purpose has summoned the revisionists.

18. The Apex Court in the case of Rampal Singh and others Vs. State of U.P. and another reported in 2009(4) SCC 423 while dealing with similar circumstances observed as under:-

"17. The ingredients of Section 319 are unambiguous and indicate that where in the course of inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence, for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence he has committed.

18. All that is required by the Court for invoking its powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C.is to be satisfied that from the evidence adduced before it, a person against whom no charge had been framed, but whose complicity appears to be clear, should be tried together with the accused. It is also clear that the discretion is left to the Court to take a decision on the matter.

19. In the instant case, although, the appellants were named in the F.I.R., they were not named as accused in the charge-sheet during the trial. However, P.W.1 in his evidence, has named the appellants as persons who were involved in the incident causing the death of Brijesh Kumar Singh and injuries to Manvender Singh. Despite the above, the trial Court, on two separate occasions, rejected the prayer made by the Respondent No.2 for summoning the appellants herein under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The High Court, after considering the evidence of P.W.1, Kamlesh Singh, thought it necessary for the appellants to be summoned."

19. In view of the above, I do not find any error in the order dated 21.5.2022 of the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Varanasi, allowing the application of the O.P. No.2 under Section 319 Cr.P.C.and summoning the revisionists to face the trial along with other accused.

20. The criminal revision has no merit and is, accordingly, dismissed leaving it open for the revisionists to avail remedy available to them under the law.

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
G.A., Sri Hari Bans Singh

Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 167(2) (a)(ii) - Statutory Bail - if charge-sheet against the accused is not filed within stipulated period of time and before filing the charge-sheet if accused applied for statutory bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. then, he has to be released on bail irrespective of the fact that whether his bail application pending at the time of subsequent filing of the chargesheet - The right to be released on default bail continues to remain enforceable if the accused has applied for such bail, notwithstanding subsequent filing of the chargesheet or filing of the chargesheet during the interregnum when challenge to the rejection of the bail application is pending before a higher Court - for availing the benefit u/s 167(2) CrP.C., it is necessary to apply bail before submission of charge-sheet - if accused fails to apply bail before submission of charge-sheet then he cannot be benefited under Section 167(2) CrP.C. (Para 12, 14)

Revisionist arrested on 16.04.2022 for offence u/s 308, 323, 504, 452 IPC - none of the offence punishable for more than seven years - sixty days from the date of arrest expired on 15.06.2022 (after excluding first date of remand i.e. 16.04.2022) - an application u/s 167(2) Cr.P.C. moved by the revisionist on 17.06.2022 - charge-sheet filed on same day i.e. on 17.06.2022 but at 4.00 PM - as before deciding the bail application charge-sheet was submitted therefore bail application of the revisionist u/s 167(2) Cr.P.C. was dismissed by trial court – Held - although, charge-sheet was submitted on same day i.e on 17.06.2022 but at about 4.00 P.M. i.e. after the bail application moved by the revisionist under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. - indisputably, charge-sheet did not file before filing the bail application of the revisionist u/s 167(2) Cr.P.C. within stipulated period of sixty days, which was expiring on 15.06.2022 and before submission of charge-sheet revisionist applied for default bail u/s 167(2) Cr.P.C., therefore revisionist has to be released on statutory bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C.

5. M. Ravindran Vs Intelligence Officer, Director of Revenue Intelligence (2021) 2 SCC 485

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sameer Jain, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ramesh Kumar Saxena, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Hari Bans Singh, learned counsel for the informant, Sri Arvind Kumar, learned AGA for the State and perused the record of the case.

2. The instant revision has been moved by the revisionist against the order dated 17.06.2022 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.5, Allahabad in Case Crime No. 167 of 2022, under Sections 308, 323, 504, 506, 452 IPC, Police Station Jhunsi, District Prayagraj by which, Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate dismissed the bail application moved by the revisionist under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C.

3. Filtering out unnecessary details, the basic facts, which are relevant for the purpose of present revision is that FIR of the present case was lodged on 16.04.2022 against the revisionist and one another under Sections 308, 323, 504, 452 IPC at Police Station Jhunsi, District Prayagraj. Pursuant to the FIR dated 16.04.2022 revisionist was arrested on 16.04.2022 and since then he is in custody in the present matter. As, the matter relates to Sections 308, 323, 504, 452 IPC and none of the offence is punishable for more than seven years and as charge-sheet did not submit in the court within sixty days from the date of arrest of revisionist, therefore, an application under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. was moved by the revisionist on 17.06.2022 praying that as sixty days have already been lapsed since his arrest and till date no charge-sheet has been submitted, therefore, revisionist is entitled to be released on statutory bail provided under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. but court below on same day i.e. 17.06.2022 dismissed his bail application moved under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. Revisionist challenged the order dated 17.06.2022 passed by the court below in the instant revision.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that admittedly in the present matter, revisionist is in custody in the present case since 16.04.2022 and none of the offence are having punishment of more than seven years, therefore, as per section 167(2) Cr.P.C. within sixty days from the date of arrest of revisionist, investigation must have been completed and charge-sheet must have been filed within sixty days i.e. latest by 15.06.2022 but as, till 17.06.2022, charge-sheet in the present matter did not file, therefore, on 17.06.2022 an indefeasible right to release the revisionist on bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. accrued, therefore, revisionist on 17.06.2022 filed bail application before the court concerned under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. but his bail application was wrongly dismissed by the court below, therefore, order dated 17.06.2022 is illegal and liable to be set aside and revisionist should be released on statutory bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that the law is settled that if within stipulated period of time, charge-sheet has not been submitted and before submission of charge-sheet, if accused applied for bail then, he has to be released on bail by virtue of Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. Learned counsel for the revisionist placed reliance on the judgment of the constitution Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Sanjay Dutt Vs. State through C.B.I., Bombay (II) (1994) 5 SCC 410 and three judge Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Bikramjit Singh Vs. State of Punjab (2020) 10 SCC 616. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submitted that the court below after placing the reliance in the case of Pragyna Singh Thakur Vs. State of Maharashtra (2011) 10 SCC 445 dismissed the bail application of revisionist moved under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C., therefore, committed an illegality of law as Pragyna Singh Thakur case (supra) has been held per incurium by three judge Bench of the Apex Court in case of Bikramjit Singh (supra). Learned counsel for the revisionist next submitted that as revisionist has applied for bail even before filing of the charge-sheet, therefore, his bail application under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. cannot be dismissed on the ground that before filing of the charge-sheet his bail application could not be decided, therefore, order dated 17.06.2022 is illegal and is liable to be set aside and revisionist is entitled to be released on statutory bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the informant and learned AGA opposed the prayer and submitted that there is no illegality in the order dated 17.06.2022 passed by the court below and as before deciding the bail application of the revisionist, charge-sheet was submitted in the court concerned, therefore, bail application of the revisionist moved under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. was rightly dismissed by the court below.

7. Learned counsel for the informant placed reliance on the judgment of Pragyna Singh Thakur case (supra). He further placed reliance on the judgment of Uday Mohanlal Acharya Vs. State of Maharashtra AIR 2001 SC 1910. Learned counsel for the informant vehemently argued that as on the same day when bail application was moved, charge-sheet has been submitted and till the submission of charge-sheet, bail application of the revisionist moved under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. was pending, therefore, after submission of the charge-sheet revisionist could not be released on statutory bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. and there is no illegality in the order dated 17.06.2022 passed by the court below. He further submitted that the order dated 17.06.2022 is based on Pragyna Singh Thakur case (supra) of the Apex Court and law laid down in that case was binding upon the Magistrate, therefore, if Magistrate after relying upon the judgment of Pragyna Singh Thakur case (supra) dismissed the bail application of the revisionist moved under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. then, Magistrate did not commit any illegality and order dated 17.06.2022 cannot be held to be illegal.

8. I have given anxious consideration on the rival submission and perused the record of the case.

9. Admitted facts of the case is that against revisionist, FIR was lodged on 16.04.2022 under Sections 308, 323, 504, 452 IPC at Police Station Jhunsi, District Prayagraj at Case Crime No. 167 of 2022 and revisionist is in jail since 16.04.2022 pursuant to the FIR dated 16.04.2022 and none of the offence is punishable with more than seven years. Therefore, as per Section 167(2) Cr.P.C., the charge-sheet of the present case should have been filed within sixty days from the date of arrest of revisionist and the sixty days was expiring on 15.06.2022 (after excluding first date of remand i.e. 16.04.2022) [See M. Ravindran Vs. Intelligence Officer, Director of Revenue Intelligence (2021) 2 SCC 485]. Therefore, after 15.06.2022, the indefeasible right in favour of the accused accrued under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. to release him on default bail and revisionist moved statutory bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. on 17.06.2022 and till then no charge-sheet was submitted. Although, charge-sheet was submitted on same day i.e on 17.06.2022 but at about 4.00 PM i.e. after the bail application moved by the revisionist under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C.

10. To decide the present dispute, it is necessary to visit Section 167 Cr.P.C., which runs as follows:-

"167. Procedure when investigation cannot be completed in twenty four hours.

(1) Whenever any person is arrested and detained in custody, and it appears that the investigation cannot be completed within the period of twenty- four hours fixed by section 57, and there are grounds for believing that the accusation or information is well- founded, the officer in charge of the police station or the police officer making the investigation, if he is not below the rank of sub- inspector, shall forthwith transmit to the nearest Judicial Magistrate a copy of the entries in the diary hereinafter prescribed relating to the case, and shall at the same time forward the accused to such Magistrate.

(2) The Magistrate to whom an accused person is forwarded under this section may, whether he has or has not jurisdiction to try the case, from time to time, authorise the detention of the accused in such custody as such Magistrate thinks fit, for a term not exceeding fifteen days in the whole; and if he has no jurisdiction to try the case or commit it for trial, and considers further detention unnecessary, he may order the accused to be forwarded to a Magistrate having such jurisdiction: Provided that-

(a) the Magistrate may authorise the detention of the accused person, otherwise than in the custody of the police, beyond the period of fifteen days; if he is satisfied that adequate grounds exist for doing so, but no Magistrate shall authorise the detention of the accused person in custody under this paragraph for a total period exceeding,-

(i) ninety days, where the investigation relates to an offence punishable with death, imprisonment for life or imprisonment for a term of not less than ten years;

(ii) sixty days, where the investigation relates to any other offence, and, on the expiry of the said period of ninety days, or sixty days, as the case may be, the accused person shall be released on bail if he is prepared to and does furnish bail, and every person released on bail under this sub- section shall be deemed to be so released under the provisions of Chapter XXXIII for the purposes of that Chapter;]

(b) no Magistrate shall authorise detention of the accused in custody of the police under this section unless the accused is produced before him in person for the first time and subsequently every time till the accused remains in the custody of the police, but the Magistrate may extend further detention in judicial custody on production of the accused either in person or through the medium of electronic video linkage;]

(c) no Magistrate of the second class, not specially empowered in this behalf by the High Court, shall authorise detention in the custody of the police.

Explanation I.- For the avoidance of doubts, it is hereby declared that, notwithstanding the expiry of the period specified in paragraph (a), the accused shall be detained in custody so long as he does not furnish bail;].

Explanation II.- If any question arises whether an accused person was produced before the Magistrate as required under clause (b), the production of the accused person may be proved by his signature on the order authorising detention or by the order certified by the Magistrate as to production of the accused person through the medium of electronic video linkage, as the case may be.]

[Provided further that in case of a women under eighteen years of age, the detention shall be authorised to be in the custody of a remand home or recognise social institution].

(2A) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub- section (1) or sub-section (2), the officer in charge of the police station or the police officer making the investigation, if he is not below the rank of a sub- inspector, may, where a Judicial Magistrate is not available, transmit to the nearest Executive Magistrate, on whom the powers of a Judicial Magistrate or Metropolitan Magistrate have been conferred, a copy of the entry in the diary hereinafter prescribed relating to the case, and shall, at the same time, forward the accused to such Executive Magistrate, and thereupon such Executive Magistrate, may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, authorise the detention of the accused person in such custody as he may think fit for a term not exceeding seven days in the aggregate; and, on the expiry of the period of detention so authorised, the accused person shall be released on bail except where an order for further detention of the accused person has been made by a Magistrate competent to make such order; and, where an order for such further detention is made, the period during which the accused person was detained in custody under the orders made by an Executive Magistrate under this sub- section, shall be taken into account in computing the period specified in paragraph (a) of the proviso to sub-section (2);

Provided that before the expiry of the period aforesaid, the Executive Magistrate shall transmit to the nearest Judicial Magistrate the record of the case together with a copy of the entries in the diary relating to the case which was transmitted to him by the office in charge of the police station or the police officer making the investigation, as the case may be.

(3) A Magistrate authorising under this section detention in the custody of the police shall record his reasons for so doing.

(4) Any Magistrate other than the Chief Judicial Magistrate making such order shall forward a copy of his order, with his reasons for making it, to the Chief Judicial Magistrate.

(5) If in any case triable by a Magistrate as a summons-case, the investigation is not concluded within a period of six months for the date on which the accused was arrested, the Magistrate shall make an order stopping further investigation into the offence unless the officer making the investigation satisfies the Magistrate that for special reasons and in the interests of justice the continuation of the investigation beyond the period of six months is necessary.

(6) Where any order stopping further investigation into an offence has been made under sub-section (5), the Sessions Judge may, if he is satisfied, on an application made to him or otherwise, that further investigation into the offence ought to be made, vacate the order made under sub-section (5) and direct further investigation to be made into the offence subject to such directions with regard to bail and other matters as he may specify."

11. The constitution Bench of the Apex Court in Sanjay Dutt case (supra) observed in paragraph no. 53(2)(b) as:-

"(2)(b) The 'indefeasible right' of the accused to be released on bail in accordance with Section 20(4)(bb) of the TADA Act read with Section 167(2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure in default of completion of the investigation and filing of the challan within the time allowed, as held in Hitendra Vishnu Thakur is a right which ensures to, and is enforceable by the accused only from the time of default till the filing of the challan and it does not survive or remain enforceable on the challan being filed. If the accused applies for bail under this provision on expiry of the period of 180 days or the extended period, as the case may be, then he has to be released on bail forthwith. The accused, so released on bail may be arrested and committed to custody according to-the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The right of the accused to be released on bail after filing of the challan, notwithstanding the default in filing it within the time allowed, is governed from the time of filing of the challan only by the provisions relating to the grant of bail applicable at that stage."

12. Thus, from the perusal of the Constitution Bench judgement of Sanjay Dutt case (supra) if charge-sheet within stipulated period of time is not submitted then indefeasible right of accused to release him on bail under Section 167(2) CrP.C. accrues but this will remain effective only till submission of charge-sheet and if accused failed to apply bail before submission of charge-sheet then he cannot be benefited under Section 167(2) CrP.C. and for availing the benefit under Section 167(2) CrP.C., it is necessary for the accused to apply bail before submission of charge-sheet.

13. Recently, three judge Bench of the Apex Court in case of M. Ravindran Vs. Intelligence Officer, Director of Revenue Intelligence (2021) 2 SCC 485 after discussing the matter in detail observed in paragraph no. 25 as:-

"25.1 Once the accused files an application for bail under the Proviso to Section 167(2) he is deemed to have "availed of' or enforced his right to be released on default bail, accruing after expiry of the stipulated time limit for investigation. Thus, if the accused applies for bail under Section 167(2), CrPC read with Section 36A (4), NDPS Act upon expiry of 180 days or the extended period, as the case may be, the Court must release him on bail forthwith without any unnecessary delay after getting necessary information from the public prosecutor, as mentioned supra. Such prompt action will restrict the prosecution from frustrating the legislative mandate to release the accused on bail in case of default by the investigating agency.

25.2 The right to be released on default bail continues to remain enforceable if the accused has applied for such bail, notwithstanding pendency of the bail application; or subsequent filing of the chargesheet or a report seeking extension of time by the prosecution before the Court; or filing of the chargesheet during the interregnum when challenge to the rejection of the bail application is pending before a higher Court.

25.4 Notwithstanding the order of default bail passed by the Court, by virtue of Explanation I to Section 167(2), the actual release of the accused from custody is contingent on the directions passed by the competent Court granting bail. If the accused fails to furnish bail and/or comply with the terms and conditions of the bail order within the time stipulated by the Court, his continued detention in custody is valid."

14. Therefore, the issue is not res-integra and it has been settled by firstly Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in Sanjay Dutt case (supra) and thereafter three judges Bench of Apex Court in the case of M. Ravindran (supra). The three judges Bench in case of M. Ravindran (supra) followed the decision of Constitution Bench and held that if charge-sheet against the accused is not filed within stipulated period of time and before filing the charge-sheet if accused applied for statutory bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. then, he has to be released on bail irrespective of the fact that whether his bail application pending at the time of subsequent filing of the charge-sheet.

15. In case at hand, the court below relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Pragyna Singh Thakur case (supra) and held that as before taking decision on the bail application moved by the revisionist under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C., charge-sheet has been filed, therefore, he cannot be released on default bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C., but while observing this, court below failed to consider the fact that the case of Pragyna Singh Thakur (supra) has been held per incurium by three judge Bench of the Apex Court in case of Bikramjit Singh (supra) on which reliance was placed by the learned counsel for the revisionist. In Bikramjit Singh case (supra) three judge Bench of the Apex Court after discussing the matter in detail observed as:-

"On a careful reading of the aforesaid two paragraphs, we think, the two-Judge Bench in Pragyna Singh Thakur case (2011) 10 SCC 445 has somewhat in a similar matter stated the same. As long as the majority view occupies the field it is a binding precedent. That apart, it has been followed by a three- Judge Bench in Sayed Mohd. Ahmad Kazmi case (2012) 12 SCC 1. Keeping in view the principle stated in Sayed Mohd. Ahmad Kazmi case(2012) 12 SCC 1 which is based on three-Judge Bench decision in Uday Mohanlal Acharya case (2001) 5 SCC 453, we are obliged to conclude and hold that the principle laid down in paras 54 and 58 of Pragyna Singh Thakur case (2011) 10 SCC 445 (which has been emphasised by us: see paras 42 and 43 above) does not state the correct principle of law. It can clearly be stated that in view of the subsequent decision of a larger Bench that cannot be treated to be good law. Our view finds support from the decision in Union of India v. Arviva Industries India Ltd (2014) 3 SCC 159."

16. Therefore, law laid down in the case of Pragyna Singh Thakur (supra), has already been declared per incurium by three judges Bench in the case of Bikramjit Singh (supra), therefore, no reliance can be placed on Pragyna Singh Thakur case (supra) while deciding the default bail application of the revisionist moved under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C., therefore, court below committed error of law while placing reliance on Pragyna Singh Thakur case (supra).

17. Record of the present case clearly suggest that charge-sheet in the present matter was filed on 17.06.2022 i.e. on same day when mandatory bail application was moved by the revisionist under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. and impugned order shows that charge-sheet was filed at 4.00 PM. Thus, indisputably, charge-sheet did not file before filing the bail application of the revisionist under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C.

18. As, in the present case within stipulated period of sixty days, which was expiring on 15.06.2022, charge-sheet did not file and before submission of charge-sheet revisionist applied for default bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C., therefore in view of the law laid down by the Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in case of Sanjay Dutt (supra), three judges Bench in the case of Bikramjit Singh (supra) and three judge Bench in case of M. Ravindran (supra) revisionist has to be released on statutory bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C.

19. Therefore, from the above discussion, in my view, order dated 17.06.2022 is illegal and is liable to be set aside and revisionist is entitled to be released on default bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C.

20. Accordingly, the present revision is allowed. The order dated 17.06.2022 is hereby set-aside and revisionist is directed to be released on statutory bail under Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. in the aforesaid case.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. This appeal under Section 378(3) of Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (in short 'Cr.P.C.'), has been instituted at the behest of State of U.P. seeking to challenge the judgment dated 30.11.2021 passed by Addl. Sessions Judge, Court No. 10, District Budaun in S.T. No. 31 of 2018 (State Vs. Chandraveer Singh S/o Pachhu Jatav), arising out of Case Crime No. 163 of 2010 purported to be under Sections 302/34, 201, 506 IPC, Police Station Wazeerganj, District Budaun.

2. Brief facts of the case shorn off unnecessary details as portrayed by the prosecution is to the effect that two days prior to lodging of the FIR 17.2.2010, father of the informant had gone to the agricultural field for watering the same and after returning to the house, he received a phone call from the accused, who happens to be husband of the informant and son in law of the deceased, to come to a particular place. When the said fact was apprised to the informant as well as the family member, then resistance was sought to be made by the informant and the family member that the deceased should the accused. However the deceased proceeded while honouring the phone call so made by the accused at 2:00 P.M, however he did not come back till 4:00 P.M, though as per the written report, he had taken the jewellery of the informant for pledging the same. Search was sought to be made by the deceased, however the whereabouts of the deceased were missing. As per the written complaint dated 17.2.2010, so sought to be lodged before the S.H.O, P.S. Wazeerganj, District Budaun, an information was acceeded to the informant and the family member that the dead body was found in a hole near Hathara Road. Accordingly, a request was made to lodge the FIR. On the basis of the written complaint so sought to be made by the informant, a first information report got registered being Case Crime no.163 of 2010 on 17.2.2010 at 17:30 hours against the accused purported to be under Sections 302/201 IPC. Consequent to lodging of the FIR, S.I. Mahesh Prasad was nominated as the Investigating Officer, who according to the prosecution version prepared the site plan, panchnama and sent the body for post mortem and also recorded the statements of the witnesses. On 26.2.2010, investigation was concluded by the I.O, and charge sheet in Case Crime no. 163 of 2010 was submitted against the accused under section 302/34, 201, 506 IPC. It has come on record that allegations referable to commission of crime were also made against the co-accused Iliyas and Karan Singh, charge sheet was also submitted against them under Section 302/34, 201, 506 IPC, however, they were acquitted in Sessions Trial No. 687 of 2010 on 11.3.2014 by the learned Trial Court. Meaning thereby, it is only the accused herein against whom, criminal proceedings so sought to be initiated by accused herein culminated into filing of the present appeal. The case was committed for trial before the Sessions Court on 7.7.2017 and the charges under Sections 302/34, 201, 506 IPC were read over to the accused. The accused denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

3. To bring home the charges, the prosecution produced following witnesses, namely:

1.	Smt. Anita	PW1
2.	Rupendra	PW2
3.	Smt. Premwati	PW3
4.	S.I. Raj Rishi Sharma	PW4
5.	Nand Ram	PW5
6.	Dr. Harish Chandra	PW6

4. In support of the ocular version of the witnesses, following documents were produced and contents were proved by leading evidence:

1.	Written complaint	Ex.ka1
2.	Chik FIR	Ex.ka2
3.	Copy of G.D.	Ex.ka3
4.	Post mortem Report	Ex.ka4

5. We have heard Sri Ratan Singh, learned A.G.A, for the State-appellant.

6. Before driving in the proceedings initiated at the behest of State appellant while filing the present appeal under Section 378(3) CrPC against the judgment of acquittal, this Court has to consider the law on the subject.

7. This Court has to bear in mind the judicial verdict and the mandate so envisaged by the Hon'ble Apex Court wherein the courts of law have been cautioned while exercising jurisdiction under Section 378(3) of the Cr.P.C. when the courts of law have been occasioned to deal with the Government Appeal against the acquittal.

8. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the series of decisions have been consistently mandating that it is well settled principle of law that appellate courts hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and the order of the acquittal should not overrule or otherwise disturb the judgment of acquittal, if the appellate court does not find substantive and compelling reasons for doing so.

9. Nonetheless if the trial courts conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong if the trial court decision was based on erroneous view of law and the judgment is likely result in grave miscarriage of justice and the approach proceeds towards wrong direction or the trial court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence which should have determining the factor in the lis of the matter then obviously the appellate court is right in interfering with the order acquitting the accused. However, Hon'ble Apex Court has further held that in case two views are possible and the view so taken by the trial court while acquitting the accused is a plausible view then in the backdrop of the fact that there is double presumption of innocence available to the accused then obviously the appellate court should not interfere with the order of acquittal.

10. *The above noted proposition of law is clearly spelt out in umpty number of decisions, some of them are as under namely:-Tota Singh and another vs. State of Punjab, (1987) 2 SCC 529, Ramesh Babulal Doshi vs. State of Gujarat, (1996) 9 SCC 225, State of Rajesthan vs. State of Gujarat, (2003) 8 SCC 180, State of Goa vs. Sanjay Thakran, (2007) 3 SCC 755, Chandrappa and others vs. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, Ghurey Lal vs. State of U.P., (2008) 10 SCC 450, Siddharth Vashishtha Alias Manu Sharma vs. State (NCT of Delhi), (2010) 6 SCC 1, Babu vs. State of Kerala, (2010) 9 SCC 189, Ganpat vs. State of Haryana, (2010) 12 SCC 59, Sunil Kumar Sambhudayal Gupta (Dr.) and others vs. State of Maharashtra, (2010) 13 SCC 657, State of U.P. vs. Naresh, (2011) 4 SCC 324, State of M.P. vs. Ramesh, (2011) 4 SCC 786, and Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219.

11. In the background of the proposition of law so mandated by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the above noted decisions, the judgment of the Trial Court is to be scrutinized.

12. To begin with this Court, while determining the fact as to whether any illegality or perversity has been committed by the learned Trial Court while acquitting the accused herein, the stand so taken by the prosecution as claimed to be supported by the depositions of the prosecution witnesses are to be first analyzed.

13. Smt. Anita appeared in the witness box as PW-1, while claiming that she is the informant and the daughter of the deceased and the wife of the accused herein. As per her deposition, she got married with the accused herein 13 years back and was blessed with a female child. According to her, when her daughter was about 5-6 days then the accused while torturing and administrating beating threw her out of his house and despite her father being the deceased requested the accused to keep her daughter and also anticipated that good sense will prevail, the informat was not given entry in her inlaw's place. In her deposition PW-1 Smt Anita came up with the stand that two days prior to the lodging of the FIR on 17.2.2010, the deceased had gone to the agricultural farm for watering the same and at 2:00 in the noon, he came back and apprised that he received a call from the accused, who happens to be his son-in-law calling him at Bisauli and despite given a red signal by the informant and his mother / PW-2, the deceased proceeded while saying that his son in law has called and took jewellery with him. According to deposition of PW-1, the deceased did not return till 4:00 P.M, in the evening and when call was made on the mobile phone of the accused, same was discovered to be switched off and on 17.2.2010 the dead body of the deceased was found. In her statement, PW-1 has come up with further stand that her father had been disposed of by the accused herein along with his maternal cousin and she had got written the FIR with the aid and the assistance of one Sri Dinesh Kumar son of Sukh Lal and she had also put her signature and thumb impression thereon. According to PW-1, even in the cremation ceremony of his father, the accused was not present and thus by all eventualities, she is sure that his father has been disposed of by the accused. It has been further stated in the deposition that 10 days post demise of the father of the informant the accused met him when she was going to get medicine for her daughter and accused came near a temple and stopped the movement of the informant while making a confession that he had committed a wrong that he had strangulated her father.

14. PW-2, Rupendra who happens to be the son of the deceased appeared in the witness box and according to him, on the fateful day, the deceased had on the request so made through mobile phone, gone to meet with the jewellery and after two days, his dead body was found. In his deposition, PW-2 has further deposed that consequent to the lodging of the FIR, constant search was being made of the accused then the deceased along with two persons came in the village and proceeded to his house and at that point of time, he, his mother and one Nand Ram were present and a confession was made by the accused that he had committed wrong and as he had strangulated his father. As per PW-2, the accused also admitted the fact that he had disposed of the deceased, as he repeatedly asked the deceased to give money, as he was not being given the same and the PW-1 Smt. Anita was again married to a third person, which became the cause of commission of crime.

15. Premwati appeared as PW-3, who happens to be the widow of the deceased and according to her statement, when she was in her house along with his son being PW-2, then the accused came and admitted his guilt showing the motive that he had not paid the money, which was received by the deceased as a sale receipt of the property being sought to be sold.

16. S.I. Raj Rishi Sharma appeared as PW-4 being a formal witness and proved the lodging of the FIR.

17. PW-5 was produced as Nand Ram. He in his statement came up with a stand that he has never given his statement under Section 161 CrPC and he is the neighbour of the deceased and he had further deposed that in his presence the accused did not confess the commission of crime.

18. Dr. Harish Chandra appeared as PW-6, who examined the injuries of the deceased and according to him, there were ligature mark on both the side on the neck which could not come in the case of hanging is done by suicide.

19. Admittedly, as per the prosecution case, there was no eye-witness testimony, rather to the contrary, the case if to be taken as per the prosecution theory is of circumstantial evidence. In order to hold the accused herein guilty, based on circumstantial evidence, then two ingredients have to mark their presence, i.e, (a) every link in the chain of circumstances, necessary to establish the guilt of the accused must be established by the prosecution beyond all reasonable doubts; (b) all the circumstances must be consistently pointing only towards the guilt of the accused.

20. Here in the present case, the deceased as per the prosecution version, received a phone call two days prior to 17.2.2010, when he returned after watering the agricultural filed to his house and at that point of time, the prosecution witnesses, PW-1, PW-2 & PW-3 are stated to be in the house and the deceased after receiving the phone call apprised the prosecution witnesses PW's-1, 2 and 3 that he has received a phone call from the accused, who happens to be his son-in-law calling him at Bisauli and despite being resisted not to proceed, the deceased after taking the jewllery proceeded at 2 in the noon and when his whereabouts were not found till 4 in the non, then constant search was made and on 17.2.2010, the body of the deceased was found. As a matter of fact, barring the receipt of the call requiring the deceased to be present in Bisauli at the instance of accused, there is no other evidence. Moreso, this Court finds that the first information report was lodged on 17.2.2010 after two days and there has been no attempt on the part of the family members, who obviously are PW's 1, 2 and 3 regarding lodging of the FIR after missing of the deceased. Even otherwise, no recovery of any offending material was found so as to link the accused for commission of the crime.

21. None the less, only a cloth (in the shape of gamchha) was found on the neck of the deceased accompanied by ligature marks on the neck. Another aspect which needs to be noticed at this juncture is with regard to the fact that when the deceased did not return on Monday, as stated in the FIR being 15.2.2010, then why the FIR was lodged after two days on 17.2.2010. The said issue also assumes significance, when the deceased was being resisted by the informant and the family members not to honour the phone call while proceeding to the accused with whom, there was certain differences in that regard. There has been no explanation worth consideration or plausible as to why there was delay of two days, particularly when the deceased had gone with jewellery and he did not return back. Even in fact, there is no explanation in delay in lodging of the FIR, which is one of the factors, which is to be considered along with other factors in order to determine as to whether the judgment and order acquitting the accused was passed in the right perspective and as per the four-corners of law.

22. The Hon'ble Apex Court on the question of delay in lodging the FIR and its impact upon the prosecution theory has observed in the case of Thulia Kali Vs. The State of Tamil Nadu, (1972) 3 SCC 393, has observed as under:-

"The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the report to the police in respect of commission of an offence is to obtain early information regarding the circumstances in which the crime was committed, the names of the actual culprits and the part played by them as well as names of eye witnesses present at the scene of occurrence. Delay in lodging the first information report quite often results in embellishment which is a creature of afterthought. On account of delay, the report not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger creeps in of the introduction of coloured version, exaggerated account or concocted story As a result of deliberation and consultation. It is, therefore, essential that the delay in the lodging of the first information report should be satisfactorily explained."

23. In the case of Apren Joseph Alias Current Kunjukunju and others Vs. The State of Kerala, (1973) 3 SCC 114 the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:

"11. Now first information report is a report relating to the commission of an offence given to the police and recorded by it under Section 154, Cr. P. C. As observed by the Privy Council in K. E. v. Khwaja, the receipt and recording of information report by the police is not a condition precedent to the setting in motion of a criminal investigation. Nor does the statute provide that such information report can only be made by an eye witness. First information report under Section 154 is not even considered a substantive piece of evidence. It can only be used to corroborate or contradict the informant's evidence in court. But this information when recorded is the basis of the case set up by the informant. It is very useful if recorded before there is time and opportunity to embellish or before the informant's memory fades. Undue unreasonable delay in lodging the F. I. R., therefore, inevitably gives rise to suspicion which puts the court on guard to look for the possible motive and the explanation for the delay and consider its effect on the trustworthiness or otherwise of the prosecution version. In our opinion, no duration of time in the abstract can be fixed as reasonable for giving information of a crime to the police, the question of reasonable time being a matter for determination by the court in each case. Mere delay in lodging the first information report with the police is, therefore, not necessarily, as a matter of law, fatal to the prosecution. The effect of delay in doing so in the light of the plausibility of the explanation forthcoming for such delay accordingly must fall for consideration on all the facts and circumstances of a given case."

"4. It is well settled that the delay in giving the FIR by itself cannot be a ground to doubt the prosecution case. Knowing the Indian conditions as they are we cannot expect these villagers to rush to the police station immediately after the occurrence. Human nature as it is, the kith and kin who have witnessed the occurrence cannot be expected to act mechanically with all the promptitude in giving the report to the police. At times being grief-stricken because of the calamity it may not immediately occur to them that they should give a report. After all it is but natural in these circumstances for them to take some time to go to the police station for giving the report. Of course the Supreme Court as well as the High Courts have pointed out that in cases arising out of acute factions there is a tendency to implicate persons belonging to the opposite faction falsely. In order to avert the danger of convicting such innocent persons the courts are cautioned to scrutinise the evidence of such interested witnesses with greater care and caution and separate grain from the chaff after subjecting the evidence to a closer scrutiny and in doing so the contents of the FIR also will have to be scrutinised carefully. However, unless there are indications of fabrication, the court cannot reject the prosecution version as given in the FIR and later substantiated by the evidence merely on the ground of delay. These are all matters for appreciation and much depends on the facts and circumstances of each case."

24. In the case of Meharaj Singh Vs. State of U.P.,* (1994) 5 SCC 188, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

"12. FIR in a criminal case and particularly in a murder case is a vital and valuable piece of evidence for the purpose of appreciating the evidence led at the trial. The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the FIR is to obtain the earliest information regarding the circumstance in which the crime was committed, including the names of the actual culprits and the parts played by them, the weapons, if any, used, as also the names of the eyewitnesses, if any. Delay in lodging the FIR often results in embellishment, which is a creature of an afterthought. On account of delay, the FIR not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger also creeps in of the introduction of a coloured version or exaggerated story. With a view to determine whether the FIR was lodged at the time it is alleged to have been recorded, the courts generally look for certain external checks. One of the checks is the receipt of the copy of the FIR, called a special report in a murder case, by the local Magistrate. If this report is received by the Magistrate late it can give rise to an inference that the FIR was not lodged at the time it is alleged to have been recorded, unless, of course the prosecution can offer a satisfactory explanation for the delay in despatching or receipt of the copy of the FIR by the local Magistrate. Prosecution has led no evidence at all in this behalf. The second external check equally important is the sending of the copy of the FIR along with the dead body and its reference in the inquest report. Even though the inquest report, prepared under Section 174 CrPC, is aimed at serving a statutory function, to lend credence to the prosecution case, the details of the FIR and the gist of statements recorded during inquest proceedings get reflected in the report. The absence of those details is indicative of the fact that the prosecution story was still in an embryo state and had not been given any shape and that the FIR came to be recorded later on after due deliberations and consultations and was then ante-timed to give it the colour of a promptly lodged FIR. In our opinion, on account of the infirmities as noticed above, the FIR has lost its value and authenticity and it appears to us that the same has been 'ante-timed and had not been recorded till the inquest proceedings were over at the spot by PW 8."

25. In the case of Thanedar Singh Vs. State of M.P.,* (2002) 1 SCC 487, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

"6. The High Court was of the view that the judgment of the Trial Court was perverse and its approach was unreasonable. The first comment made by the High Court was that the Trial Court did not assign any reason for disbelieving the FIR. The High Court found no infirmity in the FIR having regard to the fact that the part played by the accused appellant was specifically mentioned in the FIR. But, the High Court missed to note the crucial facts adverted to in Para 5.2 (supra) which cast a serious doubt on the correctness of the FIR, especially the time and date of its recording. The learned Sessions Judge particularly adverted to the fact that the prosecution did not produce the original record of police station relating to the receipt and despatch of FIR inspite of an order passed to that effect. Though the Trial Judge was not careful enough in recording a specific finding that the prosecution failed to clear the doubt regarding the date and time of recording the FIR, in sum and substance, that is what the learned Trial Judge purported to say. The observations of the Trial court were not properly understood by the High Court when it proceeded on the basis at paragraph 12 that the Trial court found fault with the delay in lodging the complaint at 9 A.M. on the next morning. But, it is to be noted that nowhere in the judgment, the trial court observed that the complaint having been lodged and recorded at 9A.M. next morning, that itself would tantamount to delay."

23. Yet, in the case of P. Rajagopal and others Vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2019) 5 SCC 403, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph 12 has held as under:-

"12. Normally, the Court may reject the case of the prosecution in case of inordinate delay in lodging the first information report because of the possibility of concoction of evidence by the prosecution. However, if the delay is satisfactorily explained, the Court will decide the matter on merits without giving much importance to such delay. The Court is duty-bound to determine whether the explanation afforded is plausible enough given the facts and circumstances of the case. The delay may be condoned if the complainant appears to be reliable and without any motive for implicating the accused falsely."

24. It is well settled that the prosecution has to prove beyond doubt that every link in the chain of the circumstances establishes the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt and all circumstances are constantly pointing out towards the guilt of the accused. However, in the present case in hand, this Court finds that barring the extra-judicial confession, there is nothing either pleaded or proved in order to link the accused while committing crime. As per prosecution witnesses, motive for commission of the crime by the accused was attributed to the fact that the accused was not given the money, which was with regard to the sale proceeds of the property in question. Barring making such allegations there is nothing on record as to what was the total amount of the sale receipts and which was the property, which was disposed of, as the entire prosecution theory, sans details broadly also. In so far as, the allegations with regard to a criminal case of murder, so stated to be pending against the accused herein, PW-1 has though deposed, but neither any detail nor any document was produced before the learned Trial Court in that regard. Even otherwise, the element of motive, also stands unproved by the prosecution, which also assumes significance.

25. In Criminal Appeals No. 333-334 of 2017, *Shailendra Rajdeo Paswan vs. State of Gujarat dated 13.12.2019, in paragraph-13 has observed as under: -

"13. This court in the case of Sharad Birdichand Sharda v/s State of Maharashtra, reported in 1984(4) SCC has enunciated the aforesaid principle as under:-

"The normal principle in a case based on circumstantial evidence is that the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn must be cogently and firmly established; that those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the Accused; that the circumstances taken cumulatively should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the Accused and they should be incapable of explanation on any hypothesis other than that of the guilt of the Accused and inconsistent with his innocence"."

26. Now another facet, which needs to be discussed is the stand taken by the prosecution based upon extra-judicial confession. According to the prosecution, the accused had admitted his guilt and made an extra-judicial confession that he had committed the said crime, while strangulating the deceased, which ultimately resulted into death. According to PW-1 after 10 days of the death of the deceased, the accused met PW-1 being the informant and his wife when the informant was going with her child for getting medicines and near the temple, the accused confessed his guilt. PW-1 has further deposed that on the road, there was other persons also there, but when she asked them to catch hold the deceased, then they did not do so. PW-2 Rupendra, who happens to be the brother of the informant and the son of the deceased has come up with a stand that when the police was making constant search of the accused, then the accused came to his house and at that point of time, he along with his mother (PW-3) and Nand Ram (PW-5) were present, wherein the accused made extra-judicial confession regarding commission of the crime.

27. PW-3 being the widow of the deceased, Premwati in her statement has deposed that the accused made an extra-judicial confession regarding commission of the crime, while coming with a stand that at that point of time, PW-2 Rupendra, her son, PW-5 Nand Ram, her son, Naresh and Suresh were present. So far as Nand Ram PW-5 is concerned, he turned hostile and made a statement that no extra-judicial confession was made by the accused in his present. So far as Naresh and Suresh are concerned, they were not brought in the witness box and no statement whatsoever was made or taken, which itself shows that the entire story so sought to be build up by the prosecution is erected on weak foundation. PW-2 and PW-3 are the interested witnesses, as they are the son and the widow of the deceased.

28. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Mohd. Azad @ Samin vs. State of West Bengal, 2008 (15) SCC 449, in paragraphs 21 and 22 observed as under:-

"21. A similar view was also taken in Jaswant Gir v. State of Punjab, 2005 (12) SCC 438 and Kusuma Ankama Rao's case, 2008 (13) SCC 257.

22. "18. Confessions may be divided into two classes i.e. judicial and extra- judicial. Judicial confessions are those which are made before a Magistrate or a court in the course of judicial proceedings. Extra-judicial confessions are those which are made by the party elsewhere than before a Magistrate or court. Extra-judicial confessions are generally those that are made by a party to or before a private individual which includes even a judicial officer in his private capacity. It also includes a Magistrate who is not especially empowered to record confessions under Section 164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short the `Code') or a Magistrate so empowered but receiving the confession at a stage when Section 164 of the Code does not apply. As to extra-judicial confessions, two questions arise: (i) were they made voluntarily? and (ii) are they true? As the section enacts, a confession made by an accused person is irrelevant in criminal proceedings, if the making of the confession appears to the court to have been caused by any inducement, threat or promise, (1) having reference to the charge against the accused person, (2) proceeding from a person in authority, and (3) sufficient, in the opinion of the court to give the accused person grounds which would appear to him reasonable for supposing that by making it he would gain any advantage or avoid any evil of a temporal nature in reference to the proceedings against him. It follows that a confession would be voluntary if it is made by the accused in a fit state of mind, and if it is not caused by any inducement, threat or promise which has reference to the charge against him, proceeding from a person in authority. It would not be involuntary, if the inducement, (a) does not have reference to the charge against the accused person; or (b) it does not proceed from a person in authority; or (c) it is not sufficient, in the opinion of the court to give the accused person grounds which would appear to him reasonable for supposing that, by making it, he would gain any advantage or avoid any evil of a temporal nature in reference to the proceedings against him. Whether or not the confession was voluntary would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case, judged in the light of Section 24 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (in short 'Evidence Act'). The law is clear that a confession cannot be used against an accused person unless the court is satisfied that it was voluntary and at that stage the question whether it is true or false does not arise. If the facts and circumstances surrounding the making of a confession appear to cast a doubt on the veracity or voluntariness of the confession, the court may refuse to act upon the confession, even if it is admissible in evidence. One important question, in regard to which the court has to be satisfied with is, whether when the accused made the confession, he was a free man or his movements were controlled by the police either by themselves or through some other agency employed by them for the purpose of securing such a confession. The question whether a confession is voluntary or not is always a question of fact. All the factors and all the circumstances of the case, including the important factors of the time given for reflection, scope of the accused getting a feeling of threat, inducement or promise, must be considered before deciding whether the court is satisfied that in its opinion the impression caused by the inducement, threat or promise, if any, has been fully removed. A free and voluntary confession is deserving of the highest credit, because it is presumed to flow from the highest sense of guilt. (See R. v. Warickshall) It is not to be conceived that a man would be induced to make a free and voluntary confession of guilt, so contrary to the feelings and principles of human nature, if the facts confessed were not true. Deliberate and voluntary confessions of guilt, if clearly proved, are among the most effectual proofs in law. An involuntary confession is one which is not the result of the free will of the maker of it. So where the statement is made as a result of harassment and continuous interrogation for several hours after the person is treated as an offender and accused, such statement must be regarded as involuntary. The inducement may take the form of a promise or of a threat, and often the inducement involves both promise and threat, a promise of forgiveness if disclosure is made and threat of prosecution if it is not. (See Woodroffe's Evidence, 9th Edn., p. 284.) A promise is always attached to the confession alternative while a threat is always attached to the silence alternative; thus, in one case the prisoner is measuring the net advantage of the promise, minus the general undesirability of a false confession, as against the present unsatisfactory situation; while in the other case he is measuring the net advantages of the present satisfactory situation, minus the general undesirability of the confession against the threatened harm. It must be borne in mind that every inducement, threat or promise does not vitiate a confession. Since the object of the rule is to exclude only those confessions which are testimonially untrustworthy, the inducement, threat or promise must be such as is calculated to lead to an untrue confession. On the aforesaid analysis the court is to determine the absence or presence of an inducement, promise etc. or its sufficiency and how or in what measure it worked on the mind of the accused. If the inducement, promise or threat is sufficient in the opinion of the court, to give the accused person grounds which would appear to him reasonable for supposing that by making it he would gain any advantage or avoid any evil, it is enough to exclude the confession. The words "appear to him" in the last part of the section refer to the mentality of the accused.

19. An extra-judicial confession, if voluntary and true and made in a fit state of mind, can be relied upon by the court. The confession will have to be proved like any other fact. The value of the evidence as to confession, like any other evidence, depends upon the veracity of the witness to whom it has been made. The value of the evidence as to the confession depends on the reliability of the witness who gives the evidence. It is not open to any court to start with a presumption that extra-judicial confession is a weak type of evidence. It would depend on the nature of the circumstances, the time when the confession was made and the credibility of the witnesses who speak to such a confession. Such a confession can be relied upon and conviction can be founded thereon if the evidence about the confession comes from the mouth of witnesses who appear to be unbiased, not even remotely inimical to the accused, and in respect of whom nothing is brought out which may tend to indicate that he may have a motive of attributing an untruthful statement to the accused, the words spoken to by the witness are clear, unambiguous and unmistakably convey that the accused is the perpetrator of the crime and nothing is omitted by the witness which may militate against it. After subjecting the evidence of the witness to a rigorous test on the touchstone of credibility, the extra-judicial confession can be accepted and can be the basis of a conviction if it passes the test of credibility."

29. In the case of Sansar Chand vs. State of Rajasthan 2010 (10) SCC 604, Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph 29 observed as under:-

"29. There is no absolute rule that an extra judicial confession can never be the basis of a conviction, although ordinarily an extra judicial confession should be corroborated by some other material vide Thimma vs. The State of Mysore - AIR 1971 SC 1871, Mulk Raj vs. The State of U.P. - AIR 1959 SC 902, Sivakumar vs. State by Inspector of Police - AIR 206 SC 563 (para 41 & 42), Shiva Karam Payaswami Tewar vs. State of Maharashtra - AIR 2009 SC 1692, Mohd. Azad vs. State of West Bengal - AIR 2009 SC 1307."

30. Further, in the case of Sahadevan and another vs. State of Tamilnadu 2012 (6) SCC 403, Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraphs 14 to 16 observed as under:-

"14. It is a settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that extra-judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence. Wherever the Court, upon due appreciation of the entire prosecution evidence, intends to base a conviction on an extra- judicial confession, it must ensure that the same inspires confidence and is corroborated by other prosecution evidence. If, however, the extra- judicial confession suffers from material discrepancies or inherent improbabilities and does not appear to be cogent as per the prosecution version, it may be difficult for the court to base a conviction on such a confession. In such circumstances, the court would be fully justified in ruling such evidence out of consideration.

15. Now, we may examine some judgments of this Court dealing with this aspect.

15.1. In Balwinder Singh v. State of Punjab [1995 Supp. (4) SCC 259], this Court stated the principle that an extra-judicial confession, by its very nature is rather a weak type of evidence and requires appreciation with a great deal of care and caution. Where an extrajudicial confession is surrounded by suspicious circumstances, its credibility becomes doubtful and it loses its importance.

15.2. In Pakkirisamy v. State of T.N. [(1997) 8 SCC 158], the Court held that:

"8. .... It is well settled that it is a rule of caution where the court would generally look for an independent reliable corroboration before placing any reliance upon such extra-judicial confession."

15.3. Again in Kavita v. State of T.N. [(1998) 6 SCC 108], the Court stated the dictum that:

"4. There is no doubt that conviction can be based on extrajudicial confession, but it is well settled that in the very nature of things, it is a weak piece of evidence. It is to be proved just like any other fact and the value thereof depends upon veracity of the witnesses to whom it is made."

15.4. While explaining the dimensions of the principles governing the admissibility and evidentiary value of an extra-judicial confession, this Court in the case of State of Rajasthan v. Raja Ram [(2003) 8 SCC 180] stated the principle that:

"19. An extra-judicial confession, if voluntary and true and made in a fit state of mind, can be relied upon by the court. The confession will have to be proved like any other fact. The value of evidence as to confession, like any other evidence, depends upon the veracity of the witness to whom it has been made.

The Court, further expressed the view that:

"19. .... Such a confession can be relied upon and conviction can be founded thereon if the evidence about the confession comes from the mouth of witnesses who appear to be unbiased, not even remotely inimical to the accused and in respect of whom nothing is brought out which may tend to indicate that he may have a motive of attributing an untruthful statement to the accused....."

15.5. In the case of Aloke Nath Dutta v. State of W.B. [(2007) 12 SCC 230], the Court, while holding the placing of reliance on extra-judicial confession by the lower courts in absence of other corroborating material, as unjustified, observed:

"87. Confession ordinarily is admissible in evidence. It is a relevant fact. It can be acted upon. Confession may under certain circumstances and subject to law laid down by the superior judiciary from time to time form the basis for conviction. It is, however, trite that for the said purpose the court has to satisfy itself in regard to: (i) voluntariness of the confession; (ii) truthfulness of the confession; (iii) corroboration.

89. A detailed confession which would otherwise be within the special knowledge of the accused may itself be not sufficient to raise a presumption that confession is a truthful one. Main features of a confession are required to be verified. If it is not done, no conviction can be based only on the sole basis thereof."

15.6. Accepting the admissibility of the extra-judicial confession, the Court in the case of Sansar Chand v. State of Rajasthan [(2010) 10 SCC 604] held that :-

"29. There is no absolute rule that an extra-judicial confession can never be the basis of a conviction, although ordinarily an extra-judicial confession should be corroborated by some other material. [Vide Thimma and Thimma Raju v. State of Mysore, Mulk Raj v. State of U.P., Sivakumar v. State (SCC paras 40 and 41 : AIR paras 41 & 42), Shiva Karam Payaswami Tewari v. State of Mahasrashtra and Mohd. Azad v. State of W.B.]

30. In the present case, the extra-judicial confession by Balwan has been referred to in the judgments of the learned Magistrate and the Special Judge, and it has been corroborated by the other material on record. We are satisfied that the confession was voluntary and was not the result of inducement, threat or promise as contemplated by Section 24 of the Evidence Act, 1872."

15.7. Dealing with the situation of retraction from the extra-judicial confession made by an accused, the Court in the case of Rameshbhai Chandubhai Rathod v. State of Gujarat [(2009) 5 SCC 740], held as under :

"53. It appears therefore, that the appellant has retracted his confession. When an extra-judicial confession is retracted by an accused, there is no inflexible rule that the court must invariably accept the retraction. But at the same time it is unsafe for the court to rely on the retracted confession, unless, the court on a consideration of the entire evidence comes to a definite conclusion that the retracted confession is true."

15.8. Extra-judicial confession must be established to be true and made voluntarily and in a fit state of mind. The words of the witnesses must be clear, unambiguous and should clearly convey that the accused is the perpetrator of the crime. The extra-judicial confession can be accepted and can be the basis of conviction, if it passes the test of credibility. The extra-judicial confession should inspire confidence and the court should find out whether there are other cogent circumstances on record to support it. [Ref. S.K. Yusuf v. State of W.B. [(2011) 11 SCC 754] and Pancho v. State of Haryana [(2011) 10 SCC 165].

16. Upon a proper analysis of the above-referred judgments of this Court, it will be appropriate to state the principles which would make an extra- judicial confession an admissible piece of evidence capable of forming the basis of conviction of an accused. These precepts would guide the judicial mind while dealing with the veracity of cases where the prosecution heavily relies upon an extra-judicial confession alleged to have been made by the accused:

The Principles

i) The extra-judicial confession is a weak evidence by itself. It has to be examined by the court with greater care and caution.

ii) It should be made voluntarily and should be truthful.

iii) It should inspire confidence.

iv) An extra-judicial confession attains greater credibility and evidentiary value, if it is supported by a chain of cogent circumstances and is further corroborated by other prosecution evidence.

v) For an extra-judicial confession to be the basis of conviction, it should not suffer from any material discrepancies and inherent improbabilities.

vi) Such statement essentially has to be proved like any other fact and in accordance with law."

31. Further, in the case of Ram Lal vs. State of Himachal Pradesh 2019 (17) SCC 411, Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraphs 13 to 15 observed as under:-

"13. Extra-judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence and the court must ensure that the same inspires confidence and is corroborated by other prosecution evidence. In order to accept extra-judicial confession, it must be voluntary and must inspire confidence. If the court is satisfied that the extra-judicial confession is voluntary, it can be acted upon to base the conviction. Considering the admissibility and evidentiary value of extra-judicial confession, after referring to various judgments, in Sahadevn and another vs. State of Tamilnadu (2012) 6 SCC 403, this court held as under:-

"15.1. In Balwinder Singh v. State of Punjab 1995 Supp (4) SCC 259 this Court stated the principle that:

"10. An extra-judicial confession by its very nature is rather a weak type of evidence and requires appreciation with a great deal of care and caution.Where an extra-judicial confession is surrounded by suspicious circumstances, its credibility becomes doubtful and it loses its importance."

15.4. While explaining the dimensions of the principles governing the admissibility and evidentiary value of an extra-judicial confession, this Court in State of Rajasthan v. Raja Ram (2003) 8 SCC 180 stated the principle that:

"19. An extra-judicial confession, if voluntary and true and made in a fit state of mind, can be relied upon by the court. The confession will have to be proved like any other fact. The value of the evidence as to confession, like any other evidence, depends upon the veracity of the witness to whom it has been made." The Court further expressed the view that:

"19. ... Such a confession can be relied upon and conviction can be founded thereon if the evidence about the confession comes from the mouth of witnesses who appear to be unbiased, not even remotely inimical to the accused, and in respect of whom nothing is brought out which may tend to indicate that he may have a motive of attributing an untruthful statement to the accused...."

15.6. Accepting the admissibility of the extra-judicial confession, the Court in Sansar Chand v. State of Rajasthan (2010) 10 SCC 604 held that:

"29. There is no absolute rule that an extra-judicial confession can never be the basis of a conviction, although ordinarily an extra-judicial confession should be corroborated by some other material. [Vide Thimma and Thimaa Raju v. State of Mysore (1970) 2 SCC 105, Mulk Raj v. State of U.P. AIR 1959 SC 902, Sivakumar v. State of Inspector of Police (2006) 1 SCC 714 (SCC paras 40 and 41 : AIR paras 41 and 42), Shiva Karam Pavaswami Tewari v. State of Maharashtra (2009) 11 SCC 262 and Mohd. Azad alias Shamin v. State of W.B. (2008) 15 SCC 449]"."

32. Net analysis of the facts of the case while applying the ratio so culled out by the Hon'ble Apex Court as referred to herein above shows that inescapable conclusion stands drawn that the prosecution has miserably failed to link the accused with the commission of crime on the count of delay in lodging of the FIR, absence of motive, weak extra-judicial confession, as well as non-linking of the circumstances so as to even put the case under parameters of circumstantial evidence.

33. This Court further finds that the view taken by the learned Trial Court is a possible view and there is no justification in adopting any other view. The considerations, which weighed the learned Trial Court while acquitting the accused itself are based on the ocular testimony and the evidence so adduced in support thereof and in absence of any perversity was committed by the learned Trial Court, this Court finds its inability to hold the judgment as perverse.

34. Hence, in any view of the matter applying the principles of law so culled out by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the facts of the present case, we have no option but to concur with the view taken by the learned Sessions Judge.

35. We find that it is not a case worth granting leave to appeal. The application for granting leave to appeal is rejected.

36. Since the application for granting leave to appeal has not been granted, consequently, present government appeal also stands dismissed.

37. Records of the present case be sent back to the concerned court below.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. This appeal under Section 378(3) of Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (in short 'Cr.P.C.'), has been instituted at the behest of State of U.P. against the judgment and order dated 20.2.2019, passed by Additional District & Session Judge, Fast Track Court No. 1, Kasganj, in S.T. No. 310 of 2013 (State of U.P. Vs. Bachchan Khan), under Section 304 I.P.C. arising out of Case Crime No. 107 of 2013, Police Station. Amanpur, District Kasganj, acquitting the accused respondent.

2. The factual matrix of the case as worded in the present appeal purported to be under Section 378(3) of the Cr.P.C. are that on 27.2.2013 an FIR was lodged by the informant/complainant being Brij Kishore son of Attar Singh resident Makthara, Police Station. Amanpur, District Kasganj with an allegation that the complainant/informant along with his mother Smt. Kamlesh wife of Atar Singh as well as Chandrabhan son of Kali Charan are the resident of Police Station Sidpura, District Kasganj and on unfateful day i.e. 26.2.2013 at 4 p.m. the deceased being Atar Singh son of Deshraj witnessed stomach ache.

3. Resultantly the informant along with his mother being Smt. Kamlesh and Chandrabhan son of Kali Charan proceeded for getting the deceased treated and approached the accused Dr. Bachchan Khan son of Achchan Khan resident of Rajeev Nagar Amanpur, District Kasganj and got themselves physically present in the dispensary/shop of the accused at 5.p.m. on 26.2.2013.

4. It has been further alleged in the first information report that the accused demanded an amount of Rs.5,000/- for providing medication and treatment which was accordingly offered to the accused and thereafter the accused pierced two injections. It has further been alleged in the first information report that after administrating two injections Atar Singh son of Deshraj succumbed.

5. As per the prosecution case, the accused thereafter pushed the informant/complainant his mother and Chandrabhan out of the dispensary and along with the dead-body of the deceased, they proceeded to their village. Allegation has also been levelled that due to the negligence of the accused coupled with the fact that the accused was a quack and unqualified doctor the deceased died.

6. Consequently, the first information report was lodged as discussed above on 27.2.2013 before the Police Station, Amanpur, District Kasganj being Case Crime No.107 of 2013, under Section 302 IPC. Investigation was thereafter conducted and the criminal case was transformed into Section 304 IPC, resultantly charge sheet was also submitted under Section 304 IPC on 18.7.2013. The case was committed before sessions, the charges were read over to him, the accused pleaded innocent not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. In order to bring home the charges, the prosecution produced the following witnesses, namely:

1.	Brij Kishore	PW1
2.	Smt. Kamlesh	PW2
3.	Chandrabhan	PW3
4.	Satyadev Singh	PW4
5.	S.I. Rajkumar Singh	PW5
6.	Om Prakash Singh	PW6
7.	Khem Karan	PW7
8.	Dr. Pradeep Kumar	PW8
9.	Ratibhan Singh	PW9
10.	Ratibhan Singh	PW10

8. We have heard Ms. Nand Prabha Shukla, learned A.G.A. for the State-appellant and Sri Anil Kumar, learned counsel for the sole respondent.

9. Before we embark on testimony and the judgment of the Court below, the contours for interfering in Criminal Appeals where accused has been held to be non guilty would be required to be discussed.

10. The principles, which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court against an order of acquittal, passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of Tota Singh and another vs. State of Punjab, reported in (1987) 2 SCC 529, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph-6 has observed as under: -

"6. The High Court has not found in its judgment that the reasons given by the learned Sessions Judge for discarding the testimony of PW 2 and PW 6 were either unreasonable or perverse. What the High Court has done is to make an independent reappraisal of the evidence on its own and to set aside the acquittal merely on the ground that as a result of such reappreciation, the High Court was inclined to reach a conclusion different from the one recorded by the learned Sessions Judge. This Court has repeatedly pointed out that the mere fact that the appellate court is inclined on a reappreciation of the evidence to reach a conclusion which is at variance with the one recorded in the order of acquittal passed by the court below will not constitute a valid and sufficient ground for setting aside the acquittal. The jurisdiction of the appellate court in dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal is circumscribed by the limitation that no interference is to be made with the order of acquittal unless the approach made by the lower court to the consideration of the evidence in the case is vitiated by some manifest illegality or the conclusion recorded by the court below is such which could not have been possibly arrived at by any court acting reasonably and judiciously and is, therefore, liable to be characterised as perverse. Where two views are possible on an appraisal of the evidence adduced in the case and the court below has taken a view which is a plausible one, the appellate court cannot legally interfere with an order of acquittal even if it is of the opinion that the view taken by the court below on its consideration of the evidence is erroneous."

11. Further, in the case of Ramesh Babulal Doshi vs. State of Gujarat, reported in (1996) 9 SCC 225, in paragraph 7, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"7. Before proceeding further it will be pertinent to mention that the entire approach of the High Court in dealing with the appeal was patently wrong for it did not at all address itself to the question as to whether the reasons which weighed with the trial court for recording the order of acquittal were proper or not. Instead thereof the High Court made an independent reappraisal of the entire evidence to arrive at the above-quoted conclusions. This Court has repeatedly laid down that the mere fact that a 'view other than the one taken by the trial court can be legitimately arrived at by the appellate court on reappraisal of the evidence cannot constitute a valid and sufficient ground to interfere with an order of acquittal unless it comes to the conclusion that the entire approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal or the conclusions arrived at by it were wholly untenable. While sitting in judgment over an acquittal the appellate court is first required to seek an answer to the question whether the findings of the trial court are palpably wrong, manifestly erroneous or demonstrably unsustainable. If the appellate court answers the above question in the negative the order of acquittal is not to be disturbed. Conversely, if the appellate court holds, for reasons to be recorded, that the order of acquittal cannot at all be sustained in view of any of the above infirmities it can then and then only reappraise the evidence to arrive at its own conclusions. In keeping with the above principles we have therefore to first ascertain whether the findings of the trial court are sustainable or not."

12. In the case of State of Rajesthan vs. State of Gujarat, reported in (2003) 8 SCC 180, in paragraph 7, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"7. There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to reappreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not. (See Bhagwan Singh v. State of M.P.[1]) The principle to be followed by the appellate court considering the appeal against the judgment of acquittal is to interfere only when there are compelling and substantial reasons for doing so. If the impugned judgment is clearly unreasonable, it is a compelling reason for interference. These aspects were highlighted by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra[2], Ramesh Babulal Doshi v. State of Gujarat[3] and Jaswant Singh v. State of Haryana."

13. In the case of State of Goa vs. Sanjay Thakran, reported in (2007) 3 SCC 755, in paragraph 15, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"15. Further, this Court has observed in Ramesh Babulal Doshi v. State of Gujarat: (SCC p. 229, para 7)

"7.... This Court has repeatedly laid down that the mere fact that a view other than the one taken by the trial court can be legitimately arrived at by the appellate court on reappraisal of the evidence cannot constitute a valid and sufficient ground to interfere with an order of acquittal unless it comes to the conclusion that the entire approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal or the conclusions arrived at by it were wholly untenable. While sitting in judgment over an acquittal the appellate court is first required to seek an answer to the question whether the findings of the trial court are palpably wrong, manifestly erroneous or demonstrably unsustainable. If the appellate court answers the above question in the negative the order of acquittal is not to be disturbed. Conversely, if the appellate court holds, for reasons to be recorded, that the order of acquittal cannot at all be sustained in view of any of the above infirmities it can then - and then only - reappraise the evidence to arrive at its own conclusions." and in State of Rajasthan v. Raja Ram8: (SCC pp. 186-87, para 7) -

"7. There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to reappreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not. (See Bhagwan Singh v. State of M.P.) The principle to be followed by the appellate court considering the appeal against the judgment of acquittal is to interfere only when there are compelling and substantial reasons for doing so. If the impugned judgment is clearly unreasonable, it is a compelling reason for interference. These aspects were highlighted by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra 10, Ramesh Babulal Doshi v. State of Gujarat and Jaswant Singh v. State of Haryana11"."

14. Further in the case of Chandrappa and others vs. State of Karnataka, reported in (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

[1] An appellate Court has full power to review, re-appreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

[2] The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate Court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

[3] Various expressions, such as,"substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtain extensive powers of an appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasis the reluctance of an appellate Court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the Court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

[4] An appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

[5] If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

15. In the case of Ghurey Lal vs. State of U.P., reported in (2008) 10 SCC 450, in paragraph 43 and 75, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"43. The earliest case that dealt with the controversy in issue was Sheo Swarup v. King Emperor. In this case, the ambit and scope of the powers of the appellate court in dealing with an appeal against acquittal has been aptly a elucidated by the Privy Council. Lord Russell writing the judgment has observed as under (at AIR p. 230): (IA p. 404)

"... the High Court should and will always give proper weight and consideration to such matters as (1) the views of the trial Judge as to the credibility of the witnesses; (2) the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused, a presumption certainly not weakened by the fact that he b has been acquitted at his trial; (3) the right of the accused to the benefit of any doubt; and (4) the slowness of an appellate court in disturbing a finding of fact arrived at by a Judge who had the advantage of seeing the witnesses."

The law succinctly crystallised in this case has been consistently followed by this Court. On proper analysis of the ratio and findings of this case, it is revealed that the findings of the trial court are based on the fundamental principles of the criminal jurisprudence. Presumption of innocence in favour of the accused further gets reinforced and strengthened by the acquittal of the trial court. The appellate court undoubtedly has wide powers of reappreciating and re-evaluating the entire evidence but it would be justified in interfering with the judgment of acquittal only when the judgment of the d trial court is palpably wrong, totally ill-founded or wholly misconceived, based on erroneous analysis of evidence and non-existent material, demonstrably unsustainable or perverse.

75. On careful analysis of the entire evidence on record, we are of the view that the reasons given by the High Court for reversing the judgment of acquittal is unsustainable and contrary to settled principles of law. The trial court has the advantage of watching the demeanour of the witnesses who have given evidence, therefore, the appellate court should be slow to interfere with the decisions of the trial court. An acquittal by the trial court should not be interfered with unless it is totally perverse or wholly unsustainable."

16. In the case of Siddharth Vashishtha Alias Manu Sharma vs. State (NCT of Delhi), reported in (2010) 6 SCC 1, in paragraph 303(1), the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"303. Summary of our conclusions:

(1) The appellate court has all the necessary powers to re-evaluate the evidence let in before the trial court as well as the conclusions reached. It has a duty to specify the compelling and substantial reasons in case it reverses the order of acquittal passed by the trial court. In the case on hand, the High Court by adhering to all the ingredients and by giving b cogent and adequate reasons reversed the order of acquittal. ..."

17. In the case of Babu vs. State of Kerala, reported in (2010) 9 SCC 189, in paragraph 12 and 19, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"12. This Court time and again has laid down the guidelines for the High Court to interfere with the judgment and order of acquittal passed by the trial court. The appellate court should not ordinarily set aside a judgment of acquittal in a case where two views are possible, though the view of the appellate court may be the more probable one. While dealing with a judgment of acquittal, the appellate court has to consider the entire evidence on record, so as to arrive at a finding as to whether the views of the trial court were perverse or otherwise unsustainable. The appellate court is entitled to consider whether in arriving at a finding of fact, the trial court had failed to take into consideration admissible evidence and/or had taken into consideration the evidence brought on record contrary to law.

Similarly, wrong placing of burden of proof may also be a subject-matter of scrutiny by the appellate court. (Vide Balak Ram v. State of U.P.¹, Shambhoo Missir v. State of Bihar2, Shailendra Pratap v. State of U.P.3, Narendra Singh v. State of M.P.4, Budh Singh v. State of U.P.5, State of U.P. v. Ram Veer Singh6, S. Rama Krishna v. S. Rami Reddy7, Arulvelu v. State8, Perla Somasekhara Reddy v. State of A.P.9 and Ram Singh v. State of H.P.10).

19. Thus, the law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that in exceptional cases where there are compelling circumstances, and the judgment under appeal is found to be perverse, the appellate court can interfere with the order of acquittal. The appellate court should bear in mind the presumption of innocence of the accused and further that the trial court's acquittal bolsters the presumption of his innocence. Interference in a routine manner where the other view is possible should be avoided, unless there are good reasons for interference."

18. In the case of Ganpat vs. State of Haryana, reported in (2010) 12 SCC 59, in paragraph 14 and 15, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"14. The only point for consideration in these appeals is whether there is any ground for interference against the order of acquittal by the High Court. This Court has repeatedly laid down that the first appellate court and the High Court while dealing with an appeal is entitled and obliged as well to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence and arrive at a conclusion one way or the other.

15. The following principles have to be kept in mind by the appellate court while dealing with appeals, particularly, against an order of acquittal: (i) There is no limitation on the part of the appellate court to review the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded and to come to its own conclusion.

(ii) The appellate court can also review the trial court's conclusion with respect to both facts and law.

(iii) While dealing with the appeal preferred by the State, it is the duty of the appellate court to marshal the entire evidence on record and by giving cogent and adequate reasons may set aside the judgment of acquittal.

(iv) An order of acquittal is to be interfered with only when there are "compelling and substantial reasons" for doing so. If the order is "clearly unreasonable", it is a compelling reason for interference.

(v) When the trial court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of ballistic experts, etc. the appellate court is competent to reverse the decision of the trial court depending on the materials placed. (Vide Madan Lal v. State of J&K¹, Ghurey Lal v. State of U.P.2, Chandra Mohan Tiwari v. State of M.P.3 and Jaswant Singh v. State of Haryana4.)"

19. In the case of Sunil Kumar Sambhudayal Gupta (Dr.) and others vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2010) 13 SCC 657, in paragraph 38, 39 and 40, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"38. It is a well-established principle of law, consistently reiterated and followed by this Court that while dealing with a judgment of acquittal, an appellate court must consider the entire evidence on record, so as to arrive at a finding as to whether the views of the trial court were perverse or otherwise unsustainable. Even though the appellate court is entitled to consider, whether in arriving at a finding of fact, the trial court had placed the burden of proof incorrectly or failed to take into consideration any admissible evidence and/or had taken into consideration evidence brought on record contrary to law; the appellate court should not ordinarily set aside a judgment of acquittal in a case where two views are possible, though the view of the appellate court may be the more probable one. The trial court which has the benefit of watching the demeanour of the witnesses is the best judge of the credibility of the witnesses.

39. Every accused is presumed to be innocent unless his guilt is proved. The presumption of innocence is a human right. Subject to the statutory exceptions, the said principle forms the basis of criminal jurisprudence in India. The nature of the offence, its seriousness and gravity has to be taken into consideration. The appellate court should bear in mind the presumption of innocence of the accused, and further, that the trial court's acquittal bolsters the presumption of his innocence. Interference with the decision of the trial court in a casual or cavalier manner where the other view is possible should be avoided, unless there are good reasons for such interference.

40. In exceptional cases where there are compelling circumstances, and the judgment under appeal is found to be perverse, the appellate court can interfere with the order of acquittal. The findings of fact recorded by a court can be held to be perverse if the findings have been arrived at by ignoring or excluding material or by taking into consideration irrelevant/inadmissible material. A finding may also be said to be perverse if it is "against the weight of evidence", or if the finding so outrageously defies logic as to suffer from the vice of irrationality. (See Balak Ram v. State of U.P.9, Shailendra Pratap v. State of U.P.10, Budh Singh v. State of U.P.11, S. Rama Krishna v. S. Rami Reddy¹2, Arulvelu v. State 13, Ram Singh v. State of H.P.14 and Babu v. State of Kerala¹5.))"

20. In the case of State of U.P. vs. Naresh, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 324, in paragraph 33 and 34, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"33. We are fully aware of the fact that we are entertaining the appeal against the order of acquittal. Thus, the Court has to scrutinise the facts of the case cautiously and knowing the parameters fixed by this Court in this regard.

34. Every accused is presumed to be innocent unless his The presumption of innocence is a human right subject to the statutory exceptions. The said principle forms the basis of criminal jurisprudence in India. The law in this regard is well settled that while dealing with a judgment of acquittal, an appellate court must consider the entire evidence on record so as to arrive at a finding as to whether the views of the trial court were perverse or otherwise unsustainable. An appellate court must also consider whether the court below has placed the burden of proof incorrectly or failed to take into consideration any admissible evidence or had taken into consideration evidence brought on record contrary to law? In exceptional cases, whether there are compelling circumstances and the judgment in appeal is found to be perverse, the appellate court can interfere with the order of acquittal. So, in order to warrant interference by the appellate court, a finding of fact recorded by the court below must be outweighed evidence or to suffer from the vice of guilt is proved. such finding if outrageously defies logic as irrationality. [Vide Babu v. State of Keralall and Sunil Kumar Sambhudayal Gupta (Dr.)8.]"

21. In the case of State of M.P. vs. Ramesh, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 786, in paragraph 15, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"15. We are fully alive of the fact that we are dealing with an appeal against acquittal and in the absence of perversity in the said judgment and order, interference by this Court exercising its extraordinary jurisdiction, is not warranted. It is settled proposition of law that the appellate court being the final court of fact is fully competent to reappreciate, reconsider and review the evidence and take its own decision. Law does not prescribe any limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and the appellate court is free to arrive at its own conclusion keeping in mind that acquittal provides for presumption in favour of the accused. The presumption of innocence is available to the person and in criminal jurisprudence every person is presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by the competent court and there can be no quarrel to the said legal proposition that if two reasonable views are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not disturb the findings of acquittal."

22. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the principles for laying down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"13. It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

14. It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to re-appreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not."

23. The Apex Court recently in Jafarudheen & Ors. vs. State of Kerala, JT 2022(4) SC 445 has observed as under:-

"DISCUSSION Scope of Appeal filed against the Acquittal:

25. While dealing with an appeal against acquittal by invoking Section 378 of the Cr.PC, the Appellate Court has to consider whether the Trial Court's view can be termed as a possible one, particularly when evidence on record has been analyzed. The reason is that an order of acquittal adds up to the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused. Thus, the Appellate Court has to be relatively slow in reversing the order of the Trial Court rendering acquittal. Therefore, the presumption in favour of the accused does not get weakened but only strengthened. Such a double presumption that enures in favour of the accused has to be disturbed only by thorough scrutiny on the accepted legal parameters. Precedents:

Mohan @Srinivas @Seena @Tailor Seena v. State of Karnataka, [2021 SCC OnLine SC 1233] as hereunder: -

"20. Section 378 CrPC enables the State to prefer an appeal against an order of acquittal. Section 384 CrPC speaks of the powers that can be exercised by the Appellate Court. When the trial court renders its decision by acquitting the accused, presumption of innocence gathers strength before the Appellate Court. As a consequence, the onus on the prosecution becomes more burdensome as there is a double presumption of innocence. Certainly, the Court of first instance has its own advantages in delivering its verdict, which is to see the witnesses in person while they depose. The Appellate Court is expected to involve itself in a deeper, studied scrutiny of not only the evidence before it, but is duty bound to satisfy itself whether the decision of the trial court is both possible and plausible view. When two views are possible, the one taken by the trial court in a case of acquittal is to be followed on the touchstone of liberty along with the advantage of having seen the witnesses. Article 21 of the Constitution of India also aids the accused after acquittal in a certain way, though not absolute. Suffice it is to state that the Appellate Court shall remind itself of the role required to play, while dealing with a case of an acquittal.

21. Every case has its own journey towards the truth and it is the Court's role undertake. Truth has to be found on the basis of evidence available before it. There is no room for subjectivity nor the nature of offence affects its performance. We have a hierarchy of courts in dealing with cases. An Appellate Court shall not expect the trial court to act in a particular way depending upon the sensitivity of the case. Rather it should be appreciated if a trial court decides a case on its own merit despite its sensitivity.

22. At times, courts do have their constraints. We find, different decisions being made by different courts, namely, trial court on the one hand and the Appellate Courts on the other. If such decisions are made due to institutional constraints, they do not augur well. The district judiciary is expected to be the foundational court, and therefore, should have the freedom of mind to decide a case on its own merit or else it might become a stereotyped one rendering conviction on a moral platform. Indictment and condemnation over a decision rendered, on considering all the materials placed before it, should be avoided. The Appellate Court is expected to maintain a degree of caution before making any remark.

23. This court, time and again has laid down the law on the scope of inquiry by an Appellate court while dealing with an appeal against acquittal under Section 378 CrPC. We do not wish to multiply the aforesaid principle except placing reliance on a recent decision of this court in Anwar Ali v. State of Himanchal Pradesh, (2020) 10 SCC 166:

14.2. When can the findings of fact recorded by a court be held to be perverse has been dealt with and considered in paragraph 20 of the aforesaid decision, which reads as under : (Babu case [Babu v. State of Kerala, (2010) 9 SCC 189 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 1179]) "20. The findings of fact recorded by a court can be held to be perverse if the findings have been arrived at by ignoring or excluding relevant material or by taking into consideration irrelevant/inadmissible material. The finding may also be said to be perverse if it is "against the weight of evidence", or if the finding so outrageously defies logic as to suffer from the vice of irrationality.

(Vide Rajinder Kumar Kindra v. Delhi Admn. [Rajinder Kumar Kindra v. Delhi Admn., (1984) 4 SCC 635 : 1985 SCC (L&S) 131], Excise & Taxation Officer-cum-Assessing Authority v. Gopi Nath & Sons [Excise & Taxation Officer-cum-Assessing Authority v. Gopi Nath & Sons, 1992 Supp (2) SCC 312], Triveni Rubber & Plastics v. CCE [Triveni Rubber & Plastics v. CCE, 1994 Supp (3) SCC 665], Gaya Din v. Hanuman Prasad [Gaya Din v. Hanuman Prasad, (2001) 1 SCC 501], Aruvelu [Arulvelu v. State, (2009) 10 SCC 206 : (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 288] and Gamini Bala Koteswara Rao v. State of A.P. [Gamini Bala Koteswara Rao v. State of A.P., (2009) 10 SCC 636 : (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 372])"

It is further observed, after following the decision of this Court in Kuldeep Singh v. Commr. of Police [Kuldeep Singh v. Commr. of Police, (1999) 2 SCC 10 : 1999 SCC (L&S) 429], that if a decision is arrived at on the basis of no evidence or thoroughly unreliable evidence and no reasonable person would act upon it, the order would be perverse. But if there is some evidence on record which is acceptable and which could be relied upon, the conclusions would not be treated as perverse and the findings would not be interfered with.

14.3. In the recent decision of Vijay Mohan Singh [Vijay Mohan Singh v. State of Karnataka, (2019) 5 SCC 436 : (2019) 2 SCC (Cri) 586], this Court again had an occasion to consider the scope of Section 378 CrPC and the interference by the High Court [State of Karnataka v. Vijay Mohan Singh, 2013 SCC OnLine Kar 10732] in an appeal against acquittal. This Court considered a catena of decisions of this Court right from 1952 onwards. In para 31, it is observed and held as under:

"31. An identical question came to be considered before this Court in Umedbhai Jadavbhai [Umedbhai Jadavbhai v. State of Gujarat, (1978) 1 SCC 228 : 1978 SCC (Cri) 108]. In the case before this Court, the High Court interfered with the order of acquittal passed by the learned trial court on reappreciation of the entire evidence on record. However, the High Court, while reversing the acquittal, did not consider the reasons given by the learned trial court while acquitting the accused. Confirming the judgment of the High Court, this Court observed and held in para 10 as under:

"10. Once the appeal was rightly entertained against the order of acquittal, the High Court was entitled to reappreciate the entire evidence independently and come to its own conclusion. Ordinarily, the High Court would give due importance to the opinion of the Sessions Judge if the same were arrived at after proper appreciation of the evidence.

This rule will not be applicable in the present case where the Sessions Judge has made an absolutely wrong assumption of a very material and clinching aspect in the peculiar circumstances of the case.'

31.1. In Sambasivan [Sambasivan v. State of Kerala, (1998) 5 SCC 412 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1320], the High Court reversed the order of acquittal passed by the learned trial court and held the accused guilty on reappreciation of the entire evidence on record, however, the High Court did not record its conclusion on the question whether the approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal or the conclusions arrived at by it were wholly untenable.

Confirming the order passed by the High Court convicting the accused on reversal of the acquittal passed by the learned trial court, after being satisfied that the order of acquittal passed by the learned trial court was perverse and suffered from infirmities, this Court declined to interfere with the order of conviction passed by the High Court. While confirming the order of conviction passed by the High Court, this Court observed in para 8 as under:

"8. We have perused the judgment under appeal to ascertain whether the High Court has conformed to the aforementioned principles. We find that the High Court has not strictly proceeded in the manner laid down by this Court in Doshi case [Ramesh Babulal Doshi v. State of Gujarat, (1996) 9 SCC 225 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 972] viz. first recording its conclusion on the question whether the approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal or the conclusions arrived at by it were wholly untenable, which alone will justify interference in an order of acquittal though the High Court has rendered a well-considered judgment duly meeting all the contentions raised before it. But then will this non-compliance per se justify setting aside the judgment under appeal? We think, not. In our view, in such a case, the approach of the court which is considering the validity of the judgment of an appellate court which has reversed the order of acquittal passed by the trial court, should be to satisfy itself if the approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal or conclusions arrived at by it are demonstrably unsustainable and whether the judgment of the appellate court is free from those infirmities; if so to hold that the trial court judgment warranted interference. In such a case, there is obviously no reason why the appellate court's judgment should be disturbed. But if on the other hand the court comes to the conclusion that the judgment of the trial court does not suffer from any infirmity, it cannot but be held that the interference by the appellate court in the order of acquittal was not justified; then in such a case the judgment of the appellate court has to be set aside as of the two reasonable views, the one in support of the acquittal alone has to stand. Having regard to the above discussion, we shall proceed to examine the judgment of the trial court in this case.' 31.2. In K. Ramakrishnan Unnithan [K. Ramakrishnan Unnithan v. State of Kerala, (1999) 3 SCC 309: 1999 SCC (Cri) 410], after observing that though there is some substance in the grievance of the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the accused that the High Court has not adverted to all the reasons given by the trial Judge for according an order of acquittal, this Court refused to set aside the order of conviction passed by the High Court after having found that the approach of the Sessions Judge in recording the order of acquittal was not proper and the conclusion arrived at by the learned Sessions Judge on several aspects was unsustainable. This Court further observed that as the Sessions Judge was not justified in discarding the relevant/material evidence while acquitting the accused, the High Court, therefore, was fully entitled to reappreciate the evidence and record its own conclusion. This Court scrutinised the evidence of the eyewitnesses and opined that reasons adduced by the trial court for discarding the testimony of the eyewitnesses were not at all sound. This Court also observed that as the evaluation of the evidence made by the trial court was manifestly erroneous and therefore it was the duty of the High Court to interfere with an order of acquittal passed by the learned Sessions Judge.

31.3. In Atley [Atley v. State of U.P., AIR 1955 SC 807 : 1955 Cri LJ 1653], in para 5, this Court observed and held as under:

"5. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the judgment of the trial court being one of acquittal, the High Court should not have set it aside on mere appreciation of the evidence led on behalf of the prosecution unless it came to the conclusion that the judgment of the trial Judge was perverse. In our opinion, it is not correct to say that unless the appellate court in an appeal under Section 417 CrPC came to the conclusion that the judgment of acquittal under appeal was perverse it could not set aside that order. It has been laid down by this Court that it is open to the High Court on an appeal against an order of acquittal to review the entire evidence and to come to its own conclusion, of course, keeping in view the well-established rule that the presumption of innocence of the accused is not weakened but strengthened by the judgment of acquittal passed by the trial court which had the advantage of observing the demeanour of witnesses whose evidence have been recorded in its presence.

It is also well settled that the court of appeal has as wide powers of appreciation of evidence in an appeal against an order of acquittal as in the case of an appeal against an order of conviction, subject to the riders that the presumption of innocence with which the accused person starts in the trial court continues even up to the appellate stage and that the appellate court should attach due weight to the opinion of the trial court which recorded the order of acquittal.

If the appellate court reviews the evidence, keeping those principles in mind, and comes to a contrary conclusion, the judgment cannot be said to have been vitiated. (See in this connection the very cases cited at the Bar, namely, Surajpal Singh v. State [Surajpal Singh v. State, 1951 SCC 1207 : AIR 1952 SC 52]; Wilayat Khan v. State of U.P. [Wilayat Khan v. State of U.P., 1951 SCC 898 : AIR 1953 SC 122]) In our opinion, there is no substance in the contention raised on behalf of the appellant that the High Court was not justified in reviewing the entire evidence and coming to its own conclusions.' 31.4. In K. Gopal Reddy [K. Gopal Reddy v. State of A.P., (1979) 1 SCC 355 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 305], this Court has observed that where the trial court allows itself to be beset with fanciful doubts, rejects creditworthy evidence for slender reasons and takes a view of the evidence which is but barely possible, it is the obvious duty of the High Court to interfere in the interest of justice, lest the administration of justice be brought to ridicule."

N. Vijayakumar v. State of T.N., [(2021) 3 SCC 687] as hereunder: - "20. Mainly it is contended by Shri Nagamuthu, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellant that the view taken by the trial court is a "possible view", having regard to the evidence on record. It is submitted that the trial court has recorded cogent and valid reasons in support of its findings for acquittal. Under Section 378 CrPC, no differentiation is made between an appeal against acquittal and the appeal against conviction. By considering the long line of earlier cases this Court in the judgment in Chandrappa v. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415 : (2007) 2 SCC (Cri) 325 has laid down the general principles regarding the powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal. Para 42 of the judgment which is relevant reads as under: (SCC p. 432) "42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

(1) An appellate court has full power to review, reappreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

(2) The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

(3) Various expressions, such as, "substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtail extensive powers of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasise the reluctance of an appellate court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

(4) An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

21. Further in the judgment in Murugesan [Murugesan v. State, (2012) 10

SCC 383: (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 69] relied on by the learned Senior Counsel for the appellant, this Court has considered the powers of the High Court in an appeal against acquittal recorded by the trial court. In the said judgment, it is categorically held by this Court that only in cases where conclusion recorded by the trial court is not a possible view, then only the High Court can interfere and reverse the acquittal to that of conviction. In the said judgment, distinction from that of "possible view" to "erroneous view" or "wrong view" is explained. In clear terms, this Court has held that if the view taken by the trial court is a "possible view", the High Court not to reverse the acquittal to that of the conviction.

23. Further, in Hakeem Khan v. State of M.P., (2017) 5 SCC 719 : (2017) 2 SCC (Cri) 653 this court has considered the powers of the appellate court for interference in cases where acquittal is recorded by the trial court. In the said judgment it is held that if the "possible view" of the trial court is not agreeable for the High Court, even then such "possible view" recorded by the trial court cannot be interdicted. It is further held that so long as the view of the trial court can be reasonably formed, regardless of whether the High Court agrees with the same or not, verdict of the trial court cannot be interdicted and the High Court cannot supplant over the view of the trial court. Para 9 of the judgment reads as under: (SCC pp. 722-23) "9. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, we are of the view that the trial court's judgment is more than just a possible view for arriving at the conclusion of acquittal, and that it would not be safe to convict seventeen persons accused of the crime of murder i.e. under Section 302 read with Section 149 of the Penal Code. The most important reason of the trial court, as has been stated above, was that, given the time of 6.30 p.m. to 7.00 p.m. of a winter evening, it would be dark, and, therefore, identification of seventeen persons would be extremely difficult. This reason, coupled with the fact that the only independent witness turned hostile, and two other eyewitnesses who were independent were not examined, would certainly create a large hole in the prosecution story. Apart from this, the very fact that there were injuries on three of the accused party, two of them being deep injuries in the skull, would lead to the conclusion that nothing was premeditated and there was, in all probability, a scuffle that led to injuries on both sides. While the learned counsel for the respondent may be right in stating that the trial court went overboard in stating that the complainant party was the aggressor, but the trial court's ultimate conclusion leading to an acquittal is certainly a possible view on the facts of this case. This is coupled with the fact that the presence of the kingpin Sarpanch is itself doubtful in view of the fact that he attended the Court at some distance and arrived by bus after the incident took place."

24. By applying the abovesaid principles and the evidence on record in the case on hand, we are of the considered view that having regard to material contradictions which we have already noticed above and also as referred to in the trial court judgment, it can be said that acquittal is a "possible view". By applying the ratio as laid down by this Court in the judgments which are stated supra, even assuming another view is possible, same is no ground to interfere with the judgment of acquittal and to convict the appellant for the offence alleged. From the evidence, it is clear that when the Inspecting Officer and other witnesses who are examined on behalf of the prosecution, went to the office of the appellant-accused, the appellant was not there in the office and office was open and people were moving out and in from the office of the appellant. It is also clear from the evidence of PWs 3, 5 and 11 that the currency and cellphone were taken out from the drawer of the table by the appellant at their instance. There is also no reason, when the tainted notes and the cellphone were given to the appellant at 5.45 p.m. no recordings were made and the appellant was not tested by PW 11 till 7.00 p.m."

24. This Court had the occasion to consider the scope and the extent of interference in the cases, wherein this Court had to delve into the issues, which gets encompassed in the proceedings, where the judgment and the order under challenge is of acquittal and this Court in Government Appeal no. 3804 of 2010, State of U.P. vs. Subedar and others, has held that it is a settled principle of law that while exercising powers even if at two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the Appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

25. Undisputedly, as per the prosecution case, the deceased suffered stomach ache at 4 p.m. on 26.2.2013 and he was taken for medication on same day on 26.2.2013 by the informant/complainant, his mother and one Chandrabhan and was administered two injections on 26.2.2013 at 5.00 p.m. and thereafter he died. It has also come on record that the first information report was lodged on 27.2.2013. In order to bring home the charges, the prosecution presented as many as 10 witnesses.

26. In order to link the chain of events and sequence so as to decide as to whether the accused is guilty or not the ocular testimony is to be first analysed. According to the testimony of PW1 being the informant/complainant, who happens to be Brij Kishore son of deceased, he had taken his father on 26.2.2013 at 4.00 p.m. in the cycle which the complainant was riding. To be more specific, the deceased was sitting in the carrier of the cycle in question and further the fact that though the deceased was witnessing stomach ache but he was not screaming on account of the lesser magnitude of the stomach ache.

27. As per the PW1 Brij Kishore, he never knew the accused and till reaching the clinic of the accused PW1 Brij Kishore did not find any clinic over there. It has been further deposed that the concerned police station is just 50 steps from the clinic of the accused. In the cross-examination the PW1 Brij Kishore has further deposed that he did not lodge FIR in the concerned police station which was 50 steps from the clinic of the accused as his mother instructed him to go to the village. PW1 in the statement has also come up with the stand that in the Panchnama so prepared, he had signed the same and about 6 to 7 persons had also signed and their names are Chandrabhan, Bantu, Ratibhan, Padam Singh, Bharatveer Singh, Nekram Singh.

28. PW2 being Kamlesh, who happens to be wife of the deceased in her statement has deposed that she had gone at 4.00 p.m. on 26.2.2013 along with his son, Chandrabhan and Kunwarpal, who happens to be the resident of the said village and the they reached the dispensary of the accused at 5.00 p.m. It has further been deposed in cross-examination that the deceased had gone to accused dispensary while sitting in a motorcycle which Chandrabhan was riding.

29. PW3, who happens to be the Chandrabhan son of Kalicharan in his statement has deposed that on 26.2.2013 at 5.00 p.m., they had reached the accused dispensary and the FIR was lodged on 27.2.2013.

30. PW4, who happens to be S.H.O. Police Station Amanpur, being Satyadev Singh he in his statement has come up with a stand that the proceedings for obtaining Viscera report was undertaken and as per the Viscera report no poison was found in the body of the deceased.

31. As PW5, S.I. Rajkumar Singh got himself presented wherein in paragraph 3 of the same, it has been deposed that after 10-12 hours of the death of the deceased, the first information report was lodged.

32. PW6 being Om Prakash S.O. got himself examined.

33. PW7 Khemkaran S.O. also got himself examined. Dr. Pradeep Kumar Senior Consultant B.B.D., District Hospital, Bulandshahr got himself examined and he stated that there was no chemical/poison found in the body of the deceased.

34. PW9 being Ratibhan Singh son of Surajpal Singh, he in his cross-examination has stated that he had not witnessed the alleged commission of crime and he was in his house.

35. PW10 S.I. Multan Singh in his statement has deposed that no visible injury was found in the body of the deceased.

36. In the light of the depositions of the prosecution witness coupled with the medico legal report and the proposition of law so culled out by the Hon. Apex Court, the present case is to be decided.

37. To start with the material contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses is to be first analysed. In the statement of the PW1 being son of the deceased Brij Kishore, this much has come that he had taken his father to the accused dispensary in his cycle and the deceased was sitting in the carrier of the cycle of the PW1 Brij Kishore, as well as so far as the statement of the PW2 being Smt. Kamlesh widow of the deceased, she in the cross-examination has come up with a stand that the deceased was siting in the motorcycle of Chandrabhan.

38. A remarkable thing which is noticed at this stage is this that PW1 and PW2 are those witnesses, who have taken the deceased and thus the material contradiction itself shows that the prosecution case proceeded on a very weak evidence.

39. So much so another aspect which needs to be further noticed is the delay in lodging of the FIR. It is come on record that the dispensary of the accused was just 50 steps from the police station however, as stated in the cross-examination on a question being put up to the PW1 Brij Kishore, has deposed that he did not lodged FIR on 26.2.2013 on the instructions of his mother as the mother of PW1 wanted that the dead body of the deceased be taken to the village and consequently on 27.2.2013 FIR was lodged.

40. It is quiet paradoxical and amazing that when as per the prosecution case the deceased was suffering from mild stomach ache and he was not screaming and after injecting two doses of injection, the deceased died and the police station is just 50 steps from the dispensary of the accused then how and why the FIR was not lodged on the same day and it was lodged on the next day. The said conduct of the informant/complainant being PW1 and the mother/widow of the deceased PW2 itself shows that the entire criminal case has been engineered just to falsely implicate the accused.

41. Hon'ble Apex Court on the question of delay in lodging the FIR and its impact upon the prosecution theory has observed in the case of (1973) 3 SCC 114 Apren Joseph Alias Current Kunjukunju and others Vs. The State of Kerala wherein para 11 following was mandated:

11. Now first information report is a report relating to the commission of an offence given to the police and recorded by it under Section 154, Cr. P. C. As observed by the Privy Council in K. E. v. Khwaja, the receipt and recording of information report by the police is not a condition precedent to the setting in motion of a criminal investigation. Nor does the statute provide that such information report can only be made by an eye witness. First information report under Section 154 is not even considered a substantive piece of evidence. It can only be used to corroborate or contradict the informant's evidence in court. But this information when recorded is the basis of the case set up by the informant. It is very useful if recorded before there is time and opportunity to embellish or before the informant's memory fades. Undue unreasonable delay in lodging the F. I. R., therefore, inevitably gives rise to suspicion which puts the court on guard to look for the possible motive and the explanation for the delay and consider its effect on the trustworthiness or otherwise of the prosecution version. In our opinion, no duration of time in the abstract can be fixed as reasonable for giving information of a crime to the police, the question of reasonable time being a matter for determination by the court in each case. Mere delay in lodging the first information report with the police is, therefore, not necessarily, as a matter of law, fatal to the prosecution. The effect of delay in doing so in the light of the plausibility of the explanation forthcoming for such delay accordingly must fall for consideration on all the facts and circumstances of a given case.

4. It is well settled that the delay in giving the FIR by itself cannot be a ground to doubt the prosecution case. Knowing the Indian conditions as they are we cannot expect these villagers to rush to the police station immediately after the occurrence. Human nature as it is, the kith and kin who have witnessed the occurrence cannot be expected to act mechanically with all the promptitude in giving the report to the police. At times being grief-stricken because of the calamity it may not immediately occur to them that they should give a report. After all it is but natural in these circumstances for them to take some time to go to the police station for giving the report. Of course the Supreme Court as well as the High Courts have pointed out that in cases arising out of acute factions there is a tendency to implicate persons belonging to the opposite faction falsely. In order to avert the danger of convicting such innocent persons the courts are cautioned to scrutinise the evidence of such interested witnesses with greater care and caution and separate grain from the chaff after subjecting the evidence to a closer scrutiny and in doing so the contents of the FIR also will have to be scrutinised carefully. However, unless there are indications of fabrication, the court cannot reject the prosecution version as given in the FIR and later substantiated by the evidence merely on the ground of delay. These are all matters for appreciation and much depends on the facts and circumstances of each case.

43. Yet, in the case of P. Rajagopal and others Vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2019) 5 SCC 403, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph 12 has held as under:-

12. Normally, the Court may reject the case of the prosecution in case of inordinate delay in lodging the first information report because of the possibility of concoction of evidence by the prosecution. However, if the delay is satisfactorily explained, the Court will decide the matter on merits without giving much importance to such delay. The Court is duty-bound to determine whether the explanation afforded is plausible enough given the facts and circumstances of the case. The delay may be condoned if the complainant appears to be reliable and without any motive for implicating the accused falsely.

44. As per proposition of law so culled out by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the above noted decisions and in series of decision, it has been mandated that the delay in lodging of the FIR by itself cannot be a ground to doubt the prosecution case. However, the courts have to determine as to whether the delay has been satisfactorily explained or not and deciding the matters on merits without giving much importance to such delay.

45. Here in the present case, the Court finds that no plausible explanation has been offered by the prosecution in not lodging the FIR on 26.2.2013 particularly when the police station was 50 steps from the dispensary/shop of the accused. This Court has also discussed the determining of the witnesses and had also considered the case from the four corners of law while applying the same in the facts of the case.

46. Now another question arises as to at what time the body of the deceased was reached in the village in question. As per PW7 Khemkaran son of Ram Singh the deceased body reached the village at 4.00 p.m. on 26.2.2013 when he was in the village itself and he got himself physically present at 6.00 p.m. in this regard. However, as per the prosecution case at 4.00 p.m. on 26.2.2013 the deceased proceeded for treatment and the treatment was administered at 5.00 p.m. on the same day i.e. 26.2.2013 then how could the body of the deceased reached the village at 4.00 p.m. The said aspect of the matter has already been discussed by the learned trial court while according to acquittal to the accused.

47. As per the prosecution case PW1 being Brij Kishore has stated that the Panchnama was signd 6-7 people whose names are (a) Chandrabhan (b) Bantu (c) Ratiram (d) Padam Singh (e) Bharatveer Singh (f) Nekram Singh. However in the Panchnama itself the signatures were found of Khemkaran, Om Prakash, Suresh and Charan Singh and Munna.

48. Learned Trial Court has meticulously analysed the said aspect of the matter and has proceeded to record a finding that no explanation worth consideration has been tendered by the prosecution with respect to the signatures so finding its presence in the Panchanama itself vis the differ in the statement of PW1.

49. This Court is of the opinion that the entire basis of the prosecution case itself shows that the same had been manufactured so as to lay foundation whose substratum has eroded.

50. Nonetheless the medical report which obviously includes Viscera report also does not support the case of the prosecution as the Viscera report itself shows that there was no chemical/poison found in the body of the deceased. It has also come on record that the heart of the deceased was also not put to examination which could place the things on a platform wherein it could be determined as to whether the deceased died on account of heart-attack or not. It has also come on record that PW2 being the widow of the deceased has herself stated in page 3 of her statement that Chandrabhan and PW1 who happens to be the son have not seeing shop/clinic of the accused. Moreover this Court further finds that no proceedings purported to be under either Medical Council Act or the Rule framed therein under or any other Special Act has been lodged or undertaken against the accused herein for practicing medical provision as a quake. In the absence of the same, this Court is not in a position to bestow any consideration on the said aspect also.

51. The chain of the events do not link the accused with respect to the commission of the crime and further the evidence so adduced by the prosecution is very weak. This Court also finds that there are insufficient grounds making it possible to convict the accused. The chain of the events as discussed herein-above are not complete in order to rope in and hold the accused guilty.

52. The facts of the present case are to be seen in the light that there is a double presumption in favour of the accused and until and unless there are sufficient ground and material available before the Appellate Court to reverse the judgment of the trial court this Court will not initiate. This Court while deciding the case in which adorning the chair of appellate authority cannot reverse the judgment of acquittal even in those cases where another view is possible.

53. Nonetheless, this Court finds that the prosecution as miserably failed to link the chain of events and sequence so as to hold that the accused was guilty in commission of the crime in question. The Court further finds that there is no perversity or illegality committed by the court below while acquitting the accused.

54. Hence in any view of the matter while applying the principles of law so culled out by the Hon. Apex Court in the facts of the present case, we have no option but to concur with the view taken by the learned Sessions Judge.

55. We find that it is not a case worth granting leave to appeal. The application for granting leave to appeal is rejected.

56. Since the application for granting leave to appeal has not been granted, consequently, present criminal appeal also stands dismissed.

57. All the applications stand disposed of.

58. The records be sent back to the court-below.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikram D. Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Nagendra Srivastava, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. The instant appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 21 December, 2019 passed by learned Special Judge (POCSO Act)/Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Hamirpur in Special Case No. 17 of 2015 (State Vs. Bhola alias Pramod and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 403 of 2014, under Sections 363, 366, 376D, 342 and 504 IPC and Section 6 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012, Police Station Sisolar, District Hamirpur, whereby the accused-respondents were acquitted.

3. As per the prosecution case, informant - Ramcharan lodged one report that his daughter (victim) who is aged about 15 years; studying in Class-VII at Meerut; residing with his brother-in-law Shyamlal; victim three months prior to occurance went to her uncle's (Mama) - Shayamlal residence at Meerut; Bhola alias Pramod, son of Shrichandra Kori used to talk from mobile no. 73XXXXX755 with informant's daughter having mobile no. 80XXXXX493; information was given by brother-in-law of the informant namely Shyamlal to the informant; informant contacted father of Bhola alias Pramod namely Shrichandra and his brother Santosh with the request to ask accused Bhola alias Pramod to desist from talking to his daughter; however, aforesaid person abused the informant; thereafter Bhola alias Pramod on 2 November, 2014 has abducted the daughter of the informant and the informant is afraid that some untoward incident may happen with the aforesaid girl.

4. On the basis of the aforesaid, report dated 9 November, 2014 at 14:20 hours was lodged under Sections 363 and 366 Indian Penal Code at Police Station Sisolar, District Hamirpur against Bhola alias Pramod and Santosh, both sons of Shrichandra Kori and Shrichandra Kori, son of not known, all resident of Gram Panchayat Bhamai, Police Station Sisolar, District Hamirpur. The aforesaid report was registered as Case Crime No. 403 of 2014.

5. On 4 December, 2014, statement of the victim under Section 164 of the Criminal Procedure Code was recorded. She has stated that on 22 July, 2014 she was travelling along with her uncle Shyamlal to Meerut by train; Santosh and Bhola who are resident of same village have come following the victim to Meerut; for two days the aforesaid persons were harassing and following the victim; Santosh and Bhola went back to the village from Meerut; victim was residing with her Mama; on 2 November, 2014 when the victim was going to school, Santosh, Bhola, Ramsewak and Shrichandra were present along with their vehicle Marshall and when the victim came close to the aforesaid vehicle, Ramsewak abused and shouted to catch the victim and thereafter Shrichandra opened the gate of the vehicle and Ramsewak, Santosh and Bhola caught hold and forcefully took her into the vehicle and gagged the mouth of the victim; thereafter the victim was locked in room at Ghaziabad; Ramsewak and Shrichandra left; Santosh and Bhola residing along with the victim at Ghaziabad; Bhola under intoxication used to come in the night and Santosh would stay outside the room; Bhola committed rape in the night; for five days Bhola committed rape with the victim; on 7 November, 2014 in the afternoon Santosh also committed rape of the victim; on 7 November, 2014 both the accused took the victim from the room at Ghaziabad to the railway station and brought her to Kanpur. The victim thereafter by catching passenger train came back; Santosh and Bhola stayed at Kanpur; when the victim came to Maudaha then she called her father on mobile phone and thereafter her father brought her on 8 November, 2014 to her house.

6. During investigation, investigating Officer received copy of the admission register from Principal, Uchh Prathmik Vidyalaya, Bhamai, Hamirpur wherein the date of birth of the victim was recorded as 20 April, 1999.

7. Victim was medically examined on 22 November, 2014 at District Women Hospital, Hamirpur. The doctor who has examined the victim has recorded in the medical report dated 22 November, 2014 that the victim has informed that one boy with his friend has taken her to Ghaziabad and has locked her in a room and committed rape. No external injury was found on the body of the victim. The hymen was ruptured, old and healed. No internal injuries were found on the body of the victim. There was no bleeding from the private parts. The vaginal smear was taken from the private part of the victim and X-ray was advised.

8. The Investigating Officer has also prepared memo of recovery of the victim on 22 November, 2014. The recovery memo is marked as Exhibit Ka - 7A and proved by Prosecution Witness No. 8. According to the recovery memo, the victim was brought by her father to the police station on 22 November, 2014 and was sent for medical examination and X-ray along with her father.

9. The Investigating Officer thereafter prepared the site plan of the incident on 21 February, 2015. The site plan was marked as Exhibit Ka-6 and was duly proved by Prosecution Witness No. 7.

10. After the completion of the investigation, charge sheet was submitted by the Investigating Officer against Bhola alias Pramod under Sections 363, 366 and 376 IPC and Sections 5/16 and 5-8/6 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012. The Charge Sheet was submitted before the Court concerned on 22 February, 2015. The investigating officer after investigation submitted charge sheet against accused Bhola alias Pramod.

11. The Court below by order dated 29 July, 2017 summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C, accused namely Santosh, Shrichandra, Ramsewak under Section 376D, 342, 504, 363, 366, 120B IPC and Section 4 POCSO Act.

12. On 4 December, 2017 the court concerned has framed charges against Bhola alias Pramod under Sections 363, 366, 376D and Section 6 POCSO Act and against Santosh under Sections 363, 366, 342, 504 and 376D IPC and Section 6 of the POCSO Act. The trial court on 4 December, 2017 has also framed charges against Shrichandra and Ramsewak under Sections 363, 366, 342, 504, 376D and 120B IPC and Section 6 of the POCSO Act. Accused persons denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

13. The prosecution in support of the case testified eight witnesses, namely, (PW-1) Ramcharan, (PW-2) victim, (PW-3) Constable Himanshu Gautam, (PW-4) Dhirendra Singh, Principal, (PW-5) Dr. Asha Sachan, (PW-6) Inspector Abdul Haleem (I.O.), (PW-7) Inspector Nandlal Bharti (I.O.) and (PW-8) Inspector Incharge Bhagwati Prasad Misra (I.O.).

23. Further the prosecution has examined Prabhari Nirikshak Bhagwati Prasad Mishra as Prosecution Witness No. 8. The said witness has stated that when he was posted on 22 November, 2014 at the concerned police station, the informant - Ramcharan came with his daughter to the police station. He had prepared the recovery memo of the victim and the same was marked as Exhibit Ka-7A.

24. As per the prosecution case, the accused persons have abducted the victim while she was going to school to pick up the children and thereafter committed rape. The accused Bhola alias Pramod is prosecuted under Sections 363, 366 and 376(D) IPC and Section 6 of the POCSO Act. Similarly, accused Santosh is prosecuted under Sections 363, 366, 342, 504 and 376D IPC and Section 6 of the POCSO Act. Further, Shrichandra and Ramsewak were prosecuted under Sections 363, 366, 342, 504, 376D and 120B IPC and Section 6 of the POCSO Act.

25. Objection was raised on behalf of the accused before trial court that as per FIR, the occurrence took place on 2 November, 2014 and FIR has been registered on 9 November, 2014 after the coming back of the victim and prosecution has failed to give any reason regarding delay in lodging of the FIR. Accused had also raised objection that the recovery of the victim on 22 November, 2014 is false and concocted.

26. In this respect, it is to be noted that as per the FIR (Exhibit Ka-3) the informant has stated that his daughter use to talk to accused Bhola alias Pramod on mobile phone; his daughter/victim was staying with her uncle Shyamlal at Meerut; on 2 November, 2014, the accused has taken away her daughter and the informant was under fear that some untoward incident may happen with his daughter. The FIR was lodged on 9 November, 2014 at Entry No. 13/14 at 20:00 hours at the G.D. and the same was marked as Exhibit Ka-4. From the aforesaid, it is evident that the First Information Report was given on 9 November, 2014 and on the aforesaid basis, the Chik FIR was lodged being Exhibit Ka-3 at 14:20 hours. The First Information Report was lodged after 7 days of the occurrence and no reason has been given by the prosecution for the delay. PW-1 - informant has testified before the Court in which he has stated that on 2 November, 2014 his brother-in-law Shyamlal had informed that his daughter went to the school to pick up the children, however, she had not come back. On 3 November, 2014 he had given the information to the Police Station Sisolar by means of an application which is Exhibit Ka-1. The Chik FIR being Exhibit Ka-3. The report was lodged on 9 November, 2014 and the G.D. Entry No. 13/14 at 20:00 hours was lodged. The Prosecution Witness No. 3 - Constable Himanshu Gautam has also in his statement before the trial court has stated that the informant - Ramcharan on 9 November, 2014 had written complaint and on the aforesaid basis Chik FIR being Exhibit Ka-3 was lodged and the GD Entry being Exhibit Ka-4 was prepared. The Prosecution Witness No. 1 in his statement has stated that on 8 November, 2014 he had received information from his daughter that she is at Kanpur and when he had reached the railway station Maudaha at 11:00 hours and thereafter on the next date he had taken the daughter to the police station and after lodging the report he had brought his daughter back. He has also stated that he had brought his daughter to his house on 8 November, 2014. On the aforesaid basis, it is evident that the PW-1 - informant went to the police station along with his daughter and lodged the FIR on 9 November, 2014. PW-1 has further stated that before coming to the police station his daughter had informed all the facts to the informant and the report was lodged on the basis of the information received from his daughter. He has also stated that the Inspector Incharge had enquired from the informant and the victim prior to lodging of the FIR and he had signed the FIR after reading the same. He has also stated that the place where the application was prepared his daughter and his brother-in-law were also present. On the aforesaid basis, the trial court came to the conclusion that the FIR was lodged after the victim was recovered and after receiving the information from the victim about the alleged incident and on account of the aforesaid fact in respect of the alleged occurrence on 2 November, 2014

the FIR was lodged on 9 November, 2014 without explaining the delay. The victim - PW-2 was also examined before the trial court who has stated that after reaching the home she had given all information to her father and mother and on the information provided by her, the informant had lodged the FIR on 9 November, 2014 at Police Station Sisolar; on the aforesaid date she did not went to the police station. On the basis of the statement of the victim, it is evident that the FIR was lodged after she had come back to her home and on the information received from the victim on 9 November, 2014 the FIR was lodged.

27. The Investigating Officer has also prepared the recovery memo showing recovery of the victim on 22 November, 2014 despite the fact that the informant who is the father of the victim and the victim herself has stated that she has reached the house on 8 November, 2014. On the aforesaid basis, the trial court came to the conclusion that the recovery of the victim on 22 November, 2014 is suspicious and cannot be relied upon. The trial court has also recorded that the recovery memo and the statement of the PW-1 and PW-2 are contrary and if the recovery memo is treated to be correct then the statement of PW-1 and PW-2 that the victim was recovered on 8 November, 2014 was false.

28. The prosecution has further examined Inspector Nandlal Bharti (PW-7) who has stated that on 22 November, 2014 he had reached Meerut and had contacted Shyamlal who is brother-in-law of the informant - Ramcharan. He has also stated that on the pointing out of the Shyamlal, investigating Officer reached the place of occurrence and has prepared the site plan which is Exhibit Ka-6. The aforesaid witness has further stated that he had not prepared the site plan on the pointing out of the victim or the informant and has stated that he had tried to take the victim and his father to the place of occurrence but they did not come to the place of occurrence. In this respect, it is to be noted that Shyamlal is not the eye witness of the alleged occurrence and the site plan was prepared in the presence of Shyamlal and as per the description given by the Shyamlal. The Prosecution Witness No. 1 in his statement before the trial court has stated that the police had never taken him or his daughter to Meerut. He has also stated that PW-2 had not shown the place of occurrence to the Investigating Officer. The aforesaid witness has further stated that the Investigating Officer never came to take the witness to Meerut. On the aforesaid basis, it is evident that the site plan that has been prepared was prepared on the basis of information and pointing out of the Shyamlal who is not the witness of the alleged occurrence and the site plan was not prepared on the pointing out of the victim. The victim never went to the Meerut along with the Investigating Officer. The Investigating Officer PW-6 Abdul Haleem in his statement has stated that when he asked the informant to come to Meerut for inspection of the place of occurrence then he replied that he will talk to his lawyer and will respond. The actual place of occurrence could have only be identified by the victim. Further the site plan prepared does not disclose the place at Ghaziabad where the alleged rape is said to have been committed nor the prosecution has led any evidence to show the place of occurrence of rape.

29. Prosecution Witness No. 1 - informant has stated that the accused Bhola alias Pramod use to talk on phone with her daughter and the aforesaid fact was informed by Shyamlal and thereafter he went to the house of the accused Bhola alias Pramod and met with his father Shrichandra. Shrichandra and his two sons, namely, Bhola alias Pramod and Santosh started abusing and beating. Thereafter, his brother-in-law Shyamlal on 2 November, 2014 informed that his daughter went to the school to pick up the children, however, she did not come back and on the aforesaid basis the FIR was lodged. The aforesaid witness has further stated that on 8 November, 2014 daughter/victim had called him and informed that she was in Kanpur. Victim was recovered at Railway Station - Maudaha. The said witness has further stated that after recovery of the daughter, she had informed about the alleged occurrence. On the aforesaid basis, the Prosecution Witness No. 1 came to know about the alleged incident. The Prosecution Witness No. 1 is not the eyewitness of the alleged occurrence. The said witness has given statement on the basis of the information given by Shyamlal and victim. In the cross-examination the said witness has stated that prior to the information received from his daughter, no person had informed him about the alleged occurrence. The said witness has further stated that his brother-in-law - Shayamlal did not come to his house and that, as per as informant, his daughter did not have any mobile phone prior to alleged incident. The mobile number being 80XXXXX493 was written in the FIR on the basis of the information given by Shyamlal. It is to be noted that the aforesaid witness on one hand has stated that his brother-in-law Shyamlal did not visit his house and on the other hand he has stated that he had given the mobile number in the FIR on the basis of the information given by Shyamlal. It is further to be noted that the witness has further stated that his daughter did not have any phone prior to the alleged incident. The witness has further testified that he does not keep any mobile phone and has not given any mobile number of his daughter in the FIR. He has further stated that the mobile number given in the FIR has not been given by the informant but the same has been inserted by some other person or his brother-in-law.

30. PW-1 - informant has stated that he does not keep mobile phone. The victim in her statement has stated that her father/informant has mobile phone bearing mobile number 96XXXXX314. On the aforesaid basis, it is not known as to why the Prosecution

31. The Prosecution Witness No. 1 further in his statement has stated that the victim did not accompany him to the police station when the FIR was lodged. He has further stated that he never took the victim to the police station; Shyamlal on 2 November, 2014 on phone informed that his daughter went to the school to pick up the children, however, has not returned; on 3 November, 2014, the informant informed the Police Station - Sisolar and the report was marked as Exhibit Ka-1 before the trial court; on the other hand, the Prosecution Witness No. 1 in cross-examination has stated that after the recovery of the victim on 8 November, 2014, the FIR was lodged on the basis of the information received from the victim. The informant has made contradictory statement that the FIR was lodged on 3 November, 2014 on the information received from Shyamlal whereas on the other hand he has stated that the FIR was lodged after the victim was recovered on 8 November, 2014 and on the basis of information received from the victim, the FIR was lodged on 9 November, 2014.

32. The Prosecution Witness No. 1 has further stated that on 8 November, 2014, victim was recovered and thereafter the FIR was lodged, however, the recovery memo in respect of the victim being Exhibit Ka-7A which is prepared by Prosecution Witness No. 8 shows that the victim was brought to the police station by the informant on 22 November, 2014. Thereafter, the statement of the victim under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. and medical examination was effected. Victim was recovered on 8 November, 2014 and the FIR was lodged on 9 November, 2014, however, the victim was brought to the Police Station on 22 November, 2014. There is no explanation offered by the prosecution with regard to the period from 8 November, 2014 to 22 November, 2014 during which the victim was not produced before the Police/Investigating Officer. On the aforesaid basis, the trial court came to the conclusion that the statement of the Prosecution Witness No. 1 are not reliable and trustworthy.

33. In the present case, the only eyewitness to the alleged occurrence is the victim and on the basis of the statement of the victim, it is to be seen whether the offence alleged is made out against the accused person. It is trite of law that conviction can be founded on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix where the statement of the prosecutrix inspires confidence and is accepted by the court. The conviction can be founded on the solitary evidence of the prosecutrix and no corroboration would be required unless there are compelling reasons which are necessary for the court for corroboration of the statement of the prosecutrix. The corroboration is required as a matter of prudence under the given facts and circumstances of the case. The court while acquitting the accused on the benefit of doubt should be cautious to see that the doubt be a reasonable doubt and it should not reverse the finding on the basis of irrelevant circumstances or mere technicalities.

34. On the aforesaid basis, it is first to be seen whether the statement of the prosecutrix is believable. It is to be noted that the FIR was lodged on 9 November, 2014 at 4:20 pm. The informant was present at the police station at the time of lodging of the FIR and the victim was not present along with the informant. The victim was said to have been recovered on 8 November, 2014. The victim in her statement has stated that she had reached Maudaha at 11:30 AM and had made a phone call to the informant (father of the victim) and thereafter on reaching the home narrated the incident to the informant and her mother. On the basis of the information received from the victim, the FIR was lodged on 9 November, 2014. On the aforesaid date, the victim did not accompany the informant to the police station. The medical examination of the victim was held 10 to 15 days after the FIR was lodged. The statement of the victim before the Chief Judicial Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was held on 4 December, 2014. As per the prosecution case, the informant lodged the FIR on 9 November, 2014 after the victim was recovered on 8 November, 2014 with the allegation that on 2 November, 2014, the accused Bhola alias Pramod has enticed his daughter. When the victim was recovered on 8 November, 2014 thereafter the FIR was lodged by the informant after receiving information from the victim. FIR was lodged on 9 November, 2014, however, despite the fact that the details of the alleged occurrence were in the knowledge of the informant on the basis of the information received from the victim.

Informant in the FIR did not submitted any request for search of the victim. Further, as per the recovery memo being Exhibit Ka-7, it is evident that on 22 November, 2014, victim was brought by the informant to the police station and on the basis of the aforesaid, recovery memo was prepared by the Investigating Officer. The prosecution has failed to explain the delay as the victim was recovered on 8 November, 2014 then why she was produced before the Investigating Officer on 22 November, 2014 and why the aforesaid fact was not disclosed to the Investigating Officer. The trial court on the aforesaid basis came to the conclusion that the informant is trying to hide facts and have not brought on record all the facts before the court.

35. As per the FIR, the accused used to call on the mobile number of the victim. The first information report was lodged by the father of the victim. The victim in her statement before the trial court has stated that she did not had any mobile phone at the time of alleged occurrence. She has also stated that when she was at Meerut at her uncle's house she did not personally had any mobile phone. She has also stated that she did not remember the number of the mobile phone which was at the house at Meerut which was being used by all the family members. The Investigating Officer on the basis of the mobile number stated in the FIR has taken call details of the mobile number. The victim is denying having the mobile number as stated in the FIR which is indicative of the fact that the victim is hiding the truth from the court despite the fact that there is material indicating the call details of the mobile number.

36. The prosecution case as per the FIR is that the victim was residing at my right along with her uncle. The accused used to call the victim from mobile number 737XXXXX55 on the mobile number of the victim 805XXXXX93. Shyamlal informed that the victim was talking on phone to the accused. Thereafter, the informant went to the father of the accused asking him to instruct the accused to desist from talking with the victim. In this respect the call details of the victim are to be noted which are detailed in trial court judgment. The details of the call are as under :

37. On the basis of aforesaid call details, it is evident that between the victim and the accused there were talks going on for a substantial period of time. In case the accused was talking to the victim without her consent then the FIR should have been lodged at the earlier point of time. There was a regular communication between the victim and the accused for a substantial period of time is indicative that the victim was taking interest in talking to the accused and the aforesaid fact was not disclosed by the victim before the trial court which creates doubt on the testimony of the victim.

38. The PW-2 (victim) in her statement has stated that on 22 July, 2014 she went to her uncle's home. When she was proceeding for Meerut then accused Santosh and Bhola alias Pramod were also travelling in the same compartment; on reaching Meerut they met on the next date; when she was going to school to bring the children of her uncle, she met the accused; for the first time when she went to Meerut she had seen the Bhola alias Pramod in the train; accused Bhola alias Pramod did not come to the house of the victim at Meerut; on 22 July, 2014, the mobile location of the victim at 6:12 am was at Village Sisolar Ajay Kumar Oamar Gate 259 Tehsil Maudaha Near Hospital Hamirpur and on 22 July, 2014 at 20:59 hours, the mobile location was at Shivnarayan, son of Late Bhairam Singh, Village Post Chichara, Tehsil Sadar, District Hamirpur.

39. On the aforesaid basis, it can be said that the victim on 22 July, 2014 was in Hamirpur and Mahoba area; on 23 July, 2014, the mobile location at 17:48 hours of the victim was at Poorvi Taraus Mahboob Ahmad Gate No. 2762/2, Village Tehsil Maudaha, Near Masjid Hamirpur; on 23

July, 2014 at 19:8 hours, the mobile location of the victim was Patara Abhinath Singh Kushwaha 2759 Patara Ghatampur Kanpur; on 23 July, 2014 at 21:25 hours, mobile location was at Anil Kumar Gupta Sataghar, Tehsil and District Hamirpur; on 24 July, 2014 at 7:40 hours, the mobile location of the victim was at Aligarh and on 24 July, 2014 at 16:57 hours, the mobile location was at Meerut. The victim on 22 July, 2014 was in Hamirpur area and thereafter on 23 July, 2014 was at Ghatampur Kanpur and thereafter at Aligarh and she reached Meerut at 16:57 hours.

40. On the aforesaid basis, the trial court came to the finding that on 22 July, 2014 the victim was not at Meerut whereas she went to Meerut on 23 July, 2014 and reached Meerut on 24 July, 2014. Thereafter, the mobile location of the victim was at Meerut.

41. So far as on 22 July, 2014, mobile location of accused Bhola alias Pramod was at Sisolar Ajay Kumar Oamar, Tehsil Maudaha Near Hospital Hamirpur; on 23 July, 2014 at 8:51 hours, the accused was in the same location. Thereafter on 23 July, 2014 at 21:25 hours, the location of the accused was at Hamirpur. In the intervening period, the accused had made 50 calls and received the same; out of which 24 calls were made to the victim and all the locations were of Maudaha.

42. On the aforesaid basis when the victim on 23 July, 2014 reached Kanpur via Ghatampur, at that point of time, accused Bhola alias Pramod mobile location was at Maudaha. On 24 July, 2014 the victim reached Meerut and at 16:57 hours SMS was received at Meerut. On 24 July, 2014 the location of mobile phone of accused was at Maudaha and thereafter at Banda and further thereafter at Maudaha at 16:54 hours. Further, in the night at 22:30 hours, the mobile location of the accused was at Maudaha. On 25 July, 2014 the mobile location of the accused was at Maudaha; on 26 July, 2014, 27 July, 2014, 28 July, 2014 and 29 July, 2014, the mobile location of all the accused was at Maudaha.

43. On the aforesaid basis, the trial court came to the conclusion that the accused was not travelling with the victim in the train while she was going to Meerut nor the accused went to the Meerut and as such, the statement of the victim that the accused Bhola alias Pramod came to Meerut along with the victim does not corroborate with the call details.

44. The PW-2 (victim) in her statement has stated that on 2 November, 2014, accused met her between the crossing and the school; accused was sitting in his Marshall car; she (victim) did not know who was driving the car; she (victim) first saw Shrichandra who opened the door of the vehicle; when she came near to the vehicle, Shrichandra shouted to catch hold the victim and thereafter Ramsewak, Bhola alias Pramod and Santosh forcefully caught her and forced her into the vehicle; in the vehicle Bhola alias Pramod and Santosh were sitting with the victim and Ramsewak and Shrichandra were sitting at the back of the vehicle; victim stayed at the room in Ghaziabad; thereafter the victim went from Ghaziabad along with Bhola alias Pramod to Kanpur; on 8 November, 2014 between 6 to 7 a.m. she came to Kanpur; she has stated that she came on Auto to the railway station; she has stated that when she was boarding the train she had shouted for help and also desisted forceful boarding of the train, however, she did not received any injury; she has stated that she was kept at Ghaziabad for five days.

45. From perusal of the mobile call details of the victim, it is evident that upto 31 July, 2014 the mobile phone of victim was working and thereafter the mobile phone started working on 10 November, 2014. On the aforesaid basis, the trial court came to the conclusion that from 31 July, 2014 to 10 November, 2014, the mobile phone of the victim was switched off. The location of the mobile phone of the victim on 31 July, 2014 was in Meerut area and on 1 November, 2014 the location of the mobile phone of the accused at 21:11 hours was at Sisolar, Tehsil Maudaha, Near Hosptial Hamirpur; on 2 November, 2014, the accused made six calls and received the same and mobile location of the call of the accused was at Sisolar.

46. On the aforesaid basis, the trial court came to the conclusion that the time which the victim alleges that the accused forcefully took her into the vehicle and took her to Ghaziabad, at that point of time, the mobile phone location of the accused was at Kanpur and it is not possible that the accused reached to Meerut on 2 November, 2014 and as such the fact that accused Bhola alias Pramod took the victim forcefully in the vehicle from Meerut is against the call details. From 4 November, 2014 to 7 November, 2014, the mobile phone location of the accused was at Delhi and on 8 November, 2014 at 20:7 hours, the mobile phone location of the accused was at Kanpur and on the aforesaid basis, the trial court came to the conclusion that the narration of events by the victim does not match with the call details and the presence of the accused at the place of occurrence has not been proved by the prosecution.

47. It is further been noted that the victim was medically examined on 22 November, 2014 at District Women Hospital by Dr. Asha Sachan (PW-5). The aforesaid witness has duly proved the medical examination report dated 22 November, 2014. The witness has testified that the victim had informed the aforesaid witness that one neighbourhood boy and others had abducted her and has taken her to Ghaziabad where they have committed rape. The aforesaid witness has stated that the hymen was ruptured, old and healed. The said witness has proved the medical examination report as Exhibit Ka-5A. No external injury was found on the body of the victim during medical examination nor there was any bleeding. The said witness has testified that the victim has not given the name of the accused person. The case of the prosecution is to the effect that the victim was forcefully abducted and thereafter against her consent and forcefully raped. However, the medical evidence does not support the prosecution case.

48. On the aforesaid basis, the trial court came to the conclusion that the victim has not disclose the complete facts and have hidden the actual facts from the court and as such, the statement of the victim is not reliable.

49. Insofar as the allegation with regard to rape of victim is concerned, the victim in her statement has stated that she was taken to Ghaziabad in Marshall vehicle and was kept in one room where the accused Bhola alias Pramod had committed rape. She has stated that the accused use to bring food for victim in the night and use to beat her. She has stated that she did not take bath for six days and use to attend the natural call in the room. She has also stated that she did not shout for help as the accused Bhola alias Pramod use to threaten her. The statement of the victim is not believable as when the accused forcefully asked the victim to have food then there was no occasion that the victim could have been left without food. On the basis of the statement of the victim alone, it cannot be said that the victim was subjected to rape and the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt.

50. Insofar as the other accused persons are concerned, in the FIR only the name of the Bhola alias Pramod was given as the person who has taken away the victim. However, the victim was produced before the court. She has stated that the name of brother of main accused, Santosh, father Shrichandra and Ramsewak. When the statement of the victim in relation to the main accused Bhola alias Pramod is doubtful then it is not open that the same evidence be considered for prosecution of the other accused persons.

51. On the basis of the aforesaid, the trial court came to the conclusion that the prosecution has failed to prove the fact that when the victim was going to Meerut then the accused Bhola alias Pramod and Santosh also went to Meerut along with the victim.

52. The prosecution has also failed to prove that the accused forcefully took the victim in the Marshall vehicle and that she was taken to Ghaziabad by the accused persons. The prosecution has also failed to prove that the victim was subjected to rape. The victim met her father/informant on 8 November, 2014. However, as per the recovery memo dated 22 November, 2014, the victim was brought to the Police Station on 22 November, 2014 and there is no explanation as to why the victim was not produced before the Investigating Officer on 9 November, 2014. There is no evidence with regard to any abuse being made by the accused persons. On the aforesaid basis, the trial court acquitted the accused persons for offence under Sections 363, 366, 376 D, 342 and 504 IPC and Section 6 of the POCSO Act.

53. Considering the overall circumstances and submission of learned A.G.A. and after going through the evidence and lower court record, we are unable to persuade ourselves in taking a different opinion from that of trial court. The trial court was fully justified in acquitting the accused-respondent.

54. Learned AGA failed to point out any illegality, infirmity or perversity in the judgment of the trial court.

55. The leave to appeal application is, accordingly, rejected.

56. The appeal, in consequence, stands dismissed.

57. Let the lower court record be transmitted back to court below along with a copy of this order.

Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - View taken by the Trial Court is a possible view-Appellate court to interfere only if strong and compelling reasons-Prosecution case is not supported with medical evidence-manner and style of incident is not believable.

Appeal dismissed. (E-9)

List of Cases cited:

1. Anwar Ali & ors. Vs The St. of H.P., MANU/SC/0723/2020

2. Ghurey Lal Vs St. of U.P. (2008) 10 SCC 450

(Delivered by Hon'ble Om Prakash-VII, J.)

1. This Government Appeal has been preferred by the State-appellant against the judgment and order of acquittal dated 31.10.2003 passed by Additional Sessions Judge / Fast Track Court No.2, Bijnor in Sessions Trial No.456 of 1998, State Versus Ishwar Chandra and others, relating to Police Station Seohara, District Bijnor by which the learned trial court has acquitted all the respondents namely, Ishwar Chandra, Ram Phal Singh, Krishan Bahadur and Hari Om for the offences under sections 307/34, 302/34, 323/34, 504, 506 I.P.C.

2. At the very outset, we would like to point out that leave to appeal was granted and appeal was admitted on 31.7.2008. Pending final outcome, one of the accused-respondents namely, Ram Phal Singh expired and appeal in his respect stands abated vide order dated 16.12.2021. We therefore have to adjudicate this appeal only against surviving accused-respondent no.1, 3 and 4 namely, Ishwar Chandra, Krishan Bahadur and Hari Om.

3. Briefly narrated, prosecution allegations against respondents-accused, as mentioned in the written report (Ex. Ka.-1) given by the informant - Hemraj Singh, are that on 26.5.1998 at about 6:00 in the morning, the brother of the informant namely, Bhopal Singh son of Babu Singh had gone towards the southern direction from the village to attend the nature call. On the way, accused Ishwar Chandra son of Ram Phal Singh, Ram Phal Singh son of Moti Singh, Krishan Bahadur son of Moti Singh and Hari Om son of Krishan Bahadur, who belong to same village and were armed with lathi and tabal, surrounded the brother of the informant and with intention to kill, they started beating him. Due to this assault, brother of the informant became seriously injured. He received multiple injuries on his body. On hearing the noise, when the informant reached there to save / rescue his brother, all the four accused-persons assaulted the informant with lathi and danda, hurled abuses and threatened him with dire consequences. This incident was witnessed by the villager Brijpal Singh son of Umed Singh and Anand Kumar son of Chhotey who also tried to save the informant and his brother. There was old enmity going on between the parties. Request was made to register the case and take legal action.

4. Thereafter, a written report of the incident Ex. Ka.-1 was given at the police station concerned by the informant Hemraj Singh (P.W.1). On the basis of written report, head constable Raj Nath Singh

(P.W.8) prepared chik report (Ex. Ka.-6) and registered the case as crime no.181 of 1998 under sections 307, 324, 323, 450 IPC in the G.D. (Ex.Ka.-7) at serial no.22 on 26.5.1998 at 8:45 A.M.

5. After registration of the case, "chitthi majroobi" (letter for medical examination of injured) was got prepared for injured Hemraj Singh and Bhopal Singh and they were sent for medical examination at Primary Health Centre, Seohara.

6. Dr. Ashok Rana (P.W.3), who was posted at P.H.C., Seohara, examined the injuries of Hemraj Singh (P.W.1) on the same day i.e. 26.5.1998 at 9:00 A.M. and found following injuries on his person :

(i) Abrasion 5 cm. x 1.5 cm. on outer aspect of right lower limb 2.5 cm. below from right shoulder joint away from wound.

(ii) Contusion 4 cm. x 1 cm. on outer aspect of right thigh 10 cm. above from right knee joint, deep red in colour.

(iv) Contusion 11 cm. x 2 cm. on left side lumbar region 20 cm. below from scapula, deep red in colour.

(v) Contusion in area 11 cm. x 5 cm. on upper right buttock, deep red in colour.

(vi) Contusion 4 cm. x 2 cm. on outer aspect of right thigh 8 cm. away from injury no. (v), deep red in colour.

(viii) Incised wound 3 cm. x 0.5 cm. x 0.25 cm. on right side scalp 1.5 cm. above from injury no. (vii). Margin sharp clean cut everted. Fresh blood clot present.

As per opinion of the doctor, all the injuries found on the person of the injured were simple in nature. Injuries no. (i) and (iii) were caused by friction from rough surface. Injuries no. (ii), (iv), (v), (vi) and (vii) were caused by blunt and hard object whereas injury no. (viii) was caused by some sharp edged object. Injuries were fresh in duration.

7. Injuries sustained by injured Bhopal Singh (deceased) were not noted down by the concerned doctor at P.H.C., Seohara, rather they referred him to Medical College, Meerut. However, the injured Bhopal Singh succumbed to his injuries at 1:00 P.M. at Dhanaura Mandi on the way to Meerut Medical College. Thereafter, dead body of the deceased was brought back to his village and information of his death was given at the concerned police station in writing (Ex.Ka.-9) by P.W.9 Brij Pal Singh. On the basis of this information, section 302 IPC was added in the case. G.D. entry was also made to this effect which is Ex.Ka.-8. Thereafter, S.I. Ram Swaroop Sagar (P.W.10) of the concerned police station reached at village Galla Khedi and performed the inquest on the body of the deceased Bhopal Singh and prepared inquest memo Ex. Ka-10 and other papers relating to inquest. Letters to R.I., C.M.O., photo lash, challan lash, sample seal were also prepared and keeping the dead body of the deceased in a sealed cloth it was sent for postmortem examination at District Hospital, Bijnor.

8. Autopsy on the body of the deceased Bhopal Singh was performed at District Hospital, Bijnor on 27.5.1998 at 1:00 P.M. by Dr. Vijay Kumar Goel (P.W.5) and he prepared the postmortem report (Ex.

Ka-3). The age of the deceased was about 48 years. He was a middle aged man of thin built. Membranes were pale. Eyes were partly opened. Mouth was closed. Rigor mortis was found in all the four limbs.

The following antemortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased :

(i) Incised wound 1.5 cm. x 0.5 cm. x bone deep on right upper arm and on lower part.

(ii) Multiple contusions in an area of 9 cm. x 10 cm. on right upper arm. On exposure, there was collection of blood inside the muscles and humerus bone was found fractured.

(iii) Three abrasions in an area of 12 cm. x 5 cm. in right forearm upto wrist. On exposure, there was collection of blood under skin. Both bones of right forearm were fond fractured.

(iv) Abrasion ½ cm. x ½ cm. on the left elbow, outer side.

(v) Abrasion 5 cm. x ½ cm. on back of left forearm, mid area.

(vi) Abrasion 3 cm. x 1 cm. on left wrist, back and middle side.

(vii) Multiple contusions on whole back side in an areas of 60 cm. x 30 cm. Largest contusion was of size 13 cm. x 4 cm. and smallest one was of 8 cm. x 3 cm. They were ten in numbers.

(viii) Multiple contusions in an area of 30 cm. x 12 cm. on back of left hip and on back side of thigh in size of 5 cm. x 2 cm. to 10 cm. x 4 cm. Six in numbers.

(ix) Multiple abrasions in an area of 27 cm. x 10 cm. in front of left knee and legs. 1 cm. x 1 cm. to 3 cm. x 1 cm. size. Eight in numbers.

(x) Lacerated wound 1 cm. x 0.5 cm. x bone deep on left leg just above medial malleolus. On exposure, both bones of leg were found fractured.

(xi) Contusion 6 cm. x 2.5 cm. in abdomen on right side.

(xii) Multiple contusions in an area of 30 cm. x 15 cm. on right hip and thigh area. Four in numbers.

(xiii) Multiple abrasions in an area of 32 cm. x 6 cm. in front of right knee and leg, ten in numbers, with redness and swelling all around right leg.

(xiv) Abrasion 2 cm. x 1.5 cm. on top of right shoulder.

On internal examination, 7th, 8th and 9th ribs of left side were found fractured and there was fracture on posterior ends. There was injury on the left lung whereas no injury was found on the right lung. Teeth were 16/16. 100 gm. liquid was found in the stomach. As per opinion of the doctor, death of the deceased was the outcome of shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries.

9. Initially, the investigation was made by P.W.10 S.I. Ramswaroop, who visited the place of occurrence and prepared site plan (Ex.Ka.-15) mentioning all details of the place of occurrence. He also took blood stained and plain earth into possession and prepared fard. Statement of witnesses were also recorded. After the case was converted into section 302 IPC, investigation was handed over to P.W.11 S.O. Jaipal Singh. The said investigating officer, after fulfilling entire formalities, submitted charge-sheet (Ex.Ka.-21) against the accused-respondents.

10. Case, being exclusively triable by the Court of Sessions, was committed for trial. Accused appeared and charge against them was framed for the offence punishable under sections 307/34, 302/34, 323/34, 504, 506. The charges were read out and explained to the accused-respondents, who all abjured them, pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

11. During trial, in order to prove its case, prosecution examined as many as 11 witnesses i.e. P.W.1 Hemraj, the informant and injured of the case, P.W.2 Anand Singh, P.W.3 Dr. Ashok Rana, who examined the informant injured Hemraj, P.W.4 Constable 866 Mahendra Singh, P.W.5 Dr. Vijay Kumar Goel who performed the autopsy on the body of the deceased, P.W.6 Contable 732 Jeevan Singh, P.W.7 H.C. Sobran Singh, P.W.8 Constable 450 Rajnath Singh, P.W.9 Brijpal Singh, P.W.10 S.I. Ram Swaroop Sagar and P.W.11 S.O. Jaipal Singh.

12. After closing the evidence, statement of the accused under section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded by the trial court in which the accused denied the entire prosecution evidence and claimed that they were falsely implicated in this case. Oral and documentary evidence ware also adduced by the accused in their defence.

13. Trial court after hearing the parties disbelieved the prosecution version and vide impugned judgment and order, acquitted the accused-respondents for the charges framed against them. Hence, this appeal.

14. We have heard Sri Sanjay Kumar Nigam, learned A.G.A. for the State-appellant as well as Sri G.S. Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Ajatshatru Pandey, learned counsel for the accused-respondents.

15. Submission of learned A.G.A. appearing for the State was that finding arrived at by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order regarding the acquittal of the accused-respondents are illegal and perverse. P.W.1 Hemraj Singh, P.W.2 Anand Singh and P.W.9 Brij Pal Singh are eye-account witnesses. P.W.1 Hemraj Singh sustained injuries in the said incident. He was also beaten by the accused-respondents in the incident. Medical evidence fully supports the oral version. There was a dying declaration in the form of statement of the deceased under section 161 Cr.P.C., which can be relied upon, but the trial court ignoring the settled principle of law disbelieved the aforesaid statement to be treated as dying declaration. First information report was lodged promptly with clear details. Motive to commit the present offence has also been disclosed in it. Finding of the trial court regarding the first information report is also illegal and perverse. Prosecution was able to prove the date, time and place of the incident. All the accused-persons have participated in commission of the crime. Actual role played by each and every accused has also been established by the prosecution. Weapon assigned to them have also been made clear during examination. Non-examination of the scribe of written report is not fatal to the prosecution case. Minor contradictions occurred in the statement of the witnesses are not material to disbelieve the statement of eye-account / injured witnesses. Thus, referring to the entire evidence adduced by the parties as well as finding recorded by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order, prayer was made to allow the appeal and set-aside the impugned judgment and order convicting the accused-respondents.

16. Per contra, learned counsel appearing for the accused-respondents argued that it was a blind murder case. None has seen the incident. P.W.1 is also not an eye-account witness. He did not receive injuries in the said incident. Injury report said to have been prepared in respect of P.W.1 Hemraj Singh is a fake and forged document and injuries are self-suffered. First information report was not in existence at the time mentioned in it. Thus it is too prompt which creates doubt about the genuineness of the first information report. Incident is said to have taken place at 6:00 hours in the morning. First information report is said to have been lodged at 8:45 A.M. Injury report prepared in respect of P.W.1 Hemraj Singh is of 9:00 A.M. Thus referring to the aforesaid time, it was further argued that looking to the distance of the police station from the place of occurrence and the conveyance / vehicle said to have been used by the injured and the deceased in reaching the police station, it appears improbable that the first information report was lodged at 8:45 A.M. It is the prosecution case that the written report was prepared in this matter at Tajpur town from one Naresh. Some time would have spent in preparing the written report. Thus, the finding recorded by the trial court in this respect is in accordance with evidence and law. Referring to the finding arrived at by the trial court on the point of motive, it was further submitted that the trial court after discussing in detail the prosecution evidence has reached on a conclusion that enmity was against the informant's side for false implication of the accused-respondents, as the informant's side was convicted and sentenced in a criminal case started on behalf of the accused-respondents' side. Enmity suggested by the prosecution is not believable. This fact finds support with the statement of prosecution witnesses itself. Dying declaration said to have been recorded in the matter in the form of statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. is also not believable. It is not as per Police Regulations. There are major contradictions as to whether witnesses, said to be eye-account witnesses, were present near the place of occurrence or they had gone towards the eastern side of the village to attend the nature call. Thus, on this point also, there is contradiction in the statement of prosecution witnesses. Medical evidence does not support the oral version, as no injury was found, said to have been sustained by the injured and the deceased said to be caused by the weapon tabal. Thus, referring to the entire evidence as well as finding recorded by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order, it was next argued that the impugned judgment and order is based on correct appreciation of fact and law and is well discussed and reasoned order. The appellate court cannot substitute its view over the view of the trial court, as the view taken by the trial court is a possible view. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the accused-respondents placed reliance on the following case laws :

(i) Anwar Ali and Others Versus The State of Himachal Pradesh, MANU/SC/0723/2020

(ii) Ghurey Lal Versus State of U.P. (2008) 10 SCC 450

17. We have considered the rival contentions advanced by the parties and have gone through the entire record.

18. Before proceeding to deal with the submissions raised across the Bar, we would like to point out the findings arrived at by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order, which are as follows :

(i) F.I.R. was not in existence at the time mentioned in it. Thus, it is ante-timed document.

(ii) Non-examination of the scribe of the written report affects the prosecution case.

(iii) Injury report said to have been prepared in respect of injured Hemraj is not a genuine document as it could not be prepared at the time mentioned in it.

(iv) P.W.1 Hemraj Singh, P.W.2 Anand Singh and P.W.9 Brij Pal Singh are not eye-account witnesses. Their presence at the place of occurrence at the time of commission of offence becomes highly doubtful from their statement itself.

(v) Enmity is against the informant's side itself for false implication of the accused. Enmity shown by the prosecution witnesses is not natural and believable.

(vi) Prosecution was also not able to prove the place of incident from its evidence beyond reasonable doubt.

(vii) Dying declaration is not reliable document.

(viii) Manner of incident is also not proved from the statement of prosecution witnesses.

(ix) There are major contradictions in the statement of prosecution witnesses on material point.

(x) None has seen the incident.

(xi) Incident took place in the night hours. First information was lodged on the basis of false facts due to enmity discussed in the impugned judgment and order.

19. In this matter, as is evident from the record, incident is of 6:00 A.M. First information report was lodged on the same day at 8:45 A.M. Distance between the place of incident and the police station is of 17 kms. Prosecution case is that initially, injured and the deceased both were taken to the police station Seohara on a bullock-cart and after registering the case, they went to P.H.C. Thereafter, deceased, who was alive at that time, was referred to Meerut Medical College for better treatment and on the way he died. If the injury report of P.W.1 Hemraj Singh is taken into consideration, then also it has been prepared at 9:00 A.M. on the same day. First information report was lodged at 8:45 A.M. Trial court was of the view that it appears unbelievable that within 15 minutes after receiving the majroobi chhitthi, injured would have reached at the hospital concerned. If the finding arrived at by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order is minutely analyzed with the statement of P.W.1., P.W.2 and P.W.9 and other police witnesses, it emerge that sometime would have consumed in preparing the first information report, thereafter G.D. and majroobi chhitthi. In this situation, it will not be possible for P.W.1 Hemraj Singh to reach at hospital concerned at 9:00 A.M. itself. From the perusal of entire documents, it is also evident that the doctor concerned, who prepared the injury report, has admitted that injured was medically examined as private person whereas in the injury report, it is mentioned that it has been brought by police concerned. These two facts itself create doubt about the genuineness of the injury report. If such is the position, finding recorded by the trial court regarding the genuineness of the injury report belonging to P.W.1 Hemraj Singh cannot be taken as incorrect. Trial court while concluding the finding on this point has analyzed the entire evidence in detail and after a thorough discussion, has reached on such conclusion. Thus, we are of the view that finding of the trial court on this issue need no interference.

20. Now we are proceeding to deal with the submission regarding enmity. Trial court has concluded that P.W.1 - the informant has admitted in the cross-examination that he (informant) and the deceased both were convicted and sentenced in a prosecution started on behalf of the accused-respondents' side. Perusal of the record also reveals that when question to this extent was put by the defense counsel during cross-examination, P.W.1 Hemraj tried to conceal this fact. On query made by the court regarding the demeanor of this witness, he has admitted that he was convicted and sentenced as discussed here-in-above. Written report (Ex.Ka.-1) discloses that only this fact has been mentioned in it that "मुल्जिमान से हमारी पुरानी रंजिश चल रही है"

21. During examination before the trial court, P.W.1 Hemraj, who is the brother of the deceased, has stated that there was dispute between the deceased and the accused-respondents' side regarding the portion of the purchased land. When he was cross-examined, he has admitted that settlement was arrived at between the parties and portion of land belonging to the parties had been bifurcated. At one point of time, he has admitted that portion belonging to the accused-respondents was found better and portion belonging to the deceased was found less better. Analyzing to this fact, the trial court was of the view that if the portion belonging to the accused-respondents' side was better than the portion belonging to the deceased, then in that situation, grudge will be to the deceased side and the enmity disclosed during examination will not be sufficient to commit the present offence by the accused-respondents, rather there is probability that accused-respondents were falsely implicated in this matter due to enmity admitted by P.W.1, the informant. If the findings arrived at by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order are minutely analyzed with the facts and evidence of the present matter, it is clear that finding of the trial court is based on evidence available on record and is a possible view. It is not based on conjecture and surmises. Thus, findings of the trial court on point of enmity is also not interfererable.

22. As far as non-examination of scribe of the written report is concerned, it has been admitted in the evidence by P.W.1 that Naresh is the relative of the informant. He met with him at Tajpur and at that place he drafted the written report on his dictation. If the statement of prosecution witnesses are closely analyzed in the light of findings arrived at by the trial court regarding the non-examination of Naresh, it is clear that his close relative was in serious condition. He did not think to go to police station nor to the hospital. Trial court finding is that non-examination of Naresh by the prosecution became fatal to the prosecution case. If the finding arrived at by the trial court on this issue be not taken as correct appreciation of fact and evidence, then the Court has to analyze other evidence adduced by the parties to form an opinion contrary to the opinion formed by the trial court. So far as presence of P.W.1 Hemraj, P.W.2 Anand Singh and P.W. 9 Brijpal on the date, time and place of occurrence is concerned, nothing has been mentioned in the written report (Ex.Ka.-1) disclosing this fact that P.W.1 - the informant was also heading towards the field following the deceased. When he was examined during trial, he has stated that he was also going towards the field for nature call behind the deceased. Trial court has opined that P.W.1 was not an eye-account witness. He was not present at the place of occurrence at the time of offence. If the statement of P.W.2 Anand Singh and P.W.9

Brijpal are taken into consideration, it is evident that P.W.9 Brijpal has stated that this witness along with P.W.1, P.W.2 and the deceased were easing towards eastern side of the village whereas in the written report (Ex.Ka.-1) it has been mentioned that the deceased Bhopal had gone to ease towards southern side of the village. P.W.9 has also admitted that pond is situated towards eastern side of the village and they had gone towards that pond to attend the nature call. P.W.2 Anand Singh has also admitted that when he was easing, he heard the noise and thereafter he reached at the place of occurrence. Distance between the place of occurrence and the place where they were easing has been stated about 200 yards. At one point of time, P.W.2 has stated that when he reached at the place of occurrence, deceased was unconscious, but no blood was oozing. He has also made contradictory statement to the aforesaid statement that incident took place when he reached at the place of occurrence. P.W.1 claimed himself to be an eye-account injured witness. His medical report was prepared on the same day at about 9:00 A.M. First information report was lodged at 8:45 A.M. When P.W.3 Dr. Ashok Rana was cross-examined, he has specifically stated that medical examination of P.W.1 was conducted by him as a private person. He has also admitted in cross-examination that injuries found on the body of the injured P.W.1 Hemraj may be self-suffered and no injury was found over his body said to have been caused by weapon "tabbal". Trial court taking into consideration the entire facts, circumstances and the evidence adduced by the parties was of the view that P.W.1 was not present at the place of occurrence, injuries said to have been found on the body of the injured were not occurred in the said incident, rather injury report is a forged document and injuries are manufactured. If the prosecution evidence are minutely analyzed in light of the argument advanced by learned counsel for the parties as well as finding arrived at by the trial court, it can safely be held that finding of the trial court that P.W.1 was not present at the place of occurrence at the time of commission of the offence is also based on correct appreciation of facts and evidence. Had he been the eye-account witness of the incident, the material contradictions elucidated in the impugned judgment and order in his statement do not occur and material fact regarding his presence at the place of occurrence comes in the written report (Ex.Ka.-1) itself. As far as presence of P.W.2 Anand Singh at the place of occurrence is concerned, this witness has also made contradictory statement. If the statement made by this witness are minutely analyzed / compared with the statement of P.W.9 Brijpal and P.W.1 Hemraj in light of the discussion made by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order, it is clear that in fact, this witness was also not present at the place of occurrence. When deceased was being beaten by the accused-persons, he has not seen the incident. Finding arrived at by the trial court regarding presence of this witness at the place of occurrence is also based on correct appreciation of fact and evidence.

23. So far as the presence of P.W.9 Brijpal at the place of occurrence at the time of offence is concerned, this witness has admitted that he was government employee and was on duty in his office. If the statement of this witness is taken into consideration, as has been discussed here-in-above, this witness has made different story with the facts disclosed in the written report (Ex.Ka.-1) and as stated by P.W.1 and P.W.2. If this witness was present in the eastern side of the village near the pond and the deceased had gone to ease towards southern side of the village, it appears improbable and unbelievable that incident took place before this witness. Trial court has discussed the entire evidence minutely and has rightly observed that P.W.9 Brijpal was also not present at the time of occurrence. If the statement of P.W.1, P.W.3 and P.W.9 are also compared with the site plan prepared in the matter and the statement of investigating officers, it is evident that nothing has been stated by these witnesses to the investigating officer regarding the enmity between the parties on point of mend. Thus, we are also of the view that finding of the trial court, which is based on evidence adduced by the parties, is correct appreciation of fact and evidence. P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.9 were not eye-account witnesses. No interference is required in the finding of the trial court on this score.

24. As far as medical evidence is concerned, we have discussed here-in-above that injury report of the injured P.W.1 Hemraj is a forged document. No injury from the weapon tabbal was found on his body, although, the fact witnesses have stated that P.W.1 was also beaten by the accused-respondents by tabbal. Trial court has also doubted the presence of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.9 at the place of occurrence at the time of commission of the offence on the ground that their statement are not supported with medical evidence. No injury was found on the body of the deceased said to have been caused by weapon tabbal. Trial court has also observed that tabbal is a heavy cutting weapon. No such injuries said to have been caused by the weapon tabbal were found on the body of the deceased. Trial court has also based its finding on the basis of contents of the stomach and has opined that incident took place in other manner caused by some unknown persons. Due to this reason, there was contradiction in the statement of prosecution witnesses on point of injuries. P.W.1 Hemraj has also made contradictory statement as to whether he was hospitalized in P.H.C., Seohara or he was accompanying the deceased for Meerut Medical College. If the finding of the trial court regarding the medical evidence are minutely analyzed with the submission raised across the Bar, no illegality, infirmity or perversity is found in it. Certainly medical evidence and the oral version of the said eye-account witness are contradictory to each other.

25. So far as the dying declaration said to have been recorded in the matter is concerned, initially the first information report was lodged in this matter under section 307 IPC. Deceased was taken to P.H.C., Seohara on a tractor-trolley. It is the case of the prosecution that looking to the serious condition of the deceased, he was immediately referred to the Meerut Medical College, but he died on the way when he was being taken to the Medical College. No evidence was adduced on part of the prosecution to establish that treatment was given to the deceased before proceeding to Medical College, Meerut. When postmortem of the deceased was conducted, dressing / bandage was found over the wounds of the deceased. Trial court while analyzing the prosecution evidence has opined that if no treatment / first aid was done to the injuries said to have been sustained by the deceased on his body, then under what circumstances and how the wounds dressing was found over the body of the deceased. If the statement of P.W.5 Dr. Vijay Kumar Goel, who conducted the postmortem on the body of the deceased, is taken into consideration, it has come that no inury was found on the body of deceased said to have been caused by the weapon "tabbal".

26. Statement of P.W.1 Hemraj and the deceased are said to have been recorded by the investigating officer concerned at P.H.C., Seohara itself. Trial court doubting the genuineness of the dying declaration was of of the opinion that dying declaration has not been recorded following the guidelines of Police Regulations. Doctor was present at that time. Prosecution witnesses themselves have admitted that condition of the deceased was serious. The investigating officer concerned did not obtain the certificate of the Doctor concerned regarding the physical and mental condition of the deceased. Trial court has also opined that condition of the deceased was serious and he was not in a position to speak, as has been admitted by the prosecution witnesses themselves. Therefore, it appears that the dying declaration was recorded by the investigating officer at his own. Trial court while arriving at the conclusion on this point has discussed in detail the entire evidence and thereafter has formed opinion that the dying declaration said to have been recorded in the matter is not free from suspicion. If the entire prosecution evidence are analyzed in light of the submissions raised across the Bar, no illegality, infirmity or perversity is found in the finding of the trial court on this point. Thus, no interference is required on this issue.

27. As far as the place of incident is concerned, if the statement of prosecution witnesses are compared with the site plan prepared in the matter and also with the fact disclosed in the written report, it emerge that the written report is clear that incident took place on the way whereas site plan discloses that incident occurred at two places. Firstly, in the field of the deceased and thereafter in the field of Rampal. The investigating officer has not shown the place of occurrence on the path. Witnesses examined in the matter, who claimed themselves to be eye-account witnesses, have also made contradictory statement. The contradiction occurred in the statement of prosecution witnesses due to the reason that they are not eye-account witnesses. Had they been eye-account witnesses, contradictions on point of place of occurrence would not have come in their statements. Trial court while analyzing the findings on this point has discussed the entire evidence, which is based on reasoning. On comparison of the evidence adduced by the parties with the findings of the trial court in light of the submissions raised across the Bar on this point, we do not find any error, illegality or perversity in the findings of the trial court on this point.

28. It is pertinent to mention here that the powers of the appellate court in an appeal against acquittal are no less than in an appeal against conviction. But where on the basis of evidence on record two views are reasonably possible the appellant court cannot substitute its view in the place of that of the trial court. It is only when the approach of the trial court in acquitting an accused is found to be clearly erroneous in its consideration of evidence on record and in deducing conclusions therefrom that the appellate court can interfere with the order of acquittal. It is also golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal case is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. It is also settled principle of law that paramount consideration of the Court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is avoided. The case of the prosecution must be judged as a whole having regard to the totality of the evidence in appreciating the evidence. The approach of the court must be an integrated one and not truncated or isolated.

29. Thus, on close scrutiny of the entire evidence adduced by the prosecution and comparing the same with the finding arrived at by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order, the Court is of the opinion that finding of the trial court is based on correct appreciation of fact and evidence. The view taken by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order is a possible view. The appellate court will interfere in such type of cases only when there is strong and compelling reasons in the prosecution evidence which dislodge the finding of the trial court itself. Merely, on the basis of statement of the witnesses examined in the matter, whereas prosecution case is not supported with medical evidence, manner and style of the incident stated by the prosecution witnesses is also not believable, then Court is of the view that the trial court has passed the impugned judgment and order after proper appreciation of the evidence and it is well reasoned order. Findings recorded by the lower appellate court in the impugned judgment and the order acquitting the accused-respondents from the charges levelled against them cannot be termed to be illegal, improper or illogical. Lower appellate court has rightly held that prosecution has not succeeded to prove guilt of accused-respondents beyond reasonable doubt. The accused-respondents are not found guilty for the offence punishable under Sections 307/34, 302/34, 323/34, 504, 506 IPC. As such, impugned judgment and order passed by lower appellate court is liable to be upheld and government appeal, having no force, is liable to be dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Umesh Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. At the outset, it is clarified that accused-respondent no. 2 - Saggal and respondent no. 3 Bhaggu have died during the pendency of the appeal, thus the appeal filed against them have been abated vide order dated 08.04.2022, henceforth the Court is proceeding to decide the appeal against surviving respondent.

2. Heard Shri Ratan Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State, Shri Virendra Singh, learned counsel for the accused-respondent and gone through the entire court record with the assistance of the respective counsels.

3. The instant appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 02.03.1984 passed by Assistant Sessions Judge, Mirzapur, in Sessions Trial No. 156 of 1982 arising out of Case Crime No. 227 of 1981, under Section 307 I.P.C., whereby, the deceased accused persons Bhaggu and Saggal and alive accused-respondent have been acquitted.

4. In brief the State of U.P. has pleaded in appeal that judgment and order of acquittal is wholly illegal and erroneous and against the law. Learned Trial Court has not assessed the prosecution evidence appropriately and has not considered the facts and circumstances of the case and material on record. The alleged offence took place on 02.11.1981 at 07:30 P.M. and the F.I.R. was lodged on the same night at 10:00 A.M. Blood was recovered from the Ekka and pieces of bomb and splinter etc. were also recovered. The prosecution has examined the following 08 witnesses, to prove the prosecution version:- (i) P.W.-1, Paggal, informant witness (ii) P.W.-2, Gulab, informant (iii) P.W.-3, Dr. A. D. Singh (iv) P.W.-4, Dr. K.N. Srivastava, (v) P.W.-5, Dr. C.P. Singh (vi) P.W.-6, S.I. Sarju Prasad Chaudhari, I.O. (vii) P.W.-7, Girija Shanker Tripathi, Head Constable and (viii) P.W.-8, Kunwar Bind Narayan, Pharmacist. There was no occasion to acquit the accused persons, therefore, the impugned judgment and order be set aside and the appeal be allowed and the accused-respondent, Baijnath be convicted and sentenced in accordance with law.

5. In brief facts of the case are that complainant- Gulab moved an application on 02.11.1981 to lodge the F.I.R. with the allegation that his brother Paggal used to drive Ikka and he was going on Ikka with his brother from Mirzapur city to his house; Amarnath Nai was also sitting on the said Ikka: At about 07:30 P.M., when all the three persons sitting on the Ikka reached at Railway crossing on Aam Ghat, three accused persons suddenly came and threw bombs on his brother Paggal. Miscreants were seen and recognized in the head light of truck. Upon hearing the noise of explosion of bomb, witnesses Figgal S/o unknown and so many other persons reached on the spot. Accused persons escaped. Paggal was seriously injured as well as Amarnath Nai has also received injuries. Few parts of Ikka were broken. There were inimical terms between the Paggal and accused persons due to some criminal cases as a result of which the accused persons inflicted bomb injuries with intention to kill him. The informant admitted the victim in the hospital and went to police station to lodge the F.I.R. One Jai Prakash has scribed the F.I.R. This information (Tahrir) has been exhibited as Exhibit Ka-I.

6. Informant Paggal was medically examined on the same day at 09:00 P.M. in District Hospital Mirzapur where the Doctor found 08 injuries; out of which 06 were lacerated and 02 were abrasion on the body of the victim. A radiological report was also prepared which is exhibited as Exhibit Ka-3, proved by Dr. K.N. Srivastava whereas the injury report of the injured Paggal has been proved by Dr. C.P. Singh as Ex. Ka-2, who opined that all injuries have incurred by the bombastic attack. He deposed that it appears that the attack was done from the front side.

7. Since the injuries nos.1 & 2 were serious in nature, therefore, X-ray was advised by the Doctor. P.W.-4, Dr. K.N. Srivastava, Radiologist found in X-ray that libera and fibula bones of the right leg of Paggal were broken in several parts on the lower part. About 2nd injury; report was NAD and no foreign body shadow was seen. P.W.-4 was of the opinion that X-ray done by him is trustworthy. P.W 5, Dr. C.P. Singh examined another injured Amarnath Nai on 03.11.1981 at 12 'o' clock and found contusion (scabbed) 0.5x0.5 cm on the middle of internal side of his right leg and 2.0x2.0 cm abrasion (scabbed) on the front of left leg below 0.8 cm from the left knee. The third injury (scabbed) abrasion 2.5x0.5 c.m was on the outer part of left wrist. According to the Doctor, these injuries were not caused by the explosive substance or fire-arm, but were caused by blunt object and rubbing and were ½ day old. It is noteworthy that during the trial the injured witness Amarnath Nai has not been examined.

8. P.W.-6, Sarju Prasad Chaudhari, S.H.O started the investigation on the same day i.e. on 03.11.1981 and reached the place of occurence and recorded the statement of informant Gulab and injured Paggal, searched the accused person and collected the parts of bombs, sutali, kathari and Ikka and blood stained wooden part of Ikka and prepared the recovery memo which is exhibited as Exhibit Ka-5. He has also proved the recovery memo as exhibit Ka-7. He has also prepared the site map and proved as Exhibit Ka-8 in the Court. He also sent another injured Amarnath Nai for treatment through a Constable after recording of his statement. He arrested accused Baiznath and recorded his statement. On 04.11.1981 after surrender, recorded the statement of the other accused persons namely, Saggal and Kallu and submitted the charge-sheet which is exhibited as Exhibit Ka-9, after completing the investigation.

9. Case being exclusively triable by the Sessions Court was committed to the Court of Sessions. Accused appeared. Charge for the offence u/s 307/34 I.P.C. was framed against them. To which they denied and claimed their trial.

10. Prosecution in support of its case examined eight witnesses in total as disclosed hereinabove.

11. The following documentary evidence have also been produced by the prosecution to prove its case.

(1) Exhibit ka-01, written statement by the complainant PW 1 Gulab

(2) Exhibit Ka-02, injury report of injured Paggal

(3) Exhibit Ka-03, radiology report of injured Paggal

(4) Exhibit Ka-04, injury report of Amaranth Nai

(5) Exhibit Ka-05, recovery memo of blood stained wooden parts of Ikka

(6) Exhibit Ka-06, recovery memo of blood stained "Kathari'

(7) Exhibit Ka-07, recovery memo regarding Sutali Bomb

(8) Exhibit Ka-08, recovery memo of site plan prepared by the investigation officer

(9) Exhibit Ka-09, charge sheet

(10) Exhibit Ka-10, copy of chik FIR

(11) Exhibit Ka-11, carbon copy of GD regarding lodging of FIR

(12) Exhibit Ka-12, GD regarding arrest of accused Baijnath

(13) Exhibit Ka-13, bed head ticket

(14) Exhibit Ka-14, outdoor ticket.

The burden of proof lies on the parties, who substantially asserts the affirmative of the issue and not upon the party, who denies it. In criminal cases it is for the prosecution to bring the guilt home to the accused. The accused is not bound to establish his innocence for the reason that there is no burden laid on the accused to prove his innocence and it is sufficient if he succeeds in raising a doubt as to his guilt.

In the case of Bishan Dass Vs. State of Punjab A.I.R 1975 Supreme Court 573, the Supreme Court held that even total silence of the accused as to any defense of his part does not lighten the prosecution burden to proof it's case satisfactorily.

In the case of Kali Ram Vs. State of H.P, A.I.R 1973 Supreme Court 2773, the Supreme Court held that in a criminal trial the onus is upon the prosecution to prove the different ingredients of the offence and unless it is discharge that onus it can not succeed.

In the case of Pratap Vs. State of U.P. AIR 1976 Supreme Court 966, the Supreme Court held that the burden on the accused is not onerous as that which lies on the prosecution. While the prosecution is required to prove this case beyond reasonable doubt, the accused can discharge his onus by establishing a mere preponderance of probability.

A case is a "proceedings" within the meaning of Section 102 Evident Act and the burden of proof in such a proceeding lies on the prosecution for the simple reason that if neither the prosecution nor the defense leads evidence, the accused is entitled to be acquitted.

In the light of above principles of law, the oral and documentary evidence adduced by the prosecution shall be analyzed.

12. P.W. 1 Paggal injured (brother of the informant P.W. 2 Gulab), has deposed as injured eyewitness and he has stated that when Ikka reached near the turning point after crossing the railway crossing, accused Saggal Bhaggu and Baij Nath, who were hiding there, started bombing. Baijnath fired the first bomb on him which hit the wheel of Ikka. Bhagu detonated the second bomb, which fell on the ground and exploded. Third bomb was detonated by Suggal which fell on the bamboo of the ace, it hurt his leg, hand and ear. Horse and Amarnath also got injuries, the horse-ran by its sound and stopped before the Aamghat river. He admits that Saggal & Bhaggan are the real brother, Baijnath is a mechanic.

13. According to this witness four months before this incident, he was thatching shanty when Saggal, Bhaggan, Jogi and Chhote Lal (deceased) came and started hitting him and did not allow the shanty to be kept, Chhotel Lal got hurt by sticks of them, but they suspected him for his injury who succumbed to death on next day. Since then they bored enmity with him and started looking for him to kill. He admits that Baijnath is the resident of another village and there is no kinship among them. He admitted that he has been convicted for the murder of Chhotey Lal despite being innocent. He admits that in the night of the incident, it was dark and he started journey from Peeli Khoti at about 6:30 to 6:45 p.m. He also admits that the spot is not deserted place, there are houses of several persons adjacent to it and there is an adjacent railway gate where one or two men remain present always on duty, there is also a betel shop near the railway gate. According to this witness that time accused was going from west to east. The gate was closed, so they had stood up north, when the gate opened, they went towards the south. Accused were in some speed, which he could not see. Again, he deposed that he did not see where the killers were hiding, when his face was towards east, suddenly a bomb fell on him and he exhorted the accused. The bomb was thrown at him from the southern track of the road. He was stunned when the first bomb hit him. He could not run away after jumping. Rather the horse-ran fast after hearing the sound of the bomb. Then two bomb fell on him. He shouted, by then the accused had reached the bridge of Amghat. The truck was parked on the bridge of Aamghat, so the accused stopped. There was a lot of smoke when the bomb exploded. The killer fled away to the west. He did not have a torch. Amarnath did not even have a torch. The killer did not wear a bounty on their faces, they did not try to hide themselves. No one followed the killer. There was a huge crowd of people around, they did not have any conversation with them. In such a situation it can not be concluded that the witness had recognised the accused persons.

14. According to the opinion of this Court, if the victim had actually recognised the accused he would have told the people of the crowd that such people had attacked upon him. Further he admits that he did not tell the doctor as to who fired the bomb upon him. He again could not tell as to whether he got bombed first or Amarnath. In such as a fact, how it is possible that he would have recognised the accused persons. The statement of the people residing in the nearby houses or the government servants doing duty at the railway gate were not recorded nor they were examined in the court. This witness admits that he did not see the place where the accused were hiding. He admits that the dense smoke was near by at the scene. The witness does not say that before committing the incident he had seen the accused person at the spot. He admits that it was a dark night and there was no light at the scene and that he or Amanath did not have a torch. It is the contention of the prosecution that the witnesses recognized the accused persons in the light of the truck. But according to this witness the truck was not standing on the spot but the truck was standing on the Aamghat bridge. In such a situation it would not be possible to identify the accused in the light of the truck. If the P.W. 1 was plying the Ace, he would be looking at the road ahead and not side by side. According to this witness, when the bomb fell, the horse-ran very fast and reached to the Aamghat bridge, in such a situation there was no opportunity to see the accused persons by any of the witness. According to this witness the face of the accused persons were open and they did not try to hide their identity, but it is contrary to human nature that if the injured and the witnesses are familiar to the accused persons, they will keep their faces hidden. If the testimony of the witness is true then in such a situation, it can be thought that the accused had no fear, if so why did they choose the night time for attack, they could have openly committed such an incident, even during the day time.

15. P.W. 1 in his cross examination at Page 6 admits that in his area if the killer is not seen, then any one can be implicated, that is why he was implicated for the murder of Chhotey Lal. In the opinion of court as to why the same principle can not be applied in this case. He deposed that his face was towards the east and the accused persons attacked from the west and fled away towards the west. In such a case there will be no opportunity to identify the accused persons by the witnesses. He could not tell the name of truck driver or truck number in the light of which he had identified the accused persons and the I.O. has not shown and found any such truck and source of light. This leads to the conclusion that there was no truck head light in which he has recognised the accused persons. Thus the finding of this court is that the evidence of this witness is not credible and acceptable and without recognising the accused persons they were implicated on the basis of enmity.

In the case of Shyam Sunder Vs. State of Chattisgarh, AIR 2002 S.C 2815, Apex Court held that where it is found that the relationship between the prosecution witness and his family members on the one hand and the deceased and his family members on the other hand were strained and a criminal litigation was also pending between them, the testimony of the witness needs to be subjected to careful scrutiny.

In case of Ramnand Yadav Vs. Prabhu Nath Jhan & Ors AIR 2004 SC 1053, the Supreme Court held that if the relatives or interested witnesses are examined, the Court has a duty to analyse the evidence with deeper scrutiny and then come to a conclusion as to whether it has ring of truth or there is a reason for holding that the evidence was biased. Whenever a plea is taken that the witness is already partisan or has any hostility towards the accused, foundation for the same has to be laid. If the material shows that there is a partisan approach, the Court has to analyse the evidence with care and cation.

16. P.W - 2, Gulab is the real brother of injured P.W. 1, who is said to be present with Amarnath on the Ace at the time of the incident, exact and word to word similar deposition by the witnesses about the manner of attack leads to the inference that the witnesses are tutored, because every witness shall see the occurrence from their own angle. In this case there is no source of light and incident took place in a dark night, in spite of that witnesses have also deposed about the manner of attack by the accused persons with utmost similarity in their examination-in-chief.

17. Contrary to P.W. 1, this witness says that the night was the moonlight. This witness also admits heavy smoke on the spot. Contrary to P.W- 1 this witness says that attackers ran to the side of south. This witness says that their faces were towards the east and when the Ace went to the east accused persons threw the bombs. In the above situation there would be least possibility of recognising the accused persons. This witness also did not contacted the truck driver. According to him crowd of about 25 persons put off them from the Ace but no conversation took place with them. This also leads and creates doubt that if P.W 1 and P.W-2 had recognised the accused persons why in natural way they shall not speak about the accused persons and shall not share their names with the people of crowd. This witness also admits previous enmity with the accused persons which may be a reason for false implication or may be reason of committing the offence also as the enmity is the double edged weapon.

18. Both the witnesses of fact are real brother and interrelated and inimical witnesses. About the injured witness, there is presumption that he was present on the spot but there is no presumption that he is deposing the true facts. An independent witness Amarnath Nai did not come forward to support the prosecution case, which leads inference that he was not ready to tell a lie in support of the prosecution case. P.W.- 3, P.W-4 & PW-5 are doctors, who examined the injured persons but from their report and oral evidence, it is not proved that the injuries were caused by the accused persons as they are the formal witnesses .

19. In cross-examination, P.W-6 deposed that Railway gate is situated towards the north-west of the place of occurrence. He admitted that railway personnel do their job there 24 hours but he has not recorded the statement of any employee of the Railway Department. He has also recorded the statement of nearby residents such as Jaggu, Mangaru and Seva. He admits that he had not recorded the statement of Doctor. He admits that since there was no source of light on the spot, therefore he did not mention and showed it in the map. He visited the spot in the night and found it darky and cloudy.

20. P.W.-7, HCP Giriza Shanker Tripathi had prepared chik F.I.R. which is exhibited as Ex. Ka-10. On the basis of written Tehrir of the informant Exhibit Ka-1 and carbon copy of GD regarding registering the case as Exhibit Ka-11 and GD regarding the arrest of the accused Baiznath as Exhibit Ka-12 were prepared. He has proved these documents from his evidence on oath.

21. P.W.-8, Kunwar Bind Narayan, Pharmacist has adduced secondary evidence about the acts and report of Doctor A. D. Singh. He proved the Bed Head Ticket as Exhibit Ka-13 and out door slip as Exhibit Ka-14 prepared by Dr. A. D. Singh to be prepared by him in his hand-writing and signature.

22. After closure of oral evidence, statement of accused persons were recorded under section 313 IPC. Accused Baij Nath has stated that pagal is his relative and had taken loan from him and to avoid repayment Paggal has falsely implicated him. Paggal and Gulab are real brothers. Bhaggu has stated that due to enmity, he has been falsely implicated as accused. Due to enmity Gulab and Paggal, have adduced the evidence against him. Similar explanation has been given by the accused Saggal. Both these two persons have not given any details of enmity. The co-accused Baijnath has also not given any particulars regarding the loan from the accused persons and they have not produced any oral or documentary evidence in defence.

23. The Trial Court has not believed the testimony of P.W.-1 on the ground that at the time of occurrence there was dark smoky night and the witnesses were not able to see the place where the accused persons were hidden.

On the above discussion, this Court is of the considered view that there is some variations on the point that as to whether at the night of the occurrence there was dark or of full moon light. It is proved that it was a dark and cloudy night and there was no light of truck to recognize the accused persons. The accused persons have falsely been implicated in this case on the basis of previous enmity and no explosive substance, ammunition or bombs have been recovered from their possession upon their pointing out. The I.O. of the case has neither satisfactorily investigated the case nor recorded the statements of the railway employees deputed on Railway Gate. He has not recorded the statement of the Doctor and he has not found any source of light on the spot. He has not shown any truck or truck light in the map prepared by him and according to him it was a cloudy night, he has not shown any place of hiding of the accused persons or any drum alleged by the witnesses of fact. The independent witness Amar Nath has not been examined by the prosecution. This incident might have been caused by some other persons for the purposes of robbery etc.

From the above discussions, it is clearly established that the witnesses have not been able to recognize the accused persons and the accused persons were named in F.I.R on account of enmity. Thus, it is a case based on circumstantial evidence, in which chain of circumstances must be completed, but in this case except the one ingredient that is motive none else could be proved.

In the case of Jagga Singh Vs. State of Punjab A.I.R 1995 S.C, 135, the Supreme Court has held that, it is fundamental maxim of criminal jurisprudence that the suspicion and conjuncture are no substitute for proof.

In the case of State of Punjab Vs. Bhajan Singh, A.I.R 1975, Supreme Court 258, the Supreme Court has held that suspicion by itself however strong, it may be, is not sufficient to take the place of proof.

In the case of State of Goa Vs. Sanjay Thakran (2007) 3 S.C.C 755, the Supreme Court held that the Court shall take utmost precaution in finding the accused guilty only on the basis of circumstantial evidence.

In the case of Ashish Batham Vs. State of M.P, A.I.R 2002, S.C 3206, the Supreme Court held that if the charge is graver, greater has to be the standard of proof, the Court must keep in mind that there is a long mental distance between "may be true" and "must be true".

In the case of State of Maharashra Vs. Sukhdev Singh, A.I.R 1992 Supreme Court Page 2100, the Supreme Court held that in the absence of reliable evidence it is unwise to act on mere suspicion.

In this case except mere suspicion on the part of informant and the injured there is no any other evidence to conclude that only accused persons had committed the offence.

Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of S. Govindaraju Versus State of Karnataka, (2013) 15 Supreme Court Cases 315 has held as under:-

"It is a settled legal proposition that in exceptional circumstances, the appellate court, for compelling reasons, should not hesitate to reverse a judgment of acquittal passed by the court below, if the findings so recorded by the court below are found to be perverse i.e if the conclusions arrived at by the court below are contrary to the evidence on record, or if the court's entire approach with respect to dealing with the evidence is found to be patently illegal, leading to the miscarriage of justice, or if its judgment is unreasonable and is based on an erroneous understanding of the law and of the facts of the case. While doing so, the appellate court must bear in mind the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused, and also that an acquittal by the court below bolsters such presumption of innocence."

In the case of Gangabhavani Versus Rayapati Venkat Reddy and Others, (2013) 15 Supreme Court Cases 298, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under.

"This Court has persistently emphasised that there are limitations while interfering with an order against acquittal. In exceptional cases where there are compelling circumstances and the judgment under appeal is found to be perverse, the appellate court can interfere with the order of acquittal. The appellate court should bear in mind the presumption of innocence of the accused and further that the acquittal by the lower Court bolsters the presumption of his innocence. Interference in a routine manner where the other view is possible should be avoided, unless there are good reasons for interference."

In the case of Sharad Birdhi Chand Sarda Vs. State Of Maharashtra 1984 Supreme Court AIR - 1622, the Supreme Court pointed out reiterating the cardinal principle of law that where the facts placed before the Court point out two views, one of the guilt of the accused and another to his innocence, the Court should give the benefit of the view, which is favourable to the accused.

In this case it has been proved that the witnesses had not seen and recognize the accused persons committing the offence on spot. Therefore, it can not be said that it is a case of direct evidence. This Court is of the view that it is a case based on circumstantial evidence, in which all the chains of the circumstances are not completed, except only one ingredient that is motive, no other ingredient such as last seen or any extra judicial confession or any recovery has been proved.

24. In all attending circumstances on the basis of evidence, the lower court has rightly come to the conclusion that the prosecution has not been able to prove the case beyond reasonable doubt, therefore, trial court has rightly acquitted the accused persons. This Court is also of the considered view that there is no sufficient evidence and attending circumstances to interfere with the judgment of the acquittal of the lower court, therefore this appeal lacks merit and is hereby liable to the dismissed.

Accordingly, the appeal is dismissed.

The Lower Court Record be sent back to the concerned court with certified copy of this judgment forthwith.

List of Cases cited:

Vadivelu Thevar Vs The St. of Madras, 1957 AIR 614

(Delivered by Hon'ble Om Prakash-VII, J.)

1. This appeal against acquittal by appellant State is directed against the impugned judgment and order dated 22.4.1985 passed by Special Judge (E.C. Act)/ Additional Sessions Judge, Jalaun at Orai in S.T. No. 143 of 1980 (State Vs. Narendra Singh and another), P.S. Kotwali Orai, district Jalaun by which the accused respondents have been acquitted of the charges under Sections 302/34, 302 IPC.

2. At the very outset, it is very relevant to mention here that during pendency of Appeal, accused respondent No.2 Ramesh has died. Accordingly, by the order dated 27.11.2021, this Court passed order directing abatement of Government Appeal as against the accused respondent no.2.

3. Now, we are proceeding to consider the government appeal in respect of rest of the accused respondent i.e. Narendra Singh.

4. Brief facts of the case, in nutshell, are that informant and his brother Bhanu Pratap Singh had gone to the Court on 16.7.1980 for taking certified copy of certain judgment. At about 02.00 - 02.15 p.m. after finishing their court work they were going towards Orai market. Near the Orai Jhansi Bus Stand at the gate of Kutchahri they were joined by Taqdir Singh, Bal Ram Tewari and Ram Swarup Singh. While going to the Orai market, Informant Ram Lakhan Singh and his brother Bhanu Pratap Singh accompanied by the aforesaid three witnesses reached the Konch Bus Stand. At about 02.25 p.m. accused Narendra Singh, Ramesh and one Surendra Singh Yadav saw them all. Accused Ramesh alarmed Surendra Singh that the enemy was coming and on seeing this Surendra exalted the accused Narendra to kill Bhanu Pratap Singh. Bhanu Pratap Singh seeing these persons tried to run away but before that he was fired at by the accused Narendra Sigh and Ramesh with country made pistol and a pistol. Informant Ram Lakhan Singh and the aforesaid witnesses challenged the accused persons but they made their escape good under the cover of fire by them. Then the informant found that his brother Bhanu Pratap Singh was dead. The aforesaid murder by the accused persons, namely, Narendra Singh and Ramesh was committed due to old enmity between the accused Narendra Singh and the informant. The accused Ramesh and Surendra Singh were the party-men of the accused Narendra Singh. Informant Ram Lakhan Singh prepared F.I.R. and lodged the same at the police station concerned. Necessary formalities i.e. Panchayatnama etc. were prepared and the dead body of the deceased Bhanu Pratap Singh was sent for post mortem. Investigation started and and after completion of investigation charge sheet against Narendra Singh, Surendra Singh and Ramesh was submitted. Accused Surendra Singh died during trial. Trial started against accused respondents Narendra Singh and Ramesh.

5. Accused persons appeared and charge under Sections 302/34 and 302 IPC was framed in the trial court against them. Accused have denied the charges framed against them and claimed their trial.

6. Trial proceeded and on behalf of prosecution, eight witnesses i.e. PW-1 Ram Lakhan Singh (informant), PW-2 Bal Ram Tiwari, PW-3 Constable Mani Ram, PW-4 Constable Ram Kishore, PW-5 Constable Ram Gopal, PW-6 Dr. G.C. Mishra, who conducted the post mortem on the dead body of deceased, PW-7 Sub-Inspector D.N. Chaturvedi, PW-8 Sub-Inspector Yagya Datt Rai, PW-9 Constable Har Narain Singh were examined.

7. After closure of prosecution evidence, statement of accused persons under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded in which they denied the allegations and stated that they have been falsely implicated due to enmity. Deceased was a notorious Gunda and a known criminal having his criminal history. He was leader of the dacoits engaged in road hold-up and therefore he was killed by the then Kotwal Devraj Singh through his men. They produced one head constable named Sobran Singh in their defence as DW-1. This witness brought the road gang register to show that the deceased Bhanu Pratap Singh was registered as leader of road gang engaged in dacoity by road hold-up in the police record.

8. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and going through the record, the trial court found that the prosecution has not fully succeeded in bringing home the charges against the accused respondents beyond reasonable doubt and acquitted the accused respondents.

9. Aggrieved with the said judgment and order dated 22.4.1985, the State Government has preferred the present appeal.

10. Vide order dated 5.5.1987 the leave to appeal application was allowed and the appeal was admitted.

11. Heard Shri Raj Kamal Srivastava, learned AGA appearing for the State as well as Shri Satish Trivedi, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Kamal Kishore Mishra, learned counsel for the accused respondent.

12. Castigating the impugned judgment and order, learned learned AGA has submitted that prosecution has established the guilt of the accused respondents beyond reasonable doubt. It was further submitted that findings recorded by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order are perverse and illegal. It was a day hours incident. There are eye account witnesses. Presence of PW-1 and PW-2 at the place of occurrence at the time of incident is natural and probable. Finding of the trial court placing the PW-2 Balram Tiwari in the category of 'unreliable witness' is against the facts and evidence. Referring to entire evidence adduced by the prosecution it was further submitted that deceased and witnesses disclosed in the F.I.R. were returning together from the District Court and as and when they reached near the place of occurrence, accused persons opened fire upon the deceased. This fact has been proved by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt. Medical evidence fully supports the oral version. F.I.R. was lodged promptly. It was also submitted that PW-2 Balram Tiwari is a reliable witness and his statement finds support with the statement of PW-1 and medical evidence. There was no reason to falsely implicate the accused respondents in this case. Charges framed against the accused respondents are proved. It was lastly submitted that the findings recorded by trial court in the impugned judgment and order are not based on correct appreciation of facts and evidence and suffer from infirmity and illegality warranting interference by this Court. In support of his submissions, learned AGA placed reliance on a decision of Apex Court in Vadivelu Thevar Vs. The State of Madras, 1957 AIR 614.

13. In reply, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the accused respondent has submitted that the accused had not committed the present offence. Referring to the findings recorded by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order it was further submitted that PW-2 Balram Tiwari in his cross examination done by the accused Narendra has admitted that he received information about the incident in the District Court premises and thereafter this witness and PW-1 both went to the place of occurrence. To substantiate this argument, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the accused respondent referred to the statement of PW-1 and further submitted that this witness has also stated in the beginning part of examination-in-chief that he was returning from the District Court alongwith Takdir Singh, Balram Tiwari and Ram Swarup Singh. No other person was alongwith them. It was further submitted that F.I.R. was lodged after due consultation. Witnesses disclosed in the F.I.R. were planted after calling them from their houses. They were said to be present at the place of occurrence after the incident and Investigating Officer was also present there but their statements under Section 161 CrPC were not recorded immediately. Prosecution has also not produced the FSL report. Thus, place of occurrence is also not established in this case. Referring to cross-examination of PW-1 it was also submitted that witnesses disclosed in the F.I.R. were the witness in a number of cases initiated on behalf of informant. They are pocket witness of the police. In fact they were not present on the spot nor they had seen the incident. It was also submitted that it was blind murder case. Deceased was hardened criminal. A number of criminal cases were pending against him and due to this reason he was done to death by some unknown person. It was next contended that at this time age of accused respondent Narendra Singh is about 80 years. He was aged about 45 years at the time of recording of statement under Section 313 CrPC. Prosecution was not able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused respondent. There is no infirmity, illegality or perversity in the impugned judgment and order warranting interference by this Court.

Findings of trial court in the impugned judgment and order are based on correct appreciation of facts, evidence and law. View adopted by the trial court is also a possible view.

14. We have considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the entire record and evidence carefully.

15. Before proceeding to discuss the submissions raised by the learned counsel for the parties, we may mention the findings of the trial court on material points in the impugned judgement and order, which are as under:

(i). PW-1 and PW-2 are not the eye account witnesses. They were present at the time of incident in the District Court premises and had received information about the incident there.

(ii). Prosecution was not able to prove the place of incident.

(iii). It was a blind murder case.

(iv). PW-1 being the real brother of the deceased is interested witness.

(v). PW-2 is pocket witness of the police and he appeared as witness in several cases initiated on behalf of prosecution.

16. After outlining the findings recorded by the trial court in the impugned judgement and order on material points, we are proceeding to deal with the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties.

17. In this matter, as is evident from the record, incident took place on 16.7.1980 at about 2.45 p.m.. F.I.R. was lodged by PW-1, brother of the deceased, on the basis of written report - Ext. Ka-1 on 16.7.1980 itself at 3.30 p.m.. Distance between place of occurrence and police station concerned was about one and half furlong. Specific role for causing injuries to the deceased is assigned to present accused respondent and co-accused Ramesh (since dead). PW-1 in his examination-in- chief has stated that he was returning from the Court alongwith Takdir Singh, Balram Tiwari and Ram Swarup Singh. No other person was alongwith them. A lengthy cross-examination was done from this witness wherein he has admitted that number of criminal cases were pending against the deceased started by the police and private person. Though PW-2 has supported the prosecution case in examination-in- chief and in his cross-examination completed in the year 1982 yet no cross-examination was done on the part of accused respondent Ramesh (since dead) at that time. He was recalled on the application moved by the co-accused in the year 1985 for cross-examination and he has specifically stated that at the time of incident he was present in the District Court premises alongwith PW-1 and had received information about the present incident in the Court premises itself and thereafter they went to the place of occurrence. Looking to the statement of PW-2 made in the cross-examination done by accused Ramesh (since dead) the trial court has observed that PW-2 is not a reliable witness. He has not been declared hostile by the prosecution. Statement made by this witness in the cross-examination done by co-accused Ramesh (since dead) placed him in the category of 'fully unreliable witness'. Trial court was also of the view that examination-in-chief of PW-1 itself makes it clear that this witness was also not present at the place of occurrence at the time of incident. On the basis of aforesaid facts, the findings of the trial court recorded in the impugned order are to be analyzed.

18. It is settled principles of law that in the appeal against acquittal the Appellate Court should interfere with the judgment and order of acquittal passed by the Trial Court if it arrives at a finding that the trial Court's decision was perverse or otherwise unsustainable. It is also settled that if the view adopted by the trial court is a possible view and trial court has well discussed the entire facts and evidence in the impugned judgment and order, the Appellate Court should not interfere with the said findings. The Appellate Court will not superimpose its view over the view adopted by the Trial Court in the impugned judgment and order.

19. In this case, as is evident from the record, PW-2 was cross-examined on two occasions, firstly, in the year 1982 and secondly, in the year 1985. In the year 1985 when he was cross-examined on behalf of co-accused Ramesh (since dead) he did not support the prosecution case but he was not declared hostile. If the statement of this witness made in the examination-in-chief and cross-examination both are taken together it is evident that PW-2 cannot be placed in the category of 'fully reliable witness'. He can also not be placed in the category of 'fully unreliable witness'. If such is the position, he can be placed in the category of neither wholly reliable witness nor wholly unreliable witness and in that situation Court has to be circumspect and has to look for corroboration in material particulars by reliable testimony. The trial court has taken into consideration the statement of PW-1 and has compared the same with the statement of PW-2 and was of the view that PW-1 was also not present at the time of occurrence at the place of incident. He himself has admitted in the examination-in-chief that when they were returning from the Court towards the market, deceased was not accompanying them. If the statement of PW-1 in the examination-in-chief in this case is compared with the cross-examination of PW-2 made in the year 1985 it can safely be held that view taken by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order regarding presence of PW-1 and PW-2 at the place of occurrence at the time of incident is not illegal and perverse. PW-2 has not been declared hostile. Thus, the trial court has rightly taken into consideration the part of cross-examination done in the year 1985 on the part of accused Ramesh (since dead). Had he (PW-2) been declared hostile on the basis of cross-examination done in the year 1985, its impact could be otherwise. The trial court has rightly taken into consideration the cross-examination part of PW-2 done in the year 1985, as he cannot be placed in the category of 'fully reliable witness' and his statement in the cross-examination are self-contradictory. Presence of this witness alongwith PW-1 and other witnesses disclosed in the F.I.R. at the time of incident was not found believable , which is based on correct appreciation of facts and evidence. The trial court while recording the aforesaid facts has discussed the entire evidence in detail and has rightly concluded that PW-1 and PW-2 were not present at the place of occurrence at the time of incident. They were planted later on by the police after due consultation.

20. Prosecution has examined only two fact witnesses i.e. PW-1 and PW-2, however, some other witnesses were disclosed in the F.I.R. but they were not examined. There remains only formal witnesses. Presence of PW-1 and PW-2 at the time of incident is not believable, as discussed here-in-above. Thus, it can safely be held that prosecution was not able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. It is pertinent to mention here that prosecution has also not produced the FSL report to establish the place of occurrence. If the findings of the trial court recorded in the impugned judgment and order are analyzed in consonance with the facts and evidence adduced by the parties in the present matter in light of submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties, we are of the view that the view taken by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order is a possible view.

21. Considering the entire aspects of the matter, we are of the view that impugned judgment and order passed by the trial court is well thought and well discussed and trial court has rightly held that prosecution has not succeeded to prove guilt of accused respondent beyond reasonable doubt. The accused respondent is found not guilty for the offence punishable under Sections 302/34, 302 IPC. As such, impugned judgment and order passed by trial court is liable to be upheld and government appeal having no force is liable to be dismissed.

22. Accordingly, present Government Appeal is dismissed and the impugned judgment and order passed by the trial court is affirmed.

List of Cases relied upon:-

Subodh Kumar Vs Shamim Ahmad passed in Civil Appeal Nos. 802-803 of 2021 (arising out of SLP (C) Nos. 18118-18119 of 2019 decided on 03.03.2021.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rahul Sripat, learned senior counsel assisted by Sri Sushil Shukla along with Sri Ishir Sripat, learned counsel for the revisionist-defendant and Sri Navin Sinha, learned senior counsel assisted by Sri Ashish Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondents-plaintiffs.

2. Present revision has been filed challenging the order dated 28.02.2022 passed by Additional District Judge, Court No. 10, Varanasi in Misc. Case No. 389 of 2021 (Air Plaza Holding Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Nitin Malhotra And Another).

3. Learned counsel for the revisionist-defendant submitted that revisionist-defendant is a company incorporated under the Companies Act, 1956 engaged in business of operation of retail outlets of apparel, food, products, FMCG products and other goods throughout India and is currently operating around 500 retail outlet stores in the country. The agreement to lease dated 30.08.2019 was signed by revisionist-defendant and plaintiffs- respondents-plaintiffs for ten years, which provides 60 days of rent free period from the date of possession. The revisionist-defendant entered into possession on 5.10.2019 and was not liable to pay rent till December, 2019. Without waiting for the said free period, he started paying rent from 10.11.2019 and there is no default on his part. Suddenly, he has received notice dated 31.01.2020 terminating the tenancy against the terms and condition of agreement to lease upon which revisionist-defendant has submitted detail reply dated 17.2.2020. Thereafter, plaintiffs-respondents-plaintiffs have filed SCC Suit No. 11 of 2020 before Judge, Small Causes Court/ Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No. 10, Varanasi. Notices were issued, but the revisionist-defendant could not appear and ultimately, the said suit was allowed by ex parte judgement dated 12.03.2021 accepting the verbatim claim made in plaint. Further, direction was issued to vacate the house in question failing which liberty is given to plaintiffs- respondents to move execution application for eviction and recovery of rent. Judgement was given on 12.03.2021 and decree was prepared on 24.3.2021.

4. Revisionist-defendant has filed application under Order IX Rule 13 Civil Procedure Code, 1908 (in short CPC, 1908) read with Section 17 of The Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1887") dated 26.3.2021 to set aside ex parte decree. He next submitted that application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908 has been filed prior to preparation of decree, therefore, in paragraph 14 of the application, it is mentioned that no direction for paying any amount is mentioned in the judgement/ decree due to which he has not deposited any amount in compliance of Section 17 of Act, 1887. He next submitted that after going through decree, he has moved application dated 27.9.2021 for compliance of Section 17 of Act, 1887.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionist-defendant has assailed the impugned order basically on three grounds. First ground is taken about limitation and submitted that Apex Court has taken suo motu cognizance vide order dated 23.09.2021 in Misc. Application No. 665 of 2021 alongwith SMW (C) No. 3 of 2020 in which Apex Court has excluded the period from 15.03.2020 till 02.10.2021 for any suit, appeal, application or proceeding, therefore, his application dated 27.9.2021 may be treated filed within time. He may be given the benefit of judgement of Apex Court and be permitted to comply the Section 17 of Act, 1887 by depositing the decretal amount. For ready reference, relevant paragraph of order of Apex Court is quoted below;

"Therefore, we dispose of the M.A. No. 665 of 2021 with the following directions:-

I. In computing the period of limitation for any suit, appeal, application or proceeding, the period from 15.03.2020 till 02.10.2021 shall stand excluded. Consequently, the balance period of limitation remaining as on 15.03.2021, if any, shall become available with effect from 03.10.2021."

6. Second ground is that at the time of filing of application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908 more than decretal amount has already been paid to plaintiffs-respondents, therefore, there is no need to deposit any additional decretal amount and further, he is regularly paying the rent to plaintiffs- respondents, which is Rs. 7,69,928/- per month till date. Therefore, it was required on the part of Court below to adjust this amount in decretal amount.

7. Third ground is that even in case of non compliance of Section 17 of Act, 1887, while filing application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908 Court has discretion to condone the delay and permit the revisionist-defendant to deposit the decretal amount as required under Section 17 of Act, 1887. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgement of this Court in the matter of Waqf Alal Avlad and Ors. Vs. IInd District Judge, Jaunpur and others; 1992 (1) ARC 86 and submitted that in the similar matter, to make good the deficiency in depositing the amount, Court below has granted time, which was challenged before the Court and Court has held that there is no illegality in the order of Court below.

8. He next submitted that provisions of Section 17 of Act, 1887 is being only procedural in nature has to be interpreted in such a way as to advance justice and to facilitate to meet its ends. He next relied upon the judgement of this Court in the matter of Suresh Chand Vs. VII Additional District Judge, Muzaffarnagar and Ors; 1992 AWC 40 All and submitted that in that matter, Court is of the view that it was not necessary that application under Section 17 of Act, 1887 may be filed first to be followed by the application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908.

9. He further placed reliance upon the judgement of this Court in the matter of Masih Das and Ors. Vs. Court of Additional District Judge 13th and Ors.; 1992 (19) ALR 529 where the Court has permitted to make the deficiency good by permitting the defendant to deposit the amount so required under Section 17 of Act, 1887 after filing application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908.

10. Thereafter, he placed reliance upon the judgement of this Court in the matter of Quazi Neemat Ullah Vs. 6th Additional District Judge, Gorakhpur and Ors.; AIR 1993 All 126 in which Court is of the view that if Court finds security insufficient, may give further time to defendant to make good the deficiency.

11 Further, he placed reliance upon the judgement of this Court in the matter of Prem Chandra Mishra Vs. Iind Additional District Judge and Ors.; 2008(9) ADJ 13.

12. He submitted that in this matter, revisionist-defendant has already paid arrears of rent, cost of suit and interest of JSCC Suit much before passing of ex parte decree and same may be taken into consideration while entertaining application. Court has held that it is required on the part of Court below to consider the said amount, if any, against the decretal amount. Lastly, he submitted that purpose of legislation is to provide justice and application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908 may not be rejected merely on technical ground ignoring this fact that revisionist-defendant has come before this Court with clean hand and also submitted application dated 27.9.2021 to make good the deficiency by depositing the decretal amount, therefore, order impugned is bad and liable to be set aside.

13. Learned counsel for the respondents-plaintiffs has vehemently opposed the submissions raised by learned counsel for the revisionist-defendant and submitted that so far as first judgement relied upon by the revisionist-defendant about limitation is concerned, same is having no relevance in the present case in light of Section 17 of Act, 1887. The same cannot be bifurcated into two parts i.e. first file application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908 and thereafter, deposit the money under Section 17 of Act, 1887. In case, there would have been two parts and second has not been complied within the time provided in Section 17 of Act, 1887, this judgement may have its effect, but in present case, it is required on the part of revisionist-defendant to first deposit the decretal amount as required under Section 17 of Act, 1887 and thereafter, file application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908. Therefore, this judgement has no relevance in the present case.

14. He next submitted that in the present case, there is no dispute on the point that ex parte judgement was pronounced on 12.3.2021, decree was prepared on 24.3.2021 having the detail of decretal amount, application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC is dated 26.03.2021 i.e. after preparation of decree. Therefore, there is no occasion for the revisionist-defendant to file application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908 alongwith averment that there is no direction to pay the amount. He has not deposited any amount for compliance of Section 17 of Act, 1887 which is very well mentioned in decree dated 24.3.2021. So far as non mentioning of decretal amount in judgement dated 12.3.2021 is concerned, it is undisputed that no written submission was filed, therefore, Court below allowed the suit in terms of pleadings made in plaint treating correct meaning thereby, whatever is claimed by the plaintiffs- respondents is awarded and amount has not been mentioned.

15. So far as contention of revisionist-defendant that sufficient amount, which is more than decretal amount already given to plaintiffs-respondents is concerned, it is necessary to point out here that it has never been pointed out before the Court below as to whether defendant has deposited any amount or not as no written submission was filed. Therefore, there is no occasion for Court to see as to whether any alleged amount has been deposited or not except to treat the facts mentioned in plaint is correct in absence of written submission. This can only be seen by the Court once the application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908 is allowed and time is granted to file written submission. Therefore, claim of revisionist-defendant about any amount already deposited cannot be considered for the purpose of meeting the requirement of Section 17 of Act, 1887. It is mandatory requirement on the part of revisionist-defendant to deposit the same. Not only this, revisionist-defendant in application dated 27.9.2021 has admitted this fact that inadvertently, he could not comply Section 17 of Act, 1887 and further time may be granted to comply Section 17 of Act, 1887. He next submitted that this issue came before Apex Court as well as this Court on many occasions and Court is of the firm view that no such additional time can be granted to comply Section 17 of Act, 1887 by depositing the money at later stage.

16. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgements of this Court in the matter of Roshan Lal and others Vs. Rishi Pal Singh and others; 2013 (2) ARC 74, Gorakhnath (Dr.) Vs. Judge, Small Causes Court and others; 2015 (2) ARC 527 and Mohd. Israil and another Vs. Nausaba A Sabari and 5 others; 2016 (3) ARC 448.

17. Further, he placed reliance upon the latest judgement of Apex Court in the matter of Subodh Kumar Vs. Shamim Ahmad passed in Civil Appeal Nos. 802-803 of 2021 (arising out of SLP (C) Nos. 18118-18119 of 2019 decided on 03.03.2021. In that case, Apex Court after hearing learned counsel for the parties, has framed the very same issue and decided that before filing application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908, provisions of Section 17 of Act, 1887 has to be complied with.

18. Lastly, he submitted that under the provisions of Section 17 of Act, 1887, law laid down by this Court as well as Apex Court in the matter of Subodh Kumar (supra), there is no illegality in the impugned order and revision is liable to be dismissed with costs.

19. I have considered the rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, provisions of law as well as judgements relied upon the parties.

20. Issue before this Court is as to whether after filing of application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908 to set aside ex parte decree, compliance of Section 17 of Act, 1887 can be done later on or not?

21. Before coming to issue, it is useful to reproduce the provisions of Section 17 of Act, 1887 as well as Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908;

Section 17 of Act, 1887

17. Application of the Code of Civil Procedure.- (1) [The procedure prescribed in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), shall save in so far as is otherwise provided by that Code or by this Act,] be the procedure followed in a Court of Small Causes, in all suits cognizable by it and in all proceedings arising out of such suits: Provided that an applicant for an order to set aside a decree passed ex parte or for a review of judgment shall, at the time of presenting his application, either deposit in the Court the amount due from him under the decree or in pursuance of the judgment, or give [such security for the performance of the decree or compliance with the judgment as the Court may, on a previous application made by him in this behalf, have directed].

(2) Where a person has become liable as surety under the proviso to sub-section (1), the security may be realised in manner provided by section [145] of the Code of Civil Procedure, [1908] (5 of 1908)."

Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908

Setting aside decree ex parte against defendant. - In any case in which a decree is passed ex parte against a defendant, he may apply to the Court by which the decree was passed for an order to set it aside; and if he satisfies the Court that the summons was not duly served, or that there was sufficient cause for his failure to appear when the suit was called on for hearing, the Court shall make an order setting aside the decree as against him upon such terms as to costs, payment into Court or otherwise as it thinks fit, and shall appoint a day for proceeding with the suit; Provided that where the decree is of such a nature that it cannot be set aside as against such defendant only it may be set aside as against all or any of the other defendants also:

Provided also that no such decree shall be set aside merely on the ground of irregularity of service of summons, if the Court is satisfied that the defendant knew, or but for his willful conduct would have known, of the date of hearing in sufficient time it enable him to appear and answer the plaintiff's claim

Explanation.-1. Where a summons has been served under Order V, Rule 15, on an adult male member having an interest adverse tothat of the defendant in the subject-matter of the suit, it shall not be deemed to have been duly served within the meaning of this rule.

Explanation II.- Where there has been an appeal against a decree passed ex parte under this rule, and the appeal has been disposed of on any ground other than the ground that the appellant has withdrawn the appeal, no application shall lie under this rule for setting aside that ex parte decree.

22. The legal provision is very much clear. Section 17 of Act, 1887 clearly provides to deposit the decretal amount in Court or gives security for the performance of decree or compliance with the judgement before filing application for setting aside the decree. There is nothing in section which permits to first file application and thereafter deposit the decretal amount. Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908 shall govern with the provisions of Section 17 of Act, 1887.

23. Now under such proposition of law referred and discussed hereinabove, Court shall consider the argument raised by the learned counsel for the parties and judgments relied upon by them.

24. So far as first argument with regard to benefit of limitation in light of relaxation granted by the Apex Court is concerned, it is not applicable in the present matter for the reason that Section 17 of Act, 1887 and Order IX Rule 13 of CPC, 1908 cannot be bifurcated in two parts. There is no such provision to first file application under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC, 1908 and thereafter deposit the decretal amount under Section 17 of Act, 1887. In case, there would have been bifurcation in two parts, revisionist-defendant may claim benefit of limitation, therefore, argument of limitation is having no relevancy in the present case.

25. Further, learned counsel for the revisionist-defendant placed reliance upon the judgments of High Court in the matter of Waqf Alal Avlad and Ors. (supra), Suresh Chand (supra), Masih Das (supra), Quazi Neemat Ullah (supra) and Prem Chandra Mishra (supra) in which Courts granted time to make the good deficiency by permitting the defendant to deposit the amount so required under Section 17 of Act, 1887 after filing the application under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC, 1908.

26. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid judgements are quoted below;

Waqf Alal Avlad (supra)

"The petitioners filed, in the Court of Civil Judge, Jaunpur, suit No. 68 of 1978 for ejectment of Smt. Safia Mariam, respondent No. 3 and for recovery of arrears of rent and damages for the use and occupation of the accommodation in dispute. The suit was decreed ex parte on 3rd May, 1985. Respondent No. 3 applied for setting aside of the ex parte decree on 5th May, 1985. She also deposited a sum of Rs. 1450 in order to satisfy the requirements of Section 17 of Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887. The petitioners objected to the restoration applied for on the ground of alleged noncompliance of Section 17 inasmuch as the deposit made by respondent No. 3 fell short by Rs. 2500. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, the trial Court allowed respondent No. 3 a week's further time to make the deficiency in the deposit good vide its order dated 28th August, 1985. This order of the trial Court was challenged in Revision No. 260 of 1985 which was decided by the II

Additional District Judge, Jaunpur. The learned District Judge affirmed the order of the trial Court and dismissed the revision by means of his judgment and order dated 29th July, 1987. The two orders of the trial Court and the revisional Court are under challenge in the instant writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

The Court has carefully scrutinised the impugned judgment and orders and is clearly of the opinion that respondent No. 3 has rightly allowed further time to make good the deficiency in deposit. The interest of justice required so. The Court is, further, of the opinion that the impugned judgment and orders stand to promote justice between the parties and do not result in any manifest injustice to the petitioners, which is a condition precedent for exercise of extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

For the foregoing reasons the Court declines to interfere with the orders impugned in the writ petition. The petition is, therefore, dismissed summarily."

Suresh Chand (supra)

"Section 17 of the Act being only procedural in nature has to be interpreted in such a way as to advance justice and to facilitate to meet its ends. The provision is to be liberally construed. The Court has to see that substantial compliance has been done. Reference may be made to a case reported in Bhagwan Swaroop v. Mool Chand.

The provisions of Section 17 of the Act are only procedural. The Legislature intended that when an ex parte decree is sought to be set aside the judgment-debtor should deposit the decretal amount either in cash or to give security for performance of the decree. It is only to protect the interest of the decree-holder. If the contention of the learned Counsel for the respondent is accepted that would frustrate the object of Section 17 of the Act itself. The use of the word "previous application" is only directory and not mandatory. The only duty cast upon the Court is to ensure, that on the date of allowing the application under Order 9, Rule 13, C.P.C. the entire decretal amount has been deposited or the security has been furnished for the performance. Thus I am of the view that it was not necessary that the application under Section 17 of the Act may be filed first to be followed by the application under Order 9, Rule 13, C.P.C."

Masih Das (supra)

"The Plaintiffs obtained an ex parte decree against the Defendants on 30-3-87. The Defendants claim that they came to know of the said ex parte decree on 5-5-87 and immediately on the next day i.e. on 6-5-87 they moved an application, supported by an affidavit, wherein, the' Defendants stated that they had no knowledge of the said suit, as the Defendants were never served with any summons and the said ex parte decree has been obtained without service of any summons on the Defendants. On 14-5-87. the Defendants moved an application for complying with the proviso of Section 17 of the Provincial Small Causes Court Act (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act'). In this application, the Defendants stated that a money-order has been sent of Rs. 975/- towards rent of the house, which has been received by the Plaintiffs during the course of the suit. As such, the Defendants should be permitted only to execute a personal bond for compliance of proviso to Section 17 of the Act. Alongwith application, a photostat copy of the original receipt of the money-order for Rs. 975/-, showing receipt of the aforesaid amount by the Plaintiffs on 21-4-86, was filed. The trial court, vide its order dated 14-5-87, permitted the Defendants to deposit half of the decretal amount in cash and security for half of the decretal amount by 10-7-87. However, before the aforesaid date i.e. 10-7-87, the Defendants moved an application on 26-5-87 that the Plaintiffs' suit has been decreed ex parte on 30-3-87, wherein the Plaintiffs had admitted the receipt of a sum of Rs. 975/- from the Defendants on account of rent and mesne profits during the pendency of the case but the said amount has not been adjusted in preparing the ex parte decree. As such, the ex parte decree, may be amended suo-moto. In the aforesaid background on 10-7-87, the Defendants moved another application, saying that so far as the rent is concerned, the Defendants have paid the rent but the exact amount of the decree is not being ascertained. The original record may be summoned, so that the Defendants may deposit the full amount. On the said application, the court directed the original file to be summoned, fixing 23-7-87. On 23-7-87 the court granted one week's time for complying with the court's order dated 14-5-87. On 30-7-87 an application was moved on behalf of the Defendants, seeking one month's time for depositing the decretal amount on the ground that the Defendant Masih Das had fallen ill on the said date. The application was allowed and 15 days' time was granted to the Defendants for complying with the court's order dated 14 5-87. On 4-8-87 the Defendants deposited a sum of Rs. 590.25 paise in cash and furnished security for a sum of Rs. 590.25 paise, which was duly accepted by the trial court. The trial court issued notice on Defendants' application under Order 9 Rule 13 of Code of Civil Procedure to the Plaintiffs and also stayed further proceedings in execution case for ejectment of the Defendants. The Defendants claim that the notice was issued to the Plaintiffs, after the trial court was satisfied that proviso of Section 17 of the Act has been complied with.

The Plaintiffs contested the said application on the ground that the Defendants' application, under Order 9 Rule 13 of Code of Civil Procedure is barred by time. It was also contended that the summons were duly served on the Defendants and there is no justification for setting aside the ex parte decree.

The Defendants' counsel has made following submissions : Firstly, that the Defendants have sent money-order of Rs. 975/-to-wards rent which was admitted to the Plaintiffs. The ex parte decree was passed by the court, ignoring the aforesaid admission As such, the amount should have been adjusted before judging the compliance of the requirement of the proviso to Section 17 of the Act If the said amount would have been adjusted in the decretal amount, the defents duty com-plied with the requirement of the proviso to Section 17 of the Act within the time allowed by the court.

Secondly, the court having itself permitted the Defendants to comply with the requirement of the proviso to Section 17 of the Act and the Defendants having complied with the said requirement within time allowed by the court, the courts below were not justified in taking a view that the court had no jurisdiction to grant time for compliance of proviso to Section 17 of the Act It is a settled proposition of law that no party should suffer for the mistake of the court.

Thirdly in any case the decree was corrected by the court as late as on 22-8-88 As such, the court should have examined that the short fall, if any could have been condoned on the Defendants' application for condonation of delay given in the month of May, 1988.

The Plaintiffs' counsel has mainly contended that an application, under Order 9, Rule 13 of Code of Civil Procedure shall be deemed to be filed only on the date the judgment debtor complies with the requirement of Section 17 of the Act. There is no power with the court for extending time for complying with the requirement of proviso to Section 17 of The Act. The counsel contended that the application for condonation of delay was given as late as on 13-5-88 and there was no justification for this inordinate delay. The court below rightly rejected the said application and rightly held that there was no proper application moved on the Part of Defendants under Order 9 Rule 13 of Code of Civil Procedure read with proviso to Section 17 of the Act within time.

The revisional court, while dismissing the Defendants' revision held that even though the trial court had no jurisdiction to extend time for complying with the requirement of proviso to Section 17 of the Act, still the Defendants should not be penalised for the mistake of the court and it may be held that the Defendants were entitled to comply with the requirement of proviso to Section 17 of the Act latest by 10-7-87 but the Defendants failed to comply with the said requirement even on 10-7-87 There was no justification for the Defendants to have sought further time on 10-7-87 for complying with the requirement of proviso to Section 17 of the Act. The and 30-7-87, whereby time was advantage of the court's order dated 23-7-87 and 30-7-87, whereby time was further extended for complying with the court's order dated 14-5-87. The revisional court also held that there was no justification for the Defendants to have not complied with the court's order dated 14-5-87 by 10-7-87, as it was open to the Defendants to have ascertained the exact decretal amount by 10-7-07 and should have complied with the requirement of the proviso to Section 17 of the Act latest by 10-7-87.

From the above discussion, it is clear that the revisional court has not approached the problem from the correct angle. The revisional court has not taken into account the fact that there was no fault on the part of the Defendants in complying with the requirement of proviso to Section 17 of the Act within the time allowed by the court: The revisional court having itself held that the Defendants should not be penalised for the mistake of the court, there was no justification for the revisional court to have taken a view that after 10-7-87, the Defendants could not have taken advantage of the courts' order.

The revisional court also failed to take into consideration that the Defendants were claiming adjustment of Rs. 975/- towards compliance of the requirement of proviso to Section 17 of the Act right from the very beginning. The said amount should have been adjusted in the decree, is clear from the fact that the said decree has been amended by the court itself in exercise of powers under Section 152 of Code of Civil Procedure. It has been held by the trial court itself that it was due to mistake of the court that a wrong decree was prepared. If the correct decree would have been prepared, the said amount would have been adjusted in the decree and if the said amount would have adjusted in the said decree, still can it be held that the Defendants failed to deposit the requisite amount and failed to furnish security of the requisite amount, as per directions of the court even on 4-8-87. All these matters require-re-consideration of the revisional court. The judgment of the revisional court apparently suffers from the errors pointed out in this judgment. As such, the order of the revisional court is liable to be set aside. The matter may be remanded back to be decided afresh in the light of the observations made in the judgment."

Quazi Neemat Ullah (supra)

"The expression "on previous application made by him in this behalf occurring in proviso to Section 17(1) of the Act, does not, in my opinion, necessarily comprehend that an application to give such security for the performance of the decree or compliance with the judgment as the court may direct must be filed before an application for setting aside an ex parte decree is filed. All that the said expression comprehends is that the order of the Court directing defendant-judgment debtor to give such security as it considers necessary, should be passed on an application moved in this behalf before the application for setting aside ex parte decree is entertained.

The word 'entertained" in this connection has the meaning assigned to it by the Supreme Court in M/s. Laxmi Engineering Works Ltd. V. Asstt.Commissioner (Judl) Sales Tax Kanpur Range Kanpur, AIR 1966 SC 488 followed in Sri Shyam Kishore v. M.C.D., 1992 (5) JT 335,

In view of the above discussion, I am of the opinion that the surety bonds furnished by the defendant petitioner on 16-11-1989 i.e. within the time specified by the Court vide order dated 10-11-1989, upon its acceptance by the court vide order impugned, has to be taken as due or, in any case, substantial compliance of the proviso to sub-sec. (1) of S. 17 of the Act. Therefore, the order passed by Judge Small Cause Court was not liable to be set aside on the ground that the surety bond was not deposited on the date of filing of the application for setting aside the ex parte decree. Since other pre requisite conditions for setting aside the ex parte decree within the meaning of O.9 Rule 14, C.P.C. were satisfied in the opinion of the trial court, the order passed by the revisional court has to be quashed."

Prem Chandra Mishra (supra)

"The object behind proviso of Section 17(1) of Provincial Small Causes Courts Act 1887 is that unscrupulous tenants against whom rent is due, who do not appear on the date fixed may not take advantage of not paying rent and thereby causing harassment of the landlord. The purpose of adding this proviso to Section 17 is to protect the interest of landlord from further harassment and to secure and ensure payment of rent and to put tenant to term to legally make said deposits. Idea behind said provision is to strike a balance between rival interests so as to be just to law. In case of exparte decree tenant has been given liberty to move application under Order IX Rule 13 of Code of Civil Procedure on the ground provided therein but under proviso to Section 17 (1) of Provincial Small Cause Courts Act 1887 condition has been imposed so that tenant does not take undue advantage for non-appearance and in this background as condition precedent is it has been made obligatory on the part of the tenant to deposit the amount which is due so that in the event an application for setting aside decree is dismissed the decree in question may be satisfied from the amount deposited or from the security furnished by the judgment debtor.

Question arising in the present case is that Revisional Court has recorded finding of fact which has not at all been assailed before this Court that entire amount which is due from tenant under decree qua the same deposit is already there even before passing of decree and once entire amount in question is there can even in this contingency application under Section 17 (1) of Provincial Small Cause Courts Act 1887 can be dismissed for non-compliance of provision of proviso. Amount in question under Section 20(4) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 is permitted to be deposited in any suit for eviction on the ground mentioned in Clause (a) of sub-Section (2) of Section 20 by the tenant on the first hearing of the suit unconditionally and amount which is already deposited under Sub-Section (1) of Section 30 of U.P. Act No. XIII of 1972 is liable to be deducted for enabling tenant to save eviction. Sub-Section (6) of Section 20 clearly provide that any amount deposited by the tenant under Sub-Section (4) or under Rule 5 of Order VX of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 shall be paid to the landlord forthwith on his application without prejudice to the parties pleadings and subject to the ultimate decision in the suits. Similarly Sub-Section (4) of Section 30 provides that on any deposit which are made under Section 30 the amount in question which has been deposited can be withdrawn on an application made in this behalf and further sub-Section (6) of Section 30 provides that any deposit made, same shall be deemed that the person depositing it has paid it on the date of such deposit to the person in whose favour it is deposited in the case referred to in sub-section (1) or to the landlord in the case referred to in sub-section (2). Thus, deposits which are made under Sub-Section (4) of Section 20 and under Section 30 of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 and under Order XV Rule 5 C.P.C. are in custody of the Court and said amount in question can at any point of time, be withdrawn by the landlord in question, and are readily available to the landlord.

In the present case admitted position is that after ex pate decree has been passed application to recall ex-parte decree was made on 24.05.1993 and alongwith the same application under the proviso to Section 17(1) has not at all been moved. Said application was admittedly moved subsequent to the same on 25.02.1994 and in the said application mention was made by him that he has already deposited the rent, cost of suit and interest of JSCC suit much earlier before passing of exparte decree. Said application which has been moved on behalf of tenant was not stating any thing new rather it was sought to be stated by the tenant that in the present case decretal amount is already with the court as he has already paid arrears of rent, cost of suit and interest of JSCC suit much before passing of exparte decree and same may be taken into consideration while entertaining application. Distinction will have to be drawn qua the cases wherein entire amount as mentioned in the proviso to Section 17 of Provincial Small Cause

Courts Act 1887 already stands deposited even before passing of exparte decree. In the said event of entire amount in question being prior deposited, information has to be furnished before Judge Small Causes Court, then said fact on verification can be treated as sufficient compliance as provided under the proviso to Section 17 (1) of Provincial Small Cause Courts Act 1887, inasmuch as nothing new has been sought to be done after expiry of the period rather only information has been furnished that said condition has already been complied with and interest of landlord is fully protected as per object and the purpose of Section 17. Tenant cannot be asked to make deposit for second time and furnish security for the second time in the backdrop that prior to passing of decree entire amount due under decree or judgment has already been deposited. Judge Small Causes can make inquiry in the matter of this fact on being apprised as to whether decretal amount is there or not but where decree in question has been passed and decretal amount mentioned as above is not at all there then law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in Kedarnath's case (supra) has to be followed in its word and spirit. Facts narrated above clearly makes Kedarnath's case (supra) distinguishable."

27. It is necessary to point out that this issue has also been considered very well by this Court in the cases of Roshan Lal (supra), Gorakhnath (Dr.) (supra) and Mohd Israil (supra) where the Courts had different view and held that before filing the application under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC, 1908, compliance of Section 17 of Act, 1887 is mandatory. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid judgements are quoted below;-

Roshan Lal and others (supra)

"The respondent No.1 filed an application dated 21.5.2003 under Order IX, Rule 13 C.P.C. for setting aside ex parte decree, which was registered as Misc. Case No.19 of 2003. It was neither accompanied by deposit in the Court the amount due from defendant-applicant i.e. respondent no.1 under the decree nor any security for performance of the decree nor any application for furnishing such security. In other words there was no compliance of Section 17(1) of Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1887").

Subsequently on 28.10.2003 respondent no.1 filed an application under Section 17 of Act, 1887 seeking permission of Trial Court to furnish security of Rs.9,600/- and deposit of Rs.8003/- by Tender since according to him total amount under decree would come to Rs.17,603/-. The Trial Court, vide order dated 5.12.2003 permitted the deposit by tender subject to the rights of the parties. Besides above, respondent No.1 also filed an application under Section 5 of Indian Limitation Act seeking condonation of delay in filing application for compliance of Section 17 of Act, 1887.

The short issue up for consideration before this Court whether there was compliance of proviso to Section 17 (1) of Act, 1887 in the present case or not and whether the view taken by Revisional Court that deposit need not be on the date of submission of the application for setting aside ex parte order but if it is so on the date of hearing of application, that would be sufficient compliance of proviso to Section 17 (1) of Act, 1887, is correct?

In my view, Revisional Court has not only misread proviso to Section 17 (1) of Act, 1887 but has also ignored catena of decisions of this Court as also that of Apex Court, which have considered proviso to Section 17 (1) of Act, 1887 wherein it has been held unambiguously that requirement of deposit or application for security must accompany or precede the application for setting aside ex parte decree and not to be seen on the date of hearing of such application.

The Apex Court has considered this aspect in Kedarnath Vs. Mohan Lal Kesarwani & Ors., 2002(1) ARC 186. The Court has clearly held that an application moved for compliance of Section 17 at a later stage after filing the application for setting aside ex parte decree cannot be considered as due compliance since it would not fall within the ambit of strict compliance of proviso to Section 17. Paras 9 and 10 of judgment reads as under:

"9. A bare reading of the provision shows that the legislature have chosen to couch the language of the proviso in a mandatory form and we see no reason to interpret construe and hold the nature of the proviso as directory. An application seeking to set aside an ex-parte decree passed by a Court of Small Causes or for a review of its judgment must be accompanied by a deposit in the court of the amount due from the applicant under the decree or in pursuance of the judgment. The provision as to deposit can be dispensed with by the court in its discretion subject to a previous application by the applicant seeking direction of the court for leave to furnish security and the nature thereof. The proviso does not provide for the extent of time by which such application for dispensation may be filed. We think that it may be filed at any time up to the time of presentation of application for setting aside ex-parte decree or for review and the Court may treat it as a previous application. The obligation of the applicant is to move a previous application for dispensation. It is then for the court to make a prompt order. The delay on the part of the court in passing an appropriate order would not be held against the applicant because none can be made to suffer for the fault of the court.

10. In the case at hand, the application for setting aside ex parte decree was not accompanied by deposit in the court of the amount due and payable by the applicant under the decree. The applicant also did not move any application for dispensing with deposit and seeking leave of the court for furnishing such security for the performance of the decree as the court may have directed. The application for setting aside the decree was therefore incompetent. It could not have bee entertained and allowed."

The Apex court has referred to the several decisions of this Court which were cited and has approved in the above judgment which are Krishan Kumar v. Hakim Mohd., 1978 ALJ 738, Sharif v. Suresh Chand and Ors. 1979 AWC 256, Roop Basant v. Durga Prasad and Anr. 1983 1 ARC 565, Mohd. Islam v. Faquir Mohammad 1985 1 ARC 54, Krishan Chandra Seth v. K.P. Agarwal and Anr. 1988 1 ARC 310, Mamta Sharma v. Hari Shankar Srivastava and Ors. 1988 (1) ARC 341, Mohd. Yasin v. Jai Prakash 1988 (2) ARC 575, Purshottam v. Special Additional Sessions Judge, Mathura and Ors. 1991 (2) ARC 129, Ram Chandra (deceased Lrs.) and Ors. v. Ixth Additional District Judge, Varanasi and Ors. AIR 1991 All 223 : 1991(1) ARC 501, Sagir Khan v. The District Judge, Farrukhabad and Ors. 1996 (27) ALR 540 : 1996 (1) ARC 414, Mohammad Nasem v. Third Additional District Judge, Faizabad and Ors. AIR 1998 All. 125 and Beena Khare v.

VIIIth Additional District Judge, Allahabad and Anr. 2000 (2) ARC 616.

It is not disputed that at the time of filing of application i.e. 21.5.2003 neither decretal amount was deposited nor it preceded or accompanied any application for furnishing security for performance of decree. The decisions of this Court in Ashok Kumar Dhiman (supra) relied by Revisional Court would not lend any help to respondent no.1 in view of authoritative pronouncement on the question by Apex Court in Kedarnath (supra). A belated application for purported compliance of Section 17 (1) of Act, 1887 has been deprecated by Apex Court in Kedarnath (supra) as is evident from para 11 of the judgment:

"11. The trial court was therefore right in rejecting the application. The District Judge in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction could not have interfered with the order of the trial court. The illegality in exercise of jurisdiction by the District Court disposing of the revision petition was brought to notice of the High Court and it was a fit case where the High Court ought to have in exercise of its supervisory jurisdiction set aside the order of the District Court by holding the application filed by the respondent as incompetent and hence not entertainable. We need not examine the other question whether a sufficient cause for condoning the delay in moving the application for leave of the court to furnish security for performance was made out or not and whether such an application moved at a highly belated stage and hence not being a 'previous application' was at all entertainable or not."

In view of the above, impugned revisional judgment cannot sustain. The writ petition is allowed. The judgment dated 18.01.2005 (Annexure No.14 to the writ petition) passed by Revisional Court is hereby set aside. The decree of ejectment and recovery for arrears of rent passed by Trial Court dated 25.8.2004 passed by Judge Small Cause Court, Bijnor is hereby restored and confirmed. "

Gorakhnath (Dr.) (supra)

"The respondent/landlord IInd set filed a suit for eviction and arrears of rent before Small Cause Court at Gorakhpur being Suit No. 106 of 1993. The suit was decreed against the petitioner/tenant on 23 December 1998. The petitioner filed a restoration application under Order 9 Rule 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure on 23 November 2002 for setting aside the ex parte judgment and order. The petitioner admittedly did not deposit the entire decretal amount as required in terms of the proviso to Section 17 of the Small Causes Court Act, 18871. On 8 September 2006, the restoration application was rejected by the Court on the ground that mandatory provision of proviso to Section 17 of the Act 1887 was not complied. On 4 January 2011, the petitioner moved another application (27-Ga) before the Small Causes Court, for recalling the earlier order dated 8 September 2006 and praying that the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of the C.P.C. be decided by permitting the petitioner to deposit the decretal amount. The Court vide order dated 16 April 2011 rejected the application being barred by res judicata.

This Court in the case of Khilla Devi @ Manju Singh v. Vishwa Mohini3, Jai Prakash v. Gulab Singh Rathor4, Dinesh Kumar Dubey v. Ganga Shankar Tiwari5 and in Raj Kumar and another vs. Neeraj Kumar Singhal,6 held that the compliance of Section 17 of the Act is mandatory for the maintainability of an application under Order IX, Rule 13 C.P.C.

A Division Bench in Raj Kumar Makhija and others vs. M/s S.K.S. And Company and others7, on a reference made regarding the scope of Section 17 of the Act held that a bonafide mistake on the part of the applicant in not depositing the entire decretal amount cannot be condoned under Section 17 of the Act, the application would be liable to be rejected. The reference before the Court was as follows:

"Whether the proviso to Section 17 of the Provincial Small Causes Courts Act completely bars any rectification or removal of a bona fide error after the expiry of the period of limitation when substantial compliance by way of deposit of the decretal amount and furnishing security has been made within the period of limitation particularly when Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 has been made applicable to Order IX Rule 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure?"

The Division Bench considered the judgment rendered in Kedarnath (supra) and held that the provisions of Section 17 of the Act is mandatory and non compliance thereof would entail dismissal of the application, non-compliance cannot be condoned or overlooked by the Court. There is no provision in the statute that would provide either for extension of time or to condone the default in depositing the rent within the stipulated period, the Court does not have the power to do so."

Mohd. Israil (supra)

"The two sons and a daughter of late Anwar Ahmad Sabari instituted Suit No.20 of 2002 against Ismail Khan for arrears of rent and eviction. Ismail Khan expired after the institution of the suit leaving behind as alleged his widow, four sons and a daughter. On his death, his two sons Mohd. Israil and Atula were substituted and the suit proceeded against them. The notice of the suit could not be served upon them. Therefore, recourse to substituted service was taken and the notice was published in the news-paper. Thereafter the suit was decreed ex-parte on 16.2.2004 in their absence.

The aforesaid two defendants in the suit on 30.5.2014 filed an application under Order 9 Rule 13 C.P.C. contending that they had no knowledge of the aforesaid ex-parte decree. They came to know about it in May, 2014 when the same was put in execution. Accordingly, after inspection of the record on 29.5.2014 they have moved the above application.

Section 17 of the Act provides for application of the Code of Civil Procedure in suits cognizable by Small Cause Courts but lays down that in order to set-aside a decree passed ex-parte the applicant at the time of presenting his application has to either deposit the amount due under the decree or furnish security for its performance as the Court may direct on a previous application made in that behalf. Thus, the aforesaid defendants were supposed to deposit the amount due to them under the ex-parte decree at the time of presenting the application for setting aside the same.

There is no dispute that according the decree they were supposed to deposit `.86,016.32 at the time of presenting the application under Order 9 Rule 13 C.P.C. The defendants deposited only `.76,918.44 for the purposes of setting aside the ex-parte decree in compliance of Section 17 of the Act. Thus there was a shortage of `.9097.88 (`.9098 in round figure).

In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances and the respective arguments of both the sides the only question which crops up for consideration is whether the shortage of `.9098/- in complying with the proviso to Section 17 of the Act can be regarded as negligible and ignored so as to enable the Court to consider the application under Order 9 Rule 13 C.P.C. on its merit.

In Kedarnath Vs. Mohan Lal Kesarwani and others 2002 (1) ARC 186 : 2002 (2) SCC 16 the Apex Court in considering the provisions of Section 17 of the Act laid down that a bare reading of it shows that the legislature have chosen to couch the language of the proviso in a mandatory form and there is no reason to interpret, construe and hold the nature of the proviso as directory. An application seeking to set aside an ex-parte decree passed by a Court of Small Causes must be accompanied by a deposit in the Court of the amount due from the applicant under the decree or in pursuance of the judgment. In the end, agreeing with the various pronouncements of the Allahabad High Court on the point, except for one, the Apex Court held that the provisions of Section 17 of the Act are mandatory and non compliance therewith would entail dismissal of the application for setting the ex-parte decree.

It may be relevant to state that the language of the proviso to Section 17 of the Act is plain and clear which leaves no ambiguity. The use of word 'shall' therein makes the provision mandatory in nature. It is settled in law that where the statutory provisions are plain and unambiguous, the Court shall not interpret the same in a different manner for the reason that the consequence therefrom may be harsh.

It is also well settled principle that if a statute requires an act to be performed by a private person within a specified time, the same would ordinarily be mandatory but the same is not the position when the duty to act is cast upon a public functionary in which case the provision would be directory in nature unless the consequence thereof are specified.

In view of the above principle also the provisions of Sections 17 of the Act which casts an obligation to deposit the amount under the decree upon a private party is certainly mandatory in nature. Accordingly, the deposit of the amount at the time of the presentation of the application under the decree sought to be set-aside is mandatory unless the Court otherwise directs for furnishing security.

In Amar Nath Agarwal Vs. Ist Additional District Judge and others, 1982 ARC 734 a Division Bench of this Court has held that if the deposit made by the tenant falls short of amount required to be deposited, the tenant will be deprived of the benefit, even if shortfall in such deposit was because of tenant's ignorance or without any mala fide intention. It means if there is any shortfall in the deposit, the tenant will be cease of his right to press the application on merits.

In view of the above mandatory provision the argument of substantial compliance may not be available to the defendants but for the maxim of "de minimis non curat lex".

The principle of "de minimis non curat lex" means that "the law does not concern itself about trifles". Thus, the question is if the shortage in deposit can be ignored by applying the said principle.

The aforesaid maxim in relation to Section 17 of the Act came up for consideration before a Division Bench of this Court in Raj Kumar Makhija and others Vs. M/s. S.K. and Co. and others 2012 (9) ADJ 337 (DB). The Division Bench explaining the principle observed that where the shortfall in deposit is of a negligible amount the aforesaid principle can be applied and the shortfall may be ignored. What would be a negligible amount would depend upon the facts of each case. In the above case before the Division Bench the tenants were required to deposit pendente lite and future damages at the rate of `.1,000/- per month but they deposited only at the rate of `.700/- per month. The Court refused to apply the above principle as the shortfall was not held to be of trivial amount.

The Court therein distinguished the case with those cases where the shortfall was held to be of no consequence, inasmuch as in those cases the mistake was in calculation on the part of the Court and those decisions were rendered in different factual background. Ultimately the Court held that on the basis of the above principle the Court can ignore shortfall in deposit of a negligible amount only, otherwise there has to be a strict compliance.

In one case referred by the Division Bench the amount required to be deposited was `.1,944/- and there was deficiency of `.104/- , the shortage was not held to be negligible to attract the principle.

In the case in hand admittedly the amount required to be deposited was `.86,016/- whereas the deposit made was of only `.76,918/- and there was a shortfall of `.9,018/-. The aforesaid shortfall, if examined in the light of the above two illustrations and percentage-wise keeping in mind the amount required to be deposited, it is around 10% of the amount. The shortage of 10% is not negligible to attract the principle of "de minimis non curat lex".

There cannot be any hard and fast rule as to the percentage which may be regarded as negligible in such cases but broadly speaking shortfall of about 1-2 percent of the total amount required to be deposited may in some cases be regarded trivial so as to apply the principle of "de minimis non curat lex" but not more. Accordingly, the shortage of `.9,098/- in deposit the amount under the decree is not trivial to be ignored.

In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the court below has not committed any error of law in rejecting the application of the defendants filed under Order 9 Rule 13 C.P.C. for non compliance of the mandatory provision of proviso to Section 17(1) of the Act."

28. Now the picture so emerges before this Court that Courts are having two different view, which ultimately settled while matter came up for consideration before the Apex Court in the matter of Subodh Kumar (supra). Apex Court after considering the controversy, framed issues and first issue framed by the Apex Court is the issue, which is before this Court and quoted below;

"From the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and materials on record, following issues arise for consideration in this appeal:-

1) Whether in the application filed by the respondent-tenant under Order 9 Rule 13, CPC on 25.08.1998, the requirements as contained in Proviso to Section 17 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, were complied with?"

29. After considering the issue in detail, Court has replied that compliance of Section 17 of Act, 1887 is mandatory before filing of the application under Order

IX Rule 13 of CPC, 1908. The Apex Court went to the extent that any deposit made under Section 30(2) of Act, 1997 shall not be adjusted for compliance of Section 17 of Act, 1887.

30. Relevant paragraphs of the judgement of Subodh Kumar (supra) are quoted below;-

"This Court has held that compliance of the proviso to Section 17 is mandatory for making application Under Order 9 Rule 13. In paragraph 8 and 9, following was laid down:

8. A bare reading of the provision shows that the legislature has chosen to couch the language of the proviso in a mandatory form and we see no reason to interpret, construe and hold the nature of the proviso as directory. An application seeking to set aside an ex parte decree passed by a Court of Small Causes or for a review of its judgment must be accompanied by a deposit in the court of the amount due from the Applicant under the decree or in pursuance of the judgment. The provision as to deposit can be dispensed with by the court in its discretion subject to a previous application by the Applicant seeking direction of the court for leave to furnish security and the nature thereof. The proviso does not provide for the extent of time by which such application for dispensation may be filed. We think that it may be filed at any time up to the time of presentation of application for setting aside ex parte decree or for review and the court may treat it as a previous application. The obligation of the Applicant is to move a previous application for dispensation. It is then for the court to make a prompt order. The delay on the part of the court in passing an appropriate order would not be held against the Applicant because none can be made to suffer for the fault of the court.

9. In the case at hand, the application for setting aside ex parte decree was not accompanied by deposit in the court of the amount due and payable by the Applicant under the decree. The Applicant also did not move any application for dispensing with deposit and seeking leave of the court for furnishing such security for the performance of the decree as the court may have directed. The application for setting aside the decree was therefore incompetent. It could not have been entertained and allowed.

On the date when the application was filed Under Order 9 Rule 13, i.e., 25.08.1998, neither any deposit was made by the tenant nor there was any previous application seeking permission of the Court to give security. Hence, there being non-compliance of proviso to Section 17, application was liable to be rejected and the trial court vide its order dated 19.04.2007 had rightly rejected the application Under Order 9 Rule 13.

The application Under Order 9 Rule 13 Code of Civil Procedure was filed on 25.08.1998, i.e., subsequent to filing of the execution application, thus, at least the amount of Rs. 21,660/- was due. The tenant Respondent has made a deposit Under Section 30(2) in July, 1997 of Rs. 16,800/- and again Rs. 750/- on 18.10.1997 which was rent from 30.06.1997 to 30.11.1997. Thus, on the date when the application was filed Under Order 9 Rule 13, total deposit made by the tenant Under Section 30(2) was onl y R s . 17,550/- whereas the amount due as per execution application was Rs. 21,660/-. It was only on 25.11.1998, i.e., much after filing of the application Under Order 9 Rule 13, the tenant deposited amount of Rs. 1,950/- as a rent from 30.11.1997 to 31.12.1998. Thus, even according to the own case of the Respondent tenant on the date when application Under Order 9 Rule 13 was filed, i.e., 25.08.1998, the tenant had not deposited Under Section 30(2) the total amount due, thus, by no stretch of imagination the tenant could have claimed compliance of proviso to Section 17 of Act, 1887.

Now, we may proceed to consider as to whether deposit Under Section 30(2) in the facts of the present case could have enured to the benefit of tenant for the purposes of deposit Under Section 17 of Act, 1887. The deposit was made on an application Under Section 30(2) filed by the Respondent tenant. The Court while allowing the application on 23.05.1997 had passed the following order: ORDER 4Kh application Under Section 30(2) of Act No. XIII of 1972 is allowed without prejudice to the respective contentions of the parties. The Plaintiff may deposit the amount if he so likes at his own risk. The parties shall be free to agitate the question of validity of deposit in the S.C.C. Suit pending. File be consigned.

When the Plaintiff had claimed exemption from the operation of the Act No. 13 of 1972, it was specific pleading as noted above, how deposit can be made Under Section 30 of the Act by the tenant Respondent. Section 2 begin with the expression that 'Nothing in this Act shall apply'. When there is exemption from the applicability of the Act No. 13 of 1972 as pleaded by the Plaintiff, Section 30 of the Act shall also not be applicable. When Section 30 itself is not applicable to the building, the deposit claimed to be made Under Section 30(2) is wholly irrelevant, for any purposes including for purposes of proviso to Section 17 of Act, 1887."

31. Now in light of judgment so pronounced by the Apex Court on this issue, law has been settled and accordingly, while filing application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908, it is mandatory to comply Section 17 of Act, 1887 first and failure of that, no application can be entertained under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908.

32. So far as present case is concerned, facts are not disputed. Undisputedly, SCC Court has pronounced the judgement on 12.03.2021, decree was prepared on 24.03.2021, application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908 filed on 26.03.2022 and in decree, decretal amuont is mentioned. Therefore, there is no occasion for the revisionist-defendant to skip away with the compliance of Section 17 of Act, 1887 and straightway file the application under Order IX Rule 13 CPC, 1908. Further, it is also admission on the part of revisionist-defendant that he was aware of this fact and, therefore, he has filed application dated 27.9.2021 seeking time to comply the Section 17 of Act, 1887 as inadvertently he could not comply the same earlier.

33. Therefore, under such facts of the case as well as law laid down by the Apex Court, I found no good ground to interfere in the impugned order. Revisions lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed.

34. No order as to costs.

REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

THE HON'BLE NEERAJ TIWARI, J.

S.C.C. Revision No. 60 of 2022

Dinesh Kumar ...Revisionist
Versus
Smt. Asha Agarwal & Anr.
...Opposite Parties:

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Rahul Sahai

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:

A. Civil Law - Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887- Sections 17 & 23 -Civil Procedure Code, 1908 - Order IV Rule 4 & Order L - The Small Causes Court is a summary proceedings and detailed reasons are not required to be given in judgments. The point for determination does not need for framing an issue and there is no need for the procedure applicable for the regular civil suits. In case the detail procedure of regular suit is also followed in the matter of the Small Causes Court, the very object of the Act No. 9 of 1887 shall be frustrated.

B. Proceeding of SCC suit shall be governed by the provisions of Order XX, Rule 4 of Code, 1908 and not by the provisions of Order XIV, Rule 5 of Code, 1908.

C. Order XIV of Code, 1908 says for settlement of issue in Civil Suit whereas Order XX, Rule 5 of Code, 1908 says for framing of point of determination in SCC Suit and Order L Rule 1 of Code, 1908 clearly bars the certain provisions of Code, 1908 including settlement of issues also. Therefore, intention of legislation is very much clear while having two different provisions for Civil Suit and SCC Suit and it cannot be said that Order, XIV Rules 1 & 3 & Order XX Rule 4 of Code, 1908 are having the same meaning. Mandate of Order L Rule 1 of Code, 1908 cannot also be ignored which is inserted by the legislation to remove any confusion while dealing with the provisions of Order XIV Rules 1 & 3 and Order XX Rule 4 of Code, 1908.

D. If by such a refusal to frame issues a serious prejudice is being caused to the plaintiff or the defendants then it is always expedient for the trial court to exercise its jurisdiction in framing such issues to facilitate the parties to adduce evidence in the light of pleadings on the basis of which issues were framed.

E. It is the discretionary power of the trial court to frame additional issues if it finds it necessary for determining the list between the parties but merely refusal to frame additional issues does not give a right to the parties to prefer a revision as by such refusal Jo frame such additional issues neither the rights nor the obligations of the parties are adjudicated upon. Therefore, it is upon the Court to have a new point of determination before pronouncing the judgment, if so required.

Revision dismissed. (E-12)

List of Cases relied upon:-

1. Rameshwar Dayal Vs Banda (dead) through his L.Rs. & anr.; ARC 1993 (1) 249

2. Krishna Kumar Gupta Vs Subhash Chand Surana; 2013 0 Supreme(All) 727

3. Sardar Sujeet Singh & ors. Vs Suresh Chandra Porwal; 2014 0 Supreme (All) 529

4. Vikas Gupta Vs M/s. Shri Ram Mahadev Prasad & anr.; 2014 0 Supreme(All) 1675.

5. Kisan Udyog Vs United Bank of India; 1989 0 Supreme(All) 233

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rahul Sahai, learned counsel for revisionist.

2. Present revision has been filed for setting aside the judgment/order dated 07.04.2022 passed by Additional District Judge Court No. 1, Mathura in SCC Case No. 01/2017 (Smt. Asha Agarwal and another vs. Dinesh Kumar), and/or to allow the application 74Ga of the revisionist.

3. Learned counsel for revisionist submitted that earlier SCC Suit No. 01 of 2017 was filed by the plaintiff-opposite party No.1, upon which revisionist-defendant has preferred written submission and replica has also been filed. Accordingly, considering the written submission, issues were framed on 06.03.2018. It is next submitted that to decide the SCC Suit, it is necessarily required to frame additional issues with regard to title as well as landlordship. Therefore, revisionist-defendant has moved application under Section 23 of The Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1887') numbered as 74-Ga, which provides return of plaints in suits involving questions of title. The said application has been rejected by the Court below on the ground that after completion of evidence and during the course of arguments, just to linger on the proceeding, the application was moved. It is also observed in the impugned order that while deciding the case, if required, additional issues would be framed. It is further submitted that under Order XIV Rule 5 of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as "Code, 1908'), it is required that before passing a decree, Court may amend the issues or frame additional issues on such terms as it thinks fit, but in the impugned order, it is observed that while delivering the judgment, if required, Court may frame additional issues, which is contrary to the provisions of Code, 1908. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the matter of Rameshwar Dayal vs. Banda (dead) through his L.Rs. And another; ARC 1993 (1) 249. He has also relied upon the judgments of this Court in the matters of Vikas Pawar vs. Smt. Tara Rani and another; 2005 (1) ARC 196 and Satish Chandra Agarwal vs. Ashok Jaiswal ; 2016 (2) ARC 605.

4. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for revisionist and perused the impugned order, provisions of law as well as judgments relied upon.

5. Revisionist-defendant has filed application under Order XIV Rule 5 of Code, 1908 for framing of additional issues, which was rejected. Issue before the Court is to decide as to whether the proceeding of SCC Court shall be governed under the provisions of Order XX of Code, 1908 or Order XIV of Code, 1908 and application under Order XIV, Rule 5 of Code, 1908 is maintainable or not.

6. Present proceeding of suit is governed by the provisions of Act, 1887 as well as Code, 1908 and Section 17 of Act, 1887 provides applicability of Code, 1908. Relevant provisions of Act, 1887 and Code, 1908 are quoted below:-

Act, 1887

"17. Application of the Code of Civil Procedure.--(1) 1[The procedure prescribed in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), shall, save in so far as is otherwise provided by that Code or by this Act,] be the procedure followed in a Court of Small Causes in all suits cognizable by it and in all proceedings arising out of such suits:

Provided that an applicant for an order to set aside a decree passed ex parte or for a review of judgment shall, at the time of presenting his application, either deposit in the court the amount due from him under the decree or in pursuance of the judgment, or give [such security for the performance of the decree or compliance with the judgment as the Court may, on a previous application made by him in this behalf, have directed.]

(2) Where a person has become liable as surety under the proviso to sub-section (1), the security may be realised in manner provided by section 3[145] of the Code of Civil Procedure, 4[1908 (5 of 1908)]."

Code, 1908

"Order XIV Rule 1. Framing of issues.-(1) Issues arise when a material proposition of fact or law is affirmed by the one party and denied by the other.

(2) Material propositions are those propositions of law or fact which a plaintiff must allege in order to show a right to sue or a defendant must allege in order to constitute his defence.

(3) Each material proposition affirmed by one-party and denied by the other shall form the subject of distinct issue.

(4)Issues are of two kinds:

(a)issues of fact,

(b) issues of law.

(5) At the first hearing of the suit the Court shall, after reading the plaint and the written statements, if any, and after examination under rule 2 of Order X and after hearing the parties or their pleaders, ascertain upon what material propositions of fact or of law the parties are at variance, and shall thereupon proceed to frame and record the issues on which the right decision of the case appears to depend.

(6) Nothing in this rule requires the Court to frame and record issues where the defendant at the first hearing of the suit makes no defence.

Order XIV Rule 5. Power to amend, and strike out, issues.-(1) The Court may at any time before passing a decree amend the issues or frame additional issues on such terms as it thinks fit, and all such amendments or additional issues as may be necessary for determining the matters in controversy between the parties shall be so made or framed.

(2) The Court may also, at any time before passing a decree, strike out any issues that appear to it to be wrongly framed or introduced.

Order XX Rule 4. Judgments of Small Cause Courts.- (1) Judgments of a Court of Small Causes need not contain more than the points for determination and the decision thereon.

(2) Judgments of other Courts.- Judgments of other Courts shall contain concise statement of the case, the points of determination, the decision thereon, and the reasons for such decision.

Order L Rule 1. Provincial Small Cause Courts.- The provisions hereinafter specified shall not extend to Courts constituted under the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 (9 of 1887) [or under the Berar Small Cause Courts Law, 1905] or to Courts exercising the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes [under the said Act or Law], [or to Court in [any part of India to which the said Act does not extend] exercising a corresponding jurisdiction] that is to say-

(a) so much of this schedule as relates to-

(I) suits excepted from the cognizance of a Court of Small Causes or the execution of decrees in such suits;(ii) the execution of decrees against immovable property or the interest of a partner in partnership property;

(iii) the settlement of issues; and

7. From the perusal of aforesaid legal provisions, it is clear that as per Section 17 of Act, 1887, Code, 1908 would be applicable in the matter of SCC suits also. Further, Order L Rule 1 of Code, 1908 restrains the applicability of certain provisions of Code, 1908, which also includes the settlement of issues. Order XIV Rule 1 of Code, 1908 provides for settlement of issues which includes issue of law and issue of facts both. Order XX Rule 4 of Code, 1908 provides for judgment of Small Cause Courts and says that judgments of Court of Small Cause need not contain more than the point of determination and decision thereon. Therefore, whole picture so emerges is that Code, 1908 would be applicable in SCC suit, but as per Order L Rule 1 of Code, 1908, judgment shall be pronounced as per Order XX Rule 4 of Code, 1908 and not as per Order XIV of Code, 1908.

8. So far as present case is concerned, undoubtedly, earlier SCC Court has framed "विचारण बिंदू" on 06.03.2018 which according to revisionist is the "issue". This Court has also observed that neither other issues are made out nor pressed by either of the parties for framing of additional issues. Further, Court has fixed the date of 28.03.2018 for evidence. "विचारण बिंदू" is Hindi terminology, which may be translated as issue as well as point of determination both having almost no difference. Therefore, before coming to the conclusion as to whether its an "issue" or "point of determination", this Court has gone through the legal provisions and according to that in SCC suit, there is no provision of framing of issues, therefore, it must have been translated as point of determination under Order XX Rule 4 of Code, 1908.

9. Now another issue is as to whether application of revisionist under Order XIV Rule 1 of Code, 1908 is maintainable or not. Before deciding this question, it is necessarily required to discuss the cases relied upon by learned counsel for revisionist.

10. Learned counsel for revisionist has placed reliance upon the judgment passed by the Apex Court in the matter of Rameshwar Dayal (Supra), where Court has held that point of determination referred to in Order XX Rule 4(1) of Code, 1908 are absolutely nothing but an issue as contemplated by Rules 1 & 3 of Order XIV of Code, 1908. In the said case, the issue before the Apex Court was that SCC suit was decided without framing any point of determination or issues as required either under Order XX Rule 4 or Order XIV Rule 1 & 3 of Code, 1908. The Apex Court has dealt with this issue in detail and basically Apex Court was of the opinion that before deciding the suit, point of determination or issue is necessarily required to be framed.

11. In next paragraph of the said judgement, Apex Court has held that it was obligatory for the Small Cause Courts, in the present case, to state the points for determination and give its finding or decision on each of the said points meaning thereby though in previous paragraph, Apex Court has held that issue and point of determination are same, but in next paragraph, Apex Court has clarified that so far as SCC suit is concerned, it is required to frame point of determination. Relevant

"Points for determination" referred to in Rule 4(1) are obviously nothing but "issues" contemplated by Rules 1 and 3 of Order XIV of the Code. The present decision of the Small Causes Court which has not even stated the points for determination and given finding thereon, is obviously not a judgment within the meaning of Section 2(9) of the Code. Since the matters were controversy between the parties, it is only a judgment which could have given rise to a decree. The so-called decision of the Small Causes Court, therefore, does not amount to a decree within the meaning of Section 2(2) read with Section 2(9) and Rules 4(1) and 5 of Order XX of the Code.

It is not disputed that in view of the provisions of Section 17(1) of the Provincial Small Causes Court Act, the Code is applicable to Small Causes Court except where it is otherwise provided either by the Code or the said Act. Apart from Rules 4(1) and 5 of Order XX of the Code, on this count also, it was obligatory for the Small Causes Court, in the present case, to state the points for determination and give its finding or decision on each of the said points. Hence the present decision of the Small Causes Court is not a judgment and a decree in the eye of law and is, therefore, no nest as far as the respondent is concerned."

12. This issue again came up before the Division Bench of this Court in the matter of Krishna Kumar Gupta vs. Subhash Chand Surana; 2013 0 Supreme(All) 727 and Court has dealt this matter in detail and also interpreted the judgment of Rameshwar Dayal (Supra). Relevant paragraph Nos. 13 & 14 of judgment is quoted below:-

"The matter can be viewed from another angle. Legislature in Order XIV of the Code has used the words framing of issues', whereas in Order XX Rule 4 pertaining to Small Causes the words used are 'points for determination and decision thereon'. The provision of Order XIV relating to 'Settlement of issues' having been expressly excluded from its application in suits and proceedings before the Judge, Small Causes under the provisions of Small Cause Courts Act by virtue of Order 50 Rule 1(b) by no stretch of imagination, it can be said that it is mandatory upon the Judge, Small Cause Court while trying a suit under the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act to frame issues as per the procedure prescribed by Order XIV and non-compliance of the said provision would vitiate the proceeding. In view of use of two different expression by the legislature namely, 'framing and settlement of issues' and 'points for determination' it cannot be held that the procedure prescribed for framing of issues are to be adhered to or followed by a Judge, Small Causes Court. It is well-settled that when in relation to the same subject-matter different words are used in the same Statute, there is a presumption that they are not used in the same sense unless it leads to unreasonable or irrational results. No doubt the Hon'ble Apex Court had observed in the case of Rameshwar Dayal (Supra) that points for determination referred to in Rule 4(1) are nothing but 'issues' contemplated by Rule 1 and 3 of Order XIV of the Code but neither it has been observed specifically nor it can be inferred that procedure and stage prescribed by Order 14 of the Code for framing/settlement of issues is to be followed by the Judge, Small Causes as well while trying a suit under the Provincial Small Causes Court Act. Thus the view taken by learned single Judge in the case of Akhil Kumar Jain (Supra) that it is mandatory to frame issues in suit being tried under the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act is against the ratio of the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Rameshwar Dayal (Supra)."

13. The very same issue was again subject matter before this Court in the matter of Sardar Sujeet Singh and others vs. Suresh Chandra Porwal; 2014 0 Supreme (All) 529 and Court has again taken the same view that in light of Section 17 of Act, 1887 and Order L Rule 1 of Code, 1908 and held that so many provisions of Code, 1908 are not applicable to the proceeding of SCC suit and accordingly, Order 14 Code, 1908 has not been extended to the Courts constituted under the Act. Relevant paragraph Nos. 25 & 26 of judgment is quoted below:-

" The procedural law is enacted to regulate the proceeding in Court and the case proceeding should be conducted strictly in accordance with the prescribed procedure. The Provincial Small Cause Courts Act has been enacted with the object to decide the cases triable by the S.C.C. expeditiously. It is for this reason that as per section 17 of the Act and Order L, C.P.C. so many provisions of C.P.C. are not made applicable to the proceeding of S.C.C. suit and further the decree passed by the S.C.C. has been given finality and the decision is not appealable.

Since the provisions of settlement of issues contained in Order XIV has not been extended to the Courts constituted under 'the Act', the Application No. 58-C moved by the defendants for framing the additional issues purported to be under Rule 5 Order XIV, C.P.C. is not legally maintainable. The impugned order is completely justified in view of provisions of section 17 of 'the Act' and Order L, C.P.C."

14. Once again this issue came up before the this Court in the matter of Vikas Gupta vs. M/s. Shri Ram Mahadev Prasad and another; 2014 0 Supreme(All) 1675. Relevant paragraph Nos. 8, 11, 12, 13 of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"8 . From a perusal of the said Section it is manifest that the Small Cause Court has limited pecuniary jurisdiction. The intent of the legislature is manifest that the suits of small causes should be decided expeditiously. With the said view of the matter the detail procedure of the regular suit is not applicable.

11. A simple reading of aforesaid Rules 4 and 5 make it clear that the judgment of a Court of Small Causes need not contain more than the points for determination and the decision thereon, whereas judgments of other Courts shall contain a concise statement of the case, the points for determination, the decision thereon, and the reasons for such decision.

12. The distinction between sub rule (1) and (2) of Rule 4 of Order XX of the CPC by itself is sufficient to indicate that the Small Causes Court is a summary proceedings and detailed reasons are not required to be given in judgments. The point for determination does not need for framing an issue and there is no need for the procedure applicable for the regular civil suits. In case the detail procedure of regular suit is also followed in the matter of the Small Causes Court, the very object of the Act No. 9 of 1887 shall be frustrated. Therefore, the submission of the learned Counsel for the revisionist does not stand to reasons.

13. After careful consideration of the matter, I am of the view that framing of the issue in the suits under the Act No. 9 of 1887 is not mandatory. It is a discretion of the court to formulate some points for determination, if it needs it is necessary to meet the ends of justice, but framing of the issue like a regular suit, as stated above, would be against the object of the Act to dispose of small matters expeditiously."

15. Learned counsel for revisionist also relied upon the judgments of Vikas Pawar (Supra) and Satish Chandra Agarwal (Supra). While deciding the issue, this Court in Vikas Pawar (Supra) has not considered Paragraph No. 23 of the judgment of Rameshwar Dayal (Supra), which clarifies that in the matter of SCC suit, point of determination is required to be framed. Similarly, while deciding the matter of Satish Chandra Agarwal (Supra), this Court has not considered the judgment of Division Bench of this Court in the matters of Kisan Udyog (Supra) and Sardar Surjeet Singh (Supra), where this issue has been clarified with observations that proceeding of SCC suit shall be governed by the provisions of Order XX, Rule 4 of Code, 1908 and not by the provisions of Order XIV, Rule 5 of Code, 1908 which is the intention of the judgment given in Rameshwar Dayal (Supra) also.

16. As earlier mentioned, while deciding the SCC suit, provisions of Act, 1887 and Code, 1908 would be applicable. Certainly, Section 17 of Act, 1887 provides for applicability of provisions of Code, 1908 whereas Code, 1908 is having different provisions for Civil Suit and SCC Suit. One Code, 1908 is having two different provisions for deciding Civil Suit, therefore, it cannot be said that both the provisions would have same meaning. Order XIV of Code, 1908 says for settlement of issue in Civil Suit whereas Order XX, Rule 5 of Code, 1908 says for framing of point of determination in SCC Suit and Order L Rule 1 of Code, 1908 clearly bars the certain provisions of Code, 1908 including settlement of issues also. Therefore, intention of legislation is very much clear while having two different provisions for Civil Suit and SCC Suit and it cannot be said that Order, XIV Rules 1 & 3 & Order XX Rule 4 of Code, 1908 are having the same meaning. Mandate of Order L Rule 1 of Code, 1908 cannot also be ignored which is inserted by the legislation to remove any confusion while dealing with the provisions of Order XIV Rules 1 & 3 and Order XX Rule 4 of Code, 1908. Further, in the case of Rameshwar Dayal (Supra), Apex Court has considered this fact and clarified that in the matter of SCC Suit, point of determination has to be decided.

17. Now coming again to the issue involved in the present case, there is no doubt on this point that Court below has framed point of determination vide order dated 06.03.2018, upon which both the parties were having no objection for more than four years and only after closure of evidence, there is no occasion for filing application for framing additional issues or point of determination. Inordinate delay in filing application intends towards the delaying tactics adopted by the revisionist-defendant coupled with this fact that while framing the point of determination vide order dated 06.03.2018, revisionist was not aggrieved. Secondly, though Order XIV of Code, 1908 is not applicable, but even if it provides that it is upon Court to amend the issue or frame additional issue at any time before passing of decree and this view has also been upheld by the this Court in the matter of Kisan Udyog vs. United Bank of India; 1989 0 Supreme(All) 233. Relevant paragraph No. 4 of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"4 . In the instant case the plaintiff has filed a suit for the recovery of Rs. 52479/- together with interest at the rate of 13% per annum. This amount has been claimed in view of the alleged advance having been made. It is alleged on behalf of the plaintiff that the defendants executed an agreement. In any case it is for the plaintiff to satisfy the court that the amount is due and is recoverable from the defendants. No doubt, the defendants may resist the claim in the Court. However, if by such a refusal to frame issues a serious prejudice is being caused to the plaintiff or the defendants then it is always expedient for the trial court to exercise its jurisdiction in framing such issues to facilitate the parties to adduce evidence in the light of pleadings on the basis of which issues were framed. In the instant case I do not find that any prejudice would be caused to the defendant applicant. It is the discretionary power of the trial court to frame additional issues if it finds it necessary for determining the list between the parties but merely refusal to frame additional issues does not give a right to the parties to prefer a revision as by such refusal Jo frame such additional issues neither the rights nor the obligations of the parties are adjudicated upon. As no right or obligation of a party is determined by refusal to frame additional issues it cannot be held to be deciding a case so as to attract the expression "case which has been decided."

18. Therefore, it is upon the Court to have a new point of determination before pronouncing the judgment, if so required and there is no illegality in the observations made by the Court below in the impugned order.

19. From the perusal of impugned order, it is very much clear that SCC Court has rightly held that in the light of Order L Rule 1 of Code, 1908, there is no provision for framing issues and provisions of Order XIV Code, 1908 shall not be applicable. It is also held that in impugned order, revisionist-defendant has not claimed himself to be the owner of property and co-owner/landlord may also have the right to file suit for eviction, therefore, there is no issue of title between tenant and landlord before SCC Court. On facts too, there is no illegality in the order impugned. It has been rightly held in the impugned order that point of determination was framed on 06.03.2018 agreed between the parties and after closer of evidence, filing of such application is nothing but an attempt to linger on the proceeding.

20. Therefore, in the light of discussions made here-in-above about the law and facts, I found no good reason to interfere in the impugned order. Revision lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed.

No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pradeep Agrawal, learned counsel for the revisionist as well as Sri Rohit Nandan Shukla, learned counsel for the opposite party.

2. Present revision under Section 11 of the U.P. Trade Tax Act, 1948, has been preferred assailing order dated 05.11.2004, passed by the Commercial Tax Tribunal, U.P., Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal"), on the following questions of law :-

i) Whether the learned Tribunal was justified in not considering the decision of this Hon'ble Court in the case of Kanhaiya Beverages Pvt. Ltd. wherein it has been specifically held that the ownership of the land in the name of the Promotor Director can be considered to be the land of the unit and the grant of eligibility certificate can not be refused.

ii) Whether the learned Tribunal was justified in not considering the fact that the final registration with the Industries Department was in continuation of the provisional registration granted in 1996 and 2001.

iii) Whether the learned Tribunal was justified in twisting the fact of the case and without proper appreciation of fact has recorded the perverse finding which has vitiated the law.

iv) Whether the learned Tribunal was justified in holding that the plot no.F-63 allotted in favour of Ajay Kumar Gupta Promotor Director in 1994 will not be deemed to be the plot of the unit until it is registered in the name of unit.

v) Whether the learned Tribunal was justified in holding that the registration of the plot in the name of unit and the amendment in the registration certificate of the Industries Department are the material dates and as such the applicant is not entitled to exemption under Section 4-A of the Act in view of notification no. 3867 dated 22.12.2001.

vi) Whether the Tribunal was justified in not considering the basic legislative intent of the provisions of Section 4-A granting incentives for promoting growth and development should be liberally construed.

vii) Whether the learned Tribunal was justified in ignoring the law laid down by the Apex Court as well as by this Hon'ble Court and passed the impugned order on the basis of extraneous consideration which has vitiated the findings recorded in the impugned order.

3. The revisionist is a smelting unit being run on Plot number 64 Industrial Area Surajpur Site B Greater Noida and had applied under Section 4 [a] of the UP Trade Tax Act (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") for grant of exemption from payment of trade tax under facility available to a newly set up industry. The said application was duly considered by the Divisional Level Committee constituted in this regard, and rejected on the ground that the applicant did not fulfill the conditions laid down in the notification dated 22/12/2001. The application for review was also rejected and consequently the revisionist approached the Full Bench of the Tribunal which rejected the appeal by means of the order dated 05/11/2004, which has been assailed before this court in the present revision.

4. Sri Pradeep Agarwal counsel for the revisionist submitted that the application for exemption under Section 4 of the Act was rejected on two grounds, firstly that the adjacent plot number F 63 was transferred to the revisionist after the due date prescribed in the exemption notification dated 22.12.2001, and also that Sri Ajay Kumar Gupta who was the director of the revisionist and also lessee of plot number 63 did not have any right to transfer the same in favour of the revisions and hence the land was illegally and improperly transferred in name of the revisionist, and secondly the machinery used by the revisionists was not new machinery as prescribed in the exemption notification but old machinery which had been used thereby dis-entitling them for the benefit of the said exemption.

5. The first ground for rejection of the application for exemption was that plot number F 63 was allotted in favour of Sri Ajay Kumar Gupta who was the promoter Director of the revisionist firm on 17/01/1994 by U.P. State Industrial Development Corporation (hereinafter referred to as "the UPSIDC") and subsequently it was is said to have been transferred to the revisionist by means of an agreement to sell dated 25/11/99. The UPSIDC granted permission to Sri Ajit Kumar Gupta to transfer the plot number F 63 by means of its letter dated 17/12/2001 In favour of the revisionist and it was subsequently registered with the Industries Department on 25/03/2002.

6. The above facts were considered by the Tribunal and while dismissing the appeal, recorded a finding that Sri Ajay Kumar Gupta could not have transferred the said land in favour of the revisionist prior to 17.12.2001 as the lease agreement clearly stipulated In clause 4(j) that "licensee will not directly or indirectly transfer, assign, sale, encumber or part with his interest under or benefit of this agreement or any part thereof in any manner whatsoever without the previous consent in writing of the grantor and it shall be open for the grantor to refuse such consent or grant the same subject to such conditions and may be laid down by the grantor in that behalf"

7. The Tribunal was of the considered view that in light of the aforesaid restrictions the land could not have been transferred in favour of the revisionist. It also rejected the existence and validity of the agreement to sell and that Sri Ajay

Kumar Gupta was not the owner of the said land and therefore could not have executed an agreement to sale, which was also an unregistered document, and the original was never brought on record, and the same was never produced before the Divisional Level Committee along with the application for exemption and its very existence was therefore held to be doubtful. In light of the above facts the Tribunal rejected the contention of the applicant holding that plot number F 63 was not validly transferred to the revisionist and hence the conditions mentioned in the notification Dated 22.12.2001 were not fulfilled and therefore did not find any fault with the findings recorded by the division level committee rejecting the application of the revisionist.

8. Sri Pradeep Agarwal assailing the findings of the Tribunal submitted that according to the notification dated 22.12.2001, Clause (b) all the conditions provided that the "unit has obtained land from any source".

9. The notification dated 22nd December, 2001 is reproduced hereinafter:-

"UTTAR PRADESH SHASAN KAR AVAM NIBANDHAN ANUBHAG-2 The Governor is pleased to order the publication of the following English translation of Government Notification No. KA.NI. -2-3867/XI -9(116)/94 - U.P. Act -15-48 - Order -(74)- 2001 dated : December 22, 2001, for general information:

NOTIFICATION No. KA.NI. -2-3867/XI -9(116)/94 - U.P. Act -15-48 - Order -(74)- 2001 Dated : Lucknow : December 22, 2001 WHEREAS the State Government is of the opinion that for promoting the development of certain industries in the State, it is necessary to grant exemption from, or reduction in rate of, tax to new units and also to units which have undertaken expansion or diversification:

NOW, THEREFORE, in exercise of the powers under Section 4-A of the Uttar Pradesh Trade Tax Act, 1948 (Act No.XV of 1948), the Governor is pleased to declare that subject to the conditions and restrictions referred to in Section 4-A of the said Act and in notifications issued from time to time thereunder and subject to the fulfilment on March 31, 2000, by the concerned unit the conditions specified in this notification,-

(a) in respect of any goods manufactured in a new unit whose date of starting production falls on or after April 1, 2000 but no later than December 31, 2001, no tax shall be payable, or as the case may be, the tax shall be payable at the reduced rate, by the manufacturer thereof on the turnover of sales of such goods from the date of first sale or the date following the expiration of six months from the date of starting production whichever is earlier.

(b) in respect of any goods manufactured in a unit which has undertaken expansion and the date of production in excess of the base production falls on or before March 31, 2000, no tax shall be payable, or as the case may be, the tax shall be payable at the reduced rate, by the manufacturer thereof on the turnover of sales of the quantity of goods manufactured in excess of the base production.

(c) in respect of any goods manufactured in a unit which has undertaken diversification and the date of production of goods of a nature different from those manufactured earlier by such units falls on or before March 31, 2000, no tax shall be payable, or as the case may be, the tax shall be payable at the reduced rate by the manufacturer thereof on the turnover of sales of goods, which are of a nature different from those, manufactured by the unit earlier:

Provided that the unit intending to claim tax relief under this notification shall intimate in writing accordingly to the assessing authority within 20 days from the date of this notification.

CONDITIONS

(a) the unit is registered/licensed under Industry Department or unit has obtained letter of intent or letter of will from Government of India;

(b) the unit has obtained land from any source;

(c) the unit has applied for a term loan from any regular Financial Institution.

By order (T. George Joseph) Pramukh Sachiv"

10. Admittedly the provisions for exemption from Sales Tax have been introduced in the Act for the purpose of increasing the production of goods and for promoting the development of industries in the State. In fact, when the scheme called "Grant of Sales-tax Exemption Scheme 1982 to industrial units under Section 4-A of the Sales-tax Act" was originally framed, it was expressly stated that the Government granted the facility of exemption in order to encourage the capital investment and establishment of industrial units in the State. The Scheme contained various rules for grant of such exemption. The Section itself has referred to the purpose for which the Government could grant such exemption. Sub-Section (1) of Section 4-A prescribes the maximum period for which the exemption could be granted as 7 years. As per the section, such exemption should commence from the date of first sale by such manufacture if such sale takes place within six months from the date of starting production and in any other case from the date following the expiration of six months from the date of starling production. The expression "date of starting production" has been defined in the explanation as the date on which any raw material required for use in the manufacture or packing of the goods is purchased for the first time. The term "new unit" used in the Section has also been defined in the explanation. The revisionist has submitted that it fulfilled the relevant conditions at the time when it applied for exemption. Such period was to be reckoned from the dale of first sale if such sale took place not later than six months from the date starting production and in other cases from the date following the expiration of six months from the date of starting production subject to the condition that the unit had not discontinued production of such goods for a period exceeding six months at a stretch in any assessment year.

11. Sri Pradeep Agarwal, learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that the provision of the exemption notification deserve liberal consideration and the revisionist was validly transferred the land, which was already alloted to its Director-Promotor and there is no illegality in the same. He relied on the agreement to sell and submitted that the plot was transferred prior to the cut off date prescribed in the exemption notification, and hence he fulfilled all the conditions as laid down in the said notification. With regard to the old machinery, it was submitted that the same was not used in the manufacturing process and hence has assailed the findings recorded by the authority below and urged this Court to set aside the judgment of the Tribunal.

12. Learned counsel appearing for the Revenue has supported the findings recorded by the authorities below and prayed that the revision deserves to be dismissed.

13. Considering the above submissions, it is necessary to interpret the exemption notification and to analyze its provisions in order to determine as to whether the conditions laid down would be directory or mandatory.

14. In Commissioner of Income-tax, Amritsar v. Straw Board Manufacturing Co. Ltd., [1989] Supp. 2 S.C.C. 523, the Supreme Court held that in taxing statutes, provision for concessional rate of tax should be liberally construed. So also in Bajaj Tempo Ltd. Bombay v. Commissioner of Income-tax, Bombay City - III, Bombay, [1992] 3 S.C.C. 78, it was held that provision granting incentive for promoting economic growth and development in taxing statutes should be liberally construed and restriction placed on it by way of exception should be construed in a reasonable and purposive manner so as to advance the objective of the provision.

15. We find that the object of granting exemption from payment of sales tax has always been for encouraging capital investment and establishment of industrial units for the purpose of increasing production of goods and promoting the development of industry in the State.

16. The exemption notification dated 22.12.2001, was also subject to consideration before this Court in the case of Akross Synthetics Private Limited Vs. Commissioner of Trade Tax, U.P., Lucknow, (2008) 13 VST 504 (All), where this Court has held as follows :-

"13. Perusal of the Notification No. KA-NI-2-2591, dated August 24, 2000 and the Notification No. KA-NI-2-3867, dated December 22, 2001 reveals that in both the notifications there was a condition that the unit should apply for term loan from any regular financial institution: As per notification dated August 24, 2000 this condition was to be fulfilled on January 17, 2000 and as per Notification No. KA-NI-2-3867, dated December 22, 2001 this condition was to be fulfilled on March 31, 2000. Admittedly, the applicant had not applied for term loan prior to March 31, 2000. The term loan was applied after May 26, 2000 by the applicant-company much after March 31, 2000. In the circumstances, the applicant could not fulfil the requirement of the notification for the grant of exemption. It is nobody's case that the term loan was sanctioned in pursuance of the applications moved in the year 1994. The term loan was sanctioned in pursuance of the application moved by the company much after March 31, 2000.

14. The "new unit" established after March 31, 1990 is defined by the Explanation II to section 4A of the Act, which says that the new unit after March 31, 1990 means a factory or workshop set up by a dealer after such date and satisfying the conditions laid down under this Act or Rules or Notifications made thereunder with regard to such factory or workshop and includes an industrial unit manufacturing the same goods at any other place in the State or an industrial unit manufacturing any other goods on, or adjacent to the site of an existing factory or workshop but does not include.

15. The above definition provides that only those units which fulfil the conditions laid down in the notifications issued under the Act or Rules are said to be "new units" and eligible for exemption under section 4A of the Act. Thus, fulfilment of" conditions mentioned in the notifications is mandatory and to be strictly complied with.

16. In the case of Novopan India Ltd., Hyderabad v. Collector of Central Excise and Customs, Hyderabad reported in 1994 Supp (3) SCC 606, apex court held as follows:

"16. We are, however, of the opinion that, On principle, the decision of this court in Mangalore Chemicals, [1991] 83 STC 234 (SC); 1992 Supp (1) SCC 21 and in Union of India v. Wood Papers Ltd., [1991] 83 STC 251 (SC); 1990 SCC (Tax) 422 referred to therein-- represents the correct view of law. The principle that in case of ambiguity, a taxing statute should be construed in favour of the assessee--assuming that the said principle is good and sound--does not apply to the construction of an exception or an exempting provision; they have to be construed strictly. A person invoking an exception or an exemption provision to relieve him of the tax liability must establish clearly that he is covered by the said provision. In case of doubt or ambiguity, benefit of it must go to the State. This is for the reason explained in Mangalore Chemicals, [1991] 83 STC 234 (SC); 1992 Supp (1) SCC 21 and other decisions, viz., each such exception/exemption increases the tax burden on other members of the community correspondingly. Once, of course, the provision is found applicable to him, full effect must be given to it. As observed by a Constitution Bench of this court in Hansraj Gordhandas v. H.H. Dave, [1969] 2 SCR 253; AIR 1970 SC 755, that such a notification has to be interpreted in the light of the words employed by it and not on any other basis. This was so held in the context of the principle that in a taxing statute, there is no room for any intendment, that regard must be had to the clear meaning of the words and that the matter should be governed wholly by the language of the notification, i.e., by the plain terms of the exemption."

17. In the case of State Level Committee v. Morgardshammar India Ltd. reported in [1996] 101 STC 1 (SC); [1996] UPTC 213; the apex court held that section 4A of the Act provides for exemption from tax and is to be construed strictly.

18. In the case of Kartar Rolling Mills v. Commissioner of Central Excise, New Delhi reported in (2006) 4 SCC 772, apex court held that the exemption notification is to be construed strictly.

19. In view of the above, for the claim of exemption it is necessary to comply with the conditions mentioned under the provisions of section 4A of the Act and the notifications issued thereunder. It is on the dealer; who claims the exemption to establish that the conditions of the notifications are fulfilled. If any of the condition is not fulfilled, the exemption cannot be allowed. As referred hereinabove dealer was not able to fulfill the conditions of the notifications on the day on which it was required to be fulfilled and, therefore, the exemption has rightly been refused: In the circumstances, no interference is called for.

20. In the result, revision fails and is accordingly, dismissed."

16. Considering the aforesaid judgments with regard to the manner of interpretation of the Exemption Notification, it is noticed that the Eligibility Notification lay down conditions for seeking benefit of Exemption Notification, which have to be fulfilled and are mandatory in nature and have to be strictly complied with by the dealer if he wishes to claim exemption. In case any of the conditions are not fulfilled, same would dis-entitle the dealer from being granted benefit under the said notification.

17. Applying the aforesaid to the facts of the present case, it is noticed that even though the land did not belong to the Promotor/Director of the revisionist firm, but the same was sought to be transferred to the revisionist and that transfer can be said to have been completed on 17.01.2001, when UPSIDC directed for transfer of plot no. F-63 in favour of the revisionist firm. It cannot be said that prior to 17.01.2001, the land was transferred in favour of the revisionist. The validity of the agreement to sell dated 25.11.1999, has been doubted by the Tribunal as the original copy was never produced before the Tribunal nor were the documents produced before the Divisional Level Committee, which was considering the case of the revisionist firm. Even before this Court no material has been placed so as to doubt the correctness of findings recorded by the Tribunal and hence there is no material before this Court to interfere with the concurrent findings of authorities below that the condition required for transfer of land was not completed prior to last date i.e. 31.01.2000.

18. In this view of the matter, for the reasons recorded above, no interference is required with the findings recorded by the Tribunal that the land was not transferred prior to cut off date prescribed in the exemption notification dated 22.12.2001.

19. The second contention raised by learned counsel for the revisionist that old machinery was not used in the process of manufacture and it is only 'accessories', and on this basis has assailed the findings recorded by the Tribunal.

20. It is noticed that findings of the Tribunal were based upon the spot inspection report, where the manufacturing process was carefully observed and it has been recorded that 'cranes' were used for lifting of boxes and was also used in the process of manufacture. Hence it cannot be said that findings of the Tribunal are perverse or without any material.

21. Per contra in this regard it has only been submitted on behalf of revisionist that transformer, voltage stabilizer, motor and blower and EOT Crane are not used in the process of manufacture. The said spot inspection report has not been disputed by the revisionist at any stage of the proceedings and categorical finding has been recorded in the spot inspection with regard to use of old machinery which was found to be used in the manufacture process, hence revisionist would not be entitled for the benefit of the Exemption Notification.

21. It is also noticed that one of the condition required for grant of exemption was that the unit should be registered with the Industries Department and both the plots were jointly registered with the Industries Department on 21.03.2001, which is clearly beyond 31.03.2000, which is cut-off date, and consequently for all the aforesaid reasons, it is noted that revisionist did not fulfill the conditions before the cut-off date fixed and hence is not entitled for exemption.

22. No question of law arise for adjudication in this revision. Accordingly present revision is dismissed.

Commissioner of Sales Tax, UP V M/s Sanjeev Fabrics 2010 NTN (Volume 44)-69

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Pooja Talwar, learned counsel for the revisionist as well as Sri Rohit Nandan Shukla, learned counsel appearing for the revenue.

2. The revisionist have assailed the order of the Trade Tax Tribunal dated 13.10.2010 whereby the second appeals preferred by them has been partly allowed, and certain goods have been held to be validly purchased utilizing Form C and were held to be entitled for the concessional rate of tax, while with regard to the purchase of Locomotives and Railway siding and spares, transmitters and computer stationery were held to have been unauthorisedly purchased against Form C, for which penalty of Rs. 56,19,991.00 has been imposed.

3. The revisionist is a Cooperative Society under the administrative control of Ministry of Fertilizer and Chemical, Department of Fertilizers, Government of India and a registered dealer both under the UP Trade Tax Act as well as the Central Sales Tax Act (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") and is engaged in the business of manufacture and sale of chemical fertilizers [urea] .

4. The controversy in the present case relates to the assessment year 1989-90 arising out of penalty proceedings initiated under Section 10A of the Act, where, by means of order dated 22/02/1993, penalty was imposed on purchase of Iron Steel, cement and other various items to the tune of Rs.1,60,00,000/-. The first appeal was preferred before Joint Commissioner (Appeals), Bareilly which was dismissed on 29/01/1994. The order of the passed by the Joint Commissioner (Appeals), Bareilly was assailed before the Commercial Tax Tribunal (hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal"), in Second Appeal No. 148 of 1994, which was partly allowed by means of order dated 27.10.2006, and sustained the penalty imposed on purchase of cement and iron & steel. Aggrieved by the order of the Tribunal, Revision preferred before this Court being Trade Tax Revision No. 04 of 2007, which was allowed on 04/07/2007, and the order of the Tribunal was set aside and the matter was remanded to the Tribunal to decide the case on merits afresh expeditiously.

5. It is in the remand proceedings that the present impugned order dated 13.10.2010 has been passed which has been assailed before this court in the instant revision. It has been submitted by Ms. Pooja Talwar appearing on behalf of the revisionist that he had moved an application under Section 7(2) of the Act for registration in Form A on 31/01/1985 for grant of registration certificate with regard to the material used in manufacture of fertilizer, for permitting them to purchase the same at concessional rate of tax. It has been submitted that the applications for purchase of certain items including Steel Pipes and Pipe Fittings as material which is used in manufacture was allowed. Another application was submitted on 16/09/1985 for adding more items on the list and the authorities after being satisfied noticed that Iron and Steel in all forms and shapes has been included in Item 4, cement and another compounding material is already included in Item 5 and pipes of all kinds and pipe fittings including valves and bracket is already registered with the previous registration certificate and proceeded to include all the other items as requested by the revisionist.

6. It has further been submitted that against Form C the revisionist continued to purchase and utilize Iron and Steel, Cement, Pipe Fittings etc. after declaration and submission of his return in this regard before the Assessing authority and no objection was taken by them for the assessment year 1985-86, 1986-87, 1987-88 and 1988-89. For the assessment year 1989-90 after giving a show cause notice, penalty was imposed upon the revisionist holding that the Cement and Iron and Steel purchased on Form C was not used for the purpose of manufacture of goods rather than they were used unauthorisedly for construction of factory building, electrification and building township and road and hence violated the provisions of Section 10 (d) of the Act. The revisionist was also penalized for the utilization of Form C for the purchase of locomotives, as locomotives was not included in the registration certificate and utilizing Form C for purchasing the same on concessional rate of tax constituted an offence under Section 10 (b) of the Act.

7. It has been argued on behalf of the revisionist that Railway siding and locomotives are integral part of the machinery used for the manufacturing process as the raw material is carried to the manufacturing plant and also from the manufacturing site to wagons for loading the finished product, and hence no illegality has been committed by purchasing the said goods against Form C.

8. Following questions arise for consideration before this Court :-

(I) Whether in view of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sanjiv Fabrics (supra) and in the case of Commissioner of Commercial Taxes Vs. Bombay Garage (supra), the imposition of penalty in absence of mens rea which is essential ingredient for levy of penalty under Section 10-A of the Act, the order passed by the Tribunal is justified?

(II) Whether admittedly the railway siding, locomotive and transformer and its spare parts and diesel used therein are so integrally connected without which ultimate production is not possible, still imposition of penalty on the above items is justified?

9. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that application under Section 7(2) of the Act in Form-A were given from time to time for including goods stated therein for being purchased at the concessional rate of tax which were essential for the manufacture process and by means of orders dated 03.04.1986, 08.07.1988 and 26.11.1998, were issued permitting the revisionist to include the items as stated in the said applications.

10. It is relevant to state that it is only when an application was made under Section 7(2) of the Act by the revisionist on 26.11.1998 for including Railway Siding , Locomotives and Transmitters, that the application of the revisionist was allowed and they were entitled to purchase the said goods at the concessional rate of tax with effect from 31.03.1995.

11. The provisions of the Act indicate that every dealer has to make an application for registration under Section 7 of the Act containing the details and particulars of the goods which are to be used by the dealer in the manufacturing process and the authority on being satisfied grants approval in form of Certificate of Registration, pursuant to which the dealer purchases the said goods on Form-C issued by the authorities in this regard.

12. The allegation against the revisionist is that he purchased railway siding and locomotives and certain other goods utilizing Form-C to enable him to purchase the said goods at concessional rate of tax, whereas Railway Siding ,Locomotives and Transmitters are not listed as goods for which the revisionist had neither applied nor was he permitted to purchase the same utilizing Form-C, for which he was subjected to penalty proceedings under Section 10 of the Act.

13. The argument of the revisionist that Railway Siding ,Locomotives and Transmitters are essential for manufacture of finished goods, may be correct as for subsequent years i.e. with effect from 31.03.1995 the revisionist has been duly registered for purchase of the said goods but for the assessment year under consideration, admittedly the revisionist was not registered for purchase of the said goods against From-C.

14. Whether the revisionist had correctly utilized Form-C for purchase of said goods can be answered once we peruse the provisions contained in Section 10 of the Act. As per Sub Clause (b) of section 10 of the Act, penalty can be imposed upon registered dealer who falsely purchase any class of goods that goods are covered by certificate of registration. Thus, Section 10(b) of the Act clearly indicates that in case any dealer has not obtained registration certificate for purchase of any product or any class of goods or the same are not covered by the certificate of registration then penalty can be levied upon the dealer in case he purchases the said goods utilizing Form-C. In the present case, admittedly, the revisionist did not have Certificate of Registration for purchase of Railway Siding, Locomotives and Transmitters and hence he could not have utilized Form-C for purchase of said goods and his case is covered under Section 10(b) of the Act and therefore penalty proceedings were initiated by the Assessing Authority.

15. Assailing the said penalty, the learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that Railway Siding, Locomotives and Transmitters are essential for manufacture process and in support of his contention the revisionist has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Indian Copper Corporation Ltd. Vs. Commissioner of Commercial Taxes, Bihar and Others, AIR 1965 SC 891, where the petitioner had applied to the Superintendent of Sales Tax, Jamshedpur for registration as dealer under the Central Sales Tax setting out a list of goods for specification in the certificate of registration under Section 8 of he Act. The Superintendent of Sales Tax issued the certificate of registration to the Corporation without specifying certain categories of goods which the Corporation claimed should be specified under Section 8(3)(b) of the Act. The Corporation then petitioned the High Court under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India for an order that the Superintendent of Sales Tax be directed to specify the goods mentioned in paragraph 4 of the petition in the certificate of registration granted to the petitioner, and to forbear from levying or realizing tax under the Act from the Corporation in excess of one per cent under Section 8(1) of the Act.

16. The Court in the aforesaid facts was of the considered view that locomotives and vehicles used to carry finished products from factory are included in the expression "goods" intended for use in the manufacturing or processing of goods for "sale", and hence directed the authorities to include certain goods used in the manufacture of final products.

17. The facts of the aforesaid case are clearly distinguishable from the facts of the present case inasmuch as admittedly for the assessment year under consideration there was no application made by the revisionist for including Railway Siding, Locomotives and Transmitters for grant of Registration Certificate and also it is not the case of the Revisionist that authorities have rejected the said application. In fact as stated hereinabove, the application was subsequently made some time in March, 1995 and was allowed on 26.11.1998 with effect from 31.03.1995. The revisionist was fully aware of the all the facts and the requirement of the Railway Siding ,Locomotives and Transmitters , but did not make any application under Section 7 of the Act, but on the other hand continued to purchase the said goods utilizing Form-C, which is not permissible under the scheme of the Act, knowing fully well that the said purchase on Form C was unauthorized.

18. It is also noticed that railway siding, locomotives and transmitters are not such goods as can be included in any other class of goods for which certificate of registration had already been obtained by the revisionist and hence neither it has been argued nor it is established that railway siding, locomotives and transmitters are such goods which can be included in any other class or category of goods for which registration certificate has already been granted to the revisionist.

19. Lastly it has been submitted by the revisionist that unless there is element of 'mens rea' which is essential for imposing penalty under Section 10 of the Act is missing and therefore the penalty order is illegal and arbitrary relying upon the judgment of Supreme Court rendered in the case of Commissioner of Sales Tax, U.P. Vs. M/s Sanjeev Fabrics (alongwith another connected case), reported in 2010 NTN (Vol. 44) - 69.

20. In the aforesaid case, the applicant therein had applied for registration of 'cotton' and had claimed exemption on 'cotton' waste' and he was under bona fide belief that 'cotton' includes 'cotton waste' and he had purchased the goods in question and furnished Form-C for the said goods and in the aforesaid circumstances it was canvassed that there was no mens rea which is essential ingredient prior to levying penalty under Section 10 of the Act.

21. In the present case, the revisionist had never applied for registration of Railway Siding, Locomotives and Transmitters and in absence of registration of such goods Form-C was issued to him for purchase of the said items and it could not be demonstrated by the revisionist that he had done this under any bona fide belief or under mistake of fact. Apart from the above, clearly Railway Siding, Locomotives and Transmitters cannot be related to any other goods or class of goods for which registration had already been obtained by the revisionist, so as to show that he was under some bona fide belief that the said goods are included in the class of goods for which Registration Certificate had already been issued. In absence of any such bona fide belief, or any other circumstance indicating that revisionist could have validly purchased the said goods against Form-C, it cannot be said that the same had been obtained in a bona fide manner and hence leads to inevitable conclusion that Form-C had been utilized malafidely and unauthorizedly only with intention to evade tax.

22. From the aforesaid facts it cannot be demonstrated that purchase of goods against Form-C was done in bona fide manner nor had the revisionist moved any application for inclusion of said goods for registration under Section 7 of the Act.

23. In the above circumstances it cannot be said that there is any infirmity in imposition of penalty by the revenue under Section 10 of the Act. Hence this Court is of the considered view that there is no infirmity in the order of Tribunal and hence no interference is required by this Court.

24. The revisionist is dismissed. The questions of law are answered against the assessee and in favour of the revenue.

Writ Tax No. 760 of 2022

M/s Kay Pan Fragrances (P) Ltd. Ghaziabad ...Petitioner
Versus
U.O.I. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Ms. Pooja Talwar, Sri Dhruv Agarwal (Senior Adv.)

Counsel for the Respondents:
A.S.G.I., C.S.C., Sri Sanjay Kumar Om, Sri M.C. Chaturvedi (Addl. A.G.)

A. Civil Law - Constitution of India,1950 - The Constitution (101st Amendment) Act - Article 246-A r/w Article 366 (12A) - CGST/ UPGST Act,2016 - Sections 7,8,& 9 -Income Tax Act 1961- Sections 132 & 153-A - Article 246-A r/w Article 366 (12A) and other relevant provisions were enacted by the Constitution (101st Amendment) Act, 2016 so as to bring the taxes on purchase and sale of goods, duties on excise and entertainment tax etc. under one umbrella by empowering the Parliament and the St. Legislatures to enact laws with respect to taxes on supply of goods or services or both including sale of goods. Accordingly, the Parliament enacted the Central

Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 and the St. Legislatures have enacted the St. Goods and Services Tax Act. Article 246A of the Constitution of India, the provisions of Section 7, 8 and 9 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act, the St.ment of Objects and Reasons of The Constitution (101st Amendment) Act, 2016 and the St.ment of Objects and Reasons of the CGST/ UPGST Act, leaves no manner of doubt that the word 'supply' includes sale also. Thus, the Parliament does not lack legislative competence to enact Section 7 of the CGST Act levying tax on supply of goods or services or both. Likewise, in view of Article 246-A of the Constitution of India, St. Legislature does not lack legislative competence to enact Section 7 of the UPGST Act.

B. The constitutional validity of an Act can be challenged only on two grounds, viz. (i) lack of legislative competence; and (ii) violation of any of the Fundamental Rights guaranteed in Part III of the Constitution or of any other constitutional provision. Except the above two grounds, there is no third ground on the basis of which the law made by a competent legislature can be invalidated. In considering the validity of a Statute the presumption is always in favour of constitutionality and the burden is upon the person who attacks it to show that there has been transgression of constitutional principles.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying for the following reliefs:

*"(a) issue a writ of declaration declaring Section 7 read with Schedule II of the Central Goods and Service Tax Act, 2017 in so far as it includes the transaction of sale within the scope of supply and levy tax on such sales as ultra vires the Constitution, null and void;

(b) issue a writ of declaration declaring Section 7 read with Schedule II of the U.P. Goods and Service Tax Act, 2017 in so far as it includes the transaction of sale within the scope of supply and levy tax on such sales as ultra vires the Constitution, null and void;

(c) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus directing the respondent authorities not to take any coercive action against the petitioner in view of the impugned order dated 07.02.2022 passed by the respondent no.4;

(d) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 07.02.2022 passed by the respondent No.4 (Annexure nos. 29);

(e) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus to waive off the mandatory 10% deposit for filing an Appeal under Section 107 of U.P. GST Act, 2017 by the petitioner against the order dated 07.02.2022; and

(f) Award the costs of the petition to the petitioner."

SUBMISSIONS:-

3. Sri Dhruv Agarwal, learned Senior Advocate submits as under:-

(i) Article 246-A does not confer power to impose tax on sale of goods. Therefore, enactment of section 7 of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as 'the CGST Act') and the U.P. Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as 'the UPGST Act'), lacks legislative competence.

(ii) The word 'supply' does not mean sale. Therefore, sale could not fall within the meaning of the word 'supply'. Reliance is placed upon judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Southern Petrochemical Industries Co. Ltd. vs. Electricity Inspector & ETIO, (2007) 5 SCC 447 (Para-50) and Karnataka Power Transmission Corporation vs. Ashok Iron Works (P) Ltd. (2009) 3 SCC 240 (Para-28).

(iii) The words 'tax on the sale or purchase on goods' has been defined in Article 366(29A) and Entry 54, List-II of the VIIth Schedule of the Constitution of India provides for tax on sale of only petroleum crude, high speed diesel, motor spirit, natural gas, aviation turbine fuel and alcoholic liquor for human consumption. Therefore, by implication, no law can be legislated which may levy tax on sale of goods inasmuch as amended Entry 54 has narrowed down the field of legislation limited to petroleum crude etc. as aforementioned.

(iv) Opportunity of hearing as provided under Section 75(4) of the CGST/ UPGST Act has not been afforded to the petitioner.

(v) All relied upon documents have not been provided to the petitioner and thus, the assessment order suffers from breach of principles of natural justice.

4. Learned Additional Solicitor General and the learned Additional Advocate General support the impugned order and submit that the provisions of Section 7 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act are valid and not ultra vires.

5. Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General has further submitted that challenge to the constitutional validity of a statutory provision can be entertained only if the petitioner is able to show, firstly, that there is lack of legislative competence to enact the impugned statutory provision and secondly, impugned provision infringes any of the fundamental rights of the petitioner guaranteed under the Constitution of India or any other constitutional provisions. He submits that neither the Parliament nor the State Legislature lacked legislative competence to enact Section 7 nor Section 7 infringes any of the fundamental rights of the petitioner. He further submits that there is always presumption in favour of validity of a statutory provision. In support of his submissions, he relied on several judgments, constitutional and statutory provisions and Statement of Objects and Reasons.

Discussion and Findings:-

6. We have carefully considered the submissions of learned counsels for the parties and perused the records of the writ petition.

7. The entire submission of learned counsel for the petitioner so as to challenge the constitutional validity of Section 7 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act is that the Parliament and the State Legislature lacked legislative competence to enact Section 7.

8. Before we proceed to examine the rival submissions, it would be appropriate to note the relevant provisions of the Constitution of India, The CGST Act, The UPGST Act and Statement of Objects and Reasons, as under:-

Relevant Provisions:

(i) 101st Amendment to the Constitution of India:-

"The Constitution (One Hundred and First Amendment)

Act, 2016

[September 8, 2016.]

An Act further to amend the Constitution of India.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Sixty-seventh Year of the Republic of India as follows:--

Prefatory Note - Statement of Objects and Reasons-The Constitution is proposed to introduce the goods and services tax for conferring concurrent taxing powers on the Union as well as the States including on Union Territory with Legislature to make laws for levying goods and services tax on every transaction of supply of goods or services or both. The goods and services tax shall replace a number of indirect taxes being levied by the Union and the State Governments and is intended to remove cascading effect of taxes and provide for a common national market for goods and services. The proposed Central and State goods and services tax will be levied on all transactions involving supply of goods and services, except those which are kept out of the purview of the goods and services tax.

2. The proposed Bill, which seeks further to amend the Constitution, inter alia, provides for-

(a) subsuming of various Central indirect taxes and levies such as Central Excise Duty, Additional Excise Duties, Excise Duty levied under the Medicinal and Toilet Preparations (Excise Duties) Act, 1955, Service Tax, Additional Customs Duty commonly known as Countervailing Duty, Special Additional Duty of Customs, and Central Surcharges and Cesses so far as they relate to the supply of goods and services;

(b) subsuming of State Value Added Tax/Sales Tax, Entertainment Tax

(other than the tax levied by the local bodies), Central Sales Tax (levied by the Centre and collected by the States), Octroi and Entry tax, Purchase Tax, Luxury tax, Taxes on lottery, betting and gambling; and State cesses and surcharges in so far as they relate to supply of goods and services;

(c) dispensing with the concept of "declared goods of special importance" under the Constitution;

(d) levy of Integrated Goods and Services Tax on inter-State transactions of goods and services;

(e) levy of an additional tax on supply of goods, not exceeding one per cent in the course of inter-State trade or commerce to be collected by the Government of India for a period of two years, and assigned to the States from where the supply originates;

(f) conferring concurrent power upon Parliament and the State Legislatures to make laws governing goods and services tax;

(g) coverage of all goods and services, except alcoholic liquor for human consumption, for the levy of goods and services tax. In case of petroleum and petroleum products, it has been provided that these goods shall not be subject to the levy of Goods and Services Tax till a date notified on the recommendation of the Goods and Services Tax Council;

(h) compensation to the States for loss of revenue arising on account of implementation of the Goods and Services Tax for a period which may extend to five years;

(i) creation of Goods and Services Tax council to examine issues relating to goods and services tax and make recommendations to the non and the states on parameters like rates, exemption list and threshold limits. The Council shall function under the Chairmanship of the Union Finance Minister and will have the Union Minister of State in charge of Revenue or Finance as member, along with the Minister in-charge of Finance or Taxation or any other Minister nominated by each State Government. It is further provided that every decision of the Council shall be taken by a majority of not less than three-fourths of the weighted votes or the members present and voting in accordance with the following principles:-

(A) the vote of the Central Government shall have a weightage of one-third of the total votes cast, and

(B) the votes of all the State Governments taken together shall have a weightage of two-thirds of votes of the total votes cast in that meeting.

Illustration

In terms of clause (9) of the proposed Article 279-A, the "weighted votes of the members present and voting" in favour of a proposal in the Goods and Services Tax Council shall be determined as under.-

WT = WC + WS

Where

WT = WC + WS = WST/SP x SF

Wherein

WT=Total weighted votes of all members in favour of a proposal.

WC=Weighted vote of the Union = 1/3 i.e., 33.33% if the Union is in favour of the proposal and be taken as "0 if, Union is not in favour of a proposal.

WS= Weighted votes of the States in favour of a proposal.

SP= Number of States present and voting.

WST= Weighted votes of all States present and voting i.e. 2/3, i.e., 66.67%

SF = Number of States voting in favour of a proposal.

(j) Clause 20 of the proposed Bill makes transitional provisions to take care of any inconsistency which may arise with respect to any law relating to tax on goods or services or on both in force in any State on the commencement of the provisions of the Constitution as amended by this Act within a period of one year.

3. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objects.

1. Short title and commencement - (1) This Act may be called the Constitution (One Hundred and First Amendment) Act, 2016.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint, and different dates may be appointed for different provisions of this Act and any reference in any such provision to the commencement of this Act shall be construed as a reference to the commencement of that provision.

(iv) for entry 62, the following entry shall be substituted, namely:--

"62. Taxes on entertainments and amusements to the extent levied and collected by a Panchayat or a Municipality or a Regional Council or a District Council.".

18. Compensation to States for loss of revenue on account of introduction of goods and services tax.- Parliament shall, by law, on the recommendation of the Goods and Services Tax Council, provide for compensation to the States for loss of revenue arising on account of implementation of the goods and services tax for a period of five years.

19. Transitional provisions.- Notwithstanding anything in this Act, any provision of any law relating to tax on goods or services or on both in force in any State immediately before the commencement of this Act, which is inconsistent with the provisions of the Constitution as amended by this Act shall continue to be in force until amended or repealed by a competent Legislature or other competent authority or until expiration of one year from such commencement, whichever is earlier.

20. Power of President to remove difficulties.- (1) If any difficulty arises in giving effect to the provisions of the Constitution as amended by this Act (including any difficulty in relation to the transition from the provisions of the Constitution as they stood immediately before the date of assent of the President to this Act to the provisions of the Constitution as amended by this Act), the President may, by order, make such provisions, including any adaptation or modification of any provision of the Constitution as amended by this Act or law, as appear to the President to be necessary or expedient for the purpose of removing the difficulty:

Provided that no such order shall be made after the expiry of three years from the date of such assent.

(2) Every order made under sub-section (1) shall, as soon as may be after it is made, be laid before each House of Parliament."

(ii) Article 366(12A) of the Constitution of India:-

'(12A) "goods and services tax" means any tax on supply of goods, or services or both except taxes on the supply of the alcoholic liquor for human consumption;

(iii) Objects and Reasons of CGST Act, 2017:-

"The Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017

[No.12 of 2017]

[12th April, 2017]

An Act to make a provision for levy and collection of tax on intra-State supply of goods or services or both by the Central Government and the matters connected therewith or incidental thereto

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Sixty-eighth Year of the Republic of India as follows-

Statement of Objects and Reasons.-- Presently, the Central Government levies tax on, manufacture of certain goods in the form or Central Excise duty, provision of certain services in the form of service tax, inter-State sale of goods in the form of Central Sales tax. Similarly, the State Governments levy tax on and on retail sales in the form of value added tax, entry of goods in the State in the form of entry tax, luxury tax and purchase tax, etc. Accordingly, there is multiplicity of taxes which are being levied on the same supply chain.

2. The present tax system on goods and services is facing certain difficulties as under-

(i) there is cascading of taxes as taxes levied by the Central Government are not available as set off against the taxes being levied by the State Governments;

(ii) certain taxes levied by State Governments are not allowed as set off for payment of other taxes being levied by them;

(iii) the variety of Value Added Tax Laws in the country with disparate tax rates and dissimilar tax practices divides the country into separate economic spheres, and

(iv) the creation of tariff and non-tariff barriers such as octroi, entry tax, check posts, etc., hinder the free flow of trade throughout the country. Besides that, the large number of taxes create high compliance cost for the taxpayers in the form of number of returns, payments, etc.

3. In view of the aforesaid difficulties, all the abovementioned taxes are proposed to be subsumed in a single tax called the goods and services tax which will be levied on supply of goods or services or both at each Stage of supply chain starting from manufacture or import and till the last retail level. So, any tax that is presently being levied by the Central Government or the State Governments on the supply of goods or services going to be converged in goods and services tax which is proposed to be a dual levy where the Central Government will levy and collect tax in the form of central goods and services tax and the State Government will levy and collect tax in the form of State goods and services tax on intra-State supply of goods or services or both.

4. In view of the above, it has become necessary to have a Central legislation, namely, the Central Goods and Services Tax Bill, 2017. The proposed legislation will confer power upon the Central Government for levying goods and services tax on the supply of goods or services or both which takes place within a State. The proposed legislation will simplify and harmonise the indirect tax regime in the country. It is expected to reduce cost of production and inflation in the economy, thereby making the Indian trade and industry more competitive, domestically as well as internationally. Due to the seamless transfer of input tax credit from one stage to another in the chain of value addition, there is an in-built mechanism in the design of goods and services tax that would incentivise tax compliance by taxpayers. The proposed goods and services tax will broaden the tax base, and result in better tax compliance due to a robust information technology infrastructure.

5. The Central Goods and Services Tax Bill, 2017, inter alia, provides tor the following, namely-

(a) to levy tax on all intra-State supplies of goods or services or both except supply of alcoholic liquor for human consumption at a rate to be notified, not exceeding twenty per cent as recommended by the Goods and Services Tax Council (the Council);

(b) to broad base the input tax credit by making it available in respect of taxes paid on any supply of goods or services or both used or intended to be used in the course or furtherance of business;

(c) to impose obligation on electronic commerce operators to collect tax at source, at such rate not exceeding one per cent of net value of taxable supplies, out of payments to suppliers supplying goods or services through their portals;

(d) to provide for self-assessment of the taxes payable by the registered person;

(e) to provide for conduct of audit of registered persons in order to verily compliance with the provision of the Act;

(f) to provide for recovery of arrears of tax using various modes including detaining and sale of goods, movable and immovable property of defaulting taxable person;

(g) to provide for powers of inspection, search, seizure and arrest to the officers;

(h) to establish the Goods and Services Tax Appellate Tribunal by the Central Government for hearing appeals against the orders passed by the Appellate Authority or the Revisional Authority:

(i) to make provision for penalties for contravention of the provisions of the proposed Legislation;

(j) to provide for an anti-profiteering clause in order to ensure that business passes on the benefit of reduced tax incidence on goods or services or both to the consumers; and

(k) to provide for elaborate transitional provisions for smooth transition of existing taxpayers to goods and services tax regime.

6. The Notes on clauses explain in detail the various provisions contained in the Central Goods and Services Tax Bill, 20l7.

7. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objectives."

(iv) Section 7 of the CGST Act, 2017:- Section 7 of the CGST Act, 2017, which is para materia with Section 7 of the UPGST Act, is part of Chapter-III providing for Levy of Collection of Tax. Section 7 of the CGST Act provides for scope of supply as under:-

"(1) For the purposes of this Act, the expression "supply" includes--

(a) all forms of supply of goods or services or both such as sale, transfer, barter, exchange, licence, rental, lease or disposal made or agreed to be made for a consideration by a person in the course or furtherance of business;

(aa) the activities or transactions, by a person, other than an individual, to its members or constituents or vice-versa, for cash, deferred payment or other valuable consideration.

Explanation.--For the purposes of this clause, it is hereby clarified that, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force or any judgment, decree or order of any Court, tribunal or authority, the person and its members or constituents shall be deemed to be two separate persons and the supply of activities or transactions inter se shall be deemed to take place from one such person to another;

(b) import of services for a consideration whether or not in the course or furtherance of business; [and]

(c) the activities specified in Schedule I, made or agreed to be made without a consideration; [xxx]

[(d) the activities to be treated as supply of goods or supply of services as referred in Schedule II]

[(1A) Where certain activities or transactions, constitute a supply in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1), they shall be treated either as supply of goods or supply of services as referred to in Schedule II]

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1),--

(a) activities or transactions specified in Schedule III ; or

(b) such activities or transactions undertaken by the Central Government, a

State Government or any local authority in which they are engaged as public authorities, as may be notified by the Government on the recommendations of the Council, shall be treated neither as a supply of goods nor a supply of services.

(3) Subject to the provisions of [sub-sections (1), (1A) and (2)], the Government may, on the recommendations of the Council, specify, by notification, the transactions that are to be treated as--

(a) a supply of goods and not as a supply of services; or

(b) a supply of services and not as a supply of goods."

Legislative Competence:-

9. By 101st Amendment in Constitution of India, a new Article 246-A was inserted with overriding effect to Articles 246 and 254 of the Constitution of India. By Clause (1) of Article 246-A, the Parliament, and, subject to clause (2), the Legislature of every State, have been empowered to make laws with respect to goods or services tax imposed by the Union or by such State. Clause (2) has given exclusive powers to the Parliament to make laws with respect to goods and services tax where the supply of goods, or of services, or both takes place in the course of inter-State trade or commerce. Simultaneously, amendments were made in Articles 248, 249, 250, 268, 269, 270, 271, 279A, 286, 366 and 368 of the Constitution of India. Article 268A as existed prior to the 101st Amendment, was omitted. A new Article 269A was inserted. Clause (12-A) in Article 366 was inserted defining the words "goods and services tax" to mean any tax on supply of goods, or services or both except taxes on the supply of the alcoholic liquor for human consumption. Newly inserted Clause (26-A) of Article 366 defined the word "services' to mean anything other than goods. Thus, Parliament, and, subject to clause (2) of Article 246-A, the Legislature of every State, have power to make laws with respect to goods and services tax imposed by the Union or by such State and the Parliament has been conferred exclusive powers to legislate with respect to goods and services tax where the supply of goods, or of services, or both takes place in the course of inter-State trade or commerce.

10. Prior to 101st Amendment to the Constitution of India, Entry 52 of List II - State List of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India provided for "taxes on entry of goods into a local area for consumption, use or sale therein". Entry 54 of List II provided for "taxes on sale or purchase of goods other than newspaper, subject to the provisions of Entry 92-A of List I. Entry 55 of List II provided for "taxes on advertisements other than advertisements published in the newspapers and advertisements broadcast by radio or television". Entry 62 of List II provided for "taxes on luxuries including taxes on entertainment, amusements, betting and gambling". That apart, Entry 84 of List I - Union List to the 7th Schedule of the Constitution provided for "Duties of excise on tobacco and other goods manufactured and produced in India except - (a) alcoholic liquors for human consumption; (b) opium, Indian hemp and other narcotic drugs and narcotics, but including medicinal and toilet preparations containing alcohol or any substance included in sub-paragraph (b) of this entry. Entry 92 of the List I - Union List provided for "taxes on the sale or purchase of newspapers and on advertisements published therein." Entry 92-C of the List I - Union List provided for "taxes on services." By 101st Amendment, Entries 92 and 92-C of List I - Union List, and Entries 52 and 55 of the List II - State List of the Seventh Schedule were omitted and Entry 84 of List I - Union List were amended as aforequoted. By 101st Amendment to the Constitution of India, the field of legislation under Entry 84 for duties of excise remained only on petroleum crude, high speed diesel, motor spirit (commonly known as petrol), natural gas, aviation turbine fuel and tobacco and tobacco products.

11. Thus, the field of legislation under Entry 92 of List I providing for taxes on the sale or purchase of newspapers and on advertisements published therein and Entry 92-C providing for taxes on services stood omitted. Likewise in the List II - State list, the Entry 52 providing for taxes on entry of goods into a local area for consumption, use or sale therein and Entry 55 providing for taxes on advertisements stood omitted and Entry 54 providing for taxes on the purchase or sale was made limited to petroleum crude, high speed diesel, motor spirit (commonly known as petrol), natural gas, aviation turbine fuel and alcoholic liquor for human consumption, but not including sale in the course of inter-State trade or commerce or sale in the course of international trade or commerce of such goods, and Entry 62 also stood amended providing the field of legislation limited to taxes on entertainments and amusements to the extent levied and collected by a Panchayat or a Municipality or a Regional Council or a District Council.

12. Thus, on one hand the entire field of taxation on sale or purchase of goods, tax on entry of goods into a local area for consumption, use or sale therein except those provided by the amended provisions, taxes on luxuries including taxes on entertainments, amusements, betting and gambling except those provided under the amended provisions, taxes on services and taxes on sale or purchase of newspapers and on advertisements published therein and duties on excise except on those items as provided under amended Entry 84 were omitted and in place a comprehensive power of legislation has been conferred under Article 246-A of the Constitution of India empowering the Parliament and State Legislatures to enact law to levy tax on goods or services or both; with a provision of compensation to States for loss of revenue on account of implementation of the Goods and Services Tax Act, for a period of five years.

13. The Statement of Objects and Reasons to the aforesaid 101st Amendment of the Constitution of India as aforequoted, clearly recorded that the 101st Amendment has been brought subsuming various Central indirect taxes and levies such as Central Excise Duty, Additional Excise Duties, Excise Duty levied under the Medicinal and Toilet Preparations (Excise Duties) Act, 1955, Service Tax, Additional Customs Duty commonly known as Countervailing Duty, Special Additional Duty of Customs, and Central Surcharges and Cesses so far as they relate to the supply of goods and services and of State Value Added Tax/Sales Tax, Entertainment Tax (other than the tax levied by the local bodies), Central Sales Tax (levied by the Centre and collected by the States), Octroi and Entry tax, Purchase Tax, Luxury tax, Taxes on lottery, betting and gambling; and State cesses and surcharges in so far as they relate to supply of goods or services. Thus, overall reading of 101st Amendment to the Constitution of India leaves no manner of doubt that Article 246-A and other relevant provisions were enacted by the Constitution (101st Amendment) Act, 2016 so as to bring the taxes on purchase and sale of goods, duties on excise and entertainment tax etc. under one umbrella by empowering the Parliament and the State Legislatures to enact laws with respect to taxes on supply of goods or services or both.

14. The Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 also reveals that there is multiplicity of taxes which are being levied on the same supply chain prior to The Constitution (101st Amendment) Act, 2016 and so as to bring all these taxes under one umbrella, the Parliament and State Legislatures have been conferred with power to legislate for tax on goods or services or both. Accordingly, the Parliament enacted the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 and the State Legislatures have enacted the State Goods and Services Tax Act. Thus, Statement of Object and Reasons to the 101st Amendment to the Constitution of India and Statement of Object and Reasons of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 and the U.P. Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017, leave no manner of doubt that these Acts were enacted as per powers conferred under Article 246-A of the Constitution of India so as to levy tax on all goods or services or both in place of multiplicity of taxes provided under the erstwhile Central Acts and State Acts levying taxes on purchase or sale of goods, entry tax, entertainment tax and duties on excise etc.

15. It is well settled that the court can look into the Statement of Objects and Reasons for the purposes of deciphering the object and purposes of the Act. Reference to background and circumstances in which the Act was passed is permissible for appreciating the mischief, the legislature had in mind and the remedy which it wanted to provide for preventing that mischief. Reference to object and reasons is permissible for understanding the background, the antecedent state of affairs, the surrounding circumstances in relation to the statute, and the evil which the statute sought to remedy. Reference in this regard may be had to judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of West Bengal vs. Union of India, [AIR 1963 SC 1241], M/s. Sanghvi Jeevraj Ghewar Chand and others Vs. Secretary, Madras Chillies, Grains and Kirana Merchants Workers Union and another, [AIR 1969 SC 530 (para-2)], Dantuluri Ram Raju And Ors vs State Of Andhra Pradesh And Anr, [AIR 1972 SC 828 (para-4)], Narain Khamman Vs. Parduman Kumar Jain, [AIR 1985 SC 4 : 1985 1 SCC 1 (para-12)], State of H.P. Vs. Kailash Chand Mahajan, [AIR 1992 SC 1277 (para 77) : 1992 Suppl. (2) SCC 351 (para-82)], Devadoss vs Veera Makali Amman Koil Athalur, [AIR 1998 SC 750 : (1998) 9 SCC 286 (paras 20 & 21)], State (NCT of Delhi) Vs. Union of India, [(2018) 8 SCC 501 (Para 604.1)], Union of India and another Vs. Mohit Mineral Private Ltd., [(2019) 2 SCC 599 (Paras 50 and 51)], Council Of Architecture vs Mr. Mukesh Goyal, [(2020) 16 SCC 446 (para 43)], M. Ravindran vs. The Intelligence Officer, Directorate of Revenue Intelligence, [(2021) 2 SCC 485 (paras 17.10)], Ghanshyam Mishra and sons (P) Ltd. Vs. Edelweiss Asset Reconstruction Co. Ltd., [(2021) 9 SCC 657 (paras 80 to 84)], and Kshetrimayum Maheshkumar Singh vs The Manipur University, [(2022) 2 SCC 704 (para-33)].

16. In the case of State of Gujrat Vs. Mirzapur Moti Kureshi Kassab Jamat , JT 2005 (12) SC 580 (Paras 74 and 76), a Constitution Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the importance and relevance of Statement of Object and reasons and held as under:-

"74. Reference to the Statement of Objects and Reasons is permissible for understanding the background, antecedent state of affairs in relation to the statute, and the evil which the statute was sought to remedy. (See __ Principles of Statutory Interpretation by Justice G.P. Singh, 9th Edition, 2004, at p.218). In State of West Bengal v. Subodh Gopal Bose and Ors., 1954 SCR 587, the Constitution Bench was testing the constitutional validity of the legislation impugned therein. The Statement of Objects and Reasons was used by S.R. Das, J. for ascertaining the conditions prevalent at that time which led to the introduction of the Bill and the extent and urgency of the evil which was sought to be remedied, in addition to testing the reasonableness of the restrictions imposed by the impugned provision. In his opinion, it was indeed very unfortunate that the Statement of Objects and Reasons was not placed before the High Court which would have assisted the High Court in arriving at the right conclusion as to the reasonableness of the restriction imposed. State of West Bengal v. Union of India, (1964) 1 SCR 371, 431-32, approved the use of Statement of Objects and Reasons for the purpose of understanding the background and the antecedent state of affairs leading upto the legislation.

76. The facts stated in the Preamble and the Statement of Objects and Reasons appended to any legislation are evidence of legislative judgment. They indicate the thought process of the elected representatives of the people and their cognizance of the prevalent state of affairs, impelling them to enact the law. These, therefore, constitute important factors which amongst others will be taken into consideration by the court in judging the reasonableness of any restriction imposed on the Fundamental Rights of the individuals. The Court would begin with a presumption of reasonability of the restriction, more so when the facts stated in the Statement of Objects and Reasons and the Preamble are taken to be correct and they justify the enactment of law for the purpose sought to be achieved."

17. The 101st Amendment to the Constitution of India and the CGST Act, 2017 including its Statement of Objects and Reasons have been well considered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India and another Vs. Mohit Mineral Private Ltd., (2019) 2 SCC 599 (Paras 51 and 56) and it has been held that the words "with respect to" used in Article 246-A of the Constitution of India are words of expansion. It has been further held that the power to make the laws under Article 246-A is not general power related to general entry rather it specifically relates to goods and services tax and the Constitution "101st Amendment" Act, 2017 was passed to subsume various taxes, surcharges and cesses into one tax. Thus, the "scope of supply' as provided in Section 7 of the CGST Act which includes sale also, is well within the legislative power of the Parliament conferred under Article 246-A of the Constitution of India.

18. In the case of Union of India vs. VKC Footsteps (India)(P.) Ltd., (2022) 2 SCC 603 (para-88), Hon'ble Supreme Court has considered the concept of GST

Legislation and held the goods and services tax to be destination-based tax and further held as under:-

".....While adopting the constitutional framework of a GST regime, Parliament in the exercise of its constituent power has had to make and draw balances to accommodate the interests of the States. Taxes on alcohol for human consumption and stamp duties provide a significant part of the revenues of the States. Complex balances have had to be drawn so as to accommodate the concerns of the states before bringing them within the umbrella of GST......"

19. In a most recent judgment in Civil Appeal No.1390 of 2022 and other connected Civil Appeals (Union of India and others vs. Mohit Minerals Pvt. Ltd.), decided on 19.05.2022, a three Judges Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court explained Article 246-A of the Constitution of India (Paras-29, 30, 51, 101 and 119). Relevant portion of the law laid down therein are summarised as under:-

(i) Article 246-A defines the source of power as well as the field of legislation (with respect to goods and services tax) obviating the need to travel to the Seventh Schedule.

(ii) Provisions of Article 246-A are available both to Parliament and the State Legislatures, save and except for the exclusive power of Parliament to enact GST legislation where the supply of goods or services takes place in the course of inter-State trade or commerce.

(iii) Article 246-A embodies the constitutional principle of simultaneous levy as distinct from the principle of concurrence. Concurrence, which operated within the fold of the Concurrent List, was regulated by Article 254.

(iv) Article 246-A provides Parliament and the State legislature with the concurrent power to legislate on GST. Article 246-A has a non-obstante provision which overrides Article 254. Article 246-A does not provide a repugnancy clause. Unlike Article 254 which stipulates that the law made by Parliament on a subject in the Concurrent list shall prevail over conflicting laws made by the State legislature, the constitutional design of Article 246-A does not stipulate the manner in which such inconsistency between the laws made by Parliament and the State legislature on GST can be resolved. The concurrent power exercised by the legislatures under Article 246-A is termed as a ''simultaneous power' to differentiate it from the constitutional design on exercise of concurrent power under Article 246, the latter being subject to the repugnancy clause under Article 254. The constitutional role and functions of the GST Council must be understood in the context of the simultaneous legislative power conferred on Parliament and the State legislatures. It is from that perspective that the role of the GST Council becomes relevant.

(v) One of the important features of Indian federalism is ''fiscal federalism'. A reading of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the 2014 Amendment Bill, the Parliamentary reports and speeches indicate that Articles 246-A and 279A were introduced with the objective of enhancing cooperative federalism and harmony between the States and the Centre. However, the Centre has a one-third vote share in the GST Council. This coupled with the absence of the repugnancy provision in Article 246-A indicates that recommendations of the GST Council cannot be binding. Such an interpretation would be contrary to the objective of introducing the GST regime and would also dislodge the fine balance on which Indian federalism rests. Therefore, the argument that if the recommendations of the GST Council are not binding, then the entire structure of GST would crumble does not hold water. Such a reading of the provisions of the Constitution diminishes the role of the GST Council as a constitutional body formed to arrive at decisions by collaboration and contestation of ideas.

(vi) Section 7 of the CGST Act defines the term "supply" with a broad brush and provides for an inclusive definition.

(vii) This conclusion comports with the philosophy of the GST to be a consumption and destinated based tax."

20. Article 246A read with Article 366(12A) of the Constitution of India has conferred power upon the Parliament and State Legislatures to enact law to levy tax on supply of goods or services or both including sale of goods. The event of taxation under the Goods and Services Tax Act is the supply of goods or services or both. Section 7, 8 and 9 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act also show that the tax is to be levied on supply of goods or services or both. Discussions with respect to Article 246A of the Constitution of India, the provisions of Section 7, 8 and 9 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act, the Statement of Objects and Reasons of The Constitution (101st Amendment) Act, 2016 and the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the CGST/ UPGST Act, leaves no manner of doubt that the word "supply' includes sale also. Thus, the Parliament does not lack legislative competence to enact Section 7 of the CGST Act levying tax on supply of goods or services or both. Likewise, in view of Article 246-A of the Constitution of India, State Legislature does not lack legislative competence to enact Section 7 of the UPGST Act.

Presumption of the Constitutional Validity:-

21. In the case of Anant Mills Vs. State of Gujarat reported in AIR 1975 SC 1234 (para 20), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that :-

"20. There is a presumption of the constitutional validity of a statutory provision. In case any party assails the validity of any provision on the ground that it is violative of Article 14 of the Constitution, it is for that party to make the necessary averments and adduce material to show discrimination violative of Article 14. No averments were made in the petitions before the High Court by the petitioners that the assessments before the coming into force of Ordinance 6 of 1969 bad been made by taking into account the rent restriction provisions of the Bombay Rent Act. Paragraph 2B and some other paragraphs of petition No. 233 of 1970 before the High Court, to which our attention was invited by Mr. Tarkunde, also do not contain that averment. No material on this factual aspect was in the circumstances produced either on behalf of the petitioners or the Corporation. The High Court, as already observed, decided the matter merely on the basis of a presumption. It is, in our opinion, extremely hazardous to decide the question of the constitutional validity of a provision on the basis of the supposed existence of certain facts by raising a presumption. The facts about the supposed existence of which presumption was raised by the High Court were of such a nature that a definite averment could have been made in respect of them and concrete material could have been produced in support of their existence or non-existence. Presumptions are resorted to when the matter does not admit of direct proof or when there is some practical difficulty to produce evidence to prove a particular fact. When, however, the fact to be established is of such a nature that direct evidence about its existence or non- existence would be available, the proper course is to have the direct evidence rather than to decide the matter by resort to presumption. A pronouncement about the constitutional validity of a statutory provision affects not only the parties before the Court, but all other parties who may be affected by the impugned provision. There would, therefore, be inherent risk in striking down an impugned provision without having the complete factual data and full material before the court. It was therefore, in our opinion, essential for the High Court to ascertain and field out the correct factual position before recording a finding that the impugned provision is violative of article 14. The fact that the High Court acted on an incorrect assumption is also borne out by the material which has been adduced before us in the writ petitions filed under article 32 of the Constitution."

22. In Charanjit Lal Choudhary Vs. Union of India and others, AIR 1951 SC 41 (para 10), Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that there is presumption that the legislature understands and correctly appreciates the need of its people. In Union of India Vs. Elphinstone Spinning and weaving Co. Ltd. and Ors., AIR 2001 SC 724 (para 9), Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that there is presumption that the legislature does not exceed its jurisdiction. In State of Bihar and others Vs. Smt. Charusila Dasi, AIR 1959 SC 1002 (para 14), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has laid down the law that there is presumption that the legislature does not intend to exceed its jurisdiction. In Kedar Nath Singh Vs. State of Bihar, AIR 1962 SC 955 (para 26), Hon'ble Supreme Court held that provision should be construed in the manner as will uphold its constitutionality. In Corporation of Calcutta Vs. Libery Cinema, AIR 1965 SC 1107, Hon'ble Supreme Court has laid down the law that the provision should be read in the manner as will make it valid. Similar view has been expressed by the Constitution Bench of Supreme Court in Anandji Haridas and Co. (P) Ltd. Vs. S.P. Kasture and ors., AIR 1968 SC 565 (para 32). In Sunil Batra Vs. Delhi Administration and ors., AIR 1978 SC 1675, Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that the legislature expresses wisdom of community. In State of Bihar VS. Bihar Distilleries, AIR 1997 SC 1511 (para 18), Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that an Act made by legislature represents the will of people and cannot be lightly interfered with. In Zameer Ahmad Latifur Rehman Sheikh Vs. State of Maharashtra and ors., J.T. 2010 (4) SC 256 (para 34), Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that every legally possible effort should be made to uphold the validity. In Greater Bombay Co-operative Bank Ltd Vs. United Yarn Tex (P) Ltd. and others, (2007) 6 SCC 236 (paras 82 to 85), Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under :

" 82 The constitutional validity of an Act can be challenged only on two grounds, viz. (i) lack of legislative competence; and (ii) violation of any of the Fundamental Rights guaranteed in Part III of the Constitution or of any other constitutional provision. In State of A. P. &

Ors. v. McDowell & Co. & Ors. [(1996) 3 SCC 709], this Court has opined that except the above two grounds, there is no third ground on the basis of which the law made by the competent legislature can be invalidated and that the ground of invalidation must necessarily fall within the four corners of the afore-mentioned two grounds.

83. Power to enact a law is derived by the State Assembly from List II of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution. Entry 32 confers upon a State Legislature the power to constitute cooperative societies. The State of Maharashtra and the State of Andhra Pradesh both had enacted the MCS Act 1960 and the APCS Act, 1964 in exercise of the power vested in them by Entry 32 of List II of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution. Power to the enact would include the power to re-enact or validate any provision of law in the State Legislature, provided the same falls in an entry of List II of Seventh Schedule of the Constitution with the restriction that such enactment should not nullify a judgment of a competent court of law. In the appeals / SLPs/petitions filed against the judgment of the Andhra Pradesh High Court, the legislative competence of the State is involved for consideration. Judicial system has an important role to play in our body politic and has a solemn obligation to fulfil. In such circumstances, it is imperative upon the courts while examining the scope of legislative action to be conscious to start with the presumption regarding the constitutional validity of the legislation. The burden of proof is upon the shoulders of the the incumbent who challenges it. It is true that it is the duty of the constitutional courts under our Constitution to declare a law enacted by Parliament or the State Legislature as unconstitutional when Parliament or the State Legislaturehad assumed to enact a law which is void, either for want of constitutional power to enact it or because the constitutional forms or conditions have not been observed or where the law infringes the fundamental rights enshrined and guaranteed in Part III of the Constitution.

84. As observed by this Court in CST v. Radhakrishnan in considering the validity of a Statute the presumption is always in favour of constitutionality and the burden is upon the person who attacks it to show that there has been transgression of constitutional principles. For sustaining the constitutionality of an Act, a Court may take into consideration matters of common knowledge, reports, preamble, history of the times, objection of the legislation and all other facts which are relevant. It must always be presumed that the legislature understands and correctly appreciates the need of its own people and that discrimination, if any, is based on adequate grounds and considerations. It is also well- settled that the courts will be justified in giving a liberal interpretation in order to avoid constitutional invalidity. A provision conferring very wide and expansive powers on authority can be construed in conformity with legislative intent of exercise of power within constitutional limitations. Where a Statute is silent or is inarticulate, the Court would attempt to transmutate the inarticulate and adopt a construction which would lean towards constitutionality albeit without departing from the material of which the law is woven. These principles have given rise to rule of "reading down" the provisions if it becomes necessary to uphold the validity of the law.

85. In State of Bihar & Ors. v. Bihar Distillery Ltd. & Ors. [(1997) 2 SCC

453], this Court indicated the approach which the Court should adopt while examining the validity/constitutionality of a legislation. It would be useful to remind ourselves of the principles laid down, which read: (SCC p.466, para 17):

"The approach of the court, while examining the challenge to the constitutionality of an enactment, is to start with the presumption of constitutionality. The court should try to sustain its validity to the extent possible. It should strike down the enactment only when it is not possible to sustain it. The court should not approach the enactment with a view to pick holes or to search for defects of drafting, much less inexactitude of language employed. Indeed, any such defects of drafting should be ignored out as part of the attempt to sustain the validity/constitutionality of the enactment. After all, an Act made by the legislature represents the will of the people and that cannot be lightly interfered with. The unconstitutionality must be plainly and clearly established before an enactment is declared as void. The same approach holds good while ascertaining the intent and purpose of an enactment or its scope and application."

In the same para, this Court further observed as follows:

"The Court must recognize the fundamental nature and importance of legislative process and accord due regard and deference to it, just as the legislature and the executive are expected to show due regard and deference to the judiciary. It cannot also be forgotten that our Constitution recognizes and gives effect to the concept of equality between the three wings of the State and the concept of "checks and balances" inherent in such scheme."

23. In the case of Promoters and Builders Association Vs. Pune Municipal Corporation (2007) 6 SCC. 143 (para 9), Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that while exercising legislative function, unless unreasonableness and arbitrariness is pointed out it is not open for the Court to interfere.

Constitutional Validity:-

24. The constitutional validity of an Act can be challenged only on two grounds, viz. (i) lack of legislative competence; and (ii) violation of any of the Fundamental Rights guaranteed in Part III of the Constitution or of any other constitutional provision. Except the above two grounds, there is no third ground on the basis of which the law made by a competent legislature can be invalidated. The ground of invalidation must necessarily fall within the four corners of the aforementioned two grounds. In considering the validity of a Statute the presumption is always in favour of constitutionality and the burden is upon the person who attacks it to show that there has been transgression of constitutional principles. For sustaining the constitutionality of an Act, Court may take into consideration matters of common knowledge, reports, preamble, history of the times, object of the legislation and all the other facts which are relevant. It must always be presumed that the legislature understands and correctly appreciates the need of its own people and that discrimination, if any, is based on adequate grounds and considerations. The courts will be justified in giving a liberal interpretation in order to avoid constitutional invalidity. Where a Statute is silent or is inarticulate, the Court would attempt to transmutate the inarticulate and adopt a construction which would lean towards constitutionality albeit without departing from the material of which the law is woven.

These principles give rise to rule of "reading down" the provisions if it becomes necessary to uphold the validity of the law. While examining the challenge to the constitutionality of an enactment, the court is to start with the presumption of constitutionality and try to sustain its validity to the extent possible. The court cannot approach the enactment with a view to pick holes or to search for defects of drafting, much less inexactitude of language employed. An act made by the legislature represents the will of the people and that cannot be lightly interfered with. It is presumed that the legislature expresses wisdom of the community, does not intend to exceed its jurisdiction and correctly appreciates the need of its own people. In view of these settled principles and the discussions made above on legislative competence and presumption of constitutional validity, we hold that Section 7 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act does not suffer from lack of legislative competence. In other words, Section 7 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act is wholly valid.

25. Thus, in view of the forgoing discussions including the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in various judgments referred above, we do not find any merit in challenge to the constitutional validity of Section 7 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act. Therefore, the challenge to the constitutional validity of Section 7 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act is hereby rejected, and we hold as under:-

(i) Article 246-A defines the source of power as well as the field of legislation with respect to goods and services tax obviating the need to travel to the 7th Schedule.

(ii) The provisions of Article 246-A are available both to the Parliament and the State Legislature.

(iii) Article 246-A embodies the constitutional principle of the simultaneous levy as distinct from the principle of concurrence.

(iv) Since the power conferred under Article 246-A is to legislate on the subject "with respect to goods and services tax", therefore, the Parliament is fully competent to enact The CGST Act and the State Legislature is fully competent to enact State GST Act with respect to goods and services tax which includes taxes on supply of goods or services or both.

(v) The Statement of Objects and Reasons to the aforesaid 101st Amendment of the Constitution of India as aforequoted, clearly recorded that the 101st Amendment has been brought subsuming various Central indirect taxes and levies such as Central Excise Duty, Additional Excise Duties, Excise Duty levied under the Medicinal and Toilet Preparations (Excise Duties) Act, 1955, Service Tax, Additional Customs Duty commonly known as Countervailing Duty, Special Additional Duty of Customs, and Central Surcharges and Cesses so far as they relate to the supply of goods and services and of State Value Added Tax/Sales Tax, Entertainment Tax (other than the tax levied by the local bodies), Central Sales Tax (levied by the Centre and collected by the States), Octroi and Entry tax, Purchase Tax, Luxury tax, Taxes on lottery, betting and gambling; and State cesses and surcharges in so far as they relate to supply of goods or services. Thus, overall reading of 101st Amendment to the Constitution of India leaves no manner of doubt that Article 246-A and other relevant provisions were enacted by the Constitution (101st Amendment) Act, 2016 so as to bring the taxes on purchase and sale of goods, duties on excise and entertainment tax etc. under one umbrella by empowering the Parliament and the State Legislature to enact laws with respect to taxes on supply of goods and services.

(vi) The 101st Amendment to the Constitution of India and the CGST Act, 2017 including its Statement of Objects and Reasons have been well considered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India and another Vs. Mohit Mineral Private Ltd., (2019) 2 SCC 599 (Paras 51 and 56) and it has been held that the words "with respect to" used in Article 246-A of the Constitution of India are words of expansion. It has been further held that the power to make the laws under Article 246-A is not general power related to general entry rather it specifically relates to goods and services tax and the Constitution "101st Amendment" Act, 2017 was passed to subsume various taxes, surcharges and cesses into one tax. Thus, the "scope of supply' as provided in Section 7 of the CGST Act which includes sale also, is well within the legislative power of the Parliament conferred under Article 246-A of the Constitution of India.

(vii) The expression "supply" used in Section 7 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act includes all forms of supply of goods or services or both such as sale, transfer, barter, exchange, licence, rental, lease or disposal made or agreed to be made for a consideration by a person in the course or furtherance of business. By sub-Section (2), which opens with a non-obstante clause, such activities or transactions undertaken by the Central Government, a State Government or any local authority in which they are engaged as public authorities, as may be notified by the Government on the recommendations of the Council, shall be treated neither as a supply of goods nor a supply of services. Subject to the provisions of sub-Sections (1) and (2), the Government may on the recommendation of the Council specify by notification, the transactions which are to be treated as supply of goods and not as a supply of services or a supply of services and not as supply of goods. Thus, Section 7 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act defines the word "supply" with a broad brush and provides an inclusive definition which includes "sale'.

(viii) Article 246A read with Article 366(12A) of the Constitution of India has conferred power upon the Parliament and State Legislatures to enact law to levy tax on supply of goods or services or both including sale of goods. The event of taxation under the Goods and Services Tax Act is the supply of goods or services or both. Section 7, 8 and 9 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act also show that the tax is to be levied on supply of goods or services or both. Discussions with respect to Article 246A of the Constitution of India, the provisions of Section 7, 8 and 9 of The CGST Act/ UPGST Act, the Statement of Objects and Reasons of The Constitution (101st Amendment) Act, 2016 and the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the CGST/ UPGST Act, leaves no manner of doubt that the word "supply' includes sale also. Thus, the Parliament does not lack legislative competence to enact Section 7 of the CGST Act levying tax on supply of goods or services or both. Likewise, in view of Article 246-A of the Constitution of India, State Legislature does not lack legislative competence to enact Section 7 of the UPGST Act.

(x) The provisions of Section 7 of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act is not ultra vires to the Constitution of India.

26. The judgments relied by the learned counsel for the petitioners have no relevance on the facts of the present case and the constitutional and statutory provisions in question. Therefore, those judgments are of no help to the petitioners.

Natural Justice:-

27. So far as the challenge to the impugned assessment order is concerned, we find that the copies of all relied upon documents have been given by the Assessing Authority to the petitioner and he has also been allowed to inspect the records. Opportunity of hearing is also reflected from the notices including the notice dated 05.01.2022 in which the date, place and time for appearance has been informed to the petitioner by the Deputy Commissioner, Commercial Tax, Division-17, Ghaziabad (Annexure-25 to the writ petition). The petitioner submitted a detailed reply running in more than 100 pages which has been considered by the respondent No.4 and the impugned assessment order under Section 74 read with Section 122 of the UPGST Act has been passed which runs in about 163 pages. Against the impugned order, the petitioner has a right of appeal under Section 107 of the UPGST Act, 2017. Therefore, for all the reasons aforestated, we do not find any substance in challenge to the impugned assessment order on the ground of alleged breach of principles of natural justice or provisions of Section 75(4) of the CGST Act/ UPGST Act..

28. For all the reasons afore-stated, the writ petition is dismissed, leaving it open for the petitioner to challenge the impugned Assessment Order in appeal before the appellate authority, if so advised.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rishabh Agarwal, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Kshitij Shailendra, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The petitioners, by means of the present writ petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, have assailed the impugned order dated 21.07.2018 passed by Additional District Judge, Court no.18, Agra in Original Suit No.609 of 2015, by which the application for amendment of the petitioners-plaintiffs to incorporate certain facts in the plaint has been rejected.

3. A preliminary objection has been raised by Sri Kshitij Shailendra, learned counsel for the respondents regarding maintainability of the writ petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, inasmuch as according to him, a revision under Section 115 of C.P.C. shall lie against the order of trial Court, therefore, the present writ petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is liable to be dismissed being not maintainable.

4. To the aforesaid objection, learned counsel for the petitioners has contended that after amendment in Section 115 of C.P.C. in the year 2002, a proviso has been inserted, the perusal of which shows that if the amendment application is allowed, then it amounts to case decided and only then the revision would lie whereas in the instant case, the amendment application has been rejected, therefore, the order impugned does not fall within the ambit of case decided, hence, the present writ petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is maintainable.

5. In support of his case, learned counsel for the petitioners has relied upon the judgement of the Apex court in the case of Shiv Shakti Co-operative Housing Society, Nagpur Vs. Swaraj Developers & Others, reported in (2003) 6 SCC 659; Punjab Small Industries and Export Corporation Vs. Baldev Raj Ram Murti, reported in 2002 SCC Online P & H 814 & Uttam Chand Kothari Vs. Gauri Shankar Jalan and Others, reported in (2005) 1 Gauhati Law Reports 147.

6. To rebut the aforesaid submissions, learned counsel for the respondents has contended that rejecting or allowing the amendment application under Order 6 Rule 17 amounts to disposal of a case decided in a Original Suit and, thus, it being a case decided, the revision against the order impugned is maintainable. Hence, in view of the fact that effective alternative remedy by way of revision under Section 115 of C.P.C. is available to the petitioners, the present petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is not maintainable.

7. In alternative, he submits that even if, without admitting that the argument of counsel for the petitioners is correct that the order impugned does not fall within the ambit of a case decided, even then the revision would lie, as is evident from sub-section (3) of Section 115 of C.P.C. as applicable in Uttar Pradesh inasmuch as conditions stipulated in sub-section (i) & (ii) of sub-section 3 of Section 115 of C.P. C. are independent, and on existence of any of conditions as enumerated in Section 115 (3) (i) & (ii) of C.P.C., the revision would lie and not the writ petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. In such view of the fact, it is submitted that the present writ petition is not maintainable.

8. For better appreciation of facts, Section 115 defining revision in the Code of Civil Procedure is reproduced here-in-below:-

"(1) The High Court may call for the record of any case which has been decided by any Court subordinate to such High Court and in which no appeal lies thereto, and if such subordinate Court appears

(a) to have exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law, or

(b) to have failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested, or

(c) to have acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity, the High Court may make such order in the case as it thinks fit:

[Provided that the High Court shall not, under this section, vary or reverse any order made, or any order deciding an issue, in the course of a suit or other proceeding, except where the order, if it had been made in favour of the party applying for revision, would have finally disposed of the suit or other proceedings.]

(2) The High Court shall not, under this section, vary or reverse any decree or order against which an appeal lies either to the High Court or to any Court subordinate thereto.

(3) A revision shall not operate as a stay of suit or other proceeding before the Court except where such suit or other proceeding is stayed by the High Court."

9. It is also apt to reproduce Section 115 of C.P.C. as applicable in the State of U.P. which have been substituted w.e.f. July, 1st, 2002.

"115. Revision (1) A superior court may revise an order passed in a case decided in an original suit or other proceeding by a subordinate court where no appeal lies against the order and where the subordinate court has --

(a) exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law ; or

(b) failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested ; or

(c) acted in exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity.

(2) A revision application under sub-section (1), when filed in the High Court, shall contain a certificate on the first page of such application, below the title of the case, to the effect that no revision in the case lies to the district court but lies only to the High Court either because of valuation or because the order sought to be revised was passed by the district court.

(3)The superior court shall not, under this section, very or reverse any order made except where,--

(i) the order, if it had been made in favour of the party applying for revision, would have finally disposed of the suit or other proceeding ; or

(ii) the order, if allowed to stand, would occasion a failure of justice or cause irreparable injury to the party against whom it is made."

10. An emphasis has been laid by the learned counsel for the petitioners that reading of proviso to Section 115 of C.P.C. of Central Act clearly suggests that revision is barred against any order of the trial Court in a suit unless and until the conditions enumerated in the proviso, namely, where the order, if it had been made in favour of the party applying for revision, would have finally disposed of the suit or other proceedings exist. Accordingly, he submits that as the rejection of application of amendment in the plaint does not bring the suit to an end, thus, the suit being not decided, the order rejecting the amendment application would not fall within the ambit of case decided. Therefore, the revisioin is barred and petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is maintainable.

11. Now, to appreciate the aforesaid argument of learned counsel for the petitioners, it would be apt to compare two sections as incorporated in Central Act of the C.P.C. and its applicability in the State of U.P.

12. From the comparison of proviso of Section 115 of C.P.C. in the Central Act and Section 115 (3) (i) of C.P.C. as applicable in the State of U.P., it is manifest and clear that revision is maintainable against any order if it had been in favour of the party applying for revision would have finally disposed of the suit or other proceeding. Thus, it is manifest that the proviso to Section 115 of Central Act has been adopted by the State of U.P. under sub-section (3) (i) of Section 115 of C.P.C. and are common, but by U.P. Amendment, (ii) to Section 115 (3) has been incorporated which provides that the revision will also lie against any order passed by the trial Court if the conditions elucidated in Section 115 (3) (ii) of C.P.C. exists, i.e., if the order is allowed to stand, it would occasion a failure of justice or cause irreparable injury to the party against whom it is made. So in either of the two contingencies, as referred in Section 115 (3) (i) & (ii) as applicable in U.P., revision is maintainable.

13. The learned counsel for the petitioners has laid emphasis upon paragraph no.32 of the judgement of Shiv Shakti Co-operative House Society, Nagpur (supra), to buttress his submission, paragraph no.32 is reproduced herein-below:-

"32. A plain reading of Section 115 as it stands makes it clear that the stress is on the question whether the order in favour of the party applying for revision would have given finality to suit or other proceeding. If the answer is 'yes' then the revision is maintainable. But on the contrary, if the answer is 'no' then the revision is not maintainable. Therefore, if the impugned order is interim in nature or does not finally decide the lis, the revision will not be maintainable. The legislative intent is crystal clear. Those orders, which are interim in nature, cannot be the subject matter of revision under Section 115. There is marked distinction in the language of Section 97(3) of the Old Amendment Act and Section 32(2)(i) of the Amendment Act. While in the former, there was clear legislative intent to save applications admitted or pending before the amendment came into force. Such an intent is significantly absent in Section 32(2)(i). The amendment relates to procedures. No person has a vested right in a course of procedure. He has only the right of proceeding in the manner prescribed. If by a statutory change the mode of procedure is altered, the parties are to proceed according to the altered mode, without exception, unless there is a different stipulation. "

14. In the opinion of the Court, the said judgement is not applicable in the facts of the present case, inasmuch as it was a case dealing with an issue where application under Order 39 Rule 1 C.P.C. has been rejected, against which revision was preferred and the Apex Court in those facts and circumstances held that no revision is maintainable against the order passed by the trial Court, if the order is interlocutory in nature.

15. So far as the judgement in the case of Uttam Chand Kothari (supra) is concerned, the said judgement is also not applicable in the facts of the present case inasmuch as it was not considering the case under Section 115 of C.P.C. as applicable to the State of U.P. and further the judgement and arguments raised by the respondents which shall be dealt with in later part of this judgement were also not considered by the Gauhati High Court.

16. Similar is the case in the case of Punjab Small Industries and Export Corporation (supra).

17. Now coming to the judgement of Five Judges Bench of this Court in the case of Rama Shanker Tiwari Vs. Mahadeo and others, reported in 1968 A.W.R. 103 (FB) relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondents, the Full Bench considered the meaning of the 'case decided' and held that the order allowing or disallowing an application for amendment in pleading is a case decided and is revisable in this Section, if the amendment sought has or is likely to have direct bearing on the rights and obligation of the parties. Paras 23 & 24 of the said judgement is reproduced here-in-below:-

"23. I am, therefore, of opinion that every order granting or dismissing an application for amendment of pleading will not give rise to a case decided revisable u/S. 115 of the Code. An order allowing or disallowing an application for amendment of pleading may however, give rise to a case decided revisable under that Section if the amendment sought has or is likely to have a direct bearing on the rights and obligations of the parties and affects or is likely to affect the jurisdiction of the Court. To this extent the decision in Mst. Suraj Pali's case can, in may opinion, be said to be no longer good law.

24. The opinion of the majority of Judges constituting the Full Bench is that an order passed u/O. VI R.17 of the CPC, either allowing an amendment or refusing to allow an amendment, is a "case decided" within the meaning of that expression in S.115, Code of Civil Procedure."

18. The five Judges Bench judgement concludes the controversy in the instant case, since the order deciding the amendment application would have a direct bearing on the right of either parties, if it is allowed or rejected. Thus, the decision on an application under Order 6 Rule 17 of C.P.C. would amount to a case decided and revision would lie. The said finding is also supported by the first line of Section 115 (1) which states that " superior Court may revise an order passed in a case decided in an original suit",reading of said line suggests that legislation has envisaged cases where there may be circumstances where an order passed in original suit may amount to a case decided, though the suit has not been decided, and revision is maintainable against the said order.

19. Similarly, para-17 of the judgement reported in 2006 (1) AWC 825 (LB) in the case of Sultan Leather Finishers Pvt. Ltd. and others Vs. A.D.J. Court no.4, Unnao and others being relevant in the context of present case is reproduced herein-below:-

"In one another case in Sambhaunath Digambar Jain v. Mohanlal and Ors. 2003 (9) SCC 219, where the application under Order VI, Rule 17 and Order VIII, Rule 6A of the Code of Civil Procedure was rejected by the trial court declining to permit the defendant to amend the written statement and counter-claim, it was held by Hon'ble Supreme Court that such application can be challenged by invoking revisional jurisdiction.

For convenience paras 3 and 4 of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sambhavnath's case (supra) is reproduced as under :

"The respondents herein filed a suit against the appellant for setting aside the said order of the Registrar. On 13.9.1982, the appellant filed written statement wherein an averment was made that the portion of property where the girl's school was running was the property of the trust. It may be mentioned that the Registrar did not include the said portion of the school as trust property. On 15.9.1982, the appellant filed an application under Order VI, Rule 17 and Order VIII, Rule 6A of the Code of Civil Procedure read with Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure and sought to incorporate in its counter-claim the said school as a trust property. On 15.9.1982, the appellant filed an application under Order VI, Rule 17 and Order VIII, Rule 6A of the Code of Civil Procedure read with Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure and sought to incorporate in its counter-claim the said school as a trust property by way of an amendment to its written statement. The said application was rejected by the trial court and being aggrieved by the said order, the appellant filed a revision which was dismissed as not maintainable. That is how the parties are before us.

Learned counsel for the appellant has urged that the order passed by the trial court was revisable and view taken by the High Court is erroneous. We are of the view that the High Court for ends of justice ought to have considered the application on merit keeping in view Rule 6A of Order VIII of the Code of Civil Procedure and in accordance with the law. We, therefore, hold that the above order rejecting the application of the appellant by the trial court was revisable. "

20. In this regard, it may also be apt to refer to paragraph-8 of the judgement of this Court reported in 2006 (3) AWC 2182, Mukhtar Ahmad vs. Sirajul Haw and Others, wherein this Court has quashed the order of revisional Court rejecting the revisioin against the order passed in the amendment application. Paragraph-8 of the said judgement is reproduced herein-below:-

"8. In view of the aforesaid, the District Judge was not correct in holding that a revision against an order rejecting the amendment application is not maintainable. The District Judge was under law obliged to see as to whether the order passed by the court below rejecting the amendment application amounts to case decided or as to whether in the facts of the case revisional authority should vary or reverse the order passed by the court below in view of sub-section (3) of Section 115 of the Civil Procedure Code. It is needless to point out that this Court in the Judgment in Smt. Pushpa alias Pooja v. State of U.P. and Ors. 2005 (3) AWC 2587:AIR 2005 All 187, has taken note of the judgment in the case of Shiv Shakti Co-operative Housing Society, Nagpur v. Swaraj Developers, and has explained the legal proposition laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Shiv Shakti (supra) in paragraphs 15 and 16 of the said Judgment, which may be reproduced here in below:

"15. The judgment of the Apex Court relied by the counsel for the petitioner in Shiv Shakti Cooperative Housing Society, Nagpur v. Swaraj Developers and Ors. (supra) lays down that the revision is not maintainable against an interlocutory or interim order. The Apex Court while considering provisions of Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure, made following observation in paragraph 32: .....(at page 2442 of AIR).

"32. A plain reading of Section 115, as it stands makes it clear that the stress is on the question whether the order in favour of the party applying for revision would have given finality to suit or other proceeding. If the answer is "yes" then the revision is maintainable. But on the contrary, if the answer is "no" then the revision is not^ maintainable. Therefore, if the impugned order is of interim nature or does not finally decide the lis, the revision will not be maintainable. The legislative intent is crystal clear. Those orders, which are interim in nature, cannot be the subject-matter of revision under Section 115."

16. As noted above, the order passed under Section 24 disposed of finally the issue of interim maintenance to a spouse during pendency of proceedings. After passing the order under Section 24 of the Act nothing more is required to be done with regard to question of interim maintenance during pendency of proceedings and the fact is that the order passed under Section 24 finally disposes the application for interim maintenance; hence as laid down by the Apex Court in above quoted paragraph the revision shall be maintainable against an order under Section 24 of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955."

21. Section 115 (iii) of C.P.C. as applicable in Uttar Pradesh clearly states that the order, if allowed to stand, results in failure of justice or causes irreparable injury to the party against whom it is made, the revision under Section 115 of C.P.C as applicable in the State of U.P. is maintainable.

22. Viewed from this angle, if any order illegally passed by the Court below on any application is allowed to stand affecting rights of parties, it is obvious that it would cause failure of justice or cause irreparable injury to the party against whom it is made, therefore, if said condition is present, the revision against any order passed by the Court below vide Section 115 (3) (ii) of C.P.C. as applicable in U.P. would lie.

23. The Apex Court in the case of Virudhunagar Hindu Nadargal Dharma Paribalana Sabai and Others Vs.

Tuticorin Educational Society and Others, reported in (2019) 9 SCC 538 that where there is availability of remedy under CPC, normally petition under Article 227 would not lie. Paragraph nos.11, 12 & 13 of the said judgement is reproduced here-in-below:

"11.Secondly, the High Court ought to have seen that when a remedy of appeal under section 104 (1) (i) read with Order XLIII, Rule 1 (r) of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, was directly available, the respondents 1 and 2 ought to have taken recourse to the same. It is true that the availability of a remedy of appeal may not always be a bar for the exercise of supervisory jurisdiction of the High Court. In A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu Vs. S. Chellappan & Ors.1, this Court held that "though no hurdle can be put against the exercise of the constitutional powers of the High Court, it is a well recognized principle which gained judicial recognition that the High Court should direct the party to avail himself of such remedies before he resorts to a constitutional remedy".

12. But courts should always bear in mind a distinction between (i) cases where such alternative remedy is available before civil courts in terms of the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure and (ii) cases where such alternative remedy is available under special enactments and/or statutory rules and the fora provided therein happen to be quasi-judicial authorities and tribunals. In respect of cases falling under the first category, which may involve suits and other proceedings before civil courts, the availability of an appellate remedy in terms of the provisions of CPC, may have to be construed as a near total bar. Otherwise, there is a danger that someone may challenge in a revision under Article 227, even a decree passed in a suit, on the same grounds on which the respondents 1 and 2 invoked the jurisdiction of the High Court. This is why, a 3 member Bench of this Court, while overruling the decision in Surya Dev Rai vs. Ram Chander Rai, pointed out in Radhey Shyam Vs. Chhabi Nath that "orders of civil court stand on different footing from the orders of authorities or Tribunals or courts other than judicial/civil courts.

13. Therefore wherever the proceedings are under the code of Civil Procedure and the forum is the civil court, the availability of a remedy under the CPC, will deter the High Court, not merely as a measure of self imposed restriction, but as a matter of discipline and prudence, from exercising its power of superintendence under the Constitution. Hence, the High Court ought not to have entertained the revision under Article 227 especially in a case where a specific remedy of appeal is provided under the Code of Civil Procedure itself."

24. Thus, for the reasons given above, the present writ petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is not maintainable as remedy by way of revision under Section 115 of C.P.C. is available to the petitioners. It is, accordingly, dismissed with no order as to costs.

Promotion Rules 2014-Rule 7- provides typing as essential qualification for promotion-Rules 2001 incorporated in promotion Rules 2014-only to extent of hindi typewriting-" knowledge of typewriting" is essential for promotion from Group 'D' employees.

Appeal dismissed. (E-9)

List of Cases cited:

Special Appeal No.173 of 2017; Ved Vrat Tyagi & ors. Vs St. of U.P. & ors.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard, Shri Vijay Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellants-petitioners and Shri Rajesh Tiwari, learned State Counsel representing the State-respondents.

2. The appellants-petitioners have filed this intra-court Special Appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules assailing the validity of the judgment and order dated 20.04.2022, passed by learned Single Judge in a bunch of writ petitions, the leading Writ Petition being Writ-A No.24026 of 2018;Sushil Kumar and others Versus State of U.P. and others, whereby the writ petitions have been dismissed by learned Single Judge providing therein that the dismissal of the petitions shall not preclude the petitioners from participating in any subsequent recruitment for Group 'C' post against the promotion quota provided they fulfill the essential requirement as mandated under Rule 7 of the Promotion Rules, 2014.

3. The appellants-petitioners are working on various class-IV posts in the department of Medical and Health in the office of the opposite party no.3. The appellants-petitioners, in pursuance of the decision of the Government to fill up class-III posts of Junior Assistants by way of promotion from Class-IV employees, applied for promotion by way of selection. The eligibility list dated 17.07.2018 was prepared, in which the names of the appellants-petitioners figured alongwith other candidates in a composite list of 1325 candidates. By means of a letter dated 17.07.2018, the respondents had fixed the date for typing test between 24.07.2018 and 27.07.2018. It was also provided in the said letter that in case due to some unavoidable reason a candidate could not appear on the dates fixed, he may appear on 28.07.2018. In pursuance thereto the appellants-petitioners appeared in the typing test, result of which was declared on 10.08.2018. The appellants-petitioners were not selected. Therefore the appellants-petitioners approached this court by means of Writ Petition No.24026 (SS) of 2018.

4. Learned counsel for the appellants-petitioners submitted that in terms of relevant Service Rules, namely, "The Uttar Pradesh Government Department Ministerial Cadre Service Rules, 2014" (here-in-after referred to as the Rules 2014) read with "The Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Offices Ministerial Group 'C' Posts of the Lowest Grade (Recruitment by Promotion) Rules, 2001" (here-in-after referred to as the Rules 2001), the appellants-petitioners have been subjected to typing test, but there is no such requirement under the aforesaid Rules, except for the posts of typist or the posts for which typing is essential. However, learned Single Judge rejected the claim of the appellants-petitioners by placing reliance on Rules 2014 read with Rules 2001, which could not have been done.

5. Learned counsel for the appellants-petitioners vehemently argued that the reliance placed by learned Single Judge on Rules 2014 is highly misplaced because as per Rules 2014, only certain provisions of Rules 2001 are to be followed for making promotion by way of selection. It has further been contended by learned counsel for the appellants-petitioners that Rules 2014 only contemplates the knowledge of typing skill for the posts for which the typing is required, hence the respondents could not have held the typing test for all the posts. Submission is that without considering it the learned Single Judge has dismissed the writ petition, therefore the judgment and order passed by learned Single Judge is not sustainable and liable to be set aside.

6. Learned Standing Counsel representing the State-respondents vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the appellants-petitioners. He submitted that though typing was not an essential qualification under the Rules 2001, but it has been made the essential qualification under Rule 7 of the Rules 2014 for promotion and Rules 2001 are applicable only for the procedural purposes i.e. as to how the selection is to be made and what should be the criteria and minimum speed for typing. Thus he submitted that learned Single Judge has rightly considered the pleadings and the Rules and dismissed the writ petition. It has been thus submitted that there is no illegality or error in the judgment and order passed by learned Single Judge and hence the Special Appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds, which is liable to be dismissed.

7. We have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the records available on Special Appeal and the Rules 2014 and Rules 2001.

8. Rules 2014 have been framed under Article 309 of the Constitution of India and in supersession of all existing Rules and Orders on the subject. Rule 7 of Rules 2014 provides three sources of recruitment for the post of Junior Assistant, which is a class III post; 80% of said posts are to be filled in by way of direct recruitment, 15% of the posts are to be filled in by way of promotion from amongst the substantively appointed Group 'D' employees having High School or equivalent qualification and who possess the knowledge of typewriting and 5% posts are to be filled up by making promotion from amongst substantively appointed Group 'D' employees, who have passed the Intermediate or equivalent examination and who possess the knowledge of typewriting. Accordingly apart from qualification of High School and Intermediate or equivalent qualification, one of the essential qualifications prescribed therein is "knowledge of typewriting" for promotion from Group 'D' post. The words "knowledge of typewriting" are followed by "in accordance with the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Offices Ministerial Group 'C' Posts of the Lowest Grade (Recruitment by Promotion) Rules, 2001 as amended from time to time", which would mean that the knowledge of typewriting has to be read in consonance with the provisions contained in Rules 2001.

9. Rule 7 (1) of the Rules 2014, relevant for consideration in this appeal, is extracted here-in-below:-

"7. Source of recruitment- Recruitment to the various categories of posts in the service shall be made from the following sources:

(1) Junior Assistant-(i) Eighty percent by direct recruitment.

(ii) Fifteen percent by promotion from amongst substantively appointed Group 'D' employees who have passed the High School Examination of the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh or an Examination recognized by the Government as equivalent thereto and who possess the knowledge of typewriting, in accordance with the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Offices Ministerial 'Group 'C' Post of the Lowest Grade (Recruitment by Promotion) Rules, 2001, as amended from time to time.

(iii) Five percent by promotion from amongst substantively appointed Group 'D' employees who have passed the Intermediate Examination of the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh or an examination recognized by the Government as equivalent thereto and who possess the knowledge of typewriting, in accordance with the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Offices Ministerial Group 'C' Posts of the Lowest Grade (Recruitment by Promotion) Rules, 2001, as amended from time to time."

10. Rule 18 of Rules 2014 provides that recruitment by promotion for the post of Junior Assistant in the service shall be made in accordance with the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Offices Ministerial Group 'C' Posts of the Lowest Grade (Recruitment by Promotion) Rules, 2001 as amended from time to time. The conjoint reading of the Rules 7(1) and Rule 18 of Rules 2014 clearly indicates that the essential qualifications for promotion from Group 'D' post is High School/Intermediate or equivalent thereto and knowledge of typewriting and for testing the knowledge of typewriting and procedure for selection as prescribed under the Rules 2001, would be applicable. Rule 18 of Rules 2014 is extracted here-in-below:-

"18. Procedure for recruitment by promotion for the post of Junior Assistant- Recruitment by promotion to the posts of Junior Assistant in the service shall be made in accordance with the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Offices Ministerial Group 'C' Posts of the Lowest Grade (Recruitment by Promotion) Rules, 2001, as amended from time to time."

11. Rule 5 of Rules 2001 provided the source of recruitment for promotion, under which 15% posts were to be filled in from the substantively appointed Group 'D' employees who possess the High School or equivalent qualification and 5% posts from the substantively appointed Group 'D' employees who possess the Intermediate or equivalent. The procedure for recruitment for promotion is provided in Rule 8 of Rules 2001. In terms of Sub-rule (1) of Rule 8 for the purpose of recruitment by promotion a Selection Committee has to be constituted in accordance with the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Constitution of Departmental Promotion Committee for the posts outside the purview of the Public Service Commission Rules, 1992. Sub Rule (2) provides that the recruitment by promotion shall be made on the basis of merit as disclosed by marks obtained in the test for selection through the Selection Committee constituted under sub-rule (1) and the test for selection shall include a simple written test, interview and evaluation of character roll. The maximum marks for all the three have also been provided. Note-2 to Sub-rule (2) of Rule 8 provides that where recruitment by promotion is being made for the post of Typist or a post for which Hindi Typewriting is essential, there shall be conducted a qualifying test of Hindi Typewriting also, as prescribed by the Government from time to time and to qualify this test a candidate must have a minimum speed of twenty-five words per minute in Hindi Typewriting. As such as per Rule 8(2)-Note-2 where recruitment by promotion is to be made against the post of Typist or against a post for which Hindi Typewriting is essential, a test in Hindi typing shall be conducted by the Selection Committee, which is to be of qualifying nature. Note-2 appended to Rule 8 (2) of Rules 2001 is extracted here-in-below:-

"Note 2- Where recruitment by promotion is being made for the post of Typist or a post for which Hindi Typewriting is essential, there shall be conducted a qualifying test of Hindi Typewriting also, as prescribed by the Government from time to time. To qualify this test a candidate must have a minimum speed of twenty-five words per minute in Hindi Typewriting."

12. When we examine the contention of learned counsel for the appellants-petitioners in the backdrop of the provisions contained in Rules 2014 read with Rules 2001, it is crystal clear that though knowledge of typewriting was not an essential qualification under Rules 2001 for promotion to all Group 'C' posts from Group 'D' posts, but the same has been made an essential qualification under Rules 2014, which is to be tested as per the procedure prescribed under Rules 2001, which specifically provides as to what will be the benchmark to ascertain the eligibility of a candidate for promotion to Group 'C' post from Group 'D' post. According to Note 2, as extracted here-in-above, appended to Rules 8 of Rules 2001, for promotion to the post of Typist or to a post where the knowledge of Hindi typewriting is necessary a test of Hindi typing is to be organized and conducted which is qualifying in nature and in that test a candidate has to perform/acquire speed of 25 words per minute in Hindi Typing test. Thus, under the backdrop of the aforesaid Rules on being examined the submissions of learned counsel for the appellants-petitioners and the respondents, we find that the submissions of learned counsel for the appellants-petitioners are not tenable.

13. A Division Bench of this court, in which one of us (Mr.Justice Devendra Kumar Upadhyaya), was a member in Special Appeal No.173 of 2017; Ved Vrat Tyagi and 15 others Versus State of U.P. and two others considering the provisions of Rules 2014 read with Rules 2001, in regard to the identical issue, held as under:-

""If the submission of learned counsel for the petitioners-appellants is examined on the basis of provisions contained in 2014 Rules read with referred 2001 Rules, it is crystal clear that though 2014 Rules provide that 'knowledge of typing' is essential qualification, however, 2001 Rules specifically provides what will be the benchmark to ascertain eligibility of a candidate for promotion from Group D post. According to Note 2, as extracted hereinabove, occuring in Rule 8 (2) of 2001 Rules, for promotion to the post of typist or to a post where knowledge of Hindi typing is essential, a test of Hindi typing has to be organized/conducted which is qualifying in nature and in that test a candidate has to perform/acquire speed of 25 words per minute in Hindi typing test. Thus, if the submission made by the learned counsel for the petitioners-appellants, in the backdrop of the aforesaid discussions, are examined by us in the light of the 2014 Rules read alongwith 2001 Rules, same are not found to be tenable."

14. We also notice that under Rules 2001 the definition of Ministerial Group 'C' post of the Lowest grade is given in Rule 4(f), which is extracted below:-

"(f) 'Ministerial Group 'C' Posts of the Lowest Grade' shall refer to the Ministerial group 'C' posts of the lowest scale of pay, excluding the posts belonging to the Stenographer cadre, Accounts cadre or the posts of technical nature in the subordinate offices which are filled both by direct recruitment and by promotion and which are outside the purview of the Public Service Commission, Uttar Pradesh;"

15. According to the aforesaid definition in Rules 2001,the Ministerial Group 'C' post of the lowest grade excludes the posts belonging to the Stenographer cadre, Accounts cadre or the posts of technical nature in the subordinate offices. However, under the Rules 2014 Ministerial Group 'C' post of the Lowest Grade has not been defined and the definition of 'Service' has been given under Rule 5 ((i), according to which 'Service' means the Uttar Pradesh Government Department Ministerial Cadre Service. The same is extracted below:-

"(i) 'service' means the Uttar Pradesh Government Department Ministerial Cadre Service;"

16. In view of above, Rules 2014 does not have any such classification of Group 'C' posts and Stenographer etc. as was in Rules 2001. In this view also the submissions of learned counsel for the appellants-petitioners that the "knowledge of typewriting" is required for the post of Stenographer or the post for which Hindi typing is essential only, is misconceived and not tenable and now the "knowledge of typewriting" is essential for promotion from Group 'D' employees.

17. After considering the Rules, learned Single Judge has categorically held that the Rule 7 of the Promotion Rules 2014 provides that typing is essential qualification mandated for promotion and the criteria/speed as prescribed in Rules 2001 has been incorporated in promotion Rules 2014 only to the extent of Hindi typewriting, therefore, the reference of promotion Rules 2001 is for a limited purpose i.e. typing speed and in so far as the essential qualification for promotion is concerned the promotion Rules 2014 is unambiguous by mandatorily providing that typing knowledge is an essential qualification.

18. We are in agreement with the findings recorded by the learned Single Judge for the reasons stated above. We do not find any illegality or error in the judgment and order dated 20.04.2022 passed by the learned Single Judge in the Bunch of writ petitions, leading being writ -A No.24026 of 2018. The Special Appeal is misconceived and lacks merit.

19. The Special Appeal is, accordingly, dismissed. No order as to costs.

1. Supplementary counter affidavit filed on behalf of the respondent-Committee of Management in Court today is taken on record.

2. Heard Mr. Radha Kant Ojha, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Mansoor Ahmad, Mr. Maqsood Ahmad Beg and Mr. B.P. Singh Somwashi, learned counsel for the respondent-Committee of Management and the learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

3. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for quashing the order dated 4th September, 2015 passed by the Joint Director of Education, Allahabad Division, Allahabad (now Prayagraj) i.e. respondent no.3 as well as for quashing the communication letter of the District Inspector of Schools, Fatehpur dated 7th January, 2016. Petitioner has also prayed that a direction be issued to the respondents to make payment of salary of the petitioner w.e.f. 12th August, 2015 to till date including the arrears and also pay the salary regularly as and when it becomes due.

4. By means of the letter-cum-order dated 4th September, 2015, respondent no.3 has informed the Manager of Inter College Dhauli, Fatehpur that the recommendation of the Committee of Management to accord financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner on the post of Principal of the said institution has been refused by the Regional Level Committee. In the said letter/order, it has been mentioned that on an opinion being obtained, it has been informed by the U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board, Allahabad vide his letter dated 11th August, 2015 that the teachers working in recognized unaided institutions are treated to be part-time teachers due to which their experience is not accepted to be valid. Therefore, it is not possible for the Regional Level Committee to accord financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner on the post of Principal of the institution, as she possesses teaching experience certificate from an unaided institution. The same information has been sent by the District Inspector of Schools, Fatehpur to the Manager of the Inter College, Pauli, District Fatehpur vide his letter dated 7th January, 2016, which is also under challenge in the present writ petition.

5. Relevant facts as borne out from the records of the present writ petition, are as follows:

Intermediate College, Pauli, District Fatehpur is an institution duly recognized by the Board of secondary Education of the State of Uttar Pradesh. As the said institution is in the grand-in-aid list of the State Government, the teachers and other employees of the said institution including the Principal are getting their salary from State exchequer under the provisions of U.P. High School and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salary to the Teachers and Other Employees) Act, 1971. As the vacancy of the post of Principal occurred in the institution, the Committee of Management of the said institution applied for permission to advertise the said post. However, the Committee of Management of the institution was informed that as the institution has been conferred the minority status, no prior permission for publication of the post of Principal of the institution is required. Therefore, an advertisement was accordingly made in two daily news papers, namely, one in Hindi, namely, Amar Ujala and second in English, namely, Northern Indian Patrika on 25th March, 2015, which were having adequate circulations. Pursuant to the said advertisement, various prospective candidates sent their applications forms through registered post. Petitioner, who possessed the degrees of High School (in the year 1994), Intermediate (in the year 1996), B.A. (in the year 1999), M.A. (in the year 2004 and B.Ed. (in the year 2011) examinations and also teaching experience of six years, six months and nine days w.e.f. 2nd July, 2008 to that date, from Ganesh Shanker Vidyarthee Balika Intermediate College, Sultanpur Gosh, Fatehpur, also applied in pursuance of the aforesaid advertisement through registered post. The photo copies of the degrees and teaching experience certificate of the petitioner have been enclosed along with the supplementary counter affidavit filed in the Court today. After receipt of the application forms of various prospective candidates, the Committee of Management sent a letter to the Regional Joint Director of Education on 5th May, 2015 to nominate an Expert for holding the selections of the post of Principal of the institution, the Regional Joint Director of Education inturn vide letter dated 4th June, 2015 nominated two retired officers, namely, Shyam Narain Rai and Ramesh Mishra as an expert. The Committee of Management opted Mr. Shaym Narain Rai, retired Joint Director of Education, Allahabad Region, Allahabad as an Expert for selection of the principal of the institution. The Committee of Management issued letters dated 5th June, 2015 by registered post to all the prospective candidates requiring them to appear in the interview, which was to be held on 28th June, 2015 in the campus of the institution. The petitioner appeared in the said interview. In the interview which was held on 28th June, 2015, total 13 persons participated including the petitioner. The result of the said interview was declared by the Selection Committee on the same day i.e. 28th June, 2015 in which the petitioner was placed at serial no.1. On the said result, the signatures of the expert appointed by the Regional Joint Director of Education, namely, Shyam Narain Rai along with other members of the Selection Committee was also appended, a copy of which has been enclosed as Annexure-4 to the writ petition. On 29th June, 2015, a meeting was convened by the Committee of Management, wherein the said result declared by the selection committee was accepted and on the basis of same, the petitioner was selected for the post of Principal of the institution. Accordingly, the Committee of Management submitted the relevant papers, on 1st July, 2015 before the Regional Joint Director of Education, Allahabad for financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner as principal of the institution. As no objection was raised by the concerned authority, in view of provisions of Chapter-I, Rule 17 (2) (g) of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, the Committee of Management offered appointment letter to the petitioner on 2nd August, 2015 for the post of Principal of the institution. Pursuant to the said appointment letter, the petitioner joined on 12th August, 2015 as principal of the institution, a copy of the joining letter has been enclosed as Annexure-6 to the writ petition. The petitioner was discharging her duties as principal of the institution continuously to the utmost satisfaction of the education authorities. After some time, pursuant to the letter of the Regional Joint Director of Education, Allahabad Region, Allahabad dated 4th September, 2015, the District Inspector of Schools vide letter dated 7th January, 2016 communicated the Committee of Management of the Institution that relying on the opinion given by the Secretary, U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board, Allahabad, the Regional Level Committee has refused to accord financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner on the post of Principal of the institution. It is against these letters/orders, that the present writ petition has been filed.

6. Questioning the aforesaid orders/letters of the Regional Joint Director of Education and the District Inspector of Schools, following submissions have been advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner:

(i) The order dated 4th September, 2015 has been passed by the Regional Level Committee on the basis of opinion given by the Secretary, U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board, Allahabad, when as a matter of fact, the provisions of U.P. Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 is not applicable to the petitioner's institution, which is a minority institution.

(ii) The order impugned dated 4th September, 2015 has been passed by the Regional Level Committee without giving any notice well as without affording any opportunity of hearing either to the petitioner or the manager of the institution, hence, the same hits Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India, as the same has been made in violation of principles of natural justice.

(iii) The Committee of Management has preferred appeal against the order of the Regional Level Committee dated 4th September, 2015 but the petitioner has no concern with the same, after expiry of one month of the submissions of the relevant papers qua the appointment of the petitioner as required under Chapter-II Rule 17 (2) (g) of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, the financial approval is deemed to be given in favour of the petitioner.

(iv) Appendix-A as referred in Regulation-1 of Chapter-II of the Regulations framed under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 does not speak about the experience from "aided" institution, it only speaks of experience from "recognized" institution. It is not disputed by the learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents any where that the petitioner is having teaching experience of "unaided" institution but the same is "recognized" institution. Hence, the petitioner possesses correct and valid teaching experience, as per the aforesaid provisions and nothing is wrong in the same. Neither the word "aided" nor "unaided" is mentioned in the aforesaid provisions.

(v) While passing the order impugned, the Regional Joint Director of Education has erred in law in obtaining opinion of the Secretary, Secondary Education Services Selection Board, who has no authority to give any opinion to a principal of a minority institution recognized under the provisions of U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921.

(vi) The State education authorities are habitual to harass the minoirity institutions like the petitioner's institution for the reasons best known to them.

On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the order impugned dated 4th September, 2015 passed by the Regional Level Committee, Allahabad Region, Allahabad refusing to accord financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner for the post of principal cannot be legally sustained and is liable to be quashed.

7. On the other-hand, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents and the learned counsel for the respondent-Committee of Management submit that on the opinion given by the Secretary, U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board that as in the unaided institutions, only short term post of assistant teachers are sanctioned, therefore, the experience gained by such teachers from the said institutions cannot be counted or admitted, the Regional Level Committee has taken a decision not to accord financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner on the post of Principal of the institution, as the petitioner has gained teaching experience from Ganesh Shankar Vidyarthee Balika Intermediate College, Sultanpur Ghos, which is a recognized but not aided institution, hence the same is legal and valid.

Learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents and the learned counsel for the respondent-Committee of Management further submit that Pauli Intermediate College, Pauli is a recognized minority institution and is an aided institution taking grant-in-aid from the State Government, therefore the provisions of U.P. Act No. 2 of 1921 of U.P. Act No. 24 of 1071 are fully applicable over the institution. The experience of teachers working under privately managed recognized institution cannot be counted/admitted, inasmuch as in such institutions, only short terms posts have been sanctioned. As the petitioner has possessed teaching experience certificate of a private managed institution, therefore, the Regional Level Committee has rightly not accorded financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner as Principal for payment of salaries from the State exchequer.

Lastly, it has been submitted by the learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents that after retirement of Sri Surendra Prakash Mishra, who was working as officiating principal of the institution on 30th June, 2014, Mohd. Aafan is working as officiating principal of the said institution from 1st July, 2014.

In view of the aforesaid submissions, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents submits that there is no illegality or infirmity in the decision taken by the Regional Level Committee dated 4th September, 2015, which has been communicated to the Committee of Management by the Regional Joint Director of Education vide letter dated 4th September, 2015 as well as by the District Inspector of Schools, vide letter dated 7th January, 2016.

8. This Court has considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the present writ petition including the counter affidavits, supplementary counter affidavit and rejoinder affidavits filed on behalf of the State-respondents, respondent-Committee of Management and the petitioner respectively.

9. Article 30 of the Indian Constitution gives right of minorities to establish and administer educational institutions, which consists of provisions that safeguard various rights of the minority community in the country keeping in mind the principle of equality as well. Article 30(1) says that all minorities, whether based on religion or language, shall have the right to establish and administer educational institutions of their choice. Article 30(1A) deals with the fixation of the amount for acquisition of property of any educational institution established by minority groups. Article 30(2) states that the government, which gives aid, should not discriminate against any educational institution on the ground that it is under the management of a minority, whether based on religion or language.

10. Judged in the aforesaid legal background, this Court has no hesitation to hold that Section 16E (1) (2) and Section 16FF and Regulations 17 to 19 of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 which lay down the procedure for selection of principal and teachers in minority institutions are basically provisions for furtherance of fair administration of the minority institution and not to its detriment. These provisions have stood the test of time for decades together.

11. For ready reference, Section Section 16 E (1) and (2) and Section 16FF and Regulations-17 to 19 are quoted below:

"[16-E. Procedure for selection of teachers and heads of institutions.---- Subject to the provisions of this Act, the Head of institution and teachers of an institution shall be appointed by the Committee of Management in the manner hereinafter provided.

(2) Every post of Head of institution or teacher of an institution shall except to the extent prescribed for being filled by promotion, be filled by direct recruitment after intimation of the vacancy to the Inspector and advertisement of the vacancy containing such particulars as may be prescribed, in at least two newspapers having adequate circulation in the State.

High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and other Employees) Act 1971, and in other cases shall decline to give any grant for the salary and allowances in respect of such person."

12. From bare reading of the aforesaid provisions as well as the records of the present writ petition, it is an admitted position that the selection of the petitioner for appointment on the post of Principal in the institution has been made after following all procedures, which have been quoted herein above.

13. The only question, which arises for consideration before this Court as to whether the petitioner has possessed the teaching experience certificate, as prescribed under the relevant provisions or not.

14. For appreciating the said question, it is worthwhile to reproduce Appendix-A of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, as qualification for the post of Principal or head of non-Government recognized Higher Secondary Schools, has been prescribed in aforesaid Appendix A, which reads as follows:

"APPENDIX A

(In reference to Regulation 1 of Chapter II)

Minimum eligibilities for appointment of Heads and teachers in non-Government recognised Higher Secondary Schools.

1. Degree and diploma in concerned subject of any University established or regulated by or under any Central Act, Provincial Act or State Act, which is considered to be a University under Section 3 of the University Grants Commission Act, 1956, or of any such institution specially empowered by any Act of Parliament shall be recognised for the purpose of minimum qualifications prescribed under it.

2. Under it in reference to prescribed qualifications the word "trained" means post graduate training qualification such as L.T., B.T., B. Ed., B. Ed. Sc. or M. Ed. of any University or institution as specified in the earlier para or any equivalent (Degree or Diploma). It also includes departmental A.T.C. and C.T. with minimum teaching experience of 5 years'. J.T.C./B.T.C. Grae teacher shall also be considered to be. C.T. if he has worked in C.T. Grade at least for 5 years'.

Essential Qualifications

Sl. No.	Name of the post	Essential Training Experience	Age	Desirable qualfications

Notes: (1) Assistant teachers having at least second class postgraduate degree and specified teaching experience of ten years in intermediate classes of a recognised institution may be exempted from training qualifications, (as per the provisions contained in the Act.)

(2)Teaching experience includes teaching prior to or after teaching or both.

(3)Higher classes means classes from 9 to 12 and experience of teaching these classes is admissible for the post of Headmaster of intermediate college."

15. The aforesaid Appendix provides three alternative qualifications. The first being Trained M.A. or M. Sc. or M. Com. or M. Sc. (Ag) or any equivalent post graduate or any other degree which is awarded by corporate body specified in above mentioned para one and should have at least teaching experience of four years in class 9 to 12 in any training institute or in any institution. The second qualification which has been provided for is that the candidate should have 10 years teaching experience of Intermediate classes of any recognized institution with first or second class Postgraduate degree or third class Postgraduate degree with 15 years teaching experience. Third qualification, which has been provided for is Postgraduate Diploma holders in Science with the condition that he has passed diploma course in first or second class and has served meritoriously for 15 years or 20 years respectively in any recognized institution after passing such diploma course. These are three alternative qualifications provided for being appointed on the post of Principal under Appendix-A of Chapter- II of U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921

16. Therefore, whatever qualifications are prescribed under Appendix-A for the post of Principal apply equally for ad hoc appointment as well as for regular appointment. Merely because a teacher imparts education in one of the recognized but unaided institution (self financed institution), after he satisfies statutorily prescribed qualifications, it cannot be said that he is not a member of the cadre of teacher to be considered for appointment on the post of Principal/Headmaster. From perusal of entire Appendix-A, it is clear that the words "unaided or aided" have not been mentioned any where. Only the word "recognized" has been mentioned therein. Neither in the impugned decision made by the Regional Level Committee nor in the counter affidavits and supplementary counter affidavit filed on behalf of the State-respondents and respondent-Committee of Management nor it has been placed before this Court, by learned counsel for the respondents, as to in which provisions of law, it has been prescribed for appointment on the post of head of the institution/principal of a non-government higher secondary school that the candidate concerned must possess the teaching experience certificate of a recognized and aided institution, when as a matter of fact, in Appendix-A, it has only been prescribed that the candidate concerned must possess teaching experience certificate of any recognized institution.

17. In view of the aforesaid, this Court is of the considered opinion that as per Clause (1) of the Appendix-A as referred to in Regulation-1 of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, the petitioner has possessed the requisite qualification of trained M.A. i.e. M.A. B.Ed. and teaching certificate of a "recognized" institution of more than six years. Therefore, the impugned decision taken by the Regional Level Committee appears to be bad in eyes of law and the same is liable to be quashed on this ground alone.

18. Apart from the above, this Court will also examine the issue which has been taken in the impugned decision of the Regional Level Committee, which has been taken in light of the opinion given by the Secretary, U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board, Allahabad that as the petitioner has obtained teaching experience certificate from Ganesh Shankar Vidyarthi Balika Intermediate College, Sultanpur Ghosh, Fatehpur, which is a recognized but a self-financed institution, in which posts of part time teachers are sanctioned, therefore, on the basis of said certificate, the appointment of the petitioner for the post of Principal of the institution cannot be approved of.

19. Even otherwise, the Apex Court in the case of Mohd. Altaf (1) & Others Vs. U.P. Public Service Commission & Another reported in (2008) 14 SCC 139, has held that apparently there being no restriction in the statutory rules to the effect that teaching experience must be that of a recognized institution of the U.P. Board of High School and Intermediate Education, without prejudice to the contentions, list of such candidatures also should be prepared and submitted to the Supreme Court. Paragraph no. 6 of the said judgment of the Apex Court, which is relevant, are being quoted herein below:

"6. It is to be stated that the aforesaid Rules nowhere prescribe that teaching experience should be that of a teacher in government college or government-aided or unaided college or institution. Teaching experience may be from any Higher Secondary School or High School or from an institute having Intermediate or higher classes. Further, a Lecturer having three years' teaching experience in CT/LT training college is also eligible."

20. A learned Single Judge of this Court vide judgment and order dated 24th February, 2014 passed in Writ-A No. 11100 of 2014 (Dr. Sanjay Kumar Singh And Another Vs.State Of U.P. Thru Secy. And Another) has opined as follows:

"As per the eligibility criteria the experience could be as Head of a Higher Secondary or normal School or in teaching Intermediate or higher classes or as a lecturer in CT or LT training college. It is also the case of the petitioner that she had appended a certificate duly issued by the College and counter signed by Deputy Registrar, Chaudhary Charan Singh University, Meerut to which the Degree College was affiliated. It is also case of the petitioner that her application form was also duly signed by the Secretary of the institution and also Deputy Registrar of the University.

According to the counsel for the petitioner experience as required under the Rules is for teaching Intermediate or higher classes in a recognised institution. There is no requirement of teaching in an aided institution or government institution. Reliance has been placed upon number of decisions of this Court and also the Apex Court in the case of-

1. Mohd. Altaf (1) and others vs. U.P. Public Service Commission and another, reported in (2008)14 Supreme Court Cases 139,

2. Mohd. Altaf (3) and others vs. U.P. Public Service Commission and another, reported in (2008) 14 Supreme Court Cases 146, and

3. Dr. Deepak Bhatiya and others vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2010(1) AWC 48, to the effect that teachers who have experience in an unaided institution or non governmental institution, but have been regularly teaching, cannot be excluded as the qualifications no where prescribes that experience should be in aided institution or government institution."

21. The same learned Single Judge vide judgment and order dated 7th March, 2014 passed in Writ-A NO. 14349 of 2014 (Dr. Om Prakash Pandey Vs. State of U.P. & Another, has noticed as follows:

"The learned Single Judge has found that the Apex Court in the case of Mohd. Altaf & Ors. vs. Public Service Commission & Anr. In Civil Appeal No.961- 962 of 1999 as also in Contempt Petition (c) No.372/2002 in Civil Appeal No.962/1999, Shamim Khanam vs. K.B. Pandey and another, had taken a view that teachers working in self-financed institution cannot, as a class, be excluded from consideration. The judgment of the Apex Court was followed by this Court in the case of Dr. Deepak Bhatia vs. State of U.P. and others, 2010(5) ESC 3498 and this Court has held that no distinction can be made in respect of the education recognised by U.P. Board of Secondary Education or the institutions recognised by the C.B.S.E. Or the I.C.S.E. Boards and experience earned by the candidates in self-financed institution are to be taken into consideration."

Another Single Judge while deciding Writ Petition No. 29000 of 2013 Dr. Madhulika Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others has held as under:

"The issue relating to experience in a self financed Intermediate college has already been resolved by the decision of this court in the case of Dr. Deepak Bhatiya and others Vs. State of U.P. and others, writ petition no. 2842 of 2010, decided on 15.7.2010. A copy of the said judgment is annexure 10 to the writ petition.

Apart from this, the ratio of the decision in the case of Dr. Madhulika Singh the petitioner herself in writ petition no. 14582 of 2012 relies on the ratio of a Supreme Court decision in relation to experience.

The petitioner's experience certificate of teaching in a Girls Degree College is on record and her appointment order in the degree college dated 23.1.2004 is Annexure 5 to the writ petition.

A perusal of the said appointment order indicates that the petitioner was appointed on a fixed honoraria basis after approval of the Vice Chancellor of the University. In such circumstances, the said appointment cannot be said to be an appointment either de-hors the rules or not in accordance with law so as to disentitle the petitioner to get the said period of experience counted for the purpose of selection.

The petitioner has described herself as a full time teacher supported by a certificate from the institution. Payment of a fixed honoraria is not necessarily an indicator of full time or part-time experience. Receipt of emoluments are not a substitute for experience.

A teacher getting a fixed salary at times is more devoted towards performance than those who have secured permanent berths. The experience of a teacher in a particular subject can be gauged by performance and the status of involvement in the institution, and not on some subjective assumption. However the genuineness of such experience, like in the present case, would also have to be assessed by the nature of engagement. In the present case the petitioner claims her status of a teacher in a degree college upon approval by the Vice Chancellor of a recognized University.

So far as her experience as a teacher in an Intermediate College is concerned, that experience has also to be examined in accordance with the modes of appointment in an unaided Inter College.

In both cases payment of honoraria cannot be the criteria of rejection of experience. Merely because a teacher has received lower emoluments, though working on an equivalent post, cannot be the ground to reject a candidature. The judgments referred to hereinabove have to be taken into account that relies on the Apex Court decision in the case of Mohd. Altaf and others Vs. U.P. Public Service Commission and another reported in 2008(14) SCC 139; 2008 (14) SCC 144; 2008 (14) SCC 146 and 2002 (93) FLR 1208.

It is expected that the Board shall now consider the matter more objectively. Thus the reasons given in the impugned order dated 13.3.2013 cannot be sustained. The impugned order is quashed.

The writ petition is allowed with a direction to the respondent Board to consider the experience of the petitioner in the light of observations made hereinabove and pass an appropriate order within six weeks."

22. Lastly, this Court finds substance in the submission made by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the impugned decision has been taken by the Regional Level Committee refusing to accord financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner on the post of principal without affording any opportunity of hearing to the petitioner and the respondent-Committee of Management, which has offered appointment letter to the petitioner. Therefore, the same hits Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India, as the same has been made in violation of principles of natural justice.

23. Thus, for the parameter and reasons noted above, this Court is of the considered opinion that the impugned decision taken by the Regional Level Committee, Prayagraj/Allahabad Region, Prayagraj dated 4th September, 2015, which has been communicated by the Regional Joint Director of Education, Prayagraj/Allahabad Region, Prayagraj vide letter dated 4th September, 2015 as also by the District Inspector of Schools, Fatehpur vide letter dated 7th January, 2016 to the respondent-Committee of Management cannot be legally sustained and is hereby quashed. This matter is remitted back to the Regional Level Committee, Prayagraj/Allahabad Region, Prayagraj for decision afresh qua financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner on the post of the principal of the institution of which relevant papers have been sent by the respondent-Committee of Management. While deciding this matter afresh, the Regional Level Committee, Prayagraj/Allahabad Region, Prayagraj shall pass a reasoned and speaking order, in accordance with the provisions of U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and its rules and regulations framed thereunder as also in light of the observations made above, preferably within three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

24. The present writ petition is allowed subject to the observations made above.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Anurag Varma, learned Additional Government Advocate, on behalf of revisionist-State, as well as Mr. Sunil Kumar Singh, learned counsel for respondent, and gone through the entire record.

2. This criminal revision under Section 397(1)/497 CrPC has been filed on behalf of the State having been aggrieved by the order dated 10th January, 2020 passed by the Special Judge, M.P. M.L.A./Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 5, Pratapgarh in Criminal Case No.2 of 2017, arising out of Crime/FIR No.0356 of 2016, under Section 143, 341 and 186 IPC lodged at Police Station Raniganj, District Pratapgarh, rejecting the application filed by the Public Prosecutor under Section 321 CrPC.

3. The learned trial Court has rejected the said application on the ground that the Public Prosecutor filed the application after the State Government passed an order for withdrawal from prosecution in the said case. The Public Prosecutor, in the application, had not mentioned that what facts and evidence he had considered to come to conclusion to that effect and, he had only mentioned that the order passed by the Government for withdrawing from prosecution was completely legal and in the interest of justice and, he agreed with the decision of the Government having been satisfied himself and from perusal of the record.

4. The facts of the case are that on 11.09.2016, when Sub-Inspector, Mr. Prakash Narain Yadav, In-charge of Police Station Raniganj, District Pratapgarh along with a few constables and driver of the jeep were on duty for maintaining peace in town Raniganj, Dr. R.K. Verma, M.L.A. from Vishwanathganj Constituency, Pratapgarh, along with his supporters, named in the FIR, and around 150 other supporters were sitting on National Highway, staging a protest and, they had blocked the National Highway. They were raising slogans and, were not allowing vehicles to ply on the National Highway. It was said that despite efforts made by the police officers/officials to remove the blockage from the National Highway, the accused, named in the FIR, and supporters of the M.L.A. did not agree and, they became aggressive and, demanded that higher officials should come on the site. It was also said that due to blockage of National Highway there was a jam on both sides of the Highway for kilometers as a result thereof passengers had to face great difficulties, ambulances, carrying patients, were not allowed to ply. This resulted in disturbances of public order. Considering the situation, higher officials, along with force, came there, however, Dr. R.K. Verma and his supporters continued to block the National Highway from 13.10 hours to 19.30 hours on 11.09.2016. It was further said that Dr. R.K. Verma and his supporters had committed offence under Sections 143, 341 and 186 IPC, which should be registered. On the said complaint, the FIR came to be registered.

5. In the present case the complainant is police official. The police, after investigating the offence, filed charge sheet on which cognizance was taken and the accused were summoned by the learned trial Court.

6. It appears that the Government had taken a decision vide Order No.44 WC/Sat-Nyay-5-2018-337 WC/2017 dated 19th March, 2018 whereby the Public Prosecutor had been given permission to withdraw from prosecution.

7. Pursuant to the aforesaid decision of the State Government, the Public Prosecutor had moved application dated 06.04.2018 under Section 321 CrPC to withdraw from prosecution. In the application under Section 321 CrPC the Public Prosecutor had stated that he had applied his independent mind on the facts, evidence and record of the case. It was further stated that after perusing record of the case in detail, the Public Prosecutor was in agreement with the decision taken by the Government to withdraw from prosecution and, found the decision of the Government wholly legal and in the interest of justice. It was further stated that from perusal of the evidence collected against the accused, the Public Prosecutor was of the opinion that evidence was very weak and success of the prosecution was doubtful and, it would be appropriate to withdraw from prosecution and, therefore, the application was filed in the interest of justice and in public interest.

8. As mentioned above, the learned Special Judge, vide its impugned order, has rejected the application under Section 321

CrPC on the ground that the Public Prosecutor did not state that how the evidence collected by the investigating agency was of weak quality. The Public Prosecutor had stated that he was in complete agreement with the decision taken by the Government to withdraw from prosecution, which would show that the Public Prosecutor had applied his independent mind and, decision to move the application under Section 321 CrPC had been taken by him in compliance of the decision taken by the Government, allowing him to move application for withdrawal from prosecution.

9. On behalf of the revisionist, Mr. Anurag Varma, learned Additional Government Advocate, has submitted that the question, which requires to be considered, is whether the Public Prosecutor, while moving the application under Section 321 CrPC, is required to mention in detail his analysis and reasoning for reaching to conclusion that the evidence collected by the prosecution is weak and success of the prosecution appears to be remote and doubtful or it would suffice for him to say that he has perused the case diary, material and evidence collected by the prosecution and, in his view it would be in the interest of justice and in public interest to withdraw from prosecution

10. Section 321 CrPC, as amendment made by the State of Uttar Pradesh, would read as under:-

"S. 321. Withdrawal from prosecution. The Public Prosecutor or Assistant Public Prosecutor in charge of a case may, on the written permission of the State Government to that effect (which shall be filed in Court) with the consent of the Court, at any time before the judgment is pronounced, withdraw from the prosecution of any person either generally or in respect of any one or more of the offences for which he is tried; and, upon such withdrawal,-

(a) if it is made before a charge has been framed, the accused shall be discharged in respect of such offence or offences;

(b) if it is made after a charge has been framed, or when under this Code no charge is required, he shall be acquitted in respect of such offence or offences:

Provided that where such offence-

(i) was against any law relating to a matter to which the executive power of the Union extends, or

(ii) was investigated by the Delhi Special Police Establishment under the Delhi Special Police Establishment Act, 1946 (25 of 1946), or

(iii) involved the misappropriation or destruction of, or damage to, any property belonging to the Central Government, or

(iv) was committed by a person in the service of the Central Government while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, and the Prosecutor in charge of the case hag hot been appointed by the Central Government, he shall not, unless he hag been permitted by the Central Government to do so, move the Court for its consent to withdraw from the prosecution and the Court shall, before according consent, direct the Prosecutor to produce before it the permission granted by the Central Government to withdraw from the prosecution."

11. Thus, an application under Section 321 CrPC can be moved by the Public Prosecutor in the State of Uttar Pradesh only on written permission of the State Government to that effect.

12. The scope of Section 321 Cr.P.C., ambit of power and manner in which it has to be exercised by the Public Prosecutor have been dealt with in several decisions by the Supreme Court. Only a few decisions rendered by the Supreme Court would be apt to quote here to throw light on the scope of Section 321 Cr.P.C. and ambit and manner of exercise of the power by the Public Prosecutor under the aforesaid section. Ultimate authority to allow withdrawal from prosecution vests with the Court and the guiding consideration must always be interest of administration of justice when deciding the question whether prosecution should be allowed to be withdrawn or not.

"5.....Therefore when the Additional Sessions Judge made the impugned order, there was no material before him to warrant the conclusion that sufficient evidence would not be forthcoming to sustain the charges or that there was any reliable subsequent information falsifying the prosecution case or any other circumstance justifying withdrawal of the case against the respondents. Consenting to the withdrawal of the case on the view that the attitude displayed by the prosecution made it "futile" to refuse permission does not certainly serve the administration of justice. If the material before the Additional Sessions Judge was considered sufficient to enable him to frame the charges against the respondents, it is not possible to say that there was no evidence in support of the Prosecution case. The application for stay of the proceeding made before the committing Magistrate cannot also be said to falsify the prosecution case. If the prosecuting agency brings before the court sufficient material to indicate that the prosecution was based on false evidence, the court would be justified in consenting to the withdrawal of the prosecution, but on the record of the case, as it is, we do not find any such justification....."

14. In Balwant Singh and others Versus State of Bihar (1977) 4 SCC 448, the Supreme Court, while considering the role of the Public Prosecutor while moving an application for withdrawal from prosecution, has dealt upon the consideration which must weigh for moving such an application. The Public Prosecutor must keep in mind the administration of justice inasmuch as he is discharging the statutory responsibility and while discharging the statutory responsibility the only factor, which should be considered, is administration of justice and nothing else. Relevant portion of paragraph-2 is reproduced hereinbelow:-

"2. .....The statutory responsibility for deciding upon withdrawal squarely vests on the public prosecutor. It is non-negotiable and cannot be bartered away in favour of those who may be above him on the administrative side. The Criminal Procedure Code is the only matter of the public prosecutor and he has to guide himself with reference to Criminal Procedure Code only. So guided, the consideration which must weigh with him is, whether the broader cause of public justice will be advanced or retarded by the withdrawal or continuance of the prosecution. As we have already explained, public justice may be a much wider conception than the justice in a particular case. Here, the Public Prosecutor is ordered to move for withdrawal....."

15. In Sheonandan Paswan Versus State of Bihar and others (1983) 1 SCC 438, the Supreme Court has held that before an application is moved under Section 321 Cr.P.C., the Public Prosecutor needs to apply his mind to the facts of the case independently, without being influenced by outside factors. Relevant paragraphs, on reproduction, read as under:-

"85. In our opinion, the object of Section 321 Cr.P.C. appears to be to reserve power to the Executive Government to withdraw any criminal case on larger grounds of public policy such as inexpediency of prosecutions for reasons of State; broader public interest like maintenance of law and order; maintenance of public peace and harmony, social, economic and political; changed social and political situation; avoidance of destabilization of a stable government and the like. And such powers have been, in our opinion, rightly reserved for the Government; for, who but the Government is in the know of such conditions and situations prevailing in a State or in the country? The Court is not in a position to know such situations.

134. The statutory responsibility for deciding upon withdrawal squarely rests upon the Public Prosecutor. It is non-negotiable and cannot be bartered away. The court's duty in dealing with the application under Section 321 is not to reappreciate the grounds which led the Public Prosecutor to request withdrawal from the prosecution but to consider whether the Public Prosecutor applied his mind as a free agent un-influenced by irrelevant and extraneous or oblique considerations as the court has a special duty in this regard inasmuch as it is the ultimate repository of legislative confidence in granting or withholding its consent to withdrawal from prosecution. The court's duty is to see in furtherance of justice that the permission is not sought on grounds extraneous to the interest of justice."

16. The Supreme Court has also dealt with in a catena of decisions the manner in which an application for withdrawal from prosecution moved by the Public Prosecutor needs to be considered by the Court.

17. In State of Punjab Versus Union of India and others (1986) 4 SCC 335, the Supreme Court has held that while granting permission to the Public Prosecutor for withdrawal from prosecution, the Court needs to be satisfied itself that the Public Prosecutor has properly exercised statutory function and has not attempted to interfere with the normal course of justice for ulterior purposes. The administration of criminal justice should be the touchstone on which the application under Section 321 Cr.P.C. needs to be decided. Relevant portion of paragraph-1, on reproduction, reads as under:-

"1. ..... The ultimate guiding consideration while granting a permission to withdraw from the prosecution must always be the interest of administration of justice and that is the touchstone on which the question must be determined whether the prosecution should be allowed to withdraw. The Public Prosecutor may withdraw from the prosecution of a case not merely on the ground of paucity of evidence but also in order to further the broad ends of public justice, and such broad ends of public justice may well include appropriate social, economic and political purposes."

18. Similar views have been reiterated in Sheonandan Paswan Versus State of Bihar and others (1987) 1 SCC 288 by the Supreme Court. Paragraph-73, on reproduction, reads as under:-

"73. Section 321 gives the Public Prosecutor the power for withdrawal of any case at any stage before judgment is pronounced. This presupposes the fact that the entire evidence may have been adduced in the case, before the application is made. When an application under Section 32I Cr.P.C. is made, it is not necessary for the court to assess the evidence to discover whether the case would end in conviction or acquittal. To contend that the court when it exercises its limited power of giving consent under Section 32I has to assess the evidence and find out whether the case would end in acquittal or conviction, would be to rewrite Section 321 Cr.P.C. and would be to concede to the court a power which the scheme of Section 321 does not contemplate. The acquittal or discharge order under Section 321 are not the same as the normal final orders in criminal cases. The conclusion will not be backed by a detailed discussion of the evidence in the case of acquittal or absence of prima facie case or groundlessness in the case of discharge. All that the court has to see is whether the application is made in good faith, in the interest of public policy and justice and not to thwart or stifle the process of law. The court, after considering these facets of the case, will have to see whether the application suffers from such improprieties or illegalities as to cause manifest injustice if consent is given. In this case, on a reading of the application for withdrawal, the order of consent and the other attendant circumstances, I have no hesitation to hold that the application for withdrawal and the order giving consent were proper and strictly within the confines of Section 321 Cr.P.C."

19. In S.K. Shukla and others Versus State of U.P. and others (2006) 1 SCC 314, the Supreme Court has held that the Public Prosecutor cannot work like a post box. He needs to act objectively being an officer of the Court and it is always open to the Court to reject the prayer if it is not guided in the interest of administration of justice. Relevant portion of paragraph-32, on reproduction, reads as under:-

"32. .....The Public Prosecutor cannot act like a postbox or act on the dictates of the State Government. He has to act objectively as he is also an officer of the court. At the same time the court is also not bound by that. The courts are also free to assess whether a prima face case is made or not. The court, if satisfied, can also reject the prayer."

20. In Vijaykumar Baldev Mishra alias Sharma Versus State of Maharashtra (2007) 12 SCC 687 the Supreme Court has held as under:-

"12. Section 321 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 provides for withdrawal from prosecution at the instance of the public prosecutor or Assistant public prosecutor. Indisputably therefor the consent of the Court is necessary. Application of mind on the part of the Court, therefore, is necessary in regard to the grounds for withdrawal from the prosecution in respect of any one or more of the offences for which the appellant is tried. The provisions of TADA could be attracted only in the event of one or the other of the four 'things' specified in Nalini (supra) is found applicable and not otherwise. The Review Committee made recommendations upon consideration of all relevant facts. It came to its opinion upon considering the materials on record. Its recommendations were based also upon the legality of the charges under TADA in the fact situation obtaining in each case. It came to the conclusion that in committing the purported offence, the appellant inter alia had no intention to strike terror in people or any section of the people and in fact the murder has been committed only in view of group rivalry and because the parties intended to take revenge, the provisions of the TADA should not have been invoked.

13. The Public Prosecutor in terms of the statutory scheme laid down under the Code of Criminal Procedure plays an important role. He is supposed to be an independent person. While filing such an application, the public prosecutor also is required to apply his own mind and the effect thereof on the society in the event such permission is granted."

21. In Rahul Agarwal Versus Rakesh Jain and another (2005) 2 SCC 377, the Supreme Court has held that while considering an application moved under Section 321 Cr.P.C., the Court should consider all relevant circumstances and find out whether the withdrawal from prosecution advances the cause of justice. The withdrawal can be permitted only when the case is likely to end in an acquittal and continuance of the case would only cause severe harassment to the accused. Relevant para-10 is extracted hereunder:-

"10. From these decisions as well as other decisions on the same question, the law is very clear that the withdrawal of prosecution can be allowed only in the interest of justice. Even if the Government directs the Public Prosecutor to withdraw the prosecution and an application is filed to that effect, the court must consider all relevant circumstances and find out whether the withdrawal of prosecution would advance the cause of justice. If the case is likely to end in an acquittal and the continuance of the case is only causing severe harassment to the accused, the court may permit withdrawal of the prosecution. If the withdrawal of prosecution is likely to bury the dispute and bring about harmony between the parties and it would be in the best interest of justice, the court may allow the withdrawal of prosecution. The discretion under Section 321, Code of Criminal Procedure is to be carefully exercised by the court having due regard to all the relevant facts and shall not be exercised to stifle the prosecution which is being done at the instance of the aggrieved parties or the State for redressing their grievance. Every crime is an offence against the society and if the accused committed an offence, society demands that he should be punished. Punishing the person who perpetrated the crime is an essential requirement for the maintenance of law and order and peace in the society. Therefore, the withdrawal of the prosecution shall be permitted only when valid reasons are made out for the same."

"116. In view of above, the Public Prosecutor is the final authority to apply mind and take a decision whether an application for withdrawal of a criminal case is to be moved or not. For that, option is open to him to receive necessary instructions or information from the Government to make up mind on the basis of material made available. The Public

Prosecutor cannot act like post box or at the dictate of the State Government. He has to act objectively as he is also an officer of the court. It is also open for the appropriate Government to issue appropriate instruction to him but he has to act objectively with regard to the withdrawal of cases. But the instruction sent by the government shall not be binding and it is the Public Prosecutor who has to take a decision independently without any political favour or party pressure or like concerns. The sole object of the Public Prosecutor is the interest of administration of justice. Power conferred on Public Prosecutor to take independent decision for the interest of administration of justice is not negotiable and cannot be bartered away in favour of those who may be above him on administrative side. He is stood to be guided by letter and spirit of Code of Criminal Procedure only and not otherwise. Neither the Public Prosecutor nor the Magistrate can surrender their discretion while exercising power at their end.

117. Similarly, the Court has duty to protect the administration of criminal justice against possible abuse or misuse by the executive by resort of the provisions contained in Section 321 Cr.P.C. The court has to record a finding that the application moved by Public Prosecutor is in the interest of administration of justice and there is no abuse or misuse of power by the Public Prosecutor or the Government. In case an application is allowed, it must be recorded by the Court that the application has been moved in good faith to secure the ends of justice and not in political or vested interest. The court has final say in the matter and the decision should be free and fair with independent exercise of mind in the interest of public policy and justice. It must ensure that the application is not moved to thwart or stifle the process of law or suffers from such improprieties or illegalities as to cause manifest injustice if consent is given."

23. In the present case, from reading of contents of the application moved by the Public Prosecutor, it is evident that the Public Prosecutor filed application under Section 321 CrPC in good faith and, after careful consideration of the material placed before him. The Public Prosecutor has stated in the application that he has considered the evidence collected by the prosecuting agency which appears to be weak and success of the prosecution is not bright. It has been further submitted that the application has been moved in good faith, in the interest of justice as well as in public interest. The present case, in which the application has been moved, has political overtone. The case got registered in relation to the political activity of the accused. The nature of offence, allegedly committed by the accused is of trivial in nature. The prosecution has remained pending for quite some time before the Court. In view thereof, the Government had taken a decision to withdraw from prosecution and had given consent to the Public Prosecutor, after considering the material, as mentioned above, to move application.

24. The Court, while considering the application under Section 321 CrPC, is required to consider whether the withdrawal from prosecution would further cause of justice or not and, whether it would be in the interest of justice to allow the withdrawal from prosecution. The application should show that the Public Prosecutor has applied his independent mind, on the basis of the material placed before him, including the evidence collected by the prosecution during the course of investigation. It is not required for him to give in detail reasoning in the application regarding analysis of every evidence available on file. If, he is of considered opinion that success of the prosecution appears to be weak and, the withdrawal from prosecution would further the cause of justice and it would be in the public interest, it cannot be said that the Public Prosecutor has not applied his independent mind.

25. Considering the law on the subject as well as the facts and circumstances of the case, this Court does not agree with the finding recorded by the trial Court that the Public Prosecutor had not applied his independent mind, but he was guided by the State Government decision to withdraw from prosecution and, the impugned finding does not appear to be correct one. The application dated 06.04.2018 under Section 321 CrPC filed by the Public Prosecutor would suggest that the had applied his independent mind and considered facts, material and evidence in the case. This Court is of the considered view that the view of the trial Court is not correct one and, therefore, the impugned order dated 10.01.2020 is hereby set-aside. The revision stands allowed. The application dated 06.04.2018 filed under Section 321 CrPC by the Public Prosecutor is allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Narendra Kumar Johari, J.)

1. The present government appeal has been filed by the State seeking leave to appeal against the judgment and order dated 22.06.1985, passed by learned IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Meerut in S.T. No.577/1983 (State Vs. Sahab Singh and others), arising out of Case Crime No. 4 of 1983, under Sections 147, 148, 323, 324, 307, 302 IPC, Police Station Chhaprauli, District Meerut. By the impugned judgment and order, learned trial court acquitted the accused-respondents Sahab Singh, Charan Singh, Dharamvir, Dhara Singh and Shri Pal for the offence punishable under Sections 323/149, 302/149, 147 IPC.

2. In brief, the case of the prosecution was that the informant Mahak Singh lodged an F.I.R. in Police Station Chhaprauli, District Meerut on 12.01.1983 at 18.10 hours stating that informant along with his brother Satyapal Singh was returning from his sugar cane field on 12.01.1983 at about 3.00 P.M. On the way, as he reached near the sugarcane field of Zilley Singh, the accused persons Sahab Singh, Charan Singh, Dharamvir, Dhara Singh and Shri Pal, who were hidden in the sugar cane harvest of Zilley Singh's field, came out from the filed caught Satyapal Singh and started assaulting him. All the accused persons had beaten him badly using the weapons Lathies and Kharpali (a sharp edged weapon). Informant, who was also returning from his field and following Satyapal Singh from some distance, seeing the occurrence, ran towards them by raising alarm to rescue his brother. Looking his activities accused Saheb Singh attacked on him with Danda. Having heard the voice of informant, Ranvir, Chandan and Baljeet, who were present in their fields, moved towards the place of occurrence to save them. As the witnesses reached on the spot, accused persons made their escape good. The accused persons had attacked on his brother, due to old enmity.

3. Injured/victim Satyapal was brought from the place of occurrence to his house by bullock cart and thereafter to Police Station by bus. The police registered F.I.R. on the basis of above written Tehreer, scribe by Krishna Pal Singh. The Investigating Officer, considering the serious condition of injured, recorded the statement of Satya Pal Singh under Section 161 Cr.P.C. at Police Station. Thereafter, the injured Satyapal Singh was sent to Chaprauli Hospital for treatment. Since the doctor was not available there, hence the injured moved to Primary Health Center, Baraut from Chaprauli, but on the way, injured Satyapal Singh succumbed to his injuries. Injured Mahak Singh got medically examined at Primary Health Center, Baraut at about 10.10 P.M.

4. Pursuant to the F.I.R., investigation of the case was entrusted to Station Officer Rajendra Singh, who prepared the Inquest report, send the dead body of Satyapal Singh for Post Mortem, inspected the spot, sketched the site map and recorded statement of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. The Investigating Officer also collected the blood stained and plain soil from the place of occurrence. On the pointing out of the accused Sahab Singh, the Investigating Officer recovered three blood stained lathies from the Gher of his residential house, prepared the Fard and submitted the police report under Section 173 (2) Cr.P.C. before the Court concerned against all the accused persons.

5. Learned trial court framed the charges under Section 323 read with 149, 302 read 149 and 147 IPC against accused persons, who denied and abjured the charges, pleaded not guilty and preferred the trial.

6. On behalf of the prosecution Mahak Singh as PW 1, Chandan Singh as PW 2, Pheru as PW 3, Baljit as PW 4, Kalu Ram S/o Hardan Singh as PW 5, Dr. T. Raj Sharma as PW 6, Dr. V.P. Gupta as PW 7, Constable Sohanpal Singh as PW 8, Constable Budh Prakash as PW 9, R.S. Kaushik as PW 10 and constable Sukhpal

Singh as PW 11 have recorded their evidence.

7. PW 1, Informant Mahak Singh, has corroborated the F.I.R. version in his evidence and submitted that he was the eye witness of the occurrence. At the time of attack, accused Dhara Singh was having Kharpali in his hand and other accused persons were carrying Lathies. They started beating Satya Pal with the weapons which were carried by them in their hands. At that time, he was approximately 25 steps behind his brother. Having seen the occurrence he shouted the voice for help. After sustaining the injuries, Satya Pal had fallen down. Informant also received injuries of Lathi/Danda and had fallen down on earth due to his injuries. After occurrence, Mahipal carried them at his residence by bullock cart. Informant dictated his application to Krishna Pal and handed over the application/Tehreer to Police. They were sent by Police to Chaprauli Hospital for treatment but the doctor was not available there. Thereafter, they were carried to Baraut Hospital. On the way, injured Satya Pal succumbed to the injuries sustained by him. At Baraut Hospital, informant got medically examined. The witness also discribed about the motive of occurrence that approximately 8 months prior to the occurrence his brother Satya Pal was coming with bullock cart. Accused Dhara Singh was also coming behind him by a tractor and was trying to overtake the bullock cart of Satya Pal but he could not succeed. Due to the above reason some quarrel took place between accused Dhara and Satya Pal and for the aforesaid reason accused Dhara developed the enmity with Satya Pal. Co-accused persons Sahab Singh, Dharamvir and Charan Singh are the sons of accused Dhara Singh and Shri Pal is his nephew.

8. PW 2 Chandan Singh has stated in his oral evidence that on the date of occurrence, upon hearing the voice of informant, he reached on the spot and had seen that accused Dhara, with Kharpali and other accused persons with lathies were beating Satya Pal. When Mahak Singh (informant) intervened and tried to rescue his brother, he was also beaten by lathies. The injured Satya Pal was taken to his village by bullock cart.

9. PW 3 Feru deposed that approximately 7-8 months prior to the murder of Satyapal, the witness was going towards his field with Ranveer. On the way, he saw that Satyapal was coming with Buggi (bullock cart), behind him accused Dhara was coming by his tractor. Satyapal had carried paddy in his bullock cart. Dhara was saying to give him pass but Satyapal refused as the passage was as narrow as there was no proper room to overtake the bullock cart. Due to the reason some hot talk took place in between them and also they scuffled. The witness PW 3 and Ranveer interfered and mediated to subside the dispute. Thereafter, both the persons moved towards the village abusing one another.

10. Witness PW 4 Baljeet Singh deposed that on the date of occurrence when the accused persons were beating Satyapal by Khaprali and lathies, the witness reached on the spot. He had also seen that accused Sahab Singh gave lathi blow to Mahak Singh also. He also stated that Satyapal had received several injuries which have caused profused bleeding.

11. Kalu Ram who had been examined by the prosecution as PW-5 has stated that on 12.01.1983 Investigating Officer/S.I. had recorded the statement of injured Satyapal in his presence. He further stated that injured had described the details of occurrence, name of accused persons and weapons to S.I. who recorded the statement and read over the same to injured. The witness further had stated that he also signed the statement as witness. The witness PW 5 had verified his signature on dying declaration and proved the same.

12. PW 6 Dr. T. Raj Sharma deposed and proved the Post Mortem Report of deceased Satyapal. This witness had conducted autopsy of deceased Satyapal. He had found approximately 10 injuries on the body of deceased Satyapal and stated that all the injuries sustained by deceased were sufficient, in normal course, to cause death. The incised wounds have been caused by Kharpali and contusions as a result of Lathi blows.

13. As according to the postmortem report, in autopsy the injuries found on the body of deceased Satya Pal were as under :-

"(i) Multiple contusion in right side of arm, forearm and in palm in area of 58 cm. x 16 cm. extended from 9 cm. below right shoulder joint to base of all the fingers with fracture of radial bone.

(ii) Multiple incised wound in dorsal surface right arm in area of 8 cm. x 1.5 cm. measuring from 2 cm. x .5 cm x muscle deep to 1 cm. x .5 cm. x muscle deep just above the right elbow joint.

(iii) Multiple contusion in back of right side of gluteal region in area of 36 cm. x 30 cm. at the middle of right gluteal region.

(iv) Multiple contusion in back and front of right side thigh leg and foot in area of 50 cm. x 18 cm., 30 cm. below the right hip joint.

(v) Multiple incised wound in front of right side of leg in area of 7 cm. x 2 cm. measuring from 2.5 cm. x 0.5 cm. into bone deep to 1.5 cm. X .5 cm. into muscle deep 10 cm. above the right ankle joint.

(vi) Multiple contusion in back and front of left side of leg and ankle in area of 24 cm. x 18 cm., 8 cm. below the left knee joint.

14. PW 7 Dr. V.P. Gupta proved the injury report of informant Mahak Singh and stated that he had inspected the injuries of Mahak Singh and had prepared his medical examination report.

15. The medical examination report of injured Mahak Singh evidents that he had undergone medical examination on 12.01.1983 at 7:10 p.m. at P.H.C., Baraut, where following injuries had been found on his body:-

"1. Red contusion upon right forearm middle on flexor aspect 3 cm. x 2 cm. It is 14 cm. above from merist of right.

2. Abrasion on right deltoid region 3 cm. x .5 cm. long. It is 8 cm. below from top of right shoulder.

3. Lenear abrasion on back middle on both sides 11 cm. x 1 cm. long. It is transverse in line. It is 19 cm. below from top of reverth and clavicle vertibre."

As according to the Doctor's opinion, the injuries were simple in nature and caused by some hard object. The duration of injuries were fresh.

16. PW 8 Constable Sohanpal Singh stated that he had prepared the Chik report and G.D. entry on the basis of Tehrir given by informant Mahak Singh at Police Station Chhaprauli.

17. PW 9 Constable Budh Prakash deposed that he had carried the dead body along with relevant papers to doctor for post mortem.

18. PW 10 S.I. Shri R.S. Kaushik deposed that he had prepared the inquest report of the deceased and sent the dead body to P.H.C. Bagpat for post mortem through constable Budh Prakash and Veersen.

19. PW -11 Constable Sukhpal Singh, in absence of Investigating Officer, proved the investigation proceedings, (which were carried by Investigating Officer Rajendra Singh), the hand writing of Constable Sohan Pal (who had prepared the Chik report and made the G.D. entry) and the recovery memos of three blood stained lathies and soils blood stained as well as plain.

20. After conclusion of prosecution evidence, the trial court recorded the statements of accused persons under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which the accused persons denied their implication in the offence, stated that the witnesses had given false evidence against them. They further stated that they had been implicated in the case due to Partiandi of the village. They denied the facts mentioned in the F.I.R., oral as well as documentary evidence of prosecution. They also denied the factum of recovery of lathies. No oral evidence has been produced as defence witness, in support of their defence.

21. After considering the facts and circumstances as well as the evidence on record, learned Trial court acquitted the accused persons from the charges levelled against them. Aggrieved by the acquittal of accused persons, the prosecution preferred the instant appeal before this Court.

22. Learned A.G.A. submitted that the trial court has committed material illegality in acquitting the accused/respondents from the charges. Learned trial Court did not appreciate the evidence in accordance with the legal principles. The prosecution had succeeded in proving the guilt of accused persons, that too, without any shadow of doubt. There were injured witness as well as eye witness account of the occurrence. There was consistency in prosecution evidence. Since Satya Pal had died before the medical treatment, therefore, his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. deserve to be treated as his dying declaration, and was liable to be considered as trustworthy. The F.I.R. version is supported by the statement of reliable witnesses as well as documentary evidence including medical evidence. In the light of evidence of eye witnesses, if the Investigating Officer has not come forward to record his evidence, that can not cause any adverse effect on the prosecution case.

Learned trial court has wrongly interpreted the above points and acquitted the accused persons from the charges. Hence, the judgment and order passed by the trial court, being based on surmises and conjuncture, is liable to be set aside and instant appeal deserves to be allowed. The accused persons be punished for the crime committed.

23. In reply, learned counsel for the accused-respondents, referring the findings of trial court, submitted that the prosecution witnesses were not reliable. There were discrepancies in documentary as well as oral evidence of witnesses. Motive of the occurrence has not been proved. There is subsequent improvement in the prosecution evidence. Dying declaration has not been recorded in accordance with law. The manner, by which, it was recorded by the Investigating Officer makes it inadmissible in evidence. The Investigating Officer has not been produced by prosecution to adduce his evidence and the Chik writer has not completed his cross examination. The evidence of PW 11 was not admissible. Taking into consideration the above inherent defects, the trial court has rightly acquitted the accused persons as the prosecution had failed to prove the charges of offence against the accused persons. There is no illegality or infirmity in the judgment of the trial court. The instant appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

24. We have heard the arguments of both the sides and perused the record thoroughly. The appellate court is competent and has jurisdiction to reassess the evidence on record in the light of facts and circumstances of the case.

25. The FIR of the occurrence has been lodged at Police Station Chhaprauli, District Meerut on 12.01.1983 at 18:10 hours for the offence which took place on the same day at 3:00 p.m. The distance from the place of occurrence to police station has been shown as 6 miles. It has also been shown that after the occurrence, the injured persons were brought at his residence by bullock cart first. As according to evidence of PW-1 the distance from place of occurrence to his residence was approximately 6-4 furlong, then after that by Bus the victim was brought to Police Station. Taking into consideration the severity of injuries, distance and mode of transportation, in the absence of any evidence otherwise, it can be concluded that the FIR of the offence was lodged with due promptness and without any unnecessary/undue delay.

26. Learned A.G.A. has submitted that prosecution had produced 11 witnesses, out of them, 5 were the witnesses of fact. Apart from that, the documentary evidence produced by prosecution, all were able to prove the case against accused persons without any shadow of doubt, but learned trial Court failed to consider the prosecution evidence in accordance with law.

27. In reply, learned counsel for the accused-respondents has submitted that witness PW-1 Mahak Singh is the real brother of deceased Satya Pal. He is family member as well as highly interested witness, therefore, learned trial court has rightly concluded that his testimony is not reliable.

28. As according to fact and evidence on record, the witness PW 1 although is real brother of deceased Satya Pal, yet at the time of occurrence, his presence alongwith Satya Pal is not doubtful. The FIR of the occurrence as well as all the prosecution witnesses have categorically shown his presence at the place of occurrence. The statement of PW 1, so far as his presence, role of accused persons and injuries sustained by him and Satya Pal are concerned, have been corroborated by oral evidences of witnesses PW 2, PW 3 and PW 7 along with his injury report and post mortem report of Satyapal, which have been proved as Exts. Ka-3 and Ka-4. Witness PW-1 had stated in his examination-in-chief that when he tried to rescue his brother, he was also beaten by Lathi Danda. He fell down in drain (Naali) due to his injuries. Doctor had medically examined him in Baraut Hospital at about 8'O clock. Witness PW 4 Baljit, who had reached at the place of occurrence hearing the alarm of PW 1 was the eye witness of occurrence. He had stated in his chief examination as well as in cross-examination that when he reached on spot he had seen that the accused at the spot had beaten Satyapal, when Mahak Singh raised an alarm to save his brother, thereafter, he too was beaten by accused Sahab Singh. The witness PW-7 Dr. V.P. Gupta, who had examined him after the occurrence and had prepared his medical examination report, has proved the same in his evidence. The witnesses PW 1, PW 4 and PW 7 had been cross-examined by counsel for defence in length but nothing otherwise could be revealed. The FIR itself, which has promptly been registered, also contains the fact that when informant Mahak Singh tried to save his brother Satya Pal, accused Sahab Singh beaten him by wooden stick (Danda). Nothing is on record which may prove that informant had not received the aforesaid injuries during the course of occurrence.

29. So far as the evidentiary value of such a relative eye witness is concerned, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Yogesh Singh Vs. Mahabeer Singh & Others AIR 2016 SC 5160 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held in para 28, which reads as under :-

"28. A survey of the judicial pronouncements of this Court on this point leads to the inescapable conclusion that the evidence of a closely related witnesses is required to be carefully scrutinised and appreciated before any conclusion is made to rest upon it, regarding the convict/accused in a given case. Thus, the evidence cannot be disbelieved merely on the ground that the witnesses are related to each other or to the deceased. In case the evidence has a ring of truth to it, is cogent, credible and trustworthy, it can, and certainly should, be relied upon. (See Anil Rai Vs. State of Bihar, (2001) 7 SCC 318; State of U.P. Vs. Jagdeo Singh, (2003) 1 SCC 456; Bhagalool Lodh & Anr. Vs. State of U.P., (2011) 13 SCC 206; Dahari & Ors. Vs. State of U. P., (2012) 10 SCC 256; Raju @ Balachandran & Ors. Vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (2012) 12 SCC 701; Gangabhavani Vs. Rayapati Venkat Reddy & Ors., (2013) 15 SCC 298; Jodhan Vs. State of M.P., (2015) 11 SCC 52) : (AIR 2015 SC (Supp) 1991)."

30. In the case of State of U.P. Vs. Jagdeo & Others (2003) 1 SCC 456, the Apex Court has held in para 7, which reads as under :-

"7. There are three eye-witnesses of the incident, that is, P.W.1 Ramraj son of the deceased Ram Lachhan, P.W.2 Firangi and P.W.4 Sudama, who is an injured witness and whose son Rajendra is the other deceased. The High Court doubted the evidence of these eye-witnesses merely on the ground that they had motive in supporting the prosecution case. Legally speaking, we are unable to accept this reasoning. Most of the times eye-witnesses happen to be family members or close associates because unless a crime is committed in a public place, strangers are not likely to be present at the time of occurrence. Ultimately, eye-witnesses have to be persons who have reason to be present on the scene of occurrence because they happen either to be friends or family members of the victim. The law is long settled that for the mere reason that an eye- witness can be said to be an interested witness, his/her testimony need not be rejected. For the interest which an eye-witness may have, the court can while considering his or her evidence exercise caution and give a reasonable discount, if required. But this surely cannot be reason to ignore the evidence of eye-witnesses. The High Court was clearly in error in not considering the evidence of eye-witnesses at all in the present case for the reason that they were interested witnesses. As seen earlier, one of the eye-witnesses in an injured person who received injuries in the incident itself. He was rather seriously injured. If he was not present at the time of occurrence, wherefrom he received the injuries, would be an obvious question. In fact, P.W.4 is also the father of the deceased Rajendra. It is common in villages that male members of a family sleep together in the open during summer season. Sleeping near the tube-well is understandable because that would lend some coolness to the atmosphere. The High Court totally ignored the other aspect of the evidence of the eye-witnesses. That is, the evidence was consistent and the version of the witnesses tallied with each other. In our view, there was no reason to discard the evidence of the eye-witnesses. This evidence is clinching and it clearly implicates the accused persons. There is no reason to doubt the veracity of the evidence of at least P.W.1 and P.W.4 and that is sufficient to convict the accused persons."

31. In the case of Munigadappa Meenaiah Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh (2008) 11 SCC 661, the Apex Court has held in para 10, which reads as under:-

"10. We shall first deal with the contention regarding interestedness of the witnesses for furthering prosecution version.

10..... Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the Court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible."

32. Also in the case of Brahma Swarup & Others Vs. State of U.P., 2004 (2) JIC 827 (All) this Court has expressed the same view.

33. In the case of Hardev Singh & Others Vs. Harbhej Singh & Others 1996 (4) Crimes 216 (SC), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the evidence of close relations who testified facts relating to occurrence be not rejected merely on ground that they happened to be relatives. Evidence of such witnesses be scrutinized very carefully.

34. In the case of State of U.P. Vs. Naresh & Others (2011) ACR 370, the Apex Court has held that mere relationship cannot be a factor to affect credibility of a witness. Evidence of a witness cannot be discarded solely on the ground of his relationship with victim of offence. Contrary to the same the finding of trial Court is perverse.

35. In the case of Surjit Singh Alias Gurmit Singh Vs. State of Punjab 1993 Supp (1) SCC 208 the Hon'ble Apex Court has held in para 9, which reads as under:-

"9. To be fair to the learned counsel for the appellant, we may mention that he ventured to argue that the evidence regarding the marrying of the crime bullet shells with the pistol recovered was not convincing, mor so when the .303 pistol, the alleged crime weapon, was recovered from Gurmit Singh, co-accused. It is noteworthy that Gurmit Singh, co-accused, stands convicted under the Arms Act for being in possession of that pistol. This aspet of the case cannot be a substitute to the eyewitness account or the plea taken by the appellant. Had the presence of the two witnesses, that is, Jaswinder Kaur PW5 the Taljit Singh PW2 at the scene of the occurrence been doubted, the recovery of the weapon of offence and its connection with the empty shells recovered at the spot would have assumed some significance. When the two eyewitnesses are natural witnesses of the crime, one being the young wife who would normally be in the company of the husband at 10.30 p.m. on a summer night and the other the newphew of the deceased who had suffered grievous injuries in the occurrence and was thus a stamped witness, not much importance is to be attached to this aspect of the case. The venture is futile."

36. In the case of Majju & Another Vs. State of M.P. 2002 SCC (Cri) 597, the Apex Court has held in para 5, which reads as under :-

"5. The counsel for the appellants contended that the evidence adduced by the prosecution was interested and therefore, it cannot be relied upon. It is important to note that the witnesses examined on the side of the prosecution were all injured in the incident. PW6 Ramchandra Sustained a grievous injury, in the sense that he lost one of his teeth. The other witnesses also sustained injuries. That is proved by the various medical certificates issued by the doctor who examined them. Therefore, the presence of these witnesses at the place of occurrence cannot be suspected. All these witnesses gave evidence to the effect that when they along with deceased Bihari Lal were coming from the temple after performing some ceremony, the accused surrounded and attacked them. We do not find any infirmity in the evidence of these witnesses."

37. In the case of Prithvi (Minor) Vs. Mam Raj & Others (2004) 13 SCC 279, the Apex Court held that the fact that eyewitness sustained serious injuries in the incident in question the Hon'ble Apex Court held that giving credence to the prosecution story that he was at the spot when the offence was committed.

38. The informant Mahak Singh (P.W. 1) was an injured witness, who had received three injuries soon after the occurrence had gone to Police Station along with the injured Satya Pal, his medical examination has been done promptly and has been proved by witness PW 7. There is no evidence regarding any deliberations or any conspiracy before lodging the FIR, against accused persons leaving real assailant/culprit, if any. Five persons have been named in the FIR as accused persons assigning role to attack on deceased and informant with Lathi, Danda and Kharpali. The deceased Satya Pal had received ten injuries. No suggestion has been given by counsel for defence to witness PW 1 in his cross examination indicating the fact showing any deliberation of PW 1 with any other person to implicate the accused persons falsely.

39. Although witness P.W. 1 is real brother of deceased yet there is no discrepancy in his evidence on the point of occurrence. A close scrutiny of evidence of P.W. 1 indicates that there is no discrepancy in his statement on the material points. Neither any contrary evidence has been produced nor any such contradiction has been pointed out in prosecution evidence, which may prove the facts otherwise or may place the ground to disbelieve the testimony of injured witness PW 1. Hence, in the facts and circumstances of the case, the statement of witness PW 1, who is injured eye witness, is trustworthy and reliable. The contrary finding of the trial court on the above point is perverse and against the evidence on record.

40. Learned counsel for the accused-respondents has argued that prosecution witnesses were failed to prove the prosecution case against the accused-respondents. The statements of prosecution witnesses are not corroborating the prosecution version rather there are contradictions and improvements. The FIR as well as statement of injured Satya Pal, which was recorded by the I.O. under Section 161 Cr.P.C. had not shown that amongst accused persons who had carried Lathis and who had carried Kharpali, this fact is subsequent development. The statement of PW 1 that accused Dhara had attacked Satyapal by Kharpali, that too is improvement, hence, learned trial court rightly concluded it improvement and discrepancy, accordingly, the statement of PW 1 is not admissible.

41. It reveals from the record that at the time of submission of written Tahreer for FIR, the informant and Satya Pal both were having injuries on their body. Satya Pal had received a number of grievous and fatal injuries including incised wounds, which had resulted excessive bleeding. At that time his general condition also was not good. The fact is also on record that within few hours from recording his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. the injured was expired before getting any medical aid, hence in such a situation, omission of all the detail is not unnatural. His injuries were corroborated by his post mortem report. The informant was of tender age with rustic background, therefore, in such panic situation, the omission to mention the kind of weapons, which were carried by each of the accused persons in their hands is quite probable. Although, in his cross-examination, he had explained that he had dictated scribe to mention the aforesaid fact in Tehreer that accused Dhara was carrying Kharpali in his hand and he do not know why the scriber has not mentioned the said fact in FIR. The law is well settled that FIR is not a chronicle of the exhaustive details of occurrence. A prompt FIR does not require to have mention each and every details of occurrence. The purpose of FIR is to request for initiation of investigation, it cannot be encyclopedia. In the case State of U.P. Vs. Munesh, 2013 Cr.L.J., 194, in paragraph no. 13, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"13. Though it is stated that all the details as spoken to by Pws 1, 2 and 3 were not mentioned in the FIR, as rightly observed by the trial Court, FIR is not an encyclopedia. It is just an intimation of the occurrence of an incident and it need not contain all the facts related to the said incident."

42. In the case of State of U.P. Vs. Harban Sahai and Others, 1998 SCC (Crl) 1412, the legal principles has been laid down in paragraph no. 8, which is as follows:-

"8. The aforesaid criterion is the result of a strained reasoning. It is understood that Kanta without sharp projection at the end would be a mere stick or lathi. If the nephew of the deceased mentioned in the FIR that the assailants were armed with lathis and guns there is no reason to conclude that the information when he gave first information had ruled out the possibility of Kanta being used by the assailants. FIR is not a chronicle of the exhaustive details of the occurrence, nor is it a catalogue of everything including minor particulars of the events which took place. Picking out an insignificant discrepancy regarding description of one of the weapons for jettisoning an otherwise sturdy account of the eyewitness is not a commendable approach in the evaluation of evidence."

43. In the case of Stae of U.P. Vs. Naresh and Others, [2011] A.C.R. 370, it has been held by Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no. 26, which is as follows:-

"26. The High Court has also fallen into error in giving significance to a trivial issue, namely, that in respect of the morning incident all the accused had not been named in the complaint/NCR.

It is settled legal proposition that FIR is not an encyclopedia of the entire case. It may not and need not contain all the details. Naming of the accused therein may be important but not naming of the accused in FIR may not be a ground to doubt the contents thereof in case the statement of the witness is found to be trustworthy. The court has to determine after examining the entire factual scenario whether a person has participated in the crime or has falsely been implicated. The informant fully acquainted with the facts may lack necessary skill or ability to reproduce details of the entire incident without anything missing from this. Some people may miss even the most important details in narration. Therefore, in case the informant fails to name a particular accused in the FIR, this ground alone cannot tilt the balance of the case in favour of the accused. [Vide: Rohtash v. State of Rajasthan, (2006) 12 SCC 64; and Ranjit Singh & Ors. v. State of Madhya Pradesh, JT 2010 12 SC 167]."

44. The co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Mata Baksh Singh Vs. State of U.P., 1978 Cri.L.J. N.O.C., 63 (All.), has held that FIR is not an encyclopedia of the details of the crime. It is not necessary that it should set out the minor details of the occurrence.

45. In the present case, the FIR is prompt, the prosecution version as mentioned in the FIR, is supported by medical evidence as well as oral evidence of witnesses, PW-1, PW-2, PW-4 and PW-5. There is no substantial inconsistency in their deposition. Therefore, in the light of aforesaid trustworthy and supporting evidence of prosecution, the view taken by learned trial court contrary to the same, is bad in the eyes of law, the above omission in the FIR and in statement of Satyapal is neither subsequent development, nor fatal for prosecution case.

46. Learned counsel for the accused-respondents has further submitted that witness PW 1 in his statement had stated that he had not gone Chhaprauli alongwith injured Satypa Pal rather he joined him at Baraut while going Baraut for medical treatment. The above part of the statement of witness creates doubt on his testimony regarding occurrence, injuries, dying declaration and FIR, why not he joined Satya Pal when he was going Chhaprauli from Police Station. Prosecution is silent on this point.

47. In reply, learned A.G.A. has submitted that according to the fact of the case and evidence available on record, there is no inconsistency that witness PW-1 received injuries in occurrence and went Police Station with Satya Pal. In Police Station there might have been many reasons for his not joining Satya Pal when he was going Chhaprauli for medical treatment. One probability is that he had to receive copy of the FIR and injury letter to doctor for medical (injury memo) or there might have non-availability of room in vehicle carrying Satya Pal to Chhaprauli. As it may be, but the witness PW-1 has not been cross-examined by defence regarding his non-joining Satya Pal, for Chhaprauli. The injuries of both the persons have been proved by medical evidence. Therefore, if informant had not joined injured Satya Pal when he was going Chapprauli for medical treatment. It does not make prosecution story and role played by accused persons doubtful. The argument of A.G.A. on above point has force.

48. Learned counsel for the accused-respondents further submitted that witness PW-2 was not the eye witness and was not present at the time of genesis of occurrence rather he reached on the place of occurrence, thereafter, at that time according to PW-2, accused had given 5-6 Lathi blows to Satya Pal, therefore, he had not seen the occurrence and his testimony is not trustworthy.

49. In reply, learned A.G.A. had submitted that the evidence of witness PW-2 should be read as a whole. If in reply of a particular question, the witness had stated that the injured had already received Lathi blows it does not give way to conclusion that the witness was not eye witness. The witness PW-2 had stated that he reached on spot hearing alarm of informant, he was at the distance at 20-30 Laththa from accused persons, he had seen that Satya Pal was lying on earth and accused were beating him. He had also narrated the action of accused persons that accused persons had not assaulted Satya Pal on his head and mouth. Satya Pal had received injuries on his body part below his neck. The injuries caused by Kharpali were on hand and leg of deceased. The part of this statement is corroborated by port-mortem report of deceased, therefore, only on the above part of statement, the entire evidence of witness PW-2 cannot be discarded. The argument of learned A.G.A. is forceful.

50. Learned counsel for the accused-respondents has further submitted that PW-4 had admitted that he had not told I.O. in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that accused Dhara Singh was carrying Kharpali in his hand but the witness had stated in his examination-in-chief that accused Dhara Singh was having Kharpali in his hand. Thus there is contradiction, which is fatal for prosecution case.

51. Taking into consideration the evidence as a whole, it reveals that the above omission in statement under Section

161 Cr.P.C. is not material. All the accused persons had constituted unlawful assembly and attacked on Satya Pal with common object. The witness has neither denied the presence of accused Dhara Singh at the place of occurrence nor specified that he was not assaulting on Satya Pal. The witness has stated in Court about role of accused Dhara Singh in his evidence. The injuries of Satya Pal indicate that he had received the injuries of sharp edged weapon also. The Doctor had opined that the incised wound has been caused by weapon like Kharpali. Other witnesses also specified the role of Dhara in their statements, therefore, mere omission to mention nature of weapon in hand of a particular accused Dhara in statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is not sufficient to discard the entire evidence of witness PW 4, particularly, when the evidence of PW-4 is corroborated by other evidence of prosecution. Witnesses PW-2 and PW-4 are eye witnesses of the occurrence, who reached on the place of occurrence hearing alarm of injured Mahak Singh and seen the occurrence. The above witnesses had been cross-examined in length by learned counsel for defence, but no substantial contradictions could be brought on record.

52. So far as the evidentiary value of the witness PW 1, an injured eye witness account is concerned, the oral testimony of above witness is supported by medical evidences. His presence on place of occurrence is certified. Regarding such an injured witness, in the case of Majju & Another Vs. State of M.P. 2002 SCC (Cri) 597, the Apex Court has held in para 5, which reads as under :-

"5. The counsel for the appellants contended that the evidence adduced by the prosecution was interested and therefore, it cannot be relied upon. It is important to note that the witnesses examined on the side of the prosecution were all injured in the incident. PW6 Ramchandra Sustained a grievous injury, in the sense that he lost one of his teeth. The other witnesses also sustained injuries. That is proved by the various medical certificates issued by the doctor who examined them. Therefore, the presence of these witnesses at the place of occurrence cannot be suspected. All these witnesses gave evidence to the effect that when they along with deceased Bihari Lal were coming from the temple after performing some ceremony, the accused surrounded and attacked them. We do not find any infirmity in the evidence of these witnesses."

53. There is no discrepancy in the statements of prosecution witnesses on material points. If some deviation in narration of facts are found, those are at the fringe and that too are bound to occur due to the reason that there was time gap in recording the evidence of witnesses, and the mental capacity/mentality of witnesses, who are illiterate and rustic. By perusal of evidence of witnesses as a whole it depicts that despite some minor discrepancies the witnesses have substantially supported the case of prosecution as mentioned in FIR. Finding of the Trial Court recorded in the impugned judgment and order on the above point is perverse and against the evidence on record. In the case of Subodh Nath And Another Vs. State of Tripura (2013) 4 SCC 122, the Apex Court has held in para 16 that :-

"16. Once we find that the eye witness account of PW-13 is corroborated by material particulars and is reliable, we cannot discard his evidence only on the ground that there are some discrepancies in the evidence of PW-1, PW- 2, PW-13 and PW-19. As has been held by this Court in State of Rajasthan v. Smt. Kalki and Another, in the deposition of witnesses there are always normal discrepancies due to normal errors of observation, loss of memory, mental disposition of the witnesses and the like. Unless, therefore, the discrepancies are "material discrepancies" so as to create a reasonable doubt about the credibility of the witnesses, the Court will not discard the evidence of the witnesses. Learned counsel for the appellants is right that the prosecution has not been able to establish the motive of the appellant no.1 to kill the deceased but as there is direct evidence of the accused having committed the offence, motive becomes irrelevant. Motive becomes relevant as an additional circumstance in a case where prosecution seeks to prove the guilt by circumstantial evidence only."

54. In the case of Marwadi Kishor Parmanand And Another Vs. State of Gujarat (1994) 4 SCC 549, the Apex Court has held in para 31, which reads as under:-

"31. The evidence of a witness deposing about a fact has to be appreciated in a realistic manner having due regard to all the surrounding facts and circumstances prevailing at or about the time of occurrence of an incident. Some contradictions and omissions even in the evidence of a witness who was actually present and had seen the occurrence are bound to occur even in the natural course*. It is a sound rule to be observed that where the facts stated by an eyewitness substantially conform to and are consistent on material points from the facts stated earlier to the police either in FIR or case diary statements and are also consistent in all material details as well as on vital points there would be no justification or any valid reason for the court to view his evidence with suspicion or cast any doubt on such evidence. In the present case as discussed above we find that the solitary witness Ranchhodbhai, PW 1 is a wholly reliable witness and his evidence in itself, without any further corroboration is enough to sustain the conviction of the two appellants for the crime they are charged with, but we find that the evidence of the sole eyewitness Ranchhodbhai finds corroboration on material aspects from the evidence of Jayantilal PW 6, Makkar PW 8, Dr Nathani PW 1 0, Dr Avasia PW 1 1, Dr Joshi PW 12 and the Head Constable Moolchand PW 18. Thus the corroboration is also not lacking in the present case and there was hardly any ground or any possibility of taking the view which is unfortunately taken by the learned trial Judge. In our considered opinion the trial court clearly fell in serious error in rejecting the truthful version made by the sole eyewitness PW 1 whose evidence does not suffer from any infirmities, much less the unwarranted criticism made by the trial court. The High Court was therefore, in exercise of its powers under Sections 378 and 386, Criminal Procedure Code, fully justified to reverse the erroneous findings recorded by the trial court. We find ourselves wholly in agreement with the view taken by the High Court and the conclusions recorded by it. Consequently the appeal deserves to be dismissed."*

55. In the case of Shivappa & Others Vs. State of Karnataka (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that some discrepancies are bound to occur in the oral statements of witnesses because of the sociological background of the witnesses as also the time gap between the date of occurrence and the date on which they give their depositions in court.

56. In the case of Hayat Singh Bora Vs. State of Uttarakhand [2012 (77) ACC 615] Uttarakhand High Court has held that variation in the testimony of witnesses if found natural, do not affect prosecution story where direct evidence is supported by medical evidence.

57. So far as the witnesses, who belong to village background and are illiterate, are concerned, it has been held in paras 34 and 39 by this Court in the case of State of U.P. Vs. Shane Haidar And Others 2015 (1) J.Cr.C. 775, which reads as under:-

"34. After an overall assessment of all the witnesses, produced by prosecution, we are of the firm view that all the witnesses are throughout cogent and consistent while deposing in court. All the factual witnesses are rustic villagers, who are bound to get confused during their cross-examination. PW-2 is an injured witness, which fact is evident from his injury report, duly proved by the Doctor. Apart from some minor contradictions nothing has been elicited in their statements to cause a shadow of doubt on their credibility.

39. On a close scrutiny of the evidence, available on record we find that the trial judge has discarded the testimony of witnesses on flimsy and unjustifiable grounds without keeping in mind that the witnesses are rustic villagers. The apex court in the case of State of U.P. v. Krishna Master and others (2010) 12 Supreme Court Cases 324 has held as under:-

A rustic witness, who is subjected to fatiguing, taxing and tiring cross-examination for days together, is bound to get confused and make some inconsistent statements. Some discrepancies are bound to take place if a witness is cross-examined at length for days together. Therefore the discrepancies noticed in the evidence of a rustic witness who is subjected to gruelling cross-examination should not be blown out of proportion. To do so is to ignore hard realities of village life and give undeserved benefit to the accused who have perpetrated heinous crime."

58. Therefore, such a variation which does not touch the pith and substance of the prosecution version or do not throw light towards a different fact is not fatal for prosecution case. The finding of learned trial court contrary to it is against the intention of law.

59. Learned counsel for the accused-respondents has further submitted that motive of the occurrence has not been shown in the FIR, therefore, the findings of trial court that the prosecution witnesses have shown the motive to commit offence for the first time in their oral evidence, amounts improvement, hence their statements are not trustworthy, is just and proper.

60. Legally it cannot be concluded that since motive of crime is not established by prosecution, hence the evidence of witnesses are liable to be rejected. The motive of occurrence which has been shown by the prosecution is that before few months from the date of occurrence, a dispute on the point of overtaking of vehicle took place between deceased and Dhara. While accused Dhara was coming by his tractor behind the Buggi of Satya Pal. The passage was narrower, hence, Satya Pal was not providing room for tractor to overtake his Buggi. Both the persons were residents of same village and were going in same direction. Witness PW-3 had admitted that it was an usual and common incident. Witness also interfered and facilitated by mediation to terminate the dispute on spot. Witness PW-3 further stated that there are partibandi of two groups in the village, but he does not know who belongs to which party. The accused persons in their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. had not given any detail regarding the enmity due to the reason of such partibandi. Therefore, it cannot be presumed that the occurrence in question was the result of clash due to partibandi leading to any false implication of accused persons. The factum of partibandi has not been proved by any cogent evidence. No evidence of any other previous enmity with accused persons or with anybody has been brought on record or proved. The deceased was a young boy of 26 years age whereas accused Dhara Singh was of 70 years old. Other accused persons Sahab Singh, Charan Singh and Dharamvir Singh were sons of Dhara. Accused Shripal was nephew of Dhara Singh. Witness PW 3 narrating the motive had stated in his evidence that Dhara was trying to overtake his tractor from the Buggi of Satya Pal. Satya Pal was not providing way to tractor, on the above point, during the course of dispute, after oral altercation, they grappled one another. Satya Pal slammed Dhara Singh to the ground. Although the matter was settled at that time yet it might have been the reason that accused persons were feeling insulted/enmity with Satya Pal, which was raising day by day and culminated in the shape of attack on Satya Pal by the accused persons. Always the motive remains in the mind of the assailant which is not fathamable by other persons/prosecution.

61. So far as the requirement to prove the motive of offender is concerned, according to principle of law, where there is direct evidence regarding the commission of offence, motive losses its importance. It need not to be proved by prosecution. In the case of Rohtash Kumar Vs. State of Haryana, Criminal Appeal No. 896 of 2011, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in para 21 that :-

"21. The evidence regarding the existence of a motive which operates in the mind of the accused is very often very limited, and may not be within the reach of others. The motive driving the accused to commit an offence may be known only to him and to no other. In a case of circumstantial evidence, motive may be a very relevant factor. However, it is the perpetrator of the crime alone who is aware of the circumstances that prompted him to adopt a certain course of action, leading to the commission of the crime. Therefore, if the evidence on record suggests adequately, the existence of the necessary motive required to commit a crime, it may be conceived that the accused has in fact, committed the same. (Vide: Subedar Tewari v. State of U.P. & Ors., AIR 1989 SC 733; Suresh Chandra Bahri v. State of Bihar, AIR 1994 SC 2420; and Dr. Sunil Clifford Daniel v. State of Punjab, (2012) 11 SCC 205)."

62. In the case of Bipin Kumar Mondal Vs. State of West Bengal (2010) 12 SCC 91, the Apex Court has held in paras 22 and 26, which reads as under:-

"22. In fact, motive is a thing which is primarily known to the accused himself and it may not be possible for the prosecution to explain what actually prompted or excited him to commit a particular crime.

23. While dealing with a similar issue, this Court in State of U.P. v. Ksihanpal held as under: (SCC p. 88, para 39)

39. The motive may be considered as a circumstance which is relevant for assessing the evidence but if the evidence is clear and unambiguous and the circumstances prove the guilt of the accused, the same is not weakened even if the motive is not a very strong one. It is also settled law that the motive loses all its importance in a case where direct evidence of eyewitnesses is available, because even if there may be a very strong motive for the accused persons to commit a particular crime, they cannot be convicted if the evidence of eyewitnesses is not convincing. In the same way, even if there may not be an apparent motive but if the evidence of the eyewitnesses is clear and reliable, the absence or inadequacy of motive cannot stand in the way of conviction."

63. In the case of Uma Shankar Vs. State of U.P. [2015 (89) ACC 421], this Court has held in para 44, which reads as under:-

"44. It is pertinent to mention here that where there is eye witness account the motive looses its importance. Motive may be the reason to commit the offence but at the same time motive may also be a reason to falsely implicate the accused. Motive for committing the offence although is of futile nature but as per prosecution this was the reason due to which the present offence was committed by the accused. It may be mentioned here that some time offences are committed on the basis of futile motive. Therefore, motive assigned by the prosecution merely on the basis that it was futile in nature, the prosecution case cannot be disbelieved specially when one day before for that reason an altercation had taken place between the accused and deceased. The reason for falsification taken by the accused is not supported by any evidence. Merely the plea, until and unless same is supported by any believable evidence, cannot take place the piece of evidence. Thus we are of the view that although motive assigned by the prosecution is of futile nature but was sufficient to commit the present offence. Thus point no. 2 is answered as above."

64. Motive always originate in the mind of accused, therefore, in present case, if the motive of occurrence has not been mentioned in the FIR it makes no adverse effect in the case of prosecution. The finding of learned trial court, contrary to the same, is against the settled law.

65. Learned A.G.A. has submitted that there was dying declaration of deceased on record, which is reliable and sufficient to prove the occurrence and role of the accused persons, but learned trial Court erred with material illegality and irregularity in not placing reliance on it and as such the impugned judgment is perverse.

66. In reply, learned counsel for the accused-respondents submitted that prosecution had shown that before his death injured Satya Pal had given his statement in police station. The above statement was recorded by the I.O. under Section 161 Cr.P.C. After the death of Satya Pal, the prosecution is claiming the above statement of Satya Pal as his dying declaration. The above dying declaration is not in accordance with Police Manual. The statement has been recorded by the police officer, which is not permissible. No certificate of doctor has been procured regarding the mental condition of Satya Pal, that whether he was able to understand the nature of question and was able to reply the same. The aforesaid dying declaration has not been recorded by the Magistrate as it requires under the law. It was not in the form of question and answer. At the time of recording the statement in police stations so many persons were coming in and were going out from there, therefore, authenticity and reliability of dying declaration is highly doubtful. In such case, learned trial Court rightly disbelieved the dying declaration due to above lackness.

67. On the above point, it reveals from record that the I.O. has recorded the statement of deceased under Section 161 Cr.P.C. as a general course. The I.O. had not recorded the statement of Satya Pal as dying declaration, hence there is no violation of any rules and regulations directing the mode of recording of a dying declaration. The witnesses PW-1 and PW-5 had stated in their evidence that the injured Satya Pal in his statement had given the details of occurrence and weapon to I.O. Both the witnesses have not been cross-examined by defence on the point of any poor mental condition of injured Satya Pal, hence the statement of witnesses are not to be disbelieved that Satyapal was able to record his statement with his understanding.

68. In the case of Paras Yadav and Others Vs. State of Bihar, 1999 (2) SCC 126, Hon'ble Apex Court has held in paragraph nos. 8 and 9 that:-

"8. It has been contended by the learned Counsel for the appellants that the Investigating Officer has not bothered to record the dying declaration of the deceased nor is the dying declaration recorded by the doctor. The doctor is also not examined to establish that the deceased was conscious and in a fit condition to make the statement. It is true that there is negligence on the part of Investigating Officer. On occasions, such negligence or omission may give rise to reasonable doubt which would obviously go in favour of the accused. But in the present case, the evidence of the prosecution witnesses clearly establishes beyond reasonable doubt that the deceased has conscious and he was removed to hospital by bus. All the witnesses deposed that the deceased was in a fit state of health to make the statements on the date of incident. He expired only after more than 24 hours. No justifiable reason is pointed out to disbelieve the evidence of the number of witnesses who rushed to the scene of offence at Ghogha Chowk. Their evidence does not suffer from any infirmity which would render the dying declarations as doubtful or unworthy of the evidence. In such a situation, the lapse on the part of the Investigating Officer should not be taken in favour of the accused. Itmay be that such lapse is committed designedly or because of negligence. Hence, the prosecution evidence is required to be examined de hors such omissions to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not. For this purpose, it would be worthwhile to quote the following observations of this Court from the case of Ram Bihari Yadav v. State of Bihar and others, (SCC pp. 523-24, para 13).

"In such cases, the story of the prosecution will have to be examined de hors such omissions and contaminated conduct of the officials otherwise the mischief which was deliberately done would be perpetuated and justice would be denied to the complainant party and this would obviously shake the confidence of the people not merely in the law enforcing agency but also in the administration of justice."

9. In this view of the matter with regard to Paras Yadav, in our view, there is no reason to disbelieve the oral dying declaration as deposed by the number of witnesses and as recorded in the farbdeyan of deceased Sambhu Yadav. The farbdeyan was recorded by the Police Sub-Inspector on the scene of occurrence itself, within a few minutes of the occurrence of the incident. Witnesses also rushed to the scene of offence after hearing hulla gulla. The medical evidence as deposed by p.w. 11 also corroborates the prosecution version. Hence, the courts below have rightly convicted Paras Yadav for the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C."

69. The Delhi High Court in the case of State Through Reference Vs. Ram Singh and Others, Death Sentence Reference No. 6/2013, has held that in Pakala Narayana Swami v. King Emperor [(1938-39) 66 IA 66:AIR 1939 P.C. 47] Lord Atkin held that circumstances of the transaction which resulted in the death of the declarant will be admissible if such circumstances have some proximate relation to the actual occurrence. The test laid down by Lord Atkin has been quoted in the judgment of Fazal Ali, J. in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra [(1984) 4 SCC 116 : 1984 SCC (Cri) 487] and His Lordship has held that Section 32 of the Evidence Act is an exception to the rule of hearsay evidence and in view of the peculiar condition in the Indian society has widened the sphere to avoid injustice. His Lordship has held that where the main evidence consists of statements and letters written by the deceased which are directly connected with or related to her death and which reveal a tell-tale story, the said statements would clearly fall within the four corners of Section 32 and, therefore, admissible and the distance of time alone in such cases would not make the statement irrelevant. On the aforesaid touchstone, we have no hesitation in concluding that the statement made by injured Satya Pal to I.O. under Section 161 Cr.P.C. showing the cause of his death is admissible as dying declaration.

70. In the case of State of Rajasthan Vs. Bhup Singh (1997) 10 SCC 675, Hon'ble Apex Court has held that it is not necessary to record dying declaration in the form of question and answer. In paragraph nos. 10 and 11 of the case, it has been held as under:-

"10. Assuming that the deceased gave her statement in her own language, the dying declaration would not vitiate merely because it was recorded in a different language. We bear in mind that it is not unusual that courts record evidence in the language of the court even when witnesses depose in their own language. Judicial officers are used to the practice of translating the statements from the language of the parties to the language of the court. Such translation process would not upset either the admissibility of the statement or its reliability, unless there are other reasons to doubt the truth of it.

11. Nor would a dying declaration go bad merely because the magistrate did not record it in the form of questions and answers. It is axiomatic that what matters is the substance and not the form. Questions put to the dying man would have been formal and hence the answers given are material. Criminal courts may evince interest in knowing the contents of what the dying person said and the questions put to him are not very important normally. That part of the statement which relates to the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death gets the sanction of admissibility. Here it is improper to throw such statement overboard on a pediantic premise that it was not recorded in the form of questions and answers. (Vide Ganpat Mahadeo Mani Vs. State of Maharashtra (1993 Supp. (2) SCC 242)."

71. In the case of Sudhakar Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2012) 7 SCC 569, in paragraphs 16, 17, 18, and 20, it has been held by Hon'ble Apex Court that:-

"16. We may, now, refer to some of the judgments of this Court in regard to the admissibility and evidentiary value of a dying declaration. In Bhajju v. State of M.P. [(2012) 4 SCC 327], this Court clearly stated that Section 32 of the Evidence Act was an exception to the general rule against admissibility of hearsay evidence. Clause (1) of Section 32 makes the statement of the deceased admissible, which has been generally described as dying declaration. The court, in no uncertain terms, held that: (SCC p.336, para 24)

"24...It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that the dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborated by other evidence."

The dying declaration, if found reliable, could form the basis of conviction. This principle has also earlier been stated by this Court in Surinder Kumar v. State of Haryana (2011) 10 SCC 173 wherein the Court, while stating the above principle, on facts and because of the fact that the dying declaration in the said case was found to be shrouded by suspicious circumstances and no witness in support thereof had been examined, acquitted the accused. However, the Court observed that when a dying declaration is true and voluntary, there is no impediment in basing the conviction on such a declaration, without corroboration.

17. In the case of Chirra Shivraj v. State of Andhra Pradesh [(2010) 14 SCC 444], the Court expressed a caution that a mechanical approach in relying upon the dying declaration just because it is there, is extremely dangerous. The court has to examine a dying declaration scrupulously with a microscopic eye to find out whether the dying declaration is voluntary, truthful, made in a conscious state of mind and without being influenced by other persons and where these ingredients are satisfied, the Court expressed the view that it cannot be said that on the sole basis of a dying declaration, the order of conviction could not be passed.

18. In Laxman v. State of Maharashtra [(2002) 6 SCC 710], the Court while dealing with the argument that the dying declaration must be recorded by a Magistrate and the certificate of fitness was an essential feature, made the following observations. The court answered both these questions as follows: (SCC pp. 713-14 para 3)

"3. The juristic theory regarding acceptability of a dying declaration is that such declaration is made in extremity, when the party is at the point of death and when every hope of this world is gone, when every motive to falsehood is silenced, and the man is induced by the most powerful consideration to speak only the truth. Notwithstanding the same, great caution must be exercised in considering the weight to be given to this species of evidence on account of the existence of many circumstances which may affect their truth. The situation in which a man is on the deathbed is so solemn and serene, is the reason in law to accept the veracity of his statement. It is for this reason the requirements of oath and cross-examination are dispensed with. Since the accused has no power of cross-examination, the courts insist that the dying declaration should be of such a nature as to inspire full confidence of the court in its truthfulness and correctness. The court, however, has always to be on guard to see that the statement of the deceased was not as a result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination. The court also must further decide that the deceased was in a fit state of mind and had the opportunity to observe and identify the assailant. Normally, therefore, the court in order to satisfy whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration looks up to the medical opinion. But where the eyewitnesses state that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the declaration, the medical opinion will not prevail, nor can it be said that since there is no certification of the doctor as to the fitness of the mind of the declarant, the dying declaration is not acceptable. A dying declaration can be oral or in writing and any adequate method of communication whether by words or by signs or otherwise will suffice provided the indication is positive and definite. In most cases, however, such statements are made orally before death ensues and is reduced to writing by someone like a Magistrate or a doctor or a police officer. When it is recorded, no oath is necessary nor is the presence of a Magistrate absolutely necessary, although to assure authenticity it is usual to call a Magistrate, if available for recording the statement of a man about to die. There is no requirement of law that a dying declaration must necessarily be made to a Magistrate and when such statement is recorded by a Magistrate there is no specified statutory form for such recording. Consequently, what evidential value or weight has to be attached to such statement necessarily depends on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. What is essentially required is that the person who records a dying declaration must be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind. Where it is proved by the testimony of the Magistrate that the declarant was fit to make the statement even without examination by the doctor the declaration can be acted upon provided the court ultimately holds the same to be voluntary and truthful. A certification by the doctor is essentially a rule of caution and therefore the voluntary and truthful nature of the declaration can be established otherwise."

*20. The 'dying declaration' is the last statement made by a person at a stage when he is in serious apprehension of his death and expects no chances of his survival. At such time, it is expected that a person will speak the truth and only the truth. Normally in such situations the courts attach the intrinsic value of truthfulness to such statement. Once such statement has been made voluntarily, it is reliable and is not an attempt by the deceased to cover up the truth or falsely implicate a person, then the courts can safely rely on such dying declaration and it can form the basis of conviction. More so, where the version given by the deceased as dying declaration is supported and corroborated by other prosecution evidence, there is no reason for the courts to doubt the truthfulness of such dying declaration."

72. In the case of Lakhan Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2010) 8 SCC 514, in paragraph no. 9, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"9. The doctrine of dying declaration is enshrined in the legal maxim "Nemo moriturus praesumitur mentire", which means "a man will not meet his Maker with a lie in his mouth". The doctrine of Dying Declaration is enshrined in Section 32 of the Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter called as, " Evidence Act") as an exception to the general rule contained in Section 60 of the Evidence Act, which provides that oral evidence in all cases must be direct i.e. it must be the evidence of a witness, who says he saw it. The dying declaration is, in fact, the statement of a person, who cannot be called as witness and, therefore, cannot be cross-examined. Such statements themselves are relevant facts in certain cases."

73. In the case of Meharaban and Others Vs. State of M. P., (1996) 10 SCC 615, in paragraph no. 7, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"7. Shri Bachawat's other criticism relating to the evidence is regarding some improvements and exaggerations. It is known that what the court has to adjudge is the substratum of the case and, in doing so, grain has to be separated from chaff. It is settled law that some improvements here and some exaggerations there or some minor discrepancies in the evidence do not hurt the prosecution case. As to the core of the present case the same being dying declaration of Ranjit Singh we are fully satisfied, and so, the decision of this Court in Jagga Singh v. State of Punjab, 1994 Supp.(3) SCC 463, which has been referred by Shri Bachawat, has no application, as in that case the dying declaration had not inspired confidence, whereas one at hand does. We have said so because the evidence of PW.4 Dr.Das. who had done post-mortem, does not in any way show if Ranjit Singh was not in a position to speak, because his evidence in the cross-examination is that the head injury sustained by Ranjit Singh might or might not have resulted in loss of consciousness. His further statement is that the deceased might have expired at about 10 or 11 am, long before which he had been contacted by the aforesaid PW.s."

74. In the case of State of Rajasthan V. Champa Lal, (2009) 12 SCC 571, in paragraph nos. 9 and 10, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"9. In fact in Dalip Singh v. State of Punjab [(1979) 4 SCC 332 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 968] it was observed as follows: (SCC pp. 334-35, para 8)

"8. There were two dying declarations of Ram Singh--one oral and the other written--which was recorded by the Assistant Sub-Inspector of Police, PW 28 on 12-12-1975. The oral dying declaration was made to PW 11 Tara Singh. Neither of the dying declarations was relied upon by the High Court because he had named Baldev Singh also. We may also add that although a dying declaration recorded by a police officer during the course of investigation is admissible under Section 32 of the Evidence Act in view of the exception provided in sub-section (2) of Section 162 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, it is better to leave such dying declaration out of consideration until and unless the prosecution satisfies the court as to why it was not recorded by a Magistrate or by a doctor. As observed by this Court in Munnu Raja v. State of M.P. [(1976) 3 SCC 104 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 376] the practice of the investigating officer himself recording a dying declaration during the course of investigation ought not to be encouraged. We do not mean to suggest that such dying declarations are always untrustworthy, but what we want to emphasise is that better and more reliable methods of recording a dying declaration of an injured person should be taken recourse to and the one recorded by the police officer may be relied upon if there was no time or facility available to the prosecution for adopting any better method.

(underlined [Ed.: Herein italicised.] for emphasis)

In Dalip Singh case [(1979) 4 SCC 332 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 968] it was categorically observed that in case there was no time or facility available to the prosecution for adopting any better method the dying declaration can be taken into consideration. In fact in the present case that is the categorical statement of PW 20. As rightly contended by learned counsel for the State, the High Court discarded the statement even without indicating any reason. It is to be noted that Jora Ram (PW 20) categorically stated that it was not possible to get a Magistrate to record the dying declaration. The High Court disbelieved him without even recording any reason therefor. The dying declaration was recorded in the presence of a doctor (PW 13). In addition, the evidentiary value of the evidence of PWs 7, 9 and 10 has not been considered in its proper perspective.

10. In Ramawati Devi v. State of Bihar [(1983) 1 SCC 211 : 1983 SCC (Cri) 169] it was observed as follows: (SCC pp. 214-15, para 7)

"7. In our opinion neither of these two decisions relied on by the appellant is of any assistance in the facts and circumstances of this case. These decisions do not lay down, as they cannot possibly lay down, that a dying declaration which is not made before a Magistrate, cannot be used in evidence. A statement, written or oral, made by a person who is dead as to the cause of his death or as to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death, in cases in which the cause of that person's death comes into question, becomes admissible under Section 32 of the Evidence Act. Such statement made by the deceased is commonly termed as dying declaration. There is no requirement of law that such a statement must necessarily be made to a Magistrate. What evidentiary value or weight has to be attached to such statement, must necessarily depend on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. In a proper case, it may be permissible to convict a person only on the basis of a dying declaration in the light of the facts and circumstances of the case. In the instant case, the dying declaration has been properly proved. It is significant to note that in the course of cross-examination of the witness proving the dying declaration, no questions were put as to the state of health of the deceased and no suggestion was made that the deceased was not in a fit state of health to make any such statement. The doctor's evidence also clearly indicates that it was possible for the deceased to make the statement attributed to her in the dying declaration in which her thumb impression had also been affixed. In the instant case, it cannot also be said that there is no corroborative evidence of the statement contained in the dying declaration. The evidence of PWs 1, 4, 5 and 8 clearly corroborates the statement recorded in the dying declaration. We do not find any material on record on the basis of which the testimony of these witnesses can be disbelieved. It may also be noticed that none of these witnesses including the police officer who recorded the statement could be attributed with any kind of ill feeling against the accused. The High Court has elaborately dwelt on this aspect and has carefully considered all the materials on record and also the arguments advanced on behalf of the appellant. We are in agreement with the view expressed by the High Court and in our opinion the High Court was right in upholding the conviction of the appellant."

75. In the case of State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Dal Singh and Others, (2013) 14 SCC 159, in paragraph nos. 14, 15, 18 and 20, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"14. In Mafabhai Nagarbhai Raval v. State of Gujrat, AIR 1992 SC 2186, this Court dealt with a case wherein a question arose with respect to whether a person suffering from 99 per cent burn injuries could be deemed capable enough for the purpose of making a dying declaration. The learned trial Judge thought that the same was not at all possible, as the victim had gone into shock after receiving such high degree burns. He had consequently opined, that the moment the deceased had seen the flame, she was likely to have sustained mental shock. Development of such shock from the very beginning, was the ground on which the Trial Court had disbelieved the medical evidence available. This Court then held, that the doctor who had conducted her post-mortem was a competent person, and had deposed in this respect. Therefore, unless there existed some inherent and apparent defect, the court could not have substituted its opinion for that of the doctor's. Hence, in light of the facts of the case, the dying declarations made, were found by this Court to be worthy of reliance, as the same had been made truthfully and voluntarily. There was no evidence on record to suggest that the victim had provided a tutored version, and the argument of the defence stating that the condition of the deceased was so serious that she could not have made such a statement was not accepted, and the dying declarations were relied upon. A similar view has been re-iterated by this Court in Rambai v. State of Chhatisgarh, (2002) 8 SCC 83.

15. In Laxman v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2002 SC 2973, this Court held, that a dying declaration can either be oral or in writing, and that any adequate method of communication, whether the use of words, signs or otherwise will suffice, provided that the indication is positive and definite. There is no requirement of law stating that a dying declaration must necessarily be made before a Magistrate, and when such statement is recorded by a Magistrate, there is no specified statutory form for such recording. Consequently, the evidentiary value or weight that has to be attached to such a statement, necessarily depends on the facts and circumstances of each individual case. What is essentially required, is that the person who records a dying declaration must be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind, and where the same is proved by the testimony of the Magistrate, to the extent that the declarant was in fact fit to make the statements, then even without examination by the doctor, the said declaration can be relied and acted upon, provided that the court ultimately holds the same to be voluntary and definite. Certification by a doctor is essentially a rule of caution, and therefore, the voluntary and truthful nature of the declaration can also be established otherwise.

18. In Govindappa v. State of Karnataka (2010) 6 SCC 533, it was argued that the Executive Magistrate, while recording the dying declaration did not get any certificate from the medical officer regarding the condition of the deceased. This Court then held, that such a circumstance itself is not sufficient to discard the dying declaration. Certification by a doctor regarding the fit state of mind of the deceased, for the purpose of giving a dying declaration, is essentially a rule of caution and therefore, the voluntary and truthful nature of such a declaration, may also be established otherwise. Such a dying declaration must be recorded on the basis that normally, a person on the verge of death would not implicate somebody falsely. Thus, a dying declaration must be given due weight in evidence.

20. The law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that law does not provide who can record a dying declaration, nor is there any prescribed form, format, or procedure for the same. The person who records a dying declaration must be satisfied that the maker is in a fit state of mind and is capable of making such a statement. Moreover, the requirement of a certificate provided by a Doctor in respect of such state of the deceased, is not essential in every case."

76. In the case of Gulzari Lal Vs. State of Haryana, (2016) 4 SCC 583, in paragraph nos. 22, 23 and 21, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"22. Further, clarity on the issue may be established by the judgment of this Court in Paras Yadav v. State of Bihar [(1999) 2 SCC 126], wherein this Court addressed the question regarding the dying declaration that was not recorded by the doctor and where the doctor had not been examined to say that the injured was fit to give the statement. It has been held by this Court as under: (SCC p. 130 para 8)

"8....In such a situation, the lapse on the part of the Investigating Officer should not be taken in favour of the accused, may be that such lapse is committed designedly or because of negligence. Hence, the prosecution evidence is required to be examined de hors such omissions to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not."

23. In reference to the position of law laid down by this Court, we find no reason to question the reliability of the dying declaration of the deceased for the reason that at the time of recording his statement by Head Constable, Manphool Singh (PW-7),he was found to be mentally fit to give his statement regarding the occurrence. Further, evidence of Head Constable Manphhol Singh (PW-7) was shown to be trustworthy and has been accepted by the courts below. The view taken by the High Court does not suffer from any infirmity and the same is in order.

21.We find no infirmities with the statements made by the deceased and recorded by the Head Constable Manphool Singh (PW-7). A valid dying declaration may be made without obtaining a certificate of fitness of the declarant by a medical officer. The law regarding the same is well-settled by this Court in Laxman v. State of Maharashtra, (1985) 2 SCC 61."

77. In the case of Vithal Vs. State of Maharashtra, 2007 Cr.L.J. 317, in paragraph no. 10, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"10. Dying declarations which were four in number were made before different authorities including a magistrate. The Executive Magistrate Shashikant was examined as PW-6. The learned Trial Judge was not correct in discarding the said dying declaration. It is now well-settled that a dying declaration if found to be acceptable, the same need not be described to be in question and answer form."

78. In the case of Ashabai and Another Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2013) 2 SCC 224, in paragraph no. 15, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"15. About the evidentiary value of dying declaration of the deceased, it is relevant to refer Section 32 (1) of the Evidence Act, 1872, which reads as under:-

"32. Cases in which statement of relevant fact by person who is dead or cannot be found, etc., is relevant.- Statements, written or verbal, of relevant facts made by a person who is dead, or who cannot be found, or who has become incapable of giving evidence, or whose attendance cannot be procured without an amount of delay or expense which, under the circumstances of the case, appears to the Court unreasonable, are themselves relevant facts in the following cases:-

(1) when it relates to cause of death*.- When the statement is made by a person as to the cause of his death, or as to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death, in cases in which the cause of that person's death comes into question.*

Such statements are relevant whether the person who made them was or was not, at the time when they were made, under expectation of death, and whatever may be the nature of the proceeding in which the cause of his death comes into question.

It is clear from the above provision that the statement made by the deceased by way of a declaration is admissible in evidence under Section 32 (1) of the Evidence Act. It is not in dispute that her statement relates to the cause of her death. In that event, it qualifies the criteria mentioned in Section 32 (1) of the Evidence Act. There is no particular form or procedure prescribed for recording a dying declaration nor it is required to be recorded only by a Magistrate. As a general rule, it is advisable to get the evidence of the declarant certified from a doctor. In appropriate cases, the satisfaction of the person recording the statement regarding the state of mind of the deceased would also be sufficient to hold that the deceased was in a position to make a statement. It is settled law that if the prosecution solely depends on the dying declaration, the normal rule is that the courts must exercise due care and caution to ensure genuineness of the dying declaration, keeping in mind that the accused had no opportunity to test the veracity of the statement of the deceased by cross-examination. As rightly observed by the High Court, the law does not insist upon the corroboration of dying declaration before it can be accepted. The insistence of corroboration to a dying declaration is only a rule of prudence. When the Court is satisfied that the dying declaration is voluntary, not tainted by tutoring or animosity, and is not a product of the imagination of the declarant, in that event, there is no impediment in convicting the accused on the basis of such dying declaration. When there are multiple dying declarations, each dying declaration has to be separately assessed and evaluated and assess independently on its own merit as to its evidentiary value and one cannot be rejected because of certain variation in the other."

79. A dying declaration enjoys almost a sacrosanct status as a piece of evidence coming with it does from the mouth of victim. No one at the point of death is presumed to tell lie. Clause (i) of Section 32 of the Evidence Act provides that statements made by a person as to cause of his death, or as to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death, in cases in which the cause of that person's death comes into question, are themselves relevant fact. If the general condition of victim is poor and there is no time to call the magistrate to record the dying declaration, or call to doctor to certify the fit condition of victim and only

I.O. is available. Then in that case, he can also record the dying declaration of victim and in such a scenario it is not necessary to record the same in the form of question answer or according to any specific formate, as the substance/fact matters not the formate. Therefore, the facts mentioned to I.O. in his statement may be it was recorded under the provisions of 161 Cr.P.C., is relevant and shall be treated as dying declaration of victim. Since the accused persons have no opportunity to confront/cross examine to maker, hence it is upon the court to scrutinize/examine the same with extreme cautions. In present case, the injuries on victim's body although were not on vital parts but the incised wounds were sufficient to cut the blood vessels, responsible to supply blood in vital organs, even there were hope of survival, hence the I.O. recorded his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. not as dying declaration. The statement was recorded soon after the occurrence. The facts narrated by Satyapal is supported and corroborated by other ocular as well as medical evidences. No cross examination has been done by defence with doctor regarding his mental condition. There was no evidence of any dictation or tutor to victim. Although it has been argued that so many persons were coming in and were going out at the time of recording statement of witness, but it has to be kept in mind that on the reply of specific question, the witness PW-5 has stated in his cross-examination that at the time of recording his statement Satya Pal was lying on earth, so many persons from public were entering into Police Station, therefore, witness also entered inside the Police Thana. Police were not permitting to enter inside the police station. Many persons were coming back from Police Station after seeing the victim. The witness again replied that when he entered inside the Police Station, I.O. was recording the statement of Satya Pal. The witness was standing near the door. Satya Pal was inside the Thana premises. In the above part of his evidence, the witness has not thrown any light towards any such fact that any relative or friend or police person or anybody else was trying to tutor the victim regarding the occurrence. No any specific question has been put to witness PW-5 also by counsel for defence on above point. The witness has duly proved the execution of recording the statement of injured. On the basis of above discussion, it is concluded that the dying declaration of Satyapal is true and trustworthy. In the absence of any cogent ground/reason, the conclusion of learned trial Court, regarding tutoring injured witness Satya Pal is bad in the eye of law.

80. The judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court cited by learned counsel for the accused-respondents in the case of Balak Ram Vs. State of U.P. (1975) 3 SCC 219 on the point of dying declaration is not applicable in present case as the facts of the cases are different.

81. Learned trial Court has also concluded that the statement of witness PW-5 under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has not been recorded by I.O., therefore, the statement of PW-5 be not considered. Learned counsel for the accused-respondents submits that to test the truthfulness/veracity of witness, the confrontation of witnesses as mentioned in Section 145 of the Evidence Act is necessary.

82. In the above context, the provisions of Section 162 of Cr.P.C. and Section 145 of the Evidence Act are reproduced as under:-

"162. Statements to police not to be signed: Use of statements in evicdence.- (1) No statement made by any person to a police officer in the course of an investigation under this Chapter, shall, if reduced to writing, be signed by the person making it; nor shall any such statement or any record thereof, whether in a police diary or otherwise, or any part of such statement or record, be used for any purpose, save as hereinafter Provided, at any inquiry or trial in respect of any offence under investigation at the time when such statement was made:

Provided that when any witness is called for the prosecution in such inquiry or trial whose statement has been reduced into writing as aforesaid, any part of his statement, if duly proved, may be used by the accused, and with the permission of the Court, by the prosecution, to contradict such witness in the manner provided by section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872); and when any part of such statement is so used, any part thereof may also be used in the re-examination of such witness, but for the purpose only of explaining any matter referred to in his cross- examination.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to any statement falling within the provisions of clause (1) of section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872), or to affect the provisions of section 27 of that Act.

Explanation.- An omission to state a fact or circumstance in the statement referred to in sub- section (1) may amount to contradiction if the same appears to be significant and otherwise relevant having regard to the context in which such omission occurs and whether any omission amounts to a contradiction in the particular context shall be a question of fact."

Section 145 of Evidence Act. Cross-examination as to previous statements in writing.--A witness may be cross-examined as to previous statements made by him in writing or reduced into writing, and relevant to matters in question, without such writing being shown to him, or being proved; but, if it is intended to contradict him by the writing, his attention must, before the writing can be proved, be called to those parts of it which are to be used for the purpose of contradicting him."*

83. According to the above provisions the earlier statement of witness "may be" confronted, it does not makes it mandatory. In absence of any previous statement, the conclusion drawn by learned trial court is not justified. The statement of witness, which has been recorded in Court is relevant. On one side, it has been mentioned that statement of witness PW-5 has not been recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. hence his statement is not admissible, on other hand, on the basis of evidence of witness PW-5, learned trial Court concluded that there is possibility of tutoring the witness/victim Satya Pal. Hot and cold cannot be blown simultaneously.

84. Learned counsel for the accused-respondents has submitted that the I.O. has not conducted the fair investigation. He has not recorded the statement of witness PW-5 Kallu Ram and has not appeared in Court to prove the material collected in investigation and dying declaration of Satya Pal.

85. It reveals from the record that the I.O. has not appeared before the trial Court to give his statement despite several attempts of learned trial Court. Learned trial Court has held in impugned judgment that I.O. has wilfully omitted to appear in Court for recording his evidence, although at that time he was posted at Vigilance Department, Lucknow and he has deliberately avoided to appear in Court as witness, therefore, the entire investigation has become doubtful as he was a necessary witness.

86. The above conclusion of Trial Court law is not just and proper. In accordance with law, in general, if there is any laches of I.O. in conducting the investigation, the prosecution case should not be suffered. There was no role of victim in such act of I.O. The reason may be possible that the I.O. might have been fallen in collusion with accused persons and just to provide them undue benefit, he did not appear in Court to record his evidence. In the case of Dhanaj Singh alias Shera and others Vs. State of Punjab, 2004 Cri.L.J., 1807, in paragraph nos. 5, 6 and 7, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

5. In the case of a defective investigation the Court has to be circumspect in evaluating the evidence. But it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect; to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the investigating officer if the investigation is designedly defective. (See Karnel Singh vs. State of M.P.: (1995) 5 SCC 518).

6. In Paras Yadav and Ors. v. State of Bihar: (1999) 2 SCC 126 it was held that if the lapse or omission is committed by the investigating agency or because of negligence the prosecution evidence is required to be examined dehors such omissions to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not. The contaminated conduct of officials should not stand on the way of evaluating the evidence by the courts; otherwise the designed mischief would be perpetuated and justice would be denied to the complainant party.

7. As was observed in Ram Bihari Yadav v. State of Bihar and Ors.: (1998) 4 SCC 517, if primacy is given to such designed or negligent investigation, to the omission or lapses by perfunctory investigation or omissions, the faith and confidence of the people would be shaken not only in the Law enforcing agency but also in the administration of justice. The view as again re-iterated in Amar Singh v. Balwinder Singh and Ors., : (2003) 2 SCC 518. As noted in Amar Singh's case (supra) it would have been certainly better if the fire arms were sent to the Forensic Test Laboratory for comparison. But the report of the Ballistic Expert would be in the nature of an expert opinion without any conclusiveness attached to it. When the direct testimony of the eye-witnesses corroborated by the medical evidence fully establishes the prosecution version failure or omission of negligence on part of the IO cannot affect credibility of the prosecution version."

87. In the case of Ram Gulam Chaudhury and OthersVs. State of Bihar, AIR 2001 SC 2842, in paragraph no. 30, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"30. In our view, in this case also non-examination of the Investigating Officer has caused no prejudice at all*. All that Mr. Mishra could submit was that the examination of the Investigating Officer would have shown that the occurrence had taken place not in the courtyard but outside on the road.* The Investigating Officer was not an eye witness. The body had already been removed by the Appellants. The Investigating Officer, therefore, could not have given any evidence as to the actual place of occurrence. There were witnesses who have given credible and believable evidence as to the place of occurrence. Their evidence cannot be discarded merely because the Investigating Officer was not examined. The non-examination of the Investigating Officer has not lead to any prejudice to the Appellants. We, therefore, see no substance in this submission."

88. In the case of Behari Prasad and Others Vs. State of Bihar, (1996) 2 SCC 317, in paragraph no. 23, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"23. It, however, appears to us that the entire case diary should not have been allowed to be exhibited by the learned Additional Sessions Judge. In the facts of the case, it appears to us that the involvement of the accused in committing the murder has been clearly established by the evidences of the eye witnesses. Such evidences are in conformity with the case made out in F.I.R. and also with the medical evidence. Hence, for non examination of Investigating Officer, the prosecution case should not fail. We may also indicate here that it will not be correct to contend that if an Investigating Officer is not examined in a case, such case should fail on the ground that the accused were deprived of the opportunity to effectively cross examine the witnesses for the prosecution and to bring out contradictions in their statements before the police*. A case of prejudice likely to be suffered by an accused must depend on the facts of the case and no universal straight jacket formula should be laid down that non examination of Investigating Officer per se vitiates a criminal trial. These appeals, therefore, fail and are dismissed. The appellants who have been released on bail should be taken into custody to serve out the sentence."*

89. In the case of Ganga Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2013) 7 SCC 278, in paragraph no. 17, Hon'ble Apex Court held as under:-

"17. We are also unable to accept the submission of Mr. Mehrotra that the investigation by the police is shoddy and hasty and there are defects in the investigation and therefore benefit of doubt should be given to the appellant and he should be acquitted of the charge of rape. The settled position of law is that the prosecution is required to establish the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt by adducing evidence. Hence, if the prosecution in a given case adduces evidence to establish the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt, the court cannot acquit the accused on the ground that there are some defects in the investigation, but if the defects in the investigation are such as to cast a reasonable doubt in the prosecution case, then of course the accused is entitled to acquittal because of such doubt. In the present case, as we have seen, the evidence of PW-5 as corroborated by the evidence of PW-2 and the FIR establish beyond reasonable doubt that the appellant has committed rape on PW-5 and thus the appellant is not entitled to acquittal."

90. On the above point, in the case of Abhilakh Singh Vs. State of U.P., [2013 (82) A.C.C. 110], in paragraph no. 27, the co-ordinate Bench of this Court has held as under:-

"27. Learned counsel for the appellant has then vehemently argued that the prosecution has not examined investigating officer in the case, so the accused had been prejudiced in his defence. It is true that the investigating officer had not been examined in the case. It is always desirable for prosecution to examine I.O. However, as stated earlier non-examination of I.O. does not in any way create any dent in the prosecution case much less affect the credibility of otherwise trustworthy testimony of eye-witnesses. If the presence of the eye-witnesses on the spot is established and the guilt of the accused is also proved by their trustworthy testimony, non-examination of I.O. would not be fatal to the case of prosecution.[Vide - Raj Kishore Jha vs. State of Bihar, 2003(47) ACC 1068 (SC), Ram Gulam Chowdhary versus State of Bihar, 2001(2) JIC 986 (SC), Bahadur Naik versus State of Bihar, JT 2000 (6) SC 226, Ambika Prasad versus State of Delhi Administration, JT 2000 (1) SC 273, Behari Prasad versus State of Bihar, JT 1996 (1) SC 93 and Ram Deo versus State of U.P., 1990(2) JIC 1393 (SC). Perusal of the order-sheet of the trial Court clearly show that it had taken all out efforts to procure the attendance of investigating officers in this case and even after defence evidence, the other Presiding Officer again passed orders for summoning the investigating officers, but the local police did not cooperate with the Court for reasons best known to them. Sometimes, the trial Courts feel themselves helpless when they do not get cooperation from the local administration in getting the witnesses served. It is not the task of the Court alone to decide cases without active help of the police wherever it is required in administration of justice. In the circumstances, where the administration or local police are not co-operative, the Courts are required to decide the cases on the basis of evidence available in the record of the case. However, it would not provide a lever to the accused to get rid of the charges levelled against them as the Court would impart its duty in an unbiased manner balancing the interest of accused and the victim or his/her family. In the instant case, the record shows that both the investigating officers have retired, so they could not be examined. In the light of the law referred above, we are, therefore, not impressed with the argument that for non-examination of the investigating officer, the accused should be acquitted."

91. In the case of Krishna Mochi and Others Vs. State of Bihar, 2002 (2) J.Cr.C., 123, in paragraph 80, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"80. It has been also contended that Inspector Ram Japit Kumar, who was one of the investigating officers, has not been examined. The alleged occurrence had taken place on 12.2.1992 and in the same night on the basis of fard-beyan of the informant recorded by PW.33, as stated above, Inspector of Police Ram Janam Singh drew the formal First Information Report. From the evidence of this witness, it would appear that the Superintendent of Police, Gaya directed Inspector Ram Japit Kumar to investigate this case and so long he did not take charge of the investigation, this witness was entrusted to commence the investigation under verbal orders of the Superintendent of Police, Gaya. PW 33, thereafter, inspected the place of occurrence and seized blood stained earth, empties and reminiscence of bomb explosion. This witness further stated that as till 17th February, 1992 Inspector Ram Japit Kumar did not make himself available for taking over investigation of the case, he requested Superintendent of Police to give necessary direction whereupon the investigation was entrusted to one Suresh Chandra Sharma (PW.17) who, at that time, was posted as Inspector, Chandauti Police Station and PW.33 made over charge of the case to PW.17 on 19.2.1992, who, after completing investigation which was supervised by the Superintendent of Police himself, submitted chargesheet. From the above facts it would be plain that as Inspector Ram Japit Kumar had neither taken over charge of the investigation of the case at any point of time, much less investigated the same, no adverse inference can be drawn against the prosecution on account of his non-examination and non-furnishing of explanation for his not taking over charge of investigation. Thus, he having not conducted any investigation, the evidence of Inspector Ram Japit Kumar could not be of any avail either to the prosecution or the defence. That apart, it is well settled that non-examination of any witness would not affect the prosecution case, but in a given case non-examination of a material witness may affect the same. Reference in this connection may be made to the decision of this Court in the case of Masalti (supra). It is well settled that non-examination of investigating officer is not fatal for the prosecution unless it is shown that the accused has been prejudiced thereby. In the case on hand, in any view of the matter, it could not be pointed out that the defence has been prejudiced in any manner by non- examination of Inspector Ram Japit Kumar."

92. It will be proper that if learned Trial Court concludes that I.O. in collusion with accused persons has withheld his evidence and deliberately has not appeared in Court despite service of summons, hence learned trial Court has rightly directed that the concerned authorities can take action against the act of officer, which was a right approach, but another part of finding of trial court that in non-examination of I.O., the accused persons should be awarded benefit by rejecting the prosecution case, only on the above score is bad in the eye of law. It is duty of the Court to assess the evidence on record to achieve the target of fair trial.

93. So far as the collusive behaviour of I.O. is concerned, in the case of Sahabuddin Vs. State of Assam, 2013 Cr.L.J. 1252, in paragraph nos. 27, 29 and 30, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"27. The investigating officer has conducted investigation in a suspicious manner and did not even care to send the viscera to the laboratory for its appropriate examination. As already noticed, in his statement, PW 11 has stated that viscera could not be examined by the laboratory as it was not sent in time. There is a deliberate attempt on the part of the investigating officer to misdirect the evidence and to withhold the material evidence from the court.

29. In our considered view, the doctor has also failed to discharge his professional obligations in terms of the professional standards expected of him. He has attempted to misdirect the evidence before the court and has intentionally made it so vague that in place of aiding the ends of justice, he has attempted to help the accused.

30. In our considered view, action should be taken against both these witnesses. Before we pass any direction in this regard, we may refer to the judgment of this Court in Gajoo [(2012) 9 SCC 532 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 1200 : (2012) 2 SCC (L&S) 782] , where the Court had directed an action against such kind of evidence and witnesses: (SCC pp. 540-41 & 543-44, paras 20-22)

"20. In regard to defective investigation, this Court in Dayal Singh v.

State of Uttaranchal [(2012) 8 SCC 263 : (2012) 4 SCC (Civ) 424 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 838 : (2012) 2 SCC (L&S) 583] while dealing with the cases of omissions and commissions by the investigating officer, and duty of the court in such cases, held as under: (SCC pp. 280-83, paras 27-30 & 33-36)

'27. Now, we may advert to the duty of the court in such cases. In Sathi Prasad v. State of U.P. [(1972) 3 SCC 613 : 1972 SCC (Cri) 659] this Court stated that it is well settled that if the police records become suspect and investigation perfunctory, it becomes the duty of the court to see if the evidence given in court should be relied upon and such lapses ignored. Noticing the possibility of investigation being designedly defective, this Court in Dhanaj Singh v. State of Punjab [(2004) 3 SCC 654 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 851] , held: (SCC p. 657, para 5)

"5. In the case of a defective investigation the court has to be circumspect in evaluating the evidence. But it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect; to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the investigating officer if the investigation is designedly defective."

28. Dealing with the cases of omission and commission, the Court in Paras Yadav v. State of Bihar [(1999) 2 SCC 126 : 1999 SCC (Cri) 104 : AIR 1999 SC 644] enunciated the principle, in conformity with the previous judgments, that if the lapse or omission is committed by the investigating agency, negligently or otherwise, the prosecution evidence is required to be examined dehors such omissions to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not. The contaminated conduct of officials should not stand in the way of evaluating the evidence by the courts, otherwise the designed mischief would be perpetuated and justice would be denied to the complainant party.

29. In Zahira Habibullah Sheikh (5) v. State of Gujarat [(2006) 3 SCC 374 : (2006) 2 SCC (Cri) 8] the Court noticed the importance of the role of witnesses in a criminal trial. The importance and primacy of the quality of trial process can be observed from the words of Bentham, who states that witnesses are the eyes and ears of justice. The Court issued a caution that in such situations, there is a greater responsibility of the court on the one hand and on the other the courts must seriously deal with persons who are involved in creating designed investigation. The Court held that: (SCC p. 398, para 42)

"42. Legislative measures to emphasise prohibition against tampering with witness, victim or informant have become the imminent and inevitable need of the day. Conducts which illegitimately affect the presentation of evidence in proceedings before the courts have to be seriously and sternly dealt with. There should not be any undue anxiety to only protect the interest of the accused. That would be unfair, as noted above, to the needs of the society. On the contrary, efforts should be to ensure a fair trial where the accused and the prosecution both get a fair deal. Public interest in the proper administration of justice must be given as much importance, if not more, as the interest of the individual accused. In this Courts have a vital role to play."

(emphasis in original)

30. With the passage of time, the law also developed and the dictum of the Court emphasised that in a criminal case, the fate of proceedings cannot always be left entirely in the hands of the parties. Crime is a public wrong, in breach and violation of public rights and duties, which affects the community as a whole and is harmful to the society in general.

33. In Ram Bali v. State of U.P. [(2004) 10 SCC 598 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 2045] the judgment in Karnel Singh v. State of M.P. [(1995) 5 SCC 518 : 1995 SCC (Cri) 977] was reiterated and this Court had observed that: (Ram Bali case[(2004) 10 SCC 598 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 2045] , SCC p. 604, para 12)

"12. ... In the case of a defective investigation the court has to be circumspect [while] evaluating the evidence. But it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect; to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the investigation officer if the investigation is designedly defective."

34. Where our criminal justice system provides safeguards of fair trial and innocent till proven guilty to an accused, there it also contemplates that a criminal trial is meant for doing justice to all, the accused, the society and a fair chance to prove to the prosecution. Then alone can law and order be maintained. The courts do not merely discharge the function to ensure that no innocent man is punished, but also that a guilty man does not escape. Both are public duties of the Judge. During the course of the trial, the learned Presiding Judge is expected to work objectively and in a correct perspective. Where the prosecution attempts to misdirect the trial on the basis of a perfunctory or designedly defective investigation, there the court is to be deeply cautious and ensure that despite such an attempt, the determinative process is not subverted. For truly attaining this object of a "fair trial", the court should leave no stone unturned to do justice and protect the interest of the society as well.

35. This brings us to an ancillary issue as to how the court would appreciate the evidence in such cases. The possibility of some variations in the exhibits, medical and ocular evidence cannot be ruled out. But it is not that every minor variation or inconsistency would tilt the balance of justice in favour of the accused. Of course, where contradictions and variations are of a serious nature, which apparently or impliedly are destructive of the substantive case sought to be proved by the prosecution, they may provide an advantage to the accused. The courts, normally, look at expert evidence with a greater sense of acceptability, but it is equally true that the courts are not absolutely guided by the report of the experts, especially if such reports are perfunctory, unsustainable and are the result of a deliberate attempt to misdirect the prosecution. In Kamaljit Singh v. State of Punjab [(2003) 12 SCC 155 : 2004 SCC (Cri) Supp 343 : 2004 Cri LJ 28] , the Court, while dealing with the discrepancies between ocular and medical evidence, held: (SCC p. 159, para 8)

"8. It is trite law that minor variations between medical evidence and ocular evidence do not take away the primacy of the latter. Unless medical evidence in its term goes so far as to completely rule out all possibilities whatsoever of injuries taking place in the manner stated by the eyewitnesses, the testimony of the eyewitnesses cannot be thrown out."

36. Where the eyewitness account is found credible and trustworthy, medical opinion pointing to alternative possibilities may not be accepted as conclusive.

"34. ... The expert witness is expected to put before the court all materials inclusive of the data which induced him to come to the conclusion and enlighten the court on the technical aspect of the case by [examining] the terms of science so that the court although, not an expert may form its own judgment on those materials after giving due regard to the expert's opinion, because once the expert's opinion is accepted, it is not the opinion of the medical officer but [that] of the court."

(See Madan Gopal Kakkad v. Naval Dubey [(1992) 3 SCC 204 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 598 : (1992) 2 SCR 921] SCC pp. 221-22, para 34.)'

21. The present case, when examined in light of the above principles, makes it clear that the defect in the investigation or omission on the part of the investigating officer, cannot prove to be of any advantage to the accused. No doubt the investigating officer ought to have obtained serologist's report both in respect of Ext. 2 and Ext. 5 and matched it with the blood group of the deceased. This is a definite lapse on the part of the investigating officer which cannot be overlooked by the Court, despite the fact that it finds no merit in the contention of the accused.

22. For the reasons aforerecorded, we dismiss this appeal being without any merit. However, we direct the Director General of Police, Uttarakhand, to take disciplinary action against Sub-Inspector Brahma Singh, PW 6, whether he is in service or has since retired, for such serious lapse in conducting investigation. The Director General of Police shall take [a] disciplinary action against the said officer and if he has since retired, the action shall be taken with regard to deduction/stoppage of his pension in accordance with the service rules. The ground of limitation, if stated in the relevant rules, will not operate as the inquiry is being conducted under the direction of this Court."

94. In the case of Bakhsis Singh Vs. State of Punjab, AIR, 1957 SC 904, in paragraph no. 9, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"9. The non-production of Sucha Singh who is stated in the dying declaration and in the statement of Narvel Singh PW 12 to have witnessed the occurrence was commented upon by counsel as a very serious omission. The Public Prosecutor stated at the trial that he was giving up Sucha Singh as he had been won over. Therefore, if produced, Sucha Singh would have been no better than a suborned witness. He was not a witness "essential to the unfolding of the narrative on which the prosecution was based" and if examined the result would have been confusion, because the prosecution would have automatically proceeded to discredit him by cross-examination. No oblique reason for his non-production was alleged, least of all proved. There was therefore no obligation on the part of the prosecution to examine this witness: See Abdul Mohammad v. Attorney-General of Palestine [AIR 1945 PC 42] ; Stephen Servaratne v. King [AIR 1936 PC 289] ; Habeed Mohammad v. State of Hyderabad [(1945) SCR 475] . In the circumstances the court would not interfere with the discretion of the prosecutor as to what witnesses should be called for the prosecution and no adverse inference under Section 114 of the Evidence Act can be drawn against the State."

95. In the case of Narendra Nath Khaware Vs. Parasnath Khaware, (2003) 5 SCC 488, in paragraph no. 7, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"7. Coming to the merits of the appeal, we find that the High Court disposed of the appeal in a very casual and cavalier manner. Before the High Court, it was an appeal against acquittal involving seven accused persons and the offence they were charged with was under Sections 148 and 302 IPC read with Section 149 IPC. The High Court being the court of first appeal, was required to consider and reappreciate the evidence on record. We fail to appreciate the manner in which the High Court disposed of the appeal on the basis of some general observations without making any effort to go into the evidence on record. The learned counsel appearing for the appellant before us particularly drew our attention to the evidence of PW 1, the complainant, who is also the father of the deceased. The complainant was an injured eyewitness. Therefore, there could not be any doubt about his presence on the spot. It was the grievance of the complainant that the accused party were influential people and they had managed to ensure that the prosecuting agency adopts a lackadaisical approach in investigation. This has led the complainant to file a protest petition before the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate complaining the manner in which investigation in the case was being carried out. In fact this explains the non-examination of the investigating officer as a witness in the case. Regarding the observation of the High Court that other witnesses were not examined, the counsel submitted that at the time of actual occurrence only the complainant and his son Diwakar Khaware were present. The others came on the spot after the injuries had already been caused on the victim party. Diwakar Khaware having died at the spot, the complainant was the only eyewitness of the murder. The evidence of the complainant is corroborated by the medical evidence as well as by PWs 2, 3 and 4. The approach of the courts below on the other hand was of finding fault with the prosecution case, that is, non-examination of the investigating officer and non-examination of Ramdhani Jha etc. The prosecution case was thrown overboard on such grounds. We have been taken through the statement of the complainant -- PW 1. The statement shows that at the time of the actual occurrence only the complainant and deceased Diwakar Khaware were present. Diwakar Khaware having died on the spot, the complainant was the only actual eyewitness. Ramdhani Jha etc. came on the spot, maybe immediately after the event, and were therefore not eyewitnesses of the incident. So far as the non-examination of the investigating officer is concerned, it is settled law that the same is not fatal to the prosecution case. It has been often found that in order to help the accused party, specially in case where investigating officers are won over for whatever consideration, the investigating officers absent themselves and do not appear as witness in court. Another factor which had weighed with the courts below is the absence of blood on the spot. This was explained as wholly of no consequence in the facts of the present case where there is no doubt about the actual occurrence having taken place and about the spot where it took place. It is also emerging from the record that the courtyard where the incident took place was open to sky and it was a rainy day. Therefore, as argued by the learned counsel for the appellant, the bloodstains might have been washed away."

96. In the present case, witnesses PW-1, PW-2 and PW-4 have proved the FIR version. Witness PW-5 proved the dying declaration of deceased Satya Pal. There are no material contradictions on the point of occurrence rather they are corroborated each other substantially. In such a scenario, if the occurrence is proved by trustworthy other witnesses of prosecution as well as corroborated by medical evidence, then in that case the non-examination of I.O. will not vitiate the prosecution case. In the light of other trustworthy evidence of prosecution, it also do not cause any prejudice to accused person.

97. Learned counsel for the accused respondents has further submitted that the witness PW-8 has not been confronted with Dak Bahi (dispatch register) and has not been properly cross-examined, therefore his evidence is not admissible, hence learned trial Court has rightly held that the chik FIR has not been proved.

98. In reply, learned A.G.A. has submitted that witness PW-8 is formal witness, who had written the chik report in official record. Cross-examination of witness indicates that a specific question was asked regarding the entry of special report in G.D., the witness replied that he may reply after perusal of Dak Bahi that when chik report was sent from Police Station. Learned A.G.A. also pointed out towards the order sheet of the trial Court which indicates that since that very day, Dakbahi was not available, therefore the trial Court summoned the Dakbahi and the evidence of PW-8 was continued. Learned Trial Court has mentioned in his judgment that after 23.04.1985, the witness PW-8 left/resigned the service, therefore, he could not come in Court again for further cross-examination. Learned A.G.A. further submitted that if the cross-examination of PW-8 is not completed, if so, it will not be a ground to disbelieve the prosecution case, which has been proved by the other cogent evidence of prosecution. If the witness left his service and did not come in Court to complete his cross-examination, the victim had not played any role in it. The argument advanced by learned A.G.A. seems forceful.

99. Record reveals that during the pendency of present appeal, one of the accused-respondent Dhara Singh has died, therefore, the appeal has been abated against him. Other respondents are living/surviving.

100. The accused-respondents in their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in reply of the question that why they have been prosecuted, the accused persons replied that due to partibandi they have been implicated in the case. The defence could not point out any fact of such partibandi, which could show that both the parties (informant and accused persons) were belonging to any rival parties and there was enmity in between the parties. Defence could not produce any evidence regarding alleged reason for any false implication of accused persons, also therefore, the finding of Trial Court that "since as many as five persons had been named as the murders, it could be possible that some innocent persons were also been included with a view to take revenge." is without any footing and is based upon surmises and conjecture.

101. It has been argued by learned counsel for accused/respondents that accused Dhara Singh was carrying Kharpali in his hand, solely caused incised wound to Satyapal, which caused excess bleeding and consequently has died and other accused persons had carried only Lathi and Danda in their hands, which have not caused any fatal injury to victim, hence they are not liable to be charged under Section 302 IPC.

102. According to FIR and prosecution evidence, five persons who had hide themselves in the sugar cane field came out before deceased Satya Pal, who was returning to his residence. The evidence regarding the presence of weapon in the hands of assailants/accused persons is intact and without any discrepancies, they had formed the unlawful assembly with common target, they had beaten Satya Pal badly and caused him 10 injuries in different parts of his body, in furtherance of their common object. The cumulative effect of their attack establishes their intention to cause such injuries, which are sufficient in ordinary course of nature to cause death as a result of excessive bleeding. It is sufficient to prove the common object of accused persons. The number of injuries on the body of Satya Pal proves that he was assaulted by more than one person. The nature and dimensions of injuries indicates their knowledge and intention to inflict such injuries. Therefore, charge of Section 302 read with Section 149 I.P.C. is proved against accused-respondents.

103. The accused persons were carrying Lathi, Danda and Kharpali in their hands, which can undoubtedly be used as deadly weapon, they formed unlawful assembly and in prosecution of common object of such assembly, they committed the offence by violence, therefore, the charges of Section 147 I.P.C. is also proved.

104. In the case of Shivappa & Others Vs. State of Karnataka, 2008 CRI. L.J. 2992, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that the motive having been proved and the number of injuries being 20, in our opinion, leads to only one conclusion that all the accused persons formed a common object in committing the crime.

105. In the case of Hardev Singh Vs. Harbhej Singh & Others 1996 (4) Crimes 216, the Apex Court has held in para 27, which reads as under:-

"27. Coming to the acquittal of accused Nos. 2 and 6 by the trial court against which the State of Punjab had filed an appeal to the High Court and the same was dismissed-in our opinion the learned Sessions Judge had completely misunderstood the scope of Section 149 IPC. The only reason given by the learned trial Judge was that there was no material on the record to prove that they caused any serious injuries to the two victims. It was further observed that no specific role was attributed to these two accused. In our opinion this finding is against and contrary to the evidence on record in as much as both these accused were the members of the unlawful assembly and did have the common object as it was implicit in their action i.e. they were armed with deadly weapons; came along with other accused and participated in the murderous assault on both the victims. The trial court and the High Court had erred in law in not holding both these accused guilty with the aid of Section 149 IPC for the substantive offences punishable under Section 302 IPC. The order of acquittal passed by the trial court and on appeal affirmed by the High Court thus cannot be sustained for the reasons recorded hereinabove."

106. So far as injuries of informant Mahak Singh is concerned, the injuries as shown in injury report and the statement of witnesses indicate that accused persons were not intending to cause death to informant as they were having motive to attack Satya Pal only in revenge of occurrence, which had taken place 7-8 months back between Dhara Singh and Satya Pal, as it has been proved by the evidence of PW-3. The injuries on the body of witness PW-1 was of simple in nature. The circumstances indicate that he has been assaulted when he stood between the accused persons and Satya Pal. Witness

PW-1 has stated in FIR that he was given Lathi blow by accused-respondents Sahab Singh. Witness PW-4 has also corroborated the above fact that accused Sahab Singh had given the Lathi blow to informant Mahak Singh, therefore, charges of Section 323 I.P.C. is also proved against accused respondent Sahab Singh.

107. All the accused-respondents were named in the FIR, who were carrying weapons in their hand. The medical evidence connect the injuries with weapons alleged. The occurrence is of day-light, which has been witnessed by eye witnesses including injured witness. The accused persons had constituted the unlawful assembly and attacked on Satya Pal with their common intention as well as knowledge about severity of injuries. The evidence of prosecution witness, so far as the role of accused persons is concerned, have no contradiction or discrepancy. No evidence is on record, which may bifurcate the role of any of the accused persons. The trial Court has not rightly appreciated the evidence on record and reached to a wrong conclusion holding the accused-respondents to be not guilty for committing the murder of deceased Satya Pal. The impugned judgment and order being against the settled law is unreasonable, based upon surmises and conjunctures, unreasonable and it is found that the relevant and convincing materials have been unjustifiably eliminated. The conclusion/findings recorded by learned trial Court in the impugned judgment and order are perverse and the same are not sustainable in the eye of law.

108. In the light of above discussions and taking into consideration the entire facts and circumstances of the case and reappreciating the evidence available on record in accordance with settled law, we are of the considered view that the prosecution has succeeded to prove the guilt of accused persons beyond any shadow of doubt and to the satisfaction of the judicial conscience of the Court. So, the impugned judgment and order of acquittal dated 22.06.1985 passed by the trial Court, which has been sought to be assailed, call for and deserves interference. The Government Appeal is liable to be allowed and the impugned judgment and order is liable to be set-aside.

109. Accordingly, Government Appeal is allowed and the impugned judgment and order of acquittal dated 22.06.1985 is set aside.

110. Since the occurrence does not come under the purview of rarest of rare cases, therefore, all the surviving accused persons, namely, Sahab Singh, Charan Singh, Dharamvir and Shri Pal are hereby convicted for the offence under Sections 147 IPC and sentenced for two years imprisonment, for the offence under Section 302/149 IPC, they are sentenced for life imprisonment with fine of Rs. 25,000/- each, in default of payment of fine, they will undergo six months additional simple imprisonment. Accused-respondent Sahab Singh will also served the sentence for one year imprisonment for the offence under Section 323 I.P.C. All the sentences shall run concurrently. Earlier period of their detention in jail shall be counted in period of imprisonment imposed by this judgment and order.

111. In case the accused persons deposit the fine, half of fine amount shall be paid to the legal heirs and representatives of deceased Satya Pal forthwith.

112. All the surviving accused-respondents, namely, Sahab Singh, Charan Singh, Dharamvir and Shri Pal, shall put their appearance immediately before Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned. If the accused persons appear before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, they shall be sent to jail to serve out the sentence, However, if they fail to surrender, as directed above, the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned is directed to take coercive action against them in this regard.

113. Let a copy of this judgment alongwith lower court record be sent forthwith to the Trial Court as well as Chief Judicial Magistrate, concerned for necessary compliance and further action. A compliance report be sent to this Court.

A. Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 226 - confers powers on this Court to issue writs to any person or authority throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction, and it can issue writs in relation to the territories within which the cause of action for exercising such power arises. If the cause of action arises wholly within Oudh areas then the Lucknow Bench will have jurisdiction. Similarly, if the cause of action arises wholly outside the specified areas in Oudh then Allahabad will have jurisdiction. If the cause of action in part arises in the specified Oudh areas and part of the cause of action arises outside the specified areas, it will be open to the litigant to frame the case appropriately to attract the jurisdiction either at Lucknow or at Allahabad.

B. P.I.L.- The Writ Petition has not been filed on the ground of violation of any Fundamental right or any statutory right of the public at large, which may warrant the issuance of a Writ Petition. Existence of a legally enforceable right and denial or violation thereof is a pre-requisite for invoking the Writ jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. 'Public Interest Litigation' must mention the legally enforceable right of the public at large which has been infringed or denied.

C. It is not proper on the part of the petitioners to invoke the jurisdiction of the High Court by filing a Public Interest Litigation seeking a relief regarding the subject matter, which is already the subject matter of the pending suits as also of the aforesaid Special Leave Petition.

Writ Petition dismissed. (E-12)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi J.)

1. Heard Sri Asok Pande, the learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Vinod Kumar Shahi, the learned Additional Advocate General of U.P. and Sri Abhinav Narayan Trivedi, the learned Chief Standing Counsel for the respondent nos. 2 and 3, Sri Surya Mani Singh Royekwar, the learned Counsel for the Union of India and Archaeological Survey of India, respondent nos. 1 and 4, who has filed his memo of appearance.

2. The instant petition, which has been styled as a Public Interest Litigation, has been filed by 7 persons praying that a direction be issued "to appoint a Committee / Commission headed by a Judge of the High Court or Supreme Court (sitting or retired) to study the nature of structure found in the Gyan Vapi Campus to ascertain as to whether it is Shivlinga, as being claimed by the Hindus or it is a fountain as being claimed by few of the Muslims and to direct the concerned respondents to act accordingly to such report means if it is a Shivlinga then permit the devotees to pray it as per rituals and if it is found fountain then make it functional".

3. At the outset, Sri Abhinav Narayan Trivedi, the learned Chief Standing Counsel has raised the following preliminary objections against maintainability of the Writ Petition:-

(i). Several Suits are pending in the Civil Court at Varanasi regarding the structures existing in Gyanvapi Parisar, Varanasi and, therefore, this Writ Petition concerning the same subject matter should not be entertained by this Court.

(ii). As per the orders of the Hon'ble Supreme Court passed in Special Leave Petition (Civil) No. 9388 of 2022, the suits filed at Varanasi concerning the controversy relating to Gyan Vapi Compound which were pending in the court of Civil Judge (Senior Division) Varanasi, have been transferred to the Court of District Judge, Varanasi. The aforesaid Special Leave Petition is still pending before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and it is fixed for 21.07.2022 and, therefore, it would not be proper for this Court to entertain a petition while the dispute is pending in the form of various civil suits before the District Judge, Varanasi and it is also engaging the attention of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid pending Special Leave Petition.

(iii). The subject matter of the writ petition is Gyan Vapi Campus situated at Varanasi and it falls within the territorial jurisdiction of this High Court sitting at Allahabad. Therefore, this Court sitting at Lucknow has no territorial jurisdiction to entertain this petition and the petition is liable to be dismissed for want of territorial jurisdiction.

(iv). The learned State Counsel has vehemently opposed the petition and has submitted that the writ petition does not disclose the credentials of the petitioners and the only thing pleaded in this regard is that the petitioners are the followers of Sanatan Dharma. The petition which has allegedly been filed in Public Interest, is not maintainable, unless the petitioners disclose their credentials so as to establish that they have actually approached this Court in public interest only. Placing reliance on a decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ardhendu Kumar Das Versus State of Odisha and others, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 718, the learned State Counsel has submitted that the writ petition filed purportedly in public interest is actually designed to obtain publicity only and, therefore, it is liable to be dismissed at the threshold.

4. When the Court called upon the learned counsel for the petitioners to give a reply to the preliminary objections raised by the learned State Counsel, he categorically stated that he is not bound to reply to each and every submission made by the learned State Counsel. However, when this Court put a question to the learned counsel for the petitioners as to how a Writ Petition can be entertained by this Court in respect of the subject matter which is already the subject matter of suits filed before the Civil Court at Varanasi, the learned Counsel for the petitioners stated that the relief claimed in the instant Public Interest Litigation has not been claimed in any of the suits and, therefore, pendency of the suit would not be a bar against filing of the Public Interest Litigation.

5. When called upon to address the Court on the point of maintainability of the Writ Petition before this Court sitting at Lucknow when the subject matter of the petition is situated at Varanasi, the learned Counsel for the petitioners submitted that Article 226 of the Constitution of India empowers every High Court to issue writs to any person or authority without any territorial fetters and in the past he had filed a Writ Petition in this Court regarding Ram Setu situated in the State of Tamil Nadu and that Writ Petition had been entertained without any objection regarding territorial jurisdiction. He further submitted that Article 226 of the Constitution of India does not contain any provision for separate Benches of the High Court. The territorial jurisdiction of this High Court sitting at Allahabad and at Lucknow has not been divided by the Constitution or by any statute.

6. The learned Chief Standing Counsel has informed that at least 5 regular suits bearing Regular Suit Nos. 350 of 2021, 358 of 2021, 693 of 2021, 839 of 2021 and 840 of 2021 have been filed in the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division) at Varanasi. (D) Decree the suit for such others reliefs for which the Plaintiffs may be found entitled to or which may be deemed necessary to be passed for proper adjudication of the case and in the interest of justice."

11. In the case of Committee of Management Anjuman Intezamia Masjid Varanasi v. Rakhi Singh, Special Leave Petition (Civil) No. 9388 of 2022, the Hon'ble Supreme Court passed the following order on 17-05-2022, which is reported in 2022 SCC OnLine SC 694: -

"1. The orders of the Civil Judge, Senior Division, Varanasi dated 18 August 2021, 5 April 2022 and 8 April 2022 were questioned before the Single Judge of the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad in a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution1. The Single Judge by an order dated 21 April 2022 rejected the petition.

2. In pursuance of the order of the Trial Judge, the Commissioner commenced executing the work of the Commission on 14 and 15 May 2022.

3. During the course of the execution of the work of the Commission, an application was moved before the Trial Judge on 16 May 2022 by counsel for the plaintiffs stating as follows :

"Sir

Today on 16.05.2022, a Shivalinga is found in Masjid Complex at the place where Waju Khana is there..

This is a very important piece of evidence.

Kindly make the following directions -

1. Direct the C.R.P.F. Commandant to seal the Waju Khana with proper force.

2. Kindly direct the District Magistrate to restrict entire of Muslims for offering Namaz. Not more than 20 Muslims be allowed to offer Namaz.

3. Kindly stop the usage of Weju Khana with immediate effect."

4. On the above application, the following order has been passed ex-parte :

"Application 78Ga is allowed. The DM, Varanasi is directed that the place where Shivalinga has been found should be sealed with immediate effect and entry of any person should be prohibited in the sealed area. The DM, Varanasi, Police Commissioner, Police Commissionerate, Varanasi and the C.R.P.F. Commandant, Varanasi, are directed that the individual responsibility for the protection and preservation of the place which is being sealed shall be individually upon the aforesaid officers. With regards to the place being sealed the responsibility of supervision of what is being done by the administration shall be upon the Director General of Police, Police Headquarters, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow and Principal Secretary, U.P. Government, Lucknow."

5. Issue notice returnable on 19 May 2022. Dasti permitted in addition.

6. Mr. Huzefa A Ahmadi, learned senior counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner, submits that since the Trial Judge has allowed application No 78Ga, the order is susceptible of the interpretation that the entirety of the reliefs which were sought has been allowed. Learned senior counsel urged that the above order has been passed ex-parte when the work of the Commission was in progress and that the petitioners question the order to carry out a survey on the ground of jurisdiction.

7. Mr. Tushar Mehta, learned Solicitor General, appears for the State of Uttar Pradesh.

8. In order to obviate any dispute on the meaning and content of the order of the Trial Judge, the operation and ambit of the order dated 16 May 2022 shall stand restricted to the extent that the District Magistrate, Varanasi shall ensure that the area where the Shivalinga is stated to have been found, as indicated in the order, shall be duly protected.

9. The above direction shall not in any manner restrain or impede the access of Muslims to the mosque or the use of the Mosque for the purpose of performing Namaz and religious observances."

12. On 20-05-2022, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has been pleased to pass the following order in the aforesaid case, which is reported in 2022 SCC OnLine SC 696: -

"1. Having regard to the complexity of the issues involved in the suit and their sensitivity, we are of the considered view that the suit pending before the Civil Judge, Senior Division, Varanasi (Civil Suit No 693 of 2021) should be tried before a senior and experienced judicial officer of the Uttar Pradesh Higher Judicial Service.

2. We accordingly order and direct that:

(i) Civil Suit No 693 of 2021 shall stand transferred from the file of the Civil Judge, Senior Division, Varanasi to the court of the District Judge, Varanasi for trial and all interlocutory and ancillary proceedings in the suit shall be addressed to and decided by the court of the District Judge;

(ii) The application filed by the petitioner under Order VII Rule 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 shall be decided on priority by the District Judge upon the transfer of the suit;

(iii) Since parties are appearing on notice, all orders in the suit shall be passed upon hearing the parties;

(iv) The interim order of this Court dated 17 May 2022 shall continue to remain in operation pending the disposal of the application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC and thereafter for a period of eight weeks so as to enable any party which is aggrieved by the order of the District Judge to pursue its rights and remedies in accordance with law;

(v) Unless adequate arrangements for ensuring the due observance of Waju have already been made by the District Magistrate, we direct the District Magistrate, in consultation with the parties, to ensure that appropriate arrangements are made for the religious observance; and

(vi) The order passed by the Civil Judge, Senior Division, Varanasi on 16 May 2022 shall stand subsumed by the terms of the order of this Court dated 17 May 2022, pending further orders.

3. These proceedings shall be listed on 21 July 2022."

13. By means of the instant petition, the petitioners have sought a direction to the respondents to appoint a Committee / Commission to study the nature of the structure found in the Gyanvapi Campus. The structures existing in Gyanvapi compound at Varanasi are already the subject matter of dispute in various civil suits mentioned above and in Civil Suit No. 693 of 2021 a declaration has been sought regarding the right to perform all the rituals of "visible and invisible deities" within the temple complex situated at Settlement Plot No. 9130 in the area of Ward and Police Station Dashashwamedh, District Varanasi. In Suit No. 350 of 2022 a declaration has been sought to the effect that the worshippers of Maa Godess Shrigar Gauri, Goddess Maa Ganga, Lord Hanuman, Lord Ganeshji, Nandiji alongwith Lord Adi Visheshwar are entitled to have Darshan, Pooja and Worship of the deities within the area of Settlement Plot No. 9130, measuring about 1 Bigha, 9 Biswas and 6 Dhoors situated at Dashwaamedh in the heart of City of Varanasi, Ward and Police Station Dashashwamedh.

14. A commission for local inspection has already been issued and it has been carried out in Civil Suit No 693 of 2021 under orders passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Varanasi and as per the plaintiffs, a Shivlinga has been found during local inspection of the site by the Commissioner appointed by the Court and this claim is being disputed by the other side and having regard to the complexity of the issues involved, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has directed that the aforesaid Civil Suit shall be transferred to the Court of the District Judge, Varanasi, for trial and all interlocutory and ancillary proceedings in the suit have also been directed to be decided by the District Judge, Varanasi. The Special Leave Petition is still pending before the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

15. Keeping into consideration the aforesaid facts, we are of the considered opinion that it is not proper on the part of the petitioners to invoke the jurisdiction of the High Court by filing a Public Interest Litigation seeking a relief regarding the subject matter, which is already the subject matter of the pending suits as also of the aforesaid Special Leave Petition. For the aforesaid reason, we are not decline to entertain the Writ Petition.

16. However, since the learned Chief Standing Counsel has raised a preliminary objection against maintainability of the Writ Petition on the ground of lack of territorial jurisdiction and the learned Counsel for the petitioner has advanced his submissions in reply to the aforesaid preliminary objection, we think it appropriate to deal with the same also. The relevant portion of the Article 226 of the Constitution of India provides as follows:-

"226. Power of High Courts to issue certain writs: -

(i) Notwithstanding anything in Article 32 every High Court shall have powers, throughout the territories in relation to which it exercise jurisdiction, to issue to any person or authority, including in appropriate cases, any Government, within those territories directions, orders or writs, including writs in the nature of habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibitions, quo warranto and certiorari, or any of them, for the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III and for any other purpose

(ii) The power conferred by clause (1) to issue directions, orders or writs to any Government, authority or person may also be exercised by any High Court exercising jurisdiction in relation to the territories within which the cause of action, wholly or in part, arises for the exercise of such power, notwithstanding that the seat of such Government or authority or the residence of such person is not within those territories

(iii)....."

(Emphasis Supplied)

17. A perusal of the Article 226 of the Constitution of India makes it manifest that it confers power upon every High Court to issue directions, orders or writs throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction. Clause (2) of the Article 226 of the Constitution of India further provides that the power to issue directions, orders or writs may be exercised by any High Court exercising jurisdiction in relation to the territory within which the cause of action wholly or in part arises for exercise of such power, notwithstanding that the seat of the Government, authority or the residence of any person to whom direction, order or writ is to be issued, is not within those territories.

18. Article 226 of the Constitution of India confers powers on this Court to issue writs to any person or authority throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction, and it can issue writs in relation to the territories within which the cause of action for exercising such power arises. Therefore, the submission of the learned Counsel for the petitioners that Article 226 of the Constitution of India empowers every High Court to issue writs to any person or authority and Article 226 of the Constitution of India does not put any territorial fetters on the powers of the High Court, is without any substance and the same is rejected.

19. The submission of the learned Counsel for the petitioners that in the past he had filed a Writ Petition in this Court regarding Ram Setu situated in the State of Tamil Nadu and that Writ Petition had been entertained without any objection regarding territorial jurisdiction is too vague to warrant any consideration. He has not submitted copy of any judgment which can be treated as a binding precedent. He has not even cared to give any particulars of the judgment e.g. the number of the case or the date of its decision. In absence of a copy or the particulars of the judgment having been produced before this Court, we cannot ascertain as to whether the point of territorial jurisdiction was raised in that Writ Petition and if such a point was involved in the Writ Petition, what ratio had been laid down by this Court while deciding the issue. Therefore, we reject the aforesaid submission of the learned Counsel for the petitioner.

20. The Uttar Pradesh High Courts Amalgamation Order, 1948 was published on 19.07.1948 and it was through this Order that the High Court in Allahabad and Chief Court in Oudh situated at Lucknow were amalgamated so as to constitute a new High Court by the name of "High Court of Judicature at Allahabad'. Clause-14 of the Amalgamation Order provides as follows:-

"14. The new High Court, and the Judges and Division Courts thereof, shall sit at Allahabad or at such other places in the United Provinces as the Chief Justice may, with the approval of the Governor of the United Provinces, appointed :

Provided that unless Governor of the United Provinces with the concurrence of the Chief Justice, otherwise directs such Judges of the new High Court, not less than two in number, as the Chief Justice, may, from time to time, nominate, shall sit at Lucknow in order to exercise in respect of cases arising in such areas in Oudh, as the Chief Justice may direct, the jurisdiction and power for the time being vested in the new High Court :

Provided further that the Chief Justice may in his discretion order that any case or class of cases arising in the said areas shall be heard at Allahabad."

21. Historically, 12 districts, namely Lucknow, Hardoi, Kheri, Rai Bareli, Sitapur, Unnao, Faizabad, Ambedkar

Nagar, Baharaich, Shravasti, Barabanki, Gonda, Balrampur, Pratapgarh, Sultanpur, were known as "Oudh Region" and these areas were within the jurisdiction of the Court of Judicial Commissioner, Oudh, Lucknow. After passing of the Amalgamation Order, as per the provision contained in the First Proviso appended to Clause 14 of the Amalgamation Order, this Court sitting at Lucknow continued to exercise jurisdiction in respect of the cases arising in areas falling in Oudh region.

22. The submission of the learned counsel for the petitioners is that the Amalgamation Order dated 19.07.1948 lost its efficacy after the Constitution of India came into force on 26.01.1950. His submission is that Article 226 of the Constitution of India contains no provision limiting the territorial jurisdiction of this Court at Lucknow to the areas which were historically known as the "Oudh Region' and this Court's jurisdiction is not limited to the areas of Oudh and the writ petition filed for the reliefs concerning the subject matter situate at Varanasi can be filed and entertained at Lucknow.

23. In the celebrated judgment in the case of Nasiruddin vs State Transport Appellate Tribunal, 1975 (2) SCC 671, which was a case decided long after coming into force of the Constitution of India, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that:-

"38. To sum up. Our conclusions are as follows. First, there is no permanent seat of the High Court at Allahabad. The seats at Allahabad and at Lucknow may be changed in accordance with the provisions of the Order. Second, the Chief Justice of the High Court has no power to increase or decrease the areas in Oudh from time to time. The areas in Oudh have been determined once by the Chief Justice and, therefore, there is no scope for changing the areas. Third, the Chief Justice has power under the second proviso to para 14 of the Order to direct in his discretion that any case or class of cases arising in Oudh areas shall be heard at Allahabad. Any case or class of cases are those which are instituted at Lucknow. The interpretation given by the High Court that the word "heard" confers powers on the Chief Justice to order that any case or class of cases arising in Oudh areas shall be instituted or filed at Allahabad, instead of Lucknow is wrong. The word "heard" means that cases which have already been instituted or filed at Lucknow may in the discretion of the Chief Justice under the second proviso to para 14 of the Order be directed to be heard at Allahabad. Fourth, the expression "cause of action" with regard to a civil matters means that it should be left to the litigant to institute cases at Lucknow Bench or at Allahabad Bench according to the cause of action arising wholly or in part within either of the areas. If the cause of action arises wholly within Oudh areas then the Lucknow Bench will have jurisdiction. Similarly, if the cause of action arises wholly outside the specified areas in Oudh then Allahabad will have jurisdiction. If the cause of action in part arises in the specified Oudh areas and part of the cause of action arises outside the specified areas, it will be open to the litigant to frame the case appropriately to attract the jurisdiction either at Lucknow or at Allahabad. Fifth, a criminal case arises when the offence has been committed or otherwise as provided in the Criminal Procedure Code. That will attract the jurisdiction of the Court at Allahabad or Lucknow. In some cases depending on the facts and the provision regarding jurisdiction, it may arise in either place.

39. Applications under Article 226 will similarly lie either at Lucknow or at Allahabad as the applicant will allege that the whole of cause of action or part of the cause of action arose at Lucknow within the specified areas of Oudh or part of the cause of action arose at a place outside the specified Oudh areas."

(Emphasis Supplied)

24. As per the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Nasiruddin (supra) an application under Article 226 of the Constitution of India will lie at Lucknow if the petitioners allege that whole of the cause of action or a part thereof arose within the areas of Oudh.

25. The judgment of Nasiruddin (supra) was followed and reaffirmed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of U.P. Rashtriya Chini Mill Adhikari Parishad, Lucknow Vs. State of U.P. and others, 1995 (4) SCC 738, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that, "to decide the question of territorial jurisdiction it is necessary to find out the place where the "cause of action" arose. We, with respect, reiterate that the law laid down by a Four-Judge Bench of this Court in Nasiruddin's case holds good even today despite the incorporation of an explanation to Section 141 to the Code of Civil Procedure".

26. The law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Nasiruddin (supra) and reaffirmed in U.P. Rashtriya Chini Mill Adhikari Parishad, Lucknow (supra) is binding on this Court and we find no force in the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioners that there is no law limiting the jurisdiction of this Court sitting at Lucknow to the cases in which the cause of action arose within the territorial limits of Oudh region.

27. We, therefore, hold that this Court sitting at Lucknow has no territorial jurisdiction to entertain this writ petition filed at Lucknow regarding the subject matter situate at Varanasi.

28. Now we proceed to deal with the last point raised by the learned State Counsel. The writ petition does not disclose the credentials of the petitioners and the only thing pleaded in this regard is that the petitioners are the followers of Sanatan Dharma. The sole ground taken in this petition reads as under:-

"A. Because it is necessary to ascertain the nature of the impugned structure found in the Gyan Vapi premises by a committee of the experts appointed by Govt. as well as the ASI so that in case it is Shivlinga as being claimed by the Hindus, the Bhog, Aarti, Prasad & Darshan of Lord Shiva may start without any further delay."

29. The Writ Petition has not been filed on the ground of violation of any Fundamental right or any statutory right of the public at large, which may warrant the issuance of a Writ Petition. Existence of a legally enforceable right and denial or violation thereof is a pre-requisite for invoking the Writ jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

30. Ardhendu Kumar Das Versus State of Odisha and others, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 718 was a case arising out of a public interest litigation filed in the Orissa High Court challenging the alleged unsanctioned and unauthorized construction activities undertaken within the prohibited area of the Shree Jagannath Temple Complex in contravention of the provisions of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Sites and Remains Act, 1958. The order passed by the High Court in the aforesaid Public Interest Litigation Petition was challenged by a person who was not the petitioner before the High Court, by filing a SLP before the Hon'ble Supreme Court. He had based his claim of locus on the basis of being "ardent devotee of Lord Jagannath'. While dismissing the Special Leave Petition, the Hon'ble Supreme Court made the following observations:-

"58. We, therefore, find no merit in the contentions raised on behalf of the appellants. We are of the considered view that the public interest litigation filed before the High Court rather than being in public interest, is detrimental to the public interest at large.

59. In the recent past, it is noticed that there is mushroom growth of public interest litigations. However, in many of such petitions, there is no public interest involved at all. The petitions are either publicity interest litigations or personal interest litigation. We highly deprecate practice of filing such frivolous petitions. They are nothing but abuse of process of law. They encroach upon a valuable judicial time which could be otherwise utilized for considering genuine issues. It is high time that such so called public interest litigations are nipped in the bud so that the developmental activities in the larger public interest are not stalled."

31. The aforesaid observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court squarely apply to the present petition, which has although been styled as a "Public Interest Litigation', but which does not contain any mention of any legally enforceable right of the public at large having been infringed or denied and it appears that the petition has been filed merely in order to gain some publicity. The filing of a Public Interest Litigation for the oblique motive of gaining publicity, as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, needs to be nipped in the bud by dismissing the same at the admission stage itself.

32. In view the aforesaid discussion, the Writ Petition is dismissed. However, there will be no order as to costs.

In this writ petition, the learned counsel for the petitioners has orally applied for issuance of a certificate for filing an appeal before the Hon'ble Supreme Court under Article 134-A (b) read with Article 133 (1) (a) & (b) of the Constitution of India.

The subject matter of the writ petition is already the subject matter of various suits filed before the Civil Court at Varanasi and the Hon'ble Supreme Court has passed an order in Special Leave Petition (Civil) No.9388 of 2022 transferring all the suits to the court of the District Judge, Varanasi and the aforesaid S.L.P. is still pending. We have decided the writ petition after taking into consideration and relying upon the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on the points involved in the writ petition. Therefore, in our considered opinion, the matter does not involve any such question as may warrant issuance of a certificate for filing an appeal before the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

Accordingly, we are not inclined to grant the certificate as prayed for under Article 134-A (b) read with Article 133 (1) (a) & (b) of the Constitution of India, hence, we reject the said prayer.

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Krishna Kumar Singh, Anshu Singh, Prabhakar Vardhan Chaudhary

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Mohammad Aslam Khan, Ratnesh Chandra

A. If a writ petition filed by a person raises question of public importance involving exercise of power by men in authority, then it is the duty of the Court to enquire into the matter. The legal fraud played by the public authority for benefit of the private persons at the expense of public at large cannot be condoned even if a person files a writ petition for vindication of his private interest

B. Civil Law - U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950- Sections 132 & 117 (6) - The St. or its instrumentalities cannot give largesse to any person according to the sweet will and whims of the authorities of the St.. Every action/decision of the St. and its agencies/instrumentalities to give largesse or confer benefit must be founded on a sound, transparent, discernible and well-defined policy. the land recorded as 'Jangal Dhak' is a forest land and is a public utility land and same cannot be transferred by way of lease, sale etc and no bhumidhari rights shall accrue in respect of the said land. These lands are saved under Section 132 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950.

C. Civil Law - Revenue Code, 2006 - Section 101 r/w Rule 101 & 102 - The land which was a public utility land, was resumed and allotted in favour of a private person, Late R.S Agrawal, Ex-IAS officer by the then District Magistrate in purported exercise of the power under Section 117(6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 for charitable purpose and now it is being used for commercial purposes, therefore, such a land cannot be exchanged in any manner. Even otherwise, under Section 101 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 the land in which bhumidhari rights cannot get accrued, cannot be exchanged. Since the very order of resuming the land for a private Trust, was against the law and, therefore, it was void ab initio and no valid right, title or interest got accrued in favour of the private Trust and no exchange, therefore, is permitted.

Writ Petition

1. The present writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been filed against the alleged illegal, arbitrary and mala fide resumption of the Gram Sabha land comprising in Gata Nos.467, 468, 509, 554 (new nos.842, 1034, 1039, 1040 and 1175), measuring 3 acres situated in Village Nanakganj Grant, Pargana Gopmau, Tehsil Sadar, District Hardoi for a private trust created by one Radhey Shyam Agarwal, a retired IAS officer, father of Sanjeev Agarwal, opposite party no.5, by the then District Magistrate, Hardoi vide order dated 30.1.1987. It has been prayed in the writ petition to issue a Writ of Mandamus to opposite parties-authorities to hold an independent inquiry into the matter and a direction has been sought for removal of unauthorized/illegal constructions of Maruti Car showroom of Concept Cars Limited over the said land.

Facts of the Case:

2. A private Trust namely, Gyan Yog Charitable Trust was created by late Radhey Shyam Agarwal on 10.9.1986. This Trust was said to have been created for charitable purposes. Main objects of the Trust were to provide help to poor people in education, medical relief and free accommodation and assistance to the travellers, providing food to the deserving people, advancement of Indian culture and literature, rural developmental etc. The Trust was settled with Rs.5,000/- which was the corpus of fixed property of the Trust. Radhey Shyam Agarwal became the first Managing Trustee and the Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

3. The revenue record before the consolidation operation was undertaken in the village, would suggest that in khatauni of 1333 Fasli (Year 1926) the lands of khata no.178 comprising of old plot nos.508, 509, 567, 544/1 (new plot nos.1034, 1035, 1039, 1040, 1175) were rerecorded as "Jangal Dhak' in clause (5)(iii)(b)(2) of the Land Record Manual. Thus, the lands were public utility lands vested in Gaon Sabha. In 1356 Fasli (Year 1949) also the lands in the aforesaid gata numbers were recorded as "Jangal Dhak'. The then District Magistrate, Hardoi resumed the said land for late Radhey Shyam Agarwal, a retired IAS officer purportedly in exercise of powers conferred under sub-section (6) of Section 117 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (hereinafter referred to as U.P.ZA & LR Act) vide order dated 30.1.1987. It was said that the said order dated 30.1.1987 was passed in partial embellishment of the Government Order dated 16.6.1981. The total land resumed in the aforesaid gata numbers was 4-16-8 (three acres) for the Trust. The said transaction was reflected in Khata No.363 of Khatauni of 1395 Fasli. It was said that Radhey Shyam Agarwal deposited premium amount of Rs.24,000/-. After the land was transferred in the name of Radhey Shyam Agarwal, the said land was given on lease by him for annual rent of Rs.250/- in favour of Indresh Charan Das for 99 years. A school building was constructed for imparting education upto Class-VIII. It was also said that a small charitable hospital was also constructed and there was a Homeopathy Dispensary, 10 bedded Allopathy hospital which came up on the said land.

4. After death of Radhey Shyam Agarwal, vide order dated 23.10.1999, Tehsildar, Sadar, Hardoi in Case No.207 under Section 34 of the Uttar Pradesh Land Revenue Act, 1901 directed substitution of name of his eldest son, Rajeev Agarwal. In the khatauni of 1412-1417 Fasli Year, name of Rajeev Agarwal S/o Radhey Shyam Agarwal, President of the Gyan Yog Charitable Trust got recorded against the said land.

5. It is also relevant to note here that as per official version there is no record available regarding mutation of the name of Sanjeev Agarwal, opposite party no.5, S/o

Radhey Shyam Agarwal. Despite no order on record in respect of mutation of name of Sanjeev Agarwal in place of Rajeev Agarwal, Sanjeev Agarwal, opposite party no.5 sold the land of Khata No.657 in Gata Nos.842M/0.0370 hectares and 1175/0.1260 hectares, total 0.1530 hectares vide sale deed dated 19.6.2010 to his two worthy sons Yash Vardhan Agarwal and Surya Vardhan Agarwal for a meagre amount of Rs.15,00,000/-. Thereafter, again vide sale deed dated 1.7.2010, a portion of the aforesaid land (area 1057.72 Sq.M) was sold to his son, Yash Vardhan Agarwal and his close and promising relative, Pradeep Kumar Agarwal for a meagre amount of Rs.12,00,000/-. Names of sons of Sanjeev Agarwal i.e. Yash Vardhan Agarwal and Surya Vardhan Agarwal and his close relative, Pradeep Kumar Agarwal got mutated vide order dated 2.1.2013 passed by the Tehsildar (Judicial), Sadar, Hardoi. After the aforesaid sale deeds were executed, the hospital building was demolished and a showroom for Maruti Cars got constructed by Concept Cars Limited, in which the Sanjeev Agarwal, opposite party no.5, and his two sons and his close relative, Mr. Pradeep Agrawal are Directors.

6. It is also relevant to mention here that Surya Vardhan Agarwal S/o Sanjeev Agarwal is the Treasurer of trust and Yash Vardhan Agarwal is also the Trustee of the Trust. It is said that a resolution for sale of the land in favour of the two sons and a close relative of the President of the Trust was passed in the meeting of the Board of Trustees held on 20.9.2009. The excuse was that the trust was running into losses as financial aid from the Central and the State Governments got dried up and the audit balance sheet of 2009-2010 would show that there was a liability of Rs.23,02,750.85/- of sundry creditors and the trust was having no other source to pay the debt apart from liquidating the landed assets of the trust. Thus, in the meeting of the Board of Trustees dated 20.9.2009 held under the Chairmanship of Mr. K.B. Shukla, the Managing Trustee was authorized to dispose of the portion of the land, where the hospital etc. was being run by the trust. Later, the land sold, was leased to M/s Concept Cars Limited, in which Sanjeev Agarwal, Managing Trustee, his two sons and his close relative, Pradeep Kumar Agarwal are the Directors. The Concept Cars Limited had constructed a full fledged showroom over the said property and running commercial venture for profit.

7. Initially, on 18.3.2021 when this petition came up for hearing, opposite party no.5 was on caveat and represented by Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Mohd. Aslam Khan. This Court noted very peculiar facts of the case. The land of Gaon Sabha, public utility land, which was resumed in favour of the trust, was transferred by the President of the trust in favour of his own sons and a close relative. Sons of the President of the trust are Treasurer and the trustees of the trust. Therefore, this Court formulated two questions, namely; (i) Whether the land could have been resumed and vested in a trust by the then District Magistrate in exercise of powers under sub-section (6) of Section 117 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act; and; (ii) Assuming that it could have been vested considering the public purpose sought to be achieved, whether it could have been sold off by the Trust or any of its member in favour of the Treasurer of the Trust for private purposes, if so, under what law? The Court passed the following order on 18.3.2021:-

"This is a P.I.L. filed by the petitioner seeking a Writ of Mandamus commanding the opposite party no. 3 to conduct an inquiry in the matter in pursuance of letter dated 28.07.2020 issued by opposite party no. 2 i.e. the Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow, whereby he has directed to conduct inquiry as per law.

Shri M.A. Khan, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri M.A. Khan, Advocate appearing for opposite party no. 5 having filed a caveat submits that the petition has been filed with oblique motive and is a personal interest litigation. Petitioner is an erst while employee of Concept Car Ltd. of which the opposite party no. 5 is the Managing Director and after his ouster from service, he has filed this petition with oblique motive and malafide intentions. Shri Khan proposes to file an affidavit in this regard.

Keeping the question of bona fide of the petitioner open for being considered, meaning thereby, if it is found that the petitioner is pursuing a personal agenda and the action is not actuated by bona fide, this Court would not encourage such a litigant, however, at this stage the Court cannot ignore certain facts and documents which are on record according to which the land in question was in the control and management of the Gaon Sabha concerned when it was resumed by the State Government in exercise of powers under Section 117 (6) of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 vide notification dated 30.01.1987 and the same was vested in a trust namely Gyan Yog Dharmarth, through its Chairman Shri R.S. Gangwar, retired I.A.S. It is said that the said trust took a decision to run a hospital and school on the said land which was earlier in the custody of the Gaon Sabha. Subsequently, it is said that the subsequent Chairman of the trust namely opposite party no. 5 herein sold of the said land to the Treasurer of the Trust namely Mr. Yash Vardhan Aggarwal who in turn has opened a Maruti showroom on the said land. Now, if these facts are correct then this Court would consider the registration of Suo Motu P.I.L., as, ultimately, the land belongs to the State and is held by it as a Trust for the people. The question would be firstly whether it could have been resumed and vested in a trust but assuming that it could have been vested considering the public purpose sought to be achieved, whether it could have been sold of by the Trust or any of its member in favour of the Treasurer of the Trust for private purposes, if so, under what law? The question then would be of larger public interest as such land is held by the State as a trustee of the people.

As Shri M.A. Khan, learned Senior Counsel appearing for opposite party no. 5 prays for time for filing counter affidavit.

10 days time as prayed is granted to him for filing counter affidavit.

The opposite party no. 1 shall file his own affidavit in the matter after getting the facts verified in the light of the law on this subject.

It is open for opposite parties no. 2, 3 and 4 also to file their counter affidavit but separately.

List/Put up this case on 05.04.2021 as fresh.

All pleas are open for consideration.

Shri Yogesh Kumar Awasthi, learned Standing Counsel shall communicate this order to the Additional Chief Secretary/Principle Secretary, Revenue, as also, to the Chief Secretary, U.P.

It is made clear that the petitioner is cautioned not to use this order for any ulterior purpose either in the media or social media as all pleas are still open for consideration and if he does so, it will have serious consequences."

8. Learned Standing Counsel representing the State was directed to communicate the aforesaid order to the Additional Chief Secretary/Principal Secretary, Revenue, as also, to the Chief Secretary of the Uttar Pradesh.

9. After the said order was passed by this Court, a letter dated 25.3.2021 was issued by the Additional Chief Secretary/Principal Secretary, Revenue to the District Magistrate, Hardoi with direction to send some senior officers along with record to brief her regarding the issue in question. On 26.3.2021, Sub-Divisional Magistrate and the Naib Tehsildar came along with record in respect of the land in question to brief the Principal Secretary, Revenue, Government of Uttar Pradesh. The Additional Chief Secretary/Principal Secretary, Revenue, prima facie, found irregularity in the whole process and, therefore, vide order dated 26.3.2021 directed the District Magistrate, Hardoi to inquire into the matter in detail and take further action against the officials/employees concerned and to intimate the same to the State Government.

10. In compliance of the directions issued by the Additional Chief Secretary/Principal Secretary, Revenue vide order dated 26.3.2021, the District Magistrate, Hardoi constituted a three members committee comprising of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Hardoi, Settlement Officer, Consolidation and the City Magistrate, Hardoi to inquire into the matter vide order dated 30.3.2021. The three members committee submitted its detailed report dated 1.6.2021 to the District Magistrate, Hardoi. The inquiry report has been placed on record with the affidavit of the Additional Chief Secretary/Principal Secretary, Revenue. The committee in its detailed report, said that the land in question was recorded in revenue record of 1333 Fasli (Year 1926) as "Jangal Dhak' of Class-5(iii)(b)(2) land. In 1356 Fasli (Year 1949) also the said land was recorded as "Jangal Dhak'. The said land is vested in the Gram Sabha as per Para A-124 of the U.P. Land Records Manual, and it is a public utility land.

11. The three members committee also said that the resumption order dated 30.1.1987 passed by the then District Magistrate was against the law. It was further said that transfer of the land by Mr. Sanjeev Agarwal, Managing Trustee of the Trust in favour of his two sons and a close relative for setting up commercial venture, was bad in law. The committee also noted the forging of the documents by the revenue authorities and misplacing the original file of the resumption and allotment of land by the then District Magistrate vide order dated 30.1.1987. The committee recommended for taking action and lodging of FIR against the erring officials.

12. The District Magistrate, Hardoi after considering the said report of the three members committee, vide a detailed order dated 4.6.2021 cancelled the resumption and allotment order dated 30.1.1987 passed by then District Magistrate, Harodi holding same to be void ab initio and directed the said land to be recorded as Gram Sabha land. FIR No.0305 of 2021 under Section 409 IPC has been registered for going missing of the original file of the resumption and allotment order dated 30.1.1987 from the office of the District Magistrate.

13. The District Magistrate also noted in his order that after death of Radhey Shyam Agarwal, retired IAS officer, vide order dated 23.10.1999 passed under Section 34 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901, name of Rajeev Agarwal S/o Radhey Shyam Agarwal was substituted in place of Radhey Shyam Agarwal in the revenue records. However, there was no order of substitution of name of Sanjeev Agarwal in place of Sri Rajeev Agrawal. It has been further said that the transfer of land to private persons, is against the provisions of the Sections 51, 52 and 53 of the Indian Trust Act, 1882 and in violation of Section 117(6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. Thus, it has been said that the order dated 30.1.1987 was void ab initio and, therefore, the same is liable to be cancelled. Tehsildar, Sadar has been directed to take action under Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 for eviction of the persons illegally occupying the land in question.

14. Sanjeev Agarwal, opposite party no.5 filed Writ Petition bearing No.12066 (MB) of 2021 before this Court on 14.6.2021 challenging the order dated 4.6.2021 passed by the District Magistrate, Hardoi. However, the said writ petition was dismissed as withdrawn with liberty to file a fresh petition on 16.6.2021. On 15.6.2021, opposite party no.5 filed a revision bearing No.1146 of 2021 before the Board of Revenue, Prayagraj impugning the order dated 4.6.2021 passed by the District Magistrate, Hardoi. Thereafter, second Writ petition bearing no.12641 (MS) of 2021 was filed before this Court impugning the order dated 4.6.2021 passed by the District Magistrate, Hardoi. This Court vide order dated 23.6.2021 directed the said writ petition to be listed along with the present writ petition. The said writ petition was, however, withdrawn by opposite party no.5 on 20.7.2021.

15. During the pendency of this writ petition, another revision bearing No.1351 of 2021 came to be filed by Ram Chandra Razwar, the Manager of the Concept Carts Limited under Section 210 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 impugning the order dated 4.6.2021 passed by the District Magistrate, Hardoi. Interestingly, while the writ petition was pending on the subject matter and the High Court was in seisen of the subject matter, the Board of Revenue proceeded to decide the said revision and passed the order dated 2.8.2021. Two very interesting aspects of the order dated 2.8.2021 are to be taken note of. The Board of Revenue in paragraph eight of the said order held that the preliminary objection raised by the counsel for the complainant and the Standing Counsel for the revenue regarding maintainability of the revision on behalf of the Concept Cars Limited or its Manager had force. It was said that the Manager of the Concept Cars Limited and the Concept Cars Limited itself had no right file and maintain the revision challenging the validity of the order dated 4.6.2021 passed by the District Magistrate, Hardoi and, therefore, the Board of Revenue accepted the preliminary objection raised regarding the maintainability of the revision. It was observed that if the revisionist was so advised, he could become the party in the revision filed on behalf of the Trust impugning the order dated 4.6.2021, but the revision on behalf of the Manager of the Concept Cars Limited/Concept Cars Limited would not be maintainable. Despite the said finding on the preliminary objection, the Board of Revenue held that the prayer of the revisionist i.e. Manager of the Concept Cars Limited regarding exchange of the land in question with some other land being offered on behalf of the revisionist/Concept Cars Limited in exercise of powers under Section 161 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act and under Section 101 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 would be required to be considered.

16. This Court is of the considered view that the Board of Revenue has incorrectly held that the land in Gata No.1175 was not recorded as "public utility land' though the same was recorded as "Jangal Dhak' and was a public utility land as per the provisions of Para A-124 of the U.P. Land Records Manual. The Board of Revenue held that since the said land was not a public utility land, therefore, the said land could be exchanged with some other land of equal value and there would not be any legal hurdle in doing so. The Board of Revenue thus, directed the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Hardoi to make inspection of the lands, which are being offered by the revisionist/Concept Cars Limited in exchange of the land in Gata No.1175, and take possession of the land offered by the revisionist in exchange of the land in Gata No.1175 of the area, which would be 10% more than the area of Gata No.1175. It has been further held that the said order of exchange would be subject to the final outcome of Revision No.1146 of 2021 filed by the Trust. It has been ordered that that the revisionist would file an affidavit before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and will undertake that in case the order dated 4.6.2021 is affirmed, the revisionist should not claim any right in respect of the land being offered in exchange of the land in Gata No.1175, and in future if it was found that the land offered in exchange of land in Gata No.1175 had any defect of ownership, then the revisionist would be liable to compensate for the loss, if any. It has been ordered that the revisionist would file the undertaking along with application within a period of two weeks before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and the Sub-Divisional Magistrate has been directed to make inspection of the land in Gata Nos.1143, 1167 Cha and 846, which are being offered in exchange and then out of the three gatas, the most valuable land should be accepted in exchange. After taking possession of the said land, the possession should be handed over to the Gram Sabha. It has been further directed that all this should be completed within a period of six weeks. It has been ordered that for a period of two months or from the date of taking possession of the land offered in exchange of Gata No.1175, status-quo in respect of the possession of Gata No.1175 shall be maintained.

17. Thus, on one hand the Board of Revenue held that the revision on behalf of the Manager of Concept Cars Limited or by the Concept Cars Limited itself was not maintainable, and on the other hand, it allowed the prayer of the revisionist/Manager of the Concept Cars Limited for exchange of the land. This Court finds the approach of the Board of Revenue wholly illegal, unjustified and against the judicial propriety inasmuch as when the High Court was in seisen of the matter, the Board of Revenue had no business to proceed with the matter. Further, after holding that the revision was not maintainable, the Board of Revenue had allowed the prayer of the revisionist/Manager of the Concept Cars Limited in a most illegal and uncalled for manner. The Board of Revenue has overreached its jurisdiction and this Court deprecates the way the order has been passed to favour a private party in a non-maintainable proceeding. This Court holds that the order passed by the Board of Revenue dated 2.8.2021 is wholly illegal, non est and without jurisdiction. The authorities are directed not to take any action in pursuance of the order dated 2.8.2021 passed by the Board of Revenue.

18. After Revision No.1146 of 2021 was filed by the Trust against the order darted 4.6.2021, the Trust filed a recall application before the District Magistrate, Hardoi praying to recall the order dated 4.6.2021. However, the District Magistrate vide order dated 31.1.2022 rejected the said application for recall on the ground that against the order dated 4.6.2021, a revision had already been filed by the Trust being Revision No.1146 of 2021 before the Board of Revenue and, therefore, the recall application was not maintainable. Against the said order dated 31.1.2022, the Trust has filed another Revision bearing No.511 of 2022 before the Board of Revenue and the Board of Revenue vide interim order dated 9.3.2022, admitted the said revision and strangely enough stayed the orders dated 4.6.2021 and 31.1.2022 passed by the District Magistrate, Hardoi. The Board of Revenue appears to be extra generous and benevolent towards the revisionist. The approach of the Board of Revenue is anything but judicial.

19. Before the order dated 9.3.2022 came to be passed by the Board of Revenue, the Tehsildar, Sadar, Hardoi proceeded under Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 and ordered for eviction of Devendra Das S/o Mahant Indresh Charan Das, Principal, Sri Gururamrai Public School, Lucknow Road, Hardoi and imposed the compensation of Rs.5,65,76,000/- along with cost of Rs.11,300/- vide order dated 27.1.2022 passed in Case No.6112 of 2021. Another order of the same day i.e. 27.1.2022 was passed in Case No.6113 of 2021 for eviction of Sri Siya Ram S/o Chote Lal, who had constructed shops on Gata No.749/M land in Gata No.1175/0.126 hectares along with compensation of Rs.22,20,000/- and cost of Rs.11,000/-. Third order dated 27.1.2022 was passed in Case No.6114 of 2021 Gram Sabha Vs. Sanjeev Agarwal under Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 for eviction of opposite party no.5, Sanjeev Agarwal from 8248 Sq.M land along with compensation of Rs.35,04,60,000/- along with cost of Rs.12,800/-.

20. It appears that appeal(s) was/were filed against the order(s) dated 27.1.2022 passed by the Tehsildar, Sadar, Hardoi before the District Magistrate, Hardoi. However, Transfer Application No.47 of 2022, under Section 212 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 was filed before the Board of Revenue on behalf of opposite party no.5 and the Board of Revenue vide order dated 22.3.2022, transferred the appeal(s) to the Court of District Magistrate, Sitapur from the court of District Magistrate, Hardoi.

Questions: -

21. The following questions are involved in the present writ petition:-

(i). Whether the present petition raises the question of public importance involving misuse of authority and powers vested in the then District Magistrate and, therefore, the Court would be justified in looking into the mater even if it is assumed that the petitioner has some personal grudge against the Concept Cars Limited and its Directors etc.?

(ii). Whether the order dated 30.1.1987 passed by the then District Magistrate, Hardoi resuming the Gram Sabha land recorded as "Jangal Dhak', a public utility land for a private trust created by late Radhey Shyam Agarwal, a retired IAS officer was void ab initio ?

(iii). Whether the order dated 4.6.2021 passed by the District Magistrate, Hardoi holding the order dated 30.1.1987 to be void ab initio and cancelling the said order and restoring the land back to the Gram Sabha, is just and proper order ?

(iv). Whether the land recorded as "Jangal Dhak' in revenue record under Para A-124 of the U.P. Land Records Manual, which is a public utility land, can be offered in exchange with some other land ?

22. Since the issues involved in this writ petition are complex issues of revenue laws, this Court requested Sri P.V. Chaudhary, learned Counsel of this Court to assist the Court as Amicus in disposal of the writ petition. Sri P.V. Chaudhary willingly agreed to assist the Court and the Court records its appreciation for his valuable assistance and labour put by him in short notice, in rendering his valuable assistance for deciding the issues involved in this petition.

Submissions:-

23. Sri P.V. Chadhary, learned Amicus has submitted that the land in question was recorded as "Jangal Dhak' in Class 5(iii)(b)(2) in revenue records from 1333 Fasli (Year 1926) and 1352 Fasli (Year 1949). Para A-124 of the U.P. Land Records Manual provides class of tenures and the categories of land within each village in the khatauni. Class 5(iii)(b)(2) of Para A-124 is in respect of the forest and other trees shrubs, bushes etc. Two kinds of forests are mentioned i.e. (1) forest under the management of Forest Department (including erstwhile private forests made over to Forest Departments); and (2) forest vested in the Gram Sabha. Class 5(b)(2) will consist of Babool, Dhak, Sirhoar, Bankraunda etc. These lands are recorded as "Jangal Dhak' and, therefore, the same are public utility lands. He has further submitted that under Section 132 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, the public utility lands are saved and no bhumidhari rights shall accrue in respect of the public utility land in favour of anyone. He has also submitted that the order dated 30.1.1987 passed by the then District Magistrate, Hardoi purportedly in exercise of power under Section 117(6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, whereby he resumed the said land for Gyan Yog Charitable Trust through its chairman, Radhey Shyam Agarwal, a retired IAS officer, was wholly illegal inasmuch as no bhimidhari right could have been created in favour of anyone in respect of the said land being public utility land. He has further submitted that the order was void ab initio and was result of arbitrary and mala fide exercise of the powers by the then District Magistrate, Hardoi to benefit his fellow brother of IAS community.

24. Sri P.V. Chadhary, learned Amicus has further submitted that the object of the Trust was to run the trust for public purpose, and it is said that for the said object and purposes, it constructed a charitable hospital and school etc. Instead of carrying out its objects of public purpose, the Board of Trustees of the Trust in its meeting dated 9.10.2009 resolved that the land along with building should be sold and Sri Sanjeev Agarwal, the Managing Trustee was authorized for the said purpose. In furtherance of the resolution of the Board of Trustees of the Trust, Sri Sanjeev Agarwal, Managing Trustee, executed two sale deeds on 19.6.2010 and on 1.7.2010 in favour of his own sons, Yash Vardhan Agarwal and Surya Vardhan Agarwal and his close relative, Pradeep

Kumar Agarwal, who are the Treasurer and Trustees of the Trust for meagre amounts of Rs.15,00,000/- and Rs.12,00,000/- respectively. Thereafter, this land was given on lease to their own company i.e. Concept Cars Limited, in which Sanjeev Agarwal, his two sons and Pradeep Kumar Agarwal are the Directors. After demolishing the hospital building, they have constructed commercial complex and a Maruti Car showroom is being run from the commercial complex to earn profit.

25. Sri P.V. Chadhary, learned Amicus has also submitted that the public utility land belonging to the Government/Gram Sabha was initially obtained in the name of charitable trust and subsequently the same was sold by the President of the Trust to his own sons and a close relative. It is nothing but a sham transaction and fraud played by the trustees to make commercial use of the public land held in Trust. It is nothing but a breach of trust, cheating and legal fraud committed by the Trustees in connivance with the authorities concerned. The authorities/State Government is the Trustee of the land in question and instead of protecting the public utility land, they had resumed it in favour of the private persons in a mala fide, arbitrary and unjust manner. He has, therefore, submitted that the question involved is of huge public importance and, therefore, even if it is assumed that the petitioner has some personal grudge against opposite party no.5 or the Concept Cars Limited, this Public Interest Litigation would be maintainable, and the Court is required to examine the issue of public importance involved in the petition.

26. Sri P.V. Chadhary, learned Amicus has further submitted that this Court vide order dated 18.3.2021 has itself recorded the important issues involved in the writ petition and held that if it is found that the petitioner was espousing his personal vendetta/grudge against opposite party no.5, but if the facts mentioned in the writ petition were correct, the Court would itself examine the issues involved and register the present writ petition as Public Interest Litigation suo motu.

27. Sri P.V. Chadhary, learned Amicus has taken this Court to the detailed report submitted by the three members committee, which was constituted by the District Magistrate, Hardoi vide order dated 30.3.2021 and has submitted that the District Magistrate, Hardoi has rightly held that the order of resumption of land in favour of the Trust, was wholly illegal and without jurisdiction and void ab initio. He has further submitted that since the order of resumption dated 30.1.1987 in favour of Gyan Yog Charitable Trust through its Chairman was void ab initio, there is no question of exchanging the land with some other land.

28. Sri P.V. Chadhary, learned Amicus has further submitted that the land was public utility land and the same was illegally obtained by Sri Radhey Shyam Agarwal, father of opposite party no.5, by using his influence and reach being an ex-IAS officer. Though the land was obtained for charitable purpose, but the same is being used for commercial purpose and the same cannot be exchanged in any manner. Illegal encroachment of the Gram Sabha land cannot be regularized inasmuch as the same would amount to perpetuating the illegalities. Even if the opposite parties are carrying out the commercial activities for several years, the same would not vest them with any legal right to continue their illegal possession and the villagers cannot be allowed to suffer merely because the opposite party no 5 and others have continued to occupy the land for several years. The unauthorized occupants are liable to be evicted. He has, therefore, submitted that this Court should order for eviction of the opposite parties forthwith from the land in question, which is a public utility land which was wrongfully resumed by the then District Magistrate in favour of the Trust inasmuch as the opposite parties have no right to continue possession of the land in question.

29. Sri K.K. Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner has supported the submissions made by Sri P.V. Chaudhary, learned Amicus and has prayed that writ petition be allowed, and the opposite parties be evicted forthwith from the land in question.

30. Sri Shailendra Kumar Singh, learned Chief Standing Counsel assisted by Sri Yogesh Kumar Awasthi, learned Standing Counsel has submitted that admittedly the trust namely, Gyan Yog Charitable Trust, is a private trust. The powers under Section 117(6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act can be exercised by the State Government for resuming the land vested in the Gram Sabha or any other local authority. However, the public utility land covered under Section 132 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act cannot be allotted in favour of any person. It has been further submitted that the said land was recorded as "Jangal Dhak' in revenue record and was a public utility land, therefore, resuming the said land for a private Trust, was in violation of Section 132 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act and, therefore, it was void ab initio.

31. On facts, the order passed by the District Magistrate, Hardoi has been supported. It has been submitted that the order dated 30.1.1987 was void ab initio in terms of law. It has also been submitted that the Trustees have played fraud and breached the trust inasmuch as they have usurped the public land held by the government under trust for their commercial venture. The land, which was allotted ostensibly for charitable purposes, is being used for commercial establishment and the transfer of the land by the Managing Trustee in favour of his sons, who are the Treasurer and the Trustees of the Trust and a close relative, is a legal fraud and thus, transfer would not vest them with any right over the land, which is a public utility land illegally allotted to the Trust for charitable purposes. It has also been submitted that the Tehsildar has already passed orders for eviction and compensation and the action accordingly would be taken against the illegal occupants and the encroachers of the Gram Sabha land.

32. Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Mohd. Aslam Khan and Sri Ratnesh Chandra has submitted that though the land was recorded as land in Class-5(iii)(b)(2) in the revenue record but the same was not a public utility land. He has further submitted that the land of Class-5(iii)(b)(2) would refer to the nature of land to be a cultivated land, which remained uncultivated since long time, due to which stray trees etc, came up over it naturally. He has also submitted that merely use of the term "Jangal Dhak' in revenue record, would not render the nature of the land as public utility land and merely by use of nomenclature "Jangal Dhak', the land would not ipso facto become a land of public utility. He has further submitted that public utility lands are those lands, which are mentioned in Class-6 and only those lands are saved under Section 132 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act or the lands, which are reserved under the consolidation operation. The land, which has been earmarked as a public utility land, basically refers to a land which has been kept reserved for being utilized as a common land by residents of a Gaon Sabha to whom it has been entrusted under Section 117(6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. However, Gram Sabha will not have any absolute right over the said land and the State will continue to be ultimate owner of the property.

33. Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate has further submitted that Section 117(6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act deals with the power of the State Government to resume any land entrusted to Gram Sabha, and take over control of any piece of land. The reservation over such land resumed by the State Government will not continue. There is no fetter upon the power of the State Government to resume any public utility land inasmuch as on resumption, the land would not be treated to be a land in control any more by the provisions of the U.P.Z.A. &L.R. Act. He has therefore, submitted that resumption by the then District Magistrate of the land in question in favour of the Trust, cannot be said to be illegal or against any provision of Section 117(6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. He has further submitted that if it is held that the State Government/Collector has power to resume the land, including the land recorded as "Jangal Dhak', then the State Government/ Collector would be empowered to assign the land to a private person and the Government Department etc. after receiving the cost of the land under the provisions of U.P. Land Records Manual inasmuch Paragraph No.361 of the U.P. Land Records Manual empowers the Government to dispose of the land in its possession by sale, by grant, by gift etc. He has, therefore, submitted that in the present case, the Collector has firstly taken the land under control of the State Government and, thereafter, has settled it in favour of Gyan Yog Charitable Trust after receiving the cost of the land, and there was no illegality committed in resumption or allotment of the land in favour of the Trust.

34. Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate has further submitted that the Trust in question, is a private charitable Trust and therefore, any act done by the Trust with the property so purchased by it, can be challenged either by trustees or by the beneficiary thereof. The petitioner is neither the Trustee nor a beneficiary of the Trust, therefore, he is not entitled to challenge the sale of the land of the Trust in favour of two sons and a close relative of the Managing Trustee of the Trust. He has also submitted that this writ petition under the garb of "Public Interest Litigation' would not be maintainable inasmuch as the Trust being a charitable Trust, an aggrieved person is required to approach the regular Civil Court by way of filing proceedings under Section 92 of Code of Civil Procedure. He has submitted that the purchasers of the land had already moved an application before the appropriate authority to give in exchange an equally valuable bigger piece of land in lieu of the land sold by the trust, and this Court may pass an order directing the State Government to consider the exchange as per law prevailing on the subject. He has further submitted that the exchange of the land is permitted under Section 101 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 read with Rules 101 and 102 of the U.P. Revenue Rules, 2016 and the statute itself permits the exchange of land of any kind or nature.

Therefore, the authorities may be directed to consider the application of the purchasers for exchange of the land.

(vi) lands set apart for public purposes under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (U.P. Act V of 1954).]"

38. Section 101 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 permits the exchange of land by a Bhumidhar with prior permission in writing of the Sub-Divisional Officer. However, it further provides that the Sub-Divisional Officer shall refuse permission for exchange inter alia in respect of the land in which bhumidhari rights do not accrue. Section 101 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 reads as under:-

"101 Exchange.- (1) Notwithstanding anything in section 77 of this Code, any bhumidhar may with prior permission in writing of the Sub-Divisional Officer exchange his land with the land- (a) held by another bhumidhar; or (b) entrusted or deemed to be entrusted to any Gram Panchayat or a local authority under section 59. (2) The Sub-Divisional Officer shall refuse permission under sub-section (1) in the following cases, namely- (a) if the exchange is not necessary for the consolidation of holdings or securing convenience in cultivation; or (b) if the difference between the valuation, determined in the manner prescribed, of the lands given and received in exchange exceeds ten per 52 cent of the lower valuation; or (c) if the difference between the areas of the land given and received in exchange exceeds twenty-five per cent of the lesser area; or (d) in the case of land referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1), if it is reserved for planned use, or is land in which bhumidhari rights do not accrue; or (e) if the land is not located in same or adjacent village of the same tahsil: Provided that the State Government may permit the exchange with land mentioned in clause (d) aforesaid, on the conditions and in the manner, prescribed. (3) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to empower any person to exchange his undivided interest in any holding, except where such exchange is in between two or more co-sharers. (4) Nothing in the Registration Act, 1908 (Act No.16 of 1908), shall apply to an exchange in accordance with this section."

Analysis:

39. It is a trite law that if a writ petition filed by a person raises question of public importance involving exercise of power by men in authority, then it is the duty of the Court to enquire into the matter. The legal fraud played by the public authority for benefit of the private persons at the expense of public at large cannot be condoned. In the present case, even if it is believed that the petitioner has some personal grudge or score to settle with opposite party no.5 and his sons, the cause espoused by him in this writ petition is of greater public importance and, therefore, this Court in its order dated 18.3.2021 observed that looking at the facts of the case, this Court may treat this writ petition as Public Interest Litigation suo motu.

40. Supreme Court in the case of Akhil Bhartiya Upbhokta Congress Vs.

State of Madhya Pradesh and others, (2011) 5 SCC 29 in paragraph 80 held as under:-

"80. The challenge to the locus standi of the appellant merits rejection because it has not been disputed that the appellant is a public spirited organization and has challenged other similar allotment made in favour of Punjabi Samaj, Bhopal, That apart, as held in Shivajirao Nilangekar Patil v. Mahesh Madhav Gosavi (1987) 1 SCC 227 even if a person files a writ petition for vindication of his private interest but raises question of public importance involving exercise of power by men in authority then it is the duty of the Court to enquire into the matter."

41. The State or its instrumentalities cannot give largesse to any person according to the sweet will and whims of the authorities of the State. Every action/decision of the State and its agencies/instrumentalities to give largesse or confer benefit must be founded on a sound, transparent, discernible and well-defined policy. Paragraph 65 of the said judgment reads as Under:-

"65. What needs to be emphasized is that the State and/or its agencies/instrumentalities cannot give largesse to any person according to the sweet will and whims of the political entities and/or officers of the State. Every action/decision of the State and/or its agencies/instrumentalities to give largesse or confer benefit must be founded on a sound, transparent, discernible and well defined policy, which shall be made known to the public by publication in the Official Gazette and other recognized modes of publicity and such policy must be implemented/executed by adopting a non-discriminatory and non-arbitrary method irrespective of the class or category of persons proposed to be benefitted by the policy. The distribution of largesse like allotment of land, grant of quota, permit licence etc. by the State and its agencies/instrumentalities should always be done in a fair and equitable manner and the element of favoritism or nepotism shall not influence the exercise of discretion, if any, conferred upon the particular functionary or officer of the State."

42. This Court in Gyanendra Singh Vs. Additional Commissioner, Agra Division, Agra, 2003 (95) RD 286 has held that the land recorded as "Jangal Dhak' is a forest land and is a public utility land and same cannot be transferred by way of lease, sale etc and no bhumidhari rights shall accrue in respect of the said land. These lands are saved under Section 132 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950. This Court considering the provisions of Section 132 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 held that lands recorded as "Jangal Dhak' are covered by the lands enumerated under Section 132 U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 and the same cannot be transferred in favour of anyone.

43. This Court defined in the said judgment that "Jangal Dhak' means "Dhaka Forest'. Dhaka is a kind of small tree having large leaves. It has been held that the entry of the land as "Jangal Dhak' would mean that it is a forest land and forest is beneficial for human life and environment. Therefore, the land in the category of "Jangal Dhak' is a public utility land, in respect of which no bhumidhari right can accrue. Paragraphs 7 and 8 of the said judgement read as under:-

"7.The sub-clause (3) of Section 132 includes land held for a public purpose on which bhumidhari rights shall not accrue. The aforesaid three plots being recorded as "Dhaka Jangal" were covered by land as enumerated in Section 132 and lease of bhumidhari rights with non-transferable right cannot be granted on the said plots. No error has been committed by the courts below in cancelling the lease granted in favour of the petitioners. The submission of petitioners is that other persons have also been granted lease of "Dhaka Jangal", hence petitioners have been discriminated in so far as the lease of other persons have not been cancelled and the petitioners have only been singled out for cancellation. The counsel for the petitioners has raised the submission based on discrimination. As noted above, lease of "Dhaka Jangal" is not permissible in accordance with Section 132 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act and the fact that leases were granted to certain other persons cannot validate the lease of the petitioners which was in violation of Section 132 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act. The plea of discrimination is not available in a case where the benefit which was taken by other persons cannot be said to be in accordance with law. Apex Court in Chandigarh Administration v. Jagjit Singh, (1995) 1 SCC 745, held that mere fact that the respondent has passed a particular order in the case of another person similarly situated can never be the ground for issuing a writ in favour of the petitioner on the plea of discrimination in case the order in favour of other persons is found to be contrary to law or not warranted in the facts of this case. Following was laid down in paragraph 8:

"8. We are of the opinion that the basis or the principle, if it can be called one, on which the writ petition has been allowed by the High Court is unsustainable in law and indefensible in principle. Since we have come across many such instances, we think it necessary to deal with such pleas at a little length. Generally speaking, the mere fact that the respondent authority has passed a particular order in the case of another person similarly situated can never be the ground for issuing a writ in favour of the petitioner on the plea of discrimination. The order in favour of the other person might be legal and valid or it might not be. That has to be investigated first before it can be directed to be followed in the case of the petitioner. If the order in favour of the other person is found to be contrary to law or not warranted in the facts and circumstances of his case, it is obvious that such illegal or unwarranted order cannot be made the basis of issuing a writ compelling the respondent authority to repeat the illegality or to pass another unwarranted order. The extraordinary and discretionary power of the High Court cannot be exercised for such a purpose. Merely because the respondent authority has passed one illegal/unwarranted order, it does not entitle the High Court to compel the authority to repeat that illegality over again and again. The illegal/unwarranted action must be correct, if it can be done according to law indeed, wherever it is possible, the Court should direct the appropriate authority to correct such wrong orders in accordance with law but even if it cannot be corrected, it is difficult to see how it can be made a basis for its repetition. By refusing to direct the respondent authority to repeat the illegality; the Court is not condoning the earlier illegal act/order nor can such illegal order constitute the basis for a legitimate complaint of discrimination. Giving effect to such pleas would be prejudicial to the interests of law and will do incalculable mischief to public interest. It will be a negation of law and the rule of law....."

44. Thus, I do not find any substance in the submission of Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate that the land in question, which was recorded as "Jangal Dhak' is not a public utility land and, therefore, there was no bar under Section 132 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950.

45. This Court has taken judicial notice of the fact regarding loot of the public property and observed that during consolidation proceedings, consolidation authorities/officers liberally donate the Gram Sabha properties to influential and resourceful persons by passing illegal and arbitrary orders.

46. In the case of Dina Nath Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2009 (108) RD 321, this Court directed the Collectors of all the districts in the State to reopen such cases where names of private persons are entered in revenue records based on old pattas or adverse possession over Gram Sabha land and correct the illegality by taking suo motu action. Paragraphs 11 and 12 of the said judgement, which are relevant, are extracted herein below:-

"11. The experience of the Court is that during consolidation proceedings, Consolidation Authorities/ Officers liberally donate the Gaon Sabha properties to influential/resourceful persons by passing such orders as has been passed in the instant case.

12. Accordingly, all the Collectors of all the Districts in the State are directed to reopen such cases where names of private persons are entered in revenue records on the basis of old pattas or adverse possession over Gaon Sabha land and correct the illegality by taking suo motu action. However, no orders shall be set aside without issuing notice and hearing affected persons. If notice through registered post is not served then it may be served through publication in the newspaper also. If it is found that some Consolidation Officer or S.O.C. or D.D.C. has done similar thing, then the action must be proposed to be taken against him also."

47. Supreme Court in the case of Dina Nath Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, (2010) 15 SCC 218, not only upheld the said direction issued by this Court in its order dated 8.9.2009 passed in the case of Dina Nath (supra), but dismissed the Special Leave Petition with exemplary cost of Rs.50,000/-. It has been further held that in a matter such as this, the Court cannot be a silent spectator and is bound to perform its constitutional duty for ensuring that the public property is not frittered by unscrupulous elements in the power corridors and acts of grabbing public land are properly enquired into and appropriate remedial action be taken. Paragraphs 5, 6 and 7 of the aforesaid judgement are extracted herein below:-

"5.We have heard Shri S.R. Singh, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner and perused the record. In our view, the learned Single Judge did not commit any error by refusing to entertain the writ petition. In a matter like the present one, the Court cannot be a silent spectator and is bound to perform its constitutional duty for ensuring that the public property is not frittered by unscrupulous elements in the power corridors and acts of grabbing public land are properly enquired into and appropriate remedial action taken.

6. Since the petitioner has not disputed that the allotment was made in the name of his mother Smt Kalawati Devi by Gaon Sabha headed by his grandfather, we do not find any justification whatsoever to entertain his challenge to the order of the learned Single Judge.

7. Accordingly, the special leave petition is dismissed with costs of Rs 50,000 which the petitioner shall deposit with the State Legal Services Authority within a period of one month from today."

48. A Division Bench of this Court again in the case of Rajendra Tyagi Vs. State of U.P. through Principal Secretary, Nagar Vikas, Babu Bhawan, Lucknow and others, 2016 (131) RD 243 took judicial notice of the loot of the Gram Sabha land with active assistance and connivance of the revenue officers on a large scale and suggested the steps to be taken by the Government to prevent the loot and take corrective measures. The Division Bench interpreted the provisions of sub-section(6) of Section 117 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 and held in paragraph 8 as under:-

"8. The effect of section 117(1) of the Act is that after the estate has vested in the State Government under section 4, the State Government is empowered to direct that the land, among other things, which had vested in the State, shall vest in the Gram Sabha or any other local authority established in respect to the village in question. Under sub-section (6), however, the State Government is empowered to amend or cancel any declaration or notification made by it and to order resumption. When the State Government issues an order of resumption, the Gram Sabha or local authority, as the case may be, is entitled to receive compensation on account only of the development, if any, effected by it in or over the land or thing. Under the proviso to sub-section (6), the State Government, upon resumption, is empowered to make a fresh declaration vesting the land resumed in the same or any other local authority including the Gram Sabha. The provisions of sub-sections (1) and (6) make it abundantly clear that the vesting of land in the Gram Sabha or the local authority does not confer an absolute title which at all material times continues to vest in the State Government. Indeed that is the basis on which the State under sub-section (6) of section 117 is empowered to cancel or amend a notification of vesting which has been issued under sub-section (1). Upon the issuance of such a notification, the Gram Sabha or local authority in which the land has originally vested, is entitled to receive compensation in respect of the development carried out by it thereon.

The true nature of the vesting in the State Government under sub-section (1) of section 4 as contrasted with the vesting under sub-sections (1) and (6) of section 117 in the Gram Sabha or local authority has been adjudicated upon in the judgment of the Supreme Court in Maharaj Singh (supra). The Supreme Court observed as follows:

"In the instant case the Act contemplates taking over of all zamindari rights as part of land reforms. However, instead of centralizing management of all estates at State level, to stimulate local self-Government, the Act gives an enabling power-not obligatory duty to make over these estates. to Gaon Sabhas which, so long as they are in their hands, will look after them through management committees which will be under the statutory control of Government under section 126. Apart from management, no power is expressly vested in the Sabhas to dispose of the estates absolutely..."

The principle is stated thus:

"...the vesting in the State was absolute but the vesting in the Sabha was *limited to possession and management subject to divestiture by Government. Is such a construction of "vesting' in two different senses in the same section, sound? Yes. It is, because "vesting' is a word of slippery import and has many meanings. The context controls the text and the purpose and scheme project the particular semantic shade or nuance of meaning. That is why even definition clauses allow themselves to be modified by contextual compulsions. So the sense of the situation suggests that in section 117(1) of the Act "vested in the State' carries a plenary connotation, while "shall vest in the Gaon Sabha' imports a qualified disp*osition confined to the right to full possession and enjoyment so long as it lasts..."

49. This Court vide its judgment and order dated 17.7.2012 passed in Writ-A No.33751 of 2012 in view of the fraud being played in respect of the allotment of the public utility land in favour of private persons by the authorities in power in respect of the Ghaziabad, Gautam Budh Nagar and Panchsheel Nagar (Hapur) where the land has become extremely valuable suggested as under:-

*"Suggestion:-

As the land of Ghaziabad, Gautam Budh Nagar, Panchsheel Nagar (Hapur) has become extremely valuable and as for industrial and residential purposes land in those districts is urgently required and as the courts are constantly restricting the scope of acquisition of the properties belonging to private persons/bhoomidhars hence the best solution is that the State shall resume the entire gaon sabha land in these districts under Section 117(6) of U.P.Z.A.L.R. Act. This will serve two purpose one the land illegally occupied by private person through active support by officers will be taken back. Chances of further manipulation and usurpation will not be there, secondly lot of land will be available without having recourse to land Acquisition Act for Industrial Development including construction of residential colonies."

50. The land which was a public utility land, was resumed and allotted in favour of a private person, Late R.S Agrawal, Ex-IAS officer by the then District Magistrate in purported exercise of the power under Section 117(6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 for charitable purpose and now it is being used for commercial purposes, therefore, such a land cannot be exchanged in any manner. Even otherwise, under Section 101 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 the land in which bhumidhari rights cannot get accrued, cannot be exchanged.

51. Therefore, I am not convinced with the submission of Sri Mohd Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate that once the land was resumed by the District Magistrate, it came out of the purview of the provisions of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act, 1950 and cannot be governed under the said Act.

52. The question is whether in the said land the bhumidhari rights could have been created by transferring the said land in favour of a private person headed by a retired IAS officer.

53. As discussed above, the land recorded as a "Jangal Dhak', is a public utility land and on such land bhumidhari rights could not have been created in favour of private person/ Trust headed by a such a person. Since the very order of resuming the land for a private Trust, was against the law and, therefore, it was void ab initio and no valid right, title or interest got accrued in favour of the private Trust and no exchange, therefore, is permitted. It is nothing but a mala fide, arbitrary and colourable exercise of the power by the then District Magistrate on a fraud played by the Trustees by usurping the public utility land ostensibly given for the charitable purposes, but they sold it amongst themselves for commercial purpose and constructed a commercial building, in which commercial establishment is being run for profit. This is nothing but an illegal encroachment of the Gram Sabha land by respondent No.5 and his family members. Such illegality cannot be permitted to continue in perpetuity. For commercial interest of opposite party no.5 and his sons, the villagers cannot be allowed to suffer.

54. Supreme Court in the case of Jagpal Singh and others Vs. State of Punjab and others, (2011) 11 SCC 396, noticed that since Independence, in large parts of the country this common village land has been grabbed by unscrupulous persons using muscle power, money power or political clout, and in many States now there is not an inch of such land left for the common use of the people of the village, though it may exist on paper. It has been further held that long duration of such illegal occupation or huge expenditure in making constructions thereon or political connections cannot be treated as a justification for condoning this illegal act or for regularizing the illegal possession. Regularization should only be permitted in exceptional cases, where lease has been granted under some Government Notification to landless labourers or members of Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes or where there is already a school, dispensary or other public utility on the land. Paragraph 22 of the aforesaid judgement reads as under :-

"22.Before parting with this case we give directions to all the State Governments in the country that they should prepare schemes for eviction of illegal/unauthorised occupants of the Gram Sabha/Gram Panchayat/ poramboke/shamlat land and these must be restored to the Gram Sabha/Gram Panchayat for the common use of villagers of the village. For this purpose the Chief Secretaries of all State Governments/Union Territories in India are directed to do the needful, taking the help of other senior officers of the Governments. The said scheme should provide for the speedy eviction of such illegal occupant, after giving him a show-cause notice and a brief hearing. Long duration of such illegal occupation or huge expenditure in making constructions thereon or political connections must not be treated as a justification for condoning this illegal act or for regularising the illegal possession. Regularisation should only be permitted in exceptional cases e.g. where lease has been granted under some government notification to landless labourers or members of the Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes, or where there is already a school, dispensary or other public utility on the land."

55. In the aforesaid judgment, the Supreme Court took note of the judgement in the case of M.I. Builders (P) Ltd. Vs Radhey Shyam Sahu, 1999 (6) SCC 464, in which the Supreme Court ordered for restoration of a park after demolition of a shopping complex constructed at the cost of over Rs.100 Crores.

56. In the case of Friends Colony Development Committee Vs. State of Orissa, 2004 (8) SCC 733, the Supreme Court held that even where the law permits compounding of unsanctioned constructions, such compounding should only be by way of an exception.

57. This Court wonders that if Late R.S. Agrawal was not an IAS officer, could the then District Magistrate have resumed the land for him. Judicial notice has been taken of the phenomenon of grabbing scarce natural resources by powerful persons in active connivance with the state machinery. A few in the administrative establishment who have commitment to the rule of law take initiative to correct the wrong done favouring powerful persons. Such officers who could muster courage of conviction face unsurmountable pressure from all quarters, which is evident in the present case. This Court believes that but for the cognizance taken by this Court of the fraud played by the Trustees in connivance with the State machinery, it would have been extremely difficult for the District Magistrate to pass the order dated 4.6.2021. This Court appreciates the courage of conviction shown by the District Magistrate and his team.

58. The natural resources are limited and scarce and meant to be preserved and protected. The State holds natural resources such as land, forests, minerals etc on behalf the citizens of this country in trust. The state authorities can not allow natural resources going in the hands of unscrupulous persons who have money and muscle power or have influence in the State machinery. If one undertakes a case study regarding the wealth in the hands of people who have enjoyed power or in power, startling facts would come out that how people with absolutely no means or with limited means once occupied power became rich/super rich and without any known source of income from calling or profession live Maharaja lifestyle in palace like houses. Once these people reach to power, they create enormous wealth for themselves not by legal and justified means but by corruption and taking control of scarce and valuable natural resources by their influence over the administration. This Court can not shut its eyes to this alarming phenomenon. New kind of Maharajas and princes have prop up after independence who could or have reached to power even for short period. The people are not pursuing merit as they find that merit is not recognised in this country. They believe that to earn wealth and power, one should enter politics. Politics is no longer a public service but a means to achieve power and wealth. This phenomenon must be reversed if democracy has to survive in this country and society is to be governed by rule of law. Unscrupulousness must be eschewed. Merit is to be recognised and respected .

Conclusion:

59. In view of the aforesaid discussion, answers to the questions formulated above are as under:-

(i). The writ petition could not have been thrown out on the ground of alleged grudge of the petitioner against opposite party no.5 or his sons and Concept Cars Limited etc. inasmuch the writ petition involves question of huge public importance regarding allotment of public utility land in favour of the private persons in an arbitrary and illegal manner against the express provision of the law and, therefore, this Court has decided to examine the question of public importance involved in the present writ petition without going into the question of alleged personal grudge of the petitioner.

(ii). Order dated 30.1.1987 passed by then District Magistrate, Hardoi for resumption of the land in favour of the private Trust was against the provisions of Section 132 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 as the then District Magistrate was not empowered to resume the land for a private person/ Trust in exercise of powers purported to be vested in him under Section 117(6) U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 read with notification dated 16.6.1981. The order passed by the then District Magistrate was void ab initio inasmuch as it created the right in respect of the public utility land, which was recorded as "Jangal Dhak' in revenue record of the relevant khatauni Fasli Years.

(iii). The District Magistrate, Hardoi after considering the three members committee report, has rightly held that the order dated 30.1.1987 was void ab initio and the committee has noted the fraud played by the Trustees in its detailed report. Therefore, the order passed by the District Magistrate for cancelling the entries in favour of opposite party no.5 etc., is in accordance with law and the District Magistrate deserves full credit for his decision, which has been taken in accordance with law.

60. In view of the aforesaid discussion, writ petition is allowed with the following directions: -

1. Opposite party no.5 and other illegal occupants of the land in question are to be evicted forthwith inasmuch as the orders of eviction have already been passed in compliance of the order passed by the District Magistrate on 4.6.2021.

2. Necessary action must get completed within 15 days regarding eviction. With respect to compensation, the appeal(s) shall be heard and decided by the competent authority against the orders passed by the Tehsildar, Sadar, Hardoi expeditiously preferably within a period of one month from the date of the order.

61. Let a copy of this judgment be communicated forthwith to the Chief Secretary, Additional Chief Secretary/Principal Secretary, Revenue and the District Magistrates, Hardoi and Sitapur for necessary compliance.

A. Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - Section 15A (6) - Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court trying a case under this Act is required to provide to victim, his dependent, informant or witnesses, complete protection to secure the ends of justice; the travelling and maintenance expenses during investigation, inquiry and trial; the social-economic rehabilitation during investigation, inquiry and trial; and relocation, but, we cannot be unmindful of the fact that considering the importance of the issues, cognizance of which has been taken by this Court and suo moto proceedings have been registered, we have already granted protection to the victim's family instead of making them run from pillar to post.

B. Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989- Section 2(ec). - the word 'legal guardian' used in Section 2(ec) would cover guardians declared as such by any Act and also guardians appointed by Courts in the case of minors or lunatics. The term 'legal heirs' would obviously get its meaning from the law governing the right/inheritance to succeed the estate of the victim. However, the term 'relatives' used therein though it has not been defined, it has been used to give a wide meaning to the word 'victim' so as to advance and achieve the Object of the Act, which is to provide relief and rehabilitation to the victims which includes the family members of the deceased victim. Ordinarily it includes father, mother, husband or wife, son, daughter, brother, sister, nephew or niece, grandson or granddaughter of an individual.

C. Rule 12 & Section 15A - Rule 12 of the Rules, 1995 has to be read conjointly with Section 15-A of the Act 1989. Sub-rule (1) of Rule 12 of the Rules 1995. Sub-rule (4) of Rule 12 is relevant. It enjoins upon the District Magistrate or the Sub-Divisional Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate to make necessary administrative and other arrangements and provide relief in cash or in kind or both within seven days to the victims of atrocity, their family members and dependents according to the scale as provided in Annexure-I read with Annexure-II of the Schedule annexed to these rules and such immediate relief shall also include food, water, clothing, shelter, medical aid, transport facilities and other essential items. Thus, this Rule is in furtherance of the object of the Act to provide relief and rehabilitation to the victim of an atrocity under the Act, 1989. 47.

D. Item 46 of the Schedule Annexure I to the Rules- the word 'may' used in Column 3 corresponding to the item 46 is indicative of the fact that the benefits mentioned therein would be available only where the provision applies and also where there is a need for the same. As far as Item 46 is concerned the object is to provide measures of socioeconomic rehabilitation to a victim of an atrocity under the Act 1989 in cases where they are in need of such rehabilitation. In Clause (i) of Column 3 of Item 46 there are three parts which have to be read, understood and applied disjunctively. the first part applies to the widow or other dependents who are entitled to basic pension etc. mentioned therein whose need is self-evident, the second part applies to one member of the family of the deceased who is to be given employment where it is required to be given and not where there are family members already in employment capable of taking care of the family unless there are exceptional reasons in the sense that the employment is not adequate or sufficient to sustain the family members, who may be large in numbers etc. The third part speaks of provision of agricultural land and house, if necessary by outright purchase. This third part does not mention as to whom it is to be provided, however, in view of our discussion hereinabove we are of the opinion that this would be provided where there is a need for providing such agricultural land and house, meaning thereby, such cases in which the victim or the family members of the victim are very poor, landless, shelterless or land held by them is inadequate for their sustenance and the house or shelter which they own or are in possession of is inadequate in any manner.

E. In the event of ambiguity an interpretation which advances the object of the Act and provision should be preferred and not one which defeats the object of the provisions.

F. if ultimately the incident of atrocity is found to be false in the sense that the incident itself did not occur or the informant or victim's family belonging to SC/ST are themselves held to be the perpetrators of atrocity, then, all reliefs given under the Act 1989 are liable to be recovered with such other action as may be permissible in law. This is necessary to discourage frivolous cases/claims under the Act 1989.

G. Sub-Rule (1) Clause Page No. 74 (d) of Rule 15 - which speaks of scheme for employment in Government or Government Undertaking to the dependent or one member of the family. If the intent of the legislature or the Rule making authority was that a private job be provided, it would have been mentioned therein, therefore, this offer of a private job is something which is not expected from the State Government and absolutely uncalled for.

H. Section 15-A (6)(d) and Rule 15 (aa),(b) and (c) - The provision for relocation of the family members exists in Section 15-A (6)(d) and Rule 15 (aa),(b) and (c). The reason we are directing the State to consider this relocation instead of directing the family members to approach the Special Court under Section 15-A(6)(d) is that first and foremost it is the State and its authorities who have to consider such claim/request of the victims and only thereafter, if the victims are aggrieved they would approach the Special Court.

I. Section 21(2)(ii) read with Rule 11 of the Rules 1995 - enjoins upon the State and its Authorities specifically the District Magistrate or the Sub-Divisional Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate to make necessary arrangements for providing transport facilities or reimbursement of full payment thereof to the victims of atrocity etc., therefore, first and foremost the State and its authorities have to comply their statutory obligations in this regard and thereafter, if the family members are still aggrieved, they can approach the Court concerned under Section 15-A(6)(b) of the Act, 1989.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.)

1. Heard.

2. These proceedings were ordered to be registered suo moto under Article 226 of the Constitution of India taking cognizance of certain incidents which took place on 14.09.2020 in District Hathras involving the alleged rape and murder of a girl belonging to a Scheduled Caste of 19 years followed by her cremation in wee hours of the night intervening 29/30.09.2020 which appeared to be against the wishes of her family members thereby raising important questions pertaining to fundamental right to a decent burial and role of State authorities in this regard.

3. As regards criminal case pertaining to the alleged rape and murder, monitoring of investigation/trial is also being undertaken by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. In this regard, certain orders have been passed by Hon'ble the Supreme Court on 27.10.2020 in Writ Petition (Criminal) No. 296 of 2020; Satyama Dubey and others vs. Union of India and others and other connected petitions. The trial is still pending.

4. In these very proceedings the victim's family has claimed employment for one of its members i.e. the elder brother in view of Item 46 of Schedule Annexure-I which is referable to Rule 12(4) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Rules, 1995 (hereinafter referred to as 'Rules 1995') and Section 15A of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 (hereinafter referred as 'Act 1989'), and the assurance given to it on 30.09.2020 by the Head of the State which has been recorded in a document of the same date. The family has also claimed relocation as per the provisions of the Act 1989 considering the inimical condition in its village.

5. The victim's family which belongs to a Scheduled Caste filed an affidavit dated 23.10.2020 inter alia seeking relocation/rehabilitation outside the State of Uttar Pradesh as also Government employment to one member of the family. Subsequently, additional affidavit dated 06.01.2021 was filed on behalf of the victim's family seeking inter alia employment to one of the brothers of the victim on a Group 'C' post in the Government and also seeking the benefits prescribed at Item 46 of the Schedule Annexure-I to the Rules, 1995.

6. Response to these affidavits have been filed by the State which are on record.

Submissions on Behalf of the Victim's Family:

7. In nutshell, the contention of Ms. Seema Kushwaha, learned counsel for the victim's family was that on 30.09.2020 the Head of the State had given certain assurances with regard to employment, etc. to the victim's family. The monetary benefit as promised has been extended but the employment part has not been complied. The assurances were reduced in writing and were singed by the District Magistrate and various other Public Authorities, therefore, the State is under an obligation to provide the benefits assured therein which are referable to statutory provisions.

8. The submission of learned counsel for the victim's family was that after the unfortunate incident which took place on 14.09.2020 followed by the illegal cremation in the night of 29/30.09.2020, an atmosphere of fear and insecurity has gripped the family members who are nine in number including three girls aged 7, 3 and 1 year old respectively. The demography of Village Boolgadhi is such that there were only four Scheduled Castes families in the village, rest being upper castes and after the above incident, two of the four families have migrated elsewhere leaving only two families of which one is the victim's family. The atmosphere is very hostile. The victim's family has been subjected to economic and social boycott. Round the clock security by the CRPF personnel has also thrown the family's life haywire as movement has become restricted. The father is no longer employed after the incident. Likewise, the elder brother who was employed in Ghaziabad is also unemployed. The younger brother is also unemployed. The family has agricultural holding of only four bighas of land and a house in the village comprising two rooms, verandah, etc. Considering the atmosphere prevailing in the village, in spite of the CRPF personnel being posted therein, it is not possible for the family to lead a normal life as such they need to be relocated/rehabilitated elsewhere so that they may feel socially, and economically secure.

9. Her contention was that the family has relatives in Noida and Delhi, therefore, if they are relocated/rehabilitated in Noida it would give them a proper atmosphere for living a normal life far away from the place of incident. The entire family wants to live together and they would be secure in such an environment at Noida having the support of their peer group and relatives. The accused belong to the upper caste which is the dominant caste in Village Boolgadhi, therefore, normal life for the victim's family which belongs to the Schedules Caste is not possible.

The offer of Sri Raju, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the State of U.P., albeit after some persuasion by the Court, for providing a house constructed by the District Urban Development Agency within the municipal limits of Hathras was turned down by the victim's family on the ground that living at Hathras is not an option considering the aforesaid scenario. The contention was that the State could not prevent the crime being committed and on account of the negligence of the said authorities, life and liberty of the victim's family has been compromised. The family feels highly insecure, socially, economically, mentally and psychologically. Children are unable to go to school as the mother is afraid to send them for studies in the vicinity of the village or even nearby.

10. Learned counsel also referred to a Mahapanchayat having been called by Karni Sena an organization of upper caste people in favour of the accused which has further aggravated the situation and has added to the fear of the victim's family which belongs to the downtrodden class.

11. Learned counsel also referred to another incident involving death of Vinay Tiwari and Manish Gupta and that their spouses were given employment in a Public Undertaking, that too Class II job, apart from Rs. 40.00 lakhs given to them, in comparison to which, the victim's family had only been provided Rs. 25.00 lakhs, moreover, no employment has been provided in spite of an assurance having been given. She contended that the said families were well-off economically and socially yet they were given said benefits whereas a downtrodden family in spite of there being statutory backing under the Act 1989 and the Rules 1995 made thereunder, has not been extended the benefits prescribed in law and as were assured by the Government itself on 30.09.2020. She alleges discrimination and arbitrariness in this regard which according to her was painful for the family and displayed an unnecessary adversarial attitude on the part of the State against the poorest of the poor.

Submissions on Behalf of the State:

12. Sri S.V. Raju, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Mr. Pranjal Krishna, learned counsel appearing for the State of U.P. submitted that the benefits prescribed under Item 46 of the Schedule Annexure-I to the Rules 1995 are not mandatory as is evident from the use of word 'may' in Column 3 of Item 46. It is a relief additional to the other reliefs mentioned at Items No. 1 to 45. He raised important issues pertaining to the scope of Item 46 of the said Schedule Annexure-I to the Rules 1995 and the meaning and purport of the term 'family', 'atrocity' and use of the word 'may' therein in the light of the Act 1989 and Rules 1995 in support of his argument. According to him employment referred in Item 46 of Schedule Annexure-I to the Rules 1995 was only with respect to 'dependents' of the victim or widow which the family members were not. The word 'and' used in Clause (i) of Column 3 of Item

46 is conjunctive, not disjunctive. He submitted that only needy persons could be given the additional relief envisaged in Item 46 and it cannot be claimed as a matter of right. It is not supposed to be a bounty. He also raised an issue as to whether the brothers and sisters of the victim would fall within the meaning of legal heir under the provisions of the Hindu Succession Act, 1956 and whether such a wide definition of 'family' should be given so as to include them also in the said definition for the purpose of Item 46. What if the married brother does not look after the family after being provided employment. The Act 1989 and the Rules 1995 framed thereunder do not speak of a Government job. He also submitted that negative parity/equality cannot be claimed by the victim's family with Vinay Tiwari and Manish Gupta' family.

13. The assurances recorded in the minutes dated 30.09.2020 are contrary to the provisions of Rules 1995 and are not enforceable in a Court of law. He submitted that provision of such employment to the victim's family would not only violate the statutory provisions but would also be completely violative of public policy and hit by Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. He also submitted that an amount of Rs. 25.00 lakhs given to the victim's family was much more than what was envisaged in Schedule Annexure-I to the Rules 1995 at Items No. 1 to 45, therefore, the State Government had been more than fair to the victim's family.

14. The victim's family did not have any indefeasible and enforceable right with regard to employment. However, in the same vein, he suggested that the State Government could arrange private employment to one of the members of the family, however, on surprise being expressed by the Court as to how the State will arrange private employment, the learned counsel at the fag end of the hearing on this issue submitted that after conclusion of trial the State is agreeable to consider the grant of employment to one member of the family. This, of course, he submitted was without prejudice to the legal issues which he had raised as regards the provision of the Act 1989 and the Rules 1995 and Schedule Annexure-I thereto.

15. He also submitted that it is not as if the father and brother who were in employment prior to the incident had been removed from employment but a case where they had voluntarily stopped going for the job. The children could be provided best education in a nearby school. As regards the house, as already recorded, he submitted that a house built by DUDA within the municipal limits of District Hathras can also be provided. However, he was against the provision of a house, etc. to the victim's family at Noida or outside Hathras. He also submitted that the house of the victim's family was a large one having three rooms, verandah, etc. and the same was not being shared by the uncle as alleged by the counsel for the victim's family.

16. He also submitted that the said reliefs could only be given after atrocities mentioned therein had been proved in trial meaning thereby such benefits could only be given after conclusion of trial and not before.

17. Furthermore, he submitted that these proceedings, being in public interest, cannot be used by the victim's family for redressal of their individual grievance. Complicated factual issues are involved which cannot be seen under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, especially as it would entail an inquiry regarding the quantum of relief, if any, to be given.

18. In addition to it, he submitted that the jurisdiction, if at all in this regard, is with the Special Court under Section 15A (6) of the Act 1989, therefore, this Court should not consider this issue.

19. In support of his contention, Sri Raju, learned Senior Counsel relied upon the following decisions:

"1. Ram Pravesh Singh vs. State of Bihar; (2006) 8 SCC 381

2. State of Bihar vs. Sachindra Narayan; (2019) 3 SCC 803

3. State of Haryana vs. Mahabir Vegetable Oils (P) Ltd.; (2011) SCC OnLine SC 374

4. Excise Commr. vs. Issac Peter; (1994) 4 SCC 104

5. Bannari Amman Sugars Ltd. vs. CTO; (2005) 1 SCC 625

6. South-Eastern Coalfields Ltd. vs. Prem Kumar Sharma; (2007) 14 SCC 508

7. V Sivamurthy vs. State of A.P.; (2008) 13 SCC 730

8. SBI vs. Jaspal Kaur; (2007) 9 SCC 571

9. State of Jharkhand vs. Shiv Karampal Sahu; (2009) 11 SCC 453

10. Auditor General of India vs. G. Ananta Rajeswara Rao; (1994) 1 SCC 192"

Submissions on behalf of the Amicus Curiae:

20. Learned Amicus, Sri J.N. Mathur, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Mr. Abhinav Bhattacharya invited the attention of the Court to the wordings and language used in various provisions of the Act 1989 and the Rules 1995. He submitted that the term 'victim' includes the dependent and non-dependent. The submission was that the victim's family is covered by the provision contained in Item 46 of the Schedule Annexure-I to the Rules 1995 and the grant of employment, etc. is not restricted only to the dependents. There is no reason to give a restrictive meaning to the term family used therein. He submitted that the assurance given on 30.09.2020 was within the purview of the Act 1989 and the Rules made thereunder. The assurance/letter of the District Magistrate, etc. is enforceable in law. It is hardest of the cases, therefore, whatever benefit/relief can be given, should be given by the Court. Alternative remedy is not an absolute bar in this regard.

He further submitted that these proceedings are suo moto proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution of India in public interest considering the fact that the victim and her family belong to downtrodden Schedule Castes and are the poorest of the poor. It is not a case where the proceedings are transcribed and prescribed on written pleadings and reliefs filed by the petitioner. It is also not the case that the relief being sought by the victim's family is alien to the subject matter in issue. In fact, it is an offshoot of an incident which led to cognizance being taken by this Court suo moto and, as there is statutory backing to the said reliefs, therefore, it can very well be considered in these very proceedings and there is no reason as to why the victim's family which already does not have sufficient means to sustain itself should be made to initiate separate proceedings in a Court of law, especially considering their social, educational and economic status. This issue should not be treated as an adversarial issue by the State.

21. According to him, the additional reliefs envisaged at Item 46 of the Schedule are for victims of atrocities as mentioned in column. The family members are victims within the meaning of Section 2(ec) of the Act 1989, therefore, they are entitled to employment and also for relocation. The word 'and' used in Clause (i) of Column 3 of Item 46 if read as conjunctive it will defeat the intent of the provision. As regards Schedule Annexure-I, he submitted that it refers to the minimum amount payable under various heads from Items No. 1 to 45, therefore, Rs. 25.00 lakhs given by the State Government is not more than what is envisaged in the said provision and it was permissible for the State Government to give the said amount and even more and the submission of Sri Raju to the contrary is incorrect.

22. In support of his contention Sri Mathur relies upon the following decisions:

Discussions and Analysis:

23. Before delving into the merits of the issues involved we deem it proper to decide the preliminary objections raised on behalf of the State.

24. As regards the objection of Sri Raju that these proceedings being in public interest, therefore, the victim's family cannot raise individual grievances herein for seeking employment, etc. under the Act 1989 and that they should raise these grievances separately, the same is not acceptable for the reason the victim's family belongs to downtrodden class of society. They belong to the Scheduled Caste. The very reason this Court took cognizance of the matter involving alleged rape, murder and thereafter cremation of the victim in the mid of the night in the circumstances already dealt with in the earlier orders of this Court was on account of the fact that the victim and her family belong to downtrodden class of the society i.e. they were from the socially and economically weaker section of the society, poorest of the poor, who have been given certain protections by the Constitution and also statutorily by the Act 1989 and such persons are often not in a position to raise their grievance or assert their rights for various reasons including their unawareness and their social, educational and economic status.

In this case Ms. Seema Kushwaha has come forward to represent them pro bono as was specifically stated by her on a query being put by the Court. We have also appointed an Amicus for our assistance and also to protect the interest of the victim's family as per law.

Moreover, it is not as if the relief being claimed herein during pendency of these proceedings and the trial pertaining to the alleged criminal offence before the Court below is alien to the subject matter in issue involved herein. It is an offshoot of the crime committed. In fact, the Act 1989 has been promulgated by the Parliament of India to prevent the commission of offence of atrocities against the members of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes, to provide for Special Courts and exclusive Special Courts for the trial of such offences and for the relief and rehabilitation of the victim of such persons and for matters connected therewith and incidental thereto. The relief of employment and rehabilitation, etc. being claimed by the victim's family are in terms of the the Act 1989 and the Rules 1995. These reliefs are consequential to the incident which took place involving the alleged rape and murder of the victim followed by her cremation in the mid of the night, therefore, it is not a matter unconnected with the proceedings which are pending before us. We are also monitoring the trial being conducted in this regard by the Court below.

Considering the subject matter it cannot be said that this is purely an individual grievance as the relief sought is one which is claimed by the victim's family as being permissible and which the State is obliged to provide to them under the Act 1989 and the Rules made thereunder. They are seeking constitutional and statutory protections and reliefs as perceived by them, therefore, we do not see any reason as to why a downtrodden family which does not have any member in employment, as of now, a fact which is not in dispute, and which has lost a member and is in distress, should be made to run from pillar to post or for that matter should be compelled to initiate separate legal proceedings involving unnecessary expenses and the mental stress which goes with such litigation. We do not see as to why in these very proceedings we should not consider such relief as claimed, whether they are permissible under the Constitution and the Act 1989 and the Rules made thereunder, etc. Rights of the downtrodden class especially Scheduled Castes who are victims under the Act 1989, can and should be enforced and protected in these proceedings.

25. It is also necessary to point out that these proceedings have not been drawn on a petition filed with specific pleadings, grounds and reliefs; rather suo moto cognizance has been taken by this Court as already referred in our earlier orders in public interest, considering the social, educational and economic status of the victim and her family and the incident, therefore, this is not a matter which is circumscribed by pleadings and reliefs claimed in a written and drafted petition, which is not to say that we can consider any or every issue unrelated to the incident. In fact, as already stated hereinabove, this is an issue which is an offshoot of the issues already involved in the proceedings. We accordingly reject the contention of Sri Raju to the contrary.

26. As regards other objection of Sri Raju that this issue should be raised by the victim's family before the Special Court which is trying the criminal offence relating to the victim, we are of the opinion that no doubt as per Section 15A (6) of the Act 1989, Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court trying a case under this Act is required to provide to victim, his dependent, informant or witnesses, complete protection to secure the ends of justice; the travelling and maintenance expenses during investigation, inquiry and trial; the social-economic rehabilitation during investigation, inquiry and trial; and relocation, but, we cannot be unmindful of the fact that considering the importance of the issues, cognizance of which has been taken by this Court and suo moto proceedings have been registered, we have already granted protection to the victim's family instead of making them run from pillar to post and even Hon'ble the Supreme Court has vide its order dated 27.10.2020 observed/directed that we may monitor the criminal trial also.

Moreover, considering the objections which have been raised by Sri Raju some of which are of a legal nature touching upon the object and scope of the Act 1989, especially the scope of various provisions contained therein such as Section 15A and Item 46 of the Schedule Annexure-I to the Rules 1995 their purport and meaning, we are of the opinion that these legal issues involve interpretation of statutory provisions, therefore, this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is best suited to consider these aspects of the matter, and which the Special Court may not be suited for.

Sri Raju has touched upon various aspects such as the meaning to be given to the term 'family' used in Item 46 of Schedule Annexure-I to the Rules 1995, the meaning of the term 'may' 'atrocities' used therein, the meaning of the term 'dependent' contained in Section 2 (bb), meaning of the word 'victim' in Section 2(ec), scope of Item 46 Schedule Annexure-I to the Rules 1995, etc. to contend that, in fact, the brothers and sisters would not fall within the definition of victim nor within the meaning of the term family and they are not entitled to the benefits envisaged in Item 46 of the Schedule Annexure-I referred hereinabove.

Furthermore, he has contended that the said provision is not enforceable in law in the sense that it is not mandatory, therefore, the meaning, purport and scope of all these provisions have to be considered by this Court, and the Special Court, in our opinion, would not be in a position to do so, therefore, it is our constitutional obligation to consider and, if necessary, interpret the provisions referred hereinabove.

Moreover, the relief claimed herein by the victim's family is based on an assurance dated 30.09.2020 which has been reduced in writing and signed by various authorities including Public Authorities and in this context also Sri Raju contends that the said assurance has no force in law and, in fact, it is contrary to the Act 1989 and the Rules 1995 and is not enforceable, therefore, this is an aspect which has to be considered by the High Court and the Special Court would not be suited to do so considering the magnitude and importance of the issue involved. How far we can interfere in the matter is a separate issue which we will consider hereinafter. Subject to this, we reject this contention of Sri Raju.

27. The next objection raised by Sri Raju was that the plea raised herein involves complicated and disputed questions of fact which may involve a roving inquiry, especially as to the extent of relief to be given to the victim's family, therefore, the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is not suited for such an exercise and should desist from considering these pleas.

From the records, there are certain undisputed facts which are as under:

(i) The CBI has filed a charge-sheet against the accused under Sections 302, 376, 376A, 376D IPC and under Section 3(2)(v) of the Act 1989 before the Trial Court relating to the incident of rape, etc. of the victim.

(ii) As on date none of the family members are employed. In fact, they have not been in employment for quite sometime after the incident.

(iii) They have only about four bighas of land and a house in their village which according to them is jointly owned by victim's family and the uncles, though as per the State the uncles are not residing therein.

(iv) There are nine members in the victim's family three of whom are girl children aged about 7, 3 and 1 year and the child who is seven years old is unable to go to school.

(v) There is an assurance on record dated 30.09.2020 under which certain benefits and facilities were to be provided to the victim's family consequent to a meeting held between them and the de facto Head of the State. The minutes of the meeting and the assurances have been recorded in a document on record and signed by various authorities including the District Magistrate, etc. Whether this is enforceable or not is another matter which shall be considered hereinafter, but the fact that there is a document which had been prepared, is not in dispute.

(vi) It is also a fact that under the provisions of the Act 1989 and the Rules 1995 certain reliefs and rehabilitation including employment measures have been envisaged for being provided to the victim, his or her dependent, informant, witnesses and family members.

28. In view of the aforesaid, as of now, we do not see any such intricate and complex factual issues involved in considering the plea of the victim's family for employment, etc., however, if at any stage, we do find that complicated factual questions are involved, then we can certainly consider this aspect of the matter as to how far we are required to exercise our jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, but we do not find any reason to throw out the plea at the threshold without any consideration of the issues involved, especially in view of the legal issues involved herein as already mentioned above.

Analysis of Relevant Provisions of Act 1989

29. Before we proceed any further to consider the legal issues raised by Sri Raju, learned Senior counsel for the State, it will be apposite to take a glance at the scheme and relevant provisions of the Act 1989 and the Rules 1995.

30. As per the statement of Objects and Reasons of the Act 1989 noticing an increase in the disturbing trend of commission of certain atrocities including rape etc. of a woman belonging to the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes, as, the existing laws like the Protection of Civil Rights Act, 1955 and the normal provisions of the Indian Penal Code were found to be inadequate to check these crimes a special legislation to check and deter crimes/atrocities against them committed by non-Scheduled Castes and non-Scheduled Tribes was found to be necessary. It is also mentioned that despite various measures to improve social-economic conditions of the Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribes, they remain vulnerable. They were denied number of civil rights and were subjected to various offences, indignities, humiliations and harassment and increase in the disturbance. It was also proposed to enjoin upon the States and Union Territories to take specific preventive and punitive measures to protect the Scheduled Castes and Schedule Tribes from being victimized and where atrocities were committed, to provide adequate relief and assistance to rehabilitate them. The Act 1989 seeks to achieve the above Objects.

31. According to long title of the Act 1989 it is an Act to prevent the commission of offences of atrocities against the members of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes, to provide for Special Courts and Exclusive Special Courts for the trial of such offences and for the relief and rehabilitation of the victims of such offences and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto.

32. The term 'atrocity' which had not been defined earlier, has been defined in the Act 1989 in Section 2(a) to mean an offence punishable under Section 3. Section 3 mentions punishment for offences of atrocities. The offences involved in this case are covered within the meaning of the term 'atrocity' as defined in the Act 1989. Trial in respect thereof is in progress before the Special Court at Hathras.

33. Section 8 refers to certain presumptions as to offences, as mentioned therein.

34. Chapter IV-A of the Act 1989 deals with the Rights of Victims and Witnesses which reads as under:-

"Chapter IV- A
RIGHTS OF VICTIMS AND WITNESSES

15-A. Rights of victims and witnesses.--(1) It shall be the duty and responsibility of the State to make arrangements for the protection of victims, their dependents, and witnesses against any kind of intimidation or coercion or inducement or violence or threats of violence.

(2) A victim shall be treated with fairness, respect and dignity and with due regard to any special need that arises because of the victim's age or gender or educational disadvantage or poverty.

(3) A victim or his dependent shall have the right to reasonable, accurate, and timely notice of any court proceeding including any bail proceeding and the Special Public Prosecutor or the State Government shall inform the victim about any proceedings under this Act.

(4) A victim or his dependent shall have the right to apply to the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court, as the case may be, to summon parties for production of any documents or material, witnesses or examine the persons present.

(5) A victim or his dependent shall be entitled to be heard at any proceeding under this Act in respect of bail, discharge, release, parole, conviction or sentence of an accused or any connected proceedings or arguments and file written submission on conviction, acquittal or sentencing.

(6) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court trying a case under this Act shall provide to a victim, his dependent, informant or witnesses--

(a) the complete protection to secure the ends of justice;

(b) the travelling and maintenance expenses during investigation, inquiry and trial; and

(c) the social-economic rehabilitation during investigation, inquiry and trial;

(d) relocation.

(7) The State shall inform the concerned Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court about the protection provided to any victim or his dependent, informant or witnesses and such Court shall periodically review the protection being offered and pass appropriate orders.

(8) Without prejudice to the generality of the provisions of sub-section (6), the concerned Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court may, on an application made by a victim or his dependent, informant or witness in any proceedings before it or by the Special Public Prosecutor in relation to such victim, informant or witness or on its own motion, take such measures including--

(a) concealing the names and addresses of the witnesses in its orders or judgments or in any records of the case accessible to the public;

(b) issuing directions for non-disclosure of the identity and addresses of the witnesses;

(c) take immediate action in respect of any complaint relating to harassment of a victim, informant or witness and on the same day, if necessary, pass appropriate orders for protection:

Provided that inquiry or investigation into the complaint received under clause (c) shall be tried separately from the main case by such Court and concluded within a period of two months from the date of receipt of the complaint:

Provided further that where the complaint under clause (c) is against any public servant, the Court shall restrain such public servant from interfering with the victim, informant or witness, as the case may be, in any matter related or unrelated to the pending case, except with the permission of the Court.

(9) It shall be the duty of the Investigating Officer and the Station House Officer to record the complaint of victim, informant or witnesses against any kind of intimidation, coercion or inducement or violence or threats of violence, whether given orally or in writing, and a photocopy of the First Information Report shall be immediately given to them at free of cost.

(10) All proceedings relating to offences under this Act shall be video recorded.

(11) It shall be the duty of the concerned State to specify an appropriate scheme to ensure implementation of the following rights and entitlements of victims and witnesses in accessing justice so as--

(a) to provide a copy of the recorded First Information Report at free of cost;

(b) to provide immediate relief in cash or in kind to atrocity victims or their dependents;

(c) to provide necessary protection to the atrocity victims or their dependents, and witnesses;

(d) to provide relief in respect of death or injury or damage to property;

(e) to arrange food or water or clothing or shelter or medical aid or transport facilities or daily allowances to victims;

(f) to provide the maintenance expenses to the atrocity victims and their dependents;

(g) to provide the information about the rights of atrocity victims at the time of making complaints and "registering the First Information Report;

(h) to provide the protection to atrocity victims or their dependents and witnesses from intimidation and harassment;

(i) to provide the information to atrocity victims or their dependents or associated organisations or individuals, on the status of investigation and charge sheet and to provide copy of the charge sheet at free of cost;

(j) to take necessary precautions at the time of medical examination;

(k) to provide information to atrocity victims or their dependents or associated organisations or individuals, regarding the relief amount;

(l) to provide information to atrocity victims or their dependents or associated organisations or individuals, in advance about the dates and place of investigation and trial;

(m) to give adequate briefing on the case and preparation for trial to atrocity victims or their dependents or associated organisations or individuals and to provide the legal aid for the said purpose;

(n) to execute the rights of atrocity victims or their dependents or associated organisations or individuals at every stage of the proceedings under this Act and to provide the necessary assistance for the execution of the rights.

(12) It shall be the right of the atrocity victims or their dependents, to take assistance from the Non-Government Organisations, social workers or advocates."

35. Thus, apart from the constitutional obligation in this regard, statutory duties have also been imposed upon the State and its authorities to protect the rights of the members of Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes.

36. The Act 1989 not only encompasses the trial of non-SC/ST accused for atrocities against SC/ST but also takes care of relief and rehabilitation of the victims.

37. Sub-section 6 of Section 15-A provides that notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court trying a case under this Act shall provide to a victim, his dependent, informant or witnesses - (a) the complete protection to secure the ends of justice; (b) the travelling and maintenance expenses during investigation, inquiry and trial; (c) the social-economic rehabilitation during investigation, inquiry and trial; and (d) relocation.

Thus, four categories of persons are eligible/entitled to the aforesaid benefits which can be provided by the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court which is trying a case under the said Act. These four categories are victim, dependent, informant and witnesses.

38. The term 'victim' has been defined in Section 2(ec) to mean any individual who falls within the definition of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes under clause (c) of sub-section (1) of Section 2, and who has suffered or experienced physical, mental, psychological, emotional or monetary harm or harm to his property as a result of the commission of any offence under this Act and includes his relatives, legal guardian and legal heirs. The term 'relatives' has not been defined in the Act 1989.

39. Sri Raju, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the State contended that the family members of the victim i.e. the brothers and sisters do not fall within the meaning of the term 'legal guardian and legal heirs'. He further submitted that the word 'relatives' herein would also not include these relations. In this regard he submitted that what if the married brother does not take care of the family.

We are of the opinion that the word 'legal guardian' used in Section 2(ec) would cover guardians declared as such by any Act and also guardians appointed by Courts in the case of minors or lunatics. The term 'legal heirs' would obviously get its meaning from the law governing the right/inheritance to succeed the estate of the victim. However, the term 'relatives' used therein though it has not been defined, it has been used to give a wide meaning to the word 'victim' so as to advance and achieve the Object of the Act, which is to provide relief and rehabilitation to the victims which includes the family members of the deceased victim.

A narrow view as to the meaning of the term 'relatives' would defeat the purpose of the Act. The term 'relative' has not been defined in the act 1989, therefore, it has to be understood as is commonly understood. Ordinarily it includes father, mother, husband or wife, son, daughter, brother, sister, nephew or niece, grandson or granddaughter of an individual. The word 'relative' has been defined in P. Ramanatha Aiyar's Advanced Law Lexicon, 3rd Edition Reprint 2007, at Page 4036 as under:

"Relative. "Relative" includes any person related by blood, marriage or adoption. (Lunacy Act (4 of 1912), S. 3(11)]

The expression "RELATIVE" means a husband, wife, ancestor, lineal descendant, brother or sister. [Estate Duty Act (34 of 1953), S. 17(4)(iii), Expln. (a)]

"Relative" means in relation to the deceased,

(a) the wife or husband of the deceased,

(b) the father, mother, children, uncles and aunts of the deceased, and

(c) any issue of any person falling within either of the preceding sub-clauses and the other party to a marriage with any such person or issue. [Estate Duty Act (34 of 1953), S. 27(7)(i)]

A person shall be deemed to be a RELATIVE of another if, and only if,--

(a) they are members of a Hindu undivided family; or

(b) they are husband and wife; or

(c) the one is related to the other in the manner indicated in Schedule I-A. [Companies Act (1 of 1956), S. 6]

"RELATIVE" in relation to an individual, means the husband, wife, brother or sister or any lineal ascendant or descendant of that individual. [Income tax Act (43 of 1961), S. 2(41) and FEM (Acquisition & Transfer of Immovable Property Outside India) Regulations, 2000, R. 5, Expln.]

"RELATIVE" in relation to an individual means--

(a) the mother, father, husband or wife of the individual, or

(b) a son, daughter, brother, sister, nephew or niece of the individual, or

(c) a grandson or grand-daughter of the individual, or

(d) the spouse of any person referred to in sub clause (b). [Income-tax Act (43 of 1961), S. 80 B(8), omitted by Act 4 of 1988 w.e.f. 1.4.1989]

"RELATIVE" means-- .

(1) spouse of the person;

(2) brother or sister of the person;

(3) brother or sister of the spouse of the person;

(4) any lineal ascendant or descendant of the person;

(5) any lineal ascendant or descendant of the spouse of the person;

(6) spouse of a person referred to in sub-clause (2), sub-clause (3), sub-clause (4) or sub-clause (5)

(7) any lineal descendant of a person referred to in sub-clause (2) or sub-clause

(3). [Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act (61 of 1985) S. 68B(i)]"

In Black's Law Dictionary, Eighth Edition at Page 1315, the word relative is defined as under:

"Relative, n. A person connected with another by blood or affinity; a person who is kin with another. Also termed relation; kinsman. Cf. NEXT OF KIN (1).

blood relative. One who shares an ancestor with another.*

collateral relative. A relative who is not in the direct line of descent, such as a cousin. [Cases: Descent and Distribution 32-41. C.J.S. Descent band Distribution. §§ 29, 38-49.]

relative by affinity. A person who is related not by marriage or by blood or by adoption, but solely as the result of a marriage. A person is a relative by affinity (1) to any blood or adopted relative of his Actor her spouse, and (2) to any spouse of his or her Is blood and adopted relatives. Based on the theory that marriage makes two people one, the relatives of each spouse become the other spouse's relatives by affinity. See AFFINITY.*

relative of the half blood. A collateral relative who shares one common ancestor. A half brother, for example, is a relative of the half blood. See half blood under BLOOD."*

40. Considering the meaning as noticed above of the term relatives and applying it to the scheme of the Act at hand, it would include the brothers and sisters apart from the father and mother and we see no reason why we should hold that the relatives would not includes these relations as there is nothing in the Act 1989 to exclude them from the said term. May be that in the facts of a given case where the brothers and sisters had severed their relationship with the victim and other family members and were living separately without any subsisting emotional or family relationship with them, in the facts of such a case, the Court may decline relief to them, but, this can not be the basis for holding as a matter of general proposition of law that brothers and sisters per se, even if they are married, would not fall within the meaning of the term 'relatives'. Applying such an understanding and meaning universally and interpreting the provisions of Section 2(ec) of the Act 1989 accordingly, would be against the spirit of the Act and would defeat its objective.

The legislature has consciously used the words 'relatives', 'legal guardians' and 'legal heirs' so as to provide maximum assistance and relief to the victims who suffer atrocities which includes family members. There is no reason why we should give a restrictive meaning to the term 'relatives' so as to oust brothers and sisters from its purview and that of Section 2(ec). The father, brothers, sisters in this case are covered within the meaning of victim defined in Section 2(ec) as the deceased victim was unmarried, especially as they are living together with ties intact. The family members of the victim have been paid Rs. 25 lacs as monetary relief immediately after the incident which took place on 23.09.2020, therefore, obviously even as per the State Authorities, the family members in this case qualify as victims but now a different stand is being taken before us.

41. The word 'witnesses' will have the meaning as per Section 2(ed) of the Act 1989 wherein the word 'witness' has been defined to mean any person who is acquainted with the facts and circumstances, or is in possession of any information or has knowledge necessary for the purpose of investigation, inquiry or trial of any crime involving an offence under this Act, and who is or may be required to give information or make a statement or produce any document during investigation, inquiry or trial of such case and includes a victim of such offence. The family members herein the father, mother, brothers and sisters are witnesses in terms of the aforesaid provision in the criminal trial which is pending before the Special Court, therefore, they fall within the meaning of the said term in Section 2(ed).

42. The term 'dependent' is defined in Section 2(bb) to mean the spouse, children, parents, brother and sister of the victim, who are dependent wholly or mainly on such victim for his support and maintenance. Thus, if a person even though he or she may be the spouse, children, parents, brother or sister of the victim, if they were not dependent wholly or mainly on such victim for their support and maintenance, then, they would not be covered in the aforesaid definition of dependent.

43. The term 'informant' had not been defined in the Act 1989, therefore, it will have to be understood as per meaning assigned to it under the Code of Criminal Procedure in view of Section 2 (f) of the Act 1989. In the Code of Criminal Procedure, the word 'informant' would mean the person who gives an information relating to the commission of cognizable offence as is mentioned in Section 154 Cr.P.C.

44. I n exercise of power under Section 23(1) of the Act 1989 the Centre has formulated the Rules known as the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Rules, 1995. The word 'dependent' as defined in Rule 2(b) of the said Rules 1995 has the same meaning as per the definition contained in the Act 1989. The family members of the victim, who was a girl child, were obviously not dependents wholly or mainly on her, therefore, they do not qualify within the meaning of the said term, but, they certainly qualify as 'victims' within the meaning of Section 2(ec) as already discussed and also as 'witnesses' under Section 2(ed).

Analysis of the Rules 1995:

45. In the Rules 1995, Rule 12 is relevant which reads as under:-

"12. Measures to be taken by the District Administration.-- (1) The District Magistrate and the Superintendent of Police shall visit the place or area where the atrocity has been committed to assess the loss of life and damage to the property and draw a list of victims, their family members and dependents entitled for relief.

(2) Superintendent of Police shall ensure that the First Information Report is registered in the book of the concerned police station and effective measure for apprehending the accused are taken.

(3) The Superintendent of Police, after spot inspection, shall immediately appoint an investigation officer and deploy such police force in the area and take such other preventive measures as he may deem proper and necessary.

(4) The District Magistrate or the Sub-Divisional Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate shall make necessary administrative and other arrangements and provide relief in cash or in kind or both within seven days to the victims of atrocity, their family members and dependents according to the scale as provided in Annexure -I read with Annexure -II of the Schedule annexed to these rules and such immediate relief shall also include food, water, clothing, shelter, medical aid, transport facilities and other essential items.

(4-A) For immediate withdrawal of money from the treasury so as to timely provide the relief amount as specified in sub-rule (4), the concerned State Government or Union Territory Administration may provide necessary authorisation and powers to the District Magistrate.

(4-B) The Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court may also order socioeconomic rehabilitation during investigation, inquiry and trial, as provided in clause (c) of sub-section (6) of Section 15-A of the Act.

(5) The relief provided to the victim of the atrocity or his/her dependent under sub-rule (4) in respect of death, or injury or rape, or gang rape, or unnatural offences, or voluntarily causing grievous hurt by use of acid, or voluntarily throwing or attempting to throw acid etc. or damage to property shall be in addition to any other right to claim compensation in respect thereof under any other law for the time being in force.

(6) The relief and rehabilitation facilities mentioned in sub-rule (4) above shall be provided by the District Magistrate or the Sub-Divisional Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate in accordance with the scales provided in the Schedule annexed to these rules.

(7) A report of the relief and rehabilitation facilities provided to the victims shall also be forwarded to the Special Court or Exclusive Special Court by the District Magistrate or the Sub-Divisional Magistrate or the Executive Magistrate or Superintendent of Police. In case the Special Court or Exclusive Special Court is satisfied that the payment of relief was not made to the victim or his/her dependent in time or the amount of relief or compensation was not sufficient or only a part of payment of relief or compensation was made, it may order for making in full or part the payment of relief or any other kind of assistance."

46. Rule 12 of the Rules, 1995 has to be read conjointly with Section 15-A of the Act 1989. Sub-rule (1) of Rule 12 of the Rules 1995. Sub-rule (4) of Rule 12 is relevant. It enjoins upon the District Magistrate or the Sub-Divisional Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate to make necessary administrative and other arrangements and provide relief in cash or in kind or both within seven days to the victims of atrocity, their family members and dependents according to the scale as provided in Annexure-I read with Annexure-II of the Schedule annexed to these rules and such immediate relief shall also include food, water, clothing, shelter, medical aid, transport facilities and other essential items. Thus, this Rule is in furtherance of the object of the Act to provide relief and rehabilitation to the victim of an atrocity under the Act, 1989.

47. In this Rule word 'victim of atrocity', 'family members' and 'dependents' have been used for the purpose of provision of relief as per Annexure-I read with Annexure-II. The family members of the victim in this case are also 'victims of atrocity' as already discussed. They are, however, not dependents of the victim.

48. Sub-rule (4-B) of Rule 12 provides that the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court may also order socio-economic rehabilitation during investigation, inquiry and trial, as has been provided in clause (c) of sub-section (6) of Section 15-A of the Act. The words 'socio-economic rehabilitation' have not been defined in the Act 1989 or the Rules 1995. Social rehabilitation would, thus, mean social integration of the victims in society, social security and restoration of dignified status in society. Economic rehabilitation would imply provision for economic security, availability of adequate means to sustenance for a dignified life.

49. Sub-rule (6) of Rule 12 provides that the relief and rehabilitation facilities mentioned in sub-rule (4) above shall be provided by the District Magistrate or the Sub-Divisional Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate in accordance with the scales provided in the Schedule annexed to these Rules. Sub-rule (7) of Rule 12 enjoins upon the District Magistrate or the Sub-Divisional Magistrate or the Executive Magistrate or Superintendent of Police to forward a report of the relief and rehabilitation facilities provided to the victims to the Special Court or Exclusive Special Court.

50. The State has not brought on record any such report which may have been forwarded to the Special Court in this case, therefore, the inference is that no such report has been forwarded.

51. Furthermore, Rule 15 of the Rules 1995 reads as under:-

"15. Contingency Plan by the State Government.-(1) The State Government shall frame an implement a plan to effectively implement the provisions of the Act and notify the same in the Official Gazette of the State Government. It should specify the role and responsibility of various departments and their officers at different levels, the role and responsibility of Rural/ Urban Local Bodies and Non-Government Organizations. Inter alia this plan shall contain a package of relief measures including the following:

(a) scheme to provide immediate relief in cash or in kind or both;

(aa) an appropriate scheme for the rights and entitlements of victims and witnesses in accessing justice, as specified in sub-section (11) of Section 15-A of Chapter IV- A of the Act;

(b) allotment of agricultural land and house-sites;

(c) the rehabilitation packages;

(d) scheme for employment in Government or Government undertaking to the dependent or one of the family members of the victim;

(e) pension scheme for widows, dependent children of the deceased, handicapped or old age victims of atrocity;

(f) mandatory compensation for the victims;

(g) scheme for strengthening the socioeconomic condition of the victim;

(h) provisions for providing brick/stone masonry house to the victims;

(i) such other elements as health care, supply of essential commodities, electrification, adequate drinking water facility, rural cremation ground and link roads to the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes habitats.

(2) The State Government shall forward a copy of the contingency plan or a summary thereof and a copy of the scheme, as soon as may be, to the Central Government in the Department of Social Justice and Empowerment, Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment and to all the District Magistrates, Sub-Divisional Magistrates, Inspectors-General of Police and Superintendents of Police."

52. We may, at this stage, take note of the affidavit dated 28.03.2022 wherein, in response to our orders, it has been stated in para 4 that the Under Secretary of the Department of Social Welfare, Government of U.P. has apprised the Home Department, Government of U.P. that the proceedings for finalizing the contingency plan envisaged in Rule 15 of the Rules 1995 are under process. What this means is that in spite of the fact that almost 28 years having lapsed since formulation of the Rules 1995, till date the State Government has not prepared the contingency plan as is envisaged in Rule 15 thereof. Successive Governments have been sleeping over such an important matter which touches upon the rights of the Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes. There has to be some soul searching on the part of all those who were involved in Governance ever since 1995 as to what they had been doing for all these years. One only needs to look at Rule 15 of the Rules 1995 to understand the importance of the said provision and the contingency plan envisaged therein and the deprivation as a result of absence of such scheme.

53. Most important, the contingency plan envisaged in Rule 15 is required to contain a package of relief measures including inter alia an appropriate scheme for the rights and entitlements of victims and witnesses in accessing justice, as specified in sub-Section(11) of Section 15-A of Chapter IV-A of the Act; allotment of agricultural land and house sites; the rehabilitation packages; scheme for employment in Government or Government undertaking to the dependent or one of the family members of the victim. This clause in Rule 15 itself answers the submission of Sri Raju that there is no provision in the Act or the Rules made thereunder for providing Government employment or employment under a Government undertaking. The Act 1989 envisages provision of employment in Government or Government undertaking. Furthermore, the plan has to include measures relating to mandatory compensation for the victims, scheme for strengthening the socioeconomic condition of the victim etc. As mentioned in the affidavit of the State dated 28.03.2022 no such plan is in existence though it is in process of being framed.

54. We may now refer to Schedule Annexure-I which is referable to Rule 12(4) of the Rules 1995 which in turn is referable to the benefits mentioned in sub-Section (6) of Section 15-A and Section 21(2)(iii) of the Act 1989 which enjoys upon the State to undertake measures for provision of economic and social rehabilitation of the victims of atrocities. We are primarily concerned with the purport and scope of this Schedule.

55. The heading of said Schedule Annexure- I is - Norms For Relief Amount. Column 2 thereof mentions the name of the offence and Column 3 mentions - 'Minimum amount of relief.' Thus, the amount mentioned therein against the corresponding offence is the 'minimum amount' payable meaning thereby the State Government can pay more that the minimum amount. This is relevant, as, the contention of Sri Raju, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the State at one stage was that much more than what had been envisaged with respect to the offences alleged against the victim herein has been paid monetarily to the victim's family. We have no hesitation in saying that what has been paid, could be paid under the relevant Items from 1 to 45 and, therefore, it is not as if that the State had paid more than what is envisaged in the Act and Rules. The contention is, therefore, misconceived.

Analysis of Item 46 of Schedule Annexure-I to the Rules 1995:

56. There is not much of a dispute with regard to the monetary relief provided to the victim under the relevant items mentioned at Serial No. 1 to 45, as may be applicable. The dispute is with regard to the meaning and purport of Item 46 of the said Schedule Annexure-I Item 46 reads as under:

46.	Additional relief to victims of murder, death, massacre, rape, gang rape, permanent incapacitation and dacoity.	In addition to relief amounts paid under above items, relief may be arranged within three months of date of atrocity as follows:- (i) Basic Pension to the widow or other dependents of deceased persons belonging to a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe amounting to five thousand rupees per month, as applicable to a Government servant of the concerned State Government or Union territory Administration, with admissible dearness allowance and employment to one member of the family of the deceased, and provision of agricultural land, an house, if necessary by outright purchase; (ii) Full cost of the education up to graduation level and maintenance of the children of the victims. Children may be admitted to Ashram schools or residential schools, fully funded by the Government; (iii) Provision of utensils, rice, wheat, dals, pulses, etc., for a period of three months.

57. In Column No. 2 corresponding to the said Item 46 the sub-heading is - Additional relief to victims of murder, death, massacre, rape, gang rape, permanent incapacitation and dacoity. Column 2, as is evident from nature of the provision and language contained therein, gives us an idea that the reliefs referred in Item 46 are additional to the reliefs referred in Items 1 to 45 and also that they are available to 'victims'.

'Victims' have been defined in Section 2(ec). In the context of Item 46 victim can mean the actual victim in case of rape, gangrape, incapacitation and dacoity but in other cases such as of death, massacre it will mean relatives, legal guardians and legal heirs as mentioned in Section 2(ec). The meaning of the word has already been discussed earlier. In this case, originally the FIR was lodged under Section 307 IPC read with Section 3(va) of the Act, 1989, however, subsequently the offences alleged to have been committed under Section 376-B and 302 IPC have been added, therefore, Item 46 is applicable to the case at hand. The additional relief envisaged therein is available to 'victim' as is mentioned in Column 2. In our discussion in the earlier part of our judgment, we have already said that remaining family members i.e. mother, father, brothers and sisters all fall within the definition of victim under Section 2(ec) of the Act 1989, therefore, the provision (Item 46) is applicable in this case.

58. The difficulty has arisen on account of entries contained in Column 3 of Item 46. The contention of Sri Raju, learned Senior Counsel in this regard was that the word 'may' used in Column 3 of Item 46 is proof of the fact that the provision is not mandatory. It is not enforceable in law and that it gives discretion to the State Government to provide such additional relief, only in cases where the said provision applies and where there is a need. He further says that the benefits mentioned therein can only be given to dependents and not to others. The victims herein not being dependents are not entitled to the benefits mentioned therein. Secondly, such benefits can only be given where there is a need for the same. It has to be need based. It can not be as a matter of indefeasible right nor a means of source of enrichment or a bounty.

59. On a perusal of the provisions contained in Column 3, we are of the opinion that the word 'may' used therein is indicative of the fact that the benefits mentioned therein would be available only where the provision applies and also where there is a need for the same. To this extent we agree with Sri Raju. To illustrate further, what if the victim though he/she belongs to the Scheduled Caste is well-off say in the case of a PCS or IAS Officer who already has other surviving family members in employment and/or owns a house sufficient to meet the needs of the remaining family members or for that matter a case where after the death of the victim, other family members are already educated and employed and in a position to take care of the family having a suitable home. Whether even in such a case employment is necessarily to be provided to one member of the family of the deceased? Our answer has to be in the negative.

We are conscious of the legal position that backwardness of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes is constitutionally recognized, which requires no further proof but as far as Item 46 is concerned the object is to provide measures of socio-economic rehabilitation to a victim as defined in Section 2(ec) of an atrocity under the Act 1989 in cases where they are in need of such rehabilitation. We have to keep the object behind the provision in mind so that it is not implemented to enrich those who are not in need of it. The provision can not be given meaning nor can it be implemented in a manner so as to violate the rights of others including those victims belonging to SC/ST who are more in need or whose need is greater, considering the fact that resources of State are limited. The provision is supposed to give additional relief in cases where on account of the atrocity the family has been put in dire straits with no or inadequate means of sustenance and/or where they are rendered shelterless. Cases of relocation of course are different requiring consideration of factors relevant to the same.

60. In Clause (i) of Column 3 of Item 46 there are three parts. First part of Clause (i) which provides for basic pension to widow, other dependents of deceased persons belonging to a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe is applicable only in the case of a widow or dependents and not to others. The need of a dependent or a widow is self evident. The word 'dependent' is defined in Section 2 (bb) of the Act 1989. As already stated, the family members in this case are not dependents of the 'victim' nor widow, as they were neither wholly nor mainly dependent on her for their support and maintenance. They are, therefore, not entitled to the said benefit.

61. The second part of Clause (i) of Column 3 Item 46 is regarding employment to 'one member of the family of the deceased'. The contention of Sri Raju, learned Senior Counsel was that the use of the word 'and' to join the first part and the second part is indicative of the fact that employment is also to be given only to dependents. We are unable to accept this argument for the reason that if we hold it to be so on the ground that the word 'and' here is conjunctive and not disjunctive, then, it will lead to incongruous and absurd results as, the word 'employment' is followed by the words 'to one member of the family of the deceased'. If the intention of the rule making authority was to provide employment only to 'dependents', then, it could have very well stopped after using the word 'and employment to the dependent', instead, it has cautiously used the word 'employment to one member of the family of the deceased' and has deliberately not used the word 'dependents'. The object is to give a wider scope so as to ensure sustenance and economic rehabilitation of the family members, what if the dependents are not qualified or eligible for employment? One of the family members can be given employment to achieve the object.

The sine qua non is that whichever family member is provided employment has to sustain the family and if he does not do so then he can be deprived of such employment and some other family member can be provided the same. Such conditions are often provided statutorily in cases of compassionate appointment such as in the U.P. Recruitment of Government Servant (Dying-in-Harness) Rules, 1975. This takes care of the apprehension of Sri Raju as to what if the brother does not support the family. No doubt, if there are family member or family members of the victim already in employment that too gainful employment which is sufficient to sustain the family, then, employment can not be claimed as a matter of right, but, in a case where the family members are unemployed or on account of the atrocity they are unable to gain employment for various reasons, then, this provision will certainly apply.

In the case at hand the father was employed at Ayush Pharmacy, however, after the atrocity a sense of fear having gripped the family, the family does not feel secure and he is no longer in employment. Likewise, the brother, who was employed at Ghaziabad, is also unemployed. The other unmarried brother is also unemployed. We will consider more of it on facts of this case, later.

62. The term 'family' has not been defined in the Act 1989 and the Rules 1995, therefore, we have to give it meaning as is commonly understood but, of course, keeping the object of the provision in mind. The Black's Law Dictionary, Eighth Edition, page 637, the word 'family' is defined as under:

"family, n. 1. A group of persons connected by blood, by affinity, or by law, esp. within two or three generations. 2. A group consisting of parents and their children. 3. A group of persons who live together and have a shared commitment to a domestic relationship. See RELATIVE.- familial, adj.

blended family. The combined families of persons with children from earlier marriages or relation ships.*

extended family. 1. The immediate family together with the collateral relatives who make up a clan; GENS. 2. The immediate family together with collateral relatives and close family friends.*

immediate family. 1. A person's parents, spouse, children, and siblings. 2. A person's parents, spouse, children, and siblings, as well as those of the person's spouse. Stepchildren and adopted children are usu. immediate family members. For some purposes, such as taxes, a person's immediate family may also include the spouses of children Band siblings.*

intact family. A family in which both parents live together with their children."*

63. In this case employment is being claimed for one of the two brothers, therefore, we are for the moment not concerned with other relationships. Suffice it to say that both the brothers are members of the family of deceased-victim who is alleged to have been murdered. The fact that the elder brother is married makes no difference as he lives with the family. If any member of the family goes away for employment it does not mean he ceases to be member of the family unless it can be demonstrated that he had severed all relations with the family as mentioned earlier. In this case there is sufficient material on record to show that all family members including the brothers are living together. Family members are covered within the definition of victim in Section 2(ec) as they are relatives of the victim. Words have to be given meaning and applied so as to advance and achieve the object of the provisions of the Act and not to defeat it.

64. Clause (i) in Column 3 contains a third part, for providing agricultural land, a house, if necessary by outright purchase. This again has to be implemented on the basis of need and Sri Raju, learned Senior Counsel is right in saying that it can not be a source of enrichment. It can not be that if a person is already having agricultural land and a house sufficient for sustenance and suitable for living of the family members, even then, he can claim land or a house, as, any such understanding of the provision and its implementation would be hit by Article 14 of the Constitution of India, unless of course it is a case of relocation which is a different matter involving separate parameters and modalities depending upon the fact of a case.

65. According to the us, the three parts of Clause (i) of Column 3 have to be read, understood and applied disjunctively, meaning thereby, the first part applies to the widow or other dependents who are entitled to basic pension etc. mentioned therein whose need is self evident, the second part applies to one member of the family of the deceased who is to be given employment where it is required to be given and not where there are family members already in employment capable of taking care of the family unless there are exceptional reasons in the sense that the employment is not adequate or sufficient to sustain the family members, who may be large in numbers etc. The third part speaks of provision of agricultural land and house, if necessary by outright purchase. This third part does not mention as to whom it is to be provided, however, in view of our discussion hereinabove we are of the opinion that this would be provided where there is a need for providing such agricultural land and house, meaning thereby, such cases in which the victim or the family members of the victim are very poor, landless, shelterless or land held by them is inadequate for their sustenance and the house or shelter which they own or are in possession of is inadequate in any manner. If we give a conjunctive meaning to the provision by providing that all the three benefits would be available only in cases of widow or dependents as suggested by Sri Raju, learned Senior Counsel, then, it would create a hardship in a case where the family members are not dependents, but, nevertheless they are 'victims' and in need of additional relief by virtue of being rendered unemployed or shelterless consequent to the atrocity.

We may in this context refer to Stroud's Judicial Dictionary, 3rd Edn. it is stated at page 135 that "and" has generally a cumulative sense, requiring the fulfillment of all the conditions that it joins together, and herein it is the antithesis of or. Sometimes, however, even in such a connection, it is, by force of a contexts, read as "or". Similarly in Maxwell on Interpretation of Statutes, 11th Edn. it has been accepted that "to carry out the intention of the legislature it is occasionally found necessary to read the conjunctions 'or' and 'and' one for the other" or else it will defeat the object. These authorities support and reinforce our opinion in the matter

66. Entries in Column No. 3 at Item 46 are to be governed by remarks in Column no. 2 which says that additional reliefs (as mentioned in Column 2) in cases mentioned therein are meant for 'victims'. Column No. 3 can not be interpreted so as to contradict Column No. 2. Column No. 3 is applicable to 'victims' as defined in Section 2(ec). Amongst the victims, first part of Clause (i) in Column 3 applies to widows or dependents, second part of Clause (i) applies to a victim who is a family member, who need not necessarily be a dependent, the third part of Clause (i) applies to victims as defined in Section 2(ec) as a whole, who are in need of such benefits. We may also refer to Clause (ii) which speaks of 'children' of victims.

In the event of ambiguity an interpretation which advances the object of the Act and provision should be preferred and not one which defeats the object of the provisions.

67. As we have held that the additional reliefs mentioned in Item 46 have to be considered and given based on need and circumstances of the victims we are in agreement with Sri Raju, learned Senior Counsel to this extent that it does not create any indefeasible right in favour of such persons who may not be in need of the said benefits, however, in cases where the victims are in need of the said benefits, the State would be obliged to provide the same to them and the word 'may' used in Column 3 can not be read and understood to give a discretion to the State to deny the benefits come what may merely because it does not want to extend the benefits to them.

68. The consideration has to be meaningful, keeping in mind the object of the Act, the provisions contained therein and the object of Item 46, with due and proper application of mind to the relevant aspects and it has to be implemented accordingly in the interest of the victims. The endeavour shall be to provide such benefit where it is due and not that because there is a discretion, therefore, we will not provide it. The use of the word 'may' in Column 3 corresponding to Item 46 does not give the State or its authorities any such unbridled and uncanalised power to reject a claim to additional reliefs whimsically or for extraneous reasons, unreasonably and arbitrarily.

69. There is no dispute with regard to the applicability of Clause (ii) and (iii) of Item 46 in the facts of the present case, therefore, we need not enter into that aspect. State shall fulfill the educational needs of children of victim accordingly. Provision of food items, etc. has been taken care of as informed by the State but if the family has any grievance in this regard it can be raised before the District Magistrate who shall do the needful.

70. It is necessary to consider another argument of Sri Raju, learned Senior Counsel that the aforesaid additional relief such as employment has to be provided after the trial is over and not prior to it. We are unable to accept the aforesaid contention for the simple reason that this would defeat the object sought to be achieved. The Object is to provide additional relief at the earliest that is why a period of three months from the date of atrocity has been mentioned. No doubt, as per proviso to Section 14(3) of the Act 1989 when the trial relates to an offence under this Act, the trial shall, as far as possible, be completed within a period of two months from the date of filing of the charge sheet, but, this requirement is qualified by the word 'as far as possible' which is an acknowledgment of the harsh and painful reality regarding delay in trials which could be for various reasons. Secondly, most of the trials especially contentious one such as the case at hand would take much more than two months. In this case the trial has remained pending for two years for various reasons such as the Covid-19 pandemic and the constraints accompanying it, the number of witnesses to be examined etc., therefore, if we hold that the benefit would be available only after the trial is over the same would amount to compromising the object sought to be achieved by the provision contained at Item 46 of Schedule Annexure-I referable to Rule 12(4) of the Rules 1995 and Section 15A, 21 of the Act 1989. Even in criminal matters appeals are considered to be a continuation of the trial, therefore, if Sri Raju's suggestion is accepted, then, it would mean that till the appeal is decided before the High Court and thereafter before the Supreme Court, which may take decades or at least few years, the benefits envisaged in the Act 1989 would not be available. Even if this aspect is ignored, the trial itself could take long. If this is accepted, the widow or other dependents covered by first part of Column 3 of Item 46 will not get the basic pension and dearness allowance till conclusion of trial. This is certainly not the objective of the provision.

71. Furthermore, the argument advanced by Sri Raju, learned Senior Counsel that the words 'within the three months of atrocities' mentioned in Column 3 of Item 46 means 'atrocity which is proved'. We are unable to read the word 'proved' after the 'atrocity'. If the intention of the rule making authority was that the additional relief mentioned therein should be given after the atrocity has been proved, then, it would have been mentioned specifically and categorically. Atrocity has to be given the meaning as defined in Section 2(a) which means 'an offence punishable under Section 3'. The words used are 'an offence punishable under Section 3' and not 'an offence under Section 3 which has to be proved'. Therefore, this argument is also rejected.

72. Having said so we must hasten to add, if ultimately the incident of atrocity is found to be false in the sense that the incident itself did not occur or the informant or victim's family belonging to SC/ST are themselves held to be the perpetrators of atrocity, then, all reliefs given under the Act 1989 are liable to be recovered with such other action as may be permissible in law. This is necessary to discourage frivolous cases/claims under the Act 1989.

The decisions relied upon by Sri Raju have been read by us but they do not persuade us to take any other view in the matter.

Claim of Employment to One Member of the Family:

73. Now, we may consider the facts of the this case in the light of what has been discussed hereinabove.

74. First and foremost we need to reproduce the assurances given by the State on 30.09.2020 to the victim's family members, which has been signed by the District Magistrate and various district and public authorities. The said document reads as under:-

"ग्राम बूलगढ़ी थाना चन्दपा जनपद हाथरस से सम्बन्धित प्रकरण में पीडित बेटी परिवारजनों द्वारा जो मांगे रखी गई, उन पर मा0 मुख्यमंत्री जी द्वारा आज दिनांक 30.09.2020 को अपनी सहमति प्रदान करते हुए पूरा करने का आश्वासन दिया गया। परिवारजनों द्वारा रखी गई मांगो का विवरण निम्नवत है:–

1- परिवार को कुल 25 लाख रूपये की आर्थिक सहायता प्रदान की जाए, जिसमें से 10 लाख रूपए जिला प्रशासन द्वारा पीड़ित के पिता के खाता में हस्तांतरित किये जा चुके है। शेष धनराशि शीघ्र प्रदान कर दी जाएगी।

2- पीड़िता के एक भाई को ग्रुप–सी की सरकारी नौकरी।

3- प्रकरण से सम्बन्धित वाद की सुनवाई फास्ट ट्रैक में कराकर आरोपियों को कड़ी से कड़ी सजा दिलवाई जाए।

4- पीड़ित परिवार को शहर हाथरस स्थित डूडा विभाग द्वारा निर्मित 01 आवास का आंवटन।

5- एस.आई.टी. का गठन कर प्रकरण की निष्पक्ष जॉच कराई जाए।

उपरोक्त के क्रम में मा0 मुख्यमंत्री जी द्वारा पीड़िता के पिता से विडियो कॉल के माध्यम से वार्ता की गई एवं अवगत कराया गया कि प्रकरण की जांच निष्पक्ष रूप से कराए जाने हेतु एस0आई0टी0 का गठन कर दिया गया है। प्रकरण में जो भी दोषी होगा उसको सख्त से सख्त सजा दी जाएगी। मा. मुख्यमंत्री जी द्वारा पीड़ित बेटी के परिवार से अपनी संवेदनाऐं व्यक्त की गई एवं आश्वस्त किया गया कि पीड़ित परिवार को हर सम्भव मदद मुहैया कराई जाएगी।

तत्क्रम में पीड़ित बेटी के परिवार द्वारा मा. मुख्यमंत्री जी के आश्वासन से संतुष्ट होकर अपना आभार व्यक्त किया गया एवं प्रकरण में कथित समूहों एवं व्यक्तियों द्वारा किए जा रहे धरना प्रदर्शन आदि को समाप्त कर शांति की अपील की गई।

मा0 मुख्यमंत्री जी एवं पीड़ित परिवार के मध्य हुई वार्ता मा0 पंचायतीराज मंत्री श्री भूपेन्द्र सिंह चौधरी की उपस्थिति में हुई एवं वार्ता के समय निम्नांकित जनप्रतिनिधि एवं अधिकारीगण उपस्थित थे :–

1- श्री राजवीर सिंह दिलेर, मा0 सांसद हाथरस।

2- श्री हरीशंकर माहौर, मा0 विधायक हाथरस।

3- श्री वीरेन्द्र सिंह राणा, मा0 विधायक सिकन्द्राराऊ।

4- श्री गौरव आर्य, मा0 जिलाध्यक्ष भा0ज0पा0 हाथरस।

5- श्री आशीप शर्मा, अध्यक्ष नगर पालिका परिषद हाथरस।

6- श्री गगगगगग निवासी बूलगढ़ी, थाना चन्दपा।

7- श्री राजकुमार निवासी अलीगढ़।

xxxxxx - The name at serial no. 6 has not been mentioned in view of the law requiring non disclosure of the name of the victim and her family members.

75. The aforesaid assurance was given by the Head of the State and public authorities who have signed it as witness of the aforesaid fact. The document is not denied, rather admitted.

76. Sri Raju, learned Senior Counsel, however, contended that the aforesaid assurance is contrary to the law i.e. the law contained in Item 46 of Schedule Annexure-I read with Rule 12(4) of the Rules 1995. This argument obviously was based on his understanding of Clause 1 of Column 3 corresponding to Item 46 of Schedule Annexure-I, which according to him, was applicable only in the case of widow or dependents and the family members of the victim herein being neither the widow nor dependents of the victim, according to him, were not entitled for the same. We have already rejected this contention and have held that the family members are covered in the definition of victim under Section 2(ec), therefore, they are also covered by Item 46 referred above.

77. The only question to be considered is of their need in the context of employment referable to Clause (i) of Column 3 of Item 46.

78. In the affidavit dated 06.01.2021 the victim's family has inter alia prayed for employment, etc. in terms of Item 46 of Schedule Annexure-I to the Rules 1995 and the assurance given on 30.09.2020 by the Head of the State. In para 9 of the said affidavit, it has been averred that the elder brother of the deceased was working in Sector 64 Noida with MCM Mobile Company prior to the incident but at present he is residing in the house in Village Boolgadhi. Likewise, younger brother was employed at Dr. Lal Pathlab, Vasundhara, Plot No. 20, Sector IAC, Ghaziabad but he is also residing at his house at Village Boolgadhi. The reason for the same is mentioned as security of the family. It has been averred that considering the economic condition of the family and its need for sustenance the assurance given by the Chief Minister on 30.09.2020 regarding provision of employment to one member of the family should be honoured. In the affidavit date 23.10.2020 filed on behalf of the victim's family also there is a prayer for providing employment in terms of the assurance given by the Head of the State through Video Conferencing on 30.09.2020.

79. Furthermore, another affidavit dated 12.11.2021 has been filed on behalf of the victim's family. In the said affidavit, the family has mentioned its economic condition and also expenses it had to bear after the commencement of the trial. It has raised a grievance about non-payment of travelling allowance, etc. for going to the Court and coming back to their house. It has been mentioned that none of the male members are employed and, therefore, the family does not have any source of income. The money provided as compensation by the State Government is being utilized for sustenance and meeting the needs of the family. It has also been mentioned that as a consequence of the incident involving the criminal offence against the girl, on the one hand, none of the family members have downtrodden class i.e. Scheduled Caste, is being treated in such a manner, on the other hand, two of the family members of Vinay Tiwari and Manish Gupta had not only been provided Rs. 40.00 lakhs as compensation consequent to the incident involving the death of Vinay Tiwari and Manish Gupta but the have also been provided Class II jobs in Public Undertakings, therefore, discrimination and arbitrariness have been alleged in this regard.

81. In this affidavit it has been stated that the father of the deceased was earlier working as Sweeper in Ayush Pharmacy prior to the incident but is now unemployed and none of the Organizations nearby are willing to employ him. Likewise, the non-employment of two brothers has been mentioned. The promise by the Head of the State to provide Government service to one of the members of the family has not been honoured. It has also been averred that on account of security reasons the family is compelled to live within the four-walls of their house and also that it somehow survives without employment on account of which the economic condition of the family is bound to deteriorate in future. The morale of the family is also ebbing. In this situation, non-providing of employment as was promised adds to the misery of the victim's family which comprises of nine members of which three are girls aged about 7, 2 and half and 1 year. It has also been mentioned that the family has only 0.402 hectare agriculture land being part of Gata No. 146 in Village Boolgadhi, Tehsil and District Hathras, which comes to one and half bigha, therefore, it does not have adequate means of sustenance and is somehow surviving on the basis of compensation given by the State Government.

82. At this point, we may refer to certain documents filed by the State Government along with their affidavits. One of them is a report/letter of District Magistrate, Hathras dated 29.03.2022 along with the report of Sub Divisional Magistrate, Hathras and Tehsildar, Sadar, District Hathras dated 28.03.2022 in which as far as employment is concerned, it is clearly mentioned that neither the father nor the two brothers are employed and all of them are living at their house. It has been stated by the family members that on account of the incident leading to these proceedings the brothers had to come to their village and are staying at their house. It has already been noticed earlier that the family wants to live together and feels insecure on account of nature of the incident which is alleged to have taken place leading to the death of a family member and also the demography of the village, etc.

83. The affidavit of the State dated 29.03.2022 clearly mentions in para 4 that one of the brothers was earlier working in Ghaziabad in 2019, however, after the incident he has come back to his village and since then he is staying at his house and at present he is also unemployed. With regard to other brother also it has been mentioned that he was working as a Helper in a Mobile Company in Noida, however, in March, 2021, due to Covid-19, he came back to his village. After the incident, due to security reasons, CRPF has been deployed at their home and he is unable to go outside, thus he is staying at his house and at present he is unemployed. This affidavit is by the Special Secretary, Home, Government of U.P., Lucknow. This affidavit corroborates the version of the victim's family about the male members being unemployed who are unable to go outside for security reasons etc.

84. Furthermore, there is another affidavit on behalf of the State Government along with which there is a letter dated 01.11.2020 written by the Commandant, 239 Battalion, CRPF, Hathras addressed to the District Magistrate, Hathras wherein details of the members of the victim's family have been given. As against the father, it is mentioned that he is involved in agriculture. We have already noticed that the family has only one and half bigha of land which apparently, for a family consisting of nine members with three children, is not adequate for sustenance. With regard to the two brothers, it is clearly mentioned in the said letter also that at present they are living in their house and are unemployed. The rest of the family members are house wives/females.

85. The State has filed another affidavit dated 23.09.2021 here-again the claim of the victim's family for employment and other benefits has been opposed and the issues raised therein have already been considered as far as the legal interpretation of the Act 1989 and the Rules 1995 involved is concerned, in the earlier part of the judgment.

86. On facts, it has not been denied in any of these affidavits that none of the male members are employed, as of now.

87. In the affidavit dated 07.12.2021, in response to the query of the Court as to the employment provided to the members of the family late Vinay Tiwari and late Manish Gupta, the State has annexed documents showing creation of two posts of Officer on Special Duty in Pay Matrix Level 10 Pay Scale 56100-177500/- by His Excellency the Governor of Uttar Pradesh and appointment letters of the wives of the deceased, appointing them on the said post and pay scale. This is relevant in the context of the assertion of the victim's family that though there is statutory backing for providing employment to a Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe victim and its family members who are covered under the definition of 'victim', the said benefit has not been extended to the victim's family in spite of an assurance having been given by the Head of the State whereas, as contended by Ms. Kushwaha, in spite of the fact that there is no statutory backing for such appointment to other categories the same has been extended, that too, on a Class-II post and the amount of compensation paid is also much more than what has been paid to the victim's family. In this regard, the contention of Sri Raju and as also been stated on affidavit that the case of Vinay Tiwari and Manish Gupta involves police atrocity and the case of the victim's family, the same has to be considered in the light of the statutory provisions whereas there was no statutory provision for appointment of family members of Vinay Tiwari and Manish Gupta, therefore, the two cannot be compared and there is no discrimination, appears to have been made only to be rejected.

We fail to understand the rationale behind such a stand by the State. In the case of the victim's family, the contention of the victim's family is that the State which is responsible to protect the life, liberty and property of a citizen, especially those belonging to the Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe failed to fulfill this obligation and was negligent on account of which the incident occurred which led to the death of the victim and then to her illegal cremation in the dead of the night.

In these circumstances, the distinctions sought to be drawn on the ground that in other cases the police was involved in committing atrocities does not appear to be reasonable non-acceptable. These are only two facets of deprivation of life and liberty. In both the situations, the contention is that the police failed to perform its obligation. Moreover, in the other cases also, the trial is still pending, therefore, it is not as if that the guilt of the police has been proved. In this case also the CBI has filed a charge-sheet under Sections 302, 376, 376A, 376D IPC and under Section 3(2)(v) of the Act 1989, therefore, at least, the CBI is prima facie satisfied that an offence has been committed including the Offence under the Act 1989. Moreover, to say that the case at hand is governed by statute and its Rules whereas the provision of employment in the case of Vinay Tiwari and Manish Gupta was not in terms of any statute is hardly a ground for an intelligible differentia, in fact, the victim's family herein is better placed as they have statutory backing to their claim for employment. This is not to say that persons other than SC/ST cannot be provided such appointment, but only to say that the distinction sought to be made by the State is unacceptable. Even without the parity being claimed or discrimination being alleged by the victim's family viz-a-viz, the other two families referred hereinabove, the victim's family has a legal basis for its claim in view of the provisions of the Act 1989 and the Rules made thereunder which have already been discussed.

88. We have already held that the family members of the deceased are 'victims', therefore, one of the family members is entitled to employment and it is on account of this that the Head of the State assured employment to one of the family members on a Group "C' post as is recorded in the document dated 30.09.2020 which we have quoted hereinabove. This document is signed by the District Magistrate and various other public authorities. The father of the deceased has also signed it. We have already held that the said assurance and the document dated 30.09.2020 is not contrary to the provision of the Act 1989 and Rules 1995, especially Item 46 of Schedule Annexure-I to the Rules 1995, because such an act has statutory backing and there is a rationale behind it i.e to provide relief and rehabilitation to the family of the victim which belongs to SC/ST which is in furtherance of the object of the Act 1989, therefore, the contention of Sri Raju that the provision of employment in such a case would violate the Article 14 and 16 is without any constitutional and legal basis, it is accordingly rejected. Even without the assurance dated 30.09.2020 one of the family members is entitled to be considered for employment under Item 46.

89. Having held as above, on facts we have already seen that it is the undisputed factual position that none of the male members of the victim's family is employed as of now. This is as a consequence of the atrocity committed. The only other source of income available is one and half bigha land in their possession, therefore, clearly a family which comprises of nine members with three children who in the days to come will go to school, does not have adequate means of sustenance. Clearly the family is in need of employment and that is why the same was promised by the Head of the State. The promise is not based on any whims or fancy, but it is referable to statutory provisions and the Rules made thereunder as already discussed, therefore, it is enforceable in these proceedings. This is especially as the Act 1989 is itself a legislative measure to protect the rights and the interest of the poorest of poor, the downtrodden, who belong to Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe.

90. As regards the contention of Sri Raju that the State can arrange for a private job and that the Act 1989 nowhere mentions about a Government job, we have, in this regard, already referred to Rule 15 of the Rules 1995 which we have quoted above. We may refer specifically to sub-Rule (1) Clause (d) of Rule 15 which speaks of scheme for employment in Government or Government Undertaking to the dependent or one member of the family. If the intent of the legislature or the Rule making authority was that a private job be provided, it would have been mentioned therein, therefore, this offer of a private job is something which is not expected from the State Government and absolutely uncalled for. The assurance dated 30.09.2020 also mentions about appointment on a Class "C' post. We are not saying that the Government should necessarily provide a job in any service under the Government, but, this can be done in a Government Undertaking also. In the case of Vinay Tiwari and Manish Gupta no such offer of a private job was made, then, why such an offer in this case which is backed by statutory provisions. Ex-cadre posts have been created in the cases referred above. Without extending parity, the question which we put to ourselves is - why this cannot be done in this case, especially in view of the statutory backing to such an exercise. We have to say that there is no reason why it should not be done in this case, if required, otherwise, appointment can be offered against an existing vacancy. We also take note of the fact that both the brothers are Intermediate pass which is the minimum qualification for appointment on a Class - III (Group "c') post in the Government and probably in Government Undertakings also. A job suitable to their qualification can certainly be provided to one of them. The family wants a job for the elder brother.

91. We accordingly direct the State Government to consider employment of one of the family member in the light of the what has been discussed hereinabove under the Government or Government Undertaking commensurate with the qualification possessed by them keeping in mind the document dated 30.09.2020 and the assurance contained therein. This shall be done within three months from the date of receipt of this order.

Relocation of the Family:

92. So far as the claim for relocation of the family members is concerned, the provision for it exists in Section 15-A (6)(d) and Rule 15 (aa),(b) and (c). The family members have prayed for relocation in their affidavit dated 06.01.2021. In Para 9 of the said affidavit, it has been stated that the behaviour of the nearby residents in the village concerned is not humane rather it is objectionable to the family members. It Para 11 it has been stated that after filing of the charge sheet against the accused a special group i.e. "Karni Sena', which is an organization belonging to a particular caste, called for a Mahapanchayat against the victim's family members whereupon the Police even apprehended some of the trouble makers, a fact which has not been denied by the State. Furthermore, in the earlier affidavit dated 23.10.2020 also the family members of the victim have sought their relocation outside the State. Even orally this was prayed for but we did not accept the said prayer for relocation outside the State for reasons which are quite obvious, as, relocation by the State, if at all, can be made within the state itself. We may also refer to the affidavit dated 12.11.2021 in this regard wherein, in the context of demography of the village it has been stated that there were only four families belonging to the Scheduled Castes in the said village, out of which, two had migrated after the incident. Details in this regard have been given in Para 6 of the said affidavit meaning thereby only two families of Scheduled Castes are left in the village, one of which is the victim's family. Majority of the population in the village belongs to the upper castes and it is stated that the family is always targeted by other villagers. Even after being under the security of CRPF whenever the family members go out, they are subjected to abuse and objectionable comments in the village. It has been stated that the family has become socially isolated in the village after the incident. As already noticed earlier it has also been stated that the economic condition is also very poor. All this makes living of the family in village Boolgadhi cumbersome and impossible. Out of the three children, one of them, who is about 7 years of age, is unable to go to school on account of insecurity of the family, therefore, living in the said village any further is also not conducive to the educational need of the children. The family fears reprisal and repetition of the criminal acts against them. Apart from one and half bighas of agriculture land which the family owns as bhumidhars with transferable rights, the family has a house comprising of one kitchen, one "kachcha' room and another "pakka', one toilet and bathroom in a compound covering about 200 square yards.

According to the said affidavit, the said house was constructed at time of Kuwar Sen, an ancestor of the family, who had three sons, who are named therein and the father of the deceased is the son of one of such ancestors. It is said that all the descendants of the sons of Hazari Lal have a share in the said house. The State says that other alleged co-sharers are not occupying the house. As regards the allegation of encroachment on land forming part of Gata No. 94 and 95, it has been stated that the said Gata is used by the villagers and a small construction has been made by the deceased's father for keeping the cattle. The rights under the revenue laws have been asserted with regard to the SC and ST in this regard.

93. As regards the provision of a house in Hathras itself the family has declined the same on the fear of repetition of such acts and that living in the same district where the incident had occurred is not an option for the family. The State Government had offered a house to the victims within the municipal limits at Hathras, but the same has been declined. The family wants relocation outside Hathras preferably in Noida or near Delhi for the reason that it has relatives living in these areas and would be socially and economically more comfortable, as, on the one hand it will have support of peer groups and members of their social strata and relatives and on the other had they will also have an economic opportunity so that the father can also engage himself in employment, apart from the employment to be offered to one of the members by the State.

94. Considering the social and economic condition of the victim's family as also the mental state in which the family members claim to be, which is not improbable in view of the social strata to which they belong and the demography of the village, we are of the opinion that the State should consider their relocation to any other place within the State outside Hathras keeping in mind their social and economic rehabilitation and also the educational needs of the children. It is not too much for the family to ask for relocation outside Hathras in the circumstances in which they find themselves wherein their movements are highly restricted on account of their security by the CRPF and also on account of the alleged hostile behaviour/attitude of the other villagers who belong to the upper caste. After the incident considering the limelight it hogged in newspapers and social media etc., one can very well imagine that it would not be easy for the family to live in village Boolgadhi.

How and in what manner relocation is to take place is something which the State and its Authorities are required to consider. What will happen to the land and house at present owned by the family? whether they will have to surrender it to the Government so that Government may provide them suitable house and land elsewhere, if so, what would be the mode of doing it, are issues, which will have to be considered by the State Government with cooperation of the family members. This Court would not enter into the nitty gritties of this aspect, as, it may involve assessment of various factual issues. It would have been better and easier if there had been a contingency plan in place as is envisaged in Rule 15, but, as it is not so, therefore, the State should consider this aspect of the matter. Almost four months have passed since filing of the affidavit dated 28.03.2022, when it was said that preparation of such plan is in process, the state should prepare it, unless already prepared, within next three months.

95. The reason we are directing the State to consider this relocation instead of directing the family members to approach the Special Court under Section 15-A(6)(d) is that first and foremost it is the State and its authorities who have to consider such claim/request of the victims and only thereafter, if the victims are aggrieved they would approach the Special Court. There is no reason as to why we should make the family members, who belong to downtrodden class, run to the Court and engage themselves in proceedings before it when the State has not yet considered their request for relocation. As already stated the nitty gritties in this regard can be sorted out by the State in an objective, fair and reasonable manner keeping in mind the object of the Act 1989, the Rules made thereunder and the plight of the family members and a report in this regard can be submitted by the State and its Authorities through the District Magistrate, Hathras before the Special Court where the trial is pending. If the family members have any further grievance they can raise it before the said Court, but there is no reason as to why we should direct the family members to approach the Special Court without even the State Government having considered their request.

96. We are not tying the hands of the State Government with any conditions in this regard for reasons already stated hereinabove except that any such consideration for relocation has to be in furtherance of the object sought to be achieved and also in keeping with the social, economic and educational rehabilitation of the members of the family. The area of relocation has to be socially conducive to the family members apart from being conducive to their economic and educational rehabilitation. This would take sometime, therefore, we direct the State Government to consider this aspect of the matter in the light of the observations made hereinabove and take a decision within six months. After taking such a decision a report shall be submitted to the Special Court where the trial is pending through the District Magistrate, Hathras and as already stated hereinabove the family members, if they are aggrieved thereafter, may raise a grievance before the said Court unless there are exceptional reasons for approaching the High Court.

97. From the scheme of the Act 1989 and Rules made thereunder, we also find that in Section 21(2)(ii) one of the measures which the State Government is required to take for the effective implementation of the Act is the provision for travelling and maintenance expenses to witnesses, including the victims of atrocities, during investigation and trial of offences under this Act. There are pleadings by the family members to the effect that these expenses are not being paid to them. We also find that Rule 11 of the Rules 1995 also deals with travelling allowance, daily allowance, maintenance expenses and transport facilities to the victim of atrocity, his or her dependents and witnesses.

We, therefore, direct the District Magistrate, Hathras to look into the request by the family members on a representation being submitted by them in this regard, if they raise any claim as regards to the expenses referred in the Act 1989 and the Rules 1995, he shall verify the same and the do the needful as per law, but, with expedition. Section 21(2)(ii) read with Rule 11 of the Rules 1995 enjoins upon the State and its Authorities specifically the District Magistrate or the Sub-Divisional Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate to make necessary arrangements for providing transport facilities or reimbursement of full payment thereof to the victims of atrocity etc., therefore, first and foremost the State and its authorities have to comply their statutory obligations in this regard and thereafter, if the family members are still aggrieved, they can approach the Court concerned under Section 15-A(6)(b) of the Act, 1989.

Income Tax Appeal No. 51 of 2021
along with other connected Income Tax Appeals

Pr. Commissioner of Income Tax, (Central), Kanpur ...Appellant
Versus
M/s Shri Mehndipur Balaji Ent. Pvt. Ltd. ...Opp. Party

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Praveen Kumar

Counsel for the Opp. Party:
Sri Ashish Bansal, Sri Ashish Bansal, Sri Tarun Gulati(Senior Adv.)

A. Tax Law - Income Tax Act 1961 - Section 68- The initial burden of proof lies on the appellant to prove three vital ingredients u/s 68 of the act i.e. the identity, credit capacity of the creditor and genuineness of the transactions. However, mere filing of confirmation or ITRs or Bank St.ments is not sufficient to prove the credit capacity of creditors and genuineness of the transaction. Whatever material taxing authorities collect will have to be placed before the tax paying assessee if adverse inference is going to be drawn against him - audi alteram partem is a well-known principle of natural Justice.

B. Tax Law - Income Tax Act 1961 - Section 132, 153-A - provides for assessment or reassessment of the total income and not merely computation of undisclosed income on the basis of evidence found as a result of search. Thus, for assessment or reassessment under Section 153A, it is not the mandatory requirement that assessment or reassessment has to be made only on the basis of incriminating materials found in the search. Section 153A does not exclude assessment or reassessment on consideration of other incriminating materials including incriminating materials available on record. in cases where the assessment or 34 reassessment proceedings have already been completed and assessment orders have been passed, which were subsisting when the search was made, the Assessing Officer has the power to reassess the returns of the assessee not only for the undisclosed income, which was found during the search operation but also with regard to the material that was available at the time of the original assessment.

Appeal allowed. (E-12)

List of Cases relied upon:-

1. Commissioner of Income Tax Central Kanpur Vs Kesarwani Zarda Bhandar Sahson Allahabad. Income tax Appeal No. 270 of 2014

2. Commissioner of Income Tax Vs Raj Kumar Arora (2014) 367 ITR 517 (All)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J.)

1. All these appeals are admitted on the following substantial questions of law :-

(i) Whether assessment or re-assessment under Section 153-A of the Income Tax Act 1961, can be framed only on the basis of incriminating material found during course of search under section 132 of the Act.

(ii) Whether assessment or re-assessment under Section 153-A of the Income Tax Act 1961 can be framed where no incriminating material has been found in the search under Section 132 of the Act.

2. Since substantial questions of law involved in all these appeals are similar, therefore, all these appeals have been heard together.

4. All these appeals arise out of assessment orders passed by the competent Assessing Officer under Section 153A of the Income Tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1961'). Common facts in all these appeals are that a search and seizure operation under Section 132(1) of the Act, 1961 was carried out in Chaurasiya Group on 27.11.2015. Simultaneously, search was also conducted at the premises No.B-2, Surya Nagar, Ghaziabad in the case of Ashish Kumar Chaurasia, Atul Kumar Chaurasia, Shree Mehandi Balaji Enterprises (P) Ltd., M/s Ghata Mehendipur Balaji Agri Extraction (P) Ltd., M/s Tejas Food (P) Ltd., Ashish Kumar Chaurasia HUF and Kanishk Iron (P) Ltd. Warrant of Authorisation was also issued and executed. Punchnama was also drawn. A survey under Section 133A of the Act, 1961 was also carried out in the case of M/s Mehndipur Balaji Enterprises (P) Ltd. at Kila No.202, Village Hasangarh, District Rohtak. Various incriminating documents were found and impounded. The cases were centralized to the office of the Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Central Circle-II, Kanpur vide order dated 14.09.2016 under Section 127 of the Act, 1961 passed by the Principal, CIT-18, Delhi. Thus, search operations were conduced in respect of the assessees who are respondents in the above noted income tax appeals. Notices under Section 153A of the Act, 1961 were issued to the assessees requiring them to furnish return of the Income for the Assessment Years and the assessees filed return of income. Thereafter, notices under Section 143(2)/142(1) of the Act, 1961 were also issued and served upon the assessees. Show cause notices were also issued to the assessees requiring them to explain as to why the L.T.C.G. or unsecured loans shown from Success Vyapar Ltd. and Neil Industries Ltd. or payment of interest or commission be not added in the income. The explanation submitted by the assessees were not accepted by the Assessing Officer and certain amounts shown as unsecured loan from the aforesaid two companies or L.T.C.G. and interest/ commission shown were added to the income of the assessees under Section 68 of the Act, 1961. Similarly, interest payment shown and commission shown were disallowed and added under Section 69 of the Act, 1961 on account of accommodation entries.

5. Against the Assessment Orders, the assessees filed appeals before the CIT (Appeals), Kanpur which were dismissed. The aforesaid appellate orders were challenged by the assessees before the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal, Lucknow Bench "B", Lucknow who vide consolidated order dated 27.05.2021 allowed the appeal of the assessees by holding that the assessment for the assessment years under consideration stood concluded and the Assessing Officer has not made additions on the basis of any incriminating material, therefore, additions sustained by the CIT (A) are not sustainable. In the said order the Tribunal has relied its own order dated 16.12.2020 in the case of M/s. Sigma Casting Ltd. Vs. DCIT in ITA No.510 to 512 / LKW/ 2019.

6. The facts with regard to disclosed and assessed income of the assessees involved in the "Second Set' of appeals are briefly described as under:-

7. All these appeals of "Second Set' relate to M/s Goldie Masale and Shree Santosh Kumar Agarwal group of cases. Common fact in all these appeals are that a search and seizure operation under Section 132 of the Act, 1961 was conducted in M/s Goldie Masale and Shree Santosh Kumar Agarwal Group at the residential/ business premises on 31.08.2015. Simultaneously, search and seizure operations were also carried out at the residential premises of Smt. Sapna Gupta wife of Sri Siddharth Gupta. During the course of proceedings, cash, jewellery and various incriminating documents were also found and seized. The cases were centralized to the Central Circle-I, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, vide Order No.02 of 2016-17, F.No.Pr.CIT-I/KNP/12-02/Cent./Goldie Masale Gr./2016-17/684 dated 27.05.2016 passed by the Principal CIT-I, Kanpur. Notices under Section 153A of the Act, 1961 were issued requiring the asssessees to file return of income. The notices were duly served upon the assessees. Thereafter, notices under Section 142(1) along with questionnaire were issued which were also duly served upon the assessees. Notices under Section 143(2) along with specific questionnaire were also issued which were also well served. The assessees filed their return of income in response to the aforesaid notice. After following due procedure of law, the assessment orders under Section 153A of the Act, 1961 were passed making certain additions. Aggrieved with the assessment orders, the assessees filed appeals before the CIT (Appeals), Kanpur, which were dismissed by common order. Aggrieved with the appellate orders, the assessees filed Income Tax Appeals before the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal, Lucknow which were allowed by the impugned common order dated 14.09.2021.

8. Aggrieved with the orders of the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal, Income Tax Department has filed the present appeals which have been admitted on the substantial questions of law aforenoted.

9. Thus, these appeals are in two sets. The "First Set' of appeals relates to "Chaurasia Group' and the "Second Set' of appeals relates to "Goldie Masale Group.' Facts have already been noted above. For deciding the controversy involved in these appeals in "First Set' of appeals, the Income Tax Appeal No.51 of 2021 is being treated as the leading appeal and in "Second Set' of appeals, the Income Tax Appeal No.12 of 2022 is being treated as the leading appeal.

Submissions on behalf of the appellants :-

10. Learned counsels for the appellants submits as under :

(i) Subsequent to completion of assessment of the respondent assessees, a search under Section 132 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 was carried on his premises in November, 2015. Another search was conducted on 28.04.2015 on Nikki Global Finance Ltd. Searches were also conducted on premises of certain other companies on 24.04.2014 and statement of one Sri Subodh Agrawal was recorded on 28.10.2015 who appeared to be the real operator of Success Vyapar Ltd. through his employee Sri Rishi Kant Awashty as a nominal Director. Several companies including one M/s. Neil Industries Ltd. were also found being run from the same premises at Kanpur. On the basis of certain incriminating material found regarding accommodation entries, the proceedings under Section 153 A of the Income Tax Act, 1961 was initiated by the Assessing Officer and unsecured loans as unexplained income were assessed to tax in the hands of the respondent assessee under Section 68 and 69 of the Act, 1961. The Assessment Orders passed by the assessing authority were affirmed by the CIT (Appeal) but it was upset by the impugned order passed by the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal.

(ii) The finding of the Tribunal that there was no incriminating material or that in the absence of any incriminating material found in search, no reassessment under Section 153 A can be made, is not only incorrect but also perverse and against the provisions of Section 153 A of the Act.

(iii) Reliance is placed upon the judgment of this Court i.e. the jurisdiction of High Court in Commissioner of Income Tax VS. Raj Kumar Arora, (2014) 367 ITR 517 (Alld.) and Commissioner of Income Tax Vs. Kesarwani Zarda Bhandar in ITA No. 270 of 2014 decided on 06.09.2016, and the judgments in Assistant Controller of Estate Duty Vs. Devaki Ammal (1995) 2012 ITR 395 SC, Taylor Instrument Co.(India) Ltd. Vs. Commissioner of Income Tax (1998) 99 Taxman 155 (Delhi) = (1998) 232 ITR 771(Delhi) and State of U.P. Vs. Aman Mittal and another 2019 (19) SCC 740 (para 24 and in ITA No.31 of 2016 E.N. Gopakumar Vs. Commissioner of Income Tax, decided on 3.10.2016 by Kerala High court (para 8).

Submissions on behalf of the respondents/Assessees:-

11. Sri Tarun Gulati, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Ashish Bansal learned counsel for the respondent Assessee, has referred to the provisions of Section 153A and 153 C of the Acrt 1961 and certain judgments of Delhi High Court and submitted as under :-

(i) No incriminating material was found in the search on the assessee conducted by the Officers under Section 132 of the Act, 1961.

(ii) Since no incriminating material was found, therefore, provisions of Section 153-A of the Act, 1961 could not be invoked inasmuch as assessment of all the assessees for all the assessment years in question were already completed and finalised.

(iii) The original assessment proceeding of the assessee were completed by the Assessing Officer under Section 143 (3) of the Act. Therefore, on the pretext of proceedings under Section 153-A of the Act 1961 the assessing authority does not get jurisdiction for reappreciation or reappraisal of the assessment. Consequently, the Assessment Orders passed by the Assessing Officer under Section 153 A of the Act, 1961 were lawfully annuled by the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal.

(iv) There is distinction between proceedings "abated" and the proceedings which are "concluded", as evident from bare reading of Section 153-A of the Act, 1961. Since assessment proceedings of the respondent assessees fall under the category "concluded", therefore, provisions of Section 153-A could not have been invoked unless some specific incriminating material was found in the search. Since no incriminating material was found in the search conducted on the assessee, therefore, reassessment proceedings under Section 153-A of the Act could not have been initiated by the Assessing Officer and such initiation of proceedings was wholly without jurisdiction.

(v) Reliance is placed upon the judgments of Delhi High Court in Commissioner of Income Tax Vs. Sinhgad Technical Education Society reported in (2017) 397 ITR 344 (SC) (paras 4,13,18); Commissioner of Income Tax Vs. Kabul Chawla reported in (2015) 380 ITR 573 (Delhi) (paras 2,14,15,17) and Principal Commissioner of Income Tax Vs. Ram Avtar Verma reported in (2017) 395 ITR 252 (Delhi) (para 4).

(vi) No incriminating material against the assessee was found during the course of search conducted under Section 132 of the Act, for the Assessment Years in question. Therefore, no reassessment under Section 153 A of the Act 1961 could have been made. Consequently, the Income Tax Appellate Authority has lawfully and correctly set aside the order passed by the Assessing Authority.

Discussion and Findings

12. We have carefully considered the submission of learned counsel for the parties.

13. Before we proceed to decide the aforequoted substantial questions of law, it would be appropriate to reproduce the provisions of Section 153A and Section 153 C of the Act, 1961, as under :-

"153A. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 139, section 147, section 148, section 149, section 151 and section 153, in the case of a person where a search is initiated under section 132 or books of account, other documents or any assets are requisitioned under section 132A after the 31st day of May, 2003, but on or before the 31st day of March, 2021, the Assessing Officer shall-

(a) issue notice to such person requiring him to furnish within such period, as may be specified in the notice, the return of income in respect of each assessment year falling within six assessment years and for the relevant assessment year or years referred to in clause (b), in the prescribed form and verified in the prescribed manner and setting forth such other particulars as may be prescribed and the provisions of this Act shall, so far as may be, apply accordingly as if such return were a return required to be furnished under section 139;

(b) assess or reassess the total income of six assessment years immediately preceding the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which such search is conducted or requisition is made and for the relevant assessment year or years :

Provided that the Assessing Officer shall assess or reassess the total income in respect of each assessment year falling within such six assessment years and for the relevant assessment year or years :

Provided further that assessment or reassessment, if any, relating to any assessment year falling within the period of six assessment years and for the relevant assessment year or years referred to in this sub-section pending on the date of initiation of the search under section 132 or making of requisition under section 132A, as the case may be, shall abate :

Provided also that the Central Government may by rules made by it and published in the Official Gazette (except in cases where any assessment or reassessment has abated under the second proviso if any, relating to any assessment year falling within the period of six assessment years and for the relevant assessment year or years referred to), specify the class or classes of cases in which the Assessing Officer shall not be required to issue notice for assessing or reassessing the total income for six assessment years immediately preceding the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which search is conducted or requisition is made and for the relevant assessment year or years:

Provided also that no notice for assessment or reassessment shall be issued by the Assessing Officer for the relevant assessment year or years unless-

(a) the Assessing Officer has in his possession books of account or other documents or evidence which reveal that the income, represented in the form of asset, which has escaped assessment amounts to or is likely to amount to fifty lakh rupees or more in the relevant assessment year or in aggregate in the relevant assessment years;

(b) the income referred to in clause (a) or part thereof has escaped assessment for such year or years; and

(c) the search under section 132 is initiated or requisition under section 132A is made on or after the 1st day of April, 2017.

Explanation 1.-For the purposes of this sub-section, the expression "relevant assessment year" shall mean an assessment year preceding the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which search is conducted or requisition is made which falls beyond six assessment years but not later than ten assessment years from the end of the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which search is conducted or requisition is made.

Explanation 2.-For the purposes of the fourth proviso, "asset" shall include immovable property being land or building or both, shares and securities, loans and advances, deposits in bank account.

(2) If any proceeding initiated or any order of assessment or reassessment made under sub-section (1) has been annulled in appeal or any other legal proceeding, then, notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1) or section 153, the assessment or reassessment relating to any assessment year which has abated under the second proviso to sub-section (1), shall stand revived with effect from the date of receipt of the order of such annulment by the Principal Commissioner or Commissioner:*

Provided that such revival shall cease to have effect, if such order of annulment is set aside.

Explanation.-For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that,-

(i) save as otherwise provided in this section, section 153B and section 153C, all other provisions of this Act shall apply to the assessment made under this section;

(ii) in an assessment or reassessment made in respect of an assessment year under this section, the tax shall be chargeable at the rate or rates as applicable to such

153C. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 139, section 147, section 148, section 149, section 151 and section 153, where the Assessing Officer is satisfied that,-*

(a) any money, bullion, jewellery or other valuable article or thing, seized or requisitioned, belongs to; or

(b) any books of account or documents, seized or requisitioned, pertains or pertain to, or any information contained therein, relates to, a person other than the person referred to in section 153A, then, the books of account or documents or assets, seized or requisitioned shall be handed over to the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over such other person and that Assessing Officer shall proceed against each such other person and issue notice and assess or reassess the income of the other person in accordance with the provisions of section 153A, if, that Assessing Officer is satisfied that the books of account or documents or assets seized or requisitioned have a bearing on the determination of the total income of such other person for six assessment years immediately preceding the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which search is conducted or requisition is made and for the relevant assessment year or years referred to in sub-section (1) of section 153A :*

Provided that in case of such other person, the reference to the date of initiation of the search under section 132 or making of requisition under section 132A in the second proviso to sub-section (1) of section 153A shall be construed as reference to the date of receiving the books of account or documents or assets seized or requisitioned by the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over such other person :*

Provided further that the Central Government may by rules made by it and published in the Official Gazette, specify the class or classes of cases in respect of such other person, in which the Assessing Officer shall not be required to issue notice* for assessing or reassessing the total income for six assessment years immediately preceding the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which search is conducted or requisition is made and for the relevant assessment year or years as referred to in sub-section (1) of section 153A except in cases where any assessment or reassessment has abated.

(2) Where books of account or documents or assets seized or requisitioned as referred to in sub-section (1) has or have been received by the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over such other person after the due date for furnishing the return of income for the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which search is conducted under section 132 or requisition is made under section 132A and in respect of such assessment year-

(a) no return of income has been furnished by such other person and no notice under sub-section (1) of section 142 has been issued to him, or

(b) a return of income has been furnished by such other person but no notice under sub-section (2) of section 143 has been served and limitation of serving the notice under sub-section (2) of section 143 has expired, or

(c) assessment or reassessment, if any, has been made, before the date of receiving the books of account or documents or assets seized or requisitioned by the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over such other person, such Assessing Officer shall issue the notice and assess or reassess total income of such other person of such assessment year in the manner provided in section 153A.

(3) Nothing contained in this section shall apply in relation to a search initiated under section 132 or books of account, other documents or any assets requisitioned under section 132A on or after the 1st day of April, 2021."

14. In the "First Set' of appeals (leading Income Tax Appeal No.51 of 2021) relating to Chaurasia Group of cases, we find that in assessement order passed under Section 153A of the Act, 1961 the Assessing Officer and in the Appellate order, the CIT(A) have very exhaustively dealt with evidences including incriminating materials found at the time of search/ survey and have recorded detailed findings of fact based on consideration of relevant evidences on the point of bogus unsecured loan and bogus LTCG/ STCG. It would be appropriate to reproduce the relevant portion of the order of the CIT(A) dated 29.11.2018 in Appeal No.CIT(A)-IV/10363, 10351, 10354, 10355 & 10358/DCIT-CC-II/KNP/2017-18/697 to 701. The relevant portion of the aforesaid order of the CIT(A) containing findings of fact are reproduced below:-

"Discussion & decision on legal grounds of these cases:

A.Y 2012-13 to A.Y. 2015-16:

5.1 Ground no. 1 to 3 for all the assessment years pertain to legal challenge to notice u/s 153A of the Act. It is also submitted by the ld. A.R. of the appellant that order u/s 153A of the Act is invalid in absence of incriminating material found as a result of search for these relevant assessment years in appeals.

5.2 Undersigned has carefully considered the submission and the case laws cited by the appellant. However, considering the express provisions of section 153A of the Act, undersigned would like to differ with the submission of the appellant, because section 153A of the Act clearly provides the power to AO to assess/reassess the cases of person searched u/s 132(1) of the Act for immediately six preceding years. Section 153A of the Act does not provide existence of incriminating material as essential requirement*. In the opinion of the undersigned, the action u/s 132/132A of the Act would automatically trigger the provisions of section 153A of the Act for computation of total income of the appellant.* This provision does not restrict the Assessing Officer to take action in those cases where assessment has already been completed. Since, the AO has rightly exercised his powers to assess/reassess the case u/s 153A of the Act.

5.3 The contention of the ld. A.R. is also not acceptable after placing reliance on following Judicial pronouncement.

In the case of E.N. Gopakumar Vs CIT [(2016) 75 taxmann.com 215 (Kerala)]- Hon'ble Kerala High Court held that assessment proceedings generated by issuance of a notice under section 153A(1)(a) can be concluded against interest of assessee including making additions even without any incriminating material being available against assessee in search under section 132 on basis of which notice was issued under section 153A(1) (a).

The above order has been passed after considering cases of:

(i) CIT v Kabul Chawla [2016) 380 ITR 573/(20151 234 Taxman 300/61 taxmann.com 412 (Delhi).

(ii) CIT v Continental Warehousing Corpn. (Nhava Sheva) Ltd. [2015] 374 ITR 645/232 Taxman 270/58 taxmann.com 78 (Bom.), (iii) Principal CIT v. Kurele Paper Mills (P.) Ltd. [2016] 380 ITR 571 (Delhi).

(iv) CIT v Lancy Constructions [2016] 383 ITR 168/237 Taxman 728/66 taxmann.com 264 (Kar.),

(v) CIT v ST. Francies Clay Decor Tiles [2016] 240 Taxman 168/70 taxmann.com 234 (Ker.) and

(vi) CIT v Promy Kuriakose [20l6] 386 ITR 597 (Ker.).

Further, in the case of CIT Vs Rai Kumar Arora [2014] 52 taxmann.com 172 (Allahabad)/(2014) 367 ITR 517 (Allahabad)- Hon'ble Allahabad High Court held that Assessing Officer has power to reassess returns of assessee not only for undisclosed income found during search operation but also with regard to material available at time of original assessment.

Similarly, in the case of ClT Vs Kesarwani Zarda Bhandar Sahson Alld. HTA No. 270 of 20141 (Allahabad)- Hon'ble Allahabad High Court held that Assessing Officer has power to reassess returns of assessee not only for undisclosed income found during search operation but also with regard to material available at time of original assessment.

Also, in the case of CIT Vs St. Francis Clay Decor Tiles (385 ITR 624)-Hon'ble Delhi Kerala Court held that notice issued under section 153A- return must be filed even if no incriminating documents discovered during search.

In the case of CIT Vs Anil Kumar Bhatia (24 taxmann.com 98. 211 Taxman 453. 352 ITR 493)- Hon'ble Delhi High Court held that jurisdiction of AO under 153A is to assess total income for the year and not restricted to seized material. Post search reassessment in respect of all 6 years can be made even if original returns are already processed u/s 143(1)(a) - Assessing Officer has power u/s 153A to make assessment for all six years and compute total income of assessee, including undisclosed income, notwithstanding that returns for these years have already been processed u/s 143(1)(a). Even if assessment order had already been passed in respect of all or any of those six assessment years, either under section 143(1)(a) or section 143(3) prior to initiation of search/requisition, still Assessing Officer is empowered to reopen those proceedings under section 153A without any fetters and reassess total income taking note of undisclosed income, if any, unearthed during search.

In the case of Filatex India Ltd Vs CIT (49 taxmann.com 465)- Hon'ble Delhi High Court held that during assessment under section 153A, additions need not be restricted or limited to incriminating material, found during course of search.

*7.5 The undersigned has carefully gone through the assessment order, grounds of appeal, written submission of the ld. A.R. of the appellant submitted during these appeals proceedings. AO has noted, the following uncontroverted finding of fact in his assessment orders. T*he relevant observation of AO is extracted from the assessment order as follows:

i) An incriminating dairy was seized during the course of Shri Subodh Agarwal, which was hand written by him and relevant incriminating entries and its explanation as follows,

a. At page number 45 " VMM-Sulabh+ Neil mein loss+ MKU mein. Profit"

b. At page number 43 "Gravity--> merger order

c. At page number 31, 32 and 33 names of Manoj Agrawal,.... i.e.. family members has been written in multiple places along with details of transactions where money has been received and given to them. The nature of entries are self-evident.

This clearly establishes that you have very close nexus with Sh. Subodh Agrawal who also has been one of the directors of your company M/s Sulabh Engineering & Services Limited along with Sh. Manoj Agrawal.

The above entries at page number 45 also clearly explain the nature of transactions in Neil industries limited is that of providing "accommodation entries' as in the case of Success Vyapar Limited.

Sh. Subodh Agrawal has already accepted that he has provided bogus LTCG in Oasis Cine Communication Limited, apart from Sulabh Engineering & Services Limited and Nikki Global Finance Limited The above entries at page number 43 further clearly establishes that Sh. Subodh Agrawal has provided the bogus LTCG in Oasis Cine Communication Limited through merger/ amalgamation of Gravity Barter Limited and Makeover Vintrade Limited. All the three companies are registered at the same premise In Kolkata at Bijan Theatre, 5A, Raja RaJ Kissan Street, Kolkata- 700006.SO, it further cements the basic allegation that the LTCG/STCG/unsecured loans accrued to you through is nothing but your own cash routed as such."

ii) "It is also observed that search u/s 132 was conducted by Investigation Directorate, Kanpur in Rich Udyog Group of Kanpur on 28.04.2015. Nikki Global Finance Limited is one of the companies of this group which was subjected to search u/s 132. This company has Sh. Subodn Agrawal as one of its directors, apart from Sh. Sashwat Agrawal and his family and friends. Nikki Global Finance Limited is also covered in total 84 scrips investigated by Investigation Directorate, Kolkata.

After Search, two of the group companies subjected to search u/s 132 challenged the same before the Hon'ble Allahabad High Court in WT No.458/459 of 2015. Hon'ble Allahabad High Court after perusing the satisfaction note and all the seized material dismissed the writ petitions and observed that this group is involved in ''clandestine activity of taking cash and making dubious transactions in cheque, thereby ''laundering the money'. This group is also centralized with the Central Circle and you are hereby shown the page number 8, 9 and 11 of BK-8 of the seized material which mentions bogus transactions with Success Yapar Limited. The similar findings have been made by the AOs in Kolkata of Success Vyapar Limited and Neil Industries Limited where they have disallowed losses claimed by these two companies in sale of Nikki Golabl Finance Limited as being held bogus and Part of racket of LTCG/STCG/unsecured loan. The above evidence and findings further makes your loans from these two companies non-genuine".

iii) "Careful Study of the assessment orders reveal that, there are three directors in M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. i.e. "Shri Rishikant Awasthy, Shri Abhiset Basu and Shri Pradeep Dey" AO has scanned and reproduced the statements of Shri Abhiset Basu and Shri Pradeep Dey. From the perusal of these statements, it is evident that, actual business activity of their concerns is to provide the accommodation entries in the form of capital gains/share capital/share premium and unsecured loans. It is also accepted by them that, they are the dummy directors and they were acting on the behest and behalf of Raj Kumar Tharad and Anil Kumar - Khemka respectively. The statement of Raj Kumar Tharad and Shri Anil Kumar Khemka, which were recorded on oath reveals that, their concerns were engaged in providing the accommodation entries in various forms through their paper companies, which included the alleged creditors. As per statement of Mr. Subodh Agarwal related to the search of Godiee group by investigation wing of Kanpur, has accepted on oath that, Mr. Rishi Kant Awasthi was an employee in the office of Mr. Subodh Agarwal. Since, all the dummy directors and the details found at the office premises of the Mr. Subodh Agarwal, it is concluded that, creditor company M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. is controlled by Mr. Subodh Agarwal. As discussed earlier, it is established that, Mr. Subodh Agrarwal is an entry provider through various paper companies including the M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. and M/s. Neil Industries Ltd., which advanced unexplained unsecured loans to various group companies of this appellant group in the different financial years in the form of accommodation entry. The facts of another creditor M/s. Neil Industries Limited is no different. In fact hard evidence of payment of cash for providing the accommodation entries were found in the search of Shri Subodh Agarwal, Rich capital and Goldiee group.

7.6 It is a settled preposition of law u/s 68 of the Act that, the initial burden of proof lies on the appellant to prove three vital ingredients u/s 68 of the act i.e. the identity, credit capacity of the creditor and genuineness of the transactions. In the present factual matrix of these cases, let us first, examine whether appellant has discharged the initial onus casted u/s 68 of the Act. Admittedly, appellant has filed the confirmation letters, ITRs and Bank statements of the creditors. However, mere filing of confirmation or ITRs or Bank statements is not sufficient to prove the credit capacity of creditors and genuineness of the transaction. On the other hand, AO has brought out the incriminating seized documents and statements of Directors of the alleged creditors i.e. M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. and M/s. Neil Industries Ltd., who accepted on oath that, their companies are involved in providing the accommodation entries of LTCG/share capital/share premium and unsecured loans. All the incriminating evidence including statements of Directors of alleged creditors i.e. M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. and M/s. Neil Industries Ltd. have been confronted to the appellant, who could not submit any satisfactory explanation regarding the genuineness of the transaction and credit capacity of the creditors. The income and the Bank Statements of the creditors as disclosed and furnished for these relevant assessment years are summarized in the following tables;

S. No.	Name of the credit or	Creditors Income disclosed in ITR
		A.Y. 2012-13	A.Y. 2013-14	A.Y. 2014-15	A.Y. 2015-16	A.Y. 2016-17
1	M/s Success Vyapar Ltd.	Rs.15864 58	Rs. 47812 13	Rs.5032 366	Rs. 64 29 09 7	Not sub mitte d
2	M/s Neil Industries Ltd	Not Sub mitte d	Rs. 81250 11	Rs.9662 615	Not sub mitted	Rs.1 2045 007

Thus, from the above table, it is evident that, creditors companies have furnished very meager income to inspire the confidence of credit of huge amount of unsecured loans. Also, there is no agreement or the co-lateral security arrangements between the appellant and creditors companies. A careful, perusal of Bank statements of these two lenders reveal the astonishing similarly in the pattern of fund flow. It is invariably noted that the creditors account were deposited with cheque of equivalent or more amount of credit on the same date or prior to advancing the loan to the appellant company. Thus, the evidence submitted by the appellant does not inspire the confidence regarding credit capacity of the creditors and genuineness of the transactions, especially considering the fact that, lenders have disclosed meager income in their returns and each credit of unsecured loans to the appellant company is preceded by the equivalent or more amount of deposits of credit on the same date or on the prior dates. Also, AO has recorded the finding of fact that, most of the lenders do not exist on the given address and are paper companies providing the accommodation entries of unsecured loans. Also, AO has dealt at length on the seized documents and the statements of directors of M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. and M/s. Neil Industries Ltd., evidencing the non-genuine nature of transactions. Finding of Hon'ble Allahabad High Court in WT No. 458/459 of 2015, wherein, it is held that, the creditor companies are dubious entities laundering the money in the garb of LTCG/share capital/share premium/unsecured loans. Thus, it is concluded that genuineness of the transaction and credit capacity of the creditors are unsubstantiated and transaction of unsecured loans are non-genuine. Appellant, on the other hand has not placed any material before the undersigned to dislodged the finding recorded by the AO. Therefore, considering the totality of facts and Circumstances of the case, it is concluded that, appellant has miserably failed to prove the credit capacity and genuineness of the transaction.

7.7 Thus, from the above detailed discussion, it is concluded that, the Creditor's entities M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. and M/s. Neil Industries Ltd. are paper companies, providing the accommodation entries in the form of capital gains/share capital/share premium and unsecured loans and according transactions of unsecured loans are non-genuine and unsubstantiated.

7.8 On the issue of cross examination, undersigned is of the view that, the incriminating dairy/documents found from the search of Shri Subodh Agarwal and the statement of dummy directors of the alleged creditors companies M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. and M/s. Neil Industries Ltd. were shown and confronted to the appellant. It is also seen from the assessment orders that, AO has tried his best to call the persons, copies of whose statements in favour of the revenue were given to the appellant. Further, Hon'ble ITAT Mumbai in the case of GTC industries Ltd Vs. ACIT (1998] 65 ITD 380 [Bom.] has observed and noted that, where statements of witness were only secondary and subordinate material use to buttress main matter connected with the amount of addition, it had to be held that, there was no denial of principal of natural Justice, if witness were not allowed to cross examined by the appellant." Therefore it is concluded that, AO has followed the principal of natural justice by producing and confronting all the incriminating seized documents and statements recorded in favour of revenue to the appellant.

7.9 It is a settled preposition of law u/s. 68 of the IT Act that the initial burden of proof rest upon the appellant to establish the identity, credit capacity of the creditor and to establish the genuineness of transaction. For the sake of clarity provision of section 68 of the Act as amended read as under:

"68. Where any sum is found credited in the books an assessee maintained- for any previous year, and the assessee offers no explanation about the nature and source thereof or the explanation offered by him is not, in the opinion of the Assessing Officer, satisfactory, the sum so credited may be charged to income-tax- as the income of the assessee of that previous year:

"Provided that where the assessee is a company (not being a company in which the public are substantially interested), and the sum so credited consists of share application money, share capital, share premium or any such amount by whatever name called, any explanation offered by Such assessee-company shall be deemed to be not satisfactory, unless-

(a) the person, being a resident in whose name such credit is recorded in the books of such company also offers an explanation about the nature and source of such sum so credited; and

(b) such explanation in the opinion of the Assessing Officer aforesaid has been found to be satisfactory:

Provided further that nothing contained in the first proviso shall apply if the person, in whose name the sum referred to therein is recorded, is a venture capital fund or a venture capital company as referred to in clause (23FB) of section 10."

The present facts of the case are squarely covered by the provisions or law mentioned here-in-above, wherein it was imperative for the appellant to prove the identity and creditworthiness of the creditors along with the genuineness of transaction. In the instant case, appellant has miserably failed to prove genuineness of the transaction and creditworthiness of the creditors. Hence, addition made by Assessing Officer is perfectly justified.

7.10 It is also an established law that mere filing of confirmation letter and the ITR copies are not enough to prove the credit capacity of the creditor. Hon'ble Kolkata High Court in the case of CIT Vs

Korlav Trading Company Ltd.(Cal) 232 ITR 280 and CIT Vs Precision Finance P. Ltd. (Cal) 208 ITR 465 have observed and held that mere filing of confirmation and transaction through the banking channel is not enough to prove the genuineness of cash credit and it can be assessed. Further, Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Shri Roshan D.Hatti Vs CIT (SC) 107 ITR 938 held that in the case of credits in the name of third party, it is the duty of the appellant to prove the identity or credit capacity of the creditors to advance money and genuineness of transaction. In the instant case, the undersigned is of the view that the credit capacity of the creditor and genuineness of the transaction is not proved by the appellant company.

7.11 Further, Delhi High Court in the case of PCIT Vs Vikram Singh (2017)85 taxmann.com 104 has observed and held that even if transaction of loan is made through cheque, it cannot be presumed to be genuine in absence of any agreement, security and interest payment. Mere submission of the PAN and bank statements of the creditor does not establish the authenticity and genuineness of huge loan transaction particularly when the ITR of the lender does not inspire such confidence. Mere submission of ID proof and the fact that the loan transaction were through banking channel does not establish the authenticity of transaction. The loan entries are generally masked to pump the black money into the banking channel and such practices continued to plague Indian Economy. Further, in the case of CIT Vs. N.R. Portfolio Pvt. Ltd. (ITA No. 1018,1019/2100 dated 22.11.2013) Hon'ble Delhi High Court has observed and held that

It is the person behind the company who take the decisions, controls and manage them."

The cases relied upon by the Ld. AR are on their own footings and distinguishable on facts and are not applicable to the present case. Further, Hon'ble Calcutta High Court has observed and held in the case of Pragati Financial Management Pvt. Ltd. Vs. CIT in C.A.887 & 998 of 2016 and others dated 07.03.2017, that, AO is entitled to make enquiry u/s. 68 of the Act regarding genuineness of the transaction. Further, it is held that, in the following Judicial pronouncements of the Honble High Courts that unsecured loans received from the entities involved in providing accommodation entries are liable to be taxed u/s 68 of the Act.

i) CIT vs. Nova Promoters & Finlese (P) Ltd. 342 ITR 169 [Delhi] 2013.

ii) CIT vs. D.K. Garg [2017] 84 taxmann.com 257 [Delhi]

7.12 In view of the above detailed discussion of the factual matrix of the case and considering the enumerated judicial pronouncements, it is concluded that appellant company has miserably failed to prove the vital ingredients of creditworthiness of the creditors' and genuineness of the transaction*. Therefore, undersigned find no reason to interfere with* the addition made by Assessing Officer, u/s 68 of the Act. The same is therefore, confirmed and ground of appeal of the appellant is dismissed for each assessment year i.e. A.Y. 2012-13 for A.Y. 2016-17."

15. In the "Second Set' of appeals (leading Income Tax Appeal No.12 of 2022), relating to Goldie Masale Group of cases, we find that in assessement order passed under Section 153A of the Act, 1961, the Assessing Officer and in appeal, the CIT(A) have very exhaustively dealt with evidences including incriminating materials found at the time of search/ survey and have recorded detailed findings of fact based on consideration of relevant evidences on the point of bogus unsecured loan and bogus LTCG/ STCG. It would be appropriate to reproduce the relevant portion of the order of the CIT(A), dated 29.03.2019 in Appeal No.CIT(A)-IV/10334, 10335, 10375/DCIT-CC-I/KNP/2017-18/957 to 959 containing findings of fact are reproduced below:-

"6.3 The undersigned has carefully gone through the assessment order, grounds of appeal, written submission of the ld. A.R. of the appellant submitted during these appeals proceedings. AO has noted, the following uncontroverted finding of fact in his assessment orders. The relevant observation of AO is extracted from the assessment order as follows:

i) "An incriminating dairy was seized during the course of search of Shri Subodh Agarwal, which was hand written by him and relevant incriminating entries and its explanation as follows:

a. At page number 45 "VMM- Sulabh + Neil mein loss + MKU mein profit"

b. At page number 43 "Gravity -- > merger order

c. At page number 31, 32 and 33 names of, Manoj Agarwal,... i.e. family members has been written in multiple places along with details of transactions where money has been received and given to them. The nature of entries are self-evident.

The above entries at page number 45 also clearly explain the nature of transactions in Neil industries limited is that of providing "accommodation entries' as in the case of Success Vyapar Limited.

Sh. Subodh Agrawal has already accepted that he has provided bogus LTCG in Oasis Cine Communication Limited, apart from Sulabh Engineering & Services Limited and Nikki Global Finance Limited. The above entries at page number 43 further clearly establishes that Sh. Subodh Agrawal has provided the bogus LTCG in Oasis Cine Communication Limited through merger/amalgamation of Gravity Barter Limited and Makeover Vintrade Limited. All the three companies are registered at the same premise In Kolkata at Bijan Theatre, 5A, Raja Raj Kissan Street, Kolkata-700006. SO, it further cements the basic allegation that the LTCG/STCG/unsecured loans accrued to you through is nothing but your own cash routed as such."

ii) "It is also observed that search u/s 132 was conducted by Investigation Directorate, Kanpur in Rich Udyog Group of Kanpur on 28.04.2015. Nikki Global Finance Limited is one of the companies of this group which was subjected to search u/s 132. This company has Sh. Subodh Agrawal as one of its directors, apart from Sh. Sashwat Agrawal and his family and friends. Nikki Global Finance Limited is also covered in total 84 scrips investigated by Investigation Directorate, Kolkata.

After search, two of the group companies subjected to search u/s 132 challenged the same before the Hon'ble

Allahabad High Court in WP No. 458/459 of 2015. Hon'ble Allahabad High Court after perusing the satisfaction note and all the seized material dismissed the writ petitions and concluded that "this group is involved in ''clandestine activity of taking cash and making dubious transactions in cheque, thereby ''laundering the money".

This group is also centralized with the Central Circle and at page number 8, 9 and 11 of BK-8 of the seized material which mentions bogus transactions with Success Vyapar Limited. The similar findings have been made by the AOs in Kolkata of Success Vyapar Limited and Neil Industries Limited where they have disallowed losses claimed by these two companies in sale of Nikki Global Finance Limited as being held bogus and part of racket of LTCG/ STCG/unsecured loan. The above evidence and findings further makes your loans from these two companies non-genuine."

iii) "Careful study of the assessment orders reveal that there are three directors in M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. i.e. "Shri Rishikant Awasthi, Shri Abhishekh Basu and Shri Pradeep Dey" AO has scanned and reproduced the statements of Shri Abhishekh Basu and Shri Pradeep Dey. From the perusal of these statements, it is evident that, actual business activity of their concerns is to provide the accommodation entries in the form of capital gains/share capital/ share premium and unsecured loans. It is also accepted by them that, they are the dummy directors and they were acting on the behest and behalf of Raj Kumar Tharad and Anil Kumar Khemka respectively. The statement of Raj Kumar Tharad and Shri Anil Kumar Khemka, which were recorded on oath reveals that, their concerns were engaged in providing the accommodation entries in various forms through their paper companies, which included the alleged creditors. As per statement of Mr. Subodh Agarwal related to the search of Godiee group by investigation wing of Kanpur, has accepted on oath that, Mr. Rishi Kant Awasthi was an employee in the office of Mr. Subodh Agarwal. Since, all the dummy directors and the details found at the office premises of the Mr. Subodh Agarwal, it is concluded that, creditor company M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. is controlled by Mr. Subodh Agarwal. As discussed earlier, it is established that Mr. Subodh Agrarwal is an entry provider through various paper companies including the M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. and M/s. Neil Industries Ltd., which advanced unexplained unsecured loans to various group companies of this appellant group in the different financial years in the form of accommodation entry. The facts of another creditor M/s. Neil Industries Limited is no different. In fact hard evidence of payment of cash for providing the accommodation entries were found in the search of Shri Subodh Agarwal, Rich capital and Goldiee group.

6.4 It is a settled preposition of law u/s 68 of the Act that, the initial burden of proof lies on the appellant to prove three vital ingredients u/s 68 of the act i.e. the identity, credit capacity of the creditor and genuineness of the transactions. In the present factual matrix of these cases, let us first, examine whether appellant has discharged the initial onus casted u/s 68 of the Act. Admittedly, appellant has filed the confirmation letters, ITRs and Bank statements of the creditors. However, mere filing of confirmation of ITRs or Bank statements is not sufficient to prove the credit capacity of creditors and genuineness of the transaction. On the other hand, AO has brought out the incriminating seized documents and statements of Directors of the alleged creditors i.e. M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. and

M/s. Neil Industries Ltd. who accepted on oath that, their companies are involved in providing the accommodation entries of LTCG/share capital/share premium and unsecured loans. All the incriminating evidence including statements of Directors of alleged creditors i.e. M/s Success Vyapar Ltd. and M/s. Neil Industries Ltd. have been confronted to the appellant, who could not submit any satisfactory explanation regarding the genuineness of the transaction and credit capacity of the creditors. Also, there is no agreement or the co-lateral security arrangements between the appellant and creditors companies. A careful, perusal of Bank statements of these two lenders reveal the astonishing similarity in the pattern of fund flow. It is invariably noted that the creditors account were deposited with cheque of equivalent or more amount of credit on the same date or prior to advancing the loan to the appellant company. Thus, the evidence submitted by the appellant does not inspire the confidence regarding credit capacity of the creditors and genuineness of the transactions, especially considering the fact that, lenders have disclosed meager income in their returns and each credit of unsecured loans to the appellant company is preceded by the equivalent or more amount of deposits of credit on the same date or on the prior dates. Also, AO has recorded the finding of fact that, most of the lenders do not exist on the given address and are paper companies providing the accommodation entries of unsecured loan. Also, AO has dealt at length on the seized documents and the statements of directors of M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. and M/s. Neil Industries Ltd. evidencing the non-genuine nature of transactions. Finding of Hon'ble Allahabad High Court in WT No. 458/459 of 2015, wherein, it is held that, "the creditor companies are dubious entities laundering the money in the garb of LTCG/share capital/share premium/ unsecured loans." Thus, it is concluded that, genuineness of the transaction and credit capacity of the creditors are unsubstantiated and transaction of unsecured loans are non-genuine. Appellant, on the other hand has not placed any material before the undersigned to dislodged the finding recorded by the AO. Therefore, considering the totality of facts and circumstances of the case, it is concluded that, appellant has miserably failed to prove the credit capacity and genuineness of the transaction.

6.5 It is a settled preposition of law u/s. 68 of the IT Act that the initial burden of proof rest upon the appellant to establish the identity, credit capacity of the creditor and to establish the genuineness of transaction. For the sake of clarity provision of section 68 of the Act as amended read as under:

"68. Where any sum is found credited in the books of an assessee maintained for any previous year and the assessee offers no explanation about the nature and source thereof or the explanation offered by him is not, in the opinion of the Assessing Officer, satisfactory, the sum so credited may be charged to income-tax as the income of the assessee of that previous year:

"Provided that where the assessee is a company (not being a company in which the public are substantially interested), and the sum so credited consists of share application money, share capital, share premium or any such amount by whatever name called, any explanation offered by such assesseee-company shall be deemed to be not satisfactory, unless-

(a) the person, being a resident in whose name such credit is recorded in the books of such company also offers an explanation about the nature and source of such sum so credited; and

(b) such explanation in the opinion of the Assessing Officer aforesaid has been found to be satisfactory.

Provided further that nothing contained in the first proviso shall apply if the person in whose name the sum referred to therein is recorded, is a venture capital fund or a venture capital company as referred in clause (23 FB) of section 10."

The present facts of the case are squarely covered by the provisions of law mentioned here-in-above, wherein it was imperative for the appellant to prove the identity and creditworthiness of he creditors along with the genuineness of transaction. Examination of financial statements like balance sheet & Profit & loss account, as reproduced by AO in assessment order reveal that this alleged company is not carrying any genuine business activities and are disclosing meager profits for last 5 assessment years including the relevant assessment year under appeal. This fact is apparent from discussion in para-4, page 24 to 31 of the assessment order. In the instant case, appellant has miserably failed to prove genuineness of the transaction and creditworthiness of the creditors. Hence, addition made by Assessing Officer is perfectly justified.

6.9 On the issue of cross examination, undersigned is of the view that, the incriminating dairy/documents found from the search of Shri Subodh Agarwal and the statement of dummy directors of the alleged creditors companies M/s. Success Vyapar Ltd. were shown and confronted to the appellant. Hence, the principal of natural justice is followed by the AO. It is also seen from the assessment orders that, AO has tried his best to call the persons, copies of whose statements in favour of the revenue were given to the appellant. Further, Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the well-known Dhakeswari Cotton Mills (26 ITR 775 at 782) case, ruled that the Evidence Act may have no application to tax assessment proceedings. However, the court also clarified later, in Chuharmal vs CIT (172 ITR 250 at 255 SC), that when the taxing authorities are desirous of invoking the principles of the Evidence Act in proceedings before them, they are not prevented from doing so. All that is required is that whatever material they collect will have to be placed before the tax paying assessee if adverse inference is going to be drawn - audi alteram partem is a well-known principle of natural Justice. This principle is established by the judgment of the Supreme Court in Dhakeswari Cotton Mills Ltd. v. C.I.T. (26 ITR 775, 783), and applied by that court in Kishinchand Chellaram v, C.I.T. (125 I.T.R. 713), where An assessment based on the result of private inquiries conducted behind the back of the assessee was set aside because the evidence so gathered was not placed before the assessee. In Gunda Subbayya v. C.I.T. (7 I.TR. 21, 28), Leach CJ said:

"Information which the Income-Tax Officer has received may not always be accurate and it is only fair when he proposes to act on material which he has obtained from an outside source that he should give the assessee an opportunity of showing, if he can, that the Income-Tax Officer has been misinformed, but the Income-Tax obviously not bound to disclose the source of his information."

In the case of P. S. Barkathali v. Directorate of Enforcement, New Delhi AIR KER 81, the Hon'ble High Court observed as under:

"Even though the statement was subsequently retracted, the significance of admission in the first place cannot be under-mined. It is well established that mere bald retraction cannot take away the importance and evidentiary value of the original confession, specially in view of the fact that in this case, the deponent of the statement had provided the minute details relating to the transactions, It appears that the retraction statement was made purely to avoid clutches of law which had caught up with him and laid bare his nefarious activities."

Further, jurisdictional Hon'ble Allahabad High Court in the case of Moti Lal Padampat Udyog Ltd. Vs. CIT 293 ITR 656 has laid down the correct preposition of law of cross examination and held as follows:

"Right of cross-examination of persons from whom the Assessing Officer has collected the evidence is not required by law. The requirement of the statute for a valid assessment would be met if all the evidence collected which is to be used against the assessee while framing the assessment order is placed before the assessee and he is given opportunity to rebut the evidence."

Therefore it is concluded that, AO has followed the principle of natural justice by producing and confronting all the incriminating seized documents and statements recorded in favour of revenue to the appellant.

For A Y. 2012-13 & AY 2014-15 on account of Long/Short Term Capital Gain (LTCG/STCG):-

7.1 Ground no. 6 to 13 for A.Y. 2012-13 & ground no. 4 to 17 for A.Y. 2014-15 pertain to addition on account of Long/Short Term Capital Gain (LTCG/STCG). The details of various addition made by AO are depicted in tabular form mentioned here-in-under:

S. No	NAME & CODE OF THE SCRIP	A.Y	LTCG/LTCL (In Rs.)	STCG/STCL	Commission on LTCG (In Rs.)
1.	M/s. Nikki Global Finance Limited (531272)	2012-13	23,16,765/-		1,15,838/-
2.	M/s. Nikki Global Finance Ltd. (531272)	2014-15	1,71,08,122/-	-	8,55,406/-

It is seen that, the A.O. has recorded very elaborate finding about the scam of laundering money in the Garb of Long/Short Term Capital Gain (LTCG/STCG). It is noted by the A.O. that, the Pr. DIT (Inv.), Kolkata has conducted the elaborate investigation and enquiries in case of 84 Penny Stock's cases to conclude that the unaccounted money of the beneficiary were routed through certain stock brokers/ entry operators in the script of penny stock, to generate the illusionary facade of exempted income in the form of LTCG/STCG. Further, a search was conducted on M/s. Rich Udyog Group of Kanpur on 28.04.2015, which reveals that, Shri. Subodh Agarwal is acting as the entry provider in the scrip of M/s. Nikki Global Finance Ltd. It is also investigated that, the purchasers or the exit provider of such Penny Stock's do not have the credit capacity to purchase the shares. Thus, it was concluded by the A.O. that, the appellant has miserably failed to prove the genuineness of the transaction LTCG/STCG. Therefore, the credit entries in the form of LTCG are nothing but the unexplained credits u/s 68 of the Act.

7.2 On the other hand, ld. A.R. of the appellant has submitted detailed written submissions, which revolves around two points. Firstly, the sales of shares are supported by the contract notes issued by the brokers, hence, appellant has correctly claimed the exemption u/s 10(38) of the Act or paid lesser tax as STCG and secondly, opportunity of cross examination of the persons, whose statements were relied by AO, were not provided. Various case laws were also cited by the appellant in his favour. Therefore, it was submitted that, the addition made by the A.O. is unjustified and liable to be deleted.

7.3 The undersigned has carefully gone through the assessment order, written submission as well as verbal argument of the ld. A.R. of the appellant. Appellant is one of the entities belonging to Shri Santosh Agrawal & Goldiee group, who has obtained bogus entries of LTCG/STCG amounting to Rs 1,94,24,887/-. It is seen that share of M/s. Nikki Global Finance Ltd. was sold by appellant gaining astronomical LTCG of Rs.23,16,765/- & Rs.1,71,08,122/- for A.Y. 2012-13 & A.Y. 2014-15 respectively. Examination of financial statements like balance sheet & Profit & loss account, as reproduced by AO in assessment order reveal that this alleged company is not carrying any genuine business activities and are disclosing meager profits for last 5 assessment years including the relevant assessment year under appeal. This fact is apparent from discussion in para-4, page 24 to 31 of the assessment order. Astronomical increase in share price without any economic or financial prudence, shows, share price of alleged companies are rigged, manipulated and non-genuine. Thus, it is concluded that alleged shares are "penny stock."

7.4 Considering the totality the factual matrix of the case, as mentioned by A.O., following uncontroverted factual picture emerges:

(i) Investigation wing of Kolkata has carried out investigation in 84 scrips of Penny Stocks, which included scrips of M/s. Nikki Global Finance Ltd. from which, appellant and his group company has taken the entries of LTCG/STCG.

(ii) Investigation wing of the revenue at Kolkata had recorded statements of various share brokers, operators & beneficiaries, who has dealt with the scrip of M/s. Nikki Global Finance Ltd., as per below details:

Sl. No.	Name	Q. NO. IN WHICH THE CO. NAME IS MENTIONED	STATEMENT UNDER SECTION	STATEMENT DATE
SHARE BROKER
1	Soumen Sen	19	131	10.02.2015
2	Anil Kedia	15	131	15.06.2015
3	Nikhil Jain	23	131	02.06.2015
OPERATOR
1	Anil Kedia	15	131	15.06.2015

2	Nikhil Jain	23	131	02.06.2015
BENEFICIARY
1.	DEEPAK KUMAR AGARWAL	4,5,6,7,10,11,15,17,19	131	05.06.2015

in which, it was admitted by them that, in connivance with the promoters/broker of some listed companies, we trade in scrips of shares of these listed companies of promoters which are manipulated to artificially create either gain or loss to beneficiaries to whom entry of either long term capital gain or loss has to be provided. After holding these shares for some time, the clients sell such shares at either higher rates or very low rates. Such shares are bought from beneficiary clients. When party/beneficiary, come to us for having accommodation entry, we used to get/give cash from/to them which is collected from the promoters/brokers. For doing so, we get a commission income in cash from party.

iii) Appellant has not substantiated purchase of shares with cogent evidences including bank statement.

iv) Further, during the assessment proceeding, the AO very specifically analyzed the price movement of shares of these companies and found that contrary to the market trends (BSE, Sensex), rates of above said companies moved at unexpectedly high end. The AO in his assessment order has mentioned it elaborately. AO also analyzed the basis and frequency of rising share price in market trend but she found that there was no change in the basic fundamentals of the company's balance sheet nor any new business opportunities were with these companies and even no any new step towards any business expansion or any other idea was there, which may attract the public to purchase of shares of these companies. Further, the volume of shares traded for these companies was found very low. Apart from the above, AO also found that trading of this company was questioned by the BSE for the reason that SEBI found that these companies were indulged in manipulation of share market for providing accommodation entries of bogus LTCG/STCG. The same is elaborated by AO in his assessment order.

v) Hon'ble Allahabad High Court in WP No. 458/459 of 2015. Hon'ble Allahabad High Court after perusing the satisfaction note and all the seized material dismissed the writ petitions and concluded that "this group is involved in ''clandestine activity of taking cash and making dubious transactions in cheque thereby 'laundering the money."

vi) AO has elaborately discussed and demonstrated that, the higher quoted price of the Penny Stock's was the result of rigging of scrip through circular trading without any intrinsic value of the shares of such Penny stock's.

vii) Independent enquires of Stock Exchange of Board of India (SEBI) has confirmed that, such scheme of Penny Stock's is prevalent for converting black money into white.

viii. Numerous statements of the brokers/operators/ Directors of the papers companies/directors of penny stock companies have confessed and accepted in statements recorded on oath regarding the modus operandi adopted in the scam of bogus LTCG/STCG. The same is elaborated and reproduced by the AO in his assessment order.

ix) The exit provider or the entities, who has purchased the alleged shares are entities with unsubstantiated creditworthiness of genuineness of business activities. The same is elaborated by AO in his assessment order.

x) Many individuals/entities have admitted the bogus claim of LTCG/STCG without any enquiry by any authority and also withdrawn their claim by filing the revised returns there by accepting there wrong claim of exemption u/s 10(38) of the Act for LTCG or payment of lesser tax for STCG. This strengthens the case of revenue.

7.5 Thus, from the above detailed observations, it is evident that appellant was one of the beneficiary of such bogus Penny Stocks Scheme for converting his black money into white without the payment of taxes in the garb of bogus claim of exemption u/s 10(38) of the Act for LTCG or payment of lesser tax for STCG. Appellant purchased shares through off market trade and could not substantiate the purchases of shares. Appellant has nothing except the paper work of contract note to explain his case. It is settled preposition of law that, if an, exemption is claimed by the appellant then it is for the appellant to prove that, such claim is genuine. AO has dealt with at length to successfully establish that, the cheque received for the sale of penny stocks shares are part and parcel of scam of bogus Penny Stock. Also, AO. has discussed at length the methodology adopted by the appellant to artificially rigged the share price of Penny Stock through circular trading. The astronomical increase in share prices of the Penny Stock is against the proportional increase in share market and against the intrinsic value of the share at that relevant time. Various share broker/operator/director of paper entities/exit operator have accepted their wrong doing in the sworn statement recorded before statutory authorities, which is very relevant evidence against the appellant. Independent investigation conducted by investigation directorate, Kolkata and SEBI have corroborated the findings of A.O, regarding the scam of bogus claim of LTCG/STCG. A.O. has recorded the finding of fact that exit provider or the purchasers of Penny Stock at such astronomical prices are person without established credit capacity or creditworthiness. A.O. has also established the fact that exceptionally high share prices of Penny Stock are without any economic and financial basis. Therefore, in the present fact of the case, undersigned is of the view that, the claim of appellant is non-genuine, concocted bogus and fabricated....."

16. In "First Set' of appeals, the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal (ITAT), by common order dated 27.05.2021, has set aside the orders of the CIT(A) and allowed the appeals of the assessees, observing as under:-

"11. It is seen that assessment in these years stood concluded and Assessing Officer has not made additions on the basis of any incriminating material and therefore the additions sustained by the ld. CIT(A) are not sustainable and therefore, Ground No.2 in all these appeals is allowed.

12. We have allowed the appeals of the assessees on Ground No.2 only. The other grounds of appeal taken by the assessee were neither argued nor adjudicated and hence they are dismissed as infructuous."

17. On similar grounds, the ITAT allowed the appeals of the assessees in the "Second Set' of appeals.

18. The findings recorded by the Assessing Officer and the CIT(A) as evident from the relevant portion of the orders aforequoted, it is evident that findings on the point of incriminating materials and all other materials available on record were recorded by the Assessing Officer and the CIT(A) after due consideration of evidences on record and principles of natural justice were well followed. The findings of fact recorded by the Assessing Officer and the CIT(A) have not been set aside by the ITAT and merely following its earlier decision in another case, the appeals have been allowed assuming that there was no incriminating materials found in the search.

19. So far as the provisions of Section 153A of the Act, 1961 are concerned, we find that sub-Section (1) of Section 153A starts with the non-obstante clause providing for assessment or reassessment. Clause (a) of sub-Section (1) empowers the Assessing Officer to issue notice to such person requiring him to furnish the return of income within such period, as may be specified in the notice, in respect of each assessment year falling within six assessment years and for the relevant assessment year or years in the prescribed form and verified in the prescribed manner and setting forth such other particulars as may be prescribed and the provisions of this Act shall, so far as may be, apply accordingly as if such return were a return required to be furnished under Section 139. Clause (b) of sub-Section (1), empowers the Assessing Officer to assess or reassess the total income of six assessment years immediately preceding the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which such search is conducted or requisition is made and for the relevant assessment year or years, provided that the Assessing Officer shall assess or reassess the total income in respect of each assessment year falling within such six assessment years and for the relevant assessment year or years. The second proviso to clause (b) provides that assessment or reassessment or proceedings for any assessment year falling within the period of six assessment years or for the relevant assessment year or years pending on the date of initiation of the search under section 132 or making of requisition under section 132A, as the case may be, shall abate.

20. Undisputedly, the respondents-assessees filed return of income in response to the notice issued by the Assessing Officer under Section 153A(1) of the Act, 1961. Section 153A provides for assessment or reassessment. To avoid double proceedings, it has been provided by the second proviso to clause (b) of sub-Section (1) that assessment or reassessment proceedings relating to any assessment year falling within the period of six assessment years or for the relevant assessment year or years pending on the date of initiation of the search under section 132 or making of requisition under section 132A, as the case may be, shall abate. Section 153A(1) of the Act, 1961 does not require that assessment or reassessment under this section can be made only on the basis of incriminating materials found in the search.

21. Facts of the present case show that incriminating materials were available on record, which have been used to make assessment/ reassessment of the respondents-assessees. In the absence of any bar under Section 153A of the Act, 1961, it cannot be said that assessment or reassessment under Section 153A cannot be made if incriminating material itself has not been found in the search but is otherwise available on record or it has been brought on record during the course of investigation. Findings of fact recorded in the assessment order and in the order of the CIT(A) clearly reveal voluminous incriminating materials were not available in the hands of the Assessing Officer and on the basis of such incriminating materials, the Assessing Officer assessed the respondents-assessees under Section 153A of the Act, 1961. The incriminating materials found have been well discussed by the Assessing Officer in the assessment order and by the CIT(A) in the appellate order. Relevant portion of the order of CIT (A) has already been reproduced above and are not being referred here again so as to avoid repetition.

22. Findings of fact recorded in the assessment order and order of CIT (A), also clearly show that the incriminating materials relating to the respondents-assessees were available on record and were also found in the search/ investigation relating to certain other person.

23. Bare reading of Section 153A of the Act, 1961 reveals that it provides for assessment or reassessment of the total income and not merely computation of undisclosed income on the basis of evidence found as a result of search. Thus, for assessment or reassessment under Section 153A, it is not the mandatory requirement that assessment or reassessment has to be made only on the basis of incriminating materials found in the search. If Section 153A is interpreted in the matter that the assessment or reassessment can be made only on the basis of incriminating materials found in the search, it would mean that it is not assessment or reassessment of total income but it would be assessment or reassessment of merely undisclosed income on the basis of incriminating materials found in the search. Section 153A does not exclude assessment or reassessment on consideration of other incriminating materials including incriminating materials available on record. Therefore, when the language of Section 153A is plain and unambiguous, it cannot be given a restricted meaning. To do so, it would amount to legislation by court or authority under the Act, which is not permissible.

24. It is admitted case of the respondents - assessees that search under Section 132 of the Act, 1961 was conducted in their premises in November, 2015. Another search was conducted on 28.04.2015 on Nikki Global Finance Ltd. Searches were conducted on premises of certain other persons on 24.04.2014 and statement of one Sri Subodh Agarwal was also recorded who appeared to be the real operator of the Success Vyapar Ltd. through his employee Sri Rishikant Awasthi, a nominal Director. Neil Industries Ltd. was also found being run from the same premises at Kanpur. On the basis of certain incriminating materials found regarding accommodation entries, the proceedings under Section 153A of the Act, 1961 was initiated by the Assessing Officer. Bogus unsecured loans and bogus LTCG/ STCG were assessed in the hands of the respondents-assessees. Thus, it cannot be said that either no incriminating materiel was found or that no incriminating material was available on record against the respondents - assessees on the basis of which assessment orders under Section 153A of the Act, 1961 have been passed. Thus, findings recorded and conclusion drawn by the ITAT, cannot be sustained.

25. In the case of Commissioner of Income Tax vs. Raj Kumar Arora, (2014) 367 ITR 517 (Alld.), a Division Bench of this Court considered the question as to whether Assessing Officer has power to reassess income of an assessee not only for undisclosed income, which was found during the search operation but also with regard to the material that was available at the time of the original assessment and held as under:-

"8. Section 153A of the Act along with Section 153B and 153C replaced the "Post Search Block Assessment Scheme" in respect of any search under Section 132A or requisition under Section 132A made after 31.05.2003. CBDT explained these provisions through circular dated 5.9.2003, which is reported in (2003) 263 ITR (St) 62. The said circular is as under:

"65. The special procedure for assessment of search cases under Chapter XIV-B be abolished:

65.1 The existing provisions of the Chapter XIV-B provide for a single assessment of undisclosed income of a block period, which means the period comprising previous years relevant to six assessment years preceding the previous year in which the search was conducted and also includes the period up to the date of the commencement of such search, and lay down the manner in which such income is to be computed.

65.2 The Finance Act, 2003, has provided that the provisions of this Chapter shall not apply where a search is initiated under section 132, or books of account, other documents or any assets are requisitioned under section 132A after May 31, 2003, by inserting a new section 158BI in the Income-tax Act.

65.3 Further three new sections 153A, 153B and 153C have been inserted in the Income-tax Act to provide for assessment in case of search or making requisition.

65.4 The new section 153A provides the procedure for completion of assessment where a search is initiated under section 132 or books of account, or other documents or any assets are requisitioned under section 132A after May 31, 2003. In such cases, the Assessing Officer shall issue notice to such person requiring him to furnish, within such period as may be specified in the notice, return of income in respect of six assessment years immediately preceding the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which the search was conducted under section 132 or requisition was made under section 132A.

65.5 The Assessing Officer shall assess or reassess the total income of each of these six assessment years. Assessment or reassessment, if any, relating to any assessment year falling within the period of six assessment years pending on the date of initiation of the search under section 132 or requisition under section 132A, as the case may be, shall abate. It is clarified that the appeal, revision or rectification proceedings pending on the date of initiation of search under section 132 or requisition shall not abate. Save as otherwise provided in the proposed section 153A, section 153B and section 153C, all other provisions of this Act shall apply to the assessment or reassessment made under section 153A. It is also clarified that assessment or reassessment made under section 153A shall be subject to interest, penalty and prosecution, if applicable. In the assessment or reassessment made in respect of an assessment year under this section, the tax shall be chargeable at the rate or rates as applicable to such assessment year.

65.6 The new section 153B provides for the time limit for completion of search assessments. It provides that the Assessing Officer shall make an order of assessment or reassessment in respect of each assessment year, falling within six assessment years under section 153A within a period of two years from the end of the financial year in which the last of the authorisations for search under section 132 or for requisition under section 132A was executed.

65.7 This section also provides that assessment in respect of the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which the search is conducted under section 132 or requisition is made under section 132A shall be completed within a period of two years from the end of the financial year in which the last of the authorisations for search under section 132 or for requisition under section 132A, as the case may be, was executed.

65.8 It also provides that in computing the period of limitation for completion of such assessment or reassessment, the period during which the assessment proceeding is stayed by an order or injunction of any court ; or the period commencing from the day on which the Assessing Officer directs the assessee to get his accounts audited under sub-section (2A) of section 142 and ending on the day on which the assessee is required to furnish a report of such audit under that sub-section, or the time taken in reopening the whole or any part of the proceeding or giving an opportunity to the assessee of being re-heard under the proviso to section 129, or in a case where an application made before the Settlement Commission under section 245C is rejected by it or is not allowed to be proceeded with by it, the period commencing on the date on which such application is made and ending with the date on which the order under sub-section (1) of section 245D is received by the Commissioner under sub-section (2) of that section, shall be excluded. If, after the exclusion of the aforesaid period, the period of limitation available to the Assessing Officer for making an order of assessment or reassessment, as the case may be, is less than sixty days, such remaining period shall be extended to sixty days and the period of limitation shall be deemed to be extended accordingly.

65.9 The new section 153C provides that where an Assessing Officer is satisfied that any money, bullion, jewellery or other valuable article or thing or books of account or documents seized or requisitioned belong or belongs to a person other than the person referred to in section 153A, then the books of account, or documents or assets seized or requisitioned shall be handed over to the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over such other person and that Assessing Officer shall proceed against such other person and issue such other person notice and assess or reassess income of such other person in accordance with the provisions of section 153A.

65.10 An appeal against the order of assessment or reassessment under section 153A shall lie with the Commissioner of Income-tax (Appeals).

65.11 Consequential amendments have also been made in sections 132, 132B, 140A, 234A, 234B, 246A and 276CC to give reference to section 153A in these sections.

65.12 These amendments will take effect from June 1, 2003."

Earlier, Chapter XIV-B provided for assessment to be made in cases of search and seizure, which was known as Post Search Block Assessment Scheme because this Chapter provided for single assessment to be made in respect of a block period of 10 assessment years prior to the assessment in which the search was made. With the introduction of Section 153A to Section 153C of the Act, the single block assessment concept was given a go-by. Under Section 153A of the Act, in case where a search was initiated under Section 132 of the Act or requisition of books of account, documents or assets was made under Section 132A after 31.5.2003, the Assessing Officer was required to exercise the normal assessment powers in respect of the previous year in which the search took place. A perusal of Section 153A of the Act clearly indicates that it starts with a non obstante clause relating to normal assessment procedure which is covered by Sections 139, 147, 148, 149, 151 and 153 in respect of searches made after 31.5.2003.

9. Under Section 153A of the Act, the Assessing Officer is bound to issue notice to the assessee to furnish return for each assessment year falling within six assessment years immediately preceding the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which such search is conducted or requisition is made. The Assessing Officer is required to assess or reassess the total income of the aforesaid years.

10. Under the block assessment proceeding under Chapter XIV-B only the undisclosed income found during the search and seizure operation were required to be assessed and the regular assessment proceedings were preserved. The introduction of Section 153A of the Act provides a departure from this proceeding. Under Section 153A of the Act, the Assessing Officer has been given the power to assess or reassess the total income of the assessment years in question in separate assessment orders. Consequently, there would be only one assessment order in respect of six assessment years in which total disclosed or undisclosed income would be brought to tax. Consequently, even though an assessment order has been passed under Section 143(1) (a) or under Section 143(3) of the Act, the Assessing Officer would be required to reopen these proceedings and reassess the total income taking notice of undisclosed income even found during the search and seizure operation. The fetter imposed upon the Assessing Officer under Sections 147 and 148 of the Act have been removed by the non obstante clause under Section 153A of the Act.

Consequently, we are of the opinion that in cases where the assessment or reassessment proceedings have already been completed and assessment orders have been passed, which were subsisting when the search was made, the Assessing Officer would be competent to reopen the assessment proceeding already made and determine the total income of the assessee. The Assessing Officer, while exercising the power under Section 153A of the Act, would make assessment and compute the total income of the assessee including the undisclosed income, notwithstanding the assessee had filed the return before the date of search which stood processed under Section 143(1)(a) of the Act.

11. In the light of the aforesaid, the reasons given by the Tribunal that no material was found during the search cannot be sustained, since we have held that the Assessing Officer has the power to reassess the returns of the assessee not only for the undisclosed income, which was found during the search operation but also with regard to the material that was available at the time of the original assessment. We find that the Tribunal dismissed the appeal while relying upon the decision of a Coordinate Bench of the Tribunal in the case of Anil Kumar Bhatia Vs. ACIT (2010) 1 ITR (Trib.) 484 (Delhi). We find that the said decision of the Coordinate Bench of the Tribunal was set aside by the Delhi High Court in Commissioner of Income Tax Vs. Anil

Kumar Bhatia (2012) 24 taxmann.com 98 (Delhi). We find that the Tribunal only dismissed the appeal on this legal issue and had not considered the matter on merits."

26. In Income Tax Appeal No.270 of 2014 (Commissioner of Income Tax Central Kanpur vs. Kesarwani Zarda Bhandar Sahson Alld.) and other connected appeals, decided by Division of this Court on 06.09.2016, the substantial question of law involved was similar to those as involved in the present appeal and the Division Bench answered the questions as under:

*"8. Appeal was admitted on following substantial questions of law:

(1) Whether the Hon'ble Income Tax Appellate Tribunal had erred in law and on facts in setting aside the assessment completed under Section 153A of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and not following the decision of Hon'ble Jurisdictional High Court in the case of CIT Vs. Raj Kuamr in ITA No. 56 of 2011 wherein it is held that the Assessing Officer has the power to re-assess the returns of the assessee not only for the undisclosed income, which was found during the search operation but also with regard to the material that was available at the time of original asseessment.

(2) Whether in view of the law laid down by this Hon'ble Court in the case of CIT Vs. Raj Kumar (supra), the Assessing Officer would be competent to re-open the assessment proceedings already made and determine the total income of the assessee ; the Assessing Officer, while exercising the power under Section 153A of the Act, would make assessment and compute the total income of the assessee including the undisclosed income, notwithstanding the assessee had filed the return before the date of search which stood processed under Section 143(1)(a) of the Act ?

10. As is evident Section commenced with the words notwithstanding anything contained in Section 139, 147, 148, 149, 151 and 153, meaning thereby whatever has been provided in the aforesaid provisions that will not bar Assessing Officer in proceeding with the assessment or reassessment of total income for six assessment years, immediately preceding the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which such search is conducted or requisition is made. The word 'assess' or 'reassess' not only suggest but show that power under Section 153A includes reassessment and that would be done only when assessment has already been finalized. There is inherent hint in Section 153A and there is no reason to restrict its scope. Tribunal has relied on the decision of Special Bench of Mumbai Tribunal in All Cargo Global Logistics Ltd. Vs. DCIT, 147 TTJ 513 wherein it was held that no addition can be made for any assessment year under Section 153A, the assessment which, is not pending on the date of search, unless any incriminating material is found in the course of search. Tribunal has decided the issue in favour of Assessee and deleted all the additions made in assessment orders up for consideration in various appeal for Assessment Years 2004-05 to Assessment Year 2007-08.

11. We find that this issue has now been finalized by a Division Bench of this Court in Commissioner of Income Tax Vs. Raj Kumar Arora, (2014) 367 ITR 517 (All) wherein it has been held as under :-

"Consequently, even though an assessment order has been passed under Section 143(1) (a) or under Section 143(3) of the Act, the Assessing Officer would be required to reopen these proceedings and reassess the total income taking notice of undisclosed income even found during the search and seizure operation. The fetter imposed upon the Assessing Officer under Sections 147 and 148 of the Act have been removed by the non obstante clause under Section 153A of the Act.

Consequently, we are of the opinion that in cases where the assessment or reassessment proceedings have already been completed and assessment orders have been passed, which were subsisting when the search was made, the Assessing Officer would be competent to reopen the assessment proceeding already made and determine the total income of the assessee. The Assessing Officer, while exercising the power under Section 153A of the Act, would make assessment and compute the total income of the assessee including the undisclosed income, notwithstanding the assessee had filed the return before the date of search which stood processed under Section 143(1)(a) of the Act.

In the light of the aforesaid, the reasons given by the Tribunal that no material was found during the search cannot be sustained, since we have held that the Assessing Officer has the power to reassess the returns of the assessee not only for the undisclosed income, which was found during the search operation but also with regard to the material that was available at the time of the original assessment."

12. In view of above decision which squarely clinches both the substantial questions of law pressed in these appeals, we find no reason to take a different view and hence answer the above questions in favour of Revenue and against Assessee."

27. The aforesaid two Division Bench judgments in the case of Raj Kumar Arora (supra) and Kesarwani Zarda Bhandar (supra) being judgments of coordinate bench, are binding on this bench. That apart, on consideration of the provisions of Section 153A of the Act, 1961 and the findings of fact recorded by the Assessing Officer and the CIT (A), we find that the impugned orders of the Tribunal cannot be sustained and are, therefore, liable to be set aside.

28. For all the reasons aforestated, we answer the substantial question of law No.(i) in negative and the substantial question of law No.(ii) in affirmative, i.e. in favour of the Revenue and against the assessee.

29. For all the reasons aforestated, all the appeals filed by the Revenue are allowed following the law laid down by this Court in the case of Raj Kumar Arora (supra) and Kesarwani Zarda Bhandar (supra). The impugned orders of the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal are hereby set aside and all the appeals before the ITAT are restored to its original numbers. The ITAT is directed to decide the appeals afresh on merit in accordance with law, after affording reasonable opportunity of hearing to the parties, without being influenced by any of the observations made in the body of this order on merit.

Sale/Trade Tax Revision No. 124 of 2007
Connected with Sale/Trade Tax Revision Nos. 125 of 2007, 126 of 2007

Tax Law - U.P. Trade Tax Act, 1948 - Section 4(B) - The word 'consumable' in the said provision refers only to material which is utilized as an input in the manufacturing process namely 'raw material', 'component part', 'sub-assembly part' and ' intermediate part' etc. but is not identifiable in the final product by reason of the fact that it has got consumed therein. Consumption must be in the manufacture as raw material. In the present case it is noticed that paints are utilized only for maintenance of plants and machinery and are used as input in the manufacturing process of sugar and hence clearly there are not used in the manufacture of sugar and also not involved in making o any product and hence it cannot be said that they are consumable. Therefore, the revisionist was not entitled to purchase the same utilizing Form -3B

Revisions dismissed. (E-12)

List of Cases relied upon:-

1. Coastal Chemicals Ltd. Etc. Vs Commercial Tax Officer, A.P., (2000) 117 STC 12

2. Kisan Sahkari Chini Mills Vs Commissioner of Sales Tax, 2002 (125) STC 216 (Alld.)

3. Ballarpur Industries Ltd. Vs St. of Karn., (1978) 42 STC 401 (Kar)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pradeep Agarwal, learned counsel for the revisionist as well as Sri Rohit Nandan Shukla, learned counsel appearing for the opposite party.

2. The present revision has been preferred assailing the order of the Commercial Tax Tribunal (hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal") dated 07.07.2007, whereby by means of common judgment, the second appeals preferred by the revisionist pertaining to assessment years 1999-2000, 2000-2001 and 2001-2002, have been dismissed on common question of law arising for determination before the Tribunal.

3. Against the impugned judgment of the Tribunal dated 07.07.2007 three revisions have been preferred and considering that common question of law are involved, they are being disposed of by this common judgment.

4. Brief facts of the case are that the revisionist firm is registered dealer under the U.P. Trade Tax Act, 1948 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 1948") and is engaged in manufacture and sale of sugar. The revisionist had applied for grant of "recognition certificate" under Section 4-B of the Act, 1948 read with U.P. Trade Tax Rules, 1948 and was granted recognition certificate no. ST433, dated 28.07.1994. Further applications were made for adding certain goods and by means of order dated 16.12.1998, recognition certificate was amended and revisionist was entitled to purchase the goods on concessional rate of tax, which were to be utilized by him for manufacture of notified goods.

5. It is during course of assessment proceedings it came to the notice that revisionist had purchased 'paint' on concessional rate of tax at the rate 2.5% (normal rate of tax 15%) against Form-3B and hence he was put under notice asking him to reply as to why he has purchased Paint utilizing Form-3B, despite the fact that Paint is not a raw material used for manufacture of sugar and hence why should difference of tax of 12.5% be not realised from him.

6. The revisionist responded to the said notice and in his defence stated that he had purchased Paint as it was covered under the heading "Consumable Stores" for which he had duly applied and in the recognition certificate issued on 28.07.1994 the said article was indicated at item no. 1. It was further stated that items no. 4 of amended certificate dated 16.12.1999 "material for consumable stores".

7. The Assessing Authority rejected the explanation given by the revisionist and imposed penalty under Section 3(b) of the Act, 1948, holding that Paint is not a material which is utilized in the manufacture of sugar, but it is only used for maintenance of machinery and hence it is not covered under the definition of "consumable stores" and the revisionist was not eligible to purchase Paint against Form-3B on concessional rate of tax as it is not covered under the definition of "consumable stores".

8. Aggrieved by the aforesaid order dated 23.01.2020, the revisionist preferred first appeal before the Joint Commissioner (Appeals), Sitapur which was dismissed by means of order dated 16.07.2003, and subsequently, second appeal was preferred before the Tribunal and all the three appeals were dismissed by means of common judgment and order dated 07.07.2007, which is impugned in the present revisions.

9. The only question which arise for determination by this Court is "as to whether the revisionist was entitled to purchase 'paint' at concessional rate of tax under Section 3(b) of the Act, treating it to be "consumable store", which is utilized in the manufacture of sugar.

10. Learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that Paints are used to protect the plant and machinery as sugar juice is acidic in nature and sulphur-di-oxide is also used for clarification of sugar cane juice in the second stage of removal of colour which is also acidic in nature and corrodes the machinery and for prevention of which paints are necessary. He submits that in order to protect the plant and machinery, Paints are utilized and hence it cannot be said that they are not essential for manufacturing sugar and consequently revisionist is entitled to purchase Paints at concessional rate of tax utilizing Form-3B and submits that finding of the Assessing Authority, first Appellate Authority as well as the Tribunal are perverse, illegal and arbitrary and deserve to be interfered with by this Court in exercise of its revisional powers.

11. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submitted that similar controversy has also been determined by the Tribunal in the case of Commissioner of Commercial Tax Vs. Awadhesh Sugar Mills Ltd., Hargaon, by means of judgment passed in Appeal No. 307-2001, dated 01.01.2004, wherein the Tribunal held that Paints are included in the definition of "consumable store" and has set aside the penalty order while allowing the said appeal.

12. Sri Rohit Nandan Shukla, learned counsel appearing for the Revenue has supported the impugned judgment and order as well as the orders passed by the Assessing Authority as well as first Appellate Authority and has submitted that for manufacture of sugar 'paints' is not a raw material which is utilized for manufacture of sugar and hence revisionist has purchased the 'paints' utilizing Form-3B in clear violation of provisions of Section 4(b) of the Act and hence there is no infirmity in the orders passed by the authority below. He further submits that definition of "consumable store" was interpreted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Coastal Chemicals Ltd. Etc. Vs. Commercial Tax Officer, A.P., (2000) 117 STC 12, wherein the Court has held as follows :-

"The word 'consumables' in the said provision takes colour from and must be read in the light of the words that are its neighbours, namely, 'raw material', 'component part', 'sub-assembly part' and 'intermediate part' so read, it is clear that the word 'consumables' therein refers only to material which is utilized as an input in the manufacturing process but is not identifiable in the final product by reason of the fact that it has got consumed therein. It is for this reason that 'consumables' have been expressly referred to in the said provision, though they would fall within the broader scope of the words 'raw material'.

In the case of Thomas Stephen & Co., relied upon in the impugned judgment, it was held that cashew shells used as fuel did not get consumed in the manufacture of other goods and that "consumption must be in the manufacture as raw material".

To use the words of Thomas Stephen & Co. the natural gas used by the appellant does "not tend to the making of the end-product". it is not a 'consumable'."

13. The provisions of Section 4-B(2) of the Act, 1948 provide that "where a dealer requires any goods, referred to in sub-section (1) for use in the manufacture by him in the State, of any notified goods, or in the packing of such notified goods manufactured or processed by him, and such notified goods manufactured or processed by him, and such notified goods are intended to be sold by him in the State or in the course of inter-State trade or commerce or in the course of export out of India, he may apply to the assessing authority in such form and manner and within such period as may be prescribed, for the grant of a recognition certificate in respect thereof, and if the applicant satisfied such requirements including requirement of depositing lat fee, and conditions as may be prescribed, the assessing authority shall grant to him in respect of such goods a recognition certificate in such form and subject to such conditions, as may be prescribed."

14. The word 'goods' as mentioned above, have been defined in Explanation (a) to Section 4-B(2) of the Act, 1948 according to which :-

"Explanation.- For the purposes of this sub-section-

(a) 'goods required for use in the manufacture' shall mean raw materials, processing materials, machinery, plant, equipment, consumable stores, spare parts, acessories, components, sub-assemblies, fuels or lubricants;"

15. It is further provided in Section 4-B(5) of the Act, 1948 that :-

"(5) Where a dealer in whose favour a recognition certificate has been granted under sub-section (2) has purchased the goods after payment of tax at concessional rate under this section or, as the case may be, without payment of tax and has used such goods for a purpose other than that for which the recognition certificate was granted or has otherwise disposed of the said goods, such dealer shall be liable to pay as penalty such amount as the assessing authority may fix, which shall not be less than the difference between the amount of tax on the sale or purchase of such goods payable under this section and the amount of tax payable under any other provisions of this Act but not exceeding three times the amount of such difference."

16. The Apex Court in the case of Coastal Chemicals Ltd. Etc. (supra) has clearly stated that word 'consumables' refers only to material which are utilized as an input in the manufacturing process namely 'raw material', 'component part', 'sub-assembly part' and 'intermediate part' etc.

17. Applying the aforesaid definition to the facts of the present case, it is noticed that 'Paints' are not utilized either as raw material or processing material such as raw material, plant, machinery, equipments, spare parts, but as per the revisionist 'paints' are utilized only for maintenance of plant and machinery.

18. It is also clear that 'Paints' are not used as input in the manufacturing process of sugar and hence clearly they are not consumed in the process of manufacture of sugar and are also not involved in making of end product and hence it cannot be said that they are 'consumables'.

19. Similar controversy was determined by this Court in the case of Kisan Sahkari Chini Mills Vs. Commissioner of Sales Tax, 2002 (125) STC 216 (Alld.), where cement, steel and paints were sought to be included as goods which are directly involved in the manufacture of sugar. This Court relying upon the judgment of Ballarpur Industries Ltd. Vs. State of Karnataka, (1978) 42 STC 401 (Kar), wherein the Apex Court held as follows :-

"--- One of the valid tests, in our opinion, could be that the ingredient should be so essential for the chemical processes culminating in the emergence of the desired end-product, that having regard to its importance in and indispensability for the process, it could be said that its very consumption on burning up is its quality and value as raw material. In such a case, the relevant test is not its absence in the end-product, but the dependence of the end-product for its essential presence at the delivery end of the process. The ingredient goes into the making of the end-product in the sense that without its absence the presence of the end-product, as such, is rendered impossible. This equality coalesce with the requirement that its utilisation is in the manufacturing process as distinct from the manufacturing apparatus."

20. This Court in the case of The Kisan Sahkari Chini Mills Ltd. (supra), has observed as under :

"20. It is not the case of the applicant that the three items mentioned above are either raw material or consumables. On the other hand it is the specific case taken by the applicant that they fall under the description of the word "stores". The word "store" has not been defined under the Act or the Rules framed thereunder. In Webster's Third New International Dictionary of the English Language, Unabridged, 1971 Edition, the word "stores" has been defined as under:

"articles (as of food) accumulated or some specific object and issued or drawn upon as needed : the raw or unworked material supplies of a manufacturing concern."

21. Thus, the dictionary meaning of the word "stores" is material supplies of a manufacturing concern or articles accumulated for some specific object and issued or drawn upon as needed.

22. -------

23. Applying the aforementioned principles, I find that the cement which is required by the applicant for use in the construction of factory building and or foundation, as held by the honourable Supreme Court in the case of J.K. Cotton Spinning & Weaving Mills Co. Ltd. [1965] 16 STC 563 ; AIR 1965 SC 1310, which has been followed by the honourable Karnataka High Court in the case of Ballarpur Straw Board Mills Ltd. [1978] 42 STC 401 and this Court in the case of Sivalik Collulose Ltd. 1992 UPTC 1 cannot be said that it is used either directly or even remotely in the manufacture of finished goods. Similar is the case of steel and paints, which too is required only in the repairs of boiler and protection of machineries. They cannot be said to be used even indirectly in the manufacture or processing of goods for sale. Thus, all the three items would not fall under the description of the word "stores", which are used in the manufacture of finished goods."

21. The High Court rejected the contention of the revisionist and held that cement, steel and paints were included in the definition of "consumable stores".

22. The judgment of the Tribunal in the case of Awadh Sugar Mills Hargaon (supra) is firstly distinguishable on the facts inasmuch as interpretation of 'Industrial Paints" is distinguished from 'Paints' which is sought to be included as "Consumable Stores" by the revisionist and secondly, in the said judgment there is no discussion as to whether "Industrial Paints" are utilized in the manufacture of sugar and the revision has been allowed only on the ground that recognition certificate was granted to the revisionist therein.

23. The aforesaid judgment of Tribunal, in out considered view does not lay down the law correctly and we do not approve of the said decision.

24. This Court is of the considered view that "Paints" are not utilized either as raw material utilized for manufacture of sugar nor is so closely connected with the manufacturing process so as to be included as "consumable stores" and therefore the revisionist was not entitled to purchase the same utilizing Form - 3B, and we do not find any infirmity in the judgment of the Tribunal and hence the revisions are dismissed.

24. The question of law is answered in favour of Revenue and against the revisionist.

SALE/TRADE Tax Revision No. 163 of 2007

M/S Suresh & Co. ...Revisionist
Versus
Commissioner of Trade Tax ...Opp. Party

Counsel for the Revisionist:
P. Agarwal

Counsel for the Opp. Party:
C.S.C.

A. Tax Law - U.P. Trade Tax Act 1948 - Section 11 - Merely because the said transaction is reflected in the books of account of one party, does raise a presumption about participation of the other party in the said transaction, but solely on the basis of said entry, without any other supporting material in form of documents, independent material evidencing the said transaction, books of account of the other party, an assesse cannot be saddled with tax liability merely on the basis of presumption.

Revision allowed. (E-12)

List of Cases relied upon:-

Om Prakash Sharma Vs Commissioner of Trade Tax, 2009 UPTC 578

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pradeep Agrawal, learned counsel for the revisionist as well as Sri Rohit Nandan Shukla, learned counsel appearing for the revenue.

2. Present revision under Section 11 of the U.P. Trade Tax Act, 1948, has been preferred against order dated 27.07.2007, passed by the Trade Tax Tribunal, Bench 2, Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal") in Appeal No. 367 of 1993 for the assessment year 1984-85. Following questions of law are involved in the present revision :

I. Whether the Tribunal was justified in merely interpreting the facts in a different manner and holding that the revisionist is liable to be taxed with regard to a transaction which was recorded in the books of account of third party despite the fact that no co-relation between the third party and the revisionist could be established for the said transaction.

II. Whether the Tribunal was justified to assess the revisionist with regard to a transaction found in the books of account of a third party despite the specific finding that third party has been using the name of different parties to carry on business out of books of account for which he has been assessed on best judgment basis.

3. Facts in brief of this case are that revisionist is involved in sale and purchase of 'supari' and during course of business same was purchased from M/s Campco Ltd., Kanpur. In the assessment year 1984-85, in the books of account of M/s Campco Ltd., it is shown that revisionist has purchased 'supari' for an amount of Rs.16,70,552.25, while in the books of account of revisionist 'supari' worth Rs.8,44,552.50 is entered, but there was no entry relating to sale of remaining 'supari' worth Rs.8,25,999.75. It is stated that consignment of 'supari' worth Rs.8,25,999.75 was brought thorough Railways and was not entered into the books of account of the revisionist and the assessing officer assessed the revisionist and raised demand on the aforesaid amount, treating it to have been purchased by the revisionist.

4. The revisionist filed appeal against the aforesaid assessment before the first appellate authority, who after scrutinizing the accounts of revisionist and M/s Campco Ltd., came to the conclusion that there was no material which can relate the transaction of sale of 'supari' to the revisionist. The first appellate authority further recorded that it is the onus of the assessing authority to prove that a purchase has been made and therefore the assessing authority should obtain the necessary evidence against the assessee and if it is found that the assessee had made payment or any other evidence is found against the assessee then only the said transaction shall be liable to tax otherwise not.

5. It was assumed by the assessing authority that the revisionist had paid for the said transaction in cash holding that said portion of sale cannot be shown from the books of account of the revisionist. The first appellate authority came to the conclusion that there was no material or evidence from which it can be ascertained that the revisionist was involved in purchase of said 'supari' and allowed the appeal of the revisionist.

6. The order of first appellate authority was challenged by the revenue before the Tribunal and in the first round the matter was remanded back to the first appellate authority for re-consideration. After remand of the matter, the first appellate authority again came to same conclusion and passed order in favour of assessee-revisionist.

7. By means of impugned judgment and order, the Tribunal has recorded finding that books of account of M/s Campco Ltd. clearly indicate that said transaction relate to revisionist-assessee and only on the basis of books of account of M/s Campco Ltd., allowed the appeal of the revenue, attributing the said transaction to the assessee-revisionist and upheld the assessment order passed in the present case.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionist while assailing the order of Trade Tax Tribunal dated 27.07.2007, submits that perusal of the record would indicate that no evidence much less credible evidence was available relating to the purchase of 'supari' by the assessee and consequently the order of Tribunal is without any basis or application of mind and there is no material available on record which can relate the revisionist to the said purchase of 'supari', hence said assessment cannot be made by the assessing authority.

9. While replying to the contentions of the assessee-revisionist, the Tribunal has recorded that there was regular and continuous transaction of purchase of 'supari from M/s Campco Ltd. by the assessee, the consignment of 'supari' was sent from the Banglore to Kanpur. The Tribunal assumed that after paying cash to M/s Campco Ltd. the assessed had obtained benami and fake possession of the said transaction and consequently the assessee never demonstrated the said entry in his books of account, but from the books of account of M/s Campco Ltd., it is established that it is the assessee-revisionist who is the person who has purchased the said goods and hence there was no infirmity with the order of assessing authority.

10. Learned counsel for the revenue has defended the judgment of the Tribunal. He has submitted that there were ample evidence in the form of number of transactions between the assessee-revisionist and M/s Campco Ltd., to come to the conclusion that it is the revisionist who has purchased 'supari' worth Rs.8,44,552.50, which goods were brought against Form-31, which indicates that purchase was made by the revisionist. The said transaction was also recorded in the books of account of revisionist and therefore, there is no infirmity with the order of the Tribunal.

11. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

12. From the perusal of order passed by the assessing authority, first appellate authority as well as the Tribunal, it is clear that there is no entry in the books of account of the revisionist with regard to the said transaction worth Rs.8,44,552.50. Even if it is believed, that the revisionist had paid in cash for purchase of said 'supari', then also there is no material which can indicate that the revisionist had tendered the said amount in cash. It is only on the basis of presumption that the said transaction has been taxed by the revenue.

13. It is noted that the revenue has relied only on the books of account of M/s Campco Ltd., wherein the said transaction has been shown in favour of the revisionist. It is also noticed that the first appellate authority has noted that it was habit of M/s Campco Ltd. to maintain fake entries of sale, and merely on the basis of the said entry appearing in the books of account of M/s Campco Ltd., it cannot be said that it is the revisionist who had purchased the said 'supari'.

14. Be that as it may, there is no evidence or material available on record which can link the said transaction to the revisionist. In this regard learned counsel for the revisionist has relied upon the judgment of this Court in the case of Om Prakash Sharma Vs. Commissioner of Trade Tax, 2009 UPTC 578, wherein this Court in para 7 has held as under :

"7. The fundamental defect in the three orders of the authorities below is that there is no cogent and positive evidence on the record of the Department to show that it is the dealer-applicant, who carried on any business of sale or purchase of silver ornaments by receiving those parcel. The authorities below have sought to tax the dealer-applicant on the basis of presumptions and assumptions. Suspicion, howsoever strong may be, cannot be relied upon. The applicant-dealer is not a registered dealer under the Act and the burden lay on the shoulders of the Department to prove on the basis of the relevant and cogent material that the applicant is a dealer whose turnover is above the exemption limit as prescribed under the Act."

15. Merely because he said transaction is reflected in the books of account of one party, does raise a presumption about participation of the other party in the said transaction, but solely on the basis of said entry, without any other supporting material in form of documents, independent material evidencing the said transaction, books of account of the other party, an assessee cannot be saddled with tax liability merely on the basis of presumption.

16. Considering the aforesaid this Court is of the considered view that there was no material either in the books of account or any other material which can link the said sale of 'supari' to the revisionist and consequently, this Court do not find any infirmity in the findings recorded by the first appellate authority and the Tribunal has come to a erroneous conclusion only on the basis of entries in the books of account of M/s Campco Ltd., Kanpur.

17. In the light of above, revision is allowed. Judgment and order of Tribunal dated 27.07.2007, is hereby set aside. The questions of law are decided in favour of revisionist and against the revenue.

THE HON'BLE UMESH CHANDRA SHARMA, J.

Jail Appeal No. 75 of 2021

Sonu Kanoujia ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellant:

From Jail, Ms. Beena Mishra

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
A.G.A.

Criminal Law- Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 376 - POCSO Act, 2012 - Section 5 (f), (m)/6- Section 29 - Section 30- In the cases of POCSO Act, the burden of proof lies on the accused and there is no presumption of innocence of the accused- However, the presumption, under Section 30 of the Act, as to the existence of motive, intention, knowledge etc., can be rebutted by an accused. It may be noticed that under Section 30 (2) of the Act a fact must be proved, like in all criminal prosecutions, beyond reasonable doubt.

In offences under the POCSO Act although there is no presumption of the innocence in favour of the accused but the same is rebuttable.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Sections 3 , 118 & 145- The Oaths Act, 1969- Proviso to Section 4(1) - Sec. 7- The prosecutrix, P.W. - 3 shall be treated to be an injured witness-The evidence of the injured prosecutrix, P.W. - 3, also finds support from the medical report and evidence of P.W.-4, Dr. Deepa Tyagi-The evidence of the prosecutrix is wholly reliable, trustworthy and admissible in evidence which alone proves the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt-

Settled law that the prosecutrix stands on the same footing as an injured witness and where her testimony is consistent and cogent, the same corroborated by other materials, then it is sufficient to bring home the guilt of the accused.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 154- First Information Report- Delay in lodging if fatal-Delay of two days in lodging the first information report-In this case, there is an allegation of sexual assault upon a girl child. In the event of a sexual offence with a woman or a girl child of a family, before lodging a first information report the family thinks twice before taking any action. So the delay in lodging the first information report was very normal.

Delay in lodging of FIR in cases of sexual assault cannot be held to be fatal since there is a natural hesitancy in reporting the occurrence due to social factors.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 376 , POCSO Act, 2012 - Section 5 (f), (m)/6- Conviction under- Quantum of Punishment- Since the case of the accused -Appellant is covered by Section 376 (2) where, the minimum imprisonment of 10 years has been provided, therefore, the Court is of the opinion that considering the conditions that the accused-appellant is the sole bread earner of his family and he is a young man, having no previous criminal antecedents, there is possibility of reform and therefore, it would be appropriate that punishment be reduced and a minimum punishment be awarded to the accused-appellant-Under Section 376 IPC, punishment with rigorous imprisonment for a term not less than 10 years and a fine of Rs. 5,000/- and under Section 6 of the POCSO Act, a punishment with rigorous imprisonment for a term of 10 years and a fine of Rs. 5,000/- would be sufficient to meet the ends of justice.

As the reformative theory of punishment has been adopted in India, hence in view of the mitigating factors involved, the quantum of punishment is reduced to the minimum prescribed under Section 376 and Section 6 of the POCSO Act. (Para 10, 12, 15, 16, 18, 19, 22, 23, 34, 45, 47, 49, 54)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Umesh Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. We have heard Ms. Beena Mishra, the Amicus Curiae for the appellant and Sri Nagendra Kumar Srivastava the learned AGA for the State.

2. This jail appeal arises out of a judgment and order dated 21.12.2020 passed by the Special Judge POCSO Act/Additional District & Sessions Judge, Ghaziabad in Sessions Trial No.121 of 2015 (State of UP vs. Sonu Kanaujiya), arising out of Crime No.119 of 2015, Police Station Indirapuram, District Ghaziabad, convicting the appellant under Section 376 of IPC and Section 5 (f), (m)/6 of POCSO Act, 2012 and sentencing him to undergo imprisonment for life under Section 5 (f) (m)/6 of the POCSO Act, 2012, with a fine of Rs.1,00,000/- and, in default thereof, he was to undergo one year's additional simple sentence.

3. As per prosecution case, on 31.1.2015, FIR (Ex.Ka.1) was lodged by Satya Narayan Sharma, grandfather of the prosecutrix, alleging in it that the prosecutrix was studying in Paradise Play School, 120 Sector-1, Vaishali and on 31.1.2015, she informed him that she was feeling pain in her private part because of the fact that on 29.1.2015, accused appellant had inserted his finger in her private as a result of which, she had bled. The prosecutrix was immediately taken to Doctor, who had informed him that some foul play had been played with her private part. On the basis of this report, FIR under Sections 376 of IPC and Sections 3 & 4 of the POCSO Act, was registered against the accused appellant.

4. While framing charge, the trial Judge had framed charges against the appellant under Section 376 of IPC and Section 5 (f)&(m) & Section 6 of POCSO Act. Section 376 of IPC and Section 5(f)&(m) & 6 of the POCSO Act are being reproduced here as under:-

376. Punishment for rape:- (1) Whoever, except in the cases provided for in sub-section (2), commits rape, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than ten years, but which may extend to imprisonment for life, and shall also be liable to fine.

(2) Whoever,-

(a) being a police officer, commits rape -

(i) within the limits of the police station to which such police officer is appointed; or

(ii) in the premises of any station house; or

(iii) on a women in such police officer's custody or in the custody of a police officer subordinate to such police officer; or

(b) being a public servant, commits rape on a woman in such public servant's custody or in the custody of a public servant subordinate to such public servant; or

(c) being a member of the armed forces deployed in area by the Central or a State Government commits rape in such area; or

(d) being on the management or on the staff of a jail, remand home or other place of custody established by or under any law for the time being in force or of a women's or children's institution, commits rape on any inmate of such jail, remand home, place or institution; or

(e) being on the management or on the staff of a hospital, commits rape on a woman in that hospital; or

(f) being a relative, guardian or teacher of, or a person in a position of trust or authority towards the woman, commits rape on such woman;or

(g) commits rape during communal or sectarian violence; or

(h) commits rape on a woman knowing her to be pregnant; or

(j) commits rape, on a woman incapable of giving consent; or

(k) being in a position of control or dominance over a woman, commits rape on such woman; or

(l) commits rape on a woman suffering from mental or physical disability; or

(m) while committing rape causes grievous bodily harm or maims or disfigures or endangers the life of a woman; or

(n) commits rape repeatedly on the same woman;

shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than ten years, but which may extend to imprisonment for life, which shall mean imprisonment for the remainder of that person's natural life, and shall also be liable to fine.

Section 5 (f) & (m) & Section 6 of POCSO Act:-

5. (f):- whoever being on the management or staff of an educational institution or religious institution, commits penetrative sexual assault on a child in that institution.

5. (m):- whoever commits penetrative sexual assault on a child below twelve years;

6. Punishment for aggravated penetrative sexual assault.-- (1) Whoever commits aggravated penetrative sexual assault shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than twenty years, but which may extend to imprisonment for life, which shall mean imprisonment for the remainder of natural life of that person and shall also be liable to fine, or with death.

(2) The fine imposed under sub-section (1) shall be just and reasonable and paid to the victim to meet the medical expenses and rehabilitation of such victim.

5. So as to hold the accused appellant guilty, prosecution had examined six witnesses. No defence witness had been examined by the accused appellant. Statement of the accused appellant was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in which, he had pleaded his innocence and had stated that there was false implication.

6. By the impugned judgment, the trial Judge had convicted the accused appellant under Section 376 of IPC and Section 5 (f) & (m) & 6 of POCSO Act and sentenced him, as mentioned in paragraph no.1 of this judgment. Hence, this appeal.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant submits:

(i) that the prosecutrix (PW-3) being a child witness, was not trustworthy and her statement does not inspire confidence;

(ii) that the accused appellant had been falsely implicated at the instance of her father, who looks after the News work;

(iii) that the medical report of the prosecutrix did not fully support the prosecution case;

(iv) that the accused appellant was alleged to have inserted his finger in the private part of the prosecutrix and his act is not that serious where he should have been punished with the excessive punishment which had been given by the Trial Court;

(v) that the accused appellant is a young man, aged about 24 years and, if even assuming that out of anxiety, he committed the offence, he deserved sympathetic treatment and the sentence awarded to him being excessive be reduced; and

(vi) that there is two days' delay in lodging the FIR and the said delay had not been explained by the prosecution.

8. On the other hand, supporting the impugned judgment, it has been argued by learned State Counsel that the conviction of the appellant was in accordance with law and there was no infirmity in the same. He submits that inserting of finger by a man in the private part of a girl amounts to commission of offence and it is not necessary that a private part of a man had to be inserted in the private part of a girl to constitute the offence. He further submits that the accused appellant is a mature person, aged about 24 years, and for the act which he had committed, he did not deserve any sympathy.

9. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

10. First of all, it would be appropriate to make it clear that in the cases of POCSO Act, the burden of proof lies on the accused and there is no presumption of innocence of the accused.

11. Section 29 of the POCSO Act:- Presumption as to certain offences: - When a person is prosecuted for committing an offence of sexual assault under Section 3, 5, 7 and 9 of this Act, against a minor, the special court trying the case shall presume the accused to be guilty.

12. There shall be presumption of guilt on the part of the accused if he is prosecuted for committing, abetting or attempting offences under Section 3, 5, 7 & 9 of the Act.

13. Section 30 of the POCSO Act:- Presumption of culpable mental state:- (1) In any prosecution for any offence under this Act which requires a culpable mental state on the part of the accused, the Special Court shall presume the existence of such mental state but it shall be a defence for the accused to prove the fact that he had no such mental state with respect to the act charged as an offence in that prosecution.

(2) For the purposes of this section, a fact is said to be proved only when the Special Court believes it to exist beyond reasonable doubt and not merely when its existence is established by a preponderance of probability.

Explanation.-In this section, "culpable mental state" includes intention, motive, knowledge of a fact and the belief in, or reason to believe, a fact.

14. The Supreme Court held (in State of Maharashtra vs. Mayer Hans George AIR 1965 SC 722) that the legislature can legislate an offence without an ingredient of mens rea and the requirement of actual knowledge/mens rea that the act is in contravention of law can be done away with in respect of an offence.

15. However, the presumption, under Section 30 of the Act, as to the existence of motive, intention, knowledge etc., can be rebutted by an accused. It may be noticed that under Section 30 (2) of the Act a fact must be proved, like in all criminal prosecutions, beyond reasonable doubt.

16. This Court is deciding the appeal keeping in mind the aspects of Sections 29 & 30 of the POCSO Act that firstly primary burden of proof had to be discharged by the prosecution.

17. Prosecutrix (PW-3), in her Court statement, has stated that at the relevant time she was studying in Renainsa Public School, Sector-1, Vaishali and on the date of incident, she was subjected to bad work. She has clarified as to what is the meaning of 'bad work'/habit'. She has further stated that in the Court, one is supposed to narrate truth. After recording satisfaction about the mental knowledge and strength of the prosecutrix, her statement was recorded by the learned Trial Judge. She has stated that the accused appellant was working in the same School, where she was studying; he took her on the rooftop of the School; removed her underwear and inserted his finger in her private part as a result of which, she felt pain and the blood started oozing out from her private part. After reaching home, she narrated the entire incident to her mother and her mother and aunt took her to the Doctor and then, she had gone to Police Station. She has further clarified as to the manner in which the entire incident had occurred. In the Court, she had identified the accused appellant by saying that he was the same person, who took her to the rooftop of the School, had removed her underwear and had committed the bad work with her. When she was confronted with her statement under Section 164 of Cr.P.C., she had made the same statement before the Court.

18. In the cross examination, she was confronted by the defence regarding her mental status and she answered all the questions in a proper manner. No question had been put to the prosecutrix regarding commission of offence with her and she was subjected to cross-examination by putting various unnecessary questions. No proper evidence had been adduced by the defence. Prosecutrix has reiterated that on the pretext of offering Chocolate to her, she was taken to the rooftop of the School and she was alone there. She had further reiterated that she had gone to the Doctor for her medical examination.

19. In our view, the prosecutrix, P.W. - 3 shall be treated to be an injured witness. In several cases (some of them mentioned below), the hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that "deposition of an injured witness should be relied upon unless there are strong grounds for rejection of his/her evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies." (State of Haryana vs. Krishan reported in AIR 2017 SC 3125, Mukesh vs. State for NCT of Delhi & Others reported in AIR 2017 SC 2161(three judges Bench), Bhagwan Jagannath Markad vs. State of Maharashtra reported in 2016 (10) SCC 537, Veer Singh vs. State of U.P. reported in 2014 (2) SCC 455, Shyam Babu vs. State of U.P. reported in AIR 2012 SC 3311, Mano Dutt & another vs. State of U.P. reported in 2012 (77) ACC 209 (SC), Mohammad Mian vs. State of U.P. reported in 2011 (72) ACC 441 (SC), Abdul Sayeed vs. State of M.P. reported in 2010 (10) SCC 259, Balraje vs. State of Maharashtra reported in 2010 (6) SCC 673 and Jarnail Singh vs. State of Punjab reported in 2009 (6) Supreme 526.)

20. In this case, the evidence of the injured prosecutrix, P.W. - 3, also finds support from the medical report and evidence of P.W.-4, Dr. Deepa Tyagi. Regarding the objection about the child witness not being mature enough to be testify the following citations and provisions are important and they are relied on:-

A. Testimony of child witness not to be rejected unless found unreliable & tutored: (Sec. 118, Evidence Act): The testimony of a child witness cannot be rejected unless found unreliable & tutored (Gul Singh vs. State of M.P., reported in 2015 (88) ACC 358 (SC).

B. Oath to child witness: Proviso to Section 4(1) of the Oaths Act, 1969 reads as under ----- "provided that, where the witness is a child under twelve years of age, and the Court or person having authority to examine such witness is of the opinion that, though the witness understands the duty of speaking the truth, he does not understand the nature of an oath or affirmation, the foregoing provisions of this section and the provisions of Section 5 shall not apply to such witness; but in any such case the absence of an oath or affirmation shall not render inadmissible any evidence given by such witness nor affect the obligation of the witness to state the truth."

C. Omission to administer oath (Sec. 7 of the Oaths Act, 1969): reads as under: - "No omissions to take any oath or make any affirmation, no substitution of any one for any other of them, and no irregularity whatever in the administration of any oath or affirmation or in the form in which it is administered, shall invalidate any proceeding or render inadmissible any evidence whatever, in or in respect of which such omission, substitution or irregularity took place, or shall affect the obligation of a witness to state the truth."

D. Child witness when not understanding the meaning of oath: It has been laid down by the Supreme Court that there is no legal bar against relying on the testimony of a child witness to whom oath could not be administered due to her incapacity to understand the meaning of oath. (see: Paras Ram vs. State of H.P., 2001 (1) JIC 282 (SC).

E. Corroboration of testimony of child witness not required if credible: Conviction on the basis of testimony of a child witness is permissible if evidence of such child witness is credible, truthful and corroborated. Corroboration is not must. It is under rule of prudence. (See: 2013 CrLJ 2658 (SC).

21. In this case, the testimony of the P.W.-3, the prosecutrix, is supported and corroborated with the evidence of P.W. - 1 Satya Narain Sharma, the grandfather, the P.W. - 2 Smt. Arti Sharma the mother, the P.W. - 4, Dr. Deepa Tyagi and formal witnesses P.W. -5 & P.W.6 and the Medical Report.

22. Thus, it is concluded that the evidence of the prosecutrix is wholly reliable, trustworthy and admissible in evidence which alone proves the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

23. From the above evidence, it is also proved that the accused put finger into the vagina of the prosecutrix and not his penis. However, only fingering into the private part of a girl or woman unnecessarily with evil motive is sufficient to prove the charge under Section 376 (3) IPC and Sections 5 (f)&(m) and 6 of the POCSO Act.

24. It was observed by the Supreme Court in Suryanarayan vs. State of Karnataka (2001) 9 SCC 129 that : (the witness) who at the time of occurrence was about four years of age, is the only solitary eye-witness who was rightly not given the oath. The time and place of the occurrence and the attending circumstances of the case suggest no possibility of there being any other person as an eye-witness.

25. The evidence of the child witness cannot be rejected per se, but the Court, as a rule of prudence, is required to consider such evidence with close scrutiny and only on being convinced about the quality of the statements and its reliability, base conviction by accepting the statement of the child witness. "if she is shown to have stood the test of cross-examination and there is no infirmity in her evidence, the prosecution can rightly claim a conviction based upon her testimony alone.

Corroboration of the testimony of a child witness is not a rule but a measure of caution and prudence. Some discrepancies in the statement of a child witness cannot be made the basis for discarding the testimony. Discrepancies in the deposition, if not in material particulars, would lend credence to the testimony of a child witness who, under the normal circumstances, would like to mix up what the witness saw with what he or she is likely to imagine to have seen. While appreciating the evidence of the child witness, the Courts are required to rule out the possibility of the child being tutored. In the absence of any allegation regarding tutoring or using the child witness for ulterior purposes of the prosecution, the Courts have no option but to rely upon the confidence inspiring testimony of such witness for the purposes of holding the accused guilty or not."

26. Dr. Deepa Tyagi (PW-4) has medically examined the prosecutrix, vide Ex.Ka.3 (Medico Legal Examination Report) and Ex.Ka.5 (Supplementary Medico Legal Report). She states that she noticed injuries on the outer private part of the prosecutrix.

27. In the cross examination, this witness has reiterated her statement that she noticed injuries on the private part of the prosecutrix. Though she has stated that she had not medically examined the internal portion of the private part of the prosecutrix, but no further question has been put to this witness. Even question to the effect that the prosecutrix might have sustained such injuries because of some other activities had not been put to this witness.

28. Satya Narayan Sharma (PW-1) is the grandfather of the prosecutrix who lodged the FIR. While supporting the prosecution case, he has stated that the prosecutrix made a complaint to her mother about the pain felt by her in her private part and she also narrated to her mother that it was the accused appellant, who had inserted his finger in her private part. While supporting the FIR, he has categorically stated that on 31.1.2015, he had lodged the report.

29. Smt. Arti Sharma (PW-2) is the mother of the prosecutrix. While supporting the prosecution case, she had stated that after returning home from School, the prosecutrix had informed her about the act/offence committed by the accused appellant and she had noticed blood on the underwear of the prosecutrix. She has described the manner in which the entire incident was narrated to her by the prosecutrix.

30. In the cross-examination, this witness remained firm and nothing could be elicited from her.

31. Vijay Kumar and Vimal Kumar (PW-5 and PW-6) are the Investigating Officers and have duly supported the prosecution case.

32. In the statement under Section 313 of Cr.P.C., all the relevant questions were put to the accused, which have been answered by him.

33. The appellant's counsel has also argued that there is a delay of two days in lodging the first information report, therefore, he submits it could be said that the alleged occurrence and FIR were the result of some conspiracy and were not correct and they were a result of some afterthought.

34. In this case, there is an allegation of sexual assault upon a girl child. In the event of a sexual offence with a woman or a girl child of a family, before lodging a first information report the family thinks twice before taking any action. So the delay in lodging the first information report was very normal.

35. Considering these circumstances, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of State of U.P. vs. Manoj Kumar Pandey reported in AIR 2009 SC 711 (three judge Bench) and Santosh Moolya vs. State of Karnataka reported in 2010 (5) SCC 445 held that the normal rule that prosecution has to always explain the delay does not apply to rape cases.

36. Thus, the argument of the appellant-accused regarding two days' delay in lodging the FIR is hereby rejected.

37. Close scrutiny of the evidence makes it clear that on 29.1.2015, prosecutrix was subjected to rape by the accused appellant and the prosecutrix immediately reported the entire incident to her mother.

38. We find no substance in the argument of the defence that the statement of the prosecutrix does not inspire confidence of the Court. Prosecutrix is a small girl; at the time of incident, she was four and half years old and even at the time of recording evidence, she was just about seven years old, but she has answered all the questions in a proper manner. She appears to be a fully trustworthy witness and there is no reason for this Court to disbelieve her statements. Furthermore, there is no contrary evidence available on record to suggest that the accused appellant has been falsely implicated. In this regard, the argument advanced by the accused side is found baseless. No such evidence has been brought on record by the defence. Even in the cross-examination of the prosecutrix, she was not subjected to answer any such question which may be of any help to the defence. In the examination-in-chief, she has reiterated as to the manner in which she was subjected to wrong act by the appellant and no such cross question has been put to her in the cross-examination. Statement of the prosecutrix duly finds support from the statement of the Doctor (PW-4) who had noticed injuries on her private part. Here also, no such question was put to the Doctor about the statement of the prosecutrix or the medical examination of the prosecutrix. Even assuming that the internal examination of the prosecutrix has not been done by the Doctor, it hardly makes any difference once the Doctor herself found injuries on her private part. The other relevant witnesses, i.e. PW-1 (lodger of FIR) and PW-2 (mother of the prosecutrix) have also duly supported the prosecution case.

39. Taking cumulative effect of the evidence, we are of the view that the trial Court was fully justified in convicting the accused appellant.

40. The next question, which arises for consideration of this Court, is as what should be the appropriate sentence to be awarded to the accused appellant.

41. The Court is convinced that the appellant was a young man with no criminal antecedents and he can always be given a chance for reformation.

42. It is true that in this case the matter pertains to Section 376 IPC and Sections 5(f)&(m) and 6 of the POCSO Act but the accused has no previous criminal history except this case and he has not caused any other injury to the prosecurtrix. The case is that the accused inserted his finger into the genitals of the prosecutrix which according to the amended Section 375(b) IPC (amended by Act 13 of 2013) is now considered in the category of rape. Therefore, the crime committed by the accused-appellant is punishable under Section 376 (2) (d & f) of the I.P.C. for which there is a punishment of rigorous imprisonment for a term not less than 10 years but which may extend the imprisonment for life and a fine is also provided.

43. Since the offence was committed in a school where the accused-appellant was a Class IV employee, therefore, the amended Section of 376 (C) (c) of the IPC (amended in 2013) is also applicable. For which there is a punishment of rigorous imprisonment which shall not be less than five years but which may extend to 10 years and a fine also has been provided.

45. Since the case of the accused - appellant is covered by Section 376 (2) where, the minimum imprisonment of 10 years has been provided, therefore, the Court is of the opinion that considering the conditions that the accused-appellant is the sole bread earner of his family and he is a young man, having no previous criminal antecedents, there is possibility of reform and therefore, it would be appropriate that punishment be reduced and a minimum punishment be awarded to the accused-appellant.

46. The accused-appellant has also been tried under the POCSO Act. It is proved from the above discussions that the accused has committed an offence under Section 5 (f & m) of the POCSO Act and for which under Section 6 of the POCSO Act (prior to the amendment of 2019) there was a punishment for imprisonment not less than 10 years which may extend to life imprisonment also and a fine.

45. Therefore, considering the aforementioned circumstances relating to the accused-appellant, this Court is of the opinion that a minimum punishment with rigorous imprisonment for a term not less than 10 years and a fine of Rs. 5,000/- would meet the ends of justice.

47. Though, the Supreme Court in its recent judgement in Ravindra v. State of Madhya Pradesh (AIR 2015 SC 1369) has ruled that accused in a rape case may be awarded lesser sentence than the minimum ten years where adequate and special reasons exist by invoking the proviso to Section 376(2)(g) of the IPC for awarding lessor sentence, we think it would be appropriate to punish the appellant with the minimum punishment.

48. In the case of Baldev Singh vs. State of Punjab reported in AIR 2013 SC (Supp) 28, the Supreme Court had reduced the sentence on a similar ground.

49. We are of the opinion that no sentence lesser than that prescribed in the IPC and POCSO Act should be awarded to the accused-appellant. The trial court had punished the accused-appellant under Section 376 IPC and the Section 5 (f & m)/ 6 of the POCSO Act. But because of the provisions of Section 42 of the POCSO Act that the highest punishment be awarded had punished the accused - appellant only under Section 5 (f & m)/6 of the POCSO Act.

50. If we peruse the Section 376 IPC and Sections 5/6 POCSO Act, we find that punishments for the offences committed under the provisions in the year 2015 were similar.

51. In Section 6 of the POCSO Act (amended by the Act No. 25 of 2019 "w.e.f. 16.8.2019") the minimum punishment of rigorous imprisonment "not less than 20 years" was added. Earlier it was 10 years only.

52. Similarly, Section 376 IPC was amended in 2018 and prior to this amendment when the offence was committed in the year 2015 there was amended Section of 376 IPC available which was amended in the year 2013 in which only punishment with rigorous imprisonment for a term not less than 10 years and a fine was provided.

53. On the question of punishment, we, because of the reasons which have been stated in this judgement, propose to award the minimum punishment to the appellant..

54. We are of the opinion that under Section 376 IPC, punishment with rigorous imprisonment for a term not less than 10 years and a fine of Rs. 5,000/- and under Section 6 of the POCSO Act, a punishment with rigorous imprisonment for a term of 10 years and a fine of Rs. 5,000/- would be sufficient to meet the ends of justice. In the case of non-payment of fine, under Section 376 IPC, the appellant would undergo an additional one year of rigorous imprisonment and in the case of non-payment of fine under Section 6 of the POCSO Act, the appellant would further undergo one year of additional rigorous imprisonment.

55. Therefore, on the basis of the aforesaid discussion, we are of the view that conviction under Section 376 IPC and Section 6 of the POCSO Act is liable to be maintained and the appeal is dismissed. However, the punishment awarded by the lower court stands modified.

ORDER

56. The appeal in respect of conviction under Section 376 IPC and Section 6 of the POCSO Act is dismissed and the conviction awarded by the Trial Court is affirmed. However, the Appeal in respect of punishment stands party allowed as under:-

57. Under Section 376 IPC, the accused-appellant shall undergo punishment for a period of 10 years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 5,000/-. In case of default of payment of fine, the accused-appellant shall undergo one year additional rigorous imprisonment.

58. Under Section 6 of the POCSO Act, the accused-appellant shall undergo punishment for a period of 10 years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 5,000/-. In case of default of payment of fine, the accused-appellant shall undergo one year of additional rigorous imprisonment.

59. The punishment awarded under Section 376 IPC and Section 6 of the POCSO Act shall run concurrently. The period of incarceration of the accused - appellant in the aforesaid case crime number shall be adjusted as per law. The fine imposed upon the accused shall be given to the prosecutrix as compensation.

60. For the hard work which has been put in by the learned Amicus Curiae Ms.

Beena Mishra, we quantify her fee as Rs. 35,000/- which shall be payable to her by the Legal Services Authority forthwith.

Criminal Appeal No. 984 of 2015

Government Appeal No. 1774 of 2015

Manoj @ Bhorai ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opp. Party

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Sanjay Tiwari, Sri Adya Prasad Tewari, Sri Birendra Singh, Sri M.N. Pathak, Sri Ramesh Kumar Singh, Sri Sheo Shankar Tripathi, Sri Pawan Kumar Vishwakarma, Sri Vijit Saxena

Counsel for the Opp. Party:
Govt. Advocate

Criminal Law- Indian Penal Code, 1872- Section 376- Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 154- Delayed First Information Report- Section 157- Special Report to Magistrate- There is 68 days delay in lodging the F.I.R, but the lower trial court did not find it unnatural or unusual and found sufficient explanation of the delay-If causes are not attributable to any effort to concoct a version and the delay is satisfactorily explained by prosecution, no consequence shall be attached to mere delay in lodging FIR and the delay would not adversely affect the case of the prosecution. Delay caused in sending the copy of FIR to Magistrate would also be immaterial if the prosecution has been able to prove its case by its reliable evidence.

Where the prosecution has satisfactorily explained the delay in lodging the first information report and there is nothing to suggest concoction, of a story, then the said delay will not adversely affect the case of the prosecution.

Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015- Section 94- Determination of age of Prosecutrix - The prosecutrix is the sole witness of kidnapping, abduction and rape. According to radiological examination report, she was found to be 18 years of age, but according to her High School Certificate her date of birth recorded is 03.05.1992, thus, she was aged about 17 years at the time of commission of crime.

As per the provisions of the juvenile Justice Act primacy has to be given to the high school certificate of the prosecutrix and not to the ossification test in order to determine her age, hence prosecutrix held to be minor on date of occurrence.

Quantum of Punishment- Doctrine of Proportionality- It is correct that accused is married and family person even his children might have been of victim's age or similar to the age of victim. He has committed the sexual offence upon the victim twice and this offence was committed to pressurize the victim and her family members to come on the table of compromise. In this regard, another criminal case has also been lodged against the appellant, thus the accused has taken law in his own hand and has also interfered in administration of justice. Therefore, an extreme lenient view cannot be adopted in favour of the accused-appellant but since he is the only bread earner of his family and his family and children are facing lot of problem, therefore it would be expedient in the interest of justice to reduce the sentence to some extent awarded under Section 376 I.P.C.-Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed, therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream- 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Supreme Court, as discussed above,has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system- Eight year's rigorous imprisonment and Rs.25,000/- fine under Section 376 I.P.C would meet the ends of justice.

As the criminal jurisprudence in our country is reformative and corrective hence the accused/ applicant should be given an opportunity of reforming himself, however a balance requires to be struck between the nature and gravity of the offence with the quantum of the sentence awarded and undue sympathy should not prevail, hence sentence reduced to 8 years with fine. (Delivered by Hon'ble Umesh Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. We have heard learned counsel for the appellants, learned A.G.A for the State and perused the material available on record.

2. The present appeals have been filed against the judgement and order dated 24.01.2015, passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Court No. 3, Gorakhpur, by which the accused-appellant was sentenced under Section 376 I.P.C with Rigorous Imprisonment of ten years and fine of Rs.50,000/- out of which Rs. 25,000/- would be paid to the victim as compensation. In default, the convict will have to undergo simple imprisonment for twelve months. For the offence under Section 363 I.P.C, he was convicted and sentenced with Rigorous Imprisonment of one year and fine of Rs.1000/-. In default, the convict will have to undergo simple imprisonment for two months. For offence under Section 366 I.P.C, he has been convicted for rigorous imprisonment for three years and fine of Rs.5,000/- in case of default six months R.I. was ordered. It was also ordered that the period spent by the convict in custody would be adjusted in his sentence and all the sentences shall run concurrently.

3. Smt. Munni Devi, Smt. Phoola Devi and Smt. Tirtha Devi summoned as accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C, were acquitted. Being aggrieved, the State has preferred the appeal no. 1774 of 2015.

4. In brief, grounds of Appeal No. 1774 of 2015, is that the learned Trial Court has given benefit of doubt or advantage to the acquitted respondents. The case under Section 364 is fully proved against them but the learned Trial Court disbelieved P.W 1 & P.W 2. The order of acquittal is illegal, unjustified and bad in the eye of law. The learned Trial Court has not properly appreciated the prosecution evidence and has decided the case on the basis of conjuncture and surmises. The impugned judgement and order of acquittal is not sustainable and is liable to be set aside.

5. In brief, grounds of Appeal No. 984 of 2015, are that the appeal, the accused appellant has taken a plea that the prosecutrix and appellant were in love with each other and agreed to marry, but parents of the victim did not approve of their marriage, rather decided to marry the victim with another person. Thereafter, she left the house on 14.04.2009. Mother of the victim lodged first information report against the appellant and his family members. The appellant and his family members have previous enmity with the informant/complainant, therefore, being annoyed and prejudiced and on the dictates of informant, the prosecutrix has falsely implicated the appellant. It is a case of consent and no opinion about the rape can be given. As per the medical report the victim was 18 years old at the time of alleged incident. The F.I.R. is delayed by 68 days, which is not explained. There is no injury in the private part of the victim and it can be gathered that she is a consenting party. There are major and serious contradictions in the evidences of prosecution witnesses. Defence proved the enmity, and conviction is based on surmises and conjuncture, therefore, the appeal be allowed and impugned judgment be set aside.

In brief, facts of the case is as follows:-

6. In the present case, First Information Report was got registered by mother of the prosecutrix Smt. Ishrawati, who is informant of the prosecutrix by way of an application addressed to the D.I.G of Police, Gorakhpur, in which she stated that earlier accused-Manoj had kidnapped her daughter. In this respect the case is pending. The accused was pressurizing the informant and her daughter to change their statement and for this he had beaten the prosecutrix and had also threatened to kill her after kidnapping. Information in this respect was given to the police station. On 14.04.2006 at about 16:00 p.m., when her daughter, was going to the new house situated near Vikas Bharati School, from her old house in Unaula Awwal, she became untraceable. She was searched everywhere but could not be found. The informant had given a missing report regarding the prosecutrix with the police station but no action was taken. It was suspected by the informant that the accused Manoj and his family members named in the application had kidnapped her daughter and have killed her.

7. The duty Constable registered F.I.R on 22.06.2009 and entered in G.D at Serial No. 10. Investigation was handed over to S.I Wasim Anwar Khan. During investigation, the Investigating Officer (I.O) recorded the statements of the witnesses, visited the place from where the prosecutrix was suspected to be kidnapped and prepared site map. On 11.09.2009, the I.O. was informed that the accused, Manoj is bringing the victim towards the railway station Unaula. The police party went towards the railway station. At about 17:00 hours, a man and a girl were seen coming towards the railway station. They were asked to stop on the signal of informer. The person fled away, leaving the prosecutrix of this case, so this person could not be arrested. On inquiry, the girl told her name and also told the police party that the person accompanying her was the accused - Manoj @ Bhorai, who had kidnapped her against her will on 14th April, when she was going from her old house in Unaula Awwal to new house situated near Vikas Bharati School. Accused Manoj had persuaded her and taken her with him, he had kept her with him at different places. Today, he was taking her to record her statement and to meet an advocate, but was intercepted by police. A recovery memo was reduced into writing which was signed by the prosecutrix, I.O. and witnesses present, on the place of recovery.

8. The prosecutrix was medically examined on 12.09.2009. In her internal examination, she was found mentally fit, pubic hair and auxiliary hair were developed. Both breast were developed, a lump was found in her stomach about 12 cm/10cm size which was mobile. Her height was 150 cm weight 48 k.gm teeth 15/15. In her internal examination conducted with her consent, hymen was found old torn, margins irregular, vagina admitted two fingers easily. The mouth of cervix was closed, and the lump was in continuity with the cervix. She could not tell about her last months menstruation date. She was sent for radio-logical examination and ultrasound examination as well urine test. The medical examination report was prepared by the Dr. Mintu Kumari Sharma.

9. The Doctor, who had examined the prosecutrix medically, prepared a supplementary report on 21.09.2009 on the basis of pathological report, the pathological report number 154/14/09/2009 revealed that spermatozoa was not found. According to ultrasound report, she was pregnant for about 19 weeks and two days. According to the report of C.M.O, after her radio-logical examination, her wrist joints, knee joints and all the epiphysis were fused, she was about 18 years of age. According to the Doctor, no definitive opinion about rape could be given. The prosecutrix was produced before Magistrate and her statement under Section164 Cr.P.C was recorded.

10. After completion of investigation, the investigating officer filed charge-sheet under Sections 364 & 376 I.P.C against accused Manoj only as the names of other accused, mentioned in the F.I.R was found to have been falsely implicated.

11. The Magistrate took cognizance and committed the case to the court of Sessions vide order dated 22.01.2010, from where it was transferred to Additional Sessions Judge 03rd, Gorakhpur, where charges under Sections 364 and 376 I.P.C was framed on date 18.05.2010 against accused-Manoj who pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

12. Prosecution examined on oath, the informant as PW 1 Smt. Ishrawati, who is the mother of the prosecutrix, prosecution moved an Application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to summon other persons accused i.e. Smt. Munni Devi, Smt. Phoola and Smt. Tirtha, named in the F.I.R. The application was allowed and they were also summoned for trial vide order dated 24.05.2012. These three accused were charged under Section 364 I.P.C vide order dated 26.07.2013. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

13. The P.W 1 & PW 2 were again examined and cross examined. Prosecution further examined on oath, PW 3, Dr. V.P. Singh, who deposed of conducting radio-logical examination of the prosecutrix and preparing report, after X-ray of right elbow knee and wrist of the prosecutrix.

14. P.W 4 Dr. T.N. Jha deposed about the ultrasound examination of the prosecutrix and stated that he had conducted the ultrasound examination of the prosecutrix on 15.09.2009. Fetus which was mobile, was found in her uterus on the upper part of the placenta. There was placental fluid in the uterus. The heartbeat of the fetus was 142 per minute, weight 285 gms. The fetus was of about 19 weeks and two days. He proved his report and ultrasound examination report and also proved the ultrasound plates as material exhibits.

15. PW-5, is the Constable clerk who deposed and proved about registering the first information report on the basis of an application and making relevant entry in G.D.

16. PW-6 Dr. Mintu deposed about medical examination of the prosecutrix and also of preparing the examination report, referring the prosecutrix for pathological test and X-ray examination and ultrasound examination as well. She also deposed and proved the supplementary report regarding age and on the basis of pathological report, details of which have been mentioned earlier in this judgment.

17. PW-7 is the Investigating Officer, who deposed about the investigation of the case. He accordingly proved the recovery memo of the prosecutrix, the site plan and the charge-sheet.

18. PW-8 P.S. Tiwari, is the Constable clerk, who was posted in the office of D.I.G Police, where the informant submitted her application for registering first information report. He accordingly deposed and has proved the report, written by him and the entry in the general diary regarding the report.

19. In their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C the accused have pleaded false implication due to enmity. They have stated that the witnesses of fact have deposed under pressure and also that the investigation was not fair, rather it was a paperwork done by the I.O. in office. No evidence in defence was produced except certified copy of a surety bond in case number 302/08 which is admissible in evidence being certified copy of public document but of no use and rest of the documents are photocopy documents, which have not been proved. Hence are not admissible in evidence.

20. We have heard learned counsel for the accused-appellant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material available on record.

21. The following documentary evidences were produced proved and relied by the prosecution :

Material Exhibit 3 : Ultrasound film by P.W 4 Dr. T.N. Jha.

22. There is 68 days delay in lodging the F.I.R, but the lower trial court did not find it unnatural or unusual and found sufficient explanation of the delay. According to the informant P.W-1, she had informed the missing of the victim to the local police, but the police did not take any action, then she approached the D.I.G with an application upon which order was passed to register the case. Therefore, her F.I.R was lodged after 68 days of the incident. The lower court has held that in case of kidnapping or rape of a girl, the family members hesitate to approach the Police at the first instance because of the stigma prestige and honour of the family involved. Firstly, they try to search the victim and when they fail and no other option is left then, approaching the authority is the last option. In this respect the lower court has referred the ruling in Ashok Kumar Vs. State of U.P. 2012 (78) ACC 320 - Satpal Singh Vs. State of Haryana 2011 (1) C.C.S.C 185 Supreme Court, which support the observations of the lower court and the explanation given by the prosecution.

Following judicial precedents are also relevant in which principle regarding delay in lodging F.I.R has been propounded and have been held that if causes are not attributable to any effort to concoct a version and the delay is satisfactorily explained by prosecution, no consequence shall be attached to mere delay in lodging FIR and the delay would not adversely affect the case of the prosecution. Delay caused in sending the copy of FIR to Magistrate would also be immaterial if the prosecution has been able to prove its case by its reliable evidence : (Refer)

In the following cases the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that normal rule that prosecution has to explain delay and lack of prejudice does not apply per se to rape cases

(1). State of U.P. Vs. Manoj Kumar Pandey, AIR 2009 SC 711 (Three Judges Bench).

(2). Santosh Moolya Vs. State of Karnataka, 2010 5 SCC 445.

23. From the prosecution evidence, why this crime was committed has also became clear that accused Manoj had earlier kidnapped the prosecutrix and the case of kidnapping was pending against him and he was mounting pressure on the prosecutrix and the witnesses to give statement in his favour; and when the prosecutrix and her mother refused then the prosecutrix was kidnapped, abducted and raped by the accused-appellant to malign the honour of the victim, informant and her family.

24. In this case, the prosecutrix is the sole witness of kidnapping, abduction and rape. According to radiological examination report, she was found to be 18 years of age, but according to her High School Certificate her date of birth recorded is 03.05.1992, thus, she was aged about 17 years at the time of commission of crime. According to C.M.O. Report, she was above 18 years old. It is not proved from any evidence that she was above 18 years of age and was major at the time of commission of crime. According to the Juvenile Justice Act & Rules, the medical report shall be considered in the last if no other evidence is available regarding her date of birth. The lower court has held that the prosecutrix is aged about 17 years at the time of alleged incident. According to the accused-appellant, if the victim was kidnapped then why did she not even attempt to seek help during travelling to public places. In this regard, the lower court has given a plausible explanation that the victim was already kidnapped by accused-appellant earlier, therefore, she could have been in fear that she could not raise alarm and she might have accepted her fate in the hand of accused appellant. The finding reached by the lower court appears to be plausible and correct and as the girl belongs to village/rural background and she was earlier harassed by the accused, therefore, she could not dare to alert public during the course of travelling. It is also noteworthy that when the victim was recovered from the railway station Unaula, the accused appellant was also sitting with him, who fled away from the place and could not be arrested on the spot. From the medical evidence, it is also established that the victim became pregnant, which was the result of rape by the appellant-accused while she was unmarried.

25. The informant - P.W. 1 - Ishrawati, mother of the prosecutrix has clearly deposed that the accused and his family members were mounting pressure to compromise the earlier case of kidnapping of the victim by the accused, which is already pending in the Court and on refusal they had beaten her, against which a criminal case has been lodged.

26. P.W. 2 - Victim, prosecutrix has deposed that on 14.04.2009, at about 04:00 p.m. when she was coming to her new house from her old house then Smt. Phoola and Smt. Tirtha met her and asked her to sit in tempo, as they shall drop her at her house. On route, the accused and his wife Munni Devi joined them in tempo. When the tempo reached near victim's house, they did not drop her rather she was carried at the house of sister of the accused at Kampiarganj, where the accused and her sister locked her in a room and in the night accused forcibly raped her. Accused continuously threaten her that if she will not compromise the case, the victim and her sole brother will be murdered. According to the victim, the accused appellant kidnapped her and kept her in confinement for four months and 15 days. Thereafter, she promised to compromise if she is set free and brought to her house. On the way, when the victim and accused were coming to the house and reached Unaula railway station, she started crying then people caught the accused and approached the police, but before reaching the police, the accused ran away. Thereafter, she was taken by lady/female Police Officer at lady Police Station where rest formalities were completed. In her deposition, she has also proved her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. As per the statement of the prosecutrix, Lilawati sister of the accused appellant kept her in a house for about four and half months, but the police and Investigating Officer have not made Smt. Lilawati accused under Section 368 I.P.C. Even application under Section 319 Cr.P.C was not moved. An application under Section 319 Cr.P.C was moved, against Smt. Tirtha Devi, Smt. Munni Devi and Smt. Phula Devi only, who are arrayed as co-accused. Smt. Munni Devi is the wife of the accused appellant. According to the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C accused appellant - Manoj @ Bhorai was aged about 38 years on 19.04.2014, and was father of 5 -6 children. He was a family person and if he was a responsible family and social person, he ought to have known about his moral duties and followed the social norms. It is noteworthy that the victim was aged about 17 years.

27. Before the incident of this case, the accused Manoj @ Bhorai was also named accused in Case Crime No. 1071/07, u/s 363, 364, 366, 376 & 506 I.P.C. for kidnapping, abducting and raping this victim with other persons.

28. On the basis of the facts mentioned in appeal, the guilt of the accused is proved. It is noteworthy that the appellant was aged about 38 years and father of 5 to 6 children at the time of commission of crime and that the victim P.W.-2, Sandhya was a minor girl of 17 years. She had not consented ever for marriage and cohabitation with the accused.

29. In ground nos. 7, 9 & 11 of the appeal, which is quoted below, the appellant has confessed the guilt:

"7. Because, the appellant and Sandhya-prosecutrix love to each other and both of them agreed to marriage for their life peacefully, but the parents of Sandhya were not ready to solemnize the marriage of Sandhya and when the parents decided to marry her daughter, then her daughter Sandhya went with some person, they left the house without informing to the informant on 14.04.2009 and the mother of the prosecutrix lodged the F.I.R against the appellant and his family members.

9. Because, the medical examination shows that it is a case of consent and there is no injury on private parts of the body and no opinion about the rape can be given and according to medical report, the victim Sandhya was major. She was 18 years old at the time of incident.

11. Because, from the medial report it is clear that the private parts were well developed and there is no injury on the private parts of body and it can be said that she is consented girl."

The assertion of the accused has extracted above prove his guilt and commission of crime.

It would be proper to discuss the relevant provisions regarding kidnapping, abduction and rape as enumerated in I.P.C.

Section 359. Kidnapping and kidnapping of two kinds, kidnapping from India and kidnapping from lawful guardianship.

In this case the matter relates to kidnapping from the lawful guardianship about which a separate section 361 I.P.C has been enumerated, which is as under:

Section 361 in The Indian Penal Code;

361. Kidnapping from lawful guardianship.--Whoever takes or entices any minor under 1[sixteen] years of age if a male, or under 2[eighteen] years of age if a female, or any person of unsound mind, out of the keeping of the lawful guardian of such minor or person of unsound mind, without the consent of such guardian, is said to kidnap such minor or person from lawful guardianship. Explanation.--The words "lawful guardian" in this section include any person lawfully entrusted with the care or custody of such minor or other person."

According to this Section, if a female is under 18 years of age and she is taken out of the lawful guardianship of her guardians without the consent is said to have kidnapped such minor or person from lawful guardianship.

Under Section 363 I.P.C.

Kidnapping from lawful guardianship is punishable offence. According to which, for the offence of kidnapping from lawful guardianship the accused shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine.

"Section 366 of The Indian Penal Code

This Section deals with the punishment for kidnapping, abducting or inducing woman to compel her marriage, etc.--Whoever kidnaps or abducts any woman with intent that she may be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled, to marry any person against her will, or in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; 1[and whoever, by means of criminal intimidation as defined in this Code or of abuse of authority or any other method of compulsion, induces any woman to go from any place with intent that she may be, or knowing that it is likely that she will be, forced or seduced to illicit intercourse with another person shall be punishable as aforesaid]."

Section 375 relates to rape:-

A man is said to commit "rape" if he-

(a) penetrates his penis, to any extent, into the vagina, mouth, urethra or anus of a woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or

(b) inserts, to any extent, any object or a part of the body, not being the penis, into the vagina, the urethra or anus of a woman or makes her to do so with him or any other persons; or

(c) manipulates any part of the body of a woman so as to cause penetration into the vagina, urethra, anus or any part of body of such woman or makes her to do so with him or any other persons; or

(d) applies his mouth to the vagina, anus, urethra of a woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person.

Under the circumstances falling under any of the following seven descriptions:

First. - Against her will.

Secondly. - Without her consent.

Thirdly. - With her consent, when her consent has been obtained by putting her or any person in whom she is interested, in fear of death or of hurt.

Fourthly.- With her consent, when the man knows that he is not her husband and that her consent is given because she believes that he is another man to whom she is or believes herself to be lawfully married.

Fifthly. - With her consent when, at the time of giving such consent, by reason of unsoundness of mind or intoxication or the administration by him personally or thorough another of any stupefying or unwholesome substance, she is unable to understand the nature and consequences of that to which she gives consent.

Sixthly. - With or without her consent, when she is under eighteen years of age.

Seventhly. - When she is unable to communicate consent.

Explanation 1.- For the purposes of this section, "vagina" shall also be include labia majora.

Explanation 2.- Consent means an unequivocal voluntary agreement when the woman by words, gestures or any form of verbal or non-verbal communication, communicates willingness to participate in the specific sexual act:

Provided that a woman who does not physically resist to the act of penetration shall not by the reason only to that fact, be regarded as consenting to the sexual activity.

Exception 1.- A medical procedure or intervention shall not constitute rape.

Exception 2. - Sexual intercourse or sexual acts by a man with his own wife, the wife not being under fifteen years of age, is not rape.]

Section 376 relates to Punishment for rape:-

(1) Whoever, except in the cases provided for in sub-section (2), commits rape, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment of either description for a term which1[shall not be less than ten years, but which may extend to imprisonment for life, and shall also be liable to fine].

(2) Whoever,--

(a) being a police officer, commits rape--

(i) within the limits of the police station to which such police officer is appointed; or

(ii) in the premises of any station house; or

(iii) on a woman in such police officer's custody or in the custody of a police officer subordinate to such police officer; or

(b) being a public servant, commits rape on a woman in such public servant's custody or in the custody of a public servant subordinate to such public servant; or

(c) being a member of the armed forces deployed in an area by the Central or a State Government commits rape in such area; or

(d) being on the management or on the staff of a jail, remand home or other place of custody established by or under any law for the time being in force or of a women's or children's institution, commits rape on any inmate of such jail, remand home, place or institution; or

(e) being on the management or on the staff of a hospital, commits rape on a woman in that hospital; or

(f) being a relative, guardian or teacher of, or a person in a position of trust or authority towards the woman, commits rape on such woman; or

(g) commits rape during communal or sectarian violence; or

(h) commits rape on a woman knowing her to be pregnant; or

(j) commits rape, on a woman incapable of giving consent; or

(k) being in a position of control or dominance over a woman, commits rape on such woman; or

(i) commits rape on a woman suffering from mental or physical disability; or

(m) while committing rape causes grievous bodily harm or maims or disfigures or endangers the life of a woman; or

(n) commits rape repeatedly on the same woman, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than ten years, but which may extend to imprisonment for life, which shall mean imprisonment for the remainder of that person's natural life, and shall also be liable to fine.

Explanation.--For the purposes of this sub-section,--

(a) "armed forces" means the naval, military and air forces and includes any member of the Armed Forces constituted under any law for the time being in force, including the paramilitary forces and any auxiliary forces that are under the control of the Central Government or the State Government;

(b) "hospital" means the precincts of the hospital and includes the precincts of any institution for the reception and treatment of persons during convalescence or of persons requiring medical attention or rehabilitation;

(c) "police officer" shall have the same meaning as assigned to the expression "police" under the Police Act, 1861 (5 of 1861);

(d) "women's or children's institution" means an institution, whether called an orphanage or a home for neglected women or children or a widow's home or an institution called by any other name, which is established and maintained for the reception and care of women or children.

1[(3) Whoever, commits rape on a woman under sixteen years of age shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than twenty years, but which may extend to imprisonment for life, which shall mean imprisonment for the remainder of that person's natural life, and shall also be liable to fine:

Provided that such fine shall be just and reasonable to meet the medical expenses and rehabilitation of the victim:

Provided further that any fine imposed under this sub-section shall be paid to the victim.]"

30. It is established from the aforesaid discussions that the prosecutrix was aged about 17 years at the time of commission of crime. It is also established that accused wanted to settle and compromise the previous offence as alleged to be committed by him in 2007, for which an F.I.R being in Case Crime No. 1071 of 2007, under Sections 363, 364, 366, 376 & 506 I.P.C was lodged, which was pending and to settle the aforementioned case, the accused-appellant committed this offence again and the life of prosecutrix was made miserable and troublesome.

31. P.W 1 - Mother of the victim, P.W 2 - Victim has proved the manner as to when and from where she was kidnapped and taken away to Gorakhpur. It is established that the victim was an unmarried girl, who had no physical and sexual relation with any other person except accused. When she was recovered from the Railway Station Unaula and was medically examined, she was found to be pregnant for 19 weeks two days foetus. Earlier the grounds of appeal taken by the appellant in paragraphs no. 7, 9 and 11 has been quoted, which also proved the guilt of the accused has not been established that the victim was a consenting party and physical relation was established by the accused with her after obtaining her consent, thus, a minor girl was raped and was impregnated by the accused. From the grounds taken in the appeal, it reveals that accused impliedly admitted his guilt.

32. The accused is so immoral person that he kidnapped, abducted and raped a girl of 17 years of age while having own children of similar age group. Accused has a legally wedded wife and without divorcing her, in the memo of appeal he states that he loves the victim and both love each other and wanted to marry. He made a minor girl pregnant and ruined her future, for which he has no regrets. It is not proved that victim became pregnant from the contact of any other person than the accused. Accused stated that both love each other and being a consenting party, the victim had co-habitated with him.

33. In ground 9 of the appeal, accused has stated that there was no injury on the private part of the victim as she was a consenting party. In evidence victim has not accepted that she was a consenting party. She was under the control of accused, her body was used for the fulfilment of desire and lust of the accused. A minor girl of about 17 years of age was made pregnant by the accused, who was 38 yeas of age and was having a legally wedded wife and a father of 5 - 6 children. The prosecution has proved the contents of kidnapping, abduction and forceful rape by the accused. Had the victim been the consenting party, no case would have been filed about the earlier incident of 2007.

34. Being aggrieved, against the acquittal, the State of U.P. has preferred Appeal No. 1774 of 2015 against Smt. Tirtha, Smt. Munni Devi and Smt. Phula Devi, who were summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C and these lady accused persons were charged under Section 364 I.P.C. The lower court has discussed at page no. 11 in the judgment as to why the prosecution case against these lady accused persons is not proved. In this regard, the lower trial court has relied upon the investigation of the I.O, who found them to be falsely implicated and also referred to the statement of victim P.W 2, who assigned only the role of sitting of these accused persons with her in three-wheeler. These facts have also come in her statement that these women forced her not to come out of the three-wheeler when the three-wheeler reached near her new house and also assisted in locking her inside the house of sister of Manoj. The lower trial court came to the conclusion that they had falsely been implicated due to previous enmity as the husband of Smt. Phoola Devi was surety of the accused and husband of Smt. Tirtha Devi was the witness in Crime No. 1/4 under Sections 324, 325, 452 & 506 of I.P.C. The third woman is the wife of Manoj. The lower trial court come to the conclusion that no wife would tolerate/cooperate with her husband in kidnapping the girl for the purpose of her husband marrying the kidnapped girl or for the purpose committing rape upon her. It is also noticed by the lower court that if these three ladies accused persons were with the prosecutrix till she reached the house of sister of the accused - Manoj, she did not cry or raise alarm even in the crowded area/places during the journey. So far as the role and alleged acquisition of lady accused persons is concerned there is no independent evidence except the evidence of the victim. None has come forward to corroborate that they saw the victim and the three lady accused persons on the alleged date and time in three-wheeler. I.O in additional statement of the prosecutrix under Section 161, Cr.P.C, has written that she was taken by the accused Manoj @ Bhorai alone and not by rest three ladies.

35. From the aforesaid discussions, it is proved that there is old enmity amongst the family of informant and the lady accused persons. The findings recorded by the lower trial court in this regard appears to be reasonable and plausible, therefore, the prosecution has completely failed in proving the case of abduction or kidnapping of victim by the three lady accused persons. The victim was recovered on 11.09.2009 and her statement under Section 164 was recorded on 23.09.2009, in the meantime she was in contact of her parents, therefore, it can be concluded that the statement of the victim recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C is not gospel truth and since all the accused ladies, whose family members were in aid to the accused earlier were named in the First Information Report and statements was recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C.

36. Therefore, the appeal preferred by the State of U.P. against the female accused persons, has no force and is accordingly dismissed.

37. So far as the sentencing of main accused - Manoj @ Bhorai is concerned, he has been awarded by the following sentences by the lower trial court :-

"(i) Under Section 376 I.P.C, ten years rigorous imprisonment and Rs.50,000/- fine out of which Rs.25,000/- is to be paid to the victim as compensation and if fine is not paid the appellant will have to under go additional simple imprisonment for 12 months..

(ii) Under Section 363 I.P.C, one year's rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs.1,000/-, in default simple imprisonment for two months.

(iii) Under Section 366 Cr.P.C : three years rigorous imprisonment and Rs.5,000/- fine and in case of default six months rigorous imprisonment.

(iv) It was also ordered that period spent by the convict in custody has to be adjusted in his sentence and all the sentences run concurrently."

38. Learned counsel for the appellant has argued and requested that accused-appellant is an aged old person having children and wife, he is the sole earning member of his family they are facing problems in earning their livelihood.

39. Learned counsel for the appellant has relied upon the ruling in the Case of Manoj Mishra @ Chhotkau Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh 2001 0 Supreme Court (SC) 609, wherein Hon'ble the Apex Court found no gang rape, but the victim was raped by the appellant alone. The accused was found guilty for the offence under Sections 363, 366, 376 I.P.C and Section 4 of POCSO Act. The victim was a minor girl and the accused had undergone sentence for more than eight years, therefore, the Hon'ble Supreme Court ordered to release the accused-appellant for the sentence undergone in jail. In this case the occurrence was occurred on 14.04.2006 when the POCSO Act was not into existence, therefore the accused had not been tried under the POCSO Act. Section 376 I.P.C has been amended w.e.f. 21.04.2018 providing minimum sentence of 10 years. Before this date, minimum sentence was seven years, but which may extend to imprisonment for life and shall also be liable to fine.

40. In this case the trial court delivered the judgement and sentenced the accused on 23.01.2015. Since then he (Manoj @ Bhorai) is in jail. During the trial, he was in jail for four months three days, thus he is in jail for more than seven and half years. It is correct that accused is married and family person even his children might have been of victim's age or similar to the age of victim. He has committed the sexual offence upon the victim twice and this offence was committed to pressurize the victim and her family members to come on the table of compromise. In this regard, another criminal case has also been lodged against the appellant, thus the accused has taken law in his own hand and has also interfered in administration of justice. Therefore, an extreme lenient view cannot be adopted in favour of the accused-appellant but since he is the only bread earner of his family and his family and children are facing lot of problem, therefore it would be expedient in the interest of justice to reduce the sentence to some extent awarded under Section 376 I.P.C.

41. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

42. The term, 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP, [(2004) 7 SCC 257 by observing that sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

43. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, Supreme Court referred its earlier judgments rendered in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463], and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The Supreme Court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

44. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed, therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

45. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Supreme Court, as discussed above,has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

46. This Court is of the opinion that eight year's rigorous imprisonment and Rs.25,000/- fine under Section 376 I.P.C would meet the ends of justice. The sentences and fine awarded under Sections 363 and 366 I.P.C may be kept intact. Out of the above commutated fine of Rs. 31,000/-, Rs. 25,000/- might be paid to the victim and rest Rs. 6,000/- might be deposited to the Government Exchequer. In case of non-payment of fine awarded under Section 376 I.P.C, the accused may undergo for additional 12 months, rigorous imprisonment.

47. Accordingly, following orders is passed with regard to conviction and sentence:-

The Criminal Appeal No. 984 of 2015 - Manoj @ Bhorai Vs. State of U.P. is partly allowed with regard to the sentence awarded under Section 376 I.P.C and is dismissed withholding the conviction and sentence awarded under Sections 363 & 366 I.P.C. Accordingly, the conviction and sentence under Sections 363 and 366 I.P.C passed by the court below is affirmed and maintained. So far as the conviction and sentence under Section 376 I.P.C is concerned, on the basis of above discussions, this Court is of the view that the sentence awarded by the learned trial court is modified to the effect that the accused-appellant is awarded eight years R.I. and Rs. 25,000/- fine.

48. Out of the above commuted fine of Rs. 31,000/-, Rs. 25,000/- would be paid to the prosecutrix and rest fine of amount of Rs.6,000/- shall be deposited in Government Exchequer. In case of non-payment of fine under Section 376 I.P.C, the accused-appellant shall undergo additional twelve month's rigorous imprisonment. All the sentences shall run concurrently. Incarceration period of accused shall be adjusted as per existing rules.

The Government Appeal No. 1774 of 2015 - State of U.P. Vs. Smt. Tirtha & Two Others, is accordingly dismissed.

Criminal Appeal No. 1665 of 1996

Rameshwar ...Appellant (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri O.Singh, Sri Lal Mani Tripathi, Sri Pankaj Kumar Tyagi

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 134 - Sole witness testimony- The law is settled that on the testimony of a sole witness conviction can be sustained provided the witness is wholly reliable and his testimony is unimpeachable and of a stellar quality- Though, there is no bar in basing conviction on the testimony of a single eye-witness but, before doing so, the court must carefully scrutinise the evidence to be satisfied that it is free of any blemish or suspicion, is wholly truthful and appears natural and convincing, that is, in short, it is intrinsically reliable, inherently probable and wholly trustworthy.

Settled law that it is the quality and not the quantity of evidence which is relevant provided that the said evidence is wholly reliable, trustworthy and credible.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Sections 3 & 134 - Considering that it is a case of night incident, the prosecution has examined a solitary eye witness, whose testimony is not of a stellar quality; that two gunshots were fired in quick succession, not preceded by altercation, it would have been a split second affair; that the witnesses arrived at the spot from different places after hearing gunshots while they were within the confines of their own home, thereby taking time to arrive; that initial report was of seeing the accused while they were scaling the wall to escape therefore, bearing in mind that the presence of light outside the room has not been satisfactorily proved, there was very little scope for the witnesses to recognize the accused- Keeping in mind that it is a case based on a single eye witness testimony who is not wholly reliable as discussed above, we are of the considered view that the appellant is entitled to the benefit of doubt.

Conviction cannot be secured where the testimony of a solitary witness is wholly unreliable, improbable and unnatural. (Para 16, 21, 25)

Hon'ble Syed Aftab Husain Rizvi, J.)

1. We have heard Sri Pankaj Kumar Tyagi for the appellant Rameshwar; and Sri Amit Sinha, learned AGA, for the State.

2. This appeal is against the judgment and order dated 01.08.1996 passed by the First Additional Sessions Judge, Muzaffarnagar in S.T. No.266 of 1994, arising out of case crime no.33 of 1993, P.S. Ratanpuri, district Muzaffarnagar, whereby the appellant Rameshwar has been convicted and sentenced as follows: imprisonment for life under Section 302/34 IPC; and 10 years R.I. under Section 449/34 IPC. It be noticed that two persons were put to trial, namely, Rameshwar (the appellant) and Vinod. By the judgement and order impugned while convicting and sentencing the appellant as above, the co-accused Vinod has been acquitted by extending the benefit of doubt to him.

INTRODUCTORY FACTS

3. The prosecution case in a nutshell as per the written report (Ex. Ka-1) is that on 12.4.1993 at about 8 pm in the night when the deceased Salek Chand was in his house, watching TV in his room, two gunshots were heard by neighbours, namely, Jitendra (PW-2), Deshraj (not examined) and Dharmo (not examined). When they arrived at the spot, they noticed Rameshwar (the appellant) and another person, having country made pistols in their hand, scaling the eastern wall of the house of the deceased and escaping towards south. Inside that room, Salek Chand (the deceased) was noticed dead with injuries.

4. The written report (Ex. Ka-1) of the incident was given by the deceased's brother (PW-1) at P.S. Ratanpuri. Chik FIR (Ex. Ka-3) and GD entry No.25 (Ex. Ka-4) of the written report was prepared by PW-4 at 21.25 hrs on 12.04.1993 giving rise to case crime no.33 of 1993 at P.S. Ratanpuri, District Muzaffarnagar. The inquest was conducted at the spot and was completed by 24.00 hrs (i.e. midnight of 12/13.04.1993) of which inquest report (Ex. Ka-5) was prepared, which was witnessed by five persons. But neither the informant nor any of the persons who witnessed the accused escaping were witnesses to the inquest report. Autopsy of the cadaver was carried out by Dr. S. Tandon (PW-3) on 13.04.1993 at about 3 pm. As per the autopsy report (Ex. Ka-2), the external examination of the body revealed that rigor mortis was present all over the body. The abdomen was distended. Ante-mortem injuries were as below:-

"1. Gunshot wound of entry with lacerated margin 6.5 cm x 2.5 cm x vertabrae deep on left side of the neck in front. The wound extends from mid line to 3 cm below labula of the ear left. The direction of wound is from right to left and from front to back with evidence of fracture of the third cervical vertabrae and evidence of laceration and rupture of neck vessels.

2. Gunshot wound of exit 4.5 cm x 2 cm x vertebrae deep on the back, left side of neck, adjacent to the mid line. The wound was communicating through and through to the injury no.1.

Note: One large metallic shot removed from injury no.1, sealed and handed over to the constable concerned.

3. Gunshot wound of entry 2 cm x 1.5 cm x abdomen cavity deep on right side front of abdomen. Blackening around the entry on the skin present. The direction of wound was from front to back. It was situated at 9 O'clock position, 2 cm right lateral to umblicus.

4. Gunshot wound of exit 2 cm x 2 cm x abdominal cavity deep on right side of the back, adjacent to mid line."

According to the opinion of the doctor, death was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante mortem firearm injuries and the same could have been caused three-fourth of a day before.

5. During the course of investigation, the investigating officer collected: (i) blood stained mat from the cot inside the room where the deceased was shot, of which seizure memo (Ex. Ka-11) was prepared; and (ii) blood stained earth and plain earth from the spot, of which seizure memo (Ex. Ka-12) was prepared. A custody memo (Ex. Ka-13) in respect of the torch alleged to have been used to witness the accused escaping from the spot was also prepared, as per which, the custody of the torch, which was of Deshraj and in a running condition, was handed over to its owner Deshraj. After the statement of witnesses were recorded under Section 161 CrPC, the investigating officer (I.O.), namely, PW-5, submitted a charge sheet (Ex. Ka-14) against two persons, namely, Rameshwar (the appellant) and Vinod (co-accused). After taking cognizance on the charge-sheet, the case was committed to the court of session. The sessions court by order dated 11.10.1994 framed charge of the offences punishable under Sections 449/34 and 302/34 IPC against both the accused. Both the accused pleaded not guilty, denied the charge and claimed for trial.

PROSECUTION EVIDENCE

6. During the course of trial, the prosecution examined five witnesses. Their testimony, in brief, is as follows:-

7. PW-1- Bhikkan Das (the informant). He stated that the deceased Salek Chand is son of his uncle (Chacha); that the accused Rameshwar and Vinod are known to him; and that relationship between Rameshwar and Salek Chand was not cordial though, he is not aware about the relationship between Vinod and Salek Chand. In respect of the incident, he stated that at the time of the incident he was at his own house. He heard that his cousin (the deceased) was shot by someone. He received information from Dharmo that Salek Chand has been killed. He stated that the written report was in his writing and he had signed it. On this statement of PW-1, the written report was marked (Ex. Ka.-1). PW-1 stated that he had not named Rameshwar (the appellant) in the written report. At this stage, the prosecution declared the witness hostile and sought permission for his cross examination, which was granted.

During cross examination by the prosecution, PW-1 stated that he had studied upto Class-X. He admitted his signature on Ex. Ka-1. He also admitted that in his report, he had mentioned that accused appellant Rameshwar and another person with country made pistols in their hand were witnessed scaling the eastern wall of deceased's house and going towards south. He also admitted that the I.O. had interrogated him. The witness when confronted with his statement recorded under Section 161 CrPC admitted that he had stated before the I.O. that on 12.04.1993 while his cousin Salek Chand (the deceased) was in his house, watching TV, at about 8 pm, 2-3 gunshots were heard coming from the house of Salek Chand upon which neighbours Jitendra (PW-2), Deshraj and Dharmo came running to the spot to witness Rameshwar (the appellant) and another person scaling the eastern wall of the house and escaping towards south; and that, about two years before the incident, the deceased and Rameshwar had a scuffle, which was settled by intervention of the villagers. PW-1 stated that whatever he had told to the I.O. was on the basis of information received by him. He also stated that the written report was scribed by him in the village and was handed over to the police for registration of a first information report.

During cross examination at the instance of co-accused Vinod, he feigned ignorance that the deceased Salek Chand was challaned for an offence. He also feigned ignorance that Salek Chand was made an accused in a case of firing at the police. He also feigned ignorance in respect of recovery of a country made pistol from Salek Chand and registration of a case under Section 25 of the Arms Act, against him. He, however, admitted that to his knowledge there is no other person by the name of Salek Chand son of Buddhu in the village. He admitted that in the village one Raja Baniya was killed but he denied that in connection with that murder, Salek Chand was arrested by the police. He feigned ignorance that Salek Chand (the deceased) had enticed away a girl from village Kukanpur. He denied the suggestion that the said girl is yet to be recovered. He claimed that he has no knowledge that Salek Chand is a history sheeter.

During cross examination at the instance of Rameshwar (the appellant), PW-1 stated that he had not witnessed the incident and had arrived at the spot after about half an hour at 8.30 pm. He stated that he is not aware whether at the time when he arrived at the spot, there was any electric light in the house of Salek Chand. He stated that he is not aware whether Salek Chand had an electricity connection though he admitted that the night was dark. He stated that at the spot, with him, there were Dharmo and 2-3 other persons. He stated that whatever he had written in the report was on the information received from Dharmo. He stated that the report was scribed while sitting in the house of Salek Chand. He stated that he must have taken 15-20 minutes to write the report; and that he reached the police station by about 10 or 11 pm. He stated that at the time of lodging the report, the Pradhan had accompanied him to the police station along with other persons though he does not remember their names. Immediately thereafter, he stated that he went to the police station alone, whereas others were outside. He stated that soon after registration of the report, his statement was recorded by the I.O. On further probe, PW-1 stated that Dharmo had not disclosed the name of any person to him and he had also not disclosed the name of any person to the I.O.

8. PW-2 - Jitendra. PW-2 stated that he knows Rameshwar (the appellant) and Vinod as they are residents of the same village where he resides. He stated that there was enmity between Rameshwar (the appellant) and Salek Chand. 2-2½ years before the incident, there was a scuffle between them. He stated that there was also a talk in the village that Vinod's aunt Shimla had illicit relations with Salek Chand and because of that, Vinod (co-accused) was inimically disposed towards Salek Chand. He stated that Salek Chand was unmarried. With regard to the incident, PW-2 stated that at about 8 pm, while he was having dinner at his house, he heard gun shot noise coming from the house of Salek Chand. He ran towards the house of Salek Chand. He saw Rameshwar firing a gunshot at Salek Chand. At that time, Salek Chand was in his house. He stated that there was electric light in the house of Salek Chand. With Rameshwar, he saw Vinod as well. After firing the shot, Rameshwar (the appellant) and Vinod (co-accused) escaped with their country made pistols by scaling the eastern wall of deceased's house. He stated that before the accused could escape, witnesses Deshraj and Dharm Singh had also arrived at the spot. They also witnessed the incident. He stated that Deshraj had a torch with him. He stated that Salek Chand died on the spot. At that time a television and a fan were switched on in his room.

During cross examination at the instance of Rameshwar, PW-2 stated that his house is about 20 paces away from the house of Salek Chand (the deceased); that the way to Salek Chand from his house runs east-west; that on hearing gunshot he did not even take a minute to reach the spot; that he witnessed Rameshwar and Vinod scaling the wall and escaping; at that time, there was electricity light though the night was dark; that he was the first to arrive at the spot; that the informant had also arrived thereafter, but must have arrived 10-5 minutes later; that before the informant, Deshraj and Dharmo had arrived; that he had entered the room of Salek Chand where he was shot at; there he noticed that he was shot twice; that the deceased was lying on the cot; that blood had spilled on the cot as well as on deceased's clothes; that blood had not spilled anywhere else except the cot and the clothes; that Salek Chand used to reside alone; that when he entered the room of Salek Chand, he noticed that empty utensils were there suggesting that he had had his dinner; and the TV was switched on. He could not recall as to which programme was running on the TV. He stated that when several people arrived at the spot, someone had switched off the TV. He also stated that he could not notice any metered electricity connection but there appeared use of electricity with the aid of a cable. On further questioning, he stated that the accused had scaled the eastern wall, the height of which would have been 2 ½ to 3 feet high; that at the time of scaling the wall, accused persons' face was not towards him (PW-2) rather, their waist could be noticed. PW-2 stated that after witnessing the incident, he went back home. On the same day the I.O. had arrived at the spot by about 10-11 pm. He stated that the I.O. stayed there for about an hour. He met the I.O. that day itself. His statement was also recorded by the I.O. He stated that he had narrated the incident to the I.O. and had also disclosed to the I.O. the place and the spot from where the accused had escaped. He again reiterated that his house is at a distance of 20 paces from the spot. On further questioning, PW-2 stated that he is not aware whether the I.O. had prepared the site plan on that day. He stated that he had disclosed to the I.O. the location of his house. At this stage, the witness stated that he saw the accused firing the gunshot. He stated that he had disclosed to the I.O. about this fact. Upon this statement of the witness, he was confronted with his previous statement recorded under Section 161 CrPC which was read out to the witness and it was pointed out to the witness that in his previous statement he had not disclosed that he had seen the accused firing gunshot. On being confronted with his previous statement, the witness stated that if that was not written while recording his statement under Section 161 CrPC, he cannot tell the reason for the same. On further cross examination, PW-2 stated that in connection with the incident of scuffle between the deceased and Rameshwar (the appellant), there is no litigation pending. He denied the suggestions that he made false statement against Rameshwar on account enmity; that he had not witnessed the incident; that his house is at a distance of 200 paces from the house of Salek Chand; and that in the night of the incident there was no electric light in the house of Salek Chand.

During cross examination at the instance of co-accused Vinod. PW-2 reiterated that at the time when the gunshot was heard, he was having dinner in his house and at that time Salek Chand was in his own house. He was confronted with his previous statement wherein he had stated that he heard a gunshot noise coming from the house of Salek Chand. In response to which, he stated that his statement that Rameshwar (the appellant) fired a shot at Salek Chand is not false. He stated that his statement that while he was having dinner in his house, he heard gunshot noise coming from the house of Salek Chand; upon hearing that noise, he ran towards the house of Salek Chand where he saw Rameshwar firing a shot at Salek Chand, is correct. He stated that the fact is that he was having dinner in his own house when he heard a gunshot noise; when he arrived at the spot from where the noise came, he saw Rameshwar firing at Salek Chand, which was the second shot. He stated that only two gunshot injuries were found on the body of Salek Chand. He stated that Salek Chand was watching television in his room and his house is a one room house in front of which there is a courtyard. He stated that there is only one door in the room of his house and from that door, Rameshwar, after firing gunshot, had effected his escape. He stated that he made an effort to catch Rameshwar while he was escaping but if he had done so, he would have been shot by Rameshwar. He stated that Deshraj and Dharmo Singh had not arrived at the spot before him but they arrived immediately after he arrived at the spot. He stated that when Deshraj and Dharmo arrived by that time Rameshwar had already scaled the wall. He stated that he, Deshraj and Dharmo had witnessed Rameshwar scaling the wall. Deshraj had a torch with him.

On further questioning at the instance of co-accused Vinod, PW-2 stated that he saw Rameshwar firing at the neck of the deceased from a close range. At this stage, on further probe, PW-2 stated that Deshraj and Dharmo had arrived with him at the house of Salek Chand. PW-2 stated that when the police had arrived, they had called him over to the house of Salek Chand; that was the second time, he visited the house of Salek Chand. At that time, Dharmo, Deshraj and Bhikkan Das (the informant) were there at the spot. He stated that what he had witnessed, he told to the police. He also stated that he had informed the I.O. that there was gossip in the village that there was enmity between Vinod and Salek Chand on account of illicit relations of the aunt (Chachi) of Vinod with Salek Chand. At this stage, PW-2 admitted that he had not informed Bhikkan (the informant) that Vinod had fired a shot at Salek Chand in his presence. However, PW-2 maintained that Vinod had fired a shot at Salek Chand in his presence which hit Salek Chand on the neck, whereas Rameshwar had fired shot at Salek Chand which hit him on the abdomen. He stated that Vinod and Rameshwar both had fired shot at Salek Chand while he was there. He denied the suggestion that neither Vinod nor Rameshwar fired shot in his presence and that he had not witnessed Vinod escaping from the spot. He also denied the suggestion that he is telling lies on account of village party bandi.

9. PW-3- Dr. S. Tandon (Autopsy Surgeon). He stated that on 13.04.1993 he was posted at District Hospital, Muzaffarnagar when the body of the deceased was brought to him for autopsy in a sealed state. He proved the autopsy report and the injuries noticed by him therein. On the basis of his statement, the autopsy report was exhibited as Ex. Ka-2. He stated that injury nos.1 and 3 noticed by him were firearm injuries and were entry wounds. Those injuries were possible to have been caused at 8 pm on 12.04.1993. He also stated that death of the deceased might have occurred three-fourth of a day before the autopsy. He denied the suggestion that he prepared the autopsy report on the basis of suggestions given by the constable concerned.

10 . PW-4- H.C. Bhagwat Singh. He is the constable who prepared the GD entry of the written report. He proved the GD Entry No.25 made at 21.25 hrs on 12.04.1993 in respect of the written report. The copy of the GD entry was exhibited as Ex. Ka-4. He also proved preparation of the chik FIR, which was marked Ex. Ka-3.

During his cross examination, he denied the suggestion that the first information report was written at his instance. He stated that the informant had brought the written report. He stated that he could not remember whether the informant had arrived on foot or by some other mode.

11. PW-5- Ram Singh Pal (Investigating Officer). He proved the various stages of investigation and stated that after registration of the first information report he had visited the spot and had noticed the body of Salek Chand lying on a cot inside the room of his house. He proved conducting of inquest proceeding as also preparation of papers in connection with inquest and autopsy. He stated that on 13.04.1993 he recorded the statement of Jitendra, Deshraj and Dharmo, who were eye witnesses as per the first information report, and inspected the spot in light of electric bulb as well as lantern and prepared a site plan of the spot, which was marked Ex. Ka-10. He proved collection of blood stained Dari (mat) from the cot as well as plain earth and blood stained earth from the spot. The seizure memos thereof were marked Ex. Ka-11 and Ex. Ka-12, respectively. He stated that efforts were made to arrest the accused. The accused Rameshwar was arrested on 14.04.1993 whereas the accused Vinod surrendered on 26.04.1994 in court. He also stated that the witness Deshraj had shown him the torch in the light of which he had witnessed the accused scaling the wall. He stated that the torch was found in a working condition and custody memo in respect thereof was prepared, which was marked Ex. Ka-13. He also proved submission of charge sheet, which was marked Ex. Ka-14. He produced the blood stained earth, plain earth/ the piece of mat collected by him. They were made material exhibits.

During cross examination at the instance of co-accused Vinod, PW-5 stated that he recorded the statement of informant on 12.04.1993 at 21.50 hrs, soon after registration of the case. He recorded the statement of Deshraj at 0.45 hrs on 13.04.1993. He also recorded the statement of witness Dharmo Singh in the night itself at 01.00 hrs. And at 0.30 hrs, on 13.04.1993, he recorded the statement of Jitendra. He stated that the FIR was registered at the instance of PW-1 at 21.25 hrs on 12.04.1993 and, whereafter, the police team left to go to the spot at about 22.00 hrs. He stated that he arrived at the spot by about 22.10 hrs on 12.04.1993 itself.

During cross examination at the instance of accused Rameshwar, PW-5 stated that at the time of preparing the site plan he had not shown the electricity wires and the direction in which they were placed but had disclosed in the site plan the presence of an electricity bulb, TV and a fan in the room where the incident occurred. He stated that when the police team arrived at the spot, the electricity bulb was switched on but the TV and fan were off. He stated that the witnesses had told him that the TV and the fan was also on at the time of occurrence. He stated that the witnesses informed him that some person may have switched off the TV and fan. He stated that he is not aware about the electricity connection in the premises where the incident occurred. PW-5 specifically stated that witness Jitendra (PW-2) had not disclosed to him that he had witnessed the accused firing shots at the deceased. He stated that PW-2 had only informed him that he had seen the accused coming out of the room; scaling the eastern wall and escaping with country made pistols in their hand. He stated that he did not prepare any seizure memo of the TV, fan, stool or the bulb that was in the room but their presence was disclosed in the site plan prepared by him. In respect of the height of the wall which was allegedly scaled by the accused to effect their escape, PW-5 stated that it must be 3 feet high though its height was not mentioned in the index of the site plan prepared by him. He stated that the distance between point "F" and "E" mentioned in the site plan would be around 35 paces. He stated that point "F" shown in the site plan is the place from where witnesses witnessed the accused scaling the wall while effecting their escape with the help of torch light. On being specifically questioned with regard to the distance between the wall and point "F", PW-5 stated that although that distance is not mentioned in the site plan but it must be around 14-15 paces. PW-5 stated that when the witnesses saw the accused scaling the wall while they were at point "F", the witnesses could notice the accused from the side (waist) but, immediately thereafter, he clarified by stating that when the accused were coming out of the door, the witnesses could have noticed the face also. He denied the suggestion that he completed the investigation while sitting at the police station.

STATEMENT UNDER SECTION 313 CrPC

12. After the prosecution evidence was closed, the incriminating circumstances appearing in the prosecution evidence were put to the accused. As co-accused Vinod has been acquitted by the trial court, we do not propose to notice the statement of co-accused Vinod recorded under Section 313 CrPC. In so far as the appellant Rameshwar is concerned, in his statement recorded under section 313 CrPC he denied the incriminating circumstances appearing in the prosecution evidence against him and claimed that he has been falsely implicated on account of village party bandi.

TRIAL COURT FINDING

13. The trial court by placing reliance on the statement of PW-2 convicted the accused-appellant Rameshwar. Accused Vinod was extended the benefit of doubt as he was not named in the first information report and that his name surfaced only in the statement of witnesses recorded during investigation.

SUBMISSIONS OF LEARNED COUNSEL FOR THE APPELLANT

14. Questioning the judgment and order of the trial court, the learned counsel for the appellant submitted that this is a case where the incident is of night; that the deceased was shot dead inside the room of his house; that none of the witnesses were residing with the deceased; that the site plan prepared by the I.O. did not disclose the presence of any external light; that the site plan also does not disclose that the house of PW-2 was adjoining the house of the deceased; that the first information report disclosed that the witnesses had only seen the accused escaping from the spot; that the other two witnesses whose names were mentioned in the first information report have not been examined by the prosecution; that the torch in the light of which the accused were seen escaping was of Deshraj, who has not been examined; that the statement of PW-2, the sole eye witness examined, is not wholly reliable; and that PW-2 not only makes improvement from his previous statement recorded under Section 161 CrPC but also makes improvement during the course of his deposition in court, therefore, it is a fit case where the accused-appellant be extended the benefit of doubt, particularly, when there is no corroboratory evidence in respect of participation of the accused-appellant in the crime. It has been submitted that the motive for the crime is not proved beyond doubt, inasmuch as, the motive for the crime shown in the first information report is in respect of animosity arising from a scuffle between the deceased and the accused-appellant that took place two years before the incident. Whatever animosity that might have been there, arising from that incident, stood erased with passage of time as also that the two had settled their differences on the intervention of villagers. Lastly, it was contended that since it is a case based on a single witness testimony and the informant, namely, PW-1, has also stated that he had not named the accused-appellant in the FIR, the appellant is entitled to the benefit of doubt.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE STATE

15. Per contra, learned AGA submitted that the first information report of the incident was promptly lodged; that there is no suggestion to the prosecution witnesses including the informant that the incident was of some other time than what is alleged in the first information report; that there is no suggestion with regard to the ante-timing of the first information report; that, admittedly, two gunshots were fired therefore the witnesses could have arrived at the spot after hearing the first gunshot and it is highly probable that the witnesses, upon arrival, noticed the accused exiting the the room where the deceased was shot and while they were scaling the wall of the house; that, admittedly, there was a bulb lit in the room and there was also a torch hence there was sufficient light to witness the accused escaping soon after the incident; that since no animosity is suggested between the accused-appellant and the witness PW-2, the trial court was justified in convicting the accused-appellant as he was named in the first information report and also in the statement recorded during the course of investigation and further, his participation in the crime was proved by the testimony of PW-2. Learned AGA, therefore, prayed that the appeal be dismissed and the conviction and sentence recorded by the court below be affirmed.

ANALYSIS

16. Having noticed the rival submissions and having noticed the entire prosecution evidence, before we proceed to evaluate the prosecution evidence we may remind ourselves that this is a case where the prosecution relies on a sole witness testimony. The law is settled that on the testimony of a sole witness conviction can be sustained provided the witness is wholly reliable and his testimony is unimpeachable and of a stellar quality.

17. In Anil Phukan vs State Of Assam, (1993) 3 SCC 282, the Supreme Court held as follows:-

"..... Conviction can be based on the testimony of a single eye-witness and there is no rule of law or evidence which says to the contrary provided the sole eye witness passes the test of reliability. So long as the single eye-witness is a wholly reliable witness the courts have no difficulty in basing conviction on his testimony alone. However, where the single eye- witness is not found to be a wholly reliable witness, in the sense that there are some circumstances which may show that he could have an interest in the prosecution, then the courts generally insist upon some independent corroboration of his testimony, in material particulars, before recording conviction"

18. In State of Rajasthan v. Bhola Singh, AIR 1994 SC 542, the aforesaid statement of law was reiterated in the following words:

"It is well settled that if the case rest only on the sole evidence of the eye-witness, such testimony should be wholly reliable."

19. In Bhimapa Chandapa Hosamani and others v. State of Karnataka, (2006) 11 SCC 323, the apex court reiterated the law in the following words:-

"This Court has repeatedly observed that on the basis of the testimony of a single eye witness a conviction may be recorded, but it has also cautioned that while doing so the Court must be satisfied that the testimony of the solitary eye witness is of such sterling quality that the Court finds it safe to base a conviction solely on the testimony of that witness. In doing so the Court must test the credibility of the witness by reference to the quality of his evidence. The evidence must be free of any blemish or suspicion, must impress the Court as wholly truthful, must appear to be natural and so convincing that the Court has no hesitation in recording a conviction solely on the basis of the testimony of a single witness."

20. In a recent decision in the case of Jagdish and others v. State of Haryana, (2019) 7 SCC 711, again, the Supreme Court reiterated the law by observing "conviction on basis of a solitary eyewitness is undoubtedly sustainable if there is reliable evidence cogent and convincing in nature along with surrounding circumstances."

21. Having noticed the observations of the Supreme Court on the issue as to when on a single witness testimony conviction can be sustained, we are of the view that, though, there is no bar in basing conviction on the testimony of a single eye-witness but, before doing so, the court must carefully scrutinise the evidence to be satisfied that it is free of any blemish or suspicion, is wholly truthful and appears natural and convincing, that is, in short, it is intrinsically reliable, inherently probable and wholly trustworthy.

22. In the instant case, the first information report was lodged by disclosing the name of three persons, namely, Jitendra (PW-2), Deshraj and Dharmo, as witnesses. In his deposition in court, PW-1, the informant, states that the information was lodged as per information received from Dharmo, who has not been examined. During the course of investigation, the torch of Deshraj was seized and its custody was handed over to Deshraj. But, surprisingly, Deshraj has not been examined by the prosecution. The only witness examined by the prosecution is PW-2 (Jitendra Singh). In the testimony of PW-2 what is consistent is that PW-2 was having dinner in his house at the time when he heard noise of a gunshot. After hearing the noise of first gunshot, he rushed to the spot. In his statement before the investigating officer, recorded under Section 161 CrPC, the witness had not disclosed of having witnessed the accused firing gunshots at the deceased. Rather, he disclosed about having seen the accused escaping by scaling the eastern wall of the house. However, during his deposition in Court, he makes considerable improvement by stating that he witnessed firing of gunshots at the deceased. But, PW-2 is not consistent even here. At one portion, he says that after hearing the first gunshot he arrived at the spot and after his arrival, Deshraj and Dharmo arrived. Deshraj had a torch. In this part of his statement, PW-2 stated that after hearing the first gunshot when he arrived, he saw Rameshwar firing a second gunshot at the deceased. Later, in his deposition, PW-2 stated that he witnessed both shots that were fired at the deceased. In the latter part of his statement, PW-2 stated that Vinod fired a shot which hit the deceased on his side, near the neck region; whereas, the shot fired by Rameshwar struck the abdomen of the deceased. At one place, this witness states that Deshraj and Dharmo had arrived after his arrival at the spot whereas at another stage, he states that he, Deshraj and Dharmo simultaneously arrived at the spot. Notably, PW-2 was confronted with his previous statement recorded under Section 161 CrPC where he had not disclosed that he witnessed the accused firing shot at the deceased. The investigating officer who had recorded the statement of PW-2 under Section 161 CrPC specifically stated, during his cross examination, as follows:-

"गवाह जितेन्द्र ने गोली मारने वाली बात तथा मुलजिमानो द्वारा गोली मारते हुवे देखने की बात नही बताई थी। परन्तु यह बताया था कि उसने विनोद व रामेश्वर को कमरे से निकल कर पूर्व की दिवार कूद कर भागते हुये देखा था उनके हाथो मे कट्टे थे।"

The inconsistencies in the statement of PW-2, noticed above, in our view, renders the witness as not a wholly reliable one.

23. In addition to above, the autopsy report of the deceased would suggest that two shots were fired at the deceased from a close distance. The house of the deceased was a single room house and in front of that room there was a courtyard. The site plan prepared by the I.O., which is at the instance of the witnesses who witnessed the incident including Jitendra, would suggest that one set of witness came from east and the other set came from west. The spot from where those witnesses witnessed is shown by point "F'. In the index of the site plan "E' is the point where the witnesses heard the gunshot. In the testimony of PW-5, the distance between "E' and "F' is 35 paces. Point E is not located inside the house of any one but falls in the lane. From the testimony of PW-2 it is clear that he was having dinner in his house when he heard first gun shot. Whereafter, he rushed to the spot. The house of PW-2 is not shown in the site plan therefore, if point "E' is the spot where the witness heard the shot, it would be the point where he heard the second gun shot and not the first because, as per the evidence, the first was heard while the witness was having dinner in his house. The point "F', as per the testimony of PW-5, is 14-15 paces away from the wall scaled by the accused to escape from the spot. Notably, the height of that wall is 2½ to 3 feet, which means that it would not take much effort to scale it. From the testimony of PW-2, it appears, the place from where he witnessed the accused scaling the wall he could notice only the side profile of the accused, which is evident from his statement extracted below:-

"जब मुलजिमान दीवार कूद कर भाग रहे थे तब इनकी मेरी तरफ कमर थी मुंह नही था।"

24. To get out of this situation, the I.O. in his testimony sought to suggest that when the accused were exiting the room by using the door, their face would have been towards the witnesses thus the witnesses had the opportunity to notice the face of the accused. Assuming that this was the case, then another question that would arise is whether a man standing in darkness and looking towards light, could visualize the face of a person, which is towards darkness, when light is falling on the back of that person. Importantly, presence of light is not shown outside the room. Bulb shown is inside the room, which had one door. Notably, it is not disclosed that the room had a window. Thus, when the accused would have exited that door, light of the bulb, if any, would be falling on their back. Ordinarily, in our view, in such a situation, it would be difficult for a person to clearly see the face of a man, facing darkness, particularly, when light is falling on that man's back. Interestingly, PW-2 states that he knew both Rameshwar and the co-accused Vinod. If he had actually recognized the face of the two accused, both would have been named. But here only one is named. Surprisingly, Deshraj, the one to arrive with torch in his hand, has not been examined. In such a situation, a question would arise whether the prosecution has been successful in proving existence of torch light to recognise the accused. On this aspect, we may observe that there is inconsistency in the statement of PW-2 as to whether Deshraj arrived at the spot simultaneously with PW-2 or later. Therefore, it can not be determined with certainty whether there existed the benefit of torch light at the moment when the accused were exiting the room through its door. In our view, the evidence led by the prosecution fails to establish beyond doubt that the two accused could be recognised while exiting the door, particularly, when the night was dark and no proven source of light was present outside the room more so, when the person whose torch is said to have been used has not been examined. It, therefore, appears to us that this a case where the name of the accused, which came to mind first, on account of past enmity, was mentioned in the FIR out of strong suspicion. In these circumstances, prompt lodging of a named FIR by itself would be no guarantee for the credibility of the testimony of PW-2, particularly when, according to the testimony of PW-1 (the informant), the FIR was on the basis of information provided by Dharmoo, who has not been examined. In addition to above, PW-1 at the fag end of his deposition stated that the name of the appellant was not disclosed to him.

25. In view of the analysis above, considering that it is a case of night incident, the prosecution has examined a solitary eye witness, whose testimony is not of a stellar quality; that two gunshots were fired in quick succession, not preceded by altercation, it would have been a split second affair; that the witnesses arrived at the spot from different places after hearing gunshots while they were within the confines of their own home, thereby taking time to arrive; that initial report was of seeing the accused while they were scaling the wall to escape therefore, bearing in mind that the presence of light outside the room has not been satisfactorily proved, there was very little scope for the witnesses to recognize the accused. Further, the statement of PW-2 that he witnessed firing of gunshot by the appellant on the abdomen of the deceased is for the first time in court and is a gross improvement from his previous statement. Consequently, keeping in mind that it is a case based on a single eye witness testimony who is not wholly reliable as discussed above, we are of the considered view that the appellant is entitled to the benefit of doubt.

26. For all the reasons above, the accused-appellant Rameshwar is extended the benefit of doubt as has been extended to co-accused Vinod by the trial court. The appeal is allowed. The judgment and order of the trial court convicting and sentencing the appellant Rameshwar is set aside. The accused-appellant is acquitted of the charge for which he has been tried and convicted. It appears from the record of this appeal that though, earlier, the appellant was released on bail but, on account of absence of his counsel non bailable warrants were issued against the appellant and, in pursuance whereof, the appellant has been taken into custody. Accordingly, the appellant-Rameshwar shall be released forthwith, subject to compliance of the provisions of Section 437-A CrPC to the satisfaction of the trial court.

27. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the court below along with the record for information and compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 2541 of 2011

Shyam Mishra ...Appellant (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri L.M. Singh, Sri K.Kumar Tripathi

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32- The only evidence that remains against the appellant is the dying declaration- A dying declaration is admissible under Section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act as an exception to the general rule against hearsay evidence. The principle of admissibility of a dying declaration is based on a maxim "Nemo Moriturus Praesumitur Mentire" i.e. a man will not meet his maker with a lie in his mouth. Even an uncorroborated dying declaration can be the basis of conviction, if it is found truthful and unblemished.

Settled law that conviction can be secured solely on the basis of the dying declaration provided the same is found to be truthful, cogent and credible by the court.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32- Assuming that the dying declaration was recorded in complete secrecy to maintain its confidentiality, it is quite strange that a daughter, who has been admitted in the hospital with burn injuries, would not inform her father for five days about the incident, particularly, when there is evidence that her father (PW 1), the informant, and other family members had met her several times in the hospital. This fact itself makes the dying declaration doubtful.

Where the deceased did not inform her parents and relatives for several days about the occurrence, as stated in the dying declaration, then the said non-disclosure would render the dying declaration doubtful.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32- The first information report sets up dowry as a motive for the crime whereas in the dying declaration, there is no mention of dowry but something which finds no mention in the FIR, this creates a doubt on the truthfulness of the dying declaration.

The mentioning of a motive in the dying declaration different from the one alleged in the FIR , would render the dying declaration doubtful.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32- The deceased was not only in great pain but was suffering from breathing trouble as well hence oxygen inhalation was also advised. In such a situation whether she was in a fit state of mind or in a delusional state is difficult to fathom. In such circumstances, acting on the dying declaration, which finds no corroboration from the testimony of other witnesses, would be unsafe, particularly, when it makes certain allegations which are at variance with the prosecution case- it would be unsafe to rely upon dying declaration of such a person, particularly, when it has no corroboration from other evidences.

An uncorroborated dying declaration of its maker whose mental fitness is doubtful cannot be safely relied upon by the courts.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32- The dying declaration appears suspicious and highly doubtful more so, when it is not recorded in a question and answer form and does not appear to be in the language of the deceased. We may hasten to clarify that though it is not a rule that a dying declaration cannot be accepted unless it is in the own language of the declarant or is in a question answer form. But where there is a serious challenge to the fitness of its maker at the time of recording and there are circumstances that render the dying declaration doubtful, non-recording of the declaration in the language of the deceased and in a question answer form is an additional circumstance throwing doubt on its genuineness.

Where the fitness of the maker of the dying declaration is doubtful, the dying declaration is not corroborated from other evidence, then not recording the dying declaration in the language of the deceased and in question answer form, would further render the dying declaration doubtful.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32 - The dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2) was recorded after five days of admission of the deceased in the hospital, which is against the guidelines laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Kushal Rao Vs State of Bombay (supra) wherein it has been held that the same should recorded at the earliest.

Settled law that dying declaration has to be recorded at the earliest available opportunity.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32-Number of persons of the neighbourhood had gathered at the place of incident but the prosecution did not examine any of them. Had they been examined, a correct picture of the case could be had and the doubts shrouding the dying declaration might have been dispelled both in terms of the condition of its maker and the truthfulness of its contents-No doubt, a dying declaration is a valuable piece of evidence but it has to be considered as another piece of evidence and has to be judged in the light of surrounding circumstances and with reference to the principles governing the weighing evidence and if it is not found wholly trustworthy or truthful, it should not form the sole basis of conviction without corroboration.

Not examining the neighbours and other independent witnesses where the dying declaration is doubtful and the same remaining uncorroborated by other evidence cannot lead the court to secure the conviction of the accused solely on the basis of such dying declaration.

Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Sections 3 & 32- The husband of deceased, was examined as DW-2. He had admitted the deceased in the hospital. He stated that his wife (deceased) had stopped speaking after first day of admission as her condition started deteriorating. Prosecution failed to give any suggestion to discredit his testimony. Therefore, from this angle too, the dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2) appears doubtful because if the condition of the deceased had deteriorated so much by the second day of the incident, how could her dying declaration be recorded on the 6th day- The law can be summarised to the effect that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant parts thereof which are admissible in law, can be used by the prosecution or the defence.

Settled law that the testimony of the witnesses of defence have to be given the same weight as the witnesses of prosecution and therefore the relevant and legally admissible parts of the testimony of a hostile witness can be taken into consideration by the court. 1. As these three appeals arise out of common judgment and order dated 04.04.2011 passed by Sessions Judge, Ramabai Nagar in connected Session Trial Nos. 228 of 2008 and 232 of 2008, they have been heard together and are being decided by a common judgment and order.

2. Criminal Appeal Nos. 2542 of 2011, 2173 of 2011 and 2541 of 2011 are against the judgment and order dated 04.04.2011 passed by Sessions Judge, Ramabai Nagar in Sessions Trial Nos. 228 of 2008 and 232 of 2008, by which, the appellants have been convicted under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and awarded imprisonment for life with a fine of Rs. 10,000/- each and default sentence of six months additional imprisonment.

3. We have heard Sri Kamlesh Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel for the appellants in all the three appeals; Sri J.K. Upadhyay, learned AGA for the State and have perused the record.

4. The prosecution story, in brief, is that on 20.10.2007 Lalla (PW-1) lodged an FIR against the appellants and four others by alleging that on 08.06.2006 his daughter Reeta (deceased) was married to Ram Mishra. In the marriage, PW-1 gave lot of dowry but her in-laws harassed her for a motorcycle. Informant's daughter on return to her paternal home, informed that her in-laws used to harass and assault her for motorcycle and if their demand is not met, they will kill her. As a result, PW-1 spent additional Rs. 20,000/- at the time of Bidai of her daughter. On 01.10.2007, his daughter was badly beaten by her in-laws and her husband Ram Mishra brought her to her native village. Thereafter, on 11.10.2007, the husband of Reeta (deceased) along with his brothers Shyam Mishra (appellant of Criminal Appeal No. 2542 of 2011) and Vinay came to the village to fetch informant's daughter (Reeta) and Reeta (the deceased) went with them. On 12.07.2007, Siddh Nath (PW-3), elder son-in-law of the informant (PW-1), arrived at the matrimonial home of Reeta (the deceased), where, he witnessed that on the instigation of Pramod (Nandoi of deceased), Ram Mishra (husband of the deceased), Smt. Sarojani Devi (mother-in-law of the deceased/appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2541 of 2011), sister-in-laws of the deceased, namely, Smt. Rashmi (appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2173 of 2011) and Rubi, brothers-in-law of the deceased, namely, Shyam Mishra (appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2542 of 2011) and Vinay, were assaulting Reeta (the deceased) and Shyam Mishra (appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2542 of 2011) poured kerosene oil on Reeta and ablazed her. By the time the fire could be doused, Reeta got burnt extensively. Later, on threats extended by the police, the husband of the deceased along with Siddh Nath (PW-3) took Reeta to Halet hospital and got her admitted there; where, on 18.10.2007, at about 9.30 PM, Reeta expired.

5. During investigation, Investigating Officer recorded the statement of witnesses and collected evidence in respect of the treatment provided to the deceased in the Halet hospital. The Investigating Officer also copied the dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2) of the deceased recorded by Madan Singh Garbiyal, ACM 5th Kanpur City (PW-4) and submitted charge-sheet against the appellants, namely, Shyam Mishra (Devar of the deceased), Rashmi (Nanand of the deceased) and Sarojni (mother-in-law of the deceased), under Sections 498A, 304B IPC and ¾ D.P. Act. No charge-sheet was filed against rest of the accused including deceased's husband Ram Mishra, apparently, because there was no accusation against them by the deceased in her dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2). In between, upon information regarding death of deceased, inquest report (Ext. ka-4) was prepared and autopsy of the body of the deceased was conducted on 19.10.2007 at about 7.10 PM. In the autopsy report (Ext. Ka-12), PW-6 (the Autopsy Surgeon), noticed following ante-mortem injuries:-

"Burn superficial to deep, present all over the body except soles of both feet. Pus pockets present all over the body."

According to the doctor, deceased died due to shock and septicaemia due to ante mortem burn injury.

6. After taking cognizance on the charge-sheet, the case was committed to the court of Session and, on 21.01.2009, trial court framed the charges against the appellants under Sections 498A, 304B IPC and ¾ D.P. Act. Later, on 23.09.2010, an alternate charge under Section 302 IPC read with Section 34 IPC was also framed against the appellants.

7. During trial, prosecution examined 13 witnesses. Out of 13 witnesses, Lalla, the informant (PW-1), Neeraj Mishra (PW-2) and Siddh Nath (PW-3) are witnesses of fact; PW-4 recorded the dying declaration; and rest are formal witnesses. After prosecution evidence was closed, trial court recorded the statement of appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. All the appellants denied the allegations levelled against them and stated that deceased sustained burn injuries accidentally while cooking food. Two defence witnesses, namely Daya Shanker Tiwari (DW-1) and Ram Mishra (DW-2), the husband of the deceased, were also examined. The trial court found appellants guilty and convicted and sentenced them under Section 302/34 IPC.

Submissions advanced on behalf of the appellants

8. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that during trial all the prosecution witnesses of fact turned hostile and they did not support the version of the FIR. The only evidence against the appellants is the dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2), dated 17.10.2007, recorded by ACM 5th Kanpur City (PW-4). Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that as the sole evidence against the appellants remained the dying declaration, it was necessary for the trial court to look for its corroboration and since the trial court convicted the appellants without looking for its corroboration, its judgment is liable to be set aside. He also submitted that the deceased had sustained 95% burns, therefore, it was highly improbable that she would be in a position to give a declaration, that too, after five days. Hence, it will not be safe to act upon such dying declaration, particularly, in absence of corroboration. He further submitted that the deceased was admitted in the hospital on 12.10.2007, whereas her dying declaration was recorded on 17.10.2007 i.e. after five days. The prosecution failed to provide any explanation in this regard. In such circumstances the possibility of the dying declaration being tutored cannot be ruled out. Learned counsel for the appellants also submitted that from the testimony of prosecution witnesses it is apparent that deceased was not in a fit condition to give dying declaration. Moreover, there is no disclosure in the dying declaration as to what was the motive for the appellants to eliminate the deceased. In absence of disclosure of motive the dying declaration appears completely untrustworthy yet, the trial court, without considering all these aspects, treated the dying declaration as gospel truth. It is submitted that the trial court did not properly consider the testimony of defence witnesses and thereby erred in law as well as facts and as such as judgment is liable to be set aside.

Submissions advanced on behalf of the State

9. Per contra, learned AGA submitted that the trial court rightly convicted the appellants; that the law is well settled that even uncorroborated dying declaration can on its own form the basis of conviction if it is found truthful and blemish free; and that in the present case dying declaration was recorded by Executive Magistrate who was examined before the trial court and proved the same. Moreover, the doctor provided a certificate of fitness of the deceased. Therefore, dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2) can safely be relied upon to record conviction even without corroboration. Learned AGA also submitted that even if deceased sustained 95% burn injuries she could give the dying declaration therefore, merely on the quantum of burns, dying declaration cannot be discarded. Learned AGA submitted that lodging of the FIR is duly proved and since it alleges that the appellants as well as other accused persons were harassing the deceased for want of dowry, therefore, even if, during trial, the informant and other prosecution witnesses did not support the version of the FIR, it can be taken into consideration as a corroboratory material. The learned AGA submitted that the appeals filed by the appellants are, therefore, liable to be dismissed.

10. We have given our anxious consideration to the rival contentions and have perused the record.

11. Before analysing the arguments of both sides, it would be apposite to notice the prosecution evidence, in brief.

PROSECUTION EVIDENCE.

12. Lalla, the informant, has been examined as PW-1. He is the father of the deceased. PW-1 stated that the marriage of his daughter Reeta (deceased) was performed with Ram Mishra about two and half years before. He stated that none of the appellants or their family members demanded a motorcycle in dowry and they never harassed his daughter (the deceased). PW-1 also stated that his daughter complained to him regarding her harassment or dowry demand. PW-1 stated that on 1.10.2007 neither the appellants nor anybody else assaulted the deceased and that on 11.10.2007 only Shyam Mishra (appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2542 of 2011) had come for her Bidai. PW-1 stated that he is not aware whether his elder son-in-law, namely, Siddh Nath (PW-3), had gone to the matrimonial home of his daughter on the day following her Bidai. PW-1 also stated that PW-3 did not inform him (PW-1) that the appellants assaulted the deceased at the instigation of her Nandoi, namely, Pramod. PW-1 stated that PW-3 also did not inform that appellant Shyam Mishra (appellant of Criminal Appeal No. 2542 of 2011) poured kerosene oil and set her ablaze. PW-1 stated that his daughter (the deceased) was admitted in Hallet Hospital by his son-in-law Ram and was provided medical treatment and she died there on 18.2.2007 at about 9.30 PM. PW-1 stated that appellant Shyam Mishra (the appellant of Criminal Appeal No. 2542 of 2011) had informed him about his daughter's death whereafter he arrived at Hallet Hospital. PW-1 stated that his daughter neither informed him nor any member of his family that the appellants or any other member of her husband's family demanded a motorcycle in dowry or had harassed her in that regard or that Shyam Mishra (the appellant in Criminal Appeal No.2542 of 2011) poured kerosene oil on her and set her ablaze.

PW-1 further stated that the written report (Ext. Ka-1) was written by Neeraj Mishra (PW-2) which was not read over to him though he had put his signature on it. PW-1 stated that after inquest and autopsy his daughter was cremated by her husband-Ram. At this stage, prosecution declared PW-1 hostile and requested for his cross-examination, which was accepted.

13. During cross-examination, PW-1 was confronted with his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. but PW-1 stated that he never gave any such statement to the Investigating Officer. PW-1 also stated that he did not dictate the written report to Neeraj Mishra (PW-2) and that PW-2 did write the report at the instance of the villagers. PW-1 also stated that before taking his signature, written report was not read over to him. PW-1 denied the suggestion that due to compromise, he is giving false statement. He also stated that he is not aware whether a dying declaration of his daughter (deceased) was recorded in the Hospital or not.

14. The defence also cross-examined PW-1. In his cross-examination at the instance of defence, PW-1 stated that written report (Ext.Ka-1) was not written before him and that he put his signature on a plain paper. He also stated that when he had put his signature on a plain paper his daughter was alive. PW-1 stated that when he put his signature on a plain paper he was told that this paper would be used in the Hospital. PW-1 stated that Chhunnu is his son and not brother. He added neither he was in a position to give motorcycle nor his son-in-law Ram (husband of the deceased) was in a position to fill petrol. He stated that he had never witnessed his son-in-law Ram driving a motorcycle. He also stated that the accused persons had informed him that his daughter Reeta (deceased) had sustained burn injuries while cooking food. He also stated that on the date of the incident he had arrived in the Hospital and his daughter had informed him that she sustained burn injuries while cooking food. PW-1 stated that after first day of her admission in Hospital, his daughter was not in a position to speak and could communicate through gestures only. He stated that the written report (Ext. Ka-1) is false and that his daughter Reeta (deceased) accidentally sustained burn injuries while cooking food.

15. Neeraj Mishra PW-2. He is the scribe of the FIR. He stated that on 20.10.2007 at about 8-10 PM when he was at his shop his relative Lalla (PW-1) and member of his family came. PW-2 wrote the report on the dictation of Chhunnu (not examined), the son of Lalla (PW-1). He stated that Lalla (PW-1) was also present but not near by and that the report was not read over to him (PW-1) and that the signature of Lalla (PW-1) was already there on the paper. PW-2, however, recognized his own signature on the written report (Ext. Ka-1) and affirmed that the report was written by him.

16. In his cross-examination, PW-2 stated that in respect of the written report

(Ext. Ka-1) he had no dialogue with Lalla (PW-1). He reiterated that the report was written at the instance of Chhunnu and villagers. He reiterated that Lalla (PW-1) had not put his signature on the report in his presence.

17. PW-2 added that Chhunnu is brother and not uncle of Reeta. He stated that on 13.10.2007 i.e. next day of the incident, he visited the hospital to see Rita and noticed that people were talking to Reeta (deceased) but he did not talk with her. He added that when he visited the hospital after the second day, Reeta (deceased) was not in a condition to speak.

18. Siddh Nath PW-3. He is elder son-in-law of the informant (PW-1) and brother-in-law (jija) of the deceased. PW-3 stated that he use to often visit the matrimonial home of the deceased. Her marriage was performed with Ram Mishra about three and a half years ago. Accused Shyam Mishra is younger brother of Ram Mishra; that Shyam Mishra neither demanded a motor cycle nor harassed the deceased in that connection. PW-3 stated that on 1.10.2007, he neither went to Chaubepur to fetch medicine nor he visited the matrimonial home of the deceased. He further stated that he did not witness the appellant- Shyam (appellant No. 2 in Crl. Appeal No. 2542 of 2011) pouring kerosene on the deceased and setting her ablaze. PW-3 stated that in the evening he received information that Rita (deceased) has sustained burn injuries and has been admitted in Hallet Hospital. He stated that he had no conversation with the deceased in the hospital; and that Shyam Mishra (appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2542 of 2011) and his family members did not ablaze her on account of non-fulfilment of motorcycle demand. At this stage, prosecution declared PW-3 hostile and sought permission to cross-examine him, which was granted.

19. In his cross examination, PW-3 was confronted with his earlier statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., however, PW-3 denied having given any such statement to the investigating Officer.

20. Thereafter defence cross-examined PW-3. In this cross-examination, PW-3 stated that both sides were very poor. Neither informant side was in a position to give motorcycle nor the accused side was in a position to fill petrol. PW-3 also stated that when he initially went to the hospital, the deceased informed him that she had sustained injuries while cooking food. Later, whenever he visited the hospital, he found Rita (deceased) not in a fit condition to speak. He then clarified that she could speak in soft tones and sometimes she could not even speak but finally on the day she died, she had stopped speaking.

21. Madan Singh Garbiyal-Additional City Magistrate, Kanpur City has been examined as PW-4. He stated that on 17.10.2007, he was posted as ACMM, Kanpur. He recorded the dying declaration of Rita Mishra (deceased) in L.R. Hospital. PW-4 proved the dying declaration as Ext. Ka-2. He stated that at the time of recording the dying declaration, Dr. S.B. Mishra (PW-5) was present and had certified that the deceased was in a fit condition to make her declaration. He stated that the dying declaration started at 6:55 pm and was completed at 7:35 pm. PW-4 stated that after completing the recording again certificate of the doctor was taken. He stated that during her declaration, deceased was in a fit condition and that the statement made by her was read over to her.

22. In his cross-examination, PW-4 stated that the doctor provided a second certificate of fitness before thumb impression of the declaration was taken. He stated that as the doctor had issued the certificate he believes that the deceased was fit. He stated that the body of the deceased was burnt and bandaged. He could not recollect whether the face of the deceased was burnt or not. PW-4, however, stated that there was no bandage on the face of the deceased. PW-4 stated that he wrote the declaration by putting questions to the deceased and not at one go. He stated that his statement was not recorded by the Investigating Officer. PW-4, however, denied the suggestion that a false statement was recorded while sitting in the office. He also denied the suggestion that deceased was not in a fit condition to give the statement.

On 30.1.2010, PW-4 was recalled for re-examination. In his re-examination PW-4 stated that the deceased died on 18.10.2007 at about 9:30 pm and he prepared the inquest report. He proved the inquest report as Ext. Ka-4. In his cross-examination, PW-4 stated that only once he received information for recording the dying declaration and on first information he went to record the dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2). He also stated that in the dying declaration he took the impression of the left toe of the deceased as both her hands were burnt.

23. Dr. S. B. Mishra PW-5. He is the emergency Medical Officer Officer posted at Lala Lajpat Rai Hospital, Kanpur. He stated that on 12.10.2007 he was posted at the hospital. At 1:05 pm, he examined the injured (Reeta) who was brought by her husband. On examination it was noticed:-

"General examination:- general condition-under observation; pulse rate-not recordable; breathing rate 28 per minute; blood pressure-not recordable. Heart condition was alright. Stomach was distended.

The patient was conscious but irritable. On inquiry, it was informed that about 1 and 1/2 hours before she had sustained burn injuries. The patient was 95% burnt and was complaining of pain and burning sensation.

Local examination:- a superficial to deep burns present all over the face, head, body on both front and back excluding both feet, both soles and part of lower chest. Line of redness present. Skin had peeled off at some places. Blisters were also present at some places. Hair on the head were singed."

PW-5 stated that injured was admitted in the hospital as a case of Thermal Burn injuries and was placed under the treatment of Dr. R.K. Singh (PW-11). According to PW-5 all the injuries were fresh and caused due to burns and they could have been sustained due to dry as well as moist heat. PW-5 proved the injury report of the deceased as Ext. Ka-10. He further stated that on 12.10.2007 information was sent to the Magistrate for recording of the dying declaration of Rita Mishra (deceased) and, thereafter, on 13.10.2007 a reminder was sent. PW-5 stated that after recording of dying declaration, he made an endorsement that on 17.10.2007 dying declaration of the injured was recorded by Mr. Madan Singh Garbiyal A.C.M. (5th). PW-5 also proved the information letter as Ext. Ka-11.

PW-5 further stated that on 17.10.2007 at 6:55 PM he issued a certificate that Smt. Reeta Mishra (deceased) was fully conscious and fit to give dying declaration. PW-5 stated that after recording of the dying declaration the impression of the left toe of the deceased was taken and, thereafter he again certified the fitness of Smt. Rita Mishra w/o Ram Mishra to the effect that during the recording of dying declaration she was fit and conscious.

24. In his cross-examination, PW-5 stated that when a dying declaration is recorded only the Doctor and the Magistrate are present. He denied the suggestions that the Magistrate had been coming but the dying declaration was not recorded; and that the dying declaration was not recorded in the hospital. He also denied the suggestion that he issued wrong certificate and that the deceased was not in a fit condition to give her declaration. PW-5 further stated that septicaemia can commence within 36 hours or 2 days of receiving injury. He stated that ordinarily a person takes 3 to 4 days to die after commencement of septicaemia. PW-5 stated that there is no difference between thermal burns and kerosene burns. He stated that on 12.10.2007 he sent the information for recording of dying declaration as the condition of the deceased was very serious and from 12.10.2007, till recording of the statement, condition of the patient was low. PW-5 stated that he did not provide treatment to the deceased as Dr. R.K. Singh (PW-13) was treating her. PW-5 admitted that the doctor who provides the treatment can tell about the general condition of the patient but any qualified doctor can also tell about the general condition of the patient. He denied the suggestion that only the doctor who provides the treatment to the patient can give a correct picture about the condition of the patient.

25. Dr. Autar Singh PW-6. This witness proved the post mortem report as Ext. Ka-12. During post mortem of the body of the deceased, PW-6 noticed:-

"Ante mortem injuries- burn superficial to deep, present all over body except soles of both feet. Hair were also burnt. Puss pockets present all over the body. According to the doctor deceased died due to shock and septicaemia caused by burn injuries."

26. During cross-examination PW-6 stated that there was bandage all over including the face except eyes and lips. He stated that septicaemia had spread all over the body. After commencement of septicaemia there can be no definite estimate as to when the person will die because it depends upon the resistance power of the patient and the treatment but, ordinarily, a person may die within a week. PW-6 stated in a case of deep burn, no blister may form.

27. PW-7 Sundar Lal, Circle Officer. He is the first Investigating Officer of the case. He proved the site plan. He stated that he recorded the statement of witnesses and after the permission of Chief Judicial Magistrate, perused the dying declaration of the deceased. He proved the application seeking permission as Ext. Ka-14. He stated that he noted down the dying declaration of the deceased in the case dairy. According to this witness, on the basis of dying declaration, the implication of co-accused Ram (husband), Vinay (brother in law), Rubi (Sister in law) and Pramod (Behnoi) was found false.

28. During cross-examination PW-7 stated that he did not record the statement of Doctor S.B. Mishra (PW-5). He further stated that he did not make any inquiry in respect of the treatment provided to the deceased. He also stated that he did not record the statement of Magistrate who recorded the dying declaration of the deceased. PW-7 further stated that in the dying declaration, the name of Chhunnu, uncle of the deceased, had surfaced but he neither recorded his statement nor inquired about him. PW-7 also stated that he did not record the statement of the deceased.

29. Prem Prakash PW-8. He is the third Investigating Officer of the case. After recording the statement of few witnesses and perusal of earlier Parchas, he submitted charge sheet against the appellants- Shyam Mishra (appellant in Crl. Appeal No. 2542 of 2011). The charge sheet was marked Ext. Ka 15. He continued the investigation against Rashmi (appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2173 of 2011) and Sarojani Devi (appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2541 of 2011) and submitted charge sheet against them, which was proved and marked Ext. Ka-16.

30. During cross-examination, PW-8 stated that he made inquiry from independent witnesses, namely, Meera Mishra, Daya Shanker Tiwari, etc. who stated that husband-Ram Mishra, brother-in-law-Vinay Mishra, Behnoi-Pramod Mishra and sister-in-law-Kumari Ruby were not present at the spot. PW-8 also stated that Meera Mishra (not examined) had stated that fire was extinguished by mother-in-law Sarojani (appellant in Crl. Appeal No. 2541 of 2011); sister-in-law Rashmi (appellant in Crl. Appeal No. 2173 of 2011) and brother-in-law Shyam (appellant in Crl. Appeal No. 2542 of 2011). He stated that witness Meera Mishra did not inform him as to who burn the deceased.

31. Subhash Chandra Shakya PW-9. He is the second Investigating Officer of the present case. This witness did not record statement of any witness except the statement of the informant (PW-1).

32. Constable-Ashok Kumar Dwivedi PW-10. He proved the Chik report of the case as Ext. ka-17 and G.D. of the registration of the case as Ext. Ka-18. PW-10 in his examination-in-chief, dated 03.11.2010, stated that the deceased died on 18.10.2007 at about 9:30 pm in the hospital and this information was given through phone, which was noted in G.D. He proved the said G.D. entry as Ext. Ka 22.

33. Dr. R.K. Singh PW-11. He is the doctor who provided medical treatment to the deceased Reeta Mishra. He stated that the deceased was brought to the hospital by her husband. He provided medical treatment to her from 12.10.2007 to 18.10.2007. During the course of treatment, she died on 18.10.2007 at 9:00 pm. PW-11 proved her bed head ticket (B.H.T.)as Ext. Ka-19. He stated that during treatment, the patient was conscious. He stated that he made an endorsement on the B.H.T. for recording the dying declaration and information in this regard was sent to doctor S.B. Mishra, Emergency Medical Officer (PW-5). There is an endorsement on the B.H.T. made by doctor S.B. Mishra (PW-5) in respect of sending information for recording the dying declaration. PW-11 stated that the Magistrate, Sri Madan Singh Garbiyal ACM 5th (PW-4), made an endorsement on the B.H.T. regarding recording of dying declaration and has put his signature. PW-11 stated that it is the responsibility of Emergency Medical Officer to provide a certificate of fitness of the patient whose dying declaration is to be recoded. He stated that on 17.10.2007, the day when the dying declaration of the deceased was recorded, Sri S.B. Mishra (PW-5) was the Emergency Medical Officer. PW-11 stated that as per entry in the of B.H.T, the dying declaration was recorded on 17.10.2007. PW-11 stated that the date of recording of dying declaration was not written before him and he cannot say who wrote it. PW-11 stated that he cannot state as to who made the endorsement "D/D noted by me" in B.H.T. (Ext. Ka-19). He stated that the endorsement on the B.H.T (Ext. Ka-19) "call for recording D/D sent to Magistrate", dated 17.10.2007, was neither written before him nor he can tell the name of the person who wrote it.

Note:- On perusal of the first page of Ext. Ka-19 (B.H.T), we found that on the margin (left side) it is noted "cell phone recording D/D sent to Magistrate". At the bottom of which there appears a signature, which appears to be sign of (PW-5) Dr. S.B. Mishra.

34. PW-11 denied the suggestion that deceased-Rita Mishra had died on 17.10.2007 and that the dying declaration of the deceased-Rita Mishra was noted after her death. PW-11 stated that on the first page of Ext. Ka 19 (B.H.T) there is an initial of a Junior Doctor below the written endorsement "D/D to be recorded" but he does not know whose initial it is. PW-11 further stated that he did not himself make any noting on the B.H.T with regard to the dying declaration. He stated that during the course of treatment he did not get any information about the dying declaration. PW-11 stated that Doctor S. B. Mishra (PW-5) who provided the fitness certificate was not in the team of junior doctors assisting him. PW-5 also did not advise PW-11 during the course of treatment. PW-11 stated that 95% of the body of the deceased was burnt and only 5% remained and that the patient was continuously on a glucose drip. PW-11 stated that since the beginning patient was low and day by day her condition deteriorated and due to septicaemia, the condition of the patient became worse. During cross-examination PW-11 stated that it is his responsibility to look after the patient admitted under him and he would be the best judge of patient's condition but in his absence, in case of need, the junior doctor can always attend the patient.

35. Dr. Nirakar Dev PW-12. He stated that during 12.10.2007 to 18.10.2007, he was in Burn Ward of L.L.R. Hospital as Junior Resident and on 12.10.2007 at about 1:05 pm, Rita Mishra (deceased) was admitted in the hospital in that ward with bed No. 5. He stated that the deceased was admitted under the treatment of Dr. Rajkumar Singh (PW-11); that on 18.10.2007, at 9:30 pm, Reeta Mishra was declared dead by him. After her death, he sent information to the police station. He proved the information letter as Ext. Ka-20. He stated that on the last page of BHT (Ext. Ka-19) due to mistake the date of death of Reeta Mishra (deceased) is mentioned as 17.10.2007. He stated that on the 1st page of B.H.T. Dr. Pankaj Gupta (not examined) has noted the summary of the patient and has entered the date and time of her death as 18.10.2007 at 9.30 PM. He proved writing of Dr. Pankaj Gupta and the same was marked Ext. Ka-21.

36. In his cross-examination, PW-12 stated that in Ext. Ka-19 (B.H.T.) and Ext. Ka-21, his (PW-12's) name is not mentioned as one of the doctors in the team of doctors under R.K. Singh (PW-11) because he was posted in the burn ward. He stated that in Ext. Ka-19 (B.H.T.) and Ext. Ka-21 there are entries in the handwriting of five persons. He again stated that on page 22 of B.H.T. (Ext. Ka-19) due to mistake date of death has been mentioned as 17.10.2007 by Dr. Pankaj Gupta, which he noticed it today for the first time. He also stated that the condition of patient can only be disclosed by the doctor who provides treatment. He stated that on page 2 of the B.H.T. (Ext. Ka-19) the clinical history of the patient was written on the information furnished by the husband of the patient, namely, Ram Mishra. He denied the suggestion that Rita Mishra died on 17.10.2007. He also denied the suggestion that due to pressure exerted by the administration, on the B.H.T., the date of death was falsely entered as 18.10.2007.

37. Constable Virendra Kumar PW-13. He stated that on 18.10.2007, at about 22:50 hours, he received an information from the hospital regarding the death of the deceased, which was given by Om Prakash the ward boy of L.L.R. Hospital by way of a memo which disclosed that Reeta Mishra was admitted in the hospital on 12.10.2007 at 1.50PM and during treatment she died on 18.10.2007 at 9.30 AM. He noted the memo of death of the deceased in the G.D. vide Report No. 65 at 22.50 hours, which was marked Ext. Ka-23. He denied the suggestion that the information of death of the deceased was noted either in the G.D. dated 16.10.2007 or dated 17.10.2007.

38. After recording the evidence of prosecution witnesses, trial court recorded the statement of appellants under section 313 Cr.P.C. All the appellants denied the allegations levelled against them. They, however, admitted the factum of marriage and stated that the deceased died due to burn injuries sustained while cooking food. They also challenged the dying declaration by claiming that she was not in a condition to speak.

39. After recording the statement of accused, two defence witnesses were examined, namely, Dayashankar Tiwari (DW-1) and Ram Mishra, the husband of the deceased (DW-2).

Defence witnesses

40. Dayashankar Tiwari DW-1. He is a neighbour of Ram Mishra, the husband of the deceased (DW-2). He stated that the deceased sustained burn injuries accidentally while she was cooking food. He also stated that the deceased was never harassed for a motorcycle. He stated that Reeta Mishra (deceased) could speak only on the first day of her accident but thereafter she did not speak. In his cross-examination, PW-1 stated that after the incident he arrived at the spot. At that time none of the family member was present; when the deceased was taken to the hospital she was conscious and could speak. He denied the suggestion that being a neighbour he was giving false statement in favour of the appellants.

41. Ram Mishra (husband of the deceased) has been examined as DW-2.

He stated that the deceased was his wife; she died due to burn injures sustained while cooking food; that at the time of the incident, his wife was alone in the house and when he received information at his shop, he arrived and took his wife to Hallet Hospital where she died after 7-8 days. DW-2 stated that his wife (the deceased) had informed him that she got burnt while cooking food. DW-2 stated that he could converse with his wife Reeta Mishra only on the first day, thereafter, her condition deteriorated and she was not able to speak. DW-2 stated that before her parents his wife (deceased) informed him about receipt of burn injuries while cooking. He stated that there was no demand for a motorcycle; and that he is a poor person who cannot even afford petrol. DW-2 stated that Rashmi (appellant in Crl. Appeal No. 2173 of 2011) is his sister; she had given birth to her daughter just 5-6 days before the incident. He further stated that Shyam Mishra (appellant in Crl. Appeal No. 2542 of 2011) is his younger brother; he is a driver and used to take vehicles on long routes. He was away from home for last 10-15 days. After receiving information Shyam Mishra arrived, 4-5 days after the death of his wife. DW-2 also stated that due to 'Navratri' his mother, at the time of the incident, had gone to a temple. During cross-examination, DW-2 stated that in his house, food is cooked on gas. He received information at about 9:30 am. This information was given by his neighbour Daya Shanker Tiwari (DW-1). He stated that when he arrived at home, Shyam Mishra (appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2542 of 2011) was not present but his mother had just arrived from the temple. When he reached, by that time, neighbours had already extinguished the fire by using blankets etc. At that time he found his wife (deceased) in the kitchen and not in the room. DW-2 stated that when he arrived at the spot, he saw his neighbours Om Prakash Mishra, Daya Shanker Tiwari (DW-1) Ram Karan and Savita there. He denied the suggestion that with an intention to save his mother, brother and sister, he is giving false statement.

42. After recording the prosecution evidence, statement of appellants, under Section 313 Cr.P.C., and defence witnesses, trial court found appellants guilty, convicted them under Section 302 IPC read with Section 34 IPC and sentenced them to imprisonment for life. However, the appellants were acquitted under Sections 498A, 304B IPC and ¾ D.P. Act.

Analysis

43. In the present case, the informant (PW-1) father of the deceased and Siddh Nath (PW-3), who were set up as prosecution witnesses to prove demand of dowry and harassment of the deceased in connection therewith did not support the prosecution case therefore, prosecution declared them hostile.

44. Lalla (PW-1) categorically stated that his daughter (the deceased) was never harassed by the appellants and there was no demand of a motorcycle as dowry. He also stated that his daughter never informed him that due to want of dowry she was assaulted by the appellants or that Shyam Mishra (appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2542 of 2011) poured kerosene oil on her and set her on fire. PW-1 stated that the written report was written by Neeraj Mishra (PW-2) on blank signed papers and the report was not read over to him. When prosecution cross examined him, PW-1 stated that the written report (Ext. Ka-1) was not dictated by him and that Neeraj Mishra (PW-2) wrote at the instance of villagers. This witness (PW-1) has disowned the FIR of the present case. PW-1 also stated that he has no information as to whether the statement of deceased was recorded by anyone in the hospital.

45. Neeraj Mishra (PW-2) is the scribe of the FIR. He stated that the written report was written by him on the dictation of Chhunnu (not examined), the son of PW-1. He stated that he did not read over the report to PW-1 and that the signature of PW-1 was present on the plain paper even before he had written the report. Therefore, PW-2 supported PW-1 to the extent that the written report (Ext. Ka-1) is not authored by PW-1.

46. Siddh Nath (PW-3) is brother-in-law (Jija) of the deceased. According to the FIR, he was the eye witness of the incident but in his statement PW-3 stated that he was not present at the spot and he came to know about the incident later.

47. Thus, the only evidence that remains against the appellant is the dying declaration (Ext.Ka-2) recorded by Madan Singh Garbiyal (PW-4) ACM Kanpur City.

48. A dying declaration is admissible under Section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act as an exception to the general rule against hearsay evidence. The principle of admissibility of a dying declaration is based on a maxim "Nemo Moriturus Praesumitur Mentire" i.e. a man will not meet his maker with a lie in his mouth. Even an uncorroborated dying declaration can be the basis of conviction, if it is found truthful and unblemished.

49 . In Khushal Rao Vs. State of Bombay AIR 1958 SC 22 a three judge Bench of the Supreme Court, after discussing the law in detail, observed as follows:-

"16. On a review of the relevant provisions of the Evidence Act and of the decided cases in the different High Courts in India and in this Court, we have come to the conclusion, in agreement with the opinion of the Full Bench of the Madras High Court, aforesaid, (1) that it cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborated; (2) that each case must be determined on its own facts keeping in view the circumstances in which the dying declaration was made ; (3) that it cannot be laid down as a general proposition that a dying declaration is a weaker kind of evidence than other pieces of evidence; (4) that a dying declaration stands on the same footing as another piece of evidence and has to be judged in the light of surrounding circumstances and with reference to the principles governing the weighing of evidence; (5) that a dying declaration which has been recorded by a competent magistrate in the proper manner, that is to say, in the form of questions -and answers, and, as far as practicable, in the words of the maker of the declaration, stands on a much higher footing than a dying declaration which depends upon oral testimony which may suffer from all the infirmities of human, memory and human character, and (6) that in order to test the reliability of a dying declaration, the Court has to keep in view the circumstances like the opportunity of the dying man for observation, for example, whether there was sufficient light if the crime was committed at night; whether the capacity of the man to remember the facts stated had not been impaired at the time he was making the statement, by circumstances beyond his control; that the statement has been consistent throughout if he had several opportunities of making a dying declaration apart from the official record of it-; and that the statement had been made at the earliest opportunity and was not the result of tutoring by interested parties.

17. Hence, in order to pass the test of reliability, a dying declaration has to be subjected to a very close scrutiny, keeping in view the fact that the statement has been made in the absence of the accused who had no opportunity of testing the veracity of the statement by cross-examination. But once the court has come to the conclusion that the dying declaration was the truthful version as to the circumstances of the death and the assailants of the victim, there is no question of further corroboration. If, on the other hand, the court, after examining the dying declaration in all its aspects, and testing its veracity has come to the conclusion that it is not reliable by itself, and that it suffers from an infirmity, then, without corroboration it cannot form the basis of a conviction. Thus, the necessity for corroboration arises not from any inherent weakness of a dying declaration as a piece of evidence, as held in some of the reported cases, but from the fact that the court, in a given case, has come to the conclusion that that particular dying declaration was not free from the infirmities referred to above or from such other infirmities as may be disclosed in evidence in that case."

50. Again in the case of Paniben Vs. State of Gujarat (1992) 2 SCC 474 the Supreme Court had the occasion to summarise the law in respect of dying declaration, in paragraph 18 of its judgment, as follows:-

"(i) There is neither rule of law nor of prudence that dying declaration cannot be acted upon without corroboration. (Munnu Raja Vs. State of M.P. (1976) 3 SCC 104).

(ii) If the Court is satisfied that the dying declaration is true and voluntary it can base conviction on it, without corroboration. State of U.P. Vs. Ram Sagar Yadav (1985) 1 SCC 552 Ramawati Devi Vs. State of Bihar (1983) 1 SCC 211.

(iii) This Court has to scrutinise the dying declaration carefully and must ensure that the declaration is not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination. The deceased had opportunity to observe and identify the assailants and was in a fit state to make the declaration. K. Ramachandra Reddy Vs. Public Prosecutor (1976) 3 SCC 618

(iv) Where dying declaration is suspicious it should not be acted upon without corroborative evidence. Rasheed Beg Vs. State of M.P. (1974) 4 SCC 264

(v) Where the deceased was unconscious and could never make any dying declaration the evidence with regard to it is to be rejected. Kake Singh Vs. State of M.P. 1981 Supp SCC 25

(vi) A dying declaration which suffers from infirmity cannot form the basis of conviction. Ram Manorath v. State of U.P. (1981) 2 SCC 654

(vii) Merely because a dying declaration does not contain the details as to the occurrence, it is not to be rejected. State of Maharashtra Vs. Krishnamurti Laxmipati Naidu 1980 Supp SCC 455

(viii) Equally, merely because it is a brief statement, it is not be discarded. On the contrary, the shortness of the statement itself guarantees truth. Surajdeo Oza Vs. State of Bihar 1980 Supp SCC 769

(ix) Normally the court in order to satisfy whether deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration look up to the medical opinion. But where the eye witness has said that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make this dying declaration, the medical opinion cannot prevail. (Nanahau Ram Vs. State of M.P. 1988 Supp SCC 152

(x) Where the prosecution version differs from the version as given in the dying declaration, the said declaration cannot be acted upon. (State of U.P. Vs. Madan Mohan (1989) 3 SCC 390."

51. The above-noted principles have been recently reiterated by the Apex Court in the case of Jagbir Singh Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) (2019) 8 SCC 779.

52. The trial court found the dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2) wholly reliable as it was recorded and proved by the Executive Magistrate (PW-4) after the fitness of the deceased was duly certified by Dr. S.B. Mishra (PW-5).

53. Therefore, in the present case we will have to examine whether the dying declaration is trustworthy and blemish free and whether it would be safe to convict the appellants solely on the basis of that dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2).

54. As per record, dying declaration of the deceased was recorded by Madan Singh Garbiyal ACMM 5th Kanpur City (PW-4) on 17.10.2007 and before and after recording the dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2), Dr. S.B. Mishra (PW-5), the Emergency Medical Officer of the hospital certified the fitness of the deceased. It be noted that the dying declaration of the deceased was recorded after five days of her admission in the hospital. The FIR was lodged on 20.10.2007 i.e. after three days of the dying declaration. It is strange to notice that there is no whisper about the dying declaration in the FIR and there is also no statement in the FIR about the deceased making any such disclosure to either PW-1 or to anybody else about her predicament. Rather, PW-1, the informant (father of the deceased), in his statement stated that he has no knowledge regarding any statement of the deceased recorded in the hospital. It is hard to believe that PW-1, father of the deceased and informant of the case, would not be aware about the dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2) dated 17.10.2007. Assuming that the dying declaration was recorded in complete secrecy to maintain its confidentiality, it is quite strange that a daughter, who has been admitted in the hospital with burn injuries, would not inform her father for five days about the incident, particularly, when there is evidence that her father (PW 1), the informant, and other family members had met her several times in the hospital. This fact itself makes the dying declaration doubtful.

55. The Apex Court in case of Umakant and another Vs. State of Chhattisgarh 2014 7 SCC 405 discarded the dying declaration on the ground that the deceased had many occasions to meet either her parents or the staff of the hospital but, in spite of that, she did not inform either of them that the accused persons had burnt her whereas, she made allegations against them in her dying declaration for the first time after eleven days.

56. In the present case, the deceased was admitted in the hospital on 12.10.2007 whereas her dying declaration was recorded on 17.10.2007 i.e. after five days and, surprisingly, before 17.10.2007, she did not inform either PW-1, her father, or the doctor or any other member of her family or the staff of the hospital that appellants had assaulted her and set her ablaze. Another circumstance which rules out passing of information by the deceased to her father is that the first information report sets up dowry as a motive for the crime whereas in the dying declaration, there is no mention of dowry but something which finds no mention in the FIR, which is, that Shyam Mishra (Dewar of the deceased), when he had come to fetch her to take her to her Sasural, on way, had tried to act fresh with the deceased by asking the deceased to sleep with him for one night. Notably, this request was made in the presence of the uncle of the deceased, namely, Chhunu, who has not been examined. This creates a doubt on the truthfulness of the dying declaration.

57. Further, there appears a serious doubt regarding the deceased being in a condition fit enough to make a declaration. It be noted that the Bed Head Ticket (Ext.Ka-19) of the deceased shows that since 12.10.2007 she was advised oxygen inhalation and a number of pain killers, anti-biotics and other medicines like Tremadole, Mol injection and Dicloran were administered. As the deceased suffered 95% burns, she must have been in great pain considering the number of pain relieving medicines advised to her. It is not unknown that most of these pain relieving medicines have sedative effect and in that kind of a situation, the possibility of delusional effects on the patient cannot be ruled out.

58. In the case of Sampat Babso Kale and another Vs. State of Maharashtra (2019) 4 SCC 739 the Supreme Court in para 16 observed:-

*"16. In the present case, as we have already held above, there was some doubt as to whether the victim was in a fit state of mind to make the statement. No doubt, the doctor had stated that she was in a fit state of mind but he himself had, in his evidence, admitted that in the case of a victim with 98% burns, the shock may lead to delusion. Furthermore, in our view, the combined effect of the trauma with the administration of painkillers could lead to a case of possible delusion, and therefore, there is a need to look for corroborative evidence in the present case." (emphasis supplied)

59. Recently, a three judges Bench of Apex Court in the case of Jayamma & another Vs. the State of Karnataka (2021) 6 SCC 213 relied on the decision rendered in the case of Sampat Babso Kale (supra) and one of the grounds taken by it not to rely on the uncorroborated dying declaration of the deceased was that during treatment number of pain relieving drugs were being administered to the deceased and, therefore, the possibility of her being in a state of delusion and hallucination could not be ruled out.

60. In the instant case, a perusal of the Bed Head Ticket of the deceased (Ext. Ka-19) would reveal that the deceased was not only on oxygen support but was also being provided Deriphyllin and Dexona injection. The former is given in case of chronic obstructive pulmonary disorder to provide easy breathing and the latter is to provide relief from inflammation and autoimmune condition. All these facts would suggest that the deceased was not only in great pain but was suffering from breathing trouble as well hence oxygen inhalation was also advised. In such a situation whether she was in a fit state of mind or in a delusional state is difficult to fathom. In such circumstances, acting on the dying declaration, which finds no corroboration from the testimony of other witnesses, would be unsafe, particularly, when it makes certain allegations which are at variance with the prosecution case. Although, we are conscious of the fact that the extent of burn is not a determining factor for ascertaining the mental fitness of the declarant specifically where before and after the dying declaration doctor has provided a certificate of fitness, but in a case where as per the doctor the condition of the patient was very low since the beginning and she was advised oxygen inhalation and a number of medicines to alleviate pain and pulmonary disorder to ensure easy breathing, it would be unsafe to rely upon dying declaration of such a person, particularly, when it has no corroboration from other evidences.

61. The Apex Court in the case of Puran Chand Vs. State of Haryana (2010) 6 SCC 566 advised the courts to remain alive to all attending circumstances when the dying declaration comes into being before making the same the basis of conviction. The relevant observations are contained in paragraphs 15 and 16 of the judgment extracted below:-

"15. The Courts below have to be extremely careful when they deal with a dying declaration as the maker thereof is not available for the cross- examination which poses a great difficulty to the accused person. A mechanical approach in relying upon a dying declaration just because it is there is extremely dangerous. The Court has to examine a dying declaration scrupulously with a microscopic eye to find out whether the dying declaration is voluntary, truthful, made in a conscious state of mind and without being influenced by the relatives present or by the investigating agency who may be interested in the success of investigation or which may be negligent while recording the dying declaration.

16. Number of times, a young girl or a wife who makes the dying declaration could be under the impression that she would lead a peaceful, congenial, happy and blissful married life only with her husband and, therefore, has tendency to implicate the inconvenient parents-in-law or other relatives. Number of times the relatives influence the investigating agency and bring about a dying declaration. The dying declarations recorded by the investigating agencies have to be very scrupulously examined and the Court must remain alive to all the attendant circumstances at the time when the dying declaration comes into being. Xxxxxx"

62. In the case of Puran Chand (supra), the Apex Court cautioned that many times young wife makes the dying declaration under the impression that she would lead a peaceful, happy and blissful life only with her husband and, therefore, has tendency to implicate parents-in-law or other relatives.

63. In the present case, the appellants, namely, Shyam Mishra, Smt. Sarojani Devi and Smt. Rashami, are brother-in-law (Dewar), mother-in-law (Saas) and married sister-in-law (Nanand), respectively of the deceased, therefore, possibility of false implication of appellants by the deceased in a state of delusion cannot be ruled out.

64. While we were perusing records of the case, we noticed one interesting entry on the first page of the Bed Head Ticket (Ext. Ka-19). There, on the left margin, there is an endorsement dated 17.10.2007 that "cell phone recording D/D sent to Magistrate" and below that there appears signature of Dr. S.B. Mishra, the Emergency Medical Officer of the hospital (PW-5). This noting suggests that the dying declaration of the deceased was recorded on cell phone and was sent to the Magistrate on 17.10.2007. If it was so, why the video/audio record was not produced. This casts a serious doubt on the truthfulness of the declaration put on record because of suppression of the primary evidence, which may be audio/video recording. Notably, Dr. R. K. Singh (PW-11), under whose treatment deceased was admitted in the hospital, in his testimony read the above endorsement as "call for recording". But that would not make sense as immediately below that it is noted "DD sent to Magistrate", which would not make sense if the dying declaration had not been recorded already. Moreover, PW-11 is not the person who made that endorsement. To our understanding it is not written "call for recording. D/D sent to magistrate" but what is written is "cell phone recording. D/D sent to magistrate", therefore, we read it as "cell phone recording D/D sent to Magistrate". Thus, from this angle too, the dying declaration, dated 17.10.2007, recorded by ACMM (PW-4) appears suspicious and highly doubtful more so, when it is not recorded in a question and answer form and does not appear to be in the language of the deceased. We may hasten to clarify that though it is not a rule that a dying declaration cannot be accepted unless it is in the own language of the declarant or is in a question answer form. But where there is a serious challenge to the fitness of its maker at the time of recording and there are circumstances that render the dying declaration doubtful, non-recording of the declaration in the language of the deceased and in a question answer form is an additional circumstance throwing doubt on its genuineness.

65. In addition to above, in the instant case, the deceased was admitted in the hospital on 12.10.2007, in spite of that, her dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2) was recorded on 17.10.2007 i.e. after five days. As, her general condition since the beginning was very low as she had sustained 95% burns and was on oxygen support then why her statement was recorded after five days. Although there is evidence of Dr. S.B. Mishra (PW-5), the Emergency Medical Officer of the hospital, that he sent an information to the Magistrate for recording the dying declaration on 13.10.2007 but the Executive Magistrate (PW-4) stated that he received the request/information only once and on first call he arrived at the hospital to record the dying declaration. In any view of the matter, fact is that the dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2) was recorded after five days of admission of the deceased in the hospital, which is against the guidelines laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Kushal Rao Vs. State of Bombay (supra) wherein it has been held that the same should recorded at the earliest.

66. Further, according to the Investigating Officer, number of persons of the neighbourhood had gathered at the place of incident but the prosecution did not examine any of them. Had they been examined, a correct picture of the case could be had and the doubts shrouding the dying declaration might have been dispelled both in terms of the condition of its maker and the truthfulness of its contents. But, unfortunately, the prosecution has led no evidence to dispel these doubts whereas the witnesses of fact already examined have not supported the prosecution case. At this stage, we may profit from certain observations of the Supreme Court in the case of Sampat Babso Kale (supra) where, in para 20, it was observed:-

"20. Another factor which needs to be taken into consideration is that none of the witnesses from the neighbourhood have been examined. Even as per the prosecution case it was the neighbours who first raised an alarm. There is no explanation why none of them have been examined. It is also the prosecution case that the accused husband along with another neighbour went to the hospital to arrange for an ambulance. This person has not been examined. The non-examination of these important witnesses leads to non-corroboration of the dying declaration. The best witnesses would have been the neighbours who reached the spot immediately after the occurrence. They would have been the best persons to state as to whether the victim told them anything about the occurrence or not."

(emphasis supplied)

67. No doubt, a dying declaration is a valuable piece of evidence but it has to be considered as another piece of evidence and has to be judged in the light of surrounding circumstances and with reference to the principles governing the weighing evidence and if it is not found wholly trustworthy or truthful, it should not form the sole basis of conviction without corroboration.

68. In the instant case, apart from there being a serious doubt regarding the fitness of the deceased at the time of making her declaration, there is doubt with regard to the veracity of the declaration as well, inasmuch as, its video/audio recording was suppressed and it does not appear in question-answer form or in the language of its maker. The truthfulness of the declaration is also under cloud inasmuch as in the dying declaration the deceased stated that when her brother-in-law Shyam Mishra (appellant of Criminal Appeal No. 2542 of 2011) had come to her paternal home for Bidai then, on way, he assaulted her and threatened her by telling her that she would be sexually used by him and her husband alternatively. Interestingly, this threat was extended by the appellant Shyam Mishra in front of her uncle Chhannu. But, surprisingly, prosecution did not examine Chhannu. Even during investigation, the Investigating Officer did not record his statement. As per the statement of PW-2, Neeraj Mishra, the scribe of the FIR, Chhannu is the brother of the deceased and not her uncle. If such threats were extended by appellant Shyam before Chhannu, who was either brother of the deceased or uncle of the deceased, then Chhannu would have informed the informant. But the FIR is completely silent in this regard. Therefore, the dying declaration does not even appear truthful. Thus, in our considered view, it would be extremely unsafe to record conviction solely on its basis without there being any corroborative evidence.

69. The Apex Court in the case of Dudh Nath Pandey Vs. State of U.P. AIR 1981 SC 911 has deprecated the practice of courts to instinctively disbelieve defence witnesses and has laid stress that their testimony has to be afforded equal treatment. The relevant observations in the judgment that regard are as follows:-

19. xxx"Defence witnesses are entitled to equal treatment with those of the prosecution. And, Courts ought to overcome their traditional, instinctive disbelief in defence witnesses. Quite often, they tell lies but so do the prosecution witnesses."xxx

70. In the instant case, Ram Mishra, the husband of deceased, was examined as DW-2. He had admitted the deceased in the hospital. He stated that his wife (deceased) had stopped speaking after first day of admission as her condition started deteriorating. Prosecution failed to give any suggestion to discredit his testimony. Therefore, from this angle too, the dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2) appears doubtful because if the condition of the deceased had deteriorated so much by the second day of the incident, how could her dying declaration be recorded on the 6th day.

71. Similarly, although PW-1 (the informant) and PW-3 (Jija of the deceased) were declared hostile, but their testimony could have been considered to test the veracity of the dying declaration. It be noted that the law in respect of value of the testimony of hostile witnesses has been settled by a catena of decisions of Supreme Court. Their testimony can be utilized either by the prosecution or by the defence and the Court may accept their testimony if it considers it truthful.

72. In the case of Ramesh Harijan Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh (2012) 5 SCC 777, the Supreme Court observed:-

"24. In State of U.P. Vs. Ramesh Prasad Misra and another (1996) 10 SCC 360, this Court held that evidence of a hostile witness would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon. A similar view has been reiterated by this Court in Balu Sonba Shinde Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 7 SCC 543; Gagan Kanojia & another Vs. State of Punjab, (2006) 13 SCC 516; Radha Mohan Singh @ Lal Saheb & others Vs.. State of U.P., AIR 2006 SC 951; Sarvesh Narain Shukla Vs. Daroga Singh and others, AIR 2008 SC 320; and Subbu Singh Vs. State (2009) 6 SCC 462.

Thus, the law can be summarised to the effect that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant parts thereof which are admissible in law, can be used by the prosecution or the defence."

[See also case of C. Muniappan Vs. State of T.N. (2010) 9 SCC 567 (SCC P. 596, para 83) and Himansh Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) 2011 (2) SCC 36]

73. In the instant case, PW-1, the informant, although declared hostile, had stated that when he arrived at the hospital on receipt of information, his daughter (deceased) did not inform him that the appellants ablaze her. PW-1 also stated during cross-examination that after first day of her admission in hospital she was unable to speak and could only gesticulate. This statement also casts doubt on the veracity of the dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2) of the deceased.

74. In view of the discussion made above, we are of the considered view that the dying declaration (Ext. Ka-2) allegedly recorded by PW-5, dated 17.10.2007, is not trustworthy and it would be unsafe to record conviction solely on its basis, particularly, in absence of corroborative evidence. In our view, the trial court failed to properly evaluate the evidence and test whether the dying declaration was wholly reliable and truthful so as to form the sole basis of conviction. Consequently, the appeals are allowed. The appellants are acquitted of all the charges for which they have been tried. They are reported to be in jail. They are set at liberty forthwith if not wanted in any other case subject to compliance of provisions of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. to the satisfaction of the trial court concerned.

75. Let a copy of this order/judgment and the original record of the lower court be transmitted to the trial court concerned forthwith for necessary information and compliance. The office is further directed to enter the judgment in compliance register maintained for the purpose of the Court.

THE HON'BLE OM PRAKASH TRIPATHI, J.

Criminal Revision No. 2407 of 2022

Oyas @ Avesh ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Prakash Chandra Srivastava, Sri Vishnu Prakash

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 227 - Discharge - S. 326A IPC, Voluntarily causing grievous hurt by use of acid - Revisionist accused u/s 326-A, 504, 506 IPC - His discharge application rejected - Argument of Revisionist that prima facie charges u/s 326A IPC is not made out as there is no grievous injury on the body of the victim - Held - from the reading of the Section 326-A IPC, it reveals that nine "OR" has been used which shows that for the charge under Section 326A IPC can be framed without grievous hurt to the victim - grievous hurt to acid burn victim, is not mandatory in each case - Nine "OR" has been used to show that in case of permanent or partial damage, deformity, burns, maims, disfigures, disables any part of the body of the person, or by administering acid to that person, charge under Section 326A IPC should be framed in such situation. (Para 6)

Dismissed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Om Prakash Tripathi, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist, learned A.G.A for the State and also perused the record.

2. This criminal revision has been preferred by the revisionist against the order dated 18.04.2022 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No.8, District Allahabad in Sessions Trial No.2297 of 2021 (State vs. Oyas @ Avesh), arising out of Case Crime No.225 of 2014, under Sections 326-A, 504, 506 IPC, rejecting the discharge application of the revisionist under Section 227 Cr.P.C.

3. The main submission of the learned counsel for the revisionist is that prima facie charges under Section 326A IPC is not made out against the revisionist. There is no grievous injury on the body of the victim. From the perusal of prosecution papers, offence under Section 326A IPC is not disclosed. Injured ladies Smt. Gulshan Bano and Km. Reshma Bano were medically examined on 19.05.2014 at SRN Hospital, Allahabad by Dr. Nisar Ahmad at about 09:10 am and 09:20 pm, who were brought by their mother namely, Khusnuma. There is no permanent or partial damage or deformity to or burns or maims or disfigures or disables, any part or parts of the body, so charge under Section 326A or 326B is not made out. Applicant is in judicial custody since 19.03.2019.

4. Learned AGA objected the prayer and submitted that from the perusal of order, it reveals that initially revisionist absconded. Thereafter, proceedings was initiated against the revisionist under Section 83 Cr.P.C., then, he surrendered before the court below on 19.03.2019. On 16.12.2021, case was committed to Court of Sessions and is pending at the stage of framing of the charge. It is also submitted that there is prima facie material to frame charge under Section 326A IPC against the revisionist. One co-accused Jamaluddin @ Raju has been convicted under Sections 326A and 506 IPC and on 17.09.2021 rigorous imprisonment for 10 years has been awarded to the co-accused.

5. Section 326A IPC lays down that "whoever causes permanent or partial damage or deformity to, or burns or maims or disfigures or disables, any part or parts of the body of a person or causes grievous hurt by throwing acid on or by administering acid to that person, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than ten years but which may extend to life imprisonment."

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist emphasizes only on the point that as there is no grievous hurt on the body of the victims so charge under Section 326A IPC is not made out. But from the reading of the Section 326-A IPC, it reveals that nine "OR" has been used which shows that for the charge under Section 326A IPC can be framed without grievous hurt to the victim. But grievous hurt to acid burn victim, is not mandatory in each case. Nine "OR" has been used to show that in case of permanent or partial damage, deformity, burns, maims, disfigures, disables any part of the body of the person, or by administering acid to that person, charge under Section 326A IPC should be framed in such situation. Thus, the submission of the learned counsel for the revisionist has no force.

7. The injury report of the victim Gulshan Bano shows that there are following injuries on the body of victim dated 19.05.2014 :

1. Reddish black injury over lt. cheek 2x2cm, 2cm medial to lt. ear.

2. Reddish black injury in the area of lateral surface of lt. forearm in the area of 10cmx6cm.

3. Burning sensation over lt. side of chest (in bra region)

8. Above injuries are caused by acid burn. Duration fresh informed police.

9. Smt. Reshma Bano 18 years female has received following injuries :

1. Reddish black burn injury over face and neck. Burn sensation present.

2. Reddish black burn injuries and on the medial side of lt. upper arm in the area of 8cm.

10. Above injuries caused by acid burn. Duration fresh informed police. From the medical report, it appears that injured had sustained burn acid injury.

11. The provisions relating to charge are intended to provide that the charge shall give the accused full notice of offence charged against him. The purpose of a charge is to tell the accused person as precisely and concisely as possible of the matter with which he is charged and must convey to him with sufficient clearness and certainty, what the prosecution intended to prove against him. At the time of framing of charge, the court is not required to screen evidence or to apply the standard whether the prosecution will be able to prove the case against the accused at the trial. The Court shall consider only the material placed before it by the Investigating Agency. Court has to see only prima facie case against the accused. Charge can be framed even on the basis of strong suspicion founded on material before the Court.

12. On the basis of above discussion, this Court is of the view that trial court has passed a legal order, there is not manifest error or material irregularity in the impugned order. There is prima facie evidence material against the revisionist to frame charge against the revisionist under Section 326A IPC also and in such circumstances applicant is not liable to be discharged.

13. Thus, this criminal revision has no force and is dismissed, accordingly.

14. Learned Trial Court is directed to frame charge against the revisionist and make endeavor to conclude the trial expeditiously, if there is no legal impediment.

U.P. Avas Evam Vikash Parishad - Defective Appeal of the year 1993-matter was dismissed for not making good the deficit of court fees-necessary party not made until 2022-enhancement claimed at a rate of Rs. 100/-Rs. 120/- per square yard be paid to the Appellant-not entitled for interest from 1995 till restoration in the year 2022.

Appeal disposed of. (E-9)

List of Cases cited:

1. Ram Chandra Vs U.O.I (2020) 15SCC

2. Nimna Dudhana Project Vs St. of Mah. & ors., AIR 2020 SC 717

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
&
Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shyam Singh Sengar, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Chandrashekhar, learned counsel for the respondents and learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. On very short point this appeal can be disposed of. We are thankful to Sri Chandrashekhar for pointing out three aspects:

(i) that the matter was dismissed for not making good the deficit of court fees;

(ii) this is a defective appeal of the year 1993;

(iii) while filing the appeal there was no delay. The appeal came to be dismissed on 22.11.1995 and a restoration application came to be filed immediately i.e in 1995, unfortunately the appellant and his advocate did not take any steps to make good the deficit court fees and all other defects which was there. This Court again in the year 2000 dismissed the same for the second time which went in the disposal list.

3. Learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance on the judgement of Division Bench of this High Court in F.A. No. 56 of 2005, in F.A.No. 1062 of 1995 and judgement of Single Judge in F.A. No. 395 of 2018. Similarly, learned counsel for the respondent has placed reliance on the judgement of Single Judge in F.A No. 993 of 2021 and Division Bench of this High Court in F.A.No. 184 of 2019.

4. In the year 2018 Division Bench of this High Court more particularly in F.A. No. 56 of 2005 on 21.07.2015 passed some orders despite that appellant did not wake up from his slumber. The other matters were also allowed on 16.11.2016 relying on the decision of the Division Bench in F.A No. 56 of 2005 and F.A. No. 1062 of 1995 came to be allowed. It also did not make up the appellant herein, thereafter, one of us sitting as Single Judge decided the list where on 30.05.2018 and Hukum Singh & Others and also U.P. Avas Evam Vikash Parishad took the matters to the Apex Court.

5. On 04.01.2021, the learned Single Judge of this Court in F.A.D. No. 87 of 2021 allowed connected appeals which is pointed out by the learned counsel for the respondents which has attained finality on 25.04.2022.

6. As far as this appeal is concerned three issues emerged:-

(1) From the year 1993 till date U.P. Avas Evam Vikash Parishad was not made party. On the direction of this Court in the year 2022 they were made party. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the U.P. Avas Evam Vikash Parishad that the appeal cannot be allowed as even in the appeal the appellant has claimed enhancement at a rate of Rs. 100/-. It is further submitted that the deficit court fees are paid on this valuation and therefore the enhancement requires to be restricted to Rs. 100/- square yard;

(2) Should the U.P. Avas Evam Vikash Parishad be saddled with interest. The appeal was dismissed for default way back in the year 1995, it was again dismissed for default even in the year 2020 and 2021, court fees were not paid. The other matters came to be decided in the year 2016 and 2018 respectively, that also did not wake the slumber of the appellant herein. Though the delay is condoned by this Court because of the decision of the Apex Court that parity should be maintained but the decision in Ram Chandra Vs. U.O.I (2020) 15SCC would apply, but the respondents cannot be saddled with costs/interest for the said period. The said view is reiterated by the Apex Court in case of Nimna Dudhana Project Vs. State of Maharashtra & Ors., AIR 2020 SC 717. The appellant has been lacks in prosecuting the case and therefore and in the light of these judgements the interest for the said period cannot be granted, however, on the enhanced amount from the date of enhancement is made till the award appellant would be entitled on the enhanced amount and from the date the delay is restored it will carry interest. It is stated by the Sri Chandrashkehar, learned counsel for the respondents that the matter is concluded by the Apex Court and hence though formally objects as Rs. 100/- per square yard is claimed.

7. We hold in light of the facts that Rs. 120/- per square yard be paid to the appellant, however, for the period from 1995 till the restoration is filed in the year 2022, they shall not be entitled for the interest as held by the Apex Court and as submitted by Sri Chandrashekhar, learned counsel for the respondents.

8. The defective appeal is disposed of.

9. The appellant to make good the deficit court fees and if they do not make good the requisite court fees, the learned trial Judge of the court below where the money is to be deposited would deduct the said amount of Rs. 20/- per square yard. The deficit court fees would be recovered by the amount deposited by the respondents. The respondents to deposit the difference amount within 12 weeks from today with the accrued interest from the date of the award till the award and from the date of filing of restoration i.e 27.04.2022 till the amount is deposited.

10. We are thankful to Sri Chandrashekhar who has assisted us on the very first date of hearing though his name was not shown in the cause list.

11. The counsel for the State adopted the submission of Sri Chandrashekhar.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Vijay Lakshmi, J.)

1. The instant second appeal is directed against the judgment dated 04.11.2015 passed by learned Additional District Judge, Court No.8, Shahjahanpur in Civil Appeal No.61/2011, whereby the learned Additional District Judge has dismissed the appeal filed by the defendant-appellant and has affirmed the judgment and order dated 14.2.2011 passed by Additional Civil Judge, Shahjahanpur decreeing the suit of plaintiff-respondent.

2. Heard Shri Preet Pal Singh Rathore, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri R.L. Varma on behalf of the caveator-respondent on the point of admission and perused the available record.

3. The brief facts giving rise to the dispute between the parties are that the appellant namely Ompal Singh who is the defendant in Original Suit No.379/2004 is the co-owner of Gata No.241 measuring 1.084 hectares, along with three other co-sharers. He entered into an agreement for sale of 4 bighas from his share of undivided land. The agreement for sale was executed on 25.7.2003 for a period of one year which was going to expire on 24.7.2004. The price of the land was fixed at Rs.80,000/- out of which Rs.40,000/- was paid as earnest money to the defendant-appellant by the plaintiff-respondent and it was settled between them that the remaining Rs.40,000/- shall be paid to the defendant-appellant within a period of one year, who in turn shall execute the sale deed. However, when the appellant failed to execute the sale deed within the stipulated period despite service of notice on him, the purchaser i.e. plaintiff-respondent filed a suit for specific performance of contract against him (Original Suit No.379/2004), copy whereof is annexed as (Annexure No.5).

4. According to the plaint averments, the plaintiff-respondent was always ready and willing to perform his part of the contract, but the (defendant- appellant) always tried to postpone the matter on one pretext or the other. In the aforesaid circumstances, plaintiff was compelled to issue notice to the defendant by R.P.A.D. informing him to be present in the office of Sub Registrar, Sadar Shahjahanur for execution of the sale deed. According to the plaintiff-respondent, on 24.7.2004, the defendant came to Kutchery at 1 P.M. but, when the plaintiff asked him to take the remaining amount and to execute the sale deed, he silently escaped from there. Thereafter, the plaintiff gave an application at the office of the Sub Registrar to register his attendance. The plaintiff again requested the defendant to execute the sale deed on which the defendant gave him the assurance that he will execute the sale deed on 26.7.2004. On 26.7.2004, the plaintiff-respondent reached at the office of the Sub Registrar at 10 A.M. and waited there for whole day, but the defendant-appellant did not appear, therefore, the plaintiff again moved an application before the Sub Registrar to register his presence. According to the plaintiff, after 26.7.2004, he asked the defendant several times to execute the sale deed, but he never gave any satisfactory reply and always tried to postpone the matter and ultimately on 12.8.2004, he refused to execute the sale deed. As a result, the plaintiff-respondent was constrained to file a suit for specific performance of contract.

5. The defendant-appellant filed his written statement stating therein that the defendant had taken a loan of Rs.30,000/- from the plaintiff with interest at the rate of 15 percent per annum and as a safety measure, an agreement for sale was executed between them on 25.7.2003 for a period of one year. It was further stated by the defendant that he is not well educated, he only knows to make his signature. His signatures were obtained on the agreement deed by the plaintiff in collusion with the employees of the Registrar's Office without its contents being read over and explained to him. The defendant-appellant had already returned Rs.20,000/- to the respondent on 07.8.2004, out of the total amount of Rs.30,000/- taken as loan from him and the remaining Rs.10,000/- was also returned by him on 30.8.2004 in a Panchayat, where it was settled that plaintiff-respondent shall cancel the agreement for sale. But the plaintiff-respondent with malafide intention, filed the suit for specific performance of contract.

6. The learned trial court, on the basis of pleadings framed four issues out of which the relevant issue nos.1 and 4 are as follows:

(1) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to get the sale deed executed in his favour on the basis of agreement to sell dated 25.7.2003, after payment of remaining amount of Rs.40,000?

(2) Whether the balance of convenience is in favour of plaintiff?

7. Both the parties adduced oral and documentary evidence in support of their respective claims.

8. The learned trial court after hearing both the parties and on the basis of evidence led by them decreed the suit by the judgment dated 14.2.2011.

9. The appellant-defendant filed Civil Appeal No.61/2011 which was dismissed by the impugned judgment and order dated 04.11.2015.

10. Now the defendant-appellant is before this Court in the second appeal.

11. Learned counsel for the appellant has contended that both the courts below have failed to consider that the land in question is a combined land of four co-sharers including the appellant and their respective shares have not been determined by way of partition. The submissions of learned counsel is that unless and until a partition by metes and bounds takes place between the parties, no co-sharer has a right to sell even his own share in the joint property, therefore, the agreement to sell was not enforceable. It is further contended that although the plaintiff had stated that on 24.7.2004 and 26.7.2004, the defendant-appellant met him at the Registrar Office, but he did no execute the sale deed, but there is no evidence to substantiate the aforesaid facts. The plaintiff has tried to create his case. In fact, on both days the plaintiff had gone to the Registrar Office all alone without any witness of proposed sale deed and he has not even purchased any stamp paper on those dates. It is further contended that the learned lower appellate court has completely ignored the evidence led by the appellant and has dismissed the appeal in a mechanical manner by the impugned judgment, which is liable to be set-aside. It is lastly contended that on 24.7.2004, the agreement to sell had frustrated in favour of the appellant and it could not have been enforced due to lapse of time stipulated in the agreement, but both the courts below without keeping in view this fact, decided the suit and appeal in favour of the plaintiff-respondent by the impugned judgments which are liable to be set-aside.

12. Per contra, learned counsel for the caveator-respondent has contested the appeal by arguing that all the points raised by the learned counsel for the appellant relate to pure questions of fact. There is no substantial question of law involved in this appeal. There are concurrent findings of facts by both the courts below against the appellant and as per the settled legal position, the concurrent findings of facts should not be disturbed in the second appeal, if those are not perverse.

13. Considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties.

14. The scope of second appeal under Section 100 C.P.C. is very limited and as per settled legal position, the High Court will not interfere with concurrent findings of fact recorded by the courts below unless those findings are perverse or against the law. While exercising jurisdiction under Section 100 C.P.C., the re-appreciation of evidence is not permissible.

15. The Apex Court in the case of Hero Vinoth (Minor) Vs. Sheshammal, Appeal (Civil) No.4715 of 2000 decided on 08.5.2006 has laid down the law as under:

"It is to be kept in mind that the right of appeal is neither natural nor an inherent right attached to the litigation. Being a substantive statutory right, it is to be regulated in accordance with law in force at the relevant time. The conditions mentioned in the section must be strictly fulfilled before a second appeal can be maintained and no court has the power to add or to enlarge those grounds. The second appeal cannot be decided on merely equitable grounds. The concurrent findings of facts will not be disturbed by the High Court in exercise of powers under this section. Further, a substantial question of law has to be distinguished from a substantial questions of fact."

16. In E.Mahboob Saheb Vs. N.Sabbarayan Chowdhary, A.I.R. 1982,

SC 679, the Supreme Court reiterated the law that if there are concurrent findings of fact reached by the lower court's the High Court cannot reappreciate the evidence and substitute its own conclusion in place of those entered by the lower court's.

17. In the case of State of Karnataka Vs. Appa Balu Ingale, A.I.R. 1993, SC 1126, it was held that concurrent findings arrived at by the two courts below are not to be interfered with by the High Court in absence of any special circumstances or unless they are perverse.

18. In Gurdev Kaur Vs. Kaki (2007) 1 SCC 546, Supreme Court considered the scope and ambit of Section 100 C.P.C. by referring various judgments and legislative background and dismissed the second appeal with costs after observing that the scope of Section 100 C.P.C. has not been correctly appreciated and applied by the High Court. The Apex Court observed that in view of the clear legislative mandate, the High Court could not have interfered with pure findings of facts arrived by the court's below.

19. Now reverting to the case in hand, on a careful perusal of both the judgments passed by the courts below it cannot be said that the concurrent findings of facts are perverse.

20. Copy of the written statement available on record shows that the defendant-appellant nowhere in his written statement has taken the plea that the undivided share in the joint property could not have been sold by him. It is also well settled that the arguments beyond pleadings cannot be sustained.

21. Both the learned Courts below have discussed all the facts and circumstances of the case in detail and after carefully scrutinizing the evidence available on record have recorded a concurrent finding that the plaintiff was always ready and willing to perform his part of the contract, but the defendant failed to execute the sale deed. Both the courts below were of the concurrent view that there is no bar, restricting a person to sell his share of undivided land. The agreement to sell being a registered document was found by the courts below as authentic and genuine document and the plea of the defendant-appellant that he being not well educated was not aware of its contents, was disbelieved by both the courts below on the ground that it cannot be expected from a Gram Pradhan that he will put his signature on a document without knowing its contents.

22. There does not appear any perversity or illegality in the findings recorded by the courts below requiring any interference by this Court in the second appeal.

23. Further, as per Section 100 C.P.C, a second appeal is admissible only on substantial questions of law.

24. Sub section (3) of Section 100 C.P.C. provides that in an appeal under this section, the memorandum of appeal shall precisely state the substantial question of law involved in the appeal.

25. A perusal of the memo of appeal in the present case shows that following two questions have been proposed by the learned counsel for the appellant as substantial questions of law:

"(a) Whether, the plaintiff/respondent was ready and willing to execute sale deed in his favour from the defendant/appellant and his suit was liable to be dismissed in accordance with provisions laid down u/s 16 (c) of the Specific Relief Act.

(b) Whether, the learned Courts below did manifest error of law in not framing necessary issues with regard to (i) Readiness and willingness of plaintiff, (ii) Comparative hardship of parties, (iii) Effects of non-filing of replication, (iv) Frustration of agreement, (v) the effect of co-sharer's share in the land in question, (vi) refund of money by the appellant to the plaintiff/respondent and (vii) Money laundering job of plaintiff without any valid license etc. and has decided the case against the appellant in quite illegal manner."

26. In my view, the first substantial question as proposed by the learned counsel for the appellant is not a substantial question of law. On the contrary, it is purely a substantial question of fact. Whether the plaintiff was ready and willing to perform his part of contract is a pure question of fact because it is to be gathered from the facts and circumstances of the case and from the evidence available on record. So far as the second question is concerned, though a legal issue is involved in it i.e. effect of non framing of issues with regard to effect of non filing of replication, comparative hardship of parties etc. in the opinion of this Court, it is not an arguable question of law because the learned trial court has already framed issue no.4 with regard to comparative hardship/balance of convenience and has discussed all other points while deciding issue no.1.

27. In the facts and circumstances of the case as discussed above and in wake of the well settled legal position, this Court is of the considered view that none of the aforesaid questions framed by learned counsel for the appellant, can be termed as "substantial questions of law".

28. The term "substantial question of law" has been interpreted by Hon'ble Supreme Court in a catena of judgments.

29. In State Bank of India and others Vs. S.N. Goyal; (2008) 8 SCC 92 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"Second appeals would lie in cases which involve substantial questions of law. The word 'substantial' prefixed to 'question of law' does not refer to the stakes involved in the case, nor intended to refer only to questions of law of general importance, but refers to impact or effect of the question of law on the decision in the lis between the parties. 'Substantial questions of law' means not only substantial questions of law of general importance, but also substantial question of law arising in a case as between the parties. In the context of section 100 CPC, any question of law which affects the final decision in a case is a substantial question of law as between the parties. A question of law which arises incidentally or collaterally, having no bearing in the final outcome, will not be a substantial question of law. Where there is a clear and settled enunciation on a question of law, by this Court or by the High Court concerned, it cannot be said that the case involves a substantial question of law."

30. In Santosh Hazari Vs. Purushottam Tiwari, 2001(3) SCC 179 the Supreme Court considered what the phrase "substantial question of law" means as under:-

"The phrase is not defined in the Code. The word "substantial", as qualifying question of law, means-of having substance, essential, real, of sound worth, important or considerable. It is to be understood as something in contradistinction with-technical, of no substances or consequence, or academic merely."

31. A Full Bench of Madras High Court in Rimmalapudi Subba Rao Vs. Noony Veeraju, AIR 1951 Madras 969 considered this term and observed:

"when a question of law is fairly arguable, where there is room for difference of opinion or where the Court thought it necessary to deal with that question at some length and discuss an alternative view, then the question would be a substantial question of law. On the other hand, if the question was practically covered by decision of highest Court or if general principles to be applied in determining the question are well settled and the only question was of applying those principles to the particular fact of case, it could not be a substantial question of law."

32. The above observations were affirmed and concurred by a Constitution Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sir Chunilal Mehta and Sons Ltd. Vs. The Century Spinning and Manufacturing Company Ltd. AIR 1962 SC 1314. Referring to above authorities, the Court in Santosh Hazari (supra) said:

"A point of law which admits of no two opinions may be a proposition of law but cannot be a substantial question of law. To be substantial, a question of law must be debatable, not previously settled by law of the land or a binding precedent, and must have a material bearing on the decision of the case, if answered either way, in so far as the rights of the parties before it are concerned. To be a question of law involving in the case there must be first a foundation for it laid in the pleadings and the question should emerge from the sustainable findings of fact arrived at by court of facts and it must be necessary to decide that question of law for a just and proper decision of the case. An entirely new point raised for the first time before the High Court is not a question involved in the case unless it goes to the root of the matter. It will, therefore, depend on the facts and circumstance of each case whether a question of law is a substantial one and involved in the case, or not; the paramount overall consideration being the need for striking a judicious balance between the indispensable obligation to do justice at all stages and impelling necessity of avoiding prolongation in the life of any lis."

33. In view of the above cited legal position and in absence of any arguable substantial question of law, this appeal cannot be admitted.

34. Accordingly, the appeal is dismissed at the admission stage itself.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suresh Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. By means of the present petition, the petitioner is praying for quashing and stay of divorce suit proceeding, U/s-13 of H.M. Act, Regular Suit No. 337 of 2017, pending before Principal Judge-4, Family Court, Lucknow (Smt. Yogita Singh versus Amit Singh).

2. Brief fact of the case is that marriage of petitioner was solemnized with Opposite Party No. 2 on 24-05-2014 as per Hindu rites and rituals. The petitioner was in London, England in respect of the service with regards to the job and also took her (Opposite Party No. 2) with him to London Cityland. On 5.7.2015, the Opposite Party No. 2 instituted frivolous complaint of domestic violence against the petitioner in London in order to create false grounds of divorce. When the petitioner was in police custody, opposite party no.2 immediately ran away with valuable items, cash and jewellery of the petitioner from London to her parental home at Kanpur. On coming back to India, Opposite Party No. 2 lodged the F.I.R. on 22-07-2015 as Crime No. 28 of 2015, U/s- 498-A, 323, 406, 504, 506 I.P.C. and 3/4 D.P. Act against the petitioner and other family members. All the accused persons in the said Crime No. 28 of 2015 were granted bail and the petitioner was granted interim bail on 07-11-2015, then, the Opposite Party No. 2 filed a false Criminal Complaint No. 4216 of 2015, U/s- 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. creating a false ground of assault to her at the Court premises at Kanpur, which was challenged by the petitioner and other family members before this Court at Allahabad and this Court at Allahabad quashed the proceedings against all family members of the petitioner. But the proceeding against the petitioner is continuing before the court of magistrate at the stage of Section 244 CrPC. Thereafter the Opposite Party No. 2 filed a case/complaint U/s-12 of Domestic Violence Act on 01-03-16 at Kanpur, copy of which is yet to be provided to the petitioner. Thereafter the Opposite Party No. 2 also filed a Criminal Complaint U/s-138 of N.I. Act on 26-04-2016 for dishonour of cheque which was obtained by the father of the Opposite Party No.2 from the father of the petitioner in his absence by exercising undue influence and coercion. The proceeding has been stayed by this Court vide order dated 04-09-2018.

3. The present case/suit filed by Opposite Party no.2 before the Family Court at Lucknow U/s 13 of H.M. Act on 17-03-2017, the petitioner filed preliminary objection under Order 7 Rule 11 of C.P.C. challenging Lucknow as the jurisdiction of the present divorce suit filed by the Opposite Party No. 2 herself in which she claimed to be a resident of Kanpur and all those cases are running in Kanpur, which was rejected by this Court vide order dated 13-12-2018. In the present case of divorce proceeding, the petitioner filed an application for stay the proceeding and awaiting the result of Complaint Case No. 4216 of 2015 filed by the Opposite Party No. 2 and the said case is at the stage of recording evidence U/s- 244 Cr. P. C., but she did not appear there, and is avoiding the process of Court. Thereafter, the petitioner moved an application before the Family Court Lucknow stating therein that till all the prosecution evidences of Opposite Party No. 2 in her Complaint Case No. 4216 of 2015, U/s-323, 504, 506 I.P.C. is not completed, the petitioner may not be forced to file his Written Statement in the present divorce suit matter, otherwise his defence would be disclosed and the petitioner's right to silence guaranteed by the Constitution of India in Article 20 (3) and a fair trial guaranteed under Article-21 will both stand violated causing his gross miscarriage of justice. But the family court, Lucknow rejected the prayer of the petitioner vide order dated 01-02-2021.

4. The petitioner relies upon the judgment dated 11-09-2014, passed in Writ Petition No. 13211 of 2013 and the judgment dated 08-02-2021 in the matter of Anant versus Sheetal in Misc. Petition No. 345/2020, passed by High Court of Madhya Pradesh, Jabalpur Bench at Indore and also relies on the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of M.S. Sheriff vs. State of Madras (1954) A.I.R. page no. 397 dated 18.3.1954. Thus, the petitioner submits that the impugned order dated 01-02-2021 is bad in law and deserves to be stayed and further divorce proceedings u/s 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act pending before the Family Court, Lucknow may also be stayed.

5. The counsel for opposite party no.2, on the basis of counter affidavit filed by him, submits that this Court by means of orders dated 04.08.2017 and 14.11.2019, passed in writ petition numbers 17655 (M/S) of 2017 and 31176 (M/S) of 2019 respectively has been pleased to direct for expeditious disposal of the applications filed by the applicant for expeditious disposal of the divorce suit No. 337 of 2017. It is further submitted that the petitioner has tried to obtain order for staying the proceedings for Regular Suit till termination of the criminal proceedings, though, there are two orders of this Court, wherein after considering the request of the answering respondent, directions have been issued for deciding the application filed by the answering respondent for expeditious disposal of the divorce suit.

6. The counsel for the opposite party no.2 further submits that the present writ petition has been filed on 13.08.2021 challenging the order dated 01.02.2021 passed by the Additional Principal Judge-4, Family Court, Lucknow, whereby the application of the petitioner seeking opportunity to file written statement after completion of criminal proceedings was rejected. On 24.02.2020, the last opportunity for filing written statement was granted to the petitioner but he has not chosen to file written statement till date. By means of the order dated 12.04.2021, the Family Court, Lucknow closed the opportunity for filing of written statement by the petitioner and the direction was issued for proceeding under Order VIII Rule 10 Code of Civil Procedure.

7. The counsel for opposite party no.2 submits that after passing of the order dated 12.04.2021, the present writ petition has been filed after a considerable delay, when the proceeding has reached at the stage of arguments only with the ulterior motive of delaying the proceedings and further harassing the opposite party no. 2. It is further submitted that the aforesaid case laws relied upon by the petitioner are not applicable in the present case. Only lingering on practice has been adopted by the petitioner. Thus, the petition is liable to be rejected.

8. The counsel for the respondents has relied on the judgements in the case of Ashok Kumar Pal vs. Smt. Sawan Pal (2008) SCC Online Calcutta 462, K. Sitaram Patro and others vs. K. Saraladevi Patro (2016) SCC Online Orissa 209 and M.S. Sheriff vs. State of Madras AIR 1954 SC 397.

9. Heard Mr. Sushil Kumar Singh, learned counsel for petitioner, learned AGA for the State as well as Mr. Anurag Singh, counsel for opposite party no.2 and perused the material available on record.

10. On perusal of the record, it transpires that the criminal proceedings as well as civil proceeding for divorce on ground of cruelty and polygamy was raised by the respondents against the petitioner. It is also admitted fact that the civil suit for divorce petition is still pending at the stage of Order VIII Rule 10 of CPC. The main ground of this petition raised by the petitioner is that the civil proceeding against the petitioner may be stayed, otherwise the petitioner's right to silence guaranteed under Article 20(3) and fair trial and lawful arrest of a person guaranteed under Article 20 of the Constitution of India would stand violated causing his gross injustice. Submission of the counsel for the petitioner is to stay the civil proceeding at this stage without disclosing his defence.

11. Both civil and criminal proceedings can be initiated by the victim/respondents simultaneously with distinct impetus and objective. The Supreme Court in P. Swaroopa Rani vs. M. Hari Narayana (AIR 2008 SC 1884) held that: "...It is, however, well-settled that in a given case, civil proceedings and criminal proceedings can proceed simultaneously. Whether civil proceedings or criminal proceedings shall be stayed depends upon the fact and circumstances of each case."

12. Earlier in M. S. Sheriff vs. The State of Madras and Others (AIR 1954 SC 379), a constitution bench of the Supreme Court while discussing the precedence of both criminal and civil matter as to which proceeding should be stayed observed as under:

"...As between the civil and the criminal proceedings we are of the opinion that the criminal matters should be given precedence. There is some difference of opinion in the High Courts of India on this point. No hard and fast rule can be laid down but we do not consider that the possibility of conflicting decisions in the civil and criminal courts is a relevant consideration. The law envisages such an eventuality when it expressly refrains from making the decision of one court binding on the other, or even relevant, except for certain limited purposes, such as sentence or damages. The only relevant consideration here is the likelihood of embarrassment."

"...Another factor which weighs with us is that a civil suit often drags on for years and it is undesirable that a criminal prosecution should wait till everybody concerned has forgotten all about the crime. The public interests demand that criminal justice should be swift and sure; that the guilty should be punished while the events are still fresh in the public mind and that the innocent should be absolved as early as is consistent with a fair and impartial trial. Another reason is that it is undesirable to let things slide till memories have grown too dim to trust. This, however, is not a hard and fast rule. Special considerations obtaining in any particular case might made some other course more expedient and just. For example, the civil case or the other criminal proceeding may be so near its end as to make it inexpedient to stay it in order to give precedence to a prosecution ordered under section 476. But in this case, we are of the view that the civil suits should be stayed till the criminal proceedings have finished."

13. The Supreme Court in Syed Askari Hadi Ali Augustine Imam and Ors. vs. State (Delhi Admn.) and Ors. (AIR 2009 SC 3232) discussed the same issue and reiterated as under:

"...Indisputably, in a given case, a civil proceeding as also a criminal proceeding may proceed simultaneously. Cognizance in a criminal proceeding can be taken by the criminal court upon arriving at the satisfaction that there exists a prima facie case.

The question as to whether in the facts and circumstances of the case one or the other proceedings would be stayed would depend upon several factors including the nature and the stage of the case."

10. It is, however, now well settled that ordinarily a criminal proceeding will have primacy over the civil proceeding. Precedence to a criminal proceeding is given having regard to the fact that disposal of a civil proceeding ordinarily takes a long time and in the interest of justice the former should be disposed of as expeditiously as possible."

14. The High Court of Andhra Pradesh discussed the same point in N. Gurucharnam vs. The State of Andhra Pradesh (2013 CriLJ 1061) held as under:

"...When there are both civil and criminal liabilities in respect of an issue against a person, he is liable to be prosecuted both on the criminal side and on the civil side."

15. Section 498A of the Penal Code, 1860 deals with cruelty by husband or relatives of husband. The said provision provides that whoever, being the husband or the relatives of the husband of a woman subjects such woman to cruelty, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine. What amounts to cruelty for the purpose of the said provision has also been clarified in the explanation added to the said section which provides that:

a) Any unlawful conduct which is of such a nature as is likely to drive the woman to commit suicide or to cause grave injury or danger to life, limb or health "whether mental or physical" of the woman or;

b) Harassment of the woman where such harassment is with a view of coercing her or any person related to her meet any unlawful demand for any property or valuable security or is on account of failure by her or any person related to her to meet such demand.

16. Thus, cruelty has a limited meaning as defined in the said provision.

17. But under the Hindu Marriage Act cruelty has not been defined. As such, any act or conduct which though may not amount to cruelty within the meaning of the definition of cruelty as given in section 498A of the Penal Code, 1860, may constitute cruelty as envisaged under section 13(1)(ia) of the Hindu Marriage Act.

18. Since the cruelty has not been defined in the Hindu Marriage Act, it is difficult to define precisely as to what exactly cruelty means under section 13(1)(ia) of the Hindu Marriage Act. Cruelty under section 13(1)(ia) of the Hindu Marriage Act may extend to behaviour which may cause pain and injury to the mind as well as to render the continuance in matrimonial home an ordeal where it becomes impossible for them to live together with mental agony, torture or distress. The question as to whether an act complained of was cruel or not is to be determined from whole of the facts and matrimonial relations between the spouses regard being given to their culture, temperament, status in life and state of health of the parties interaction between them in their daily life. Cruelty for the purpose of matrimonial relationship means where one spouse has so treated the other and manifested such feelings towards her or him as to have inflicted bodily injury or to have caused reasonable apprehension of bodily sufferings or of being injured. Cruelty may be physical, mental or legal. In matrimonial laws it may be of infinite variety. It may be by words, gestures or by mere silence, violence or non-violence. To constitute cruelty, the conduct complained of, should be so grave and weighty as to come to the conclusion that the petitioner spouse cannot be reasonably expected to live with the other spouse. It must be more serious than ordinary wear and tear of the married life. The cumulative conduct, taking into consideration the circumstances and background of the parties has to be examined to reach the conclusion whether the conduct complained of amounts to cruelty in matrimonial laws or not. Thus, cruelty postulates a treatment of the petitioner, with such cruelty as to reasonable apprehension in the petitioner's mind that it will be harmful or injurious for the petitioner to live with the other spouse. Cruelty may be physical or mental. Mental cruelty may consist of verbal abuse and insult by using filthy and abusive language leading to constant disturbance of mental peace of the other party.

19. Thus, it appears that the "cruelty' under the Hindu Marriage Act has a different meaning altogether, than that of the concept of "cruelty' as envisaged in the Penal Code, 1860. It necessarily follows that even the act complained of, in the criminal proceeding may not constitute cruelty within the meaning of section 498A of the Penal Code, 1860, but, still such act may constitute a ground of divorce on the ground of cruelty where such acts are so grave and weighty as to come to the conclusion that the petitioner spouse cannot be reasonably expected to live with the other.

20. Since the concept of cruelty under the Penal Code, 1860 is not exactly identical with the concept of cruelty as envisaged under section 13(1)(ia) of the Hindu Marriage Act, this Court cannot hold that there will be any embarrassment on the part of the Civil Court in continuing with the trial of the suit during the pendency of the criminal proceeding.

21. In divorce petition, several opportunities were given to the petitioner to file written statement, but he failed to do so and as such the opportunity for filing his defence through written statement has been closed. Thus, the divorce petition is still pending at the stage of maturity and this Court had already directed the learned civil court to decide the suit expeditiously.

22. In my view, in these circumstances, the civil court will not find any embarrassment, if both the criminal proceeding and the civil suit are tried simultaneously as the scope of enquiry and the standard of proof in both the proceedings are not identical. Stay of any one of such suit/proceeding will surely have a wrong impact not only on the society but also on the parties in their matrimonial life. Under such circumstances, this Court does not find any justification to interfere with the order of learned civil court and thus, the petition being devoid of merit is, accordingly, dismissed.

23. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

List of Cases cited:

Satya Prakash & ors. Vs District Judge, Sultanpur & ors. , 2018 (1) AWC 877 (LB)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution has been preferred by the tenant, challenging an order dated 10.08.2018 passed by the Prescribed Authority under The Uttar Pradesh Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 (U.P. Act No.13 of 1972) (for short, 'the Act'), whereby her application under Section 28 of the Act has been rejected.

2. The petitioner, Smt. Fatima is a tenant in a shop situate in Churi Wali Gali, Mohalla Tansenganj, Pargana Khairabad, Tehsil and District Sitapur. Smt. Fatima shall hereinafter be called 'the tenant'. The original tenant in the shop was the tenant's husband and after his death, she has inherited the tenancy, where she claims to have a shop selling bangles. The landlady of the shop is Smt. Shahana Siddiqui, to whom the tenant pays rent at the rate of Rs.550/- per month. The current tenancy is there since the time of the former landlord, Kamal Ahmad Siddiqui. It is claimed on behalf of the tenant that the shop to the east of the demised shop collapsed during the rainy season of 2016, on account of which the eastern wall of the demised shop and a part of the lintel in the roof need repairs. The tenant has requested the landlady, respondent no.1 several times to get the demised shop repaired, but she did not oblige. Instead, the landlady flatly refused the request for repairs and threatened to get the shop vacated. Thereupon, the tenant sued for a permanent injunction before the Civil Judge (Jr. Div.), Sitapur seeking an injunction in terms that she may not be dispossessed from the demised shop otherwise than in due course of law. The said suit was numbered on the file of the Civil Judge (Jr. Div.), Sitapur as O.S. No.615 of 2016, which is still pending.

3. It is the tenant's further case that the landlady has refused to accept rent since the month of January, 2020, whereupon it was remitted by money order on 22.09.2016. The money order was also refused. The tenant is depositing the rent in Court under Section 30 of the Act vide Misc. Case No. 147 of 2016. The said case is also pending. The tenant caused a notice to be served upon the landlady through her Counsel on 06.12.2017 to get the eastern wall of the demised shop repaired, which the landlady duly received. But, the landlady did not get any repairs carried out, nor did she answer the notice. Accordingly, the tenant made an application to the Prescribed Authority under Section 28 of the Act, with a prayer that the eastern wall of the demised shop, details of which were given at the foot of the application, together with the western part of the lintel in the roof and the other damages to the shop, may be permitted to be repaired and the expenses defrayed out of rent payable for the period of two years.

4. Objections to the said applications were filed on behalf of the landlady, saying that the demised shop is in a dilapidated condition and the entire building, of which it is a part, is dilapidated. A substantial part of the building has fallen down over the period of a year and a half. The tenant or her daughters are not doing any business and the demised shop is virtually a rubble. It is mentioned that on 06.01.2015, the adjoining shop's projection collapsed, leading to injury sustained by many. At that time, the eastern wall of the demised shop also collapsed. The projection of the demised shop collapsed during the rainy season. The tenant and her daughters are insistent upon getting the demised shop, which is dilapidated, reconstructed forcibly. The building, where the shop is, located is about 100-150 years old and a danger to human life. There are then some not very relevant pleadings to the proceedings in hand, that say that the tenant has purchased a premises on a road called Krishna Babu Wali Sarak, that includes a house and three shops. The tenant and her daughters carry on their business there. This property had been purchased in the names of the tenant's daughters through a registered sale deed dated 07.06.2016 from one Jagdish Prasad son of Munshi Lal.

5. It has also figured on record that the landlady has been served a notice by the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika Parishad, Sitapur, under Section 263(1) of the U.P. Municipalities Act, 1916, asking her to demolish the demised shop, which is dilapidated and a danger to human life and property. A copy of the said notice dated 26.02.2016 is on record as Annexure No.3 to the writ petition. A commission was also issued by the Prescribed Authority before he decided the application under Section 28 of the Act by the order impugned. That report, though not very informative, broadly shows the demised property to be a dilapidated structure. The Prescribed Authority, vide the order impugned dated 10.08.2018, has rejected the tenant's application under Section 28 seeking permission to carry out repairs.

6. Aggrieved, this petition has been filed.

7. The Prescribed Authority has remarked that the tenant has not filed any estimate along with the application when according to Section 28 of the Act an estimate of the expenditure for the repairs is essential. The papers filed by the landlady include the notice that she had received from the Nagar Palika, asking her to demolish the shop as it was dilapidated and a danger to human life and property. The Prescribed Authority has particularly noticed that the competent Authority in the Nagar Palika, after due inspection, has passed orders, requiring the landlady to demolish the shop. It has been opined that the notice for demolition, that the landlady has received from the Nagar Palika, cannot be ignored. It has been observed that ignoring the report and permitting a repair of the shop would be taking a risk that does not appear to be worth its while. The premises are dilapidated and cannot be repaired, on account of which it has been directed to be demolished. It has also been noticed by the Prescribed Authority that there is threat to human life and property, if the shop is not demolished and permitted to be repaired. It is on these findings that the Prescribed Authority has rejected the application.

8. Heard Mr. R.D. Shahi, learned Counsel for the tenant-petitioner along with Mr. Bahar Ali and Mr. U.S. Sahai and Mr. Shakeel Ahmad Jamal, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the private respondents.

9. The learned Counsel for the tenant has impressed upon the Court that resistance by the landlady to the tenant's proposal and efforts to get the demised shop repaired is an effort to evict the tenant. The action of the landlady in thwarting the tenant's efforts to get the demised shop repaired at the latter's expense is a design and stratagem to get rid of the tenancy. Learned Counsel submits that even if the shop is demolished, the tenancy would not come to an end as the relationship of landlord and tenant would continue in respect of the underlying land. To the above end, learned Counsel for the tenant has relied upon a decision of this Court in Satya Prakash and others v. District Judge, Sultanpur and others, 2018 (1) AWC 877 (LB). In Satya Prakash (supra), it has been held:

"15. If the landlord tenant relationship existed between the petitioners and the opposite party No. 3 and it continued even after the destruction of the roofed structure as also if the tenancy did not become automatically void on such destruction, then, proceedings under Section 20 of the Act, 1972 would be maintainable before the SCC Court.

16. The moot point is, did the tenancy continue even after destruction of roofed structure. The first and foremost question, therefore, is whether the 'building' which was the subject matter of tenancy existed on the date of notice of eviction as also initiation of proceedings under Section 20 of the Act, 1972 or not. Section 3(i) of the Act, 1972 defines building as under:-

"3(i) "Building", means a residential or non-residential roofed structure and includes-

(i) any land (including any garden), garages and out-houses, appurtenant to such building;

(ii) any furniture supplied by the landlord for use in such building;

(ii) any fittings and fixtures affixed to such building for the more beneficial enjoyment thereof;"

17. Building as defined aforesaid comprises of a roofed structure and obviously land underneath or land which it bounds with its walls. The inclusive part of the definition relates to land appurtenant and not underneath. It has been so held by the Supreme Court in a decision of State of U. P. and Ors. v. VIIth Additional District Judge and Others, 1992 (4) SCC 429. The relevant extract of this judgment, which pertain to the Act, 1972, is quoted herein below:-

"7. In any case, the definition of 'building' under the Act clearly shows that the building thereunder means roofed structure including the land underneath the said structure. Inclusive part of the definition only relates to the land appurtenant to such building and not to the land underneath the roofed structure."

18. Generally speaking also the term 'building' includes the ground on which it stands as has been held by the Supreme Court in the case of D.G. Gose and Co. v. State of Kerala reported in MANU/SC/0330/1980 : (1980) 2 SCC 410, wherein the term 'lands and buildings' was under consideration in the context of Entry 49 of List II Schedule- VII of the Constitution. Paragraphs 21, 22 and 23 of which read as under:-

"21. The word "building" has been defined in the Oxford English Dictionary as follows:

That which is built; a structure, edifice: now a structure of the nature of a house built where it is to stand.

Entry 49 therefore includes the site of the building as its component part. That, if we may say so, inheres in the concept or the ordinary meaning of the expression "building".

22. A somewhat similar point arose for consideration in Corporation of the City of Victoria v. Bishop of Vancouver Island with reference to the meaning of the word "building" occurring in Section 197(1) of the Statutes of British Columbia, 1914. It was held that the word must receive its natural and ordinary meaning as "including the fabric of which it is composed, the ground upon which its walls stand and the ground embraced within those walls". That appears to us to be the correct meaning of "building".

23. The Act contains its own definition of what is meant by "building", and Clause (e) of Section 2 is to the following effect:

(e) "building" means a house, outhouse, garage, or any other structure or part thereof, whether of masonry, bricks, wood, metal or other material, but does not include any portable shelter or any shed constructed principally of mud, bamboos, leaves, grass or thatch or a latrine which is not attached to the main structure.

There are two explanations to the clause, but they are not relevant for the controversy before us. The definition therefore makes it quite clear that as a house, outhouse, garage or any other structure cannot be erected without the ground on which it is to stand, the expression "building" includes, the fabric of which it is composed, the ground upon which its walls stand and the ground within those walls. It is equally clear that the ground referred to above would not have a separate existence, apart from the building, and would not be "lands" jointly stated with "buildings" as the subject-matter of the tax in entry 49 of List II. In other words, the "ground" referred to above would not be the subject-matter of a separate tax, apart from the tax on the building standing on it."

19. The case of Corporation of the City of Victoria v. Bishop of Vancouver Island referred in the aforesaid judgment is reported in AIR 1921 PC 240. The same view has been taken by the Kerala High Court in a judgment reported in MANU/KE/0021/1995 : AIR 1995 Kerala 99; V. Kalpakam Amma v. Muthurama Iyer and another case reported in MANU/KE/0012/1991 : AIR 1991 Kerala 55; George J. Ovungal v. Peter.

20. In view of the above discussion, it is not in dispute that 'building' as defined in Section 3(i) of the Act, 1972 not only includes the structure constructed over the land but also the land over which it is constructed. It also includes the land appurtenant to the structure."

10. The learned Counsel appearing for the respondents emphasized that the question here is not about seeking eviction of the tenant, but abating a danger to human life and property, which the dilapidated building has become. The demolition notice issued by the Nagar Palika after due inspection, according to the learned Counsel for the respondents, is warrant enough to believe that the demised shop is no longer fit for human habitation or use.

11. At the hearing of this petition before this Court, there was much contention between parties, if indeed the demised shop was so dilapidated that it was beyond repair. The said question is a pure question of fact and the Prescribed Authority having taken a plausible view of the matter on facts and evidence to hold that the demised shop is so dilapidated that it is beyond repair and a danger to human life, this Court need not examine the question further. Considering, however, the fact that it is the cynosure of all contentions between parties, whether the demised shop is indeed so dilapidated that it cannot be repaired, this Court though it fit to issue a commission to the learned Civil Judge (Sr. Div.), Sitapur vide order dated 02.12.2021, requiring him to ascertain whether the shop in dispute is dilapidated beyond redemption. It was also directed that the learned Civil Judge would have the assistance of a competent Civil Engineer from the local establishment of the PWD at Sitapur and the entire proceedings of the commission would be photographed and videographed.

12. The learned Civil Judge executed our commission on 08.12.2021, maintaining an order-sheet of the proceedings from 04.12.2021 to 08.12.2021 very punctiliously. The commission too was executed by the learned Civil Judge (Sr. Div.), Sitapur, Mr. Pramod Singh Yadav with great industry, care and ability. He inspected the demised shop from within and without as also from the roof top, which appears from his report to have been a considerably perilous venture. He had with him an Executive Engineer from the Public Works Department, Sitapur, besides a photographer, who captured both stills and videos of the demised shop and the building of which it is a part. The photographs are annexed as Annexures 10 to 20 to the learned Civil Judge's commission report. There is a separate C.D. also submitted, which gives a more 'live' and 'realistic' picture of the condition that the demised shop and the building housing it is in. The relevant part of the commission report submitted by the learned Civil Judge must be quoted in some of its relevant detail. It reads:

"वादग्रस्त दुकान की छत के निरीक्षण के उपरांत मेरे द्वारा दुकान के अंदर की दीवार अक्षरांकित BC, CD तथा DG का निरीक्षण करने का प्रयास किया गया। निरीक्षण के दौरान यह पाया गया कि दुकान के अंदर की दीवार अक्षरांकित BC, CD तथा DG सामने से नहीं दिख रही थी बल्कि उसके किनारे किनारे लकड़ी व लोहे की रैक में दुकान का समान रखा था। समान हटवा कर देखने पर दीवार का कुछ अंश (कुछ ईंटें) दिखाई दिया जो बिना प्लास्टर का था। वीडियो सी०डी० संलग्नक सं० 22 में 15:00 मिनट से 15:12 मिनट तक दुकान के अंदर से दीवार के अंश को दिखाया गया है। वादग्रस्त दुकान के ऊपर रोड की तरफ़ नीले रंग की प्लास्टिक की पन्नी लगी थी जिसे हटवाकर दुकान की दीवार अक्षरांकित AB के ऊपर की दीवार (जिसके बारे में श्रीमती फ़ातिमा के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा बताया गया कि उक्त

13. The above report does not spare a grain of doubt that the demised shop is a public nuisance and a serious hazard to human life and property in its vicinity. It is already under a statutory demolition notice issued by the Nagar Palika. It has been spared demolition because of the interim order passed by this Court. After looking into the report of the commission and the photographs, this Court is, indeed, surprised that the tenant seeks to prevent, by asking for repairs of the said shop, demolition of a building that may imperil her own life or those of her family members. This Court finds the stand of the tenant very unreasonable and very unfair. There is absolutely nothing to suggest that the landlady's stand in the present proceedings is one to secure the tenant's eviction. The state and condition of the demised shop is abominable and a towering threat to one and all in the vicinity. The Nagar Palika ought to take immediate steps to carry out its statutory duty in the larger public interest and raise down the demised shop, including the entire dilapidated structure of which it is a part. Of course, demolition has to be carried out, if it has to be done by the Nagar Palika, strictly in accordance with law and after hearing affected parties, but at the same time, not stretching the processes to an extent that the mischief, that is sought to be remedied, comes true.

14. In view of what has been said hereinabove, this Court does not find any merit in this petition. It is dismissed with costs in the sum of Rs.25,000/- payable by the tenant to the first respondent-landlady. The interim order dated 28.08.2018 is hereby vacated.

15 . Let a copy of this order be communicated to the Judge, Small Cause Court, Sitapur and the Executive Officer, Nagar Palika Parishad, Sitapur by the Senior Registrar.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Saroj Yadav, J.)

1. These two appeals have been filed by the convicts/appellants Smt. Reena Srivastava and Ajai Prasad @ Ajai Kumar @ Dhirendra Kumar Srivastava (herein-after referred to Ajai Prasad, against the impugned judgment and order dated 18.11.2008 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 4, Sultanpur in Sessions Trial No. 315 of 2005 arising out of Case Crime No. 391 of 2005 under Section 302/34 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (in short "I.P.C."), Police Station Musafirkhana, District Sultanpur, whereby convict/appellant Reena Srivastava has been held guilty for the offence punishable under Section 302/34 IPC and sentenced to imprisonment for life coupled with a fine of Rs.20,000/- and in default of payment of fine a further sentence for a period of one year and convict/appellant Ajai Prasad has been held guilty under Section 302 IPC and sentenced to life imprisonment coupled with a fine of Rs. 30,000/- and in default of payment of fine, further sentence for a period of one year and six months.

2. Necessary facts for disposal of these appeals in short are as under:-

A First Information Report (in short F.I.R.) was registered at Case Crime No. 391 of 2005, under Section 302 I.P.C. at Police Station Musafirkhana, District Sultanpur on the basis of a written report presented by the complainant Pankaj Kumar. In the written report it has been narrated that the complainant and his brother Satish and Vipin after having their meals in the night, went to sleep in their rooms and rest of the family members went to sleep on the roof along with their mother. In the night the wife of his brother Vipin at about 1 O'clock went to sleep on the roof near his (complainant) mother. In the morning of 19.06.2005 at about 6 AM, his mother shouted loudly and told that Vipin was lying dead on his bed. He ran towards the room of his brother Vipin and found him lying dead on his bed. There were injuries on his body. Some unknown person had killed him in the night.

3. The F.I.R. was registered on 19.06.2005 at 8.20 AM. Investigation started, Panchayatnama of the body of the deceased was conducted. Body was sent for post-mortem examination and post-mortem examination was conducted on the cadaver of the deceased. During investigation, the Investigating Officer finding incriminating material against the convicts/appellants arrested them on 27.06.2005, whereafter they allegedly confessed the crime. On the same day i.e. 27.06.2005 the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad got recovered the knife, which was used for murdering the deceased and also the Vest (Baniyan), which he wore at the time of killing the deceased and on which blood spilled. The recovery of weapon of offence was made at the pointing out of the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad in the presence of the witnesses and the recovery memo of the same was prepared, which is Exhibit Ka-26. At the time of recovery of weapon the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad confessed the crime and told that this is the knife which he used to kill the deceased Vipin and he killed him by stabbing the knife in his neck and the Vest, which he wore at the time of committing murder got stained with blood of the deceased, therefore, he hid the knife and Vest at the place of recovery.

4. After completing the investigation, the Investigating Officer found the involvement of both the convicts/appellants in the crime and submitted charge-sheet against them under Section 302/34 IPC. On the charge-sheet so submitted, learned Magistrate concerned took the cognizance and committed the case to the Court of Sessions for trial. The Court of Sessions framed the charges under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC against the convict/appellant Reena Srivastava and under Section 302 IPC against the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad. Both the convicts/appellants denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

5. In order to prove its case the prosecution examined 10 witnesses, which are as under:-

(i) P.W. 1- Pankaj Kumar Srivastava, the complainant and the brother of the deceased;

(ii) P.W. 2- Prabhavati Srivastava, the mother of the deceased;

(iii) P.W. 3- Dr. Mahendra Maurya, Physician who conducted the post-mortem of the body of the deceased-Vipin Kumar Srivastava;

(iv) P.W. 4- Head Moharrir, Alok Kumar Singh, who registered the FIR and entered the same in the concerned General Diary (G.D.);

(v) P.W. 5- Daljeet Singh, Senior Sub-inspector, who accompanied the Officer-in-Charge Nirankar Singh at the time of recovery of weapon of offence and the Vest at the pointing out of the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad;

(vi) P.W. 6- Yaduraj Singh, an independent witness;

(vii) P.W. 7- Mamta Srivastava, sister of the deceased;

(viii) P.W. 8- Shailendra Kumar Srivastava, younger brother of the deceased;

(ix) P.W. 9- Chandra Prakash Tiwari, Officer-in-Charge of Police Station Musafirkhana and second I.O.of the case;

(x) P.W. 10-Nirankar Singh, Officer-in-Charge of Police Station, who initially conducted the investigation.

Apart from above witnesses, relevant documents have also been proved by the prosecution, which are as under:-

(i) Exhibit Ka-1- Written report;

(ii) Exhibit Ka-2- Inquest report;

(iii) Exhibit Ka-3- Post-mortem-examination report;

(iv) Exhibit Ka-4- Chik F.I.R.;

(v) Exhibit Ka-5- Nakal Rapat No. 14, 8.20 hours dated 19.06.2005;

(vi) Exhibit Ka-6- Recovery Memo of knife used in murder and the Vest stained with blood;

(vii) Exhibit Ka-7- Site-plan of the place of recovery of knife;

(viii) Exhibit Ka-8- Charge-sheet;

(ix) Exhibit Ka-9- Site-plan of the place of occurrence;

(x) Exhibit Ka-10- Specimen seal;

(xi) Exhibit Ka-11- Police Form No. 13;

(xii) Exhibit Ka-12- Police Form No. 379;

(xiii) Exhibit Ka-13- Letter to Reserve Inspector (R.I.) for getting post-mortem done;

(xiv) Exhibit Ka-14- Letter to Chief Medical Officer, Sultanpur for conducting the post-mortem;

(xv) Exhibit Ka-15- Recovery Memo of taking into custody the blood stained clothes from the place of occurrence;

(xvi) Paper No. 70 Ka, F.S.L. Report, Mahanagar, Lucknow.

6. After completion of evidence of prosecution, statements of convicts/appellants under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, (in short Cr.P.C.) were recorded. The convict/appellant Reena Srivastava denied almost all the facts and shown ignorance about some facts. She has also stated that arrest was made wrongly and the recovery is also false. She has further stated that she has been implicated due to enmity and the witnesses have also deposed due to enmity. She has further stated that between her brother-in-law Pankaj Kumar Srivastava and the deceased Vipin Kumar Srivastava, there was a dispute regarding the supervision and post in School and also about Rs.5 Lacs, which their father got after retirement. For this reason, Vipin Kumar Srivastava was killed and she was implicated falsely in the crime. The convict/appellant Ajai Prasad in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. also denied the crime and other facts and stated that he was wrongly arrested and he was implicated in the crime due to enmity. The witnesses have also deposed due to enmity. He has further stated that he came the house of complainant on asking of his cousin brother Ramesh, along with his daughter Alka and son Narendra and he was implicated falsely in the crime.

7. In defence the convicts/appellant examined D.W. 1- Narendra Kumar Srivastava, the brother of the convict Reena Srivastava and D.W. 2- Smt. Rani Devi, aunt of convict Reena Srivastava and sister-in-law of Prabhawati Devi (mother of the deceased).

8. After completion of evidence, learned trial Court heard the arguments of both the sides. After analyzing the evidence available on record, the trial Court relied upon on the evidence of witnesses of facts examined and found medical evidence consistent with the oral evidence and came to the conclusion that it is proved by circumstantial evidence that the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad killed the deceased Vipin Kumar Srivastava by knife along with convict/appellant Reena Srivastava in furtherance of common intention. Learned trial Court held the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad guilty under Section 302 IPC and convict/appellant Reena Srivastava under Section 302/34 IPC and punished them with sentence noted herein-above. Being aggrieved of this conviction and sentence these two appeals have been preferred.

9. Heard Shri Indu Prakash Singh, learned counsel for the convict/appellant Smt. Reena Srivastava in Criminal Appeal No. 2702 of 2008, Shri Pramod Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad @ Ajai Kumar @ Dhirendra Kumar Srivastava in Criminal Appeal No. 2786 of 2008 and Shri Chandra Shekhar Pandey, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State respondent.

10. Learned counsel for the convicts/appellants submitted that convicts/appellants were not named in the F.I.R. The F.I.R. was registered against unknown persons and subsequently convicts/appellants were implicated falsely. All the witnesses of facts are relatives of the deceased. There is no eye witness of the crime. Learned trial Court has held the convicts/appellants guilty and sentenced them on the basis of suspicion alone. Learned trial Court has paid no attention to the evidence of defence witnesses. The whole story of the prosecution is an afterthought. In fact, the complainant was annoyed with the deceased as their father ousted the complainant from the management of the School and handed over to the deceased, so the complainant was angry and he killed the deceased and implicated the convicts-appellants falsely in the crime in a planned manner, hence the impugned judgment and order should be set aside.

11. To the contrary, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State respondent submitted that prosecution has proved its case beyond all reasonable doubts and the circumstances related to the crime have been proved. The recovery of knife used to kill the deceased was recovered at the pointing out of the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad and he confessed the crime at the time of recovery. The blood stained Vest which he wore at the time of murder of the deceased was also recovered at the pointing out of the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad. The motive has also been proved as there was illicit relation between the convicts/ appellants Reena Srivastava and Ajai Prasad and for that reason, the deceased was killed. All the links of chain of circumstances have been proved by the prosecution and the prosecution has proved its case beyond all reasonable doubts. The circumstances so proved manifestly evince that the deceased was killed by the convicts/appellants in furtherance of common intention of both and convict/appellant Ajai Prasad killed the deceased with knife. There is no error in the impugned judgment and order, therefore, these appeals should be dismissed.

12. Considered the rival submissions and perused the original record as well as the records of the appeals.

13. The evidence available on record as well as the perusal of impugned judgment shows that there is no dispute regarding date and place of occurrence. The time and date of lodging the FIR has also not been disputed. The F.I.R. of the case was lodged against the unknown persons alleging that the complainant, deceased and their younger brother Satish all went to sleep in their rooms after having meals and rest of the family members went to sleep on the roof along with their mother. In the night at about 1 O'clock the wife of Vipin i.e. Reena Srivastava went to sleep on the roof where mother of the complainant was sleeping with other family members. In the morning of 19.06.2005 at about 6 AM when the mother of the complainant shouted loudly that Vipin was lying dead on his bed, then the complainant rushed to the room of the deceased Vipin and found him lying dead on his bed. He also found injuries on his body and guessed that some unknown person had killed him in the night. During the course of investigation, the name of the convicts/appellants Reena Srivastava and Ajai Prasad surfaced. It came to light, that Reena Srivastava, the wife of the deceased and Ajai Prasad, who happens to be the uncle of Reena Srivastava had killed the deceased-Vipin. The motive was that Ajai Prasad and Reena Srivastava had illicit relations with each other. P.W. 1-the complainant in this regard in his examination-in-chief has stated that Ajay Prasad happens to be the uncle of Reena Srivastava and Reena Srivastava is the wife of his brother Vipin. Narendra Srivastava is brother-in-law of the deceased Vipin. Ajai Prasad and Reena Srivastava had illicit relations. This fact came to knowledge just some days ahead of the incident when Reena Srivastava conversed with Ajai Prasad on telephone and that conversation was heard by the mother of this witness. He has further stated that incident occurred in the night of 18/19-06.2005. About one week ahead of the incident Narendra Srivastava, Alka (brother and sister of Reena Srivastava) and convict/appellant Ajai Prasad came to his house. On the night of incident, his mother Prabhavati Devi closed the main door of the house. In the night, after having meals his wife Shyama Devi slept on the roof where his mother went to sleep along with his child Ashish. He slept in his own room. His brother Vipin and his wife Reena Srivastava slept in their room. His younger brother Satish was also slept in his own room situated in the south of his (P.W. 1's) room. Narendra Kumar, Alka and the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad slept in the mid portion of the school situated in the west of the house. His mother requested all these three persons to sleep inside the house but they did not agree and slept in the school. They all took meals at about 10-11 PM in the night. In the morning when his mother woke up, then she saw that Reena Srivastava had already taken bath and Vipin did not come out of his room. Reena Srivastava was preparing breakfast in the Kitchen for convict/appellant Ajai Prasad, and her brother and sister as they had to go back to their home in Chitrakoot. His mother found that main door of the house was open, so she asked Reena Srivastava and others to check the goods in their rooms but Reena Srivastava did not go in her room. No articles/goods were found missing from the house. His mother went in the room of his brother Vipin and found him lying dead on his bed. She shouted and told to everybody about the situation. When Reena was asked about the death of Vipin, then she showed her ignorance about the incident and said that she went to sleep on the roof at about 1 O'clock in the night. This witness has proved written report as Exhibit Ka-1 in his hand-writing and signature. This witness has further stated that the bed on which his brother Vipin was slept on the day of incident, the pillow, bed-sheet, mattress and towel on that bed were found blood stained. The loincloth of the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad, which he wore on that day was also blood stained. Dead body of his brother Vipin was covered by that loincloth. The saree which Reena Srivastava wore in the night of the incident was also blood stained and that was lying near the water tap, where she took bath. All these clothes were taken into custody by the Investigating Officer. He has further stated that dead body of his brother was sealed in a white cloth after conducting 'Panchayatnama', and the same was sent for post-mortem-examination. He was made one 'Panch' of Panchayatnama. This witness recognized his signature on 'Panchayatnama', which is Exhibit Ka-2 on the record. Lengthy cross-examination has been made by the defence counsel but no adverse fact or major contradiction could be brought in the cross-examination of this witness.

14. P.W. 2- Smt. Prabhavati Srivastava (mother of the deceased) has stated that when Reena Srivastava used to live as daughter-in-law in her house, the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad used to talk her regularly on telephone. Reena Srivastava also used to talk him on telephone secretly. This fact was not relished by Vipin (deceased). They all used to placate Reena Srivastava that, that was not good as she was married.The convict/appellant Reena Srivastava invited convict/appellant Ajai Prasad to her home by making telephone call. The convict/appellant Ajai Prasad came along with Narendra and Alka, who were brother and sister of the convict/appellant Reena Srivastava. Her son Vipin used to ask Reena not to call Ajai Prasad, if there is a need make a call to her own parental home. Reena Srivastava invited Ajai Prasad as Marriage Anniversary of Vipin and Reena was to be celebrated on the date 16th. In the night of the incident, she slept on the roof along with her children Vivek, Shailendra, Reeta and her husband Vishambhar Dayal Srivastava. On that night her husband was not feeling well. Her son Vipin and Reena and another son Pankaj and his wife Shyama Devi and third son Satish were slept in their rooms on the ground floor. On the day of incident, main door of the house and the door towards the school were closed by her at the time when she went to sleep. The convict/appellant Ajai Prasad slept in the compound of school on that day, while on the previous days, he slept on the roof of the house. In the mid-night, she heard the noise of falling of water from the water-tap, then she asked Reena about the same, then her daughter-in-law Reena answered that her cousin was asking for water and she is giving the same. After some time, her daughter-in-law Reena came on the roof to sleep. When she asked about her coming on the roof, she told that there was hot on the ground floor, so she had come there. This witness has further stated that on the roof Reena was restless and it was appearing that she was puzzled, restless and nervous. At about quarter to 5 or 5.30 AM her daughter-in-law Reena told her that main gate of the house was open and she felt scared. Then, she (witness) asked her (Reena) how the gate was opened, then she showed ignorance about the same. Knowing it, she came down and found that main gate was open and she asked Reena about Vipin, then she told that he was sleeping. She has further stated that on the night of incident she herself closed the main door of the house and that door could not be opened without opening from inside or without breaking. She checked the goods/articles of the house and also her own box and asked the family members to check the goods/articles but Reena did not go to check her room in-spite of her asking. Reena brought her toothpaste, toothbrush and clothes from her room and took bath and dipped clothes which she wore in the night in a bucket. By that time she (witness) was not aware about the incident. Reena went into the Kitchen and started preparing breakfast for going to her maternal home. She asked Reena to awake Vipin but she did not go to wake Vipin up. In the morning at about 6 or 6.30 AM a mason (Mistri) namely Mumtaj came there as some construction work in the school was to be done. Mason asked to call Vipin, then she called Vipin from the door but no response was received. Then she went inside the room and found that Vipin was lying dead on the bed and blood was also there on the bed. She raised cry, then other family members reached there and saw blood soaked dead body of Vipin. Thereafter his son went to inform at the Police Station. Reena was puzzled after this incident. This witness has also been cross-examined in detail by the defence counsel but no major contradiction could be brought in the cross-examination.

15. P.W. 7-Mamta Srivastava is the sister of the deceased. She has also supported the case of the prosecution. She has stated in her examination in chief that she came to her parental home as her father was not feeling well. The incident occurred on 18.06.2005. On 13.06.2005 Narendra (brother in law of Vipin) and their uncle Ajai Prasad came there. In the morning of 18.06.2005, they had to go to their home but Reena asked Vipin to ask these persons to stay more. In the night at about 10 O'clock all the persons took meals and went to sleep. Vipin and his wife Reena went to sleep in their room. Elder brother Pankaj Kumar Srivastava and his wife Shyama Devi went to sleep in their room and brother Satish went to sleep in his own room. She, her husband Ajay Srivastava, sister Reeta, mother Prabha Devi, father Vishambhar, brother Vivek and Sonu went to sleep on the roof. Narendra Srivastava, Alka and Ajai Prasad, who came there from the parental home of Reena went to sleep in the School. All these three persons used to sleep on the roof along with them since the day they had come but on that day they went to sleep in the school on the pretext of inconvenience on the roof and on asking by Reena they slept in the school. Her mother asked them to sleep in the ground in front of the house but Reena Srivastava said that it is not good to sleep in the open and they all slept in the School. On the day of incident, her younger sister-in-law also came to sleep on the roof due to hot weather. When the noise of opening of water tap was heard by her she got awake. She also heard some noise of whispering at that time. After sometime, Reena Srivastava came on the roof and lay-down near her mother. At about 6.30 AM she heard the cry of her mother then she along with others went downward and saw that her brother Vipin was lying dead on his bed. There was injury on his neck and blood was there on the bed. She and her brother Sonu picked Vipin up and brought outside the house and saw that he was dead. She has further stated that Reena Srivastava had taken bath before they came down from the roof and started to work in the Kitchen. Mason namely Mumtaj came and he asked to call Vipin, then her mother asked Reena to wake Vipin up, but Reena ignored that, then her mother sent her younger sister Reeta to wake Vipin up and she called Vipin but received no answer. Then she asked her mother to go to Vipin's room, her mother went to the room of Vipin and cried. Then they all rushed downward. She has further stated that Ajai Prasad used to sit with Reena alone in her room for 2-3 hours in the absence of Vipin. This conduct of Reena Srivastava was not liked by them. Her father did not like it and asked Reena to talk with Ajai Prasad sitting outside the room. On it Reena felt annoyed. Vipin also objected to this conduct of Reena Srivastava.

16. P.W. 8 is Shailendra Kumar @ Sonu, the younger brother of the deceased. This witness has stated that on 18.06.2005 his elder brother Vipin was getting some construction work done in the school situated adjacent to his home. In the evening at about 7 O'clock his brother after taking bath became ready to go on motorcycle. On asking he told that he was going outside. On it he (P.W. 8) asked his brother that he also wish to accompany him. On it, his brother Vipin said he was going on being asked by Reena Srivastava for entertainment of Ajai Prasad as he wished for some outing. His brother Vipin agreed to take him along. Therefore, he along with his brother and Ajai Prasad went on motorcycle to Aliganj. They all ate ice-cream. From that place, Ajay Prasad started driving motorcycle and drove the same to a shop of cannabis (Bhaang). There Ajai Prasad along-with his brother Vipin went inside the shop and he remained outside near the motorcycle. About 20-25 minutes after, they both came out. Vipin asked Ajai Prasad that you have made me to eat 3-4 tablets of cannabis, now your niece (Reena) will be angry with him (Vipin) but Ajai Prasad said that Reena Srivastava would say nothing. This witness has further stated that he heard all this but said nothing. In the night they all took meals and went to sleep on the roof near his parents. Reena and Vipin went to sleep in their room. Ajai Prasad and Narendra went to sleep in the campus of School adjacent to the house. In the morning at about 6 or 6.30 AM, he woke up, hearing the cry of her mother and rushed downward and found that his brother Vipin was murdered on his bed. He has further stated that in the morning the main door of house was found open. His sister-in-law Reena Srivastava took out her toothbrush, toothpaste and clothes etc from her room and took bath and changed the clothes but she did not tell anything about the murder of his brother Vipin to anyone and started to work in the Kitchen. In the morning when labourers came and asked to call Vipin then his mother asked Reena Srivastava to call Vipin but she ignored, then his mother herself went to wake Vipin up, then found that Vipin was killed by some one and she cried. This witness has further stated that before this incident Reena and Ajai Prasad used to sit alone in the room for a long time and this conduct of Reena and Ajai Prasad was not liked by the family members. His father also objected to it. He has further stated that for these reasons he and his family members have full belief that his brother was killed by Ajai Prasad along with his sister-in-law Reena Srivastava

17. All the witnesses of facts have been cross-examined at length but no major contradiction could be brought in the evidence of these witnesses. These all witnesses of facts have proved that Ajai Prasad and Reena Srivastava used to talk on telephone for a long time and whenever Ajai Prasad used to visit their house, Reena Srivastava and Ajai Prasad used to sit in the room alone for a long time and that was not liked by the family members or even by the deceased Vipin. The father of the deceased objected to it. On it, Reena Srivastava felt annoyed. The incident occurred inside the bed-room of Vipin and Reena Srivastava where in the night initially they both went to sleep together but about 1 O'clock in the night Reena left the room and went to sleep on the roof where her mother-in-law was sleeping along with other family members. It has also been proved by these witnesses that so called uncle of Reena along with Narendra and Alka (brother and sister of Reena) slept on that night in the campus of the School adjacent to their house on the pretext of inconvenience in sleeping on the roof. During investigation, the Investigating Officer observed the conduct of both the convicts/appellants and asked the family members to keep an eye on these two persons as they are prime suspects, as has been stated by P.W. 10-Nirankar Singh, Officer in Charge of Police Station, who initially made investigation.

18. P.W. 10 has stated that he conducted 'Panchayatnama' of the body of the deceased, which is exhibit Ka-9. He sent the body of the deceased for post-mortem examination along with relevant papers, which have been proved by him as Exhibit Ka 10 to 14. Thereafter, he recovered from the bed, one blood stained pillow, towel, loincloth, bed-sheet and one corner of mattress by cutting out of the blood stained mattress, on which the deceased had slept at the time of incident and the same were taken into custody and recovery memo was prepared on the spot by him under his own hand-writing and signature. This witness has proved recovery memo as Exhibit Ka-15. He has further stated that he recorded the statement of Satish and Shailendra on 19.06.2005. On 20.06.2005, he received the carbon copy of post-mortem-examination report and noted the same in the case diary and recorded the statements of other witnesses including the statement of mother of the deceased Prabhavati, Ramesh Babu Srivastava, Shobha Devi, Shyama Devi, Reena (wife of the deceased), Smt. Kailash Devi, Hari Prasad Gupta, Narendra Srivastava, Ajay Srivastava, Mamta Srivastava and Reeta. On 25.06.2005 he recorded the statement of Vinay Kumar and on 26.06.2005 he recorded the statement of Shailendra @ Sonu. Thereafter, he alerted the family members of the deceased to keep a vigil on Reena as the investigation is on its crucial stage. Thereafter he recorded the statement of Vishambhar Dayal, Ajay Srivastava (son of Pyare Lal), Prabhavati and Mamta again. On 27.06.2005 he arrested Reena and Ajai Prasad at 14.15 hours as accused persons and went back to Police Station and entry of the same was made in the General Diary (G.D.) at Rapat No. 21, time 14.40 hours, dated 27.06.2005 on his own dictation by Constable Ashok Singh and he signed the same. The carbon copy of this entry has been proved as Exhibit Ka-16. This witness has further stated that statement of Reena and Ajai Prasad were recorded and both of them confessed their crime. The convict/appellant Ajai Prasad said that he would get recovered the knife used in the murder and also the Vest, which he wore at the time of committing murder. Thereafter, on 27.06.2005 itself he along with S.S.I. Daljeet Singh and fellow Constable Shiv Kumar, in a Government Vehicle driven by Driver Kesh Bahadur Singh along with accused Ajai Prasad with the expectation of recovery of knife, the weapon of crime, started from the police station to village Daudpur, the house of the deceased Vipin, when they reached there, the witnesses Ajay Srivastava son of Pyare Lal and Satish were there, then accused Ajai Prasad got down from the Jeep and started walking towards Prabhavati City Montessori Junior High School, Daudpur and entered inside the gate of that and came out of the north gate and at a distance of about 9 paces from the gate, he took out a knife from Moonj (a sort of grass) present inside the bushes on which the blood was there. He also took out a Vest of white colour, on that also blood stains were there and told that this is the knife by which he killed Vipin stabbing in his neck and this is the Vest which he wore at that time and blood stains were printed on it. He further stated that he hid the same here at this place. This witness has further stated that knife and Vest were taken into police custody in front of the witnesses and recovered articles i.e. knife and Vest were sealed in a cloth and the recovery memo was prepared at the spot upon his dictation by SSI Daljeet Singh and the copy of the same was given to the accused. The recovery memo was signed by the police personnel who accompanied him to the spot. Recovery memo was proved by this witness as Exhibit Ka-6. Recovered knife and the Vest were also summoned in the Court and shown to the witness and he identified as recovered at the pointing out of the accused Ajai Prasad. That knife was exhibited as material exhibit 1 and Vest as material exhibit 2. The articles which were recovered from the room where the deceased was murdered were also summoned in the Court and shown to this witness. He identified the articles as blood soaked pillow, towel, loincloth, bed-sheet, a piece of mattress and the specimen seal. These all exhibited as material Exhibit 3 to 7. S.S.I. Daljeet Singh, who accompanied the Investigating Officer at the time of recovery of knife and Vest at the pointing out of the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad has been examined as P.W. 5. He has also proved the recovery of knife and Vest at the pointing out of the accused Ajai Prasad.

19. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Kishore Bhadke Versus State of Maharashtra (2017) 3 Supreme Court Cases 760 has held that "Section 27 of the Evidence Act is an exception to Section 25 of the Act. Section 25 mandates that no confession to a Police Officer while in police custody shall be proved as against a person accused of any offence. Section 27, however, provides that any fact deposed to and discovered in consequence of information received from a person accused of any offence, in the custody of a Police Officer, so much of such information, whether it amounts to a confession or not, as relates distinctly to the fact thereby discovered, may be proved."

20. In Mehboob Ali and another Versus State of Rajasthan (2016) 14 Supreme Court Cases 640, the Hon'ble Apex Court in this regard has held as under:-

"12. Section 25 of the Evidence Act provides that no confession made to a Police Officer shall be proved as against a person accused of any offence. Section 26 provides that no confession made by any person while he is in the custody of a police officer, unless it be made in the immediate presence of a Magistrate, shall be proved as against such person. Section 27 is in the form of a proviso, it lays down how much of an information received from accused may be proved. 13. For application of section 27 of Evidence Act, admissible portion of confessional statement has to be found as to a fact which were the immediate cause of the discovery, only that would be part of legal evidence and not the rest. In a statement if something new is discovered or recovered from the accused which was not in the knowledge of the Police before disclosure statement of the accused is recorded, is admissible in the evidence."

21. Hon'ble Apex Court further held in the above case as under:-

"16. This Court in State (NCT of Delhi) v. Navjot Sandhu alias Afsan Guru [(2005) 11 SCC 600] has considered the question of discovery of a fact referred to in section 27. This Court has considered plethora of decisions and explained the decision in Pulukuri Kottaya & Ors. V. Emperor [AIR 1947 PC 67] and held thus :

"125. We are of the view that Kottaya case [AIR 1947 PC 67] is an authority for the proposition that "discovery of fact" cannot be equated to the object produced or found. It is more than that. The discovery of fact arises by reason of the fact that the information given by the accused exhibited the knowledge or the mental awareness of the informant as to its existence at a particular place.

126. We now turn our attention to the precedents of this Court which followed the track of Kottaya case. The ratio of the decision in Kottaya case reflected in the underlined passage extracted supra was highlighted in several decisions of this Court.

127. The crux of the ratio in Kottaya case was explained by this Court in State of Maharashtra v. Damu. Thomas J. observed that: (SCC p. 283, para 35)

'35. ...The decision of the Privy Council in Pulukuri Kottaya v. Emperor (supra) is the most quoted authority for supporting the interpretation that the "fact discovered' envisaged in the section embraces the place from which the object was produced, the knowledge of the accused as to it, but the information given must relate distinctly to that effect.

22. In Raju Manjhi Versus State of Bihar (2019) 12 Supreme Court Cases

784, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"13. The other ground urged on behalf of the appellant is that the so called confessional statement of the appellant has no evidentiary value under law for the reason that it was extracted from the accused under duress by the police. It is true, no confession made by any person while he was in the custody of police shall be proved against him. But, the Evidence Act provides that even when an accused being in the custody of police makes a statement that reveals some information leading to the recovery of incriminating material or discovery of any fact concerning to the alleged offence, such statement can be proved against him. It is worthwhile at this stage to have a look at Section 27 of the Evidence Act.

27. How much of information received from accused may be proved.- Provided that, when any fact is deposed to as discovered in consequence of information received from a person accused of any offence, in the custody of a police officer, so much of such information, whether it amounts to a confession or not, as relates distinctly to the fact thereby discovered may be proved.

14. In the case on hand, before looking at the confessional statement made by the accused-appellant in the light of Section 27 of the Evidence Act, may be taken into fold for limited purposes. From the aforesaid statement of the appellant, it is clear that he had explained the way in which the accused committed the crime and shared the spoils. He disclosed the fact that Munna Manjhi was the Chief/Head of the team of assailants and the crime was executed as per the plan made by him. It is also came into light by his confession that the accused broke the doors of the house of informant with the aid of heavy stones and assaulted the inmates with pieces of wood (sticks). He categorically stated that he and Rampati Manjhi were guarding at the outside while other accused were committing the theft. The recoveries of used polythene pouches of wine, money, clothes, chains and bangle were all made at the disclosure by the accused which corroborates his confessional statement and proves his guilt. Therefore, the confessional statement of the appellant stands and satisfies the test of Section 27 of the Evidence Act."

23. In the present matter the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad confessed his crime and got recovered knife used for murdering the deceased Vipin and also got recovered the Vest, which he wore at the time of committing the murder and on that Vest got blood stains due to stabbing of knife to the deceased. The knife and Vest recovered at the pointing out of the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad were sent for forensic examination and the report is Paper No. 70 Ka on the record. This report shows that the knife and Vest have been shown at Serial No. 12 and 13. On all the articles from Serial Nos. 1 to 13 blood was found but origin could not be ascertained as the blood got disintegrated. According to the statement of Investigating Officer and witness Daljeet Singh has proved that blood stains were there on the knife as well as on the Vest.

24. P.W. 9- Chandra Prakash Tiwari, Officer-in-Charge of Police Station Musafirkhana and second I.O. of the case. He took over investigation as the previous I.O. Nirankar Singh was transferred and he (P.W. 9) was posted as Officer-in-Charge of the Police Station Musafirkhana. He has proved the part of investigation made by him. He inspected the place of recovery of knife and Vest and prepared the site-plan of the place of recovery in his own hand-writing and signature. He has proved the site-plan as Ext. Ka-7. The case property was sent by him for chemical examination on 12.07.2005. On 27.07.2005 he recorded the statements of some other witnesses and on 28.07.2005 he submitted the Charge-sheet No. 73 of 2005 against the convicts/appellants Reena Srivastava and Ajai Prasad under Section 302 IPC. This witness has proved the charge-sheet as Ext Ka-8. The Doctor, who conducted the post-mortem has been examined as P.W. 3. He has proved the post-mortem examination report as Ext. Ka-3. According to the post-mortem-examination-report following injuries were found on the body of the deceased:-

"(i) Incised wound 4 cm X 3 cm X 3 cm over left side neck 4 cm below from left ear lobule margins are clear and underlies, major vessels, muscle and nerve are cut.

(iii) Incised wound 3 cm X 1 cm X skin deep over right side of scrotum right testicular sac is bulging from injuries. "

This witness has stated that death of the deceased resulted due to shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries. According to this witness, death of the deceased might be possible on 18/19-06-2005 in the night by an assault of knife. The injuries found on the body of the deceased are in consonance with what have been told by other witnesses of facts as well as Investigating Officer. The weapon of offence which was recovered at the pointing out of the accused Ajai Prasad, is a knife.

25. Learned counsel for the convicts/appellants contended that all the witnesses are relative witnesses, hence they should not be relied on. This contention of the learned counsel is not tenable as it is settled law that the testimony of the related witness cannot be discarded only for the reason that they are relatives of the deceased.

26. In Kartik Malhar Vs. State of Bihar: (1996) 1 SCC 614, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently, being a partisan witness, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dilip Singh's case (supra) in which this Court expressed its surprise over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the members of the Bar that relatives were not independent witnesses. Speaking through Vivian Bose, J., the Court observed :

"We are unable to agree with the learned Judges of the High Court that the testimony of the two eye-witnesses requires corroboration. If the foundation for such an observation is based on the fact that the witnesses are women and that the fate of seven men hangs on their testimony, we know of no such rules. If it is grounded on the reason that they are closely related to the deceased we are unable to concur. This is a fallacy common to many criminal cases and one which another Bench of this Court endeavoured to dispel in Rameshwar v. The State of Rajasthan, [1952] SCR 377 = AIR 1952 SC 54. We find, however, that it unfortunately still persists, if not in the judgments of the Courts, at any rate in the arguments of counsel."

In this case, this Court further observed as under :

"A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must he laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth."

27. In another case of Mohd. Rojali Versus State of Assam: (2019) 19 SCC 567, the Hon'ble Apex Court in this regard has held as under:-

"As regards the contention that all the eyewitnesses are close relatives of the deceased, it is by now wellsettled that a related witness cannot be said to be an "interested' witness merely by virtue of being a relative of the victim. This Court has elucidated the difference between "interested' and "related' witnesses in a plethora of cases, stating that a witness may be called interested only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation, which in the context of a criminal case would mean that the witness has a direct or indirect interest in seeing the accused punished due to prior enmity or other reasons, and thus has a motive to falsely implicate the accused (for instance, see State of Rajasthan v. Kalki, (1981) 2 SCC 752; Amit v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2012) 4 SCC 107; and Gangabhavani v. Rayapati Venkat Reddy, (2013) 15 SCC 298). Recently, this difference was reiterated in Ganapathi v. State of Tamil Nadu, (2018) 5 SCC 549, in the following terms, by referring to the three Judge bench decision in State of Rajasthan v. Kalki (supra): "14. "Related" is not equivalent to "interested". A witness may be called "interested" only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possible eye witness in the circumstances of a case cannot be said to be "interested"..."

11. In criminal cases, it is often the case that the offence is witnessed by a close relative of the victim, whose presence on the scene of the offence would be natural. The evidence of such a witness cannot automatically be discarded by labelling the witness as interested. Indeed, one of the earliest statements with respect to interested witnesses in criminal cases was made by this Court in Dalip Singh v. State of Punjab, 1954 SCR 145, wherein this Court observed:

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person..."

12. In case of a related witness, the Court may not treat his or her testimony as inherently tainted, and needs to ensure only that the evidence is inherently reliable, probable, cogent and consistent. We may refer to the observations of this Court in Jayabalan v. Union Territory of Pondicherry, (2010) 1 SCC 199:

"23. We are of the considered view that in cases where the Court is called upon to deal with the evidence of the interested witnesses, the approach of the Court while appreciating the evidence of such witnesses must not be pedantic. The Court must be cautious in appreciating and accepting the evidence given by the interested witnesses but the Court must not be suspicious of such evidence. The primary endeavour of the Court must be to look for consistency. The evidence of a witness cannot be ignored or thrown out solely because it comes from the mouth of a person who is closely related to the victim."

28. Thus to sum up from the above discussion it is clear that prosecution has proved the motive of the crime i.e. accused Ajai Prasad had illicit relations with the accused Reena Srivastava (wife of the deceased). The prosecution has also proved the conduct of the wife of the deceased after the incident. The deceased and the accused Reena Srivastava went to sleep in their room after having meals but after mid-night at about 1 O'clock all of sudden, she went to sleep on the roof where her mother-in-law was sleeping along with other family members. No plausible explanation in this regard has been given from the side of the accused Reena Srivastava. The incident had occurred inside the bed-room where husband and wife went to sleep. It is heavy duty of the wife to explain how the incident occurred or in what state she left the room, where her husband was found murdered. In the morning itself when her mother-in-law asked her to wake her husband up, she ignored and she was busy in preparing the breakfast in the kitchen. These all facts and circumstances have been corroborated by the recovery of knife used in the crime and Vest of the accused Ajai Prasad, which he wore at the time of committing the murder of the deceased Vipin at the pointing out of accused Ajai Prasad. The witnesses examined in defence D.W.1 and D.W. 2 have tried to prove the fact that deceased Vipin was killed by Pankaj Srivastava. All the witnesses of facts, who are family members of the deceased denied the fact of any kind of bickering or dispute between two brothers Pankaj Srivastava and Vipin Srivastava. Hence, it is clear and well established that the murder of the deceased was committed by the convict/appellant Ajai Prasad in connivance with convict/appellant Reena Srivastava in furtherance of a common intention. Therefore, the trial Court has rightly held the accused persons guilty and sentenced them accordingly with imprisonment for life coupled with fine. There appears no ground or reason for interference in the conviction and sentence recorded by the trial Court.

29. In the result, these two appeals are dismissed.

30. The convicts/appellants Smt. Reena Srivastava & Ajai Prasad @ Ajai Kumar @ Dhirendra Kumar Srivastava are stated to be in jail, accordingly they shall serve out the sentence awarded by the trial Court.

31. Office is directed to send a copy of this order along with lower Court record to the trial Court concerned for necessary information and compliance forthwith.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jaspreet Singh, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner as well as Sri Hemant Kumar Pandey, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

1A. The petitioner has approached this Court praying for the following relief:-

"(i) direct the Nayab Tehsildar, Jahangirganj, Tahsil-Alapur, District Ambedkar Nagar (opposite party no. 2) to decide the mutation Case No. T202004040402142 (Smt. Kamlesh Singh Vs. Smt. Anju Singh and others), under Section 34 U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 filed by the petitioner before the opposite party No. 2, which is pending before him within stipulated period."

2. This Court by means of order dated 19.05.2022 had passed the following order which reads as under:-

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioner. Notice on behalf of the respondents No.1 and 2 has been accepted by the office of Chief Standing Counsel.

The record indicates that the instant petition has been preferred seeking expeditious disposal of mutation case pending before the respondent No.2.

The record further indicates that the petitioner had approached this Court earlier by means of Writ Petition No.17492 (M/S) of 2021 which was dismissed as not pressed vide order dated 12.08.2021, a copy of which has been brought on record as Annexure No.3.

It is further stated by the petitioner that in furtherance of the liberty granted to the petitioner, the petitioner has moved an application before the respondent No.1 for expeditious disposal, a copy of which has been brought on record as Annexure No.4.

It is submitted that despite the said application being moved in the month of October, 2021, no orders have been passed on the said application.

Learned standing counsel shall seek complete and detailed instructions from the respondent No.1 as to how many such applications under Para-494, Chapter-XV of the Revenue Code Manual (Amendment) Regulation, 2016 have been received by the Board of Revenue and how many applications have been disposed off and the time taken for disposing the said applications and as on the date, how many applications are pending seeking expedition under the aforesaid Regulation.

Let the complete instructions be made available in proper tabulation within ten days from today.

List this matter again on 30.05.2022, as fresh."

3. On 30th May, 2022, on the request of learned Standing Counsel, the matter was taken up on 31.05.2022 and the learned Standing Counsel in pursuance of the order dated 19.05.2022 has provided the details as sought by the Court in its order dated 19.05.2022. The same is taken on record.

4. The petitioner has approached this Court seeking expeditious disposal of her mutation case pending before the Nayab Tehsildar, Jahangirganj, Tehsil Alapur, District Ambedkar Nagar.

5. It had been specifically averred in the petition that the petitioner had approached this Court by filing W.P. No. 17492 (MS) of 2021 (Smt. Kamlesh Vs. State of U.P. and others) and upon preliminary objection raised by the State-respondents, the petitioner was relegated to avail the alternate remedy of approaching the Board of Revenue by filing an application for expedition in terms of para 494 of the U.P. Revenue Court Manual (Amendment) Regulations, 2016.

6. It is also submitted that despite having moved the said application before the Board of Revenue in the month of October, 2021, yet the said application has not been decided, as a result, neither the application for expedition has been disposed of and in any case, the mutation case of which expedition is sought still remains to be decided, though, under the Rules framed namely U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016, the contested mutation cases are to be decided within a period of three months.

7. It is in the aforesaid circumstances, that the Court had called upon the learned Standing Counsel regrading the details and from the perusal of the aforesaid details and stastictics so provided by the learned Standing Counsel that between January, 2019 till May, 2022, a total number of 298 applications under Para 494 of the Revenue Court Manual (Amendment) Regulations, 2016 have been filed out of which 210 expedition applications have been decided and 88 applications are still pending. However, it is not disputed that the application for expedition preferred by the petitioner on 21st October, 2021 has yet not been decided and is fixed for hearing before the Board of Revenue on 19.07.2022.

8. Considering the facts and circumstances and even though the petitioner has moved an application for expedition before the Board of Revenue which has not been decided despite a period of seven months has lapsed and the time for disposal of mutation case as provided in Rule 34 (7) of the U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016 is 90 days and in case if it is not so decided then reasons have to be recorded.

9. In the aforesaid circumstances, this Court deems fit that in exercise of the powers under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, the Court dispenses notice on the private respondent nos. 3 and 4 and directs the respondent no. 2 i.e. the Nayab Tehsildar, Jahangirpur, Tehsil Alapur District Ambedkar Nagar to consider and decide the pending mutation case most expeditiously without granting any unnecessary adjournments to either of the parties but after affording fully opportunity of hearing, preferrably within a period of three months from the date a certified copy of this order is placed before the Court concerned. This order shall also dispose of the expeditious application before the Boar of Revenue bearing E.A./2149/2021.

10. That the petitoiner had approached this Court only for the limited prayer as noticed above but there are certain disturbing facts which is being noticed by this Court, repeatedly, and thus it is necessary to take cognizance of the same. This Court is deluged with petitions under Article 227 of the Constitution of India seeking expedite orders in respect of matters pending before the various tiers of the hierachy of the Revenue Courts.

11. Primarily, in all such petitions, a prayer for expedition is sought and in largely all of the petitions the petitioners in order to substantiate the injustice caused to them on account of non-disposal of their cases, they bring on record the extracts of the order sheets which divulge a serious malaise affecting the functioning of the revenue courts.

12. This Court has come across cases relating to disposal of suits pending before the revenue Court of first instance wherein persons are seeking declaration of their rights relating to the year 1977. Illustratively, this issue came to be noticed by this Court in (Nirmala Devi Vs. Additional Sub Divisional Officer-1, Sadar Pratapgarh and others) in W.P. No. 2077 of 2022 wherein the plight of the petitioner could be well imagined where the suit for declaration of rights is pending since 1977. Similarly, in another matter (Smt. Bikhana Vs. State of U.P., Principal Secretary, Revenue and 6 others) bearing W.P. No. 1442 of 2022 a suit for declaration of rights was pending before the Court of first instance since 1997.

13. It has further been noticed that the matters relating to consolidation operations under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (hereinafter referred to as Act of 1953) are also pending since large many number of years.

14. Illustratively, the issue came to be noticed by this Court in (Pradeep Tiwari Vs. Consolidation Officer, Bikapur, Ayodhya Mandal, Ayodhya and others) bearing Petition No. 1340 of 2022 where the objections under Section 9-A (2) of the U.P. C.H. Act, 1953 were pending before the Consolidation Officer, i.e. the Court of first instance since 1988.

15. Again in (Ajit Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others) bearing petition No. 20470 of 2022, the objections under the U.P.C.H. Act, 1953 were pending since 1986. In the case of (Ram Kuber Vs. Consolidation Officer, Sultanpur writ petition no. 1855 of 2022), the objections under Section 9-A(2) of the U.P.C.H. Act of 1953 were pending since 1989 and again in (Sarju Prasad Vs. Consolidation Officer, Faizabad and others) bearing W.P. No. 1419 of 2021, the objections under the U.P.C.H. Act were pending before the Consolidation Officer since 1994.

16. The reference to the aforesaid cases is only to put the point across and it is not, as if, in few isolated cases such disturbing trend is emerging. Rather this court is pained to say that this problem across the revenue courts is rampant. Mention to the few cases as aforesaid is only illustratively and though it is not confined only to such cases but the dilemma is much more widespread.

17. The Constitution of India envisages the concept of social justice which is a Basic Structure Doctrine of our constitution. The concept of social justice is not uni-dimensional rather it is a concept which can be seen through a prism encapsulating within itself, political and social spheres. Right to legal redressal is also a Basic Structive Doctrine of the constitution.

18. It is often said that justice delayed is justice denied but at the same time, it must be seen that wherever justice is being dispensed, it must be done within some reasonable time or else if it is left without any legal harness of timelines, it may result in catestrophic consequences which shall erode the faith and confidence of the common persons.

19. In our country, large part of the society is agrarian and rural which necessarily amongst othes involve the rights, liabilities and obligations relating to agricultural/revenue paying land of the people which is situate in the core of the countryside and villages. Large part of our population also resides in such villages and large number of families are dependent on agriculture for their livelihood. The agricultural land for them is not only a matter of social security but also their livelihood and their rights, prosperity including that of their generations is dependent thereon.

20. The matters pending before the Revenue Court emnate primarily from three Acts (i) Uttar Pradesh Land Revenue Act, 1901, (ii) The Uttar Pradesh Zamindari and Land Abolition Reforms Act, 1950 (iii) The Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953.

21. The U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 and the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 came to be repealed and have now been replaced by the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006. It is these Acts which govern the rights, liabilities relating to agricultural land and also involves the litigation therefrom. The aforesaid Acts have an hierachy of courts which is manned by Presiding Officers who are appointed and controlled by the State Government. The highest Authority of the Revenue Court is the Board of Revenue which exercises the power of superintendence over such subordinate revenue courts and authorities including powers of revision and also has been conferred the power of review.

22. This Court finds that the issue which is raised herein is not new rather it has a lamenting past. This aspect of the matter was taken note of by a coordinate Bench of this Court in Uday Narain Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 2006 (2) AWC 1399 wherein noticing the plight of a litigant viz. a viz. his litigation before the Revenue Courts, the Court in paragraphs 11, 12, 13, 14 and 16 has held as under:-

"..11. In a recent decision rendered by this Court, it was noticed with concern that cases have been lingering in various courts dealing with revenue cases and in consequence, a peremptory direction has been issued with a view to regulating the working of these courts by prescribing fixed hours and days untramrneled by the pressure of any other duties on administrative side. The present case is not dissimilar to the case noticed above and in the facts and circumstances, when the case in hand has been suffering protraction for more than 15 years, I deem it my sacred duty to do something towards reonentation in the realm occupied by these officers on executive side. This court is fully conscious that these executive officers are more often required to discharge executive functions which include functions of law and order and have to deal with unpleasant emergent situation and in discharge of these functions and in doing so they feel compelled to relegate the adjudicatory function to secondary position. Their executive and administrative functions apart, there is felt need that these officers should be mandated to devote few days and hours to these adjudicatory functions so that the statutory duties should not suffer at the altar of executive or administrative exigencies.

12. There is another aspect to be reckoned with. As noticed above, it is manifested from a perusal of the order-sheet that the case suffered.epeated adjournments on account of strike by the lawyers. By a catena of decisions rendered by the Apex court, it has been held that the lawyers strikes are illegal and that effective steps should be taken to stop the growing tendency. It has also been held that advocates have no right to go on strike and that the courts are under no obligation to adjourn matters because of strike by lawyers, It has further been held that it is the duty of all courts to go on with matters on their boards even the absence of lawyers and further that the courts must not be privy to strikes or calls for boycotts. (See , 1993 (3) SSC 256, (1995) 3 SCC 19, 1995 (1) SCC 619, , , and .

13. Upon a cumulative reading of the mandate of the Apex court embodied in the aforestated decisions, this Court on administrative side, issued circular No. 35/IIIb-36/Admin 'G' Dated: Oct: 4,2004 squeezing from above decisions the following directions for compliance by the subordinate courts in the event of strike by lawyers.

"1. The Subordinate Courts shall not take cognizance of any resolution passed by the Bar Associations to strike and to stop; judicial work. The District Judge concerned shall not entertain or circulate any such resolutions amongst the Judicial officers in his Judgeship.

2, The Judicial Officers must strictly adhere to Court hours. They shall perform the entire judicial work on the dais and shall not accept any request to rise, on to stop judicial work on the request of lawyers or litigants. In case lawyers do not attend to work the judicial officers shall proceed to work in the following manner:-

A. Where the parties are willing they shall be heard personally and necessary orders shall be passed in cases requiring no further evidence.

B. In matters fixed for evidence parties shall be allowed to file documents and do examinations/cross examinations of witnesses, if so desire.

C. In revisions, review, appeals (Civil and Criminal both), bails and urgent applications, the orders should be passed on merits of the case.

D. In criminal trials of the court of Sessions or Magistrate the witnesses in attendance should be examined by the public prosecutor/prosecuting officer as the case be, giving an option to the accused to either cross examine the witnesses himself or bear the expenses for recalling of the witnesses, for cross examination on the date (s) next to be fixed.

3. The District judges shall submit weekly reports to the Court, with regard to any incident, which may take place in the judgeship with compliance report of these directives.

4. In case any lawyer or group of lawyers or litigants, creates indiscipline in the Court or try to obstruct court proceedings, the Judicial Officer concerned should immediately inform the District Judge, who shall immediately arrange for the police force and restore the functioning of the Court. In case any damage is caused to the records or the court: property, the District Judge shall immediately get the First Information Report of the incident lodged.

5. The District Judges shall arrange for adequate police force, to be kept in reserve in the judgeship, to be deployed for protection of the judicial officers and the court property.

6. The District Judge should inform the names of the persons involved in disrupting the court proceeding to the High Court forthwith.

7. The Judicial Officers shall not: perform any judicial work in their chambers.

14. By virtue of Article 141 of the Constitution of India, all courts in India are bound to follow :he decision of the Supreme Court. The courts dealing with disputes under the U.P. Land Revenue Act, U.P.Z.A.& L.R.Act and U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act: are courts and as such these courts cannot turn a blind eye and are bound to abide by the mandate of the Apex court."

*******----------***

"...16. In view of the above, there is felt need that functioning of the courts created under the statutes i.e. under the U.P.Z.A. & L.R.Act, the U.P. Land Revenue Act and the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act and also other courts created under various other Acts dealing with the disputes pertaining to agricultural land, should be regulated simulating the standard of a regular court of law so as to appear to be acting judicially."

23. Again in the year 2012 this Court in Chandra Bali Vs.Additional Commissioner, Varanasi Divsion, Varanasi and othes, 2012 (4) ADJ 13 noticing similar difficulties had to issue a general mandamus prescribing certain directions and timelines and the relevant paragraph 12 and 13 of the said opinion reads as under:-

" 12. In view of the above, I am of the opinion that not only land acquisition cases or other cases for which time period for disposal has been prescribe, all cases incuding revenue cases and cases arising under the U.P. Z.A. and L.R. Act should also be decided within a time specified.

Time management for disposal of cases is necessary to tackle the problem of arrears and pendency."

13. Accordingly. 1 issue a general mandamus that at least in revenue cases and cases arising under the U. P. Z. A. and L. R. Act. the Courts/authorities must follow a set time table for disposal of cases as provided herein below

(1) All suits/original proceedings under U. P. Z. A. and L. R. Act be decided within a period of one year from their Institution with the outer limit of one year six months;

(2) All appeals arising there to be decided within a period of four months and within the maximum period of six months from the filing:

(3) All revisions be decided within three months and within the maximumperiod of four months from the filing; and

(4) All miscellaneous applications, if pressed, which do not require disposal along with cases/suit, appeal or revision be decided within six weeks of their filing with the outer limit of three months.

In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, I dispose of this writ petition with the direction upon respondent No. 1 to decide the above appeal in accordance with law as expeditiously as possible as per the time schedule laid down above.

Let a copy of this judgment and order be sent by the Registry of this Court to the Chief Secretary, Revenue State of U. P., and the Chairman, Board of Revenue at Lucknow and Allahabad for circulation to all revenue courts and authorities for necessary compliance.

24. Despite the aforesaid decisions, it appears that no headway has been made, accordingly, once again the issue engaged the attention of a Division Bench of this Court in a Public Interest Litigation titled Yashpal Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others (2015) SCC Online All 6752 wherein the Court observed as under:-

"This Court directed the Chairman of the Board of Revenue to look into the matter and to take an appropriate administrative decision to obviate the grievances of the members of the Bar. In pursuance of the order of this Court dated 4 December 2015, an affidavit has been filed by the Registrar of the Board of Revenue. The affidavit states that 6,01,543 revenue cases were pending as on 1 January 2015. 14,63,886 new revenue cases were instituted between 1 January 2015 and 31 December 2015. Until 31 December 2015, 14,92,833 revenue cases have been disposed of. In consequence, 5,76,122 revenue cases are still pending for disposal. These figures indicate to the Court that there has been progress in the matter of streamlining the work of revenue cases and the rates of disposal have increased. However much still remains to be achieved since pendency of 5.76 lacs is itself a substantial figure. As regards, the proposal for creation of a cadre of officers exclusively for the resolution of revenue cases, it has been stated that the Department of Revenue sent the proposal to the Law Department and the Department of Personnel for their consent. It has been stated that the departments concerned have furnished their consent to the proposal. Moreover, it has been stated that in view of the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code 2006, once officers are designated exclusively for judicial work, there would be no shortage of presiding officers.

We are of the view that the State Government must immediately take steps under the enabling provisions of sub section (5) of Section 11 and Section 12 and sub section (6) of Section 13. This would ensure that judicial work is assigned to officers who would only perform judicial duties on the revenue side and would be exempted from administrative functions. Judicial work requires a frame of mind, qualification and experience which are quite different from the discharge of administrative duties and it is but necessary that the provisions which have been contained in the newly enforced provisions of the Code are implemented in the State expeditiously. As regards the proposal for the creation of a cadre, it has been stated that the Finance Department to whom a proposal was submitted for consent had raised certain queries which has been responded to on 22 February 2016 by the Board of Revenue. After the consent of the Finance Department, the proposal would be placed before the Cabinet after obtaining the consent of the Law Department and the Department of Personnel. Since the proposal is now pending before the Government and the Government has indicated its intention to finalize the matter expeditiously, we direct that a final decision thereon should be taken within a period of six months from the receipt of a certified copy of this order.

In view of the enabling provisions which are contained in the provisions of the Code, and since the State Government has initiated steps, we expect that a decision be taken thereon expeditiously within a period of six months. Insofar as the strike by the members of the Revenue Bar Association, Bijnor is concerned, we take on record the undertaking and assurances which have been tendered before this Court in terms of the resolution which has been passed by the Bar. The members of the Bar are expected to display a sense of responsibility particularly having regard to the judgments of the Supreme Court laying down the need for restraint in the striking of work by the members of the legal profession. Nothing further would survive in the public interest litigation at this stage."

25. From the perusal of the aforesaid observations made by the Court in the decisions noticed above, from time to time, it can be seen and noticed that spate of cases seeking expedition of cases pending in the Revenue Courts has amplified and the problem has assumed a greater proportion now than it was then noticed while rendering the decisions by the Court at earlier point of time.

26. It will also be relevant to notice that with the advent of U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, the legislature in its wisdom has provided timelines for the disposal of the cases which ranges from 45 days to six months depending on the nature of the case.

27. The U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016 also gives a list of case, which are to be tried in a summary manner, as enumerated in Rule 192 which is referrable to Section 225-A of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006.

28. The U.P. Revenue Court Manual Regulations, 2016 contains relevant guidelines for the purposes of conduct of day to day affairs of the cases pending before the Revenue Courts and Authorities. These regulations also came to be amended in the year 2016 wherin Chapter L Rule 494 was duly amended and incorporated which reads as under:-

Chapter L:- Order or Directions for Expeditios Disposal of Cases:-

494:- (i) The Board may suo motu or on the application of a party to the suit, appeal, revision or other proceeding pass general or specific order directing the court below to decide the suit, appeal, revision or other proceeding with the period mumersed in the order.

(2) The applican for direction to decide the suit, appeal, revision or other proceeding within the period stipulated by the Board shall be accompanied by affidavit

(3) Besides the brief facts of the case, the reasons for the delay in disposal of the case shall be disclosed in the affidavit filed in support of the applications and a copy of the entire order sheet or the extract thereof shall be annexed to the affidavit.

(4) The Board shall, while passing the order directing the court below to decide the case within the goland period, keep in mind, the conduct of the party applying for the direction, the comparative urgency for the early disposal of the case and the unther of cases pending in the court concerned

(5) Mere filing of transfer application does not amount to stay of the proceeding in the Court below unless the stay order is passed on the transfer application by the competent Court. The court below shall endeavour to comply with the direction passed by the Board for the expeditious disposal of the case and the provisions of rule 195 of the Rules, shall, mutatis mutandis, apply regarding the compliance of the order under this para.

29. From the perusal of the Revenue Court Manual, one would find, that it contains comprehensive guidelines and regulations for the day to day functioning of the Revenue Courts which includes mattes relating to daily siting of officers, officer hours, the manner in which the orders have to be passed, preparation of cause lists, carry forward of cases, early hearing of cases, speedy disposal amongst others.

30. In furtherance of the aforesaid, the Board of Revenue which exercises the power of superintendence over the subordinate revenue courts and authorities has also been conferred with the power of expediting cases pending before the Revenue Courts and Authorities. An alarming feature which has come to the notice of the Court as evident from the instructions and the stastactics provided by the learned Standing Counsel indicates that 298 expedite applications were filed before the Board of Revenue between January, 2019 till 30th April, 2022. Out of 298 applications so filed, 210 applications have been decided but what is disturbing is that only 70 such applications were decided within a period of one month while rest of the applications so decided took several months and even years to be decided.

31. From the stastatics so provided, out of the 88 applications still pending, two of them relate to the month of September, 2019 while most of them are from the year 2021 and only 14 applications are such which have been filed in the year 2022 and still pending while we are here in the end of May, 2022.

32. Thus, what can be seen is that an application to seek expedition is taking huge time ranging over several months whereas the U.P. Revenue Act, 2006 as noticed above has provided timelines ranging from 45 days to 6 months for disposal of cases in summary manner.

33. From the aforesaid, it is apparent that an application for expedite is taking more than 6 months to one year or even more for decision then, what can be said of principal litigation of which expedition is sought is only heart wrenching and painful. It needs to be realised that where matters are pending before the Court of first instance relating to the year 1977, 1980s and 1990s and the said litigation has further two tiers of appeal/revision as the case may be. It leaves very little to imagination, what would be the plight of such litigants and how many generations would suffer on account of such unending litigation.

34. Another aspect which has come to the fore from the perusal of the extracts of the ordersheets which are being brought on record in the various petitions, a reference of few has been noticed in the preceeding paragraphs indicates a hugely disturbing trend of abstention of work by lawyers resorting to most unreasonable and unwarrented strikes and boycotts. This Court has come across various cases wherein for months at an end, no judicial work could be transacted on account of resolutions passed by the members of the bar abstaining from judicial work. This is one major cause of delay.

35. The other major cause for pendency reflected from the order sheets appears to be non-availability of the officers who are assigned judicial work but as they are primarily busy in other administrative and executive duties. Unfortunately, this Court finds that the Regulations of 2016 is hardly being followed and the functioning of the Revenue Court and Authorties is indicative that the Presiding Officers are completely oblivious to the said regulations and there is even no effort of its adherence.

37. The third major cause appears to be, the grant of endless adjournment at the asking of any party, least realizing what effect it has on the rights of the parties involved in a litigation. All the above three causative factors have almost brought the functioning of the revenue courts to disrepute for which all the stake holders are responsible.

38. The issue regarding abstention of works and strikes has already been taken note of by the Apex Court in the constitutional Bench case of Ex-Captain Harish Uppal Vs. Union of India and others (2003) 2 SCC 45 and the relevant portion thereof reads as under:-

"30. In the light of the abovementioned views expressed by the Supreme Court, lawyers have no right to strike i.e. to abstain from appearing in Court in cases in which they hold vakalat for the parties, even if it is in response to or in compliance with a decision of any association or body of lawyers. In our view, in exercise of the right to protest, a lawyer may refuse to accept new engagements and may even refuse to appear in a case in which he had already been engaged, if he has been duly discharged from the case. But so long as a lawyer holds the vakalat for his client and has not been duly discharged, he has no right to abstain from appearing in Court even on the ground of a strike called by the Bar Association or any other body of lawyers. If he so abstains, he commits a professional misconduct, a breach of professional duty, a breach of contract and also a breach of trust and he will be liable to suffer all the consequences thereof. There is no fundamental right, either under Article 19 or under Article 21 of the Constitution, which permits or authorises a lawyer to abstain from appearing in Court in a case in which he holds the vakalat for a party in that case. On the other hand a litigant has a fundamental right for speedy trial of his case, because, speedy trial, as held by the Supreme Court in Hussainara Khatoon (I) v. Home Secy., State of Bihar [(1980) 1 SCC 81 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 23 : AIR 1979 SC 1360] is an integral and essential part of the fundamental right to life and liberty enshrined in Article 21 of the Constitution. Strike by lawyers will infringe the abovementioned fundamental right of the litigants and such infringement cannot be permitted. Assuming that the lawyers are trying to convey their feelings or sentiments and ideas through the strike in exercise of their fundamental right to freedom of speech and expression guaranteed by Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution, we are of the view that the exercise of the right under Article 19(1)(a) will come to an end when such exercise threatens to infringe the fundamental right of another. Such a limitation is inherent in the exercise of the right under Article 19(1)(a). Hence the lawyers cannot go on strike infringing the fundamental right of the litigants for speedy trial. The right to practise any profession or to carry on any occupation guaranteed by Article 19(1)(g) may include the right to discontinue such profession or occupation but it will not include any right to abstain from appearing in Court while holding a vakalat in the case. Similarly, the exercise of the right to protest by the lawyers cannot be allowed to infract the litigant's fundamental right for speedy trial or to interfere with the administration of justice. The lawyer has a duty and obligation to cooperate with the Court in the orderly and pure administration of justice. Members of the legal profession have certain social obligations also and the practice of law has a public utility flavour. According to the Bar Council of India Rules, 1975 'an advocate shall, at all times, comport himself in a manner befitting his status as an officer of the Court, a privileged member of the community and a gentleman, bearing in mind that what may be lawful and moral for a person who is not a member of the Bar or for a member of the Bar in his non-professional capacity, may still be improper for an advocate'. It is below the dignity, honour and status of the members of the noble profession of law to organize and participate in strike. It is unprofessional and unethical to do so. In view of the nobility and tradition of the legal profession, the status of the lawyer as an officer of the court and the fiduciary character of the relationship between a lawyer and his client and since strike interferes with the administration of justice and infringes the fundamental right of litigants for speedy trial of their cases, strike by lawyers cannot be approved as an acceptable mode of protest, irrespective of the gravity of the provocation and the genuineness of the cause. Lawyers should adopt other modes of protest which will not interrupt or disrupt court proceedings or adversely affect the interest of the litigant. Thereby lawyers can also set an example to other sections of the society in the matter of protest and agitations.

31. Every court has a solemn duty to proceed with the judicial business during court hours and the court is not obliged to adjourn a case because of a strike call. The court is under an obligation to hear and decide cases brought before it and it cannot shirk that obligation on the ground that the advocates are on strike. If the counsel or/and the party does not appear, the necessary consequences contemplated in law should follow. The court should not become privy to the strike by adjourning the case on the ground that lawyers are on strike. Even in Common Cause case [(1995) 1 Scale 6] the Supreme Court had asked the members of the legal profession to be alive to the possibility of Judges refusing adjournments merely on the ground of there being a strike call and insisting on proceeding with the cases. Strike infringes the litigant's fundamental right for speedy trial and the court cannot remain a mute spectator or throw up its hands in helplessness on the face of such continued violation of the fundamental right.

32. Either in the name of a strike or otherwise, no lawyer has any right to obstruct or prevent another lawyer from discharging his professional duty of appearing in court. If anyone does it, he commits a criminal offence and interferes with the administration of justice and commits contempt of court and he is liable to be proceeded against on all these counts."

Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ex-Capt. Harish Uppal (supra) noticed the consequences of strikes/boycott calls. The Constitution Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court found that such actions hold the judicial system to ransom and threaten the administration of justice :

"20. Thus the law is already well settled. It is the duty of every advocate who has accepted a brief to attend trial, even though it may go on day to day and for a prolonged period. It is also settled law that a lawyer who has accepted a brief cannot refuse to attend court because a boycott call is given by the Bar Association. It is settled law that it is unprofessional as well as unbecoming for a lawyer who has accepted a brief to refuse to attend court even in pursuance of a call for strike or boycott by the Bar Association or the Bar Council. It is settled law that courts are under an obligation to hear and decide cases brought before them and cannot adjourn matters merely because lawyers are on strike. The law is that it is the duty and obligation of courts to go on with matters or otherwise it would tantamount to becoming a privy to the strike. It is also settled law that if a resolution is passed by Bar Associations expressing want of confidence in judicial officers, it would amount to scandalising the courts to undermine its authority and thereby the advocates will have committed contempt of court. Lawyers have known, at least since Mahabir Singh case [(1999) 1 SCC 37] that if they participate in a boycott or a strike, their action is ex facie bad in view of the declaration of law by this Court. A lawyer's duty is to boldly ignore a call for strike or boycott of court/s. Lawyers have also known, at least since Ramon Services case [(2001) 1 SCC 118 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 3 : 2001 SCC (L&S) 152] that the advocates would be answerable for the consequences suffered by their clients if the non-appearance was solely on grounds of a strike call.

21. It must also be remembered that an advocate is an officer of the court and enjoys special status in society. Advocates have obligations and duties to ensure smooth functioning of the court. They owe a duty to their clients. Strikes interfere with administration of justice. They cannot thus disrupt court proceedings and put interest of their clients in jeopardy. In the words of Mr H.M. Seervai, a distinguished jurist:

"Lawyers ought to know that at least as long as lawful redress is available to aggrieved lawyers, there is no justification for lawyers to join in an illegal conspiracy to commit a gross, criminal contempt of court, thereby striking at the heart of the liberty conferred on every person by our Constitution. Strike is an attempt to interfere with the administration of justice. The principle is that those who have duties to discharge in a court of justice are protected by the law and are shielded by the law to discharge those duties, the advocates in return have duty to protect the courts. For, once conceded that lawyers are above the law and the law courts, there can be no limit to lawyers taking the law into their hands to paralyse the working of the courts. "In my submission', he said that "it is high time that the Supreme Court and the High Courts make it clear beyond doubt that they will not tolerate any interference from any body or authority in the daily administration of justice. For in no other way can the Supreme Court and the High Courts maintain the high position and exercise the great powers conferred by the Constitution and the law to do justice without fear or favour, affection or ill will."

22. It was expected that having known the well-settled law and having seen that repeated strikes and boycotts have shaken the confidence of the public in the legal profession and affected administration of justice, there would be self-regulation. The abovementioned interim order was passed in the hope that with self-restraint and self-regulation the lawyers would retrieve their profession from lost social respect. The hope has not fructified. Unfortunately strikes and boycott calls are becoming a frequent spectacle. Strikes, boycott calls and even unruly and unbecoming conduct are becoming a frequent spectacle. On the slightest pretence strikes and/or boycott calls are resorted to. The judicial system is being held to ransom. Administration of law and justice is threatened. The rule of law is undermined."

The Apex Court further went on and relied on the law laid down in Supreme Court Bar Association Vs Union of India reported at 1998 (4) SCC 409 that every advocate should boldly ignore call for strike/boycott:

"25. In the case of Supreme Court Bar Assn. v. Union of India [(1998) 4 SCC 409] it has been held that professional misconduct may also amount to contempt of court (para 21). It has further been held as follows: (SCC pp. 444-46, paras 79-80)

"79. An advocate who is found guilty of contempt of court may also, as already noticed, be guilty of professional misconduct in a given case but it is for the Bar Council of the State or Bar Council of India to punish that advocate by either debarring him from practice or suspending his licence, as may be warranted, in the facts and circumstances of each case. The learned Solicitor-General informed us that there have been cases where the Bar Council of India taking note of the contumacious and objectionable conduct of an advocate, had initiated disciplinary proceedings against him and even punished him for "professional misconduct', on the basis of his having been found guilty of committing contempt of court. We do not entertain any doubt that the Bar Council of the State or Bar Council of India, as the case may be, when apprised of the established contumacious conduct of an advocate by the High Court or by this Court, would rise to the occasion, and take appropriate action against such an advocate. Under Article 144 of the Constitution "all authorities, civil and judicial, in the territory of India shall act in aid of the Supreme Court'. The Bar Council which performs a public duty and is charged with the obligation to protect the dignity of the profession and maintain professional standards and etiquette is also obliged to act "in aid of the Supreme Court'. It must, whenever facts warrant, rise to the occasion and discharge its duties uninfluenced by the position of the contemner advocate. It must act in accordance with the prescribed procedure, whenever its attention is drawn by this Court to the contumacious and unbecoming conduct of an advocate which has the tendency to interfere with due administration of justice. It is possible for the High Courts also to draw the attention of the Bar Council of the State to a case of professional misconduct of a contemner advocate to enable the State Bar Council to proceed in the manner prescribed by the Act and the Rules framed thereunder. There is no justification to assume that the Bar Councils would not rise to the occasion, as they are equally responsible to uphold the dignity of the courts and the majesty of law and prevent any interference in the administration of justice. Learned counsel for the parties present before us do not dispute and rightly so that whenever a court of record records its findings about the conduct of an advocate while finding him guilty of committing contempt of court and desires or refers the matter to be considered by the Bar Council concerned, appropriate action should be initiated by the Bar Council concerned in accordance with law with a view to maintain the dignity of the courts and to uphold the majesty of law and professional standards and etiquette. Nothing is more destructive of public confidence in the administration of justice than incivility, rudeness or disrespectful conduct on the part of a counsel towards the court or disregard by the court of the privileges of the Bar. In case the Bar Council, even after receiving "reference' from the Court, fails to take action against the advocate concerned, this Court might consider invoking its powers under Section 38 of the Act by sending for the record of the proceedings from the Bar Council and passing appropriate orders. Of course, the appellate powers under Section 38 would be available to this Court only and not to the High Courts. We, however, hope that such a situation would not arise.

80. In a given case it may be possible, for this Court or the High Court, to prevent the contemner advocate to appear before it till he purges himself of the contempt but that is much different from suspending or revoking his licence or debarring him to practise as an advocate. In a case of contemptuous, contumacious, unbecoming or blameworthy conduct of an Advocate-on-Record, this Court possesses jurisdiction, under the Supreme Court Rules itself, to withdraw his privilege to practise as an Advocate-on-Record because that privilege is conferred by this Court and the power to grant the privilege includes the power to revoke or suspend it. The withdrawal of that privilege, however, does not amount to suspending or revoking his licence to practise as an advocate in other courts or tribunals."

Thus a Constitution Bench of this Court has held that the Bar Councils are expected to rise to the occasion as they are responsible to uphold the dignity of courts and majesty of law and to prevent interference in administration of justice. In our view it is the duty of the Bar Councils to ensure that there is no unprofessional and/or unbecoming conduct. This being their duty no Bar Council can even consider giving a call for strike or a call for boycott. It follows that the Bar Councils and even Bar Associations can never consider or take seriously any requisition calling for a meeting to consider a call for a strike or a call for boycott. Such requisitions should be consigned to the place where they belong viz. the waste-paper basket. In case any Association calls for a strike or a call for boycott the State Bar Council concerned and on their failure the Bar Council of India must immediately take disciplinary action against the advocates who give a call for strike and if the Committee members permit calling of a meeting for such purpose, against the Committee members. Further, it is the duty of every advocate to boldly ignore a call for strike or boycott."

The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ex-Capt. Harish Uppal (supra) unequivocally asserted that courts are not helpless in this matter:

"26. It must also be noted that courts are not powerless or helpless. Section 38 of the Advocates Act provides that even in disciplinary matters the final appellate authority is the Supreme Court. Thus even if the Bar Councils do not rise to the occasion and perform their duties by taking disciplinary action on a complaint from a client against an advocate for non-appearance by reason of a call for strike or boycott, on an appeal the Supreme Court can and will. Apart from this, as set out in Ramon Services case [(2001) 1 SCC 118 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 3 : 2001 SCC (L&S) 152] every court now should and must mulct advocates who hold vakalatsbut still refrain from attending courts in pursuance of a strike call with costs. Such costs would be in addition to the damages which the advocate may have to pay for the loss suffered by his client by reason of his non-appearance."

The Apex Cour after declining to accept the reasons given to justify a strike or call for boycott, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ex-Capt. Harish Uppal (supra) held that lawyers do not have the right to go on strike :

"32. Now let us consider whether any of the reasons set out in the affidavit of the Bar Council of India justify a strike or call for boycott. The reasons given are: (1) Local issues.--A dispute between a lawyer/lawyers and police or other authorities can never be a reason for going on even a token strike. It can never justify giving a call for boycott. In such cases an adequate legal remedy is available and it must be resorted to. The other reasons given under the item "local issues" and even Items (IV) and (V) are all matters which are exclusive within the domain of courts and/or legislatures. Of course the Bar may be concerned about such things but there can be no justification to paralyse the administration of justice. In such cases representations can and should be made. It will be for the appropriate authority to consider those representations. We are sure that a representation by the Bar will always be seriously considered. However, the ultimate decision in such matters has to be that of the authority concerned. Beyond making representations no illegal method can be adopted. At the most, provided it is permissible or feasible to do so, recourse can be had by way of legal remedy. So far as problems concerning courts are concerned, we see no harm in setting up Grievance Redressal Committees as suggested. However, it must be clear that the purpose of such Committees would only be to set up a forum where grievance can be ventilated. It must be clearly understood that recommendations or suggestions of such Committees can never be binding. The deliberations and/or suggestions and/or recommendations of such Committees will necessarily have to be placed before the appropriate authority viz. the Chief Justice or the District Judge concerned. The final decision can only be of the Chief Justice concerned or the District Judge concerned. Such final decision, whatever it be, would then have to be accepted by all and no question then arises of any further agitation. Lawyers must also accept the fact that one cannot have everything to be the way that one wants it to be. Realities of life are such that, in certain situations, after one has made all legal efforts to cure what one perceives as an ill, one has to accept the situation. So far as legislation, national and regional issues are concerned, the Bar always has recourse to legal remedies. Either the demand of the Bar on such issues is legally valid or it is not. If it is legally valid, of all the persons in society, the Bar is the most competent and capable of getting it enforced in a court of law. If the demand is not legally valid and cannot be enforced in a court of law or is not upheld by a court of law, then such a demand cannot be pursued any further.

33. The only exception to the general rule set out above appears to be Item (III). We accept that in such cases a strong protest must be lodged. We remain of the view that strikes are illegal and that courts must now take a very serious view of strikes and calls for boycott. However, as stated above, lawyers are part and parcel of the system of administration of justice. A protest on an issue involving dignity, integrity and independence of the Bar and the judiciary, provided it does not exceed one day, may be overlooked by courts, who may turn a blind eye for that one day."

Finally the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ex-Capt. Harish Uppal (supra) laid down nature of right to practise law and the powers of courts by holding thus:

34. One last thing which must be mentioned is that the right of appearance in courts is still within the control and jurisdiction of courts. Section 30 of the Advocates Act has not been brought into force and rightly so. Control of conduct in court can only be within the domain of courts. Thus Article 145 of the Constitution of India gives to the Supreme Court and Section 34 of the Advocates Act gives to the High Court power to frame rules including rules regarding condition on which a person (including an advocate) can practise in the Supreme Court and/or in the High Court and courts subordinate thereto. Many courts have framed rules in this behalf. Such a rule would be valid and binding on all. Let the Bar take note that unless self-restraint is exercised, courts may now have to consider framing specific rules debarring advocates, guilty of contempt and/or unprofessional or unbecoming conduct, from appearing before the courts. Such a rule if framed would not have anything to do with the disciplinary jurisdiction of the Bar Councils. It would be concerning the dignity and orderly functioning of the courts. The right of the advocate to practise envelopes a lot of acts to be performed by him in discharge of his professional duties. Apart from appearing in the courts he can be consulted by his clients, he can give his legal opinion whenever sought for, he can draft instruments, pleadings, affidavits or any other documents, he can participate in any conference involving legal discussions, he can work in any office or firm as a legal officer, he can appear for clients before an arbitrator or arbitrators etc. Such a rule would have nothing to do with all the acts done by an advocate during his practice. He may even file vakalat on behalf of a client even though his appearance inside the court is not permitted. Conduct in court is a matter concerning the court and hence the Bar Council cannot claim that what should happen inside the court could also be regulated by them in exercise of their disciplinary powers. The right to practise, no doubt, is the genus of which the right to appear and conduct cases in the court may be a specie. But the right to appear and conduct cases in the court is a matter on which the court must and does have major supervisory and controlling power. Hence courts cannot be and are not divested of control or supervision of conduct in court merely because it may involve the right of an advocate. A rule can stipulate that a person who has committed contempt of court or has behaved unprofessionally and in an unbecoming manner will not have the right to continue to appear and plead and conduct cases in courts. The Bar Councils cannot overrule such a regulation concerning the orderly conduct of court proceedings. On the contrary, it will be their duty to see that such a rule is strictly abided by. Courts of law are structured in such a design as to evoke respect and reverence to the majesty of law and justice. The machinery for dispensation of justice according to law is operated by the court. Proceedings inside the courts are always expected to be held in a dignified and orderly manner. The very sight of an advocate, who is guilty of contempt of court or of unbecoming or unprofessional conduct, standing in the court would erode the dignity of the court and even corrode its majesty besides impairing the confidence of the public in the efficacy of the institution of the courts. The power to frame such rules should not be confused with the right to practise law. While the Bar Council can exercise control over the latter, the courts are in control of the former. This distinction is clearly brought out by the difference in language in Section 49 of the Advocates Act on the one hand and Article 145 of the Constitution of India and Section 34(1) of the Advocates Act on the other. Section 49 merely empowers the Bar Council to frame rules laying down conditions subject to which an advocate shall have a right to practise i.e. do all the other acts set out above. However, Article 145 of the Constitution of India empowers the Supreme Court to make rules for regulating this practice and procedure of the court including inter alia rules as to persons practising before this Court. Similarly Section 34 of the Advocates Act empowers High Courts to frame rules, inter alia to lay down conditions on which an advocate shall be permitted to practise in courts. Article 145 of the Constitution of India and Section 34 of the Advocates Act clearly show that there is no absolute right to an advocate to appear in a court. An advocate appears in a court subject to such conditions as are laid down by the court. It must be remembered that Section 30 has not been brought into force and this also shows that there is no absolute right to appear in a court. Even if Section 30 were to be brought into force control of proceedings in court will always remain with the court. Thus even then the right to appear in court will be subject to complying with conditions laid down by courts just as practice outside courts would be subject to conditions laid down by the Bar Council of India. There is thus no conflict or clash between other provisions of the Advocates Act on the one hand and Section 34 or Article 145 of the Constitution of India on the other.

35. In conclusion, it is held that lawyers have no right to go on strike or give a call for boycott, not even on a token strike. The protest, if any is required, can only be by giving press statements, TV interviews, carrying out of court premises banners and/or placards, wearing black or white or any colour armbands, peaceful protest marches outside and away from court premises, going on dharnas or relay fasts etc. It is held that lawyers holding vakalats on behalf of their clients cannot refuse to attend courts in pursuance of a call for strike or boycott. All lawyers must boldly refuse to abide by any call for strike or boycott. No lawyer can be visited with any adverse consequences by the Association or the Council and no threat or coercion of any nature including that of expulsion can be held out. It is held that no Bar Council or Bar Association can permit calling of a meeting for purposes of considering a call for strike or boycott and requisition, if any, for such meeting must be ignored. It is held that only in the rarest of rare cases where the dignity, integrity and independence of the Bar and/or the Bench are at stake, courts may ignore (turn a blind eye) to a protest abstention from work for not more than one day. It is being clarified that it will be for the court to decide whether or not the issue involves dignity or integrity or independence of the Bar and/or the Bench. Therefore in such cases the President of the Bar must first consult the Chief Justice or the District Judge before advocates decide to absent themselves from court. The decision of the Chief Justice or the District Judge would be final and have to be abided by the Bar. It is held that courts are under no obligation to adjourn matters because lawyers are on strike. On the contrary, it is the duty of all courts to go on with matters on their boards even in the absence of lawyers. In other words, courts must not be privy to strikes or calls for boycotts. It is held that if a lawyer, holding a vakalat of a client, abstains from attending court due to a strike call, he shall be personally liable to pay costs which shall be in addition to damages which he might have to pay his client for loss suffered by him."

39. This was further taken note of by the Apex Court in Krishna Kant Tamrakar Vs. State of M.P. reported in (2018) 17 SCC 27. Lately, the Apex Court again in District Bar Association, Dehradun Vs. Ishwar Shandilya and others reported in AIR (2020) SC 1412, Considering the earlier Authorities on the said point thereafter in para 7 has held as under:-

"7. As observed hereinabove, in spite of the decisions of this Court in the cases of Ex-Capt Harish Uppal (supra), Common Cause, A Registered Society (supra) and Krishnakant Namrakar (supra) and despite the warnings by the courts time and again, still, in some of the courts, the lawyers go on strikes/are on strikes. It appears that despite the strong words used by this Court in the aforesaid decisions, criticizing the conduct on the part of the lawyers to go on strikes, it appears that the message has not reached. Even despite the resolution of the Bar Council of India dated 29.09.2002, thereafter, no further concrete steps are taken even by the Bar Council of India and/or other Bar Councils of the States. A day has now come for the Bar Council of India and the Bar Councils of the States to step in and to take concrete steps. It is the duty of the Bar Councils to ensure that there is no unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by any lawyer. As observed by this Court in the case of Ex-Capt. Harish Uppal (supra), the Bar Council of India is enjoined with a duty of laying down the standards of professional conduct and etiquette for Advocates. It is further observed that this would mean that the Bar Council of India ensures that advocates do not behave in an unprofessional and unbecoming manner. Section 48 of the Advocates Act gives a right to the Bar Council of India to give directions to the State Bar Councils. It is further observed that the Bar Associations may be separate bodies but all advocates who are members of such associations are under disciplinary jurisdiction of the Bar Councils and thus the Bar Councils can always control their conduct. Therefore, taking a serious note of the fact that despite the aforesaid decisions of this Court, still the lawyers/Bar Associations go on strikes, we take suo moto cognizance and issue notices to the Bar Council of India and all the State Bar Councils to suggest the further course of action and to give concrete suggestions to deal with the problem of strikes/abstaining the work by the lawyers. The Notices may be made returnable within six weeks from today. The Registry is directed to issue the notices to the Bar Council of India and all the State Bar Councils accordingly."

40. Having noticed the aforesaid decisions, it would be relevant to see that the dictum of the Apex Court is binding on all Courts and Authorities in the country in terms of Article 141 of the Constitution of India. This equally applies on all the revenue courts and authorities. Thus, it cannot be said that the Revenue Courts and Authorities can be exempted or not bound by the decisions. The Revenue Courts must take note of the aforesaid decisions and ignore any such resolutions passed by the local Bar Associations which has the effect of paralyzing the functionings of the Courts and in turn cause insurmountable difficulties for the litigants.

41. In terms of the U.P. Revenue Court Regulations, 2016, the Authorities must devote time for judicial functioning and ensure timely disposal of the cases. The Board of Revenue being the highest court supervising the functioning of the Revenue Courts and Authorities must have regular mechanism to monitor the functioning and oversee the disposal of cases. An effort must be made to oversee and monitor what efforts are made by the Presiding Officers in deciding the revenue cases. The grant of adjournments at the asking is not the answer rather a pro-active approach is required to be adopted by the Courts before it gets too late. An overnight improvement in the scenario may not be possible but it requires a consultative and continuous effort by all the stake holders including the members of the Bar who are requested to act more responsibly looking into the fact that they are an integral part of the justice delivery system.

42. In this regard, this Court had the occasion to consider the similar issue in W.P. No. 1142 of 2022 (Sabhajeet Vs. Consolidation Officer, Bikapur Ayodhya and others) wherein on 04.05.2022, the Court had passed the following order which reads as under:-

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioner as well as learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

The petitioner has approached this Court with the following prayer, which reads as under:-

"(a) direct the Consolidation Officer, Tehsil-Bikapur, Ayodhya, Opposite Party No.1 to decide the Case No.501 and Case No.502 (Ram Baran vs. Ram Lal) filed by the petitioner and opposite party No.2 U/S 9-A(2) of the C.H. Act which is pending before the Opposite Party No.1.

(b) pass any other order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem just and proper in the circumstances of the case in favour of the petitioner.

(c) allow the petition with costs."

This Court on 20.04.2022 had passed the following order which reads as under:-

"Heard the learned counsel for the petitioner. Notice on behalf of the respondent no.1 has been accepted by the office of the Chief Standing Counsel.

The grievance of the petitioner is that the petitioner has filed objections under Section 9-A(2) of the U.P. C.H. Act before the Consolidation Officer since 1989.

Learned Standing Counsel shall seek instructions and inform the Court the reasons with sufficient particularity as to why the proceedings have yet not been decided when the objections are pending since 1989. Proper details shall be provided within a period of ten days.

List this matter again on 2nd of May, 2022, as fresh."

In pursuance of the order dated 20.04.2022, the learned Additional Chief Standing counsel has submitted that he has received the instructions and on the basis thereof he has sought to justify the pendency of the objections preferred under Section 9-A(2) of the U.P. Consolidation and Holdings Act, 1953 pending since 1989.

The learned Additional Chief Standing counsel submits that the evidence of the petitioner is complete and though time was granted to the private-respondent No.2 and on one occasion the matter also proceeded ex-parte but yet the matter remained pending and now the matter shall be decided soon and a request was made for reasonable time of three months to decide as the Court is held twice a week only.

The explanation as put forward by the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel on the basis of written instructions received by him cannot be accepted. The casual manner in which it has been informed through the written instructions that though the evidence of the present petitioner had concluded and the private-respondent No.2 was taking time and in order to avoid the same once the matter had also proceeded ex-parte against the private-respondent, yet again the matter remained pending for the evidence of the private-respondent, this explanation is not good enough.

It is high time that the Revenue/Consolidation Authorities realized that they cannot take the matters so casually and lightly where they are bound to perform judicial and quasi-judicial function relating to disputes of farmers and land holders.

For a farmer his entire livelihood and future and that too of his family is at stake and connected with his land holding. The instant case is an example where the matter is pending before the Court of first instance since 1989. More than thirty years have gone by and the manner in which the explanation has been given that the matter shall be decided soon shows insensitivity least realizing that thirty years is not a short span of time.

The Presiding Officers of Revenue Courts cannot remain mute spectators permitting the parties to prolong the litigation with an indifferent attitude. The Presiding Officer must take proactive measures to bring the lis to its conclusion so that no party may abuse the process of law or take advantage of procedural tactics to keep the matter pending indefinitely. This will not only result in timely disposal of cases but will also reinforce the faith of the litigating public in the judicial system.

In the facts and circumstances of this case, the Court takes an exception to the explanation furnished, however, in view of the order proposed to be passed by the Court, notice to the private-respondent No.2 is dispensed with.

The petition is disposed of with a direction to the respondent No.1 to take up the matter on weekly basis. It has been informed that the matter is fixed on 16.05.2022 and the Presiding Officer shall make an endeavour to decide the matter within a period of four weeks from the date an authenticated copy of this order is placed before him, after affording full opportunity of hearing to the parties, but without granting any unnecessary adjournment to either of the parties. The parties shall also cooperate in early hearing and in case if any party is found to be misusing the liberty, appropriate costs be imposed. The matter would be taken up on the date fixed as deemed convenient by the Presiding Officer irrespective of any resolution passed by the Members of the Bar and the matter would be heard and taken forward to be finally decided within the time span as mentioned above.

It is also made clear that the Court has not examined the case of either of the parties on merits and the respondent No.1 shall decide the lis strictly in accordance with law.

Before parting, it may be observed that this Court is seeing a deluge of petitions filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India seeking expeditious disposal of cases pending before the Revenue Courts. The common ground taken in almost all the petitions is the casual manner and attitude with which frequent adjournments are granted and frequent dates due to non holding of the Courts by the Presiding Officer, grant of general dates for reasons such as resolution passed by the Members of the Bar amongst others.

This Court has to spend considerable time to pass orders on such petitions which is unproductive and precious judicial time is wasted which can be better utilized for deciding substantive litigation.

In view of the aforesaid, this Court deems fit that the matter should be noticed by the appropriate authorities at the State level and administration to frame proper guidelines for disposal of old cases in time bound fashion to be monitored regularly so that the guidelines do not remain only on paper but are truly implemented so that the litigants from the rural section of the society can get succor and respite from vicious cycle of unending dates, without substantive hearing, causing heavy pendency of old cases.

A copy of this order be communicated to the Principal Secretary (Revenue), State of U.P. through the Senior Registrar of this Court, who shall device an action plan for time bound disposal of old matters and its constant monitoring, within six weeks and place a report before this Court on 08.07.2022.

The matter shall be listed again on 08.07.2022 only for the purpose of the report to be furnished, as above.

42. A word of caution is sounded that the members of the Bar must rise to the occasions and be an equal partner in easing out the situation rather than becoming stumbling blocks in the peaceful and smooth dispensation of justice. Lately, noticing this aspect, a coordinate Bench of this Court in Contempt Application (Civil) No. 1008 of 2022 (Pawan Kumar and Another Vs. Dewa Nand Tiwari) vide order dated 19.05.2022 has issued notices of contempt against members of local Bar Association and the order reads as under:-

1. Heard Sri Vijay Kumar Shukla, as well as Sri G.K. Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel.

2. By means of order dated 05.07.2022 passed in Writ Petition No. 13607 (MS) of 2021, this court while disposing of the writ petition had directed the Tehsidarl, Alapur, District Ambedkar Nagar to make earnest endeavour to decide the case expeditiously.

3. Learned counsel for applicant has annexed a copy of order-sheet of the proceedings of the Case No. 04060/2018 under Section 34 of U.P. Revenue Code. According to which on most of the dates, the proceedings could not take place on account of strike of the Local Bar Association and hence the present contempt petition has been filed against the authorities for not complying with the order of the writ court.

4. It is submitted that frequent call of strikes by the bar association is in gross violation of the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Ex-Capt. Harish Uppal Vs. Union of India and another reported in 2003 (2) SCC 45 and Hussain and another Vs. Union of India reported in 2017 (5) SCC 702 as well as of this Court in the case of Vinod Kumar Vs. Naib Tehsildar, and Ors., Misc. Single No. 23446 of 2019.

5. It is also stated that the poor litigants whose cases are pending before the revenue courts for a very long time having no other remedy approached this Court in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India to seek direction for expeditious disposal of the cases like the mutation, partition for which time period has also been specially prescribed under the various laws including the U.P. Revenue Code extending from 90 days to six months etc. Much after expiry of prescribed time when the cases are not decided, they approached this Court seeking a suitable direction to the concerned authorities to decide their cases expeditiously. Like in the present case, the writ court has directed the S.D.M. concerned to decide the case under Section 12 of U.P. Panchayati Raj Act within the stipulated period which has been fixed as six months by the order of the Court.The cases remain pending as the call for boycott from judicial work by local Bar Association is very frequent, and no judicial work is carried out during that day.

6. Hon'ble the Supreme Court vide order dated 28.02.2020 passed in District Bar Association, Deharadun through its Secretary Vs. Ishwar Shandilya & Ors, Special Leave petition (Civil) No. 5440 of 2020, has held as under:-

"35. In conclusion, it is held that lawyers have no right to go on strike or give a call for boycott, not even on a token strike.

..... It is held that lawyers holding vakalats on behalf of their clients cannot refuse to attend courts in pursuance of a call for strike or boycott. All lawyers must boldly refuse to abide by any call for strike or boycott. No lawyer can be visited with any adverse consequences by the Association or the Council and no threat or coercion of any nature including that of expulsion can be held out. It is held that no Bar Council or Bar Association can permit calling of a meeting for purposes of considering a call for strike or boycott and requisition, if any, for such meeting must be ignored. It is held that only in the rarest of rare cases where the dignity, integrity and independence of the Bar and/or the Bench are at stake, courts may ignore (turn a blind eye) to a protest, abstention from work for not more than one day. It is being clarified that it will be for the court to decide whether or not the issue involves dignity or integrity or independence of the Bar and/or the Bench"

7. The order-sheet clearly indicates that one of the main reasons for not conclusion of the proceedings is the strike called for by the Bar Association and despite the order passed by this Court, the cases could not be decided.

8. Sri G.K. Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has informed following office bearers of the Local Bar Association, Aalapur, Ambedkar Nagar.

(i) Sri Ram Prakash Tiwari, President, Bar Association, Tehsil - Aalapur, District Ambedkar Nagar.

(ii) Sri Krishna Gopal Mishra, Ex-President, Bar Association, Tehsil - Aalapur, District Ambedkar Nagar.

(iii) Sri Yogendra Yadav, Secretary, President, Bar Association, Tehsil - Aalapur, District Ambedkar Nagar.

10. Accordingly, learned counsel for applicant is directed to implead the aforesaid office bearers forthwith.

11. In view of the above, professional misconduct of a lawyer may also amount to contempt of court.

12. Accordingly, issue notice to newly added respondent Nos. 2 to 4 to show cause through counsel as to why contempt proceedings should not be initiated against them for frequently calling for strikes of the bar association due to which the judicial work of the revenue courts is affected which is amount to willful disobedience of the judgment passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case Ex-Capt. Harish Uppal (Supra), Hussain (Supra), District Bar Association Dehradun (Supra) as well as direction of the Court vide order 05.07.2022 passed in Writ Petition No. 13607 (MS) of 2021.

13. Learned counsel for applicant shall take steps within one week.

14. List this case on 29.07.2022.

15. On the said date, newly added respondent Nos. 2 to 4 shall appear in person before this Court.

43. It is high time when a concerted effort has to be made by all stake holders to arrest the situation from getting any worse than it already is and devise a roadmap to improve the working and functioning of revenue courts and disposal of old cases.

44. It is in this view of the matter that the Court takes cognizance of the matter and directs the (i) Chief Secretary (Revenue), State of U.P. (ii) Chairman Board of Revenue both at Prayagraj and Lucknow and (iii) Principal Secretary (Law) and to take note of the systematic delay which is deeply rooted in the system and monitor the same by not only instructing the officers to follow the Regulations of 2016 but by continuous monitoring as well as inform this Court what efforts, ways and means have been devised by the State to ensure that the litigation pending before the Revenue Courts are decided on priority and also hold consultative dialogues with the members of the Bar by inviting the members of the Bar Council who is the representative body of the lawyers in the State and devise a Scheme, methodology for shunning the practice of strikes and proceeding ahead in deciding matters judicially for ameliorating the plight of the litigants.

45. A copy of this order be circulated to the (i) Chief Secretary (Revenue), State of U.P. (ii) Chairman, Board of Revenue at Prayagraj and Lucknow (iii) Principal Secretary (Law), State of U.P., (iv) Chairman, Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh through the Senior Registrar of this Court and let the matter be placed before this Court on 3rd of August, 2022 on which date the State and other Authrities shall inform what steps have been taken to ameliorate and ease out the grave situation as noticed hereinabove.
